5. On or about _____ [date], and prior to the commencement of the school year _____- _____, petitioner was employed by respondent _____ School District for the school year _____- _____ as _____ [describe position, e.g., a teacher of mathematics at _____ School], which is a position requiring certification qualifications. Petitioner served in this position during the entire school year _____- _____ and was at all times during the school year classified by respondent _____ [title of governing board] as a probationary employee of respondent _____ School District. Thereafter, petitioner was duly reelected and reemployed by respondent _____ [title of governing board] as a probationary employee in this position for the next school year _____- _____. Petitioner served in this position during the whole of the above-mentioned school year, and was duly classified as a probationary employee of respondent _____ School District during the whole of the above-mentioned school year.

6. Thereafter, petitioner was reemployed by respondent _____ [title of governing board] for a third consecutive year, the school year _____- _____, and became a permanent employee of respondent _____ School District by operation of law under the provisions of Section 44929.21(b) of the Education Code. Ever since then, petitioner has been a permanent employee of respondent _____ School District, entitled to serve and serving as such in the schools of the district.

5. On or about _____ [date], and prior to the commencement of the school year _____- _____, petitioner was employed by respondent _____ [name] School District for the school year _____- _____ as _____ [describe position, e.g., a teacher of mathematics at _____ School], which is a position requiring certification qualifications. Petitioner served in this position during the entire school year _____- _____ and was at all times during the school year classified by respondent _____ [title of governing board] as a probationary employee of respondent _____ School District. Thereafter, petitioner was duly reelected and reemployed by respondent _____ [title of governing board] as a probationary employee in this position for each of the next two consecutive school years, _____- _____ and _____- _____. Petitioner served in this position during the whole of each of the above-mentioned school years, and was duly classified as a probationary employee of respondent _____ School District during the whole of each of the above-mentioned school years.

6. Thereafter, petitioner was reemployed by respondent _____ [title of governing board] for a fourth consecutive year, the school year _____- _____, and became a permanent employee of respondent _____ School District by operation of law under the provisions of Section 44929.21(a) of the Education Code. Petitioner has ever since been a permanent employee of respondent _____ School District, entitled to serve and serving as such in the schools of the district.

[CONTINUE]

7. _____ [Allege failure by respondents to recognize petitioner's status as permanent employee, e.g., On or about _____, (date), respondent _____ (title of governing board) notified petitioner that it did not recognize his/her status as a permanent employee of _____ School District, and that it intended to dismiss petitioner without holding a hearing. Thereafter, respondents proceeded to dismiss petitioner from his/her position without complying with any of the provisions of Sections 44932 through 44946 of the Education Code, and refused to permit petitioner to serve as permanent certificated employee of _____ School District for the school year _____- _____].

8. _____ [Allege demand by petitioner that respondent recognize his/her permanent status, e.g., On _____ (date), the first day that certificated employees were required to report for duty and assignment for the school year _____- _____, petitioner duly reported to the appropriate official of respondent _____ School District, presented himself/herself, and demanded that he/she be permitted to serve and perform the services which he/she is certificated to perform for the school year _____- _____. Respondents refused, and continue to refuse, to recognize petitioner's status as permanent employee of respondent _____ School District and refuse to permit petitioner to serve as a certificated employee of the district].

9. Petitioner has no plain, speedy, or adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law in that _____ [specify, e.g., no other remedy is provided by the law to compel respondents to reinstate petitioner and recognize his/her status as a permanent certificated employee of respondent _____ School District].

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays judgment as follows:

[1. If alternative writ procedure is used: For an alternative writ of mandate directing respondents to forthwith recognize petitioner's status as a full-time permanent certificated employee of respondent _____ School District, from and after _____ (date), and _____ (specify other appropriate relief, e.g., to reinstate petitioner in his/her position and employment as permanent employee of respondent _____ School District, assigning him/her to active teaching duties, and to fix petitioner's salary according to his/her proper salary classification in accordance with the salary schedule of respondents for the school year _____- _____), or in the alternative to show cause why a peremptory writ of mandate to the same effect should not be issued;]

2. For a peremptory writ of mandate _____ [set out terms of proposed peremptory writ at length as in Paragraph 1 of this prayer, omitting words relating to order to show cause];

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[Verification. See § 512.160.]

CAUTION:

This petition must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086]. Proof of service of a copy of the petition on each respondent and real party in interest must accompany the petition when it is offered for filing (except when, in its discretion and for good cause, the court has granted the application for the writ ex parte) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107]. However, in a trial court, if no alternative writ is sought, proof of service of a copy of the petition need not accompany the application for the writ at the time of filing, but proof of service of a copy of the filed petition must be lodged with the court prior to a hearing or any action by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1088.5]. Points and authorities also customarily accompany a petition for writ of mandate filed in superior court, although they do not appear to be expressly required by statute.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a petition for a writ of mandate pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085 and 1086 to compel the governing board of a school district with an average daily attendance of 250 or more pupils to recognize that an employee has attained permanent status. It may be used where the school district has attempted to discharge the employee without following the procedures applicable to the dismissal of a permanent employee, or in other situations where the school district has failed to accord the employee the rights of a permanent employee.

The employee may proceed by either the alternative writ procedure or the noticed application procedure, as discussed in § 512.160[2][b], [c]. For a discussion of mandate proceedings generally and a form of alternative writ of mandate, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition .

[3] Allegations

The petition alleges:

- Respondent's capacity as a school district (Paragraph 3);

- Average daily attendance for the school district of 250 or more pupils [Educ. Code § 44929.21] (Paragraph 4);

- Petitioner's service as a probationary certificated employee for the applicable number of consecutive complete school years under Educ. Code § 44929.21(a) or (b) (Paragraph 5);

- Petitioner's reemployment for the next consecutive school year and attainment of permanent status, and hence his or her beneficial interest in issuance of the writ [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1086; Educ. Code § 44929.21(a), (b)] (Paragraph 6);

- Refusal by respondent to recognize petitioner's right to permanent employment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1085] (Paragraph 7);

- Demand by petitioner and refusal by respondent to recognize petitioner's rights (Paragraph 8); and

- Petitioner's lack of a plain, speedy, or adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086] (Paragraph 9).

[4] Ordinary Mandate

Because an employee's right to be classified as a permanent employee under Educ. Code § 44929.21 (former Educ.

Code § 44882) is automatic, and not the result of a hearing or any other administrative proceeding [see Vittal v. Long Beach Unified School Dist. (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 112, 118, 87 Cal. Rptr. 319] , ordinary mandate under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085 and 1086 is the appropriate remedy for a teacher seeking to compel a school district to recognize his or her permanent status, rather than administrative mandate under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a)]. A teacher who has attained permanent status may seek a writ of mandate to compel the district to recognize his or her status without exhausting any administrative remedy [see Middaugh v. Board of Trustees (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 776, 781, 119 Cal. Rptr. 826 ; Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a)].

[5] Statute of Limitations

A mandate proceeding by a teacher seeking classification as a permanent employee is governed by the three-year limitation period of Code Civ. Proc. § 338(a) for actions on liability created by statute, other than a penalty or forfeiture [Vittal v. Long Beach Unified School Dist. (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 112, 121-122, 87 Cal. Rptr. 319] .

§ 512.170 Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086] to Compel School District to Reemploy and Reclassify Employee as Probationary [Educ. Code § 44918]

[1] FORM Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086] to Compel School District to Reemploy and Reclassify Employee as Probationary [Educ. Code § 44918]

[Caption. See § 512.169.]

Petitioner respectfully represents:

1. [Capacity and residence of petitioner. See § 512.160, Paragraph 1.]

2. [Certification qualifications of petitioner. See § 512.169, Paragraph 2.]

3. [Capacity of respondent school district and governing board. See § 512.169, Paragraph 3.]

4. On or about _____ [date], petitioner was employed by respondent _____ School District for the school year _____ - _____, as _____ [describe position], which is a position requiring certification qualifications. Petitioner served in this position for _____ days during the school year _____ - _____, which is _____ [equal to or in excess of] 75 percent of the number of days that the regular schools of respondent _____School District were maintained in the school year _____ - _____. Petitioner performed all the duties normally required of such a certificated employee of the district. At all times during the school year _____ - _____, petitioner was classified by respondent _____ [title of governing board] as a _____ [temporary or substitute] certificated employee of respondent _____ School District. At no time prior to the end of the school year did petitioner receive any notice of nonreelection for the next succeeding school year under Education Code Section 44954(b).

5. Petitioner is informed and believes and thereon alleges that at the commencement of the following school year, _____ - _____, respondent had available _____ [number] vacant positions in which petitioner was qualified to serve by virtue of his/her possession of the appropriate certification documents plus his/her completion of the appropriate academic preparation and experience. Petitioner is further informed and believes and thereon alleges that none of these vacant positions would have been filled by another permanent or probationary employee of respondent _____ School District except for the fact that such employee was on a leave of absence.

6. Under the provisions of Section 44918 of the Education Code, petitioner is entitled to be reemployed by respondent _____ [name] School District in one of the above-described vacant positions f or the school year _____- _____. Petitioner is further entitled to have his/her previous year's service as a _____ [temporary or substitute] employee, as described above, deemed one complete year of service as a probationary employee of respondent _____ School District.

7. _____ [Allege demand by petitioner that he/she be reemployed and reclassified and refusal by respondents to comply, e.g., On _____ [date], the first day that certificated employees were required to report for duty and assignment for the school year _____- _____, petitioner duly reported to the appropriate official of respondent _____ School District, presented himself/herself, and demanded that he/she be permitted to serve as a certificated probationary employee of respondent _____ School District for the school year _____- _____, and that he/she be assigned to active duties within the scope of his/her certification documents. Respondents refused, and continue to refuse, to reemploy petitioner as a certificated probationary employee (, or in any other certificated position,) for the school year _____- _____; respondents also refused, and continue to refuse, to classify petitioner as a probationary employee for the school year _____- _____].

8. [Lack of a plain, speedy, or adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law. See § 512.169, Paragraph 9.]

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays judgment as follows:

[1. If alternative writ procedure is used: For an alternative writ of mandate directing respondents to forthwith reemploy petitioner as a probationary certificated employee for the school year _____- _____, to reclassify petitioner as a probationary employee for the previous school year _____- _____, and to assign petitioner to active duties in a position within the scope of his/her certification documents and qualifications, or in the alternative to show cause why a peremptory writ of mandate to the same effect should not be issued;]

2. For a peremptory writ of mandate _____ [set out terms of proposed peremptory writ at length as in Paragraph 1 of this prayer, omitting words relating to order to show cause];

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

CAUTION:

This petition must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086]. Proof of service of a copy of the petition on each respondent and real party in interest must accompany the petition when it is offered for filing (except when, in its discretion and for good cause, the court has granted the application for the writ ex parte) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107]. However, in a trial court, if no alternative writ is sought, proof of service of a copy of the petition need not accompany the application for the writ at the time of filing, but proof of service of a copy of the filed petition must be lodged with the court prior to a hearing or any action by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1088.5]. Points and authorities also customarily accompany a petition for writ of mandate filed in superior court, although they do not appear to be expressly required by statute.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a petition for a writ of mandate pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085 and 1086 to compel the governing board of a school district to reemploy a temporary or substitute employee who has served for more than 75 percent of the days of the previous school year and to reclassify such employee as a probationary employee of the district [see Educ. Code § 44918; see also discussion in § 512.21[2]]. The employee may proceed by either the alternative writ procedure or the noticed application procedure, as discussed in § 512.160[2][b], [c]. For a discussion, procedural checklist, and forms relating to ordinary mandate proceedings, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition .

[3] Allegations

The petition alleges:

- Petitioner's employment during previous school year as temporary or substitute employee and service for at least 75 percent of school days [Educ. Code § 44918] (Paragraph 4);

- Availability of vacant positions for subsequent school year [Educ. Code § 44918] (Paragraph 5);

- Petitioner's right to be reemployed in one of vacant positions and to be reclassified as a probationary employee, and thus his or her beneficial interest in the issuance of the writ [Educ. Code § 44918; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1086] (Paragraph 6); and

- Demand by petitioner and refusal by respondent to reemploy and reclassify petitioner for subsequent school year [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1085] (Paragraph 7).

The allegations in the petition which consist of cross references to allegations contained in other forms are set forth in §§ 512.160[3], 512.161[3], 512.166[3], 512.168[3], 512.169[3], and 512.170[3].

2. [Certification qualifications of petitioner. See § 512.169, Paragraph 2.]

3. [Capacity of respondent school district and governing board. See § 512.169, Paragraph 3.]

4. _____ [Allege facts concerning petitioner's employment, e.g., On or about _____ (date), and prior to the commencement of the school year _____- _____, petitioner was employed by respondent _____ School District for the school year _____- _____ as a _____ (describe position), which is a position requiring certification qualifications. Petitioner served in this position during the entire school year _____- _____, performing all duties required by such position, and was at all times during the school year classified as a _____ (specify classification, e.g., probationary) employee of respondent _____ School District by respondent _____ (title of governing board). Thereafter, petitioner was duly reelected and reemployed by respondent _____ School District for each of the next succeeding school years: _____ (list years). Petitioner served in this position during each of the above-mentioned school years, performing all duties required by the position, and was duly classified as a _____ (specify, e.g., probationary) employee by respondent _____ (title of governing board) during the whole of each of such school years. Petitioner is currently employed by respondent

_____ School District in such position].

5. The actual rate of salary paid to petitioner during each of the above-mentioned school years was as follows: _____ [specify].

6. On or about _____ [date], respondent _____ [title of governing board] adopted a salary schedule and policy memorandum for certificated employees of respondent _____ School District for the school year _____- _____, which provided that _____ [set forth pertinent provisions of salary schedule and policy memorandum]. [2] Use of Form

This form is a petition for a writ of mandate to compel the governing board of a school district to pay a certificated employee his or her proper salary in accordance with law, which requires that covered employees be classified either on a salary schedule based on uniform allowance for years of training and years of experience or on other criteria mutually negotiated between the covered employees' exclusive bargaining representative and the school district. The employee may proceed by either the alternative writ procedure or the noticed application procedure, as discussed in § 512.160[2][b], [c]. For a discussion and forms relating to mandate proceedings generally, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition .

PART I. SCOPE

§ 513.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses and contains forms for use in actions involving public elementary and secondary schools. Excluded from coverage are public postsecondary educational institutions, such as community colleges, and private schools.

This chapter starts with a discussion regarding the public school system and school districts generally. It also discusses constitutional limitations on public school finance, and on racial segregation in public schools [see § 513.10 et seq.].

This chapter then discusses the rights and responsibilities of students in the public elementary and secondary school system, including the general right to a public education, the right of disabled children to free appropriate special education, the student's constitutional and statutory rights of freedom of expression and religion, sexual harassment of a student, and school searches. Also discussed are the grounds and procedures for discipline of students [see § 513.30 et seq.].

This chapter also contains forms of complaints for declaratory and injunctive relief to compel school officials to provide a disabled student with a free appropriate public education [see § 513.90] and to enjoin school officials from interfering with a student's right to freedom of expression [see § 513.91]. It also contains complaints for damages by a student based on sexual harassment by a teacher or fellow student [see § 513.92], based on a hostile racial educational environment [see § 513.93], and based on violation of the Fourteenth Amendment of the federal constitution based on unreasonable search and seizure [see § 513.94]. This chapter also contains a form of petition for writ of mandate to obtain judicial review of an expulsion order [see § 513.95].

A. Public School System

§ 513.10 Governing Law

The public education system of California is provided for and governed by the provisions of Cal. Const., art. IX, §§ 1-16. Other state constitutional provisions specifically applicable to public education are Cal. Const., art. I, § 7(a) (providing that the obligations of school officials with respect to pupil school assignment and transportation under the California Constitution do not exceed those imposed by U.S. Const., amend. XIV), Cal. Const., art. XIII, § 21 (providing for an annual tax levy by local school districts), and Cal. Const., art. XVI, § 5 (prohibiting the expenditure of public funds for religious or secular institutions or purposes).

Detailed statutory provisions governing public and private education are set out in the Education Code. The code contains general provisions governing all public and private education [Educ. Code § 1 et seq.], provisions governing elementary and secondary education [Educ. Code § 33000 et seq.], and provisions governing postsecondary education [Educ. Code § 66000 et seq.].

Provisions governing state administration of public elementary and secondary education are set forth in Educ. Code § 33000 et seq. School districts and their governing boards are governed by Educ. Code § 35000 et seq. School operations and facilities are governed by Educ. Code § 37060 et seq. School district finance is governed by Educ. Code §§ 14000 et seq. and 41000 et seq. Provisions governing school district employees are set forth in Educ. Code § 44000 et seq. Provisions relating to pupil admission, attendance, discipline, rights, records, health, safety, and counseling are set forth in Educ. Code § 46000 et seq. Instructional programs and materials are governed by Educ. Code § 51000 et seq.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Public School System

45-513 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 513.11

§ 513.11 Public School System

[1] Power of State

Public education in California is an obligation that the state assumed by the adoption of its state Constitution [Butt v. State of California (1992) 4 Cal. 4th 668, 680, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 480, 842 P.2d 1240] . The California Constitution declares that because a general diffusion of knowledge and intelligence is essential to the preservation of the rights and liberties of the people, the Legislature must encourage, by all suitable means, the promotion of intellectual, scientific, moral, and agricultural improvement [Cal. Const., art. IX, § 1]. The Legislature is therefore directed to provide for a system of common schools by which a free school is maintained and supported in each district for at least six months of every year [Cal. Const., art. IX, § 5; see § 513.31].

The public school system of California includes all kindergarten, elementary, secondary, and technical schools, and all state colleges, that are established in accordance with law. It also includes the school districts and other agencies authorized to maintain the schools and colleges. No school, college, or other part of the public school system may be transferred, directly or indirectly, from the system or placed under the jurisdiction of any authority other than one included within the public school system [Cal. Const., art. IX, § 6].

Management and control of the public school system is a matter of state, not local, care and supervision [Butt v. State of California (1992) 4 Cal. 4th 668, 681, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 480, 842 P.2d 1240] . The power of the Legislature in school matters is plenary and subject only to constitutional restrictions [Hall v. Taft (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 177, 180-181, 302 P.2d 574 ; Mountain View School Dist. v. City Council (1959) 168 Cal. App. 2d 89, 97, 335 P.2d 957] . The supervisory power over public education is an exclusive state function that may not be delegated to any other agency [Piper v. Big Pine School Dist. (1924) 193 Cal. 664, 669, 226 P. 926] .

[2] Purpose of System

According to the Education Code, each child is a unique person with unique needs. The purpose of the state educational system is to enable each child to develop all of his or her own potential [Educ. Code § 33080].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Public School System

45-513 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 513.12

§ 513.12 School Districts

[1] Power of Legislature to Create, Alter, and Dissolve

The system of public schools is administered through local school districts created by the Legislature. Nevertheless, it is a single system, applicable to all the common schools [Butt v. State of California (1992) 4 Cal. 4th 668, 680, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 480, 842 P.2d 1240] .

The Legislature has the power, by general law, to provide for the incorporation and organization of school districts, high school districts, and community college districts of every kind and class and to classify these districts. The Legislature may authorize the governing boards of all school districts to initiate and carry on any programs or activities or otherwise to act in any manner that is not in conflict with the laws and purposes for which school districts are established [Cal. Const., art. IX, § 14].

The Legislature has plenary power over school districts. It may create, divide, alter, or abolish school districts at its pleasure, without the necessity of a local election, and it may delegate this power to a local government unit [Butt v. State of California (1992) 4 Cal. 4th 668, 681, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 480, 842 P.2d 1240 (93 D.O.S. 39, 43); Tinsley v. Palo Alto Unified School Dist. (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 871, 904 , 154 Cal. Rptr. 591] . A school district has no vested right in its own continued existence and may not challenge the Legislature's basic power to abolish the district. However, the district does have standing to litigate the constitutionality of the means selected by the Legislature for the district's abolition [Alta Loma School Dist. v. San Bernardino County Com. (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 542, 549, 177 Cal. Rptr. 506] .

[2] Nature and Powers

A school district is an agency of the state for local operation of the state school system [Butt v. State of California (1992) 4 Cal. 4th 668, 681, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 480, 842 P.2d 1240 ; Town of Atherton v. Superior Court (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 417, 421, 324 P.2d 328] and is an independent and separate government agency distinct from the county, city, or town in which it is geographically situated [Gould v. Richmond School Dist. (1943) 58 Cal. App. 2d 497, 502, 136 P.2d 864] . Although it exercises a portion of the state's powers of government, a school district is a separate public entity and is not the state or part of the state itself. A school district may not act on behalf of the state unless authorized to do so by statute [Johnson v. San Diego Unified School Dist. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 692, 698-699, 266 Cal. Rptr. 187 ; Gonzales v. State of California (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 585, 590, 592, 105 Cal. Rptr. 804] . Thus, employees of a school district are not state employees, and the state is not liable for the acts of a school district under agency law or under a general theory of respondeat superior [First Interstate Bank v. State of California (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 627, 633, 243 Cal. Rptr. 8 ; Gonzales v. State of California (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 585, 591, 105 Cal. Rptr. 804 ; see Johnson v. San Diego Unified School Dist. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 692, 699-700, 266 Cal. Rptr. 187 (filing tort claim with state rather than with local school district does not constitute substantial compliance with the California Tort Claims Act, discussed in Ch. 514, Schools: Injuries to Students)]. However, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals held that California school districts are state agencies for purposes of U.S. Const., amend. XI, and are entitled to the immunity from suit in federal court provided by the 11th Amendment [Belanger v. Madera Unified School Dist. (9th Cir. 1992) 963 F.2d 248, 254 , cert. denied, 507 U.S. 919] .

School districts, by statutory provision, act through school boards, and the authority of the districts is measured by the authority statutorily conferred on the boards [Johnson v. San Diego Unified School Dist. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 692, 699, 266 Cal. Rptr. 187] . However, a school district, including the county superintendent of schools and the county board of education, may initiate and carry on any program or activity or otherwise act in any manner that is not in conflict with any law or with the purposes for which school districts are established [Educ. Code §§ 35160, 35160.2]. A school district may not, however, set additional terms or conditions on school attendance that frustrate rights created by statute [Burton v. Board of Educ. (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 52, 58, 139 Cal. Rptr. 383] .

[3] Applicability of Local Regulations

Because the public school system is a matter of statewide supervision and concern [see §§ 513.11, 513.12[1]] state legislative enactments thereon control over attempted regulation by local government units [Hall v. Taft (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 177, 181, 302 P.2d 574 ; Town of Atherton v. Superior Court (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 417, 421, 324 P.2d 328] . Thus, for example, school districts are not subject to city garbage collection regulations [City of Santa Ana v. Board of Educ. (1967) 255 Cal. App. 2d 178, 179-180, 62 Cal. Rptr. 863] , and school district acts and resolutions are not subject to referendum by local voters [Board of Education v. Superior Court (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 578, 581-582, 155 Cal. Rptr. 839] .

Although, as noted above, school districts are generally not subject to local regulation, the Legislature has provided an exception to this general rule in the case of city and county building and zoning ordinances. Such ordinances are applicable to all local state agencies, including school districts [see Gov. Code §§ 53090, 53091; City of Santa Clara v. Santa Clara Unified School Dist. (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 152, 158, 99 Cal. Rptr. 212] . The governing board of a school district may, however, by a two-thirds vote, render a city or county zoning ordinance inapplicable to a proposed use of its property for classroom purposes. If the governing board takes such action, the city or county may seek judicial review of the action in superior court. If the court finds that the governing board's action was arbitrary or capricious, it must declare the action void, and the zoning ordinance in question will be applicable to the school district's proposed use of its property [see Gov. Code § 53094; see City of Santa Cruz v. Santa Cruz Schools Bd. of Education (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 1, 7-9, 258 Cal. Rptr. 101 ("nonclassroom facility" is one not directly used for or related to student instruction; athletic field serves important educational purpose and thus is classroom facility); see also People ex rel. Cooper v. Rancho Santiago College (1990) 226 Cal. App. 3d 1281, 1286, 277 Cal. Rptr. 69 (swap meet in parking lot is not classroom activity, regardless of fact that proceeds fund instructional program)].

School districts are, however, required to comply with city or county ordinances [Gov. Code § 53097]:

- Regulating drainage improvements and conditions;
- Regulating road improvements and conditions, or

- Requiring review and approval of grading plans as these ordinance provisions relate to the design and construction of onsite improvements that affect drainage, road conditions, or grading.

School districts are required to give consideration to the specific requirements and conditions of city and county ordinances relating to the design and construction of off-site improvements. If the school district chooses not to comply with those ordinances, the city and county are not liable for any injury or damage to property resulting from the noncompliance [Gov. Code § 53097].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Public School System

45-513 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 513.13

§ 513.13 Compulsory Education

[1] In General

Each person between the ages of 6 and 18 years not exempted under the provisions of Educ. Code § 48200 et seq. or 48400 et seq. [see § 513.13[4]] is subject to compulsory full-time education [Educ. Code § 48200]. In addition, each person between the ages of 16 and 18 years who is not exempted under the provisions of Educ. Code §§ 48400-48454 must attend special continuation education classes maintained by the governing board of the high school district in which he or she resides or by a neighboring district for not less than four hours per week during the regularly established annual school term [Educ. Code § 48400].

Each person subject to compulsory full-time education or compulsory continuation education must attend the public full-time day schools or continuation school or classes for the full school day as established by the governing board of the school district in which the parent or legal guardian of the pupil resides [Educ. Code § 48200; but see Educ. Code §§ 48204 (certain allowable interdistrict attendance), 48207 (hospital's school district if temporarily disabled)]. The parent, legal guardian, or other person having control of a person subject to compulsory full-time education or compulsory continuation education must send the pupil to such school for the designated time [Educ. Code § 48200].

Any pupil subject to compulsory full-time education or to compulsory continuation education who is absent from school without a valid excuse for more than three days or tardy in excess of 30 minutes on each of more than three days in one school year is a truant [Educ. Code § 48260]. Pupils who are habitually truant are subject to juvenile court proceedings [see Educ. Code §§ 48262, 48263, 48267-48271]. The parent, guardian, or other person having control or charge of any pupil who fails to comply with the compulsory education laws is subject to criminal penalties [see Educ. Code §§ 48293, 48454]. The segregated condition of schools is no defense to a prosecution for violation of the compulsory education laws [People v. Serna (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 229, 232-233, 139 Cal. Rptr. 426] .

[2] Constitutionality

The constitutionality of California's compulsory education law has been upheld as not violating due process and equal protection rights of parents [People v. Turner (1953) 121 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 861, 865-867 , 263 P.2d 685 , appeal dismissed, 347 U.S. 972, 74 S. Ct. 785, 98 L. Ed. 1112 (1954)] .

Although the state has the power to require all children to attend some school, it may not constitutionally force children to accept public instruction only [Pierce v. Society of Sisters (1925) 268 U.S. 510, 534-535, 45 S. Ct. 571, 69 L. Ed. 1070 ; see Roman Catholic etc. Corp. v. Piedmont (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 325, 330, 289 P.2d 438] . However, California's compulsory education law is not open to constitutional attack on this ground because it specifically exempts pupils from mandatory public school attendance who are attending private full-time day schools that meet certain minimum standards [see Educ. Code § 48222].

That the state's power to require compulsory education in public or private schools is subject to constitutional scrutiny when it impinges on the right to free exercise of religion guaranteed by U.S. Const., amend. I [see Wisconsin v. Yoder (1972) 406 U.S. 205, 213-215, 234-236, 92 S. Ct. 1526, 32 L. Ed. 2d 15 (further holding that Wisconsin's compulsory education laws could not constitutionally be applied to certain persons of Amish faith)].

[3] Exclusions

Children under six years of age are excluded from attending public schools, except as otherwise provided by the Education Code [Educ. Code § 48210; see Educ. Code §§ 48000-48011 (exception for kindergarten)]. In addition, the governing board of a school district may exclude from attendance at school any child whose physical or mental disabilities are such as to cause his or her attendance to be inimical to the welfare of other pupils [Educ. Code § 48212].

The governing board is not required to send prior notice of an exclusion to the pupil's parent or guardian in the following circumstances [Educ. Code § 48213]:

- If the pupil is excluded from attendance pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 120230, relating to the exclusion of students residing where any contagious, infectious, or communicable disease exists or has recently existed, and who is subject to strict isolation or quarantine of contact.

- If the pupil is excluded from attendance pursuant to Educ. Code § 49451, regarding exclusion of a child whose parent has not consented to a physical examination of the child.

- If a principal or his or her designee determines that the continued presence of the child would constitute a clear and present danger to the life, safety, or health of a pupil or school personnel.

However, the governing board must send a notice of the exclusion as soon as is reasonably possible after the exclusion [Educ. Code § 48213]. For discussion of removal of students for disciplinary reasons, see §§ 513.38, 513.40.

The federal Rehabilitation Act of 1974, which prohibits recipients of federal funds from discriminating against "otherwise qualified" handicapped persons [see 29 U.S.C. § 794], provides additional limitations on the power of school districts to exclude children who have contagious diseases from the public schools. Persons with contagious diseases are handicapped within the meaning of the Act [see School Board of Nassau County v. Arline (1987) 480 U.S. 273, 289, 107 S. Ct. 1123, 94 L. Ed. 2d 307 (involving tuberculosis)].

For example, a child who has tested positive for Acquired Immunity Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS) was held to be a handicapped person within the meaning of the Act [Thomas v. Atascadero Unified School Dist. (C.D. Cal. 1987) 662 F. Supp. 376, 383] . A child who has tested positive for AIDS must be placed in the regular educational environment unless it is demonstrated that the education of the person in the regular environment with the use of supplementary aids and services cannot be achieved satisfactorily [45 C.F.R. § 84.34(a)]. Exclusion cannot be based on the ground that the child poses a risk of transmission of the AIDS virus to others in the school environment solely because of the existence of the disease or the presence of antibodies for the disease in the child's blood [Thomas v. Atascadero Unified School

Dist. (C.D. Cal. 1987) 662 F. Supp. 376, 382 ; see also Phipps v. Saddleback Valley Unified School Dist. (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 1110, 1115-1119, 251 Cal. Rptr. 720 (upholding permanent injunction against school district from excluding child with AIDS from public school)].

[4] Exemptions

Certain classes of persons are exempt from compulsory full-time education and from compulsory continuation education [see Educ. Code §§ 48220 et seq., 48410]. Unlike the provisions of the Education Code that provide for exclusions from public education, the exemption provisions merely excuse those who seek to be excused from compliance with the compulsory education requirements. The exemption provisions do not authorize a school district to initiate an action to remove a child from school over the parents' objection [see Abella v. Riverside Unified School Dist. (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 153, 160-165, 135 Cal. Rptr. 177] .

California statutes permit home schooling as a species of private school education, which is exempted from compulsory education laws, but the statutory permission to home school may constitutionally be overridden in order to protect the safety of a child who has been declared dependent [Jonathan L. v. Superior Court (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 1074, 1088-1105, 81 Cal. Rptr. 3d 571].

§ 513.14 School District Finance

The California Constitution provides for the establishment of a state school fund from state revenues that must be apportioned in its entirety each fiscal year, in a manner provided by the Legislature, to school districts and other agencies for the support of the public schools [see Cal. Const., art. IX, § 6]. The Constitution also directs the Legislature to provide for an annual tax levy by school districts that is sufficient to produce for each district annual revenues determined by the district's governing board to be necessary for its schools and district functions [Cal. Const., art. XIII, § 21]. The provision for a local school tax does not, however, constitutionally mandate a school finance system in which school district expenditures are a function of the assessed valuation of taxable property in the district per unit of average daily attendance. Such a system, in effect, makes the availability of educational opportunity dependent on the taxable wealth of the school district and, in the absence of justification by a compelling state interest, violates the equal protection provisions of Cal. Const., art. I, § 7(a) [Serrano v. Priest (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 728, 768-775, 135 Cal. Rptr. 345, 557 P.2d 929 , cert. denied sub nom., Clowes v. Serrano 432 U.S. 907 (1977)] . Therefore, the Legislature funds California's public schools by a system that relies on local property tax revenues, state equalizing payments, and categorical aid for targeted categories of children with needs that require special attention [see Butt v. State of California (1992) 4 Cal. 4th 668, 679 n.11, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 480, 842 P.2d 1240 ; see also Belanger v. Madera Unified School Dist. (9th Cir. 1992) 963 F. 2d 248, 251-252 , cert. denied, 507 U.S. 919] .

Proposition 13, passed in 1978, further restricts the way in which school districts may levy special assessments. Special assessments must be approved by two-thirds vote of the qualified electors of the district and cannot be based on the value of the real property [Cal. Const., art. XIIIA, § 4; see Arvin Union School Dist. v Ross (1985) 176 Cal. App. 3d 189, 198-200, 221 Cal. Rptr. 720 (district override assessments under former Educ. Code § 42244 (repealed July 24, 1979) are not permissible special district assessments because based on value of real property)]. Subject to this constitutional limitation from Proposition 13, a school district may impose qualified special taxes pursuant to procedures established in the Government Code [Gov. Code § 50079; see Gov. Code §§ 50075-50077.5 (procedures)].

The statutory provisions governing school finance are set forth in Educ. Code §§ 14000-14240 and 41000-43002.

§ 513.15 Racial Segregation

[1] Obligation to Desegregate

The segregation of school children into separate schools because of their race constitutes a denial of equal protection of the laws under both the United States and California Constitutions [Brown v. Board of Educ. of Topeka (1954) 347 U.S. 483, 493-495, 74 S. Ct. 686, 98 L. Ed. 873 ("Brown I"); Jackson v. Pasadena City School Dist. (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 876, 880, 31 Cal. Rptr. 606, 382 P.2d 878] . Such racial segregation violates equal protection of the laws even though the physical facilities and methods of instruction in the several schools may be equal, because separate educational facilities are inherently unequal [Brown v. Board of Educ. of Topeka (1954) 347 U.S. 483, 495, 74 S. Ct. 686, 98 L. Ed. 873 ("Brown I"); see Jackson v. Pasadena City School Dist. (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 876, 880, 31 Cal. Rptr. 606, 382 P.2d 878] . School officials are therefore required to desegregate unconstitutionally segregated schools with all deliberate speed [Brown v. Board of Educ. of Topeka (1955) 349 U.S. 294, 301, 75 S. Ct. 753, 99 L. Ed. 1083, 71 Ohio Law Abs. 584 ("Brown II")].

The concept of race may still be employed if its use is found necessary to repair injuries inflicted on persons because of race [Freeman v. Pitts (1992) 503 U.S. 467, 494, 112 S. Ct. 1430, 118 L. Ed. 2d 108 ; Ho by Ho v. San Francisco Unified School Dist. (9th Cir. 1998) 147 F.3d 854, 864] . However, racial balancing cannot be the objective unless the balancing is shown to be necessary to correct the effects of government action of a racist character [Freeman v. Pitts (1992) 503 U.S. 467, 494, 112 S. Ct. 1430, 118 L. Ed. 2d 108 ; Ho by Ho v. San Francisco Unified School Dist. (9th Cir. 1998) 147 F.3d 854, 865] . When a governmental body defends racial quotas, the burden of justification falls on the government. A generalized assertion of past discrimination and present effects does not meet that burden [City of Richmond v. J.A. Croson Co. (1989) 488 U.S. 469, 498, 109 S. Ct. 706, 102 L. Ed. 2d 854 ; Ho by Ho v. San Francisco Unified School Dist. (9th Cir. 1998) 147 F.3d 854, 865] .

However, the racial and ethnic balancing component of a school district's open-transfer policy promulgated under Educ. Code § 35160.5, in which white student open enrollment transfers out of a specific high school and non-white student transfers into a school are limited to a one-for-one basis, violates Proposition 209, Cal. Const., art. I, § 31. On the other hand, a general recognition of the demographics of neighborhoods in student assignments without classifying students by race by looking at a student's residential neighborhood and considering average household income in the neighborhood, the average education level of adults residing in the neighborhood, and the racial composition of the neighborhood as a whole and giving every student within a given neighborhood the same treatment regardless of race does not discriminate against or grant preferential treatment to any individual or group on the basis of race in violation of Cal. Const., art. I, § 31 [American Civil Rights Foundation v. Berkeley Unified School Dist. (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 207, 216-222, 90 Cal. Rptr. 3d 789] . Further, while the federal Constitution prohibits a school district from acting to segregate schools, there is no federal constitutional mandate necessitating the implementation of a proactive program of integration, and such a plan is not required by the federal equal protection clause [Crawford v. Huntington Beach Union High Sch. Dist. (2002) 98 Cal. App. 4th 1275, 1279-1285, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 96] . When a school district voluntarily adopts a student assignment plan that relies on race to determine which public schools certain children may attend, the district must show that the plan is necessary under the strict scrutiny standard of equal protection analysis [see Parents Involved in Community Schools v. Seattle School Dist. No. 1 (2007) 551 U.S. 701, 127 S. Ct. 2738, 2751-2768, 168 L. Ed. 2d 508 (under strict scrutiny analysis, school districts did not carry burden of showing ends they sought justified classifying individual students on basis of their race and discriminating among them on that basis)].

[2] Judicial Remedies

In enforcing the obligation of school districts to eliminate racial segregation, the court's function is to ascertain whether or not a school board has initiated a course of action to alleviate the effects of segregation in its schools and has made reasonable progress toward that goal. If the court finds that the board has not done so, it must intervene to protect the rights of minority students [Crawford v. Board of Educ. (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 280, 302-307, 130 Cal. Rptr. 724, 551 P.2d 28] . However, judicial power to correct racial segregation may be exercised only on the basis of a constitutional violation, and the nature of the violation determines the scope of the remedy [Swann v. Charlotte-Mecklenburg Bd. of Educ. (1971) 402 U.S. 1, 16, 91 S. Ct. 1267, 28 L. Ed. 2d 554 ; see Diaz v. San Jose Unified School Dist (9th Cir. 1988) 861 F.2d 591, 595-597 (considering issues such as magnet schools, freedom of choice, and disproportionate burdens in review of desegregation plan)].

Generally, the constitutional command to desegregate schools does not require that every school in a school district reflect the racial composition of the district as a whole [Swann v. Charlotte-Mecklenburg Bd. of Educ. (1971) 402 U.S. 1, 24, 91 S. Ct. 1267, 28 L. Ed. 2d 554 ; Crawford v. Board of Educ. (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 280, 302, 130 Cal. Rptr. 724, 551 P.2d 28] . School districts need only take reasonable and feasible steps to eliminate segregated schools, that is, schools in which the minority student enrollment is so disproportionate as to realistically isolate minority students from other students and thus deprive minority students of an integrated educational experience [Crawford v. Board of Educ. (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 280, 303, 130 Cal. Rptr. 724, 551 P.2d 28] . Mathematical racial quotas may, however, be used by the court as a starting point in the process of shaping a remedy [Swann v. Charlotte-Mecklenburg Bd. of Educ. (1971) 402 U.S. 1, 25, 91 S. Ct. 1267, 28 L. Ed. 2d 554] .

A court may require a school district to levy taxes at a level sufficient to fund a court-ordered desegregation plan and then enjoin the operation of state laws that prevent the district from exercising its taxing power [State of Missouri v. Jenkins (1990) 495 U.S. 33, 55-58, 110 S. Ct. 1651, 109 L. Ed. 2d 31] . In California, limited state funding is available to reimburse a school district for the cost of implementing a desegregation plan [see Educ. Code § 422.47.3; see also San Francisco NAACP v. San Francisco U. School D. (9th Cir. 1990) 896 F.2d 412] .

[3] Discriminatory Intent

[a] United States Constitution

Under U.S. Const., amend. XIV, a plaintiff seeking to establish a denial of equal protection on the basis of racial discrimination must prove a discriminatory purpose on the part of public officials [Washington v. Davis (1976) 426 U.S. 229, 239-240, 96 S. Ct. 2040, 48 L. Ed. 2d 597] . Thus, in a school desegregation case, the plaintiff must show not only that segregated schooling exists, but also that it was brought about or maintained by intentional state action [see Columbus Bd. of Educ. v. Penick (1979) 443 U.S. 449, 464, 99 S. Ct. 2941, 61 L. Ed. 2d 666] . Moreover, under the federal equal protection provision, a court may not order a remedy embracing more than one school district to correct a constitutional violation found to exist in only one school district absent a showing that racially discriminatory acts of that district or of the state have been a substantial cause of interdistrict segregation [Milliken v. Bradley (1974) 418 U.S. 717, 744-745, 94 S. Ct. 3112, 41 L. Ed. 2d 1069] .

[b] California Constitution

The California Supreme Court held that under the equal protection provisions of the California Constitution [Cal. Const., art. I, § 7(a)], school boards bear an obligation to take reasonably feasible steps to alleviate all racial segregation in public schools, regardless of whether such segregation is de jure (i.e., the result of deliberately discriminatory actions and policies) or de facto [Crawford v. Board of Educ. (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 280, 289-302, 130 Cal. Rptr. 724, 551 P.2d 28 ; Jackson v. Pasadena City School Dist. (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 876, 881, 31 Cal. Rptr. 606, 382 P.2d 878] . A court of appeal held that the California Constitution authorizes judicial remedies to eliminate interdistrict segregation where feasible [see Tinsley v. Palo Alto Unified School Dist. (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 871, 899-907, 154 Cal. Rptr. 591] .

Subsequent to these decisions, however, California voters approved an amendment to Cal. Const., art. I, § 7(a) which provides that nothing in the California Constitution "imposes upon the State of California or any public entity, board, or official any obligations or responsibilities which exceed those imposed by the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution with respect to the use of pupil school assignment or pupil transportation. In enforcing this subdivision or any other provision of this Constitution, no court of this state may impose upon the State of California or any public entity, board, or official any obligation or responsibility with respect to the use of pupil school assignment or pupil transportation, (1) except to remedy a specific violation by such party that would also constitute a violation of the Equal Protection Clause of the 14th Amendment to the United States Constitution, and (2) unless a federal court would be permitted under federal decisional law to impose that obligation or responsibility upon such party to remedy the specific violation of the Equal Protection Clause of the 14th Amendment of the United States Constitution."

The apparent effect of the amendment to Cal. Const., art. I, § 7(a) is to partly overrule the holdings of Crawford and Tinsley by prohibiting the use of pupil school assignment and mandatory busing to correct de facto racial segregation, and by eliminating interdistrict remedies except where there is a showing that de jure segregation in one district was a substantial cause of de facto segregation in another district or that the district boundaries were drawn by the state with a discriminatory purpose, as required by the Milliken decision. The amendment requires those seeking interdistrict busing or pupil assignment to show de jure segregation and meet Milliken standards. Remedies other than pupil assignment and transportation are still available to cure alleged de facto segregation, and requests for other forms of relief, such as requiring a school district to adopt a reasonably feasible plan to alleviate racially segregated schools, are still within the authority of the state courts to impose [Tinsley v. Superior Court (1983) 150 Cal. App. 3d 90, 99-100, 109-110, 197 Cal. Rptr. 643] . For a further discussion and criticism of the amendment, see Comment, "California's Anti-Busing Amendment: A Perspective on the Now Unequal Equal Protection Clause," 10 Golden Gate L Rev 611 (1980). The amendment was upheld by the United States Supreme Court as not violative of the equal protection provisions of U.S. Const., amend. XIV, or of any other constitutional requirement or federal law [Crawford v. Los Angeles Board of Education (1982) 458 U.S. 527, 102 S. Ct. 3211, 73 L. Ed. 2d 948, 955-961 ; see Tinsley v. Superior Court (1983) 150 Cal. App. 3d 90, 100, 197 Cal. Rptr. 643] .

Subsequently, a California court of appeal held that the rationale in Crawford was applicable to the contention that the amendment impermissibly encouraged or sanctioned racial segregation in schools. The California Supreme Court denied hearing. The court of appeal stated that although state courts may be able to freely determine the scope and meaning of the amendment, Crawford gave total approval to the constitutionality of the amendment and that approval was binding on state courts. The court of appeal noted that techniques other than busing and school reassignment were still within the authority of state courts to impose to cure alleged de facto segregation [see Tinsley v. Superior Court (1983) 150 Cal. App. 3d 90, 102-104, 109, 197 Cal. Rptr. 643] .

[4] Statutory Restrictions on Pupil Transportation and School Assignment

Educ. Code § 35350 prohibits governing boards from requiring any student or pupil to be transported for any purpose or reason without the written permission of his or her parent or guardian. Educ. Code § 35351 provides that no pupil may be assigned to or required to attend a particular school because of the characteristics listed in Educ. Code § 220 (disability, gender, nationality, race or ethnicity, religion, sexual orientation). The former provision has been construed as doing no more than giving the parent the right to reject compulsory busing by the school district and to choose some other more convenient means of transportation [San Francisco Unified School Dist. v. Johnson (1971) 3 Cal. 3d 937, 946, 92 Cal. Rptr. 309, 479 P.2d 669 , cert. denied sub nom. Fehlhaber v. San Francisco Unified School Dist. 401 U.S. 1012 (1972)] . Both provisions have been held unconstitutional to the extent that they purport to restrict the use of pupil reassignment to correct unconstitutional racial segregation [see Santa Barbara Sch. Dist. v. Superior Court (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 315, 324-328, 118 Cal. Rptr. 637, 530 P.2d 605 ; San Francisco Unified School Dist. v. Johnson (1971) 3 Cal. 3d 937, 954-959, 92 Cal. Rptr. 309, 479 P.2d 669 , cert. denied sub nom. Fehlhaber v. San Francisco Unified School Dist. 401 U.S. 1012 (1972)] .

Parents do not have a constitutional right to control the upbringing of their children by introducing them to matters of and relating to sex in accordance with their personal and religious values and beliefs. There is no specific right in parents to determine when and how their children are exposed to sexually explicit subject matter, and there is no such right encompassed within their fundamental due process right to control their children's upbringing and their constitutional right to privacy to make intimate familial decisions [*Fields v. § 513.17 Discrimination

Educ. Code § 220 prohibits discrimination based on disability, gender, nationality, race or ethnicity, religion, sexual orientation, or any other characteristic contained in the definition of hate crimes in Penal Code § 422.55 in any program or activity conducted by an educational institution that receives, or benefits from, state financial assistance or enrolls pupils who receive state student financial aid [for discussion of racial segregation in public schools, see § 513.15].

One listed characteristic upon which discrimination is prohibited is sexual orientation. To prevail on a claim under Section 220 for peer sexual orientation harassment, a plaintiff must show each of the following [Donovan v. Poway Unif. School Dist. (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 567, 84 Cal. Rptr. 3d 285 ; for discussion of sexual harassment under federal law, see § 513.36]:

- He or she suffered severe, pervasive, and offensive harassment that effectively deprived the plaintiff of the right of equal access to educational benefits and opportunities.
- The school district had actual knowledge of the harassment.
- The school district acted with deliberate indifference in the face of such knowledge.

The elements of liability in connection with students' equal protection claims against school officials are the same elements that apply in an action under Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 for money damages, which also govern a private suit for damages under Section 220 [Donovan v. Poway Unif. School Dist. (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 567, 596-608, 84 Cal. Rptr. 3d 285] .

Money damages are available in a private enforcement action under section 220 [Donovan v. Poway Unif. School Dist. (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 567, 592-596, 84 Cal. Rptr. 3d 285 , citing Educ. Code § 262.3(b)].

The federal Equal Educational Opportunities Act of 1974 prohibits states from denying equal educational opportunity to an individual on account of the individual's race, color, sex, or national origin by, inter alia, an educational agency's failure to take appropriate action to overcome language barriers that impede equal participation by its students in its instructional programs [20 U.S.C. § 1703(f)]. By simply requiring a state to take appropriate action to overcome language barriers without specifying particular actions a state must take, Congress intended to leave state and local educational authorities a substantial amount of latitude in choosing the programs and techniques to use to meet their obligations under the Act [Horne v. Flores (2009) -- U.S. --, 129 S. Ct. 2579, 2589, 2597, 174 L. Ed. 2d 406 ; Castaneda v. Pickard (5th Cir. 1981) 648 F.2d 989, 1009] .

§ 513.31 Right to Free Public Education

The opportunity to attend and receive instruction in the public schools is a legal right that is enforceable by the same means as any other legal right [Piper v. Big Pine School Dist. (1924) 193 Cal. 664, 669-670, 226 P. 926 ; Ward v. Flood (1874) 48 Cal. 36, 50] . Public education is a fundamental right under the equal protection provisions of the California Constitution [Butt v. State of California (1992) 4 Cal. 4th 668, 678-680, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 480, 842 P.2d 1240 ; Serrano v. Priest (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 728, 765-766, 135 Cal. Rptr. 345, 557 P.2d 929 , cert. denied sub nom., Clowes v. Serrano 432 U.S. 907 (1977) ; see Serrano v. Priest (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 584, 596 n.11, 604-610, 96 Cal. Rptr. 601, 487 P.2d 1241] .

The California Constitution makes public education uniquely a fundamental concern of the state [see § 513.11[1]]. It prohibits maintenance and operation of the public school system in a way that denies basic educational equality to the students of particular districts. The state itself bears the ultimate authority and responsibility to ensure that its district-based system of common schools provides basic equality of educational opportunity [Butt v. State of California (1992) 4 Cal. 4th 668, 685, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 480, 842 P.2d 1240] . This right to equality of educational opportunity requires that the state's schools be funded in such a way that the quality of education does not depend on the wealth of the local school district [see Serrano v. Priest (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 584, 595, 96 Cal. Rptr. 601 . 487 P.2d 1241 (Serrano I) ; see also Serrano v. Priest (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 728, 768-775, 135 Cal. Rptr. 345, 557 P.2d 929 (Serrano II)] . Further, the state must intervene if a local district's fiscal problems would otherwise deny its students basic educational equality, unless the state can demonstrate a compelling reason not to do so [Butt v. State of California (1992) 4 Cal. 4th 668, 678-679, 692, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 480, 842 P.2d 1240 (affirming trial court injunction that required state to loan additional funds to keep local school district open and operating for full scheduled number of school days, even though district board had exhausted funds provided under state's equalizing school financing formula); see § 513.14].

The California Constitutional equal protection clause also establishes rights of students in areas other than school funding. For example, the state may not condition the availability of public education on compliance with an unconstitutionally vague standard of conduct, nor may it deprive a child of the opportunity of a public education without due process, including notice of the grounds for denial and an opportunity to be heard [see Abella v. Riverside

Unified School Dist. (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 153, 168-169, 135 Cal. Rptr. 177 ; Myers v. Arcata etc. School Dist. (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 549, 560, 75 Cal. Rptr. 68] . In light of the importance of education to society and to the individual, the courts must unsympathetically examine any action of a public body that has the effect of depriving children of the opportunity to obtain an education [Manjares v. Newton (1966) 64 Cal. 2d 365, 375-376, 49 Cal. Rptr. 805, 411 P.2d 901] .

Cal. Const., art. IX, § 5, requires the state to maintain and support a free school in each district for at least six months of every year. The free school guarantee extends not only to classes, but also to extracurricular activities that are educational in character, such as athletic, music, and drama programs [Hartzell v. Connell (1984) 35 Cal. 3d 899, 904-913, 201 Cal. Rptr. 601, 679 P.2d 35] . It does not, however, extend to school transportation, which is deemed not to be an educational activity but a supplemental service [Arcadia Unified School Dist. v. State Dept. of Education (1992) 2 Cal. 4th 251, 259-265, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 545, 825 P.2d 438] .

Although courts have said that children have a "right" to an education at public expense, students have generally been unsuccessful in their attempts to hold schools and teachers liable for "educational malpractice," that is, for failure to use reasonable care to give a student a suitable or minimally acceptable education. There is no cause of action for damages if a school negligently fails to provide proper remedial education [Peter W. v. San Francisco Unified Sch. Dist. (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 814, 817-825, 131 Cal. Rptr. 854] , or if a school places a student in a class for mentally disabled students although the school knows or should have known the student in question was not mentally retarded [Smith v. Alameda County Social Services Agency (1979) 90 Cal. App. 3d 929, 941-942, 153 Cal. Rptr. 712] . Nor is there a cause of action for negligence in failing to comply with special education program requirements [Keech v. Berkeley Unified School Dist. (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 464, 468-469, 210 Cal. Rptr. 7] .

On the other hand, certain facts may constitute a cause of action for appropriate relief (such as injunction) to assure students of getting a minimally acceptable education in the future. For example, a school may be enjoined from placing students in classes for mentally retarded students on the basis of their scores on culturally biased IQ tests, if the consequence of the use of such criteria creates racial imbalance in the composition of such classes [see Larry P. by Lucille P. v. Riles (9th Cir. 1984) 793 F.2d 969, 982-984 ; P. v. Riles (N.D. Cal. 1972) 343 F. Supp. 1306, 1315] .

45-513 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 513.33

§ 513.33 Special Education

[1] Right to Free Appropriate Public Education

To assist states and localities in providing for the education of disabled children, Congress has enacted the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA; 20 U.S.C. § 1400 et seq.). The IDEA was intended by Congress to do all of the following [20 U.S.C. § 1400(d)]:

- Ensure that all children with disabilities have available to them a free appropriate public education emphasizing special education and related services designed to meet their unique needs and to prepare them for further education, employment, and independent living.

- Ensure that the rights of children with disabilities and the parents of such children are protected.

- Assist states, localities, educational service agencies, and federal agencies to provide for the education of all children with disabilities.

- Assist states in implementing statewide, comprehensive, coordinated, multidisciplinary, interagency system of early intervention services for infants and toddlers with disabilities and their families.

- Ensure that educators and parents have the necessary tools to improve educational results for children with disabilities by supporting system improvement activities; coordinated research and personnel preparation; coordinated technical assistance, dissemination, and support; and technology development and media services.

- Assess and ensure the effectiveness of efforts to educate children with disabilities.

However, in enacting the IDEA, Congress did not intend to create a federal claim for every activity or type of conduct that may impede an individual's ability to take advantage of the educational opportunities [Armstrong v. Alicante (E.D.

Cal. 1999) 44 F. Supp. 2d 1087, 1089] .

After examining the states' progress under IDEA, in 1997, Congress found that substantial gains had been made in the area of special education but that more needed to be done to guarantee children with disabilities adequate access to appropriate services. The 1997 Amendments to the IDEA were intended to place greater emphasis on improving student performance and ensuring that children with disabilities receive a quality public education [see S. Rep. No. 105-17, p. 5 (1997)]. Consistent with that goal, the Amendments preserved the Act's purpose of providing a "free appropriate public education" (FAPE) to all children with disabilities [Forest Grove School Dist. v. T. A. (2009) -- U.S. --, 129 S. Ct. 2484, 2491-2492, 174 L. Ed. 2d 168] .

The term "free appropriate public education" means special education and related services that [20 U.S.C. § 1401(9); see 45 C.F.R. § 121a.4]:

- Have been provided at public expense, under public supervision and direction, and without charge;
- Meet the standards of the state educational agency;
- Include an appropriate preschool, elementary, or secondary school education in the state involved; and
- Are provided in conformity with the individualized education program required under 20 U.S.C. § 1414(d).

"Related services" means transportation, and developmental, corrective, and other supportive services required to assist a child with a disability to benefit from special education, including the early identification and assessment of disabling conditions in children. Supportive services may also include speech-language pathology and audiology services; psychological services; physical and occupational therapy; recreation, including therapeutic recreation; social work services; counseling services, including rehabilitation counseling; orientation and mobility services; and medical services. However, medical services must be for diagnostic and evaluation purposes only [20 U.S.C. § 1401(26)]. The IDEA contains no explicit definition of "medical services" [see Cedar Rapids Community School District v. Garret F. (1999) 526 U.S. 66, 119 S. Ct. 992, 143 L. Ed. 2d 154 (school district required to provide ventilator-dependent student continuous one-on-one nursing services student required during school hours in order to remain in school); Irving Independent School Dist. v. Tatro (1984) 468 U.S. 883, 888-892, 104 S. Ct. 3371, 82 L. Ed. 2d 664 (services that may be provided by school nurse are not excluded medical services); Clovis Unified v. Office of Administrative Hearings (9th Cir. 1990) 903 F.2d 635, 638, 641, 647 (cost of residential treatment program in psychiatric hospital is excluded medical service, notwithstanding fact that treatment was required for child to benefit from educational program)]. Preventing illegal drug use is not the type of supportive services contemplated by the IDEA [Armstrong v. Alicante (E.D. Cal. 1999) 44 F. Supp. 2d 1087, 1089] .

Schools under the IDEA include residential schools [see 20 U.S.C. § 1401(6), (27)]. If placement in a public or private residential program is necessary to provide special education and related services to a disabled child, the program, including nonmedical care and room and board, must be at no cost to parents of the child [34 C.F.R. § 300.302; see Clovis Unified v. Office of Administrative Hearings (9th Cir. 1990) 903 F.2d 635, 641, 647 (rejecting acute psychiatric hospital as such a "residential program," despite provision of some educational services as part of program)].

When a public school fails to provide a "free appropriate public education" (FAPE), and a child's parents place the child in an appropriate private school without the school district's consent, a court may require the district to reimburse the parents for the cost of the private education [see School Comm. of Burlington v. Department of Ed. of Mass. (1985) 471 U.S. 359, 370, 105 S. Ct. 1996, 85 L. Ed. 2d 385] . The IDEA Amendments of 1997 [111 Stat. 37] do not categorically prohibit reimbursement for private education costs if a child has not previously received special education and related services under the authority of a public agency [Forest Grove School Dist. v. T. A. (2009) -- U.S. --, 129 S. Ct. 2484, 2491-2496, 174 L. Ed. 2d 168 ; see 20 U.S.C. § 1412(a)(10)(C)(ii)]. When a court or hearing officer concludes that a school district failed to provide a FAPE and the private placement was suitable, it must consider all relevant factors, including the notice provided by the parents and the school district's opportunities for evaluating the child, in determining whether reimbursement for some or all of the cost of the child's private education is warranted [Forest Grove School Dist. v. T. A. (2009) -- U.S. --, 129 S. Ct. 2484, 2496, 174 L. Ed. 2d 168] .

The IDEA requires states to provide some measure of special education and related services to disabled children in private schools [see 20 U.S.C. § 1412(a)(10)(A), (C); 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.403-300.452]. Services may be provided to children with disabilities on the premises of parochial schools to the extent consistent with law [20 U.S.C. § 1412(a)(10)(A)(ii)(I), (II)], but need not be provided on site at a private school [WJM ex rel. KDM v. Reedsport Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 1999) 196 F.3d 1046] .

A state satisfies the requirement of providing a disabled child with a free appropriate public education by providing personalized instruction with sufficient support services to permit the child to benefit educationally from the instruction. Instruction and services must be provided at public expense, must meet the state's educational standards, must approximate the grade levels used in the state's regular education, and must comport with the child's individualized educational program. In addition, the individualized education program and the personalized instruction should be formulated in accordance with the requirements of the IDEA and, if the child is being educated in the regular classrooms of the public education system, should be reasonably calculated to enable the child to achieve passing marks and advance from grade to grade [Board of Education v. Rowley (1982) 458 U.S. 176, 203, 102 S. Ct. 3034, 73 L. Ed. 2d 690 (also holding that provision of sign language interpreter not required when student performs better than average child in class, is advancing easily from grade to grade, and is receiving personalized instruction and related services calculated by school administrators to meet student's educational needs)].

Under the IDEA, each state desiring to receive federal funds must meet certain conditions and establish procedures for protecting the rights of children with disabilities and their parents [see 20 U.S.C. §§ 1411-1420; 45 C.F.R. § 121a.110 et seq.]. To comply with the IDEA, the California Legislature has enacted Educ. Code § 56000 et seq., which extends to all individuals with exceptional needs the right to participate in a free appropriate public education [Educ. Code § 56000; see Educ. Code § 56040].

"Individuals with exceptional needs" are persons [Educ. Code § 56026(a)-(d)]:

- Who are identified by an individualized education program team as children with a disability as that phrase is defined in former 20 U.S.C. § 1401(a)(3);

- Whose impairment requires instruction, services, or both that cannot be provided with modification of the regular school program;

- Who come within one of the age categories set forth in Educ. Code § 56026(c); and

- Who meet eligibility criteria set forth in regulations adopted by the board, including, but not limited to, those adopted pursuant to Educ. Code § 56333 et seq.

Unless they are disabled within the meaning of Educ. Code § 56026(a)-(d), pupils whose educational needs are due primarily to the following are not individuals with exceptional needs [Educ. Code § 56026(e)]:

- Limited English proficiency.

- A lack of instruction in reading or mathematics.

- Temporary physical disabilities.
- Social maladjustment.
- Environmental, cultural, or economic factors.

State standards that impose a greater duty to educate handicapped children, if not inconsistent with federal standards, are enforceable in federal court under the IDEA [Union School Dist. v. Smith (9th Cir. 1994) 15 F.3d 1519, 1524 , cert. denied, 513 U.S. 965] . Thus, for example, California's statutory scheme mandating that handicapped three- to five-year-old students may, when appropriate, be placed in a program that only provides designed instruction and services without simultaneous special education [see Educ. Code §§ 56026, 56361, 56441.11(b)] is not inconsistent with the IDEA. It is therefore enforceable in the federal courts [Union School Dist. v. Smith (9th Cir. 1994) 15 F.3d 1519, 1527 , cert. denied, 513 U.S. 965] .

An employee of a school district, county office of education, or a special education local planning area may not directly or indirectly use or attempt to use the official authority or influence of the employee, as defined in Educ. Code § 56046(e)(2), for the purpose of intimidating, threatening, coercing, or attempting to intimidate, threaten, or coerce any person for the purpose of interfering with the action of that person at any time, to assist a parent or guardian of a pupil with exceptional needs to obtain services or accommodations for that pupil [Educ. Code § 56046(a)]. For these purposes, services or accommodations includes information that would assist a parent or guardian to obtain a free appropriate education for his or her child as guaranteed by the federal Individuals with Disabilities Education Act [20 U.S.C. § 1400 et seq.], or other services or accommodations guaranteed by the federal Rehabilitation Act [29 U.S.C. § 794] and the federal Americans with Disabilities Act [42 U.S.C. § 12101 et seq.], as well as under state laws regarding individuals with exceptional needs [Educ. Code § 56046(e)(1)].

Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 as amended requires that disabled individuals not be excluded from the participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any program or activity that receives federal funds [29 U.S.C. § 794]. The United States Department of Education regulations implementing § 504 include a requirement that disabled children in schools receiving federal funds be provided a "free appropriate public education" (FAPE) [34 C.F.R. § 104.33]. The regulations define "appropriate education" as regular or special education and related aids and services designed to meet individual educational needs of handicapped persons as adequately as the needs of non-handicapped persons and based on adherence to procedures that satisfy the requirements of 34 C.F.R. §§ 104.34, 104.35, and 104.36 [34 C.F.R. § 104.33(a), (b)].

Section 504 establishes an implied private right of action allowing victims of prohibited discrimination, exclusion, or denial of benefits to seek the full panoply of remedies, including equitable relief and compensatory damages [Mark H. v. Lemahieu (9th Cir. 2008) 513 F.3d 922, 930, 935 ; Greater L.A. Council on Deafness, Inc. v. Zolin (9th Cir. 1987) 812 F.2d 1103, 1107 ; see also Barnes v. Gorman (2002) 536 U.S. 181, 189, 122 S. Ct. 2097, 153 L. Ed. 2d 230 (2002)]. Whether a plaintiff can bring an action to enforce § 504 regulations depends on whether those regulations come within the § 504 implied right of action [Mark H. v. Lemahieu (9th Cir. 2008) 513 F.3d 922, 935-939]. Punitive damages are not available under § 504 [Barnes v. Gorman (2002) 536 U.S. 181, 189, 122 S. Ct. 2097, 153 L. Ed. 2d 230 (2002) ; Mark H. v. Lemahieu (9th Cir. 2008) 513 F.3d 922, 930].

The FAPE requirements in the IDEA and in the § 504 regulations are overlapping but different. While the IDEA focuses on the provision of appropriate public education to disabled children, the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 more broadly addresses the provision of state services to disabled individuals. The IDEA contains a statutory FAPE provision and allows private causes of action only for prospective relief. Section 504 contains a broadly worded prohibition on discrimination against, exclusion of, and denial of benefits for disabled individuals, under which the federal Department of Education has promulgated regulations containing a FAPE requirement worded somewhat differently from the IDEA

FAPE requirement. Section 504 can be privately enforced to provide, in addition to prospective relief, compensatory but not punitive damages for past violations [Mark H. v. Lemahieu (9th Cir. 2008) 513 F.3d 922, 928-930]. The availability of injunctive relief under the IDEA does not preclude suits for damages under § 504 for government actions that violate both statutes; thus, the availability of relief under the IDEA does not limit the availability of a damages remedy under § 504 for failure to provide the FAPE independently required by § 504 and its implementing regulations [Mark H. v. Lemahieu (9th Cir. 2008) 513 F.3d 922, 932-935].

[2] Assessment of Educational Needs

Generally, each local public educational agency operating a special education program is required to actively and systematically seek out all individuals with exceptional needs, 21 years old or younger, who reside within the agency's jurisdiction [see Educ. Code § 56300]. Before an individual with exceptional needs can be placed in a special education program, the agency must conduct an individual assessment of his or her educational needs [see Educ. Code § 56320]. The parents or guardians of a pupil referred for initial assessment, or of a pupil already identified as an individual with exceptional needs, must be afforded an opportunity to participate in meetings with regard to the identification, assessment, and educational placement of the pupil, pursuant to Educ. Code §§ 56342.5 and 56341.5(b), (c), and with regard to the provision of a free appropriate public education, as provided in 34 C.F.R. § 300.501 [Educ. Code § 56304]. Whenever an assessment for the development or revision of the individualized education program is to be conducted, the parent or guardian of the pupil must be given, in writing, a proposed assessment plan within 15 days of the referral for assessment not counting days between the pupil's regular school sessions or terms or days of school vacation in excess of five schooldays from the date of receiving the referral, unless the parent or guardian agrees, in writing, to an extension. In any event, the assessment plan must be developed within 10 days after the commencement of the subsequent regular school year or the pupil's regular school term as determined by each district's school calendar for each pupil for whom a referral has been made 10 days or less before the end of the regular school year. In the case of pupil school vacations, the 15-day time recommences on the date the pupil's regular schooldays reconvene [Educ. Code § 56321(a); but see Keech v. Berkeley Unified School Dist. (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 464, 468-469, 210 Cal. Rptr. 7 (school district's failure to comply with time requirement does not support action in negligence)]. A copy of the notice of a parent's or guardian's rights must be attached to the assessment plan. A written explanation of all the procedural safeguards under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act [20 U.S.C. § 1400 et seq.], and the rights and procedures contained in Educ. Code § 56500 et seq., must be included in the notice of a parent's or guardian's rights, including information on (1) the procedures for requesting an informal meeting, prehearing mediation conference, mediation conference, or due process hearing; (2) the timelines for completing each process; (3) whether the process is optional; and (4) the type of representative who may be invited to participate [Educ. Code § 56321(a)].

The proposed assessment plan must (1) be in language easily understood by the general public; (2) be provided in the native language of the parent or guardian or other mode of communication used by the parent or guardian, unless to do so is clearly not feasible; (3) explain the types of assessments to be conducted; and (4) state that no individualized education program will result from the assessment without the consent of the parent [Educ. Code § 56321(b)].

A parent or guardian has the right to obtain, at public expense, an independent educational assessment of the pupil from qualified specialists, as defined by the board's regulations, if the parent or guardian disagrees with an assessment obtained by the public education agency, in accordance with 34 C.F.R. § 300.502. A parent or guardian is entitled to only one independent educational assessment at public expense each time the public education agency conducts an assessment with which the parent or guardian disagrees. If a public education agency observed the pupil in conducting its educational assessment, or if its assessment procedures make it permissible to have in-class observation of a pupil, an equivalent opportunity applies to an independent educational assessment of the pupil in the pupil's current educational placement and setting, and observation of an educational placement and setting, if any, proposed by the public education agency, regardless of whether the independent educational assessment is initiated before or after the filing of a due process hearing proceeding [Educ. Code § 56329(b)]. The public education agency may initiate a due process hearing in accordance with Educ. Code § 56500 et seq. [see § 513.33[5]] to show that its assessment is appropriate. If the final decision resulting from the due process hearing is that the assessment is appropriate, the parent or guardian still has the right for an independent educational assessment, but not at public expense [Educ. Code § 56329(c)]. If the parent or guardian obtains an independent educational assessment at private expense, the results of the assessment will be considered by the public education agency with regard to the provision of free, appropriate public education to the child, and may be presented as evidence at a due process hearing under Educ. Code § 56500 et seq. regarding the child [Educ. Code § 56329(c)]. If a public education agency observed the pupil in conducting its assessment, or if its assessment procedures make it permissible to have in-class observation of a pupil, an equivalent opportunity applies to an independent educational assessment of the pupil in the pupil's current educational placement and setting, and observation of an educational placement and setting, if any, proposed by the public education agency, regardless of whether the independent educational assessment is initiated before or after the filing of a due process hearing proceeding [Educ. Code § 56329(c)].

On completion of the administration of tests and other assessment materials, an individualized education program team meeting, including the parent or guardian and his or her representatives, must be scheduled pursuant to Educ. Code § 56341, to determine whether the pupil is an individual with exceptional needs as defined in Educ. Code § 56026, and to discuss the assessment, the educational recommendations, and the reasons for the recommendations [Educ. Code § 56329(a)(1)]. In making a determination of eligibility, a pupil may not be determined to be an individual with exceptional needs if the determinant factor for the determination is any of the following [Educ. Code § 56329(a)(2); see 20 U.S.C. § 1414(b)(5); 34 C.F.R. § 300.306(b)]:

- Lack of appropriate instruction in reading, including the essential components of reading instruction as defined in 20 U.S.C. § 6368(3).
- Lack of instruction in mathematics.
- Limited-English proficiency.
- If the pupil does not otherwise meet the eligibility criteria under 34 C.F.R. § 300.8(a).

A copy of the assessment report and the documentation of determination of eligibility must be given to the parent or guardian [Educ. Code § 56329(a)(3)].

If a parent or guardian proposes a publicly financed placement of the pupil in a nonpublic school, the public education agency must have an opportunity to observe the proposed placement and the pupil in the proposed placement, if the pupil has already been unilaterally placed in the nonpublic school by the parent or guardian. Any such observation must only be of the pupil who is the subject of the observation and may not include the observation or assessment of any other pupil in the proposed placement. The observation or assessment by a public education agency of a pupil other than the pupil who is the subject of the observation may be conducted, if at all, only with the consent of the parent or guardian. The results of an observation or assessment of another pupil without permission is inadmissible in any due process or judicial proceeding regarding the free appropriate public education of that other pupil [Educ. Code § 56329(d)].

As part of the assessment plan given to parents pursuant to Educ. Code § 56321, the parent of the pupil must be provided with written notice that, on completion of administration of tests and other assessment materials, an individualized education program team meeting, including the parent and his or her representatives, will be scheduled pursuant to Educ. Code § 56341 to determine whether the pupil is an individual with exceptional needs as defined in Educ. Code § 56026; and to discuss the assessment, the educational recommendations, and the reasons for these recommendations. A copy of the assessment report and the documentation of determination of eligibility must be given to the parent [Educ. Code § 56329(a)].

[3] Individualized Education Program

Each local educational agency must initiate and conduct meetings for the purposes of developing, reviewing, and revising the individualized education program of each individual with exceptional needs in accordance with 34 C.F.R. § 300.323(c) [Educ. Code § 56340]. The meetings must be conducted and an individualized program developed in accordance with Educ. Code §§ 56341-56347.

[4] Parental Consent Required

Written parental consent must be obtained before any assessment of the pupil is conducted, unless the public education agency prevails in a due process hearing relating to the assessment or placement [Educ. Code § 56506(e); see Educ. Code § 56321(c); see also § 513.33[5]]. Informed parental consent need not be obtained in the case of a reassessment of the pupil if the local educational agency can demonstrate it has taken reasonable measures to obtain consent and the pupil's parent has failed to respond [Educ. Code § 56506(e); see 34 C.F.R. § 300.505(c)]. In accordance with 34 C.F.R. § 300.300(d)(1), parental consent is not required before reviewing existing data as part of an assessment or reassessment, or before administering a test or other assessment that is administered to all children, unless before administration of that test or assessment, consent is required of the parents of all the children [Educ. Code § 56321(e)].

Furthermore, written parental consent under Educ. Code § 56321 must be obtained before the pupil is placed in a special education program [Educ. Code § 56506(f)]. Although there is some confusion in the statutes, it appears that a parent's refusal to consent to the pupil's educational placement, as opposed to assessment, may not be challenged by the public education agency in a due process hearing [compare Educ. Code § 56506(e) with Educ. Code § 56506(f); see also Educ. Code § 56501(a)(1)-(4), as amended by Stats. 1980, ch. 1353, § 68, to eliminate parent's refusal to consent to educational placement as situation when due process hearing procedures may be invoked].

Consent for initial assessment may not be construed as consent for initial placement or initial provision of special education and related services to an individual with exceptional needs, pursuant to 20 U.S.C. § 1414(a)(1)(D)(i)(I) [Educ. Code § 56321(d)].

If the child is a ward of the state and is not residing with his or her parent, the agency must make reasonable efforts to obtain the informed consent from the parent, as defined in Educ. Code § 56028, for an initial assessment to determine whether the child is an individual with exceptional needs [Educ. Code § 56321.1; see 20 U.S.C. § 1414(a)(1)(D)(iii)].

[5] Procedural Safeguards

[a] Mandated by IDEA

Any state or local education agency receiving funds under IDEA must establish and maintain procedures in accordance with 20 U.S.C. § 1415 to assure that disabled children and their parents or guardians are guaranteed procedural safeguards with respect to the provision of a free appropriate public education by such agencies [20 U.S.C. § 1415(a)]. Any state law that is inconsistent with the federally mandated procedures is superseded by the federal law [Hacienda La Puente Unified School District Los Angeles v. Honig (9th Cir. 1992) 976 F.2d 487, 492-493 ; San Francisco Unified School Dist. v. State of California (1982) 131 Cal. App. 3d 54, 65, 182 Cal. Rptr. 525] .

In compliance with IDEA, Educ. Code § 56500 et seq. prescribe the applicable due process procedures. These procedures extend to the parent, as broadly defined under Educ. Code § 56028, and to the public education agency involved. They also extend to the pupil under certain limited circumstances [Educ. Code § 56501(a)]. The parent and the agency may initiate due process hearing procedures under any of the following circumstances [Educ. Code § 56501(a)]:

- There is a proposal to initiate or change the identification, assessment, or educational placement of the child or the provision of a free appropriate public education to the child;

- There is a refusal to initiate or change the identification, assessment, or educational placement of the child or the provision of a free appropriate public education to the child;

- The parent refuses to consent to an assessment of the child; or

- There is a disagreement between a parent or guardian and a district, special education local plan area, or county office regarding the availability of a program appropriate for the child, including the question of financial responsibility, as specified in 34 C.F.R. § 300.148.

The due process hearing procedures include, but are not limited to [Educ. Code § 56501(b)]:

- The right to examine pupil records under Educ. Code § 56504 [see § 513.33[5][b]];

- The right to a mediation conference under Educ. Code § 56500.3, including the right to request mediation at any point during the hearing process [see § 513.33[5][d]];

- The right to request a mediation conference at any point during the hearing process; and

- The right to a fair and impartial administrative hearing at the state level, before a person knowledgeable in the laws governing special education and administrative hearings who is under contract with the Department of Education, under Educ. Code § 56505 [see § 513.33[5][e]].

Even though a child has not previously been identified as disabled, his or her alleged disability may be raised in an IDEA administrative due process hearing [Hacienda La Puente Unified School District Los Angeles v. Honig (9th Cir. 1992) 976 F.2d 487, 492] .

When a school district does not perform exactly as called for by the IEP, the district does not violate the IDEA unless it is shown to have materially failed to implement the child's IEP. A material failure occurs when the services provided to a disabled child fall significantly short of those required by the IEP [Van Duyn v. Baker School District (9th Cir. 2007) 481 F.3d 770, 779-780] .

The parent has the right and opportunity to examine all school records of the child and to receive copies under Educ. Code §§ 49065 and 56504 within five business days after a request is made by the parent, either orally or in writing. A public education agency may charge no more than the actual cost of reproducing such records, but, if this cost effectively prevents the parent from exercising the right to receive copies of the records, the copies must be reproduced at no charge to the parent [Educ. Code § 56504].

[c] Initiation of Hearing Procedure

A request for a due process hearing arising under Educ. Code § 56501(a) must be filed within two years from the date the party initiating the request knew or had reason to know of the facts underlying the basis for the request [Educ. Code § 56505(l).] However, this time period does not apply to a parent if the parent was prevented from requesting the due process hearing due to either of the following [Educ. Code § 56505(l); see 20 U.S.C. § 1415(f)(3)(D)]:

- Specific misrepresentations by the local educational agency that it had solved the problem forming the basis of the due process hearing request.

- The withholding of information by the local educational agency from the parent that was required under this part to be provided to the parent.

All requests for a due process hearing must be filed with the superintendent [Educ. Code § 56502(a); see 34 C.F.R. § 300.508(a), (b)]. The superintendent must develop a model form to assist parents and guardians in filing a request for due process that is in accordance with 34 C.F.R. § 300.509 [Educ. Code § 56502(b)]. The party initiating a due process hearing by filing a written request with the superintendent, or the attorney representing the initiating party, must provide the other party to the hearing with a copy of the request at the same time as the request is filed with the superintendent [Educ. Code § 56502(c)(1)]. The due process hearing request notice must remain confidential [Educ. Code § 56502(c)(1)].

The due process hearing request must include all of the following [Educ. Code § 56502(c)(1); see 20 U.S.C. § 1415(b)(7)(A); see also Educ. Code § 56502(c)(2) (party may not have due process hearing until party or attorney representing party files request for meeting requirements listed in Educ. Code § 56502(c)(1))]:

- The name of the child, the address of the residence of the child, or available contact information in the case of a homeless child, and the name of the school the child is attending.

- In the case of a homeless child or youth within the meaning of 42 U.S.C. § 11434a(2) (McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act), available contact information for the child and the name of the school the child is attending.

- A description of the nature of the child's problem relating to the proposed initiation or change, including facts relating to the problem.

- A proposed resolution of the problem to the extent known and available to the party at the time.

The due process hearing request notice required by 20 U.S.C. § 1415(b)(7)(A) will be deemed to be sufficient unless the party receiving the notice notifies the due process hearing officer and the other party in writing that the receiving party believes the due process hearing request notice has not met the notice requirements. The party providing a hearing officer notification must provide the notification within 15 days of receiving the due process hearing request notice. Within five days of receipt of the notification, the hearing officer must make a determination on the face of the notice of whether the notification meets the requirements of 20 U.S.C. § 1415(b)(7)(A) and immediately notify the parties in writing of the determination [Educ. Code § 56502(d)(1)].

The response to the due process hearing request notice must be made within 10 days of receiving the request notice [Educ. Code § 56502(d)(2); see 20 U.S.C. § 1415(c)(2)(B)]. A party may amend a due process hearing request notice only if the other party consents in writing to the amendment and is given the opportunity to resolve the hearing issue through a meeting held pursuant to 20 U.S.C. § 1415(f)(1)(B), or the due process hearing officer grants permission. However, the hearing officer may only grant permission at any time not later than five days before a due process hearing occurs. The applicable timeline for a due process hearing under Educ. Code § 56500 et seq. recommences at the time the party files an amended notice, including the timeline under 20 U.S.C. § 1415(f)(1)(B) [Educ. Code § 56502(e)].

The superintendent must take steps to ensure that within 45 days after receiving the written hearing request the hearing is immediately commenced and completed, including, any mediation requested at any point during the hearing process pursuant to Educ. Code § 56501(b)(2), and a final administrative decision is rendered, unless a continuance has been granted under Educ. Code § 56505 [Educ. Code § 56502(f)]. Notwithstanding any procedure set forth in Educ. Code § 56500 et seq., a public education agency and a parent or guardian may, if the party initiating the hearing so chooses, meet informally to resolve any issue or issues relating to the identification, assessment, or education and placement of the child, or the provision of a free, appropriate public education to the child, to the satisfaction of both parties before the hearing. The informal meeting will be conducted by the district superintendent, county superintendent, or director of the public education agency or his or her designee. Any designee must have the authority to resolve the issue or issues [Educ. Code § 56502(g)].

Operative until October 9, 2006, any request for a due process hearing arising under Educ. Code § 56501(a) must be filed within three years from the date the party initiating the request knew or had reason to know of the facts underlying the basis for the request. A party initiating a request for a due process hearing on and after October 7, 2005, may file the request within the two-year statute of limitations provision in 20 U.S.C. § 1415(b)(6)(B). A party may file a request within the three-year statute of limitations provision of Educ. Code § 56505(l) until October 9, 2006, but must, in accordance with Educ. Code § 56501.5, participate in a mediation conference conducted pursuant to Educ. Code § 56500 et seq. in an effort to resolve the due process hearing issue [Educ. Code § 56505(l) (operative until October 9, 2006)]. Effective October 10, 2006, any request for a due process hearing arising under Educ. Code § 56501(a) must be filed within two years from the date the party initiating the request knew or had reason to know of the facts underlying the basis for the request [Educ. Code § 56505(l) (operative October 10, 2005)].

In accordance with 20 U.S.C. § 1415(f)(3)(D), the time period specified in Educ. Code § 56505(l) does not apply to a parent if the parent was prevented from requesting the due process hearing due to either of the following [Educ. Code § 56505(l)]:

- Specific misrepresentations by the local educational agency that it had solved the problem forming the basis of the due process hearing request.

- The local educational agency's withholding of information from the parent that was required under this part to be provided to the parent.

Educ. Code § 56500 et seq., in accordance with 20 U.S.C. § 1415(o), does not preclude a parent from filing a separate due process hearing request on an issue separate from a due process hearing request already filed [Educ. Code § 56509].

On receipt by the superintendent of a written request by the parent or guardian or public education agency, the superintendent or his or her designee or designees must immediately notify, in writing, all parties of the request for the hearing and the scheduled date for the hearing. The notice must advise all parties of all their rights relating to procedural safeguards [Educ. Code § 56502(h)]. The superintendent or his or her designee must provide both parties with a list of persons and organizations within the geographical area that can provide free or reduced cost representation or other assistance in preparing for the due process hearing. This list must include a brief description of the requirement to qualify for the services. The superintendent or his or her designee has complete discretion in determining which individuals or groups are included on the list [Educ. Code § 56502(h)].

The party requesting the due process hearing may not raise issues at the due process hearing that were not raised in the notice filed under Educ. Code § 56502, unless the other party agrees otherwise [Educ. Code § 56502(i); see 20 U.S.C. § 1415(f)(3)(B)].

[d] Mediation

The right to a formal due process hearing does not preclude the parties from agreeing to a mediation conference or resolving their dispute in an informal, nonadversarial manner [Educ. Code § 56503]. Before the hearing, the public education agency and a parent may, if the party initiating the hearing so chooses, meet informally to resolve any issues relating to the identification, assessment, or education and placement of the child or to the provision of a free appropriate public education to the child, to the satisfaction of both parties. The informal meeting must be conducted by the district superintendent, the county superintendent, or the director of the public education agency or his or her designee. Any designee must have the authority to resolve the issues [Educ. Code § 56502(g)].

It is the Legislature's intent that parties to special education disputes be encouraged to seek resolution through mediation before filing a request for a due process hearing [Educ. Code § 56500.3(a)]. However, requesting or participating in a mediation conference is not a prerequisite to requesting a hearing [Educ. Code § 56500.3(c)].

All requests for a mediation conference must be filed with the superintendent. The party initiating the conference must provide the other party with a copy of the request at the same time the request is filed [Educ. Code § 56500.3(d)]. The conference must be scheduled within 15 days of receipt by the superintendent, and must be completed within 30 days after receipt of the request unless both parties agree to an extension of time [Educ. Code § 56500.3(e)]. It must be held at a time and place reasonably convenient to the parent and pupil [Educ. Code § 56500.3(h); see 34 C.F.R. § 300.506(b)(5)]. The parties may meet informally, at the request of the initiating party, to resolve any issues before the conference [Educ. Code § 56500.3(j)].

The mediation conference must be conducted by a person who is knowledgeable in the laws and regulations governing special education and who is under contract with the department [Educ. Code § 56500.3(d); see Educ. Code § 56504.5]. The mediator must also be knowledgeable in the process of reconciling differences in a nonadversarial manner [Educ. Code § 56500.3(d)]. The mediation conference is conducted in accordance with regulations adopted by the board [Educ. Code § 56500.3(i)]. The process is to be informal and conducted in a nonadversarial atmosphere to resolve the issues to the satisfaction of both parties. Therefore, attorneys or other independent contractors used to provide legal advocacy services may not attend or otherwise participate [Educ. Code § 56500.3(a)]. Nevertheless, a parent who is also an attorney is not excluded. Further, any party may be accompanied and advised by a nonattorney representative and may consult an attorney before or after the conference [Educ. Code § 56500.3(b)].

In accordance with 20 U.S.C. § 1415(e)(2)(F), if a resolution is reached that resolves the due process issue through the mediation process, the parties will execute a legally binding written agreement that sets forth the resolution and does the following [Educ. Code § 56500.3(f)]:

- States that all discussions that occurred during the mediation process will be confidential and may not be used as evidence in any subsequent due process hearing or civil proceeding.

- Is signed by both the parent and the representative of the public education agency who has the authority to bind the agency.

- Is enforceable in any state court of competent jurisdiction or in a federal district court of the United States.

If the mediation conference fails to resolve the issues to the satisfaction of all parties, the party who requested mediation may file for a state-level hearing under Educ. Code § 56505. The mediator may assist the parties in specifying any unresolved issues to be included in the hearing request [Educ. Code § 56500.3(g)].

A party may still request a mediation conference even though a request for a state-level hearing is filed or even if a hearing has commenced [Educ. Code § 56503]. However, once a hearing has been requested, a mediation conference may be scheduled only if both parties agree to mediate and are willing to extend the 45-day limit for issuing a hearing decision for a period equal to the length of the mediation process. The limitation on the period of extension is not applicable if the parties agree to take the hearing off the calendar. Attorneys and advocates are permitted to participate in mediation conferences that are scheduled after the filing of a request for a hearing [Educ. Code § 56501(b)(2)].

Pursuant to 34 C.F.R. § 300.506(b)(3), and to encourage the use of mediation, the state bears the cost of the mediation process, including any meetings described in 34 C.F.R. § 300.506(d) [Educ. Code § 56500.3(e)].

The procedures and rights regarding mediation must be included in the notice of parent rights attached to the pupil's assessment plan [Educ. Code § 56500.3(k); see Educ. Code § 56321, discussed in § 513.33[4]].

[e] Conduct of Due Process Hearing

The state-level due process hearing must be conducted, in accordance with regulations adopted by the State Board of Education, by a person knowledgeable in the laws governing special education and administrative hearings who has satisfactorily completed training [Educ. Code § 56505(a), (c); see Educ. Code § 56504.5]. The hearing officer must encourage the parties to consider the option of mediation as an alternative to a hearing [Educ. Code § 56505(c)]. The hearing must be held at a time and place that is reasonably convenient to the parent and pupil [Educ. Code § 56505(b)].

Any party to the hearing must be afforded the following rights, consistent with state and federal statutes and regulations [Educ. Code § 56505(e)]:

- The right to be accompanied and advised by counsel and by individuals with special knowledge or training relating to the problems of individuals with exceptional needs;

- The right to present evidence, written arguments, and oral arguments;

- The right to confront, cross examine, and compel the attendance of witnesses;

- The right to a written or, at the option of the parents or guardians, electronic verbatim record of the hearing;

- The right to written or, at the option of the parents, electronic findings of fact and decisions [see 20 U.S.C. §§ 1415(h)(4), 1417(c)]. The record of the hearing and the findings of fact and decisions will be provided at no cost to parents or guardians in accordance with 34 C.F.R. § 300.512(c)(3);

- The right to be informed by the other parties to the hearing, at least 10 days before the hearing, as to what those parties believe are the issues to be decided at the hearing and their proposed resolution of those issues. On the request of a parent not represented by an attorney, the agency responsible for conducting hearings must provide a mediator to assist the parent in identifying the issues and the proposed resolution of the issues;

- The right to receive from other parties to the hearing, at least five business days before the hearing, a copy of all documents and a list of all witnesses the parties intend to present at the hearing, and the general area of their testimony; and all assessments completed by that date and recommendations based on the assessments that the parties intend to use at the hearing; and

- The right to prohibit the introduction of any evidence at the hearing that has not been disclosed to that party at least five business days before the hearing [see 34 C.F.R. § 300.512(d)(3)].

The findings of fact and decisions will be made available to the public after any personally identifiable information has been deleted consistent with the confidentiality requirements of 20 U.S.C. § 1417(c) and will be transmitted to the Advisory Commission on Special Education pursuant to 20 U.S.C. § 1415(h)(4) [Educ. Code § 56505(e)(5)].

During the pendency of the hearing proceedings, including the actual state-level hearing or judicial proceeding regarding a due process hearing, the pupil must remain in his or her present placement, except as provided in 34 C.F.R.

§ 300.533, unless the public agency and the parent agree otherwise [Educ. Code § 56505(d); 34 C.F.R. § 300.518(a); see 20 U.S.C. § 1415(j), (k)(4)]. A pupil applying for initial admission to a public school must, with the consent of his or her parent or guardian, be placed in the public school program until all proceedings have been completed [Educ. Code § 56505(d)]. If the decision of a hearing officer in a due process hearing or a state review official in an administrative appeal agrees with the pupil's parent or guardian that a change of placement is appropriate, that placement will be treated as an agreement between the state or local agency and the parent or guardian [Educ. Code § 56505(d); see 34 C.F.R. § 300.518(d)].

20 U.S.C. § 1415(j) creates a presumption in favor of the child's current educational placement that school officials can overcome only by showing that maintaining the child in the current placement is substantially likely to result in injury either to the child or to others [see Honig v. Doe (1988) 484 U.S. 305, 328, 108 S. Ct. 592, 98 L. Ed. 2d 686 (construing former 20 U.S.C. § 1415(e)(3), similar to current 20 U.S.C. § 1415(j))]. However, a preliminary injunction to maintain the educational status quo of a disabled child need not always be automatically granted. The court will apply traditional preliminary injunction factors, including a showing of irreparable harm and a likelihood of success on the merits [Johnson ex rel. Johnson v. Special Educ. Hearing Office (9th Cir. 2002) 287 F.3d 1176, 1180] .

However, a parent's violation of 20 U.S.C. § 1415(k) by placing the child in a private school without the consent of local school authorities during the pendency of the hearing proceedings does not waive the parents' right to reimbursement for expenses from the private placement. Nevertheless, the parents assume a risk in violating 20 U.S.C. § 1415(k): If the court ultimately determines the proposed individualized educational program was appropriate, the parents are barred from reimbursement for any period during which their child's placement violates 20 U.S.C. § 1415(k) [see School Committee of Burlington v. Department of Education (1985) 471 U.S. 359, 371-374, 105 S. Ct. 1996, 85 L. Ed. 2d 385 (construing former 20 U.S.C. § 1415(e)(3))].

By contrast, if the court determines that the proposed individualized educational program is inappropriate, a parent is not barred from reimbursement, even though the parent violates 20 U.S.C. § 1415(k) by placing the child in a private school that does not meet the 20 U.S.C. § 1401(9) definition of a "free appropriate public education." The requirements of 20 U.S.C. § 1401(9) do not apply to parental placements [see Florence County Sch. Dist. Four v. Carter by & Through Carter (1993) 510 U.S. 7, 12-13, 114 S. Ct. 361 (construing former 20 U.S.C. § 1401(a)(18), similar to current 20 U.S.C. § 1401(9))].

If either party intends to be represented by counsel at the hearing, notice of that intent must be given to the other party at least 10 days before the hearing. The failure to provide the notice is good cause for a continuance [Educ. Code § 56507(a)].

The hearing officer may do any of the following during the hearing [Educ. Code § 56505.1]:

- Question a witness on the record before any of the parties question the witness;

- With the consent of both parties, request that conflicting experts discuss an issue or issues with each other while on the record;

- Visit the proposed placement site or sites if the physical attributes of the site are at issue;

- Call a witness to testify at the hearing if all parties consent to the witness giving testimony or the hearing is continued for at least five days after the witness is identified and before the witness testifies;

- Order that an impartial assessment of the pupil be conducted for purposes of the hearing and continue the hearing until the assessment has been completed;

- Bar introduction of any documents or the testimony of any witnesses not disclosed to the hearing officer at least five business days before the hearing and bar introduction of any documents or the testimony of any witnesses at the hearing without the consent of the other party not disclosed to the parties at least five business days before the hearing pursuant to Educ. Code § 56505(e)(7);

- In decisions relating to the provision of related services by other public agencies, call as witnesses independent medical specialists qualified to present evidence in the area of the pupil's medical disability; and

- Set a reasonable limit on the length of the hearing after consideration of all of the following:

  (1) The issues to be heard;

  (2) The complexity of the facts to be proven;

  (3) The ability of the parties and their representatives, if any, to present their respective cases; and

  (4) The estimate of the parties as to the time needed to present their respective cases.

The cost of any assessment or evidence obtained by an impartial assessment or through independent medical specialists must be included in the contract between the department and the organization or entity conducting the hearing [Educ. Code § 56505.1]. The burden of proof in an administrative due process hearing challenging an individualized education plan is on the party seeking relief. Thus, for example, the burden of persuasion was on the child, as represented by his parents, when the parents believed their child's IEP was inappropriate, and they requested an impartial due process hearing [Schaffer v. Weast (2005) 546 U.S. 49, 126 S. Ct. 528, 533-537, 163 L. Ed. 2d 387] .

The decision of a due process hearing officer must be made on substantive grounds based on a determination of whether the child received a free appropriate public education [Educ. Code § 56505(f)(1); see 20 U.S.C. § 1415(f)(3)(E)]. In matters alleging a procedural violation, a due process hearing officer may find that a child did not receive a free appropriate public education only if the procedural violation did any of the following [Educ. Code § 56505(f)(2)]:

- Impeded the child's right to a free appropriate public education.

- Significantly impeded the parents' opportunity to participate in the decisionmaking process regarding the provision of a free appropriate public education to the parents' child.

- Caused a deprivation of educational benefits.

The hearing conducted pursuant to Educ. Code § 56505 must be completed and a written, reasoned decision, including the reasons for any nonpublic, nonsectarian school placement, the provision of nonpublic, nonsectarian agency services, or the reimbursement for the placement or services, taking into account the requirements of Educ. Code § 56365(a), must be mailed to all parties to the hearing within 45 days from the expiration of the 30-day period pursuant to Educ. Code § 56501.5(c) [Educ. Code § 56505(f)(3)]. Either party to the hearing may request the hearing officer to grant an extension. The extension must be granted on a showing of good cause. Any extension extends the time for rendering a final administrative decision for a period only equal to the length of the extension [Educ. Code § 56505(f)(3)]. Educ. Code § 56505(f) does not preclude a due process hearing officer from ordering a local educational agency to comply with procedural requirements under Educ. Code § 56500 et seq. [Educ. Code § 56505(f)(4)].

Educ. Code § 56505(f) does not alter the burden of proof required in a due process hearing, or prevent a hearing officer from ordering a compensatory remedy for an individual with exceptional needs [Educ. Code § 56505(g)]. The decision must indicate the extent to which each party prevailed on each issue heard and decided, including issues involving other public agencies named as parties to the hearing [Educ. Code § 56507(d)].

In a hearing conducted pursuant to Educ. Code § 56505, the hearing officer may not base a decision solely on nonsubstantive procedural errors, unless the hearing officer finds that the nonsubstantive procedural errors resulted in the loss of an educational opportunity to the pupil or interfered with the opportunity of the pupil's parent or guardian to participate in the formulation process of the individualized education program [Educ. Code § 56505(j)].

In decisions relating to the placement of individuals with exceptional needs, the person conducting the state hearing must consider cost in addition to all other factors that are considered [Educ. Code § 56505(i)]. A hearing officer may not render a decision that results in the placement of an individual with exceptional needs in a nonpublic, nonsectarian school, or that results in a service for an individual with exceptional needs provided by a nonpublic, nonsectarian agency, if the school or agency has not been certified under Educ. Code § 56366.1 [Educ. Code § 56505.2(a)]. The hearing officer must consider Educ. Code §§ 56365, 56366, and 56366.1 during a due process hearing concerning an issue of placement of an individual with exceptional needs in a nonpublic, nonsectarian school, or services for an individual with exceptional needs provided by a nonpublic, nonsectarian agency [Educ. Code § 56505.2(b)].

The hearing conducted under Educ. Code § 56505 is the final administrative determination and is binding on all parties [Educ. Code § 56505(h)]. However, the parties are not precluded from exercising the right to appeal the decision to a state court of competent jurisdiction. An appeal must be made within 90 days of receipt of the decision. During the pendency of any administrative or judicial proceeding conducted under Educ. Code § 56500 et seq., unless the public education agency and the parents of the child agree otherwise, the child involved in the hearing must remain in his or her present educational placement [Educ. Code § 56505(k); see § 513.33[5][g]]. An aggrieved party may also exercise the right to bring a civil action in a district court of the United States without regard to the amount in controversy [Educ. Code § 56505(k); see 34 C.F.R. § 300.516].

[f] Attorney's Fees

An award of reasonable attorney's fees to the prevailing parent, guardian, or pupil may only be made either with the agreement of the parties following the conclusion of the administrative hearing process or by a court of competent jurisdiction under the IDEA [Educ. Code § 56507(b)(1); see 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(3)]. The "degree of success" standard articulated by the U.S. Supreme Court in Hensley v. Eckerhart (1983) 461 U.S. 424, 103 S. Ct. 1933, 76 L. Ed. 2d 40 , for attorney's fees awards under 42 U.S.C. § 1988, applies to attorney's fees awards under the IDEA. Thus, the "significant issue" test under IDEA is only the first step in a fee award analysis. Passing the significant issue test merely makes a plaintiff eligible for a fee award as a prevailing party; it does not mandate recovery of all fees. Partial success may result in a partial fee award [Aguirre v. Los Angeles Unified School Dist. (9th Cir. 2006) 461 F.3d 1114, 1117-1121 ; see Ch. 113, Civil Rights: The Post-Civil War Civil Rights Statutes, § 113.17[2], for discussion of attorney's fees awards under 42 U.S.C. § 1988].

The court, in its discretion, may award reasonable attorney's fees as part of the costs to a prevailing party that is a state educational agency or local educational agency in the following circumstances [Educ. Code § 56507(b)(2); see 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(3)]:

- Against the attorney of a parent who files a due process hearing request or subsequent cause of action that is frivolous, unreasonable, or without foundation, or against the attorney of a parent who continued to litigate after the litigation clearly became frivolous, unreasonable, or without foundation.

- Against the attorney of a parent, or against the parent, if the parent's due process hearing request or subsequent cause of action was presented for any improper purpose, such as to harass, to cause unnecessary delay, or to needlessly increase the cost of litigation.

The IDEA provides that in any action or proceeding brought under 20 U.S.C. § 1415 (see § 513.40[16]), the court in its discretion may award reasonable attorney fees as part of the costs to the parents of a child with a disability who is the prevailing party [20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(3)(B) (as amended by Pub. L. 105-17, effective June 4, 1997)]. There is a split of authority at the federal district court of appeals level as to whether 20 U.S.C. § 1415 supports an independent civil action for fees by a party who has prevailed at the administrative level. The Ninth Circuit has aligned with the majority, which construes Section 1415 to support the independent action [see Kletzelman v. Capistrano Unified School Dist. (9th Cir. 1996) 91 F.3d 68, 70 ; McSomebodies v. Burlingame Elementary School Dist. (9th Cir. 1989) 897 F.2d 974 (construing former 20 U.S.C. § 1415(e)(4)(B)); see also Lucht v. Molalla River School Dist. (9th Cir. 2000) 225 F.3d 1023 (district court has jurisdiction over case in which fees are sought although liability is established outside district court proceeding itself; prevailing at state's Complaint Resolution Procedure (CRP) entitles parents to attorney's fees)].

Parents and pupils may be the prevailing party for attorney's fees purposes under the IDEA even if the pupil is not denied a free and appropriate public education [see Weissburg v. Lancaster School Dist. (9th Cir. 2010) 591 F.3d 1255, 1258-1260 (administrative law judge's conclusion that school district misclassified pupil as mentally retarded rather than autistic qualified parents for attorney's fees under IDEA as prevailing party, even though pupil was not denied FAPE since he received instruction by qualified teacher, because change in disability classification legally entitled pupil to instruction by teachers qualified to teach students with both mental retardation and autism and before decision, school district refused to recognize his classification as autistic, and thus his legal right to such instruction)].

The Ninth Circuit has adopted a bright-line rule prohibiting attorney's fees for attorney-parents who provide legal services for their own child in proceedings brought under the IDEA [Ford v. Long Beach Unified Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 2006) 461 F.3d 1087, 1090-1091] . However, more distant relatives, such as grandparents, who are attorneys and litigate IDEA actions may be entitled to attorney's fees, so long as they are not the pupil's legal guardian or acting in place of the pupil's natural or adoptive parent [Weissburg v. Lancaster School Dist. (9th Cir. 2010) 591 F.3d 1255, 1260-1261 (parents were eligible for attorney's fees under IDEA because pupil's paternal grandmother, who was practicing attorney and not his legal guardian or acting in place of his natural or adoptive parent, represented him)].

However, the attorney's fees provision in IDEA does not authorize prevailing parents to recover fees for services rendered by experts in IDEA actions [Arlington Central School Dist. Bd. of Educ. v. Murphy (2006) 548 U.S. 291, 126 S. Ct. 2455, 165 L. Ed. 2d 526].

[g] Judicial Review

[i] Proper Court

A party aggrieved by the findings and decision made pursuant to the state hearing procedure may bring a civil action to review the decision in any state court of competent jurisdiction or in a United States district court, without regard to the amount in controversy [20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2)(A)]. The party seeking judicial relief must exhaust all state administrative remedies prior to bringing an action under 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2)(A) [see Hoeft v. Tucson Unified Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 1992) 967 F.2d 1298, 1303 (construing former 20 U.S.C. § 1415(e)(2), now 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2)(A))]. However, exhaustion is not required if it would be futile or would offer inadequate relief [see Honig v. Doe (1988) 484 U.S. 305, 326-327, 108 S. Ct. 592, 98 L. Ed. 2d 686 (construing former 20 U.S.C. § 1415(e)(2), now 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2)(A))], or if the agency has adopted a policy or has pursued a practice of general applicability that is contrary to the law [see Hoeft v. Tucson Unified Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 1992) 967 F.2d 1298, 1303-1304 (construing former 20 U.S.C. § 1415(e)(2), now 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2)(A))]. The party alleging futility or inadequacy of IDEA procedures bears the burden of proof [see Hoeft v. Tucson Unified Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 1992) 967 F.2d 1298, 1303 (construing former 20 U.S.C. § 1415(e)(2), now 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2)(A))]. A disabled student seeking monetary damages only, which is a type of relief not available under the IDEA, is not required to exhaust administrative remedies before bringing an action under, for example, 42 U.S.C. § 1983, 29 U.S.C. § 794 (Rehabilitation Act), or 42 U.S.C. § 12101 et seq. (Americans with Disabilities Act) [Witte by Witte v. Clark County Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 1999) 197 F.3d 1271] .

[ii] Time to Bring Action

The action must be brought within three years of accrual, measured from the time when the parent or other representative of the child knew, or had reason to know, of the facts underlying the cause of action. The statute of limitations is not tolled during the minority of the child. Thus, representatives of disabled children must promptly assert the children's educational rights [Alexopulos v. San Francisco Unified School Dist. (9th Cir. 1987) 817 F.2d 551, 555-556 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 338(a)].

However, Fed. R. Civ. Proc. 3 controls when an action that arises under federal law is "commenced" for purposes of tolling the statute of limitations borrowed from state law. Thus, federal procedural rules thereafter govern the action when there is a federal rule to apply. Since Fed. R. Civ. Proc. 4(m) provides a time limit for service of process, a federal court borrowing a state's time period for filing suit brought under federal law should not also borrow the state's time limits for serving the complaint [S.J. v. Issaquah Sch. Dist. No. 411 (9th Cir. 2006) 470 F.3d 1288, 1289, 1290-1293 (IDEA action was timely commenced for purposes of tolling borrowed statute of limitations when it was filed within 30 days and timely served under Fed. R. Civ. Proc. 4(m))].

[iii] Standard of Review

The standard of review in cases involving the IDEA is different from the standard normally employed by federal courts reviewing decisions of administrative agencies. The IDEA allows federal courts to receive evidence in addition to that put forth at the administrative hearing and to weigh the additional evidence equally [see 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2)(C)]. Appellate courts give less deference normally to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ's) findings of fact. However, complete de novo review is inappropriate; the courts must defer to the states' specialized knowledge and experience by giving due weight to the decisions of the states' administrative bodies [Ms. S. ex rel. G v. Vashon Island School District (9th Cir. 2003) 337 F.3d 1115, 1126 ; Amanda J. v. Clark County Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 2001) 267 F.3d 877, 882 n.1]. The due weight to be given is within the appellate court's discretion [Ms. S. ex rel. G v. Vashon Island School District (9th Cir. 2003) 337 F.3d 1115, 1126-1127 ; Union Sch. Dist. v. B. Smith (9th Cir. 1994) 15 F.3d 1519, 1524] . For example, factual determinations afforded due weight would include the ALJ's finding as to the following [Ms. S. ex rel. G v. Vashon Island School District (9th Cir. 2003) 337 F.3d 1115, 1127 ; Clyde K. v. Puyallup Sch. Dist., No. 3 (9th Cir. 1994) 35 F.3d 1396, 1401] :

- The academic benefits a student would have received from a mainstream placement;
- The non-academic benefits a student would have received from a mainstream placement;
- The effects a student's presence would have had on mainstream teachers and students; and
- The cost of educating the student in a mainstream classroom.

The district court may review the ALJ's findings and make its own factual determinations, after granting the ALJ's findings due weight, on a preponderance of the evidence. The district court's factual findings, even when based on the written record of administrative proceedings, are reviewed for clear error [Ms. S. ex rel. G v. Vashon Island School District (9th Cir. 2003) 337 F.3d 1115, 1127 ; Amanda J. v. Clark County Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 2001) 267 F.3d 877, 887 ; but see Ojai Unified Sch. Dist. v. Jackson (9th Cir. 1993) 4 F.3d 1467, 1473 (appellate court grants only due weight to factual findings of ALJ, even if district court relied on administrative proceedings for its own findings)].

The conclusion of both the ALJ and the district court as to whether a student's placement under the IDEA constitutes a free appropriate public education is a legal conclusion reviewed de novo [Ms. S. ex rel. G v. Vashon Island School District (9th Cir. 2003) 337 F.3d 1115, 1127 ; Amanda J. v. Clark County Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 2001) 267 F.3d 877, 889 n.11 ; Seattle Sch. Dist., No. 1, v. B.S. (9th Cir. 1996) 82 F.3d 1493, 1499 ; Clyde K. v. Puyallup Sch. Dist., No. 3 (9th Cir. 1994) 35 F.3d 1396, 1401] .

[iv] Burden of Proof

At the administrative hearing, the school district has the burden of proving that it complied with the IDEA [Ms. S. ex rel. G v. Vashon Island School District (9th Cir. 2003) 337 F.3d 1115, 1127 ; Clyde K. v. Puyallup Sch. Dist., No. 3 (9th Cir. 1994) 35 F.3d 1396, 1398] . In the district court and on appellate review, however, the burden of proof is on the party challenging the administrative ruling [Ms. S. ex rel. G v. Vashon Island School District (9th Cir. 2003) 337 F.3d 1115, 1127] .

[v] Representation of Child

When parents and their child, dissatisfied with the outcome of the due process hearing, seek review in a United States District Court, the parents on their own behalf may proceed in court unrepresented by counsel even though they are not trained or licensed as attorneys. The IDEA accords to parents rights of their own that can be vindicated in court proceedings, which are not limited to certain procedural and reimbursement-related matters [Winkelman v. Parma City Sch. Dist. (2007)550U.S.516, 127 S. Ct. 1994, 1999-2006, 167 L. Ed. 2d 904] .

[vi] Standing

In order to have standing to bring an action in court under the IDEA, a party must be "aggrieved" [see 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2)(A)]. Parties are aggrieved under the IDEA only if they meet both of the following criteria [Levina v. San Luis Coastal Unified School Dist. (9th Cir. 2007) 514 F.3d 866, 868]:

- They have suffered an injury in fact that is concrete and particularized and actual or imminent, not conjectural or hypothetical.

- They are denied relief they affirmatively requested.

[h] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

[i] In General

Before bringing suit for violation of the IDEA, a complainant must normally exhaust the due process hearing procedures required by 20 U.S.C. § 1415 [see Porter v. Bd. of Trustees of Manhattan Beach Unif. Schl. Dist. (9th Cir. 2002) 307 F.3d 1064, 1069 (parents exhausted California's due process procedure and received order in their favor)]. The exhaustion requirement is not, however, a rigid one. Parents need not exhaust the procedures in 20 U.S.C. § 1415 when resort to the administrative process would be either futile or inadequate [Porter v. Bd. of Trustees of Manhattan Beach Unif. Schl. Dist. (9th Cir. 2002) 307 F.3d 1064, 1069-1070] . A parent also need not exhaust administrative remedies when suing for the parent's own emotional distress caused by a school district's failure to accommodate the child and implement the child's individual education plan, because the IDEA provides remedies including educational services for a child, not an adequate remedy for the parent [see Blanchard v. Morton Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 2005) 420 F.3d 918, 920-922] . Further, the IDEA does not require exhaustion of a state's statutory complaint resolution procedure ("CRP") in addition to exhaustion of the due process hearing system before filing suit for violations of the IDEA [Porter v. Bd. of Trustees of Manhattan Beach Unif. Schl. Dist. (9th Cir. 2002) 307 F.3d 1064, 1071-1074] .

On the other hand, in an action under the Americans with Disabilities Act [42 U.S.C. § 12101 et seq.], Rehabilitation Act [29 U.S.C. § 794], and state anti-discrimination statutes, brought against county and local educational authorities based on alleged discrimination against children who were part of a special education program, the students sufficiently exhausted administrative remedies under the IDEA by pursuing a complaint resolution procedure to completion [Christopher S. v. Stanislaus County Office of Educ. (9th Cir. 2004) 384 F.3d 1205, 1209-1214] . By contrast, an action by parents and a student under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 and § 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 based on conflicts between the plaintiffs and the school district over the student's IEP was properly dismissed because the plaintiffs failed to exhaust administrative remedies [Kutasi v. Las Virgenes Unified Sch. Dist. (2007) 494 F.3d 1162, 1167-1170] .

[ii] Placement Pending Review

During the pendency of the proceeding, unless the state or district and the parents or guardian otherwise agree, the child must remain in his or her then-current educational placement [20 U.S.C. § 1415(j)]. For purposes of this "stay put" provision, the current educational placement is typically the placement described in the child's most recently implemented Individualized Education Program (IEP) [Johnson ex rel. Johnson v. Special Educ. Hearing Office (9th Cir. 2002) 287 F.3d 1176, 1180] . If applying for initial admission to a public school, the child must, with the consent of the parents or guardian, be placed in the public school program until the proceedings have been completed [20 U.S.C. § 1415(j); see Clovis Unified v. Office of Administrative Hearings (9th Cir. 1990) 903 F.2d 635, 640-641 ("stay put" provisions apply, at district's expense, during review after parents have received favorable determination by hearing officer, even if subsequently reversed on review)].

[iii] Confidentiality of Information

The confidentiality of personally identifiable information about individuals with exceptional needs is governed and protected in accordance with 20 U.S.C. §§ 1412(a)(8), 1417(c), and 34 C.F.R. § 300.1 et seq., including 34 C.F.R. § 300.611 et seq., including the following [Educ. Code § 56515(a); see Educ. Code § 49060]:

- Notice to parents.
- Access rights and records of access.
- Records on more than one child.
- Lists of types and locations of information.
- Parental consent regarding the disclosure of personally identifiable information.
- Fees.
- Amendment of records at parent's request.
- Opportunity for a hearing.
- Result of hearing.
- Hearing procedures.
- Consent.
- Destruction of information.
- Children's privacy rights.

- Enforcement.

- Disciplinary information about an individual with exceptional needs.

"Personally identifiable," as used in this context, includes all of the following information [Educ. Code § 56515(b); see 34 C.F.R. § 300.500(b)(3)]:

- The name of the child, the child's parent, or other family member.

- The child's address.

- A personal identifier, including, but not limited to, the child's social security number, a pupil number, a list of personal characteristics, or other information that would make it possible to identify the child with reasonable certainty.

In accordance with 34 C.F.R. § 300.622, parental consent must be obtained before personally identifiable information is disclosed to the parties, other than officials of participating agencies [see 34 C.F.R. § 300.622(b)(1)], unless the information is contained in education records, and the disclosure is authorized without parental consent [Educ. Code § 56515(c)(1); see 34 C.F.R. § 99.1 et seq.]. Parental consent is not required before personally identifiable information is released to officials of participating agencies for purposes of meeting a requirement Educ. Code § 56000 et seq. or 34 C.F.R. § 300.1 et seq. [Educ. Code § 56515(c)(1)]. However, parental consent, or the consent of an eligible child who has reached the age of 18 years, must be obtained before personally identifiable information is released to officials of participating agencies providing or paying for transition services in accordance with 34 C.F.R. § 300.321(b)(3) [Educ. Code § 56515(c)(2)]. If a child is enrolled, or is going to enroll in a private school not located in the local educational agency of the residence of the parent, parental consent must be obtained before any personally identifiable information about the child is released between officials in the local educational agency where the private school is located and officials in the local educational agency of the residence of the parent [Educ. Code § 56515(c)(3)].

[iv] Scope of Review

In an action brought under 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2), the court must receive the records of the administrative proceedings, hear additional evidence at the request of a party, and make an independent decision based on the preponderance of the evidence [20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2)(C)]. A court's inquiry in suits brought under 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2) is twofold:

- Whether the state has complied with the procedures set forth in IDEA; and

- Whether the individualized educational program developed through IDEA procedures is reasonably calculated to enable the child to receive educational benefits.

If these requirements are met, the state has complied with the obligations imposed by Congress. The courts cannot require more [Board of Education v. Rowley (1982) 458 U.S. 176, 206-207, 102 S. Ct. 3034, 73 L. Ed. 2d 690 (refusing to find that courts have only limited authority to review for state compliance with IDEA, while cautioning courts to avoid imposing their view of preferable educational methods on states; construing former 20 U.S.C. § 1400 et seq.); but see In re John K. (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 783, 216 Cal. Rptr. 557 (Rowley two-step inquiry not entirely appropriate when question is one of fiscal responsibility for student's residential placement, and there is no dispute as to whether trial court substituted its own notions of sound educational policy for those of school authorities)].

The Ninth Circuit has interpreted the "independent decision based on the preponderance of the evidence" language in 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2)(C) as calling for de novo review [County of San Diego v. California Special Educ. Hearing Office (9th Cir. 1996) 93 F.3d 1458, 1466 (court reviews de novo appropriateness of administrative decisions regarding special education placement under IDEA); Union School Dist. v. Smith (9th Cir. 1994) 15 F.3d 1519, 1524 , cert. denied, 513 U.S. 965] . However, both reviewing courts and district courts must give deference to the state hearing officer's findings, particularly when those findings are thorough and careful. Courts also must give due weight to judgments of education policy when reviewing state hearings. Courts should not substitute their own notions of sound educational policy for those of the school authorities they review [Union School Dist. v. Smith (9th Cir. 1994) 15 F.3d 1519, 1524 , cert. denied, 513 U.S. 965 ; Seattle School Dist., No. 1 v. B.S. (9th Cir. 1996) 82 F.3d 1493, 1499] .

[v] Relief Available

Once a court holds that a public placement violated the IDEA, the court may grant the relief the court determines appropriate [20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2)(C)(iii)]. The court has broad discretion in fashioning relief that is appropriate in light of the purposes of the IDEA. Appropriate relief is not limited in form. Thus, for example, the IDEA allows reimbursement to parents for their expenditures on private special education for a child if the court determines that private placement, rather than a proposed individualized educational program, is proper under the IDEA [School Committee of Burlington v. Department of Education (1985) 471 U.S. 359, 369-371, 105 S. Ct. 1996, 85 L. Ed. 2d 385 (reimbursement is not the same as damages)].

Equitable considerations are also relevant in fashioning relief. Courts fashioning discretionary equitable relief under the IDEA must consider all relevant factors, including the appropriate and reasonable level of reimbursement that should be required. Total reimbursement is inappropriate if the court determines the cost of the private education was unreasonable [Florence County School Dist. Four v. Carter By and Through Carter (1993) 510 U.S. 7, 15-16, 114 S. Ct. 361, 126 L. Ed. 2d 284] .

However, money damages are not available under the IDEA for the pain and suffering of a disabled child [Witte ex rel. Witte v. Clark County Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 1999) 197 F.3d 1271, 1275]. Further, 42 U.S.C. § 1983 does not create a cause of action for money damages under the IDEA for the lost earnings and suffering of a parent pursuing IDEA relief [Blanchard v. Morton Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 2007) 504 F.3d 771, 773-774].

A state is not immune under U.S. Const., amend. XI from suit in federal court for violations of the IDEA that occur in whole or part after October 30, 1990 [20 U.S.C. § 1403(a), (c); Porter v. Bd. of Trustees of Manhattan Beach Unif. Schl. Dist. (9th Cir. 2002) 307 F.3d 1064, 1074] . In a suit against a state for a violation of the IDEA, remedies, including remedies both at law and in equity, are available to the same extent as those remedies are available for the same violations in a suit against a public entity other than a state [20 U.S.C. § 1403(b)]. Thus, pursuant to 20 U.S.C. § 1403, Congress has unequivocally expressed its intent to abrogate state immunity from suit under the IDEA for violations that occur in whole or part after October 30, 1990 [see Hayes v. Commission on State Mandates (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1564, 1588 n.13, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 547 (Congress' intent to enforce Fourteenth Amendment in enacting IDEA has been made clear); compare Dellmuth v. Muth (1989) 491 U.S. 223, 232, 109 S. Ct. 2397, 105 L. Ed. 2d 181 (former 20 U.S.C. § 1400 et seq. failed to evince unmistakably clear intention to abrogate states' Eleventh Amendment immunity from suit)].

In an action or proceeding brought under the IDEA, the court, in its discretion, may award reasonable attorneys' fees as part of the costs to the parents of a child with a disability who is the prevailing party [20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(3)(B); see 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(3)(D)(ii) (award of attorneys' fees relating to meeting of IEP Team)]. Fees awarded under the attorney fees provisions of the IDEA must be based on rates prevailing in the community in which the action or proceeding arose for the kind and quality of services furnished. Courts may not use a bonus or multiplier in calculating the fees awarded under the IDEA [20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(3)(C)].

Congress intended 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(3)(B) to be interpreted consistent with fee provisions under 42 U.S.C. § 1988 and Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 [Abu-Sahyun v. Palo Alto Unified School Dist. (9th Cir. 1988) 843 F.2d 1250, 1251 , citing S. Rep. No. 99-112, 99th Cong., 2d Sess., reprinted in 1986 U.S. Code Cong. & Admin. News 1798, 1803-1805; for detailed discussion of fee provisions in 42 U.S.C. § 1988 and Title VII, including numerous "Practice Tips," see Ch. 113, Civil Rights: The Post-Civil War Civil Rights Statutes, § 113.17, and Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 43, Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws, § 43.10[9][f], respectively]. As a result, courts have held that a district court's discretion to deny a request for attorneys' fees under the IDEA is narrow [Kletzelman v. Capistrano Unified School Dist. (9th Cir. 1996) 91 F.3d 68, 70 ; Abu-Sahyun v. Palo Alto Unified Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 1988) 843 F.2d 1250, 1252] .

For the purpose of awarding attorneys' fees, a prevailing party is one that succeeds on any significant issue in litigation that achieves some of the benefit the parties sought in bringing suit [Hensley v. Eckerhart (1983) 461 U.S. 424, 433, 103 S. Ct. 1933, 76 L. Ed. 2d 40 ; Kletzelman v. Capistrano Unified School Dist. (9th Cir. 1996) 91 F.3d 68, 70] . At a minimum, to be considered a prevailing party, the plaintiff must be able to point to a resolution of the dispute that changes the legal relationship between itself and the defendant [Texas Teachers v. Garland School Dist. (1989) 489 U.S. 782, 792, 109 S. Ct. 1486, 103 L. Ed. 2d 866] . If the plaintiff's success on a legal claim can be characterized as purely technical or de minimis, the plaintiff may not recover fees as a prevailing party. There must be a causal link between the litigation brought and the outcome gained [Texas Teachers v. Garland School Dist. (1989) 489 U.S. 782, 792, 109 S. Ct. 1486, 103 L. Ed. 2d 866 ; Kletzelman v. Capistrano Unified School Dist. (9th Cir. 1996) 91 F.3d 68, 71] .

However, the court must reduce the amount of attorneys' fees awarded under 20 U.S.C. § 1415 if the court finds any of the following [20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(3)(F)]:

- The parent or the parent's attorney, during the course of the action or proceeding, unreasonably protracted the final resolution of the controversy.

- The amount of the attorneys' fees otherwise authorized to be awarded unreasonably exceeds the hourly rate prevailing in the community for similar services by attorneys of reasonably comparable skill, reputation, and experience.

- The time spent and legal services furnished were excessive considering the nature of the action or proceeding.

- The attorney representing the parent did not provide the appropriate information to the school district in the due process complaint in accordance with 20 U.S.C. § 1415(b)(7).

The attorney fee reduction provisions of 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(3)(F) do not apply in an action or proceeding in which the court finds that the state or local educational agency unreasonably protracted the final resolution of the action or proceeding, or that there was a violation of 20 U.S.C. § 1415 [20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(3)(G)].

In addition, the court may not award attorneys' fees or order related costs reimbursed in an action or proceeding under 20 U.S.C. § 1415 for services performed after the time of a written offer of settlement to a parent if all of the following are true [20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(3)(D)(i)]:

- The offer is made within the time prescribed by Fed. R. Civ. P. 68 or, in the case of an administrative proceeding, at any time more than 10 days before the proceeding begins;

- The offer is not accepted within 10 days; and

- The court or administrative hearing officer finds that the relief finally obtained by the parents is not more favorable to the parents than the offer of settlement.

However, despite the provisions of 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(3)(D), an award of attorneys' fees and related costs may be made to a parent who is the prevailing party and who was substantially justified in rejecting the settlement offer [20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(3)(E)].

For a form of complaint for use in an action for an injunction, declaratory relief, and damages under 20 U.S.C. § 1415, see § 513.90.

[vi] Education in English

Educ. Code § 300 et seq. requires children in California's public schools who are of "Limited English Proficiency" (LEP) to be taught only in English. This requirement is subject to the right of the parents of each affected child to seek a waiver from the requirement of English-only instruction [Educ. Code § 310 et seq.]. Educ. Code § 300 et seq. on their face do not violate the federal equal protection clause (U.S. Const., amend. XIV, § 1) [Valeria G. v. Davis (9th Cir. 2002) 307 F.3d 1036, 1039-1042 (Proposition 227 did not unconstitutionally restructure political process by placing decision-making over bilingual education, and only bilingual education, at state-wide level)]. Educ. Code § 320, which allows parents to sue and hold personally liable a teacher, administrator, or official who willfully and repeatedly refuses to implement the English-only requirement is sufficiently clear so as not to violate the First and Fourteenth Amendments by being void for vagueness [California Teachers Ass'n v. State Board of Education (9th Cir. 2001) 263 F.3d 888] .

Local school districts may not apply under Educ. Code § 33050 to the State Board of Education for waivers from program requirements of the Education Code not enumerated in § 33050. Educ. Code § 300 et seq. guarantee that LEP students receive educational instruction in the English language, and English immersion programs are provided to facilitate their transition into English-only classes, and vests parents of LEP students with the sole right to seek a waiver from the Chapter's provision requiring English-only instruction for their own children [MacLaughlin v. State Board of Educ. (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 196, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 295] .

The English Learner and Immigrant Pupil Federal Conformity Act [Educ. Code § 430 et seq.] was enacted by the California Legislature to ensure that instructional services are provided to pupils with limited English proficiency in conformity with federal requirements designed to ensure that all pupils have reasonable access to educational opportunities that are necessary for the pupils to achieve at high levels in English and in the other core curriculum areas of instruction. The Act is declaratory of Title III of the federal No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 [20 U.S.C. § 6801 et seq.] and is intended to assist local education agencies in understanding the requirements and funding formulas to provide allowable services. The requirements of Educ. Code § 430 et seq. apply only to local educational agencies receiving federal funds under Title III of the federal No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 [Educ. Code § 430].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Student Rights and Responsibilities

45-513 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 513.34

§ 513.34 Freedom of Expression

[1] In General

Public school students, like other persons, have constitutional rights to freedom of speech and expression [U.S. Const., amend. I; Cal. Const., art. I, § 2(a)] that they do not shed at the schoolhouse gate [Tinker v. Des Moines Community School Dist. (1969) 393 U.S. 503, 506, 89 S. Ct. 733, 21 L. Ed. 2d 731] . However, the constitutional rights of students in public schools are not automatically coextensive with the rights of adults in other settings [Bethel School Dist. No. 403 v. Fraser (1986) 478 U.S. 675, 682, 106 S. Ct. 3159, 92 L. Ed. 2d 549] . To justify restriction of a particular expression of opinion, school officials must show that the forbidden conduct would materially and substantially interfere with the requirements of appropriate discipline in the operation of the school. In determining whether regulation of speech violates students' First Amendment rights, courts look at the totality of the relevant facts, that is, at the students' actions as well as the circumstances confronting the school officials that might reasonably portend disruption [LaVine v. Blaine School Dist. (9th Cir. 2001) 257 F.3d 981, 989 (applicable to regulation of speech that falls into the third category of student speech, that governed by Tinker v. Des Moines Community School Dist. (1969) 393 U.S. 503, 89 S. Ct. 733, 21 L. Ed. 2d 731); see below]. However, the court should not use the public concern standard from the government employment context for determining whether the First Amendment protects student speech. The proper standard is that articulated in Tinker v. Des Moines Community School District [Pinard v. Clatskanie Sch. Dist. 6J (9th Cir. 2006) 467 F.3d 755, 765-768].

Schools must achieve a balance between protecting the safety and well-being of students and respecting the students' constitutional rights [LaVine v. Blaine School Dist. (9th Cir. 2001) 257 F.3d 981, 987 (schools cannot expel students just because they are "loners," wear black, and play video games)]. A school need not tolerate student speech that is inconsistent with its basic educational mission [LaVine v. Blaine School Dist. (9th Cir. 2001) 257 F.3d 981, 988] . On the other hand, a desire merely to avoid the discomfort and unpleasantness that accompany expression of an unpopular viewpoint is not sufficient to justify a prohibition of speech [Tinker v. Des Moines Community School Dist. (1969) 393 U.S. 503, 509, 512-513, 89 S. Ct. 733, 21 L. Ed. 2d 731] .

There are three distinct areas of student speech, each of which is governed by a different United States Supreme Court precedent [LaVine v. Blaine School Dist. (9th Cir. 2001) 257 F.3d 981, 988-989 ; Chandler v. McMinnville School Dist. (9th Cir. 1992) 978 F.2d 524, 529] :

- Vulgar, lewd, obscene, and plainly offensive speech, governed by Bethel School Dist. No. 403 v. Fraser (1986) 478 U.S. 675, 106 S. Ct. 3159, 92 L. Ed. 2d 549 .

- School-sponsored speech, governed by Hazelwood School Dist. v. Kuhlmeier (1988) 484 U.S. 260, 108 S. Ct. 562, 98 L. Ed. 2d 592 .

- Speech falling into neither of these categories, governed by Tinker v. Des Moines Community School Dist. (1969) 393 U.S. 503, 89 S. Ct. 733, 21 L. Ed. 2d 731 .

Schools may take steps to safeguard those entrusted to their care from speech that can reasonably be regarded as encouraging illegal drug use [Frederick v. Morse (2007)551U.S.393127 S. Ct. 2618, 2625-2629, 168 L. Ed. 2d 290] . Public schools may restrict student speech that intrudes on the rights of other students or collides with the rights of other students to be secure and to be let alone. Vulgar, lewd, obscene, indecent, and plainly offensive speech by definition, may well impinge on the rights of other students, even if the speaker does not directly accost individual students with his or her remarks [Harper v. Poway Unif. School Dist. (9th Cir. 2006) 445 F.3d 1166, 1177-1178 (upholding prohibition of wearing t-shirt condemning and denigrating other students on basis of their sexual orientation), quoting Tinker v. Des Moines Community School Dist. (1969) 393 U.S. 503, 508, 509, 89 S. Ct. 733, 21 L. Ed. 2d 731 ; Chandler v. McMinnville School Dist. (9th Cir. 1992) 978 F.2d 524, 529] . Other speech capable of causing psychological injury may also be restricted [Harper v. Poway Unif. School Dist. (9th Cir. 2006) 445 F.3d 1166, 1178] .

The protection of the right of free speech and press provided by Cal. Const., art. I, § 2(a), has been construed as more definitive and inclusive that the U.S. Const., amend I [Wilson v. Superior Court (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 652, 658, 119 Cal. Rptr. 468, 532 P.2d 116] . Also, in California, the scope of a student's rights to free expression in the school setting are fixed by statute in certain areas [see Educ. Code §§ 48907, 48950]. In some instances, the statutory scope of students' rights is more expansive than the constitutional scope. The comparative scope of constitutional and statutory protection is discussed in § 513.34[3]. For a form of complaint for use in an action to enjoin school officials from interfering with a student's right to freedom of expression under federal and state constitutional and statutory standards, see § 513.91.

By statute in California, school districts may not make or enforce any rule subjecting any high school pupil to disciplinary sanctions solely on the basis of conduct that is speech or other communication that, if engaged in off campus, is protected from government restriction by the First Amendment or by Cal. Const., art. I, § 2 [Educ. Code § 48950(a)].

[2] Oral Speech

Students in public schools cannot be punished merely for expressing their personal views on the school premises unless school authorities have reason to believe that the expression will substantially interfere with the work of the school or impinge on the rights of other students [Hazelwood School District v. Kuhlmeier (1988) 484 U.S. 260, 266, 108 S. Ct. 562, 98 L. Ed. 2d 592 ; Tinker v. Des Moines Community School Dist. (1969) 393 U.S. 503, 509, 512-513, 89 S.Ct. 733, 21 L. Ed. 2d 731] . However, an appropriate function of public school education is to prohibit the use of vulgar and offensive terms in public discourse. Offensive forms of expression may be prohibited even in the making of what the speaker considers to be a political point. Therefore, the determination of what manner of speech in the classroom or in a school assembly is inappropriate properly rests with school authorities [Bethel School Dist. No. 403 v. Fraser (1986) 478 U.S. 675, 682-683, 106 S. Ct. 3159, 92 L. Ed. 2d 549 (involving obscene language at school assembly)].

The parameters of what is offensive within this rule are not settled. The Supreme Court's opinion stressed the right of the schools to protect children from exposure to sexually explicit, indecent, or lewd speech [see Bethel School Dist. No. 403 v. Fraser (1986) 478 U.S. 675, 684, 106 S. Ct. 3159, 92 L. Ed. 2d 549] . It also reaffirmed the need to tolerate divergent political and religious views, even if the views expressed may be unpopular. However, the Court also stated that the sensibilities of other students must be taken into account. The undoubted freedom to advocate unpopular and controversial views in schools must be balanced against the society's countervailing interest in teaching students the boundaries of socially appropriate behavior [see Bethel School Dist. No. 403 v. Fraser (1986) 478 U.S. 675, 681, 106 S. Ct. 3159, 92 L. Ed. 2d 549] .

The scope of protection of oral speech under the California Constitution has also not been directly addressed [see Leeb v. DeLong (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 47, 54-55, 243 Cal. Rptr. 494 , discussed in § 513.34[5] (noting that student publications are entitled to greater protection under California Constitution than under U.S. Const., amend. I)]. By statute, public school students are generally afforded the right to exercise freedom of speech, subject to reasonable time, place, and manner regulation [see Educ. Code §§ 48907, 48950]. However, expression that is libelous, slanderous or obscene is prohibited. "Material" that so incites students as to create a clear and present danger of the commission of unlawful acts on school premises or the violation of lawful school regulations or a substantial disruption of the orderly operation of the school is also prohibited [Educ. Code § 48907(a)]. Each governing board of a school district and each county board of education may adopt rules and regulations in the form of a written publications code, which must include reasonable provisions for the time, place, and manner of conducting such activities within its respective jurisdiction [Educ. Code § 48907(b)].

A pupil who is enrolled in a school at the time that the school has made or enforced a rule in violation of students' statutory right to freedom of expression [see Educ. Code § 48950(a), discussed in [1], above] may commence a civil action to obtain appropriate injunctive and declaratory relief. Attorney's fees may also be awarded if the plaintiff prevails [Educ. Code § 48950(b)].

[3] Use of School Facilities

[a] In General

Public schools do not possess all of the attributes of streets, parks, and other traditional public forums that have been used for purposes of assembly, communicating thoughts, and discussing public questions. Therefore, school facilities may be deemed to be public forums only if school authorities have, by policy or practice, opened those facilities for indiscriminate use by the general public or by some segment of the public such as student organizations. If the facilities instead have been reserved for other intended purposes, communicative or otherwise, no public forum has been created, and school officials may impose reasonable restrictions on the speech of students, teachers, and other members of the school community. The government does not create a public forum by inaction or by permitting limited discourse, but only by intentionally opening a nontraditional forum for public discourse [Hazelwood School District v. Kuhlmeier (1988) 484 U.S. 260, 267, 108 S. Ct. 562, 98 L. Ed. 2d 592] .

With regard to access by the public, for purposes of the First Amendment, a school district may restrict school property in its use to educational activities. Thus, for example, the district may exclude filming of movies by motion picture studios [80 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 155, 159 (1997)] . Even if the district has previously allowed rental of school facilities to motion picture studios solely for the purpose of enhancing revenues, thus not acting with the purpose of providing a public forum for expressive activity, the district may deny permission to film certain movies based solely on content so long as the district's actions are reasonably related to legitimate pedagogical concerns [80 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 155, 169 (1997)] . In addition, a school's administration may constitutionally limit access to outsiders, regardless of their message or purpose, to prevent disruption [see Reeves v. Rocklin Unified School Dist. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 652, 660-666, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 213 (high school administration could deny access to school by members of group wishing to distribute anti-abortion, pro-abstinence literature to students before classes)].

[b] Equal Access Act

It is unlawful for any public secondary school that receives federal financial assistance and that has a limited open forum to deny equal access or a fair opportunity to, or to discriminate against, any students who wish to conduct a meeting within that limited open forum on the basis of the religious, political, philosophical, or other content of the speech at such meetings [20 U.S.C. § 4071(a) (Equal Access Act)]. A school has a limited open forum if it grants an offering to or opportunity for one or more non-curriculum-related student groups to meet on school premises during noninstructional time [20 U.S.C. § 4071(b)]. The meaning of "limited open forum" under the Act is not the same as the doctrine of "limited public forum," which is a judicially created concept used in the constitutional analysis of free speech cases [Westside Community Schools v. Mergens (1990) 496 U.S. 226, 242-243, 110 S. Ct. 2356, 110 L. Ed. 2d 191] .

The Act sets forth certain "triggers" for its applicability. It applies only if the school in question satisfies each of the following [Prince v. Jacoby (9th Cir. 2002) 303 F.3d 1074, 1079] :

- The school is a public secondary school;
- The school receives federal funding; and
- The school has established a "limited open forum" by allowing other "noncurriculum" groups to meet on school premises.

Once it is established that a secondary school receives federal funds and has created a limited open forum, a student organization denied access must demonstrate a denial of equal access, or fair opportunity, or discrimination based on the content of the speech at its meetings to prevail [Truth v. Grohe (9th Cir. 2007) 499 F.3d 999, 1009-1012 (no violation where religious club denied access because of discriminatory membership criteria rather than content of speech at meetings)].

A "noncurriculum related" group is one that does not directly relate to the body of courses offered by the school. A student group directly relates to the school's curriculum if the subject matter of the group is actually taught or will soon be taught in a regularly offered course; if the subject matter of the group concerns the body of courses as a whole; if participation in the group is required for a particular course; or if participation in the group results in academic credit [Westside Community Schools v. Mergens (1990) 496 U.S. 226, 239-240, 110 S. Ct. 2356, 110 L. Ed. 2d 191] .

Schools are deemed to offer a fair opportunity to students who wish to conduct a meeting within a limited open forum if the school uniformly provides all of the following [20 U.S.C. § 4071(c)]:

- The meeting is voluntary and student initiated.
- There is no sponsorship of the meeting by the school, the government, or its agents or employees.
- Employees or agents of the school or government are present at religious meetings only in a nonparticipatory capacity.
- The meeting does not materially and substantially interfere with the orderly conduct of educational activities within the school.
- Nonschool persons may not direct, conduct, control, or regularly attend activities of the student groups.

For further discussion of the use of school facilities for religious purposes, see § 513.35.

[4] Dress and Appearance

If there is empirical evidence that an aspect of a student's dress or appearance has a disruptive effect within a school, a governing body may prohibit it. However, any dress code or policy must not be so vague and standardless that it leaves uncertainty as to the conduct it prohibits or lacks legally fixed standards as to what is prohibited and what is not [Myers v. Arcata etc. School Dist. (1969) 269 Cal App. 2d 549, 558-560, 75 Cal. Rptr. 68] . Under this standard, a policy prohibiting students from having beards has been upheld [see Akin v. Board of Education (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 161, 169] , but a policy prohibiting "extreme" hairstyles has been rejected for vagueness [see Myers v. Arcata etc. School Dist. (1969) 269 Cal App. 2d 549, 559-561, 75 Cal. Rptr. 68] .

The wearing of buttons, badges, and other insignia is expressly protected by statute in California [Educ. Code § 48907(a); see Tinker v. Des Moines Independent Community School Dist. (1969) 393 U.S. 503, 506-513, 89 S. Ct. 733, 21 L. Ed. 2d 731 (U.S. Const., amend. I, protects student's right to wear armband as political statement)]. This statutory right appears to be subject to the qualification that the item not be obscene or libelous [see Educ. Code § 48907(a); compare Bethel School Dist. No. 403 v. Fraser (1986) 478 U.S. 675, 682, 106 S. Ct. 3159, 92 L. Ed. 2d 549 (dicta suggesting that students do not have constitutional right to wear clothing bearing obscenity), with Cohen v. California (1971) 403 U.S. 15, 22-26, 91 S. Ct. 1780, 29 L. Ed. 2d 284 (adult may not be prohibited from wearing clothing bearing obscenity)]. The right may also be subject to the limitation that "material" that so incites students as to create a clear and present danger of the commission of unlawful acts on school premises or the violation of lawful school regulations or the substantial disruption of the orderly operation of the school is prohibited [see Educ. Code § 48907(a)]. It is not clear whether buttons, badges, and other insignia may be such "material."

The governing board of a school district may adopt or rescind a reasonable dress code policy requiring pupils to wear a schoolwide uniform or prohibiting pupils from wearing "gang-related apparel" if the governing board of the school district approves a plan that may be initiated by an individual school's principal, staff, and parents and determines that the policy is necessary for the health and safety of the school environment. Individual schools may include the policy as part of its school safety plan under Educ. Code § 32281 [Educ. Code § 35183(b)]. A dress code policy requiring pupils to wear a uniform cannot be implemented with less than six months' notice to parents and the availability of resources to assist economically disadvantaged pupils [Educ. Code § 35183(d)]. The governing board must also provide a method whereby parents can choose not to have their children comply with a school uniform policy [Educ. Code § 35183(e)]. Any adopted policy must include a provision that no pupil will be penalized academically or otherwise discriminated against or denied attendance if the pupil's parents choose not to have the pupil comply with the school uniform policy [Educ. Code § 35183(f)]. Any policy may not preclude pupils participating in a nationally recognized youth organization from wearing organization uniforms on days the organization has a scheduled meeting [Educ. Code § 35183(g)]. School sites must allow articles of sun-protective clothing for outdoor use during the school day, including, but not limited to, hats. Each schoolsite may set a policy related to the type of sun-protective clothing pupils will be allowed to use outdoors, and specific clothing and hats determined by the district or schoolsite to be gang-related or inappropriate apparel may be prohibited by the dress code policy [Educ. Code § 35183.5(a)]. Each schoolsite must allow pupils the use of sunscreen during the school day without a physician's note or prescription and may set a policy related to the use of sunscreen by pupils during the school day [Educ. Code § 35183.5(b)].

A mandatory dress policy, sometimes referred to as a school uniform policy, adopted by a public school in an effort to focus student attention and reduce conflict can survive constitutional scrutiny. For example, a policy prohibiting students from displaying any printed messages on their clothing save for the school logo may not necessarily unconstitutionally restrict students' rights to engage in pure speech while in school, unconstitutionally restrict students' rights to engage in expressive conduct, or require students to unconstitutionally engage in compelled speech, so long as the policies are viewpoint- and content-neutral. Unless they restrict speech on the basis of content, school uniform policies will implicate the First Amendment only insofar as they place content-neutral restrictions on students' pure speech and place incidental restrictions on students' expressive conduct, and the appropriate level of scrutiny is thus intermediate scrutiny. Thus, if a school district's school uniform policies advance important government interests unrelated to the suppression of free speech in ways that effect as minimal a restriction on students' free expression as possible, the policies should be upheld [Jacobs v. Clark County Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 2008) 526 F.3d 419, 427-435].

[5] Official Student Publications and Activities

Under U.S. Const., amend. I, there is a fundamental difference between the toleration and the affirmative promotion of student expression [Hazelwood School District v. Kuhlmeier (1988) 484 U.S. 260, 270-271, 108 S. Ct. 562, 98 L. Ed. 2d 592] . The latter question concerns educators' authority over school-sponsored publications and other expressive activities that may reasonably be perceived as bearing the imprimatur of the school. Educators are entitled to exercise greater control over this second form of student expression. They are entitled to exercise editorial control over the style and content of school-sponsored expressive activities as long as their actions are reasonably related to legitimate pedagogical concerns [Hazelwood School District v. Kuhlmeier (1988) 484 U.S. 260, 273, 108 S. Ct. 562, 98 L. Ed. 2d 592] .

Under California statute, students are entitled to freedom of the press, including, subject to certain limitations, the right of freedom of expression in official publications, whether or not the publications are supported financially by the school [Educ. Code § 48907(a)]. Official school publications are material produced by students in journalism, newspaper, yearbook, or writing classes and distributed to the student body, either free or for a fee [Educ. Code § 48907(e)].

Student expression in official publications that is obscene or libelous is prohibited. Material that so incites students as to create a clear and present danger of the commission of unlawful acts on school premises, the violation of lawful school regulations, or the substantial disruption of the orderly operation of the school is also prohibited [Educ. Code § 48907(e); see Smith v. Novato Unif. School Dist. (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 1439, 1454-1459, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 508 (controversial student editorial on immigration was protected speech under Educ. Code § 48907 because student author did not intend to cause disruption of school)].

Student editors of official school publications are responsible for assigning and editing the news, editorial, and feature content of their publications, subject to these limitations. However, it is the responsibility of a faculty adviser within a school to supervise the production of the student staff, to maintain professional standards of English and journalism, and to enforce the statutory limitations on student expression [Educ. Code § 48907(c)]. There may be no prior restraint of material prepared for official school publications other than material that violates the statutory standards. School officials have the burden of showing justification without undue delay prior to any limitation of student expression [Educ. Code § 48907(d)].

The right of a school district to control the content of school-sponsored publications is more limited under the California statute than under U.S. Const., amend. I. Under U.S. Const., amend. I, the district need show only a "legitimate pedagogical concern" [see Hazelwood School District v. Kuhlmeier (1988) 484 U.S. 260, 273, 108 S. Ct. 562, 98 L. Ed. 2d 592] . Under California law, editorial control is vested in student editors alone, subject to prohibitions on material that falls into one of the narrowly drawn statutory categories [Leeb v. DeLong (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 47, 54, 243 Cal. Rptr. 494 ; see Educ. Code § 48907(e)].

The limitations in the California statute have been held to meet the standards of the free-press rights set forth in Cal. Const., art. I, § 2, at least to the extent that they are designed to protect a school district from potential tort liability. However, the terms "libelous" and "slanderous" in the statute must be narrowly construed to take applicable privileges and rules concerning public figures into account. Any decision to impose prior restraint for potential defamation must, at a minimum, be based on a good faith and objectively rational determination of the probable effect of the challenged material, that is, that it contains a false statement (or one that cannot be proved to be true) that is likely to harm the reputation of another or to hold that person up to shame, ridicule, or humiliation. It is not enough that a lawsuit is threatened, because freedom of the press may not hinge on the subjective pique of an offended prospective plaintiff. There must be a clear chance of prevailing in a tort action against the school district [Leeb v. DeLong (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 47, 60-62, 243 Cal. Rptr. 494] .

