48-549 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 549.85

§ 549.85 Decisions

[1] Abandonment

Singing group was entitled to exclusive use of name "The Platters" to exclusion of former group member who dropped out. Robi v. Reed (9th Cir. 1999) 173 F.3d 736

Mark-licensor's exercise of sufficient quality control over licensee's use of mark in connection with licensee's product or service defeated claim of abandonment of licensor's rights in mark. Transgo, Inc. v. Ajac Transmission Parts Corp. (9th Cir. 1985) 768 F.2d 1001, 1017-1018

Abandonment of trademark, being in nature of forfeiture, requires strict proof. Prudential Ins. Co. v. Gibraltar Financial Corp. (9th Cir. 1982) 694 F.2d 1150, 1156

[2] Attorney's Fees

Plaintiff's election, in case based on counterfeit mark, to receive statutory damages under 15 U.S.C. § 1117(c) precludes award of attorney's fees under 15 U.S.C. § 1117(b). K & N Eng'g, Inc. v. Bulat (9th Cir. 2007) 510 F.3d 1079, 1083

Award of attorney fees under Lanham Act was required to include finding that hours expended were reasonable and that hourly rates were customary. Intel Corp. v. Terabyte Int'l (9th Cir. 1993) 6 F.3d 614, 623

Trial court's omission to award attorneys' fees and treble damages under 15 U.S.C. § 1117 was proper under circumstances. Lindy Pen Co., Inc. v. Bic Pen Corp. (9th Cir. 1993) 982 F.2d 1400, 1409

Attorneys' fees available under 15 U.S.C. § 1117(a) in exceptional cases were available when jury awarded punitive damages on common law voice appropriation claim based on specific finding that defendants had acted with oppression, fraud, or malice. Waits v. Frito-Lay, Inc. (9th Cir. 1992) 978 F.2d 1093, 1111

Case was exceptional within meaning of 15 U.S.C. § 1117, thus warranting award of attorney fees, when defendants' conduct was flagrant and wilful and compounded by refusal to provide discovery. Playboy Enterprises, Inc. v. Baccarat Clothing Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1982) 692 F.2d 1272, 1276-1277

Attorneys' fees were not available when legal issues presented were novel and auto-accessory manufacturer's use of auto manufacturer's marks, while deliberate, was but without intent to deceive public. Plasticolor Molded Products v. Ford Motor Co. (C.D. Cal. 1989) 713 F. Supp. 1350 , vacated, due to settlement of parties, see 767 F. Supp. 1036); see Sega Enterprises Ltd. v. Accolade, Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1992) 785 F. Supp. 1392, 1400 (Judge Kosinski's discussion in Plasticolor was "enlightened authoritative commentary" although opinion has been vacated)

[3] Cancellation of Mark Registration

Cancellation of mark registration is proper when there is valid ground why mark should not be registered and petitioner for cancellation has standing; proof of actual damage is only relevant, not requisite, to establish standing. Star-Kist Foods, Inc. v. P.J. Rhodes & Co. (9th Cir. 1984) 735 F.2d 346, 348

[4] Collective Mark

Trademark protection of collective mark does not extend past first sale of product; purchaser who resells genuine products under producer's true trademark violates no provisions of Lanham Act. Sebastian Int'l v. Longs Drug Stores Corp. (9th Cir. 1995) 53 F.3d 1073, 1076

[5] Color

Color alone may be entitled to trademark registration and protection when color has attained secondary meaning. Qualitex Co. v. Jacobson Products Co. (1995) 514 U.S. 159, 115 S. Ct. 1300, 131 L. Ed. 2d 248, 254

[6] Common Law Rights

Issue of material fact, namely whether electronic manufacturer's advertising using Vanna White robot had appropriated celebrity's name or likeness to defendant's advantage, precluded summary judgment in favor of manufacturer on celebrity's common law right-of-publicity claim. White v. Samsung Electronics America, Inc. (9th Cir. 1992) 971 F.2d 1395, 1397

[7] Composite Mark

Validity and distinctiveness of composite mark is determined by viewing trademark as whole as it appears in marketplace; not by reviewing validity of its component parts. Self-Realization Fellowship Church v. Ananda Church of Self-Realization (9th Cir. 1995) 59 F.3d 902, 912

Composite mark must be examined in its entirety, rather than piece-by-piece. Rodeo Collection, Ltd. v. West Seventh (9th Cir. 1987) 812 F.2d 1215, 1218

[8] Contributory Infringement

Credit card company is not contributorily or vicariously liable for trademark infringement by owners of web sites that use wrongly appropriated trademarks, when company merely processes credit card payments to those web sites by internet users. Perfect 10, Inc. v. Visa Int'l Serv. Ass'n (9th Cir. 2007) 494 F.3d 788, 806-808

Sale of generic replacement parts that fit only "Rolex" watches constituted contributory trademark infringement. Rolex Watch, U.S.A., Inc. v. Michel Co. (9th Cir. 1999) 179 F.3d 704, 712

Manufacturer or distributor who intentionally induces another to infringe trademark or who continues to supply product to one it knows or has reason to know is engaging in infringement is contributorily responsible for any harm resulting from such deceit. Inwood Laboratories, Inc. v. Ives Laboratories, Inc. (1982) 456 U.S. 844, 854, 102 S. Ct. 2182, 72 L. Ed. 2d 606 ; Sealy, Inc. v. Easy Living, Inc. (9th Cir. 1984) 743 F.2d 1378, 1382

Determination of contributory infringement turns on defendant's intent and knowledge of its distributors' wrongful activities; manufacturer can escape liability for contributory infringement of trademark by taking effective measures to prevent infringing uses by its distributors. Sealy, Inc. v. Easy Living, Inc. (9th Cir. 1984) 743 F.2d 1378, 1382

[9] Defenses

Presumption of laches arose when plaintiff's infringement action was commenced more than four years after plaintiff became aware that both parties offered same services (Internet access, e-mail, and web hosting) in same geographic area under remarkably similar names; since prudent business person should recognize likelihood of confusion to consumers in such circumstances, plaintiff was not entitled to wait until defendant's business grew large enough to constitute real threat, and then sue for trademark infringement; however, plaintiff's suit was not barred by laches because defendant could not show prejudice, having failed to prove either efforts at building its business around its asserted trademark or important reliance on publicity of its mark. Internet Specialties West, Inc. v. Milon-Digiorgio Enters. (9th Cir. 2009) 559 F.3d 985, 991-992

Woman who was former Playboy magazine "Playmate of the Year" made permissible, nominative fair use of that label and publisher's associated trademarks because her uses implied no current sponsorship or endorsement by publisher but only served to identify her truthfully as former "Playmate of the Year"; however, use of "PMOY" as watermark image on her web site could have been infringement or dilution of trademark. Playboy Enters. v. Welles (9th Cir. 2002) 279 F.3d 796, 803, 805

Neutral principles of trademark infringement such as regular factors courts employ to determine infringement, and neutral defenses such as prior use of marks, were available to enable district court to decide dispute in religious order over rights to intellectual property without violating First Amendment. Maktab Tarighe Oveyssi Shah Maghsoudi, Inc. v. Kianfar (9th Cir. 1999) 179 F.3d 1244, 1249

Parabolic chain design of disc-golf target was functional thus precluding trademark or trade dress protection. Disc Golf Association, Disc Golf Ass'n v. Champion discs, Inc. (9th Cir. 1998) 158 F.3d 1002

Parody defense was unavailable in action under 15 U.S.C. § 1125(a) for ad spoofing Vanna White and "Wheel of Fortune" TV show to sell Samsung VCRs. White v. Samsung Electronics America, Inc. (9th Cir. 1992) 971 F.2d 1395, 1401

Commercial user is entitled to nominative fair use defense when it uses trademark to describe plaintiff's product, rather than its own, and meets three-part test. New Kids on the Block v. News America Pub., Inc. (9th Cir. 1993) 971 F.2d 302, 308 (newspapers conducted popularity polls of musical group by asking readers to call 900 telephone lines; that was nominative fair use of group's trademark)

Functionality defense is unavailable unless alleged violator uses most effective method reasonably available for eliminating likelihood of confusion consistent with functional use of mark. Plasticolor Molded Products v. Ford Motor Co. (C.D. Cal. 1989) 713 F. Supp. 1329, 1339 , vacated, due to settlement by parties, see 767 F. Supp. 1036); see Sega Enterprises Ltd. v. Accolade, Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1992) 785 F. Supp. 1392, 1400 (Judge Kosinski's discussion in Plasticolor was "enlightened authoritative commentary" although opinion has been vacated)

Lanham Act defenses are not available to plaintiff in action under 36 U.S.C. § 380 for unauthorized use of words or symbols of U.S. Olympic Committee, despite availability of Lanham Act remedies. International Olympic Committee v. San Francisco Arts & Athletics (9th Cir. 1986) 781 F.2d 733, 736 , aff'd, 483 U.S. 522 (1987)

Significant delay in seeking preliminary injunctive relief was merely factor bearing on irreparable injury and did not bar relief. Nutro Products, Inc. v. Cole Grain Co. (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 860, 866, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 41

Factors in determining whether laches will bar relief in suits for injunctive relief for trademark infringement under the Lanham Act are: (1) strength and value of trademark rights asserted, (2) plaintiff's diligence in enforcing mark, (3) harm to senior user if relief denied, (4) good faith ignorance by junior user, (5) competition between senior and junior users, and (6) extent of harm suffered by junior user because of senior user's delay. E-Systems, Inc. v. Monitek, Inc (9th Cir. 1983) 720 F.2d 604, 607

Laches is available as equitable defense in suit for injunctive relief for trademark infringement under the Lanham Act. Prudential Ins. Co. v. Gibraltar Financial Corp. (9th Cir. 1982) 694 F.2d 1150, 1152

[10] Descriptive Marks

There is no magic formula for distinctiveness, thus every case must be decided on its facts; substantial evidence supported finding that product name was suggestive rather than descriptive and therefore protectable. Nutro Products, Inc. v. Cole Grain Co. (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 860, 867-868, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 41

[11] Dilution of Mark or Name

[a] In General

Even if plaintiff's mark was distinctive and incontestible within five years of registration, it must also have become famous before defendant's first commercial use in order to be entitled to protection against dilution; first use for purposes of Federal Trademark Dilution Act [15 U.S.C. § 1125(c)] is that use which is arguably offending, because any commercial use of famous mark is diluting regardless of whether it is confusing or combined with other identifiers. Nissan Motor Co. v. Nissan Computer Corp. (9th Cir. 2004) 378 F.3d 1002, 1007

Finding by trial court that "FRUIT OF THE LOOM" trademark was not diluted by FRUIT CUPS or FRUIT FLOPS, and finding that "FRUIT" apart from "FRUIT OF THE LOOM" was not strong enough mark to be protected under state antidilution law, were not clearly erroneous. Fruit of The Loom, Inc. v. Ken Girouard (9th Cir. 1993) 994 F.2d 1359, 1362

Likelihood of confusion was not element of cause of action for injunctive relief under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 14330 (now see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 14202(k), 14247). Levi Strauss & Co. v. Blue Bell, Inc. (9th Cir. 1985) 778 F.2d 1352, 1362 ; Monte Carlo Shirt, Inc. v. Daewoo International (America) (9th Cir. 1983) 707 F.2d 1054, 1058

Auto manufacturer failed to introduce evidence that auto-accessories manufacturer's use of its marks on auto floor mats diluted distinctive quality of those marks. Plasticolor Molded Products v. Ford Motor Co. (C.D. Cal. 1989) 713 F.

Supp. 1329, 1344 vacated due to settlement by parties, (granting summary judgment on counterclaim for dilution; see Plasticolor Molded Products, Inc. v. Ford Motor Co. (1991) 767 F. Supp. 1036); see Sega Enterprises Ltd. v. Accolade, Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1992) 785 F. Supp. 1392, 1400 (Judge Kosinski's discussion in Plasticolor was "enlightened authoritative commentary" although opinion has been vacated)

Federal trademark law does not preempt California's dilution statute. Plasticolor Molded Products v. Ford Motor Co. (C.D. Cal. 1989) 713 F. Supp. 1329, 1346 (vacated due to settlement by parties, see Plasticolor Molded Products, Inc. v. Ford Motor Co. (1975) 767 F. Supp. 1036); see Sega Enterprises Ltd. v. Accolade, Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1992) 785 F. Supp. 1392, 1400 (Judge Kosinski's discussion in Plasticolor was "enlightened authoritative commentary" although opinion has been vacated)

Manufacturer of animal identification tags that advertised plaintiff's tags as its own was possibly liable for unfair competition or trademark infringement but was not liable for tort of disparagement (which would exclude insurance coverage). Aetna Casualty & Surety Co. v. Centennial Ins. Co. (9th Cir. 1988) 838 F.2d 346, 351-352 (action between primary and excess insurance carriers with underlying action alleging dilution)

Dilution doctrine grants protection to strong, well-recognized marks absent likelihood of confusion if defendant's use is such as to tarnish, degrade, or dilute distinctive quality of plaintiff's mark. Lindy Pen Co., Inc. v. Bic Pen Corp. (C.D. Cal. 1982) 550 F. Supp. 1056, 1061

[b] Cybersquatting

District court erred in granting injunction when findings that trademarked names "Avery" and "Dennison" were famous and use of avery.net and dennison.net was commercial were erroneous as matter of law. Avery Dennison Corporation v. Sumption (9th Cir. 1999) 189 F.3d 868

[12] Discovery

Discovery by defendant that reveals other potential infringers is irrelevant under law of Ninth Circuit and California in federal and state actions for trademark infringement and dilution. Century 21 Real Estate Corp. v. Sandlin (9th Cir. 1988) 846 F.2d 1175, 1181

[13] False Advertising

Consumers do not have standing to bring action for false advertising under Lanham Act. Barrus v. Sylvania (9th Cir. 1995) 55 F.3d 468, 470

[14] False Descriptions and Designations of Origin

Inherently distinctive trade dress is protected under 15 U.S.C. § 1125(a); secondary meaning is not required. Two Pesos, Inc. v. Taco Cabana, Inc. (1992) 505 U.S. 763, 112 S. Ct. 2753, 120 L. Ed. 2d 615, 623 (affirming lower court rulings that one fast-food Mexican restaurant chain infringed on trade dress of another by using similar motif)

Action under 15 U.S.C. § 1125(a)(1)(B), on claim that defendant made false and deceptive statements in commercial advertisement about defendant's product, cannot be maintained on allegation that defendant's statements violated federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, in absence of conclusion by FDA that alleged violation occurred. *PhotoMedex, Inc. v. Irwin (9th Cir. 2010) 601 F.3d 919, 2010 U.S. App. LEXIS 7640, at 9

Claim for reverse passing off under 15 U.S.C. § 1125 requires that defendant made "bodily appropriation" of plaintiff's product; bodily appropriation was necessarily precluded when trial court found that defendant's product was not substantially similar to plaintiff's. Summit Mach. Tool Mfg. v. Victor CNC Systems (9th Cir. 1993) 7 F.3d 1434, 1438

Factual findings by district court supported legal conclusion that defendant had violated federal trademark law by using plaintiff's registered service mark in connection with offering of services so as to falsely describe or represent mark. Pacific Telesis Group v. International Telesis Communications (9th Cir. 1993) 994 F.2d 1364, 1369

15 U.S.C. § 1125(a) does not require actual competition in traditional sense in false endorsement claim based on unauthorized use of celebrity's identity. Waits v. Frito-Lay, Inc. (9th Cir. 1992) 978 F.2d 1093, 1107 (action against manufacturer that imitated voice of well-known singer in radio commercial)

False endorsement claims, including those premised on unauthorized imitation of entertainer's distinctive voice, were cognizable under 15 U.S.C. § 1125(a) both before and after 1988 amendments. Waits v. Frito-Lay, Inc. (9th Cir. 1992) 978 F.2d 1093, 1107 (action against manufacturer that imitated voice of well-known singer in radio commercial)

Genuine issue of material fact as to whether electronic manufacturer's advertising using Vanna White robot created likelihood of confusion as to celebrity's endorsement of product precluded summary judgment in favor of manufacturer on celebrity's action under 15 U.S.C. § 1125(a). White v. Samsung Electronics America, Inc. (9th Cir. 1992) 971 F.2d 1395, 1401

Musical group had no cause of action against newspapers for violation of 15 U.S.C. § 1125(a), forbidding use of false designations of origin and false advertising, when newspapers conducted popularity polls of musical group by asking readers to call 900 telephone lines; newspapers' nominative fair use of group's trademark did not imply endorsement by musical group. New Kids on the Block v. News America Pub., Inc. (9th Cir. 1992) 971 F.2d 302, 308 (affirming summary judgment in favor of defendant newspapers)

Advertisers' unauthorized use of imitation of professional singer's distinctive voice in song used in product advertisement was not unfair competition under former 15 U.S.C. § 01125 when advertisers were not in competition with singer. Midler v. Ford Motor Co. (9th Cir. 1988) 849 F.2d 460, 462-463

Licensees were liable under former 15 U.S.C. § 1125(a) for either affixing incomplete designation of authorship to goods or services or, with knowledge of false designation of origin, causing goods or services to be transported or used in interstate commerce. Lamothe v. Atlantic Recording Corp. (9th Cir. 1988) 847 F.2d 1403, 1408

In releasing sheet music in which music and lyrics were attributed solely to one of three coauthors and thereby depriving remaining two authors of recognition and profits, defendant was engaged in express reverse palming off actionable as false designation of origin under former 15 U.S.C. § 1125(a). Lamothe v. Atlantic Recording Corp. (9th Cir. 1988) 847 F.2d 1403, 1407-1408

Theaters' advertisement of PG-rated film as R-rated was not actionable false description of goods under former 15 U.S.C. § 1125(a) when film producer allegedly injured by advertisement could not show that injury was linked to competition. Halicki v. United Artists Communications, Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 812 F.2d 1213, 1214

15 U.S.C. § 1125(a) is applicable not only to cases of palming off, passing off, or economic equivalent, but also to false advertising regarding goods and services of advertiser in interstate commerce. U-Haul International, Inc. v. Jartran, Inc. (9th Cir. 1982) 681 F.2d 1159, 1160-1162

Actor states cause of action against film distributors for violation of 15 U.S.C. § 1125(a), forbidding use of false designations of origin and false descriptions or representations in advertising and sale of goods and services, when film distributors allegedly removed actor's name from both film credits and advertising material in connection with film. Smith v. Montoro (9th Cir. 1981) 648 F.2d 602, 607

Mark registration not required for recovery, under 15 U.S.C. § 1125, for false designation of origin because dispositive question is whether party has reasonable interest in protection from false advertising. New West Corp. v. NYM Co. of California, Inc. (9th Cir. 1979) 595 F.2d 1194, 1198

[15] Geographic Terms

Geographic term ordinarily are not subject to exclusive ownership, but injunction available to prevent use of composit marks employing geographic term. Cebu Association of California, Inc. v. Santo Nino de Cebu USA, Inc. (1979) 95 Cal. App. 3d 129, 135, 137, 157 Cal. Rptr. 102

In trade name infringement action, plaintiff is required to show that its geographical name has taken on, in public mind, something more than strict geographical meaning, so that when name is used member of public would not think primarily of any hospital in Tustin, but of plaintiff's hospital in particular. Tustin Community Hospital, Inc. v. Santa Ana Community Hospital Assn. (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 889, 906, 153 Cal. Rptr. 76

[16] Gray Market Goods

Gray market goods are foreign-manufactured goods, bearing valid U.S. trademarks, that are imported into United States without consent of U.S. trademark holder. K Mart Corp. v. Cartier, Inc. (1988) 486 U.S. 281, 285, 108 S. Ct. 1811, 100 L. Ed. 2d 313

Prohibition of 19 U.S.C. § 1526(a) against importation, without mark owner's consent, of foreign-made merchandise bearing registered trademark owned by U.S. citizen or entity is inapplicable when same person or entity owns both foreign and domestic trademarks or when foreign and domestic trademark owners are subject to common ownership or control. K Mart Corp. v. Cartier, Inc. (1988) 486 U.S. 281, 291, 294, 108 S. Ct. 1811, 100 L. Ed. 2d 313 (construing 19 C.F.R. § 133.21(c)(1), (2))

Prohibition of 19 U.S.C. § 1526(a) against importation, without mark owner's consent, of foreign-made merchandise bearing registered trademark owned by U.S. citizen or entity is applicable to prohibit importation of merchandise when mark owner consents to use of mark on, but not to importation of, merchandise. K Mart Corp. v. Cartier, Inc. (1988) 486 U.S. 281, 291, 294, 108 S. Ct. 1811, 100 L. Ed. 2d 313

Bureau of Customs and Border Protection, after seizing imported merchandise on ground that it bore counterfeit mark, may impose civil penalty on importer of that merchandise [19 U.S.C. § 1526(e), (f)] even though owner of registered mark does not manufacture or sell same type of merchandise. United States v. Able Time, Inc. (9th Cir. 2008) 545 F.3d 824, 826-827

Court's equitable powers do not encompass substantive challenges to validity of incontestable marks on grounds that marks lack secondary meaning. Park 'N Fly, Inc. v. Dollar Park & Fly, Inc. (1985) 469 U.S. 189, 105 S. Ct. 658, 83 L. Ed. 2d 582, 593

Infringement of federally registered incontestable mark is not defensible on grounds that mark is merely descriptive, and holder of mark is able to rely on incontestability of mark to enjoin infringement. Park 'N Fly, Inc. v. Dollar Park & Fly, Inc. (1985) 469 U.S. 189, 105 S. Ct. 658, 83 L. Ed. 2d 582, 594

Power of courts to cancel registrations and otherwise rectify register under 15 U.S.C. § 1119 is subject to specific Lanham Act provisions concerning incontestability. Park 'N Fly, Inc. v. Dollar Park & Fly, Inc. (1985) 469 U.S. 189, 105 S. Ct. 658, 83 L. Ed. 2d 582, 593

Equitable defenses are available in action to enforce incontestable mark. Pyrodyne Corp. v. Pyrotronics Corp. (9th Cir. 1988) 847 F.2d 1398, 1402 (laches and estoppel; former law); Prudential Ins. Co. v. Gibraltar Financial Corp. (9th Cir. 1982) 694 F.2d 1150, 1153 (laches; former law)

[18] Infringing Acts

Defendant's sale of computer chips manufactured by plaintiff with plaintiff's trademark on them, after falsely relabelling them as "fast" chips, constituted infringement of plaintiff's trademark. Intel Corp. v. Terabyte Int'l (9th Cir. 1993) 6 F.3d 614, 620

[19] Likelihood of Confusion

In action under 36 U.S.C. § 380 for unauthorized commercial or promotional use of "Olympic" and various Olympic symbols, U.S. Olympic Committee and International Olympic Committee are not required to prove that contested use is likely to cause confusion. San Fran. Arts & Athletics v. United States Olympic Committee (1987) 483 U.S. 522, 107 S. Ct. 2971, 97 L. Ed. 2d 427, 444

Automobile-related advertising on website of Nissan Computer Corporation (owned by individual named Uzi Nissan) constituted infringement of Nissan Motor Company's trademark because of initial-interest confusion (that is, use of "Nissan" mark in automobile-related advertising captured attention of consumers interested in Nissan-brand vehicles), but non-automobile-related advertising did not. Nissan Motor Co. v. Nissan Computer Corp. (9th Cir. 2004) 378 F.3d 1002, 1007

Use of confusingly similar logo on web site is actionable under Lanham Act. GoTo.com, Inc. v. Walt Disney Co. (9th Cir. 2000) 202 F.3d 1199, 1209

Use of confusingly similar mark in web site metatags or domain name is actionable under Lanham Act. Brookfield Communications, Inc. v. West Coast Entertainment Corp. (9th Cir. 1999) 174 F.3d 1036, 1055

Use of second-level domain name in web-site address is trademark infringement if web-site operator uses name confusingly similar to valid, protectable trademark. Intersetllar Starship Services, Ltd. v. Epix Incorporated (9th Cir. 1999) 184 F.3d 1107

Application of eight-factor test for likelihood of confusion supported trial court's finding of likelihood of confusion as to only one of defendant's uses of plaintiff's arbitrary mark. Official Airline Guides, Inc. v. Goss (9th Cir. 1993) 6 F.3d 1385, 1395

Factual findings by trial court supported legal conclusion that defendant had violated federal trademark law by using plaintiff's registered service mark in connection with offering of services that was likely to cause confusion. Pacific Telesis Group v. International Telesis Communications (9th Cir. 1993) 994 F.2d 1364, 1369

Finding by trial court that no likelihood of confusion existed between clothing manufacturer's marks and use of FRUIT

CUPS and FRUIT LOOPS by manufacturer of boutique items was not clearly erroneous. Fruit of The Loom, Inc. v. Ken Girouard (9th Cir. 1993), 994 F.2d 1359, 1362

Ninth Circuit eight-factor test for assessing likelihood of confusion in trademark infringement cases is guide that is neither exhaustive nor conclusive. Metro Pub. Ltd. v. San Jose Mercury News (9th Cir. 1993) 987 F.2d 637, 640

Trial court was not required to consider all factors relative to likelihood of confusion in granting preliminary injunctive relief in trademark infringement action. MAI Systems Corp. v. Peak Computer, Inc. (9th Cir. 1993) 991 F.2d 511, 523

Evidence was sufficient to support jury finding that consumers were likely to be misled by radio commercial into believing that well-known singer endorsed SalsaRio Doritos. Waits v. Frito-Lay, Inc. (9th Cir. 1992) 978 F.2d 1093, 1111

Manufacturer of computer video game, not competitor, was responsible for consumer confusion when its trademark was imbedded in functional device available to and used by competitor in manufacture of compatible video game programs. Sega Enterprises Ltd. v. Accolade, Inc. (9th Cir. 1992) 977 F.2d 1510, 1528 (dissolving preliminary injunction in favor of manufacturer)

Likelihood of confusion can be found whenever consumers are likely to assume that mark is associated with another source or sponsor because of similarities between two marks; and it may be established by showing that 70 percent of infringing mark's target population associated both marks with one product. Academy of Motion Picture Arts v. Creative House (9th Cir. 1991) 944 F.2d 1446, 1456

Surveys demonstrating absence of actual confusion among specified segment of population did not necessarily defeat likelihood of confusion when defendant franchisee lawfully operated under plaintiff franchisor's name before operating under subsequent infringing name. Century 21 Real Estate Corp. v. Sandlin (9th Cir. 1988) 846 F.2d 1175, 1181

Neither actual confusion nor intent is necessary to finding of likelihood of confusion in federal trademark infringement action. Century 21 Real Estate Corp. v. Sandlin (9th Cir. 1988) 846 F.2d 1175, 1178

Finding of likelihood of confusion is not automatic, even though more readily made, when goods compete in same markets and marks are very similar, because additional factors must be considered in determining likelihood of confusion. Lindy Pen Co. v. Bic Pen Corp. (9th Cir. 1986) 796 F.2d 254, 255

Postsale inspection does not negate or cure initial similarity between trademarks of pens sold through telephone order market, absent evidence in trial court showing that postsale inspection is likely to uncover and rectify prior confusion of marks. Lindy Pen Co. v. Bic Pen Corp. (9th Cir. 1986) 796 F.2d 254, 256

Whether confusion is likely is factual determination woven into law and routinely treated as issue of fact in various procedural contexts. Levi Strauss & Co. v. Blue Bell, Inc. (9th Cir. 1985) 778 F.2d 1352, 1356

Showing of likely buyer confusion as to source, origin, or sponsorship of goods is part of cause of action for common law infringement of trademark. Monte Carlo Shirt, Inc. v. Daewoo Internatonal (America) (9th Cir. 1983) 707 F.2d 1054, 1058

Factors for consideration in determination of likelihood of confusion. Lindy Pen Co. v. Bic Pen Corp. (C.D. Cal. 1982) 550 F. Supp. 1056, 1060-1061

Infringement not shown when no evidence is produced to show customer was misled about origin, sponsorship, or endorsement of jewelry when evidence showed that other jewelers sold unlicensed jewelry bearing emblem of women's fraternal organization. International Order of Job's Daughters v. Lindeburg & Co. (9th Cir. 1980) 633 F.2d 912, 920

Trademark infringement established "as a matter of hornbook law" when defendant's mark was likely to and did cause confusion, mistake, and deception as to origin of product, when appearance of plaintiff's product had acquired secondary meaning identifying plaintiff as source, and when defendant deliberately intended to pass off his goods as those of plaintiff. Tveter v. AB Turn-O-Matic (9th Cir. 1980) 633 F.2d 831, 838

Mixed use of trademark, both as source indication and as functional element, was infringement when likelihood of confusion existed as to source or sponsorship at point of sale or when alleged infringer did not take reasonable steps to eliminate likelihood of confusion after sale. Plasticolor Molded Products v. Ford Motor Co. (C.D. Cal. 1989) 713 F. Supp. 1329, 1333-1339 (lawsuit by plastic products manufacturer seeking declaratory judgment of right to use Ford Motor Company trademarks on auto accessories it produces) (vacated due to settlement by parties, see 767 F. Supp. 1036); see Sega Enterprises Ltd. v. Accolade, Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1992) 785 F. Supp. 1392, 1400 (Judge Kosinski's discussion in Plasticolor was "enlightened authoritative commentary" although opinion has been vacated)

Country-western singer had no claim of misappropriation against television producer whose use of singer's name for one of television show's characters was totally unrelated to singer's notoriety. Newton v. Thomason (9th Cir. 1994) 22 F.3d 1455, 1461

Musical group had no cause of action against newspapers for commercial or common law misappropriation when newspapers conducted popularity polls of musical group by asking readers to call 900 telephone lines. New Kids on the Block v. News America Pub., Inc. (9th Cir. 1993) 971 F.2d 302, 308 (affirming summary judgment in favor of defendants)

Newspapers had complete defense under Civ. Code § 3344(d) to commercial and common law misappropriation when they used name of musical group in connection with news, public affairs, or sports broadcast or account that was materially true. New Kids on the Block v. News America Pub., Inc. (9th Cir. 1993) 971 F.2d 302, 308 (newspaper popularity poll asking readers to call 900 telephone line with follow-up story on results)

When commercial liability insurance policy covers liability for "advertising injury" resulting from "misappropriation of advertising ideas or style of doing business" but excludes injury arising out of "oral or written publication of material whose first publication took place before the beginning of the policy period," that exclusion embraces trademark infringement if it began before policy went into force. Kim Seng Co. v. Great Am. Ins. Co. (2009) 179 Cal. App. 4th 1030, 1037-1039, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 537

Standard commercial liability insurance policy's explicit coverage of liability for "advertising injury" resulting from "misappropriation of advertising ideas or style of doing business" can be construed as extending to insured's liability for trademark infringement. Lebas Fashion Imports of USA, Inc. v. ITT Hartford Ins. Group (1996) 50 Cal. App. 4th 548, 565, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 36

[21] Prior Use

Even though mere advertising, absent more, is insufficient to establish priority of use, totality of defendant's actions surrounding use and adoption of mark prior to advertising product bearing mark was sufficient to show prior use. New West Corp. v. NYM Co. of California, Inc. (9th Cir. 1979) 595 F.2d 1194, 1200

On dissolution of partnership formed by franchisor and franchisee under agreement that did not grant, assign, or sell any name to partnership, franchisee was permitted to continue using partnership name; unregistered name was not thing of value bestowed by franchisor, but franchisor was entitled to money compensation for contributions that enhanced name. Neptune Society Corp. v. Longanecker (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 1233, 1245-1246, 240 Cal. Rptr. 117

[22] Profits

Appellate court order for accounting of profits on remand did not entitle defendant to accounting when trial court found award of profits was not appropriate because defendant's infringement was innocent and without intent to capitalize on plaintiff's trade name. Lindy Pen Co., Inc. v. Bic Pen Corp. (9th Cir. 1993) 982 F.2d 1400, 1405-1407

In trademark infringement action, defendant was required to pay to successful plaintiff amount earned on sale of counterfeit goods at cost, even though amount was not strictly "profit," in order to remove incentive for defendant to ship goods after discovering they were counterfeit. Polo Fashions, Inc. v. Dick Bruhn, Inc. (9th Cir. 1986) 793 F.2d 1132, 1135

Trial court abused discretion in denying award of profits to plaintiff when defendants' profits were established at trial as $120,000 and court awarded damages of only $12,750. Playboy Enterprises, Inc. v. Baccarat Clothing Co. (9th Cir. 1982) 692 F.2d 1272, 1275

Auto manufacturer was entitled to accounting of profits from sales of auto floor mats bearing its trademarks before mats were re-packaged to eliminate consumer confusion. Plasticolor Molded Products v. Ford Motor Co. (C.D. Cal. 1989) 713 F. Supp. 1329, 1349-1350 (lawsuit by plastic products manufacturer seeking declaratory judgment of right to use Ford Motor Company trademarks on auto accessories it produces) (vacated due to settlement by parties, see 767 F. Supp. 1036); see Sega Enterprises Ltd. v. Accolade, Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1992) 785 F. Supp. 1392, 1400 (Judge Kosinsk's discussion in Plasticolor was "enlightened authoritative commentary" although opinion has been vacated)

[23] Purpose of Trademark Law

Historical and modern purpose of trademark law is to identify manufacturer or sponsor of goods or provider of service and prevent products from free-riding on rivals' marks; infringement laws do not apply to non-trademark use of mark. New Kids on the Block v. News America Pub., Inc. (9th Cir. 1993) 971 F.2d 302, 305 (affirming summary judgment in favor of defendant newspapers conducting telephone polls on popularity of plaintiff musical group)

[24] Remedies

[a] In General

Trademark remedies are guided by tort law principles, including general rule that damages must be established with reasonable certainty. Lindy Pen Co., Inc. v. Bic Pen Corp. (9th Cir. 1993) 982 F.2d 1400, 1407 (trademark infringement action by one pen manufacturer against another)

Trial court has broad discretion within which to fashion remedy for federal trademark law violation. Lindy Pen Co., Inc. v. Bic Pen Corp. (9th Cir. 1993) 982 F.2d 1400, 1411

Purpose of trademark is to identify manufacturer or sponsor of product; trademark law protects features that identify product source but not features that serve as functional components of product. Plasticolor Molded Products v. Ford Motor Co. (C.D. Cal. 1989) 713 F. Supp. 1329, 1339 (vacated due to settlement by parties, see Plasticolor Molded Products, Inc. v. Ford Motor Co. (1991) 767 F. Supp. 1036); see Sega Enterprises Ltd. v. Accolade, Inc. (N.D. Cal.

1992) 785 F. Supp. 1392, 1400 (Judge Kosinski's discussion in Plasticolor was "enlightened authoritative commentary" although opinion has been vacated)

Distinction between source identification and function is blurred when mark and product come from same or similar industries and can serve both elements simultaneously. Plasticolor Molded Products v. Ford Motor Co. (C.D. Cal. 1989) 713 F. Supp. 1329, 1333 (lawsuit by plastic products manufacturer seeking declaratory judgment of rights to use Ford Motor Company trademarks on auto accessories it produces) (vacated due to settlement by parties, see 767 F. Supp. 1036); see Sega Enterprises Ltd. v. Accolade, Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1992) 785 F. Supp. 1392, 1400 (Judge Kosinski's discussion in Plasticolor was "enlightened authoritative commentary" although opinion has been vacated)

[b] Damages

Plaintiff is required to establish damages by presenting competent evidence of its lost profits or defendant's unjust enrichment arising from infringement. Lindy Pen Co., Inc. v. Bic Pen Corp. (9th Cir. 1993) 982 F.2d 1400, 1409

Damages awarded under 15 U.S.C. § 1125(a) are duplicative of damages awarded on common law misappropriation claim for fair market value of services. Waits v. Frito-Lay, Inc. (9th Cir. 1992) 978 F.2d 1093, 1107 (vacating duplicative damages award)

[c] Injunctive Relief

Injunction prohibiting Nissan Computer Corporation from linking its website visitors to other websites that presented disparaging or negative commentary about Nissan Motor Company (because of on-going trademark dispute) was content-based restriction on noncommercial speech and thus was inconsistent with First Amendment. Nissan Motor Co. v. Nissan Computer Corp. (9th Cir. 2004) 378 F.3d 1002, 1007

Likelihood of confusion is sufficient ground for injunction under federal trademark law. Pacific Telesis Group v. International Telesis Communications (9th Cir. 1993) 994 F.2d 1364, 1369

Showing of irreparable harm, required for injunctive relief, is ordinarily presumed once plaintiff in trademark infringement case has demonstrated likelihood of confusion. Metro Pub. Ltd. v. San Jose Mercury News (9th Cir. 1993) 987 F.2d 637, 640

In trademark infringement action in which plaintiff seeks preliminary injunction, plaintiff's showing of likelihood of confusion ordinarily raises presumption that plaintiff will suffer irreparable harm if injunctive relief is not granted. Vision Sports, Inc. v. Melville Corp. (9th Cir. 1989) 888 F.2d 609, 612 n.3

Injunctive relief is remedy of choice for federal and state trademark infringement actions, since there is no adequate remedy at law for injury caused by defendant's continuing infringement; broad injunction is especially appropriate when infringing use is for similar service. Century 21 Real Estate Corp. v. Sandlin (9th Cir. 1988) 846 F.2d 1175, 1180 (upholding injunction in state and federal infringement actions)

Even though plaintiff in trademark infringement action is unable to introduce concrete evidence that defendants are likely to infringe again, grant of injunction is proper when defendants willfully violated plaintiff's trademark rights and refused to stop doing so until plaintiff brought suit. Polo Fashions, Inc. v. Dick Bruhn, Inc. (9th Cir. 1986) 793 F.2d 1132, 1135-1136

Injunction that provides defendant with fair and well-defined notice of prohibited conduct does not violate U.S. Const., amend. I, because commercial speech may be regulated when content is otherwise false or misleading. Transgo, Inc. v.

Ajac Transmission Parts Corp. (9th Cir. 1985) 768 F.2d 1001, 1022

Plaintiff entitled to preliminary injunction in trademark case when he or she demonstrates either probable success on merits and possibility of irreparable injury or existence of serious questions going to merits and that balance of hardships tips sharply in plaintiff's favor; probability of success on merits of cause of action for mark infringement is shown by existence of likelihood of confusion as to source of goods or services. Sardi's Restaurant Corp. v. Sardie (9th Cir. 1985) 755 F.2d 719, 723

[25] Review

Trademark infringement and antidilution cases are fact-driven; findings of trial court are reversible only if appellate court has firm and definite conviction that trial court erred. Fruit of The Loom, Inc. v. Ken Girouard (9th Cir. 1993), 994 F.2d 1359, 1361 ; Pacific Telesis Group v. International Telesis Communications (9th Cir. 1993) 994 F.2d 1362, 1367

Appellate court reviewing summary judgment for defendants in trademark infringement action is required to consider viability of state claims and avoid reaching constitutional issues, if possible. New Kids on the Block v. News America Pub., Inc. (9th Cir. 1993) 971 F.2d 302, 305 (action by musical group against newspapers that conducted popularity polls of musical group by asking readers to call 900 telephone lines)

In Ninth Circuit, trial court's preliminary injunction is reversible only if trial court abused its discretion, based its decision on erroneous legal standard, or based its decision on clearly erroneous findings of fact. Vision Sports, Inc. v. Melville Corp. (9th Cir. 1989) 888 F.2d 609, 612

In Ninth Circuit, standard of review in granting summary judgment on state trademark infringement claim is same as for corresponding federal claim: questions of state law are reviewed de novo, and conclusions regarding likelihood of confusion are reviewed under clearly erroneous standard. Century 21 Real Estate Corp. v. Sandlin (9th Cir. 1988) 846 F.2d 1175, 1180

In Ninth Circuit, trial court's finding of likelihood of confusion in federal trademark infringement action is reviewed under clearly-erroneous standard. Levi Strauss & Co. v. Blue Bell, Inc. (9th Cir. 1985) 778 F.2d 1352, 1355

[26] Secondary Meaning

Factors considered in determining whether secondary meaning was achieved. Levi Strauss & Co. v. Blue Bell, Inc. (9th Cir. 1985) 778 F.2d 1352, 1358 ; Transgo, Inc. v. Ajac Transmission Parts Corp. (9th Cir. 1985) 768 F.2d 1001, 1015

Registration on supplemental register does not bar registrant from establishing secondary meaning in subsequent litigation against alleged infringers using mark at time of registration. California Cooler, Inc. v. Loretto Winery, Ltd. (9th Cir. 1985) 774 F.2d 1451, 1452, 1454

Plaintiff's trademark acquired secondary meaning in marketplace and as distinctive of garments in commerce so that defendant's use of projecting label in edge of rear patch pocket of its pants would likely cause confusion, mistake, or deception as to proper source. Levi Strauss & Co. v. Blue Bell, Inc. (9th Cir. 1980) 632 F.2d 817, 820-821, 822

Basic element of secondary meaning is mental recognition in buyers' and potential buyers' minds that products connected with symbol or device emanate from or are associated with same source. Lindy Pen Co., Inc. v. Bic Pen Corp. (C.D. Cal. 1982) 550 F. Supp. 1056, 1062

Defendants' assertion that plaintiff acquired no protectible secondary meaning, because words were identified with multiple sources, was only relevant to factual determination and was not adequate basis for sustaining demurrer to well-pleaded complaint. Lutz v. De Laurentiis (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 1317, 1323-1324, 260 Cal. Rptr. 106

[27] Service Marks

Even though rights in service mark may be acquired by use of mark in advertising alone, it does not follow that test for determining infringement must differ from that applied to trademarks or service marks acquired by more than advertising alone, and courts consistently interpret 15 U.S.C. § 1053 (same protection to trademarks and service marks) to mean that identical standards govern trademark and service mark infringement cases. Nutri/System, Inc. v. Con-Stan Industries, Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 809 F.2d 601, 604

Neither telephone number that alphanumerically represents word "READ" nor alphanumeric representation of "READ" in conjunction with numerical prefix constituted trade or service mark of reading improvement service under former Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 14206 and 14207 (now see Bus. & Prof. Code § 14202(a) and (b)). Cytanovich Reading Center v. Reading Game (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 107, 112, 208 Cal. Rptr. 412

Person appearing in chicken costume was not equivalent to service mark because only stationary and unchanging marks are entitled to trademark or service mark protection. KGB, Inc. v. Giannoulas (1980) 104 Cal. App. 3d 844, 856-857, 164 Cal. Rptr. 571

[28] Settlement Agreements

Under settlement agreement by which one party acknowledges validity of other party's trademark and agrees not to infringe mark in return for other party's promise to waive past damages for infringement, party acknowledging mark's validity is estopped from raising defense of mark's invalidity in subsequent infringement litigation involving mark. MWS Wire Industries, Inc. v. California Fine Wire (9th Cir. 1986) 797 F.2d 799, 803-804

[29] Trade-Dress Infringement

Whether color per se qualifies for trademark protection is legal question to be reviewed de novo. Qualitex Co. v. Jacobson Products, Inc. (9th Cir. 1994) 13 F.3d 1297, 1301

Use of the same color in sound speaker component did not infringe plaintiff's trade dress when there was no likelihood of confusion on the part of consumers. International Jensen v. Metrosound U.S.A. (9th Cir. 1993) 4 F.3d 819, 825

Trade-dress infringement is not found when all elements of massage table are essential to use of table and, therefore, functional. HWE, Inc. v. JB Research, Inc. (9th Cir. 1993) 993 F.2d 694, 696

Claim of trade-dress infringement may be sufficient basis to invoke duty of defendant's liability insurer to defend under policy provision covering advertising injury. El-Com Hardware, Inc. v. Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 205, 219, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 670

[30] Transfer of Mark or Name

Trade name was specifically transferred for limited period of time only or, alternatively, until purchase price was paid when bill of sale for business transferred trade name for period of 10 years or until amount due and owing was paid. Balesteri v. Holler (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 717, 723, 151 Cal. Rptr. 229

[31] Unfair Competition

Mere possibility that consumer may be misled by television producer's use of singer's name was not enough to establish cause of action for unfair competition under Lanham Act [15 U.S.C. § 1125(a)]. Newton v. Thomason (9th Cir. 1994) 22 F.3d 1455, 1461-1462

State unfair competition laws that seek to prevent reverse palming off are not preempted by federal copyright or patent law. Summit Mach. Tool Mfg. v. Victor CNC Systems (9th Cir. 1993) 7 F.3d 1434, 1441

Musical group had no cause of action against newspapers for unfair competition when newspapers conducted popularity polls of musical group by asking readers to call 900 telephone lines; newspapers are entitled to nominative fair use defense to allegations of trademark infringement. New Kids on the Block v. News America Pub., Inc. (9th Cir. 1993) 971 F.2d 302, 308 (affirming summary judgment in favor of defendant newspapers)

Judgment for plaintiff on common law unfair competition claim was upheld on evidence in record supporting establishment of product's secondary meaning in relevant market and defendant's copying of nonfunctional aspects of product. Lifshitz v. Walter Drake & Sons, Inc. (9th Cir. 1986) 806 F.2d 1426, 1430

Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17200-17208 provide cause of action substantially parallel to federal trademark law. Plasticolor Molded Products v. Ford Motor Co. (C.D. Cal. 1989) 713 F. Supp. 1329, 1341 (denying summary judgment on cross-claims for unfair competition and deceptive trade practices in action by plastics manufacturer for declaratory relief regarding right to use Ford Motor Company marks in auto accessories it produces) (vacated due to settlement by parties, see Plasticolor Molded Products, Inc. v. Ford Motor Co. (1991) 767 F. Supp. 1036); see Sega Enterprises Ltd. v. Accolade, Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1992) 785 F. Supp. 1392, 1400 (Judge Kosinski's discussion in Plasticolor was "enlightened authoritative commentary" although opinion has been vacated)

Use of similar alphanumeric telephone number that is likely to confuse potential customers as to source of services is possible basis of unfair competition claim. Cytanovich Reading Center v. Reading Game (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 107, 114, 208 Cal. Rptr. 412

Laches available as defense in action to enjoin unfair competition based on confusion of source of goods or services. Tustin Community Hospital, Inc. v. Santa Ana Community Hospital Assn. (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 889, 894, 153 Cal. Rptr. 76 ; McCord v. Plotnick (1951) 108 Cal. App. 2d 392, 395-396, 239 P.2d 32

Elements of cause of action for injunctive relief for unfair competition in use of trade name. Cowles Magazines & Broadcasting, Inc. v. Elysium, Inc. (1967) 255 Cal. App. 2d 731, 733, 63 Cal. Rptr. 507

[32] Unregistered Trademarks

Federal trademark law applies to unregistered trademarks. Metro Pub. Ltd. v. San Jose Mercury News (9th Cir. 1993) 987 F.2d 637, 640

Title of newspaper column can acquire trademark status and protection under federal trademark law. Metro Pub. Ltd. v. San Jose Mercury News (9th Cir. 1993) 987 F.2d 637, 640

[1] FORM Cease and Desist Letter Demanding That Infringer Stop Using Owner's Trademark or Service Mark on Goods Provided or in Connection With Services Rendered by Infringer--From Owner's Attorney to Infringer

Re: Use of the _____ [trademark or service mark or both] _____ [describe client's mark]

Dear _____ [infringer's name or name of officer, member, etc., of infringing entity]:

This firm represents _____ [client's name]. It has recently come to our attention that _____ [you or name of infringing entity] _____ [have or has] _____ [specify infringing act, e.g., recently opened a bakery] in _____ [city], _____ [state, if client's mark is federally registered], using the term _____ [describe infringing term].

You may be unaware that our client _____ [specify nature of goods and/or services with which client's mark is identified, e.g., has owned and operated a bakery] under the _____ [specify type of client's mark, e.g., service mark] _____ [describe client's mark] in _____ [city and, if client's mark is federally registered, state], for _____ [specify length of time, e.g., the past 25 years]. Our client also owns the _____ [specify type of client's mark, e.g., service] mark _____ [describe client's mark], which is registered in the _____ [specify location of registration, e.g., United States Patent and Trademark Office or Office of the Secretary of State of California or both] under Registration No[s]. _____ [and _____, respectively].

Our client advertises and promotes the _____ [specify type of client's mark, e.g., service mark] _____ [describe client's mark] _____ [specify territorial extent of client's advertising and promotion of mark, e.g., _____ nationwide or statewide or throughout California, western Nevada, and Arizona]. As a direct result of these efforts, together with favorable patron recommendations and media reviews, our client has developed extensive and valuable goodwill in the mark. Your use of the term _____ [describe infringing term], however innocent, for services that are in direct competition with those of our client _____ [describe effect of infringer's use of its term on client's business, e.g., (is likely to cause or has caused) _____ (confusion or deception or mistake, or a combination of both) among our client's patrons (and _____ specify others, if any, e.g., suppliers)]. [_____ set forth specific examples of clientele confusion, deception, or mistake, if applicable.]

Your continued use of the term _____ [describe infringing term] in connection with your _____ [specify infringing activity, e.g., bakery] _____ [will result or has resulted] in the dilution and loss of our client's goodwill, thereby violating enforceable trademark rights acquired by our client's prior adoption, use, and registration of the mark _____ [describe client's mark]. Accordingly, in order to protect these rights, on behalf of our client we demand that you immediately cease and desist from any and all further use of the term _____ [describe infringing term] in connection with your _____ [specify nature of infringer's goods and/or services, e.g., bakery].

If you give us your immediate written assurance that you will change your term to one which is not _____ [an imitation of or confusingly similar to] our client's mark, our client is willing to afford you sufficient time in which to phase out your existing term and phase in a new one. If you are not willing to make this change, we must assume that your selection of the term _____ [describe infringing term] is a deliberate, intentional attempt to trade on the goodwill of our client.

We look forward to hearing from you as soon as possible in anticipation of an amicable resolution of this matter.

Sincerely yours,

_____ [firm name, if any]

[2] Use of Form

The letter in [1], above, is for use by the owner of a registered trade or service mark to request a party whose use of the mark infringes the owner's rights to cease and desist from the infringing activity. While a cease and desist letter may resolve the dispute, it may also be a tactical first step in an infringement suit.

If, in a complaint for infringement of a federally registered mark [see § 549.91], it is pleaded that plaintiff sent defendant such a letter and that the letter informs defendant that plaintiff's mark is registered in the United States Patent and Trademark Office, this is tantamount to an allegation of actual notice of registration [15 U.S.C. § 1111].

If it is additionally pleaded that defendant continues to infringe plaintiff's mark despite defendant's receipt of such a letter, the allegation may tend to show the ongoing nature of defendant's infringement and plaintiff's resultant lack of an adequate remedy at law for defendant's infringing activities [15 U.S.C. §§ 1114, 1116, 1118]. Such an allegation may also tend to show that defendant's infringement is intentional, wilful, or deliberate. While such a showing is not required in order to prevail on a claim of infringement, it is probative of the likelihood of confusion [see AMF Inc.v. Sleekcraft Boats (9th Cir. 1979) 599 F.2d 341, 354] . Deliberate or wilful infringement constitutes some of the exceptional circumstances necessary for recovery of attorney fees in infringement suits under the Lanham Act [15 U.S.C. §§ 1114, 1117; Sealy, Inc. v. Easy Living, Inc. (9th Cir. 1984) 743 F.2d 1378, 1384] .

Plaintiff alleges:

[1. Plaintiff is, and at all times mentioned herein was, _____ (state capacity and residence of plaintiff, or other basis of venue, for example, a resident of _____ County, California or a corporation duly incorporated and existing under the laws of the State of _____ (for example, Pennsylvania), with its principal place of business in _____ (city and state, for example, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania)).]

[2. Defendant is, and at all times mentioned herein was, _____ (state capacity and residence of plaintiff, or other basis of venue, for example, a resident of _____ County, California or a corporation duly incorporated and existing under the laws of the State of California with its principal place of business in _____ (city), _____ County, California).]

[4. Plaintiff is ignorant of the true names and capacities of defendants sued herein as DOES I-_____, inclusive, and therefore sues these defendants by such fictitious names. Plaintiff will amend the complaint to allege their true names and capacities when ascertained. (Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that each of the fictitiously named defendants is responsible in some manner for the occurrences herein alleged, and that plaintiff's injuries herein alleged were proximately caused by their conduct.)]

[5. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that at all times herein mentioned, each of the defendants was the agent and employee of each of the remaining defendants, and in doing the things hereinafter alleged, was acting within the course and scope of such agency and employment.]

6. At all material times herein, plaintiff has been and is engaged in _____ [describe goods produced or services rendered in interstate commerce, for example, the manufacture and interstate wholesale distribution of boys' and young men's clothing] under the _____ [trade or service] mark "_____" [specify plaintiff's mark].

7. Plaintiff first adopted and used the _____ [trade or service] mark "_____" [specify plaintiff's mark] to identify its _____ [goods or services] on or about _____ [date of plaintiff's first adoption and use of the mark].

8. Plaintiff registered "_____" [specify plaintiff's mark] as its _____ [trade or service] mark in the United States Patent and Trademark Office on _____ [date of registration], under United States _____ [Trade or Service] Mark Registration No. _____ [registration number]. Plaintiff owns the registration, which is and continues to be in full force and effect. Plaintiff displays _____ [describe how plaintiff provides notice of its mark registration, for example, the registration symbol (R) or the words "Registered in U.S. Patent and Trademark Office" or "Reg. U.S. Pat. & Tm. Off."] with its trademark. A certified copy of plaintiff's certificate of registration is attached as Exhibit "A" and incorporated by reference.

9. Plaintiff has used the _____ [trade or service] mark "_____" [specify plaintiff's mark] continuously since _____ [date], to identify _____ [describe plaintiff's goods or services, for example, its suits, sport coats and other garments in the boys' and young men's size range 13 to 20, and its sport coats in men's sizes 36 to 42]. In this connection, plaintiff uses its _____ [trade or service] mark _____ [describe plaintiff's use of its mark, for example, on labels in the garments that it manufactures and distributes]. A specimen of _____ [describe specimen, for example, one of plaintiff's garment labels] on which its _____ [trade or service] mark appears is attached as Exhibit "B" and incorporated by reference.

10. Plaintiff has been _____ [identify areas in which plaintiff engages in business using the mark, for example, selling its boys' and men's garments to various retail outlets in _____ (describe location of store or areas served by plaintiff) since _____ [date]. In addition, plaintiff has had a permanent sales representative in _____ (describe representative's territory) promoting the sale of the full line of products bearing plaintiff's _____ (trade or service) mark "_____" (specify plaintiff's mark), since _____ [date].]

11. Plaintiff's _____ [goods or services, for example, garments] have been and continue to be extensively advertised and sold throughout _____ [identify geographical area in which plaintiff engages in business using the mark], including _____ [forum state], under the _____ [trade or service] mark "_____" [specify plaintiff's mark]. By virtue of advertising and sales, together with consumer acceptance and recognition, plaintiff's mark identifies plaintiff's garments only, and distinguishes them from garments manufactured and sold by others. Plaintiff's mark has thus become and is a valuable asset symbolizing plaintiff, its quality _____ [goods or services] and its goodwill.

12. [Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that] [d]efendant, with at least constructive notice of plaintiff's ownership of the _____ [trade or service] mark "_____" [specify plaintiff's mark], _____ [describe goods or services provided by defendant, for example, owns and has operated a retail men's clothing store] under the name "_____" [specify name] in _____ [describe location of store or areas served by defendant] since _____ [date of defendant's first use of the name].

13. _____ [Allege specific manner in which defendant uses the name, for example, (Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that) [d]efendant uses the name "_____" (specify name) on its store-front, merchandise bags, and sales receipts. It also uses the name on labels attached to suits, sport coats, and other garments sold by it to the public. It is applied generally to men's garments and particularly to men's suits and sport coats in the same size range and with the same type of styling as the men's suits and sport coats manufactured and distributed by plaintiff under plaintiff's trademark.] A specimen _____ [describe specimen, for example, of one of defendant's garment labels] on which the name "_____" [specify name] appears is attached as Exhibit "C" and incorporated by reference.

14. [Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that] [d]efendant's name, "_____" [specify name], is _____ [describe infringing nature of defendant's name, for example, a colorable imitation] of plaintiff's registered _____ [trade or service] mark. Defendant uses the name "_____" [specify name] in _____ [interstate commerce or a manner substantially affecting interstate commerce] in connection with the sale, offering for sale, distribution, and advertising of its _____ [specify defendant's goods or services, for example, men's garments]. As such, defendant's use of the name "_____" [specify name], is likely to cause confusion, mistake, or deception among consumers as to the source, quality, and nature of defendant's goods.

[15. On or about _____ (date), plaintiff, by letter, advised defendant of plaintiff's ownership of both the _____ [trade or service] mark "_____" (specify plaintiff's mark) and the registration therefor, and requested defendant to immediately cease and desist from further use of the name "_____" (specify defendant's name) as either a trade name or a _____ [trade or service] mark. Defendant has failed and refused, and continues to fail and refuse, to comply with plaintiff's request.]

16. [Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that] [a]s a proximate result of advantage accruing to

defendant's business from plaintiff's nationwide advertising, sales, and consumer recognition, and as a proximate result of _____ [confusion or deception or mistake or combination thereof] caused by defendant's wrongful advertising and sale of its goods, as hereinabove alleged, bearing the name "_____" [describe defendant's name], defendant has made substantial _____ [sales and/or profits] in the approximate amount of $_____.

17. As a proximate result of advantage accruing to defendant's business from plaintiff's nationwide advertising, sales, and consumer recognition, and as a proximate result of _____ [confusion or deception or mistake or combination thereof] caused by defendant's wrongful advertising and sale of its goods, as alleged above, bearing the name "_____" [describe defendant's name], _____ [allege plaintiff's damages, for example, plaintiff has been deprived of substantial sales of its _____ (describe goods or services, for example, garments) in the approximate amount of $ _____, and has been deprived of the value of its trademark as a commercial asset, in the approximate amount of $ _____].

18. [Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that] [u]nless restrained by this Court, _____ [specify grounds for permanent, and if desired preliminary, injunctive relief, for example, defendant will continue to infringe plaintiff's registered _____ (trade or service) mark, thus engendering a multiplicity of judicial proceedings, and pecuniary compensation will not afford plaintiff adequate relief for the damage to its _____ (trade or service) mark in the public perception].

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff prays:

[1. For an order requiring defendant[s] to show cause, if they have any, why they should not be enjoined as set forth below, during the pendency of this action;]

2. For a [temporary restraining order, a preliminary injunction, and a] permanent injunction, all enjoining defendant[s, and each of them,] and his/her/their agents, servants, and employees, and all persons acting under, in concert with, or for him/her/them from:

> (a) Using the name "_____" [specify name] in connection with _____ [describe defendant's business, for example, its retail men's clothing business] in _____ [location of defendant's store or geographical area in which defendant does business], and from using the name "_____" [specify name] _____ [on or in connection with] any _____ [specify goods or services, for example, garments] _____ [sold or rendered] in such business;
> (b) Otherwise infringing plaintiff's _____ [trade or service] mark;
> (c) Causing likelihood of confusion, deception, or mistake as to the source, nature, or quality of defendant's _____ [goods or services];

3. For an order directing defendant[s, and each of them,] to file with this Court and serve on plaintiff within _____ [number, for example, 30] days after service of an injunction, a report in writing under oath, setting forth in detail the manner and form in which defendant[s] has/have complied with the injunction;

4. For an order requiring defendant[s, and each of them,] to deliver up and destroy all _____ [infringing materials, for example, garment labels, literature, advertising, and other material] bearing the infringing designations;

5. For all of defendant's profits derived from its infringement of plaintiff's _____ [trade or service]

mark;

6. For three times the amount of plaintiff's actual damages caused by defendant's infringement of plaintiff's _____ [trade or service] mark;

7. For plaintiff's reasonable attorney fees expended in this action;

8. For costs of suit incurred herein; and

9. For such other and further relief as the Court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

The complaint in [1], above, is for use by a plaintiff in a suit filed in federal or state court for damages and injunctive relief for infringement of a trademark or service mark that has been registered in the United States Patent and Trademark Office [15 U.S.C. § 1114].

This form is adapted from the facts in Chips'N Twigs, Inc. v. Prives (N.D. Cal. 1963) 226 F. Supp. 529 .

[3] Allegations

This complaint includes optional allegations to identify the capacity and residence of plaintiff and defendant (Paragraphs 1, 2) [see Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 9 (unnecessary to aver the capacity of a party to sue or be sued or the legal existence of an organized association of persons that is made a party, except to the extent required to show jurisdiction); see [9], below]. It also contains optional paragraphs for use to allege fictitious names of unknown defendants (Paragraph 4) [Code Civ. Proc. § 474; see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used], and an agency relationship between the defendants (Paragraph 5) [see Ch. 427, Principal and Agent].

If the complaint is filed in federal court, it must include an allegation of the court's jurisdiction over the subject matter of the action (Paragraph 3) [Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 8(a)(1); 15 U.S.C. § 1121; 28 U.S.C. § 1338]. Local court rule may govern the allegation of federal jurisdiction. For further discussion, see Ch. 265, Federal Courts: Jurisdiction and Removal .

This complaint also alleges:

- Plaintiff and defendant's production of goods or rendition of services in interstate commerce or in commerce substantially affecting interstate commerce (Paragraphs 6 and 14) [15 U.S.C. §§ 1114, 1127; Wells Fargo & Co. v. Wells Fargo Express Co. (9th Cir. 1977) 556 F.2d 406, 427 ; Ronson Art Metal Works, Inc. v. Hilton Lite Corp. (N.D. Cal. 1953) 111 F. Supp. 691, 693] .

- The fact and date of plaintiff's first adoption and use of its trade or service mark to establish

- Plaintiff's registration of its mark (Paragraph 8) [15 U.S.C. §§ 1051, 1114].

- That plaintiff gave notice of registration when using the mark so as to give defendant constructive notice of plaintiff's ownership of the mark (Paragraph 8) [15 U.S.C. §§ 1072, 1111, 1117].

- Defendant's use of plaintiff's mark (Paragraphs 12 and 13) [15 U.S.C. § 1114].

- Facts to establish likelihood of confusion (Paragraphs 9-14) [15 U.S.C. § 1114].

- Defendant's profits and plaintiff's damages (Paragraphs 16 and 17) [15 U.S.C. §§ 1114, 1116, 1117].

- Grounds for preliminary and permanent injunctive relief (Paragraph 18) [15 U.S.C. §§ 1114, 1116; Civ. Code § 3422 (permanent relief); Code Civ. Proc. § 526 (preliminary relief); see § 549.91[5], below].

The complaint provides for the inclusion of three exhibits:

- A certified copy of plaintiff's certificate of trademark or service registration (Paragraph 8).

- A specimen of plaintiff's trademark or service mark (Paragraph 9).

- A specimen of defendant's name or mark (Paragraph 11) [Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 10(c)].

The complaint includes an optional allegation of defendant's failure and refusal to cease and desist using its infringing mark or name, despite plaintiff's request that it do so (Paragraph 15). For a discussion of the effect of such a letter in an infringement suit, see § 549.90.

[4] Proof of Infringement

While a plaintiff need not show actual cases of confusion to prevail on a claim of infringement, the likelihood of confusion or mistake must be demonstrated by more than a showing of a mere trace of confusion [Everest & Jennings, Inc. v. E & J Mfg. Co. (9th Cir. 1959) 263 F.2d 254] . For a discussion of factors considered by courts in assessing likelihood of confusion and infringement, see § 549.24[2].

In the Ninth Circuit, courts will recognize two distinct kinds of claims in the trademark infringement context: claims based on "forward confusion" and claims based on "reverse confusion." Forward confusion occurs when consumers believe that goods bearing the junior mark came from, or were sponsored by, the senior mark holder. In the senior mark holder's infringement action on a forward confusion claim, therefore, to avoid an adverse summary judgment, the senior mark holder must raise a material question of fact regarding whether the buying public thought that the senior mark holder was either the source of, or was sponsoring, the junior mark holder's product line. Reverse confusion occurs when consumers dealing with the senior mark holder believe that they are doing business with the junior one. Therefore, to survive a summary judgment motion on a reverse confusion claim, the senior mark holder must raise a question of material fact as to whether consumers believed that the junior mark holder was either the source of, or was a sponsor of, the senior mark holder's wares. The senior mark holder may sue on both kinds of claims if both are supported by the evidence [see Surfvivor Media, Inc. v. Survivor Prods. (9th Cir. 2005) 406 F.3d 625, 630-631] .

[5] Injunctive Relief

When seeking a preliminary injunction in a trademark infringement action, the plaintiff must establish all of the following [Marlyn Nutraceuticals v. Mucos Pharma GmbH & Co. (9th Cir. 2009) 571 F.3d 873, 876]:

- The plaintiff is likely to succeed on the merits. In considering the likelihood of success on the merits, the trial court must apply the rule that to be liable for trademark infringement, the defendant must have (1) used in commerce (2) any word, false designation of origin, false or misleading description, or representation of fact, which (3) was likely to cause confusion or misrepresented the characteristics of the defendant's or another person's goods or services. The court should consider the Sleekcraft factors [AMF, Inc. v. Sleekcraft Boats (9th Cir. 1979) 599 F.2d 341, 348-349 ; see § 549.24[2]] in determining whether there a likelihood of confusion. Once the plaintiff has carried the burden of showing a likelihood of success on the merits, the burden shifts to the defendant to show a likelihood that a affirmative defense will succeed [Perfect 10, Inc. v. Amazon.com, Inc. (9th Cir. 2007) 508 F.3d 1146, 1158] .

- The plaintiff is likely to suffer irreparable harm in the absence of preliminary injunctive relief. Irreparable injury may be presumed from a showing of likelihood of success on the merits [El Pollo Loco, Inc. v. Hashim (9th Cir. 2003) 316 F.3d 1032, 1038] .

- The balance of equities tips in the plaintiff's favor.

- A preliminary injunction is in the public interest.

Ordinarily a preliminary injunction will be solely prohibitive, that is, will order the defendant merely to cease and desist with respect to infringing activities. Rarely the injunction may be mandatory as well, that is, may order the defendant to take some affirmative action, which in an appropriate case could be to effectuate a product recall so as to retrieve infringing goods that were distributed to resellers and end-users. To justify ordering a recall, the trial court must first be satisfied that the usual standards for a prohibitory preliminary injunction have been met; then, in addition, the court must consider three factors: (1) whether the infringement by the defendant was willful or intentional; (2) whether the risk of confusion to the public and injury to the plaintiff is greater than the burden of the recall to the defendant; and (3) whether there is a substantial risk of danger to the public because of the defendant's infringing activity. If the court finds that leaving the infringing product in the hands of resellers and end-users will cause a substantial risk of danger to the public, the court should order a recall [Marlyn Nutraceuticals v. Mucos Pharma GmbH Co. (9th Cir. 2009) 571 F.3d 873, 878-879].

Local court rules should be consulted with respect to the procedure for obtaining injunctive relief in the federal district courts.

[6] Verification in State Court

Verification [Code Civ. Proc. § 446] is required if plaintiff seeks a temporary restraining order or a preliminary injunction on a complaint instead of on affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)]. If relying on a verified complaint instead of affidavits (or declarations), counsel must plead evidentiary facts that would entitle plaintiff to the relief sought [see E.H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1 ; Finnie v. Town of Tiburon (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1, 15, 244 Cal. Rptr. 581] . For discussion, a procedural checklist, and additional forms necessary in order to obtain a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

Otherwise, verification is not required, but verification of the complaint requires the defendant to file a verified answer [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446] and precludes use of a general denial [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion of the effect that verifying a complaint has on the answer, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[7] Verification in Federal Court

Pleadings in federal court need not be verified or accompanied by affidavit unless specifically provided by rule or statute [Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 11]. Thus, a verified pleading does not thereby automatically require an opposing party to verify subsequent or responsive pleadings unless specifically required by rule or statute [Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 11].

However, an applicant for an ex parte temporary restraining order must proceed by either verified complaint or affidavit [Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 65(b)]. In such an action, the applicant must present verified facts, by either complaint or separate supporting affidavit(s) showing that immediate and irreparable injury, loss, or damage to the applicant will result before the adverse party or its attorney can be heard in opposition to the application [Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 65(b)]. Additionally, the applicant must certify to the court, in writing, both the applicant's efforts, if any, to give notice to the opposing party, and reasons supporting the applicant's claim that notice should not be required [Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 65(b)].

Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 65(b) does not expressly require a verified complaint when accompanied by supporting affidavits [Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 65(b)]. An unverified complaint, coupled with a supporting affidavit stating the affiant's source of information for the complaint and the fact that affiant prepared the complaint has been held to be sufficient to meet the requirements of the rule [Brown v. Bernstein (M.D. Pa. 1943) 49 F. Supp 497, 499].

[8] Signing of Pleadings in Federal Court

Every pleading of a party represented in federal court must be signed by at least one attorney of record in the attorney's individual name, or by the party, if not represented by an attorney [Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 11(a)]. Every paper must state the signer's address and telephone number, if any [Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 11(a)]. The party signing the pleading is representing to the court that, to the best of his or her knowledge, information and belief, there is good ground to support the pleading and it is not being presented for an improper purpose [Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 11(b)]. If a pleading is signed in violation of Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 11(b), the court may impose sanction to deter such conduct [Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 11(c)].

[9] Federal Jurisdiction and Venue

Both the United States district courts and the state courts have concurrent, original subject matter jurisdiction in all actions arising under the Lanham Act [15 U.S.C. § 1121; 28 U.S.C. § 1338(a)]. Thus, an action may, but need not, be brought in United States District Court. Neither diversity of citizenship nor a specific amount in controversy is required for federal court jurisdiction of Lanham Act cases [15 U.S.C. § 1121].

In an action arising under the Lanham Act, venue is in [28 U.S.C. § 1391(b); see also 28 U.S.C. § 1392]:

- A judicial district where any defendant resides if all defendants reside in the same state;

- A judicial district in which a substantial part of the events or omissions giving rise to the claim occurred, or a substantial part of property that is the subject of the action is situated; or

- A judicial district in which any defendant may be found if there is no district in which the action may otherwise be brought.

For venue purposes, a defendant corporation's residence is any judicial district in which it is subject to personal jurisdiction at the time the action is commenced. In a state that has more than one judicial district and in which the defendant corporation is subject to personal jurisdiction, the corporation is deemed to reside in any district in that state where it has sufficient contacts to subject it to personal jurisdiction were that district a separate state. If there is no such district, the corporation is deemed to reside in the district within which it has the most significant contacts [28 U.S.C. §

[10] Pendent Jurisdiction Over State Claim

A cause of action for infringement or dilution of a trade or service mark registered in California may also be included, under principles of pendent jurisdiction, in a complaint in federal court for infringement of a federally registered mark [Golden Door, Inc. v. Odisho (N.D. Cal. 1977) 437 F. Supp. 956, 962 , aff'd, (9th Cir. 1980) 646 F.2d 347] .

[11] State Jurisdiction

Concurrent with the United States district courts, the superior court has original subject matter jurisdiction of trademark infringement actions [Shores v. Chip Steak Co. (1955) 130 Cal. App. 2d 620, 625, 279 P.2d 591] . The superior court has jurisdiction whether the trademark in question is registered under the laws of California or under the Lanham Act [Shores v. Chip Steak Co. (1955) 130 Cal. App. 2d 620, 626, 279 P.2d 591] .

The case will not qualify as a limited civil case because the relief sought (a permanent injunction) is not exclusively of a type described in any statute either classifying an action or special proceeding as a limited civil case or providing that an action or special proceeding is within the original jurisdiction of the former municipal court [see Code Civ. Proc. § 85].

The Lanham Act [15 U.S.C. § 1051 et seq.] contains no statute of limitations. Therefore, a federal court considering the question must look to the law of the forum state for a statutory limitation period that best effectuates federal trademark policy. In so doing, the court may look to the local statute bearing the closest resemblance to the federal statute involved, and may then apply that state limitation period to the federal statute in issue [Griffin v. Pacific Maritime Association (9th Cir. 1973) 478 F.2d 1118, 1119].

The Model State Trademark Law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14200 et seq.] also contains no statute of limitations, and California courts do not appear to have determined which limitation period applies. While it is unclear, therefore, which limitation period applies to the tort of trademark infringement, the two-year period of limitations in Code Civ. Proc. § 339(1) applies to the tort of conversion or of misappropriation of intangible interests [Salveson v. Western States Bankcard Ass'n (N.D. Cal. 1981) 525 F. Supp. 566, 584] .

The affirmative defense in § 549.92[1], above , is for use in an answer to a complaint for infringement of a federally registered trade or service mark. The defense raises the issue that the plaintiff obtained the mark or obtained the incontestable right to use the mark, or both, fraudulently [15 U.S.C. § 1115(b)(1)]. The plaintiff's right to exclusive use of its mark may be rebutted by the preponderance of evidence showing a specific defect in the registration of plaintiff's mark [Keebler Co. v. Rovira Biscuit Corp. (1st Cir. 1980) 624 F.2d 366, 373] .

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense [Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 8(c)]--Abandonment of Mark by Registrant [15 U.S.C. § 1115(b)(2)]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, for example, FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, for example, SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], DEFENDANT ALLEGES that plaintiff has intentionally abandoned its _____ [trademark or service mark], _____ [describe plaintiff's mark].

[2] Use of Form

The affirmative defense in [1], above, is for use in an answer to a complaint for infringement of a federally registered trade or service mark to raise the defense that the plaintiff has abandoned the mark [15 U.S.C. § 1115(b)(2); see 15 U.S.C. § 1127 (abandonment defined)].

The burden of proof rests with the defendant claiming abandonment of a trademark [Exxon Corp. v. Humble Exploration Co., Inc. (N.D. Tex. 1981) 524 F. Supp. 450, 464] .

To prove abandonment of trademark there must be proof of intent to abandon [Tillamook County Creamery Asso. v. Tillamook Cheese & Dairy Asso. (9th Cir. 1965) 345 F.2d 158, 162 ; Airwick Industries, Inc. v. Alpkem Corp. (D. Ore. 1974) 384 F. Supp. 1027, 1033 (intent required)]. The Lanham Act requires two elements for an abandonment: nonuse and a concurrent intent to abandon [McCabe-Powers Auto Body Co. v. American Truck Equipment Co. (D. Ore. 1957) 150 F. Supp. 194, 199 ; see 15 U.S.C. § 1127].

Nonuse for three consecutive years is prima facie evidence of abandonment [15 U.S.C. § 1127; see. Star-Kist Foods, Inc. v. P.J. Rhodes & Co. (9th Cir. 1985) 769 F.2d 1393, 1396 (prima facie case is also presumption that may be rebutted by showing valid reasons for nonuse or by proving lack of intent to abandon); Saratoga Vichy Spring Co. v. Lehman (2d Cir. 1980) 625 F.2d 1037, 1043] . Abandonment of trademark, being in the nature of a forfeiture, must be strictly proved [P. A. B. Produits Et Appareils de Beaute v. Satinine Societa in Nome Collettive di S.A. e M. Usellini

(C.C.P.A. 1978) 570 F.2d 328, 332-333] . A single instance of use is sufficient against a claim of abandonment of mark if the use is made in good faith [Carter-Wallace, Inc. v. Procter & Gamble Co. (9th Cir. 1970) 434 F.2d 794, 804] . Intent not to resume use is inferable from circumstances [15 U.S.C. § 1127].

A mark is also deemed abandoned if the owner, by any course of conduct, including acts of omission as well as commission, causes the mark to become a generic name or otherwise to lose its significance as a mark. Purchaser motivation is not test for determining this type of abandonment [15 U.S.C. § 1127].

The affirmative defense in [1], above, is for use in an answer to a complaint for infringement of a federally registered trade or service mark to raise the defense of fair use [15 U.S.C. § 1115(b)(4); for a discussion of what constitutes fair use, see § 549.28[5]].

In a trademark infringement suit, defendant has the burden of establishing the validity of a fair use defense [King-Size, Inc. v. Frank's King Size Clothes, Inc. (S.D. Tex. 1982) 547 F. Supp. 1138, 1164] . In proving fair use, defendant must show that it is making good faith, non-trademark use of the name, term, or device in issue, and is therefore using it only to describe its product rather than to associate it with a manufacturer [Sierra On-Line, Inc. v. Phoenix Software, Inc. (9th Cir. 1984) 739 F.2d 1415, 1423] . The defense, in essence, forbids a trademark registrant from appropriating a descriptive term for its exclusive use and preventing others from accurately describing a characteristic of their goods or services [Soweco, Inc. v. Shell Oil Co. (5th Cir. 1980) 617 F.2d 1178, 1185] . By its terms, this statutory defense applies only to registered trademarks that have become incontestable through the passage of time [Sierra On-Line, Inc. v. Phoenix Software, Inc. (9th Cir. 1984) 739 F.2d 1415, 1423] . However, the statutory defense has been held to be simply a restatement of the common law defense of fair use; which, by virtue of 15 U.S.C. § 1115(a), is available in actions not involving marks that have achieved incontestability status [M. B. H. Enterprises, Inc. v. WOKY, Inc. (7th Cir. 1980) 633 F.2d 50, 52 n.2 ; see also Sierra On-Line, Inc. v. Phoenix Software, Inc. (9th Cir. 1984) 739 F.2d 1415, 1423] .

1. Defendant first adopted the _____ [trademark or service mark] _____ [describe defendant's mark, use of which is charged as an infringement] to identify its _____ [goods or services] on _____ [date] without knowledge of plaintiff registrant's prior use thereof. The date of defendant's adoption of its _____ [trademark or service mark] is prior to _____ [date] the registration date of plaintiff's _____ [trademark or service mark].

2. Defendant has used its _____ [trademark or service mark] _____ [describe defendant's mark] _____ [on its goods or in connection with its services] continuously since the date of first adoption, hereinabove alleged.

The affirmative defense in [1], above, is for use in an answer to a complaint for infringement of a federally registered trade or service mark to raise the defense of prior use. This defense applies only for the geographic area in which such continuous prior use as alleged by defendant is proved [15 U.S.C. § 1115(b)(5); AMF Inc. v. Sleekcraft Boats (9th Cir. 1979) 599 F.2d 341, 346 n.4 ; Mister Donut of America, Inc. v. Mr. Donut, Inc. (9th Cir. 1969) 418 F.2d 838, 843] . The defense applies if defendant can establish that it adopted its mark without knowledge of plaintiff's prior use, and that it has used its mark continuously from a date prior to plaintiff's registration of plaintiff's mark [Casual Corner Associates, Inc. v. Casual Stores of Nevada, Inc. (9th Cir. 1974) 493 F.2d 709, 714] . It is the defendant's burden to raise and prove this defense [AMF, Inc. v. Sleekcraft Boats (9th Cir. 1979) 599 F.2d 341, 346 n.4].

If the defendant establishes innocent pre-registration use of a federal mark, a federal injunction will not issue to restrain use of the mark in the geographical area where prior use was proven [Golden Door, Inc. v. Odisho (9th Cir. 1980) 646

F.2d 347, 351] .

The affirmative defense in [1], above, is for use in an answer to a complaint for infringement of a federally registered trade or service mark to raise the defense that the mark has been or is being used to violate the antitrust laws of the United States [15 U.S.C. § 1115(b)(7)].

The essential element of an antitrust misuse defense is proof that the mark itself is the basic and fundamental vehicle required and used to accomplish the alleged antitrust violation [Helene Curtis Industries, Inc. v. Church & Dwight Co. (7th Cir. 1977) 560 F.2d 1325, 1337] . It is not enough merely to prove that merchandise bearing the mark has been used in furtherance of antitrust violations [Carl Zeiss Stiftung v. V.E.B. Carl Zeiss, Jena (S.D.N.Y. 1969) 298 F. Supp. 1309, 1315] .

Plaintiff's registration of multiple marks for its products, mass advertising, massive sales, and bringing of a trademark infringement suit based on colorable similarity rather than on exact identity, did not constitute an antitrust violation because these activities comprise aggressive competition and promotion that antitrust laws seek to protect [Drop Dead Co. v. S. C. Johnson & Son, Inc. (9th Cir. 1963) 326 F.2d 87, 96] .

The ex parte application in [1], above, is for use to apply for an ex parte order, without notice, for the seizure of goods bearing counterfeits of plaintiff's trademark or service mark, the means of making those counterfeits, and records documenting the manufacture, sale, or receipt of things involved in the use of the counterfeit marks in connection with the sale, offering for sale, or distribution of goods [15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(1)(A)]. The form may be adapted for use when the counterfeits are used in connection with the sale, offering for sale, or distribution of services [see 15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(1)(A)].

The remedy of seizure of goods bearing counterfeit marks is available in infringement actions arising under 15 U.S.C. § 1114, and in actions arising under 36 U.S.C. § 220506 (prohibiting unauthorized use of symbols, emblems, trademarks, trade names, or insignia of the United States Olympic Committee or of the International Olympic Committee), when the infringement consists of the defendant's use of counterfeits of plaintiff's trade or service mark [15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(1)(A)]. The remedy is only available when plaintiff's mark is registered on the principal register in the United States Patent and Trademark Office, when plaintiff's mark is in use, and when defendant uses the counterfeit on the same goods or in connection with the same services for which plaintiff uses the genuine mark [15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(1)(B)].

The application for an order of seizure must be based on an affidavit or the verified complaint [15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(3)(A)]. Thus, if the material statements required to support the petition are included in the complaint and the compliant was verified, the affidavit is not necessary. For a complaint for infringement of a federally registered trademark, see § 549.91. For an order to seize goods bearing and used in the production of counterfeit marks, see § 549.102.

Procedure on ex parte applications will be affected by local court rules, which should be consulted.

[3] Content of Application

Plaintiff's application must contain the following information, which is also required to be set forth in the seizure order [15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(3)(B), (5)(B)-(E)]:

- A particular description of the matter to be seized, and a description of each place at which the matter is to be seized.

- The time period, ending no later than seven days after the date on which the order is issued, during which the seizure is to be made.

- The amount of security required to be provided by plaintiff under 15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(4)(A).

- A date for the hearing, required under 15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(10), at which time plaintiff must prove that the facts supporting the court's findings of fact and conclusions of law necessary to support the seizure order are still in effect.

In federal court, an application for any order must be by motion which, unless made during a hearing or trial, must be made in writing, must state with particularity the grounds therefor, and must set forth the relief or order sought [Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 7(b)(1)]. The rules applicable to captions, signing, and other matters of form of pleadings apply to all motions and other papers provided for by the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure [Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 7(b)(2)].

[4] Content of Affidavit

The affidavit (or verified complaint) must establish facts sufficient to support the findings of fact and conclusions of law required for an order of seizure of goods and counterfeit marks [15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(3)(A); see 15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(4)(B); see 15 U.S.C. § 1061 (acknowledgments and verifications of papers required under 15 U.S.C. §§ 1051-1127)]. For an enumeration and discussion of the findings of fact and conclusions of law that the seizure order must contain, see § 549.102.

[5] Requirement of Notice to United States Attorney

The court has no power to receive an application for a seizure order unless the applicant has given such notice of the application as is reasonable under the circumstances to the United States attorney for the judicial district in which the seizure order is sought. The United States attorney for that district may participate in the proceedings arising under the application if the proceedings may affect evidence of an offense against the United States. The court may deny the application if it determines that the public interest in a potential prosecution so requires [15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(2)].

[6] Requirement of Posting of Security

The court has no power to grant the application for a seizure order unless the applicant provides security, which the court determines to be adequate, for the payment of such damages as any person may be entitled to recover as a result of a wrongful seizure or wrongful attempted seizure under 15 U.S.C. 1116(d) [15 U.S.C. 1116(d)(4)(A)]. Because counsel for plaintiff will not know, at the time of drafting the application or motion for the seizure order, the amount at which the court will set the security required by 15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(4)(A), counsel should leave the amount blank and fill in the blank when the court sets the amount and orders the seizure.

The ex parte application of plaintiff for an order of seizure of goods bearing and used in the production of counterfeit marks was heard by the court on _____ [date]. Plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ [name] [; the United States appeared by the United States attorney for the _____ District of California, _____ (name)].

The court makes the following findings of fact and conclusions of law:

1. An order, other than an ex parte seizure order is not adequate to achieve the purposes of Title 15 of United States Code, Section 1114.

2. Plaintiff has not publicized the requested seizure.

3. Plaintiff is likely to succeed in showing that defendant _____ [name] used counterfeits of plaintiff's "_____" [specify plaintiff's mark] _____ [trademark or service mark] in connection with the _____ [sale and/or offering for sale and/or distribution of _____ (specify goods bearing counterfeits of plaintiff's mark, e.g., shirts and blouses)].

4. An immediate and irreparable injury will occur to plaintiff as a result of defendant's _____ [sale and/or offering for sale and/or distribution of _____ (specify goods bearing counterfeits of plaintiff's mark, e.g., shirts and blouses)] if seizure is not ordered.

5. The harm to plaintiff of denying the application for this order outweighs the harm to the legitimate interests of defendant _____ [name] of granting the application.

6. Defendant _____ [name] [, or persons acting in concert with him/her/it,] will _____ [specify manner in which defendant will make material inaccessible to court, e.g., destroy, move, hide, or otherwise make this matter inaccessible to the court] if plaintiff proceeds on notice to defendant.

Application having been made, and the court having made the foregoing findings of fact and conclusions of law,

IT IS ORDERED that the application be, and it hereby is, granted and ordered that the United States Marshal, or other federal, state, or local law enforcement officer, serve a copy of this order on defendant _____ [name].

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the United States Marshal, or other federal, state, or local law enforcement officer, seize all _____ [specify goods bearing counterfeits of plaintiff's mark, all items used in making the counterfeit marks, and all records documenting the manufacture, sale, or receipt of things involved in defendant's use of counterfeits of plaintiff's mark]. These items are located at _____ [describe each place at which matter is to be seized].

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the United States Marshal, or other federal, state, or local law enforcement officer, in the company of plaintiff's counsel, seize the above described matter on or before _____ [specify date no later than seven days after the date on which the order is issued].

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the above-described matter, when seized, be individually tagged for identification.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the above-described matter, when seized, be impounded in the custody [and control] of _____ [specify, e.g., plaintiff] until further order of the court.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that all matter seized and impounded be accessible to all parties and their counsel for _____ [specify reasons why parties are to be allowed access, e.g., inspection and inventory] during regular business hours.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that plaintiff post $_____ as security for issuance of this order.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that hearing is set for _____ [specify date no sooner than 10, and not later than 15, days after the order is issued], when plaintiff shall appear and bear the burden of proving that the facts supporting these findings of fact and conclusions of law are still in effect.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that this order, together with all supporting documents, be sealed until such time as defendant _____ [name] has an opportunity to contest this order, except that defendant _____ [name] shall have access to this order and supporting documents after the seizure has been carried out.

Judge of the Court

[2] Use of Form

The order in [1], above, is for use to order seizure of goods bearing counterfeits of plaintiff's trademark or service mark, the means of making those counterfeits, and records documenting the manufacture, sale, or receipt of things involved in the use of the counterfeit marks in connection with the sale, offering for sale, or distribution of goods [15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(1)(A)]. The form may be adapted for use when the counterfeit are used in connection with the sale, offering for sale, or distribution of services [see 15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(1)(A)].

[3] Content of Order

The order must set forth [15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(5)]:

- The findings of fact and conclusions of law required for the order.
- A particular description of the matter to be seized, and a description of each place at which the matter is to be seized.
- The time period, which must end no later than seven days after the date on which the order is issued, during which the seizure is to be made.
- The amount of security required to be provided under 15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(4)(A).
- A date for the post-seizure hearing required under 15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(10).

The court must order a United States marshal or other federal, state, or local law enforcement officer to serve a copy of the order and then to carry out the seizure under the order. Any materials seized under 15 U.S.C. § 1116(d) must be taken into the custody of the court [15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(7)]. However, for practical storage reasons, they may be remanded to the custody of plaintiff or plaintiff's agent.

The opening paragraph of the form includes an optional statement to be used if the United States attorney for the judicial district in which the order is sought appeared at the hearing on the application [see 15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(2)].

Local rules should be consulted.

[4] Grounds for Issuance of Order

The court has no power to grant the application for the seizure order unless the following clearly appears from specific facts [15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(4)(B)]:

- An order other than an ex parte seizure order is not adequate to achieve the purposes of 15 U.S.C. § 1114 (action for infringement of registered mark);

- The applicant has not publicized the requested seizure;

- The applicant is likely to succeed in showing that the defendant used a counterfeit mark in connection with the sale, offering for sale, or distribution of the same goods or services in connection with which the applicant uses the genuine mark;

- An immediate and irreparable injury will occur to the applicant if the seizure is not ordered;

- The matter to be seized will be located at the place identified in the application;

- The harm to the applicant of denying the application outweighs the harm to defendant's legitimate interests of granting the application; and

- Defendant, or persons acting in concert with him, her, or it, would destroy, move, hide, or otherwise make the matter inaccessible to the court, if the applicant were to proceed on notice to defendant.

[5] Time for Seizure

The order must specify the time period within which the seizure is to be made. That time period must end no later than seven days after the date on which the order is issued [15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(5)(C)]. A United States marshal or other federal, state, or local law enforcement officer serves a copy of order and then carries out the seizure [15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(9)]. The seized materials are taken into the custody of court [15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(7)].

[6] Confidentiality of Seizure and Information Seized

The court must take appropriate action to protect defendant from publicity, by or at the behest of plaintiff, about the order and any seizure thereunder [15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(6)]. The seizure order, together with the supporting documents, must be sealed until defendant has an opportunity to contest the order. However, defendant must have access to the order and supporting documents after the seizure has been carried out [15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(8)].

When appropriate, the court must issue orders to protect defendant from undue damage from the disclosure of trade secrets or other confidential information during the course of the seizure, including orders restricting the applicant's access (or any agent or employee of the applicant) to the trade secrets or confidential information [15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(9)].

[7] Protective Order With Respect to Discovery of Seized Records

The court must enter an appropriate protective order with respect to discovery and use of any records or information seized. The protective order must provide for appropriate procedures to ensure that confidential, private, proprietary, or privileged information contained in such records is not improperly disclosed or used [15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(7)].

[8] Postseizure Hearing

The court must hold a hearing, unless hearing is waived by all the parties, on the date set in the order of seizure. That date must be not sooner than 10 and not later than 15 days after the order is issued, unless the applicant shows good cause for another date, or unless defendant consents to another date for hearing. At the hearing, the party obtaining the order must prove that the facts supporting the findings of fact and conclusions of law necessary to support the order are still in effect. If that party fails to meet that burden, the court must dissolve or appropriately modify the order [15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(10)(A)]. In connection with the hearing, the court may make such orders modifying the time limits for discovery under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure as may be necessary to prevent frustration of the purposes of the hearing [15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(10)(B)].

A person damaged by wrongful seizure or attempted wrongful seizure has a cause of action for the resulting damages and expenses [see 15 U.S.C. § 1116(d)(11)].

Plaintiff alleges:

FIRST COUNT

(Infringement of Mark)

[2. Defendant's capacity and residence, if appropriate. See § 549.91, Paragraph 2.]

[4. Agency allegation, if appropriate. See § 549.91, Paragraph 5.]

5. At all material times, plaintiff was and is engaged in _____ [describe services rendered, e.g., the operation of a residential health and beauty spa, the sale of health and fitness services, and beauty counseling, including hair styling] in California under the service mark "_____" [specify plaintiff's mark].

6. Plaintiff first adopted and used the service mark "_____" [specify plaintiff's mark] to identify his/her/its services on _____ [date].

7. Plaintiff registered "_____" [specify plaintiff's mark] as his/her/its service mark in the Office of the Secretary of State of the State of California on _____ [date], under State of California Service Mark Registration No. _____. Plaintiff owns the registration, which is and continues to be in full force and effect. A certified copy of plaintiff's certificate of registration is attached as Exhibit "_____" and incorporated by reference.

8. Plaintiff has used the mark continuously since _____ [date], to identify his/her/its _____ [describe plaintiff's services, e.g., health and beauty spa services]. In this connection, plaintiff uses his/her/its mark _____ [describe plaintiff's use of the mark, e.g., in the advertising and promotion, throughout California, of health and beauty services]. A specimen of _____ [describe specimen, e.g., one of plaintiff's advertisements] on which his/her/its service mark appears is attached as Exhibit "_____" and incorporated by reference.

9. Defendant _____ [describe services rendered and geographical market served by defendant, e.g., owns and has operated two beauty salons in _____ (city)], California, under the name "_____" [specify name], since _____ [date]. A specimen _____ [describe specimen, e.g., of one of defendant's advertisements] on which the name "_____" [specify name] appears is attached as Exhibit "_____" and incorporated by reference.

10. Defendant's name is _____ [describe infringing nature of defendant's name, e.g., a colorable imitation of] plaintiff's registered service mark. Defendant uses the name "_____" [specify name] in connection with the sale, offering for sale, and advertising of his/her/its _____ [specify defendant's services, e.g., hair cutting and styling services]. As such, defendant's use of the name "_____" [specify name] is likely to cause confusion, mistake, or deception among consumers as to the source or origin of plaintiff's services.

11. [Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that] [D]efendant uses the name "_____" [specify name] _____ [describe specific uses of the name, e.g., on store-fronts and doors, appointment cards, and sales receipts. Defendant uses the name, as well, in promotional materials and advertisements in connection with the sale of hair cutting and styling services].

12. There exists an overlap in plaintiff's and defendant's trade areas, in that both plaintiff's and defendant's services are advertised and rendered in the same market(s) in California. [Additionally, plaintiff draws patrons from defendant's trade area.]

13. There exists an overlap in the nature of services rendered by plaintiff and defendant, in that both plaintiff and defendant are engaged in _____ [specify similarity of services rendered, e.g., the sale of hair cutting and styling services].

14. Plaintiff's services have been and are extensively advertised, publicized, and sold throughout California, including _____ [specify location of defendant's business], under his/her/its service mark. By virtue thereof, together with consumer acceptance and recognition of the service mark "_____" [specify plaintiff's mark], plaintiff's mark identifies plaintiff's services only, and distinguishes them from those of others.

15. [Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that] [A]s a proximate result of advantage accruing to defendant's business from plaintiff's statewide advertising, sales, and consumer recognition, and as a proximate result of _____ [confusion or deception or mistake, or any combination thereof] caused by defendant's advertising and sale of his/her/its services bearing the name "_____" [specify defendant's name], defendant has made profits in the approximate amount of $_____.

16. As a proximate result of advantage accruing to defendant's business from plaintiff's statewide advertising, sales, and consumer recognition, and as a proximate result of _____ [confusion or deception or mistake, or any combination thereof] caused by defendant's advertising and sale of his/her/its services bearing the name "_____" [specify defendant's name], plaintiff has been deprived of substantial sales of his/her/its services in the approximate amount of $ _____.

[17. On _____ [date], plaintiff advised defendant in writing of plaintiff's ownership of the service mark "_____" (specify plaintiff's mark), and the registration therefor, and requested defendant to immediately cease and desist from further use of the name "_____" (specify defendant's name) as either a trade name or service mark. Defendant has failed and refused, and continues to fail and refuse, to comply with plaintiff's request.]

18. Defendant's use of the name "_____" [specify defendant's name], is an infringement of plaintiff's registered mark, to plaintiff's general damage.

[19. Allegation of grounds for injunctive relief. See § 549.91, Paragraph 18.]

SECOND COUNT
(Dilution of Famous Mark)

20. Plaintiff refers to and incorporates herein Paragraphs 1 through _____ of its First Count.

21. Plaintiff's mark is, and since _____ [date before defendant's infringing use began] continuously has been, widely recognized by the general consuming public of California as a designation of the source of plaintiff's services. Association arising from the similarity between defendant's mark and plaintiff's famous mark is likely to impair the distinctiveness _____ [add, if appropriate: and to harm the reputation] of plaintiff's mark.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff prays:

1. For an order requiring defendant to show cause why he/she/it should not be enjoined as hereinafter set forth, during the pendency of this action.

2. For a temporary restraining order, a preliminary injunction, and a permanent injunction, all enjoining defendant and his/her/its agents, servants, and employees, and all persons acting under, in concert with, or for him/her/it from using or displaying the name "_____" [specify defendant's name], or any reproduction, counterfeit, copy, or colorable imitation of plaintiff's "_____" [specify plaintiff's mark] service mark, in connection with _____ [specify services, e.g., hair cutting and styling services] in California.

3. For an order declaring plaintiff to be the exclusive owner, in the State of California, of the "_____" [specify plaintiff's mark] service mark.

4. For an order declaring plaintiff's registration, under the Model State Trademark Law, of the "_____" [specify plaintiff's mark] service mark to be valid.

5. For an order requiring defendant to deliver up and destroy all _____ [specify infringing materials, e.g., stationery, promotional literature, advertising and other material] bearing the infringing [and diluting] designations.

6. For three times the amount of defendant's profits derived from infringement of plaintiff's mark.

7. For three times the amount of plaintiff's actual damages suffered by reason of defendant's infringement of plaintiff's mark.

8. For costs of suit incurred herein.

9. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use in a California state court by a plaintiff who is seeking to recover damages, the defendant's profits, and injunctive and other equitable relief for infringement of a service mark registered in California [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 14245, 14250].

The complaint includes a count seeking injunctive relief for the dilution of the plaintiff's mark, which may be included if the plaintiff's mark is a famous mark [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 14247]. The cause of action in this count is available to protect a mark either registered in California or valid at common law.

The form may be adapted for use in cases involving only trademarks or both trademarks and service marks.

Each of the counts in this complaint may be included, under principles of pendent jurisdiction, in a complaint filed in federal court for infringement of a federally registered trademark or service mark [Golden Door, Inc. v. Odisho (N.D. Cal. 1977) 437 F. Supp. 956, 962 , aff'd, (9th Cir. 1980) 646 F.2d 347 ; see § 549.91]. Each of the counts in this form also may be combined with a state claim of unfair competition under Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 et seq. For a complaint for unfair competition and infringement of trade name under California law, see § 549.107.

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges:

- Plaintiff's and defendant's rendition of services and use of their respective marks or names in connection with their businesses in California (Paragraphs 5, 8, and 9) [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 14202(h), 14245 and discussion in § 549.56[2][a]].

- Plaintiff's ownership of its service mark, through allegations of the fact and date of plaintiff's first adoption and use of its mark (Paragraph 6) [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 14202(h)].

- The fact and date of plaintiff's registration of its mark, and the registration number issued for it (Paragraph 7) [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 14215, 14245 and discussion in § 549.52[2]].

- Defendant's infringement of plaintiff's mark (Paragraph 10) [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 14245 and discussion in § 549.56[2]].

- The likelihood of confusion resulting from infringement (Paragraphs 11-13) [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 14245(a) and discussion in § 549.56[2]].

- Defendant's profits and plaintiff's damages (Paragraphs 15 and 16) [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 14250(a) (up to three times defendant's profits and three times plaintiff's damages can be recovered in infringement suit) and discussion in § 549.56[3][b]].

- Grounds for preliminary and permanent injunctive relief (Paragraph 19) [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 14250(a) and discussion in § 549.56[3][b]; Civ. Code § 3422 (permanent relief); Code Civ. Proc. § 526 (preliminary relief)].

The complaint provides for attaching three exhibits: a certified copy of plaintiff's certificate of registration of the mark (Paragraph 7) [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 14215 and discussion in § 549.52[2]]; a specimen of plaintiff's mark (Paragraph 8); and a specimen of defendant's name or mark (Paragraph 9).

The complaint includes an optional allegation of defendant's failure and refusal to cease and desist using its infringing mark or name, despite plaintiff's request that it do so (optional Paragraph 17) [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 14245(a)(3) and discussion in § 549.56[2][c]]. This allegation also serves to show the ongoing nature of defendant's infringement and plaintiff's resulting lack of an adequate remedy at law for defendant's infringing activities [see Civ. Code § 3422(1), (3); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 526(a)(4), (6)].

As part of the relief, the complaint prays for destruction of all counterfeit marks, the means of making them, and any matter bearing them [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14250(a) and discussion in § 549.56[3][c]].

In the second count, the complaint adds allegations to support a claim of dilution of plaintiff's mark, assuming it qualifies as a famous mark (Paragraphs 21 and 22) [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 14247 and discussion in § 549.57].

[4] Verification

Verification [Code Civ. Proc. § 446] is required if plaintiff seeks a temporary restraining order or a preliminary injunction on a complaint instead of on affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)]. If relying on a verified complaint instead of affidavits (or declarations), counsel must plead evidentiary facts that would entitle plaintiff to the relief sought [see E.H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1 ; Finnie v. Town of Tiburon (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1, 15, 244 Cal. Rptr. 581] . For discussion, a procedural checklist, and additional forms necessary in order to obtain a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

Otherwise, verification is not required, but verification of the complaint requires the defendant to file a verified answer [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446] and precludes use of a general denial [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion of the effect that verifying a complaint has on the answer, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by a plaintiff seeking an order of seizure of counterfeits of trade or service marks registered under the Model State Trademark Law, the means of making the counterfeit marks, and all goods, articles, or other matter bearing the marks, collectively known as "counterfeit goods" [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 14250(a), (b); see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 14250(n) ("counterfeit" defined)]. The counterfeit goods may be seized from persons manufacturing, displaying for sale, or selling the goods. Plaintiff may proceed either on motion or ex parte application, in a suit to enjoin the manufacture, use, display, or sale of counterfeits of its mark [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14250(b)]. For discussion and forms relating to motions and supporting declarations, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders .

[3] Waiver of Requirement of Notice to Defendant

If it appears from plaintiff's ex parte application that there is good reason for proceeding without notification to defendant, the court may, for good cause shown, waive the requirement of notice for the ex parte proceeding [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14250(b)].

For discussion and forms relating to the requirement that an affidavit or declaration showing notice or attempted notice to opposing party or counsel or reason why notice should not be required to be submitted with ex parte application for order under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204(b), see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders .

[4] Required Showing of Good Cause and Probable Success on the Merits

Plaintiff must make a showing of both good cause for the order and a probability of success on the merits of its suit to enjoin the manufacture, use, display, or sale of counterfeits of its mark [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14250(b)]. By verified complaint and/or declaration, plaintiff should therefore set forth facts showing the following:

- Defendant's manufacture, use, display, or sale of counterfeits of plaintiff's registered trade or service mark [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14250(b)].

- Defendant's means of making the counterfeit marks, goods, articles, and/or other matter bearing the counterfeit marks [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14250(a)].

- Defendant's possession or control of the counterfeit goods [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14250(a)].

- Defendant's activities constitute infringement of plaintiff's mark, likelihood of injury to plaintiff's business reputation, and/or dilution of the distinctive quality of plaintiff's mark [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 14245, 14247].

[5] Requirement That Plaintiff Post Undertaking

Before obtaining the seizure order, plaintiff must post an undertaking [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14250(b)]. The court must set the amount of the undertaking in accordance with the probable recovery of damages, costs, and expenses in an action by any person having a financial interest in the seized goods and who is damaged by the seizure of goods that are not counterfeit, if it is ultimately determined that the goods seized are not counterfeit [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14250(c), (e)]. Because counsel for plaintiff will not know, at the time of drafting the application or motion for the seizure order, the amount at which the court will set the undertaking, counsel should leave the amount blank and fill in the blank when the court sets the amount and orders the seizure.

A person entitled to recover damages for wrongful seizure of the goods [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 14250(c)] may object to the undertaking within 30 days of the seizure [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14250(f)], and the motion or application for the seizure order must advise defendant of the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14250(g)]:

- That the undertaking has been filed.

- That defendant has the right to object to the undertaking on the grounds that the surety or the amount of the undertaking is insufficient.

- That the objection to the undertaking must be made within 30 days after the date of seizure of the goods.

For a discussion of an action for damages for wrongful seizure, see § 549.57[c].

The application of _____ [identify party, e.g., plaintiff] for an order of seizure of counterfeit goods was heard by the court ex parte _____ [date], good cause being shown why defendant should not be notified, and the court having therefore waived the requirement of notice of the proceeding to defendant. Plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ [name].

On proof made, together with good cause and plaintiff's probability of success on the merits shown to the satisfaction of the court that the application ought to be granted,

IT IS ORDERED that the application be, and it hereby is, granted and ordered that all counterfeit marks, all means of making them, and all goods, articles, or other matter bearing the counterfeits that are in the possession or control of defendant shall be seized.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the seizure shall take place on _____ [date]. The goods to be seized are more particularly described as follows: _____ [description of counterfeit goods to be seized]. The _____ [identity of the persons or class of persons to effect seizure] shall effect seizure of the counterfeit goods described above. The location(s) at which seizure is to occur is/are particularly described as follows: _____ [describe location(s) at which seizure is/are to occur]. Defendant shall be served with a copy of this order at the time of seizure.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that hearing is set for _____ [date not more than 10 court days after the last date on which seizure is ordered], at which time defendant may appear before this court and seek release of the above-described seized counterfeit goods.

Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use to order seizure of counterfeits of trade or service marks registered under the Model State Trademark Law, the means of making the counterfeit marks, and all goods, articles, or other matter bearing the marks [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14250(b)].

[3] Contents of Order

The order must specifically set forth [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14250(b)]:

- The date or dates on which the seizure is ordered to take place.
- A description of the counterfeit goods to be seized.
- The identity of the persons or class of persons to effect seizure.
- A description of the location or locations at which seizure is to occur.
- A hearing date not more than 10 court days after the last date on which seizure is ordered, at which any person from whom goods are seized may appear and seek release of the seized goods.

Any person from whom seizure is effected must be served with the order at the time of seizure [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14250(b)].

Plaintiff alleges:

[1. Identity and capacity of plaintiff. See § 549.91, Paragraph 1.]

[3. Fictitious name allegation. See 549.91, Paragraph 4.]

4. Plaintiff is, and at all times mentioned herein has been, engaged in the _____ [business or nonprofit activity] of _____ [specify, e.g., selling and renting snow skis and skiing equipment].

5. Plaintiff has continuously done business under the [corporate and] trade name _____ [specify, e.g., Western Ridge, Inc.] since _____ [date]. Plaintiff has built up valuable goodwill in this trade name, and it has come to be associated exclusively with plaintiff's business by the public generally throughout _____ [specify market, marketing area, or territory, e.g., Northern California], as reflected by _____ [allege facts showing that plaintiff's trade name has acquired secondary meaning, e.g., extensive advertising and promotion in this area from _____ [date], to the present time, resulting in approximately _____ individual sales and rentals to customers during that period].

6. Defendant _____ [name] is engaged in the business of _____ [specify, e.g., selling backpacking, camping, and skiing equipment], [with its principal place of business] located at _____ [specify address and city], _____ County, California. After plaintiff's adoption and use of the trade name _____ [specify, e.g., Western Ridge, Inc.], defendant, on or about _____ [date], began doing business under the trade name _____ [specify, e.g., West Ridge Supplies]. Defendant's trade name is substantially similar to that of plaintiff, and defendant's use of that name creates a likelihood that plaintiff's customers, potential customers, and the public generally will be confused or misled as to the source of goods or services in that _____ [specify, e.g., they are likely to believe that defendant's business is identical to or affiliated with that of plaintiff].

7. Defendant threatens to [and unless restrained will] continue to use the trade name _____ [specify, e.g., West Ridge Supplies], as a result of which the public generally will be misled and deceived into believing that _____ [specify, e.g., defendant's business is identical to or affiliated with that of plaintiff], all to the irreparable injury of plaintiff's business and goodwill and to the unjust enrichment of defendant]. Plaintiff has no adequate remedy at law in that _____ [specify, e.g., it is extremely difficult to ascertain the amount of damages to plaintiff's business and goodwill].

8. On _____ [date], plaintiff _____ [allege facts raising presumption of plaintiff's right of exclusive use of the trade name under Bus. & Prof. Code § 14411 et seq., e.g., filed articles of incorporation under Section 200 of the Corporations Code containing its corporate and trade name _____ (specify, e.g., Western Ridge, Inc.)].

9. Defendant's continuing use of the confusingly similar trade name _____ [specify, e.g., Western Ridge, Inc.], constitutes an infringement and violation of plaintiff's rights in his/her/its trade name.

10. Unless restrained by this Court, defendant threatens to and will continue to use the trade name _____ [specify, e.g., West Ridge Supplies] in violation of plaintiff's rights.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays for judgment against defendant as follows:

1. For an order requiring defendant to show cause, if any they have, why he/she/it should not be enjoined as set forth below, during the pendency of this action.

2. For a temporary restraining order, a preliminary injunction, and a permanent injunction, all enjoining defendant from _____ [specify, e.g., continuing to use the name West Ridge Supplies as his/her/its trade name].

3. For his/her costs incurred.

4. For any other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

This complaint is for use by a plaintiff to state a cause of action for injunctive relief for common law unfair competition based on defendant's use of a trade name that is confusingly similar to plaintiff's trade name and for trade name infringement [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 14401, 14402]. This form may be combined, when appropriate, with federal or state claims for trademark or service mark infringement, as an alternate ground for injunctive relief [see §§ 549.91, 549.103].

For further discussion and forms relating to injunctive relief in general, including the procedure and additional forms for obtaining preliminary injunctive relief, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

[3] Allegations

This complaint for injunctive relief alleges the following [Cowles Magazines & Broadcasting, Inc. v. Elysium, Inc. (1967) 255 Cal. All. 2d 731, 733, 255 Cal. App. 2d 731, 63 Cal. Rptr. 507]:

- Plaintiff's prior adoption and use of a trade name that has acquired secondary meaning with the public (Paragraphs 4 and 5) [see [4][a], [b], below].

- Subsequent adoption and use of a confusingly similar trade name by the defendant, creating the likelihood of public confusion (Paragraph 6) [see [4][c], [d], below].

- Injury to the plaintiff unless defendant is enjoined from further use of the confusingly similar trade name (Paragraph 7).

- The basis of plaintiff's presumptive right to exclusive use of that name [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 14411 et seq.; see § 549.70] and defendant's infringement or violation of plaintiff's right (Paragraphs 8 and 9) [see § 549.71], as a basis for injunctive relief [Bus. & Prof. Code § 14402].

[4] Elements of Cause of Action

[a] In General

An action for trade name infringement as unfair competition must allege [see Sunset House Distributing Corp. v. Coffee Dan's Inc. (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d 748, 753, 50 Cal. Rptr. 49 ; Dino, Inc. v. Boreta Enterprises, Inc. (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 336, 338-339, 38 Cal. Rptr. 167]:

- Prior adoption and use of the plaintiff's trade name such that it has acquired secondary meaning;

- Subsequent use of a confusingly similar name by the defendant;
- The likelihood of public confusion; and
- That the plaintiff has been or is likely to be damaged by the defendant].

Despite the phrase "unfair competition," direct competition between the parties is not a necessary element; the emphasis is on "unfair" use of a confusingly similar name [see Ball v. American Trial Lawyers Assn. (1971) 14 Cal. App. 3d 289, 303, 92 Cal. Rptr. 228].

It is not necessary to show fraud or an otherwise culpable mental state on the defendant's part if only injunctive relief is sought [Tomlin v. Walt Disney Productions (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 226, 235-236, 96 Cal. Rptr. 118 ; see Ball v. American Trial Lawyers Assn. (1971) 14 Cal. App. 3d 289, 303-304, 306, 92 Cal. Rptr. 228]. On the other hand, if damages are sought, they must be specifically pleaded and proved and must be coupled with a showing that they are the result of (1) the defendant's failure to take reasonable precautions to prevent public confusion, (2) with the intent to deceive the public as to the source of the goods of service [see Tomlin v. Walt Disney Productions (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 226, 235-236, 96 Cal. Rptr. 118 ; Gordon v. Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 31, 39, 74 Cal. Rptr. 499].

[b] Secondary Meaning

"Secondary meaning" is established by showing that one person has adopted and used a particular name in reference to his or her goods and services with the result that the name has come to be identified exclusively with those goods or services by the relevant branch of the purchasing public. The existence of secondary meaning is a question of fact determined under all the circumstances; mere priority of use or use for a particular period of time is not in itself determinative [Gordon v. Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 31, 36-37, 74 Cal. Rptr. 499 ; Family Record Plan, Inc. v. Mitchell (1959) 172 Cal. App. 2d 235, 243, 342 P.2d 10 ; see Dino, Inc. v. Boreta Enterprises, Inc. (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 336, 341, 38 Cal. Rptr. 167 (noting cases in which 27 years' use was held insufficient and five months' use was sufficient for secondary meaning to attach)]. However, the duration and continuity of prior use is a relevant factor, as are the extent of advertising and promotion of the original name, sales figures showing the number of people who have purchased goods or services associated with the original name, and identification of the parties' respective markets or marketing areas [North Carolina Dairy Foundation, Inc. v. Foremost-McKesson, Inc. (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 98, 109-110, 154 Cal. Rptr. 794 ; Cowles Magazines & Broadcasting, Inc. v. Elysium, Inc. (1967) 255 Cal. App. 2d 731, 735, 63 Cal. Rptr. 507]. Proof of secondary meaning is sufficient if it is shown that a substantial segment of the buying population associates the name or design with a single source, even if that source is anonymous [North Carolina Dairy Foundation, Inc. v. Foremost-McKesson, Inc. (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 98, 108, 110, 154 Cal. Rptr. 794].

Common, generic, geographic, or descriptive words that cannot be exclusively appropriated as a trademark may nonetheless acquire secondary meaning [see California Western School of Law v. California Western University (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 1002, 1009, 178 Cal. Rptr. 685]. However, fanciful or arbitrary words are entitled to stronger protection, because it is easier for subsequent users to adopt a dissimilar name [Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Inc. v. Lee (1963) 212 Cal. App. 2d 23, 31, 27 Cal. Rptr. 833].

Determining the relevant "public" is material in establishing secondary meaning. Generally, it must be a segment of the population that comprises enough people to contradistinguish them from a few [Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Inc. v. Lee (1963) 212 Cal. App. 2d 23, 31, 27 Cal. Rptr. 833 ; see Ball v. American Trial Lawyers Assn. (1971) 14 Cal. App. 3d 289, 308, 306, 92 Cal. Rptr. 228 (segment of public relevant to determine public confusion distinguished from smaller segment of public relevant to establish secondary meaning)].

[c] Similar Name or Design

The similarity of names is intertwined with the likelihood of confusion. In other words, the names need not be identical so long as they are sufficiently similar to create a likelihood of confusion or deception [Hair v. McGuire (1961) 188 Cal. App. 2d 348, 353, 10 Cal. Rptr. 414]. Similarity is determined on the basis of the total effect of the name, rather than on comparison of individual words [Ball v. American Trial Lawyers Assn. (1971) 14 Cal. App. 3d 289, 303-304, 306, 92 Cal. Rptr. 228 ; see, e.g., Cowles Magazines & Broadcasting, Inc. v. Elysium, Inc. (1967) 255 Cal. App. 2d 731, 737-738, 63 Cal. Rptr. 507 ("Nude Look" is not per se confusingly similar to "Look" when both words in former name are given equal emphasis)].

[d] Public Confusion

Proof of actual confusion is not required, as long as a probability or likelihood of confusion is shown. The likelihood of public confusion, in turn, ordinarily is a factual question to be determined under all the circumstances [Ball v. American Trial Lawyers Assn. (1971) 14 Cal. App. 3d 289, 308, 310, 92 Cal. Rptr. 228 ; see Schwartz v. Slenderella Systems of California, Inc. (1954) 43 Cal. 2d 107, 112, 271 P.2d 857]. The test is essentially whether a person of ordinary intelligence could reasonably be deceived or confused [Hair v. McGuire (1961) 188 Cal. App. 2d 348, 353, 10 Cal. Rptr. 414].

Close similarity between names or actual instances of public confusion are not necessarily determinative, although each will support a finding of likelihood of confusion [Schwartz v. Slenderella Systems of California, Inc. (1954) 43 Cal. 2d 107, 112, 271 P.2d 857 ; Hair v. McGuire (1961) 188 Cal. App. 2d 348, 353, 10 Cal. Rptr. 414].

Although direct competition is not an element of the action in itself [see [a], above], the likelihood of confusion is most strongly shown by the fact that the parties are in direct competition in the same locality or that they deal in articles or services so similar that the public might reasonably conclude that the plaintiff had merely enlarged the scope of his or her basic operations. In other situations, the plaintiff must plead and prove special circumstances peculiar to the two businesses involved, from which confusion would be likely to result [Tomlin v. Walt Disney Productions (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 226, 235, 236, 96 Cal. Rptr. 118].

Verification [Code Civ. Proc. § 446] is required if plaintiff seeks a temporary restraining order or a preliminary injunction on a complaint instead of on affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)]. If relying on a verified complaint instead of affidavits (or declarations), counsel must plead evidentiary facts that would entitle plaintiff to the relief sought [see E.H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1 ; Finnie v. Town of Tiburon (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1, 15, 244 Cal. Rptr. 581] . For discussion, a procedural checklist, and additional forms necessary in order to obtain a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

Otherwise, verification is not required, but verification of the complaint requires the defendant to file a verified answer [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446] and precludes use of a general denial [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion of the effect that verifying a complaint has on the answer, see Ch. 26, Answers .

Trespass is an unlawful interference with possession of property [Girard v. Ball (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 772, 788, 178 Cal. Rptr. 406] . The essence of trespass is an unauthorized entry onto the land of another [Civic W. Corp. v. Zila Indus., Inc. (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 1, 16, 135 Cal. Rptr. 915 ; *Miller & Desatnik Mgmt. Co. v. PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

§ 550.12 Trespass as Crime

Trespass under statutorily described circumstances may be a misdemeanor. Unauthorized entry on industrial property which has posted signs, unauthorized entry on prescribed areas belonging to the University of California, and placement of advertisements on public property are misdemeanor trespasses [Penal Code §§ 552-558.1]. In addition to these very specific activities and those that parallel tort trespass (for example, Penal Code § 602(m) includes entry and occupation without the owner's consent as a misdemeanor), misdemeanor trespass activities include, but are not limited to, refusing to leave a public building of a public agency after hours, wilfully obstructing attendance at college classes, intentionally interfering with a lawful business by obstructing or intimidating those attempting to carry on the business or their customers, and peddling without permission at publicly owned airports [Penal Code §§ 602-603].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

§ 550.13 Distinguished From Conversion

Conversion is any act of dominion wrongfully exerted over another's personal property in denial of or inconsistent with his or her rights therein. It requires the plaintiff to show an intention or purpose to convert the goods and to exercise ownership over them, or to prevent the owner from taking possession of the property [Zaslow v. Kroenert (1946) 29 Cal. 2d 541, 549-550, 176 P.2d 1] . If the conduct does not amount to a substantial interference with the possession or the right thereto, but consists of intermeddling with or use of or damages to the personal property, the owner has a cause of action for trespass. For example, a person who has removed personal property from an apartment and placed it in storage in the owner's name, without any attempt to claim any ownership interest in the property, may be charged with trespass to the property, but not conversion, which requires an assertion of ownership right [Jordan v. Talbot (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 597, 610, 12 Cal. Rptr. 488, 361 P.2d 20] .

Although a lesser interference may be actionable as a trespass to personal property, or trespass to chattels, than would be actionable as a conversion, some actual injury must have occurred to state an action for trespass to chattels. There must be some interference with the possessor's use or possession of the personal property or interference with some other legally protected interest in that property [Intel Corp. v. Hamidi (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1342, 1351, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 32, 71 P.3d 296] . In one case, for example, the California Supreme Court held that the tort did not encompass the mass sending of e-mails to the employees of a large corporation because the e-mails neither damaged nor impaired the functioning of the corporation's computer system [Intel Corp. v. Hamidi (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1342, 1347, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 32, 71 P.3d 296 (loss of employee time spent reading and responding to messages was insufficient to support recovery)]. The Court distinguished cases in which mass e-mails actually adversely effected the performance of a computer system, or threatened to do so, which might support a cause of action for trespass to chattels [see Intel Corp. v. Hamidi (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1342, 1353-1356, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 32, 71 P.3d 296] .

For a further discussion of conversion, see Ch. 150, Conversion . For a form of complaint for conversion combined with trespass, see § 550.42; see § 550.43 for a form of complaint for trespass to personal property.

An encroachment or other trespass that obstructs the free use of the property and interferes with the comfortable use of that property may also constitute a nuisance [see Civ. Code § 3479]. Chapter 550 TRESPASS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

48-550 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 550.15

§ 550.15 Nature of Trespass Act

[1] Generally

There is no liability for a trespass unless the trespass is intentional, the result of recklessness or negligence, or the result of engaging in an extrahazardous activity [Wilson v. Interlake Steel Co. (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 229, 233, 185 Cal. Rptr. 280, 649 P.2d 922 ; Gallin v. Poulou (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 638, 645, 295 P.2d 958] . The essence of a cause of action for trespass is an unauthorized entry onto the land of another [Civic W. Corp. v. Zila Indus., Inc. (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 1, 16, 135 Cal. Rptr. 915] .Peaceable entry on land by consent is not trespass [Girard v. Ball (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 772, 788, 178 Cal. Rptr. 406 ; for further discussion, see § 550.22[1]]. For discussion of recovery of damages for trespass or injury to property caused by negligence, see Ch. 177, Damages , and Ch. 380, Negligence .

Every unauthorized entry on another's property is a trespass and any person who makes such an entry is a trespasser. A trespasser is one who goes on the premises of another without invitation, express or implied, and does so out of curiosity, or for his or her own purposes or convenience, and not in the performance of any duty to the owner. It is not necessary that one making such an entry should have any unlawful intent [Bauman v. Beaujean (1966) 244 Cal. App. 2d 384, 389, 53 Cal. Rptr. 55 ; Miller v. National Broad. Co. (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1463, 1480-1481, 232 Cal. Rptr. 668] . Although intent to trespass is an essential element of a cause of action for trespass, intent to cause damage is not, and the trespasser is liable for the damage caused even though that damage was neither intended nor foreseen [Meyer v. Pacific Employers Ins. Co. (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 321, 326, 43 Cal. Rptr. 542] . Even a child of tender years may be a trespasser [Fullerton v. Conan (1948) 87 Cal. App. 2d 354, 355-356, 197 P.2d 59 (five-year-old girl)].

The doing of an act that will, to a substantial certainty, result in the entry of foreign matter on another's land suffices for an intentional trespass to land on which liability may be based. An intent to harm is not required [Roberts v. Permanente Corp. (1961) 188 Cal. App. 2d 526, 530-531, 10 Cal. Rptr. 519 ; Restatement of Torts § 158].

[3] Result of Ultrahazardous Activity

Liability for trespass may be the result of engaging in an extrahazardous activity [see Wilson v. Interlake Steel Co.

(1982) 32 Cal. 3d 229, 233, 185 Cal. Rptr. 280, 649 P.2d 922] . An activity is ultrahazardous when it necessarily involves a risk of serious harm that cannot be eliminated by the exercise of the utmost care, and is not a matter of common usage [Luthringer v. Moore (1948) 31 Cal. 2d 489, 498-499, 190 P.2d 1] . The ultrahazardous nature of the activity may be used to support the intent necessary for an action in trespass, but trespass is not the exclusive remedy for one sustaining injury from such an activity. An action for strict liability directly based on the ultrahazardous activity would be a likely remedy to pursue in such a case [see Smith v. Lockheed Propulsion Co. (1967) 247 Cal. App. 2d 774, 56 Cal. Rptr. 128 (action for damages based on negligence and strict liability)].

An early case found liability for trespass without any negligence on the part of the defendant, essentially the result of an ultrahazardous activity, in an action involving the blow-out of an oil well [Green v. General Petroleum Corp. (1928) 205 Cal. 328, 331-335 , (deposit of oil, sand, mud, and rocks on the plaintiff's land)]. This type of strict liability extends to invasions caused by vibrations resulting from dynamite blasting because there is no reason for differentiating between responsibility for damages done by physical projectiles or missiles and responsibility for damage done by vibration or concussion [McKenna v. Pacific Elec. Ry. Co. (1930) 104 Cal. App. 538, 543, 286 P. 445] .

Blasting in urban areas and diversion of water are two activities for which landowners can be held strictly liable for their actions [see Alonso v. Hills (1950) 95 Cal. App. 2d 778, 783, 214 P.2d 50 , and Parker v. Larsen (1890) 86 Cal. 236, 238 ; Smith v. East Bay Mun. Util. Dist. (1954) 122 Cal. App. 2d 613, 622-623, 265 P.2d 610 , respectively]. For further discussion and forms relating to ultrahazardous activities, see Ch. 256, Explosives , Ch. 380, Negligence , and Ch. 421, Premises Liability .

Chapter 550 TRESPASS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

48-550 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 550.16

§ 550.16 Nature of Injury

[1] Direct or Indirect

Trespasses may be committed by consequential and indirect injuries as well as by direct and forcible injuries [Wilson v. Interlake Steel Co. (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 229, 185 Cal. Rptr. 280] . Thus, home owners may recover for damages caused by vibrations and noises emanating from a nearby plant, even though the defendant did not cause the direct entry of matter onto their land [McNeill v. Redington (1944) 67 Cal. App. 2d 315, 320, 154 P.2d 428] , and a negligent invasion by fire which causes damage to real property constitutes a trespass [Elton v. Anheuser-Busch Beverage Group, Inc. (1996) 50 Cal. App. 4th 1301, 1305, 58 Cal. Rptr. 2d 303] .

There is no distinction between trespass by forcible injury and trespass committed by consequential and indirect injury [Smith v. Lockheed Propulsion Co. (1967) 247 Cal. App. 2d 774, 784, 56 Cal. Rptr. 128] . However, without an injury or entry with the requisite intent it appears that there will not be an actionable trespass [Gallin v. Poulou (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 638, 641-644, 295 P.2d 958 ; for further discussion of actionable trespass, see § 550.15[1]]. For discussion and forms relating to the primary means of redressing these wrongs, see Ch. 256, Explosives , Ch. 380, Negligence , and Ch. 421, Premises Liability .

[2] Placing or Leaving Foreign Matter on Land

Trespass may be the result of the defendant's personally intruding on the plaintiff's land and leaving objects behind. For example, entry by abuilding contractor and unauthorized dumping of building materials is a trespass, not just by the person, but by the deposited materials [Dandoy v. Oswald Bros. Paving Co. (1931) 113 Cal. App. 570, 571, 298 P. 1030] . Trespass may also occur by allowing items to remain on property beyond the time they were authorized to be left there; there is no requirement that the original entry of either the person or the material be a trespass [Herond v. Bonsall (1943) 60 Cal. App. 2d 152, 155-156, 140 P.2d 121 (restaurant equipment left by tenant after expiration of lease)].

A trespass may be committed by the continued presence on the land of a structure, chattel, or other thing that a person has tortiously placed there, whether or not that person has the ability to remove it [Newhall Land & Farming Co. v. Superior Court (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 334, 345, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 377 ; Mangini v. Aerojet-Gen. Corp. (1991) 230

Cal. App. 3d 1125, 1148, 281 Cal. Rptr. 827 ; Restatement (Second) of Torts § 161(1)]. Therefore, a property owner who discharges hazardous waste on or otherwise pollutes his or her own property has committed a continuing trespass against later owners because causing a public nuisance by contaminating soil and groundwater is tortious conduct [Newhall Land & Farming Co. v. Superior Court (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 334, 346-347, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 377 ; see also Mangini v. Aerojet-Gen. Corp. (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 1125, 1148, 281 Cal. Rptr. 827 ; but see Capogeannis v. Superior Court (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 668, 675, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 796 (no trespass because creating public nuisance not "tortious" conduct if no special injury to plaintiff differing in kind from injury to general public)]. For discussion of torts, including trespass, based on pollution, see Ch. 418, Pollution and Environmental Matters .