[6] Underground Publications

The United States Supreme Court has not directly addressed the scope of First Amendment protection for non-school-sponsored or "underground" publications disseminated on public school premises [cf. Papish v. University of Missouri (1973) 410 U.S. 667, 93 S. Ct. 1197, 35 L. Ed. 2d 618 (finding First Amendment protection for contents of underground newspaper disseminated on university campus)]. However, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has held that student distribution of non-school-sponsored material cannot be subjected to regulation on the basis of undifferentiated fears of possible disturbances or embarrassment to school officials. The court struck down a policy of requiring prior submission for approval of such material as overbroad and in violation of First Amendment rights. The holding was limited to attempts to control content and does not prohibit reasonable time, place, and manner regulation of distribution [Burch v. Barker (9th Cir. 1988) 861 F.2d 1149, 1159] .

The California Supreme Court construed a substantially similar former state statute as not permitting any form of prior restraint over non-school-sponsored publications [Bright v. Los Angeles Unified School Dist. (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 450, 465-466, 134 Cal. Rptr. 639, 556 P.2d 1090 ; see former Educ. Code § 48916]. In dicta in a footnote, one California appellate court stated that a school district may not ban privately produced student publications under Educ. Code § 48907 [Leeb v. DeLong (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 47, 57 n.6, 243 Cal. Rptr. 494] .

Educ. Code § 48907 protects the right of students to distribute printed materials or petitions, but this right could be construed as subject to the same limitations as apply to official school publications. One court has held that the distribution on school property of materials advertising the existence and meeting time of a religious study group is in violation of constitutional provisions prohibiting the establishment of religion [Perumal v. Saddleback Valley Unified School Dist. (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 64, 68-75, 243 Cal. Rptr. 545 ; see U.S. Const., amend. I; Cal. Const., art. I, §§ 4, 24, art. XVI, § 5; see also § 513.35].

[7] School Library and Instructional Materials

The United States Supreme Court has yet to reach a majority opinion as to the scope of First Amendment protection for materials in a school library. In 1982, four justices essentially took the position that the selection of materials for a school library was a matter to be left wholly to the discretion of school officials and was not subject to federal judicial review [Board of Education v. Pico (1982) 457 U.S. 853, 885-897, 102 S. Ct. 2799, 73 L. Ed. 2d 435 (opinions of Burger, ch. J., Powell, J., Rehnquist, J., and O'Connor, J.)]. Five justices accepted the right of the federal judiciary to review the acts of school officials in removing library books for First Amendment violations, but were unable to agree on the applicable standards that courts should employ in review [Board of Education v. Pico (1982) 457 U.S. 853, 855-884, 102 S. Ct. 2799, 73 L. Ed. 2d 435 (opinions of Brennan, J., joined by Marshall, J., Stevens, J., and in part by Blackman, J.; Blackman, J.; and White, J.)]. At least four justices were of the opinion that local school boards have a substantial legitimate role to play in the determination of school library content, but may not remove books simply because they dislike the ideas contained in the books. These justices were of the opinion that school boards could remove vulgar books and books that were "educationally unsuitable." They also rejected any First Amendment protection for the decision as to what books to place in the library in the first instance, as opposed to the removal of books already in the library [Board of Education v. Pico (1982) 457 U.S. 853, 872-875, 102 S. Ct. 2799, 73 L. Ed. 2d 435 (opinion of Brennan, J., joined by Marshall, J., Stevens, J., and Blackman, J.)]. The fifth justice stated only that the case should be remanded for trial on the issue of the reason for the board's removal of the books and refused to express an opinion as to the scope of First Amendment protection [Board of Education v. Pico (1982) 457 U.S. 853, 883-884, 102 S. Ct. 2799, 73 L. Ed. 2d 435 (opinion of White, J.)].

The Ninth Circuit has held that courts may not ban books or other literary works from school curricula on the basis of their content, even when the works are accused of being racist in whole or in part [Monteiro v. Tempe Union High School District (9th Cir. 1998) 158 F.3d 1022, 1028-1032 (excluding from holding and analysis educational material subject to prohibitions of religion clauses of U.S. Const., Amend. I)]. Ruling on whether a parent's complaint seeking removal of allegedly racially discriminatory books from a high school's mandatory curriculum stated a cause of action under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 based on the Equal Protection Clause of the United States Constitution, the court found that attaching civil liability on the basis of the assignment of a book and requiring removal of literary works from the classroom, would severely restrict a student's right to receive material that the school board or other educational authority determines to be of legitimate educational value, and that when a school board identifies information that it believes to be a useful part of a student's education, the student has the right to receive the information [Monteiro v. Tempe Union High School District (9th Cir. 1998) 158 F.3d 1022, 1028-1029 (complaint sought to bar assignment of The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn by Mark Twain and A Rose for Emily by William Faulkner based on use of word "nigger" as racially discriminatory and encouraging racial discrimination and harassment of African-American students)]. Allowing the complaint to go forward would inevitably lead many school districts to "buy their peace" by avoiding the use of books or other materials that express messages or simply use terms that could be argued to cause harm to a group of students [Monteiro v. Tempe Union High School District (9th Cir. 1998) 158 F.3d 1022, 1029] , and a school board attempting to remove books from its curriculum on the ground that the works might offend would likely be vulnerable to First Amendment actions brought by students wishing to study those books, and possibly teachers, as well [Monteiro v. Tempe Union High School District (9th Cir. 1998) 158 F.3d 1022, 1030] . Important countervailing considerations that (1) books and words can hurt, particularly racist epithets; (2) some of the most lauded works of literature convey, explicitly or more subtly, messages of racism and sexism, or other ideas that if accepted blindly would serve to maintain or promote the invidious inequalities that exist in our world today, the younger a person is, the more likely it is that those messages will help form that person's thinking, and the feelings of minority students, especially younger ones, are extremely vulnerable when it comes to books that are racist or have racist overtones; and (3) American society has all too often failed to afford its African-American citizens the equal treatment that the Fourteenth Amendment requires, particularly in the area of public education, do not outweigh the First Amendment considerations [Monteiro v. Tempe Union High School District (9th Cir. 1998) 158 F.3d 1022, 1031-1032] .

One California court has accepted the relevance of motive in a case involving removal of certain materials from the school curriculum. The court held that curriculum decisions will survive a First Amendment challenge as long as the decision is reasonably related to legitimate educational concerns. However, school officials are precluded from imposing a pall of orthodoxy on classroom instruction, which implicates the state in the propagation of a particular religious or ideological viewpoint. Therefore, a curriculum decision may not be motivated by an intent to prescribe what shall be orthodox in politics, nationalism, religion, or other matters of opinion [McCarthy v. Fletcher (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 130, 140, 146, 254 Cal. Rptr. 714] .

Whether school library and instructional materials are protected by the California Constitution or statute appears to have not yet been addressed by any California appellate court [see Cal. Const., art. I, § 2; Educ. Code § 48907]. By statute, the governing board of any school district may exclude from schools and school libraries, all books, publications, or papers of a sectarian, partisan, or denominational character [Educ. Code § 18111; see § 513.35].

Once it is established that a secondary school receives federal funds and has created a limited open forum, a student organization denied access must demonstrate a denial of equal access, or fair opportunity, or discrimination based on the content of the speech at its meetings to prevail [Truth v. Grohe (9th Cir. 2007) 499 F.3d 999, 1009-1012 (no violation where religious club denied access because of discriminatory membership criteria rather than content of speech at meetings)].

[8] Associational Rights

Students enjoy some degree of First Amendment protection for associating with others and against "forced-inclusion,"

i.e., against being forced to associate with those with whom students may not wish to associate [see Truth v. Grohe (9th Cir. 2007) 499 F.3d 999, 1012-1015 (religious club failed to show that denial of recognition based on its general membership restrictions to those professing belief burdened First Amendment interest, which was threshold inquiry)].

Students have some rights to associate with each other. However, associational activities need not be tolerated when they infringe reasonable campus rules, interrupt classes, or substantially interfere with the opportunity of other students to obtain an education [Healy v. James (1972) 408 U.S. 169, 181-182, 184, 189, 92 S. Ct. 2338, 33 L. Ed. 2d 266 (denial of official recognition to group of college students desiring to form local chapter of Students for a Democratic Society implicated cognizable First Amendment associational interest, but if district court on remand found there was evidence to support conclusion that local chapter posed substantial threat of material disruption, decision to deny official recognition should be affirmed)].

Incidental infringements on students' associational rights may be proper, so long as the school's reason for denying official recognition is directed at an organization's activities, rather than its philosophy [Healy v. James (1972) 408 U.S. 169, 188, 92 S. Ct. 2338, 33 L. Ed. 2d 266] . To determine whether a campus rule that incidentally burdens expressive rights is permissible under the First Amendment, courts apply a four-part test [Healy v. James (1972) 408 U.S. 169, 189 n.20, 92 S. Ct. 2338, 33 L. Ed. 2d 266 ; United States v. O'Brien (1968) 391 U.S. 367, 377, 88 S. Ct. 1673, 20 L. Ed. 2d 672 (1968)] :

- The rule is within the constitutional power of the Government.
- The rule furthers an important or substantial governmental interest.
- The governmental interest is unrelated to the suppression of free expression.
- The incidental restriction on alleged First Amendment freedoms is no greater than is essential to the furtherance of that interest.

Thus, for example, a high school club failed to establish that its policy of excluding persons who did not share Christian values from its general membership had any expressive content, thus also failing to show the required incidental infringement of a First Amendment interest [see Truth v. Grohe (9th Cir. 2007) 499 F.3d 999, 1013] .

Students also enjoy some rights against forced inclusion, i.e., a regulation imposing a Hobson's choice on a student organization: include unwanted members or disband [Truth v. Grohe (9th Cir. 2007) 499 F.3d 999, 1013-1015 ; see BSA v. Dale (2000) 530 U.S. 640, 653, 120 S. Ct. 2446, 147 L. Ed. 2d 554 (state non-discrimination law requiring organization to admit gay-rights activist violated First Amendment because it forced organization to send message conflicting with sincerely held views of organization); California Democratic Party v. Jones (2000) 530 U.S. 567, 577, 120 S. Ct. 2402, 147 L. Ed. 2d 502 (state primary law violated First Amendment because it forced political parties to associate with, have their nominees and their positions determined by, those who, at best, refused to affiliate with party, and, at worst, expressly affiliated with rival); Hurley v. Irish-American Gay, Lesbian and Bisexual Group of Boston (1995) 515 U.S. 557, 559, 575, 115 S. Ct. 2338, 132 L. Ed. 2d 487 (state law violated First Amendment because it required parade organizers to allow gay, lesbian, and bisexual contingent to march in parade); Democratic Party of the United States v. Wisconsin ex rel. La Follette (1981) 450 U.S. 107, 125-126, 101 S. Ct. 1010, 67 L. Ed. 2d 82 (overturning on First Amendment grounds state law effectively requiring national political party, in violation of party's rules, to allow non-party members to participate in selection of party's presidential nominee); cf. Rumsfeld v. Forum for Academic and Institutional Rights, Inc. (2006) 547 U.S. 47, 126 S. Ct. 1297, 1312, 164 L. Ed. 2d 156 (upholding Solomon Amendment against challenge on ground military recruiters required to be admitted to law schools come onto campus for limited purpose of trying to hire students, not become members of school's expressive association); Roberts v. United States Jaycees (1984) 468 U.S. 609, 627-629, 104 S. Ct. 3244, 82 L. Ed. 2d 462 (upholding against First Amendment challenge state law requiring national organization to admit women as voting members in part because organization already invited women to share group's views and philosophy and to participate in much of its training and community activities)]. In forced-inclusion scenarios, courts apply strict scrutiny, asking whether the organization's freedom of expressive association could be overridden by regulations adopted to serve compelling state interests, unrelated to the suppression of ideas, that cannot be achieved through means significantly less restrictive of associational freedoms [Truth v. Grohe (9th Cir. 2007) 499 F.3d 999, 1014] .

45-513 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 513.35

§ 513.35 Freedom of Religion

[1] Constitutional Protections and Limitations

Both the Federal and California Constitutions prohibit any law respecting an establishment of religion [U.S. Const., amend. I; Cal. Const., art. I, § 4]. The California Constitution also specifically forbids the appropriation or granting of public funds or property for the aid or support of any religious creed, church, or sectarian purpose [Cal. Const., art. XVI, § 5; but see Cal. Const., art. XVI, § 3 (permitting public aid to private institutions for certain limited purposes)]. Furthermore, no public money may be appropriated for the support of any sectarian or denominational school or of any school not under the exclusive control of the officers of the public schools, and no sectarian or denominational doctrine may be taught in the public schools of the state [Cal. Const., art. IX, § 8].

The United States Supreme Court's construction of the First Amendment establishment clause has, as admitted by Justice White, "sacrificed clarity and predictability for flexibility" [Committee for Public Education v. Regan (1980) 444 U.S. 646, 662, 100 S. Ct. 840, 63 L. Ed. 2d 94] . Cases are analyzed in terms of a three-part test. State action violates the establishment clause if it fails to satisfy any of these conditions: (1) it must have a secular purpose; (2) it must neither advance nor inhibit religion; and (3) it must not foster an excessive governmental entanglement with religion [Lemon v. Kurtzman (1971) 403 U.S. 602, 612-613, 91 S. Ct. 2105, 29 L. Ed. 2d 745] .

Impermissible state action designed to promote religion has been found in the following cases [see Perumal v. Saddleback Valley Unified School Dist. (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 64, 83 n.13, 243 Cal. Rptr. 545] :

- A statutory requirement that "creation science" be taught in conjunction with the teaching of evolution [Edwards v. Aguillard (1987) 482 U.S. 578, 107 S. Ct. 2573, 96 L. Ed. 2d 510] .

- A moment of silence in public schools for meditation or voluntary prayer [Wallace v. Jaffree (1985) 472 U.S. 38, 105 S. Ct. 2479, 86 L. Ed. 2d 29] .

- The required posting of the Ten Commandments in public classrooms [Stone v. Graham (1980)

- A state prohibition on the teaching of evolution [Epperson v. Arkansas (1968) 393 U.S. 97, 89 S. Ct. 266, 21 L. Ed. 2d 228] .

- A requirement that each school day begin with bible reading [Abington School Dist. v. Schempp (1963) 374 U.S. 203, 83 S. Ct. 1560, 10 L. Ed. 2d 844] .

- The recital of prayer in the classroom [Engel v. Vitale (1962) 370 U.S. 421, 82 S. Ct. 1261, 8 L. Ed. 2d 601] .

- Prayer at graduation ceremonies [Lee v. Weisman (1992) 505 U.S. 577, 112 S. Ct. 2649, 120 L. Ed. 2d 467 ; see Sands v. Morongo Unified School Dist. (1991) 53 Cal. 3d 863, 884, 918, 281 Cal. Rptr. 34, 809 P.2d 809 (also construing federal establishment clause); Bennett v. Livermore Unified School Dist. (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 1012, 1016-1017, 238 Cal. Rptr. 819 (same result under state constitution)].

- The use of religious school teachers in the public school curriculum [McCollum v. Board of Education (1948) 333 U.S. 203, 68 S. Ct. 461, 92 L. Ed. 649] .

The following cases have rejected establishment clause challenges to school activities that allegedly promoted religion:

- A statute authorizing public schools to lend textbooks free of charge to parochial school students [Board of Education v. Allen (1968) 392 U.S. 236, 88 S. Ct. 1923, 20 L. Ed. 2d 1060 ; but see California Teachers Assn. v. Riles (1981) 29 Cal. 3d 794, 812, 176 Cal. Rptr. 300, 632 P.2d 953 (holding that practice violates California Constitution)].

- Providing release time from school to attend religious instruction or services [Zorach v. Clauson (1952) 343 U.S. 306, 72 S. Ct. 679, 96 L. Ed. 954 ; see Educ. Code § 46014 (release time authorized in California)].

- Expending public funds for the transportation of students to parochial schools [Everson v. Board of Education (1947) 330 U.S. 1, 67 S. Ct. 504, 91 L. Ed. 711 ; see Bowker v. Baker (1956) 73 Cal. App. 2d 653, 666-667 (reaching same result under California Constitution)].

- Distribution of federal funds to state and local governments as part of a longstanding school aid program known as Chapter 2, which in turn lend educational materials and equipment to public and private schools, many of which are religiously affiliated [Mitchell v. Helms (2000) 530 U.S. 793, 120 S. Ct. 2530, 2540, 147 L. Ed. 2d 660] .

- A state statute and school district policy requiring teacher-led recitation of the Pledge of Allegiance by students in public schools, but not compelling students to participate, and the Pledge itself [Newdow v. Rio Linda Union Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 2010) 597 F.3d 1007, 1017-1042] .

The right to conduct religious activities on school property is more restricted under the California Constitution than under U.S. Const., amend. I [Perumal v. Saddleback Valley Unified School Dist. (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 64, 68, 243 Cal. Rptr. 545 ; see Cal. Const. art. I, §§ 4, 24, art. XVI, § 5]. Public schools may engage in no official involvement, whatever its form, that has the direct, immediate, and substantial effect of promoting religious purposes [California Educational Facilities Authority v. Priest (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 593, 605 n.12, 116 Cal. Rptr. 361, 526 P.2d 513] .

This California constitutional limitation has been held to prohibit the use of school property for meetings by a voluntary bible study club [see Johnson v. Huntington Beach Union High Sch. Dist. (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 1, 16, 137 Cal. Rptr. 43 , cert. denied, 434 U.S. 877] . It has also been extended to apparently prohibit lunchtime or recess congregations of students to practice religion, at least in a situation in which the students identify themselves as a group and disseminate advertising on school property of their existence and meeting times [Perumal v. Saddleback Valley Unified School Dist. (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 64, 68-75, 243 Cal. Rptr. 545] . In so holding, the court did not discuss the statutory right of students to distribute printed materials as an element of their right to freedom of expression, which suggests that the scope of this right is constitutionally limited with regard to religious materials [see Educ. Code § 48907 (discussed in § 513.34[6]); see also Perumal v. Saddleback Valley Unified School Dist. (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 64, 78-82, 243 Cal. Rptr. 545 (dissenting opinion analyzing as freedom-of-expression case rather than simply as establishment-of-religion case)].

[2] Federal Equal Access Act

Schools may be required, under the federal Equal Access Act (EAA) [20 U.S.C. §§ 4071-4074], to permit religious groups to use school premises for purposes that were previously found to violate the California Constitution. The EAA provides that a public secondary school that receives federal assistance and has a "limited open forum" may not deny equal access to the forum to students who wish to conduct religious meetings [20 U.S.C. § 4071(a)]. The provisions of the EAA are set forth in § 513.34[3]. The United States Supreme Court, without a majority opinion on the point, held that the EAA does not violate the establishment clause of the United States Constitution [Westside Community Schools v. Mergens (1990) 496 U.S. 226, 247-253, 260-262, 263-269, 110 S. Ct. 2356, 110 L. Ed. 2d 191] .

The EAA expressly limits participation by school officials at religious meetings, which must be held during noninstructional time [20 U.S.C. § 4071(b), (c)(2), (3)]. The EAA therefore avoids the problems of the students' emulation of teachers as role models and mandatory attendance requirements. The school bears the responsibility for taking whatever further steps are necessary to make clear to all students that recognition of a religious club does not reflect endorsement of the views of the club's participants [see Westside Community Schools v. Mergens (1990) 496 U.S. 226, 250, 269, 110 S. Ct. 2356, 110 L. Ed. 2d 191] .

Under the supremacy clause of the United States Constitution, a right created by a federal statute is supreme to a right under a state constitution [see U.S. Const., art. VI, cl. 2; Garnett v. Renton School Dist. No. 403 (9th Cir. 1993) 987 F.2d 641, 644-646 (EAA preempts Washington state constitutional law contrary to it) , cert. denied, 510 U.S. 819] . Thus, the holdings of Johnson v. Huntington Beach Union High Sch. Dist. (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 1, 137 Cal. Rptr. 43 , and Perumal v. Saddleback Valley Unified School Dist. (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 64, 243 Cal. Rptr. 545 , prohibiting the use of school premises by religious groups, may be reversed by the United States Supreme Court's construction of the EAA. However, nothing in the EAA may be construed to authorize a public entity to influence the form or content of any prayer or other religious activity or to require any person to participate in prayer or other religious activity [20 U.S.C. § 4071(d)(1), (2)].

Nothing in the Education Code may be construed to prevent, or exclude from the public schools, references to religion or references to or the use of religious literature, dance, music, theater, and visual arts or other things having a religious significance when the references or uses do not constitute instruction in religious principles or aid to any religious sect, church, creed, or sectarian purpose, and when the references or uses are incidental to or illustrative of matters properly included in the course of study [Educ. Code § 51511].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Student Rights and Responsibilities

45-513 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 513.36

§ 513.36 Sexual Harassment

[1] Liability Under Title IX

Title IX of the Education Amendments, 20 U.S.C. § 1681 et seq., provides that no person may be excluded, on the basis of sex, from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any education program or activity receiving federal financial assistance [20 U.S.C. § 1681(a); see Davis v. Monroe County Board of Education (1999) 526 U.S. 629, 119 S. Ct. 1661, 143 L. Ed. 2d 839] . There is a private right of action under Title IX, and money damages are available in these suits. Actionable discrimination under Title IX includes sexual harassment [Gebser v. Lago Vista Independent School District (1998) 524 U.S. 274, 281, 118 S. Ct. 1989, 141 L. Ed. 2d 277 ; Franklin v. Gwinnett County Public Schools (1992) 503 U.S. 60, 74-75, 112 S. Ct. 1028, 117 L. Ed. 2d 208 ; see Davis v. Monroe County Board of Education (1999) 526 U.S. 629, 119 S. Ct. 1661, 143 L. Ed. 2d 839] .

A recipient of federal funds may be liable in damages under Title IX only for its own misconduct, and that conduct must exclude participation in, deny the benefits of, or subject a person to discrimination under a program or an activity. Damages liability under Title IX is coextensive with the government's enforcement power against the funding recipient and does not extend to parties outside the scope of the enforcement power [Davis v. Monroe County Board of Education (1999) 526 U.S. 629, 119 S. Ct. 1661, 143 L. Ed. 2d 839] . For the liability of a school district or board of education for the harassment of students by teachers or by other students, see §§ 513.39[2], and § 513.36[3], respectively.

Qualified immunity is not a defense to school officials when the duty imposed on school officials by Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, 20 U.S.C. § 1681 et seq., to prevent sexual harassment of students was clearly established at the time the harassment occurred [Oona, R.S. v. McCaffrey (9th Cir. 1998) 143 F.3d 473 , cert. denied, 526 U.S. 1154 (1999) (no qualified immunity for school officials for failure to remedy sexual harassment both as inappropriate conduct by student teacher and as hostile environment created by other students, where United States Supreme Court had decided Franklin v. Gwinnett County Public Schools, recognizing sexual harassment as actionable discrimination under Title IX before conduct occurred)].

[2] By Teacher

In Gebser v. Lago Vista Independent School Dist. (1998) 524 U.S. 274, 118 S. Ct. 1989, 141 L. Ed. 2d 277 , the United States Supreme Court held that Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, 20 U.S.C. § 1681, unquestionably places on funding recipient's the duty not to permit teacher-student harassment in schools. In determining the standard under which to determine liability, however, the Court held that agency principles may not be used to impute liability under Title IX to a recipient of federal education funds such as a school district for the misconduct of its teachers. Further, a school district will not be liable under Title IX for what amounts to a negligence standard, i.e. for a failure to react to harassment of which it knew or should have known. The recipient of federal education funds may only be liable in damages under Title IX when it is deliberately indifferent to known acts of sexual harassment by a teacher; liability arises from an official decision by the recipient not to remedy a violation. The Court imposed this high standard in Gebser to eliminate any risk that the funding recipient would be found liable in damages for its employees' independent actions, rather than for its own official decisions [Davis v. Monroe County Board of Education (1999) 526 U.S. 629, 119 S. Ct. 1661, 143 L. Ed. 2d 839] .

For a form complaint alleging sexual harassment by a teacher or fellow student in violation of Title IX, see § 513.92.

[3] By Other Student

In Davis v. Monroe County Board of Education (1999) 526 U.S. 629, 119 S. Ct. 1661, 143 L. Ed. 2d 839 , the United States Supreme Court held that under Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, 20 U.S.C. § 1681 et seq., a private right of action may lie against a recipient of Title IX funding, such as a school board, in cases of "student-on-student" harassment. However, liability will lie only under the following circumstances [Davis v. Monroe County Board of Education (1999) 526 U.S. 629, 650, 119 S. Ct. 1661, 143 L. Ed. 2d. 839] :

- The funding recipient acts with deliberate indifference to known acts of harassment in its programs or activities;

- The harasser is under the school's disciplinary authority; and

- The harassment is so severe, pervasive, and objectively offensive that it effectively bars the victim's access to an educational opportunity or benefit.

In Davis, the Court applied the standard of deliberate indifference to known acts of harassment it had previously articulated in Gebser v. Lago Vista Independent School Dist (1998) 524 U.S. 274, 118 S. Ct. 1989, 141 L. Ed. 2d 277 , for cases based on sexual harassment of a student by a teacher [see § 513.36[2]]. Liability for damages is limited to circumstances in which the recipient exercises substantial control over both the harasser and the context in which the known harassment occurs, such as when the misconduct occurs during school hours and on school grounds, as in the facts alleged in Davis [Davis v. Monroe County Board of Education (1999) 526 U.S. 629, 645, 119 S. Ct. 1661, 143 L. Ed. 2d 839] .

The funding recipient's response to the harassment or the lack of a response must be clearly unreasonable in light of the known circumstances. The response need not necessarily be expulsion of every student accused of sexual misconduct in all circumstances [Davis v. Monroe County Board of Education (1999) 526 U.S. 629, 648-650, 119 S. Ct. 1661, 143 L. Ed. 2d 839] .

§ 513.37 Searches of Students

The Fourth Amendment prohibition of unreasonable searches and seizures applies to searches conducted by public school officials [Vernonia School Dist. 47J v. Acton (1995) 515 U.S. 646, 652, 115 S. Ct. 2386, 132 L. Ed. 2d 564 ; New Jersey v. T.L.O. (1985) 469 U.S. 325, 336-337, 105 S. Ct. 733, 83 L. Ed. 2d 720] . The state constitutional prohibition of unreasonable searches and seizures in Cal. Const., art. I, § 13 also applies to public school officials [In re William G. (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 550, 558-561, 221 Cal. Rptr. 118, 709 P.2d 1287] . However, public school students' rights against unreasonable search and seizure are different than elsewhere in that the inquiry into whether the search is reasonable or unreasonable may not disregard schools' custodial and tutelary responsibility for students [Vernonia School Dist. v. Action (1995) 515 U.S. 646, 656, 115 S. Ct. 2386, 132 L. Ed. 2d 564] . Further, the broad authority of school administrators over student behavior, school safety, and the learning environment requires that school officials have the power to stop a minor student to ask questions or conduct an investigation even in the absence of reasonable suspicion, so long as the authority is not exercised in an arbitrary, capricious, or harassing manner [In re Randy G. (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 556, 110 Cal. Rptr. 2d 516, 28 P.3d 239] .

In conducting searches of students, school officials must act reasonably [Vernonia School Dist. 47J v. Acton (1995) 515 U.S. 646, 652-653, 115 S. Ct. 2386, 132 L. Ed. 2d 564 ; New Jersey v. T.L.O. (1985) 469 U.S. 325, 333-342, 105 S. Ct. 733, 83 L. Ed. 2d 720] . The standard for determining reasonableness under both federal and state constitutions is less than probable cause [New Jersey v. T.L.O. (1985) 469 U.S. 325, 333-342, 105 S. Ct. 733, 83 L. Ed. 2d 720 ; In re William G. (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 550, 562, 221 Cal. Rptr. 118, 709 P.2d 1287] . They need not obtain a warrant before searching a student under their authority, since a warrant requirement would unduly interfere with swift and informal disciplinary procedures needed in a school context [Vernonia School Dist. 47J v. Acton (1995) 515 U.S. 646, 653, 115 S. Ct. 2386, 132 L. Ed. 2d 564 ; New Jersey v. T.L.O. (1985) 469 U.S. 325, 340-341, 105 S. Ct. 733, 83 L. Ed. 2d 720 ; In re William G. (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 550, 564-565, 221 Cal. Rptr. 118, 709 P.2d 1287] . A warrantless school search will be justified when school officials have reasonable grounds for suspecting the search will yield evidence the student has violated or is violating either the law or school rules, and when the measures adopted for the search are reasonably related to the objectives of the search and not excessively intrusive in light of the age and sex of the student and the nature of the infraction [New Jersey v. T.L.O. (1985) 469 U.S. 325, 333-342, 105 S. Ct. 733, 83 L. Ed. 2d 720 (search based on individualized suspicion of wrongdoing by student)]. The indignity of a search does not outlaw it, but it does implicate the requirement that the search as actually conducted be reasonably related in scope to the circumstances that justified the interference in the first place [Safford Unified School Dist. v. Redding (2009) -- U.S. --, 129 S. Ct. 2633, 2642, 174 L. Ed. 2d 354 ; see New Jersey v. T.L.O. (1985) 469 U.S. 325, 341, 105 S. Ct. 733, 83 L. Ed. 2d 720] . The scope will be permissible when it is not excessively intrusive in light of the age and sex of the student and the nature of the infraction [Safford Unified School Dist. v. Redding (2009) -- U.S. --, 129 S. Ct. 2633, 2642, 174 L. Ed. 2d 354 (content of suspicion failed to match degree of intrusion)].

A search of any one student need not be based on individualized suspicion if the search is otherwise reasonable [Smith v. McGlothlin (9th Cir. 1997) 119 F.3d 786 (school official who ordered search of group of high school students suspected of smoking near campus that led to discovery of one student's possession of knives entitled to qualified immunity since at time, search was not clearly improper, and, in fact, search without individualized suspicion was proper); see also Vernonia School Dist. 47J v. Acton (1995) 515 U.S. 646, 663-665, 115 S. Ct. 2386, 132 L. Ed. 2d 564 (policy of random urinanalysis of high school students participating in interscholastic athletic programs not violation of Fourth Amendment); People v. Alexander B. (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 1572, 1577-1578, 270 Cal. Rptr. 342 (student search is reasonable when suspicion focused on group of five or six rather than defendant alone)].

A school official ordering or conducting a search of a student may be entitled to qualified immunity in an action brought against the official for violation of the student's rights under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 even if the student's rights are violated by the search if there is reason to question the clarity with which the right was established [Safford Unified School Dist. v. Redding (2009) -- U.S. --, 129 S. Ct. 2633, 2643-2644, 174 L. Ed. 2d 354 ; for discussion of qualified immunity for government officials in § 1983 actions generally, see Ch. 113, Civil Rights: The Post Civil-War Civil Rights Statutes].

The Fourth Amendment also applies to searches and seizures of students at schools by officials other than school officials, such as child protective services caseworkers [see Greene v. Camreta (9th Cir. 2009) 588 F.3d 1011, 1022-1030 (warrantless, in-school interview of suspected child abuse victim was unreasonable seizure violating child's Fourth Amendment rights)]. The general law of search warrants applies to child abuse investigations, so that once the police have initiated a criminal investigation into alleged abuse in the home, responsible officials must provide procedural protections appropriate to the criminal context, including for in-school interviews of the alleged victims, at least where there is direct involvement of law enforcement in an in-school seizure and interrogation of a suspected child abuse victim [Greene v. Camreta (9th Cir. 2009) 588 F.3d 1011, 1030] . Prior to the Ninth Circuit's articulation of this rule, a child protective services officer and a law enforcement officer involved in an in-school seizure and interrogation were entitled to qualified immunity, because Ninth Circuit precedent did not clearly establish that an in-school seizure of a student suspected of being a victim of child sexual abuse could be subject to traditional Fourth Amendment protections [Greene v. Camreta (9th Cir. 2009) 588 F.3d 1011, 1030-1033] .

For a form of complaint for violation of a student's rights by unlawful search and seizure in violation of U.S. Const., amends. IV and XIV, brought against school officials and employees under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, see § 513.94. For detailed coverage of 42 U.S.C. § 1983, including Practice Tips and sample complaints, see Ch. 113, Civil Rights: The Post-Civil War Civil Rights Statutes .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

45-513 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 513.38

§ 513.38 Student Discipline

[1] Authority of Public Schools

Subject to constitutional and statutory limitations, school districts have authority to maintain discipline in the schools and to suspend or expel any pupil for refusing or neglecting to obey school rules and regulations or for other misconduct [Abella v. Riverside Unified School Dist. (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 153, 167, 135 Cal. Rptr. 177 ; see Educ. Code § 35291; see also Educ. Code § 35291.5(a) (school districts required to adopt rules; time and participation requirements)]. Public school teachers have the duty of enforcing school regulations and of holding pupils to strict account for their conduct on the way to and from school, on the playground, and during recess [see Educ. Code §§ 44805, 44807]. All pupils must comply with school regulations and submit to the authority of teachers [Educ. Code § 48908].

Educ. Code § 48900 et seq., governing suspension and expulsion of pupils, also applies to pupils attending the California School for the Blind and the two California Schools for the Deaf, which are referred to as the "state special schools" [Educ. Code § 48927(a)]. Pupils in the state special schools have the same due process procedural protections afforded to pupils in the public school districts of the state [Educ. Code § 48927(c)].

[2] Constitutional Limitations

As noted previously, education at public expense is a fundamental right under the California Constitution [see § 513.31]. Having established a right to public education, the state may not withdraw that right on grounds of misconduct without affording the student due process [Goss v. Lopez (1975) 419 U.S. 565, 574, 95 S. Ct. 729, 42 L. Ed. 2d 725] . Due process requires, at the very minimum, that students threatened with removal from school receive notice of the grounds for their removal and an opportunity to be heard [Abella v. Riverside Unified School Dist. (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 153, 169, 135 Cal. Rptr. 177] . Notice may take a simple form, however, such as the proscription of certain behavior in a school disciplinary rule that sufficiently notifies a student that engaging in that behavior could subject the student to sanctions [Bethel School Dist. No. 403 v. Fraser (1986) 478 U.S. 675, 686, 106 S. Ct. 3159, 92 L. Ed. 2d 549] . The grounds for discipline may not be unconstitutionally vague and standardless [see Abella v. Riverside Unified School Dist. (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 153, 169-170, 135 Cal. Rptr. 177 ; Myers v. Arcata etc. School Dist. (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 549, 559-560, 561, 75 Cal. Rptr. 68] . Generally, however, the requirements of due process are less rigid in the case of student suspension for a limited period of time fixed by law than in the case of student expulsion or indefinite suspension [see Charles S. v. Board of Education (1971) 20 Cal. App. 3d 83, 91, 97 Cal. Rptr. 422 , appeal dismissed, 405 U.S. 1005 (1972)] . For example, two days' suspension does not rise to the level of a penal sanction calling for the full panoply of federal procedural due process protections applicable to a criminal prosecution [Bethel School Dist. No. 403 v. Fraser (1986) 478 U.S. 675, 686, 106 S. Ct. 3159, 92 L. Ed. 2d 549] .

The use of force as part of student discipline short of expulsion or suspension is constitutionally limited by the Fourth Amendment protection against unreasonable search and seizure [Doe v. Haw. Dep't of Educ. (9th Cir. 2003) 334 F.3d 906, 908-909] .

[3] Grounds for Discipline

A pupil may not be suspended from school or recommended for expulsion unless the superintendent or principal of the school in which the pupil is enrolled determines that the pupil has committed one of the following acts [Educ. Code § 48900]:

(a) Caused, attempted to cause, or threatened to cause physical injury to another person, or willfully used force or violence on another person, except in self-defense;

(b) Possessed, sold, or otherwise furnished any firearm, knife, explosive, or other dangerous object unless, in the case of possession of any such object, the pupil had obtained written permission from a certificated school employee that is concurred in by the principal or the designee of the principal;

(c) Unlawfully possessed, used, sold, or otherwise furnished, or been under the influence of, any controlled substance (as listed in Health & Safety Code §§ 11053-11058), alcoholic beverage, or intoxicant of any kind;

(d) Unlawfully offered, arranged, or negotiated to sell any controlled substance listed in Health & Safety Code §§ 11503-11058, an alcoholic beverage, or an intoxicant of any kind, and then sold, delivered, or otherwise furnished to any person another liquid, substance, or material and represented the liquid, substance, or material as a controlled substance, alcoholic beverage, or intoxicant;

(e) Committed or attempted to commit robbery or extortion;

(f) Caused or attempted to cause damage to school property or private property;

(g) Stolen or attempted to steal school property or private property;

(h) Possessed or used tobacco or any products containing tobacco or nicotine products, including, but not limited to, cigarettes, cigars, miniature cigars, clove cigarettes, smokeless tobacco, snuff, chew packets, and betel; however, a pupil is not prohibited from using or possessing his or her own prescription products [see also Educ. Code § 48901 (no smoking or using tobacco or tobacco products by students on school grounds)];

(i) Committed an obscene act or engaged in habitual profanity or vulgarity;

(j) Unlawfully possessed or unlawfully offered, arranged, or negotiated to sell, any drug paraphernalia, as defined in Health & Safety Code § 11014.5;

(k) Disrupted school activities or otherwise willfully defied the valid authority of supervisors, teachers, administrators, school officials, or other school personnel engaged in the performance of their duties;

(l) Knowingly received stolen school property or private property;

(m) Possessed an imitation firearm as defined in Educ. Code § 48900(m);

(n) Committed or attempted to commit a sexual assault as defined in Penal Code §§ 261, 266c, 286, 288, 288a, or 289, or committed a sexual battery as defined in Penal Code § 243.4;

(o) Harassed, threatened, or intimidated a pupil who is a complaining witness or witness in a school disciplinary proceeding for the purpose of either preventing that pupil from being a witness or of retaliating against that pupil for being a witness, or both;

(p) Unlawfully offered, arranged to sell, negotiated to sell, or sold the prescription drug Soma;

(q) Engaged in, or attempted to engage in, hazing as defined in Educ. Code § 48900(q); or

(r) Engaged in an act of bullying, including, but not limited to, bullying committed by means of an electronic act [see Educ. Code § 32261(f), (g)], directed specifically toward a pupil or school personnel.

As used in Educ. Code § 48900, "school property" includes, but is not limited to, electronic files and databases [Educ. Code 48900(u)].

A pupil may not be suspended or expelled for any of the acts enumerated in Educ. Code § 48900 unless the act is related to school activity or school attendance occurring within a school under the jurisdiction of the superintendent or principal or occurring within any other school district [Educ. Code § 48900(s); see Fremont Union High Sch. Dist. v. Santa Clara County Board of Education (Matthew G.) (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 1182, 1185-1188, 286 Cal. Rptr. 915 (expulsion proper if conduct was at school site other than student's own school; construing former Educ. Code § 48900, similar to current Educ. Code § 48900(s))]. A pupil may be suspended or expelled for acts enumerated in Educ. Code § 48900 that are related to school activity or attendance, and that occur at any time, including, but not limited to, any of the following [Educ. Code § 48900(s)]:

- While on school grounds.
- While going to or coming from school.
- During the lunch period whether on or off the campus.
- During, or while going to or coming from, a school sponsored activity.

A pupil who aids or abets, as defined in Penal Code § 31, the infliction or attempted infliction of physical injury to another, may be suspended, but not expelled, except that a pupil adjudged by a juvenile court to have committed, as an aider and abettor, a crime of physical violence in which the victim suffered great bodily injury or serious bodily injury, is subject to recommendation for expulsion [Educ. Code § 48900(t)].

A superintendent or principal may use his or her discretion to provide alternatives to suspension or expulsion, including, but not limited to, counseling and an anger management program, for a pupil subject to discipline under Educ. Code § 48900 [Educ. Code § 48900(v)]. It is the intent of the Legislature that alternatives be imposed against a pupil who is truant, tardy, or otherwise absent from school activities [Educ. Code § 48900(w)].

In addition to the grounds specified under Educ. Code §§ 48900 and 48900.2, a pupil (in grade 4 or higher) may be suspended from school or recommended for expulsion if the superintendent or the principal of the school in which the pupil is enrolled determines that the pupil has committed sexual harassment [Educ. Code § 48900.2; see Educ. Code § 212.5 ("sexual harassment" defined under Education Code); for the liability of a school district or board of education for damages for sexual harassment of one student by another, see § 513.36[3]]. The conduct must be considered by a reasonable person of the same gender as the victim to be sufficiently severe or pervasive to have a negative impact on the individual's academic performance or to create an intimidating, hostile, or offensive educational environment [Educ. Code § 49000.2; see also Educ. Code § 231.5 (requirement that school districts develop and disseminate policy on sexual harassment)].

In addition to the grounds specified in Educ. Code §§ 48900-48900.4, a pupil in grades 4 to 12 may be suspended from school or recommended for expulsion if the superintendent or the principal of the school in which the pupil is enrolled determines that the pupil has caused, attempted to cause, threatened to cause, or participated in an act of, hate violence, as defined in Educ. Code § 233(e) [see Educ. Code § 48900.3 (referring to former Educ. Code § 33032.5(e), though that section was renumbered as Educ. Code § 233 effective January 1, 1999)]. A pupil may also be suspended or recommended for expulsion from school if the superintendent or principal of the school in which the pupil is enrolled determines the pupil intentionally engaged in harassment, threats, or intimidation directed against school district personnel or pupils, that is sufficiently severe or pervasive to have the actual and reasonably expected effect of materially disrupting classwork, creating substantial disorder, and invading the rights of either school personnel or pupils by creating an intimidating or hostile educational environment [Educ. Code § 48900.4]. Pupils in grades 4 or higher may also be suspended from school or recommended for expulsion if the superintendent or principal of the school in which the pupil is enrolled determines the pupil made terroristic threats, as defined in Educ. Code § 48900.7(b), against school officials or school property, or both [Educ. Code § 48900.7(a)].

The grounds listed in Educ. Code § 48900, along with the grounds listed for expulsion in Educ. Code §§ 48900.2, 48900.3, and 48900.4, establish the exclusive grounds for which a student may be suspended or expelled [Educ. Code § 48900; T.H. v. San Diego Unified School Dist. (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1267, 1276, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 532] .

As part of or instead of disciplinary action prescribed by Educ. Code § 48900 et seq., the principal of a school, the principal's designee, the superintendent of schools, or the governing board may require a pupil to perform community service on school grounds or, with written permission of the pupil's parent or guardian, off school grounds, during the pupil's nonschool hours. Community service may include, but is not limited to, work performed in the community or on school grounds in any of the following areas [Educ. Code § 48900.6]:

- Outdoor beautification;
- Community or campus betterment; and
- Teacher, peer, or youth assistance programs.

The community service option, however, does not apply if a pupil has been suspended, pending expulsion, in accordance with Educ. Code § 48915. However, the option does apply if the recommended expulsion is not implemented or is, itself, suspended by stipulation or other administrative action [Educ. Code § 48900.6].

For purposes of parental notification, and for reporting expulsion or suspension offenses to the State Department of Education, each school district must specifically identify, by offense committed, in all appropriate official pupil records each suspension or expulsion of the pupil for committing any of the offenses in Educ. Code §§ 48900, 48900.2, 48900.3, 48900.4, 48900.7, or Educ. Code § 48915 [Educ. Code § 48900.8].

45-513 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 513.39

§ 513.39 Suspension Procedure

[1] Use of Suspension

Suspension may be imposed only if other means of correction fail to bring about proper conduct; however, a pupil, including an individual with exceptional needs as defined in Educ. Code § 56026, may be suspended for any of the reasons enumerated in Educ. Code § 48900 [see § 513.38[3]] on a first offense if the principal or superintendent of schools determines that the pupil violated Educ. Code § 48900(a), (b), (c), (d), or (e) or that the pupil's presence causes a danger to persons or property or threatens to disrupt the instructional process [Educ. Code § 48900.5].

[2] By Teacher

A teacher may suspend any pupil from his or her class for any of the acts enumerated in Educ. Code § 48900 [see § 513.38[3]] for the day of the suspension and the day immediately following. The teacher must immediately report the suspension to the principal of the school and send the pupil to the principal or the principal's designee for appropriate action. If that action requires the continued presence of the pupil at the school site, the pupil must be under appropriate supervision as defined in policies and related regulations adopted by the governing board of the school district. As soon as possible, the teacher must ask the parent or guardian of the pupil to attend a parent-teacher conference regarding the suspension. If practicable, a school counselor or a school psychologist may attend the conference. A school administrator must also attend the conference if the teacher or the parent or guardian so requests. The pupil may not be returned to the class from which he or she was suspended during the period of the suspension without the concurrence of the teacher of the class and the principal [Educ. Code § 48910(a)]. A pupil suspended from a class may also not be placed in another regular class during the period of suspension. However, if the pupil is assigned to more than one class per day, this restriction applies only to other regular classes scheduled at the same time as the class from which the pupil was suspended [Educ. Code § 48910(b)].

In addition to suspending a pupil from the class, a teacher may refer a pupil, for any of the acts enumerated in Educ. Code § 48900, to the principal or the principal's designee for consideration of suspension from the school [Educ. Code § 48910(c)].

Each school district may adopt a policy under which teachers can provide that the pupil's parent or guardian attend a portion of a school day in the class from which his or her child or ward was suspended, if the suspension was for reasons specified in Educ. Code § 48900(i) (obscene act or habitual profanity or vulgarity) or (k) (disruption of school activities or willful defiance of valid authority) [Educ. Code § 48900.1(a)]. The policy must take into account reasonable factors that may prevent compliance with a notice to attend, and the attendance of the parent or guardian is limited to the class from which the pupil was suspended [Educ. Code § 48900.1(a)]. The legislation applies only to a parent or guardian who is actually living with the pupil [Educ. Code § 48900.1(c)].

Parents and guardians must be notified of the district's policy before its implementation. The teacher must apply the policy uniformly to all pupils in the classroom [Educ. Code § 48900.1(b)]. The parent or guardian must receive a written notice stating that his or her attendance is pursuant to law [Educ. Code § 48900.1(c)]. The notice may specify that the parent or guardian's attendance be on the day in which the pupil is scheduled to return to class or within a reasonable period of time thereafter [Educ. Code § 48900.1(d)].

The parent or guardian should give reasonable notice to his or her employer that it will be necessary to take time off from work to appear in the child's or ward's school in response to a request made under Educ. Code § 48900.1. If this notice is given, no employer may discharge or in any manner discriminate against an employee for taking time off to appear in the school [Lab. Code § 230.7(a)]. Any employee who is threatened with discharge or is discharged, demoted, suspended, or in any other manner discriminated against in the terms and conditions of employment by his or her employer because the employee has taken time off to appear in school under Educ. Code § 48900.1 is entitled to reinstatement and reimbursement for lost wages and work benefits caused by those acts of the employer [Lab. Code § 230.7(b)].

For discussion of wrongful termination of employment generally, see Ch. 249, Employment Law: Termination and Discipline .

[3] By Principal or Superintendent

The principal of the school, his or her designee, or the superintendent may suspend a pupil from the school for any of the reasons enumerated in Educ. Code § 48900 [see § 513.38[3]], and pursuant to Educ. Code § 48900.5, for no more than five consecutive school days [Educ. Code § 48911(a)]. Educ. Code § 48911 is not an exception to, nor does it place any limitation on, Educ. Code § 48903, which governs the total length of time for which a pupil may be suspended [Educ. Code § 48911; see § 513.39[5]].

Suspension by the principal, the principal's designee, or the superintendent must be preceded by an informal conference that is conducted by the principal, the principal's designee, or the superintendent of schools between the pupil and, whenever practicable, the teacher, supervisor, or school employee who referred the pupil to the principal, the principal's designee, or the superintendent of schools. At the conference, the pupil must be informed of the reason for the disciplinary action and the evidence against him or her and must be given the opportunity to present his or her version and evidence in his or her defense [Educ. Code § 48911(b)]. A principal, the principal's designee, or the superintendent of schools may suspend a pupil without affording the pupil an opportunity for a conference only if the principal, the principal's designee, or the superintendent of schools determines that an emergency situation exists. The term "emergency situation" means a situation determined by the principal, the principal's designee, or the superintendent of schools to constitute a clear and present danger to the lives, safety, or health of pupils or school personnel. If a pupil is suspended without a conference prior to the suspension, both the parent (or guardian) and pupil must be notified of the pupil's right to such a conference and the pupil's right to return to school for this purpose. The conference must be held within two school days unless the pupil waives this right or is physically unable to attend for any reason including, but not limited to, hospitalization or incarceration, in which case the conference must be held as soon as the pupil is physically able to return to school for the conference [Educ. Code § 48911(c)].

At the time of suspension, a school employee must make a reasonable effort to contact the pupil's parent or guardian in person or by telephone. Whenever a pupil is suspended from school, the parent or guardian must be notified in writing of the suspension [Educ. Code § 48911(d)].

A school employee is required to report the suspension of the pupil, including the cause for the suspension, to the governing board of the school district or to the district superintendent in accordance with the regulations of the governing board [Educ. Code § 48911(e)].

The parent or guardian of any pupil must respond without delay to any request from school officials to attend a conference regarding his or her child's behavior. However, no penalties may be imposed on a pupil for failure of the pupil's parent or guardian to attend such a conference, nor may a reinstatement of the suspended pupil be contingent on the attendance at the conference by the pupil's parent or guardian [Educ. Code § 48911(f)].

An individual with exceptional needs, as defined in Educ. Code § 56026, may be suspended from school in accordance with 20 U.S.C. § 1415(k), the discipline provisions in 34 C.F.R. § 300.530 et seq., and provisions of Educ. Code § 48900 et seq. that do not conflict with federal law and regulations [Educ. Code § 48915.5(a)]. A free appropriate public education for individuals with exceptional needs suspended from school must be in accordance with 20 U.S.C. § 1412(a)(1) and 34 C.F.R. § 300.530(d) [Educ. Code § 48915.5(b)]. The site principal of a contracting nonpublic, nonsectarian school providing services to individuals with exceptional needs under Educ. Code §§ 56365 and 56366 has the same duties and responsibilities with respect to the suspension of pupils with previously identified exceptional needs prescribed for the suspension of pupils under Educ. Code § 48911 [Educ. Code § 48911.5].

[4] By Governing Board

The governing board may suspend a pupil from school for any of the acts enumerated in Educ. Code § 48900 [Educ. Code § 48912(a)].

Notwithstanding the provisions of Educ. Code § 35145 and Gov. Code § 54950, the governing board of a school district, when considering the suspension or a disciplinary or any other action except expulsion against any pupil, shall, unless a request has been made to the contrary, hold closed sessions if a public hearing on the question would lead to the giving out of information concerning a school pupil that would be in violation of Educ. Code §§ 49073-49078 [Educ. Code § 48912(b)].

Before calling a closed session to consider these matters, the governing board shall, in writing, by registered or certified mail or by personal service, notify the pupil and the pupil's parent or guardian, or the pupil if the pupil is an adult, of the intent of the governing board to call and hold a closed session. Unless the pupil or the pupil's parent or guardian shall, in writing, within 48 hours after receipt of the written notice of the board's intention, request that the hearing be held as a public meeting, the hearing to consider these matters shall be conducted by the governing board in closed session. In the event that a written request is served on the clerk or secretary of the governing board, the meeting shall be public, except that any discussion at that meeting that may be in conflict with the right to privacy of any pupil other than the pupil requesting the public meeting shall be in closed session [Educ. Code § 48912(c)].

The governing board of a school district may also suspend a pupil enrolled in a continuation school or class if any acts enumerated in Educ. Code § 48900 occurred. Such a suspension must meet the requirements of Educ. Code § 48915 [Educ. Code 48912.5; for discussion of requirements of Educ. Code § 48915, see § 513.40[1]].

[5] Total Length of Suspensions

Except as provided in Educ. Code §§ 48911(g) (suspension of students attending a continuation school) and 48912, a pupil may not be suspended from school for more than 20 school days in any one school year. However, if a pupil is transferred to or enrolled in another regular school, an opportunity school or class, or a continuation education school or class, for adjustment purposes, the total number of school days that the pupil may be suspended may not exceed 30 days in any school year [Educ. Code § 48903]. The governing board may suspend a pupil from school for any number of school days within the limits prescribed by Educ. Code § 48903 [Educ. Code § 48912(a)]. The governing board of a school district may suspend a pupil enrolled in a continuation school or class for a period not longer than the remainder of the semester [Educ. Code § 48912.5].

[6] Extension of Suspension Pending Expulsion Proceedings

If expulsion from any school or suspension for the balance of the semester from a continuation school is being processed by the governing board, the school district superintendent or other person designated by him or her in writing may extend the suspension until the governing board renders a decision in the action. However, an extension may be granted only if the superintendent or his or her designee has determined, following a meeting in which the pupil and the pupil's parent or guardian are invited to participate, that the presence of the pupil at the school or in an alternative school placement would cause a danger to persons or property or a threat of disrupting the instructional process. If the pupil or the pupil's parent or guardian has requested a meeting to challenge the original suspension pursuant to Educ. Code § 48914, the purpose of the meeting shall be to decide on the extension of the suspension order under Educ. Code § 48911 and may be held in conjunction with the initial meeting on the merits of the suspension [Educ. Code § 48911(g)].

[7] Parental Meeting With Superintendent

Each school district is authorized to establish a policy that permits school officials to conduct a meeting with the parent or guardian of a suspended pupil to discuss the causes, the duration, the school policy involved, and other matters pertinent to the suspension [Educ. Code § 48914].

[8] Completion of Work Missed

The teacher of any class from which a pupil is suspended may require the suspended pupil to complete any assignments and tests missed during the suspension [Educ. Code § 48913].

[9] Judicial Review

Review of a suspension by writ of mandate and subsequent appeal has been allowed in a case that presented questions of continuing public interest likely to recur [Gordon J. v. Santa Ana Unified School Dist. (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 530, 533, 208 Cal. Rptr. 657 (question of role of the exclusionary rule in high school disciplinary proceedings)]. The appeal was allowed against a motion to dismiss as moot. At the time of appeal, the student was eligible to return to the high school and arguably suffered no actual interruption of his academic career because he had been permitted to attend a high school in another district during the period of his suspension from the subject school [Gordon J. v. Santa Ana Unified School Dist. (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 530, 532-533, 208 Cal. Rptr. 657] .

§ 513.40 Expulsion Procedure

[1] Use of Expulsion

Unless the principal or superintendent finds, and so reports in writing to the governing board, that expulsion is inappropriate due to the particular circumstance, which must be set out in the report of the incident, the principal or the superintendent of schools must recommend a pupil's expulsion for any of the following acts [Educ. Code § 48915(a)]:

- Causing serious physical injury to another person except in self-defense.

- Possession of any knife, as defined in Educ. Code § 48915(g), or other dangerous object of no reasonable use to the pupil at school or at a school activity off school grounds.

- Unlawful sale of any controlled substance, as defined in Health & Safety Code § 11053 et seq., except for the first offense for the sale of not more than one avoirdupois ounce of marijuana, other than concentrated cannabis.

- Robbery or extortion.

- Assault or battery, as defined in Penal Code §§ 240, 242, on any school employee.

On recommendation by the principal, superintendent of schools, or a hearing officer or administrative panel appointed under Educ. Code § 48918, the governing board may order a pupil expelled on finding the pupil committed an act listed in Educ. Code § 48915(a) or in Educ. Code § 48900(a)-(e), based on a finding of one or both of the following [Educ. Code § 48915(b)]:

- Other means of correction are not feasible or have repeatedly failed to bring about proper conduct; and/or

- Due to the nature of the act, the presence of the pupil causes a continuing danger to the physical safety of the pupil or others.

The principal or superintendent of schools must immediately suspend, under Educ. Code § 48911, and must recommend expulsion of a pupil the principal or superintendent determines has committed any of the following acts at school or at a school activity off school grounds [Educ. Code § 48915(c)]:

- Possessing, selling, or otherwise furnishing a firearm, only if the possession is verified by a school district employee, unless the pupil had obtained prior written permission to possess the firearm from a certificated school employee, in which the principal or a designee of the principal concurred.

- Brandishing a knife, as defined in Educ. Code § 48915(g), at another person.

- Unlawfully selling a controlled substance listed in Health & Safety Code § 11053 et seq.

- Committing or attempting to commit a sexual assault or committing a battery, as defined in Educ. Code § 48900(n).

- Possession of an explosive, as defined in Educ. Code § 48915(h).

Under Educ. Code § 48900 and Educ. Code § 48915, "possession" of a firearm for purposes of expulsion means the pupil knowingly and voluntarily has direct control over a firearm, unless the pupil has the permission of school officials to possess the firearm or the possession is brief and solely for the purpose of disposing of the firearm, such as handing it to school officials [80 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 91 (1997)] .

The governing board must order the pupil expelled on finding the pupil committed an act listed in Educ. Code § 48915(c) and refer the pupil to a program of study meeting all of the following conditions [Educ. Code § 48915(d)]:

- The program is appropriately prepared to accommodate pupils exhibiting discipline problems.

- The program is not provided at a comprehensive middle, junior, or senior high school, or at any elementary school.

- The program is not housed at the schoolsite attended by the pupil at the time of suspension.

On recommendation by the principal, superintendent of schools, or a hearing officer or administrative panel appointed pursuant to Educ. Code § 48918(d), the governing board may order a pupil expelled on finding that the pupil violated Educ. Code § 48900(f)-(m), 48900.2, 48900.3, or 48900.4, and that other means of correction are not feasible or have repeatedly failed to bring about proper conduct or, because of the nature of the violation, the presence of the pupil causes a continuing danger to the physical safety of the pupil or others [Educ. Code § 48915(e)].

In Educ. Code § 48915, the Legislature specified the circumstances for triggering an expulsion hearing and the findings that must be made at these hearings, and grouped those circumstances into the following three primary categories [T.H. v. San Diego Unified School Dist. (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1267, 1277-1278, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 532] :

- With regard to very serious offenses, the principal or superintendent of schools must recommend expulsion of a pupil he or she determines has committed acts at school or at a school activity off school grounds specified in Educ. Code § 48915(c). If the governing board finds a student committed one of these offenses, the school board must order expulsion [Educ. Code § 48915(c)].

- With regard to the net level of expulsion offenses, the principal or superintendent of schools must recommend expulsion, unless the principal or superintendent finds expulsion inappropriate due to the particular circumstance, for the acts listed in Educ. Code § 48915(a). With respect to these offenses, a school board cannot expel a student unless it also finds either (1) that other means of correction are not feasible or have repeatedly failed to bring about proper conduct, or (2) due to the nature of the act, the presence of the pupil causes a continuing danger to the physical safety of the pupil or others [Educ. Code § 48915(b)(1), (2)].

- With regard to the remaining statutory expulsion offenses, the Legislature did not provide a mandatory or presumptive referral requirement. Instead, on recommendation by the principal, superintendent of schools, or a hearing officer or administrative panel, the governing board may order a pupil expelled on finding that the pupil violated the identified statutory expulsion ground [Educ. Code § 48915(e)]. With respect to these offenses, a student cannot be expelled unless it is found that either (1) other means of correction are not feasible or have repeatedly failed to bring about proper conduct, or (2) due to the nature of the violation, the presence of the pupil causes a continuing danger to the physical safety of the pupil or others [Educ. Code § 48915(e)(1), (2)]. Additionally, with regard to certain of these offenses, an expulsion may be ordered only if the student committed the act at school or during a school activity [see Educ. Code § 48915(e)].

The governing board must refer a pupil who has been expelled pursuant to Educ. Code § 48915(b) or (e) to a program of study meeting all of the conditions specified in Educ. Code § 48915(d). With regard to a pupil expelled under Educ. Code § 48915(e), if the superintendent certifies that an alternative program of study is not available at a site away from a comprehensive middle, junior, or senior high school, or an elementary school, and the only option for placement is at another comprehensive middle, junior, or senior high school, or another elementary school, the pupil may be referred to a program of study provided at a comprehensive middle, junior, or senior high school or elementary school [Educ. Code § 48915(f)].

[2] Expulsion of Pupil With Previously Identified Exceptional Needs

An individual with exceptional needs, as defined in Educ. Code § 56026, may be expelled from school in accordance with 20 U.S.C. § 1415(k), the discipline provisions in 34 C.F.R. § 300.530 et seq., and provisions of Educ. Code § 48900 et seq. that do not conflict with federal law and regulations [Educ. Code § 48915.5(a)]. A free appropriate public education for individuals with exceptional needs expelled from school must be in accordance with 20 U.S.C. § 1412(a)(1) and 34 C.F.R. § 300.530(d) [Educ. Code § 48915.5(b)].

If an individual with exceptional needs is excluded from schoolbus transportation, the pupil is entitled to be provided with an alternative form of transportation at no cost to the pupil or parent or guardian provided that transportation is specified in the pupil's individualized education program [Educ. Code § 48915.5(c)].

[3] Length of Expulsion

An expulsion order must remain in effect until such time as the governing board may, in the manner prescribed in Educ. Code § 48900 et seq., order the readmission of a pupil. Except for pupils who have been expelled for acts listed in Educ. Code § 48915(c) [see § 513.40[1]], at the time an expulsion of a pupil is ordered, the governing board must set a date, not later than the last day of the semester following the semester in which the expulsion occurred, when the pupil may apply for readmission to a school maintained by the district. The governing board is not required to readmit the pupil [Educ. Code § 48916]. If the pupil is expelled for reasons relating to controlled substances or alcohol, the governing board may require, with the consent of the pupil's parent or guardian, that the pupil enroll in a county-supported drug rehabilitation program before returning to school [Educ. Code § 48916.5].

The governing board of each school district must establish rules and regulations governing procedures for the expulsion of pupils. These procedures must include, but are not limited to, those set forth in Educ. Code § 48918(a)-(k) [Educ. Code § 48918; see § 513.40[5]].

Educ. Code § 48918 sets forth detailed and extensive mandatory procedures a school district must follow before the district may expel a student who has committed one of the identified expulsion offenses [T.H. v. San Diego Unified School Dist. (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1267, 1276, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 532] . A school district's adoption of rules governing expulsions under a "zero tolerance" policy that required the principal or designee to immediately suspend and recommend for expulsion a pupil that had committed specified acts at school or at a school activity off school grounds did not violate state law by eliminating a principal's statutory discretion to decide not to recommend a student for an expulsion hearing. There are no provisions in the Education Code requiring a district to provide a principal with the authority to dismiss an expulsion charge if (1) the principal found the student had committed the expulsion offense, (2) the stricter recommendation procedures did not infringe on the student's statutory rights to an objective and fair expulsion procedure, and (3) the mandatory recommendation requirements did not preclude the principal from expressing his or her own views as to whether expulsion was appropriate [T.H. v. San Diego Unified School Dist. (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1267, 1281-1285, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 532] . The rules also did not violate a student's federal and state due process rights, because (1) the rule provided required procedural protections to students, (2) a student is not constitutionally entitled to notice of the scope of a principal's authority vis-a-vis the governing school board, and (3) inconsistencies within the district's rules with regard to whether the principal or superintendent could recommend expulsion for offenses not included in the provisions of the Education Code did not create an inevitable due process violation [T.H. v. San Diego Unified School Dist. (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1267, 1285-1287, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 532] .

[5] Right to Notice and Hearing

In the context of student disciplinary proceedings in which expulsion is sought, the basic requirements for due process are prior notice and a hearing [Dornes v. Lindsey (C.D. Cal. 1998) 18 F. Supp. 2d 1086, 1089 (plaintiff given notice and hearing conducted properly under California Education Code)]. However, brief suspensions may be made without a prior hearing [Black Coalition v. Portland School District No. 1 (9th Cir. 1973) 484 F.2d 1040, 1044 ; Dornes v. Lindsey (C.D. Cal. 1998) 18 F. Supp. 2d 1086, 1089] . The pupil is entitled to a hearing to determine whether the pupil should be expelled. An expulsion hearing must be held within 30 school days of the date the principal or the superintendent of schools determines that the pupil has committed any of the acts enumerated in Educ. Code § 48900 [see § 513.38[3]], unless the pupil requests in writing that the hearing be postponed. The pupil is entitled to at least one postponement for a period of not more than 30 calendar days of an expulsion hearing. Any additional postponement may be granted at the discretion of the governing board [Educ. Code § 48918(a)].

During the regular school year, if it is impracticable for the governing board to comply with the time requirements for conducting an expulsion hearing under Educ. Code § 48918(a), the superintendent of schools or his or her designee may, for good cause, extend the time period for holding the hearing for an additional five schooldays. If it is impracticable for the governing board to comply with the time requirements for conducting an expulsion hearing under Educ. Code § 48918(a) due to a summer recess in governing board meetings of more than two weeks, the days during the recess period do not count as schooldays in meeting the time requirements. Days not counted as schooldays in meeting the time requirements for an expulsion hearing because of a summer recess of governing board meetings cannot exceed 20 schooldays as defined in Educ. Code § 48925(c). Unless the pupil requests in writing that the expulsion hearing be postponed, the hearing must be held no later than 20 calendar days prior to the first day of school for the school year [Educ. Code § 48918(a)].

Reasons for the extension must be included as a part of the record at the time the expulsion hearing is conducted. On the commencement of the hearing, all matters will be pursued and conducted with reasonable diligence and shall be concluded without any unnecessary delay [Educ. Code § 48918(a)]. The provisions of former Educ. Code § 48914(a) (now see Educ. Code § 48918(a)) were mandatory rather than directory, and a failure to comply with the time requirements invalidated the expulsion [Garcia v. Los Angeles County Bd. of Education (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 807, 813, 177 Cal. Rptr. 29] . It would appear that this would still be true of the time requirements in Educ. Code § 48918(a), though this can not be stated with certainty since the time requirements in the new statute have been changed.

Written notice of the hearing must be forwarded to the pupil at least 10 calendar days prior to the date of the hearing. The notice must include the following [Educ. Code § 48918(b)]:

- The date and place of the hearing.
- A statement of the specific facts and charges on which the proposed expulsion is based.
- A copy of the disciplinary rules of the district that relate to the alleged violation.
- A notice of the parent's, guardian's, or pupil's obligation under Educ. Code § 48915.1(b) to inform another school district in which enrollment is sought of the expulsion (see § 513.40[17]).
- A notice of the opportunity of the pupil and his or her parent or guardian to:
  - Appear in person or employ and be represented by counsel legal counsel or a nonattorney advisor. Legal counsel is an attorney or lawyer admitted to the practice of law in California and an active member of the State Bar of California; a nonattorney advisor is an individual who is not an attorney or lawyer, but who is familiar with the facts of the case, and has been selected by the pupil or pupil's parent or guardian to provide assistance at the hearing. However, Educ. Code § 48918 does not require a pupil or pupil's parent or guardian to be represented by counsel or an advisor at the hearing.
  - Inspect and obtain copies of all documents to be used at the hearing.
  - Confront and question all witnesses who testify at the hearing.
  - Question all other evidence presented.
  - Present oral and documentary evidence, including witnesses, on the pupil's behalf.

In a hearing in which a pupil is alleged to have committed or attempted to commit a sexual assault or sexual battery as specified in Educ. Code § 48900(n), a complaining witness must be given five days' notice before being called to testify, and is entitled to have up to two adult support persons, including, but not limited to, a parent, guardian, or legal counsel, present during the testimony. Before a complaining witness testifies, support persons must be admonished that the hearing is confidential. Nothing in Educ. Code § 48918(b) precludes the person presiding over the expulsion hearing from removing a support person the presiding person finds disrupting the hearing. If one or both of the support persons is also a witness, the provisions of Penal Code § 868.5 must be followed for the hearing [Educ. Code § 48918(b)].

[6] Conduct of Hearing

Notwithstanding Gov. Code § 54593 and Educ. Code § 35145, the governing board must conduct a hearing to consider the expulsion of a pupil in a session closed to the public unless the pupil requests, in writing, at least five days prior to the date of the hearing, that the hearing be conducted at a public meeting. Whether an expulsion hearing is conducted in closed or public session, the governing board may meet in closed session for the purpose of deliberating and determining if the pupil should be expelled. If the governing board or the hearing officer or administrative panel, appointed under Educ. Code § 48918(d) to conduct the hearing, admits any other person to a closed deliberation session, the parent or guardian of the pupil, the pupil, and the counsel of the pupil must also be allowed to attend the closed deliberations. If the hearing is to be conducted at a public meeting, and there is a charge of committing or attempting to commit a sexual assault or committing a sexual battery as defined in Educ. Code § 48900(n), a complaining witness has the right to have his or her testimony heard in a session closed to the public when testifying at a public meeting would threaten serious psychological harm to the complaining witness and there are no alternative procedures to avoid the threatened harm, including, but not limited to, videotaped deposition or contemporaneous examination in another place communicated to the hearing room by means of closed-circuit television [Educ. Code § 48918(c)].

Instead of conducting an expulsion hearing itself, the governing board of any school district may contract with the county hearing officer, or with the Office of Administrative Hearings of the State of California pursuant to Educ. Code § 35207 and Gov. Code § 27720 et seq., for a hearing officer to conduct the hearing, or the board may appoint an impartial administrative panel of three or more certificated persons, none of whom is a member of the board or employed on the staff of the school in which the pupil is enrolled. The hearing must be conducted in accordance with all of the procedures established under Educ. Code § 48918 [Educ. Code § 48918(d)].

Within three school days after the hearing, the hearing officer or administrative panel must determine whether to recommend the expulsion of the pupil to the governing board. If the hearing officer or administrative panel decides not to recommend expulsion, the expulsion proceedings are terminated and the pupil must be immediately reinstated and permitted to return to a classroom instructional program, any other instructional program, a rehabilitation program, or any combination of these programs. Placement in one or more of these programs must be made by the superintendent of schools or the superintendent's designee after consultation with the school district personnel, including the pupil's teachers, and the pupil's parent or guardian. The decision not to recommend expulsion is final [Educ. Code § 48918(e)].

If the hearing officer or administrative panel recommends expulsion, findings of fact in support of the recommendation must be prepared and submitted to the governing board. All findings of fact and recommendations must be based solely on the evidence adduced at the hearing. If the governing board accepts the recommendation calling for expulsion, acceptance must be based either on a review of the findings of fact and recommendations submitted by the hearing officer or panel, or on the results of any supplementary hearing conducted pursuant to Educ. Code § 48918 that the governing board may order. The decision of the governing board to expel a pupil must be based on substantial evidence relevant to the charges adduced at the expulsion hearing or hearings. Except as provided in Educ. Code § 48918, no decision to expel may be based solely on hearsay evidence. The governing board or the hearing officer or administrative panel may, on a finding that good cause exists, determine that the disclosure of either the identity of a witness or the testimony of the witness at the hearing would subject the witness to an unreasonable risk of psychological or physical harm. Upon that determination, the testimony of the witness may be presented at the hearing in the form of sworn declarations which can be examined only by the governing board or the hearing officer or administrative panel. Copies of these sworn declarations edited to delete the name and identity of the witness, must be made available to the pupil [Educ. Code § 48918(f); see John A. v. San Bernardino City Unified School District (1982) 33 Cal. 3d 301, 307-308, 187 Cal. Rptr. 472, 654 P.2d 242 ; Dornes v. Lindsey (C.D. Cal. 1998) 18 F. Supp. 2d 1086, 1090 (reliance in some instances on students' statements and reports in lieu of live testimony does not constitute due process violation; where revelation of name of student witness or requiring student to testify could subject student to risk, statements and reports of students may be relied on in lieu of live testimony, and students' names do not have to be revealed)].

A record of the hearing must be made which may be maintained by any means, including electronic recording, so long as a reasonably accurate and complete written transcription of the proceedings can be made [Educ. Code § 48918(g)]. Technical rules of evidence do not apply to an expulsion hearing, but relevant evidence may be admitted and given probative effect only if it is the kind of evidence on which reasonable persons are accustomed to rely in the conduct of serious affairs. A decision of the governing board to expel must be supported by substantial evidence showing that the pupil committed any of the acts enumerated in Educ. Code § 48900 [Educ. Code § 48918(h)].

In hearings including an allegation of committing or attempting to commit a sexual assault or committing a sexual battery (as defined in Educ. Code § 48900(n)), evidence of specific instances of a complaining witness' prior sexual conduct are presumed inadmissible and may not be heard absent a determination by the person conducting the hearing that extraordinary circumstances exist requiring the evidence to be heard. Before that determination is made, the complaining witness must be given notice and an opportunity to oppose the introduction of the evidence. In the hearing on the admissibility of the evidence, the complaining witness is entitled to be represented by a parent, guardian, legal counsel, or another support person. Reputation or opinion evidence regarding the sexual behavior of the complaining witness is not admissible for any purpose [Educ. Code § 48918(h)].

Before the hearing begins, the governing board may issue subpoenas at the request of either the superintendent or the superintendent's designee or the pupil, for the personal appearance of percipient witnesses. After the hearing has begun, the governing board or the hearing officer or administrative panel may, on request of either the county superintendent of schools or the superintendent's designee or the pupil, issue subpoenas. All subpoenas must be issued in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1985, 1985.1, 1985.2. Enforcement of subpoenas must be in accordance with Gov. Code § 11455.20 [Educ. Code § 48918(i)(1); see Woodbury v. Brown-Dempsey (2003) 108 Cal. App. 4th 421, 430-439, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 124 (school board did not have mandatory duty under Educ. Code § 48918(i)(1) to issue subpoenas for witnesses that students to be expelled sought to attend disciplinary hearing)]. Any objection raised by the superintendent of schools or the superintendent's designee or the pupil to the issuance of subpoenas may be considered by the governing board in closed session, or in open session, if requested by the pupil before the meeting. Any decision by the governing board in response to an objection to the issuance of subpoenas is final and binding [Educ. Code § 48918(i)(2)]. If the governing board, hearing officer, or administrative panel determines, in accordance with Educ. Code § 48918(f) that a percipient witness would be subject to an unreasonable risk of harm by testifying at the hearing, a subpoena may not be issued to compel the personal attendance of that witness at the hearing. However, that witness may be compelled to testify by means of a sworn declaration as provided in Educ. Code § 48918(f) [Educ. Code § 48918(i)(3)]. Service of process will be extended to all parts of the state and served in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 1987. All witnesses appearing pursuant to subpoena, other than the parties or officers or employees of the state or political subdivision, receive fees, and all witnesses appearing pursuant to subpoena, except the parties, receive mileage in the same amount and under the same circumstances as witnesses in civil actions in a superior court. Fees and mileage are paid by the party at whose request the witness is subpoenaed [Educ. Code § 48918(i)(4); for discussion of witness fees in civil actions generally, see Ch. 535, Subpoena].

In addition to any other immunity, any testimony provided by a pupil witness in an expulsion hearing conducted under Educ. Code § 48900 et seq. is expressly deemed to be a privileged publication or broadcast protected by Civ. Code § 47(b) [Educ. Code § 48918.6]. For discussion of Civ. Code § 47(b), see Ch. 340, Libel and Slander .

[7] Final Decision to Expel

Whether an expulsion hearing is conducted by the governing board or before a hearing officer or administrative panel, a final action to expel may be taken only by the governing board in a public session. Written notice of any decision to expel or to suspend the enforcement of an expulsion order during a period of probation must be sent by the superintendent of schools or his or her designee to the pupil or to his or her parent or guardian. This notice must be accompanied by all of the following notices [Educ. Code § 48918(j); see § 513.40[9], [17]]:

- Notice of the right to appeal the expulsion to the county board of education.

- Notice of the education alternative placement to be provided to the pupil during the time of expulsion.

- Notice of the obligation of the parent, guardian, or pupil under Educ. Code § 48915.1(b), on the pupil's enrollment in a new school district, to inform that district of the pupil's expulsion.

A decision of the governing board whether to expel a pupil must be made within 10 school days following the conclusion of the hearing, unless the pupil requests in writing that the decision be postponed. If the hearing is held by a hearing officer or an administrative panel, or if the district governing board does not meet on a weekly basis, the governing board must make its decision within 40 school days after the pupil's removal from the pupil's school of attendance for the incident for which the recommendation for expulsion is made by the principal or superintendent, unless the pupil requests in writing that the decision be postponed [Educ. Code § 48918(a); see § 513.40[5]].

The governing board must maintain a record of each expulsion, including the cause for it. Records of expulsions are a nonprivileged, disclosable public record. The expulsion order and the causes for it are recorded in the pupil's mandatory interim record and forwarded to any school in which the pupil subsequently enrolls on receipt of a request for the pupil's school records from the admitting school [Educ. Code § 48918(k)]. The pupil's name and the offense committed must be disclosed to the public when the governing board orders the pupil expelled [80 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 85 (1997)] .

[8] Suspension of Expulsion Order

A governing board, on voting to expel a pupil, may suspend the enforcement of the expulsion order for a period of not more than one calendar year [Educ. Code § 48917(a)]. A school district may suspend enforcement of an expulsion order even if the pupil committed an offense listed in Educ. Code § 48915(c), for which expulsion must be ordered under Educ. Code § 48915(d) [80 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 85 (1997) ; for discussion of offenses for which expulsion must be ordered, see § 513.40[1]]. The governing board's criteria for suspending the enforcement of an expulsion order must be applied equally to all pupils, including individuals with exceptional needs as defined in Educ. Code § 56026 [Educ. Code § 48917(b); see § 513.40[2]]. During the expulsion order's suspension period, the pupil is on probationary status [Educ. Code § 48917(c)].

As a condition of the suspension, the board may assign the pupil to a school, class, or program that is deemed appropriate for the rehabilitation of the pupil [Educ. Code § 48917(a)]. The rehabilitation program may provide for involvement of a parent or guardian, but a parent's or guardian's refusal to participate in the rehabilitation program is not to be considered in the governing board's determination as to whether the pupil has satisfactorily completed the rehabilitation program [Educ. Code § 48917(a)].

The governing board may revoke the suspension of an expulsion order under Educ. Code § 48917 on the pupil's commission of any of the acts enumerated in Educ. Code § 48900 or for any violation of the district's rules and regulations governing pupil conduct. On revocation of the suspension of an expulsion order, a pupil may be expelled under the terms of the original expulsion order [Educ. Code § 48917(d)].

On satisfactory completion of the rehabilitation assignment of a pupil, the pupil must be reinstated by the governing board in a school of the district. On reinstatement, the governing board may also order the expungement of any or all records of the expulsion proceedings [Educ. Code § 48917(e)].

A decision of the governing board to suspend an expulsion order does not affect the time period and requirements for filing an appeal of the expulsion order with the county board of education required under Educ. Code § 48919. Any appeal must be filed within 30 days of the original vote of the governing board [Educ. Code § 48917(f)].

[9] Right to Appeal to County Board of Education

Within 30 days following the decision by a governing board to expel a pupil, the pupil or the pupil's parent or guardian may appeal the decision to the county board of education, which must hold a hearing and render a decision. The board of education, or in a class 1 or class 2 county a hearing officer or impartial administrative panel, must hold the hearing within 20 school days following the filing of the formal request under Educ. Code § 48919. If the county board of education hears the appeal without a hearing conducted pursuant to Educ. Code § 48919.5, the board must render a decision within three school days of the hearing conducted under Educ. Code § 48920, unless the pupil requests a postponement [Educ. Code § 48919].

A county board of education in a class 1 or class 2 county may elect to have appeals under Educ. Code § 48919 heard by a hearing officer or by an impartial administrative panel appointed by the board [Educ. Code § 48919.5(a); see Educ. Code § 48919.5(e)(1)-(3) (definition of class 1 and class 2 counties)]. The hearing officer or impartial administrative panel must prepare a recommended decision, including findings or conclusions required for the decision, for a final decision by the county board of education [Educ. Code § 48919.5(b)]. A hearing officer or an impartial administrative panel in a class 1 or class 2 county is also required to hold the hearing within the 20-school-day period.

The period within which an appeal is to be filed is determined from the date a governing board votes to expel, even if enforcement of the expulsion action is suspended and the pupil is placed on probation pursuant to Educ. Code § 48917. A pupil who fails to appeal the original action of the board within the prescribed time may not subsequently appeal a decision of the board to revoke probation and impose the original order of expulsion [Educ. Code § 48919].

[10] Regulations Establishing Procedures for Expulsion Appeals

The county board of education must adopt rules and regulations establishing procedures for expulsion appeals conducted under Educ. Code § 48919. The adopted rules and regulations must include, but need not be limited to, the following [Educ. Code § 48919]:

- The requirements for filing a notice of appeal;
- The setting of a hearing date;
- The furnishing of notice to the pupil and the governing board regarding the appeal;
- The furnishing of a copy of the expulsion hearing record to the county board of education;
- Procedures for the conduct of the hearing; and
- The preservation of the record of the appeal.

If the county board of education in a class 1 or class 2 county elects to use the hearing procedures in Educ. Code § 48919.5, the board must adopt rules and regulations establishing procedures for expulsion appeals under that statute [Educ. Code § 48919; see Educ. Code § 48919.5(e)(1)-(3) (definition of class 1 and class 2 counties)].

[11] Obtaining Documents Required for Appeal

The pupil may submit a written request for a copy of the written transcripts and supporting documents from the school district simultaneously with the filing of the notice of appeal with the county board of education. The school district must provide the pupil with the transcriptions, supporting documents, and records within 10 school days following the pupil's written request. On receipt of the records, the pupil must immediately file suitable copies of these records with the county board of education [Educ. Code § 48919; see § 513.40[12]].

[12] Hearing of Appeal by County Board

Notwithstanding the provisions of Educ. Code § 35145 and Gov. Code § 54950, the county board of education must hear an appeal of an expulsion order in closed session unless the pupil's guardian requests that the hearing be a public meeting. Such a request must be made in writing at least five days before the date of the hearing. If the submission of a request for a public meeting is timely, the county board of education must honor the request. Whether the hearing is conducted in closed or public session, the county board may meet in closed session for the purpose of deliberations. If the county board admits any representative of the pupil or the school district, the board must, at the same time, admit representatives from the opposing party [Educ. Code § 48920].

The county board of education must determine the appeal on the basis of the record of the hearing before the governing board of the district, together with such applicable documentation or regulations as may be ordered. Unless a de novo proceeding is granted as provided in Educ. Code § 48923 [see § 513.40[15]], no evidence other than that contained in the record of the proceedings of the governing board may be heard by the county board [Educ. Code § 48921].

The pupil has the responsibility of submitting a written transcript of the hearing for review by the county board. The pupil must bear the cost of the transcript except in the following circumstances [Educ. Code § 48921]:

- When the pupil's parent or guardian certifies to the school district that he or she cannot reasonably afford the cost of the transcript because of limited income or exceptional necessary expenses, or both; or

- In a case in which the county board reverses the decision of the local governing board, the county board must require that the local board reimburse the pupil for the cost of the transcript.

[13] Hearing of Appeal by Hearing Officer or Administrative Panel

A county board of education in a class 1 or class 2 county may have a hearing officer pursuant to Gov. Code § 27720 et seq., or an impartial administrative panel of three or more certificated persons appointed by the county board of education, hear appeals filed under Educ. Code § 48919 [Educ. Code § 48919.5(a); see Educ. Code § 48919.5(e)(1)-(3) (definition of class 1 and class 2 counties)]. However, members of an impartial administrative panel may not be employees or members of the governing board of the school district from which the pupil filing the appeal was expelled. Nor may the hearing officer or any member of the administrative panel hearing a pupil's appeal have served as the hearing officer or as a member of the administrative panel that conducted the pupil's expulsion hearing [Educ. Code § 48919.5(a)].

A hearing officer or impartial administrative panel may not issue a final order after conducting a hearing pursuant to Educ. Code § 48919.5. Rather, the hearing officer or administrative panel must prepare a recommended decision, including any findings or conclusions required for that decision, and submit the recommendation and the record to the county board of education within three school days of hearing the appeal [Educ. Code § 48919.5(b)]. Within 10 school days of receiving the recommended decision of the hearing officer or the impartial administrative panel, the county board of education must review the decision and the record and render a final order of the board [Educ. Code § 48919.5(d)]. The procedural requirements of Educ. Code §§ 48919, 48920, 48921, 48922, 48923, and 48925 are applicable to a hearing conducted pursuant to Educ. Code § 48919.5 [Educ. Code § 48919.5(c); for discussion of review by county board, see § 513.40[14]].

[14] Scope of Review by County Board

The review by the county board of the decision of the governing board is limited to the following questions [Educ. Code § 48922(a)]:

- Whether the governing board acted without or in excess of its jurisdiction;

- Whether or not there was a fair hearing before the governing board;
- Whether or not there was a prejudicial abuse of discretion in the hearing; or
- Whether or not there is relevant and material evidence which, in the exercise of reasonable diligence, could not have been produced or which was improperly excluded at the hearing before the governing board.

A proceeding without or in excess of jurisdiction, as used in Educ. Code § 48922(a), includes, but is not limited to, (1) a situation when an expulsion hearing is not commenced within the time periods prescribed by Educ. Code §§ 48900-48925, (2) a situation when an expulsion order is not based on the acts enumerated in Educ. Code § 48900, or (3) a situation involving acts not related to school activity or attendance [Educ. Code § 48922(b)].

An abuse of discretion, for purposes of Educ. Code § 48922, is established if (1) school officials have not met the procedural requirements of Educ. Code §§ 48900-48925, (2) the decision to expel a pupil is not supported by the findings prescribed by Educ. Code § 48915, or (3) the findings are not supported by the evidence [Educ. Code 48922(c)].

A county board of education may not reverse the decision of a governing board to expel a pupil based on a finding of an abuse of discretion unless the county board of education also determines that the abuse of discretion was prejudicial [Educ. Code § 48922].

[15] Decision by County Board

If the county board finds that relevant and material evidence exists which, in the exercise of reasonable diligence, could not have been produced or which was improperly excluded at the hearing before the governing board, it may either (1) remand the matter to the governing board for reconsideration and order the pupil reinstated pending the reconsideration, or (2) grant a hearing de novo on reasonable notice to the pupil and to the governing board to be conducted in accordance with the procedures set forth in Educ. Code § 48919 [Educ. Code § 48923(a)].

If the county board determines that the decision of the governing board is not supported by the findings required by Educ. Code § 48915, but evidence supporting the required findings exists in the record of the proceedings, the county board must remand the matter to the governing board for adoption of the required findings. The remand for adoption and inclusion of the required findings will not result in an additional hearing under Educ. Code § 48918, except that final action to expel the pupil based on the revised findings of fact must meet all requirements of Educ. Code § 48918(j) and (k) [Educ. Code § 48923(b)].

In all other cases, the county board must enter an order either affirming or reversing the decision of the governing board. In any case in which the county board enters a decision reversing the local board, the county board may direct the local board to expunge the record of the pupil and the records of the district of any references to the expulsion action, and the expulsion will be deemed not to have occurred [Educ. Code § 48923(c)].

The decision of the county board of education is final and binding on the pupil and on the governing board of the school district. The pupil and the governing board must be notified of the final order of the county board, in writing, either by personal service or by certified mail. The order becomes final when rendered [Educ. Code § 48924].

An expulsion order is apparently reviewable by petition for administrative mandamus under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 [see, e.g., Miller v. Dailey (1902) 136 Cal. 212, 214-220, 68 P. 1029 ; Fremont Union High School District v. Santa Clara County Board of Education (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 1182, 286 Cal. Rptr. 915 ; Noonan v. Green (1969) 276 Cal. App. 2d 25, 26-31, 80 Cal. Rptr. 513 ; Myers v. Arcata etc. School Dist. (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 549, 552, 563, 75 Cal. Rptr. 68] . The expelled student must, however, exhaust his or her administrative remedies, including appeal to the county board of education, before instituting a mandate proceeding [see Noonan v. Green (1969) 276 Cal. App. 2d 25, 29-31, 80 Cal. Rptr. 513] . For a discussion and forms relating to administrative mandate proceedings, see Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions .

For a form of petition for writ of mandate to review an expulsion order, see § 513.95.

[17] Enrollment in Different School District After Expulsion

[a] In General

If the governing board receives a request for enrollment from a pupil who has been expelled from another school district for an act other than those described in Educ. Code § 48915(a) [see § 513.40[1]], the board must hold a hearing, conducted according to the rules and regulations governing expulsion procedures, as set forth in Educ. Code § 48918, to determine whether the applicant poses a continuing danger either to the pupils or employees of the enrolling school district [Educ. Code § 48915.1(a); see §§ 513.40[5], [6]]. The enrolling school district may request information regarding the applicant's expulsion from his or her former school district, and the district receiving the request must respond within five working days [Educ. Code § 48915.1(a)].

On enrollment in a new district, the expelled pupil's parent or guardian (or the pupil if he or she is emancipated or of legal age) must inform the receiving district of his or her status with the previous district. If this information is not provided to the receiving district and the district later determines that the pupil was expelled from the previous school, the lack of compliance must be recorded and discussed at the hearing [Educ. Code § 48915.1(b)].

If after a hearing, the board determines that the pupil poses a potential danger to the pupils or employees of the enrolling district, it may deny enrollment for the remainder of the expulsion period [Educ. Code § 48915.1(c)]. If the board determines that the pupil does not pose such a danger, the board must permit the pupil to enroll, provided that the pupil satisfies the residency requirements set forth in Educ. Code § 48200 or can enroll by interdistrict agreement [Educ. Code § 48915.1(e)]. The governing board may also consider the options of denying or permitting enrollment, or permitting conditional enrollment in a regular school program or another educational program [Educ. Code § 48915.1(d)].

A pupil expelled from school for any of the offenses listed in Educ. Code § 48915(a) will not be permitted to enroll in any other school or school district during the period of expulsion, unless it is a county community school, a juvenile court school, or a community day school [Educ. Code § 48915.2(a); see also Educ. Code § 1980 et seq. (community schools) and Educ. Code § 48645 et seq. (juvenile court schools)]. After a determination, pursuant to a hearing under Educ. Code § 48918, that an individual expelled from another school district for an offense listed in Educ. Code § 48915(a) does not pose a danger to the pupils or employees of the school district, the governing board may permit the individual to enroll in the school district after the term of expulsion, if the pupil has established legal residence in the school district, or if the pupil is enrolled in the school pursuant to an interdistrict agreement [Educ. Code § 48915.2(b)].

[b] Disclosure of Expulsion Records

Under Educ. Code § 49076, a school district is not authorized to permit access to pupil records to any person without written parental consent or under judicial order with certain exceptions. However, records of expulsions, which school boards are required to keep, are a non-privileged, disclosable public record [Educ. Code § 48918; see 80 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 85, 91 (1997) (school board's public action to expel student must include student's name and reason for expulsion, and this information must be included in school district responses to requests from public for expulsion records)]. The federal Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) provides for the privacy of education records, defined as documents containing information directly related to a student or maintained by an educational agency or institution [20 U.S.C. § 1232g(a)(4)(A)]. FERPA preempts Educ. Code § 48918 in that § 48918 requires the public disclosure of student expulsion records while FERPA conditions the receipt of federal funds on protecting students and their parents from disclosure of this very type of record [Rim of the World Unif. Schl. Dist. v. Superior Court (2003) 104 Cal. App. 4th 1393, 1396-1399, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 11] .

The protection against corporal punishment extends to children while they are under the control of the public schools [Educ. Code § 49000]. No person employed by or engaged in a public school may inflict, or cause to be inflicted, corporal punishment on a pupil. Every resolution, bylaw, rule, ordinance, or other act or authority permitting or authorizing the infliction of corporal punishment on a pupil attending a public school is void and unenforceable [Educ. Code § 49001(b)].

For purposes of Educ. Code § 49001, "corporal punishment" means the willful infliction of, or willfully causing the infliction of, physical pain on a pupil. An amount of force that is reasonable and necessary for a person employed by or engaged in a public school to quell a disturbance threatening physical injury to persons or damage to property, for purposes of self-defense, or to obtain possession of weapons or other dangerous objects within the control of the pupil, is not and may not be construed to be corporal punishment within the meaning and intent of Educ. Code § 49001. Physical pain or discomfort caused by athletic competition or other such recreational activity, voluntarily engaged in by the pupil, is not and may not be construed to be corporal punishment within the meaning and intent of Educ. Code § 49001 [Educ. Code § 49001(a)].

Notwithstanding Civ. Code § 1714.1, the parent or guardian of any minor whose willful misconduct results in injury or death to any pupil or any person employed by or performing volunteer work for a school district or private school, or who willfully cuts, defaces, or otherwise injures any real or personal property belonging to a school district or private school or any personal property of any school employee is liable for all damages so caused by the minor. The parent's or guardian's liability, however, may not exceed $10,000. The parent or guardian of a minor is also liable for any school property loaned to a minor that is not returned on demand of a school employee authorized to make the demand [Educ. Code § 48904(a)]. School district's failure to comply with time requirements in assessment of student referred to special education was not negligence. Keech v. Berkeley Unified School Dist. (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 464, 468-469, 210 Cal. Rptr. 7

Person claiming to have been inadequately educated by public school system has no cause of action in tort against public school authorities; school officials are under no actionable duty of care to educate students adequately. Peter W. v. San Francisco Unified Sch. Dist. (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 814, 817, 825, 131 Cal. Rptr. 854

In action by student club against school district for violation of club member's rights under Federal Equal Access Act (FEAA) [20 U.S.C. § 4071] by refusing to grant club rights enjoyed by other clubs permitted to meet on campus, trial court erred in granting school district summary judgment, holding that other clubs were curriculum related, when court's finding that other clubs' provision of community service to satisfy graduation requirement established curriculum relatedness was erroneous, since community service clubs are at best only marginally related to usual high school curriculum so that making participation in clubs satisfy graduation requirement did not transform clubs into scholastic endeavors; and when evidence of inclusion of units in curriculum on subject of community service was insufficient to establish that no triable issue of material fact existed as to curriculum relatedness of service clubs at issue or of excluded club under community service criteria, since school district presented no evidence as to whether or to what extent teachers actually taught subject of community service in classroom; further, FEAA requires only that on-campus meetings of student groups be student initiated, so that initiation of club itself by faculty did not offend. FEAA. Van Schoick v. Saddleback Valley Unified School Dist. (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 522, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 562

[2] Freedom of Expression

School officials did not violate First Amendment by confiscating pro-drug banner at school-sanctioned and school-supervised event held offsite and suspending student responsible for it. Morse v. Frederick (2007) 551U.S.393,

127 S. Ct. 2618, 2625-2629, 168 L. Ed. 2d 290

School prohibition of use of lewd, indecent, vulgar, or offensive speech or conduct by students in public discourse was not prohibited by U.S. Const., amend. I. Bethel School Dist. No. 403 v. Fraser (1986) 478 U.S. 675, 685-686, 106 S. Ct. 3159, 92 L. Ed. 2d 549

Students and teachers do not shed their constitutional rights to freedom of speech or expression at the schoolhouse gate. Tinker v. Des Moines Community School Dist. (1969) 393 U.S. 503, 506, 89 S. Ct. 733, 21 L. Ed. 2d 731

School administrator did not violate high school student's First Amendment free expression rights by requiring musical numbers to be played at high school graduations to be secular in nature, thus requiring student to select musical piece other than Ave Maria to play at graduation, where, although instrumental performance of Ave Maria was protected speech under First Amendment, school district's restriction was constitutionally permissible within context given that district was acting to avoid repeat of earlier controversy by prohibiting any reference to religion at its graduation ceremonies and district's policies regarding religious musical performances evidenced desire to remain neutral with regard to all religions. Nurre v. Whitehead (9th Cir. 2009) 580 F.3d 1087, 1092-1095

Middle school students who walked out of school to participate in protests against immigration legislation failed to raise triable issue as to claim that school principal violated their First Amendment rights by disciplining them for leaving school without permission, where, although there was no evidence students gave speeches, discussed matters of immigration reform, or carried placards or signs conveying their messages during walkout, reasonable jury could have concluded students were engaging in expressive conduct, but where students did not have retaliation claim based on threats of discipline for First Amendment activity because principal's threat was itself based upon lawful consequences and was not actually administered, and where disciplining students for walking out of school did not violate their First Amendment rights because they were punished for disruption caused by leaving campus without permission, not for expressive activity and school's anti-truancy policy was content-neutral rule furthering important interest unrelated to suppression of expression, which was narrowly tailored to government's legitimate interests in enforcing compulsory education, keeping minors safe from influences of street, maximizing school funding based on attendance, and limiting potential liability for negligent failure to supervise truant student properly. Even assuming students had shown they engaged in constitutionally protected activity, their claim would have failed because they failed to show that principal's actions had retaliatory motive. Corales v. Bennett (9th Cir. 2009) 567 F.3d 554, 562-569

School district's viewpoint- and content-neutral uniform dress policies did not violate students' First Amendment free expression rights, where district's articulated interests in increasing student achievement, promoting safety, and enhancing a positive school environment qualified as important sufficiently to withstand intermediate scrutiny, district's interests were unrelated to suppression of free expression, and policies did not restrict speech more than necessary. Policies did not infringe on students' First Amendment rights by compelling students to express support for conformity, with which some students disagreed, where school did not force student to communicate any message, including expressing support for conformity or community affiliation, simply by requiring student to wear clothes mandated by its uniform policy. Jacobs v. Clark County Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 2008) 526 F.3d 419, 427-438

High school did not violate Equal Access Act by denying recognition to religious club based on discriminatory membership criteria rather than on content of speech at meetings. Club also failed to show denial of recognition based on its general membership restrictions burdened First Amendment interest prohibiting forced inclusion. Truth v. Grohe (9th Cir. 2007) 499 F.3d 999, 1009-1015

Under standard articulated in Tinker v. Des Moines Independent Community School District (1969) 393 U.S. 503, 514, 89 S. Ct. 733, 21 L. Ed. 2d 731 , high school varsity basketball students' petition requesting that coach resign and complaints against coach were protected speech because they could not reasonably have led school officials to forecast substantial disruption of or material interference with school activity. However, students' refusal to board bus to play in game was not protected by First Amendment because, even if expressive conduct, it substantially disrupted and materially interfered with operation of the varsity boys basketball program. On remand to district court for consideration of students' claims of retaliation for exercise of speech, court was required to determine whether students offered evidence from which reasonable jury could conclude petition and complaints against coach were substantial or motivating factor in decision to suspend them permanently from basketball team, because if so, defendants would not be entitled to summary judgment unless they could show they would have imposed permanent suspension even in absence of petition and complaints against coach. Pinard v. Clatskanie Sch. Dist. 6J (9th Cir. 2006) 467 F.3d 755, 763-771

Petition and complaints by members of high school basketball team against their coach were protected speech because they could not reasonably have led school officials to forecast substantial disruption of or material interference with school activity. However, students' refusal to board bus to play in out-of-town game was not protected by First Amendment. Even if expressive conduct, it substantially disrupted and materially interfered with operation of varsity boys' basketball program. Remand of claim of retaliation based on suspension from basketball team was required for district court to determine whether team members offered evidence from which reasonable jury could conclude petition and complaints against coach were substantial or motivating factor in decision to suspend them permanently from team, not simply boycott of game. Pinard v. Clatskanie School Dist. 6J (9th Cir. 2006) 446 F.3d 964, 972-979 .

Public high school could prohibit student from wearing T-shirt with message condemning and denigrating other students on basis of their sexual orientation without violating First Amendment. Evidence was sufficient to permit school officials to reasonably find that wearing of T-shirt collided with rights of other students in most fundamental way. Harper v. Poway Unif. School Dist. (9th Cir. 2006) 445 F.3d 1166, 1185-1191

School officials were properly granted qualified immunity and did not violate student's First Amendment rights by allowing references to God as they related to student's own beliefs but censoring sectarian, proselytizing portions of speech he gave at his high school graduation ceremony, and rejecting "disclaimer" stating that views of student speakers did not represent views of school district but allowing student to hand out copies of full text of his proposed draft speech just outside graduation ceremony site, when school officials' acts were necessary to avoid violating Establishment Clause to avoid appearance of government sponsorship of religion and because allowing speech would have had impermissibly coercive effect on dissenters, requiring them to participate in religious practice even by their silence. Lassonde v. Pleasanton Unif. Schl. Dist. (9th Cir. 2003) 320 F.3d 979, 982-985

Under totality of facts, high school did not violate student's First Amendment expression rights by temporarily expelling student based on poem which school officials perceived as implied threat of violent harm to himself and others, when, even though content of poem was factor in their decision, school officials had duty to prevent potential violence on campus to student himself or to other students and when officials decided not to allow student to attend class, they were aware of substantial number of facts that in isolation would probably not have warranted their response, but in combination gave them reasonable basis for their actions, including student's previous suicidal ideations, previous domestic dispute when student was forced to move out of family home, pressure placed on student by family to rescind charges filed against his father as result of domestic dispute, that student had broken up with his girlfriend and was reportedly stalking her, several disciplinary problems in past at least one of which involved some violence, and that he had been absent from school in three days before turning in poem to his English teacher; when poem itself was filled with imagery of violent death and suicide, which at its most mild interpretation appeared to be "cry for help"; and when this occurred against backdrop of recent actual school shootings. However, placement and retention in student's file of negative documentation did violate his rights, when letter was written and placed in file after perceived threat had subsided and student had returned to classes. LaVine v. Blaine School Dist. (9th Cir. 2001) 257 F.3d 981

Controversial student editorial on immigration was protected speech under Educ. Code § 48907, where there was no evidence student-author intended to cause substantial disruption of school, as opposed to other action, such as enforcement of immigration laws. School district did not violate Educ. Code § 48907 by holding meetings providing opportunity for protestors to express their reactions or by sending letter disavowing author's viewpoint, but did violate §

48907 by announcing that editorial was not protected speech, which was likely to chill future speech. Smith v. Novato Unif. School Dist. (2007) 150 Cal. App. 4th 1439, 1454-1465, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 508

High school administration could deny access to school by members of group wishing to distribute anti-abortion, pro-abstinence literature to students before classes, because school campuses are not public fora, and statutes and school district procedures focused on maintenance of peaceful, nonconfrontational environment for educational activities and school administration acted reasonably in determining that group's presence on campus would disrupt that atmosphere. Reeves v. Rocklin Unified School Dist. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 652, 660-666, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 213

Official school publications are limited forum in which the state has compelling interest in prior restraint of profanity. Lopez v. Tulare Joint Union High School District (1995) 34 Cal. App. 4th 1302, 1328-1330, 40 Cal. Rptr. 2d 762

Hair style, without more, is not per se expression of speech within protection of First Amendment; under Fourteenth Amendment, student hairstyle regulation need only be justified by some reasonable relationship between legitimate educational concerns of school administration and controlling male hair length and style. Montalvo v. Madera Unified School Dist. Bd. of Educ. (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 323, 334-335, 98 Cal. Rptr. 593

First Amendment does not guarantee student right to hold on-campus rallies when evidence showed that similar rallies in past had substantially disrupted educational process and when school provided readily available forum in which to exercise right of free speech. Lipkis v. Caveney (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 383, 385-387, 96 Cal. Rptr. 779

Federal government's distribution of funds to state and local governmental agencies as part of longstanding school aid program known as Chapter 2, which in turn lend educational materials and equipment to public and private schools, many of which are religiously affiliated, does not violate Establishment Clause, where Chapter 2 has undisputed secular purpose, and where Chapter 2 neither results in religious indoctrination by government nor defines its recipients by reference to religion. Mitchell v. Helms (2000) 530 U.S. 793, 120 S. Ct. 2530, 2540, 147 L. Ed. 2d 660

State statute and school district policy requiring teacher-led recitation of Pledge of Allegiance by students in public schools, but not compelling students to participate, and Pledge itself, did not constitute establishment of religion prohibited by United States Constitution, where there was no excessive entanglement with religion, primary effect was neither to advance nor inhibit religion, and Congress' purpose in enacting Pledge was patriotic, not to try to impress religious doctrine upon anyone; where Pledge did not violate Endorsement Test, i.e., did not have purpose or effect of endorsing, favoring, or promoting religion; where recitation of Pledge in public school classroom did not unconstitutionally coerce objecting students into affirming belief in God; and where "under God" was added as description of "one Nation" primarily to reinforce idea that U.S. was founded upon concept of limited government, in stark contrast to unlimited power exercised by communist governments. Newdow v. Ria Lindo Union Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 2010) 597 F.3d 1007, 1017-1042

School district's policy requiring musical numbers to be played at high school graduations to be secular in nature, requiring student to select musical piece other than Ave Maria to play at graduation, did not violate student's Establishment Clause rights to be free from hostility to religion, where district prohibited performance of Ave Maria in effort to avoid conflict with Establishment Clause; where reasonable person, informed as to history of district's prohibition on performance, would understand that action had secular effect of maintaining neutrality and ensuring district's continued compliance with Establishment Clause; and where policy did not create either administrative or political entanglement with religion. Nurre v. Whitehead (9th Cir. 2009) 580 F.3d 1087, 1095-1098

Public high school could prohibit student from wearing T-shirt with message condemning and denigrating other students on basis of their sexual orientation without violating First Amendment. Restriction regarding T-shirt did not impose substantial burden on free exercise of student's religious beliefs, and school had compelling interest in providing proper educational environment for students and its actions were narrowly tailored to achieve that end. Also, there was no evidence school's actions were based on other than entirely secular and legitimate aim of protecting rights of students and promoting tolerant and safe learning environment and no evidence school authorities sought to coerce or encourage student to participate in some other religion or to adopt state-supported or other religious faith. Harper v. Poway Unif. School Dist. (9th Cir. 2006) 445 F.3d 1166, 1186-1191

School district's policy of treating after school religious groups differently than non-religious groups violated federal Equal Access Act when access to student body association funding, yearbook, public address system, and bulletin boards is required by the Act. Act did not similarly encompass policy's restriction of religious group's access to student/staff time, school supplies, vehicles, or AV equipment, but such policy violated First Amendment, when, while not required to grant student clubs access to these benefits, school had chosen to do so and may not deny access to some groups without compelling government interest that is narrowly drawn to achieve that end, and when district's restriction on access to facilities was based purely on religious group's religious viewpoint in violation of First Amendment, and when requiring that district grant religious groups access would ensure neutrality rather than violate Establishment Clause. Prince v. Jacoby (9th Cir. 2002) 303 F.3d 1074, 1078-1094

Oregon regulation precluding school district from providing special education services to student at sectarian school does not violate federal constitution's guarantee of free exercise of religion or prohibition of establishment of religion. WJM ex rel. KDM v. Reedsport Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 1999) 196 F.3d 1046

Granting official school recognition under Federal Equal Access Act (FEAA) [20 U.S.C. § 4071] of student club with avowed aim of having Christian presence on campus and influencing others into Christian faith would not result in violation of either federal constitutional establishment clause or its state constitutional analog, when merely granting club same privileges enjoyed by all other campus clubs offends neither federal nor state constitution; when involvement of teachers with club does not tip establishment clause balance against club since their involvement occurs off campus and only nonparticipating faculty member would be involved on campus so that students would not be exposed to teachers' involvement in club, which would make unlikely that club's on-campus meetings would convey message of state approval or endorsement of religion; and when FEAA was carefully crafted to ensure against possibility that religious group's access to public high school's campus would offend establishment clause, and full compliance by club with provisions of FEAA is small price to pay for cost of admission to campus. Van Schoick v. Saddleback Valley Unified School Dist. (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 522, 532, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 562

School district's rejection of sign proffered by private party containing Ten Commandments in response to district's fund raising campaign did not violate party's free exercise rights under Cal. Const., art. I, § 4, when party's freedom to worship was not inhibited and when private party is not free to impose religious beliefs on children in educational arena. DiLoreto v. Board of Educ. of Downey Unif. Sch. Dist. (1999) 74 Cal. App. 4th 267, 278-279, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 791

[4] Right to Public Education

California statutes permitted home schooling as species of private school education exempted from compulsory education laws, but for family with history of dependency court proceedings involving charges of physical abuse, neglect, and failure to prevent sexual abuse, dependency court erred in declining to issue order that two youngest children be sent to private or public school after they were declared dependent due to abuse and neglect of their siblings, where statutory permission to home school could be constitutionally be overridden to protect safety of children. Jonathan L. v. Superior Court (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 1074, 1088-1105, 81 Cal. Rptr. 3d 571

Education is fundamental interest for purposes of state constitutional provisions guaranteeing equal protection of the laws. Serrano v. Priest (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 728, 765-766, 135 Cal. Rptr. 345, 557 P.2d 929 , cert. denied sub nom. Clowes v. Serrano 432 U.S. 907 (1977) ; see Serrano v. Priest (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 584, 596 n.11, 604-610, 96 Cal. Rptr. 601, 487 P.2d 1241

Refusal by school board to furnish transportation is abuse of discretion when failure to provide transportation would totally deprive minor plaintiffs of opportunity to attend school, and when school was in sound fiscal position to meet additional expenses of providing such transportation. Manjares v. Newton (1966) 64 Cal. 2d 365, 373-376, 49 Cal. Rptr. 805, 411 P.2d 901

Opportunity to attend and receive instruction at public schools is enforceable legal right. Piper v. Big Pine School Dist. (1924) 193 Cal. 664, 669-670, 226 P. 926 ; Ward v. Flood (1874) 48 Cal. 36, 50

Right to participate in interscholastic athletics is not fundamental right entitled to strict scrutiny review on equal protection, but rather is tested by rational basis standard, despite fact that public education itself is fundamental right under California Constitution. Steffes v. California Interscholastic Federation (1986) 176 Cal. App. 3d 739, 748, 222 Cal. Rptr. 355 ; see California Interscholastic Federation v. Jones (1988) 197 Cal. App. 3d 751, 754, 757-758, 243 Cal. Rptr. 271 (CIF rule restricting student's eligibility for interscholastic athletics to eight semesters is constitutional under rational basis test)

Residency requirement for admission into public schools [Educ. Code § 48200] that operated to exclude child of parents admitted into United States on nonimmigrant, nonresident visas was constitutional since it applied uniformly to all persons, regardless of alienage or citizenship. Anselmo v. Glendale Unified School District (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 520, 522, 523, 177 Cal. Rptr. 427

[5] Search and Seizure

Thirteen-year-old student's Fourth Amendment right was violated when she was subjected to search of her bra and underpants by school officials acting on reasonable suspicion she had brought forbidden prescription and over-the-counter drugs to school, where there were no reasons to suspect drugs presented danger or were concealed in her underwear; however, because there was reason to question clarity with which right was established, officials who ordered and conducted unconstitutional search were entitled to qualified immunity from liability. Safford Unified School Dist. v. Redding (2009) -- U.S. --, 129 S. Ct. 2633, 2639-2644, 174 L. Ed. 2d 354

Warrant and finding of probable cause are unnecessary in public school context because such requirements would unduly interfere with maintenance of swift and informal disciplinary procedures needed. Board of Education of Independent School District No. 92 of Bd. of Educ. v. Earls (2002) 536 U.S. 822, 122 S. Ct. 2559, 2564, 153 L. Ed. 2d 735 ; Vernonia School Dist. 47J v. Acton (1995) 515 U.S. 646, 653, 115 S. Ct. 2386, 132 L. Ed. 2d 564

Public school district's policy of suspicionless drug testing as requirement for participation in extra-curricular activities was constitutional, when student's privacy interest is limited in public school environment in which state is responsible for maintaining discipline, health, and safety, when manner in which production of urine sample is monitored was negligible intrusion and test results were kept confidential, and when testing students who participate in extracurricular activities is reasonably effective means of addressing school district's legitimate concerns in preventing, deterring, and detecting drug use. Board of Education of Independent School District No. 92 of Bd. of Educ. v. Earls (2002) 536 U.S. 822, 122 S. Ct. 2559, 2566-2569, 153 L. Ed. 2d 735

Suspicionless drug testing of athletes as requirement of participation is constitutional. Vernonia School Dist. 47J v. Acton (1995) 515 U.S. 646, 657-665, 115 S. Ct. 2386, 132 L. Ed. 2d 564

Child protective services officer's decision to seize and interrogate suspected child abuse victim at school with law enforcement officer present, in absence of warrant, court order, exigent circumstances, or parental consent, violated child's Fourth Amendment rights, where general law of search warrants applied to child abuse investigations; where, with direct involvement of law enforcement in in-school seizure and interrogation, child was not seized for some special need beyond normal need for law enforcement. Greene v. Camreta (9th Cir. 2009) 588 F.3d 1011, 1022-1030

High school teacher's opening of student's purse to find identification document so she could write referral for student's disruptive behavior without any suspicion student had engaged or was engaging in any proscribed activity justifying search and for which there was no suspicion student had knife or other prohibited item in her purse justifying teacher opening it was unreasonable search and evidence of knife would be suppressed in prosecution of student for carrying knife on school grounds, when student's disruptive behavior in class did not authorize school official to rummage through student's personal belongings, and when student did not refuse request to produce identification. In re Lisa G. (2004) 125 Cal. App. 4th 801, 805-808, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 163

Under Title IX of Education Amendments of 1972, 20 U.S.C. § 1681 et seq., private right of action may lie against a recipient of Title IX funding, such as school board, in cases of "student-on-student" harassment when (1) recipient acts with deliberate indifference to known acts of harassment in its programs or activities, (2) harasser is under school's disciplinary authority, and (3) harassment is so severe, pervasive, and objectively offensive that it effectively bars victim's access to educational opportunity or benefit. Davis v. Monroe County Board of Education (1999) 526 U.S. 629, 119 S. Ct. 1661, 143 L. Ed. 2d 839

District court properly granted summary judgment to college in student's action under Title IX on ground that college was not deliberately indifferent, when, on receiving actual knowledge of alleged sexual harassment of student by teacher, college provided student with counselors to assist her in documenting and presenting her case before school's committee on sexual harassment, provided her with one-on-one counseling sessions, instructed teacher against whom harassment was alleged to avoid contact with student alleging harassment, conducted hearing, concluded that teacher had sexually harassed student, and imposed number of disciplinary sanctions on teacher; lengthy delay between date of initial complaint and hearing did not constitute deliberate indifference because there were valid reasons for delay, including administrative hurdles, such as formation of sexual harassment hearing committee, student had difficulty retaining counsel, and student had relocated. Oden v. Northern Marianas College (9th Cir. 2002) 284 F.3d 1058

Although trial court erred in instructing jury under Educ. Code § 220 on claim by public students who suffered severe, pervasive, and offensive peer sexual orientation harassment while attending high school, including death threats, being spit on, physical violence and threats of physical violence, vandalism to personal property, and being subject to antigay epithets, by applying negligence principles derived from California Fair Employment and Housing Act (FEHA), instead of the more stringent elements of liability derived from Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, where Legislature intended Title IX's elements to govern action under § 220, record contained sufficient evidence to support jury's findings that students suffered violations of Educ. Code § 220 in school officials' and district's acting with deliberate indifference to antigay harassment to which students were subject by their peers. Donovan v. Poway Unif. School Dist. (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 567, 592-619, 84 Cal. Rptr. 3d 285

IDEA Amendments of 1997 did not categorically prohibit reimbursement for private education costs if child had not previously received special education and related services under authority of public agency. Forest Grove School Dist. v. T. A. (2009) -- U.S. --, 129 S. Ct. 2484, 2491-2496, 174 L. Ed. 2d 168

Parents may seek review of due process hearing in United States District Court on their own behalf, unrepresented by counsel even though they are not trained or licensed as attorneys, because IDEA accords to parents rights of their own that can be vindicated in court proceedings, which are not limited to procedural and reimbursement-related matters. Winkelman v. Parma City Sch. Dist. (2007) 550 U.S. 516, 127 S. Ct. 1994, 1999-2006, 167 L. Ed. 2d 904

Attorney's fees provision in IDEA does not authorize prevailing parents to recover fees for services rendered by experts in IDEA actions. Arlington Cent. Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ. v. Murphy (2006) 548 U.S. 291, 126 S. Ct. 2455, 165 L. Ed. 526, 538

Burden of proof in administrative due process hearing challenging individualized education plan is on party seeking relief. Thus, burden of persuasion was on child, as represented by his parents, when parents believed child's IEP was inappropriate, and they requested impartial due process hearing. Schaffer v. Weast (2005) 546 U.S. 49, 126 S. Ct. 528, 533-537, 163 L. Ed. 2d 387

Under requirement of providing "related services" under IDEA, school district must provide ventilator-dependent student continuous one-on-one nursing services student required during school hours in order to remain in school. Cedar Rapids Community School District v. Garret F. (1999) 526 U.S. 66, 119 S. Ct. 992, 143 L. Ed. 2d 154

Appropriate relief under former 20 U.S.C. § 1415(e)(2) (now see 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2)) is not limited in form and includes reimbursement to parents for private special education expenditures if court determines that private placement, rather than proposed individualized educational program, is proper under IDEA; parents' violation of 20 U.S.C. § 1415(e)(3) by placing child in private school without consent of local school authorities during pendency of hearing proceedings was not waiver of rights under former 20 U.S.C. § 1415(e)(2) (now see 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2)). Burlington School Comm. v. Massachusetts Dept. of Ed. (1985) 471 U.S. 359, 369-374, 105 S. Ct. 1996, 85 L. Ed. 2d 385

Whenever remedy under § 504 of Rehabilitation Act [29 U.S.C. § 794] is provided with more clarity and precision under former Education of the Handicapped Act (now known as Individuals with Disabilities Education Act) [20 U.S.C. § 1400 et seq.], plaintiff is not allowed to circumvent or enlarge on remedies available under EHA by resort to § 504. Smith v. Robinson (1984) 468 U.S. 992, 1018, 104 S. Ct. 3457, 82 L. Ed. 2d 746

IDEA [20 U.S.C. § 1400 et seq.] requires states receiving federal funding to provide all handicapped children with free appropriate public education, including related services such as supportive services as may be required to assist handicapped child to benefit from special education. Irving Independent School Dist. v. Tatro (1984) 468 U.S. 883, 889, 104 S. Ct. 3371, 82 L. Ed. 2d 664

Court's inquiry in suit under 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2) is twofold: (1) whether state has complied with procedures set forth in IDEA, and (2) whether individualized educational program developed through IDEA's procedures is reasonably calculated to enable child to receive educational benefits; state complies with obligations imposed by Congress if these requirements are met. Board of Education v. Rowley (1982) 458 U.S. 176, 206-207, 102 S. Ct. 3034, 73 L. Ed. 2d 690

District court properly dismissed action brought by mother on behalf of autistic student for negligence, outrage, and violations of 42 U.S.C. § 1983 predicated on student's constitutional rights and statutory rights under IDEA for lack of subject matter jurisdiction based on mother's failure to exhaust her administrative remedies before coming into federal court, where mother sought relief for injuries caused by administration of disciplinary measures as part of larger educational strategy, which could have been redressed to some degree by IDEA's administrative procedures. Payne v. Peninsula Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 2010) 598 F.3d 1123, 1126-1128

School district failed to provide pupil student of average intelligence that district had diagnosed with learning disabilities in first grade with free appropriate public education in eighth, ninth and tenth grades and was required to reimburse parents for three years of private school tuition and attorney's fees, where school district erroneously concluded that 1997 amendment to IDEA drastically changed free appropriate public education standard and proper standard to determine whether disabled child received free appropriate public education was "educational benefit" standard set forth by Supreme Court in Rowley. District did fail to confer free appropriate public education based on procedural violations involving district's "pre-meeting meeting," where there was no evidence district made program decisions at preparatory meeting, parents actively participated in individualized educational program formulation process, and district changed various aspects of program based on recommendations of parents and psychologist. District did not commit procedural violation of IDEA by not specifying teaching methodologies in pupil's individualized educational programs, where district's determination and ALJ's finding that teachers needed flexibility in teaching methodologies because there was not single methodology that would always be effective was entitled to deference. District court erred in concluding that district committed procedural violation by not specifying minutes of instruction to be devoted to each service in individualized educational program, where amount of time to be devoted to services was appropriate to specific services provided, and even if district did commit procedural violation by failing to specify minutes, it did not result in denial of free appropriate public education. Plaintiffs failed to exhaust claim that district violated IDEA procedurally in regards to transition services by failing to raise argument in administrative complaint or due process hearing. J. L. v. Mercer Island Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 2010) 592 F.3d 938, 946-954

Administrative law judge's conclusion that school district misclassified pupil as mentally retarded rather than autistic qualified parents for attorney's fees under IDEA as prevailing party, even though pupil was not denied FAPE since he received instruction by qualified teacher, where change in disability classification legally entitled pupil to instruction by teachers qualified to teach students with both mental retardation and autism, and before decision, school district refused to recognize his classification as autistic, and thus his legal right to such instruction. Further, parents were entitled to attorney's fees even though pupil was represented by his paternal grandmother, who was practicing attorney, where grandmother was not his legal guardian or acting in place of his natural or adoptive parent. Weissburg v. Lancaster School Dist. (9th Cir. 2010) 591 F.3d 1255, 1258-1261

District court did not abuse its discretion by denying reimbursement for private school tuition to parents of student diagnosed with attention deficit hyperactivity disorder who was eligible for services under IDEA, where district court properly reviewed state hearing officer's decision to grant partial reimbursement de novo giving his determinations due weight; and where substantial evidence supported district court's conclusion that placement at residential facility was not necessary to provide special education and related services, and it was child's "risky behaviors" outside of school that prompted her parents to enroll her in residential facility. Ashland School District v. Parents of Student R.J. (9th Cir. 2009) 588 F.3d 1004, 1010-1011

District court properly reversed hearing officer's award of reimbursement to parents for residential placement of their child after conducting independent review of record and determining that parents were not entitled to reimbursement for expenses associated with residential placement either before or after they provided school district with notice, where district court properly reviewed state hearing officer's award of reimbursement de novo and adequately responded to hearing officer's conclusions, and where district court was not required to give deference to hearing officer's conclusions. District court properly considered high cost of residential treatment after concluding that much of cost of medical care in residential placement expenses was unrelated to educational needs, and properly found that after giving parents 23-page pamphlet explaining their rights and obligations under IDEA, including their obligation to give notice before unilaterally transferring child to residential educational setting, district was not obligated to remind them of this obligation once it knew they were considering residential placement; and ample evidence supported district court's conclusion that residential placement was necessitated by medical, rather than educational, concerns. Although hearing officer's decision was delayed, parent's entitlement to relief under IDEA "stay put" provision was properly reduced, where delay was not unreasonable based on numerous motions and briefs parties filed, as well as voluminous record. Ashland School District v. Parents of Student E.H. (9th Cir. 2009) 587 F.3d 1175, 1181-1188

harmless error, where district court failed to properly consider whether school district's policy of limiting parents' classroom observational opportunities to 20 minutes was harmless because parents nevertheless had full opportunity to participate in process to fashion appropriate educational plan for their child with help from informed and knowledgeable expert; and where there was no evidence supporting finding that parents' right to participate was significantly affected. District court properly denied "stay put" order requiring school district to reimburse parents for continuing education expenses beyond that covered in its original order, where private program chosen by parents alone did not qualify as "current education placement" under IDEA. L. M. v. Capistrano Unified School Dist. (9th Cir. 2009) 556 F.3d 900, 909-913

School district committed procedural violation when it did not inform parents and children of its impending evaluations of children, which deprived children of free appropriate public education, and parents were entitled to full reimbursement for private evaluations of children, which they reasonably sought when they were not told district would conduct evaluations of their children, because their refusal to share information did not harm district, which had to obtain its own evaluation, and their refusal to share information had no connection to district's violation of IDEA's notice provisions. District court did not abuse its discretion in refusing to grant parents reimbursement for services for which they paid during delay in evaluating children, where district had to provide services only upon determination of eligibility and had no obligation to provide services until after evaluations. State's 45-school-day timeline was not an inconsistent interpretation of IDEA's reasonable timeliness requirement but did not provide school districts with safe harbor, where, regardless of compliance with state regulatory requirement, IDEA required that districts act within reasonable time to evaluate potentially disabled children; 110-day delay, which occurred during summer vacation and complied with state regulation, was reasonable, where administrative delay was needed to promote effective test results, it made sense to allow district degree of leeway during summer vacation. District conducted proper evaluation even though it did not test children for autism before it finalized IEPs, where district could not effectively administer autism tests until after test administrators had gotten to know children, so that evaluations qualified as initial evaluations under IDEA; initial IEPs were reasonably calculated to provide children with educational benefits even though they did not address autism, where children received educational benefits while district pursued autism eligibility determinations. District was capable of implementing later IEPs, where IDEA did not require district to employ behavior analyst, and district had personnel capable of implementing IEPs. JG v. Douglas County School Dist. (9th Cir. 2008) 552 F.3d 786, 793-802

Elementary school district violated IDEA by failing to meet its procedural obligation to evaluate child to determine whether he was autistic, where district's failure to meet its obligation to evaluate child in all areas of suspected disability, including whether he was autistic, was procedural error that denied him FAPE. However, district court did not apply incorrect standard in employing "regression/recoupment" standard in determining that child was not entitled to extended school services, as opposed to a multi-faceted inquiry, as purportedly required by state law, and it was reasonable for hearing officer to rely on testimony of district's witnesses because they had observed child's school performance. N.B. v. Hellgate Elementary Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 2008) 541 F.3d 1202, 1207-1213

Dismissal of father's action under IDEA against state department of education without prejudice did not confer prevailing party status on defendant for purposes of attorneys' fees award under IDEA, where dismissal without prejudice did not constitute judgment on merits, and where dismissal without prejudice did not alter legal relationship of parties because defendant remained subject to risk of re-filing. Oscar v. Alaska Dep't of Educ. & Early Dev. (9th Cir. 2008) 541 F.3d 978, 981-982

District court erred by reversing state administrative agency's finding that procedural violation of IDEA amounted to harmless error, where district court failed to properly consider whether parents' right to participate was significantly affected, i.e., whether district's policy of limiting parents' classroom observational opportunities to 20 minutes was harmless because parents nevertheless had full opportunity to participate in process to fashion appropriate educational plan with help from informed and knowledgeable expert; and where there was no evidence to support finding that parents' right to participate was significantly affected. However, district court properly denied "stay put" order, where parents could not argue they prevailed in their procedural challenge to IEP, or that district court determined that child's privately funded educational services were appropriate. L.M. v. Capistrano Unified Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 2008) 538 F.3d 1261, 1267-1271

In action by parents individually and as guardians ad litem for their autistic daughters against state education department for alleged violations of IDEA and § 504 of Rehabilitation Act of 1973 as amended [29 U.S.C. § 794], Ninth Circuit would not decide whether plaintiffs alleged privately enforceable cause of action for damages, where, although injunctive relief was available under IDEA, monetary damages were not; and where, although FAPE requirements in IDEA and in § 504 regulations requiring FAPE were overlapping but different, availability of relief under IDEA did not limit availability of damages remedy under § 504 FAPE regulations, and § 504 provided private right of action for damages, parents did not specify which § 504 regulations they believed were violated and which supported privately enforceable cause of action. Mark H. v. Lemahieu (9th Cir. 2008) 513 F.3d 922, 928-930, 932-940

After school district filed administrative complaint against mother when she refused to consent to Individualized Education Plan for her son, and administrative hearing officer dismissed complaint without prejudice, mother lacked standing to pursue action in federal district court under 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2)(A) claiming hearing officer erred in failing to dismiss with prejudice and in failing to identify her as prevailing party, where mother did not suffer injury in fact because her injuries were speculative, and where mother did not affirmatively request relief because school district had filed administrative complaint and when hearing officer dismissed matter without prejudice, it merely restored status quo. Levina v. San Luis Coastal Unified School Dist. (9th Cir. 2007) 514 F.3d 866, 868-869

Mother was not entitled to damages to compensate her for lost income and emotional distress she experienced during her ultimately successful efforts to obtain benefits for her son under Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, because 42 U.S.C. § 1983 did not create cause of action for money damages under IDEA for lost earnings and suffering of parent pursuing IDEA relief. Further, because mother was not qualified individual with disability, her claim was not cognizable under either title II of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 [42 U.S.C. § 12132], or § 504 of Rehabilitation Act of 1973 [29 U.S.C. § 794(a); see 29 U.S.C. § 705(20)]. Blanchard v. Morton Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 2007) 504 F.3d 771, 773-774

After 1997 amendments, IDEA no longer requires presence of child's current regular education teacher on IEP team, so failure to include both child's past or current regular education teacher and current special education teacher was not procedural error; however, failure to include special education teacher or provider on team who actually taught child was procedural violation of IDEA. Procedural error was harmless, however, where child did not qualify for IDEA relief. R.B. v. Napa Valley Unified Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 2007) 496 F.3d 932, 937-947

Action by parents and autistic student brought under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 and § 504 of Rehabilitation Act of 1973, based on conflicts between plaintiffs and school district over student's IEP, was properly dismissed for failure to exhaust administrative remedies, where plaintiffs alleged injuries that could be redressed to some degree by IDEA's administrative procedures and remedies. Kutasi v. Las Virgenes Unified Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 2007) 494 F.3d 1162, 1167-1170

Because hearing officer determined that student was deprived of free and appropriate public education and eligible for special education, student was prevailing party entitled to award of attorney's fees even though school had started assessment process during course of proceedings and hearing officer purportedly limited his determination of eligibility to specific time period preceding issuance of his opinion, where hearing officer's limitation did not mean there were no significant aspects of order that were judicially enforceable, thus altering legal relationship of parties, and where student's victory was not de minimis or technical. Parent V.S. v. Los Gatos-Saratoga Joint Union High School Dist. (9th Cir. 2007) 484 F.3d 1230, 1233-1234

In action under IDEA for reimbursement for private school education parents obtained for child after withdrawing her from public school system, district court's acceptance of hearing officer's determination that child was not legally entitled to receive publicly funded special education was not clear error, where district court did not clearly err in determining that child was not legally entitled to special education based on specific learning disability, because any existing severe discrepancy between ability and achievement appeared correctable in regular classroom; and where district court did not clearly err in determining child was not legally entitled to special education based on other health impairment in form of seizure disorder or attention deficit disorder, because it was reasonable for hearing officer to conclude that any impairment could be accommodated in general classroom. Hood v. Encinitas Union Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 2007) 482 F.3d 1175, 1180-1186 (reprinted a amended Hood v. Encinitas Union Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 2007) 486 F.3d 1099)

School district's failure to implement portions of severely autistic student's IEP in transition from elementary to middle school did not violate either procedural or substantive requirements of IDEA, where school district's failures were not material, with exception of math instructions shortfall, which was remedied in response to ALJ's order, because failures did not fall significantly short of those required by IEP. However, because student did partially prevail, he was to that extent entitled to reasonable attorney's fees for relevant work done at administrative hearing level, but not for his mother, who acted as one of his attorneys in proceedings. Van Duyn v. Baker School District (9th Cir. 2007) 481 F.3d 770, 779-784

District court's dismissal of claims under Individuals with Disabilities Education Act for failure to serve timely complaint was error, where although district court properly applied state's statute of limitations because IDEA had no statute of limitations at time, district court improperly applied state rule that complaint had to be served within 30 days of service of final order by state administrative agency, which plaintiff conceded he did not do, because Fed. R. Civ. Proc. 3 controlled when action arising under federal law was commenced for purposes of tolling statute of limitations borrowed from state law, and Fed. R. Civ. Proc. 4(m) provided time limit for service of process with which plaintiff had complied. S.J. v. Issaquah Sch. Dist. No. 411 (9th Cir. 2006) 470 F.3d 1288, 1289, 1290-1293

Attorney's fees awarded under IDEA [20 U.S.C. § 1415] are governed by standards set forth by U.S. Supreme Court in Hensley v. Eckerhart (1983) 461 U.S. 424, 103 S. Ct. 1933, 76 L. Ed. 2d 40 and its progeny for fee awards under 42 U.S.C. § 1988. Thus, although district court's partial attorney's fees award to mother may ultimately prove consistent with Hensley, award would be vacated and remanded to district court when it did not appear from record that court applied Hensley because it did not consider mother's degree of success. Aguirre v. Los Angeles Unified School Dist. (9th Cir. 2006) 461 F.3d 1114, 1117-1121 Mother whose conflict with school district about education of her son was resolved by settlement agreement signed only by parties was not entitled to attorney's fees and costs under 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(3)(B), because mother was not prevailing party. Although through IDEA, mother secured some special education benefits for her child from district and so met first prong of test for prevailing party by achieving material alteration of legal relationship of parties, there was nothing in record that could be construed as judicial sanction of settlement agreement. P.N. v. Seattle School Dist. No. 1 (9th Cir. 2006) 458 F.3d 983, 985-991

School district fulfilled its duty under IDEA by notifying student's mother it was her obligation to remove earwax from son's ear or have it removed by medical professional as condition for completion of audiology test, so there was no procedural violation when mother failed to have wax removed and test was not completed. No procedural violation in failure to assess double vision or optic nerve damage, when consultant found student's vision was not hindering his education. Failure to include and consider all available information from people knowledgeable about student in development of individualized education plan (IEP) did not violate IDEA, when IEP was developed for student as result of his records, observations, assessments by qualified individuals and participation by his parents, and qualified administrator conducted thorough hearing to review individual education plan, and largely approved of proposal but supplemented plan with further goals. District did not violate IDEA's procedures when it conducted suitable functional behavioral assessment and subsequently proposed behavior intervention plan, when IEP team and parents had opportunity to discuss plan when it was proposed, and mother exercised her rights by contesting plan and then challenging plan through statutory procedures. Failure to assess student in Korean, his primary language, did not violate

IDEA, when five assessments were at issue, mother consented to assessment plan specifying speech and language assessment be conducted in English, occupational therapy, physical therapy and vision assessments were nonverbal, and psychological assessment was largely nonverbal; Korean interpreter was present during verbal portions but direct verbal cues were not given in Korean, because hearing officer agreed with psychologist that giving Korean cues would have disturbed validity of test. District did not fail to provide adequate support services to allow student to meet proposed educational goals by not providing related therapy services, when evidence did not conclusively demonstrate related therapy services were necessary to ensure student received some educational benefit. Hearing officer and district court did not abuse discretion by awarding compensatory education services in form of individualized instruction for teachers addressing implementation of IEP's self-help goals and objectives. District court did not abuse its discretion in not awarding attorney's fees to parents by finding district prevailed on all significant issues and parents prevailed only on some minor issues. Park v. Anaheim Union High Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 2006) 444 F.3d 1149, 1154-1157

District court erred in dismissing for failure to exhaust administrative remedies mother's action for emotional distress based on school district's failure to accommodate her child's special education needs and implement his individualized education plan, when remedies available under IDEA included educational services for disabled children, but did not provide adequate remedy for mother. Blanchard v. Morton Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 2005) 420 F.3d 918, 920-922

School district's failure to include regular education teacher on team that prepared individualized education program (IEP) for student with disability, when there was possibility that student would be placed in integrated classroom, rendered IEP invalid. Failure to include regular education teacher on team significantly deviated from procedural requirements of IDEA that at least one regular education teacher be included in development of IEP for student with disability pursuant to 20 U.S.C. § 1414(d)(1)(B)(ii). Further, critical structural defect in constitution of IEP team precluded court from considering whether IEP developed without inclusion of at least one regular education teacher was reasonably calculated to enable student with disability to receive free and appropriate public education. M.L. v. Federal Way School Dist. (9th Cir. 2004) 387 F.3d 1101, 1108

In action under Americans With Disabilities Act, Rehabilitation Act, and state anti-discrimination statutes, against county and local educational authorities based on alleged discrimination against autistic children who were part of special education program by giving them shorter school day, students sufficiently exhausted administrative remedies under IDEA by pursuing complaint resolution procedure to completion, when requiring each autistic student to seek due process hearing would not further purposes of exhaustion or Congressional intent behind IDEA scheme. Christopher S. v. Stanislaus County Office of Educ. (9th Cir. 2004) 384 F.3d 1205, 1209-1214

School district's failure to include regular education teacher on individualized educational placement team when there was possibility child might be included in regular education classroom was procedural violation of IDEA, but since violation did not result in loss of educational opportunity, failure to include teacher on team did not violate IDEA. By articulating academic expectation that kindergarten students will learn to read, district did not determine placement based on rigid policy or criteria. District did not violate IDEA's mainstreaming requirement by placing child in self-contained classroom, when record showed there would be little to no benefit to placing child in regular education classroom, and program offered in self-contained classroom would offer him substantial benefits in all developmental areas. Although teacher can be deliberately indifferent to teasing of disabled child and teasing can be so severe that child can derive no benefit from services offered by school district so that child has been denied FAPE, record did not support conclusion that either teacher or district were deliberately indifferent to any teasing or that teasing denied child educational opportunity. M.L. v. Federal Way School District (9th Cir. 2003) 341 F.3d 1052, 1062-1072

School district's efforts to serve educational interests of student disabled by Down's Syndrome by temporary individualized educational placement (IEP) in special classroom complied with substantive and procedural requirements of IDEA. District provided meaningful opportunity for mother to participate in IEP process, developed IEP plan to best of its ability after mother and district could not come to a consensus about IEP, and afforded mother two due process hearings to establish validity of its proposed plan, so that district did not violate 34 C.F.R. § 300.345. Because implementation of student's last agreed-on IEP in district from which she transferred would have been impossible in new district, and because explicitly temporary and malleable nature of placement that district offered approximated last agreed-on IEP as closely as possible, district abided by "stay-put" provisions of IDEA during pendency of due process hearing. Because student was not enrolled in any district at time of scheduled meetings and was home-schooled entirely for preceding year, mother's presence as student's then-current home-school teacher sufficed to meet requirement in 20 U.S.C.S § 1401(a)(2). Finally, in light of flexible and temporary nature of IEP, district's interim placement was substantively proper and provided for mainstreaming to extent appropriate. Ms. S. ex rel. G v. Vashon Island School District (9th Cir. 2003) 337 F.3d 1115, 1129-1138

School district violated IDEA's procedural mandates in its development of severely hearing-impaired child's Individual Education Plan (IEP), and thereby denied child free appropriate public education, by not including either representative from special school child had attended for preceding three years and was currently attending or child's parents at meeting at which IEP was developed. Trial court properly awarded parents cost of tuition at special school to which parents sent child during that school year. Shapiro v. Paradise Valley Unif. Schl. Dist. No. 69 (9th Cir. 2003) 317 F.3d 1072, 1076-1080

District court properly held that state's hearing officer correctly ruled assessment that child was not learning disabled child was adequate assessment under 20 U.S.C. § 1414 despite lack of administering traditional IQ test as part of assessment, when state regulation requires only "standardized tests" only if valid for particular student, and if not, alternative measures are to be spelled out in assessment plan, when school district administered six standardized tests to child, complying with literal requirement that it use standardized tests if applicable, and when district used alternative measures to evaluate intellectual ability rather than relying on traditional standardized IQ tests, including interviews, observations, parent-teacher reports, review of records and tests of specific skills and parents signed and approved plan. Ford v. Long Beach Unified School District (9th Cir. 2002) 291 F.3d 1086

District court properly denied preliminary injunction sought by autistic child under 20 U.S.C. § 1415(j) to modify "stay put" order by state Special Education Hearing Office to retain services provided by IFSP rather than IEP as ordered by state, when school district that became responsible for child's education argued persuasively that it could meet requirements of stay put provision by providing comparable educational placement rather than what child was receiving under IFSP by analogizing district's responsibilities to child to its responsibilities to incoming transfer student as dictated by California law, and Hearing Office's order preserved tutors, goals, and plan child used in his IFSP but only changed plan supervisors, so that child could not show irreparable harm and likelihood of success on merits. Johnson ex rel. Johnson v. Special Educ. Hearing Office (9th Cir. 2002) 287 F.3d 1176

School district's failure to give parents of autistic child copies of evaluations indicating possibility of autism and need for further psychiatric evaluations when district learned of possible diagnosis violated procedural requirements of IDEA by preventing parents from fully and effectively participating in creation of individualized education program (IEP) for child and making it impossible to design IEP that addressed unique needs as autistic child so as to deny her free appropriate public education; district court erred by according greater deference to credibility determinations of State Review Officer than to those of Hearing Officer in applying due weight standard. Amanda J. v. Clark County School Dist. (9th Cir. 2001) 267 F.3d 877, 881-882

Parents of autistic son entitled to special education benefits under IDEA, who prevailed at state Complaint Resolution Procedure (CRP) on complaints of violations of IDEA as result of which school district held several Individualized Education Program (IEP) meetings attended by parents represented by counsel, resulting in revised IEP for their son in compliance with IDEA, were properly awarded attorney's fees in separate district court action, where district court has jurisdiction over case in which fees are sought even though liability is established outside district proceeding itself; plaintiff parents were prevailing party; CRP is "proceeding brought under" 20 U.S.C. § 1415, entitled prevailing party to attorney's fees under 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(3)(B); and where 20 U.S.C.§ 1415(i)(3)(D)(ii) does not preclude parents from recovering fees for attorney's attendance at IEP meetings convened as result of *CRP. An award of compensatory education equal to time lost while school district denied IDEA [20 U.S.C. § 1400 et seq.] benefits to student is equitable, not contractual, remedy; if student has suffered no ultimate harm and has graduated high school before age 21, court is not required to award compensatory education. When parents accepted school district's eligibility finding but challenged proposed placement, and when district made eligibility and placement decisions based on its expert's observation of child in present setting, i.e., private school, but refused to allow parents' expert to observe placement proposed by district, parents had statutory right to have their expert testify at administrative hearing, thus, ipso facto were entitled to have their expert observe proposed placement before participating in administrative hearing at which propriety of proposed placement would be determined. There were no administrative remedies to exhaust, because purpose of Educ. Code § 56329(b) was to permit independent observation before hearing was held so student and his parents were in position to challenge proposed placement at hearing. Finally, child's right to have his expert observe district's proposed placement was not contingent on his exercise of right to conduct expensive and time-consuming independent educational assessment. *Benjamin G. v. Parents' unilateral placement in private school rather than juvenile system facility of teenager with history of truancy and juvenile offenses was done under exceptional circumstances, including bad faith on part of respondents, excusing application of "stay put" provision of 20 U.S.C. § 1415(j) and entitled parents to reimbursement for teenager's private educational costs, because respondents failed to undertake diagnostic reassessment and latest placement was woefully inadequate and inappropriate in light of teenager's history of educational handicap, despite fact that teenager's problems were formidable and extremely difficult for diagnosis and treatment. In re John K. Code § 56505(d) requiring that student remain in current placement pending hearing on right to special education did not preclude reimbursement of parents for unilateral placement when parents placed student in private school after administrative hearing erroneously denied special placement. Byrnes v. Riles (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 1170, 1180, 204 Cal. Rptr. 100

Damages are appropriate relief under 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2), authorizing court to grant appropriate relief for improper denial of special education, when student has fully complied with state "stay put" requirements set out in Educ. Code § 56505(d), but attorney's fees are not justified when district did not act arbitrarily or capriciously and district's behavior did not amount to discrimination against student. Byrnes v. Riles (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 1170, 1180, 204 Cal. Rptr. 100

Witnesses and parties germane to determining which agency should pay for special educational services for student are not necessary for due process hearing under Educ. Code § 56505, which is forum for deciding single issue of whether student is entitled to services. Nevada County Office of Education v. Riles (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 767, 774-775, 197 Cal. Rptr. 152

"Stay put" provision of 20 U.S.C. § 1415(j) (pupil must remain in present placement pending hearing on child's free appropriate public education unless educational agency and parents agree) proscribes unilateral action by parents in absence of justifying circumstances and does not entitle parents to reimbursement for costs of unilateral placement prior to determination that placement appropriate. Newport-Mesa Unified School Dist. v. Hubert (1982) 132 Cal. App. 3d 724, 730-735, 183 Cal. Rptr. 334

On review from judgment granting school district's peremptory writ of mandate setting aside state Department of Education's decision that child required full-time residential educational program, appellate court was precluded from determining appropriate method of reviewing department's decision because school district waived right to appeal on issue by accepting benefits of judgment, and because child and department are not "aggrieved" parties under 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2) and did not suffer prejudice from use of mandamus action. San Francisco Unified School Dist. v. State of California (1982) 131 Cal. App. 3d 54, 64-65, 182 Cal. Rptr. 525 (dictum stating that review of administrative decision should be limited to civil action under 20 U.S.C. § 1415(e)(2), precluding use of state administrative mandate remedy under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5)

Substantial evidence in form of expert testimony supported hearing officer's finding that child's emotional problems adversely affected his ability to learn and thus justify requiring individualized education program; although preference for "mainstreaming" established in EAHCA, substantial evidence that child's home life was major factor in his learning disability as supporting finding that residential placement was appropriate and necessary. San Francisco Unified School Dist. v. State of California (1982) 131 Cal. App. 3d 54, 70-71, 182 Cal. Rptr. 525

Appeal from judgment setting aside state Department of Education's decision that child required full-time residential educational program did not result in enforcement of important right affecting public interest so as to justify recovery of attorney's fees on private attorney general theory, but restitution of tuition costs for child's placement was appropriate in interests of justice. San Francisco Unified School Dist. v. State of California (1982) 131 Cal. App. 3d 54, 71-72, 182 Cal. Rptr. 525

[8] Student Discipline

Two days' suspension did not rise to level of penal sanction calling for full panoply of federal procedural due process protections applicable to criminal prosecution. Bethel School Dist. No. 403 v. Fraser (1986) 478 U.S. 675, 686, 106 S. Ct. 3159, 92 L. Ed. 2d 549

School disciplinary rule proscribing obscene language and prespeech admonitions of teachers give adequate warning to student that his lewd speech could subject him to sanctions. Bethel School Dist. No. 403 v. Fraser (1986) 478 U.S. 675, 686, 106 S. Ct. 3159, 92 L. Ed. 2d 549

School board's interpretation of its rules was not to be relitigated under 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Bd. of Education of Rogers, Arkansas v. McCluskey (1982) 458 U.S. 966, 102 S. Ct. 3469, 73 L. Ed. 2d 1273, 1277

State having established right to public education as not permitted to withdraw that right for misconduct without due process. Goss v. Lopez (1975) 419 U.S. 565, 574, 95 S. Ct. 729, 42 L. Ed. 2d 725

Pre-school teacher was not entitled to qualified immunity for seizure of preschooler who had been diagnosed with tuberous sclerosis and who suffered from non-verbal autism and her alleged slapping, forced participation in self-beating and slamming, where preschooler posed no danger to anyone nor was he disruptive in classroom, and at young age and suffering from significant and serious disabilities, he was even more vulnerable than average pre-school child, so that teacher used excessive force in violation of preschooler's Fourth Amendment rights; and where at time of alleged abuse, right of public school students to be free from excessive force imposed by their teachers was uncontroverted. Complaint also sufficiently alleged that school officials were individually liable under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 for their inaction in training, supervision and control of teacher and that officials showed reckless and callous indifference to preschooler's rights by permitting teacher to continue to work with preschooler, knowing she posed safety risk to children, and by not reporting or remediating alleged abuse when they became aware of it. Preschooler II v. Clark County Sch. Bd. of Trustees (9th Cir. 2007) 479 F.3d 1175, 1180-1183

Vice principal was not entitled to qualified immunity in second-grade student's action under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, based on vice principal's having taped student's head to tree as discipline for fighting and refusing to stand quietly against wall as punishment, when student's Fourth Amendment right to be free from unreasonable seizure and protected from use of excessive force extended to seizure by or at direction of school officials and being held to tree with tape for five minutes was restraint on student's liberty and constituted seizure within meaning of Fourth Amendment's prohibition against unreasonable search and seizure, and when student's right to be free from excessive force at hands of teachers employed by state was clearly established. Doe v. Hawaii Dept. of Education (9th Cir. 2003) 334 F.3d 906, 908-910

Educ. Code § 48915, insofar as it compels suspension and mandates recommendation of expulsion for certain offenses, constitutes "higher level of service" under Cal. Const. art. XIIIB, § 6, and imposes reimbursable state mandate for all resulting hearing costs, even costs attributable to procedures required by federal law. San Diego Unified Sch. Dist. v. Commission on State Mandates (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 859, 867-890, 16 Cal. Rptr. 3d 466, 94 P.3d 589

Reliance by disciplinary panel in school expulsion hearing on statements and reports rather than on testimony by witnesses is improper when evidence is conflicting and there is no showing that witnesses were unavailable or that disclosure of their identity and presence would subject witnesses to significant and specific risk of harm. John A. v. San Bernardino City Unified School Dist. (1982) 33 Cal. 3d 301, 308, 187 Cal. Rptr. 472, 654 P.2d 242

Presence of district teachers on disciplinary hearing panel deprived student subjected to expulsion hearing of neither an impartial hearing panel nor due process. John A. v. San Bernardino City Unified School Dist. (1982) 33 Cal. 3d 301, 308-309, 187 Cal. Rptr. 472, 654 P.2d 242

Notice to student facing expulsion does not require that student be informed of availability of free legal assistance. John A. v. San Bernardino City Unified School Dist. (1982) 33 Cal. 3d 301, 309-310, 187 Cal. Rptr. 472, 654 P.2d 242

School district's "zero tolerance" policy governing expulsions, which required principal or designee to immediately suspend and recommend for expulsion pupil who committed specified acts at school or school activity off school grounds did not violate state law by eliminating principal's statutory discretion to decide not to recommend student for expulsion hearing. No provisions in Education Code require district to provide principal with authority to dismiss expulsion charge if (1) principal found student had committed offense, (2) stricter recommendation procedures did not infringe on student's statutory rights to objective and fair expulsion procedure, and (3) mandatory recommendation requirements did not preclude principal from expressing own views as to whether expulsion was appropriate in particular case. Rules did not violate due process rights, when (1) rule provided required procedural protections, (2) student was not constitutionally entitled to notice of scope of principal's authority vis-a-vis governing school board, and (3) inconsistencies in rules with regard to whether principal or superintendent could recommend expulsion for offenses not included in Education Code provisions did not create inevitable due process violation. T.H. v. San Diego Unified School Dist. (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1267, 1281-1287, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 532

Under Educ. Code § 48918(i)(1), school board trustees did not have mandatory duty to subpoena witnesses requested by students to be expelled, because by using "may" rather than "shall," § 48918(i)(1) vests school boards with discretion to issue subpoenas in expulsion proceedings, and legislative history and purpose of legislation indicate intent to make issuance of subpoenas matter of discretion. Although in adopting blanket policy never to issue subpoenas trustees abdicated their discretion, rather than exercising it, in refusing to issue subpoenas in this case, trustees did not act arbitrarily or abuse discretion, because students named many witnesses and claimed they were "percipient" witnesses to events at issue, but backed up these claims with nothing other than bald assertion, and entire conduct of proceedings on students' behalf exposed their advocate's manifest purposes, i.e., delay, obstruction, obfuscation, disruption, and harassment. Woodbury v. Brown-Dempsey (2003) 108 Cal. App. 4th 421, 430-439, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 124

In 42 U.S.C. § 1983 action arising from suspension of male high school student for five days based on sexual harassment of female student by touching or grabbing her buttocks, trial court erred in deciding suspended student was denied due process under federal and state constitutional law, state Education Code, and school district regulations, where, when facing temporary short-term suspension, student has minimal procedural due process rights, including right to hearing, and informal meeting between school official and student or between official and student and his parents has been held to comport with due process, and where student was informed about complaints against him and given opportunity to respond to them. Further, there was no violation of suspension procedures in Educ. Code § 48911(b), requiring that suspension be preceded by informal conference between principal and student, which occurred, student could be suspended for first offense under Educ. Code § 48900.5, and there was no violation of Administrative Regulation 5144.1, authorizing first-time expulsion for variety of acts not including acts for which student was suspended, because suspension is justified under state law even when grounds for suspension are not expressly stated under school rules. Granowitz v. Redlands Unified School Dist. (2003) 105 Cal. App. 4th 349, 354-359, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 410

Alleged violations of suspension and expulsion provisions of Educ. Code §§ 48900, 48911, and 48918 do not constitute tort for purposes of action under Gov. Code § 815.6 (breach of mandatory duty imposed by enactment), or for purposes of action in negligence for breach of implied duty of care created by statute, because provisions were not designed to protect students and their parents from money damages resulting from "educational" injuries. Tirpak v. Los Angeles Unified School Dist. (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 639, 643, 646, 232 Cal. Rptr. 61

"Physical, behavioral, or emotional disorder which prevents or renders inadvisable attendance at school" is unconstitutionally vague when used as sole ground for involuntary exclusion from public school. Abella v. Riverside Unified School Dist. (1976) 65 Cal. App. 3d 153, 169-170, 135 Cal. Rptr. 177

Due process requirements for suspension of students for limited period. Charles S. v. Board of Education (1971) 20 Cal. App. 3d 83, 94, 97 Cal. Rptr. 422 , appeal dismissed, 405 U.S. 1005 (1972)

[9] Racial Segregation

Student assignment policy aiming to achieve social diversity by using neighborhood demographics when assigning students to schools that did not use racial classifications or consider individual student's race at all when assigning student to school, but looked at student's residential neighborhood and considered average household income in neighborhood, average education level of adults residing in neighborhood, and racial composition of neighborhood as whole and gave every student within given neighborhood same treatment regardless of his or her individual race, did not violate Cal. Const., art. I, § 31(a), where including general recognition of demographics of neighborhoods in student assignments without classifying student by race did not discriminate against or grant preferential treatment to any individual or group on the basis of race. American Civil Rights Foundation v. Berkeley Unified School Dist. (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 207, 216-222, 90 Cal. Rptr. 3d 789

"Magnet" and "Permit with Transportation" programs of California public school district did not violate Proposition 209 [Cal. Const., art. I, § 31], prohibiting discrimination against or preferential treatment in favor of any individual or group on basis of race, ethnicity, or national origin in operation of public education, on ground that programs took into account student's race or ethnicity in determining admission, where Proposition 209 expressly exempts from its reach court-ordered integration plans in existence prior to its effective date and programs were part of existing court-ordered integration plan approved and implemented prior to effective date of Proposition 209. American Civil Rights Foundation v. Los Angeles Unified School Dist. (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 436, 449-452, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 754

§ 513.68 Attorney General Opinions

Members of news media may not attend child's individualized education program meeting as observers even though their attendance has consent of child's parents. 02 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 406 (2002)

School district may deny all applications for pupil admissions based on parent's employment within district when reason for denial is that district's school facilities are overcrowded at relevant grade level. District that has admitted elementary school pupil on basis of parent's employment within district and has entered into interdistrict transfer agreement based on child care needs of pupil may not deny pupil continued attendance at school within district because of overcrowded school facilities at relevant grade level. District may deny applications for interdistrict attendance agreements based on child care needs of pupil when reason for denial is that district's school facilities are overcrowded at relevant grade level. 01 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 316 (2001)

Under state and federal law, school district may release videotape of one student's assault on another student on school bus, which was recorded on videotape, to district attorney to determine whether criminal charges should be filed, juvenile justice proceedings instituted or some alternative program considered in dealing with assault without subpoena, court order, or parents' consent. 01 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 209 (2001)

Public high school administrators may not implement a policy requiring on unannounced, random, and neutral basis that pupils vacate classroom leaving personal belongings behind for sniffing by canines trained in drug detection, with students away from immediate vicinity of canines at all times, and under which, if canine's behavior indicated presence of drugs, school administrators would search pupil's personal belongings without pupil's consent. 83 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 257 (2000)

Extent of public school district's obligation to provide special education programs to child with disabilities who has been voluntarily enrolled by parent in private school. 83 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 132 (2000)

"Possession" of firearm for purposes of expulsion under Educ. Code §§ 48900, 48915 is pupil's knowing and voluntary direct control over firearm unless pupil has permission of school officials to possess firearm or possession is brief and solely for purpose of disposing of firearm, such as handing it to school officials. 80 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 91 (1997)

School district may suspend enforcement of expulsion order even if pupil committed offense listed in Educ. Code § 48915(c), for which expulsion must be ordered under Educ. Code § 48915(d). Pupil's name and offense committed must be disclosed to public when governing board orders expulsion. 80 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 85 (1997)

Former Educ. Code § 48909(b) (now see Educ. Code § 48904(b)), authorizing withholding of certain student records, is not operative in context of interdistrict transfer by student in view of Educ. Code § 49068, which requires such record transfer when student transfers to another district, even though student has damaged school property or has failed to return a book or to pay fees. 64 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 867 (1981)

School district not having opportunity classes or schools is permitted to transfer students under age 16 years to continuation schools for disciplinary reasons. 54 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 262 (1971)

Governing board of school district is without authority to exclude pupils from public schools solely by reason of their married status. 39 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 256 (1962)

7. Under Education Code Section 56000 et seq. and Title 20, United States Code, Section 1400 et seq., defendant(s) _____ [name(s)] has/have a duty to provide plaintiff _____ [name of child] with a free public education and related services appropriate to his/her unique needs. Plaintiff _____ [name of chid] has a right to receive such education and services at no cost to himself/herself or to his/her parents.

8. Defendant(s) has/have failed and refused, and continues/continue to fail and refuse, to perform its/their duty to provide plaintiff _____ [name of child] with a free appropriate public education and related services in that _____ [specify manner in which defendants have failed to comply with their duty to provide a free appropriate public education, including, if appropriate, specific violations of any applicable federal or state statutes and regulations].

9. On _____ [date], plaintiffs filed a request for a hearing with the Superintendent of Public Instruction under Education Code Section 56502, for the purpose of determining the appropriateness of the education and services then being provided to plaintiff _____ [name of child] by defendant(s), and requesting the following relief: _____ [specify relief requested].

10. _____ [No party requested a prehearing mediation conference in this matter or On _____ (date), a mediation conference was held in this matter under Education Code Section 56500.3, which failed to resolve the dispute between the parties to their mutual satisfaction. (The mediator's written specification of unresolved issues is attached as Exhibit _____ to this complaint and made a part hereof.)]

11. On _____ [date], at _____ [place of hearing], a hearing was held under Education Code Section 56505, before _____ [name], a hearing officer, under contract with the Department of Education, to consider the appropriateness of the education and services being provided to plaintiff _____ [name of child] by defendant(s). All parties attended the hearing. A verbatim transcript of the hearing is attached hereto as Exhibit _____ and made a part hereof.

12. On _____ [date], plaintiffs received the hearing officer's decision and order denying plaintiffs the relief requested.

13. The decision of the hearing officer is [erroneous and] invalid in that _____ [specify all substantive and procedural grounds for invalidity of the decision].

14. Under Title 20, United States Code, Section 1415(i)(2), this court has jurisdiction to review the record of the proceedings before the hearing officer, to hear any additional evidence presented by the parties, and to grant all appropriate relief based on the preponderance of the evidence.

15. Unless and until enjoined by order of this court, the wrongful failure and refusal of defendant(s) to provide plaintiff _____ [name of child] with a free appropriate public education to which he/she is entitled under state and federal law will cause great and irreparable injury to plaintiffs in that _____ [allege specific facts constituting great and irreparable injury].

16. Plaintiffs have no adequate remedy at law for the injuries that are currently being suffered and that will be suffered in the future in that _____ [specify, e.g., it will be impossible for plaintiffs to calculate the precise amount of damage they will suffer if defendant is not enjoined from failing and refusing to provide plaintiff _____ (name of child) with a free appropriate public education].

17. _____ [Allege damages, if any, e.g., As a proximate result of defendant's (defendants') wrongful conduct and violation of duty, plaintiffs have been damaged in the sum of $_____, in that _____ (specify, e.g., plaintiff _____ (name of parent) has been required to expend this amount for private special instruction and other services for plaintiff _____ (name of child), which instruction and services should have been provided to plaintiff _____ (name of child) by defendant(s), at no cost to plaintiffs). (Plaintiffs will be further damaged in like manner so long as defendant's (defendants') conduct continues. The full amount of such damage is not now known to plaintiffs, and plaintiffs will amend this complaint to state such amount when the same becomes known to them, or on proof thereof).]

18. _____ [If declaratory relief is sought, add: An actual controversy has arisen and now exists between plaintiffs and defendant(s) concerning their respective rights and duties in that plaintiffs contend _____ (allege plaintiffs' contentions as to legal consequences of facts alleged in preceding paragraphs), whereas defendant(s) disputes/dispute these contentions and contend that _____ (specify defendant's/defendants' contentions). Plaintiffs desire a judicial determination of their rights and duties and a declaration as to _____ (specify, e.g., whether plaintiff _____ (name of child) is entitled to receive the following instruction and services from defendant(s) at no cost to plaintiffs: _____ (specify)). A judicial declaration is necessary and appropriate at this time under the circumstances in order that plaintiffs may ascertain their rights and duties _____ (specify, e.g., with respect to the obligation of defendant(s) to provide the above-described instruction and services). _____ (Allege any financial, educational, or other burden being caused plaintiffs by the unsettled state of affairs).]

19. Under Title 20, United States Code, Section 1415(j), plaintiff _____ [name of child] _____ [is entitled to remain in his/her current educational placement in _____ (describe educational program) at _____ School or is entitled to be placed in _____ (describe public school special education program)], pending the completion of this action.

WHEREFORE, plaintiffs pray judgment against defendant[s, and each of them,] as follows:

1. For an order requiring defendant(s) to show cause, if any, why it/they should not be enjoined, as hereinafter set forth, during the pendency of this action;

2. For a preliminary injunction enjoining defendant(s) and its/their agents and employees, and all persons acting under, in concert with, or for it/them, from _____ [removing plaintiff _____ (name of child) from his/her current educational placement in _____ (describe program) or failing or refusing to place plaintiff _____ (name of child) in _____ (describe public school special education program)], during the pendency of this action;

3. For a permanent injunction enjoining defendant(s) and its/their agents and employees, and all persons acting under, in concert with, or for it/them, from _____ [specify particular actions, policies, procedures, etc. to be prohibited];

4. For a permanent injunction requiring defendant(s) and its/their agents and employees, and all persons acting under, in concert with, or for it/them, to _____ [specify particular actions, policies, procedures, etc., to be compelled];

[5. For damages in the sum of $_____, plus damages in such further sums as may be sustained and as are ascertained before final judgment herein;]

[6. For a judicial declaration that _____ (state the determination that the court is requested to render);]

7. For attorney's fees as authorized by Title 20, United States Code, Section 1415(i)(3)(B);

8. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

9. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am [one of] the plaintiff(s) in the above-entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

CAUTION:

Unless counsel will be filing affidavits (or declarations under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) in support of the allegations of this complaint, this complaint must be verified [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)], and counsel must take care to plead evidentiary facts that would entitle plaintiff to injunctive relief [see E. H. Renzel v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1 ; San Juan G. Co. v. San Juan R. etc. Assn. (1939) 34 Cal. App. 2d 159, 174, 93 P.2d 582] .

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use by a pupil with a disability and his or her parent or guardian in an action under 20 U.S.C. § 1415 to obtain appropriate judicial relief if the school district or other responsible public education agency has not fulfilled its duty to provide the pupil with a free appropriate public education.

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges:

(1) Appointment of a guardian ad litem for the minor plaintiff, if appropriate [Code Civ. Proc. § 372] (Paragraph 1);

(2) Capacity and residence of plaintiffs (Paragraphs 2, 3);

(3) Minor plaintiff's status as an individual with exceptional needs [see Educ. Code § 56026] (Paragraph 4);

(4) Capacity of defendants (Paragraphs 5, 6);

(5) Minor plaintiff's right to a free appropriate public education and related services and defendants' duty to provide the education and services [see Educ. Code §§ 56000, 56001, 56040, 56140, 56170; 20 U.S.C. § 1401 et seq.] (Paragraph 7);

(6) Defendants' breach of duty to provide such education and services (Paragraph 8);

(7) Exhaustion of state administrative hearing remedy and adverse result [Honig v. Doe (1988) 484 U.S. 305, 326-327, 108 S. Ct. 592, 98 L. Ed. 2d 686 ; Hoeft v. Tucson Unified Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 1992) 967 F.2d 1298, 1303 ; see Educ. Code §§ 56500-56507; 20 U.S.C. § 1415] (Paragraphs 9-13);

(8) Right to judicial relief [20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2)] (Paragraph 14);

(9) Great and irreparable injury unless defendants are enjoined [see Code Civ. Proc. § 526(a)(2)] (Paragraph 15);

(10) Inadequate remedy at law [see Civ. Code § 3422(1), (2); Code Civ. Proc. § 526(a)(4), (5)] (Paragraph 16);

(11) Amount and nature of damages, if any [see Civ. Code § 3333] (Paragraph 17);

(12) Right to declaratory relief [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1060, 1061] (Paragraph 18); and

(13) Minor plaintiff's right to remain in his or her current educational placement or, if making initial application for admission to public schools, to be placed in the public school program, pending completion of the proceeding [20 U.S.C. § 1415(j)] (Paragraph 19).

[4] Verification

If plaintiff is seeking a preliminary injunction, the complaint must be verified, unless the plaintiff files affidavits with the complaint showing that sufficient grounds exist for issuance of the preliminary injunction [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)]. If a preliminary injunction is not sought, the complaint need not be verified. A school district or other public agency need not file a verified answer to a verified complaint [see Code Civ. Proc. § 446]; however, verification of the complaint precludes a general denial [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)].

[5] Jurisdiction

An action under 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2) may be brought in any state court of competent jurisdiction. Such actions may also be brought in a United States district court, which has jurisdiction of such actions regardless of the amount in controversy [20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2)(A)]. For forms of jurisdictional allegations for use in actions brought in federal court, see Ch. 265, Federal Courts: Jurisdiction and Removal .

[6] Venue

If an action under 20 U.S.C. § 1415 is brought in a superior court, venue is apparently proper in either the county in which the cause, or some part thereof, arose [see Code Civ. Proc. § 393(b) (actions against public officer or person especially appointed to execute his or her duties, for act done by him or her by virtue of the public office)] or the county in which the local public education agency is situated [see Code Civ. Proc. § 394(a) (actions against county, city and county, city, or local agency)].

[7] Appointment of Guardian ad Litem

When a minor, an incompetent person, or a person for whom a conservator has been appointed is a party to a civil action, the court in which the action is pending must appoint a guardian ad litem to appear for him or her [Code Civ. Proc. § 372; see Paragraph 1]. For a discussion and forms relating to the appointment of a guardian ad litem, see Ch. 291, Guardians Ad Litem .

[8] Parent as Party

Under both federal and state law, procedural safeguards, including the right to a due process hearing, extend to both the handicapped pupil and his or her parent or guardian [20 U.S.C. § 1415(a), (h); Educ. Code § 56501(a)]. The right to bring a civil action under 20 U.S.C. § 1415 specifically extends to any party aggrieved by the findings and decision made pursuant to the state due process hearing procedure [20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2)(A); see Educ. Code § 56505(k)]. Thus, a parent or guardian is a proper party to a civil action under 20 U.S.C. § 1415.

[9] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

A party seeking judicial relief under 20 U.S.C. § 1415 must exhaust all state administrative remedies and procedures prior to bringing such an action, unless to do so would be futile. Therefore, the complaint should allege facts showing either that the state administrative remedies have been exhausted or that exhaustion of such remedies would be futile [see Honig v. Doe (1988) 108 S. Ct. 592, 98 L. Ed. 2d 686 ; Hoeft v. Tucson Unified Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 1992) 967 F.2d 1298, 1303 (exhaustion required unless it would be futile or offer inadequate relief, or agency has adopted policy or pursued practice of general applicability contrary to law); see also Paragraphs 9-13].

[10] Remedies Available

In an action under 20 U.S.C. § 1415, the court has the power to grant such relief as it determines is appropriate [20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2)(C)(iii)]. Usually, the relief granted will consist of injunctive or declaratory relief, or both [see, e.g., Sherry v. New York State Educ. Dep't. (W.D.N.Y. 1979) 479 F. Supp. 1328, 1331, 1339] . In addition, some federal courts have held that compensatory damages may be awarded if appropriate [Boxall v. Sequoia Union High School Dist. (N.D. Cal. 1979) 464 F. Supp. 1104, 1112] . For further discussion, see § 513.33[5][g].

[11] Attorney's Fees

The court, in its discretion, may award reasonable attorney fees as part of the costs to the parents of a child with a disability who is the prevailing party [20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(3)(B)]. Congress intended 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(3)(B) to be interpreted consistent with fee provisions under 42 U.S.C. § 1988 and Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 [Abu-Sahyun v. Palo Alto Unified School Dist. (9th Cir. 1988) 843 F.2d 1250, 1251 , citing S. Rep. No. 99-112, 99th Cong., 2d Sess., reprinted in 1986 U.S. Code Cong. & Admin. News 1798, 1803-1805]. For further discussion of attorney fees under IDEA, see § 513.33[5][f]; for discussion of fee provisions in 42 U.S.C. § 1988 and Title VII, see Ch. 113, Civil Rights: The Post-Civil War Civil Rights Statutes .

[12] Statute of Limitations

The IDEA does not specify a statute of limitations. Reviewing courts apply the most closely analogous state statute of limitations, unless it would undermine the policies underlying the IDEA. In determining the most analogous state statute of limitations, courts look to whether the scope of judicial proceedings available to a plaintiff under the state act is similar to the review available under the IDEA [Livingston School Dist. Nos. 4 and 1 v. Keenan (9th Cir. 1996) 82 F.3d 912, 915] . Concluding that a civil action under the IDEA challenging an administrative hearing officer's decision after a due process hearing is more analogous to judicial review of an administrative appeal than to an action on a liability created by statute, the Ninth Circuit has applied the forum state's broadly-applicable statute of limitations for judicial review of administrative decisions [see Livingston School Dist. Nos. 4 and 1 v. Keenan (9th Cir. 1996) 82 F.3d 912, 916-918 (applying Montana Administrative Procedure Act's 30-day statute of limitations for judicial review of administrative decisions); but see Alexopulos v. San Francisco Unified School Dist. (9th Cir. 1987) 817 F.2d 551 (applying California's three-year limitations period for statutory causes of action for liabilities created by statute to plaintiffs' respective IDEA action in case not involving challenge to administrative hearing officer's decision following due process hearing)]. Under California law, an "appeal" must be made within 90 days of receipt of the hearing decision [Educ. Code § 56505(k)]. In the absence of any authority to the contrary, counsel should assume that this short limitation period will be held to apply to a civil action brought under 20 U.S.C. § 1415.

[16] Decisions

20 U.S.C. § 1415(j) prohibits school officials from unilaterally excluding child from class pending review proceedings because of dangerous conduct by that child if it is the child's inability to conform his or her conduct to socially acceptable norms renders him or her handicapped. Honig v. Doe (1988) 484 U.S. 305, 323-328, 108 S. Ct. 592, 98 L. Ed. 2d 686

20 U.S.C. § 1415(j) creates presumption in favor of child's current educational placement, which school officials can overcome only by showing that maintaining current placement is substantially likely to result in injury either to that child or to others; school officials entitled to seek injunctive relief under 20 U.S.C. § 1415(e)(2) in appropriate cases. *Honig v. Appropriate relief under 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2) not limited in form and may include reimbursement to parents for private special education expenditures if court determines that private placement, rather than proposed IEP, is proper under IDEA. Burlington School Comm. v. Department of Education (1985) 471 U.S. 359, 369-370, 105 S. Ct. 1996, 85 L. Ed. 2d 385

Court's inquiry in suit under 20 U.S.C. § 1415(i)(2) is twofold: (1) whether state has complied with procedures set forth in IDEA, and (2) whether individualized educational program developed through IDEA's procedures is reasonably calculated to enable child to receive educational benefits; state complies with obligations imposed by Congress if these requirements are met. Board of Education v. Rowley (1982) 458 U.S. 176, 102 S. Ct. 3034, 73 L. Ed. 2d 690, 712

Preliminary injunction to maintain educational status quo of disabled child under 20 U.S.C. § 1415(j) need not always be automatically granted; court will apply traditional preliminary injunction factors, including showing of irreparable harm and likelihood of success on merits. Johnson ex rel. Johnson v. Special Educ. Hearing Office (9th Cir. 2002) 287 F.3d 1176, 1180

Availability of relief under IDEA bars plaintiffs from seeking similar relief with added bonus of attorney's fees under "and laws" provision of 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Doe v. Maher (9th Cir. 1986) 795 F.2d 787, 790

IDEA provides specific procedural safeguards that must be adopted by states receiving federal funds under it; state law inconsistent with federally mandated procedures superseded by IDEA. Monahan v. Nebraska (D. Neb. 1980) 491 F. Supp. 1074, 1086, 1091 ; Vogel v. School Bd. of Montrose R-14 School Dist. (W.D. Mo. 1980) 491 F. Supp. 989, 991 n.1, 993

Failure to initiate due process procedures of 20 U.S.C. § 1415 as excused if parents unilaterally placed teenager in private school rather than juvenile system facility, and parents entitled to recover educational costs in administrative proceeding, as well as attorney's fees under Gov. Code § 800, because respondents failed to undertake diagnostic reassessment of teenager and latest placement at juvenile facility was woefully inadequate and inappropriate in light of teenager's educational handicap, despite fact that teenager's problems were formidable and extremely difficult for diagnosis and treatment. *In re John K. 	)

Plaintiff _____ [name] [, a minor, through his/her guardian ad litem,] alleges:

[1. Appointment of guardian ad litem, if appropriate. See § 513.90, Paragraph 1.]

2. Plaintiff is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a resident of _____ County, California, and a pupil duly enrolled in _____ School, which is maintained and operated by defendant _____ School District.

3. Defendant _____ School District is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a school district duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California.

4. _____ [Allege capacity of individual defendants, e.g., Defendants _____ (names) are the duly qualified, elected, and acting members of _____ (title of governing board, e.g., the Board of Education of the _____ School District), which is the governing board of defendant _____ School District. Defendant _____ (name) is the principal of _____ School and an employee of defendant _____ School District]. In doing the things hereinafter mentioned, these defendants acted under color of their authority and under the color of the customs and usages of defendant _____ [name of school district] and pursuant to the official policies of defendant _____ [name of school district] as enacted and adopted by _____ [specify, e.g., the governing board] acting under color of its authority as such.

5. On or about _____ [date], _____ [describe circumstances surrounding alleged deprivation of freedom of speech, e.g., defendants _____ (names), acting in their capacity as the governing board of defendant _____ School District, adopted and promulgated a school district regulation, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof, which provides, in pertinent part that _____ (specify, e.g., all students of _____ School District are prohibited from wearing any badge or button bearing a political message or slogan while on school property during school hours)].

6. _____ [Further describe alleged deprivation of freedom of speech, e.g., On or about _____ (date), while lawfully on the premises of _____ School for the purpose of attending classes therein, plaintiff was wearing a political campaign button bearing the following inscription: _____ (set forth precise words). Thereafter, defendant _____ (name of school official), acting pursuant to the above-described school district regulation, ordered plaintiff to remove the above-described button or, in the alternative, to leave the school premises until plaintiff was willing to comply with the regulation described above. When plaintiff refused to do either, defendant _____ (name of school official) further stated that plaintiff would be suspended from school unless he/she complied with the above order, whereupon plaintiff left the premises of the school].

7. _____ [Allege violation of constitutional and statutory right to freedom of speech, e.g., The above-described school district regulation denies plaintiff his/her right of freedom of speech and expression as guaranteed by the First and Fourteenth Amendments of the United States Constitution, Section 2(a) of Article I of the California Constitution, and Section 48907 of the Education Code, both on its face and as applied to plaintiff, and is unconstitutionally vague and overbroad (in that _____ (specify))].

8. [Allege facts showing exhaustion of any available administrative remedies].

9. Unless and until enjoined by order of this court, defendants will continue to _____ [specify conduct, e.g., enforce the above-described school district regulation], thereby causing plaintiff great and irreparable injury in that plaintiff will thereby be deprived of his/her rights to freedom of speech and expression under the First and Fourteenth Amendments of the United States Constitution, Section 2(a) of Article I of the California Constitution, and Section 48907 of the Education Code, as hereinabove alleged.

10. Plaintiff has no adequate remedy at law for the injuries suffered, and to be suffered in the future, in that _____ [allege facts showing inadequacy of legal remedy, e.g., it is impossible for plaintiff to calculate a sum of money damages that will compensate him/her for the loss of his/her rights to freedom of speech and

11. An actual controversy has arisen and now exists between plaintiff and defendants concerning their respective rights and duties in that plaintiff contends _____ [specify plaintiff's contentions as to legal consequences of the facts alleged, e.g., that the above-described school district regulation is invalid and unenforceable, both on its face and as applied to plaintiff, because it deprives plaintiff of his/her rights of freedom of speech and expression under the First and Fourteenth Amendments of the United States Constitution, Section 2(a) of Article I of the California Constitution, and Section 48907 of the Education Code. Plaintiff further contends that defendants have no right, pursuant to the above-described regulation or otherwise, to prevent plaintiff from wearing the above-described political campaign button or any other such button while attending school or to harass, threaten, intimidate, discourage, discriminate against, discipline, or otherwise punish plaintiff for wearing such a button to school]. Defendants, dispute these contentions, however, and contend that _____ [specify defendant's contentions, e.g., the above-described school district regulation is a reasonable regulation of the time, place, and manner of expression].

12. Plaintiff desires a judicial determination of his/her rights and duties and a declaration as to _____ [specify, e.g., whether the above-described school district regulation is invalid and unenforceable as violative of plaintiff's rights of free speech and expression under the First and Fourteenth Amendments of the United States Constitution, Section 2(a) of Article I of the California Constitution, and Section 48907 of the Education Code, either on its face or as applied to plaintiff, or both].

13. A judicial declaration is necessary and appropriate at this time under the circumstances in order that plaintiff may ascertain his/her rights and duties _____ [specify, e.g., with respect to his/her right to wear political campaign buttons while attending classes on school property]. _____ [Allege any financial, educational, or other burden caused plaintiff by the unsettled state of affairs].

14. By reason of defendants' acts and conduct as herein alleged, plaintiff was deprived of his/her rights, privileges, and immunities secured to him/her by the First Amendment of the Constitution of the United States, all in violation of Title 42 of the United States Code, Section 1983.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendants, and each of them, as follows:

1. For an order requiring defendants to show cause, if any, why they should not be enjoined, as hereinafter set forth, during the pendency of this action;

2. CAUTION:

Unless counsel will be filing affidavits (or declarations under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) in support of the allegations of this complaint, the complaint must be verified [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)], and counsel must take care to plead evidentiary facts that would entitle plaintiff to injunctive relief [see E. H. Renzel v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1 ; San Juan Ridge Mut. Water Ass'n (1939) 34 Cal. App. 2d 159, 174, 93 P.2d 582] .

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use by a public school student in an action to enjoin school officials from engaging in conduct that violates the student's rights of free speech and expression under U.S. Const., amends. I and XIV; Cal. Const., art. I, § 2(a); and Educ. Code § 48907. The complaint also contains allegations and a prayer for declaratory relief. The complaint also alleges a count under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 for deprivation of federal constitutional rights under color of law, which gives rise to a right to attorneys' fees under 42 U.S.C. § 1988(b).

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges in pertinent part: (1) capacities of the parties (Paragraphs 2-4); (2) conduct by defendants violating plaintiff's rights of free speech and expression [see U.S. Const., amends. I and XIV; 42 U.S.C. § 1983; Cal. Const., art. I, § 2(a); Educ. Code § 48907] (Paragraphs 5-7); (3) exhaustion of administrative remedies [see Pan Pacific Properties, Inc. v. County of Santa Cruz (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 244, 249-251, 146 Cal. Rptr. 428] (Paragraph 8); (4) great and irreparable injury [see Code Civ. Proc. § 526(a)(1)] (Paragraph 9); (5) inadequacy of legal remedy [see Civ. Code § 3422(1), (2); Code Civ. Proc. § 526(a)(4), (5)] (Paragraph 10); (6) right to declaratory relief [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1060, 1061] (Paragraphs 11-13); and (7) deprivation of constitutional rights under color of law [see 42 U.S.C. § 1983] (Paragraphs 4, 14).

See discussion in § 513.90[4].

Plaintiff alleges:

1. This is an action for violation of Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, 20 U.S.C. § 1681 et seq. for discrimination on the basis of sex based on sexual harassment of plaintiff which excluded plaintiff from participation in, denied plaintiff the benefits of, and/or subjected plaintiff to discrimination under an education program or activity of defendant. Defendant is a recipient of federal financial assistance for purposes of Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, 20 U.S.C. § 1681 et seq. Jurisdiction of the subject matter of this action is established in this court under Title 28 of the United States Code, Section 1343.

2. At all times herein mentioned, plaintiff was, and now is, a _____ [citizen or person within the jurisdiction] of the United States, residing at _____ [street address], _____ County, California, who, at times herein relevant, was a student at _____ [specify name and location of educational institution plaintiff attended, e.g., Lagunitas Elementary School, a public school located in Marin County, California].

3. At all times hereinafter mentioned, defendant _____ [name] was _____ [specify capacity, e.g., a school district or county board of education], and a recipient of federal financial assistance.

4. [Describe actions by sexual harasser that form the basis of the action, e.g., From about _____ (date), to _____ (date), plaintiff was subject to sexual harassment by _____ (name of person who sexually harassed plaintiff), who is/was _____ [allege if the harasser was a teacher or fellow student], in that _____ (name of harasser) performed the following acts: _____ (specify acts of harassment, e.g., _____ (On various dates during the period of _____ (date) to _____ (date), _____ (name of harasser) attempted to touch plaintiff's breasts and genital area and made vulgar statements of a sexually provocative nature to plaintiff, _____ (name of harasser) rubbed his/her body against plaintiff many times in a sexually suggestive and often aggressive manner, _____ (name of harasser) effectively prevented plaintiff from attending physical education class over this period by acting in a sexually manner toward plaintiff, etc.]. The acts of _____ [name of harasser] interfered with plaintiff's ability to attend school and perform her studies and activities.

5. Throughout the period of _____ [date], to _____ [date], plaintiff [add if appropriate and plaintiff's mother and/or father or name of other adult] reported each of the incidents described in Paragraph _____ to _____ [describe persons and capacity of those persons to whom plaintiff reported the sexually harassing conduct, e.g. Richard Simon, plaintiff's classroom teacher, and Frances Newman, plaintiff's physical education teacher, at all times herein relevant, and John Jones, the principal of Lagunitas Elementary School at all times herein relevant]. _____ [Allege facts showing defendant's deliberate indifference to the acts of harassment, e.g. Notwithstanding these reports no disciplinary action was taken against _____ (name of teacher or fellow student who harassed plaintiff). Further, at not time herein relevant, despite plaintiff's requests and the request of her parents, was plaintiff allowed to change seats in her class or to change to a different physical education class so as to be physically removed from proximity with _____ (name of harasser). Also, at all times herein relevant, defendant had not instructed its personnel on how to respond to sexual harassment of students by teachers or fellow students and had not established a policy on the issue of teacher or "student-on-student" sexual harassment.] The deliberate indifference of defendant to _____ [specify, e.g., the acts of _____ (name of harasser) and defendant's failure to have and implement a policy concerning sexual harassment of students by teachers and/or fellow students excluded plaintiff from participation in, denied plaintiff the benefits of, and/or subjected plaintiff to discrimination on the basis of sex].

6. As a proximate result of defendants' action against plaintiff, as alleged above, plaintiff has been harmed in that plaintiff _____ [specify damages incurred, e.g.], all to his/her damage _____ [in the amount of $_____ or in an amount according to proof] [add if appropriate, and incurred medical expenses _____ (in the amount of $_____ or in an amount according to proof)].

[7. The above-recited actions of defendant in excluding plaintiff from participation in, denying plaintiff the benefits of, and/or subjecting plaintiff to discrimination on the basis of sex in violation of Title IX of the Education Amendments of

1972. were done with evil motive or intent, or with reckless or callous indifference to plaintiff's rights.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff request judgment as follows against defendant:

1. For general damages _____ [in the amount of $_____ or in an amount according to proof];

[2. For medical expenses _____ (in the amount of $_____ or in an amount according to proof);]

[3. For punitive damages in an amount appropriate to punish defendants for their wrongful conduct and set an example for others;].

4. For reasonable attorney's fees pursuant to Title 42 of the United States Code, Section 1988(b);

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use by a plaintiff in an action under Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, 20 U.S.C. § 1681, for damages for sexual harassment by a teacher or fellow student.

[3] Allegations

The complaint alleges:

- The federal court's jurisdiction of the action (Paragraph 1) [Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 8(a)].

- Defendant's status as a recipient of federal educational funding assistance and thus subject to Title IX (Paragraphs 1, 3).

- Plaintiff's status as a student and the educational institution plaintiff attends (Paragraph 2).

- Facts showing the nature of the acts of sexual harassment perpetrated against plaintiff by a teacher or fellow student (Paragraph 4).

- Plaintiff's acts and/or the acts of others in making the acts of sexual harassment alleged in paragraph 3 known to defendant and defendant's deliberate indifference to the acts of sexual harassment (Paragraph 5).

- Actual damages incurred by the plaintiff (Paragraph 6).

- The exclusion of plaintiff from participation in, denial of the benefits of, and/or subjection of plaintiff to discrimination under an educational program or activity receiving federal financial assistance in violation of Title IX (Paragraph 7).

The complaint is based on the allegations made in Davis v. Monroe County Board of Education (1999) 526 U.S. 629, 119 S. Ct. 1661, 143 L. Ed. 2d 839 , in which the United States Supreme Court recognized a right of action for damages under Title IX for "student-on-student" sexual harassment. In Gebser v. Lago Vista Independent School Dist (1998) 524 U.S. 274, 118 S. Ct. 1989, 141 L. Ed. 2d 277 , the Court recognized a right of action for damages under Title IX for sexual harassment of a student by a teacher. In both cases, the plaintiff/student must show that the recipient of federal education funding assistance, such as a school district or a county board of education, was deliberately indifferent to acts of sexual harassment made known to it; see discussion in § 513.36.

3. At all times hereinafter mentioned, defendant _____ [name] was _____ [specify capacity, e.g., a school district or county board of education], and a recipient of federal financial assistance.

4. Beginning on or about _____ [date], plaintiff was subject to a racially hostile educational environment at _____ [name of school, e.g., Sir Francis Drake High School], in that _____ [specify acts by fellow students creating racially hostile educational environment, e.g., fellow students repeatedly addressed plaintiff with a racial epithet ("nigger"), and plaintiff and other African-American students were subject to the appearance of racially offensive graffiti on classroom and other school walls].

5. Throughout the period of _____ [date] to _____ [date], plaintiff [add if appropriate and _____ (plaintiff's mother and/or father or name of other adult)] informed _____ [specify names and capacities of officials of defendant school district to whom incidents were reported, e.g., Richard Simon, plaintiff's English teacher at all times herein relevant, Frances Newman, plaintiff's physical education teacher at all times herein relevant, and John Jones, the principal of Sir Francis Drake High School at all times herein relevant] of the racially offensive conduct by other students to which plaintiff was subject described in Paragraph _____. _____ [Allege facts showing defendant's deliberate indifference to acts creating hostile racial educational environment, e.g., Notwithstanding the reports of racially offensive conduct by plaintiff (and _____ (plaintiff's mother and/or father or name of other adult), at no time did any officials or employees of defendant school district acknowledge the racially offensive conduct directed at plaintiff and other students described in Paragraph _____, attempt to discover the identities of the students responsible for that conduct, or take any disciplinary or other action to attempt to stop the racially offensive conduct from occurring]. The deliberate indifference of defendant to the racially offensive conduct directed at plaintiff and other students [add if appropriate, and defendant's failure to have and implement a policy concerning racial harassment] or the creation of a hostile racial educational environment by fellow students excluded plaintiff from participation in, denied plaintiff the benefits of, and/or subjected plaintiff to discrimination on the basis of race.

6. Jurisdiction of the subject matter of this action is established in this court under Title 28 of the United States Code, Section 1343.

7. As a proximate result of defendants' action against plaintiff, as alleged above, plaintiff has been harmed in that plaintiff _____ [specify damages incurred, e.g.,], all to his/her damage _____ [in the amount of $_____ or in an amount according to proof] [add if appropriate, and incurred medical expenses _____ (in the amount of $_____ or in an amount according to proof)].

[8. [2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use by a plaintiff in an action under 42 U.S.C. § 2000d for damages for discrimination on the basis of race in violation of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, based a hostile racial educational environment by fellow students.

[3] Allegations

The complaint alleges:

- Plaintiff's status as a student and the educational institution plaintiff attends (Paragraph 2).

- Defendants' status as a school district and recipient of federal educational funding assistance so as to be subject to Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (Paragraphs 1, 3).

- Facts showing the nature of the acts of racially offensive conduct directed at plaintiff and other students (Paragraph 4).

- Plaintiff's acts and/or the acts of others in making the acts of racially offensive conduct alleged in Paragraph 4 known to defendant and defendant's deliberate indifference to the racially offensive acts (Paragraph 5).

- The federal court's jurisdiction of the action (Paragraph 6) [Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 8(a)].

- Actual damages incurred by the plaintiff (Paragraph 7).

- The exclusion of plaintiff from participation in, denial of the benefits of, and/or subjection of plaintiff to discrimination on the basis of race in violation of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 by a recipient of federal educational assistance funding (Paragraph 8).

The complaint is based on the allegations in the complaint in Monteiro v. Tempe Union High School District (9th Cir. 1998) 158 F.3d 1022 for violation of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, 42 U.S.C. § 2000d, which were found sufficient by the Ninth Circuit to state a cause of action.

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use by a plaintiff in an action under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 for damages for unlawful search and seizure of a public school student by a school official or employee in violation of U.S. Const., amends. IV, XIV.

[3] Allegations

The complaint alleges:

- The federal court's jurisdiction of the action (Paragraph 1) [Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 8(a)].
- Plaintiff's status as a student and the educational institution plaintiff attends (Paragraph 2).
- Defendants' status as school officials or employees (Paragraph 3).
- Facts showing the nature of the search of plaintiff performed and/or ordered by a school employee or official (Paragraph 4).
- The fact that nothing about Plaintiff's conduct or the conduct of other students with whom Plaintiff associated gave rise to reasonable grounds for the search (Paragraph 5).
- Actual damages incurred by the plaintiff (Paragraph 6).

For discussion of searches of students by school officials or employees, see § 513.37.

Petitioner attended this hearing. On _____ [date], respondent _____ County Board of Education made a final decision affirming the decision of respondent _____ [title of governing board] to expel petitioner. On _____ [date], petitioner received a copy of the decision of respondent _____

County Board of Education affirming petitioner's expulsion. [A copy of the decision of respondent _____ County Board of Education is attached hereto as Exhibit D and made a part hereof.]

11. The decision(s) of respondent _____ [title of governing board] [and respondent _____ County Board of Education] _____ [is or are] invalid for the following reasons: _____ [in subparagraphs that follow, state reasons why decision is invalid, e.g.,

a. _____ (Respondent Board or The hearing officer or The administrative panel) found that _____ (state all findings). Respondent _____ (title of governing board) does not have authority to expel petitioner in that such findings do not constitute any of the grounds for expulsion set forth in Sections 48900, 48900.2, 48900.4, or 48900.7 of the Education Code.

b. The evidence received at the hearing does not support the findings for the following reasons: _____ (specify).

[c. _____ (In this and following subparagraphs, allege any other reasons for invalidity of decision under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5, such as action by respondent without or in excess of authority, denial of a fair hearing, or abuse of discretion as established by failure to proceed as required by law, failure of the findings to support the decision, and failure of the evidence to support the findings. For examples of such allegations, see the petition for writ of mandate to review an administrative decision in Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions, §§ 474C.90, 474C.91).]

[12. If appropriate, allege existence of additional relevant evidence that petitioner could not, in the exercise of reasonable diligence, have produced at the hearing. See § 512.160, Paragraph 9.]

[13. If petitioner seek attorney's fees pursuant to Gov. Code § 800, allege amount of attorney's fees incurred. See § 512.160, Paragraph 10.]

14. [Exhaustion of administrative remedies. See § 512.160, Paragraph 11].

15. [Lack of plain, speedy, or adequate remedy in ordinary course of law. See § 512.160, Paragraph 12].

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays judgment as follows:

[1. If alternative writ procedure is used: For an alternative writ of mandate directing respondent _____ (title of governing board) to set aside its decision and order of _____ [date], expelling petitioner from _____School, to reinstate petitioner as a pupil at _____ School, and to order expunged any mention of the expulsion proceedings from any records or files respecting petitioner which are maintained by respondent _____ School District, or any of its agents, employees, or officers, or in the alternative to show cause why a peremptory writ of mandate to the same effect should not be issued;]

[2. If petitioner seeks a stay of operation of administrative order or decision pending judgment, state: For an order restraining respondent from giving effect to its order of _____ (date), _____ (specify effect of order, e.g., expelling petitioner from _____ School) until further order of the court and to show cause why operation of that order should not be stayed pending judgment in this proceeding;]

3. For a peremptory writ of mandate _____ [set out terms of proposed peremptory writ at length as in Paragraph 1 of this prayer, omitting words relating to order to show cause];

[4. For reasonable attorney's fees, in addition to any other relief granted or other costs awarded;]

5. For costs of suit herein incurred [add, if appropriate:, including $_____ for preparation of the administrative record]; and

6. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Petitioners _____ [name]

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am [guardian ad litem for] the petitioner in the above-entitled proceeding. I have read the foregoing petition and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

CAUTION:

This petition must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086]. Proof of service of a copy of the petition on each respondent and real party in interest must accompany the petition when it is offered for filing (except when, in its discretion and for good cause, the court has granted the application for the writ ex parte) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107]. However, in a trial court, if no alternative writ is sought, proof of service of a copy of the petition need not accompany the application for the writ at the time of filing, but proof of service of a copy of the filed petition must be lodged with the court prior to a hearing or any action by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1088.5]. Points and authorities also customarily accompany a petition for writ of mandate filed in superior court, although they are not expressly required by statute.

[2] Use of Form

This form of petition for a writ of mandate is for use by a public school student to obtain judicial review of an administrative decision by the governing board of a school district expelling the student from school. For a complete discussion of mandate proceedings to review administrative decisions, see Ch. 474, Availabitlity of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions , Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions . The petitioner may proceed by either the alternative writ procedure or the noticed application procedure, as discussed in § 512.160[2].

[3] Allegations

The petition alleges: (1) appointment of a guardian ad litem if the pupil is a minor [Code Civ. Proc. § 372] (Paragraph 1); (2) capacities and residences of parties (Paragraphs 2-5); (3) petitioner's status as a pupil (thus, his or her beneficial interest in issuance of the writ [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1086]) (Paragraph 2); (4) discretionary authority of respondent governing board or its delegate to determine whether petitioner should be expelled [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a); see Educ. Code § 48918] (Paragraph 6); (5) legal requirement that a hearing be held and evidence be taken [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a); see Educ. Code § 48918] (Paragraph 6); (6) facts concerning the holding of the hearing (Paragraphs 7-9); (7) appeal to county board of education and adverse result [see Educ. Code §§ 48919-48924] (Paragraph 10); (8) reasons for invalidity of decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b); see § 512.160] (Paragraph 11); (9) existence of any additional relevant evidence which could not, with due diligence, have been produced at the hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(e)] (Paragraph 12); (10) if appropriate, the amount of attorney's fees claimed under Gov. Code § 800 [see § 512.160] (Paragraph 13); (11) exhaustion of administrative remedies [Noonan v. Green (1969) 276 Cal. App. 2d 25, 29-31, 80 Cal. Rptr. 513] (Paragraph 14); and (12) lack of a plain, speedy, or adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086] (Paragraph 15).

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

§ 514.10 Governing Statutes

The tort liability of public entities and employees generally is governed by Gov. Code § 810 et seq. A "public entity" includes the state, the Regents of the University of California, a county, city, district, public authority, public agency, and any other political subdivision or public corporation in the state [Gov. Code § 811.2]. A public school district is a public entity within the meaning of Gov. Code § 811.2 [see Wright v. Compton Unified Sch. Dist. (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 177, 181, 120 Cal. Rptr. 115] .

The liability of school districts for injuries to students participating in school-sponsored field trips is governed by Educ. Code § 35330. The duty of teachers to control the conduct of students outside the classroom is set forth in Educ. Code § 44807. The liability of school districts and their employees for the conduct or safety of students when they are not on school property is governed by Educ. Code §§ 44808-44808.5. A school district employee's tort liability for defamation for stating that a specific student or other specified person has made a threat to commit violence or potential violence on the school grounds involving the use of a firearm or other deadly or dangerous weapon is governed by Civ. Code § 48.8.

Chapter 514 SCHOOLS: INJURIES TO STUDENTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

§ 514.11 Right to Safe Schools

Cal. Const. art. I, § 28(c), provides that all students and staff of public primary, elementary, junior high, and senior high schools have the inalienable right to attend campuses that are safe, secure, and peaceful. All school districts must comply with Cal. Const. art. I, § 28(c), and are prohibited from taking official actions that violate or contravene its provisions. However, Cal. Const. art. I, § 28(c), does not establish an affirmative duty to act on the part of school districts. Further, it does not provide any remedies for violations, and does not create a private cause of action for damages [Clausing v. San Francisco Unified Sch. Dist. (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 1224, 1235-1238, 271 Cal. Rptr. 72 ; see In re Latasha W. (1998) 60 Cal. App. 4th 1524, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 886 (random metal detector weapon searches of high school students did not violate student's Fourth Amendment right to be free from unreasonable searches and seizures, where needs of school district to keep weapons off campus, as embodied in Cal. Const. art. I, § 28, was substantial, no system of more suspicion-intense searches was workable, and searches were minimally intrusive); Leger v. Stockton Unified Sch. Dist. (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1448, 1453-1457, 249 Cal. Rptr. 688] .

The School Safety and Violence Prevention Act, which was enacted in 1999, is a statewide program administered by the Superintendent of Public Instruction. It was the intent of the legislature that public schools serving pupils in grades 8 to 12, inclusive, have access to supplemental funds to establish programs and strategies that promote school safety and emphasize violence prevention among children and youth in the public schools [Educ. Code § 32228(a)]. School sites receiving these funds must accomplish all of the following goals [Educ. Code § 32228(c)]:

- Teach pupils techniques for resolving conflicts without violence;

- Train school staff and administrators to support and promote conflict resolution and mediation techniques for resolving conflicts between and among pupils;

- Reduce incidents of violence at the school site with an emphasis on prevention and early detection; and

- Provide age-appropriate instruction in domestic violence prevention, dating violence prevention, and interpersonal violence prevention.

The administration of this funding program is governed by Educ. Code § 32228.1 et seq.

Chapter 514 SCHOOLS: INJURIES TO STUDENTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

45-514 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 514.12

§ 514.12 Liability for Acts or Omissions of School District Employees

[1] Generally

Like all public entities, a school district is not liable for any injury, except as provided by statute [Gov. Code § 815]. A school district is liable for any injury proximately caused by an act or omission of its employee within the scope of his or her employment if the act or omission would have given rise to a cause of action against that employee. If, however, the employee is immune from liability, so is the school district [Gov. Code § 815.2]. For a further discussion and forms relating to the liabilities and immunities of public entities and employees in general, see Ch. 464, Public Entities and Officers: California Tort Claims Act .

When students have been sexually molested by teachers, school districts have been sued on the theory that the employing school district can be held vicariously liable for the teacher's acts under the doctrine of respondeat superior. Most courts have found no liability on the part of the school district in such cases, on the grounds that such acts are outside the scope of employment [John R. v. Oakland Unified Sch. Dist. (1989) 48 Cal. 3d 438, 447-452, 256 Cal. Rptr. 766, 769 P.2d 948 ; Kimberly M. v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 545, 547-549, 263 Cal. Rptr. 612] . However, school districts may be held liable for negligent hiring and supervision of teachers by school district employees who knew or should have known of a teacher's prior sexual misconduct toward students [Virginia G. v. ABC Unified Sch. Dist. (1993) 15 Cal. App. 4th 1848, 1854-1855, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 671] . It should be noted that while a school district may be directly liable under such circumstances, the district cannot logically be allocated 100 percent of the fault, with no fault allocated to the offending teacher, since the district's conduct only becomes wrongful in the context of the teacher's wrongful acts of abuse [Ortega v. Pajaro Valley Unified Sch. Dist. (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 1023, 1057-1058, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 777] . For general discussion of an employer's liability for its employee's torts, see Ch. 248, Employer's Liability for Employee's Torts .

[2] Duty to Supervise Students

Although school authorities are not insurers of the physical safety of students, they are under a duty at all times to supervise the conduct of students on school grounds and to enforce those rules and regulations necessary for their protection. In carrying out this duty, school personnel are held to that degree of care which a person of ordinary prudence, charged with comparable duties, would exercise under the same circumstances. Either a total lack of supervision or ineffective supervision may constitute a lack of ordinary care on the part of those responsible for student supervision [Dailey v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 741, 747, 87 Cal. Rptr. 376, 470 P.2d 360 ; Aaris v. Las Virgenes Unified Sch. Dist. (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 1112, 1118-1119, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 801] . Under Gov. Code § 815.2(a), a school district is vicariously liable for injuries proximately caused by the negligent failure of its employees to adequately supervise student conduct [Dailey v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 741, 747, 87 Cal. Rptr. 376, 470 P.2d 360] .

In addition, pursuant to Educ. Code § 44807, every teacher in the public schools must hold pupils to a strict account for their conduct on the way to and from school, on the playgrounds, or during recess. For example, this statutory duty is breached when a child is injured in a clod fight during school recess [Lucas v. Fresno Unified Sch. Dist. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 866, 872-873, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79] , or when a high school student is injured in an unsupervised slap boxing match [Dailey v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 741, 747, 87 Cal. Rptr. 376, 470 P.2d 360] . However, a school district did not breach its statutory duty under Educ. Code § 44807 to supervise a cheerleader injured while practicing a gymnastic stunt that occurred during supervision and training by her coach, though the coach urged the cheerleaders to practice and perfect the stunt, with which they had little experience [Aaris v. Las Virgenes Unified Sch. Dist. (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 1112, 1119-1120, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 801] .

The mere fact that some third party is the immediate actor in causing the injury does not of itself absolve a school district from liability if it was negligent in failing to provide adequate supervision [Hoyem v. Manhattan Beach City School Dist. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 508, 521, 150 Cal. Rptr. 1, 585 P.2d 851 ; Charonnat v. San Francisco Unified Sch. Dist. (1943) 56 Cal. App. 2d 840, 846, 133 P.2d 643] . Thus, willful misconduct or boisterous behavior by the injured student or another student does not necessarily relieve the school district of liability, since the duty to supervise is necessary in part because of the tendency of students to engage in aggressive and impulsive behavior which exposes them and their peers to the risk of serious physical harm [Dailey v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 741, 748, 87 Cal. Rptr. 376, 470 P.2d 360 ; Beck v. San Francisco Unified Sch. Dist. (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 503, 508-509, 37 Cal. Rptr. 471] .

A school should also consider the special vulnerability of special-needs students when monitoring the school grounds, as these students are more susceptible to victimization by other students. For example, if a school district allows a hidden area to be maintained on campus without taking adequate steps to prevent access by students, the foreseeability of that area being used to inflict injury on a special-needs student may be imputed to the district even without proof of prior incidents of victimization taking place in that hidden area [Jennifer C. v. Los Angeles Unified School Dist. (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 1320, 1328-1329, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 274].

Adequacy of supervision and proximate causation are generally considered questions of fact that the jury must decide [see, e.g., Beck v. San Francisco Unified Sch. Dist. (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 503, 508-509, 37 Cal. Rptr. 471 ; Ziegler v. Santa Cruz City High Sch. Dist. (1959) 168 Cal. App. 2d 277, 284-286, 335 P.2d 709] . The occurrence of similar incidents may be relevant to the existence of a duty to protect students against similar injuries [see Dailey v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 741, 752 n.8, 87 Cal. Rptr. 376, 470 P.2d 360] .

A school district is not under a general duty to supervise the conduct of persons who come onto school property when school is not in session for purposes unrelated to school activities and functions [see Bartell v. Palos Verdes Peninsula Sch. Dist. (1978) 83 Cal. App. 3d 492, 498-500, 147 Cal. Rptr. 898] .

For a form of complaint against a school district and its employees for damages proximately caused by negligent supervision, see § 514.60.

[3] Injuries to Students Not on School Property

Notwithstanding any other provision of the Education Code, no school district, city or county board of education, county superintendent of schools, or officer or employee of such district or board is responsible or in any way liable for the conduct or safety of any pupil of the public schools at any time when the pupil is not on school property unless the district, board, or person has done any of the following [Educ. Code § 44808]:

- Undertaken to provide transportation for the pupil to and from the school premises.
- Undertaken a school-sponsored activity off the school premises.
- Otherwise specifically assumed such responsibility or liability.
- Failed to exercise reasonable care under the circumstances.

The phrase "failed to exercise reasonable care under the circumstances" has been construed to modify the preceding phrases, which set forth the circumstances in which a duty to provide for the safety and conduct of a pupil arises by virtue of a specific assumption of obligation. Therefore, this portion of Educ. Code § 44808 does not create any independent duty of care in the absence of some specific assumption of a duty to provide for a pupil's safety and conduct off campus [Cerna v. City of Oakland (2008) 161 Cal. App. 4th 1340, 1357, 75 Cal. Rptr. 3d 168 ; Torsiello v. Oakland Unified Sch. Dist. (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 41, 47-49, 242 Cal. Rptr. 752] . For example, the court of appeal has held that a school district has no duty to students, who are waiting after school for their parents to pick them up, to protect them from injuries that occur off-campus on a public street that is not under the school district's control, at least if the injury does not result from the school district's on-campus negligence and the district has not undertaken any specific responsibilities to supervise or protect those students [Guerrero v. South Bay Union Sch. Dist. (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 264, 269-270, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 509 ; but see Eric M. v. Cajon Valley Union School Dist. (2009) 174 Cal. App. 4th 285, 299, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 428 (triable issue of fact as to whether school violated duty to supervise 6-year-old child who boarded then disembarked from school bus unattended and was struck by car off school property while walking home)].

In the event of such a specific undertaking, the district or board is liable or responsible for the safety or conduct of any pupil only while the pupil is or should be under the immediate and direct supervision of an employee of the district or board [Educ. Code § 44808; see, e.g., Ramirez v. Long Beach Unified Sch. Dist. (2002) 105 Cal. App. 4th 182, 190, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 128 (school district that encouraged students to participate in camp that school did not supervise was not liable under Educ. Code § 44808 for student's death at camp)]. Thus, a school district is under no actionable duty to supervise or provide for the protection of students on their way to or from school unless it has undertaken to provide transportation for them [Gilbert v. Sacramento Unified Sch. Dist. (1968) 258 Cal. App. 2d 505, 508-510, 65 Cal. Rptr. 913 ; Kerwin v. County of San Mateo (1959) 176 Cal. App. 2d 304, 307, 1 Cal. Rptr. 437] . Similarly, a school district is not liable for injuries sustained as a result of its failure to provide transportation or its failure to assign a pupil to a particular school within the district [Girard v. Monrovia City Sch. Dist. (1953) 121 Cal. App. 2d 737, 743-744, 264 P.2d 115 ; but see Manjares v. Newton (1966) 64 Cal. 2d 365, 373-375, 49 Cal. Rptr. 805, 411 P.2d 901 (school district may be required to provide transportation when failure to do so would effectively prevent student from attending school at all)].

If, however, the school district does provide transportation, it is under a duty to provide a reasonably safe system [Raymond v. Paradise Unified Sch. Dist. (1963) 218 Cal. App. 2d 1, 9, 31 Cal. Rptr. 847 ; see Farley v. El Tejon Unified Sch. Dist. (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 371, 377-379, 274 Cal. Rptr. 780 (in wrongful death action brought after 8-year-old boy was killed while crossing road after being dropped off by school bus, determination of whether defendant exercised reasonable care as required by Educ. Code § 44808 was question of fact); see also Veh. Code § 22112 (schoolbus driver's duties of flashing red signal lights and stop signal arm and escorting pupils across highway)]. As noted above, however, liability will only be imposed if, at the time of the injury, the student was or should have been under the direct supervision of a school employee [Bassett v. Lakeside Inn, Inc. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 863, 872, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 827 (district not liable to student killed by drunk driver off school property on way to school bus stop because student was not and should not have been under school supervision)].

Unless circumstances indicate that it is unreasonable not to do so, school authorities need not determine the safety of the surrounding neighborhood before dismissing students from school [see Brownell v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 787, 795-796, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 756] . Thus, school authorities were not liable for negligent supervision because they dismissed students without first ascertaining that there were no gang members on nearby streets, when a student was then shot and wounded by gang members on a public street adjacent to school property [see Brownell v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 787, 794-798, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 756] . Schools have no duty to engage in a visual inspection for gang activity, absent either (1) any specific indication of a real and imminent gang-related threat at a particular time and place or (2) prior incidents reflecting not necessarily a specific type of harm but that the possibility of harm in the form of an assault is foreseeable [Brownell v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 787, 797, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 756] .

All persons who participate in "field trips or excursions" conducted by a school district are deemed to have waived all claims against the district, a charter school, or the state for injury, accident, illness, or death occurring during or because of the field trip or excursion [Educ. Code § 35330(d)]. This provision has been held to apply only to field trips or excursions in which students are not required to participate [Wolfe v. Dublin Unified Sch. Dist. (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 126, 135, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 280 ; Castro v. Los Angeles Bd. of Educ. (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 232, 235-236, 126 Cal. Rptr. 537] . If the activity is one that requires attendance and for which attendance credit may be given, then the district is liable under Educ. Code § 44808 for the safety of the pupil while the pupil is or should be under the direct supervision of an employee of the district. Students who are off the school's property for required school purposes are entitled to the same safeguards as those who are on school property, within supervisorial limits [see Castro v. Los Angeles Bd. of Educ. (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 232, 235-236, 126 Cal. Rptr. 537] . However, students who participate in non-required trips or excursions, though possibly in furtherance of their education but not as required attendance, are effectively on their own; the voluntary nature of the event absolves the district of liability [Wolfe v. Dublin Unified Sch. Dist. (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 126, 135, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 280 (affirming summary judgment in school district's favor); see Castro v. Los Angeles Bd. of Educ. (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 232, 235-236, 126 Cal. Rptr. 537 (reversing order sustaining demurrer in wrongful death action against school district)].

The court of appeal has reached a similar result under Educ. Code § 87706 and 5 Cal. Code Reg. § 55450, provisions analogous to Educ. Code §§ 35330, 44808 that govern the liability of community college districts. In that case, the court held that the more specific immunity provision applied to the facts and controlled the outcome, although the court disagreed that the voluntary nature of a student's participation was material to the analysis [Barnhart v. Cabrillo Cmty. Coll. (1999) 76 Cal. App. 4th 818, 827-829, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 709] .

The court of appeal has held that the field trip immunity of Educ. Code § 35330 applies to school district employees acting in the course and scope of employment, even though school district employees are not explicitly included in the language of the statute [Casterson v. Superior Court (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 177, 189, 123 Cal. Rptr. 2d 637] . According to the court, a contrary conclusion would effectively destroy the immunity of the school district, because the district would be vicariously liable for the employee's conduct under Gov. Code § 815.2(a) [Casterson v. Superior Court (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 177, 180, 123 Cal. Rptr. 2d 637 ; see Gov. Code § 815.2(a)].

The governing board of a school district may permit the pupils enrolled at any high school to leave the school grounds during lunch hour. Neither the school district nor any officer or employee thereof is liable for the conduct or safety of any pupil who has left the school grounds pursuant to such permission [Educ. Code § 44808.5].

[4] Off-Campus Injury Resulting From Negligent On-Campus Supervision

The duty or lack of duty to supervise the conduct of students who are off campus must be distinguished from the recognized duty of school officials to supervise students when they are on school property [§ 514.12[2]]. When school officials negligently fail to provide adequate supervision of students while they are on school property, the fact that the resulting injury to the student occurs off campus does not relieve the district from liability [Hoyem v. Manhattan Beach City Sch. Dist. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 508, 514-518, 150 Cal. Rptr. 1, 585 P.2d 851 ; Satariano v. Sleight (1942) 54 Cal. App. 2d 278, 284, 129 P.2d 35] . Thus, for example, a school district may be held liable for off-campus injuries that are proximately caused by its failure to exercise reasonable care in supervising students so as to prevent their unauthorized departure from the school grounds [Hoyem v. Manhattan Beach City Sch. Dist. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 508, 514, 150 Cal. Rptr. 1, 585 P.2d 851] .

For a form of allegation of negligent failure to prevent a student from leaving school without permission, see § 514.61.

[5] No Duty to Protect Third-Party from Off-Campus Injury Absent Knowledge of Dangerous Student

The duty to supervise students under a school's care is primarily designed to protect the students themselves from injury. It does not extend to nonstudents who are injured by a student off school premises, at least when the school neither knew nor had reason to know that the particular student posed a danger [Hoff v. Vacaville Unified Sch. Dist. (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 925, 934-937, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 811, 968 P.2d 522] . Thus, in one case a school district owed no duty to a third party who was injured across the street from a school parking lot when struck by a student driving in a reckless manner away from an unsupervised school parking lot. In that particular case, the school considered the student to be responsible and had no reason to know that he would drive his car away from the lot in a reckless manner [Hoff v. Vacaville Unified Sch. Dist. (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 925, 934-937, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 811, 968 P.2d 522] .

In that case, the Supreme Court also rejected the argument that liability could be predicated on Educ. Code § 44807, because that statute was designed to protect students rather than members of the general public who were not on school property. The Court also rejected an argument based on Educ. Code § 44808, finding that the school had not specifically assumed responsibility for the student's off-campus conduct at the parking lot at issue merely by providing supervision at another parking lot [Hoff v. Vacaville Unified Sch. Dist. (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 925, 938-940, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 811, 968 P.2d 522 ; see § 514.12[3]].

[6] Defamation Liability for Reporting Threats

A communication by any person to a school principal, or a communication by a student attending the school to the student's teacher or to a school counselor or school nurse and any report of that communication to the school principal, stating that a specific student or other specified person has made a threat to commit violence or potential violence on the school grounds involving the use of a firearm or other deadly or dangerous weapon, is a communication on a matter of public concern. It does not subject the person making the statement to liability for defamation unless there is clear and convincing evidence that the communication or report was made with knowledge of its falsity or with reckless disregard for the truth or falsity of the communication [Civ. Code § 48.8].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

§ 514.13 Liability for Dangerous Condition of School Property

Except as provided by statute, a school district, like other public entities, is liable for injury caused by a dangerous condition of its property if the plaintiff establishes the following [Gov. Code § 835]:

- The property was in a dangerous condition at the time of the injury;
- The injury was proximately caused by the dangerous condition;
- The dangerous condition created a reasonably foreseeable risk of the kind of injury that was incurred; and
- Either (a) a negligent or wrongful act or omission of an employee of the school district within the scope of his or her employment created the dangerous condition, or (b) the public entity had actual or constructive notice under Gov. Code § 835.2 of the dangerous condition a sufficient time prior to the injury to have taken measures to protect against the dangerous condition.

A "dangerous condition" is a condition of property that creates a substantial (as distinguished from a minor, trivial, or insignificant) risk of injury when the property or adjacent property is used with due care in a manner in which it is reasonably foreseeable that it will be used [Gov. Code § 830(a); see Gov. Code § 830.2]. A condition of school property that is not inherently dangerous but merely allows access to school property at times when no school personnel are present to supervise the conduct of persons on the premises is not a dangerous condition within the meaning of Gov. Code §§ 830 and 835 [Bartell v. Palos Verdes Peninsula Sch. Dist. (1978) 83 Cal. App. 3d 492, 496-498, 147 Cal. Rptr. 898] .

However, a dangerous condition on school property may exist even though the condition is dangerous only by reason of a condition that exists on adjacent property over which the school has no control. In one case, for example, a school district was liable to a student who was struck by a car while crossing a dangerous crosswalk on an adjacent city street. The school district's liability was based on the district's placement of an entrance gate adjacent to the crosswalk, encouraging students to cross at that crosswalk even though the district was aware that the crosswalk, which had no lights or stop signs, was at a heavily traveled intersection [Joyce v. Simi Valley Unified Sch. Dist. (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 292, 298-300, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 712 ; see also Bonanno v. Central Contra Costa Transit Auth. (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 139, 144, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 341, 65 P.3d 807] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

45-514 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 514.14

§ 514.14 Immunity for Hazardous Recreational Activity

As a public entity, a school district is immune from liability for any damage or injury to property or persons arising out of a hazardous recreational activity conducted on the property of the school district [see Gov. Code § 831.7(a)]. "Hazardous recreational activity" means a recreational activity that creates a substantial, as distinguished from a minor, trivial, or insignificant, risk of injury to a participant or a spectator [Gov. Code § 831.7(b)]. Under Gov. Code § 831.7, the district is immune from liability to any person who participates in the hazardous recreational activity, who assists a participant, or to any spectator who knew or reasonably should have known that the activity created a substantial risk of injury to himself or herself and was voluntarily in the place of risk, or having the ability to leave, failed to do so [Gov. Code § 831.7(a)].

"Hazardous recreational activity" is further defined to mean the following [Gov. Code § 831.7(b)(1)-(3)]:

- Water contact activities, except diving, in places where or at a time when lifeguards are not provided and reasonable warning thereof has been given or the injured party should reasonably have known that there was no lifeguard provided at that time;

- Any form of diving into water from other than a diving board or diving platform, or at any place or from any structure where diving is prohibited and reasonable warning therof has been given; and

- Animal riding, including equestrian competition, archery, bicycle racing or jumping, boating, cross-country and downhill skiing, hang gliding, kayaking, motorized vehicle racing, off-road motorcycling or four-wheel driving of any kind, orienteering, pistol and rifle shooting, rock climbing, rocketeering, rodeo, spelunking, sky diving, sport parachuting, body contact sports (that is, sports in which it is reasonably foreseeable that there will be rough bodily contact with one or more participants), surfing, trampolining, tree climbing, tree rope swinging, water skiing, white water rafting, and wind surfing.

There are specified exceptions to this immunity, such as gross negligence by the school district or its employee that proximately causes the injury [Gov. Code § 831.7(c)(5)]. For a further discussion of this immunity, see Ch. 464, Public Entities and Officers: California Tort Claims Act .

School districts, including colleges, have been denied immunity from liability under Gov. Code § 831.7 for injuries to students engaged in school-sponsored athletic practices under the negligent supervision of school personnel, based on the conclusion that these activities are part of the educational mission of the school and therefore not considered "recreational" [Avila v. Citrus Cmty. Coll. Dist. (2006) 38 Cal. 4th 148, 159-160, 41 Cal. Rptr. 3d 299, 131 P.3d 383 (community college was not immune under statute for injury to intercollegiate baseball player sustained during game); Iverson v. Muroc Unified Sch. Dist. (1995) 32 Cal. App. 4th 218, 227, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 35 (body contact sport performed during required physical education class was not "recreational"); Acosta v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 471, 477-478, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 171 (school district has duty of reasonable supervision). However, a school district may be relieved from liability by the common-law doctrine of primary assumption of risk for an injury sustained by a student during a supervised extracurricular sports activity, if the injury was among the normal risks inherent in the sports activity [Avila v. Citrus Cmty. Coll. Dist. (2006) 38 Cal. 4th 148, 163-165, 41 Cal. Rptr. 3d 299, 131 P.3d 383 (primary assumption of risk protected community college from liability to intercollegiate baseball player who was struck by pitch, perhaps intentionally, because risk was inherent in game); Lilley v. Elk Grove Unified Sch. Dist. (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 939, 943-946, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 638 (rejecting argument that Educ. Code § 44807 precluded application of primary assumption of risk doctrine to injury sustained in supervised extracurricular sports participation)]. For a discussion of primary assumption of risk, see Ch. 380, Negligence .

45-514 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 514.15

§ 514.15 Immunity for Asbestos-Related Injuries

A school district and its officers, directors, or employees have no civil liability in any civil action for injury, disease, death, or economic loss arising out of exposure on or after January 1, 1989, to asbestos contained in buildings owned, leased, or otherwise used by a school district, except on proof that the injury, disease, death, or economic loss was caused by the negligence of the school district, its officers, directors, or employees [Gov. Code § 905.5; for forms relating to negligence by public entities and public employees, see Ch. 464, Public Entities and Officers: California Tort Claims Act]. Notwithstanding Gov. Code § 815.6 (public entity's liability on failure to discharge mandatory duty) and Evid. Code § 669 (presumption of failure to exercise due care), no presumption of negligence applies to any action under Gov. Code § 905.5 [Gov. Code § 905.5].

Gov. Code § 905.5 applies only to actions against school districts. It does not apply to any other action, including, but not limited to, actions against a manufacturer, contractor, or any person who makes, sells, distributes, furnishes, or installs asbestos-containing materials. Gov. Code § 905.5 does not affect, alter, or otherwise modify the law pertaining to workers' compensation claims. Nor does it affect the right of a school district or its officers, directors, or employees to seek indemnification [Gov. Code § 905.5].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

§ 514.16 Liability for Negligence of Independent Contractors

Like other public entities, a school district is liable for any injury proximately caused by a tortious act or omission of an independent contractor of the school district to the same extent that the district would be liable if it were a private person [Gov. Code § 815.4]. Thus, a school district is liable for the negligent failure of an independent contractor to construct or maintain buildings or install permanent fixtures in a reasonably safe condition [see O'Gan v. King City Joint Union High Sch. Dist. (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 641, 646, 83 Cal. Rptr. 795] . The school district's potential vicarious liability under Gov. Code § 815.4 for the negligence of its independent contractors is broader than its liability for dangerous conditions under Gov. Code § 835 because there is no requirement of either tortious conduct on the part of the district's employees or notice of the condition on the part of the district [O'Gan v. King City Joint Union High Sch. Dist. (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 641, 646-647, 83 Cal. Rptr. 795] .

For a form of complaint for damages against a school district and its employees and independent contractors for the negligence of the independent contractor and for the dangerous condition of school property, see § 514.62.

Chapter 514 SCHOOLS: INJURIES TO STUDENTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

45-514 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 514.17

§ 514.17 Liability for Failure to Discharge Mandatory Duty

When a public entity, such as a school district, is under a mandatory duty imposed by an enactment [see Gov. Code § 810.6 ("enactment" defined as constitutional provision, statute, charter provision, ordinance, or regulation)] that is designed to protect against the risk of a particular kind of injury, the public entity is liable for an injury of that kind proximately caused by its failure to discharge the duty, unless the entity establishes that it exercised reasonable diligence to discharge the duty [Gov. Code § 815.6]. For further discussion and a complaint alleging failure by a public entity to discharge a mandatory statutory duty, see Ch. 464, Public Entities and Officers: California Tort Claims Act .

The obligation imposed on school districts by various provisions of the Education Code to adequately educate students is not a mandatory duty imposed by an enactment designed to protect against the risk of a particular kind of injury within the meaning of Gov. Code § 815.6. Thus, the violation of those provisions by a school district imposes no liability under Gov. Code § 815.6 [Rodriguez v. Inglewood Unified Sch. Dist. (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 707, 721, 230 Cal. Rptr. 823 ; Peter W. v. San Francisco Unified Sch. Dist. (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 814, 826-827, 131 Cal. Rptr. 854 ; see also Ch. 513, Schools: Student Rights and Responsibilities]. Similarly, there is no basis for liability under Gov. Code § 815.6 when a school district violates certain suspension and expulsion provisions of the Education Code (Educ. Code §§ 48900, 48911, 48918), because those provisions were not designed to protect students and their parents from money damages resulting from "educational" injuries [Tirpak v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 639, 643, 232 Cal. Rptr. 61] . Additionally, Gov. Code § 815.6 provides no basis for liability for violations of Educ. Code §§ 49000 and 49001, which prohibit corporal punishment, in that those sections do not create any mandatory, affirmative duty on the part of public schools or districts to take action or carry out measures to ensure that students are never subjected to corporal punishment by teachers [Clausing v. San Francisco Unified Sch. Dist. (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 1224, 1239-1240, 271 Cal. Rptr. 72] . For discussion of Educ. Code §§ 49000 and 49001, see Ch. 513, Schools: Student Rights and Responsibilities .

Although one court of appeal opinion held that the statutory duty to investigate a teacher's background and deny employment to those convicted of a sex offense could not be used to support a private right of action under Gov. Code § 815.6 [State of California v. Superior Court (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 954, 958, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 527 ; see Educ. Code § 44346(a)(2); Gov. Code § 815.6], the California Supreme Court has subsequently rejected, in a different context, the rationale employed to reach that conclusion [Haggis v. City of Los Angeles (2000) 22 Cal. 4th 490, 500 n.2, 93 Cal.

Rptr. 2d 327, 993 P.2d 983 (application of Gov. Code § 815.6 does not depend on whether Legislature intended underlying statute to create private right of action)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

45-514 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 514.18

§ 514.18 Presentation of Written Claim to School District as Prerequisite to Action for Damages; Time Limits

A written claim relating to a cause of action for death or personal injury must be presented to the school district in accordance with Gov. Code §§ 900-915.4 not later than six months after accrual of the cause of action [see Gov. Code §§ 905, 910, 911.2]. The claim must be presented to the school district. Presentation of the claim to the State Board of Control will not suffice. Although a school district is a state agency, it is a local public entity under the claim-filing requirement of the Tort Claims Act because it is not a state agency for which tort claims are paid by warrants issued by the controller. Potential liability for a claim for personal injuries rests with the school district, not the state [Johnson v. San Diego Unified Sch. Dist. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 692, 699-700, 266 Cal. Rptr. 187] .

The governing board of the district must act on the claim (by allowing it or rejecting it in whole or in part) within 45 days after presentation of the claim. If the claim is amended, the board must act on the claim within 45 days after filing of the amended claim. If the board fails or refuses to act on the claim within this time, the claim is deemed rejected on the 45th day [Gov. Code § 912.4; see Gov. Code § 912.6]. Notice of the action taken on the claim must be given to the claimant in a form prescribed by statute [see Gov. Code § 913].

An injured party may apply in writing for leave to present a claim after six months following accrual of the cause of action if the application is presented to the school district within a reasonable time not exceeding one year after the accrual of the cause of action and states the reason for the delay in presenting the claim [Gov. Code § 911.4]. If the governing board does not grant or deny the application within 45 days after it is presented, the application is deemed denied on the 45th day [Gov. Code § 911.6]. If the application is denied, the claimant may petition the court for an order relieving him or her from the necessity of filing a claim prior to maintaining an action against the district [see Gov. Code § 946.6].

Except as provided in Gov. Code § 946.4 (agency's failure to file statement required by Gov. Code § 53051) and Gov. Code § 946.6 (judicial relief from claim requirement), no suit for money or damages may be brought against a school district on a cause of action for which a written claim is required to be presented under Gov. Code §§ 910-915.4 until such a claim has been presented to the district and has been acted on or deemed rejected by the governing board of the district [Gov. Code § 945.4]. Any such suit against a school district must be commenced [Gov. Code § 945.6(a)]:

- If written notice of the board's action on the claim is given in accordance with Gov. Code § 913, not later than six months after the date such notice is personally delivered or deposited in the mail; or

- If written notice is not given in accordance with Gov. Code § 913, within two years after accrual of the cause of action.

[1] Claims and Actions Against School Districts

Parents whose child was expelled from junior high school without due process hearing as entitled to enforce claim for attorneys fees expended in administrative hearing that led to child's reinstatement under Individuals with Disabilities Education Act [20 U.S.C.S. § 1415] without having to comply with Gov. Code § 905, because claims statute does not apply to actions enforcing federal rights. Hacienda La Puente Sch. Dist. v. Honig (9th. Cir. 1992) 976 F.2d 487, 495-496

Under circumstances, trial court as abusing discretion in failing to grant minor's request under Gov. Code § 946.6(c)(2) for relief from obligation of filing claim with school district prior to maintaining action against it. Williams v. Mariposa County Unified Sch. Dist. (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 843, 849-852, 147 Cal. Rptr. 452

Minor as permitted to file action against school district within 30 days after court makes order relieving minor from obligation to file written claim against district under Gov. Code § 946.6, notwithstanding fact that statute of limitations applicable to personal injury actions generally had previously expired. Brown v. Huntington Beach Union HIgh Sch. Dist. (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 640, 642, 93 Cal. Rptr. 417

Claim presented to city as not satisfying statutory requirements for presentation of claim to board of education of school district where, by statute, the school district, and not the city, was liable for any judgment against the school district arising out of the claim. Jackson v. Board of Educ. (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 856, 857-859, 58 Cal. Rptr. 763

[2] Dangerous Conditions

School district as liable under Gov. Code § 835 for dangerous condition on public property when school children were struck and injured by car while waiting to be picked up after school; school parking lot was very congested and there was no barrier between lot and sidewalk where children waited to be picked up after school by parents. Constantinescu v. Conejo Valley Unified Sch. Dist. (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 1466, 1474-1476, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 734

Where alleged condition of school property (unlocked gate and broken fence) was not inherently dangerous but merely allowed access to school grounds where decedent engaged in dangerous game, plaintiff as failing to plead dangerous condition of public property within meaning of Gov. Code §§ 830 and 835. Bartell v. Palos Verdes Peninsula Sch. Dist. (1978) 83 Cal. App. 3d 492, 496-498, 147 Cal. Rptr. 898

[3] Independent Contractors

School district as liable under Gov. Code § 815.4 for negligent failure of independent contractor to construct or maintain buildings in reasonably safe condition. O'Gan v. King City Joint Union High Sch. Dist. (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 641, 646-647, 83 Cal. Rptr. 795

[4] Injuries to Parents

Teacher's disclosure of student's fatal disease to his classmates as not giving rise to any cause of action against the school district for shock and mental distress caused to student's parents. Wynne v. Orcutt Union Sch. Dist. (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 1108, 1110-1111, 95 Cal. Rptr. 458

[5] Negligent Supervision

[a] Generally

School district's duty to supervise students; standard of care; vicarious liability of school district for failure to adequately supervise. Dailey v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 741, 747, 87 Cal. Rptr. 376, 470 P.2d 360

Fact that student's injuries and death were result of boisterous behavior ("slap boxing") engaged in by him and fellow student as not precluding finding of negligent supervision by school district. Dailey v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 741, 748, 87 Cal. Rptr. 376, 470 P.2d 360

School district liable for sexual assault of special education student by another student in unsupervised restroom before start of classes because district had knowledge of assailant's disciplinary history and special needs of victim. M. W. v. Panama Buena Vista Union Sch. Dist. (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 508, 520-521, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 673

School district not liable for failing to protect student from injuries caused by another student during fight, despite fact that student who caused injuries had been in trouble before; no aspect of assailant's prior conduct bore any relation to plaintiff, there was no indication that assailant even knew plaintiff before attack, and fight arose suddenly during lunch break, immediately after school monitor had passed through area in which fight occurred. Thompson v. Sacramento City Unified Sch. Dist. (2003) 107 Cal. App. 4th 1352, 1369-1372, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 748

School district was entitled to summary judgment on claim that it failed to protect student from injuries caused by another student during fight, despite fact that student who caused injuries had been in trouble before; no aspect of assailant's prior conduct bore any relation to plaintiff, there was no indication that assailant even knew plaintiff before attack, and fight arose suddenly during lunch break, immediately after school monitor had passed through area in which fight occurred. Thompson v. Sacramento City Unified Sch. Dist. (2003) 107 Cal. App. 4th 1352, 1369-1372, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 748

Educ. Code § 44807 as creating duty on part of school district to supervise students on school playground such that school district could not rely on implied assumption of risk doctrine to avoid liability on summary judgment for injuries caused to plaintiff school child who was struck in the eye by a dirt clod thrown by fellow student during recess. Lucas v. Fresno Unified Sch. Dist. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 866, 871-873, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79

School district as not under general duty to supervise and control conduct of all persons on premises at all times apart from school-related activities and functions that require persons to be on school grounds. Bartell v. Palos Verdes Peninsula Sch. Dist. (1978) 83 Cal. App. 3d 492, 498-500, 147 Cal. Rptr. 898

Willful misconduct of student as not in itself sufficient to relieve school district of liability for injuries to another student; questions of adequacy of supervision and proximate cause as questions of fact properly left to jury. Beck v. San Francisco Unified Sch. Dist. (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 503, 508-509, 37 Cal. Rptr. 471

Where student died from injuries sustained when he fell from railing at school, question of whether school district was liable for negligently failing to supervise area and warn students not to sit on railing as question of fact for jury. Ziegler v. Santa Cruz City High Sch. Dist. (1959) 168 Cal. App. 2d 277, 284-286, 335 P.2d 709

Mere fact that some third party is immediate cause of injury as not of itself absolving school district from liability if it negligently failed to provide adequate supervision. Charonnat v. San Francisco Unified Sch. Dist. (1943) 56 Cal. App. 2d 840, 846, 133 P.2d 643

[b] Off-Campus Injury

School district's duty to exercise ordinary care in supervising students while on school premises as including duty to exercise ordinary care to keep students on campus during school hours; district as liable for student injuries which are proximately caused by district's failure to exercise such care, notwithstanding that injury occurs off campus. Hoyem v. Manhattan Beach City Sch. Dist. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 508, 513-520, 150 Cal. Rptr. 1, 585 P.2d 851

Instructors of adult education truck driving course that expressly and properly undertook to supervise off-campus project involving loading of bleachers onto flatbed truck owed duty of care to provide immediate and direct supervision, especially given that goal of project was to teach students how to load truck properly. Patterson v. Sacramento City Unified School Dist. (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 821, 831-832, 66 Cal. Rptr. 3d 337

Educ. Code § 44808 protected school district from liability for off-campus injury to student who fell off van being driven by coach, because injury was not incurred during school-sponsored or school-sanctioned activity. Mosley v. San Bernardino City Unified Sch. Dist. (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 1260, 1264-1265, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 724

Educ. Code § 44807 (duty to hold pupils to strict account for their conduct on their way to and from school) as creating no duty to stop and investigate activities of students when their conduct does not manifest some degree of impropriety. Torsiello v. Oakland Unified Sch. Dist. (1987) 197 Cal. App. 3d 41, 45-46, 242 Cal. Rptr. 752

Where busy high school loading area was used as bus stop for elementary school children, school district as under duty as matter of law to provide adequate supervisory measures to protect children using the bus loading zone. Raymond v. Paradise Unified Sch. Dist. (1963) 218 Cal. App. 2d 1, 10-11, 31 Cal. Rptr. 847

Duty of school district to supervise students during school hours as not ceasing merely because students must cross a public street in going from class to class. Satariano v. Sleight (1942) 54 Cal. App. 2d 278, 284, 129 P.2d 35

Plaintiff [, through his/her guardian ad litem,] alleges:

[1. If appropriate, allege: On or about _____ (date), _____ (name) was appointed guardian ad litem of plaintiff _____ (name), a minor of the age of _____ years, by order of the above-entitled court, and is now the qualified and acting guardian ad litem of plaintiff for purposes of this action.]

2. Defendant _____ [name of school district] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a school district duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California.

3. _____ School is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a school facility operated by and under the management and control of defendant _____ [name of school district], its governing board, officers, and employees, and located in _____ [city], _____ County, California.

4. At all times herein mentioned, defendant(s) _____ [name(s) of teacher(s) or other school employee(s)] _____ [was or were] [an] employee(s) of defendant _____ [name of school district], and in doing the acts hereinafter described, _____ [was or were] acting within the scope of his/her/their employment.

5. At all times herein mentioned, plaintiff _____ [name] was a resident of _____ County, California and a student duly enrolled at _____ School.

[6. Plaintiff is ignorant of the true names and capacities of defendants sued herein as DOES 1- _____, inclusive, and therefore sues these defendants by such fictitious names. Plaintiff will amend this complaint to allege their true names and capacities when ascertained. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of the fictitiously named defendants is negligently responsible in some manner for the occurrences herein alleged, and that plaintiff's injuries as herein alleged were proximately caused by the negligence of these defendants.]

[7. (Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that) [A]t all times herein mentioned, each of the defendants sued herein as DOES 1- _____, inclusive, was the agent and employee of each of the remaining defendants and was at all times acting within the purpose and scope of such agency and employment.]

8. On or about _____ [date], _____ [describe how injury occurred, e.g., plaintiff was on the premises of _____ School for the purpose of attending classes there. While eating lunch in the cafeteria of _____ School, plaintiff, without provocation of any kind on his/her part, was attacked and struck by students _____ (names) and other unknown students and was knocked to the ground, proximately causing the injuries hereinafter alleged].

9. Defendants _____ [name of school district] and _____ [name(s) of teacher(s) or other school employee(s)], and each of them, had a duty at all times to supervise the conduct of students on the grounds of _____ School and to enforce those rules and regulations necessary for the protection of the students of _____ School. In particular, defendants had a duty to _____ [specify, e.g., supervise the conduct of students in the cafeteria of _____ School during the lunch period and exercise ordinary care to protect students from the type of attack described above].

10. Defendants _____ [name of school district] and _____ [name(s) of teacher(s) or other school employee(s)], and each of them, were negligent and careless in that _____ [allege nature of negligent supervision, e.g., they failed to exercise ordinary care in supervising the conduct of students in the cafeteria of _____ School during the lunch period so as to prevent the type of attack herein alleged. Prior to occurrence of the injuries herein alleged, defendants had actual and constructive notice that fights, beatings, and attacks such as have been alleged herein had occurred before, and were likely to occur again, in the absence of adequate supervision; defendants were negligent and careless in that having such knowledge they nevertheless failed to use ordinary care in the supervision of students during the lunch hour and failed to provide adequate supervision or any supervision at all].

11. As a proximate result of the negligence and carelessness of defendants, and each of them, plaintiff was hurt and injured in his/her health, strength, and activity, sustaining injury to his/her body and shock and injury to his/her nervous system and person, all of which injuries have caused, and continue to cause, plaintiff great mental, physical, and nervous pain and suffering. [Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that such injuries will result in some permanent disability to him/her.] As a result of such injuries, plaintiff has suffered general damages.

12. As a further proximate result of the negligence and carelessness of defendants, and each of them, plaintiff has incurred, and will continue to incur, medical and related expenses.

[13. If damages for lost earning capacity sought, allege: As a further proximate result of the negligence and carelessness of defendants, and each of them, plaintiff's earning capacity has been greatly impaired, both in the past and at present.]

14. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff presented to _____ [name of school district] by _____ [delivering or mailing] to the _____ [clerk or secretary or auditor] thereof, a written claim for the injuries, disability, losses, and damages suffered and incurred by him/her by reason of the above-described occurrence, all in compliance with the requirements of Sections 900 through 915.4 of the Government Code. A copy of the claim is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.

15. On or about _____ [date], _____ [name of school district] _____ [rejected the claim in its entirety or allowed the claim in the amount of $_____ and rejected it as to the remainder or failed to act on the claim within the period of 45 days after its presentation, and the claim was thus deemed rejected, under the provisions of Section 912.4 of the Government Code, at the expiration of the 45-day period].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendants, and each of them, as follows:

1. For general damages according to proof;

2. For medical and related expenses according to proof;

3. [For loss of earnings and earning capacity according to proof];

4. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint for use in an action by a student to recover damages for personal injuries sustained as a result of negligent supervision by a public school district and its employees. With appropriate modifications, the allegations of the complaint may be used in a complaint by the student's heirs for wrongful death, if the injuries sustained by the student resulted in his or her death. For forms of complaints for wrongful death, see Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions .

If some third person, other than the school district or its employees, is directly responsible for plaintiff's injuries, counsel may also include a separate cause of action against that person directly. For instance, in the factual example provided in the form, plaintiff's counsel might insert a second cause of action for assault or battery against the students who attacked plaintiff. If the third party was negligently responsible for plaintiff's injuries, counsel might insert a separate cause of action against the third party based on negligence. For forms of complaints based on assault, battery, and negligence, see Ch. 58, Assault and Battery , and Ch. 380, Negligence .

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges:

- Appointment of a guardian ad litem, if appropriate (Paragraph 1) [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 372-373.5].

- Capacity and residence of the parties (Paragraphs 2, 4, 5).

- Management and control of school grounds by defendant school district (Paragraph 3).

- Fictitious name allegations, where appropriate (Paragraphs 6, 7).

- A description of how the injury occurred (Paragraph 8).

- Defendant's duty to exercise ordinary care in supervising students on the school grounds and its negligent failure to do so (Paragraphs 9, 10) [see, e.g., Dailey v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 741, 747, 87 Cal. Rptr. 376, 470 P.2d 360 ; Taylor v. Oakland Scavenger Co. (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 594, 600, 110 P.2d 1044] .

- Proximate causation of general damages and special damages in the form of medical expenses and, where appropriate, lost earning capacity (Paragraphs 11-13).

- Presentation of a written claim to the school district in accordance with Gov. Code §§ 900-915.4 and rejection of the claim by the school district (Paragraphs 14, 15) [see Gov. Code § 945.4; Dujardin v. Ventura County Gen. Hosp. (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 350, 355, 138 Cal. Rptr. 20] .

[4] Presentation of Written Claim as Prerequisite to Action for Damages

Generally, no action for damages may be commenced against a public school district on a cause of action for which a written claim is required to be presented under Gov. Code §§ 900-915.4 until the claim has been presented to the district and has been acted on by its governing board or has been deemed to be rejected by its governing board [Gov. Code § 945.4]. The claim must be presented to the school district. Presentation of the claim to the State Board of Control will not suffice [Johnson v. San Diego Unified Sch. Dist. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 692, 699-700, 266 Cal. Rptr. 187] . Timely compliance with the claim filing requirements and rejection of the claim by the school district must be pleaded in a complaint in order to state a cause of action [see Dujardin v. Ventura County Gen. Hosp. (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 350, 355, 138 Cal. Rptr. 20] .

Presentation of a written claim is not a prerequisite to maintaining an action against the school district if the school district has failed to file an accurate statement pertaining to the district in the Roster of Public Agencies in the office of the Secretary of State, as required by Gov. Code § 53051, or if the court has made an order relieving plaintiff from the requirement of filing a claim pursuant to Gov. Code § 946.6 [Gov. Code § 945.4; see Gov. Code §§ 946.4, 946.6].

For a further discussion of and a procedural checklist and forms relating to the presentation of written claims to public entities, see Ch. 464, Public Entities and Officers: California Tort Claims Act .

[5] Appointment of Guardian ad Litem

When a minor is a party to an action, the minor must appear by a guardian ad litem appointed by the court in which the action or proceeding is pending, or by a judge thereof [Code Civ. Proc. § 372(a)]. For a discussion of and forms relating to the appointment of a guardian ad litem, see Ch. 291, Guardians ad Litem .

[6] Venue

In an action against a local public entity, such as a school district, for personal injuries, the proper place for trial of the action is the county in which the entity is situated [Code Civ. Proc. § 394(a)].

[7] Statute of Limitations

Any suit brought against a public school district on a cause of action for which a claim is required to be presented in accordance with Gov. Code §§ 900-915.4 must be commenced [Gov. Code § 945.6(a)]:

- If written notice of the district's action on the claim is given in accordance with Gov. Code § 913, not later than six months after the date such notice is personally delivered or deposited in the mail; or

- If written notice is not given in accordance with Gov. Code § 913, within two years from the accrual of the cause of action.

[8] Verification

A public entity need not verify its answer even though the complaint is verified [see Code Civ. Proc. § 446]. The verification of a complaint against a public entity does, however, preclude a general denial in an unlimited civil case, and will preclude a general denial even in a limited civil case when the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)].

[9] Specifying Amount of Damages

In an action to recover damages for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded for this cause of action [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

Otherwise, the amounts claimed as damages for anything other than personal injury or wrongful death (for example, property damage) must be alleged [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(a)] or an equivalent statement must be included, for example, a statement that the damages for a particular loss or harm sustained [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282] are not known and that leave will be sought to amend the complaint to state the exact amount when ascertained. If this is done, counsel must remember to seek leave to amend the complaint to so state before judgment.

For discussion of and forms for requesting and stating the amount of damages sought when they are not stated in the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.11, 425.115], see Ch. 177, Damages , and Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments .

[2] Use of Form

These allegations are for use in a complaint for damages by a student against a public school district and its employees for personal injuries sustained as a result of the negligent failure of the district's employees to adequately supervise its students. It alleges a failure by the district and its employees to exercise ordinary care to prevent students from leaving the school grounds before the close of the school day without the permission of the appropriate school officials. When such negligence proximately causes injury to a student, the school district is liable for the injury [see Hoyem v.

Manhattan Beach City Sch. Dist. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 508, 514-519, 150 Cal. Rptr. 1, 585 P.2d 851] .

Paragraphs 1-3 of this form may be inserted in lieu of Paragraphs 9-11 of the form in § 514.60.

[3] Decisions

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint for use in an action by a student against a school district, its employees, and independent contractors to recover damages for personal injuries sustained on school property. The first cause of action is based on the liability of a school district, as a public entity, and of its employees for a dangerous condition of school property [see Gov. Code §§ 835, 840.2]. The second cause of action is based on the vicarious liability of a school district for the negligence of its independent contractor in constructing and maintaining school buildings [see Gov. Code § 815.4; O'Gan v. King City Joint Union High Sch. Dist. (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 641, 646-647, 83 Cal. Rptr. 795] .

With appropriate modifications, the allegations of this complaint may be used in a complaint by the student's heirs for wrongful death, where the injuries sustained by the student resulted in his or her death. For forms of complaints for use in wrongful death actions, see Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions .

[3] Allegations

The first cause of action of this complaint alleges:

- The existence of a dangerous condition on school property, which condition existed at the time of the injury (Paragraphs 8, 9) [see Gov. Code §§ 830(a), 835, 840.2].

- Negligence of an employee of the school district which created the dangerous condition, or actual or constructive notice of the dangerous condition by the district and its employees prior to the occurrence of the injury, or both, as appropriate (Paragraph 10) [Gov. Code §§ 835, 835.2, 840.2, 840.4].

- Proximate causation of the injury to plaintiff and resulting special and general damages (Paragraphs 11-14) [Gov. Code §§ 835, 840.2].

The second cause of action incorporates by reference the pertinent allegations of the first cause of action and further alleges:

- Employment by the school district of an independent contractor (Paragraph 2).

- Negligence on the part of the independent contractor (Paragraph 3) [see Gov. Code § 825.4; O'Gan v. King City Joint Union High Sch. Dist. (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 641, 646-647, 83 Cal. Rptr. 795] .

- Description of how plaintiff's injury occurred (Paragraph 4).

Chapter 515 SECURITIES AND FRANCHISE REGULATION
PART I. SCOPE

§ 515.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter covers regulation of all securities transactions under the Corporate Securities Law of 1968 (Corp. Code § 25000 et seq.), whether in the form of offers or sales of corporate securities or in the form of general investments. It also covers the regulation of securities broker-dealers [see § 515.10 et seq.]. The following forms are included:

- A complaint, and allegations that may be used in the complaint, by securities purchasers for damages for manipulation of the securities market [see §§ 515.400 -515.404].

- Complaints by purchasers for rescission and damages, with allegations regarding joint and several liability, for material misrepresentation, and affirmative defenses for use in those actions [see §§ 515.405 -515.412].

- Complaints by a purchaser or seller, or the issuer, for damages against an "insider" who obtained an advantage by having undisclosed material information concerning a security transaction, with affirmative defenses for use in the action [see §§ 515.413 -515.417].

- Complaints and allegations by purchasers for rescission and damages for violation of securities qualification requirements or regulatory conditions, and affirmative defenses that may be asserted in such actions [see §§ 515.418 -515.426].

- A complaint for indemnity by a corporation against controlling persons [see § 515.427].

- A complaint for contribution among defendants, with defenses that may be asserted in such actions [see §§ 515.428 -515.430].

- A general affirmative defense for securities violations based on compliance with official guidelines [see § 515.432].

- A complaint for damages based on breach of contract by a purchaser against a stockbroker for failure to deliver shares purchased [see § 515.433].

This chapter also covers the federal preemption provisions of the National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996 and the effect of those provisions on the qualification of securities offerings in California [see § 515.11 et seq.].

The extensive regulation of securities under federal law is not discussed in this part. For a full discussion of federal law, regulations, and actions under the 1933 federal act, see Sowards, Federal Securities Act--Analysis, Procedures and Forms (Matthew Bender). The federal courts have exclusive jurisdiction of matters under the 1934 act, and for a full discussion of federal law, regulations, and actions under that act, see Gadsby, Federal Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (Matthew Bender).

For discussion and forms relating to liabilities that may accrue based on acts committed or omitted in the course of the issuance of shares and thereafter, see Ch. 162, Corporations: Issuance of Shares , and Ch. 163, Corporations: Transfers of Shares .

This chapter also discusses the regulation of the sale of franchises or franchise investments under the Franchise Investment Law [Corp. Code § 31000 et seq.; see § 515.450 et seq.]. Included are forms for a complaint, allegations, and defenses for use in a franchisee's rescission or damage action based on a violation of the requirements for, or a material representation made in, the registration of a franchise or the securing of a seasoned franchisor exemption [see §§ 515.450 -515.454]; a complaint and defenses for use in an action based on a material misrepresentation in the offer or sale of a franchise [see §§ 515.455 -515.457]; an allegation of injury for use by a subfranchisor who is in the position of a franchisee [see § 515.458]; general defenses to complaints for rescission or damages when the defendant has sent an approved notice acknowledging violation of the law [see § 515.459], has complied with regulatory provisions [see § 515.460], or is alleged to be jointly and severally liable for a violation of which he or she had no knowledge [see § 515.461]; and a complaint for injunction or damages for a franchisor's violation of a franchisee's trade association rights [see § 515.462].

This chapter also discusses the Franchise Relations Act [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 20000-20041] which governs the renewal, transfer, and termination of franchises other than particular franchises involving petroleum products or new motor vehicles [see § 515.480 et seq.]. It contains a complaint for damages on behalf of a franchisee whose franchise has been improperly terminated or has not been renewed [see § 515.480]. This part does not discuss Chapter 28 of Division 8 of the Business and Professions Code (Bus. & Prof. Code § 22900 et seq.), which governs manufacturers' and suppliers' relations with retail equipment dealers.

This chapter also covers regulatory legislation dealing with petroleum products franchises, which normally consist of service station dealerships [see § 515.500 et seq.]. Forms in this chapter include a class action complaint by franchisees for treble damages for violation of Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 21140.2 and 21140.4, which regulate dealing with outside suppliers [see § 515.500], and a complaint for damages for failure of the franchisor to comply with Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.6(l), which allows a franchisee to have a successor in interest [see § 515.501].

This chapter also deals with franchises in the form of new motor vehicle dealerships [see § 515.520 et seq.]. It includes a form for use by a franchisee before the New Motor Vehicle Board in protesting a franchisor's establishing of an additional or relocating an existing motor vehicle dealership [see § 515.520].

This chapter also discusses statutory provisions prohibiting discrimination in the granting, transfer, or discontinuance of franchises or dealerships [see § 515.540 et seq.]. It includes a complaint for use by dealers in a class action for injunctive relief and damages against a dealership grantor who has refused to grant or permit the transfer of dealerships on discriminatory grounds or who has discontinued dealerships on those grounds [see § 515.540].

This chapter also covers seller assisted marketing plans, a type of investment device substantially similar to but formally different from a security or franchise [see § 515.560 et seq.]. It includes a complaint for rescission, damages, and punitive damages by a purchaser of the plan against the seller for misrepresentation in the sale [see § 515.560].

This chapter also discusses the regulation of business relations between independent dealers, manufacturers, distributors, and wholesalers of agricultural, construction, utility, industrial, mining, outdoor power, forestry, and lawn and garden equipment [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22900 et seq.; see § 515.210 et seq.]. It includes a complaint for use by a dealer against a supplier for damages sustained as a result of the supplier's improper termination or failure to renew a dealer contract [see § 515.580].

A. Securities Regulation

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.10

§ 515.10 Governing Law

[1] California

Both the federal and state governments regulate the entire area of securities transactions because of the significant policy interest at each level of authority in protecting the public from investment fraud. However, state regulation is subject to the federal preemption of state authority over certain securities offerings [see § 515.11].

These transactions are governed in California by the Corporate Securities Law of 1968 [Corp. Code § 25000 et seq.]. The law is administered through the Department of Corporations by the Commissioner of Corporations [Corp. Code § 25600 et seq.]. Departmental rules for processing transactions are contained in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.000 et seq..

[2] Waiver of Statutory Compliance

Any condition, stipulation, or provision purporting to bind any person acquiring any security to waive compliance with any provision of the Corporate Securities Law of 1968 or any rules or orders promulgated under that law is void [Corp. Code § 25701].

[3] Federal

Transactions at the federal level with respect to issuance of securities are governed primarily under the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77a et seq.], and with respect to secondary trading in securities are governed primarily under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [15 U.S.C. § 78a et seq.], with implementation as to special kinds of securities through certain related legislation. Administration of the federal requirements is effected mainly through the Securities and Exchange Commission [15 U.S.C. §§ 77b(5), 77s, 78b(15), 78d, 78w], whose regulations are collected in Title 17 of the Code of Federal Regulations [see 17 C.F.R. §§ 230.100 et seq., 240.0-1 et seq.].

State courts have concurrent jurisdiction with federal courts under the 1933 act, and a suit commenced in a state court is not subject to federal removal [15 U.S.C. § 77v(a)]. The Class Action Fairness Act of 2005, which permits in general the removal to federal court of high-dollar class actions involving diverse parties [see 28 U.S.C. §§ 1332(d), 1453(b); see also Ch. 120, Class Actions, § 120.13[1]; Ch. 265, Federal Courts: Jurisdiction and Removal, § 265.15[6][a]], does not supersede the specific bar of 15 U.S.C. § 77v(a) against removal of cases arising under the Securities Act of 1933 [Luther v. Countrywide Home Loans Serv'g LP (9th Cir. 2008) 533 F.3d 1031, 1032, 1034].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Securities Regulation

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.11

§ 515.11 Federal Preemption of State Securities Regulation

[1] 1996 Legislation

The National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996 (Improvement Act) [Pub. L. No. 102-290, 110 Stat. 3416 (H.R. 3005)], which took effect on October 11, 1996, made significant changes to the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77a et seq.], the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [15 U.S.C. § 78a et seq.], the Investment Company Act of 1940 [15 U.S.C. § 801-1 et seq.], and the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 [15 U.S.C. § 80b-1 et seq.]. Most significant to California practice is the Improvement Act's prohibition against state regulation of certain issuers and transactions by means of federal preemption in many areas of securities regulation that formerly were subject to dual regulation by the states under blue sky laws and by the SEC or other federal agencies.

[2] Extent of Federal Preemption

Section 18(a) of the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77r], as amended by the Improvement Act, provides that no state may prohibit an offering or sale in the state, impose additional disclosure requirements, impose "merit" standards, require the registration or qualification of a security or transaction, or prohibit or limit the use of any offering document prepared on behalf of the issuer in an offering (including proxy statements and reports to shareholders required to be filed under Section 15A of the 1934 Act [15 U.S.C. § 78o-3] unless the issuer is incorporated in the state) if the security offered is a "covered" security [15 U.S.C. § 77r(a); see § 515.11[4]]. However, the states may continue to impose notice filing requirements and filing fees, and to investigate and bring enforcement actions for fraud or unlawful conduct by a broker and dealer.

In various releases issued in response to the Improvement Act, the Department of Corporations has noted that the California Constitution provides that a state administrative agency has no power to declare a state statute unenforceable on the basis that federal law prohibits the enforcement of the statute, unless an appellate court has made a determination that the enforcement of the statute is prohibited by federal law or regulations [Cal. Const., art. III, § 3.5; see Dept. Corps. Release Nos. 101-C, 102-C, 103-C, 104-C].

California's legislative response to the Improvement Act in the form of conforming amendments, was made in 1997 [see

Stats. 1997, ch. 391]. Those statutory changes are incorporated throughout this chapter. For extensive coverage of the Improvement Act and its interaction with California securities laws, see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 3A, Federal Preemption of State Securities Regulation (Matthew Bender).

[3] Continued State Authority With Respect to Fraud Enforcement Actions

Notwithstanding the preemption of state regulation of securities offerings, the securities commission of any state retains jurisdiction under the laws of that state to investigate and bring enforcement actions with respect to fraud or deceit, or unlawful conduct by a broker or dealer, in connection with securities or securities transactions [15 U.S.C. § 77r(c)(1); see, e.g., Capital Research & Management Co. v. Brown (2007) 147 Cal. App. 4th 58, 61, 67, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 770 (California Attorney General could pursue injunctive relief and penalties against covered security's investment advisor and wholesale broker-dealer who allegedly made inaccurate or inadequate representations to purchasers)].

[4] Definition of "Covered Security"

[a] Nationally Traded Securities

Since the definition of "covered security" determines whether or not the federal preemption applies, that definition is set forth in some detail below.

A "covered security" for purposes of the Improvement Act includes a security that is listed, or authorized for listing, on the New York Stock Exchange, on the NYSE Amex (formerly known as the American Stock Exchange), on the NASDAQ Global Market (formerly known as the National Market System of the NASDAQ Stock Market), on any successor to those entities, or on a national securities exchange (or tier or segment of such an exchange) that has listing standards that the SEC determines by rule are substantially similar to the listing standards of the exchanges listed above [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(1)(A), (B)]. A security of the same issuer that is equal in seniority or is a senior security [see 15 U.S.C. § 77r(d)(4) (definition)] to the securities just described also is a "covered security" [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(1)(C)] (note that the exchange name changes are not yet reflected in the statutory language); see also Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 3A, Federal Preemption of State Securities Regulation, § 3A.04[1] for discussion].

Since the California Corporations Commissioner has certified the New York Stock Exchange and the (former) American Stock Exchange (renamed "NYSE Amex LLC") [see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 27-C (Mar. 4, 1972); see also Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 3A, Federal Preemption of State Securities Regulation, § 3A.04[1]], as well as the and the NASDAQ Capital Market of the NASDAQ Stock Market LLC [see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 87-C (revised) (Aug. 17, 2009)] pursuant to Corp. Code § 25100(o), the federal preemption is irrelevant in California with respect to those listed securities, which are already exempt by California law.

[b] Registered Investment Companies

A security is a "covered security" if it is a security issued by an investment company that is registered, or that has filed a registration statement, under the Investment Company Act of 1940 [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(2); see 15 U.S.C. § 80a-1 et seq.].

[c] Sales to Qualified Purchasers

A security is a "covered security" with respect to its offer or sale to qualified purchasers as defined by the SEC by rule. In prescribing such a rule, the Commission may define the term "qualified purchaser" differently with respect to different categories of securities, consistent with the public interest and the protection of investors [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(3)].

[d] Certain Exempt Offerings

A security is a "covered security" with respect to a transaction that is exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933 pursuant to any of the following:

- Section 4(1) [15 U.S.C. § 77d(1)] (transactions by any person other than an issuer, underwriter or dealer) or Section 4(3) [15 U.S.C. § 77d(3)] (with certain exemptions, transactions by a dealer), if the issuer files reports with the SEC pursuant to Section 13 or 15(d) of the 1934 Act [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(4)(A); see 15 U.S.C. §§ 78m, 78o(d)].

- Section 4(4) [15 U.S.C. § 77d(4)] (certain brokers' transactions executed on a customer's order) [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(4)(B)].

- Section 3(a) [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)] (which exempts a large number of securities, including those of various governmental entities, commercial paper, charitable organizations, etc.), other than the offer of sale of a security that is exempt from registration pursuant to Section 3(a)(4), (10), or (11) [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(4), (10), (11)] (securities of charitable organizations, exchanges of securities for bona fide outstanding securities, and intrastate exemption). However, a municipal security that is exempt from registration pursuant to Section 3(a)(2) [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(2)] is not a covered security with respect to its offer or sale in the state in which the issuer of that security is located [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(4)(C)].

- SEC rules or regulations issued under Section 4(2) [15 U.S.C. § 77d(2)] (transactions by an issuer not involving any public offering), except that this restriction on state action does not prohibit a state from imposing notice filing requirements that are substantially similar to those required by rule or regulation under that section that were in effect on September 1, 1996 [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(4)(D)].

A transaction must actually qualify for a registration exemption in order for the subject security to be a "covered security." Filing of the necessary documents and payment of the required fees are not sufficient, since an exemption-based "covered security" under the Improvement Act is a security in "a transaction that is exempt from registration" [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(4) (emphasis added); Consolidated Management Group, LLC v. Department of Corps. (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 598, 607-608, 75 Cal. Rptr. 3d 795].

[5] Additional Effects of Improvement Act

[a] Investment Companies

The Improvement Act preempts all state regulation of investment companies that are registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 [15 U.S.C. § 77r(a), (b)(2); see 15 U.S.C. § 80a-1 et seq.].

[b] Broker-Dealers

The Improvement Act does not prevent a state from requiring the registration of broker-dealers in any circumstances, but it does severely restrict the scope of state regulation of on broker-dealers. Section 15(a)(h) of the 1934 Act [15 U.S.C. § 78o(h)], as added by the Improvement Act, provides that a state may not "establish capital, custody, margin, financial responsibility, making and keeping records, bonding, or financial or operational reporting requirements for brokers, dealers, municipal securities dealers, government securities brokers, or government securities dealers that differ from, or are in addition to, the requirements in those areas established under this title [the 1934 Act]" [15 U.S.C. § 78o(h)(1)]. Since these are most, if not all, of the areas in which broker-dealers are regulated, this provision effectively prohibits states from imposing any regulation on broker-dealers that is inconsistent with or in addition to that imposed by the SEC.

[c] Investment Advisers

The Improvement Act divides the state and federal authority to regulate investment advisers between the states and the federal government based upon the size of assets under management by the investment advisers. The statute requires registration under the federal Investment Advisers Act of 1940 [15 U.S.C. § 80b-1 et seq.] of an investment adviser who has more than $25 million under management, or is an investment adviser to a registered investment company under the Investment Company Act of 1940 [15 U.S.C. § 80a-1 et seq.], and exempts all other investment advisers from such registration [15 U.S.C. § 80b-3(a)(1)].

Investment advisers that are exempted from federal regulation are left to regulation by the state authorities, and the states are prohibited from requiring the registration of advisers that are required to be registered under the 1940 Act.

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.12

§ 515.12 Class Action Lawsuits Involving Nationally Traded Securities

[1] Federal Standards Affecting State Actions

Following passage of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 [P.L. 104-67, 109 Stat. 737 (December 22, 1995)], which sought to reduce the number of frivolous class action suits in federal court, a number of securities class action lawsuits shifted from federal to state courts. To prevent state private securities class action lawsuits alleging fraud from being used to frustrate the objectives of that Act, in 1998 Congress enacted national standards for securities class action lawsuits involving nationally traded securities, while preserving the appropriate enforcement powers of state securities regulators and not changing the current treatment of individual lawsuits [P.L. 105-353, 112 Stat. 3227, §§ 1, 2]. As discussed below, the Securities Litigation Uniform Standards Act of 1998 amended the Securities Act of 1933 and the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. For further coverage of that Act, see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws (Matthew Bender).

[2] Class Action Limitations

Under the Securities Litigation Uniform Standards Act of 1998, no covered class action based on the statutory or common law of any state or subdivision thereof may be maintained in any state or federal court by any private party alleging either an untrue statement or omission of a material fact in connection with the purchase or sale of a "covered security," or that the defendant used or employed any manipulative or deceptive device or contrivance in connection with the purchase or sale of a covered security [15 U.S.C. §§ 77p(b), 78bb(f)(1); see, e.g., Falkowski v. Imation Corp. (9th Cir. 2003) 320 F.3d 905, 906 (state law fraud claims relating to employee stock options were preempted by SLUSA; alleged fraud took place "in connection with" purchase or sale of "covered security")].

The term "covered class action" means a single lawsuit in which either [15 U.S.C. §§ 77p(f)(2), 78bb(f)(5)(B)]:

- Damages are sought on behalf of more than 50 persons or prospective class members, and questions of law or fact common to those persons or members of the prospective class, without reference to issues of individualized reliance on an alleged misstatement or omission, predominate over any questions affecting only individual persons or members; or

- One or more named parties seek to recover damages on a representative basis on behalf of themselves and other unnamed parties similarly situated, and questions of law or fact common to those persons or members of the prospective class predominate over any questions affecting only individual persons or members.

"Covered class action" also means a group of lawsuits filed in or pending in the same court and involving common questions of law or fact, in which damages are sought on behalf of more than 50 persons, and the lawsuits are joined, consolidated, or otherwise proceed as a single action for any purpose. The term does not include an exclusively derivative action brought by one or more shareholders on behalf of a corporation [15 U.S.C. §§ 77p(f)(2), 78bb(f)(5)(B)].

The term "covered security" means a security that satisfies the standards for a covered security specified in paragraph (1) or (2) of section 18(b) of the Securities Act of 1933 (listed and national market system securities, senior securities, and securities of federally registered investment companies) [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(1), (2); see § 515.11[4]] at the time during which it is alleged that the misrepresentation, omission, or manipulative or deceptive conduct occurred. However, the term does not include any debt security that is exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933 pursuant to rules issued by the Commission under section 4(2) [see 15 U.S.C. § 77d(2)] of that Act [15 U.S.C. §§ 77p(f)(3), 78bb(f)(5)(E)].

Any covered class action brought in any state court, involving a covered security, is removable to the U.S. district court for the district in which the action is pending, and in that court the action will be subject to the prohibition discussed above [15 U.S.C. §§ 77p(c), 78bb(f)(2)]. Since an action that is not precluded as discussed above is not removable, it follows that if the federal court determines that the action is not thus precluded, then the court has no jurisdiction to reach the merits, and the proper course is to remand the case to the state court [Kircher v. Putnam Funds Trust (2006) 547 U.S. 633, 644, 126 S. Ct. 2145, 165 L. Ed. 2d 92] .

[3] Exceptions

Notwithstanding the general prohibition discussed in [2], above, a covered class action based on the statutory or common law of the state in which the issuer is incorporated (in the case of a corporation) or organized (in the case of any other entity) may be maintained in a state or federal court by a private party if it is in one of two categories [15 U.S.C. §§ 77p(d)(1)(A), 78bb(f)(3)(A)(i)]:

- Actions involving the purchase or sale of securities by the issuer or an affiliate of the issuer exclusively from or to holders of equity securities of the issuer [15 U.S.C. §§ 77p(d)(1)(B)(i), 78bb(f)(3)(A)(ii)(I)].

- Actions involving any recommendation, position, or other communication with respect to the sale of securities of the issuer, if the communication (1) is made by or on behalf of the issuer or an affiliate of the issuer to holders of equity securities of the issuer and (2) concerns decisions of those equity holders with respect to voting their securities, acting in response to a tender or exchange offer, or exercising dissenters' or appraisal rights [15 U.S.C. §§ 77p(d)(1)(B)(ii), 78bb(f)(3)(A)(ii)(II); e.g., Madden v. Cowen Co. (9th Cir. 2009) 556 F.3d 786, 793-794 (action for negligent representation and professional negligence, based on California law, against investment bank which, acting on behalf of California corporation, made communication to its shareholders in form of "fairness opinion" letter concerning shareholders' impending decision on how to respond to exchange offer for that corporation's shares)].

Some of the ambiguity in the statutory language describing the second category of excepted actions, as stated above, has been resolved by judicial construction. Plainly, the statute allows a shareholder to bring a covered class action under state law against any "issuer" that has made certain communications regarding the sale of its "securities," and those securities need not be the "covered securit[ies]" referred to in the preclusionary language of 15 U.S.C. §§ 77p(b) and 78bb(f)(1) discussed in [2], above [Madden v. Cowen Co. (9th Cir. 2009) 556 F.3d 786, 794-795]. Further, as a matter of common sense, the requirement for a material communication to be made "on behalf of" the issuer refers to a communication made by any individual or entity to the issuer's shareholders and in the interest of, or as a representative of, the issuer. There is no reason to suppose that the statute refers to communications made only by certain persons such as officers, directors, and employees of the issuer [Madden v. Cowen Co. (9th Cir. 2009) 556 F.3d 786, 796-797] .

A state or political subdivision or a state pension plan may bring an action involving a covered security on its own behalf, or as a member of a class comprised solely of other states, political subdivisions, or state pension plans that are named plaintiffs and have authorized participation in such an action [15 U.S.C. §§ 77p(d)(2), 78bb(f)(3)(B)].

If an action has been removed to the U.S. district court pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 77p(c) or 78bb(f)(2) [see [2], above], and the federal court determines that the action may be maintained in the state court pursuant to one of the exceptions described above, then the federal court must remand the action to the state court [15 U.S.C. §§ 77p(d)(4), 78bb(f)(3)(D); Madden v. Cowen Co. (9th Cir. 2009) 556 F.3d 786, 793] .

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.13

§ 515.13 Definitions

[1] "Securities"

The term "securities" includes, in general, any interest or instrument commonly known as a "security." This takes on such familiar forms as the following [Corp. Code § 25019; cf. 15 U.S.C. § 77b(1)]:

- Stock, including (a) transferable shares, and (b) treasury stock.
- Evidence of indebtedness, including (a) notes, (b) bonds, (c) debentures, and (d) collateral trust certificates.
- Membership, whether in an incorporated or unincorporated association.
- Preorganization certificate or subscription.
- Voting trust certificate.
- Certificate of deposit for securities.
- Beneficial interest or other security issued in connection with a funded employee's pension, profit sharing, stock bonus, or similar benefit plan.
- Investment contract.
- Viatical settlement contract [see Corp. Code § 25023(a); former Ins. Code § 10113.1(a)(1) (repealed 2009; successor section defines arrangement as "life settlement contract"); see § 515.14[5][n]] or fractionalized or pooled interest therein.

- Life settlement contract or fractionalized or pooled interest therein [see Corp. Code § 25023(a) (definition); see § 515.14[7]].

- Certificate of interest or participation in any (1) profit-sharing agreement, or (2) oil, gas, or mining title or lease, or in payment out of production under such a title or lease.

- Any certificate or interest or participation in, temporary or interim certificate for, receipt for, guarantee of, or warrant or right to subscribe to or purchase any of the foregoing.

- Interest in a limited liability company and any class or series of interests in a limited liability company.

Whether something is to be considered a security within the meaning of the Corporate Securities Law is a question of fact to be determined in each case, bearing in mind that the general purpose of that law is to protect the public against the imposition of unsubstantial, unlawful, and fraudulent stock and investment schemes and the securities based on them [People v. Syde (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 765, 768, 235 P.2d 601 ; Consolidated Management Group, LLC v. Department of Corps. (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 598, 609, 75 Cal. Rptr. 3d 795 ; Moreland v. Department of Corps. (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 506, 512, 239 Cal. Rptr. 558 ; People v. Schock (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 379, 385, 199 Cal. Rptr. 327].

Regardless of the form the security may take, it need not be shown by a written document [Corp. Code § 25019].

The term "security" does not include (1) any beneficial interest in a voluntary inter vivos trust not created for the purpose of carrying on a business or solely for voting purposes; (2) a beneficial interest in a testamentary trust; or (3) an insurance or endowment policy or annuity contract under which locally admitted insurers promise to pay monetary sums at some designated time or times [Corp. Code § 25019].

"Security" also does not include any franchise subject to registration under the Franchise Investment Law [Corp. Code §§ 31000-31516], or exempted from registration by Commissioner's rule [see Corp. Code § 31100] or under the "seasoned franchisor" exemption [see Corp. Code § 31101] of that law [see Corp. Code § 25019].

[2] Refinement of Term "Security"

[a] Risk Capital Approach

The statutory definition of "security" is designed, in part, to protect the public against spurious schemes to attract risk capital. Therefore, a court is required to look through the form of a particular transaction to its substance [Silver Hills Country Club v. Sobieski (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 811, 813, 815, 13 Cal. Rptr. 186, 361 P.2d 906 ; People ex rel. Bender v. Wind River Mining Project (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 1390, 1399-1400, 269 Cal. Rptr. 106 ; see United Housing Foundation, Inc. v. Forman (1975) 421 U.S. 837, 847-848, 95 S. Ct. 2051, 44 L. Ed. 2d 621 (stating that even use of the word "stock" does not necessarily mean "security" under federal law's substantially similar definition of "security" but that, although name given to instrument is not dispositive, it is also not wholly irrelevant)].

In this respect, profit to the supplier of capital is not the test of what is a security. Rather, the law affords those who risk their capital at least a fair chance of realizing their objective in a legitimate venture, whether or not they expect a return on their capital in one form or another [Silver Hills Country Club v. Sobieski (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 811, 813, 815, 13 Cal. Rptr. 186, 361 P.2d 906 (construing former Corp. Code § 25008 in finding "memberships" in "recreational club" which were being sold to raise capital to develop business enterprise for profits, were securities); see also Clejan v. Reisman (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 224, 233, 84 Cal. Rptr. 897] .

The "risk capital" test announced in Silver Hills Country Club v. Sobieski (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 811, 13 Cal. Rptr. 186 is the test generally employed by California courts in assessing the elusive concept of the meaning of security [People v. Schock (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 379, 389, 199 Cal. Rptr. 327 ; but see People v. Smith (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 230, 236-238, 263 Cal. Rptr. 684 ("indiscriminate public offering" element not necessary in every context; for instance, criminal liability for violation of Corp. Code § 25401 may be imposed even if security was not offered to public)]. The "risk capital" test requires consideration of the following factors [Moreland v. Department of Corporations (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 506, 519, 239 Cal. Rptr. 558 ; Leyva v. Superior Court (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 462, 470, 210 Cal. Rptr. 545] :

- Whether funds are being raised for a business venture or enterprise;
- Whether the transaction is offered indiscriminately to the public at large;
- Whether investors are substantially powerless to effect the success of the enterprise; and
- Whether the investors' money is substantially at risk because it is inadequately secured.

[b] Investment Contract Approach

The definition of a security under state and federal law includes both an "investment contract" and "any instrument commonly known as a 'security' " [see Corp. Code § 25019; 15 U.S.C. § 77b(1); see also § 515.211]. The United States Supreme Court has taken the position that there is no distinction between these two forms of securities for purposes of distinguishing a securities transaction from other kinds of commercial dealings, and therefore defines a security as an investment contract [United Housing Foundation, Inc. v. Forman (1975) 421 U.S. 837, 852, 95 S. Ct. 2051, 44 L. Ed. 2d 621] .

California apparently has not considered the terms coequal, since it continues to employ the risk capital approach in some cases [see § 515.13[2][a]]. Nevertheless, since Corp. Code § 25019 is derived from 15 U.S.C. § 77b and since an investment contract is one form of security under California law [see Corp. Code § 25019], federal cases defining an investment contract under federal law have been cited by California courts as persuasive authority for defining an investment contract under California law [see Moreland v. Department of Corporations (1987) Cal. App. 3d 506, 512, 239 Cal. Rptr. 558 ; People v. Park (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 550, 563, 151 Cal. Rptr. 146] .

Federal cases, and California courts that have followed these cases, have defined an investment contract to mean a contract, transaction, or scheme whereby a person invests his or her money in a common enterprise and is led to expect profits solely from the efforts of the promoter or a third party [Moreland v. Department of Corporations (1987) Cal. App. 3d 506, 513, 239 Cal. Rptr. 558 ; see Securities Exch. Comm'n v. W.J. Howey Co. (1945) 328 U.S. 293, 298-299, 66 S. Ct. 1100, 90 L. Ed. 1244 ; SEC v. R.G. Reynolds Enters. (9th Cir. 1991) 952 F.2d 1125, 1130-1131, 1133-1135 (gold program based on pooling of investors' funds to finance construction of plant that would refine ore purchased by investors was investment contract); People v. Park (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 550, 563, 151 Cal. Rptr. 146] . It is immaterial whether the shares in the enterprise are evidenced by formal certificates or by nominal interests in the physical assets employed in the enterprise [see Securities Exch. Comm'n v. W.J. Howey Co. (1945) 328 U.S. 293, 298-299, 66 S. Ct. 1100, 90 L. Ed. 1244 ; SEC v. Goldfield Deep Mines Co. of Nevada (9th Cir. 1985) 758 F.2d 459, 461-464 (agreement for participation in mining operation by purchase of units of 18 tons of ore as "security")].

The Ninth Circuit distills the Howey definition into a three part test requiring (1) an investment of money, (2) in a common enterprise, (3) with an expectation of profits to be produced by the efforts of others. The expectation of profits to be produced by the efforts of others involves two distinct concepts: an expectation of profits and an expectation that the profits will result from the efforts of a person other than the investor. The investment-of-money part of the test requires that the investor must have committed assets to the common enterprise in such a manner as to become subject to the risk of financial loss [Warfield v. Alaniz (9th Cir. 2009) 569 F.3d 1015, 1020-1021 (charitable gift annuity contracts, under which individuals handed over money and liquid assets in exchange for promise of regular lifetime payments and promise that any surplus existing at individual's death would go to his or her chosen charity, were investment contracts)].

The most essential consistency in the cases that have considered the meaning of investment contract is the emphasis on whether or not the investor has substantial power to affect the success of the enterprise. When success requires professional or managerial skill on the investor's part, and he or she has authority corresponding with this responsibility, the investment is not a security within the meaning of the state or federal securities act. When the investor is relatively uninformed and unskilled and then turns over his or her money to others, essentially depending on their representation, honesty, and skill in managing it, the transaction is an investment contract [Securities & Exch. Comm'n v. Glenn W. Turner Enterprises, Inc. (D Ore 1972) 348 F. Supp. 766, 774 ; see People v. Park (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 550, 563, 151 Cal. Rptr. 146 (condominium development as investment contract); see also Tomei v. Fairline Feeding Corp. (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 394, 398-399, 137 Cal. Rptr. 656 ; People v. Witzerman (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 169, 178, 105 Cal. Rptr. 284 (both cases construing cattle care agreements as investment contracts); but see United Housing Foundation, Inc. v. Forman (1975) 421 U.S. 837, 849, 858, 95 S. Ct. 2051, 44 L. Ed. 2d 621 (failing to follow district court's language in Glenn W. Turner, above, but stating that investment contract is present when return on investment is prospect that attracts investor as opposed to situation when one purchases either commodity for personal consumption or living quarters for personal use)].

The United States Supreme Court has held that an investment scheme promising a fixed rate of return can be an "investment contract" and thus a "security" subject to the federal securities laws [SEC v. Edwards (2004) 540 U.S. 389, 124 S. Ct. 892, 157 L. Ed. 2d 813, 822 (involving scheme in which investors bought pay phones for fixed price and leased them back to seller for fixed monthly payment pursuant to leaseback and management agreement, resulting in 14 percent annual return)]. The court found that under the Howey test [see SEC v. W.J. Howey (1946) 328 U.S. 293, 66 S. Ct. 1100, 90 L. Ed. 1244 , discussed above] for determining whether a particular scheme is an investment contract, there was no reason to distinguish between promises of fixed returns and promises of variable returns. Furthermore, the fact that purchasers had a contractual entitlement to a return did not mean that the return was not also expect to come "solely from the efforts of others" under that test [SEC v. Edwards (2004) 540 U.S. 389, 124 S. Ct. 892, 157 L. Ed. 2d 813, 822] .

[3] "Offer" and "Sale"

An "offer" or "offer to sell" includes every attempt or offer to dispose of, or solicitation of an offer to buy, a security or interest therein for value [Corp. Code § 25017(b)]. A "sale" or "sell" includes every contract of sale of, contract to sell, or disposition of, a security or interest therein for value. These concepts of sale include exchange of securities as well as changes in the rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on outstanding securities [Corp. Code § 25017(a)]. The defined terms do not include the following: (1) bona fide secured transactions in, or loans of, outstanding securities; (2) stock dividends of common stock payable in shares of that stock when it is the only voting class outstanding, as provided in Corp. Code § 25017(f)(2); and (3) acts incident to certain judicially approved transactions or reorganizations in which securities are issued and exchanged [see Corp. Code § 25017(f); cf. 15 U.S.C. § 77b(a)(3)].

In addition to these three statutory exclusions, a California court has held that the transfer of corporate stock as part of the division of community property in a divorce settlement is not to be treated as a "sale" of those securities for purposes of California's securities laws [see D'Elia v. D'Elia (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 415, 423-424, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 324 (citing Corp. Code § 25017)].

[4] Marketing Personnel

[a] "Broker-Dealer" Under California Law

A securities "broker-dealer" is any person engaged in the business of effecting transactions in securities in California for the account of another or for his or her own account. "Broker-dealer" also includes a person engaged in the regular business of issuing or guaranteeing options with regard to securities not of its own issue [Corp. Code § 25004(a); see Corp. Code § 25019 (defining security)]. However, "broker-dealer" does not include any of the following [Corp. Code § 25004(a)]:

- Any other issuer;
- An agent who is an employee of a broker-dealer or issuer;
- A bank, trust company, or savings and loan association;
- Any person insofar as he or she buys or sells securities for his or her own account, either individually or in some fiduciary capacity, but not as a part of a regular business;
- A person who has no place of business in California if he or she effects transactions in California exclusively with (1) the issuers of securities involved in the transactions or (2) other broker-dealers;
- A broker licensed by the Real Estate Commissioner of California when engaged in transactions in securities exempted under Corp. Code § 25100(f) (interests in subdivisions or real estate developments) or Corp. Code § 25100(p) (notes secured by real property) or in securities the issuance of which is subject to authorization by the Real Estate Commissioner of California or in transactions exempted by Corp. Code § 25102(e) (debt securities that are not offered publicly); or
- An exchange certified by the Commissioner of Corporations when it is issuing or guaranteeing options.

An agent is an employee of a broker-dealer for these purposes when the agent is employed by or associated with the broker-dealer under all of the following conditions [Corp. Code § 25004(b)]:

- The agent is subject to the supervision and control of the broker-dealer;
- The agent performs under the name, authority, and marketing policies of the broker-dealer;
- The agent discloses to investors the identity of the broker-dealer; and
- The agent is reported pursuant to Corp. Code § 25210(c) and rules adopted thereunder.

[b] "Agent" Under California Law

An "agent" is any individual, other than a broker-dealer or a partner of a licensed broker-dealer, who represents a broker-dealer or who for compensation represents an issuer in effecting or attempting to effect purchases or sales of securities in California [Corp. Code § 25003(a)]. "Agent" does not include an individual who has no place of business in California if he or she effects transactions in California only with broker-dealers; nor does it include an individual who only represents an issuer in effecting transactions in the following exempted securities [Corp. Code § 25003(b)]:

- Domestic or foreign government securities [see Corp. Code § 25100(a), (b)];
- Securities the issuance of which is subject to authorization by the Insurance Commissioner, the Public Utilities Commission, or the Real Estate Commissioner [see Corp. Code § 25100(e)];

- Interests in subdivisions or real estate developments [see Corp. Code § 25100(f)];
- Mutual capital certificates or savings accounts [see Corp. Code § 25100(g)];
- Nonprofit corporation securities [see Corp. Code § 25100(j)];
- Life income contracts of qualified issuers [see Corp. Code § 25100(k)];
- Short term commercial paper that is not offered to the public in amounts of less than $25,000 to any one purchaser [see Corp. Code § 25100(l)]; or
- Issuer transactions that are exempted under Corp. Code § 25102.

"Agent" also does not include an associated person of a broker or dealer effecting transactions described in Section 15(h)(3) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, subject to the provisions of Section 15(h)(2) of that act [Corp. Code § 25003(c); see 15 U.S.C. § 78o(h)].

An officer or director of a broker-dealer or issuer, or an individual occupying a similar status or performing similar functions, is an agent only if he or she otherwise comes within the definition of agent and receives compensation specifically related to purchases or sales of securities [Corp. Code § 25003(d)].

[c] "Investment Adviser" Under California Law

An "investment adviser," with certain exceptions, is someone who, for compensation, engages in the business of advising others, directly or through publications or writings, as to the value of securities or the advisability of investing in, purchasing, or selling securities; or the investment adviser, for compensation and as part of a regular business, publishes analyses or reports concerning securities [Corp. Code § 25009(a)]. "Investment adviser" also includes, with some exceptions, any person who uses the title "financial planner" and who, for compensation, engages in the business, principally or as part of another business, of advising others as described above [Corp. Code § 25009(b)]. "Investment adviser" does not include persons excepted from the definition of "investment adviser" by Section 202(a)(11) of the federal Investment Advisers Act of 1940 [15 U.S.C. § 80a-1 et seq.]. However, with regard to those persons, the Commissioner may investigate and bring enforcement actions with respect to fraud and deceit, including fraud and deceit under Corp. Code § 25235 and any rules adopted under that section [Corp. Code § 25009.1]. An "underwriter" agrees with an issuer or other person on whose behalf a distribution of securities is to be made either to purchase them for distribution, to distribute them for or on behalf of those parties, or to manage or supervise the distribution [Corp. Code § 25022].

[5] "Investment Adviser Representative"

An "investment adviser representative" or "associated person of an investment adviser" means any partner, officer, director, or other individual (except clerical or ministerial personnel) who is employed by, associated with, or subject to the supervision and control of an investment adviser that has obtained (or is required to obtain) a certificate in California and who does any of the following [Corp. Code 25009.5(a)]:

- Makes any recommendations or otherwise renders advice regarding securities;
- Manages accounts or portfolios of clients;

- Determines which recommendation or advice regarding securities should be given;
- Solicits, offers, or negotiates for the sale or sells investment advisory services; or
- Supervises employees who perform any of the above.

With respect to an investment adviser subject to Corp. Code § 25230.1 (persons subject to notice rather than certification requirements), the term means a person defined as an investment adviser representative by SEC Rule 303A-3 [17 C.F.R. § 275.203A-3] and who has a place of business in California [Corp. Code § 25009.5(b)].

[a] California Regulation

The Commissioner of Corporations has responsibility for licensing marketing personnel and policing professional offering and selling activities. Broker-dealers must be certificated unless exempt; agents for broker-dealers or issuers also must comply with the commissioner's sales regulations [Corp. Code § 25210; see Dept. of Corp. Release No. 119-C (Oct. 22, 2008) (broker-dealer licensure requirements for officers and directors of issuers)]. Investment advisers must be certificated as well, unless exempt or not subject to certification [Corp. Code § 25230(a); see Corp. Code § 25230.1]. A person registered under Section 203 of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 is not subject to certification. However, such an investment adviser may not conduct business in California unless the person has less than six clients [see Corp. Code § 25202(a)] or has complied with notice filing requirements [Corp. Code § 25230.1; see Dept. of Corp. Release No. 109-C (Dec. 18, 1997) (form for notice)]. By rule of the Commissioner, certain aliens are not eligible for an investment adviser certificate [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 250.60, 250.61; see Corp. Code § 25231].

[b] Definitions Under Federal Law

Marketing personnel do not necessarily have the same designations under the federal securities laws. Under federal laws, a "dealer" may be an agent, broker, or principal handling securities issued by another person under the 1933 Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 77b(a)(12)], whereas, under the 1934 act, a "dealer" only buys or sells for personal account [see 15 U.S.C. § 78c(a)(5)] and a "broker" (not defined at all under the 1933 act) effects securities transactions for the account of others [see 15 U.S.C. § 78c(a)(4)]. An "investment adviser" is one under contract who regularly advises as to the desirability of securities transactions or who may determine which securities are to be purchased or sold, with various exceptions [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 78c(a)(20), 80a-2(a)(20)].

An "underwriter" is one who, with certain exceptions, has purchased from an issuer with a view to, or offers or sells for an issuer in connection with, the distribution of any security. Such a person may participate or have a direct or indirect participation in any such undertaking or the underwriting of any such undertaking [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 77b(11), 78c(a)(20), 80a-2(a)(40)]. Unlike California law, the federal definition includes individual investors who are not professionals in the securities business, if they are found to act as links in a chain of transactions through which securities move from an issuer to the public [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.144 (preliminary note)].

Chapter 515 SECURITIES AND FRANCHISE REGULATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Securities Regulation

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.14

§ 515.14 Qualification of Offers and Sales in California

[1] Requirement

All offers and sales of securities in California must first be authorized and approved through a process of qualification with the Commissioner of Corporations unless, either by the nature of the security itself or by the contemplated or actual disposition of the security, the transactions are expressly exempted by law or not subject to qualification [see Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, 25130]. The term "qualification" is not defined but refers to completion of the prescribed processing system by the Department of Corporations. The term is used indiscriminately in the statutes and regulations as well as by the commentators for a process affecting either "securities" or "transactions" therein [see, e.g., Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25111; cf. Corp. Code § 25120; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.103; see also Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 21, Corporate Securities (Matthew Bender)].

The following discussion summarizes the requirements for, and exceptions from, qualification. A more detailed discussion of matters pertaining to issuance of equity or debt securities, and to processing securities for qualification with the Commissioner of Corporations, or arranging for exempt status of securities transactions, is discussed in California Legal Forms, Chs. 6 through 6J (Matthew Bender).

[2] When California Law Applies

An offer or sale of a security is made in California, and thus subject to state law, when (1) an offer to sell is made in California, (2) an offer to buy is accepted in California, or (3) if both seller and purchaser are domiciled in California, the security is delivered to the purchaser in California [Corp. Code § 25008(a)]. An offer to buy or a purchase of a security is made in California when an offer to buy is made in California or an offer to sell is accepted in California, or the security is delivered to the purchaser in California if both seller and purchaser are domiciled in California [Corp. Code § 25008(a)]. Offers to sell or buy (or sales or purchases) are also made in California when they either originate in California or are directed to California by the offeror and received at the place to which they are directed. Offers are accepted in California when acceptance is communicated to the offeror in California [Corp. Code § 25008(a), (b)].

Acceptance is communicated to an offeror in California when the offeree directs it to the offeror in California, reasonably believing the offeror to be in California, and it is received where directed. A security is delivered to the purchaser in California when the certificate or other evidence of the security is directed to the purchaser in California and received where directed [Corp. Code § 25008(b)].

Offers are not made in California merely because a publisher circulates or there is circulated on the publisher's behalf any bona fide newspaper or other publication of general, regular, and paid circulation that has had more than two thirds of its circulation outside of California during the past 12 months. Likewise, offers are not made in California because a radio or television program originates outside the state but is received in California [Corp. Code § 25008(c)].

[3] Issuer and Nonissuer Transactions

[a] Distinctions

The offer or sale of securities may take place through either an issuer [see Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120] or a nonissuer [see Corp. Code § 25130] transaction. The "issuer" is the person or entity that issues, or proposes to issue, a security [Corp. Code § 25010]. A "nonissuer transaction" is one not directly or indirectly for the benefit of the issuer. A transaction is indirectly for the benefit of the issuer if any portion of the purchase price of any securities involved in the transaction will be received indirectly by the issuer [Corp. Code § 25011].

[b] Qualification of Securities in Issuer Transactions

Issuer transactions (other than recapitalizations and reorganizations [see Corp. Code § 25120]) may be qualified in any of the following ways [Corp. Code § 25110]:

- Securities for which a registration statement has been filed under the federal Securities Act of 1933 in connection with the same offering may be qualified by coordination under the procedures set forth in Corp. Code § 25111(b), (c) [see Corp. Code § 25111];

- Securities issued by persons who are issuers of securities registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [see 15 U.S.C. § 78] or by persons registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 [see 15 U.S.C. § 80a-8], a related law dealing with mutual fund issuers, may be qualified by a "notification" procedure if they are ineligible under the coordination procedure [see Corp. Code § 25112];

- All securities, whether or not eligible for the coordination or notification procedures, may be qualified by permit [see Corp. Code § 25113]; and

- Securities of an open-end investment company or a unit investment trust previously qualified by coordination may be qualified by providing certain information and documents as specified in Corp. Code § 25111(d)(1), (2) [see Corp. Code § 25111].