[3] Causing Entry of Tangible Matter on Land

Trespass may occur without a personal physical entry by the trespasser. For example, fumes, vapors, dust, dirt, sediment, lint, and waste materials emitted into the atmosphere by the defendant, resulting in an injurious coating on the plaintiff's property constitute a trespass and injury to real property [Kornoff v. Kingsburg Cotton Oil Co. (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 265, 273, 288 P.2d 507 ; for discussion of the obstruction of another's comfortable enjoyment of his or her property, see Ch. 391, Nuisance].

Not every entry of matter on the land of another constitutes an actionable trespass. However, the doing of an act that will to a substantial certainty result in the entry of foreign matter on another's land suffices to establish an intentional trespass to land on which liability may be based [Roberts v. Permanente Corp. (1961) 188 Cal. App. 2d 526, 530-531, 10 Cal. Rptr. 519] .

[4] Causing Entry of Intangible Matter on Land

Trespass may be predicated on the intrusion of noise, odor, or light only if it is accompanied by the deposit of particulate matter on the plaintiff's property or actual physical damage to the plaintiff's property [San Diego Gas & Elec. Co. v. Superior Court (1996) 13 Cal. 4th 893, 936, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 724 (electromagnetic fields); Wilson v. Interlake Steel Co. (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 229, 232-233, 185 Cal. Rptr. 280, 649 P.2d 922] . All intangible intrusions alone, such as noise, odor, or light, are dealt with as nuisance cases, not trespass [Wilson v. Interlake Steel Co. (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 229, 232-233, 185 Cal. Rptr. 280, 649 P.2d 922] . For a further discussion of nuisance generally, see Ch. 391, Nuisance .

§ 550.17 Subsurface Trespass

An invasion of a person's interest in the subsurface level of the property constitutes an actionable trespass. The plaintiff may recover damages for the trespass and wrongful removal of ore from an underground mine by the defendant [Lightner Mining Co. v. Lane (1911) 161 Cal. 689, 692-693, 120 P. 771 ; Whittaker v. Otto (1967) 248 Cal. App. 2d 666, 674-675, 56 Cal. Rptr. 836] . It is also a trespass for the lessee to a mineral lease to inject waste water into its wells without the lessor's permission, if the waste water spreads into and damages the lessor's reserved mineral estate [Cassinos v. Union Oil Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1770, 1778] . Similarly, wastewater produced through use of unlined percolation ponds during oil extraction can constitute a continuing trespass if it seeps into the groundwater of an adjacent landowner [Starrh & Starrh Cotton Growers v. Aera Energy LLC (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 583, 595-596, 63 Cal. Rptr. 3d 165] .

The slant drilling of a well and extraction of oil from beneath the surface of another's land is a trespass for which damages can be collected [Union Oil Co. v. Domengeaux (1939) 30 Cal. App. 2d 266, 270] . Actions for trespass resulting from slant drilling are governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 3493/4 and have a much shorter statute of limitations than other types of trespass. For further discussion, see Ch. 393, Oil and Gas .

Chapter 550 TRESPASS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

§ 550.18 Trespass of Airspace

Land includes free or occupied space for an indefinite distance upwards, subject to limitations on the use of airspace imposed and rights in the use of airspace granted by law [Civ. Code § 659]. A temporary invasion of airspace by aircraft over the land of another is privileged, however, as long as it does not unreasonably interfere with persons or property on the land [Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. v. Peterson (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 434, 438, 75 Cal. Rptr. 673] . Unreasonable interference has not been defined, and there is no definite yardstick that may be used in determining how low an airplane may fly over the property of others in landing or taking off; however, flying at low altitudes incident to landing and taking off may constitute trespass, as it may cause more than mere apprehension of injury. Extensive low flying may be a substantial interference with the occupant's enjoyment ofthe land and injunctive relief may be appropriate [Anderson v. Souza (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 825, 839-840, 243 P.2d 497] . For further discussion of overflight, see Ch. 16, Airplanes and Airports , and Ch. 391, Nuisance].

A proper and beneficial use of the airspace above an owner's land may not be interfered with except for necessary police regulation in the interest and for the safety and protection of the public [Strother v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (1949) 94 Cal. App. 2d 525, 536, 211 P.2d 624 (action for personal injuries due to plane crash into high power wires, court noting that plane was trespassing and defendant was not negligent)]. Even if a landowner may, in fact, reasonably anticipate an invasion of the property, in law the landowner is entitled to assume that possession will not be interfered with and that his or her right to the use of the property is paramount [Strother v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (1949) 94 Cal. App. 2d 525, 529, 211 P.2d 624] .

Chapter 550 TRESPASS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

48-550 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 550.19

§ 550.19 Action for Trespass

[1] Jurisdiction and Venue

The proper county for an action in trespass is the county where the real property is located [Code Civ. Proc. § 392]. In limited civil cases, a court may issue only temporary restraining orders and preliminary injunctions. Therefore, if permanent injunctive relief is sought, the case will be classified as an unlimited civil case [Cal. Const. art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(8)]. If the issue of title or the right of possession is so involved that it must be decided in order to determine the case, the case would be an unlimited civil case, whether or not the involvement may be merely incidental [Morrissey v. Morrissey (1923) 191 Cal. 782, 784 (holding under prior law that superior court has original jurisdiction)].

[2] Proper Person to Bring Action

The proper party plaintiff in an action for trespass to real property is the person in actual possession [Lightner Mining Co. v. Lane (1911) 161 Cal. 689, 694-695, 120 P. 771 ; Williams v. Goodwin (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 496, 509, 116 Cal. Rptr. 200] . Whether or not the plaintiff's relationship to the land amounts to possession is a question of fact to be determined by the jury, unless it can be said as a matter of law that the evidence on that issue is palpably insufficient to support a verdict for the plaintiff [Williams v. Goodwin (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 496, 509, 116 Cal. Rptr. 200] .

A tenant's possession, while it continues, is as complete for all purposes of redress against wrongdoers as is the possession of the owner [Strohlburg v. Jones (1889) 78 Cal. 381, 383] . Even though not in possession, a person with a vested future possessory interest may bring an action for damages resulting from trespass. For example, one who had executed a lease for future possession of the land, as well as the right to harvest the crop then growing on the land, was entitled to bring an action for trespass when the defendant's trespass damaged the crop prior to the plaintiff's taking possession of the land [Wolfsen v. Hathaway (1948) 32 Cal. 2d 632, 642-644, 198 P.2d 1] , disapproved on other grounds, Flores v. Arroyo (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 492, 15 Cal. Rptr. 87, 364 P.2d 263 . For an allegation for use by one not in actual possession, see § 550.44.

The plaintiff in a trespass action must prove the fact of possession of the premises, but need not prove the right to possession, unless the defendant raises it as an issue [Williams v. Goodwin (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 496, 508, 116 Cal.

Rptr. 200] . Furthermore, a defendant who is a mere stranger to the title will not be allowed to question the title of a plaintiff in possession of the land. It is only when the trespasser claims title, or claims under the real owner, that he or she is allowed to attack the title of the plaintiff whose peaceable possession has been disturbed [Lightner Mining Co. v. Lane (1911) 161 Cal. 689, 695, 120 P. 771] . Moreover, a plaintiff in peaceable possession may even be entitled to an award of at least nominal damages for trespass against the owner of the property even though the plaintiff's possession is wrongful, because the owner is not entitled to regain the property by self-help [Allen v. McMillion (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 211, 218-219, 147 Cal. Rptr. 77 ; see Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions].

[3] Election of Remedies

[a] One or Successive Actions

If the trespass is permanent, all damages, past and prospective, are recoverable in one action [Rankin v. DeBare (1928) 205 Cal. 639, 641, 271 P. 1050] . If from the character of the trespass it is not to be presumed that the wrongful conduct will be continued, successive trespasses give rise to separate causes of action, and an action may be brought at any time to recover the damages that have accrued within the statutory period. In doubtful cases the plaintiff should have an election to treat the trespass as either permanent or not [Polin v. Chung Cho (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 673, 678, 87 Cal. Rptr. 591 ; for further discussion, see § 550.20[2][b]-[d]].

[b] Damages or Ejectment

Ejectment is the action used to recover possession of the land when the plaintiff in possession has been ousted by the defendant [Fuller v. Fuller (1917) 176 Cal. 637, 638, 169 P. 369] . A plaintiff suing for ejectment must claim damages for withholding possession in the same action or will be deemed to have waived his or her claim to damages [McCaffrey v. Wiley (1951) 103 Cal. App. 2d 621, 623-624, 230 P.2d 152 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 740 (action for recovery of property); for further discussion and forms, see Ch. 241, Ejectment , and Ch. 482, Quieting Title].

When the defendant has allegedly invaded and occupied the plaintiff's property, the plaintiff can either sue for trespass and recover damages, or in ejectment and have a judgment of ouster and damages, or for an injunction to restrain the continued occupation [Slater v. Shell Oil Co. (1943) 58 Cal. App. 2d 864, 869, 137 P.2d 713] . If the plaintiff elects to sue for both past and prospective damages, however, he or she is deemed to have waived the invasion and consented to the continued occupancy of the land [Kornoff v. Kingsburg Cotton Oil Co. (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 265, 269, 288 P.2d 507 ; Slater v. Shell Oil Co. (1943) 58 Cal. App. 2d 864, 869, 137 P.2d 713] .

If a plaintiff brings an action to recover damages to personal or real property resulting from trespassing on lands either under cultivation or intended or used for the raising of livestock, and the plaintiff prevails, he or she is entitled to reasonable attorney's fees in addition to other costs, and in addition to any liability for damages imposed by law [Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.9]. Attorney fees may be recovered even for a subsurface trespass to a right that runs appurtenant to cultivated surface land [Starrh & Starrh Cotton Growers v. Aera Energy LLC (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 583, 606-608, 63 Cal. Rptr. 3d 165 ; see § 550.17]. Evidence that plaintiff had used the property for livestock purposes in the past may be probative of plaintiff's intended use for the same purposes in the future, even if the property was not under cultivation or being used for livestock purposes at the time the damage was sustained [Kelly v. CB&I Constructors, Inc. (2009) 179 Cal. App. 4th 442, 465, 102 Cal. Rptr. 3d 32] .

For a general form of complaint seeking damages for trespass, see § 550.40[1].

[4] Injunctive Relief

[a] Availability

The general rule is that an injunction will not lie to restrain mere trespasses on the land, for the simple reason that an action at law will ordinarily afford an ample and adequate remedy for the wrong. Nor is it the usual practice to permit an action for injunctive relief to be substituted for an action of ejectment [see Harmon v. DeTurk (1917) 176 Cal. 758, 761-762, 169 P. 680] .

An act of trespass that is neither continuous nor threatened to be continuous will not give rise to injunctive relief [Church of Christ of Long Beach v. Harper (1927) 83 Cal. App. 41, 46] . An injunction will issue, however, to enjoin continuing trespasses for which monetary or other legal remedies are inadequate [Reitz v. Wollwert (1933) 217 Cal. 406, 409-410, 19 P.2d 3] . An injunction is also appropriate if the wrongful acts, if continuous, would give rise to an easement or servitude [Fairrington v. Dyke Water Co. (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 198, 201, 323 P.2d 1001] . A continuing trespass occurs if the entry onto the land of another is not permanent in character. For example, when the maintenance of an encroachment is abatable, the law does not presume that the encroachment will be permanently maintained. The maintenance of that encroachment is a continuing trespass or nuisance [Kafka v. Bozio (1923) 191 Cal. 746, 750-751, 218 P. 753] . If the action constituting trespass may be discontinued at any time, it is considered continuing in character [Phillips v. City of Pasadena (1945) 27 Cal. 2d 104, 107, 162 P.2d 625] . For further discussion of continuing trespasses and the statute of limitations, see § 550.20[2][c].

For a discussion of the effect of zoning ordinances on the availability of injunctive relief, see Ch. 391, Nuisance .

[b] Discretion to Grant Relief

The court has some discretion in determining whether to grant or to deny an injunction. In exercising that discretion, the court considers and weighs the relative hardships. To deny an injunction, the following factors must be present [Christensen v. Tucker (1952) 114 Cal. App. 2d 554, 562-563, 250 P.2d 660] :

- The defendant must be innocent; the plaintiff's conduct will be examined to ascertain any responsibility for the situation.

- Although the injunction will be granted regardless of the injury to the defendant if the plaintiff will suffer irreparable injury by the encroachment, it may not be granted when the rights of the public will be adversely affected.

- The hardship to the defendant by the granting of the injunction must be greatly disproportionate to the hardship caused by the plaintiff by the continuance of the encroachment. If an encroachment is an intentional trespass, the court cannot deny a mandatory injunction and has no right to weigh and balance the conveniences of the parties [Strodel v. Wilcox (1955) 137 Cal. App. 2d 781, 785, 291 P.2d 95] .

For a further discussion of the forms and procedures used in injunctions, see Ch. 303, Injunctions . For a complaint for trespass that includes injunctive relief, see § 550.40[1].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

§ 550.20 Statutes of Limitations

[1] Period of Limitation

The time for bringing an action for trespass on or injury to real property is three years [Code Civ. Proc. § 338(b)]. An action involving the drilling of oil or gas wells from a surface location on land not owned by the aggrieved party must be brought within 180 days [*Code Civ. Proc. § 349*3/4; see Ch. 393, Oil and Gas]. The time limitation for wrongful injuries to timber, trees, or underwood arising from any trespass committed while acting in reliance on an improper boundary line is five years from the date of trespass [Civ. Code § 3346; see Ch. 350, Logs and Timber].

The time limitation is the same whether the plaintiff seeks an injunction or damages, since it is the nature of the cause of action, and not the form of the action, that determines the applicability of the statute of limitations [Williams v. Southern P. R. Co. (1907) 150 Cal. 624, 628, 89 P. 599] . For an affirmative defense based on the running of the statute of limitations, see § 550.48.

[2] Accrues

[a] Generally

The period of limitation runs from the date the cause of action accrues, which is the time of injury, not from the time the plaintiff discovered who caused the injury [Gale v. McDaniel (1887) 72 Cal. 334, 335, 13 P. 871 ; Polin v. Chung Cho (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 673, 676-677, 87 Cal. Rptr. 591] . Neither is the running of the statute affected by the plaintiff's ignorance of the trespass [Castelletto v. Bendon (1961) 193 Cal. App. 2d 64, 65, 13 Cal. Rptr. 907] . A cause of action for consequential damages resulting from an underground trespass does not arise, however, until there is surface damage that would put a reasonable person on notice of the trespass [Oakes v. McCarthy Co. (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 231, 254-255, 73 Cal. Rptr. 127] .

[b] Permanent Trespass

If the trespass is permanent in nature, all damages, past and prospective, are recoverable in one action, and the entire cause of action accrues when the trespass is committed [Rankin v. DeBare (1928) 205 Cal. 639, 641, 271 P. 1050 ;

Williams v. Southern P. R. Co. (1907) 150 Cal. 624, 626, 89 P. 599] . An example of a permanent trespass is the construction and operation of a railroad [Williams v. Southern P. R. Co. (1907) 150 Cal. 624, 626, 89 P. 599] .

[c] Continuing Trespass

The statute of limitations for trespass begins to run from the time of entry, but in a continuing trespass, all damages incurred within the three years immediately prior to filing the action may be recovered; the date of the original entry does not serve to totally bar recovery [Lindberg v. Linder (1933) 133 Cal. App. 213, 217-218, 23 P.2d 842 (continued storage of rubbish on lot despite repeated requests to remove it)]. When a continuing or recurring injury results from a continuing trespass, there is not only a cause of action for the original wrong, arising when the wrong is committed, but also separate and successive causes of actions because the consequential damages arise as and when they are sustained; therefore, so long as the cause of the injury exists and the damages continue to occur, the plaintiff is not barred from recovering for those damages that have accrued within the statutory period beyond the action, even though a cause of action based solely on the original wrong may be barred [Kafka v. Bozio (1923) 191 Cal. 746, 751-752, 218 P. 753] . For further discussion of encroachments and other continuing trespasses, see Ch. 11, Adjoining Landowners and Ch. 391, Nuisance .

[d] Isolated Incident Trespass

A trespass that is not permanent and presumed not to be continuing provides a new cause of action at each moment of continuance and successive actions may be brought, provided that the plaintiff has not permitted a right by prescription to vest in the defendant [Williams v. Southern P. R. Co. (1907) 150 Cal. 624, 626, 89 P. 599] . For example, the defendant's sporadic rather than continuous use of a road that the defendant did not build, maintain, or use for long periods of time has been held not to be a permanent trespass [Carbine v. Meyer (1954) 126 Cal. App. 2d 386, 390-391, 272 P.2d 849] . The courts are inclined to resolve any doubts as to the permanency of the trespass in favor of the right to successive actions [Carbine v. Meyer (1954) 126 Cal. App. 2d 386, 390, 272 P.2d 849] .

§ 550.21 Compensatory Damages

[1] Statutory Authority

Compensation for the damages resulting from the tort of trespass is governed by Civ. Code § 3333 [Linforth v. San Francisco Gas & Elec. Co. (1909) 156 Cal. 58, 62, 63, 103 P. 320] . Civ. Code § 3333 provides that the measure of damages for the breach of an obligation not arising from contract, except when otherwise expressly provided by the Civil Code, is the amount that will compensate for all the detriment proximately caused, whether it could have been anticipated or not [Civ. Code § 3333].

The detriment caused by the wrongful occupation of real property, in cases not embraced by the statutes governing eminent domain, holdover tenant, or unlawful detainer, is deemed to include the value of the use of the property for the time of occupation, not exceeding five years next preceding the commencement of the action to enforce the right to damages, the reasonable cost of repair or restoration of the property to its original condition, and the costs of recovering possession [Civ. Code § 3334(a)]. For these purposes, the value of the use of the property is the greater of either: (1) the reasonable rental value of that property, or (2) the benefits obtained by the person wrongfully occupying the property by reason of that wrongful occupation [Civ. Code § 3334(b)]. However, if the wrongful occupation of real property is the result of a mistake of fact by the wrongful occupier, the value of the use of the property is deemed to be the reasonable rental value of the property [Civ. Code § 3334(c)]. Constructive notice of the true facts to a defendant who lacks actual notice is sufficient to defeat a finding that defendant acted under a mistake of fact [Bailey v. Outdoor Media Group (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 778, 794, 66 Cal. Rptr. 3d 322 (lis pendens put defendant on constructive notice as to true status of right to leasehold)]. Restoration costs may be recovered under Civ. Code § 3334 only if restoration is possible and economically feasible in light of all the competing interests [Starrh & Starrh Cotton Growers v. Aera Energy LLC (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 583, 599-602, 63 Cal. Rptr. 3d 165] .

For purposes of determining the benefits obtained by the person wrongfully occupying the property under Civ. Code § 3334(b), "benefits" are not obtained unless the trespass provided the trespasser with a financial or business advantage [Watson Land Co. v. Shell Oil Co. (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 69, 77, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 343] . The avoidance of remediation costs by a trespasser who dumps some material on the property cannot be recovered as a "benefit obtained" by the trespasser, although the remediationcosts themselves can be recovered under Civ. Code § 3334(a), which allows recovery for the reasonable cost of repair or restoration [Watson Land Co. v. Shell Oil Co. (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 69, 78, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 343] . Profits obtained by the trespasser by virtue of the decision to trespass may be recovered as a "benefit obtained," although the plaintiff must provide evidence specifically linking the profits to the decision to trespass [Starrh & Starrh Cotton Growers v. Aera Energy LLC (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 583, 602-604, 63 Cal. Rptr. 3d 165] . If the defendant presents credible evidence of the expenses incurred, the trial court may offset those amounts against the gross income generated to determine gross profits. However, if the defendant does not present evidence of appropriate expenses, the trial court may award damages based on gross revenue as the benefit obtained by the trespass [Bailey v. Outdoor Media Group (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 778, 788, 66 Cal. Rptr. 3d 322] .

For a further discussion and forms relating to the nature and extent of tort damages, see Ch. 177, Damages . For further discussion of unlawful detainer, see Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions .

[2] Recovery of Prospective Damages

If a trespass is of a permanent nature, the plaintiff may recover all damages, past and prospective, in one action, but when the trespass is temporary in character, the plaintiff may recover only those damages that have accrued up to the time of the commencement of the action, since it is not to be presumed that the trespass will continue [Kornoff v. Kingsburg Cotton Oil Co. (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 265, 269, 288 P.2d 507] .

[3] Measurement

[a] Generally

There is no fixed, inflexible rule for determining the measure of damages for injury to, or destruction of, property; whatever formula is most appropriate to compensate the injured party for the loss sustained in the particular case will be adopted [Heninger v. Dunn (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 858, 862, 162 Cal. Rptr. 104] . An early case described the measure of damages as an amount of money that will fully compensate for all detriment proximately caused [Empire Co. v. Bonanza Co. (1885) 67 Cal. 406, 408, 7 P. 810] . Among the measures used to compensate damages are: the difference in the value of the real property immediately before and immediately after the injury; the cost of making repairs; the loss of use of the property; lost profits; loss of prospective profits; increased operating expenses pending repairs; and present and prospective damages that are the natural, necessary, or reasonable incident of the taking of the property [Frustuck v. City of Fairfax (1963) 212 Cal. App. 2d 345, 367, 28 Cal. Rptr. 357] .

[b] Permanent Versus Temporary Damage

When the injury to real property is permanent, damages are measured by the depreciation in the market value of the property, but when the injury is temporary in character the general measure of damages is the difference in the rental or usable value of the premises before and after the injury [Guttinger v. Calaveras Cement Co. (1951) 105 Cal. App. 2d 382, 387, 233 P.2d 914] .

[c] Cost of Restoration or Depreciation in Value of Real Property

The measure of damages is the cost of restoring the property to its prior condition unless the cost of restoration exceeds the value of the property prior to the trespass, in which case the value of the property is the proper measure [Green v. General Petroleum Corp. (1928) 205 Cal. 328, 336, 270 P. 952 (deposit of debris)]. The value of the use of the premises for the period during which the owner is deprived of use is frequently awarded in addition to the cost of repair [Natural Soda Prod. Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1943) 23 Cal. 2d 193, 201, 143 P.2d 12] . When the plaintiff establishes damages as the depreciation in the value of his or her property caused by acts of the defendant, unless the defendant can show that the cost of restoration would be less than the depreciation in value, depreciation will be the measure of damages [Herzog v. Grosso (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 219, 226, 259 P.2d 429 (destruction of roadway easement by owner of servient tenement)].

Restoration costs may be awarded even though they exceed the decrease in market value if there is a reason personal to the owner for restoring the original condition. Destruction of shade or ornamental trees that were of personal value to the owner comes within the personal reason exception and if a restoration could be achieved at a cost that was not unreasonable in relation to the damage inflicted and the value of the land prior to the trespass, the court should exercise its discretion and award these restoration costs [Heninger v. Dunn (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 858, 863-866, 162 Cal. Rptr. 104] .

The reasonableness of the restoration costs must be decided on a case-by-case basis and cannot be determined through a mechanical comparison of damage awards in other cases [Kelly v. CB&I Constructors, Inc. (2009) 179 Cal. App. 4th 442, 453, 102 Cal. Rptr. 3d 32] . In one case, for example, even though the pre-damage value of the property was estimated at no more than $1.8 million, restoration costs of almost $3 million were upheld on appeal when that was the amount that would be required to allow plaintiff to make the property safe and habitable by his family, and the property was unmarketable in its current condition due to damage caused by the defendant [Kelly v. CB&I Constructors, Inc. (2009) 179 Cal. App. 4th 442, 454, 102 Cal. Rptr. 3d 32] . For a form alleging a personal reason justifying restoration costs, see § 550.45.

If the thing destroyed, although it is part of the realty, has a value that can be accurately ascertained without reference to the soil on which it stands or out of which it grows, the recovery may be the value of the thing thus destroyed or the cost of its repair [Menzies v. Geophysical Serv., Inc. (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 419, 423, 254 P.2d 51 (damage to well)].

[e] Damage to Building

When a building is injured by a trespasser, the measure of damages is the cost of repairing or restoring the building to its former condition if the injury is of a character that this may be done at a reasonable cost, an allowance also being made for loss of rental during the reasonable time required to make these repairs [Linforth v. San Francisco Gas & Elec. Co. (1909) 156 Cal. 58, 62, 63, 103 P. 320] .

[f] Lost Profits

Damages for loss of profits will depend on whether there is a satisfactory basis for estimating what the probable earnings would have been had there been no tort. If there has been operating experience sufficient to permit a reasonable estimate of probable income and expense, damages for loss of prospective profits are awarded [Natural Soda Prod. Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1943) 23 Cal. 2d 193, 199, 143 P.2d 12] .

[g] Other Consequential Damages

Civ. Code § 3333 has been interpreted to hold the trespasser liable for all damages proximately caused by the trespass [Hawthorne v. Siegel (1891) 88 Cal. 159, 163, 25 P. 1114] . A trespasser is liable for all injurious consequences flowing from the trespass which are the natural and proximate result of the trespassing conduct [Duval v. Rowell (1954) 269 P.2d 142] . If the court finds that an intentional trespass occurred, the trespasser is liable for all the consequences,whether or not they were intentional or foreseeable [Meyer v. Pacific Employers Ins. Co. (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 321, 326, 43 Cal. Rptr. 542] . As long as there is factual support for the injuries, there is considerable discretion allowed in fixing the amount of consequential damages [Skupen v. Imperial Irrigation Dist. (1939) 33 Cal. App. 2d 392, 395, 91 P.2d 910] .

[h] Mental Distress

Regardless of whether the occupant of land has sustained physical injury, the occupant may recover damages for the discomfort and annoyance of the occupant and the members of the occupant's family and for mental suffering occasioned by fear for the safety of the occupant and his or her family when such discomfort or suffering has been proximately caused by a trespass [Kornoff v. Kingsburg Cotton Oil Co. (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 265, 272-275, 288 P.2d 507 ; Acadia, Cal., Ltd. v. Herbert (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 328, 337, 5 Cal. Rptr. 686] .

Annoyance and discomfort damages intended to compensate a plaintiff for the loss of peaceful occupation and enjoyment of real property may only be awarded to a plaintiff who was an occupant, that is, a resident on the property, at the time the damage was sustained. A person who was merely storing personal property on the premises is not entitled to damages for annoyance and discomfort [Kelly v. CB&I Constructors, Inc. (2009) 179 Cal. App. 4th 442, 456-459, 102 Cal. Rptr. 3d 32] .

A tort, such as trespass, committed by mistake, in the assertion of a supposed right, or without any wrong intentions, and without such recklessness as evinces malice or a conscious disregard of the rights of others, does not warrant punitive damages [Lyles v. Perrin (1897) 119 Cal. 264, 266, 51 P. 332 ; Roth v. Shell Oil Co. (1960) 185 Cal. App. 2d 676, 682, 8 Cal. Rptr. 514] . An award of exemplary damages cannot be based on mere speculation; it depends instead on a definite showing of a willingness to vex, harass, or injure consistent with a wrongful intent to injure [Wolfsen v. Hathaway (1948) 32 Cal. 2d 632, 650, 198 P.2d 1 , disapproved on other grounds, Flores v. Arroyo (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 492, 15 Cal. Rptr. 87, 364 P.2d 263 ; Roth v. Shell Oil Co. (1960) 185 Cal. App. 2d 676, 682, 8 Cal. Rptr. 514] .

For example, exemplary damages were held to be appropriate in a trespass action when the defendant had painted out advertising signs and harassed the plaintiff by soliciting actions by the district attorney and the city planning commission, all of which were dismissed [Brenner v. Haley (1960) 185 Cal. App. 2d 183, 188, 8 Cal. Rptr. 224] . Exemplary damages were also properly awarded when the defendant had bulldozed and removed roadbed over which the plaintiff had the right to travel and for which a temporary restraining order forbidding interference had been obtained [Donnell v. Bisso Bros. (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 38, 45, 88 Cal. Rptr. 645] . For a further discussion of exemplary damages and when they are available, see Ch. 177, Damages .

Chapter 550 TRESPASS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

48-550 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 550.22

§ 550.22 Defenses

[a] Express

Trespass involves an unauthorized entry. When there is a consensual entry, there is no tort, because lack of consent is an element of the wrong [Civic W. Corp. v. Zila Indus., Inc. (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 1, 16-17, 135 Cal. Rptr. 915] . There is no specified form of consent required. For an affirmative defense based on express consent, see § 550.49.

[b] Consent Included in Conditional Sale Contract

A clause in a conditional sale contract allowing the seller to take possession of equipment by process of law or otherwise has been deemed a consent to enter the premises for the purposes of repossession [Williams v. General Elec. Credit Corp. (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 527, 532-533, 323 P.2d 1046] . Consent obtained in this manner may be subject to constitutional limitations, however, since prejudgment replevin statutes which allowed a deprivation of property without a hearing prior to repossession have been held invalid [Fuentes v. Shevin (1972) 407 U.S. 67, 96, 92 S. Ct. 1983, 32 L. Ed. 2d 556] .

[c] Implied Consent

Every person, by implication invites others to come to his or her house as they may have proper occasion either of business or courtesy or information or other purpose. Custom must determine what the limit is of that implied invitation [Duval v. Rowell (1954) 269 P.2d 142] . The circumstances and habits of the vicinity may imply an invitation to enter. For example, an invitation was implied when the owner of the only telephone within 12 miles, who was in the habit of delivering messages to people, entered the premises to deliver a message [Duval v. Rowell (1954) 269 P.2d 142] . For an affirmative defense based on implied consent, see § 550.50.

[d] Exceeding Limited Consent

A trespass may occur if the person entering pursuant to a limited consent proceeds to exceed those limits by divergent conduct on the land of another. A conditional or restricted consent to enter land creates a privilege to do so only in so far as the condition or restriction is complied with [Civic W. Corp. v. Zila Indus., Inc. (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 1, 17, 135 Cal. Rptr. 915] . Consent may be limited as to purpose or place. A consent for entry to secure collateral and sell it was exceeded when the defendantentered the premises, ejected the employees, and changed the locks [Civic W. Corp. v. Zila Indus., Inc. (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 1, 17, 135 Cal. Rptr. 915] . Another example of a consent which was exceeded was the dumping of 5,000 cubic yards of earth and rocks over the entire unoccupied portion of a lot after viewing a sign for "dirt wanted--dump on fill" [Hancock v. George R. Curtis Paving Co. (1931) 114 Cal. App. 624, 627, 300 P. 65] .

Trespass may also result by exceeding a consent that is limited as to time. The trespass occurs the moment the privilege is abused or any act hostile to the interests of the owner is committed. For example, one who continued to graze sheep on property after the date given to remove them was a trespasser [Rogers v. Duhart (1893) 97 Cal. 500, 506] .

One is privileged to enter and remain on land in the possession of another if it reasonably appears to be necessary to prevent serious harm to the land or chattels of the other party, unless the actor has reason to know that the one for whose benefit the actor enters is unwilling that he or she shall take such action [People v. Parra (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 729, 732-733, 106 Cal. Rptr. 531] . Necessity often justifies an action that would otherwise constitute a trespass, as where the act is prompted by the motive of preserving life or property and reasonably appears to the actor to be necessary for that purpose [People v. Roberts (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 374, 377, 303 P.2d 721] . Although both Parra and Roberts involved entry by police officers, nothing in the language used in those cases indicated that the necessity privilege is limited to police officers. An early case involved a mayor who trespassed, acting in good faith and under necessity, to prevent the spread of fire. In finding him not liable, the court spoke in general terms and in no way based its holdings on public authority, rather it was the emergency nature of the situation that was determinative [Surocco v. Geary (1853) 3 Cal. 69, 73 , 58 Amer. Dec. 385].

Restatement (Second) of Torts divides necessity into two parts: public (threat to the general public) and private (threat to an individual). People v. Parra (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 729, 732-733, 106 Cal. Rptr. 531 , uses language parallel to Restatement (Second) of Torts § 197, which is the private necessity provision. The public necessity provision is broader in its scope, and contains no language regarding reasonableness in time or manner or unwilling beneficiary, but subjects the actor to liability for any harm done [Restatement (Second) of Torts §§ 196, 197].

[3] Entry Under Color of Authority

The entry of a law enforcement officer on the land of another in the lawful discharge of his or her duties, as a general rule, is not wrongful and, therefore, not actionable as a trespass [Uptown Enters. v. Strand (1961) 195 Cal. App. 2d 45, 52, 15 Cal. Rptr. 486] . A good faith and reasonable belief that there is a felon on the premises is recognized as a defense to a trespass action for entry without a warrant [Williams v. Gould (9th Cir. 1973) 486 F.2d 547, 548] . Entry to business premises for the purpose of harassing the owner, giving the business a bad reputation, compelling the owner to change a lawful business policy, or unjustifiably interfering with the business relations between the owner and patrons is unauthorized, wrongful, and actionable as a trespass [Uptown Enters. v. Strand (1961) 195 Cal. App. 2d 45, 52, 15 Cal. Rptr. 486] .

[4] Entry to Abate Nuisance

If a private nuisance results from a mere omission of the wrongdoer, and cannot be abated without entering on the land, reasonable notice must be given to the wrongdoer before entering to abate it [Civ. Code § 3503]. Although the statute does not state that the entry to abate is privileged, and no trespass will occur from so doing, this interpretation appears logical, and is supported by Restatement (Second) of Torts § 201. Notice will be deemed given in a case of continuing, visible public nuisance, and no specific notice to abate is necessary when there have been protests and notices before the suit is commenced [City of Turlock v. Bristow (1930) 103 Cal. App. 750, 755-756, 284 P. 962 (irrigation ditch was overgrown and obstructed flow of water)].

[5] Entry to Care for Animal

In case any domestic animal is at any time impounded and continues to be without necessary food and water for more than 12 consecutive hours, it is lawful for any person, as may be necessary, to enter into and on any area in which the animal is confined and supply it with necessary food and water as long as it remains so confined. This person is not liable for the entry [Penal Code § 597e].

[6] Entry by Landlord to Enforce Liens

Keepers of furnished and unfurnished apartment houses, apartments, cottages, or bungalow courts have a lien on the baggage and other property belonging to their tenants for the proper charges due from these tenants or guests. The lien may be enforced only after final judgment, but during the pendency of the proceeding, the landlord may take possession of the baggage and property on a court order. On this order, the landlord shall have the right to enter peaceably the quarters used by the tenant without liability, including any possible claim of liability for conversion, trespass, or forcible entry [Civ. Code § 1861a].

[7] Immunity of Decedent's Personal Representative

A personal representative who in good faith takes into possession real or personal property, and reasonably believes that the property is part of the decedent's estate, is neither criminally nor civilly liable for doing so [Prob. Code § 9651(a)]. However, the personal representative must make reasonable efforts to determine the true nature of and title to the property taken into possession [Prob. Code § 9651(b)].

During his or her possession, the personal representative is entitled to receive all rents, issues, and profits of the property. If the personal representative determines later that the property is not part of the decedent's estate, the personal representative must deliver the property, or cause it to be delivered, to the person legally entitled to it, together with all rents, issues, and profits of the property received by the personal representative, less any expenses incurred in protecting and maintaining the property and in collecting the rents, issues, and profits. The personal representative may request court approval before delivering the property [Prob. Code § 9651(c)].

For a form of affirmative defense based on Prob. Code § 9651, see Ch. 150, Conversion .

The California Constitution [Cal. Const., art. I, §§ 2, 3] guarantees the right of free speech and prohibits any law abridging this right. This right may be exercised in any public forum, which includes not only public streets and shopping areas, but also large private shopping centers that are open to the public and are the functional equivalent of the traditional town center. Therefore, persons who engage in such constitutionally protected free speech activities as leafletting, picketing, or soliciting signatures on petitions are not trespassing if their activities occur in a public forum, are orderly and reasonable, and do not interfere with normal business operations [see Robins v. Pruneyard Shopping Ctr. (1979) 23 Cal.3d 899, 910-911, 153 Cal. Rptr. 854, 592 P.2d 341 , aff'd, 447 U.S. 74, 81, 100 S. Ct. 2035, 64 L. Ed. 2d 741 (1980)] .

However, public forums do not include the property of individual homeowners or retail establishments that are more modest than large suburban shopping malls [Robins v. Pruneyard Shopping Ctr. (1979) 23 Cal.3d 899, 910, 153 Cal. Rptr. 854, 592 P.2d 341 , aff'd, 447 U.S. 74, 81, 100 S. Ct. 2035, 64 L. Ed. 2d 741 (1980)] . Private parking areas of relatively small medical facilities are not the equivalent of a public forum because the medical center's tenants offer services only to specific clientele, rather than inviting members of the public to congregate, relax, seek out entertainment, browse, and shop. Moreover, unlike even a modest retail establishment, medical centers serve mainly prearranged clientele, are not fully open to the local community, and do not provide services that are essential to all community members. Consequently, the owners and the tenants of this type of private property may exclude anti-abortion picketers, as trespassers, from the parking areas [Allred v. Harris (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1386, 1391-1392, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 530 ; see also Planned Parenthood v. Wilson (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1662, 1668, 286 Cal. Rptr. 427 ; Allred v. Shawley (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1489, 1501-1502, 284 Cal. Rptr. 140] .

[9] Entry by Tenants' Rights Activist

A person entering onto residential real property, on the occupant's invitation, during reasonable hours or because of emergency circumstances, for the purpose of providing information regarding tenants' rights or to participate in a tenants' association, is not liable in any criminal or civil action for trespass [Civ. Code § 1942.6].

48-550 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 550.32

§ 550.32 Decisions

[1] Abortion Clinic

Injunction against anti-abortion picketers trespassing in private parking area of small medical center as proper because property was not public forum. Allred v. Harris (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1386, 1391-1392, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 530

[2] Adjoining Land

Defendant's compliance with zoning code does not preclude recovery for damages for trespassory invasions of another's property caused by manufacturing or commercial use. Kornoff v. Kingsburg Cotton Oil Co. (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 265, 271, 288 P.2d 507 ; Roberts v. Permanente Corp. (1961) 188 Cal. App. 2d 526, 529, 10 Cal. Rptr. 519

Adjoining landowner injured by encroaching tree limbs and roots allowed to cut off intruding parts or to sue for damages and abatement, but not allowed to trespass and cut down trees. Fick v. Nilson (1950) 98 Cal. App. 2d 683, 685, 220 P.2d 752

Vibrations from defendant's plant operations causing injuries to nearby residences constitutes cause of action for invasion of property. McNeill v. Redington (1944) 67 Cal. App. 2d 315, 319, 154 P.2d 428

[3] Consent

Dumping of oil and waste products from oil wells by lessee in lease for mining and removing oil and gas is continuing trespass without right, giving rise to separate and successive causes of action. Bourdieu v. Seaboard Oil Corp. (1940) 38 Cal. App. 2d 11, 21-22, 100 P.2d 528

[4] Damages

[a] Generally

Civ. Code § 2224 (involuntary trust) is applicable to cases of trespass; imposition of constructive trust on proceeds of trespass is allowed when trespasser removes something of value from land on which defendant trespassed. Santa Clarita Water Co. v. Lyons (1984) 161 Cal. App. 3d 450, 460-463, 207 Cal. Rptr. 698

Trespass and injury to property is not inextricably linked; both actionable injury to real property with no trespass on it and actionable trespass on real property without injury to property as possible. Polin v. Chung Cho (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 673, 676, 87 Cal. Rptr. 591

Jury verdict finding trespass but no damages, either nominal or compensatory, is incomplete verdict and judgment thereon is nullity; nominal damages as implied in trespass and finding trespass without any damages is inconsistent. Costerisan v. Melendy (1967) 255 Cal. App. 2d 57, 60, 62 Cal. Rptr. 800

[b] Compensatory

Discomfort and annoyance suffered by plaintiffs is injury directly and proximately caused by defendant's invasion in form of fumes, dust, and waste material. Kornoff v. Kingsburg Cotton Oil Co. (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 265, 272, 288 P.2d 507

Costs of reasonable efforts in avoiding and preventing further injuries from trespass is recoverable. Pac. Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Granite Constr. Co. (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 765, 769, 37 Cal. Rptr. 727

Award of compensatory damages remains intact and not reversible by the appellate court unless award suggests at first blush, passion, prejudice, or corruption on part of jury. Brenner v. Haley (1960) 185 Cal. App. 2d 183, 188, 8 Cal. Rptr. 224

Rental value of premises is measure of damages in case of trespass by lessee leaving restaurant equipment after expiration of lease. Herond v. Bonsall (1943) 60 Cal. App. 2d 152, 156

Person owning land on which soil was dumped is entitled to recover costs of removal even if value of land was not affected by trespass. Dandoy v. Oswald Bros. Paving Co. (1931) 113 Cal. App. 570, 572

Costs of restoration is recoverable even if plaintiff has not restored land to its prior condition. Dandoy v. Oswald Bros. Paving Co. (1931) 113 Cal. App. 570, 572

Damages for trespass and destruction of pasturage used for grazing, when grass cannot be severed and marketed separately from land, is measured by reasonable rental value. Miller & Lux Inc. v. Pinelli (1927) 84 Cal. App. 42, 51

Damages from trespass and destruction of crops is measured by market value of estimated crop, taking into consideration condition of maturity of product at time of injury. Miller & Lux Inc. v. Pinelli (1927) 84 Cal. App. 42, 47

[c] Mental Distress

Damages for mental suffering caused by fear for safety of family members and visitors after defendant caused grade of easement road to be dangerously steepened is recoverable in action for trespass. Herzog v. Grosso (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 219, 225-226, 259 P.2d 429

[d] Nominal Damages

Nominal damages are presumed for every trespass on real property. Empire Co. v. Bonanza Co. (1885) 67 Cal. 406, 409, 7 P. 810

Trespass without injury justifies only nominal damages. Cornell v. Sennes (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 126, 136, 95 Cal. Rptr. 728

[e] Punitive

Officer has no authority to break into dwelling for service of process and as able to be liable for trespass for doing so; innocent superior is not responsible for malice of officer and not liable for punitive damages unless he or she has ratified conduct of officer. Foley v. Martin (1904) 142 Cal. 256, 260-261

Malice supporting punitive damages found when trespasser acted with unmistakably conscious disregard for property rights of another by persisting in trespassing activities after being told to desist, building permanent improvements after being warned that they would be encroachments, destroying survey monument, and repeatedly asserting right to do as he wished on other's land. Goshgarian v. George (1984) 161 Cal. App. 3d 1214, 1224-1226, 208 Cal. Rptr. 321 (amount of punitive damages reduced on appeal due to jury passion and prejudice)

Punitive damages awardable if trespass is committed from wanton or malicious motives, or reckless disregard of rights of others, or under circumstances of great hardship or oppression. Krieger v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 137, 148, 173 Cal. Rptr. 751 ; Haun v. Hyman (1963) 223 Cal. App. 2d 615, 620

Punitive damages in action for trespass justified by evidence showing that defendant repainted gasoline pumps, painted out company colors on building, and removed lighting without any notice or any communication withplaintiffs. Roth v. Shell Oil Co. (1960) 185 Cal. App. 2d 676, 683, 8 Cal. Rptr. 514

Punitive damages in action for trespass justified by evidence showing that plaintiff had posted three "no trespassing" signs with his name and address on property, that defendants entered without permission and maintained powder magazine within 200 feet of plaintiff's cabin, and injured his personal property. Smpardos v. Piombo Constr. Co. (1952) 111 Cal. App. 2d 415, 420-423, 244 P.2d 435

[5] Defenses

[a] Consent

Consent for landlord to enter and make necessary repairs does not allow landlord to make extensive alterations requiring much longer time; landlord's exceeding consent is act of trespass. Dwyer v. Carroll (1890) 86 Cal. 298, 302-304, 24 P. 1015

Peaceable entry on land with consent of owner and possessor is not trespass. Girard v. Ball (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 772, 788, 178 Cal. Rptr. 406

Entry to repossess personal property allowed by contract is consensual entry, not trespass. Civic W. Corp. v. Zila Indus., Inc. (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 1, 17, 135 Cal. Rptr. 915

Entry of premises to repossess equipment sold without permission or consent of the buyer is trespass; unauthorized entry is trespass even if made to effect valid recovery of personal property. Cornell v. Sennes (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 126, 136, 95 Cal. Rptr. 728

Agreement to neighbor's construction of improvement that would incidentally result in detriment to both properties and violation of Health and Safety Code is implied consent to trespass by building additional encroachment to remedy detrimental condition. Strodel v. Wilcox (1955) 137 Cal. App. 2d 781, 783-786, 291 P.2d 95

Revoking of temporary permit of occupation withdraws consent to occupation and continued occupation is trespass. Red Bluff v. Southern Pac. Co. (1919) 44 Cal. App. 667, 674

[b] Necessity

Necessity justifies action which would otherwise be trespass; necessity is act which reasonably appears necessary for preserving life or property. People v. Roberts (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 374, 377, 303 P.2d 721 ; People v. Neth (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 883, 888, 86 Cal. Rptr. 12

[c] No Trespass

Actions by immigration officers in approaching plaintiff's ranch, calling to workers, asking them if they were in country illegally, and arresting them without entering plaintiff's land is not even theoretical trespass. Taylor v. Fine (S.D. Cal. 1953) 115 F. Supp. 68, 70

Coowner of real property is not liable for trespass committed by other coowner, unless actively participating in or ratifying it. Daly v. Smith (1963) 220 Cal. App. 2d 592, 604, 33 Cal. Rptr. 920

[6] Easements

Owner of servient tenement allowed to make any use of land that does not interfere unreasonably with easement; interference with use of easement is actionable. Herzog v. Grosso (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 219, 224-225, 259 P.2d 429

[7] Extrahazardous Activity

Construction of garage in apartment house without evidence of unusual methods is not extrahazardous activity for which actor may be liable in trespass. Gallin v. Poulou (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 638, 645, 295 P.2d 958

Blasting in populated areas is ultrahazardous activity for which actor is held strictly liable in damages. Alonso v. Hills (1950) 95 Cal. App. 2d 778, 783, 214 P.2d 50

Blasting in remote areas where there is little danger of injury is not ultrahazardous activity and negligence or tortious intent must be shown before actor will be held liable. Alonso v. Hills (1950) 95 Cal. App. 2d 778, 783, 214 P.2d 50

[8] Intent to Trespass

Intentional character of actions as essential element of trespass; intent to cause damage irrelevant. Meyer v. Pacific Employers Ins. Co. (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 321, 326, 43 Cal. Rptr. 542

Using land in way that causes intrusion of flood waters and sediment on land of others is trespass for which defendant is liable only if it is intentional, result of recklessness or negligence, or resulting from ultrahazardous activity. Dufour v. Henry J. Kaiser Co. (1963) 215 Cal. App. 2d 26, 30, 29 Cal. Rptr. 871

Doing of act which will to substantial certainty result in entry of foreign matter on another's land is sufficient intent for trespass. Roberts v. Permanente Corp. (1961) 188 Cal. App. 2d 526, 530-531, 10 Cal. Rptr. 519

Mistake in location of boundary line is not relieving actor of liability for trespass. Youdall v. Kaufman (1921) 55 Cal. App. 363, 367

Possessor with right to possession is allowed to use reasonable means to repel trespasser. Jensen v. Shadburne (1956) 145 Cal. App. 2d 624, 626-627, 302 P.2d 824

[10] Statute of Limitations

Action for trespass is required to be brought within three years of act. Robinson v. Southern Cal. Ry. Co. (1900) 129 Cal. 8, 11, 61 P. 947 ; Gale v. McDaniel (1887) 72 Cal. 334, 335, 13 P. 871

Code Civ. Proc. § 338(b) (statute of limitations for trespass or injury to real property) applies to acts of trespass that do not involve taking or damaging private property for public use; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 318 and 319 (time limitations for action for possession or title) applies when inverse condemnation or taking or damaging valuable property right for public use occurs. Garden Water Corp. v. Fambrough (1966) 245 Cal. App. 2d 324, 328, 53 Cal. Rptr. 862 ; Frustuck v. City of Fairfax (1963) 212 Cal. App. 2d 345, 374, 28 Cal. Rptr. 357

Encroachment of permanent building is permanent trespass, and action for all damages suffered, past as well as prospective, must be brought within three years of time of trespass. Tracy v. Ferrera (1956) 144 Cal. App. 2d 827, 828, 301 P.2d 905 ; Bertram v. Orlando (1951) 102 Cal. App. 2d 506, 509, 227 P.2d 894

Successive entries on different parcels of land when original entry does not affect all land constitutes new and different cause of action for damages. Bourdieu v. Seaboard Oil Corp. (1940) 38 Cal. App. 2d 11, 17-20, 100 P.2d 528

[11] Trespass Above Land

Entry into immediate reaches of airspace next to land and entry that is substantial interference with owner's actual use and enjoyment of land are both necessary to support a claim of trespass resulting from flight in airspace above another's land. Drennen v. County of Ventura (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 84, 87-88, 112 Cal. Rptr. 907

Temporary invasion of airspace by aircraft over land of another is privileged as long as it does not unreasonably interfere with persons or property on land. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. v. Peterson (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 434, 438, 75 Cal. Rptr. 673 ; Sneed v. County of Riverside (1963) 218 Cal. App. 2d 205, 210, 32 Cal. Rptr. 318

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff is, and at all times herein mentioned was, the _____ [specify proprietary interest, e.g., owner] and in possession of certain real property consisting of land [and _____ (describe improvements, if any, e.g., a single family house)] at _____ [address], _____ County, California, and more particularly described as follows: _____ [give legal description].

[2. Plaintiff is ignorant of the true names and capacities of defendants sued herein as DOES 1-_____, inclusive, and therefore sues these defendants by such fictitious names. Plaintiff will amend this complaint to allege their true names and capacities when ascertained. (Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of the fictitiously named defendants is responsible in some manner for the occurrences herein alleged, and that plaintiff's injuries as herein alleged were proximately caused by such defendants.)]

[3. (Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that) (A)t all times herein mentioned, each of the defendants was the agent of each of the remaining defendants, and in doing the things hereinafter alleged, was acting within the course and scope of such agency and with the permission and consent of his/her codefendants.]

4. On or about _____ [date], [and continuing to the present time], defendant[s, and each of them] without plaintiff's consent _____ [specify the act of trespass, e.g., entered the above described land of which plaintiff is the owner and possessor, leveled a portion of the premises, constructed a powder magazine 200 feet from plaintiff's dwelling, and used the premises for general construction purposes].

5. As a proximate result of the _____ [specify trespassory conduct, e.g., defendant's entry onto the plaintiff's land, leveling of a portion of the premises, construction of a powder magazine 200 feet from plaintiff's dwelling, and use of the premises for general construction purposes], _____ [specify injury and appropriate measure of damages, e.g., plaintiff's property was damaged to such an extent that repairs were necessary to restore the land (and _____ (describe improvements, if any, e.g., a single family house) to _____ (its or their) prior condition all to plaintiff's damage in the sum of $_____)].

[7. As a further proximate result of the _____ (specify trespassory conduct, e.g., defendant's entry onto plaintiff's land, maintenance of a construction headquarters there, construction and maintenance of a powder magazine 200 feet from plaintiff's dwelling), _____ (allege any special damages, e.g., plaintiff has incurred, and will continue to incur, medical and related expenses.)]

[8. The aforementioned acts of the defendant were willful and _____ (oppressive or fraudulent or malicious or any combination thereof) in that _____ (allege facts indicating presence of oppression, fraud, malice, or any combination thereof, e.g., defendant constructed and maintained the powder magazine 200 feet from plaintiff's dwelling with knowledge that plaintiff resided there, and despite plaintiff's warnings that the defendant was trespassing, and in conscious disregard of plaintiff's physical safety and mental well being). Plaintiff is therefore entitled to punitive damages.]

[9. Defendant's wrongful conduct _____ (describe conduct, e.g., in maintaining the powder magazine construction site), unless and until enjoined and restrained by order of this court, will _____ (specify particular facts establishing grounds for preliminary injunctive relief, e.g., causegreat and irreparable injury through the ongoing injury to the property and will deprive plaintiff of peace of mind and a safe and secure dwelling).]

[10. Plaintiff has no adequate remedy at law for the injuries _____ (currently being suffered or which are threatened) in that _____ (specify any additional facts tending to show grounds for permanent injunctive relief, e.g., defendant will continue to maintain the powder magazine and construction site on plaintiff's land unless restrained and plaintiff would be required to maintain a multiplicity of judicial proceedings to protect his interests.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant[s, and each of them,] as follows:

1. For general damages for property damage in the sum of $_____;

[2. For general damages for _____ (personal injury and/or mental distress) according to proof;]

[3. For special damages _____ (specify, e.g., for medical and related expenses) according to proof;]

[4. For punitive damages;]

[5. For an order requiring defendant to show cause, if he/she has any, why he/she should not be enjoined as hereinafter set forth, during the pendency of this action;]

[6. For a temporary restraining order, a preliminary injunction, and a permanent injunction, all requiring defendant and his/her agents, servants, and employees, and all persons acting under, in concert with, or for him/her:

a. To refrain from _____ (specify each of the acts, courses of conduct, and conditions defendants are to be prohibited from doing, commencing, continuing, or maintaining, e.g., continuing to trespass on plaintiff's land and from maintaining a powder magazine or construction headquarters thereon);

b. To _____ (specify each of the acts, courses of conduct, and conditions defendants are to be commanded to do or undertake, e.g., remove the powder magazine and construction headquarters from plaintiff's property and restore the property to its original condition prior to the entrance of defendant);]

7. For costs of suit herein incurred;

[2] Use of Form

This form is a general form of complaint for use by a plaintiff who is seeking damages for trespass to real property and can be used to obtain preliminary and permanent injunctive relief as well [see Civ. Code §§ 3294, 3333; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 527(a)]. An action in trespass may be brought by the person in possession, whether or not that person is the owner [Williams v. Goodwin (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 496, 508, 116 Cal. Rptr. 200 (resident watchman's action in trespass for personal injuries caused by trespassing bull was proper); see § 550.19[2]]. It is not clear, however, to what extent a possessor who is not the owner may recover for damages to the real property, as opposed to personal injury caused by the trespass. Actionable trespass may be based on the defendant's entry or on his or her causing another person or foreign matter to enter on the property, but there will be no liability unless the trespass is intentional, the result of recklessness or negligence, or the result of engaging in an extrahazardous activity [see Gallin v. Poulou (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 638, 645, 295 P.2d 958 ; for a form alleging trespass by causing the entry of foreign matter, see § 550.46].

With appropriate modifications, this form can be used in actions seeking a variety of damages and forms of relief. When the trespass involves occupation of the land, the plaintiff can sue for damages, or in ejectment and have a judgment of ouster and damages, or for an injunction to restrain the continued occupation [Slater v. Shell Oil Co. (1943) 58 Cal. App. 2d 864, 869, 137 P.2d 713 ; see § 550.19[3]].

The form can include a request for damages to a building or other improvement on the land. If a business is involved, damages may include lost profits [Natural Soda Prod. Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1943) 23 Cal. 2d 193, 199, 143 P.2d 12 ; see § 550.21]. This form is adapted from the fact situation in Smpardos v. Piombo Constr. Co. (1952) 111 Cal. App. 2d 415, 244 P.2d 435 .

[3] Allegations

A complaint for damages for trespass must allege facts showing the following:

- Plaintiff's possession of the real property and a description of the real property [Lightner Mining Co. v. Lane (1911) 161 Cal. 689, 694-695, 120 P. 771 ; Williams v. Goodwin (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 496, 509, 116 Cal. Rptr. 200] .

- The nature and circumstances of the trespass [Gomez v. Reed (1918) 178 Cal. 759, 763, 174 P. 658] .

- The damages proximately caused by the trespass [Gomez v. Reed (1918) 178 Cal. 759, 763, 174 P. 658] .

This complaint alleges (1) facts showing plaintiff's protectible right or interest (Paragraph 1) [see Lightner Mining Co. v. Lane (1911) 161 Cal. 689, 694-695, 120 P. 771 ; see § 550.19[2]], (2) the actions by the defendant constituting a trespass on the plaintiff's property (Paragraph 4) [see Wilson v. Interlake Steel Co. (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 229, 233, 185 Cal. Rptr. 280, 649 P.2d 922] , and (3) damages proximately caused by the defendant's trespass (Paragraph 5) [see Civ. Code § 3333].

The complaint includes optional paragraphs for use to allege (1) fictitious names of defendants (Paragraph 2) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 474; see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used], and (2) the agency relationship of defendants (Paragraph 3) [see Ch. 427, Principal and Agent].

Optional paragraphs are also included to allege (1) that plaintiff suffered personal injury or mental distress or both as a result of the trespass (Paragraph 6) [see Acadia, Cal., Ltd. v. Herbert (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 328, 337, 5 Cal. Rptr. 686 ; see Ch. 362, Mental Suffering and Emotional Distress], (2) special damages (Paragraph 7), and (3) facts showing that punitive damages are appropriate (Paragraph 8) [see Civ. Code § 3294].

Optional paragraphs for use to obtain injunctive relief allege (1) facts to support preliminary injunctive relief (Paragraph 9) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a); E.H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1] , and (2) any additional facts necessary to support permanent injunctive relief (Paragraph 10) [see Civ. Code § 3422; Code Civ. Proc. § 526; see Ch. 303, Injunctions].

In an action to recover damages for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

Otherwise, the amounts claimed as damages for anything other than personal injury or wrongful death (for example, property damage) must be alleged [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)] or an equivalent statement must be included, for example, a statement that the damages for a particular loss or harm sustained [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282] are not known and that leave will be sought to amend the complaint to state the exact amount when ascertained. If this is done, counsel must remember to seek leave to amend the complaint to so state before judgment.

No claim for punitive damages may state an amount sought regardless of the nature of the case [Civ. Code § 3295(e)].

For discussion of and forms for requesting and stating the amount of damages sought when they are not stated in the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.11, 425.115], see Ch. 177, Damages , and Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments .

Verification [see Code Civ. Proc. § 446] is required if plaintiff seeks a temporary restraining order or a preliminary injunction on a complaint instead of on affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)]. Otherwise, verification of a complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)], but verification will require any answer to be verified in an unlimited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude the defendant from using a general denial in an unlimited civil case, and will preclude a general denial in a limited civil case if the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 26, Answers .

A complaint seeking preliminary injunctive relief must be either verified or accompanied by affidavits (or declarations under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) in support of the allegations of the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)]. If relying on a verified complaint instead of affidavits (or declarations), counsel must plead evidentiary facts that would entitle plaintiff to the relief sought [see E.H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1 ; San Juan Gold Co. v. San Juan Ridge Mut. Water Ass'n (1939) 34 Cal. App. 2d 159, 174, 93 P.2d 582] . Although a court may issue temporary restraining orders and preliminary injunctions in a limited civil case, if permanent injunctive relief is sought, the action is classified as an unlimited civil case [see Cal. Const. art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85(b), 86(a)(8)]. For discussion, a procedural checklist, and additional forms necessary in order to obtain a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

The proper party plaintiff in an action for trespass to real property is the person in actual possession. No averment of title in the plaintiff is necessary [Lightner Mining Co. v. Lane (1911) 161 Cal. 689, 694-695, 120 P.771 ; Smith v. Cap Concrete, Inc. (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 769, 774, 184 Cal. Rptr. 308 ; see Allen v. McMillion (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 211, 218-219, 147 Cal. Rptr. 77 (plaintiff in wrongful, peaceable possession may recover nominal damages against the owner for trespass)]. If the complaint alleges only plaintiff's ownership or actual possession or right of possession and no more, the allegation would be good against demurrer and the defendant would be required to set up ownership in itself as a defense. However, if a complaint, in addition to alleging ownership, alleges facts on which the purported ownership rests, the general allegation of ownership becomes a mere conclusion of law and the plaintiff is bound by any weakness in the specific facts alleged [Shusett, Inc. v. Home Sav. & Loan Ass'n (1964) 231 Cal. App. 2d 146, 150, 41 Cal. Rptr. 622] .

For example, a complaint alleging that the plaintiff had actual possession pursuant to a lease, with the lease attached to the complaint, did not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action for trespass because there was no allegation that the plaintiff had performed his obligations under the lease so as to establish his right of possession under it [Nichols v. Drew (1948) 88 Cal. App. 2d 301, 302-303, 198 P.2d 707] . Thus, counsel should exercise care if making any specific allegations as to the plaintiff's right to possession. However, more recent case law suggests that a peaceable but wrongful possessor may be entitled to recover at least nominal damages even against the rightful owner [see Allen v. McMillion (1978) 82 Cal. App. 3d 211, 218-219, 147 Cal. Rptr. 77] . For further discussion of the possessory interest necessary to maintain an action for trespass, see § 550.19[2].

For a discussion of jurisdiction and venue, see § 550.19[1]

[8] Attorney's Fees

If the action is to recover damages to personal or real property resulting from trespassing on lands either under cultivation or intended or used for the raising of livestock, a prevailing plaintiff is entitled to reasonable attorney's fees in addition to other costs, and in addition to any liability for damages imposed by law [Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.9]. An optional prayer for attorney's fees is provided in the form for the purpose of requesting these fees (Paragraph 8).

[2] Use of Form

This form is a general form of complaint for use by a plaintiff to seek damages for trespass to an easement and can be used to obtain preliminary and permanent injunctive relief as well [see Civ. Code § 3333]. This form is adapted from the fact situation in Roth v. Cottrell (1952) 112 Cal. App. 2d 621, 246 P.2d 958 . For further discussion and forms relating to actions for interference with easements, and to quiet title to easements, see Ch. 240, Easements .

For further discussion pertaining to an action for trespass, see § 550.40[2]-[9].

[3] Allegations

The complaint alleges (1) the plaintiff's proprietary interest in, and possession of easement and the land appurtenant to the easement (Paragraphs 1, 3) [see Roth v. Cottrell (1952) 112 Cal. App. 2d 621, 623, 246 P.2d 958] ; (2) the defendant's ownership of the servient tenement (Paragraph 2) [see Ames v. Prodon (1967) 252 Cal. App. 2d 94, 100, 60 Cal. Rptr. 183] ; (3) facts showing the defendant's interference or obstruction with the easement (Paragraph 6); and (4) damages proximately caused by the defendant's trespass (Paragraph 7) [see Civ. Code § 3333].

[4] Verification

A complaint seeking preliminary injunctive relief must be either verified or accompanied by affidavits (or declarations under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) in support of the allegations of the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)]. If relying on a verified complaint instead of affidavits (or declarations), counsel must plead evidentiary facts that would entitle plaintiff tothe relief sought [see E.H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1 ; San Juan Gold Co. v. San Juan Ridge Mut. Water Ass'n (1939) 34 Cal. App. 2d 159, 174, 93 P.2d 582] .Although a court may issue temporary restraining orders and preliminary injunctions in a limited civil case, if permanent injunctive relief is sought, the action is classified as an unlimited civil case [see Cal. Const. art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85(b), 86(a)(8)]. For discussion, a procedural checklist, and additional forms necessary in order to obtain a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

[2] Use of Form

This form is a general form of complaint for use by a plaintiff to seek damages for trespass to real property and damages for the removal and conversion of property from that real property [see Civ. Code § 3333]. It can be used to obtain preliminary and permanent injunctive relief for the trespass in addition to the damages. This form is adapted from the fact situation in Holm Timber Indus. v. Plywood Corp. (1966) 242 Cal. App. 2d 492, 51 Cal. Rptr. 597 . For a further discussion of conversion, see Ch. 150, Conversion .

For further discussion pertaining to an action for trespass, see § 550.40[2]-[9].

[3] Allegations

The first cause of action of the complaint alleges (1) the plaintiff's proprietary interest in, and possession of the real property and improvements and personal property thereon (Paragraph 1); (2) the nature of the defendant's wrongful conduct (Paragraph 4) [see Wilson v. Interlake Steel Co. (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 229, 233, 185 Cal. Rptr. 280, 649 P.2d 922] ; and (3) damages proximately caused by the defendant's trespass (Paragraph 5) [see Civ. Code § 3333].

The second cause of action of the complaint incorporates by reference the paragraphs setting forth the nature of the plaintiff's interest, the wrongful conduct of the defendant, and the optional paragraphs alleging fictitious names, agency, and punitive damages. The second cause of action alleges (1) the defendant's capacity (Paragraph 12) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 395]; (2) the value of the property (Paragraph 13) [see Oakes v. Suelynn Corp. (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 271, 279, 100 Cal. Rptr. 838] ; and (3) the defendant's conversion of the property (Paragraph 14) [see Jordan v. Talbot (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 597, 610, 12 Cal. Rptr. 488, 361 P.2d 20] . It also includes alternate allegations for the measure of damages (Paragraph 15) [see Civ. Code § 3336]; and (2) compensation for the expenditures made in pursuit of the property (Paragraph 16) [see Civ. Code § 3336].

[4] Venue

Actions for trespass to real property are properly held in the county in which the property is located [Code Civ. Proc. §

392]. The residence of the defendant, however, is the proper place for trial in tort actions, including conversion [Haurat v. Superior Court (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 330, 333, 50 Cal. Rptr. 520 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a)]. Thus, when these causes of action are combined, a conflict over the place of venue may result. When a personal cause of action is joined with one that is local in nature, the defendant is entitled to have the proceeding transferred to the county of his or her residence [Peiser v. Mettler (1958) 50 Cal. 2d 594, 605, 328 P.2d 953] . Thus, in drafting the complaint, counsel should be aware of any potential conflict relating to venue and prepare accordingly. For a further discussion of venue, see Ch. 571, Venue .

[5] Damages

The usual measure of damages in a trespass action is the cost to restore the property, although the cases have allowed recovery of a variety of damages [Green v. General Petroleum Corp. (1928) 205 Cal. 328, 336, 270 P. 952 ; for a further discussion of damages in trespass cases, see § 550.21]. The measure of damages for conversion is ordinarily the value of the property converted at the time and place of conversion with interest from that time. The alternative measure is an amount sufficient to indemnify the party injured for the loss that is the natural, reasonable, and proximate result of the wrongful act and that a proper degree of prudence on the plaintiff's part would not have avoided [In re Brian S. (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 523, 530, 181 Cal. Rptr. 778 ; see Civ. Code § 3336]. This alternative measure of damages is appropriate when damages based on the value of the property would be unjust [Myers v. Stephens (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 104, 116, 43 Cal. Rptr. 420] .

[6] Verification

A complaint seeking preliminary injunctive relief must be either verified or accompanied by affidavits (or declarations under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) in support of the allegations of the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)]. If relying on a verified complaint instead of affidavits (or declarations), counsel must plead evidentiary facts that would entitle plaintiff to the relief sought [see E.H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1 ; San Juan Gold Co. v. San Juan Ridge Mut. Water Ass'n (1939) 34 Cal. App. 2d 159, 174, 93 P.2d 582] .Although a court may issue temporary restraining orders and preliminary injunctions in a limited civil case, if permanent injunctive relief is sought, the action is classified as an unlimited civil case [see Cal. Const. art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85(b), 86(a)(8)]. For discussion, a procedural checklist, and additional forms necessary in order to obtain a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

[7] Attorney's Fees

If the action is to recover damages to personal or real property resulting from trespassing on lands either under cultivation or intended or used for the raising of livestock, a prevailing plaintiff is entitled to reasonable attorney's fees in addition to other costs, and in addition to any liability for damages imposed by law [Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.9]. An optional prayer for attorney's fees is provided in the form for the purpose of requesting these fees when appropriate.

This form is a general form of complaint for use by a plaintiff to seek damages for trespass to personal property [see Civ. Code § 3333]. This complaint is adapted from the fact situation in Fresno Air Serv. v. Wood (1965) 232 Cal. App.

2d 801, 43 Cal. Rptr. 276 .

The tort of trespass to personal property is very similar to conversion, although there are important differences which make proper usage of the appropriate tort claim imperative. Trespass to personal property involves intermeddling with the property of another rather than interfering with ownership or possession, which is conversion [see Jordan v. Talbot (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 597, 610, 12 Cal. Rptr. 488, 361 P.2d 20 ; see § 550.13]. Damages in actions for trespass to personal property are the actual damages suffered by reason of the impairment of the property or the loss of its use [Jordan v. Talbot (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 597, 610, 12 Cal. Rptr. 488, 361 P.2d 20] . Damages for conversion are statutorily defined and may, in some circumstances, merit a greater recovery [see Civ. Code § 3336 (damages for conversion)].

For further discussion pertaining to an action for trespass, see §§ 550.40[2]-[9], 550.42[2]-[5].

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges (1) facts showing the plaintiff's interest in the property (Paragraph 1); (2) the capacity of the defendant, which may be a basis of venue (Paragraph 2); (3) the nature of the defendant's wrongful conduct (Paragraph 5); and (4) proximately caused damages (alternative Paragraphs 5) [see Civ. Code § 3333; see Jordan v. Talbot (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 597, 610, 12 Cal. Rptr. 488, 361 P.2d 20] .

§ 550.44 Allegation--Plaintiff's Right to Possession When Not in Actual Possession and Not Owner of Property

[1] FORM Allegation--Plaintiff's Right to Possession When Not in Actual Possession and Not Owner of Property

Plaintiff is, and at all times herein mentioned was, the _____ [specify proprietary interest, e.g., lessee under a lease from _____ (name of owner), the owner of the real property, dated _____ and was entitled to actual possession of that land commencing on _____ [date]. (A copy of that lease is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.)] _____ [Specify the future possessory interest under an existing and valid obligation, e.g., By the terms of that lease, plaintiff possessed a future possessory interest in the crop in cultivation on the land on the date the lease was executed]. The real property described in the _____ [specify the form of existing obligation, e.g., lease] is located at _____ [address], _____ County, California, and more particularly described as follows: _____ [give legal description].

This allegation is for use by the plaintiff in a complaint for trespass to real property to allege the plaintiff's protectible interest in the property when the plaintiff is not in possession of the property. The person in actual possession of the property is the proper party plaintiff in an action for trespass to real property [Williams v. Goodwin (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 496, 509, 116 Cal. Rptr. 200] . One complaining of trespass who is not in possession of the land should allege the reason for the interest possessed which dictates allowing the action to go forward [see Wolfsen v. Hathaway (1948) 32 Cal. 2d 632, 642-643, 198 P.2d 1] , disapproved on other grounds, Flores v. Arroyo (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 492, 15 Cal. Rptr. 87, 364 P.2d 263 . When using this allegation, it should replace Paragraph 1 in § 550.40[1].

The allegation is adapted from the fact situation in Wolfsen v. Hathaway (1948) 32 Cal. 2d 632, 198 P.2d 1 , disapproved on other grounds, Flores v. Arroyo (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 492, 15 Cal. Rptr. 87, 364 P.2d 263 .

§ 550.45 Allegation--Plaintiff's Right to Cost of Restoration That Exceeds Diminution in Value

[1] FORM Allegation--Plaintiff's Right to Cost of Restoration That Exceeds Diminution in Value

As a proximate result of the _____ [specify trespassory conduct, e.g., bulldozing and building a rough road on the plaintiff's land], plaintiff's land was damaged to such an extent that repairs would be necessary to restore the land to its prior condition because _____ [specify manner of damages to land, e.g., 225 trees were killed or damaged and the surrounding undergrowth was destroyed]. The cost of restoring the land to its original state is [$_____, an amount that is] reasonable and not excessive in relation to the prior value of the land[, which was $_____]; the acts of defendant[s, and each of them,] diminished the value of plaintiff's land by [$_____, which is] an amount less than the amount required for restoration. Plaintiff has a personal reason for restoring the original condition of the land in that _____ [specify the personal reason, e.g., plaintiff enjoyed the land and the natural forest and had purposely kept the land in its natural state].

This allegation is for use by the plaintiff in a complaint for trespass to real property to allege that he or she should recover the cost of restoration of the property even though that cost exceeds the diminution of the value of the property. The general rule is that if the cost of restoration exceeds the diminution in value, the value of the property is the proper measure of damages [Green v. General Petroleum Corp. (1928) 205 Cal. 328, 336, 270 P. 952] . As an exception to this rule, restoration costs in excess of the decrease in value may be recovered if there is a reason personal to the owner for restoring the original condition. The cost of restoration must be reasonable and not excessive in relation to the damage inflicted on the land or its value prior to the trespass. If the costs are excessive, the court may allow costs for the reasonable approximation of the land's former condition rather than restoration to the identical condition [Heninger v. Dunn (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 858, 865, 162 Cal. Rptr. 104 ; see § 550.21[3][c]].

The allegation is adapted from the fact situation in Heninger v. Dunn (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 858, 162 Cal. Rptr. 104 . When appropriate, this allegation can be used in § 550.40[1] and may be substituted for Paragraph 5. Counsel may wish to include a statement alleging the dollar amount of the diminution in value to make the complaint more specific.

For further discussion pertaining to an action for trespass, see § 550.40[2]-[9].

§ 550.46 Allegation--Defendant Acted With Knowledge That Trespass Was Substantially Certain Result

[1] FORM Allegation--Defendant Acted With Knowledge That Trespass Was Substantially Certain Result

On or about _____ [date], [and continuing to the present time], defendant[s, and each of them,] _____ [specify act that resulted in the entry of foreign matter on plaintiff's land, e.g., operated his/her cement plant and quarry in such a manner that dust and other substances escaped therefrom and settled on plaintiff's property]. The act of defendant[s, and each of them,] was done with the knowledge that that act would, to a substantial certainty, result in _____ [set forth results of the actions that constituted trespass, e.g., dust and other substances being deposited on plaintiff's property].

This allegation is for use by the plaintiff in a complaint for trespass to real property to allege that the defendant caused foreign material to enter on the plaintiff's property. The doing of an act that will to a substantial certainty result in the entry of foreign matter on another's land suffices for an intentional trespass to land on which liability may be based [Roberts v. Permanente Corp. (1961) 188 Cal. App. 2d 526, 530-531, 10 Cal. Rptr. 519] .

The allegation is adapted from the fact situation in Roberts v. Permanente Corp. (1961) 188 Cal. App. 2d 526, 530-531, 10 Cal. Rptr. 519 . When appropriate, this allegation can replace Paragraph 4 in § 550.40[1].

Plaintiff incurred additional costs _____ [specify the actions taken by plaintiff to avert further harm, e.g., in relocating the cables] in the sum of $_____, which is the reasonable cost of _____ [specify act taken to prevent further harm, e.g., relocating the cable].

This allegation is for use by the plaintiff in a complaint for trespass to real property to allege that the defendant caused injury to plaintiff's property and that the plaintiff should recover damages for costs incurred to prevent further harm in addition to the damages directly caused by the defendant's actions. A person who has already suffered injury by the tort of another is entitled to recover for expenditures reasonably made or harm suffered in a reasonable effort to avert further harm. There must be reasonable grounds for believing that further injury would result [Pac. Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Granite Constr. Co. (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 765, 769, 37 Cal. Rptr. 727] .

The allegation is adapted from the fact situation in Pac. Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Granite Constr. Co. (1964) 225 Cal. App. 2d 765, 37 Cal. Rptr. 727 . When its use is appropriate, this allegation can be used instead of Paragraph 5 in § 550.40[1].

For further discussion pertaining to an action for trespass, see § 550.40[2]-[9].

This form of affirmative defense is for use by a defendant in an answer to a complaint of trespass to real property when the statute of limitations has run on the trespassing act. If it appears on the face of the complaint that the statute has run, a demurrer may be made, using the same language [Code Civ. Proc. § 430.30]. The time for bringing an action for trespass on or injury to real property is three years [Code Civ. Proc. § 338(b); see § 550.20]. Actions involving the drilling of oil or gas wells from a surface location on land not owned by the aggrieved party must be brought within 180 days [*Code Civ. Proc. § 349*3/4; see Ch. 393, Oil and Gas]. The time limitation for wrongful injuries to timber, trees, or underwood arising from any trespass committed while acting in reliance on an improper boundary line is five years from the date of trespass [Civ. Code § 3346; see Ch. 350, Logs and Timber].

Paragraph _____ of that security agreement provides that in the event of a default by plaintiff, defendant has the right to enter onto plaintiff's premises, take possession of the assets designated as collateral by the security agreement, and remain on the premises in order to sell the collateral to satisfy the debt].

2. _____ [Describe how defendant acted consistently with the consent, e.g., On _____ [date], plaintiff failed to make payment and defaulted on the note. Thereafter, on _____ [date], and in accordance with the terms and consent to entry given by plaintiff in the security agreement, defendant entered plaintiff's premises and took possession of the collateral].

[2] Use of Form

This form of affirmative defense is for use by a defendant in an answer to a complaint of trespass to real property when the plaintiff expressly consented to the defendant's entry. When there is a consensual entry, there is no tort of trespass, because lack of consent is an element of the wrong. A conditional or restricted consent to enter land creates a privilege to do so only in so far as the condition or restriction is complied with [Civic W. Corp. v. Zila Indus., Inc. (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 1, 17, 135 Cal. Rptr. 915 ; see § 550.22[1]]. The form is adapted from the fact situation in Civic W. Corp. v. Zila Indus., Inc. (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 1, 135 Cal. Rptr. 915 .

Although consent to enter has been deemed given in a conditional sales contract allowing repossession by the seller [see Williams v. General Elec. Credit Corp. (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 527, 532-533, 323 P.2d 1046] , this type of consent may be an unconstitutional deprivation of property [see Fuentes v. Shevin (1972) 407 U.S. 67, 96, 92 S. Ct. 1983, 32

1. An implied consent to enter plaintiff's property existed because _____ [set forth the circumstances giving rise to implied consent, e.g., it is the custom of residents in the locale to accept the defendant's courtesy, as the owner of the only telephone within many miles, of receiving telephone messages and delivering them to the residents of the area].

2. _____ [Describe defendant's actions consistent with the implied consent, e.g., On or about _____ [date], when defendant entered on plaintiff's farm, it was to deliver such a message to a tenant on the farm in accordance with the custom and habit in the locale].

[2] Use of Form

This form of affirmative defense is for use by a defendant in an answer to a complaint of trespass to real property when there was an implied consent to enter. Every person, by implication invites others to come to his or her house as they may have proper occasion either of business, or courtesy, or information, or some other purpose. Custom must determine what the limit is of that implied invitation [Duval v. Rowell (1954) 269 P.2d 142 ; see § 550.22[1][c]]. This affirmative defense is adapted from the fact situation in Duval v. Rowell (1954) 269 P.2d 142 .

2. _____ [Set forth defendant's response to this threat to life or property, e.g., Defendant entered the apartment to look for the person in distress].

[2] Use of Form

This form of affirmative defense is for use by a defendant in an answer to a complaint of trespass to real property when defendant's trespass was prompted by a necessity to preserve life or property. Necessity often justifies an action that would otherwise constitute a trespass, as where the act is prompted by the motive of preserving life or property and reasonably appears to the actor to be necessary for that purpose [People v. Roberts (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 374, 377, 303 P.2d 721 ; see § 550.22[2]]. The form is adapted from the fact situation in People v. Roberts (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 374, 377, 303 P.2d 721 .

§ 550.52 Affirmative Defense--Constitutional Right to Free Expression of Ideas in Public Forum

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense--Constitutional Right to Free Expression of Ideas in Public Forum

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges that he/she was not trespassing on plaintiff's property because the defendant was exercising his/her constitutional right to free expression of ideas by [describe the details of the defendant's activities, e.g., handing out leaflets to passing pedestrians]. Defendant was entitled to exercise his/her right on plaintiff's property, which is a public forum because [set forth facts showing that plaintiff's property is a public forum, e.g., the property is a large regional shopping center containing 65 shops, 10 restaurants, and a movie theater, that is open to the public, draws large numbers of people, and has a largely public character].

[2] Use of Form

This affirmative defense may be set forth in the answer [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30] to a complaint for trespass to real property if the plaintiff's property is a public forum and the defendant was exercising the constitutional right to free expression of ideas. This defense applies only if the expression was reasonable, orderly, and did not interfere with the normal business operations at the plaintiff's property. Private property is a public forum only if it is the functional equivalent of such traditional public forums as the public streets and sidewalks of a town's or city's business center. The property of individual homeowners or retail establishments that are more modest than large suburban shopping malls are not public forums [Robins v. Pruneyard Shopping Ctr. (1979) 23 Cal.3d 899, 910, 153 Cal. Rptr. 854, 592 P.2d 341 , aff'd, 447 U.S. 74, 81, 100 S. Ct. 2035, 64 L. Ed. 2d 741 (1980)] , and neither are the private parking areas of relatively small medical facilities [Allred v. Harris (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1386, 1391-1392, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 530 ; see also Planned Parenthood v. Wilson (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1662, 1668, 286 Cal. Rptr. 427 ; Allred v. Shawley (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1489, 1501-1502, 284 Cal. Rptr. 140] .

Chapter 551 TRIAL
PART I. SCOPE

§ 551.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses generally the rules applicable to civil trials and those proceedings before trial closely related to the trial.

Part II discusses the law and procedure relating to trial's and is divided into subparts as follows:

- The notice of trial [Subpart B; § 551.20 et seq.].
- The chambers conference with the judge immediately before trial [Subpart C; § 551.40 et seq.].
- The order in which the trial proceeds [Subpart D; § 551.50 et seq.].
- Evidence [Subpart E; § 551.60 et seq.].
- The burden of proof and of producing evidence [Subpart F; § 551.90 et seq.].
- Presumptions and inferences [Subpart G; § 551.100 et seq.].
- Witnesses [Subpart H; § 551.110 et seq.].
- Argument to the jury [Subpart I; § 551.140 et seq.].
- Mistrial [Subpart J; § 551.150 et seq.].
- Closing proceedings and sealing records [Subpart K; § 551.160 et seq.].

Part III contains five procedural checklists noting matters counsel should consider in preparing for trial and trying a case:

- Checklist of pretrial proceedings [§ 551.220].
- Checklist of general matters concerning trial [§ 551.221].
- Checklist of objections and motions to exclude evidence or to strike testimony [§ 551.222].
- Checklist of common motions during trial [§ 551.223].
- Checklist of the order in which trial proceeds [§ 551.224].

The chapter also includes the following forms:

- A notice of time set for trial [§ 551.250].
- A notice of motion for an order appointing an expert witness, a supporting declaration, and an order granting the motion [§§ 551.251-551.253].
- A stipulation by counsel for the use at trial of photocopies of writings in lieu of the originals [§ 551.254].
- A notice of motion for an order setting aside the submission of a case and reopening it for additional evidence, a supporting declaration, an opposing declaration, and an order granting the motion [§§ 551.255-551.258].
- A combined request for the return of exhibits, depositions, and administrative records introduced or filed in the trial of an action, an order granting the request, and a receipt for their return [§ 551.259].
- The Judicial Council form of request to conduct film and electronic media coverage of an action and an order on the request [§ 551.260].
- A form of motion and related forms for use in proceedings to seal otherwise public court records [§ 551.261-551.263].

Chapter 551 TRIAL
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Governing Law

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.10

§ 551.10 Governing Law

[1] Notice and Conduct of Trial

Notice of trial is required by Code Civ. Proc. § 594 [see § 551.250].

Trial by jury is governed generally by Code Civ. Proc. § 607 et seq. The qualification of persons to act as jurors and excuses from jury service are governed by Cal. Const., art. I, § 4, Code Civ. Proc. §§ 203, 204, and Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1008. The selection of jurors and the formation of the jury are governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 190 et seq. and Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 3.25. Jury instructions are governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 224, 607a-609, 612.5, and Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1050 et seq. The province of the court and jury is governed by Evid. Code §§ 310-312.

Trial by the court is governed generally by Code Civ. Proc. § 631 et seq. The court's statement of decision is governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 632 and 634 and Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1590.

Except as otherwise provided by law, the order in which a trial is required to proceed is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 607 [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 607, 631.7]. The order of proof is governed by Evid. Code § 320. The burden of proof and the burden of producing evidence are governed by Evid. Code § 500 et seq.

[2] Evidence

The admission, exclusion, and weight of evidence are governed by Evid. Code § 350 et seq. and presumptions and inferences by Evid. Code § 600 et seq. Privileges arising out of various relationships that affect the admissibility of evidence are governed by Evid. Code § 900 et seq. and evidence affected or excluded by extrinsic policies by Evid. Code § 1100 et seq. Witnesses, including their competency, the method and scope of their examination, and their credibility, as well as interpreters and translators are governed by Evid. Code § 700 et seq. Expert and other opinion testimony and blood tests to determine paternity are governed by Evid. Code § 800 et seq. and Fam. Code § 7550 et seq. Hearsay evidence and exceptions to the hearsay rule are governed by Evid. Code § 1200 et seq. The authentication and proof of writings, the admissibility of secondary evidence of writings, and the admissibility and effect of official writings affecting property are governed by Evid. Code § 1400 et seq. Judicial notice is governed by Evid. Code § 450 et seq.; see Ch. 321, Judicial Notice ; see also 1 California Trial Guide, § 20.60 (Matthew Bender). The Evidence Code also contains rules for its construction and defines various words and phrases used in the code [see Evid. Code §§ 1-12, 100-260, respectively].

Other codes also include statutes that govern evidence. The statute of frauds is set forth in Civ. Code § 1624 and additional statutes of frauds governing particular transactions are Code Civ. Proc. § 1974 and Com. Code §§ 2201, 2326(3), and 9203(b). Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2074-2077 contain miscellaneous provisions relating to evidence in particular cases. Other provisions relating to evidence include the following:

- Code Civ. Proc. § 1856 (the parol evidence rule) [see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1857-1866 (construction of writings); Com. Code § 2202 (parol evidence rule applicable to contracts for sale of goods)].

- Code Civ. Proc. § 1950, which prevents the removal from the office in which it is kept of the record of a conveyance of real property, or any other record, a transcript of which is admissible in evidence, except on a court order in cases in which inspection of the record is essential to the just determination of the cause.

- Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1952-1952.3, relating to the retention, destruction, and return of exhibits by the court.

- Com. Code § 1206, providing that whenever the Commercial Code creates a presumption with respect to a fact or provides that a fact is "presumed," the trier of fact must find the existence of the fact unless and until evidence is introduced that supports a finding of its nonexistence.

Code Civ. Proc. § 1932 abolishes the distinction between sealed and unsealed private writings.

Code Civ. Proc. § 651 authorizes a view during trial of the property that is the subject of the litigation, or the place where any relevant event occurred, or any object, demonstration, or experiment a view of which is relevant and admissible in evidence.

[3] Witnesses

The term "witness" is defined in Code Civ. Proc. § 1878. The definition includes an interpreter [People v. Lem Deo (1901) 132 Cal. 199, 201, 64 P. 265 ; see Evid. Code § 750].

The three modes in which the testimony of witnesses may be taken are set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 2002, and Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2003-2005 define the three modes. Additional provisions relating to witnesses are set forth under [2], above. The state constitution provides that a person is not incompetent to be a witness because of his or her opinions on religious beliefs [Cal. Const., art. I, § 4].

[4] Oaths and Affirmations

Persons who may administer an oath or affirmation and the form of oral oaths and affirmations administered to witnesses are set out in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2093, 2094. The form of the oath administered to jurors is set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 232. Affidavits, declarations under penalty of perjury, and written affirmations in lieu of an oath are covered by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 17, 2002(1), 2003, and 2009-2015.6, and Evid. Code §§ 165 and 710. For discussion and forms see Ch. 392, Oaths and Affirmations , and Ch. 15, Affidavits, Certificates, and Declarations .

[5] Motions During Trial

Motions that may be made during trial are governed by a variety of statutes, court rules, and case law. For governing law relating to motions for mistrial, see § 551.150. For statutes governing motions during trial, see § 551.202[10] [see also §§ 551.206[3], 551.223].

§ 551.11 Oral Motions

Motions made at trial are normally made orally without notice and need not be supported by affidavits, declarations, or points and authorities. Counsel should, of course, be prepared to submit authorities supporting or opposing the motion, as the case may be, if the court requests them or if they are necessary to establish or oppose the ground of the motion.

A form of oral motion is as follows: "If it please the court, I move _____ [specify order sought, e.g., for (an order of) mistrial or that the witness's answer be stricken (from the record)] on the ground(s) _____ [specify, e.g., of prejudicial misconduct of counsel or it is nonresponsive (to the question asked)]."

If the motion is made in a jury trial and is one that should be made out of the jury's hearing (for example, a motion for nonsuit), the motion should be prefaced by the following: "If it please the court, may counsel approach the bench for the purpose of making a motion." If permission is granted, counsel will approach the side bench where counsel may make the motion. If argument is required and permitted, the judge may withdraw with counsel to chambers to hear it.

§ 551.12 "Trial" Defined

The word "trial" is not defined by statute in California, although "new trial" is defined as a reexamination of an issue of fact in the same court after a trial and decision by a jury, court, or referee [Code Civ. Proc. § 656]. A judicial definition of trial first pronounced by the California Supreme Court in 1881 and often repeated in whole or in part defines a trial as "the examination before a competent tribunal, according to the law of the land, of the facts or law put in issue in a cause for the purpose of determining such issue. When a court hears and determines any issue of fact or of law for the purpose of determining the rights of the parties, it may be considered a trial" [Tregambo v. Comanche M. and M. Co. (1881) 57 Cal. 501, 505 ; see, e.g., Enterprise Ins. Co. v. Mulleague (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 528, 538, 241 Cal. Rptr. 846 ; *Venzor v. Santa Barbara Elks Lodge (1976) 56 Cal. Chapter 551 TRIAL
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Notice of Trial

§ 551.20 When Required

Either party may bring an issue to trial or to a hearing and, in the absence of the adverse party, proceed with the case and take a dismissal of the action, or a verdict, or judgment, as the case may require, unless the court for good cause otherwise directs [Code Civ. Proc. § 594(a)]. However, if the issue to be tried is an issue of fact, proof shall first be made to the satisfaction of the court that the adverse party had 15 days' notice of the trial (or five days' in an unlawful detainer proceeding) as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 594(b), discussed in § 551.21 If the adverse party served the notice of trial on the party seeking the dismissal, verdict, or judgment at least five days prior to the trial, the adverse party is deemed to have had such notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 594(a); see Berris & Seaton v. Meyers (1984) 163 Cal. App. 3d Supp. 54, 59-60 , 210 Cal. Rptr. 444] .

The purpose of this notice provision is to enable the parties to prepare for trial, and to prevent the possibility of a judgment by default being taken against a party who has been unable to appear by reason of insufficient notice of the time of trial. No matter how thoroughly the parties prepare for trial before a trial date is set, there are certain preparations that can occur only after a trial date is set, such as subpoenaing and scheduling the availability of witnesses, scheduling the availability of counsel, and making any necessary arrangement for the transportation of witnesses, parties, counsel, and exhibits. Code Civ. Proc. § 594(a) reflects a legislative determination that 15 days is the minimum period parties should be allowed for these preparations, and that the court lacks authority to proceed in the absence of a party who has not received this minimum period for preparation [Au-Yang v. Barton (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 958, 962-963, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 227, 987 P.2d 697 ; see also Bird v. McGuire (1963) 216 Cal. App. 2d 702, 715, 31 Cal. Rptr. 386 (purpose is to protect parties against trials, judgments, or dismissals in their excusable absence)].

A court may not shorten the length of time for notice prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 594(a), discussed in § 551.20, although the period may be shortened by waiver or by the consent of the parties [Au-Yang v. Barton (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 958, 963, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 227, 987 P.2d 697 ; Campanella v. Takaoka (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 504, 511, 206 Cal. Rptr. 745 , overruled on other grounds, Salas v. Sears, Roebuck & Co. (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 342, 346, 228 Cal. Rptr. 504, 721 P.2d 590] .

Chapter 551 TRIAL
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Notice of Trial

§ 551.24 Effect of Failure to Give Notice

Code Civ. Proc. § 594, requiring service of notice of trial and, when the adverse party fails to appear, proof of service, is mandatory [Au-Yang v. Barton (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 958, 963, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 227, 987 P.2d 697] .

A failure to give notice is a proper ground for granting a new trial either on the theory that there has been an "error in law" [see Code Civ. Proc. § 657(7)] or that lack of notice constituted an "[i]rregularity in the proceedings of the court by which either party was prevented from having a fair trial" [see Code Civ. Proc. § 657(1); Gordon v. Gordon (1956) 145 Cal. App. 2d 231, 233-234, 302 P.2d 355 ; see Campanella v. Takaoka (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 504, 511, 206 Cal. Rptr. 745 , overruled on other grounds, Salas v. Sears, Roebuck & Co. (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 342, 346, 228 Cal. Rptr. 504, 721 P.2d 590 (compliance with Code Civ. Proc. § 594 is mandatory and jurisdictional)].

Although the minimum notice requirement is mandatory, a showing that the absent party had at least 15 days' actual notice of the time set for trial is sufficient to satisfy the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 594 [Parker v. Dingman (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 1011, 1016, 122 Cal. Rptr. 309 ; People ex rel. Dept. Pub. Wks. v. Busick (1968) 259 Cal. App. 2d 744, 748, 66 Cal. Rptr. 532] .

Chapter 551 TRIAL
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Notice of Trial

§ 551.25 Proof of Notice

The party seeking to proceed with trial in the absence of the opposing party has the burden of proving compliance with the mandatory 15-day notice requirement of Code Civ. Proc. § 594(a) [Au-Yang v. Barton (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 958, 963, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 227, 987 P.2d 697] .

Code Civ. Proc. § 594(b) provides that if notice is served by the clerk, proof thereof may be made by introduction into evidence of the clerk's certificate pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a(4) or other competent evidence; if notice is served by a party, proof may be made either by the introduction into evidence of an affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) or certificate pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a(1) or (2), or by other competent evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 594(b); for discussion of service of papers and a form of proof of service by mail, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers].

Other competent evidence that would prove service would include, for example, a party's admission that he or she had actual notice of trial for the required period coupled with documentary evidence before the trial court showing conclusively that due and regular notice of trial had been given [see Kalmus v. Kalmus (1951) 103 Cal. App. 2d 405, 418, 230 P.2d 57 , cert. denied, 342 U.S. 903 (1952) ; see also City etc. of San Francisco v. Carraro (1963) 220 Cal. App. 2d 509, 520-521, 33 Cal. Rptr. 696 (oral stipulation of counsel in open court setting case for trial)].

If no competent evidence that notice of trial was served on defendant as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 594(a) is actually introduced before the court at the time set for trial, a judgment for plaintiff will be reversed, because proof that defendant was given statutory notice is essential to the trial court's jurisdiction to proceed in the defendant's absence [Irvine National Bank v. Han (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 693, 694, 697, 181 Cal. Rptr. 864 (plaintiff failed to place notice of trial in evidence at trial or to request court to take judicial notice of file in case which contained notice of trial)]. A judgment entered after a trial held in a party's absence without the notice prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 594(a) is not merely error, but is an act in excess of the court's jurisdiction [Irvine National Bank v. Han (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 693, 697, 181 Cal. Rptr. 864 ; Wilson v. Goldman (1969) 274 Cal. App. 2d 573, 577, 79 Cal. Rptr. 309] .

Chapter 551 TRIAL
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Notice of Trial

§ 551.26 Resumption of Trial Following Continuance

Code Civ. Proc. § 594 does not apply to the resumption of trial following a continuance, and when the case is continued to a specified day, no further notice, written or oral, is necessary. The general rule in such a case is that after notice of trial in the first instance has been properly given, it becomes the duty of all interested parties to keep themselves informed by diligent inquiry of subsequent continuances of the hearing [In re Phillip F. (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 250, 256-257, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 693 ; City of San Diego v. Walton (1947) 80 Cal. App. 2d 206, 212-213, 181 P.2d 424] .

Trial counsel have a duty to use reasonable diligence to ascertain the date to which a partial trial is continued when it is necessary to continue the further trial to a date other than the date that counsel agreed on or have been advised of in open court. But when counsel does act diligently, but to no avail, to ascertain the date to which trial has been continued, the failure to give counsel some form of notice of the trial date and the resumption of the trial in his or her absence is a denial of due process of law [Parker v. Dingman (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 1011, 1016-1018, 122 Cal.Rptr. 309] . The resumption of a continued matter without some proof that the absent party has been notified is an abuse of discretion, and due process requires that the manner and content of the renotice provide some reasonable assurance that the party is informed of the continued trial date within a reasonable period prior to resumption of trial [In re Phillip F. (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 250, 257, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 693] .

Chapter 551 TRIAL
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Notice of Trial

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.27

§ 551.27 Notice When Trial Date Is Advanced

When a trial is "trailed" or continued to later date, the 15-day notice of Code Civ. Proc. § 594(a) is not required because the absent party's opportunities to plan and prepare for trial are unlikely to be harmed by the continuance. That party will have had sufficient time to compete trial preparations by the original date, and will have learned of the continued date either on appearing at the original trial date or through reasonable diligence [see Au-Yang v. Barton (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 958, 965, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 227, 987 P.2d 697 and discussion in § 551.26]. These considerations do not apply, however, when a trial date is advanced. In the latter situation, a failure to comply with the 15-day notice requirement is likely to result in prejudice to the absent party's trial preparations and planning. Thus, a party who obtains an order advancing the trial date must comply with Code Civ. Proc. § 594(a) by giving the opposing party 15 days' notice of the new trial date [see Au-Yang v. Barton (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 958, 965, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 227, 987 P.2d 697] .

Chapter 551 TRIAL
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Before-Trial Conference

§ 551.40 Conduct of Conference

Immediately before trial, the judge normally meets informally with counsel to confer about the case, although some courts otherwise requiring a before-trial conference may dispense with the conference in a nonjury short cause. The meeting is normally held in the judge's chambers, but may be held in open court if that is the preference of the judge or counsel. Normally, the judge's courtroom clerk will be present to take notes, but whether a court reporter is present and reports the entire proceedings depends on the judge and the rules or policies of the court in which the trial is held. Some judges prefer that the entire proceedings be reported. Other judges prefer to cover the preliminary matters informally without a reporter present, and to call in the reporter only after the parties have agreed to admit or stipulate to certain matters and the judge is prepared to rule on other matters [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 7.9(d)].

Chapter 551 TRIAL
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Before-Trial Conference

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.41

§ 551.41 Matters Covered

[1] Generally

The general purposes of the conference are to enable the judge (1) to become familiar with the nature of the case, (2) to acquaint counsel with the court's ground rules, (3) to secure agreements and stipulations of the parties that may better define or narrow the issues to be tried, (4) to resolve in advance any procedural problems that may arise in the course of the trial, and (5) to rule on any matters that should be disposed of before the commencement of the trial [see generally California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, § 3.2 (CJER 1981); as to court's ground rules and trial management, see generally Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 2.20].

Ordinarily, the judge will seek to obtain from counsel arrangements, admissions, and stipulations that will permit the trial to proceed in an orderly, expeditious, and fair manner with a minimum risk of error.

[2] Specific Matters

The specific matters covered at the conference will depend on the nature of the case, the complexity of the issues, and the number of parties [see discussion in [3], below]. In all cases, the conference will normally cover [see generally California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, §§ 3.2, 3.6, 3.9(1), (3)-(5), (7), 3.12 (CJER 1981); as to court's ground rules and trial management, see generally Cal. Rules of Ct., Appen., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 2.20]:

- The identity of the parties and counsel.

- The number and names of witnesses to be called for purposes other than impeachment.

- Whether the judge is acquainted with any of the parties or witnesses or is disqualified from trying the case for any cause listed in Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1 or under the Code of Judicial Conduct [for a discussion of the disqualification of judges for cause, see Ch. 317, Judges , Pt. III].

- The court's ground rules.
- Whether the issues in the case may be narrowed or modified by stipulations, admissions, or motions.

[3] Examples of Specific Matters

Specific matters that may be considered or covered in any given case include the following [see generally California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, §§ 3.7-3.15 (CJER 1981); as to court's ground rules and trial management, see generally Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 2.20]:

(1) (Continuance) Any requests for a continuance [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 595-596, 1024; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1332; California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, § 3.9(2) (CJER 1981); see also Ch. 136, Continuances].

(1A) (Motions Affecting Trial Date) A motion to advance, specially set, or reset a case for trial [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1335].

(2) (Guardian ad Litem) Whether there is any need to appoint a guardian ad litem for any minor or incompetent party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 373; see also California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, § 3.9(5) (CJER 1981)]. For discussion and forms for use in securing appointment of a guardian ad litem for a minor or incompetent party, see Ch. 291, Guardians Ad Litem .

(3) (Parties) The status of named or fictitiously named parties [see Code Civ. Proc. § 474], that is, whether they have all been served, whether any have been dismissed from the action, whether they have answered and/or are in default, and whether any defaults have been entered [see California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, § 3.9(5) (CJER 1981)].

(4) (Pleadings) (a) Whether any causes of action have been dismissed; (b) whether any law and motion, discovery, or summary judgment proceedings have resulted in the dismissal or the striking of any pleading or portion of a pleading or the adjudication of any factual or legal issues; and (c) the status and effect of any pending cross complaints, setoffs, credits against judgment, liens, or pleadings in intervention [see California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, § 3.9(6), (7)(b), (d) (CJER 1981)].

(5) (Reduction of Issues) Whether the number of issues to be tried can be reduced by dismissal of one or more causes of action by request of a party, whether stipulations can be reached as to those issues about which there is no controversy, and whether stipulations can be reached as to facts not in controversy or waiving a foundation, or other objections, as to the admissibility of testimony, tests, or experiments [see California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, § 3.9(7)(a)-(c) (CJER 1981)].

(6) (Unusual Legal Issues or Fact Determinations) Whether any unusual legal issues are anticipated, whether any unusual evidentiary fact determinations are likely to arise during trial, and whether there are any other anticipated evidentiary problems [see California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, § 3.9(14) (CJER 1981)].

(7) (Severance or Consolidation of Actions) Whether any actions should be severed or other actions consolidated with the present case [see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.62(b) (consolidation of wrongful death and survival cases), 379.5 (severance of permissively joined parties), 1048 (severance and consolidation of actions generally); see also California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, § 3.9(9) (CJER 1981) (adding that these matters, however, should usually have been raised at the pretrial or trial setting conference)]. For additional statutes authorizing severance or consolidation, a discussion of the grounds, and a procedural checklist, see Ch. 125, Consolidation, Severance, and Coordination of Actions .

(8) (Bifurcation of Trial) Whether good cause exists to try (a) a special defense, such as the statute of limitations, a prior judgment, another action pending, or other defense not involving the merits of the action but constituting a bar or ground of abatement before the other issues in the case [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 597, 597.5]; (b) equitable issues, such as the equitable defenses of laches, unclean hands, waiver, and equitable estoppel, before the legal issues in the case; or (c) an issue or part of an issue before the other issue, part of an issue, or issues in the case, for example, to try the issue of liability before the issue of damages [see Code Civ. Proc. § 598; see also California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, § 3.9(9) (CJER 1981); discussion of bifurcation in Ch. 425, Pretrial Proceedings .

(9) (Interpreters and Translators) Whether an interpreter for any witness or translator to translate or decipher a writing will be required [see Evid. Code § 750 et seq.; California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, § 3.9(10)(d) (CJER 1981); see also discussion in §§ 551.115 and 551.116].

(10) (Expert Witnesses) (a) Whether counsel have exchanged lists of the names, reports, and writings of expert witnesses [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2034(Code Civ. Proc. § 2034.210 et seq. effective July 1, 2005); see also Kennemur v. State of California (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 907, 917-919, 184 Cal. Rptr. 393] ; (b) whether there is to be any limitation on the number of expert witnesses [see Evid. Code § 723; and (c) whether any of the parties plan to propound hypothetical questions to any expert witness and, if so, whether the question should be prepared in writing and submitted in advance to the trial judge [see California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, § 3.9(10)(b) (CJER 1981)].

(11) (Exhibits) Whether counsel have complied with any local court rules or policies (a) requiring counsel to exchange lists of exhibits (except those they anticipate in good faith will be used for impeachment or tactical surprise); (b) requiring counsel to furnish copies of critical documents to the court and counsel; (c) requiring counsel to make available before trial to parties requesting themcopies of other documents on the exhibit list; (d) relating to the procedure to be followed in the case of dangerous or bulky exhibits; (e) relating to organizing and pretrial marking of exhibits; (f) concerning the marking of exhibits; and (g) relating to the uniform method of marking exhibits [see California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, § 3.9(11)(b) (CJER 1981)].

(12) (Additional Matters Relating to Exhibits) (a) Whether a copy or other substitute for an original exhibit may or should be used (for example, a copy of an original document that has been lost or a substitute for an inherently dangerous exhibit); (b) whether counsel will stipulate to the admissibility of any exhibits; and (c) whether any special arrangements are required for special exhibits (for example, for showing X-rays, or playing video or audiotapes), maps, or diagrams, or for handling dangerous or bulky exhibits, or for protecting trade secrets [see California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, § 3.9(11)(c)-(e) (CJER 1981)].

(13) (Stipulations re Return of Exhibits) Whether the parties will stipulate as to the return of the exhibits [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 283(1), 1952(a); see also California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, § 3.9(11)(f) (CJER 1981)].

(14) (View of Scene, Property, or Demonstration) Whether the court should during trial order a view by the trier of fact of (1) the property that is the subject of the litigation; (2) the place where any relevant event occurred; or (3) any relevant object, demonstration, or experiment that is admissible in evidence and cannot with reasonable convenience be viewed in the courtroom [see Code Civ. Proc. § 651; see also California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, § 3.9(12) (CJER 1981)].

(15) (Depositions) Whether depositions are to be used during trial. If so, whether they are subject to any objection, and, if they are, whether the ground of objection has been waived by failure to make a timely objection or motion to suppress or can be cured by the opponent's waiver of the objection [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2025(m) (Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.460 effective July 1, 2005) (waivers of errors and irregularities for failure to object or move to suppress in a timely manner), (u) (Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.620 operative July 1, 2005) (use of depositions at trial)]. In addition, what the effect is, if any, on the admissibility of the contents of a deposition because of any failure of the proponent to have complied with any rule or policy of the court requiring notification to the other parties of any changes made in a deposition by the deponent [see California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, § 3.9(13) (CJER 1981)].

(16) (Opening Statements and Presentation of Evidence in Multiple Party Cases) In a case having multiple plaintiffs or multiple defendants represented by different counsel, the order in which counsel will make their opening statements and present their evidence if counsel do not agree among themselves [see Code Civ.Proc. § 607(8) (referring expressly to multiple defendants); Evid. Code § 320 (judge as regulating order of proof)].

(17) (Limitations on Examination) Any limitations on the examination of a witness [see, e.g., Evid. Code §§ 352 (exclusion of time-consuming, prejudicial, confusing, or misleading evidence), 721(b) (limitation on cross-examination of expert witness), 765 (control of court over interrogation of witness), 773 (scope of cross-examination and rule applicable to cross-examination of witness by party whose interest is not adverse to party calling witness), 787 (evidence of specific instances of conduct tending only to prove character trait as inadmissible on issue of credibility), and 788 (admissibility of felony conviction and inadmissibility of expunged felony conviction to attack credibility); see also California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, § 3.9(10)(f), 3.12; ch. 8, Witnesses, §§ 8.31, 8.32, 8.34, 8.57, 8.65, 8.66 (CJER 1981)]. For a discussion, procedural checklist, and forms for use in making motions in limine, see Ch. 373, Motions in Limine .

(18) (Order of Cross Examination in Multiple Party Cases) The order of cross-examination in multiple party cases [see Evid. Code §§ 320 (power of court to regulate order of proof), 776(b) (cross-examination by other parties of party called and examined by adverse party); see also California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, § 3.9(10)(e) (CJER 1981)].

(19) (Daily Transcripts) Whether counsel intend to request a daily transcript of the trial, and if so the number of copies to be prepared and who will pay for them [see California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, § 3.9(16) (CJER 1981)].

(20) (Other Special Arrangements) Whether any special arrangements, other than those already mentioned, are required for counsel, parties, or witnesses [see California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, § 3.9(19) (CJER 1981)].

(21) (Estimate of Trial Length) What each counsel's estimate is of the length of the trial [see California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, §§ 3.9(15), 3.10(5)(c) (CJER 1981)].

(22) (Time Problems) Whether there are any time problems that are likely to occur during trial because of other commitments of the court, counsel, or witnesses [see California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, § 3.9(15) (CJER 1981)].

(23) (Preliminary Motions) Whether any preliminary motions will be made, such as a motion to exclude witnesses from the courtroom [see Evid. Code § 777; see also California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, § 3.9(17) (CJER 1981)].

(24) (Time limits) Reasonable time limits [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 2.20(b)(2)].

(25) (Time of commencement and hours set for trial) The time trial will start each day and the number of hours set each day for the trial [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 2.20(b)(3), (4), (6)].

(26) (Use of technology) Technology that may be used in the presentation of evidence and managing the trial [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 2.20(b)(5)].

(27) (Scheduling arguments on legal issues) Whether arguments on legal issues will be scheduled at the beginning or end of the day, so as not to interrupt the presentation of evidence [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 2.20(b)(7)].

(28) (Sidebar conferences) When sidebar conferences will be permitted and their length [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 2.20(b)(8)].

[4] Settlement

Another matter that may arise is whether settlement should be further explored [see California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, § 3.7 (CJER 1981)]. However, to avoid a motion to disqualify, the judge should not engage in settlement discussion unless the parties consent. The policy of the Los Angeles County Superior Court in this regard is as follows: Although the trial court may request counsel to further explore settlement, it should not itself engage in settlement discussions if any party objects. If all counsel and parties agree to settlement discussion with the trial judge and to waive any right to assert any disqualification that they might otherwise allege from it, such agreements and waivers should be sufficiently broad to expressly permit the trial judge to discuss the anticipated evidence and dollar amounts offered and demanded, not only with all counsel present, but also with counsel and the litigants separately and in confidence. If a settlement is not reached, the trial court may proceed to trial unless it believes its disqualification is required by law or its impartiality might reasonably be questioned. If a settlement is reached, ordinarily the terms of the settlement and the parties' consent to it, as well as the consent of counsel, should be stated on the record [Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.21]. For a discussion of settlement generally, see Ch. 520, Settlement and Release . For a discussion of the pretrial settlement conference with the judge, see Ch. 425, Pretrial Proceedings .

[5] Additional Matters in Jury Trials

Additional matters that may be covered when a jury trial has been requested include the following [see, generally, Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 3.25(b); Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.20; California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, § 3.10 (CJER 1981)]:

- Whether a jury trial has been properly demanded and fees timely posted [see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.20; for a discussion of when trial by jury may be had, a form of demand and a form of waiver of jury trial, and forms for use in moving for a jury trial, or vacating the setting of a jury trial, when the right is not guaranteed, see Ch. 322, Juries and Jury Selection].

- Whether the parties will waive a jury trial.

- Whether there are any motions in limine that must be ruled on before voir dire examination and opening statements by counsel [see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.92; for a discussion of motions in limine, see Ch. 373, Motions in Limine]. Some judges may require any motion in limine to be presented in writing with a proposed order [see California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, ch. 3, Conference Before Trial, § 3.14 (CJER 1981)].

- Whether counsel will stipulate to trial by fewer than 12 jurors [see Cal. Const., art. I, § 16; Code Civ. Proc. § 220; Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.20(c)].

- The number of alternate jurors, if any, to be called [see Code Civ. Proc. § 234; Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.20(d)].

- Whether counsel will stipulate to excuse jurors who express a desire not to sit because of potential length of the trial running beyond expiration of their jury service term [see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.20(e)].

- The text of a brief statement of the case suitable to be read by the trial judge to the panel of prospective jurors [see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.20(b)].

- The areas of proposed voir dire interrogation to be directed to prospective jurors and any limits to be imposed by the judge on voir dire examination by counsel [see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.20(a)]. Some courts may require that any party requesting the trial judge to voir dire the prospective jurors with questions that are not set forth in Cal. Rules of Ct., Appen., Div. I, § 8(c) and (d) prepare and submit to the court the proposed questions in writing and furnish copies for the other parties [see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.20(h)].

- Whether any part of the voir dire should be conducted by written questions (for example, questions that might be embarrassing to a juror).

- Whether any counsel contends the case is one of "unusual circumstances" or contains "unique or complex elements, legal or factual" within the meaning of Cal. Rules of Ct., Appen., Div. I, § 8 (relating to examination of prospective jurors in civil cases), such that usually improper voir dire questions may be asked [see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.20(a)]. If so, the judge might require prior submission to him or her in writing of the questions to be asked.

- In multiple-party cases, the order in which counsel will conduct their supplemental voir dire examination of prospective jurors [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 3.25(a)(2)].

- In multiple-party cases, whether there are issues as to the number of "sides" and allocation of peremptory challenges within the meaning of Code Civ. Proc. § 231 and, if so, whether stipulations may be reached with regard to them [see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.20(f)].

- Whether there should be a limited preinstruction of the jury [see Westover v. Los Angeles (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 635, 639, 128 P.2d 350 ; Kelly v. Trans Globe Travel Bureau, Inc. (1976) 60 Cal. App. 3d 195, 203-204, 131 Cal. Rptr. 488] .

- Whether in longer trials trial days will be scheduled to permit jurors time for personal business. When a trial involves a jury, the trial judge should manage proceedings with particular emphasis upon the needs of the jury [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 2.20(a), (b)(9)].

[6] Stipulations Relating to Jury, Substitute Judge, and Stay of Execution of Judgment

The parties may also be encouraged to stipulate in writing to the following [see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.20(g)]:

- Unless called to the attention of the court, all jurors shall be deemed to be in the jury box and in their proper places on court's reconvening after e ach recess and adjournment.

- After having given the admonition required by Code Civ. Proc. § 611 (admonition required when jury is permitted to separate), the court at each subsequent recess or adjournment need not repeat or remind the jury of the admonition given.

- The court, in the absence of any counsel, may do any of the following:

  - On the jury's request, read to the jury any or all instructions previously given, have read to the jury any portions of the evidence given in the trial, or supply the jury with any of the exhibits received in evidence;

  - Call the jury into the courtroom to ascertain whether or not a verdict is probable, to receive the verdict of the jury, and to poll the jury; and

  - In the event of the jury's failure to reach a verdict, permit the jurors to separate and resume their deliberations on the morning of the next court day or such other time as may be fixed by the court.

- In the absence of the trial judge after the original submission of the case to the jury, any judge of the court may act in the place and stead of the absent trial judge to and including the time the jury is discharged.

- In the event judgment is for plaintiff, a stay of execution may be issued to be effective for a period of 10 days after any motion for new trial is determined or the time to file a notice of intention to move for a new trial has expired.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Order of Proceedings

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.50

§ 551.50 Jury Trial

[1] In General

The order of proceedings after the jury has been sworn is set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 607 and is to be followed unless the court in its discretion rules otherwise [Reely v. Chapman (1960) 177 Cal. App. 2d 260, 263, 2 Cal. Rptr. 188 ; see McLellan v. McLellan (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 343, 353, 100 Cal. Rptr. 258 ; see also Evid. Code § 320 (court has discretion to "regulate order of proof," except as otherwise provided by law)]. Code Civ. Proc. § 607 provides that when the jury has been sworn, the trial must proceed in the following order, unless the court, for special reasons, otherwise directs:

- The plaintiff may state the issue and plaintiff's case (commonly known as giving an opening statement).
- The defendant may then state the defense if he or she so wishes, or wait until after plaintiff has produced his or her evidence.
- The plaintiff must then produce the evidence on his or her part.
- The defendant may then open the defense if he or she has not done so previously.
- The defendant may then produce the evidence on his or her part.
- The parties may then respectively offer rebutting evidence only, unless the court, for good reason, in furtherance of justice, permits them to offer evidence on their original case.
- When the evidence is concluded, unless the case is submitted to the jury on either side or on both sides without argument, the plaintiff must commence and may conclude the argument.

- If serveral defendants having separate defenses appear by different counsel, the court must determine their relative order in the evidence and argument.

- The court may then charge the jury.

[2] Legal, Equitable, and Factual Issues

There are two rules of precedence that are generally followed with respect to issues. They are: (1) in a jury trial, issues of law should be tried by the court before issues of fact [see Code Civ. Proc. § 592; Evid. Code § 310(a)]; and (2) if a case involves both legal and equitable issues, the equitable issues are tried first [see, e.g., Jaffe v. Albertson Co. (1966) 243 Cal. App. 2d 592, 609, 53 Cal. Rptr. 25 ; Dills v. Delira Corp. (1956) 145 Cal. App. 2d 124, 129, 302 P.2d 397 ; see also People v. Bestline Prod., Inc. (1976) 61 Cal. App. 3d 879, 916, 132 Cal. Rptr. 767 (whether case is tried by court or jury when legal and equitable issues cannot be severed as depending on whether the relief sought is essentially equitable or legal in nature); and discussion in Subpart C, above]. If the decision on the trial of equitable issues is determinative of the legal issues, a jury trial on the legal issues is obviated. If not, the jury trial on the remaining issues will follow [Jaffe v. Albertson Co. (1966) 243 Cal. App. 2d 592, 609, 53 Cal. Rptr. 25] .

For further discussion of the order of proceedings, see 551.224.

[3] Opening Statement

In a jury trial, Code Civ. Proc. § 607 confers the right to make an opening statement. The trial court has discretion only as to control of the order and timing of the opening statement. It is an abuse of the court's discretion to prohibit parties from making any opening statement [see Shippy v. Peninsula Rapid Transit Co. (1925) 197 Cal. 290, 294, 240 P. 785 (abuse of discretion to allow jurors to vote on whether they wanted to hear closing argument)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Order of Proceedings

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.51

§ 551.51 Court Trial

[1] In General

Ordinarily, unless the court otherwise directs, the trial of a civil action tried by the court without a jury is required to proceed in the order specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 607 for jury trials, discussed in § 551.50 [Code Civ. Proc. § 631.7].

[2] Opening Statement

In a nonjury trial, the action proceeds in the order specified in Code Civ. Proc. § 607 "unless the court otherwise directs" [Code Civ. Proc. § 631.7]. The court thus has discretion to refuse to hear opening statements [cf. Gunn v. Superior Court (1946) 76 Cal. App. 2d 203, 205, 173 P.2d 328 (amount of time parties are allowed for closing argument before court sitting without a jury, or whether argument is allowed at all, are matters within trial court's discretion)].

[3] Reopening Case

In a trial by the court, the court has broad discretion to reopen the matter before final judgment in order to receive additional evidence. It may do so even over the objection of the litigants and does not violate their rights when adequate notice is given [Howard Contracting, Inc. v. G.A. MacDonald Construction Co. (1998) 71 Cal. App. 4th 38, 59, 83 Cal. Rptr. 2d 590] .

§ 551.60 Definitions

[1] "Shall" and "May"

As used in the Evidence Code, "shall" is mandatory and "may" is permissive [Evid. Code § 11].

[2] Other Evidence Code Terms

For the purposes of the Evidence Code, the following words and phrases have the meanings indicated unless the provision or context otherwise requires [Evid. Code § 100]:

"Action" includes a civil and a criminal action [Evid. Code § 105].

"Civil action" includes civil proceedings [Evid. Code § 120].

"Conduct" includes all active and passive behavior, both verbal and nonverbal [Evid. Code § 125].

"Declarant" is a person who makes a statement [Evid. Code § 135].

"The hearing" means the hearing at which a question under the Evidence Code arises and not some earlier or later hearing [Evid. Code § 145]. The definition includes not only a trial, but also other hearings, such as preliminary hearings and posttrial proceedings [see Cal. Law Revision Commission Comment to Evid. Code § 145 in annotated codes].

"Law" includes constitutional, statutory, and decisional law [Evid. Code § 160].

"Oath" includes affirmation or declaration under penalty of perjury [Evid. Code § 165].

"Perceive" means to acquire knowledge through one's senses [Evid. Code § 170].

"Person" includes a natural person, firm, association, organization, partnership, business trust, corporation, limited liability company, or public entity [Evid. Code § 175].

"Personal property" includes money, goods, chattels, things in action, and evidences of debt [Evid. Code § 180].

"Proof" is the establishment by evidence of a requisite degree of belief concerning a fact in the mind of the trier of fact or the court [Evid. Code§ 190]. The disjunctive reference to the trier of fact or the court is needed because even when the jury is the trier of fact the court is required to determine preliminary questions of fact on the basis of proof [see Cal. Law Revision Commission Comment to Evid. Code § 190 in annotated codes].

"Property" includes both real and personal property [Evid. Code § 185].

"Public employee" means an officer, agent, or employee of a public entity [Evid. Code § 195].

"Public entity" includes a nation, state, county, city and county, city, district, public authority, public agency, or any other political subdivision or public corporation, whether foreign or domestic [Evid. Code § 200].

"Real property" includes lands, tenements, and hereditaments [Evid. Code § 205].

"State" means the State of California, unless applied to the different parts of the United States. In the latter case, it includes any state, district, commonwealth, territory, or insular possession of the United States [Evid. Code § 220].

"Statement" means either an oral or written verbal expression or nonverbal conduct of a person intended by him or her as a substitute for oral or written verbal expression [Evid. Code § 225].

"Statute" includes a treaty and a constitutional provision [Evid. Code § 230].

"Trier of fact" includes (a) the jury and (b) the court when the court is trying an issue of fact other than one relating to the admissibility of evidence [Evid. Code § 235; see, e.g., People v. Rodriguez (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 545, 552-556, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 886 (under Evid. Code § 235, jury, as trier of fact, could, under Evid. Code § 1417, compare exemplar of criminal defendant's handwriting with handwriting on disputed documents to compare signatures and, based on comparison, reasonably conclude, beyond reasonable doubt, and without benefit of testimony from handwriting expert, that questioned signatures were made by defendant)].

The Evidence Code defines "evidence" as meaning testimony, writings, material objects, or other things presented to the senses that are offered to prove the existence or nonexistence of a fact [Evid. Code § 140]. The word is broadly defined to include not only testimony of witnesses and tangible objects, but also sights (such as a jury or court view of a place or the appearance of a person), sounds (such as a voice demonstrated for the jury), and any other thing that may be presented as a basis of proof [see Cal. Law Revision Commission Comment to Evid. Code § 140 in annotated codes; see also, e.g., Gates v. McKinnon (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 179, 182-183, 114 P.2d 576 (view of accident scene)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

§ 551.62 "Direct Evidence" and "Circumstantial Evidence" Distinguished

Evidence may be direct or circumstantial. "Direct evidence" is evidence that directly proves a fact, without an inference or presumption, and that in itself, if true, conclusively establishes that fact [Evid. Code § 410; see California Shoppers, Inc. v. Royal Globe Ins. Co. (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 1, 44, 221 Cal. Rptr. 171 ; People v. Crawford (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 524, 529, 61 Cal. Rptr. 472 , cert. denied, 390 U.S. 1006 (1968)] .

"Circumstantial evidence" is that which is applied to the principal fact indirectly, or through the medium of other facts, from which the principal fact is inferred [People v. Crawford (1967) 253 Cal. App. 2d 524, 529-530, 61 Cal. Rptr. 472 , cert. denied, 390 U.S. 1006 (1968)] . Thus, circumstantial evidence is evidence that has influenced the minds of the jury (or other trier of fact) in arriving at the belief that a certain matter is a fact although no witness has testified directly that it is a fact [People v. Castellano (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 844, 860, 145 Cal. Rptr. 264] .

The fact that evidence is circumstantial does not mean it cannot be substantial. Relevant circumstantial evidence is admissible in California (see discussion in § 551.66[1]), and the jury is entitled to accept persuasive circumstantial evidence even when contradicted by direct testimony [Hasson v. Ford Motor Co. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 530, 548, 138 Cal. Rptr. 705, 564 P.2d 857 , disapproved on other grounds in Soule v. General Motors Corp. (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 548, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 607, 882 P.2d 298] .

If the court finds a view would be proper and would aid the trier of fact in its determination of the case, it may, on its own motion or the motion of a party, order a view of any of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 651(a)]:

- The property that is the subject of litigation.
- The place where any relevant event occurred.
- Any object, demonstration, or experiment, a view of which is relevant and admissible in evidence in the case and that cannot with reasonable convenience be viewed in the courtroom.

On such occasion, the entire court, including the judge, jury if any, court reporter if any, and any necessary officers shall proceed to the place, property, object, demonstration, or experiment to be viewed. The court shall be in session throughout the view. At the view, the court may permit testimony of witnesses, and the proceedings at the view shall be recorded to the same extent as the proceedings in the courtroom [Code Civ. Proc. § 651(b)].

The view constitutes evidence in the case and may be used alone or with other evidence to support a judgment [see Hutcherson v. Alexander (1968) 264 Cal. App. 2d 126, 131, 70 Cal. Rptr. 366 ; Smith v. Smith (1955) 135 Cal. App. 2d 100, 105, 286 P.2d 1009] .

Chapter 551 TRIAL
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Evidence

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.66

§ 551.66 Admissibility of Evidence

[1] Relevant Evidence

No evidence is admissible except relevant evidence [Evid. Code § 350]. "Relevant evidence" is evidence, including evidence relevant to the credibility of a witness or hearsay declarant, having any tendency in reason to prove or disprove any disputed fact that is of consequence to the determination of the action [Evid. Code § 210]. Except as otherwise provided by statute, all relevant evidence is admissible [Evid. Code § 351]. Thus, a party is entitled to have received in evidence all relevant evidence that tends to prove or disprove any material issue raised by the pleadings. Although it is within the sound discretion of the trial court to define the issues and direct the order of proof (see Evid. Code § 320), this may not be done so as to preclude a party from adducing relevant evidence that tends to prove or disprove any material issue [Foster v. Keating (1953) 120 Cal. App. 2d 435, 451, 261 P.2d 529] .

In sum, only relevant evidence is admissible and it must tend logically, naturally, and by reasonable inference to establish a material fact. The substantive law of the case primarily determines what constitutes a material, disputed fact. The law vests wide discretion in the trial court to decide the relevance of proffered evidence, and the appellate courts traditionally defer to a trial court's determination unless there appears to be a clear abuse of discretion on a matter of such significance that an injustice has occurred [Mesnick v. Caton (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 1248, 1262-1263, 228 Cal. Rptr. 779 ; see also Cal. Const., art. VI, § 13; see, e.g., Kardly v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1746, 1752-1753, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 612 (in insured's action against insurer for bad faith in denying claim, reversible error for trial court to exclude clearly relevant evidence of why insurer closed claim file)].

In civil cases, otherwise relevant evidence is not rendered inadmissible because it was illegally seized or obtained. There is no exclusionary rule for such evidence in civil cases [Ecker v. Raging Waters Group, Inc. (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 1320, 1329, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 320 (no legal impediment to trial court's consideration of relevant videotape seized by private citizen)].

[2] Evidence Admitted for Limited Purpose

In a jury trial, when evidence is admissible as to one party or for one purpose and is inadmissible as to another party or another purpose, the court on request shall restrict the evidence to its proper scope and instruct the jury accordingly [Evid. Code § 355; for related jury instructions, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI No. 206, 207 (Matthew Bender), also available in LexisNexis Automated Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions]. The request for a limiting instruction (or a more limiting instruction if the one given is insufficient) should be made at the time the evidence is offered [see Gherman v. Colburn (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 544, 580, 140 Cal. Rptr. 330] .

[3] Part of Evidence Only Presented by Party

When part of an act, declaration, conversation, or writing is given in evidence by one party, the whole on the same subject may be inquired into by an adverse party [Evid. Code § 356; see Gallaher v. Superior Court (1980) 103 Cal. App. 3d 666, 672, 162 Cal. Rptr. 389] .

[4] Letter Read Into Evidence

When a letter is read in evidence, the answer may be given [Evid. Code § 356].

[5] Detached Evidence

When a detached act, declaration, conversation, or writing is given in evidence, any other act, declaration, conversation, or writing that is necessary to make it understood also may be given in evidence [Evid. Code § 356; see Gallaher v. Superior Court (1980) 103 Cal. App. 3d 666, 672, 162 Cal. Rptr. 389] .

[6] Polygraph Test Results

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the results of a polygraph examination, the opinion of a polygraph examiner, or any reference to an offer to take, failure to take, or taking of a polygraph examination, cannot be admitted into evidence in any criminal proceeding, including pretrial and post-conviction motions and hearings, or in any trial or hearing of a juvenile for a criminal offense, whether in juvenile or adult court, unless all parties stipulate to the admission of the results [Evid. Code § 351.1(a); see People v. Wilkinson (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 821, 842-852, 16 Cal. Rptr. 3d 420, 94 P.3d 551 (because of categorical prohibition of Evid. Code § 351.1, trial court did not err in refusing to conduct Kelly-Frye hearing on proposed evidence regarding polygraph test)].

Polygraph tests are not considered by the California courts to have achieved such a high degree of reliability that they may be received in evidence without the stipulation of the parties. But they are admissible pursuant to the stipulation of the parties [Robinson v. Wilson (1974) 44 Cal. App. 3d 92, 103, 118 Cal. Rptr. 569 (paternity case)]. See general discussion in [10], below.

Photographic evidence in a proper case may be used as substantive evidence [Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. v. Hacienda Mobile Home Park (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 519, 530, 119 Cal. Rptr. 559 (holding photographs properly excluded because relevance not shown)].

[8] Videotapes

A videotape of a plaintiff's daily activities is admissible as relevant to the plaintiff's medical needs and the extent of the plaintiff's pain and suffering [Jones v. City of Los Angeles (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 436, 445, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 528] .

A videotaped reconstruction of an automobile accident is admissible when the conditions shown on the tape are "substantially similar" to those that existed when the accident took place [see DiRosario v. Havens (1987) 196 Cal.

App. 3d 1224, 1231-1233, 242 Cal. Rptr. 423] . Even if a dramatized reconstruction not meeting this standard is admitted into evidence, the error is harmless when the videotape affords visual confirmation of the testimony of other witnesses [DiRosario v. Havens (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 1224, 1233, 242 Cal. Rptr. 423] .

[9] Experimental Evidence

Experimental evidence is admissible when it (1) is relevant, (2) was obtained under conditions substantially similar to those to which it is sought to be applied, and (3) will not cause undue delay in the trial or confusion for the jury [Hasson v. Ford Motor Co. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 530, 548-549, 138 Cal. Rptr. 705, 564 P.2d 857] . A test or experiment is not admissible as evidence if it is based on a theory that contradicts unrebutted testimony or assumes a fact that has no support in the record [Ehrhardt v. Brunswick, Inc. (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 734, 740, 231 Cal. Rptr. 60] .

[10] Scientific Evidence

Evidence based on a new scientific technique, theory, or process is admissible if the technique, theory, or process meets a test commonly termed the " Kelly/Frye" test, based on the California Supreme Court's decision in People v. Kelly (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 24, 37, 130 Cal. Rptr. 144 , and the germinal case of Frye v. United States (D.C.Cir. 1923) 293 F. 1013, 1014 [, People v. Leahy (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 587, 612, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 663, 882 P.2d 321 (citing People v. Kelly (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 24, 37, 130 Cal. Rptr. 144, 549 P.2d 1240)]. Under the Kelly/Frye test, scientific evidence is admissible when the following three prongs are satisfied:

- The technique must have gained general acceptance in its field (the technique is generally accepted by a typical cross-section of the relevant scientific community).

- The testimony regarding the technique and its application must be offered by a properly qualified expert.

- Correct scientific procedures must have been used in the particular case.

The first prong of the test--general acceptance--is satisfied once a trial court's decision to admit evidence based on a new scientific technique has been affirmed on appeal by a published appellate decision, at least until new evidence is presented reflecting a change in the attitude of the scientific community [People v. Kelly (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 24, 32, 130 Cal. Rptr. 144, 549 P.2d 1240 ; see, e.g, People v. Williams (1996) 46 Cal. App. 4th 1767, 1778-1779, 54 Cal. Rptr. 2d 521 ("segmentation" process of enhancing photographic images to create more discernible image is reliable)].

A Kelly/Frye hearing is not required for new devices for already established scientific methods; it only applies to new methodologies [People v. Nolan (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 1210, 1215, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 331 (urinalysis); People v. Bury (1996) 41 Cal. App. 4th 1194, 1202, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 107 (breath testing for alcohol)].

For additional discussion of the Kelly/Frye analysis as it relates to expert testimony, see § 551.70[2][a][ii].

[11] Witness's State of Mind

A witness may competently testify to his or her own state of mind when the witness's state of mind is relevant to any issue in the case [Gherman v. Colburn (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 544, 583, 140 Cal. Rptr. 330] .

[12] Character or Character Traits

Except as otherwise provided by statute, any otherwise admissible evidence (including evidence in the form of an opinion, evidence of reputation, and evidence of specific instances of conduct) is admissible to prove a person's character or a character trait [Evid. Code § 1100]. But evidence of a person's character or a character trait is not admissible in a civil action when offered to prove the person's conduct on a specified occasion, except as otherwise provided by statute [Evid. Code § 1101(a); see Blackburn v. Superior Court (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 414, 430, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 204] . Nor is evidence of a person's character trait with respect to care or skill admissible to prove the quality of the person's conduct on a specified occasion [Evid. Code § 1104; see Stafford v. United Farm Workers (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 319, 325, 188 Cal. Rptr. 600, 656 P.2d 564 ; Brokopp v. Ford Motor Co. (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 841, 851, 139 Cal. Rptr. 888] . It is a fundamental rule of evidence that one cannot prove the commission of an act by showing the commission of similar acts by the same person at other times and under other circumstances; such evidence is simply not relevant [Brokopp v. Ford Motor Co. (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 841, 851, 139 Cal. Rptr. 888 ; Larson v. Larsen (1925) 72 Cal. App. 169, 172, 236 P. 979] .

This does not prevent the admission of evidence that a person committed a crime, civil wrong, or other act when relevant to prove some fact (such as motive, opportunity, intent, preparation, plan, knowledge, identity, absence of mistake or accident, or whether a defendant in a prosecution for an unlawful sexual act or attempted unlawful sexual act did not reasonably and in good faith believe that the victim consented) other than the person's disposition to commit such acts [Evid. Code § 1101(b); see Rufo v. Simpson (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 573, 584-587, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 492 (evidence of defendant's prior abuse of spouse whom he allegedly killed was admissible in wrongful death action brought by her heirs as relevant to motive, intent, and identity); Andrews v. City and County of San Francisco (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 938, 944-945, 252 Cal. Rptr. 716 (prior episodes of abusive misconduct by police officer as tending to show that plaintiff's injuries were product of officer's intent and malice)]. Nor does it affect the admissibility of evidence offered to support or attack the credibility of a witness [Evid. Code § 1101(c); see discussion in § 551.123].

Evidence of a person's character or a character trait that does not relate to the person's conduct or the quality of the conduct on a specific occasion [see Evid. Code §§ 1101, 1104] is relevant in three situations: (1) when offered on the issue of the person's credibility as a witness; (2) when offered as circumstantial evidence of the person's conduct in conformity with his or her character or character trait; and (3) when the person's character or a trait of his or her character is an ultimate fact in dispute in the action [see Cal. Law Revision Commission Comment to Evid. Code § 1100 in annotated codes; see also Carr v. Pacific Tel. Co. (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 537, 544, 103 Cal. Rptr. 120] .

[13] Habit or Custom

Any otherwise admissible evidence of habit or custom is admissible to prove conduct on a specified occasion in conformity with the habit or custom [Evid. Code § 1105].

[14] Other Accidents

Evidence of other accidents is admissible to prove a defective condition, knowledge, or the cause of an accident, provided that the circumstances of the other accidents are similar and not too remote [Ault v. International Harvester Co. (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 113, 121-122, 117 Cal. Rptr. 812, 528 P.2d 1148 ; see also Brake v. Beech Aircraft Corp. (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 930, 937-938, 229 Cal. Rptr. 336 (computer analysis and accident report on prior performance and malfunction of product properly excluded as hearsay)]. Moreover, the court may admit evidence regarding the absence of prior similar claims in cases concerning negligence or strict products liability [Benson v. Honda Motor Co. (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 1337, 1344] . See also the discussion in § 551.68[4][a].

For further discussion of negligence and products liability actions, see respectively Ch. Ch. 380, Negligence , and Ch. 460, Products Liability .

§ 551.67 Stipulations of Parties

In the course of a trial, counsel may stipulate to a number of matters for a variety of reasons. Common stipulations include those in which counsel agree to the authenticity of an exhibit, the qualifications of an expert, that certain alleged or asserted facts are true, that certain testimony would be given if a particular witness were called to testify, and so forth [see, e.g., Linsk v. Linsk (1969) 70 Cal. 2d 272, 277, 74 Cal. Rptr. 544, 449 P.2d 760] .

Some courts require that oral offers to stipulate in jury trials be made outside the hearing of the jurors. Any stipulation reached by counsel is then stated in its exact terms to the jury, and the court advises the jury that any stipulated fact is conclusively presumed to be true as to the party or parties entering into the stipulation [see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.43, 8.44].

For further discussion and forms of stipulations, including a form of stipulation of facts, see Ch. 533, Stipulations .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Evidence

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.68

§ 551.68 Exclusion of Evidence

[1] Irrelevant Evidence

Irrelevant evidence should be excluded [see Evid. Code § 351; see also Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.89 (court should exclude irrelevant evidence on its own motion)]. Evidence is relevant if it has any tendency in reason to prove a material disputed fact [People v. Waidla (2000) 22 Cal. 4th 690, 718, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 396, 996 P.2d 46 ; see Evid. Code § 210 and discussion in § 551.66[1]].

[2] Probative Value Outweighed by Undue Prejudice, Confusion, or Delay

Moreover, the court in its discretion may exclude relevant evidence if its probative value is substantially outweighed by the probability that its admission will (1) necessitate undue consumption of time or (2) create substantial danger of undue prejudice, of confusing the issues, or of misleading the jury [Evid. Code § 352; see People v. Holt (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 343, 353, 104 Cal. Rptr. 572 , cert. denied, 413 U.S. 921 (1973) (undue prejudice; disapproved on another point in Evans v. Superior Court (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 617, 625 n. 6, 114 Cal. Rptr. 121, 522 P.2d 681); see also Hrnjak v. Graymar, Inc. (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 725, 728-734, 94 Cal. Rptr. 623, 484 P.2d 599 (weighing probative value against prejudicial impact)].

Evidence is substantially more prejudicial than probative, and therefore subject to exclusion under Evid. Code § 352, when it poses an intolerable risk to the fairness of the proceedings or the reliability of the outcome [People v. Waidla (2000) 22 Cal. 4th 690, 724, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 396, 996 P.2d 46] .

Evid. Code § 352 gives the trial court broad discretion to exclude otherwise admissible evidence [Garfield v. Russell (1967) 251 Cal. App. 2d 275, 279, 59 Cal. Rptr. 379] . The court may exclude the evidence on its own initiative, but if it fails to do so, counsel must, if the evidence is to be excluded, request the court to do so; the objection that the court failed to exclude the evidence cannot be raised for the first time on appeal [Gherman v. Colburn (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 544, 581, 582, 140 Cal. Rptr. 330] .

A trial court, in making a determination whether certain evidence is substantially more prejudicial than probative, need not expressly weigh prejudice against probative value, or even expressly state that it had done so [People v. Waidla (2000) 22 Cal. 4th 690, 724 n.6, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 396, 996 P.2d 46 (stating that this is the current rule and language to the contrary in any of its other decisions is no longer valid)].

In the Los Angeles County Superior Court, the court on its own motion should exclude evidence excludable under Evid. Code § 352 [Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.89 (court should also exclude irrelevant evidence on its own motion but ordinarily should not exclude evidence on its own motion when inadmissible on other grounds)].

[3] Relevant Evidence Objectionable on Other Grounds

Particular testimony that is relevant may be excluded on other specific grounds enumerated in the Evidence Code, for example:

- The witness is not competent to testify to a particular matter (e.g., witness lacks personal knowledge) [see Evid. Code § 702; Gherman v. Colburn (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 544, 582, 140 Cal. Rptr. 330 (witness's speculation regarding another person's state of mind absent proper evidence, such as declarations or conduct, is both incompetent and irrelevant and properly excluded by court on its own initiative); see also discussion in § 551.121[2]].

- The question calls for the opinion of a nonexpert witness or of an expert witness beyond the area of his or her expertise [see Evid. Code §§ 800, 801, and discussion in § 551.70].

- The answer is privileged [see Evid. Code §§ 900-1070; and discussion in § 551.118].

- The answer is hearsay [see Evid. Code § 1200(b); and discussion in § 551.71].

- The evidence is cumulative [see Evid. Code § 765; discussed in § 551.121[3]].

An agreement between parties that evidence will not be admissible at trial, such as evidence of settlement negotiations, is enforceable so long as the agreement was not obtained by fraud, misrepresentation, mistake of fact, or excusable neglect, there is no substantial change in circumstances making enforcement of the agreement unfair to a party, and the agreement does not violate public policy [Tower Acton v. Los Angeles County Waterworks Dist. No. 37 (2002) 105 Cal. App. 4th 590, 600-602, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 640 (agreement enforceable)].

[4] Specific Evidence

[a] Subsequent Safety Measures

When, after the occurrence of an event, remedial or precautionary measures are taken, which, if taken previously, would have tended to make the event less likely to occur, evidence of the subsequent measures is inadmissible to prove negligence or culpable conduct in connection with the event [Evid. Code § 1151].

Evid. Code § 1151 by its own terms excludes evidence of subsequent remedial or precautionary measures only when the evidence is offered to prove negligence or culpable conduct. Thus it does not apply to an action based on strict liability in tort [Ault v. International Harvester Co. (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 113, 117-121, 117 Cal. Rptr. 812, 528 P.2d 1148 ; Magnante v. Pettibone-Wood Mfg. Co. (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 764, 766-767, 228 Cal. Rptr. 420 ; for further discussion of products liability, see Ch. 460, Products Liability [see also California Products Liability Actions (Matthew Bender) and California Trial Guide, § 50.30 (Matthew Bender)].

If remedial measures are taken by someone not a party to the action, Evid. Code § 1151 still operates to exclude any evidence of those measures if the nonparty's negligence is an issue in the action, if no strict liability theory has been asserted against the nonparty, and if a determination that the nonparty was negligent will have a direct effect on the amount of damages that the nonparty will be required to pay [Santilli v. Otis Elevator Co. (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 210, 214, 263 Cal. Rptr. 496 (nonparty employer's workers' compensation lien against employee's jury award would be reduced by percentage of responsibility that jury allocates to employer for employee's injury)].

Evid. Code § 1151 refers to subsequent actions taken to repair or correct a problem, as distinguished from subsequent factual inquiries undertaken to determine whether repair or correction is necessary. Consequently, hospital peer review committee inquiries, undertaken to investigate physician misconduct, do not constitute subsequent remedial measures that would be subject to exclusion in a malpractice action under Evid. Code § 1151, particularly since such inquiries are addressed by the more specific disclosure and admissibility restrictions of Evid. Code § 1157 [Fox v. Kramer (2000) 22 Cal. 4th 531, 544, 548, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 497, 994 P.2d 343 ; for discussion of Evid. Code § 1157, see Ch. 295, Hospitals].

[b] Offer to Compromise or Offer From Humanitarian Motives

Evidence that a person has, in compromise or from humanitarian motives, furnished, offered, or promised to furnish money or any other thing, act, or service to another who has, or claims to have, sustained or claims that he or she will sustain loss or damage, as well as any conduct or statements made in negotiation thereof, is inadmissible to prove the person's liability for the loss or damage or any part of it [Evid. Code § 1152(a); for related jury instruction on evidence of settlement, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI No. 217 (Matthew Bender), also available in LexisNexis Automated Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions]. However, this does not affect the admissibility of evidence of (1) partial satisfaction of an asserted claim or demand without questioning its validity when the evidence is offered to prove the validity of the claim, or (2) a debtor's payment or promise to pay all or a part of his or her preexisting debt when the evidence is offered to prove the creation of a new duty on his or her part or a revival of the preexisting duty [Evid. Code § 1152(c)].

The purpose of Evid. Code § 1152 is to avoid deterring parties from making offers of settlement and to facilitate candid discussion that may lead to settlement of disputes [Fieldson Associates, Inc. v. Whitecliff Labs., Inc. (1969) 276 Cal. App. 2d 770, 773, 81 Cal. Rptr. 332] . The section does not apply, however, to statements that are in no way connected with any attempt of compromise or are statements of fact independent of an offer of compromise. Accordingly, evidence relative to the issue of whether there has been an accord and satisfaction is not subject to the objection that it violates the rule excluding offers of compromise. Moreover, the statements of a party against whom a claim is made that he or she is willing to settle the claim, when not connected with an offer of compromise, may be proved as an admission against interest [Moving Picture etc. Union v. Glasgow Theaters, Inc. (1970) 6 Cal. App. 3d 395, 402, 86 Cal. Rptr. 33] .

Evid. Code § 1152(a) does not bar evidence of settlement if the evidence is offered to establish a fact other than the liability of the settling party. Therefore, for example, if a codefendant sends a letter of apology to plaintiff under the terms of a settlement agreement in a libel action, the letter is admissible in the trial against a nonsettling codefendant as evidence that the allegedly libelous statements made about plaintiff were false [Carney v. Santa Cruz Women Against Rape (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 1009, 1023-1024, 271 Cal. Rptr. 30] .

If an offer to compromise is admitted in an action for breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing or for violation of Ins. Code § 790.03(h), then at the request of the party against whom the evidence is admitted, or at the request of the party who made the admitted compromise offer, evidence relating to any other offer or counteroffer to compromise the same or substantially the same claimed loss or damages also is admissible for the same purpose as the initial evidence regarding settlement. Other than as may be admitted in an action for breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing or violation of Ins. Code § 790.03(h), evidence of settlement offers is not admissible in a motion for a new trial, in any proceeding involving an additur or remittitur, or on appeal [Evid. Code § 1152(b); but see Moradi-Shalal v. Fireman's Fund Ins. Companies (1988) 46 Cal. 3d 287, 297-305, 250 Cal. Rptr. 116, 758 P.2d 58 (prospectively abrogating private third-party standing under Ins. Code § 790.03); see also discussion in Ch. 308, Insurance, § 308.10 et seq.]. For a form of complaint alleging a violation of Ins. Code § 790.03(h), see Ch. 308, Insurance, § 308.10 et seq. For discussion and forms relating to a breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing, see Ch. 140, Contracts , General Introduction and Pt. I.

[c] Evidence and Documents in Mediation of Dispute

[i] Admissibility and Discovery in General

Except as otherwise provided in Evid. Code § 1115 et seq., when persons engage in a mediation or a mediation consultation [see Evid. Code § 1115(a), (c)], evidence of anything said, any admission made, or any writing [see Evid. Code § 250] prepared for, during, or pursuant to the mediation or mediation consultation is not admissible or subject to discovery. Disclosure of such evidence or writing may not be compelled in any proceeding in which, pursuant to law, testimony can be compelled to be given. All communications, negotiations, or settlement discussions by participants in the course of a mediation or a mediation consultation are confidential [Evid. Code § 1119].

Evidence otherwise admissible or subject to discovery outside of a mediation or a mediation consultation is not inadmissible or protected from disclosure solely by reason of its introduction or use in a mediation or a mediation consultation. The mediation provisions [Evid. Code § 1115 et seq.] do not limit any of the following [Evid. Code § 1120:

- The admissibility of an agreement to mediate a dispute.

- The effect of an agreement not to take a default or an agreement to extend the time within which to act or refrain from acting in a pending civil action.

- Disclosure of the mere fact that a mediator has served, is serving, will serve, or was contacted about serving as a mediator in a dispute.

No one may submit to a court or other adjudicative body, nor may a court or other adjudicative body consider, any report, assessment, evaluation, recommendation, or finding of any kind by the mediator concerning the mediation, other than a report that is mandated by court rule or other law and that states only whether an agreement was reached, unless all parties to the mediation expressly agree otherwise, either in writing or orally in accordance with Evid. Code § 1118 [Evid. Code § 1121].

A communication or a writing, as defined in Evid. Code § 250, that is made or prepared for the purpose of, or in the course of, or pursuant to, a mediation or a mediation consultation is not made inadmissible, or protected from disclosure, by the mediation provisions [Evid. Code § 1115 et seq.] if either:

- All persons who participate in the mediation expressly agree in writing, or orally in accordance with Evid. Code § 1118, to its disclosure.

- It was prepared by or on behalf of fewer than all the mediation participants, and those participants expressly agree in writing, or orally in accordance with Evid. Code § 1118, to its disclosure, and it does not disclose anything said or done or any admission made in the course of the mediation.

The agreement of the mediator to disclosure binds any person who the mediator designated to assist in the mediation or to communicate with the participants in preparation for the mediation [Evid. Code § 1122].

[iii] Written Settlement Agreement

A written settlement agreement prepared in the course of or pursuant to a mediation is not made inadmissible, or protected from disclosure, by the mediation provisions [Evid. Code § 1115 et seq.] if the agreement is signed by the settling parties and either [Evid. Code § 1123]:

- The agreement provides that it is admissible or subject to disclosure, or words to that effect.
- The agreement provides that it is enforceable or binding, or words to that effect.
- All parties to the agreement expressly agree in writing, or orally in accordance with Evid. Code § 1118 to its disclosure.
- The agreement is used to show fraud, duress, or illegality that is relevant to an issue in dispute.

[iv] Oral Agreement

An oral agreement made in the course of or pursuant to a mediation is not made inadmissible, or protected from disclosure, by the mediation provisions [Evid. Code § 1115 et seq.] if either [Evid. Code § 1124:

- The agreement is in accordance with Evid. Code § 1118.
- The agreement is in accordance with Evid. Code § 1118(a), (b), and (d) and all parties to the agreement expressly agree, in writing, or orally in accordance with Evid. Code § 1118, to disclosure of the agreement.
- The agreement is in accordance with Evid. Code § 1118(a), (b), and (d) and the agreement is used to show fraud, duress, or illegality that is relevant to an issue in dispute.

[v] End of Mediation for Purposes of Confidentiality

For purposes of confidentiality under the mediation provisions [Evid. Code § 1115 et seq.], if a mediation fully resolves a dispute, the mediation ends when either:

- The parties execute a written settlement agreement that fully resolves the dispute.
- An oral agreement that fully resolves the dispute is reached in accordance with Evid. Code § 1118.
- The mediator, consistent with Evid. Code § 1121, signs and provides the mediation participants with a writing that states the mediation is terminated, or words to that effect.
- A party, consistent with Evid. Code § 1121, provides the mediator and the other mediation participants with a writing stating that the mediation is terminated, or words to that effect.
- For 10 calendar days, unless that time is shortened or extended by agreement of the mediator and the parties, there is no communication between the mediator and any of the parties to the mediation relating to the dispute.

In a mediation involving more than two parties, the mediation may continue as to the remaining parties or may be terminated in accordance with this procedure [Evid. Code § 1125(a)]. Additionally, if a mediation partially resolves a dispute, the mediation ends when either [Evid. Code § 1125(b):

- The parties execute a written settlement agreement that partially resolves the dispute.

- An oral agreement that partially resolves the dispute is reached in accordance with Evid. Code § 1118.

These provisions do not preclude a party from ending a mediation without reaching an agreement, nor do they otherwise affect the extent to which a party may terminate a mediation [Evid. Code § 1125(c)]. Anything said, any admission made, or any writing that is inadmissible, protected from disclosure, and confidential under the mediation provisions [Evid. Code § 1115 et seq.] before a mediation ends remains inadmissible, protected from disclosure, and confidential to the same extent after the mediation ends [Evid. Code § 1126].

[vi] Costs and Attorney's Fees

If a person subpoenas or otherwise seeks to compel a mediator to testify or produce a writing, as defined in Evid. Code § 250, and the court or other adjudicative body determines that the testimony or writing is inadmissible or protected from disclosure under Evid. Code § 1115 et seq., the court or adjudicative body making the determination must award reasonable attorney's fees and costs to the mediator against the person seeking the testimony or writing [Evid. Code § 1127].

[vii] Sanctions for References During Subsequent Trial

Any reference to a mediation during any subsequent trial is an irregularity in the proceedings of the trial for the purposes of Code Civ. Proc. § 657. Any reference to a mediation during any other subsequent noncriminal proceeding is grounds for vacating or modifying the decision in that proceeding, in whole or in part, and granting a new or further hearing on all or part of the issues, if the reference materially affected the substantial rights of the party requesting relief [Evid. Code § 1128].

For further discussion of mediation, including enforcement of settlements reached through mediation, see Ch. 31, Mediation .

[d] Offer to Discount Claim

Evidence that a person has accepted, offered, or promised to accept a sum of money or any other thing, act, or service in satisfaction of a claim, as well as any conduct or statements in negotiation thereof, is not admissible to prove the invalidity of the claim or any part of it [Evid. Code § 1154].

[e] Offer for Civil Resolution of Criminal Matter

Evidence of an offer for civil resolution of a criminal matter pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 33, relating to civil actions resulting from crimes against property, or admissions made in the course of or negotiations for the offer are not admissible in any action [Evid. Code § 1153.5].

[f] Guilty Plea

Evidence of a guilty plea, later withdrawn, or of an offer to plead guilty to a crime charged or any other crime, by the defendant in a criminal action is not admissible in any action or any proceeding of any nature [Evid. Code § 1153].

[g] Liability Insurance

Evidence that a person was, at the time a harm was suffered by another, insured wholly or partially against loss arising from liability for that harm is not admissible to prove negligence or other wrongdoing [Evid. Code § 1155]. The purpose of this exclusion is to prevent the prejudicial use of evidence of liability insurance in an action against the insured. Based on an assumption that a private cause of action could be brought against insurers for violation of the Unfair Practices Act [Ins. Code § 790 et seq.], it was once held that a joint trial against the insured for negligence and against the insurer for violating its duties under the Unfair Practices Act would violate both the letter and spirit of Evid. Code § 1155 [Royal Globe Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 880, 891, 153 Cal. Rptr. 842, 592 P.2d 329 , overruled prospectively in Moradi-Shalal v. Fireman's Fund Ins. Companies (1988) 46 Cal. 3d 287, 297-305, 250 Cal. Rptr. 116, 758 P.2d 58 (final October 17, 1988) (no private right of action exists against insurers for violation of Unfair Practices Act)]. Notwithstanding the reasoning behind this rule, one suing an insured for injuries suffered as a result of an insured's alleged negligence may properly join the insured's liability insurer in a cause of action for fraud and conspiracy in obtaining from plaintiff a release freeing the insured from all claims arising out of the incident, provided the issues are bifurcated and the jury trying the issue of liability is afforded no knowledge of the tortfeasor's insurance coverage [Johnson v. Threats (1983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 287, 290-291 ; see Ahmed v. Peterson (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 374, 377, 230 Cal. Rptr. 636 (cause of action against tortfeasor's insurer for breach of oral contract)].

[h] Evidence Obtained by Illegal Eavesdropping or Recording

Evidence obtained as a result of eavesdropping on or recording a confidential communication in violation of Penal Code § 632 is not admissible in an action, except as proof in an action or prosecution for violation of the criminal statute [Penal Code § 632(d)]. Penal Code § 632 is violated by intentionally eavesdropping on or recording a confidential communication by means of any electronic amplifying or recording device, without the consent of all parties [Penal Code § 632(a)]. A confidential communication generally includes any communication carried on in circumstances that may reasonably indicate that any party to the communication desires it to be confined to the parties thereto [see Penal Code § 632(c)].

Penal Code § 632 applies to participatory monitoring of confidential communications, such as the tape recording of a telephone conversation by one conversant without the consent of the other [Frio v. Superior Court (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 1480, 1485, 1498, 250 Cal. Rptr. 819] . Illegal recordings, as well as any notes prepared from illegal recordings, are not admissible [Frio v. Superior Court (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 1480, 1492, 250 Cal. Rptr. 819] . However, Penal Code § 632(d) does not exclude the independent present recollection of the tape-recording party. Further, use of an illegal recording merely to refresh the recollection of the tape-recording party does not render the refreshed testimony inadmissible [Frio v. Superior Court (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 1480, 1498, 250 Cal. Rptr. 819] . For further discussion of refreshing the recollection of a witness, see Subpart G.

If the tape-recording party's testimony is admitted, the illegally obtained evidence may not be used to impeach the witness who was recorded. However, if the testimony is excluded, the tape-recording party may not use the Penal Code § 632(d) sanction as a license to lie, and the illegally obtained evidence can be used for impeachment purposes [Frio v. Superior Court (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 1480, 1496-1497, 1498-1499, 250 Cal. Rptr. 819] .

[5] Morbidity or Mortality Studies and Proceedings and Records of Health Care Committees

Although subject to discovery, morbidity and mortality studies of an in-hospital medical or medical-dental staff committee of a licensed hospital or of a mental health quality assurance committee established in compliance with Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 4070 and 5624 are admissible in evidence only as provided in Evid. Code §§ 1156(c) (relating to original medical or dental records of a patient) and 1156.1(c) (relating to original medical or psychiatric records of a patient) [Evid. Code §§ 1156(a), 1156.1(a)].

Welf. & Inst. Code § 4070 was amended and Welf. & Inst. Code § 5624 was repealed by 1991 legislation [Stats. 1991, ch. 89, §§ 32 and 108, respectively]. The cross reference to those sections in Evid. Code § 1156.1(a) was not corrected. The changes to section 4070 and repeal of section 5624 will become inoperative if the Commission on State Mandates determines (and the Director of Finance does not appeal from the determination) or a California appellate court determines that any provision of Stats. 1991, ch. 89, is a state-mandated local program requiring state reimbursement to a local agency or school district.

For when the records and proceedings of hospital staff committees responsible for evaluating and improving the quality of care, or of specified medical, and other health related, society review committees, or of an organized committee of a nonprofit medical care foundation or professional standards review organization, are admissible in evidence, see Evid. Code §§ 1157, 1157.5 and Ch. 295, Hospitals [see also Evid. Code §§ 1157.6 (relating to mental health quality assurance committees) and 1157.7 (relating to committees established by local government agency to monitor, evaluate, and report necessity, quality, and level of specialty health services)].

[6] Testimony of Particular Witness

A particular witness may be excluded from testifying on grounds other than those enumerated above. For example, a party who failed to exchange his or her list of expert witnesses pursuant to a pretrial demand may be prohibited from calling any expert witnesses to testify, except for purposes of impeachment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2034.300; see also Muller v. Fresno Community Hospital & Medical Center (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 887, 906, 91 Cal. Rptr. 3d 617 (effect of failure to designate witness or include in designation all information required by Code Civ. Proc. § 2034.260)] or percipient testimony [Province v. Center for Women's Health & Family Birth (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 1673, 1684, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 667] . "Impeachment" in this context means to call in question the veracity of a witness by means of evidence adduced for such purpose or the adducing of proof that a witness is unworthy of belief; it does not mean calling an expert witness to express an opinion contrary to that expressed by another expert witness [Kennemur v. State of California (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 907, 921-922, 184 Cal. Rptr. 393 (distinguishing impeachment from general rebuttal; for further discussion, see Ch. 198, Discovery: Exchange of Expert Witness Information]. As another example, the court may exclude the testimony of a witness at trial if the witness's name was willfully excluded from an answer to an interrogatory seeking the names of all witnesses [Thoren v. Johnston & Washer (197 29 Cal. App. 3d 270, 273-274, 105 Cal. Rptr. 276] .

[1] Lay Witness

Unless a witness is testifying as an expert, his or her testimony in the form of an opinion is limited to an opinion that is (1) rationally based on the witness's perception and helpful to a clear understanding of his or her testimony or (2) otherwise permitted by law [Evid. Code § 800].

An example of an opinion permitted by law is the opinion of a property owner or the owner's spouse of the value of the property or of the property interest being valued [see Evid. Code § 813(a)(2)]. A lay witness may also express an opinion that a person was "drunk," that people engaged in a discussion were "angry," that an impact was strong enough to jar a passenger from a seat, or that someone appeared to be "trying to break up a fight" [see Osborn v. Mission Ready Mix (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 104, 113, 273 Cal. Rptr. 457] . Lay opinions of this type are admissible when matters observed by the witness are too complex or subtle to be conveyed accurately without resorting to conclusory descriptions or when the facts underlying the witness's opinion cannot be made sufficiently palpable to the jury so that the jury's means of forming an opinion based on those facts are practically equal to those of the witness [Osborn v. Mission Ready Mix (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 104, 112-113, 273 Cal. Rptr. 457] .

The credit and weight to be given such evidence and its effect, as well as the resolution of any conflicts between the testimony of an owner as to value and that of an expert witness, is for the trier of fact [Windeler v. Scheers Jewelers (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 844, 853, 88 Cal. Rptr. 39] . For another example, see discussion in [4], below.

Although permissible opinion testimony based on the witness's perception is admissible, a question asking a lay witness to testify to facts the witness has not personally perceived or to give an opinion not based on the witness's perception calls for an answer based on speculation or conjecture and is objectionable on that ground [see, e.g., People v. Glancy (1956) 142 Cal. App. 2d 669, 680, 299 P.2d 18] .

[2] Expert Witness

[a] Limitation on Opinion Evidence

[i] General Parameters

As to when expert witnesses may be called to testify, see discussion in § 551.121[12]. The opinion testimony of an expert is limited to an opinion that is related to a subject sufficiently beyond common experience that an expert's opinion would assist the trier of fact [Evid. Code § 801(a); see, e.g., Soule v. General Motors Corp. (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 548, 567, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 607, 882 P.2d 298 (where minimum safety of product is within common knowledge of lay jurors, expert witnesses may not be used to demonstrate what ordinary consumer would or should expect); Carney v. Santa Cruz Women Against Rape (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 1009, 1025, 271 Cal. Rptr. 30 (expert evidence of rape trauma syndrome was not admissible to explain type of behavior lay juror normally would associate with sexual assault); Box v. California Date Growers Assn. (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 266, 274, 129 Cal. Rptr. 146] . In addition, the opinion must be one that is based on matter (including the expert's special knowledge, skill, experience, training, and education) perceived by or personally known to the expert or made known to the expert at or before the hearing, whether or not admissible, that is of a type that reasonably may be relied on by an expert in forming an opinion on the subject to which his or her testimony relates, unless the expert is precluded by law from using such matter as a basis for his or her opinion [Evid. Code § 801(b); see People v. Mickey (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 612, 685-688, 286 Cal. Rptr. 801, 818 P.2d 84 , cert. denied, 121 L. Ed. 2d 32] . Thus, an expert must base his or her opinion either on facts personally observed or on hypotheses that find support in the evidence. An expert may not base his or her opinion on conjecture, but may, for example, identify a causative force by a process of eliminating other causes [People v. Sundlee (1977) 70 Cal. App. 3d 477, 484, 138 Cal. Rptr. 834 (cause of fire); see People v. Bassett (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 122, 143 n. 21, 70 Cal. Rptr. 193, 443 P.2d 777 , and McGuire v. Baird (1937) 9 Cal. 2d 353, 354-356, 70 P.2d 915 (on use of hypothetical questions in examining an expert)].

An expert's opinion may be based on matter that is not admissible as evidence, such as hearsay [Evid. Code § 801(b); Notrica v. State Comp. Ins. Fund (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 911, 932-933, 83 Cal. Rptr. 2d 89 (expert witness, who gave opinion as to why insurance carrier had changed its reserve guideline, based opinion, in part, on interview with insurer's president that appeared in trade publication); In re Marriage of LaBass & Munsee (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 1331, 1338, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 393 (hearsay)]. If hearsay, it must be of a type reasonably relied upon by professions in the field in forming an opinion on the subject [People ex rel. Dept. of Transportation v. Caluser/Wells Partnership (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 1066, 1085, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 240 ; Korsak v. Atlas Hotels, Inc. (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 1516, 1524, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 833] . However, when the opinion is based in part on inadmissible hearsay statements, it is improper for the proponent of the testimony to solicit evidence of the substance of the statements on direct examination [Korsak v. Atlas Hotels, Inc. (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 1516, 1525-1527, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 833 (error to permit expert witness to testify about informal survey he took regarding hotel maintenance practices to prove that hotel had failed to meet standard of care owed to its guests)]. When an expert has relied on matter that constitutes a proper basis for an opinion but is otherwise inadmissible, the court on request must at least instruct the jury that the matter is admitted only for the limited purpose of showing the basis for the expert's opinion [People v. Coleman (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 69, 92, 211 Cal. Rptr. 102, 695 P.2d 189] .

For a related jury instruction on expert witness testimony, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI No. 219 (Matthew Bender), also available in LexisNexis Automated Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions.

[ii] Scientific Techniques

The witness's testimony may be based upon scientific techniques if those techniques are generally accepted by a typical cross-section of the relevant scientific community. This test is known as the Kelly/Frye foundational showing [People v. Leahy (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 587, 612, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 663, 882 P.2d 321 (citing People v. Kelly (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 24, 37, 130 Cal. Rptr. 144, 549 P.2d 1240); see also discussion in § 551.66[10]]. The Kelly rule does not apply to the personal opinions of an expert [People v. McDonald (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 351, 372-373, 208 Cal. Rptr. 236, 690 P.2d 709 ; Arreola v. County of Monterey, 99 Cal. App. 4th 722, 750, 122 Cal. Rptr. 2d 38 ; Wilson v. Phillips (1999) 73

Cal. App. 4th 250, 254-256, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 204] .

An absolute unanimity of views, however, is not required; it is sufficient that a clear majority of the members of that community support the technique [People v. Leahy (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 587, 612, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 663, 882 P.2d 321 (citing People v. Guerra (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 385, 418, 208 Cal. Rptr. 162, 690 P.2d 635] . Although it is questionable whether the testimony of a single witness can represent the views of an entire community, published writings in scholarly treatises and journals can be used in lieu of live testimony [People v. Leahy (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 587, 611, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 663, 882 P.2d 321 (citing People v. Kelly (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 24, 37, 130 Cal. Rptr. 144, 549 P.2d 1240 and People v. Shirley (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 18, 55-56, 181 Cal. Rptr. 243, 723 P.2d 1354 , cert. denied, 459 U.S. 860)].

Although the United States Supreme Court discarded the " Frye" rule, on which California's " Kelly-Frye" rule is based [Daubert v. Merrell Dow Pharms., Inc. (1993) 509 U.S. 579, 113 S. Ct. 2786, 125 L. Ed. 2d 469 (admissibility of scientific evidence in federal courts should be determined under broader standards contained in Fed. R. Evid. 702), the California Supreme Court rejected the Daubert analysis for purposes of determining the admissibility of evidence of new scientific techniques and reaffirmed the " Kelly-Frye" analysis [People v. Leahy (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 587, 598-605, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 663, 882 P. 2d 321] . The court did not, however, address the question of whether Daubert factors could be used in determining the reliability of an expert's testimony under Evid. Code § 801(b). The United States Supreme Court subsequently expanded Daubert to "testimony based on 'technical' and 'other specialized' knowledge," i.e., to all expert testimony, holding that a trial court may consider Daubert factors when doing so will help determine the reliability of an expert's testimony [Kumho Tire Co. v. Carmichael (1999) 526 U.S. 137, 119 S. Ct. 1167, 143 L. Ed. 2d 238, 246] . Whether the Kumho decision may have an impact on the admissibility of expert testimony in California remains to be seen.

[iii] Experimental Evidence

On the admissibility of an expert's conclusions based on an experiment conducted by him or her that lacked adequate foundation and was not conducted under substantially similar conditions to those involved in the lawsuit, see Solis v. Southern Cal. Rapid Transit Dist. (1980) 105 Cal. App. 3d 382, 390, 164 Cal. Rptr. 343 .

[iv] Opinion on Issue of Law

Expert opinion on an issue of law is, as a general rule, prohibited in a jury trial. The manner in which the law should apply to particular facts is a legal question and is not subject to expert opinion. Expert opinions as to the application of the law to particular facts usurps the duty of the trial court to instruct the jury on the law as applicable to the facts [see, e.g., Summers v. A.L. Gilbert Co. (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 1155, 1160, 1185, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 162 (trial court erred in admitting lawyer's opinion on whether defendant had nondelegable duty and other legal issues); Cooper Companies v. Transcontinental Ins. Co. (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1094, 1100, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 508 (meaning of insurance policy is question of law about which expert opinion testimony is inappropriate)].

[b] Opinion Based in Whole or in Part on Opinion or Statement of Another Person

If an expert testifies that his or her opinion is based in whole or in part on the opinion or statement of another person, the adverse party may call and examine the other person as if under cross examination. But this does not apply if the person on whose opinion or statement the expert relied is (1) a party, (2) a person identified with a party within the meaning of Evid. Code § 776(d) (discussed in § 551.121[11]), or (3) a witness who has testified in the action concerning the subject matter of the opinion or statement on which the expert relied [Evid. Code § 804(a), (b)]. Evid. Code § 804 neither makes admissible an expert opinion that is inadmissible because it is based in whole or in part on the opinion or statement of another person nor makes inadmissible an otherwise admissible expert opinion because it is based on the opinion or statement of a person who is unavailable for examination pursuant to Evid. Code § 804(a) [Evid. Code § 804(c), (d)]. If an expert does rely in part on the opinions of others, the expert may be cross-examined as to the content of those opinions, but it is improper to solicit the information on direct examination if the statements are inadmissible [Mosesian v. Pennwalt Corp. (1987) 191 Cal. App.3d 851, 864, 866, 236 Cal. Rptr. 778 (objection to admission of inadmissible hearsay was waived and was otherwise not prejudicial)].

[3] Basis of Opinion and Exclusion When Improperly Based

A witness testifying in the form of an opinion may, on direct examination, state the reasons for the opinion and the matter on which it is based unless the witness is precluded by law from using such reasons or matter as a basis for the opinion [Evid. Code § 802]. In addition, an expert may read to the jury excerpts of the material relied upon when context is needed to understand it [Notrica v. State Comp. Ins. Fund (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 911, 933, 83 Cal. Rptr. 2d 89 (expert witness, who gave opinion as to why insurance carrier had changed its reserve guideline, based opinion, in part, on interview with defendant's president that appeared in trade publication; expert read portions of article to jury)]. The court may require that a witness testifying in the form of an opinion be first examined concerning the matter on which the opinion is based [Evid. Code § 802; see discussion in § 551.76].

If an expert's opinion is based on considerations that are partially proper and partially improper, the trial court has discretion to admit or exclude the evidence [Gherman v. Colburn (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 544, 578, 140 Cal. Rptr. 330] . However, the court may, and on the objection of a party must, exclude testimony in the form of an opinion based in whole or significant part on matter that is not a proper basis for the opinion. In that case, the witness may, if there remains a proper basis for the opinion, state the opinion after excluding from consideration the matter determined to be improper [Evid. Code § 803].

[4] Opinion of Sanity

A witness may state his or her opinion as to the sanity of a person when (1) the witness is an intimate acquaintance of the person whose sanity is in question; or (2) the witness was a subscribing witness to a writing, the validity of which is in dispute, signed by the person whose sanity is in question and the opinion relates to the sanity of the person at the time the writing was signed; or (3) the witness is qualified to testify in the form of an opinion under Evid. Code § 800, discussed in [1], above, or Evid. Code § 801, discussed in [2][a], above [Evid. Code § 870].

[5] Opinion Embracing Issue to Be Decided by Trier of Fact

The fact that otherwise admissible opinion testimony embraces the ultimate issue to be decided by the trier of fact does not make it objectionable [Evid. Code § 805; see People v. Doss (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 1585, 1596, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 590 ; Miller v. Los Angeles County Flood Control Dist. (1973) 8 Cal. 3d 689, 702, 106 Cal. Rptr. 1, 505 P.2d 193 (involving expert witness); see also Kennemur v. State of California (1982) 184 Cal. Rptr. 393 (holding trial court did not err in precluding expert witness from testifying on ultimate issue of fact when jurors were fully capable of deciding that fact on basis of their own experience)].

[6] Effect of Failure to Object to Opinion or Conclusion

Incompetent testimony, such as a conclusion, if received without objection, takes on the attributes of competent proof when considered on the question of sufficiency of the evidence to support a judgment or verdict. Technically incompetent evidence admitted without objection must be given as much weight in the reviewing court in reviewing the sufficiency of the evidence as if it were competent [see Berry v. Chrome Crankshaft Co. (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 549, 552, 324 P.2d 70] .

§ 551.71 Hearsay Evidence

[1] In General

"Hearsay evidence" is evidence of a statement that was made other than by a witness while testifying and that is offered to prove the truth of the matter asserted [Evid. Code § 1200(a)]. For the meaning of "statement," see definitions under § 551.60[2].

Implied assertions are hearsay. For example, while executing a search warrant for evidence of possession of a controlled substance for sale, an officer answers the phone and hears the caller ask to buy drugs. The caller's questions and statements are hearsay, but case law, recognized and accepted when the Evidence Code was adopted and continuing thereafter, has created an exception to the hearsay rule for this reliable type of evidence [People v. Morgan (2005) 125 Cal. App. 4th 935, 940-947, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 224] .

The admissibility or inadmissibility of hearsay evidence is governed by Evid. Code § 1200 et seq. However, these sections are not to be construed as repealing by implication any other statute relating to hearsay evidence [Evid. Code § 1205].

[2] Hearsay Rule and Result of Failure to Object

Except as provided by law, hearsay evidence is inadmissible. This is known as "the hearsay rule" [Evid. Code § 1200(b), (c)]. The rule embraces both written and oral expressions, and applies to electronic sound and video recordings, which are included in the definition of "writings" under Evid. Code § 250, discussed in § 551.73 [People v. Sundlee (1977) 70 Cal. App. 3d 477, 483, 138 Cal. Rptr. 834] .

Inadmissible hearsay evidence that is admitted without objection is nevertheless competent and sufficient to sustain a judgment [see Taylor v. Hizer (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 846, 850, 106 Cal. Rptr. 603 , disapproved on other grounds in Busching v. Superior Court (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 44, 115 Cal. Rptr. 241, 524 P.2d 369 ; Berry v. Chrome Crankshaft Co. (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 549, 552, 324 P.2d 70] . For the distinction between hearsay and nonhearsay evidence, see California Trial Guide, Unit 40, Hearsay (Matthew Bender).

[3] Exceptions to Hearsay Rule

The following are excepted from the hearsay:

- Confessions and admissions [Evid. Code §§ 1220-1228].

- Declarations against interest [Evid. Code § 1230].

- Prior statements of witnesses [Evid. Code §§ 1235-1238; see Sherrell v. Kelso (1981) 172 Cal. Rptr. 667] .

- Spontaneous, contemporaneous, and dying declarations [Evid. Code §§ 1240-1242].

- Statements of mental or physical state [Evid. Code §§ 1250-1252].

- Statements relating to wills and to claims against estates [Evid. Code §§ 1260, 1261].

- Business records [Evid. Code §§ 1270-1272].

- Official records and other official writings [Evid. Code §§ 1280-1284].

- Former testimony [Evid. Code §§ 1290-1293].

- Judgments [Evid. Code §§ 1300-1302].

- Family history [Evid. Code §§ 1310-1316].

- Reputation and statements concerning community history, property interests, and character [Evid. Code §§ 1320-1324].

- Dispositive instruments and ancient writings [Evid. Code §§ 1330, 1331].

- Commercial, scientific, and similar publications [Evid. Code §§ 1340, 1341].

- Statements of the infliction or threat of physical injury upon the declarant made at or near the time of the infliction or threat of physical injury to a physician, nurse, paramedic, or to a law enforcement official [Evid. Code § 1370; see People v. Pantoja (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1, 8-15, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 492] . "At or near" denotes a time close to the infliction of the injury, which in most circumstances will be within hours or days, rather than weeks or months [People v. Quitiquit (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 1, 9-10, 65 Cal. Rptr. 3d 674 (statement about physical injury made almost two months after its infliction did not satisfy statutory time limit)].

- Elder and dependent adults exception (if declarant is unavailable as a witness) [Evid. Code § 1380; see People v. Tatum (2003) 108 Cal. App. 4th 288, 295-300, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 267 ; but see People v. Pirwani (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 770, 782-787, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 673 (Evid. Code § 1380 as applied in criminal action was unconstitutional, because out-of-court testimonial statements by witnesses to law enforcement officials were barred by Sixth Amendment's Confrontation Clause even if there had been judicial determination that statement bore particularized guarantees of trustworthiness, unless defendant had prior opportunity to cross-examine witness and witness was unavailable to testify at trial)].

Exceptions to the hearsay rule are not limited to those enumerated in the Evidence Code but also may be found in other codes and decisional law. Even if a statute does not explicitly create a hearsay exception, an implicit exception may exist if the hearsay evidence is sufficiently competent, reliable, and trustworthy and if there is an indication that the Legislature intended to admit the evidence and to allow a court to rely on it in reaching a decision [see In re Malinda S. (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 368, 376-378, 382, 272 Cal. Rptr. 787, 795 P. 2d 1244] .

For a discussion of the exceptions to the hearsay rule, see California Trial Guide, § 40.20 et seq. (Matthew Bender).

[4] Hearsay Statement Consisting of One or More Statements Within Hearsay Exception

A statement within the scope of an exception to the hearsay rule is not inadmissible on the ground that evidence of the statement is hearsay evidence if the hearsay evidence consists of one or more statements that each meets the requirements of an exception to the hearsay rule [Evid. Code § 1201]. Thus, use of two or more exceptions to the hearsay rule to make double or multiple hearsay evidence admissible is proper [People v. Perez (1978) 83 Cal. App. 3d 718, 730, 148 Cal. Rptr. 90] .

[5] Evidence of Hearsay Declarant's Credibility

Evidence of a statement or other conduct by a declarant that is inconsistent with a statement by the declarant received in evidence as hearsay evidence is admissible for the purpose of attacking the credibility of the declarant, even though he or she is not given and has not had an opportunity to explain or to deny the inconsistent statement or other conduct [Evid. Code § 1202]. The purpose of this provision is one of fairness to the party against whom the hearsay evidence was admitted without opportunity to cross-examine or impeach the unavailable hearsay declarant; it merely permits impeaching evidence without the necessity that the declarant be given an opportunity to explain or to deny the inconsistency [see People v. Ross (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 391, 406, 154 Cal. Rptr. 783] .

In addition, any other evidence offered to attack or support the credibility of the declarant is admissible if it would have been admissible had the declarant been a witness at the hearing [Evid. Code § 1202]. The purpose of this provision is to ensure that the unavailability of a hearsay declarant will not prevent introduction of relevant evidence that would have been admissible had the declarant been in court [People v. Marquez (1979) 88 Cal. App. 3d 993, 998, 152 Cal. Rptr. 200] .

For the purposes of this rule, the deponent of a deposition taken in the action in which it is offered is deemed to be a hearsay declarant [Evid. Code § 1202].

Evid. Code § 1202 deals with the impeachment of a declarant whose hearsay statement is in evidence and does not apply to the impeachment of a witness who has testified [People v. Williams (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 663, 668, 128 Cal. Rptr. 888, 547 P.2d 1000 ; on impeachment of witness based on prior inconsistent statement, see discussion in § 551.121[9]].

[6] Examination of Hearsay Declarant

The declarant of a statement admitted as hearsay evidence may be called and examined by any adverse party as if under cross-examination concerning the statement [Evid. Code § 1203(a)]. But this does not apply if the declarant is a party, a person identified with a party within the meaning of Evid. Code § 776(d) (discussed in § 551.121[11]), or a witness who has testified in the action concerning the subject matter of the statement [Evid. Code § 1203(b)]. Nor does it apply if the statement is one described in Evid. Code §§ 1220-1228 (confessions and admissions), 1235-1238 (prior statements of witnesses), or 1300-1302 (judgments) [Evid. Code § 1203(c)].

However, a statement otherwise admissible as hearsay evidence is not made inadmissible by Evid. Code § 1203 because the declarant who made the statement is unavailable for examination pursuant to Evid. Code § 1203(a) [Evid. Code § 1203(d)].

§ 551.72 "Unavailable as a Witness" Defined

Several Evidence Code provisions use the term "unavailable as a witness" when referring to statements made by a nonwitness declarant, that is, to the admissibility or use of hearsay evidence [see, e.g., Evid. Code §§ 804(d) (expert opinion testimony based on statements of others), 1230 (declaration against interest as exception to hearsay rule), 1310 (statement of declarant concerning his or her own family history as exception to hearsay rule)]. The phrase is defined as meaning a declarant who is any of the following [Evid. Code § 240(a)]:

- Exempted or precluded on the ground of privilege from testifying concerning the matter to which his or her statement is relevant [Evid. Code § 240(a)(1)]. For a discussion of privileges, see Ch. 191, Discovery: Privileges and Other Discovery Limitaitons .

- Disqualified from testifying to the matter [Evid. Code § 240(a)(2)].

- Dead or unable to attend or to testify at the hearing because of then-existing physical or mental illness or infirmity [Evid. Code § 240(a)(3)]. Expert testimony establishing that physical or mental trauma resulting from an alleged crime has caused harm to a witness of sufficient severity that the witness is physically unable to testify or is unable to testify without suffering substantial trauma may constitute a sufficient showing of "unavailability" within the meaning of Evid. Code § 240(a)(3) [Evid. Code § 240(c)]. Appellate courts should independently review a trial court's determination that a witness is unavailable due to then existing mental illness or infirmity or because crime-induced mental trauma renders the witness unable to testify without suffering substantial trauma [People v. Winslow (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 464, 469-473, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 872] .

- Absent from the hearing and the court is unable to compel his or her attendance by its process [Evid. Code § 240(a)(4)].

- Absent from the hearing and the proponent of his or her statement has exercised reasonable diligence but has been unable to procure his or her attendance by the court's process [Evid. Code § 240(a)(5)].

> Whether reasonable diligence is shown is a factual question and what constitutes reasonable diligence to secure the presence of a witness depends on the facts of the individual case [see Gordon v. D & G Escrow Corp. (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 616, 624, 122 Cal. Rptr. 150 (using "due" diligence as synonymous with "reasonable" diligence and holding trial court did not err in excluding declarations against interest when all efforts to find declarant were "stale" with possible exception of telephone directory check)].

A declarant is not unavailable as a witness if the exemption, preclusion, disqualification, death, inability, or absence of the declarant was brought about by the procurement or wrongdoing of the proponent of his or her statement for the purpose of preventing the declarant from attending or testifying [Evid. Code § 240(b)].

§ 551.73 Writings

[1] "Writing," "Original," and "Duplicate" Defined

A "writing" is defined as meaning handwriting, typewriting, printing, photostating, photographing, and every other means of recording on any tangible thing any form of communication or representation, including letters, words, pictures, sounds, or symbols, or any combination of these [Evid. Code § 250]. Hence, properly authenticated tape recordings are admissible in evidence as "writings" [Darley v. Ward (1980) 28 Cal. 3d 257, 261, 168 Cal. Rptr. 481, 617 P.2d 1113 ; Jones v. City of Los Angeles (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 436, 441-442, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 528 (videotape of plaintiff's daily activities in personal injury action); People v. Archer (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 197, 207-209, 263 Cal. Rptr. 486 (videotapes)] provided they do not violate the hearsay rule, discussed above [People v. Sundlee (1977) 70 Cal. App. 3d 477, 483, 138 Cal. Rptr. 834] . Evid. Code § 250 does not, however, apply to the recording and reporting of depositions. The procedural aspects of recording and reporting depositions are governed by the Code of Civil Procedure [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 17, 2004, and 2025(l) (Code Civ. Proc. § 2025.340 effective July 1, 2005); Bailey v. Superior Court (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 970, 974, 976, 140 Cal. Rptr. 669, 568 P.2d 394] .

"Original" means the writing itself or any counterpart intended to have the same effect by a person executing or issuing it. An "original" of a photograph includes the negative or any print made from it. If data are stored in a computer or similar device, any printout or other output readable by sight, shown to reflect the data accurately, is an "original" [Evid. Code § 255]. Additionally, if a writing of any sort has been damaged or destroyed by "explosion, conflagration, earthquake, disaster or other public calamity," an interested person may petition a court for an order "establishing, reciting, or declaring the existence, substance, genuineness or authenticity" of the writing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1953.10; for discussion, see Ch. 356, Lost Papers ; see also § 551.74[6]]. The order will be deemed in lieu of the original and have the same effect as if the original had not been damaged, destroyed or otherwise rendered wholly or partly illegible [Code Civ. Proc. § 1953.13].

A "duplicate" is a counterpart produced by the same impression as the original, or from the same matrix, or by means of photography, including enlargements, miniatures, or by mechanical or electronic recording, or by chemical reproduction, or by other equivalent technique that accurately reproduces the original [Evid. Code § 260].

[2] Authentication of Writings

A writing must be authenticated before it is received in evidence or before secondary evidence of its content may be received in evidence [Evid. Code § 1401]. Any alteration or apparent alteration in the writing must be accounted for [Evid. Code § 1402]. A writing is authenticated when (1) evidence has been introduced sufficient to sustain a finding that it is the writing that the proponent of the evidence claims it is, or (2) such facts are established by any other means provided by law [Evid. Code § 1400; see Osswald v. Anderson (1996) 49 Cal. App. 4th 812, 819-820, 57 Cal. Rptr. 2d 23 (trial court erred in finding sufficient evidence of authenticity); McAllister v. George (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 258, 262, 140 Cal. Rptr. 702] .

The manner of authenticating writings is set forth in Evid. Code §§ 1410-1421 (authentication) and Evid. Code § 645.1 (newspaper or periodical presumption), although nothing in these sections is to be construed to limit the means by which a writing may be authenticated or proved [Evid. Code § 1410]. The means of authentication set forth in Evid. Code § 1410 et seq. are not exclusive. Circumstantial evidence, content and location are all valid means of authentication [People v. Gibson (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 371, 383, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 809] . The parties may also stipulate to the authenticity of any particular writing, or admit it in the pleadings, in which event evidence authenticating the writing normally may be dispensed with [see Cal. Law Revision Commission Comment to Evid. Code § 1400]. Otherwise, the proponent of the evidence has the burden of complying with the authentication requirements of Evid. Code § 1410 [Downey Savings & Loan Assn. v. Ohio Casualty Ins. Co. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1072, 1094, 234 Cal. Rptr. 835] .

[3] Presumptions Affecting Writings

Presumptions affecting acknowledged writings, seals, and signatures of public employees, notaries public, and foreign officials are set forth in Evid. Code §§ 1450-1454. Presumptions relating to copies of writings in the custody of a public entity and to official records of writings are set forth in Evid. Code §§ 1530 and 1532, respectively. Presumptions relating to photographic copies and printed representations of business records, lost or destroyed records, computer information or programs, and video or digital images are set forth in Evid. Code §§ 1550-1553. A presumption that a regularly issued newspaper or periodical is that newspaper or periodical is set forth in Evid. Code § 645.1.

These presumptions affect the burden of producing evidence [Evid. Code §§ 630, 1450, 1532(b)]. For the effect of such presumptions, see discussion in § 551.102[2]].

§ 551.74 Proof of Contents of Writings

[1] Repeal of Best Evidence Rule and Enactment of Secondary Evidence Rule

Provisions of the Evidence Code pertaining to proof of the contents of writings were repealed and replaced with new sections in 1998, effective January 1, 1999. The "Best Evidence" Rule [former Evid. Code § 1500] and its exceptions [former Evid. Code §§ 1500.5-1511] were repealed and replaced by a new "Secondary Evidence Rule" [Evid. Code § 1521] and related sections [Evid. Code §§ 1520-1523, 1552-1553, effective January 1, 1999].

[2] Proof of Content by Original Writing

The content of a writing may be proved by an otherwise admissible original [Evid. Code § 1520].

[3] General Rules for Proof of Content Under Secondary Evidence Rule

The content of a writing may be proved by otherwise admissible secondary evidence [Evid. Code § 1521(a)]. This rule is known as the "Secondary Evidence Rule" [Evid. Code § 1521(d)]. A corollary of the rule that the contents of lost documents may be proved by secondary evidence is that the law does not require that the contents be proved verbatim [Dart Industries, Inc. v. Commercial Union Ins. Co. (2002) 28 Cal. 4th 1059, 1069, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 142, 52 P.3d 79] . Courts have admitted many types of secondary evidence to prove the contents of a missing instrument, including:

- Oral testimony [see Dart Industries, Inc. v. Commercial Union Ins. Co. (2002) 28 Cal. 4th 1059, 1068-1071, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 142, 52 P.3d 79 (oral testimony to establish contents of lost insurance policy); Kenniff v. Caulfield (1903) 140 Cal. 34, 43, 73 P. 803 (only evidence of contents of lost and unrecorded deed to parcel of real property was testimony of conveyancer who drafted it); Posten v. Rassette (1855) 5 Cal. 467, 469-470 (testimony sufficient to establish existence, loss, and contents of power of attorney); Rogers v. Prudential Ins. Co. (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 1132, 267 Cal. Rptr. 499 (proof of contents of lost insurance policy through testimony of insurer's employees or copies of other policies sold at same time utilizing similar provisions); Robinson v. Thornton (1969) 271 Cal. App. 2d 605, 611-612, 76 Cal. Rptr. 835 (testimony of contracting party to lost contract to repurchase gas lease); Guardianship of Levy (1955) 137 Cal. App. 2d 237, 249, 290 P.2d 320 (testimony of recipient of lost letters); Clendenin v. Benson (1931) 117 Cal. App. 674, 4 P.2d 616 (testimony of insurer's employees and insurer's records to lost insurance policy); Seaboard National Bank v. Ackerman (1911) 16 Cal.App. 55, 57, 116 P. 91 (testimony establishing record of judgment destroyed by fire); Hedstrom v. Union Trust Co. (1908) 7 Cal. App. 278, 286, 94 P. 386 (testimony of drafter of lost lease). See [4], below].

- Standard form of the lost document [see Kenniff v. Caulfield (1903) 140 Cal. 34, 43, 73 P. 803 (blank form used in drafting lost deed)].

- Evidence of a routine practice of a party [see Amoco Production Co. v. United States (10th Cir. 1980) 619 F.2d 1383, 1389-1390 (lost deed; grantor's routine practice of reserving mineral interest in all property deeded); see also Rogers v. Prudential Ins. Co. (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 1132, 267 Cal. Rptr. 499 (proof of contents of lost insurance policy through testimony of insurer's employees or copies of other policies sold at same time utilizing similar provisions)].

Secondary evidence of the content of a writing is inadmissible if the court determines either [Evid. Code § 1521(a)]:

- A genuine dispute exists concerning material terms of the writing and justice requires its exclusion; or

- Admission of the secondary evidence would be unfair.

In criminal actions, additional grounds for exclusion of secondary evidence apply [Evid. Code § 1522].

Secondary evidence includes both writings and oral testimony [see former Evid. Code § 1509 ("Secondary evidence, whether written or oral, of the content of a writing" (emphasis added)); People v. Crosby (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 713, 726-727, 25 Cal. Rptr. 847, 375 P.2d 839 (testimony as to contents of writing was "secondary evidence"); Stenseth v. Wells Fargo Bank (1995) 41 Cal. App. 4th 457, 463, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 192 (former Evid. Code § 1505 permitted oral testimony as secondary evidence of contents of writing, but only if witness had personal knowledge of original)].

The proponent of the evidence still must comply with the authentication requirements [Evid. Code § 1521(c)]. Evid. Code § 1401(b) provides: "Authentication of a writing is required before secondary evidence of its content may be received in evidence" [see discussion in § 551.73[2]].

If oral testimony to prove the content of a writing is inadmissible under Evid. Code § 1523 (oral testimony of content of writing; see discussion in [4], below), nothing in the "Secondary Evidence Rule" makes such testimony admissible [Evid. Code § 1521(b)].

Particular provisions govern the proof of the contents of writings through oral testimony, official records, and photographic copies and printed representations of business records, lost or destroyed records, computer information and programs, and video or digital images, as discussed in [4]-[6], below.

[4] Proof of Content by Oral Testimony

Oral testimony is not admissible to prove the content of a writing except as otherwise provided by statute [Evid. Code § 1523(a)].

Oral testimony of the content of a writing is not made inadmissible by this rule if:

- The proponent does not have possession or control of a copy of the writing and the original is lost or has been destroyed without fraudulent intent on the part of the proponent of the evidence [Evid. Code § 1523(b)].

- The proponent does not have possession or control of the original or a copy of the writing and either of the following conditions is satisfied [Evid. Code § 1523(c)]:

  - Neither the writing nor a copy of the writing was reasonably procurable by the proponent by use of the court's process or by other available means;

  - The writing is not closely related to the controlling issues and it would be inexpedient to require its production.

- The writing consists of numerous accounts or other writings that cannot be examined in court without great loss of time, and the evidence sought from them is only the general result of the whole [Evid. Code § 1523(d)].

Evid. Code § 1523 follows the approach of former Evid. Code §§ 1505 and 1508, not allowing the proponent to elect to offer either a copy or oral testimony of a writing, but rather requiring proof by a copy whenever the proponent has possession or control of a copy.

When oral testimony as to the contents of a writing is admissible, the witness must have personal knowledge of the original [see, e.g., Stenseth v. Wells Fargo Bank (1995) 41 Cal. App. 4th 457, 463, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 192 (decided under former Evid. Code § 1505)].

[5] Proof of Content by Official Records

A purported copy of a writing in the custody of a public entity, or of an entry in such a writing, is prima facie evidence of the existence and content of such writing or entry if [Evid. Code § 1530(a)]:

- The copy purports to be published by the authority of the nation or state, or public entity therein, in which the writing is kept;

- The office in which the writing is kept is within the United States or specified territories, and the copy is attested or certified as a correct copy of the writing or entry by a public employee, or a deputy thereof, having the legal custody of the writing; or

- The office in which the writing is kept is not within the United States or any of the specified territories and the copy is attested as a correct copy of the writing or entry by a person having authority to make attestation. The attestation must be made according to the requirements specified in Evid. Code § 1530(a)(3).

For purposes of admissibility, whenever a copy of a writing is attested or certified, the attestation or certificate must state in substance that the copy is a correct copy of the original, or of a specified part thereof, as the case may be [Evid. Code § 1531].

The official record of a writing is prima facie evidence of the existence and content of the original recorded writing if [Evid. Code § 1532(a)]:

- The record is in fact a record of an office of a public entity; and

- A statute authorized such a writing to be recorded in that office.

The presumption established by Evid. Code § 1532(a) is a presumption affecting the burden of producing evidence [Evid. Code § 1532(b)].

The admissibility of certain abstracts of title or certified instruments affecting title to prove the contents of the official record of any writing lost or destroyed by conflagration or other public calamity is governed by Evid. Code § 1601.

[6] Proof of Content by Photographic Copies and Printed Representations

[a] Business Records

Certain copies or reproductions of a writing are as admissible as the writing itself if the copy or reproduction was made and preserved as a part of the records of a business (as defined by Evid. Code § 1270) in the regular course of that business [Evid. Code § 1550]. The permitted copies or reproductions are:

- A nonerasable optical image reproduction, provided that additions, deletions, or changes to the original document are not permitted by the technology;

- A photostatic, microfilm, microcard, miniature photographic, or other photographic copy or reproduction, or an enlargement thereof.

The introduction of the copy, reproduction, or enlargement does not preclude admission of the original writing if it is still in existence. A court may require the introduction of a hard-copy printout of the document [Evid. Code § 1550].

The production and transmission of business records pursuant to a subpoena duces tecum and their admissibility are governed by Evid. Code §§ 1560-1566.

[a.1] Criminal Justice Documents

Reproductions of files, records, writings, photographs, fingerprints, or other instruments in the official custody of a criminal justice agency that were microphotographed or otherwise reproduced in a manner that conforms with the provisions of Pen. Code §§ 11106.1, 11106.2 or 11106.3 are admissible to the same extent and under the same circumstances as the original file, record, writing, or other instrument would be admissible [Evid. Code § 1550.1].

Pen. Code § 11106.1 provides that any system of microphotography, optical disk, or reproduction by other techniques that do not permit additions, deletions, or changes to the original document, may be used by the Department of Justice as a photographic reproduction process to record some or all instruments, papers, photographs, and notices that are required or permitted by law to be recorded or filed. All storage media must comply with minimum standards of quality approved by the National Institute of Standards and Technology. Pen. Code § 11106.2 permits any criminal justice agency to cause any or all files or records in its official custody to be microphotographed or otherwise reproduced pursuant to Pen. Code § 11106.1, as in the case of original filings or recordings, or both. Every reproduction is deemed and considered an original, and as a transcript, exemplification or certified copy, as the case may be, of the original. Pen. Code § 11106.3 allows fingerprints to be stored or created in an electronic format that does not permit additions, deletions, or changes to the original fingerprints so long as the storage medium complies with the minimum standards of quality approved by the National Institute of Standards and Technology.

[b] Lost or Destroyed Records

Certain reproductions of destroyed or lost writings are admissible as the original writing itself. Those reproductions are [Evid. Code § 1551]:

- A print from a photographic film of an original writing, made after the film was taken, whether or not the print was enlarged; photographic film includes a photographic plate, microphotographic film, photostatic negative, or similar reproduction;

- A reproduction from an electronic recording of video images on magnetic surfaces.

Such a reproduction is admissible as the original writing itself if, at the time of its taking, the person under whose direction and control it was taken attached thereto, or to the sealed container in which it was placed and has been kept, or incorporated in the film or electronic recording, a certification complying with the provisions of Evid. Code § 1531 and stating the date on which, and the fact that, it was so taken under his or her direction and control.

Alternatively, if a writing has been damaged or destroyed by an explosion, fire, or other public calamity, a court may be requested to issue an order establishing the existence and contents of the writing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1953.10; for discussion, see Ch. 356, Lost Papers]. The order has the same effect as the original document [Code Civ. Proc. § 1953.13]. In such cases, the secondary evidence rule is not implicated; the court's order is the best evidence of the writing [Daddario v. Snow Valley (1995) 36 Cal. App. 4th 1325, 1337-1338 (decided under former Evid. Code § 1500)].

[c] Computer Information or Programs

A printed representation of computer information or a computer program is presumed to be an accurate representation of the computer information or computer program that it purports to represent [Evid. Code § 1552(a)]. This presumption is a presumption affecting the burden of producing evidence. If a party to an action introduces evidence that a printed representation of computer information or computer program is inaccurate or unreliable, the party introducing the printed representation into evidence has the burden of proving, by a preponderance of evidence, that the printed representation is an accurate representation of the existence and content of the computer information or computer program that it purports to represent.

These provisions do not apply to computer-generated official records certified in accordance with Evid. Code §§ 452.5 or 1530 [Evid. Code § 1552(b)].

Although admissible, computer printouts must qualify under some hearsay exception, such as the business records exception [see Evid. Code § 1271; but see, People v. Hawkins (2002) 98 Cal. App. 4th 1428, 1448-1450, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 627 (true test for admissibility of printout reflecting computer's internal operations is not whether printout was made in regular course of business, but whether computer was operating properly at time of printout, and trial court did not err in rejecting hearsay objection and admitting printouts into evidence); for discussion of photographic copies and printed representations of business records, see § 551.74[6][a]], if the printouts are offered to prove their contents [Aguimatang v. California State Lottery (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 769, 797, 286 Cal. Rptr. 57] .

[d] Video or Digital Images

A printed representation of images stored on a video or digital medium is presumed to be an accurate representation of the images it purports to represent [Evid. Code § 1553]. This presumption is a presumption affecting the burden of producing evidence. If a party to an action introduces evidence that a printed representation of images stored on a video or digital medium is inaccurate or unreliable, the party introducing the printed representation into evidence has the burden of proving, by a preponderance of evidence, that the printed representation is an accurate representation of the existence and content of the images that it purports to represent.

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.76

§ 551.76 Determination of Preliminary Fact

[1] When Required

The admissibility or inadmissibility of proffered evidence may depend on the existence or nonexistence of a preliminary fact [see Evid. Code § 401]. A "preliminary fact" is a fact that must exist in order for evidence to be admissible [Evid. Code § 400]. Preliminary facts include the relevancy of proffered evidence, a witness's knowledge, the authenticity of a writing, and the existence of a privilege [see Evid. Code §§ 400, 403(a); Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. v. Hacienda Mobile Home Park (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 519, 530,119 Cal. Rptr. 559] . For privileges, see discussion in § 551.118. When the existence of a preliminary fact is disputed, its existence or nonexistence must be determined as provided in Evid. Code §§ 400-406 [Evid. Code §§ 310, 402(a)]. Evid. Code §§ 400-406 do not, however, limit the right of a party to introduce evidence relevant to weight or credibility [Evid. Code § 406].

[2] Hearing and Ruling

The court may hear and determine the question of the admissibility of evidence out of the presence or hearing of the jury [Evid. Code § 402(b)]. Evid. Code § 402(b) has, however, been construed to give the court discretion to decide the admissibility of evidence within the presence of the jury [People v. Mattison (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 177, 187, 93 Cal. Rptr. 185, 481 P.2d 193 (admissibility of dying declaration); Mize v. Atchison, T. & S.F. Ry. Co. (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 436, 448, 120 Cal. Rptr. 787 (preliminary facts in support of claim of lawyer-client and work-product privilege)]. Nevertheless, when there is a danger that hearing evidence of the preliminary fact will have a prejudicial effect on the jury, the court should conduct the hearing outside its presence [see People ex rel. Dept. of Public Works v. Glen Arms Estate, Inc. (1964) 230 Cal. App. 2d 841, 863-864, 41 Cal. Rptr. 303 (determination of whether statement constituted offer of compromise or was admission against interest)].

A ruling on the admissibility of evidence implies whatever finding of fact is prerequisite to it, and a separate or formal finding is unnecessary unless required by statute [Evid. Code § 402(c)].

[3] Procedure

[a] Generally

The procedure for determining preliminary facts is set forth in Evid. Code §§ 403, 404, and 405, discussed below. Each of these sections applies to different kinds of preliminary facts. Evid. Code § 403 applies to preliminary facts going to relevancy, personal knowledge, authenticity, or the statement or conduct of another person. Evid. Code § 404 applies to the privilege against self-incrimination, and Evid. Code § 405 applies to all other preliminary facts.

[b] Relevancy, Personal Knowledge, Authenticity, or Statement or Conduct of Person

The proponent of the proffered evidence has the burden of producing evidence as to the existence of the preliminary fact, and the proffered evidence is inadmissible unless the court finds there is evidence sufficient to sustain a finding of the existence of the preliminary fact when [Evid. Code § 403(a)]:

- The relevance of the proffered evidence depends on the existence of the preliminary fact;

- The preliminary fact is the personal knowledge of a witness concerning the subject matter of his or her testimony;

- The preliminary fact is the authenticity of a writing; or

- The proffered evidence is of a statement or other conduct of a particular person and the preliminary fact is whether that person made the statement or so conducted himself or herself.

Subject to Evid. Code § 702, which requires a witness to have personal knowledge of the matter to which he or she testifies (discussed in § 551.121[2]), the court may conditionally admit the proffered evidence, subject to evidence of the preliminary fact being supplied later in the course of the trial [Evid. Code § 403(b)].

If the court admits the proffered evidence, the court (1) may, and on request must, instruct the jury to determine whether the preliminary fact exists and to disregard the proffered evidence unless the jury finds the preliminary fact does exist, and (2) must instruct the jury to disregard the proffered evidence if the court subsequently determines that a jury could not reasonably find that the preliminary fact exists [Evid. Code § 403(c)]. Thus, under Evid. Code § 403, the court decides merely whether there has been a prima facie showing of the existence of the preliminary fact; the final decision as to its existence or nonexistence is made by the jury.

[c] Privilege Against Self-Incrimination

Whenever the proffered evidence is claimed to be privileged under Evid. Code § 940 (privilege against self-incrimination; for discussion of privileges, see Ch. 191, Discovery: Privileges and Other Discovery Limitaitons), the person claiming the privilege has the burden of showing that the proffered evidence might tend to incriminate him or her. The proffered evidence is inadmissible unless it clearly appears to the court that the proffered evidence cannot possibly have a tendency to incriminate the person claiming the privilege [Evid. Code § 404].

[d] Determinations in Other Cases

With respect to preliminary fact determinations not governed by Evid. Code § 403 or 404, if the existence of a preliminary fact is disputed, the court must indicate which party has the burden of producing evidence [Evid. Code § 110] and the burden of proof [Evid. Code § 115, also discussed in Subpart F] on the issue as implied by the rule of law under which the question arises. The court must determine the existence or nonexistence of the preliminary fact and admit or exclude the proffered evidence as required by the rule of law under which the question arises [Evid. Code § 405(a)].

If the preliminary fact is also a fact in issue, the jury must not be informed of the court's determination as to the existence or nonexistence of the preliminary fact and, if the proffered evidence is admitted, the jury must not be instructed to disregard the evidence if its determination of the fact differs from the court's determination of the preliminary fact [Evid. Code § 405(b)].

Thus, under Evid. Code § 405, as distinguished from the determination of a preliminary fact under Evid. Code § 403, discussed in § 551.76[3][b], the court alone decides the foundational question.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
E. Evidence

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.77

§ 551.77 Objections to Evidence

[1] Manner of Objecting

Objections to evidence should be addressed to the court and not to opposing counsel [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.14]. An objection to proffered evidence need not be in any particular form but it must be timely made and clearly state the specific ground on which it is made [see Evid. Code § 353(a); see also Rodriguez v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 626, 660, 151 Cal. Rptr. 399 ; People v. Gibson (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 119, 137, 128 Cal. Rptr. 302] . The failure to object at all waives any claim of error [Coit Drapery Cleaners, Inc. v. Sequoia Ins. Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1595, 1611, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 692] . Arguments should be brief and few and, whether at the side bench or in chambers, should be reported [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.41].

Although counsel may properly phrase the objection and ground in the form of a complete sentence, e.g., "Your Honor, I object on the ground the question calls for hearsay," frequently, the objection need be no more complicated than stating the word "objection" followed by the ground, e.g., "Objection--hearsay." Merely stating "I object," without specifying the ground, however, is insufficient and does not preserve the point for review on appeal [see Evid. Code § 353(a)]. Unlike argument on the objection, which normally should be heard out of the jury's hearing (see discussion under [2][a], below), an evidentiary objection and a statement of the legal grounds ordinarily may be made within the hearing of the jury. But the court will not normally allow counsel to argue the case or make gratuitous remarks under the guise of stating an objection [see Continental Dairy Equip. Co. v. Lawrence (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 378, 384, 94 Cal. Rptr. 887] .

Whether counsel objects to an otherwise objectionable question is frequently a matter of trial tactics and a weighing of the effect of the objection on the jury. However, an objection is mandatory if the point is to be considered on appeal [see Evid. Code § 353(a); Jackson v. Department of Motor Vehicles (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 730, 738, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 712 ; Haskell v. Carli (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 124, 129, 240 Cal. Rptr. 439 (party seeking to preserve issue for appeal must not only object but secure ruling on objection)]. Moreover, certain otherwise inadmissible evidence will support a judgment if it comes in without objection. The most notable examples are opinion evidence, hearsay evidence, and secondary evidence. Consequently, proper objections should be made to any inadmissible evidence that would be adverse to the party's claim or defense. In addition, counsel should object if the evidence is admissible as to one party or for one purpose and is inadmissible as to another party or for another purpose (see Evid. Code § 355) and this is not made clear by the party proffering it. The objecting counsel should request the court to restrict the evidence to its proper scope and, in a jury trial, to instruct the jury accordingly [see Evid. Code § 355].

For a listing of common objections and their grounds, see § 551.222.

[2] Argument on Objection

[a] When Allowed

Unless the court instructs otherwise, counsel may argue on an objection before the court rules but not afterwards [see Bennett v. Superior Court (1946) 73 Cal. App. 2d 203, 216, 166 P.2d 318] . Hence, to avoid an admonishment from the court or a possible mistrial, counsel should request the court's permission before arguing an objection. This is expressly required by some courts [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.41].

[b] Out of Jury's Hearing

In a jury trial, any argument on an objection normally should be made out of the jury's hearing at the side bench or in the judge's chamber, and this is expressly required by some courts [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.41].

[3] Offer of Proof

In response to an objection that a question, for example, is irrelevant, counsel may wish to make an offer of proof before the court rules [see Evid. Code § 354(a)]. However, counsel first should request permission to make an offer of proof, and offers of proof normally should be made out of the jury's hearing [see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.42]. The purpose of an offer of proof is not only to persuade the trial court that the evidence is admissible but to preserve a record on appeal in the event the court sustains the objection [see Evid. Code § 354].

An offer of proof must make known to the court the substance, purpose, and relevance of the evidence offered [see Evid. Code § 354(a)]. For example, an offer is inadequate if it shows only the substance of facts sought to be proved instead of the substance of the evidence offered [see McCleery v. City of Bakersfield (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 1059, 1072-1075, 216 Cal. Rptr. 852] .

An offer of proof is not required when:

- When the question itself makes known to the court the substance, purpose, and relevance of the excluded evidence [Evid. Code § 354(a)].

- The rulings of the court make an offer of proof futile [Evid. Code § 354(b); see Castaneda v. Bornstein (1995) 36 Cal. App. 4th 1818, 1827 (no offer of proof required after court bars introduction of entire class of evidence or of all evidence on particular issue); Reely v. Chapman (1960) 177 Cal. App. 2d 260, 263, 2 Cal. Rptr. 188 (generally necessary to make formal offer of proof except when the rulings are such as would exclude the testimony altogether)].

- The question was asked during cross or recross-examination [Evid. Code § 354(c)].

[4] Ruling on Objection

On occasion, courts will conditionally admit evidence to which an objection has been made by either reserving its ruling on the objection or by admitting the evidence subject to a subsequent motion to strike [see Evid. Code § 403(b) (conditional admission of evidence subject to evidence of preliminary fact being supplied later in course of trial); Gribaldo, Jacobs, Jones & Associates v. Agrippina Versicherunges A.G. (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 434, 443 n. 6, 91 Cal. Rptr. 6, 476 P.2d 406] . Thus, a court could allow potentially inadmissible evidence to be introduced subject to the opponent's motion to strike if the proponent of the evidence subsequently failed to lay a foundation for it [Douglass v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1983) 141 Cal. App. 3d 645, 658, 190 Cal. Rptr. 506] . If the court subsequently fails to rule, counsel must be sure to remind it that it reserved ruling. If the evidence was conditionally admitted subject to a subsequent motion to strike, counsel must make the subsequent motion if the testimony is to be stricken [see Ault v. International Harvester Co. (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 113, 123, 117 Cal. Rptr. 812, 528 P.2d 1148 (objection to conditionally admitted evidence waived by failure to move to strike); see also Mosesian v. Pennwalt Corp. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 851, 856-865, 236 Cal. Rptr. 778 (objection to conditionally admitted evidence and other evidence waived by failure to move to strike and failure to state correct ground)].

[5] Exception to Court's Ruling or Order

An exception is an objection on a matter of law to a decision made and normally must be taken at the time the decision is made [Code Civ. Proc. § 646]. However, a ruling sustaining or overruling an objection and an order granting or denying a motion to strike evidence or testimony are both deemed excepted to, and no express exception is required [Code Civ. Proc. § 647].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Burden of Proof and of Producing Evidence and Weight of Evidence

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.90

[1] Defined

"Proof" is defined in Evid. Code § 190 [see discussion in § 551.60[2]]. "Burden of proof" means the obligation of a party to establish by evidence a requisite degree of belief concerning a fact in the mind of the trier of fact or the court [Evid. Code § 115; for related jury instruction on burden of proof, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI No. 200 (Matthew Bender), also available in LexisNexis Automated Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions].

The burden of proof may require a party to raise a reasonable doubt concerning the existence or nonexistence of a fact, or require the party to establish the existence or nonexistence of a fact by a preponderance of the evidence, by clear and convincing proof, or by proof beyond a reasonable doubt [Evid. Code § 115]. For further discussion of these standards of proof, see § 551.92.

[2] General Rule: Burden of Proving Each Essential Element of Claim or Defense

Except as otherwise provided by law, a party has the burden of proof as to each fact the existence or nonexistence of which is essential to the claim for relief or defense that he or she is asserting [Evid. Code § 500].

As to a plaintiff, this means the definitional elements of the plaintiff's cause of action describe the minimum showing the plaintiff must make to support a favorable judgment. Accordingly, in order for a plaintiff to prevail, the record must contain sufficient evidence to support a finding in its favor on each and every element that the law requires to support recovery [Beck Dev. Co. v. Southern Pac. Transp. Co. (1996) 44 Cal. App. 4th 1160, 1205, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 518] .

As to a defendant, this "traditional allocation of burden of proof" applies to facts that are essential to an affirmative defense [see Samuels v. Mix (1999) 22 Cal. 4th 1, 7-9, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 273, 989 P.2d 701 (facts indicating time when plaintiff reasonably should have discovered wrongdoing so as to commence running of one-year statutory period of limitation)].

The general rule of Evid. Code § 500 applies "[e]xcept as otherwise provided by law." The exception includes a recognition of the fact that the allocation of the burden of proof is sometimes at variance with the general rule. In determining whether the normal allocation of the burden of proof should be altered, courts consider a number of factors [Samuels v. Mix (1999) 22 Cal. 4th 1, 19, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 273, 989 P.2d 701] :

- The knowledge of the parties concerning a particular fact.
- The availability of evidence to the parties.
- The most desirable result in terms of public policy in the absence of proof of the particular fact.
- The probability of the existence or nonexistence of the fact.

The courts have not, however, routinely found exceptions to the general rule on the basis of the parties' relative access to evidence. For example, the allegations required of a plaintiff in a tort or contract action relate to the defendant's acts or omissions, and so might be thought, almost by definition, to describe matters peculiarly within the defendant's knowledge or control. That circumstance has nevertheless not occasioned a wholesale departure from the ordinary allocation of proof burdens in such actions [Samuels v. Mix (1999) 22 Cal. 4th 1, 19, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 273, 989 P.2d 701] . In a false advertising claim, the burden under state law, unlike federal law, does not shift to the defendant to prove that the advertising claims are true once the plaintiff proffers evidence of the claims [National Council Against Health Fraud, Inc. v. King Bio Pharmaceuticals, Inc. (2003) 107 Cal. App. 4th 1336, 1347-1351, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 207] .

The normal allocation of the burden of proof has also been shifted in spoliation of evidence cases [see McGee v. Cessna Aircraft Co. (1983) 139 Cal. App. 3d 179, 187, 188 Cal. Rptr. 542] , negligence per se actions [see McGee v. Cessna Aircraft Co. (1983) 139 Cal. App. 3d 179, 190, 188 Cal. Rptr. 542] , and product liability cases based on design defect [Barker v. Lull Engineering Co. (1978) 20 Cal.3d 413, 431, 143 Cal. Rptr. 225, 573 P.2d 443] .

Even in cases in which the normal allocation of the burden of proof shifts, however, the plaintiff has the burden of producing some evidence before the burden of proof is shifted to the defendant [National Council Against Health Fraud, Inc. v. King Bio Pharmaceuticals (2003) 107 Cal. App. 4th 1336, 1346, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 207] . In spoliation of evidence cases, for example, the plaintiff must produce evidence that the defendant failed to preserve the evidence and establish a substantial probability of causation before the burden of proof shifts to the defendant to prove the failure to preserve the evidence did not cause damage to the plaintiff [Galanek v. Wismar (1999) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1417, 1426, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 236] . In negligence per se actions, the plaintiff must produce evidence of a violation of a statute and a substantial probability that the plaintiff's injury was caused by the violation of the statute before the burden of proof shifts to the defendant to prove the violation of the statute did not cause the plaintiff's injury [Haft v. Lone Palm Hotel (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 756, 772 , 478 P.2d 465] . In design defect cases, the plaintiff must produce evidence that his or her injury was caused by the design of the product, before the burden of proof shifts to the defendant to prove the design of the product was not defective [Barker v. Lull Engineering Co. (1978) 20 Cal.3d 413, 431, 143 Cal. Rptr. 225, 573 P.2d 443] . In no case does the burden of proof shift to the defendant on the filing of the complaint [National Council Against Health Fraud, Inc. v. King Bio Pharmaceuticals (2003) 107 Cal. App. 4th 1336, 1347, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 207 ; see Jones v. Ortho Pharmaceutical Corp. (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 396, 406, 209 Cal. Rptr. 456] .

The burden of proving a fact is satisfied when the requisite evidence has been introduced or the persuasion accomplished, and it is of no consequence whether the evidence was introduced by one party rather than the other or whether the persuasion was due to the evidence or to the argument of either counsel [People v. Belton (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 516, 524, 153 Cal. Rptr. 195, 591 P.2d 485] .

For discussion of presumptions that affect the burden of proof, see § 551.102[3].

[3] Specific Issues

[a] Accusation of Crime or Wrongdoing

The party claiming a person is guilty of crime or wrongdoing has the burden of proof on that issue [Evid. Code § 520]. The quantum of proof required is a preponderance of the evidence unless otherwise required by law, a preponderance of the evidence [see Evid. Code § 115, discussed in [1], above; see also, e.g., Liodas v. Sahadi (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 278, 287-291, 137 Cal. Rptr. 635, 562 P.2d 316 (involving fraud); Rosener v. Sears Roebuck & Co. (1980) 110 Cal. App. 3d 740, 756, 168 Cal. Rptr. 237 , appeal dismissed, 450 U.S. 1051, 101 S. Ct. 1772, 68 L. Ed. 2d 247 (1981) (same); Sierra Nat'l Bank v. Brown (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 98, 105-106, 95 Cal. Rptr. 742 (same)].

Evid. Code § 520 does not apply when a specific statute places the burden of proof on another [see Evid. Code § 300 (Evidence Code inapplicable when "otherwise provided by statute"); see also Fillmore v. Irvine (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 649, 661-662, 194 Cal. Rptr. 319 (construing former version of Bus. & Prof. Code § 7031)].

[b] Degree of Care

The party claiming a person did not exercise a requisite degree of care has the burden of proof on that issue [Evid. Code § 521; see Mize v. Atchison, T. & S.F. Ry. Co. (1975) 46 Cal. App. 3d 436, 454, 120 Cal. Rptr. 787 ; see also Evid. Code §§ 669, 669.1, discussed in § 551.102[3]].

[c] Insanity

The party claiming any person, including himself or herself, is or was insane has the burden of proof on that issue [Evid. Code § 522; see Albertson v. Schmidt (1932) 128 Cal. App. 344, 346, 17 P.2d 158] .

The existence of an estoppel is a question of fact and the burden of proof is on the party asserting it [Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. v. Hacienda Mobile Home Park (1975) 45 Cal. App. 3d 519, 531, 119 Cal. Rptr. 559] .

[e] Insurance Coverage

A party seeking coverage under an insurance policy has the burden of proving a loss covered within the agreement [Collin v. American Empire Ins. Co. (1994) 21 Cal. App. 4th 787, 803, 808, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 391] .

§ 551.91 Burden of Producing Evidence

[1] Defined

"Burden of producing evidence" means the obligation of a party to introduce evidence sufficient to avoid a ruling against that party on the issue [Evid. Code § 110].

[2] With Respect to Particular Fact

The burden of producing evidence as to a particular fact is on the party against whom a finding on that fact would be required in the absence of further evidence [Evid. Code § 550(a); see, e.g., People v. Belton (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 516, 523, 153 Cal. Rptr. 195, 591 P.2d 485] .

The burden of producing evidence as to a particular fact is initially on the party with the burden of proof as to that fact [Evid. Code § 550(b)]. If that party fails to produce sufficient evidence to make a prima facie case, it risks nonsuit or other unfavorable determination. But once that party produces evidence sufficient to make its prima facie case, the burden of producing evidence shifts to the other party to refute the prima facie case [Sargent Fletcher, Inc. v. Able Corp. (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 1658, 1667-1668, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 279] .

Evid. Code § 550 deals with the allocation of the burden of producing evidence. At the outset of the case, the burden coincides with the burden of proof. However, during the course of the trial, the burden may shift from one party to another, irrespective of the incidence of the burden of proof [see Sargent Fletcher, Inc. v. Able Corp. (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 1658, 1667, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 279 (unlike burden of proof, burden of producing evidence may shift between plaintiff and defendant throughout trial)]. For example, if the party with the initial burden of producing evidence establishes a fact giving rise to a presumption, the burden of producing evidence will shift to the other party, whether or not the presumption is one that affects the burden of proof. In addition, a party may introduce evidence of such overwhelming probative force that no person could reasonably disbelieve it in the absence of countervailing evidence, in which case the burden of producing evidence would shift to the opposing party to produce some evidence [see Cal. Law Revision Commission's Comment to Evid. Code § 550 in annotated codes].

Even though the burden of producing evidence shifts to the other party, that party need not offer evidence in reply. However, failure to do so risks an adverse verdict. Once the party having the burden of producing evidence makes a prima facie showing, the trier of fact determines whether the crucial and necessary facts have been established [Sargent Fletcher, Inc. v. Able Corp. (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 1658, 1668, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 279] .

For discussion of presumptions that affect the burden of producing evidence, see § 551.102[2].

§ 551.92 Standard of Proof in Civil Proceedings

[1] One of Three Standards of Proof May Apply

In meeting the burden of proof as to the existence or nonexistence of a particular fact, one of three standards of proof will apply. These three standards are enumerated in the Evidence Code as follows [Evid. Code § 115; see also Evid. Code § 502; Lillian F. v. Superior Court (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 314, 320, 206 Cal. Rptr. 603] :

- Proof beyond a reasonable doubt.
- Clear and convincing proof.
- Proof by a preponderance of the evidence.

The application by law of these standards of proof reflects the degree to which society seeks to balance public and private interests and allocate the risk of an error by the trier of fact. The function of a standard of proof is to instruct the fact finder concerning the degree of confidence our society deems necessary in the correctness of factual conclusions for a particular type of adjudication, to allocate the risk of error between the litigants, and to indicate the relative importance attached to the ultimate decision [Conservatorship of Wendland (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 519, 546, 110 Cal. Rptr. 2d 412, 28 P.3d 151] . Thus, in civil proceedings, one of the two less stringent standards will normally apply. The least stringent standard, proof by a preponderance of the evidence, applies generally in civil actions involving civil disputes over monetary damages, where it is deemed fair that the disputants bear the risk of error in roughly equal fashion. In contrast, the more exacting standard of clear and convincing proof applies in civil proceedings in which the risk of error by the fact finder has a more serious impact on fundamental rights [see Cynthia D. v. Superior Court (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 242, 251, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 698, 851 P.2d 1307 ; Conservatorship of Wendland (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 519, 546-548, 110 Cal. Rptr. 2d 412, 28 P.3d 151 (clear and convincing standard applied to determination of conservator's petition to remove nutrition and hydration from conscious but severely disabled conservatee)].

[2] Standard Requiring Proof by Preponderance of the Evidence Applies as General Rule

The "preponderance of the evidence" standard is the one that applies as a general rule. In other words, "[e]xcept as otherwise provided by law," the burden of proof required in any given situation is proof by a preponderance of the evidence [Evid. Code § 115]. Proof by a preponderance of the evidence simply requires the trier to believe that the existence of a fact is more probable than its nonexistence [Lillian F. v. Superior Court (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 314, 320, 206 Cal. Rptr. 603 (citing In re Winship (1970) 397 U.S. 358, 371, 90 S. Ct. 1068, 25 L. Ed. 2d 368)].

[3] Standard Requiring Proof by Clear and Convincing Evidence

"Clear and convincing" evidence requires a finding of high probability; the evidence must be so clear as to leave no substantial doubt [In re Brian P. (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 616, 624, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 326 ; In re Jerome D. (2000) 84 Cal. App. 4th 1200, 1205, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 449 ; for related jury instruction on clear and convincing proof, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI No. 201 (Matthew Bender), also available in LexisNexis Automated Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions].

The "clear and convincing proof" standard applies in a number of situations as an express statutory exception to the general rule. For example, under the provisions for recovery of punitive damages, the clear and convincing proof standard applies when seeking to prove that a defendant has been guilty of oppression, fraud, or malice [Civ. Code § 3294(a); see Shade Foods, Inc. v. Innovative Products Sales & Marketing, Inc. (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 847, 890-893, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 364 (evidence that was sufficient to find insurer bad faith under preponderance of the evidence standard was not sufficient to find insurer guilty of oppression or malice under clear and convincing proof standard)]. Other statutory exceptions require clear and convincing proof to support the findings necessary to terminate parental rights [Fam. Code § 7821], to appoint a conservator [Prob. Code § 1801], or to rebut a presumption that legal title to property encompasses full beneficial title [Evid. Code § 662].

In other situations, constitutional or decisional law, rather than express statute, is the law that provides an exception to the general rule [see Evid. Code § 160; Conservatorship of Wendland (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 519, 546-548, 110 Cal. Rptr. 2d 412, 28 P.3d 151 ; Lillian F. v. Superior Court (1984)160 Cal. App. 3d 314, 320, 206 Cal. Rptr. 603] . For example, constitutional privacy rights require a conservator to show by clear and convincing proof that a conservatee lacks the capacity to consent to or refuse an intrusive medical treatment (electroconvulsive therapy), when that finding is necessary for an order sought by the conservator authorizing such treatment [Lillian F. v. Superior Court (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 314, 322-324, 206 Cal. Rptr. 603] . Similarly, the clear and convincing standard applies to a determination under Prob. Code § 2355 of a petition by a conservator to withdraw nutrition and hydration from a conservatee, since the decision to withdraw nutrition and hydration is not reversible, and the high evidentiary standard in that case plays the role of adjusting the risk of error to favor the less perilous result [Conservatorship of Wendland (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 519, 546-548, 110 Cal. Rptr. 2d 412, 28 P.3d 151] . First Amendment rights require that a plaintiff in an action for libel show a defendant's actual malice by clear and convincing proof [see Tague v. Citizens for Law & Order, Inc. (1977) 75 Cal. App. 3d Supp. 16, 26 , 142 Cal. Rptr. 689] .

When the clear and convincing proof standard applies, a greater quantum of proof is needed to satisfy the burden of proof than under the preponderance of the evidence standard. Clear and convincing proof requires a finding of high probability; the evidence must be sufficiently clear to leave no substantial doubt and sufficiently strong to command the unhesitating assent of every reasonable mind [Shade Foods, Inc. v. Innovative Products Sales & Marketing, Inc. (2000) 78 Cal. App. 4th 847, 890, 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 364 (citing In re Angelia P. (1981) 28 Cal. 3d 908, 919, 171 Cal. Rptr. 637)].

[4] Standard Requiring Proof Beyond a Reasonable Doubt

The most stringent standard of proof, proof beyond a reasonable doubt, generally applies only in criminal proceedings [see Evid. Code § 501 (assignment of burden of proof in criminal actions subject to Penal Code § 1096); Penal Code § 1096 (state's burden of proof in prosecuting criminal action is to prove criminal defendant's guilt of crime beyond reasonable doubt; reasonable doubt defined)]. In at least one situation however, the California Supreme Court has required the application of this standard in noncriminal proceedings, that is, when involuntary commitment to a mental hospital is involved. In such a situation the standard of proof beyond a reasonable doubt is implicated because the result, although in a civil proceeding, is functionally equivalent to the loss of freedom and reputation suffered by an incarcerated criminal defendant [Conservatorship of Roulet (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 219, 223-230, 152 Cal. Rptr. 425, 590 P.2d 1 (also requiring unanimous jury verdict)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
F. Burden of Proof and of Producing Evidence and Weight of Evidence

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.93

[1] Sufficiency of Evidence of One Witness

Except where additional evidence is required by statute, the direct evidence of one witness who is entitled to full credit is sufficient for proof of any fact [Evid. Code § 411]. This applies even though the witness is a party to the action [DeMiglio v. Mashore (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 1260, 1270, 6 Cal. Rptr. 2d 267 ; Bank of Costa Mesa v. Losack (1977) 74 Cal. App. 3d 287, 291, 141 Cal. Rptr. 550 ; see Clark Equipment Co. v. Wheat (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 503, 518, 154 Cal. Rptr. 874 ("Substantial evidence may consist of the testimony of a single witness or even the testimony of a party")]. For the meaning of "direct evidence," see discussion in § 551.62.

[2] Weak Evidence Offered When Stronger Evidence Available

If weaker and less satisfactory evidence is offered when it was within the power of the party to produce stronger and more satisfactory evidence, the evidence offered should be viewed with distrust [Evid. Code § 412; for related jury instruction, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI No. 203 (Matthew Bender), also available in LexisNexis Automated Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions]. Thus, when a party fails to produce evidence that he or she might reasonably be expected to produce, an inference is permitted that such evidence would be unfavorable to that party [Lumpkin v. Friedman (1982) 131 Cal. App. 3d 450, 456, 182 Cal. Rptr. 378] . However, to justify a jury instruction to this effect, it must be shown that a party was in fact in possession of or had access to better and stronger evidence than was presented [see People v. Taylor (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 403, 411-412, 136 Cal. Rptr. 640 ; Neumann v. Bishop (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 451, 480, 130 Cal. Rptr. 786] .

[3] Inferences Drawn From Party's Failure to Explain or Deny Adverse Evidence or From Suppression of Evidence

In determining what inferences to draw from the evidence or facts in the case against a party, the trier of fact may consider, among other things, the party's failure to explain or deny any adverse evidence or facts in the case or any willful suppression by the party of evidence relating to them [Evid. Code § 413; see Neumann v. Bishop (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 451, 480, 130 Cal. Rptr. 786 ; for related jury instructions, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury

Instructions, CACI No. 204, 205 (Matthew Bender), also available in LexisNexis Automated Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions]. Thus, when the evidence tends to prove a material fact that imposes a liability on a party, and the party has it in his or her power to produce evidence which from its very nature must overthrow the case made against him or her if it is not founded on fact, and the party refuses to produce such evidence, the presumption arises that the evidence, if produced, would operate to the party's prejudice and support the case of the party's adversary [Neumann v. Bishop (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 451, 482, 130 Cal. Rptr. 786] .

However, in general, there is no duty on either party to call any particular witness in the absence of a showing of some special circumstances [Neumann v. Bishop (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 451, 481, 130 Cal. Rptr. 786] . Hence, a party is not guilty of willful suppression of evidence by merely failing to call a potential witness to the stand. Counsel for a party to a civil action has not only the right but the duty to exercise discrimination in selecting witnesses for whom his or her client vouches. Assuming the attorney's honesty and good faith, the attorney, in declining to call a potential witness, may not, for example, believe the potential witness's account of the matter, or may think the potential witness is inaccurate or prejudiced, or that the potential witness is otherwise disqualified to testify [Neumann v. Bishop (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 451, 481-482, 130 Cal. Rptr. 786] . Similarly, no inference may be drawn from the failure of a party to produce evidence that is privileged [see, e.g., Evid. Code § 913(a); Maggio, Inc. v. Neal (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 745, 750-751, 241 Cal. Rptr. 883 (referee's comment on failure to introduce tax returns was harmless error); for related jury instructions on the exercise of privilege, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI No. 215, 216 (Matthew Bender), also available in LexisNexis Automated Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions].

§ 551.100 "Presumption" and "Inference" Defined

A presumption is an assumption of fact the law requires to be made from another fact or group of facts found or otherwise established in the action. A presumption is not evidence [Evid. Code § 600(a)]. A presumption is either conclusive or rebuttable [Evid. Code § 601].

An inference is a deduction of fact that may logically and reasonably be drawn from another fact or group of facts found or otherwise established in the action [Evid. Code § 600(b); see Nazir v. United Airlines (2009) 178 Cal. App. 4th 243, 273, 100 Cal. Rptr. 3d 296 (distinguishing between inference and presumption)]. An inference that an essential fact to be proven by a party cannot be drawn when there is no evidence as to the fact; to do so would be mere conjecture. The absence of critical evidence does not give rise to an inference that the missing evidence exists; rather, it indicates a failure of proof [Collin v. American Empire Ins. Co. (1994) 21 Cal. App. 4th 787, 808, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 391 (inference that conversion of personal property from rental house was "accident" within meaning of insurance policy was error in absence of any evidence as to how property disappeared)].

G. Presumptions and Inferences

§ 551.101 Conclusive Presumptions

The presumptions established by Evid. Code §§ 622-624, below, and all other presumptions declared by law to be conclusive, are conclusive presumptions [Evid. Code § 620]. The following are the presumptions established by Evid. Code §§ 622-624:

- The facts recited in a written instrument are conclusively presumed to be true as between the parties or their successors in interest [Evid. Code § 622; see Sanders Construction Co. v. San Joaquin First Fed. Sav. & Loan Assn. (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 387, 395, 186 Cal. Rptr. 218 (acknowledgment by tenant in Notice and Acknowledgment of Lease Assignment that lease was in full force and effect)]. But the rule does not apply to the recital of a consideration [Evid. Code § 622].

- Whenever a party has, by his or her own statement or conduct, intentionally and deliberately led another to believe a particular thing true and to act on that belief, the party is not, in any litigation arising out of the statement or conduct, permitted to contradict it [Evid. Code § 623]. For the meaning of the terms "statement" and "conduct," see discussion in § 551.60[2]. For example, once a party has gained an advantage through specific representations to the trial court, he or she may not disavow them [Alling v. Universal Mfg. Corp. (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1412, 1442-1443, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 718 (party in contract dispute who represented to trial court that certain claims applied only to purchase agreement was estopped from asserting those claims with respect to licensing agreement)]. In this respect, it may be noted that an estoppel may be invoked against a governmental agency when justice and right require it [Hartway v. State Board of Control (1976) 69 Cal. App. 3d 502, 504-505, 137 Cal. Rptr. 199 ; see Middleton v. Imperial Ins. Co. (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 134, 139, 193 Cal. Rptr. 144, 666 P.2d 1] . For the elements of estoppel, see Rankin v. Frebank Co. (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 75, 85-86, 121 Cal. Rptr. 348 , and Varela v. Wells Fargo Bank (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 741, 748, 93 Cal. Rptr. 428 .

- A tenant is not permitted to deny the title of his or her landlord at the time of the commencement of the relation [Evid. Code § 624].

Additionally, the child of a wife cohabiting with her husband, who is not impotent or sterile, is conclusively presumed to be a child of the marriage, except as provided in Fam. Code § 7541 (if blood tests show husband is not father) [Fam. Code § 7540; see Estate of Cornelious (1984) 35 Cal. 3d 461, 464-467, 198 Cal. Rptr. 543, 674 P.2d 245 , (decided under former Evid. Code § 621(a))]. For discussion of this presumption and exceptions to it, see Ch. 412, Paternity .

§ 551.102 Rebuttable Presumptions

[1] Defined and Classified

A statute providing that a fact or group of facts is prima facie evidence of another fact establishes a rebuttable presumption [Evid. Code § 602; see, e.g., Evid. Code § 1451, relating to presumptions with respect to acknowledged writings]. Presumptions which the Legislature does not specify as con clusive are rebuttable [People v. Dubon (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 944, 952, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 914] .

Every rebuttable presumption is either a presumption affecting the burden of producing evidence or a presumption affecting the burden of proof [Evid. Code § 601; see Fillmore v. Irvine (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 649, 660, 194 Cal. Rptr. 319] .

[2] Presumptions Affecting Burden of Producing Evidence

A presumption affecting the burden of producing evidence is a presumption established to implement no public policy other than to facilitate the determination of the particular action in which the presumption is applied [Evid. Code § 603]. The effect of the presumption is to require the trier of fact to assume the existence of the presumed fact unless and until evidence is introduced that would support a finding of its nonexistence. In this latter event, the trier of fact must determine the existence or nonexistence of the presumed fact from the evidence and without regard to the presumption. But this does not prevent the drawing of any inference that may be appropriate [Evid. Code § 604].

The presumptions established by Evid. Code §§ 631-647 (set out below) and all other rebuttable presumptions established by law that fall within the criteria of Evid. Code § 603 are presumptions affecting the burden of producing evidence [Evid. Code § 630]. The following are the presumptions established by Evid. Code §§ 631-645 and 647:

- Money delivered by one to another is presumed to have been due to the latter [Evid. Code § 631].
- A thing delivered by one to another is presumed to have belonged to the latter [Evid. Code § 632].

- An obligation delivered up to the debtor is presumed to have been paid [Evid. Code § 633].

- A person in possession of an order on himself or herself for the payment of money, or delivery of a thing, is presumed to have paid the money or delivered the thing accordingly [Evid. Code § 634].

- An obligation possessed by the creditor is presumed not to have been paid [Evid. Code § 635].

- The payment of earlier rent or installments is presumed from a receipt for later rent or installments [Evid. Code § 636].

- The things that a person possesses are presumed to be owned by the person [Evid. Code § 637].

- A person who exercises acts of ownership over property is presumed to be the owner [Evid. Code § 638].

- A judgment, when not conclusive, is presumed to correctly determine or set forth the rights of the parties, but there is no presumption that the facts essential to the judgment have been correctly determined [Evid. Code § 639].

- A writing is presumed to have been truly dated [Evid. Code § 640].

- A letter correctly addressed and properly mailed is presumed to have been received in the ordinary course of the mail [Evid. Code § 641].

- A trustee or other person, whose duty it was to convey real property to a particular person, is presumed to have actually conveyed to the person when the presumption is necessary to perfect title of the person or the person's successor in interest [Evid. Code § 642].

- A deed or will or other writing purporting to create, terminate, or affect an interest in real or personal property is presumed to be authentic if it (a) is at least 30 years old; (b) is in such condition as to create no suspicion concerning its authenticity; (c) was kept, or if found was found, in a place where the writing, if authentic, would be likely to be kept or found; and (d) has been generally acted on as authentic by persons having an interest in the matter [Evid. Code § 643].

- A book, purporting to be printed or published by public authority, is presumed to have been so printed or published [Evid. Code § 644].

- A book, purporting to contain reports of cases adjudged in the tribunals of the state or nation where the book is published, is presumed to contain correct reports of the cases [Evid. Code § 645].

- Printed materials, purporting to be a particular newspaper or periodical, are presumed to be that newspaper or periodical if regularly issued at average intervals not exceeding three months [Evid. Code § 645.1].

- The return of a registered process server on process or notice establishes a presumption, affecting the burden of producing evidence, of the facts stated in the return [Evid. Code § 647].

Evid. Code § 646 provides that the judicial doctrine of res ipsa loquitur is a presumption affecting the burden of producing evidence and that the word "defendant," as used in the section, includes any party against whom the presumption operates [Evid. Code § 646(a), (b)]. Evid. Code § 646(c) sets forth the instructions the court may, and on request shall, give the jury if the evidence, or facts otherwise established, would support a res ipsa loquitur presumption and the defendant has introduced evidence that would support a finding that he or she was not negligent or that any negligence on his or her part was not a proximate cause of the occurrence.

Other statutory presumptions affecting the burden of producing evidence are found in Evid. Code §§ 1451-1454 (relating to presumptions affecting acknowledged writings and official writings [see Evid. Code § 1450]); Evid. Code § 1552 (presumption that printed representations of computer information and computer programs are accurate representations); Evid. Code § 1530 (presumption that purported copy of writing in custody of public entity or an entry in such a writing is authentic and accurate); Evid. Code § 1532 (presumption that official record of writing accurately reflects existence and content or original recorded writing); Evid. Code § 1600 (record of recorded instrument or document affecting an interest in property as prima facie evidence); and Evid. Code § 1603 (presumption from deed executed pursuant to legal process that property has been conveyed). Evid. Code § 1604 provides that a certificate of purchase, or of location, of any lands in California issued or made pursuant to law is prima facie evidence that the holder of the certificate is the owner of the land and sets forth how the evidence may be overcome.

[3] Presumptions Affecting Burden of Proof

A presumption affecting the burden of proof is a presumption established to implement some public policy other than to facilitate the determination of the particular action in which the presumption is applied, such as the policy in favor of establishment of a parent and child relationship, the validity of marriage, the stability of titles to property, or the security of those who entrust them selves or their property to the administration of others [Evid. Code § 605]. The effect of the presumption is to impose on the party against whom it operates the burden of proof as to the nonexistence of the presumed fact [Evid. Code § 606].

The presumptions established by Evid. Code §§ 662-669.5 (set out below) and all other rebuttable presumptions established by law that fall within the criteria of Evid. Code § 605 are presumptions affecting the burden of proof [Evid. Code § 660; see also Haycock v. Hughes Aircraft Co. (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 1473, 1488-1489, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 248 (Lab. Code § 2922 presumption of at-will employment is based on public policy and affects burden of proof)]. The following are the presumptions established by Evid. Code §§ 662-668:

- The owner of the legal title to property is presumed to be the owner of the full beneficial title. This presumption may be rebutted only by clear and convincing proof [Evid. Code § 662; see discussion in § 551.92[3]].

- A ceremonial marriage is presumed to be valid [Evid. Code § 663].

- Official duty is presumed to have been regularly performed. But this presumption does not apply to an issue on the lawfulness of an arrest if it is found or otherwise established that the arrest was made without a warrant [Evid. Code § 664].

- A person is presumed to intend the ordinary consequences of his or her voluntary act [Evid. Code § 665 (also stating when presumption is inapplicable in criminal action to establish specific intent)].

- Any California or United States court, or any court of general jurisdiction in any other state or nation, or any judge of such a court, acting as such, is presumed to have acted in the lawful exercise of its jurisdiction. This presumption applies only when the act of the court or judge is under collateral attack [Evid. Code § 666].

- A person not heard from in five years is presumed to be dead [Evid. Code § 667].

- An unlawful intent is presumed from the doing of an unlawful act [Evid. Code § 668 (also stating when presumption is inapplicable in criminal action to establish specific intent)].

Evid. Code § 669 sets out when the failure of a person to exercise due care is presumed from the person's violation of a statute, ordinance, or regulation of a public entity. For causes of action arising out of facts occurring on or after January 1, 1988, Evid. Code § 669.1 excludes from the presumption a rule, policy, manual, or guideline of state or local government setting forth standards of conduct or guidelines for its employees in the conduct of their public employment, unless it has been formally adopted as a statute, ordinance, or agency regulation. For further discussion of these provisions, see Ch. 380, Negligence .

Evid. Code § 669.5 relates to the burden of proof in an action challenging the validity of a city or county ordinance limiting the number of building permits that may be issued for residential construction or buildable lots that may be developed for residential purposes.

§ 551.110 "Witness" Defined and Credibility

A witness is a person whose declaration under oath is received as evidence for any purpose [Code Civ. Proc. § 1878]. The declaration may be made on oral examination, by deposition, by affidavit, or by declaration under penalty of perjury [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1878, 2002, 2015.5].

When referring to a witness in the context of a trial, a witness is a person whose declaration under oath is made in person before the trier of fact [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1878, 2002, 2005, 2094; Evid. Code § 710]. The "oath" is given in one of the forms of oath, affirmation, or declaration set out in Code Civ. Proc. § 2094 [Code Civ. Proc. § 2094(a)], or, in the alternative, in some other form administered by the court in a manner calculated to awaken the witness's conscience and impress that person's mind with the duty to tell the truth [Code Civ. Proc. § 2094(b); see also Evid. Code § 710 (witness who is child under age of 10 or dependent person with substantial cognitive impairment may be required in the court's discretion only to promise to tell the truth)].

The credibility of witnesses is determined by the trier of fact [McAllister v. George (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 258, 265, 140 Cal. Rptr. 702] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.113

§ 551.113 Particular Persons

[1] Person Unable to Express Self or Understand Duty to Tell Truth as Disqualified

A person is disqualified to be a witness if the person is incapable of expressing himself or herself concerning the matter so as to be understood, either directly or through an interpreter, or incapable of understanding the duty of a witness to tell the truth [Evid. Code § 701(a)]. These matters are determined by the court [see Cal. Law Revision Commission Comment to Evid. Code § 701 in annotated codes]. The trial court has the discretion to exclude a witness on this basis if, because of health problems, the witness has memory difficulties, hallucinations, confusion, and the tendency to make up a story when memory is missing [Stanchfield v. Hamer Toyota, Inc. (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 1495, 1506-1507] . However, physical limitations on a witness's ability to communicate do not necessarily render the witness incompetent to testify [People v. Tran (1996) 47 Cal. App. 4th 759, 770, 54 Cal. Rptr. 2d 905 (where witness unable to speak, but could answer yes-or-no questions by tapping once for yes and twice for no, defense not deprived of meaningful opportunity to cross-examine)].

The party challenging the witness's competency has the burden of proving the witness's incompetency to testify [People v. Augustin (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 444, 447, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 171] .

In any proceeding held outside the presence of a jury, the court may reserve challenges to the competency of a witness until the conclusion of the direct examination (discussed in § 551.121[5]) of that witness [Evid. Code § 702(b)].

A witness's competence to testify must be challenged at the trial level [People v. Lewis (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 334, 360, 110 Cal. Rptr. 2d 272 ; People v. Cudjo (1993) 6 Cal. 4th 585, 622, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 390, 863 P.2d 635] . Failure to object at trial waives the issue on appeal [People v. Augustin (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 444, 447, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 171 (defense counsel's belated motion to strike victim's testimony on ground prosecutor should not be permitted to ask leading questions to clarify her testimony did not constitute objection to her competency)].

[2] Attorneys

Attorneys are not disqualified to be witnesses and are, therefore, competent under Evid. Code § 700 (discussed in § 551.111) to testify in the trial of a case as a witness for any party. This is also true when the lawyer is counsel of record for a party in the case, even though to testify may be unethical. Thus, a lawyer who has relevant information may be compelled to testify even if it is detrimental to his or her client unless the information is privileged [Romeo v. Jumbo Market (1967) 247 Cal. App. 2d 817, 820-821, 56 Cal. Rptr. 26 ; see also People v. Stokley (1968) 266 Cal. App. 2d 930, 936, 72 Cal. Rptr. 513 , cert. denied, 395 U.S. 914 (1969) (claim of violation of Canon of Ethics as raising no objection to inadmissability of attorney's testimony)].

Under Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 5-210, a State Bar member has an ethical obligation to refrain from acting as an advocate before a jury that will hear testimony from him or her unless the testimony relates to an uncontested matter, the testimony relates to the nature and value of legal services rendered in the case, or the member has the informed, written consent of the client [Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 5-210]. The member is required to withdraw if he or she knows or should know that continued employment will result in violation of this rule [see Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 3-700(B)(2)]. Apparently, the trial court can disqualify testifying counsel against the client's wishes only if it is confronted with manifest interest that it must protect from palpable injustice [see Lyle v. Superior Court (1981) 122 Cal. App. 3d 470, 482, 175 Cal. Rptr. 918 (decided under prior version of Rules of Professional Conduct)].

A party seeking to disqualify opposing counsel on the ground that opposing counsel ought to be called as a witness in the case must proceed at the first reasonable opportunity by proper motion to achieve that end and, on failing to do so, it is an abuse of discretion for the trial court to grant the motion [White v. Superior Court (1979) 98 Cal. App. 3d 51, 55-56, 159 Cal. Rptr. 278] . For forms that may be adapted for use in moving for an order of disqualification, see Ch. 72, Attorney Practice and Ethics, § 72.30 et seq.

[3] Judges, Arbitrators, and Mediators

Like attorneys, trial judges are not disqualified to be witnesses and are, therefore, competent under Evid. Code § 700 (discussed in § 551.111) to testify in the trial of a case as a witness for any party. However, a judge is disqualified to decide a proceeding if he or she has personal knowledge of disputed evidentiary facts concerning the proceeding, and the judge is deemed to have personal knowledge if to his or her knowledge he or she is likely to be a material witness in the proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(1)]. The procedure for disqualifying a judge on this ground is set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 170.3. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 317, Judges .

On the other hand, the Evidence Code permits the trial judge to testify if none of the parties objects [Evid. Code § 703(d)]. Before the judge may be called to testify, however, the judge shall, in proceedings held out of the presence and hearing of the jury, inform the parties of the information he or she has concerning any fact or matter about which he or she will be called to testify [Evid. Code § 703(a)]. If a party objects, the judge may not testify in the trial as a witness, and on the objection, the judge is required to declare a mistrial and order the action assigned for trial before another judge [Evid. Code § 703(b)]. Calling the judge to testify is deemed a consent to the granting of a motion for mistrial, and an objection to the calling of the judge is deemed a motion for mistrial [Evid. Code § 703(c)].

No person presiding at any judicial or quasi-judicial proceeding, and no arbitrator or mediator, is competent to testify in any subsequent civil proceeding as to any statement, conduct, decision, or ruling occurring at or in conjunction with the prior proceeding, except as to a statement or conduct that could (1) give rise to civil or criminal contempt, (2) constitute a crime, (3) be the subject of investigation by the State Bar of California or the Commission on Judicial Performance, or (4) give rise to disqualification proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1(a)(1) or (6) [Evid. Code § 703.5; see Merritt v. Reserve Ins. Co. (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 858, 883, 110 Cal. Rptr. 511 (decided prior to enactment of Evid. Code § 703.5; a trial judge committed prejudicial error in allowing another judge to testify as an expert witness on behalf of one party with respect to matters that took place before the testifying judge in his judicial capacity in a prior trial of the action)]. Section 703.5 does not apply, however, to a mediator with regard to any mediation of visitation or custody issues under Fam. Code § 3160 et seq. [Evid. Code § 703.5].

[4] Jurors

Jurors are not disqualified to be witnesses and are, therefore, competent under Evid. Code § 700 (discussed in § 551.111) to testify in the trial of a case as a witness for any party. But it would be unusual for a juror sworn and impaneled to try a case to have personal knowledge of facts involved in that case to which he or she could testify as a witness. One of the questions asked prospective jurors on voir dire is whether the juror has heard of, or has any knowledge of, the facts or events, or is familiar with the places or property mentioned, in the case [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 3.25(c)(7)]. If the prospective juror were to answer in the affirmative, it would seem further voir dire would disclose the juror's knowledge of the facts and that he or she would be challenged for cause under Code Civ. Proc. § 602(7) or (8).

Nevertheless, as in the case of the trial judge, a juror sworn and impaneled in the trial of an action may be compelled to testify in that trial as a witness in the absence of objection by a party [Evid. Code § 704(d)]. But before the juror may be called to testify, the juror must, in proceedings conducted by the court out of the presence and hearing of the remaining jurors, inform the parties of the information he or she has concerning any fact or matter about which he or she will be called to testify [Evid. Code § 704(a)]. Against the objection of a party, the juror may not testify, and on that objection, the court must declare a mistrial and order the action assigned for trial before another jury [Evid. Code § 704(b)]. The calling of a juror to testify is deemed a consent to the granting of a motion for mistrial, and an objection to the calling of the juror is deemed a motion for mistrial [Evid. Code § 704(c)].

[5] Experts

If the matter in issue is one within the knowledge of experts only and not within the common knowledge of laypersons, it is necessary for the plaintiff to introduce expert opinion evidence in order to establish a prima facie case [Miller v. Los Angeles County Flood Control Dist. (1973) 8 Cal. 3d 689, 702, 106 Cal. Rptr. 1, 505 P.2d 193 ; see also discussion in § 551.70[2][a]]. A person is qualified to testify as an expert if he or she has special knowledge, skill, experience, training, or education sufficient to qualify him or her as an expert on the subject to which his or her testimony relates. Against the objection of a party, the special knowledge, skill, experience, training, or education must be shown before the witness may testify as an expert [Evid. Code § 720(a)]. For the procedure for determining a preliminary fact, see discussion in § 551.76 . The test applied in making the determination is simply whether the witness possesses the special knowledge, skill, experience, training, or education sufficient to qualify him or her as an expert on the subject to which his or her testimony relates [Chadock v. Cohn (1979) 96 Cal. App. 3d 205, 208, 157 Cal. Rptr. 640 ; see McCleery v. City of Bakersfield (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 1059, 1066, 216 Cal. Rptr. 852 (trial court's disqualification of expert witness erroneous to extent it was based on witness's lack of prior experience in testifying and on irrelevance of his proposed testimony, rather than on determination of his special expertise)]. The showing may be made by any otherwise admissible evidence, including the witness's own testimony [Evid. Code § 720(b)]. The witness's degree of knowledge goes to the weight and not to the admissibility of his or her testimony [Mann v. Cracchiolo (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 18, 38, 210 Cal. Rptr. 762, 694 P.2d 1134] . If the witness's testimony is based upon scientific techniques, those techniques must be generally accepted by a typical cross-section of the relevant scientific community [People v. Leahy (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 587, 612, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 663, 882 P.2d 321 (citing People v. Kelly (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 24, 37, 130 Cal. Rptr. 144, 549 P.2d 1240); see discussion in § 551.70[2][a]]. It is for the trial court, in the exercise of sound discretion, to determine the competency and qualification of an expert witness to give his or her opinion in evidence, and its ruling will not be disturbed on appeal unless a manifest abuse of that discretion is shown [Miller v. Los Angeles County Flood Control Dist. (1973) 8 Cal. 3d 689, 701, 106 Cal. Rptr. 1, 505 P.2d 193 ; Douglas v. Ostermeier (1991) 1 Cal. App. 4th 729, 738, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 594] . However, the refusal to qualify a witness as an expert is an abuse of discretion if the witness disclosed sufficient knowledge of the subject to entitle his or her opinion to go to the jury [Mann v. Cracchiolo (1985) 38 Cal. 3d 18, 39, 210 Cal. Rptr. 762, 694 P.2d 1134] .

For a discussion of the evolving status of a consultant-expert who possibly may be called as a witness at trial, see Kennemur v. State of California (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 907, 916, 184 Cal. Rptr. 393 . For a discussion of the effect on the "work product rule" of the knowledge, opinions, and report of a consultant-expert when the expert becomes a witness in the action, see Brokopp v. Ford Motor Co. (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 841, 857-858, 139 Cal. Rptr. 888 .

The court may, at any time before or during the trial, limit the number of expert witnesses to be called by any party [Evid. Code § 723]. The court may also on its own motion or the motion of a party appoint one or more expert witnesses to investigate a fact or matter, render a report to the court, and testify at the trial. The court may also fix the compensation to be paid [Evid. Code § 730; for manner of payment of experts appointed by court, see Evid. Code § 731(b), (c)]. This does not prevent any party to the action from producing other expert evidence on the same fact or matter, but if other expert witnesses are called by a party, their fees are paid by the party calling them and only ordinary witness fees are taxed as costs [Evid. Code § 733].

§ 551.114 Compelling Attendance

[1] Power of Court

The court has inherent power to compel the attendance of persons to testify in an action or proceeding, including a party whose physical presence is required as a witness [Code Civ. Proc. § 128(a)(6); Taylor v. Bell (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 1002, 1008, 98 Cal. Rptr. 855 , cert. denied, 408 U.S. 923, 92 S. Ct. 2493, 33 L. Ed. 2d 334 (1972) (court as lacking power to order party to appear other than as witness)]. However, the court does not have the power to compel attendance of any witness who is not a California resident at the time of service [Code Civ. Proc. § 1989; Amoco Chemical Co. v. Certain Underwriters at Lloyd's of London (1995) 34 Cal. App. 4th 554, 555 (limitation applies to nonresident parties)].