An offer or sale of any of these securities is not qualified if the manner of the offer or sale differs from, exceeds the scope of, or fails to conform with, either (1) a material term or condition of qualification as set forth in the permit or qualification order or (2) a material representation regarding the manner of offering that is set forth in the application for qualification [Corp. Code § 25110].

Securities offered or sold in connection with recapitalizations or reorganizations--that is, transactions involving changes in the rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on outstanding securities; or in any exchange of securities by the issuer with its existing security holders exclusively; in any exchange in connection with any merger, consolidation, or purchase of assets for stock issuance; or in an entity conversion transaction [see Corp. Code § 25001.1

(definition)]--must be qualified by permit [see Corp. Code §§ 25120, 25121].

[c] Processing Nonissuer Transactions

Securities of nonissuer transactions must be qualified under the coordination procedure available for certain issuer transactions when eligible. Otherwise, they must be qualified by a notification procedure, except that securities offered pursuant to the federal "Regulation A" exemption [see 17 C.F.R. §§ 230.251-230.264] must qualify under the regular permit procedure [Corp. Code § 25131(a)].

[4] Securities and Transactions Not Subject to Qualification

[a] In General

In response to the preemptive effect of the National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996 [see P.L. 104-290, 110 Stat. 3416 (H.R. 3005); see also § 515.11], conforming California legislation was enacted in 1997 to set forth securities and transactions that are not subject to Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, and 25130 [see Stats. 1997, ch. 391]. This legislation, and its interaction with the 1996 federal legislation, is discussed under the subheadings immediately below.

[b] "Covered Securities"

A security defined as a "covered security" under Section 18(b)(1) of the Securities Act of 1933 [see 15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(1)] is not subject to Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, and 25130 [Corp. Code § 25100.1(a)]. Those securities are listed in § 515.11[4].

In addition, a security issued by an investment company that is registered or has filed a registration statement under the Investment Company Act of 1940 [see 15 U.S.C. § 80a-1 et seq.] that is defined as a "covered security" pursuant to Section 18(b)(2) of the Securities Act of 1933 [see 15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(2)] is not subject to Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, and 25130 if, prior to any offer or sale in California, all of the following are filed with or paid to the Commissioner [Corp. Code § 25100.1(b)(1)]:

- A notice consisting of all documents that are part of a federal registration statement filed with the SEC pursuant to the Securities Act of 1993 (or a form prescribed by the Commissioner in lieu of the notice), and that a consent to service of process is on file or attached to the notice [see Dept. of Corp. Release No. 109-C (Dec. 18, 1997) (Uniform Form NF developed by the North American Securities Administrators Association is acceptable for filing)].

- A report of the value of securities covered that are offered or sold in California, as necessary to compute fees.

- The notice filing fee set forth in Corp. Code § 25608.1(a). That fee is $200 plus one fifth of one percent of the aggregate value of the securities sought to be sold in California, up to a maximum aggregate free of $2,500 [Corp. Code § 25608.1(a)]. The maximum fee that may be levied on a filing pursuant to Corp. Code § 25100.1(b) applies, unless the Commissioner sets the fees below the maximum level at the beginning of the fiscal year [Corp. Code § 25608.2(b); see Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set any fee under Corp. Code § 25608.1 at an amount below maximum)].

Furthermore, if any offer or sale is to be made pursuant to Section 18(b)(2) of the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(2)] and Corp. Code § 25100.1(b) more than 12 months after the date the notice was filed, the issuer must file another notice and pay the fee set forth in Corp. Code § 25608.1(a) [Corp. Code § 25100.1(b)(2)].

[c] Securities Sold in Transactions Exempt From Federal Registration

A security that is offered or sold in a transaction that is exempt from registration under Section 4(1) or Section 4(3) of the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77d(1)] pursuant to Section 18(b)(4)(A) of that act [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(4)(A)] is not subject to Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, and 25130 if the issuer, other than a foreign (other country) issuer, files the required reports with the SEC pursuant to Section 13 or 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [Corp. Code § 25101.1(a); 15 U.S.C. § 78a et seq.; see 15 U.S.C. §§ 78m, 78o(d)].

A security of a foreign (other country) issuer that avails itself of the exemption from registration under Section 12(g)(3) of the Securities and Exchange Act of 1934 is subject to the qualification requirements of Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, and 25130, unless the issuer is a reporting company under that Act and files the required reports under Section 12 or 15(d) of that Act [Corp. Code § 25101.1(b); see 15 U.S.C. § 78m, 78o(d)].

[d] Offers and Sales to Qualified Purchasers

Any offer or sale of a security to a "qualified purchaser" as defined by SEC rule pursuant to Section 18(b)(3) of the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(3)] is not subject to Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, and 25130 if all of the following are met [Corp. Code § 25102.1(a)]:

- A notice is filed with the Commissioner prior to an offer in California, along with any documents filed with the SEC in annual or periodic reports that the Commissioner by rule or order deems appropriate [see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 109-C (Dec. 18, 1997) (no notice proposed as SEC has not yet adopted rule under Section 18(b)(3))].

- A consent to service of process [see Corp. Code § 25165] is filed with the notice.

- Payment of the notice filing fee set forth in Corp. Code § 25608.1(b) is made. That fee is $600 [Corp. Code § 25608.1(b)]. The maximum fee that may be levied on a filing pursuant to Corp. Code § 25102.1(a) applies, unless the Commissioner sets the fees below the maximum level at the beginning of the fiscal year [Corp. Code § 25608.2; see Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set any fee under Corp. Code § 25608.1 at an amount below maximum)].

Any offer and sale of a security with respect to a transaction that is exempt from registration under Section 4(4) of the Securities Act of 1933 pursuant to Section 18(b)(A) and (B) of that act is not subject to Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, and 25130 [Corp. Code § 25102.1(b)].

Any offer or sale of a security with respect to a transaction that is exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933 pursuant to Section 18(b)(4)(C) of that act is not subject to Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, and 25130 [Corp. Code § 25102.1(c)].

These requirements do not apply to securities offered and sold to the class of investors or in the transactions described in Corp. Code § 25102(d), (g), (i), and (k), or to the class of investors or in the transactions described in Corp. Code § 25104(c), (d), (e), and (f).

Any offer or sale of a security with respect to a transaction that is exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933 pursuant to Section 18(b)(4)(D) of that act [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(4)(D)] is not subject to Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, and 25130 if all the following requirements are met [Corp. Code § 25102.1(d); Consolidated Management Group, LLC v. Department of Corps. (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 598, 608 n.2, 75 Cal. Rptr. 3d 795 (statute refers to security in transaction that "is exempt," which plainly means actually exempt; merely filing documents and paying fees in order to obtain exemption is not sufficient)]:

- A notice in the form of a copy of the completed Form D [17 C.F.R. § 239.500] filed with the SEC is filed with the Commissioner within 15 days of the first sale in California, along with documents filed with the SEC in annual or periodic reports that the Commissioner by rule or order deems appropriate [see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 109-C (Dec. 18, 1997) (also requiring letter of transmittal)]. (The commissioner may allow for a notice in the form of the electronic transmission of the information in Form D.)

- A consent to service of process [see Corp. Code § 25165] is filed with the notice.

- Payment of the notice filing fee set forth in Corp. Code § 25608.1(c) is made. The statutory fee is $300 [see Corp. Code § 25608.1(c); see also Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set any fee under Corp. Code § 25608.1 at an amount below maximum); Dept. of Corps. Release No. 115-C (Revised May 28, 2004)]. The maximum fee that may be levied on a filing pursuant to Corp. Code § 25102.1(d) applies, unless the Commissioner sets the fees below the maximum level at the beginning of the fiscal year [Corp. Code § 25608.2].

Notwithstanding the above, an issuer may file an application for qualification by coordination, notification, or permit pursuant to Corp. Code § 25111, 25112, 25113, 25121, 25131, or 24142 [Corp. Code § 25102.1(e)].

[5] Exemption From Qualification

[a] Scope

There is a large body of exemptions from qualification requirements. Exemption does not remove the security entirely from corporate security regulation but only from the need to obtain qualification for offers or sales [see Corp. Code §§ 25100-25105; see also § 515.422]. Thus, persons involved in securities transactions still remain subject to antifraud provisions and liable to certain civil actions or for criminal violations under the law [see Corp. Code §§ 25400-25504.2, 25540-25542].

For a complete list of the California securities exemptions, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues, § 6.200 (Matthew Bender).

[b] Securities Exempted

Illustrative of securities exempt from all qualification provisions are those of institutions that are heavily regulated by other governmental agencies (such as public securities, securities of foreign countries with which the United States maintains diplomatic relations, and securities issued or guaranteed by state and federal banks and savings and loans), those of nonprofit organizations (except debt securities), those listed or approved for listing on a national securities exchange, and those which constitute single notes to single entities (that is, not being part of a series of notes of equal priority or a note in which beneficial interests are sold to more than one person or entity) secured by real property [see Corp. Code § 25100(a)-(j), (o)-(t)].

[c] "Rollup" Transactions

A "rollup" transaction is a transaction, or a series of transactions, that directly or indirectly through acquisition or otherwise involves the combination or reorganization of any rollup participant and that meets certain requirements [Corp. Code § 25014.6]. A "rollup participant" is a finite-life limited partnership, which is a limited partnership that (1) operates as a conduit for investors to participate in the ownership of assets for a limited time, (2) has a policy or purpose of distributing to investors substantially all proceeds from the sale, financing, or refinancing of assets, whether for the term of the partnership or after an initial period, rather than reinvesting those proceeds in the business, and (3) is not excluded under Corp. Code § 25014.6(b). A rollup participant does not include a partnership registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 or a business development company as defined in 15 U.S.C. § 80a-2(a)(48) [Corp. Code § 25014.5].

Certain reorganization and recapitalization transactions involving mainly securities holders with addresses outside California are exempt from qualification in California [see Corp. Code § 25103(c), (d); discussion under § 515.14[7][b]]. This exemption does not extend to a rollup transaction [Corp. Code § 25103(c)].

Certain rollup transactions are "eligible" rollup transactions [see Corp. Code § 25014.7]. The exemption for securities listed or approved for listing on a national securities exchange [see Corp. Code § 25100(o); discussion under § 515.14[5][b]] does not apply to securities listed or approved in a rollup transaction unless it is an eligible rollup transaction [Corp. Code § 25100(o)].

[d] Issuer Transactions Exempted

There is a wide range of exempt issuer transactions [see Corp. Code § 25102]. Some of the more frequently encountered kinds are briefly described below.

[e] Private Presale Offers

An offer (but not a sale) that does not involve a public offering, and the execution and delivery of an agreement for the sale of securities pursuant to the offer, are exempt. The agreement must contain a cautionary legend prescribed by statute. No part of the purchase price may be paid or received and no securities may be issued until the sale is qualified [Corp. Code § 25102(a)].

No public offering is involved in the above-described transaction if an offer is made to not more than 35 persons. This number of offerees is exclusive of any institutional investors and affiliates, officers, and directors of the issuer [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.1; see Corp. Code § 25102(i); 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.102.10, 260.102.12-260.102.14 (describing and defining institutional investors and affiliates); see also § 515.14[5][h]]. A husband and wife (together with any trustee or custodian acting for the account of their minor children) are counted as one person, as is a partnership, corporation, or other organization not specifically formed for the purpose of purchasing the security offered in reliance on this exemption [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.1].

[f] Private Debt Transaction

An offer or sale of any evidence of indebtedness, whether secured or unsecured, and any guarantee thereof, in a transaction not involving any public offering, is exempt [Corp. Code § 25102(e); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.3 (excluding certain convertible debt securities from scope of exemption)]. Similarly, any offer or sale of conditional sales agreements, equipment trust certificates, or certificates of interest or participation in them, or partial assignments of them, covering the purchase of railroad rolling stock or equipment or the purchase of motor vehicles, aircraft, or parts for them, in a transaction not involving a public offering, is exempt [Corp. Code § 25102(g)]. For purposes of these two exemptions, an offer or sale does not involve a public offering if offers are not made to more than 25 persons and sales are not consummated to more than 10 such persons, and if all the offerees either have a preexisting personal relationship with the offeror, its partners, officers, directors, or controlling persons, or have sufficient business or financial experience to be assumed to be able to protect their own interests in regard to the transaction [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.2].

[g] Unadvertised Offers or Sales of Securities Sold to No More Than 35 Persons

An offer or sale of any security, if not made to a pension or profit-sharing trust of the issuer, is exempt if the transaction meets each of the following requirements [Corp. Code § 25102(f)]:

- Sales of the security are not made to more than 35 persons, including persons outside California. The number of purchasers is calculated by excluding any of the institutional investors described in Corp. Code § 25102(i), any officer, director, or affiliate of the issuer, or manager (as appointed or elected by the members) if the issuer is a limited liability company, and any other purchaser whom the commissioner designates by rule [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13 (excluded purchasers)]. A husband and wife (together with any trustee or custodian acting for the account of their minor children) are counted as one person, as is a partnership, corporation, or other organization not specifically formed for the purpose of purchasing the security offered in reliance on this exemption.

- All purchasers either have a preexisting personal or business relationship with the offeror or any of its partners, officers, directors, or controlling persons, or managers (as appointed or elected by the members) if the offeror is a limited liability company, or by reason of their business or financial experience, or the business or financial experience of their professional advisors who are unaffiliated with, and who are not compensated by, the issuer or any affiliate or selling agent of the issuer, directly or indirectly, could be reasonably assumed to have the capacity to protect their own interests in connection with the transaction [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(c)-(i) (defining purchaser, relationship, controlling person, partners, professional advisors, unaffiliated, and affiliate)].

- Each purchaser states that the purchase is for the purchaser's own account (or a trust account if the purchaser is a trustee) and not with a view to or for sale in connection with any distribution of the security.

- The offer and sale of the security is not accomplished by the publication of any advertisement [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(j) (defining publication of advertising)].

The issuer must file a notice of transaction under this exemption with the commissioner [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(4); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14 (notice must be filed electronically unless issuer claims hardship exemption); see Dept. Corps. Release 116-C (July 1, 2005))]. Failure to file the notice, or failure to file it within the time specified by the commissioner's rule, does not affect the availability of this exemption, but within 15 business days after discovery of the failure to file the notice or after demand by the commissioner, whichever occurs first, the issuer must file the notice and pay a fee equal to that payable had the transaction been qualified under Corp. Code § 25110 [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(4)].

[h] Institutional Investor Transactions

An offer or sale is exempt if it is made to a bank, savings and loan association, trust company, insurance company, registered investment company, pension or profit-sharing trust (except one belonging to the issuer, a self-employed individual retirement plan, or individual retirement account), or such other institutional investor, governmental agency, or instrumentality as the commissioner may designate by rule. The exemption is available whether the purchaser is acting for itself or as trustee. The exemption also includes certain corporations with outstanding securities registered under federal authority in designated situations in which the corporation will own the entire, outstanding capital stock of the issuer of the securities after the offer or sale [Corp. Code § 25102(i)]. The commissioner has designated as institutional investors certain nonprofit organizations and corporations of certain prescribed financial proportions [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.10].

[i] Noncontributory Employee Stock Plans

Any offer or sale of a stock to a pension, profit-sharing, stock bonus, or employee stock ownership plan is exempt if (1) the plan meets the requirements for qualification under I.R.C. § 401, and (2) the employees are not required or permitted individually to make any contributions to the plan. This exemption is not affected by whether the stock is contributed to the plan, purchased from the issuer with contributions by the issuer or an affiliate of the issuer, or purchased from the issuer with funds borrowed from the issuer, an affiliate of the issuer, or any other lender [Corp. Code § 25102(m)].

[j] Small Offering Exemption

An offer or sale of voting common stock by a corporation incorporated in any state is exempt if, immediately after the proposed sale and issuance, there will be only one class of stock of the corporation outstanding, that is owned beneficially by no more than 35 persons. However, a number of additional requirements must be met concerning the following: (1) the prohibition on advertising and selling expenses, (2) the nature of the consideration to be received for the shares and prohibition of promotional consideration, (3) the filing of a prescribed form of notice signed by an active member of the State Bar of California and accompanied by an irrevocable consent to service, and (4) each purchaser's representation that the purchase is made only for the purchaser's own account (or a trust account if the purchaser is a trustee), and not with a view to or for sale in connection with any distribution of the stock [Corp. Code § 25102(h); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.102.8, 260.102.9 (form of notice and proof of mailing), 260.102.11 (advances and loans in connection with offering)]. Failure to file the notice, or failure to file it within the time specified by the commissioner's rule, does not affect the availability of this exemption, but within 15 business days after discovery of the failure to file the notice or after demand by the commissioner, whichever occurs first, the issuer must file the notice and pay a fee equal to that payable had the transaction been qualified under Corp. Code § 25110 [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(4)]. "Selling expenses" means commissions, discounts, or other compensation paid to any person as remuneration for selling the securities [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.7].

All securities held by a husband and wife, whether or not jointly, are considered to be owned by one person; but all securities held by a corporation that has issued stock under the exemption are considered to be held by the shareholders to whom it has issued that stock [Corp. Code § 25102(h)]. Securities held by a partnership or joint venture are considered to be owned beneficially by each of its partners or joint venturers. Securities held by a trustee are considered to be owned beneficially by each of the beneficiaries, present, future, and contingent, of the trust. However, a future or contingent beneficiary is disregarded if he or she is an ancestor, descendant, or spouse of a present beneficiary, or a custodian or trustee for his or her account. In determining the number of beneficial owners, the provisions of Corp. Code § 158 (defining "close corporation") are not controlling, and reference should be made instead to Corp. Code § 25102(h) and 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.5 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.5].

Debt securities are not a "class of stock." However, a corporation does not have "only one class of stock" outstanding if, at the time its shares are issued, there exists or is presently intended to be executed a shareholders' agreement pursuant to which any rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions enumerated in Corp. Code § 25103(e) [see § 515.14[7][b]] are or would be modified as to any shares or the holders thereof in a way that does not apply to all outstanding shares [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.4].

[k] Qualified Purchaser Limited Public Offering Exemption

An offer or sale of any security in a transaction, other than an offer or sale of a security in a rollup transaction [see Corp. Code § 25014.6 ("rollup transaction" defined)], is exempt if the issuer is either a California corporation or a foreign corporation subject to Corp. Code § 2115 or any other form of business entity including, without limitation, a California partnership or trust, but excluding a "blind pool" issuer or an investment company subject to the Investment Company Act of 1940 [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(1)]. However, additional requirements must be met concerning all of the following [see Corp. Code § 25102(n)(2)-(7); see also 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.102.16-260.102.18]:

- Disclosure;
- Types of qualified purchasers to whom securities may be sold;

- The restriction that securities must be purchased only for the purchaser's own account (or for a trust account if the purchaser is a trustee) and not for sale in connection with a distribution of securities;

- The general announcement of the proposed offering; and

- The filing of a notice of this transaction with the Commissioner of Corporations.

[l] Securities Issued Pursuant to Option or Purchase Plan

An offer or sale of any security issued by a corporation or LLC pursuant to a purchase plan or agreement, or issued by a corporation or LLC pursuant to an option plan or agreement, is exempt, at the time of issuance or grant, if the security is exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933 pursuant to 17 C.F.R. 230.701 [Corp. Code § 25102(o)].

The exemption is subject to three conditions. First, the offering must be exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933 pursuant to Rule 701 dealing with compensatory benefit plans. The latter exemption is in turn subject to a number of conditions. The most important to the use of Rule 701 are the requirement that the issuer be a non-reporting company under the 1934 Act (and not an investment company), a quantity limitation on the amount of stock issued pursuant to Rule 701 ranging from $500,000 to $5,000,000, and a limitation of the aggregate offering price and the number of options outstanding to 15 percent of the total assets of the issuer or 15 percent of the total number of outstanding securities of the class being offered. Second, the terms of any stock option or purchase plan must comply with the substantive and disclosure requirements contained in the applicable provisions of the rules [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.41, 260.140.42, 260.140.45, 260.140.46]. Third, the issuer must file a notice of the transaction no later than 30 days after the initial issuance of any security in California [see Corp. Code § 25008] under the plan in accordance with rules adopted by the Commissioner [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.19]. The notice must be accompanied by the filing fee specified in Corp. Code § 25608(y) [Corp. Code § 25102(o); see Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set fee at amount below statutory maximum)]. The failure to file a notice of transaction, or the failure to file that notice within the specified time, however, will not affect the availability of the exemption. Within 15 business days after discovery of the failure to file the notice or after demand by the commissioner, whichever occurs first, an issuer that has failed to file the notice must file it and pay the commissioner a fee equal to the maximum aggregate fee payable had the transaction been qualified under Corp. Code § 25110 [Corp. Code § 25102(o)].

Offers and sales exempt under this subdivision are deemed to be part of a single, discrete offering and are not subject to integration with any other offering or sale, whether qualified as an issuer transaction [see Corp. Code § 25100 et seq.], otherwise exempt, or not subject to qualification [Corp. Code § 25102(o)].

[m] Sale by Person Licensed Under Capital Access Company Law

A transaction is exempt from Corp. Code § 25110 when it is an offer or sale of nonredeemable securities to accredited investors [Corp. Code § 28031 (definition)] by a person licensed under the Capital Access Company Law [see Corp. Code § 28000 et seq.]. All nonredeemable securities must be evidenced by certificates that have stamped or printed prominently on their face a legend in a form to be prescribed by rule or order of the Commissioner restricting transfer of the securities in the manner as the rule or order provides [Corp. Code § 25102(p)].

[n] Sale of Viatical or Life Settlement Contracts

The listed categories of securities subject to the Corporate Securities Law includes "viatical settlement contracts" as defined in Ins. Code § 10113.1 and "life settlement contracts," defined as an agreement, other than a viatical settlement contract, for the purchase, sale, assignment, transfer, devise, or bequest of any portion of the death benefit or ownership of a life insurance policy or certificate for consideration that is less than the expected death benefit of the life insurance policy or certificate [Corp. Code §§ 25019, 25023(a)], with specified exceptions [Corp. Code § 25023(b)]. Effective January 1, 2010, however, the Insurance Code no longer covers viatical settlement contracts as such, and henceforth regulates only life settlement contracts as now defined in a version of Ins. Code § 10113.1 that supersedes the version referenced in the Corporate Securities Law [see Ins. Code § 10113.1(k); see also Stats. 2009, ch. 343]. The Corporate Securities Law was not amended to reflect that change. Therefore, insofar as it governs viatical settlement contracts as discussed below, it is unclear whether the Corporate Securities Law continues to apply to contracts formerly defined in Ins. Code § 10113.1 as such; and, while it continues to apply to a life settlement contract as defined in Corp. Code § 25023, the Legislature has not indicated whether the Corporate Securities Law applies also to contracts defined as "life settlement contracts" in the current version of Ins. Code § 10113.1.

An offer or sale of any viatical or life settlement contract or fractionalized or pooled interest therein is exempt if the transaction meets certain criteria [Corp. Code § 25102(q)]. A "viatical settlement contract" is an agreement entered into between a person owning a life insurance policy upon the life of a person with a catastrophic or life-threatening illness or condition and another person by which the policy owner receives compensation or anything of value less than the death benefits of the insurance policy in return for an assignment, transfer, sale, devise, or bequest of the death benefits or ownership of the insurance policy, but does not include an assignment of a life insurance policy to a licensed lending institution or credit union as collateral for a loan [Corp. Code § 25023(a); former Ins. Code § 10113.1(a)(1) (repealed eff. 1/1/2010)]. A "life settlement contract" is an agreement, other than a viatical settlement contract, for the purchase, sale, assignment, transfer, devise, or bequest of any portion of the death benefit or ownership of a life insurance policy or certificate for consideration that is less than the expected death benefit of the life insurance policy or certificate [Corp. Code § 25023(a)]. These terms do not include any of the following [Corp. Code § 25023(b)]:

- The assignment, transfer, sale, devise, or bequest of a death benefit, life insurance policy, or certificate of insurance by the insured or the original owner to any person if it is not accompanied by the publication of any advertisement and is not effected by or through a broker-dealer [see Corp. Code § 25004].

- The assignment of a life insurance policy to a bank, savings bank, savings association, credit union, or other lender (whether or not licensed) as collateral for a loan, or to a stop-loss insurer or reinsurer.

- The exercise of accelerated benefits pursuant to the terms of a life insurance policy issued in accordance with the insurance laws of California.

- The assignment, transfer, sale, devise, or bequest of any undivided death benefit, life insurance policy, or certificate of insurance by an entity licensed pursuant to Ins. Code § 10113.2 [but see 2009 Stats., ch. 343, §§ 4, 5 (version of Ins. Code § 10113.2 referenced in Corporations Code is repealed and replaced with new version effective 1/1/2010; Insurance Code no longer regulates viatical settlements)], or a viatical or life settlement provider licensed from another state, to one individual or entity, provided that the individual or entity represents that it is purchasing for its own account (or trust account, if the entity is a trustee) and not with a view to or for sale in connection with a distribution of the individual death benefit, life insurance policy, or certificate of insurance.

The transaction must meet all of the following criteria in order for the exemption to apply [Corp. Code § 25102(q)]:

- Sales of securities are made only to qualified purchasers, or other persons the issuer reasonably believes after reasonable inquiry to be qualified purchasers [see Corp. Code § 25102(q)(1) (defining "qualified purchasers")].

- Each purchaser represents that the purchaser is purchasing for that purchaser's own account (or trust account, if the purchaser is a trustee) and not with a view to or for sale in connection with a distribution of the security [Corp. Code § 25102(q)(2)].

- Each natural person purchaser, including a corporation, partnership, or other organization specifically formed by natural persons for the purpose of acquiring the securities offered by the issuer, receives certain written information at least five business days before securities are sold to (or a commitment to purchase is accepted from) the purchaser [see Corp. Code § 25102(q)(3) (list of required information)].

In addition to any other rights provided under the Corporate Securities Law, including rescission or damages for misrepresentation [see, e.g., Corp. Code § 25501; see also § 515.246[13]], a person who purchases a viatical or life settlement contract, or a fractionalized or pooled interest therein, may rescind or cancel the purchase for any reason, at any time before seven calendar days after the date the person remits the required consideration to the issuer or the issuer's agent [Corp. Code § 25508.5].

[o] Sale of Series of Notes Secured by Real Property

A transaction is exempt from Corp. Code § 25110 when it is the sale of a series of notes secured directly by an interest in the same real property, or the sale of undivided interests in a note secured directly by real property equivalent to a series transaction that complies with all of the provisions of Bus. & Prof. Code § 10237 et seq. (imposing notice and advertising requirements on certain sales to 10 or fewer persons by or through a real estate agent) [Corp. Code § 25102.5]. A licensed real estate broker who engages in the offer and sale of notes secured directly by real property of various makers, which are a series of notes or notes in which undivided interests are offered and sold, will be deemed to be the issuer of these notes and undivided interests if the notes of the various makers are offered and sold pursuant to a plan or arrangement that is common to the various makers with respect to documentation and loan standards and that include provisions for servicing these notes on behalf of purchasers [Corp. Code § 25102.5].

[p] Recapitalizations and Reorganizations

There are also many kinds of exempt issuer transactions involving recapitalizations and reorganizations [Corp. Code § 25103].

Generally, negotiations, or an agreement, prior to general solicitation of approval by the holders of equity securities, and subject to that approval, of a change in the rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on outstanding securities, a merger, consolidation, or a sale of assets in consideration of the issuance of securities, or an entity conversion transaction [see Corp. Code § 25001.1 (definition)] is exempt [Corp. Code § 25103(a)]. Any change in the rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on outstanding securities or any entity conversion transaction [see Corp. Code § 25001.1 (definition)] is also exempt unless the holders of at least 25 percent of the outstanding shares or units of any class of securities that will be directly or indirectly affected substantially and adversely by the change or transaction have addresses in California according to the issuer's records [Corp. Code § 25103(b)]. An "entity conversion transaction" is a conversion pursuant to Corp. Code § 1151, 1157, 15677.2, 15677.8, 15911.02, 15911.08, 16902, 16908, 17540.2, or 17540.8 (covering corporations, limited partnerships, partnerships, and LLCs, respectively), or a conversion that occurs entirely out of state, unless the interests in the entity resulting from the conversion to be held by the equity holders of the entity being converted as a result of the conversion are not securities [Corp. Code § 25005.1]. For purposes of Corp. Code §§ 25103 and 25120, an entity conversion transaction is not a change in the rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on outstanding securities or an exchange of securities by the issuer with its existing security holders exclusively [Corp. Code § 25005.1].

For purposes of Corp. Code § 25103(b) and (c) (mergers, except "rollup transactions" defined in Corp. Code § 25014.6 or excluded from that definition by Corp. Code § 25014.6(b)(5) or (6)), any securities held to the knowledge of the issuer in the names of broker-dealers, and any securities controlled by any one person who controls directly or indirectly 50 percent or more of the outstanding securities of that class, are not considered outstanding. Whether or not 25 percent of the outstanding securities are held by persons having addresses in California is determined as of the record date for the determination of the security holders entitled to vote on or consent to the action involved, if such approval is required, or if not, as of the date of directors' approval of the action [Corp. Code § 25103(d)].

Any such changes in securities incidents also are not exempt in the case of certain changes enumerated in Corp. Code § 25103(e) (such as in dividend rights or redemption provisions) that materially and adversely affect any class of shareholders [Corp. Code § 25103(e)]. Stock splits or reverse stock splits, except as provided in Corp. Code § 25103(f), are also exempt [Corp. Code § 25103(f); see Corp. Code § 25103(e); 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.103.2, 260.103.5].

Any change in the rights of outstanding debt securities is exempt, except those changes enumerated in Corp. Code § 25103(g) (such as changing the rights to interest thereon) which substantially and adversely affect any class of securities [Corp. Code § 25103(g)].

An exchange incident to a merger, consolidation, or sale of assets (other than a "rollup transaction" as defined in Corp. Code § 25014.6) in consideration of the issuance of equity securities of another entity or any entity conversion transaction [see Corp. Code § 25001.1 (definition)] is exempt if the exchange or entity conversion transaction, had it involved the issuance of a security in a transaction subject to Corp. Code § 25110 (rather than Corp. Code § 25120), would have been exempt from qualification by Corp. Code § 25102(f) (without giving effect to Corp. Code § 25102(f)(3), regarding purchaser representations), and either of the following sets of conditions apply [Corp. Code § 25103(h)]:

- (i) Not less than 75 percent of the outstanding equity securities of each constituent or converting entity entitled to vote on the proposed transaction voted in favor of the transaction, (ii) not more than 10 percent of the outstanding equity securities of each constituent or converting entity entitled to vote on the proposed transaction voted against the transaction, and (iii) each constituent or converting entity whose security holders are entitled to vote on the proposed transaction is subject to a state statute that has provisions for dissenters' rights for holders of equity securities entitled to vote on the proposed transaction that do not vote in favor of or voted against the transaction; or

- (i) The transaction is solely for the purposes of changing the issuer's state of incorporation or organization, or form of organization, (ii) all the securities of the same class or series, unless all the security holders of the class or series consent, are treated equally, and (iii) the holders of nonredeemable voting equity securities receive nonredeemable voting equity securities.

Any exchange of securities in connection with any merger or consolidation or sale of corporate assets in consideration wholly or in part of the issuance of securities or any entity conversion transaction [see Corp. Code § 25005.1] under or pursuant to a plan of reorganization that, under the Bankruptcy Code, has been confirmed or is subject to confirmation by court decree or order, is an exempt transaction [Corp. Code § 25103(i)].

The Commissioner, by rule, may require the acquiring or surviving entity to file a notice of transaction [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.103.6; see also Corp. Code § 25608(z) (filing fee); see Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set fee at amount below statutory maximum)]. Failure to file the notice or to file it within the time specified by the rule, however, will not affect the availability of the exemption. An acquiring or surviving entity that fails to file the notice as provided by rule of the Commissioner, within 15 business days after demand by the Commissioner, must file the notice and pay a fee equal to the fee payable had the transaction been qualified under Corp. Code § 25110 or 25120 [Corp. Code § 25103(h)].

[q] Nonissuer Transactions Exempted

Exempt nonissuer transactions are listed in Corp. Code § 25104. They include privately arranged sales of securities by owners thereof for their own accounts, and sales in the course of business by creditors holding them as loan security [see Corp. Code § 25104(a), (e)].

[6] Burden of Proof

In any proceeding under the corporate securities laws, the burden of proving an exemption or an exception from a definition is on the person claiming it [Corp. Code § 25163].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Securities Regulation

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.15

§ 515.15 Securities Broker-Dealers

[1] License Requirement

Subject to the preemption provisions of the National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996 ("the Improvement Act," Pub. L. No. 102-290, 110 Stat. 3416 (H.R. 3005)) [see § 515.11[1] and § 515.11[5][b]], unless exempted by Corp. Code §§ 25200-25208, a broker-dealer must not effect any transaction in, or induce or attempt to induce the purchase or sale of, any security in California without first obtaining a certificate from the Corporations Commissioner [Corp. Code § 25210(a); see Dept. of Corp. Release No. 119-C (Oct. 22, 2008) (broker-dealer licensure requirements for officers and directors of issuers)]. The Commissioner is empowered to promulgate rules establishing exemptions from the certificate requirements [Corp. Code § 25204; see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.200 et seq.]. In addition, under the Commissioner's rules, certain aliens are not eligible to receive a broker-dealer certificate [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 250.60, 250.61; see Corp. Code § 25211].

A person who purchases a security from or sells a security to a broker-dealer that is required to be licensed and has not, at the time of the sale or purchase, applied for and secured from the Commissioner a certificate [see Corp. Code § 25200 et seq.] that is in effect at the time of the sale or purchase authorizing that broker-dealer to act in that capacity, may bring an action for rescission of the sale or purchase. If the plaintiff or the defendant no longer owns the security, the plaintiff may bring an action for damages [Corp. Code § 25501.5(a)(1); see § 515.23].

Any person acting on behalf of a broker-dealer or on behalf of an issuer must comply with the commissioner's regulations relating to agents before effecting any transaction in, or inducing or attempting to induce the purchase or sale of, any security in California [Corp. Code § 25210(b)]. Upon the filing of a notice of (1) the employment or transfer of an agent for a broker-dealer, (2) an amendment to the information filed by the agent at the time of employment or transfer, and (3) the termination of employment of the agent from the broker-dealer, the Commissioner will review the disciplinary histories of agents, consistent with Corp. Code § 25213 (grounds for censure) [Corp. Code § 25210(c)].

The provisions of the Corporate Securities Law requiring a stockbroker to first secure a license are designed to protect the public against unscrupulous operators [see, e.g., Corp. Code § 25221 (criminal background checks of broker-dealer job applicants)]. Thus, a contract employing a broker to sell corporate stock is void when the broker is not licensed, and the broker is not allowed to recover his or her commission [Rhode v. Bartholomew (1949) 94 Cal. App. 2d 272, 282, 210 P.2d 768] .

Corp. Code § 25210 does not apply to an agent of an issuer when engaged in transactions exempt by Corp. Code § 25102(q) (viatical or life settlement contracts) [see § 515.14[5][n]], provided that the agent is a life agent licensed in California or in the purchaser's state of domicile [Corp. Code § 25209].

[2] Interaction of Securities Broker-Dealer and Real Estate Broker Licensing Requirements

Securities broker-dealers licensed under federal or California law are not subject to California real estate licensing requirements [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10000 et seq.] in connection with "any transaction that involves the sale, lease, or exchange of a business opportunity" [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10008.5]. However, the phrase "any transaction involving the sale, lease, or exchange of a business opportunity" does not include any of the acts described in Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131 (which generally describes acts relating to real property sales, lease, or mortgage transactions) or Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131.2 [see Ch. 103, Brokers] (which applies to persons who charge an advance fee for promoting the sale or lease of real property or of a business opportunity by advance fee listing, advertisement, or other offering, and certain related activities), if the substance of the transaction is to transfer, sell, lease, or exchange an interest in real property for the purpose of evading the real estate licensing requirements [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10008.5].

"Business opportunity" includes the sale or lease of a business and goodwill of an existing business enterprise or opportunity [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10030]. "Business opportunity" has been held to encompasses any transfer of ownership of an entire ongoing business in corporate form, whether accomplished by transfer of all the corporate stock or by transfer of all assets [All Points Traders, Inc. v. Barrington Associates (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 723, 731, 259 Cal. Rptr. 780] .

Bus. & Prof. Code § 10008.5 apparently was enacted in response to All Points Traders, Inc. v. Barrington Associates (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 723, 259 Cal. Rptr. 780 , which held that the fact that a transaction might be subject to the securities licensing laws was irrelevant to the determination of whether or not a real estate broker's license was required [All Points Traders, Inc. v. Barrington Associates (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 723, 734-735, 259 Cal. Rptr. 780 (denying commission relating to sale of business to investment banker because it had no real estate broker's license; investment banker's claim that it was exempt from broker-dealer licensing requirements by 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.204.5 was uncontested)]. The statement of legislative intent provides that Bus. & Prof. Code § 10008.5 was enacted to clarify existing law regarding licensing requirements and to restore and clarify the basis for practice by which both licensed real estate brokers and licensed securities broker-dealers may participate in transactions involving business opportunities without unnecessary duplicate licensing requirements [1989 Stats., ch. 1116, § 8]. Case law has long provided that a licensed real estate broker may recover any commission due on the sale of a business without a securities broker's license even when that sale involves the transfer of stock if the transfer of stock is only incidental to the transaction [see, e.g., Lyons v. Stevenson (1977) 65 Cal. App. 3d 595, 603, 135 Cal. Rptr. 457 ; Weber v. Jorgensen (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 74, 77, 82-83, 93 Cal. Rptr. 668 (transfer of stock was only incidental to sale of real and personal property, licenses, and permits comprising business opportunity and stock transfer agreement was drafted and handled by attorney, not by broker); Stoll v. Mallory (1959) 173 Cal. App. 2d 694, 696, 699, 343 P.2d 970 (decision to effect sale of business by transfer of stock was not made until after broker brought parties together); but see Owen v. Off (1951) 36 Cal. 2d 751, 753, 227 P.2d 457 (real estate broker without securities broker license who was engaged to sell building denied recovery of commission after seller decided to effect transaction by selling stock of corporation that owned building)].

Similarly, the rules of the Corporations Commissioner exempt licensed real estate brokers from the securities broker licensing requirement with respect to transactions initiated in good faith as sales of real estate or existing businesses that changed to securities transactions not due to the broker's recommendation or advice. This exemption can only be used for one transaction every 12 months [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.204.1].

A real estate broker licensed by the California Real Estate Commissioner is not considered a broker-dealer within the securities law definition and thus is not required to hold a broker-dealer's license in order to engage in transactions in securities exempted under Corp. Code § 25100(f) (interests in subdivisions or real estate developments) or Corp. Code § 25100(p) (notes secured by real property), or in securities the issuance of which is subject to authorization by the Real Estate Commissioner of California, or in transactions exempted by Corp. Code § 25102(e) (debt securities that are not offered publicly) [see Corp. Code § 25004(a)(6) (exclusion from definition of broker-dealer)]. A real estate broker licensed by the California Real Estate Commissioner is exempt from the securities broker-dealer licensing requirements when engaged in transactions in any interest in any general or limited partnership, joint venture, unincorporated association, or similar organization (but not a corporation) owned beneficially by no more than 100 persons and formed for the sole purpose of, and engaged solely in, investment in or gain from an interest in real property, including, but not limited to, a sale, exchange, trade, or development. An interest held by a husband and wife is considered held by one person for purposes of this provision [Corp. Code § 25206].

[3] Duties

[a] Fiduciary Duty

The fiduciary duty of a stockbroker to his or her client requires the broker to exercise the utmost good faith and integrity [Blankenheim v. E.F. Hutton & Co. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 1463, 1475, 266 Cal. Rptr. 593 ; Duffy v. Cavalier (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1517, 1531, 264 Cal. Rptr. 740 ; Twomey v. Mitchum, Jones & Templeton, Inc. (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 690, 708-709, 69 Cal. Rptr. 222] . The stockbroker-client relationship is fiduciary in nature regardless of whether the customer is a sophisticated investor or not [Duffy v. Cavalier (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1517, 1533, 264 Cal. Rptr. 740] , and regardless of whether the broker actually controls the account. The scope or extent of the broker's fiduciary duty varies, however, depending on the facts of the particular case [Petersen v. Securities Settlement Corp. (1991) 226 Cal. App. 3d 1445, 1456, 277 Cal. Rptr. 468 ; Duffy v. Cavalier (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1517, 1534-1536, 264 Cal. Rptr. 740 (describing Caravan Mobile Home Sales v. Lehman Bros. Kuhn Loeb (9th Cir. 1985) 769 F.2d 561, 567 , and Leboce, S. A. v. Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner, etc. (9th Cir. 1983) 709 F.2d 605, 607-608 , as involving relatively narrow scope of agency and duty)].

[b] When Broker Controls Account

Although a stockbroker may be obliged merely to carry out his or her customer's stated objectives when the broker is acting merely as an agent to carry out purchases or sales selected by the customer, with or without the broker's recommendation, when the customer invariably follows the broker's recommendations, the broker controls the account [Duffy v. Cavalier (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1517, 1522-1534, 264 Cal. Rptr. 740 (when broker's authority to select investments is formalized, account is referred to as "discretionary"); Twomey v. Mitchum, Jones & Templeton, Inc. (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 690, 719, 69 Cal. Rptr. 222] .

Whether or not the customer and the broker refer to the account as a discretionary account, if the broker is the controlling factor in the transactions for all practical purposes, the broker's fiduciary duty obligates him or her to determine the customer's actual financial situation and needs [Duffy v. Cavalier (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1517, 1531-1532, 1537-1538, 264 Cal. Rptr. 740 ; Twomey v. Mitchum, Jones & Templeton, Inc. (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 690, 719, 69 Cal. Rptr. 222] . If, based on the customer's actual financial situation and needs, it would be improper and unsuitable to carry out the customer's expressed objectives, the broker has the further obligation (1) to make sure that the customer understands the investment risks in the light of his or her actual financial situation; (2) to inform the customer that no speculative investments are suitable if the customer persists in wanting to engage in speculative transactions without the broker's being persuaded that the customer is able to bear the financial risks involved; and (3) to completely refrain from soliciting the customer's purchase of any speculative securities that the broker considers to be beyond the customer's risk threshold. As long as these duties are met, if the customer nevertheless insists on purchasing speculative securities, the stockbroker is not barred from advising the customer about various speculative securities and purchasing for the customer those securities that the customer selects [Duffy v. Cavalier (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1517, 1532, 1538-1539, 264 Cal. Rptr. 740 ; Twomey v. Mitchum, Jones & Templeton, Inc. (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 690, 721, 69 Cal. Rptr. 222] .

Sometimes, the foregoing obligations require a stockbroker to make an independent determination regarding the customer's resources or sophistication. For instance, when a trustee of a profit-sharing trust fund approached a stockbroker to invest fund assets in options, which are highly speculative, the broker had the obligation to investigate the nature and amount of funds sought to be invested before soliciting or recommending any speculative investments and to refrain from soliciting transactions when it became apparent that they would be inappropriate [Duffy v. Cavalier (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1517, 1532, 1538-1540, 264 Cal. Rptr. 740] .

[c] When Broker Is Limited to Clearing and Trading Functions

A broker's duty does not always extend to providing investment advice. For instance, a "clearing broker," that is, a broker that has a contractual relationship with the stockbroker and the investor but will only execute orders on the primary broker's instruction, whose contractual obligations are limited to clearing and trading functions, and who has no direct contact with the investor and makes no specific representations to the investor, does not owe a duty to investigate the suitability of stocks the primary broker recommends [Petersen v. Securities Settlement Corp. (1991) 226 Cal. App. 3d 1445, 1453-1457, 277 Cal. Rptr. 468 ; Mars v. Wedbush Morgan Securities, Inc. (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1608, 1614-1615, 283 Cal. Rptr. 238] .

Restatement (Second) of Torts § 551(2)(e) would require disclosure by any broker who knew that an investor was about to enter into a transaction under a mistaken belief about the transaction if the investor, because of the relationship with the broker, the customs of the trade, or other objective circumstances, would reasonably expect disclosure of the facts [Petersen v. Securities Settlement Corp. (1991) 226 Cal. App. 3d 1445, 1457-1458, 277 Cal. Rptr. 468 (clearing broker had no knowledge that plaintiff was ignorant of important fact; contract between clearing broker and primary broker specifically prohibited clearing broker from giving investment advice)].

[d] No Special Relationship Justifying Tort Damages

Even though the relationship between investor and stockbroker is fiduciary in nature, it is generally motivated by the investor's desire to make profits, and thus is not a special relationship that entitles the investor to tort damages for breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing [Trustees of Capital Wholesale Electric etc. Fund v. Shearson Lehman Brothers, Inc. (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 617, 623-625, 270 Cal. Rptr. 566] .

§ 515.16 Administrative Enforcement

[1] Powers of Commissioner

The Commissioner of Corporations has broad powers affecting securities. The Commissioner may bring an action for injunction, receivership, or other appropriate ancillary relief, and an action on behalf of the state for civil penalty, in the case of violations of the law [see Corp. Code §§ 25530, 25535; see also Corp. Code § 25530.1 (prohibitions that may be imposed in Corp. Code § 25530 proceeding)]. The Commissioner also may bring an action in federal court for violation of the federal Commodities Exchange Act [see Corp. Code § 25536(a)], may hold investigations and conduct hearings regarding possible violations by persons who issue or trade securities [see Corp. Code § 25531], and may issue desist and refrain orders if a security, which is subject to qualification, is being sold without having been qualified, or if a security not subject to qualification [see Corp. Code §§ 25100.1, 25101.1, 25102.1] is being sold without meeting applicable notice requirements [see Corp. Code § 25532]. The Commissioner may also issue desist and refrain orders if in the Commissioner's opinion, a person has violated or is violating Corp. Code § 25401 (misrepresentation of material fact) [Corp. Code § 25532(c)].

The Commissioner also may issue a stop order denying effectiveness to, or suspending or revoking the effectiveness of, any underwritten securities offering that is automatically qualified or qualified by administrative application, or may suspend or revoke any permit when qualification is achieved by the issuance of a permit, if the Commissioner finds that (1) the order is in the public interest and (2) the proposed plan of business of the issuer or the proposed issuance or sale of securities is not fair, just, or equitable, that the issuer does not intend to transact its business fairly and honestly, or the securities proposed to be issued or the method to be used in issuing them will tend to work a fraud on the purchaser [Corp. Code § 25140(a)(1)]. The Commissioner may issue a stop order denying effectiveness to, or suspending or revoking the effectiveness of, any securities offering that is not underwritten and that was automatically qualified or qualified by administrative application unless the Commissioner finds (1) that the stop order is not in the public interest, and (2) that the proposed plan of business of the applicant or the proposed issuance of securities is fair, just, and equitable, that the issuer intends to transact its business fairly and honestly, and that the securities that the issuer proposes to issue or the method to be used in issuing them will not work a fraud on the purchaser of those securities [Corp. Code § 25140(a)(2)].

The Commissioner may refuse to issue a permit for a security (other than a security issued as part of a recapitalization or reorganization) unless he or she finds that the proposed plan of business of the applicant and the proposed issuance of securities are fair, just, and equitable, that the applicant intends to transact its business fairly and honestly, and that the securities which it proposes to issue, and the methods to be used by it in issuing them, will work a fraud on the purchaser of a security [Corp. Code § 25140(b)].

The Commissioner may refuse to issue a permit for a security issued in connection with a recapitalization or reorganization unless he or she finds that the proposed plan of recapitalization on reorganization and the proposed issuance of the securities are fair, just, and equitable to all security holders affected [Corp. Code § 25140(c)].

The Commissioner has the additional power to summarily postpone or suspend the effectiveness of any qualification pending final determination of any proceeding he or she may bring under Corp. Code §§ 25140-25151. Notice must be given of the summary action, after which a hearing may be requested [Corp. Code § 25143(a)].

[2] Review of Administrative Actions

All major decisions and orders of the Commissioner of Corporations are subject to an administrative hearing under the Administrative Procedure Act [see Gov. Code §§ 11500-11528]. Stop orders affecting qualification are reviewable under the regular administrative hearing procedure. If qualification consists of the issuance of a permit rather than occurring automatically through the filing process, the applicant must request the hearing, which then will be held on notice within 20 business days unless the permit is first issued [Corp. Code § 25143(b)]. Desist and refrain orders issued against transactions that are believed to have evaded qualification requirements also are reviewable by this administrative procedure, on request, and those orders are automatically rescinded unless the hearing is held within 15 business days (or a longer period agreed upon by the parties) [Corp. Code § 25532(d)], as is the case with orders against advertising [Corp. Code § 25302]. Actions taken against licensed marketing personnel are reviewable in a similar manner [see Corp. Code §§ 25215, 25220, 25233], as is the case with orders against advertising [Corp. Code § 25302].

For procedure and forms applicable to administrative hearings generally, see Ch. 471B, Licensing by Public Agencies , and Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication , et seq.

In addition, the Department of Corporations has its own informal hearing procedure. Hearings held in connection with exchanges of securities are special departmental reviews [see Corp. Code § 25142]. Otherwise, the person entitled to a regular administrative hearing may arrange, with the consent of the Commissioner of Corporations, to have a hearing conducted before the Department of Corporations by an independent hearing officer [Corp. Code § 25702]. This hearing commences with the serving by the Department of Corporations of a notice of hearing stating the facts, the issues, and the time and place of hearing, after which the hearing proceeds according to an order [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 250.17-250.25].

Every final order, decision, license, or other official act of the Commissioner of Corporations is subject to judicial review [Corp. Code § 25609]. For procedure and forms applicable to review of administrative hearings, see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions .

In addition to extensive administrative powers for enforcing the Corporate Securities Act of 1968, the act provides a large number of civil remedies for statutory liabilities that may be privately enforced. These liabilities include the prohibition against market manipulation [see § 515.18], material misrepresentations in the offering or selling of any security [see § 515.19], violations of provisions regulating the qualification and issuance of securities [see § 515.21[1]], and the prohibition against insider trading [see § 515.22[1]].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Securities Regulation

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.18

§ 515.18 Liability for Market Manipulation

It is unlawful to engage, directly or indirectly, in certain designated acts of market manipulation in California [Corp. Code § 25400; see §§ 515.400 -515.404]. These acts are discussed below.

[1] Wash Sales

A person may not do any of the following, for the purpose of creating a false or misleading appearance of active trading in any security, or a false or misleading appearance with respect to the market for any security [Corp. Code § 25400(a); see §§ 515.400, 515.401]:

- Effect any transaction in a security which involves no change in the beneficial ownership thereof;

- Enter an order or orders for the purchase of any security with the knowledge that an order or orders of substantially the same size, at substantially the same time and at substantially the same price, for the sale of any such security, has been or will be entered by or for the same or different parties; or

- Enter an order or orders for the sale of any security with the knowledge that an order or orders of substantially the same size, at substantially the same time and at substantially the same price, for the purchase of any such security, has been or will be entered by or for the same or different parties.

[2] Illusory Market

A person may not effect, alone or with one or more other persons, a series of transactions in any security either creating actual or apparent active trading in the security or raising or depressing the price of the security for the purpose of inducing the purchase or sale of the security by others [Corp. Code § 25400(b); see § 515.402].

[3] Tipster Sheet

A person who is a broker-dealer or other person selling or offering for sale or purchasing or offering to purchase the security may not induce the purchase or sale of any security by the circulation or dissemination of information to the effect that the price of any such security will or is likely to rise or fall because of market operations of any one or more persons conducted for the purpose of raising or depressing the price of that security [Corp. Code § 25400(c); see § 515.403].

[4] False or Misleading Statements

If the person is a broker-dealer or other person selling or offering for sale or purchasing or offering to purchase the security, that person may not make, for the purpose of inducing the purchase or sale of the security by others, any statement which either (1) was, at the time and in the light of the circumstances under which it was made, false or misleading with respect to any material fact, or (2) omitted to state any material fact necessary in order to make the statements made, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading. The person must have known or had reasonable ground to believe the statement was false or misleading [Corp. Code § 25400(d); see § 515.404].

The California Supreme Court has construed Corp. Code §§ 25400(d) and 25500 to find that the remedy provided in those sections is not limited to transactions made in California. The language of Corp. Code § 25400 which proscribes certain actions "in this state" simply describes the location in which the proscribed conduct must occur [Diamond Multimedia Systems, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 19 Cal. 4th 1036, 1046, 1064, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 828, 968 P.2d 539 , cert. denied, 527 U.S. 1003 (noting that Securities Litigation Uniform Standards Act of 1998, which preempts certain state class actions [P.L. 105-353, 112 Stat. 3227; see 15 U.S.C. §§ 77p, 78bb], was inapplicable to pending actions and thus had no impact on this case)]. The Court has also held that liability for market manipulation is not limited to sellers and buyers of corporate stock, or to corporations or broker-dealers, but extends to individuals and to the purchase and sale of securities for which there is no open market [StorMedia Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 449, 457-461, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 843, 976 P.2d 214] . Furthermore, no actual sale is necessary to find a violation of Corp. Code § 25400(d), and that subdivision does not require that the intent or purpose be to induce a particular buyer to purchase the stock [StorMedia Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 449, 461-463, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 843, 976 P.2d 214 (privity is not required)].

Corp. Code §§ 25400(d) and 25500, however, apply only to defendants who were engaged in market activity at the time of making misrepresentations. Defendants must both (1) sell or offer to sell or buy or offer to buy a security, and (2) make misleading statements for the purpose of inducing the purchase or sale of a security, in order to be liable under Corp. Code § 25500 [Kamen v. Lindly (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 197, 205-206, 114 Cal. Rptr. 2d 127 (trial court properly sustained defendants' demurrers on basis that plaintiffs failed to allege that defendants engaged in both activities); see Murphy v. BDO Seidman, LLP (2003) 113 Cal. App. 4th 687, 705-706, 6 Cal. Rptr. 3d 770 (aggrieved investors failed to state cause of action because defendant accountants who prepared allegedly misleading financial statements did not buy or sell, or offer to buy or sell, stock)].

[5] Tipster Hireling

A person, for a consideration received directly or indirectly from a broker-dealer or other person selling or offering for sale or purchasing or offering to purchase the security, may not induce the purchase or sale of any security by the circulation or dissemination of information to the effect that the price of the security will or is likely to rise or fall because of the market operations of any one or more persons conducted for the purpose of raising or depressing the price of the security [Corp. Code § 25400(e); see § 515.403].

[6] Civil Liability for Manipulation

Anyone who willfully participates in an act or transaction constituting proscribed market manipulation is liable to anyone else who purchases or sells any security at a price that was affected by the event for the damages sustained thereby [Corp. Code § 25500; see California Amplifier, Inc. v. RLI Ins. Co. (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 102, 106, 116-117, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 915 (liability under Corp. Code § 25500 requires "willful act" within meaning of Ins. Code § 533, which precludes coverage under directors and officers liability insurance for losses caused by a willful act of insured)].

The damages that may be recovered are the difference between the price at which the other person purchased or sold securities and the market value which the securities would have had at the time of the purchase or sale in the absence of the manipulative activity, plus interest at the legal rate [Corp. Code § 25500]. Because there is no reference in Corp. Code § 25500 to any date other than the date of the pertinent transaction, prejudgment interest accrues from that date [OCM Principal Opportunities Fund v. CIBC World Markets Corp. (2007) 157 Cal. App. 4th 835, 883 n.32, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 828].

[7] Limitation of Actions for Manipulation

An action to enforce liability for proscribed market manipulation must be brought before the expiration of five years after the act or transaction constituting the violation, or before the expiration of two years after discovery by the plaintiff of the facts constituting the violation, whichever period expires first [Corp. Code § 25506(b); but see Corp. Code § 25506(a) (shorter periods for actions commenced before 2005)].

Chapter 515 SECURITIES AND FRANCHISE REGULATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Securities Regulation

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.19

§ 515.19 Liability for Material Misrepresentation

[1] Untruth or Omission

It is unlawful for anyone to offer or sell, or to buy or offer to buy, a security in California by means of a written or oral communication which (1) includes an untrue statement of a material fact, or (2) omits to state a material fact necessary to make the statements made, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading [Corp. Code § 25401]. The prohibition against untrue statements or material omissions in Corp. Code § 25401 does not create a strict liability offense. Rather, knowledge of the falsity or misleading nature of a statement or of the materiality of an omission, or criminal negligence in failing to investigate and discover them, are elements of the criminal offense described in Corp. Code § 25401 [People v. Simon (1995) 9 Cal. 4th 493, 522, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 278, 886 P.2d 1271 (defendant solicited investments in limited partnerships but did not advise investors of transfers of funds among partnerships because defendant believed that, as general partner, he had authority to make such transfers)].

Anyone who violates Corp. Code § 25401 is liable to the plaintiff, who may sue either for rescission or for damages if the plaintiff or the defendant, as the case may be, no longer owns the security [Corp. Code § 25501; see §§ 515.405, 515.406].

Liability requires privity between the plaintiff and the defendant [Corp. Code § 25501 ("[a]ny person who violates Section 25401 shall be liable to the person who purchases a security from him or sells a security to him, who may sue either for rescission or for damages" [emphasis added]); Apollo Capital Fund LLC v. Roth Capital Partners (2007) 158 Cal. App. 4th 226, 252-254, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 199 (broker-dealer that was placement agent for issuing company in securities offering had no fiduciary duty to investors who were not broker-dealer's customers and so could not be liable to them under Corp. Code § 25501, but broker-dealer could be liable to any customer who bought those securities through customer's account with broker-dealer)].

[2] Rescission for Misrepresentation

In a suit for recission [see § 515.405], a purchaser may recover the consideration paid for the security, plus interest at the legal rate, less the amount of any income received on the security, on tender thereof. A rescinding seller may recover the security, on tender of the consideration paid for the security plus interest at the legal rate, less the amount of any income received by the defendant on the security. Tender may be made at any time before entry of judgment [Corp. Code § 25501].

[3] Damages for Misrepresentation

In a suit for damages [see § 515.406], a purchaser may recover the amount equal to the difference between (1) the price at which the security was bought, plus interest at the legal rate from the date of purchase, and (2) the value of the security at the time it was disposed of by the plaintiff plus the amount of any income received on the security by the plaintiff. A seller may recover the amount equal to the difference between (1) the value of the security at the time of filing of the complaint plus the amount of any income received by the defendant on the security, and (2) the price at which the security was sold plus interest at the legal rate from date of sale [Corp. Code § 25501].

[4] Limitation of Actions for Misrepresentation

An action to enforce liability based on a purchase or sale effected by means of a material misrepresentation must be brought before the expiration of five years after the act or transaction constituting the violation, or before the expiration of two years after discovery by the plaintiff of the facts constituting the violation, whichever period expires first [Corp. Code § 25506(b); but see Corp. Code § 25506(a) (shorter periods for actions commenced before 2005)].

With respect to commencement of the limitation period "after discovery by the plaintiff of the facts," Corp. Code § 25506 imposes a notice-inquiry standard. The limitation period starts when the plaintiff knows the facts constituting the violation or when the circumstances would suggest to an investor of ordinary intelligence the possibility of having been defrauded [Deveny v. Entropin, Inc. (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 408, 423, 428-429, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 807 ; contra, Eisenbaum v. Western Energy Resources, Inc. (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 314, 325-326, 267 Cal. Rptr. 5 (same court's construction of identical language in Corp. Code § 25507, distinguished in Deveny; see § 515.21[5])].

[5] Affirmative Defenses

[a] Plaintiff's Knowledge of Misrepresentation

A defendant alleged to have sold a security to or purchased a security from a plaintiff by means of material misrepresentation is not liable if he or she is able to prove that the plaintiff knew the facts concerning the untruth or omission involved [Corp. Code § 25501; see § 515.408].

[b] Defendant's Ignorance of Misrepresentation

A defendant alleged to have effected a securities transaction by means of a material misrepresentation may avoid liability by proving that he or she exercised reasonable care and did not know of the untrue representation or omission, or that even if the defendant had exercised reasonable care, he or she still would not have known of the misrepresentation [Corp. Code § 25501; see § 515.409].

[6] Liability of Management Principals or Persons Who Materially Aid in Violation

Joint and several liability attaches to the following [Corp. Code § 25504]; see § 515.405:

- Anyone who directly or indirectly controls a person liable for material misrepresentation under Corp. Code § 25501.

- Any partner in a firm so liable.

- Any principal executive officer or director of a corporation so liable.
- Anyone occupying a similar status or performing similar functions.
- Any employee of a person so liable who materially aids in the act or transaction constituting the violation.
- Any broker-dealer or agent who gives similar aid.

Such a person is liable with and to the same extent as any person liable under Corp. Code § 25501 unless the person who is alleged to be liable under Corp. Code § 25504 had no knowledge of or reasonable grounds to believe in the existence of the facts by reason of which the liability is alleged to exist [Corp. Code § 25504]. See § 515.409 for an affirmative defense based on such lack of knowledge.

The test under Corp. Code § 25504 is the same as that under federal securities laws (15 U.S.C. §§ 77o, 78t); therefore, federal cases are persuasive authority in this area [Durham v. Kelly (9th Cir. 1987) 810 F.2d 1500, 1505 (addressing claims under both state and federal law)].

[a] Limitation of Actions for Liability of Principals and Aides

No action may be maintained to enforce any joint or several liability as described above [see § 515.19[6]] unless the action is brought within the limitation periods applicable to bringing actions against the primary defendants in such situations [Corp. Code §§ 25506, 25507; see § 515.19[4]].

[b] Defense Based on Principal's or Aide's Ignorance

No joint or several liability may be imposed on a management principal or aide if he or she had no knowledge of, or reasonable grounds to believe in the existence of, the facts by reason of which the liability is alleged to exist [Corp. Code § 25504; see § 515.430].

[7] Joint and Several Liability of Materially Assisting Persons

Anyone who, with intent to deceive or defraud, materially assists another in making a material misrepresentation in the offer or sale of securities [see Corp. Code § 25401], is jointly and severally liable with the person primarily responsible [see Corp. Code §§ 25501, 25503] for the violation [Corp. Code § 25504.1; see § 515.246[13]]. The same limitation of actions applicable to suits against management principals and aides [see § 515.19[6][a]] is applicable against materially assisting persons [see Corp. Code §§ 25506, 25507].

The requirement for imposition of aider and abettor liability under Corp. Code § 25504.1 is stricter than that required under federal law. Corp. Code § 25504.1 requires the aider or abettor to have an intent to deceive or defraud, whereas federal law only requires that the aider or abettor have actual knowledge of the primary wrong and substantially assist in furthering it [Orloff v. Allman (9th Cir. 1987) 819 F.2d 904, 907-908] .

[8] Joint and Several Liability of Experts

Professional experts may be jointly and severally liable for injuries resulting from material misrepresentation made in connection with a securities transaction [see Corp. Code § 25501; see also § 515.406]. A professional expert includes any accountant, engineer, appraiser, or other person whose profession gives authority to a statement made thereby [Corp. Code § 25504.2(a)] including, without limitation, an actuary, assayer, attorney, financial analyst, geologist, investment adviser, mineralogist, petrologist, or tax consultant, and any firm or other organization or association engaged in the practice of any such profession [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.504.2.1(a)].

The professional must have given written consent to be, and have been, named in a prospectus or offering circular distributed in connection with the offer or sale of securities as having prepared or certified in that capacity either any part of the document or any written report or valuation which is distributed with or referred to in the document [Corp. Code § 25504.2(a)]. The expert will be deemed to have prepared or certified only those portions of the violative documents which are expressly stated with the expert's written consent to have been made on his or her authority [Corp. Code § 25504.2(c)].

In order for the expert to be held jointly and severally liable for a material misrepresentation, the part of the document prepared or certified, or the report or valuation distributed or referred to therein, must include an untrue statement of a material fact, or must omit to state a material fact necessary in order to make the statements made, in light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading. Additionally, the person asserting the liability must have acquired a security described in the document in reliance on the untrue statement, or, if a material omission was made, in reliance on that part of the document or on the report or valuation without notice of the omission [Corp. Code § 25504.2(a)(1), (2)].

[a] Limitation of Actions for Experts' Liability

No action may be maintained to enforce liability against professional experts as described above on a joint and several basis unless brought within one year after the discovery of the facts constituting the violation, or after that discovery should have been made by the exercise of reasonable diligence. In no event may an action be brought more than three years after the act or transaction constituting the violation [Corp. Code § 25506.1].

[b] Defense Based on Expert's Belief in Representations

An accountant, engineer, appraiser, or other professional person will not be held liable as provided in Corp. Code § 25504.2(a) if he or she is able to sustain the burden of proof as to a reasonable belief in the accuracy of the representations made. The expert must have had reasonable ground to believe, after reasonable investigation, and must have believed at the time of consenting to the use of his or her name that the statements so included in the part of the document, or in the report or valuation, were true, and that there was no omission to state a material fact necessary in order to make the statements made, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading [Corp. Code § 25504.2(b)(1); see § 515.411].

[c] Defense Based on Inaccurate Reflection of the Expert's Opinion

An accountant, engineer, appraiser, or other professional person will not be held liable jointly and severally for a material misrepresentation if he or she is able to sustain the burden of proof as to the fact that the document in question did not accurately reflect his or her views. The part of the document in question must not fairly represent the defendant's statement as an expert, or must not be a fair extract from that person's report or valuation as an expert [Corp. Code § 25504.2(b)(2); see § 515.412].

[d] Defense Based on Expert's Filing of Disclaimer of Report

An accountant, engineer, appraiser, or other professional person will not be held liable jointly and severally for a material misrepresentation if he or she is able to sustain the burden of proof as to the fact that he or she filed an appropriate disclaimer of the document, report, or valuation in question. Prior to the acquisition of the security by the person asserting the liability, the expert must have advised the issuer and the Commissioner of Corporations, in writing, that the expert would not be responsible for the part of the document, report, or valuation in question [Corp. Code § 25504.2(b)(3); see § 515.413].

§ 515.20 Holder's Action for Fraud or Negligent Misrepresentation

A plaintiff may bring a "holder's action" (a cause of action by persons wrongfully induced to hold, rather than purchase or sell, stock) for fraud or negligent misrepresentation. In Small v. Fritz Companies, Inc. [Small v. Fritz Companies, Inc. (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 167, 171, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 490, 65 P.3d 1255] , a stockholder filed an action claiming that defendant corporation and its officers sent its stockholders a fraudulent quarterly financial report that grossly overreported earnings and profits. The plaintiff alleged that when the fraud was discovered, the price of the corporate stock dropped sharply, causing injury to stockholders like himself. The court concluded that California law should allow such an action, as it has long acknowledged that if the effect of a misrepresentation is to induce persons not to take action and they are damaged as a result, they have a cause of action for fraud or negligent misrepresentation. That conclusion does not expand the tort of common law fraud, but simply applies long-established legal principles to the factual setting of misrepresentations that induce stockholders to hold onto their stock [Small v. Fritz Companies, Inc. (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 167, 171, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 490, 65 P.3d 1255] . The court noted that persons who hold stock in reliance upon misrepresentations are totally dependent for redress upon state common law causes of action. They have no remedy under either federal Rule 10b-5 [see 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b-5] or California's Corporate Securities Law [see Corp. Code § 25000 et seq.] because those provisions are limited to suits by buyers or sellers of securities [Small v. Fritz Companies, Inc. (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 167, 180, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 490, 65 P.3d 1255] . However, the court also held that the holder's cause of action is limited to stockholders who can make a bona fide showing of actual reliance on the misrepresentation [Small v. Fritz Companies, Inc. (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 167, 171, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 490, 65 P.3d 1255 (finding that plaintiff failed to plead element of actual reliance with sufficient specificity to meet that requirement, and remanding with directions to grant plaintiff leave to amend complaint); see Murphy v. BDO Seidman, LLP (2003) 113 Cal. App. 4th 687, 701-702, 6 Cal. Rptr. 3d 770 (citing Small for proposition that holding stock can be actionable reliance, and following its guidance in directing trial court to grant appellants leave to amend to specify how many shares they would have sold and when they would have sold them)].

- Condition of qualification under Corp. Code §§ 25120-25122 (qualification procedures) imposed pursuant to Corp. Code § 25141 (conditions permitted to be imposed by commissioner) [see § 515.422].

[2] Rescission for Violation

With respect to regulatory violations, except those involving recapitalizations and reorganizations, the plaintiff may rescind the transaction by tendering the securities at any time before entry of judgment and recover the consideration paid for the security with interest at the legal rate, less the amount of any income received therefrom. The plaintiff must take damages in lieu of the consideration if the consideration is no longer capable of being returned, which damages must be equal to the value of the consideration plus interest at the legal rate from the date of purchase [Corp. Code § 25503; see § 515.419].

[3] Damages When Rescission Unavailable

With respect to regulatory violations, except those specifying recapitalizations and reorganizations, the plaintiff must accept damages if he or she no longer owns the security involved. If the original consideration is recoverable, plaintiff receives the difference between (1) the purchase price plus interest at the legal rate from the date of purchase, and (2) the value of the security at the time it was disposed of by plaintiff plus the amount of any income received therefrom by the plaintiff. If the consideration is incapable of being returned, plaintiff receives the difference between (1) the value of the consideration given for the security plus interest at the legal rate from the date of purchase, and (2) the value of the security at the time it was disposed of by the plaintiff plus the amount of any income received therefrom by plaintiff [Corp. Code § 25503; see § 515.420].

[4] Damages When Recapitalization or Reorganization Involved

When an action for failure to qualify or comply with a condition of a recapitalization or reorganization is involved, plaintiff may recover the difference between (1) the value of the consideration received by the defendant seller, and (2) the value of the security at the time it was received by the plaintiff buyer, with interest thereon at the legal rate from the date of purchase [Corp. Code § 25503; see § 515.421].

[5] Limitation of Actions for Violations

An action for violation of the regulatory requirements must be brought before the expiration of two years after the violation on which it is based, or the expiration of one year after the discovery by the plaintiff of the facts constituting the violation, whichever expires first [Corp. Code § 25507(a)].

By its plain language, Corp. Code § 25507(a) requires actual knowledge, not just "inquiry notice," even if the plaintiff and defendant do not have a fiduciary relationship [Eisenbaum v. Western Energy Resources, Inc. (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 314, 325-326, 267 Cal. Rptr. 5] ; but see Deveny v. Entropin, Inc. (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 408, 422-423, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 807 (distinguishing Eisenbaum and reaching opposite conclusion about construction of identical language in Corp. Code § 25506, discussed in § 515.19[4]). When there is a fiduciary relationship, the plaintiff is entitled to rely on statements by defendant that the offering is qualified or exempt from qualification [Eisenbaum v. Western Energy Resources, Inc. (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 314, 326, 267 Cal. Rptr. 5 ; Sherman v. Lloyd (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 693, 700, 226 Cal. Rptr. 495] . Plaintiff's right to relief is statutory, and the doctrine of unclean hands does not enter into the situation. Thus, the fact that the buyer, a California resident, was told by defendant to use an out-of-state address does not place the buyer in pari delicto or foreclose the right to rescission [Eisenbaum v. Western Energy Resources, Inc. (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 314, 326-327, 267 Cal. Rptr. 5] .

[6] Defense Based on Qualification of Securities Prior to Receipt of Consideration

No person is liable under the civil remedy provisions for violation of qualification requirements [see Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, 25130] if the sale of the security is qualified prior to the payment or receipt of any part of the consideration for the security sold. This defense is available even though an offer to sell or a contract of sale may have been made or entered into without qualification. This defense does not apply to complaints for violations of conditions on qualification imposed by the Commissioner of Corporations or of suspension of trading thereby [Corp. Code § 25503; see § 515.426].

[7] Defense Based on Written Repurchase Offer

No buyer may commence an action for the above-described regulatory violations or may attempt to impose joint or several liability therefor if, before the suit is commenced, the buyer has received a special offer prescribed by statute but has failed to accept it in writing within the specified time after its receipt. The offer must be in writing, approved as to form by the Commissioner of Corporations, and must contain the following [Corp. Code § 25507(b); see § 515.428]:

- A statement of how liability may have arisen under Corp. Code § 25503;

- An offer either to repurchase the security for a cash price payable on delivery of the security, to pay the buyer an amount in cash equal in either case to the amount recoverable by the buyer in accordance with Corp. Code § 25503, or to rescind the transaction by putting the parties back in the same position as before the transaction;

- A provision permitting the offer to be accepted by the buyer at any time within a specified period of not less than 30 days after the date the offer was received, unless the buyer has previously rejected it;

- The provisions of Corp. Code § 25507(b) (setting forth requirements); and

- Other information the commissioner may require by rule or order.

Pursuant to Corp. Code § 25507(d), the Commissioner of Corporations has promulgated 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.507, which imposes certain conditions on approval of the rectifying offer. These conditions may require [Corp. Code § 25507(c)]:

- That equivalent and concurrent offers be made to all other investors similarly affected;

- That the offer be conditioned on the issuer not being disabled from business by reason of acceptances of such offers;

- That the offer be made within a specified time after approval;

- That a rejected offer will not act as a bar to action in a case in which the offeree did not pay money or the offer is of rescission and the offeree would not recover damages equivalent to that allowed by statute [see Corp. Code § 25503] or the parties would not be placed in the same position as before the transaction; or

- That the offeror file a report concerning the proceedings involving the offer and related legal compliance. A prescribed form of irrevocable consent to service of process on the Commissioner on behalf of the offeror must be filed with the Commissioner, unless one is already on file in connection with a qualification [see Corp. Code § 25507(d)].

[8] Joint and Several Liability of Offering Principals and Underwriters

Anyone on whose behalf an offering is made, and any underwriter of the offering (whether on a best efforts or a firm commitment basis) is jointly and severally liable for regulating violations [see § 515.21[1]]. In no event, however, is an underwriter liable for damages in excess of the total price at which the securities underwritten and distributed thereby to the public were offered to the public. This limitation on damages does not apply if the underwriter has knowingly received from the issuer for acting as an underwriter some benefit, directly or indirectly, in which all other underwriters similarly situated did not share in proportion to their respective interest in the underwriting [Corp. Code § 25503; see § 515.419].

§ 515.22 Liability for Insider Trading

[1] Prohibited Acts

It is unlawful for an issuer or anyone who is an officer, director, or controlling person, or any other person whose relationship to the issuer gives him or her personal access, directly or indirectly, to material information about the issuer not generally available to the public, to purchase or sell any security of the issuer in California at a time when he or she knows material information about the issuer gained from the relationship that would significantly affect the market price of that security and that is not generally available to the public, and that the insider knows is not intended to be so available [Corp. Code § 25402]. For purposes of Corp. Code § 25402, an issuer or person described in that section will not be deemed to have purchased or sold an issuer's security at a time when that person knows material information about the issuer if the issuer or person demonstrates that the purchase or sale of the issuer's security was in accordance with Rule 10b5-1(c) promulgated under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [10 Cal. Code Reg. 260.402; see 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b5-1(c) (providing affirmative defense to allegations of insider trading under federal securities laws); see also Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 21, Corporate Securities , § 466.05 (Matthew Bender)].

[2] Civil Liability to Purchaser or Seller for Insider Dealings

Anyone who violates the insider trading prohibition contained in Corp. Code § 25402 is liable for damages to the person who purchases a security from, or sells a security to, the insider [Corp. Code § 25502; see § 515.413]. Damages are equal to the difference between the price at which the security was purchased or sold and the market value that the security would have had at the time of the transaction if the information known to the defendant had been publicly disseminated prior to that time, and a reasonable time had elapsed for the market to absorb the information. Interest also is awarded at the legal rate [Corp. Code § 25502].

[3] Civil Liability to Issuer for Insider Dealings

Any person other than the issuer who violates Corp. Code § 25402 with respect to securities issued by a corporation that has total assets in excess of $1 million and a class of equity security held of record by 500 or more persons is liable to the corporate issuer of the security purchased or sold in violation of Corp. Code § 25402 for treble damages. The measure of damages before trebling is the difference between the price at which the security was purchased or sold and the market value that the security would have had at the time of the purchase or sale if the information known to the defendant had been publicly disseminated prior to that time and a reasonable time had elapsed for the market to absorb that information [Corp. Code § 25502.5(a), (d); see § 515.413.1]. The amount recoverable by the issuer under Corp. Code § 25502.5(a) is reduced by any amount paid by the defendant in a proceeding brought by the Securities and Exchange Commission with respect to the same transaction or transactions under the federal Insider Trading Sanctions Act of 1984 (15 U.S.C. §§ 78a, 78c, 78o, 78t, 78u, 78ff) or any other act. The reduction applies regardless of whether the amount was paid pursuant to a judgment or settlement or paid before or after the filing of an action by the plaintiff against the defendant [Corp. Code § 25502.5(b)]. If a proceeding has been commenced by the SEC but has not been finally resolved, the court hearing the action under Corp. Code § 25502.5 must delay entering a judgment for the plaintiff until the SEC proceeding is resolved [Corp. Code § 25502.5(b)].

The action under Corp. Code § 25502.5 can be brought by the corporate issuer or as a derivative action. The corporation or plaintiff may recover reasonable costs and attorney's fees [see Corp. Code § 25502.5(a)]. If a shareholder of the issuer alleges to its board that there has been a violation compensable under Corp. Code § 25502.5, the board must consider the allegation in good faith. If the allegation involves misconduct by a director, that director is not entitled to vote on any matter involving the allegation; however, that director may still be counted in determining the presence of a quorum at a meeting of the board or a committee of the board [Corp. Code § 25502.5(c)].

[4] Limitation of Actions Against Insiders

For proceedings commencing before January 1, 2005, no action is available for insider trading unless brought before the expiration of four years after the act or transaction constituting the violation, or the expiration of one year after the discovery by the plaintiff of the facts constituting the violation, whichever expires first [Corp. Code § 25506(a)]. For proceedings commencing on or after January 1, 2005, no such action is available unless brought before the expiration of five years after the act or transaction constituting the violation, or the expiration of two years after discovery by the plaintiff of the facts constituting the violation, whichever expires first [Corp. Code § 25506(b)].

[5] Defense of Belief of Plaintiff's Informed Status

It is not unlawful for an insider to trade in securities of the issuer corporation in violation of the insider trading activity prescribed by statute if the insider has reason to believe that the person selling to or buying from him or her is also in possession of the information [see Corp. Code § 25402, and see § 515.416].

[6] Defense of Plaintiff's Actual Informed Status

An insider is not liable for prohibited insider trading if he or she is able to prove that the plaintiff knew the information the nondisclosure of which was the basis for which the action was instituted [see Corp. Code § 25502, and see § 515.417].

[7] Defense of Plaintiff's Commitment to Transaction

There is no liability on the part of an insider who otherwise engages in prohibited insider trading if the insider is able to prove that the plaintiff would have purchased or sold the securities at the same price even if the insider information had been revealed to the plaintiff [Corp. Code § 25502; see § 515.418].

§ 515.23 Broker-Dealer's Liability for Failure to Obtain License Before Sale

A person who purchases a security from or sells a security to a broker-dealer that is required to be licensed and has not, at the time of the sale or purchase, applied for and secured from the Commissioner a certificate [see Corp. Code § 25200 et seq.] that is in effect at the time of the sale or purchase authorizing that broker-dealer to act in that capacity, may bring an action for rescission of the sale or purchase or, if the plaintiff or the defendant no longer owns the security, an action for damages [Corp. Code § 25501.5(a)(1); see § 515.434]. On rescission and tender of the security, a purchaser may recover the consideration paid for the security plus interest at the legal rate, less the amount of any income received on the security [Corp. Code § 25501.5(a)(2)]. Upon rescission and tender of the consideration paid for the security plus interest at the legal rate, a seller may recover the security plus the amount of any income received by the defendant on the security [Corp. Code § 25501.5(a)(3)].

Damages recoverable by a purchaser will be an amount equal to the difference between the following [Corp. Code § 25501.5(a)(4)]:

- The price at which the security was bought plus interest at the legal rate from the date of purchase; and

- The value of the security at the time it was disposed of by the plaintiff plus the amount of any income received on the security by the plaintiff.

Damages recoverable by a seller will be an amount equal to the difference between the following [Corp. Code § 25501.5(a)(5)]:

- The value of the security at the time of the filing of the complaint plus the amount of any income received by the defendant on the security; and

- The price at which the security was sold plus interest at the legal rate from the date of sale.

A tender of a security or of consideration paid for a security plus interest may be made at any time before entry of judgment [Corp. Code § 25501.5(a)(6)]. The court, in its discretion, may award reasonable attorney's fees and costs to a prevailing plaintiff [Corp. Code § 25501.5(b)].

It is unlawful for any person to knowingly alter, destroy, mutilate, conceal, cover up, falsify, or make a false entry in any record, document, or tangible object with the intent to impede, obstruct, or influence the administration or enforcement of the Corporate Securities Law [Corp. Code § 25404(a)]. It is also unlawful for any person to knowingly make an untrue statement to the Commissioner during the course of licensing, investigation, or examination, with the intent to impede, obstruct, or influence the administration or enforcement of any provision of the Corporate Securities Law of 1968 [Corp. Code § 25404(b)]. Note, however, that these sections do not form the basis for any civil liability, since they do not explicitly provide for such liability [*see Corp. § 515.25 Liability on Securities Issuer's Bond

[1] Prohibited Acts

Corp. Code § 25216 prohibits broker-dealers and agents from engaging is specified practices. These practices include effecting any transaction in, or inducing or attempting to induce the purchase or sale of, any security in California by means of any manipulative, deceptive, or other fraudulent scheme, device, or contrivance as defined by rule [Corp. Code § 25216(a); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.216-260.216.7]. Similarly, no broker-dealer or agent may effect any transaction in, or induce or attempt to induce the purchase or sale of, any security in California in connection with which the broker-dealer or agent engages in any fraudulent, deceptive, or manipulative act or practice or makes any fictitious quotation as defined by rule [Corp. Code § 25216(b); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.216.8-260.216.11, 260.216.16].

In addition, no broker-dealer or agent may effect any transaction in, or induce or attempt to induce the purchase or sale of, any security in California in contravention of such rules as the Commissioner may prescribe as necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors to provide safeguards with respect to the financial responsibility of broker-dealers [Corp. Code § 25216(c); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.216.12, 260.216.12.1].

Finally, no broker-dealer or agent may effect or attempt to effect in California, in contravention of such rules as the Commissioner may prescribe as necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors, specified transactions involving puts, calls, straddles, or other options or privileges [see Corp. Code § 25216(d)].

[2] Bond Requirement

The Commissioner, by rule, may require any issuer who employs agents in connection with any security or transaction not exempted by Corp. Code §§ 25100-25105 to post a surety bond in an amount not exceeding $10,000, conditioned that the issuer will comply with the provisions of Corp. Code § 25216 and the rules and orders issued thereunder. The bond, unless previously canceled, must cover the entire period during which the qualification is in effect. If a deposit in lieu of a bond is made pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 995.710 (for deposits with Secretary of State, available only before January 1, 1999), the deposit may include an appropriate deposit of securities. No suit may be maintained to enforce any liability on the bond unless brought within two years after the contract of sale or other act on which the suit is based [Corp. Code § 25216(e); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.216.15 (bond requirement and deposits in lieu of bond)].

The Bond and Undertaking Law (Code Civ. Proc. §§ 995.010-996.560) applies to bonds given pursuant to California statute except to the extent that the statute prescribes a different rule or is inconsistent [Code Civ. Proc. § 995.020(a)]. For discussion and forms relating to statutory bonds and deposits in lieu of bond, see Ch. 538, Suretyship, Bonds, and Undertakings . For a complaint in interpleader under Code Civ. Proc. § 386 that may be used by the surety when claims against the bond exceed $10,000, see § 515.432.

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.26

§ 515.26 Service of Process on Commissioner

Every applicant for qualification of the sale of securities or every person filing an application or a notice under Corp. Code §§ 25100.1, 25101, 25102.1 and 25230.1 (securities and transactions not subject to qualification) or request for or notice of exemption from qualification, other than a California corporation or California-licensed broker-dealer, must have on file or submit a consent to service of process appointing the Commissioner of Corporations as attorney for receipt of service in any noncriminal suit arising under the securities legislation. Service is made by leaving a copy of the process in the Department of Corporations office, but is not effective unless the plaintiff (who may be the Commissioner of Corporations) forthwith sends notice and a copy to the defendant at the last address on file therefor, and the plaintiff's affidavit of compliance is filed on or before the return day for process [Corp. Code § 25165]. The same requirement applies to applicants for a certificate as to a broker-dealer or as an investment adviser and every investment adviser subject to Corp. Code § 25230.1 (persons subject to notice but not certification requirements), other than a California corporation [Corp. Code § 25240].

In any case, anyone, including a nonresident, who engages in conduct prohibited or made actionable under the Corporate Securities Law of 1968 or any rule or order thereunder, whether or not he or she has filed a consent to service, thereby, in effect, "appoints" the Commissioner of Corporations his or her attorney for purposes of receiving service, whenever personal jurisdiction cannot be otherwise obtained; service is made in the same manner as when a consent is on file [Corp. Code § 25550]. However, it is important to make certain in such instances that attempts to obtain personal jurisdiction have been exhaustive, such as through court-ordered personal service on the Secretary of State on behalf of a local corporation [see Corp. Code § 1702] or on behalf of a foreign corporation doing business here [see Corp. Code § 2111; see also Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

Chapter 515 SECURITIES AND FRANCHISE REGULATION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Securities Regulation

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.28

§ 515.28 Criminal Liability

It is a crime to willfully violate any provision of the Corporate Securities Law of 1968 [Corp. Code § 25540]; to willfully employ, directly or indirectly, any device, scheme, or artifice to defraud in connection with the offer, purchase, or sale of any security; or to willfully engage, directly or indirectly, in any act, practice, or course of business which operates or would operate as a fraud or deceit on any person in connection with the offer, purchase, or sale of any security [Corp. Code § 25541]. The term "willfully," as used in Corp. Code § 25540, simply implies a purpose or willingness to commit the act or to make the omission in question. It does not require any intent to violate the law or to injure another person or to acquire any advantage. The California definition of "willfully" does not encompass guilty knowledge or criminal negligence, even under statutes patterned after or using language identical to federal statutes or regulations that do require guilty knowledge [People v. Baumgart (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 1207, 1219-1222, 267 Cal. Rptr. 534 ; People v. Johnson (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 1369, 1374-1376, 262 Cal. Rptr. 366] .

Thus, criminal liability exists for violation of the various qualification requirements or proceedings not in conformity with the terms of qualification--such as filing untruthful applications [see Corp. Code § 25166]; or for violations of conditions imposed on distributions by the Commissioner of Corporations--such as reselling securities in violation of legend restrictions imprinted thereon [see Corp. Code § 25133]. Broker-dealers, agents, and investment advisers, and persons operating in similar capacities, are also subject to various regulations concerning appropriate market conduct [see Corp. Code 25243, 25243.5, 25245, 25246].

A court may order a defendant found guilty of criminal violations of Corp. Code §§ 25110 and 25540 (selling securities without a permit) to make restitution if (1) restitution would serve a rehabilitative purpose, (2) the amount of restitution is supported by the factual record, and (3) defendant's conduct caused the victim's loss [People v. Baumgart (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 1207, 1222-1223, 267 Cal. Rptr. 534] . Corp. Code §§ 25110 and 25540 are "strict liability" offenses in the sense that it does not matter whether defendant knew a permit was required. Nevertheless, when there is a finding by the court that the defendant had a culpable state of mind, the rehabilitative function may be served [People v. Baumgart (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 1207, 1222-1224, 267 Cal. Rptr. 534] . The causation element is established if defendant's solicitation of the victim was a cause of the loss. The lack of permit does not have to be the proximate cause of the loss. If the defendant's solicitation was a cause of the victim's loss, the fact that fraud or mismanagement by others also caused the loss does not invalidate a restitution order [People v. Baumgart (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 1207, 1222-1224, 267 Cal. Rptr. 534] . Similarly, a defendant found guilty of criminal violations of Corp. Code §§ 25110 and 25540 may be ordered to make restitution of the full amount lost even though other people had a hand in causing the loss [see People v. Baumgart (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 1207, 1222-1224, 267 Cal. Rptr. 534 (dicta, inasmuch as defendant was only required to make restitution equal to 30 percent of losses)].

Violation of rules or orders promulgated by the Commissioner of Corporations is not punishable by imprisonment if the defendant proves he or she had no knowledge of such matters [Corp. Code § 25540].

B. Franchise Regulation
1. Offer And Sale Under The Franchise Investment Law

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.50

§ 515.50 Governing Law

[1] California

Investments in franchises are governed in California by the Franchise Investment Law [Corp. Code § 31000 et seq.]. If a franchise is subject to registration under the Franchise Investment Law or exempted from such registration either by rule of the Commissioner of Corporations [see Corp. Code § 31100] or under the seasoned franchisor exemption [see Corp. Code § 31101], it is not subject to the Corporate Securities Law of 1968 [Corp. Code § 25019; see People v. Kline (1980) 110 Cal. App. 3d 587, 168 Cal. Rptr. 185] . The Franchise Investment Law is administered through the Department of Corporations by the Commissioner of Corporations [see Corp. Code § 31502]. Departmental rules for processing franchise investments are contained in the California Code of Regulations [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 310.002-310.005].

Commercial loans made by franchisors (and subfranchisors) to current or prospective franchisees for the acquisition, construction, operation, development, equipping, expansion, contraction, consolidation, merger, recapitalization, reorganization, or termination of a franchised business are regulated by Fin. Code § 22063 [see § 515.65[1]].

[2] Federal

Federal cases in the past have found some franchises to be investment contracts and hence securities subject to regulation by the Securities and Exchange Commission [see, e.g., Lino v. City Inv. Co. (3rd Cir. [NJ] 1973) 487 F.2d 689, 692] . The Federal Trade Commission, however, has since assumed supervision of franchise sales through its power to prohibit unfair or deceptive acts or practices under the Federal Trade Commission Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 45; 16 C.F.R. §§ 436.1-436.3]. Although the commission's regulations are beyond the scope of this chapter, generally, they require a franchisor [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.2(c)] or franchise broker [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.2(j)], unless exempted, to furnish a prospective franchisee [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.2(d)] certain prescribed information in a writing at the earlier of the "time for making disclosures" [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.2(g)] or the first "personal meeting" [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.1(a)]. The regulations do not apply unless the franchise is advertised, offered, licensed, contracted, sold, or otherwise is promoted in or affects interstate commerce [16 C.F.R. § 436.1].

The following are also regulated under federal law:

- Oral, written, and visual representations that concern sales, income, or profits of existing or potential outlets [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.1(b)-(e)] or that contradict information contained in required disclosures [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.1(f)].

- The furnishing of the franchise agreement and related documents to the franchisee [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.1(g)].

- The franchisor's return of all refunds or deposits when required to do so in disclosures made to the franchisee [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.1(h)].

[3] Attempt to Waive Compliance Under California Law

Corp. Code § 31512 provides that any condition, stipulation, or provision purporting to bind anyone acquiring a franchise to waive compliance with any provision of the Franchise Investment Law or any rule or order thereunder is void. Corp. Code § 31512, however, has been held invalid as violating the Supremacy Clause of the United States Constitution to the extent that it requires judicial consideration of claims and resultant refusal to enforce an arbitration clause in a franchise agreement or related contract [Southland Corp. v Keating (1984) 465 U.S. 1, 10, 104 S. Ct. 852, 79 L. Ed. 2d 1 (overruling Keating v. Superior Court (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 584, 183 Cal. Rptr. 360, 645 P.2d 1192)].

[4] Exclusivity of Liability Provisions of Franchise Investment Law

Except as explicitly provided under the civil liability statutes of the Franchise Investment Law, no civil liability in favor of any private party arises against any person by implication from or as a result of the violation of any provision of that law or any rule or order thereunder. However, nothing in the civil liability sections limits any liability that would exist by virtue of any other statute or under common law if this law were not in effect [Corp. Code § 31306].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Franchise Regulation
1. Offer And Sale Under The Franchise Investment Law

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.51

§ 515.51 Definitions Under Franchise Investment Law

[1] "Franchise"

A "franchise" is any contract or agreement to which the following apply [Corp. Code § 31005(a); see Commissioner of Corporations Release No. 3-F (revised 1994)]:

- The franchisee is granted the right to engage in the business of offering, selling, or distributing goods or services under a marketing plan or system prescribed in substantial part by the franchisor;

- The operation of the business is substantially associated with franchisor's trademark, service mark, trade name, logotype, advertising, or other commercial symbol designating the franchisor or its affiliate; and

- The franchisee is required to pay, directly or indirectly, a franchise fee.

The presence of a prescribed marketing plan is considered crucial to the concept of a franchise. The Commissioner of Corporations has stated that the following elements in an agreement, alone or together, may suggest the presence of a marketing plan [see Commissioner of Corporations Release No. 3-F (revised 1994)]:

- Prescribing or limiting resale prices.

- Restricting the use of advertising or a mail order business.

- Requiring display racks.

- Giving detailed directions and advice concerning operating techniques.

- Assigning exclusive territory.
- Providing for uniformity or distinctiveness of appearance.
- Limiting sale of competitive products.
- Limiting use of products.
- Requiring approval of advertising and signs.
- Prohibiting and engaging in other activities.
- Providing training sessions.
- Assigning a contract.
- Using a manual.
- Providing trade secrets.

It is not a condition to the definition of a franchise that there be a fully prescribed, realized, detailed marketing plan or system at the time of the offer or sale; otherwise, a franchisor could circumvent the registration provisions of the Franchise Investment Law by selling or offering to sell a franchise but omitting a marketing plan or system until after the sale [see People v. Kline (1980) 110 Cal. App. 3d 587, 594-595, 168 Cal. Rptr. 185 (upholding the commissioner's guidelines in 1974 version of Release No. 3-F)].

Neither the Franchise Investment Law nor any decision of the Commissioner of Corporations defines or interprets the phrase "offering, selling, or distributing goods or services" [see Corp. Code § 31005(a)(1)]. One court has construed this phrase liberally, finding that it evidences an intention to designate alternative or separate categories. Thus, parties who could not enter into binding contracts or pass title to goods nevertheless were held to be franchisees. By operating independent businesses through which they solicited orders, demonstrated products, solved customer problems, installed the franchisor's systems, maintained contact with existing customers, generated new business, and provided ongoing service to customers, they were more than simply sales representatives [Gentis v. Safeguard Business Systems (1998) 60 Cal. App. 4th 1294, 1304-1305, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 122] .

[2] Nonprofit Retailers' Cooperatives Excluded

For purposes of Corp. Code §§ 31000-31516, the term "franchise" does not include a nonprofit organization operated on a cooperative basis by and for independent retailers that wholesales goods and services primarily to its member retailers and in which all of the following are applicable [Corp. Code § 31005(c)]:

- Control and ownership of each member is substantially equal;
- Membership is limited to those who will avail themselves of the services furnished by the organization;
- Transfer of ownership is prohibited or limited;
- Capital investment receives no return;

- Substantially equal benefits pass to members on the basis of patronage of the organization;

- Members are not personally liable for obligations of the organization in the absence of a direct undertaking or authorization by them;

- Services of the organization are furnished primarily for the use of the members;

- Each member and prospective member is provided with an offering circular that complies with the specifications of Corp. Code § 31111 (discussed under § 515.53[3]); and

- No part of the receipts, income, or profit of the organization is paid to any profitmaking entity, except for arms-length payments for necessary goods and services, and members are not required to purchase goods or services from any designated profitmaking entity.

The nonprofit organization is subject to an action for rescission or damages under Civ. Code § 3343.7 if the organization fraudulently induces the plaintiff to join the organization [Corp. Code § 31005(d)]. Under Civ. Code § 3343.7, "fraudulently induced" includes the failure to disclose all information required under Corp. Code § 31005(c)(8) or 31111, unless the defendant proves that the plaintiff know the facts concerning the untruth or omission or that the defendant exercised reasonable care and did not know (or, if the defendant had exercised reasonable care, would not have known) of the untruth or omission [Civ. Code § 3343.7]. The plaintiff is entitled to rescission of a membership contract entered into, or for damages sustained, as a consequence of being fraudulently induced to join the organization [Civ. Code § 3343.7].

[3] "Area Franchise"

The term "franchise" also includes (except as specifically stated otherwise in the law) an "area franchise" and a "subfranchise" [Corp. Code § 31010; § 515.51[8] for a definition of that term]. An area franchise is any franchise between a franchisor and a franchisee whereby the franchisee is granted the right to operate more than one unit within a specified geographic area [Corp. Code § 31008].

[4] Petroleum Products Franchises

The term "franchise" also includes a contract between (1) a refiner and either a distributor or a retailer, or (2) a distributor and either another distributor or a retailer. In either instance the refiner or distributor authorizes or permits the distributor or retailer to use a trademark in connection with the sale, consignment, or distribution of motor fuel. The trademark is owned or controlled by the refiner, or by a refiner that supplies motor fuel to the distributor that authorizes or permits its use [Corp. Code § 31005(b)(1), (2)].

The term "franchise" includes a contract under which a retailer or distributor is authorized or permitted to occupy leased marketing premises, which are to be employed in connection with the sale, consignment, or distribution of motor fuel under a trademark. The trademark is owned or controlled by the refiner, or by a refiner that supplies motor fuel to the distributor that authorizes or permits the occupancy. The term includes a contract pertaining to the supply of motor fuel to be sold, consigned, or distributed under a trademark owned or controlled by a refiner, or under certain contracts existing continuously from an earlier time. The term includes the unexpired portion of franchise properly transferred or assigned [see 15 U.S.C. § 2801(1)(B)].

The availability of an exemption from registration requirements for seasoned petroleum franchisors is discussed under § 515.54[2]. For discussion of other special regulatory law applicable to petroleum products franchises, see § 515.110 et seq.

[5] "Franchisor" and "Franchisee"

A "franchisor" is the one who grants a franchise [Corp. Code § 31007], and the "franchisee" is the one to whom the franchise is granted [Corp. Code § 31006].

[6] "Franchise Fee"

A "franchise fee" is any fee or charge that a franchisee or subfranchisor is required to pay or agrees to pay for the right to enter into a business under a franchise agreement. The term includes any payment for goods and services. It does not include the purchase, or agreement to purchase, goods at a bona fide wholesale price if no obligation is imposed on the purchaser to buy or pay for a quantity of the goods in excess of that which a reasonable businessperson normally would purchase by way of starting--or maintaining a going--inventory or supply. Nor does the term include the payment of a reasonable service charge to the issuer of a credit card by an establishment accepting or honoring the card, nor amounts paid to a trading stamp company [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 17750] by one issuing such stamps in connection with the retail sale of merchandise or service [Corp. Code § 31011].

The franchise law defines a franchise fee as a fee paid for the right to do business. A person is not a franchisee if the person does not invest anything in return for the right to enter into business with or for a so-called franchisor, makes no required contribution of capital, makes no unrecoverable investment in the so-called franchisor, is not required to purchase any inventory, is not required to purchase services from the so-called franchisor in order to become a dealer, and places none of his or her own funds, even the de minimis amounts required under the franchise law, at risk in exchange for a dealership. Ordinary business expenses paid during the course of business cannot be counted as a franchise fee [Thueson v. U Haul Internat., Inc. (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 664, 676, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 669] .

Examples of franchise fees, in the opinion of the Commissioner of Corporations, include the following [see Commissioner of Corporations Release No. 3-F (revised 1994)]:

- A performance guarantee or deposit.
- A deposit of money.
- An initial or set-up fee.
- A fee for advertising.
- A nonrefundable bookkeeping charge.
- A payment for training and school expenses.
- A royalty or percentage of gross receipts.
- Charges for sales kits, brochures, programs, forms, decals, shirts, displays, and announcements.
- A rental or lease fee.
- Payment for services, such as consulting or management fees.

[7] "Offers" and "Sales"

"Sale" or "sell" under the Franchise Investment Law includes every contract or agreement of sale of, contract to sell, or disposition of, a franchise or interest therein for value. "Offer" or "offer to sell" includes every attempt to dispose of, or any solicitation of an offer to buy, a franchise or interest therein for value. These terms do not include the renewal or extension of an existing franchise if there is no interruption in the operation of the franchised business by the franchisee. However, a material modification of an existing franchise, whether on renewal or otherwise, does constitute a sale [Corp. Code § 31018].

[8] "Subfranchise"

The term "subfranchise" means any contract or agreement between a franchisor and a subfranchisor whereby the subfranchisor is granted the right, for consideration given in whole or in part for that right, to sell or negotiate the sale of franchises in the name or in behalf of the franchisor. A contract or agreement that is a franchise does not become a subfranchise merely because under its terms a person is granted the right to receive compensation for referral to a franchisor or subfranchisor or to receive compensation for action as a sales representative on their behalf [Corp. Code § 31008.5]. If an agreement with a distributor constitutes a franchise, the distributor's agreement granting to a sub-distributor the right to appoint lower level sub-distributors for a consideration is a subfranchise, which is also subject to the registration requirement of Corp. Code § 31110. Thus, the same agreement may constitute both a franchise and a subfranchise, which means that a person may be both a franchisee and a subfranchisor under the same agreement. However, the definition of subfranchise does not require the subfranchisor to also be a franchisee and the agreement constituting a subfranchise may be a totally separate and independent agreement [see Commissioner of Corporations Release No. 3-F (revised 1994)].

The law is also designed to prohibit the sale of a franchise if it would lead to fraud or a likelihood that the franchisor's promises would not be fulfilled, and to protect the franchisor and franchisee by providing a better understanding of the business relationship between the franchisor and franchisee [*Corp. 1. Offer And Sale Under The Franchise Investment Law

§ 515.53 Registration of Offers and Sales in California

[1] Requirement

It is necessary to register a franchise before offering or selling it in California, unless the franchise is exempt from registration [Corp. Code § 31110; see § 515.54]. If the offer or sale of the franchise is made in California, a choice of some other law in the franchise agreement will not render California's Franchise Investment Law inapplicable. The choice of law provision will only govern construction and interpretation of the franchise agreement [Dollar Systems v. Avcar Leasing Systems (9th Cir. 1989) 890 F.2d 165, 171 (applying California law)].

[2] When California Law Applies

An offer or sale of a franchise is made in California when (1) an offer to sell is made in California, (2) an offer to buy is accepted in California, or (3) if the franchisee is domiciled in California, the franchised business is or will be operated in California [Corp. Code § 31013(a)].

An offer to sell is made in California when the offer either originates in California or is directed into California by the offeror and received at the place to which it is directed [Corp. Code § 31013(b)]. For example, the sale of a franchise to a nonresident franchisee to operate entirely outside California was "sold in California" because negotiations and execution of the agreement occurred in California and payments were made in California [Dollar Systems v. Avcar Leasing Systems (9th Cir. 1989) 890 F.2d 165, 171-172 (applying California law)]. An offer to sell is accepted in California when acceptance is communicated to the offeror in California. Acceptance is communicated when the offeree directs it to the offeror in California, reasonably believing that person to be in California, and it is received at the place to which it is directed [Corp. Code § 31013(b)]. An offer to sell is not made in California merely because the publisher circulates (or on whose behalf there is circulated) in California a bona fide newspaper or other publication of general, regular, and paid circulation that has had more than two thirds of its circulation outside California during the past 12 months. Nor is such an offer made in California merely because a radio or television program originating outside California is received in California [Corp. Code § 31013(c)].

[3] Registration Procedure

Registration of an offer is made by filing an application with the Commissioner of Corporations on the Uniform Franchise Registration Application (of the North American Securities Administrators Association, Inc.), as identified, modified, and supplemented by rule of the commissioner [Corp. Code § 31111(a); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111 ("Uniform Franchise Registration Application" means information required from applicant in accordance with the Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document Guidelines, as adopted by NASAA in 2007)]. The application must be accompanied by the proposed offering prospectus, which must contain the material information disclosed in the application [Corp. Code § 31114].

[4] Notification of Material Change

A franchisor must notify the commissioner promptly in writing, by an application to amend the registration, of any material change in the information contained in the application as originally submitted, amended, or renewed [Corp. Code § 31123].

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.54

§ 515.54 Exemption From Registration

[1] Seasoned Franchisors

Offers and sales of franchises by seasoned franchisors, as described below, are exempted from the registration and related requirements of the Franchise Investment Law if the franchisor meets certain net worth, experience, disclosure, and notice filing requirements. A franchisor (and, when necessary, a parent corporation that owns at least 80 percent of the franchisor) must have a net worth, according to its financial statements for the fiscal year just ended, or in the case of audited statements, ended within 15 months of the fiscal year end date, of either (1) not less than $5 million on a consolidated basis according to an audited financial statement; or (2) not less than $1 million if its parent has a net worth of not less than $5 million according to audited financial statements of the franchisor and the parent; or (3) not less than $1 million according to its unaudited financial statement if its parent (a) has a net worth on a consolidated basis of not less than $5 million according to its audited financial statements and (b) unconditionally guarantees to assume the franchisor's duties and obligation under the franchise agreement [Corp. Code § 31101(a)].

To satisfy the experience requirements, the franchisor or a parent corporation that owns at least 80 percent of the franchisor must have complied with one or more of the following conditions throughout the five-year period immediately preceding the offer and sale of the franchise [Corp. Code § 31101(b)]:

- The franchisor has had at least 25 franchisees conducting business that is the subject of the franchise.
- The franchisor has conducted business that is the subject of the franchise.
- The parent has had at least 25 franchisees conducting business that is the subject of the franchise.
- The parent has conducted business that is the subject of the franchise.

The exemption criteria are met by compliance with one of the preceding conditions during part of the five-year period and one or more of those conditions during the balance of the period [Corp. Code § 31101(b)].

The franchisor must also make certain required disclosures in writing to each prospective franchisee at least 10 business days prior to either the franchisee's execution of any binding franchise or other agreement or to the receipt of any consideration. The disclosures must include basic information identifying the franchisor, its business background, a copy of the franchise agreement, fees or payments to come from the franchisee, conditions for effectively terminating the franchise, required purchases and limitations on merchandising, details of financing arrangements, documentation of projected franchise earnings, and a statement as to the exclusivity of the franchise territory [Corp. Code § 31101(c)(1)]. The franchisor must also provide the prospective franchisee with copies of the financial statements used to meet the net worth criteria for the exemption and, if applicable, a copy of the unconditional guarantee required by Corp. Code § 31101(a)(3) [Corp. Code § 31101(c)(1)(O), (P)].

Finally, the franchisor must file a notice of exemption with the commissioner and pay the fee required by Corp. Code § 31500(f) prior to an offer or sale of a franchise in California during any calendar year in which one or more franchises are sold, excluding any material modification [Corp. Code § 31101(d); see also Corp. Code § 31101(c)(2) (requirements of material modification of existing franchise)].

If there is to be a material modification of an existing franchise, the seasoned franchisor must disclose information in writing to each franchisee concerning the specific sections of the franchise agreement proposed to be modified and any additional information that may be required by rule or by order by of the commissioner. Agreement to the modifications is not binding on the franchisee if, within 10 business days after receipt of the writing identifying the material modifications (that is, after the writing is delivered to the franchisee), the franchisee notifies the franchisor in writing that the franchise agreement is rescinded. The franchisee's notice of rescission is effective when delivered to the franchisor or when deposited in the mail, postage prepaid, addressed to the franchisor in accordance with any notice provisions in the franchise agreement, or when delivered or mailed to a person designated in the agreement to receive notices for the franchisor [Corp. Code § 31101(c)(2)].

[2] Seasoned Petroleum Products Franchisors

There is a special registration exemption for a seasoned petroleum corporation or distributor [§ 515.51[4]]. A "seasoned petroleum products franchisor" is a wholesale distributor or marketer of petroleum products who has been doing business continuously for the past five years and who neither requires an advance of funds in the nature of a fee or lease for such franchise agreements nor engages in the production or refining of petroleum. The franchisor must also comply with the requirements applicable to other seasoned franchisors under Corp. Code § 31101(c) and (d) [Corp. Code § 31104(a), (b); see § 515.54[1]].

A "wholesale distributor" or "marketer" is an entity that, for wholesale, purchases or receives through transfer, or obtains, by consignment or otherwise, refined petroleum products and resells or otherwise transfers the products without substantially changing their form to other purchasers. An "advance of funds" is a fee or lease for a franchise agreement. The term does not include rent for the possession or use, or both, of premises or property, the purchase of inventory for resale or supplies, utility deposits, and other consideration or expenditures for the formation or operation, or both, of a wholesale distributor or marketer entity [Corp. Code § 31104(c)].

[3] Resale by Franchisee or Subfranchisor

The offer or sale of a franchise by a franchisee for the franchisee's own account, or the offer or sale of an entire area franchise owned by a subfranchisor for the subfranchisor's own account, is exempt from registration if the sale is not effected by or through a franchisor. A sale is not considered effected by or through a franchisor merely because a franchisor has a right to approve or disapprove a different franchisee [Corp. Code § 31102]. Sale by the franchisee of all the shares in a particular franchise--although the franchisee also owned all the shares of the franchisor and the franchisor facilitated the sale but did not receive itself any proceeds of the sale--has been construed as a sale by the franchisee exempt from registration under the Franchise Investment Law [see Fox v. Ehrmantraut (1980) 28 Cal. 3d 127, 142, 167 Cal. Rptr. 595, 615 P.2d 1383] .

[4] Other Statutory Exemptions

Franchise registration requirements do not apply to bank credit card plans by regulated banks or certain of their holding companies or bank subsidiaries [Corp. Code § 31103]. Those requirements also do not apply to any offer, sale, or other transfer of a franchise (or any interest) to a non-California resident if all locations from which sales, leases, or other transactions between the franchised business and its customers are made, or goods or services are distributed, are physically located outside of California [Corp. Code § 31105]. An exemption from franchise registration requirements also applies to a prospective franchisee with financial and operational experience in a similar business [Corp. Code § 31106]. Certain offers (but not sales) by a franchisor during pendency of an application for renewal or amendment are exempt [Corp. Code § 31107].

An offer or sale of a franchise is also exempt from franchise registration requirements if the franchise involves the adding of a new product or service line to the existing business of a prospective franchisee, and all of the following requirements are met [Corp. Code § 31108]:

- The prospective franchisee has been engaged for at least the last 24 months before the sale in a business offering substantially similar products or services.

- The new product or service is substantially similar to that of the prospective franchisee's existing business.

- The franchised business is to be operated from the same business location as the prospective franchisee's existing business.

- At the time of the agreement establishing the franchise relationship, the parties anticipated in good faith that sales will not represent more than 20 percent of the total sales in dollar volume of the franchisee on an annual basis.

- The prospective franchisee is not controlled by the franchisor.

- The franchisor files a notice of exemption and pays the required fee [see Corp. Code § 31500(f)] before an offer or sale of the franchise in California during any calendar year in which one or more of those franchises are sold.

An offer or sale of a franchise to experienced purchasers is also exempt from franchise registration requirements if all of following requirements are met [Corp. Code § 31109]:

- Every purchaser of the franchise is either a partner, executive officer, or director of the franchisor; an entity with total assets exceeding $5,000,000; a natural person whose net worth exceeds $1,000,000; a natural person whose gross income exceeds $300,000; or an entity in which all equity owners meet one of the above conditions.

- Every purchaser has knowledge and experience in financial and business matters, with the capacity to evaluate the merits and risks of the franchise investment.

- Every purchaser purchases the franchise for the purchaser's own account.

- The immediate cash payment required from a natural person does not exceed 10 percent of that person's net worth.

- The franchisor files a notice of exemption and pays the required fee [see Corp. Code § 31500(f)] before an offer or sale of the franchise in California during any calendar year in which one or more these franchises are sold.

Also exempted from registration requirements is the offer and sale of a franchise registered under Corp. Code §§ 31111, 31121, or 31123 on terms different from the terms of the offered registered if the prospective franchisee receives information regarding each material negotiated term [see Corp. Code § 31109.1].

For a detailed discussion of these exemptions, see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 40, Registration of Franchises Under the California Investment Franchise Law, § 40.05 (Matthew Bender).

[5] Exemptions by Rule of Commissioner

The commissioner may also exempt by rule franchise transactions that are found to be not comprehended within the purposes of the Franchise Investment Law and their registration is found not necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors [Corp. Code § 31100]. Under this power, the commissioner has exempted offerings that would require registration only because of a franchise fee which does not exceed a prescribed annual fee [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.011] or payments for equipment or fixtures that do not exceed prescribed annual charges if the charges are no more than competitive costs for the items [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.011.1].

Negotiated sales are also exempted by the commissioner from the ordinary registration requirements. "Negotiated sales" are sales to franchisees with sufficient business or financial experience to protect their own interests on terms that have been specially negotiated after an initial offer is registered by the filing of the application pursuant to Corp. Code § 31111. Even then, specified items, such as fees and territories, cannot differ from those in the registered offer unless the franchisee (1) has a net worth of at least $1 million (excluding home, home furnishings, and automobiles), or (2) an annual income of $200,000 in the preceding two years and anticpates annual income of $200,000 in the current year, or (3) owned at least 50 percent of a business of the type subject to the offer during the 36 months immediately preceding the offer. There are other specific certifications and legends that must be included in the registered offer in order to qualify for the negotiated sale exemption, and a notice of negotiated sale, in a form specified by the commissioner, must be filed with the commissioner within 15 business days after such a sale is consummated [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.100.2].

The commissioner also has granted an exemption from registration for any communication made through the Internet, World Wide Web, or any other similar proprietary or common carrier electronic delivery system, of an offer to sell a franchise ("Internet offer"), provided all of the following conditions are met [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.100.3(a)]:

- The Internet offer indicates, directly or indirectly, that the franchise is not being offered to the residents of the State of California.

- The internet offer is not otherwise directed to any person in California by or on behalf of the franchisor or anyone acting with the franchisor's knowledge.

- No franchises are sold in California by or on behalf of the franchisor until the offering has been registered under the Franchise Investment Law and declared effective, and the Uniform Franchise Offering Circular (UFOC) has been delivered to the offeree before the sale and in compliance with the Franchise Investment Law.

Reliance on an exemption from registration under this rule does not preclude a franchisor from relying on any other exemption provided under the Franchise Investment Law or the rules promulgated thereunder [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.100.3(b)].

[6] Burden of Proof

In any proceeding under the Franchise Investment Law, the burden of proving an exemption or exception from a definition is on the person claiming it [Corp. Code § 31153].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Franchise Regulation
1. Offer And Sale Under The Franchise Investment Law

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.55

§ 515.55 Regulation of Franchise Sales

[1] Presale Delivery of Offering Circular

A franchise that must be registered may not be sold in California unless the prospective franchisee is first provided with a copy of the offering circular, together with a copy of all proposed agreements relating to the sale. These papers must be delivered at least 14 days before the franchisee's execution of any binding franchise or other agreement, or 14 days before receipt of any consideration, whichever first occurs [Corp. Code § 31119(a)]. Nothing in the Franchise Investment Law will be construed to prevent a franchisor from providing copies of the offering circular documents to prospective franchisees through electronic means pursuant to any requirements or conditions that may be imposed by rule or order of the commissioner [Corp. Code § 31119(b)].

A franchisor may provide copies of the offering circular documents to prospective franchisees through electronic means pursuant to any requirements or conditions that may be imposed by rule or order of the commissioner [Corp. Code § 31119(b)].

[2] Disclosure Exemption for Sophisticated Investors

Effective January 1, 2005, any offer or sale of a franchise is exempt from the disclosure provisions of the Franchise Investment Law under a "sophisticated investor" exemption [see Corp. Code § 31110 et seq.] if it meets all of the requirements set out below [Corp. Code § 31109].

Each and every purchaser of the franchise must be one of the following:

- An entity, all of the equity owners of which are persons or entities described in the following four items [Corp. Code § 31109(a)(5)].

- Any partner, executive officer, or director of the franchisor, or any executive officer of its corporate general partner if the franchisor is a partnership, or any manager if the franchisor is a limited liability company [Corp. Code § 31109(a)(1)].

- Any natural person whose net worth, or joint net worth with the person's spouse, exceeds $1,000,000 at the time of purchase of the franchise, excluding the value of the person's personal residence, any and all retirement or pension plan accounts or benefits, home furnishings, and automobiles [Corp. Code § 31109(a)(3)].

- Any natural person whose gross income exceeds $300,000 per year in each of the two most recent years, or whose joint gross income with the person's spouse exceeds $500,000 per year in each of those years, and who reasonably expects to reach the same income level in the current year [Corp. Code § 31109(a)(4)].

- Any entity with total assets exceeding $5,000,000 according to its most recent financial statements and not specifically formed for the purpose of acquiring the franchise offered [Corp. Code § 31109(a)(2)].

The financial statements referred to in the preceding item must meet both of the following requirements [Corp. Code § 31109(a)(2)]:

- Be prepared as of a date not more than 90 days before the earlier of either the date on which the first prospective purchaser signs any binding franchise or other agreement with the franchisor in connection with the award of the franchise, or the date on which the franchisor receives any consideration from the first prospective purchaser in connection with the award of the franchise.

- Be prepared in accordance with either (1) generally accepted accounting principles and, if the entity has consolidated subsidiaries, on a consolidated basis, or (2) the rules and requirements of the Securities and Exchange Commission, whether or not required by law to be prepared in accordance with those rules and requirements.

For purposes of the foregoing tests, "entity" means an organization described in I.R.C. § 501(c)(3), a corporation, a Massachusetts or similar business trust, a limited liability company, or a partnership [Corp. Code § 31109(a)(2)]. For discussion of how a court may be expected to deal with the reference to generally accepted accounting principles, see Ch. 165, Corporations: Corporate Records and Reports, § 165.25[2].

Each and every purchaser of the franchise must have knowledge and experience in financial and business matters, either alone or with professional advisers of the purchaser who are unaffiliated with, and not directly or indirectly compensated by, the franchisor or an affiliate or selling agent of the franchisor, such that the franchisor reasonably believes, based on reasonable inquiry before the sale, that each and every purchaser has the capacity to evaluate the merits and risks of, and protect their own interests in, the franchise investment [Corp. Code § 31109(b)].

Each and every purchaser of the franchise must purchase the franchise for the purchaser's own account, or a trust account if the purchaser is a trustee, for the purpose of conducting the business as a franchise and not with a view to, or for a sale in connection with, any resale or distribution of the franchise or any interest in the franchise [Corp. Code § 31109(c)].

The immediate cash payment required from a purchaser of the franchise who is a natural person, on the purchase of the franchise, must not exceed 10 percent of that person's net worth or joint net worth with the person's spouse, exclusive of the person's personal residence, any and all retirement or pension accounts or benefits, home furnishings, and automobiles [Corp. Code § 31109(d)].

The franchisor must file with the commissioner a notice of exemption and pay a prescribed fee before any offer or sale of a franchise in California for which the exemption is claimed during any calendar year in which one or more franchises are sold, excluding any material modification [Corp. Code § 31109(e)].

No franchisor or any of its officers, directors, employees, or agents may form, organize, engage, or assist any person to purchase a franchise for resale or distribution to avoid the registration disclosure requirements of the Franchise Investment Law [Corp. Code § 31109(f)].

[3] Alternative Disclosure for Variance From Registered Terms

The offer and sale of a registered franchise on terms different from the terms of the offer registered under Corp. Code § 31111, 31121, or 31123 is exempt from the disclosure provisions of the Franchise Investment Law [see Corp. Code § 31110 et seq.] if all of the following requirements are met [Corp. Code § 31109.1(a)]. The franchisor must certify or declare in an appendix to its application for renewal that it has complied with all of the requirements set out below, in the event this exemption is claimed [Corp. Code § 31109.1(a)(3)].

The initial offer must be the offer registered under Corp. Code § 31111, 31121, or 31123 [Corp. Code § 31109.1(a)(1)].

The prospective franchisee must receive all of the following in a separate written appendix to the offering circular [Corp. Code § 31109.1(a)(2)]:

- A summary description of each material negotiated term that was negotiated by the franchisor for a California franchise during the 12-month period ending in the calendar month immediately preceding the month in which the negotiated offer or sale is made under Section 31109.1.

- A statement indicating that copies of the negotiated terms are available on written request.

- The name, telephone number, and address of the representative of the franchisor to whom requests for a copy of the negotiated terms may be obtained.

The commissioner may prescribe by rule or order the format and content of the summary description of the negotiated terms [Corp. Code § 31109.1(c)].

The negotiated terms, on the whole, must confer additional benefits on the franchisee [Corp. Code § 31109.1(a)(4)].

The franchisor must provide a copy of the negotiated terms described above to the prospective franchisee within five business days following the request of the franchisee [Corp. Code § 31109.1(b)].

The franchisor must maintain copies of all material negotiated terms for which this exemption is claimed for a period of five years from the effective date of the first agreement containing the relevant negotiated term. "Material" means that a reasonable franchisee would view the terms as important in negotiating the franchise. On the commissioner's request, the franchisor must make the copies available to the commissioner for review [Corp. Code § 31109.1(c), (d)].

[4] Franchise Modification

Except as discussed below, it is unlawful to solicit the agreement of a franchisee to a proposed material modification of an existing franchise without first delivering to the franchisee a written disclosure as the commissioner may prescribe. The delivery must be made five business days prior to the execution of any binding agreement by the franchisee to the modification; otherwise, the disclosure must state that the franchisee, by written notice mailed or delivered to the franchisor or a specified agent within not less than five business days following the execution of the agreement, may rescind the agreement to the proposed modification [Corp. Code § 31125(b)].

Any modification of a franchise agreement with an existing franchisee of a franchisor is exempt from the disclosure provisions of the Franchise Investment Law [see Corp. Code § 31110 et seq.] if the modification is offered on a voluntary basis and does not substantially and adversely impact the franchisee's rights, benefits, privileges, duties, obligations, or responsibilities under the franchise agreement [Corp. Code § 31125(d)].

Any modification of a franchise agreement with an existing franchisee of a franchisor is exempt from those disclosure provisions if all of the following requirements are met [Corp. Code § 31125(c)]:

- The franchisee must receive the complete written modification at least five business days before the execution of a binding agreement, or providing that the franchisee, by written notice mailed or delivered to the franchisor or a specified agent of the franchisor within not less than five business days following the execution of the agreement, may rescind the agreement to the material modification [Corp. Code § 31125(c)(1)].

- The agreement must not be executed within 12 months after the date of the franchise agreement [Corp. Code § 31125(c)(1)(A)].

- The modification must not waive any right of the franchisee under the Franchise Relations Act [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 20000 et seq.]; however, the modification may include a general release of all known and unknown claims by a party to the modification [Corp. Code § 31125(c)(1)(B)].

- The modification must meet one of the following tests [Corp. Code § 31125(c)(2)]:

  - The proposed modification is in connection with the resolution of a bona fide dispute between the franchisor and the franchisee or the resolution of a claimed or actual franchisee or franchisor default, and the modification is not applied on a franchise system-wide basis at or about the time the modification is executed. A modification will not be deemed to be made on a franchise system-wide basis if it is offered on a voluntary basis to fewer than 25 percent of the franchisor's California franchises within any 12-month period [Corp. Code § 31125(c)(2)(A); see Corp. Code § 31125(e) (definition of "California franchise")]; or

  - The proposed modification is offered on a voluntary basis to fewer than 25 percent of the franchisor's California franchises within any 12-month period, provided each franchisee is given a right to rescind the modification agreement if the modification is not made in compliance with the first three requirements above [Corp. Code § 31125(c)(2)(B)].

A franchisor must not make modifications in consecutive years for the purpose of evading the 25 percent requirements set forth above [Corp. Code § 31125(f)]. "California franchise" for these purposes means either (1) an existing franchise of a franchisee with any location in California from which sales, leases, or other transactions between the franchised business and its customers are made or goods or services are distributed, or (2) an existing franchise of a franchisee that is a resident of California and that owns, controls, or has an equity interest in the franchise [Corp. Code § 31125(e)]. Further, any modification of a franchise agreement with an existing franchise of a franchisee will be exempted from the provisions of Corp. Code § 31110 et seq. if the modification is offered on a voluntary basis and does not substantially and adversely impact the franchisee's rights, benefits, privileges, duties, obligations, or responsibilities under the franchise agreement [Corp. Code § 31125(d)].

[5] Marketing Personnel

The only persons entitled to effect sales of franchises in California are the people identified in an application for registration of a franchise, licensed real estate brokers or salespersons, and licensed securities broker-dealers or regulated agents [Corp. Code § 31210].

B. Franchise Regulation
1. Offer And Sale Under The Franchise Investment Law

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.56

§ 515.56 Duties of the Commissioner of Corporations

[1] Administrative Processing

Supervision and regulation of franchise investments is handled by the Commissioner of Corporations [see Corp. Code §§ 31004, 31502] through the Department of Corporations [see § 515.16]. The commissioner may impose escrow or impound conditions after an application for registration has been made if the commissioner finds that these conditions are required because the applicant has failed to demonstrate adequate financial arrangements for providing real estate, improvements, equipment, inventory, training, or other items promised. At the franchisor's option, a surety bond may be furnished instead [Corp. Code § 31113]. Registration becomes effective automatically after a prescribed interval unless the commissioner has issued a stop order [Corp. Code §§ 31115, 31116].

For a detailed discussion of the administrative processing of a franchise offering, along with appropriate implementing forms, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 51, Franchise Agreements, and Ch. 51A, Franchise Registration (Matthew Bender).

[2] Enforcement

The commissioner has broad powers to enforce the provisions of the Franchise Investment Law. The commissioner may impose protective restrictions on offerings [Corp. Code § 31113], carry out investigative hearings [Corp. Code § 31401], initiate injunctive proceedings, including claims for ancillary relief, such as restitution and disgorgement or damages on behalf of injured persons [Corp. Code § 31400], and issue stop orders denying, suspending, or revoking the effectiveness of any registration [Corp. Code § 31115]. The commissioner may issue desist and refrain orders whenever the commissioner, on inspection or investigation, based on a complaint or otherwise, has cause to believe that a person is violating any provision of the Franchise Investment Law or any rule or order promulgated pursuant to that law [Corp. Code § 31406(a)]. This is specifically authorized with respect to persons who effect or attempt to effect franchise sales without being properly identified in an application on file with the commissioner or being properly licensed [Corp. Code §§ 31210, 31211], or without having either registered the franchise [Corp. Code § 31402] or complied with the conditions for exemption [Corp. Code § 31403] when such registration or compliance is required in the commissioner's

The commissioner may assess, and obtain a judgment for, an administrative penalty whenever the commissioner issues a desist and refrain order to a person who is violating any provision of the Franchise Investment Law or any rule or order promulgated pursuant to that law [Corp. Code § 31406(a), (e)].

If, after examination or investigation, the commissioner has reasonable grounds to believe that any person is conducting business in violation of any provision of the Franchise Investment Law or related rule or order binding on it, the commissioner may, by written order addressed to the person, direct the discontinuance of the violation [Corp. Code § 31407(a)].

To enhance the efficient administration and enforcement of the Franchise Investment Law, it is the intent of the Legislature that the commissioner maintain a risk-based process of reviewing franchise applications. That process involves reviewing application information representing the greatest risk to prospective franchisees in accordance with Corp. Code § 31115, with emphasis on risks associated with the franchisor's financial condition and compliance record, and significant deficiencies with the franchisor's application [Corp. Code § 31001.1(a), (b)].

If the commissioner determines it is in the public interest, the commissioner may include in any administrative action brought under the Franchise Investment Law (including a stop order) a claim for ancillary relief, including, but not limited to, a claim for rescission, restitution or disgorgement, or damages on behalf of the persons injured by the act or practice constituting the subject matter of the action. An administrative law judge has jurisdiction to award additional relief. The person affected may be required to attend remedial education, as directed by the commissioner [Corp. Code § 31408(a)].

[3] Review of Administrative Acts

Franchisors may by written request call for a hearing on any stop order within 15 days after receiving notice of an action; otherwise, it remains in effect until modified or vacated [Corp. Code § 31117]. Similar action may be taken with respect to advertising cited as fraudulent [Corp. Code § 31157]. If a desist and refrain order has issued, a hearing must be commenced within 15 days of written request by the franchisor (unless postponed by consent) or else the orders are rescinded. All such hearings are by regular administrative tribunal, although the parties may mutually arrange a hearing before the Department of Corporations by an independent hearing officer instead. After such a hearing, the franchisor is not entitled to any further administrative remedy [Corp. Code § 31513]. All final acts of the Commissioner of Corporations are subject to judicial review [Corp. Code § 31501].

For procedure and forms applicable to administrative hearing and review, see Ch. 473, Public Agency Adjudication , through Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions .

§ 515.58 Material Misrepresentations Under Franchise Investment Law

[1] Generally

Material misrepresentation in connection with the registering of a franchise, securing an exemption from registration, or offering or selling a franchise are prohibited under the Franchise Investment Law. Liability for these forms of misrepresentation as well as the various defenses and limitations periods that apply to them are discussed in § 515.59.

[2] Misrepresentation in Documents Filed With Commissioner

It is unlawful for any person to do any of the following [Corp. Code § 31200; see § 515.53; for a discussion of the ambiguity of this provision, see § 515.452]:

- Willfully make any untrue statement of a material fact in any application, notice, or report filed with the Commissioner of Corporations under the Franchise Investment Law;

- Willfully omit to state in any such application, notice, or report any material fact which is required to be stated therein; or

- Fail to notify the commissioner of any material change as required by Corp. Code § 31123.

[3] Misrepresentation in Offers or Sales

It is unlawful for any person to offer or sell a franchise in California by means of any written or oral communication not listed in Corp. Code § 31200 [see § 515.58[1]] which includes an untrue statement of a material fact or omits a material fact that is necessary in order to make the statements made, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading [Corp. Code § 31201].

[4] Misrepresentation in Seasoned Franchisor's Disclosures

It is unlawful for any person to willfully make any untrue statement of a material fact in any statement required to be disclosed in writing pursuant to the disclosure requirements for seasoned franchisor exemptions under Corp. Code § 31101 [see § 515.54[1]] or to willfully omit to state in any such statement any material fact which is required to be stated therein [Corp. Code § 31202].

§ 515.59 Liability for Violation of Registration or Exemption Requirements

[1] Generally

Any person who offers or sells a franchise (1) in violation of any provision of the Franchise Investment Law that provides an exemption from all or any of the disclosure provisions of that law [see Corp. Code § 31110 et seq.; discussion under § 515.55], or (2) in violation of the following registration or exemption requirements is liable to the franchisee or subfranchisor. The plaintiff may sue for damages caused by the violation, and, if the violation is willful, the franchisee may also sue for rescission. The particular statutory violations are the following [Corp. Code § 31300; see Neptune Society Corp. v. Longanecker (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 1233, 1244-1245, 240 Cal. Rptr. 117 (sufficient evidence that violation was willful)]:

- Corp. Code § 31101 [see § 515.54[1], and see § 515.450].
- Corp. Code § 31110 [see § 515.53, and see § 515.450].
- Corp. Code § 31119 [see § 515.55].
- Corp. Code § 31200 [see § 515.58[2], and see § 515.451].
- Corp. Code § 31202 [see § 515.58[3], and see § 515.451].

If the offer or sale of the franchise is made in California, a choice of some other law in the franchise agreement will not render California's Franchise Investment Law inapplicable, and thus does not defeat the franchisee's right to rescission. The choice of law provision only governs construction and interpretation of the franchise agreement [Dollar Systems v. Avcar Leasing Systems (9th Cir. 1989) 890 F.2d 165, 171 (applying California law)].

The term "willful" as used in Corp. Code § 31300 means an act that is committed knowingly and intentionally. There is no requirement of a showing of an intent to violate the law, an evil motive, or a purpose to gain undue advantage. Good faith or reasonable care are not defenses to willfulness under Corp. Code § 31300, except to a limited extent in the case of violations of Corp. Code §§ 31200 and 31202 [Dollar Systems v. Avcar Leasing Systems (9th Cir. 1989) 890 F.2d 165, 172-173 (applying California law); see People v. Gonda (1982) 138 Cal. App. 3d 774, 779, 188 Cal. Rptr. 295 (similar construction of "willful" under criminal provision, Corp. Code § 31410)]. In cases of violations of Corp. Code §§ 31200 and 31202, the defendant may prove that plaintiff knew the facts concerning the omission or untruth, or that the defendant exercised reasonable care and did not know, or if the defendant had exercised reasonable care, would not have known, of the untruth or omission [Corp. Code § 31300; Dollar Systems v. Avcar Leasing Systems (9th Cir. 1989) 890 F.2d 165, 172] . Thus, violations of Corp. Code §§ 31101, 31110, 31119 (for example, a failure to file notice of exemption or to register the offering or a failure to disclose material facts concerning the franchisor) are willful even if the defendant did not know the requirements of the California law [Dollar Systems v. Avcar Leasing Systems (9th Cir. 1989) 890 F.2d 165, 172-173] .

[2] Limitation on Actions for Registration or Exemption Violations

An action may not be maintained to enforce any liability created under Corp. Code § 31300 (liability for violation of registration or exemption requirements) unless it is brought within the following time limits: (1) the expiration of four years after the act or transaction constituting the violation; (2) the expiration of one year after the discovery by the plaintiff of the fact constituting the violation; or (3) 90 days after delivery to the franchisee of a written notice disclosing any violation of Corp. Code § 31110 [see § 515.53] or 31200 [see § 515.58[2]], if the notice is in a form approved by the Commissioner of Corporations, whichever limitations period first expires [Corp. Code § 31303; see People ex rel. Department of Corporations v. Speedee Oil Change Systems, Inc. (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 709, 723-725, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 497 (claims for violations of Corp. Code § 31300 were barred by four-year statute; Corp. Code § 31306 constitutes an express statement of unequivocal legislative intent that statute of limitations provisions in Corp. Code § 31303 are to be the sole controlling limits on time for filing suit under the Franchise Investment Law, and therefore delayed discovery or tolling rules did not apply to franchisees' causes of action)].

Like all statute of limitations defenses, the defense of Corp. Code § 31303 must be affirmatively pleaded or it is waived [Neptune Society Corp. v. Longanecker (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 1233, 1243-1244, 240 Cal. Rptr. 117] .

[3] Defense of Plaintiff's Knowledge

The defendant is not liable in an action for material misrepresentation in documents filed with the commissioner [see Corp. Code § 31200] or in required seasoned franchisor exemption disclosures [see Corp. Code § 31202] if he or she is able to prove that the plaintiff knew the facts concerning the untruth or omission [Corp. Code § 31300; see § 515.456].

[4] Defense of Defendant's Ignorance

The defendant also is not liable in an action for material misrepresentation in connection with registration or exemption requirements [see Corp. Code §§ 31200, 31202; see also § 515.59[2]] if it can be proved that he or she exercised reasonable care and did not know, or, if he or she had exercised reasonable care, would not have known of the untruth or omission [Corp. Code § 31300; see § 515.457].

§ 515.60 Liability for Misrepresentation in Franchise Transactions

[1] Generally

Any person who offers or sells a franchise in California by means of a material misrepresentation [see Corp. Code § 31201 and discussion under § 515.58[2]] is liable for damages to any person who, not knowing or having cause to believe that the statement was false or misleading, purchased a franchise while relying on the statement [Corp. Code § 31301].

[2] Limitation on Actions for Misrepresentation in Transactions

An action may not be maintained to enforce any liability created under Corp. Code § 31301 (liability for misrepresentation in franchise transactions) unless it is brought within the first of following time limits to expire [Corp. Code § 31304; *see People ex rel. - The expiration of two years after the violation on which it is based;

- The expiration of one year after the discovery by the plaintiff of the facts constituting the violation; or

- 90 days after delivery to the franchisee of a written notice disclosing any violation of Corp. Code § 31201 [see § 515.58[2]] or Corp. Code § 31202 [see § 515.58[4]], if the notice is in a form approved by the Commissioner of Corporations.

[3] Defenses to Transaction Misrepresentation

The defendant is not liable in an action for material misrepresentation in a franchise transaction if he or she is able to prove either plaintiff's awareness of the misrepresentation [see § 515.59[2]] or defendant's lack of awareness of the misrepresentation [see § 515.58[4]] in the same manner as these defenses are available in an action based on a misrepresentation in connection with registration or exemption requirements [Corp. Code § 31301; see Corp. Code § 31300].

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.61

§ 515.61 Joint and Several Liability of Management Principals and Materially Aiding Personnel for Violations

The following persons are jointly and severally liable with and to the same extent as persons originally liable for particular violations under the Franchise Investment Law [Corp. Code § 31302]:

- Every person who directly or indirectly controls a person liable under Corp. Code § 31300 (liability for violation of registration or exemption requirements) or Corp. Code § 31301 (liability for misrepresentation in franchise transactions).

- Every partner in a firm so liable.

- Every principal executive officer or director of a corporation so liable.

- Every person occupying a similar status or performing similar functions as the person so liable.

- Every employee of a person so liable who materially aids in the act or transaction constituting the violation [see Courtney v. Waring (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1434, 1440-1442, 237 Cal. Rptr. 233 (causes of action stated as to vice president and director, controlling person, and vice president)].

The language "with and to the same extent" as the actual seller in Corp. Code § 31302 is not applied literally. Imposition of secondary liability under Corp. Code § 31302 does not require that a plaintiff successfully sue the franchise seller. Plaintiff is only required to establish that the seller could have been liable under Corp. Code §§ 31201 and 31301 [Courtney v. Waring (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1434, 1441-1442, 237 Cal. Rptr. 233 (literal seller was bankrupt and had been dismissed from action)]. For a complaint for damages based on Corp. Code §§ 31201, 31301, see § 515.455.

Joint or several liability may not be imposed on any person who had no knowledge of or reasonable grounds to believe in the existence of the facts by reason of which the liability is alleged to exist [Corp. Code § 31302].

§ 515.62 Infringement of Franchisee's Right to Join Trade Association

[1] Generally

A franchisor, directly or indirectly, through any officer, agent, or employee, may not restrict or inhibit the right of franchisees to join a trade association. The franchisor may also not prohibit the right of free association among franchisees for any lawful purposes [Corp. Code § 31220].

A franchisor who violates these provisions may be sued for temporary and permanent injunctive relief and for damages, if any, as well as for the costs of suit, including reasonable attorney's fees. The plaintiff is not required to allege or prove that actual damages have been suffered in order to obtain injunctive relief [Corp. Code § 31302.5(a)]. Liability is civil only; a violation of the statutory prohibitions is not a crime [see Corp. Code § 31220].

[2] Jurisdiction and Venue

A suit against a franchisor for interfering with the franchisee's right of association is to be brought in the superior court. The action may be commenced either in the county in which the defendant resides or in the county in which a franchise affected by the violation does business [Corp. Code § 31302.5(a)].

[3] Limitation of Actions for Right of Association

An action to enforce any liability for the franchisor's violation of the franchisee's rights of association may not be maintained unless brought before (1) the expiration of two years after the violation on which it is based, or (2) the expiration of one year after the plaintiff's discovery of the facts constituting the violation, whichever occurs first [Corp. Code § 31155]. Whether or not such a consent has been filed, service may be made on the Commissioner against anyone alleged to have engaged in conduct prohibited under the law if personal jurisdiction cannot be obtained otherwise. Service may be made in either event by leaving a copy of the process with the Commissioner which is effective only after (1) notice of the service and a copy of the process is sent to the defendant by registered or certified mail at his or her last known address, or other steps reasonably calculated to give actual notice are taken, and (2) an affidavit of compliance is filed with the court prior to return of the service or within such further time as is allowed by the court [*Corp. § 515.65 Criminal Liability

[1] Generally

It is a crime to willfully violate any provision of the Franchise Investment Law or any rule or order thereunder, punishable by fine and/or imprisonment. Imprisonment is not permitted if the defendant can prove having had no knowledge of the law, rule, or order [Corp. Code § 31410]. It is also a crime to willfully employ, directly or indirectly, any device, scheme, or artifice to defraud in connection with the offer or sale of any franchise. Similarly, it is a crime willfully to engage, directly or indirectly, in any act, practice, or course of business which operates or would operate as a fraud or deceit on anyone in connection with the offer, purchase, or sale of a franchise [Corp. Code § 31411]. These provisions do not limit the power of the state to punish any person for conduct constituting a crime under any other statute [Corp. Code § 31412].

[2] Regulation of Franchise Loans

Commercial loans made by franchisors (and subfranchisors) to current or prospective franchisees for the acquisition, construction, operation, development, equipping, expansion, contraction, consolidation, merger, recapitalization, reorganization, or termination of a franchised business are exempt from regulation under the Finance Lenders Law [see Fin. Code § 22000 et seq.], provided the requirements below are met [see Fin. Code § 22063(a), (b)(8); see also Fin. Code § 22063(b)(1)-(7) (definitions)]. If the requirements are met, the loan is subject to the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing under Civ. Code § 1655 (stipulations that are necessary to make a contract reasonable, or conformable to usage, are implied as to matters about which the contract manifests no contrary intention) [Fin. Code § 22063(b)(8)(D)]. Nothing in Fin. Code § 22063 is intended to abrogate or diminish the application of any other laws that are designed to protect borrowers, including, but not limited to, laws pertaining to licensing, unfair competition, usury, and conflicts of interest [Fin. Code § 22063(d)].

The franchisor or subfranchisor making the franchise loan must comply with all applicable federal and state franchise disclosure and registration laws, regulations, rules and orders, including, but not limited to, the Franchise Investment Law [see Corp. Code § 31000 et seq.] and the FTC's rule on disclosure requirements and prohibitions concerning franchising and business-opportunity ventures [see 16 C.F.R. § 436.1 et seq.], in connection with the offer or sale of any franchise, area franchise, or subfranchise to which the franchise loan relates [Fin. Code § 22063(b)(8)(A)].

The proceeds of the franchise loan must be intended by the borrower for use primarily for other than personal, family, or household purposes [Fin. Code § 22063(b)(8)(B)]. The lending franchisor or subfranchisor may rely on any written statement of intended purposes by the borrower. The statement may be a separate statement signed by the borrower or may be contained in another document signed by the borrower. The lending franchisor or subfranchisor is not required to ascertain that the proceeds of a franchise loan are used in accordance with the statement of intended purposes [Fin. Code § 22063(c)].

The loan, if secured, must be secured solely by the assets of the franchised business to which the franchise loan relates. Property used by the borrower primarily for personal, family, or household purposes, including the borrower's personal residence, must not be taken as security for the loan [Fin. Code § 22063(b)(8)(C)].

The lending franchisor or subfranchisor must fully and clearly disclose to the borrower, at or before the time the loan is made, the rates of interest, charges, and costs of the loan [Fin. Code § 22063(b)(8)(E)].

Presumably, if the foregoing requirements are not met, the franchisor or subfranchisor making a franchise loan is subject to regulation under the Finance Lenders Law. For discussion of that law, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 102B, Pawnbrokers, Finance Lenders, and Secondhand Goods Dealers (Matthew Bender).

2. Termination, Transfer, Or Nonrenewal Generally Under The Franchise Relations Act

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.81

§ 515.81 Definitions

[1] "Franchise"

The term "franchise" is used under the Franchise Relations Act exactly as it is used under the Franchise Investment Law [see Corp. Code § 31005, discussed in § 515.51] except that under the Franchise Relations Act the term does not include any franchise governed by the federal Petroleum Marketing Practice Act (that is, franchises involving motor fuel refiners, distributors, and retailers) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20001(d)(1); see 15 U.S.C. § 2801]. In addition, the term does not include lease departments, licenses, or concessions at or with a general merchandise retail establishment which are incidental and ancillary to the general commercial operation of the retail establishment by amounting to less than 10 percent of the establishment's sales [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20001(d)(2)]. The term always includes an "area franchise" [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20006; cf. Corp. Code § 31010, discussed in § 515.51[3]].

A contract is a franchise and governed by the Franchise Relations Act if the three following conditions are met [Boat & Motor Mart v. Sea Ray Boats, Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 825 F.2d 1285, 1288] :

- A franchisee is granted the right to engage in the business of offering, selling, or distributing goods or services under a marketing plan or system prescribed in substantial part by the franchisor;

- The operation of the franchisee's business pursuant to the plan or system is substantially associated with the franchisor's trademark, service mark, name, logotype, advertising, or other commercial symbol designating the franchisor or its affiliate; and

- The franchisee is required to pay, directly or indirectly, a franchise fee.

A mere promise to sell aggressively is held by the Corporation Commissioner's guidelines [see Commissioner of Corporation's Release No. 3-F (rev. 1994)] to be too vague to constitute a marketing plan under the first criteria [see Boat & Motor Mart v. Sea Ray Boats, Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 825 F.2d 1285, 1289 (finding substantial direction by franchisor)].

The Commissioner of Corporations' regulations, releases, guidelines, and interpretive opinions under the Franchise Investment Law, regarding whether or not an agreement constitutes a franchise within the meaning of that law, are prima facie evidence of the scope and extent of coverage of the definition of franchise under the Franchise Relations Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20009; see § 515.51[1]].

[2] Parties to Franchise

A "franchisor" [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20003; see Corp. Code § 31007], "franchisee" [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20002; see Corp. Code § 31006], "area franchise" [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20004; see Corp. Code § 31008], "subfranchisor" [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20005; see Corp. Code § 31009] and "person" [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20008; see Corp. Code § 31015] are defined exactly as the terms are defined under the Franchise Investment Law [see § 515.51[1]].

[3] "Franchise Fee"

A "franchise fee" is defined exactly as the term is defined under the Franchise Investment Law [see Corp. Code § 31011, discussed in § 515.51[6]] except that the term excludes (1) the payment, directly or indirectly, of a franchise fee which, on an annual basis, does not exceed the sum of $100; and (2) the payment of a sum not exceeding $1,000 annually on account of the purchase price or rental of fixtures, equipment, or other tangible property to be utilized in, and necessary for, the operation of the franchised business, if the price or rental so charged does not exceed the cost which would be incurred by the franchisee acquiring the items from other persons or in the open market [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20007].

[4] Nonprofit Retailers' Cooperatives Also Excluded

Also excluded from the definition of franchise for purposes of the Franchise Relations Act is a nonprofit organization operated on a cooperative basis by and for independent retailers that wholesales goods and services primarily to its member retailers, if all of the following are applicable [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20001(d)(3)]:

- Control and ownership of each member is substantially equal.
- Membership is limited to those who will use the services furnished by the organization.
- Transfer of ownership is prohibited or limited.
- Capital investment receives no return.
- Substantially equal benefits pass to members on the basis of patronage of the organization.
- Members are not personally liable for obligations of the organization in the absence of a direct undertaking or authorization by them.
- Services of the organization are furnished primarily for the use of the members.
- Each member and prospective member is provided with an offering circular that complies with the specifications of Corp. Code § 31111 (discussed in § 515.53[3]).
- No part of the receipts, income, or profit of the organization are paid to any profit-making entity, except for arms-length payments for necessary goods and services, and members are not required to purchase goods or services from any designated profit-making entity.

- The nonprofit organization is subject to an action for rescission or damages under Civ. Code § 3343.7 if the organization fraudulently induces the plaintiff to join the organization. Under Civ. Code § 3343.7, "fraudulently induced" includes the failure to disclose all information required under Corp. Code § 31005(c)(8) or 31111, unless the defendant proves that the plaintiff knew the facts concerning the untruth or omission or that the defendant exercised reasonable care and did not know (or if the defendant had exercised reasonable care would not have known) of the untruth or omission [Civ. Code § 3343.7]. Plaintiff is entitled to rescission of a membership contract entered into, or for damages sustained, as a consequence of being fraudulently induced to join the organization [Civ. Code § 3343.7].

§ 515.82 Applicability of Franchise Relations Act

The Franchise Relations Act applies to any franchise if either the franchisee is domiciled in California or the franchised business is or has been operated in California [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20015]. The act also applies to franchises granted or renewed after January 1, 1981, or to franchises of an indefinite duration which may be terminated by the franchisee or franchisor without cause [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20041].

§ 515.83 Termination of Franchise

[1] Good Cause With Notice to Comply

A franchisor may not terminate a franchise prior to the expiration of its term except for good cause and as otherwise provided under the Franchise Relations Act. Good cause includes, but is not limited to, the failure of the franchisee to comply with any lawful requirement of the franchise agreement after being given notice and a reasonable opportunity to cure the failure. This period in no event needs to be more than 30 days [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20020].

[2] Cause for Immediate Termination

Immediate notice of termination without an opportunity to cure is deemed reasonable if one of the following events listed under the Franchise Relations Act occurs during the period in which the franchise is in effect, and is relevant to the franchise [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20021]:

- Either (1) the franchisee or the business to which the franchise relates is declared bankrupt or is judicially determined to be insolvent, (2) all or a substantial part of the assets of the bankrupt franchisee are assigned to or for the benefit of any creditor, or (3) the franchisee admits inability to pay debts as they come due;

- The franchisee abandons the franchise by failing to operate the business for five consecutive days during which it is required to be operated under the franchise terms, unless the failure to operate is due to fire, flood, earthquake, or other similar causes beyond the franchisee's control. A shorter period may be substituted if, after which, under the facts and circumstances, it is not unreasonable for the franchisor to conclude that the franchisee does not intend to continue to operate the franchise;

- The franchisor and franchisee agree in writing to terminate the franchise;

- The franchisee makes any material misrepresentations relating to the acquisition of the franchise business or engages in conduct which reflects materially and unfavorably on the operation and reputation of the franchise business or system;

- The franchisee fails, for a period of 10 days after notification of noncompliance, to comply with any federal, state, or local law or regulation applicable to the operation of the franchise;

- The franchisee, after curing any failure in response to a notice [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20020] of noncompliance with lawful requirements of the franchise agreement, engages in the same acts of noncompliance whether or not these acts of noncompliance were corrected after notice;

- The franchisee repeatedly fails to comply with one or more requirements of the franchise, whether or not the acts of noncompliance were corrected after notice;

- Either (1) the franchised business or business premises of the franchise are seized, taken over, or foreclosed by a government official in the exercise of official duties, or by a creditor, lienholder, or lessor (a final judgment against the franchisee, however, must have remained unsatisfied for 30 days unless a supersedeas or other appeal bond has been filed) or (2) a levy of execution is made on the license granted by the franchise agreement or on any property used in the franchised business, and the levy is not discharged within five days;

- The franchisee is convicted of a felony or any other criminal misconduct which is relevant to the operation of the franchise;

- The franchisee fails to pay any franchise fees or other amounts due the franchisor or its affiliate within five days after receiving written notice that those fees are overdue; or

- The franchisor makes a reasonable determination that continued operation of the franchise by the franchisee will result in an imminent danger to public health or safety.

§ 515.84 Transfers

For a reasonable time after the death of a franchisee or majority shareholder of a franchisee, a franchisor may not deny the surviving spouse, heirs, or estate of the deceased franchisee or majority shareholder of the franchisee the opportunity to participate in the ownership of the franchise under a valid franchise agreement. During that time, the surviving spouse, heirs, or estate of the deceased must either satisfy all of the then current qualifications for a purchaser of a franchise or sell, transfer, or assign the franchise to a person who satisfies the franchisor's then current standards for new franchisees. The surviving spouse, heirs, or estate of the deceased must maintain all standards and obligations of the franchise in order to retain these rights [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20027(a)].

A franchisor may, however, after receipt of a bona fide offer to purchase the franchise by a proposed purchaser of the franchise, exercise the right of first refusal [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20027(b)].

These rules do not apply to any agreement or contract in effect prior to January 1, 1984, except an agreement or contract of an indefinite duration, and do not apply to any bequest or intestate succession that took effect prior to January 1, 1984 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20027(c)].

2. Termination, Transfer, Or Nonrenewal Generally Under The Franchise Relations Act

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.85

§ 515.85 Nonrenewal

[1] Notice and Necessary Conditions

A franchisor may not fail to renew a franchise unless the franchisor has provided the franchisee at least 180 days prior written notice of intention not to renew. In addition, at least one of several designated nonrenewal conditions must be present, as discussed below [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20025]. When one of these conditions must exist for a designated period of time, a franchisor may offer or agree, before expiration of the current franchise term, to extend the term of the franchise in order to satisfy the particular period [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 20026].

A franchise agreement providing that the franchisee waives any claim for damages arising out of the franchisor's failure to give the 180-day notice required by Bus. & Prof. Code § 20025 has been upheld on the ground that it would be valid unless the Franchise Relations Act or some other California law created a right to damages. The only remedies provided are the resale rights [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 20025(a)] and the requirement of the Franchise Relations Act that the franchisor repurchase the franchise's inventory [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 20035], which the franchisor did in this case [Boat & Motor Mart v. Sea Ray Boats, Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 825 F.2d 1285, 1290-1292 (also holding agreement not unconscionable as it was short, there was no opportunity for surprise, and franchisee knew agreement might not be renewed and that it waived damages)].

[2] Resale Condition

During the 180 days prior to expiration of the franchise, as one condition for nonrenewal, the franchisor may permit the franchisee to sell the business to a purchaser meeting the franchisor's then current requirements for granting new franchises. If the franchisor is not granting a significant number of new franchises, the purchaser may meet the then current requirements for granting renewal franchises [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20025(a)].

[3] Condition Requiring Waiver of Clause Not to Compete

A franchisor may refuse to renew a franchise when it is not for the purpose of converting the franchisee's business premises to operation by employees or agents of the franchisor for the latter's own account (although a franchisor may still exercise a right of first refusal to purchase the franchisee's business) if on expiration of the franchise, the franchisor must agree not to seek to enforce any covenant of the nonrenewed franchisee not to compete with the franchisor or any franchisees of the franchisor [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20025(b)]. However, it is doubtful such a covenant would ever be enforceable [see Scott v. Snelling and Snelling, Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1990) 732 F. Supp. 1034, 1040-1046 (discussed under § 515.89; refusing to enforce covenant not to compete after termination by franchisee and implying that such a covenant would not be enforceable after nonrenewal either)].

[4] Termination Condition

A franchisor may refuse to renew a franchise if any of the statutory grounds for terminating a franchise under Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 20020 and 20021 exist [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20025(c); see § 515.83].

[5] Agreement Condition

If the franchisee and the franchisor agree not to renew the franchise, the franchisor may refuse to renew the franchise [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20025(d)].

[6] Fair Withdrawal Condition

If the franchisor withdraws from distributing its products or services through franchises in the geographic market served by the franchisee, the franchisor may refuse to renew the franchise. On expiration of the franchise, the franchisor must agree not to seek to enforce any covenant of the nonrenewed franchisee not to compete with the franchisor or franchisees of the franchisor. The failure to renew must not be for the purpose of converting the business conducted by the franchisee pursuant to the franchise agreement to operation by employees or agents of the franchisor for the latter's own account [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20025(e)(1), (2)]. In addition, if the franchisor has determined to sell, transfer, or assign its interest in the marketing premises occupied by the franchisee, (1) the franchisor must offer the franchisee a right of first refusal if it has received a bona fide offer from someone else to purchase the franchisor's interest in the premises (the offer must be made during the 180-day period after a notice of intent not to renew has been made, and it must be of at least 30 days duration); or (2) a purchaser, transferee, or assignee of the franchisor's interest in one or more other controlled marketing premises must offer the franchisee a franchise in good faith and on substantially the same terms and conditions currently being offered by that person to other franchisees [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20025(e)(3)].

[7] Condition of Failure to Agree to Changes or Addenda

A franchisor may refuse to renew a franchise if the franchisor and franchisee are unable to agree to changes or additions to the terms and conditions of the franchise agreement. The changes or additions must be such as would result in renewal of the franchise agreement on substantially the same terms and conditions on which the franchisor is currently customarily granting renewal franchises. If the franchisor is not currently granting a significant number of renewal franchises, the terms and conditions should be those on which the franchisor is currently customarily granting original franchises. The franchisor may give the franchisee written notice of a date, which should be at least 30 days from the date of the notice, on or before which a proposed written agreement of the terms and conditions of the renewal franchise must be accepted in writing by the franchisee. If the notice is given not less than 180 days before the end of the franchise term, it may state that in the event of failure of such acceptance by the franchisee, the notice is to be deemed a notice of intention not to renew at the end of the franchise term [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20025(f)].

[1] Generally

If the franchisor terminates or fails to renew the franchise other than in accordance with the provisions of the Franchise Relations Act, the franchisor must offer to repurchase from the franchisee the latter's resalable current inventory which meets the franchisor's current standards as required by the franchise agreement or commercial practice and held for use or sale in the franchised business. The offered price must be the lower of the fair wholesale market value or the price paid by the franchisee. The franchisor need not offer to purchase personalized items which have no value to the franchisor in the business being franchised [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20035].

The franchisor may offset, against any repurchase offer made under the act, those sums owed the franchisor or its subsidiaries by the franchisee pursuant to the franchise or to any ancillary agreement [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20036].

[2] Other Remedies

Unless otherwise expressly provided under the Franchise Relations Act, nothing in the act prevents the franchisee from suing under any other law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20037]. Although, nothing presently in the act expressly provides for any suit to enforce its provisions [see Comments to see § 515.480], a California appellate court has held that the repurchase of inventory is not the exclusive remedy for wrongful termination of a franchise pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 20035 [JRS Prods., Inc. v. Matsushita Elec. Corp. of Am. (2004) 115 Cal. App. 4th 168, 178, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 840 (plaintiff could pursue its breach of contract claim against franchisor for wrongful termination of franchise agreement)].

A provision in a franchise agreement under which the franchisee waives claims for damages arising out of the franchisor's failure to comply with the Act may be upheld [see Boat & Motor Mart v. Sea Ray Boats, Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 825 F.2d 1285, 1290-1292 (also holding agreement not unconscionable since it was short, there was no opportunity for surprise, and franchisee knew agreement might not be renewed and that it waived damages)].

§ 515.88 Arbitration

The Franchise Relations Act is not intended to limit the right of the franchisor and franchisee to agree, either before or after a dispute has arisen, to binding arbitration of claims under the act. The standards to be applied in the arbitration must not be less than the requirements specified in the act. Any arbitrators employed must be chosen from a list of impartial arbitrators supplied by the American Arbitration Association or by some other impartial person [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20040; see generally Ch. 32, Contractual Arbitration: Agreements and Compelling Arbitration].

To the extent that a franchise agreement is a contract of adhesion, it may be subject to the California Supreme Court's holding in Discover Bank v. Superior Court (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 148, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 76, 113 P.3d 1100 , which held that in some cases in California, class-action waivers in consumer contracts of adhesion are unenforceable, whether the consumer is being asked to waive the right to class-action litigation or the right to class-wide arbitration [see discussion of this case in Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.25[2][a]]. Therefore, in an appropriate case, a ban on class-wide arbitration under a franchise agreement may be unenforceable [Independent Ass'n of Mailbox Ctr. Owners, Inc. v. Superior Court(2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 396, 410-411].

Snelling and Snelling, Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1990) 732 F. Supp. 1034, 1039-1041* (relying on *Frame v. Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc. (1971) 20 Cal. App. 3d 668, 672-674, 97 Cal. Whether or not customer lists, forms, or other aspects of the franchised business constitute trade secrets, which would be entitled to protection, is a question that must be determined on a case by case basis. A customer list that was developed by franchisees through their own efforts, personal knowledge, and business contacts is not entitled to protection as a trade secret [Scott v. Snelling and Snelling, Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1990) 732 F. Supp. 1034, 1044-1045] . Trade secrets are discussed in Ch. 565, Unfair Competition .

The federal Petroleum Marketing Practices Act (PMPA), which preempts any state law in its specific area of concern of termination and nonrenewal of franchises [see 15 U.S.C. § 2806(a)], is codified in 15 U.S.C. §§ 2801-2806. Related California provisions appear in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 20999-20999.4. Trade practice provisions affecting the franchisee's ability to procure supplies from outside sources are found in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 21140-21140.4. Designation of a franchisee's successor in interest, and implementing procedures, are governed by Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.6. Business hours legislation is covered in Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 21150 and 21150.1. Transfers of franchises are regulated under Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 21148-21149.

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.111

§ 515.111 Federal Law of Franchisor's Termination or Nonrenewal of Franchise

[1] Preemption of State Termination or Nonrenewal Provisions

The federal Petroleum Marketing Practices Act states that, to the extent any of its provisions apply to nonrenewal or termination of any franchise relationship, or the furnishing of notification with respect thereto, no state or local law or regulation applicable to renewals, terminations, or notice may be enacted, promulgated, or continued in effect unless it is the same as the applicable federal provision. This preemption also applies to any remedy or penalty for violations of state or local measure [15 U.S.C. § 2806(a)(1)]. The PMPA also states that no state may adopt, enforce, or continue in effect any state or local law or regulation that requires a payment for the goodwill of a franchise on the termination of a franchise or on the nonrenewal of a franchise relationship [15 U.S.C. § 2806(a)(2)]. In 1981, the California Legislature amended state provisions governing petroleum franchises to change the definitions of "franchise," and related terms, to conform to the definitions of those terms under federal law [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 20999, 21140, 21150; Corp. Code §§ 31005, 31005.5; and discussions in §§ 515.111[3][a] and 515.112].

State laws governing petroleum product franchises are not the only state statutes preempted by the PMPA. California's Franchise Investment Law (Corp. Code § 31000 et seq.) and Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200, relating to unfair business practices, are also preempted to the extent that they cannot be relied on to enjoin or prohibit a franchise termination, or the nonrenewal of a franchise, that would be proper under the PMPA [Exxon Corp. v. Miro (DC Cal. 1983) 555 F. Supp. 234, 237-238 ; California Arco Distributors, Inc. v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (1984) 158 Cal. App. 3d 349, 364, 204 Cal. Rptr. 743] . Similarly, preemption extends to California common law and tort theories, such as claims for damages for violation of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing, fraud, and interference with prospective economic advantage. Whenever the essence of the franchisee's claims is the termination of the franchise, state common law and tort theories are preempted. One reason for the preemption is to avoid conflict between the PMPA provisions and state law regarding exemplary damages, determination by a jury or the court of entitlement to exemplary damages [see 15 U.S.C. § 2805(d)(2)], and attorney's and expert witness fees [see 15 U.S.C. § 2805(d)(3); Mobil Oil Corp. v. Superior Court (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 485, 488-490, 234 Cal. Rptr. 482] .

[2] Laws Governing Assignment Not Totally Preempted

The federal law does not authorize any transfers or assignments of franchises, or prohibit any such transactions, that may be authorized by provisions of franchises themselves or by applicable state laws governing these transactions without regard to franchise provisions [15 U.S.C. § 2806(b)(1)]. By 15 U.S.C. § 2806(b), Congress did not intend either to authorize or to prohibit franchise assignments but, as a general rule, left the matter to state law [Humboldt Oil Co. v. Exxon Co, U.S.A. (9th Cir. 1987) 823 F.2d 373, 375 ; Prestin v. Mobil Oil Corp. (9th Cir. 1984) 741 F.2d 268, 270 (15 U.S.C. § 2806(b) renumbered without change by Pub. L. No. 103-371, § 5, 108 Stat. 3485); now see 15 U.S.C. § 2806(b)(1); see Forty-Niner Truck Plaza, Inc. v. Union Oil Co. (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 1261, 1276-1278, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 532 (Bus. & Prof. Code § 20999.25(a) is not preempted by PMPA); California Service Station etc. Assn. v. Union Oil Co. (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 44, 51-53, 283 Cal. Rptr. 279 (specifically holding that former Bus. & Prof. Code § 21148(a)(3) is not preempted by PMPA)]. Federal law does not prohibit any state from specifying the terms and conditions under which any franchise or franchise relationship may be transferred to the designated successor of a franchisee on the death of the franchisee [15 U.S.C. § 2806(b)(2)].

Nevertheless, a state law regarding assignment cannot be applied to frustrate federal objectives. This applies often in the so-called "cure" area. A franchisee cannot avoid the consequences of his or her own conduct that gave rise to a notice of termination or nonrenewal by assigning the franchise after having been notified of the franchisor's intent to terminate or not to renew. For instance, a franchisee who is convicted of a felony that provides grounds for termination under 15 U.S.C. § 2802(b)(2)(C), (c)(12) cannot assign the franchise to a corporation that he or she controls or to a third party with whom the franchisee has an agreement allowing him or her to continue to operate the business [Humboldt Oil Co. v. Exxon Co, U.S.A. (9th Cir. 1987) 823 F.2d 373, 375 ; Atlantic Richfield Co. v. Guerami (9th Cir. 1987) 820 F.2d 280, 282-283] . A franchisee who has received notice of termination based on station closings and failure to pay the franchisor for gasoline cannot file a petition in bankruptcy and rely on 11 U.S.C. § 365(f) (debtor's right to assume and assign executory portion of contract or lease) to allow assignment [In re Herbert (9th Cir. 1986) 806 F.2d 889, 893-895] .

When the assignment is allowed under California law, a franchisor can refuse consent to an assignment or sublease only when it has a good faith reasonable objection to it [Prestin v. Mobil Oil Corp. (9th Cir. 1984) 741 F.2d 268, 270-273 (considering franchise entered into before effective date of Bus. & Prof. Code § 21148, discussed under § 515.116[1])].

Once the assignment of an unexpired portion of a regular franchise is achieved, the resulting franchise is not a trial franchise as defined in 15 U.S.C. § 2803(b)(1), and the franchisor is subject to the more stringent requirements regarding nonrenewal and termination applicable to regular franchises [see 15 U.S.C. § 2803(b)(2)]. Thus, although the PMPA permits a franchisor to require a franchisee who has not previously been a party to a franchise with the franchisor to accept a trial franchise in certain instances, it specifically excludes assignments of existing franchises from that requirement, leaving the regulation of assignments and transfers to state law [California Service Station etc. Assn. v Union Oil Co. (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 44, 51-53, 283 Cal. Rptr. 279] .

[3] Definitions

[a] "Franchise"

A "franchise" is a contract between (1) a refiner and either a distributor or a retailer, or (2) a distributor and either another distributor or a retailer. In either instance, the refiner or distributor authorizes or permits the distributor or retailer to use a trademark in connection with the sale, consignment, or distribution of motor fuel. The trademark is owned or controlled by the refiner, or by a refiner that supplies motor fuel to the distributor that authorizes or permits its use [15 U.S.C. § 2801(1)(A)].

The term "franchise" includes a contract under which a retailer or distributor is authorized or permitted to occupy leased marketing premises that are to be employed in connection with the sale, consignment, or distribution of motor fuel under a trademark. The trademark is owned or controlled by the refiner, or by a refiner that supplies motor fuel to the distributor, who authorizes or permits the occupancy. The term includes a contract pertaining to the supply of motor fuel to be sold, consigned, or distributed under a trademark owned or controlled by a refiner, or under certain contracts existing continuously from an earlier time. The term includes the unexpired portion of franchise properly transferred or assigned [see 15 U.S.C. § 2801(1)(B)].

[b] Franchise Parties and Relationship

A "franchisor" is a refiner or distributor who authorizes or permits, under a franchise, a retailer or distributor to use a trademark in connection with the sale, consignment, or distribution of motor fuel [15 U.S.C. § 2801(3)]. A "franchisee" is a retailer or distributor who is so authorized or permitted [15 U.S.C. § 2801(4)]. The concept of a "trademark" includes a trade name, service mark, or any identifying symbol or name [15 U.S.C. § 2801(11)]. A "franchise relationship" is the respective motor fuel marketing or distribution obligations and responsibilities of a franchisor and franchisee resulting from the marketing of motor fuel under a franchise [15 U.S.C. § 2801(2)].

[c] Marketing Parties and Product

A "refiner" is anyone engaged in the refining of crude oil to produce motor fuel, including any affiliate of such a person [15 U.S.C. § 2801(5)]. A "retailer" is one who purchases motor fuel for sale to the general public for ultimate consumption [15 U.S.C. § 2801(7)]. A "distributor" is someone, or an affiliate of someone, who purchases motor fuel for sale, consignment, or distribution to another. Alternatively, a "distributor" may be one who receives motor fuel on consignment for consignment or distribution to another's own fuel accounts or to accounts of another's supplier; but this designation does not include a person who is an employee of, or merely serves as a common carrier providing transportation service for, the supplier [15 U.S.C. § 2801(6)]. "Motor fuel" refers to gasoline and diesel fuel of a type distributed for use as a fuel in self-propelled vehicles designed primarily for use on public streets, roads, and highways [15 U.S.C. § 2801(12)].

[4] Grounds for Interrupting Franchise

Under the PMPA, motor fuel franchisors may not terminate a franchise (entered into or renewed after June 19, 1978) or fail to renew a franchise relationship, except under prescribed conditions, which require proper notification [see 15 U.S.C. § 2804], and under permissible grounds. These grounds include the following: (1) the franchisee's failure to comply with reasonable and material franchise provisions or failure to exert good faith efforts to carry out these provisions; (2) the occurrence of an event such as fraud, criminal conduct, bankruptcy, the franchisee's being severely disabled for at least three months, resulting in an inability to run the operation; (3) an agreement between the parties under certain protective conditions; and (4) the franchisor's withdrawal from the market area. Additional grounds for nonrenewal include the inability of the parties to agree on changes, numerous customer complaints to the franchisor, and the failure to operate the franchise in a clean, safe, and healthful manner [see 15 U.S.C. § 2802(b), (c)].

Some grounds for termination require a determination that the franchise relationship has actually been undermined, whereas others do not. For instance, if the ground for termination is a breach of contract under 15 U.S.C. § 2802(b)(2)(A), the nature and effect of the alleged contractual breach would determine whether grounds existed for termination of the franchise [Khorenian v. Union Oil Co. (9th Cir. 1985) 761 F.2d 533, 536] . If, however, the ground for termination were the franchisee's conviction of a felony involving moral turpitude, no determination of actual undermining would be required because the PMPA specifies that conviction of a felony involving moral turpitude is sufficient ground for termination of the franchise [15 U.S.C. § 2802(b)(2)(C), (c)(12); Atlantic Richfield Co. v. Guerami (9th Cir. 1987) 820 F.2d 280, 282-283] .

A franchisee cannot recover for constructive termination under the PMPA if the franchisor's allegedly wrongful conduct did not compel the franchisee to abandon its franchise. The PMPA prohibits only franchisor conduct that has the effect of ending a franchise. A necessary element of any constructive termination claim under the PMPA is that the complained-of conduct forced an end to the franchisee's use of the franchisor's trademark, purchase of the franchisor's fuel, or occupation of the franchisor's service station. A franchisee may not maintain a claim for constructive nonrenewal under the PMPA after the franchisee signs and then operates under a renewal agreement with the franchisor, even if the franchisee signs "under protest" because of unfair and coercive conduct by the franchisor. The franchisee may pursue state-law remedies for the franchisor's wrongful conduct [*Mac's Shell Serv. v. Shell Oil Prods. Co. LLC (2010) -- U.S. --, 130 S. Ct. 1251, 176 L. Ed. 2d 36, 2010 U.S. LEXIS 2203, at *6, *13, *23-*24, *27, 31] .

[5] Franchises Excepted From Nonrenewal Restrictions

Federal regulation of franchise renewals does not apply to "trial franchises" (which involve first-time franchisees of the franchisor in an initial contract period for up to one year) or "interim franchises" (which are continuations for up to three years of franchises that were not renewed because the franchisor withdrew from the market area) [15 U.S.C. § 2803].

[6] Liability

If the franchisor fails to comply with federal termination or nonrenewal requirements, the franchisee may maintain a civil action, without regard to the amount in controversy, in the United States District Court for the area in which the franchisor has its principal place of business or the franchisee does business. The action must be commenced within one year after the date of the termination or nonrenewal, or the date of the failure to comply with the applicable requirements, whichever occurs later [15 U.S.C. § 2805(a)].

The court must grant a preliminary injunction in the action if (1) the franchisee shows that there has been a termination or nonrenewal and that serious questions on the merits exist for litigation, and (2) the court finds that the franchisee would suffer greater hardship than the franchisor without such relief [15 U.S.C. § 2805(b)(2)]. This standard for preliminary injunction under 15 U.S.C. § 2805(b)(2) is more liberal than the general requirements for preliminary injunction. Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 65 (irreparable harm), is not applicable. The franchisee need only show (1) that it will suffer greater hardship from nonissuance of a preliminary injunction than the franchisor will from issuance, and (2) that the franchisee has a reasonable chance of success on the merits [Khorenian v. Union Oil Co. (9th Cir. 1985) 761 F.2d 533, 535-536] .

The franchisor may avoid injunction on certain grounds of economic detriment. The court may require that the franchisee post a bond. Injunctive relief may be denied, however, if the action is commenced after periods of time recognized in the statute as posing too great a delay [15 U.S.C. § 2805(b)(3), (e)(1)].

Burdens of proof and producing evidence are specially set out by law [15 U.S.C. § 2805(c)]. The franchisee may recover actual and court-imposed punitive damages as well as attorney and expert witness fees. Even if the franchisor has been able to avoid injunction, damages and expenses are still available [15 U.S.C. § 2805(d), (e)(2); see Union Oil v. O'Riley (1990) 226 Cal. App. 3d 199, 214-215, 276 Cal. Rptr. 483 (upholding $40,000 punitive damage award on grounds that defendant acted in willful disregard of notice requirements, created indebtedness by delivering oil while franchisee was in hospital, and in fact was retaliating for franchisee's complaints)].

No franchisor may require, as a condition of entering into or renewing the franchise relationship, that a franchisee release or waive any right that the franchisee has under the PMPA, any other federal law, or any applicable state law [15 U.S.C. § 2805(f)(1)]. Further, no provision of any franchise will be valid or enforceable if the provision specifies that the interpretation or enforcement of the franchise will be governed by the law of any state other than the state in which the franchisee has its principal place of business [15 U.S.C. § 2805(f)(2)].

[7] Concurrent State and Federal Jurisdiction

State courts have concurrent jurisdiction with federal courts over PMPA claims [Union Oil v. O'Riley (1990) 226 Cal. App. 3d 199, 204, 276 Cal. Rptr. 483] . This position is at odds with earlier holdings in Rustom v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (D.C. Cal. 1985) 618 F. Supp. 210 , and Niakan v. Samaan (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 716, 245 Cal. Rptr. 24 . Nevertheless, it seems to reflect the intention of the United States Supreme Court in vacating the previous state court judgment of dismissal in O'Riley and remanding the case for further consideration in light of Tafflin v. Levitt (1990) 493 U.S. 455, 110 S. Ct.792, 107 L. Ed. 2d 887 , which held that state courts had concurrent jurisdiction over RICO suits (Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act, 18 U.S.C. § 1961 et seq.) [Union Oil v. O'Riley (1990) 226 Cal. App. 3d 199, 202, 204, 276 Cal. Rptr. 483] .

The grant of federal jurisdiction in 15 U.S.C. § 2805(a) is permissive, not mandatory. The presumption of concurrent jurisdiction is not to be lightly discarded, and random comments in the congressional discussion about federal judges and actions in district court are not sufficient to overcome the presumption of concurrent jurisdiction. Nor do desire for uniformity or reference in the PMPA to federal rules of procedure create a clear incompatibility with federal interests or necessitate a finding that Congress meant only federal courts to rule on PMPA matters [Union Oil v. O'Riley (1990) 226 Cal. App. 3d 199, 204, 276 Cal. Rptr. 483] .

3. Trade Practices And Termination Or Nonrenewal Of Petroleum Products Franchises

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.112

§ 515.112 Definitions Applicable to California Petroleum Franchises

The definitions applicable to California legislation governing the termination, cancellation, and nonrenewal of petroleum products franchises, a petroleum products franchisee's dealings with outside suppliers, the right to designate a successor in interest and transfer the franchise, and hours of business are the same as those that apply to the federal Petroleum marketing Practices Act, discussed in § 515.111[3][a] [compare 15 U.S.C. § 2801 with Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 20999 (termination, cancellation, and nonrenewal of franchise), 21140 (franchisee's dealings with outside suppliers and designation of successor in interest), 21150 (franchisee's hours of business and operation)].

California statute broadens the definition of the term "fuel" to include gasoline, diesel, gasohol, or aviation fuel, in contrast to the more limited definition of fuel as motor fuel under federal law [compare Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 20999(l), 21140(k), 21150(k) with 15 U.S.C. § 2801(12)]. In addition, California defines "marketing premises" to mean, in the case of any franchise, premises that, under such franchises, are to be employed by the franchisee in connection with the sale, consignment, or distribution of fuel [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 20999(h), 21140(g), 21150(g)], and "leased marketing premises" to mean marketing premises owned, leased, or in any way controlled by a franchisor and that the franchisee is authorized or permitted by the franchise to employ in connection with the sale, consignment, or distribution of fuel [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 20999(i), 21140(h), 21150(h)]. "Contract" means any oral or written agreement. For supply purposes, delivery levels during the same month of the previous year are prima facie evidence of an agreement to deliver those levels [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 20999(j), 21140(i), 21150(i)].

3. Trade Practices And Termination Or Nonrenewal Of Petroleum Products Franchises

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.113

§ 515.113 California Law of Termination, Cancellation, or Nonrenewal of Petroleum Products Franchises

[1] Preemption by Federal Law

The federal Petroleum Marketing Practices Act expressly provides for preemption of state legislation or regulation purporting to govern in identical areas of concern [15 U.S.C. § 2806(a)(1); see § 515.111].

[2] Good Cause Required for Discontinuing Franchise

A franchisor may not terminate, cancel, or fail to or refuse to renew an existing franchise without good cause, notwithstanding the terms of the franchise [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20999.1]. This provision only prevents a franchisor from discontinuing a franchise when the franchise agreement gives the franchisor the right to do so on a ground other than that which constitutes good cause as discussed below. If the agreement terminates by its own terms, however, the provision does not apply. That is, discontinuance must be for good cause as specified in Bus. & Prof. Code § 20999.1 if the franchisee is given some right of renewal or, in the case of termination or cancellation, the franchisor has canceled or terminated the franchise prior to the date of its expiration as provided in the agreement [see Witt v. Union Oil Co. (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 435, 438-439, 160 Cal. Rptr. 285] .

Good cause is limited to particular subject matter. It exists if the gasoline dealer or petroleum distributor failed to comply with essential and reasonable requirements of the franchise agreement. It is present also if either the distributor or dealer failed to act in good faith in carrying out the terms of the franchise [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20999.1(a), (b)].

Good cause also exists if the franchisor is withdrawing from the marketing location of a gasoline dealer's franchise. However, the franchisor must pay the dealer the current wholesale market value for all qualifying equipment and supplies purchased by the dealer from the franchisor or from an affiliate thereof. The phrase "qualifying equipment and supplies" means all equipment and supplies purchased by the gasoline dealer from the franchisor, or an affiliate thereof, that are (1) free and clear of all liens, security interests, and other encumbrances, (2) valued on a first-in, first-out basis, and (3) evidenced by receipted invoices. Additionally, these goods must (1) be in first-class and resalable condition, (2) remain in the original packages or containers, (3) bear the original labels and trademarks, and (4) display no evidence of deterioration. This form of good cause is pertinent only to franchises entered into or renewed on or after January 1, 1979 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20999.1(c)].

Although Bus. & Prof. Code § 20999.1(d) also provides that good cause may arise for other legitimate business reasons (except that a termination or cancellation of a franchise for the purpose of enabling the petroleum distributor or manufacturer to assume operation of the distributor's or gasoline dealer's business shall not be considered to be a legitimate business reason, unless the gasoline dealer or distributor is paid reasonable compensation for the value of the franchise, including a reasonable amount for goodwill), this provision has been held to be preempted by 15 U.S.C. § 2802(b)(2)(C) because it is not the same as the PMPA, and therefore it stands as an obstacle to the accomplishment and execution of the full purposes and objectives of Congress [California Arco Distributors, Inc. v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (1984) 158 Cal. App. 3d 349, 360-363, 204 Cal. Rptr. 743 ; but see concurrence in E. S. Bills, Inc. v. Tzucanow (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 824, 835-838, 215 Cal. Rptr. 278, 700 P.2d 1280 (claiming Bus. & Prof. Code § 20999.1 is valid)].

[3] Right to Counsel

A petroleum distributor may not deny to any present or prospective gasoline dealer the right to be accompanied by counsel or a personal representative to any meeting held between the parties for the purpose of negotiating the terms of a franchise [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20999.2].

[4] Liability

Anyone who violates the termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal requirements pertaining to petroleum products franchises may be sued in the superior court in the county in which either the defendant resides or a franchise affected by the violation does business. Suit may be for temporary and permanent injunctive relief as well as for damages, if any, and the costs of suit [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20999.3(a)]. The proceeding must be brought within two years after the violation on which it is based or one year after the plaintiff's discovery of the facts constituting the violation, whichever occurs first [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20999.3(b)].

[5] Notification of Franchisor's Withdrawal

When a franchisor intends to withdraw from marketing fuel through retail and distribution outlets in the relevant geographic market area, the franchisor shall promptly submit notification to the Governor, together with a plan describing the schedule and conditions of withdrawal [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20999.4].

[6] Unlawful Detainer Action by Franchisor Against Franchisee

Except as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1166a, in any action for unlawful detainer brought by a petroleum distributor against a gasoline dealer, possession will not be restored to the petroleum distributor unless the court in the unlawful detainer action determines that the petroleum distributor had good cause under Bus. & Prof. Code § 20999.1 to terminate, cancel, or refuse to renew the franchise of the gasoline dealer. In any action for unlawful detainer brought by a petroleum distributor against a gasoline dealer, the court may, at the time of request by either party, require the tenant to make rental payments into the court for the lessor at the contract rate, pending the resolution of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 1174(a)]. However, at least the "other legitimate business reason" grounds of termination under Bus. & Prof. Code § 20999.1(d) seems to be preempted by the PMPA [California Arco Distributors, Inc. v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (1984) 158 Cal. App. 3d 349, 360-363, 204 Cal. Rptr. 743 (holding Bus. & Prof. Code § 20999.1(d) preempted by 15 U.S.C. § 2802(b)(2)(C); but see concurrence in E. S. Bills, Inc. v. Tzucanow (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 824, 835-838, 215 Cal. Rptr. 278, 700 P.2d 1280 (claiming Bus. & Prof. Code § 20999.1 is valid)]. In a case in which the PMPA is clearly inapplicable, a trial court's exclusion of evidence crucial to defendant's ability to disprove the good cause requisite to a judgment for plaintiff under Code Civ. Proc. § 1174(a) and Bus. & Prof. Code § 20999.1 is grounds for reversal [E. S. Bills, Inc. v. Tzucanow (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 824, 828, 835, 215 Cal. Rptr. 278, 700 P.2d 1280] . Code Civ. Proc. § 1166a relates to obtaining immediate possession; for discussion, see Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions .

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.114

[1] Definitions

The definitions of "franchise," "franchisor," "franchisee," "trademark," "refiner," "retailer," and "distributor," for purposes of regulating dealings between franchisees and suppliers other than their franchisors, conform with the definitions provided under the federal Petroleum Marketing Practices Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140; 15 U.S.C. § 2801; see § 515.211]. In addition, for purposes of regulating these dealings, California provides the following definitions [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140(g)-(i), (k), (l)]:

- "Marketing premises" are premises that under the franchise are to be employed by the franchisee in connection with the sale, consignment, or distribution of fuel.

- "Leased marketing premises" are premises owned, leased, or controlled by a franchisor, that the franchisee is authorized or permitted by franchise to employ.

- A "contract" is any oral or written agreement.

- "Fuel" is gasoline, diesel, gasohol, or aviation fuel.

- An "affiliate" is any person who, other than by franchise, controls, is controlled by, or is under common control with, any other person.

[2] When Franchisee May Resort to Outside Suppliers

Notwithstanding the terms of the franchise, a franchisee is not precluded from purchasing fuel from any available source if the franchisor is unable or refuses to supply the franchisee with fuel. Failure to deliver contracted, agreed on, or requested quantities of fuel within 72 hours of the specified contract time, agreement, or request constitutes an inability or refusal to supply the franchisee. However, nondelivery of such products by the franchisor due to accident, fire, theft, or other similar acts does not constitute an inability or refusal to supply the franchisee. Additionally, the legislation does not permit a franchisee to purchase more fuel than may be allowed by any federal statute or regulation [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.1].

[3] Notice Requirements

Requests for deliveries of petroleum products may be telephoned to the franchisor. However, when the franchisee intends to seek these products from another supplier because the franchisor is unable or refuses to supply the products, a written request for the products must be made to the franchisor at least 48 hours before desired delivery. Once such notice has been given and the franchisor fails to deliver the products as contracted, agreed on, or requested, no further written request is required from the franchisee until such time as the franchisor notifies the franchisee in writing that the former is prepared to deliver contracted, agreed on, or requested quantities of the products [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.1].

[4] Disclosure to Consumer

If the franchisee sells petroleum products supplied from a source other than the franchisor, the franchisee must post a sign prominently disclosing this fact to the public on each pump dispensing the particular product so purchased. The sign may not be smaller than 8 inches by 10 inches, with letters no less than three inches in height [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.1].

[5] Prohibited Tie-in Requirements

It is illegal for a petroleum products franchisor to require a franchisee to purchase only those tires, batteries, motor oil, and other automotive accessories sold by the franchisor. A franchised retail gasoline dealer may sell any such accessories available to the dealer for retail sale [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.2].

[6] Civil Penalty

The franchisor's executive officer, representative, or agent who negotiates any contract in violation of the provisions governing a franchisee's outside dealings for petroleum products and automotive accessories, or who otherwise coerces a franchisee in violation of such provisions is liable for a civil penalty of up to $100,000 for each offense. The action may be brought by the attorney general, district attorney, county counsel, or city attorney [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.3].

[7] Civil Liability

Anyone injured in his or her business or property by reason of a violation of the provisions regulating franchisees' outside dealings for petroleum products may sue in any proper court in the county where the defendant or any agent of the defendant resides or is found, or where service may be obtained, without respect to the amount in controversy. Recovery is for treble damages sustained plus costs and attorney's fees. The action must be brought within four years after the cause of action accrues [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.4].

§ 515.115 Right of Franchisee to Designate Successor in Interest

[1] Definitions

The definitions applicable to the law allowing a petroleum products franchisee to designate a successor in interest to take over the franchise operation after the franchisee's death are the same as those found in § 515.114[1].

[2] Designation of Successor

It is unlawful to include in a franchise agreement, on or after January 1, 1980, any term which provides for the termination of the franchise by the franchisor on the death of the franchisee if the latter, prior to his or her demise, designates a successor in interest in a form prescribed by and delivered to the franchisor [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.6(a)]. The "successor in interest" is restricted to either a surviving spouse or adult child of the franchisee who, at the time of the franchisee's death, meets the reasonable qualifications then being required of dealers by the franchisor for the operation of service stations [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.6(b)]. The designated successor provisions do not apply to a "trial franchise" as defined in the Petroleum Marketing Practices Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.6(c); see 15 U.S.C. § 2803(b); see also § 515.111[5]].

[3] Successor's Assumption of Franchise

The designated successor in interest must be allowed 21 days after the franchisee's death to give written notice of his or her election to assume and operate the franchise. The notification should contain such information regarding business experience and creditworthiness as is reasonably required by the franchisor. The successor should offer to assume the franchise in writing three business days after the election and must commence operation of the franchise within 10 days after it has been assumed [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.6(d)].

[4] Franchisor's Requirements for Designation

The franchisor may require a franchisee who desires to designate a successor in interest to deposit with the franchisor at the time of designation a sum that would be reasonably estimated to be necessary to compensate the franchisor for rent for a period of 21 days. The deposit is intended to compensate the franchisor if the designee, during the 21-day period after the franchisee's death, fails to assume the franchise obligation. Any unearned portion of the deposit resulting from an earlier assumption of the responsibility, or from the franchisor's temporary operation of the facility during that time period, must be refunded to the estate or legal representative of the deceased franchisee. In addition to the deposit, the franchisor may require a franchisee desiring to designate a successor to arrange for the discharge or performance of other franchise obligations, such as insurance--but excluding any obligation to be open to the public--for a period of up to 21 days after the franchisee's demise [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.6(e)].

[5] Nature of Interest Devolving

Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.6, entitling a franchisee to designate a successor in interest, does not entitle the successor to a greater or lesser franchise than existed in the name of the deceased franchisee at the time of death. This section also neither expands nor diminishes the rights of the franchisor or the franchisee under federal or state law [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.6(f)]. All actions to be performed by the franchisor or successor in interest must be done in a reasonable time in each instance [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.6(h)].

[6] Procedure as Between Alternate Successors

The franchisee may designate a primary and one alternate successor in interest. The alternate, if one is designated, has no rights under the protective legislation in the event of any exercise of rights by the primary successor. If the alternate desires to assume and operate the franchise in the event the primary successsor fails to do so, the alternate must give notice of the election and otherwise comply with the requirements incumbent on the primary successor in giving notice and assuming the franchise [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.6(g); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.6(d)].

[7] Interim Procedure Preceding Successor's Assumption of Franchise

The franchise may not be operated by anyone following the death of the franchisee until all parts of the franchise have been expressly assumed as provided in Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.6. Assumption includes, but is not limited to, such items as leases, products agreement, loaned equipment agreement, federal and state environmental law compliance agreements, licensing, and tax permits. This prohibition does not prevent the franchisor from operating the franchise for his or her own account, nor does it prevent any operation the franchisor agrees to in writing otherwise [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.6(i)].

If the franchisor elects to operate the franchise for his or her own account, it is without obligation or duty to the heirs or estate of the deceased franchisee or to the successor in interest. The franchisor, however, must account to the heirs or the deceased franchisee's estate for the inapplicable portion of any prepaid rent or other sums prepaid to the franchisor, and for any physical inventory salvaged from the franchise and used or sold by the franchisor [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.6(j)]. Similarly, if the successor in interest assumes the franchise and there has been no intervening operation thereof by the franchisor, the successor must account to the heirs or estate of the deceased franchisee for the value or other disposition of personal property of the franchisee located at or related to the franchise [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.6(k)].

[8] Liability

Although Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.6 does not specifically provide for an action for violation of the successor in interest requirements, it does state that liability for failure to comply with the requirements is limited to regular contract damages as provided in Civ. Code § 3300--that is, the amount which will compensate the aggrieved party for all the detriment proximately caused by the breach of obligation, or which, in the ordinary course of things, would be likely to result therefrom. It also provides that an action must be commenced within one year after the cause of action accrues [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.6(l)].

§ 515.116 Petroleum Products Franchisee's Ability to Transfer Franchises

[1] Franchises Affected

Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 21148-21149 restrict the ability of the franchisor to withhold consent to a proposed sale of a petroleum products franchise by the franchisee, if the franchise was entered into after 1980 [Stats. 1980, ch. 698, § 4; see Kreisher v. Mobil Oil Corp. (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 389, 403-405, 243 Cal. Rptr. 662 (Corp. Code § 21148 not retroactive; statute did not require franchisor to consent to assignment of lease executed in 1980, for term commencing January 1, 1981)]. The definitions applicable to this legislation are the same as those discussed in § 515.211.

[2] Restrictions on Franchisor's Withholding Consent

Notwithstanding the terms of the petroleum products franchise, generally the franchisor may not withhold consent to the sale, transfer, or assignment of the franchise by the franchisee to someone else. Statutory exemptions to this general rule permit the franchisor to withhold consent if the franchisor demonstrates in writing to the franchisee, within 45 days of receiving the application or required paperwork, any of five conditions. The franchisor may withhold consent if the proposed purchaser either has less business experience and training or less financial resources than are normally required by the franchisor of prospective franchisees or does not satisfy the then-current, uniformly applied requirements, if any, of the franchisor applicable to prospective franchisees [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21148(a)(1)-(3); see California Service Station etc. Assn. v Union Oil Co. (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 44, 51-53, 283 Cal. Rptr. 279 (provision regarding satisfaction of then-current uniform requirements, is not preempted by PMPA)]. Consent may also be refused if the purchaser operates a franchise under an agreement with a different franchisor, and the then-current, uniformly applied requirements of the franchisor, if any, preclude operating franchises of other franchisors [Corp. Code § 21148(a)(4)]. Finally, consent may be withheld if the franchisee has not offered the proposed transaction in writing to the franchisor on the same terms and conditions as those offered to the proposed purchaser, and allowed the franchisor at least 30 days prior to the proposed transaction in which to accept or decline the offer [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21148(a)(5)].

Notwithstanding the terms of any franchise, a franchisor may not withhold its consent to the sale, transfer, or assignment of the franchise by the franchisee to another person for the purposes of diminishing the market value of the franchise [Corp. Code § 21148(b)]. Further, notwithstanding the terms of any franchise, a franchisor may not withhold its consent to the sale, transfer, or assignment of the franchise by the franchisee to another person because that other person is of foreign origin or is non-English speaking, as long as the prospective franchisee is able to adequately able to communicate with the franchisor and the appropriate federal, state, and local governmental agencies concerning matters of management, operations, environmental compliance, and public safety [Corp. Code § 21148(c)].

A franchisor's "uniformly applied requirements" allowing three-year franchises with renewal options to franchisees who had previously held a franchise with the franchisor but only allowing one-year franchises terminable at any time for any reason to persons who had not previously held one of its franchises was found to violate Bus. & Prof. Code § 21148. The effect of the franchisor's policy was to prevent franchisees from selling or assigning the unexpired portions of their franchises to anyone except persons who were or had previously been franchisees of the same franchisor [California Service Station etc. Assn. v Union Oil Co. (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 44, 56, 283 Cal. Rptr. 279 (further implementation of franchisor's practice enjoined under Bus. & Prof. Code § 17204)].

These exceptions do not apply in the care of a sale, transfer, or assignment of the franchise to a corporation in which the franchisee has a controlling interest if the franchisee offers in writing to guarantee personally the corporation's performance of its obligations under the franchise [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21149].

[3] Transfer Fee

If the franchisor consents to the sale, transfer, or assignment of the petroleum products franchise to a prospective purchaser, the franchisor may require the franchisee to pay a transfer fee to the franchisor. The amount of this fee must be reasonable when compared to the sale price of the franchise, and it may not be required in an effort to frustrate the proposed sale [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21148(d)].

§ 515.130 Governing Law

The subject of new motor dealership franchises in California is covered in Veh. Code §§ 331-331.3, 507, and 3060-3069. Administrative regulations of the New Motor Vehicle Board are contained in 13 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 585-592. California law also regulates recreational vehicle franchises in Veh. Code §§ 331.3 (definition), 11713.22, and 11713.23 [see discussion in § 515.150].

Federal law also gives a franchise automobile dealer a remedy of civil suit in federal court when an automobile manufacturer or distributor engaged in interstate commerce fails to act in good faith in performing or complying with any term of the franchise or in terminating, cancelling, or not renewing the franchise [see 15 U.S.C. § 1221; see generally 15 U.S.C. §§ 1221-1225]. Federal law does not invalidate any provision of state law except when there is a direct conflict between the two laws [see 15 U.S.C. § 1225]. Presently, there appears to be no such conflict between federal and California law.

§ 515.131 Definitions

[1] "Franchise"

A new motor vehicle dealership franchise is a written agreement between two or more persons having all of the following conditions [Veh. Code § 331(a)]:

- A commercial relationship of definite duration or continuing indefinite duration [Veh. Code § 331(a)(1)].

- The franchisee is granted the right to offer for sale or lease, or to sell or lease at retail, new motor vehicles or new trailers subject to identification pursuant to Veh. Code § 5014.1 manufactured or distributed by the franchisor, or the right to perform authorized warranty repairs and service, or the right to perform any combination of these activities [Veh. Code § 331(a)(2)].

- The franchisee constitutes a component of the franchisor's distribution system [Veh. Code § 331(a)(3)].

- The operation of the franchisee's business is substantially associated with the franchisor's trademark, trade name, advertising, or other commercial symbol designating the franchisor [Veh. Code § 331(a)(4)].

- The operation of a portion of the franchisee's business substantially depends on the franchisor for a continued supply of new vehicles, parts, or accessories [Veh. Code § 331(a)(5)].

The term "franchise" does not include an agreement entered into by a manufacturer or distributor and a person who [Veh. Code § 331(b)]:

- Is authorized to perform warranty repairs and service on vehicles manufactured or distributed by the manufacturer or distributor;

- Is not a new motor vehicle dealer franchisee of the manufacturer or distributor; and

- Has a repair and service facility not located within the relevant market area of a new motor vehicle dealer franchisee of the manufacturer or distributor.

[2] Franchise Parties

The franchisor is a manufacturer, assembler, or distributor of new motor vehicles subject to registration under the Vehicle Code or new off-highway motorcycles [see Veh. Code § 436 (definition)], new all-terrain vehicles [see Veh. Code § 111 (definition)], or new trailers subject to identification pursuant to Veh. Code § 5014.1, who grants the franchise [Veh. Code § 331.2]. The franchisee receives new motor vehicles, new off-highway motorcycles, new all-terrain vehicles, or new trailers subject to identification pursuant to Veh. Code § 5014.1 from the franchisor and offers them for sale or lease at retail, or sells or leases them at retail, or is granted the right to perform authorized warranty repairs and service or the right to perform any combination of these activities [Veh. Code § 331.1].

[3] "Relevant Market Area"

The "relevant market area" involved in new motor vehicle franchising is any area within a radius of 10 miles from the site of a potential new dealership [Veh. Code § 507].

§ 515.132 Applicability and Administration of New Motor Vehicle Dealership Franchise Legislation

The special legislation governing new motor vehicle dealership franchises applies to all such dealership franchises regardless of when a franchise was established [Veh. Code § 3069].

The legislation is administered through the New Motor Vehicle Board (contained in the Department of Motor Vehicles), which hears disputes over licensing within the motor vehicle industry, disposes of complaints concerning licensee practices, and hears and considers protests presented by new motor vehicle dealership franchisees [Veh. Code § 3050(b)-(d)].

In response to court decisions holding the composition of the Board to be an unconstitutional denial of due process in disputes between dealers and new car manufacturers, and in protests regarding termination, establishment, or relocation of dealerships, even when the dealers did not participate as voting members because of a substantial probability of bias, the powers of the dealer members of the board were redefined effective September 29, 1985 [see Nissan Motor Corp. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 109, 113, 202 Cal. Rptr. 1 (any decision of improperly constituted board is void); see also University Ford Chrysler-Plymouth,Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 796, 804-806, 224 Cal. Rptr. 908 (policy of new vehicle dealer board members, implemented after Nissan decision, to automatically recuse themselves from participation, hearing, commenting on, or advising on dealer-manufacturer disputes as not curing unconstitutionality in statute as amended in 1979); Chevrolet Motor Division v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 533, 539, 541, 194 Cal. Rptr. 270 ; but see American Isuzu Motors, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 464, 469-473, 230 Cal. Rptr. 769 (upholding decision of board heard under voluntary recusal policy as no prejudice shown)]. Since then, members of the board who are new motor vehicle dealers cannot participate in, hear, comment, advise other members on, or decide (1) any matter considered by the board pursuant to Veh. Code § 11700 et seq. (licensing) that involves a dispute between a franchisee and a franchisor [Veh. Code § 3050(c)], or (2) any matter involving a protest filed pursuant to Veh. Code § 3060 et seq. (termination, establishment, or relocation of dealerships, delivery, preparation, and warranty obligations) [Veh. Code §§ 3050(d), 3066(d) (allowing participation upon stipulation of all parties to protest); see British Motor Car Distributors, Ltd. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 81, 87-89, 239 Cal. Rptr. 280 (recusal and nonparticipation of four dealer members as sufficient to protect distributor's due process rights)].

The New Motor Vehicle Board may also mediate, arbitrate, or otherwise resolve any honest difference of opinion between any member of the public and any new motor vehicle dealer, manufacturer, manufacturer branch, distributor branch, or representative [Veh. Code § 3050(c); but see Tovas v. American Honda Motor Co. (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 506, 509, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 145 ; Hardin Oldsmobile v. New Motor Vehicle Board (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 585, 598, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 583 ; discussed under § 515.142[1]]. Third-party dispute resolution processes used to resolve disputes between buyers and manufacturers relating to the manufacturer's failure, after reasonable attempts at repair, to conform a new motor vehicle to express warranties are discusssed in Ch. 89, Automobiles: Sales and Financing Under the Rees-Levering Act and Ch. 502, Sales: Warranties.

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.133

§ 515.133 Procedure for Terminating or Refusing to Continue Franchise

Notwithstanding Bus. & Prof. Code § 20999.1 or the terms of the franchise, a new motor vehicle franchisor may not terminate or refuse to continue an existing franchise unless all of the following conditions are met [see Veh. Code § 3060(a)]:

First, the franchisee and the New Motor Vehicle Board must have received written notice from the franchisor. The notice must be received at least 60 days before its effective date and must set forth specific grounds for terminating or refusing to continue. The notice is effective, however, if it is received 15 days before its effective date and if (1) an ownership or an interest in the franchise is transferred without the consent of the franchisor, as long as the consent was not unreasonably withheld; (2) the franchisee made a misrepresentation in applying for the franchise; (3) the franchisee is insolvent or bankruptcy or receivership proceedings have been commenced by or against the franchisee; (4) the franchisee engages in an unfair business practice after having been warned thereof; or (5) the motor vehicle dealer failed to conduct its customary sales and service operations during its customary hours of business for seven consecutive business days, giving rise to a good faith belief on the part of the franchisor that the motor vehicle dealer is in fact going out of business, except when this failure to conduct sales and service operations was due to circumstances beyond the direct control of the motor vehicle dealer or by order of the Department of Motor Vehicles [Veh. Code § 3060(a)(1)].

Second, if the franchisee files a protest with the board within 30 days after receiving a 60-day notice or within 30 days after the end of any appeal procedure provided by the franchisor, or 10 days after a 15-day notice, or within 10 days after the end of any appeal procedure provided by the franchisor, the board must hold a hearing, as provided in Veh. Code § 3066, after advising the franchisor that a protest has been filed, and it must find that there is good cause for terminating or refusing to continue the franchise [Veh. Code § 3060(a)(2)]. The 10-day or 15-day period within which the franchisee must file a protest does not begin until the manufacturer or distributor has sent proper notices of termination to both the dealer and the board. Thus, in a case in which no notice was given to the board and the notice to the dealer did not give a reason for the termination, a protest filed more than a year from the date of termination was considered timely [British Motor Car Distributors, Ltd. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 81, 93-94, 239 Cal. Rptr. 280] .

Third, the franchisor must receive the written consent of the franchisee, or the appropriate period for filing a protest must have elapsed [Veh. Code § 3060(a)(3); see British Motor Car Distributors, Ltd. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 81, 93-94, 239 Cal. Rptr. 280 (defective notice does not trigger period for filing protest)].

If a franchise has expired by its terms and without an express agreement between the dealer and the manufacturer to extend it, the court will look to the conduct of the parties to determine if there is an implied extension. Sending notice of termination during a period not covered an express extension has been held to manifest an agreement to continue the franchise beyond its stated expiration date [British Motor Car Distributors, Ltd. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 81, 91-92, 239 Cal. Rptr. 280] .

If the franchisee files a protest pursuant to Veh. Code § 3060 and the undisputed facts show good cause for termination of the franchise, the New Motor Vehicle Board has implied authority to dismiss the protest [Duarte & Witting, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Board (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 626, 637, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 501 (although Board did not have express statutory authority to dismiss, purpose of Board and goal of administrative efficiency supported conclusion that Board had implied authority to dismiss protest when undisputed facts demonstrated good cause for franchise termination as matter of law and afforded no basis for preventing termination of franchise)].

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.134

§ 515.134 Modification or Replacement of Franchise

The franchisor must not modify or replace a franchise with a succeeding franchise without adequate written notice [see Veh. Code § 3060(b)(2) (contents of notice)], or within 10 days after the end of any appeal procedure provided by the franchisor if that action would substantially affect the franchisee's sales or service obligations or investment. Notice must be given to the board and to each affected franchisee at least 60 days in advance of the action being taken [Veh. Code § 3060(b)(1)].

Within 30 days of receipt of the notice, or within 30 days after the end of any appeal procedure provided by the franchisor, a franchisee may file a protest with the board. The modification or replacement does not become effective until the board finds that there is good cause for that action. However, if a replacement franchise is the successor franchise to an expiring or expired term franchise, the prior franchise continues in effect until resolution of the protest by the board. If there are multiple protests, hearings are consolidated to expedite disposition of the issue [Veh. Code § 3060(b)(1)].

If a dealership agreement grants the franchisee an exclusive, nonmodifiable trading area beyond its statutory "relevant market area," and the franchisor seeks to establish another dealership within the exclusive trading area, the encroachment may constitute a modification of the franchise that would entitle the dealer to protest under Veh. Code § 3060 [Ri-Joyce, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 445, 456, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 546] . The dealership agreement in Ri-Joyce provided that the franchisor could establish a new dealership "near" the franchisee's existing one, but only if (1) the franchisor's business expectations were not being fulfilled, (2) the franchisor determined that it would be in the best interests of itself or its customers to do so, (3) it gave the dealer 60 days' notice of the intended action, and (4) during the 60 days, had discussed reasonable alternatives with the dealer. The term "near" was not defined, but could reasonably be interpreted (as urged by the dealer) to extend beyond the statutory relevant market area into a community (Petaluma) previously served by the dealer (Santa Rosa) and from which it derived a significant portion of its business. When a dealership agreement is reasonably susceptible to the meaning urged by the dealer, the Board must hear and consider the dealer's extrinsic evidence to determine what rights are granted by the agreement and whether the franchisor's action constitutes a modification. If the Board finds a modification, it would have to proceed with further consideration of the protest, determining whether the agreement's requirements were met in good faith [Ri-Joyce, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 445, 457-458, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 546] .

4. Trade Practices And Termination Or Nonrenewal Of New Motor Vehicle Dealerships

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.135

§ 515.135 Criteria for Board's Disposition of Issue of Discontinuation or Alteration of Franchise

The first step in evaluating a protested modification is to determine what rights were granted under the franchise agreement. Within the meaning of Veh. Code § 3060 a franchise is a written agreement subject to the normal rules relating to interpretation of contracts [see Ri-Joyce, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 445, 458, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 546 (discussed under § 515.134 with respect to whether establishment of new dealership outside statutory relevant market area may be modification under particular agreement, thus entitling dealer to protest)].

In determining whether good cause has been established for modifying, replacing, terminating, or refusing to continue a franchise, the board takes into consideration the existing circumstances including any of the following [Veh. Code § 3061]:

- The amount of business transacted by the franchisee as compared to the business available to the franchisee.
- The investment necessarily made and obligations incurred by the franchisee.
- The permanence of the investment.
- The effect on the public welfare.
- Adequacy of the franchisee's facilities, equipment, parts, and personnel.
- Adequacy of services to the public.
- Fulfillment of warranty obligations by the franchisee.
- The franchisee's compliance with the terms of the franchise.

- Any similar relevant circumstances.

The board, however, is not required to take evidence on each of the listed factors. For example, if a franchise is terminated because the manufacturer stops making the product, a dealer's proof that it has performed its obligations will not avoid termination [Duarte & Witting, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Board (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 626, 642-643, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 501 (board did not commit prejudicial abuse of discretion by refusing to conduct hearing on good cause factors in Veh. Code § 3061)].

§ 515.136 Establishment of Additional Dealership or Relocation of Existing One

A franchisor sometimes seeks to enter into a franchise establishing an additional motor vehicle dealership or a satellite warranty facility [see Veh. Code § 3062(e)(1), (2) (definitions of motor vehicle dealership and satellite warranty facility); see also § 515.137] within a relevant market area where the same line-make is already represented, or relocating an existing dealership. Except for nominal relocations, the franchisor first is required to notify, in writing, the board and each franchisee in that line-make in the relevant market area of the franchisor's intention to establish an additional dealership or to relocate an existing one within or into that area [Veh. Code § 3062(a)(1)].

Any franchisee required to be given the notice may file with the board a protest to the proposed action within 20 days of receiving the notice or within 20 days after the end of any appeal procedure provided by the franchisor. If within this time a franchisee files with the board a request for additional time to file a protest, the board or its executive director, upon a showing of good cause, may grant an additional 10 days to file the protest. The board then informs the franchisor of the timely protest, the required hearing, and the automatic hold placed on the proposed action until the hearing. The board also will caution the franchisor that the action cannot take place at all if the board determines that there is good cause for not permitting the proposed establishment or relocation of the dealership. Hearings may be consolidated in the event of multiple protests [Veh. Code § 3062(a)(1); see New Motor Vehicle Bd. v. Orrin W. Fox Co. (1978) 439 U.S. 96, 108, 99 S. Ct. 403, 58 L. Ed. 2d 361 ; Chrysler Corp. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 1034, 1041, 1043, 153 Cal. Rptr. 135 (holding Veh. Code § 3062 to be constitutional)].

Nothing in the New Motor Vehicle Board Act prevents a franchisor from reserving for itself, in a dealership agreement, an unqualified right to establish a new dealership. If a franchisor has reserved that right, the franchisee is not entitled to object to the establishment of the new dealership beyond its relevant market area, that is, more than 10 miles away [Ri-Joyce, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 445, 456, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 546 (construing the holding in BMW of North America, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 980, 991, 209 Cal. Rptr. 50)]. On the other hand, if the dealership agreement grants the franchisee an exclusive, nonmodifiable trading area beyond its statutory "relevant market area," and the franchisor seeks to establish another dealership within the exclusive trading area, the encroachment may constitute a modification of the franchise, which would entitle the dealer to protest under Veh. Code § 3060 [Ri-Joyce, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 445, 456, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 546 ; see § 515.134].

§ 515.137 Establishment of Satellite Warranty Facility or Relocation of Existing One

If a franchisee seeks to enter into a franchise that authorizes a satellite warranty facility [see Veh. Code § 3062(e)(2) (definition)] to be established at, or relocated to, a proposed location which is within two miles of any dealership of the same line-make, the franchisor must first give written notice [see Veh. Code § 3062(a)(3) (contents of notice)] of the intention to establish or relocate a satellite warranty facility at the proposed location to the board and each franchisee operating a dealership of the same line-make within two miles of the proposed location [Veh. Code § 3062(a)(2)]. Within 20 days of receiving the notice or 20 days after the end of any appeal procedure provided by the franchisor, any franchisee required to be given the notice may file with the board a protest to the establishing or relocating of the satellite warranty facility. If within this time the franchisee files with the board a request for additional time to file a protest, an additional 10 days to file may be granted upon a showing of good cause. When such a protest is filed, the board must inform the franchisor that a timely protest has been filed, that a hearing is required, and that the franchisor must not establish or relocate the proposed satellite warranty facility until the board has held the hearing, nor thereafter if the board has determined that there is good cause for not permitting the satellite warranty facility. If multiple protests are filed, hearings may be consolidated to expedite the disposition of the issue [Veh. Code § 3062(a)(2)].

§ 515.138 Criteria for Board Disposition of Issue of Establishment or Relocation

The board determines whether good cause has been established for not entering into or relocating an additional franchise for the same line-make by considering the following circumstances [Veh. Code § 3063]:

- Permanence of the investment and its effect on the vehicle business and the consuming public.
- Whether the investment is injurious to the public welfare.
- Adequacy of present competition and consumer care (including sales and service facilities, equipment, supply of vehicle parts, and qualified service personnel).
- Desirability of increased competition.
- Any other circumstances.

These standards suggest that the board balance (1) the dealers' interest in maintaining viable businesses, (2) the manufacturer's interest in promoting sales, and (3) the public's interest in adequate competition and convenient service [see Piano v. California ex rel. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1980) 103 Cal. App. 3d 412, 417, 418, 163 Cal. Rptr. 41] .

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.139

§ 515.139 Delivery and Preparation

[1] Franchisor's Requirements as to Franchisee's Obligations

The franchisor must specify to the franchisee the delivery and preparation obligations of the latter prior to delivery of new motor vehicles to retail buyers. These obligations constitute the franchisee's only responsibility to the franchisor for product liability; however, they do not affect in any way the franchisee's responsibility for product liability between the purchaser and either the franchisee or franchisor. The franchisor must file a copy of the obligations with the board [Veh. Code § 3064(a)].

On delivery of the vehicle, the franchisee needs to give a copy of the delivery and preparation obligations to the purchaser, along with a written certification that the franchisee has fulfilled such obligations [Veh. Code § 3064(b)].

[2] Franchisor's Schedule of Compensation for Franchisee's Performance

The franchisor must draft a schedule of compensation to be paid to franchisees for the work and services they will be required to perform in connection with their obligations. The franchisor must file the schedule with the board. The compensation set forth on the schedule then constitutes the actual compensation to be remitted to the franchisee for performing these obligations [Veh. Code § 3064(a)].

The schedule of compensation must be reasonable and is subject to the approval of the board when a franchisee files a notice of protest with such body. In determining the reasonableness of the schedule, the board considers all relevant circumstances, including, but not limited to, the time required to perform each function that the dealer is obligated to perform, and the appropriate labor rate [Veh. Code § 3064(a)].

§ 515.140 Warranty Work

[1] Compensation Schedule and Franchisee's Protest to Board

Similar provisions exist for warranty agreements [Veh. Code § 3065] and warranty incentive programs [Veh. Code § 3065.1]. The provisions applicable to warranty incentive programs are discussed below. With respect to warranty agreements, a franchisor must properly fulfill every warranty agreement it makes. It must compensate each of its franchisees adequately and fairly for labor and parts used when the franchisee has fulfilled warranty obligations of repair and servicing. A copy of the warranty reimbursement schedule or formula must be filed with the board. The schedule or formula must be reasonable with respect to the time and compensation allowed the franchisee for the warranty work and all other conditions of such obligation. The reasonableness of the schedule or formula is subject to the board's determination when a notice of protest is filed by a franchisee [Veh. Code § 3065(a)]. The Board has jurisdiction over all aspects of Section 3065 and its implementation. Veh. Code § 3050(c) grants the Board authority to consider any matter involving warranty reimbursement practices, including a petition seeking an order that the franchisor cease and desist making statements that formed the basis for a slander action. The statements alleged to have been made by the franchisor after an audit were that it was "pulling the franchise" because it had found evidence of "massive warranty fraud" that "hit a new record" [Mathew Zaheri Corp. v. Mitsubishi Motor Sales (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 288, 291-295, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 325] .

In determining the adequacy and fairness of the compensation, the franchisee's effective labor rate charged to its various retail customers may be considered along with other relevant criteria [Veh. Code § 3065(b)].

[2] Franchisee's Claim for Defective Parts or Warranty Compensation

The franchisee may make a claim on the franchisor that a particular part is defective. The claim must be approved or disapproved within 30 days after it is received by the franchisor. Any claim not specifically disapproved in writing within 30 days from receipt by the franchisor will be deemed approved on the 30th day. If the claim is disapproved, the franchisee who submitted it must be notified in writing within the required 30-day period. The notice needs to state the specific grounds on which the disapproval is based [Veh. Code § 3065(d)]. The franchisor may disallow a claim for a defective part, alleging that the part is, in fact, not defective. In such a case the part must be returned to the franchisee at the expense of the franchisor, or else the franchisee must be reimbursed for the cost of the part, at the option of the franchisor [Veh. Code § 3065(c)].

A franchisor can disapprove a claim for warranty compensation only for good cause, such as performance of nonwarranty repairs, lack of material documentation, or fraud [Veh. Code § 3065(e)].

[3] Time for Payments, Audits, and Chargebacks

All claims made by franchisees for labor and parts must be paid within 30 days following approval by the franchisor. In individual instances failure to approve or pay within the specified time limits for reasons beyond the franchisor's reasonable control is not a violation of the governing law [Veh. Code § 3065(d)].

A franchisor may conduct audits of franchisee warranty records on a reasonable basis, and for a period of 12 months after a claim is paid or credit issued [Veh. Code § 3065(e)]. Any chargeback to a franchisee for warranty parts or service compensation must be made within 90 days of the completion of the audit. If a franchisee submitted a false claim with intent to defraud the franchisor, a longer period for audit and any resulting chargeback may be permitted if the franchisor obtains an order from the board [Veh. Code § 3065(e)].

§ 515.141 Claims Under Warranty Incentive Programs

The provisions governing warranty incentive programs [Veh. Code § 3065.1] are the same as, or substantially similar to, those governing warranty agreements in the following ways:

- All claims made by a franchisee for payment under the terms of a franchisor incentive program must be either approved or disapproved within 30 days after receipt by the franchisor [Veh. Code § 3065.1(a)].

- A claim for payment under the terms of a franchisor incentive program can be disapproved only for good cause, such as ineligibility under the terms of the incentive program, lack of material documentation, or fraud [Veh. Code § 3065.1(b)].

- When any claim is disapproved, the franchisor must notify the franchisee writing of its disapproval within the required (30-day) period, and each notice must state the specific grounds on which the disapproval is based [Veh. Code § 3065.1(a)].

- An approved claim must be paid within 30 days following approval [Veh. Code § 3065.1(a)].

- Any claim not specifically disapproved in writing within 30 days from receipt is deemed approved on the 30th day [Veh. Code § 3065.1(a)].

- Failure to approve or pay a claim under an incentive program within the above specified time limits, in individual instances for reasons beyond the reasonable control of the franchisor, does not constitute a violation of the governing law [Veh. Code § 3065.1(a)].

Following the disapproval of a claim for payment under the terms of a franchisor incentive program, a franchisee has one year from receipt of the notice of disapproval in which to appeal the disapproval to the franchisor and file a protest with the board [Veh. Code § 3065.1(a)].

The franchisor may audit the franchisee's incentive records on a reasonable basis for a period of 18 months after a claim is paid or credit issued [Veh. Code § 3065.1(b); see Veh. Code § 3065(e) (12 months for warranty agreement)]. Following the audit, the franchisor has 90 days within which to make chargeback, except that a longer period applies if the franchisee submitted a false claim with the intent to defraud the franchisor, and the franchisor obtains an order from the board [Veh. Code § 3065.1(b); see Veh. Code § 3065(e) (same rule applies to warranty agreements)].

§ 515.142 Board Hearing Procedure and Review of Decisions

[1] Grant of Authority

Veh. Code § 3050(c) grants the New Motor Vehicle Board authority to consider any matter concerning the activities or practices of any persons holding licenses as new motor vehicle dealer and/or manufacturer [Mathew Zaheri Corp. v. Mitsubishi Motor Sales (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 288, 295, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 325 ; see Duarte & Witting, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Board (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 626, 637, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 501 (when Board had subject matter jurisdiction over dispute but lacked authority to grant any remedy when franchise termination was due to discontinuation of product line, Board had implied authority to dismiss franchisee's protest)]. The Board, however, is a quasi-judicial administrative agency of limited jurisdiction. It does not have plenary authority to resolve any and all disputes which may arise between a franchisor and a franchisee [Ri-Joyce, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 445, 455, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 546] . The jurisdiction of the Board is limited to consideration and resolution of only a circumscribed domain of matters. Thus, one court has held that the New Motor Vehicles Board's assertion of jurisdiction over a dealer's state statutory and common-law claims arising out of allegations of the manufacturer's misdealing violated the judicial powers clause of California Constitution [Hardin Oldsmobile v. New Motor Vehicle Board (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 585, 598, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 583] . Another court, after examining the legislative history of Veh. Code § 3050(c), has held that a cause of action for contractual interference based on tortious business practices independent of any franchise agreement, brought by a nonsignatory to a franchise agreement with Honda, is not the type of claim over which that section gives the Board jurisdiction [Tovas v. American Honda Motor Co. (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 506, 509, 521, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 145] .

Further, Veh. Code § 3050(e) provides that the courts have jurisdiction over all common law and statutory claims originally cognizable in the courts, and that for those claims a party may initiate an action directly in any court of competent jurisdiction. Thus, in a case in which a manufacturer demurred to a dealers's complaint which consisted entirely of common law claims, on the basis of the dealer's failure to exhaust its administrative remedies, the court of appeal held that the trial court erred in sustaining the demurrer and dismissing the action [South Bay Creditors Trust v. General Motors Acceptance Corporation (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 1068, 1079-1080, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 (finding that Legislature never intended Board to be exclusive arbiter of all disputes between new motor vehicle dealers and manufacturers)]. The court also held that the trial court's referral of the case to the Board under the doctrine of primary jurisdiction was inappropriate because the factual issues and common law claims raised by nothing the complaint were not beyond the usual competence of the courts [South Bay Creditors Trust v. General Motors Acceptance Corporation (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 1068, 1081-1082, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 (referral was also inconsistent with court's dismissal of action)].

The procedure for drafting and filing protests, setting the hearing date, and hearing on the protest is set out in 13 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 583-598. Either party is entitled to seek judicial review of final decisions of the board. Filing for such review is permitted up to 45 days from the date on which the final order of the board is made public and delivered to the parties personally or sent to them by registered mail [Veh. Code § 3068].

[2] Judicial Review

Judicial review is by way of administrative mandate under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 [see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions]. The trial court hearing the petition for the writ performs essentially an appellate function. Unless there is a fundamental right at issue, the trial court cannot reweigh the evidence, but only determines whether there was substantial evidence to support the board's decision [Champion Motorcycles, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 819, 823-825, 246 Cal. Rptr. 325 ; British Motor Car Distributors, Ltd. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 81, 90-92, 239 Cal. Rptr. 280] . The right to terminate or modify a dealership, to add a new dealership, or to choose one's business associations, even though related to freedom of contract and freedom of association, involves merely the preservation of an economic interest, not a fundamental vested right [Champion Motorcycles, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 819, 823-825, 246 Cal. Rptr. 325 ; British Motor Car Distributors, Ltd. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 81, 90, 239 Cal. Rptr. 280] .

§ 515.150 Recreational Vehicle Franchise

[1] Definition

A "recreational vehicle franchise" is a written agreement between two or more persons for a commercial relationship of definite duration or continuing indefinite duration, in which the franchisee is granted the right to offer for sale or lease, or to sell or lease at retail, new recreational vehicles [see Health & Safety Code § 18010(a) (definition)] that are manufactured or distributed by the franchisor, or the right to perform authorized warranty repairs and service, or the right to perform any combination of these activities [Veh. Code § 331.3].

[2] Delivery of Agreement to Dealer

When parties mutually agree to enter into a recreational vehicle franchise, it is unlawful and a violation of the Vehicle Code for a manufacturer, manufacturer branch, distributor, or distributor branch licensed under the Vehicle Code to fail or refuse to provide a recreational vehicle dealer with a written recreational vehicle franchise that complies with the requirements of Veh. Code § 331.3 [Veh. Code § 11713.22(a)]. Notwithstanding Veh. Code § 331.3, the agreement must include, but not be limited to, provisions regarding dealership transfer, dealership termination, sales territory, and reimbursement for costs incurred by the dealer for work related to the manufacturer's warranty for each line-make of recreational vehicle covered by the agreement [Veh. Code § 11713.22(b)].

These requirements do not extend to an agreement with a dealer who deals exclusively in truck campers [Veh. Code § 11713.22(c)].

[3] Franchise Agreement Is Necessary

A recreational vehicle manufacturer, manufacturer branch, distributor, or distributor branch licensed under the Vehicle Code may not sell a new recreational vehicle in California to or through a recreational vehicle dealer without having first entered into a written recreational vehicle franchise, with that recreational vehicle dealer, that complies with the requirements of Veh. Code § 331.3 and has been signed by both parties [Veh. Code § 11713.23(a)]. A recreational vehicle dealer may not sell a new recreational vehicle in California without having first entered into a written recreational vehicle franchise, with a recreational vehicle manufacturer, manufacturer branch, distributor, or distributor branch licensed under the Vehicle Code, that complies with the requirements of Veh. Code § 331.3 and has been signed by both parties [Veh. Code § 11713.23(b)].

Beginning January 1, 2009, a recreational vehicle manufacturer, manufacturer branch, distributor, or distributor branch may not ship a new recreational vehicle to a recreational dealer without a recreational vehicle franchise that has been signed by both parties [Veh. Code § 11713.23(c)(1)]. On or after January 1, 2009, a recreational vehicle dealer also may not receive a new recreational vehicle from a recreational vehicle manufacturer, manufacturer branch, distributor, or distributor branch without a recreational vehicle franchise that has been signed by both parties [Veh. Code § 11713.23(c)(2)]. Any new recreational vehicle inventory that was bought by a recreational vehicle dealer, or shipped by a manufacturer, manufacturer branch, distributor, or distributor branch, before January 1, 2009, may be sold at any time without a recreational vehicle franchise [Veh. Code § 11713.23(d)].

These requirements do not extend to an agreement with a dealer who deals exclusively in truck campers [Veh. Code § 11713.23(e)].

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.161

§ 515.161 Fair Dealership Law

[1] Purpose and Policies

The California Fair Dealership Law [Civ. Code § 80] is designed to prohibit unlawful discrimination in the granting, sale, transfer, bequest, termination, and nonrenewal of dealerships. The requirements of the law may not be varied by contract or agreement and any portion of a contract or agreement purporting to do so is void and unenforceable. The law is to be liberally construed and applied to promote its underlying purposes and policies [Civ. Code § 82].

[2] Definitions

[a] "Dealership"

A "dealership" under the Fair Dealership Law is a contract or agreement, either express or implied, oral or written, between two or more persons (a) under which a person is granted the right to sell or distribute goods or services or to use a trade name, trademark, service mark, logotype, or advertising or other commercial symbol and (b) in which there is a community of interest in the business of offering, selling, or distributing goods or services at wholesale or retail, by lease, agreement, or otherwise. A "community of interest" is a continuing financial interest between the grantor and grantee in the operation of the dealership or the marketing of the goods or services [Civ. Code § 81(b), (d)].

[b] Dealership Parties and Relationship

A "grantor" is the person who sells, leases, or otherwise transfers a dealership [Civ. Code § 81(c)]; a "grant" is a sale, lease, or transfer of any kind [Civ. Code § 81(f)]; and a "dealer" is the grantee of a dealership situated in California [Civ. Code § 81(e)]. A grantor or grantee may be a natural person, partnership, joint venture, corporation, limited liability company, or other entity [Civ. Code § 81(a)].

[3] Prohibitions on Discriminatory Acts

The following actions are prohibited under the Fair Dealership Law, whether taken directly or indirectly:

- The grantor's refusal to grant a dealership to any person because of any characteristic listed or defined in Civ. Code § 51(b), (e) ("Unruh Civil Rights Act"); that is, sex, race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, disability, medical condition, marital status, or sexual orientation (including a perception that a person has, or is associated with someone who has or is perceived to have, any particular characteristic or characteristics within the listed categories) [Civ. Code § 83].

- The grantor's termination, cancellation, or refusal to renew a dealership agreement for these reasons [Civ. Code § 84].

- The grantor's or the dealer's refusal to make or consent to an assignment, sale, transfer, or bequest of a dealership to any person because of these characteristics of that person (this does not create any such right in a dealer to assign, sell, transfer, or bequeath a dealership if the right did not exist prior to the effective date of this law, January 1, 1981) [Civ. Code § 85].

[4] Liability

Although the California Fair Dealership Law does not specifically provide for a cause of action for damages whenever a franchisor violates its provisions, it does provide that the prevailing party in any action based on a violation of the law is entitled to recover reasonable attorney's fees and court costs [Civ. Code § 86].

5. Dealership Discrimination

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.162

§ 515.162 Civil Rights Legislation Covering Franchises Generally

[1] Scope of Nondiscriminatory Provisions

No franchisor may discriminate in the granting of franchises solely on account of the sex, race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, disability, medical condition, marital status, or sexual orientation of the franchisee and the composition of a neighborhood or geographic area reflecting any of those characteristics in which the franchise is located [Civ. Code §§ 51(b), 51.8(a); see Civ. Code § 51(e) (definitions)].

The preceding prohibitions do not prohibit a franchisor from granting a franchise to prospective franchisees as part of a program or programs to make franchises available to persons lacking the capital, training, business experience, or other qualifications ordinarily required of franchisees, or any other affirmative action program adopted by the franchisor [Civ. Code § 51.8(a)].

The anti-discrimination mandate does not require any construction, alteration, or repair, whether structural or otherwise, or modification of any sort whatsoever, beyond whatever construction, alteration, repair, or modification is otherwise required by other provisions of law, as to any new or existing establishment, facility, building, improvement, or any other structure. Nor does the anti-discrimination mandate augment, restrict, or alter in any way the authority of the state architect to require construction, alteration, repair, or modifications that the state architect otherwise possesses pursuant to other laws [Civ. Code § 51.8(b)].

[2] Liability

No remedial provision in Civ. Code § 43 et seq. (concerning personal rights) creates any liability for damages based on a violation of Civ. Code § 51.8. The remedy for an aggrieved franchisee, therefore, is an action for appropriate equitable relief, such as an injunction to restrain and prevent a violation of the statute.

6. Seller Assisted Marketing Plans

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.181

§ 515.181 Purpose of Regulatory Legislation

The California Legislature has found that purchasers of "seller assisted marketing plans," often connected with the sale of vending machines, racks, or work-at-home paraphernalia, are frequently inexperienced in business matters, many of them elderly, who use their life savings to purchase the plan in hope of supplementing retirement income or present salary. The initial payment is usually in the form of a purchase of overpriced equipment or products. Because of significant losses suffered in the past and the resulting impact on local economy, the Legislature has provided disclosure procedures to be followed by the seller to allow the purchaser to make a more informed decision as to the purchase of the plan, as well as to safeguard against deceit and financial hardship and to enhance competition and fair dealing in such sales. The legislation, which also prohibits misleading representations and unfair contract terms, is to be construed liberally toward such ends [Civ. Code § 1812.200].

6. Seller Assisted Marketing Plans

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.182

§ 515.182 Definitions

[1] "Seller Assisted Marketing Plan"

A "seller assisted marketing plan" is any sale, lease, or offer to sell or lease any product, equipment, supplies, or services, requires a total initial payment exceeding $500, but requires an initial cash payment of less than $50,000, that will aid, or be used by or on behalf of, a purchaser in connection with or incidental to beginning, maintaining, or operating a business. The seller of the plan must advertise or in some other manner solicit the purchase or lease of the plan and represent that (1) the purchaser will, is likely to, or can earn an amount in excess of the initial participation payment; (2) a market exists for the product, equipment, supplies, or services, or any product marketed by the user of the product, equipment, supplies, or services sold or leased or offered for sale or lease to the purchaser by the seller, including any tangible or intangible item or service the purchaser made, produced, fabricated, grew, bred, modified, or developed using, in whole or in part, such product, equipment, supplies, or services; or (3) that the seller will, or is likely to, buy back any product made, produced, fabricated, grown, or bred by the purchaser using, in whole or in part, the matters initially involved in the sale or lease, or offered thereof [Civ. Code § 1812.201(a)].

A seller assisted marketing plan does not include any of the following [Civ. Code § 1812.201(b)]:

- A qualified or exempt security [see Corp. Code § 25019];

- A franchise, whether registered or exempt from registration under the Franchise Investment Law [Corp. Code § 31000 et seq.];

- Any transaction in which either seller or purchaser, lessor or lessee, is licensed pursuant to, and the transaction is governed by, the Real Estate Law [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10000].

- A license granted by a general merchandise retailer allowing the licensee to sell goods, equipment, supplies, products, or services to the general public under the retailer's trademark, trade name, or service mark, if (1) the general merchandise retailer has been doing business in California continually for five years prior to the grant; (2) the general merchandise retailer sells diverse kinds of goods, equipment, supplies, products, or services; (3) the general merchandise retailer also sells the same goods, equipment, supplies, products, or services directly to the general public; and (4) during the previous 12 months, the general merchandise retailer's direct sales of the same goods, equipment, supplies, products, or services to the public accounted for at least 50 percent of its yearly sales of those things made under the retailer's trademark, trade name, or service mark.

- A newspaper distribution system [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6362].

- A sale or lease to an existing or beginning business enterprise that also sells or leases equipment, products, or supplies, or performs services that are not supplied by the seller and that the purchaser does not utilize with the items or services supplied by the seller, and the equipment products, supplies, or services not supplied by the seller account for more than 25 percent of the purchaser's gross sales.

- The sale in the entirety of an ongoing business, that is, a business that for at least six months prior to the sale has been operated from a given specific location, has been open for business to the general public, and has had all equipment and supplies necessary for operating the business at that location; the sale must be of the entire "ongoing business" and not merely a portion of the ongoing business.

- A sale or lease, or offer thereof, to a purchaser who has for at least six months previously bought products, supplies, services, or equipment sold under the same trademark or trade name, or that were produced by the seller, and who has received on resale of such items or services an amount which is at least equal to the amount of the initial payment.

- The renewal or extension of an existing seller assisted marketing plan contract.

- A product distributorship that meets each of the following requirements:

    - The seller sells products to the purchaser for resale by the purchaser, and it is reasonably contemplated that substantially all of the purchaser's sales of the product will be at wholesale;

    - The agreement between the parties does not require that the purchaser pay the seller, or any person associated with the seller (i.e., a person, including an individual or a business entity, controlling, controlled by, or under the same control as the seller), a fee or any other payment for the right to enter into the agreement, and does not require the purchaser to buy a minimum or specified quantity of the products, or to buy products for a minimum or specified period of time;

    - The seller is a corporation, partnership, limited liability company, joint venture, or any other business entity;

    - The seller has a net worth (which may be determined on a consolidated basis if the seller is a subsidiary of another business entity that is permitted by generally accepted accounting standards to prepare financial statements on a consolidated basis and that business entity absolutely and irrevocably agrees in writing to guarantee the seller's obligations to the purchaser) of at least $10,000,000 according to audited financial statements of the seller done during the 18 months preceding the date of the initial sale of products to the purchaser; and the seller's net worth is verified by a certification to the Attorney General from an independent certified public accountant that the audited financial statement reflects a net worth of at least $10,000,000, provided within 30 days following receipt of a written request from the Attorney General;

- The seller grants the purchaser a license to use a trademark that is registered under federal law; and

- It is not an agreement or arrangement encouraging a distributor to recruit others to participate in the program and compensating the distributor for recruiting others into the program or for sales made by others recruited into the program.

[2] "Seller"

The "seller" is the person who sells or leases, or offers to sell or lease, a seller assisted marketing plan. To be a seller, one must have sold or leased, or represent or imply that he or she has sold or leased, whether in California or elsewhere, at least five plans within 24 months prior to the solicitation. Otherwise, the seller must intend, or represent or imply an intent, to sell or lease, whether here or elsewhere, at least five plans within 12 months following the solicitation. The seller is the person to whom the purchaser becomes contractually obligated. The term "seller" does not include a licensed real estate broker or salesperson engaging in the sale or lease of a "business opportunity" [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10030] under the Real Estate Law [Civ. Code § 1812.201(d)].

[3] "Purchaser"

The "purchaser" is the person who is solicited to become obligated, or who does become so, under a seller assisted marketing plan [Civ. Code § 1812.201(e)].

[4] Business Items

"Equipment" includes machines, all electrical devices, video or audio devices, molds, display racks, vending machines, coin-operated game machines, machines which dispense products, and display units of all kinds [Civ. Code § 1812.201(f)]. "Supplies" includes any and all materials used to produce, grow, breed, or make any product or item [Civ. Code § 1812.201(g)]. A "product" includes any tangible chattel, including food or living animals, that the purchaser intends to (1) sell or lease; (2) use to perform a service; (3) resell or attempt to resell to the seller; or (4) provide or attempt to provide to the seller, or person whom the seller suggests the buyer contact, so that the seller or other person directly or indirectly assisting the buyer in disposing of the product might resell the product to the general public [Civ. Code § 1812.201(h)]. "Services" include any assistance, guidance, direction, work, labor, or services provided by the seller to initiate or maintain a business [Civ. Code § 1812.201(i)].

[5] "Contract"

The "seller assisted marketing plan contract" (or "contract") is any contract or agreement that obligates a purchaser to a seller [Civ. Code § 1812.201(j)].

[6] Financing Terms

The "initial payment" is the total amount the purchaser is obligated to pay to the seller under the terms of the plan contract prior to or at the time of delivery of the equipment, supplies, products, or services, or within six months of the purchaser commencing operation of the plan. If the contract sets forth a specific total sale price for purchase of the plan that is to be paid partially as a downpayment and then in specific monthly payments, the "initial payment" is the entire total sale price [Civ. Code § 1812.201(k)]. The "initial cash payment" or "downpayment" is the portion of the initial payment which the purchaser is obligated to pay to the seller prior to, or at the time of, delivery of the above items or services. It does not include any amount financed, or for which financing is to be obtained, by the seller, or financing which the seller assists in obtaining [Civ. Code § 1812.201(l)]. References to "buy-back" or "secured investment" are considered to be representations that imply that the purchaser's initial payment is protected from loss [see Civ. Code § 1812.201(m)].

An offer to sell or to lease a seller-assisted marketing plan occurs in California whenever the offer is made in California, the purchaser resides in California at the time of the offer, or the offer either originates in California or is directed by the seller or lessor to California and received at the place to which directed. A sale or lease of such a plan occurs in California whenever the offer to sell or to lease is accepted in California, the purchaser resides in California at the time of the sale, or the acceptance is communicated to a seller situated in California [*Civ. 45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.184

§ 515.184 "Buy-Back" Representations

[1] Restrictions on Use in Solicitation

A seller must not use the phrase "buy-back" or "secured investment" or similar phrase orally or in writing when soliciting, offering, leasing, or selling a plan if (1) the "security" is the value of the equipment, supplies, products, or services supplied by the seller to the purchaser [Civ. Code § 1812.204(a)]; or (2) if there are any restrictions or qualifications whatsoever preventing or limiting a purchaser from being able to invoke the "buy-back" or "secured" portion of the plan contract at any time the purchaser so desires during the one-year period following the contract date. On invocation of a "buy-back" or "security" provision, the purchaser is entitled to have returned, at minimum, the full amount of the initial payment, less the "amount actually received" from the operation of the plan. This latter amount is either that which the seller actually paid the purchaser for a product resold to the seller, or the money the purchaser received for use of the product or services, less what the purchaser paid (1) for placing the product or services at a particular location and (2) to obtain other items needed to sell, or develop in some manner, the item that the purchaser intends to sell or otherwise dispose of [Civ. Code § 1812.204(b)].

[2] Bond or Trust Account Requirements

The seller may not represent that a purchaser's initial payment is "secured" in any way or to any degree, or that the seller is providing a "buy-back" arrangement unless the seller has, as provided in Civ. Code § 1812.214(b), obtained a surety bond issued by a surety company admitted in California, or established a trust account at a federally insured bank or a savings and loan located in California [Civ. Code § 1812.204(c)]. The bond or trust account required must be in favor of the State of California for the benefit of any person who is damaged by any violation of Civ. Code §§ 1812.200-1812.221 or by the seller's breach of a seller assisted marketing contract or of any obligation arising from that contract [Civ. Code § 1812.214(b)(2)], and must be in an amount equal to the total amount of the "initial payment" portion of all seller assisted marketing plan contracts the seller has entered into during the previous year or $300,000, whichever is less, but in no case less than $50,000 [Civ. Code § 1812.214(b)(4)]. Any person claiming against the trust account for a violation of Civ. Code §§ 1812.200-1812.221 may maintain an action at law against the seller and the trustee. The surety or trustee is only liable for actual damages, not for the punitive damages permitted under Civ. Code §

1812.218. The aggregate liability of the trustee to all persons damaged by a seller's violation may in no event exceed the amount of the trust account [Civ. Code § 1812.214(b)(3)]. For additional discussion of enforcement of statutory surety bonds, see Ch. 538, Suretyship, Bonds, and Undertakings . Note, however, that when the seller has elected to maintain a trust account in lieu of a bond, the person asserting a claim against the trust, in lieu of the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 996.430, must establish a claim by furnishing evidence of a money judgment and evidence that the claimant is a person described in Civ. Code § 1812.214 to the Attorney General [see Civ. Code § 1812.221(a)].

The seller is not allowed to represent that the seller assisted marketing plan provides income or earning potential of any kind unless the seller has data to substantiate such a claim. The data must be based on the experiences of at least 10 purchasers of the offered plan, and be disclosed to the purchaser at the time the claim is made, if made in person, or at the time of the first in-person communication, if the claim is made in writing or over the telephone. At the time the data is disclosed, it must be left with the purchaser [Civ. Code § 1812.204(d)].

The data the seller leaves must at least disclose (1) the time the seller has been selling the particular plan being offered, and (2) the number of purchasers and percentage of total purchasers from the seller that the seller knows to have made at least the same sales, income, or profits as represented [*Civ. The document must provide data about the selling company, the initial payment to be paid, services to be provided, potential earnings, and the nature of any "buyback" or "secured" arrangement [see Civ. Code § 1812.205]. At least 48 hours before execution of the seller assisted marketing plan, or 48 hours prior to the receipt of any consideration, whichever occurs first, the seller, or his or her representative, must also provide to the prospective purchaser a written information sheet disclosing the management team behind the plan, any history of business violations and bankruptcies thereof, the seller's experience in selling such plans, information as to any required bond, a copy of a recent financial statement, as updated, and an unexecuted copy of the plan contract. The contract may be combined with the first required disclosure form, together to be titled "DISCLOSURES REQUIRED BY CALIFORNIA LAW," if they can satisfy the information and time obligations of each disclosure requirement [see Civ. Code § 1812.206].

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.189

§ 515.189 Plan Contract Requirements

[1] Drafting and Presenting

Each contract for sale or lease of a seller assisted marketing plan in California must be in writing and is subject to all statutory requirements governing such plans. A copy of the fully completed contract and all other documents requiring the purchaser's signature must be given to the purchaser at the time of signing [Civ. Code § 1812.207]. The plan contract must set forth information as required by law pertaining to payments, the seller's services and business entity information, dates and places of delivery, and the identity of the supplier, of products, equipment, or supplies to be furnished the purchaser, the nature of any "buy-back" or "security" arrangement if one has been represented during solicitation, and appropriate notices as to cancellation and voidability provisions [see Civ. Code § 1812.209]. In addition, if an escrow account is required by Civ. Code § 1812.210(b) (discussed under § 515.189[4]) because the purchaser has to make more than 20 percent of the initial payment before delivery of the equipment, supplies, or products or services to be furnished under the terms of the contract, the contract must disclose the name and address of the escrow holder, as well as the institution, branch, and account number of the escrow account [Civ. Code § 1812.209(a)].

[2] Cancellation Rights

The purchaser has the right to cancel a seller assisted marketing plan contract for any reason, and at any time, within three business days of the date the parties sign it. Notice of the right to cancel, along with proper procedure therefor, is contained within the plan contract, both as prescribed by law [see Civ. Code § 1812.208]. Written notice of cancellation may be mailed or delivered to the seller. The seller must return all sums paid by the purchaser within five business days of receipt of the notice. By five business days after receipt of those sums, the purchaser must make available, at his or her address or at the place at which they were caused to be located, all products, equipment, or supplies provided to the purchaser under the contract. The seller may also demand that these items be made available at the time the purchaser receives full repayment by cash, money order, or certified check [Civ. Code § 1812.209(b)].

[3] Defenses Against Assignees

Any assignee of a plan contract or the seller's rights is subject to all equities, rights, and defenses of the purchaser against the seller [Civ. Code § 1812.211]. A seller assisted marketing plan contract may also not require or entail the execution of any notes or series of notes by the purchaser that, when separately negotiated, will cut off as to third parties any right or defense the purchaser may have against the seller [Civ. Code § 1812.210(a)].

[4] Payment Restrictions

The plan may not require a downpayment of more than 20 percent of the initial payment amount. The plan contract payment schedule must not provide for the seller to receive more than this percentage before delivery of equipment, supplies, or products unless all sums paid in excess thereof are placed in escrow, as provided in Civ. Code § 1812.214(c). Funds placed in an escrow account must not be released until the purchaser notifies the escrow holder in writing of the delivery within the time limits set forth in the plan contract. Notification of delivery by the purchaser to the escrow holder must not be unreasonably withheld [Civ. Code § 1812.210(b)].

The escrow holder must be independent of the seller and cannot release the funds without written notification from the purchaser [Civ. Code § 1812.214(c)(1)]. The escrow holder may be joined in an action against the seller by any person claiming against against the escrow account. The escrow holder is only liable for actual damages, not for punitive damages permitted by Civ. Code § 1812.218. The escrow holder's aggregate liability to all persons damaged by a seller's violations may not exceed the amount of the escrow account [Civ. Code § 1812.214(c)(3)].

If the seller is not a California corporation, it must file with the Attorney General an irrevocable consent appointing the Secretary of State to act as the seller's attorney to receive service on the seller, or his or her successor, executor, or administrator, in any noncriminal action arising out of a local seller assisted marketing plan transaction. The plaintiff who takes advantage of this service provision forthwith must send to the defendant or respondent seller a notice that such service was made and a copy of the process. The papers must be sent by first class mail to the last address of the defendant or respondent on file with the Secretary of State. The plaintiff's affidavit of compliance with these service requirements must be filed in the case on or before the return date of the process, if any, or within such further time as the court allows [*Civ. 6. Seller Assisted Marketing Plans

§ 515.192 Voidability of Plan Contract

[1] Purchaser's Right

The purchaser may elect to render the contract voidable under the circumstances described below. These rights are cumulative to all others given under the law governing seller assisted marketing contracts or in any other law [Civ. Code § 1812.215].

[2] Voiding for Misrepresentation or Noncompliance With Law

A purchaser may elect to avoid a plan contract if the seller uses any untrue or misleading statement to sell or lease the plan or fails to provide or file [Civ. Code § 1812.203] the disclosure documents or to disclose the information required therein, or if the plan contract does not comply with requirements of the governing law. This election must be made within one year of the date of the contract by sending written notice to the seller, at which time the contract becomes unenforceable by the seller or any assignee thereof as contrary to public policy. The purchaser is entitled to receive all sums paid to the seller when he or she is able to return all equipment, supplies, or products delivered by the seller. If this return is not possible, the purchaser is entitled to receive all sums paid less the fair market value at the time of delivery of the items not returned after their delivery. On receipt of the money, the purchaser must make available to the seller at the purchaser's address or at the places they are located at the time of the above notice, the matters received from the seller [Civ. Code § 1812.215(a)].

However, if the seller inadvertently has failed to make any of the required disclosures, or the contract inadvertently fails to comply with requirements of the governing law, the seller may cure the defect by providing the correct disclosure statements or contract. At the time of providing the correct versions the seller also must inform the purchaser in writing that because of the seller's error, the purchaser has an additional 15-day period after receipt of the correct disclosures or contract within which to cancel and receive full return of all moneys paid in exchange for the return of whatever equipment, supplies, or products the purchaser has. If he or she has not canceled within 15 days after receipt of the correct papers, the purchaser may not exercise the right thereafter to void the contract automatically on the grounds of noncompliance with the disclosure or contract requirements [Civ. Code § 1812.215(a)].

[3] Voiding for Nondelivery

If the seller fails to deliver the equipment, supplies, or product within 30 days of the delivery date stated in the contract for any reason other than one that was beyond the control of the seller, at the purchaser's election and on written notice to the seller, the contract becomes voidable by the purchaser and unenforceable by the seller or seller's assignee as contrary to public policy. The election may be made at any time prior to actual delivery of the commodities or within 30 days after delivery [Civ. Code § 1812.215(b)].

In addition to the possible criminal actions that may be brought against a seller, agent, or independent contractor, any purchaser injured by a violation of the law governing seller assisted marketing plans, or by the seller's breach of a plan contract or of any obligation arising from the sale or lease of a plan, may bring any action for actual damages plus reasonable attorney's fees and costs. The judgment may not award less than the amount of the initial payment, provided the purchaser is able to return all the equipment, supplies, or products delivered by the seller. If a complete return cannot be made, the minimum award may be no less than the amount of the initial payment less the fair market value at the time of delivery of the commodities that cannot be returned although actually delivered. The award may include punitive damages if the trial court deems it proper [Civ. Code § 1812.218].

Remedies provided for violating the law pertaining to seller assisted marketing plans or for conduct proscribed by any provision thereof are cumulative to any other procedures or remedies for any violation or conduct provided for in any other law. No other statutory or common law rights of any public official or any other person may be limited by the statutes governing seller assisted marketing plans. Any common law or statutory cause of action that exists for an activity proscribed by the statutes governing seller assisted marketing plans may be asserted independently by the purchaser for the remedies provided by that other law [Civ. Code § 1812.219].

7. Fair Practices of Equipment Manufacturers, Distributors, Wholesalers, and Dealers

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.210

§ 515.210 Governing Statutes

[1] Purpose

The Fair Practices of Equipment Manufacturers, Distributors, Wholesalers, and Dealers Act [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 22900-22927] ("Act") regulates the business relations between equipment suppliers and dealers. The Act's statement of legislative intent recognizes that the retail distribution, sales, and rental of agricultural, construction, utility, industrial, mining, outdoor power, forestry, and lawn and garden equipment, utilizing independent dealers operating under contract with the supplier, vitally affects the general economy of the state, the public interest, and the public welfare [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22900]. The Act therefore prohibits certain coercive or discriminatory practices by suppliers [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22902; §§ 515.211, 515.212], sets forth requirements for supplier termination of both single-line and non single-line dealer contracts [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 22903-22903.2; §§ 515.214, 515.215], regulates the approval and rejection of warranty claims [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.3; § 515.220], and provides for return or repurchase of inventory [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 22904, 22905; §§ 515.213, 515.216-215.219].

[2] Application to Equipment "Suppliers" and "Dealers"

For purposes of the Act, a "supplier" is any person engaged in the business of manufacturing, assembly or wholesale distribution of equipment or repair parts, and any successor in interest [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(v) (definition); see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(s) (repair parts defined)].

A "dealer" is any person primarily engaged in the retail sale of equipment, and does not include a "franchisee" as defined in Veh. Code § 331.1 or a "new motor vehicle dealer" as defined in Veh. Code § 426 [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(f) (definition)].

"Equipment" includes all-terrain vehicles and other machinery, equipment, implements, or attachments used in connection with certain landscaping, agricultural, livestock, and industrial activities [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(j) (definition)]. Self-propelled vehicles designed primarily for the transportation of persons or property on a street or highway are specifically excluded from the definition of equipment [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(j)(2)].

The Act contains numerous definitions of additional terms [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901], which are incorporated into the applicable discussions below.

[3] Effective Date

The Act applies to dealer contracts [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(g) (definition)] in effect on October 7, 2005, that have no expiration date and that are continuing contracts, and all other dealer contracts entered into or renewed on or after that date [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22927; see 2005 Stats., ch. 712, § 25, 26 (urgency statute)]. The prior version of the law applied to dealer agreements in effect on January 1, 1993, that had no expiration date and were continuing agreements, and to all other dealer agreements entered into or renewed on or after January 1, 1993 [see former Bus. & Prof. Code § 22927].

7. Fair Practices of Equipment Manufacturers, Distributors, Wholesalers, and Dealers

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.211

§ 515.211 Prohibited Transactions by Suppliers

[1] In General

The statutory provisions regulating the retail distribution, sales, and rental of agricultural, construction, utility, industrial, mining, outdoor power, forestry, and lawn and garden equipment by independent dealers operating under contract with suppliers contain a number of specific prohibitions that are designed to prevent a supplier from imposing new or increased conditions on a dealer than those set forth in the original dealer agreement between the parties [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22902]. These prohibitions are discussed in the following subsections. A dealer has a cause of action for any damages sustained as a result of a supplier's violation of any of these prohibitions [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22925; see § 515.220; see also § 515.580].

[2] Requiring Optional Equipment

A supplier is prohibited from compelling any dealer to order or accept delivery of any equipment or parts that the dealer has not voluntarily ordered, except as required by any applicable law or unless the equipment or repair parts are safety features required by the supplier [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22902(a)].

[3] Requiring Supplemental contract

A supplier may not coerce or compel any dealer to enter into any contract, whether written or oral, or amend an existing dealer contract with the supplier unless that contract or amendment is imposed on all other similarly situated dealers in the state [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22902(b)].

[4] Refusing to Deliver Equipment

A supplier may not refuse to deliver to any dealer, in reasonable quantities and within a reasonable time after receipt of the dealer's order, equipment covered by the dealer contract specifically advertised or represented by the supplier to be available for immediate delivery or on an agreed-upon delivery date. The failure to deliver that equipment is excused if the failure is due to reasonable restrictions on the extension of credit by the supplier to the dealer, any breach of or default under the agreement by the dealer, an act of God, a work stoppage or delay due to a strike or labor difficulty, a bona fide shortage of materials, a freight embargo, or a business decision by the supplier to limit the production volume of the equipment if written notice is provided to the dealer within 30 days of that decision, other cause over which the supplier has no control [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22902(c)].

[5] Terminating or Failing to Renew Dealer Contract Without Cause

A supplier may not terminate, cancel, or fail to renew a dealer contract or materially change the competitive circumstances of a dealer contract without good cause [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22902(d); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(l) (defining "good cause"), and discussion under §§ 515.214, 515.215].

[6] Conditioning Renewal of Dealer Contract on Renovations or New Dealership Site

A supplier may not condition the renewal or extension of a dealer contract on a dealer's completing substantial renovation of the dealer's place of business or on acquiring new or additional space to serve as the dealer's place of business unless the supplier provides at least one year's written notice of the condition. The written notice must state all grounds supporting the condition. Not less than two years time must be provided for the dealer to complete the renovation or acquisition after the one year's notice period has expired [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22902(e)].

[7] Discriminating in Pricing

A supplier may not discriminate, directly or indirectly, in prices charged between different dealers with respect to purchases of equipment or repair parts of like grade and quality and identical brand, when the effect of that discrimination may be to substantially lessen competition, tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce, or injure, destroy, or prevent competition with any dealer who either grants or knowingly receives the benefit of the discrimination. However, different prices may be charged if (1) the differences are due to differences in the cost of manufacture, sale, or delivery of the equipment or repair parts, or (2) the supplier can show that its lower price was made in good faith to meet an equally low price of a competitor and the lower price was made available to other dealers, or (3) the differences are related to the volume of equipment purchased by dealers if the supplier offers all other similarly situated dealers the same volume program [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22902(f)].

[8] Preventing Changes in Dealership's Capital Structure

A supplier may not prevent, by contract or otherwise, any dealer from changing its capital structure, ownership, or the means by which the dealership is financed. Any change in capital structure made by dealer must at all times meet any reasonable capital standards imposed by the supplier or as otherwise agreed to between the dealer and the supplier and imposed on similarly situated dealers. In addition, any change in capital structure made by an dealer may not result in a change in the controlling interest in the executive management, the board of directors, or any guarantors of the dealership [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22902(g); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(h) ("dealership" defined)].

[9] Requiring Dealer to Execute Release of Liability

A supplier may not require a dealer to agree to a release, assignment, novation, waiver, or estoppel that would relieve any person from liability imposed by the provisions of Bus. & Prof. Code § 22900 et seq. [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22902(i)].

[10] Withholding Consent to Transfers of Dealership Interests

A supplier may not prevent, by contract or otherwise, any dealer or any officer, member, partner, or stockholder of an dealer from selling or transferring any part of their interest in a dealership [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(h)

("dealership" defined)] to any other party. However, no dealer, officer, partner, member, or stockholder has the right to sell, transfer, or assign the dealership itself or the management or control of the dealership without the written consent of the supplier. [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22902(h)].

[11] Requiring Purchase of Goods

A supplier may not require any dealer to purchase goods or services as a condition of the sale by the supplier to the dealer of any equipment, repair parts, or other goods or services. However, a supplier may require the dealer to purchase repair parts, special tools, and training reasonably necessary to maintain the safe operation or quality of operation in the field of any equipment offered for sale by the dealer [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22902(j)].

[12] Coercing Refusal of Competition

A supplier may not coerce any dealer into a refusal to purchase equipment manufactured by another supplier [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22902(k)].

[13] Penalizing Purchase From Competitor

A supplier may not penalize any dealer that purchases equipment or repair parts for sale manufactured by another supplier [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22902(l)].

[14] Discriminating Between Dealers

A supplier may not discriminate, directly or indirectly, between dealers of the same product line in filling an order placed by a dealer for retail sale or lease of equipment under a dealer contract [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22902(l)].

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.213

§ 515.213 Annual Surplus Parts Inventory Return Program

[1] Return Period

Every supplier must establish a return program that allows its dealers an opportunity to return a portion of their surplus parts inventory for credit each year [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22904; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(n) ("inventory" defined as equipment, repair parts, data-processing hardware or software, and specialized service or repair parts)]. This parts return program is voluntary on the dealers' part, who can choose not to participate in any given year [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22904(f)].

The specified procedure is for the supplier to notify its dealers of a time period each year during which they may submit their surplus parts list and return their surplus parts to the supplier. The designated return period must run for at least 90 days for each dealer. A supplier may choose to designate a different period of time for each dealer to return surplus parts [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22904(a)]. If a supplier has not notified dealer of a specific time period in which to return surplus parts within the preceding 12 months, the supplier must authorize and allow the dealer to return surplus parts within 60 days after receiving a request from the dealer to do so [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22904(b)].

[2] Return Authority

A supplier must allow surplus parts return authority equal to 10 percent of the total dollar value of parts purchased by the dealer from the supplier during the 12-month period immediately preceding the notification to the dealer by the supplier of the surplus parts return program, or the month the dealer's return request is made, whichever is applicable. [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22904(c)].

[3] Covered Parts

Returned parts must be in new and unused condition and must have been purchased by the dealer form the supplier to whom they are returned. Obsolete and superseded parts may be returned if listed in the supplier's current returnable parts list or if those parts have not been the subject of the supplier's parts return program by the time the equipment dealer is notified of or requests a return period, whichever is applicable [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22904(d)].

[4] Credit Amount

The minimum credit that must be allowed for returned parts is 95 percent of the current net parts cost as listed in the supplier's current returnable parts list at the time the equipment dealer is notified of or requests a return period [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22904(e)].

[5] Outstanding Balance

If an outstanding balance is owed to the supplier, the supplier may credit the dealer's account within 30 days after the supplier's receipt of the dealer's returned parts. If no balance exists, the supplier must pay the dealer within 30 days after the supplier's receipt of the dealer's returned parts. If a supplier refuses to credit the dealer's account or pay the dealer for returned parts covered by this section within 30 days of the supplier's receipt of returned parts, the supplier will be liable for 110 percent of the total current net parts cost, plus interest at the statutory rate from the payment due date until the date of payment, and actual costs for any court or arbitration proceeding, including costs for attorney's fees and arbitrators [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22904(g)].

§ 515.214 Terminating Contracts Between Non Single-Line Dealers and Non Single-Line Suppliers

[1] Good Cause Required

The discussion in this section applies only to dealer contracts between dealers who are not single-line dealers and suppliers who are not single-line suppliers [Bus & Prof. Code § 22903(a); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(t), (u) (definitions); see also § 515.215[1], for definition of those terms].

A supplier may not, directly or through an officer, agent, or employee, terminate, cancel, fail to renew, or materially change the competitive circumstances of a dealer contract without good cause [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903(c); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(w) ("terminate" defined)]. "Good cause" means failure by a dealer to comply with the requirements imposed on the dealer by the dealer contract, if those requirements are not different from those requirements imposed on other similarly situated dealers in this state [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(l)]. In addition to that definition, "good cause" exists whenever the dealer has taken any of the following actions [Bus & Prof. Code § 22903(c)]:

- Transferred a controlling ownership interest in the dealership without the consent of the supplier, who may not unreasonably withhold consent [Bus & Prof. Code § 22903(c)(1)].

- Made a material misrepresentation or falsification of any record [Bus & Prof. Code § 22903(c)(2)].

- Filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy or had an involuntary petition in bankruptcy filed against them that has not been dismissed within 60 days following the filing, or became insolvent or placed in receivership [Bus & Prof. Code § 22903(c)(3)].

- Pled guilty to or been convicted of a felony involving an act of moral turpitude [Bus & Prof. Code § 22903(c)(4)].

- Failed to operate in the normal course of business for seven consecutive business days without the consent of the supplier or have terminated the business [Bus & Prof. Code § 22903(c)(5)].

- Relocated or established a new or additional equipment dealer's place of business without the supplier's consent [Bus & Prof. Code § 22903(c)(6)].

- Materially defaulted under any chattel mortgage or other security agreement between the dealer and the supplier, or there has been a revocation of any guarantee of the dealer's present or future obligations to the supplier. However, good cause does not exist if a person revokes any guarantee in connection with or following the transfer of that person's entire ownership interest in the dealer unless the supplier requires that person to execute a new guarantee of the dealer's present or future obligations in connection with that transfer of ownership interest [Bus & Prof. Code § 22903(c)(7)].

- Failed to satisfy any payment obligation as it became due and payable to the supplier, failed to promptly account to the supplier for any equipment sales proceeds, or failed to hold those proceeds in trust for the benefit of the supplier [Bus & Prof. Code § 22903(c)(8)].

- Engaged in conduct that is injurious or detrimental to any of the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903(c)(9)]:

  - The dealer's customers (including but not limited to excessive pricing, misleading advertising, failure to provide service and replacement parts, and failure to perform warranty obligations).

  - The public welfare.

  - The representation or reputation of the supplier's product.

- Consistently failed to meet building and housekeeping requirements, or failed to provide adequate sales, service, or parts personnel commensurate with the dealer contract [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903(c)(10)].

- Consistently failed to comply with the applicable licensing laws pertaining to the products and services being represented for and on the supplier's behalf [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903(c)(11)].

- Consistently failed to meet and maintain the supplier's requirements for reasonable standards and performance objectives, if the supplier has given the dealer reasonable standards and performance objectives that are based on the manufacturer's experience in other comparable market areas [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903(c)(12)].

The last four categories above are subject to special notice requirements, as discussed in [2] and [3], below [see Bus & Prof. Code § 22903(b), (d)].

[2] Written 180-Day Notice

Except when the grounds for termination of a dealer contract are those set forth in Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903(c)(1)-(8) [see [1], above], or the consistent failure to meet a supplier's requirements [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903(c)(12); see also [1], above], a supplier must give the dealer 180 days written notice of the supplier's intent to terminate the dealer contract. The notice must include all reasons constituting good cause for the termination and must provide the dealer with 60 days to cure any claimed deficiency. If the deficiency is cured within 60 days to the satisfaction of the supplier, which must be determined in good faith, the notice of termination will be void [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903(b)].

[3] Special Rules for Consistent Failure to Meet Supplier's Requirements

Except as discussed below [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903(d)], a supplier may not terminate a dealer contract based on a failure to meet the supplier's requirements [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903(c)(12); see [1], above] unless the supplier gives the dealer notice of that action at least one year before the effective date of that action. If the dealer achieves the supplier's requirements for reasonable standards or performance objectives before the expiration of the one-year notice period, the notice will be void and the dealer contract will continue in full force and effect [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903(a)].

Notwithstanding Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903(c) [discussed in [1], above], if the sales, service, rental, and repair of a supplier's product represents the lesser of 10 percent or $350,000 of the dealer's total gross annual revenue that includes, but is not limited to, the sales, service, rental, or repair, for each dealer location, the supplier may terminate a dealer contract based on Bus & Prof. Code § 22903(c)(12) [see [1], above] upon providing the dealer with notice of that action at least 180 days before the effective date of the action. If the dealer achieves the supplier's requirements for reasonable standards or performance objectives within 60 days of receipt of the termination notice, the notice will be void and the dealer contract will remain in effect [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903(d)].

Notwithstanding a dealer contract that provides for exclusivity during the term of the contract, a supplier may begin contract negotiations with a potential replacement dealer 60 days prior to the expiration of the notice period that has been provided Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903(b) or (d) if the dealer failed to achieve the supplier's requirements for reasonable standards or performance objectives within 60 days of receipt of the termination notice. A replacement dealer, however, may not conduct operations with a supplier during the term of a dealer contract [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903(e)].

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.215

§ 515.215 Terminating Contracts Between Single-Line Dealers and Single-Line Suppliers

[1] Applicable Terms

Special requirements, discussed in this section, apply to dealer contracts between a single-line dealer and its single-line supplier [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.2(a)].

"Single-line dealer" means a dealer that has (1) purchased construction, industrial, forestry and mining equipment from a single supplier constituting 75 percent of the dealer's new equipment, calculated on the basis of net cost; and (2) a total annual average sales volume in excess of $40,000,000 for the three calendar years immediately preceding the applicable determination date. The sales threshold, however, will be increased each year by an amount equal to the current sales threshold multiplied by the percentage increase in the index from January 1 of the immediately preceding year to January 1 of the current year [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(t)]. "Index" means the United States Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics purchase price index for construction machinery series identification number pcu333120333120, or any successor index measuring substantially similar information [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(m)].

"Single-line supplier" means the supplier that is selling the single-line dealer construction, industrial, forestry and mining equipment constituting 75 percent of the dealer's new equipment [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(u)].

[2] Good Cause Required

No supplier may terminate a dealer contract without good cause [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.2(b)]. "Terminate" means to terminate, cancel, fail to renew, or materially change the competitive circumstances of a dealer contract [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(w)].

"Good cause" is the failure by a dealer to comply with the requirements imposed on the dealer by the dealer contract, if those requirements are not different from those requirements imposed on other similarly situated dealers in this state [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(l)]. In addition, good cause exists whenever any of the following applies [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.2(b)]:

- There has been a closeout or sale of 65 percent or more of the dealer's assets related to the equipment business or there has been a commencement of a dissolution or liquidation of the dealer [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.2(f) (dealer assets do not include land or buildings)].

- The dealer has changed its principal place of business or added additional locations without prior approval of the supplier, which may not be unreasonably withheld.

- The dealer has materially defaulted under a chattel mortgage or other security agreement between the dealer and the supplier, or there has been a revocation or discontinuance of a guarantee of a present or future obligation of the dealer to the supplier.

- The dealer has failed to operate in the normal course of business for seven consecutive days, without the consent of the supplier, or has otherwise abandoned the business.

- The dealer has pleaded guilty to or has been convicted of a felony involving an act of moral turpitude.

- The dealer has transferred an interest in the dealership [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(h) ("dealership" defined)], or a person with a substantial interest in the ownership or control of the dealership, including an individual, proprietor, partner or major shareholder [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(o) ("major shareholder" defined)], has withdrawn from the dealership or died, or a substantial reduction has occurred in the interest of a partner or major shareholder in the dealership. However, good cause does not exist if the supplier has consented to an action described in this paragraph.

[3] Written 90-Day Notice

Except as otherwise provided, a supplier must provide a dealer with at least 90 days written notice of termination. The notice must state all reasons constituting good cause for termination and must state that the dealer has 60 days in which to cure any claimed deficiency. If the deficiency is cured within 60 days, the notice will be void. Notwithstanding the above, if the good cause for termination is due to the dealer's failure to meet or maintain the supplier's requirements for market penetration, a reasonable period of time must have existed in which the supplier has worked with the dealer to gain the desired market share. The notice and right to cure provisions under this subdivision will not apply if the reason for termination is for any reason set forth in Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.2(b) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.2(c); see [1], above].

[4] Dealer's Death

If a dealer dies, a supplier will have 90 days in which to consider and make a determination on a request by a family member to enter into a new dealer contract to operate the dealership. "Family member" means a spouse, parent, sibling, child, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, and lineal descendent, including those by adoption [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(k)]. If the supplier determines that the requesting family member is not acceptable, the supplier must provide the family member with a written notice of its determination with the stated reasons for rejection. This provision does not entitle an heir, personal representative, or family member to operate a dealership without specific written consent of the supplier [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.2(d)].

However, if a supplier and dealer have previously executed an agreement concerning succession rights prior to the dealer's death, and if that agreement is still in effect, the agreement will be observed even if it designated someone other than the surviving spouse or heirs of the decedent as the successor [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.2(e)].

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.216

§ 515.216 Repurchase Requirements When Dealer Contract Is Canceled or Not Renewed

[1] Computers and Data Processing Equipment

Whenever a dealer contract is terminated by cancellation or nonrenewal, the supplier is obligated to repurchase much of the equipment dealer's property used in carrying on the business. The supplier is obligated to repurchase or assume the lease on any specific data processing hardware that the supplier required the equipment dealer to purchase under the dealer contract, including computer systems equipment required and approved by the supplier. The fair market value of property subject to repurchase will be deemed to be equal to the acquisition cost, including any shipping, handling, and set-up fees, less straight line depreciation of that acquisition cost over three years. If the dealer purchased data processing hardware or software that exceeded the supplier's minimum requirements, the acquisition cost of that data processing hardware or software will be deemed to be the acquisition cost of hardware or software of similar quality that did not exceed the minimum requirements of the supplier [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22905(a)].

[2] Few Equipment

When a dealer agreement is canceled or not renewed, the supplier is obligated to repurchase the equipment dealer's equipment and inventory. The supplier must pay a sum equal to 100 percent of the net equipment cost [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(q) (definition)] of all new, unsold, undamaged, and complete equipment [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22905(b)].

[3] Demonstrators

The supplier must pay a sum equal to 100 percent of the net equipment cost [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(q) (definition)] of all unsold, undamaged demonstrators, less depreciation due to usage of those demonstrators. "Demonstrator" means equipment in a dealer's inventory that has not been sold, but has had its usage demonstrated to potential customers, either without charge or pursuant to a short-term rental agreement, with the intent of encouraging the potential customer to purchase the equipment [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(i)]. The depreciation adjustment will be based on published industry rental rates to the extent those rates are available. For these purposes, demonstrators, with hour meters that have less than 50 hours of use will be considered new, unsold equipment subject to repurchase under this section [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22905(c)].

[4] Equipment Used in Incentive Programs

The supplier must pay a sum equal to 100 percent of the net equipment cost [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(q) (definition)] of all unsold and undamaged equipment used in a manufacturer created incentive program [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(p) (definition)], less depreciation due to usage and bonus or volume incentive received by the dealer for the equipment. The depreciation adjustment must be based on published industry rental rates to the extent these rates are available. For these purposes, equipment with hour meters used in a manufacturer created incentive program with less than 50 hours of use will be considered new, unsold equipment subject to repurchase [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22905(d)].

[5] Repair Parts

The supplier must pay a sum equal to 95 percent of the current net parts costs [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(e) (definition)] on new, unsold, undamaged repair parts that had previously been purchased from the supplier and held by the dealer on the date that the dealer contract terminates or expires [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22905(e)]. "Repair parts" are all parts and products related to the service or repair of equipment, including superseded parts [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(s)].

The supplier also must pay the dealer five percent of the current net parts cost on all new, unused, and undamaged repair parts returned, to cover the cost of handling, packing, and loading of those parts for return to the supplier. The dealer may allow the supplier to perform the handling, packing, and loading of parts instead of receiving the five percent payment for these services. When the supplier is chosen to perform these services, the dealer must make available to the supplier, at the dealer's address or at the places at which it is located, all equipment previously purchased by the dealer expires [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22905(f)].

[6] Specialized Equipment or Repair Tools

The supplier must pay a sum equal to 75 percent of the net equipment cost [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(q) (definition)], including shipping, handling, and set-up fees, of all specialized equipment or repair tools previously purchased pursuant to requirements of the supplier prior to the date of the applicable notification of termination or nonrenewal of the dealer contract. The specialized equipment or repair tools must be unique to the supplier's product line and must be complete and in operating condition [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22905(g)].

[7] Payment and Allowance of Credit

Upon the payment or allowance of credit to the dealer's account of the required sums, the title to all inventory purchased will pass to the supplier making payment, and the supplier will be entitled to the possession of the inventory. All payments or allowances of credit due to dealers must be paid or credited within 90 days after receipt by the supplier of property required to be repurchased. Any payments or allowances of credit due to dealers that are not paid within the 90-day period will accrue interest at the statutory rate. The supplier may withhold payments due during the period of time in which the dealer fails to comply with its contractual obligations to remove any signage indicating that the dealer is an authorized dealer of the supplier [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22905(h)].

[8] Shipping Costs

The supplier and dealer must each pay 50 percent of the costs of freight to ship equipment to the nearest retail outlet or to ship repair parts to the nearest supplier distribution center [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22905(i)].

[9] Exclusions

When a dealer agreement is canceled or not renewed, the supplier is not required to repurchase the following items from the equipment dealer [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22905(j)]:

- Any repair part that is in a broken or damaged package. However, the supplier will be required to repurchase a repair part in a broken or damaged package, for a repurchase price that is equal to 85 percent of the current net parts cost for the repair part, if the aggregate current price for the entire package of repair parts is $75 or higher.

- Any repair part that, because of its condition, cannot be resold as a new part without reconditioning.

- Any inventory for which the equipment dealer is unable to furnish evidences satisfactory to the suppliers of clear title, free and clear of all claims, liens, and encumbrances.

- Any inventory that the dealer desires to keep, if the dealer has a contractual right to do so.

- Any equipment or repair parts that are is not in new, unsold, undamaged, complete condition, subject to the provisions of the Act relating to demonstrators [see § 515.216[3]].

- Any equipment or repair parts acquired by the dealer from any source other than the supplier, unless the equipment or repair parts were ordered from, or invoiced to the dealer by, the supplier

- Any equipment or repair parts that are not returned to the supplier within 90 days after the latter of (1) the effective date of termination of a dealer contract, or (2) the date the dealer receives from the supplier all information, documents, or supporting materials required by the supplier to comply with the supplier's return policy. However, this does not apply to a dealer if the supplier did not give the dealer notice of the 90-day deadline at the time the applicable notice of termination was sent to the dealer.

[10] Supplier's Liability for Failure to Repurchase

If any supplier fails or refuses to repurchase any inventory within 90 days after termination of a dealer contract, the supplier becomes liable for 110 percent of the current net equipment cost of the inventory, plus any freight charges paid by the dealer, interest accrued at the statutory rate from the date of shipment to the supplier, until the date of payment, and 5 percent for handling, packing, and loading, and actual costs for any court or arbitration proceedings, including costs for attorney's fees and arbitrators [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22905(k)].

[11] Lien Against Inventory

Notwithstanding any provision to the contrary in the Commercial Code, the dealer retains a first and prior lien against all inventory returned by the dealer to the supplier until the dealer has paid all amounts owed by the supplier for the repurchase of inventory required [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22905(l)].

[12] Security Interests

Bus. & Prof. Code § 22905 will not be construed to affect any security interest that the supplier may have in the inventory of the dealer, and any repurchase will not be subject to the provisions of the bulk sales law [see Com. Code § 6101 et seq.; Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(b)] or to the claims of any secured or unsecured creditors of the supplier or any assignee of the supplier until such time as the dealer has received full payment or credit [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22905(m)].

[13] Cancellation to Avoid Payment

The dealer may not cancel a dealer contract to avoid a payment obligation to the supplier for equipment or parts [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22905(n)].

[14] Multiple Business Locations

If a dealer has more than one business location covered by the same dealer contract, the repurchase requirements will apply only to the repurchase of a dealer's inventory obtained from the supplier or the supplier's distributor by the particular business location or locations involved in the dealer contract termination and will not apply to any other business locations covered by the same contract [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22905(o)].

[15] When Supplier's Product Is Limited

If a supplier's product represents the lesser of 10 percent or $350,000 of the dealer's total gross annual revenue that includes, but is not limited to, the sales, service, rental, or repair for each dealer location, then the supplier must repurchase the inventory only if a dealer contract is canceled or not renewed by the dealer for any of the following reasons [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22905(p)]:

- The supplier consistently failed to provide adequate product support for the type and use of the product, which includes, but is not limited to, technical assistance, operators and repair manuals, and parts lists and diagrams.

- The supplier consistently failed to provide adequate training, required by the supplier, for maintenance, repair, or usage of the supplier's product.

- The supplier consistently failed to provide marketing and marketing support for the supplier's product if marketing is a requirement of the dealer contract.

- The supplier's product is defective and breaches the implied warranty of merchantability as defined in Civ. Code § 1791.1.

- The supplier consistently failed to meet its warranty obligations to the dealer.

- The supplier abandons the market thereby failing to provide parts and services necessary for a dealer to perform warranty obligations.

- The supplier engaged in conduct that is injurious or detrimental to the dealer's customers, the public welfare, or the reputation of the dealer.

- The supplier made a material misrepresentation or falsification of any record.

- The supplier violated any provision of Bus. & Prof. Code § 22900 et seq.

Notwithstanding the above provisions, nothing in Bus. & Prof. Code § 22905 will be construed to limit the supplier's responsibility to repurchase a dealer's inventory when the supplier cancels or fails to renew a dealer contract [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22905(q)].

§ 515.217 Dealer's Lien for Repurchase Amount

[1] Scope of Lien

A dealer is entitled to establish a lien for the repurchase amount for returned equipment and for the costs of enforcing the lien for sums that remain unpaid after a dealer agreement is canceled or not renewed [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 22905, 22906(b); see also Bus & Prof. Code § 22905(b)-(f) (calculation of repurchase amount)]. The amount of charges secured by the lien may not exceed the reasonable or agreed-on charges for the equipment specified in Bus. & Prof. Code § 22905 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22906(d)]. The lien attaches to the proceeds of any sale of the equipment returned for repurchase [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22906(c)]. Repurchase liens are subject to Division 9 of the Commercial Code, except as otherwise provided [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22922(a); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22922(e)].

For further discussion of Division 9 of the Commercial Code, see Ch. 503, Sales: Secured Transactions .

For the purposes of Bus. & Prof. Code § 22900 et seq., as used in Division 9 of the Commercial Code (Com. Code § 9101 et seq.), the following terms have the following meanings [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22922(b)]:

- "Secured party" refers to the dealer, lien creditor, lien claimant, or assignee.
- "Debtor" refers to the supplier, lien debtor, or debtor.
- "Collateral" refers to the equipment subject to the lien discussed here.

A security agreement is not necessary to make an equipment repurchase lien created under Bus. & Prof. Code § 22900 et seq. enforceable [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22922(c)]. Nor does an equipment repurchase lien created under Bus. & Prof. Code § 22900 et seq. continue in the repurchased equipment following the disposition of that equipment [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22922(d)].

The right of a dealer to enforce the lien created under Bus. & Prof. Code § 22900 et seq. is governed by Bus. & Prof. Code § 22900 et seq. and not by Chapter 6 (Com. Code § 9601 et seq.) of Division 9 of the Commercial Code [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22922(e)].

[2] Formalities

[a] Notice of Lien

A dealer is not entitled to establish a lien pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 22900 et seq. unless the lien claimant (the dealer) first sends a written notice of lien to the lien debtor (the supplier) by certified mail that states all of the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22906(a)]:

- The payment of the reasonable or agreed-on charges is more than 90 days overdue. This requirement does not apply to equipment subject to repurchase that was returned to the supplier after the return of other equipment for which payment is overdue.

- The amount of the reasonable or agreed-on charges that are overdue.

- The lien debtor has the following three alternatives:

  - Allow the lien to be filed;

  - Enter into a consensual security interest in the proceeds pursuant to the Commercial Code; or

  - Pay the reasonable or agreed-on charges that are overdue.

- A notice to the lien debtor that (1) he or she has 10 days from receipt of the notice to select an alternative, to notify the lien claimant of the alternative selected, to satisfy all of the requirements of the selected alternative, and that (2) the lien claimant may file a notice of claim of lien at any time thereafter if the lien debtor does not comply with these instructions. Only the part of the notice referred to in clause (1) needs to be in 10-point type or bolder [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22906(b)(4)].

The notice of lien remains in effect, and no new notice of claim of lien is required in order to maintain the lien, as long as the dealer remains unpaid for the amounts secured by the lien [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22907].

[b] Perfection of Lien by Filing Notice of Claim

After sending the lien debtor a written notice of lien, a dealer may proceed to perfect the lien by filing a notice of claim of lien with the Secretary of State [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22908]. A notice of claim of lien must contain all of the following information [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22909]:

- The name and address of the lien claimant.

- The name and address of the lien debtor.

- The location to which the equipment was returned.

- A statement that payment of the reasonable or agreed-on charges is more than 90 days overdue.

- The amount of the reasonable or agreed-on charges that are overdue.

- A statement, signed under penalty of perjury, that the lien claimant sent a notice of lien to the lien debtor, that more than 10 days have elapsed since the notice was received by the lien debtor, and that the lien debtor has not complied with the instructions contained in the notice of lien.

- A statement that the lien claimant has an equipment repurchase lien having complied with the notice requirements.

A notice of claim of lien may be signed by the lien claimant or by a person authorized by the claimant [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22910].

[C] Use of Amended Financing Statement

A notice of claim of lien must be filed on the form prescribed by the Secretary of State pursuant to Com. Code § 9502 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22911; see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 22923 (Secretary of State may adopt regulations and prescribe necessary forms)]. The standard form must be completed in its entirety with the following changes [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22911(a)-(d)]:

- The lien claimant may be identified either as a lien claimant or as a secured party.

- The form must be signed by the lien claimant and need not be signed by the lien debtor.

- The description of the collateral must be the information required by Bus. & Prof. Code § 22909(c)-(e), (g) for the notice of claim of lien (set forth in [6]; above) must be inserted.

- A separately signed statement containing the information required by Bus. & Prof. Code § 22909(f) for the notice of claim of lien (set forth in item [6], above) must be attached to the form.

For discussion of filing financing statements, see Ch. 503, Sales: Secured Transactions . For additional discussion and a sample financing statement (Form UCC-1), see California Legal Forms, Ch. 42, Secured Transactions, § 42.211 (Matthew Bender).

[d] Filing Notice of Claim With Secretary of State

A notice of claim of lien is filed, indexed, and marked in the Secretary of State's office in the same manner as a financing statement [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22912; see Com. Code §§ 9516, 9519]. For the purpose of the Secretary of State's index and for the purpose of issuing a certificate disclosing financing statement information, the Secretary of State must identify a notice of claim of lien as a financing statement [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22914; see Com. Code §§ 9516, 9519, 9523, 9528].

For further discussion of filing financing statements, procedures in the Secretary of State's office, and requests for financing statement information, see Ch. 503, Sales: Secured Transactions ; see also California Legal Forms, Ch. 42, Secured Transactions (Matthew Bender).

[e] Notice of Claim to Lien Debtor After Filing

The lien claimant must provide written notice of the claim of lien to the lien debtor within 10 days of filing the lien with the Secretary of State [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22913].

[3] Request for Lien Information

The public has a right to obtain a certificate from the Secretary of State identifying whether there is a lien on file and any notice of claim of lien naming a particular debtor, and if so, giving the date and time when each notice was filed and the names and addresses of each lienholder [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22916]. The public also has a right to obtain a copy of any notice of an equipment repurchase lien, including notices affecting the notices from the Secretary of State [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22917]. The Secretary of State may impose a fee for providing the certificate or copies [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 22916, 22917; see Com. Code §§ 9523, 9525 (permissible fees)].

For a sample request for information (Form UCC-11) pursuant to Division 9 of the Commercial Code, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 42, Secured Transactions (Matthew Bender).

[4] Priority of Lien

A lien created under Bus. & Prof. Code § 22900 ranks in priority with conflicting security interests according to the time it is filed with the Secretary of State [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22915(a)]. The lien has the same priority as a security interest perfected by filing a financing statement as of the date the notice of claim of lien was filed with the Secretary of State [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22915(b)].

The lien does not have priority over labor claims for wages and salaries for personal services that were provided by any employee to any lien debtor in connection with the equipment or the proceeds of its sale that is subject to the lien [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22915(c)].

[5] Assignment or Transfer of Lien

An equipment repurchase lien is assignable or transferable by the lien holder, with full rights of enforcement [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22921(a)]. The lienholder must file a statement of assignment or transfer with the Secretary of State's office in the same manner as prescribed in Com. Code § 9514 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22921(b)]. For further discussion of filing under Division 9 of the Commercial Code, see Ch. 503, Sales: Secured Transactions .

[6] Termination of Lien

When a lien claimant receives payment for the total amount secured by the lien, he or she must send the lien debtor a statement relinquishing the security interest under the notice of claim of lien. The claim of lien must be identified by the date, the names of the parties, and the file number. If the lienholder of record fails to send a termination statement within 10 days of receiving full payment, he or she is liable to the debtor for all actual damages the debtor suffers due to the failure to do so. If the failure to send the termination statement is in bad faith, the lienholder also is liable for a penalty of $100 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22920(a)].

The filing officer for the Secretary of State's office must mark each termination statement with the date and time of filing and index the statement under the name of the lien debtor and under the file number of the original lien. If the filing officer has an electronic microfilm or other photographic record of the lien and related filings, he or she may remove and destroy the originals after receipt of the termination statement. If the filing officer does not have a microfilm or other photographic record, he or she may remove and destroy the originals after one year from the receipt of the termination statement [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22920(b)].

For a sample termination statement (Form UCC-3) pursuant to Division 9 of the Commercial Code, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 42, Secured Transactions, § 42.214 (Matthew Bender).

[7] Foreclosure

A lien claimant may foreclose on an equipment repurchase lien only in an action to recover the reasonable or agreed-on charges. The final judgment is enforceable under the Enforcement of Judgments Law (Code Civ. Proc. § 680.010 et seq.) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22919; see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments].

A lien claimant must provide written notice to secured creditors at least 30 days prior to enforcing the claim of lien. For these purposes, a "secured creditors" means any entity named as a secured party in the financing statement filed with regard to the debtor and that covers returned equipment [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22918].

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.218

§ 515.218 Inventory Repurchase on Death of Dealer

In the event of the death or incapacity of a dealer, the heirs or the executor have the option of requiring the supplier to repurchase the inventory from the estate as if the supplier had terminated the dealer contract and the inventory repurchase provisions were applicable [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22924(a); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22905; see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(n) ("inventory" defined as equipment, repair parts, data-processing hardware or software, and specialized service or repair parts)]. This provision specifically applies only to an owner, an equal or majority partner, or the majority stockholder of a corporation operating as a dealer. The heirs or the executor have 180 days following the equipment dealer's death to exercise this option, and they are not entitled to operate the dealership beyond that period without the supplier's consent [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22924(a)].

The inventory need not be repurchased if the heirs or the executor and the supplier enter into a new dealer agreement. In addition, the inventory need not be repurchased if a successor to the dealer is established under Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.1; see § 515.218 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22924(a)]. These procedures are subject to any provisions in the dealer contract pertaining to the dealer's death or to succession rights to the extent that they are not inconsistent [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22924(a)].

The right of the heirs or the executor to require a supplier to repurchase the inventory on a dealer's death is supplemental to any agreement between the dealer and the supplier covering the return of equipment, attachments, and repair parts. If the option is exercised, the supplier has the right to charge back discounts previously paid or credited to the equipment dealer's account on previous inventory purchases. In addition, any inventory repurchase under these provisions is not subject to the bulk sales law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22924(b); see Ch. 270, Fraudulent Conveyances)].

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.219

§ 515.219 Sale or Transfer of Business of Non-Single-Line Dealer

Special requirements, discussed in this section, apply to a sale or transfer of a business when a contract is between a dealer who is not a single-line dealer and a supplier who is not a single-line supplier [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.1(a); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(t), (u) (definitions); see also § 515.215].

If a supplier has contractual authority to approve or deny a request for a sale or transfer of a dealer's business or an equity ownership interest in the business, the supplier must approve or deny the request within 60 days after receiving a written request from the dealer. If the supplier has neither approved nor denied the request within the 60-day period, the request will be deemed approved. The dealer's request must include reasonable financial information, personal background, character references, and work history information for the acquiring persons. If a supplier denies a such a request, the supplier must provide the dealer with a written notice of the denial that states the reasons for the denial. A supplier may only deny a request based on the failure of the proposed transferees to meet the reasonable requirements consistently imposed by the supplier in determining approval of transfers or approvals of new dealers [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.1(b)].

If a dealer dies and the supplier has contractual authority to approve or deny a request for the sale or transfer of the dealer's business or an equity ownership interest in the business, the dealer's estate or other person with authority to transfer the dealer's assets will have 180 days to submit to the supplier a written request for a sale or transfer of that business or equity ownership interest. If the request is timely submitted, the supplier must approve or deny that request in accordance with Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.1(b). Any attempt by a supplier to terminate the dealer contract as a result of the death of a dealer will be delayed until there has been compliance with the terms of this section or the 180-day period has expired, as applicable [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.1(c)].

Nonetheless, if a supplier and dealer executed an agreement concerning succession rights prior to the dealer's death, and if the agreement is still in effect, the agreement will be observed even if it designated someone other than the surviving spouse or heirs of the decedent as the successor [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.1(d)].

A supplier may withhold consent to a transfer of an interest in a dealership if, with due regard to regional market conditions and distribution economies, the dealer's area of responsibility or trade area does not afford sufficient sales potential to reasonably support a dealer. In any dispute between a supplier and dealer under this subdivision, the supplier will bear the burden of proving that the dealer's area of responsibility or trade area does not afford sufficient sales potential to reasonably support a dealer [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.1(e)].

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.220

§ 515.220 Warranty Claims

[1] Approval or Rejection by Supplier

If a dealer submits a warranty claim [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(c) ("claim" defined)] to a supplier while the dealer contract is in effect or within 60 days after the termination of the dealer contract, and if the claim is for work performed before the termination or expiration of the dealer contract, the supplier must approve or reject that warranty claim by written notice to the dealer within 45 days after the supplier's receipt of the warranty claim. If the supplier approves the warranty claim, the supplier must pay the dealer or credit the dealer's account the entire amount owed with respect to the claim within 30 days of approval. If the supplier rejects the warranty claim, the supplier must give the dealer written or electronic notice of the grounds for rejection. These reasons must be consistent with the supplier's reason for rejecting the warranty claims of other dealers, both in terms and manner of enforcement. If the supplier does not provide the dealer with grounds for rejection, the claim will be deemed to be approved [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.3(a)].

[2] Resubmission of Claim by Dealer

Any claim that is not approved by the supplier based upon the dealer's failure to properly follow the procedural or technical requirements for submission of the warranty claim may be resubmitted in proper form by the dealer within 30 days of receipt of the supplier's rejection notification [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.3(b)].

[3] Performance of Warranty Work

Warranty work performed by the dealer must be compensated in accordance with the reasonable and customary amount of time required to complete the work, expressed in hours and fractions multiplied by the dealer's established customer hourly retail labor rate, which must have been made known previously to the supplier. Parts used in warranty repair work must be reimbursed at the current net parts cost plus 15 percent and the cost of freight. For these purposes, "established customer hourly retail labor rate" means the lowest posted customer in-shop retail labor rate for the six months preceding the claim [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.3(c)].

[4] Supplier's Written Policies and Procedures

The requirements of Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.3(a), (b), and (c) [see § 515.220[1] -[3]] apply to all warranty claims submitted by a dealer to a supplier when the dealer has complied with the supplier's reasonable written policies and procedures for warranty reimbursement. A supplier's warranty reimbursement policies and procedures will be deemed unreasonable to the extent they conflict with any of the provisions of this section [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.3(f)].