[2] Procedure

The process for compelling the attendance of a nonparty to testify as a witness or to produce books, documents, or other things is a subpoena or subpoena duces tecum [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1985]. A person present in court may be required to testify in the same manner as if he or she were in attendance on a subpoena issued by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1990].

A party to the action or proceeding may also be served with a subpoena or subpoena duces tecum. But the more common procedure for securing the presence of a party or a person for whose immediate benefit an action is prosecuted or defended, or an officer, director, or managing agent of the party or person, is through service of a notice to appear. The giving of the notice has the same effect as service of a subpoena [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1987(b), (c)].

For a detailed discussion, a procedural checklist, and forms of subpoenas and notices to appear, see Ch. 535, Subpoena .

[3] Exemption of Out-of-State Witness From Arrest or Process While Obeying Criminal Subpoena

The exemption from arrest or service of process, civil or criminal, of a witness coming into California, or passing through California on his or her way to another state, in response to a subpoena or order to attend and testify in a criminal action or grand jury investigation pursuant to the Uniform Act to Secure the Attendance of Witnesses from Without the State in Criminal Cases is provided for in Penal Code §§ 1334.4 and 1334.5. For a discussion of persons who are immune to civil process, and for forms for use in moving to quash service of a summons, which, with appropriate modifications, may also be used to move to quash service of a subpoena, see Ch. 323, Jurisdiction: Personal .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.115

§ 551.115 Interpreters

[1] When Required; Applicability of Laws Relating to Witnesses

Judicial proceedings must be conducted in the English language [Code Civ. Proc. § 185]. Consequently, an interpreter is required when a witness is incapable of hearing or understanding the English language or is incapable of expressing himself or herself in the English language so as to be understood directly by counsel, the court, and the jury. In such event, an interpreter must be sworn to interpret for the witness [Evid. Code § 752(a); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 2.10(a)(1) (interpreter also to be appointed if court finds that party is unable to understand and speak English sufficiently to comprehend proceedings and to assist counsel in conduct of case)].

Separate interpreters may be needed for each non-English speaking party. An additional interpreter may be needed to interpret witness testimony for the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 2.10(a)(2)].

Whether an interpreter should be called rests in the discretion of the trial court [People v. Augustin (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 444, 451, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 171] . But if there is uncontradicted evidence that the witness does not speak or understand English, it would be an abuse of discretion to fail to appoint an interpreter [Gardiana v. Small Claims Court (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 412, 418-419, 130 Cal. Rptr. 675] .

Evid. Code § 754 covers the appointment of an interpreter in any civil or criminal action for an "individual who is deaf or hearing impaired" to the point that hearing loss is so great that the individual cannot understand language spoken in a normal tone and thus is unable to fully participate in the proceedings, and the use of an assistive listening system or other appropriate equipment, if provided, would not aid in the individual's participation. The provision for appropriate equipment for an "individual who is hearing impaired" but able to fully participate in the proceedings with sufficient assistive listening or computer-aided transcription equipment is covered in Civ. Code § 54.8.

A person who serves as an interpreter is subject to all the rules of law relating to witnesses [Evid. Code § 750].

An interpreter must be present in certain family law proceedings involving domestic violence when a party who does not proficiently speak or understand the English language is present. The interpreter must both interpret the proceedings so that the party understands and assist communication between the party and his or her attorney [Evid. Code § 755(a)]. If an interpreter is required under this section, the court must generally not commence proceedings until the appointed interpreter is present and situated near the party and his or her attorney [Evid. Code § 755(a), (c)].

[2] Procedure

There are no formal requirements as to the manner of requesting an interpreter, and hence the request may be made orally or in writing. However, if made orally, the request should be made in the presence of a reporter so that a record is made of the request. The Judicial Council has recommended that on request by a party or counsel, or whenever it appears that a party's or witness's primary language is not English or that a party or witness may not speak and understand English sufficiently to participate fully in the proceedings, the court should conduct an examination on the record to determine whether a court interpreter is needed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 2.10(b)]. Matters to be included in the examination are set forth in Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 2.10(c). After the examination, the court should state its conclusion on the record, and the file in the case should be clearly marked to ensure that an interpreter will be present when needed in any subsequent proceeding [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 2.10(d)].

For a form of motion for an order appointing an interpreter, along with related declaration and order, see Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 8, Interpreters, 8.33 -8.35.

[3] Qualifications and Standards of Professional Conduct of Interpreters

The competence of the interpreter is ordinarily for the trial court to determine and the manner of selection of an interpreter is within the discretion of the trial court [Hsu v. Mt. Zion Hospital (1968) 259 Cal. App. 2d 562, 582, 66 Cal. Rptr. 659].

Any person who interprets in a court proceeding using one of the designated languages [see Gov. Code § 68562(a) (designation made by Judicial Council)] must be a certified court interpreter for the language used [Gov. Code § 68561(a); see Gov. Code §§ 68560.5(a) ("court proceeding" defined), 68566 ("certified court interpreter" defined)]. However, a court may for good cause, and following the good cause and qualification procedures and guidelines adopted by the Judicial Council, appoint an interpreter for a designated language who is not certified [Gov. Code § 68561(a), (c)]. Interpreters named and maintained on the list of recommended court interpreters previously established by the State Personnel Board, or established by an entity provisionally approved under Gov. Code § 68562(b), are deemed certified until January 1, 1996. After that date, those interpreters are not deemed certified and must comply with the new procedures for certification as adopted by the Judicial Council. Interpreters approved by the State Personnel Board or any other agency or entity for use in administrative hearings or nonjudicial settings may not be deemed certified as court interpreters. These interpreters also may not be used in court proceedings unless they are qualified by the court under Gov. Code § 68562(c) or (d) [Gov. Code § 68561(b); see Gov. Code § 68562(c), (d)].

Any person who interprets in a court proceeding using a nondesignated language must be qualified by the court under the qualification procedures and guidelines adopted by the Judicial Council. If this qualified interpreter also passes an English fluency examination offered by a testing entity approved by the Judicial Council, this person will be designated a "registered interpreter" [Gov. Code § 68561(d)].

Interpreters must establish to the court that they meet the qualification requirements and the record must show that the interpreter is certified or was qualified by the court [see Gov. Code § 68561(e)].

There are mandatory Judicial Council forms to present the qualifications of an noncertified or nonregistered interpeter [Judicial Council Form INT-110] and to certify the unavailability of a certified or registered interpreter [Judicial Council Form INT-120]. For copies of these forms, see Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 8, Interpreters, 8.36, 8.37.

[4] Oath of Interpreter; Instructions

The interpreter must take an oath that he or she will make a true interpretation to the witness in a language that the witness understands and that he or she will make a true interpretation of the witness's answers to questions to counsel, court, or jury, in the English language, with his or her best skill and judgment [Evid. Code § 751(a)]. When a deaf or hard-of-hearing person is testifying under oath [see [1], above], an interpreter certified pursuant to Evid. Code § 754(f) must advise the court whenever he or she is unable to comply with his or her oath taken pursuant to Evid. Code § 751(a) [Evid. Code § 751(b)]. An interpreter regularly employed by the court and certified or registered in accordance with Gov. Code § 68560 et seq., relating to court interpreter services, may file an oath as prescribed by Evid. Code § 751(a) with the clerk of the court, and the filed oath serves for all subsequent court proceedings until the appointment is revoked [Evid. Code § 751(d)].

The instructions to be given to interpreters and to counsel are set forth in Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. Jud. Admin., Std. 2.11(a) and (b), respectively.

A translator is required when the written characters in a writing offered in evidence are incapable of being deciphered or understood directly. In such event, a translator must be sworn to decipher or translate the writing [Evid. Code § 753(a)].

A person who serves as a translator is subject to all the rules of law relating to witnesses [Evid. Code § 750].

[2] Oath of Translator

The translator must take an oath that he or she will make a true translation in the English language of any writing he or she is to decipher or translate [Evid. Code § 751(c)]. § 551.117 Compensation of Interpreters and Translators

[1] Fees and Payment

Interpreter and translator fees are covered by Evid. Code §§ 730-733, 752(b), and 753(b), and Gov. Code §§ 26806(c) and (d) (interpreters employed by county clerk for trial courts in counties of 900,000 or more), and 68092(b). The interpreter or translator may be compensated as provided in Evid. Code §§ 730-733, relating to compensation of expert witnesses [Evid. Code §§ 752(b), 753(b)].

Evid. Code § 730 authorizes the court to appoint experts and to fix their compensation, and Evid. Code § 731(c) provides that in all civil actions, the compensation fixed under Evid. Code § 730 must, in the first instance, be apportioned and charged to the several parties in such proportion as the court may determine and may thereafter be taxed and allowed in like manner as other costs [see also Gov. Code § 68092(b)].

[2] Indigent Litigants

Although Evid. Code § 752 [see § 551.115[1]] provides for court appointment of an interpreter for a witness, no statutory basis exists for appointing of an interpreter at public expense to assist non-English-speaking litigants in civil cases, and, because language assistance to indigent but represented litigants appears available, there is no need for courts to require appointment of interpreters to assist litigants at public expense [Jara v. Municipal Court (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 181, 183, 185, 145 Cal. Rptr. 847, 578 P.2d 94 , cert. denied, 439 U.S. 1067 (1979)] .

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.121

§ 551.121 Examination of Witnesses

[1] Oath or Affirmation

Before testifying every witness is required to take an oath or make an affirmation or declaration in the form provided by law, except that a court in its discretion may require that a child less than 10 years old or a dependent person with a substantial cognitive impairment only promise to tell the truth [Evid. Code § 710; for definition of "dependent person," see Evid. Code § 177]. For further discussion and forms for oath and affirmation, see Ch. 392, Oath and Affirmation .

[2] Personal Knowledge

Subject to Evid. Code § 801 (relating to opinion testimony of expert witnesses and discussed in § 551.70), the testimony of a witness is inadmissible unless the witness has personal knowledge of the matter [Evid. Code § 702(a)]. This includes the requirement that the witness have the capacity to perceive the facts through his or her own senses and to recollect those facts [see Cal. Law Revision Commission Comment to Evid. Code § 701 in annotated codes; see also Evid. Code § 170, defining "perceive" as meaning to acquire knowledge through one's senses].

If a party objects to a witness's testimony on the ground the witness lacks personal knowledge, personal knowledge must be shown before the witness may testify concerning the matter [Evid. Code § 702(a)]. The procedure for determining this preliminary fact is set forth in Evid. Code § 403 (see discussion in § 551.76[3][b]). A witness's personal knowledge of a matter may be shown by any otherwise admissible evidence, including his or her own testimony [Evid. Code § 702(b); Cassel v. Kolb (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 568, 580, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 878] .

[3] Court's Control Over Mode of Interrogation of Witnesses

The court is required to exercise reasonable control over the mode of interrogation of a witness so as (1) to make the interrogation as rapid, as distinct, and as effective for the ascertainment of the truth as may be, and (2) to protect the witness from undue harassment or embarrassment [Evid. Code § 765(a)]. The court must take special care to protect a witness under the age of 14 or a dependent person with a substantial cognitive impairment from undue harassment or embarrassment and to restrict any unnecessary repetition of questions [Evid. Code § 765(b); for definition of "dependent person," see Evid. Code § 177]. The court also must take special care to ensure that questions are stated in a form that is appropriate to the age or cognitive level of the witness. The court may, in the interests of justice, on objection by a party, forbid the asking of a question in a form that is not reasonably likely to be understood by a person of the age or cognitive level of the witness [Evid. Code § 765(b)].

[4] Calling and Examination by Court

The court, on its own motion or the motion of any party, may call witnesses and interrogate them the same as if they had been produced by a party to the action. The parties may object to the questions and the evidence the same as if the witnesses had been called and examined by an adverse party. The witnesses may be cross-examined by all parties to the action in such order as the court directs [Evid. Code § 775].

The trial judge may examine a witness called by a party, but in so doing should not become an advocate for either party or cast aspersions or ridicule on the witness [see, e.g., McCartney v. Commission on Judicial Qualifications (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 512, 533, 116 Cal. Rptr. 260, 526 P.2d 268 ; see also Gonzalez v. Commission on Judicial Performance (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 359, 371 n.6, 188 Cal. Rptr. 880, 657 P.2d 372] .

With respect to questioning by the judge, the Los Angeles County Superior Court has adopted the following policy: The trial judge ordinarily should not examine a witness until the parties have completed their questioning of the witness. If a witness is referring to graphic evidence (e.g., pointing to "here" and "there" on a map), the trial judge should make such inquiries and give such direction that the record is complete and intelligible as to the points of reference. When the judge completes such questions, all parties should have the opportunity to examine on the matters touched on by the judge [Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.88].

[5] Direct, Cross, Redirect, and Recross-Examination

[a] Defined

There are four kinds of examination of witnesses, each of which is referred to as a "phase" [see Evid. Code § 772(a)]. They are (1) direct examination, (2) cross-examination, (3) redirect examination, and (4) recross-examination [Evid. Code § 772(a); see Evid. Code §§ 760-763].

Direct examination is the first examination of a witness on a matter that is not within the scope of a previous examination of a witness [Evid. Code § 760].

Cross-examination is the examination of a witness by a party other than the direct examiner on a matter that is within the scope of the direct examination of the witness [Evid. Code § 761].

Redirect examination is an examination of a witness by the direct examiner subsequent to the cross-examination of the witness [Evid. Code § 762].

Recross-examination is an examination of a witness by a cross-examiner subsequent to a redirect examination of the witness [Evid. Code § 763].

[b] Order of Examination

The examination of a witness proceeds as follows: direct examination, cross-examination, redirect examination, recross-examination, and continuing thereafter by redirect and recross-examination [Evid. Code § 772(a)].

Each phase of the examination of a witness must be concluded before the succeeding phase begins unless for good cause the court otherwise directs [Evid. Code § 772(b)]. But in a civil case a party may in the court's discretion interrupt his or her cross-examination, redirect examination, or recross-examination in order to examine the witness on a matter not within the scope of a previous examination of the witness [Evid. Code § 772(c)].

[c] Order and Scope of Cross-Examination

A witness examined by one party may be cross-examined by each other party to the action in such order as the court directs [Evid. Code § 773(a)]. The order of cross-examination by the parties in multiple-party cases sometimes is resolved by the judge at the chambers conference before trial [see discussion in Subpart C].

The witness may be cross-examined on any matter within the scope of the direct examination [Evid. Code § 773(a)]. However, the cross- examination need not be confined to a mere categorical review of matters, dates, or times mentioned in the direct examination. Rather, the scope of proper cross-examination may extend to the whole transaction of which the witness has testified, or it may be employed to elicit any matter that may tend to overcome, qualify, or explain the testimony given by a witness on his or her direct examination. Moreover, the witness can be cross examined with respect to facts or denials that are necessarily implied from his or her testimony in chief, as well as with respect to facts that the witness expressly states or that are connected with them [Gallaher v. Superior Court (1980) 103 Cal. App. 3d 666, 671, 162 Cal. Rptr. 389] . And the cross-examiner, unlike the direct examiner, may ask leading questions [see Evid. Code § 767(a)(2) and discussion under [6], below].

Notwithstanding the above, the cross-examination of a witness by any party whose interest is not adverse to the party calling the witness is subject to the same rules that apply to the direct examination [Evid. Code § 773(b)]; that is, leading questions may not be asked except under special circumstances where the interests of justice otherwise require [see Evid. Code § 767(a)].

A witness once examined cannot be reexamined as to the same matter without leave of court, but the witness may be reexamined as to any new matter on which he or she has been examined by another party to the action. Leave may be granted or withheld in the court's discretion [Evid. Code § 774].

[e] Recall of Witness

After a witness has been excused from giving further testimony, he or she cannot be recalled without leave of the court. Leave may be granted or withheld in the court's discretion [Evid. Code § 778].

[6] Leading Questions

A leading question is one that suggests to the witness the answer the examining party desires [Evid. Code § 764]. Except under special circumstances when the interests of justice otherwise require, a leading question may not be asked of a witness on direct or redirect examination, but a leading question may be asked of a witness on cross-examination or recross-examination [Evid. Code § 767].

Under the "special circumstances" exception, a leading question may be asked on direct examination of a witness when there is little danger of improper suggestion or when the question is necessary to obtain relevant evidence. This would permit leading questions on direct examination to establish preliminary matters or to refresh recollection, and in examining handicapped witnesses, expert witnesses, and hostile witnesses [see Assembly Committee on Judiciary's Comment to Evid. Code § 767 in annotated codes; see also People v. Augustin (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 444, 449-450, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 171 (use of leading questions provided more efficient and less biased way for victim who suffered from cerebral palsy to communicate her testimony); Gore v. Board of Medical Quality Assurance (1980) 110 Cal. App. 3d 184, 191, 167 Cal. Rptr. 881 (damaging testimony by expert medical witness against petitioner at administrative hearing, some of which was elicited by leading questions); People v. Campbell (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 38, 44, 43

Cal. Rptr. 237] . Leading questions also may be asked (1) in examining an adverse party or a witness identified with an adverse party [see Evid. Code § 776(a), and discussion in [11][a], below]; and (2) to identify exhibits [see People v. Campbell (1965) 233 Cal. App. 2d 38, 44, 43 Cal. Rptr. 237] . By the same token, the court may forbid the asking of leading questions on cross-examination when the witness is biased in favor of the cross-examiner and would be unduly susceptible to the influence of questions that suggested the desired answer [see Assembly Committee on Judiciary's Comment to Evid. Code § 767 in annotated codes].

[7] Responsive Answers

A witness must give responsive answers to questions. Answers that are not responsive must be stricken on the motion of a party [Evid. Code § 766].

[8] Writings

In examining a witness concerning a writing, it is not necessary to show, read, or disclose to the witness any part of the writing [Evid. Code § 768(a)]. If a writing is shown to the witness, all parties to the action must be given an opportunity to inspect it before any question concerning it may be asked of the witness [Evid. Code § 768(b)].

[9] Prior Inconsistent Statements or Conduct

A witness may be impeached by prior statements that are inconsistent with the witness's express or implied testimony [see Evid. Code § 780(h) (discussed in § 551.122)]. However, certain prior statements may be inadmissible, even for impeachment. For example, a witness's testimony from a judicial arbitration is not admissible to impeach his or her testimony at a subsequent trial [Jimena v. Alesso (1995) 36 Cal. App. 4th 1028, 1031, 43 Cal. Rptr. 2d 18 ; see Ch. 36, Judicial Arbitration]. In examining a witness about a statement or other conduct of the witness that is inconsistent with any part of his or her testimony, it is not necessary to disclose any information concerning the statement or other conduct [Evid. Code § 769].

However, if evidence of a prior inconsistent statement is subsequently sought to be introduced, a foundational showing under the provisions of Evid. Code § 770 is required. Evid. Code § 770 provides that unless the interests of justice otherwise require, extrinsic evidence of a statement made by a witness that is inconsistent with any part of his or her testimony must be excluded unless (1) the witness was so examined while testifying as to give the witness an opportunity to explain or deny the statement, or (2) the witness has not been excused from giving further testimony in the action [see Bossi v. State of California (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 313, 324, 174 Cal. Rptr. 93] . To meet the requirements of the first alternative, the witness should be asked whether or not he or she made the specific inconsistent statement. It is insufficient opportunity for a witness to explain or deny a prior inconsistent statement, for example, by handing the witness a copy of a 60-page transcript of a deposition, which was taken some 18 months before, and asking the witness if at that time and place all of these questions were asked and all of these answers given [Bossi v. State of California (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 313, 325, 174 Cal. Rptr. 93 (holding that witness, who answered "yes" was not provided with any "realistic opportunity to explain or deny any specific statement contained" in transcript)].

[10] Refreshing Memory

If a witness, either before or while testifying, uses a writing to refresh his or her memory with respect to any matter about which he or she testifies, the writing must be produced at the request of an adverse party [Evid. Code § 771(a)].

If the writing is produced, the adverse party may inspect it, cross-examine the witness concerning it, and introduce in evidence such portion of it as may be pertinent to the witness's testimony [Evid. Code § 771(b)]. However, the rights granted by this provision are not unlimited. For example, a traffic accident report used to refresh the recollection of the officer who made it is not admissible in evidence under Evid. Code § 771(b) in an action arising out of the accident [see Veh. Code § 20013; Box v. California Date Growers Assn. (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 266, 270, 129 Cal. Rptr. 146 ; cf.

Sherrell v. Kelso (1981) 116 Cal. App. 3d Supp. 22, 27-35, 172 Cal. Rptr. 667 (contents of traffic accident report may, however, be read into evidence as a past recollection recorded under Evid. Code § 1237 when proper foundation is laid)].

[11] Calling Adverse Party or Person Identified With Adverse Party

[a] Examination

A party or a person identified with a party (see Evid. Code § 776(d), discussed in [b], below) may be called and examined as if under cross-examination by any adverse party at any time during the presentation of evidence by the party calling the witness [Evid. Code § 776(a); see Cal. Law Revision Commission Comment to Evid. Code § 776 in annotated codes]; that is, leading questions may be asked except under special circumstances where the interests of justice otherwise require [see Evid. Code § 767(a)(2) and discussion under [6], above]. For the purposes of this rule, parties represented by the same counsel are deemed to be a single party [Evid. Code § 776(c)].

The purpose of the foregoing provisions is to enable a party to call his or her adversary and elicit testimony without making that party his or her own witness. The examination often is exploratory and requires no offer of proof [Murry v. Manley (1959) 170 Cal. App. 2d 364, 366, 338 P.2d 976 (involving former Code Civ. Proc. § 2055, the predecessor to Evid. Code § 776)]. But the examination may prevent counsel's cross-examining the same party on the same matter when called by another party [see Evid. Code § 774, discussed in [5][d], above].

[b] "Person Identified With Party" Defined

A person is identified with a party if he or she is (1) a person for whose immediate benefit the action is prosecuted or defended by the party; or (2) a director, officer, superintendent, member, agent, employee, or managing agent of the party or person, or an employee of a public entity that is the party, or (3) a person who was in any of the relationships specified in (2) either at the time of the act or omission giving rise to the cause of action or at the time he or she obtained knowledge of the matter concerning which he or she is to be examined under Evid. Code § 776 [Evid. Code § 776(d)].

[c] Cross-Examination

A witness so examined by an adverse party may be cross-examined by all other parties in such order as the court directs [Evid. Code § 776(b)]. However, subject to Evid. Code § 776(e), the cross-examination is to be conducted as if the witness were under redirect examination (that is, under Evid. Code § 767(a) leading questions may not be asked except under special circumstances where the interests of justice otherwise require) when the examination is by: (1) if the witness is a party, his or her own counsel or counsel for a party who is not adverse to the witness; and (2) if the witness is not a party, by counsel for the party with whom the witness is identified or counsel for a party who is not adverse to the party with whom the witness is identified [Evid. Code § 773(b)]. But in the latter case (witness who is not a party), counsel for the party with whom the witness is identified and counsel for a party who is not adverse to the party with whom the witness is identified are not required to examine the witness as if under redirect examination if the party who called the witness is either (1) also a person identified with the same party with whom the witness is identified or (2) the personal representative, heir, successor, or assignee of a person identified with the same party with whom the witness is identified [Evid. Code § 776(e)].

The introductory portion of Evid. Code § 776(b) states the general rule that a witness examined under the section may be cross-examined by all other parties to the action in such order as the court directs. For example, a party whose interest in the action is identical with that of the party who called the witness for examination under the section has a right to cross-examine the witness fully because he or she, too, has the right to call the witness for examination under the section. Similarly, a party whose interest in the action is adverse to the party who called the witness for examination under the section has the right to cross-examine the witness fully unless he or she is identified with the witness as described in Evid. Code § 776(b)(1) and (2). Evid. Code § 776(b)(1) and (2) restrict the nature of the cross examination permitted of a witness by a party with whom the witness is identified and by parties whose interest in the action is not adverse to the party with whom the witness is identified. These parties are limited to examination of the witness as if under redirect examination. In essence, this means that leading questions cannot be asked of the witness by these parties [see Evid. Code § 767(a)]. Although the examination must proceed as if it were a redirect examination, under Evid. Code § 761 it is in fact a cross-examination and limited to the scope of the direct examination [see Cal. Law Revision Commission Comment to Evid. Code § 776 in annotated codes].

Evid. Code § 776 permits a party calling as a witness an employee of an adverse party (or someone similarly identified in interest with an adverse party) to examine the witness as if under cross-examination, that is, to use leading questions in the examination. The section requires the party whose employee was thus called and examined to examine the witness as if under redirect examination, that is, to refrain from the use of leading questions. If a party is able to persuade the court that the usual rule prescribed by Evid. Code § 776 is not in the interest of justice in the particular case, the court may enlarge or restrict the right to use leading questions as provided in Evid. Code § 767. These rules are based on the premise that ordinarily the witness will have a feeling of identification in the lawsuit with his or her employer rather than with the other party to the action. But the premise on which Evid. Code § 776 is based does not necessarily apply when the party calling the witness is also closely identified with the adverse party. In such a case, Evid. Code § 776(e) entitles the adverse party to the usual rights of a cross-examiner when examining the witness. For example, when an employee sues his or her employer and calls a coemployee as a witness, there is no reason to assume the coemployee-witness will be adverse to the employee-party and in sympathy with the employer-party. The reverse may be the case. Evid. Code § 776(e) permits the employer in such a case, as a general rule, to use leading questions in its cross-examination of the coemployee-witness called to testify by the employee party under Evid. Code § 776. However, if the party calling the witness can satisfy the court that the coemployee witness is in fa identified in interest with the employer or for some other reason is amenable to suggestive questioning by the employer, the court may limit the employer's use of leading questions during its examination of the witness pursuant to Evid. Code § 767 [see Cal. Law Revision Commission Comment to 1967 Amendment of Evid. Code § 776 in annotated codes].

[12] Expert Witnesses

A witness testifying as an expert may be cross-examined to the same extent as any other witness. The witness also may be fully cross-examined as to (1) his or her qualifications, (2) the subject to which his or her expert testimony relates, and (3) the matter on which his or his opinion is based and the reasons for the opinion [Evid. Code § 721(a)]. However, a witness who testifies in the form of an opinion may not be cross-examined in regard to the content or tenor of any scientific, technical, or professional text, treatise, journal, or similar publication unless (1) the witness referred to, considered, or relied on the publication in arriving at or forming the opinion, or (2) the publication has been admitted in evidence, or (3) the publication has been established as a reliable authority by the testimony or admission of the witness or by other expert testimony or by judicial notice. If admitted, relevant portions of the publication may be read into evidence but may not be received as exhibits [Evid. Code § 721(b)]. The purpose of Evid. Code § 721(b) is to prevent the cross-examiner from putting the views of an absent expert (inadmissible hearsay) before the jury. The term "similar publication" is, therefore, broadly construed. For example, a written report that was not published for mass consumption may be excluded as a "similar publication" [McGarity v. Department of Transportation (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 677, 682-684, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 344] .

A treating physician is a percipient expert, but his or her testimony is not limited to personal observations. Like any other expert, the treating physician may provide both fact and opinion testimony. Further, for a treating physician, no expert witness declaration is required, and the physician may testify as to any opinions formed on the basis of facts independently acquired and informed by training, skill, and experience, which could include opinions regarding causation and standard of care, because those issues are inherent in a physician's work [Schreiber v. Estate of Kiser (1999) 22 Cal. 4th 31, 35, 49, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 293, 989 P.2d 720] .

Any expert appointed by the court under Evid. Code § 730 (discussed in § 551.113[5]) may be called and examined by the court or by any party to the action. When the witness is called and examined by the court, the parties have the same right to cross-examine the witness and to object to the questions asked and the evidence adduced as expressed in Evid. Code § 775 (discussed in [4], above) [Evid. Code § 732].

For the manner of impeaching the testimony of an expert, see discussion in § 551.123[3].

§ 551.122 Factors Considered in Determining Witness's Credibility

Except as otherwise provided by statute, the court or jury, in determining a witness's credibility, may consider any matter that has any tendency in reason to prove or disprove the truthfulness of the witness's testimony, including but not limited to the following [Evid. Code § 780]:

- The witness's demeanor while testifying and the manner in which he or she testifies [Evid. Code § 780(a); see Meiner v. Ford Motor Co. (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 127, 140, 94 Cal. Rptr. 702 (trier of fact is sole and exclusive judge of credibility of witnesses as determined by their demeanor); see also Linsk v. Linsk (1969) 70 Cal. 2d 272, 278-279, 74 Cal. Rptr. 544, 449 P.2d 760 (right of party to have trier of fact observe his or her demeanor and that of adversary and other witnesses during examination and cross-examination is incontrovertible)].

- The character of the testimony [Evid. Code § 780(b); see Estate of Baker (1982) 131 Cal. App. 3d 471, 483, 182 Cal. Rptr. 550 (trier of fact's determination will be interfered with on appeal only when it appears witness's testimony is inherently so improbable as to be unworthy of belief); Wilson v. State Personnel Bd. (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 865, 877, 130 Cal. Rptr. 292 (same)].

- The extent of the witness's capacity to perceive, to recollect, or to communicate any matter about which he or she testifies [Evid. Code § 780(c)].

- The extent of the witness's opportunity to perceive any matter about which he or she testifies [Evid. Code § 780(d)].

- The witness's character for honesty or veracity, or their opposites [Evid. Code § 780(e)].

- The existence or nonexistence of a bias, interest, or other motive [Evid. Code § 780(f); see Grudt v. City of Los Angeles (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 575, 591-592, 86 Cal. Rptr. 465, 468 P.2d 825 (manner of showing bias)].

- A statement previously made by the witness that is consistent with his or her testimony [Evid. Code § 780(g)].

- A statement previously made by the witness that is inconsistent with any part of his or her testimony [Evid. Code § 780(h); see Rodriguez v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 626, 647, 151 Cal. Rptr. 399 (prior statements inconsistent with express or im plied testimony of witness are admissible for impeachment); see also Marocco v. Ford Motor Co. (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 84, 94, 86 Cal. Rptr. 526 (party may not secure admission of otherwise inadmissible evidence for purpose of subsequently impeaching it); and discussion under § 551.121[9]].

- The existence or nonexistence of any fact testified to by the witness [Evid. Code § 780(i); see Kennemur v. State of California (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 907, 923-924, 184 Cal. Rptr. 393] .

- The witness's attitude toward the action or the giving of testimony [Evid. Code § 780(j)].

- The witness's admission of untruthfulness [Evid. Code § 780(k)].

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.123

§ 551.123 Supporting or Attacking Witness's Credibility

[1] By Whom

The credibility of a witness may be attacked or supported by any party, including the party calling the witness [Evid. Code § 785].

[2] Methods

Evid. Code § 780 (discussed in § 551.122) recites most of the commonly used methods of impeaching the credibility of a witness [Kennemur v. State of California (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 907, 921, 184 Cal. Rptr. 393] .

[3] Impeachment of Expert Witnesses

An expert witness, like a lay witness, may be impeached on any of the grounds set forth in Evid. Code § 780 (discussed in § 551.122). Thus, a party may impeach an expert witness by evidence showing the nonexistence of any fact testified to by the expert [see Evid. Code § 780(i)]. This can be done either by cross-examination of the expert or by calling other witnesses to offer evidence showing the nonexistence or error in the data on which the first expert based his or her opinion. The rationale of the rule is that by showing the falsity of a fact asserted by the expert, the expert's entire testimony is brought into question [Kennemur v. State of California (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 907, 922-923, 184 Cal. Rptr. 393] .

To impeach an expert witness by showing the nonexistence of any fact testified to by the expert [Evid. Code § 780(i)], a distinction must be made between the expert's opinion and the foundational facts on which the opinion is based. When the facts underlying the expert's opinion are proved to be false or nonexistent, not only is the expert's opinion destroyed but the falsity permeates his or her entire testimony; it tends to prove the expert's untruthfulness as a witness [Kennemur v. State of California (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 907, 923-924, 184 Cal. Rptr. 393] . On the other hand, an expert witness is not impeached merely by producing another expert who testifies to a different opinion. That is simply rebuttal and suggests only that the first expert may have reasoned incorrectly, not that the first expert is untruthful [Kennemur v. State of California (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 907, 923, 184 Cal. Rptr. 393 ; Fish v. Guevara (1993) 12

Cal. App. 4th 142, 146, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 329] .

An expert cannot be cross-examined as to the content or tenor of any scientific, technical, or professional publication that he or she did not consider in forming an opinion unless the publication has been admitted into evidence or the publication has been established as a reliable authority by the testimony or admission of the witness or by other expert testimony or by judicial notice [Evid. Code § 721(b); McGarity v. Department of Transportation (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 677, 681, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 344] . An expert may be cross-examined about his or her compensation or expenses [Evid. Code § 722(b)].

[4] Appointment and Payment of Expert Witnesses

When an expert witness is appointed by the court, that fact may be revealed to the jury [Evid. Code § 722(a)].

The compensation and expenses paid or to be paid to an expert witness by the party calling the witness are a proper subject of inquiry by any adverse party as relevant to the credibility of the witness and the weight of the witness's testimony [Evid. Code § 722(b)].

[5] Inadmissible Evidence

The following evidence is inadmissible to support or attack a witness's credibility:

- Evidence of the witness's character traits other than honesty or veracity, or their opposites [Evid. Code § 786; see People v. Jones (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 153, 184, 202 Cal. Rptr. 162] . However, evidence that a witness has been convicted of a felony is admissible to show bias under Evid. Code § 786 without regard to the nature of the underlying crime, since it relates to the character traits of honesty and truthfulness [Piscitelli v. Salesian Society (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 1, 6-10, 82 Cal. Rptr. 3d 139].

- Evidence of specific instances of conduct tending to prove only a character trait of the witness, unless it is evidence of an unexpunged felony conviction [Evid. Code §§ 787, 788; see Grudt v. City of Los Angeles (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 575, 591-592, 86 Cal. Rptr. 465, 468 P.2d 825 (Evid. Code §§ 787 and 788 cannot be circumvented under the guise of showing the bias of the witness under Evid. Code § 780(f), discussed in § 551.122; evidence of prior arrests inadmissible to show bias in wrongful death action against city and police officers); for related jury instruction on use of a prior conviction of a felony, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI No. 211 (Matthew Bender), also available in LexisNexis Automated Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions]. However, the admission of felony convictions for impeachment is not automatic. On proper objection to the admission of a felony conviction for impeachment in a civil case, the trial judge is required to weigh the probative value of the conviction against its prejudicial effect under Evid. Code § 352 [Robbins v. Wong (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 261, 274 (criminal decisions may be used to guide weighing process)]. However, the enactment of Cal. Const., art. I, § 28(d) supersedes all California restrictions on the admission of relevant evidence except those preserved or permitted by the express words of section 28(d) itself [People v. Wheeler (1992) 4 Cal.4th 284, 291, 14 Cal. Rptr. 2d 418, 841 P.2d 938] . Among those provisions superseded is Evid. Code § 787 [In re Freeman (2006) 38 Cal. 4th 630, 640 n.5, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 850, 133 P.3d 1013] .

- Evidence of the witness's religious beliefs or lack of them [Evid. Code § 789; see also Drake v. Dean (1993) 15 Cal. App. 4th 915, 933, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 325 (relevant inquiry whether witness's membership in religious sect or tenet of faith might tend to bias witness as not prohibited)].

- Evidence of the witness's good character unless evidence of the witness's bad character has been admitted for the purpose of attacking his or her credibility [Evid. Code § 790].

Evidence of a previous consistent statement made by a witness also is inadmissible to support the witness's credibility unless it is offered after (1) evidence of an inconsistent statement has been admitted for the purpose of attacking the witness's credibility and the consistent statement was made before the alleged inconsistent statement, or (2) an express or implied charge has been made that the witness's testimony was recently fabricated or influenced by bias or other improper motive and the statement was made before the bias, motive for fabrication, or other improper motive is alleged to have arisen [Evid. Code § 791].

When the evidence is concluded, unless the case is submitted without argument, the parties may present their argument or summation [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 607(7), 631.7; see § 551.50 et seq.]. The right to argue the case is absolute in a jury trial, but in a case tried without a jury, the right to argue is a privilege accorded the parties by the court in its discretion [*Gillette v. [1] Proper Argument

In summing up, counsel may indulge in all fair arguments in favor of his or her client's case but may not assume facts not in evidence or, in a jury trial, invite the jury to speculate as to unsupported inferences [Neumann v. Bishop (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 451, 479, 130 Cal. Rptr. 786] . However, counsel may argue all reasonable inferences from the evidence and may with propriety comment on the demeanor of a witness indicating recalcitrance [Brokopp v. Ford Motor Co. (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 841, 860-861, 139 Cal. Rptr. 888] . While the trial judge may properly insist that counsel not undertake to tell the jury what the judge will say, counsel is not precluded from discussing the pertinent law and its application to the facts. The right of discussing the merits of the cause, both as to the law and facts, is unabridged. The range of discussion is wide and counsel may be heard in argument on every question of law, provided his or her statement of the law is correct [Neumann v. Bishop (1976) 59 Cal. App. 3d 451, 479-480, 130 Cal. Rptr. 786] .

[2] Improper Argument

On the other hand, the following have been held to be improper argument [Garden Grove School Dist. v. Hendler (1965) 63 Cal. 2d 141, 143, 45 Cal. Rptr. 313, 403 P.2d 721 (reversing judgment in eminent domain proceeding because of prejudicial misconduct of plaintiff's counsel in remarks during trial and in summation to jury)]:

- Counsel's alluding to his or her personal knowledge in summation to the jury.
- Resorting to insulting and derogatory characterizations of the adverse party.
- Appealing to the jurors' economic self-interest and provinciality.
- By innuendo impugning the adverse party's motives and purpose.

Other matters held to be improper include [Brokopp v. Ford Motor Co. (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 841, 859-862, 139 Cal.

Rptr. 888 (action for damages arising out of one-vehicle accident caused by failure of defective part of vehicle)]:

- Making a "golden rule" argument (that is, asking jurors in calculating damages to place themselves in plaintiff's shoes and award amount they would charge to undergo equivalent disability, pain, and suffering) or a variant of the rule.

- Making an appeal to the sympathy of the jury based on defendant's size and corporate status.

- Making an appeal to the self-interest of the jurors as taxpayers.

- Arguing a matter not in evidence and contrary to all of the pertinent expert testimony.

In addition, it has been held prejudicial error to overrule a party's objection to the comments and arguments of the adverse party's counsel on the failure of the objecting party to call certain witnesses when the witnesses were equally available to subpoena by either party [Smith v. Covell (1980) 100 Cal. App. 3d 947, 956-957, 161 Cal. Rptr. 377] .

Motions for mistrial, although recognized by statute (see, for example, Evid. Code §§ 703(c), 704(c)) and inferentially authorized by Code Civ. Proc. § 616, are nonstatutory and governed primarily by case law [see, e.g., Reimer v. Firpo (1949) 94 Cal. App. 2d 798, 801, 212 P.2d 23 ; see also California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials, Ch. 10, Mistrials, § 10.2 (CJER 1981); California Trial Guide, § 3.32 (Matthew Bender)].

Motions for mistrial on the ground that the presiding judge or a juror is called as a witness are governed by Evid. Code §§ 703 (judge) and 704 (juror). The declaration of a mistrial for failure to complete the trial of a short cause on time is governed by Cal. Rule of Ct., Rule 3.735(c). The retrial of an action after declaration of a mistrial is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 616. Dismissal for failure to prosecute after declaration of a mistrial is governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.320(a)(1), 583.420(a)(3)(A) and is discussed in Ch. 212, Dismissal .

Chapter 551 TRIAL
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
J. Mistrial

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.151

§ 551.151 Mistrial and New Trial Distinguished

A mistrial and a new trial differ in both name and effect. A mistrial is the termination of a trial before its conclusion and is the equivalent of no trial [see Estate of Bartholomae (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 839, 842, 68 Cal. Rptr. 332] . When a trial is incomplete, the trial court's power is limited to declaring a mistrial and resetting the cause for trial. For example, the successor of a trial judge has no authority to decide or to make a statement of decision in a case not tried by him or her. Thus, when material issues are not passed on and disposed of in the trial, it is deemed a mistrial and another trial must be held. A motion for new trial under these circumstances would be premature [see Reimer v. Firpo (1949) 94 Cal. App. 2d 798, 801, 212 P.2d 23] .

In contrast, a new trial recognizes a completed trial that for sufficient reasons has been set aside [Estate of Bartholomae (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 839, 842, 68 Cal. Rptr. 332] . Under Code Civ. Proc. § 656, a new trial is a reexamination of an issue of fact in the same court after a trial and decision by a jury, court, or referee [Code Civ. Proc. § 656; see Stoumen v. Munro (1963) 219 Cal. App. 2d 302, 319, 33 Cal. Rptr. 305 (when findings, now statement of decision under Code Civ. Proc. § 632, required, case was not complete but still in process of determination until findings signed and filed)].

It is not presumed that the trial court intended to grant a motion for new trial when no power to grant the motion existed. Thus, a premature motion for a new trial will be interpreted as a motion for a declaration of a mistrial [Estate of Bartholomae (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 839, 842, 68 Cal. Rptr. 332 ; see Reimer v. Firpo (1949) 94 Cal. App. 2d 798, 801-802, 212 P.2d 23 ; see also Barendregt v. Downing (1959) 175 Cal. App. 2d 733, 736, 346 P.2d 870 (order purporting to grant new trial when there is no completed trial will be interpreted as order for mistrial)]. For additional discussion of motions for new trial, see Ch. 371, Motions After Trial .

Chapter 551 TRIAL
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
J. Mistrial

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.152

§ 551.152 Grounds for Declaring Mistrial

[1] Overlap With Grounds for New Trial

Some of the grounds for granting a mistrial and ordering a new trial are the same. For example, the court may grant either motion based on the misconduct of counsel or the judge [see Code Civ. Proc. § 657(1); Pacific Gas & Electric Co. v. Spencer (1960) 181 Cal. App. 2d 171, 172, 5 Cal. Rptr. 75 ; see also [2], [4], below]. In addition, a mistrial may be declared or a new trial may be ordered because of misconduct of the jury [see Code Civ. Proc. § 657(2); see also [3], below].

This overlap, however, is not complete. A new trial may be granted because of insufficiency of the evidence to justify the verdict or other decision, but a mistrial may not be declared on this ground [see Code Civ. Proc. § 657(6); Heavy Duty Truck Leasing, Inc. v. Superior Court (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 116, 119, 89 Cal. Rptr. 598] . For additional discussion of the grounds for granting a new trial, see § 72.73.

[2] Misconduct of Counsel

[a] In General

A mistrial may be granted when counsel deliberately engages in misconduct [see Hartman v. Gordon H. Ball, Inc. (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 779, 783, 75 Cal. Rptr. 618] . Although aggressive advocacy is not only proper but desirable, there is a limit. Thus, when the misconduct is intentional, blatant, and continuous from opening statement throughout the trial to closing argument, and is committed by a seasoned and experienced trial lawyer, reversal of the judgment is proper [see Love v. Wolf (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 378, 393-394, 38 Cal. Rptr. 183] .

Counsel commits misconduct when he or she makes improper references to the financial ability of defendant to respond in damages in a personal injury case [see Hoffman v. Brandt (1966) 65 Cal. 2d 549, 553-555, 55 Cal. Rptr. 417, 421 P.2d 425] . Thus, in an action for damages against a public employee, disclosure of the possibility that a public entity may pay the punitive damage portion of the judgment when it is alleged that the public employee is liable for punitive or exemplary damages is grounds for a mistrial [Gov. Code § 825(b)]. In addition, personal attacks on the character or motives of the adverse party, the party's counsel or witnesses are misconduct. Likewise, attempts to appeal to the prejudice, passions, or sympathy of the jury are misconduct [Stone v. Foster (1980) 106 Cal. App. 3d 334, 355, 164 Cal. Rptr. 901] .

[b] Inquiry Regarding Insurance

Counsel may commit misconduct by raising the issue of insurance coverage. Generally, on voir dire counsel may inquire about insurance companies by asking questions that are reasonably necessary to ascertain whether prospective jurors are free from a bias or interest that may affect their verdict. The questions, however, must be propounded in good faith. The test of good faith is whether the questions are asked in such a manner as to necessarily convey the impression that a defendant is in fact insured [Elford v. Hiltabrand (1944) 63 Cal. App. 2d 65, 70, 146 P.2d 510 ; see Evid. Code § 1155 (evidence that person was insured against loss arising from liability inadmissible to prove negligence or other wrongdoing)].

Thus, in a personal injury action, counsel may, in good faith, ask prospective jurors whether they are interested in a particular insurance company so long as the question does not unnecessarily convey the impression that defendant is in fact insured [Hart v. Wielt (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 224, 230, 84 Cal. Rptr. 220 ; but see Scally v. Pacific Gas & ElectricCo. (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 806, 814, 100 Cal. Rptr. 501 (when insurance company not party, improper to ask prospective jurors questions about ownership of stock or other financial interest in insurance companies)].

[c] Determining Whether Misconduct Is Prejudicial

After finding that counsel committed misconduct, the court must determine whether it was prejudicial. Generally, the trial court's judgment has been affirmed, despite the misconduct, when the question of liability was not a close one and when the damages awarded were not disproportionate to the injuries received. A close question of liability, however, indicates that any misconduct might well have played a definite part in improperly influencing the jury, and the conduct must be treated as prejudicial. For example, counsel's line of examination that suggests to the jury that the defendant is indemnified against any judgment for damages is highly prejudicial to the defendant's rights, especially in a closely balanced case in which the evidence otherwise would be easily sufficient on appeal to support a verdict either for the plaintiff or for the defendant [see Robinson v. Wada (1935) 10 Cal. App. 2d 5, 9, 10, 51 P.2d 171] .

In a closely balanced case, whether counsel's improper action constitutes prejudicial misconduct that cannot be cured by the court's admonition is determined by the court's view of the overall record, taking into account the nature and seriousness of the remarks, the good faith of counsel, whether the misconduct consisted of a single utterance or repeated, persistent reiteration, the judge's control of the trial, and the likelihood of prejudicing the jury [Scally v. Pacific Gas & Electric (1972) 23 Cal. App. 3d 806, 814, 100 Cal. Rptr. 501 ; see Sabella v. Southern Pacific Co. (1969) 70 Cal. 2d 311, 318, 320-321, 74 Cal. Rptr. 534, 449 P.2d 750 , cert. denied, 395 U.S. 960 (dicta)].

[3] Misconduct of Juror

A motion for mistrial may be made for improper conduct of a juror. For example, counsel may make the motion when opposing counsel communicates with a juror during a recess in the proceedings [see Garden Grove School Dist. v. Hendler (1965) 63 Cal. 2d 141, 144, 45 Cal. Rptr. 313, 403 P.2d 721 (motion for mistrial denied, but error could have been corrected by replacing juror with alternate under former Code Civ. Proc. § 605 (now Code Civ. Proc. §§ 233-234))]. For additional discussion of juror misconduct as grounds for a new trial, see Ch. 371, Motions After Trial .

The failure of counsel to move for a mistrial immediately after learning about juror misconduct, however, may constitute a waiver of the right to complain later [see Schouten v. Crawford (1953) 118 Cal. App. 2d 59, 65, 257 P.2d 88 (failure to object to juror's examination of matters outside evidence when counsel knew about incident before jury returned verdict); see also § 551.153].

[4] Misconduct of Judge

Misconduct by a judge may also be grounds for a mistrial. For example, a trial judge cannot justify being discourteous to counsel, witnesses, parties, or jurors. A judge presiding at a trial should conduct it in a fair and impartial manner and refrain from making unnecessary comments during the course of the trial that may tend toward a prejudicial result to a litigant. Thus, a judge commits misconduct when his or her remarks indicate to the jury that a party was not telling the truth or that counsel was trying to keep the facts from being presented to the jury [Etzel v. Rosenbloom (1948) 83 Cal. App. 2d 758, 762, 189 P.2d 848 (grounds for new trial)].

It is also misconduct for a judge to make comments that indicate more than a slight leaning to one side [Newman v. First California Co. (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 60, 68, 120 Cal. Rptr. 494 , cert. denied, 423 U.S. 928 (misconduct not prejudicial)]. In addition, the judge should avoid, in the presence of the jury, any utterance that may be construed as an intimation of his or her opinion on the issues of fact that are to be determined by the jury [Berguin v. Pacific Elec. Ry. Co. (1928) 203 Cal. 116, 121, 263 P. 220 (judge remarked on plaintiff's ability to walk unassisted)].

Any misconduct on the part of the trial judge from which it may be rightfully deduced that the jury was influenced in rendering its verdict constitutes prejudicial error. Counsel must object to the misconduct, but apparently need not request an admonition in order to preserve the error for appeal [see Delzell v. Day (1950) 36 Cal. 2d 349, 351, 223 P.2d 625 ; Berguin v. Pacific Elec. Ry. Co. (1924) 203 Cal. 116, 121-122, 263 P. 220 ; but see Miller v. Western P. R. Co. (1962) 207 Cal. App. 2d 581, 607, 24 Cal. Rptr. 785 (counsel must both object and request admonishment unless futile); Etzel v. Rosenbloom (1948) 83 Cal. App. 2d 758, 761-762, 189 P.2d 848] . For additional discussion of objecting to judicial misconduct, see § 551.153[3].

[5] Testimony by Presiding Judge or by Juror

The judge presiding at the trial of an action may not testify in that trial as a witness, against the objection of a party. On the party's objection, the judge must declare a mistrial and order the action assigned for trial before another judge [Evid. Code § 703(b)]. Calling the judge presiding at a trial to testify in that trial as a witness is deemed a consent to the granting of a motion for mistrial, and an objection to the calling of a judge is deemed a motion for mistrial [Evid. Code § 703(c)]. In the absence of objection by a party, however, the presiding judge may testify in the trial as a witness [Evid. Code § 703(d); see Evid. Code § 703.5 (presiding judge or arbitrator prohibited from testifying in subsequent civil proceeding)]. When the presiding judge is called as a witness, the parties must be informed of the proposed testimony [see Evid. Code § 703(a)].

Similarly, a juror sworn and impaneled in the trial of an action may not testify before the jury in that trial as a witness, against the objection of a party. On the party's objection, the court must declare a mistrial and order the action assigned for trial before another jury [Evid. Code § 704(b)]. Calling a juror to testify before the jury as a witness is deemed a consent to the granting of a motion for mistrial, and an objection to calling a juror is deemed a motion for mistrial [Evid. Code § 704(c)]. In the absence of objection by a party, however, a juror sworn and impaneled in the trial of an action may be compelled to testify in that trial as a witness [Evid. Code § 704(d)]. When a juror is called as a witness, the parties must be informed of the proposed testimony [see Evid. Code § 704(a)].

[6] Failure to Complete Trial of Short Cause on Time

If a short cause is not completely tried within five hours of trial time, including time necessary for reading transcripts, depositions, and other documentary evidence, the judge may complete the trial or in the interest of justice may declare a mistrial. A short cause is a case in which the time estimated for trial by all parties is five hours or less [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.735(a)]. For discussion of the effect of failure to complete trial of a short cause within the required time, see § 551.156[1]. For discussion of trial setting procedures, see Ch 425, Pretrial Proceedings .

[7] Mandatory vs. Discretionary Mistrial

In certain instances a mistrial must be granted; otherwise it is discretionary. The situations in which a mistrial must be declared are as follows:

- The trial judge is called to testify as a witness and a party objects [Evid. Code § 703(b), (c); see also Evid. Code § 703.5; Merritt v. Reserve Ins. Co. (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 858, 882-883, 110 Cal. Rptr. 511) (impropriety of the trial judge's permitting an arbitrator, mediator, or another judge to testify as an expert witness as to events that occurred at or in conjunction with an earlier proceeding over which the witness judge, mediator, or arbitrator presided)].

- A juror sworn and impaneled to try the case is called to testify as a witness, and a party objects [Evid. Code § 704(b), (c)].

- The jury is discharged without having rendered a verdict or is prevented from giving a verdict by accident or other cause and judgment is not entered as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 630(f) (judgment for party entitled to directed verdict) [Code Civ. Proc. § 616]. A partial mistrial may be declared when a jury returns special verdicts on some, but not all, causes of action. The trial court may accept those verdicts, enter them in the minutes as the conclusive adjudication of those causes of action, render judgment on the verdicts where appropriate or reserve judgment on those causes of action pending entry of final judgment upon termination of the case, declare a partial mistrial as to the remaining causes of action, and order a limited retrial [Valentine v. Baxter Healthcare Corp. (1999) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1467, 1475, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 252 (case of first impression)].

A mistrial is also mandatory in a nonjury trial when the judge is unable to complete the trial, for example when the judge dies or becomes otherwise disabled [see, e.g., Linsk v. Linsk (1969) 70 Cal. 2d 272, 275, 74 Cal. Rptr. 544, 449 P.2d 760 (disability of judge); Reimer v. Firpo (1949) 94 Cal. App. 2d 798, 800-801, 212 P.2d 23 (termination of trial judge's term by appointment to appellate court)].

Chapter 551 TRIAL
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
J. Mistrial

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.153

§ 551.153 Timely Objection to Misconduct Required

[1] Requirement and Purpose

Counsel must timely and properly object to alleged misconduct and, in a jury trial, request that the jury be admonished. The rule requiring making timely objections is remedial in nature, and seeks to give the court the opportunity to admonish the jury, instruct counsel, and forestall the accumulation of prejudice through repeated improprieties, thus avoiding the necessity of a retrial. It is only in extreme cases that the court, when acting promptly and speaking clearly and directly on the subject, cannot by instructing the jury to disregard the matters, correct the impropriety of counsel's act, and remove any effect that his or her conduct or remarks would otherwise have [see Horn v. Atchison, Topeka, and Santa Fe Ry. Co. (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 602, 610, 39 Cal. Rptr. 721, 394 P.2d 561 , cert. denied, 380 U.S. 909 (1965) ; Atkins v. Bisigier (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 414, 427, 94 Cal. Rptr. 49] .

Thus, a motion for mistrial at the conclusion of plaintiff's closing argument, based on numerous statements in the argument, was not a timely objection, especially when defendant's counsel did not request that the jury be admonished to disregard the allegedly improper statements made by plaintiff's counsel. At that point, the claimed damage could not be forestalled. In the absence of a timely objection, the offended party is deemed to have waived the claim of error on appeal [see Horn v. Atchison, Topeka, and Santa Fe Ry. Co. (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 602, 610, 39 Cal. Rptr. 721, 394 P.2d 561 , cert. denied, 380 U.S. 909 (1965) ; Nelson v. Gaunt (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 623, 644, 178 Cal. Rptr. 167 ; Brokopp v. Ford Motor Co. (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 841, 860, 139 Cal. Rptr. 888 ; see also Whitfield v. Roth (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 874, 891-893, 112 Cal. Rptr. 540, 519 P.2d 588 (misconduct waived because of counsel's failure to object when any effect on jury could have been entirely removed by admonishing instruction); see also § 551.157[2]].

[2] Multiple Objections Not Necessarily Required

Multiple objections to alleged misconduct are not necessarily required. Moreover, multiple objections may have a tendency to alienate a jury's good will, especially when the judge fails to rule on objections. In addition, while it may be possible to cure error by admonishing a jury when the error is isolated and unemphasized, an attempt to rectify repeated and resounding misconduct by admonition is futile [see Love v. Wolf (1964) 226 Cal. App. 2d 378, 392, 38 Cal. Rptr. 183 ; see also Simmons v. Southern Pacific Transportation Co. (1976) 62 Cal. App. 3d 341, 355-359, 133 Cal. Rptr. 42

(misconduct was grounds for new trial)].

[3] Objection to Judicial Misconduct

Although a request for an instruction, in addition to an assignment of error, is generally necessary as the basis for an appeal on the ground of misconduct of counsel, there is no such requirement when appellant alleges that rights were prejudiced by improper action of the trial judge. It appears that counsel must merely object to alleged judicial misconduct [see Delzell v. Day (1950) 36 Cal. 2d 349, 351, 223 P.2d 625 ; see Berguin v. Pacific Elec. Ry. Co. (1924) 203 Cal. 116, 121-122, 263 P. 220 ; see also Etzel v. Rosenbloom (1948) 83 Cal. App. 2d 758, 761-762, 189 P.2d 848 (when judge's admonition to jury to disregard judge's misconduct would not remove prejudicial effect of misconduct, not prerequisite to urging error on appeal for appellant to have objected and requested that jury be instructed); Estate of Golden (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 300, 311, 48 P.2d 962] .

Some courts have stated that counsel must both object and request an instruction with respect to alleged misconduct of a trial judge, unless it is apparent that an admonition would not remove the prejudicial effect of the judge's conduct [see Miller v. Western P. R. Co. (1962) 207 Cal. App. 2d 581, 607, 24 Cal. Rptr. 785 ; Etzel v. Rosenbloom (1948) 83 Cal. App. 2d 758, 761-762, 189 P.2d 848] .

Chapter 551 TRIAL
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
J. Mistrial

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.154

§ 551.154 Procedure for Requesting Mistrial

[1] Oral Motion During Trial

Generally, counsel requests a mistrial by making an oral motion during trial and outside the presence of the jury [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.47 (motion for mistrial should be made and argued outside hearing of jurors)]. The motion may be made, for example, during voir dire for counsel's improper questioning of prospective jurors [see, e.g., Stevenson v. Link (1954) 128 Cal. App. 2d 564, 568, 275 P.2d 782] . Counsel may also move for mistrial at any other stage of the action up until the court or jury renders a decision [see Estate of Bartholomae (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 839, 842, 68 Cal. Rptr. 332 ; Schouten v. Crawford (1953) 118 Cal. App. 2d 59, 65, 257 P.2d 88 (counsel should have moved for mistrial before jury sent back for further deliberation); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 656 (new trial is reexamination of issue of fact after trial and decision by jury, court, or referee); § 551.151].

[2] Timing of Motion

The motion must be made at the proper time or the claimed error will be considered waived. The mistrial motion, and, when required, a request for admonishment of the jury, should be made when the claimed damage could be forestalled by appropriate court action [see Horn v. Atchison, Topeka, & Santa Fe Ry. Co. (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 602, 610, 39 Cal. Rptr. 721, 394 P.2d 561 , cert. denied, 380 U.S. 909 (motion untimely when counsel did not interrupt opening or closing arguments to object to claimed misconduct); Gimbel v. Laramie (1960) 181 Cal. App. 2d 77, 83, 5 Cal. Rptr. 88 (claim of surprise or prejudice waived when counsel failed to move for mistrial after alleged surprise testimony); see also § 551.153].

§ 551.155 Order Denying or Declaring Mistrial

An order determining a motion for mistrial may be made orally by the court and entered in the minutes [see Vitimin Milling Corp. v. Superior Court (1934) 1 Cal. 2d 116, 118, 33 P.2d 1016] . Alternatively, a written order denying or declaring a mistrial may be signed and entered [see Barendregt v. Downing (1959) 175 Cal. App. 2d 733, 735, 346 P.2d 870] .

When a motion is granted or denied, unless the court otherwise orders, notice of the court's decision or order must be given by the prevailing party to all other parties or their attorneys, in the manner provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010-1020, unless notice is waived by all parties in open court and is entered in the minutes [Code Civ. Proc. § 1019.5(a)].

A trial court may declare a partial mistrial and reserve judgment on some, but not all, causes of action pending a second trial [Valentine v. Baxter Healthcare Corp. (1999) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1467, 1475-1478, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 252] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
J. Mistrial

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.156

§ 551.156 Procedure Following Order Declaring Mistrial

[1] Short Causes

A "short cause" case is a civil case in which the time estimated for trial by all parties or the court is five hours or less. All other civil cases are "long cause" cases [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.735(a)]. On the stipulation of all parties or the court's own motion, the court may order that a case is a short cause case exempted from the requirements of case management review and set the case for trial [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.735(b)].

If a short cause case is not completely tried within five hours, the judge may declare a mistrial or, in the judge's discretion, may complete the trial. In the event of a mistrial, the case will be treated as a long cause case and must promptly be set either for a new trial or for a case management conference [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.735(c)].

[2] Retrial After Mistrial

When the jury is discharged without having rendered a verdict, or is prevented from giving a verdict by reason of accident or other cause during the progress of the trial or after the cause is submitted to them, the action may be tried again immediately or at a future time as the court may direct. This does not apply when the court directs a verdict under Code Civ. Proc. § 630 [see Code Civ. Proc. § 616].

[3] Dismissal for Failure to Prosecute

When in any action a trial has commenced but no judgment has been entered because of a mistrial or because a jury is unable to reach a decision, the action is subject to mandatory or discretionary dismissal unless it is brought to trial within three or two years, respectively, after entry of the order declaring the mistrial or disagreement by the jury [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.320(a)(1), 583.360, 583.410, 583.420(a)(3)(A); see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.140, 583.330-583.350, 583.420(b) (pertaining to extensions or excuses)]. 48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.157

§ 551.157 Appellate Review

[1] Order Declaring or Denying Mistrial Nonappealable

An order granting a mistrial is nonappealable and may only be reviewed on appeal from the judgment [Reimer v. Firpo (1949) 94 Cal. App. 2d 798, 802, 212 P.2d 23 ; see Heavy Duty Truck Leasing, Inc. v. Superior Court (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 116, 119, 89 Cal. Rptr. 598 ; Estate of Bartholomae (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 839, 842, 68 Cal. Rptr. 332] . An order denying a motion for mistrial is also nonappealable, but may also be reviewed on appeal from the judgment [Warner v. O'Connor (1962) 199 Cal. App. 2d 770, 774, 18 Cal. Rptr. 902] .

[2] Effect of Failure to Object

Generally, a claim of counsel's misconduct is entitled to no consideration on appeal unless the record shows a timely and proper objection and a request that the jury be admonished [Horn v. Atchison, Topeka, and Santa Fe Ry. Co. (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 602, 610, 39 Cal. Rptr. 721, 394 P.2d 561 , cert. denied, 380 U.S. 909 (1965) ; see Whitfield v. Roth (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 874, 891-893, 112 Cal. Rptr. 540, 519 P.2d 588 ; Stevens v. Parke, Davis & Co. (1973) 9 Cal. 3d 51, 70, 107 Cal. Rptr. 45, 507 P.2d 653 (applying general rule to motion for new trial); Sabella v. Southern Pacific Co. (1969) 70 Cal. 2d 311, 318, 74 Cal. Rptr. 534, 449 P.2d 750 , cert. denied, 395 U.S. 960 ; see also § 551.153].

Although a request for an instruction, in addition to an assignment of error, is generally necessary as the basis for an appeal on the ground of misconduct of counsel, there is no such requirement when appellant alleges that rights were prejudiced by the improper action of the trial judge [Delzell v. Day (1950) 36 Cal. 2d 349, 351, 223 P.2d 625 ; see also § 551.153[3]].

[3] Standard of Review

The discretion of a trial judge in granting or refusing motions for mistrial is very broad, and the court's decision will be left undisturbed on appeal unless manifest and unmistakable abuse of discretion clearly appears [Warner v. O'Connor (1962) 199 Cal. App. 2d 770, 776, 18 Cal. Rptr. 902] . For detailed discussion of the abuse of discretion standard of review, see Ch. 41, Appeal: Review Standards and Appellate Rules of Law .

Pursuant to the "open court" policy codified in *Code Civ. § 551.171 Civil Proceedings Closed by Law

Although proceedings in ordinary civil cases are "presumptively open," some civil proceedings are closed on the basis of an express provision of law. These exceptions occur chiefly with respect to proceedings under the Family Code. For example, proceedings under the Family Code to terminate parental rights or to adopt a minor child are required to be closed [see Fam. Code §§ 7884, 8611; see also Fam. Code § 1818(a) (family conciliation court proceedings)]. The judge in a proceeding under the Family Code also has general discretion to direct that the trial of any issue of fact joined in the proceeding be closed, if it considers this necessary in the interests of justice and the persons involved [Fam. Code § 214]. In this event the court may exclude all persons from the proceeding except the officers of the court, the parties, their witnesses, and counsel [Fam. Code § 214; see Code Civ. Proc. § 124 (general "open court" statute expressly excepting proceedings directed to be private under Fam. Code § 214)].

For examples of when court records, as distinguished from proceedings, that are sealed by express provision of law, see § 551.173[1].

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.172

§ 551.172 Criteria for Closing Proceedings Otherwise Open to Public

As articulated by the California Supreme Court, a trial court must do all of the following before closing a proceeding that is not otherwise closed by an express statutory exception to the general rule requiring open proceedings [NBC Subsidiary (KNBC-TV), Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 1178, 1212, 1217-1218, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 778, 980 P.2d 337] :

- The court must provide notice to the public of the contemplated closure. When an oral motion seeking closure is made, adequate notice is provided if the court announces in open court that it plans to hold or consider holding a particular proceeding in closed session. When a written motion seeking closure is filed, public docketing of that motion reasonably in advance of the court's determination provides adequate notice.

- Before proceedings are closed or transcripts are ordered sealed, the court must hold a hearing and expressly find that there exist an overriding interest supporting the closure or sealing, there is a substantial probability that this interest will be prejudiced absent closure or sealing, the proposed closure or sealing is narrowly tailored to the interest, and there is no less restrictive means of achieving the overriding interest.

Quite apart from its power to restrict public access in order to protect an "overriding interest," a court may properly deny or regulate public access by reasonable restrictions relating to time, place, or manner, in order to maintain dignity and decorum, or when courtroom capacity precludes entry by every person who wishes to attend [NBC Subsidiary (KNBC-TV), Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 1178, 1222 n.46, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 778, 980 P.2d 337] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
K. Closed Proceedings and Sealed Records

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.173

§ 551.173 Procedure for Sealing Otherwise Public Records

[1] Purpose and Applicability

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.550-2.551 set out the procedure for courts to follow when a request is made to seal records that are otherwise public [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550(a)(1)]. This procedure recognizes the First Amendment right of access to documents used at trial or as a basis of adjudication, and is based on the standards articulated by the California Supreme Court in NBC Subsidiary (KNBC-TV), Inc. v. Superior Court(1999) 20 Cal. 4th 1178, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 778, 980 P.2d 337 [Advisory Committee Comment to former Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550; see discussion of NBC Subsidiary under § 551.172].

The procedure for sealing records under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550 et seq. applies only to records that are otherwise deemed public, that is, they do not apply to records that are to be sealed or kept confidential pursuant to statute or rule [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550(a)(2)]. Examples of records that are sealed by law are records of the family conciliation court [see Fam. Code § 1818(b)] and applications to proceed in forma pauperis [see Cal. Rules of Ct. Rule 3.50 et seq.]. Similarly, records and the fact of filing may be made temporarily unavailable to the public by a plaintiff preparing for prejudgment attachment proceedings [see Code Civ. Proc. § 482.050; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.580; for discussion and a form of declaration under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.580 to be used by a plaintiff in this situation, see Ch. 62, Attachment].

This procedure does not apply to discovery motions and records filed or lodged in connection with discovery motions or proceedings. However, it does apply to discovery materials when they are used at trial or submitted as a basis for adjudication of matters other than discovery motions or proceedings [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550(a)(2); see also Advisory Committee Comment to former Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 243.1, citing NBC Subsidiary (KNBC-TV), Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 1178, 1208-1209 n.25, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 778, 980 P.2d 337] .

[2] "Record," "Sealed Record," and "Lodged Record" Defined

With respect to the procedures for sealing otherwise public records under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550 et seq., the following definitions apply [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550(b)]:

- A "record" means all or a portion of any document, paper, exhibit, transcript, or other thing filed or lodged with the court, unless the context indicates otherwise.

- A "sealed" record is a record that by court order is not open to inspection by the public.

- A "lodged" record is a record that is temporarily placed or deposited with the court but not filed.

[3] Court Order Required to Seal Records

A record must not be filed under seal without a court order. The court must not permit a record to be filed under seal based solely the agreement or stipulation of the parties [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(a)].

[4] Grounds for Order Sealing Records

Unless confidentiality is required by law, court records are presumed to be open [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550(c); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550(b)(1) ("record" is all or a portion of any document, paper, exhibit, transcript, or other thing filed or lodged with the court)].

A trial court may order that a record be filed under seal only if it expressly finds all of the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550(d); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550(b)(2) ("sealed records" is one that by court order is not open to inspection by the public)]:

- There exists an overriding interest that overcomes the right of public access to the record.

- The overriding interest supports sealing the record.

- A substantial probability exists that the overriding interest will be prejudiced if the record is not sealed.

- The proposed sealing is narrowly tailored.

- No less restrictive means exist to achieve the overriding interest.

The findings required under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550(d) reflect the test articulated by the Supreme Court in NBC Subsidiary (KNBC-TV), Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 1178, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 778, 980 P.2d 337 , which applies to the sealing of records [Advisory Committee Comment to Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550, citing NBC Subsidiary (KNBC-TV), Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 1178, 1217-1218, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 778, 980 P.2d 337 ; see discussion of this test under § 551.172].

The Supreme Court in NBC Subsidiary provides various examples of "overriding interests" recognized by case law. Specifically, courts have found that, under appropriate circumstances, various statutory privileges, trade secrets, and privacy interests, when properly asserted and not waived, may constitute "overriding interests" [see NBC Subsidiary (KNBC-TV), Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 1178, 1222 n.46, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 778, 980 P.2d 337 (also assuming that civil litigant's right to fair trial would constitute overriding interest, and noting additional overriding interests such as binding contractual obligation not to disclose and protection of witnesses from extreme embarrassment or intimidation)]. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550(d) does not attempt to define this term, but leaves such definition to developing case law [Advisory Committee Comment to Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550].

Although protection of trade secrets may be a valid reason for restricting access, the mere presence of claimed trade secrets does not mandate confidentiality. The court is required to keep those records confidential only in actions initiated pursuant to the Uniform Trade Secrets Act for misappropriation of trade secrets [In re Providian Credit Card Cases (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 292, 298-300 ; see Civ. Code § 3426.5; for discussion of trade secrets, see Ch. 565, Unfair Competition].

[5] Noticed Motion Procedure for Order Sealing Records

As discussed in [3], above, the parties may not stipulate to sealing records but must seek a court order [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(a)].

A party requesting that a record be filed under seal must file a noticed motion for an order sealing the record. This motion must be accompanied by a memorandum and a declaration containing facts sufficient to justify the sealing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(b)(1)]. For a form of noticed motion to seal records, see § 551.261. For discussion of the findings necessary to justify sealing, see [4], above. For discussion of the procedural requirements governing noticed motions generally, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders .

A party moving for order directing that a record be filed under seal must lodge that record with the court pursuant Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(d) at the time of making the motion, unless good cause exists for not lodging it [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(b)(2); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550(b)(3) (a "lodged" record is one temporarily placed or deposited with the court but not filed); for discussion of the procedure for lodging records under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(d), see [8], below]. Pending the determination of the motion, a record so lodged will be conditionally under seal [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(b)(4)]. If the court denies the motion to seal, the clerk is required to return the lodged record to the submitting party and may not place that record in the case file unless that party notifies the clerk in writing within 10 days after the order denying the motion or application that the record is to be filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(b)(6)].

[6] Redacted and Complete Versions of Moving and Opposing Papers

If necessary to prevent disclosure, the motion, any opposition, and any supporting documents must be filed in a public redacted version and lodged in a complete version conditionally under seal [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(b)(5); for discussion of procedure for lodging documents conditionally under seal, see [8], below].

[7] Referee to Examine Voluminous Records

If the records that a party is requesting be placed under seal are voluminous, the court may appoint a referee and fix and allocate the referee's fees among the parties, consistent with Code Civ. Proc. §§ 639 and 645.1 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550(e)(2)]. For discussion of the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 639 and 645.1 (relating respectively to order directing reference and payment of referee fees), see Ch. 38, Reference .

[8] Lodging Records to Be Sealed and Not to Be Sealed

A party requesting that a record be filed under seal must put it in a envelope or other appropriate container, seal the envelope or container, and lodge it with the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(d)(1); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550(b)(3) ("lodged" record is one temporarily placed or deposited with the court but not filed)].

The envelope or container must be labeled as follows [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(d)(2)]:

"CONDITIONALLY UNDER SEAL."

When lodging a record, the submitting party must, in addition, affix to the envelope or container a cover sheet that includes the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(d)(3)]:

- All the information required on a caption page under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111 [for general discussion of caption-page requirements under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders].

- A statement that the enclosed record is subject to a motion to file the record under seal.

For a form of cover sheet to affix to an envelope or container of records that are to be lodged under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(d), see § 551.262.

On receipt of a record lodged under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(d), the clerk must endorse the affixed cover sheet with the date of its receipt and retain the lodged record but not file it unless the court orders it filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(d)(4)].

If the court denies the motion to seal a record lodged with the court, the clerk must return the lodged record to the submitting party and must not place it in the case file [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(b)(6)].

Alternately, if the court grants the motion to seal a record lodged with the court, the clerk must substitute for the label required under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551 (set out above), a replacement label on the envelope or container that prominently states the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(e)(1)]:

"SEALED BY ORDER OF THE COURT ON (DATE)."

In addition, the clerk must replace the cover sheet that was affixed to the envelope or container pursuant to Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(d)(3) (described above) with a file-endorsed copy of the court's order [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(e)(1)].

A party that files or intends to file with the court records produced in discovery, for the purposes of adjudication or to use at trial, that are subject to a confidentiality agreement or protective order, and that does not intend to request to have the records sealed, must do each of the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(b)(3)(A)]:

- Lodge the unredacted records and any pleadings, memorandums, declarations, and other documents that disclose the contents of the records, in the manner stated in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(d).

- File copies of the documents that are redacted so that they do not disclose the contents of the records subject to the confidentiality agreement or protective order.

- Give written notice to the party that produced the records that the records and the other documents will be placed in the public court file unless that party files a timely motion or application to seal the records under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551.

If the party that produced the documents and was served with notice fails to file a motion or an application to seal the records within 10 days or to obtain a court order extending the time to file a motion or an application, the clerk must promptly remove all the documents from the envelope or container where they are located and place them in the public file. If the party files a motion or an application to seal within 10 days, or a later time the court orders, the documents are to remain conditionally under seal until the court rules on the motion or application and thereafter are to be filed as ordered by the court [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(b)(3)(B)].

[9] Order Sealing Records

An order sealing records must specifically set forth the factual findings that support the order [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550(e)(1)(A); see discussion of these findings in [4], above].

The order must also direct the sealing of only those documents and pages, or, if reasonably practicable, only those portions of documents and pages, that contain the material that needs to be placed under seal. All other documents and pages, or portions of each documents or page, must be included in the public file [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550(e)(1)(B)]. This accords with the requirement articulated by the Supreme Court in NBC Subsidiary, that any order directing closure of proceedings or sealing of records be narrowly tailored to the interest to be protected, and be the least restrictive means possible of protecting that interest [see NBC Subsidiary(KNBC-TV), Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 1178, 1212, 1217-1218, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 778, 980 P.2d 337 and discussion in [4], above].

When an order sealing records relates to a record that has been lodged but not filed under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(d) [discussed in [8], above], the order must direct that not only that the record be sealed but that it be filed [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550(d)(4) (lodged record not filed unless court orders it filed); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(b)(6) (lodged record not filed but returned if court denies motion to seal lodged record)]. The order must also state whether, in addition to the lodged record, the order itself, the register of actions, any other court records, or any other records relating to the case are also to be sealed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.552(e)(2)].

An order sealing records must state whether any person other than the court is authorized to inspect the sealed record [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.552(e)(3)].

In reviewing an order to seal records, the appellate court proceeds in two stages [In re Providian Credit Card Cases (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 292, 301-302, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 833] :

- The court examines the express findings of fact required by Cal. Rules Ct., Rule 2.550(d) to determine if they are supported by substantial evidence on the basis of the entire record.

- The court then decides whether, in light of and on the basis of the findings, the trial court abused its discretion in ordering a record sealed.

For a form of order sealing records, see § 551.263.

[10] Disclosure of Sealed or Conditionally Sealed Records Prohibited

A record filed publicly in the court must not disclose material contained in a record that is sealed, conditionally under seal, or subject to a pending motion to seal [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(c)].

[11] Custody of Sealed Records

Sealed records must be securely filed and kept separately from the public file in the case [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(f)].

If records to be placed under seal are voluminous and are in the possession of a public agency, the court may by written order direct the agency instead of the clerk to maintain custody of the original records in a secure fashion. If the records are requested by a reviewing court, the trial court must order the public agency to deliver the records to the clerk for transmission to the reviewing court under these rules [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(g); for general discussion of the rules relating to the transmission of records to a reviewing court, see Ch. 44, Appeal: Preparing and Filing the Record (appeal of unlimited civil case to court of appeal)].

[12] Motion to Unseal Records

A sealed record may not be unsealed except by court order [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(h)(1)]. A party or member of the public, or the court on its own motion, may move to unseal a record. Notice of a motion to unseal must be filed and served on the parties [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(h)(2)]. The motion, opposition, reply, and supporting documents must be filed in a public redacted version and a sealed complete version, if necessary to comply with Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(c) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(h)(2); for discussion of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(c), see [10], above; see also discussion in [6], above].

It is recommended that any motion to unseal records be accompanied not only by a supporting memorandum but also a declaration containing facts sufficient to justify the new order [cf. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(b)(1)]. A motion to unseal records will necessarily be made on the ground that justification no longer exists for the original order sealing the records. The party making the original motion to seal records was required to establish this justification by means of sufficient facts set out in a supporting declaration [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(b)(1), discussed in [5], above], and this justification was embodied in the express findings required to support the original order [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550(e)(1)(A), discussed in [4], above]. So, too, a motion to unseal records will need a supporting declaration that establishes the new or different facts, circumstances, or law that render nonexistent the justification for the original order [cf. Code Civ. Proc. § 1008(a), (b) (motion to reconsider or renewed motion based on "new or different facts, circumstances, or law"), discussed in Ch. 374, Motions to Reconsider and Renewed Motions].

Motions to unseal records are governed by Cal. Rules Ct., Rule 2.551(h), which does not impose a requirement of express findings [In re Providian Credit Card Cases (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 292, 302, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 833] . Lacking express written findings by the trial court, the scope of appellate review of an order to unseal begins by determining whether appropriate findings the reviewing court may infer in support of the order that exhibits be unsealed have the support of substantial evidence, which is made on the basis of the entire record, including exhibits the trial court refused to unseal [In re Providian Credit Card Cases (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 292, 302-303, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 833] .

For a form of motion to seal records that may be modified for use as a subsequent motion to unseal records, see § 551.261.

Records examined by the court in confidence under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.585(a), or copies of them, must be filed with the clerk under seal and may not be disclosed without court order [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.585(b)].

Chapter 551 TRIAL
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.206

[1] Argument

Misconduct of counsel is ground for new trial and often takes form of improper argument to jury, such as urging facts not justified by record, suggesting jury may resort to speculation, informing jury that injured party has been compensated by codefendant, and by informing jury of offer of settlement and compromise. City of Los Angeles v. Decker (1977) 18 Cal. 3d 860, 870, 135 Cal. Rptr. 647, 558 P.2d 545

Party on whom burden of proof rests has right to open and close argument subject to reasonable discretion on part of court to regulate time and manner of presenting arguments. Orient Handel v. United States Fid. & Guar. Co. (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 684, 700, 237 Cal. Rptr. 667

Results of polygraph test properly excluded from jury argument when neither procedural foundation for test nor results mentioned in course of trial, and only reference thereto was testimony that defendant did not request test until shortly before trial. Downey Savings & Loan Assn. v. Ohio Casualty Ins. Co. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1072, 1094, 234 Cal. Rptr. 835 , cert. denied, 486 U.S. 1036

Request for appropriate admonition to jury regarding improper argument is required by law in order to obtain relief on appeal. Troensegaard v. Silvercrest Industries, Inc. (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 218, 229, 220 Cal. Rptr. 712

Defense counsel's statement during argument that peace had been made between plaintiffs and dismissed defendant, objected to on ground it implied settlement, did not constitute prejudicial misconduct requiring reversal of defense verdict. Tobler v. Chapman (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 568, 573-579, 107 Cal. Rptr. 614

[2] Burden of Proof

In action by insurer under Ins. Code § 1871.7 against doctors for fraud based on false claims submitted in violation of Pen. Code § 550, trial court properly instructed jury under Evid. Code § 115 that burden of proof was by preponderance of the evidence; defendants' analogy to punitive damages was flawed, because Ins. Code § 1871.7(c) explicitly provides that penalties set forth in Ins. Code § 1871.7(b) are intended to be remedial rather than punitive. People ex rel. Allstate Ins. Co. v. Muhyeldin (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 604, 609-610, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 492

In action for misappropriation under Uniform Trade Secrets Act, although burden of producing evidence may have shifted to defendant if plaintiff established prima facie case, burden of proof to demonstrate use of trade secret through improper means remained with plaintiff; thus, trial court properly refused to give burden-shifting jury instruction. Sargent Fletcher, Inc. v. Able Corp. (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 1658, 1668-1673, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 279

In false advertising claim, burden under state law, unlike federal law, does not shift to defendant to prove that claims are true once plaintiff proffers evidence of claim. National Council Against Health Fraud, Inc. v. King Bio Pharmaceuticals (2003) 107 Cal. App. 4th 1336, 1347-1351, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 207

[3] Closed Proceedings and Sealed Records

In class action alleging that defendants had improperly assessed fees and charges to holders of credit cards, trial court did not abuse its discretion in deciding to unseal records over objection that materials constituted proprietary trade secrets, when court found that telemarketing scripts were not trade secrets because they had been disclosed to public; memoranda of marketing strategies and proposals that included blunt criticisms of personnel and management decision-making procedures did not constitute trade secrets because defendants' failure to give them heightened security treatment that was given to other confidential documents reasonably could be deemed by trial court as circumstantial evidence that defendants had not previously treated them as trade secrets. In re Providian Credit Card Cases (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 292, 303-310, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 833

[4] Evidence

[a] Agreement of Parties to Exclude

Written agreement between property owners and waterworks district that no materials or discussions from their settlement negotiations could be used in subsequent litigation was enforceable and trial court erred in admitting evidence of settlement negotiations on plaintiffs' request, when there was no evidence agreement was obtained by fraud, misrepresentation, mistake of fact, or excusable neglect, there was substantial change in circumstances that would make enforcing agreement unfair to plaintiffs, particularly as plaintiffs could have unilaterally terminated agreement at any time, and public policy does not militate against enforcing agreement, since California's public policy is to encourage settlement and settlement is encouraged by allowing parties to communicate freely, without fear their communications may be used against them if settlement negotiations are not successful. Tower Acton v. Los Angeles County Waterworks Dist. No. 37 (2002) 105 Cal. App. 4th 590, 600-602, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 640

[b] Character and Habit

Evidence of person's character or trait of character is relevant in three situations: (1) when offered on issue of his or her credibility as witness; (2) when offered as circumstantial evidence of his or her conduct in conformity with such character or trait of character; and (3) when his or her character or trait of character is ultimate fact in dispute in action. People v. Ramos (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 1133, 1179, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 892, 938 P.2d 950 (citing Carr v. Pacific Tel. Co. (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 537, 544, 103 Cal. Rptr. 120)

In action by child against dentist alleging assault, battery, and professional negligence, trial court erroneously concluded that testimony of other patients about unrelated treatment by dentist was admissible under Evid. Code § 1101

, where evidence did not establish common design, because neither context of other incidents nor acts complained of shared requisite common features with incident plaintiff alleged to have happened, and in context of defendant's testimony that he treated as many as 45,000 patients in his career, testimony about nine incidents was highly selective and could not be considered representative; and where evidence also was not admissible to demonstrate intent, because intent was not at issue. Uncharged acts were not admissible under Evid. Code § 1105 to demonstrate that defendant acted in accordance with his usual custom or habit, where defendant's conduct, occurring in different circumstances, toward nine of 45,000 patients, did not qualify as custom or habit. Finally, even if proffered evidence was proper under Evid. Code § 1101, trial court abused its discretion under Evid. Code § 352 in permitting testimony of former patients, where probative value was slight, but it had great potential for prejudice, confusion, and consumption of time. Bowen v. Ryan (2008) 163 Cal. App. 4th 916, 923-927, 78 Cal. Rptr. 3d 128

Evid. Code § 1101(a) prohibits evidence of person's character, in form of specific instances of conduct, to prove person's conduct on specific occasion; thus, in sexual harassment case, evidence that other women had been sexually harassed by defendants, to extent offered to show defendants committed conduct at issue because they did same thing before, went to propensity and was correctly excluded. Beyda v. City of Los Angeles (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 511, 518-519, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 547

[c] Criminal Convictions

Guilty plea in prior criminal action is admissible in subsequent civil action as admission. State Farm Fire & Casualty Co. v. Bomke (9th Cir. 1988) 849 F.2d 1218, 1220

Trial court erred in excluding evidence of defendant's nolo contendere plea to felony grand theft of automobile which was subject of action for fraud, conversion and negligent misrepresentation, when defendant's plea of nolo contendere to offense punishable as felony, regardless of whether it is ultimately so punished, is admissible as party admission in civil action based on or growing out of act on which criminal prosecution is based. Rusheen v. Drews (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 279, 283-288, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 769

[d] Discretion of Court Under Evid. Code § 352

In capital murder and torture prosecution, trial court did not abuse its discretion under Evid. Code § 352 in admitting several photographs of victim's body, taken at site where body was found and during subsequent autopsy, where photographs were highly relevant to proof of how, when, and where victim was tortured and murdered and his personal property burned, and simply showed what had been done to victim; revulsion photographs induced was attributable to acts done, not to photographs themselves. People v. Brasure (2008) 42 Cal. 4th 1037, 1053-1055, 71 Cal. Rptr. 3d 675, 175 P.3d 632

In capital murder prosecution involving sodomizing and rape of young child, trial court did not abuse its discretion in admitting photographs of genitals of child after she sustained her injuries but before she died, when central factual dispute was how child received fatal injuries, and with exception of radiologist, each medical professional who testified regarding her treatment was asked to describe what her genitals looked like, so jury was entitled to see for itself condition of her body to determine whether testimonial evidence did or did not support prosecution's theory that she was sexually abused, and when, although photographs were disturbing, they were not particularly gruesome, and their probative value far outweighed any prejudicial effect. People v. Benavides (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 69, 96, 24 Cal. Rptr. 3d 507, 105 P.3d 1099

In capital murder prosecution in which defendant burned victim, trial court did not abuse its discretion in admitting photographs of victim before and after fire, when photograph before fire was relevant to torture-murder and murder by torture special circumstances, and photographs after fire were relevant to show condition of victim's body as it related to intent to inflict extreme pain, as well as to prove commission of kind of act calculated to cause such pain; although photographs were unquestionably unpleasant, they were not unduly gruesome or inflammatory and they were sufficiently different as not to be cumulative. People v. Cole (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 1158, 1197-1199, 17 Cal. Rptr. 3d 532, 95 P.3d 811

In capital murder prosecution, trial court did not abuse its discretion in admitting relatively small color photographs of crime scene and autopsy photographs objected to on ground they were gruesome, inflammatory, cumulative of each other or of testimony, and that defendant should have been allowed to stipulate to facts to avoid presentation of photographs. Although many were unpleasant, most were, given subject matter, quite unexceptional and had probative value in proving contested issues such as defendant's use of gun, state of mind, premeditation, and motive. People v. Stewart (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 425, 479-481, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 656, 93 P.3d 271

In prosecution for first degree murder, witness's testimony that murder victim had told witness that if witness did not hear from victim in two weeks to send police was relevant [Evid. Code § 210] because it was evidence of victim's state of mind to explain her conduct concerning going with defendant, and was not unduly prejudicial [Evid. Code § 352] because testimony was probative on whether victim's disappearance was of her own volition; its evidentiary value was not substantially outweighed by danger of undue prejudice because statement followed witness's nonresponsive answer that victim said she feared defendant and evidence of victim's fear of defendant was introduced independent of statement by witness. People v. Crew (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 822, 840, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 733, 74 P.3d 820

In prosecution for attempted first-degree murder, trial court did not abuse its discretion under Evid. Code § 352 in admitting reality television show videotape showing police successfully rescuing defendant's estranged girlfriend from defendant during course of his attempt to strangle her, when videotape corroborated prosecution testimony and its probative value far outweighed any potential that its dramatic nature would mislead, distract or inflame the jury. People v. Ibarra (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 1145, 1150-1151, 61 Cal. Rptr. 3d 22

In action based on alleged exposure to mycotoxins through mold in home and workplace, trial court properly granted defendants' motion in limine to exclude environmental sampling data pursuant to Evid. Code § 352, when probative value of data was minimal because at most it showed that mold spores, not mycotoxins, were present at residence and workplace, and trial court could have reasonably concluded that minimal probative value of data was substantially outweighed by probability that its admission would create substantial danger of undue prejudice, of confusing issues, or of misleading jury. Geffcken v. D'Andrea (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 1298, 1307-1309, 41 Cal. Rptr. 3d 80

In personal injury case in which defendants conceded liability and contested only damages, trial court abused its discretion in granting defendants' motion to exclude evidence that plaintiff had paid his own medical bills, after which jury ultimately awarded plaintiff less in economic damages than he had already paid out of pocket for medical expenses, when evidence that plaintiff had paid his medical expenses was manifestly relevant to his claim for damages, collateral source rule was inapposite because exclusion of evidence of plaintiff paying his own bills did not further any policy judgment that people should buy insurance, trial court's finding that evidence would be unduly prejudicial to defendants was untenable because evidence did not run risk of emotionally inflaming jury against defendants on immaterial point, reasonable person was unlikely to run up thousands of dollars in medical bills and pay them out of pocket on mere gamble he might someday obtain reimbursement from tortfeasor, and evidence did not raise substantial danger of confusing issues or misleading jury. Smalley v. Baty (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 977, 984-987, 27 Cal. Rptr. 3d 575

Trial court may not exclude in-court testimony of witness simply because it does not believe witness, except in rare instances of demonstrable falsity, notwithstanding that testimony is damaging to other party; "prejudice" referred to in Evid. Code § 352 is not synonymous with "damaging." Vorse v. Sarasy (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 998, 1008, 1012-1013, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 164

Trial court did not properly exercising discretion by excluding evidence under Evid. Code § 352 (undue consumption of time) without inquiring of plaintiff's attorney regarding how many incidents are to be offered and nature of proof for each incident. Andrews v. City and County of San Francisco (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 938, 947-948, 252 Cal. Rptr. 716

Trial court has broad discretion in deciding relevance of proffered evidence and in ruling on admissibility of evidence; weighing process under Evid. Code § 352 depends on trial court's consideration of unique facts and issues of each case rather than on mechanically automatic rules. Smith v. Brown-Forman Distillers Corp. (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 503, 519-520, 241 Cal. Rptr. 916

Evidence must be relevant to be admissible in discretion of trial court under Evid. Code § 352. Downey Savings & Loan Assn. v. Ohio Casualty Ins. Co. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1072, 1093, 234 Cal. Rptr. 835

Evid. Code § 352 (exclusion of time-consuming, prejudicial, confusing, or misleading evidence) does not impose any requirement on trial judge to make sua sponte affirmative finding on record to effect that probative value of proffered evidence outweighs its prejudicial effect. People v. Holt (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 343, 353, 104 Cal. Rptr. 572 , cert. denied, 413 U.S. 921 (1973) (overruled on another point in Evans v. Superior Court (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 617, 625, 114 Cal. Rptr. 121, 522 P.2d 681)

[e] Expert Opinion

In capital murder prosecution, after defendant's common-law wife testified that she did not attempt to prevent murder and did not abandon defendant after murder and report crime to police because he physically and mentally abused her and threatened to harm her and members of her family, trial court properly allowed prosecution to call expert witness to testify concerning Battered Woman Syndrome in response to hypothetical question paralleling wife's testimony that her actions were consistent with "battered woman accommodation syndrome," where there was no requirement defendant explicitly challenge witness's credibility on basis that might be explained by BWS evidence before evidence could be introduced; and where expert BWS testimony was relevant to explain that it is common for people who have been physically and mentally abused to act in ways that may be difficult for layperson to understand as authorized by Evid. Code § 1107, and there was adequate foundation and BWS evidence was highly relevant. People v. Riggs (2008) 44 Cal. 4th 248, 292-294, 79 Cal. Rptr. 3d 648, 187 P.3d 363

In capital murder prosecution resulting from two murders in course of robbery, testimony of board-certified forensic pathologist and deputy medical examiner employed by county coroner's office concerning probable respective positions of shooter and two victims at time of shootings asserting that although each of three described posture scenarios was possible, first two, in which shooter was standing next to victim, were less likely than third theory, that victim was kneeling next to shooter, who would have been standing and holding gun in somewhat natural position at waist level, was properly admitted under Evid. Code § 801(a) as subject of expert opinion evidence. People v. Robinson (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 592, 629-633, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 760, 124 P.3d 363

In capital murder prosecution resulting from sodomizing and strangulation of child, trial court properly admitted expert testimony regarding experiences of child sexual assault victims, when only fraction of general population, and presumably none of jurors, had been personally victimized, and while juror could try to imagine what it would be like for child to experience assault, this kind of imagining did not substitute for expert testimony. People v. Smith (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 334, 363, 25 Cal. Rptr. 3d 554, 107 P.3d 229

In prosecution relating to domestic violence, trial court properly admitted testimony offered by prosecution from expert witness to explain that domestic violence victims often later deny or minimize assailant's conduct even though only one incident of abuse occurred; evidence was admissible under Evid. Code § 801 to assist trier of fact in evaluating credibility of victim's trial testimony and earlier statements to police. People v. Brown (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 892,

898-908, 16 Cal. Rptr. 3d 447, 94 P.3d 574

Qualification of expert witnesses, including foundational requirements, rests in sound discretion of trial court; absent manifest abuse, court's determination will not be disturbed on appeal. People v. Ramos (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 1133, 1175, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 892, 938 P.2d 950

Trial court has considerable discretion to control form in which expert is questioned to prevent jury from learning incompetent hearsay and also has discretion to weigh probative value of inadmissible evidence relied on by expert witness. People v. Gardeley (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 605, 612, 619, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 356, 927 P.2d 713 (upholding admission of hearsay evidence to show basis for expert's opinion about street gang activity)

Expert testimony may be based on material that is not admitted into evidence so long as material is of type that is reasonably relied on by experts in particular field in forming their opinions. People v. Gardeley (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 605, 618, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 356, 927 P.2d 713

Trial court properly set aside information charging defendant with being ex-felon in possession of body armor, when crime charged consisted of elements incapable of determination by trier of fact without assistance of expert because proscribed body armor was required to be certified based on its ballistic resistance to penetration of test ammunition, and whether vest seized met such certification standards involved concepts beyond common experience and thus was proper subject for expert testimony, but not for lay opinion; and when knowledge and experience of police officer who testified at preliminary hearing regarding body armor were insufficient to qualify him as expert. People v. Chapple (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 540, 545-549, 41 Cal. Rptr. 3d 680

In action based on alleged exposure to mycotoxins through mold in home and workplace, trial court properly granted defendants' motion in limine to exclude testimony of plaintiffs' expert witness, when irrespective of whether he had requisite qualifications, trial court did not abuse its discretion in impliedly finding there was no reasonable basis for his opinion that exposure to mycotoxins had caused plaintiffs' ailments in view of absence of any reliable evidence plaintiffs had been exposed to mycotoxins at properties in question, so that witness's opinions were speculative and conjectural. Geffcken v. D'Andrea (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 1298, 1310-1312, 41 Cal. Rptr. 3d 80

In products liability action against automobile and tire manufacturers, based on personal injuries suffered by driver resulting from accident in which right rear tire tread separated from tire, alleging automobile and tire were defectively designed, trial court properly precluded testimony by plaintiff's tire expert and substantially limited testimony by plaintiff's directional stability expert, resulting in granting of defendants' motions for nonsuit, when plaintiff's theory about tire failure was based on tire's chemical characteristics and supposedly defective recipe used in manufacturing process, which was plainly beyond common experience of both judges and jurors; tire was not examined by tire expert or anyone else, and no forensic photographs were taken, so that tire expert relied on supposedly similar tire failures and amateur photographs taken by insurance adjuster and plaintiff's boyfriend, and plaintiff failed to show there was substantial similarity between tire failures relied on by tire expert and plaintiff's tire failure, and failed to establish that amateur photographs were sufficient to support expert's conclusions, so that expert's opinions and conclusions were mere speculation; although trial court did not exclude all references to directional stability expert's testimony regarding "hopping," "tramping," or "skating" of automobile as result of detreading, trial court properly ruled that expert could not give opinion that tramping or hopping or skating could result from tread separation because there was no foundation for opinion about causation. Stephen v. Ford Motor Co. (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 1363, 1367-1376, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 9

California Highway Patrol Officer was qualified and testifying as expert witness in determining accuracy of preliminary alcohol screening (PAS) devices, including one used on defendant, even though officer was never expressly declared by court to be expert witness on accuracy of PAS device, when record amply supported conclusion he was so testifying and parties and court so understood. People v. Hallquist (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 291, 295-297, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 621

In personal injury action by passenger sleeping in sleeping berth in big rig truck when it was struck by defendant's vehicle, expert testimony was not necessary to support jury's finding that plaintiff was 50 percent liable for failure to wear sleeping restraint. Lara v. Nevitt (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 454, 457-460, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 865

Under Civ. Code § 43.92, psychotherapist may be held liable for failure to warn third party of serious risk of infliction of grave bodily injury by therapist's client only if jury is persuaded therapist actually believed or predicted his or her client posed serious risk of inflicting grave bodily injury on identifiable victim; thus, because there was no need for expert guidance on standard of care for psychotherapists' statutory duty to warn, trial court erred when it found, as matter of law, that parents of murder victim could not establish their claim against hospital based on therapist's alleged failure to warn them or their son of threat against son by client without presenting expert testimony. Ewing v. Northridge Hospital Medical Center (2004) 120 Cal. App. 4th 1289, 1297-1304, 16 Cal. Rptr. 3d 591

In prosecution for crimes related to sex offenses against minors, after prosecution was allowed to present expert testimony on child sexual abuse and child sexual abuse accommodation syndrome, trial court did not abuse its discretion in precluding expert testimony offered by defense that one victim did not exhibit emotional reaction one would expect from petite girl who had been raped by large man, and, based on her experience working with trauma victims, expert believed victim's demeanor was inconsistent with having suffered trauma. People v. Wells (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 179, 186-191, 12 Cal. Rptr. 3d 762

In murder prosecution based on defendant's driving while intoxicated and killing person, trial court properly excluded one expert's testimony about conclusion of another expert, who had died prior to trial, as to defendant's speed, when court could exclude from expert's testimony any hearsay matter whose irrelevance, unreliability, or potential for prejudice outweighs its proper probative value. People v. Vanegas (2004) 115 Cal. App. 4th 592, 597-598, 9 Cal. Rptr. 3d 398

Exclusion of expert's testimony on ground that study provided no reasonable basis for opinion that plaintiffs' alleged exposure to chemicals supplied by defendants resulted in increased risk of cancer was not abuse of discretion, when evidence that expert reasonably relied on epidemiological studies in forming opinions on causation was of no assistance to plaintiffs when study on which expert relied provided no reasonable basis for his opinion and trial court could determine whether there was reasonable basis for expert opinion by examining opinion and matters on which expert relied and not requiring evidence from second level of experts in making determination. Lockheed Litigation Cases (2004) 115 Cal. App. 4th 558, 563-566, 115 Cal. App. 4th 621, 10 Cal. Rptr. 3d 34

In employment discrimination action, trial court committed prejudicial error under Evid. Code § 801 by allowing human resources management expert to opine that certain facts in evidence were "indicators" that employer discharged plaintiff for retaliatory reasons; testimony improperly invaded province of jury to draw conclusions from evidence and testimony lacked any reliable foundation in expert's professional experience and expertise. Kotla v. Regents of University of California (2004) 115 Cal. App. 4th 283, 290-295, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 898

Trial court erroneously admitted opinions of police officer testifying at trial of gang member as prosecution's expert witness going to subjective knowledge and intent of occupants of cars that when one gang member in car possesses a gun, every other gang member in car knows of gun and will constructively possess gun, when trial court failed to apply law to facts and opinions offered by witness and instead concluded under Gardeley without analysis that all officer opinions on gangs are admissible, and when testimony was not type of culture and habit testimony found in reported cases, none of which permitted testimony that specific individual had specific knowledge or possessed specific intent; trial court abused its discretion by allowing expert to testify at great length about whether also individuals were members of specific gangs based on hearsay material and based on material that inflamed jury's passions and had little or no probative value. People v. Killebrew (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 644, 651-660, 126 Cal. Rptr. 2d 876

Trial court properly sustained objection to receipt in evidence of declaration of expert regarding broker-dealer's breach of duty to supervise registered representative of broker-dealer, when question of duty is one of law, not fact, which is within province of court to decide. Asplund v. Selected Investments in Financial Equities, Inc. (2000) 86 Cal. App. 4th 26, 49-50, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 34

Expert opinion may be based on hearsay as long as it is reasonably reliable. In re Marriage of LaBass & Munsee (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 1331, 1339, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 393

Rule as well settled that conjectural and speculative matters may not be relied on by expert in forming opinion on subject to which his or her testimony relates. Tilem v. City of Los Angeles (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 694, 707, 191 Cal. Rptr. 229

Opinion of qualified expert witness as itself evidence. Andersen v. Howland (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 380, 384, 83 Cal. Rptr. 308

[f] Failure to Object

Failure of counsel to secure ruling on objection waives objection; objection on ground different than that urged on appeal is insufficient. Haskell v. Carli (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 124, 129, 240 Cal. Rptr. 439

Failure to object to testimony waives objections. Orient Handel v. United States Fid. & Guar. Co. (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 684, 700, 237 Cal. Rptr. 667

[g] Hearsay and Exceptions

[i] General Rules

In first-degree murder prosecution, trial court did not err in denying defendant's pretrial motion to admit evidence of statement purportedly made by deceased former police officer to officer investigating murder, in which deceased former officer told investigating officer that she had met a man other than defendant in bar and during their conversation, the man admitted that he committed the robbery and homicide, and in not holding evidentiary hearing to determine if circumstances under which statement was made provided some level of assurance of its reliability; even assuming error, it would have been harmless beyond reasonable doubt. People v. Garcia (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 521, 534-540, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 181

Evidence of preliminary alcohol screening (PAS) test administered by California Highway Patrol, involving use of test solution with label on container that content was.10 percent alcohol was hearsay, because officer was relying on truth of assertion in making determination whether PAS device was functioning accurately, but however, trial court properly admitted evidence, since officer was testifying as expert and could base his opinion on any matter known to him, including hearsay not otherwise admissible, on which officer could reasonably rely for that purpose. People v. Hallquist (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 291, 295-296, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 621

Proper authentication of documents does not overcome hearsay rule; in action by community college student for personal injury based on negligence in planning and supervising assignment to map route for class trip, trial court did not err in excluding transcripts of telephone conversations between plaintiff's investigator and witnesses, during which witnesses verbally declared their statements were true under penalty of perjury and which plaintiff's investigator authenticated via her own declaration attesting transcripts were true reproductions of her conversations, since transcripts were hearsay and plaintiff made no argument on appeal as to what possible exception to hearsay rule would apply. Stockinger v. Feather River Community College (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 1014, 1025-1027, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 385

[ii] Admissions and Confessions

On retrial of defendant, trial court did not err in admitting statements defendant made in closing argument in his first trial, in which defendant represented himself, as party admissions under Evid. Code § 1220. People v. Kiney (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 807, 812-816, 60 Cal. Rptr. 3d 168

Trial court properly found that defendant made adoptive admission of truth of prior sentencing court's description of injuries of victim who had been struck by defendant to enable trial court to use prior conviction as "strike" for sentencing purposes, when a reasonable person in defendant's situation would have disputed court's description of victim's injuries, which impliedly, if not expressly, accused defendant of inflicting great bodily injury on victim, if description had been false, and since defendant was required to make restitution for injuries, he had interest in assuring that court did not exaggerate them. Representation by counsel did not preclude application of adoptive admission exception to hearsay rule, because description of injuries was given in defendant's presence, and he had opportunity to respond either personally or through counsel if description was inaccurate. People v. Thoma (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 676, 682-685, 27 Cal. Rptr. 3d 309

In murder prosecution, pretrial statements by defendants during joint interview were properly admitted against each defendant under hearsay exception for party admissions and against co-defendants under hearsay exception for adoptive admissions. People v. Castille (2003) 108 Cal. App. 4th 469, 478-486, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 489

[iii] Declarations Against Interest

Trial court properly excluded videotaped statement of victim's wife that she, rather than defendant, had killed victim, because it failed to meet threshold requirement of trustworthiness, when statement was inconsistent with another statement in which she told police she knew nothing of her husband's death and with subsequent statement blaming defendant and another man for her husband's murder; trial would have devolved into inquiry into conflicting statements, so that questionable value of evidence would have been substantially outweighed by probability its admission would have necessitated undue consumption of time or confused issues and misled jury. People v. Geier (2007) 41 Cal. 4th 555, 584-585, 61 Cal. Rptr. 3d 580

In capital murder prosecution resulting from defendant's hiring of daughter's boyfriend to kill her husband and then arranging boyfriend's murder, trial court properly admitted boyfriend's statement to acquaintance that he and another man had killed defendant's husband, defendant had paid him, boyfriend had skimmed money off top for himself and then paid balance to other man, and that he paid other man in cocaine in lieu of money as declaration against penal interest, since facially incriminating comments were in no way exculpatory, self-serving, or collateral, and admission that defendant paid him, volunteered to acquaintance, was specifically disserving to boyfriend's interests in that it intimated he had participated in contract killing, which was particularly heinous type of murder, and in conspiracy to commit murder. People v. Samuels (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 96, 120-121, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 105, 113 P.3d 1125

Statement by man that he entered murder victim's truck on passenger side was admissible as statement against penal interest, when, although he did not admit to firing fatal shot, he knew he was being charged with murder, admitted to hearing gunshot, and admitted to participating in stealing victim's truck; denial of having been shooter did not absolve him of crimes to which he admitted. People v. Brown (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 518, 535-537, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 145, 73 P.3d 1137

Co-defendant's statements to his girlfriend describing circumstances of murder was not admissible as declaration against interest, since statements laid blame for killing squarely on other defendant, and, to extent statement implied that other defendant went to victim's room to rob her, it was not specifically disserving of co-defendant. People v. Smith

Wife's statement to her husband shortly before he committed murder that she committed adultery with man he killed not long afterward was properly admitted under social interest exception to hearsay rule under Evid. Code § 1230 and was sufficiently trustworthy to satisfy confrontation clause. People v. Wheeler (2003) 105 Cal. App. 4th 1423, 1426-1431, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 916

[iv] Former Testimony

In prosecution for possession of check with intent to defraud and second degree burglary, after jury deadlocked at first trial, during second trial court properly allowed prosecution to read defendant's testimony from first trial, including defendant's admission of prior convictions, to jury after defendant elected not to testify and invoked Fifth Amendment; once defendant made himself unavailable by invoking his Fifth Amendment privilege, admission of his former testimony in second trial under Evid. Code § 1291(a) was proper. People v. Malone (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 1241, 1244-1245, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 741

Trial court properly denied admission of deposition testimony of expert witness in earlier case, when, although underlying claims in earlier case were substantially identical to instant case, defendant in earlier case did not have similar motive to cross-examine witness as did defendant in this case, because expert in earlier case was defendants' expert witness and his testimony was given in deposition so that defendant in that case had no incentive or motive to cross-examine him or bring out facts favorable to its defense as defendant in this action would have had if plaintiff proffered expert as expert witness. Byars v. SCME Mortgage Bankers, Inc. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1134, 1150, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 796

[v] Infliction or Threat of Infliction of Injury

In murder and spousal abuse prosecution, trial court erred in admitting evidence of victim's statements to her doctor and police officer that defendant had caused her neck injury seven weeks earlier, pursuant to physical injury exception to hearsay rule for statements made at or near time of injury [Evid. Code § 1370(a)(3)], when statements were not made at or near time of injury and statements to officer were not made under circumstances indicating their trustworthiness. People v. Quitiquit (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 1, 8-12, 65 Cal. Rptr. 3d 674

In murder prosecution, trial court erred in admitting application for restraining order filed by victim days before she was killed under Evid. Code § 1370, when, although statement purported to narrate, describe, or explain infliction or threat of physical injury on victim by defendant, declarant was unavailable as witness at trial, and statement was made in writing, was electronically recorded, or made to physician, nurse, paramedic, or to law enforcement official. People v. Pantoja (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1, 8-15, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 492

[vi] Prior Statement

In prosecution for assault and infliction of corporal injury on spouse, trial court did not violate defendant's Sixth Amendment confrontation right by admitting hearsay statement by defendant's victim-spouse to police officer as sufficiently trustworthy, when, under Evid. Code § 1370, statement narrated infliction of physical injury on spouse, spouse was unavailable at trial as witness because she refused to testify about events, statement was made at or near time of infliction of injury, it was made to police officer, and it was made under circumstances indicating its trustworthiness because defendant had opportunity to cross-examine spouse at preliminary hearing about statement she gave to police officer and he vigorously exercised opportunity and later presented preliminary hearing testimony to jury in support of his defense. People v. Price (2004) 120 Cal. App. 4th 224, 237-239, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 229

In murder prosecution, trial court erred in admitting statement by nontestifying accomplice to police as statement of identification under Evid. Code § 1235, when witness neither testified nor was given opportunity to explain or to deny statement or was not excused from giving further testimony. Statement also was not admissible under Evid. Code § 1294 as prior inconsistent statement, when recording of statement was not first introduced into evidence at preliminary hearing, but instead accomplice was asked to review specific excerpts of transcript of his interview with police to see if it refreshed his recollection and prosecutor read from portions of transcript to impeach accomplice; while transcript of preliminary hearing testimony was properly admitted at trial due to accomplice's unavailability [Evid. Code § 1291], court erred in allowing jury to hear actual recording of his statement. However, portions of statement implicating defendant were covered by accomplice's and another witness's preliminary hearing testimony, error in admitting statement was harmless beyond reasonable doubt. People v. Martinez (2003) 113 Cal. App. 4th 400, 407-409, 410-411, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 49

Evidence of previous statement by witness is admissible under prior consistent statement exception to hearsay rule if there has been express or implied charge that witness's testimony is recently fabricated and prior consistent statement was made before motive for fabrication is alleged to have arisen [Evid. Code §§ 1236, 791]; in evaluating admissibility of prior consistent statements, focus is on specific agreement or other inducement suggested by cross-examination as supporting witness's improper motive. People v. Crew (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 822, 840, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 733, 74 P.3d 820

[vii] Spontaneous Declarations

In capital murder and attempted murder prosecution, trial court properly allowed police officer to testify to attempted murder victim's identification of defendant just after crimes occurred in response to officer's question as to who did it as spontaneous declaration, when victim's spontaneous statement of names as to "who did it" described event she perceived, and she made identifying remarks while under stress of excitement caused by experiencing crime. People v. Morrison (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 698, 718-720, 21 Cal. Rptr. 3d 682, 101 P.3d 568

In capital murder prosecution, trial court properly allowed testimony that witness heard her brother-in-law implicate defendant in murder under spontaneous utterance exception to hearsay rule, since declarant was crying, shaking, and visibly upset when he made statement, explaining that he was still reacting to events himself, and when, although statement was made about 2.5 hours after crime, facts available to trial court justified its conclusion declarant continued to labor mightily under emotional influence of disturbing events he perceived, and there was substantial evidence to support trial court's decision that declarant purported to be describing events he had personally seen. People v. Brown (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 518, 540-542, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 145, 73 P.3d 1137

Spontaneous declaration exception applies only if statement is both spontaneous and made in state of excitement; California does not recognize "present sense" exception to hearsay rule for statement describing or explaining event or condition made while declarant was perceiving event or condition or immediately thereafter. People v. Hines (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 997, 1034, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 594, 938 P.2d 388

In spousal abuse prosecution, police officer's testimony that wife told officer she had been assaulted by defendant 30 minutes earlier, that she and defendant got into argument at home and during argument, defendant choked her from behind, pushed her, hit her and threatened her, and that she had come to police station because she was frightened by his death threat was admissible as spontaneous utterance; mere passage of time was insufficient to deprive statement of spontaneity, evidence showed that wife was distraught when making statement, and there was no evidence that statement lacked spontaneity. People v. Saracoglu (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 1584, 1588-1590, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 418

In murder prosecution based on husband's burning of his wife, statements of wife to police officers in response to their questions were admissible under Evid. Code § 1240 hearsay exception for spontaneous declarations, when two officers encountered victim and asked only what happened and then followed up by asking how she was burned, officer estimated he spoke to victim for approximately 10 to 15 seconds and other officer said he was with her for few seconds, and victim's response, given minutes after she had sustained severe burns and while she was still suffering from resulting intense pain suggested her statements were product of stress of moment, not deliberation; and although third officer spoke to victim for about five minutes and asked more questions than other officers, evidence supported trial court's finding victim's answers were nonetheless spontaneous. People v. Pedroza (2007) 147 Cal. App. 4th 784, 791-792, 54 Cal. Rptr. 3d 636

Statements made by stabbing victim to 911 operator and first police officer on scene were admissible as spontaneous statements. People v. Brenn (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 166, 171-173, 60 Cal. Rptr. 3d 830

Co-defendant's statement to his girlfriend describing circumstances of murder was admissible as spontaneous declaration; girlfriend's testimony about co-defendant's demeanor provided substantial evidence of preliminary facts showing his statements were spontaneous. People v. Smith (2005) 135 Cal. App. 4th 914, 922-923, 38 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1

In murder and attempted murder prosecution, out-of-court statements by attempted murder victim to prosecution witness were admissible as spontaneous statements under Evid. Code § 1240, when statements described event victim personally perceived, i.e., being shot in ankle during gunfight immediately before traveling to witness' home, and when there was sufficient evidence to show victim spoke to witness while under stress of excitement caused by shooting. People v. Rincon (2005) 129 Cal. App. 4th 738, 751-754, 28 Cal. Rptr. 3d 844

In prosecution for corporal injury to spouse, trial court properly admitted, under spontaneous statements exception to hearsay rule, statements by victim-spouse made immediately after incident to 911 operator that her husband had hit her, which she repeated to police officer and medical personnel who responded to 911 call, because statements described her perception of recent events while stress dominated her reflective powers. People v. Corella (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 461, 465-469, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 770

In prosecution for crimes related to defendant's discharging firearm at occupied vehicle but hitting pedestrian, trial court properly admitted hearsay statement of driver of vehicle at which defendant shot that defendant was trying to shoot vehicle's occupants but they ducked as spontaneous declaration because requirements for excitement and spontaneity were met; when witness to shooting who was with pedestrian testified driver acted "real excited" and spoke quickly and in high-pitched tone which she demonstrated for court, and that car arrived approximately one minute after shooting, which was well within time frame for spontaneous declaration. People v. Riva (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 981, 994-996, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 649

In prosecution based on defendant's alleged theft of money from resident of residential intermediate care facility for physically dependent adults at which defendant worked, trial court erred in admitting statement by resident to social worker about her dealings with defendant as spontaneous declaration, when although at time she first telephoned social worker, resident was tearful and evidently quite shaken by news she was about to be evicted from care facility for non-payment of rent, two days elapsed before substantive discussion between the two women and circumstances surrounding statement showed ample opportunity for deliberation and reflection. People v. Pirwani (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 770, 787-791, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 673

[viii] State of Mind

Statements of murder victim accusing defendant of sexually molesting her were properly admitted to explain defendant's state of mind, motive, and conduct, where defendant's wife and victim's mother testified that after victim, who was defendant's daughter, told her about defendant's abuse, she had numerous conversations with defendant during which she confronted him with details of victim's accusations, so there was no dispute defendant was aware of accusations before he went to murder site, and where prosecutor contended defendant's anger about allegations and their effect on his family led him to murder victim and other children, so that veracity of accusations was immaterial to their relevance in explaining defendant's motive and prosecutor made clear statements were only being offered to explain defendant's conduct. People v Mendoza (2006) 42 Cal. 4th 686, 695-698

Under state of mind exception, trial court properly permitted testimony regarding murder victim's statement that she preferred African-American men, because there was evidence defendant had sexual relations with her on night she was killed, and testimony was relevant to issue of consent, i.e., given her preferences, she would not have consented to sexual relations with defendant, who was white. People v. Geier (2007) 41 Cal. 4th 555, 585-587, 61 Cal. Rptr. 3d 580

In capital murder prosecution, trial court did not err by admitting under state of mind exception in prosecution case in aggravation at penalty phase retrial, victim's statement that defendant had been fondling her for some time and she intended to confront him if he continued to do so; statement reflected her mental state, that is, her intent to confront defendant, even though occurrence of confrontation itself depended on defendant's continued fondling; fact that statement may have been inadmissible to prove defendant's past fondling did not render it inadmissible; since it was admissible to prove victim's state of mind and defendant did not request limiting instruction. People v. Griffin (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 536, 578-579, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 743, 93 P.3d 344

In prosecution for first degree murder, witness's testimony that murder victim had told her that if witness did not hear from victim in two weeks to send police was not inadmissible hearsay; since even if viewed as hearsay, statement was within state-of-mind exception to hearsay rule [Evid. Code § 1250(a)(2)] to explain victim's conduct, since defense presented theory that victim disappeared of her own accord because she was a troubled person suffering from stress and depression. People v. Crew (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 822, 840, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 733, 74 P.3d 820

In murder prosecution of man accused of fatally stabbing his lover, trial court did not err in permitting friend to testify, under hearsay exception in Evid. Code § 1250 for statement of declarant's then-existing state of mind, emotion, or physical sensation, that victim had told him that defendant would kill him if he found him with another man or knew that he had been with another man; in light of defendant's reliance on self-defense, victim's statements about threats defendant made were clearly admissible under Evid. Code § 1250, and statements appeared to have been entirely spontaneous and in company of someone victim was comfortable with and trusted, so there did not appear to be anything in record that undermined trustworthiness of statement. People v. Romero (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 29, 39, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 678

In action for wrongful termination in violation of public policy, trial court should have considered statement by plaintiff's supervisor's supervisor about her alleged desire to seek revenge on those who participated in investigation of her allegedly sexually inappropriate behavior in ruling on employer's summary judgment motion; when statement was admissible for nonhearsay purposes, since apart from truth, i.e., that she would get revenge, statement showed her mental state that she felt she had been wronged and harbored ill will toward those she held responsible; and when, although supervisor's supervisor was not named defendant, she was involved each step of way in process leading to plaintiff's termination, rendering her remark admissible as statement of party. Statement also was admissible as prior inconsistent statement since she denied making it in her deposition. Colarossi v. Coty US Inc. (2002) 97 Cal. App. 4th 1142, 1149-1151, 119 Cal. Rptr. 2d 131

When the reasonableness of a person's conduct is at issue, statements of others on which the person acted are admissible. Silva v. Lucky Stores, Inc. (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 256, 265, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 382 (in wrongful discharge case, recorded interviews of other employees, made as part of employer's investigation of misconduct before termination decision, were admissible to establish that termination decision was reasonable based on materials generated during employer's investigation)

Hearsay rule does not apply to evidence of oral or written statements offered to prove existence of contract. In re Marriage of LaBass & Munsee (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 1331, 1338, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 393 (want ads admissible for nonhearsay purpose of showing that offers to bargain existed)

Promissory note was admissible not as business record but rather as operative contractual document, admissible merely on adequate evidence of authenticity. Remington Investments, Inc. v. Hamedani (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 1033, 1042-1043, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 376

Out-of-court statements offered as "operative facts" or "verbal acts," not to prove truth of matter asserted in statements, are not hearsay; in proving existence of oral contract, words uttered by offerer in making offer are admissible as nonhearsay to prove essential element of contract. People v. Dell (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 248, 260-262, 283 Cal. Rptr. 361

[x] Evidence Not Qualifying for Admission Over Hearsay Objection

Trial court erred in granting summary judgment to plaintiff based on declaration of plaintiff's general manager averring that defendant's accounts were delinquent as reflected in bills sent to defendant as detailed statements of what he owed, when declaration explicitly recapitulated contents of second writing consisting of table summarizing plaintiff's claimed damages, which was not incorporated in declaration or even vouched for, but was merely described as "attached," therefore was not given under oath and did not fall within implicit hearsay exception for affidavits and declarations, and when declaration explicitly described amount owed as being derived from third level of documentary hearsay; while original bills might have been admissible over hearsay objection as business records or official records, there was no showing of time and circumstances of documents' creation. Secondary evidence rule [Evid. Code § 1521] would permit introduction of otherwise admissible secondary evidence to prove contents of writing, but did not excuse complying with hearsay rule. Pajaro Valley Water Management Agency v. McGrath (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 1093, 1106-1108, 27 Cal. Rptr. 3d 741

Forensic alcohol analysis submitted by Department of Motor Vehicles in support of suspension of driving privilege was not sufficiently competent evidence to support suspension because it would not have been admissible over hearsay objection in civil action under Evid. Code § 1280 exception to hearsay rule in conjunction with Evid. Code § 664 presumption that official duty had been regularly performed, when DMV, as proponent of document, failed to establish it had been prepared by person with official duty. Furman v. Dept. of Motor Vehicles (2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 416, 420-423, 122 Cal. Rptr. 2d 520

[xi] Unavailable Witness

In criminal prosecution, trial court did not err in determining that victim was unavailable to testify at trial because of mental illness or infirmity and because he was unable to testify without suffering substantial trauma [Evid. Code § 240(a)(3), (c)] and in admitting his preliminary hearing testimony, when substantial evidence supported trial court's factual findings that requiring victim, who was teenager who suffered from cerebral palsy and learning deficiencies, and who had been abducted by defendant, to testify at trial would substantially be likely to result in an increased level of harm to him and would further aggravate already serious psychological problem that he was suffering People v. Winslow (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 464, 469-473, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 872

[xii] Business Records

In sex discrimination action by female former police officer, trial court did not err in refusing to admit exit questionnaires prepared by departing female officers, as well as summaries of exit interviews prepared by city personnel who conducted them, where questionnaires were not business records within hearsay exception, since, although it may have been city's practice to require departing employees to complete exit questionnaire and to keep questionnaires with exit interview summaries prepared by city personnel, departing officers were neither employees acting on behalf of police department nor acting in ordinary course of their own business when they completed exit questionnaires, and because two officers were leaving to join other police departments, their exit questionnaires were not inherently trustworthy; and where exit interview summaries prepared by city employees, although prepared in ordinary course of business, did not qualify as business records because the employees who prepared them did not have firsthand knowledge of events recorded and officers, who did have firsthand knowledge, were not under business duty to accurately report facts pertaining to their departure. Zanone v. City of Whittier (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 174, 190-192, 75 Cal. Rptr. 3d 439

Trial court did not err in accepting on summary judgment motion copies of correspondence and contract, with affidavit of claims analyst, in action between insured and insurer regarding settlement of earthquake claim, because analyst was qualified witness under Evid. Code § 1271 to identify documents, and there was no business records hearsay issue because copies of settlement agreement and release and correspondence documents were themselves direct evidence of their undisputed contents and contents, and their undisputed delivery to insured, were relevant. Rosenblum v. Safeco Ins. Co. (2005) 126 Cal. App. 4th 847, 863, 24 Cal. Rptr. 3d 427

In prosecution for spousal abuse, trial court erred in admitting portion of crisis intervention log and client intake data form maintained by organization that assists abused women under business records exception to hearsay rule, when forms contained multiple layers of hearsay because they contained statements by allegedly abused women to organization employees as first layer, and employee's recordation of statements as second layer; although testimony sufficiently established that employees who recorded information were obligated to do so in accurate manner, testimony did not establish trustworthiness of abused woman's statements to employees. Forms were only admissible to establish that woman had telephoned hotline on specified date and that she had visited shelter on another date; forms were inadmissible multiple hearsay to when offered prove circumstances of alleged abuse incident. People v. Ayers (2005) 125 Cal. App. 4th 988, 994-996, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 242

[xiii] Dying Declarations

Statements by murder victim that he had been robbed and shot and that shooter was short Mexican male who had arrived in car were properly admitted at trial as dying declaration, even though victim survived for several more days before dying, when prosecution established objective severity of victim's fatal wounds as well as his subjective awareness of those wounds based on victim's statements, demeanor, and conduct, as well as his evident injuries. People v. Monterroso (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 743, 762-763, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1, 101 P.3d 956

[xiv] Implied Assertions

In prosecution for possession of methamphetamine for sale, statements by telephone caller asking to buy drugs to officer executing search warrant for evidence of possession of controlled substance for sale, and some statements in response to questions by officer were hearsay; however, case law, recognized and accepted when Evidence Code was adopted and continuing thereafter, created exception to hearsay rule for this reliable type of evidence. People v. Morgan (2005) 125 Cal. App. 4th 935, 940-947, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 224

[xv] Official Records

In proceeding to require DMV to aside suspension of driver's license, trial court did not abuse its discretion by finding results of driver's blood alcohol test were not timely recorded as required by Evid. Code § 1280(b), forensic report was prepared one week later and, although it was only five working days after arrest, memory was subject to erosion with every day that passed, whether working or nonworking; record was silent as to DMV's recordation policies and procedures, any automatic recording capability of testing equipment used, and average number of tests performed by analyst each day; and Evid. Code § 664 did not create presumption analysts timely recorded test results, because regulations requiring laboratories to maintain records specified no deadlines or time periods or timeliness requirements governing recordation. Glatman v. Valverde (2006) 146 Cal. App. 4th 700, 703-706, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 319

On petition for writ of mandate challenging DMV administrative suspension of driving privileges on grounds that driver was intoxicated while driving, observations of fire captain who assisted driver from his car contained in police officer's sworn statement and in his unsworn arrest report were admissible as public records to prove driver was driving, since in reporting his personal observations to police officer, fire captain was acting pursuant to his duty to observe facts and report them correctly. Hildebrand v. Dept. of Motor Vehicles (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 1562, 1569-1572, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 234

In mandamus proceeding reviewing findings of audit of dentist, who was Denti-Cal provider, by fiscal intermediary for Department of Health Services' Denti-Cal/Medi-Cal program, Medi-Cal dental patients' claim detail reports (CDRs), showing services rendered to patient and amount paid for each service by Denti-Cal, which information was taken from claim forms submitted by provider to Denti-Cal, were admissible in administrative hearings challenging audit findings under Evid. Code § 1280 exception to hearsay rule for official documents. Bhatt v. State Dept. of Health Services (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 923, 928-931

[h] Lay Opinion

In eminent domain action, trial court properly held that property owner's proposed testimony as to value of goodwill lacked foundation, when it was based on nothing more than informal discussions with brokers whose names she could not recall and few store owners, and there was no showing she had any expertise in various methods of valuing goodwill. Redevelopment Agency of San Diego v. Attisha (2005) 128 Cal. App. 4th 357, 378, 27 Cal. Rptr. 3d 126