[5] Alternate Terms and Conditions

A dealer may choose to accept alternate reimbursement terms and conditions instead of those discussed in § 515.220[1] -[3] if there is a written dealer contract between the supplier and the dealer that requires the supplier to compensate the dealer for warranty labor costs either as (1) a discount in the pricing of the equipment to the dealer; or (2) a lump-sum payment to the dealer that is made to the dealer within 90 days of the sale of the supplier's new equipment. If these requirements are met and alternate terms and conditions are in place, the requirements discussed in § 515.220[1] -[3] do not apply and the alternate terms and conditions are enforceable. However, the supplier's obligation to reimburse the dealer for parts in accordance with Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.3(c) is unaffected in any case [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.3(g)].

[6] Work Performed at Supplier's Request

Any repair work or installation of replacement parts with respect to the dealer's equipment in inventory or equipment of the dealer's customers at the request of the supplier, including work performed pursuant to a product improvement program, will be deemed to create a warranty claim for which the dealer must be paid [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.3(d)].

[7] Audit of Warranty Claims

A supplier may audit warranty claims submitted by its dealers for a period of up to one year. If the audit reveals an amount was misrepresented by the supplier, the supplier may charge its dealers the amount shown by the audit to be misrepresented. If a warranty claim is misrepresented, then subsequent warranty claims submitted within the two-year period ending with the date of the audit may be audited. However, a supplier may not audit a warranty claim more than once [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.3(e)].

[8] Supplier's Nonpayment of Dealer's Claim

If a supplier fails or refuses to pay for warranty work covered under Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.3 within 30 days of the supplier's approval of the dealer's claim, the supplier will be liable for 110 percent of the total claim, plus interest at the statutory rate from the payment due date until the date of payment, and actual costs for any court or arbitration proceeding, including costs for attorney's fees and arbitrators [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22903.3(h)].

Any dealer may bring an action against a supplier in any court of competent jurisdiction for damages sustained by the dealer as a consequence of the supplier's violation of any provision of Bus. & Prof. Code § 22900 et seq., together with costs and reasonable attorney's fees. A dealer may also be granted injunctive relief against unlawful termination, cancellation, nonrenewal, and change in competitive circumstances. These remedies are not exclusive, and are in addition to any other remedies permitted by law. The actions authorized under Bus. & Prof. Code § 22900 et seq. also are not intended to affect current law pertaining to product liability actions [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22925; see Ch. 460, Products Liability].

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.246

§ 515.246 Decisions

[1] Burden of Proof--Duty of Clearing Broker

Fraud cause of action not stated against clearing broker for fraud based on conduct of primary broker because clearing broker was agent of primary broker and did not exercise any control over primary broker. Mars v. Wedbush Morgan Securities, Inc. (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1608, 1616, 283 Cal. Rptr. 238

[2] Burden of Proof--Duty of Stockbroker

Broker not permitted to sell customer's stock or to use it for broker's own purposes except as authorized by customer or permitted by law. Edwards v. Jenkins (1932) 214 Cal. 713, 720, 7 P.2d 702 (holding unauthorized sale to be conversion)

California cities and local agencies that deposited funds with Orange County Treasurer for investment in statutory investment trust which then collapsed pleaded facts sufficient to state causes of action on direct claims for relief against securities and financial broker; trust beneficiaries were entitled to assert claims of fraud, conspiracy to defraud, negligent misrepresentation, breach of fiduciary duty, aiding and abetting breach of fiduciary duty, receiving stolen property, and violations of RICO directly against broker. City of Atascadero v. Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc. (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 445, 486, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 329

In investors' action against stockbroker for negligent misrepresentation, justifiability of reliance was question of fact; grant of summary judgment in favor of broker based on disclosures in offering memoranda was error when investors alleged misrepresentations regarding matters not addressed by memoranda and not necessarily inconsistent with disclosures in memoranda. Blankenheim v. E. F. Hutton & Co. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 1463, 1474-1475, 266 Cal. Rptr. 593

As matter of public policy, Civ. Code § 1668 renders hold-harmless agreement void in action by investor against stockbroker for negligent misrepresentation. Blankenheim v. E. F. Hutton & Co. (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 1463, 1472-1473, 266 Cal. Rptr. 593

Impact of state action for common law breach of stockbroker's fiduciary duty to clients, who were trustees of profit-sharing trust investing trust funds, on trust or its administration was too tenuous, remote, and peripheral for action to be preempted by ERISA (29 U.S.C. § 1001 et seq.). Duffy v. Cavalier (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1517, 1529, 264 Cal. Rptr. 740

[3] Choice of Laws

Criminal liability for violation of Corp. Code § 25401 may be imposed even if security was not offered to public. People v. Smith (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 230, 236-238, 263 Cal. Rptr. 684 (distinguishing definition of security used in People v. Schock (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 379, 382, 385, 199 Cal. Rptr. 327 , and People v. Miller (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1505, 1507, 1510, 238 Cal. Rptr. 168 , which included "indiscriminate public offering" element)

Penal Code § 1203.4 prohibits imposition of criminal liability for violation of Corp. Code § 25401 based on failure to disclose offeror's principal's felony conviction that was reduced to misdemeanor. People v. Smith (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 230, 238-239, 263 Cal. Rptr. 684

Privity between issuer and investor not necessary for imposition of criminal liability under Corp. Code §§ 25110 (selling unregistered securities) and 25401 (false representations); thus, maker of notes secured by interests in trust deeds who misrepresented value of properties securing notes to mortgage broker was liable, although only mortgage company dealt with ultimate investors. People v. Miller (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1505, 1511-1512, 238 Cal. Rptr. 168

Plaintiff required to establish "scienter" in making claim under Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b) (15 U.S.C. § 78j(b), relating to manipulative or deceptive devices employed in purchase or sale of registered securities), and punitive damages not recoverable, whereas cause of action under state law for negligent misrepresentation required showing of negligence only, and punitive damages recoverable under Civ. Code § 3294 in certain actions. Schneider v. Vennard (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 1340, 1348, 228 Cal. Rptr. 800

[4] Common Law Actions

California law allows cause of action for fraud or negligent misrepresentation by persons wrongfully induced to hold stock instead of selling it; cause of action is limited to stockholders who can make bona fide showing of actual reliance upon misrepresentations. Small v. Fritz Companies, Inc. (2003) 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 490, 65 P.3d 1255

Complaint sufficiently alleged common law fraud and negligent misrepresentation claims against broker-dealer based on both oral misrepresentations and written misrepresentations in offering documents, relating to repayment of bridge notes from preferred-stock offering and status of that offering. Apollo Capital Fund LLC v. Roth Capital Partners (2007) 158 Cal. App. 4th 226, 240-243, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 199

[5] Damages

Damages for stockbroker's breach of fiduciary duty are measured by value of securities at time of unauthorized transactions or unsuitable investment, plus amount those securities would have earned if retained, less amount of cash and securities withdrawn by client. Hobbs v. Eichler (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 174, 197, 210 Cal. Rptr. 387 ; Twomey v. Mitchum, Jones & Templeton, Inc. (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 690, 730, 69 Cal. Rptr. 222

[6] Definition of Security

Sales of interests in joint ventures for oil and gas exploration were transactions in "securities" because purported venturers, although experienced in business affairs generally, had insufficient experience in oil and gas exploration to participate in those ventures in any meaningful way except as passive investors; Ninth Circuit's "investment contract" test applied in Holden v. Hagopian (9th Cir. 1992) 978 F.2d 1115, 1119 (whether investors had experience in business generally), and developed in earlier cases [see generally § 515.246[10][f]] was rejected, and court elected to follow Fifth Circuit's test based on Williamson v. Tucker (5th Cir. 1981) 645 F.2d 404 (whether investors had experience in particular kind of business in which capital was being invested). Consolidated Management Group, LLC v. Department of Corps. (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 598, 610-612, 75 Cal. Rptr. 3d 795

Gold production agreements and gold delivery agreements, which promised delivery of gold in 15 months from ore that was to be mined with unique, experimental, and untested process financed by sale of agreements, was security. People ex rel. Bender v. Wind River Mining Project (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 1390, 1401-1406, 269 Cal. Rptr. 106 (distinguishing scheme in Moreland v. Department of Corporations (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 506, 516-523, 239 Cal. Rptr. 558 , in which gold had already been mined and assayed)

Proper jury instruction for definition of security; judge's function was to instruct regarding definition of security and jury's was to determine whether particular piece of paper meets that definition. People v. Smith (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 230, 236, 263 Cal. Rptr. 684

Gold ore sales contract and refining contract was not security under Corp. Code § 25019 "risk capital" test because they involve no contribution of risk capital to business enterprise and investor is adequately secured. Moreland v. Department of Corporations (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 506, 522-524, 239 Cal. Rptr. 558

"Risk capital" factors are whether (1) funds are being raised for business venture, (2) transaction is offered indiscriminately to public at large, (3) investors do not control success of enterprise, and (4) investors' money is substantially at risk because it is inadequately secured. Moreland v. Department of Corporations (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 506, 519, 239 Cal. Rptr. 558 ; Leyva v. Superior Court (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 462, 470, 210 Cal. Rptr. 545

Gold ore sales contract and refining contract was marketable commodity, not security, under federal criteria, because there was no common enterprise and expected profits would come not from efforts of others, but from fluctuations in price of gold. Moreland v. Department of Corporations (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 506, 518-519, 239 Cal. Rptr. 558

Federal law was persuasive in interpreting Corp. Code § 25019, defining security; three elements required of security under federal test are (1) investment of money, (2) in common enterprise, (3) with profits to come solely from efforts of others. Moreland v. Department of Corporations (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 506, 512-513, 239 Cal. Rptr. 558

Applying federal standard, fractional interest in promissory note and related deeds of trust constituted securities within the meaning of Corp. Code § 25019. People v. Miller (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1505, 1511, 238 Cal. Rptr. 168 ; People v. Schock (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 379, 389, 199 Cal. Rptr. 327

Corp. Code § 25019 not to be literally construed so as to make every note security; each situation to be determined on its own facts; fractional interest in note secured by deed of trust not shown to be security under either California "risk capital" or federal test when no evidence was submitted that plaintiff relied on management ability, skill, services, or solvency or that collateral was inadequate. Leyva v. Superior Court (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 462, 470, 474-475, 210 Cal. Rptr. 545

Test generally employed by California courts in assessing elusive concept of meaning of security is "risk capital" test announced in Silver Hills Country Club v. Sobieski (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 811, 13 Cal. Rptr. 186 . People v. Schock (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 379, 389, 199 Cal. Rptr. 327

15 U.S.C. § 77b(1) is source of definition of "security" under Corp. Code § 25019. People v. Coster (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 1188, 1193, 199 Cal. Rptr. 253

Transaction is investment contract and within meaning of "security" under Corp. Code § 25019 when investor is relatively uninformed and unskilled and turns money over to others, essentially depending on their representations and their honesty and skill in managing it. People v. Coster (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 1188, 1194, 199 Cal. Rptr. 253

Transaction in form of loans evidenced by unsecured promissory notes providing for payment of interest and portion of business's gross income was within regulatory purpose of Corporate Securities Law since defendant received "risk capital" in return for notes. People v. Coster (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 1188, 1195, 199 Cal. Rptr. 253

[7] Evidence

In action brought to recover for mismanagement of securities account, evidence indicated contributory negligence on part of plaintiff when it showed plaintiff did not even examine confirmation slips sent her, she admitted she usually did not examine slips, and she stated she did not always open monthly statements sent her. Fortenberry v. Weber (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 213, 222, 95 Cal. Rptr. 834

Defendant stockbrokers acted improperly, fraudulently, in breach of fiduciary relationship, and negligently in performance of their fiduciary duties in handling plaintiff's investment account when plaintiff's evidence established that defendants took over for her account management and control of funds and securities entrusted to them, and thus owed plaintiff duty to ascertain her financial situation and needs. Twomey v. Mitchum, Jones & Templeton (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 690, 720, 69 Cal. Rptr. 222

[8] Nature of Offer

Writing signed by defendant agreeing to transfer shares of corporation when other party constructed and completed prototype franchise building was offer to sell securities regardless of whether accompanied by consideration or whether other party accepted by performance. People v. Kline (1980) 110 Cal. App. 3d 587, 596, 168 Cal. Rptr. 185

[9] Exempt Transactions

[a] Nonpublic Offerings

Defendant failed to carry burden of proving exemption from qualification requirement on contention that securities were involved in private offering when evidence disclosed no limit was placed on number of persons who could invest, there appeared to be no relationship between issuer and offerees nor among offerees, offeror or agents thereof initiated transactions, and investors revealed no expertise or sophistication. People v. Skelton (1980) 109 Cal. App. 3d 691, 725, 167 Cal. Rptr. 636

Private offering not demonstrated when there was mere showing of occasional meetings without demonstrating true nature of relationship between them, there was no showing that investors were sophisticated, and there was no showing that developer made requisite data available to investors to enable them to make intelligent investment decisions. People v. Park (1980) 87 Cal. App. 3d 550, 565, 151 Cal. Rptr. 146

Offering and sale of demand notes in connection with mobile home community development was public offering rather than private one. People v. Humphreys (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 693, 697-698, 84 Cal. Rptr. 496 (conviction of selling securities without license affirmed)

[b] Partnerships or Joint Ventures

Joint venture exemption to permit requirement of California Corporate Securities Law was inapplicable to sale of interest in oil and gas drilling leases when parties never intended to create joint venture and when only one party made decisions most affecting ultimate success or failure of enterprise. Parvin v. Davis Oil Co. (9th Cir. 1979) 655 F.2d 901, 904

Exemption of former Corp. Code § 25102(f) as it existed prior to November 1, 1981, was only available to bona fide partnership; because bona fide partnership is not established unless each partner has right to determine membership of all other partners, limited partnership in which limited partners did not know each other was not entitled to exemption. Sherman v. Lloyd (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 693, 700-701, 226 Cal. Rptr. 495

Limited partnership interest is security when it so qualifies under "risk capital" test; neither short-term relationship with offeree nor offeree's investment sophistication was sufficient to bring limited partnership interest within nonpublic transaction exemption of Corp. Code § 25102(f). People v. Graham (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 1159, 1168-1169, 1174, 210 Cal. Rptr. 318

Neither partnership nor joint venture exemption from qualification was present when parties agreed only with respect to sharing of profits but made no provisions as to distribution of losses; when investors were accorded no right at all to participate in management or to exercise control over enterprise; and when no evidence that by investing specific sum in project either investors or developer intended to create joint venture or partnership. People v. Park (1980) 87 Cal. App. 3d 550, 564, 151 Cal. Rptr. 146

Agreement with defendant cattle handler to invest plaintiff's funds in cattle purchase and maintenance, all of which defendant would take care of, was not exempt partnership or joint venture arrangement because (1) it did not purport to be one, (2) defendant--who did not take profits but received service fees and financing percentages--did not participate in losses, and (3) it was apparently not a nonpublic offering in that about 100 others had entered into such agreements with defendant in past two years. Tomei v. Fairline Feeding Corp. (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 394, 401-402, 137 Cal. Rptr. 656

[c] Nonissuer Transactions

Sale of ongoing incorporated business by owner advertising sale of that business is exempt from qualification requirement when transfer of securities is merely incidental to sale of business. Fox v. Ehrmantraut (1980) 28 Cal. 3d 127, 138, 167 Cal. Rptr. 595, 615 P.2d 1383 (construing Corp. Code § 25104(a)(1))

[10] Federal Law

[a] Aiding and Abetting Rule 10b-5 Violation

Private plaintiff lacks standing to maintain aiding-and-abetting suit under Rule 10b-5 because 15 U.S.C. 78j(b) prohibits only making of material misstatement or omission or commission of manipulative act, not aiding and abetting those violations. Central Bank v. First Interstate Bank (1994) 511 U.S. 164, 114 S. Ct. 1439, 1445-1448, 128 L. Ed. 2d 119 , superseded by statute as stated in 552 U.S. 148 ; In re Glenfed, Inc. (9th Cir. 1995) 60 F.3d 591, 592 ; but see 15 U.S.C. § 78t(e) (congressional response to Central Bank case directs prosecution of aiders and abettors by the SEC, but does not create private right of action against aiders and abettors; see also Stoneridge Inv. Partners, LLC v. Scientific-Atlanta, Inc. (2008) 552 U.S. 148, 162-163, 128 S. Ct. 761, 169 L. Ed 2d 627

Plaintiff has no private right of action for conspiracy liability under Rule 10 [see 15 U.S.C. 78j] because Supreme Court's holding in Central Bank v. First Interstate (1994) 511 U.S. 164, 114 S. Ct. 1439, 128 L. Ed. 2d 119 (see entry, above) that language of Rule 10b confers no private right of action for aiding and abetting precludes any such action for conspiracy liability. In re Glenfed, Inc. (9th Cir. 1995) 60 F.3d 591, 592

[b] Brokers and Broker's Duties

Stockbroker's conduct in selling customer's securities and using proceeds for stockbroker's own benefit, without customer's knowledge or consent, was "in connection with purchase or sale of any security" within meaning of § 10(b) of Securities Exchange Act and SEC Rule 10b-5 [15 U.S.C. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b-5]. SEC v. Zandford (2002) 535 U.S. 813, 122 S. Ct. 1899, 1906, 153 L.Ed. 2d 1

Bank holding company was permitted, under Bank Holding Company Act [see 12 U.S.C. § 1843(c)(8)], to acquire subsidiary engaged in retail securities brokerage business; retail securities brokerage business was not barred by § 20 of Glass-Steagall Act (former 12 U.S.C. § 377, repealed 1999), which prohibited issue, flotation, underwriting, public sale, or distribution of securities by bank or bank affiliate when no investment advice was provided and purchases and sales were for account of customer. Securities Ind. Assn. v. Fed. Reserve Bd. (1984) 468 U.S. 207, 214-221, 104 S. Ct. 3003, 82 L. Ed. 2d 158

Agent of seller was seller for purposes of imposing liability under 15 U.S.C. § 77l(1) (misstatements or omissions in prospectus), even though agent did not solicit customers, but waited until customers initiated contact, if agent's participation in sale was substantial factor in transaction and agent received commission. Harelson v. Miller Financial Corp. (9th Cir. 1988) 854 F.2d 1141, 1142

Brokerage firm was liable for employee broker's fraud in inducing securities purchase under federal law, for failure to provide reasonable supervision and training, and under California law, for acts of its agent performed within scope of agent's authority. Seymour v. Summa Vista Cinema, Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 809 F.2d 1385, 1388

Punitive damage award against brokerage firm whose employee broker defrauded securities purchasers was proper for firm's own malice as evidenced by its failure to investigate prior suits against broker for similar conduct in reckless disregard of rights of others and failure to supervise, or on basis of firm's ratification of broker's acts, by failure to act when it knew of broker's fraudulent activity. Seymour v. Summa Vista Cinema, Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 809 F.2d 1385, 1388

Fraud liability is not imposed simply because one is led to make unprofitable investment. Vucinich v. Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis, Inc. (9th Cir. 1986) 803 F.2d 454, 460

Broker's failure to explain short selling to client in way that client could understand was both reckless violation of SEC Commission Rule 10b-5 (17 C.F.R. § 240.10b-5) and constructive fraud under Civ. Code § 1575(1); explanation was required to include debtor nature of short seller's position and responsibility for margin calls and dividends, including fact that dividend responsibility would erode client's position, and that short selling is normally what is meant by phrase "capital gains objective." Vucinich v. Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis, Inc. (9th Cir. 1986) 803 F.2d 454, 460

Under federal securities law, when client has nondiscretionary account, agency relationship arises when client places order and terminates when transaction is complete and broker has no continuing obligation to advise clients of information that affects their securities; in absence of showing that broker exercised control over account or acted as investment counselor, account was nondiscretionary. Caravan Mobile Home Sales v. Lehman Bros. Kuhn Loeb (9th Cir. 1985) 769 F.2d 561, 567 (comparing standard under California law which requires showing that broker "for all practical purposes" controls account)

Duty owed by broker under SEC Rule 10b-5 is determined by several factors including relationship, relative access to information, benefit derived from relationship by broker, broker's awareness of client's reliance on him or her, and broker's activity in initiating transactions at issue; under California law, statute of limitations for broker's fraud is tolled by broker's reassuring client on concerns relevant to claimed misrepresentations. Vucinich v. Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis, Inc. (9th Cir. 1984) 739 F.2d 1434, 1435-1436

Confidentiality clause in settlement agreement that prohibited securities customer from discussing dealer's misconduct with regulatory authorities was void and unenforceable as violation of public policy; rules of National Association of Securities Dealers (now known as Financial Industry Regulatory Authority, or FINRA) are valid source of public policy so as to allow court to void contract that is contrary to them. Cariveau v. Halferty (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 126, 138, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 417

[c] Class Action Limitations

State law fraud claims relating to employee stock options were preempted by Securities Litigation Uniform Standards Act of 1998; alleged fraud took place "in connection with" purchase or sale of "covered security." Falkowski v. Imation Corp. (9th Cir. 2003) 320 F.3d 905, 906

[d] Contribution Among Defendants

SEC allowed to recover investor funds traced to "nominal defendant" to collect proceeds that resulted from underlying fraud. SEC v. Colello (1998) 139 F.3d 674, 676-677

Section 10(b) of Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [15 U.S.C. § 78j(b)] and SEC Rule 10b-5 establishes implied right of contribution for nonsettling defendant in civil action; defendants' shares of damages is apportioned in accordance with their relative culpability, rather than pro rata. Smith v. Mulvaney (9th Cir. 1987) 827 F.2d 558, 560-561

[e] Criminal Penalties

Criminal liability under § 10(b) of Securities Exchange Act may be predicated on "misappropriation theory," which outlaws trading on basis of nonpublic information by corporate "outsider" in breach of duty owed to source of information, and complements "classical theory" which targets corporate insider's breach of duty to shareholders with whom insider transacts. United States v. O'Hagan (1997) 521 U.S. 642, 649, 117 S. Ct. 2199, 138 L. Ed. 2d 724 (holding that person who trades in securities for personal profit, using confidential information misappropriated in breach of fiduciary duty to source of information, is guilty of violating § 10(b) and Rule 10b-5)

Criminal conviction for violation of § 10(b) of Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [15 U.S.C. § 78j(b)] affirmed because court was evenly divided on issue of whether person defrauded must be one who traded in securities. Carpenter v. United States (1987) 484 U.S. 19, 108 S. Ct. 316, 98 L. Ed. 2d 275, 282

Newspaper's interest in prepublication confidentiality of contents and publication schedule of column is property right within meaning of federal mail and wire fraud statutes [18 U.S.C. §§ 1341, 1343] sufficient to sustain conviction against writer and "tippee" for disclosure in furtherance of investment scheme. Carpenter v. United States (1987) 484 U.S.

19, 108 S. Ct. 316, 98 L. Ed. 2d 275, 283-285

Even if one is ignorant of regulation and has pleaded guilty, conviction for violation of 17 C.F.R. § 240.14e-3 (willfully engaging in fraudulent, deceptive, or manipulative act) on basis of insider trading is crime involving moral turpitude. Chadwick v. State Bar (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 103, 110-111, 260 Cal. Rptr. 538, 776 P.2d 240

[f] Definition of Security

Investment scheme promising fixed rate of return can be "investment contract" and thus "security" subject to federal securities laws; fact that purchasers had contractual entitlement to return did not mean that return was not also expected to come solely from efforts of others. SEC v. Edwards (2004) 540 U.S. 389, 124 S. Ct. 892, 157 L. Ed. 2d 813, 822

In determining whether note is security, first test is so-called "family resemblance" test developed by Second Circuit; if that test is not determinative, four criteria must be considered: (1) whether parties' motivation was for investment or commercial purposes; (2) plan of distribution used; (3) expectations of investing public; (4) whether application of securities laws is unnecessary due to some other regulatory scheme. Reves v. Ernst & Young (1990) 494 U.S. 56, 63-67, 110 S. Ct. 945, 108 L. Ed. 2d 47

Unsecured, uninsured demand notes sold by agricultural cooperative to raise capital for general business needs were securities when purchasers were motivated to earn profit in form of interest, advertising referred to them as investments, and they were sold to broad segment of public. Reves v. Ernst & Young (1990) 494 U.S. 56, 70-73, 110 S. Ct. 945, 108 L. Ed. 2d 47

Exclusion from definition of security of notes maturing less than nine months from time of issuance [15 U.S.C. § 78c(a)(10)] was not applicable to unsecured, uninsured demand notes when parties did not contemplate that demand would be made within statutory period. Reves v. Ernst & Young (1990) 494 U.S. 56, 72-73, 110 S. Ct. 945, 108 L. Ed. 2d 47

Sale of 50 percent or 100 percent of stock of closely held business was "security" within meaning of Securities Exchange Acts of 1933 and 1934 so as to allow defrauded purchaser antifraud remedies of Acts; when instrument is stock, court need not look to economic substance of transaction to determine if it is "security"; sale of business doctrine, which would compel contrary result, was abrogated in sale of traditional stock of closely held corporation. Gould v. Ruefenacht (1985) 471 U.S. 701, 703-706, 105 S. Ct. 2308, 85 L. Ed. 2d 708 ; Landreth Timber Co. v. Landreth (1985) 471 U.S. 681, 685-692, 694-697, 105 S. Ct. 2297, 85 L. Ed. 2d 692

Commercial paper is security; trial court had to determine whether bank's selling of commercial paper of its corporate customers was "underwriting" within prohibition of 12 U.S.C. § 24 para. 7 and 12 U.S.C. § 378(a)(1). Securities Ind. Assn. v. Fed. Reserve Bd. (1984) 468 U.S. 137, 139-140, 148-160, 104 S. Ct. 2979, 82 L. Ed. 2d 107

Single, unique agreement, negotiated "one-on-one" between two parties that is not ordinarily considered to be security and that was not designed to be publicly traded was not security under federal securities law. Marine Bank v. Weaver (1982) 455 U.S. 551, 560, 102 S. Ct. 1220, 71 L. Ed. 2d 409 (certificate of deposit issued by domestic bank); Mace Neufeld Productions v. Orion Pictures Corp. (9th Cir. 1988) 860 F.2d 944, 946 (production and profit-sharing agreement)

Based on factors set forth in Reves v. Ernst & Young, discussed above, promissory notes did not bear sufficiently strong family resemblance to judicially created list of non-securities, nor did they warrant addition of new category to list. SEC v. J.T. Wallenbrock (9th Cir. 2002) 313 F.3d 532, 537

Under family resemblance test set forth in Reves v. Ernst & Young, promissory notes in question did not resemble either bank character loan or commercial loan to maintain business operations, so as to fall outside 1934 Act; court declined to add additional category additional category to list of non-securities. McNabb v. SEC (9th Cir. 2002) 298 F.3d 1126, 1131-1133

Question of fact exists as to whether partnership investment contract for jojoba farming is security; factors enunciated in Williamson v. Tucker (5th Cir. 1981) 645 F.2d 404 , Hocking v. Dubois (9th Cir. 1989) 885 F.2d 1449 , was key to "control" element of Howey test: (1) agreement affords so little legal responsibility and authority to investing partners as to place them in position of limited partners, (2) investing partners' sophistication and expertise in business affairs is such that they are incapable of intelligently exercising their partnership powers, or (3) investing partners are so dependent on some unique entrepreneurial or managerial ability of promoter that they cannot exercise meaningful partnership powers. Koch v. Hankins (9th Cir. 1990) 928 F.2d 1471, 1478

"Risk capital" test enunciated in Great Western Bank & Trust v. Kotz (9th Cir. 1976) 532 F.2d 1252, 1255 , is not applied when it is clear from context of underlying transaction that no "security" is involved. Danner v. Himmelfarb (9th Cir. 1988) 858 F.2d 515, 521-522

Note secured by deed of trust on real property and given in exchange for sale of peso deposits in Mexican bank was not security when payee initiated transaction to circumvent Mexican currency regulations and realize on pesos "trapped" in Mexico. Danner v. Himmelfarb (9th Cir. 1988) 858 F.2d 515, 522

Expectation that profits would be derived solely from managerial efforts of others was not proper criteria; investment is security if undeniably significant or essential managerial efforts are expected to be rendered other than by investor. Deutsch Energy Co. v. Mazur (9th Cir. 1987) 813 F.2d 1567, 1569

Purchaser of oil lease rights who had sufficient general business experience to exercise managerial powers under lease agreements was not able to turn leases into investments by delegating managerial discretion to seller. Deutsch Energy Co. v. Mazur (9th Cir. 1987) 813 F.2d 1567, 1570

Discretionary commodities trading account is not security or investment contract under Securities Act of 1933 definition because there is no common enterprise between investor and promoter. Lopez v. Dean Witter Reynolds (9th Cir. 1986) 805 F.2d 880, 884-885

Partner's interest in general partnership was not security under federal law because general partner participated fully in management. Stone v. Millstein (9th Cir. 1986) 804 F.2d 1434, 1439

Prepayment plan for purchase of gold coins was not security under federal securities laws (15 U.S.C. §§ 77b(1), 78c(a)(10)) because buyer's profit would not come solely from efforts of others but primarily from fluctuations in world price of gold. SEC v. Belmont Reid & Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1986) 794 F.2d 1388, 1390-1391

Dismissal not proper because allegations that plaintiffs purchased fractional interests in oil and gas rights and entered into management agreement providing for defendants to manage their interests raised triable issue of fact as to whether plaintiffs contributed risk capital subject to entrepreneurial and management efforts as would constitute security. Simon Oil Co., Ltd. v. Norman (9th Cir. 1986) 789 F.2d 780, 781-782

In determining whether notes are securities, central distinction was whether transaction more resembles investment or commercial lending situation; notes secured by assignments of beneficial interests in third party notes and deeds of trust were securities when choice of collateral was made by borrowers, each lender's contribution was small compared to total amount borrowed, foreclosure right was not likely to be enforced due to limited size of individual lender's investment, and very little could actually be negotiated by lenders. Underhill v. Royal (9th Cir. 1985) 769 F.2d 1426,

1430-1431 ; but see Reves v. Ernst & Young (1990) 494 U.S. 56, 64, 110 S. Ct. 945, 108 L. Ed. 2d 47 (characterizing Underhill's approach as substantially similar to so-called Howey test (SEC v. W. J. Howey Co. (1946) 328 U.S. 293, 66 S. Ct. 1100, 90 L. Ed. 1244) and disapproving application of Howey test to notes)

Certificate of deposit issued by foreign bank is not "security" within meaning of federal securities acts. Wolf v. Banco Nacional de Mexico, S. A. (9th Cir. 1984) 739 F.2d 1458, 1463-1464

[g] Jurisdiction

15 U.S.C. § 78aa authorizes nationwide service of process and confers personal jurisdiction over resident defendants in any district; minimum contacts of nonresident defendant with any district or actions outside United States that cause sufficient foreseeable consequences in United States are basis for personal jurisdiction over nonresident defendants. Securities Investor Protection Corp. v. Vigman (9th Cir. 1985) 764 F.2d 1309, 1315-1316

[h] Material Misrepresentation

Company that sold option to buy stock while secretly intending never to honor option violated § 10b-5, which prohibits using any manipulative or deceptive device or contrivance in connection with purchase or sale of any security; option to purchase stock constituted "security," oral agreement to purchase did not preclude 10b-5 claim, and sale of option with secret intent not to honor it related to value of security purchase and therefore violated § 10b-5. The Wharf (Holdings) Limited v. United International Holdings, Inc. (2001) 532 U.S. 588, 590, 121 S. Ct. 1776, 1780-1782, 149 L. Ed. 2d 845

Conclusionary terms, statements of reasons, opinions, and beliefs in proxy statement soliciting merger understood to rest on factual basis that justifies them as accurate, absence of which renders them misleading. Virginia Bankshares, Inc. v. Sandberg (1991) 501 U.S. 1083, 111 S. Ct. 2749, 115 L. Ed. 2d 929, 945-947

Directors' disbelief or undisclosed belief or motivation was insufficient to sustain action under § 14(a) of Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (proxy solicitation; 15 U.S.C. § 78n(a)); fact that some accurate facts are included did not save misleading conclusion from being material unless inconsistency would exhaust misleading conclusions's capacity to influence reasonable shareholder. Virginia Bankshares, Inc. v. Sandberg (1991) 501 U.S. 1083, 111 S. Ct. 2749, 115 L. Ed. 2d 929, 947-948

In civil SEC Rule 10b-5 (15 U.S.C. § 78j(b)) fraud actions, standard of materiality was same standard applied in proxy context: omitted, withheld, or misrepresented fact is material if substantial likelihood exists that reasonable shareholder would consider it important in deciding how to act, in that disclosure would have been viewed by reasonable investor as having significantly altered total mix of information available. Basic Incorporated v. Levinson (1988) 485 U.S. 224, 108 S. Ct. 978, 99 L. Ed. 2d 194, 208-209, 214, 219-220

In civil SEC Rule 10b-5 fraud actions, materiality of preliminary merger negotiations is dependent on probability that transaction will be consummated and on significance of merger to issuer; thus, materiality of preliminary merger negotiations is question of fact to be determined on case by case basis; factors to be considered include size of companies involved, indicia of interest of board members, whether investment banks have become involved, whether directors' resolution has been passed, and potential for stock involved to command premium in excess of market value. Basic Incorporated v. Levinson (1988) 485 U.S. 224, 108 S. Ct. 978, 99 L. Ed. 2d 194, 212-214, 220

In civil SEC Rule 10b-5 fraud actions relating to disclosure of preliminary merger negotiations, "agreement-in-principle" standard of materiality (no disclosure required until agreement-in-principle exists as to price and structure) is abrogated for artificially excluding from definition of materiality information that would otherwise be significant to trading decision of reasonable investor. Basic Incorporated v. Levinson (1988) 485 U.S. 224, 108 S. Ct.

978, 99 L. Ed. 2d 194, 212, 220

In civil SEC Rule 10b-5 fraud actions relating to disclosure of preliminary merger negotiations, rule that negotiations become material by virtue of statement denying their existence is abrogated; falsity or incompleteness of statement is not sufficient to confer materiality on otherwise insignificant fact. Basic Incorporated v. Levinson (1988) 485 U.S. 224, 108 S. Ct. 978, 99 L. Ed. 2d 194, 212, 220

In civil SEC Rule 10b-5 fraud action relating to false denials of preliminary merger negotiations, investors entitled to rely on rebuttable presumption of reliance under "fraud on the market" theory, which assumes that market system develops price on basis of all available information; thus, market price reflects false information, whether or not known to investor, and has effectively defrauded investor as much as direct reliance would; severance of link between false information and price paid or received by plaintiff or between false information and plaintiff's decision to trade will rebut presumption of reliance. Basic Incorporated v. Levinson (1988) 485 U.S. 224, 108 S. Ct. 978, 99 L. Ed. 2d 194, 215-219, 220, 220 (three judges not participating; four judges concurring; two judges dissenting); see In re Apple Computer Securities Litigation (9th Cir. 1989) 886 F.2d 1109, 1113, 1119 (fraud on market theory and its effect on plaintiff's burden of proof)

Attorney who undertakes to make representations to prospective purchasers of securities is under obligation, imposed by Section 10(b) [15 U.S.C. § 78j(b)], to tell truth about those securities; that he or she may have attorney-client relationship with seller of those securities is irrelevant under Section 10(b). Thompson v. Paul (9th Cir. 2008) 547 F.3d 1055, 1063

Allegations of seriously mishandled audit, which set out compelling case of negligence or even gross negligence, were insufficient to plead scienter under heightened pleading requirements of Private Securities Litigation Reform Act [15 U.S.C. § 78u-4(b)(2)]. DSAM Global Value Fund v. Altris Software, Inc. (9th Cir. 2002) 288 F.3d 385, 390-391

Rule 10b-5 and Rule 14e-3 (which governs fraud in connection with tender offers) prohibit only misleading and untrue statements, not statements that are incomplete; thus to survive motion to dismiss, complaint must specify reasons why statements were misleading or untrue, not simply why statements were incomplete; corporation's press releases were not misleading under applicable standards. Brody v. Transitional Hospitals Corporation (9th Cir. 2002) 280 F.3d 997, 1006-1007

Failure to disclose any intent to engage in short sales of stock did not support claim of securities fraud in violation of Rule 10b-5; short sales executed in accordance with SEC rules and regulations not only are lawful, but do not distort markets or create a false impression of supply and demand because they are legitimate transactions with real buyers on the other side of the sale who are betting that the stock's price will rise. GFL Advantage Fund, Ltd. v. Colkitt (3rd Cir. 2001) 272 F.3d 189, 212-214

With respect to whether CEO who, with scienter, signs SEC filing containing misrepresentations "makes statement" so as to be liable as primary violator under § 10(b), district court erred in granting CEO judgment as a matter of law; demonstration of possible motive combined with red flags of company's financial condition were sufficient to withstand motion for judgment as a matter of law on issue of scienter. Howard v. Everex Systems, Inc. (9th Cir. 2000) 228 F. 3d 1057, 1063-1065

Company's failure to disclose disagreement with largest customer regarding effect of early repayment of loan by company did not violate securities laws when there was no evidence that company had agreed to or could be forced to pay off loan, and any possible negative effect resulting from information which company allegedly failed to disclose regarding its contractual relationship, rights, and duties was at most speculative and uncertain. Abromson v. American Pacific Corp. (9th Cir. 1997) 114 F.3d 898, 902-903

Ninth Circuit has adopted "bespeaks caution" doctrine, holding that if precise cautionary language directly addresses itself to future projections, estimates, or forecasts in a prospectus, the projections will not give rise to a claim of securities fraud in violation of 15 U.S.C. § 78j(b). In re Worlds of Wonder Securities Litigation (9th Cir. 1995) 35 F.3d 1407, 1414-1415

Corporation's failure to disclose identity of potential buyer of subsidiary was material but not misleading and, thus, not actionable omission under 15 U.S.C. § 78j(b) because shareholder knew he did not know name of potential buyer but nonetheless chose to sell securities back to issuer; issuer's disclosure that it knew name of potential buyer (but would not identify potential buyer) was sufficient, particularly in light of shareholder's considerable sophistication. McCormick v. Fund American Companies, Inc. (9th Cir. 1994) 26 F.3d 869, 879-880

Bank's deliberate failure to recognize problem loans, thus knowingly understating its loan reserve, constituted omission or misrepresentation of material fact actionable under 15 U.S.C. § 78j(b); bank's act not dismissable as mere internal mismanagement, unsound business practices, or poor accounting judgment. In re Wells Fargo Securities Litigation (9th Cir. 1993) 12 F.3d 922, 926 .

Seller's use of false identity when selling securities through brokerage firm under name of former client, without disclosure that securities were issued by corporation in which seller was officer and director, did not constitute securities fraud in violation of 15 U.S.C. § 78j(b) because misrepresentation and omission were not material. U.S. v. Bingham (9th Cir. 1993) 992 F.2d 975, 976-977

Investor's sophistication did not preclude his or her reliance on "fraud-on-the-market" theory of action and was not sufficient, in context of motion for summary judgment, to rebut presumption of reliance; sophisticated investors are as entitled to rely on the fraud-on-the-market theory as anyone else. Hanon v. Dataproducts Corp. (9th Cir. 1992) 976 F.2d 497, 506-507

In "fraud on market" case, plaintiff not required to show actual reliance on particular misrepresentation or omission; plaintiff only required to show reliance on integrity of stock price established by market; investor's reliance on market equivalent to reliance on statements made to market or nondisclosure of material information. In re Convergent Technologies Securities Lit. (9th Cir. 1991) 948 F.2d 507, 512 n.2

Company required to discuss factors that would cause reported financial information not to be necessarily indicative of future financial operating results in its annual 10-K filing; company not required to do so in quarterly report to shareholders. In re Convergent Technologies Securities Lit. (9th Cir. 1991) 948 F.2d 507, 514

Ordinarily materiality and scienter fact-specific issues that should be left to trier of fact; but when plaintiff could only prove those elements of case and no others, grant of summary judgment for defendants is proper. In re Apple Computer Securities Litigation (9th Cir. 1989) 886 F.2d 1109, 1113, 1119

Projections and general expressions of optimism may be actionable; each such statement contains three implied factual assertions, inaccuracy of which is actionable. In re Apple Computer Securities Litigation (9th Cir. 1989) 886 F.2d 1109, 1113

Under fraud on market theory, defendants' failure to disclose material information is excused if that information has been made credibly available to market by other sources; credibility of other sources is to be compared to impact of statements by insiders; only in rare case will intense and sustained focus by press on risks of product in development excuse unqualified exuberance of insiders and their failure to disclose problems with project. In re Apple Computer Securities Litigation (9th Cir. 1989) 886 F.2d 1109, 1115-1116

Materiality of alleged misrepresentation and reasonableness of purchaser's reliance on it not to be considered in isolation but in context of entire presentation and other misrepresentations, if any; thus, oral assurance that investment was "sure thing" was actionable and grant of summary judgment for seller was error. Casella v. Webb (9th Cir. 1989) 883 F.2d 805, 808

No civil SEC Rule 10b-5 cause of action was stated against law firm that issued opinion regarding marketability of title to real property purchased by issuer because law firm had no duty to disclose to investors that issuer paid inflated price for property or that another client of law firm had investment in property. Roberts v. Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co. (9th Cir. 1988) 857 F.2d 646, 653-654

Fact is material if its existence or nonexistence is matter to which reasonable person would attach importance in determining his or her course of action with respect to transaction; materiality is mixed question of law and fact. Toombs v. Leone (9th Cir. 1985) 777 F.2d 465, 469 ; Caravan Mobile Home Sales v. Lehman Bros. Kuhn Loeb (9th Cir. 1985) 769 F.2d 561, 565

Failure to receive financial information is not material when investment predates commencement of business in view of investor's testimony that fact that business was new was not material consideration in his decision to invest. Toombs v. Leone (9th Cir. 1985) 777 F.2d 465, 469

Omission to state whether fishing boats would be leased or purchased was not material when investor testified it was not issue for him when he decided to invest. Toombs v. Leone (9th Cir. 1985) 777 F.2d 465, 469

Decision made after close of offering to fish for shrimp rather than for red snapper, lobster, and conch as stated in offering summary was not material to decision to invest since materiality must be determined in light of facts existing at time of nondisclosure or misinformation. Toombs v. Leone (9th Cir. 1985) 777 F.2d 465, 469

State securities and fraud claims are subject to same test of materiality as federal securities claims. Toombs v. Leone (9th Cir. 1985) 777 F.2d 465, 470

At time of plaintiff's purchases neither inventory build-up, intention to sell two profitable subsidiaries, nor reclassification of oil reserves from proven to unproven and downward valuation of reserves was material; materiality is not to be determined by hindsight. Caravan Mobile Home Sales v. Lehman Bros. Kuhn Loeb (9th Cir. 1985) 769 F.2d 561, 565-567

Summary judgment on issue of materiality is only proper when court has engaged in meticulous and well articulated analysis of each item of withheld or misrepresented information and reasonable minds could not differ as determination of materiality. Caravan Mobile Home Sales v. Lehman Bros. Kuhn Loeb (9th Cir. 1985) 769 F.2d 561, 565

Allegedly false statements concerning computer product bugs and problems were not actionable as matter of law because they were already known to investors; omission is materially misleading in fraud-on-the-market case only if information has not already entered market. In re Sybase, Inc. Securities Litigation (N.D. Cal. 1999) 48 F. Supp. 2d 958, 961-962

[i] Procedural Requirements for Pleading Fraud

Complaint was sufficient, under heightened pleading standard of Private Securities Litigation Reform Act, in alleging facts showing that company and three top executives intentionally or with deliberate recklessness withheld reports of adverse effects of and lawsuits concerning pharmaceutical product that was responsible for the company's remarkable sales increase. Siracusano v. Matrixx Initiatives, Inc. (9th Cir. 2009) 585 F.3d 1167, 1183

Drawing inference that facts crucial to company's "core operations" (or to particular important transaction) were known by company's key officers is permissible, but that cannot alone be sufficient except in unusual circumstances, to support conclusion that complaint raises strong inference of scienter and so satisfies heightened pleading standard of Private Securities Litigation Reform Act. South Ferry LP v. Killinger (9th Cir. 2008) 542 F.3d 776, 784-785

Third amended complaint alleging securities fraud class action was properly dismissed with prejudice; although complaint exceeded 370 pages, allegations ultimately failed to meet exacting requirements of Private Securities Litigation Reform Act--that is, strong implication that defendant acted with intent to deceive, manipulate, or defraud, and specification of what statements by defendant were misleading and why--as well as ordinary standards for pleading loss causation. Metzler Inv. GMBH v. Corinthian Colleges, Inc. (9th Cir. 2008) 534 F.3d 1068, 1090-1091

Complaint alleging securities fraud was improperly dismissed with prejudice, for failure to plead "false statements" with particularity and to satisfy scienter requirement pursuant to heightened pleading requirements of Private Securities Litigation Reform Act. Eminence Capital, LLC v. Aspeon, Inc. (9th Cir. 2003) 316 F.3d 1048, 1051

Dismissal with prejudice of complaint alleging securities fraud, for failure to plead "false statements" with particularity and to satisfy scienter requirement pursuant to heightened pleading requirements of Private Securities Litigation Reform Act, reversed. Eminence Capital, LLC v. Aspeon, Inc. (9th Cir. 2003) 316 F.3d 1048, 1051

Allegations in securities fraud class action did not meet heightened pleading requirements of Private Securities Litigation Reform Act [15 U.S.C. § 78u-4(b)(1), (2)] because they were not sufficiently particularized and did not raise "strong inference" that misleading statements were made knowingly or with deliberate recklessness. Fischer v. Vantive Corp.(In re Vantive Corp. Secs. Litig. (9th Cir. 2002) 283 F.3d 1079, 1085

Allegations of securities fraud did not raise strong enough inference to meet heightened pleading requirements of Private Securities Litigation Reform Act; calling executives bad managers or forecasters does not plead fraud unless it can be shown they knew or were deliberately reckless in disregarding misleading nature of their forecasts. Ronconi v. Larkin (9th Cir. 2001) 253 F.3d 423, 437

Dismissal of complaint alleging corporate securities fraud for failure to satisfy requirements of Rule 9(b) [see Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 9(b)] was correct when none of complaint's factual allegations satisfied Rule 9(b)'s requirement that complaint aver with particularity "circumstances constituting fraud"; complaint did not allege with sufficient particularity details about existence of alleged "non-public confidential information" that revealed "true facts" that were inconsistent with various statements by defendants. Yourish v. California Amplifier (9th Cir. 2000) 191 F.3d 983, 994-998

Although plaintiff may satisfy rule requiring that fraud be pleaded with particularity in corporate securities fraud case [see Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 9(b)] through reliance on presumption that allegedly false and misleading group published information complained of is collective action of officers and directors, if outside directors are named, complaint must allege that they had some kind of operational involvement or special relationship with corporation, such as participating in its daily activities or preparing or communicating group information. In re Glenfed, Inc. (9th Cir. 1995) 60 F.3d 591, 593

Plaintiff may satisfy rule requiring that fraud be pleaded with particularity in securities fraud case [see Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 9(b)] by alleging necessary condition of mind of actor without setting forth circumstances from which condition may be inferred; rule does not mandate that facts giving rise to either strong inference or some inference of fraudulent intent be set forth. In re Glenfed, Inc. Securities Litigation (9th Cir. 1995) 42 F.3d 1541, 1546-1547

[j] Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act (RICO)

President and sole shareholder of closely held corporation that promoted boxing matches was a "person" distinct from the "enterprise" for purposes of liability under 18 U.S.C. § 1962(c); incorporation's basic purpose is to create distinct legal entity with rights, obligations, powers, and privileges different from those of natural individuals who created it, who own it, or whom it employs. Cedric Kushner Promotions, Ltd. v. King (2001) 533 U.S. 158, 164-165, 121 S. Ct. 2087, 150 L. Ed. 2d 198

Section 107 of Private Securities Litigation Reform Act, eliminating conduct actionable as fraud in purchase or sale of securities as predicate for civil claims under RICO, could not be applied retroactively to bar civil RICO claims filed after Act's effective date based on conduct occurring before effective date. Scott v. Boos (9th Cir. 2000) 215 F.3d 940, 941-942

One fraudulent scheme or one criminal episode is sufficient "pattern of racketeering" if it involves two or more predicate acts that are (1) not isolated events, (2) separate in time, and (3) in furtherance of single criminal scheme; purchasers of savings and loan association's stock stated civil RICO cause of action (18 U.S.C. § 1964) against all but newest director and attorney of issuer based on misrepresentations in annual reports, offering circulars, press releases, and conversations over 14-month period. Blake v. Dierdorff (9th Cir. 1988) 856 F.2d 1365, 1368, 1369-1371 (directors), 1371-1372 (attorney)

When fraudulent statements are made in "group-published information," such as prospectuses, registration statements, annual reports, or press releases, presumption of collective action is applicable to satisfy federal requirement that fraud be specifically pleaded. Blake v. Dierdorff (9th Cir. 1988) 856 F.2d 1365, 1369

No civil RICO cause of action was stated against issuer's accountants or accounting firm when all actions taken by accountants and information learned by them were in furtherance of single audit, which thus constituted only one predicate act. Blake v. Dierdorff (9th Cir. 1988) 856 F.2d 1365, 1371

Complaint of California cities and local agencies that deposited funds with Orange County Treasurer for investment in statutory investment trust which then collapsed sufficiently alleged conduct in breach of duties owed directly to appellants by broker under federal RICO statutes. City of Atascadero v. Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner Smith, Inc. (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 445, 484&485, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 329

[k] Remedies

Minority shareholder whose vote is not required by law or bylaw to authorize transaction (merger) was unable to show causation of damages recoverable in implied private right of action under § 14(a) of Securites Exchange Act of 1934 (15 U.S.C. § 78n(a)). Virginia Bankshares, Inc. v. Sandberg (1991) 501 U.S. 1083, 111 S. Ct. 2749, 115 L. Ed. 2d 929, 951-955

Since deterrence as well as restoration of investor to status quo ante is purpose of Securities Act of 1933, rescissionary damages for fraud under 15 U.S.C. § 77 l(2) was not to be subject to deduction for income tax saved by investor because of investment; actual damage limitation of 15 U.S.C. § 78bb(a) did not authorize reduction of amount of rescissionary damages for violation of § 10(b) of Securities Act of 1933 (15 U.S.C. § 78j(b)) by amount of income tax saved by investor because of investment; because income tax impact was not measured only by actual amount of limited partners' investment but by their proportionate shares of nonrecourse loans to partnership, this result was possibly not applicable to other types of investment. Randall v. Loftsgaarden (1986) 478 U.S. 647, 649-667, 106 S. Ct. 3143, 92 L. Ed. 2d 525

Tippees who traded on misrepresented material nonpublic information not barred from recovering losses in civil action against broker and corporate insider tippers; pari delicto defense was inapplicable because (1) plaintiffs' culpability was much less than defendants', and (2) private civil suits are important for enforcement of securities laws and protection of investing public. B. Eichler, H. Richards, Inc. v. Berner (1985) 472 U.S. 299, 310-319, 105 S. Ct. 2622, 86 L. Ed. 2d 215

Cancellation of hostile takeover tender offer and finalization of agreement based on negotiation and "friendlier" offer did not involve misrepresentation, deception, or nondisclosure sufficient to establish a cause of action under 15 U.S.C. § 78n(e); "manipulation" as used in 15 U.S.C. § 78n(e) as requires intentional or willful conduct designed to deceive. Schreiber v. Burlington Northern, Inc. (1985) 472 U.S. 1, 12-13, 105 S. Ct. 2458, 86 L. Ed. 2d 1

Broker-dealer tippee's actions in passing on to investor's information received from insider that corporation's assets were overvalued due to fraud was not violation of antifraud provisions of 15 U.S.C. §§ 77q(a), 78j(b); tippee had no fiduciary duty to shareholders and no derivative duty from insider/tipper who received no personal benefit from revealing information and was motivated only to expose fraud. Dirks v. SEC (1983) 463 U.S. 646, 648, 661, 103 S. Ct. 3255, 77 L. Ed. 2d 911

Under 15 U.S.C. § 77 l(2), purchaser is entitled to rescission without showing that misrepresentation was cause of economic loss. Casella v. Webb (9th Cir. 1989) 883 F.2d 805, 808-809

If ICC has approved tender offer and merger [see 49 U.S.C. § 11341(a)], transaction is exempt from attack under all other laws and no cause of action can be stated against directors of railroad for dishonesty or obtaining too low price; result not altered because merger was accomplished through voting trust. Deutsch v. Flannery (9th Cir. 1989) 883 F.2d 60, 62-63

Federal law overrides choice of law provision in trust indenture agreement; subsequent purchasers were not automatically assigned causes of action from original purchasers who relied on misleading statements or omissions in offering materials; cause of action is personal to purchaser who relied. In re Nucorp Energy Securities Litigation (9th Cir. 1985) 772 F.2d 1486, 1489-1490

Redress under Section 10(b) of Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (15 U.S.C. § 78) that proscribes use of any deceptive or manipulative device "in connection with the purchase or sales of any security" is also available when there is sale of security and fraud "touches" sale. Arrington v. Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith (9th Cir. 1981) 651 F.2d 615, 619

[l] Standing

Shareholder who brought derivative action for short swing profits taken by insiders [see § 16(b) of Securities Exchange Act of 34 (15 U.S.C. § 78p(b))] not deprived of standing by merger in which plaintiff's shares were exchanged for those of parent corporation. Gollust v. Mendell (1991) 501 U.S. 115, 111 S. Ct. 2173, 115 L. Ed. 2d 109, 122

State law governs federal derivative action; federal court may not require demand if demand would be excused as futile under state law. Kamen v. Kemper Financial Services, Inc. (1991) 500 U.S. 90, 111 S. Ct. 1711, 114 L. Ed. 2d 152, 172 (action under Investment Securities Act of 1940 (15 U.S.C. § 80a-1 et seq.) remanded for determination whether plaintiff had adequately pleaded futility)

Investors whose trades occurred two months after corporation's repurchase did not satisfy judicially-created contemporaneous trading "standing" requirement applicable to insider trading claims; there is no distinction between Rule 10b-5 and Rule 14e-3 (which governs fraud in connection with tender offers) regarding need for contemporaneous trading allegation. Brody v. Transitional Hospitals Corporation (9th Cir. 2002) 280 F.3d 997, 1001-1003, 1005

Former shareholder who exchanges stock for contingent rights to receive stock has standing to sue as purchaser of stock for purposes of § 10(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and Rule 10b-5. Griggs v. Pace American Group Inc. (9th Cir. 1999) 170 F.3d 877, 880 (adopting rule that attachment of contingency to contractual right to receive stock does not remove that right from coverage of federal securities laws)

Subscribers and dealers who failed to show fraud "in connection with" purchase or sale of securities had no standing to bring § 10(b) class action suit against corporation issuing securities. Cohen v. Stratosphere Corp. (9th Cir. 1997) 115 F.3d 695, 703

[m] Statute of Limitations

Amendment to Securities and Exchange Act permitting reinstatement on motion of any action begun on or before June 19, 1991 (date of Supreme Court's decision in Lampf, Pleva, Lipkind, Prupis & Petigrow v. Gilbertson (1991) 501 U.S. 350, 111 S. Ct. 2773, 115 L. Ed. 2d 321), but dismissed after that date as time barred, if action would have been timely filed under applicable law on or before June 19, 1992, is unconstitutional to extent it requires federal courts to reopen final judgments entered before its enactment because it violates separation of powers doctrine. Plaut v. Spendthrift Farm, Inc. (1995) 514 U.S. 211, 115 S. Ct. 1447, 1452-1453, 131 L. Ed. 2d 328, 342

Usual rule that when Congress fails to provide statute of limitations, federal cause of action "borrows" state limitation is not applicable to private 10b-5 claims [see 15 U.S.C. § 78j(b), which does not create cause of action]; 10b-5 claims must be commenced within one year after discovery of facts constituting violation and within three years of violation. Lampf v. Gilbertson (1991) 501 U.S. 350, 111 S. Ct. 2773, 115 L. Ed. 2d 321, 331-334, 336

Equitable tolling doctrine is inconsistent with "1- and-3-year" limitation for 10b-5 claims and thus is inapplicable; action was barred even though plaintiffs could not have known until IRS changed its position that investment did not qualify for tax benefit as represented in offering materials. Lampf v. Gilbertson (1991) 501 U.S. 350, 111 S. Ct. 2773, 115 L. Ed. 2d 321, 336

Because press article's general skepticism about company's future prospects would not have led reasonable investor to investigate possibility of fraud, regardless of whether actual discovery or inquiry notice was used as governing standard, limitations period had not run when plaintiffs filed their suit. Berry v. Valence Technology, Inc. (9th Cir. 1999) 175 F.3d 699, 703-706

Civil enforcement actions brought by Securities and Exchange Commission not subject to one-year/three-year limitation period adopted for private fraud actions brought under 15 U.S.C. § 78j(b). SEC v. Rind (9th Cir. 1993) 991 F.2d 1486, 1489-1490

Amendment to Securities and Exchange Act permitting reinstatement of securities fraud actions pending on date new statute of limitation became effective [see 15 U.S.C. § 78aa-1] not unconstitutional because Congress changed underlying substantive law and did not violate either Separation of Powers doctrine, Due Process clause of 5th Amendment, or Equal Protection clause. Gray v. First Winthrop Corp. (9th Cir. 1993) 989 F.2d 1564, 1569-1570, 1572-1574 ; but see Plaut v. Spendthrift Farm, Inc. (1995) 514 U.S. 211, 115 S. Ct. 1447, 1452-1453, 131 L. Ed. 2d 328, 342 , above

Statute of limitations against seller's agent who was deemed seller for purposes of liability for violation of 15 U.S.C. § 77 l(1) begins to run when agent ceases to participate in sale, here, when buyer's check was forwarded to seller. Harelson v. Miller Financial Corp. (9th Cir. 1988) 854 F.2d 1141, 1142

Although pendency of class action tolls limitation period for all asserted members of class, not just for intervenors, limitation period not tolled with respect to subsequent federal securities class action by class members; class member's subsequent individual action not barred because limitation period was tolled during pendency of prior class action. Robbin v. Fluor Corp. (9th Cir. 1987) 835 F.2d 213, 214-215 ; note that the result under California law may be contrary [see Jolly v. Eli Lilly & Co. (1988) 44 Cal. 3d 1103, 1121-1122, 245 Cal. Rptr. 658, 751 P.2d 923 (declining to apply American Pipe & Construction Co. v. Utah (1974) 414 U.S. 538, 94 S. Ct. 756, 38 L. Ed. 2d 713 , on which Robbin was based, to "mass tort" action)]

[10A] Federal Preemption of State Law

Federal law creating national system for clearance and settlement of securities transactions [see 15 U.S.C. § 78q-1] does not reflect Congressional intent to occupy field of clearing and settling securities transactions to exclusion of state law; however, claims based on state law and asserted against entities carrying out that federal law would be preempted if in conflict with Congressional intent. Whistler Invs., Inc. v. Depository Trust Clearing Corp. (9th Cir. 2008) 539 F.3d 1159, 1165-1166

State law fraud claims relating to employee stock options were preempted by Securities Litigation Uniform Standards Act of 1998; alleged fraud took place "in connection with" purchase or sale of "covered security." Falkowski v. Imation Corp. (9th Cir. 2003) 320 F.3d 905, 906

Federal securities law preempted state law claims of securities brokers' customers who challenged nondisclosure of receipt of "order flow payments" from brokers through whom purchase and sale orders were executed. McKey v. Charles Schwab & Co. (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 731, 741-742, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 213

State action for breach of broker's common law fiduciary duty to trustees of profit-sharing trust, who invested trust funds, had impact on trust or its administration that was too tenuous, remote, and peripheral for action to be preempted by ERISA [29 U.S.C. § 1001 et seq.)]. Duffy v. Cavalier (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 1517, 1529, 264 Cal. Rptr. 740

[11] Fiduciary Duties

Because of fiduciary relationship of securities broker and client, constructive fraud was shown in inducement into entire agreement, as well as arbitration clause, causing arbitration agreement to be unenforceable. Ford v. Shearson Lehman American Express, Inc. (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 1011, 1020, 1027, 225 Cal. Rptr. 895

Relationship between stockbroker and principal is fiduciary in nature and imposes on broker duty of acting in highest good faith toward principal; obligation of diligent and faithful service is same as that imposed on trustee [Civ. Code § 2322]. Twomey v. Mitchum, Jones & Templeton, Inc. (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 690, 709, 69 Cal. Rptr. 222 (decided under prior version of Civ. Code § 2322; now see Civ. Code § 2322(c), which imposes duties set forth in Prob. Code §§ 16002, 16004, 16005, and 16009)

One who induced unsophisticated persons to invest money in various ventures in his name assumed fiduciary status as investment advisor, trustee of commodities accounts, managing partner of mining venture, and securities broker-dealer; fiduciary's material misrepresentations to induce investors not to withdraw their funds, failure to disclose significant risks, and failure to register securities were not only statutory violations [see Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25401] but also constructive fraud, which supports award of punitive damages. Stokes v. Henson (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 187, 194-197, 265 Cal. Rptr. 836

[12] Jurisdiction

National Association of Securities Dealers (now known as Financial Industry Regulatory Authority, or FINRA) was protected by absolute immunity against claims by trader in secondary limited partnership market alleging improprieties arising out of NASD's attempted disciplinary actions against it. Partnership Exch. Sec. Co. v. NASD (9th Cir. 1999) 169 F.3d 606, 608

Claims against National Association of Securities Dealers (now known as Financial Industry Regulatory Authority, or FINRA) for temporarily de-listing and suspending trading in stock on opening day of public offering, although articulated in terms of state law, were properly removed to federal district that had subject matter jurisdiction; NASD, as self-regulatory organization, was entitled to regulatory immunity from claims when acting under aegis of Securities Exchange Act's delegated authority. Sparta Surgical Corp. v. NASD, Inc. (9th Cir. 1998) 159 F.3d 1209, 1212-1215

State courts have concurrent jurisdiction with federal courts over suits arising under Securities Act of 1933 (15 U.S.C. § 77a et seq.). Lakewood Bank & Trust Co. v. Superior Court (1982) 129 Cal. App. 3d 463, 468, 180 Cal. Rptr. 914

Nationwide service of process provisions of Securities Act of 1933, § 22(a) (15 U.S.C. § 77v(a)), and similar section of Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (15 U.S.C. § 78a et seq.) confer personal jurisdiction over defendant for pendant state law claims only after court has obtained subject matter jurisdiction on a federal issue and can justify entertaining state claims in interest of judicial economy. Lakewood Bank & Trust Co. v. Superior Court (1982) 129 Cal. App. 3d 463, 470, 180 Cal. Rptr. 914 ; accord, Danner v. Himmelfarb (9th Cir. 1988) 858 F.2d 515, 521-522 (upholding dismissal of state claims after entry of summary judgment for defendant because note was not security within meaning of federal securities laws and there was no independent basis for jurisdiction)

California court may obtain jurisdiction over out-of-state defendant pursuant to Securities Act of 1933, § 22(a) (15 U.S.C. § 77v(a)), authorizing extraterritorial service of process, only if it can be shown that claim against out-of-state defendant is either brought to enforce any liability or duty created by Securities Act of 1933 or is fundamentally derived from and dependent on such a claim. Lakewood Bank & Trust Co. v. Superior Court (1982) 129 Cal. App. 3d 463, 470-471, 180 Cal. Rptr. 914

Claims that are fundamentally derived from, and dependent on, suits to enforce liability or duty created by Securities Act of 1933 are limited to claims against parties who actually are involved in either offer or sale of security. Lakewood Bank & Trust Co. v. Superior Court (1982) 129 Cal. App. 3d 463, 472-473, 180 Cal. Rptr. 914

State court has jurisdiction over claim under Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and/or regulations promulgated thereunder only if claim is asserted in addition to state claims and is based on common law; federal jurisdiction is exclusive only as to action that goes beyond common law rights that state court could have fully adjudicated prior to passage of Act. Twomey v. Mitchum, Jones & Templeton, Inc. (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 690, 704-706, 69 Cal. Rptr. 222 (see 15 U.S.C. §§ 78aa, 78bb(a))

[13] Liability for Material Misrepresentation

Under California law, partnership relation, and thus fiduciary duty of disclosure, terminates on formation of contract for sale of partnership interest; contract was formed when selling partner communicates to buying partner acceptance of offer to purchase; after formation of contract, matters affecting value of interest sold were not required to be disclosed. Stone v. Millstein (9th Cir. 1986) 804 F.2d 1434, 1437-1438

State securities and fraud claims are subject to same test of materiality as federal securities claims. Toombs v. Leone (9th Cir. 1985) 777 F.2d 465, 470

Anti-SLAPP motion to strike cause of action under Corp. Code § 25400(d) based on misrepresentation was properly denied when former owners of common stock alleged that defendant publishers of market research reports on plaintiffs' company engaged in concerted wrongful actions to depress price of common stock for their financial benefit, and plaintiffs provided prima facie evidence that defendants willfully participated in scheme by participating in development and publication of false statements concerning company, concealing their role in obtaining negative tenor and content of published reports, and delaying publication to facilitate other defendants' establishment of short positions in that stock. Overstock.com, Inc. v. Gradient Analytics, Inc. (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 688, 717, 61 Cal. Rptr. 3d 29

Directors of corporation targeted for takeover have no duty to disclose merger negotiations to shareholders until agreement in principle has been reached, even though withdrawal from prior agreement in principle and termination of earlier merger negotiations had been publicly announced. Eldridge v. Tymshare, Inc. (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 767, 772-776, 230 Cal. Rptr. 815 ; but see Basic Incorporated v. Levinson (1988) 485 U.S. 224, 108 S. Ct. 978, 99 L. Ed. 2d 194, 212-214, 220 (probably applicable to abrogate agreement-in-principle standard under California law; cases listed in § 515.246[10][h])

Misrepresentation or concealment of fact was not material; reliance on statement or omission in connection with tender offer was not required. Lynch v. Cook (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 1072, 1087-1088, 196 Cal. Rptr. 544

[14] Marketing Personnel--Licensing

In determining whether person involved in particular transaction was subject to business opportunity licensing requirement, crucial question is not whether transaction met statutory definition of business opportunity [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10030], but whether person "[sold] or offer[ed] to sell, [bought] or offer[ed] to buy, solicit[ed] prospective sellers or purchasers of, solicit[ed] or obtain[ed] listings of, or negotiate[d] the purchase, sale or exchange of" business opportunity [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10131]--in other words, inquiry should be focused on person's actions in attempting to create business relationship, not on form that business relationship ultimately took: for example, person would come within statute if he or she solicited or negotiated purchase or sale of business opportunity, but would not come within statute if he or she solicited or negotiated different kind of transaction, even if transaction ultimately was consummated as purchase or sale of business opportunity. Nein v. HostPro, Inc. (2009) 174 Cal. App. 4th 833, 848, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 34

"Business opportunity" as used in Bus. & Prof. Code § 10030 encompasses any transfer of ownership of entire ongoing business in corporate form, whether by transfer of all stock or all assets, and thus person negotiating transaction is required to have real estate broker's license. All Points Traders, Inc. v. Barrington Associates (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 723, 731, 734, 259 Cal. Rptr. 780 ; but see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10008.5 (providing that real estate and business opportunity broker licensing requirements do not apply to person licensed as security broker); see also Stats. 1989, ch. 1116, § 8 (statement of legislative intent that rights and obligations of parties in All Points Traders not be affected)

Provisions of Corporate Securities Act [Corp. Code § 25000 et seq.] requiring stockbroker to first secure license [former Corp. Code § 25700; now see Corp. Code § 25210] are designed to protect public against unscrupulous operators; contract employing broker to sell corporate stock is void if broker is not licensed to sell and broker as not allowed to recover commission. Rhode v. Bartholomew (1949) 94 Cal. App. 2d 272, 282, 210 P.2d 768

Person who negotiates for securities on behalf of purchaser as being broker-dealer required to be licensed, since inducing purchase or sale of securities [see Corp. Code § 25210] is business of effecting transactions therein [see Corp. Code § 25004] and is not area excluded from licensing requirements of securities law. Nationwide Investment Corp. v. California Funeral Serv., Inc. (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 494, 502, 114 Cal. Rptr. 77

Licensing provisions of securities law cover all persons acting as broker-dealers or agents even though securities in which they deal may be exempted from qualification provisions. Nationwide Investment Corp. v. California Funeral Serv., Inc. (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 494, 503, 114 Cal. Rptr. 77

[15] Punitive Damages

Punitive damage award against brokerage firm whose employee broker defrauded securities purchasers was proper for firm's own malice, as evidenced by its failure to investigate prior suits against broker for similar conduct in reckless disregard of rights of others and failure to supervise, or on basis of firm's ratification of broker' acts by failure to act when it knew of broker's fraudulent activity. Seymour v. Summa Vista Cinema, Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 809 F.2d 1385, 1388 (decided under Civ. Code § 3294 before 1987 amendment)

Punitive damages of $220,000, equal to 2.3 times compensatory award or one percent of stock brokerage firm's net worth, were appropriate when individual broker's conduct was ratified and approved by managing agent, and churning (over 500 unauthorized transactions in six-year period) was so egregious that capital was turned over six times per year. Hobbs v. Eichler (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 174, 192-196, 210 Cal. Rptr. 387

[16] Purpose of Securities Laws

Primary purpose of California securities law is to afford to those who risk their capital at least fair chance of realizing their objectives. People v. Miller (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1505, 1510, 238 Cal. Rptr. 168

[17] Rescission

Rescission of securities transaction is available under Civ. Code § 1689, for instance, when agreement required stock purchaser to make tender offer for outstanding shares held by minority interests at price no less than price paid to seller, and, if it acquired 80 percent of outstanding shares, to adjust price paid to seller to reflect price paid to offerees; purchaser's failure to make tender offer is breach of contract and failure of consideration; whether failure of consideration was sufficiently material to allow seller to rescind as question of fact. FDIC v. Air Florida System, Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 822 F.2d 833, 839-840

[18] Securities Exempt

Fractionalizing of promissory notes is no different than issuance of promissory that is one of series of notes secured by same real property; therefore, it is not exempt from securities regulation under Corp. Code § 25100(e). People v. Schock (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 379, 389, 199 Cal. Rptr. 327

[19] Statute of Limitations

Under California law, statute of limitations for broker's fraud was tolled by broker's reassuring client on concerns relevant to claimed misrepresentations. Vucinich v. Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis, Inc. (9th Cir. 1986) 803 F.2d 454, 460

Civil liability under Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. §§ 77 l(1), 77m] for use of mails or other instrumentality of interestate commerce for sale, delivery, or offer to sell unregistered security is subject to one year limitation of 15 U.S.C. § 77m from date of last sales-related activity; complaint as required to allege facts demonstrating compliance with statute of limitation. Toombs v. Leone (9th Cir. 1985) 777 F.2d 465, 468

Six-year period established by Municipal Securities Rulemaking Board for arbitration of claim for reclamation (rescission) of transaction involving stolen bearer bonds commences on seller's refusal of demand for reclamation, not on date of theft, so claim for arbitration was timely filed and confirmation of award was proper. Citibank v. Crowell, Weedon & Co. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 844, 848-850, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 906

[20] Unlawful Competition Law Inapplicable

In action by investors alleging they were defrauded by "pyramid" or "Ponzi" scheme orchestrated by foreign brokerage houses from which they purchased shares of stock, trial court did not err in holding that Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 does not apply to securities transactions. Bowen v. Ziasun Techs., Inc. (2004) 116 Cal. App. 4th 777, 786-787, 11 Cal. Rptr. 3d 522

[21] Waiver of Statutory Compliance with California Law

Right of buyer of securities in California to have California law apply to future dispute arising out of transaction is "provision" within meaning of Corp. Code § 25701 and is not subject to waiver or evasion by stipulation of parties to securities transaction; therefore choice of law provision in agreement violated Corp. Code § 25701. Hall v. Superior Court (1983) 150 Cal. App. 3d 411, 418, 197 Cal. Rptr. 757

§ 515.263 Decisions

Corp. Code § 31512 violates Supremacy Clause of U.S. Constitution when applied to preclude arbitration as required by contract arbitration clause. Southland Corp. v. Keating (1984) 465 U.S. 1, 10, 104 S. Ct. 852, 79 L. Ed. 2d 1 , overruling Keating v. Superior Court (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 584, 183 Cal. Rptr. 360, 645 P.2d 1192

Grant of exclusive territory required to be expressly set forth in contract and will not be implied; right to use franchisor's trademark and trade dress at particular location do not amount to grant of exclusive territory; thus, franchisor did not breach agreement by establishing company stores in same market area. Eichman v. Fotomat Corp. (9th Cir. 1989) 880 F.2d 149, 163-164 (determining pendent state claim)

Corp. Code § 31306 constitutes express statement of unequivocal legislative intent that statute of limitations provisions in Corp. Code §§ 31303, 31304 are to be sole controlling limits on time for filing suit under Franchise Investment Law; thus delayed discovery or tolling rules did not apply to franchisees' causes of action. People ex rel. Department of Corporations v. Speedee Oil Change Systems, Inc. (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 709, 723-725, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 497

Requirement, in definition of franchise, that franchisee is granted right to engage in business of "offering, selling, or distributing goods or services" [see Corp. Code § 31005(a)(1)] construed liberally to find that parties who could not enter into binding contracts or pass title to goods nonetheless were franchisees. Gentis v. Safeguard Business Systems (1998) 60 Cal. App. 4th 1294, 1304-1305, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 122

Requirement, in definition of franchise, that operation of franchisee's business must be substantially associated with franchisor's mark, name, or symbol [Corp. Code § 31005(a)(2)] met when employer contracts for establishment and operation of employees' cafeteria by corporation whose business is constructing cafeteria facilities, licensing operation to individuals who pay license fees, and monitoring and provisioning licensees' operations, even though licensees' customers never see corporation's mark, name, or symbol used in association with licensees' operation of cafeterias. Kim v. Servosnax, Inc. (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 1346, 1356-1358, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 422

Under evidence and agreement at issue, franchisor was not liable to broker for commission on sale of franchise owned by third party. Klinger v. Realty World Corp. (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 1549, 1552-1553, 242 Cal. Rptr. 592

Cause of action for legal malpractice was stated by franchisees against attorneys who prepared false or misleading prospectus, knowing it would be shown to prospective franchisees and used to induce them to purchase franchises. Courtney v. Waring (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1434, 1443-1444, 237 Cal. Rptr. 233

Violations of Franchise Investment Law do not have effect of continuing life of franchise that the franchisor is seeking to terminate and thus are not relevant to issue of possession after franchise terminated. Mobil Oil Corp. v. Handley (1978) 76 Cal. App. 3d 956, 963-964, 143 Cal. Rptr. 321 (franchised petroleum dealer evicted from service station premises)

Even if lease was illegal tie-in, action was barred by four-year limitation of 15 U.S.C. § 15b; new overt act was required to apply continuing violation theory to lease commenced more than four years prior to action; mere acceptance of rent by franchisor did not constitute overt act. Eichman v. Fotomat Corp. (9th Cir. 1989) 880 F.2d 149, 160

Allegation that franchisor's unstated policy was to terminate any franchisee who bought equipment package from another entity insufficient force or leverage to establish tying violation. Murphy v. Business Cards Tomorrow, Inc. (9th Cir. 1988) 854 F.2d 1202, 1204 (overruled on other grounds in Townsend v. Holman Consulting Corp. (9th Cir. 1990) 929 F.2d 1358, 1363)

[2] Arbitration

Parties who entered into franchise agreement that specified Oklahoma forum for arbitration, when offering circular pointed out that California law requires California forum for franchise agreement dispute resolution, never clearly agreed to Oklahoma forum; district court therefore erred in enforcing forum selection clause of franchise agreement. Laxmi Investments LLC v. Golf USA (9th Cir. 2000) 193 F.3d 1095, 1097

When franchisee, resisting petition to compel arbitration on issue of franchisee's right to rescind franchise agreement, contends that there was no meeting of minds as to arbitration provision in franchise agreement, and franchisee submits evidence supporting that contention, court has authority to determine whether parties in fact made agreement to arbitrate. Winter v. Window Fashions Professionals, Inc. (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 943, 948-949, 83 Cal. Rptr. 3d 89

Franchisor was entitled to preliminary injunction, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1281.8, to prevent franchisee from continuing to use franchise trademark and continuing to operate as rightful franchisee during pendency of arbitration of dispute between parties as to whether franchise agreement was rightfully terminated by franchisor. Jay Bharat Devs., Inc. v. Minidis (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 437, 446-447, 84 Cal. Rptr. 3d 267

When (1) license agreement provided for arbitration and related lease did not, (2) franchisee and franchisor were parties to pending class action regarding license agreement, and (3) grounds for franchisor's termination of lease were alleged breaches of same provisions of license agreement that were subject of class action, arbitration of unlawful detainer action was required to be compelled, but arbitration had to be stayed under Code Civ. Proc. § 1281.2(c) until resolution of class action to avoid conflicting rulings. Pioneer Take Out Corp. v. Bhavsar (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1353, 1357-1358, 257 Cal. Rptr. 749

[3] Franchisor's Breach of Agreement

When contract at issue gave franchisor sole option and discretion to relocate franchisee's kiosk, franchisor did not breach agreement in refusing to allow franchisee to relocate on request. Eichman v. Fotomat Corp. (9th Cir. 1989) 880 F.2d 149, 164 (determining pendent state claim)

When franchisor unilaterally terminated subfranchise agreement and franchisee (as subfranchisor) sued for breach of contract, evidence was sufficient to support award for lost franchise fees and expenses incurred trying to set up subfranchisees; evidence, however, was insufficient to support award for lost profits or cause of action for intentional interference with prospective economic advantage. Parlour Enters., Inc. v. Kirin Group, Inc. (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 281, 283-284

Repurchase of inventory is not exclusive remedy for wrongful termination of franchise pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 20035; plaintiff can pursue breach of contract claim against franchisor for wrongful termination of franchise agreement. JRS Prods., Inc. v. Matsushita Elec. Corp. of Am. (2004) 115 Cal. App. 4th 168, 178, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 840

[4] Tort Damages

Without evidence that would support inference that decline in franchisee's sales was caused by franchisor's company stores in same area, franchisee failed to establish cause of action for intentional interference with prospective business advantage. Eichman v. Fotomat Corp. (9th Cir. 1989) 871 F.2d 784, 801 (determining pendent state claim)

Franchisor-franchisee relationship was not fiduciary in nature, nor characterized by elements of public interest or adhesion; thus, California law regarding breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing and tortious termination of contract did not extend to termination of distributorship and franchise agreement. Eichman v. Fotomat Corp. (9th Cir. 1989) 871 F.2d 784, 803 (determining pendent state claim); Premier Wine & Spirits v. E & J Gallo Winery (9th Cir. 1988) 846 F.2d 537, 540 (diversity action; plaintiff had abandoned its claims under California Franchise Relations Act)

Franchise Relations Act did not impose fiduciary duties on franchisor; far from being traditional trustee, franchisor was free to make pricing and distribution decisions for its own benefit; no duty of good faith and fair dealing was imposed on franchisor for failure to renew franchise. Boat & Motor Mart v. Sea Ray Boats, Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 825 F.2d 1285, 1292

Franchisor that wrongfully terminated franchise without good cause was liable to franchisee for breach of contract, not intentional interference with prospective economic advantage; essential nature of claim was breach of contract, which cannot be transmuted into tort liability by claim that breach interfered with franchisee's business. JRS Prods., Inc. v. Matsushita Elec. Corp. of Am. (2004) 115 Cal. App. 4th 168, 183, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 840

No tort cause of action existed for breach of agreement in violation of public policy (refusal to make repairs in retaliation for franchisee's reporting underground gasoline leaks to authorities and failing to comply with defendant's pricing policies). Harris v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 70, 82, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 649

3. Trade Practices And Termination Or Nonrenewal Of Petroleum Products Franchises

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.302

§ 515.302 Decisions

[1] Attorney's Fees

Trade association that obtained declaratory relief and injunction against franchisor's discriminatory policy under Bus. & Prof. Code § 17204 was not entitled to attorney's fees pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.4 because it never established that it was damaged. California Service Station etc. Assn. v Union Oil Co. (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 44, 58-59, 283 Cal. Rptr. 279

[2] State Claims

Although there is disparity of bargaining power between gasoline refiners and franchise distributors, relationship is based on commercial contract undertaken for profit; thus California law regarding breach of covenant of good faith and fair dealing does not extend to alleged constructive termination of franchise occasioned by elimination of credit card program and imposition of harsher payment terms on franchisees. Little Oil. Co., Inc. v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (9th Cir. 1988) 852 F.2d 441, 446-447

[3] Termination or Nonrenewal Under Petroleum Marketing Practices Act

Franchisor, acting pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 2802(b)(3)(D) to withdraw from market, properly declined to renew franchise agreement having term of three or more years and decided to sell premises because (1) that determination was made by franchisor in good faith and in normal course of business, and (2) before selling premises, franchisor offered franchisee right of first refusal of at least 45 days duration of offer, made by another, to purchase franchisor's interest in premises. BP W. Coast Prods. LLC v. May (9th Cir. 2006) 447 F.3d 658, 663-665 (in absence of some evidence of bad faith in initial decision-making to sell facilities, court is precluded from second-guessing franchisor's economic determination to withdraw from market and sell facilities)

Legislative intent behind 15 U.S.C. § 2802(b)(2)(C) and (c)(4), allowing termination of franchise because of franchisor's loss of possession of service-station premises on expiration of ground lease, was thwarted when franchisor gave required notice of termination on that ground while actually intending to keep possession so as to operate service station directly instead of through franchisee, and franchisor manipulated negotiations with ground lessor and with franchisee to produce that result. Mustang Mktg., Inc. v. Chevron Prods. Co. (9th Cir. 2005) 406 F.3d 600, 609-610

Franchisor's withdrawal from market complied with PMPA timing requirements and transfer to trust rather than successor for financing purposes did not violate PMPA provisions [15 U.S.C. 2802(b)(2)(E)]; because this was a market withdrawal involving the termination of franchise agreements, state and federal law were not in conflict and the PMPA rather than Bus. & Prof. Code § 20999.25(a) controlled. Unocal Corp. v. Kaabipour (9th Cir. 1999) 177 F.3d 755, 768-771

To be sufficient for termination under 15 U.S.C. § 2802(b)(2)(C), (c)(10), willful adulteration, mislabeling, or misbranding must involve voluntary action, done either with intentional disregard of, or plain indifference to, requirements of franchise agreement; willfulness not established by franchisee's purchase of gasoline from third party when franchisee asked third party to supply ARCO gasoline and gasoline supplied by third party was for most part either ARCO gasoline or gasoline that met ARCO's standards. Retsieg Corp. v. ARCO Petroleum Products Co. (9th. Cir. 1989) 870 F.2d 1495, 1498-1499

Question of whether circumstances made it unreasonable for franchisor to give 90 days' notice of termination was mixed question of law and fact; when city had revoked conditional use permit for mini-mart because of franchisee's failure, over six-month period, to comply with conditions of permit, 12 days notice of termination was sufficient. Abujudeh v. Mobil Oil Corp. (9th Cir. 1988) 841 F.2d 310, 311-312

Termination of franchise under 28 U.S.C. § 2802(b)(2)(C), (c)(12) was proper when franchisee was convicted of felony involving moral turpitude (possession of heroin for sale); attempted assignment of franchise to corporation controlled by individual franchisee was not effective under Bus. & Prof. Code § 21149 without either franchisor's consent or franchisee's guarantee of assignor's performance. Atlantic Richfield Co. v. Guerami (9th Cir. 1987) 820 F.2d 280, 282-283

Termination of franchise held by corporate franchisee was proper under 28 U.S.C. § 2802(b)(2)(C), (c)(12) when franchisee's sole shareholder was convicted of felony involving moral turpitude; Bus. & Prof. Code § 21148, which gives franchisee right to assign, was preempted in this situation to prevent frustration of termination that would be proper under federal scheme. Humboldt Oil Co. v. Exxon Co., U.S.A. (9th Cir. 1982) 695 F.2d 386, 389 (vacating injunction); Humboldt Oil Co. v. Exxon Co., U.S.A. (9th Cir. 1987) 823 F.2d 373, 375 (reversing judgment for franchisee)

Summary adjudication that franchisor had duty to make offers of sale to franchisees, as required by federal Petroleum Marketing Practices Act, did not convert franchisees into "vendees in possession" so as to relieve them of duty to pay rent during pendency of litigation; franchisees were remaining lessees until binding contracts of sale exist; if sales consummated, franchisees entitled to credit against purchase price equal to rents paid during period sale was wrongfully delayed by franchisor. Abadjian v. Superior Court (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 363, 372-374, 214 Cal. Rptr. 234

[4] Transfer of Franchise Under State Law

Lessor gas companies violated Bus. & Prof. Code § 20999.25(a) by relinquishing title, possession, and control of gas stations to LLP without offering lessees a chance to purchase the stations; LLP was "another person" under that statute, even though it was owned and controlled by gas companies, and oil companies' contribution of assets to LLP was "sale, transfer, or assignment" under that statute. Abrahim & Sons Enterprises v. Equilon Enters., LLC (2002) 292 F.3d 958, 963-964

Bus. & Prof. Code § 20999.25(a) requiring franchisor considering sale to make offer or provide right of first refusal to franchisee is not preempted by PMPA. Forty-Niner Truck Plaza, Inc. v. Union Oil Co. (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 1261, 1276-1278, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 532

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.323

§ 515.323 Decisions

[1] Administrative Due Process

Recusal and nonparticipation of four dealer members held sufficient to protect distributor's due process rights. British Motor Car Distributors, Ltd. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 81, 87-89, 239 Cal. Rptr. 280

Absent evidence that public members of board had any financial or personal interest in outcome, mere interaction between public members and dealer members on other board business was insufficient to raise presumption of bias. American Isuzu Motors, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 464, 472-473, 230 Cal. Rptr. 769 (matter heard under voluntary recusal policy)

Without showing that hearing officer shared financial stake of dealer members of board or had own financial interest in outcome, dealer members' participation in selection of hearing officer did not result in denial of due process. American Isuzu Motors, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 464, 472-473, 230 Cal. Rptr. 769 (matter heard under voluntary recusal policy)

[2] Breach of Agreement

When dealership agreement listed three addresses as dealership location, moving showroom from one listed address to another was not breach of agreement. American Isuzu Motors, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 464, 475-476, 230 Cal. Rptr. 769

[3] Conditions of Dealership

Manufacturer's requirement that dealers do warranty repair work to maintain franchise was not illegal tying arrangement under federal antitrust law because dealers are sellers of allegedly tied product (repair work), not buyers. 49er Chevrolet, Inc. v. General Motors Corp. (9th Cir. 1986) 803 F.2d 1463, 1469

[4] Consolidation of Protests

Consolidation requirement of Veh. Code § 3060(c) [see now Veh. Code § 3060(b)(1)] was only applicable to concurrent protests filed by different franchisees and not to successive protests from same franchisee. Sonoma Subaru, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 13, 25-26, 234 Cal. Rptr. 226

[5] Implied Extension of Franchise Term

When franchise has expired by its terms and without express agreement to extend it, court determined from conduct of the parties whether there is implied extension; sending notice of termination manifested implied agreement to continue franchise beyond its stated expiration date. British Motor Car Distributors, Ltd. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 81, 91-92, 239 Cal. Rptr. 280

[6] Interpretation of Agreements

Dealership agreement did not require dealer to maintain separate showroom even though original letter of intent required one, because final agreement specifically superseded all prior agreements, understandings of parties. American Isuzu Motors, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 464, 474-475, 230 Cal. Rptr. 769

[7] Jurisdiction of New Motor Vehicle Board

Purpose of New Motor Vehicle Board and goal of administrative efficiency support conclusion that Board had implied authority to dismiss protest when undisputed facts demonstrated good cause for franchise termination as matter of law and afford no basis for preventing termination of franchise. Duarte & Witting, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Board (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 626, 637, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 501

Trial court erred in sustaining manufacturer's demurrer to dealers's complaint, which consisted entirely of common law claims, on basis of failure to exhaust its administrative remedies; Veh. Code § 3050(e) provides that courts have jurisdiction over all common law and statutory claims originally cognizable in courts and that for those claims a party may initiate action directly in any court of competent jurisdiction. South Bay Creditors Trust v. General Motors Acceptance Corporation (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 1068, 1079-1080, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1

In breach of contract action against automobile manufacturer for unreasonable refusal to approve buyer for dealership, dealer was not required to exhaust administrative remedies, even if claim was within New Motor Vehicle Board's statutory authority; existence of Board's authority under Veh. Code § 11713.3 does not subject claim to exhaustion requirement. Kemp v. Nissan Motor Corp. (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 1527, 1529-1530, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 794

New Motor Vehicle Board does not have jurisdiction pursuant to Veh. Code § 3050(c) over cause of action for contractual interference based on tortious business practices independent of any franchise agreement, brought by nonsignatory to franchise agreement with Honda. Tovas v. American Honda Motor Co. (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 506, 509, 521, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 145

New Motor Vehicle Board's assertion of jurisdiction over dealer's state statutory and common-law claims arising out of allegations of manufacturer's misdealing violated judicial powers clause of California Constitution. Hardin

Oldsmobile v. New Motor Vehicle Board (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 585, 593, 598, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 583 (disagreeing with holding in Yamaha Motor Corp. v. Superior Court (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 1232, 230 Cal. Rptr. 382 , below)

Jurisdiction of New Motor Vehicle Board under Veh. Code § 3050(c)(2) as extending to dealer's claim that manufacturer wrongfully terminated dealer's franchise and dealer's claim for damages arising from manufacturer's allegedly wrongful allocation of vehicles among its dealers. Ray Fladeboe Lincoln-Mercury, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 51, 53-56, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 598

In action against former franchisee by its creditor, franchisee's cross complaint against franchisor as barred for failure to exhaust administrative remedies. Yamaha Motor Corp. v. Superior Court (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 652, 659-660, 240 Cal. Rptr. 806 (franchisee had dismissed protest with prejudice)

In action against former franchisee by its creditor, franchisee's cross complaint against franchisor for breach of contract, breach of implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing, fraud, negligent misrepresentation, interference with business relations, and unlawful restraint of trade was within jurisdiction of New Motor Vehicle Board because most conduct complained of was within scope of Veh. Code §§ 11713.2 and 11713.3 or related to termination of franchise. Yamaha Motor Corp. v. Superior Court (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 652, 657-660, 240 Cal. Rptr. 806

Administrative mandate properly denied for failure of car dealer to protest termination of its franchise before New Motor Vehicle Board within 10 days of receipt of termination notice pursuant to Veh. Code § 3060(b) [see now Veh. Code § 3060(a)(2)]; implication of good cause exception to 10-day requirement would frustrate Legislative intent and statutory scheme. Sonoma Subaru, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 13, 20-22, 234 Cal. Rptr. 226

Dealer's claim that manufacturer breached implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing by abandonment of advertising and promotion was within jurisdiction of New Motor Vehicle Board under Veh. Code § 3050(c); thus, dealer required to exhaust administrative remedies before New Motor Vehicle Board. Yamaha Motor Corp. v. Superior Court (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 1232, 1242-1243, 230 Cal. Rptr. 382

[8] Modification of Dealership

Under dealership agreement that reserved to franchisor unqualified right to establish new dealership's, dealer was not entitled under Veh. Code § 3062 to protest establishment of new dealership 15.2 miles away, beyond statutory 10-mile "relevant market area"; nor did that establishment constitute modification of franchise within meaning of Veh. Code § 3060. BMW of North America, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 980, 989-994, 209 Cal. Rptr. 50 ; cf. Ri-Joyce, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 445, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 546 (discussed in § 515.134 different outcome under different type of agreement)

[9] Notice of Termination

Notice that did not state reason for termination and was not sent to Board but only to dealer did not trigger period within which protest could be filed. British Motor Car Distributors, Ltd. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 81, 93-94, 239 Cal. Rptr. 280

Notice not defective and no denial of due process for failure to state that dealer had 10 days to file protest; fact that notice said dealer had right to protest and must act promptly was sufficient. Sonoma Subaru, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 13, 23-24, 234 Cal. Rptr. 226

Notice not defective, no denial of due process, and not misleading for proximity of notice of right to file protest and of notice of 15-day period within which to cure default or suffer termination; notice was clear that 15-day period applied to time to cure default, not to time to file protest. Sonoma Subaru, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 13, 24-25, 234 Cal. Rptr. 226

Manufacturer not permitted to raise at hearing additional grounds for termination not specified in notice of termination; Veh. Code § 3060(a) requires notice of specific grounds for termination. American Isuzu Motors, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 464, 476-477, 230 Cal. Rptr. 769

Manufacturer's failure to give notice of its modification and establishment of new franchise as required by Veh. Code §§ 3060, 3062 did not divest New Motor Vehicle Board of jurisdiction to determine dealer's protest. Yamaha Motor Corp. v. Superior Court (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 1232, 1240, 230 Cal. Rptr. 382

Plaintiff,	)	COMPLAINT FOR
vs.	)	DAMAGES
_____ [name],	)	(Manipulation of Market Price of Securities)
Defendant.	)	[Amount demanded _____
	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]
	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Defendant is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a securities _____ [broker-dealer or agent] duly licensed by the Commissioner of Corporations to effect security transactions in this state, and conducting his/her business in _____ County, California.

1. Defendant is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a corporation, duly organized and existing under the laws of _____ [the State of California, with its principal place of business in _____ County or the State of _____, authorized to transact and transacting business in the State of California with its principal office for the transaction of business in this state in _____ County].

1. Defendant is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a resident of _____ County, California [or state other capacity and residence of defendant].

[2. Plaintiff is ignorant of the true names and capacities of defendants sued herein as DOES I- _____, inclusive, and therefore sues these defendants by these fictitious names. Plaintiff will amend this complaint to allege their true names and capacities when ascertained.]

3. On or about _____ [date], in _____ [specify locality], California, defendant effected a transaction in securities consisting of _____ [describe security, e.g., the common stock of X Corporation] in which a total of _____ [number] _____ [shares or other security] of these securities were sold by _____ [name of seller] to _____ [name of buyer] for a series of prices ranging from $_____ to $_____ per _____ [share or other security]. These transactions involved no change in the beneficial ownership of the securities in that _____ [describe continuing beneficial identity, e.g., the purchasing party was then, and is now, a wholly owned subsidiary of the selling party].

4. Defendant _____ [willfully performed or participated in] the above acts, which constitute, in effect, "wash sales" for the purpose of creating a false or misleading appearance _____ [of active trading or with respect to the market for these securities].

5. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff _____ [purchased from or sold to] _____ [name] _____ [number] _____ [shares or other security] of the above securities for a price of $_____ per _____ [share or other security] and a total price of $_____. That price was affected by the above-described acts of defendant. The market value these securities would have had at the time of plaintiff's _____ [purchase or sale] in the absence of the above-described acts of defendant is $_____ per _____ [share or other security].

6. As a result of defendant's acts with regard to these securities, plaintiff has sustained damages in the amount of the difference between the price plaintiff _____ [received or paid] for these securities, and the amount plaintiff would have _____ [received or paid] as the market price in the absence of defendant's acts, which difference is the sum of $_____.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For damages in the sum of $_____;

2. For interest on this sum at the legal rate;

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use in an action for injuries caused by market manipulation involving a securities transaction effected with no change in beneficial ownership [see Corp. Code §§ 25400(a)(1), 25500]. This is a version of the "wash sale," in which market activity at one end of a transaction is designed to be canceled or "washed" out at the other end [see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, § 14.05[2][c] (Matthew Bender)]. For a discussion of this form of market manipulation, see § 515.18[1].

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges the following:

- Capacity and residence of defendant (Paragraph 1).
- Fictitious names of defendants (Paragraph 2).
- Defendant's effecting of a securities transaction in which no change in beneficial ownership of the securities took place (Paragraph 3) [Corp. Code § 25400(a)(1)].
- Defendant's willful performance of such an act in order to create the appearance of trading or of a market (Paragraph 4).
- Plaintiff's injury therefrom by making a transaction in those securities at a time when the price was affected by defendant's act to plaintiff's detriment (Paragraph 5).
- The amount of damages sustained, being the difference between the purchase or sale price and the market price that otherwise would have prevailed at the time of plaintiff's transaction (Paragraph 6) [see Corp. Code § 25500].

[4] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)], verification will require any answer to be verified also, if the action is in the superior court and is not a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude a general denial except in a limited civil case, and will preclude a general denial even in a limited civil case when the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion see Ch. 26, Answers .

[1] FORM Allegation--Entry of Transaction Order Contemplating Substantially Identical Entry of "Wash Sale" [Corp. Code § 25400(a)(2), (3)]

On or about _____ [date], in _____ [specify locality], California, defendant entered orders for the _____ [purchase or sale] of a total of _____ [number] _____ [shares or other security] of _____ [describe security, e.g., the common stock of X Corporation] at the price of $_____ per _____ [share or other security]. Those orders were entered with the knowledge that orders of substantially the same size, at substantially the same time, and at substantially the same price, for the _____ [sale or purchase, that is, the reverse of defendant's transaction] of these securities _____ [had been or would be] entered by or for _____ [the same or different] party (parties). The latter orders were in fact entered on or about _____ [list any dates for related transactions] for a total of _____ [number] _____ [shares or other security] sold by _____ [seller] to _____ [buyer] at the price of $_____ per _____ [share or other security]. [The relationship of the parties of the latter transaction to those of the former transaction is _____ (specify, e.g., the former parties are corporations controlled by the latter parties).]

[2] Use of Form

This allegation may be substituted for Paragraph 3 of § 515.400 in an action for injuries caused by market manipulation involving a defendant's entering of one or more orders for securities purchased or sold with the knowledge that a substantially similar transaction was also being effected [see Corp. Code § 25400(a)(2), (3)]. For a discussion of this particular type of market fraud, see § 515.18[1].

[1] FORM Allegations--Manipulative Trading to Induce Transactions [Corp. Code § 25400(b)]

1. On or about _____ [date], at _____ [specify locality], California, defendant effected _____ [with one or more other persons or list names], a series of transactions in securities consisting of _____ [describe security, e.g., the preferred stock of Y Corporation] in which a total of _____ [number] _____ [shares or other security] of those securities were sold [by _____ (seller) to _____ (buyer)] _____ [at a price of $_____ per _____ (share or other security) or for a series of prices ranging from $_____ to $_____ per _____ (share or other security)]. Those transactions _____ [created _____ (actual or apparent) active trading in those securities or _____ (raised or depressed) the price of those securities].

2. Defendant [willfully performed or participated in] the above acts, which constitute manipulative trading activity for the purpose of inducing the _____ [purchase or sale] of those securities by others.

[2] Use of Form

These allegations may be substituted for Paragraphs 3 and 4, respectively, of § 515.400, in an action for injuries caused by market manipulation in which defendant directly or indirectly effected a series of transactions designed to give the illusion of an active market in the securities [see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, § 14.05[2][d] (Matthew Bender)]. [1] FORM Allegations--Dissemination of Manipulative "Tipster" Information [Corp. Code § 25400(c), (e)] [EITHER, if defendant is offering or selling security]

1. On or about _____ [date], at _____ [specify locality], California, defendant, as a _____ [broker-dealer or other person], _____ [sold or offered to sell or purchased or offered to purchase] a total of _____ [number] _____ [shares or other security] of _____ [describe security, e.g., the Class A common stock of Z Company] [_____ (to or from) _____ (plaintiff or other persons)] at the price of $_____ per _____ [share or other security]. In conjunction with those transactions, defendant _____ [circulated or disseminated] [, in the form of _____ (describe, e.g., a personal letter), a true copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof,] information to the effect that the price of those securities _____ [would or was likely to] _____ [rise or fall] because of market operations of _____ [names, or certain persons (then active in the market),] that were being conducted for the purpose of _____ [raising or depressing] the price of those securities.

1. On or about _____ [date], _____ [name of third party], as a _____ [broker-dealer or other person, e.g., direct agent of the Q Investment Institute] _____ [sold or offered to sell or purchased or offered to purchase] a total of _____ [number] _____ [shares or other security] of _____ [describe security, e.g., October _____ (year) stock warrants of the R Company] [_____ (to or from) _____ (plaintiff or other persons)] at the price of $_____ per _____ [share or other security]. _____ [At the same time or give date], and in conjunction with the above transaction, defendant received from _____ [name of above third party], directly or indirectly, a consideration [in the form of _____ (describe or give amount)]. For such consideration, defendant circulated and disseminated information in _____ [specify locality], California, [in the form of _____ (describe, e.g., a business newsletter), a true copy of which is attached as Exhibit A and incorporated by reference,] to the effect that the price of those securities _____ [would or was likely to] _____ [rise or fall] because of market operations of _____ [names, or certain persons (defendant represented as being then active in the market),] that were being conducted for the purpose of _____ [raising or depressing] the price of those securities.

2. Defendant _____ [willfully performed or participated in] those acts of dissemination and circulation of the information, which constituted in effect an investment market _____ ["tipster sheet" or "tip"] and induced the purchase or sale of those securities by others.

[2] Use of Form

These allegations may be substituted for Paragraphs 3 and 4, respectively, of § 515.400 in an action for injuries as a result of the promulgation of "tipster" information in the marketplace which induces transactions in the securities involved [see Corp. Code § 25400(c)].

As described in Paragraph 1 of the above form, defendant may be either a market professional or a trader offering or selling the particular securities involved, but requiring no separate consideration for promulgating the tipster information, or any person who has promulgated the tipster information for a consideration received from another market professional or trader in the securities involved.

Both alternatives in the form are for use in a case involving variations of the type of market fraud known as "tipster" dissemination, in which information is spread that the market will react upwards or downwards because of certain trader conduct designed to achieve that effect [see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, § 14.05[2][c] (Matthew Bender)]. For discussions of this particular type of market fraud, see § 515.18[3], [5].

§ 515.404 Allegations--False or Misleading Statement to Manipulate Market [Corp. Code § 25400(d)]

[1] FORM Allegations--False or Misleading Statement to Manipulate Market [Corp. Code § 25400(d)]

1. On or about _____ [date], defendant, as a _____ [broker-dealer or other person] _____ [sold or offered to sell or purchased or offered to purchase] a total of _____ [number] _____ [shares or other security] of _____ [describe security, e.g., the 6 percent cumulative preferred notes, due January _____ [date], of A Industries] [_____ (to or from) _____ (plaintiff or other persons)] at the price of $_____ per _____ [share or other security]. In conjunction with those transactions, defendant, in _____ [specify locality], California, in the form of _____ [describe, e.g., a proxy statement], [a true copy of which is attached as Exhibit A and incorporated by reference,] _____ [made the statement (at page _____) or made a statement to the effect] that _____ [recite substance of statement, e.g., A Industries had been awarded a million-dollar federal contract or quote statement verbatim]. This statement _____ [was, at the time and in the light of the circumstances under which it was made, false or misleading with respect to the material fact that or omitted to state the material fact--which was necessary in order to make the statement made, in the light of the circumstances under which it was made, not misleading--that] _____ [set out material fact, e.g., the contract was conditional on approval of the State of _____, which was never given].

2. Defendant knew, or had reasonable ground to believe, that the above statement made was false or misleading [in that _____ (specify, e.g., defendant had read, or had a copy of, the government contract referred to, which contained reference to such qualifying conditions)]. Defendant willfully _____ [made or participated in the making of], the _____ [false or misleading] statement for the purpose of inducing the _____ [purchase or sale] of those securities by others.

[2] Use of Form

These allegations may be substituted for Paragraphs 3 and 4, respectively, of § 515.400, in an action for injuries caused by a market trader making false or misleading statements for the purpose of inducing transactions in securities [see

Corp. Code § 25400(d)]. In contrast to the complaint for rescission in § 515.405, in which the defendant is alleged to have made a material misrepresentation in order to induce a particular transaction, in these allegations, which are designed to be included in a complaint for damages, defendant is alleged to have made the misrepresentation in order to induce a purchase or sale in the security. It is not necessary to allege that defendant made the misrepresentation to induce plaintiff to make the purchase or sale but, also unlike see § 515.405, it is necessary to allege that defendant knew or has reason to know of the misrepresentation.

For a discussion of this particular type of market fraud, see § 515.18[4] [see also Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 14, Civil Liabilities, § 14.05[2][d] (Matthew Bender)].

[3] Corp. Code § 25400(d) Requirements

The California Supreme Court has construed Corp. Code §§ 25400(d) and 25500 to find that the remedy provided in those sections is not limited to transactions made in California. The language of Corp. Code § 25400 which proscribes certain actions "in this state" simply describes the location in which the proscribed conduct must occur [Diamond Multimedia Systems, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 19 Cal. 4th 1036, 1064, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 828, 968 P.2d 539 , cert. denied, 144 L. Ed. 2d 235 (noting that Securities Litigation Uniform Standards Act of 1998, which preempts certain state class actions [P.L. 105-353, 112 Stat. 3227 (S. 1260)], was inapplicable to pending actions and thus had no impact on this case)].

Liability for market manipulation is not limited to sellers and buyers of corporate stock, or to corporations or broker-dealers, but extends to individuals and to the purchase and sale of securities for which there is no open market [StorMedia Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 449, 457-461, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 843, 976 P.2d 214] . Furthermore, no actual sale is necessary to find a violation of Corp. Code § 25400(d), and that subdivision does not require that the intent or purpose be to induce a particular buyer to purchase the stock [StorMedia Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 449, 461-463, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 843, 976 P.2d 214 (privity is not required)].

Corp. Code §§ 25400(d) and 25500, however, apply only to defendants who were engaged in market activity at the time of making misrepresentations. Defendants must both sell or offer to sell or buy or offer to buy a security, and make misleading statements for the purpose of inducing the purchase or sale of a security, in order to be liable under Corp. Code § 25500 [Kamen v. Lindly (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 197, 205-206, 114 Cal. Rptr. 2d 127 (trial court properly sustained defendants' demurrers on basis that plaintiffs failed to allege that defendants engaged in both activities); see Murphy v. BDO Seidman, LLP (2003) 113 Cal. App. 4th 687, 705-706, 6 Cal. Rptr. 3d 770 (aggrieved investors failed to state cause of action because defendant accountants who prepared allegedly misleading financial statements did not buy or sell, or offer to buy or sell, stock)].

Liability under Corp. Code § 25500 requires a "willful act" within the meaning of Ins. Code § 533, which precludes coverage under directors and officers liability insurance for losses caused by the willful act of the insured; only persons who willfully, not merely recklessly, violate Corp. Code § 25400(d) can be liable for damages [California Amplifier, Inc. (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 102, 106, 116-117, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 915] .

[4] State Statutes

Plaintiff alleges:

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION
(Material Misrepresentation)

1. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 515.400, Paragraph 1.]

2. [Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 515.400, Paragraph 2.]

3. On or about _____ [date], defendant, in _____ [specify locality], California, _____ [offered and sold to or offered to buy and bought from] plaintiff a total of _____ [number] _____ [shares or other security] of _____ [describe security, e.g., the common stock of X Corporation] at the price of $_____ per _____ [share or other security] for a total price of $_____. That transaction was made by means of a[n] _____ [written or oral] communication in the form of _____ [describe, e.g., a prospectus], which _____ [included an untrue statement of a material fact or omitted to state a material fact necessary in order to make the statements made in that communication, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading]. The communication [at page _____] recited that _____ [restate or quote, e.g., the company doubled its profit for the year _____]. The communication _____ [was untrue in that or omitted to state that] _____ [true material fact, e.g., the change in the company's profit was due to a change from the cash to the accrual method of accounting]. [A true copy of such communication is attached as Exhibit A and incorporated by reference.]

4. As a result of the material misrepresentation, plaintiff is entitled to rescind the above-described _____ [purchase or sale].

[EITHER, if plaintiff was purchaser]

5. Plaintiff _____ [tenders or before entry of judgment will tender] to defendant _____ [number] _____ [shares or other security] of the above-described securities as purchased from defendant and on which to date plaintiff has received $_____ as total income.

[OR, if plaintiff was seller]

5. Plaintiff _____ [tenders or before entry of judgment will tender] to defendant $_____ as the consideration paid to plaintiff for the security, plus $_____, the amount of interest at the legal rate to date of tender, less $_____, the amount representing the income received by defendant to date on the security.

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION
(Joint and Several Liability of Management Principals or Materially Aiding Personnel)

6. Plaintiff sets forth by reference as though fully set forth below each and every allegation of Paragraphs 1-4 of the First Cause of Action.

7. Defendant _____ [name] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, _____ [allege appropriate capacity and residence of joint defendant; see § 515.400, Paragraph 1].

8. Defendant was, at the time of the acts alleged herein, _____ a person who, directly or indirectly, controlled _____ [name of primary defendant] in that _____ [describe control, e.g., he/she owned the largest single block of stock of such company, consisting of _____ percent of the common stock],

[EITHER]

[OR]

a principal member of the management of _____ [name of primary defendant] in that he/she was _____ [a partner in such firm or president or other principal executive officer or a director of the corporation or _____, a person occupying a similar status to, or performing similar functions of, _____ (specify executive officer or director, e.g., the president of a corporation) of that organization],

[OR]

_____ [an employee of _____ (name of primary defendant) or a broker-dealer or a securities agent] who materially aided in the _____ [act or transaction] constituting the violation hereinafter complained of, in that he/she _____ [describe act].

THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION
(Joint and Several Liability of Materially Assisting Persons)

9. Plaintiff sets forth by reference as though fully set forth below each and every allegation of Paragraphs 1-4 of the First Cause of Action.

10. Defendant _____ [name] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, _____ [allege capacity and residence of joint defendant; see § 515.400, Paragraph 1.]

11. At the time of the acts alleged herein, this defendant materially assisted in the _____ [identify nature of offense] in that _____ [describe act].

12. Defendant _____ [name] acted with intent to deceive or defraud.

FOURTH CAUSE OF ACTION
(Joint and Several Liability of Experts)

13. Plaintiff sets forth by reference as though fully set forth below each and every allegation of Paragraphs 1-4 of the First Cause of Action.

14. Defendant _____ [name] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, _____ [allege capacity, if appropriate, and residence; see § 515.400, Paragraph 1]. At all times herein mentioned, defendant, as a _____ [describe professional capacity, e.g., accountant or engineer or appraiser], was a person whose profession gave authority to a statement made by him/her.

15. Pursuant to Title 10, Section 260.504.2.2 of the California Code of Regulations, this defendant gave written consent to be and was named in a[n] _____ [prospectus or offering circular] distributed in connection with the securities herein described as having _____ [prepared or certified] in his/her professional capacity _____ [_____ (identify part of document, e.g., Part V, "Financial History" or a written _____ (report or valuation) entitled _____ (name of writing) which was _____ (distributed with or referred to in) the document].

16. The _____ [document so _____ (prepared or certified) or _____ (report or valuation) so _____ (distributed or referred to)] _____ [included an untrue statement of a material fact or omitted to state a material fact necessary in order to make the statements made, in light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading]. The _____ [document or writing] [at page _____] recited that _____[restate misrepresentation]. This statement _____ [was untrue in that or omitted to state that] _____ [describe misrepresentation from Paragraph 3 of First Cause of Action]. [A true copy of the _____ (document or writing) is attached as Exhibit B and incorporated by reference.]

17. Plaintiff acquired the securities described herein and in that document in reliance on the _____ [untrue statement or _____ (part of the document or writing) without notice of the omission].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant[s, and each of them,] as follows:

[EITHER, if plaintiff is purchaser]

1. For rescission of the purchase and restitution of $_____ as original consideration paid for the securities, less $_____, which plaintiff received on the security;

[OR, if plaintiff is seller]

1. For rescission of the sale and recovery of the securities;

[2. If plaintiff is purchaser, add For interest on the original consideration at the legal rate from _____ (date of purchase);]

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 515.400.]

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use in an action for rescission of a purchase or sale of securities when the purchase or sale was made by means of an oral or written misrepresentation of a material fact [see Corp. Code §§ 25401, 25501].

The possible defendants include the following [see Corp. Code § 25504.2]:

- The person who sold or purchased the security from the plaintiff (First Cause of Action) [see Corp. Code § 25501].

- A person who indirectly or directly controls the purchaser or seller or one who occupies the status, or performs the functions, of a partner, principal executive officer, or director of a firm exercising such control (Second Cause of Action) [see Corp. Code § 25504].

- Any broker-dealer or agent who materially aided in the misrepresentation (Second Cause of Action) [see Corp. Code § 25504].

- Any person who materially assisted in the violation with intent to deceive or defraud (Third Cause of Action) [see Corp. Code § 25504.1].

- Any person whose profession gives authority to a statement which contained a misrepresentation and on which the plaintiff relied if (a) the statement was made in a prospectus or offering circular and (b) the professional consented to be named and was named in the prospectus or circular (Fourth Cause of Action) [see Corp. Code § 25504.2].

For a discussion of material misrepresentation, see § 515.246[13], and note particularly the discussion under § 515.49[2] [see also Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 14, Civil Liabilities, § 14.03 (Matthew Bender)].

[3] Elements of Various Claims

[a] First Cause of Action

The First Cause of Action in this form is based on Corp. Code §§ 25401 and 25501, which impose liability for rescission (or damages, as in § 515.406, if the plaintiff or defendant, as the case may be, no longer owns the security), if the purchase or sale was accomplished by use of a written or oral communication that included an untrue statement of material fact or an omission that, in the light of the circumstances, was misleading [see Corp. Code § 25401]. The ordinary elements of inducement and reliance are not necessary allegations in the First Cause of Action [see discussion in § 515.19[1]].

[b] Second Cause of Action

The Second Cause of Action is based on Corp. Code §§ 25501 and 25504. Corp. Code § 25504 extends liability under Corp. Code § 25501 to every person who directly or indirectly controls a person who is liable under Corp. Code § 25501 or 25503. That includes the following [see Corp. Code § 25504; see, e.g., Apollo Capital Fund LLC v. Roth Capital Partners (2007) 158 Cal. App. 4th 226, 255-256, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 199 (complaint alleged facts sufficient to support liability of broker-dealer under Corp. Code § 25504)]:

- Every partner in a firm that is so liable.

- Every executive officer or director of a corporation so liable and every person occupying a similar status or performing a similar function.

- An employee of a person so liable, or a broker-dealer or agent, but only if the employee or broker-dealer or agent materially aided in the act or transaction constituting the violation of Corp. Code § 25501 (which is alleged in the First Cause of Action).

To state the claim set out in the Second Cause of Action, the plaintiff must allege that the defendant either was in control of a person who is liable under Corp. Code § 25501 (or Corp. Code § 25503)--liability of a controlled person under any other code section would not be sufficient--or was one of the related persons described above; and the plaintiff must allege further that the plaintiff and the person liable under Corp. Code § 25501--not the plaintiff and the defendant who was in control or was a related person--were in privity as parties to a sale of securities (which is stated in the First Cause of Action) [Bains v. Moores (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 445, 479, 91 Cal. Rptr. 3d 309 (complaint charging vicarious liability under Corp. Code § 25504 was demurrable for failure to allege liability under applicable code section and failure to allege required privity)].

A controlling person or related person described above is jointly and severally liable with, and to the same extent as, defendants charged in the First Cause of Action, unless the controlling or related person who is allegedly liable had no knowledge of or reasonable grounds to believe in the existence of the facts by reason of which the liability is alleged to exist [Corp. Code § 25504, discussed in § 515.19[6]]. See § 515.409 for an affirmative defense based on such lack of knowledge.

[c] Third Cause of Action

The Third Cause of Action is based on Corp. Code §§ 25401 and 25504.1. Corp. Code § 25504.1 extends liability under Corp. Code § 25501 to every person who materially assisted in the violation (of Corp. Code § 25401, for purposes of the form) with intent deceive or defraud. Thus, this is the first cause of action in the form to require the allegation that a defendant acted with intent to deceive or defraud (Paragraph 12). Such a person or entity is jointly and severally liable with any other person who is liable for the violation [Corp. Code § 25504.1; see, e.g., Apollo Capital Fund LLC v. Roth Capital Partners (2007) 158 Cal. App. 4th 226, 257, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 199 (complaint alleged facts sufficient to support liability of broker-dealer under Corp. Code § 25504)].

[d] Fourth Cause of Action

The Fourth Cause of Action is based on Corp. Code § 25504.2, which extends liability under Corp. Code § 25501 (arising for purposes of this form from a violation of Corp. Code § 25401) to "experts," such as accountants, engineers, appraisers, whose name and statements appear in, or are referred to in, a prospectus or offering circular distributed in connection with the transaction [see Corp. Code § 25504.2, discussed in the Introduction, beginning at § 515.19[8]]. To impose liability on experts under Corp. Code § 25504.2, the document or statement must include an untrue statement of material fact or omit a material fact necessary to make the statements that were made not misleading, in light of the circumstances (Paragraph 16) [Corp. Code § 25504.2(a)(1)]; and, the person seeking to impose liability under Corp. Code § 25504.2 must have acquired the security in reliance on the untrue statement or omission (Paragraph 17) [Corp. Code § 25504.2(a)(2)].

Corp. Code § 25504.2(b) provides specific defenses to these experts. Those defenses are discussed in § 515.19[8][b] et seq. and are the basis for the affirmative defenses in §§ 515.410-515.412.

There is a one-year limitation period (from discovery of facts constituting the violation) for imposition of lability on experts under Corp. Code § 25504.2 [see Corp. Code § 25506.1, discussed in § 515.19[8][a]].

[6] Decisions

[a] In General

Elements of criminal offense described in Corp. Code § 25401 include knowledge of falsity or misleading nature of statement or of materiality of omission, or criminal negligence in failing to investigate and discover them. People v. Simon (1995) 9 Cal. 4th 493, 522, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 278, 886 P.2d 1271 (defendant solicited investments in limited partnerships but did not advise investors of transfers of funds among partnerships because defendant believed that, as general partner, he had authority to make such transfers)

Award of interest under Corp. Code § 25501 to successful purchaser who is granted rescission based on fraudulent misrepresentation is not discretionary but mandatory. Boam v. Trident Financial Corp. (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 738, 744-746, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 177

Misrepresentation or concealment of fact was not material. Lynch v. Cook (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 1072, 1087-1088, 196 Cal. Rptr. 544 , disapproved on other grounds, In re Marriage of Arceneaux (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 1130, 1137, 275 Cal. Rptr. 797, 800 P.2d 1227

Reliance on statement or omission in connection with the tender offer not required. Lynch v. Cook (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 1072, 1087-1088, 196 Cal. Rptr. 544 , disapproved on other grounds, In re Marriage of Arceneaux (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 1130, 1137, 275 Cal. Rptr. 797, 800 P.2d 1227 ; Bowden v. Robinson (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 705, 715, 136 Cal. Rptr. 871

[b] Aider and Abettor Liability

Statement of claim of aiding and abetting securities fraud requires pleading (1) existence of independent primary wrong, (2) actual knowledge or reckless disregard by alleged aider and abettor of wrong and of his or her role in furthering it, and (3) substantial assistance in wrong. Levine v. Diamanthuset (9th Cir. 1991) 950 F.2d 1478, 1483

Cause of action for aider and abettor liability stated against accounting firm who knew that memoranda it aided in preparing were false and did not disclose that fact, and when plaintiffs alleged they relied on accounting firm's reputation in deciding to invest and would not have invested if accounting firm had disclosed fraud. Roberts v. Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co. (9th Cir. 1988) 857 F.2d 646, 652-653

To be secondarily liable in securities fraud action, aider and abettor is required to have actual knowledge of wrong and of his or her role in furthering it and must substantially assist in wrongdoing; negligence insufficient for imposition of aider and abettor liability, but silence is sufficient; cause of action for aider and abettor liability stated against accountant who failed to include in tax opinion fact that defendant corporation had been suspended for failure to pay California franchise taxes. DCD Programs, Ltd. v. Leighton (9th Cir. 1987) 833 F.2d 183, 188-189

Under federal securities law, aider's or abettor's actual knowledge of primary wrong and substantial assistance in furthering it required to establish liability; Corp. Code § 25504.1 standard stricter and requiring aider or abettor to have intent to deceive or defraud. Orloff v. Allman (9th Cir. 1987) 819 F.2d 904, 907-908

Defendant's status as spouse of culpable individual and director of corporation that offered securities pursuant to allegedly fraudulent scheme was not sufficient for imposition of aider and abettor liability under federal law. Durham v. Kelly (9th Cir. 1987) 810 F.2d 1500, 1505

[c] Alter Ego Liability

To impose alter ego liability on corporate president in federal securities case by piercing corporate veil, president still required to have requisite mental state. Orloff v. Allman (9th Cir. 1987) 819 F.2d 904, 908

Alter ego liability not to be imposed on corporate president under California law in securities case by piercing corporate veil merely because president wished to limit liability when there is no abuse of corporate form, such as undercapitalization. Orloff v. Allman (9th Cir. 1987) 819 F.2d 904, 908-909

[d] Controlling Person Liability

Determination of who is controlling person for purposes of liability under 15 U.S.C. § 78t is generally "intensely factual question"; director is not automatically liable as controlling person; control commonly rests with group of persons, such as members of corporation's management. Arthur Children's Trust v. Keim (9th Cir. 1993) 994 F.2d 1390, 1396-1397

As matter of law, once facts establish relationship between registered broker-dealer and its representative, broker-dealer is controlling person under 15 U.S.C. § 78t(a) with respect to its registered representatives. Hollinger v. Titan Capital Corp. (9th Cir. 1990) 914 F.2d 1564, 1574

In context of registered broker-dealer and its representative, once plaintiff establishes that broker-dealer is "controlling person," burden of proof under 15 U.S.C. § 78t(a) shifts to broker-dealer to prove its good faith. Hollinger v. Titan Capital Corp. (9th Cir. 1990) 914 F.2d 1564, 1575 (without deciding whether "power and influence" test articulated in Buhler v. Audio Leasing Corp. (9th Cir. 1987) 807 F.2d 833, 835-836 , and Christoffel v. E.F. Hutton & Co. (9th Cir. 1978) 588 F. 2d 665, 668-669 , still applies to relationships other than broker-dealer/representative)

General council's licensing and promotion of ministers not sufficient control for imposition of secondary liability under 15 U.S.C. § 78t(a) for alleged fraudulent construction fund share issuance by local church. Kersh v. General Council of Assemblies of God (9th Cir. 1986) 804 F.2d 546, 549

Broker-dealer has no common law duty to supervise sales by registered representative of investments in which broker-dealer has no economic interest to persons who are not customers of broker-dealer, when registered representative is not broker-dealer's employee, registered representative has no actual or apparent authority to sell investment, and broker had no notice of and did not benefit from transaction. Asplund v. Selected Investments in Financial Equities, Inc. (2000) 86 Cal. App. 4th 26, 29, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 34

[e] Federal Law

[i] Liability as Seller

Not only one who passes title, but those who solicit purchase may be liable as "seller" [see 15 U.S.C. § 77 l(a)(1), (2)] if their solicitation is motivated by desire to serve their own or securities owner's financial interest; "substantial factor" is not proper test of solicitation because it fails to distinguish between those who solicit and those whose efforts are merely collateral to offer or sale. Pinter v. Dahl (1988) 486 U.S. 622, 641655, 108 S. Ct. 2063, 100 L. Ed. 2d 658 (liability under 15 U.S.C. § 77 l(1)); Moore v. Kayport Package Exp., Inc. (9th Cir. 1989) 885 F.2d 531, 535-536 (liability under 15 U.S.C. § 77 l(2))

Efforts of lawyers and accountants must be directed toward producing sale rather than merely providing professional services in order for them to be liable as seller under 15 U.S.C. § 77 l(1). Pinter v. Dahl (1988) 486 U.S. 622, 651, 108 S. Ct. 2063, 100 L. Ed. 2d 658 (dicta)

No cause of action stated under 15 U.S.C. § 77 l(2) against lawyers and accountants who drafted prospectuses and promotional materials when there was no allegation that they played any role in soliciting purchases. Moore v. Kayport Package Exp., Inc. (9th Cir. 1989) 885 F.2d 531, 536

[ii] Right to Rescission

Buyer's right of rescission under 15 U.S.C. § 77 l(a)(2) against seller who makes material misrepresentation or omission by means of prospectus does not extend to private contract of sale because term "prospectus" is confined to documents related to public offerings [see 15 U.S.C. § 77c ("prospectus" defined)]. Gustafson v. Alloyd Co. (1995) 513 U.S. 561, 115 S. Ct. 1061, 1067-1068, 131 L. Ed. 2d 1, 12-13

Under 15 U.S.C. § 77 l(2), purchaser entitled to rescission without showing that misrepresentation was cause of economic loss. Casella v. Webb (9th Cir. 1989) 883 F.2d 805, 808-809

Under 15 U.S.C. § 77 l(2), seller may be charged with constructive knowledge of falsity, but not purchaser; purchaser who did not read prospective entitled to rely on oral misrepresentation that was contrary to statements in prospectus and is not required to prove due diligence but only actual ignorance of true facts. Casella v. Webb (9th Cir. 1989) 883 F.2d 805, 809

[f] Statute of Limitations

Corp. Code § 25506 imposes notice-inquiry standard: limitation period starts when plaintiff knows facts constituting violation or when circumstances would suggest, to investor of ordinary intelligence, possibility of having been defrauded. Deveny v. Entropin, Inc. (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 408, 423, 428-429, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 807

Action for rescission based on violation of Corp. Code § 25401 governed by four-year limitation of Corp. Code § 25506. Stokes v. Henson (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 187, 193 n.4, 265 Cal. Rptr. 836

Plaintiff alleges:

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION
(Material Misrepresentation)

1. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 515.400, Paragraph 1.]

2. [Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 515.400, Paragraph 2.]

3. [Transaction as based on false or misleading statement. See § 515.405, Paragraph 3.]

4. [Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that] [O]n or about _____ [date], _____ [plaintiff if plaintiff was purchaser or defendant if defendant was purchaser] _____ [specify how security was disposed of, e.g., sold the security to _____ (name) for $_____ per share].

5. As a result of defendant's material misrepresentation as alleged herein, defendant is liable to plaintiff, who is entitled, in lieu of rescission, to sue for damages as a result of _____ [plaintiff's or defendant's] disposition of the security.

[EITHER, if plaintiff is purchaser]

6. The value of the securities at the time plaintiff disposed of them was _____ [specify, e.g., $_____ per share]. Plaintiff has received $_____ in income from those securities.

[OR, if plaintiff is seller]

6. The value of the securities at the time of the filing of the complaint herein was _____ [specify, e.g., $_____ per share]. To the time of resale, _____ [specify disposition, e.g., defendant had received $_____ in income from those securities].

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION
(Joint and Several Liability of Management Principals or Materially Aiding Personnel)

7. Plaintiff sets forth by reference as though fully set forth below each and every allegation of Paragraphs 1-6 of the First Cause of Action.

8, 9. [Named defendant as management principal or material aide. See § 515.405, Second Cause of Action, Paragraphs 7, 8.]

THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION
(Joint and Several Liability of Materially Assisting Persons)

10. [Incorporation of First Cause of Action. See Second Cause of Action, Paragraph 7.]

(Joint and Several Liability of Experts)

14. [Incorporation of First Cause of Action. See Second Cause of Action, Paragraph 10.]

15-18. [Named defendant as liable expert. See § 515.405, Fourth Cause of Action, Paragraphs 14-17.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant[s, and each of them,] as follows:

[EITHER]

1. [If plaintiff is purchaser: For damages in the amount equal to the difference between:

a. the price at which the securities were bought, plus interest at the legal rate from the date of purchase; and

b. the value of the securities at the time they were disposed of by plaintiff, plus the amount of any income received by plaintiff thereon];

[OR]

1. [If plaintiff is seller: For damages in the amount equal to the difference between:

a. the value of the securities at the time of filing of the complaint herein, plus the amount of any income received on the securities by defendant; and

b. the price at which the securities were sold, plus interest at the legal rate from the date of sale];

2. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 515.400.]

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use in an action for damages for the purchase or sale of securities effected by means of misrepresentation of a material fact [see Corp. Code §§ 25401, 25501]. For a discussion of the cause of action for damages for this type of injury, see § 515.19[3]. If plaintiff or defendant was the purchaser of the securities, and still retains the securities then plaintiff's remedy is a complaint for rescission as set out in see § 515.405.

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges that defendant is liable to plaintiff for the misrepresentation, but is liable only for damages since the securities have been resold (Paragraphs 4, 5), and further alleges the value of the securities at the time of their disposal, along with an accounting of any income received thereon to that time (Paragraph 6) [see Corp. Code § 25501].

[4] Decisions

Failure of prospectus to state that some types of mergers could be accomplished without approval of preferred shares being offered or that common stock could be delisted, resulting in destruction of value of conversion rights of preferred shares being offered, was neither material nor misleading. Insurance Underwriters Clearing House, Inc. v. Natomas Co. (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 1520, 1526-1530, 228 Cal. Rptr. 449

Issue of materiality, on which reasonable minds cannot differ, may be resolved as matter of law; fact is material if reasonable investor would consider it in reaching investment decision; in connection with purchase and sale of stock, disclosure of preliminary merger negotiations not required and immaterial as matter of law. Insurance Underwriters Clearing House, Inc. v. Natomas Co. (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 1520, 1526-1528, 228 Cal. Rptr. 449 ; but see Basic Incorporated v. Levinson (1988) 485 U.S. 224, 108 S. Ct. 978, 99 L. Ed. 2d 194, 212-214, 220 (probably applicable to abrogate agreement-in-principle standard under California law)

Under some circumstances, risk of demisting sufficiently material to require disclosure in offering prospectus; however, if no merger is being contemplated and no appreciable risk of demisting exists at time of offering, mere possibility of future demisting as not sufficiently material to require disclosure. Insurance Underwriters Clearing House, Inc. v. Natomas Co. (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 1520, 1528-1530, 228 Cal. Rptr. 449

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense to Complaint for Material Misrepresentation--Defendant's Exercise of Care as to, and Lack of Knowledge of, Misrepresentation [Corp. Code § 25501]
[EITHER]

AS A [(if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges that:

1. Defendant exercised reasonable care with respect to the making of the statements described in the complaint in connection with the transaction with plaintiff, in that _____ [describe care with respect to plaintiff's specific allegations, e.g., defendant reasonably relied exclusively on the certified audit report of _____ (name), which omitted any reference to change in the accounting practice of the X Company]. As a result, defendant did not know of the alleged _____ [untruth or omission].

[2. In any case, even] [I]f defendant had [not] exercised reasonable care with respect to the making of the statements described in the complaint in connection with the transaction with plaintiff, defendant would not have known of the alleged _____ [untrue statement or omission] because _____ [explain, e.g., the only published reports which could have revealed facts supportive or corrective of defendant's statements, and on which defendant or any market professional would or should have relied, did not reveal the _____ [falsity of the statement or omission)].

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense is for use in an answer to an action for rescission [see § 515.405] or for damages [see § 515.406] for material misrepresentation in a securities transaction, where the defendant exercised reasonable care but was unaware of the misrepresentation, or where the exercise of reasonable care would have been of no avail [see Corp. Code § 25501]. For discussion of this defense, see § 515.59[4].

AS A [(if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges that:

Defendant _____ [name of answering joint defendant] had no knowledge of or reasonable grounds to believe in the existence of the _____ [describe alleged material representation or violation of qualification requirement or regulatory condition] alleged in Paragraph _____ of plaintiff's complaint, in that _____ [explain lack of knowledge or grounds, e.g., defendant reasonably believed that the state qualification of the securities by coordination with their federal registration would become automatically effective at the same time as would the federal registration, whereas in fact in this case the securities were not eligible for state qualification because they had not been on file with the Commissioner of Corporations for 10 days].

[2] Use of Form

This defense is for use in an answer to a complaint for rescission [see § 515.405, Second Cause of Action] or damages [see § 515.406] based on a material misrepresentation in a security transaction or on violation of securities qualification requirements or a condition imposed by the commissioner [see §§ 515.407 -515.421] in which joint and several liability is alleged against defendant as a management principal or one of the materially aiding personnel in the offending transaction [see § 515.425]. The form alleges that the defendant did not know of or could not reasonably be expected to believe in the existence of the facts constituting the misrepresentation or violation [*see Corp. Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 515.400, Paragraph 1.]

2. [Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 515.400, Paragraph 2.]

3. On _____ [date], in _____ [specify locality], California, defendant _____ [sold to or purchased from] plaintiff securities consisting of a total of _____ [number] _____ [shares or other security] of _____ [describe securities, e.g., the preferred stock] of _____ for $_____ per _____ [share or other security] and a total price of $_____. At that time _____ [defendant was the issuer of the securities or defendant was _____ (an officer or a director or a controlling person) of the issuer of the securities or if defendant was not an issuer, officer, director, or controlling person defendant's relationship to the issuer gave him/her direct or indirect access to material information about the issuer not generally available to the public, in that defendant was _____ (describe position, e.g., the holder of 11 percent of the outstanding common stock)].

4. At the time of the above-described securities transaction with plaintiff, defendant knew certain then current material information about the issuer, information gained from defendant's relationship to the issuer, which would significantly affect the market price of the securities involved. That information was to the effect that _____ [describe information, e.g., the issuer was about to be publicly charged with fraud by the Commissioner of Corporations]. This material information was not then generally available to the public, and defendant knew at that time that it was not intended to be so available.

5. The market value that the securities would have had at the time plaintiff _____ [purchased or sold] them _____ [from or to] defendant, if the information known to defendant had been publicly disseminated prior to the time of the securities transaction here involved and a reasonable time had elapsed for the market to absorb the information, is $_____ per _____ [share or other security].

6. As a result of defendant's acts in the transaction, defendant is liable to plaintiff for damages in the amount of $_____, the difference between what plaintiff _____ [paid or received] on the transaction and the market value alleged above in Paragraph 5.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For damages in the sum of $_____;

2. For interest at the legal rate;

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use by the person who purchased securities from or sold the securities to the "insider" in an action for damages against a corporate "insider" who sold to or purchased from plaintiff a security at a time when he or she knew material information about the issuer that was gained from his or her "insider" relationship and that defendant knew was not in fact and was not intended to be generally available [see Corp. Code §§ 25402, 25502]. For a discussion of this cause of action, see § 515.22 [see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, § 14.04 (Matthew Bender)]. For a complaint for use by the issuer of the securities traded in violation of Corp. Code § 25402, see § 515.413.1.

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges, in part, the following:

- Plaintiff's purchase from or sale to defendant of securities of the corporation in which defendant's relationship to the issuer gave him or her direct or indirect access to material information about the issuer not generally available to the public (Paragraph 3).

- Defendant's then current knowledge, gained from the relationship, of inside matters not generally disclosed to the public that would have significantly affected the price (Paragraph 4) [see Corp. Code § 25402].

- The market value the securities would have had if the knowledge had been widely known (Paragraph 5).

- Defendant's liability for the difference of which defendant has had the advantage (Paragraph 6) [see Corp. Code § 25502].

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff is a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of _____ [specify, e.g., California], with its principal place of business in _____ [specify, e. g., County, California or allege other capacity of plaintiff issuer]. Plaintiff has total assets worth in excess of one million dollars ($1,000,000), and has _____ [specify, e.g., outstanding common shares or a class of equity securities] held of record by more than 500 persons.

2. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 515.400, Paragraph 1.]

3. [Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 515.400, Paragraph 2.]

4. On _____ [date], in _____ [specify locality], California, defendant _____ [sold or purchased] _____ [number] of _____ [shares or other security] of plaintiff's _____ [describe securities, e. g., common stock] for $_____ per _____ [share or other security], for a total transaction price of $_____.
[EITHER]

5. At the time of the transaction complained of, defendant was _____ [an officer or a director or a controlling person] of plaintiff.
[OR]

5. At the time of the transaction complained of, defendant was _____ [specify relationship, e.g., a physician and scientist under contract to plaintiff to develop a drug for use in the treatment of Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome]. Defendant's relationship to plaintiff gave him/her direct or indirect access to material information about plaintiff that was not generally available to the public.
[CONTINUE]

6. At the time of the transaction complained of, defendant knew certain then current information about plaintiff that defendant had gained from his/her relationship to plaintiff. The information concerned the fact that _____ [specify, e.g., plaintiff was about to announce that it had received approval from the Federal Drug Administration to market the drug]. This information would significantly affect the market price of the securities involved and was not then generally available to the public. Defendant knew that the information was not intended to be available to the public.

7. If the information known to defendant had been publicly disseminated prior to the time of the transaction complained of and a reasonable time had elapsed for the market to absorb that information, at the time of the transaction complained of the securities involved would have had a market value of $_____ per _____ [share or other security].

8. [Damages. See § 515.413, Paragraph 6.]

[9. No proceeding has been commenced against defendant by the Securities and Exchange Commission under the federal Insider Trading Sanctions Act of 1984 (Sections 78a, 78c, 78o, 78t, 78u, and 78ff of Title 15 of the United States Code) or any other act with respect to the transaction that is the subject of this complaint.

[10. As a result of proceedings commenced against defendant by the Securities and Exchange Commission on account of the transaction that is the subject of this complaint, defendant has paid the sum of $_____.]

[11. A proceeding has been commenced against defendant by the Securities and Exchange Commission under _____ (specify, e.g., the federal Insider Trading Sanctions Act of 1984 (Sections 78a, 78c, 78o, 78t, 78u, and 78ff of Title 15 of the United States Code) with respect to the transaction that is the subject of this complaint, but at the time of the filing of this complaint, no sums had been paid by defendant on account of that proceeding.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For damages in the sum of $_____, and that said sum be trebled;

2. For its reasonable attorney's fees;

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[Verification, if desired. See § 515.400.]

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use in an action by an issuer of securities against an insider who traded on insider information about the issuer in violation of Corp. Code § 25402. Treble damages may be recovered by the issuer if it has over $1 million in assets and over 500 record holders of a class of equity securities [Corp. Code § 25502.5; see discussion in § 515.22[3]]. However, the trebled amount will be reduced by any sums paid by the defendant in proceedings commenced by the Securities and Exchange Commission on account of the same transaction [Corp. Code § 25502.5(b)].

The action may be brought by or on behalf of the issuer [see Corp. Code § 25502.5]. For a general complaint containing allegations that may be used to plead an action for recovery under Corp. Code § 25502.5 as a derivative action, see Ch. 167, Corporations: Directors and Management .

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges:

- Plaintiff's capacity as an issuer of the size required by Corp. Code § 25502.5(d) (Paragraph 1).

- The specifics of defendant's sale or purchase of plaintiff's securities in California [see Corp. Code § 25402] (Paragraph 4).

- The particulars of defendant's status as an insider within the meaning of Corp. Code § 25402 (alternative Paragraphs 5).

- Defendant's knowledge of information that was not available to the general public and that had a significant impact on the market price of the securities traded, as well as defendant's knowledge that the information was not intended to be available to the public, all as required by Corp. Code § 25402 to constitute the offense of "insider trading" (Paragraph 6).

- The market price the securities would have had if the insider information had been available to the public sufficiently in advance of the transaction to allow the market to absorb the information (Paragraph 7) [Corp. Code § 25502.5(a)].

Paragraphs 9-11 are optional paragraphs addressing the reduction in damages that a defendant would be entitled to under Corp. Code § 25502.5(b) if he or she had paid a judgment or settlement arising from an SEC proceeding regarding the same transaction [see Corp. Code § 25502.5(b)].

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use in an action to rescind a purchase of securities made in an issuer or nonissuer transaction and recover the purchase price if the securities are subject to qualification, not exempt from qualification, and have not been qualified [see Corp. Code § 25503 (discussed in § 515.21)]. A security may be "unqualified" within the meaning of Corp. Code § 25110 (issuer transactions only), if the manner of the offer or sale differs from, exceeds the scope of, or fails to conform with, either (1) a material term or condition of qualification as set forth in the permit or qualification order or (2) a material representation regarding the manner of offering that is set forth in the application for qualification [Corp. Code § 25110]. The second alternative Paragraph 4 is for use in that situation.

The form may not be used to rescind an issuer transaction that is in the form of recapitalizations or reorganizations; for a complaint for rescission of such a transaction, see § 515.420.

For a discussion of regulatory violations alleged in the complaint, see § 515.21. For a description of the causes of action brought under this complaint, see § 515.21[1] [see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, § 14.06[1] (Matthew Bender)].

The Second, Third, and Fourth Causes of Action are for joint and several liability of particular persons for the violation specified in the First Cause of Action. For discussion of joint and several liability of offering principals and underwriters under the Second Cause of Action, see § 515.21[8] [see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, § 14.06[3][a], [b] (Matthew Bender)]. For discussion of joint and several liability of management principals and materially aiding personnel under the Third Cause of Action, and for such liability of materially assisting persons under the Fourth Cause of Action, see § 515.61 [see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, § 14.06[3][c] (Matthew Bender)].

If plaintiff has resold or otherwise no longer retains the securities, the appropriate action is for damages [see § 515.419].

[3] Allegations

The complaint alleges in the First Cause of Action the following:

- The offer and sale to plaintiff of securities by the issuer or secondary trader (Paragraph 3).

- The fact that the transaction was an issuer or nonissuer one but that the securities were subject to qualification, were not exempt from qualification, and had not been qualified (first alternative Paragraph 4), or that the transaction was a nominally qualified issuer transaction, but was not in fact qualified within the meaning of Corp. Code § 25110 (second alternative Paragraph 4).

- Plaintiff therefore rescinds the sale by proper tender of the securities, with an accounting of income received thereon (Paragraph 5).

- The value of plaintiff's consideration if it was nonmonetary and cannot be returned [see Corp. Code § 25503].

The subsequent causes of action allege joint and several liability of particular persons by alleging the circumstances of their relationship to the securites transaction described in the First Cause of Action. The Second Cause of Action alleges, in part, the following: (1) the defendant was an offering principal or an underwriter (Paragraph 3); and (2) if relevant, that the underwriting defendant's role was such that the underwriter is not entitled to the protection of the ceiling on liability which is normally restricted to the underwritten figure [see Corp. Code § 25503].

The applicable limitation period under Corp. Code § 25507(a) is discussed in § 515.21[5].

[a] Exemptions From Registration

Exemption of former Corp. Code § 25102(f) as it existed prior to November 1, 1981, was only available to bona fide partnership; because bona fide partnership is not established unless each partner has right to determine membership of all other partners, limited partnership in which limited partners did not know each other was not entitled to exemption. Sherman v. Lloyd (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 693, 700-701, 226 Cal. Rptr. 495

[b] Joint Liability of Responsible Individuals

Control person liability under 15 U.S.C. § 77o and under Corp. Code § 25504 are substantially the same; to establish controlling person liability controlled entity must be liable and alleged controlling person must have controlled that entity. Underhill v. Royal (9th Cir. 1985) 769 F.2d 1426, 1433

Controlling person not liable if he or she had no knowledge of, or reasonable grounds to believe in, existence of facts by reason of which liability exists; alleged controlling person has burden of proof of this defense; given radio and newspaper advertising throughout San Diego area over 5-year period, verdict for investors supported by evidence despite controlling person's claim of lack of knowledge of sales to nonresidents which would make intrastate offering exemption from federal registration requirements unavailable. Underhill v. Royal (9th Cir. 1985) 769 F.2d 1426, 1433-1434

Verdict for investors supported by evidence despite controlling person's claim of reliance on advice of counsel that offering was exempt from California registration requirements when controlling person was aware that Corporations Department had raised questions as to exemption and liability was founded on facts that fostered those doubts. Underhill v. Royal (9th Cir. 1985) 769 F.2d 1426, 1433-1434

Liability of affiliated corporate mortgage broker for violations of federal securities laws by franchisee which sold unregistered securities was supported by evidence that advertisements and newsletters used only affiliate/franchisor's name, that both corporations were founded and controlled by same person, and use of franchisor's trade name and mark; liability for California violations established without finding of privity since defendant never offered instruction on privity. Underhill v. Royal (9th Cir. 1985) 769 F.2d 1426, 1434-1435

When all funds of limited partnership in which plaintiff invested were invested by general partner in second limited partnership, both partnerships were liable under to plaintiff under Corp. Code § 25503, and general partners of both partnerships and officer, director, and major shareholder of corporate general partner of second partnership were jointly and severally liable under Corp. Code § 25504, but accounting firm of first partnership was not liable because it had no other connection to transaction. Sherman v. Lloyd (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 693, 703, 226 Cal. Rptr. 495

[c] Punitive Damages

One who induced unsophisticated persons to invest money in various ventures in his or her name assumes fiduciary status as investment advisor, trustee of commodities accounts, managing partner of mining venture, and securities broker-dealer; fiduciary's material misrepresentations to induce investors not to withdraw their funds, failure to disclose significant risks, and failure to register securities were not only statutory violations [see Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25401] but also constructive fraud, which supports award of punitive damages. Stokes v. Henson (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 187, 194-197, 265 Cal. Rptr. 836

[d] Scienter Required to Prove Criminal Violation of Corp. Code § 25110

Defendant is not guilty of selling unregistered security in violation of Corp. Code § 25110 if there is reasonable doubt that defendant knew that security was not exempt from regulation or reasonable doubt that defendant was criminally negligent in failing to know that security was not exempt; however, lack of knowledge that security is not exempt, or lack of criminal negligence, is affirmative defense, on which trial court must instruct only if defendant presents enough evidence to raise reasonable doubt. People v. Salas (2006) 37 Cal. 4th 967, 981, 982, 38 Cal. Rptr. 3d 624, 127 P.3d 40

[e] Statute of Limitations

Action for rescission based on violation of Corp. Code § 25110 is governed by two-year limitation of Corp. Code § 25503. Stokes v. Henson (1990) 217 Cal. App. 3d 187, 193 n.4, 265 Cal. Rptr. 836

When all funds of limited partnership in which plaintiff invested were invested by general partner in second limited partnership, limitation period commences on discovery that offering violated registration requirements rather than at time plaintiff learned of two-tier arrangement; defendant general partner was fiduciary of plaintiff limited partner because of partnership relationship, thus plaintiff was entitled to rely on defendant's assurances that two-tier structure was in compliance with securities law. Sherman v. Lloyd (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 693, 700, 226 Cal. Rptr. 495

Plaintiff alleges:

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION
(Qualification Violation)

1. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 515.400, Paragraph 1.]

2. [Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 515.400, Paragraph 2.]

3. [Sale to plaintiff by defendant in particular relationship to securities. See § 515.418, Paragraph 3.]

4. [Status of transaction as not qualified. See § 515.418, Paragraph 4.]

5. As a result of the above-described acts, defendant is liable to plaintiff for damages in lieu of rescission since plaintiff no longer owns the securities. The value of the securities at the time plaintiff disposed of them was $_____ per share. Plaintiff had received $_____ in income from the securities.

6. [Value of consideration given if defendant is unable to return. See § 515.418, Paragraph 6.]

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION
(Joint and Several Liability of Offering Principals or Underwriters)

7. Plaintiff sets forth by reference as though fully set forth below each and every allegation of Paragraphs 1-6 of the First Cause of Action.

8-10. [Named defendant as offering principal or underwriter. See § 515.418, Second Cause of Action, Paragraphs 2-4.]

THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION
(Joint and Several Liability of Management Principals or Materially Aiding Personnel)

11. [Incorporation of First Cause of Action. See Second Cause of Action, Paragraph 7.]

12, 13. [Named defendant as management principal or materially aiding personnel. See § 515.406, Second Cause of Action, Paragraphs 2, 3.]

FOURTH CAUSE OF ACTION
(Joint and Several Liability of Materially Assisting Persons)

1. [Incorporation of First Cause of Action. See Second Cause of Action, Paragraph 7.]

2-4. [Named defendant as materially assisting person. See § 515.406, Third Cause of Action, Paragraphs 2-4.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant[s, and each of them,] as follows:

1. For damages in the amount equal to the difference between:

a. the amount of $_____ as _____ [the purchase price or the value of original consideration] plus interest at the legal rate from the date of purchase; and

b. the value of the security at the time it was disposed of by plaintiff plus the amount of any income received thereon by plaintiff;

2. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

[Verification, if desired. See § 515.400 .]

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use in an action for damages resulting from a purchase of securities made in an issuer or nonissuer transaction, when the securities had not been qualified and plaintiff sold the securities prior to filing the complaint [see Corp. Code § 25503]. If plaintiff still owns the security, rescission is the proper remedy [see § 515.418]. In any case, if the transaction was in the form of recapitalizations or reorganizations, the complaint in § 515.420 should be used.

For a discussion of an action for damages for a regulatory violation, see § 515.21[3].

[3] Allegations

The complaint alleges, in the First Cause of Action, defendant's liability, defendant's inability to rescind because of disposition of the securities, and an accounting of the value of the securities at the time of transfer and of any income received thereon [see Corp. Code § 25503].

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION
(Qualification Violation)

1. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 515.400, Paragraph 1.]

2. [Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 515.400, Paragraph 2.]

3. On or about _____ [date], defendant offered and sold to plaintiff a total of _____ [number] _____ [shares or other security] of _____ [describe security, e.g., the 6 percent cumulative preferred stock of A Corporation] in exchange for a total of _____ [number] _____ [shares or other security] of _____ [describe security, e.g., the common stock of B Corporation] from plaintiff, at the rate of _____ [number] _____ [shares or other security] of the former for _____ [number] _____ [shares or other security] of the latter. Defendant was the issuer of the securities being sold [as well as those being received in exchange].

4. That sale constituted an issuer transaction in the form of a _____ [recapitalization or reorganization] in that it represented _____ [describe business purpose, e.g., an exchange of securities in connection with the merger of the issuer A Corporation and B Corporation]. Nevertheless, at the time of plaintiff's acquisition, that sale was subject to qualification, was not exempt from qualification, and was not [, and to date of this complaint that sale has not been,] qualified as any kind of securities transaction with the Commissioner of Corporations.

5. As a result of the above-described failure to qualify the securities, defendant is liable for damages. The value of the consideration received by defendant in the above-described transaction was $_____. The value of such securities at the time they were received by plaintiff was $_____.

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION
(Joint and Several Liability of Offering Principals and Underwriters)

6. Plaintiff sets forth by reference as though fully set forth below each and every allegation of Paragraphs 1-5 of the First Cause of Action.

7-9. [Named defendant as offering principal or underwriter. See § 515.418, Second Cause of Action, Paragraphs 2-4.]

14-16. [Named defendant as materially assisting person. See § 515.405, Third Cause of Action, Paragraphs 2-4.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant[s, and each of them,] as follows:

1. For damages in the amount of $_____, being the difference between:

a. the value of the consideration received from plaintiff; and

b. the value of the securities at the time they were received by plaintiff;

2. For interest thereon at the legal rate from the date of purchase;

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use in an action for damages resulting from failure to qualify the sale of securities involved in an issuer transaction that is in the form of a recapitalization or reorganization [see Corp. Code § 25503]. Actions based on violation of qualification requirements involving other issuer transactions or involving nonissuer transactions are provided for in Forms 18 (for rescission) and 19 (for damages).

For further discussion of violation of qualifications involving a recapitalization or reorganization, see § 515.21[1] and [4].

[3] Allegations

The complaint alleges in the First Cause of Action, in pertinent part, the following [see Corp. Code § 25503]:

- The sale of securities to plaintiff in the form of an exchange of securities (Paragraph 3);
- That the sale constituted a recapitalization or reorganization that was not qualified (Paragraph 4); and
- Defendant's liability to plaintiff, and an accounting of the value of the securities and consideration given therefor.

[1] FORM Allegation for Use in Complaint for Violation of Qualification Requirements--Rescission for Damages for Sale of Securities in Violation of Condition Imposed by Commissioner of Corporations [Corp. Code § 25503] Respecting Qualification [Corp. Code § 25141]

That sale constituted a[n] _____ [issuer transaction or nonissuer transaction or issuer transaction in the form of a _____ (recapitalization or reorganization) in that _____ [describe: for issuer transaction, see § 515.419, Paragraph 4; for nonissuer transaction, see § 515.420, Paragraph 4]. At the time of that sale the Commissioner of Corporations had, and there remained in effect, certain conditions with respect to the offer and sale of those securities, that provided that _____ [describe, e.g., those securities were not to be transferred without bearing a legend restricting their transferability, and were not to be transferred without the prior written consent of the commissioner]. A true copy of these conditions affecting the securities is attached as Exhibit A and made a part hereof. However, defendant failed to comply with these conditions in the above-described sale in that _____ [describe, e.g., the commissioner never reviewed or consented to the sale to plaintiff].

[2] Use of Form

This allegation may be substituted for Paragraph 4 of either of the complaints in Forms 18 or 19, as appropriate, to be used in an action for rescission or damages in the case of an issuer or nonissuer transaction, or of the complaint in § 515.420 to be used in an action for damages, for the violation of any condition of qualification or transfer of securities imposed by the Commissioner of Corporations [*see Corp. § 515.425 Affirmative Defense to Complaint for Violation of Qualification Requirements--Plaintiff in Position of Being Equally in the Wrong (in Pari Delicto) [Civ. Code § 3524] With Defendant

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense to Complaint for Violation of Qualification Requirements--Plaintiff in Position of Being Equally in the Wrong (in Pari Delicto) [Civ. Code § 3524] With Defendant

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges that:

Plaintiff was equally in the wrong (in pari delicto) with defendant in the [alleged] _____ [failure to qualify the securities transaction here involved or sale of securities here involved for which the qualification was without effectiveness] in that _____ [describe plaintiff's acts, e.g., plaintiff, a sophisticated investor of many years, insisted defendant issue stock to him/her without attempting to qualify it and assured him/her that, in plaintiff's informed experience, qualification was unnecessary because the offering was in his/her opinion exempt under the law]. Under there circumstances plaintiff may not interpose the law between the parties to this transaction on the alleged point of failure to observe requirements of qualification of securities.

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense is for use in an answer to a complaint for violation of qualification requirements [see §§ 515.418 -515.420] where the defendant contends that the plaintiff was in the wrong equally with the defendant.

[3] Doctrine of In Pari Delicto

The defense that the plaintiff was in pari delicto (or equally in the wrong) with defendant in failing to qualify a particular security had been well established under the securities law as it existed prior to the Corporate Securities Law of 1968. The defense was not a statutory one and applied only when defendant had clearly established that plaintiff was as responsible as defendant for the violation [see Wells v. Comstock (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 528, 531-532, 297 P.2d 961 ; see also Smith v. Turner (1965) 238 Cal. App. 2d 141, 149-153, 47 Cal. Rptr. 582] . It is unclear whether or not the defense continues to apply in an action based on a violation of the qualification requirements under the Corporate Securities Law of 1968. However, there does not appear to have been any substantive change in the law preventing the raising of such a defense. The doctrine is a basic tenet of the common law and is incorporated in the maxim of jurisprudence that provides that the law does not interpose between those who are equally in the wrong [see Civ. Code § 3524; Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch.14, § 14.06[5]; see also Civ. Code §§ 3515-3517].

[4] Decisions

Where plaintiff foreign bank tried to collect for losses under agreement whereby defendant underwriter agreed to bear them if plaintiff funded entire investment, which funding was in violation of federal requirements applicable to plaintiff as "broker" but not to defendant as "customer," there was no basis for exception to in pari delicto doctrine although plaintiff may otherwise have acted in good faith and defendant reprehensibly. UFITEC, S.A., v. Carter (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 238, 250, 142 Cal. Rptr. 279, 571 P.2d 990

§ 515.426 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)] to Complaint for Violation of Qualification Requirements--Approved Written Offer Was Sent to Rectify Violation [Corp. Code § 25507(b), (c)]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)] to Complaint for Violation of Qualification Requirements--Approved Written Offer Was Sent to Rectify Violation [Corp. Code § 25507(b), (c)]

AS A [(if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges that:

1. Prior to commencement of the action herein, and on or about _____ [date], plaintiff received from _____ [defendant or name of other person who sent offer] a written offer, the form of which was approved by the Commissioner of Corporations [and complied with all conditions required thereby].

2. This offer stated the manner in which liability may have arisen with regard to any alleged violation of Section 25503 of the Corporations Code. The writing offered to _____ [repurchase the securities for the cash price of $_____, payable on delivery of the security or describe offer of rescission or damages]. The writing specified the offer could be accepted by plaintiff at any time within a specified period of not less than 30 days after the date of receipt unless rejected earlier during that period by plaintiff. The writing set forth the provisions of Section 25507(b) of the Corporations Code and contained all other information required by the Commissioner of Corporations. A true copy of the written offer is attached hereto as Exhibit 1 and made a part hereof.

3. Plaintiff failed to accept this offer within the specified period after receipt thereof.

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense may be used in answer to a complaint for damages for the sale of a security in violation of qualification requirements or regulatory conditions pertaining to the security (or in violation of a condition imposed in connection with the suspension of trading) [see §§ 515.418 -515.421] where the defendant or others similarly situated have sent the plaintiff an officially approved form of written offer to rectify the violation which was not accepted in the prescribed time period [see Corp. Code § 25507(b), (c)]. For a discussion of this defense, see § 515.21[7].

[1] FORM Complaint for Indemnity [Corp. Code § 25505] for Willful Violation of Securities Law--By Corporation Against Controlling Personnel

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)	NO. _____
Plaintiff,	)	COMPLAINT FOR
vs.	)	INDEMNITY
_____ [name],	)	(Violation of Corporate
Defendant(s).	)	Securities Law)
	)	[Amount demanded _____
	)	(exceeds or does not exceed) $10,000]

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of _____ [California, with its principal place of business in _____ County or the State of _____, authorized to transact and transacting business in the State of California with its principal office in this state in _____ County or other residence of defendant corporation].

2. [Capacity and residence of defendant(s). See § 515.400, Paragraph 1 .]

3. [Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 515.400, Paragraph 2 .]

4. On _____ [date], defendant was _____ [the _____ (specify a principal executive officer, e.g., president) or a director or a controlling person] of plaintiff corporation, in that _____ [he/she had been _____ (elected or appointed) to such position by _____ (the Board of Directors or the stockholders or specify other) on _____ (date), or he/she was _____ (explain manner of control, e.g., the holder of 60 percent of the common stock of plaintiff)]. On the date first mentioned, defendant _____ [describe violation of securities law, e.g., prepared a proxy statement to accompany the proposed reorganization of plaintiff through an exchange of all outstanding 6 percent cumulative preferred stock, which contained liquidation preference rights, for issue of a newly created Class B of common stock. A copy of that prospectus is attached as Exhibit A and incorporated by reference. The prospectus contained an untrue statement of a material fact in that it recited that the exchange was necessary or else a particular new proposed bank loan could not go through. In truth it was a matter in indifference to the bank whether or not the liquidation preference was removed. Plaintiff corporation then sold such securities in _____ (specify locality), California, on _____ (date)].

5. Defendant's acts as described above were willful and resulted in _____ [specify nature of violation, e.g., the offer and sale of the securities of plaintiff corporation by means of a material misrepresentation].

6. On _____ [date], in an action entitled _____, filed in the _____ [name] Court, Action No. _____, judgment was rendered against plaintiff herein for _____ [specify, e.g., selling such exchange securities by means of the false statement] in the prospectus alleged above. Plaintiff's liability is a direct result of defendant's unlawful acts. A copy of that judgment is attached as Exhibit B and incorporated by reference. [In addition, on _____ (date), plaintiff notified defendant by written notice of this action pending against it and therein requested defendant to take charge of the defense, which defendant refused to do. A copy of this request is attached as Exhibit C and incorporated by reference.]

7. As a result of such judgment, plaintiff has become immediately liable for the sum of $_____, consisting of _____ [specify liability, e.g., $_____ in damages, $_____ as costs of that action, plus interest at the legal rate]. [In addition, the defense of this action cost plaintiff $_____ in attorney's fees.] For all such liability, plaintiff is entitled to indemnification from defendant.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For indemnification in the sum of $_____;

2. For interest on this sum at the legal rate;

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper[, including additional attorney's fees as described above when they become known].

[Verification, if desired. See § 515.400.]

[2] Use of Form

This complaint may be used in an action for indemnification by a corporation which is liable under any provision of civil liability under the Corporate Securities Law of 1968 against any of its principal executive officers, directors, or controlling persons whose willful violation of any provision of that law gave rise to plaintiff's liability [see Corp. Code § 25505].

For further discussion, see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, § 14.07[1] (Matthew Bender).

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges, in part [see Corp. Code § 25505]:

- The capacity of the plaintiff corporation (Paragraph 1).
- Defendant's identity as a principal executive officer, a director, or a controlling person and his or her wrongful act (Paragraph 4).
- The willfulness of defendant's act (Paragraph 5).
- Plaintiff's liability for defendant's wrongful act.
- The amount of plaintiff's liability (Paragraph 7) [see Corp. Code § 25505].

[4] Indemnification of Corporation

A corporation found liable under any of the special civil actions featured in the preceding forms in this chapter has a statutory right of indemnification against any of its principal executive officers, directors, and controlling persons whose willful violation of provisions of the Corporate Securities Law of 1968 gave rise to such liability [Corp. Code § 25505]. The statute specifies that the indemnification arises when the corporation is "liable" and that indemnification lies for willful acts giving rise to that "liability" [see Corp. Code § 25505]. It is not clear, however, to what extent this statutorily imposed obligation for indemnification automatically follows the law of contractual indemnification. Under the rules of contractual indemnification, an indemnification for "liability" (as against indemnification for claims or demands, damages, or costs), arises when the plaintiff is held liable for payments; the plaintiff need not first have made payment before seeking indemnification [see Civ. Code § 2778(1), (2)]. The person indemnifying also is obliged to defend on the plaintiff's request [see Civ. Code § 2778(4)].

It has been recognized in this state that even though liability arises from a statute, the liability at the same time may be contractual in nature. Contracts may be made or evidenced by a statute and by conduct ensuing thereon [County of San Luis Obispo v. Gage (1903) 139 Cal. 398, 406, 73 P. 174] . Thus, a person who is a principal executive officer, director, or controlling person and who willfully violates the securities law, which violation results in the corporation's liability, may be said to be in an implied contractual relationship of indemnitor to the corporation by statute. For a full discussion of the various obligations of an indemnitor for liability under an express or implied contract of indemnity, including entitlement to attorney's fees and other defense costs, see Ch. 300, Indemnity and Contribution .

[5] Statute of Limitations

An action to enforce any right of indemnification created by Corp. Code § 25505 must be brought before the expiration of one year after final judgment based on the liability for which the right of indemnification exists [Corp. Code § 25508].

[6] California Points and Authorities

For forms of memoranda of points and authorities relating to implied indemnity, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 115, Indemnity and Contribution

[7] Decisions

Federal securities law [Section 10(b) of Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (15 U.S.C. § 78j(b)) and SEC Rule 10b-5] do not define right of contribution between persons liable or potentially liable as defendants in civil action; however, judicially created implied right of contribution approved. Musick, Peeler v. Wausau Ins. (1993) 508 U.S. 286, 113 S. Ct. 2085, 124 L. Ed. 2d 194, 200, 202-205

Right of contribution under federal securities law [Section 10(b) of Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (15 U.S.C. § 78j(b)) and SEC Rule 10b-5] is judicially created right requiring damages to be apportioned in accordance with defendants' relative culpability, rather than pro rata. Smith v. Mulvaney (9th Cir. 1987) 827 F.2d 558, 560-561

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 515.400, Paragraph 1 .]

2. [Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 515.400, Paragraph 2 .]

3. On _____ [date], defendant was _____ [specify position related to liability, e.g., a broker-dealer acting jointly with plaintiff as underwriter of the _____ (name) Corporation's new offering of 6 percent debentures by virtue of an express agreement between the corporation and plaintiff and defendant as its underwriters. A true copy of the agreement is attached as Exhibit A and incorporated by reference].

4. On _____ [that date or specify other date] plaintiff and defendant _____ [describe violation of securities law, e.g., mutually prepared, disseminated, and circulated a "tipster" sheet containing information to the effect that the price of the debentures was about to rise rapidly because of the market operations of certain persons related to those underwriters conducted for the purpose of raising the price of the securities. These acts of plaintiff and defendant were committed willfully and unlawfully in _____ (specify locality), California, to induce purchases of such securities].

5. On _____ [date], in an action entitled _____, filed in the _____ [name] Court, Action No. _____, judgment was rendered against plaintiff herein for commission of the above acts. [A _____ (true or certified) copy of that judgment is attached as Exhibit B and incorporated by reference.] As a result of such judgment, plaintiff herein became liable for the entire judgment rendered in the sum of $_____, consisting of _____ [describe, e.g., $_____ in damages, $_____ as costs of such action, plus interest at the legal rate].

6. Because defendant is similarly liable, plaintiff is entitled to contribution from defendant based on defendant's proportionate share of the adjudged total liability in the above-described action. This liability amounts to _____ [proportion, e.g., one-half] of plaintiff's liability, or the amount of $_____.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For contribution in the sum of $_____;

2. For interest on this sum at the legal rate;

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 515.400.]

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use in an action for contribution by a person who has been adjudged liable for violation of the civil liability provisions of the Corporate Securities Law of 1968 against another person similarly liable but who was not named in the previous action [see Corp. Code § 25505].

All persons liable under the civil liability provisions of the Corporate Securities Law of 1968 have a right of contribution against all other persons similarly liable, based on each person's proportionate share of the total liability [Corp. Code § 25505]. This complaint is a separate action for contribution [see Corp. Code § 25508, discussed under § 515.433[5]] available when defendant is alleged to be with plaintiff but was not named in the underlying action. If the parties are joint defendants, a motion for contribution should be made at the end of the original action when one defendant has overpaid his or her portion of the judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 875].

For further discussion, see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, § 14.07[3] (Matthew Bender).

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges:

- The act committed by plaintiff and defendant in violation of the securities law (Paragraph 4).
- The fact of plaintiff's liability for such act and the established amount thereof (Paragraph 5).
- The similar liability of defendant in a proportionate amount for which plaintiff is entitled to contribution (Paragraph 6) [see Corp. Code § 25505].

[4] Statute of Limitations

An action maintained to enforce any right of contribution created by Corp. Code § 25505 must be brought before the expiration of one year after final judgment based on the liability for which the right of contribution exists [Corp. Code § 25508].

AS A [(if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges that:

Plaintiff's violation of the securities law at issue herein, which gave rise to the liability for which plaintiff seeks contribution herein, was willful in nature in that _____ [describe willfulness, e.g., plaintiff was a director of the _____ (name of parent) Corporation, the securities of which plaintiff and defendant had mutually arranged to sell to _____ (name of subsidiary) Corporation; and plaintiff knew that _____ (name of parent) Corporation wholly owned the beneficial interest of the outstanding common stock of _____ (name of subsidiary) Corporation, rendering the transaction contemplated, and then consummated, a "wash sale"]. Defendant's own violation of the securities law in the same instance, however, was merely negligent in that _____ [describe negligence, e.g., he/she did not know, nor should have known, that the facts would give rise to the "wash sale" but, instead, reasonably relied on plaintiff, who initiated the illegal sale of the security interests in violation of the law].

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense may be used in an answer to a complaint for contribution based on the mutual liability of plaintiff and defendant for a violation of the securities law [see § 515.427], when defendant contends the plaintiff was a willful violator of the law whereas defendant was only guilty of a negligent breach [see Corp. Code § 25505].

[3] Willful Violator as Having No Contribution Right Against Negligent Violator

No person whose willful violation of any provision of the Corporate Securities Law of 1968 that has given rise to any liability has any right of contribution against any other person guilty merely of a negligent violation [Corp. Code §

25505].

Plaintiff alleges:

1. At all times herein mentioned plaintiff _____ [name of surety] was, and now is, a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of _____ [specify state], authorized to engage and engaged in the surety insurance business in the State of California, with its principal place of business at _____ [street address and if any, city], _____ County, California.

2. Defendant _____ [name] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a resident of _____County, California, residing at _____ [street address and if any, city]; defendant _____ [name] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a resident of _____ County, California, residing at _____ [street address and if any, city]; [continue to allege any additional defendants claiming against the bond].

[3. Plaintiff is ignorant of the true names and capacities of defendants sued herein as DOES I- _____, inclusive, and therefore sues these defendants by these fictitious names. Plaintiff will amend this complaint to allege their true names and capacities when ascertained. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of the fictitiously-named defendants has a claim on the bond herein described.]

4. At all times herein mentioned, _____ [name of principal] was [specify capacity if other than individual, e.g., a corporation duly organized under and by virtue of the laws of the State of _____ (specify state), and was] an issuer employing agents in California in connection with a _____ [security or transaction] qualified under Section _____ of the Corporations Code.

5. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff, as surety, and _____ [name of principal], as principal, made, executed, and delivered to the California Commissioner of Corporations, an issuer's bond No. _____ in the amount of $10,000, conditioned as required by law, and particularly by the provisions of Section 25216 of the Corporations Code of the State of California. The bond was in effect from _____ [date], until _____ [date], when it was canceled.

6. By the provisions of the bond and of Section 25216 of the Corporations Code, the total aggregate liability of plaintiff, as surety, under the bond is limited to the sum of $10,000.

7. Each of the defendants asserts a claim against plaintiff on the bond for loss or damage claimed to have been suffered as a result of the wrongful acts of _____ [name of principal], as a securities issuer, during the period the bond was in effect and as a result of the failure of _____ [name of principal] to honestly and faithfully perform its obligations and undertakings under the Corporate Securities Law of 1968. These claims are as follows: _____ [specify in separately lettered subparagraphs the name of each claimant together with the nature and amount of each claim].

8. Plaintiff cannot ascertain _____ [the validity of the defendants' respective claims or what part, if any, of the amount of plaintiff's obligation should be paid to each defendant or both if appropriate]. By reason of these multiple and potentially conflicting claims, plaintiff is in doubt as to which of the defendants, if _____ [either or any], it should pay and how the total amount of plaintiff's liability on the bond should be equitably distributed _____ [between or among] the defendants if the total number of valid claims exceeds the total amount of plaintiff's obligation.

9. Because of defendants' claims, plaintiff will suffer irreparable injury, possibly will be subject to judgments in excess of its obligation under the bond, and will be subjected to a multiplicity of actions and extensive litigation unless the defendants are required to interplead in this action and are restrained from instituting any other proceedings against plaintiff.

[10. Plaintiff has, at the time of filing this complaint, deposited with the clerk of this Court the sum of $10,000, which is the amount of its obligation under the bond.]

11. Plaintiff has incurred an obligation to pay reasonable attorney's fees and costs in this action.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. That defendants, and each of them, be ordered to interplead and litigate their respective claims against _____ [name of principal] and to the sums that plaintiff may be obligated to pay the defendants, or _____ [each or either] of them, under the bond;

2. That defendants, and each of them, be enjoined from instituting or prosecuting any action against plaintiff by reason of its issuer's bond furnished on behalf of _____ [name of principal], as principal, except to come into this action, and to set up their respective claims against said bond;

3. That [on delivering $10,000 to the clerk of this Court,] plaintiff be discharged from all liability to any of the defendants with respect to the bond;

4. For reasonable attorney's fees and costs, to be paid _____ [out of the sum heretofore deposited by plaintiff with the court clerk or subtracted from any amounts plaintiff may be required to pay on its obligation under the bond], as the Court may direct; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

CAUTION:

A complaint seeking a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunctive relief must either be verified or be accompanied by affidavits (or declarations under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) in support of the allegations of the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)]. If relying on a verified complaint instead of affidavits (or declarations), counsel must plead evidentiary facts that would entitle plaintiff to the relief sought [see E.H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1 ; San Juan G. Co. v. San Juan R. etc. Assn. (1939) 34 Cal. App. 2d 159, 174, 93 P.2d 582] . For discussion, a procedural checklist, and additional forms necessary to obtain a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction, see Ch. 314, Interpleader , and Ch. 303, Injunctions .

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by a surety on a securities issuer's statutory bond to require all claimants on the bond to interplead in the action so that the liability of the surety on the bond can be adjudicated in one action [Code Civ. Proc. § 386; Corp. Code § 25216(e)]. The bond is required to be in the amount of $10,000 and to stipulate that the issuer will comply with the provisions of Corp. Code § 25216 and with the rules and orders issued thereunder [Corp. Code § 25216(e); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.216.15].

Attorney's fees and costs may be allowed to the plaintiff in interpleader out of the amount in dispute that is deposited with the court [see Code Civ. Proc. § 386.6].

[3] Asserting Interpleader by Cross Complaint

If the surety has been made a defendant in an action brought on one or more of the claims, the surety may file a cross complaint in interpleader. If counsel modifies this form for use as a cross complaint, the cross complaint must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 386(b); for further discussion of interpleader, and proceeding by cross complaint, see Ch.

314, Interpleader].

[4] Statute of Limitations

No suit may be maintained to enforce any liability on the bond unless brought within two years after the contract of sale or other act on which the suit is based [Corp. Code § 25216(e)].

[5] Allegations

This complaint alleges:

- The plaintiff's capacity (Paragraph 1);
- The residence of the defendants (Paragraph 3); the principal's capacity as a securities issuer (Paragraph 4);
- The execution, amount, and conditions of the bond (Paragraphs 5, 6);
- Breach of the condition of the bond and multiple claims in excess of the amount of plaintiff's liability on the bond (Paragraphs 7, 8) [Corp. Code § 25216(e)];
- The plaintiff's exposure to multiple judgments in excess of its liability (Paragraph 9) [Code Civ. Proc. § 386(b)]; and
- Incurrence of attorney's fees and costs in interpleading (Paragraph 11) [Code Civ. Proc. § 386.6].

The form also includes optional allegations to include fictitious defendants (Paragraph 2) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 474; for further discussion, see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used] and to indicate that the amount of the liability on the bond has been deposited with the clerk of the court (Paragraph 10) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 386(c)].

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages Based on Breach of Contract [Civ. Code § 3300]--By Purchaser Against Stockbroker--Failure to Deliver Some or All of Shares Purchased

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	) Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name(s)],	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
[and DOES I through _____],	)	(Breach of Contract) Defendant(s).	)

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate. See § 515.400, Paragraph 2.]

2. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff purchased from defendant stockbroker _____ [quantity] shares of _____ [issuer and type of stock, e.g., Acme Typewriter Co. Class A common] stock for the sum of $_____. On that day plaintiff paid defendant stockbroker that sum, and defendant receipted for the sum in writing and agreed in writing to deliver those shares to plaintiff.

3. Thereafter, defendant stockbroker _____ [failed to deliver to plaintiff any of the agreed-upon shares or delivered to plaintiff only _____ (number) shares, and failed to deliver to plaintiff the balance of _____ (number) shares]. Defendant still refuses to deliver to plaintiff the [balance of] the agreed-on shares although demand has been made on defendant to deliver those shares to plaintiff. The reasonable market value of the [undelivered] shares on the date that defendant should have delivered them to plaintiff was $_____ per share, for a total value of $_____.

4. By reason of defendant's breach of his/her/its agreement with plaintiff, plaintiff has been damaged in the sum of $_____.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant as follows:

1. For general damages in the sum of $_____.

2. For costs of suit herein incurred.

3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

This complaint may be used in an action by a purchaser of stock against a stockbroker for damages based on breach of contract when the broker has failed to deliver to the purchaser some or all of the shares purchased.

For forms to use in actions involving conversion of securities by stockbrokers, see Ch. 150, Conversion .

For an overview of the licensing, regulation, and basic duties of securities broker-dealers under California and federal law, see § 515.13[4][a]. For detailed discussion of securities broker dealers, see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 13, Regulation of Agents, Broker-Dealers, and Investment Advisers (Matthew Bender).

[3] Burden of Proof

The burden of proof of a contract for purchase of stock is on the plaintiff purchaser [Bandoni v. Walston (1947) 79 Cal. App. 2d 178, 184-185, 179 P.2d 365] .

[4] Statute of Frauds

A contract or modification of a contract for the sale or purchase of a security is enforceable whether or not there is a writing signed or a record authenticated by the party against whom enforcement is sought, even if the contract or modification is not capable of performance within one year of its making [Com. Code § 8113 (effective January 1, 1997)].

[5] Statute of Limitations

The two-year statute of limitations under Code Civ. Proc. § 339(1) applies to actions against stockbrokers for their carelessness and negligence [Twomey v. Mitchum, Jones & Templeton, Inc. (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 690, 724, 69 Cal. Rptr. 222] .

[6] Decisions

Complaint charging defendant with exercising dominion over property inconsistent with ownership of plaintiff sets forth good cause of action for conversion when no special demurrer for uncertainty is interposed. Haigler v. Donnelly (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 674, 681, 117 P.2d 331

Stockbroker, having executed customer's order for purchase of securities, was required to deliver securities to customer on receipt of his advances for prices and his commissions whenever he called for them; customer was entitled to have securities maintained in situation in which they were available for delivery to him on tender and demand. Edwards v. Jenkins (1932) 214 Cal. 713, 720, 7 P.2d 702

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use in an action for damages or rescission of a purchase or sale of securities made by a broker-dealer who was unlicensed at the time of that purchase or sale. It may be used by either a purchaser or seller.

The cause of action set forth in this form is authorized by Corp. Code § 25501.5(a). For discussion of that section, see Broker-Dealer's Liability for Failure to Obtain License Before Sale, in the Introduction to this Part. For further coverage, see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 14, Civil Liabilities (Matthew Bender).

[3] Allegations

The complaint alleges:

- The purchase or sale by or to plaintiff of securities by defendant broker-dealer (Paragraph 3).

- The fact that defendant was required to be licensed but did not have a certificate in effect at the time of purchase or sale authorizing defendant to act in that capacity (Paragraph 4).

- If the securities are still owned, the fact that plaintiff rescinds the sale by proper tender of the securities or the consideration paid for the securities (Paragraph 5).

[4] Damages Recoverable

In addition to the damages recoverable under Corp. Code § 25501.5(a)(2)-(5), as set forth in this form, the court in its discretion may award reasonable attorney's fees and costs to a prevailing plaintiff under that section [Corp. Code § 25501.5(b)]. Furthermore, Code Civ. Proc. § 1029.8 provides that any unlicensed person who causes injury or damage to another person as a result of providing goods or performing services for which a license is required under Corp. Code § 25210 et seq. or Corp. Code § 25230 et seq. will be liable to the injured person for treble the amount of damages assessed in a civil action in any court having proper jurisdiction [Code Civ. Proc. § 1029.8(a)].

Plaintiff alleges:
FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION
(Failure to _____ [Register or Secure Exemption])

1. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 515.400, Paragraph 1.]

2. [Fictitious names of defendants, if appropriate. See § 515.400, Paragraph 2.]

3. On or about _____ [date], at _____, California, defendant offered [and sold] to plaintiff a franchise for _____ [name of franchise business], of which defendant was the _____ [franchisor or, if purchased from one holding an area franchise, subfranchisor (for the area of _____) or previous franchisee making the offer (and sale) on the account of _____ (name of franchisor or subfranchisor), the _____ (franchisor or subfranchisor)] for a fee of $_____. By the terms of the franchise agreement, plaintiff was given the right to engage in the business of _____ [offering or selling or distributing] _____ [specify goods or services involved] under a marketing plan or system prescribed in substantial part by defendant [_____ (on account of or in the name of or on behalf of) _____ (name of franchisor), the franchisor], whereby the operation of plaintiff's business pursuant to that plan or system would be substantially associated with the _____ [trademark or other commercial symbol] designated by _____ [defendant or the franchisor (or its affiliate)]. A true copy of the franchise agreement is attached as Exhibit A and incorporated by reference.
[EITHER, if defendant failed to register franchise:]

4. Defendant [willfully] failed to register the franchise offer with the Commissioner of Corporations at the time of the offer [and sale] to plaintiff [, and it has not been registered at any time prior to the filing of this complaint].
[OR, if defendant failed to comply with seasonal Franchiser exemption requirements]

4. At the time of the offer [and sale] of the franchise to plaintiff, defendant [willfully] had not complied properly with the exemption from registration of franchises applicable to large, seasoned franchisors in that _____ [specify, e.g., defendant (willfully) did not disclose to plaintiff in writing at least 48 hours prior to plaintiff's execution of a binding franchise agreement the information required by Section 31101(c) of the Corporations Code]; nor was defendant's franchise offering registered at that time [, or at any time subsequent thereto].

5. [If rescission is requested, allege Plaintiff herewith tenders to defendant all materials constituting the grant of the franchise, consisting of _____ (describe papers, e.g., an agreement entitled Franchise Agreement attached to this complaint as Exhibit A), and on which defendant has to date received $_____ as net profit].

6. [If damages are requested, allege Defendant's violation of the requirements of the Franchise Investment Law as described above proximately caused plaintiff damages in that _____ (describe damages)].
SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION
(Joint and Several Liability of Defendant _____[name]

7. Plaintiff incorporates by reference as though fully set forth below each and every allegation of Paragraphs 1-6 of the First Cause of Action.

8. Defendant _____ [name] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, _____ [allege appropriate capacity and residence of joint defendant as shown in see § 515.400, Paragraph 1] and was, at the time of the acts alleged herein, _____ [select one of the following:]
[EITHER]

a person who, directly or indirectly, controlled _____ [name of primary defendant] in that _____ [describe control, e.g., he/she held the largest single block of stock of that company, consisting of _____ percent of the common stock].

[OR]

a principal member of management of _____ [name of primary defendant] in that _____ [position, e.g., he/she was a partner in such firm or president or other principal executive officer or a director of that corporation or _____ (a person occupying a similar status to, or performing similar functions of, the foregoing) of that organization].
[OR]

an employee of _____ [name of primary defendant], who materially aided in the act or transaction constituting the violation hereinabove complained of, in that such defendant _____ [describe act, e.g., insisted on, and caused, the continuing sale of franchises during the time he/she was aware the Commissioner of Corporations had issued a hearing under the stop order on the sale hereinabove described].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant(s)[, and each of them,] as follows:

1. [If for rescission, add For rescission of the franchise agreement and restitution of the sum of $_____, which represents the fee paid to defendant as consideration for the franchise, with interest thereon at the legal rate, less the sum of $_____ received by plaintiff as net profit on that franchise];

2. [If for damages, add For $_____ as damages, with interest at the legal rate];

[Verification, if desired. See § 515.400.]

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use in an action for rescission or damages, or both, against a defendant who has offered or sold a franchise in violation of the provisions of the seasoned franchisor exemption [see Corp. Code § 31101] or the registration requirement [see Corp. Code §§ 31110, 31300]. For an allegation that may be incorporated in the foregoing form to allege a material misrepresentation in registration filings or disclosure materials required to be submitted in obtaining the seasoned franchisor exemption or in requesting approval of the franchise offer, see § 515.451.

For discussion of liability for violation of the requirement to properly secure a seasoned franchisor's exemption from registration or for violation of the requirement to register a franchise, see § 515.59.

The second cause of action identifies particular defendants as being either management principals of the defendant or personnel of the defendant who materially aided in the violation alleged in the First Cause of Action, and who, therefore, are jointly and severally liable with the defendant franchise-offeror [see Corp. Code § 31302]. For discussion of such liability, see § 515.61.

[3] Allegations

The First Cause of Action in the complaint alleges:

- The capacity and residence of the defendant (Paragraph 1).
- Fictitious names, if any, of defendants (Paragraph 2).
- The offer and sale of the franchise (Paragraph 3).
- The failure to either register the franchise offering or properly employ the procedures for the seasoned franchisor exemption (if rescission is re quested, the willfulness of the action should be alleged) (Paragraph 4).
- If rescission is requested, the tender of the franchise, with an accounting of income earned to date (Paragraph 5).
- If damages are requested either in lieu of or in addition to rescission, the damages proximately caused (Paragraph 6) [see Corp. Code § 31300].

The second cause of action alleges that the named defendant was a management principal of the defendant or one of defendant's personnel who materially aided in the violation, thus subjecting such defendant to joint and several liability with the defendant in the first cause of action [see Corp. Code § 31302].

"Willful" as used in Corp. Code § 31300 refers to act that is committed knowingly and intentionally; no showing of intent to violate law, evil motive, or purpose to gain undue advantage is required; good faith or reasonable care are not defenses to "willfulness" of violations of Corp. Code §§ 31101, 31110, and 31119. Dollar Systems v. Avcar Leasing Systems (9th Cir. 1989) 890 F.2d 165, 172-173

If offer or sale of franchise is made in California, choice of some other law in franchise agreement does not defeat franchisee's right to rescission. Dollar Systems v. Avcar Leasing Systems (9th Cir. 1989) 890 F.2d 165, 171 (applying California law)

Proof that principal knew that business was franchise, and referred to it as franchise, and that attorney had advised against franchising because of amount of paperwork required was sufficient to establish that failure to register was willful violation. *Neptune Society Corp. v. 1. Defendant made the sale by _____ [registering the franchise offer with the Commissioner of Corporations or exercising of the seasoned franchisor exemption from formal registration of the franchise offer with the Commissioner of Corporations]. In so doing, defendant _____ [if registration involved filed a _____ (notice or report) as part of an application for registration or, if exemption is involved provided defendant with a written disclosure in the form of _____ (describe, e.g., an offering brochure)], in which defendant willfully _____ [made an untrue statement of a material fact or omitted to state a material fact required to be stated therein]. The material fact, as it should have been stated, was that _____ [describe, e.g., any franchise could be terminated by _____ (year) if at least 50 franchises were not in operation at that time]; whereas defendant, by its _____ [statement or omission] [appearing at page _____] _____ [describe effect of fraudulent disclosure, e.g., made it appear that termination of any franchise was not dependent on the number of other franchises in operation at any time]. A true copy of defendant's _____ [application _____ (including the notice in issue or including the report in issue) or written disclosure to defendant] is attached as Exhibit _____ and incorporated by reference.

[2] Use of Form

This allegation may be substituted for Paragraph 4 of § 515.450 (complaint for rescission or damages arising out of sale of a franchise) if the violation consisted of a willful act of material misrepresentation made in filings with the Commissioner of Corporations [see Corp. Code § 31200] or in written disclosures made in connection with processing of the seasoned franchisor exemption [see Corp. Code §§ 31202, 31300].

§ 515.452 Allegation for Use in Complaint for Rescission or Damages Arising Out of Sale of Franchise--Materially Changed Offering of Which Commissioner of Corporations Was Not Notified [Corp. Code §§ 31123, 31200]

[1] FORM Allegation for Use in Complaint for Rescission or Damages Arising Out of Sale of Franchise--Materially Changed Offering of Which Commissioner of Corporations Was Not Notified [Corp. Code §§ 31123, 31200]

1. On or about _____ [date], defendant registered the offering of such franchise[, which was thereafter _____ (amended or renewed) on _____ (date),] with the Commissioner of Corporations. However, subsequent to the registration [and subsequent processing as described above], and prior to and during the time of the offer and sale of the franchise to plaintiff, there was a material change in the information contained in the registration filing as originally _____ [submitted or amended or renewed], in that _____ [describe material change, e.g., the franchise agreements no longer contained exclusive rights within the counties in which they were located], whereas [in the latest filing on record,] in the registered offering at the time of the sale _____ [describe matter before change, e.g., these exclusive county franchises were granted as a matter of course to each purchasing franchisee]. Nevertheless, at the time of the change and until the time of sale to plaintiff [and the date of this complaint], defendant [willfully] failed to give notification of such material change to the Commissioner of Corporations, as required by law, in an application to amend the registration.

[2] Use of Form

This allegation may be substituted for Paragraph 4 of § 515.450 when a franchisee seeks rescission or damages for sale of a franchise on the ground that a material change in the nature of a registered offering was made of which the Commissioner of Corporations was not properly notified [see Corp. Code § 31200; see also § 515.53[4]].

Corp. Code § 31200 provides that "[i]t is unlawful for any person willfully to make any untrue statement of a material fact in any application, notice or report filed with the commissioner under [The Franchise Investment Law], or willfully to omit to state in any such application, notice, or report any material fact which is required to be stated therein, or fail to notify the commissioner of any material change as required by [Corp. Code § 31123]." In declaring illegal the failure to notify the commissioner of a material change in a registered offering, the Legislature appears to have inadvertently omitted the word "to," and it may have inadvertently omitted the word "willfully." Since it is not otherwise clear that the Legislature intended to distinguish between the first two types of proscribed activities in Corp. Code § 31200 (willfully making an untrue statement of material fact and willfully omitting material fact) from a failure to notify the commissioner of a material change, the better practice appears to be to plead the willfulness of the failure to notify.

For a discussion of this type of offense as constituting liability for registration violations, see § 515.59.

§ 515.453 Affirmative Defense to Complaint for Failure to Register Franchise--Offer Was Exempt From Registration by Virtue of Proper Exercise of Seasoned Franchisor Exemption [Corp. Code § 31101]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense to Complaint for Failure to Register Franchise--Offer Was Exempt From Registration by Virtue of Proper Exercise of Seasoned Franchisor Exemption [Corp. Code § 31101]

AS A [(if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges that:

The franchise offer involved here was exempt from all registration requirements under the Franchise Investment Law; and defendant qualified the offer and sale for the exemption allowed by *Section 31101 of the Corporations Code*in the following manner:

(a) At the time of the offer, defendant satisfied the net worth requirement of Paragraph (a) of *Section 31101 of the Corporations Code*because _____ [describe how net worth qualification was met, e.g., defendant's net worth, as shown on its audited financial statement for the fiscal year ended December 31, 1990, was $12,546,000]. That financial statement is part of Exhibit "A" attached and incorporated by reference;

(b) At the time of the offer, defendant satisfied the experience requirement of Paragraph (b) of Section 31101 of the Corporations Code because _____ [describe how experience qualification was met, e.g., defendant has had over 300 franchisees continuously since 1971];

(c) Defendant satisfied the disclosure requirements of Paragraph (c) of Section 31101 of the Corporations Code by delivering to plaintiff on or about _____ [date], which was more than 10 business days prior to the execution by plaintiff of any binding franchise or other agreement and more than 10 business days prior to the receipt by defendant of any consideration paid by plaintiff, a written _____ [describe, e.g., offering circular], a true copy of which is attached, marked exhibit "A" and incorporated by reference, containing all the information required to be disclosed; and

(d) Prior to the offer and sale defendant satisfied requirement of Paragraph (d) of Section 31101 of the Corporations Code by filing Notice of Exemption Under Section 31101 Corporations Code with the Department of Corporations and paying the related fee. A true copy of that notice [and receipt] is attached, marked as Exhibit "B" and incorporated by reference.

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense is for use in an answer to a complaint for damages or rescission of a franchise agreement based on the failure to register a franchise offer [see § 515.450] when the defendant has complied with the requirements for exemption from registration set out for seasoned franchisors [see Corp. Code § 31101; see § 515.54[1]].

This defense would not be required in an answer to a complaint for rescission or damages based on the franchisor's failure to follow the seasoned franchisor exemption requirements (also included in see § 515.450). In that situation, denial of the allegation alleging the particular failure to qualify for the exemption [see, e.g., § 515.450, second alternative Paragraph 4] would be sufficient.

AS A [(if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges that:

The [area] franchise offer that is the subject of plaintiff's complaint herein was exempt from all registration requirements under the Franchise Investment Law in that the sale was for _____ [a franchise or an entire area franchise] of which defendant was the previous _____ [franchisee or, if area franchise, subfranchisor]. The sale was made strictly for defendant's own account, and was not effected in any way by or through the franchisor [, notwithstanding the fact that the franchisor had or exercised any right to approve or disapprove the particular transferee].

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense is for use in an answer to a complaint for damages or rescission of a franchise agreement based on the franchisor's failure to register a franchise offer [see § 515.450] when the defendant was a franchisee reselling a franchise, or a subfranchisor reselling a subfranchise, for his or her own account [*see Corp. [2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use in an action for damages caused a franchisee in purchasing a franchise in reliance on a material misrepresentation of the seller [see Corp. Code § 31201]. For a discussion of this form of liability, see § 515.60.

The Second Cause of Action is for joint and several liability of management principals of the defendant or personnel of the defendant who materially aided in the violation described in the first cause of action [see Corp. Code § 31302].

[3] Allegations

The first cause of action in this complaint alleges, in part, the following:

- The selling of a franchise by means of a material misrepresentation (Paragraph 4) [see Corp. Code § 31201].

- Plaintiff's detrimental reliance on the misrepresentation and lack of knowledge that the representation was false or misleading (Paragraph 5).

- Resulting damages to plaintiff (Paragraph 6) [see Corp. Code § 31301]

The Second Cause of Action alleges that the named defendant was a management principal of defendant or one of its personnel who materially aided in the violation, thus rendering that defendant jointly and severally liable for the offense described in the First Cause of Action [see Corp. Code § 31302].

Anyone who violates Corp. Code § 31201 by making a material misrepresentation is liable in damages to anyone who does not know or have cause to believe that the statement made was false or misleading and who, while relying on the statement, purchased a franchise [Corp. Code § 31301]. Since the liability of any violator of Corp. Code § 31201 is thus contingent on an aggrieved person's not knowing or having cause to believe that the misrepresentation was false or misleading, it appears that plaintiff should allege and prove such a lack of knowledge (see Paragraph 5). However, the Franchise Investment Law also provides that as an affirmative defense to the plaintiff's cause of action, defendant may prove that the plaintiff knew the facts concerning the untruth or omission [see Corp. Code § 31301; see § 515.456]. This affirmative defense evidently should be used if the defendant seeks to introduce evidence to show that the plaintiff actually knew what the true facts were. This defense would not have to be alleged if defendant seeks to introduce evidence to show only that plaintiff did not believe the misrepresentation since a denial of the allegation would seem to be sufficient.

[4] State Statutes

Misrepresentation in offers and sales of franchises. Corp. Code § 31201

Liability for misrepresentation in offers and sales. Corp. Code § 31301

Statute of limitations for misrepresentation in offers and sales. Corp. Code § 31303

[5] Decisions

Proof that principal materially aided act that was violation (failure to register) and knew that business was franchise, referred to it as franchise, and knew that attorney had advised regarding requirements of franchising was sufficient to impose personal liability. Neptune Society Corp. v. Longanecker (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 1233, 1247, 240 Cal. Rptr. 117

Cause of action for legal malpractice was stated by franchisees against attorneys who prepared false or misleading prospectus, knowing it would be shown to prospective franchisees and used to induce them to purchase franchises. Courtney v. Waring (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1434, 1443-1444, 237 Cal. Rptr. 233

Plaintiff not required to sue literal seller in order to establish liability of management and aiding personnel under Corp. Code § 31302; plaintiff only required to establish that seller could have been liable under Corp. Code § 31201 and 31301. Courtney v. Waring (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1434, 1441-1442, 237 Cal. Rptr. 233 (literal seller was bankrupt and had been dismissed from action)

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 41.30(b)(2)] to Complaint for Material Misrepresentation--Plaintiff Knew of Facts Concerning Misrepresentation [Corp. Code §§ 31300, 31301]

AS A [(if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges that:

Plaintiff knew the facts concerning the alleged _____ [untruth or omission] ascribed to defendant's _____ [registration filings or disclosure materials or communication] in connection with the sale of the described franchise to plaintiff, in that _____ [describe, e.g., prior to accepting the franchise offer plaintiff had been reliably informed of defendant's training program for franchisees, including the fact that new franchisees are required to train for a six-month period during which a special manager would conduct the franchisee's business for the fees alleged in plaintiff's complaint].

CAUTION:

A federal court in affirming a judgment for rescission and damages has interpreted Corp. Code § 31300 to mean that the defenses enumerated in that section are not available in the case of violations of Corp. Code § 31101, 31110, or 31119, but only in the case of violations of Corp. Code § 31200 or 31202 [Dollar Systems v. Avcar Leasing Systems (9th Cir. 1989) 890 F.2d 165, 172 ; see discussion in § 515.457].

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense is for use in an answer to a complaint for damages or for rescission of a franchise agreement based on a material misrepresentation made in a franchise registration filing or a required seasoned franchisor exemption disclosure [see §§ 515.450, 515.451] or in connection with the sale of a franchise [see § 515.455] when the plaintiff knew the facts concerning the untrue representation or omission [see Corp. Code §§ 31300, 31301]. For discussions of this defense, see §§ 515.59[3] and 515.60[3].

[3] Defense of Plaintiff's Knowledge as to Misrepresented Facts

The defendant is not liable for a material misrepresentation made in any filings with the commissioner, in disclosures required for obtaining a seasoned franchisor exemption, or in offers and sales of franchises, if he or she is able to prove that the plaintiff knew the facts concerning the untruth or omission [Corp. Code §§ 31300, 31301]. It appears that this defense should be raised in the answer as new matter, since denial of an allegation in the complaint that the plaintiff did not know the representation was false is not sufficient to show that plaintiff knew what the true facts were.

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)] to Complaint for Material Misrepresentation--Defendant's Exercise of Care as to, and Lack of Knowledge of, Misrepresentation [Corp. Code §§ 31300, 31301]
[EITHER]

AS A [(if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges that:

Defendant exercised reasonable care with respect to the making of the statements described in plaintiff's complaint concerning the _____ [registration filings or disclosure materials or offer and sale to plaintiff of the franchise], in that _____ [describe, e.g., defendant cross checked the information behind the representations from diverse sources that should have known the facts independently of one another]. As a result, defendant did not know of the alleged _____ [untruth or omission].

If the defendant had exercised reasonable care with respect to the making of the statements described in the complaint in connection with the _____ [registration filings or disclosure materials or offer and sale to plaintiff of the franchise], defendant would not have known of the alleged _____ [untruth or omission] because _____ [explain, e.g., the error in accounting originated with the independent accounting firm that drafted the financial statements for the franchisor in this matter, and was it carried forward from several years before in the accounting firm's annual reporting, so that no one could have discovered the inaccuracy from the financial information itself].

CAUTION:
A federal court in affirming a judgment for rescission and damages has interpreted Corp. Code § 31300 to mean that the "reasonable care defense" or defendant's lack of knowledge is not available in the case of violations of Corp. Code § 31101, 31110, or 31119, but that this defense is limited to violations of Corp. Code § 31200 or 31202 [Dollar Systems v. Avcar Leasing Systems (9th Cir. 1989) 890 F.2d 165, 172] .

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense is for use in an answer to a complaint for damages or rescission of a franchise agreement based on a material misrepresentation made in a franchise registration filing or a required seasoned franchisor exemption disclosure [see §§ 515.450, 515.451] or in connection with the sale of a franchise [see § 515.455] when the defendant in the exercise of reasonable care did not know, or would not have known, of the untruth or omission [see Corp. Code §§ 31300, 31301]. For discussions of this defense, see §§ 515.59[4] and 515.60[3].

The specific violations involved in the case referred to in the CAUTION, above [Dollar Systems v. Avcar Leasing Systems (9th Cir. 1989) 890 F.2d 165, 172] , were:

- The franchisor's failure to register the offering.

- Failure to file a notice of exemption.

- Failure to disclose certain actions against it and its principals, some of which were specifically required by 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.114.1 to be disclosed.

- Failure of the disclosure to contain certain financial information required by 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 310.111.2.

Defendant's argument focused on whether its conduct was willful within the meaning of Corp. Code § 31300. The court's statement that the defenses enumerated in Corp. Code § 31300 are only available in cases involving violations of Corp. Code §§ 31200 and 31202 was made in the context of reasoning that a willful violation did not require a finding that defendant knew it was violating the law. The fact that it knew that it had not registered or filed a notice of exemption and the fact that it knew what it did not disclose were sufficient [Dollar Systems v. Avcar Leasing Systems (9th Cir. 1989) 890 F.2d 165, 172] . Thus, the defense provided by this form may not be available to the extent that the material misrepresentations involve the failure to disclose items required to be disclosed by Corp. Code §§ 31101 or 31119 or related regulations.

1. Offer And Sale Under The Franchise Investment Law

45-515 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 515.459

§ 515.459 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)] to Complaint for Rescission of Franchise Agreement or for Damages Based on Registration Violation or Misrepresentation--Defendant Sent Approved Written Notice of Violation of Franchise Investment Law [Corp. Code §§ 31303, 31304]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)] to Complaint for Rescission of Franchise Agreement or for Damages Based on Registration Violation or Misrepresentation--Defendant Sent Approved Written Notice of Violation of Franchise Investment Law [Corp. Code §§ 31303, 31304]

AS A [(if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges that:

More than 90 days prior to commencement of the action herein, and on or about _____ [date], _____ [defendant or specify other party] delivered to plaintiff a written notice disclosing the violation of the Franchise Investment Law complained of herein, stating in effect that _____ [give substance of notice, e.g., defendant as franchisor had failed to register the franchise offering under which the sale of the franchise had been made to plaintiff through an improper attempt to exercise the seasoned franchisor exemption from registration]. The form of this notice had first been approved by the Commissioner of Corporations. A true copy of this notice is attached as Exhibit 1 and incorporated by reference.

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense based on a special statute of limitations may be used in an answer to a complaint for damages or rescission of a franchise agreement based on a violation under the Franchise Investment Law pertaining to registration, failure to obtain a seasoned franchisor exemption, or to a misrepresentation in the offer or sale of a franchise. The defendant first must have delivered to the plaintiff an officially approved form of notice advising plaintiff of a violation of Corp. Code §§ 31110 (registration requirement), 31200 (misrepresentation in filed documents), 31201 (misrepresentation in a franchise transaction), or 31202 (misrepresentation in required exemption disclosures), after which the plaintiff must have failed to bring the action within 90 days [see Corp. Code §§ 31303, 31304]. For discussions of the limitations on these particular kinds of actions, see §§ 515.59[2] and 515.60[2].

§ 515.460 Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)] to Complaint for Damages or Rescission of Franchise Agreement Based on Registration or Exemption Violation or Misrepresentation--Defendant's Acts Regarding Franchise in Conformity With Written Opinion of Commissioner of Corporations or Attorney General [Corp. Code § 31511]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)] to Complaint for Damages or Rescission of Franchise Agreement Based on Registration or Exemption Violation or Misrepresentation--Defendant's Acts Regarding Franchise in Conformity With Written Opinion of Commissioner of Corporations or Attorney General [Corp. Code § 31511]

AS A [(if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges that:

The matters complained of herein and attributed to defendant as wrongfully _____ [done or omitted] were _____ [performed or abstained from] in good faith by defendant in conformity with _____ [a rule or the contents of a form or a permit or if promulgated by Commissioner of Corporations an order or promulgated by Commissioner of Corporations or Attorney General a written interpretive opinion] of the _____ [Commissioner of Corporations or Attorney General] of the State of California, as issued on _____ [date], entitled _____, and _____ [contained at _____ (cite source) or a true copy of which is attached as Exhibit 1 and incorporated by reference]. This _____ [specify official issuance, e.g., order] was to the effect that _____ [describe relevant portion]. [The opinion had been requested by defendant on _____ [date], in respect to the matters herein involved and had been issued expressly for defendant's particular situation.]

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense is for use in an answer to a complaint for damages or rescission of a franchise agreement based on any violation of the Franchise Investment Law when the defendant's acts or omissions conformed to the official guidelines of the Commissioner of Corporations or the Attorney General [see Corp. Code § 31511].

[3] Reliance on Rule, Form, Order, or Opinion

There is no liability under the Franchise Investment Law for any act done or omitted in good-faith conformity with either (1) any rule, form, order, or written interpretive opinion of the Commissioner of Corporations or (2) any opinion of the Attorney General. Such reliance constitutes a defense even if the rule, form, order, or written interpretive opinion is later amended, rescinded, or determined by judicial or other authority to be invalid for any reason [Corp. Code § 31511]. Although Corp. Code § 31511 includes "any opinion of the Attorney General," it is unlikely that an informal, oral opinion, such as an informal conversation with a deputy Attorney General, is sufficient.

Defendant _____ [name of answering joint defendant] had no _____ [knowledge or reasonable grounds to believe in the existence] of the facts alleged in the complaint, and therefore is not liable for any violation in the transaction between defendant _____ [name of primary defendant] and plaintiff by means of a _____ [material misrepresentation or sale to plaintiff of a franchise not appropriately processed before the Commissioner of Corporations] in that _____ [explain lack of knowledge or grounds for reasonable belief].

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense may be used in an answer to a complaint for damages or rescission of a franchise agreement based on a violation of the Franchise Investment Law [see §§ 515.450, 515.455, Second Cause of Action] in which the defendant is alleged to be jointly and severally liable with the primary defendant but where the defendant had no knowledge or basis for belief in the facts behind the cause of action [*see Corp. [2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use in an action by a franchisee to enjoin the franchisor from interfering with the franchisee's right to engage in any sort of trade association activity and to obtain damages for that interference [see Corp. Code § 31302.5(a)]. For a discussion of the franchisee's rights of association, see § 515.62.

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges, in part, the following:

- Facts showing that show that venue is in the county in which plaintiff's franchise is located when the county is not defendant's residence (Paragraph 3) [see Corp. Code § 31302.5(a)].

- Defendant's interference with the plaintiff's right to free association (Paragraph 5) [see Corp. Code § 31220].

- Plaintiff's present trade association activity, if preliminary relief is sought (Paragraph 6).

- Damages resulting from defendant's actions, if damages are sought (Paragraph 7).

- Reasonable attorney's fees (Paragraph 8) [see Corp. Code § 31302.5(a)].

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [If franchise business was not operated in California, add: Plaintiff is, and at all times mentioned herein was, domiciled in and a resident of _____ County, California (or allege other capacity and residence of plaintiff).

2. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 515.400, Paragraph 1 .]

3. [Fictitious names of defendants, if appropriate. See § 515.400, Paragraph 2 .]

4. On or about _____ [date], defendant as franchisor of _____ [name of business] granted to plaintiff a franchise to conduct business of such enterprise at _____ [specify location in California if plaintiff not otherwise domiciled here]. A true copy of the franchise agreement is attached as Exhibit A and incorporated by reference. Plaintiff continuously conducted the business of the franchise from that time until the time of the event described herein [through (successive) renewal(s) of the franchise agreement].

5. On or about _____, [date], defendant _____ [terminated or refused to renew] the franchise and thereafter refused to supply and service plaintiff's business as called for under the franchise agreement [and ordered plaintiff off the premises leased to plaintiff under the franchise arrangement]. That _____[termination or nonrenewal] was improper under _____ Business and Professions Code Section in that _____ [specify reasons; if termination, e.g., good cause did not exist for the termination or defendant failed to send plaintiff proper notice of termination, affording a reasonable opportunity to cure any cited default or no cause existed for immediate termination without opportunity to cure default or if nonrenewal, e.g., defendant failed to provide plaintiff with proper notice 180 days prior to the intended nonrenewal of the franchise or no statutory ground existed which permitted defendant to refuse to renew the franchise].

6. In _____ [terminating or failing to renew] the franchise in accordance with the provisions of the Franchise Relations Act, Business and Professions Code Sections 20000-20041, defendant was obligated but failed to [properly] offer to repurchase from plaintiff the resalable current inventory of the franchise that met defendant's then present standards that was held for use or sale in plaintiff's business. The fair repurchase price of the inventory would have been $_____, representing _____ [the fair wholesale market value thereof or the price paid by plaintiff therefor], less the amount of $_____ as sums owing defendant or subsidiaries thereof by plaintiff.

7. In addition, plaintiff has suffered damages resulting from defendant's improper _____ [termination or nonrenewal] of the franchise by _____ [specify, e.g., having to store the inventory and close down the business] in the amount of $_____.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For damages in the amount of $_____;

2. For interest thereon at the legal rate from _____ [date];

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.
[Verification, if desired. See § 515.400.]

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use in an action by a franchisee for the type of relief available under the Franchise Relations Act from a franchisor who improperly has terminated or failed to renew an existing franchise [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 20035]. For discussions of proper grounds and procedure for termination or nonrenewal of franchise, and a franchisor's obligations on failure to comply, see § 518.80 et seq.

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges, in part:

- Plaintiff's domicile in California (if franchise was not conducted here) (Paragraph 1) [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 20015].

- The existence of the franchise contract (Paragraph 4).

- Improper termination or nonrenewal of the franchise by defendant (Paragraph 5).

- Defendant's failure to repurchase plaintiff's inventory, and the amount owing therefor (Paragraph 6) [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 20035].

- Any consequential damages resulting from defendant's act (Paragraph 7) [see Civ. Code § 3300].

[4] Remedy Under Franchise Relations Act

The Franchise Relations Act does not explicitly provide a form of civil liability to a franchisee if a franchisor violates the provisions of the act. Instead, the act merely provides that the failure of a franchisor to terminate [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 20020] or to fail to renew [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 20025] a franchise, other than in accordance with the legislative requirements, obligates the franchisor to make a prescribed type of repurchase offer to the franchisee [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 20035, discussed in § 515.87]. Bus. & Prof. Code § 20035 indirectly refers to this obligation as a "liability" on the franchisor's part since, as a limitation on the items required to be covered in the repurchase offer, the statute states that the franchisor "shall not be liable" for offering to buy certain personalized items of the franchisee. The act further provides that, except as expressly provided in the act, nothing in the legislation abrogates the right of a franchisee "to sue under any other law" [Bus. & Prof. Code § 20037].

The repurchase of inventory is not the exclusive remedy for wrongful termination of a franchise pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 20035, and a franchisee can pursue its breach of contract claim against a franchisor for wrongful termination of a franchise agreement [JRS Prods., Inc. v. Matsushita Elec. Corp. of Am. (2004) 115 Cal. App. 4th 168, 178, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 840 (complaint for termination of franchise without good cause sounds in contract, not tort, and therefore awards of compensatory and punitive damage for intentional interference with prospective economic advantage are impermissible)].

The Franchise Relations Act thus has given the franchisor two alternatives: either the franchisor complies with the provisions as to termination or nonrenewal of franchises or else the franchisor consequently is bound by the particular terms of a repurchase offer as imposed by statute. If the franchisor fails to make the binding offer, the franchisee should be able to sue for any damages resulting from the failure of the franchisor to make the statutory purchase offer.

[5] State Statutes

Liability to make repurchase offer for improper termination or nonrenewal of franchise. Bus. & Prof. Code § 20035

[6] Decisions

Repurchase of inventory is not exclusive remedy for wrongful termination of franchise pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 20035; plaintiff can pursue breach of contract claim against franchisor for wrongful termination of franchise agreement. JRS Prods., Inc. v. Matsushita Elec. Corp. of Am. (2004) 115 Cal. App. 4th 168, 178, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 840

Franchisor that wrongfully terminated franchise without good cause was liable to franchisee for breach of contract, not intentional interference with prospective economic advantage; essential nature of claim was breach of contract, which cannot be transmuted into tort liability by claim that breach interfered with franchisee's business. JRS Prods., Inc. v. Matsushita Elec. Corp. of Am. (2004) 115 Cal. App. 4th 168, 183, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 840

Distributorship agreement is governed by Com. Code § 2207(2), so that attorney's fee provisions in invoices between manufacturer and distributor are additional term of dealership agreement. Boyd v. Oscar Fisher Co. (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 368, 378-379, 258 Cal. Rptr. 473

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use in an action for treble damages against a petroleum products franchisor who has required the plaintiff franchisee to purchase the franchisor's automotive accessories in violation of the provisions of Bus. & Prof.

Code § 21140.2. For discussion of ability of franchisees to purchase accessories anywhere, see the discussion in § 515.114[5].

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges, in part:

- The granting of the petroleum products franchise (Paragraph 3).

- Defendant's requirement that plaintiff purchase tie-in automotive accessories along with its petroleum products (Paragraph 4) [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.2].

- Damages resulting from defendant's act in violation of trade practice regulation, for which plaintiff is entitled to treble damages (Paragraph 5).

- Reasonable attorney's fees (Paragraph 6) [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.4].

[4] State Statutes

Improper tie-in requirements in petroleum products franchises. Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.2

Liability, damages, venue, and limitations for improper tie-in requirement. Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.4

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 515.400, Paragraph 1.]

2. [Fictitious names of defendants, if appropriate. See § 515.400, Paragraph 2.]

3. On or about _____ [date], _____ [name], plaintiff's predecessor-in-interest, received from defendant as franchisor of _____ [name of business], a franchise to carry and sell petroleum products of such defendant at _____ [location] for a term of _____ [duration]. A true copy of the franchise agreement is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.

4. On or about _____ [date], _____ [name of predecessor] designated plaintiff, who was his/her _____ [spouse or adult child], as his/her successor in interest on a form provided by defendant and delivered to defendant after it was completed. [_____ (At the same time or On or about _____ (date)), _____ (name of predecessor) also deposited with defendant(, at the latter's request,) the amount of $_____ as a sum estimated to be necessary to compensate defendant for rent for a period of 21 days after _____'s (name of predecessor) death, and also, at the defendant's request, _____ (describe compliance with defendant's other requirements for designation which were necessary for the discharge or performance of other franchise obligations, such as insurance provisions).]

5. On or about _____ [date], _____ [name of predecessor] died. On or about _____ [date], and within 21 days of his/her death, plaintiff gave written notice to defendant of plaintiff's election to assume and operate the franchise. [In response to defendant's request, this notice fully described plaintiff's business background and credit-worthy qualifications.] Plaintiff satisfied the reasonable qualifications defendant then required of franchise dealers for the operation of service stations. A true copy of that notice is attached as Exhibit B and incorporated by reference.

6. On or about _____ [date], within three business days after giving defendant the above-described notice, plaintiff wrote to defendant, offering to assume the franchise [and indicating his/her readiness to commence operation of the franchise within _____ (10 or specify shorter time) days after plaintiff assumed the franchise]. A true copy of that offer is attached as Exhibit C and incorporated by reference.

7. However, defendant, on or about _____ [date], rejected plaintiff's bid to assume operation of the franchise and take over the franchise as the successor in interest of _____ [name of predecessor], and ever since has prevented plaintiff from assuming operation of the franchise [but has _____ (itself assumed the operation of the franchise or granted the franchise to a third party, who has assumed the operation thereof or describe other)].

8. Plaintiff has been damaged by the refusal of defendant to allow assumption of the franchise as successor in interest, in that _____ [specify, e.g., plaintiff, who always comanaged the franchise with _____ (name of predecessor), would have been able to continue to earn the type of profit the franchise had been producing at a continual and steady growth rate of $_____ for the ensuing _____ (number) years remaining under the franchise, an amount which the franchise has continued to earn to the date of the filing of this complaint]. [Additionally, plaintiff has been damaged in that _____ (describe foreseeably consequential damages).]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For damages in the amount of $_____;

[2. For consequential damages in the amount of $_____;]

3. For interest at the legal rate [on all amounts of damages in the form of earnings on profits that plaintiff would have earned had he/she been permitted to assume operation of the franchise];

4. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use in an action by a plaintiff who was designated as the successor in interest of a petroleum products franchise against a defendant franchisor who wrongfully failed to honor the plaintiff's right to assume operation of the business [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.6(l)]. For a discussion of the rights of a successor in interest who was designated by a predecessor franchisee to assume the franchise after the predecessor died, see the discussion in § 515.115.

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges, in part:

- The grant of the original franchise to a predecessor and the terms of the franchise (Paragraph 3).

- The predecessor's proper designation of plaintiff as the successor in interest (Paragraph 4) [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.6(a)-(c), (e)].

- Plaintiff's notification to defendant of his or her election to assume and operate the franchise (Paragraph 5).

- Plaintiff's offer to assume the business after making the election (Paragraph 6) [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.6(d)].

- Defendant's rejection of plaintiff's bid and refusal to allow plaintiff's assumption of the franchise (Paragraph 7).

- The damages resulting from defendant's act (Para graph 8) [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.6(l) (providing that the damages that may be recovered are those specified in Civ. Code § 3300 for breach of contract)].

[4] State Statutes

Franchisee's right to designate successor in interest, and latter's ability to assume franchise on predecessor's demise. Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.6

Liability in damages and limitations period for failure to comply with successor in interest provisions. Bus. & Prof. Code § 21140.6(l)

[2] Use of Form

This protest form is for use in a proceeding on a protest before the New Motor Vehicle Board brought by a new motor vehicle dealer against its franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor, who intends to establish an additional dealership or satellite warranty facility, or to relocate an existing one [see Veh. Code § 3062]. For a discussion of a protest on these grounds, see the discussion §§ 515.136 and 515.134.

Under a franchise agreement that grants the dealer an exclusive, nonmodifiable trading area beyond its statutory "relevant market area," the establishment of another dealership within that exclusive trading area may constitute a modification of the franchise that would entitle the dealer to protest under Veh. Code § 3060 [Ri-Joyce, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 445, 456, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 546 ; see discussion in § 515.134].

[3] Allegations

This protest alleges the following:

- Respondent's name, address, and status as licensee (Paragraph 1) [see 13 Cal. Code Reg. § 595].

- Mailing address and identifying data of the protestant and of the protestant's attorney, if any (Paragraph 2) [see 13 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 585(d), 595].

- Status of protestant as franchisee of respondent franchisor (Paragraph 3).

- Respondent's notification to protestant of intent to establish or relocate dealership or satellite warranty facility (Paragraph 4).

- Existence of good cause for not allowing respondent to establish or relocate dealership or satellite warranty facility (Paragraph 5) [see Veh. Code §§ 3062, 3063; 13 Cal. Code Reg. § 585(b)].

- Listing of exhibits supporting evidence (Paragraph 6) [see 13 Cal. Code Reg. § 585(c)].

- Protestant's desire to appear or not to appear before the board (Paragraph 7) [see 13 Cal. Code Reg. § 585(e)].

- Estimate of the number of days required to complete hearing (Paragraph 8) [see 13 Cal. Code Reg. § 585(f)].

- Request for a prehearing conference if one is desired (Paragraph 9) [see 13 Cal. Code Reg. § 585(g)].

The protest concludes with the signatures of both the protestant and the protestant's attorney [see 13 Cal. Code Reg. § 597].

[4] Protest Preparation--Drafting and Serving Protest

Protests must be written and signed by the franchisee or the franchisee's attorney [13 Cal. Code Reg. § 583]. A copy must be served on the franchisor, and proof of such service must accompany the official filing [13 Cal. Code Reg. § 584]. The protest should set forth in clear and concise language the franchisee's factual contentions. The franchisee may submit, as exhibits to the protest, photographic, documentary, or similar physical evidence relevant to the matter in support of the protest [13 Cal. Code Reg. § 585(c)]. The exhibits should be described sufficiently to identify them and to explain their relevancy [13 Cal. Code Reg. § 585(c)]. The protest should clearly reflect the name, mailing address, and telephone number of the franchisee and of any attorney or authorized agent. All correspondence with the franchisee and notices to the franchisee thereafter must be addressed to that address, if the franchisee represents himself or herself, or to the address of the attorney or agent, if the franchisee is represented by an attorney or agent. [13 Cal. Code Reg. § 585(d)]. The franchisee should indicate whether or not he or she desires to appear before the board [13 Cal. Code Reg. § 585(e)].

The board has no preprinted forms for protests. Protests should be prepared in the manner of any type of document submitted to the board [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 583; see 13 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 593-598].

[5] Filing Protest

Protests involving entering into a franchise establishing an additional dealer ship or a satellite warranty facility, or relocating an existing one have to be filed, unless an extension is otherwise granted on request, within 20 days of receiving notice of such an action, or within 20 days after the end of any appeal procedure the franchisor has provided [Veh. Code § 3062(a)]. If, within this time, the franchisee files with the board a request for additional time to file, an additional 10 days may be granted on a showing of good cause [Veh. Code § 3062(a)]. Filing occurs on the date the board's executive director receives the protest or on the date of its certified or registered mailing [13 Cal. Code Reg. § 585(a)]. The franchisee should set forth in the protest an estimate of the number of days required to complete the hearing, and a request for a prehearing conference, if desired [13 Cal. Code Reg. § 585(f), (g)].

[6] Respondent's Notice of Appearance

The respondent must file a notice of appearance with the board within 15 days of receipt of the protest. Failure to file a timely notice of appearance will result in the proceedings being suspended until the notice if filed. The notice must contain language indicating whether the party desires to appear at the hearing for purposes of submitting evidence and oral argument, and whether the respondent contends that the protest was submitted in a timely manner [13 Cal. Code Reg. § 585.1].

[8] Decisions

When New Motor Vehicle Board had subject matter jurisdiction over dispute but lacked authority to grant any remedy when franchise termination was due to discontinuation of product line, Board had implied authority to dismiss franchisee's protest. Duarte & Witting, Inc. v. New Motor Vehicle Board (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 626, 637, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 501

Protest filed one year after termination was timely when notice of termination did not state reason for termination and was not sent to Board but only to dealer. British Motor Car Distributors, Ltd. v. New Motor Vehicle Bd. (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 81, 93-94, 239 Cal. Rptr. 280

Dealer's claim that manufacturer breached implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing by refusing to supply new model motorcycle and by establishing new dealerships in same geographic area to handle that model is claim regarding modification of franchise agreement; thus, dealer was required to exhaust administrative remedies before New Motor Vehicle Board. Yamaha Motor Corp. v. Superior Court (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 1232, 1238-1242, 230 Cal. Rptr. 382

Manufacturer's failure to give notice of its modification and establishment of new franchise as required by Veh. Code §§ 3060, 3062 is not waiver of its right to insist that dealer exhaust administrative remedies; purpose of notice is to establish time within which dealer may protest; when no notice is filed, no time limit is placed on dealer's right to protest. Yamaha Motor Corp. v. Superior Court (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 1232, 1239-1240, 230 Cal. Rptr. 382

Manufacturer's failure to give notice of its modification and establishment of new franchise as required by Veh. Code §§ 3060, 3062 does not divest New Motor Vehicle Board of jurisdiction to determine dealer's protest. Yamaha Motor Corp. v. Superior Court (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 1232, 1240, 230 Cal. Rptr. 382

Plaintiffs allege:

1. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 515.400, Paragraph 1.]

2. [Fictitious names of defendants, if appropriate. See § 515.400, Paragraph 2.]

3. On or about _____ [date], defendant granted to _____ [name of transferor], a dealership to conduct the business of _____ [name of franchisor] at _____ [location]. A true copy of the dealership contract is attached as Exhibit A and incorporated by reference. From such time and to the time of the filing of this complaint plaintiff dealer has been operating such franchise.

4. On or about _____ [date], _____ [name of transferor] and _____ [name of transferee] agreed to transfer the dealership to _____ [name of transferee]. On or about _____ [date], both plaintiffs applied to defendant for consent to the transfer of the dealership as agreed to between the plaintiffs in compliance with the requirements of the dealership contract that defendant's prior written consent be obtained for any such transfer. On or about _____ [date], defendant _____ [refused to consent to that transfer or refused and failed to further entertain the application for consent to transfer] and ever since has failed and refused to consent to transfer as requested by the plaintiffs.

5. Defendant has so failed and refused to consent to transfer of the dealership herein because of _____'s [name of transferee] _____ [specify characteristic(s) listed or defined in Civ. Code § 51(b),(e): sex, race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, disability, medical condition, marital status, or sexual orientation]. [Defendant further threatens to _____ (terminate or refuse to renew) _____'s (name of transferor) dealership in order to prevent or repress the possibility of the transfer.] [_____ (Name of transferee) has remained at all times herein mentioned qualified in every respect according to defendant's current standards for prospective dealers and ready to take transfer of the dealership.]

6. Each plaintiff will suffer great and irreparable injury without adequate compensation at law unless defendant is restrained from acting out of discrimination as herein alleged in _____ [specify, e.g., _____ (terminating or failing to renew) plaintiff dealer's dealership, and in] refusing to consent to the transfer of the dealership to _____ [name of prospective dealer].

7. Each of the plaintiffs has or will have suffered damages by reason of defendant's refusal to consent to the transfer requested by plaintiffs in that _____ [specify, e.g., plaintiff _____ (name of transferor) has expended time and funds on acquiring a transferee and will be required to expend further funds to acquire a replacement transferee. He/She would have realized $_____ from the transfer of the franchise. Plaintiff _____ (name of transferee) has spent time and funds in acquiring this franchise opportunity and will have to spend further time and funds to acquire a replacement. He/She would have realized a franchise opportunity of future earnings and of present value over the transfer price of approximately $_____]. _____ [The total amount of these damages is $_____ or Plaintiffs, and each of them, are unable to determine the exact amount of these damages at this time, but will amend this complaint to state these damages when the exact amount is ascertained].

8. [Attorney's fees. See § 515.500, Paragraph 6.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiffs, and each of them, pray judgment as follows:

1. For a permanent injunction prohibiting defendant from acting on the basis of the discrimination alleged herein [in terminating or failing to renew the dealership of plaintiff _____ (name of transferor)] and in refusing to consent to the transfer of the dealership to plaintiff _____ [name of transferee];

2. For damages as a result of defendant's actions in preventing plaintiff _____ [name of transferor] and plaintiff _____ [name of transferee] dealer from consummating transfer of the dealership, and for further damages for losses therefrom if injunctive relief is not awarded to either plaintiff [, and for the termination or nonrenewal of plaintiff former dealers' dealerships on the basis of bias and prejudice as herein alleged].

3. For reasonable attorney's fees [in the amount of $_____];

4. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[Verification, if desired. See § 515.400.]

CAUTION:
If preliminary and permanent injunctions are sought in the foregoing complaint, counsel should either file affidavits (or declarations under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) in support of the allegations in the complaint or take care to plead evidentiary facts which would entitle plaintiff to the relief sought [see E. H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1 ; San Juan Gold Co. v. San Juan Ridge Mut. Water Ass'n (1939) 34 Cal. App. 2d 159, 174, 93 P.2d 582] and have the complaint verified [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527].

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use in an action by a franchisee and a prospective franchisee against a dealership grantor who has refused to permit the transfer of the franchise because of any characteristic listed or defined in Civ. Code § 51(b) or (e); that is, sex, race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, disability, medical condition, marital status, or sexual orientation (including a perception that a person has, or is associated with someone who has or is perceived to have, any particular characteristic or characteristics within the listed categories) [see Civ. Code § 85]. The complaint is for injunction, possibly to prevent retaliatory action by the defendant against the existing dealer, but in any event to prevent the grantor from unreasonably withholding consent and for damages for the improper refusal [see Civ. Code §§ 85, 86]. For a discussion of the relief and remedies available against grantors for discrimination in the grant, transfer, or termination of dealerships, see the discussion in § 515.340[2].

[3] Allegations

The complaint alleges, in part, the following [see Civ. Code § 86]:

- The granting of the dealership to the present dealer (Paragraph 3).
- The application of the present and prospective dealers to defendant for consent to a transfer of the dealership, and defendant's refusal (Paragraph 4).
- Discrimination as the basis of defendant's refusal and any threatened retaliatory action by defendant in support of the refusal (Paragraph 5).
- The need for injunctive relief (Paragraph 6) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 526].
- Damages resulting from defendant's actions (Paragraph 7).
- Reasonable attorney's fees (Paragraph 8).

[4] Injunctive Relief and Damages for Grantor's Acting on Dealership Matters With Bias and Prejudice

The California Fair Dealership Law states that it is intended to be liberally construed and applied in order to promote its underlying purposes and policies [see Civ. Code § 82], and mentions the possibility of a court awarding both "relief" and "remedy" [see Civ. Code § 86]. It therefore appears that injunctive relief may be requested to prevent the grantor from discontinuing any existing franchise on the basis of bias or prejudice, as well as to prevent the grantor from refusing to grant dealerships or to allow transfer of existing dealerships on such grounds in the future [see Civ. Code §§ 83-85].

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Defendant _____ [name of seller] is _____ [allege residence and capacity. See §

515.400, Paragraph 1], and is the primary defendant herein whose acts as defendant are described below.

[2. Defendant _____ (name of trustee or surety) is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a corporation organized and existing under the laws of _____ (the United States or the state of _____ (California or other state; if other state, continue: authorized to transact, and transacting, intrastate business in California)), with its principal place of business (in California) in _____County, and authorized to transact and transacting business in California as a _____ (surety or trustee) (or allege other capacity and residence of defendant as appropriate).]

[3. Defendant _____ (name of escrow holder) is, and at all times herein mentioned was, a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the state of _____ (California or other state; if other state, continue: authorized to transact, and transacting, intrastate business in California), with its principal place of business (in California) in _____County, and licensed to transact and transacting business in California as an escrow holder (or allege other capacity and residence of defendant as appropriate).]

4. [Fictitious names of defendants, if appropriate. See § 515.400, Paragraph 2.]

[5. On or about _____ (date), _____ (defendant _____ (name of surety) issued its bond number _____ (number) or defendant seller established a trust account, number _____ (number) with _____ (name and address of trustee) as trustee). The _____ (bond or trust account) was made out in favor of the State of California for the benefit of anyone damaged by any violation by the primary defendant of the seller assisted marketing plan laws of this state or by such defendant's breach of any plan, contract, or obligation arising therefrom, and also directly in favor of any person damaged by such practices of the primary defendant herein. A true copy of the _____ (bond or terms and provisions of such trust account) is attached as Exhibit A and incorporated by reference.]

6. On or about _____ [date], at _____, California, defendant offered to sell to plaintiff a seller assisted marketing plan consisting of _____ [describe plan and brand name, if any, e.g., the _____ (name) system for distributing and stationing machines vending audiovisual critiques of current dining and entertainment available in local business districts to passerby foot traffic]. In making this offer and in negotiations with plaintiff thereafter, defendant made certain _____ [untrue or misleading] statements in that defendant stated _____ [orally or in writing or within disclosure materials submitted to plaintiff] that _____ [describe statement, e.g., the plan was an immediate buy-back investment if plaintiff was not satisfied]. The statement was _____ [untrue or misleading] in that _____ [explain, e.g., the buy-back provision only became effective after plaintiff put the required amount of $_____ into the business and devoted one year's efforts to it].

7. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff purchased the seller assisted marketing plan from defendant for $_____ (total sale price). A true copy of the contract and agreement is attached marked Exhibit B and incorporated by reference. The purchase price was required to be paid by plaintiff as follows: _____ [specify payment schedule (see Civ. Code § 1812.201(k), (l), defining "initial payment," "initial cash payment," and "downpayment"), e.g., Civ. Code § 1812.201(k), (l) an initial cash payment of $2,500 was required at the time the contract was executed, and the remainder of the price was to be paid in six monthly installments of $1,000, beginning _____ (date)]. [If relevant (see Civ. Code § 1812.209(a), requiring escrow if more than 20 percent of initial payment is required before delivery of goods, equipment, supplies, etc. by seller), continue: Civ. Code § 1812.209(a) The contract further provided that the first delivery of equipment and supplies would be made by defendant on or before _____ (date)]. Plaintiff paid the $_____ directly to defendant on _____ [date].

[8. The contract states that escrow account number _____ (number) was established at the branch of defendant _____ (name of escrow holder) _____, _____ (street address and city) in accordance with Sections 1812.210(b) and 1812.214(c) of the Civil Code to receive payments in excess of 20 percent of the initial payment that were required by defendant seller to be made by plaintiff prior to delivery of the equipment, supplies, products, or services to be furnished under the contract. On _____ (date(s)), plaintiff _____ (allege payments made to that account, e.g., made three equal payments of $_____ each into that account). _____ (Plaintiff never authorized any disbursements from that account or specify disbursements authorized, e.g., On _____ (date), plaintiff authorized a $_____ disbursement from that account).]

9. On or about _____ [specify date within one year from date of the contract], plaintiff discovered the plan had been sold to him/her through the misrepresentation described above, when _____ [describe discovery or effect of misrepresentation, e.g., plaintiff failed to make a profit and suffered losses in operating the marketing plan and demanded that defendant repurchase such plan as represented. Defendant refused to buy back the plan until plaintiff had invested $_____ in the business and spent a year attempting to develop it]. Plaintiff thereupon served written notice on defendant that plaintiff was electing to void the contract, and offered therein to immediately return _____ [all or the remaining] equipment, supplies, and products delivered to plaintiff by defendant under the plan at _____ [location(s)] in return for all sums paid to defendant [seller, and to the escrow account,] by plaintiff [less the fair market value at the time of their receipt by plaintiff of items not returnable, which is $_____]. A true copy of that notice is attached as Exhibit C and incorporated by reference.

10. Defendant failed and refused to return the sums described above to plaintiff or to receive the items plaintiff tendered for return, and still so fails and refuses although plaintiff still tenders all such items for return to defendant. A list of items for return is attached as Exhibit D and incorporated by reference [, containing also an accounting of those items that cannot be returned, with the fair market value of each such item].

11. Plaintiff has been further damaged in that _____ [describe consequential damages, e.g., plaintiff has incurred, and still incurs, charges for storage of equipment and supplies at various locations, and must continue to pay for licenses of particular vending machines that cannot be disengaged although not operating. The approximate amount of such damages is $_____].

[12. If punitive damages are sought against primary defendant seller, add: Defendant's making of the _____ (untrue or misleading) statements described in Paragraph 6 constituted an intentional _____ (misrepresentation, or deceit, or concealment) of a material fact known to the defendant with the intent on defendant's part of thereby depriving plaintiff of property and legal rights (and of otherwise causing plaintiff injury) thereby entitling plaintiff to punitive or exemplary damages.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant[s, and each of them,] as follows:

1. For damages in the amount of $_____, representing the return of all sums paid to defendant [less the fair market value of all equipment, supplies, or products that cannot be returned to defendant], after receipt of which plaintiff will deliver all equipment, supplies, and products [deliverable] to defendant _____ [describe];

2. For interest thereon at the legal rate from _____ [date of notification of election to rescind];

[3. For consequential damages consisting of _____ (specify) in the amount of $ _____;]

[4. For punitive or exemplary damages;]

5. For reasonable attorney's fees;

6. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

7. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use in an action for rescission, damages, and punitive damages based on misrepresentation practiced in the sale to plaintiff of a seller assisted marketing plan [see Civ. Code §§ 1812.215(a), 1812.218]. For a discussion of the actionability of misrepresentation in the sale of a seller assisted marketing plan and damages lying thereon, see the § 515.192[2]. If the seller made any buy-back representations, a bond or trust account would have been required, so that plaintiff would be able to join the surety or trustee for damages other than punitive for any violation of the seller assisted marketing plan legislation [see Civ. Code §§ 1812.204(c), 1812.214(b)]. For a discussion of bond or trust account requirements, see § 515.184[2].

In addition, if plaintiff was required to pay more than 20 percent of the initial payment [see Civ. Code § 1812.201(k) (defining "initial payment", discussed in § 515.182[6])] before delivery of the equipment, supplies, or products or services to be furnished under the terms of the contract, the excess payments would have to be made into an escrow account, to be disbursed to the seller only on plaintiff's written notification to the escrow holder [Civ. Code § 1812.209(a)]. If there were funds left in the escrow account, the escrow holder may be joined as a defendant, although the escrow holder is only liable only for actual damages, not punitive damages, and the escrow account holder's aggregate liability to all persons damaged by a seller's violations is limited to the amount of the escrow account [Civ. Code § 1812.214(c)(3)].

The form may be modified to allege a cause of action against a defendant who leased a seller assisted marketing plan to the plaintiff. It also may be used against a defendant who failed to provide plaintiff, or to file with the Attorney General, certain disclosure documents or failed to comply with the legal requirements for a plan contract [see Civ. Code § 1812.215(a)].

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges, in part, the following:

- Capacity and residence of defendant seller, defendant surety or trustee, and defendant escrow holder (Paragraphs 1-3).

- Availability of any surety bond or trust account for damages proved in the action (Paragraph 5) [see Civ. Code § 1812.214(b)].

- Defendant's act of misrepresentation in selling the plan to plaintiff (Paragraph 6) [see Civ. Code § 1812.215(a)].

- Sale of the plan to plaintiff and the terms of that sale (Paragraph 7), including an escrow account involved (Paragraph 8).

- Discovery of the misrepresentation and election to void the plan contract and tender items for return (Paragraph 9) [see Civ. Code § 1812.215(a)].

- Defendant's failure to act on the rescission (Paragraph 10).

- Consequential damages, if appropriate (Paragraph 11).

- If appropriate, the fact that the seller's misrepresentation was intentional, entitling plaintiff to punitive damages (Paragraph 12) [see Civ. Code §§ 1812.218, 3294(a), (c)(3)].

Attorney's fees are provided by statute [Civ. Code § 1812.218] and need not be alleged. A successful plaintiff may recover them as costs under any of the procedures set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 1033.5(c)(5), which is discussed in Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees .

To protect personal privacy and other legitimate interests, parties and their attorneys must not include financial account numbers, or must redact such numbers if their inclusion is necessary, in all pleadings and other papers filed in the court's public file, whether filed in paper or electronic form, unless otherwise provided by law or ordered by the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.20(b)]. However, it is not clear whether "financial account" would include an escrow account.

[4] State Statutes

Voidability of seller assisted marketing plan contract for misrepresentation in offer or sale; procedure for voiding contract. Civ. Code § 1812.215(a)

Action for violation of seller assisted marketing plan laws. Civ. Code § 1812.218

Claims against trust deposit made in lieu of bond. Civ. Code § 1812.221

Punitive damages. Civ. Code § 3294

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff is, and at all times mentioned herein was, domiciled in and a resident of _____ County, California [or allege other capacity and residence of plaintiff].

2. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 515.400, Paragraph 1.]

3. [Fictitious names of defendants, if appropriate. See § 515.400, Paragraph 2.]

4. Defendant _____ [name] is a supplier engaged in the _____ [manufacturing and/or assembly and/or wholesale distribution] of _____ [describe equipment, e.g., machinery used for industrial applications]

5. On or about _____ [date], defendant, as the supplier of _____ [describe equipment, e.g., machinery used for industrial applications], entered into a dealer contract with plaintiff to conduct the business of retail sales of that equipment at _____ [specify location]. A true copy of the dealer contract is attached as Exhibit A and incorporated by reference. Plaintiff continuously conducted the business of selling the supplier's equipment at retail from that time until the time of the event described in this complaint[, including through (successive) renewal(s) of the dealer contract].

6. On or about _____ [date], defendant _____ [terminated or refused to renew] the dealer contract and thereafter refused to supply and service plaintiff's business as called for under the dealer contract. This _____ [termination or nonrenewal] was improper under Business and Professions Code Section(s) _____ [specify, e.g., 22902(d), 22903, 22903.2 and 22905] in that _____ [specify reasons, e.g., good cause did not exist for the _____ (termination or nonrenewal) or defendant failed to provide plaintiff with proper notice prior to the intended _____ (termination or nonrenewal) of the dealer contract, and thus did not afford plaintiff at least 60 days in which to cure any claimed deficiency].

7. In _____ [terminating or failing to renew] the dealer contract in accordance with the provisions of Business and Professions Code Sections 22900-22927, defendant was obligated but failed to offer _____ [to assume the lease or to repurchase] from plaintiff the property used by plaintiff in carrying on the business under the dealer contract including, but not limited to, _____ [specify property, e.g., computer systems equipment required and approved by defendant and data processing hardware required by defendant]. The fair repurchase price of the computer systems equipment, data processing hardware, and specialized repair tools would have been $_____, representing the fair market value of the computer systems equipment and data processing hardware.

8. Defendant was also obligated but failed to offer to repurchase plaintiff's equipment, consisting of _____ [specify equipment, e.g., all new, unsold, undamaged, and complete equipment]. The fair repurchase price of plaintiff's equipment would have been $_____, representing 100 percent of net cost.

9. Defendant was also obligated but failed to offer to repurchase plaintiff's inventory, consisting of _____ [specify inventory, e.g., all new, unsold, and undamaged repair parts that had previously been purchased from defendant and were held by plaintiff on the date of contract termination]. The fair repurchase price of plaintiff's inventory would have been $_____, representing 95 percent of the current net cost of the inventory.

[10. Add if plaintiff was not compensated for packing and returning repair parts: Defendant was also obligated but failed to pay plaintiff $_____ for returned parts, representing 5 percent of the current net cost on the new, unused, and undamaged repair parts that plaintiff returned to defendant.]

[11. Add if plaintiff was not compensated for unsold demonstrators: Defendant was also obligated but failed to pay plaintiff $_____ for unsold, undamaged demonstrators. The sum due was equal to 100 percent of the net equipment cost of all unsold, undamaged demonstrators, less depreciation due to usage of those demonstrators.]

[12. Add if plaintiff was not compensated for equipment used in a manufacturer created incentive program: Defendant was also obligated but failed to pay plaintiff $_____ for all unsold and undamaged equipment used in a manufacturer created incentive program. The sum due was equal to 100 percent of the net cost of that equipment, less depreciation due to usage and bonus or volume incentive received by the dealer for the equipment.]

[13. Add if plaintiff was not compensated for specialized equipment or repair tools previously purchased pursuant to defendant's requirements prior to termination: Defendant was also obligated but failed to pay plaintiff $_____ for all specialized equipment or repair tools previously purchased pursuant to defendant's requirements prior to termination, which were unique to defendant's product line. The sum due was equal to 75 percent of the net cost, including shipping, handling, and setup fees of those tools which were in complete and operating condition.]

14. In addition to the damages specified above, plaintiff has suffered damages resulting from defendant's improper _____ [termination or nonrenewal] of the dealer contract by _____ [specify, e.g., incurring freight charges; having to handle, pack, and load the inventory; having to store the inventory; and closing down the business], in the amount of $_____.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant as follows:

1. For damages in the amount of $_____;

2. For interest thereon at the legal rate from _____ [date];

3. For costs of suit herein incurred;

4. For attorney's fees; and

[Verification, if desired. See § 515.400.]

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use in an action by a dealer for the type of relief available under Bus. & Prof. Code § 22900 et seq. from a supplier who has improperly terminated or failed to renew an existing dealer contract [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 22902, 22903, 22903.2, 22905, 22925]. For a discussion of this and other violations that may be grounds for an action by an equipment dealer against a supplier, see §§ 515.211, 515.212, 515.214, and § 515.215 et seq.

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges, in part:

- Plaintiff's domicile in California (Paragraph 1).
- Capacity and residence of defendant (Paragraph 2).

- Fictitious names of defendants, if appropriate (Paragraph 3) [Code Civ. Proc. § 474].

- The nature of defendant's business as a supplier of equipment (Paragraph 4) [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22901(j)(1), (v)].

- The existence of the dealer contract (Paragraph 5).

- The improper termination or nonrenewal of the dealer contract (Paragraph 6) [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 22902(d), 22903, 22903.2].

- Defendant's failure to repurchase plaintiff's business machinery, equipment, and inventory, and the amount owing therefor (Paragraphs 7-13) [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22905(a)-(g)].

- Any consequential damages resulting from defendant's act (Paragraph 14) [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 22925].

[4] Remedies

A dealer may bring an action against a supplier in any court of competent jurisdiction for damages sustained by the dealer as a consequence of the supplier's violation of any provision of Bus. & Prof. Code § 22900 et seq. The dealer may also recover costs and reasonable attorney's fees [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22925].

The dealer may also be granted injunctive relief against unlawful termination, cancellation, nonrenewal, and change in competitive circumstances [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22925]. For sample allegations for injunctive relief against dealership discrimination, see § 515.540. For discussion and general forms for complaints for injunctive relief, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

These remedies are not exclusive, and are in addition to any other remedies permitted by law. They also do not affect current law pertaining to product liability actions [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22925; see Ch. 460, Products Liability].

A supplier is also obligated to repurchase any business machinery, equipment, and inventory pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 22905 after canceling or failing to renew an existing dealer agreement. For discussion of these obligations, see § 515.215.

A dealer also is entitled to establish a lien for the repurchase charges for returned equipment and for the costs of enforcing the lien for amounts that remain unpaid under a repurchase agreement entered into when a dealer agreement is canceled or not renewed [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 22905, 22906(b)]. For discussion of the creation, perfection, and enforcement of this lien, see § 515.216.

[5] Jurisdiction

The superior court has jurisdiction of the action, which will be classified as an unlimited civil case unless the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest, is $25,000 or less, in which case it will be classified as a limited civil case Cal. Const. art VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86.

In limited civil cases, the caption must identify the case as a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. § 422.30(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(10)], and the first page of the first paper must state whether the demand exceeds $10,000 [Gov. Code § 70613(b); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(9) (statement regarding amount of demand must appear "below the character of the action or proceeding")].

§ 517.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses agreements for the rental or lease of storage space in self-service storage facilities, as well as attachment and enforcement of liens on personal property stored at these facilities for rent, labor, or other charges incurred pursuant to rental agreements.

The chapter includes a complaint for use by an owner of a self-service storage facility against an occupant of the facility to foreclose an owner's lien for unpaid rent and other charges on personal property located at the facility [see § 517.50] and a summons adopted for mandatory use by the Judicial Council [see § 517.51].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

45-517 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 517.10

§ 517.10 Governing Statutes

Self-service storage facilities are governed by the California Self-Service Storage Facility Act (Bus. & Prof. Code § 21700 et seq.).

The Act does not apply to garages or other storage areas in private residences, nor does it apply to warehouses or public utilities as defined in Pub. Util. Code § 216. If the owner of a storage facility issues a warehouse receipt, bill of lading, or other document of title for the personal property stored, the rights and obligations of both the owner and the occupant are governed by Com. Code § 7101 et seq., and the Self-Storage Facility Act does not apply [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701(a); for discussion of Com. Code § 7101 et seq., see Ch. 213, Documents of Title, § 213.70 et seq.].

The Self-Service Storage Facility Act applies to rental agreements entered into, extended, or renewed after January 1, 1982 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21714]. All rental agreements entered into prior to that date, and not extended or renewed thereafter, as well as the rights, duties, and interests flowing from those agreements, remain valid, and may be enforced or terminated in accordance with their terms or as permitted by any other California statute or law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21715].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

45-517 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 517.11

§ 517.11 Definitions

[1] Self-Service Storage Facility

The term "self-service storage facility" means real property designed and used for the purpose of renting or leasing individual storage space to occupants who are to have access to the space for the purpose of storing and removing personal property, or for storing individual storage containers [see § 517.13] provided to occupants who have exclusive use of the container for the purpose of storing and removing personal property, whether or not the individual storage containers are transported pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701.1 [discussed under § 517.13].

"Self-service storage facility" does not include a garage or other storage area in a private residence. No occupant may use a self-service storage facility for residential purposes [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701(a)].

A self-service storage facility is not a warehouse and is not a public utility as defined in Pub. Util. Code § 216. If an owner issues a warehouse receipt, bill of lading, or other document of title for the personal property stored, the owner and the occupant are subject to Division 7 of the Commercial Code [Com. Code § 7101 et seq.], and the Self-Service Storage Facility Act does not apply [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701(a)].

An owner of a self-service storage facility when renting or leasing individual storage spaces to occupants, who are to have access to the space for the purpose of storing or removing personal property, is a commercial landlord and does not have care, custody, or control of the occupants' stored personal property [Stats. 1998 ch. 45, § 3 (declaration of legislative intent)].

[2] Owner

The term "owner" as used in the Self-Service Storage Facility Act means the owner, operator, lessor, or sublessor of a self-service storage facility, his or her agent, or any other person authorized by him or her to manage the facility, or to receive rent from an occupant under a rental agreement, whether or not the person has a real estate license [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701(b)].

[3] Occupant

The term "occupant" as used in the Self-Service Storage Facility Act means a person, or his or her sublessee, successor, or assign, who is entitled to the use of the storage space at a self-service storage facility under a rental agreement, to the exclusion of others [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701(c)].

[4] Rental Agreement

The term "rental agreement" as used in the Self-Service Storage Facility Act means any written agreement or lease that establishes or modifies the terms, conditions, rules, or any other provision concerning the use and occupancy of a self-service storage facility [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701(d)].

Rental agreements under the Act do not involve the delivery of a thing to another for some special purpose or object, to be held in conformity with the objects or purposes of delivery, and thus do not constitute contracts of bailment [compare Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701(a),(d) (defining self-service storage facility and rental agreement) with Windeler v. Scheers Jewelers (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 844, 850, 88 Cal. Rptr. 39 (defining bailment)]. For discussion and forms relating to bailment of personal property, see Ch. 93, Bailments .

[5] Personal Property

The term "personal property" as used in the Self-Service Storage Facility Act means movable property not affixed to land, including goods, merchandise, furniture, and household items [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701(e)].

[6] Last Known Address

The term "last known address" as used in the Self-Service Storage Facility Act means the address provided by the occupant in the latest rental agreement, or the address provided by the occupant in a subsequent written notice of a change of address [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701(f)].

Chapter 517 SELF-SERVICE STORAGE FACILITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

45-517 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 517.12

§ 517.12 Self-Service Storage Facility Contracts

A contract for the rental or lease of individual storage space in a self-service storage facility must be in writing. In addition to the provisions otherwise required or permitted by law to be included, the contract must contain a statement that the occupant's property will be subject to a claim of lien and may be sold to satisfy the lien if the rent or other charges due remain unpaid for 14 consecutive days. The contract must also state that actions relating to these liens are authorized by the Self-Service Storage Facility Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21712(a)].

The rental agreement must request and provide space for the occupant to give the name and address of another person to whom preliminary lien notices and subsequent notices required by the Self-Service Storage Facility Act may be sent. If the agreement does not so provide, the Self-Service Storage Facility Act does not apply, and liens authorized by the Act will not attach. An occupant's failure to provide an alternative address, however, does not affect an owner's remedies under the Act or any other provision of law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21712(b)].

The Self-Service Storage Facility Act may not be construed to impair or affect the rights of the parties to a rental agreement to create additional rights, duties, and obligations in and by virtue of the agreement. The rights provided by the Act are in addition to all other rights provided by law to a creditor against his or her debtor [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21713].

§ 517.13 Individual Storage Containers

[1] Definition

The term "individual storage container" means a container that meets all of the following requirements [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701.1(d)]:

- It is fully enclosed and locked.
- It contains not less than 100 cubic feet and not more than 1,100 cubic feet.
- It is constructed out of a durable material appropriate for repeated use. A box constructed out of cardboard or a similar material is not an individual storage container.

[2] Transportation Not Subject to Public Utility Regulation

The owner or operator of a self-service storage facility, or a household goods carrier, may, for a fee, transport individual storage containers to and from a self-service storage facility that he or she owns or operates. This transportation activity, whether performed by an owner, operator, or carrier, is not transportation for compensation or hire as a business of used household goods, and is not subject to regulation under Public Utilities Code Chapter 7 (commencing with Pub. Util. Code § 5101), if the following requirements are met [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701.1(a)]:

- The fee charged to deliver an empty individual storage container to a customer and to transport the loaded container to a self-service storage facility, or the fee charged to return a loaded individual storage container from a self-service storage facility to the customer must not exceed $100 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701.1(a)(1)].
- The owner, operator, or carrier, or any affiliate of the owner, operator, or carrier, must not load, pack, or otherwise handle the contents of the container [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701.1(a)(2)].
- The owner, operator, or carrier must be registered under Veh. Code § 34620 et seq. or must hold a permit under Pub. Util. Code § 5101 et seq. [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701.1(a)(3)].

- The owner, operator, or carrier must maintain cargo insurance in the amount of at least $20,000 per shipment. Proof of cargo insurance coverage must be maintained on file and presented to the Department of Motor Vehicles or Public Utilities Commission on written request [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701.1(a)(4)].

- Not later than the time the empty individual storage container is delivered to the customer, the company must provide the customer with an informational brochure containing the following information about loading the container [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701.1(a)(6)]:

  - Packing and loading tips to minimize damage in transit;

  - A suggestion that the customer should make an inventory of the items as they are loaded and should keep any other record (for example, photographs or a video recording) that may assist in any subsequent claims processing;

  - A list of items that are impermissible to pack in the container (for example, flammable items); and

  - A list of items that are not recommended to be packed in view of foreseeable hazards inherent in the company's handling of the containers and in view of any limitation of liability contained in the rental agreement.

- The owner, operator, or carrier must disclose to the customer in advance the following information regarding the container transfer service offered, in a written document separate from others furnished at the time of disclosure [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701.1(a)(5)]:

  - A detailed description of the transfer service, including a commitment to use best efforts to place the container in an appropriate location designated by the customer;

  - The dimensions and construction of the individual storage containers used;

  - The unit charge, if any, for the container transfer service, in addition to the storage charge or any other fees under the rental agreement;

  - The availability of delivery or pickup by the customer of his or her goods at the self-service storage facility;

  - The maximum allowable distance, measured from the self-service storage facility, for the initial pickup and final delivery of the loaded container;

  - The precise terms of the company's right to move a container from the initial storage location at its own discretion, and a statement that the customer will not be required to pay additional charges with respect to that transfer; and

  - Conspicuous disclosure, in boldface text, of the allocation of responsibility for the risk of loss or damage to the customer's goods, including any disclaimer of the company's liability, and the procedure for presenting any claim regarding loss or damage to the company.

The customer must receive the disclosure of terms and conditions along with the rental agreement at least 72 hours before delivery of the empty individual storage container; however, the customer may, in writing, knowingly and voluntarily waive that receipt. The company must record in a writing, which must be retained for at least six months after the end of the rental, the time and method of delivery of the information, any waiver made by the customer, and the times and dates of initial pickup and redelivery of the containerized goods [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701.1(a)(5)].

[3] Pickup and Delivery

Pickup and delivery of the individual storage containers must be on dates agreed to by the customer and the company. If the company requires the customer to be physically present at the time of pickup, the company must be at the customer's premises prepared to perform the service not more than four hours later than the agreed-upon time, and in the event of a preventable breach of that obligation by the company, the customer is entitled to receive a penalty of $50 from the company and to elect rescission of the rental agreement without liability [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701.1(b)].

[4] Transportation at Company's Expense

No charge may be assessed with respect to any movement of the container between self-service storage facilities by the company at its own discretion, nor for the delivery of a container to a customer's premises if the customer advises the company, at least 24 hours before the agreed time of container drop-off, orally or in writing, that he or she is rescinding the request for service [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701.1(c)].

[5] Authority of Public Utility Commission

Nothing in Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701.1 limits the authority of the Public Utilities Commission to investigate and commence an appropriate enforcement action against any person transporting household goods in individual storage containers in a manner other than that described in Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701.1 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701.1(e)].

[6] Operation Under Authority of Household Goods Permit

Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701.1, which describes the transportation activities that may be provided without a household goods carrier permit, is not intended to limit the ability of an owner or operator of a self-service storage facility to otherwise transport household goods under the authority of a household goods carrier permit [Stats. 1998, ch. 45, § 3 (declaration of legislative intent)]. Thus, an owner or operator who holds such a permit may operate freely under that permit, and is not required to rely on the provisions of the Self-Storage Facility Act discussed above.

Chapter 517 SELF-SERVICE STORAGE FACILITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

45-517 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 517.14

§ 517.14 Lien on Stored Personal Property

[1] Scope of Lien

The owner of a self-service storage facility and his or her heirs, executors, administrators, successors, and assigns have a lien on all personal property located at a self-service storage facility for rent, labor, late-payment fees, or other charges, present or future, incurred pursuant to the rental agreement, and for expenses necessary for the preservation, sale, or disposition of personal property subject to the provisions of the Self-Service Storage Facility Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21702].

[2] Vehicles and Vessels

Any lien on a vehicle or vessel subject to registration or identification under the Vehicle Code that has attached and is set forth in the documents of title to the vehicle or vessel has priority over a lien created pursuant to the Self-Service Storage Facility Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21702.5(a)].

A lien created pursuant to the Self-Service Storage Facility Act on a vehicle or vessel subject to registration and identification under the Vehicle Code must be enforced in accordance with the provisions of Civ. Code § 3071 (vehicles) or Harb. & Nav. Code § 503 (vessels), and not as prescribed by Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 21705-21711, except that actions to enforce a lien may be conducted as provided in Bus. & Prof. Code § 21710[Bus. & Prof. Code § 21702.5(b); for discussion of actions pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 21710, see § 517.16, below].

The proceeds from a lien sale must be disposed of pursuant to Civ. Code § 3073 (vehicles) or Harb. & Nav. Code § 507.5 (vessels) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21702.5(d)].

A lien created pursuant to the Self-Service Storage Act on a vehicle or vessel subject to registration and identification under the Vehicle Code may not include any charges for rent, labor, or other services incurred pursuant to the rental agreement, that accrue more than 60 days after the date the lien attaches pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 21705, and before application is made for authorization to conduct the lien sale pursuant to the requirements of Civ. Code § 3071(vehicles) or Harb. & Nav. Code § 503(vessels) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21702.5(c)].

[3] Preliminary Lien Notice

If any part of the rent or other charges due from an occupant remain unpaid for 14 consecutive days, an owner may terminate the occupant's right to use of the storage space by sending a preliminary lien notice to the occupant's last known address, and to the alternative address specified in the rental contract pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 21712(b), by certified, or by regular first-class mail if the owner obtains a certificate of mailing indicating the date the notice was mailed [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21703]. Although certified mail is more expensive, it may be more advantageous to the owner to use this method because the owner's right to remove property from the space accrues more quickly when certified mail is used [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 21705(a),(b), discussed in [4], below].

The preliminary lien notice must contain all of the following:

- An itemized statement of the owner's claim showing the sums due at the time of the preliminary lien notice and the date when the sums became due [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21703(a)].

- A statement that the occupant's right to use the storage space will terminate on a specified date not less than 14 days after the mailing of the notice unless the occupant pays all sums due prior to that date [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21703(b)].

- A notice that the occupant may be denied access to the storage space after the termination date if the sums are not paid, and that an owner's lien, as provided for in Bus. & Prof. Code § 21702, may be imposed thereafter [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21703(c)].

- The name, street address, and telephone number of the owner, or his or her designated agent, whom the occupant may contact to respond to the notice [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21703(d)].

A preliminary lien notice form that satisfies the requirements of Bus. & Prof. Code § 21703 is set forth in Bus. & Prof. Code § 21704.

[4] Attachment

If a preliminary lien notice [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 21703] has been sent as specified in [3], above, and the total sum due has not been paid as of the date specified in the preliminary lien notice as the termination date, a lien attaches as of that date [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21705(a),(b)]. The owner may then enter the space and deny the occupant access to it [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21705(a)(1),(2),(b)]. If the preliminary lien notice was sent by certified mail and the total sum due was not paid as of the termination date, the owner may also remove any property found in the space to a place of safekeeping [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21705(a)(3)]. If the preliminary lien notice was sent by regular first class mail with a certificate of mailing, the owner still may enter the space and deny the owner access to it if the total sum due has not been paid as of the termination date, but may not remove the occupant's property until at least 14 days after the termination date, during which time the occupant may regain full use of the space by paying the full lien amount [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21705(b)]. In either case, the owner must then send the occupant a Notice of Lien Sale and a blank Declaration in Opposition to Lien Sale [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21705(c); see [5] and [6], below].

[5] Notice of Lien Sale

When a lien attaches pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 21705 [see [4], above] the owner must send to the occupant, addressed to the occupant's last known address, and to the alternative address provided in the rental contract, by certified mail, postage prepaid, a notice of lien sale [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21705(c)(1)]. The notice of lien sale must state the following:

- That the occupant's right to use the storage space has terminated and that the occupant no longer has access to the stored property [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21705(c)(1)(A)];

- That the stored property is subject to a lien, and the amount of the lien [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21705(c)(1)(B)];

- That the property will be sold to satisfy the lien after a specified date that is not less than 14 days from the date the notice was mailed, unless the amount of the lien is paid or the occupant executes under penalty of perjury and returns by certified mail a declaration in opposition to the lien sale in the form prescribed by Bus. & Prof. Code § 21705(c)(2) [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21705(c)(1)(C); see [6], below]; and

- That any proceeds of the sale in excess of the lien amount and costs of sale will be retained by the owner and may be reclaimed by the occupant, or claimed by another person, at any time for a period of one year from the sale and that after one year the proceeds will escheat to the county [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21705(c)(1)(D)].

For a notice of lien sale, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 54A, Storage of Goods, § 54A.222 (Matthew Bender).

[6] Declaration in Opposition to Lien Sale

In addition to the notice of lien sale, on attachment of the lien, the owner must send the occupant, addressed to the occupant's last known address and to the alternative address provided in the rental contract, by certified mail, postage prepaid, a blank declaration in opposition to the lien sale [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21705(c)(2)].

A declaration form is set forth in Bus. & Prof. Code § 21705(c)(2), and generally requires the occupant to declare under penalty of perjury receipt of the notice of lien sale, opposition to the lien sale, his or her address, and that he or she understands that the lienholder may file an action in court, and if the action results in a judgment for the lienholder, that the occupant may be liable for court costs [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21705(c)(2)]. For a declaration in opposition to a lien sale, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 54A, Storage of Goods, § 54A.223 (Matthew Bender).

If a declaration in opposition to the lien sale, executed under penalty of perjury, is not received prior to the date of sale set forth in the notice of lien sale, the owner may sell the property [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21706; see § 517.15, below]. If a declaration in opposition to the lien sale is received prior to the date set forth in the notice of lien sale, the owner may enforce the lien in an action pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 21710[Bus. & Prof. Code § 21710; see § 517.16, below].

§ 517.15 Lien Sale

[1] When Available

Once an owner's lien has attached, and if a declaration in opposition to the lien sale, executed under penalty of perjury, is not received prior to the date of sale set forth in the notice of lien sale, the owner of a self-service storage facility may sell the property. The sale is subject to the provisions of Bus. & Prof. Code § 21708, relating to security interest claims, and Bus. & Prof. Code § 21709, relating to pre-sale redemption [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21706; see [3] and [4] below]. Additionally, the sale must comply with the requirements of Bus. & Prof. Code § 21707 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21706; see [2] and [5], below].

[2] Advertisement

After the expiration of the time given in the notice of lien sale, pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 21705(a), an advertisement of the lien sale must be published once a week for two weeks consecutively in a newspaper of general circulation published in the judicial district in which the sale is to be held. The advertisement must include a general description of the goods, the name of the person on whose account they are being stored, the space number of the occupant, and the name and location of the storage facility. If there is no newspaper of general circulation published in the judicial district in which the sale is to be held, the advertisement must be posted at least 10 days before the sale in at least six conspicuous places in the neighborhood of the proposed sale [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21707(a)]. For an advertisement of lien sale, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 54A, Storage of Goods, § 54A.224 (Matthew Bender).

[3] Security Interest Claims

If no declaration of opposition to the lien sale is executed and returned by the occupant, any person who has a perfected interest under Com. Code § 9101 et seq. may claim any personal property subject to that security interest and subject to a lien pursuant to the Self-Service Storage Facility Act by paying the total amount due, as specified in the preliminary lien notice, for the storage of the property. On payment of the total amount due, the owner must deliver possession of the particular property subject to the security interest to the person who paid the total amount due [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21708]. The owner is not liable to any person for any action taken pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 21708 if the owner has fully complied with the requirements of Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 21704-21705, relating to notices [Bus. & Prof. Code

§ 21708].

[4] Presale Redemption

Prior to a lien sale authorized pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 21706, any person claiming a right to the goods may pay the amount necessary to satisfy the lien and reasonable expenses incurred for particular actions taken pursuant to the Self-Service Storage Facility Act. Under these circumstances, the goods may not be sold, and must be retained by the owner subject to the terms of the Self-Service Storage Facility Act pending a court order directing a particular disposition of the property [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21709].

[5] Conduct and Disposition of Proceeds

A lien sale must be conducted in a commercially reasonable manner, and, after deducting the amount of the lien and costs of sale, the owner must retain any excess proceeds of the sale on the occupant's behalf. The occupant, or any other person having a court order or other judicial process against the property, may claim the excess proceeds, or a portion thereof sufficient to satisfy the particular claim, at any time within one year of the date of sale. Thereafter, the owner must pay any remaining excess proceeds to the treasury of the county in which the sale was held [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21707(b)].

§ 517.16 Action to Enforce Lien

[1] Procedures

If a declaration in opposition to the lien sale is received prior to the date set forth in the notice of lien sale, the owner may enforce the lien in an action commenced by filing a verified complaint setting forth the facts on which the claim of lien is based. The summons and complaint may be served by certified mail, postage prepaid, addressed to the occupant at his or her last known address, in which case service will be deemed completed on the fifth day after the mailing, or in any other manner authorized by Code Civ. Proc. § 413.10 et seq. [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21710(a); see generally Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

The occupant has 10 days in which to respond to the complaint after service of the summons is completed, and this period may be extended for good cause [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21710(b)]. If the occupant does not respond to the complaint by answer or demurrer within the time allowed after service is completed, the clerk, or the judge if there is no clerk, on application of the owner, will enter the default of the occupant. The owner may then apply to the court for judgment in the amount of the lien, including costs [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21710(c); see generally Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments].

[2] Sale to Enforce Judgment

An owner may sell the property to enforce a judgment in his, her, or its favor entered in an action on a lien authorized by the Self-Service Storage Facility Act. The sale must be conducted in a commercially reasonable manner, and must take place 10 days or more from the entry of judgment, unless within that time period, or at any time prior to the sale, the occupant pays the owner the full amount of the judgment [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21710(d)]. Enforcement of the judgment may be stayed, pending appeal, if the occupant posts a bond in an amount one and one-half times the amount of the judgment. If the occupant posts a bond, the property may be released to him or her [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21710(e)].

45-517 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 517.18

§ 517.18 Household and Personal Property of Military Service Members

Under the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act [see 50 U.S.C. App. § 501 et seq.] and similar California law [see Mil. & Vet. Code § 400 et seq.], no person may exercise any right to foreclose or enforce any lien for storage of household goods, furniture, or personal effects of a member [see 50 U.S.C. App. § 511(1)] of the uniformed services [see 10 U.S.C. § 101(a)(5) (definition)] or the national guard or military reserve [see Mil. & Vet. Code § 400(a)] during his or her period of military service [see 50 U.S.C. § 511(1)-(3); Mil. & Vet. Code § 400(b) (active service or active duty)], and for 90 days after that period, except on an order previously granted by a court on application and a return made and approved by the court. In that proceeding the court may, after hearing, in its discretion on its own motion, and must on application to it by a service member or some person on his or her behalf, unless in the opinion of the court the ability of the defendant to pay the storage charges due is not materially affected by reason of his or her military service, stay the proceedings as provided in the governing law and make whatever other disposition of the case is equitable to conserve the interest of all parties [50 U.S.C. App. § 537(b); Mil. & Vet. Code § 409.1(b)].

Dependents of a service member are entitled to the benefits accorded to service members under the foregoing provisions, on application to a court for the benefits, unless in the opinion of the court the ability of the dependents to comply with the terms of the storage contract has not been materially impaired by reason of the military service of the person on whom the applicants are dependent [50 U.S.C. App. § 538; Mil. & Vet. Code § 409.5].

California Self-Service Storage Facility Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21700 et seq.] permits rental agreements to be construed as leases, rather than licenses, even though Act provides expedited remedy against occupants of self-storage units who are delinquent in rent. In re Safeguard Self-Storage Trust (9th Cir. 1993) 2 F.3d 967, 970-971

In event of occupant's bankruptcy, bankruptcy court could apply Civ. Code § 1980 et seq. (governing disposition of personal property remaining on rented premises at termination of tenancy) in determining whether occupant's property in storage unit could be sold by storage facility owner to collect overdue rent after owner had notice of bankruptcy. *Ozenne v. Self-storage agreement controls by placing its lock on occupant's unit after it was vandalized and requesting occupant to inspect unit for stolen items and to replace lock with one of occupant's (as required by contract), owner did not become involuntary bailee [see Civ. Code § 1815] and was not liable for subsequent theft of items from unit. Sackett v. Public Storage Management (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1088, 1089, 1092-1093, 272 Cal. Rptr. 284

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff is the _____ [specify capacity as self-service storage facility owner as defined in Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701(b), e.g., owner and operator] of a self-service storage facility, as defined in Business and Professions Code Section 21701(a), commonly referred to as _____[specify name and street address of self-service storage facility], _____ County, California ("the facility").

2. Defendant(s) is/are, and at all times mentioned in this complaint was/were, _____ [a resident or residents] of _____ County, California.

[3. Fictitious name allegation, if appropriate, e.g., Plaintiff is ignorant of the true names and capacities of defendants sued herein as DOES I- _____, inclusive, and therefore sues these defendants by such fictitious names. Plaintiff will amend this complaint to allege their true names and capacities when ascertained. (Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of such fictitiously named defendants claims an interest in the property sought to be sold in this proceeding or is indebted to plaintiff on the obligation described in this complaint.)]

[4. Agency allegation, if appropriate, e.g., At all times herein mentioned defendant _____ (name) was authorized and empowered by defendant _____ (principal) to act and did act as the agent of defendant _____(principal), and each and all of the things herein alleged to have been done by him/her were done in the capacity of and as agent for defendant _____ (principal).]

5. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff and defendant(s) entered into _____ [a written or an oral] agreement ("the agreement"), by the terms of which plaintiff rented storage space _____ [identify storage space, e.g., unit 123] ("the storage space"), to defendant(s) _____ [describe nature of tenancy, e.g., for a term of one year] at the agreed rental of $_____ per _____ [specify, e.g., month] payable _____ [specify, e.g., in advance on the first day of each month], commencing on _____ [date]. [A copy of the rental agreement is attached as Exhibit A and incorporated herein by reference.]

6. Pursuant to the terms of the rental agreement, defendant(s) was/were entitled to use of the storage space to the exclusion of others, and was/were _____ [an occupant or occupants] of the facility as defined by Business and Professions Code Section 21701(c).

7. Defendant(s) took possession of the storage space on _____ [date].

8. Plaintiff has duly performed all of the conditions of the rental agreement to be performed on his/her/its part.

9. Rent has accrued and is unpaid under the rental agreement for the months of _____ [month], _____ [year] to _____[month], _____ [year], in the total sum of $_____. [Additional charges for _____ (specify e.g., security fees) have accrued and are unpaid pursuant to the rental agreement in the sum of $_____.]

10. On _____ [date], pursuant to the requirements of Business and Professions Code Section 21703, plaintiff mailed a preliminary lien notice to defendant(s) at the address _____ [provided by him/her/them in the rental agreement or provided by him/her/them to plaintiff in a written notice of change of address dated _____. (A copy of the notice of change of address is attached as Exhibit B and incorporated by reference.)]. Pursuant to Business and Professions Code Section 21703, plaintiff also mailed the preliminary lien notice to the alternative address specified by defendant(s) in the rental agreement. A copy of the preliminary lien notice is attached as Exhibit C and incorporated herein by reference.

11. Pursuant to Business and Professions Code Section 21703(b), the preliminary lien notice provided that the right(s) of defendant(s) to use the storage space would terminate on _____ [specify termination date set forth in preliminary lien notice] if defendant(s) did not pay all sums due plaintiff prior to that date.

12. As of _____ [specify termination date set forth in preliminary lien notice], the sums described in the preliminary lien notice as due and owing had not been paid, and plaintiff _____ [specify actions taken by plaintiff pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 21705, e.g., denied defendants access to the storage space and removed the property therein to a place of safe keeping].

[13. In removing and preserving the property plaintiff has incurred expenses in the amount of $_____.]

14. Pursuant to Business and Professions Code Section 21700 et seq., plaintiff has a lien in the amount of $_____ [specify total amount of rent and charges owed, and all expenses incurred in removing property and preserving it in a place of safekeeping] on the property stored in the storage space by defendant(s).

15. On _____ [specify termination date set forth in preliminary lien notice], plaintiff mailed to defendant(s), at the address _____ [provided by him/her/them in the rental agreement or provided by him/her/them to plaintiff in a written notice of change of address dated _____], and to the alternative address specified by defendant(s) in the rental agreement, a Notice of Lien Sale and blank Declaration in Opposition to Lien Sale, as required pursuant to Section 21705 of the Business and Professions Code. Copies of the Notice of Lien Sale and blank Declaration in Opposition to Lien Sale are attached as Exhibits D and E and incorporated herein by reference.

16. On _____ [date], plaintiff received a Declaration in Opposition to Lien Sale, executed by defendant(s) under penalty of perjury. A copy of the executed Declaration in Opposition to Lien Sale is attached as Exhibit F and incorporated herein by reference.

17. The rental agreement provides for the payment of attorney's fees to the prevailing party in any action brought to enforce the terms of the agreement. The sum of $_____ is a reasonable attorney's fee to allow plaintiff for the commencement and prosecution of this action.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant[s, and each of them,] as follows:

1. For $_____ as the amount of the lien;

2. That the lien be foreclosed;

3. That the property be ordered sold for payment of the lien and that the lien be paid from the proceeds of the sale;

4. For reasonable attorney's fees in the amount of $_____;

5. For costs of suit incurred herein; and

6. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

The complaint in [1], above, is for use by the owner of a self-service storage facility against an occupant of the facility to enforce an owner's lien for rent or other charges on personal property stored at the self-service storage facility [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 21710].

This form is based in part on a form contributed by Paul S. Rudder of Rudder, Liebersbach & Mohun of Mammoth Lakes, California.

[3] Allegations

This form alleges:

- Plaintiff's capacity as an owner as defined in Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701(b) of a self-service storage facility (Paragraph 1).

- The name and address of the self-service storage facility (Paragraph 1).

- Defendant's or defendants' residence(s) (Paragraph 2).

- An optional allegation as to fictitiously named defendants (Optional Paragraph 3) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 474].

- An optional allegation for use when agents were acting for defendant (Optional Paragraph 4) [see Civ. Code §§ 2318, 2319].

- The agreement between plaintiff and defendant for rental of the storage space (Paragraph 5).

- Defendant's capacity as an occupant as defined in Bus. & Prof. Code § 21701(c) (Paragraph 6).

- Defendant's possession of the storage space (Paragraph 7).

- Performance by plaintiff of all conditions of the rental agreement to be performed on his, her, or its part (Paragraph 8).

- The amount of unpaid, accrued rent and other charges owed plaintiff by defendant (Paragraph 9).

- That plaintiff mailed defendant a preliminary lien notice pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 21703, and the date that the notice was mailed (Paragraph 10).

- The termination date as set forth in the preliminary lien notice (Paragraph 11).

- That as of the termination date the sums owed had not been paid, and the actions taken by plaintiff pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code 21705 (Paragraph 12).

- An optional paragraph for use when plaintiff has incurred expenses in removing and preserving the property (Optional Paragraph 13).

- That plaintiff has a lien on the property pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 21700 et seq., and the amount of the lien (Paragraph 14).

- That plaintiff mailed defendant a Notice of Lien Sale and blank Declaration in Opposition to Lien Sale, as required by Bus. & Prof. Code § 21705, and the date of mailing (Paragraph 15).

- That plaintiff received an executed Declaration in Opposition to Lien Sale, and the date of receipt (Paragraph 16).

- An optional allegation for use when the rental agreement provides for payment of attorney's fees (Paragraph 17).

[4] Verification

A complaint that seeks to enforce an owner's lien authorized by Bus. & Prof. Code § 21702 for unpaid rent or other charges on personal property located at a self-service storage facility must be verified [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21710(a)].

[5] Summons and Service

For the mandatory Judicial Council summons form for use in actions to enforce storage liens [Judicial Council Form SUM-140], see § 517.51.

The summons and complaint may be served by certified mail, postage prepaid, addressed to the defendant(s) at the address provided in the rental agreement or in a subsequent written notice of change of address. Service is deemed completed on the fifth day after the mailing, or in any other manner authorized by Code Civ. Proc. § 413.10 et seq. [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21710(a); see generally Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

[6] Time for Response

The defendant has 10 days within which to respond to the complaint after service of the summons is completed; this time may be extended for good cause [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21710(b)]. If the defendant does not respond by answer or demurrer within the time allowed after service is completed, the clerk, or the judge if there is no clerk, on application of the plaintiff, will enter the defendant's default, and the plaintiff may apply to the court for judgment in the amount of the lien, including costs [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21710(c); see generally Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments].

[7] Enforcement

The plaintiff may enforce a judgment entered in an action on a lien authorized by Bus. & Prof. Code § 21700 et seq. by a sale of the property. The sale must be conducted in a commercially reasonable manner, and must take place 10 days or more from the entry of judgment, unless within that time period, or at any time prior to the sale, the occupant pays the owner the full amount of the judgment [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21710(d)]. Enforcement of the judgment may be stayed, pending appeal, if the occupant posts a bond in an amount one and one-half times the amount of the judgment. If the occupant posts a bond, the property may be released to him or her [Bus. & Prof. Code § 21710(e)].

[2] Use of Form

The summons illustrated in [1], above, is a reproduction of a form adopted by the Judicial Council for use in a civil action to enforce a storage lien on personal property [see § 517.50]. Use of this form, when applicable is mandatory [see Gov. Code § 68511; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.31; Judicial Council Form SUM-140].

This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

For additional discussion regarding the service of summons and complaint in this type of action, see § 517.50[5]. For general discussion of completion of the standard Judicial Council summons forms generally, see Ch. 517, Service of Summons and Papers, § 518.70. For discussion and forms relating to proof of service of the summons in civil actions generally, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

Chapter 518 SERVICE OF SUMMONS AND PAPERS
PART I. SCOPE

45-518 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 518.01

§ 518.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses the requirements for the service of summons in civil actions generally under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 410.10-418.10 and in those special proceedings whose governing statutes incorporate the rules of practice set forth in Part Two of the Code of Civil Procedure (Code Civ. Proc. §§ 410.10-418.10), such as, Fam. Code § 2331 and Code Civ. Proc. § 1167 (unlawful detainer) [see § 518.10 et seq.]. The chapter includes checklists for service and filing proof of service of summons [see § 518.60] and for responding to summons [see § 518.61]. The chapter also contains the following forms relating to summons:

- Judicial Council approved forms of summonses and proofs of service [see §§ 518.70 -518.73].
- Forms of applications for orders and of orders relating to service of summons [see §§ 518.74, 518.75].
- Form of declarations for return of summons when the defendant could not be served because he or she could not be found [see § 518.76].
- Form of declaration of mailing of summons and complaint pursuant to an order for service by publication [see § 518.78].

This chapter also discusses service of papers and pleadings during the pendency of civil actions under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 465 and 1010-1020 [see § 518.30 et seq.] and provides a procedural checklist for serving papers under those sections [see § 518.62]. It includes forms of declaration of proof of service in the following ways:

- By personal service [see §§ 518.90, 518.92].
- By service using first-class mail [see §§ 518.91, 518.92].
- By overnight delivery [see § 518.92].

- By messenger service [see § 518.92].
- By facsimile [see § 518.92].
- By e-mail/electronic transmission [see § 518.92].
- By mail using an attorney's certificate in lieu of an affidavit or declaration [see § 518.93].

This chapter also discusses the authorization of and requirements for electronic filing and service of documents under Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6 and Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.250 et seq. [see § 518.40 et seq.].

Chapter 518 SERVICE OF SUMMONS AND PAPERS
PART I. SCOPE

45-518 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 518.03

§ 518.03 Governing Law

The form, contents, issuance, service, and return of summons are governed generally by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 412.10-417.40. A number of special provisions in other parts of the Code of Civil Procedure and in other codes relate to the following:

- The contents of the summons and of any required attachments [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. §§ 460.5, 460.7 (defamation actions), 751.05, 751.07 (action to reestablish destroyed land records), 861.1 (validation action), 990, 991 (proceeding after judgment against joint debtor), 1167, 1167.3 (proceeding in unlawful or forcible detainer or forcible entry); Veh. Code § 17462 (action against nonresident motorist); Civ. Code § 4503;], or providing that the form and contents of the summons shall be as in civil actions generally [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. §§ 872.310(a) (partition action), 1250.120(a) (eminent domain proceeding)];

- Manners of service [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. §§ 751.06, 751.08 (publication and posting, respectively, in action to reestablish destroyed land records), 861 (publication in validation action), 872.310, 872.320, 872.330 (service generally, service by publication, and limitations on service by publication, respectively, in partition action), 1250.120-1250.130 (service by publication and posting in eminent domain proceeding)];

- Particular persons or entities on whom summons is to be served [see, e.g., Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 10151.5 (nonresident real estate licensees), 11007 (nonresident subdividers); Corp. Code §§ 1701-1702, 2011 (domestic corporations); Corp. Code §§ 2110-2111, 2114 (foreign corporations); Corp. Code § 15627 (foreign and domestic limited partnerships governed by California Revised Limited Partnership Act); Corp. Code § 15800 (foreign partnerships, with specified exceptions), Corp. Code § 15901.16 (foreign and domestic limited partnerships governed by Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008); Corp. Code § 16959 (registered limited liability partnership whose principal office not in state and foreign limited liability partnership); Corp. Code § 18200 et seq. (unincorporated associations); Gov. Code §§ 960.2, 960.3 (public entities); Ins. Code § 12931 (reciprocal and nonresident insurers); Veh. Code §§ 17451, 17454, 17455 (nonresident motorists); Pub. Util. Code § 21414 (nonresident aircraft operators); Harb. & Nav. Code § 601 (nonresident boat owners); Code Civ. Proc. §§ 474 (fictitiously named defendants), 1018 (foreign corporations, nonresidents, or absent residents incurring tax liability in California), 1250.140 (eminent domain proceeding against state)]; and

- Proof of service [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2010, 2011 (publication); Veh. Code § 17456 (actions against nonresident motorists)].

The mandatory or discretionary dismissal of an action for failure to serve and return the summons within specified periods after the action is commenced against a defendant is governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.210-583.250 and 583.410-583.430.

In cases proceeding under the Trial Court Delay Reduction Act of 1986 (Gov. Code § 68600 et seq.), local rules affect deadlines for service and return of summons. For further discussion of these rules, see § 518.22[2].

Service of pleadings [see Code Civ. Proc. § 422.10] subsequent to the complaint is required by Code Civ. Proc. § 465 and service of notices of motion and papers by Code Civ. Proc. § 1010. The manners in which papers may be served are set forth in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1011-1020.

Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a) authorizes trial courts to adopt local rules for electronic filing and service of documents subject to rules adopted by the Judicial Council under Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(b). Any trial court local rules so adopted are subject to enumerated conditions set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a). The Judicial Council has adopted uniform, statewide rules of court addressing electronic filing and service [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.250 et seq.].

45-518 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 518.10

§ 518.10 "Summons" Defined

A summons is the process or notice [see Code Civ. Proc. § 17(b)(6); Gov. Code §§ 22, 26660] by which a court acquires jurisdiction over the person of a defendant or cross defendant and over the subject of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.50; see also Harrington v. Superior Court (1924) 194 Cal. 185, 189, 228 P. 15 ; Pinon v. Pollard (1945) 69 Cal. App. 2d 129, 133, 158 P.2d 254] . By its service, the court presumably also acquires jurisdiction over the person of the plaintiff. Although this is not expressly stated in Code Civ. Proc. § 410.50, it is implied, and it was expressly provided in former Code Civ. Proc. § 416 [see Mungia v. Superior Court (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 280, 284, 37 Cal. Rptr. 285 ; Apartments, Inc. v. Trott (1959) 172 Cal. App. 2d 7, 14, 342 P.2d 32] , the predecessor to Code Civ. Proc. § 410.50. The Judicial Council, in its Official Comment to Code Civ. Proc. § 410.50, has indicated that no change in the prior law was intended.

45-518 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 518.11

§ 518.11 Procedural Due Process Requirement

The Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution provides that no state shall deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law [U.S. Const., amend. XIV, § 1]. This prohibition has been construed to mean that no person shall be deprived of life, liberty, or property without first having received notice of the claim or charge against the person and an opportunity to be heard in opposition to it. Thus, the American Law Institute has provided that a state may not exercise judicial jurisdiction over a person, although the person is subject to its judicial jurisdiction, unless a reasonable method is employed to give the person notice of the action and unless the person is afforded a reasonable opportunity to be heard [Restatement (Second) Conflict of Laws § 25]. This prohibition has been referred to as "procedural due process" to distinguish it from "substantive due process" (which goes to the power of the state's legislative branch to enact laws).

In California, notice of the claim against a defendant in a civil action is given by the service of a summons on the person [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 412.20, 413.10-416.90; see also §§ 518.10, 518.15]. The nature of the claim against the defendant is set forth in the complaint that accompanies the summons [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.10-415.45]. Mere knowledge by a defendant of plaintiff's suit is neither equivalent to nor a substitute for adequate service of summons and complaint [Kuchins v. Hawes (1990) 226 Cal. App. 3d 535, 540, 276 Cal. Rptr. 281] .

A defendant who makes a general appearance forfeits any objection to personal jurisdiction based on defective service, even when the defendant does not know at the time that such an objection is available. Any rule that a general appearance does not waive objections to service unless the waiver is knowing and intelligent would exalt form over substance; a defendant who has actual knowledge of the action and who has submitted to the authority of the court should not be able to assert a violation of rules that exist only to bring about such knowledge and submission [Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. v. Sparks Construction (2004) 114 Cal. App. 4th 1135, 1148, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 446] .

Various constitutional and statutory provisions provide that specified persons are immune to service of summons at specified times or for specified periods, or both, or immune to suit altogether. 45-518 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 518.13

§ 518.13 Acquisition of In Personam Jurisdiction

[1] By Service of Summons or General Appearance

Except as otherwise provided by statute, the court in which an action is pending has jurisdiction over a party from the time summons is served on him or her as provided by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 413.10-417.40. A general appearance is equivalent to personal service of summons on that party [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.50(a)]. For what constitutes a general appearance, as well as the distinction between general and special appearances, see Ch. 323, Jurisdiction: Personal .

Once the court obtains jurisdiction court over the parties, jurisdiction over the parties and the subject matter of the action continues throughout subsequent proceedings in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.50(b); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 410.60 (jurisdiction over trustees and stockholders or members of corporation that has forfeited its charter or right to do business or has dissolved); Code Civ. Proc. § 410.70 (jurisdiction of court to proceed against defendant or defendants served in action on contract against two or more defendants jointly, jointly and severally, or severally liable on a contract)].

[2] Minimum Contacts Requirement

For a California court to acquire personal jurisdiction over a defendant served outside this state, the defendant must have certain minimum contacts with this state so that "maintenance of the action does not offend traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice" as that requirementis construed primarily by the United States Supreme Court [see International Shoe Co. v. Washington (1945) 326 U.S. 310, 316, 66 S. Ct. 154, 90 L. Ed. 95 (leading case); Kulko v. California Superior Court (1979) 436 U.S. 84, 91-92, 98 S. Ct. 1690, 56 L. Ed. 2d 132] . That is, the exercise of jurisdiction by the court must not be inconsistent with the due process requirements of the constitution of this state or of the United States [Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10].

For a more detailed discussion of the minimum contacts requirement as it impacts on the court's jurisdiction over the person of a defendant or cross defendant, see Ch. 323, Jurisdiction: Personal .

§ 518.14 Issuance of Summons and Amended Summons

[1] Issuance by Clerk and Court's Retention of Original Summons

After payment of the applicable fees [see Gov. Code §§ 70611, 70613], the plaintiff or cross complainant may have the clerk issue one or more summonses for any defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 412.10]. The clerk must keep each original summons in the court records and provide a copy of each summons issued to the plaintiff who requested issuance of the summons [Code Civ. Proc. § 412.10].

Amendments to Code Civ. Proc. § 412.10 effective January 1, 2006, deleted the requirement of giving the plaintiff the original summons, and deleted the requirement that the summons be returned or a declaration of lost summons be filed with the court [2005 Stats. 300].

The clerk's issuance of a summons is a routine ministerial duty when the filing of a complaint and payment of fees [Maginn v. City of Glendale (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 1102, 1107, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 639] .

A court may not issue a summons by fax because a court may not issue by fax any document intended to carry the original seal of the court [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.300(b)].

For discussion of the court's power to issue an electronic summons, see 518.14[2], below.

The California Judicial Council has adopted mandatory forms for summons in a civil action depending on the type of action or procedure:

- SUM-100, Summons
- SUM-110, Summons--Cross-Complaint
- SUM-120, Summons (Joint Debtor)

- SUM-130, Summons--Unlawful Detainer--Eviction
- SUM-140, Summons--Storage Lien Enforcement

For an illustration of SUM-100, Summons, see § 518.70. For an illustration of SUM-110, Summons--Cross-Complaint, see § 518.70A. For a checklist for use by a plaintiff in preparing and serving summons, see § 518.60.

[2] Electronic Summons

Trial courts are authorized to adopt local rules permitting electronic filing and service of documents subject to rules adopted by the Judicial Council pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(b) and the conditions set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a) [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.259(f)]. If a trial court enacts such local rules, on the electronic filing of a complaint, petition, or other document that must be served with a summons, the trial court, upon request of the party filing the action, must issue a summons with the court seal and the case number, and the court must keep the summons in its records and may electronically transmit a copy of the summons to the requesting party [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(5); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.259(f)(2)].

If the trial court plans to electronically transmit a summons to the party filing a complaint, the court must immediately on receipt of the complaint notify the attorney or party that a summons will be electronically transmitted to the electronic address given by the person filing the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(5)].

Personal service of the printed form of an electronic summons has the same legal effect as personal service of an original summons [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(5); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.259(f)(3)].

For further discussion of electronic filing, see § 518.40 et seq.

[3] Multiple Copies Available

Under Code Civ. Proc. § 412.10, any number of copied summonses may be issued. Hence, if a summons is lost before service, counsel may simply have a new copy issued.

[4] Amended Summons

Once jurisdiction over a defendant is obtained by service of a copy of the summons and a copy of the complaint, amendment of the complaint does not require either a new summons or a new service of summons upon the defendant; the amended complaint alone is served, usually upon the defendant's attorney [see Judicial Council Comment to Code Civ. Proc. § 412.10]; but, if the complaint is amended before any service, an amended summons that refers to the amended complaint should be issued and served with a copy of the amended complaint [see Judicial Council Comment to Code Civ. Proc. § 412.10; Dowling v. Comerford (1893) 99 Cal. 204, 206, 33 P. 853 ; Koeper v. Koeper (1954) 125 Cal. App. 2d 118, 119, 269 P.2d 905] . However, if an amendment adds a new party defendant, an amended or new summons naming that party as a defendant must be issued and served upon the new defendant, since no jurisdiction would be obtained by serving the defendant with a copy of the summons that does not name the defendant [see Judicial Council Comment to Code Civ. Proc. § 412.10; Baldwin v. Foster (1910) 157 Cal. 643, 647, 108 P. 714 ; W.H. Marston Co. v. Kochritz (1926) 80 Cal. App. 352, 361, 251 P. 959] . Section 412.10 permits the plaintiff, or in appropriate cases a cross complainant, to secure, as a matter of course, the issuance of such amended summons [see Judicial Council Comment to Code Civ. Proc. § 412.10; cf. Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 4(h)].

Chapter 518 SERVICE OF SUMMONS AND PAPERS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Service of Summons

45-518 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 518.15

§ 518.15 Service of Summons

[1] Governing Statutes

The service of summons is governed by Chapter 4, Title 5, Part Two, of the Code of Civil Procedure [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 413.10-417.40].