In prosecution for attempted murder, trial court properly allowed police officer who took photographs of shoeprints at crime scene and compared tread with shoes seized from defendant's bedroom to testify that he found similarities between shoeprints and shoes, leading him to believe defendant's shoes possibly left prints as lay opinion under Evid. Code § 800, when comparison of shoes and footprints was rationally based on witness's perception and officer's opinion was helpful to clear understanding of his testimony, since jury would otherwise have to make its own tedious comparison of shoes and prints. People v. Maglaya (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 1604, 1608-1609, 6 Cal. Rptr. 3d 155

In action against real estate broker for intentional and negligent misrepresentation to buyers for whom broker acted as agent, trial court did not err in refusing to allow plaintiffs to reopen their case-in-chief to present one owner's testimony as to value of property, when, although Evid. Code § 813(a) allows owner's opinion testimony with regard to value of property, offer of proof failed to provide basis for opinion on market value of house as affected by code violations and structural defects, which was point to be proven, only that, at some time after plaintiffs purchased house and before trial, owner obtained information on value of comparable houses in neighborhood. Fragale v. Faulkner (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 229, 240-241, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 616

[i] Liability Insurance

Because permitting joint trial of causes of action against insured and insurer would contravene legislative intent underlying Evid. Code § 1155, causes of action against insurer should be bifurcated. Ahmed v. Peterson (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 374, 377, 230 Cal. Rptr. 636

Suing of insured for negligence and insurer for bad faith in same lawsuit violated both letter and spirit of Evid. Code § 1155, which precludes use of evidence that tortfeasor has insurance for alleged injury; severance of action against tortfeasor from action against tortfeasor's insurer is within discretion of trial court. Omaha Indemnity Co. v. Superior Court (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1266, 1271, 258 Cal. Rptr. 66

Evidence of defendant's insurance coverage is properly excluded under Evid. Code § 352 when limited probative value of evidence is exceeded by prejudice inherent in its admission. Staples v. Hoefke (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1397, 1411, 235 Cal. Rptr. 165

Evidence of defendant's insurance coverage, unless coupled and admitted along with other relevant evidence, is irrelevant and prejudicial to defendant, and thus not admissible to prove defendant's negligence or other wrongdoing. Blake v. E. Thompson Petroleum Repair Co. (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 823, 830, 831, 832, 216 Cal. Rptr. 568

Under "collateral source rule," evidence of payments to plaintiff by defendant's insurer, unless coupled and admitted along with other relevant evidence, is not admissible to mitigate damages plaintiff otherwise would recover from defendant when evidence of payments, absent showing of their source, would cause jury to speculate, to plaintiff's prejudice, on source of payments. Blake v. E. Thompson Petroleum Repair Co. (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 823, 830, 831, 832, 216 Cal. Rptr. 568

In negligence action for, among other things, property damage and lost business profits, evidence of payments to plaintiff by defendant's insurer was relevant to show that plaintiff (1) received partial compensation for alleged damages; (2) had financial ability to defray cost of repairing equipment and relocating business; and (3) may have intentionally delayed regeneration of business. Blake v. E. Thompson Petroleum Repair Co. (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 823, 832, 216 Cal. Rptr. 568

[j] Objections to Evidence

[i] Manner of Objecting

While no particular form of objection is required, objection must be made in such a way as to alert trial court to nature of anticipated evidence and basis on which exclusion is sought, and to afford proponent opportunity to establish its admissibility. People v. Holt (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 619, 666-667, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 782, 937 P.2d 213

Plaintiff did not preserve error in admission of release as evidence, when although counsel objected, neither reporter's transcript nor clerk's transcript revealed grounds for objection or confirmed he objected on grounds of relevancy, and plaintiff was required to show error by adequate record affirmatively. However, even if appellate court assumed plaintiff preserved his evidentiary objection for consideration on appeal, release was relevant to issue of whether defendant was grossly negligent, when, among other things, it described inherent risks of skiing and using ski lifts, so that trial court did not abuse its discretion in admitting release into evidence. Platz v. Mammoth Mountain Ski Area (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 1253, 1260-1261, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 885

[ii] Offer of Proof

Counsel's failure to describe substance of anticipated testimony, cite hearsay exception, or argue any nonhearsay purpose waived issue of wrongful exclusion of testimony. People v. Ramos (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 1133, 1178, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 892, 938 P.2d 950

[k] Preliminary Fact Determination

Evid. Code § 405 is designed to allow trial judge to withhold evidence from jury when rule mandating its exclusion is based on public policy considerations. Jutzi v. County of Los Angeles (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 637, 647, 242 Cal. Rptr. 74

[l] Prior Conduct

In wrongful death and survival action brought against former spouse by heirs of spouse whom former spouse allegedly murdered, trial court properly admitted evidence of former spouse's prior abuse of spouse as relevant to motive, intent and identity; fact that prior instances occurred several years before killing did not preclude admission. Rufo v. Simpson (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 573, 585-587, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 492

In suit for sexual harassment against former landlord in which trial court admitted evidence of uncharged misconduct (landlord's sexual advances toward others), court did not properly weigh probative value of evidence against extreme prejudice of "bad acts" evidence, since it failed to consider extent to which evidence had independent source and fact that there were no other tort judgments or criminal convictions arising out of landlord's conduct. Brown v. Smith (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 767, 792, 795, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 301

Prior episodes of abusive misconduct by police officer tended to show plaintiff's injuries suffered during booking were product of officer's intent and malice, and therefore were admissible under Evid. Code § 1101(b) (evidence relevant to prove fact other than disposition). Andrews v. City and County of San Francisco (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 938, 945, 252 Cal. Rptr. 716

[m] Privileges

[i] Attorney-Client Privilege

Common-law attorney-client privilege does not cease with death of client. Swidler & Berlin v. United States (1998) 524 U.S. 399, 408-411, 118 S. Ct. 2081, 141 L. Ed. 2d 379

In prosecution for making false workers' compensation claim, admission of photographs of defendant taken by investigator for defendant's former attorney in previous personal injury claim was error; photographs were privileged because they were taken to convey confidential information from defendant to his attorney, and they would have been privileged had defendant filed lawsuit based on previous personal injury claim, since personal injury claim that waives physician-patient privilege does not waive attorney-client privilege with respect to discussions or communications about that injury. People v. Gillard (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 136, 162-163, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 790

Attorney-client privilege only protects disclosure of communications, not disclosure of underlying facts that are referenced within qualifying communication; accordingly, knowledge of practices and procedures or existence of documents normally used in business operations is not privileged, nor is it violation of privilege to divulge that such documents exist but were not produced in response to discovery request. State Farm Fire & Cas. Co. v. Superior Court (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 625, 643-644, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 834 (declarations from former employee of insurer, who had worked in unit that handled suits against insurer, and who collected information from attorneys to convey to insurer's executives and from insurer's employees to convey to its attorneys)

Insurer could not assert attorney-client privilege when services of counsel were sought or obtained with intent to commit fraud on plaintiffs and court; wrongful discovery tactics by insurer in defending litigation fell within crime/fraud exception because they continued original fraud that formed basis for underlying suit and also constituted fraud on court. State Farm Fire & Cas. Co. v. Superior Court (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 625, 639-641, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 834 (withholding of documents and information sought in discovery requests)

[ii] Private Investigator-Client Privilege

Although licensed private investigator has privilege not to disclose information acquired during investigation, except for divulging certain information to law enforcement officer or district attorney [Bus. & Prof. Code § 7539(a)], identity of private investigator's employer does not fall within scope of statute. Flynn v. Superior Court (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 990, 994, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 491

[iii] Psychotherapist-Patient Privilege

Confidentiality of communications between patients and psychotherapists does not depend solely on statutory psychotherapist-patient privilege; communications also are protected by constitutional right of privacy. People v. Hammon (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 1117, 1127, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1, 938 P.2d 986

Psychotherapist-patient privilege concerns confidential communications during their professional relationship; privilege continues after termination of relationship, but communication between former patient and psychotherapist would not constitute privileged communication under statute. Poliak v. Board of Psychology (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 342, 362, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 866

[iv] Privilege Against Self-Incrimination

In light of Evid. Code § 913, to put witness on stand for purpose of having witness invoke privilege against self-incrimination would only invite jury to make improper inference; California law makes no distinction between civil and criminal litigation concerning adverse inferences from witness's invocation of privilege. People v. Holloway (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 96, 129-131, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 212, 91 P.3d 164

[n] Quality

No degrees of quality of evidence exist apart from its relevancy; hence, when "preponderance" of evidence is required to support a finding, there is no further requirement that it be "clear and convincing." Barrett v. Bank of America (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 1362, 1371, 229 Cal. Rptr. 16

[o] Relevance

In capital murder prosecution, trial court properly admitted evidence of defendant's gang membership, when evidence was more than merely tangentially relevant to premeditation, which was at issue as to both murder and attempted murder charges, because gang's name itself, 211 187 Hard Way Gangster Crips, was evidence of premeditation, since 211 and 187 were put in name with reference to Pen. Code §§ 211 (robbery) and 187 (murder). People v. Jones (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1084, 1114-1115, 70 P.3d 359

Testimony of employer regarding reasons for terminating employee was relevant in action for insurance bad faith alleging insurer's failure to indemnify employer's defense in third party's action arising out of employee's dishonesty, because evidence related to insurer's inadequate investigation of reasons for employee's termination. Downey Savings & Loan Assn. v. Ohio Casualty Ins. Co. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1072, 1091, 234 Cal. Rptr. 835

Evidence is required to be relevant to be admissible in discretion of trial court under Evid. Code § 352. Downey Savings & Loan Assn. v. Ohio Casualty Ins. Co. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1072, 1093, 234 Cal. Rptr. 835

[p] Rule of Limited Admissibility

Procedure for invoking rule of limited admissibility (Evid. Code § 355); rule applies properly only when evidence is admissible for one purpose but inadmissible for another purpose and not when evidence is admissible for all purposes. Foreman & Clark Corp. v. Fallon (1971) 3 Cal. 3d 875, 887-888, 92 Cal. Rptr. 162, 479 P.2d 362

[q] Scientific Evidence

In capital murder prosecution, trial court did not err in admitting results of electrophoretic testing of stains on tennis shoes found in defendant's garage under Kelly/Frye test; electrophoretic testing of dried bloodstains is generally accepted; mere variations in technique or procedure went to weight of evidence, not its admissibility; defendant made no showing that variations amounted to material scientific distinction or material failure to use correct, scientifically accepted procedures; and criminologist was fully qualified to perform electrophoretic testing and relate results. People v. Cook (2007) 40 Cal. 4th 1334, 1344-1348, 58 Cal. Rptr. 3d 340, 157 P.3d 950

Kelly-Frye test has three prongs: (1) "reliability" of new scientific technique must be established by showing it has gained general acceptance in particular field to which it belongs; (2) any witness testifying on general acceptance must be properly qualified as expert on subject; (3) proponent of evidence must demonstrate that correct scientific procedures were used in particular case. People v. Venegas (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 47, 78, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 262, 954 P.2d 525

Although Frye rule no longer is followed in federal courts when superseded by federal rules [see Daubert v. Merrell Dow Pharms., Inc. (1993) 509 U.S. 579, 113 S. Ct. 2786, 125 L. Ed. 2d 469] , Kelly rule remains law in California. People v. Leahy (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 587, 591, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 663, 882 P.2d 321

In action based on alleged exposure to mycotoxins through mold in home and workplace, trial court properly granted defendants' motion in limine to exclude results of mycotoxin antibody test and blood serology test; plaintiffs failed to show mycotoxin antibody test had gained general acceptance in relevant scientific community because laboratory that did test was only laboratory in United States conducting test, and other doctors testified that test was unreliable and not generally accepted in scientific community as valid technique to determine human exposure to mycotoxins; plaintiffs failed to show blood serology test had gained general acceptance in relevant scientific community as valid diagnostic technique for assessing human exposure to toxigenic mold, because laboratory conducting test was only laboratory in United States performing test, had not been evaluated or approved by FDA, and publication from California Department of Health Services concluded that test could not be used to imply presence of specific mold within home or workplace environment or be used to prove patient exposure to specific mold or its toxins. Geffcken v. D'Andrea (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 1298, 1309-1310, 41 Cal. Rptr. 3d 80

In murder prosecution, trial court erred in admitting evidence of dog scent identification of defendant because dog scent evidence did not meet Kelly requirements, when scent transfer unit was novel device used in furtherance of a new technique and subject to Kelly analysis, it was not obvious that vacuum device could properly transfer scent to gauze pad from object, that scent would not degrade or become contaminated, or that scent would not remain in unit after it was cleaned with alcohol; when dog handler who testified for prosecution was not scientist or engineer and was not qualified to testify about characteristics of unit or unit's acceptance in scientific community, and when there was no proof dog handler used correct scientific procedures while employing unit. Further, there was foundational weakness in dog identification evidence because dog was not tracking suspect but rather was given scent from gauze pad some length of time after incident and watched to see if dog showed interest in various locales frequented by defendant, and there was no proof defendant ever touched matchbook from which scent was collected. Prosecution was required to lay foundation from academic or scientific sources regarding how long scent remains on object or at location; whether every person has scent so unique it provides accurate basis for scent identification, such that it can be analogized to human DNA; whether particular breed of dog is characterized by acute powers of scent and discrimination; and adequacy of certification procedures for scent identifications. However, there was no prejudice in admission of evidence because there was abundant evidence pointing to defendant's guilt. People v. Willis (2004) 115 Cal. App. 4th 379, 385-388, 9 Cal. Rptr. 3d 235

In action by minor alleging that his autism was caused by application of pesticide, trial court erred in granting motion in limine by applying admissibility test of People v. Kelly to exclude plaintiff's expert opinion testimony that pesticide caused autism because California distinguishes between expert medical opinion and scientific evidence, and medical opinion is not subject to special admissibility rule of Kelly; nor did defendant demonstrate that methodology used in studies relied on by plaintiff's experts, including use of animal studies to extrapolate to effects of substance on humans, was in any way novel or unaccepted in scientific community, requiring application of Kelly test. Roberti v. Andy's Termite & Pest Control, Inc. (2003) 113 Cal. App. 4th 893, 899-903, 6 Cal. Rptr. 3d 827

In prosecution for murder, forcible lewd or lascivious act on a child under age 14, and forcible rape, DNA evidence was not admissible to prove defendant's identity as perpetrator because it was unreliable and untrustworthy, when prosecution failed to carry its burden of demonstrating that FBI used proper scientific procedure to determine perpetrator's D2 genotype, reference to defendant's genotype to prove perpetrator's genotype was improper, and use of band-intensity analysis to prove perpetrator's genotype required first-prong scrutiny of that method under People v. Kelly (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 24, 130 Cal. Rptr.144, 549 P.2d 1240 , so that FBI's method of discerning perpetrator's D2 genotype constituted improper procedure under Kelly's third prong; and when use of improperly discerned genotype to declare defendant match at D2 locus and calculate profile frequency was also improper procedure under Kelly's third prong, because D2 genotype, offered to prove match with defendant, in essence had two-out-of-three chance of exonerating defendant, and inclusion of D2 genotype in statistical calculation made perpetrator's profile rarer and defendant's possession of it more incriminating. Further, match and profile frequency evidence relied on perpetrator's genotype as preliminary fact and thus was admitted without adequate foundation under Evid. Code § 403. People v. Pizarro (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 530, 554-622, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 21

Trial court properly admitted expert testimony indicating that use of methamphetamine affected criminal defendant's ability to operate vehicle safely, when testimony concerning effects of methamphetamine on human behavior and opinion that person with concentration of methamphetamine in his blood that defendant had and who demonstrated symptoms like defendant's would not have ability to drive safety were based on method of research generally accepted in scientific community. People v. Bui (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 1187, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 908

Ratios used by county assessor's office to determine value of oil-producing property were neither "new" nor "scientific techniques;" not new because expert witnesses testified methods they used were commonly used in oil and gas industry for valuation purposes; not scientific because they did not purport to provide some "definitive truth." Texaco Producing, Inc. v. County of Kern (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 1029, 1048-1049, 78 Cal. Rptr. 2d 433

Testimony based on alleged memories brought forth through use of sodium amytal ("truth serum") is unreliable and inadmissible under Kelly-Frye. Ramona v. Superior Court (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 107, 116-123, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 766 (rejecting attempt to distinguish prior cases on ground that sodium amytal was used on witness for therapeutic purposes and two-year interval existed between administering drug and some of witness's allegedly recovered memories)

Psychological "syndrome" or "profile" evidence does not per se require screening procedures applicable to new scientific evidence not previously accepted in court; evidence is admissible when traditional standards for competent expert opinion are met. People v. Harlan (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 439, 448-449, 271 Cal. Rptr. 653 (reactions of sexually abused children)

Admissibility of expert testimony based on new scientific technique involves (1) establishment of reliability of method, usually by expert testimony, and (2) qualification of testifying witness as expert who can give opinion on subject; expert testimony in child dependency action is inadmissible when lacking foundational proof that "child molest syndrome" is generally accepted in scientific psychological community. In re Sara M. (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 585, 592-594, 239 Cal. Rptr. 605

Evidence based on new scientific method of proof is admissible only on showing that method has been generally accepted as reliable in scientific community in which it was developed. In re Amber B. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 682, 687-692, 236 Cal. Rptr. 623 ; In re Christine C. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 676, 679-680, 236 Cal. Rptr. 630

[r] Settlement Negotiations

In personal injury action resulting from multi-vehicle accident, trial court erred in excluding from evidence as settlement negotiations two letters written by plaintiff to insurance company concerning different motor vehicle accident in which he was later involved, where, although letters were part of settlement negotiations, they were not proffered for purpose of proving either liability or invalidity of claim with respect to later accident. However, it was not reasonably probable defendants would have achieved more favorable result in absence of error, so error was harmless. Zhou v. Unisource Worldwide (2007) 157 Cal. App. 4th 1471, 1476-1481, 69 Cal. Rptr. 3d 273

Trial court did not err in excluding evidence of e-mail sent by one party regarding ownership of some shares of stock pursuant to Evid. Code § 1152, when e-mail was one of numerous e-mails sent among parties while they were attempting to resolve several interrelated disputes and issue of ownership of all shares of company, which was closely held family company, would be critical information in evaluating one party's buyout offer and resolving parties' many interrelated disputes. Caira v. Offner (2005) 126 Cal. App. 4th 12, 30-36, 24 Cal. Rptr. 3d 233

Testimony of single witness, even a party, is sufficient to establish a fact. Green v. City of Oceanside (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 212, 227, 239 Cal. Rptr. 470

[t] View of Scene

Law is clear that when view of scene of accident is made by trier of facts, conditions observed and properly bearing on case as independent evidence that may be considered by trier of facts in arriving at its decision. Gates v. McKinnon (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 179, 182-183, 114 P.2d 576

[u] Writings

In action involving insurance policy lost or destroyed without fraudulent intent on insured's part, claimant has burden of proving fact that he or she was insured under lost policy during period in issue and the substance of each policy provision essential to particular coverage insured claims; insurer has burden of proving the substance of any policy provision that functions to defeat insured's claim; there is no evidentiary requirement to prove material provisions by introducing evidence of specific language used in those provisions. Dart Industries, Inc. v. Commercial Union Ins. Co. (2002) 28 Cal. 4th 1059, 1068-1074, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 142, 52 P.3d 79

Deposition testimony of witness alleged to be unavailable under Evid. Code § 240(a)(3) requires proper foundation of unavailability; physician's letter dated two months before hearing concerning medical inadvisability of appearance was not reliable and timely foundation and admission based on that foundation was improper. Ritter v. State Bar (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 595, 601, 221 Cal. Rptr. 134, 709 P.2d 1303

[5] Judicial Misconduct

Judicial misconduct deprived plaintiffs of fair trial, when judge made improper ex parte contact by viewing videotape offered by defendants with defense counsel present but not did not inform plaintiff's counsel, and when exchanges between court and counsel were antithesis of required judicial decorum and courtesy; because average person could entertain doubt whether judge was impartial, appellate court could reverse without speculating whether bias was actual or apparent, or whether result would have been same had evidence been impartially considered and matter dispassionately decided. Haluck v. Ricoh Electronics, Inc. (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 994, 1002-1009, 60 Cal. Rptr. 3d 542

[6] Mistrial

Insufficiency of evidence to justify verdict is ground for motion for new trial, not for mistrial. Heavy Duty Truck Leasing, Inc. v. Superior Court (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 116, 119, 89 Cal. Rptr. 598

[7] Order of Proceedings

When several defendants, each having separate defenses, appear by separate counsel, court is required to determine their relative order of presentation (see Code Civ. Proc. § 607(8); Evid. Code § 320). Diamond Springs Lime Co. v. American River Constructors (1971) 16 Cal. App. 3d 581, 602, 94 Cal. Rptr. 200

[8] Order of Proof

Power of trial court to control order of proof is elemental and court's rulings as not disturbed on appeal unless there is abuse of discretion. Gherman v. Colburn (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 544, 584, 140 Cal. Rptr. 330

[9] Presumptions Affecting Burden of Proof

Report of independent commission on conduct of police department is presumed trustworthy, shifting burden to party opposing its introduction to prove otherwise. Montiel v. City of Los Angeles (9th Cir. 1993) 2 F. 3d 335, 341-342

Effect of rebuttable presumption created by Evid. Code § 664 that official duty is presumed to have been regularly performed is merely to impose on party against whom it operates burden of proof as to nonexistence of presumed fact. California Advocates for Nursing Home Reform v. Bonta' (2003) 106 Cal. App. 4th 498, 505, 130 Cal. Rptr. 2d 823

Penal Code Section 1016.5, providing that absent record that court advised criminal defendant of immigration consequences of plea of guilty or nolo contendere, establishes rebuttable presumption affecting burden of proof rather than burden of producing evidence, since section clearly states that its purpose is to promote fairness by requiring appropriate warnings to defendants and Legislature intended to implement public policy of mandating administration of advisements; People rebutted presumption by preponderance of evidence by minute order indicating defendant was advised of possible effects of plea on "alien/citizenship/probation/parole status," coupled with testimony by judge as to his practice to advise criminal defendants of immigration consequences personally. People v. Dubon (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 944, 953-956, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 914

[10] Rebuttal

Rebuttal and impeachment of expert witness distinguished. Kennemur v. State of California (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 907, 921-922, 184 Cal. Rptr. 393

[11] Refreshing Memory

Rule that writing used by witness before or while testifying to refresh memory of any matter about which he or she testifies must be produced at request of adverse party (Evid. Code § 771(a)) is inapplicable to writing consisting of transcript of tape-recorded conference between attorney and client regarding events surrounding basis of client's cause of action, recorded with client's permission, and protected by attorney client privilege (see Evid. Code § 954). Sullivan v. Superior Court (1972) 29 Cal. App. 3d 64, 67-74, 105 Cal. Rptr. 241

[12] Witnesses

In capital murder prosecution, after granting defendant's motion under Evid. Code § 777 to exclude from courtroom any witness not then testifying to prevent witness from hearing testimony of others, trial court did not abuse its discretion in granting prosecution motion to permit presence of victim's mother, who was defendant's wife, and victim's sister pursuant to former Pen. Code § 1102.6, which allowed victim and victim's family to be present and seated at trial unless trial court found that their presence would pose substantial risk of influencing or affecting content of any testimony. Nothing before trial court suggested that victim's mother's or sister's presence posed substantial risk that either woman would craft or shape her own testimony, or cause any other witness to do so, as result of her presence. People v. Griffin (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 536, 570-574, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 743, 93 P.3d 344

Remedy for litigant who believes witness is trying to improve testimony is to question witness and, if necessary, impeach witness with prior testimony; thus, criminal defendant who had full opportunity to cross-examine prosecution witnesses at retrial suppression hearing was not denied due process by any changes in their testimony. People v. Holloway (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 96, 122, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 212, 91 P.3d 164

Objection to adequacy of witness's oath must be raised in proceeding in which witness is testifying at time when defect can be easily remedied or objection is waived. People v. Haeberlin (1969) 272 Cal. App. 2d 711, 716, 77 Cal. Rptr. 553

[b] Children

Child who is incompetent to be witness at given time by virtue of young age resulting in inability to understand duty to tell truth is reasonably presumed to have been incompetent also at earlier time; thus, child's hearsay statements in earlier social study report are inadmissible unless presumption is rebutted. In re Daniel Z. (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 1009, 1018-1020, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 139

Competency of very young witness depends only on witness's ability to perceive, recollect, and communicate, or to understand duty to tell truth; inconsistent or exaggerated statements by child do not indicate incompetence to testify but are questions of credibility for trier of fact. Adamson v. Department of Social Services (1988) 207 Cal. App. 3d 14, 20, 254 Cal. Rptr. 667 (five-year-old witness)

[c] Credibility

On writ of habeas corpus after conviction resulting in imposition of death penalty, there was more than substantial evidence to support referee's finding that character and reputation for honesty and integrity of district attorney who had prosecuted case and later executed affidavit and testified that judge had improperly colluded with him during jury selection was poor, relying in part on testimony concerning specific instances of prosecutor's dishonesty in violation of Evid. Code §§ 787, 1101(a); when enactment of Cal. Const., art. I, § 28(d) superseded all California restrictions on admission of relevant evidence except those expressly preserved or permitted under that section, and among superseded provisions was Evid. Code § 787; referee did not err under Evid. Code § 1101 inasmuch as Evid. Code § 1101(c) stated explicitly that nothing in Evid. Code § 1101 affected admissibility of evidence offered to support or attack credibility of witness. In re Freeman (2006) 38 Cal. 4th 630, 640, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 850, 133 P.3d 1013 ,

In capital murder prosecution, trial court did not abuse its discretion in admitting detective's testimony of out-of-court statement of man who participated in crime to impeach eyewitness testimony as relevant, when eyewitness had testified he saw one man, slightly built Hispanic, go to driver's side of victim's truck while other man stated that he went to passenger side door of same truck, and eyewitness's ability accurately to perceive and recall was called into question if, from distance of at most two car lengths he did not see second man. People v. Brown (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 518, 533-535, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 145, 73 P.3d 1137

In capital murder prosecution, trial court properly admitted consistent statements of accomplice/witnesses because they were made before plea bargains were struck and thus before existence of one ground alleged in defendant's charge that their trial testimony was biased, even though statements were made after another ground for challenging them arose. People v. Jones (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1084, 1106-1107, 70 P.3d 359

Evidence that witness has been convicted of felony is admissible to show bias under Evid. Code § 786 without regard to nature of underlying crime, since it relates to character traits of honesty and truthfulness. Piscitelli v. Salesian Society (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 1, 6-10, 82 Cal. Rptr. 3d 139

Competency of very young witness depends only on witness's ability to perceive, recollect, and communicate, or to understand duty to tell truth; inconsistent or exaggerated statements by child do not indicate incompetence to testify but are questions of credibility for trier of fact. Adamson v. Department of Social Services (1988) 207 Cal. App. 3d 14, 20, 254 Cal. Rptr. 667 (five-year-old witness)

Except for proof of felony conviction, specific instances of wrongdoing are not proper basis for attacking witness's credibility, pursuant to Evid. Code §§ 787, 788. Downey Savings & Loan Assn. v. Ohio Casualty Ins. Co. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 1072, 1092-1093, 234 Cal. Rptr. 835

[i] Appointments

Appointment of expert witnesses is within discretion of court. People v. Gorg (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 776, 780, 291 P.2d 469 ; People v. McCracken (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 336, 350, 246 P.2d 913 ; Pink v. Slater (1955) 131 Cal. App. 2d 816, 817-818, 281 P.2d 272 ; Laguna Salada, etc. Dist. v. Pac. Dev. Co. (1953) 119 Cal. App. 2d 470, 474, 259 P.2d 498

Constitutionality of former Code Civ. Proc. § 1871 (predecessor to Evid. Code § 730), authorizing appointment by court of expert witnesses. Estate of Hastings (1929) 206 Cal. 524, 525-526, 274 P. 973

Power of court under former Code Civ. Proc. § 1871 (predecessor to Evid. Code § 730) to appoint independent and disinterested expert on its own motion to provide court with impartial report. Durst v. Superior Court (1963) 222 Cal.

App. 2d 447, 451, 35 Cal. Rptr. 143

[ii] As Subject to Contempt

Nonparty expert witness in personal injury action is subject to contempt for failure to appear at deposition proceeding to which he had been validly subpoenaed. In re Morelli (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 819, 826, 91 Cal. Rptr. 72

[iii] Basis of Opinion

In personal injury case arising from automobile accident, trial court's order granting defendant's motion in limine to prohibit plaintiffs' treating physician from testifying at trial as expert and limiting him to testifying as percipient witness because at his deposition, physician conceded he had not reviewed any of plaintiffs' records regarding prior medical treatment, was wrong as matter of law and court had reasonable alternatives to gutting plaintiffs' case; for example, to extent order reflected trial court's belief physician "sandbagged" defense counsel by not being fully prepared for his deposition, court could have ordered physician to submit to further deposition on appropriate terms and conditions. Fatica v. Superior Court (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 350, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 904

Evid. Code § 801(b) permits expert to rely on inadmissible evidence if it is of type that reasonably may be relied on by expert in forming opinion on subject to which testimony is related, but witness is not allowed to testify regarding details of such matters if they are otherwise inadmissible. Genrich v. State of California (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 221, 229, 248 Cal. Rptr. 303

Experts may properly rely on hearsay in forming opinions, but may not properly relate out-of-court opinion by another expert as independent proof of fact. Mosesian v. Pennwalt Corp. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 851, 860, 236 Cal. Rptr. 778

Trial court's refusal to allow plaintiffs' accident reconstruction expert to rely on training records of pilot and observer pilot involved in plane crash in explaining conclusion that they became confused following decision to switch runways for landing was reversible error when paucity of direct evidence entitled expert to reasonably rely on training records in forming opinion and to explain that reliance to jury, as training records indicated similar confusion on part of defendants during previous landing approaches. Buckwalter v. Airline Training Center (1982) 134 Cal. App. 3d 547, 551-554, 184 Cal. Rptr. 659

[iv] Fees

Fee of expert accountant appointed by and acting under court's direction is a chargeable cost. ABC Egg Ranch v. Abdelnour (1963) 223 Cal. App. 2d 12, 19, 35 Cal. Rptr. 487 (involving action for dissolution of partnership)

[v] Impeachment and Rebuttal

Impeachment of expert witness and rebuttal distinguished. Fish v. Guevara (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 142, 146, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 329 ; Kennemur v. State of California (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 907, 921-925, 184 Cal. Rptr. 393

[vi] Qualifications

Trial court's determination that witness is qualified to testify as expert witness is required to be upheld on appeal absent abuse of discretion, which will be found only if evidence shows that witness clearly lacks qualification as expert. Jutzi

v. County of Los Angeles (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 637, 653, 242 Cal. Rptr. 74

Court did not abuse its discretion in allowing plaintiff's expert witness to testify on direct examination as to his prior employment with defendant and circumstances of his termination by defendant, because such testimony established expert's background and qualifications and went to issue of defendant's malice for purposes of punitive damages claim. Grimshaw v. Ford Motor Co. (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 757, 786, 174 Cal. Rptr. 348

Determination of person's qualification as expert is matter for trial court, and trial court's determination to accept witness's expertise is not subject to being overturned on appeal if founded on reasonable basis. Dean W. Knight & Sons, Inc. v. First Western Bank & Trust Co. (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 560, 567, 148 Cal. Rptr. 767

Exercise of trial court's discretion as to whether one qualifies as expert witness is reversible on appeal only for clear abuse. Putensen v. Clay Adams, Inc. (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 1062, 1081, 91 Cal. Rptr. 319

Traffic officers whose duties include investigations of automobile accidents are qualified experts who may properly testify concerning their opinions as to various factors involved in such accidents, based on their own observations. Hart v. Wielt (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 224, 229, 84 Cal. Rptr. 220

[vii] Testimony

In capital murder prosecution, trial court properly excluded defense's offer of expert witness testimony on eyewitness identification, when witness's identification of defendant was corroborated by testimony of five other witnesses, including accomplices, even though all five witnesses could be impeached by proof of bias or prior inconsistent statements, because cumulative corroborative effect of testimony of defendant's admissions was sufficient to give independent reliability to eyewitness identification. People v. Jones (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1084, 1111-1112, 70 P.3d 359

General rule declaring that if trier of fact does not act arbitrarily, he or she may reject in toto testimony of a witness, even though witness is uncontradicted, applies equally to expert witnesses. Foreman & Clark Corp. v. Fallon (1971) 3 Cal. 3d 875, 890, 92 Cal. Rptr. 162, 479 P.2d 362

Opinion of expert witness cannot be based on facts that have no support in evidence or on irrelevant or speculative matters; expert's testimony was not speculative when record clearly shows opinion was based on expert's experience and was in line with his expertise, qualifications, and foundation that was laid for testimony. Williams v. Volkswagenwerk Aktiengesellschaft (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 1244, 1262-1263, 226 Cal. Rptr. 306

Reactions of rape victims and varying motivations and personality characteristics of rapists are not subjects within common knowledge of jurors, and are proper subject of expert testimony in civil action for battery to provide background against which jury may assess plaintiff's reaction to alleged rape, and to demonstrate that prestige or community standing did not eliminate individual from motivation and profile of rapist. Delia S. v. Torres (1982) 134 Cal. App. 3d 471, 478-480, 184 Cal. Rptr. 787 , overruled on other grounds in Christensen v. Superior Court (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 868, 905 fn. 28, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 79, 820 P. 2d 181

Expert testimony is not required to be necessary to be admissible, but only to be helpful. People v. Cramblit (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 437, 446 n. 3, 148 Cal. Rptr. 440

Testimony of expert witness (attorney) is admissible in legal malpractice case to establish negligence. Starr v. Mooslin (1971) 14 Cal. App. 3d 988, 996-999, 92 Cal. Rptr. 583

Although no California statute disqualifies lawyer from testifying in trial to which lawyer's client is a party, prospective characteristic of trial created appropriate occasion for exercise of trial court's inherent power over proceedings to give criminal defendant and defendant's attorney pretrial choice between latter's withdrawing as counsel and his withdrawal as witness. People v. Smith (1970) 13 Cal. App. 3d 897, 904, 907-909, 91 Cal. Rptr. 786

Testimony of experts is admissible to show recognized and accepted safety standards and practices in profession, trade, or business. People v. Glass (1968) 266 Cal. App. 2d 222, 226-227, 71 Cal. Rptr. 858 , overruled on other grounds in People v. Superior Court (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 757, 765 n. 7, 100 Cal. Rptr. 281, 493 P. 2d 1145

Use of hearsay as part of expert's testimony. Board of Trustees v. Porini (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 784, 792-795, 70 Cal. Rptr. 73

[viii] Witness List

In medical malpractice action against podiatrist, trial court prejudicially erred in denying plaintiff's motion to strike defendant's "second designation" of expert witnesses under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2034; defendant had no right to simply delay his designation of retained experts until after he had opportunity to view expert designation timely served by plaintiff, and trial court should have granted motion and left defendant to rely exclusively on treating professionals listed in his initial designation. Fairfax v. Lords (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 1019, 1025-1028, 41 Cal. Rptr. 3d 850

Under former Code Civ. Proc. § 2037 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 2034.310 effective July 1, 2005), expert witness not included on proposed expert witness list is permitted to testify only for impeachment purposes; expression of opinion contrary to that expressed by opponent's expert did not constitute impeachment under statute. Ellenberger v. Karr (1982) 127 Cal. App. 3d 423, 427, 179 Cal. Rptr. 583

Court did not abuse its discretion in allowing testimony of plaintiff's expert witness when, although defendant may not have known of witness before testimony and did not have opportunity to depose him, plaintiff acquired witness after defendant's last request for list of experts and defendant had ample opportunity through pretrial discovery to learn of his identity. Grimshaw v. Ford Motor Co. (1981) 119 Cal. App. 3d 757, 782, 174 Cal. Rptr. 348

[e] Lay Witnesses

Evid. Code § 800, limiting admissibility of opinion testimony by lay witness, merely requires that witnesses express themselves at lowest possible level of abstraction; however, witness is permitted to state his or her general impression when details observed, even though recalled, are too complex or subtle for concrete description by witness. Bartlett v. State of California (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 392, 400, 245 Cal. Rptr. 32

[f] Person Unable to Express Self

In prosecution based on defendant's assaults against her roommate, who suffered from cerebral palsy, defendant failed to show victim was incompetent as witness because victim was incapable of expressing herself, when, although she may have been more difficult to understand than typical witness, record reflected that she was quite intelligent and at trial was both alert and able to express herself concerning assaults, even though, read directly from reporter's transcript, some of her testimony was indecipherable, and when bulk of victim's recorded testimony was comprehensible even without prosecutor's use of leading questions. Trial court did not abuse its discretion by refusing to appoint interpreter for victim, when victim's recorded testimony as whole demonstrated adequate ability to communicate her perceptions in English language so as to be understood by court, counsel, and jury without interpretation; victim spoke English, notwithstanding defense counsel's attempt to compare her to Spanish-speaking witness; victim had completed high school and some college courses; victim's mental capacity was evident in her recorded testimony; defense counsel understood victim well enough to interject several evidentiary objections to her testimony; and all of her testimony was recorded in reporter's transcript. People v. Augustin (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 444, 448, 451, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 171

Physical limitations on witness's ability to communicate do not necessarily render witness incompetent to testify. People v. Tran (1996) 47 Cal. App. 4th 759, 770, 54 Cal. Rptr. 2d 905 (when witness was unable to speak, but could answer yes-or-no questions by tapping once for yes and twice for no, defense not deprived of meaningful opportunity to cross-examine)

[1] Notice of Trial

☐ Prepare a notice of trial and serve a copy of it on the adverse party [Code Civ. Proc. § 594; see § 551.250].

NOTE:

The notice of trial may be served by either party on the adverse party. However, it is only when the clerk fails to serve the notice that it must be served by a party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 594(b); see also § 551.22 et seq.]. For a discussion of service by mail and when service is to be made on a party's attorney in lieu of a party, as well as a form for proof of service by mail, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

☐ Execute a proof of service and file the original and proof of service with the court.

NOTE:

There appears to be no statutory requirement that the notice of trial and proof of service be filed. It is, nevertheless, good practice to do so. But if the notice and proof of service are filed and the adverse party fails to appear at the trial, the appearing party must be sure to point out to the court that the proof of service is in the file and ask that it be introduced into evidence [see Code Civ. Proc. § 594(b) (requirement that proof of service be introduced into evidence); see also § 551.25].

[1A] Motion to Advance, Specially Set or Reset Case for Trial

☐ Prepare a motion to advance, specially set or reset the case for trial and serve a copy of it on the adverse party [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1335; see § 551.250A].

[2] Preparation for Trial

☐ Court rules, policies, and facilities.

☐ Secure a copy of the court's written rules and policies and of any written policies of the judge in whose department the case will be tried (in a court utilizing a master calendar, the trial judge's identity will not normally be known until the time the case is assigned for trial).

NOTE:

The court's written rules and policies may normally be purchased from the court clerk or the court's designated official publisher [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.613(b), (c)]. Current local rules from all jurisdictions in the state are also available for public examination in the office of each superior court clerk or in the county law library [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.613(b), (e)]. Trial court rules for most counties are available at the Internet site for the California Judiciary, http://www.courtinfo.ca.gov. Any written policies of the judge in whose department the case will be tried may normally be obtained from the judge's courtroom clerk. Counsel should also ascertain any unwritten policies or preferences of the trial judge. This information might be obtained from the judge's courtroom clerk or bailiff. Matters that counsel may wish to discuss with the courtroom clerk or bailiff, if not covered by the court's written rules and policies, would include, for example, (1) the manner in which the judge conducts the before trial conference (see [3], below); (2) how exhibits are to be marked (see checklist, below); and (3) the availability of courtroom facilities that might be needed during the trial (e.g., electrical outlets for any electrical equipment such as a slide projector or a tape or video recorder) and whether the court provides projectors, stands for exhibits, a blackboard, storage files for exhibits, or other equipment for counsels' use, or whether these should be provided by counsel, and if the latter the procedure for bringing them to or installing them in the courtroom).

☐ Issues and evidence.

☐ Prepare an outline of the case.

NOTE:

Although not required by law, as a matter of good practice counsel will normally find it helpful substantially in advance of trial to prepare an outline of the issues and evidence, including the exhibits to be introduced at trial. This outline will aid counsel not only at trial, but at various stages of the proceedings as well, for example, in preparing for the before trial, or chambers, conference with the judge (see [3], below) or in a jury trial in drafting the proposed jury instructions (see checklist, below).

The list should include every element necessary on plaintiff's part to establish each cause of action or necessary on defendant's part to establish each defense. The main issues of fact (ultimate facts) are framed by the pleadings [see Code Civ. Proc. § 590]. Legal issues may also arise from the pleadings, for example, the meaning of an unambiguous contract pleaded in haec verba.

The outline should list each ultimate fact and each evidentiary fact that will establish the ultimate fact and the manner in which the evidentiary fact will be proved, for example, the testimony of a percipient witness or documentary evidence. If the evidentiary fact is to be established by the testimony of a percipient witness, counsel should include the witness's name (for who may be a witness, see Evid. Code §§ 700-704; §§ 551.111 and 551.113); if it will be established by documentary evidence, the outline should identify the document and the name of any witness, if different from the percipient witness, whose testimony may be required to authenticate it (foundational witness; see Evid. Code §§ 1400-1421). The outline should include citations to appropriate legal authority that may be helpful to counsel or to the court, for example, authorities setting forth the elements of the cause of action or defense, the manner in which the elements may be proved, and the admissibility of the evidence. For a suggested form of outline, see California Trial Guide (Matthew Bender), Trial Book Vol., Trial Plan Tab, Trial Planning Checklist and Case Analysis Sheet.

For the weight to be given evidence generally, see discussion in § 551.93.

☐ Consider and determine whether any evidence is protected against disclosure by a privilege.

NOTE:

Privileges are enumerated in Evid. Code §§ 940-1060. For a discussion of privileges, including a newsperson's immunity from a contempt citation (see Cal. Const., art. I, § 2; Evid. Code § 1070) and his or her qualified privilege not to divulge unpublished information, see Ch. 191, Discovery: Privileges and Other Discovery Limitaitons .

☐ Secure attendance of witnesses.

NOTE:

For a discussion, procedural checklist, and forms for use in securing the attendance of witnesses or production of evidence at trial, see Ch. 535, Subpoena . For a discussion, procedural guide, and forms for use on a noticed motion, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders . For discussion of service of papers and proof of service, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

☐ Judicial notice.

NOTE:

For a discussion of when the court must or may take judicial notice of a matter, the matter that may be judicially noticed, and the procedure, see Ch. 321, Judicial Notice **.

☐ Determine whether any matter may be judicially noticed.

☐ Counsel should ascertain any matter of which he or she will request the court to take judicial notice [see Evid. Code § 453].

NOTE:
Matter of which the court must or may take judicial notice is listed in Evid. Code §§ 451 and 452, respectively.

☐ Give notice of request for judicial notice.

☐ Give each adverse party sufficient notice of the request, through the pleadings or otherwise, to enable the adverse party to prepare to meet the request [Evid. Code § 453(a)].

☐ Provide information for court.

☐ Obtain the information necessary to be furnished to the court to enable the court to take judicial notice of the matter [Evid. Code § 453(b)].

☐ Make a motion for appointment of learned person.

☐ If the advice of persons learned in the subject matter is required to enable the court to take judicial notice of a matter, prepare, serve, and file a notice of motion for an order appointing such a person, together with a supporting affidavit or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5 and a memorandum [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a); for discussion and a procedural guide relating to noticed motions generally, including time requirements, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders].

NOTE:
Appointment of one or more persons learned in the subject matter to provide the court with advice necessary to enable the court to take judicial notice of a matter may be made on the court's own motion or on the motion of a party [Evid. Code § 460]. Although Evid. Code § 460 does not expressly require that the motion by a party be made on notice, it would appear that if the motion is made before trial (as opposed to a motion made at trial in the presence of the adverse counsel), the better, if not required, practice is to make it on notice.

☐ Exhibits.

☐ Prepare a list of the exhibits counsel intends to offer in evidence.

☐ Although not required by statute, it is a matter of good practice for counsel to prepare a list of the exhibits he or she intends to offer in evidence, particularly if there are numerous exhibits. Counsel must do so if local court rule or policy requires it or requires a pretrial exchange of lists of exhibits. The list should briefly describe each exhibit. If an exchange of exhibit lists is required, counsel should make a copy of the list for opposing counsel. Counsel may exclude from the list any exhibit he or she anticipates in good faith will be used for impeachment or tactical surprise and which has not been disclosed to adversaries.

☐ Make copies of all documents listed on the exhibit list.

☐ Although not required by statute, the better practice is for counsel to have copies made of all documents on the list of exhibits and make them available prior to the commencement of the trial for examination and copying by any other party requesting them. This may be expressly required by local court rule or policy. Local rule or policy may also require each proponent of critical documents or extracts of critical documents to furnish sufficient copies so that a copy may be presented to each counsel, as well as to the court.

NOTE:
Although it is not necessary to show, read, or disclose any part of a writing to a witness being examined at trial concerning the writing, if the writing is shown to the witness, all parties to the action must be given an opportunity to inspect it before the witness may be asked any question concerning it [Evid. Code § 768]. To avoid any negative reaction from the court or jury resulting from the time-consuming process of having the parties inspect the writing, the furnishing of copies to the other parties should be done in advance of the examination of the witness out of open court.

☐ Exchange of lists and evidence.

☐ In advance of trial, exchange with opposing counsel exhibit lists, copies of documentary evidence to be introduced, and witness lists, if required by local court rule or policy (see checklist, above).

☐ Organizing and premarking exhibits.

☐ Counsel should organize his or her exhibits before trial, and follow any local court rules, policies, or department rules for premarking them and having them marked for identification. In Los Angeles County, for example, each party will be assigned a block of arabic numbers to be used sequentially in marking exhibits [see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.62]. The manner of marking exhibits varies widely among the courts, and counsel should, if unaware of the local practice, check with the court clerk or the judge's courtroom clerk.

☐ Dangerous or bulky exhibits.

☐ Prepare substitutes, such as photographs, technical reports, or dummies, if possible, for use in lieu of any dangerous or bulky exhibits.

NOTE:
Local court rule or policy may expressly prohibit bringing any dangerous or bulky exhibit into the courtroom without first, out of the jury's hearing, securing the court's permission to do so [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.59].

Even in the absence of a court rule, this is a wise policy to follow. Dangerous or bulky exhibits may not only disrupt the trial but might subject persons in attendance to a risk of serious harm as well. Dangerous exhibits would include explosives, such as T.N.T.; corrosives, such as sulfuric acid; and flammables, such as gasoline. Bulky exhibits would include any large and cumbersome exhibit, such as a ladder, a part of an automobile chassis, a table, and so forth.

☐ If a substitute would not do, out of the hearing of the jury, request the court's permission to bring the exhibit in.

☐ Move the court for an order for the court and jury to view the exhibit outside the courtroom at a place and under conditions that will secure the safety of those present if permission to bring the exhibit in is denied [see Code Civ. Proc. § 651(a)(3); and § 551.64].

☐ Maps, plans, and diagrams.

☐ Indicate on any map, plan, or diagram to be offered in evidence whether it was drawn to scale and, if so, the scale used. If it was not drawn to scale, that fact should be pointed out to the trier of fact [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.75].

☐ Graphic devices used in argument.

☐ It is good practice before commencement of the argument to show opposing counsel any graphic device, such as a chart, summary, or model, that is not in evidence and is to be used for illustration only in argument. This may be expressly required by local court rule or policy [see, e.g, Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.74].

☐ Trial brief.

☐ Prepare a trial brief, if desired.

☐ Many lawyers find it a good practice in any significant case to prepare a trial brief to present to the judge (with a copy to the adverse party). The purpose of the brief is to familiarize the trial judge with the client's factual and legal claims. The brief should normally (1) contain a summary of the case, (2) outline the facts counsel expects to prove (and a statement and rebuttal of the adverse party's factual contentions), and (3) set forth the legal arguments with proper citations to appropriate authorities. Since the effect of the brief on the judge may depend on when it is submitted, counsel should deliver the brief to him or her as early as possible. The chambers conference with judge and counsel present, which is held immediately before trial in many courts (see [3], below), provides a good opportunity for personally delivering the brief to the judge. In other courts, counsel might ascertain from the judge's courtroom clerk the best time and manner for delivering the trial brief.

☐ Proposed jury instructions.

☐ In a jury trial, draft proposed jury instructions covering the law as disclosed by the pleadings. Deliver the original to the court and serve a copy on counsel for the adverse party before the first witness is sworn [see Code Civ. Proc. § 607a; see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1050 (Judicial Council jury instructions)]. For discussion and a general form of jury instruction, see Ch. 326, Jury Instructions . For when additional proposed instructions on questions of law developed by the evidence and not disclosed by the pleadings may subsequently be delivered to the judge and served, see § 551.224[5].

[3] Day of Trial

☐ Appearance.

☐ Appear in the court's master calendar department or the department of the judge supervising the master calendar at the time and place set for the assignment of the case to a department, or, if the court does not have a master calendar (which would include one-judge and two-judge courts, appear in the courtroom of the trial judge at the time and place set for trial.

NOTE:
In a court employing a master calendar, each case transferred to a trial department must be tried, ordered off the calendar, or dismissed unless, for good cause arising after the commencement of the trial, the judge of the trial department continues the case for further hearing or, with the consent of the judge supervising the master calendar, reassigns the case to the judge supervising the master calendar for further disposition [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 10.910]. For further discussion of courts having master calendars, see Ch. 425, Pretrial Proceedings .

☐ Trailing of cases.

☐ To minimize the expense and inconvenience to counsel, parties, and the witnesses, counsel should ascertain in advance of the trial date the practices of the local court with respect to trailing cases and any local court rules that may apply.

☐ Motions in master calendar department or at trial.

☐ Be prepared to make any motion that may appropriately be made in the master calendar department or at trial if the court does not have a master calendar department. Such motions may include the following:

☐ Motion for continuance or postponement of trial.

NOTE:
The court may condition the granting of the motion on the moving party's paying the adverse party the costs occasioned by the postponement [Code Civ. Proc. § 1024]. Costs are not limited to taxable costs but may include certain expenses incurred in preparing for the trial [De Cesare v. Lembert (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 20, 25, 192 Cal. Rptr. 354 ; see Inman v. Fremont Medical Center (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 169, 172, 122 Cal. Rptr. 372 (fees of jury panel); Wilkin v. Tadlock (1952) 110 Cal. App. 2d 156, 157-158, 241 P.2d 1066 (transportation costs of out of state adverse parties and taxable costs)]. However, the term does not include attorney fees or lost income [see De Cesare v. Lembert (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 20, 23-26, 192 Cal. Rptr. 354 (discussing earlier contrary authorities on the issue of attorney fees, including McFaddin v. H. S. Crocker Co. (1963) 219 Cal. App. 2d 585, 594, 33 Cal. Rptr. 389 , and holding them repudiated by subsequent case law)]. For further discussion, a procedural checklist, and forms for use in moving for a continuance, see Ch. 136, Continuances* .

☐ Motion to disqualify judge.

☐ A motion to disqualify a judge for cause under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.1 or peremptorily under Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6 may be made if timely [for discussion, a procedural guide, and forms for use in moving to disqualify, see Ch. 317, Judges].

NOTE:
Obtain as much information as possible in advance of trial about the judge who will or may try the case. Local attorneys and bar associations are often the best source of this information. In addition, there are some published sources that counsel should check. The most comprehensive of these is Arnold, California Courts and Judges Handbook (4th ed, 1985), published by Law Book Service Co., 369 Harvard St., San Francisco, CA 94134. This book contains biographical data on all judges of the California courts, as well as federal court judges in California. If the case is pending in a southern California court, counsel may also wish to check the Judicial Profile series of the Los Angeles Daily Journal to see if the particular judge has been profiled in that series.

☐ Accept the judge's invitation, if any, to join him or her and counsel for the adverse party in a before trial chambers conference.

NOTE:
At the conference, counsel should be prepared to familiarize the judge with the case (and personally deliver to the judge the trial brief, if one has been prepared (see [2], above)), to make any motions in limine that should be ruled on before the first witness is examined, to make any stipulations that may narrow the issues to be tried, and so forth. For the purposes of the conference and the matters that may be covered, see discussion in Part II, Subpart C.

PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLISTS

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.221

§ 551.221 General Matters Concerning Trial

[1] Behavior and Dress

☐ Ascertain prior to the trial date any local court rule, policy, or practice, as well as any requirements of the judge who will be presiding at trial that relate to behavior and dress.

NOTE:
In the Los Angeles County Superior Court, for example, policy provides that persons in the courtroom shall not converse, read newspapers, smoke, chew gum, or eat food while court is in session, that they should not dress in a bizarre manner such as to be distracting to others of usual sensibilities, that counsel shall so instruct the parties they represent, the witnesses they call, and persons accompanying them, and that attorneys should ordinarily be dressed in accordance with current customs as to their business attire [Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rules 8.1, 8.2].

[2] Courtroom Arrangements

☐ Seating of counsel.

☐ Ascertain any local court rule, policy, or practice relating to the seating of counsel [see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.4 (plaintiff's counsel to be seated adjacent to jury box)].

☐ Addressing court.

☐ In addressing the trial judge in court, counsel should use the term "Your Honor." In referring to the trial judge in court, counsel should use the term "His Honor" or "Her Honor," as the case may be. Contrary to the practice in an appellate court, it is not proper to address or refer to the trial judge in court as "Judge" or "Judge" followed by the judge's name. In making a motion or request, counsel may use the term "If it please the Court," or "If the Court pleases," followed by the motion or request [see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.5].

☐ Restricted areas.

☐ Ascertain any restrictions with respect to moving about the courtroom [see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.3 (area between bench and counsel table not to be traversed except with court's approval)].

☐ Examination of witnesses.

☐ Counsel should be familiar with any local court rule, policy, or practice concerning the examination of witnesses [see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.9 (remain at or behind counsel table when examining a witness)].

NOTE:

Local court rule, policy, or practice may also prohibit counsel from approaching a witness on the witness stand without the prior permission of the court [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.10 (unless court otherwise directs, counsel need not request permission to approach witness for the purpose of showing witness a document or other object, but before approaching witness for any other purpose, a party must request court's permission)].

☐ Unseemly conduct or mugging.

☐ Counsel should normally avoid any unseemly conduct or mugging in response to a witness's testimony [see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.91 (persons in courtroom, including the parties and counsel, shall not indicate by facial expression, shaking of head, gesturing, shouts, or other conduct disagreement with or approval of testimony or other evidence being given; counsel is required to so instruct parties they represent, witnesses they call, and any accompanying persons)].

[3] Selection of Jury

☐ If trial is to be by jury, participate in the selection of the jurors from the jury panel.

NOTE:

The qualifications a person must have to be eligible for jury service are set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 203. The California Constitution expressly provides that a person is not incompetent to be a juror because of his or her opinions on religious beliefs [Cal. Const., art. I, § 4]. The amount of jurors' fees is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 215.

In a jury trial, the court selects jurors from a jury panel in the voir dire process. Eligible jurors may be excused from jury service only for undue hardship [Code Civ. Proc. § 204(b)]. Prospective jurors may be challenged by a party peremptorily or for cause [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 225(b), 226-231]. For a discussion of the procedure for selecting a jury, including voir dire and challenges, see Ch. 322, Juries and Jury Selection . When the jury selection is completed, the court obtains an acknowledgment and agreement that the jurors will well and truly try the matter in issue and render a verdict according to the evidence and the court's instructions [Code Civ. Proc. § 232(b)].

[4] Province of Court and Jury in Jury Trial

☐ Questions of law.

☐ Questions of law are decided by the court [Evid. Code § 310(a)].

NOTE:
Questions of law include the construction of statutes and other writings, the admissibility of evidence, and the rules of evidence [Evid. Code § 310(a); see Evid. Code § 160 ("law" includes constitutional, statutory, and decisional law); Evid. Code § 250 ("writings" defined)].

☐ Foreign law.

☐ The law of an organization of nations, a foreign nation, or a public entity in a foreign nation is a question of law determined as provided in Evid. Code §§ 450-460 (relating to judicial notice) [Evid. Code § 310(b); see § 551.220[2]].

NOTE:
If the law of an organization of nations, a foreign nation, or a state other than California, applies and cannot be determined, the court may either apply the law of California if it can do so consistently with the United States and California Constitutions, or dismiss the action without prejudice [Evid. Code § 311].

☐ Determination of preliminary facts.

☐ Determination of fact issues preliminary to the admission of evidence are decided by the court as provided in Evid. Code §§ 400-406 [Evid. Code § 310(a); see discussion in § 551.76].

☐ Questions of fact.

☐ Except as otherwise provided by law, all questions of fact are decided by the jury [Evid. Code § 312(a)].

☐ Credibility of witnesses.

☐ Except as otherwise provided by law, the jury, subject to the court's control, determines the effect and value of the evidence addressed to it, including the credibility of witnesses and hearsay declarants [Evid. Code § 312(b)].

[5] Admissibility of Evidence

☐ Relevant evidence.

☐ All relevant evidence is normally admissible [Evid. Code § 351].

NOTE:
Only relevant evidence is admissible, and all relevant evidence is admissible in a civil case unless its probative value is substantially outweighed by the probability that its admission will either (a) necessitate undue consumption of time or (b) create a substantial danger of undue prejudice, of confusing the issues, or of misleading the jury [Evid. Code §§ 350, 351, 352]. See discussion in §§ 551.66 and 551.68.

☐ Opinion evidence.

☐ Opinion evidence is normally inadmissible [see Evid. Code § 800].

NOTE:
Opinion evidence is inadmissible unless (a) the witness is testifying as an expert and the opinion is within the area of the witness's expertise [see Evid. Code § 801]; or (b) the witness is a layperson and the opinion is rationally based on the witness's perception and helpful to a clear understanding of the witness's testimony [see Evid. Code § 800]; or (c) the opinion is otherwise permitted by law [Evid. Code § 800]. Opinions otherwise permitted by law include an owner's opinion as to the value of his or her property [see Evid. Code § 813(a)(2)] and a witness's opinion as to the sanity of a person when certain prerequisites are met [see Evid. Code § 870]. See discussion in § 551.70.

☐ Hearsay evidence.

☐ Hearsay evidence is inadmissible unless it falls within one of the numerous exceptions to the hearsay rule [Evid. Code § 1200(b)].

NOTE:
Exceptions to the hearsay rule are set forth in Evid. Code § 1220 et seq. See discussion in § 551.71.

☐ Authentication of writings.

☐ Before a writing may be introduced in evidence, it must be authenticated [see Evid. Code § 1401(a)].

NOTE:
"Writing" as used in the Evidence Code is defined in Evid. Code § 250 [see discussion in § 551.73].

PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLISTS

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.222

§ 551.222 Objections and Motions to Exclude Evidence or to Strike Testimony

[1] Common Grounds for Objecting to Evidence

NOTE:

The following are common objections that may be made in the course of the trial. For statutory grounds on which specific evidence may be objected to as inadmissible, see discussion in § 551.68. For a discussion of the manner of objecting to evidence, argument on the objection, and offers of proof, see discussion in § 551.77. For further discusion of the grounds for the objections, see Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook (2d ed) (CJA-CEB 1982) and California Trial Objections (2d ed) (Cal. CEB 1984).

The general objection that evidence is "incompetent, irrelevant, and immaterial" is insufficient unless the evidence is objectionable from every standpoint and on its face there appears no purpose whatsoever for which the evidence asked could be admissible [Short v. Frink (1907) 151 Cal. 83, 86, 90 P. 200] .

☐ Objection to the introduction of any evidence by a party.

☐ This is a device for attacking the sufficiency of a pleading and may be directed against the plaintiff or cross complainant or against the defendant or cross defendant. The ground of objection is that the complaint or cross complaint fails to state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action or that the answer fails to state facts sufficient to constitute a defense, as the case may be [see McFaddin v. H. S. Crocker Co. (1963) 219 Cal. App. 2d 585, 588 n. 1, 33 Cal. Rptr. 389] .

☐ The question is irrelevant [see Evid. Code § 350].

☐ Other factors outweigh the relevance of the question.

☐ Probative value substantially outweighed by probability that admission will necessitate undue consumption of time [Evid. Code § 352].

☐ Probative value substantially outweighed by probability that admission will create substantial danger of undue prejudice [Evid. Code § 352].

☐ Probative value substantially outweighed by probability that admission will create substantial danger of confusing the issues [Evid. Code § 352; see Kinney v. County of Contra Costa (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 761, 771, 87 Cal. Rptr. 638] .

☐ Probative value substantially outweighed by probability that admission will create substantial danger of misleading the jury [Evid. Code § 352; see Kinney v. County of Contra Costa (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 761, 771, 87 Cal. Rptr. 638] .

☐ The witness is incompetent to testify to the matter.

☐ Witness does not possess the qualifications required to be a witness in the case [see Evid. Code §§ 700-704].

☐ Witness has no personal knowledge of the matter [see Evid. Code § 702(a)].

☐ No foundation has been laid showing that the witness has personal knowledge of the facts [see Evid. Code § 403(a)(2)].

☐ The question calls for an opinion or conclusion of the witness (and the witness is not competent to give an opinion or conclusion) [see Evid. Code §§ 800, 1416 (lay witness), Evid. Code §§ 720, 801, 1418 (expert witness).

☐ No foundation has been laid for the witness to testify to an expert opinion [see Evid. Code §§ 720, 801, 1418].

☐ The question calls for speculation by the witness [see People v. Glancy (1956) 142 Cal. App. 2d 669, 680, 299 P.2d 18] .

☐ The question is leading [see Evid. Code § 767(a)(1) (question asked on direct or redirect examination)].

☐ The question calls for privileged information [see Evid. Code §§ 950-1060].

☐ The answer would tend to incriminate the witness [Evid. Code § 940].

☐ The question calls for hearsay [see Evid. Code § 1200(b)].

☐ The question calls for inadmissible secondary evidence to prove the content of a writing [see Evid. Code §§ 1521-1523].

☐ The question calls for evidence that violates the parol evidence rule [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1856, Com. Code § 2202].

☐ No foundation has been laid with respect to a writing or other exhibit sought to be introduced [see Evid. Code § 1401].

☐ No foundation has been laid with respect to introduction in evidence of witness's prior inconsistent statement [see Evid. Code § 770].

☐ No foundation has been laid to assure trustworthiness of "past recollection recorded" sought to be introduced in evidence as an exception to hearsay rule [see Evid. Code § 1237; Sherrell v. Kelso (1981) 172 Cal. Rptr. 667] .

☐ The question assumes facts not in evidence [see Evid. Code § 765; and, e.g., Brokopp v. Ford Motor Co. (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 841, 859, 139 Cal. Rptr. 888] .

☐ The question has been asked and answered [see Evid. Code § 765].

☐ The question is complex (i.e., long and involved) [see Evid. Code § 765; Bennett v. Superior Court (1946) 73 Cal. App. 2d 203, 217, 166 P.2d 318] .

☐ The question is compound (that is, it joins two or more questions, either disjunctively or conjunctively) [see Evid. Code § 765].

☐ Objection that the question is too general [see Evid. Code § 765; see also Johnson, California Trial Guide, Unit 20, Procedural Rules for Presentation of Evidence, § 20.15[3] (Matthew Bender); Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook; (2d ed) (CJA-CEB 1982), Vol. 1, § 27.6; and California Trial Objections (2d ed) (Cal CEB 1984), Ch. 9, Question Is Too General].

☐ The question calls for a narrative answer [see Evid. Code § 765].

☐ The question misstates the evidence or misquotes a witness [see Evid. Code § 765].

☐ The question is argumentative [see Evid. Code § 765].

☐ The evidence is cumulative, that is, the evidence is repetitive of evidence already introduced and its probative value is substantially outweighed by the probability that its admission will necessitate an undue consumption of time or create a substantial danger of undue prejudice [see Evid. Code § 352].

☐ The question (on cross-examination for a purpose other than impeachment) exceeds the scope of the direct examination [see Evid. Code § 761].

[2] Common Motions to Exclude Evidence or to Strike Testimony

NOTE:

A motion to exclude or to strike evidence must be timely made and so stated as to make clear the specific ground of the motion [see Evid. Code § 353(a)]. Failure to make a timely motion to strike inadmissible evidence waives the right to complain of the erroneous admission of evidence [Rodriguez v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 626, 659-660, 151 Cal. Rptr. 399] . Motions to exclude evidence (motions in limine) are normally made before trial at the before-trial conference, if any, but may be made during trial [for further discussion, see Ch. 373, Motions in Limine]. It is essential that the motion to exclude be made as early as possible if counsel wishes to avoid opposing counsel's reference to the evidence in the voir dire examination of the jurors or in opposing counsel's opening statement. Some judges may require that the motion be presented in writing with a proposed order [see discussion in § 551.41[5]]. A copy of the motion and order should then be delivered to the adverse party. This will circumvent any possibility of a misunderstanding on the part of counsel as to what evidence has been ordered excluded.

☐ Motion to exclude evidence on ground that other factors outweigh its probative value [see Evid. Code § 352; [1], above].

☐ Motion to exclude reference to specified inadmissible evidence [see, as examples of inadmissible evidence, Evid. Code §§ 1151-1157.7, discussed in Part II, Subpart E].

☐ Motion to exclude privileged information [Evid. Code 916].

☐ Motion to strike nonresponsive answer [Evid. Code § 766].

☐ Motion to strike witness's answer to objectionable question made before counsel has time to object.

NOTE:

Like all motions to exclude or to strike, this motion should be timely, clearly state the ground on which it is made, and specify the matter to be stricken [see Evid. Code § 353(a); Lucy v. Davis (1912) 163 Cal. 611, 615, 126 P. 490 (motion to strike denied as too vague and general)]. If the motion is granted, counsel should request the court to admonish the jury to ignore the stricken testimony if the court does not do so when it grants the motion.

☐ Motion to strike testimony of witness on failure to produce writing that witness used to refresh recollection with respect to matter about which he or she testified [see Evid. Code § 771(a)].

☐ Motion to strike testimony on any other ground.

NOTE:
In such event, the motion to strike must be directed with precision to the particular testimony sought to be stricken, especially when only part of it is objectionable [see Orange County Flood Control Dist. v. Sunny Crest Dairy, Inc. (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 742, 752, 143 Cal. Rptr. 803)].

PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLISTS

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.223

§ 551.223 Common Motions During Trial

NOTE:

Motions to exclude evidence or to strike testimony are listed in § 551.222[2]. Motions at trial are made orally. For common after trial motions, see Ch. 371, Motions After Trial .

Except motions to strike testimony [discussed in § 551.222[2]], motions in jury trials should normally be made out of the hearing of the jury but in the presence of adverse counsel. Before trial, counsel should check any local court rules with respect to the making of motions during trial and check further with the trial judge's courtroom clerk to ascertain any requirements of the judge with respect to specific motions not covered by local court rules.

[1] Motions Relating to Trial

☐ Motion for continuance [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 594a-595.4; see Ch. 136, Continuances].

☐ Motion for judgment on the pleadings [see Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings].

NOTE:

If made at trial, the motion can be oral and without prior notice [MacBeth v. West Coast Packing Corp. (1947) 83 Cal. App. 2d 96, 99, 187 P.2d 815] . The motion is normally made in open court, although any argument on the motion should be out of the jury's hearing. Nevertheless, some courts require that both the motion and the argument be made out of the jury's hearing [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.47].

☐ Motion for nonsuit [Code Civ. Proc. § 581c(a)].

NOTE:
Normally, the motion and any argument on it should be made out of the hearing of the jury to avoid a mistrial if the motion or the argument would prejudice the jury. This may be required, if not by local court rule, by the trial judge.

☐ Motion for judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8; for discussion, see Ch. 389, Nonsuit and Motions for Judgment].

☐ Motion for mistrial [see discussion in Part II, Subpart J, § 551.150 et seq.].

NOTE:
Unless otherwise required by local court rule or by the trial judge, a motion for mistrial may be made orally in open court at the time the misconduct or irregularity occurs, but any argument on the motion should be out of the jury's hearing [see California Judges Benchbook--Civil Trials (CJER 1981), Ch. 10, Mistrials, §§ 10.19, 10.20]. Some courts, however, require that both the motion and the argument be out of the jury's hearing [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 8.47; see also, e.g., Tobler v. Chapman (1973) 31 Cal. App. 3d 568, 573, 107 Cal. Rptr. 614 (action in Mendocino County Superior Court)].

☐ Motion to amend pleading to conform to proof [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 469, 473 (first paragraph), 576; and Ch. 21, Amended and Supplemental Pleadings].

☐ Motion for directed verdict [see Frisk v. Merrihew (1974) 42 Cal. App. 3d 319, 325, 116 Cal. Rptr. 781 ; and Ch. 326A, Jury Verdicts].

NOTE:
The motion may be oral, but both the motion and any argument on the motion should normally be out of the jury's hearing; this is expressly required by some courts [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rules 8.47].

[2] Motions Relating to Witnesses

NOTE:
Motions to strike testimony or to exclude evidence are listed in § 551.222[2] .

☐ Motion to exclude witnesses from courtroom [see Evid. Code § 777(a)].

NOTE:
The motion may be made by either party and would normally be made at the before-trial chambers conference with the judge [see discussion in § 551.41[3]].

☐ Motion to appoint expert to investigate, report, and testify [see Evid. Code § 730].

NOTE:
An order appointing an expert may be made on the court's own motion or the motion of any party [Evid. Code § 730; for further discussion, see § 551.113[5]].

☐ Motion that court call witness [see Evid. Code § 775].

NOTE:
The court may call witnesses and interrogate them on its own motion or the motion of any party [Evid. Code § 775; see discussion in § 551.121[4]].

☐ Motion or request to produce writing used by witness to refresh recollection [see Evid. Code § 771(a); see also discussion in § 551.121[10]].

☐ Motion to reexamine once examined witness on same matter [see Evid. Code § 774].

NOTE:
Leave may be granted or withheld in the court's discretion [Evid. Code § 774].

☐ Motion to recall excused witness [see Evid. Code § 778].

NOTE:
Leave may be granted or withheld in the court's discretion [Evid. Code § 778].

[3] Miscellaneous Motions

☐ Motion to view property, place, or other thing [see Code Civ. Proc. § 651(a); see also discussion in § 551.64].

NOTE:
The motion is normally made at the before-trial chambers conference with the judge or thereafter as soon as the motion is contemplated [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rules 8.93; see also § 551.41[3]].

☐ Motion to exclude privileged information [see Evid. Code § 916(a)].

NOTE:
The presiding officer is required to exclude the information on his or her own motion or the motion of a party [Evid. Code § 916(a); see Evid. Code § 905 ("presiding officer" is that person authorized to rule on claim of privilege in proceeding in which claim is made)]. However, the information must not be excluded if the presiding officer is otherwise instructed by a person authorized to permit disclosure or the proponent of the evidence establishes that there is no person in existence authorized to claim the privilege [Evid. Code § 916(b)]. For a discussion of privileges, see Ch. 191, Discovery: Privileges and Other Discovery Limitations .

☐ Motion in paternity case for blood test [see Fam. Code § 7551]. For a form of notice of motion, supporting declaration, and order granting the motion, see Ch. 412, Paternity .

☐ Noticed motion for judgment when jury discharged without verdict [see Code Civ. Proc. § 630]. For discussion, a procedural guide, and requirements of noticed motions generally, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders .

NOTE:

The order may be made by the court on its own motion or on the motion of a party when notice is given within 10 days after discharge of the jury. The failure of the court to order judgment within 30 days, subject to Code Civ. Proc. § 12a (relating to holidays), after the jury was discharged constitutes a denial of the motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 630].

Chapter 551 TRIAL
PART IV. PROCEDURAL CHECKLISTS

48-551 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 551.224

§ 551.224 Order of Trial Proceedings

NOTE:

This checklist discusses the general order of the trial. The trial proceeds in the order set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 607 unless the court for special reasons otherwise directs [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 607, 631.7]. The order of trial in an eminent domain proceeding, however, is varied by statute [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1260.210(a) (defendant presents his or her evidence on the issue of compensation first, then commences and concludes the argument)].

Photographing, recording, and broadcasting in the courtroom are governed by Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 1.150, 2.952, 2.954.

[1] Opening Statements

NOTE:

Opening statements are expressly authorized by statute [Code Civ. Proc. § 607(1), (2) (jury trials), 631.7 (nonjury trials)]. But these statements are not evidence, and in a jury trial the court will so instruct the jury.

The purpose of the opening statement is to outline the facts of the case and the legal theories of the parties. Counsel should, in advance of trial, ascertain any local court rule or policy, department policy, or policy of the trial judge relating to the manner of delivering the opening statement. For example, whether counsel is expected to remain seated at the counsel table or stand, and whether counsel may move about. Practice among the courts and judges of the same court varies widely.

☐ Plaintiff's statement [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 607(1), 631.7].

☐ The facts stated must be sufficiently complete to establish a cause of action. If they are not, defendant may, in either a jury or nonjury trial, on completion of the statement move for a judgment of nonsuit [see Code Civ. Proc. § 581c(a); Addison v. Susanville Lumber, Inc. (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 394, 398, 120 Cal. Rptr. 737 ; discussion in § 551.223[1]]. For an outline of matters to be covered in plaintiff's opening statement, see California Civil Procedure During Trial (Cal CEB), Vol. 1 (1982), Ch. 8, Opening Statement, §§ 8.19-8.31.

☐ Defendant's statement.

☐ After the plaintiff has completed his or her opening statement, make opening statement outlining the defense if desired, or wait until plaintiff has presented his or her evidence [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 607(2), 631.7]. For an outline of matters to be covered in defendant's opening statement, see California Civil Procedure During Trial (Cal CEB), Vol. 1 (1982), Ch. 8, Opening Statement, §§ 8.20-8.31.

[2] Proposed Jury Instructions Based on Pleadings

☐ Before the first witness is sworn in a jury trial, deliver to the judge presiding at the trial and serve on opposing counsel all proposed instructions to the jury covering the law as disclosed by the pleadings [see Code Civ. Proc. § 607a; § 551.220[2]].

[3] Production of Evidence

NOTE:
For a discussion of the admissibility of evidence, see Part II, Subpart E, § 551.60 et seq. For a discussion of the qualification of witnesses, the appointment of interpreters, and the order of examination, see § 551.110 et seq. [see also California Civil Procedure During Trial (Cal CEB 1982), Vol. 1, Ch. 9, Examining Witnesses].

☐ Plaintiff's case.

☐ After the opening statement or statements, if any, produce evidence to establish plaintiff's case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 607(3), 631.7].

NOTE:
In a jury trial, if plaintiff's evidence fails to establish plaintiff's right to recover, defendant may move for a judgment of nonsuit [see Code Civ. Proc. § 581c(a); § 551.223[1]]. In a nonjury trial, defendant may, after plaintiff has completed his or her evidence, move for judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8(a); § 551.223[1]].

☐ Defendant's case.

☐ After plaintiff has produced his or her evidence, defendant may make an opening statement if he or she did not do so after plaintiff's opening statement [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 607(5), 631.7].

☐ If several defendants having separate defenses appear by different counsel, the court must determine their relative order in presenting evidence [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 607(8), 631.7]. This is normally determined at the before chambers conference, if any [see discussion in § 551.41[3]].

NOTE:

In a nonjury trial, after defendant has completed his or her evidence, plaintiff may move for judgment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 631.8(a); and § 551.223[1]].

[4] Rebutting Evidence [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 607(6), 631.7]

☐ After the parties have produced their evidence, they may then respectively offer rebutting evidence only, unless the court, for good reason, in furtherance of justice, permits them to offer evidence on their original case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 607(6), 631.7].

[5] Proposed Jury Instructions Based on Evidence [see Code Civ. Proc. § 607a]

☐ Before the commencement of the argument in a jury trial, counsel may deliver to the judge and serve on opposing counsel proposed jury instructions on questions of law developed by the evidence and not disclosed by the pleadings [see Code Civ. Proc. § 607a; see also Finn v. G. D. Searle & Co. (1984) 35 Cal. 3d 691, 701, 200 Cal. Rptr. 870, 677 P.2d 1147] . These instructions are in addition to those previously delivered to the judge and served on opposing counsel before the first witness was sworn [Code Civ. Proc. § 607a; see [2], above].

☐ After submission of all proposed jury instructions (and verdict and findings forms), the trial judge may hold a chambers conference with counsel outside the presence of the jurors to discuss the instructions. This may be expressly required by local court rule or policy [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rules 8.24].

[6] Argument

☐ Time for and content of argument.

☐ Be prepared to argue the case on conclusion of the presentation of evidence or at such time thereafter as the court may specify [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 607(7), 631.7; § 551.140 et seq.].

☐ Use of graphic devices.

☐ Ascertain before argument any rule, policy, or practice of the court in which the case is tried relating to the use of diagrams or graphic devices in argument, such as any requirement that the device be shown to adversaries in advance [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rules 8.74].

☐ Plaintiff's argument.

☐ The plaintiff must commence and may conclude the argument [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 607(7), 631.7].

☐ Defendant's argument.

☐ After plaintiff has completed his or her opening argument, defendant may present his or her argument [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 607(7), 631.7]. If several defendants having separate defenses appear by different counsel, the court must determine their relative order in presenting their arguments [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 607(8), 631.7].

[7] Instructing Jury

☐ In a jury trial, the court may, after the completion of argument, charge the jury [Code Civ. Proc. § 607(9); see also, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct., Rules, Rule 8.51 (when instructions to be read to jury)].

The motion will be based on this notice of motion, on the _____ [affidavit(s) or declaration(s)] of _____ [name(s)] and the memorandum of points and authorities served and filed herewith, on the records and file herein, and on such evidence as may be presented at the hearing of the motion.

[2] Use of Form

The form of notice of motion in [1], above, is for use by a party prior to trial to move the court for an order appointing an expert witness to investigate, render a report, and testify at the trial. The motion may, however, be made at any time before or during the trial [see [4], below]; however, a motion during trial is normally made orally. The motion may also be made at the before-trial conference [see discussion in Part II, Subpart C].

[3] Accompanying Papers

A memorandum must be served and filed with this notice of motion [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005, 1010; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a)]. For general discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

[4] Statutory Authority

When it appears to the court, at any time before or during the trial of an action, that expert evidence is or may be required by the court or by any party to the action, the court on its own motion or on motion of any party may appoint one or more experts to investigate, to render a report as may be ordered by the court, and to testify as an expert at the trial of the action relative to the fact or matter as to which the expert evidence is or may be required [Evid. Code § 730].

A court-appointed expert must hold the appropriate license in order to perform any act for which a license is required [see Evid. Code § 730].

I, _____[name], declare:

1. I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., an attorney at law duly admitted to practice before all the courts of the State of California and the attorney of record herein for _____ (moving party) or other statement as appropriate].

[SET FORTH, in successively numbered paragraphs, facts within declarant's personal knowledge establishing the ground(s) of the motion, e.g.:]

2. As shown by the complaint herein, this is an action by an insured to recover disability benefits under the personal disability provisions of policies issued by the defendant insurer.

3. Under the terms of the policy, plaintiff is entitled to monthly benefits for a maximum of five years if the disability results from a sickness, but if it results from an accident then the benefits may be payable for the remainder of plaintiff's life.

4. The basis of plaintiff's claim is that plaintiff has been totally disabled by a psychosis developed as the result of injuries sustained in an automobile accident which occurred on _____ [date].

5. Defendant's position is that plaintiff has not been permanently disabled, or, in the alternative, if the plaintiff did develop a disabling psychosis it is not the result of the accident, but rather of sickness, thereby limiting the benefits payable to five years.

6. To date, plaintiff has been examined by a total of 13 doctors, including psychiatrists, each of whom has rendered a report. Eight of these made their examinations at plaintiff's request and five were selected by defendant.

7. The examining doctors did not agree. Some concluded that the plaintiff is malingering; others reported that plaintiff has a disabling psychosis which may or may not have resulted from the accident.

8. An independent examination and report by an impartial medical and psychiatric expert appointed by the court may assist the parties in reaching a pretrial settlement of this case and, if it does not, the expert's testimony will at least assist the trier of facts in reaching a just decision.

Attorney for _____ [moving party]

[2] Use of Form

The form of notice of motion in [1], above, is for use to move for an order setting aside the submission of a case and reopening it for the reception of additional evidence. A motion to reopen a case prior to its submission would normally be made orally in open court.

A motion to reopen a case may inferentially be authorized by Code Civ. Proc. § 607(6) providing that after the parties have presented their evidence, they may offer rebutting evidence only unless the court, for good cause and in furtherance of justice, permits them to offer evidence on their original case, and by Evid. Code § 320, providing that except as otherwise provided by law, the court in its discretion shall regulate the order of proof.

For a discussion of the order of proof and the order of the proceedings, see Part II, Subpart D.

[3] Accompanying Papers

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a) generally requires a notice of motion to be accompanied by a supporting memorandum. It is not clear, however, whether this motion is a law and motion matter as defined in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1100, 3.1103 to which Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a) would apply. Nevertheless, good practice would dictate that whenever a court has discretion to deny a motion, points and authorities be served and filed with the notice of motion. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

[4] Setting Aside Submission and Reopening

When a matter is tried to a court, the trial judge has broad discretion to reopen the matter after an oral ruling but before final judgment is entered, even over the objection of litigants, if adequate notice is given to parties [Coit Drapery Cleaners, Inc. v. Sequoia Ins. Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1595, 1610-1612, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 692 ; see also Hughes Tool Co. v. Max Hinrichs Seed Co. (1980) 112 Cal. App. 3d 194, 201, 169 Cal. Rptr. 160 (decision to allow party to reopen trial after case has been submitted for decision is within discretion of trial court); Baker v. City of Palo Alto (1961) 190 Cal. App. 2d 744, 755, 12 Cal. Rptr. 425 (reopening case by court on its own motion on theory conceived by court is not an abuse of discretion); Johnston v. Johnson (1954) 127 Cal. App. 2d 464, 471, 274 P.2d 1 (reopening of case for further evidence is entirely within discretion of trial court; reopening at any time before final decision is favored if reopening will tend to promote justice by bringing all facts before court); Foster v. Keating (1953) 120 Cal. App. 2d 435, 448-452, 261 P.2d 529 (denial of motion to reopen case when introduction of relevant evidence was prevented by ruling of trial court was reversible error)].

The illustrative fact situation assumes that the motion to reopen was made on the grounds of newly discovered evidence that could not, in the exercise of due diligence, have been discovered before. The ground of opposition is that the evidence was not newly discovered, but was known and available to the moving party at the time of trial.

[2] Use of Form

The forms in [1], above, are illustrative reproductions of Judicial Council Form MC-500 and Judicial Council Form MC-510, adopted by the Judicial Council for mandatory use [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.31(2); Cal. Rules of Ct., This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

Judicial Council Form MC-500 is for use by a media agency to request an order permitting photographing, recording, or broadcasting of court proceeding by media using television, radio, photographic, or recording equipment [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.150(e); see also Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.150(b) (defining "media coverage," "media," and "media agency")]. This includes media coverage in the courtroom in issue but also in the courthouse and its entrances and exits [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.150(b)(3)]. The request must be signed by a person in a supervisory position in the media agency.

Judicial Council Form MC-510 is for use as a proposed order granting the request. It must be completed by the media agency and attached to the request [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.150(e)(1)].

The request may be made in either a civil or criminal trial, and must be filed at least five court days before the portion of the proceeding to be covered unless good cause is shown. It is submitted to the judge assigned to the case, or, if a judge has not yet been assigned, to the judge supervising the calendar department. The court clerk is required promptly to inform the parties of the request [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 1.150(e)(1)].

[2] Use of Form

This form of notice of motion and motion is for use by a party seeking an order sealing records under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.550 and 2.551. Court records that are not confidential by law are deemed open to the public and may not be sealed from public access by stipulation of the parties, but only by a court order [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.550(a), (c), 2.551(a)]. A party seeking an order sealing records must do so by noticed motion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(b)(1)].

The motion must be accompanied by a supporting memorandum and by a declaration containing facts sufficient to justify the sealing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.551(b)(1)]. If the records sought to sealed are not already filed with the court, they must be lodged with the court pursuant to Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.551(d), absent a showing of good cause for not lodging the records [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.551(b)(2)]. If necessary to prevent disclosure, the motion and accompanying papers are to be filed in a redacted version, with the complete version lodged conditionally under seal [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.551(b)(2) (requirement also applicable to opposing papers)].

For further discussion of the procedures for sealing records, including the records to which the procedures apply, the procedures for lodging materials conditionally under seal, and the facts that must be established to support the issuance of an order sealing records, see § 551.173.

THE ENCLOSED RECORD[S] IS/ARE LODGED WITH THE COURT CONDITIONALLY UNDER SEAL AND IS/ARE SUBJECT TO A MOTION FOR AN ORDER DIRECTING THAT THE ENCLOSED RECORD[S] BE FILED UNDER SEAL

[2] Use of Form

This form of cover sheet is for use by a party when lodging records with the court in connection with a motion that the records be filed under seal. Such records are to be enclosed in an envelope or other container that is labeled "CONDITIONALLY UNDER SEAL" [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(d)(2)]. This cover sheet, in turn, is to be affixed to the envelope or container [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(d)(3)].

The cover sheet must contain all the information required on a caption page under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(d)(3)(A)]. Thus, this form set outs, in the required format, the information required to be placed on the first page of all papers that are not pleadings, that is, attorney information, title of the court and the case, case number, nature of the paper, and, if applicable, the name of the referee before whom the case is pending when one has been appointed under Code Civ. Proc. § 638 or 639 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111(1)-(8)].

This form also states, as required under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(d)(3)(B), that the records enclosed in the envelope or container are subject to a motion to file the records under seal.

For further discussion of the procedures for lodging records under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(d), see § 551.173[8].

The motion of _____ [identify party, e.g., defendant] _____[name] for an order sealing records under California Rules of Court, Rule 2.550 et seq., came on regularly for hearing by the court on _____ [date]. Plaintiff appeared by counsel _____[name]; defendant appeared by counsel _____[name].

The Court, having considered the declaration of _____[name] and other documents in support of and in opposition to the motion, having heard the arguments of counsel, and being fully advised in the matter, finds as follows:

1. There exists an overriding interest that overcomes the right of public access to the records specified below, in that _____[specify overriding interest].

2. This overriding interest support sealing the records specified below.

3. A substantial probability exists that this overriding interest will be prejudiced if the records specified below are not sealed, in that _____[specify overriding interest].

4. The records specified below have been tailored to limit narrowly the overall records to be sealed.

5. No less restrictive means exist to achieve the overriding interest than to seal the records specified below.

IT IS, THEREFORE, ORDERED that the motion be, and hereby is, granted and that the following records be _____ [sealed or filed underseal]: _____[specify records and/or portions of records to be sealed; if the specified records are lodged with the court, specify also whether, in addition to the lodged, the order itself, the register of actions, any other court records, or any other records relating to the case are also to be sealed].

[IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that, other than the court, only the following person[s] is/are authorized to inspect the records sealed by this order: _____ (names of person(s) other than court authorized to inspect sealed records)].
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Judge of the _____ Court

[2] Use of Form

This form of order is for use in granting a motion to seal records under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.550 and 2.551.

The form of order specifically sets out the findings necessary to support the order, as required under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550(e)(1)(A) [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.550(d) (findings required to seal records)]. By specifying the sealing of particular records only, it also directs the sealing of only those records, or portions or records, that contain material that needs to be placed under seal, as required under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.550(e)(1)(B). The order also includes optional language which must be included when any person or persons other than the court are to be authorized to inspect the records sealed by the order [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(e)(3)].

When an order seals records lodged with the court, it should include directions that the lodged records be filed under seal [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.551(d)(4) (lodged records not filed unless court orders them filed)], and whether materials other than the lodged records are also to be sealed, such as the order itself, the register of actions, or any other court records or records relating to the case [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.551(e)(2)].

This form may be modified to include the appointment of a referee and directions allocating the referee's fees, when this is necessary to handle voluminous records to be placed under seal [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.550(e)(2); for further discussion and forms relating to the appointment of referees and the allocation of fees under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 639 and 645.1, see Ch. 38, Reference].

For further discussion of orders in motion proceedings to seal otherwise public trial court records, see § 551.173[9].

Chapter 552 TRIAL COURT DELAY REDUCTION
PART I. SCOPE

48-552 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 552.03

§ 552.03 Governing Law

The Trial Court Delay Reduction Act (Gov. Code § 68600 et seq.) requires all superior and municipal courts in California to eliminate delay in the progress and ultimate resolution of litigation [Gov. Code §§ 68605.5, 68607, 68620(a)].

Exemplary delay reduction programs adopted by local courts are often referred to as "fast track," and cases assigned to the program are referred to as "fast-track cases" [see Moyal v. Lanphear (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 491, 498, 256 Cal. Rptr. 296] .

Also, the Judicial Council has adopted standards of timely disposition of actions, guided by the principle that from commencement to resolution, litigation should require only that time reasonably necessary for pleadings, discovery, preparation, and court events; any additional time is delay and should be eliminated [Cal. Rules of Ct., Stds. of Jud. Admin., Stds. 2.1, 2.2].

48-552 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 552.10

§ 552.10 Matters Excluded From Trial Court Delay Reduction Programs

Trial court delay reduction programs do not apply to the following:

- Small claims [Gov. Code § 68620(b)].
- Unlawful detainer [Gov. Code § 68620(b)].
- Juvenile cases [Gov. Code § 68608(a)].
- Probate cases [Gov. Code § 68608(a)].
- Domestic relations cases [Gov. Code § 68608(a)].

A court's local rules may exclude from the court's delay reduction program cases that are assigned, based on subject matter, to a judge or judges for all purposes [Gov. Code § 68608(a)].

Local rules may identify additional cases or stages of cases that are not covered by that court's Trial Court Delay Reduction program. For example, Los Angeles excepts, among other things, small claims matters, name change petitions, eminent domain pretrial proceedings, pretrial proceedings in asbestos exposure cases, cases stayed by a bankruptcy, writs of mandate, uninsured motorist cases, and other cases as may be designated by the Presiding Judge or Supervising Judge of a district [see Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 7.2(b)].

§ 552.11 Local Trial Court Delay Reduction Rules

Local court rules implementing the Trial Court Delay Reduction Act govern much of the procedure, particularly impacting on time requirements [see Gov. Code §§ 68607, 68612, 68616].

The local rules are restricted by Gov. Code § 68616, which provides some minimum time standards. Local rules cannot impose shorter time limits than authorized by Section 68616. These limits are discussed under § 552.13.

Chapter 552 TRIAL COURT DELAY REDUCTION
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

48-552 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 552.12

§ 552.12 Differential Case Management Rules

Each court is required to adopt differential case management rules [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.710]. These rules apply to general civil cases, as defined [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.712 (exceptions include probate, family law, and civil petitions)].

Civil cases assigned the case management rules in Ch. 3, Div 7, Tit. 3 of the Cal. Rules of Ct. for review under should be managed so as to achieve the following goals [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.714(b)]:

- Unlimited civil cases. The goal of each trial court should be to manage unlimited civil cases from filing so that: 75% are disposed of within 12 months; 85% percent are disposed of within 18 months; and 100% are disposed of within 24 months.

- Limited civil cases. The goal of each trial court should be to manage limited civil cases from filing so that: 90% are disposed of within 12 months; 98% are disposed of within 18 months; and 100% percent are disposed of within 24 months.

- Individualized case management. The goals above are guidelines for the court's disposition of all unlimited and limited civil cases filed in that court. In managing individual civil cases, the court must consider each case on its merits. To enable the fair and efficient resolution of civil cases, each case should be set for trial as soon as appropriate for that individual case consistent with Rule 3.729.

The court must evaluate each case on its own merits as provided in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.715, under procedures adopted by local court rules. After evaluation, the court must: (1) assign the case to the case management program for review under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.720 et seq. for disposition under the case disposition time goals in Rule 3.714(b); (2) or exempt the case as an exceptional case under Rule 3.714(c) from the case disposition time goals and monitor it with the goal of disposing of it within three years; or (3) assign the case under Rule 3.714(d) to the a local case management plan for disposition within six to nine months after filing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.714(a); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.715 (case evaluation factors)].

In Los Angeles Superior Court, this evaluation is done at the first status conference or at an earlier time deemed appropriate by the court [Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 7.6(c)(1)].

In San Francisco Superior Court, all cases are assigned to Plan 1 on filing and remain in Plan 1 unless a showing of good cause for reassignment is timely made [San Francisco Uniform Trial Ct. Rules, Rule 3.1]. In Sacramento Superior Court, cases are also deemed Class I cases unless otherwise requested in a Designation Statement, which if the parties are not in agreement, or if the court does not agree, may result in a hearing on the question of designation [Sacramento Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 11.06].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

48-552 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 552.13

§ 552.13 Common Time Limits Under Trial Court Delay Reduction Rules

[1] Service of Pleadings

[a] Complaint

Local trial court delay reduction rules cannot require service of a complaint to be made within less than 60 days after filing. Rules may, however, provide for granting exceptions for longer periods of time as authorized by local rule [Gov. Code § 68616(a)]. Local court rules most commonly track this provision, for example:

- San Diego Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Div. II, Rule 2.1.5 (also requiring filing of Certificate of Progress if service has not been made and providing an exception for service by publication).

- San Francisco Uniform Trial Ct. Rules, Rule 3.3.

[b] Service of Responsive Pleadings

Local trial court delay reduction rules cannot require service of responsive pleadings to be made within less than 30 days after filing. Rules may, however, provide for granting exceptions for longer periods of time as authorized by local rule [Gov. Code § 68616(b)]. Consistent with this limitation, local rules cannot shorten the time to plead after service of summons under Code Civ. Proc. § 412.20 (30 days) [Gov. Code § 68616(c)].

Local court rules most commonly track this provision. See, for example, the following:

- San Diego Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Div. II, Rule 2.1.6 (also requiring filing of Certificate of Inability to Respond if not able to respond).

- Sacramento Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 11.04(A) (within time required by law or stipulation, but in no event more than 75 days after filing of action).

[2] Service of Notices and Other Papers

Local trial court delay reduction rules cannot shorten the time for service of notices or other papers under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005 and 1013 [Gov. Code § 68616(c); for discussion of these provisions, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders , and Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers , respectively].

[3] Stipulated Continuance

Local trial court delay reduction rules must allow the parties, within 30 days of service of the responsive pleadings, to stipulate to a single continuance not to exceed 30 days [Gov. Code § 68616(d)].

Beyond this continuance, continuances are strongly disfavored in trial court delay reduction [see Gov. Code § 68607(g)].

Los Angeles encourages counsel to grant first requests for extensions of time to respond to litigation deadlines as a matter of courtesy unless time is of the essence. Additional requests, however, should be dealt with by balancing the need for expedition against deference one should ordinarily give to an opponent's schedule, the reasonableness of the length of the requested continuance, the opponent's willingness to grant reciprocal extensions, the time actually needed for the task, and the likelihood of the court granting the extension if asked to do so [Los Angeles Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 7.12(a)].

[4] First Status Conference

Local trial court delay reduction rules cannot require a status conference, or similar event other than a challenge to the court's jurisdiction, to be conducted within less than 30 days after service of the first responsive pleadings or if there is a 30-day stipulated continuance under Gov. Code § 68616(d), within less than 30 days of the expiration of the continuance [Gov. Code § 68616(e)].

Local rules differ a great deal on when the first status conference is to be held. See, for example, the following:

- Los Angeles Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 7.9(a) (not more that 180 days after the complaint is filed, subject to Gov. Code § 68616(d), (e) and (g) (see [3], above; [6], below)).

- San Diego Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Div. II, Rule 2.1.9(A) (to be set approximately 150 days after filing of complaint).

- San Francisco Uniform Trial Ct. Rules, Rule 3.4(A) (clerk designates time on face of complaint when complaint is filed; plaintiff is responsible for notifying all defendants of the date).

[5] Discovery

The Civil Discovery Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 2016.010 et seq.] governs discovery in cases subject to trial court delay programs, except in arbitration proceedings. Local rules are not allowed to shorten time periods set forth in the Discovery Act [Gov. Code § 68616(f)]. Nonetheless, the local court rules may provide that the court will regulate all discovery, consistent with these laws, and at status conferences may inquire of the parties as to the nature and extent of discovery remaining [Los Angeles Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 7.6(d)].

For discussion of discovery, see Ch. 190-200: Discovery .

[6] Referral to Arbitration or Mediation

No case may be referred to arbitration prior to 210 days after the filing of the complaint, exclusive of the stipulated period provided for in Gov. Code § 68616(d) [Gov. Code § 68616(g); see [3], above]. For discussion of arbitration, see Ch. 36, Judicial Arbitration .

No trial court delay reduction rule may contravene Code Civ. Proc. §§ 638 and 639, relating to reference by stipulation and grounds for ordering reference of a case, respectively [Gov. Code § 68616(g); for discussion of references, see Ch. 487, Reference].

[7] Dismissal of Fictitious Defendants

Local trial court delay reduction rules cannot provide for dismissal or severance of fictitious (Doe) defendants prior to the conclusion of the introduction of evidence at trial, except on the stipulation or motion of the parties [Gov. Code § 68616(h)]. In Los Angeles County Superior Court, the court, at the final status conference before trial, will consider severing for trial any unserved or recently served fictitiously named parties [Los Angeles Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 7.9(h)].

[8] Peremptory Disqualification of Judge

Notwithstanding Code Civ. Proc. § 170.6, in direct calendar courts, challenges pursuant to that section must be exercised within 15 days of the party's first appearance. Master calendar courts must be governed solely by Section 170.6 [Gov. Code § 68616(i)].

A case is not to be removed from a delay reduction program because a Section 170.6 challenge has been filed [Gov. Code § 68607.5].

Local rule may discourage "judge shopping" by providing that if a case is dismissed and subsequently the same or essentially the same claims are alleged in another action, the later-filed actions will be, absent good cause, assigned to the same judge to whom the first-filed case had been assigned [Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 7.3(d)].

[9] Time to Enter Default

Trial court delay reduction rules commonly require plaintiffs to request the clerk to enter default promptly after the defendant fails to timely respond. For example, see the following:

- San Diego Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Div. II, Rules 2.1.7, 2.1.8 (45 days after Certificate of Service required by rule is filed unless Certificate of Inability to Default is filed; and requiring default judgment to be taken within 60 days of entry of default, with exceptions).

[10] Additional Forms

Trial Court Delay Reduction rules commonly require local forms to be used in the course of the proceeding. For example, see the following:

- In Sacramento County Superior Court, the clerk of the court will provide a Program Case Notice, which the plaintiff must serve with the summons and complaint [Sacramento Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Rule 11.01(C)].

- In San Diego Superior Court, the clerk will attach a Notice of Case Assignment to the complaint when it is filed, which the plaintiff must serve with the complaint [San Diego Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Div. II, Rule 2.1.3]. Thereafter, a number of forms are required, including a Certificate of Service, or alternatively a Certificate of Progress, and a Certificate of Inability to Respond [San Diego Co. Super. Ct. Rules, Div. II, Rules 2.1.5, 2.1.6, 2.1.7].

§ 552.14 Effect of Statutory Trial Preferences

The statutory trial preference in Code Civ. Proc. § 36(a), entitling a civil case to preference on the motion of any interested party to the action who has reached the age of 70 years and meets certain other requirements (see generally Ch. 425, Pretrial Proceedings), is fully applicable in jurisdictions with a fast-track program [see Miller v. Superior Court (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 1200, 1211-1212, 270 Cal. Rptr. 766] . If a case not assigned to a fast-track program is entitled to trial preference under Code Civ. Proc. § 36(a), a trial court may not subordinate the time of trial of the case to that of nonpreference civil cases assigned to the delay reduction program [Miller v. Superior Court (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 1200, 1208, 270 Cal. Rptr. 766] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

48-552 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 552.15

§ 552.15 Trial Court's Discretionary Power to Manage Cases

[1] Exercise of Discretion

[a] Exercise of Discretion in General

In administering a fast-track program, a trial court must exercise its discretion at each stage of a lawsuit in the process of bringing a case to trial, or alternatively, imposing sanctions such as dismissal. Since trial management is a discretionary area, the proper standard of review for a challenge to trial management orders is abuse of discretion [Moyal v. Lanphear (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 491, 498, 256 Cal. Rptr. 296] . In exercising its discretion, the trial court does not have absolute and unlimited power; it must act with an impartial discretion guided and controlled in its exercise by fixed principles. A reviewing court will not disturb this exercise of discretion unless it appears that the trial court's order was a clear abuse or a miscarriage of justice. Discretion is abused whenever the trial court exceeds the bounds of reason, all of the circumstances before it being considered [Moyal v. Lanphear (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 491, 498, 256 Cal. Rptr. 296] .

[b] Dismissal Without Prejudice of Case Subject to Bankruptcy Stay

Dismissal of a case without prejudice when some of the defendants are subject to a bankruptcy stay is not an appropriate method to dispense with the need for periodic court monitoring of the case under trial court delay reduction rules. This is true even if the court expressly states that the dismissal will be set aside if the bankruptcy stay is lifted or if the plaintiff elects to proceed against nonbankrupt defendants. The nonbankruptcy trial court must stay the action, not dismiss it [Traweek v. Finley, Kumble, etc., Myerson & Casey (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 1128, 1134-1136, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 185] .

[2] Sanctions

A trial court may enforce fast-track program requirements on the basis of the following statutory or other authority:

- Code Civ. Proc. § 575.1 (authority of court to enact rules for pretrial case management);

- Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2 (authority to impose sanctions on failure of counsel or client to comply with local rules regulating supervision and management of actions); see Cooks v. Superior Court (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 723, 727, 274 Cal. Rptr. 113 (restricting use of denial of jury trial in fast-track case is sanction under Code Civ. Proc. § 575.2(b));

- Code Civ. Proc. § 177.5 (authority to impose reasonable monetary sanctions, payable to the county, for any violation of lawful order);

- Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.30 (authority to impose sanctions for failure to comply with the California Rules of Court, local rules, and court orders); and

- Gov. Code § 68608(b) (providing that trial courts in enforcing fast-track requirements have all the powers to impose sanctions authorized by law, including dismissal) [see Intel Corp. v. USAIR, Inc. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 1559, 1566, 279 Cal. Rptr. 569 (dismissal of fast-track case under former Gov. Code § 68609(d) (now see Gov. Code § 68608(b)) upheld in light of previous lack of compliance in case and ineffectiveness of previous sanctions)].

These provisions provide a comprehensive statewide scheme for regulating fast-track matters. Local court rules providing for imposition of sanctions in specific situations, for example, for failure to file a Joint At-Issue Memorandum, supplement the above statewide scheme [Moyal v. Lanphear (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 491, 499-500, 256 Cal. Rptr. 296 ; see also Laborers' Internat. Union of North America v. El Dorado Landscape Co. (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 993, 999, 1004, 1008-1009, 256 Cal. Rptr. 632] . In addition, the discovery statutes in the Code of Civil Procedure authorizing sanctions for discovery misconduct apply with full force in fast-track matters [see Laguna Auto Body v. Farmers Ins. Exchange (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 481, 490, 282 Cal. Rptr. 530 (upholding dismissal in fast-track case based on party's failure to obey court's discovery order); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 2023 (Code Civ. Proc. § 2023.010 et seq. operative July 1, 2005) (sanctions for misuse of discovery process)].

For discussion of sanctions, see Ch. 510, Sanctions . For further discussion of the imposition of sanctions during pretrial proceedings, see Ch. 425, Pretrial Proceedings .

PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

48-552 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 552.31

§ 552.31 Decisions

CAUTION:
The cases listed below that were decided before 1992 construed the Trial Court Delay Reduction of 1986 (former Gov. Code §§ 68600-68619), before it was superseded on January 1, 1991, by the Trial Court Delay Reduction Act (Gov. Code § 68600 et seq.). The legal points for which the cases listed below are cited appear to remain valid under the new Act, which contains many of the provisions of the 1986 Act. Caution should be exercised in using those cases, however, in that certain provisions in the 1986 Act have been either renumbered or deleted.

[1] Constitutionality

As Legislature has clearly laid down its broad policy and plan in statutes governing delay reduction and authorized Judicial Council and trial courts to experiment and work out procedures to carry out that plan and set limits on their authority, this delegation by Legislature to courts and Judicial Council as proper and as not violating constitutional separation of powers. Laborers' Internat. Union of North America v. El Dorado Landscape Co. (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 993, 999, 1001-1002, 256 Cal. Rptr. 632

[2] Due Process

Although judicially declared standards for trial court's exercise of discretion in enforcing fast-track time limits adopted under Trial Court Delay Reduction Act as necessarily evolving along with changes in statutory law in trial court delay reduction field, important objectives of fast-track system as able and required to be achieved in manner consistent with traditional dueprocess standards. Moyal v. Lanphear (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 491, 494, 256 Cal. Rptr. 296

Assignment of cases into pilot project under Trial Court Delay Reduction Act and adoption of rules to govern that project as acts that are more legislative than adjudicatory in nature and as exempt from procedural due process requirements (reasonable notice and opportunity to be heard). Lawrence v. Superior Court (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 611, 615, 618-619, 253 Cal. Rptr 748

[3] Rules of Court

Counsel as bearing professional responsibility to be aware of local fast track rules. Moyal v. Lanphear (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 491, 499, 256 Cal. Rptr. 296 ; Beverly Union Co. v. Superior Court (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 40, 43, 253 Cal. Rptr. 359

[4] Discretion of Trial Court

Gov. Code § 68608(b) merely gives the trial court the power to sanction, including the power of dismissal, for failure to abide by the Delay Reduction Act rules. It does not mandate such dismissals. Where the sole responsibility for failure to comply with the rules is upon counsel, rather than upon the party, the trial court may not dismiss the action as a sanction, either as a matter of law or based upon public policy. Drum v. Superior Court (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 845, 853, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 279 , citing Garcia v. McCutchen (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 469, 471, 475-476, 478-480, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 319, 940 P.2d 906

In administering fast-track system, trial court as required to exercise its discretion at each stage of lawsuit in process of bringing case to trial, or, alternatively, to impose sanctions such as dismissal; in exercising its discretion, court as not having absolute and unlimited power, but as required to act with an impartial discretion guided and controlled in its exercise by fixed legal principles. Moyal v. Lanphear (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 491, 498, 256 Cal. Rptr. 296

[5] Standard of Appellate Review

Appellate standards for review of trial court discretion in area of trial court delay reduction rules as necessarily gradually evolving to adapt to reality of statewide pilot projects and innovations, and trial courts as required to be accorded maximum flexibility in calendar management to extent consistent with due process requirements. Moyal v. Lanphear (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 491, 499, 256 Cal. Rptr. 296

Because trial management is discretionary area, proper standard of review for challenge to trial management orders as being abuse of discretion; discretion as abused whenever trial court exceeds bounds of reason, all circumstances before it being considered. Moyal v. Lanphear (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 491, 498, 256 Cal. Rptr. 296

Reviewing court as not disturbing trial court's exercise of discretion unless it appears its order was clear abuse or miscarriage of justice. Moyal v. Lanphear (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 491, 498, 256 Cal. Rptr. 296

This chapter provides discussion and forms relating to negligence actions involving trucks, trailers, and the towing of vehicles. Topics covered include the negligence and liability of both drivers and owners of such vehicles for accidents on the road [see § 553.11], the loading and unloading of trucks [see § 553.12], and the towing of vehicles and liability associated with it [see § 553.13].

This chapter also provides a Research Guide and the following forms:

- General complaint for damages for personal injury and property damages [see § 553.50].

- Complaint for damages by driver of a towing vehicle for an accident resulting from the negligence of the owner or driver of a towed vehicle [see § 553.51].

- Complaint for damages against owner of truck or loading facilities for an accident while loading or unloading a truck [see §§ 553.60 and 553.61].

PART I. SCOPE

48-553 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 553.03

§ 553.03 Governing Law

Civ. Code § 1714(a) sets forth the general standard of care required of every person.

Evid. Code § 669 creates a rebuttable presumption of negligence for the violation of a statute, ordinance, or regulation under certain conditions. Trucks and trailers are subject to the statutory regulations governing all vehicles [see Fortier Transp. Co. v. Union Packing Co. (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 748, 753-754, 216 P.2d 470] . Civil liability of owners and operators of motor vehicles is governed by Veh. Code §§ 17000-17463.

The rules of the road governing motor vehicles generally are set out in Veh. Code § 21000 et seq. Right of way in cross traffic is governed by Veh. Code §§ 21800-21807 and the permissible speed of motor vehicles is governed by Veh. Code §§ 22348-22413.

Regulations governing the maximum size of vehicles are set out in Veh. Code §§ 35250, 35251 (height), 35100-35112 (width), 35400-35414 (length), and 35550-35655 (weight).

Regulations governing towing equipment are set out in Veh. Code § 29000-29008.

Federal regulations for motor carriers generally are governed by 49 C.F.R. §§ 301-325. Federal safety regulations for motor carriers are governed by 49 C.F.R. §§ 350-399.

§ 553.10 Definitions

[1] Motor Truck

A "motor truck" or "motortruck" is a motor vehicle designed, used, or maintained primarily for the transportation of property [Veh. Code § 410; see Veh. Code §§ 415 (defining "motor vehicle") and 670 (defining "vehicle")].

[2] Truck Tractor

A "truck tractor" is a motor vehicle designed and used primarily for drawing other vehicles, and not so constructed as to carry a load other than a part of the weight of the vehicle and load so drawn [Veh. Code § 655(a)]. However, a truck tractor may be equipped with a cargo container to transport exclusively explosives or munitions-related security material if the owner is licensed by the California Highway Patrol to transport explosives [Veh. Code § 655(b)].

[3] Trailer and Semitrailer

A "trailer" is a vehicle for carrying persons or property on its own structure and for being drawn by a motor vehicle, and so constructed that no part of its weight rests on any other vehicle [Veh. Code § 630]. A "semitrailer" is a vehicle designed for carrying persons or property, used in conjunction with a motor vehicle, and so constructed that some part of its weight and that of its load rests on, or is carried by, another vehicle [Veh. Code § 550]. As used in Veh. Code §§ 35000-35795 (regulating size, weight, and load for vehicles on highways), "trailer" includes a semitrailer when used in conjunction with an auxiliary dolly, if the auxiliary dolly is of a type constructed to replace the function of the drawbar and the front axle or axles of a trailer [Veh. Code § 630].

[4] Tractor-Trailer

Throughout this chapter, a truck tractor pulling a semitrailer or a trailer will be referred to as a tractor-trailer [see discussion under § 553.10[2], [3]].

§ 553.11 Accidents on the Road

[1] Negligence in Operating Vehicle

[a] Parties

Actions for negligence in the operation of trucks, trailers, and the towing of vehicles may be brought against the owners or operators of thosevehicles by an injured party to whom a duty is owed; for example, a pedestrian, highway worker, train company, the driver and passenger of another vehicle, or the administrator of the estate of a decedent who drove another vehicle [see Palma v. U.S. Industrial Fasteners, Inc. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 171, 203 Cal. Rptr. 626, 681 P.2d 893 ; Horn v. Oh (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 1094, 195 Cal. Rptr. 720 ; Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe R.R. Co. v. Flintkote Co. (1967) 256 Cal. App. 2d 764, 64 Cal. Rptr. 675 ; Arroyo v. Arden Farms Co. (1966) 239 Cal. App. 2d 332, 48 Cal. Rptr. 740 ; Foss v. Anthony Indus. (1983) 139 Cal. App. 3d 794, 189 Cal. Rptr. 31 , respectively].

Actions by the owner or operator of a truck, trailer, or towed vehicle may be brought against the parties whose negligence and breach of duty caused injury or damage [see Harris v. Irish Truck Lines, Inc. (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 373, 113 Cal. Rptr. 489, 521 P.2d 481 (action by driver of half-ton pickup truck against driver and owner of five-ton truck), and Strait v. Hale Constr. Co. (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 941, 103 Cal. Rptr. 487 (action by truck driver and owner against owner and operator of earthmover and road builder)].

For discussion of actions regarding automobiles brought by owners, operators, and passengers; pedestrians; and property owners, see Ch. 80, Automobiles: Overview , to Ch. 87A, Automobiles: Post Tria l.

[b] Statutory Cause of Action Against Owner of Motor Vehicle

A statutory cause of action against vehicle owners is created by Veh. Code § 17150, which states that every owner of a motor vehicle is liable and responsible for death or injury to person or property resulting from a negligent or wrongful act or omission in the operation of the motor vehicle, in the business of the owner or otherwise, by any person using or operating the same with the permission, express or implied, of the owner [Soils v. Oilfields Trucking Co. (1979) 90 Cal. App. 3d 349, 352-353, 153 Cal. Rptr. 371] . Bringing a cause of action under Veh. Code § 17150, however, without proving agency and common laws grounds for imputation of negligence, limits the recoverable damages [Soils v.

Oilfields Trucking Co. (1979) 90 Cal. App. 3d 349, 353, 153 Cal. Rptr. 371] ; see Veh. Code § 17151 (limitations on liability)]. Veh. Code § 17150 governs commercial and private vehicles; its application is not limited to automobiles, and extends, for example, to trucks [Soils v. Oilfields Trucking Co. (1979) 90 Cal. App. 3d 349, 353, 153 Cal. Rptr. 371] . Veh. Code § 17150 is directed primarily at motivating vehicle owners who allow others to use their vehicles within California to exercise care in the selection and supervision of such permissive users, and at protecting persons using California roadways [Castro v. Budget Rent-A-Car System, Inc. (2007) 154 Cal. App. 4th 1162, 1182, 65 Cal.Rptr. 3d 430] . For further discussion of a vehicle owner's statutory liability, see Ch. 82, Automobiles: Causes of Action, § 82.31.

[c] Standard of Care in General

Everyone is responsible for any injury occasioned to another by his or her want of ordinary skill or in the management of his property or person [Civ. Code § 1714(a)]. In addition, the failure of a person to exercise due care is presumed if he or she violated a statute, ordinance, or regulation of a public entity [Evid. Code § 669(a)(1)]. The presumption may be rebutted by proof that the person violating the statute, ordinance, or regulation did what might reasonably be expected of a person of ordinary prudence, acting under similar circumstances, who desired to comply with the law [Evid. Code § 669(b)(1)]. For discussion and forms relating to the general duty of due care, and also to presumptive negligence based on violation of a statute, ordinance, or regulation, see Ch. 180, Negligence , and California Points and Authorities, Ch. 165, Negligence (Matthew Bender).

The rules and standards governing the driving of trucks are primarily the same as those governing motor vehicles generally [see Veh. Code § 410 (defining truck as type of motor vehicle); Fortier Transp. Co. v. Union Packing Co. (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 748, 753-754, 216 P.2d 470] . However, the courts have recognized that the size, weight, and special operating requirements of trucks create hazards that are unique to trucks. Thus, a driver's duty to operate his or her vehicle safely under existing conditions may create special responsibilities under the special conditions created by the operation of a truck [see, e.g., Gigliotti v. Nunes (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 85, 92, 286 P.2d 809 (turning into oncoming traffic); Fortier Transp. Co. v. Union Packing Co. (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 748, 753-754, 216 P.2d 470 (determining excessive speed in trucks)]. Some common circumstances under which a truck driver may be required to exercise special caution to avert dangers unique to trucking are discussed below. For a discussion of the rules and standard of care governing motor vehicles generally, see Ch. 80, Automobiles: Overview , through Ch. 82, Automobiles: Causes of Action .

Although state law will usually provide the standard of care applicable to a motor vehicle driver, federal law may provide a higher standard of care for commercial vehicles. The federal Commercial Motor Vehicle Safety Act [see 49 U.S.C.S. § 31101 et seq.] does not specifically preempt state law standards, but regulations issued under the Act may impose a higher standard to which commercial motor vehicles must adhere [see 49 C.F.R. § 392.2]. For example, one federal regulation issued under the Act requires a commercial motor vehicle driver to use extreme caution and to reduce speed if hazardous conditions, such as rain or snow, exist [49 C.F.R. § 392.14]. The California court of appeal has held that this is a higher standard of care than the reasonable care standard imposed by state law, and that this higher federal standard may be used to determine the negligence of a commercial vehicle driver during hazardous driving conditions [Weaver v. Chavez (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 1350, 1354-1355, 35 Cal. Rptr. 3d 514] . For purposes of determining the applicability of the Commercial Motor Vehicle Safety Act, a "commercial motor vehicle" is a self-propelled or towed vehicle used on the highways in commerce principally to transport passengers or cargo, if the vehicle also: (1) has a gross vehicle weight rating or gross vehicle weight of at least 10,001 pounds, whichever is greater; (2) is designed to transport more than 10 passengers, including the driver; or (3) is used in transporting material found by the Secretary of Transportation to be hazardous under 49 U.S.C.S. § 5103 and transported in a quantity requiring placards under that statute [49 U.S.C.S. § 31101(1)].

[d] Excessive Speed

[i] General Rule

No person may drive any of the following vehicles on a highway at a speed in excess of 55 miles per hour [Veh. Code § 22406]:

- A motor truck or truck tractor having three or more axles or a motortruck or truck tractor drawing any other vehicle.
- A passenger vehicle or bus drawing any other vehicle.
- A school bus transporting any school pupil.
- A farm labor vehicle transporting passengers.
- A vehicle transporting explosives.
- A trailer bus, as defined in Veh. Code § 636.

Any person who operates a commercial motor vehicle, as defined in Veh. Code § 15210, on a highway at a speed exceeding a maximum speed limit by 15 miles per hour or more, is guilty of a misdemeanor [Veh. Code § 22406.1(a)]. Such a violation will also be considered a serious traffic violation under Veh. Code § 15210 and subject to sanctions under Veh. Code § 15306 or Veh. Code § 15308 [Veh. Code § 22406.1(c)]. Violation of the speed limit set out in Veh. Code § 22406 is negligence per se [Fortier Transp. Co. v. Union Packing Co. (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 748, 752, 216 P.2d 470 ; Wood v. Moore (1944) 64 Cal. App. 2d 144, 149, 148 P.2d 91] .

[ii] Trucks

Trucks, like all motor vehicles, are also required to obey prima facie speed limits, which are statutory limits set at less than the maximum speed set out in the Vehicle Code [see Veh. Code § 22351(b); see, e.g., Veh. Code § 22352 (reduced speed limits at intersections and railway crossing with obscured view, in alleys, business and residential districts, senior citizens' and school zones); Fortier Transp. Co. v. Union Packing Co. (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 748, 752, 216 P.2d 470] . However, driving in excess of the prima facie limits is not negligence per se, as long as the maximum limit set out in Veh. Code § 22406 is not violated [Wood v. Moore (1944) 64 Cal. App. 2d 144, 149, 148 P.2d 91] .

Trucks are also subject to the basic speed law, which provides that no person may drive a motor vehicle on a highway at a speed greater than is reasonable or prudent having due regard for the surface and width of the highway and the traffic on it, and in no event at a speed which endangers the safety of persons or property [Fortier Transp. Co. v. Union Packing Co. (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 748, 753, 216 P.2d 470 (interpreting former Veh. Code § 510, now see Veh. Code § 22350); see Veh. Code § 22350 (basic speed law)].

As noted elsewhere [see § 553.11[1][c]] , the driver of a truck that meets the definition of a "commercial motor vehicle" under the federal Commercial Motor Vehicle Safety Act [see 49 U.S.C.S. § 31101(1)] may also be held to an arguably higher standard of care under safety regulations promulgated under that Act, including the duty to use extreme caution and to reduce speed if hazardous conditions, such as rain or snow, exist [49 C.F.R. § 392.14; see Weaver v. Chavez (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 1350, 1354-1355, 35 Cal. Rptr. 3d 514] .

[iii] Truck and Trailer Combination

The fact that slowing down a truck and trailer combination creates the danger of jack-knifing (see [e], below) is a consideration for the jury in determining whether or not a truck driver was negligently traveling at a speed that endangered life or property [see Fortier Transp. Co. v. Union Packing Co. (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 748, 753-754, 216 P.2d 470] .

[e] Causing Truck to Jack-Knife

[i] "Jack-Knifing" Defined

"Jack-knifing" is a condition in which a trailer or semitrailer coupled to a tractor-trailer combination swings out from its position behind the tractor and hurtles down the road sideways, out of control.

"Jack-knifing" may occur when the driver of the tractor-trailer slows the tractor portion of the vehicle too soon or too roughly or when the tractor-trailer is turned too abruptly to either side [see Sims v. Phillips (1958) 164 Cal. App. 2d 793, 797, 331 P.2d 174 ; Fortier Transp. Co. v. Union Packing Co. (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 748, 753-754, 216 P.2d 470] .

[ii] Driver Liability

The driver may be liable for negligence in the jack-knifing of a tractor-trailer resulting from the excessive speed at which the tractor-trailer was traveling when the driver was forced to brake [Fortier Transp. Co. v. Union Packing Co. (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 748, 754, 216 P.2d 470] .

[iii] Owner Liability

Jack-knifing is not always a result of the driver's negligence, however. For example, jack-knifing may also be caused by inadequate brakes on the trailer so that the negligence of the owner of the trailer is the proximate cause of the accident [see Hupp v. Griffith Co. (1932) 127 Cal. App. 63, 67, 15 P.2d 211] . Also, a jury may find that jack-knifing was not caused by the driver's negligence, but was due to the driver abruptly turning to avoid hitting another vehicle driving in the wrong lane [see Sims v. Phillips (1958) 164 Cal. App. 2d 793, 797, 331 P.2d 174 (reversing judgment on unrelated grounds); for further discussion and a form relating to the defense of avoiding an imminent peril or emergency, see Ch. 84, Automobiles: Responding to the Action, §§ 84.30(4)(e), 84.68].

[iv] Comparative Negligence and Last Clear Chance

A driver who failed to stop or swerve his tractor trailer to avoid hitting another vehicle a few seconds before colliding with it was held not to have had the last clear chance to prevent the collision, because stopping or swerving in so short a time would have incurred the danger of jack-knifing or overturning [Hickambottom v. Cooper Transp. Co. (1958) 163 Cal. App. 2d 489, 492, 329 P.2d 609 (decided before the adoption of comparative negligence in Li v. Yellow Cab Co. (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 804, 119 Cal. Rptr. 858, 532 P.2d 1226)].

For discussion of comparative negligence and its effect on contributory negligence and the last clear chance rule, see Ch. 380, Negligence .

[f] Whipping or Swerving of Trailer

No person may operate a train of vehicles when any vehicle being towed whips or swerves from side to side or fails to follow substantially in the path of the towing vehicle [Veh. Code § 21711]. A "train" of vehicles apparently means a combination of towing and towed vehicles, for example, a truck towing another truck, or a truck towing a trailer [see Rayner v. Ramirez (1958) 159 Cal. App. 2d 372, 379, 324 P.2d 83 , and Risley v. Lenwell (1954) 129 Cal. App. 2d 608, 639, 277 P.2d 897 respectively (both involving former Veh. Code § 701; now see Veh. Code § 21711)]. Violation of Veh. Code § 21711 may be the basis of liability for resulting damages [see Risley v. Lenwell (1954) 129 Cal. App. 2d 608, 637-638, 277 P.2d 897 (citing former Veh. Code § 701)]. A tractor-trailer driver may be liable fordamage caused by a swerving trailer when the swerving was caused by excessive speed under the circumstances [Wells Truckways v. Cebrian (1954) 122 Cal. App. 2d 666, 670, 680, 265 P.2d 557 (excessive speed in rainy weather while moving downhill on unbanked curve)]. The driver may not be liable, however, if the swerving was caused by a sudden turn to avoid collision with another object [Patterson v. Delta Lines, Inc. (1956) 147 Cal. App. 2d 160, 161-162, 304 P.2d 842 ; for further discussion and a form relating to the defense of avoiding an imminent peril or emergency, see Ch. 84, Automobiles: Responding to the Action, §§ 84.30(4)(e), 84.68].

[g] Crossing Opposing Traffic

All motor vehicles making a left turn or a U-turn on a highway or crossing an intersection with a stop sign are required to yield to any vehicle that is approaching so closely from the opposing direction as to constitute a hazard [see Veh. Code §§ 21801 (left turn) and 21802 (stop sign)]. In applying Veh. Code § 21801 to tractor-trailers, the courts have noted that a left turn by a slowly moving vehicle in the face of oncoming traffic is one of the most hazardous of all traffic maneuvers [Gigliotti v. Nunes (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 85, 92, 286 P.2d 809 ; Colla v. Beaver Lumber Co. (1959) 170 Cal. App. 2d 271, 276-277, 338 P.2d 553] . The slow acceleration of a tractor-trailer is a major factor that the jury may consider in determining whether oncoming vehicles were so close as to constitute a hazard [see Gigliotti v. Nunes (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 85, 92, 286 P.2d 809 ; Hutchison v. Elliot (1960) 183 Cal. App. 2d 263, 270, 7 Cal. Rptr. 77] . Distances of approach of 100 feet to as much as 500 and 1,000 feet have been held to be sufficently close to permit a jury to find that opposing traffic was so close as to constitute a hazard, depending on the speed of the approaching vehicles and the conditions existing at the time [see Colla v. Beaver Lumber Co. (1959) 170 Cal. App. 2d 271, 273, 338 P.2d 553 (distance of 100 feet when making left turn); Hutchison v. Elliott (1960) 183 Cal. App. 2d 263, 270, 7 Cal. Rptr. 77 (distance of 500 to 1,000 feet when crossing major road from side road at night)].

[2] Injury to Riders

[a] Effect of Negligence of Plaintiff Riders

For a discussion of comparative negligence and the effect of contributory negligence generally, see Ch. 380, Negligence . For discussion of the contributory negligence of passengers and riders in motor vehicles generally, see Ch. 84, Automobiles: Responding to the Action, §§ 84.30(4)(c), 84.65.

[b] Riding in Part of Vehicle not Intended for Passengers or Load

The Vehicle Code prohibits persons from riding on any vehicle or on any portion thereof not designed or intended for use of passengers [Veh. Code§ 21712(b)]. In addition, the Vehicle Code provides that no person driving a motor vehicle shall knowingly permit any person to ride on any vehicle or on any portion thereof not designed or intended for the use of passengers [Veh. Code § 21712(a)]. However, Veh. Code § 21712(a) and (b) do not apply to any employee engaged in the necessary discharge of his or her duty, or in the case of persons riding completely within or on vehicle bodies in space intended for any load on the vehicle [Veh. Code § 21712(f)]. In addition, a person cannot legally ride in the trunk of a motor vehicle, and a driver cannot legally permit a person to do so [Veh. Code § 21712(c), (d)].

The Vehicle Code prohibits persons from riding in or on the back of a pickup truck or a flatbed motortruck on a highway [Veh. Code § 23116(b)]. In addition, the Vehicle Code prohibits any person driving a pickup truck or a flatbed motortruck on a highway from transporting another person in or on the back of the truck [Veh. Code § 23116(a)].

These provisions do not apply if the person riding in the back of the truck is secured by a restraint system that meets or exceeds federal motor vehicle safety standards [Veh. Code § 23116(c)]. These provisions also do not apply to any person transporting one or more persons in the back of a truck or flatbed motor truck owned by a farmer or rancher, if that vehicle is used exclusively within the boundaries of lands owned or managed by that farmer or rancher, including the incidental use of that vehicle on not more than one mile of highway between one part of the farm or ranch to another part of that farm or ranch [Veh. Code § 23116(d)]. A person may ride in or on the back of a truck if that person is being transported in a parade that is supervised by a law enforcement agency and the speed of the truck while in the parade does not exceed eight miles per hour [Veh. Code § 23116(f)]. Neither the general prohibition nor the restraint requirements apply if a person is being transported in an emergency response situation by a public agency or pursuant to the direction or authority of a public agency. In this context, "emergency response situation" means instances in which measures are needed to prevent injury or death to person or to prevent, confine, or mitigate property damage or destruction [Veh. Code § 23116(e)].

Whether or not an employee was engaged in his or her duty when riding on a truck is a question of fact. For example, an employee standing on the hitch of a trailer in order to warn the driver of overtaking traffic and to help the driver learn to drive better has been found to be engaged in the necessary discharge of a duty [Espinoza v. Rossini (1966) 247 Cal. App. 2d 40, 48, 55 Cal. Rptr. 205] .

[3] Liability of Trailer Owner

[a] To Driver

The owner of a trailer may be liable to the driver for the driver's personal injuries if negligence on the owner's part, such as maintaining inadequate brakes on the trailer, caused the truck to jack-knife [see Hupp v. Griffith Co. (1932) 127 Cal. App. 63, 67, 15 P.2d 211] . Whether the jack-knifing of a truck was proximately caused by inadequate brakes or by the driver's negligence in operating the truck or in unreasonably choosing an unsafe route is a question of fact [Hupp v. Griffith Co. (1932) 127 Cal. App. 63, 68-72, 15 P.2d 211] .

[b] To Third Parties

If the trailer in a tractor-trailer combination is owned separately from the tractor, the negligence of the tractor owner cannot be imputed to the trailer owner if the tractor owner was acting gratuitously or as an independent contractor of the trailer owner. Negligence can be imputed only if the tractor owner was acting as an agent or employee of the trailer owner. The determinative issue in deciding the status of the tractor owner is whether or not the trailer owner controlled or had the right to control the activities of the tractor owner [Flores v. Brown (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 622, 628, 248 P.2d 922] .

For purposes of determining the trailer owner's right of control, the position of the trailer owner is analagous to that of a passenger in a motor vehicle. Thus, it may not be inferred that the trailer owner had control of or the right to control the tractor merely because the trip was undertaken for the trailer owner's benefit or because the trailer owner selected the destination [see Flores v. Brown (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 622, 629, 248 P.2d 922] . A contract providing for control by the tractor owner of all matters except designation of the load and its destination is proof that the tractor owner is an independent contractor and not an employee or agent [Gaskill v. Calaveras Cement Co. (1951) 102 Cal. App. 2d 120, 122-123, 226 P.2d 633] .

[c] Nonapplicability of Statutory Cause of Action Against Owner

As discussed in § 553.11[1][b], a statutory cause of action exists against the owner of a motor vehicle for negligence in its use and operation [Veh. Code § 17150]. An unconnected trailer, however, is a "vehicle" and not a "motor vehicle" under the Vehicle Code [see Veh. Code §§ 415 ("motor vehicle"), 550 ("semitrailer"), 630 ("trailer"); see also Miller v. Berman (1942) 55 Cal. App. 2d 569, 571, 572, 131 P.2d 18 ; but see Ins. Code § 383.6 (defining trailer as a motor vehicle for purposes of Ins. Code § 383.5, which governs insurance contracts)]. A semitrailer joined to a truck tractor forms one motor vehicle. However, the owner of a semitrailer is not considered to be a joint owner of a motor vehicle for purposes of statutory liability imposed on an owner [Miller v. Berman (1942) 55 Cal. App. 2d 569, 571, 572, 131 P.2d 18 ; but see Mission Ins. Co. v. Hartford Ins. Co. (1984) 155 Cal. App. 3d 1199, 1209, 202 Cal. Rptr. 635 (construing joint ownership of a truck/tractor and semitrailer according to Ins. Code §§ 11580.8, 11580.9, which govern the application of multiple liability insurance policies covering the same loss)]. For discussion and forms relating to the responsibility of a principal for an agent's torts generally, see Ch. 427, Principal and Agent .

§ 553.12 Loading and Unloading Trucks

[1] Duty to Participants and Others

[a] General Rule

Particular duties owed by persons involved in truck loading and unloading operations to other participants or persons in the vicinity are discussedbelow. For discussion of vicarious liability in the operation of automobiles, see Ch. 82, Automobiles, §§ 82.16, 82.31(5) For discussion of an employer's vicarious liability for acts of its employees generally, see Ch. 248, Employer's Liability for Employee's Torts . For discussion of comparative negligence, including its effect on the doctrines of contributory negligence and assumption of the risk, see Ch. 380, Negligence . For discussion of premises liability generally, see Ch. 421, Premises Liability .

[b] Person Purchasing Truck's Cargo

The owner of a truck, as an owner of "premises," may be liable for a dangerous condition existing on the truck, according to the rules of premises liability [see Squillante v. Barr (1955) 131 Cal. App. 2d 175, 177-179, 280 P.2d 216] . For example, a truck owner owes a duty to a potential buyer of goods who is invited onto the truck to keep the truck free from known dangerous conditions [see Squillante v. Barr (1955) 131 Cal. App. 2d 175, 178-179, 280 P.2d 216 (truck owner not liable under facts)].

[c] Employees of Party Contracting for Truck Services

An employee of a party contracting for truck services who assists in loading or unloading has been held to be an invitee on the truck, to whom the truck owner owes the highest category of duty [Lamar v. John & Wade, Inc. (1945) 70 Cal. App. 2d 806, 809, 161 P.2d 970] .

A truck owner may be vicariously liable if an employee's negligent unloading causes injury to an employee of the contracting party [see Scott v. Gallot (1943) 59 Cal. App. 2d 421, 425-426, 138 P.2d 685 (plaintiff's evidence concerning custom and habit on premises of warning workers of approaching truck is admissible under res gestae doctrine)]. For example, a truck owner may be liable if an employee injures a worker while negligently driving a cement truck down a ramp in order to pour concrete for the worker's employer [Huber v. Henry J. Kaiser Co. (1945) 71 Cal. App. 2d 278, 287, 162 P.2d 693] .

A truck owner may be held liable for negligent loading instructions given by its employee to the contracting company's employee if the latter is injured while following unsafe directions [see Williams v. Field Transp. Co. (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 696, 171 P.2d 722] . Moreover, a truck owner owes a duty to maintain safe equipment that may otherwise cause injury to workers in the unloading area [see Manhattan Fire & Marine Ins. Co. v. Travelers Ins. Co. (1977) 66 Cal. App. 3d 794, 800, 136 Cal. Rptr. 400 (finding that use of concrete pump with the truck constituted continuing operation of concrete unloading for purposes of insurance coverage)].

[d] Truck Owner and Employees

A premises owner owes a duty to provide safe conditions for loading and unloading to the owner and employees of a truck company with which itcontracts. For example, an oil company owes a duty to provide safe means for the employees of a truck company contracting to haul crude oil to load the oil; and the truck owner's contributory negligence in failing to prevent an imminent fire is a question of fact for the jury [Lunsford v. Standard Oil Co. (1948) 84 Cal. App. 2d 459, 464-465, 191 P.2d 82] .

A company that contracts for a truck's services owes a duty to the truck company's employees to use due care while assisting or directing the unloading of cargo [see Foster v. Pestana (1947) 77 Cal. App. 2d 885, 889, 177 P.2d 54] . A construction company, for example, owes a duty to the employees of a truck company and its subcontractors to exercise care in carrying out loading operations [see Argonaut Ins. Co. v. Colonial Ins. Co. (1977) 70 Cal. App. 3d 608, 614, 138 Cal. Rptr. 855 (defendant employee's loading was "use" of vehicle for purposes of insurance policy coverage)].

[e] Volunteers

A nonemployee who voluntarily helps unload a truck on the premises of the receiver of the cargo at the informal request of the truck driver, who was not an employee of the receiver, has been held to be at least a licensee as to the receiver, so that the receiver is liable for active negligence in unloading that injures the nonemployee [Church v. Headrick & Brown (1951) 101 Cal. App. 2d 396, 398-402, 405, 408, 225 P.2d 558] . For discussion of the extent to which the plaintiff's status is relevant since Rowland v. Christian (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 108, 70 Cal. Rptr. 97, 443 P.2d 561 , see Ch. 421, Premises Liability .

[f] Passersby

A truck's owner and driver owe a duty to passersby who might foreseeably be harmed, to use reasonable care in loading and unloading cargo [see American Auto. Ins. Co. v. Transport Indem. Co. (1962) 200 Cal. App. 2d 543, 551, 19 Cal. Rptr. 558 (construction company employee's helping to unload concrete blocks off transportation company's truck constituted "use" of truck for purposes of insurance coverage)]. The duty extends to the party contracting for truck services and its employees if that party or its employees undertake to supervise the operation. For example, if a contracting company's foreman assumes supervision of unloading operations, and knows or should know that persons using a public street adjacent to the loading site might be injured by the activity, the foreman has a duty to post a guard and warn passersby of the danger. Moreover, employees of the contracting company who actively participate in the unloading owe a duty to passersby to use reasonable care [American Auto. Ins. Co. v. Transport Indem. Co. (1962) 200 Cal. App. 2d 543, 551, 19 Cal. Rptr. 558] .

[2] Assumption of Risk of Obvious Danger

A property owner is not required to warn one who comes onto the property of a dangerous condition on the property when the condition was obvious to the person coming onto the property. This rule applies to the owner of a truck that is being unloaded as well as to the owner of the premises on which the truck is being unloaded [see Squillante v. Barr

(1955) 131 Cal. App. 2d 175, 177-179, 280 P.2d 216 ; for more detailed discussion of the general rules relating to obvious dangers, see Ch. 421, Premises Liability]. However, a person loading a truck may be held not to have assumed the risk of resulting damages even though he or she knew of the general condition which caused the damages, when the danger represented by the condition was not known to the person doing the loading, and the negligent acts with which the defendants were charged occured after any assumption of the risk regarding known conditions by the plaintiff [Lunsford v. Standard Oil Co. (1948) 84 Cal. App. 2d 459, 467-468, 191 P.2d 82 (employees of defendant premises owner failed to take action when fumes from oil that plaintiff was loading came close to nearby boiler without plaintiff's knowledge)]. The jury may consider the lack of expertise and experience of the person unloading, as compared to the experience and knowledge of the person responsible for creating the dangerous condition in determining whether the person unloading assumed the risk. Moreover, a subordinate employee has the right to place some reliance in the judgment of a supervisor in doing his or her work [Lamar v. John & Wade Inc. (1945) 70 Cal. App. 2d 806, 810, 161 P.2d 970] .

The application of assumption of the risk as either a defense to liability, or a factor in apportioning fault, must presently be evaluated in light of the comparative negligence doctrine, as set forth in Li v. Yellow Cab [Li v. Yellow Cab (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 804, 119 Cal. Rptr. 858, 532 P.2d 1226] . For further discussion see Ch. 380, Negligence .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

48-553 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 553.13

§ 553.13 Towing of Vehicles

[1] Towing Not Negligence Per Se

Towing one vehicle by means of another is not negligence per se, but the towing must be done with due consideration for the safety of others [Weddle v. Loges (1971) 52 Cal. App. 2d 115, 124, 125 P.2d 914] .

[2] Coupling Requirements

[a] Safety Chain

There are detailed statutory requirements governing the manner in which towed vehicles are to be connected to towing vehicles, including ageneral requirement that every towed vehicle be coupled to the towing vehicle by means of a safety chain, cable, or equivalent device in addition to the regular drawbar, tongue or other connection [Veh. Code §§ 29003(c), 29004(a); see Veh. Code § 29004(c) (amount of slack, connection to drawbar)].

Failure to use a safety chain in violation of Veh. Code § 29004 may be the basis of liability if the towed vehicle breaks loose and goes out of control [Lehmuth v. Long Beach Unified Sch. Dist. (1960) 53 Cal. 2d 544, 552-553, 2 Cal. Rptr. 279, 348 P.2d 887 (relying on former Veh. Code § 701, now see Veh. Code § 29004]. There are exceptions to the safety chain requirement of Veh. Code § 29004 [Veh. Code §§ 29004(c), 29007 (towed vehicle being steered by licensed driver; fifth-wheel-type connections); see Veh. Code §§ 29001, 29002 (requirements for fifth-wheel devices); see also Veh. Code § 29009 (dolly used with construction equipment)].

[b] Strength of Hitch and Other Coupling Devices

Every hitch or coupling device used as a means of attaching the towed and towing vehicles is required to be mounted properly and securely and to be structurally adequate for the weight drawn, including sufficient reinforcement or bracing of the frame to provide sufficient strength and rigidity to prevent undue distortion of the frame [Veh. Code § 29003(a)]. The drawbar, tongue, or other connection between the towing and towed vehicles must also be securely attached and structurally adequate for the weight drawn [Veh. Code § 29003(b)]. Violation of the standards of former Veh. Code § 29003(a) in mounting a trailer hitch may be the basis of liability for negligence [see Douglass v. Webb (1962) 209 Cal. App. 2d 290, 294-295, 304-305, 26 Cal. Rptr. 60 (construing former Veh. Code § 701(d))].

Additional requirements apply when towing is to be done on a freeway, except when a disabled motor vehicle is being towed from the point of disablement to the nearest and most accessible exit from the freeway [Veh. Code § 29006].

[3] Duty of Driver of Towed Vehicle

Despite the limited ability of the person at the wheel of a towed vehicle to control its travel, he or she has the duty to exercise ordinary care in watching for traffic and railroad trains, in controlling the car to a reasonable extent, in sounding the horn to warn the driver of the towing vehicle if that appeared necessary, and under slow speed conditions, in leaving the towed car if reasonably necessary [Conner v. Southern Pac. Co. (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 633, 638, 241 P.2d 535 (plaintiff's decedent in towed vehicle found contributorily negligent); but cf. Fairman v. Mors (1942) 55 Cal. App. 2d 216, 219-220, 130 P.2d 448 (person behind the wheel of a towed vehicle considered utterly helpless in directing the course or conductof the car; holding that driver of towing vehicle was also driver of towed vehicle for purposes of guest statute)].

The driver of a towed vehicle may be liable for damages resulting from an accident caused by his or her own conduct in arranging and during the towing [Barnett v. Garrison (1949) 93 Cal. App. 2d 553, 556, 209 P.2d 426 (defendant caused his heavier car to be towed by a lighter one over a winding, hilly road, chose the manner in which he tied the cars together, let his car coast in neutral, and continued that manner of towing even though his car rested against the towing car on every downgrade, and at the fatal moment turned wheels to separate the cars)].

[4] Towing of Vehicle Parked on Private Property

[a] When Towing Allowed

[i] General Rule

The owner or person in lawful possession of private property, including an association of a common interest development as defined in Civ. Code § 1351, may cause the removal of a vehicle parked on the property to a storage facility meeting the requirements of Veh. Code § 22658(n) under any of the following circumstances [Veh. Code § 22658(a); see Veh. Code § 22658(n); see also Veh. Code § 22658(f) (requiring person causing removal to contact local traffic law enforcement within one hour)]:

- There is displayed, in plain view at all entrances to the property, a sign not less than 17 by 22 inches in size, with lettering not less than 1 inch in height, prohibiting public parking and indicating that vehicles will be removed at the owner's expense, and containing the telephone number of the local traffic law enforcement agency and the name and telephone number of each towing company that is a party to a written general towing authorization agreement with the owner or possessor of the property (the sign may also indicate that a citation may also be issued for the violation).

- The vehicle has been issued a notice of parking violation, and 96 hours have elapsed since the issuance of that notice.

- The vehicle is on private property and lacks an engine, transmission, wheels, tires, doors, windshield, or any other major part or equipment necessary to operate safely on the highways, the owner or person in lawful possession of the private property has notified the local traffic law enforcement agency, as appropriate, and 24 hours have elapsed since that notification.

- The lot or parcel on which the vehicle is parked is improved with a single-family dwelling.

Veh. Code § 22658 does not limit or affect any rights or remedies that the owner or person in lawful possession of private property may have by virtue of other provisions of law authorizing the removal of a vehicle parked on private property [Veh. Code § 22658(c)].

On the request of the owner of the vehicle, or that owner's agent, the towing company or its driver is required to immediately and unconditionally release any vehicle that is not yet removed from the private property and in transit [Veh. Code § 22658(g)(1)(B); see also Veh. Code § 22658(g)(1)(C) (failure to comply with request is misdemeanor)]. If a vehicle is released to a person in compliance with this provision, the vehicle owner or authorized agent is required to move the vehicle to a lawful location immediately [Veh. Code § 22658(g)(2)].

[ii] Notice

If the tow truck operator removing the vehicle knows, or is able to ascertain from the property owner, the person in lawful possession of the property, or the registration records of the Department of Motor Vehicles, the name and address of the registered and legal owner of the removed vehicle, the tow truck operator must immediately give, or cause to be given, written notice to the registered and legal owner of the fact and grounds of the removal, the place to which the vehicle has been removed, the mileage on the vehicle at the time of removal, and the time of removal. If the vehicle is stored in a storage facility, a copy of the notice must be given to the proprietor of the facility. If the tow truck operator does not know and is unable to ascertain the name of the owner of the vehicle, or for any other reason is unable to give the prescribed notice to the owner, that person must comply with the requirements of Veh. Code § 22853(c) relating to notice in the same manner as applicable to an officer removing a vehicle from private property [Veh. Code § 22658(b)].

[iii] Authorization

A towing company is not permitted to remove or commence the removal of a vehicle from private property, without first obtaining written authorization from the property owner or lessee, or an employee or agent of the property owner or lessee. In addition, the property owner, lessee, employee, or agent must generally be present on the property at the time of removal and verify the alleged violation, although the person does not have to be physically present at the exact specified location on the property where the vehicle to be towed is located [Veh. Code § 22658(l)(1)(A)]. In addition, presence and verification is not required if the person authorizing the tow is the property owner, or the owner's agent who is not a tow operator, of a residential rental property of 15 or fewer units that does not have an onsite owner, owner's agent, or employee, and if a tenant has verified the violation, requested the tow from that tenant's assigned parking space, and provided a signed request or electronic mail, or has called and provides a signed request or electronic mail within 24 hours, to the property owner or owner's agent, which the owner or agent must provide to the towing company within 48 hours after authorizing the tow [Veh. Code § 22658(l)(1)(A); see also Veh. Code § 22658(l)(1)(B) (contents of written authorization specified)].

General authorization to remove or commence the removal of a vehicle at the towing company's discretion cannot be delegated to a towing company or its affiliates except in the case of a vehicle unlawfully parked within 15 feet of a fire hydrant or in a fire lane, or in a manner that interferes with any entrance to, or exit from, the private property [Veh. Code § 22658(l)(1)(E)(i); see also Veh. Code § 22658(l)(2) (requiring towing company to photograph vehicle removed under these circumstances and keep copy for presentation to vehicle owner)]. In those cases in which general authorization is granted to a towing company or its affiliate to undertake or commence the removal of a vehicle that is unlawfully parked within 15 feet of a fire hydrant or in a fire lane, or that interferes with an entrance to, or exit from, private property, the towing company and the property owner, the owner's agent, or the person in lawful possession of the private property must have a written agreement granting that general authorization [Veh. Code § 22658(l)(1)(E)(ii)].

[b] Liability for Injurious or Wrongful Towing

[i] Recovery for Damage

The owner of a vehicle removed from private property pursuant to Veh. Code § 22658(a) may recover for any damage to the vehicle resulting from any intentional or negligent act of person causing the removal of, or removing, the vehicle [Veh. Code § 22658(d)]. In addition, an owner or person in lawful possession of any private property, or an association of a common interest development causing the removal of a vehicle parked on that property is liable for double the storage or towing charges whenever there has been a failure to comply with Veh. Code § 22658(a)(1), (2) or (3) (see [a], above) or a failure to state the grounds for the removal of the vehicle if requested by the legal or registered owner of the vehicle as required by Veh. Code § 22658(f) [Veh. Code § 22658(e)].

[ii] Liability of Towing Company

Any towing company that removes a vehicle pursuant to Veh. Code § 22658(a) is responsible for [Veh. Code § 22658(f)]:

- Any damage to the vehicle in the transit and subsequent storage of the vehicle.

- The removal of a vehicle other than the vehicle specified by the owner or other person in lawful possession of the private property.

A person who removes a vehicle without the proper authorizations and without following the proper procedures as provided in Veh. Code § 22658(l) [see § 553.13[4][a][iii]], is liable to the owner of the vehicle for four times the amount of the towing and storage charges, in addition to any applicable criminal penalty [Veh. Code § 22658(l)].

However, towing company that removes a vehicle from private property with the proper authorization of the property owner or the property owner's agent will not be held responsible in any situation relating to the validity of the removal [Veh. Code § 22658(f); see § 553.13[4][a][iii]

For discussion and forms relating to damage incurred during the storage of personal property, see Ch. 93, Bailments . For discussion and forms relating to the tort of conversion, see Ch. 150, Conversion . For discussion and forms relating to trespass to personal property, see Ch. 550, Trespass .

[c] Liability for Charging Vehicle Owner Excessive Rate

Any person who charges a vehicle owner a towing, service, or storage charge at an excessive rate is liable to the vehicle owner for four times the amount charged [Veh. Code § 22658(j)(1); see also Veh. Code § 22658(j)(2) (criminal penalties for knowingly charging excessive fees)]. A charge for towing or storage, or both, is excessive if the charge exceeds the greater of the following amounts [Veh. Code § 22658(i)(1)(A)]:

- The amount that would have been charged for that towing or storage, or both, made at the request of a law enforcement agency under an agreement between a towing company and the law enforcement agency that exercises primary jurisdiction in the city in which is located the private property from which the vehicle was, or was attempted to be, removed, or if the private property is not located within a city, then the law enforcement agency that exercises primary jurisdiction in the county in which the private property is located.

- The amount that would have been charged for that towing or storage, or both, under the rate approved for that towing operator by the California Highway Patrol for the jurisdiction in which the private property is located and from which the vehicle was, or was attempted to be, removed.

If a request to release a vehicle is made within 24 hours from the time the vehicle is brought into the storage facility, regardless of the calendar date, the storage charge must be for only one day. Not more than one day's storage charge may be required for vehicle released the same day it was stored [Veh. Code § 22658(i)(2)].

[d] Limitations Regarding Certain Private Property

An owner or person in lawful possession of private property that is held open to the public, or a discernible portion thereof, for parking of vehicles at no fee, or an employee or agent of the owner or possessor, cannot tow or remove, or cause the towing or removal of, any vehicle within one hour of the vehicle being parked [Veh. Code § 22953(a)]. Veh. Code § 22953(a) does not apply to a vehicle illegally parked within 15 feet of a fire hydrant, in a fire lane, in a manner that interferes with an entrance to or exit from the private property, or in a parking space or stall legally designated for disabled persons [Veh. Code § 22953(b)]. The statute also does not apply to parking spaces at residential property or at a hotel or motel where the parking stalls or spaces are clearly marked for a specific room [Veh. Code § 22953(c)].

A person who violates Veh. Code § 22953(a) is civilly liable to the vehicle owner, or to the vehicle owner's agent, for two times the amount of the towing and storage charges [Veh. Code § 22953(e)].

[e] Liability for Towing Vehicle off Private Property

Any towing company that, in removing a vehicle, cuts, removes, otherwise damages, or leaves open a fence without the prior approval of the property owner or the person in charge of the property must at that time either locate and notify the owner or person in charge of the property of the damage or condition; the name and address of the towing company; and the license, registration, or identification number of the removed vehicle; or the towing company must leave that information in a conspicuous place and notify the appropriate law enforcement agency [Veh. Code § 22658.1(a)]. Failure to comply with the provisions of Veh. Code § 22658.1 constitutes an infraction [Veh. Code § 22658.1(b)].

PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

48-553 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 553.34

§ 553.34 Decisions

[1] Crossing Opposing Traffic

Left turn by slow moving vehicle in face of oncoming traffic is one of most hazardous of all traffic maneuvers; slow acceleration of tractor-trailer is major factor in determining if oncoming vehicles were so close as to constitute hazard. Gigliotti v. Nunes (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 85, 92, 286 P.2d 809

[2] Excessive Speed

Exceptional difficulty in braking truck is factor for trier of fact to consider in determining whether truck driver was traveling at speed which endangered life or property. Fortier Transp. Co. v. Union Packing Co. (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 748, 753-754, 216 P.2d 470

Trucks are subject to law that no person may drive motor vehicle on highway at speed greater than is reasonable or prudent having due regard for relevantconditions, and in no event at speed which endangers safety of persons or property. Fortier Transp. Co. v. Union Packing Co. (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 748, 753, 216 P.2d 470

Violation of speed limit for trucks set out in Veh. Code § 22406 is negligence per se. Fortier Transp. Co. v. Union Packing Co. (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 748, 752, 216 P.2d 470 ; Wood v. Moore (1944) 64 Cal. App. 2d 144, 149, 148 P.2d 91

Driving in excess of specific prima facie speed limits set out in Veh. Code § 22352 is not negligence per se. Wood v. Moore (1944) 64 Cal. App. 2d 144, 149, 148 P.2d 91

[3] Expert Testimony

Expert witnesses is properly used to aid jury in determining from circumstantial evidence how defendant's trailer was positioned at time of accident. Wells Truckways v. Cebrian (1954) 122 Cal. App. 2d 666, 676, 265 P.2d 557

[4] Injuries Suffered by Riders

Whether or not truck driver was negligent in relation to death of small boy who was riding in open truck, when driver knew of habit of boys to play and climb on sides of truck and drove through area creating hazard for one who did such climbing and playing, is question for jury. Christiana v. Rattaro (1947) 81 Cal. App. 2d 597, 599, 184 P.2d 682

[5] "Jack-Knifing" of Trailer

Jury properly exonerates tractor-trailer driver liability for jack-knifing if it finds that jack-knifing was not caused by driver's negligence, but by driver turning abruptly to avoid hitting another improperly located vehicle. Sims v. Phillips (1958) 164 Cal. App. 2d 793, 797, 331 P.2d 174 (reversing judgment for defendant on unrelated grounds)

Driver who failed to stop or swerve tractor trailer to avoid hitting another vehicle few seconds before colliding with it did not having last clear chance to prevent collision, because of danger of jack-knifing or overturning from sudden stop or swerve. Hickambottom v. Cooper Transp. Co. (1958) 163 Cal. App. 2d 489, 492, 329 P.2d 609

Truck driver was liable for jack-knifing of tractor trailer resulting from excessive speed when driver was forced to brake. Fortier Transp. Co. v. Union Packing Co. (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 748, 754, 216 P.2d 470

[6] Liability Policies

Pub. Util. Code § 3651, requiring regulated highway carriers to provide liability protection for personal injuries and property damage, was enacted to protect public against reckless operation of vehicles by financially irresponsible owners and to provide means of recovery for those injured in their person or property by such operation, and does not require vehicle liability policies to cover work-related injuries sustained by vehicle owner's employees. Chong v. Fremont Indem. Co. (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1097, 1101-1102, 249 Cal. Rptr. 264

[7] Loading and Unloading

Method of loading selected, materials used, and directions given to plaintiff who was helping load truck by defendant who planned and supervised loading of truck are factors to be considered in determining negligence. Williams v. Field Transp. Co. (1946) 28 Cal. 2d 696, 699, 171 P.2d 722

When plaintiff, who was familiar with unloading procedures, climbed on truck at invitation of defendant employee of packing plant that was receiving shipment and without knowledge of defendant truck driver or defendant truck owner, and was injured when truck driver loosened ropes to begin unloading, jury verdict in favor of defendants was upheld. Squillante v. Barr (1955) 131 Cal. App. 2d 175, 177-179, 280 P.2d 216

Lumber company that hired independent contractor to haul lumber was liable for damages caused by accident on highway resulting from negligent loading of cargo on contractor's truck by contractor's employees, when lumber company employees knew or should have known of faulty loading equipment and techniques. Risley v. Lenwell (1954) 129 Cal. App. 2d 608, 625, 277 P.2d 897

When defendant employee of defendant buyers of large steel girder was experienced rigger and directed unloading of girder with crane and sling in negligent manner, defendants were liable to volunteer who was riding with truck driver and lacked knowledge of dangers involved in unloading girder, when volunteer was injured while helping to unload girder. Church v. Headrick & Brown (1951) 101 Cal. App. 2d 396, 401, 408, 410, 225 P.2d 558

Owner of loading premises was liable for negligence of its employees in failing to remedy nonobvious dangerous condition caused by loading truck that employees observed to develop during loading. Lunsford v. Standard Oil Co. (1948) 84 Cal. App. 2d 459, 467-468, 191 P.2d 82 (fumes from gas being loaded on truck together with preexisting fumes on premises reached furnace and exploded)

Negligence of fellow unloading employee in dropping heavy object over side of truck without proper look-out established liability for injuries caused by dropped object. Foster v. Pestana (1947) 77 Cal. App. 2d 885, 888-889, 177 P.2d 54

Plaintiff employee of company receiving cargo who enters truck to unload it is invitee; truck owner was liable for plaintiff's injuries caused by falling cargo when truck driver was experienced as compared to plaintiff, was in charge of unloading, and parked truck at angle so as to create dangerous condition. Lamar v. John & Wade, Inc. (1945) 70 Cal. App. 2d 806, 809, 161 P.2d 970

Evidence of custom at loading place to warn persons around truck before moving it is admissible to counter charges that plaintiff was contributorily negligent in assuming position which could become dangerous if parked truck moved. Scott v. Gallot (1943) 59 Cal. App. 2d 421, 425-426, 138 P.2d 685

Person moving vehicle in loading place without giving sufficient warning or maintaining proper look-out for persons in vicinity of vehicle is liable for injuries caused by truck's movement. Burke v. John E. Marshall, Inc. (1940) 42 Cal. App. 2d 195, 200-201, 108 P.2d 738

[8] Negligence

Negligence may be properly alleged in general terms; allegation that act was negligently done without stating particular omission which rendered it negligent is sufficient. Brooks v. E.J. Willig Truck Transp. Co. (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 669, 680, 255 P.2d 802

[9] Standard of Care in General

Driver's general duty to operate vehicle safely under existing conditions creates special responsibilities under special conditions created by operation of heavy truck with cumbersome and dangerous braking mechanism. Fortier Transp. Co. v. Union Packing Co. (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 748, 753-754, 216 P.2d 470

[10] Trailer Owner's Liability

Negligence of tractor owner or driver is imputable to trailer owner only if tractor owner was acting as agent or employee of trailer owner, with control or right to control over activities of tractor owner; control is not inferable from mere fact that trip was undertaken for trailer owner's benefit or that trailer owner selected destination. Flores v. Brown (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 622, 628-629, 248 P.2d 922

[11] Towing

Improper coupling without safety chain, in violation of former Veh. Code § 701 (now see Veh. Code § 29004)

(coupling requirements for towed vehicles), is basis of liability if towed vehicle breaks loose. Lehmuth v. Long Beach Unified Sch. District (1960) 53 Cal. 2d 544, 552-553, 2 Cal. Rptr. 279, 348 P.2d 887

To extent Veh. Code § 22658 governs charges for nonconsensual vehicle towing and subsequent storage fees, enforcement of statute is not preempted by Federal Aviation Administration Authorization Act of 1994, 49 U.S.C.S. § 14501(c). CPF Agency Corp. v. Sevel's 24 Hour Towing Serv. (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 1034, 1052-1053, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 120 ; CPF Agency Corp. v. R&S Towing (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 1014, 1030-1032, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 106

Enforcement of Veh. Code § 22658, regulating removal of vehicles from private property by towing services, is not preempted by Federal Aviation Administration Authorization Act of 1994. People ex rel. Renne v. Servantes (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 1081, 1088-1092, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 870 ; see 49 U.S.C.S. § 14501(c)

Enforcement of Veh. Code § 22658, regulating removal of vehicles from private property by towing services, is not preempted by Federal Aviation Administration Authorization Act of 1994. People ex rel. Renne v. Servantes (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 1081, 1088-1092, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 870 ; see 49 U.S.C.S. § 14501(c)

Highway Patrol has no duty, absent existence of special relationship, to remove stranded automobile from highway; driver of truck on highway is unable to cross-complain against state in tort action resulting from truck's collision with motorhome parked to aid stranded automobile. Bonds v. State of California ex rel. Cal. Highway Patrol (1982) 138 Cal. App. 3d 314, 187 Cal. Rptr. 792

Towing one vehicle by means of another is not negligence per se, but towing must be done with due consideration for safety of others. Weddle v. Loges (1971) 52 Cal. App. 2d 115, 124, 125 P.2d 914

Person, including one in business of renting trailers, who mounts or attaches trailer to insufficiently reinforced or braced frame contrary to standards of former Veh. Code § 701(d) (now see Veh. Code § 29003(a)) is negligent. Douglass v. Webb (1962) 209 Cal. App. 2d 290, 294-295, 304-305, 26 Cal. Rptr. 60

Evidence establishing that defendant caused his heavier car to be towed by a lighter one over a winding, hilly road, choose the manner in which he tied the cars together, let his car coast in neutral, and continued that manner of towing even though his car rested against the towing car on every downgrade, and at fatal moment turned wheels to separate the cars was sufficient to support finding of negligence. Barnett v. Garrison (1949) 93 Cal. App. 2d 553, 556, 209 P.2d 426

Owner of trailer was negligent with respect to driver of truck that was towing it when nonoriginal brakes on trailer were inadequate to control it. Hupp v. Griffith Co. (1932) 127 Cal. App. 63, 66, 67, 15 P.2d 211

[12] Whipping or Swerving of Trailer

Tractor trailer driver was properly exonerated from liability when swerving of trailer was caused by sudden turn to avoid collision with another object. Patterson v. Delta Lines, Inc. (1956) 147 Cal. App. 2d 160, 161-162, 304 P.2d 842

Violation of former Veh. Code § 701(e) (now see Veh. Code § 21711), prohibiting towing of trailer that swerves out of normal path, as basis of liability for resulting damages. Risley v. Lenwell (1954) 129 Cal. App. 2d 608, 637-638, 277 P.2d 897

Tractor trailer driver may be liable for damage caused by swerving of trailer due to excessive speed under circumstances. Wells Truckways v. Cebrian (1954) 122 Cal. App. 2d 666, 670, 680, 265 P.2d 557 (rainy weather while moving down hill on unbanked curve)

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use to bring an action for personal injuries and property damage against the driver and owner of a truck for damages sustained by the plaintiff in an accident caused by the driver or owner of the truck or both.

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges:

- The residence and capacity of the defendant driver (Paragraph 1).
- The identity of the owner of the truck involved in the accident (Paragraph 7).
- Facts establishing that defendant driver owed a duty of exercising reasonable care towards plaintiff at the time of the accident (Paragraphs 8, 9).
- Defendants' breach of duty toward plaintiff, including an optional allegation that defendants' negligent loading of cargo caused an accident on the highway (Paragraph 10) [see Risley v. Lenwell (1954) 129 Cal. App. 2d 608, 616-620, 277 P.2d 897 (liability of lumber company that hired independent contractor, independant contractor who owned truck, truck owner's employee who hired driver, and driver, for accident caused by negligent loading of cargo)].
- A description of personal injury suffered by plaintiff as a proximate result of defendant's negligence (Paragraph 11).
- Grounds for compensatory damages for medical expenses incurred by plaintiff (Paragraph 12).
- Grounds for compensatory damages for loss of wages incurred by plaintiff (Paragraph 13).
- An optional allegation for use if plaintiff also suffered property damages (Paragraph 14).

The form also includes the following options:

- Optional allegations for use when the defendant driver is not the owner of the truck that was involved in the accident to allege the capacity of the truck owners and relationship of the defendants (Paragraphs 2-4).
- Optional paragraphs alleging fictitious defendants sued pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 474 (Paragraph 5) and that the fictitious defendants are employees and agents of the other defendants (Paragraph 6).

[4] Specifying Amount of Damages

In an action to recover damages for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

Otherwise, the amounts claimed as damages for anything other than personal injury or wrongful death (for example, property damage) must be alleged [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)] or an equivalent statement must be included, for example, a statement that the damages for a particular loss or harm sustained [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282] are not known and that leave will be sought to amend the complaint to state the exact amount when ascertained. If this is done, counsel must remember to seek leave to amend the complaint to so state before judgment.

No claim for punitive damages may state an amount sought regardless of the nature of the case [Civ. Code § 3295(e)].

For discussion of and forms for requesting and stating the amount of damages sought when they are not stated in the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.11, 425.115], see Ch. 177, Damages , and Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments .

[5] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a)], verification will require any answer to be verified in an unlimited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude a general denial in an unimited civil case, and will preclude a general denial even in a limited civil case when the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion see Ch. 26, Answers .

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use by the driver of a vehicle that was towing another vehicle against the owner or driver of the towed vehicle for damages caused by the negligence of the owner or driver of the towed vehicle when the accident was proximately caused by the defendant's negligent maintenance of the towed vehicle or negligence in attaching the towed and towing vehicles to one another.

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges:

- The capacity and residence of defendants (Paragraphs 1 and 2).
- Either rental of the towed vehicle by defendant to plaintiff or defendant's arrangement to have plaintiff tow defendant's vehicle (Paragraph 7).
- Defendant's ownership of towed vehicle (Paragraph 5).
- Plaintiff's driving of towing vehicle at time of accident (Paragraph 8).
- The occurrence of the accident as the proximate result of defendants' negligence (Paragraph 9) [see Hupp v. Griffith Co. (1932) 127 Cal. App. 63, 67, 15 P.2d 211] .

The form also includes an optional paragraph for use to allege plaintiff's ownership of the towing vehicle if the plaintiff is suing for damages to it (Paragraph 6).

[2] Use of Form

This form of allegations is for use in a complaint for damages for personal injuries sustained while a truck is being loaded or unloaded. The allegations should be inserted in place of Paragraphs 12-14 in the form in § 553.60[1], to state a cause of action for negligently moving the vehicle without warning of the impending movement when others are known to be in the vicinity of the vehicle [see Scott v. Gallot (1943) 59 Cal. App. 2d 421, 422-423, 427-428, 138 P.2d 685] . The remaining Paragraphs of that form should be renumbered accordingly.

[3] Allegations

The allegations set forth:

- The plaintiff's situation of hazard in relation to the truck.

- The negligent entrusting, managing, maintaining, driving, and operating of the defendant's vehicle as to proximately cause the accident.

§ 555.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses actions related to secured transactions involving trust deeds or real property mortgages.

The legal background begins by covering the general characteristics of mortgages and trust deeds, their purpose as security for the performance of an underlying obligation, and the effect that some common provisions may have on that performance [see § 555.10 et seq.]. It also covers deeds as mortgages [see § 555.22] and equitable mortgages [see § 555.23].

Other subparts of the legal background cover foreclosure [see § 555.30 et seq.], including both nonjudicial [see § 555.50 et seq.] and judicial [see § 555.70 et seq.] foreclosures, the collection of rents and profits [see § 555.80 et seq.], and injury to the security [see § 555.90 et seq.].

The chapter includes the following forms:

- A complaint to quiet title for failure to reconvey title after satisfaction of the secured obligation [see § 555.120].

- Complaints and judgments for use in actions concerning the establishment of a deed as a mortgage and equitable mortgages [see §§ 555.125-555.129].

- A declaration of a trustee's nonmonetary status [see § 555.135], as well as alternative forms to substitute the trustee of a trust deed [see §§ 555.136, 555.137].

- Forms for use in connection with conducting a nonjudicial foreclosure sale [see § 555.140 et seq.], including a complaint to prevent the sale [see § 555.147].

- Complaints and other forms for use in foreclosure actions and proceedings for deficiency judgments [see § 555.160 et seq.].

- A complaint and related forms for use in actions to enforce an assignment-of-rents clause in a trust deed [see § 555.180 et seq.].

- Complaints, an affirmative defense, and a notice of motion for use in actions for impairment of the value of the security by waste or injury to the property or to recover damages for rent skimming [see § 555.190 et seq.].

The chapter also includes a Research Guide [see § 555.100 et seq.].

§ 555.10 Governing Law

[1] In General

Trust deeds and mortgages are governed generally by (1) Civ. Code § 2920 et seq., which contain detailed requirements relating to trust deeds and mortgages, including provisions for nonjudicial foreclosure sales, and (2) Civ. Code § 2872 et seq., which are generally applicable to all liens.

Civ. Code §§ 2924(a), 2925, and 2950 govern actions to establish a deed, absolute on its face, as a mortgage.

Actions to establish an equitable mortgage are governed by nonstatutory equitable principles [see Coast Bank v. Minderhout (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 311, 313-314, 38 Cal. Rptr. 505, 392 P.2d 265 (overruled on other grounds in Wellenkamp v. Bank of America (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 943, 953, 148 Cal. Rptr. 379, 582 P.2d 970); Holder v. Williams (1959) 167 Cal. App. 2d 313, 316, 334 P.2d 291] .

Other provisions generally affecting trust deeds and mortgages include Civ. Code § 882.020 et seq., providing for the expiration of ancient trust deeds and mortgages, and Civ. Code § 1169 et seq., setting forth the general recording provisions affecting the priority of multiple trust deeds, mortgages, or other liens on the same property.

[2] Foreclosure

Nonjudicial foreclosure sales are governed generally by Civ. Code § 2920 et seq.

Foreclosure actions are governed generally by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 580c and 725a et seq.

Provisions governing deficiency judgments following foreclosure are set forth in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 580a, 580b, 580d, and 726.

[3] Collection of Rents and Profits

Civ. Code § 2938 governs written assignments of interests in leases, rents, issues, or profits of real property made in connection with obligations secured by real property.

Code Civ. Proc. § 564 sets forth the grounds for the appointment of a receiver to take possession of encumbered property on behalf of a trust-deed beneficiary, either to protect the property or to collect rents and profits. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1175 et seq., specifically govern appointmentof a receiver (in any circumstances, not limited to receivership for rents, issues, and profits).

12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3, known as the Garn Act, applies when a party seeks to enforce a due-on-sale clause. Federal regulations supplementing this statute are set forth chiefly in 12 C.F.R. Pt. 591, with others appearing in 12 C.F.R. Pts. 30 and 701.

[4] Injury to Security

Civ. Code § 2929 and Code Civ. Proc. § 745 govern actions for waste to property subject to a trust deed or mortgage.

Code Civ. Proc. § 564(b)(1) and (2) govern the appointment of a receiver when property is in substantial danger of being destroyed.

Civ. Code § 2929.5 governs a secured lender's right of entry and inspection based on the borrower's environmental impairment of real property security.

Code Civ. Proc. § 726.5 governs a secured lender's election of remedies when the real property is environmentally impaired and the borrower is in default, and Code Civ. Proc. § 736 governs a secured lender's right of action regarding the borrower's breach of an environmental provision relating to the real property.

§ 555.11 Terminology Used in This Chapter

Because of the prevailing use of trust deeds in California and their functional similarity to mortgages [see § 555.12[4][c]], this chapter generally uses, for convenience, terminology applicable to trust deeds in reference to both trust deeds and mortgages, except when a distinction is necessary. "Borrower" or "debtor" (instead of "trustor") and "lender" or "creditor" (instead of "beneficiary") may sometimes be used in discussions of authorities that use those terms [see, e.g., 12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3(a)(2), (d)(5)-(8)].

§ 555.12 Mortgage and Trust Deed Compared

[1] Mortgage

[a] Lien of Mortgage

A real property mortgage is a contract by which specified real property (including an estate for years in real property) is hypothecated for the performance of an act, without necessitating a change in possession [Civ. Code § 2920(a); see Civ. Code § 2920(b) (for purposes of applying Civ. Code §§ 2924-2924h [governing nonjudicial foreclosures], "mortgage" includesany instrument other than trust deed, including real property sale contract, that has power of sale affecting real property)]. It imposes a lien on the property independent of possession, which, in the absence of any contrary agreement, is a special lien that may be enforced only as security for the performance of the particular act or obligation specified in the contract [Civ. Code § 2923; see Civ. Code §§ 2874, 2875]. The lien of a mortgage involves no passage of title or other incidents of ownership [Civ. Code §§ 2877, 2888]. On default by the mortgagor, the mortgagee must first attempt to enforce the lien by a foreclosure action [see Code Civ. Proc. § 725a et seq.] or by a private sale (that is, nonjudicial foreclosure) if the mortgage includes a power of sale [see Civ. Code § 2920 et seq.].

[b] Equitable Mortgage Distinguished

Some instruments fail to qualify as a legal mortgage or trust deed, such as a promise to give a mortgage or trust deed as security, or a defectively executed trust deed or mortgage. This type of instrument may be declared to be an equitable mortgage in an action brought for that purpose, if the parties intended to create a security interest [Coast Bank v. Minderhout (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 311, 314, 38 Cal. Rptr. 505, 392 P.2d 265 (overruled on other grounds in Wellenkamp v. Bank of America (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 943, 953, 148 Cal. Rptr. 379, 582 P.2d 970)]. For discussion, see § 555.23.

A grant deed absolute on its face, if given solely as security for the performance of a continuing obligation, may sometimes be referred to as an equitable mortgage [see, e.g., Aguilar v. Bocci (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 475, 477, 114 Cal. Rptr. 91] , although this type of transfer is actually deemed to be a mortgage by statute [see Civ. Code §§ 2924(a), 2925]. For discussion, see § 555.22.

[c] Parties and Form

The mortgage contract involves two parties: the mortgagor, who as owner hypothecates the property, and the mortgagee, who as creditor or obligee receives the lien and is entitled to performance of the secured obligation. The mortgagor is usually the debtor or obligor but occasionally may act as a surety, giving the mortgage to secure the performance of another [see Bechtel v. Wier (1907) 152 Cal. 443, 444, 93 P. 75] . The effect of a merger of the interests of the mortgagor and the mortgagee in one person is discussed in § 555.18[3].

The form of the mortgage contract must generally conform to the formalities required of a grant of real property [Civ. Code § 2922]. It may be executed in substantially the form set forth in Civ. Code § 2948. For further discussion of the formalities required for effectiveness of a mortgage, see § 555.12[2][d][i].

[2] Trust Deed

[a] Conveyance of Title to Secure Debt

A trust deed (or deed of trust) is a conveyance of real property to secure payment of a debt [Hohn v. Riverside County Flood Control etc. Dist. (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 605, 611, 39 Cal. Rptr. 647] , which is usually evidenced by a separate promissory note. Like a mortgage, a trust deed is a contract and is to be interpreted together with the note and any other document that is part of the transaction, such as an agreement of sale [Huckell v. Matranga (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 471, 481, 160 Cal. Rptr. 177] . Pursuant to this contract, the trustor, usually the debtor, conveys title to a trustee, usually a neutral third party, solely for the purpose of securing the debt owed to the beneficiary, who is the creditor or obligee [see Huckell v. Matranga (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 471, 481, 160 Cal. Rptr. 177 ; Wasco Creamery etc. Co. v. Coffee (1931) 117 Cal. App. 298, 300-301, 3 P.2d 588] . The effect of a merger of the interests of the trustor and the beneficiary in one person is discussed in § 555.18[3].

[b] Distinction From Mortgage Lien

The transfer of title to the trustee, commonly referred to as the title theory of trust deeds, in legal effect distinguishes a trust deed from the lien of a mortgage. This legal distinction is now given little emphasis but does result in a few differences in the treatment given to trust deeds and mortgages [see Bank of Italy etc. Assn. v. Bentley (1933) 217 Cal. 644, 655, 20 P.2d 940] . The most significant difference in treatment is that the lapse of the statute of limitations on the principal debt will extinguish a mortgage, including one with a power of sale, while the power of sale in a trust deed is not affected [Faxon v. All Persons (1913) 166 Cal. 707, 715-717, 137 P. 919 (mortgage); Carson Redevelopment Agency v. Adam (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 608, 610-612, 186 Cal. Rptr. 615 (trust deed)]. This distinction is further discussed in § 555.18[4][a].

[c] Functional Similarity to Mortgage Lien

Although the title theory of trust deeds is sometimes emphasized [see [b], above], a trust deed is generally considered to be practically and substantially the same as a mortgage with a power of sale, because the conveyance of legal title to the trustee carries neither possession nor any other incident of ownership except the power to sell the property on default. The trustor is regarded as the legal owner except as to the trustee, and the trustee holds only the title needed to convey the property to a purchaser on the trustor's default [Bank of Italy etc. Assn. v. Bentley (1933) 217 Cal. 644, 655-656, 20 P.2d 940 ; Wasco Creamery etc. Co. v. Coffee (1931) 117 Cal. App. 298, 300-301, 3 P.2d 588] . Because of this functional similarity,a trust deed is often treated like a mortgage lien in spite of the title theory. The same rules that are applied to mortgages are generally applied to trust deeds [Domarad v. Fisher & Burke, Inc. (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d

543, 553, 76 Cal. Rptr. 529] . As a result, mention is often made of the "lien of a trust deed" [see, e.g., Civ. Code § 882.020(a)], although technically neither a lien nor a mortgage includes a transfer in trust [see Civ. Code §§ 2872, 2924(a)]. This similarity of treatment is illustrated by the following cases:

- The beneficiary of a trust deed secretly executed by a joint tenant contended that when the joint tenant died, the surviving joint tenant took the property subject to the trust deed. The beneficiary argued that, under the title theory of trust deeds, the transfer of title destroyed the joint tenancy's unity of title, converting the interest secured by the trust deed into that of a tenant in common, which survived the tenant's death. However, the court held that the trust deed was analogous to a mortgage lien and did not affect the unity of title, so that the secured interest remained a joint tenancy interest and was extinguished by the trustor's death, leaving no interest to which the trust deed could attach [Hamel v. Gootkin (1962) 202 Cal. App. 2d 27, 28-30, 20 Cal. Rptr. 372 ; see People v. Nogarr (1958) 164 Cal. App. 2d 591, 594, 330 P.2d 858 (same rule applied to mortgage)].

- The Supreme Court held that on the default of a trustor, the beneficiary of a trust deed, like the mortgagee of a mortgage, was required first to exhaust the property given as security. At the time, Code Civ. Proc. § 726 (security-first rule) on its face referred only to mortgages, but the court reasoned that the functional similarity of trust deeds to mortgages justified applying the rule to trust deeds as well, notwithstanding the formal distinction between a trust deed's "title" and a mortgage's "lien" [Bank of Italy etc. Assn. v. Bentley (1933) 217 Cal. 644, 648-649, 653-658, 20 P.2d 940] .

[i] Formalities

The formal elements of a trust deed correspond to those of a mortgage. Although there is no statutory form of trust deed, as there is for a mortgage, the same general requirements as to formalities apply [see Domarad v. Fisher & Burke, Inc. (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 543, 553, 76 Cal. Rptr. 529] . Both a trust deed and a mortgage must conform to the formalities required of a grant of real property, that is, generally they must be in writing, include a description of the property, and be signed by the trustor or mortgagor [Civ. Code § 2922; see Civ. Code § 1091 et seq.]. The property description must be sufficient to identify the property [Sepulveda v. Apablasa (1938) 25 Cal. App. 2d 381, 387, 77 P.2d 526 ; Scott v. Woodworth (1917) 34 Cal.App. 400, 408-410, 167 P. 543] . Additionally, there must be sufficient information concerning the obligation secured so as to indicate the extent of the encumbrance [D'Oyly v. Capp (1893) 99 Cal. 153, 157, 33 P. 736] . These elements are all present in the statutory form for a mortgage [Civ. Code § 2948].

After execution of the trust deed or mortgage, there must be a valid delivery to the beneficiary or mortgagee, before the instrument can be effective [see Stirton v. Pastor (1960) 177 Cal. App. 2d 232, 234, 2 Cal. Rptr. 135 ; Hahn v. Hahn (1954) 123 Cal. App. 2d 97, 101, 266 P.2d 519 ; see also Burns v. Peters (1936) 5 Cal. 2d 619, 623, 55 P.2d 1182 (delivery of trust deed to trustee is not required)].

Acknowledgment and recording are not strictly necessary in order for the trust deed or mortgage to be effective as to the parties and persons with actual notice [Civ. Code § 1217]. However, acknowledgment is a prerequisite to recording [Gov. Code § 27287], and a trust deed or mortgage that is not recorded will be void as against any subsequent purchaser or lienholder lacking actual notice, whose interest is first recorded [Civ. Code § 1214]. For further discussion, see § 555.16.

PRACTICE TIP:

Acknowledgment/Recordation Beats Unrecorded Interests. Acknowledgment and recordation are essentials to preservation of priorities under California's "race notice" scheme. Without them, the parties to an unrecorded trust deed or mortgage will lose to a bona fide purchaser or encumbrancer recording after the secret lien was created. Observation of these formalities are prerequisites to winning priority contests in "first in time" schemes, such as that adopted in California. By William M. Hensley

Acknowledgment and recording may be accomplished in the same manner as a grant of real property [Civ. Code § 2952]. Certain additional requirements may apply before a trust deed or mortgage may be recorded. In particular, a trust deed or mortgage with a power of sale must specify the address of the trustor or mortgagor and contain a request by that person for receipt of a copy of any notice of default and a copy of any notice of sale, although failure to include this information does not make the instrument invalid [Gov. Code § 27321.5(b)].

[ii] Standard Provisions

Aside from formal requirements, the provisions of trust deeds have generally become standardized by common practice [see California Legal Forms, Ch. 25A, Security Instruments for Real Estate Financing (Matthew Bender)]. Provisions concerning acceleration of the maturity of the obligation and subordination of priority are discussed in § 555.15[3] and [4] and*§ 555.16[4]*. A provision for the right to collect rents and profits is discussed in § 555.80 et seq.

The trust deed is commonly a filled-out printed form provided by institutional lenders or title companies, and so it may be construed as a contract of adhesion [Lomanto v. Bank of America (1972) 22 Cal. App. 3d 663, 668, 99 Cal. Rptr. 442] . The standardized forms commonly do not contain all of the provisions governing the parties' agreement but instead incorporate many of the standardized provisions by reference to a pro forma trust deed, which contains those provisions and is recorded in each county solely for the purpose of providing constructive notice of the contents [see Civ. Code § 2952].

PRACTICE TIP:

Use of Trust Deed Forms in California. Care must be taken to use trust deeds that are catered to peculiarities of California real estate law. Many out-of-state lenders use mortgage forms that do not contain, for example, surety and Gradsky waivers. This lack of attention (if not downright sloppiness) can lead to catastrophic results for the unsuspecting lender that does not draft clauses that properly surmount California pro-borrower protections. By William M. Hensley

[iii] Status of Trustee

One element of a trust deed different from a mortgage is the addition to the transaction of a third party, the trustee. The status of the trustee is not that of a trustee in the strict sense but is that of a common agent of the trustor and beneficiary [Lupertino v. Carbahal (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 742, 747, 111 Cal. Rptr. 112] . The trustee's obligations and liabilities are determined by ordinary principles of agency [Kerivan v. Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 225, 229, 195 Cal. Rptr. 53] . For further discussion of agency principles generally, see Ch. 427, Principal and Agent .

The trustee may be the same person as the beneficiary [Bank of America Nat'l Trust & Sav. Asso. v. Century Land & Water Co., (1937) 19 Cal. App. 2d 194, 196, 65 P.2d 109] , but if this arrangement is made in the initial transaction, the instrument may be construed as a mortgage with a power of sale, under the rule that any doubt as to whether an instrument is a trust deed or mortgage should be resolved in favor of a mortgage with a power of sale [Banta v. Wise (1901) 135 Cal. 277, 280, 67 P. 129 ; Godfrey v. Monroe (1894) 101 Cal. 224, 226, 227-228, 35 P. 761 ; see Civ. Code § 2924(a) (every transfer made as security, other than in trust, is to be deemed mortgage)].

The trustee is not the trustee of an express trust [Monterey S.P. Partnership v. W.L. Bangham, Inc. (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 454, 462, 261 Cal. Rptr. 587, 777 P.2d 623 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 369(a)], and service of process on thetrustee does not constitute service on the beneficiary or obligate the trustee to notify the beneficiary [Monterey S.P. Partnership v. W.L. Bangham, Inc. (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 454, 462, 261 Cal. Rptr. 587, 777 P.2d 623 ; see Civ. Code § 2937.7]. The trustee is not acting as a fiduciary in conducting a foreclosure sale [Hatch v. Collins (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 1104,

§ 555.13 Property Interest Encumbered

[1] Nature of Interest

Any interest in real property that is capable of being transferred may be mortgaged [Civ. Code § 2947; see, e.g., Tripler v. MacDonald Lumber Co. (1916) 173 Cal. 144, 147, 159 P. 591 (interest of purchaser under installment land sale contract)]. The parties may even create, by express agreement, a mortgage lien on real property not yet acquired by the person giving the lien, in which case the lien attaches if and when the person giving the lien subsequently acquires an interest in the property, to the extent of that interest [Civ. Code § 2883(a); see Hosford v. Henry (1951) 107 Cal. App. 2d 765, 774, 238 P.2d 91 ; but see Civ. Code § 2883(b) (beneficiary of estate subject to administration may agree to create lien on undistributed property in estate but cannot thus create actual lien until property is distributed to that beneficiary)]. As a practical matter, however, the property interest provided as security will be some form of present legal ownership, because a trust deed, which by nature requires a transfer of title, is the more commonly used real property security device in California [see, e.g., Caito v. United California Bank (1978) 20 Cal. 3d 694, 701, 144 Cal. Rptr. 751, 576 P.2d 466 (cotenant's ownership interest was security under trust deed)].

[2] After-Acquired or Reacquired Title

Title acquired by the trustor after execution of the trust deed inures to the beneficiary as security in the same manner as if it had been acquired before the execution [Civ. Code § 2930; Barberi v. Rothchild (1936) 7 Cal. 2d 537, 538-540, 61 P.2d 760] . If a trustor does not have title at the time he or she purports to transfer it under a trust deed but later acquires it during the life of the trust deed, the trust deed is deemed valid and enforceable on the theory that the trustor is estopped from denying title [Perego v. Seltzer (1968) 260 Cal. App. 2d 825, 828-829, 67 Cal. Rptr. 636 ; cf. Hawkins v. Harlan (1885) 68 Cal. 236, 237-238, 9 P. 108 (holding that this rule would not be given effect when it would result in manifest injustice)].

The rule of Civ. Code § 2930 also applies when title lost through foreclosure is subsequently reacquired by the trustor, either directly as the purchaser at the foreclosure sale or indirectly as a grantee of the purchaser. The effect of the rule in these cases is to revive any junior trust deeds or mortgages that would ordinarily have been extinguished by the foreclosure of the senior lien [Barberi v. Rothchild (1936) 7 Cal. 2d 537, 538-540, 61 P.2d 760 (junior trust deed revived); DMC, Inc. v. Downey Savings & Loan Assn. (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 190, 198-199, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 761 (junior trust deed revived but remains second to new purchase-money deed of trust); Jensen v. Duke (1925) 71 Cal. App. 210, 211-212, 234 P. 876 (junior mortgage revived); see § 555.18[5]].

[3] Fixtures and Personal Property

Personal property placed on encumbered real property so as to constitute a fixture or permanent improvement becomes a part of the encumbered real property, even if it became affixed after the creation of the trust deed [see Harper v. Buckles (1937) 19 Cal. App. 2d 481, 484-485, 65 P.2d 947 ; see also Civ. Code §§ 658-660 (fixture is part of real property)]. The lien thus imposed on fixtures as part of the encumbered real property may be subordinate to or otherwise affected by other liens on the fixtures perfected under the Commercial Code [see Com. Code § 9301 et seq.]. The trust deed itself may, however, expressly create and perfect a lien on fixtures under these same provisions [see Com. Code § 9502(c)]. For further discussion of the operation and effect of these provisions, see Ch. 503, Sales: Secured Transactions .

If a fixture is severed, it becomes personal property and is no longer included as part of the encumbered real property. In this event, the beneficiary may bring an action either to enjoin the severance or, after severance, to recover damages for impairment of the security [Stowell v. Waddingham (1893) 100 Cal. 7, 9-10, 34 P. 436 ; Lavenson v. Standard Soap Co. (1889) 80 Cal. 245, 246-248, 22 P. 184] .

Personal property not affixed to the encumbered real property may be included as part of the security under the provisions of the trust deed, and this provision is valid as between the parties [McLeod v. Barnum (1901) 131 Cal. 605, 606-607, 63 P. 924 ; Hosford v. Henry (1951) 107 Cal. App. 2d 765, 773-774, 238 P.2d 91] . The better practice, however, is to draft a separate security agreement for any personal property, in compliance with the requirements applicable to personal property security interests [see Com. Code § 9101 et seq.; Freedland v. Greco (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 462, 466, 289 P.2d 463] . For further discussion of the operation and effect of these requirements, see Ch. 503, Sales: Secured Transactions .

PRACTICE TIP:

Follow Unified Sale Dictates. For commercial properties such as hotels, it is possible to conduct a unified sale of real and personal property without adverse repercussions if the dictates of 9601 et seq. are followed properly. By William M. Hensley

[4] Transfer of Encumbered Property

[a] In General

A trustor or successor is free to convey or otherwise transfer property previously provided as security under a trust deed [Moss v. Minor Properties, Inc. (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 847, 855, 69 Cal. Rptr. 341 ; see § 555.15[4] for discussion of the effect of due-on-sale clauses]. The transfer is subject to the prior trust deed, so that the property continues to be security for the performance of the trustor's obligation, but the transferee has no personal liability for that obligation in the absence of an assumption agreement [Cornelison v. Kornbluth (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 590, 596-597, 125 Cal. Rptr. 557, 542 P.2d 981] .

The trustor's personal liability, if any, to satisfy any possible deficiency is unaffected by the transfer. If the transferee does not assume the obligation but merely takes the property subject to the trust deed, the trustor remains liable as a surety for the property itself, thus becoming the principal debtor [Braun v. Crew (1920) 183 Cal. 728, 731, 192 P.

531] . If the transferee assumes the obligation, the trustor remains as a surety for the transferee, who assumes the role of principal debtor [Birkhofer v. Krumm (1935) 4 Cal. App. 2d 43, 50, 40 P.2d 553] .

[b] Manner and Effect of Assumption

A transferee assumes the secured obligation by agreeing in writing to assume it [Cornelison v. Kornbluth (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 590, 596-597, 125 Cal. Rptr. 557, 542 P.2d 981 ; Everts v. Matteson (1942) 21 Cal. 2d 437, 448, 132 P.2d 476 ; see Civ. Code § 1624(a)(7)]. A mere recitation that the transferee takes the property subject to the trust deed is not an effective assumption [Snidow v. Hill (1948) 87 Cal. App. 2d 803, 807, 197 P.2d 801] . Moreover, an assumption agreement is collateral to the transfer itself, and a transferee may not be bound by an assumption provision inserted in a deed without the transferee's knowledge or consent [Fishback v. J.C. Forkner Fig Gardens (1934) 137 Cal. App. 211, 215-219, 30 P.2d 586] .

An assuming transferee is estopped to deny the validity of the trust deed [Harris v. Whittier Bldg. & Loan Asso. (1936) 18 Cal. App. 2d 260, 267, 63 P.2d 840] and becomes personally liable for any deficiency [Braun v. Crew (1920) 183 Cal. 728, 731, 192 P. 531] . However, when the assumption agreement is made with the trustor or a successor, it is not enforceable by the beneficiary and does not give rise to personal liability on the part of the transferee when the trustor has no personal liability [Ward v. De Oca (1898) 120 Cal. 102, 104-105, 52 P. 130 ; Dail v. Campbell (1961) 191 Cal. App. 2d 416, 421, 12 Cal. Rptr. 739] .

On assumption, a relation of principal and surety arises between the transferee and trustor, so that the transferee becomes personally liable as the principal debtor while the trustor becomes personally liable as surety for the transferee [Braun v. Crew (1920) 183 Cal. 728, 731, 192 P. 531 ; Birkhofer v. Krumm (1935) 4 Cal. App. 2d 43, 50, 40 P.2d 553] . From the beneficiary's standpoint, both the trustor and the transferee are sureties for any deficiency [Birkhofer v. Krumm (1935) 4 Cal. App. 2d 43, 50, 40 P.2d 553] . Nonetheless, after learning of an assumption, the beneficiary must recognize the suretyship arising between the trustor and the transferee and respect the rights arising under the law of suretyship [Everts v. Matteson (1942) 21 Cal. 2d 437, 447-448, 132 P.2d 476] .

PRACTICE TIP:

Difficulties of Proving Assumption Defenses. Many borrowers misperceive the scope of an assumption agreement, frequently believing it "exonerates" them from further exposure under the loan documents. This is not necessarily so, unless the lender expressly releases the assignor from liability. These novation theories, in the absence of a release, are difficult to prove, because novation must be established through an elevated "clear and convincing" evidentiary standard [see Alexander v. Angel (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 856, 860-861, 236 P. 2d 561] . Furthermore, should the Resolution Trust Corporation or its assignees be involved, the novation theories would be barred under the D'Oench, Duhme doctrine [see RTC Mortgage Trust v. Shlens (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 304, 326, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 581] . Assumption theories must be predicated on ponderable evidence of significance and, further, only work against certain private lenders not purchasing from the RTC or FDIC. By William M. Hensley

Under suretyship law [see Civ. Code § 2787 et seq.], for example, a trustor as surety, may, in the event of a deficiency, require the beneficiary (creditor) first to proceed against the assuming transferee (debtor) [Civ. Code § 2845; see Hamburger v. Ellingson (1934) 139 Cal. App. 311, 313-315, 33 P.2d 850] . Also, if the beneficiary grants a partial release of the security without the consent of the trustor, the trustor's personal liability is proportionally reduced under suretyship principles [Civ. Code §§ 2822, 2849; Woodward v. Brown (1897) 119 Cal. 283, 292-295, 51 P. 542 ; cf. Thompson v. Thomas (1919) 43 Cal. App. 588, 590, 185 P. 427 (surety's liability was not reduced when security instrument expressly provided for partial release)]. For further discussion of suretyship principles generally, see Ch. 538, Suretyship, Bonds, and Undertakings .

[5] Insurance of Encumbered Property

Trust deeds commonly include provisions requiring that the trustor maintain adequate insurance coverage of the property interest [see § 555.15[2][a]].

If the beneficiary or trustee is entitled to receive and control the disbursement of insurance proceeds, that right is enforceable regardless of whether the security interest is actually impaired as a result of the event that caused the proceeds of the policy to become payable [Civ. Code § 2924.7(b); see Stats. 1988, ch. 179, § 3 (legislative intent that this provision abrogates contrary decisions)]. A beneficiary may not, however, prohibit the use of insurance proceeds for restoring the property in the absence of evidence that the security interest has been impaired [Schoolcraft v. Ross (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 75, 80-81, 146 Cal. Rptr. 57 ; see Stats. 1988, ch. 179, § 3]. On the other hand, if a trustor is in long-standing default when an event occurs that causes the policy proceeds to become payable, the trustor may not insist that the proceeds be used to restore the property. That would impair the beneficiary's security by delaying the beneficiary's right to foreclose because of the default [see Ford v. Manufacturers Hanover Mortgage Corporation (9th Cir. 1987) 831 F.2d 1520, 1524] .

PRACTICE TIP:

Earthquake Insurance Proceeds. Deposition of proceeds can be important for lenders of properties involved in earthquakes when borrowers also carry earthquake insurance. Whether the trust deed beneficiary can lay claim to the earthquake insurance proceeds depends on the wording of the germane deed of trust. Specifically, the trust deed must require earthquake insurance and direct the application of insurance proceeds towards repair of the property. Merely designating the lender as a loss payee under the insurance policy does not substitute for precise entitlement language in the trust deed [see Ziello v. Superior Court (1995) 36 Cal. App. 4th 321, 329-331, 42 Cal. Rptr. 2d 251] . However, a deed of trust that does not require the homeowner to obtain earthquake insurance but provides that if such insurance is obtained the lender must be named loss payee and has the right to control or direct the proceeds is fully enforceable [Martin v. World Savings and Loan Assn. (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 803, 809, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 225] . Careful drafting of the trust deed on insurance proceed disposition issues is imperative for the lender desiring to protect its security from natural calamities. By William M. Hensley

§ 555.14 Obligation Secured

[1] Necessity for and Nature of Obligation

Because a trust deed is merely incidental to the obligation secured [see Civ. Code § 2909; Prob. Code § 15407(a)(2)], it is valid and enforceable only to the extent that the underlying obligation exists [Turner v. Gosden (1932) 121 Cal. App. 20, 22, 8 P.2d 505] . An obligation is essential even though no one need be personally obligated to perform it [Shelley v. Byers (1925) 73 Cal. App. 44, 58-59, 238 P. 177 ; see Civ. Code §§ 2890, 2928]. A trust deed is extinguished by discharge of the underlying obligation [see § 555.18[1]].

If there is any inconsistency in the terms of the obligation evidenced by a note and the terms of a trust deed securing the obligation, the terms of the note are controlling [Pacific Fruit Exchange v. Duke (1930) 103 Cal. App. 340, 345, 284 P. 729] . Similarly, consideration must support the obligation before the trust deed may be enforced [Coon v. Shry (1930) 209 Cal. 612, 614-615, 289 P. 815] , but no further consideration need be given for the trust deed itself [see Carson v. Reid (1902) 137 Cal. 253, 253-257, 70 P. 89] .

There are no limitations on the form or character of a secured obligation, as long as it exists. For example, it need not be evidenced by a separate writing [Todd v. Todd (1912) 164 Cal. 255, 258, 128 P. 413] , as long as the trust deed refers to it sufficiently to ascertain its extent [D'Oyly v. Capp (1893) 99 Cal. 153, 157, 33 P. 736] . In addition, several different obligations may be secured by a single trust deed [see Hocker v. Reas (1861) 18 Cal. 650, 653] , or one obligation may be secured by more than one trust deed [see Security Loan etc. Co. v. Mattern (1901) 131 Cal. 326, 330-331, 63 P. 482] . The character of the obligation is not limited and may be the performance of any act [Civ. Code §§ 2872, 2920(a); see, e.g., Stub v. Belmont (1942) 20 Cal. 2d 208, 213, 124 P.2d 826 (obligation was service contract)]. However, most secured obligations are money debts evidenced by a promissory note, and as a practical matter there is little point in securing an obligation if it cannot readily be liquidated for the purpose of applying the proceeds from a sale of the security.

[2] Usurious Loan

If the secured obligation is a debt, and the terms of the loan are in violation of the usury law, usurious interest cannot be collected, but the debt remains valid and enforceable under the trust deed [Winnett v. Roberts (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 909, 921, 225 Cal. Rptr. 82 ; Harris v. Gallant (1960) 183 Cal. App. 2d 94, 99-100, 6 Cal. Rptr. 630] . For discussion of what constitutes usury by a lender, see Ch. 568, Usury .

[3] Loan Secured by Dragnet or Future Advance Clause

[a] In General

A trust deed does not secure any prior or subsequent debts owed by the trustor to the beneficiary, in the absence of some express provision to the contrary in the trust deed [see Civ. Code §§ 2874, 2875, 2891, 2923]. The standardized trust deeds of most lending institutions include so-called dragnet clauses and future-advance clauses, for the purpose of securing unspecified debts in addition to the specified debt. A dragnet clause, in broad language, secures all other debts owed by the trustor to the beneficiary, regardless of when they arise. A future-advance clause, usually included in a dragnet clause, secures other debts owed by the trustor to the beneficiary arising after the execution of the trust deed [see Wong v. Beneficial Sav. & Loan Asso. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 286, 292, 128 Cal. Rptr. 338] .

Future-advance and dragnet clauses are valid in California [Union Bank v. Wendland (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 393, 398, 126 Cal. Rptr. 549] . However, it is a question of fact in each case, whether a dragnet clause or future-advance clause will be construed to secure a particular unspecified debt [see Lomanto v. Bank of America (1972) 22 Cal. App. 3d 663, 670, 99 Cal. Rptr. 442] . The courts will construe the clause in accordance with the parties' actual intent rather than its literal wording, and the proponent has the burden of showing that both parties intended the unspecified debt to be secured under the clause [Wong v. Beneficial Sav. & Loan Asso. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 286, 293-294, 128 Cal. Rptr. 338] .

In the absence of expressed intent, two recognized tests or considerations will help determine the reasonable intent of the parties: (1) whether the unspecified debt bears a relationship to the specified debt; and (2) whether the unspecified debt was made in reliance on the security [Wong v. Beneficial Sav. & Loan Asso. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 286, 295-296, 128 Cal. Rptr. 338] . Under the first test, if the unspecified and specified debts are similar in nature or have some close connection, such as two debts for home improvement, the requisite intent may be inferred, whereas the absence of similarity or a connection, such as with a home improvement loan and a business loan, indicates a lack of requisite intent [Wong v. Beneficial Sav. & Loan Asso. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 286, 295-296, 128 Cal. Rptr. 338 ; Union Bank v. Wendland (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 393, 404, 126 Cal. Rptr. 549] . Under the second test, if the unspecified debt is expressly secured by a different security, there is an inference that the parties did not intend that it also be secured by the security provided for the specified debt [Wong v. Beneficial Sav. & Loan Asso. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 286, 296, 128 Cal. Rptr. 338 ; Union Bank v. Wendland (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 393, 404-405, 126 Cal. Rptr. 549] .

[b] Pre-existing or Concurrent Debts

In view of the relationship test and reliance test for ascertaining the parties' unexpressed intent [see [a], above], a pre-existing debt is arguably not secured under a trust deed expressly securing another debt, when the pre-existing debt is not itself specified in the trust deed. Even if there is a close relation between the unspecified debt and the specified debt, there can be no reliance on the security, because the loan was made before the security. Moreover, failure to specify the pre-existing debt together with the specified debt, in spite of the ease of doing so, is strong evidence of an intent that the unspecified debt not be covered [see Wong v. Beneficial Sav. & Loan Asso. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 286, 293-294, 128 Cal. Rptr. 338] .

For example, in one case a trust deed including a dragnet clause was given by three trustors who owned the property as tenants in common. At the time the trust deed was executed, one of the trustors was in default on a pre-existing unsecured personal debt, of which the other trustors were unaware. The court held that the pre-existing debt was not secured by the property interests of the trustors who were unaware of its existence [Gates v. Crocker-Anglo Nat. Bk. (1968) 257 Cal. App. 2d 857, 858, 860-861, 65 Cal. Rptr. 536] . Among the determining factors was the failure to discuss the pre-existing debt or specify it in the trust deed [Gates v. Crocker-Anglo Nat. Bk. (1968) 257 Cal. App. 2d 857, 859-860, 861, 65 Cal. Rptr. 536] .

Another case involved the effect of a dragnet clause on unspecified debts incurred concurrently with the specified debt. The trustor borrowed money to build an apartment complex. For financing reasons the trustor subdivided the property into eight parcels, executed eight separate notes, and then secured each note with a trust deed containing a dragnet clause. The literal effect of the clauses was to make each trust deed security for all eight notes and to secure each debt with all eight trust deeds [Wong v. Beneficial Sav. & Loan Asso. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 286, 288-289, 292, 128 Cal. Rptr. 338] . The court held that the clauses did create that result because of the close relation of each debt to the others, all of which were incurred separately only for financing purposes and in fact constituted a single debt for a single purpose. The relation was so strong that it showed true reliance, even though each note technically stated that it was made in reliance on the security of only one of the eight parcels [Wong v. Beneficial Sav. & Loan Asso. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 286, 296-297, 128 Cal. Rptr. 338] .

[c] Subsequent Loan or Future Advance

Future-advance clauses have been held to secure unspecified subsequent debts, even if there was no specified covered debt at the time the trust deed was executed [Moss v. Odell (1901) 134 Cal. 464, 466, 66 P. 581 ; see Civ. Code § 2884], or if the future advances are to be made only at the discretion of the beneficiary [Langerman v. Puritan Dining Room Co. (1913) 21 Cal. App. 637, 647, 132 P. 617] . No limit to the number or amount of future advances need be specified, as long as the trust deed provides that it is for future advances [Imhoff v. Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1952) 113 Cal. App. 2d 139, 144, 247 P.2d 851] . If, however, some limitation is specified, a future advance that does not come within the express limitation is not secured [see Keese v. Beardsley (1923) 190 Cal. 465, 470, 213 P. 500 (mortgage secured future advances only if made before certain date)].

An unspecified subsequent debt will not be secured by a future-advance clause unless that was the intent of the parties, as determined by the relationship test and reliance test [see [a], above]. For example, promissory notes subsequently executed by the trustor in favor of a third person and later bought up by the beneficiary were not covered by the security because they lacked a relation to the specified debt sufficient to infer an intent that they would be secured [Moran v. Gardemeyer (1889) 82 Cal. 96, 100-101, 23 P. 6 ; see Union Bank v. Wendland (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 393, 404, 126 Cal. Rptr. 549] . Similarly, a subsequent loan that was expressly made in reliance on different security was not covered because it was evident that the loan was not made in reliance on the security provided for the specified debt [Moran v. Gardemeyer (1889) 82 Cal. 102, 103-104, 23 P. 8 ; see Union Bank v. Wendland (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 393, 404-405, 126 Cal. Rptr. 549 ; but see Wong v. Beneficial Sav. & Loan Asso. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 286, 296-297, 128 Cal. Rptr. 338 ; [b], above]. On the other hand, a subsequent loan was held to be secured by a future-advance clause when it was used in part to pay off the specified debt, showing a sufficient relation to that loan, and when it was actually, if not technically, made in reliance on the same security [Union Bank v. Wendland (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 393, 405, 126 Cal. Rptr. 549] .

A subsequent loan covered by a future-advance clause has the same priority as the trust deed itself if the subsequent loan was obligatory rather than optional on the part of the beneficiary. However, if the subsequent loan was not obligatory, it is subordinate to any intervening lien, if at the time of making the subsequent loan, the beneficiary had been given actual notice of the existence of the junior lien [Pike v. Tuttle (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 746, 751, 96 Cal. Rptr. 403 ; see, e.g., Garcia v. Atmajian (1980) 113 Cal. App. 3d 516, 520-521, 169 Cal. Rptr. 845 (subsequent loan was subordinate to intervening lien of purchaser under land sale contract actually known to beneficiary)]. For further discussion of priorities, see § 555.16.

[4] Statutory Regulation of Loans

The terms for financing a loan secured by a trust deed, whether contained in the trust deed or in the note evidencing the debt, are regulated by state and federal laws. For example, statutes regulate the terms of variable-interest loans and adjustable-rate or renegotiable-rate loans [Civ. Code §§ 1916.5-1916.12]. These typically provide for certain limitations on the terms set by the lender and also require certain disclosures to the borrower, to be included in the trust deed and note [see, e.g., Civ. Code § 1916.5(a)]. A violation of the requirements of Civ. Code §§ 1916.5-1916.9 does not itself invalidate the lien of a mortgage or trust deed [Civ. Code § 1916.11]. However, violation of those provisions could have some effect on any other remedies or defenses available to the borrower [see Civ. Code § 1916.11].

Another statutory regulation is Civ. Code § 2948.5, which provides that a borrower may not be required to pay interest on a note secured by a mortgage or trust deed on real property improved with one to four residential dwelling units for a period in excess of one day before recording of the mortgage or trust deed if the loan proceeds are paid into escrow, or if there is no escrow, the date on which the loan proceeds have been made available for withdrawal as a matter of right [Civ. Code § 2948.5(a); see Ins. Code § 12413.1(d) (withdrawal as matter of right)]. Interest may commence to accrue on the business day immediately preceding the day of recording if both of the following occur [Civ. Code § 2948.5(b)]:

- The borrower affirmatively requests, and the lender agrees, that the recording will occur on Monday, or on a day immediately following a bank holiday; and

- The borrower receives disclosure information concerning the amount of additional per diem interest charged to facilitate recording on Monday or the day following a holiday, as the case may be, and stating that it may be possible to avoid the additional per diem interest charge by recording the deed of trust on a day immediately following a business day, and the borrower acknowledges receipt of this information by signing a copy of the disclosure document before placing funds in escrow.

In any case, these provisions do not apply to loans made or negotiated by real estate brokers that are subject to Bus. & Prof. Code § 10242(c), which prohibits charging interest until the date the proceeds of the loan are made available to the lender or are deposited in escrow [Civ. Code § 2948.5(c)].

The California Residential Mortgage Lending Act [Fin. Code § 50000 et seq.] governs specified persons engaged in the business of making or servicing residential mortgage loans in California. For discussion, see § 555.21. In addition, various requirements are imposed on certain loans with an original balance not exceeding $250,000 [Fin. Code § 4970 et seq.]. For discussion of these loans and the requirements applicable to them, see § 555.21A.

Some other pertinent statutes regulating certain terms of secured real property loans and possibly affecting a borrower's remedies or defenses include provisions applicable to:

- Shared-appreciation loans entered into before 1990 [Civ. Code § 1917.010 et seq.].

- Changeable-rate mortgage instruments [Civ. Code §§ 1920, 1921].

- Balloon-payment loans [Civ. Code § 2924i; see Civ. Code § 2966].

- Loans made or negotiated by real estate brokers [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10240 et seq.].

- Due-on-sale or due-on-encumbrance clauses [12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3; Civ. Code §§ 2924.5, 2924.6, 2949, 2954.10; for further discussion, see § 555.15[4]].

- Impound account clauses [Civ. Code § 2954(a); see Civ. Code §§ 2954.1, 2954.8, 2955].

- Late-payme nt charge clauses [Civ. Code §§ 2954.4, 2954.5].

- Prepayment charge clauses [Civ. Code §§ 2954.9, 2954.10].

- Disclosure statements [Civ. Code § 2956 et seq.; see 12 U.S.C. § 2601 (Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act); 15 U.S.C. § 1604 (Truth in Lending Act); Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 10232.4, 10232.5, 10240 (real estate brokers); Civ. Code §§ 2970, 2971 (home equity loans); Corp. Code § 25110 (sale of securities)].

§ 555.15 Modification of Agreement

[1] Assignment of Debt

[a] In General

Because a trust deed is incidental to the debt that it secures, assignment of the debt carries with it the security [Civ. Code § 2936; Domarad v. Fisher & Burke, Inc. (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 543, 553, 76 Cal. Rptr. 529] . Assignment of a secured debt operates also as an assignment of the benefit of the trust deed without further assignment [Lewis v. Booth (1935) 3 Cal. 2d 345, 349, 44 P.2d 560] . Conversely, the trust deed cannot be assigned without also transferring the debt secured, and any attempt to do so is ineffective [Domarad v. Fisher & Burke, Inc. (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 543, 553-554, 76 Cal. Rptr. 529] .

An assignment of a debt secured by a trust deed constitutes a valid transfer of the beneficial interest in the security even when, at the time of the assignment, an action on the debt is barred by the statute of limitations [Hohn v. Riverside County Flood Control etc. Dist. (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 605, 615, 39 Cal. Rptr. 647] . When a trust deed secures two or more debts, an assignment of the debts, in the absence of any special agreement, transfers to each assignee a pro rata portion of the beneficial interest in the security [Redman v. Purrington (1884) 65 Cal. 271, 272, 3 P. 883] . The assignor of several debts secured by a single trust deed is entitled to fix by agreement the extent or priority of each assignee's interest in the security [Grattan v. Wiggins (1863) 23 Cal. 16, 30] .

By assignment of a debt secured by a trust deed, the assignor transfers to the assignee all rights to demand and enforce payment of the debt [McCown v. Spencer (1970) 8 Cal. App. 3d 216, 225, 87 Cal. Rptr. 213] . Only the assignee (not the assignor) may effectively foreclose under the trust deed [Santens v. Los Angeles Finance Co. (1949) 91 Cal. App. 2d 197, 202, 204 P.2d 619] .

For further discussion of assignments generally, see Ch. 60, Assignments .

[b] Position of Assignee

The position of the assignee of a promissory note depends on the negotiability of the note. An assignee that is a good faith purchaser of a negotiable note (a holder in due course), takes the note and the security free and clear of almost all claims and defenses that might have been asserted against the original holder of the note, including lack of consideration [Gribble v. Mauerhan (1961) 188 Cal. App. 2d 221, 225, 10 Cal. Rptr. 296 ; Hayward Lbr. & Inv. Co. v. Naslund (1932) 125 Cal. App. 34, 38-41, 13 P.2d 775 ; see Com. Code § 3305]. On the other hand, a good faith assignee of a nonnegotiable note takes the note and security subject to all claims and defenses that might otherwise be asserted [San Jose Ranch Co. v. San Jose L. & W. Co. (1901) 132 Cal. 582, 584, 64 P. 1097] . For discussion of negotiability, see Ch. 385, Negotiable Instruments .

[c] Recordation of Assignment

An assignment of a note and trust deed may be recorded. The record provides constructive notice of its contents to all persons [Civ. Code § 2934]. However, recordation does not itself provide notice to the trustor or other obligor under the note, so as to invalidate any payment made to the holder of the note [Civ. Code § 2935]. If, after recordation of the assignment, the trustor has no actual notice and makes payment to the assigning beneficiary still in possession of the note, the payment is binding on the assignee [Rodgers v. Parker (1902) 136 Cal. 313, 316, 68 P. 975 ; Title Ins. etc. Co. v. Kuchenbeiser (1912) 20 Cal. App. 11, 12-13, 127 P. 1039] . On the other hand, if the assigning beneficiary no longer has possession of the note (and is not acting as the assignee's agent) after the assignment has been recorded, payment to the assignor is made at the risk of the trustor and is not binding on the assignee [Rodgers v. Peckham (1898) 120 Cal. 238, 242, 52 P. 483] .

When a secured note is fraudulently assigned to two innocent assignees, the assignee first in time generally, all things being equal, has priority over the second assignee. But if the first assignee has neglected to record the assignment before the fraudulent second assignment, causing the second assignee to take the note and security as a good faith purchaser without actual or constructive notice of the first assignment, the interest of the second assignee will be deemed prior to that of the first assignee, by whose negligence the fraud occurred [Security Mortgage Co. v. Delfs (1920) 47 Cal. App. 599, 602-604, 191 P. 53 ; see Domarad v. Fisher & Burke, Inc. (1969) 270 Cal. App. 2d 543, 554-558, 76 Cal. Rptr. 529] .

[2] Extension or Renewal

[a] In General

The parties may agree to an extension of the maturity date of the obligation for an additional period or agree to a renewal of a secured obligation, substituting a new obligation by the execution of a new instrument [Morello v. Metzenbaum (1944) 25 Cal. 2d 494, 499-500, 154 P.2d 670] . An extension or renewal agreement must be evidenced by a writing executed with the same formalities required in a grant of real property [Civ. Code § 2922; see Code Civ. Proc. § 360]. Generally, the formal requirements are met if there is an acknowledgment of the debt signed by the trustor or mortgagor as the party to be charged [Easton v. Ash (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 530, 536-537, 116 P.2d 433 ; General v. Anthony (1940) 38 Cal. App. 2d 321, 323-324, 100 P.2d 1087 ; but see Schwartz v. Edmunds (1937) 20 Cal. App. 2d 530, 532, 67 P.2d 351 (extension valid when signed only by mortgagee)]. A valid agreement may also be signed by the transferee of the trustor or mortgagor even though the transferee has not assumed personal liability for the obligation [Curtis v. Holee (1921) 184 Cal. 726, 729-730, 195 P. 395 ; Miller v. Roach (1936) 15 Cal. App. 2d 427, 431, 59 P.2d 418] . When this is done without the consent of the trustor or mortgagor, however, any continuing personal liability of the latter is discharged [Miller v. Roach (1936) 15 Cal. App. 2d 427, 432, 59 P.2d 418] . For further discussion of principles relating to assumption or nonassumption, see § 555.13[4][b].

In addition to the formalities, new consideration is required [Braun v. Crew (1920) 183 Cal. 728, 734, 192 P. 531] . However, this requirement is easily met by a promise to pay the pre-existing obligation after it is barred by the statute of limitations, or by the mutual promises of the parties before it is barred [see, e.g., Easton v. Ash (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 530, 534-535, 116 P.2d 433 ; Miller v. Roach (1936) 15 Cal. App. 2d 427, 431, 59 P.2d 418] .

A valid agreement stops the running of the statute of limitations against the obligation for the period of the extension [Code Civ. Proc. § 360]. Without the extension, the statute begins to run anew each time a partial payment is made before the expiration of the limitation period [Code Civ. Proc. § 360; see Code Civ. Proc. § 360.5 (permitting written waivers of defense that statute of limitations has run, effective for four-year periods)].

[b] Effect on Third Party Interests

A valid extension or renewal will always be effective against the parties. However, its effectiveness as to junior liens or interests depends on when the junior liens or interests were created. Those created before the extension or renewal may not be subject to the agreement. For example, if the senior security instrument is a mortgage, and a junior lien was created before the extension agreement, then, if the senior mortgagee commences judicial foreclosure proceedings after the expiration of the original limitation period, the junior lienholder may raise the defense that the senior mortgage is extinguished by the lapse of the statute of limitations, and may foreclose the junior lien free and clear of the senior mortgage [Ekmann v. Plumas County Bank (1932) 215 Cal. 671, 672-674, 12 P.2d 433] . For further discussion of the effect of the statute of limitations on judicial and nonjudicial foreclosure, see § 555.18[4][a]. On the other hand, junior interests created before the extension or renewal agreement may be subject to the agreement if the trust deed expressly provided for the possibility of an extension by mutual consent [Western F.G. v. Security Title etc. Co. (1937) 20 Cal. App. 2d 150, 153-154, 66 P.2d 742] .

PRACTICE TIP:

Junior Interests Subject to Extensions. Generally, trust deeds routinely provide that they secure the original note as well as any modifications. Because this language provides constructive notice of any extension arrangements, junior interests subject to these trust deeds likely are subject to any extensions reached by the senior lienholder and borrower. By William M. Hensley

Junior interests created after the extension or renewal agreement have been held to be subject to the agreement in any event, because junior lienholders have a duty to go beyond the record and inquire as to possible extensions when their interests are created [see, e.g., Newhall v. Hatch (1901) 134 Cal. 269, 273, 66 P. 266 ; Craig v. Dinwiddie (1926) 77 Cal. App. 681, 687-689, 247 P. 516] .

[3] Acceleration on Default

[a] In General

A standard provision in real property security transactions is an acceleration-on-default clause, which gives the beneficiary, as holder of the note, an election to declare the entire outstanding debt immediately due after a default by the trustor. The type of default covered by this clause is usually a breach of the principal obligation to pay installments on the principal and interest when due [see Wienke v. Smith (1918) 179 Cal. 220, 222, 176 P. 42] . However, the clause may cover a default in any or all of the trustor's collateral obligations as well [see, e.g., Coyne v. Mason (1936) 13 Cal. App. 2d 176, 177-178, 56 P.2d 541 (duty to pay premiums on insurance covering subject property); Hudson v. Becker (1936) 12 Cal. App. 2d 743, 746-747, 56 P.2d 249 (duty to pay off senior liens)]. The provisions of a trust deed that authorize acceleration and exercise of the power of sale for failure to pay taxes, rents, assessments, or insurance premiums, or any advances, are enforceable whether or not the security has been impaired by the failure [Civ. Code § 2924.7(a)].

Usually the clause is included in the note secured by the trust deed [see Wienke v. Smith (1918) 179 Cal. 220, 222, 176

P. 42 ; Coyne v. Mason (1936) 13 Cal. App. 2d 176, 177-178, 56 P.2d 541] . The note and trust deed are to be read together as parts of a single contract, however, and the clause is enforceable whether it appears only in the note or appears only in the trust deed [First-Trust Joint S.L. Bk. v. Meredith (1936) 5 Cal. 2d 214, 218, 53 P.2d 958 (clause in mortgage only); San Gabriel Val. Bk. v. Lake View etc. Co. (1906) 4 Cal. App. 630, 632, 89 P. 360 (clause in note only); cf. Civ. Code § 2924.5 (when trust deed is on residential property containing up to four units, clause for acceleration on sale, further encumbrance, or other transfer by trustor must be included in both note and trust deed)].

[b] Manner and Effect of Election to Accelerate

Because an acceleration-on-default clause gives the beneficiary an election to accelerate, acceleration is not automatic and occurs only after an affirmative election by the beneficiary [see Stalder v. Riverside Groves etc. Water Co. (1914) 167 Cal. 560, 562, 140 P. 252] . An affirmative election to accelerate may be made by giving the trustor notice to that effect [see, e.g., Stalder v. Riverside Groves etc. Water Co. (1914) 167 Cal. 560, 562,140 P. 252] . It may also be made by any other positive act indicating an intention to accelerate [Stalder v. Riverside Groves etc. Water Co. (1914) 167 Cal. 560, 562, 140 P. 252] . For example, commencement of judicial foreclosure proceedings is sufficient indication of an intention to accelerate [Title G. & T. Co. v. Fraternal Finance Co. (1934) 220 Cal. 362, 364, 30 P.2d 515] . A notice of default preparatory to nonjudicial foreclosure under a power of sale is also sufficient indication of an intention to accelerate, if the notice includes an expression of that intention [Engelbertson v. Loan & Bldg. Asso. (1936) 6 Cal. 2d 477, 479, 58 P.2d 647] .

If the trustor tenders payment sufficient to cure the default before the beneficiary has carried out an intention to accelerate, the beneficiary's right to accelerate is terminated [Stalder v. Riverside Groves etc. Water Co. (1914) 167 Cal. 560, 562-563, 140 P. 252] . On the other hand, if the trustor tenders payment that only partially cures the default, the beneficiary may accept the payment and still exercise the right to accelerate [R.G. Hamilton Corp., Ltd. v. Corum (1933) 218 Cal. 92, 96-97, 21 P.2d 413] .

Acceleration entitles the beneficiary to foreclose on the security, to recover the entire outstanding debt. In the absence of acceleration, the beneficiary may still foreclose to recover the amount in default but may not recover the remainder of the debt not yet due [see Yoakam v. White (1893) 97 Cal. 286, 289, 32 P. 238] . In any event, however, the beneficiary's right to foreclose after electing to accelerate is limited by the trustor's statutory right to reinstate the obligation, as if no default had occurred, by curing the default after an acceleration but before the lapse of a specified period [Civ. Code § 2924c(a)(1)]. For further discussion concerning the right of reinstatement, see § 555.54[1].

[c] Waiver of Right to Accelerate

Because acceleration on default is elective, it is subject to defenses of waiver and estoppel. For example, the beneficiary may be deemed to have waived the right to accelerate after delaying an unreasonable time before electing to accelerate [Holland v. Paddock (1956) 142 Cal. App. 2d 534, 538, 298 P.2d 587 (delay of more than 11 months constituted waiver)].

Waiver of the right to accelerate as to one particular default does not waive the right to accelerate as to subsequent defaults [R.G. Hamilton Corp., Ltd. v. Corum (1933) 218 Cal. 92, 96-97, 21 P.2d 413 ; Sellman v. Crosby (1937) 20 Cal. App. 2d 562, 564, 67 P.2d 706] . Also, a beneficiary who has accepted late payments without accelerating does not relinquish the right to accelerate when subsequent payments are late [Young v. Burchill (1929) 96 Cal. App. 341, 343-345, 274 P. 379] . However, the beneficiary must first give notice that late payments will no longer be accepted and must give the trustor a reasonable opportunity to comply before accelerating [Bledsoe v. Pacific Ready Cut Homes, Inc. (1928) 92 Cal. App.641, 645, 268 P. 697 ; see Altman v. McCollum (1951) 236 P.2d 914] .

If, after acceleration, the trustor pays only part of the amount in default, the beneficiary's acceptance of the payment does not waive the default as to the amount unpaid and does not affect the acceleration election [Sellman v. Crosby

[4] Acceleration on Sale or Encumbrance

[a] In General

A trustor is entitled to sell, further encumber, or otherwise transfer the title to the encumbered property, without the consent of the beneficiary [Moss v. Minor Properties, Inc. (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 847, 855, 69 Cal. Rptr. 341 ; see Civ. Code § 1044; Prob. Code § 15410(c)]. However, promissory notes and trust deeds commonly include so-called due-on-sale clauses, which give the beneficiary the election, on any sale, further encumbrance, or other transfer of the property without the beneficiary's consent, to declare the entire unpaid balance of the note immediately due and payable [see 12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3(a)(1); Tucker v. Lassen Sav. & Loan Assn. (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 629, 631 n.1, 116 Cal. Rptr. 633, 526 P.2d 1169] . By this means a beneficiary may discourage unapproved transfers, avoid greater risk of waste or default, or even obtain an advantage by compelling a transferee to refinance the obligation during periods when the market rate exceeds the existing rate of interest on the obligation [see La Sala v. American Sav. & Loan Assn. (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 864, 879-880, 880 n.17, 97 Cal. Rptr. 849, 489 P.2d 1113] .

An unauthorized transfer does not itself constitute a default but gives the beneficiary an occasion to declare an acceleration of the unpaid balance of the debt. A default occurs only after the beneficiary has elected acceleration, and the trustor subsequently fails to pay the accelerated debt [Miller v. Cote (1982) 127 Cal. App. 3d 888, 895, 179 Cal. Rptr. 753] .

[b] Enforcement Under Federal Law

[i] Garn Act

The Garn Act [12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3 (Garn-St. Germain Depository Institutions Act of 1982)] expressly preempts all inconsistent state law regarding the enforcement of due-on-sale clauses [see [c], below], possibly also regarding due-on-encumbrance clauses [see [ii], below], and provides generally that a lender may enter into or enforce a contract containing a due-on-sale clause with respect to a real property loan [12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3(b)(1)]. "Lender" includes any person or government agency, or the assignee or transferee of a person or agency, that makes a loan, mortgage, advance, or credit sale secured by a lien on real property [12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3(a)(2),(3)].

In exercising the election under a due-on-sale clause, a lender is encouraged to permit assumption of the loan at the existing contract rate or at a rate that does not exceed the average between the existing contract rate and current market rate [12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3(b)(3)]. However, except as specified in 12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3(d), a lender's exercise of the election, and all rights and remedies of the lender and borrower, are governed solely by the contract provisions [12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3(b)(2)].

In the case of loans secured by a lien on residential real property containing fewer than five dwelling units, a lender may not elect to accelerate under a due-on-sale clause upon any of the following [12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3(d)]:

- The creation of a lien or other encumbrance subordinate to the lender's lien and not related to a transfer of rights of occupancy in the property [12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3(d)(1); see 12 C.F.R. § 591.5(b)(1)(i) (exception applies only to liens not created pursuant to contract for deed)].

- The creation of a purchase-money security interest for household appliances [12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3(d)(2)].

- A transfer by devise, descent, or operation of law on the death of a joint tenant or tenant by the entirety [12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3(d)(3)].

- The granting of a leasehold interest of three years' duration or less and not containing an option to purchase [12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3(d)(4); see 12 C.F.R. § 591.5(b)(1)(iv)].

- A transfer to a relative resulting from the borrower's death [12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3(d)(5); see 12 C.F.R. § 591.5(b)(1)(v) (exception applies only if transferee occupies or will occupy subject property)].

- A transfer of ownership to the borrower's spouse or children [12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3(d)(6); see 12 C.F.R. § 591.5(b)(1)(v) (exception applies only if transferee occupies or will occupy subject property)].

- A transfer resulting from a decree of a dissolution of marriage or legal separation agreement, or from an incidental property settlement agreement, by which the spouse of the borrower becomes an owner of the property [12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3(d)(7); see 12 C.F.R. § 591.5(b)(1)(v) (exception applies only if transferee occupies or will occupy subject property)].

- A transfer into an inter vivos trust of which the borrower is and remains a beneficiary, if the transfer does not relate to a transfer of rights of occupancy in the property [12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3(d)(8); see 12 C.F.R. § 591.5(b)(1)(vi) (exception applies only if borrower remains occupant of subject property)].

- Any other transfer or disposition described in regulations prescribed by the Office of Thrift Supervision (OTS), which has express authority, in consultation with the Comptroller of the Currency and the National Credit Union Administration, to issue rules, regulations, and interpretations governing the implementation of the Garn Act [12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3(d)(9),(e)(1); see 12 C.F.R. Pt. 591].

OTS regulations limit the foregoing statutory exceptions in several respects in addition to imposing the occupancy limitations noted above [see 12 C.F.R. § 591.5(b)]. For example, if an event later occurs that disqualifies a transfer for a previously applicable exception, the lender is no longer precluded from enforcing the due-on-sale clause [12 C.F.R. § 591.5(b)(5)].

State decisions that limit enforcement of due-on-sale clauses to cases of reasonable necessity, with the burden of proof placed on the lender, appear to be preempted, because they are inconsistent with the federal rule of general enforceability [see 12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3(b)(1); 12 C.F.R. §§ 591.1(b), 591.5(a)]. Whether state statutes otherwise affecting due-on clauses are also preempted is less certain. Civ. Code § 2924.5, requiring a due-on clause to be inserted in both the trust deed and the underlying note when the subject property consists of one-to-four residential units, is arguably consistent with federal law because it is merely designed to provide notice [see Wellenkamp v. Bank of America (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 943, 953 n.12, 148 Cal. Rptr. 379, 582 P.2d 970] . In fact, when adequate notice is actually given, technical noncompliance with the notice requirements will not preclude enforcement of a due-on-sale clause inserted only in the note [Fernandez v. American Sav. & Loan Ass'n. (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 667, 671-672, 205 Cal. Rptr. 707 (noting, however, that creditor might be estopped from enforcing clause against debtor's successors if they were actually misled by lack of record notice)]. It is also arguable that the limitations on enforcement of due-on-sale clauses under Civ. Code § 2924.6 may be construed consistently with corresponding limitations under federal law [Civ. Code § 2924.6(a)(1)-(4); cf. 12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3(d)(5)-(8)]. For further discussion of these state statutes, see [c], below.

[ii] Application to Due-on-Encumbrance Clauses

The Garn Act defines a due-on-sale clause as covering any unapproved sale or transfer of all or any part of the property, or any interest in it [12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3(a)(1)]. Implementing regulations define sale or transfer as including a conveyance of real property or any right, title, or interest in real property, whether legal or equitable, by outright sale, deed, contract, lease-option contract, lease for more than three years, or any other method of conveyance [12 C.F.R. § 591.2(b)]. These definitions appear to encompass encumbrances generally. If the Garn Act thus applies to due-on-encumbrance clauses, it further appears that state decisions generally limiting the enforcement of these clauses to cases of reasonable necessity, with the burden of proof placed on the lender, are also preempted as inconsistent with federal law [see 12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3(b)(1); 12 C.F.R. §§ 591.1(b), 591.5(a)]. However, state statutory limitations on the enforcement of these clauses may arguably be construed consistently with corresponding limitations under federal law [Civ. Code §§ 2924.6(a)(5), 2949; cf. 12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3(d)(1); 12 C.F.R. § 591.5(b)(1)(i)]. For further discussion of these state statutes, see [c], below.

In the case of loans secured by a lien on residential real property containing fewer than five dwelling units, the Garn Act provides that a lender may not elect to accelerate under a due-on-sale clause because of the creation of a lien or other encumbrance subordinate to the lender's lien and not related to a transfer of rights of occupancy in the property [12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3(d)(1); see 12 C.F.R. § 591.5(b)(1)(I) (exception applies only to liens not created pursuant to contract for deed)].

[iii] Effect of Waiver or Estoppel

Because the rights and remedies of the parties with respect to a due-on-sale clause are generally to be governed by reference to their agreement [12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3(b)(2)], it appears that normal contract defenses under state law remain applicable. Thus ordinary principles of waiver or estoppel may apply to prevent enforcement of a due-on-sale clause [see Rubin v. Los Angeles Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass'n. (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 292, 296-300, 205 Cal. Rptr. 455 ; Guild Wineries & Distilleries v. Land Dynamics (1980) 103 Cal. App. 3d 966, 977-978, 163 Cal. Rptr. 348] .

Additionally, a lender waives the election under a due-on-sale clause as to a specific transfer if, before the transfer, the lender and the borrower's prospective successor agree in writing that the successor will be obligated under the terms of the loan and that interest on sums secured by the lender's security interest will be payable at a rate requested by the lender. On this agreement and resultant waiver, the lender must release the existing borrower from all obligations under the loan, and the lender is deemed to have made a new loan to the successor [12 C.F.R. § 591.5(b)(4) (applicable to all loans made by federal association after July 1976 and to all other loans made after May 13, 1983)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Acceptance Can Constitute Garn Act Waiver. Waiver of due-on-sale protections also has been frequently found when a lender accepts payments from a borrower's transferee for a sufficient period of time, notwithstanding the absence of a pre-transfer agreement. This practitioner believes a strong contention can be advanced that "conduct" waiver principles under state law are not preempted by the federal statutory scheme, even though these principles are arguably inconsistent with the federal regulations relating to the Garn Act. By William M. Hensley

[iv] Window Period Limitation

The application of the Garn Act is expressly limited by an exemption, under which otherwise preempted state law continues to apply to certain transfers involving window-period loans [see 12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3(c)(1)]. "Window-period loans" are generally those loans, not originated by a federal association, that were made or assumed on or after August 25, 1978, and before October 15, 1982, the respective effective dates of Wellenkamp v. Bank of America (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 943, 148 Cal. Rptr. 379, 582 P.2d 970 and the Garn Act [see Lucas v. Jones (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 1008, 1010-1012, 196 Cal. Rptr. 437 ; Miranda v. Macias (1983) 141 Cal. App. 3d 188, 192, 191 Cal. Rptr. 177 ; see 12 C.F.R. § 591.2(p)]. This exemption applies only if the transfer with respect to which the due-on clause is invoked occurred before October 15, 1985; or, in some cases depending on the character of the lender, only if the triggering transfer occurred even earlier [12 U.S.C. § 1701j-3(c)(1); see 12 C.F.R. §§ 30.1, 591.2(p), 591.4(c)(1), 701.21(g)(6)(ii)].

[c] State Law

[i] Statutes

California statutes proscribe or affect the enforcement of due-on-sale/encumbrance clauses in the following situations:

- In the case of notes, trust deeds, and mortgages executed after June 1972, when the collateral is real property with no more than four residential units, a due-on-sale/encumbrance clause is not valid unless it is included in the trust deed or mortgage as well as in the note evidencing the obligation [Civ. Code § 2924.5].

- In the case of notes made after 1972, no due-on-encumbrance clause can be enforced solely on the basis of the owner's creation of a junior lien on a single-family, owner-occupied dwelling [Civ. Code § 2949(a); Stats. 1972, ch. 698, § 2].

- In the case of notes made or refinanced after 1975, when the collateral is real property with no more than four residential units, no due-on-sale/encumbrance clause can be enforced solely on the basis of the following transfers [Civ. Code § 2924.6(a), (c), (d)]:

  - A transfer, resulting from the death of an obligor, to the obligor's spouse who is also an obligor.

  - A transfer by an obligor through which the obligor's spouse becomes a co-owner.

  - A transfer resulting from a decree of dissolution of the marriage or legal separation or from a property settlement agreement incidental to such a decree, that requires the obligor to continue to make the loan payments by which the obligor's spouse--who is also an obligor--becomes the sole owner of the property.

  - A transfer by an obligor into an inter vivos trust of which the obligor is a beneficiary.

  - A transfer by which the real property or any portion of it is made subject to a junior encumbrance or lien.

[ii] Decisions

The California Supreme Court has held that a due-on-sale/encumbrance clause is unenforceable, as an unreasonable restraint on alienation, unless the lender can demonstrate that enforcement is reasonably necessary to protect the security from impairment or risk of default [Wellenkamp v. Bank of America (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 943, 953, 148 Cal. Rptr. 379, 582 P.2d 970 (rule applied to preclude enforcement on outright sale); Tucker v. Lassen Sav. & Loan Assn. (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 629, 632, 638-639, 116 Cal. Rptr. 633, 526 P.2d 1169 (rule applied to preclude enforcement on sale by installment contract); La Sala v. American Sav. & Loan Assn. (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 864, 869, 877-882, 97 Cal. Rptr. 849, 489 P.2d 1113 (rule applied to preclude enforcement on further encumbrance)]. In other cases the Supreme Court expanded the application of this rule to various situations [see, e.g., Dawn Investment Co. v. Superior Court (1982) 30 Cal. 3d 695, 700-704, 180 Cal. Rptr. 332, 639 P.2d 974 (rule applied to private, rather than just institutional, lenders, and to investment, rather than just residential, property); West v. Buffo (1983) 139 Cal. App. 3d 93, 96, 188 Cal. Rptr. 535 (rule applied to individual owner-vendor who took back promissory note and trust deed)].

[5] Substitution of Trustee

At some point a party to a trust deed may wish to replace the original or current trustee, such as when the trustee is unable or unwilling to carry out the beneficiary's request to hold a trustee sale. A substitution of trustees by the parties may be accomplished by a statutory method [Civ. Code § 2934a; see §§ 555.136, 555.137], by provision, if any, in the terms of the trust deed [see, e.g., Bennett v. Ukiah Fair Asso. (1936) 7 Cal. 2d 43, 44-45, 59 P.2d 805] , or by mutual agreement of the beneficiary and trustor [see, e.g., Pacific S. & L. Co. v. N. American etc. Co. (1940) 37 Cal. App. 2d 307, 308-311, 99 P.2d 355] . For further discussion of the substitution of trustees, and related forms, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 25C, Release and Reconveyance (Matthew Bender).

A substitution of trustees pursuant to a standard clause included in the trust deed is valid even though it may not conform to the requirements of the statutory method [U.S. Hertz, Inc. v. Niobrara Farms (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 68, 83-85, 116 Cal. Rptr. 44] . The other nonstatutory method of substitution is the joint execution, acknowledgment, and recordation of an instrument of substitution by the trustor and beneficiary, sometimes used when the trust deed does not include the usual substitution clause. This method is also valid without regard to the requirements of the statutory method [Pacific S. & L. Co. v. N. American etc. Co. (1940) 37 Cal. App. 2d 307, 311, 99 P.2d 355] .

Application for substitution of trustees may be made to the superior court under the statutes governing private trusts, when the trustee position is vacant or the trustee refuses to act [Prob. Code § 15660; see Mutual Bldg. & Loan Asso. v. Wiborg, (1943) 59 Cal. App. 2d 325, 330, 139 P.2d 73 ; Baumann v. Harrison (1941) 46 Cal. App. 2d 84, 93, 115 P.2d 530] . For further discussion and forms relating to the appointment of trustees to a private trust, see Ch. 560, Trusts: Express, Public, Charitable, and Totten Trusts .

§ 555.16 Priorities of Liens

[1] General Rules

[a] Priority Determined By Time of Creation

When a single property interest is encumbered with more than one lien, the rights of the lienholders depend on the priorities of their liens. Other things being equal, different liens on the same real property have priority according to the time of their creation [Civ. Code § 2897; see Fickling v. Jackman (1928) 203 Cal. 657, 661, 265 P. 810 (trust deed is lien for purpose of determining priority)]. In other words, as between two liens on the same property, the first in time of creation has priority in the absence of any contrary statutory or equitable consideration [see First Nat. Bank v. Silva (1927) 200 Cal. 494, 497-498, 254 P. 262 (junior lien may be given preference by statute); Smitton v. McCullough (1920) 182 Cal. 530, 534, 189 P. 686 (junior lien may be given preference in equity)].

Time of creation refers generally to the time the trust deed was executed and delivered [see Walker v. Buffandeau (1883) 63 Cal. 312, 315-317] . However, a lien is not necessarily created on delivery of an executed trust deed. Execution and delivery of a trust deed has no effect until a binding underlying obligation is created--for example, by the delivery of an executed promissory note [Western Loan & Bldg. Co. v. Scheib (1933) 218 Cal. 386, 389-390, 23 P.2d 745] . In accordance with this principle, when the underlying obligation is for future advances that the beneficiary may make, but is not required to make, no lien arises until an advance is actually made [Fickling v. Jackman (1928) 203 Cal. 657, 662, 265 P. 810] . For further discussion of priority rules concerning future advances, see § 555.14[3][c]. Similarly, a trust deed has no effect if there is no property to encumber, so that when it has been given to cover property not yet acquired, the lien arises only at the time the property is subsequently acquired [Civ. Code § 2883].

[b] Legal Lien Has Priority Over Equitable Lien

When a vendor's lien and a lien under a recorded purchase-money trust deed were created simultaneously because the vendor did not receive the full purchase price in cash (that is, the vendor had a vendor's lien for part of the price), the lien under the purchase-money trust deed had priority because it was a legal lien whereas the vendor's lien was an equitable lien. The Civil Code provisions for priority of the lien under a purchase-money trust deed cannot be reconciled with the provisions for priority of a vendor's lien [compare Civ. Code § 2898(a) with Civ. Code § 3048]; however, at common law, a legal lien has priority over an equitable lien. Lien priority under a purchase-money trust deed does not depend on lack of notice of the vendor's lien [Brock v. First South Savings Ass'n (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 661, 672-676, 10 Cal. Rptr. 2d 700] .

[2] Effect of Recording Laws

The time of recording does not necessarily establish priority. Recordation is intended simply to give constructive notice of the contents of the recorded document to subsequent purchasers or lienholders. Recordation does not create any presumption as to the time a lien was created [Civ. Code §§ 1213, 1215; see Walker v. Buffandeau (1883) 63 Cal. 312, 315-317] . An unrecorded lien remains effective as to the parties and those who have actual or constructive notice [Civ. Code § 1217; see Powell v. Goldsmith (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 746, 749, 751-752, 199 Cal. Rptr. 554 (unrecorded lien retained priority over subsequent lien of holder who had actual notice)].

Recording affects priority against claims of subsequent good faith purchasers [Wells Fargo Bank v. PAL Investments, Inc. (1979) 96 Cal. App. 3d 431, 438, 157 Cal. Rptr. 818] . A lien or other interest is void against the claim of any subsequent purchaser or lienholder for value who has no actual or constructive notice of the previously created lien and whose interest is first recorded [Civ. Code § 1214; see Gribble v. Mauerhan (1961) 188 Cal. App. 2d 221, 227-228, 10 Cal. Rptr. 296] . The interest of a good faith purchaser or lienholder retains priority even if it is transferred to one who has notice of the previous unrecorded interest [Jones v. IndependentTitle Co. (1944) 23 Cal. 2d 859, 861-862, 147 P.2d 542] . For the purpose of Civ. Code § 1214, the holder of a judgment lien is not considered to be a good faith purchaser [Bank of Ukiah v. Petaluma S. Bank (1893) 100 Cal. 590, 591, 35 P. 170 ; Wells Fargo Bank v. PAL Investments, Inc. (1979) 96 Cal. App. 3d 431, 438, 157 Cal. Rptr. 818] .

[3] Statutory Exceptions

The primary statutory exception to the general rule of priority is that a mortgage or trust deed given to secure the price of real property at the time of conveyance has priority over all other liens created against the purchaser, subject to the operation of the recording laws [Civ. Code § 2898(a); see Powell v. Goldsmith (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 746, 752, 199 Cal. Rptr. 554] . The priority of the lien of a mortgage or trust deed on an estate for years in real property is determined in the same manner as the priority of a lien of a mortgage or trust deed on real property [Civ. Code § 2898(b)]. The effect of Civ. Code § 2898(a) is to give a purchase-money trust deed, executed and delivered at the time of conveyance, priority over previously recorded liens against the purchaser. Ordinarily, previously recorded liens against property not yet acquired would attach as soon as the purchaser acquired the property [see § 555.13[2]]. However, Civ. Code § 2898(a) codifies an equitable principle that is designed to protect the security of a vendor advancing part of the purchase price to the purchaser, namely, that the purchase-money lien attaches at the instant the purchaser acquires title from the vendor. Therefore, no prior voluntary lien can attach [Van Loben Sels v. Bunnell (1898) 120 Cal. 680, 683, 53 P. 266 ; see Tolman v. Smith (1890) 85 Cal. 280, 285-286, 24 P. 743 ; Walley v. P.M.C. Inv. Co. (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 218, 219-220, 68 Cal. Rptr. 711] . Although Civ. Code § 2898 was originally intended to benefit vendors, it will also apply to trust deeds securing loans made to the purchaser by a third party, as long as the loan is made and used for the express purpose of paying for the property [Van Loben Sels v. Bunnell (1898) 120 Cal. 680, 683-684, 53 P. 266 ; Mercantile Collection Bureau v. Roach (1961) 195 Cal. App. 2d 355, 358, 15 Cal. Rptr. 710] .

Because priority under Civ. Code § 2898 is subject to the operation of the recording laws, the priority of a purchase-money trust deed may be lost against the claim of a subsequent good faith lienholder who first records the lien [Civ. Code § 1214; see Powell v. Goldsmith (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 746, 751-752, 199 Cal. Rptr. 554 (subsequent lien was not entitled to priority when lienholder had actual notice of unrecorded purchase-money trust deed)]. For further discussion, see [2], above.

Other types of liens may have statutory priority regardless of their time of creation [see, e.g., Rev. & Tax. Code § 2192.1 (tax liens on real property have priority regardless of time of creation)]. These include mechanics' liens and liens on fixtures perfected under the Commercial Code, the priorities of which are discussed in Ch. 361, Mechanics' Liens , and Ch. 503, Sales: Secured Transactions .

PRACTICE TIP:

Mechanics' Lien Interests Versus Senior Encumbrancers. Mechanics' liens do not necessarily defeat predecessor voluntary encumbrances. These statutory liens only "relate back" and have priority from the date improvements began on the property subject to the lien. However, if the consensual trust deed was recorded before improvement work commenced, the trust deed has priority, and the lienholder under the trust deed would wipe out any mechanics' lien claimants upon completion of a successful nonjudicial foreclosure [Civ. Code § 3134]. By William M. Hensley

[4] Subordination Agreements

[a] In General

The priorities of liens may, to some extent, be determined by private agreement, as when one lienholder agrees to subordinate or waive the priority of a senior lien [see Civ. Code § 2953.1(b),(c); see also Civ. Code § 2934 (permitting recordation of subordination agreement)]. Typically, the statutory lien of the beneficiary of a purchase-money trust deed [see [3], above] is subordinated to the lien of an institutional lender's construction loan [see, e.g., Middlebrook-Anderson Co. v. Southwest Sav. & Loan Assn. (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 1023, 1026, 1030, 96 Cal. Rptr. 338] . For extended discussion of subordination agreements and clauses, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 25B, Subordination, Assumption, and Assignment (Matthew Bender), and California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 114, Subordination (Matthew Bender).

[b] Enforceability

An enforceable subordination clause or agreement must contain terms that define and minimize the risk that the superior lien will impair the subordinating lienholder's security. The terms may include limits on the use to which the proceeds of the superior loan may be put (to ensure that the value of the property will be enhanced); maximum amounts, so that the superior loan will not exceed the value of improvements being financed; requirements that the loans not exceed a specified percentage of the construction cost or value of the property as improved; specified amounts per square foot of construction; or other limits designed to protect the subordinating lienholder's security [Handy v. Gordon (1967) 65 Cal. 2d 578, 581, 55 Cal. Rptr. 769, 422 P.2d 329] . When these terms are not included, a court may refuse to enforce the clause or agreement on the ground that it is not just and reasonable as to the subordinating lienholder [see Handy v. Gordon (1967) 65 Cal. 2d 578, 579, 581-582, 55 Cal. Rptr. 769, 422 P.2d 329] .

Even when a subordination clause may be enforced according to its terms, it may nonetheless be challenged by the subordinating lienholder on the ground that the limiting terms have not been met [see, e.g., Miller v. Citizens Sav. & Loan Asso. (1967) 248 Cal. App. 2d 655, 663-665, 56 Cal. Rptr. 844 (loan proceeds used with knowledge of subordinating lienholder for purpose not within terms were not covered by subordination clause)]. The subordinating lienholder may even challenge an automatic subordination on the same ground. In a case of automatic subordination, there is no express subordination agreement or clause but simply an escrow instruction providing for prior recordation of the superior lien [Middlebrook-Anderson Co. v. Southwest Sav. & Loan Assn. (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 1023, 1030, 96 Cal. Rptr. 338] . However, a subordination agreement can and should be inferred in these circumstances, so that the subordinating lienholder may regain the original priority if the terms reasonably implied by the agreement are not met [Middlebrook-Anderson Co. v. Southwest Sav. & Loan Assn. (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 1023, 1030-1038, 96 Cal. Rptr.

When the purchaser breaches the subordination agreement by not using the proceeds to improve the property, the lender cannot enforce the vendor's agreement to subordinate. The lender is a third-party beneficiary of the agreement between the purchaser and vendor and cannot assert greater rights than those of the purchaser under the subordination agreement [Protective Equity Trust #83, Ltd. v. Bybee (1991) 2 Cal. App. 4th 139, 149-151, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 864 ; Middlebrook-Anderson Co. v. Southwest Sav. & Loan Assn. (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 1023, 1031-1033, 96 Cal. Rptr. 338] . The lender's failure to undertake supervision of the disbursement of the funds does not preclude liability for the loss of priority from the purchaser's breach, because the lender is in a better position to control the purchaser's use of the funds [Protective Equity Trust #83, Ltd. v. Bybee (1991) 2 Cal. App. 4th 139, 149-151, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 864] .

A lender's lien priority may be lost if the terms of the senior loan are materially changed without the consent of a subordinating vendor. When a purchaser-developer and lender modify the terms of the senior loan so as to materially increase the risk that it will become a subject of default, the priority of the senior lien may be lost if the modification materially affects the subordinating vendor's rights [Gluskin v. Atlantic Savings & Loan Assn. (1973) 32 Cal. App. 3d 307, 314-315, 108 Cal. Rptr. 318] . However, a material modification of a senior lien may result in loss of priority only for the modification, when the liens are held by hard money lenders [Lennar Northeast Partners v. Buice (1996) 49 Cal. App. 4th 1576, 1588, 57 Cal. Rptr. 2d 435] .

PRACTICE TIP:

Scope of Lennar Decision. Lennar should not apply when the recorded loan documents, especially the trust deed, and a subordination agreement make note modifications superior to the subordinated lien. In effect, a contractual agreement to modifications overrides the Lennar result [cf. Swiss Properties Mgt. Co., Inc. v. The Southern California IBEW-NECA Pension Plan (1997) 60 Cal. App. 4th 839, 845-846, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 587] .

Furthermore, Lennar recently has been narrowly circumscribed and held to grant equitable relief to junior lienholders only "according to the facts of the particular case" [see Friery v. Sutter Buttes Savings Bank (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 869, 876, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 32] . Thus far, no post-Lennar case has invalidated priority for any senior encumbrance over and above the amount of the modification not consented to by the subordinating junior lienholder. Lennar is a factually-intensive decision, which should not be relied on beyond a very narrow set of circumstances. By William M. Hensley

[c] Statutory Regulation

The provisions of Civ. Code §§ 2953.1-2953.5 require that certain disclosures be made in a subordination agreement or in a security instrument that includes a subordination clause, if the subordinating loan does not exceed $25,000 [Civ. Code §§ 2953.2, 2953.3, 2953.5]. If these requirements apply but are not met, the subordination clause or agreement may be voidable at the election of the person whose security interest is subordinated, if that person lacks actual knowledge of the existence and terms of the subordination clause or agreement and if the election is made within two years after the clause or agreement was executed [Civ. Code § 2953.4(a)]. An election to avoid a subordination clause or agreement must be exercised by recording a notice including certain information [see Civ. Code § 2953.4(b)]. The holder of the subordinated security interest may, alternatively, record a notice waiving the right to avoid subordination under Civ. Code § 2953.4(a) [Civ. Code § 2953.4(c)].

§ 555.17 Notice of Transfer of Servicing of Secured Debt

Any person transferring to a different service agency, or assuming from another, the debt servicing of a note, bond, or other instrument secured by a trust deed on real property in California containing one-to-four residential units must give written notice to the borrower or subsequent obligor before the borrower or subsequent obligor becomes obligated to make payments to the new service agent [Civ. Code § 2937(b), (e)]. Any person transferring the servicing of indebtedness to a different servicing agent must also provide to the new servicing agent all existing insurance policy information that the person is responsible for maintaining, including, but not limited to, flood and hazard insurance policy information [Civ. Code § 2937(d)]. Any person assuming from another the responsibility for debt service on the instrument must include in the notice a statement of the due date of the next payment [Civ. Code § 2937(f)]. For further discussion and a form of notice, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 25B, Subordination, Assumption, and Assignment (Matthew Bender).

If a notice of default has been recorded or a judicial foreclosure proceeding has been commenced, the person transferring the debt service and the person assuming it must give written notice of the transfer to the trustee or attorney named in the notice of default or judicial foreclosure proceeding. A notice of default, notice of sale, or judicial foreclosure will not be invalidated solely because the service agent is changed during the foreclosure process [Civ. Code § 2937(c)]. A service agent does not include not a trustee exercising a power of sale pursuant to a trust deed [Civ. Code § 2937(h)].

The borrower or subsequent obligor is not liable to the holder of the note, bond, or other instrument, or to any service agent, for payments made to the previous service agent or for late charges, if the payments were made before the borrower or subsequent obligor received written notice of the transfer, and the payments were otherwise on time [Civ. Code § 2937(g)].

§ 555.18 Extinction or Expiration of Security

[1] Performance or Discharge of Obligation

A mortgage is incidental to the obligation for which it is security, and a mortgage may be extinguished like any other accessory obligation [Civ. Code § 2909]. A mortgage is extinguished when the underlying obligation is extinguished, whether by full performance or otherwise [Coon v. Shry (1930) 209 Cal. 612, 615, 289 P. 815 ; see Burge v. Michael (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 780, 786, 29 Cal. Rptr. 290 (dictum); Trowbridge v. Love (1943) 58 Cal. App. 2d 746, 751, 137 P.2d 890 (trust deed); see Civ. Code §§ 1473 et seq., 2910 (extinction of obligations generally; sale of property in discharge of secured obligation extinguishes lien)]. If foreclosure proceedings are pending, a tender of the full amount properly due, made at any time before foreclosure, extinguishes the lien and halts the foreclosure proceedings [Winnett v. Roberts (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 909, 922, 225 Cal. Rptr. 82] . However, if a mortgage is created for future advances, it remains valid even though at times there may be no actual underlying obligation [Frank H. Buck Co. v. Buck (1912) 162 Cal. 300, 303-304, 122 P. 466 ; see Moss v. Odell (1901) 134 Cal. 464, 466, 66 P. 581] . For further discussion of future advances, see § 555.14[3][c].

When an obligation is secured by a trust deed, discharge of the obligation accomplishes the purpose for which the trust was created, and the trust terminates [see Prob. Code § 15407(a)(2)]. Title automatically revests in the trustor, and if the trustee retains bare legal title of record, the trustee can be compelled to reconvey so as to clear the record title [Bank of Italy Nat'l Trust & Sav. Asso. v. Bentley (1933) 217 Cal. 644, 657, 20 P.2d 940 ; Winnett v. Roberts (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 909, 922, 225 Cal. Rptr. 82 ; Snider v. Basinger (1976) 61 Cal. App. 3d 819, 823, 132 Cal. Rptr. 637] .

For further discussion concerning the rights and duties of parties to a mortgage or trust deed on discharge of the secured obligation, see §§ 555.19 and 555.20.