Code Civ. Proc. § 413.10 provides that, except as otherwise provided by statute, a summons is served as follows:

> (a) Within California as provided by Chapter 4;
> (b) Outside California but within the United States, as provided by Chapter 4, or as prescribed by the law of the place where the person is served; or
> (c) Outside the United States, as provided in Chapter 4 or as directed by the court in which the action is pending, or, if the court before or after service finds that the service is reasonably calculated to give actual notice, as prescribed by the law of the place where the person is served or as directed by the foreign authority in response to a letter rogatory. These rules are subject to the provisions of the Convention on the "Service Abroad of Judicial and Extrajudicial Documents" in Civil or Commercial Matters (Hague Service Convention) [see § 518.16[9]].

The prefatory phrase, "Except as otherwise provided by statute," as used in Code Civ. Proc. § 413.10, would seem to make it clear that the methods of service prescribed in the section may be used in all civil actions, even when another statute prescribes a special method of service, unless the other statute expressly prohibits use of the general statutes or conditions their use on court approval. Some of the special statutes expressly refer to the general statutes [see, e.g., Corp. Code §§ 1700, 2011(c) (domestic corporations), 2110.1 (foreign corporations)], though others merely prescribe a special method or methods of service without indicating that the general methods may also be used. In those cases, use of the general methods of service would appear to be available at the attorney's option [see discussion in Li, Attorney's Guide to California Jurisdiction and Process, § 1.17 (Cal. C.E.B. 1970)].

[2] In Case Not Covered by Statute

When no provision is made for service of summons, or when the statutory procedure cannot wholly or partly be followed in a particular action, the court in which the action is pending may direct that summons be served in a manner that is reasonably calculated to give actual notice to the party to be served and that proof of service be made as prescribed by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 413.30; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 187 (implied powers of court); Li, Attorney's Guide to California Jurisdiction and Process, § 1.19 (Cal. C.E.B. 1970)].

[3] By Whom Made

[a] Qualifications

A summons may be served by any person who is at least 18 years of age and not a party to the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 414.10], and hence may be served by a party's attorney [Sheehan v. All Persons, etc. (1926) 80 Cal. App. 393, 398, 252 P. 337] .

Various code provisions, however, expressly authorize or require service by specified persons. For example, Gov. Code § 26665 provides that process in civil actions or proceedings may be served by any duly qualified and acting marshal or sheriff of any county in the state, subject to the Code of Civil Procedure [see also Gov. Code § 26608 (service by sheriffs)].

In any action or proceeding in which the sheriff is a party, the coroner is required to discharge the duties of sheriff [Gov. Code § 27469]. This includes execution of the process or orders in the action or proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 262.6], though, in an action against a sheriff, all process and orders may be served by any United States citizen over the age of 18 [Code Civ. Proc. § 262.7]. In addition, process and orders in an action or proceeding may be executed by a person residing in the county who is designated by the court or the judge thereof and denominated an elisor, in the following cases [Code Civ. Proc. § 262.8]:

- When the sheriff and coroner are both parties;
- When either of these officers is a party, and the process is against the other; or
- When either of these officers is a party, and there is a vacancy in the office of the other, or when it appears by affidavit (or declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]), to the satisfaction of the court in which the proceeding is pending or the judge thereof, that both of these officers are disqualified or by reason of any bias, prejudice, or other cause would not act promptly or impartially.

[b] Registered Process Servers

Registered process servers are governed by Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 22350-22360. Generally, any nonexcepted person who makes more than 10 services of process in California during one calendar year, for specific compensation or in expectation of specific compensation, where that compensation is directly attributable to the service of process, must file and maintain a verified certificate of registration as a process server with the county clerk of the county in which he or she resides or has his or her principal place of business. Similarly, any corporation or partnership that derives or expects to derive compensation from service of process within California must also file and maintain a verified certificate of registration as a process server with the county clerk of the county in which the corporation or partnership has its principal place of business [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22350(a)].

The following are excepted from the filing requirement [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22350(b)]:

- Any sheriff, marshal, or government employee acting in the course of his or her employment.

- An attorney or his or her employees, when serving process related to cases for which the attorney is providing legal services.

- A person specially appointed by a court to serve its process.

- A licensed private investigator or his or her employees.

- A professional photocopier registered under Bus. & Prof. Code § 22450 whose only service of process relates to subpoenas for the production of records, which subpoenas specify that the records be copied by that professional photocopier.

Any service of summons that complies with the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure is not, however, rendered invalid or ineffective because it was made by a person in violation of Bus. & Prof. Code § 22350 et seq. [Code Civ. Proc. § 413.40].

[4] Time for Service of Summons

By statute, a summons and complaint must be served upon a defendant within three years after the action is commenced (i.e. the complaint is filed) [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.210(a)]; and proof of service of the summons must be filed within 60 days after the time the summons and complaint must be served upon a defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.210(b)]. However, Trial Court Delay Reduction rules require the summons and complaint generally to be served on all named defendants and filed with the court within 60 days after the complaint is filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.110(b)]. When the complaint is amended to add a defendant, the added defendant must be served and proof of service must be filed within 30 days after the filing of the amended complaint [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.110(b)].

The time limits of Cal. Rules of Ct, Rule 3.110(b) apply to the service of pleadings in civil cases except for unlawful detainer actions, proceedings under the Family Code, and other proceedings for which different service requirements are prescribed by law [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.110(a)]. Check for local rules that may adjust filing requirements.

Additionally, the 60-day service requirement of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.110(b) does not apply to collections cases, as defined in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.740(a) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.740(c)(1)]. A "collections case" is an action for recovery of not more than $25,000, exclusive of interest and attorney fees, arising from a credit transaction for property, services, or money. The action may not seek [Cal Rules of Ct., Rule 3.740(a)]:

- Tort damages.

- Punitive damages.

- Recovery of real property.

- Recovery of personal property.

- Prejudgment writ of attachment.

The complaint in a collections case must be served on all named defendants, and proofs of service on those defendants must be filed, or the plaintiff must obtain an order for publication of the summons, within 180 days after the filing of the complaint [Cal Rules of Ct., Rule 3.740(d)]. If proofs of service on all defendants are not filed or the plaintiff has not obtained an order for publication of the summons within 180 days after the filing of the complaint, the court may issue an order to show cause why reasonable monetary sanctions should not be imposed. If proofs of service on all defendants are filed or an order for publication of the summons is filed at least 10 court days before the order to show cause hearing, the court must continue the hearing to 360 days after the filing of the complaint [Cal Rules of Ct., Rule 3.740(e)].

A cross-complaint against a party who has appeared in the action must be accompanied by proof of service of the cross-complaint at the time it is filed. If the cross-complaint adds new parties, the cross-complaint must be served on all parties and proofs of service on the new parties must be filed within 30 days of the filing of the cross-complaint [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.110(c)].

The court, on its own motion or on the application of a party, may extend or otherwise modify the times provided in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.110(b)-(d); and an application for a court order extending the time to serve a pleading must be filed before the time for service has elapsed. The application must be accompanied by a declaration showing why service has not been completed, documenting the efforts that have been made to complete service, and specifying the date by which service is proposed to be completed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.110(e)].

For discussion of moving to dismiss for failure to timely serve and file summons and complaint, see § 518.22.

Chapter 518 SERVICE OF SUMMONS AND PAPERS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Service of Summons

45-518 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 518.16

§ 518.16 Manners of Serving Summons

[1] Hand Delivery

A summons may be served by personal delivery, that is, hand delivery of a copy of the summons and a copy of the complaint to the person to be served. Service of a summons in this manner is deemed complete at the time of delivery [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.10].

Personal service usually contemplates actual delivery of a copy of the summons and a copy of the complaint to the person to be served. The person on whom service is sought, however, is not permitted to deny personal service on the ground of lack of delivery by merely declining to take the document offered, when, under the circumstances, it would be obvious to a reasonable person that personal service was being attempted. In such a case, service may be made by merely depositing the process in some appropriate place where it would be most likely to come to the attention of the person being served [Crescendo Corp. v. Shelted, Inc. (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 209, 212, 72 Cal. Rptr. 776] .

Personal service of a printed form of an electronic summons issued under local court rule adopted pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6 has the samelegal effect as personal service of an original summons [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(5); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.259]. For discussion of the issuance of electronic summons, see § 518.47.

[2] Substituted Service

[a] Term "Constructive Service" Distinguished

The terms "substituted service" and "constructive service" are sometimes used interchangeably. Strictly speaking, however, constructive service consists of service by publication or posting (discussed at [6], below), whereas substituted service consists of delivery of a copy of the summons and a copy of the complaint to a person other than the defendant who is authorized by the defendant, or by law, to receive service on defendant's behalf. Code Civ. Proc. § 416.90, for example, provides that a summons may be served on a person not otherwise specified in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 416.10-416.80 (persons to be served) by delivering a copy of the summons and a copy of the complaint to that person or to a person authorized by him or her to receive service or process. Service on the agent under this section constitutes substituted service on the defendant [see Warner Bros. Records, Inc. v. Golden West Music Sales (1974) 36 Cal. App. 3d 1012, 1018, 112 Cal. Rptr. 71] . For determining who is a proper agent for acceptance of service on behalf of a defendant, a specific appointment is not required, but the principal-agent relationship must be close and enduring enough to make it highly probable the defendant will receive actual notice [Summers v. McClanahan (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 403, 412, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 338 (service on actor's personal manager did not comport with statutory requirements despite defendant having actual notice of complaint)].

[b] Statutes Authorizing Substituted Service

In addition there are a number of other statutes in the Code of Civil Procedure and other codes authorizing service on behalf of a specified defendant to be made on, among others, the Secretary of State, the Commissioner of Corporations, the Director of Motor Vehicles, The Department of Real Estate, and the Insurance Commissioner.

Examples of such statutes are:

- Bus. & Prof. Code § 10151.5 (nonresident real estate licensee).
- Bus. & Prof. Code § 11007 (nonresident subdivider).
- Corp. Code §§ 1702, 2011(b) (domestic corporation).
- Corp. Code §§ 2111, 2114(b) (foreign corporation).
- Corp. Code § 15800 (foreign partnership).
- Corp. Code § 25550 (violator of Corporate Securities Law).
- Corp. Code § 31420 (Franchise Investment Law).
- Gov. Code §§ 960.2, 960.3, 53051 (public entity).
- Veh. Code §§ 17451, 17454, 17455 (nonresident motorist).
- Prob. Code § 8574 (nonresident executor).
- Ins. Code § 12931 (reciprocal and nonresident insurers).

These statutes are all discussed at § 518.17.

Substituted service is also recognized in relation to gated communities [see Bein v. Brechtel-Jochim Group, Inc. (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1387, 1393, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 351 ; see also § 518.18[2]].

To obtain in personam jurisdiction through any form of substituted service, strict compliance with the statutory procedures is required, and the applicable statutes are strictly construed. The form of substituted service utilized must be reasonably calculated to give an interested party actual notice of the proceedings and an opportunity to be heard, so that traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice implicit in due process are satisfied [Zirbes v. Stratton (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1407, 1416, 232 Cal. Rptr. 653 (involving substituted service, but using "substituted" and "constructive" interchangeably); compare Zirbes with Stafford v. Mach (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 1174, 1183, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 809 (involving substituted service under Code Civ. Proc. § 415.20; pre-1969 service of process statutes requiring strict and exact compliance have now been more liberally construed to effectuate service if actual notice has been received by defendant)].

[3] Combination Service

[a] Business and Public Entities

In certain situations, a combination of substituted service and service by mail may be used in lieu of personal delivery to effect service of the summons. Thus, in lieu of personal delivery of the papers to the person to be served as specified in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 416.10 (corporations), 416.20 (dissolved corporations or corporations having forfeited their charter or right to do business), 416.30 (joint stock companies), 416.40 (unincorporated associations and partnerships), and 416.50 (public entities), all discussed at § 518.18[1] -[6], the summons may be served by leaving a copy of the summons and complaint during usual office hours in his or her office or, if no physical address is known, at his/her usual mailing address, other than a U.S Postal Service post office box, with the person who is apparently in charge thereof, and by thereafter mailing a copy of the summons and complaint by first-class mail, postage prepaid to the person to be served at the place where a copy of the summons and complaint were left. When service is effected by leaving a copy of the summons and complaint at a mailing address, it must be left with a person at least 18 years of age, who must be informed of the contents thereof [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.20(a)].

Service of a summons in this manner is deemed complete on the 10th day after the mailing [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.20(a)].

A defendant will not be permitted to defeat service by rendering physical service impossible. The purpose of Code Civ. Proc. § 415.20 is to permit service to be completed on a good faith attempt at physical service on a responsible person, plus actual notification of the action by mailing thesummons and complaint to the appropriate party [Khourie, Crew & Jaeger v. Sabek, Inc. (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 1009, 1013, 269 Cal. Rptr. 687] .

ILLUSTRATION:

Combination Service on Corporation Held Effective. A process server attempting service on a domestic corporation (1) went to the defendant's place of business, during usual business hours, and, finding the door locked, rang the bell; (2) a woman responded but refused to unlock the door or tell the server her name and said she would not accept the papers; (3) the server told the woman he was leaving the papers outside the door and did so as she watched him; and (4) the server thereafter mailed a copy of the complaint and summons to the defendant at its place of business. Is this sufficient to effect service? Yes. The process server provided actual notice of the documents to the person apparently in charge of the office and, prevented by the person from leaving them inside the office, left them on the other side of the office door. No more is required to effect service other than to mail a copy of the summons and complaint to defendant, which the process server did, and the service therefore became complete 10 days after the mailing [Khourie, Crew & Jaeger v. Sabek, Inc. (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 1009, 1012-1014, 269 Cal. Rptr. 687] .

[b] Individuals

[i] Generally

If a copy of the summons and complaint cannot with reasonable diligence be delivered personally to the person to be served as specified in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 416.60 (minors), 416.70 (persons other than minors having a guardian, conservator, or similar fiduciary appointed), 416.80 (candidates for public office), or 416.90 (persons not otherwise specified), the summons may be served by leaving a copy of the summons and complaint at one of the following locations [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.20(b)]:

- The person's dwelling house.

- The person's usual place of abode.
- The person's usual place of business.
- The person's usual mailing address other than a U.S. Postal Service post office box.

The terms "dwelling house" and "usual place of abode" take their meaning from the federal rules. The meaning of these terms is not clearly defined in the abstract but must be answered with the notice requirements of due process in mind [Zirbes v. Stratton (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1407, 1416-1417, 232 Cal. Rptr. 653 (home of parents of party not party's abode when party maintained household elsewhere)].

The papers must be left in the presence of a competent member of the household or a person apparently in charge of the office, place of business,or usual mailing address, who is at least 18 years of age and who must be informed of contents of the papers served [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.20(b)].

Thereafter, a copy of the summons and of the complaint must be mailed, by first-class mail, postage prepaid, to the person to be served at the place where the copies of the papers were left [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.20(b)].

Service in this manner is deemed complete on the 10th day after mailing [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.20(b)].

The plain language of Code Civ. Proc. § 415.20(b) authorizes substitute service at a defendant's usual mailing address, which can include a private/commercial post office box [Ellard v. Conway (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 540, 546, 114 Cal. Rptr. 2d 399] .

[ii] Reasonable Diligence

Service under Code Civ. Proc. § 415.20(b) is available only as indicated in [i], above, after plaintiff has exercised reasonable diligence in attempting to effect personal service [Evartt v. Superior Court (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 795, 799-802 ; see Stafford v. Mach (1988) 64 Cal. App. 4th 1174, 1182, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 809 (reasonable diligence requirement to permit substituted service ordinarily should be satisfied when personal service has been attempted two or three times)].

As a condition of establishing that the party to be served cannot with reasonable diligence be served in another manner specified in this article, the court may not require that a search be conducted of public databases where access by a registered process server to residential addresses is prohibited by law or by published policy of the agency providing the database, including, but not limited to, voter registration rolls and records of the department of motor vehicles [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.50(e)].

On a motion to quash service of summons served under Code Civ. Proc. § 415.20(b), the burden is on plaintiff to show that reasonable diligence to effect personal service was exercised; however, no single formula or mode of search can be said to constitute reasonable diligence in every case and each case must, therefore, be judged on its own facts [Evartt v. Superior Court (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 795, 801, 152 Cal. Rptr. 836 (holding reasonable diligence under facts of case was not exercised and issuing writ of mandate directing trial court to vacate its order denying defendant's motion to quash service)].

Whether or not there has been reasonable diligence should be liberally construed to effectuate service and uphold jurisdiction of the court if actual notice has been received by the defendant [Espindola v. Nunez (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1389, 1391, 245 Cal. Rptr. 596 (reasonable diligence was shown when process server served wife and left husband's copy of summons and complaint with her on fourth attempt to serve husband and wife defendants at their home);

Burchett v. City of Newport Beach (1995) 33 Cal. App. 4th 1472, 1477-1478 , 40 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 (service quashed when plaintiffs exercised no diligence whatsoever)].

[4] Mail and Acknowledgment of Receipt

[a] Procedure

The summons may also be served by mail. This is done by sending a copy of the summons and a copy of the complaint, together with two copies of the notice and acknowledgment of receipt specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 415.30(b), discussed below, and a return envelope, postage prepaid, addressed to the sender, by first-class mail or airmail, postage prepaid, to the person to be served [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.30(a)]. If summons is to be served outside the United States, the return postage may be prepaid at the post office.

A post office box is a sufficient address for Code Civ. Proc. § 415.30 service when the plaintiff knows the person to be served is receiving mail at that address [Transamerica Title Ins. Co. v. Hendrix (1995) 34 Cal. App. 4th 740, 744-746, 40 Cal. Rptr. 2d 614 (Code Civ. Proc. § 415.50 service by publication not authorized when plaintiff knew of post office box and did not attempt service by mail)].

The notice and acknowledgment of receipt of summons sent must be substantially in the form prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 415.30(b), though a notice of acknowledgment of receipt in form approved by the Judicial Council [see § 518.73] is deemed to comply with the section [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.30(e)].

[b] When Service Is Complete

Service of summons by mail is deemed complete on the date a written acknowledgment of receipt is executed, if the acknowledgment is thereafter returned to the sender [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.30(c)]. The written acknowledgment of receipt may be on the Judicial Council's approved form [see § 518.73] or on any other form satisfactory to the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 417.10(a)].

A person so served who fails to complete and return an acknowledgment within 20 days from the date it was mailed will be liable for reasonable expenses thereafter incurred in serving or attempting to serve the person by another permitted method. The court in which the action is pending, on motion, with or without notice, must, except for good cause shown, award the party making service such expenses whether or not that party is otherwise entitled to recover costs in the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.30(d)].

When the summons is served by mail, the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1013 extending the time for exercising a right or doing an act do notextend any time specified in the foregoing paragraph or the time in which the defendant must file a responsive pleading [Code Civ. Proc. § 413.20].

[5] Certified or Registered Mail (Outside California)

The summons may be served on a person outside California by sending a copy of the summons and a copy of the complaint to the person to be served by first-class mail, postage prepaid, requiring a return receipt [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.40].

Service by return receipt first-class mail pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 415.40 is deemed complete on the 10th day after mailing [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.40] and the time extensions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1013 do not apply [Code Civ. Proc. § 413.20]. Effective service by mail on a defendant outside the state does not require an executed acknowledgment of receipt [Bolkiah v. Superior Court (1999) 74 Cal. App. 4th 984, 1000, 88 Cal. Rptr. 2d 540] . Read together, Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.40 and 417.20 permit completion of service by mail when the return receipt is signed by a person so authorized by the defendant, and evidence that a mailed summons actually reached the individual to be served is sufficient to establish valid service, and thus to establish substantial compliance, even if the summons was signed for by someone who did not have the authority to do so [Cruz v. Fagor America, Inc. (2007) 146 Cal. App. 4th 488, 499-500, 52 Cal. Rptr. 3d 862] . For requirements of proof of service concerning service under Code Civ. Proc. § 415.40, see § 518.20[4][a].

The summons may be served on a person outside the United States as provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 413.10-417.40 or as directed by the court in which the action is pending or, if the court before or after service finds that the service is reasonably calculated to give actual notice, as prescribed by the law of the place where the person is served or as directed by the foreign authority in response to a letter rogatory. These rules are subject to the provisions of the Convention on the "Service Abroad of Judicial and Extrajudicial Documents" in Civil or Commercial Matters (Hague Service Convention) [Code Civ. Proc. § 413.10(c); see also [9], below].

[6] Publication (Constructive Service)

[a] Affidavit for Service by Publication

The summons may be served by publication if, on affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) the following facts appear to the satisfaction of the court in which the action is pending [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.50(a)]:

(1) That the party to be served cannot with reasonable diligence be served in any of the following manners:

(a) Hand delivery under Code Civ. Proc. § 415.10 [see [1], above];

(b) Combination service under Code Civ. Proc. § 415.20 [see [3], above];

(c) Mail and acknowledgment service under Code Civ. Proc. § 415.30 [see [4], above]; or

(d) First-class mail to a person outside California with return receipt required under Code Civ. Proc. § 415.40 [see [5], above]; and

(2) That either

(a) A cause of action exists against the party on whom service is to be made or the party is a necessary or proper party to the action; or

(b) The party to be served has or claims an interest in real or personal property in California that is subject to the jurisdiction of the court or the relief demanded in the action consists wholly or in part in excluding the party from any interest in that property.

For forms of application and order for service by publication, see § 518.74.

[b] Order for Service by Publication

On a proper application and showing [see § 518.74[1]], the court will order that the summons be published in a named newspaper published in California that is most likely to give actual notice to the party to be served. If the party to be served resides or is located out of this state, the court may also order the summons to be published in a named newspaper outside this state that is most likely to give actual notice to that party [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.50(b)]. The court will also direct that a copy of the summons and a copy of the complaint be forthwith mailed to the party if the party's address is ascertained before the time prescribed for publication of summons expires. Except as otherwise provided by statute, the publication is made as provided in Gov. Code § 6064 (once a week for four successive weeks), unless the court in its discretion orders publication for a longer period [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.50(b); see § 518.74[2]].

Notwithstanding an order for publication, the summons may be served in another manner authorized by "this chapter," that is, by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 413.10-417.40, in which event the service supersedes any published summons [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.50(d)].

[c] Completion of Service by Publication

Service of summons by publication is deemed complete as provided in Gov. Code § 6064 [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.50(c)].

If service is to be by publication, the publication must be completed before the expiration of the three year mandatory dismissal period for service of summons [see Watts v. Crawford (1995) 10 Cal. 4th 743, 761, 42 Cal. Rptr. 2d 81, 896 P.2d 807 (disapproving Quaranta v. Merlini (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 22, 237 Cal. Rptr. 179); Perez v. Smith (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 1595, 1599-1600, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 186 ; see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.210, 583.250].

[d] Service of Statement of Damages by Publication

If a party has not appeared in an action, a statement of damages must be served in the same manner as a summons before a default may be taken [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.11(c), (d)]; this provision applies even where a summons was served by publication. Once a party obtains a court order allowing service of the summons and complaint by publication, a separate order is not necessary to also simultaneously serve the statement of damages by publication [Anastos v. Lee (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 1314, 1318, 13 Cal. Rptr. 3d 716] .

[7] Unlawful Detainer Proceeding

The summons in a proceeding for unlawful detainer, forcible entry, or forcible detainer must be served and returned in the same manner as a summons in a civil action [Code Civ. Proc. § 1167], that is, in the manner provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 413.10-417.40. These sections include provisions specifically authorizing service of summons in certain unlawful detainer proceedings by a combination of posting the premises and mailing [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.45] or by certified mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.47]. For further discussion and a form of summons for use in unlawful detainer proceedings, see Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions .

[8] Transmitted by Telegraph

A summons may be transmitted by telegraph for service anywhere. The telegraphic copy may be served by the officer or person to whom it is sent for that purpose and returned by that person in the same manner and with the same effect as the original could have been had it been delivered to him or her. The officer or person serving the summons has the same authority and is subject to the same liabilities as if the copy were the original. The telegraph operator need not telegraph a description of the seal or any word or device on it, but the seal may be expressed in the telegraphic copy by the letters "L.S." (locus sigilli, Latin for place of the seal), or by the word "seal" [Code Civ. Proc. § 1017].

[9] In Foreign Country

[a] Convention on Service Abroad

[i] Existence of and Signatories to Convention

The rules for service of summons outside the United States are subject to the provisions of the Convention on the "Service Abroad of Judicial and Extrajudicial Documents" in Civil or Commercial Matters (Hague Service Convention)

[Code Civ. Proc. § 413.10(c)].

In addition to the United States, the signatories include the following as of 1995:

- Antigua and Barbuda
- Barbados
- Belgium
- Botswana
- Canada
- China
- Cyprus
- Czech Republic
- Denmark
- Egypt
- Finland
- France
- Germany
- Greece
- Ireland
- Israel
- Italy
- Japan
- Luxembourg
- Malawi
- Netherlands
- Norway
- Pakistan

- Portugal
- Seychelles
- Slovak Republic
- Spain
- Sweden
- Turkey
- United Kingdom

Through the United Kingdom the treaty extends to many British territories, including Bermuda, British Virgin Islands, and Fiji.

On the part of the United States, the treaty covers service in all of the states, the District of Columbia, Guam, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands. The treaty is binding on the states pursuant to U.S. Const., art. VI, *cl. 2.*A state court may not assume jurisdiction in a case when to do so would violate the treaty [Shoei Kako Co. v. Superior Court (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 808, 819, 109 Cal. Rptr. 402 ; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 413.10(c)].

[Ii] Determining When Convention Governs

If the address of the person to be served is known, a summons may be served on that person in certain foreign countries pursuant to the Convention on the Service Abroad of Judicial and Extrajudicial Documents in Civil and Commercial Matters [20 U.S.T. 361; for text and accompanying declarations of signatories, see 28 U.S.C.A., Fed. R. Civ. P., following Rule 4, after Notes of the Advisory Committee on Rules in annual pocket part].

Service through the Hague Service Convention provides the exclusive means of service on a foreign national whose foreign address is known [Code Civ. Proc. § 413.10(c); Kott v. Superior Court (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 1126, 1130, 53 Cal. Rptr. 2d 215 ; see also Suzuki Motor Co. v. Superior Court (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 1476, 1484, 249 Cal. Rptr. 376 ; Dr. Ing H.C.F. Porsche A.G. v. Superior Court (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 755, 760, 177 Cal. Rptr. 155] .

If the person's address is unknown, the Convention does not apply and service by publication in California is appropriate [People v. Parcel No. 056-500-09 (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 120, 125, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 51 (service by publication upheld); Kott v. Superior Court (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 1126, 1130-1131, 53 Cal. Rptr. 2d 215 (service by publication improper due to lack of diligence in determining defendant's address); see Code Civ. Proc. § 415.50]. For discussion of service by publication, see [6], above.

ILLUSTRATION:

Diligence Required in Determining Defendant's Status and Address. At the start of the case, plaintiff apparently believed the individual defendant was an employee of a corporate defendant with offices in Beverly Hills. When plaintiff attempted to serve the individual defendant at the corporate office, the process server was told that the individual defendant was not available there and was not eligible for substituted service. Nevertheless, plaintiff's process server left a copy of the summons and complaint at the corporate office in Beverly Hills, mailed a copy to the individual defendant at that address, and filed an affidavit of due diligence. The individual defendant filed a motion to quash, at which point counsel for both the corporate and individual defendants explained that the individual defendant was not an employee of the corporate defendant, but rather the agent of a firm consulting to the corporate defendant, and a Canadian national. The motion to quash was granted, but then plaintiff sought to serve the individual defendant by publication in Los Angeles on the basis of an investigation that found no address, telephone listing, motor vehicle registration, voter registration, or record of property ownership for the individual defendant in Los Angeles County. The court issued an order for service by publication of summons in the Los Angeles Daily Journal. Defendants' counsel sought to quash that service. Were plaintiff's attempts to locate defendant sufficient to support service in Los Angeles by publication? No. After plaintiff learned the individual defendant was a Canadian national, it made no attempt to locate defendant in Canada, nor did it inquire of defendants' counsel as to the location of the individual defendant or if counsel was authorized to accept service. The individual defendant's address remained unknown to plaintiff because plaintiff ignored obvious avenues of obtaining that information [Kott v. Superior Court (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 1126, 1131-1133, 53 Cal. Rptr. 2d 215] .

[b] Service Under Convention

[i] Procedure Specified

Service may be effected pursuant to the treaty by the following procedure:

(1) Obtain three or more copies of the "Request for Service Abroad of Judicial or Extrajudicial Documents" and of the "Summary of the Document to Be Served" from any office of the United States Marshal. These are forms prescribed by the treaty.

(2) Fill out both forms in triplicate.

(a) If English is not the official language, or one of the official languages, of the country in which service will be made, complete two sets of forms, one in English, the other in the appropriate foreign language [see Julen v. Larson (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 325, 328-330, 101 Cal. Rptr. 796] . Label each form at the top as a translation (e.g., "English Translation" and, if the other is translated into French, "Traducion Francaise"). The reverse side of the request form is a blank "Certificate" to be completed by the process server in the foreign country.

(b) The request form calls for the identity and address of the applicant and the identity of the receiving authority in the foreign country, to whom the local process server forwards the request and accompanying forms and papers.

(c) The treaty's signatories have each designated a Central Authority to receive requests for service coming from other contracting states. These are contained in the signatories' accompanying declarations to the treaty and are set forth in 28 U.S.C.A., Fed. R. Civ. P., following Rule 4, after Notes of the Advisory Committee on Rules in the annual pocket part. The name and address of the appropriate receiving authority may also be obtained from the office of the United States Marshal or from the United States Department of Justice. Some sheriffs may also be able to provide this information.

(3) If English is not the official language, or one of the official languages, of the country in which service will be made, have the summons and complaint translated into the appropriate foreign language [see Julen v. Larson (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 325, 328-330, 101 Cal. Rptr. 796] . Two copies will be needed.

(4) Deliver the completed forms, copies of the summons and complaint, and translations, if any, all in duplicate, to the appropriate receiving authority in the foreign country or to the local process server, with a request that they be forwarded to the receiving authority in the foreign country as provided in the treaty. Eventually, the certificate on the reverse side of the request form should be returned, showing that service was or was not effected.

Failure to comply with the Convention renders the service void, even if the defendant has actual notice of the lawsuit [Floveyor Internat., Ltd. v. Superior Court (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 789, 794, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 457] .

[ii] Article 10 Alternatives

Article 10 of the treaty provides that, if the state of destination does not object, "the present Convention" shall not interfere with any of the following:

(a) The freedom to send judicial documents by postal channels directly to persons abroad;

(b) The freedom of judicial officers, officials, or other competent persons of the state of origin to effect service of judicial documents directly through the judicial officers, officials, or other competent persons of the state of destination; or

(c) The freedom of any person interested in a judicial proceeding to effect service of judicial documents directly through the judicial officers, officials, or other competent persons of the state of destination.

Article 10(a) of the Convention allows service of process by mail; permitting service by mail under article 10(a) is consistent with the logic and structure of the Convention itself, with the interpretative materials on the issue, including the report of the Commission, Handbook, and State Department, is consistent with the understanding of some of the signatories, and also furthers the Convention's primary purpose of establishing a uniform, simple, and efficient system for establishing service abroad. Allowing service of process by mail, so long as the signatory does not object, promotes a smooth and efficient international legal system [Denlinger v. Chinadotcom Corp. (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 1396, 2 Cal. Rptr. 3d 530] .

The United Kingdom has objected to Article 10 paragraph (c) in a statement that ambiguously referred also to paragraph (b). The objection regarding "service through official channels" was intended to apply to documents from an embassy or consular official, and does not invalidate service under paragraph (b) through "other competent persons of the State of destination" [see Balcom v. Hiller (1996) 46 Cal. App. 4th 1758, 1762, 54 Cal. Rptr. 2d 536 (upholding service in United Kingdom by person who did so in manner authorized by law of United Kingdom)].

For a discussion of article 10 of the Convention and its effect on service by mail outside the United States under the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 413.10(c), 415.30, and 415.40, see Honda Motor Co. v. Superior Court (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 1043, 1049, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 861 (attempted service on Japanese defendant by certified mail as insufficient under Hague Convention); Suzuki Motor Co. v. Superior Court (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 1476, 1484, 249 Cal. Rptr. 376 (service of process on Japanese defendants by registered mail as not authorized by treaty); and Shoei Kako Co. v. Superior Court (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 808, 821-824, 109 Cal. Rptr. 402 . See also [5], above.

[c] Service Under Foreign Service Immunities Act

The Foreign Services Immunity Act (FSIA) (28 U.S.C.S. § 1602 et seq.) is the sole basis for obtaining jurisdiction over a "foreign state," its "political subdivisions" and "agencies or instrumentalities" [Bolkiah v. Superior Court (1999) 74 Cal. App. 4th 984, 992, 88 Cal. Rptr. 2d 540] .

Service of process on a sovereign state or its political subdivisions must comply strictly with the requirements of 28

U.S.C.S. § 1608(a), which provides for service of process through diplomatic channels unless the parties have a separate prior arrangement for service [Bolkiah v. Superior Court (1999) 74 Cal. App. 4th 984, 993, 993 n.1, 88 Cal. Rptr. 2d 540] .

The FSIA's requirements for service of process on an "agent or instrumentality of a foreign state" is less stringent under 28 U.S.C.S. § 1608(b)(3) and may be adequate if reasonably calculated to give actual notice. The weight of authority recognizes that an individual can qualify as an "agent or instrumentality of a foreign state" if he or she is an official of a foreign state and is sued in his or her official capacity [Bolkiah v. Superior Court (1999) 74 Cal. App. 4th 984, 994-995, 88 Cal. Rptr. 2d 540] .

Because of Congress's different treatment between the sovereign state itself and its agents or instrumentalities, several courts have held service of process on entities falling within the latter category is adequate if the plaintiff substantially complies with the service requirements of 28 U.S.C.S. § 1608(b), which does not require service through diplomatic channels [Bolkiah v. Superior Court (1999) 74 Cal. App. 4th 984, 994-995, 88 Cal. Rptr. 2d 540] . In any event, when serving process on an "agent or instrumentality of a foreign state" the requirements of 28 U.S.C.S. § 1608(b)(3) should be strictly followed to avoid any successful argument being sustained as to defective service of process.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Service of Summons

45-518 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 518.17

§ 518.17 Service on Particular Defendants

[1] Active Corporation

[a] Under Code of Civil Procedure

Code Civ. Proc. § 416.10 provides several methods for serving corporations. Section 416.10 governs both domestic and foreign corporations [see Gibble v. Car-Lene Research, Inc. (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 295, 303, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 892] .

Under Code Civ. Proc. § 416.10, a summons may be served on a corporation by delivering a copy of the summons and the complaint as follows:

- To the person designated as the agent for service of process pursuant to any provision in Corp. Code § 202, 1502, 2105, or 2107 (or by former Corp. Code §§ 3301-3303 (domestic corporations) or 6500-6504 (foreign corporations) as in effect on December 31, 1976, with respect to corporations to which they remain applicable (see Corp. Code §§ 2302, 2317; see also [b][iii], below) [Code Civ. Proc. § 416.10(a); see Workman v. Superior Court (1986) 176 Cal. App. 3d 493, 499, 222 Cal. Rptr. 69 (Code Civ. Proc. § 416.10, requiring service of summons and complaint on corporation to be personally on person designated as agent for service of process, officer, or person authorized by corporation to receive service of process, does not apply to nonjudicial arbitration proceedings)].

- To the president chief executive officer or other head of the corporation, a vice president, a secretary or assistant secretary, a treasurer or assistant treasurer, a controller or chief financial officer a general manager, or a person authorized by the corporation to receive service of process [Code Civ. Proc. § 416.10(b); see also Pasadena Medi-Center Associates v. Superior Court (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 773, 777-782, 108 Cal. Rptr. 828, 511 P.2d 1180 (service on ostensible, rather than official, secretary-treasurer of corporation held sufficient); Gibble v. Car-Lene Research, Inc. (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 295, 313-313, 308, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 892 (service on manager of regional office with ostensible authority to accept it); but see Dill v. Berquist Construction Co. (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 1426, 1436-1439, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 746 (service on foreign corporation as ineffective to strictly or substantially comply with service requirements of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.40 and 416.10 through signature of "agent" of corporation on receipt of summons when no evidence was presented that individual was agent for service of process)].

- If the corporation is a bank, to a cashier or assistant cashier or to a person specified in Paragraph (1) or (2), above [Code Civ. Proc. § 416.10(c)].

- If authorized by any provision in Corp. Code § 1701, 1702, 2110, or 2111 (or former Corp. Code §§ 3301-3303 (domestic corporations) or 6500-6504 (foreign corporations) as in effect on December 31, 1976, with respect to corporations to which they remain applicable [see Corp. Code §§ 2302, 2317; see also [b][iii], below]), as provided by that provision [Code Civ. Proc. § 416.10(d); see [b][i], [ii], below; see also § 518.75].

[b] Under Corporations Code

[i] Domestic Corporation

Code Civ. Proc. § 416.10(d) authorizes service of process on a domestic corporation (that is, one formed under California law [Corp. Code § 167]) in any manner provided in Corp. Code §§ 1701 and 1702. This authorization is repeated in Corp. Code § 1700 which provides that process may be served on domestic corporations as provided in Corp. Code §§ 1701 and 1702 as well as according to the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 413.10-417.40.

Corp. Code § 1701 provides that hand delivery of a copy of any process against a corporation to any natural person designated by it as agent or, if a corporate agent has been designated, to any person named in the latest certificate of the corporate agent, filed pursuant to Corp. Code § 1505, at the corporate agent's office shall constitute valid service on the corporation.

Corp. Code § 1702(a) authorizes substituted service on a domestic corporation by hand delivery of the process to the Secretary of State, or to an assistant or deputy secretary of state, in the following situations:

- The agent for service of process has resigned and has not been replaced;

- The agent designated cannot with reasonable diligence be found at the address designated for personally delivering the process; or

- No agent has been designated.

This form of substituted service requires a court order made on application (affidavit or declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) showing to the court's satisfaction the existence of the conditions specified in the section [see § 518.75]. Corp. Code § 1702(a) further provides that service in this manner is deemed complete on the 10th day after delivery of the process to the Secretary of State.

Section 1702 suggests that a party is under no duty to attempt substituted service of a corporation through the Secretary of State unless service cannot, with reasonable diligence, be accomplished pursuant to either Code Civ. Proc. § 416.10 or 416.20 [Gibble v. Car-Lene Research, Inc. (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 295, 311-312, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 892 (party should, and arguably must, first attempt service on both the officers and agents enumerated in Code Civ. Proc. § 416.10 (b), (c), and on a trustee pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 416.20, before resorting to Secretary of State service)].

The court order pursuant to Corp. Code § 1702(a), that service of process be made on the corporation by delivery to the Secretary of State, may be an order of a court of another state or of any federal court if the suit, action, or proceeding has been filed in that court [Corp. Code § 1702(d)].

On receipt of the process and payment of the required fee, the Secretary of State must give the corporation notice of the service by forwarding to it at its principal executive office, by registered, or certified [Corp. Code § 113], return receipt mail, the copy of the process. If the Secretary of State's records do not disclose an address for the corporation's principal executive office, the Secretary of State must forward the copy in the same manner to the last designated agent for service of process who has not resigned. If the agent has resigned and has not been replaced and the Secretary of State's records do not disclose an address for the corporation's principal executive office, no action need be taken by the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 1702(b)].

The Secretary of State is required to keep a record of all process so served on him or her, including the time of service and his or her action with reference to it. The Secretary's certificate, under his or her official seal, certifying to the receipt of process, the giving of notice of the process to the corporation, and the forwarding of the process as stated above is competent and prima facie evidence of the matters stated in the certificate [Corp. Code § 1702(c)].

[ii] Foreign Corporation

Code Civ. Proc. § 416.10(d) authorizes service on a foreign corporation in any manner provided by Corp. Code §§ 2110 and 2111. A foreign corporation actually doing business in California is amenable to service in California whether or not it has registered to do business pursuant to California law [Raynolds v. Volkswagenwerk Aktiengesellschaft (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 997, 1001-1002, 80 Cal. Rptr. 610] or whether or not the extent of its contacts with California require it to register [Raynolds v. Volkswagenwerk Aktiengesellschaft (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 997, 1003, 80 Cal. Rptr. 610] .

A foreign corporation is, generally, any corporation other than a domestic corporation, but, as used in the Corporations Code, the term in certain cases [Corp. Code § 171].

- Includes a foreign association [defined in Corp. Code § 170] and
- Excludes a corporation or association chartered under federal laws.

This authorization is substantially repeated in Corp. Code § 2110.1 which provides that process may be served on a foreign corporation as provided in Corp. Code § 2100 et seq. as well as in accordance with the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 413.10 et seq.

Hand delivery of any process against a foreign corporation constitutes valid service if delivered to any of the following [Corp. Code § 2110]:

- An officer of the corporation or its general manager in this state, or if the corporation is a bank to a cashier or an assistant cashier.
- An natural person designated by it as agent for the service of process.
- If the corporation has designated a corporate agent, to any person named in the latest certificate of corporate agent, filed pursuant to Corp. Code § 1505.

A copy of that statement and designation, or a copy of the latest statement filed under Corp. Code § 2117, certified by the Secretary of State, is sufficient evidence of the appointment of an agent for the service of process [Corp. Code § 2110].

Corp. Code § 2111(a) authorizes substituted service on a foreign corporation by personal delivery of the process to the Secretary of State, or to an assistant or deputy secretary of state, in the following situations:

- The agent designated for service of process is a natural person and cannot be found with due diligence at the address stated in the designation.

- The designated agent is a corporation and no person can be found with due diligence to whom the delivery authorized by Corp. Code § 2110 may be made for the purpose of delivery to the corporate agent.

- The agent designated is no longer authorized to act.

- No agent has been designated.

This form of substituted service also requires a court order made on application (affidavit or declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) showing to the court's satisfaction the existence of the conditions specified in thesection [see § 518.75]. Service in this manner is deemed complete on the 10th day after delivery of the process to the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 2111(a)].

On receipt of the process, order, and required fee, the Secretary of State must forthwith give notice to the corporation of the service by forwarding, by registered or certified [Corp. Code § 113], return receipt mail, a copy of the process and order to the address specified in the order, if the corporation has not filed the statement required by Corp. Code § 2105 for it to obtain a certificate of qualification to transact business in this state, or to the two stated addresses of the corporation set forth in the latest statement filed under Corp. Code § 2105 or 2117, or if only one address is set forth in the latest statement, to the sole stated address of the corporation [Corp. Code § 2111(b)].

The Secretary of State is required to keep a record of all process so served on him or her, including the time of service and his or her action with respect to it. The Secretary of State's certificate, under his or her official seal, certifying to the receipt of process, the giving of notice thereof to the corporation, and the forwarding of the process as stated above, is competent and prima facie evidence of the matters stated in the certificate [Corp. Code § 2111(c)].

A foreign corporation which has transacted intrastate business and has thereafter withdrawn from business in this state may be served with process in the manner provided in Corp. Code §§ 2110 and 2111 in any action brought in this state arising out of such business, whether or not the corporation has ever complied with the requirements of Corp. Code §§ 2100-2116, governing foreign corporations transacting intrastate business [Corp. Code § 2114(a)].

A foreign corporation that has surrendered its right to transact intrastate business pursuant to Corp. Code § 2112 or 2113 may be served with process in any action on a liability or an obligation incurred in this state before the surrender by delivery of the process to the Secretary of State, or to an assistant or deputy secretary of state, pursuant to Corp. Code § 2111, but no court order authorizing the service is required. The process must be mailed in the manner prescribed in Corp. Code § 2111(b), except that it must be sent to the address to which the process is authorized to be sent in the certificate of surrender or to the address of the surviving domestic corporation in the case of a surrender under Corp. Code § 2113 [Corp. Code § 2114(b)].

[iii] Applicability of Prior Law

Corp. Code §§ 2300-2319 contain the transition provisions between the former General Corporation Law [former Corp. Code §§ 100-6804, repealed by Stats. 1975, ch. 682, operative January 1, 1977], referred to as "the prior law," and the new General Corporation Law [Corp. Code §§ 100-2319], referred to as "the new law." These sections provide, in part, that when any corporate agent for service of process has been designated prior to the effective date of the new law and such designation of agent included a name of a city, town, or village in which the corporate agent maintained an office, service on the agent may be effected at any office of the agent set forth in the certificate of the corporate agent filed pursuant to Corp. Code § 1505 of the new law or filed pursuant to Corp. Code § 3301.5, 3301.6, 6403.5, or 6403.6 of the prior law, whether or not the office is in that city, town, or village [Corp. Code § 2317].

[1A] Suspended Domestic Corporation

Under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23301, the powers of a domestic corporation are suspended, not dissolved, due to its failure to pay taxes. A suspended corporation may be sued, and service of process on a suspended corporation is effected in the same manner as service on a corporation that is not suspended [Grell v. Laci Le Beau Corp. (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 1300, 1306, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 358] . Thus, a domestic corporation that has been suspended by the Secretary of State for failure to file appropriate tax returns may be validly served under Code Civ. Proc. § 416.10 when the corporation continues to operate as an ongoing business during the period of suspension and has no designated agent for process [Gibble v. Car-Lene Research, Inc. (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 295, 302-303, 308, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 892] .

Code Civ. Proc. § 416.20 is not the exclusive means of serving a suspended domestic corporation. At most, Code Civ. Proc. § 416.20 provides a permissible alternative to Code Civ. Proc. § 416.10 for service of process on such corporations, on the theory that a suspension is equivalent to a forfeiture of the corporation's right to do business, which is a dubious proposition. It is also possible, however, to construe Code Civ. Proc. § 416.20 as not applying to a domestic corporation unless it is in receivership or has dissolved [Gibble v. Car-Lene Research, Inc. (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 295, 305, 308-310, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 892] .

[2] Defunct Corporation

A summons may be served on a corporation that has forfeited its charter or right to do business, or has dissolved, by delivering a copy of the summons and a copy of the complaint as follows:

- To a person who is a trustee of the corporation and of its stockholders or members [Code Civ. Proc. § 416.20(a)]; or

- When authorized by any provision in Corp. Code § 2011 or 2114 (or former Corp. Code §§ 3301-3303 (domestic corporations) or 6500-6504 (foreign corporations) as in effect on December 31, 1976, with respect to corporations to which they remain applicable [see Corp. Code §§ 2302, 2317; see also [1][b][iii], above]) as provided by Corp. Code § 2317 [Code Civ. Proc. § 416.20(b)].

Corp. Code § 2011 provides for actions against the dissolved corporation to the extent of its undistributed assets, or if the corporation's assets have been distributed to shareholders, against shareholders to a limited extent [see Corp. Code § 2011]. For discussion, including the method of serving summons under Section 2011(b), see Ch. 170, Corporations: Dissolution and Winding Up.

Corp. Code § 2114 applies to foreign corporations qualified to transact intrastate business. Section 2114 provides that when such a corporation has had its right to transact intrastate business forfeited by the Franchise Tax Board pursuant to the Corporation Tax Law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23001 et seq.] it may be served with process in the manner set forth in Corp. Code §§ 2110 and 2111 [see [1][b][ii], above], as if the right to transact intrastate business had not been forfeited [Corp. Code § 2114(c)].

[3] Joint Stock Company or Association

A summons may be served on a joint stock company or association by delivering a copy of the summons and a copy of the complaint as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 416.10 (ongoing company or association [see [1][b][i], [ii], above]) or 416.20 (defunct company or association [see [2], above]) [Code Civ. Proc. § 416.30].

[4] Unincorporated Association or Partnership

[a] In General

A summons may be served on an unincorporated association, including a partnership, by delivering a copy of the summons and a copy of the complaint as follows:

- If the association is a general or limited partnership, to the person designated as agent for service of process in a statement filed with the Secretary of State or to a general partner or the general manager of the partnership [Code Civ. Proc. § 416.40(a)];

- If the association is not a general or limited partnership, to the person designated as agent for service of process in a statement filed with the Secretary of State or to the president or other head of the association, a vice president, a secretary or assistant secretary, a treasurer or assistant treasurer, a general manager, or a person authorized by the association to receive service of process [Code Civ. Proc. § 416.40(b)];

- When authorized by Corp. Code § 18220 as provided by that section [Code Civ. Proc. § 416.40(c)].

For discussion of additional methods of serving foreign and domestic limited partnerships, see Ch. 405, Partnerships: Actions Between Limited Partners or Partnerships and Third Parties .

[b] Association Domiciled Outside California

Corp. Code § 15800 requires partnerships domiciled outside California and having no regular place of business in California to file a statement in the office of the Secretary of State in accordance with Corp. Code § 16309 designating a natural person or corporation as the partnership's agent on whom process may be served. This requirement does not apply to a foreign limited partnership subject to Corp. Code § 15611 et seq. or Corp. Code § 15900 et seq., or to a commercial or banking partnership established and transacting business outside the United States [Corp. Code § 15800(a)]. Process may be served in the manner provided in Corp. Code § 16310(b) on the designated person [Corp. Code § 15800(b)]. Under Corp. Code § 24003(e), service is made by hand delivery to the agent designated, if a natural person, or, if the agent is a corporation, to any person named in the corporate agent's last certificate, filed pursuant to Corp. Code § 1505, at the corporate agent's office [Corp. Code § 24003(e)].

[c] Service Through Secretary of State

Service may be made by personal delivery to the Secretary of State, Assistant Secretary of State, or a Deputy Secretary of State in the following circumstances [Corp. Code § 15800(b)]:

- The partnership has not designated an agent.

- A natural person designated as agent cannot be found.

- No person can be found with due diligence to whom the delivery authorized by Section 16310(b) may be made for the purpose of delivery to the corporate agent.

- The agent is no longer authorized to act.

The process (one copy of the summons and one copy of the complaint) must be accompanied by a written statement, signed by the party seeking service or by the party's attorney, setting forth the last known address of the partnership. The Secretary of State must in this event forward the process to the partnership by registered, or certified [Corp. Code § 8], return receipt mail at the address given in the written statement [Corp. Code § 15800(b)]. Though not required by statute, an additional copy of each paper should be delivered to the Secretary of State for his or her files.

Service on the person designated, or personal delivery of the process and statement of address together with the service fee of $50 to the Secretary of State or an assistant or deputy secretary of state is a valid service on the partnership. The partnership so served is required to appear within 30 days after service on the person designated or within 30 days after delivery of the process to the Secretary of State or an assistant or deputy secretary of state [Corp. Code § 15800(c); Gov. Code § 12197 (amount of fee)].

[d] Court-Ordered Service on Member

Corp. Code § 18220 provides that, if designation of an agent for the purpose of service has not been made as provided in Corp. Code § 18200 or if the agent designated cannot with reasonable diligence be found at the address specified in the index referred to in Corp. Code § 18205 for hand delivery of the process, and it is shown by affidavit (or declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) to the satisfaction of a court or judge that process against an unincorporated association cannot be served with reasonable diligence on the designated agent by hand or the unincorporated association in the manner provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.10, 415.20(a), or 415.30, the court or judge may make an order that service be made on the unincorporated association by delivering a copy of the process (that is, summons and complaint) to one or more of the association's members designated in the order and by mailing a copy of the process to the association at its last known address. Though not expressly required by the statute (unless it is deemed included in the meaning of the word "process"), the better practice is to include a copy of the court order with each copy of the summons and complaint served. Service in this manner constitutes personal service on the unincorporated association [Corp. Code § 18220].

[4.1] Registered Limited Liability Partnership Whose Principal Office Is Not in State or Foreign Limited Liability Partnership

[a] Designation of Agent

Each registered limited liability partnership whose principal office is not in California and each foreign limited liability partnership registered under Corp. Code § 16959 must designate as its agent for service of process any natural person or a domestic or foreign corporation entitled to be designated as agent for the service of process pursuant to Corp Code § 1505 [Corp. Code § 16962(a)].

[b] On Whom Service Can Be Made

In addition to service that may be made as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 416.40 [see [4][a], above], delivery by hand of a copy of any process against a registered limited liability partnership or foreign limited liability partnership registered under Corp. Code § 16959 to any natural person designated by it as agent, or if a corporate agent has been designated, to any person named in the latest certificate of the corporate agent filed pursuant to Corp. Code § 1505 at the office of that corporate agent constitutes valid service on the registered limited liability partnership or foreign limited liability partnership [Corp. Code § 16962(b)].

[c] Court Ordered Service on Secretary Of State

If an agent for the purpose of service of process has resigned and has not been replaced or if the agent designated cannot with reasonable diligence be found at the address designated for personally delivering the process, or if no agent has been designated, and it is shown by affidavit (or declaration [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) to the court's satisfaction that process against a registered limited liability partnership or foreign limited liability partnership required to be registered under Corp. Code § 16959 cannot be served with reasonable diligence on the designated agent by hand in the manner provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.10, 415.20(a), or 415.30(a) or on the registered limited liability partnership or foreign limited liability partnership in the manner provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 416.40, the court may order that the service be made on the registered limited liability partnership or foreign limited liability partnership by delivering by hand to the Secretary of State, or to any person employed in the Secretary of State's office in the capacity of assistant or deputy, one copy of the process for each defendant to be served, together with a copy of the order authorizing that service and a $50 fee. If the court makes that order, the Secretary of State or the assistant or deputy who receives the process, is required to accept the process. Service in this manner is deemed complete on the 10th day after delivery of the process to the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 16962(c); Gov. Code § 12197(b) (amount of fee)].

The order under Corp. Code § 16962(c), that service of process be made on the registered limited liability partnership or foreign limited liability partnership by delivery to the Secretary of State, may be a court order of a court of another state, or of any federal court, if the suit, action, or proceeding has been filed in that court [Corp. Code § 16962(f)].

The Secretary of State, on the receipt of the copy of process and the fee, must give notice of the service of process to the registered limited liability partnership or foreign limited liability partnership registered under Corp Code § 16959 at its principal executive office, by forwarding to that office, by registered mail with request for return receipt, the copy of the process or, if the records of the Secretary of State do not disclose an address for that principal executive office, by forwarding the copy in the same manner to the last designated agent for service of process who has not resigned. If the agent for service of process has resigned and has not been replaced and the records of the Secretary of State do not disclose an address for its principal executive office, no action need be taken by the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 16962(d)].

[d] Secretary of State's Certificate as Evidence

The Secretary of State must keep a record of all process served on the Secretary of State under Corp Code § 16962 and must record therein thetime of service and the Secretary of State's action with reference thereto. The certificate of the Secretary of State, under the Secretary of State's official seal, certifying to the receipt of process, the giving of notice thereof to the registered limited liability partnership or foreign limited liability partnership, and the forwarding of the process pursuant to Corp. Code § 16962 is competent and prima facie evidence of the matters stated therein [Corp. Code § 16962(e)].

[5] Limited Liability Company

[a] Service on Agent

In addition to the procedures provided in Code of Civ. Proc. § 413.10 et seq., process may be served on limited liability companies and foreign limited liability companies as provided in Corp. Code § 17061 [Corp. Code § 17061(a)].

A limited liability company or foreign limited liability company may be served by personal service of a copy of any process against the company by the following methods of delivery [Corp. Code § 17061(b); see Corp. Code § 17061(d)(1) (designation of agent)]:

- Either, to any individual designated by it as agent

- Or, if the designated agent is a corporation, to any person named in the latest certificate of the corporate agent filed pursuant to Corp. Code § 1505 at the corporate agent's office.

No change in the address of the agent for service of process or appointment of a new agent for service of process is effective until an amendment to the statement described in Corp. Code § 17060 is filed with the Secretary of State [

Corp. Code § 17061(b)].

In the case of a foreign limited liability company that has appointed the Secretary of State as agent for service of process by reason of Corp. Code § 17456(d) (regarding cause of action arising out of transaction in this state by company without registration), process (i.e., summons and complaint) must be delivered by hand to the Secretary of State, or to any person employed in the capacity of assistant or deputy, and must include one copy of the process for each defendant to be served, together with a copy of the court order authorizing the service and the fee for it. The order shall set forth the address to which the process shall be sent by the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 17061(b)].

[b] Agent Has Resigned or Cannot Be Found

If an agent for service of process has resigned and has not been replaced or if the designated agent cannot with reasonable diligence be found at the address designated for personal delivery of the process, and it is shown by affidavit to the satisfaction of the court that process against a limitedliability company or foreign limited liability company cannot be served with reasonable diligence on the designated agent by hand in the manner provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.10, 415.20(a), or 415.30(a), the court may order that the service shall be made on the company by delivering by hand to the Secretary of State, or to any person employed in the Secretary of State's office in the capacity of assistant or deputy, one copy of the process for each defendant to be served, together with a copy of the order authorizing the service. Service in this manner shall be deemed complete on the 10th day after delivery of the process to the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 17061(c)(1)].

On receiving the copy of process and the required fee, the Secretary of State will forward the copy of the process to the limited liability company or foreign limited liability company, at its principal executive office by registered mail with request for return receipt [Corp. Code § 17061(c)(2)].

The Secretary of State keeps a record of all process served on the Secretary of State under the Beverly-Killea Limited Liability Company Act, including the time of service and the action taken by the Secretary. A certificate under the Secretary of State's official seal, certifying to the receipt of process, the giving of notice to the limited liability company or foreign limited liability company, and the forwarding of the process pursuant to Corp. Code § 17061, constitutes competent and prima facie evidence of the service of process [Corp. Code § 17061(c)(3)].

[c] Members Consent to Service

Members of limited liability companies may consent in writing to be subject to the jurisdiction of courts or to arbitration [see Corp. Code § 17061(h); see also Corp. Code § 17001(x) (member defined)]. Along with that consent, a member may consent to be served with legal process in the manner prescribed in a written operating agreement or other writing [Corp. Code § 17061(h)].

[5A] Business Organization When Form Unknown

When the defendant is a "business organization, form unknown," summons may be served by Code Civ. Proc. § 415.95(a)]:

- Leaving a copy of the summons and complaint, during usual office hours, with the person who is apparently in charge of the office of that business organization; and

- Thereafter mailing a copy of the summons and complaint by first-class mail, postage prepaid, to the person served at the place where a copy of the summons and complaint was left.

Service of summons in this manner is complete on the 10th day after mailing. Service of summons under Code Civ.

Proc. § 415.95(a) is not valid for a corporation with a registered agent for service of process listed withthe Secretary of State [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.95(b)]. Service of summons on these corporations must follow statutes directing personal or combination service [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.20, 416.10, 416.20].

[6] Public Entity

[a] Service on Clerk, Attorney General, Officer, or Other Agency Directors

A summons may be served on a public entity by delivering a copy of the summons and a copy of the complaint to the clerk, secretary, president, presiding officer, or other head of its governing body [Code Civ. Proc. § 416.50(a)]. The term "public entity," as used in Code Civ. Proc. § 416.50, includes the state and any office, department, division, bureau, board, commission, or agency of the state, the Regents of the University of California, a county, city, district, public authority, public agency, and any other political subdivision or public corporation in this state [Code Civ. Proc. § 416.50(b)].

Except as provided in Gov. Code §§ 811.9, 955.6, 955.8, and 955.9, service of summons in all actions on claims against the state must be made on the Attorney General [Gov. Code § 955.4]. In actions for the taking or damaging of private property for public use arising out of work done by the Department of Transportation, service of summons must be made on the Attorney General or the Director of Transportation [Gov. Code § 955.6]. In actions for the taking or damaging of private property for public use on claims arising out of work done by the Department of Water Resources, service of summons must be made on the Attorney General or the Director of Water Resources [Gov. Code § 955.6].

For a complete discussion and forms for tort actions against public entities, see Ch. 464, Public Entities and Officers: California Tort Claims Act .

The names and addresses of the officers of public entities may be obtained from the "Roster of Public Agencies" maintained by the Secretary of State and County Clerk [see Gov. Code §§ 53050, 53051; see also Hovd v. Hayward Unified Sch. Dist. (1977) 74 Cal. App. 3d 470, 472, 141 Cal. Rptr. 527 (inapplicability of Gov. Code § 53051(a) to subdivisions of public agency)].

Service of process may be made in conformity with the information contained in the statement in the Roster of Public Agencies pertaining to the particular public agency which is on file at the time of the service. Service in this manner, if otherwise made in compliance with law, constitutes personal service on the public agency [Gov. Code § 960.8].

[b] If Appropriate Officer Cannot Be Ascertained

If it is shown by affidavit (or declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) to the satisfaction of the court or judge that the facts required by Gov. Code § 53051 have not been placed on the Roster of Public Agencies, or have been misstated, thus preventing service of summons, the court or judge may make an order that service of process be made on the public agency [Gov. Code §§ 960.2, 960.3(a)] by leaving two copies of the process (that is, summons and complaint) for each public agency defendant to be served, together with two copies of the order authorizing such service, in the Secretary of State's office in Sacramento or by sending the copies to that office by certified or registered mail, addressee only, return receipt requested [Gov. Code § 960.3(b)]. An additional copy of each paper should also be delivered to the Secretary of State at the same time for his or her files, though this is not required by statute.

Service in this latter method is effective as of the day the return receipt is received from the Secretary of State's office [Gov. Code § 960.3(b)(2)].A $50 fee for each public agency on which service is to be so made is required to be paid by plaintiff [Gov. Code § 960.3(d)]. Service in this manner is declared to constitute personal service on the public agency [Gov. Code § 960.3(c)].

On receipt of the process, the Secretary of State is required to serve it by forwarding a copy of it by registered return receipt mail to the public agency's governing body at its principal office in this state. If only a county address is disclosed by the Secretary of State's records, then the process must be mailed to the county seat, addressed to the public agency in care of the county clerk, or it may be mailed to any address for the public agency specified in the court order. If it is mailed in care of the county clerk, the county clerk must promptly send it to the public agency at its address within the county if known or, if unknown, cause it to be posted at the county courthouse for 30 days.

If no address for the agency is disclosed by the Secretary of State's records, the Secretary of State must mail a copy of the process to the county clerk of either the county in which the transaction or occurrence took place or the county in which the agency's real property is situated, and the county clerk in turn must promptly send it to the public agency at its address within the county if known or, if unknown, must cause it to be posted at the county courthouse for 30 days. The Secretary of State must also, on receipt of the process, immediately forward to the Attorney General a copy of all papers served on him or her. The Attorney General, on receipt of the process, may locate the responsible officers of the public agency involved, and the governing body of the agency may relieve the Attorney General of any further responsibility and may designate any other attorneys to defend the action or take any other action it may determine [Gov. Code § 960.4].

[7] Minor

A summons may be served on a minor by delivering a copy of the summons and a copy of the complaint to the minor's parent, guardian, conservator, or similar fiduciary, or, if no such person can be found with reasonable diligence, to any person having the care or control of the minor or with whom the minor resides or by whom the minor is employed, and to the minor if he or she is at least 12 years of age [Code Civ. Proc. § 416.60; see also Miller v. Superior Court (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 49, 51-53, 13 Cal. Rptr. 673, 362 P.2d 497] .

[8] Person Other Than Minor for Whom Guardian, Conservator, or Similar Fiduciary Has Been Appointed

A summons may be served on a person, other than a minor, for whom a guardian, conservator, or similar fiduciary has been appointed by delivering a copy of the summons and a copy of the complaint to the person's guardian, conservator, or similar fiduciary and to the person. For good cause shown, the court in which the action is pending may dispense with delivery to the person [Code Civ. Proc. § 416.70].

[9] Candidate for Public Office

A summons may be served on a candidate for public office when authorized and as provided by Elec. Code § 12 [Code Civ. Proc. § 416.80].

[10] Persons Not Otherwise Specified

A summons may be served on a person not otherwise specified in Code of Civil Procedure sections 416.10-416.80 [see [1]-[9], above] by delivering a copy of the summons and a copy of the complaint to that person or to anyone authorized by that person to receive service of process [Code Civ. Proc. § 416.90].

The specific appointment of an agent to receive service of process on behalf of another under Code Civ. Proc. § 416.90 is not required. The principal-agent relationship must, however, be close and enduring enough to make it highly probable that the defendant will receive actual notice if it is served on the agent [Warner Bros. Records, Inc. v. Golden West Music Sales (1974) 36 Cal. App. 3d 1012, 1017, 112 Cal. Rptr. 71 ; but see Summers v. McClanahan (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 403, 412, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 338 (service on actor's personal manager did not comport with statutory requirements despite defendant having actual notice of complaint)].

[11] Resident Motorist

[a] Consent to Service in or Outside of California

The acceptance by a California resident of a certificate of ownership or a certificate of registration of any motor vehicle, or the renewal of such certificate, issued under the laws of California, or the acceptance or retention by a California resident of a California driver's license, constitutes a consent by the resident that in any action brought in a California court on a cause of action arising in California out of the ownership or operation of the owned or registered vehicle, or the operation of any motor vehicle by the licensed resident, the summons may be served on the resident in or out of California, whether or not he or she is then a California resident [Veh. Code §§ 17459, 17460; see Ostrus v. Price (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 518, 524, 146 Cal. Rptr. 922] .

[b] Manner of Service on Resident Outside California

Veh. Code § 17461 provides that if summons is served outside California pursuant to the resident's Veh. Code § 17459 or 17460 consent, it may be served and proof of service made in the manner provided by Veh. Code §§ 17454-17456 for service of summons on a nonresident (see [12][b], below), or it may be served pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 413.10-417.40. Veh. Code § 17462 provides that a person served outside California shall have 60 days in which to appear in the action in which the summons was issued.

Code Civ. Proc. § 415.40 authorizes service of summons on a person outside California in any manner provided by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.10-415.50, discussed at § 518.16, or by sending a copy of the summons and a copy of the complaint to the person to be served by first-class mail, postage prepaid, requiring a return receipt. It provides that service of summons by this form of mail is deemed complete on the 10th day after such mailing. The section does not otherwise extend the time within which a responsive pleading must be filed after service is deemed complete. That time in civil actions is 30 days under Code Civ. Proc. § 412.20(a)(3). The time extensions set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 1013, relating to service by mail, do not apply to service of the summons by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 413.20]. The 30-day provision [Code Civ. Proc. § 412.20(a)(3)] also applies to service under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.10 (personal service, that is, hand delivery), 415.20 (combination service), and 415.30 (service by mail and acknowledgment of receipt), all discussed at § 518.16. Each of these statutes specifies the time when service in the manner provided in the statute is deemed complete.

Service may be made on a person outside California under either Code Civ. Proc. § 415.40 or the Vehicle Code provisions. If made under Code Civ. Proc. § 415.40, the defendant has 30 days to respond by virtue of Code Civ. Proc. § 412.20(a)(3); if made under the Vehicle Code provisions, the defendant has 60 days to respond by virtue of Veh. Code § 17462 [see Anderson v. Sherman (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 228, 237, 178 Cal. Rptr. 38 (involving nonresidents; finding the two schemes for service to be compatible alternatives)].

[12] Nonresident Motorist

[a] Consent to Service

Operation of a motor vehicle in this state by a nonresident or by a nonresident's agent, or ownership by a nonresident of a motor vehicle operated in this state by any person with the nonresident's express or implied permission is equivalent to an appointment of the California Director of Motor Vehicles as the nonresident's attorney on whom process may be served in any action or proceeding against the nonresident growing out of any accident or collision resulting from the operation of the motor vehicle in California [Veh. Code § 17451; see Veh. Code § 17450; see also Miller v. Superior Court (1961) 195 Cal. App. 2d 779, 788, 16 Cal. Rptr. 36] . The appointment is irrevocable and binding on the nonresident's executor or administrator [Veh. Code §§ 17451, 17453]. If the nonresident dies before commencement of the action, service of process is made on the nonresident's executor or administrator in the same manner and on the same notice as is provided in the case of a nonresident. If the nonresident dies after the action is commenced, the court will allow the action to be continued against the executor or administrator on motion with such notice as the court deems proper [Veh. Code § 17452].

[b] Manner of Service on Nonresident Motorist

[i] Vehicle Code Provisions

Veh. Code § 17454 provides that service of process on a nonresident motorist is made by leaving one copy of the summons and one copy of the complaint in the hands of the Director of Motor Vehicles or in his or her office in Sacramento or by mailing the copy of the summons and complaint by certified or registered mail, addressee only, return receipt requested, to the office of the Director of Motor Vehicles in Sacramento. Service is effective as of the day the return receipt is received from the director's office. A fee of $2 for each nonresident to be served must be paid to the Director at the time of service of the copy of the summons and complaint. Such service is sufficient service on the nonresident subject to compliance with Veh. Code § 17455, which provides that notice of service on the Department of Motor Vehicles, a copy of the summons, and a copy of the complaint must be forthwith sent by registered mail by either the plaintiff or by the plaintiff's attorney to the defendant. An additional copy of each paper should be delivered with the required copies to the Director of Motor Vehicles, though this is not required by statute.

Veh. Code § 17455 also provides that personal service of the notice and a copy of the summons and a copy of the complaint on the defendant wherever found outside this state is the equivalent of service by mail.

In the event of service by mail, proof of compliance with Veh. Code § 17455 must be made by affidavit (or declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) of the plaintiff or the plaintiff's attorney showing the mailing, together with the return receipt bearing the signature of the defendant. The affidavit or declaration and the receipt must be appended to the original summons, and the summons must be filed with the court that issued the summons within such time as the court may allow for the return of the summons. In the event of personal service outside this state, compliance with Veh. Code § 17455 may be provided by the return of any duly constituted public officer, qualified to serve like process of and in the state or jurisdiction where the defendant is found, showing service to have been made. The return must be appended to the original summons which must be filed as set forth above [Veh. Code § 17456].

If service is made under the Vehicle Code provisions, the defendant has 60 days to respond [Veh. Code § 17462].

[ii] Code of Civil Procedure Provisions

Notwithstanding the Vehicle Code provisions, Code Civ. Proc. § 415.40 authorizes service of summons on a person outside this state in any manner provided by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.10-415.50 or by sending a copy of the summons and a copy of the complaint to the person to be served by first-class mail, postage prepaid, requiring a return receipt, and provides that service of summons by that form of mail is deemed complete on the 10th day after the mailing.

If service is made under Code Civ. Proc. § 415.40, the defendant has 30 days to respond by virtue of Code Civ. Proc. § 412.20(a)(3) as opposed to the 60 days the defendant has to respond if he or she is served under the Vehicle Code provisions [Veh. Code § 17462; see Anderson v. Sherman (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 228, 237, 178 Cal. Rptr. 38 (upholding default judgment based on shorter period for responding when service is under Code of Civil Procedure)].

[13] Nonresident Executor or Administrator

When a nonresident personal representative accepts appointment, the acceptance is equivalent to and constitutes his or her irrevocable and binding appointment of the Secretary of State to be his or her attorney for the purpose of service. If the nonresident personal representative should die, the appointment will also apply to his or her personal representative [Prob. Code § 8572(a)]. Under the appointment, service of process and service of notices of motion under Code Civ. Proc. § 377.41 to continue actions pending at the time of the decedent's death may be made on the Secretary of State in any action or proceeding against the nonresident personal representative that concerns the estate, or is founded on or arises out of acts or omissions in his or her capacity as nonresident personal representative [Prob. Code § 8572(b))].

Service is made by delivering to and leaving with the Secretary of State two copies of the summons and complaint or notice of motion and either of the following [Prob. Code § 8574(a)]:

- A copy of the statement of permanent address, which Prob. Code § 8573 requires the nonresident personal representative to sign and file with the court; or

- If no statement of permanent address has been filed, a copy of the letters issued to the nonresident personal representative and a written statement, signed by the party or attorney of the party seeking service, that sets forth an address for use by the Secretary of State.

The Secretary of State must promptly mail by registered mail (or certified mail under Prob. Code § 5) one copy of the summons and complaint or notice of motion to the nonresident personal representative at the address shown on the statement delivered to the Secretary of State [Prob. Code § 8574(b)].

Personal service on the nonresident personal representative wherever found is the equivalent of service on the Secretary of State under Prob. Code § 8574 [Prob. Code § 8574(c)].

Service made under Prob. Code § 8574 has the same legal force and validity as if made personally in California [Prob. Code § 8576(a)]. The manner of proving compliance with Prob. Code § 8574 is set forth in Prob. Code § 8575.

Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions, Code Civ. Proc. § 415.40 authorizes service of summons on a person outside this state in any manner provided by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.10-415.50 or by sending a copy of the summons and a copy of the complaint to the person to be served by first-class mail, postage prepaid, requiring a return receipt, and provides that service of summons by that form of mail is deemed complete on the 10th day after mailing.

[14] Nonresident Insurer

Service of process, notices, or other papers described in or referred to by the following Insurance Code sections may be made on the Insurance Commissioner as provided by Ins. Code § 12931 [Ins. Code § 12931(b)]:

- Ins. Code § 1452 (actions against reciprocal or interinsurance exchanges).

- Ins. Code § 1605 (actions against admitted foreign or alien insurers).

- Ins. Code § 1612 (actions against nonadmitted insurers).

- Ins. Code §§ 11104, 11105 (actions against admitted and formerly admitted fraternal benefit societies).

Service is made by delivering to the Insurance Commissioner or to his or her deputy two copies of the summons and complaint for each person or party defendant so served accompanied by the required payment for each person or party [Ins. Code § 12931(a)]. The commissioner is required to promptly mail one of the copies to the defendant or person to be served by certified mail (or registered mail if addressed to an area outside the United States where certified mail is not available). The envelope will be addressed, in the case of a licensee, to his or her last principal place of business known to the commissioner by his or her official records, or, in the case of a nonadmitted insurer, to its last principal place of business known to the commissioner from national directories, reference books, or other reliable information available in the commissioner's office [Ins. Code § 12931(c)].

Service in this manner is valid and gives the court jurisdiction over the person of a nonadmitted or unauthorized defendant, provided that both of the following apply [Ins. Code § 12931(d)]:

- Plaintiff or plaintiff's attorney, within 10 days after delivery of the process to the Insurance Commissioner, sends by certified mail (or by registered mail if addressed to an area outside the United States where certified mail service is not available) a notice of the service and a copy of the process to the defendant at its last known principal place of business; and

- The receipt of the defendant or defendant's agent, showing the name of the sender and the name and address of the addressee-defendant, and the affidavit (or declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) of the plaintiff or plaintiff's attorney showing compliance with Ins. Code § 12931, are filed with the clerk of the court in which the action is pending on or before the date the defendant is required to appear, or within such further time as the court may allow.

Ins. Code § 12931(f) provides that nothing in Ins. Code § 12931 shall limit the right to serve process on any insurer in any other manner permitted by law. Other manners of service permitted by law include service under Code Civ. Proc. § 415.40, which authorizes service on persons outside California by return receipt mail [see § 518.16[5]], and in any other manner provided by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.10-415.50 [see § 518.16[1] -[6]].

[15] Nonresident Real Estate Licensee or Subdivider

Every nonresident applicant for a real estate license must, along with his or her application, file with the Real Estate Commissioner an irrevocable consent to service on the Department of Real Estate in the event personal service cannot be made in California after the exercise of due diligence [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10151.5].

Every nonresident subdivider must file with the Department of Real Estate, together with a Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010 questionnaire, an irrevocable consent to service on the Secretary of State in the event personal service cannot be made in California after the exercise of due diligence [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 11007, 11010]. Bus. & Prof. Code § 11007 provides for the application, insofar as possible, of Code Civ. Proc. § 1018, relating to service on the Secretary of State. Code Civ. Proc. § 1018, however, has been repealed [see Stats. 1999, ch. 1000, § 12].

In any event, despite the foregoing provisions, Code Civ. Proc. § 415.40 authorizes service of summons on a person outside California in any manner provided by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.10-415.50 or by sending, by first-class mail, postage prepaid, requiring a return receipt, a copy of the summons and a copy of the complaint to the person to be served and provides that service of summons by that form of mail is deemed complete on the 10th day after mailing [see § 518.16[1] -[6]].

[16] Under Securities and Franchise Investment Laws

[a] Consent to Service on Commissioner

Corp. Code § 25102 exempts certain transactions from the provisions of Corp. Code § 25110, which requires qualification of the sale of securities in issuer transactions. Included in the exemption is the offer or sale of voting common stock by a corporation incorporated in any state if immediately after the proposed sale and issuance of stock there will be only one class of stock outstanding that is owned beneficially by no more than 35 persons and specified requirements are met [Corp. Code § 25102(h)]. One of the conditions that must, in the case of a non-California corporation, be met is the filing of an irrevocable consent appointing the Commissioner of Corporations as issuer's attorney to receive service of process in any noncriminal action or proceeding against the corporation or its successor that arises under the Corporate Securities Law or any rule or order thereunder after the consent has been filed, with the same force and validity as if served personally on the issuer [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(4)].

Every applicant for qualification of the sale of securities under the Corporate Securities Law (Corp. Code § 25000 et seq.) and every person filing an application or request for or notice of an exemption from qualification, other than a California corporation or a person licensed as a broker-dealer in this state, and every applicant for a certificate as an agent [defined in Corp. Code § 25003], a broker-dealer [defined in Corp. Code § 25004], or investment adviser [defined in Corp. Code § 25009], other than a California corporation, must file with the Commissioner of Corporations an irrevocable consent appointing the commissioner as attorney to receive service of process in any noncriminal action or proceeding against the person filing the consent or the person's successor, executor, or administrator, that arises under the Corporate Securities Law or any rule or order thereunder after the consent has been filed, with the same force and validity as if personally served on the person who filed the consent [Corp. Code §§ 25165, 25240; see also Corp. Code §§ 25211(a), (b)(3) (application for broker-dealer certificate), 25231 (application for investment adviser certificate)].

A similar provision applies to an applicant, other than a California corporation, for registration of an offer to sell franchises under the Franchise Investment Law set forth as Corp. Code § 31000 et seq. [Corp. Code § 31155].

[b] Service on Commissioner

Service under the foregoing provisions may be made by leaving a copy of the process in the commissioner's office, but it is not effective unless both of the following conditions are met [Corp. Code §§ 25102(h)(4), 25165, 25240, 31155]:

- The plaintiff, who may be the commissioner in an action or proceeding instituted by him or her, forthwith sends notice of the service and a copy of the process by registered or certified mail to the defendant or respondent at its last known address on file with the commissioner; and

- The plaintiff's affidavit (or declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) of compliance with the code provision governing service is filed in the case on or before the return day of the process, if any, or within the further time as the court allows.

[c] Equivalents to Appointment of Commissioner

Engaging in conduct prohibited or made actionable by the Corporate Securities Law or any rule or order thereunder by any person, including a nonresident of this state, whether or not the person has filed a consent to service of process under Corp. Code § 25102(h), 25165, or 25240, as the case may be, is, if jurisdiction over the person cannot otherwise be obtained in this state, considered equivalent to the person's appointment of the Commissioner of Corporations as attorney to receive service of process in any noncriminal action or proceeding against the person or the person's successor, executor, or administrator which grows out of that conduct and which is brought under the Corporate Securities Law or any rule or order thereunder. Such service has the same force and validity as if the person had been personally served. Service in such case may be made by leaving a copy of the process in the commissioner's office, but it is not effective unless both of the following conditions are met [Corp. Code § 25550]:

- The plaintiff, who may be the commissioner in an action or proceeding instituted by him or her, forthwith sends notice of the service and a copy of the process by registered or certified mail to the defendant or respondent at his, her, or its last known address or takes other steps which are reasonably calculated to give actual notice; and

- The plaintiff's affidavit (or declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) of compliance with the foregoing provisions is filed in the case on or before the return day of the process, if any, or within such further time as the court allows.

Corp. Code § 31420 contains similar provisions for service in actions or proceedings arising out of a violation of the Franchise Investment Law [Corp. Code § 31000 et seq.].

[d] Other Methods of Service

None of the above-cited sections of the Corporations Code excludes service of process pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 413.10-417.40. Consequently, it would appear that service outside California in such a case may be made in accordance with the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 415.40. That section authorizes service in any manner provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 415.10 et seq. [see §§ 518.16[1] -[6]] or by sending a copy of the summons and a copy of the complaint to the person to be served by first-class mail, postage prepaid, requiring a return receipt and provides that service of summons by that form of mail is deemed complete on the 10th day after such mailing.

[17] Incarcerated Individual

Service directed to a person who is incarcerated within any institution in California is made to the sheriff or jailer, and may be served by any person who may lawfully serve process [Penal Code § 4013(b)]. The sheriff or jailer served with a paper in a judicial proceeding must forthwith deliver it to the prisoner, with a note thereon of the time of its service, and neglect to do so makes the sheriff or jailer liable to the prisoner for all damages occasioned thereby [Penal Code § 4013(a)].

§ 518.18 Service at Gated Community

[1] Access to Community

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, Code Civ. Proc. § 415.21 allows process servers access to gated communities for a reasonable period of time for the purpose of performing lawful service of process or service of a subpoena [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.21(a)]. This authority only applies to a gated community that is staffed at the time service of process is attempted by a guard or other security personnel assigned to control access to the community [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.21(b)].

To gain access, the process server must identify to the guard the person or persons to be served, display a current driver's license or other identification and one of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.21(a)]:

- A badge or other confirmation that the individual is acting in his or her capacity as a representative of a county sheriff or marshal.

- Evidence of current registration as a process server pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 22350 et seq.

[2] Substituted Service on Guard

The Legislature expressly declared that the enactment of Section 415.21 was not intended to abrogate or modify the holding of Bein v. Brechtel-Jochim Group, Inc. (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1387, 1393, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 351 [Stats. 1994, ch. 691, § 2]. Under Bein, a residential gate guard, who denies a process server access to a gated community in which the person to be served resides, is considered a competent member of the household and a person apparently in charge of a corporate office, for purposes of substituted service under Code Civ. Proc. § 415.20. Litigants have the right to choose their abodes; they do not have the right to control who may sue or serve them by denying physical access [Bein v. Brechtel-Jochim Group, Inc. (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1387, 1393, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 351] .

For general discussion of substituted service, see § 518.16[2].

Chapter 518 SERVICE OF SUMMONS AND PAPERS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Service of Summons

45-518 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 518.19

§ 518.19 Ascertaining Defendant's Military Status at Time of Service of Summons

The Servicemembers Civil Relief Act (formerly known as the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940) provides that before entering a default judgment, the plaintiff must file with the court an affidavit stating whether or not the defendant is in military service and showing necessary facts to support the affidavit [see 50 U.S.C. App. § 521]. If the plaintiff is unable to determine whether or not the defendant is in military service, that information must be stated in the affidavit. If, based upon the affidavits filed, the court is unable to determine whether the defendant is in military service, the court, before entering a default judgment, may require that additional procedural requirements be satisfied to protect the interests of defendants who may be unable to appear because of active military service.

State statutes parallel the provisions of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940, providing additional protections for members of the National Guard and reservists of the United States Military Reserve called to active duty [Mil. & Vet. Code § 400 et seq.]. Under the state statutes, before a default judgment may be taken, a plaintiff must file a declaration showing the defendant is not a member of the National Guard or reservist of the United States Military Reserve called to active duty [Mil. & Vet. Code § 402(a)]. Ascertaining the defendant's military status is also important for other issues of the case since the state statutes provide additional protections for continuances, attachments, and a host of actions such as unlawful detainer, debt collection, family law, proceedings, and foreclosure [see Mil. & Vet. Code § 400 et seq.].

When the defendant is personally known to the plaintiff, this requirement poses no problem because the plaintiff can fill out the necessary declaration based on personal knowledge. If the defendant is not personally known to the plaintiff, however, it is usually easiest to obtain the necessary information by requesting that the process server ascertain the defendant's military status at the time that he or she serves the defendant with the summons and complaint, when service is accomplished by hand delivery. When that request is made to a sheriff or marshal, that officer must complete a declaration regarding the facts ascertained concerning defendant's military status [see Gov. Code §§ 26608.1, 71265].

Thus, before arranging for service of summons, plaintiff's counsel should always consider the advisability of requesting that the process server determine the defendant's military status, so that his or her declaration can be used, if needed, in the event that defendant defaults. Note that most counties charge an additional fee for this service when it is requested.

Moreover, some counties have their own preprinted forms of certificate or declaration for use by officers serving process, but others may require that plaintiff's counsel provide a declaration that may be filled out by the process server.

The following cross references show the breadth of how a defendant's military status may effect the case at hand:

Chapter 518 SERVICE OF SUMMONS AND PAPERS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Service of Summons

45-518 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 518.20

§ 518.20 Proof of Service

[1] Governing Statutes

The following statutes govern proof of service of summons:

- Code Civ. Proc. § 413.30 (court order).
- Code Civ. Proc. § 417.10 (service in California).
- Code Civ. Proc. § 417.20 (service outside California).
- Code Civ. Proc. § 417.30 (return of service).
- Code Civ. Proc. § 417.40 (service by registered process server).
- Code Civ. Proc. § 2009 (use of affidavit to prove service of summons).
- Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2010 and 2011 (proof of publication).
- Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.3 (certificate of a sheriff or marshal has same force and effect as his or her affidavit).
- Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5 (use of declaration under penalty of perjury in lieu of affidavit).

Other statutes that relate to specific actions or special proceedings or to particular classes of defendants may impose requirements on the proof of service in addition to or in lieu of those required by the above-cited statutes [see, e.g., § 518.17]. For proof of service in a foreign country made under the "Convention on the Service Abroad of Judicial and Extrajudicial Documents in Civil and Commercial Matters" treaty, see § 518.16[9].

[2] Judicial Council Forms

The Judicial Council has adopted a mandatory proof of service of summons form [see § 518.72] for use in civil actions and proceedings [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.31; Judicial Council Form POS-010]; for illustration, [see § 518.72]. The Judicial Council Forms for summons [SUM-100, SUM-110, SUM-120, SUM-130, SUM-140] all reference Judicial Council Form POS-010 for use as proof of service of summons.

In addition, a form for proof of service of a summons and complaint prepared entirely by word processor, typewriter, or similar process may be used for proof of service of a summons and complaint in any action or proceeding in lieu of the printed Judicial Council proof of service of summons form, if the form adheres to certain format requirements [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.150(a); see also § 518.72[4]].

[3] Within California

[a] In General

In addition to the requirements for proof of service made in the ways discussed at [b]-[f], below, proof of service may also be made by the written admission of the party served [Code Civ. Proc. § 417.10(d)].

If the defendant was fictitiously designated in the complaint and so served, the affidavit, declaration, or certificate of service must state the fictitious name under which the defendant was served and the fact that notice of identity was given by endorsement on the summons served and the fact that the notice of identity was given by endorsement on the copy of the summons served [Code Civ. Proc. § 474].

To satisfy the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 474, a summons must notify the recipient that he or she was sued as a fictitiously named defendant [Carol Gilbert, Inc. v. Haller (2009) 179 Cal. App. 4th 852, 857, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 843] .

To support a finding of substantial compliance with the statutory requirements for service of process requires three preconditions. First, there must have been some degree of compliance with the offended statutory requirements. Second, the objective nature and circumstances of the attempted service must have made it highly probable that it would impart the same notice as full compliance. Finally, it must in fact have imparted such notice, or at least sufficient notice to put the defendant on his or her defense. In this regard, it is not enough that the process inform the defendant of the fact of a lawsuit, or even of a lawsuit in which his or her name appears; due process requires notice of the duty to defend [Carol Gilbert, Inc. v. Haller (2009) 179 Cal. App. 4th 852, 865-866, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 843] .

[b] Personal Service or Combination Service

If the summons and complaint were served in California under Code Civ. Proc. § 415.10 (personal delivery) or 415.20 (combination of substituted service and service by mail), proof of service is made by the affidavit (or declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]), or, if service was made by a sheriff or marshal, by the certificate [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.3], of the person who made the service. The affidavit, declaration, or certificate must show the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 417.10(a)]:

- The time (date and hour), place, and manner of service.
- Facts showing that service was made in accordance with law [see § 518.70].
- The name of the person to whom a copy of the summons and a copy of the complaint were delivered. If the person was served under afictitious name, this includes the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 474, discussed at [a], above.

- If appropriate, the title of the person served and the capacity in which he or she was served, and that the notice required by Code Civ. Proc. § 412.30 (action against corporation, unincorporated association, or partnership) appeared on the copy of the summons served, if in fact it did appear.

In the case of combination service [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.20; see § 518.16[3]], the affidavit, certificate, or declaration must also show the mailing of an additional copy of the summons and additional copy of the complaint to the person or entity served. If combination service was made on an individual [see § 518.16[3][b]], the same or another affidavit or declaration must also show that personal service could not have been made with reasonable diligence [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.20(b), 417.10(a)].

[c] Service by Mail and Acknowledgment of Receipt

If the summons and complaint were served under Code Civ. Proc. § 415.30 (service by mail and acknowledgment of receipt), proof of service is made in the manner set forth in [b], above, specifying the time (date) and place of mailing, the kind of mail utilized (postage prepaid, first class mail or airmail), and the address to which the mail was sent [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.30(a), 417.10(a)].

In addition, the acknowledgment of receipt of summons in the form provided by that section [see § 518.73] or other written acknowledgment of receipt of summons satisfactory to the court must be attached to the proof of service [Code Civ. Proc. § 417.10(a)].

[d] Service by Publication

If service was made by publication under Code Civ. Proc. § 415.50, proof of service may require two affidavits or declarations [Code Civ. Proc. § 417.10(b)]:

- The affidavit (or declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) of the publisher or printer, or of the publisher's or printer's foreman or clerk, showing the time and place of publication [Code Civ. Proc. § 2010]; and

- If the address of the party being served is ascertained before publication is completed, an affidavit or declaration showing the time and place a copy of the summons and a copy of the complaint were mailed to the party to be served [Code Civ. Proc. § 415.50(b); see § 518.78].

The publisher's or printer's affidavit or declaration must be annexed to a copy of the document published, specifying the times when, and the paper in which, the publication was made [Code Civ. Proc. § 2010] and filed with the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 2011].

[e] Service in Unlawful Detainer Action

If the proceeding is in unlawful detainer and service was made by posting pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 415.45, proof of service is made by the affidavit (or declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) of the person who posted the premises, showing the time and place of posting, and an affidavit or declaration showing the time and place copies of the summons and complaint were mailed to the party to be served, if in fact mailed [Code Civ. Proc. § 417.10(e)].

[f] Service Under Other California Statute

If service was made pursuant to a California statute other than those discussed at [a]-[e], above, proof of service is made in the manner prescribed by that statute or, if no manner is prescribed, in the manner prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 417.10 for proof of a similar manner of service [Code Civ. Proc. § 417.10(c)].

[4] Outside California

[a] Under California Service Statute

If summons was served outside California in a manner specified by a California statute, proof of service is made in the manner prescribed in Code Civ. Proc. § 417.10 [see [3], above].

If service is made outside California by mail pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 415.40 [see § 518.16[5]], proof of service must strictly comply with the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 417.20(a) [Bolkiah v. Superior Court (1999) 74 Cal. App. 4th 984, 1001, 88 Cal. Rptr. 2d 540] . The proof of service must include evidence satisfactory to the court establishing actual delivery to the person to be served, either by a signed return receipt or other evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 417.20(a); see Bolkiah v. Superior Court (1999) 74 Cal. App. 4th 984, 1001, 88 Cal. Rptr. 2d 540 (sufficient "other evidence" to assure court that defendants received "actual delivery" of summons and complaint within meaning of Code Civ. Proc. § 417.20(a)); see also Stamps v. Superior Court (1971) 14 Cal. App. 3d 108, 110-111, 92 Cal. Rptr. 151 (receipt returned marked "unclaimed" and without signature is not evidence of delivery)].

[b] Service in Unlawful Detainer Proceeding

If the proceeding is in unlawful detainer and service was made by posting pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 415.45, proof of service is made by the affidavit (or declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]) of the person who posted the premises, showing the time and place of posting, and an affidavit or declaration showing the time and place copies of the summons and of the complaint were mailed to the party to be served, if in fact mailed [Code Civ. Proc. § 417.20(e)].

[c] Service Pursuant to Court Order

If service was made outside California pursuant to court order, as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 413.10(c) or 413.30, proof of service is made in the manner prescribed in the order [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 413.30, 417.20(b)].

When service is made as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 413.10(b) (outside California but within United States) or 413.10(c) (outside United States), subject to any additional requirements that may be imposed by the court in which the action is pending, proof of service may be made in the manner prescribed by the law of the place where the person was served for proof of service in an action in its courts of general jurisdiction [Code Civ. Proc. § 417.20(c)].

[d] Written Admission

Proof of service outside California may also be made by the written admission of the party served [Code Civ. Proc. § 417.20(d)].

[5] By Registered Process Server

Any proof of service which is signed by a person registered under Bus. & Prof. Code § 22350 et seq. or by his or her employee or independent contractor must indicate the county in which he or she is registered and the number assigned to him or her pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 22355 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 22360; see § 518.70].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

45-518 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 518.21

§ 518.21 Filing Proof of Service and Presumptions

[1] Filing Requirement

After a summons has been served on a person, proof of service of the summons as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 417.10 or 417.20 must be filed, unless the defendant has previously made a general appearance [Code Civ. Proc. § 417.30]. Proof of service of the summons must be filed within 60 days after the time the summons and complaint must be served upon a defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.210(b)].

Amendments to the Code, effective January 1, 2006, deleted the requirement of giving the plaintiff the original summons, and deleted the requirement that the summons be returned or a declaration of lost summons be filed with the court [2005 Stats. 300].

[2] Presumptions

The filing of a proof of service creates a rebuttable presumption that the service was proper. The presumption arises, however, only if the proof of service complies with the applicable statutory requirements [FloveyorInternat., Ltd. v. Superior Court (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 789, 795, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 457] .

The return of service of a process server registered pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 22350 et seq. establishes a presumption, affecting the burden of producing evidence, of the facts stated in the return [Evid. Code § 647].

A. Service of Summons

45-518 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 518.22

§ 518.22 Dismissal of Action for Failure to Serve Summons or File Proof of Service

[1] Generally

The summons and complaint must be served on a defendant within three years after the action is commenced against the defendant. An action is commenced at the time the complaint is filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.210(a)]. In addition, proof of service of the summons must be filed within 60 days after the time the summons and complaint must be served upon a defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.210(b)]. For when the time limit for service does not apply, see Code Civ. Proc. § 583.220. Periods excluded from the time limits are set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 583.240. If service is not made and returned within the required time periods, dismissal of the action is mandated by Code Civ. Proc. § 583.250.

Moreover, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.410-583.430, a court, in its discretion, may, on its own motion or the motion of the defendant, dismiss an action if it appears appropriate under the circumstances when service is not made within two years after the action is commenced against the defendant [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.410(a), 583.420(a)(1), (b)]. The term "service," as used in the foregoing provision, includes return of summons [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.110(f)].

For further discussion and forms for use by a defendant to secure dismissal of an action for plaintiff's failure to serve and return the summons within the times specified, see Ch. 212, Dismissal .

[2] Effect of Trial Delay Reduction Programs

Local rules enacted to implement the Trial Court Delay Reduction Act (Gov. Code § 68600 et seq.) may affect the availability of involuntary dismissal based on failure to effect service. The rules generally require that service of the complaint be completed and proof of service filed with the court 60 days after the filing of the complaint [see, e.g., San Diego Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Div. II, Rule 2.1.5; see also Gov. Code § 68616(a)]. Courts have the authority to dismiss an action to enforce delay reduction programs if less severe sanctions apparently would not be effective, after taking into account the effect of previous sanctions or previous lack of compliance in the case [see Code Civ. Proc. § 583.150 (authority of court to dismiss action pursuant to local rule); Gov. Code § 68608(b)]. Consequently, if the plaintiff has failed to meet the local deadline for service of the complaint, it appears the action may be dismissed for failure to complete service, notwithstanding the fact that the three-year or two-year period of Code Civ. Proc. § 583.210 or 583.420 has not elapsed for mandatory or discretionary dismissal [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 7.13].

For further coverage of the act and local delay reduction rules, see Ch. 552, Trial Court Delay Reduction . For discussion of dismissal as a sanction under trial court delay rules, see Ch. 510, Sanctions .

Filing a complaint or other pleading may result in the imposition of sanctions if the pleading is frivolous, lacking evidentiary support, or intended to harass the other party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(b), (c) (sanctions for frivolous tactics in actions commenced in 1995 through 2005 unless the legislature changes the ending date; for discussion, see Ch. 510, Sanctions)].

For actions filed before that period, bad faith actions or tactics that are frivolous or merely intended to cause delay may result in sanctions [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5]. "Actions or tactics" include the filing and service of a complaint or cross complaint, but filing without service is excluded [Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5(b)(1)].

§ 518.30 List of Parties and Addresses

[1] First-Named Plaintiff's Duties to Maintain and Furnish

If more than two parties have appeared in a case and are represented by different counsel, the plaintiff named first in the complaint must do the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.254, 3.1103(b)]:

- Maintain a current list of the parties and the address for service of notice on each party; and
- Furnish a copy of the list on request to any party or the court.

[2] Duties of All Parties

Each party must do the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.254]:

- Furnish the first-named plaintiff with its current address for service of notice when it first appears in the action;
- Furnish the first-named plaintiff with any changes in its address for service of notice; and
- If it serves an order, notice, or pleading on a party who has not yet appeared in the action, serve a copy of the list at the same time as the order, notice or pleading is served.

In addition, a party or attorney whose address changes while the action is pending must serve on all parties and file written notice of change of address [Cal Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1103(b), 2.200].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Service of Papers

45-518 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 518.31

§ 518.31 Filing and Service

[1] In General

All pleadings subsequent to the complaint must be filed with the clerk of the court in which the action or proceeding is pending, or with the judge if there is no clerk, and copies must be served on the adverse party or the adverse party's attorney [Code Civ. Proc. § 465; see § 518.34[2]]. Filing and service may be accomplished in the manners discussed below [see § 518.34] or by facsimile transmission, which is the subject of Ch. 264, Fax Filing and Service of Papers.

In the case of a cross complaint, the cross complainant must serve a copy of the most recently amended complaint and any answers on cross defendants who have not previously appeared [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.222].

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.110(c) requires that a cross complaint against a party who has appeared in the action be accompanied by proof of service of the cross complaint at the time it is filed; if the cross complaint adds new parties, the cross complaint must be served on all parties and proofs of service on the new parties must be filed within thirty days of the filing of the cross-complaint.

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.221(a) requires that each court must make available to the plaintiff, at the time of filing of the complaint, an ADR information package that includes specified information. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.221(c) requires that each plaintiff must serve a copy of the ADR information package on each defendant along with the complaint, and each cross complainant must serve a copy of the ADR information package on any new parties to the action along with the cross complaint.

Notices must be in writing, and the notice of a motion, other than for a new trial, must state when, and the grounds on which, it will be made,and the papers, if any, on which it is to be based. If the paper has not previously been served on the party to be notified and was not filed by that party, a copy of it must accompany the notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010]. For discussion of papers that are not to be filed, see § 518.32.

As used in the Cal. Rules of Ct., unless a statute or rule provides for a different method for filing or service, a requirement to serve and file a document means a copy of the document must be served on the attorney for each party separately represented, on each self-represented party, and on any other person or entity when required by statute, rule, or court order, and that the document and a proof of service of the document must be filed with the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.21(b)].

[2] Except in Case of Default

No bill of exceptions, notice of appeal, or other notice or paper, other than amendments to the pleadings or an amended pleading, need be served on any party whose default has been duly entered or who has not appeared in the action or proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1014].

A defendant appears in an action when he or she proceeds in the following ways [Code Civ. Proc. § 1014]:

- Answers;
- Demurs;
- Files a notice of motion to strike;
- Files a notice of motion to transfer pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 396b;
- Files a notice of motion for reclassification pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 403.040;
- Gives plaintiff written notice of appearance; or
- When an attorney gives notice of appearance for the defendant.

After appearance, a defendant or defendant's attorney is entitled to notice of all subsequent proceedings of which notice is required to be given [Code Civ. Proc. § 1014].

[3] Drop Box for Filing Documents

Whenever a clerk's office filing counter is closed at any time between 8:30 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. on a court day, the court must provide a drop box for depositing documents to be filed with the clerk; a court may provide a drop box during other times [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.210(a)].

Any document deposited in a court's drop box up to and including 4:00 p.m. on a court day is deemed to have been deposited for filing on that day [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.210(b)]. A court may provide for same-day filing of a document deposited in its drop box after 4:00 p.m. on a court day. If so, the court must give notice of the deadline for same-day filing of a document deposited in its drop box [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.210(b)].

Any document deposited in a court's drop box is deemed to have been deposited for filing on the next court day if [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.210(c)]:

(1) It is deposited on a court day after 4:00 p.m. or after the deadline for same-day filing if a court provides for a later time, or

(2) It is deposited on a judicial holiday.

A court must have a means of determining whether a document was deposited in the drop box by 4:00 p.m., or after the deadline for same-day filing if a court provides for a later time, on a court day [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.210(d)].

45-518 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 518.32

§ 518.32 Limitations on Filing of Papers

[1] Papers That Will Not Be Filed

The following papers, whether offered separately or as attachments to other documents, may not be filed unless they are offered as relevant to the determination of an issue in a law and motion proceeding or other hearing or unless they are ordered filed for good cause [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(a)]:

(1) Subpoena.

(2) Subpoena duces tecum.

(3) Deposition notice, and response.

(4) Notice to consumer or employee and objection.

(5) Notice of intention to record testimony by audio tape or videotape.

(6) Agreement to set or extend time for deposition, agreement to extend time for response to discovery requests, and notice of these agreements.

(7) Declaration for additional discovery.

(8) Agreement for physical and mental examinations.

(9) Demand for delivery of medical reports, and response.

(10) Stipulation to enlarge the scope of [sic] number of discovery requests from that specified by statute, and notice of the stipulation.

(11) Demand for bill of particulars or an accounting, and response.

(12) Request for statement of damages, and response, unless it is accompanied by a request to enter default and is the notice of special and general damages.

(13) Demand for jury trial, unless it is submitted pursuant to former Code Civ. Proc. §§ 631(4) or 631.01(a)(4), (b) (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 631(d)(4)) or is included in the at-issue memorandum.

(14) Notice of deposit of jury fees.

(15) Notice to produce party, agent, or tangible things before a court, and response.

(16) Offer to compromise, unless accompanied by an original proof of acceptance and a written judgment for the court's signature and entry of judgment.

The word "papers" includes printed forms furnished by the clerk, but does not include notices filed and served by the clerk [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.250(c)].

[2] Duty to Retain Originals of Unfiled Papers

Unless the paper served is a response, the party who serves a paper listed under [1], above, must retain the original with the original proof of service affixed. The original of a response must be served, and it must be retained by the person on whom it is served. All original papers must be retained until six months after final disposition of the case, unless the court, on motion of any party and for good cause shown, orders the original papers preserved for a longer period [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.250(b)].

Chapter 518 SERVICE OF SUMMONS AND PAPERS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Service of Papers

45-518 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 518.33

§ 518.33 Time for Service and Computing "Court Days"

The time for serving copies of papers generally is same as the time for filing the originals [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc § 1005(b) (moving papers to be served and filed at least 16 court days before hearing; extension of time for service by mail, facsimile transmission, or overnight delivery)].

The amount of time required to notice various motions or serve court documents depends on the procedure sought [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 437c(a) (notice of motion for summary judgement must be served 75 days before hearing on the motion); Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b) (motion to quash service of summons must be served 16 days before hearing)] or the documents issued (see e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 537(d)(2) (temporary restraining order must be served within 5 days)]. Review the specific statutes for time requirements and exceptions peculiar to the procedure sought. For discussion of how the manner of service affects the amount of time to serve papers, see § 518.34. For discussion of how to shorten or extend time for service of papers, in general, see Ch. 524, Shortening and Extension of Time .

Counsel should consult local rules for additional requirements relating to service of papers [see, e.g., Sacramento Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 3.03(B), (C) (opposition and reply papers to be served by means to ensure receipt by opposing counsel no later than one court day of filing on penalty of sanctions or court's discretion not to consider document)].

Depending on statute or rule of court, service may be based on either calendar days or court days. Calendar days are determined using a standard calendar, and the time in which an act provided by law is to be done is computed by excluding the first day and including the last, unless the last day is a holiday, and then it is also excluded [Code Civ. Proc. § 12].

A "court day" may be defined as any day in which the court is not closed due to a judicial holiday [see Code Civ. Proc. § 133, 134]. While courts of justice may be held and business transacted on any day, [Code Civ. Proc. § 133], courts must be closed for the transaction of judicial business on judicial holidays, for all but the following purposes [Code Civ. Proc. § 134(a), (b)]:

- To give, upon request, instructions to a deliberating jury.

- To receive a verdict or discharge a jury.
- For arraignments in criminal actions.
- For Saturday Small Claims court sessions.
- For injunctions and writs of prohibition, which may be issued and served on any day.

The fact that a court is open on a judicial holiday cannot make that day a nonholiday for purposes of computing the time required for the conduct of any proceeding nor for the performance of any act [Code Civ. Proc. § 134(d)].

The term "holiday" includes Saturday [Code Civ. Proc. § 12a] and Sunday [Code Civ. Proc. § 12a, Gov. Code § 6700(a)]. It also includes holidays specified in Gov. Code § 6700, as adjusted for weekends pursuant to Gov. Code § 6701 [Code Civ. Proc. § 12a, Gov. Code § 6700(b), (d)-(e), (g)-(o)]:

- January 1st.
- February 12th (Lincoln Day).
- The third Monday in February (Presidents Day).
- The last Monday in May (Memorial Day).
- July 4th.
- The first Monday in September (Labor Day).
- September 9th (Admission Day).
- The second Monday in October (Columbus Day).
- November 11th (Veterans Day).
- December 25th.
- Good Friday from 12 noon to 3:00 p.m.
- Every day appointed by the President or Governor for a public fast, thanksgiving, or holiday.

Two holidays listed in Gov. Code § 6700 are excluded from the definition of holiday in Code Civ. Proc. § 12a. They are [Code Civ. Proc. § 12a; Gov. Code § 6700(c), (f)]:

- The third Monday in January (Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Day).
- March 31st (Cesar Chavez Day).

In addition, if any city, county, or state office, other than a branch office, is closed for the whole of a day, that day is considered a holiday as to the business of that office for computing time under Code Civ. Proc. § 12a [Code Civ. Proc. § 12b; see Code Civ. Proc. § 12a, discussed under § 345.17[1]]. Although Code Civ. Proc. § 12b does not define "branch office," the ordinary definition would include outlying districts of a superior court. Thus, when local rule permitted the filing of a complaint in either the west district or the downtown central district, the downtown courthouse as well as the west district courthouse would have to have been closed before Section 12b could apply to give the plaintiff an additional day to file the complaint [Bennett v. Suncloud (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 91, 98-99, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 80 (factual issue sufficient to overcome demurrer was raised as to whether central district courthouse was closed due to Northridge earthquake)].

If a day appointed for the holding or sitting of a court, or to which it is adjourned, falls on a judicial holiday, it is deemed appointed for or adjourned to the next day [Code Civ. Proc. § 134(d)].

A court may designate one or more departments to remain open on a judicial holiday or at any hours of the day or night [Code Civ. Proc. § 134(c)], however these courts are still judicial holidays for purposes of computing the time required for the conduct of any proceeding or for the performance of any act [Code Civ. Proc. § 134(d)]; and any paper lodged with the court during that time must be filed by the court on the next non-judicial holiday if the document meets the filing criteria [Code Civ. Proc. § 134(d)].

Discussion of county holiday having the same effect as a judicial holiday, see 57 Op. Atty. Gen. Cal. 641 .

Chapter 518 SERVICE OF SUMMONS AND PAPERS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Service of Papers

45-518 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 518.34

§ 518.34 Manner of Service

[1] In General

Notices and other papers are served in the manner prescribed by Chapter 5, Part Two, Title 14 of the Code of Civil Procedure [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020] when not otherwise provided by the code [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010].

[2] Service on Party or Attorney

If a party has an attorney in the action or proceeding, the service of papers, when required, must be on the attorney instead of on the party,except for service of subpoenas, writs, and other process issued in the suit and of papers to bring the party into contempt [Code Civ. Proc. § 1015; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.21(a); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1016].

If the sole attorney for a party is removed or suspended from practice, the party has no attorney within the meaning of the foregoing provision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1015].

If the sole attorney for a party has no known office in this state, notices and papers may be served by leaving a copy of each of them with the court clerk, or with the judge if there is no clerk, unless the attorney has filed in the cause an address where notices and papers may be served on him or her, in which event they may be served at such place [Code Civ. Proc. § 1015].

[3] Service on Nonresident, Nonrepresented Party Who Has Appeared

When a plaintiff or a defendant who has appeared resides out of California and has no attorney in the action or proceeding, the service may be made on the clerk or on the judge if there is no clerk [Code Civ. Proc. § 1015].

[4] Personal Service

The service may be personal by hand-delivering a copy of the required notice or paper to the person to be served or to the person's attorney [Code Civ. Proc. § 1011].

[5] Substituted Service on Absent Attorney

Service may be made at the attorney's office by leaving papers to be served in an envelope or package clearly labeled to identify the attorney being served with a receptionist or with a person having charge of the office. If there is no one in the office with whom the notice or papers may be left for purposes of Code Civ. Proc. § 1011(a) at the time service is to be effected, service may be made by leaving the papers between 9:00 A.M. and 5:00 P.M. in a conspicuous place in the office [Code Civ. Proc. § 1011(a)].

If the office is not open, service may be made by leaving the papers at the attorney's residence, if it is in the same county as the attorney's office, with a person who is at least 18 years old. If the attorney's residence is not known or it is not in the same county as the attorney's office, or if it is in the same county but it is not open or a person 18 years of age or older cannot be found at the attorney's residence, then, service may be made by mailing the papers to the attorney at the attorney's office [Code Civ. Proc. § 1011(a)].

If neither the attorney's office nor residence is known, service may be made by delivering the notice or papers to the address of the attorney or party of record as designated on the court papers, or by delivering thenotice or papers to the court clerk, for the attorney [Code Civ. Proc. § 1011(a); for a similar provision governing service of summons, see Code Civ. Proc. § 415.20(a)]. For requirements of mail service, see [7][a], below.

[6] Substituted Service and Service by Mail on Party

If service is to be made on a party, it must be made in the manner specifically provided in particular cases, or, if there is no specific provision, service may be made by leaving the papers to be served at the party's residence between 8:00 A.M. and 6:00 P.M. with some person at least 18 years of age. If no such person can be found at the residence between those hours, the papers may be served by mail, and, if the party's residence is not known, the papers may be served by delivering them to the court clerk, for the party [Code Civ. Proc. § 1011(b); for a similar provision governing service of summons, see Code Civ. Proc. § 415.20(b)].

When service is made on the clerk or judge because a party's address is unknown, the papers must be enclosed in an envelope addressed to the party in care of the clerk or the judge. The back of the envelope must state the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.252]:

- Service is being made under Code of Civil Procedure section 1011(b) on a party whose residence address is unknown.
- Name of the party whose address is unknown.
- Case name and number.

[7] Service by Other Methods

[a] By Mail

In addition to the service by mail provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1011, service may be made by mail when the person to be served resides or has his or her office at a place where mail is delivered or where the person making the service and the person on whom it is to be made reside or have their offices in different places between which there is a regular communication by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 1012].

Successful service by mail requires strict compliance with all statutory requirements; failure to comply deprives a court of jurisdiction to act [see Lee v. Placer Title Co. (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 503, 511, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 572] . This requirement applies to mailings by the court clerk as well as to mailings by parties [see Lee v. Placer Title Co. (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 503, 508, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 572] . For example, dismissal of an action was void when the court clerk did not mail notice of dismissal to plaintiffs' counsel's current address on file in the cause, as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a), but to an old address [see Lee v. Placer Title Co. (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 503, 509-511, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 572] .

In case of service by mail, the notice or other paper must be deposited in the United States Post Office, a mail box, subpost office, substation, mail chute, or other like facility regularly maintained by the United States Postal Service, in a sealed envelope with postage paid. The envelope must be addressed to the person to be served at his or her office address as last given on any document that he or she has filed in the cause and served on the party making service or otherwise at his or her place of residence [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1011(a)].

Any notice required by law, other than a notice required to be given to a party to an action or to the party's attorney, the service of which is not governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1019 and which is not otherwise specifically provided for by law, may be given by sending it by registered (or certified [Code Civ. Proc. § 11]) return-receipt mail, with proper postage prepaid, addressed to the addressee's last known address. The production of a returned receipt purporting to be signed by the addressee creates a disputable presumption that the notice was received by the person to whom it was required to be sent [Code Civ. Proc. § 1020]. Code Civ. Proc. § 1020 is permissive; where a notice is required to be sent by mail, compliance with the mailing requirement may be satisfied by sending the notice by registered mail with a return receipt requested [Bear Creek Master Assn. v. Edwards (2005) 130 Cal App. 4th 1470, 1486, 31 Cal. Rptr. 3d 337] . Code Civ. Proc. § 1020 does not require mailed notices to be sent by registered mail. Likewise, while a signed return receipt may create a rebuttable presumption that the notice was received, the absence of such a signed return receipt does not negate any other presumptions concerning mailed items, and a party cannot defeat notice by a willful failure to accept certified mail [Bear Creek Master Assn. v. Edwards (2005) 130 Cal App. 4th 1470, 1486, 31 Cal. Rptr. 3d 337] .

[b] By Express Mail or Overnight Delivery

In case of service by express mail, the notice or other paper must be deposited in a post office, mailbox, subpost office, substation, mail chute, or other like facility regularly maintained by the United States Postal Service for receipt of express mail, in a sealed envelope, with express mail postage paid, addressed to the person on whom it is to be served at the office address as last given by that person on any document filed in the cause and served on the party making service by express mail; otherwise, it should be addressed to the party's place of residence [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c)].

In case of service by another method providing for overnight delivery, the notice or other paper must be deposited in a box or other facility regularly maintained by the express service carrier or delivered to an authorized courier or driver authorized by the express service carrier to receive documents, in an envelope or package designated by the express service carrier with delivery fees paid or provided for, addressed to the person onwhom it is to be served at the office address as last given by that person on any document filed in the cause and served on the party making service; otherwise, it should be addressed to the party's place of residence [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(c)].

[c] By Facsimile Transmission

Service by facsimile transmission is permitted only if the parties agree and a written confirmation of that agreement is made [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(e); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.306(c)]. The Judicial Council has adopted rules implementing the service of documents by facsimile transmission [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(e); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.300 et seq.].

In case of service by facsimile transmission, the notice or other paper must be transmitted to a facsimile machine maintained by the person on whom it is served at the facsimile machine telephone number as last given by that person on any document that he or she has filed in the cause and served on the party making the service [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(e); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.306(d)].

For further discussion of and forms relating to service by facsimile transmission, see Ch. 264, Fax Filing and Service of Papers .

[c.1] By Electronic Service

In actions in courts in which electronic service is authorized, when notice may be served by mail, express mail, overnight delivery, or facsimile transmission, electronic service of the notice and any accompanying documents may be authorized when a party has agreed to accept service electronically in that action [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(6); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260; but see Insyst v. Applied Materials, Inc. (2009) 170 Cal. App. 4th 1129, 1140, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 808 (attorneys were notified by an electronic service provider that a judgment had been electronically filed, and they were given instructions for accessing the document on the Internet, including a hyperlink that led to a document description that included another hyperlink that opened a file-stamped copy of the judgment; in finding that this electronic notification did not trigger the 60-day time period for filing a notice of appeal, the Sixth District Court of Appeal found that neither Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6 nor its implementing rules "authorize[] serving a document by giving a party notice of where he or she may find it. ... We do not regard an e-mail explanation of where to electronically locate a judgment as the equivalent of the electronic transmission of the document.")].

For discussion of the requirements and obligations of electronic service, see § 518.48.

[d] When Service Is Complete and Extension of Time

[i] Service by Mail

Service by mail is complete at the time the paper to be served is deposited in the mail as described at [a], above. However, any period of notice and any right or duty to do any act or make any response within any period or on a date certain after the service of the document, which period or date is prescribed by statute or rule of court, is extended by the following periods when service is by mail [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a)]:

- Five calendar days, if the place of address and of mailing are both within California.

- Ten calendar days if either the place of mailing or of address is outside California but within the United States.

- Twenty calendar days if either the place of mailing or of address is outside the United States.

Exceptions to these extensions of time are discussed at [e], below.

[ii] Service by Express Mail or Overnight Delivery

Service by express mail or another form of overnight delivery is complete at the time of the deposit, but any period of notice and any right or duty to do any act or to make any response within any period or on a date certain after the service of the document served by express mail or other method of overnight delivery is be extended by two court days [Code Civ Proc. § 1013(c)].

Exceptions to this extension of time are discussed at [e], below.

[iii] Service by Facsimile Transmission

Service by facsimile transmission is complete at the time of transmission [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(e); but see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.306(e) (service complete on receipt of entire document by the receiving party's fax machine)]. Nevertheless, any period of notice and any right or duty to do any act or make any response within any period or on a date certain after the service of the document, which period or date is prescribed by statute or rule of court, is extended by two court days [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(e)].

Exceptions to this extension of time are discussed at [e], below.

[iv] Electronic Service

Electronic service is complete at the time of transmission, but any period of notice or any right or duty to do any act or make any response within any period or on a date certain after the service of the document, which time period or date is prescribed by statute or rule of court, shall be extended after service by electronic transmission by two court days [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(6); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(e)(1), (2)]. Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(6) provides for some exceptions to this extension and also states that the extension applies in the absence of a specific exception provided for by any other statute or rule of court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(6); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(e)(3), (4)].

For discussion of the exceptions and the relationship of section 1010.6 with Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b), see § 518.48[3].

[e] When Code Civ. Proc. § 1013 Extension of Time Inapplicable

The extensions provided when service is by mail, express mail or other overnight delivery, or facsimile transmission apply unless a specific exception is provided by statute or rule of court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a), (c),(e)]. By the terms of Section 1013, the extensions do not apply to the time for taking the following actions [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a), (c), (e)]:

- Filing notice of intention to move for new trial [see Code Civ. Proc. § 659].
- Filing notice of intention to move to vacate judgment pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 663a.
- Filing notice of appeal.

The Section 1013 extensions do not apply to a notice of motion, papers opposing a notice of motion, or reply papers governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1005, which has its own extension provision that parallels the extensions provided for in Code Civ. Proc. § 1013 [compare Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b) with Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(a), (c), (e)]. The motions to which Section 1005 applies are listed in Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(a). Section 1005 specifically provides that the Section 1013 time extensions do not apply to a notice of motion, papers opposing a notice of motion, or reply papers governed by Section 1005 [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)].

For discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 1005 and the proceedings to which it applies, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders .

Since Section 1013 only applies when the relevant time limit begins to run from the service of a document to which a response is directed [Citicorp N. Am., Inc. v. Superior Court (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 563, 567, 261 Cal. Rptr. 668] , where the time period is commenced by an act other than service, it does not operate to extend the filing deadline [Camper v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1992) 3 Cal. 4th 679, 684, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 101, 836 P.2d 888 ; Dep't of Indus. Relations v. Atl. Baking Co., Inc. (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 891, 895, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 44 ; San Mateo Fed'n of Teachers v. Pub. Employment Relations Bd. (1994) 28 Cal. App. 4th 150, 152, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 387 ; Citicorp N. Am., Inc. v. Superior Court (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 563, 567, 261 Cal. Rptr. 668 ; Cole v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 1, 4, 222 Cal. Rptr. 426] .

Section 1013 also does not apply to jurisdictional deadlines [Dep't of Indus. Relations v. Atl. Baking Co., Inc. (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 891, 895, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 44 (Section 1013 does not apply to petition for writ of mandate from order issued by Labor Commissioner)].

[f] Notation on Papers Served by Other Methods

Papers served by mail, facsimile transmission, or overnight delivery should either bear a notation of the date and place of deposit or transmission, or be accompanied by an unsigned copy of the affidavit or declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5] or certificate of mailing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(b), (d), (f)]. This requirement is directory, not mandatory [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013(g)].

[8] Service by Telegraph

Any writ or order in any civil suit or proceeding and all other papers requiring service may be transmitted by telegraph for service in any place. The telegraphic copy of the writ, order, or paper so transmitted may be served or executed by the officer or person to whom it is sent for that purpose, and returned by him or her, if any return is required, in the same manner, and with the same force and effect in all respects, as the original document might be if delivered to him or her. The officer or person serving or executing the same has the same authority, and is subject to the same liabilities, as if the copy were the original. The original, if a writ or order, must also be filed in the court from which it was issued, and a certified copy must be preserved in the telegraph office from which it was sent. In sending it, the operator may use either the original or the certified copy for that purpose. Whenever any document to be sent by telegraph bears a seal, either private or official, it is not necessary for the operator in sending it to telegraph a description of the seal or any words or device on it, but the seal may be expressed in the telegraphic copy by the letters "L.S." (locus sigilli, that is, place of the seal) or by the word "seal" [Code Civ. Proc. § 1017].

[9] Service in Foreign Country

A paper may be served on a person in a foreign country in the manner a summons is served pursuant to the "Convention on the Service Abroad of Judicial and Extrajudicial Documents in Civil or Commercial Matters" [20 U.S.T. 361]. For further discussion, see § 518.16[9].

45-518 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 518.35

§ 518.35 When Service by Mail by Court Clerk Is Complete

When the clerk makes service of process by mail, the clerk's certificate of mailing will state, among other things, the date and place of deposit in the mail and that the envelope was sealed and deposited in the mail with the postage fully prepaid [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a(4)]. This form of proof of service is sufficient for service of process in which the clerk or deputy clerk signing the certificate places the document for collection and mailing on the date shown on the proof of service, so as to cause it to be mailed in an envelope so sealed and addressed on that date following standard court practices [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a(4)].

When service has been made by the clerk pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a(4), a party served may move the court to deem that the service was complete on the date of the postage cancellation or postage meter imprint as shown on the envelope if that date is more than one day after the date of deposit for mailing contained in the certificate. The court is to grant the motion if it finds good cause [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a(4)].

45-518 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 518.36

§ 518.36 Proof of Service

As used in the Cal. Rules of Ct., proof of service means a declaration stating that service has been made as provided in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.21(a) and (b). If the proof of service names attorneys for separately represented parties, it must also state which party or parties each of the attorneys served is representing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.21(c)].

Proof of service by mail may be made in the following ways:

- By a nonattorney as described under Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a(1) or (3) [for forms, see § 518.91].
- By an attorney as prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a(2) [for a form, see § 518.93].
- By a clerk of a court of record as prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a(4).

Although not specifically authorized by state, proof of service by messenger, express mail or other form of overnight delivery [see § 518.34[7][b]], facsimile transmission [see § 518.34[7][c]], or electronic service [see § 518.34[7][d]], may be made by declaration by an attorney or nonattorney. For an optional Judicial Council form containing the elements for proof of service using one of these methods, see § 518.92.

Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020 do not provide for proof of service by personal, that is, hand delivery or by substituted service, although such service is authorized by Code Civ. Proc. § 1011. The practice, however, has been to prove such service by affidavit [Code Civ. Proc. § 2009] or declaration under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5] of the person making the service or by the written acknowledgment of the person served [cf. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 417.10(d), 417.20(d) (service of summons)]. For an optional Judicial Council form containing the elements for proof of personal service, see § 518.90. When service is personally made by an attorney of record, proof of service is usually made by the certificate of the attorney [cf. Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a(2) (proof of service by mail)].

Courts have consistently concluded that listing the city and state where the documents were placed in the United States mail is sufficient to satisfy the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a regarding the place of deposit in the mail [

Him v. City and County of San Francisco (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 437, 443-444, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 838] .

§ 518.37 Defects in Service or Notice

Any objection to defects in the manner or proof of service or in a notice of motion must be made in the trial court and cannot normally be raised for the first time on appeal [see Peers v. Stoll (1939) 32 Cal. App. 2d 511, 512, 90 P.2d 119 (notice of motion), disapproved on other grounds, Butcher v. Brouwer (1942) 21 Cal. 2d 354, 358, 132 P.2d 205] . Moreover, these defects are waived by contesting a motion on the merits without objection [see Thieme v. Commercial Lighting & Maintenance Co. (1960) 177 Cal. App. 2d 575, 576, 2 Cal. Rptr. 382 ; Otsuka v. Balangue (1949) 92 Cal. App. 2d 788, 792, 208 P.2d 65 ; see also Andre v. General Dynamics, Inc. (1974) 43 Cal. App. 3d 839, 842, 118 Cal. Rptr. 95 ; Farrar v. McCormick (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 701, 705, 102 Cal. Rptr. 190] , although an appearance in oppositionto a motion for the limited purpose of objecting to the sufficiency of the notice does not constitute a waiver of the defect [Bohn v. Bohn (1913) 164 Cal. 532, 539, 129 P. 981] . In addition, the granting of a motion required to be made on notice that was not noticed at all is a ground, on motion, for vacating the resultant order [Harris v. Board of Education (1957) 152 Cal. App. 2d 677, 680, 313 P.2d 212 ; see also Maguire v. Collier (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 309, 314, 122 Cal. Rptr. 510 ; *Farrar v. McCormick (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 701, 705, 102 Cal. 45-518 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 518.40

§ 518.40 Adoption of Local Rules Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6 and Statewide Uniform Rules of Court for Electronic Filing and Service

Effective January 1, 2000, a trial court may adopt local rules permitting electronic filing and service of documents, subject to rules the Judicial Council has adopted pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(b) [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.250 et seq.], and the conditions specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a) [Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)]. The rules set forth in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.250 et seq. must be construed to authorize and permit filing and service by electronic means to the extent feasible [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.251].

The Legislature's intent in enacting the act is to [Stats. 1999, Ch. 514, § 3]:

- Provide for the eventual standardization of electronic filing and service procedures on a statewide level, and

- Provide that a court shall not adopt an electronic filing procedure that requires a litigant or attorney to possess specialized, cumbersome or expensive equipment or software to utilize the electronic filing system.

Effective January 1, 2003, as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(b), Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.250 et seq. to govern electronic filing and service of documents in the superior court. Additionally, as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(b), the statewide uniform rules of court provide policies on vendor contracts, privacy, and access to public records [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.254-2.256].

[1] Same as Original Paper Document

A document that is filed electronically in accordance with the Judicial Council rules has the same legal effect as an original paper document [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(1); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.252(e)(1)].

[2] No Effect on Filing Deadline

Filing a document electronically does not alter any filing deadline [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.252(e)(2)].

§ 518.42 Documents That May Be Filed Electronically

[1] General Rule

A court may permit electronic filing of a document in any action or proceeding unless the Judicial Council rules for electronic filing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.250 et seq.] or other legal authority expressly prohibit electronic filing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.252(a)].

A document is a pleading, a paper, a declaration, an exhibit, or another filing submitted by a party or by an agent of a party on the party's behalf. A document may be in paper or electronic form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.250(2)]. Electronic filing is the electronic transmission to a court of a document in electronic form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.250(4)].

[2] Original Documents

In a proceeding that requires the filing of an original document, an electronic filer may file a scanned copy of a document if the original document is then filed with the court within 10 calendar days [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.252(b)]. Electronic filer is defined as a party filing a document in electronic form with the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.250(3)].

[3] Orders and Judgments

The court may electronically file any notice, order, minute order, judgment, or other document prepared by the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.252(d)].

§ 518.43 Court Order Requiring Electronic Filing and Service in Special Cases

The court may, on the motion of any party or on its own motion, after finding that such an order would not cause undue hardship or significant prejudice to any party, order all parties in any class action, a consolidated action, a group of actions, a coordinated action, or an action that is complex under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.403 to:

- Serve all documents electronically, except when personal service is required by statute or rule [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.253(a)(1)];
- File all documents electronically [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.253(a)(2)]; or
- Serve and file all documents electronically, except when personal service is required by statute or rule [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.253(a)(3)].

The court's order may also provide that:

- Documents previously filed in paper form may be resubmitted in electronic form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.253(b)(1)]; and
- When the court sends confirmation of filing to all parties, receipt of the confirmation constitutes service of the filing if the filed document is available electronically [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.253(b)(2)].

When it is not feasible for a party to convert a document to electronic form by scanning, imaging, or another means, a court may allow that party to serve, file, or serve and file the document in paper form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.253(c)].

45-518 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 518.44

§ 518.44 Requirements and Options for Courts Accepting Electronically Filed Documents

[1] Internet-Accessible System

A court that orders electronic filing must allow for filing over the Internet by means designed to ensure the security and integrity of a transmission [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.254(a)(1)]. The court may make an exception to Internet transmission if doing so facilitates the management of a particular action or proceeding and does not cause undue prejudice to a party [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.254(a)(2)].

[2] Publication of Electronic Filing Requirements

A court that permits electronic filing must publish, in both electronic and print formats, the court's electronic filing requirements [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.254(b)].

[3] Problems With System

If a court is aware of a problem that impedes or precludes electronic filing during the court's regular filing hours, it must promptly take reasonable steps to provide notice of the problem [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.254(c)].

[4] Public Access to Electronically Filed Documents

Except as provided in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.500-2.506 (Public Access to Electronic Trial Court Records), and electronically filed document is a public document at the time it is filed unless it is sealed under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(b) or made confidential by law [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.254(d)].

[5] Option of Contracting with Electronic Filing Service Providers

[a] Right to Contract and Provisions

A court may contract with one or more electronic filing service providers to furnish and maintain an electronic filing system for the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.255(a)(1)]. If the court contracts with an electronic filing service provider, it may require electronic filters to transmit the documents to the provider [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.255(a)(2)]. If there is a single provider or in-house system, it must accept filing from other electronicfiling service providers to the extent it is compatible with them [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.255(a)(3)].

The court's contract with an electronic filing service provider may allow the provider to charge electronic filers a reasonable fee in addition to the court's filing fee; and the contract may also allow the electronic filing service provider to make other reasonable requirements for the use of the electronic filing system [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.255(b)].

[b] Transmission of Filing to Court

An electronic filing service provider must promptly transmit any electronic filing, with the applicable filing fee, to the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.255(c)].

[c] Confirmation of Receipt and Filing of Document

An electronic filing service provider must [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.255(d)(1), (2)]:

- Promptly send to an electronic filer confirmation of the receipt of any document that the filer has transmitted to the provider for filing with the court.

- Send its confirmation to the filer's electronic notification address and indicate the date and time of the receipt in accordance with Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.259(a).

After reviewing the documents, the court must [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.255(d)(3)]:

- Promptly transmit to the provider and the electronic filer the court's confirmation of filing or notice of rejection of filing in accordance with Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.259.

For discussion of the court's confirmation requirements when no electronic service provider is involved, see § 518.46.

[d] Ownership of Information

Any contract between a court and an electronic filing service provider must acknowledge that the court is the owner of the contents of the filing system and has the exclusive right to control its use [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.255(e)].

[e] Technical Standards

The Advisory Committee Comment issued with the adoption of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.255 states: "The Court Technology Advisory Committee recommends that electronic filing service providers comply with the technical standards specified on the California Courts Web site at www.courtinfo.ca.gov/programs/efiling. The committee anticipates thatthese rules may be amended to require compliance with the California Electronic Filing Technical Standards once the standards are sufficiently developed."

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Electronic Filing and Service

45-518 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 518.45

§ 518.45 Responsibilities of Persons Filing Electronic Documents

[1] Definitions

An electronic filer is a party filing a document in electronic form with the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.250(3)], by an agent, or through an electronic filing service provider. A document is a pleading, a paper, a declaration, an exhibit, or another filing submitted by a party or by an agent of a party on the party's behalf. A document may be in paper or electronic form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.250(2)]. Electronic filing is the electronic transmission to a court of a document in electronic form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.250(4)]. Regular filing hours are the hours during which a court accepts documents for filing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.250(7)].

An electronic filing service provider is a person or entity that receives an electronic filing from a party for retransmission to the court. In submission of filings the electronic filing service provider does so on behalf of the electronic filer and not as an agent of the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.250(5)].

Electronic notification address of a party means the electronic address at or through which the party has authorized electronic service [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.250(8)].

Practice Tip:
The electronic filing of any document with the court indicates that a party accepts electronic service from other parties and the court, with service to any electronic notification address furnished to the court. [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(a)(2)(B)]. Be sure to consider the consequences of this election and to assure proper monitoring of all electronic notification address furnished to the court. For discussion of electronic service, see § 518.48.

[2] Conditions of Filing

An electronic filer agrees to, and must [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.256(a)(1)-(5)]:

- Comply with any court requirements designed to ensure the integrity of electronic filing and to protect sensitive personal information;

- Furnish information the court requires for case processing;

- Take all reasonable steps to ensure that the filing does not contain computer code, including viruses, that might be harmful to the court's electronic filing system and to other users of that system;

- Furnish one or more electronic notification addresses, in the manner specified by the court, at which the electronic agrees to accept service; and

- Immediately provide the court and parties with any change to his or her electronic notification addresses.

[3] Format of Electronically Filed Documents

A document that is filed electronically with the court must be in a format specified by the court unless it cannot be created in that format [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.256(b)]. The format adopted by a court must meet the following requirements [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.256(b)]:

- The software for creating and reading documents must be in the public domain or generally available at a reasonable cost.

- The printing of documents must not result in the loss of document content, format, or appearance.

[4] Signature Requirements

[a] Documents Under Penalty of Perjury

When a document to be filed requires the signature under penalty of perjury of any person, the document is deemed signed by that person if filed electronically and if a printed form of the document has been signed by that person prior to, or on the same day as, the date of filing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(2)(B)]. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.257(a)(1) provides that the document is deemed signed if the signature on the printed form of the document is signed before filing. By electronically filing the document, the electronic filer indicates that he or she has complied with Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.257(a)(1) and that the original, signed document is available for review and copying at the request of the court or any party [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.257(a)(2); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(2)(B) (act of filing represents compliance with that section)].

Practice Tip:
While Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(2)(B) specifically provides that the signing of the original document may occur prior to, or on the same day as, the date of filing, the prudent practice is to assure the signature on the printed form before electronically filing the document to comply with Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.257(a), and to avoid the situation where the signatory is unable or unwilling to sign the printed form, that day, after the electronic document is filed.

The attorney or person filing the document must maintain the printed form of the document bearing the original signature and make it available for review and copying on the request of the court or any party to the action or proceeding in which it is filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(2)(B)]. At any time after the document is filed, any other party may serve a demand for production of the original signed document; and the demand must be served on all other parties but need not be filed with the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.257(a)(3)]. Within five days of service of the demand, the party on whom the demand is made must make the original signed document available for review and copying by all other parties [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.257(a)(4)].

[b] Document Not Under Penalty of Perjury

If a document does not require a signature under penalty of perjury, the document is deemed signed by the party if the document is filed electronically [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.257(b)].

[c] Documents Requiring Signatures of Opposing Parties

When a document to be filed electronically, such as a stipulation, requires the signatures of opposing parties, the following procedures apply [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.257(c)(1)-(3)]:

- The party filing the document must obtain the signatures of all parties on a printed form of the document.

- The party filing the document must maintain the original, signed document and must make it available for review and copying as provided in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.257(a)(2).

- By electronically filing the document, the electronic filer indicates that all parties have signed the document and that the filer has the signed original in his or her possession.

[d] Digital Signatures

A party is not required to use a digital signature on an electronically filed document [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.257(d)].

[e] Electronic Judicial Signatures

If a document requires a signature by a court or a judicial officer, the document may be electronically signed in any manner permitted by law [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.257(e)].

[5] Filing Fees

[a] Payment of Fees

A court may permit the use of credit card, debit cards, electronic funds transfers, or debit accounts for the payment of filing fees associated with electronic filing, as provided in Gov. Code § 6159 and Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.820 or otherwise applicable law; and a court may authorize other methods of payment [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.258(a)].

[b] Waiver of Fees

Eligible persons may seek a waiver of court fees and costs, as provided in Gov. Code §§ 68630-68641, Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.252(c), and Title 3, Division 2 of the Rules of Court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.258(b)]. A court must permit electronic filing of an application for waiver of court fees and costs in any proceeding in which the court accepts electronic filing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(7); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.252(c)]. The court is not required to waive a filing fee that is not otherwise waivable [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(7)].

For discussion of waiving court fees because of a person's financial condition, see Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees, § 174.110 et seq.

§ 518.46 Actions by Court on Receipt of Electronic Filing

[1] Confirmation of Receipt and Filing of Document

A court receiving a document submitted electronically must promptly send the electronic filer a confirmation of receipt of the document, indicating the date and time of the receipt [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(4); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.259(a)(1)]. If the document complies with filing requirements and all required filing fees have been paid, the court must promptly send the electronic filer confirmation that the document has been filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(4); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.259(a)(1)]. A document is considered received at the date and time the confirmation of receipt is created [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.259(a)].

The filing confirmation must indicate the date and time of the filing and is proof that the document was filed on the date and time specified [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.259(a)(2)]. The confirmation must also specify [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.259(a)(2)]:

- Any transaction number associated with the filing;
- The titles of the documents as filed by the court; and
- The fee assessed for the filing.

The court is also required to [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.259(a)(3)]:

- Send its confirmation to the electronic filer at the electronic notification address the filer furnished to the court in accordance with Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.256(a)(4).
- Maintain a record of its confirmation of receipt and filing.

In the absence of confirmation of receipt and filing, there is no presumption that the court received and filed the document [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.259(a)(3)]. Verification of the receipt and filing of any document by the court is the responsibility of the electronic filer [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.259(a)(3)].

[2] Notice of Rejection of Document for Filing

If a document is not filed by the clerk because it does not comply with applicable filing requirements or because the required filing fee has not been paid, the court must promptly send notice to the electronic filer, andthe notice must set forth the reasons the document was rejected for filing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.259(b)].

[3] Court Business Hours and Delayed Delivery

A document that is filed electronically with the court after the close of business is considered to been filed on the next court day; and "close of business" means 5 p.m. or any other time on a court day, as defined by Code Civ. Proc. § 133, at which the court stops accepting documents for filing at its filing counter [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(3); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.250(1), 2.259(c)]. A court must provide notice of its close-of-business time electronically and may give this notice in any manner it deems appropriate [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.250(3)].

If a technical problem with respect to a court's electronic filing system precludes the court from accepting an electronic filing during its regular filing hours on a particular day, and the electronic filer demonstrates the he or she attempted to file on that day, the court must deem the filing received on that day; however this provision does not apply to the complaint or any other initial pleading in an action or proceeding [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.259(d)]. "Regular filing hours" means the hours during which a court accepts documents for filing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.250(7)].

[4] Endorsement

The court's endorsement of a document electronically filed must contain the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.259(e)(1)]:

> "Electronically filed by Superior Court of California, County of _____, on _____, [date], _____ [name of the court clerk]"

The endorsement has the same force and effect as a manually affixed endorsement stamp with the signature and initials of the court clerk [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.259(e)(2)].

A complaint or initial pleading in an action or proceeding that is filed and endorsed electronically may be printed and served on the defendant or respondent in the same manner as if it had been filed in paper form [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.259(e)(3)].

§ 518.47 Issuance of Electronic Summons

On the electronic filing of a complaint, a petition, or another document that must be served with a summons, the court may transmit a summons to the electronic filer [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(5); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.259(f)(1)]. The summons must contain an image of the court's seal and the assigned case number [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(5); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.259(f)(2)]. Personal service of the printed form of an electronic summons has the same legal effect as personal service of an original summons [*Code Civ. 45-518 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 518.48

§ 518.48 Electronic Service

[1] Applicability and Election

When a notice may be served by mail, express mail, overnight delivery, or facsimile transmission, electronic service of the notice and any accompanying documents is permitted when authorized by the California Rules of Court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(6); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(a)(1)].

A party indicates that the party agrees to accept electronic service by either [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(a)(2)]:

- Filing and serving a notice that the party accepts electronic service; and the notice must include the electronic notification addresses at which the party agrees to accept service; or

- Electronically filing any document with the court; and by the act of electronically filing, the party agrees to accept service at any electronic notification address the party has furnished to the court in accordance with Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.256(a)(4).

Effective January 1, 2010, the Judicial Council approved five optional forms to assist persons filing documents electronically with the courts and providing proof of electronic service:

- The Consent to Electronic Service and Notice of Electronic Notification Address form (form EFS-005) provides a means for a party to state its consent to electronic service and provide its electronic notification address to the court and other parties under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(a) [see § 518.94].

- The Notice of Change of Electronic Notification Address form (form EFS-010) provides a means for parties to give notice of a change in electronic notification address under Rule 2.260(d) [see § 518.95].

- The Proof of Electronic Service (form POS-050/EFS-050) is designed to be used by persons serving documents electronically to show proof of service. The one-page form contains all the information and statements required on proofs of electronic service under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(f) [see § 518.96].

- The Attachment to Proof of Electronic Service (Documents Served) (form POS-050(D)/EFS-050(D)) provides a means for persons using the Proof of Electronic Service form to list additional documents served [see § 518.96].

- The Attachment to Proof of Electronic Service (Persons Served) (form POS-050(P)/EFS-050(P)) provides a means for persons using the Proof of Electronic Service form to identify additional parties served and indicate the dates and times of service [see § 518.96].

Additionally, the Judicial Council revised POS-040, the current multipurpose proof of service form, to reflect an amendment to Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(f)(1)(D) [see § 518.92].

[2] When Service is Complete

Electronic service is complete at the time of transmission [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(6); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(e)(1)].

Although electronic service is complete at the time of transmission, any period of notice or any right or duty to do any act or make any response within any period or on a date certain after the service of the document, which time period or date is prescribed by statute or rule of court, shall be extended after service by electronic transmission by two court days [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(6); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(e)(2)]. This extension does not apply to extend the time for filing the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(6); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(e)(3)]:

- Notice of intention to move for new trial.

- Notice of intention to move to vacate judgment pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 663a.

- Notice of appeal.

This extension applies in the absence of a specific exception provided for by any other statute or rule of court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(6)].

Service that occurs after the close of business is considered to have occurred on the next court day [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(e)(4)]. "Close of business" means 5 p.m. or any other time on a court day, as defined by Code Civ. Proc. § 133, at which the court stops accepting documents for filing at its filing counter [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(3); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.250(1), 2.254(c)].

[3] Extension of Time for Motion Papers Subject to Code Civ. Proc. § 1005

Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b), all moving and supporting papers must be filed and served at least 16 court days before the hearing. The 16-day period is extended by varying amounts if service is by mail, facsimile transmission, or overnight delivery [Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b)]. Section 1005(b) additionally requires opposing papers to be filed at least 9 court days, and reply papers at least five court days before the hearing. Section 1005(b) does not provide for any extension of the time periods it establishes for opposition and reply papers.

Section 1005(b) does provides that Code Civ. Proc. § 1013, which extends the time within which a right may be exercised or an act may be done when papers are served by mail, fax, or overnight delivery does not apply to a notice of motion, opposition papers, or reply papers governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1005. However, Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b) is silent as to extensions under Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6. Particularly given the language of section 1010.6(a)(6) that the extension under section 1010.6(a)(6) applies in the absence of a specific exception provided for by another statute or rule of court, Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6(a)(6) may be construed to extend the times provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1005(b).

[4] Proof of Service

Proof of electronic service may be any of the methods provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a, except that proof of service must state all of the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(f)(1)(A)-(D)]:

- The electronic notification address of the person making the service, in addition to that person's residence or business address.

- The date and time of the electronic service, in place of the date and place of deposit in the mail.

- The name and electronic notification address of the person served, in place of that person's name and address as shown on the envelope.

- That the document was served electronically, in place of the statement that the envelope was sealed and deposited in the mail with postage fully prepaid.

Proof of service may be in electronic form and may be filed electronically with the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(f)(2)]. In accordance with Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1300(c), proof of service of the moving papers must be filed at least five calendar days before the hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(f)(3)].

The party filing the proof of service must maintain the printed form of the document bearing the declarant's original signature and must make the document available for review and copying on the request of the courtor any party to the action or proceeding in which it is filed, in accordance with Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.257(a) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(c)(4)].

For the Judicial Council's optional Proof of Electronic Service (form POS-050/EFS-050), Attachment to Proof of Electronic Service (Documents Served) (form POS-050 (D)/EFS-050(D)), and Attachment to Proof of Electronic Service (Persons Served) (form POS-050 (P)/EFS-050(P)), see § 518.96.

[5] Change of Electronic Notification Address

A party whose electronic notification address changes while the action or proceeding is pending must promptly file a notice of change of address with the court electronically and must serve this notice on all parties or their attorneys of record [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(d)(1)].

An electronic notification address is presumed valid for a party if the party files electronic documents with the court from that address and has not filed and served notice that the address is no longer valid [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(d)(2)].

For the Judicial Council's optional Notice of Change of Electronic Notification Address form (form EFS-010), see § 518.95.

[6] Electronic Service by Court

A court may electronically serve any notice, order, judgment, or other document prepared by the court in the same manner that parties may serve documents by electronic service [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.260(e)].

In Insyst v. Applied Materials, Inc. (2009) 170 Cal. App. 4th 1129, 1140, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 808 , attorneys were notified by an electronic service provider that a judgment had been electronically filed, and they were given instructions for accessing the document on the Internet, including a hyperlink that led to a document description that included another hyperlink that opened a file-stamped copy of the judgment. In finding that this electronic notification did not trigger the 60-day time period for filing a notice of appeal, the Sixth District Court of Appeal found that neither Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6 nor its implementing rules "authorize[] serving a document by giving a party notice of where he or she may find it. ... We do not regard an e-mail explanation of where to electronically locate a judgment as the equivalent of the electronic transmission of the document."