[2] Illegality

Certain types of obligations may not be secured by a trust deed. For example, a lien on real property may not be given to secure a loan to finance the purchase of a motor vehicle, with one exception [Civ. Code § 2982.5(d)(1), (2)]. A trust deed given in violation of this type of provision is void and unenforceable [see Civ. Code § 2982.5(d)(1); see also People v. Custom Craft Carpets, Inc. (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 676, 685, 206 Cal. Rptr. 12 (trust deed was void when it violated prohibition under Civ. Code § 1804.3 against use of real property security interest in contract for goods that are not attached to real property)].

[3] Merger of Interests

As a general rule, when two interests in real property are joined in one person, the lesser interest becomes merged into the greater and is annihilated [Union Bank v. Wendland (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 393, 406, 126 Cal. Rptr. 549] . A trust deed may be extinguished by merger when the beneficiary acquires the ownership interest of the trustor [Ralph C. Sutro Co. v. Paramount Plastering, Inc. (1963) 216 Cal. App. 2d 433, 438, 31 Cal. Rptr. 174] or the prior security interest of a senior trust deed [Union Bank v. Wendland (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 393, 406, 126 Cal. Rptr. 549] .

A merger does not invariably occur on the joinder of two interests, however. Whether that is the result is a factual question and depends on the intent of the person in whom the interests are united [Strike v. Trans-West Discount Corp. (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 735, 742-743, 155 Cal. Rptr. 132] . A merger is usually held not to occur if a junior lien intervenes between ownership and senior security interests that are united, because it is in the best interest of the person in whom these interests are joined to retain priority over the junior lien [Anglo-Californian Bank v. Field (1905) 146 Cal. 644, 653, 80 P. 1080] . Intent to avoid a merger is ordinarily implied, in the absence of express intent, when all of the circumstances show that the interest of the person in whom the two estates have united would be best served by keeping them separate [Strike v. Trans-West Discount Corp. (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 735, 743, 155 Cal. Rptr. 132] .

[4] Lapse of Time

[a] Effect of Statute of Limitations

A lien is extinguished by the lapse of the statutory period within which an action could be brought on the secured obligation [Civ. Code § 2911]. The effect of this provision on a mortgage with a power of sale, as distinguished from a trust deed, demonstrates a major difference between the two [see Bank of Italy etc. Assn. v. Bentley (1933) 217 Cal. 644, 655, 20 P.2d 940] . After the limitation period has run on an obligation secured by a mortgage, the mortgage is extinguished even if it contains a power of sale [Faxon v. All Persons (1913) 166 Cal. 707, 715-717, 137 P. 919] . A trust deed is not extinguished in the same circumstances; courts have held that a trust deed's power of sale may be exercised in spite of the running of the limitation period on the secured obligation [Carson Redevelopment Agency v. Adam (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 608, 610-612, 186 Cal. Rptr. 615 ; see Sipe v. McKenna (1948) 88 Cal. App. 2d 1001, 1006, 200 P.2d 61 (assignment by beneficiary after lapse of statute of limitations was effective and enabled assignee to exercise power of sale); but see [b], below]. However, because the trust deed is merely an incident of the secured obligation, the lapse of the statute of limitations on the obligation does constitute a defense to a judicial action for foreclosure [see Flack v. Boland (1938) 11 Cal. 2d 103, 106-107, 77 P.2d 1090] .

PRACTICE TIP:

Limitations for Judicial Foreclosure Actions. Judicial foreclosure actions are governed by a four-year written contractual limitations period running from the obligation maturity date or pertinent installment due date [Flack v. Boland (1938) 11 Cal. 2d 103, 106, 77 P.2d 1090] . Even if this contractual limitations period runs on the note obligation, a lender can still nonjudicially foreclose a trust deed under the longer 10-year or 60-year periods set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 882.020 [see [b], below]. By William M. Hensley

[b] Expiration of Ancient Trust Deeds

Civ. Code § 882.020 et seq. provide that a trust deed will be extinguished in the same manner as a mortgage after the lapse of a specified expiration period. Specifically, if a mortgage or trust deed has not already expired under Civ. Code § 2911 [see [a], above], it expires on the later of the following dates [Civ. Code § 882.020(a)]:

- Ten years after the final due date of the secured obligation if it is ascertainable from the recorded evidence of indebtedness, or 60 years after the recordation date of the instrument creating the security interest if the final due date is not ascertainable from the recorded evidence of indebtedness; or

- If a notice of intent to preserve the security interest is recorded before the expiration of that period, then 10 years after the date of recordation.

For further discussion and a form of notice of intent to preserve a trust deed or mortgage, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording (Matthew Bender).

After the lapse of the expiration period, the mortgage or deed or trust cannot be enforced by the commencement of an action for foreclosure, the exercise of a power of sale, or the assertion of any other means [Civ. Code § 882.020(a)]. A power of sale is exercised, within the meaning of Civ. Code § 882.020(a), on the recordation of the deed executed pursuant to the power of sale [Civ. Code § 882.020(b)]. The applicable expiration period may be extended by means of a waiver in compliance with Code Civ. Proc. § 360.5, as long as each waiver is recorded before the lapse of the applicable expiration period [Civ. Code § 882.020(c)]. For further discussion of the waiver under Code Civ. Proc. § 360.5, see Ch. 345, Limitation of Actions .

The expiration of the lien of a mortgage, deed of trust, or other security interest pursuant to Civ. Code § 882.020 et seq. or any other statute renders the lien unenforceable by any means commenced or asserted thereafter and is equivalent for all purposes to a certificate of satisfaction, reconveyance, release, or other discharge of the security interest. Execution and recording of a certificate of satisfaction, reconveyance, release, or other discharge, while permitted, is not necessary to terminate or evidence the termination of the security interest [Civ. Code § 882.030]. Civ. Code § 882.030 makes unenforceable the right to judicial foreclosure under Code Civ. Proc. § 725a, which is subject to the four-year statute of limitations in Civ. Code § 2911, but does not apply to the remedy of nonjudicial foreclosure. By use of the term "lien," § 882.030 precludes enforcement of the security interest that has been statutorily extinguished, but not the entire instrument creating the security interest [Ung v. Koehler (2005) 135 Cal. App. 4th 186, 196, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 311] .

Civ. Code § 882.020 et seq. applies to all mortgages, trust deeds, and other instruments that create a security interest in real property to secure a debt or other obligation, whether executed or recorded before, on, or after January 1, 1983 (the operative date of those statutory provisions) [Civ. Code § 882.040(a); but see Civ. Code §§ 880.370, 882.040(b) (extending until January 1, 1988, any earlier filing deadline or expiration date established by those statutes)].

[5] Foreclosure of Senior Lien

Foreclosure under a trust deed extinguishes junior liens or any other subordinate interests in the property [see, e.g., Carpenter v. Smallpage (1934) 220 Cal. 129, 133, 29 P.2d 841 ; Jensen v. Duke (1925) 71 Cal. App. 210, 212, 234 P. 876] . The purchaser at either a judicial sale or a nonjudicial trustee's sale takes title free and clear of those interests [see Dickey v. Gibson (1898) 121 Cal. 276, 278, 53 P. 704 (judicial sale); Dugand v. Magnus (1930) 107 Cal. App. 243, 247, 290 P. 309 (nonjudicial trustee's sale)]. The security is lost or becomes valueless, there being nothing for the junior lien to attach to [see Davis v. Myre (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 616, 618-619, 39 Cal. Rptr. 682] . However, when the original owner's repurchase of property after a trustee's sale revives a junior deed of trust, that junior lien remains second to the new purchase-money deed of trust, which essentially replaces the original senior lien and makes possible the revival of the junior lien [DMC, Inc. v. Downey Savings & Loan Assn. (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 190, 198-199, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 761] .

For discussion of rules determining priority, see § 555.16. For a form of complaint to recover on a note secured by a junior trust deed rendered valueless by foreclosure of a senior trust deed, see § 555.170. For discussion concerning the revival of a junior trust deed extinguished by foreclosure, see § 555.13[2].

§ 555.19 Discharge of Obligation

[1] Clearing Title of Record

The legal effect of a certificate of discharge prescribed by Civ. Code § 2939, to which a mortgagor becomes entitled under Civ. Code § 2941 on discharge of an obligation secured by the mortgage [see [2]-[6], below], is simply to clear the title of record, as the mortgage is extinguished by the discharge [see Burge v. Michael (1963) 213 Cal. App. 2d 780, 786, 29 Cal. Rptr. 290] . Civ. Code § 2941 essentially entitles a trustor or mortgagor to obtain satisfaction of record when the secured obligation is discharged [see Windt v. Covert (1907) 152 Cal. 350, 354, 93 P. 67] . A trust deed terminates and title automatically revests in the trustor when the secured obligation is discharged, so that the legal effect of a subsequent reconveyance, to which the trustor becomes entitled under Civ. Code § 2941 [see [2]-[6], below], is merely to clear the title of record [Snider v. Basinger (1976) 61 Cal. App. 3d 819, 823, 132 Cal. Rptr. 637] .

[2] Reconveyance of Title

[a] Trustee's Duty

Within 30 calendar days after the obligation secured by a trust deed is discharged, the beneficiary or the beneficiary's assignee must execute arequest for full reconveyance and deliver it to the trustee together with the original note, trust deed, and any other documents that are necessary to reconvey the trust deed or to cause it to be reconveyed [Civ. Code § 2941(b)(1); see Huckell v. Matranga (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 471, 478-481, 160 Cal. Rptr. 177 (trustee was entitled to demand delivery of original note before reconveying, and when note was not produced, trustee could require beneficiary to provide corporate surety bond to protect trustee from potential liability to holder of note); see also Civ. Code § 2941(f) ("original" may include optically imaged reproduction in circumstances discussed below)]. The trustee must then execute a full reconveyance and record it or cause it to be recorded (as defined below), in the office of the county recorder in which the trust deed is recorded, within 21 calendar days after receipt by the trustee of the following: the original note and trust deed, the request for a full reconveyance, the fee that may be charged pursuant to Civ. Code § 2941(e) [see [4], below], the recorder's fees, and any other documents that are necessary to reconvey the trust deed or to cause it to be reconveyed [Civ. Code § 2941(b)(1)(A)]. The trustee must deliver a copy of the reconveyance to the beneficiary, successor in interest, or debt-service agent, if known. The reconveyance instrument must specify one of the following options for delivering the instrument, the addresses of which the recorder has no duty to validate [Civ. Code § 2941(b)(1)(B)]:

- That the recorder must deliver the recorded instrument pursuant to Gov. Code § 27321 to the trustor or successor in interest at that person's last known address; or

- That the recorder must deliver the recorded instrument to the trustee's address. If the trustee's address is specified for delivery, the trustee must mail the recorded instrument to the trustor or the successor in interest to the last known address for that party.

Following execution and recordation of the full reconveyance, the trustee is also required, on receipt of a written request by the trustor or the trustor's heirs, successors, or assignees, to deliver, or cause to be delivered, the original note and trust deed to the person making the request [Civ. Code § 2941(b)(1)(C)].

In lieu of delivery of the original note and deed of trust to the trustee within 30 days of loan satisfaction, as required by Civ. Code § 2941(b)(1), a beneficiary who executes and delivers to the trustee a request for a full reconveyance within 30 days of loan satisfaction may, within 120 days of loan satisfaction, deliver the original note and deed of trust to either the trustee or trustor. If the note and deed of trust are delivered in this manner, on satisfaction of the note and deed of trust, the note and deed of trust must be altered to indicate that the obligation is paid in full [Civ. Code § 2941(b)(8)]. In any case, this provision does not alter the obligations and requirements set forth in Civ. Code § 2941(b)(2) and (3) [see § 555.19[2][b], [c]].

For these purposes, "original" may include an optically imaged reproduction when the following conditions are satisfied [Civ. Code § 2941(f)]:

- The trustee is an affiliate or subsidiary of the beneficiary or the beneficiary's assignee.

- The optical image storage media used to store the document is nonerasable write once, read many (WORM) optical image media that does not allow changes to the stored document.

- The optical image reproduction is made consistent with the minimum standards of quality approved by the National Institute of Standards and Technology or the Association for Information and Image Management.

- Written authentication identifying the reproduction as an unaltered copy of the note or trust deed is stamped or printed on the reproduction.

As used in Civ. Code § 2941, the phrases "cause to be recorded" and "cause it to be recorded" include, but are not limited to, sending the full reconveyance or certificate of discharge in recordable form, together with payment for all required fees, in an envelope addressed to the county recorder's office of the county in which the deed of trust or mortgage is recorded. These items may be sent by certified mail with the United States Postal Service, or by an independent courier service using its tracking service that provides documentation of receipt and delivery, including the signature of the recipient. If the items are received in recordable form together with all the required fees, within two business days from the day of receipt the county recorder must stamp and record the full reconveyance or certificate of discharge. Compliance with these procedures entitles the trustee to the benefit of the presumption under Evid. Code § 641 that a letter correctly addressed and properly mailed has been received in the ordinary course of mail [Civ. Code §

2941(c); see Civ. Code § 2941(h) (provision applicable to mortgage or obligation secured by deed of trust satisfied on or after January 1, 2001)].

[b] Beneficiary's Duty

If the trustee fails to execute and record the full reconveyance, or cause it to be recorded, within 60 calendar days after discharge of the obligation, the beneficiary, on receipt of a written request by the trustor or the trustor's heirs, successor in interest, agent, or assignee, must (1) execute and acknowledge a document pursuant to Civ. Code § 2934a substituting itself or another as trustee, and (2) issue a full reconveyance [Civ. Code § 2941(b)(2); see Civ. Code § 2941(b)(5) (this backup provision does not excuse beneficiary or trustee from compliance with primary duty, discussed in § 555.19[2][a]].

A beneficiary may, at its discretion, in accordance with the requirements and procedures of Civ. Code § 2934a, substitute the title company conducting the escrow through which the obligation is satisfied for the trustee of record. In that case, the title company assumes the obligation of a trustee under these provisions, and may collect the fee authorized by Civ. Code § 2941(c).

[c] Release by Title Insurance Company

If a full reconveyance is not executed and recorded pursuant to Civ. Code § 2941(b)(l) or (2) [see § 555.19[2][a], [b]] within 75 calendar days after discharge of the obligation, then a title insurance company may prepare and record a release [see Civ. Code § 2941(b)(3)(A) (required contents of release)]. At least 10 days before the issuance and recording of the release, the title insurance company must send, by first-class, postage-prepaid mail, the intention to release the obligation to the trustee, trustor, and beneficiary of record, or any successor in interest of record, at the last known address [Civ. Code § 2941(b)(3)]. When recorded, the release will be deemed to be the equivalent of a reconveyance of the trust deed [Civ. Code § 2941(b)(3)(B); see Civ. Code § 2941(b)(5) (this backup provision does not excuse beneficiary or trustee from compliance with primary duties, discussed in § 555.19[2][a], [b])].

Civ. Code § 2941 creates a hierarchical system for issuing reconveyances. Thus, title insurers may record a release of obligation only if both the beneficiary and trustee, after proper request, have failed or refused to comply with their statutory duties within the specified time periods [Trustors Security Service v. Title Recon Tracking Service (1996) 49 Cal. App. 4th 592, 607, 56 Cal. Rptr. 2d 793] .

A title insurance company preparing or recording such a release will be liable to any party for damages, including attorney's fees, that any person may sustain by reason of the issuance and recording of the release [Civ. Code § 2941(b)(6)].

[3] Mortgagee's Duty to Record Certificate of Discharge

Within 30 days after a mortgage is extinguished, the mortgagee or assignee must execute a certificate discharging the mortgage in accordance with Civ. Code § 2939 and record it or cause it to be recorded in the office of the county recorder in which the mortgage is recorded. In addition, the mortgagee must deliver the original note and mortgage to the mortgagor or any heir, successor, or assignee at the written request of the latter [Civ. Code § 2941(a); see Civ. Code § 2941(f)].

[4] Fee for Performing Duty

The trustee, beneficiary, or mortgagee may collect official fees and also may charge a reasonable fee to the trustor or mortgagor, or the owner of the land, as the case may be, for all services involved in the preparation, execution, and recordation of the full reconveyance, including document preparation and forwarding services rendered to effect the full reconveyance. This fee may be made payable no earlier than the opening of a good faith escrow or no more than 60 days before the full discharge of the secured obligation [Civ. Code § 2941(e)(1)]. The fee will be conclusively presumed to be reasonable if it does not exceed $45 [Civ. Code § 2941(e)(2)].

This fee may not be charged unless demand for the fee was included in the payoff demand statement described in Civ. Code § 2943 [Civ. Code § 2941(e)(3); see § 555.53 (payoff demand statements)]. In any case, no fee or charge may be imposed on the trustor in connection with, or relating to, any act described in the provisions of Civ. Code § 2941 except as expressly authorized by that code section [Civ. Code § 2941(g)]. However, notwithstanding any other provision of law, if no payoff demand statement is issued in accordance with Civ. Code § 2943, nothing in Civ. Code § 2941 may be construed to prohibit the charging of a reconveyance fee [Civ. Code § 2941.1].

[5] Breach of Duty

[a] Damages and Penalty

If any provision of Civ. Code § 2941 is violated, the violator will be liable to the person affected by the violation for all damages that the latter may sustain by reason of the violation, and must forfeit $500 to that person [Civ. Code § 2941(d)]. The $500 payment is a statutory penalty for the wrongful withholding of a reconveyance and may be recovered without proof of any actual damages [Dixon v. Grossman (1972) 22 Cal. App. 3d 941, 944, 99 Cal. Rptr. 659] . A direct action based on violation of the statutory duty sounds in tort, and damages may be recovered for emotional distress [Pintor v. Ong (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 837, 841-842, 259 Cal. Rptr. 577] . For a form of complaint for recovery of the statutory penalty, in addition to other damages and quiet title relief [see § 555.19[5][b]], see § 555.120.

Any person who violates Civ. Code § 2941 is also guilty of a misdemeanor [Civ. Code § 2941.5].

[b] Other Relief

A beneficiary or mortgagee that persists in refusing to carry out the duty to clear title of record under Civ. Code § 2941 may be compelled to do so [see MacLeod v. Moran (1908) 153 Cal. 97, 100, 94 P. 604] . This is usually accomplished through the trustor's or mortgagor's action to have title quieted, which may include a cause of action for damages and a statutory penalty under Civ. Code § 2941(d) [Dixon v. Grossman (1972) 22 Cal. App. 3d 941, 943, 99 Cal. Rptr. 659 ; see § 555.120]. Alternatively, the trustor or mortgagor may have the title of record cleared by recording a bond and declaration under Civ. Code § 2941.7 [see § 555.20].

If the trustee wrongfully conducts a private foreclosure sale after the trustor has discharged the secured obligation and become entitled to a reconveyance under Civ. Code § 2941(b), the trustor is not limited to damages under Civ. Code § 2941(d) but is also entitled to have the private sale set aside and to have the property reconveyed [Winnett v. Roberts (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 909, 922, 225 Cal. Rptr. 82] .

[6] Special Rules Concerning Application of Provisions

[a] Costs and Actual Damages

If an action that was filed before January 1, 2002, was dismissed as a result of the 2001 amendments to Civ. Code § 2941 [see 2001 Stats., ch. 560, § 1], the plaintiff was not required to pay the defendant's costs [Civ. Code § 2941(i)(1)]. If a claim was barred or dismissed as a result of those amendments, the claimant could, within six months thereafter, file or refile a claim for actual damages that occurred before January 1, 2002 [Civ. Code § 2941(i)(2)].

[b] Fees and Recording

Notwithstanding any other penalties, if a beneficiary collects a fee for reconveyance and thereafter has knowledge, or should have knowledge, that no reconveyance has been recorded, the beneficiary must cause the reconveyance to be recorded. Alternatively, if the release of obligation is earlier and timely recorded, the beneficiary must refund to the trustor the fee charged to perform the reconveyance. Evidence of knowledge includes, but is not limited to, notice of a release of obligation pursuant to Civ. Code § 2941(b)(3) [Civ. Code § 2941(j)].

§ 555.20 Reconveyance After Posting Bond

[1] In General

If a secured obligation has been discharged, but the beneficiary or mortgagee either cannot be located after diligent search or refuses to perform the duty under Civ. Code § 2941 [see § 555.19], the trustor or mortgagor may obtain a release by recording or causing to be recorded, in the office of the county recorder in which the trust deed or mortgage is recorded, a corporate bond accompanied by a declaration and, in the case of a trust deed, a reconveyance [Civ. Code § 2941.7]. This procedure for release may also be used if the obligation has not been discharged but the beneficiary or mortgagee of record cannot be located after diligent search [Civ. Code § 2941.7]. This procedure is deemed to be a cumulative remedy rather than an exclusive remedy [Civ. Code § 2941.7(e)].

"Diligent search" means all of the following [Civ. Code § 2941.7(d)]:

- The mailing of notices as provided under Civ. Code § 2941.7(b)(5) [see § 555.20[2]] and to any other address used to correspond with or contact the beneficiary or mortgagee.

- A check of the telephone directory in the city of the beneficiary's or mortgagee's last known address or place of business.

- A check of the records of the California secretary of state and the secretary of state in the state of incorporation (if known) if the beneficiary or mortgagee is a corporation.

- An inquiry with the regulatory authority of the bank or association if the beneficiary or mortgagee is a state or national bank or state or federal savings and loan association.

For further discussion and forms, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 25C, Release and Reconveyance (Matthew Bender).

[2] Reconveyance or Discharge

In the case of a trust deed, when 30 days have expired following the recordation of a bond and declaration under Civ. Code § 2941.7, and when the trustor or a successor has delivered to the trustee a demand for reconveyance under Civ. Code § 2941.7 together with the usual reconveyance fees plus costs, the trustee must execute and record, or otherwise deliver as provided under Civ. Code § 2941, a reconveyance in the same form as if the beneficiary had made a proper request for reconveyance, provided the trustee has not received a written objection to the reconveyance from the beneficiary of record [Civ. Code § 2941.7(c)].

The trustee is not liable for this reconveyance, and the sole remedy of any person damaged by it is against the trustor, the affiant, or the surety on the bond [Civ. Code § 2941.7(c)].

In the case of a mortgage, when 30 days have expired following the recordation of a bond and declaration under Civ. Code § 2941.7, the mortgage is satisfied of record, provided no objection to satisfaction has been recorded by the mortgagee within that period [Civ. Code § 2941.7(c)].

When there is an outstanding indebtedness, the interest stops accruing as of the date the reconveyance is recorded or the mortgage is satisfied of record [Civ. Code § 2941.7(c)].

§ 555.21 California Residential Mortgage Lending Act

[1] License Requirements

The California Residential Mortgage Lending Act [Fin. Code § 50000 et seq.] governs persons engaged in the business of making or servicing residential mortgage loans in California. In general, persons engaged in these activities must obtain a license from the commissioner of corporations unless the person or transaction is excepted from a statutory definition or from licensure [Fin. Code § 50002(a); see Fin. Code § 50120 et seq. (application and issuance of license for residential mortgage lender; suspension, surrender, or revocation of license for violation; licensing of residential mortgage loan servicer)]. The following are among the exempt persons under the Act [*see Fin. Code § 50002(c)(1)*d-(3)]:

- Any bank, trust company, insurance company, or industrial loan company that is authorized to do business in California and is doing business under the authority of, or in accordance with, a license, certificate, or charter issued by the United States or any state, district, territory, or commonwealth of the United States.

- A federally chartered savings and loan association, federal savings bank, or federal credit union that is authorized to transact business in California.

- A savings and loan association, savings bank, or credit union, organized under the laws of California or any other state, that is authorized to transact business in California.

[2] Licensee's Financial Condition and Loan Transactions

For persons who are subject to the Act, matters covered by the Act include the following:

- Annual audits of a licensee's books by an independent certified public accountant [see Fin. Code § 50200].

- A licensee's minimal tangible net worth [see Fin. Code § 50201].

- Procedures for handling escrow funds and trust accounts, and related financial matters [see Fin. Code § 50202].

- Limits on fees to borrowers and related matters [see Fin. Code § 50203].

- Prohibited activities [see Fin. Code § 50204].

- A licensee's maintenance of a surety bond [see Fin. Code § 50205].

- Adherence to specified subprime and nontraditional lending guidelines [see Fin. Code § 50333].

- Brokerage services provided to a borrower by a licensee [see Fin. Code § 50700 et seq.].

[3] Additional Statutory Requirements

Detailed provisions govern the administration of the Act and the role of the commissioner of corporations. These provisions cover such matters as the functions, powers, and duties of the commissioner [see Fin. Code § 50301], the commissioner's required examination of licensees at least every two years [see Fin. Code § 50302], and annual reports that must be filed by licensees [see Fin. Code § 50307]. Required fees that must be paid, as well other assessments that the commissioner may levy, are set forth in Fin. Code § 50400 et seq., and the general operation of the act and related matters are covered in Fin. Code § 50601 et seq.

[4] Violations of Act

If any amount other than, or in excess of, permitted charges is willfully charged, contracted for, or received by a regulated lender, the commissioner of corporations may order the lender to refund the entire amount of the charge (the otherwise permitted amount plus the excess amount) to all borrowers charged the excess amount, together with 10 percent annual interest on the amount computed from the date the improper charge was imposed. This penalty is in addition to any other penalties or remedies imposed on the lender [Fin. Code § 50504(a)]. If interest on the principal amount of a loan in excess of the amount authorized by the Actis willfully charged, contracted for, or received, the Commissioner may order the lender to refund the excess interest amount to all borrowers charged the excess amount, together with 10 percent annual interest on that amount computed from the date the improper charge was imposed [Fin. Code § 50504(b)]. The Act also sets forth criminal and civil penalties for violations [Fin. Code §§ 50500, 50501; see Fin. Code § 50510], which may be applied to persons engaged in specified prohibited practices [see Fin. Code §§ 50502, 50503, 50505-50509].

In addition to the specific remedies under the Act, the commissioner has more general enforcement powers. Whenever, in the opinion of the commissioner, a person (other than an exempt person) is engaged, either actually or through subterfuge, in the business of making residential mortgage loans or servicing residential mortgage loans, or engaging in business as a mortgage loan originator [see Fin. Code § 50003.5(a) (definition); California Legal Forms, Ch. 25, Real Estate Loans, § 25.12[6] (Matthew Bender)], without a license, the commissioner may order that person to desist and refrain. If, within 30 days after an order is served, a request for a hearing is filed in writing and the hearing is not held within 60 days after the filing, the order is rescinded [Fin. Code § 50320; see Fin. Code § 50002(c) (exempt persons)]. Additionally, whenever the commissioner deems it to be necessary for the public interest, the commissioner has continuous authority to exercise the powers set forth in the act, whether or not an application for a license has been filed with the commissioner, any license has been issued, or a license has been surrendered, suspended, or revoked [Fin. Code § 50328].

§ 555.21A Regulation of Certain Secured Consumer Loans

[1] Loans and Real Property Covered

A consumer loan that is secured by real property may be subject to additional regulation [see Fin. Code § 4970 et seq.]. For the loan to be covered by the governing provisions, the real property securing the loan must be (1) used or intended to be used as the principal dwelling by the consumer, (2) located in California, and (3) improved by a one- to four-unit residential building [Fin. Code § 4970(d)]. In addition, one of the following conditions must be met [Fin. Code § 4970(b)]:

- The annual percentage rate at consummation of the transaction will exceed by more than 8 percentage points the yield on Treasury securities having comparable periods of maturity on the 15th day of the month immediately preceding the month in which the application for the extension of credit is received by the creditor.

- The total points and fees payable by the consumer at or before closing will exceed 6 percent of the total loan amount [see Fin. Code § 4970(c) (what items are included in "points and fees"); Wolski v. Fremont Investment & Loan (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 347, 350, 25 Cal. Rptr. 3d 500 (transaction was not covered loan when total points and fees exceeded 6 percent only if yield-spread premium was included)].

For these purposes, a consumer loan does not include any of the following [Fin. Code § 4970(d)]:

- A reverse mortgage.

- An open line of credit as defined by Regulation Z [see 12 C.F.R. § 226.2(a)(20)].

- A consumer credit transaction that is secured by rental property or second homes.

- A bridge loan, that is, any temporary loan, having a maturity of one year or less, for the purpose of acquisition or construction of a dwelling intended to become the consumer's principal dwelling.

[2] Prohibited Acts and Limitations for Covered Loans

[a] Prepayment Fee or Penalty

A covered loan may not include a prepayment fee or penalty after the first 36 months following the date of consummation of the loan [Fin. Code § 4973(a)(1)]. For the first 36 months, a covered loan may include a prepayment fee or penalty if the person who originates the covered loan has done all of the following [Fin. Code § 4973(a)(2)]:

- Offered the consumer a choice of another product without a prepayment fee or penalty;

- Disclosed in writing to the consumer at least three business days before loan consummation the terms of the prepayment fee or penalty for accepting a covered loan with the prepayment penalty, and the rates, points, and fees that would be available to the consumer for accepting a covered loan without a prepayment penalty; and

- Limited the amount of the prepayment fee or penalty to an amount not to exceed the payment of six months' advance interest, at the contract rate of interest then in effect, on the amount prepaid in any 12-month period in excess of 20 percent of the original principal amount.

In addition, a covered loan may not impose the prepayment fee or penalty if the loan is accelerated as a result of default, and the person who originates the covered loan may not finance a prepayment penalty through a new loan that is originated by the same person [Fin. Code § 4973(a)(2)(D), (E)].

[b] Permissible Payment Schedules

A covered loan with a term of five years or less may not provide at origination for a payment schedule with regular periodic payments that when aggregated do not fully amortize the principal balance as of the loan's maturity date. If a payment schedule is adjusted for the consumer's seasonal or irregular income, the total installments in a year may not exceed the amount of one year's worth of payments on the loan [Fin. Code § 4973(b); see Fin. Code § 4973(b)(2) (not applicable to specified bridge loans)].

[c] Prohibited Terms and Provisions

A covered loan may not contain any of the following terms or provisions:

- A provision for negative amortization such that the payment schedule for regular monthly payments causes the principal balance to increase, unless the loan is a first mortgage and the licensed person discloses to the consumer that the loan contains a negative amortization provision that may add principal to the loan balance [Fin. Code § 4973(c)].

- Terms under which periodic payments required under the loan are consolidated and paid in advance from the loan proceeds [Fin. Code § 4973(d)].

- A provision that increases the interest rate as a result of a default, unless the change is a result of a variable rate loan that is consistent with the provisions of the loan documents, and the change in interest rate is not triggered by default or the acceleration of indebtedness [Fin. Code § 4973(e)].

- A provision that permits the lender, in its sole discretion, to accelerate the indebtedness, other than an acceleration in accordance with the terms of the loan documents as a result of the consumer's default, pursuant to a due-on-sale provision, or due to fraud or material misrepresentation by a consumer in connection with the loan or the value of security for the loan [Fin. Code § 4973(i)].

[3] Lender's Reasonable Belief in Recipient's Ability to Repay Loan

A person who originates a covered loan may not make or arrange the loan unless, at the time the loan is consummated, the person reasonably believes the consumer or consumers will be able to make the scheduled payments to repay the obligation. The lender's belief must be based on a consideration of the consumer's current and expected income, current obligations, employment status, and other financial resources, other than the consumer's equity in the dwelling that secures repayment of the loan. In the case of a covered loan that is structured to increase to a specific designated rate, stated as a number or formula, at a specific predetermined date not exceeding 37 months from the date of application, this evaluation must be based on the fully indexed rate of the loan calculated at the time of application [Fin. Code § 4973(f)(1)].

In addition, a licensed person may not refinance or arrange for the refinancing of a consumer loan such that the new loan is a covered loan that is made for the purpose of refinancing, debt consolidation, or cash out that does not result in an identifiable benefit to the consumer,considering the consumer's stated purpose for seeking the loan, as well as fees, interest rates, finance charges, and points [Fin. Code § 4973(i)].

A consumer is presumed to be able to make the scheduled payments if, at the time the loan is consummated, the consumer's total monthly debts, including amounts owed under the loan, do not exceed 55 percent of the consumer's monthly gross income, as verified by the credit application, the consumer's financial statement, a credit report, financial information provided to the person originating the loan on behalf of the consumer, or any other reasonable means [Fin. Code § 4973(f)(1); see Fin. Code § 4973(f)(3) (loans based on stated income must not be to evade these provisions)]. In any case, no presumption of inability to make the scheduled payments to repay the loan may arise solely from the fact that the consumer's total monthly debts, including the loan amounts owed, exceed 55 percent of the consumer's monthly gross income [Fin. Code § 4973(f)(1)].

[4] Other Limitations on Lender and Loans

In general, a person who originates a covered loan may not act in any manner that constitutes fraud, whether specifically prohibited by these provisions or of a different character [Fin. Code § 4973(o)]. Specific prohibitions applicable to covered loans include the following:

- A person who originates a covered loan may not pay a contractor under a home-improvement contract from the proceeds of a covered loan other than by an instrument payable to the consumer or jointly to the consumer and the contractor or, at the election of the consumer, to a third-party escrow agent for the benefit of the contractor in accordance with the terms and conditions in a written escrow agreement signed by the consumer, lender, and contractor [see Fin. Code § 4973(g)].

- A person who originates a covered loan may not recommend or encourage a consumer to default on an existing consumer loan or other debt in connection with the solicitation or making of a covered loan that refinances all or any portion of the existing consumer loan or debt [Fin. Code § 4973(h)].

- A person who originates a covered loan may not steer, counsel, or direct any prospective consumer to accept a loan product with a risk grade less favorable than the risk grade that the consumer would qualify for based on the lender's current underwriting guidelines [see Fin. Code § 4973(m)(1)].

- If a broker originates a covered loan, the broker may not steer, counsel, or direct any prospective consumer to accept a loan product at a higher cost than that for which the consumer could qualify based on loan products offered by persons with whom the broker regularly does business [Fin. Code § 4973(m)(2)].

- A person who originates a covered loan may not avoid or attempt to avoid the applications of these provisions by structuring the loan transaction as an open-end credit plan for purposes of evading these provisions if the loan would have been a covered loan if structured as a closed-end loan, or by dividing any loan transaction into separate parts for the purpose of evading these provisions [Fin. Code § 4973(n), (o)].

[5] Required Disclosure Statement

A covered loan may not be made unless a statutory disclosure statement has been provided to the consumer no later than three business days before the loan documents are signed. The statement, entitled "CONSUMER CAUTION AND HOME OWNERSHIP COUNSELING NOTICE," must be written in 12-point or larger font [see Fin. Code § 4973(j)(1) (text of statutory notice)]. It is a rebuttable presumption that a licensed person has met its obligation to provide this disclosure if the consumer provides the licensed person with a signed acknowledgment of receipt of a copy of the notice [Fin. Code § 4973(j)(2)].

[6] Enforcement and Penalties for Violations of Law

An extensive number of provisions govern the enforcement of this law [see Fin. Code § 4974 et seq.]. However, any failure to comply with the law that was not willful or intentional and resulted from a bona fide error (which does not include an error in legal judgment), that occurred notwithstanding the maintenance of procedures reasonably adopted to avoid those errors must be corrected within 45 days after receipt of a complaint or discovery of the error. If corrected in this manner, a person who originates a covered loan will not be administratively, civilly, or criminally liable for the error [Fin. Code § 4974(a)]. In addition, any licensed person who violated provisions of the law are deemed to have violated the person's licensing law and are subject to suspension or loss of their license as well as administrative and civil penalties [Fin. Code § 4975; see Fin. Code § 4977].

[7] Preemption of Local Regulation

Fin. Code § 4970 et seq. fully occupies the field of regulation of predatory lending tactics in home mortgages and therefore preempted a city ordinance regulating such lending practices, including the ordinance's regulation of loans not covered by the state statutes [American Fin. Servs. Ass'n v. City of Oakland (2005) 34 Cal. 4th 1239, 1258, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 453, 104 P.3d 813] . Although the statutes contain no express preemption language, the scope of the legislative scheme, as well as the legislative history, provide clear indications of the Legislature's implicit intent to fully occupy the field [American Fin. Servs. Ass'n v. City of Oakland (2005) 34 Cal. 4th 1239, 1255-1256, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 453, 104 P.3d 813] .

§ 552.21B Temporary Payment Relief for Service Members in Iraq and Afghanistan

[1] Eligibility for Deferment of Payments

Temporary relief from mortgage payments is available under Mil. & Vet. Code § 800 et seq. to a member of the U.S. military reserve or California national guard called to active duty as a result of the Iraq conflict pursuant to the Authorization for Use of Military Force Against Iraq Resolution of 2002 [Pub. L. No. 107-243] or the Afghanistan conflict pursuant to Presidential Order No. 13239. Such a service member is called a "reservist" in the statutes [Mil. & Vet. Code § 803].

Mil. & Vet. Code § 800 et seq. will not apply to any active duty voluntarily served after the close of the Iraq or Afghanistan conflicts or to any reservist on active duty as part of the Iraq or Afghanistan conflicts before January 1, 2006 [Mil. & Vet. Code § 809].

In addition to any other benefits provided by law and to the extent permitted by federal law, any member of the U.S. military reserve or the California national guard who is called to active duty after February 9, 2005, as a part of the Iraq and Afghanistan conflicts may defer payments on an obligation secured by a mortgage or deed of trust, while serving on active duty [Mil. & Vet. Code § 800(a)]. "Mortgage" means an obligation secured by a mortgage or deed of trust, and is limited to an obligation secured by a mortgage or deed of trust for residential property owned by the reservist and used as that reservist's primary place of residence on the date the reservist was ordered into active duty [Mil. & Vet. Code § 801].

Mil. & Vet. Code § 800 et seq. will apply only to an obligation that was incurred before the date a member of the U.S. military reserve or California national guard was called to active duty as part of the Iraq and Afghanistan conflicts [Mil. & Vet. Code § 811].

[2] Procedure to Obtain Deferment

For a mortgage debt of a reservist to be subject to the provisions of Mil. & Vet. Code § 800 et seq., the reservist or the reservist's designee must deliver to the lender both of the following [Mil. & Vet. Code § 800(b)]:

- A letter signed by the reservist, under penalty of perjury, requesting a deferment of financial obligations; and

- If required by a financial institution, proof that the reservist's employer does not provide continuing income to the reservist while the reservist is on active military duty, including the reservist's military pay, of more than 90 percent of the reservist's monthly salary and wage income earned before the call to active duty.

On request of the reservist or the reservist's dependent or designee and within five working days of that request, if applicable, the employer of a reservist must furnish the letter or other comparable evidence showing that the employer's compensation policy does not provide continuing income to the reservist, including the reservist's military pay, of more than 90 percent of the reservist's monthly salary and wage income earned before the call to active duty [Mil. & Vet. Code § 800(c)].

[3] Relief During Deferment Period

The deferment period will be the lesser of 180 days or the period of active duty plus 60 calendar days and will apply only to those payments due after the notice provided to a lender by the reservist or reservist's designee [Mil. & Vet. Code § 800(d)].

The lender must extend the term of the obligation by the number of months the obligation was deferred [Mil. & Vet. Code § 800(e)].

During the deferment period, the reservist may defer the payment of principal and interest on the specified obligations. No penalties may be imposed on the nonpayment of principal or interest during this period. No interest may be charged or accumulated on the principal or interest on which the payment was delayed. No foreclosure or repossession of property on which payment has been deferred may take place during the period [Mil. & Vet. Code § 804].

[4] Limitations on Relief

Any mortgage payments deferred are due and payable on the earlier of the following [Mil. & Vet. Code § 802(a)]:

- The sale of the property or other event specified in the documents creating the obligation permitting the lender to accelerate the loan, other than a deferment of payments authorized by Mil. & Vet. Code § 800;

- Further encumbrance of the property; or

- The maturity of the obligation as defined under the terms of the documents creating the obligation or, if applicable, as extended pursuant to Mil. & Vet. Code § 800(e) [see § 555.21B[3]].

A reservist is not precluded from making payments toward the mortgage payments deferred before the occurrence of any of the events described above [Mil. & Vet. Code § 802(c)].

A reservist with a mortgage subject to an impound account for the payment of property taxes, special assessments, mortgage insurance, and hazard insurance is not relieved from making monthly payments of an amount that is at least sufficient to pay these amounts, unless the borrower and lender agree to a lesser amount [Mil. & Vet. Code § 802(b)].

[5] Effect on Holder in Due Course

In those instances when a financial obligation covered by Mil. & Vet. Code § 800 et seq. is sold, any requirement to defer payments as specifiedin those code sections is transferred to the purchaser of the obligation [Mil. & Vet. Code § 810].

[6] No Adverse Effect on Creditworthiness

A stay, postponement, or suspension under Mil. & Vet. Code § 800 et seq. of the payment of any liability of a person in military service may not provide the basis for (1) affecting credit ratings, (2) the denial or revocation of credit, or (3) a change by the lender in the terms of an existing credit arrangement [Mil. & Vet. Code § 805].

[7] Continuation of Credit Disability Insurance

The holder of a loan with regard to which the debtor has purchased prepaid credit disability insurance [see Ch. 127, Consumer Contracts and Loans] must give notice to the debtor, not less than 30 days before the expiration date of the insurance, that the debtor will not be protected during the period between that expiration date and the deferred maturity date of the loan unless the insurance is extended. The debtor may, at his or her option, direct the holder to add the amount of the additional premium to the unpaid balance of the loan [Mil. & Vet. Code § 807(a)].

§ 555.21C Restrictions on Higher-Priced Mortgage Loans

[1] Overview

State-licensed lenders can be subject to certain restrictions on higher-priced mortgage loans imposed by Fin. Code § 4995 et seq. A "higher-priced mortgage loan" is a consumer credit transaction, secured by the consumer's principal dwelling, with an annual percentage rate that exceeds the average prime offer rate for a comparable transaction, as of the date the interest rate is set, by (1) at least 1.5 percentage points, for a loan secured by a first lien on the dwelling, or (2) at least 3.5 percentage points, for a loan secured by a subordinate lien on the dwelling [Fin. Code § 4995(a) (incorporating definition in 12 C.F.R. § 226.35(a))].

The provisions of Fin. Code § 4995 et seq. apply only with respect to a higher-priced mortgage loan that originates on or after July 1, 2010 [Fin. Code § 4995.4].

The state-licensed lenders that can be subject to the restrictions of Fin. Code § 4995 et seq. are real estate brokers, finance lenders and brokers licensed under the Finance Lenders Law, residential mortgage lenders, commercial banks, industrial banks, savings associations, and credit unions [Fin. Code § 4995(b)].

There is no private right of action against a lender for a violation of Fin. Code § 4995 et seq., which can be enforced only by the attorney general or by the culpable lender's licensing agency [Fin. Code § 4995.3(e)]. However, in the event of a violation of Fin. Code § 4995 et seq., a provision for a prepayment penalty or yield spread premium, with respect to the tainted higher-priced mortgage loan, is unenforceable [Fin. Code § 4995.3(f)].

[2] Lenders Making Higher-Priced Loans

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, in making higher-priced mortgage loans, state-licensed lenders are subject to certain restrictions. The maximum amount of a prepayment penalty that may be imposed by the lender in connection with the higher-priced mortgage loan must not exceed 2 percent of the principal balance prepaid, for prepayment of the loan during the first 12 months following loan consummation, or 1 percent of the principal balance prepaid, for prepayment of the loan during the second 12 months following loan consummation [Fin. Code § 4995.1].

The lender must not but see Fin. Code § 4995.2(h) (safe-harbor protection for good faith noncompliance)]:

- Make, or cause to be made, any false, deceptive, or misleading statement or representation in connection with the higher-priced mortgage loan [Fin. Code § 4995.2(b)] ;

- Recommend or encourage default on an existing loan or other debt prior to and in connection with the closing or planned closing of the higher-priced mortgage loan, it if refinances all or any portion of the existing loan or debt [Fin. Code § 4995.2(f)]; or

- Make the higher-priced mortgage loan with a provision for negative amortization [Fin. Code § 4995.2(g)].

After the higher-priced mortgage loan is made, the lender may enter into a subsequent agreement with the borrower to capitalize payments as a means of permitting the borrower to cure or prevent a delinquency; and that would not violate the proscription against negative amortization [Fin. Code § 4995.2(g)].

[3] Lenders Acting as Mortgage Brokers

A state-licensed lender is a "mortgage broker" for purposes of Fin. Code § 4995 et seq. when the lender arranges or attempts to arrange a higher-priced mortgage loan, which originates on or after July 1, 2010, and which is to be made by an unaffiliated third person, if the state-licensed lender acts, in the transaction, as exclusive agent for the borrower or as dual agent for the borrower and the higher-priced lender, for compensation or in expectation of compensation, whether paid directly or indirectly. In that situation, the lender-broker is engaging in "mortgage brokerage services" [Fin. Code § 4995(c), (d)].

A mortgage broker that arranges only higher-priced mortgage loans must disclose that fact to a borrower, both orally and in writing, at the time of initially engaging in mortgage brokerage services with that borrower [Fin. Code § 4995.2(c)].

A mortgage broker that provides mortgage brokerage services must not steer, counsel, or direct a borrower to accept a loan at a higher cost than that for which the borrower could qualify based on the loans offered by the persons with whom the broker regularly does business [Fin. Code § 4995.2(d)].

A mortgage broker that provides mortgage brokerage services for a borrower must not receive compensation, including a yield spread premium, fee, commission, or any other compensation, for arranging a higher-priced mortgage loan with a prepayment penalty that exceeds the compensation that the mortgage broker would otherwise receive for arranging that higher-priced mortgage loan without a prepayment penalty [Fin. Code § 4995.2(e)(1)].

When providing mortgage brokerage services for a borrower, a mortgage broker must receive the same compensation for providing those services whether paid by the lender, by the borrower, or by a third party [Fin. Code § 4995.2(e)(2)].

§ 555.21D Mortgage Brokers as Fiduciaries

State-licensed lenders can have specific fiduciary duties under Civ. Code § 2923.1 when acting as mortgage brokers for residential mortgage loans; however, this will not limit or narrow any other fiduciary duty of a mortgage broker [Civ. Code § 2923.1(c)].

A "residential mortgage loan" in this context is a consumer credit transaction that is secured by residential real property that is improved by four or fewer residential units [Civ. Code § 2923.1(b)(4)].

The state-licensed lenders that could be subject to Civ. Code § 2923.1 are real estate brokers, finance lenders and brokers licensed under the Finance Lenders Law, residential mortgage lenders, commercial banks, industrial banks, savings associations, and credit unions [Civ. Code § 2923.1(b)(1)].

A state-licensed lender is a "mortgage broker" for purposes of Civ. Code § 2923.1 when the lender arranges or attempts to arrange a residential mortgage loan which is to be made by an unaffiliated third person, if the state-licensed lender acts, in the transaction, as exclusive agent for the borrower or as dual agent for the borrower and the residential lender, for compensation or in expectation of compensation, whether paid directly or indirectly. In that situation, the lender-broker is engaging in "mortgage brokerage services" [Civ. Code § 2923.1(b)(2), (3)].

A mortgage broker providing mortgage brokerage services to a borrower is the fiduciary of the borrower, and any violation of the broker's fiduciary duties is a violation of the mortgage broker's license law. This fiduciary duty includes a requirement that the mortgage broker place the economic interest of the borrower ahead of the mortgage broker's own economic interest. A mortgage broker that provides mortgage brokerage services to the borrower owes this fiduciary duty to the borrower regardless of whether the mortgage broker is acting as an agent for any other party in connection with the residential mortgage loan transaction [Civ. Code § 2923.1(a)].

§ 555.22 Deed Absolute As Mortgage

[1] When Given As Security

Every transfer of an interest in real property, other than in trust, that is made only as security for the performance of another act is to be deemed a mortgage [Civ. Code § 2924(a)]. Courts will deem a grant deed to be a mortgage, in spite of the fact that it is absolute on its face, if it is shown to have been given only to secure a debt [Chapman v. Hicks (1919) 41 Cal. App. 158, 162, 182 P. 336 ; see Schriber v. Alameda etc. Title Ins. Co. (1958) 156 Cal. App. 2d 700, 707, 320 P.2d 82 (deed absolute on its face was mortgage even when conveyance was to third person to hold for mortgagee)]. In such a case the intention of the parties will govern [Chapman v. Hicks (1919) 41 Cal. App. 158, 162-163, 182 P. 336 ; see Rickless v. Temple (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 869, 890, 84 Cal. Rptr. 828] .

[2] Effect of Establishing Deed Absolute As Mortgage

A deed absolute on its face, once established as a mortgage, does not pass legal title but creates a mortgage lien in favor of the grantee [Civ. Code § 2888; Moisant v. McPhee (1891) 92 Cal. 76, 79, 28 P. 46 ; Chapman v. Hicks (1919) 41 Cal. App. 158, 165, 182 P. 336] . The parties' rights and duties under the deed are then determined by the statutes governing mortgages generally [see, e.g., Avery v. Hagenios (1919) 45 Cal. App. 176, 179-180, 187 P. 119 (grantee was required under one-form-of-action-rule, Code Civ. Proc. § 726, to foreclose rather than seek personal judgment for debt)].

[3] Action to Establish Deed Absolute As Mortgage

[a] By Grantor

The grantor of a deed absolute on its face may have the deed established as a mortgage through an action for declaratory relief [see Orlando v. Berns (1957) 154 Cal. App. 2d 753, 754-757, 316 P.2d 705 (grantor sought declaration that, in transaction involving sale with option to repurchase, deed was given as security for loan)].

The grantor may also bring a quiet title action to compel reconveyance of title if the secured obligation has been discharged [see, e.g., Louvall v. Gridley (1886) 70 Cal. 507, 508-510, 11 P. 777 ; Steel v. Hadsell (1937) 23 Cal. App. 2d 354, 355-356, 73 P.2d 262] . If the obligation has not been discharged, the grantor cannot obtain quiet-title relief without first paying the debt [Aguilar v. Bocci (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 475, 476-477, 114 Cal. Rptr. 91] . A grantor who brings a quiet title action to compel reconveyance before paying off the debt may obtain relief conditioned on subsequent payment of the remaining debt in an amount and within a reasonable time determined by the court [see, e.g., Rickless v. Temple (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 869, 875, 84 Cal. Rptr. 828 ; Greene v. Colburn (1958) 160 Cal. App. 2d 355, 356, 325 P.2d 148] . For a form of complaint by a grantor to quiet title and compel reconveyance by the grantee, see § 555.125.

When the grantee has sold the property to a third party, the grantor may elect to affirm the sale and bring an action against the grantee to recover the net proceeds of the sale, less the outstanding debt [Wilber v. Sanderson (1872) 43 Cal. 496, 497 ; General Casualty Co. v. Soda (1960) 184 Cal. App. 2d 390, 391-392, 395, 7 Cal. Rptr. 536] . Alternatively, the grantor may bring an action to quiet title against the third party transferee, unless that transferee is a good faith purchaser or lienholder [see, e.g., Steel v. Hadsell (1937) 23 Cal. App. 2d 354, 356-357, 73 P.2d 262 (grantor may compel reconveyance from third-party transferee who acquired title without valuable consideration or had notice that deed was hidden security device); see also Civ. Code §§ 2925, 2950; Duncan v. Ledig (1949) 90 Cal. App. 2d 7, 14, 202 P.2d 107] .

[b] By Grantee

The grantee of a deed absolute intended as a mortgage may, on default by the grantor, bring an action to have the deed declared to be a mortgage and then foreclosed [see, e.g., Churchill v. Woodworth (1906) 148 Cal. 669, 670, 84 P. 155 ; cf. Aguilar v. Bocci (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 475, 476, 114 Cal. Rptr. 91 (grantee has no remedy when action on secured obligation is barred by statute of limitations)]. This is the grantee's sole remedy, and the grantee may recover a personal judgment on the debt only as adeficiency judgment [see Avery v. Hagenios (1919) 45 Cal. App. 176, 179-180, 187 P. 119] . For a form of complaint by a grantee to foreclose a deed established as a mortgage, see § 555.127.

[c] Proof

Parol or extrinsic evidence is competent to show that a deed absolute on its face was intended as a mortgage, except against a good faith purchaser or lienholder [Civ. Code §§ 2925, 2950; Shusett, Inc. v. Home Sav. & Loan Asso. (1964) 231 Cal. App. 2d 146, 153, 41 Cal. Rptr. 622 ; Jensen v. Friedman (1947) 79 Cal. App. 2d 494, 498, 179 P.2d 855] . There is a rebuttable presumption that a deed absolute on its face is what it purports to be [Develop-Amatic Engineering v. Republic Mortgage Co. (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 143, 147-148, 91 Cal. Rptr. 193 ; see Civ. Code § 1105; Evid. Code § 602]. Therefore, the person seeking to show that the deed is actually a mortgage has the burden of proof, by clear and convincing evidence [Develop-Amatic Engineering v. Republic Mortgage Co. (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 143, 148, 91 Cal. Rptr. 193 ; Jones v. Dickerman (1931) 114 Cal. App. 357, 362, 300 P. 135] . In other words, there must be no substantial doubt that the real intention of the parties was to give the deed solely as security [Jensen v. Friedman (1947) 79 Cal. App. 2d 494, 505, 179 P.2d 855] .

The trial court must consider all facts and circumstances in determining whether a deed absolute was intended to be a mortgage [Develop-Amatic Engineering v. Republic Mortgage Co. (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 143, 149, 91 Cal. Rptr. 193 ; Greene v. Colburn (1958) 160 Cal. App. 2d 355, 358, 325 P.2d 148] . The facts of central importance are (1) the existence of a debt owed by the grantor to the grantee at the time of the transaction, and (2) a continuation of this debtor-creditor relationship after the execution of the deed [Spataro v. Domenico (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 411, 413, 216 P.2d 32 ; Jensen v. Friedman (1947) 79 Cal. App. 2d 494, 501, 179 P.2d 855] . If this is shown, it may reasonably be inferred that the deed was given only as security for the debt [Jensen v. Friedman (1947) 79 Cal. App. 2d 494, 501, 179 P.2d 855 ; Chapman v. Hicks (1919) 41 Cal. App. 158, 162, 182 P. 336] . On the other hand, the lack of any surviving debt tends to show that the deed was not intended as a mortgage but was an outright transfer [Develop-Amatic Engineering v. Republic Mortgage Co. (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 143, 149, 91 Cal. Rptr. 193 ; Borton v. Joslin (1928) 88 Cal. App. 515, 521, 263 P. 1033] .

Another important factor is whether there was any express mention by both parties of intent to treat the deed as a mortgage [Develop-Amatic Engineering v. Republic Mortgage Co. (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 143, 148, 91 Cal. Rptr. 193] . Mutual intent that the deed operate as a mortgage may be shown, for example, by an express agreement to reconvey on repaymentof a debt [Rickless v. Temple (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 869, 890, 84 Cal. Rptr. 828] , or it may be disproved by the express refusal of the grantee to enter into a security transaction [Develop-Amatic Engineering v. Republic Mortgage Co. (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 143, 148, 91 Cal. Rptr. 193] . The allocation of ownership rights is also significant. The grantee's assumption of possession after the transaction tends to show that no mortgage was intended [Develop-Amatic Engineering v. Republic Mortgage Co. (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 143, 148, 91 Cal. Rptr. 193] , while the grantor's retention of possession tends to show the opposite [see Rickless v. Temple (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 869, 890, 84 Cal. Rptr. 828] . A marked inequality between the value of the property and the consideration given for it under the deed is also strongly indicative of the deed's status as a security device rather than an outright conveyance [Beeler v. American Trust Co. (1944) 24 Cal. 2d 1, 17, 147 P.2d 583 ; but see Develop-Amatic Engineering v. Republic Mortgage Co. (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 143, 149, 91 Cal. Rptr. 193 (disparity in value was not controlling, in view of other facts showing absolute status of deed)].

[4] Equitable Mortgage Compared

A deed absolute on its face given only as security for a debt is sometimes said to be an equitable mortgage [see, e.g., Aguilar v. Bocci (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 475, 476, 114 Cal. Rptr. 91 ; UMET Trust v. Santa Monica Medical Investment Co. (1983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 864, 868, 189 Cal. Rptr. 922] . Although the two are functionally similar, a deed absolute given as security is not an equitable mortgage established under equitable principles [see § 555.23[1]], but is a legal mortgage, one created by Civ. Code §§ 2924 and 2925 [see Schriber v. Alameda etc. Title Ins. Co. (1958) 156 Cal. App. 2d 700, 707, 320 P.2d 82] .

§ 555.23 Equitable Mortgage

[1] Written Agreement Showing Intent

An executory agreement in writing, in which a debtor sufficiently indicates an intent to make certain real property security for the debt, is in equity deemed to create a mortgage on that property, enforceable as any other mortgage except against good faith purchasers or lienholders [Coast Bank v. Minderhout (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 311, 313-314, 38 Cal. Rptr. 505, 392 P.2d 265 (overruled on other grounds, Wellenkamp v. Bank of America (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 943, 953, 148 Cal. Rptr. 379, 582 P.2d 970); Higgins v. Manson (1899) 126 Cal. 467, 469-470, 58 P. 907] . A promise to give a mortgage or trust deed on particular property as security for a debt may be enforceable as an equitable mortgage, as may an agreement that fails to qualify as a legal mortgage because of defective execution or some other reason but nonetheless provides that specified property is to be securityfor a debt [Coast Bank v. Minderhout (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 311, 314, 38 Cal. Rptr. 505, 392 P.2d 265 (overruled on other grounds, Wellenkamp v. Bank of America (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 943, 953, 148 Cal. Rptr. 379, 582 P.2d 970); Kaiser Industries Corp. v. Taylor (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 346, 351, 94 Cal. Rptr. 773] . A second trust deed with an erroneous description creates an equitable mortgage [Clayton Development Co. v. Falvey (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 438, 444, 253 Cal. Rptr. 609] . For further examples and discussion of the showing required to establish an equitable mortgage, see § 555.23[3].

[2] Other Equitable Liens Compared

With respect to equitable mortgages, courts are primarily concerned with whether the parties intended to create a security interest; if so, courts will enforce that intent in equity, as between the parties, in spite of any legal imperfection in creating that interest [see Title Ins. & Trust Co. v. California Dev. Co. (1915) 171 Cal. 173, 201-202, 152 P. 542] . On the other hand, courts may impose equitable liens in other situations when there is no intent to create a security interest, such as to prevent unjust enrichment [see, e.g., Beckman v. Mayhew (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 529, 534, 122 Cal. Rptr. 604] . For further discussion and forms relating to equitable liens generally, see Ch. 342, Liens and Wage

Preferences.

[3] Action to Establish Equitable Mortgage

[a] Foreclosure

Typically, the creditor, after the debtor's default, seeks to establish an equitable mortgage in an action to foreclose that mortgage [see, e.g., Coast Bank v. Minderhout (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 311, 312, 38 Cal. Rptr. 505, 392 P.2d 265 (overruled on other grounds in Wellenkamp v. Bank of America (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 943, 953, 148 Cal. Rptr. 379, 582 P.2d 970)]. If an equitable mortgage has been created, this is the creditor's only remedy, because the creditor as mortgagee must follow the foreclosure procedure of the one-form-of-action-rule [Code Civ. Proc. § 726] and may not elect instead to bring an action on the debt [Clayton Development Co. v. Falvey (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 438, 444, 253 Cal. Rptr. 609 ; Kaiser Industries Corp. v. Taylor (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 346, 352-353, 94 Cal. Rptr. 773] . For a form of complaint to establish and foreclose an equitable mortgage, see § 555.128.

[b] Proof of Intent

The controlling factual question is whether the parties intended to make the property security for the debt [Kaiser Industries Corp. v. Taylor (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 346, 351, 94 Cal. Rptr. 773] . The instrument itself need not show on its face the intent to create a security interest, as long as itis reasonably susceptible to this interpretation, and the requisite intent is shown by extrinsic evidence [Coast Bank v. Minderhout (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 311, 314-315, 38 Cal. Rptr. 505, 392 P.2d 265 (overruled on other grounds in Wellenkamp v. Bank of America (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 943, 953, 148 Cal. Rptr. 379, 582 P.2d 970); Kaiser Industries Corp. v. Taylor (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 346, 351, 94 Cal. Rptr. 773] . One factor to consider in determining whether an agreement is reasonably susceptible to interpretation as a security device is whether this interpretation would be consistent with principles applicable to adhesion contracts. A creditor should not be permitted to take advantage of ambiguous language in a printed form that the creditor has provided in lieu of a standard trust deed, so as to convert an agreement into a security device whenever it becomes desirable to do so [Tahoe National Bank v. Phillips (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 11, 19-20, 92 Cal. Rptr. 704, 480 P.2d 320] .

The Supreme Court has created an apparent conflict with respect to agreements by debtors not to transfer or encumber real property. On one hand, the Court held that an agreement by a debtor not to transfer or encumber certain real property until the debt was discharged was reasonably susceptible to being interpreted as providing the specified property as security for the debt, so that it was enforceable as an equitable mortgage on a sufficient showing that such an interpretation conformed with the parties' intent [Coast Bank v. Minderhout (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 311, 313 n.2, 315, 38 Cal. Rptr. 505, 392 P.2d 265 , overruled on other grounds, Wellenkamp v. Bank of America (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 943, 953, 148 Cal. Rptr. 379, 582 P.2d 970 ; see Kaiser Industries Corp. v. Taylor (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 346, 349-350, 352, 94 Cal. Rptr. 773] . The court reached the opposite conclusion with respect to an almost identical agreement in another case [Tahoe National Bank v. Phillips (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 11, 14 n.2, 16-21, 92 Cal. Rptr. 704, 480 P.2d 320] . The court in Tahoe National Bank distinguished the agreement in Coast Bank on the ground that the Coast Bank agreement included an acceleration clause [see § 555.15[3], [4]] and was executed in connection with a loan to improve the property covered by the agreement, noting that both features were characteristic of a mortgage and were absent in the agreement considered in Tahoe National Bank [Tahoe National Bank v. Phillips (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 11, 20, 92 Cal. Rptr. 704, 480 P.2d 320] .

Reflecting what may have been a more important distinction between the cases, the Tahoe National Bank court also noted the different equities of the two cases, emphasizing that the creditor in Coast Bank sought to establish and foreclose an equitable mortgage after the debtor breached the covenant not to convey, which was the creditor's only effective remedy in the circumstances. By contrast, the debtor in Tahoe National Bank had merely defaulted on the debt and had not breached the agreement not toconvey, so that the property was still available for satisfaction of the creditor's judgment on the note [Tahoe National Bank v. Phillips (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 11, 20-21, 92 Cal. Rptr. 704, 480 P.2d 320 ; see Orange County Teachers Credit Union v. Peppard (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 448, 451-454, 98 Cal. Rptr. 533] .

§ 555.30 Foreclosure

[1] Private Sale or Foreclosure Action

Foreclosure refers to the enforcement of a mortgage or trust deed in any manner provided by law. The original judicial method of foreclosure is an equitable proceeding to terminate ("foreclose" in the sense of preclude) a mortgagor's or trustor's right or equity of redemption [see Civ. Code § 2931; Code Civ. Proc. § 725a; Bank of Italy etc. Assn. v. Bentley (1933) 217 Cal. 644, 654, 20 P.2d 940 ; Hibernia Sav. & Loan Soc. v. Lauffer (1940) 41 Cal. App. 2d 725, 732, 107 P.2d 494] . A private sale, or trustee's sale, conducted under a contractual power of sale, is referred to as a nonjudicial method of foreclosure [see, e.g., Miller v. Cote (1982) 127 Cal. App. 3d 888, 894, 179 Cal. Rptr. 753 ; Bisno v. Sax (1959) 175 Cal. App. 2d 714, 722, 346 P.2d 814] .

Because standard trust deeds and most mortgages include a power of sale, the beneficiary or mortgagee typically has the option of pursuing either the judicial or nonjudicial method of foreclosure [see Lincoln v. Superior Court (1934) 2 Cal. 2d 127, 128-130, 39 P.2d 405] . Initially, at least, the beneficiary or mortgagee need not elect one method to the exclusion of the other but may pursue both concurrently [Flack v. Boland (1938) 11 Cal. 2d 103, 107-108, 77 P.2d 1090 ; Carpenter v. Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1945) 71 Cal. App. 2d 593, 597, 163 P.2d 73 ; see Commercial Centre Realty Co. v. Superior Court of San Francisco (1936) 7 Cal. 2d 121, 129, 59 P.2d 978] . The judicial remedy may be pursued until the completion of the nonjudicial sale [Code Civ. Proc. § 580d; Hibernia Sav. & Loan Soc. v. Lauffer (1940) 41 Cal. App. 2d 725, 728, 107 P.2d 494 ; see § 555.32[2]]. Conversely, a private sale may be completed at any time before a decree of foreclosure is entered [see Flack v. Boland (1938) 11 Cal. 2d 103, 108, 77 P.2d 1090 (whether private sale is available after judgment in foreclosure action is open question)]. For discussion comparing the respective features of the two remedies, see § 555.30[2].

PRACTICE TIP:

Election Through Judicial Foreclosure Decree Entry. Although the issue was not resolved with certainty in Flack, this practitioner finds that many courts have ruled in unpublished proceedings that an election has occurred if a lender has obtained a judicial foreclosure decree (even before a marshall's sale is conducted under the decree). However, this area is still ripe for litigation, because it can be argued that no election occurs until a marshall's sale actually happens and the time begins to accrue for a fair value hearing. By William M. Hensley

In the few transactions in which there is no provision for a private sale, such as when a grant deed is established as a mortgage [see § 555.22], the only remedy is judicial foreclosure [see Aguilar v. Bocci (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 475, 476-477, 114 Cal. Rptr. 91] .

[2] Methods Compared

The following points of comparison are among the significant factors to be considered in determining whether judicial foreclosure or private sale is the more appropriate remedy in a given case [see [1], above].

1. In a foreclosure action, if the security proves to be insufficient, the beneficiary in some cases may recover a money judgment for the deficiency [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 580a, 726(b)]. For discussion of when a deficiency judgment may be obtained, see § 555.32[3]. After a private sale, a deficiency judgment is barred in nearly all cases [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 580b, 580d; see § 555.32[2]].

2. The title conveyed by a private sale is nonredeemable [Roseleaf Corp. v. Chierighino (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 35, 43-44, 27 Cal. Rptr. 873, 378 P.2d 97 ; see § 555.62]. In the case of a sale under a foreclosure decree, the trustor or a successor in interest may, in some cases, redeem the property up to one year after the sale [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.010 et seq.; Roseleaf Corp. v. Chierighino (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 35, 43-44, 27 Cal. Rptr. 873, 378 P.2d 97 ; see § 555.72].

3. A private sale can be completed in a relatively short period, possibly 110 days [see Civ. Code §§ 2924(a)(3), 2924f (90-day period between notice of default and notice of sale plus 20-day period between notice of sale and sale); Garfinkle v. Superior Court (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 268, 275, 146 Cal. Rptr. 208, 578 P.2d 925 ; but see § 555.56[4]]. Judicial foreclosure is subject to the delays incident to civil actions and the enforcement of a judgment for sale of real property. Additionally, a private sale may be expected to involve less expense than a court action.

4. A foreclosure action is subject to the bar of the statute of limitations on the secured obligation, but a private sale is not a judicial action andmay therefore be conducted at any time before final expiration of the trust deed or mortgage with a power of sale [Flack v. Boland (1938) 11 Cal. 2d 103, 106-107, 77 P.2d 1090 ; see § 555.18[4][a]].

5. Irregularities in the sale are more likely to result in the sale being set aside or invalidated when it is done privately than when it is done pursuant to a foreclosure decree [cf. Scott v. Security Title Ins., & Guar. Co. (1937) 9 Cal. 2d 606, 613-614, 72 P.2d 143 (private sale was nullity when proper notice of sale was not given); Hamilton v. Carpenter (1942) 52 Cal. App. 2d 447, 447-448, 126 P.2d 395 (failure to give proper notice of sale was not sufficient reason to invalidate or set aside judicial sale)].

PRACTICE TIP:

The Nod Goes to Private Sales. With rare exceptions, most lenders prefer to pursue private sales rather than judicial foreclosures. Time, expense, lack of a substantial deficiency differential, and marketability concerns tied to redeemability issues are the primary factors that convince most lenders to elect private sales over judicial foreclosure proceedings. Conversely, many secondary loan purchasers opt for judicial foreclosure based upon the "portfolio analysis" of deficiency recoverability and REO collateral values. All things considered, private sales outnumber judicial foreclosures by a large margin. By William M. Hensley

[3] Right to Foreclose Is Triggered by Default

Foreclosure, whether judicial or nonjudicial, is generally available on any default under the terms of the obligation and trust deed or mortgage [see Code Civ. Proc. § 726(a) (foreclosure is sole action for recovery of secured debt or enforcement of secured right); Lincoln v. Superior Court (1934) 2 Cal. 2d 127, 129, 39 P.2d 405 (customary provision provided for sale by trustee in event of default); see also Fin. Code §§ 1227.2, 7461 (default provisions that are enforceable even if beneficiary's security interest is not impaired)]. Typically the triggering event is a failure to pay installments of principal and interest due on the secured debt [see, e.g., California Livestock Production Credit Assn. v. Sutfin (1985) 165 Cal. App. 3d 136, 139, 142, 211 Cal. Rptr. 152 ; see also § 555.15[3]]. However, foreclosure may also be available after a default in the performance of a collateral obligation, such as a duty to pay taxes and assessments on the encumbered property [see, e.g., Security-First Nat. Bank v. Lamb (1931) 212 Cal. 64, 68, 297 P. 550] or a duty not to transfer the encumbered property without the beneficiary's consent [see, e.g., Santa Clara Savings & Loan Assn. v. Pereira (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 1089, 1093-1097, 1098, 211 Cal. Rptr. 54 ; see also § 555.15[4]].

Not every default will justify foreclosure, however. In some circumstances courts may refuse to permit foreclosure if it would result in a forfeiturebased on a technical but insubstantial default. For example, one court denied any relief in a foreclosure action based on a default consisting of waste, which technically violated a covenant against waste but was, in fact, either ameliorative or harmless in effect [Bart v. Strueli (1935) 5 Cal. 2d 67, 67-68, 52 P.2d 922] . Similarly, another court held that a trustor was entitled to relief enjoining a trustee's sale when the sale was based on one day's tardiness in payment [Bisno v. Sax (1959) 175 Cal. App. 2d 714, 720-730, 346 P.2d 814 ; see Baypoint Mortgage Corp. v. Crest Premium Real Estate etc. Trust (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 818, 825-830, 214 Cal. Rptr. 531 (trustor, in action to enjoin private sale, was held likely to prevail on merits when default was merely payment made several days after due date but before date after which late payment charge was to be imposed)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Baypoint Counsels Against Enforcement of Non-Substantial Defaults. Although lenders frequently get frustrated over chronically late-paying borrowers, Baypoint came down hard on a lender attempting to enforce technical defaults against a borrower that nevertheless cured the delinquencies through tardy payments. The Baypoint court enjoined foreclosure by just such a frustrated lender and stridently counseled lenders not to pursue forfeiture maneuvers against patience-trying borrowers who nonetheless eventually come through with dilatory payments, because the lenders instead can pursue the enforcement of late charge penalties as a less draconian remedy against chronically tardy borrowers. Baypoint is must reading for borrowers and lenders in the default enforcement area with respect to what types of defaults will sustain smooth foreclosure efforts. By William M. Hensley

[4] Deed in Lieu of Foreclosure

As an expedient and inexpensive alternative to foreclosure, the trustor may give the beneficiary a deed in lieu of foreclosure [see, e.g., Hamud v. Hawthorne (1959) 52 Cal. 2d 78, 83, 338 P.2d 387] . At the time the trust deed is created, any agreement by the trustor to make such a conveyance in the event of default is unenforceable [Civ. Code § 2889]. However, a separate agreement to convey is valid, as long as it is made after the default for an adequate consideration (for example, cancellation of the secured obligation) and is otherwise fair and free from undue influence [Hamud v. Hawthorne (1959) 52 Cal. 2d 78, 83, 338 P.2d 387 ; Phelan v. De Martin (1890) 85 Cal. 365, 367, 24 P. 725] . The adequacy of consideration would be a question of fact [Wright v. Security-First Nat. Bank (1939) 35 Cal. App. 2d 264, 280-283, 95 P.2d 194] .

For discussion of the effect of a conveyance of the trustor's title to the beneficiary, see § 555.18[3]. For discussion of circumstances in which adeed absolute on its face may be established as a mortgage only, see § 555.22.

[5] Foreclosure on Real Property Sales Contracts

Courts have consistently rejected arguments that real property installment sale contracts should be construed as mortgages within the meaning of Civ. Code § 2924(a), on the ground that such a construction should be made expressly by the legislature [see, e.g., Petersen v. Hartell (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 102, 106 n.1, 219 Cal. Rptr. 170, 707 P.2d 232 ; Kosloff v. Castle (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 369, 377, 171 Cal. Rptr. 308 (disapproved on other grounds in Petersen v. Hartell (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 102, 117, 219 Cal. Rptr. 170, 707 P.2d 232)]. Under these decisions, a purchaser in default under an installment sale contract has not had the benefit of statutory protections afforded to mortgagors and trustors under Civ. Code § 2920 et seq., such as the right of reinstatement under Civ. Code § 2924c. When the default was not willful or grossly negligent, the purchaser could cure the default and reinstate the contract under Civ. Code § 3275 (relief from forfeitures) [see Barkis v. Scott (1949) 34 Cal. 2d 116, 117-118, 122-123, 208 P.2d 367] . Otherwise, however, the purchaser was limited either to restitution of any payments made less damages [Honey v. Henry's Franchise Leasing Corp. (1966) 64 Cal. 2d 801, 805, 52 Cal. Rptr. 18, 415 P.2d 833] , or to redemption of title to the property by paying off the entire outstanding balance plus interest and consequential damages [Petersen v. Hartell (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 102, 117, 219 Cal. Rptr. 170, 707 P.2d 232] . For further discussion of these remedies, see Ch. 569, Vendor and Purchaser of Real Property .

In response to these cases, the legislature partly extended the statutory foreclosure provisions to certain real property sale contracts. Specifically, for purposes of Civ. Code §§ 2924-2924h (governing foreclosure by private sale), "mortgage" now includes any security device or instrument, other than a trust deed, that contains a power of sale affecting real property that may be exercised after a breach of the secured obligation. In particular, "mortgage" includes any real property sale contract as defined by Civ. Code § 2985, when the contract contains such a power of sale [Civ. Code § 2920(b); see Civ. Code § 2985(a) (real property sale contract defined as agreement by which one party agrees to convey title to real property to another party on satisfaction of terms of contract and that does not require conveyance of title within one year)].

§ 555.31 Effect of One-Form-of-Action Rule

[1] In General

The one-form-of-action rule of Code Civ. Proc. § 726 is that foreclosure is the only form of action to recover any debt or enforce any right secured by a trust deed or mortgage [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(a)]. This rule has two purposes: to compel a secured creditor to resort first to the security, and to protect the debtor from numerous suits when a creditor holds multiple security interests [see Savings Bank v. Central Market Co. (1898) 122 Cal. 28, 36, 54 P. 273] . For discussion of the rule as it applies to guarantors, see § 555.32[5].

[2] Waiver of Protection

The benefits of the one-form-of-action rule may not be waived in advance by the debtor. Any purported waiver at the time of the transaction is void [Civ. Code § 2953].

PRACTICE TIP:

Waiver May Be Ineffective Against Guarantors. Although there is no precise California precedent on this point, a Nevada decision construing California law has held that a guarantor of a real estate loan has the benefit of the one-action rule [see Component Sys. Corp. v. Eighth Judicial Dist. Court, (1985) 101 Nev. 76, 692 P.2d 1296] . If Component Systems is correct, this is significant for guarantors given than Civ. Code § 2953 does not allow for advance waivers of the one-action rule. An issue waiting to be resolved is whether Civ. Code § 2856 enactments, relative to post-1996 guarantor waivers [see § 555.32[5][b][iii]], allows one-action protections to be waived in advance (as it provides) or is inconsistent in some way with the antiborrower waiver policy enunciated through Civ. Code § 2953. By William M. Hensley

A debtor's waiver of the rule is invalid against other secured creditors. The creditor who has a personal judgment against the debtor and a waiver from the debtor cannot enforce nonjudicial foreclosure rights under the trust deed to obtain priority over other secured creditors. Obtaining a personal judgment exhausts all of the creditor's rights under the note and trust deed and relegates the creditor to the status of an ordinary judgment creditor without priority. Allowing a waiver would violate the policy of Code Civ. Proc. § 726, which is to minimize the extent to which the debtor's unpledged assets may be seized to satisfy a secured creditor's claims--a policy that protects other creditors. Allowing a waiver would also deprive the other creditors of the right of redemption after a judicial foreclosure [O'Neil v. General Security Corp. (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 587, 598-605, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 712] .

A debtor's waiver is also unenforceable against nonconsenting obligors on the note [Pacific Valley Bank v. Schwenke (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 134, 146, 234 Cal. Rptr. 298] or against successors in interest of the debtor [Walker v. Community Bank (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 729, 739, 111 Cal. Rptr. 897, 518 P.2d 329] .

[3] Action on Debt

[a] Barred Until Security Exhausted

[i] Operation of Rule

Under the one-form-of-action rule, a creditor must first exhaust the security before seeking a money judgment on a debt secured by a trust deed or mortgage [Hartman v. Smith (1963) 219 Cal. App. 2d 415, 417, 33 Cal. Rptr. 147] . Thus, if a creditor seeks to recover by an action on the debt instead of a foreclosure action, the debtor may raise the existence of the security as an affirmative defense, the effect of which is to bar the action and force the creditor first to exhaust the security before seeking a personal judgment against the debtor for any deficiency [Walker v. Community Bank (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 729, 734, 111 Cal. Rptr. 897, 518 P.2d 329 ; Hartman v. Smith (1963) 219 Cal. App. 2d 415, 416-417, 33 Cal. Rptr. 147] . Similarly, following a debtor's default on a note secured by a trust deed on California real property, the creditor cannot commence an action against the debtor in another country, obtain a prejudgment attachment against the debtor's real property in the other country, and then commence an action in California for judicial foreclosure and a deficiency, because the commencement of the initial action constitutes an election of remedies triggering forfeiture of the creditor's security interest [Shin v. Superior Court (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 542, 546-549, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 587] .

The debtor may waive the defense by failing to raise it [Scalese v. Wong (2000) 84 Cal. App. 4th 863, 870, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 40 ; Spector v. National Pictures Corp. (1962) 201 Cal. App. 2d 217, 225-226, 20 Cal. Rptr. 307] . However, even if the debtor waives the defense in an action on the debt, the debtor is still entitled to invoke Code Civ. Proc. § 726 if the creditor later seeks judicial or nonjudicial foreclosure of the security. In this case, Code Civ. Proc. § 726 operates as a sanction on the ground that the creditor, by not foreclosing on the security in the action to enforce the debt, made an election of remedies and waived the security [Walker v. Community Bank (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 729, 733-734, 111 Cal. Rptr. 897, 518 P.2d 329] .

[ii] Pursuit of Attachment Not an Action

Subject to the antideficiency provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 580b and 580d [see § 555.32], in an action to foreclose, the pursuit of any remedy authorized by law relating to attachment does not constitute an action for the recovery of a debt for purposes of Code Civ. Proc. § 726(a) or a failure to comply with other statutory or judicial requirements to proceed first against security [Code Civ. Proc. § 483.012].

PRACTICE TIP:

No One-Action Problem for Appointment of Receiver or Turnover of Receivership Funds.

Although the issue was in doubt until recently, Civ. Code § 2938(c), (e)(2), (f)(1), as well as Code Civ. Proc. § 564(d), now clarify that the appointment of a receiver or the receipt of rents, issues, and profits under an assignment-of-rents clause in the form of receivership estate proceeds does not run afoul of one-action rule prohibitions. By William M. Hensley

[iii] Exception for Fraud Action

The one-form-of-action rule does not bar an action for damages for fraud under Civ. Code § 1572 if that action is brought by a person authorized by California to make or arrange loans, or by any subsidiary, affiliate, or successor in interest that originated the loan or purchased the loan or any interest in the loan, against a borrower for fraudulent conduct that induced the original lender to make a loan secured by a trust deed. Exemplary damages up to 50 percent of actual damages may be recovered in such an action [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(f), (h); Fin. Code §§ 551(a), 7460(a), 15102(a)]. This exception to the one-form-of-action rule does not apply to loans secured by single-family, owner-occupied residential real property if the property is actually occupied by the borrower as represented to the lender in order to obtain the loan and the loan is for less than $150,000, as adjusted annually to the Consumer Price Index [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(g); Fin. Code §§ 551(b), 7460(b), 15102(b)].

[b] When Security Is Rendered Worthless

[i] Action on Debt Permitted; Sold-Out Junior Lienholder as Creditor

The security-first requirement of the one-form-of-action rule does not preclude an action on the debt by a creditor whose security has been rendered worthless without any fault on the part of that creditor [see Savings Bank v. Central Market Co. (1898) 122 Cal. 28, 33-36, 54 P. 273 ; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 483.010 (attachment is permitted on claim originally secured when security has become valueless without act of plaintiff); Code Civ. Proc. § 483.012 (pursuit of attachment remedy does not constitute failure to comply with requirement to proceed first against security for recovery of debt secured by mortgage or trust deed)]. The most common example is the sold-out junior lienholder, whose security has been rendered valueless by foreclosure of a senior lien [Roseleaf Corp. v. Chierighino (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 35, 39, 27 Cal. Rptr. 873, 378 P.2d 97 ; see § 555.18[5]]. With certain exceptions, the sold-out junior lienholder may bring an action on the debt, because there is no reason to force recourse first to security that no longer exists [see Roseleaf Corp. v. Chierighino (1963) 27 Cal. Rptr. 873, 378 P.2d 97 ; Savings Bank v. Central Market Co. (1898) 122 Cal. 28, 33-36, 54 P. 273] . For further discussion, see [4], below. For a form of complaint to enforce a debt secured by a trust deed rendered valueless by foreclosure of a senior lien, see § 555.170.

One court has held that a junior lienholder was not barred from suing directly on the secured obligation when the security was extinguished by the foreclosure of a senior lien, even though the junior lienholder had commenced foreclosure proceedings before the senior lienholder and had suspended the foreclosure sale to allow the senior lienholder to complete a foreclosure sale first [Bank of America v. Graves (1996) 51 Cal. App. 4th 607, 614-615, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 288] . The junior lienholder's failure to complete foreclosure proceedings was not an affirmative act leading to the loss of the security, and the mere commencement of the foreclosure proceedings was not an election of remedies that precluded a suit for the deficiency [Bank of America v. Graves (1996) 51 Cal. App. 4th 607, 614-615, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 288] . Similarly, when senior and junior debts secured by the same property were assigned by a creditor to two independent parties, the one-form-of-action rule did not prohibit the junior lienholder from bringing a separate action to recover its debt following the senior lienholder's judicial foreclosure of the property. The fact that the junior lienholder's predecessor-in-interest had allowed the holder of the senior lien to foreclose did not require a different outcome [National Enterprises, Inc. v. Woods (2001) 94 Cal. App. 4th 1217, 1234, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 37] .

[ii] Other Types of Creditors

Other types of creditors that come within the worthless-security exception to Code Civ. Proc. § 726 include creditors whose security has been (1) physically destroyed without any fault on their part [Cohen v. Marshall (1925) 197 Cal. 117, 122-123, 239 P. 1050] , or (2) rendered worthless because the trust deed or mortgage is legally unenforceable without any fault on their part [see Giandeini v. Ramirez (1936) 11 Cal. App. 2d 469, 472-473, 54 P.2d 91] . Creditors that do not come within this exception are generally those at fault, such as creditors that unilaterally waive the security to bring an action on the underlying debt [Barbieri v. Ramelli (1890) 84 Cal. 154, 156-157, 23 P. 1086 ; see Savings Bank v. Central Market Co. (1898) 122 Cal. 28, 33-36, 54 P. 273] or creditors that knowingly accept a security interest that is inadequate or worthless at the time it is accepted [Giandeini v. Ramirez (1936) 11 Cal. App. 2d 469, 471, 473-475, 54 P.2d 91] .

[4] All Interests to Be Foreclosed in Single Action

Under the one-form-of-action rule, a creditor can bring only a single action of foreclosure to enforce or recover on a secured obligation [Appel v. Hubbard (1957) 155 Cal. App. 2d 639, 643, 318 P.2d 164] . Thus, if a creditor with several security interests for a single debt brings a foreclosure action but fails to include all those interests in that action, the creditor may be held to have waived the right to foreclose the remaining security interests, whether by another judicial action or nonjudicially [see Walker v. Community Bank (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 729, 733, 734-740, 111 Cal. Rptr. 897, 518 P.2d 329] . In such a case, the debtor may either raise the existence of the excluded security interests as a defense and compel their inclusion in the action or wait and later invoke Code Civ. Proc. § 726 as a sanction to prevent their foreclosure by either judicial or nonjudicial means [see Walker v. Community Bank (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 729, 740-741, 111 Cal. Rptr. 897, 518 P.2d 329] . If the debtor chooses the latter course and does not compel inclusion of all security interests in the creditor's action, the creditor may retain any deficiency recovered after a judicial sale of the included security interests, even though the creditor failed to include some security interests [United California Bank v. Tijerina (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 963, 968-969, 102 Cal. Rptr. 234] .

This single-action requirement of the one-form-of-action rule does not prevent a creditor from foreclosing on several different security interests by means of separate private sales, or by means of a private sale followed by a foreclosure action. The reason for this distinction is that any private sale preceding a foreclosure action does not constitute a judicial action within the meaning of the single-action requirement of Code Civ. Proc. § 726 [see Ramsey v. Furlott (1936) 14 Cal. App. 2d 145, 147, 57 P.2d 1007] .

[5] Enforceability of Letters of Credit

If an obligation is secured by a mortgage or trust deed on real property (or on an estate for years in real property) and is also supported by a letter of credit, the following acts will not constitute an action within the meaning of Code Civ. Proc. § 726(a) or a failure to comply with any other statutory or judicial requirement to proceed first against security [Code Civ. Proc. § 580.5(b)]:

- The presentment, receipt of payment, or enforcement of a draft or demand for payment under the letter of credit by the beneficiary of the letter of credit.

- The honoring or payment of, or the demand for reimbursement, receipt of reimbursement, or enforcement of any contractual, statutory, or other reimbursement obligation relating to, the letter of credit by the issuer of the letter of credit.

This exemption from the one-form-of-action rule applies whether the above acts occur before or after the following: the judicial or nonjudicial foreclosure of the mortgage or trust deed; or a conveyance in lieu of foreclosure [Code Civ. Proc. § 580.5(b)].

Notwithstanding the exemption, a letter of credit will not be enforceable by any party to the letter of credit in a loan transaction in which all of the following circumstances exist [Code Civ. Proc. § 580.7(b)]:

- The loan is secured by a purchase-money trust deed or purchase-money mortgage on real property containing one-to-four residential units, at least one of which is owned and occupied, or was intended at the time the loan was made to be occupied, by the customer.

- The borrower is a natural person.
- The letter of credit is issued to the beneficiary to avoid a default of the existing loan.
- The letter of credit is issued after January 1, 1995 (the operative date of Code Civ. Proc. § 580.7).

Code Civ. Proc. § 580.5 also exempts letter-of-credit transactions from the antideficiency statutes [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 580a, 580b, 580d, 726(b)]. For further discussion of the exemption and the legislative intent behind it, see § 555.32[6]. For coverage of letters of credit, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 56, Letters of Credit and Electronic Fund Transfers (Matthew Bender).

[6] Effect of Setoff

[a] Creditor's Improper Setoff

It is a violation of the one-form-of-action rule for a bank to set off a deposit account in satisfaction of the depositor's debt to the bank if the debt is secured by a trust deed on the depositor's real property. The one-form-of-action rule requires that the bank first proceed against the security [Security Pacific National Bank v. Wozab (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 991, 999-1000, 275 Cal. Rptr. 201, 800 P.2d 557] .

When a bank makes an improper setoff, it waives the right to resort to the security. It is not sufficient for the bank merely to reverse the setoff, because the debtor is subjected to the burden of multiple actions in bringing an action for reversal of the setoff and later defending the foreclosure action. Further, the debtor is deprived of funds with which to pay an attorney and suffers costs in recovering funds that should not have been taken in the first place. Therefore, the appropriate remedy is loss of the security interest [Security Pacific National Bank v. Wozab (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 991, 1001-1002, 275 Cal. Rptr. 201, 800 P.2d 557] . An improper setoff does not, however, deprive the bank of the right to enforce the debt without resorting to the security. The setoff is not a judicial action and does not result in a judgment for the bank on the debt. It could be unfair to deprive the bank of the unsecured right to enforce the debt [Security Pacific National Bank v. Wozab (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 991, 1004-1006, 275 Cal. Rptr. 201, 800 P.2d 557] .

If a creditor makes an improper setoff, the debtor can demand that the creditor reverse the setoff and resort to the security. If the creditor refuses to reverse the setoff, the security-first rule precludes the creditor from either foreclosing the security interest or proceeding on the debt without waiving the security interest. If the creditor complies with the demand to reverse the setoff, however, the creditor may resort to the security, and the debtor may not thereafter claim that the security interest was waived [Security Pacific National Bank v. Wozab (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 991, 1006, 275 Cal. Rptr. 201, 800 P.2d 557] .

[b] Equitable Setoff

An equitable setoff is a means by which a debtor may satisfy, in whole or in part, a judgment or claim against the debtor out of a judgment or claim that the debtor has subsequently acquired against the creditor. The right exists independently of statute and rests on the inherent power of the court to do justice to the parties before it [Aplanalp v. Forte (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 609, 615, 275 Cal. Rptr. 144] . However, if the setoff is against a debtor on an obligation secured by a mortgage or trust deed on real property, the setoff constitutes an "action" within the meaning of Code Civ. Proc. § 726. Either the nonjudicial exercise of the right of setoff or a lawsuit to enforce a setoff without suing for a judicial foreclosure in the same action will result in a waiver of the right to foreclose on the security or to sell the security under a power of sale [see Aplanalp v. Forte (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 609, 613-617, 275 Cal. Rptr. 144] .

§ 555.32 Effect of Antideficiency Statutes

[1] Bar or Limitation on Personal Judgment

[a] Applicability

California's antideficiency statutes [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 580a, 580b, 580d, 726(b)] preclude or limit recovery of a personal judgment against the trustor in most situations in which the sale of the property fails to cover the outstanding debt [see Cornelison v. Kornbluth (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 590, 600-602, 125 Cal. Rptr. 557, 542 P.2d 981 (discussing history and purpose of antideficiency statutes)]. Code Civ. Proc. § 580b bars deficiency judgments on purchase-money trust deeds or mortgages, and Code Civ. Proc. § 580d prohibits deficiencies after most private sales. In those cases in which a deficiency judgment is allowed, the fair-value limitations of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 580a and 726(b) limit recovery to the excess of the outstanding debt over the property's value at the time of the sale.

The antideficiency statutes apply to loans secured by liens on estates for years [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 580b, 580d, 726; contra Taylor v. Bouissiere (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 1197, 1199-1200, 241 Cal. Rptr. 253 (tenant's interest in estate for years was not real property interest); but see Stats. 1989, ch. 698, § 15 (abrogation of Taylor holding; application of antideficiency legislation to liens on leasehold interests is consistent with statutory history of Code Civ. Proc. § 726 and Commercial Code)].

[b] Waiver

[i] Advance Waiver

The benefits of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 580a, 580b, 580d, and 726 may not be waived in advance by the debtor [

Freedland v. Greco (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 462, 467, 289 P.2d 463 ; see Civ. Code § 2953].

[ii] Subsequent Waiver

The rule against advance waiver of the benefits of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 580a and 726 [see [i], above] does not preclude a trustor from subsequently waiving those provisions [Salter v. Ulrich (1943) 22 Cal. 2d 263, 266-267, 138 P.2d 7 ; see Morello v. Metzenbaum (1944) 25 Cal. 2d 494, 498-499, 154 P.2d 670] .

The California Supreme Court has not decided whether the benefits of Code Civ. Proc. § 580d may subsequently be waived.

PRACTICE TIP:

Contrast Advance Waivers By Guarantors. If Civ. Code § 2856 is construed literally [see [5][b], below], guarantors in post-1996 documents may well be held to contractual waivers of Code Civ. Proc. § 580a, 580d, or 726. By William M. Hensley

A purchaser may not make a contractual waiver of the protection of Code Civ. Proc. § 580b in exchange for renegotiation of the original obligatio [DeBerard v. Lim (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 659, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 292, 976 P.2d 843] . In DeBerard v. Lim, the Supreme Court resolved a conflict in state law on this question [DeBerard v. Lim (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 659, 661, 671, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 292, 976 P.2d 843 (disapproving language to the contrary in Russell v. Roberts (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 390, 394-395, 114 Cal. Rptr. 305 , Goodyear v. Mack (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 654, 659-660, 205 Cal. Rptr. 702 , and Shepherd v. Robinson (1981) 128 Cal. App. 3d 615, 626, 180 Cal. Rptr. 342)]. It agreed with the court of appeal decision in Palm v. Schilling (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 63, 68, 75-76, 244 Cal. Rptr. 600 [DeBerard Properties, Ltd. v. Lim (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 659, 671, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 292, 976 P.2d 843] , which held that a waiver of the antideficiency protection of Code Civ. Proc. § 580b, at a time when the trustor is in default and in connection with a refinancing, is invalid and unenforceable because it is inconsistent with the explicit language of that statute and is contrary to public policy.

The Supreme Court recognized that Spangler v. Memel (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 603, 102 Cal. Rptr. 807, 498 P.2d 1055 created a narrow exception to the scope of Section 580b, which applies when a vendor subordinates a deed of trust to a major construction loan on the property [DeBerard v. Lim (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 659, 664, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 292, 976 P.2d 843 ; see Spangler v. Memel (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 603, 611, 102 Cal. Rptr. 807, 498 P.2d 1055] . The Court emphasized that this exception is limited to situations in which intensification of the property's anticipated post-sale use both requires and eventually results in construction financing that dwarfs the property's value at the time of sale. In addition, the purchaser must be in a much better position than the vendor to assess the property's possible value and to understand the risks involved in capitalizing on the property's potential. Finally, under all the circumstances of the sale, including the property's development and the financing for that development, conferring Section 580b's protection must unfairly place the risk of the failure of the commercial development on the vendor, imposing on it a commercially unreasonable burden because the success of the commercial development depends upon the competence, diligence and good faith of the developing purchaser [DeBerard v. Lim (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 659, 667-668, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 292, 976 P.2d 843 ; Spangler v. Memel (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 603, 613, 102 Cal. Rptr. 807, 498 P.2d 1055] .

The DeBerard Court found that this case was unlike Spangler. The defendants in DeBerard financed their purchase of a shopping center from the plaintiff by assuming a large debt secured by a first trust deed to a bank, executing a second trust deed in favor of the plaintiff as security for a smaller debt, and paying the plaintiff a substantial down payment. When they could no longer make payments on the two secured obligations they negotiated a refinancing of the major debt. The plaintiff cooperated in exchange for their agreement to waive their rights under Code Civ. Proc. § 580b. Thereafter, the defendants defaulted and the bank's foreclosure under the first trust deed wiped out the plaintiffs' second-lien security. The Court noted that the defendants continued to operate the shopping center and the center continued to secure the note. They did not obtain a construction loan that dwarded the property's value at the time of sale and then proceed to build a more intensive use. Further, there was no dramatic change in the financial arrangements that might conceivably have brought this case within Spangler's ambit. The Court could not justify permitting a waiver in disregard of the statutory language just because the plaintiff eased the terms of the defendants' obligation to it. Only when the transaction is sufficiently similar to that in Spangler will the vendor's relatively poor knowledge of the property's value trump the basic rule, stated in Brown v. Jensen (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 193, 197, 259 P.2d 425 , that the vendor is assumed to know the value of its security interest and act accordingly [DeBerard Properties, Ltd. v. Lim (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 659, 667-668, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 292, 976 P.2d 843] .

[c] Rent Skimming

The antideficiency provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 580a, 580b, 580d, and 726 do not apply to any action for damages for rent skimming [Civ. Code § 891(g)]. Rent skimming is the owner's use of revenue received from the rental of a parcel of residential real property, at any time during the first year after acquiring that property, without first applying the revenue or an equivalent amount to the payments due on all mortgages and trust deeds encumbering that property [Civ. Code § 890(a)]. When a purchaser of rental property engages in rent skimming, the vendor (or any third party) holding a lien may effectively recover a potential deficiency by bringing an action for damages under Civ. Code § 891. For further discussion, see § 555.94.

[2] Private Sale

[a] Deficiency Judgment Generally Barred

[i] Single Security Instrument and Note

No deficiency judgment may be rendered on any note secured by a trust deed or mortgage after the encumbered property has been sold by private sale [Code Civ. Proc. § 580d]. With a few exceptions [see [b], below], the effect of Code Civ. Proc. § 580d is to limit recovery in nonjudicial foreclosure proceedings to the value of the security only. By choosing nonjudicial foreclosure, the creditor forgoes the right to a deficiency judgment [Roseleaf Corp. v. Chierighino (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 35, 43-44, 27 Cal. Rptr. 873, 378 P.2d 97] . When Code Civ. Proc. § 580d bars a deficiency judgment after a private sale under a trust deed, the trustee has a duty to cancel the underlying note [Kerivan v. Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 225, 230-231, 195 Cal. Rptr. 53 (but trustee does not have duty to cancel note if it is subject to sister state law permitting deficiency)].

[ii] More Than One Security Instrument or Note

When more than one trust deed or mortgage is given to secure a single note, the creditor, after a private sale under one of them, may resort to the additional security but cannot obtain a further deficiency judgment even when it would otherwise be allowed by judicial foreclosure of the additional security [see Freedland v. Greco (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 462, 465-466, 289 P.2d 463] . This application of Code Civ. Proc. § 580d cannot be circumvented by the device of executing two or more notes secured by different security interests, at least when each note evidences the full amount of the same debt [Freedland v. Greco (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 462, 467, 289 P.2d 463] . However, the situation is different when a debtor executes two or more notes, so that each note evidences only a part of a single debt, and gives security for one note only. In that case, the creditor may resort to the security and then obtain a money judgment on the separate, unsecured note [see Christopherson v. Allen (1961) 190 Cal. App. 2d 848, 851-853, 12 Cal. Rptr. 658 ; cf. Loretz v. Cal-Coast Dev. Corp. (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 176, 178-179, 57 Cal. Rptr. 188 (single note was not divisible into secured and unsecured portions)].

[iii] Related Obligations

Similarly, Code Civ. Proc. § 580d bars a deficiency judgment based on a related obligation [but see Code Civ. Proc. § 580.5 (certain letter of credit transactions are exempt from antideficiency legislation); § 555.31[5]]. For instance, when a lender required the borrower to obtain mortgage insurance, and the mortgage insurer required the borrower to execute an indemnity agreement, the insurer's attempted enforcement of the indemnity agreement after breach and a nonjudicial sale was barred by Code Civ. Proc. § 580d. The indemnity agreement added nothing to the borrower's obligation and was an attempt to circumvent the antideficiency policy of Code Civ. Proc. § 580d [Commonwealth Mortgage Assurance Co. v. Superior Court (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 508, 515-517, 259 Cal. Rptr. 425] .

[iv] Successive Loans By Lender

When a lender makes two successive loans secured by separate trust deeds on the same property, then forecloses on the senior lien, the lender is barred from obtaining a deficiency judgment by enforcing the junior lien. The lender is not a true third-party sold-out junior lienholder. Having elected to foreclose the senior lien by a private sale, the lender is barred by Code Civ. Proc. § 580d from obtaining a deficiency judgment by enforcing the junior lien. The policy of protecting the borrower from a deficiency judgment following a nonjudicial foreclosure may not be circumvented by a lender's structuring a loan to be secured by multiple trust deeds on the same property covering successive notes from the debtor [Simon v. Superior Court (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 63, 77-78, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 428] .

[b] Allowable Deficiency Judgments

Although Code Civ. Proc. § 580d prohibits recovery of any deficiency judgment on a note secured by a trust deed or mortgage with a power of sale after a private sale of the encumbered property [see [a], above], it provides two exceptions in which a deficiency judgment may be recovered. Those exceptions allow a deficiency judgment when a trust deed or mortgage (1) is given to secure payment of a bond or other debt authorized or permitted to be issued by the Commissioner of Corporations [see Corp. Code § 25600], or (2) is made by a public utility subject to the Public Utilities Act [Code Civ. Proc. § 580d].

Another exception is that Code Civ. Proc. § 580d does not bar recovery on the debt by a sold-out junior lienholder whose security has been rendered worthless by private foreclosure of a senior lien [see, e.g, Roseleaf Corp. v. Chierighino (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 35, 43, 27 Cal. Rptr. 873, 378 P.2d 97] . For further discussion, see [4], below. In this situation, the fair-value provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 580a [see [c], below] limit the recovery in the event that the junior lienholder purchases the property at the foreclosure sale [Walter E. Heller Western, Inc. v. Bloxham (1985) 176 Cal. App. 3d 266, 273-274, 221 Cal. Rptr. 425 ; see [4], below].

In addition, one court has observed that Code Civ. Proc. § 580d prohibits deficiency judgments in the case of a secured note, whereas Code Civ. Proc. § 580a applies the fair-value limitation more broadly to a secured obligation [Willys of Marin Company v. Pierce (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 826, 831, 296 P.2d 25] . For discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 580a, see [c], below. It appears possible, therefore, that Code Civ. Proc. § 580a may allow limited deficiency judgments in the case of secured obligations other than promissory notes, such as leases [see Willys of Marin Company v. Pierce (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 826, 831, 296 P.2d 25] .

[c] Fair-Value Limitation

When a deficiency judgment is available after a nonjudicial sale, the action must be brought within three months after the sale, and recovery is limited to the amount by which the outstanding debt exceeds either the fair market value of the property at the time it was sold or, if less, the sale price [Code Civ. Proc. § 580a].

When Code Civ. Proc. § 580a is applied to a sold-out junior lienholder who seeks to recover on the debt after having purchased the property at the senior lienholder's private foreclosure sale, Code Civ. Proc. § 580a limits the junior lienholder's recovery to the excess of the combined debts of the senior lienholder and the junior lienholder over either the fair market value of the property or the selling price at the foreclosure sale, whichever is less [Walter E. Heller Western, Inc. v. Bloxham (1985) 176 Cal. App. 3d 266, 270-274, 221 Cal. Rptr. 425 ; Bank of Hemet v. United States

The fair-value provision of Code Civ. Proc. § 580a does not limit subsequent foreclosure of additional security interests, because resorting to additional security does not constitute a deficiency judgment [Dreyfuss v. Union Bank of California (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 400, 406, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 29, 11 P.3d 383 ; Hatch v. Security-First Nat. Bank (1942) 19 Cal. 2d 254, 260-262, 120 P.2d 869] .

[3] Foreclosure Action

[a] Fair-Value Limitation

A deficiency judgment may generally be recovered after a judicial foreclosure except when the property was sold under a purchase-money trust deed securing payment of the balance of the purchase price of the property sold [see Code Civ. Proc. § 580b; see also [b], below]. When recovery of a deficiency judgment is otherwise allowed in a judicial foreclosure action, the recovery is limited to the amount by which the outstanding debt exceeds either the fair market value of the property at the time it is sold at the judicial sale or, if less, the sale price [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(b)]. For further discussion of the procedure for obtaining a deficiency judgment, including a limitation period of three months after the date of the foreclosure sale, see § 555.73.

[b] Purchase-Money Trust Deed

[i] Deficiency Judgment Generally Barred

No deficiency judgment may be recovered in any even t after any sale of property under a trust deed given to the vendor to secure payment of the balance of the purchase price [Code Civ. Proc. § 580b]. When the property is a dwelling for no more than four families, occupied in whole or part by the purchaser, this prohibition against any deficiency judgment applies also to a sale under a trust deed given to a third-party lender to secure repayment of a loan that was in fact used to pay all or part of the purchase price [Code Civ. Proc. § 580b; see Prunty v. Bank of America (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 430, 441, 112 Cal. Rptr. 370] . This rule protects purchasers of designated residential property from personal liability to all lenders and protects other purchasers from personal liability to the vendor [Prunty v. Bank of America (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 430, 439 n.10, 112 Cal. Rptr. 370] . For discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 580b as it applies to installment land sale contracts, see Ch. 569, Vendor and Purchaser .

[ii] When Deficiency Judgment May Be Recovered

Code Civ. Proc. § 580b does not cover a purchase-money loan secured by other property [Roseleaf Corp. v. Chierighino (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 35, 41-43, 27 Cal. Rptr. 873, 378 P.2d 97 ; Scott v. Fidelity Dev. Co. (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 131, 135, 113 Cal. Rptr. 855 ; see Goodyear v. Mack (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 654, 657-659, 205 Cal. Rptr. 702 (overruled on other grounds in DeBerard Properties, Ltd. v. Lim (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 659, 671, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 292, 976 P.2d 843) (transaction was no longer subject to Code Civ. Proc. § 580b when original purchase-money note and trust deed were exchanged for new note secured by other property)].

The statute applies only to initial purchase-money transactions, and its provisions do not cover a subsequent transaction in which a secured loan is used to pay off an initial purchase-money obligation [Union Bank v. Wendland (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 393, 399-400, 126 Cal. Rptr. 549] . However, the protection of the statute is passed to a transferee who assumes the original purchaser's personal liability on the debt [Weaver v. Bay (1963) 216 Cal. App. 2d 559, 561, 31 Cal. Rptr. 211 ; see Cornelison v. Kornbluth (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 590, 605, 125 Cal. Rptr. 557, 542 P.2d 981] . For discussion concerning assumption of personal liability, see § 555.13[4].

[iii] Standard Purchase Money Transactions

All standard purchase-money transactions are subject to Code Civ. Proc. § 580b [Spangler v. Memel (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 603, 610, 102 Cal. Rptr. 807 ; Budget Realty, Inc. v. Hunter (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 511, 513-515, 204 Cal. Rptr. 48] . These are two-party transactions in which the vendor retains a security interest, and three-party transactions in which a lender obtains a security interest by financing a purchaser-occupied dwelling of fewer than five units [Prunty v. Bank of America (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 430, 439-440, 112 Cal. Rptr. 370] .

[iv] Variations on Standard Transactions

Any variation on the standard purchase-money transactions may be subject to Code Civ. Proc. § 580b if, in the circumstances, the transaction is within the purpose of the statute, which justifies placing the risk of inadequate security on the vendor or lender [see Spangler v. Memel (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 603, 610-613, 102 Cal. Rptr. 807, 498 P.2d 1055] . The purpose is to discourage overvaluation of the property by the vendor or lender and so discourage land promotion schemes that are precarious because the security value does not reflect true market value. If the security value proves to be inadequate, not because of overvaluation but because of declining land values during a depression, the statute tends to prevent aggravation of the downturn that would result if defaulting purchasers were burdened with large personal liability in addition to the loss of their properties [Spangler v. Memel (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 603, 612, 102 Cal. Rptr. 807, 498 P.2d 1055 ; Roseleaf Corp. v. Chierighino (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 35, 41-42, 27 Cal. Rptr. 873, 378 P.2d 97] .

For example, Code Civ. Proc. § 580b has been applied to a transaction in which a purchaser obtained a secured loan from a lender for the purpose of constructing an owner-occupied dwelling on the property, because the transaction was within the purposes of the statute in much the same way as a standard third-party-lender transaction [Prunty v. Bank of America (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 430, 440-443, 112 Cal. Rptr. 370] . Further, numerous cases have held that a lienholder participating in a sale transaction by agreeing to make a loan to a new purchaser in order to protect the security interest is a vendor for purposes of Code Civ. Proc. § 580b [see, e.g., Costanzo v. Ganguly (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 1085, 1090-1093, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 55 (statute should be applied when doing so will promote purposes underlying it)]. The statute also applies when a subordination agreement allows refinancing that does not change the use of the property [Thompson v. Allert (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 1462, 1466-1467, 285 Cal. Rptr. 367] . Further, the statute applied when two properties were marketed and sold together, the seller made a loan for the purchase of one of the two properties, and the loan was secured by the other property. The court found that this was a variation of the standard purchase-money mortgage and came within the protection of the statute because the two purchases were actually parts of one transaction [Conley v. Matthes (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 1453, 1464-1467, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 518] .

Section 580b also applied in a case in which personal property (a medical practice) belonging to one seller was sold along with real property (the building where the practice was located) belonging to another seller in a transaction in which both sellers took back from the buyer a single purchase money promissory note secured by a deed of trust on the real property and, by a security agreement, by the personal property. The court held that the deed of trust was a "deed of trust upon real property" for purposes of the antideficiency statutes despite the additional security in personal property, and that the seller of the medical practice was a "vendor" within the meaning of Code Civ. Proc. § 580b and was barred from recovering a deficiency judgment. The court noted that the initial note had been amended and made payable solely to the personal property vendor. The real property vendor had liquidated and distributed its interest in the original note to its shareholders, and they had allowed their interest to go into limbo when the note was amended. Those same individuals, as partners of the personal property vendor, brought suit seeking a deficiency judgment that the seller of the real property would have been denied. The court concluded that the shareholders were attempting an impermissible end run around Section 580b [Sherwood-Trimble Medical Group v. 10001 Venice Boulevard Partnership (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 872, 878-879, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 533] .

PRACTICE TIP:

Importance of Purchase Money Protections in Non-Standard Transactions. Increasingly, courts are applying Code Civ. Proc. § 580b protections to non-standard transactions, such as a loan workout when the creditor allowed the property to be kept intact by the borrower but overvalued the remaining security in the process. Aggrieved borrowers should consult Constanzo, and pay careful attention to the reasoning in Shepherd v. Robinson (1981) 128 Cal. App. 3d 615, 180 Cal. Rptr. 342 and LaForgia v. Kolsky (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 1103, 242 Cal. Rptr. 282 . By William M. Hensley

On the other hand, Code Civ. Proc. § 580b has been held not to bar recovery of a deficiency judgment against a purchaser who purchased the property for purposes of radical commercial improvement, the seller having agreed to subordinate the purchase-money trust deed to the construction-loan trust deed. In this situation, the security value did not indicate the ultimate market value, and there was no risk of overvaluation. The risk of loss was more properly placed on the purchaser, whose efforts in development would determine the ultimate market value [see Spangler v. Memel (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 603, 611-615, 102 Cal. Rptr. 807, 498 P.2d 1055 ; Jack Erickson and Associates v. Hesselgesser (1996) 50 Cal. App. 4th 182, 187-188, 57 Cal. Rptr. 2d 591] . The Supreme Court has emphasized that this exception is limited to situations in which intensification of the property's anticipated post-sale use both requires and eventually results in construction financing that dwarfs the property's value at the time of sale [DeBerard v. Lim (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 659, 666, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 292, 976 P.2d 843] . Furthermore, the purchaser must be in a much better position than the vendor to assess the property's possible value and to understand the risks involved in capitalizing on the property's potential. Finally, under all the circumstances of the sale, including the property's development and the financing for that development, conferring Section 580b's protection must unfairly thrust "the risk of the failure of the commercial development ... upon the vendor," imposing on it a commercially unreasonable burden because "the success of the commercial development depends upon the competence, diligence and good faith of the developing purchaser" [DeBerard v. Lim (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 659, 666, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 292, 976 P.2d 843 ; Spangler v. Memel (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 603, 613, 102 Cal. Rptr. 807, 498 P.2d 1055] .

[4] Junior Lienholders

Code Civ. Proc. § 580d, restricting deficiency judgments after nonjudicial sales, and the fair-value limitations of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 580a and 726(b) apply to deficiency judgments sought by the person who undertakes foreclosure. Notwithstanding Code Civ. Proc. § 580d, nonjudicial foreclosure of a senior lien will not bar a sold-out junior lienholder, whose security has been rendered worthless by the sale, from bringing an action on the debt secured by the junior lien [Roseleaf Corp. v. Chierighino (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 35, 43, 27 Cal. Rptr. 873, 378 P.2d 97 ; cf. [2][a], above]. Similarly, Code Civ. Proc. §§ 726(b) and 580a do not, in general, limit recovery of the debt by a junior lienholder whose security has been rendered worthless by the foreclosure of a senior lien [Roseleaf Corp. v. Chierighino (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 35, 39-40, 27 Cal. Rptr. 873, 378 P.2d 97 ; see §§ 555.31[3][b], 555.170; see also [2][c], [3][a], above]. If a sold-out junior lienholder is the purchaser at the senior lienholder's private foreclosure sale, however, Code Civ. Proc. § 580a will limit the recovery on the junior lienholder's debt [Walter E. Heller Western, Inc. v. Bloxham (1985) 176 Cal. App. 3d 266, 270-274, 221 Cal. Rptr. 425 ; see [2][c], above]. If the junior lienholder purchases at the sale, any action for a deficiency must be brought within the three-month period after the sale [Citrus State Bank v. McKendrick (1989) 215 Cal. App. 3d 941, 948-949, 263 Cal. Rptr. 781] .

After a judicial foreclose of a purchase-money trust deed, a sold-out junior lienholder may be barred by Code Civ. Proc. § 580b from recovering a deficiency judgment. The statute bars a deficiency judgment under a purchase-money trust deed not only after an actual sale but also when a sale is no longer possible because the security has been rendered worthless by foreclosure of a senior lien. This bar serves the purpose of discouraging overvaluation in standard purchase-money transactions, because the seller, who is in the best position to know the true value of the property, must assume the risk that the security may be inadequate under a junior trust deed [Brown v. Jensen (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 193, 197, 259 P.2d 425 ; see [3][b], above].

On the other hand, Code Civ. Proc. § 580b does not apply to a junior lienholder in a variation on the standard purchase-money transaction in which the seller subordinates the purchase-money security interest so that the purchaser can obtain financing for commercial development of the property. In this type of transaction, a radically improved change in property use and value being contemplated, the adequacy of the seller's security hinges on the success or failure of the purchaser's development efforts, rather than on the relation of security value to current market value. In such a case, precarious land promotion schemes are best discouraged by placing the risk of inadequate security not on the seller but on the purchaser, forcing the latter to assume the risk of bad judgment and failure in undertaking commercial development of the property [Spangler v. Memel (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 603, 613-614, 102 Cal. Rptr. 807, 498 P.2d 1055 ; see DeBerard v. Lim (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 659, 666, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 292, 976 P.2d 843 ; Budget Realty, Inc. v. Hunter (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 511, 516-517, 204 Cal. Rptr. 48 (this exception was not applicable to transaction in which commercial development was contemplated but never actually undertaken)].

A wife who was given a promissory note secured by second deeds of trust on several pieces of real property as part of a marital dissolution, and who held nonjudicial trustee's sales on four of the six properties securing the promissory note, was precluded by section 580d from seeking a deficiency judgment on the note through the family law court even though a senior lienholder had foreclosed on one or two of the other properties securing the debt [In re Marriage of Oropallo (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 997, 1007, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 669] . The rule allowing sold-out junior lienholders to pursue deficiency judgments did not apply in this case, because the wife had elected to proceed against some of the real property securing the debt under the power of sale contained in the deed of trust. Thus, the wife's right to recover was not controlled by the "whim of the senior" [In re Marriage of Oropallo (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 997, 1007, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 669] .

[5] Guarantors

[a] Not Protected From Deficiency Judgment

Guarantors are generally not protected by the antideficiency statutes because those statutes concern only actions on the principal obligation, as distinguished from actions against a guarantor [see, e.g., Mariners Sav. & Loan Assn. v. Neil (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 232, 234, 99 Cal. Rptr. 238 (Code Civ. Proc. § 580a was not available to guarantor); Roberts v. Graves (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 410, 415-416, 75 Cal. Rptr. 130 (Code Civ. Proc. § 580b was not available to guarantor); see also Talbott v. Hustwit (2008) 164 Cal. App. 4th 148, 153, 78 Cal. Rptr. 3d 703 (Code Civ. Proc. § 580a inapplicable in deficiency action against settlors of trust because structure of trust arrangement removed their debtor status and settlors were true guarantors); Trust One Mortgage Corp. v. Invest America Mortgage Corp. (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 1302, 1313, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 83 (indemnification provision in agreement between broker and lender was enforceable under antideficiency laws because broker, who was indemnitor, was not same as or substantially identified with principal loan obligor)]. A guaranty is treated as additional security, which may be exhausted notwithstanding the antideficiency statutes [Heckes v. Sapp (1964) 229 Cal. App. 2d 549, 553, 40 Cal. Rptr. 485] .

Creditors sometimes attempt to avoid the effect of the antideficiency statutes by structuring a transaction so that the debtor becomes a purported guarantor. Courts distinguish between a true guaranty and a purported guaranty fashioned only to avoid the antideficiency statutes [Union Bank v. Brummell (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 836, 837-838, 75 Cal. Rptr. 234] . Whether an agreement constitutes a true guaranty or is a sham is a question of fact to be determined from the circumstances of the case [Roberts v. Graves (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 410, 416, 75 Cal. Rptr. 130] .

PRACTICE TIP:

Sham Guaranties Examined Closely. Increasingly, courts will closely examine and then invalidate guaranties designed to circumvent Code Civ. Proc. § 580d antideficiency protections. Guaranties that try to relegate true obligors to the status of guarantors in order to surmount antideficiency protections are being scrutinized more rigorously from an enforceability standpoint. For an example finding triable issues on the sham guaranty defense, see River Bank America v. Diller (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 1400, 1423, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 790 . By William M. Hensley

Purported guarantors were held to be protected by Code Civ. Proc. § 580b when they were actually the purchasers in a secured transaction but had made themselves guarantors for a note executed by a dummy corporation created for that purpose [Valinda Builders, Inc. v. Bissner (1964) 230 Cal. App. 2d 106, 107-112, 40 Cal. Rptr. 735] . Further, purported guarantors were held to be protected by Code Civ. Proc. § 580d when they were also liable on the principal obligation because of their status as general partners of the principal debtor [Union Bank v. Dorn (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 157, 158-159, 61 Cal. Rptr. 893] .

For further discussion and forms concerning the liability of guarantors generally, see Ch. 538, Suretyship, Bonds, and Undertakings .

[b] Estoppel of Creditor After Nonjudicial Sale

[i] Basis for Defense

Code Civ. Proc. § 580d, restricting deficiency judgments after a nonjudicial sale, presents a special situation. That section, like the other antideficiency statutes, does not directly bar a creditor's recovery from a guarantor. However, it may indirectly bar recovery by providing the guarantor with an estoppel defense [Union Bank v. Gradsky (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 40, 41, 71 Cal. Rptr. 64] . The estoppel theory arises because the one-form-of-action rule [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(a); see § 555.31] does not apply to guarantors [see Murphy v. Hellman Commercial etc. Bk. (1919) 43 Cal. App. 579, 583-586, 185 P. 485 ; see also Loeb v. Christie (1936) 6 Cal. 2d 416, 418-419, 57 P.2d 1303] . A creditor can generally bring an action against a guarantor without exhausting the security given by the primary debtor. Even though by statute a guarantor may require the creditor to proceed first against the principal debtor [Civ. Code § 2845], that protection, unlike the one-form-of-action rule, can be waived in advance [see, e.g., Krueger v. Bank of America (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 204, 213, 193 Cal. Rptr. 322 ; Union Bank v. Gradsky (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 40, 43-44 n.3, 71 Cal. Rptr. 64 ; see also Civ. Code § 2953 (advance waiver of one-form-of-action rule is void)]. The creditor therefore has three choices [Union Bank v. Gradsky (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 40, 43, 71 Cal. Rptr. 64] :

- A foreclosure action in which the guarantor is joined as a defendant.
- An action against the guarantor.
- A private sale of the debtor's property.

When the creditor proceeds first by private sale, Code Civ. Proc. § 580d shields the debtor from any deficiency judgment [see [2][a], above]. By foreclosing through a nonjudicial sale, the creditor forgoes the right to proceed further against the debtor, and consequently the guarantor is denied a claim against the debtor to which the guarantor would have been subrogated if the creditor had chosen instead to proceed first against the guarantor. Therefore, on choosing the remedy that destroys the guarantor's rights of subrogation, the creditor is estopped to pursue the guarantor [Union Bank v. Brummell (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 836, 838-839, 75 Cal. Rptr. 234 ; Union Bank v. Gradsky (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 40, 45-48, 71 Cal. Rptr. 64 ; but see Mariners Sav. & Loan Assn. v. Neil (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 232, 235-236, 99 Cal. Rptr. 238 (criticizing rule for encouraging creditors to proceed first against guarantors rather than debtor's property, contrary to Civ. Code §§ 2809 and 2845)].

[ii] Unavailability of Defense

The estoppel defense arising indirectly from Code Civ. Proc. § 580d is generally subject to waiver by the guarantor [see Union Bank v. Gradsky (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 40, 48, 71 Cal. Rptr. 64] . Statutory provisions of model language for a waiver [see Civ. Code § 2856(c)] are discussed in [iii] and [iv], below. Those provisions do not apply to a guaranty of a debt secured by residential real property that is occupied by the debtor, however.

The estoppel defense is also unavailable when a deficiency judgment against the principal debtor is barred by Code Civ. Proc. § 580b [see [3][b], above], because in that situation the creditor's choice of remedies has no effect on the subrogation rights of the guarantor [Bauman v. Castle (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 990, 993-994, 93 Cal. Rptr. 565] .

Even when the defense would otherwise be available, the creditor can avoid it by proceeding first against the guarantor and then exhausting the security of the principal debtor through a private sale [Krueger v. Bank of America (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 204, 210-214, 193 Cal. Rptr. 322] .

[iii] Post-1996 Waiver of Defense

A contractual provision that is executed after 1996 and expressly sets forth a waiver of defenses based on the antideficiency laws (see statutory examples below) will be effective without regard to whether it includes any particular language or phrases to waive those rights or any references to statutory provisions or judicial decisions [Civ. Code § 2856(b)]. This does not apply, however, to a guaranty or other type of suretyship obligation made with respect to a loan secured by a trust deed or mortgage on a dwelling for not more than four families when the dwelling is occupied, entirely or in part, by the borrower and the loan was in fact used to pay all or part of the purchase price of that dwelling [Civ. Code § 2856(e)].

Without limiting any rights of the creditor or other guarantor or surety to use any other language to express an intent to waive specified rights and defenses of guarantors or other sureties [see Civ. Code § 2856(a) (list of those rights and defenses)], the following provisions in a contract will effectively waive various rights and defenses of guarantors or other sureties, including those arising under Code Civ. Proc. § 580d [Civ. Code § 2856(c); see Civ. Code § 2856(a)(2), (3)]:

> "The guarantor waives all rights and defenses that the guarantor may have because the debtor's debt is secured by real property. This means, among other things:
> "(1) The creditor may collect from the guarantor without first foreclosing on any real or personal property collateral pledged by the debtor.
> "(2) If the creditor forecloses on any real property collateral pledged by the debtor:
> "(A) The amount of the debt may be reduced only by the price for which that collateral is sold at the foreclosure sale, even if the collateral is worth more than the sale price.
> "(B) The creditor may collect from the guarantor even if the creditor, by foreclosing on the real property collateral, has destroyed any right the guarantor may have to collect from the debtor. This is an unconditional and irrevocable waiver of any rights and defenses the guarantor may have because the debtor's debt is secured by real property. These rights and defenses include, but are not limited to, any rights and defenses based on Code of Civil Procedure Sections 580a, 580b, 580d, and 726."

Further, the following provision will be effective to waive all rights and defenses the guarantor or other surety may have with respect to obligations as a surety by reason of an election of remedies by the creditor [Civ. Code § 2856(d)]:

> "The guarantor waives all rights and defenses arising out of an election of remedies by the creditor, even though that election of remedies, such as a nonjudicial foreclosure with respect to security for a guaranteed obligation, has destroyed the guarantor's rights of subrogation and reimbursement against the principal by the operation of Code of Civil Procedure Section 580d or otherwise."

[iv] Pre-1997 Waiver of Defense

The validity of a waiver executed before 1997 must be determined by application of the law that existed on the date the waiver was executed [Civ. Code § 2856(f)]. Under former Civ. Code § 2856, a waiver could not be effective with respect to a guaranty of a loan to an individual primarily for personal, family, or household purposes, secured by a trust deed or mortgage on a dwelling for not more than four families when the dwelling was occupied, entirely or in part, by the borrower [former Civ. Code § 2856(c)]. In other cases, any language that expressly set forth a waiver of defenses based on the antideficiency laws would be effective, whether or not it contained references to statutory provisions on judicial decisions. The following language would be an effective waiver of the guarantor's defense to a recovery by the creditor by reason of the creditor's election of remedies [former Civ. Code § 2856(b)]: "Guarantor waives all rights and defenses arising out of an election of remedies by the creditor, even though that election of remedies, such as a nonjudicial foreclosure with respect to security for a guaranteed obligation, has destroyed the guarantor's rights of subrogation and reimbursement against the principal by the operation of Code of Civil Procedure Section 580d or otherwise."

Former Civ. Code § 2856 in effect abrogated Cathay Bank v. Lee (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1533, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 420 , which invalidated a fairly standard Gradsky waiver clause [see [ii], above] because it failed to inform the guarantor (1) that the loss of subrogation rights creates a defense to a deficiency judgment, and (2) that the guarantor was waiving that specific defense [Cathay Bank v. Lee (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1533, 1539, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 420] . In dictum the court also strongly implied that lenders should identify the defenses being waived by including references to the statutory provisions [Cathay Bank v. Lee (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1533, 1541, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 420] .

[6] Transactions Involving Letters of Credit

[a] Exemption From Antideficiency Statutes

If an obligation is secured by a mortgage or trust deed on real property (including an estate for years in real property) and is also supported by a letter of credit, the following acts will not constitute a deficiency judgment within the meaning of the antideficiency statutes [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 580a, 580b, 580d, 726(b)] or a violation of those statutes [Code Civ. Proc. § 580.5(b)]:

- The presentment, receipt of payment, or enforcement of a draft or demand for payment under the letter of credit by the beneficiary of the letter of credit; or

- The honoring or payment of, or the demand for reimbursement, receipt of reimbursement, or enforcement of any contractual, statutory, or other reimbursement obligation relating to, the letter of credit by the issuer of the letter of credit.

This exemption from the antideficiency statutes applies whether the specified acts occur before or after the judicial or nonjudicial foreclosure of the mortgage or trust deed or a conveyance in lieu of foreclosure [Code Civ. Proc. § 580.5(b)]. However, notwithstanding this exemption, a letter of credit will not be enforceable in a loan transaction when the loan is secured by a purchase-money trust deed or mortgage on owner-occupied, one-to-four unit residential property and certain other circumstances exist [see Code Civ. Proc. § 580.7(b); see also [3][b][iii], above].

[b] Legislative Intent Behind Exemption

In enacting Code Civ. Proc. § 580.5, the legislature intended to confirm the independent nature of the letter of credit engagement and to abrogate the holding in Western Security Bank v. Superior Court (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 156, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 908 (depublished), that the post-foreclosure presentment of a draft under a letter of credit issued in connection with a loan secured by real property violated Code Civ. Proc. § 580d and constituted a "fraud ... or other defect not apparent on the face of the documents" under former Com. Code § 5114(2)(b) [see Western Security Bank v. Superior Court (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 232, 252-253, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 243, 933 P.2d 507 (reaching opposite result)]. Further, the legislature intended to confirm the expectation of the parties to a contract underlying a letter of credit, that the beneficiary will have available the value of the collateral and the benefit of the letter of credit without regard to the order in which the beneficiary resorts to them [Stats. 1994, ch. 611, § 5].

Code Civ. Proc. § 580.5 was intended by the legislature to be a clarification of existing law and therefore applies to letters of credit issued before its effective date, September 16, 1994 [Western Security Bank v. Superior Court (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 232, 252, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 243, 933 P.2d 507] . The statute also exempts the above-described letter-of-credit transactions from the one-form-of-action rule [see Code Civ. Proc. § 726(a); see also § 555.31[5]].

For discussion of letters of credit, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 56, Letters of Credit and Electronic Fund Transfers (Matthew Bender).

[7] Actions Not Seeking Deficiency

[a] In General

Code Civ. Proc. §§ 580b and 580d do not bar subsequent actions that do not seek to enforce the secured debt to the extent that it exceeds the security value of the property [see Brown v. Jensen (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 193, 198, 259 P.2d 425 (deficiency is difference between security value of property and debt)], nor do they bar the creditor from resorting to additional security [Armsey v. Channel Associates, Inc. (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 833, 837, 229 Cal. Rptr. 509] . Examples of allowed actions include the following:

- A fraud action when the borrower fraudulently induced the lender to make the loan, even though the alleged misrepresentations did not directly relate to the value of the property securing the debt [Guild Mortgage Co. v. Heller (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 1505, 1512-1515, 239 Cal. Rptr. 59 ; see Lassar & Gross International, Inc. v. Dunham (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 496, 500-502, 241 Cal. Rptr. 854] ;

- A post-sale action for waste committed in bad faith [Cornelison v. Kornbluth (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 590, 604, 605, 125 Cal. Rptr. 557, 542 P.2d 981 ; see § 555.90[5]].

[b] Statutory Exemption

Notwithstanding the antideficiency statutes, a person who is authorized by California to make or arrange loans secured by real property or a successor in interest may bring an action for damages (including exemplary damages not exceeding 50 percent of the actual damages) if (1) the injured person originated, acquired, or purchased a loan secured by a mortgage or trust deed on real property or on an estate for years, (2) the action is based on fraud under Civ. Code § 1572, and (3) the borrower's fraudulent conduct induced the original lender to make the loan [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(f); see Fin. Code §§ 551(c), 7460(c), 15102(c) (comparable provisions applicable to banks, savings and loan associations, and credit unions)].

However, this statutory exemption does not apply to loans secured by single-family, owner-occupied residential real property when the property is actually occupied by the borrower as represented to the lender in order to obtain the loan and the loan is for less than $150,000 as adjusted annually to the Consumer Price Index [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(g); see Fin. Code §§ 551(b), 7460(b), 15102(b); see also § 555.31[3][a]]. Further, the statutory exemption does not apply if the lender purchases the property at the sale by making a full-credit bid [Commonwealth Mortgage Assurance Co. v. Superior Court (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 508, 515-517, 259 Cal. Rptr. 425 ; Sumitomo Bank v. Taurus Developers, Inc. (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 211, 220-221, 229 Cal. Rptr. 719] .

A lender's acquisition of the property by full-credit bid at a nonjudicial foreclosure sale does not bar the lender from maintaining a fraud action to recover damages from nonborrower third parties (such as a real estate appraiser) that fraudulently induced the lender to make the loan [Alliance Mortgage Co. v. Rothwell (1995) 10 Cal. 4th 1226, 1245-1246, 44 Cal. Rptr. 2d 352, 900 P.2d 601] . This exception applies only if the lender (1) was induced to enter into the loan by the false representation, and (2) was still under the mistaken belief that the representation was true at the time it made the full credit bid. Fraud damages are not recoverable if the lender's reliance at the time of the full credit bid was manifestly unreasonable [Alliance Mortgage Co. v. Rothwell (1995) 10 Cal. 4th 1226, 1246-1247, 44 Cal. Rptr. 2d 352, 900 P.2d 601 ; see Michelson v. Camp (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 955, 968-969, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 539 (reliance on appraisal done two years prior to foreclosure was manifestly unreasonable)]. One court has held that the exception is clearly limited to fraud claims and therefore barred the full-credit-bid rule a lender from maintaining a negligence action against an appraiser when the appraisal caused the loan to be under-secured. The lender could instead acquire the property and preserve the right to seek damages from the appraiser [Pacific Inland Bank v. Ainsworth (1995) 41 Cal. App. 4th 277, 283, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 489 ; see Bank of America v. Quackenbush (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 1167, 1171, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 81] . However, some courts have declined to follow Pacific Inland Bank v. Ainsworth, holding that an action for negligent misrepresentation concerns a species of fraud and thus comes within the rule set forth by Alliance Mortgage [see Kolodge v. Boyd (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 349, 371-372, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 749 ; First Commercial Mortgage Co. v. Reece (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 731, 744, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 23] .

§ 555.33 Effect of Federal Legislation

[1] Federally Guaranteed or Insured Loans

If the secured obligation is a loan insured or guaranteed by the Department of Veterans Affairs or the Federal Housing Administration, the agency should be contacted before commencing any foreclosure proceeding, because each agency has particular requirements affecting foreclosure and deficiency proceedings [see 12 U.S.C. § 1707 et seq. (FHA loan); 38 U.S.C. § 3701 et seq. (DVA loan); 24 C.F.R. Pt. 200 et seq. (FHA loan); 38 C.F.R. Pt. 36 (DVA loan)]. These requirements control in the event of a conflict with state law [see United States v. Shimer (1961) 367 U.S. 374, 380-381, 81 S. Ct. 1554, 6 L. Ed. 2d 908 (DVA loan)] . In particular, this means that state antideficiency statutes [see § 555.32] do not apply to federally guaranteed or insured loans [see United States v. Rossi (9th Cir. 1965) 342 F.2d 505, 506 (DVA loan)].

[2] Trustor in Active Military Service

If a trustor is in military service, the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act [50 U.S.C. App. § 501 et seq.] may preclude any nonjudicial or judicial foreclosure [see 50 U.S.C. App. § 533(c)]. The prohibition applies to any obligation on real or personal property owned by a servicemember (1) that originated before the period of the servicemember's military service, (2) for which the servicemember is still obligated, and (3) that is secured by a mortgage, trust deed, or other security in the nature of a mortgage [50 U.S.C. App. § 533(a)]. A sale, foreclosure, or seizure of property for a breach of an obligation described above is not valid if made during, or within 90 days after, the period of the servicemember's military service, except if made either (1) on a court order granted before the sale, foreclosure, or seizure, with a return made and approved by the court; or (2) pursuant to an enforceable waiver agreement [50 U.S.C. App. § 533(c); see 50 U.S.C. App. § 517 (waiver agreement)]. Violation of this prohibition is a misdemeanor [50 U.S.C. App. § 533(d)(1)]. A trustee, before conducting a nonjudicial foreclosure sale, will typically require proof that the trustor is not, and was not during the preceding 90 days, in military service. For a form of declaration of a trustor's nonmilitary status, see § 555.140.

Other protection afforded by the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act includes the following:

- Limitations on the amount of interest that may be charged on the secured obligation during the trustor's period of active service [see 50 U.S.C. App. § 527]; and

- Relief from penalties imposed for the trustor's default during that period [see 50 U.S.C. App. § 523].

For discussion of the special protections given to active military service members under both the federal Servicemembers Civil Relief Act and equivalent California law [Mil. & Vet. Code § 400 et seq.], see § 555.70[8]. Forms for relief, including discussion of the court's authority to provide relief, are set forth in §§ 555.138-555.139A.

[3] Bankruptcy

If the trustor files a bankruptcy petition, the commencement or maintenance of judicial or nonjudicial foreclosure proceedings will be automatically stayed [11 U.S.C. § 362(a)]. The stay generally continues in effect until the bankruptcy proceeding is terminated, unless the bankruptcy court grants relief from the stay [see 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)-(g)]. The automatic stay would not toll the three-month period for reinstatement of a mortgage after a notice of default [see Civ. Code § 2924(a)(2)], although that period is subject to a limited extension pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 108(b) [Napue v. Gor-Mey West, Inc. (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 608, 617-619, 220 Cal. Rptr. 799 ; see § 555.54]. For further discussion, see Ch. 94, Bankruptcy, § 94.30 et seq.

PRACTICE TIP:

Published Postponement Notices Do Not Violate Automatic Stay. Although no foreclosure sale can proceed until the bankruptcy court lifts the automatic stay, a foreclosing creditor's published notice of postponement or other acts of continuing a sale noticed before the bankruptcy filing are acts that do not violate the automatic stay [see Tully v. World Sav. & Loan Assn. (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 654, 663, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 545 ; In re Roach (9th Cir. 1981) 660 F.2d 1316, 1318-1319]. By William M. Hensley

§ 555.34 Notice of Delinquency

[1] Junior Lienholder's Request

The beneficiary of a trust deed covering property containing one-to-four residential units or given to secure an original obligation not exceeding $300,000 may, with the written consent of the trustor, submit a written request by certified mail to the beneficiary of any senior trust deed, for written notice of any or all delinquencies of four months or longer in the payment of principal or interest on any obligation secured by the senior trust deed. The trustor's consent must be obtained either by a signed and dated agreement separate from the loan and security documents or through a disclosure on those documents in at least 10-point type [Civ. Code § 2924e(a)].

For further discussion and forms, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 25A, Security Instruments for Real Estate Financing (Matthew Bender).

[2] Effect of Proper Request

[a] Period of Effectiveness; Successors in Interest

The request is valid until withdrawn in writing as to all delinquencies covered by Civ. Code § 2924e that occur before the specified termination date of the junior beneficiary's interest. It is effective for five years from the date it is mailed or recorded, whichever is later, and may be renewed at five-year intervals [Civ. Code § 2924e(b)].

The rights and obligations under Civ. Code § 2924e inure to the benefit of, or pass to, any successors in interest of the parties. A successor ininterest of a junior beneficiary entitled to notice must file a request for notice with any senior beneficiary (but a new written consent from the trustor is not required) [Civ. Code § 2924e(b)]. In addition, when any beneficiary has been succeeded by another person, the beneficiary has a duty to transmit promptly to that person any notice received under Civ. Code § 2924e [Civ. Code § 2924e(e)].

[b] Requirements Governing Notice

Once a proper request is made, the senior beneficiary must give written notice to the requesting junior beneficiary of the fact and amount of any deficiency, unless already cured, that has existed four months or longer and that also existed or occurred on or after 10 days from the mailing or recording or the request, whichever is later. The notice is to be given within 15 days after the lapse of the four-month period, by personal service or first-class mail, postage paid. The beneficiary is not required to give notice of a delinquency under Civ. Code § 2924e if a notice of default under Civ. Code § 2924 [see § 555.52] has already been recorded [Civ. Code § 2924e(c)].

[c] Discharge of Junior Obligation

On discharge of an obligation secured by a junior lien with respect to which a notice request was made pursuant to Civ. Code § 2924e, the beneficiary or mortgagee that made the request must communicate that fact in writing to the senior lienholder to whom the request was made. The communication must specify that providing notice pursuant to the previous request is no longer required [Civ. Code § 2924e(g)].

[3] Liability for Failure to Give Notice

If the senior beneficiary fails to give notice of a delinquency as required by Civ. Code § 2924e and a judicial or nonjudicial foreclosure sale occurs, the senior beneficiary is liable to the requesting junior beneficiary for $300 as a penalty. The senior beneficiary is also liable for any damages arising from the failure to give timely notice and sustained from the date the notice should have been given to the date it is actually given or the date a notice of default is recorded, whichever is earlier [Civ. Code § 2924e(d)].

As a defense to this liability, the senior beneficiary may show by a preponderance of evidence that the failure to give notice was due to a good faith error that occurred despite maintenance of procedures reasonably adapted to avoid the error [Civ. Code § 2924e(d)].

Failure to comply with Civ. Code § 2924e does not affect the rights of a good faith lienholder or the validity of a sale in favor of a good faith purchaser [Civ. Code § 2924e(f)].

§ 555.35 Beneficiaries' Agreement to Be Governed by Majority Beneficiary

[1] Agreement and Disclosure

Following a process established by statute, all of the beneficiaries under a trust deed may agree to be governed, for purposes of certain procedures relating to a default or foreclosure, by beneficiaries holding more than 50 percent of the record beneficial interest of a series of notes secured by the same real property, or of undivided interests in a note secured by real property equivalent to a series transaction, exclusive of any notes or interests of a licensed real estate broker that is the issuer or servicer of the notes or interests or any affiliate of that licensed real estate broker [Civ. Code § 2941.9(a); see Civ. Code § 2941.9(e) ("affiliate of licensed real estate broker" defined)]. The agreement may cover actions to be taken on behalf of all parties in the event of default or foreclosure for matters that require direction or approval of the parties, including designation of the broker, servicing agent, or other person acting on their behalf, and the sale, encumbrance, or lease of real property owned by the parties after foreclosure or receipt of a deed in lieu of foreclosure [Civ. Code § 2941.9(b)].

A description of the agreement must be disclosed pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 10232.5 in the disclosure statement provided by real estate brokers and must be included in a recorded document such as the trust deed or an assignment of interests [Civ. Code § 2941.9(c)].

[2] Majority Action Affidavit

Any action taken pursuant to the agreement is not effective unless all of the parties agreeing to the action execute a separate "Majority Action Affidavit" that contains prescribed statements [Civ. Code § 2941.9(d)]. The affidavit must be recorded in the office of the county recorder of each county in which the real property described in the trust deed is located. Once the document is recorded, it constitutes conclusive evidence of compliance with the requirements of Civ.

Code § 2941.9(d) in favor of trustees acting pursuant to Civ. Code § 2941.9, substituted trustees acting pursuant to Civ. Code § 2934a, subsequent assignees of the obligation secured by the trust deed, and subsequent good faith purchasers or lienholders for value of the real property described in the trust deed [Civ. Code § 2941.9(d)].

§ 555.36 Regulation of Foreclosure Consultants and Home Equity Purchasers

Statutes protect homeowners in foreclosure from sharp practices by foreclosure consultants [Civ. Code § 2945 et seq.] and home equity purchasers [Civ. Code § 1695 et seq.]. A foreclosure consultant is generally an unlicensed person who offers to assist the trustor with the problems of impending nonjudicial foreclosure of the trustor's residential property [Civ. Code § 2945.1]. An equity purchaser is any person that acquires title to a residential property during nonjudicial foreclosure, with certain exceptions, such as a relative of the trustor, a person who intends to use the property as a residence, or a beneficiary that takes a deed in lieu of foreclosure [Civ. Code § 1695.1(a), (b)].

The statutory schemes have specific requirements as to the form and content of contracts required to be executed, including certain disclosures and notice of the trustor's special right to cancel the contract within a stated period [Civ. Code §§ 1695.2-1695.5 (equity sale contracts); Civ. Code §§ 2945.2, 2945.3 (foreclosure services contract)]. Specified practices are prohibited on the part of equity purchasers [Civ. Code §§ 1695.6, 1695.13] and foreclosure consultants [Civ. Code § 2945.4; see Civ. Code § 2945.5]. Any waiver of the statutory protections is void [Civ. Code §§ 1695.10, 2945.5]. In the event of specified violations by an equity purchaser or foreclosure consultant, the trustor has express causes of action for damages or equitable relief [Civ. Code §§ 1695.7, 2945.6] and, in the case of a sale of home equity, a right of rescission [Civ. Code § 1695.14]. Specified violations are also offenses [Civ. Code §§ 1695.8, 2945.7].

A home equity sale agreement with an option to repurchase gives rise, in some circumstances, to a presumption that the purportedly absolute conveyance is in fact a mortgage securing a loan [Civ. Code § 1695.12; see § 555.22].

The protections of the Home Equity Sales Contract Act and the Mortgage Foreclosure Consultants law only apply when the owner of a "residence in foreclosure" is approached while residing in the home [In re Phelps (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 451, 455, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 217 (granting petition for habeas corpus by defendant convicted of violating Home Equity Sales Contract Act, on ground Act was inapplicable because homeowner no longer resided in home when approached by defendant)].

§ 555.50 Validity and Regulation

Nonjudicial foreclosure refers to the private enforcement of a secured obligation on default, by exercise of a power of sale that is included in trustdeeds and many mortgages. The validity of a nonjudicial foreclosure proceeding depends on compliance with the express terms of the provision conferring the power of sale [see Fogarty v. Sawyer (1861) 17 Cal. 589, 593] . However, all aspects of the nonjudicial foreclosure process are also regulated in detail by a comprehensive statutory scheme [see Civ. Code § 2920 et seq.] that is designed to protect the trustor against unreasonable forfeiture [Garfinkle v. Superior Court of Contra Costa County (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 268, 278, 146 Cal. Rptr. 208, 578 P.2d 925] .

Because a nonjudicial foreclosure proceeding is a private act, it does not constitute a deprivation of property without due process in violation of the state and federal constitutions [Garfinkle v. Superior Court (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 268, 276-283, 146 Cal. Rptr. 208, 578 P.2d 925 ; U.S. Hertz, Inc. v. Niobrara Farms (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 68, 87-88, 116 Cal. Rptr. 44 ; see U.S. Const., amend. XIV; Cal. Const., art. I, § 7].

On the other hand, nonjudicial foreclosure is deemed to be a harsh remedy subject to careful scrutiny by the courts [see System Inv. Corp. v. Union Bank (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 137, 153, 98 Cal. Rptr. 735] , which is why a private sale must strictly comply with the terms of the power-of-sale provision [Hill v. Gibraltar Sav. & Loan Assn. (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 241, 243, 62 Cal. Rptr. 188] and any applicable statutory requirements [Whitman v. Transtate Title Co. (1985) 165 Cal. App. 3d 312, 322, 211 Cal. Rptr. 582] . The trustee also has a duty to conduct the sale fairly and openly, with diligence, discretion, and integrity, so as to protect the rights of all interested persons and obtain a reasonable price [System Inv. Corp. v. Union Bank (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 137, 153, 98 Cal. Rptr. 735 ; Hill v. Gibraltar Sav. & Loan Assn. (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 241, 243, 62 Cal. Rptr. 188] .

For a comparison of a private sale and a foreclosure action, see § 555.30[2]. For discussion of the one-form-of-action rule [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(a)] and the antideficiency statutes [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 580a, 580b, 580d, 726] as they relate to privates sales, see §§ 555.31 and 555.32[2]. For discussion of other statutory schemes potentially affecting a private sale, see §§ 555.33 (federal law) and 555.36 (regulation of foreclosure consultants and home equity purchasers).

AUTHOR: William M. Hensley Editorial Consultant Editorial Consultant William M. Hensley is an attorney with the Irvine law firm of Jackson, DeMarco & Peckenpaugh. He is a member of the Editorial Board of the California Real Estate Reporter (Matthew Bender).

§ 555.51 Preliminary Steps

Nonjudicial foreclosure is based on a default by the trustor entitling the beneficiary to exercise the power of sale in the trust deed [see § 555.30[3]]. Standard trust deed forms generally require the beneficiary to deliver to the trustee a written declaration of default and demand for sale, describing the nature of the default, stating an election to accelerate, if appropriate, and demanding a sale. For a form of declaration of default and demand for sale, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 25D, Foreclosure (Matthew Bender). In addition, the beneficiary generally is required to furnish theoriginal trust deed, note, and any other evidence of the secured debt, as well as the original notice of default and election to sell [see § 555.52].

Other matters may require attention at or before this stage of the proceeding. For example, even though nonjudicial foreclosure is not subject to the bar of the statute of limitations [see § 555.18[4]], a trust deed is subject to expiration under Civ. Code § 882.020 et seq., after which a private sale can no longer be conducted. For discussion of the expiration period and procedure for preserving a trust deed from expiration, see § 555.18[4][b]. In addition, if a substitution of trustees becomes necessary, this should be done before recording the notice of default [see Civ. Code § 2934a(b), (c)].

§ 555.51A Foreclosure Protection

[1] Foreclosure Crisis

In July 2008, the governor signed into law SB 1137, intended to ameliorate the deleterious effects on the state economy and local economies and the California housing market resulting from the foreclosures of residential properties in unprecedented numbers [Stats. 2008, ch. 69, § 1(d)] resulting from economic factors including subprime lending practices. In SB 1137, the legislature found and declared that residential property foreclosures increased sevenfold from 2006 to 2007; that more than 84,375 properties were lost to foreclosure in California in 2007; and that 254,824 loans went into default, the first step in the foreclosure process [Stats. 2008, ch. 69, § 1(a)]. SB 1137 modified the foreclosure process to require mortgagees, beneficiaries, or authorized agents to provide notice to borrowers and explore options that could avoid foreclosure.

[2] Contacting Borrowers

Effective September 6, 2008 [Stats. 2008, ch. 69, § 10], a mortgagee, trustee, beneficiary, or authorized agent may not file a notice of default pursuant to Civ. Code § 2924 [see § 555.52] until 30 days after the mortgagee, beneficiary, or authorized agent initially contacted the borrower in person or by telephone to assess the borrower's financial situation and explore options for the borrower to avoid foreclosure [Civ. Code § 2923.5(a)]. However, a notice of default may be filed pursuant to Civ. Code § 2924 when a mortgagee, beneficiary, or authorized agent failed to contact the borrower as required, provided that the failure to contact the borrower occurred despite the due diligence of the mortgagee, beneficiary, or authorized agent [Civ. Code § 2923.5(g); see Civ. Code § 2329.5(g)(1)-(5) (actions required for "due diligence")].

A notice of default must include a declaration that the mortgagee, beneficiary, or authorized agent has contacted the borrower, or has tried with due diligence to contact the borrower as required by Civ. Code § 2923.5(g), or that no contact was required pursuant to Civ. Code § 2923.5(h) [Civ. Code § 2923.5(b)].

These requirements apply to a loan that is secured by a mortgage or deed of trust recorded from January 1, 2003, to December 31, 2007, inclusive, on real property that is the principal residence of the borrower (as indicated to the lender in loan documents) containing no more than four dwelling units [Civ. Code § 2923.5(i)]. However, these requirements do not apply in any of the following cases [Civ. Code § 2923.5(h)]:

- The borrower has surrendered the property as evidenced by either a letter confirming the surrender or delivery of the keys to the property to the mortgagee, trustee, beneficiary, or authorized agent.

- The borrower has contracted with an organization, person, or entity, whose primary business is advising people who have decided to leave their homes and who need advice on how to extend the foreclosure process and avoid their contractual obligations to mortgagees or beneficiaries.

- The borrower has filed a case under Chapter 7, 11, 12, or 13 of the Bankruptcy Code, and the bankruptcy court has not entered an order closing or dismissing the case or granting relief from a stay of foreclosure.

Civ. Code § 2923.5 is in effect until January 1, 2013, and as of that date is repealed, unless a later enacted statute, that is enacted before January 1, 2013, deletes or extends that date [Civ. Code § 2923.5(j)].

[3] Loan Modifications

Under specified circumstances, mortgage lenders and servicers are authorized under their pooling and servicing agreements to modify mortgage loans when the modification is in the best interest of investors. Generally, that modification may be deemed to be in the best interest of investors when the net present value of the income stream of the modified loan is greater than the amount that would be recovered through the disposition of the real property security through a foreclosure sale [Stats. 2008, ch. 69, § 1(c)].

In SB 1137, the legislature found and declared that any duty that servicers may have to maximize net present value under their pooling and servicing agreements is owed to all parties in a loan pool, or to all investors under a pooling and servicing agreement, not to any particular party in the loan pool or investor under a polling and servicing agreement, and that a servicer acts in the best interests of all parties to the loan pool or investors in the pooling and servicing agreement if it agrees to or implements a loan modification or workout plan as to which both of the following apply: (1) The loan is in payment default, or payment default is reasonably foreseeable; and (2) anticipated recovery under the loan modification or workout plan exceeds the anticipated recovery through foreclosure on a net present value basis [Civ. Code § 2923.6(a)]. The legislature declared its intent that the mortgagee, beneficiary, or authorized agent offer the borrower a loan modification or workout plan if such a modification or plan is consistent with its contractual or other authority [Civ. Code § 2923.6(b)]. Section 2923.6 is in effect until January 1, 2013, and as of that date is repealed, unless a later enacted statute, that is enacted before January 1, 2013, deletes or extends that date [Civ. Code § 2923.6(c)].

[4] Notice of Foreclosure to Residents

Effective September 6, 2008 [Stats. 2008 , ch. 69, § 10], on posting a notice of sale pursuant to Civ. Code § 2924f, a trustee or authorized agent must also post, in the manner required for posting the notice of sale on the property to be sold, the following notice in English and the languages described in Civ. Code § 1632 [Civ. Code § 2924.8(a)]:

"Foreclosure process has begun on this property, which may affect your right to continue to live in > this property. Twenty days or more after the date of this notice, this property may be sold at foreclosure. If you are renting this property, the new property owner may either give you a new lease or rental agreement or provide you with a 60-day eviction notice. However, other laws may prohibit an eviction in this circumstance or provide you with a longer notice before eviction. You may wish to contact a lawyer or your local legal aid or housing counseling agency to discuss any rights you may have."

Concurrently with the mailing of the notice of sale pursuant to Civ. Code § 2924b, the mortgagee, trustee, beneficiary, or authorized agent must send, by first-class mail, a copy of that posted notice, in an envelope addressed to the "resident of property subject to foreclosure sale" [Civ. Code § 2924.8(a)]. It is an infraction to tear down the notice within 72 hours of posting. Violators will be subject to a fine of $100 [Civ. Code § 2924.8(b)].

These notice requirements apply only to loans secured by residential real property, and if the billing address for the mortgage note is different from the property address [Civ. Code § 2924.8(d)].

Section 2923.8 is in effect until January 1, 2013, and as of that date is repealed, unless a later enacted statute, that is enacted before January 1, 2013, deletes or extends that date [Civ. Code § 2923.8(e)].

[5] Maintenance of Vacated Property

A legal owner is required to maintain vacant residential property [see Civ. Code § 2929.3(g)] purchased by that owner at a foreclosure sale, or acquired by that owner through foreclosure under a mortgage or deed of trust [Civ. Code § 2929.3(a)(1)]. A governmental entity may impose a civil fine of up to $1,000 per day for a violation [see Civ. Code § 2929.3(a)(1) (notice of alleged violation and intent to assess fine)]. The governmental entity must provide a period of not less than 30 days for the legal owner to remedy the violation prior to imposing a civil fine and must allow for a hearing and opportunity to contest any fine imposed. In determining the amount of the fine, the governmental entity shall take into consideration any timely and good faith efforts by the legal owner to remedy the violation. The maximum civil fine is $1,000 for each day that the owner fails to maintain the property, commencing on the day following the expiration of the period to remedy the violation established by the governmental entity [Civ. Code § 2929.3(a)(2); see Civ. Code § 2929.3(b) ("failure to maintain" defined)]. A governmental entity may establish different compliance periods for different conditions on the same property in the notice of alleged violation mailed to the legal owner [Civ. Code § 2929.3(a)(3)].

A governmental entity may provide less than 30 days' notice to remedy a condition before imposing a civil fine if it determines that a specific condition of the property threatens public health or safety and provided that notice of that determination and time for compliance is given [Civ. Code § 2929.3(c)]. Fines may not be imposed under both section 2929.3 and a local ordinance [Civ. Code § 2929.3(e)]. These provisions do not preempt any local ordinances [[Civ. Code § 2929.3(f)]. The rights and remedies provided in section 2929.3 are cumulative and in addition to any other rights and remedies provided by law [Civ. Code § 2929.3(h)]. Section 2929.3 is in effect until January 1, 2013, and as of that date is repealed, unless a later enacted statute, that is enacted before January 1, 2013, deletes or extends that date [Civ. Code § 2929.3(I)].

[6] Notice to Quit

Notwithstanding the unlawful detainer provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1161a, a tenant or subtenant in possession of a rental housing unit at the time the property is sold in foreclosure must be given 60 days' written notice to quit pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1162 [see Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions, § 333.11] before the tenant or subtenant may be removed from the property through unlawful detainer proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161b(a)]. However, this notice requirement does not apply if any party to the note remains in the property as a tenant, subtenant, or occupant [Code Civ. Proc. § 1161b(b)]. Section 1161b is in effect until January 1, 2013, and as of that date is repealed, unless a later enacted statute, enacted before January 1, 2013, deletes or extends that date [Code Civ. Proc. §

1161b(c)].

In 2009, the United States Congress established a 90-day notice requirement in the Protecting Tenants at Foreclosure Act [Pub. L. No. 111-22, S. 896]. This requirement applies to any foreclosure on a federally related mortgage loan or on any dwelling or residential real property after May 20, 2009 [Pub. L. No. 111-22, § 702, 123 Stats. 1660-1661; see also Pub. L. No. 111-22, § 703, 123 Stats. 1661, amending 42 U.S.C. § 1437f(o)(7) (following foreclosure, successor in interest may terminate Section 8 tenancy on 90 days' notice if owner will occupy property as primary residence)]. The Act provides that any immediate successor in interest in the property pursuant to the foreclosure assumes that interest subject to the rights of any bona fide tenant as of the date of the notice of foreclosure, under any bona fide lease entered into before the notice of foreclosure, to occupy the premises until the end of the remaining term of the lease [Pub. L. No. 111-22, § 702(a)(2), 123 Stats. 1661]. However, a successor in interest may terminate a lease effective on the date of sale of the unit to a purchaser who will occupy the unit as a primary residence, subject to the receipt by the tenant of a 90-day notice to vacate [Pub. L. No. 111-22, § 702(a)(2), 123 Stats. 1661].

A lease or tenancy is considered bona fide if (1) the mortgagor or the child, spouse, or parent of the mortgagor under the contract is not the tenant; (2) the lease or tenancy was the result of an arms-length transaction; and (3) the lease or tenancy requires the receipt of rent that is not substantially less than fair market rent for the property or the unit's rent is reduced or subsidized due to a federal, state, or local subsidy [Pub. L. No. 111-22, § 702(b), 123 Stats. 1661]. These provisions are repealed on December 31, 2012 [P.L. 111-22, § 704, 123 Stats. 1662].

§ 555.52 Notice of Default

[1] Filing Notice for Record

[a] Filing Requirement; Exceptions

Generally, no power of sale under a trust deed may be exercised until a notice of default is filed for record in the office of the recorder of each county in which the encumbered property is located [Civ. Code § 2924(a)(1); see Civ. Code § 2953 (benefit of statutory notice requirements may not be waived in advance)]. Typically, the trustee causes the filing of a notice provided by the beneficiary [see § 555.51], but the beneficiary or an agent for the beneficiary or trustee may file instead [Civ. Code § 2924(a)(1); see Birkhofer v. Krumm (1938) 27 Cal. App. 2d 513, 516-517, 81 P.2d 609] . For a form of notice of default and discussion of its contents, see § 555.142.

Civ. Code § 2924 does not apply to the following trust deeds [Civ. Code §§ 2924(a), 2953; see §§ 555.32[2][b], 555.54[1]]:

- Trust deeds made pursuant to a court order or judgment.
- Trust deeds that secure payment of a bond or other indebtedness authorized or permitted to be issued by the Commissioner of Corporations [see Corp. Code § 25600].
- Trust deeds made by a utility subject to the Public Utilities Act [see Pub. Util. Code § 201 et seq.].

Effective September 6, 2008 [2008 Stats., ch. 69, § 10], with respect to certain residential loans, a mortgagee, trustee, beneficiary, or authorized agent may not file a notice of default pursuant to Civ. Code § 2924 until 30 days after the mortgagee, beneficiary, or authorized agent has contacted the borrower in person or by telephone in order to assess the borrower's financial situation and explore options for the borrower to avoid foreclosure [Civ. Code § 2923.5(a)(1), (2)]. However, a notice of default may be filed pursuant to section 2924 when a mortgagee, beneficiary, or authorized agent failed to contact the borrower as required, provided that the failure to contact the borrower occurred despite the due diligence of the mortgagee, beneficiary, or authorized agent [Civ. Code § 2923.5(g); see Civ. Code § 2329.5(g)(1)(5) (actions required for "due diligence")]. For discussion of these provisions, see § 555.51A.

[b] Privileged Communications

The mailing, publication, and delivery of notices as required by Civ. Code § 2924(a)(1) [see § 555.52[1][a]] and the performance of the procedures set forth in Civ. Code § 2920 et seq. (provisions relating to trust deeds and mortgages) constitute privileged communications that fall within the scope of Civ. Code § 47 (governing privileged publications or broadcasts) [Civ. Code § 2924(d); see Kachlon v. Markowitz (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 316, 341, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 532 (qualified, common interest privilege set forth in Civ. Code § 47(c)(1) is applicable privilege); for coverage of Civ. Code § 47, see Ch. 340, Libel and Slander]. Moreover, in performing acts required by Civ. Code § 2920 et seq., the trustee will not incur any liability for any good faith error resulting fromreliance on informati on provided in good faith by the beneficiary regarding the nature and the amount of the default under the secured obligation, deed or trust, or mortgage [Civ. Code § 2924(b)].

[2] Request for Notice

Any person desiring a copy of any notice of default that is required to be filed for recordation [see § 555.52[1]] may, at any time after recordation of the trust deed and before recordation of the notice of default, file a duly acknowledged request for notice in the office of the recorder of any county in which any part of the encumbered property is located [Civ. Code § 2924b(a)]. For a form of request for notice and discussion of its contents, see § 555.141. A similar request for notice may be included in the trust deed, on behalf of any person or party to the trust deed [Civ. Code § 2924b(d)]. A recorded request for notice entitles the designated person to receive a copy of the notice [see § 555.52[3]]; it does not operate as notice of any claim to the encumbered property [Civ. Code § 2924b(g)].

[3] Mailing Copies of Notice

[a] To Trustor and Persons Requesting Notice

Within 10 days following recordation of the notice of default, the trustee or other person authorized to record the notice (including an agent for the mortgagee or beneficiary, an agent of the named trustee, any person designated in an executed substitution of trustee, or an agent of that substituted trustee) must send or cause to be sent to the following persons, by registered or certified mail, with postage prepaid, a copy of the notice of default [see § 555.142] showing the date of recordation [Civ. Code § 2924b(b)(1), (4)]:

- To each trustor, at the last known address if it is different from the address specified in the trust deed.

- To each person entitled to receive notice by reason of a recorded request under Civ. Code § 2924b(a) and (d) [see § 555.52[2]], at the address designated in the request.

The last known address is the last business or residence physical address actually known by the trustee or other person authorized to record the notice of default. A physical address does not include an e-mail address or any form of electronic address for a trustor or mortgagor. An address is "actually known" if it is contained in the original deed of trust or mortgage, or in any subsequent written notification of a change of physical address from the trustor or mortgagor pursuant to the deed of trust or mortgage. The beneficiary must inform the trustee of the trustor's last address actually known by the beneficiary, but the trustee is not liable for failure to send any notice to this last address unless it is actually known by the trustee [Civ. Code § 2924b(b)(3)]. Although the trustee has noobligation to take any steps to discover the trustor's current address or to determine whether the trustor is living [see I.E. Associates v. Safeco Title Ins. Co. (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 281, 285-289, 216 Cal. Rptr. 438, 702 P. 2d 596] , if the trustee has actual knowledge that the trustor died and that the deceased trustor's estate is being administered by the public administrator, the trustee is obligated to send the notice to the public administrator [Estate of Yates (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 511, 521, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 53] .

The person required to send copies of the notice of default as described in the preceding paragraph must also simultaneously send or cause to be sent, by regular first-class mail, with postage prepaid, an additional copy of the notice, addressed to each trustor at the same address to which the notice is sent by registered or certified mail. The sender must execute and retain an affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) showing that this requirement was met. In the absence of fraud, the affidavit establishes a conclusive presumption of mailing [Civ. Code § 2924b(e)].

Standard trust deed forms typically include the trustor's address and a request that the trustor be sent any notice of default or sale [see Gov. Code § 27321.5(b) (trustor's address and request for notice is prerequisite to recordation of trust deed)]. However, failure to include this information does not affect the validity of the trust deed [Gov. Code § 27321.5].

For a form of the declaration of mailing and discussion of the contents, see § 555.145. For discussion of proof of mailing of copies of the notice, see § 555.145[2] and [3].

[b] To Other Persons

[i] Potential Recipients

Within one month following recordation of the notice of default, if certain conditions are satisfied [see § 555.52[3][b][ii]], the trustee or other person authorized to record the notice (including an agent for the mortgagee or beneficiary, an agent of the named trustee, any person designated in an executed substitution of trustee, or an agent of that substituted trustee) must send or cause to be sent to the following persons, by registered or certified mail, with postage prepaid, a copy of the notice of default [see § 555.142] showing the date of recordation [Civ. Code § 2924b(c)(1), (2), (4)]:

- The successor in interest, as of the recording date of the notice of default, of all or part of the estate or interest of the trustor [see generally Perez v. 222 Sutter St. Partners (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 938, 947-949, 272 Cal. Rptr. 119 (easement holder is not successor in interest and does not have to be notified except pursuant to recorded request for notice)].

- The beneficiary of any trust deed recorded after the trust deed being foreclosed, or recorded before or concurrently with that trust deed butsubject to a recorded agreement or statement of subordination to that trust deed [see § 555.16[4]].

- The assignee of any junior beneficiary described in the preceding item, as of the recording date of the notice of default [see § 555.15[1]].

- The purchaser of any contract of sale (or the lessee of any lease) of the estate or interest being foreclosed, which was recorded after the trust deed being foreclosed or was recorded before or concurrently with that trust deed but is subject to a recorded agreement or statement of subordination to that trust deed [see generally Ch. 569, Vendor and Purchaser of Real Property].

- The successor in interest of a purchaser or lessee described in the preceding item, as of the recording date of the notice of default.

- The state controller in Sacramento, when, as of the recording date of the notice of default, a notice of lien against the encumbered property for postponed property taxes has been recorded [see § 555.56[4]].

When the mailing address of any person listed above, as provided to the county recorder, is the address of the person's attorney, agent, or employee, the fact that a notice of default is mailed to that address does not impose on the attorney, agent, or employee any duty to communicate the notice to the designated person [Civ. Code § 2924b(c)(5)].

For a form of the declaration of mailing and discussion of the contents, see § 555.145. For discussion of proof of mailing of copies of the notice, see § 555.145[2] and [3].

[ii] Conditions Precedent

A copy of the notice need not be sent to a person described in § 555.52[3][b][i] unless the following conditions are satisfied with respect to that person [Civ. Code § 2924b(c)(1)]:

- The estate or interest of that person in the encumbered property was acquired by an instrument sufficient to impart constructive notice of the estate or interest.

- The instrument is recorded in the office of the county recorder so as to impart constructive notice before the recording date of the notice of default.

- The instrument as recorded sets forth a mailing address for use by the county recorder to return the instrument after recording, which is the address to be used for the purpose of mailing the notice of default.

[4] Publication or Posting of Notice

The trustee or beneficiary must publish a copy of the notice of default in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the propertyis located [see Gov. Code § 6000 (defining newspaper of general circulation); see generally Ch. 386, Newspapers] if the following conditions are satisfied [Civ. Code § 2924b(d)]:

- The trust deed does not contain a mailing address of the trustor or mortgagor named in it.

- The trustor has not recorded a request for notice [see § 555.52[2]] under Civ. Code § 2924b(a).

The publication must commence within 10 business days after filing the notice of default for record and must occur once a week for at least four weeks. In lieu of publication, the trustee or beneficiary may arrange to have a copy of the notice of default personally delivered to the trustor, within 10 business days after the notice is filed for record or at any time before publication is to be completed, or post the notice of default in a conspicuous place on the property and mail the notice to the trustor's last known address [Civ. Code § 2924b(d)].

For discussion of proof of publication, see § 555.56[2].

[5] No Duty to Give Actual Notice

A trustee's statutory duty to provide notice is exclusive, and the trustee is not liable, as common agent of the parties, for any failure to provide actual notice to the trustor after meeting the requirements of Civ. Code § 2924b [I.E. Associates v. Safeco Title Ins. Co. (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 281, 285-289, 216 Cal. Rptr. 438, 702 P.2d 596] .

[6] Warning to Buyer Under Secured Retail Installment Contract

When a default has not been cured within 30 days after recordation of the notice of default, and the default relates to an obligation under a contract for goods or services subject to the Unruh Act [Civ. Code § 1801 et seq.] and secured by a trust deed on a single-family owner-occupied residence, the trustee must mail a warning statement [see Civ. Code § 2924f(c)(3)] to the trustor's last known address [Civ. Code § 2924f(c)(1), (3)]. The warning must also be included in all notices of sale [see Civ. Code § 2924f(b)].

For a form of a notice of sale containing the required warning, see § 555.144[1].

§ 555.53 Status of Secured Debt

[1] Duty to Provide Statement

[a] Request for Statement

Trustors, junior beneficiaries and mortgagees, and certain other persons may request either a beneficiary statement [see § 555.53[2]] or a payoff demand statement [see § 555.53[3]] from the beneficiary, to determine the status of the loan [see Civ. Code § 2943(b)(1), (c)]. A beneficiary statement or payoff demand statement may be relied on in accordance with its terms [Civ. Code § 2943(d)(1)].

The request for a beneficiary statement may be made at any time before, or within two months after, the recording of a notice of default, or may otherwise be made more than 30 days before the entry of decree of foreclosure [Civ. Code § 2943(b)(2)]. The request for a payoff demand statement may be made at any time.

The preparation and delivery of a beneficiary statement or a payoff demand statement does not change a date of sale established pursuant to Civ. Code § 2924g [Civ. Code § 2943(f); see § 555.27].

[b] Delivery; Fee; Failure to Furnish

The beneficiary may deliver the beneficiary statement or payoff demand statement by depositing it in the United States mail, with postage prepaid,or by transmitting it by facsimile machine [Civ. Code § 2943(a)(3)]. The beneficiary may charge an amount not to exceed $30 for furnishing each required statement [Civ. Code § 2943(e)(6) (not applicable to FHA-insured or DVA-guaranteed trust deeds or mortgages)].

Willful failure to furnish a statement in a timely manner entitles the person making the request to actual damages plus a $300 penalty [Civ. Code § 2943(e)(4)]. A willful failure is an intentional failure to comply with the requirements of Civ. Code § 2943 without just cause or excuse [Civ. Code § 2943(e)(4)].

[2] Beneficiary Statement

A beneficiary must, within 21 days after receiving a written demand by an entitled person, prepare and deliver to the person demanding it a copy of the note and a beneficiary statement [Civ. Code § 2943(b)(1)]. A beneficiary statement is a written statement showing the following information [Civ. Code § 2943(a)(2)]:

- The amount of the unpaid balance of the obligation secured by the mortgage or trust deed and the interest rate together with the total amounts, if any, of all overdue installments of principal or interest or both.

- The amounts of periodic payments, if any.

- The date the obligation is due in whole or in part.

- The date to which real estate taxes and special assessments have been paid, to the extent that information is known by the beneficiary.

- The amount of hazard insurance in effect and the term and premium of that insurance, to the extent that information is known by the beneficiary.

- The amount in an account, if any, maintained for the accumulation of funds with which to pay taxes and insurance premiums.

- The nature and, if known, the amount of any additional charges, costs, or expenses paid or incurred by the beneficiary that have become a lien on the encumbered property.

- Whether the obligation secured by the mortgage or trust deed can or may be transferred to a new borrower.

[3] Payoff Demand Statement

A beneficiary must, on written demand by an entitled person, prepare and deliver a payoff demand statement to the person demanding it within 21 days after receiving the demand. However, if the loan is subject to a recorded notice of default or a filed complaint commencing a judicial foreclosure, the beneficiary has no obligation to prepare and deliver the statement unless the written demand is received before the first publication of a notice of sale or the notice of first date of sale established by a court [Civ. Code § 2943(c)].

A payoff demand statement is a written statement setting forth the amounts required as of the date of preparation by the beneficiary to discharge all obligations secured by the trust deed that is the subject of the payoff demand statement. The written statement must include information reasonably necessary to compute the payoff amount on a per diem basis for a period, not to exceed 30 days, during which the per diem amount is not changed by the terms of the note [Civ. Code § 2943(a)(5)].

Any sums that were due but, for any reason, were not included in the payoff demand statement or an amended statement will be recoverable by the beneficiary as an unsecured obligation, pursuant to the terms of the note and provisions of law [Civ. Code § 2943(d)(3); Cathay Bank v. Fidelity Nat. Title Ins. Co. (1996) 46 Cal. App. 4th 266, 270-271, 53 Cal.

Rptr. 2d 595 ; see Ghirardo v. Antonioli (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 39, 52, 57 Cal. Rptr. 2d 687, 924 P.2d 996 (reaching similar result based on common law in effect before enactment of Civ. Code § 2943)].

A letter sent by a bank to the escrow agent handling a sale, stating that it had received "payoff funds" for the secured promissory note that it held, did not meet the statutory requirements for a payoff demand statement. The letter did not advise the borrower of the sums needed to pay off the loan nor did it provide a per diem interest rate. The use of the term "payoff funds" in the letter was not sufficient to transform a letter advising the escrow agent of the status of the transaction into a payoff demand statement binding on the bank [California Nat. Bank v. Havis (2004) 120 Cal. App. 4th 1122, 1134, 16 Cal. Rptr. 3d 245] .

[4] Short-Sale Transactions

The provisions of Civ. Code § 2943 discussed below apply from January 1, 2010, until January 1, 2014 [Civ. Code § 2943(g); see Stats. 2009, ch. 43, § 5]. These provisions are intended to allow escrow agents to obtain valid payoff statements in short-sale transactions, which can occur when deeds of trust or mortgages have to be foreclosed in a distressed real estate market.

A "short-pay agreement" is an agreement in writing in which the beneficiary agrees to release its lien on a property in return for payment of an amount less than the secured obligation [Civ. Code § 2943(a)(6)].

A "short-pay demand statement" is a written statement, issued subsequent to and conditioned on the existence of a short-pay agreement in the possession of the entitled person, that is prepared in response to a written demand made by an entitled person or authorized agent, setting forth an amount less than the outstanding debt, together with any terms and conditions, under which the beneficiary will execute and deliver a reconveyance of the deed of trust securing the note that is the subject of the short-pay demand statement. The period must not be greater than 30 days from the date of preparation by the beneficiary [Civ. Code § 2943(a)(7)].

A "short-pay request" is a written request made by an entitled person or authorized agent requesting the beneficiary to provide a short-pay demand statement that includes a copy of an existing contract to purchase the property for an amount certain, a copy of the short-pay agreement in the possession of the entitled person, and information related to the release of any other liens on the property [Civ. Code § 2943(a)(8)].

A beneficiary, or his or her authorized agent, must, on receipt of a short pay request, prepare and deliver a short-pay demand statement to the person requesting it within 21 days of the receipt of the short-pay request. A beneficiary, or his or her authorized agent, that elects not to proceed with the transaction that is the subject of the short-pay request may refuse to provide a short-pay demand statement for that transaction, but in that case, the beneficiary or agent must provide a written statement to the person requesting it, indicating that the beneficiary elects not to proceed with the proposed transaction, within 21 days of receipt of the short-pay request. If the terms and conditions of the short-pay agreement require approval by the beneficiary of a closing statement or similar document prepared by an escrow holder, then approval or disapproval must be provided not more than four days after receipt by the beneficiary of the closing statement, otherwise the closing statement will be deemed approved, provided the statement is not clearly contrary to the terms of the short-pay agreement or the short-pay demand statement provided to the escrow holder [Civ. Code § 2943(c)(2)].

A short-pay demand statement may be relied on by the entitled person or his or her authorized agent in accordance with its terms, including for the purpose of establishing the amount necessary to pay the obligation in full. If the beneficiary notifies the entitled person or his or her authorized agent of any amendment to the statement, then the amended statement may likewise be relied on by the entitled person or his or her authorized agent [Civ. Code § 2943(d)(1)].

If an entitled person or his or her authorized agent requests a statement pursuant to Civ. Code § 2943 and does not specify a short-pay demand statement, the beneficiary must treat the request as a request for a normal payoff demand statement [Civ. Code § 2943(e)(1)]. The provisions of Civ. Code § 2943(e)(2)-(6) also apply to a short-pay demand statement [Civ. Code § 2943(e)].

The preparation and delivery of a short-pay demand statement pursuant to Civ. Code § 2943 will not change a date of sale established pursuant to Civ. Code § 2924g [Civ. Code § 2943(f)].

§ 555.54 Reinstatement of Accelerated Obligation

[1] Power to Reinstate: Extent and Exercise

[a] Power to Effect Reinstatement

[i] Persons Entitled to Reinstate

The trustor and other persons are empowered by statute to effect reinstatement of the secured obligation and trust deed, status quo ante, after the beneficiary has elected to accelerate the secured obligation as the result of a monetary default, such as a failure to pay interest or installments on the principal or failure to make collateral payments such as taxes or insurance premiums [Civ. Code § 2924c(a)(1); see § 555.15[3]]. Persons entitled to reinstate during the reinstatement period [see § 555.54[1][b]] are the trustor, a successor in interest as to all or part of the encumbered property, and any junior beneficiary or mortgagee [Civ. Code § 2924c(a)(1)].

The protection of Civ. Code § 2924c may not be waived in advance [Civ. Code § 2953].

[ii] Payment of Amount Due

Persons entitled to reinstate [see § 555.54[1][a][i]] may accomplish reinstatement by curing the monetary default, that is, paying or tendering payment of the entire amount due under the terms of the trust deed and the secured obligation, including the following [Civ. Code § 2924c(a)(1)]:

- Certain costs and fees [see § 555.54[2]].

- All amounts of principal, interest, taxes, assessments, insurance premiums, or advances that are actually known by the beneficiary to be, and are, in default and are shown in the notice of default, under the terms of the trust deed or mortgage and the secured obligation.

- All amounts in default on recurring obligations not shown in the notice of default.

Recurring obligations comprise all amounts of principal and interest on the loan or rents, subject to the trust deed or mortgage in default, due after the notice of default is recorded, all amounts of principal and interest or rents advanced on senior liens or leaseholds that are advanced after recordation of the notice of default, and payments of taxes, assessments, and hazard insurance advanced after recordation of the notice of default [Civ. Code § 2924c(a)(1)]. If the beneficiary has made no advances on defaults that would constitute recurring obligations, the beneficiary may require the trustor to provide reliable written evidence that the amounts have been paid [Civ. Code § 2924c(a)(1)].

The amount required for reinstatement does not include any portion of the principal that, but for the acceleration on default, would not be due [Civ. Code § 2924c(a)(1); see Bisno v. Sax (1959) 175 Cal. App. 2d 714, 719-720, 346 P.2d 814 (partial payment after default was insufficient cure, and person attempting to cure is not required to tender any amounts not claimed in notice of default)].

[b] Reinstatement Periods

Except when the extraordinary provisions of Civ. Code §§ 2923.52-2923.55 require a 90-day extension of the time for reinstatement [see § 555.54[1][f]], or after those provisions expire on January 1, 2011 [see Civ. Code §§ 2923.52(e), 2923.53(l), 2923.54(c), 2923.55(d) (sunset date)], the time for reinstatement is governed by the statutory provisions discussed below.

The initial period during which reinstatement can be effected commences with the date of recordation of the notice of default and continues until five business days before the date of sale set forth in the initial recorded notice of sale [Civ. Code § 2924c(a)(1), (e)]. This period, at a minimum, exceeds three months, in view of the time requirements for setting the date of sale [Civ. Code §§ 2924(a)(3), 2924b, 2924f ; see § 555.56].

If the sale does not take place on the date set by the notice of sale or if a subsequent notice of sale is required to be recorded, the right of reinstatement revives as of the date of subsequent recordation of a notice of sale and continues until five business days before the date of sale set forth in the subsequent notice. If the sale is postponed on the date of sale set by the last-recorded notice of sale, or on the date declared for sale at an immediately preceding postponement of sale, and the postponementperiod exceeds five business days, the right of reinstatement revives as of the date of postponement and continues until five business days before the date of sale declared at the time of the postponement. There is no right of reinstatement during the period of five business days before the date of sale, whether that date is given in a notice of sale or declared at a postponement of sale [Civ. Code § 2924c(e)]. The term "business day" has the same meaning under Civ. Code § 2924c(e) as under Civ. Code § 9 [Civ. Code § 2924c(e)]. For discussion of the postponement procedure, see § 555.57[4].

A foreclosure sale was invalid and the trustee's deed upon sale was void when the homeowner cured the default before the sale. The fact that the agreement to cure the default did not take place within the time statutorily granted to a trustor to cure a default as a matter of right [Civ. Code § 2924c(a)(1), (e)] was irrelevant, because the homeowner and lender mutually agreed to the cure and reinstatement of the loan [Bank of America N.A. v. La Jolla Group II (2005) 129 Cal. App. 4th 706, 712, 28 Cal. Rptr. 3d 825] .

Bankruptcy proceedings may in effect permit the debtor to reinstate even after the reinstatement period has elapsed [see 11 U.S.C. §§ 1124 cl. (2)(A), 1322(b)(2), (5)]. One court has held, however, that the postponement of a foreclosure sale numerous times for five or fewer business days during the time a sale was enjoined or stayed--thereby precluding revival of an expired reinstatement period--was not improper [Hicks v. E.T. Legg Associates (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 496, 508, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 10] . For further discussion, see Ch. 94, Bankruptcy .

[c] Duty to Accept Payment

If a person entitled to effect reinstatement tenders the amount necessary to cure the monetary default, the beneficiary cannot properly refuse the tender [see Munger v. Moore (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 1, 8, 89 Cal. Rptr. 323] . A proper tender effectively cures the default even if is not accepted [Magnus v. Morrison (1949) 93 Cal. App. 2d 1, 3, 208 P.2d 407] , and the beneficiary and trustee may be liable for damages if they proceed with the sale [Munger v. Moore (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 1, 8, 89 Cal. Rptr. 323] .

A beneficiary cannot, as a condition to reinstatement, demand the cure of any delinquency unless it has been sufficiently specified in the notice of default. For example, if a junior beneficiary records a notice of default and afterward cures a default under a senior lien, the junior beneficiary is entitled to add the paid amount to the debt owed to the junior beneficiary. The junior beneficiary, however, may not require the trustor to reimburse that amount in tendering payment for reinstatement under the junior notice of default, because the junior notice of default could not have included any delinquency under the senior trust deed [Little v. Harbor Pacific Mortgage Investors (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 717, 720-721, 221 Cal. Rptr. 59] .

[d] Effect of Tendering Payment

Once the monetary default is cured by a proper tender of payment, the secured obligation and the trust deed are automatically reinstated in full force and effect, as if no acceleration had occurred, and all pending foreclosure proceedings must be dismissed or discontinued [Civ. Code § 2924c(a)(1)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Tender All of It! If a borrower or subordinated junior lienholder wants to cure so as to stop foreclosure proceedings, it is necessary that all amounts under loan documents (even disputed ones) be paid in accordance with Civ. Code § 2924c(a)(1). These tender rules also apply to pre-maturity delinquencies and do not disrupt common-law tender rules upon maturity. A borrower who properly tenders upon maturity may be able to stop the accrual of interest or extinguish the lien if a creditor wrongfully rejects a proper tender. By William M. Hensley

When a junior beneficiary or mortgagee is compelled to cure the default and effect reinstatement for self-protection, the amount so paid may be added to the debt secured by the junior trust deed or mortgage [Civ. Code § 2876; see United Sav. & Loan Assn. v. Hoffman (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 306, 313, 106 Cal. Rptr. 275] .

[e] When Reinstatement Is Not Available

Because Civ. Code § 2924c applies only to monetary defaults, it does not appear to limit acceleration based on a nonmonetary default, such as an unauthorized transfer by the trustor [see § 555.15[4]]. This distinction appears to be in accord with the original purpose of the statute, that is, to relieve debtors that were distressed by the Great Depression [see Magnus v. Morrison (1949) 93 Cal. App. 2d 1, 3, 208 P.2d 407] .

Civ. Code § 2924c does not apply to secured obligations authorized or permitted to be issued by the Commissioner of Corporations [see Corp. Code § 25600] or those made by a utility subject to the Public Utilities Act [Civ. Code § 2924c(a)(1); see §§ 555.32[2][b], 555.52[1]].

[f] Extraordinary Extension of Time

Normally a notice of sale cannot be given until after the passage of three months from the date of filing of the notice of default [Civ. Code § 2924(a)(2), (3); see § 555.54[1][b]]. However, starting June 15, 2009, until January 1, 2011, in some cases in which the delinquent loan is secured by residential real property, that mandatory delay (the purpose of which is to allow time for the noticed default to be cured) is extended an additional 90 days, to allow the parties to pursue a loan modification so as to prevent the impending foreclosure [Civ. Code § 2923.52(a); see Civ. Code § 2923.52(d), (e) (operative date and sunset date); see also 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 4.1 et seq., 2031.1 et seq., 2850.1 et seq. (implemental regulations, issuance of which on June 1, 2009, made statute operative 14 days later)].

Once a notice of default has been recorded, the 90-day extension is effective in any case in which no exception is applicable (see below) and the following conditions are satisfied [Civ. Code § 2923.52(a)]:

- The deed of trust or mortgage was recorded during the period from January 1, 2003, to January 1, 2008, inclusive.

- It is the first deed of trust or mortgage encumbering the property that provides security for the loan.

- That property was residential real property when the deed of trust or mortgage was recorded.

- That property was occupied as the borrower's principal residence at the time the loan became delinquent.

In a case in which those conditions are satisfied, the notice of sale may nevertheless be given after the passage of three months from the date of filing of the notice of default [Civ. Code § 2924(a)(2), (3); see § 555.54[1][b]] when one of the following conditions exists, because in that case, the 90-day extension is not triggered:

- The delinquent loan is serviced by a mortgage loan servicer that has obtained a temporary or final order of exemption from the appropriate regulatory agency [see Civ. Code § 2923.53(k)(1) (either Commissioner of Corporations, Commissioner of Financial Institutions, or Real Estate Commissioner, depending on loan servicer's regulated status)], and that order is current and valid at the time the notice of sale is given [Civ. Code § 2923.52(b)]. To be eligible for an order of exemption, the loan servicer must have implemented a comprehensive loan modification program that meets the requirements of Civ. Code § 2923.53 [Civ. Code § 2923.53(a); see Civ. Code § 2923.53(l) (sunset date)].

- The delinquent loan either [Civ. Code § 2923.52(c)]:

  - Was made or purchased, or is serviced, by a California state or local public housing agency or authority, including state or local housing finance agencies established under Health & Safety Code § 50000 et seq. (Zenovich-Moscone-Chacon Housing and Home Finance Act) and Mil. & Vet. Code § 980 et seq. (concerning Cal-Vet loans); or

  - Is collateral for securities purchased by such an agency or authority.

- The borrower has either [Civ. Code § 2923.55(a)-(c); see Civ. Code § 2923.55(d) (sunset date)]:

  - Surrendered the property to the mortgagee, trustee, beneficiary, or authorized agent, as evidenced by either a letter confirming the surrender or delivery of the keys to the property;

  - Contracted with an organization, person, or entity, whose primary business is advising people who have decided to leave their homes, regarding how to extend the foreclosure process and avoid their contractual obligations to mortgagees or beneficiaries;

or

- Filed a case under Chapter 7, 11, 12, or 13 of the Bankruptcy Code, in which the bankruptcy court has not entered an order closing or dismissing the bankruptcy case or granting relief from a stay of foreclosure.

A notice of sale filed pursuant to Civ. Code § 2924f [see § 555.144] must include a declaration from the trustee, mortgagee, or other mortgage loan servicer, stating (1) whether or not a final or temporary order of exemption was obtained pursuant to Civ. Code § 2923.53 and is current and valid on the date the notice of sale is filed, and (2) whether the 90-day extension for giving notice of sale, specified in Civ. Code § 2923.52(a), applies or does not apply, pursuant to Civ. Code § 2923.52(b) and (c) and Civ. Code § 2923.55. However, failure to comply with Civ. Code § 2923.52 or 2923.53 will not invalidate any sale that would otherwise be valid under Civ. Code § 2924f [Civ. Code § 2923.54(a), (b); see Civ. Code § 2923.54(c) (sunset date)].

[2] Costs and Fees

[a] Statutory Limitations on Chargeable Costs

Costs and fees that a beneficiary may charge as a condition for reinstatement are subject to statutory limitations [Civ. Code § 2924c(a)(1)]. Chargeable costs and expenses are limited to costs actually incurred for recording, mailing, publishing, and posting any notices required under Civ. Code §§ 2924-2924i, plus a fee not exceeding $50 for any postponement of a private sale, plus a fee for a trustee's sale guaranty [Civ. Code § 2924c(c); see Engelbertson v. Loan & Bldg. Asso. (1936) 6 Cal. 2d 477, 479, 58 P.2d 647 (tender of amount due did not cure default when it did not include costs incurred)]. A trustee or beneficiary may purchase a trustee's sale guaranty at a rate meeting the standards in Ins. Code §§ 12401.1 and 12401.3 [Civ. Code § 2924c(c)].

[b] Trustee's or Attorney's Fees

Any charge for trustee's or attorney's fees that does not exceed the following statutory ceiling is conclusively presumed to be lawful and valid [Civ. Code §§ 2924c(d), 2924d(a)]. Up to the time the notice of sale is mailed to the trustor, the trustee's or attorney's fees chargeable as a condition of reinstatement may not exceed the following amount [Civ. Code § 2924c(a)(1), (d)]:

- $300 if the unpaid principal sum secured is $150,000 or less, or $250 if the unpaid principal sum secured exceeds $150,000, plus

- 0.5 percent of the unpaid principal sum secured exceeding $50,000, up to and including $150,000, plus

- 0.25 percent of any portion of the unpaid principal sum secured exceeding $150,000, up to and including $500,000, plus

- 0.125 percent of any portion of the unpaid principal sum secured exceeding $500,000.

The unpaid principal sum secured is determined as of the date the notice of default is recorded [Civ. Code § 2924c(d)].

In addition, when the trust deed secures an obligation subject to the Unruh Act [Civ. Code § 1801 et seq. (retail installment sale contracts)], an additional $50 trustee's fee is authorized [Civ. Code § 2924f(c)(5)].

After the notice of sale is mailed to the trustor, the trustee's or attorney's fees chargeable as a condition of reinstatement

(in lieu of, not in addition to, the fees authorized above) may not exceed the following amount [Civ. Code § 2924d(a)]:

- $425 if the unpaid principal sum secured is $150,000 or less, or $360 if the unpaid principal sum secured exceeds $150,000, plus
- 1 percent of the unpaid principal sum secured exceeding $50,000, up to and including $150,000, plus
- 0.5 percent of any portion of the unpaid principal sum secured exceeding $150,000, up to and including $500,000, plus
- 0.25 percent of any portion of the unpaid principal sum secured exceeding $500,000.

A beneficiary also may demand, as a condition to reinstatement, reimbursement for any additional attorney's fees for other services related to the trust deed that are recoverable under the terms of the trust deed. However, these fees must be claimed in the notice of default, as part of the total amount required to cure the default [Buck v. Barb (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 920, 924-925, 195 Cal. Rptr. 461 ; see Bisno v. Sax (1959) 175 Cal. App. 2d 714, 720, 346 P.2d 814] .

A trustee may pay or offer to pay an agent or subagent for work performed in discharging the trustee's obligations under the terms of the trust deed. The payments are conclusively presumed to be lawful and valid if, when the payments are added to the trustee's other fees, the aggregate sum does not exceed the trustee's authorized fee [Civ. Code § 2924d(d)].

[3] Notice of Rescission of Default

Within 21 days following a reinstatement, the beneficiary or an agent must execute and deliver to the trustee a notice of rescission, rescinding the declaration of default and demand for sale and advising the trustee of the date of reinstatement. The trustee must cause the notice of rescission to be recorded within 30 days after receiving it and all allowable fees and costs. No charge except the recording fee may be made to the trustor for the execution and recordation of the notice of rescission [Civ. Code § 2924c(a)(2)]. For a form of notice of rescission, see § 555.143.

§ 555.55 Equity of Redemption

[1] Right to Redeem

Any person having an interest in the encumbered property has a right to redeem the property from the lien of the mortgage or trust deed, until the property is sold at a foreclosure sale [Civ. Code § 2903]. Junior lienholders are specifically entitled to redeem [Civ. Code § 2904], as long as the junior interest was acquired in good faith and not as a sham to destroy the rights of other junior lienholders [Lee v. Joseph (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 30, 32-35, 72 Cal. Rptr. 471] .

This right of redemption is commonly referred to as an equity of redemption, a term dating to the period when a mortgagor retained only an equitable, rather than legal, interest in the encumbered property [see Bradbury v. Davenport (1896) 114 Cal. 593, 601-602, 46 P. 1062] . The term "equity of redemption" is used here to distinguish it from the statutory redemption procedure that applies following a judicial foreclosure sale [see Duff v. Randall (1897) 116 Cal. 226, 229-230, 48 P. 66 ; § 555.72].

The person redeeming the encumbered property becomes subrogated to all of the benefits of the trust deed or mortgage, as against all owners of other interests in the property [Civ. Code §§ 2903, 2904].

[2] Waiver

An equity of redemption may not be waived in advance [Civ. Code § 2889; Bradbury v. Davenport (1896) 114 Cal. 593, 599, 46 P. 1062] . It may, however, be subsequently released or conveyed by an agreement that is sufficiently specific and deliberate and is given for an adequate consideration [Bradbury v. Davenport (1896) 114 Cal. 593, 599-600, 46 P. 1062 ; see Graves v. Arizona Central Bank (1928) 205 Cal. 715, 717-718, 272 P. 1063 ; General

Casualty Co. v. Soda (1960) 184 Cal. App. 2d 390, 394-395, 7 Cal. Rptr. 536 (no effective release of equity of redemption when agreement was not sufficiently specific)]. The most common instance of such a conveyance occurs when a trustor relinquishes the equity of redemption by giving the beneficiary a grant deed in consideration for cancellation of the secured obligation [Graves v. Arizona Central Bank (1928) 205 Cal. 715, 717-719, 272 P. 1063 ; see § 555.30[4]].

PRACTICE TIP:

Other Consideration for Waiver of Redemption Rights. Various forms of consideration other than lien cancellation can support a waiver of redemption rights. For example, this practitioner has structured a redemption waiver in return for a stipulated-to lower deficiency judgment or for a reduction in a future deficiency judgment in some negotiated proportion to the price at which the property is sold to an outside third party without the cloud of redemption rights. By William M. Hensley

[3] Amount Payable for Redemption

Redemption is effected through full payment of the secured debt plus any damages sustained by reason of the default or delay in performance [Civ. Code § 2905]. Thus, the effect of redemption is to discharge the security and bar further foreclosure proceedings [see Lee v. Joseph (1968) 267 Cal. App. 2d 30, 35, 72 Cal. Rptr. 471] . If a proper tender of the amount necessary for redemption is refused, the obligation remains but the security is nonetheless discharged [Lichty v. Whitney (1947) 80 Cal. App. 2d 696, 699-701, 182 P.2d 582] .

§ 555.56 Notice of Sale

[1] In General

[a] Basic Notice Requirement

After at least three months from the recordation date of the notice of default, if no reinstatement, redemption, or waiver of the default has occurred, the trustee or other person authorized to make the sale must, before proceeding further, give notice of the sale [Civ. Code § 2924(a)(3); see § 555.56[2], [3]]. The statute requires only the lapse of a minimum period between the notice of default and notice of sale, and the trustee may wait a longer period if the delay does not prejudice the trustor [see Arata v. Downer (1937) 21 Cal. App. 2d 406, 408-409, 69 P.2d 213 ; see also Hayward Lbr. & Invest. Co. v. Corbett (1934) 138 Cal. App. 644, 651, 33 P.2d 41 (reference to "month" in statute or contract is to calendar month); but see Bennett v. Ukiah Fair Asso. (1936) 7 Cal. 2d 43, 47, 59 P.2d 805 (lapse of three-month period of Civ. Code § 2924(a)(3) was described in dictum as passage of 90 days)].

Starting June 15, 2009, until January 1, 2011, in some cases in which the delinquent loan is secured by residential real property, the normal three-month delay between recording the notice of default and giving notice of the sale is extended an additional 90 days, to allow the parties to pursue a loan modification so as to prevent the impending foreclosure [Civ. Code § 2923.52(a); see Civ. Code § 2923.52(d), (e) (operative date and sunset date)]. For discussion, see § 555.54[1][f].

For a form of notice of sale and discussion of the contents, see § 555.144.

[b] Failure to Give Notice; Privileged Communications

When the trustee fails to give notice of the sale to the trustor, junior lienholder, and judgment creditor, and when the failure to give notice is discovered before a deed is issued to the purchaser at the sale, the sale is void and of no effect. No conclusive presumption of the validity of the sale arises, and the purchaser is only entitled to a refund of its bid with interest [Little v. CFS Service Corp. (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 1354, 1360-1362, 233 Cal. Rptr. 923] .

The mailing, publication, and delivery of the notice, and the performance of the procedures set forth in Civ. Code § 2920 et seq. (all provisions relating to trust deeds and mortgages), constitute privileged communications that fall within the scope of Civ. Code § 47 (governing privileged publications or broadcasts) [Civ. Code § 2924(d)]. For coverage of Civ. Code § 47, see Ch. 340, Libel and Slander .

[c] No Liability for Good Faith Error

In performing acts required by Civ. Code § 2920 et seq., the trustee will not incur any liability for any good faith error resulting from reliance on information provided in good faith by the beneficiary regarding the nature and the amount of the default under the secured obligation, trust deed, or mortgage [Civ. Code § 2924(b)].

[2] Notice Procedure

[a] Posting

At least 20 days before the date set for the sale, a written notice must be posted in one public place in the city in which the property is to be sold. If it is not to be sold in a city, the notice must be posted in one public place in the judicial district in which the property is to be sold [Civ. Code § 2924f(b)(1)]. Public places typically used include the courthouse and city hall [see McCabe v. Willard (1931) 119 Cal. App. 122, 125, 6 P.2d 258] .

A copy of the notice also must be posted in some conspicuous place on the property to be sold, when posting is possible and not restricted for any reason. If the property is a single-family residence, the notice must be posted on the front door, but if that posting is not possible or restricted, then in some other conspicuous place on the property. If access is denied because a common entrance to the property is restricted by a guard gate or similar impediment, the notice may be posted at that guard gate or impediment [Civ. Code § 2924f(b)(1)].

If the property includes more than one parcel, posting separate notices on each parcel is necessary only to the extent that the parcels are not contiguous [see Peterson v. Corporation of America (1937) 21 Cal. App. 2d 527, 529-530, 69 P.2d 904] .

For discussion of proof of posting of a notice of sale, see § 555.145[2] and [3].

Effective September 6, 2008 [2008 Stats., ch. 69, § 10], with respect to residential foreclosures, on posting a notice of sale pursuant to Civ. Code § 2924f, a trustee or authorized agent must also post, in the manner required for posting the notice of sale on the property to be sold, a specified notice in English and the languages described in Civ. Code § 1632 [Civ. Code § 2924.8(a)]. For discussion of this provision and the text of the notice, see § 555.51A.

[b] Publishing

A copy of the notice must be published once a week for three consecutive calendar weeks, with the first publication occurring at least 20 days preceding the sale, in a newspaper of general circulation [see Gov. Code § 6000 et seq.; see also Ch. 386, Newspapers] published in one of the following areas, to be selected in this order according to the location of the property and the existence of a qualifying newspaper [Civ. Code § 2924f(b)(1), (c)(4)]:

- The city in which all or part of the property is located, if any part of the property is located in a city.

- The judicial district in which all or part of the property is located.
- The county in which all or part of the property is located.
- The contiguous county having the highest population.

Publication once weekly during the 20-day period is satisfied by three successive publications in a weekly newspaper, and need not be timed to span the entire period [Hotchkiss v. Darling (1933) 130 Cal. App. 625, 626-627, 20 P.2d 343 (lapse of 14 days between first and third publication)].

An affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) showing publication of a notice of default or sale can be executed by the newspaper that published the notice [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2010] and, when filed with the clerk of the county where the newspaper is printed, constitutes prima facie evidence of the facts stated in it [Code Civ. Proc. § 2011].

[c] Recording

At least 20 days before the date set for the sale, the notice of sale must be recorded with the county recorder of the county in which all or part of the property is located [Civ. Code § 2924f(b)(1)].

[3] Copies of Notice

At least 20 days before the date of sale, the trustee or other person authorized to record the notice of default (including an agent for the mortgagee or beneficiary, an agent of the named trustee, any person designated in an executed substitution of trustee, or an agent of that substituted trustee) must send, or cause to be sent, a copy of the notice of the time and place of sale, by registered or certified mail, with postage prepaid, addressed to (1) each person entitled to receive notice by reason of a duly recorded request [see Civ. Code § 2924b(a), (d)], at the address designated in the request [see § 555.52[2]], and (2) each trustor, at the last known address if it is different from the address specified in the trust deed [Civ. Code § 2924b(b)(2), (4)]. For discussion of "last known address," see § 555.52[3][a]. For discussion of proof of mailing the copies of the notice, see § 555.145[2], [3].

The person sending the copies of the notice of sale must also simultaneously send or cause to be sent, by regular first-class mail, with postage prepaid, an additional copy of the required notice, addressed to each trustor at the same address to which the notice is sent by registered or certified mail. The sender must execute and retain an affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) showing that this requirement was met. In the absence of fraud, the affidavit establishes a conclusive presumption of mailing [Civ. Code § 2924b(e)]. For a form of declaration of mailing and discussion of the contents, see § 555.145.

Additionally, at least 20 days before the date of sale, a copy of the notice of sale must be mailed in the same manner to each person entitled to receive a notice of default under Civ. Code § 2924b(c)(1), (2) [Civ. Code § 2924b(c)(3); see § 555.52[3][b]].

[4] Special Notice for State and Federal Tax Liens

[a] State Tax Liens

If a state tax lien for postponed property taxes is recorded as of the date of the recordation of the notice of default, a copy of the notice of sale must be mailed to the state controller at least 20 days before the date of sale, in the same manner as to other entitled persons [Gov. Code §§ 16182, 16187(b); Civ. Code § 2924b(c)(2)(F), (3); see §§ 555.52[3][b], 555.56[3]]. However, when the tax lien has been recorded after the recordation of the notice of default but more than 30 days before the date of sale, a copy of the notice of sale must be given to the state controller at least 25 days before the date of sale [Gov. Code § 16187(b)]. If notice is not given, the sale will not extinguish the tax lien [Gov. Code § 16187(b)].

A copy of the notice of sale also must be mailed, at least 20 days before the date of sale and in the same manner as to other entitled persons [see § 555.56[3]], to the office of any other state taxing agency in Sacramento that recorded a notice of tax lien before the recordation of notice of default [Civ. Code § 2924b(c)(3)].

[b] Federal Tax Liens

The mortgagee, trustee, or other person authorized to record the notice of default must provide a copy of the notice of sale to the Internal Revenue Service in accordance with I.R.C. § 7425 if a "Notice of Federal Tax Lien under Internal Revenue laws" has been recorded against the real property to which the notice of sale applies [Civ. Code § 2924b(c)(4)]. The failure to provide the Internal Revenue Service with a copy of the notice of sale is sufficient cause to rescind the trustee's sale and invalidate the trustee's deed, at the option of either the successful bidder at the trustee's sale or the trustee, and in either case with the consent of the beneficiary. Any option to rescind the trustee's sale must be exercised before any transfer of the property by the successful bidder to a bona fide purchaser for value. A recision of the trustee's sale may be recorded in a notice of recision pursuant to Civ. Code § 1058.5 [Civ. Code § 2924b(c)(4)].

If a federal tax lien on the property has been filed for recordation more than 30 days before the sale, notice of the sale must be given to the Internal Revenue Service at least 25 days before the date of sale [I.R.C. § 7425(c); see Treas. Reg. § 400.4-1 (regulations governing notice of nonjudicial sale to be given to IRS)]. If notice is not given as required, the sale will not extinguish the lien [I.R.C. § 7425(b); Puls v. United States (N.D. Cal. 1974) 387 F. Supp. 760, 762-763 ; see I.R.C. § 7425(d) (IRS is empowered to redeem property within 120 days from date of sale)].

[c] Impact of Tax Liens on Duration of Process

Because I.R.C. § 7425(c) and Gov. Code § 16187(b) necessitate a record search for possible tax liens filed 31 days or longer before the sale dateand may require a notice of sale to be given 25 days rather than 20 days in advance, they effectively lengthen the minimum 110-day period within which nonjudicial foreclosure may be completed under Civ. Code §§ 2924(a)(3) and 2924b.

§ 555.57 Conduct of Sale

[1] In General

[a] Trustee's Duty

A private sale of property under the power of sale of a trust deed must be made at auction to the highest bidder [Civ. Code § 2924g(a); see § 555.57[5]; see also Civ. Code § 2924f(c)(4)]. The trustee is empowered to conduct the sale but may delegate this task [see Civ. Code § 2924a (trustee's attorney or any duly authorized agent may be auctioneer); Central Sav. Bank of Oakland v. Lake (1927) 201 Cal. 438, 447, 257 P. 521 (trustee hired auctioneer under trust deed provision)]. The trustee has a duty to conduct the sale fairly and openly, with due diligence and sound discretion to protect the rights of the trustor and others and using all reasonable efforts to obtain the best possible or most reasonable price for the benefit of the trustor [Baron v. Colonial Mortgage Service Co. (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 316, 322-323, 168 Cal. Rptr. 450 ; Kleckner v. Bank of America (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d 30, 33, 217 P.2d 28] .

[b] Time and Place of Sale

The time of the sale must be between 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. on any business day, Monday through Friday [Civ. Code § 2924g(a)].

The sale must take place in the county in which all or part of the property is located [Civ. Code § 2924g(a)]. If the property is located in two or more counties, all of the property may be sold in any one of the counties in which it is located [Civ. Code § 2924g(b)].

In the case of a sale of a single-family owner-occupied residence that is security for a contract for services or goods subject to the Unruh Act [Civ. Code § 1801 et seq. (retail installment sale contracts)], the sale must be in the county in which the residence is located [Civ. Code § 2924f(c)(4)].

[2] Disclosure of Property Defects

A beneficiary with knowledge of a defect in the property has a duty to disclose the defect to potential purchasers, if only the beneficiary knows of the defect, and the beneficiary knows that the purchaser does not know and cannot reasonably discover the defect. Thus, a beneficiary was held liable for failure to disclose soil movement under a house that was known by the beneficiary, when the purchaser had no chance to inspect theproperty before the sale [Karoutas v. Homefed Bank (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 767, 770-774, 283 Cal. Rptr. 809] .

PRACTICE TIP:

Civ. Code § 2924h(g)* and *Karoutas. In 1992, Civ. Code § 2924h(g) was amended to allow "as-is" foreclosure sales. Although the provision likely was passed to abrogate Karoutas, there is still the likelihood that this statutory subdivision does not protect foreclosing persons from liability for selling property with known but undisclosed defects. The prudent course is to disclose known defects, because "as-is" clauses or statements generally do not protect against disclosure of known problems. By William M. Hensley

[3] Multiple Parcels

When the property comprises several lots or parcels, each one must be sold separately unless the trust deed provides otherwise [Civ. Code § 2924g(b)]. The trustor, if present at the sale, is entitled to direct the order in which the trustee separately sells the lots or parcels, unless the trust deed provides otherwise [Civ. Code § 2924g(b)]. Typically, standard trust deed forms do provide otherwise, giving the trustee discretion to sell the property either as a whole or in separate parcels in whatever order the trustee determines. After sufficient property is sold to satisfy the indebtedness, no more may be sold [Civ. Code § 2924g(b)].

If more than one parcel is scheduled to be sold separately at the same time and place by the same trustee, the postponement of any of the sales must be announced at the time specified in the notice of sale for the commencement of the sale. Any sales not postponed must commence immediately afterward, with each successive sale to take place as soon as possible after the completion of the preceding sale [Civ. Code § 2924g(a)].

A portion of the property may be sold separately if it is claimed by a third person who requires it to be sold separately [Civ. Code § 2924g(b)]. For example, in a judicial foreclosure proceeding, lessees of a portion of the mortgaged premises were entitled to require that the unleased portions be sold first at the judicial sale [Mack v. Shafer (1901) 135 Cal. 113, 67 P. 40 ; see Civ. Code § 2899 (security is to be exhausted, on demand, so that portion of property encumbered exclusively by senior lien is sold before portions that are also subject to junior interest)].

[4] Postponement of Sale

[a] When Authorized

The trustee is authorized to postpone the sale in accordance with any of the following [Civ. Code § 2924g(c)(1)]:

- On the order of any court of competent jurisdiction;

- If stayed by operation of law [see, e.g., California Livestock Production Credit Assn. v. Sutfin (1985) 165 Cal. App. 3d 136, 141, 211 Cal. Rptr. 152 (postponement during pendency of trustor's bankruptcy proceedings is required by operation of law)];

- By mutual agreement, whether oral or in writing, of any trustor and any beneficiary or any mortgagor and any mortgagee; or

- At the trustee's discretion [see, e.g., Pacific Ready-Cut Homes v. Title G. & T. Co. (1929) 103 Cal. App. 1, 5-6, 283 P. 963 (highest amount bid did not constitute fair price)].

Sale proceedings may be postponed, including a postponement on instruction by the beneficiary to the trustee that the sale proceedings be postponed, at any time before the sale's completion, for any period of time not to exceed a total of 365 days from the date set forth in the notice of sale [Civ. Code § 2924g(c)(1)].

As a general rule, the trustee must proceed with the sale with reasonable dispatch, and it is not an abuse of discretion to refuse to hold up the sale at the request of a bidder. However, it has been suggested that the trustee's discretion is abused in refusing briefly to postpone the sale to allow a junior lienholder to obtain funds for a qualified bid, at least when there is no higher bid already qualified [see Hill v. Gibraltar Sav. & Loan Assn. (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 241, 62 Cal. Rptr. 188 ; Kleckner v. Bank of America (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d 30, 33-34, 217 P.2d 28] .

In the case of a sale of a single-family owner-occupied residence that is security for a contract for services or goods subject to the Unruh Credit Sales Act [Civ. Code § 1801 et seq.], the trustee may receive offers during the 10-day period immediately before the date of sale, and the sale must be postponed to a specified date if any offer so received is accepted in writing by both the trustor and beneficiary. Before the rescheduled date of sale, the trustor may convey the property according to the terms of the accepted offer, and this effectively terminates any further proceedings [Civ. Code § 2924f(c)(4)].

[b] New Notice of Sale and New Fees

In the event that the sale proceedings are postponed for a period or periods totaling more than 365 days, the scheduling of any further sale proceedings must be preceded by giving a new notice of sale in the manner prescribed in Civ. Code § 2924f . New fees incurred for the new notice of sale must not exceed the amounts specified in Civ. Code §§ 2924c and 2924d and must not exceed reasonable costs that are necessary to comply with these requirements [Civ. Code § 2924g(c)(2)].

[c] Notice By Public Declaration; Seven-Day Holding Period; Sale

The trustee must give notice of each postponement, together with the reason for it, by public declaration at the time and place last appointedfor the sale [Civ. Code § 2924g(d); see Civ. Code § 2924g(a)]. The declaration must also set forth the new date, time, and place of sale (which must be the same place as that originally fixed by the trustee). No other notice of the postponement need be given [Civ. Code § 2924g(d); see United States Cold Storage v. Great Western Savings & Loan Assn. (1985) 165 Cal. App. 3d 1214, 1228-1230, 212 Cal. Rptr. 232] .

The sale may be conducted no sooner than the seventh day after dismissal of any action or, if earlier, expiration or termination of any injunction, restraining order, or stay that required postponement of the sale (whether by entry of an order by a court of competent jurisdiction, operation of law, or otherwise), unless the injunction, restraining order, or subsequent order expressly directs the conducting of the sale within that seven-day period. The seven-day period does not include the day the action is dismissed or the injunction, restraining order, or stay expires or is terminated. If the sale had been scheduled to occur during that seven-day period but could not be held as scheduled because of this seven-day requirement, a new notice of postponement must be given. The trustee is required to keep a record of the reason for each postponement [Civ. Code § 2924g(d)]. Notwithstanding these time periods, if postponement of a sale is based on a stay granted under the bankruptcy provisions of Title 11 of the United States Code, the sale may be conducted no sooner than the expiration of the stay granted under the Bankruptcy Code and the seven-day provision of Civ. Code § 2924g(d) does not apply [Civ. Code § 2924g(e)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Ask For Waiver of Holding Period in Section 2924g(d). When representing a foreclosing lender or seller in a proceeding to dissolve a foreclosure injunction or to lift the bankruptcy automatic stay, counsel should make sure to expressly request, in the moving papers, that the court waive the seven-day holding period of Civ. Code § 2924g(d) so the foreclosure can take place forthwith. It is this practitioner's experience that courts will not truncate this holding period unless the request is made in the moving papers. By William M. Hensley

[5] Bidding Requirements

[a] Irrevocable Offer; Cancellation

Each bid made at the sale is deemed to be an irrevocable offer by the bidder to purchase the property for the amount of the bid. A bid is effectively canceled by a subsequent bid by any bidder for a higher amount [Civ. Code § 2924h(a)]. A postponement or discontinuance of the sale [see § 555.57[4]] cancels the last bid [Civ. Code § 2924h(e)]. The completion of the sale is to be announced by the fall of the hammer or in another customary manner [Civ. Code § 2924h(b)].

[b] Requirement for Cash or Financial Institution's Check

[i] Acceptable Forms

Standard trust deeds typically provide that the property must be sold for cash in U.S. currency, payable at the time of sale. The trustee may, before recognizing any bid, and as a condition of doing so, require every bidder to show evidence of ability to deposit the full amount of the final bid in one of the following forms [Civ. Code § 2924h(b)]:

- Cash.

- A cashier's check drawn on a state or national bank [see Baron v. Colonial Mortgage Service Co. (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 316, 320-321, 323, 324, 168 Cal. Rptr. 450 (trustee was liable for abuse of discretion in refusing to accept cashier's check made out to bidder as cash equivalent)].

- A check drawn by a state or federal credit union.

- A check drawn by a state or federal savings and loan association, savings association, or savings bank specified in Fin. Code § 5102 and authorized to do business in California.

- A cash equivalent designated in the notice of sale as acceptable [see California Golf v. Cooper (2008) 163 Cal. App. 4th 1053, 1068-1069, 78 Cal. Rptr. 3d 153 (legislature used words "cash equivalent" as a term of art in section 2924h to refer to something different from "cash," "cashier's check," or "check drawn by a [bank]")].

The trustee is entitled to hold the bidders' cash or cash equivalent during the sale. If the last bidder has not previously deposited the full amount of the bid, the trustee may require this amount to be deposited immediately, before completing the sale [Civ. Code § 2924h(b)].

[ii] Special Handling Requirements; Finality of Sale

In the event that the trustee accepts a check drawn by a credit union or a savings and loan association or a cash equivalent designated in the notice of sale, the trustee may withhold the trustee's deed until funds become available to the payee or endorsee as a matter of right [Civ. Code § 2924h(c)].

For purposes of Civ. Code § 2924h(c), the trustee's sale will be deemed final on the acceptance of the last and highest bid, and will be deemed perfected as of 8:00 a.m. on the actual date of sale if the trustee's deed is recorded within 15 calendar days of the sale, or the next business day following the fifteenth day if the recorder's office is closed on the fifteenth day. However, the sale will be subject to an automatic rescission for a failure of consideration if the funds are not "available for withdrawal" as defined in Ins. Code § 12413.1 [Civ. Code § 2924h(c); see Ins. Code § 12413.1(e) (when draft has been submitted for collection, "available for withdrawal" means when draft has been submitted for collection and payment has been received); Ins. Code § 12413.1(g) (incorporating by reference definition set forth in 12 C.F.R. § 229.2(d) as that regulation existed on January 1, 1990)]. The trustee must send a notice of rescission for a failure of consideration to the last and highest bidder submitting the check or alternative instrument, if the address of the last and highest bidder is known by the trustee. If a sale results in an automatic right of rescission for a failure of consideration under Civ. Code § 2924h(c), the interest of any lienholder is reinstated in the same priority as if the previous sale had not occurred [Civ. Code § 2924h(c)].

[c] Beneficiary's Full-Credit Bid

An exception to the general requirement of cash bids is made for the present beneficiary of the trust deed being foreclosed, who may bid on credit to the extent of the outstanding secured debt, including the trustee's fees and expenses [Civ. Code § 2924h(b); see Central Sav. Bank of Oakland v. Lake (1927) 201 Cal. 438, 447-448, 257 P. 521 (consideration given by beneficiary is discharge of debt)].

The trustee need not accept a partial-credit bid by a junior beneficiary [see Nomellini Constr. Co. v. Modesto S. & L. Assn. (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 114, 115, 79 Cal. Rptr. 717] .

[d] High Bidder's Duty to Complete Sale

If the trustee has not, pursuant to Civ. Code § 2924h(b), required the last and highest bidder to deposit the amount of the bid in cash or a cash equivalent, the trustee must complete the sale. If the successful bidder thereafter fails to deliver, on demand, the amount of the bid in cash or a cash equivalent, the bidder is liable to the trustee for all damages sustained as a result, including any court costs and reasonable attorney's fees. If the last and highest bidder willfully fails to deliver the amount of the bid, or delivers a check or other instrument as a cash equivalent but later cancels that instrument, the bidder is also guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine up to $2,500 [Civ. Code § 2924h(d)].

In the event that the last and highest bidder cancels an instrument submitted to the trustee as a cash equivalent, the trustee must provide a new notice of sale in the manner set forth in Civ. Code § 2924f and is entitled to recover the costs of the new notice of sale as provided in Civ. Code § 2924c [Civ. Code § 2924h(d)]. For discussion of a notice of sale under Civ. Code § 2924f, see §§ 555.56 and 555.144. For discussion of the expenses that a trustee may recover under Civ. Code § 2924c as a condition to reinstatement, see § 555.54.

The civil remedies provided by Civ. Code § 2924h are not exclusive. Thus, section 2924h did not bar an action for breach of warranty and fraud by the foreclosing beneficiary against bidders at a nonjudicial foreclosure sale who stopped payments on cashiers' checks and falsely stated that the checks had been lost and never endorsed [California Golf v. Cooper (2008) 163 Cal. App. 4th 1053, 1068-1069, 78 Cal. Rptr. 3d 153]. Furthermore, the criminal remedies in section 2924h are not exclusive. The existence of a potential misdemeanor penalty, as provided for in section 2924h(d), would not foreclose prosecution for felony perjury simply because the defendant's allegedly perjurious conduct happened to also constitute the cancellation of a declined cashier's check in a nonjudicial foreclosure sale. Similarly, it did not prohibit a foreclosing beneficiary from pursuing remedies in tort for the bidders' fraudulent conduct in canceling cashiers' checks, simply because that conduct happened to occur in the course of a nonjudicial foreclosure sale [California Golf v. Cooper (2008) 163 Cal. App. 4th 1053, 1072-1073, 78 Cal. Rptr. 3d 153].

If the last and highest bidder cancels an instrument submitted to the trustee as a cash equivalent, the trustee must provide a new notice of sale and is entitled to recover the costs of the new notice of sale [Civ. Code § 2924h(d); see California Golf v. Cooper (2008) 163 Cal. App. 4th 1053, 1068-1069, 78 Cal. Rptr. 3d 153 (legislature plainly used words "cash equivalent" as a term of art in Civ. Code § 2924h to refer to something different from "cash," "cashier's check," or "check drawn by a [bank]"; thus, trial court erred in holding this provision was only remedy available where bidders canceled cashier's checks submitted to trustee as payment)].

[e] Proscription of Collusive Bidding

Collusive bidding at the sale is prohibited. Anyone who, acting alone or with others, offers or accepts consideration of any type to fix or restrain bidding that would in any manner operate as a fraud or deceit on any beneficiary, trustor, or junior lienholder, may be punished by a fine up to $10,000 or imprisonment up to one year or both. However, this does not make it unlawful for any person, including the trustee, to state that a property subject to a recorded notice of default or subject to a sale is being sold in an "as is" condition [Civ. Code § 2924h(g)].

Any person other than the trustor whose rights as a bidder are not prejudiced, cannot complain of alleged collusive bidding; thus, a junior beneficiary who made no attempt to bid could not have the sale set aside on that ground [Bertschman v. Covell (1928) 205 Cal. 707, 709-710, 272 P. 571] .

Gross inadequacy of price coupled with even slight irregularity is enough to set aside the sale. The trustee's failure to tell a bidder that the bid must be a specific amount more than the prior bid has been held to be a sufficient irregularity to set aside the sale [Bank of Seoul & Trust Co. v. Marcione (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 113, 118-120, 244 Cal. Rptr. 1] .

[6] Completion of Sale

[a] When Sale is Complete

To complete the sale, the trustee may accept a final bid that is below the value of property. Mere inadequacy of price is not, by itself, a ground for setting aside an otherwise properly conducted sale [Engelbertson v. Loan & Bldg. Asso. (1936) 6 Cal. 2d 477, 479, 58 P.2d 647 ; Crofoot v. Tarman (1957) 147 Cal. App. 2d 443, 446-447, 305 P.2d 56 ; but see Pac. Ready-Cut Homes v. Title G. & T. Co. (1929) 103 Cal. App. 1, 5-6, 283 P. 963 (trustee was able to postpone sale because final bid was too low)]. If the trustee accepts a check drawn by a credit union or a savings and loan association, or a cash equivalent designated in the notice of sale, special requirements determine when the sale will be deemed completed. Further, the sale will be subject to an automatic rescission if the funds are not "available for withdrawal" [see Civ. Code § 2924h(c); see also § 555.57[5][b]].

The sale is complete the moment the trustee accepts the high bid, regardless of whether a trustee's deed is subsequently executed and delivered. The subsequent execution and delivery of the deed are merely ministerial acts [Ballengee v. Sadlier (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 1, 4-5, 224 Cal. Rptr. 301 (holding limited to facts in Little v. CFS Service Corp. (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 1354, 1362, 233 Cal. Rptr. 923)].

[b] Form and Delivery of Deed

The successful bidder is not entitled to receive a deed from the auctioneer at the time of tendering payment of the amount bid. Usually the auctioneer gives the purchaser a receipt for the amount received, and the deed is afterward executed and delivered by the trustee in a day or two [see Kleckner v. Bank of America (1950) 97 Cal. App. 2d 30, 34, 217 P.2d 28] . The deed is usually without warrant, as the trustee has no duty to guaranty the title [Tomczak v. Ortega (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d 902, 907, 50 Cal. Rptr. 20] and in fact must sell it, on proper demand, even if defective [Brown v. Busch (1957) 152 Cal. App. 2d 200, 204, 313 P.2d 19] . For a form of trustee's deed and discussion of the contents, see § 555.146. For further discussion of the title conveyed by a trustee's deed, see § 555.62.

[7] Notice of Rescission

When a trustee's deed is invalidated by a pending bankruptcy or otherwise, recordation of a notice of rescission of the trustee's deed restores the condition of record title and the priority of all liens to the status before the recordation of the trustee's deed. The notice of rescission must properly identify the trust deed, the identification numbers used by the recorder or the books and pages at which the trustee's deed and the trust deed are recorded, the names of all trustors and beneficiaries, the location of the property subject to the trust deed, and the reason for rescission. Only the trustee or beneficiary who caused the trustee's deed to be recorded, or a successor in interest, may record a notice of rescission [Civ. Code § 1058.5(b)].

§ 555.58 Expenses of Sale

On sale of the property, the trustee or an agent or successor in interest may demand and receive from the beneficiary or an agent or successor in interest, or may deduct from the proceeds of the sale, the reasonable costs actually incurred in enforcing the terms of the obligation, to the extent allowed under Civ. Code § 2924c(c) [Civ. Code § 2924d(b)]. For discussion of costs allowable under Civ. Code § 2924c(c), see § 555.54[2]. The trustee also may recover, in the same manner, trustee's or attorney's fees not exceeding $425 or, if greater, 1 percent of the unpaid principal sum secured, determined as of the date the notice of default was recorded. Any charge for fees within this limit is conclusively presumed to be lawful and valid, but is recoverable only in lieu of, not in addition to, fees chargeable under Civ. Code § 2924c(d) or Civ. Code § 2924d(a) [Civ. Code § 2924d(b)]. For discussion of fees allowable under those code sections, see § 555.54[2].

A trustee may pay or offer to pay an agent or subagent for work performed in discharging the trustee's obligations under the terms of the trust deed. The payments are deemed to be conclusively lawful and valid if, when added to the trustee's other fees, the aggregate sum does not exceed the trustee's authorized fee [Civ. Code § 2924d(d)].

The beneficiary may, in addition, add to the outstanding indebtedness any reasonable attorney's fees incurred in successfully defending an action brought by the trustor to enjoin the sale, pursuant to the standard trust deed provisions for recovery of attorney's fees. The beneficiary may add these fees even after failing to request a court award of attorney's fees under Civ. Code § 1717 [De La Cuesta v. Superior Court (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 945, 948-950, 200 Cal. Rptr. 1] .

§ 555.59 Application of Proceeds

The trustee or the clerk of the superior court on order of the court must distribute the proceeds of the trustee's sale in the following order [Civ. Code § 2924k(a)]:

- Reimbursement of costs and expenses of exercising the power of sale and conducting the sale, including the payment of the trustee's fees and attorney's fees permitted pursuant to Civ. Code §§ 2924d(b) and 2924k(b).

- Payment of the obligations secured by the trust deed or mortgage.

- Payment of obligations secured by any junior liens or encumbrances in the order of their priority.

- Disbursement of any balance to the trustor or a successor in interest or, in the event the property was sold or transferred to another, to the vested owner of record at the time of the sale.

§ 555.60 Notice of Sale Proceeds

[1] General Requirements

Unless an interpleader action has been filed [see § 555.60[2][e]], within 30 days after the execution of the trustee's deed resulting from a sale in which there are proceeds remaining after payment of the costs of sale and the secured obligation, the trustee must send written notice to all persons with recorded interests in the property as of the date immediately before the trustee's sale and entitled to notice of sale pursuant to Civ. Code § 2924b(b) and (c) [see § 555.52[2]]. The notice must be sent by first-class mail in the manner set forth in Civ. Code § 2924b(c)(1) [see § 555.52[3][a]]. It must state the following [Civ. Code § 2924j(a)]:

- There has been a trustee's sale of the described real property.

- The notified person may have a claim to all or a portion of the sale proceeds remaining after payment of the expenses of sale and the amounts owing on the obligation primarily secured.

- The notified person may contact the trustee at the address provided in the notice to pursue any potential claim.

- Before the trustee can act, the notified person may be required to present proof that the person holds the beneficial interest in the obligation and the security interest for the obligation. In the case of a promissory note secured by a trust deed, proof that the person holds the beneficial interest may include the original promissory note and assignment of beneficial interests related to the note. The notified person must also submit a written claim to the trustee, executed under penalty of perjury, stating the amount of the claim to the date of the trustee's sale and containing an itemized statement of the principal, interest, and other charges.

- Claims must be received by the trustee at the address stated in the notice no later than 30 days after the date the trustee sends the notice.

Nothing in Civ. Code § 2924j precludes a person from pursuing other remedies or claims as to surplus proceeds [Civ. Code § 2924j(b)].

[2] Priority of Claims; Conflicting Claims

[a] Duty and Failure to Investigate; Payment in Absence of Dispute; Unclaimed Property Law

The trustee must exercise due diligence to determine the priority of the written claims to the surplus proceeds [Civ. Code § 2924j(b)]. For these purposes, "due diligence" means the trustee has researched the written claims submitted or other evidence of conflicts and determined that a conflict of priorities exists between two or more claimants, which the trustee is unable to resolve [see Civ. Code § 2924j(c), (f)].

If there is no dispute as to the priority of the written claims submitted to the trustee, the trustee must pay the proceeds within 30 days after the conclusion of the notice period [Civ. Code § 2924j(b); see § 555.60[1] (notice period)]. If the trustee fails to determine the priority of written claims within 90 days following the 30-day notice period, then within 10 days thereafter the trustee must deposit the funds with the clerk of the court pursuant to Civ. Code § 2924j(c) [see § 555.60[2][b]] or file an interpleader action pursuant to Civ. Code § 2924j(e) [Civ.Code § 2924j(b); see § 555.60[2][e]].

In a case in which a trustee conducted a nonjudicial foreclosure sale that resulted in excess sale proceeds, the trustee did not have a duty to search for, verify, prioritize, and distribute the surplus funds to a junior lien holder who had recorded a judgment lien against the property owner but had not recorded a request to receive notice of default and sale. The comprehensive statutory scheme regarding nonjudicial foreclosures clearly delineates the limited role and duties of a trustee in a nonjudicial foreclosure sale, and those duties do not include the responsibility for searching and finding all possible judgment creditors [Banc of America Leasing & Capital LLC v. 3 Arch Trustee Services Inc. (2009) 180 Cal. App. 4th 1090, 1104-1105, 103 Cal. Rptr. 3d 397] .

To the extent required by the Unclaimed Property Law [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1500 et seq.], a trustee in possession of surplus proceeds not required to be deposited with the court pursuant to Civ. Code § 2924j(b) must comply with the Unclaimed Property Law [Civ. Code § 2924j(g)]. For coverage of the Law, see Ch. 252, Escheat (Unclaimed Property).

[b] Deposit With Court for Unresolved Claims

If, after due diligence [see § 555.60[2][a]], the trustee is unable to determine the priority of the written claims to the surplus, or the trustee determines that there is a conflict between potential claimants, the trustee may file a declaration of the unresolved claims with the clerk of the superior court of the county where the sale occurred [Civ. Code § 2924j(c)]. For the Judicial Coucil form that must be used to accomplish this filing, and related discussion concerning completing and filing the form, see § 555.148. At the same time, the trustee must deposit the portion of the sale proceeds that cannot be distributed. The declaration must set forth the date of the trustee's sale, a description of the property, the names and addresses of all persons to whom notice was sent, a statement that the trustee exercised due diligence and provided written notice as required, and the amount of the sale proceeds deposited. The trustee must also submit a copy of the trustee's sale guaranty and any information relevant to the identity, location, and priority of the potential claimants and file proof of service of the required notice [Civ. Code § 2924j(c)].

On deposit of that portion of the sale proceeds that cannot be distributed by due diligence, the trustee is discharged of further responsibility for the distribution of the sale proceeds [Civ. Code § 2924j(c)].

[c] Notice of Deposit

Before the trustee deposits the funds discussed in § 555.60[2][b] with the clerk, the trustee must send written notice by first-class mail, postage prepaid, to all persons entitled to notice of conflicting claims [see § 555.60[1]]. The notice must state that the trustee intends to deposit the funds with the clerk and that claimants must file claims with the court within 30 days from the date of the notice. The notice must also provide the address of the court where the funds were deposited and a phone number to call for further information [Civ. Code § 2924j(d)].

[d] Court Determination

Within 90 days after deposit with the clerk, the court must consider all claims filed. At least 15 days before the scheduled hearing date, the court clerk must serve written notice of the hearing by first-class mail on all claimants identified in the trustee's declaration, at the addresses specified in the declaration. After the hearing, the court must distribute the deposited funds to all entitled claimants in the priority stated in § 555.59 [Civ. Code § 2924j(d)].

[e] Interpleader Not Restricted

The special requirements relating to conflicting claims do not restrict the trustee's right to file an interpleader action in order to resolve a dispute about the proceeds of a trustee's sale. After an interpleader action has been filed, the notice provisions of Civ. Code § 2924j do not apply [Civ. Code § 2924j(e)]. For discussion of interpleader actions, see Ch. 314, Interpleader .

[3] Costs of Distribution

The trustee may charge costs and expenses incurred in distributing the proceeds, including but not limited to costs incurred in investigating the priority and validity of claims and the distribution of funds. If the fee does not exceed $100, or $125 when there are obligations secured by junior liens or encumbrances [see Civ. Code § 2924k(a)(3)], the fee is conclusively presumed to be reasonable [Civ. Code § 2924k(b)].

§ 555.61 Effect of Sale

On sale of the property, the trust deed ceases to exist [Streiff v. Darlington (1937) 9 Cal. 2d 42, 45, 68 P.2d 728 ; see Civ. Code § 2910; Cornelison v. Kornbluth (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 590, 606, 125 Cal. Rptr. 557, 542 P.2d 981] . A full-credit bid by a junior lienholder extinguishes any right to obtain insurance proceeds or to pursue any other remedy based on diminution of the value of the property [Bank of America v. Quackenbush (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 1167, 1171, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 81 ; Caruso v. Great Western Savings (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 667, 673-674, 280 Cal. Rptr. 322] .

When the property is sold for less than the outstanding debt, the beneficiary is barred from seeking a deficiency judgment in almost all cases [Code Civ. Proc. § 580d]. The beneficiary may, however, recover amounts that do not constitute a deficiency judgment, such as damages for bad faith waste [see Cornelison v. Kornbluth (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 590, 604-605, 125 Cal. Rptr. 557, 542 P.2d 981 ; see also United Sav. & Loan Assn. v. Hoffman (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 306, 312-314, 106 Cal. Rptr. 275 (beneficiary often makes less-than-full-credit bid in order to recover, from other sources, amounts not constituting deficiency judgment, such as recovery of rents and profits)]. For discussion of limitations on the recovery of deficiency judgments after a private sale, see § 555.32[2]. For discussion of recovery of rents and profits or damages for waste, see §§ 555.80 et seq. and 555.90.

In the event that the property is sold for at least the outstanding debt, the beneficiary cannot subsequently recover from any other source, such as insurance proceeds payable for damage to the property, net rents and profits, or damages for waste [Cornelison v. Kornbluth 24 (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 590, 606-607, 125 Cal. Rptr. 557, 542 P.2d 981] .

When a lender who is named as a loss payee on the debtor's insurance policy forecloses on the property and thereafter prevails in an action for breach of contract and bad faith against the insurance company, the lender's contract damages are limited under the full credit bid rule to the difference between the amount secured by the deed of trust and the amount of the lender's credit bid at the foreclosure sale [Track Mortgage Group, Inc. v. Crusader Ins. Co. (2002) 98 Cal. App. 4th 857, 865, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 228] . The lender's tort damages are also limited by the credit bid rule absent a showing that the insurer's conduct caused the lender to make the credit bid [Track Mortgage Group, Inc. v. Crusader Ins. Co. (2002) 98 Cal. App. 4th 857, 866, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 228 ; see Alliance Mortgage Co. v. Rothwell (1995) 10 Cal. 4th 1226, 44 Cal. Rptr. 2d 352, 900 P.2d 601 ; see also § 555.32[b]]. The lender is entitled, however, to other consequential tort damages such as interest and attorney's fees [Track Mortgage Group, Inc. v. Crusader Ins. Co. (2002) 98 Cal. App. 4th 857, 861, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 228] .

§ 555.62 Purchaser's Title and Rights

[1] Title

The purchaser acquires title on receipt of the trustee's deed [Central Sav. Bank of Oakland v. Lake (1927) 201 Cal. 438, 448, 257 P. 521] . The title dates back to the date the trust deed was executed and is free and clear of all subsequent or subordinate encumbrances and interests [Hohn v. Riverside County Flood Control etc. Dist. (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 605, 612-613, 39 Cal. Rptr. 647 ; Dugand v. Magnus (1930) 107 Cal. App. 243, 247 ; but see Call v. Thunderbird Mortgage Co. (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 542, 548-549, 25 Cal. Rptr. 265, 375 P.2d 169 (subordinate liens were not extinguished when purchaser was trustor or successor)]. It is also free and clear of the interest of the trustor or a successor, which is foreclosed by the sale [see Hohn v. Riverside County Flood Control etc. Dist. (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 605, 612-613, 39 Cal. Rptr. 647] . The purchaser's title remains subject to all prior or superior encumbrances and interests [Streiff v. Darlington (1937) 9 Cal. 2d 42, 45, 68 P.2d 728] .

[2] No Redemption Rights; Exception for IRS

The purchaser's title is generally not conditional on any rights of redemption, as these are terminated by the sale [Py v. Pleitner (1945) 70 Cal. App. 2d 576, 578-579, 161 P.2d 393 ; see § 555.72]. Redemption rights are cut off when the sale is completed, not the time the trustee's deed is executed and delivered [Stockwell v. Barnum (1908) 7 Cal. App. 413, 418-419, 94 P. 400] . However, when a subordinate federal tax lien has been filed against the property more than 30 days before the recordation date of the notice of default, the Internal Revenue Service has a right to redeem the property during a period of 120 days following the sale [I.R.C. § 7425(d)]. The method of this redemption is governed by federal law [see 28 U.S.C. § 2410(d); Treas. Reg. § 400.5-1; Bank of Hemet v. United States (9th Cir. 1981) 643 F.2d 661, 666-667] .

[3] Right of Immediate Possession

The purchaser, on acquisition of title, has the right of immediate possession and all other incidents of legal ownership [Farris v. Pacific States Aux. Corp. (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 103, 105, 48 P.2d 11 ; Central Sav. Bank of Oakland v. Lake (1927) 201 Cal. 438, 448, 257 P. 521] . If the trustor or another person remains in possession, the purchaser may bring an unlawful detainer action to recover possession, and need only prove acquisition of title at the sale [Abrahamer v. Parks (1956) 141 Cal. App. 2d 82, 84, 296 P.2d 341 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1161a(b)(3); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 564(b)(7) (receiver may be appointed to take possession in action for unlawful detainer)]. The only feasible defense would be that the sale was not conducted in compliance with the requirements of Civ. Code § 2920 et seq. and the terms of the trust deed [Cheney v. Trauzettel (1937) 9 Cal. 2d 158, 159-160, 69 P.2d 832 ; MCA, Inc. v. Universal Diversified Enterprises Corp. (1972) 27 Cal. App. 3d 170, 176-177, 103 Cal. Rptr. 522] . However, even this defense may be precluded by a recital in the trustee's deed of compliance with all statutory requirements [see Civ. Code § 2924(c); Abrahamer v. Parks (1956) 141 Cal. App. 2d 82, 84, 296 P.2d 341] . For further discussion of the effect of such a recital, see § 555.63[2][d].

If the issue of the regularity of the sale is litigated in an unlawful detainer action, the doctrine of res judicata may prevent its relitigation in a subsequent action to set aside the sale [Vella v. Hudgins (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 251, 255-256, 142 Cal. Rptr. 414, 572 P.2d 28] . For further discussion and forms relating to unlawful detainer actions by the purchaser at a nonjudicial foreclosure sale, see Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions .

[4] Acquisition and Subsequent Sale by Mortgagee or Trust Deed Beneficiary

If the mortgagee or trust deed beneficiary becomes the purchaser at the foreclosure sale and then sells the property, the provisions of Civ. Code § 1103.20 et seq. (the Buyer's Choice Act) may apply. Until January 1, 2015 [Civ. Code § 1103.23], no mortgagee or trust deed beneficiary (or any trustee, agent, officer, or other employee, of a mortgagee or beneficiary) that acquired title to residential real property improved by four or fewer dwelling units at a foreclosure sale may require, directly or indirectly, as a condition of selling the property, that title insurance covering the property, or escrow service provided in connection with the sale of the property, must be obtained by the purchaser from a particular title insurer or escrow agent [Civ. Code § 1103.22(a), (b)(2); see Civ. Code § 1103.22(b)(1), (3) ("escrow service" and "title insurance" defined)]. However, the purchaser may agree to accept the services of a title insurer or an escrow agent recommended by the seller if the seller first gives the purchaser written notice of the right to make an independent selection of those services [Civ. Code § 1103.22(a)].

Civ. Code § 1103.22 applies regardless of whether the secondary sale ensues from a solicitation of purchasers or from acceptance of an unsolicited offer to purchase [see Civ. Code § 1103.21(b)].

A sale subject to Civ. Code § 1103.22 cannot be invalidated solely because of the failure of any person to comply with any provision of Civ. Code § 1103.20 et seq. [Civ. Code § 1103.22(d)]. However, a violation of Civ. Code § 1103.22 is a cause of action, and the purchaser may recover statutory damages equal to three times all of the charges made for the required title insurance or escrow services. A violation also is a ground for disciplinary action by a licensing agency, if the culpable mortgagee or beneficiary (or a culpable trustee, agent, officer, or other employee, of the mortgagee or beneficiary) is a state-licensed person [Civ. Code § 1103.22(c)].

§ 555.63 Challenging Private Sale

[1] Action to Enjoin Pending Sale

Before completion of a private sale, the trustor or any other person who disputes the propriety of the sale may bring an action to enjoin the exercise of the power of sale. For example, a trustor may be able to enjoin a sale after offering to cure the default, when the beneficiary and trustee did not give proper notice of the default until after the lapse of the reinstatement period [see Lupertino v. Carbahal (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 742, 744-750, 111 Cal. Rptr. 112] . For further discussion of reinstatement, see § 555.54. Similarly, a trustor may obtain declaratory relief and an injunction on the ground that there is no actual default justifying a sale [see Baypoint Mortgage Corp. v. Crest Premium Real Estate etc. Trust (1985) 168 Cal. App. 3d 818, 825-830, 214 Cal. Rptr. 531 (trustor, in action to enjoin private sale, was held likely to prevail on merits when default was merely payment made several days after due date but before date after which late payment charge was to be imposed); Bisno v. Sax (1959) 175 Cal. App. 2d 714, 718, 720-730, 346 P.2d 814] or that the secured transaction is itself invalid [Daniels v. Williams (1954) 125 Cal. App. 2d 310, 312-313, 270 P.2d 556] . An action for declaratory relief and an injunction is also appropriate to resolve a dispute as to the amount of the default [More v. Calkins (1890) 85 Cal. 177, 188-190, 24 P. 729] . For a form of complaint for declaratory and injunctive relief to block a nonjudicial foreclosure sale, see § 555.147.

If there is no dispute as to the default and the amount due, the trustor must do equity, namely, offer to cure the default, in order to obtain injunctive relief [Meetz v. Mohr (1904) 141 Cal. 667, 672-673, 75 P. 298] . However, such an offer is not required when the trustor is seeking preliminary injunctive relief in an action to rescind the secured transaction for fraud [Stockton v. Newman (1957) 148 Cal. App. 2d 558, 563-564, 307 P.2d 56 ; see U.S. Hertz v. Niobrara Farms (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 68, 75-82, 116 Cal. Rptr. 44 ; but see Kemple v. Security First Nat. Bank (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 719, 720-721, 57 Cal. Rptr. 838 (federal law prohibits injunction of private sale against national bank until final judgment)].

For further discussion and forms relating to the availability of declaratory and injunctive relief generally, see Ch. 182, Declaratory Relief , and Ch. 303, Injunctions .

[2] Action to Set Aside Sale

[a] Equitable Action

A completed private sale under a trust deed may, in proper circumstances, be attacked by an action to set aside the sale, in which the court will review the proceedings with care to see that the trustor's rights were not violated [Stirton v. Pastor (1960) 177 Cal. App. 2d 232, 234, 2 Cal. Rptr. 135 ; Py v. Pleitner (1945) 70 Cal. App. 2d 576, 579, 161 P.2d 393] . Because it is an equitable action, there is ordinarily no right to a jury trial [Raedeke v. Gibraltar Sav. & Loan Asso. (1974) 10 Cal. 3d 665, 671, 111 Cal. Rptr. 693, 517 P.2d 1157] , and the action may be subject to the defense of laches [see Hauger v. Gates (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 752, 756, 269 P.2d 609] .

[b] Grounds

Whether the circumstances constitute grounds for setting aside a private sale is essentially a question of fact [Py v. Pleitner (1945) 70 Cal. App. 2d 576, 579, 161 P.2d 393] . Whatever the ground, it must have caused injury to the plaintiff [see, e.g., California Trust Co. v. Smead Inv. Co. (1935) 6 Cal. App. 2d 432, 435, 44 P.2d 624 (trustor was not injured by beneficiary's failure to comply with terms of trust deed by giving trustee note and trust deed when delivering declaration of default); see also Copsey v. Sacramento Bank (1901) 133 Cal. 659, 662, 66 P. 7] . Grounds have included the following:

- The trust deed was invalid [see, e.g., Stirton v. Pastor (1960) 177 Cal. App. 2d 232, 234, 2 Cal. Rptr. 135 (ineffective delivery of trust deed); see also Saterstrom v. Glick Bros. Sash etc. Co. (1931) 118 Cal. App. 379, 380-383, 5 P.2d 21 (trust deed was void because of insufficient description of property)].

- There was no actual default [see, e.g., Hauger v. Gates (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 752, 754-755, 269 P.2d 609 (no default because of setoff under former Code Civ. Proc. § 440); Lopez v. Bell (1962) 207 Cal. App. 2d 394, 398-399, 24 Cal. Rptr. 626 (waiver of right to declare default)].

- There was fraud, unfairness, or failure to comply with the trust deed provisions or statutory requirements [see, e.g., Garcia v. World Savings, FSB (2010) 183 Cal. App. 4th 1031, 1046, 107 Cal. Rptr. 3d 683 (sufficient evidence of detrimental reliance by borrowers on promise by lender to delay foreclosure to support claim of promissory estoppel); Whitman v. Transtate Title Co. (1985) 165 Cal. App. 3d 312, 322-323, 211 Cal. Rptr. 582 (failure to comply with mandatory postponement requirement); Standley v. Knapp (1931) 113 Cal. App. 91, 97-102, 298 P. 109 (failure to properly post notice of sale)].

- A gross disparity between the purchase price and the value of the property was coupled with some (even slight) unfairness or irregularity [see, e.g., Angell v. Superior Court (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 691, 700, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 657 (defect in notice of sale, coupled with gross inadequacy of price, was sufficient to set aside sale); Whitman v. Transtate Title Co. (1985) 165 Cal. App. 3d 312, 322-323, 211 Cal. Rptr. 582 (failure to postpone sale on request of trustor's successor in interest); see also Sargent v. Shumaker (1924) 193 Cal. 122, 129, 223 P. 464] .

- An inaccurate description of the property may have dissuaded potential purchasers, and the price was grossly inadequate [In re Worcester (9th Cir. 1987) 811 F.2d 1224, 1228-1229] .

- The auctioneer at the foreclosure sale read from a script for a different foreclosure but erroneously called out the street address for the subject property, and as a result opened the bidding with a credit bid that was only a fraction of what was actually owed on the subject property; in conjunction with the gross inadequacy of price, the auctioneer's mistake, discovered after the close of bidding but before the issuance of the trustee's deed, constituted an "irregularity" sufficient to give the trustee the right to rescind the sale [Millennium Rock Mortgage Inc. v. T.D. Service Co. (2009) 179 Cal. App. 4th 804, 811, 102 Cal. Rptr. 3d 544] .

Mere inadequacy of the purchase price, in the absence of some irregularity, fraud, unfairness, or oppression, is not a sufficient ground to set aside the sale [Engelbertson v. Loan & Bldg. Asso. (1936) 6 Cal. 2d 477, 479, 58 P.2d 647 ; Brown v. Busch (1957) 152 Cal. App. 2d 200, 205, 313 P.2d 19] .

PRACTICE TIP:

Irregularity in Sale Must Be Significant to Justify Set Aside Action. The type of accompanying irregularity to justify a "set aside" action must be significant in nature. For example, lack of proper notice in tandem with a low sales price of the property will justify relief. However, slight deviations in the technical requirements for the format of the notice of default or notice of sale apparently do not constitute the type of gross irregularity that will justify disruption of a trustee's sale [see, e.g., Countrywide Home Loans, Inc. v. Clance (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 828, 830, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 899] . By William M. Hensley

To prove that a junior lienholder was damaged by irregularities in a foreclosure sale that allegedly prevented a higher bid, the junior lienholder must produce a ready, willing, and able purchaser who would have paid a higher price at the sale [FPCI RE-HAB 01 v. E & G Investments, Ltd. (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 1018, 1022-1024, 255 Cal. Rptr. 157 (not action to set aside sale, but for damages)].

[c] Balancing of Equities

If grounds for setting aside the sale exist, the plaintiff may nonetheless be denied relief unless the plaintiff offers to do equity through redemption [see § 555.55]. In other words, a valid and viable tender of the outstandingdebt is a prerequisite to an action to set aside a sale [Karlsen v. American Sav. & Loan Assn. (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 112, 117, 92 Cal. Rptr. 851 (complaint that does not show offer to redeem does not state cause of action); Py v. Pleitner (1945) 70 Cal. App. 2d 576, 582, 161 P.2d 393] . This rule applies to junior lienholders as well as to trustors [Arnolds Management Corp. v. Eischen (1984) 158 Cal. App. 3d 575, 577-580, 205 Cal. Rptr. 15 ; but see United States Cold Storage v. Great Western Savings & Loan Assn. (1985) 165 Cal. App. 3d 1214, 1221-1226, 212 Cal. Rptr. 232 (holding of Arnold's Management Corp. questioned and held to be prospective only)].

An offer to have the property sold by the bankruptcy court and the proceeds disbursed to creditors has been held to be a sufficient offer to do equity, and producing cash to redeem was not required [In re Worcester (9th Cir. 1987) 811 F.2d 1224, 1230-1231] . For discussion relating to setting aside a private sale under bankruptcy law, see Ch. 94, Bankruptcy .

[d] Effect of Recitals in Trustee's Deed

Standard trust deed forms typically provide that the recital of a fact in the trustee's deed is conclusive proof of that fact. If the trustee's deed includes a recital of compliance with all statutory notice requirements, this recital is conclusive evidence of compliance in favor of a good faith purchaser, and prima facie evidence of compliance in all other cases [Civ. Code § 2924(c)]. When a recital constitutes conclusive evidence, it cannot be refuted in the absence of a showing of actual fraud [Karrell v. First Thrift of Los Angeles (1951) 104 Cal. App. 2d 536, 539, 232 P.2d 1 ; see Central Nat. Bank v. Bell (1936) 5 Cal. 2d 324, 327-328, 54 P.2d 1107] .

For these purposes, a good faith purchaser is a third-party purchaser for value who lacks knowledge of any alleged irregularity or unfairness [see Pierson v. Fischer (1955) 131 Cal. App. 2d 208, 217, 280 P.2d 491 ; Karrell v. First Thrift of Los Angeles (1951) 104 Cal. App. 2d 536, 539, 232 P.2d 1] . A beneficiary who purchases at the sale is not included in this category, so that a recital of compliance constitutes, as to the beneficiary, only prima facie evidence of compliance, controvertible by evidence presented by the trustor [see Beck v. Reinholtz (1956) 138 Cal. App. 2d 719, 723, 292 P.2d 906 ; Seccombe v. Roe (1913) 22 Cal. App. 139, 143-144, 133 P. 507] .

The ultimate validity and effect of the statutory provision concerning recitals in trustees' deeds has been expressly left undecided [Garfinkle v. Superior Court (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 268, 279 n.16, 146 Cal. Rptr. 208, 578 P.2d 925 ; see Homestead Savings v. Darmiento (1991) 230 Cal. App. 3d 424, 432-436, 281 Cal. Rptr. 367 (conclusive presumption that proper notice has been given is not violation of due process with regard to junior lienholder who was not given notice); Pierson v. Fischer (1955) 131 Cal. App. 2d 208, 216-217, 280 P.2d 491 (trust deed provision that recital is conclusive did not violate Civ. Code § 2953); contra, Tomczak v. Ortega (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d 902, 907, 50 Cal. Rptr. 20] .

One court has held that the conclusive presumption language in Civ. Code § 2924(c) applies only to challenges to statutory compliance with regard to default and sales notices [Melendrez v. D & I Investment, Inc. (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 1238, 1256, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 413] . The court recognized that there is dictum suggesting that the conclusive presumption applies across the board to any claimed irregularities in the trustee's sale [Melendrez v. D & I Investment, Inc. (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 1238, 1256, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 413 , citing Moeller v. Lien (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 822, 831, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 777 ; Residential Capital v. Cal-Western Reconveyance Corp. (2003) 108 Cal. App. 4th 807, 817, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 162] . However, the court declined to follow these cases to the extent they could be construed as describing the presumption as precluding any attack on the foreclosure sale as to a bona fide purchaser, irrespective of whether the challenge relates to the trustee's compliance with procedural requirements concerning the default and sale notices [Melendrez v. D & I Investment, Inc. (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 1238, 1256, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 413] .

[3] Action for Damages

The beneficiary and trustee may be liable to the trustor or a successor in an action for damages based on an illegal, fraudulent, or wilfully oppressive private sale. The measure of damages is the value of the property at the time it was sold, less the encumbrances against the property [Munger v. Moore (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 1, 7-8, 11, 89 Cal. Rptr. 323] . In one case, the court of appeal found a senior lienholder and the debtor could be liable for damages to a junior lienholder when the junior alleged that the senior and debtor agreed that no one but the senior would be permitted to purchase at the foreclosure sale, the first two sales were postponed when other bidders appeared, the senior knowingly allowed the trustee to overstate the amount in default, and the trustee failed to collect the full amount of the senior's bid and distribute the excess to the junior [South Bay Building Enterprises, Inc. v. Riviera Lend-Lease, Inc. (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 1111, 1122, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 647] .

[4] Attorney's Fees

Standard trust deed forms typically provide that the trustor must pay reasonable attorney's fees that may be incurred by the trustee or beneficiary in any action or proceeding concerning the trust deed. When the beneficiary prevails in an action brought by the trustor to attack a private sale, the beneficiary is entitled to add reasonable attorney's fees to the outstanding debt even if the beneficiary failed to request a court award of attorney's fees under Civ. Code § 1717 [De La Cuesta v. Superior Court (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 945, 948-950, 200 Cal. Rptr. 1] . If, on the other hand, the trustor prevails, as a party subject to the provision for fees, the trustor may recover reasonable attorney's fees under Civ. Code § 1717 [Valley Bible Center v. Western Title Ins. Co. (1983) 138 Cal. App. 3d 931, 932-933, 188 Cal. Rptr. 335] . For further discussion of Civ. Code § 1717, see Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees, § 174.50 et seq.

Civ. Code § 1717 applies in an action brought by a trustor's nonassuming grantee. Even though not directly subject to the provision for fees, a nonassuming grantee has practical liability to pay any fees, because if the beneficiary prevails, the beneficiary can add the fees to the amount that the nonassuming grantee would have to pay in order to prevent foreclosure of the grantee's own interest [Saucedo v. Mercury Sav. & Loan Assn. (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 309, 315, 168 Cal. Rptr. 552 ; see Wilhite v. Callihan (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 295, 301-302, 185 Cal. Rptr. 215] .

In an action to set aside a foreclosure sale, the antideficiency provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 580d do not prohibit an award of attorney's fees. Furthermore, Civ. Code §§ 2924c and 2924d, which provide for maximum sums that may be claimed as expenses of foreclosing on the property, do not limit the amount of fees the court may award [Jones v. Union Bank of California (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 542, 547, 25 Cal. Rptr. 3d 783] . Those maximum amounts do not include other costs, including legal fees, which may be incurred by a creditor in protecting the security [Jones v. Union Bank of California (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 542, 548, 25 Cal. Rptr. 3d 783] .

§ 555.64 Trustee's Declaration of Nonmonetary Status

If a trustee reasonably believes that in an action or proceeding concerning the trust deed the trustee is named solely because of being the trustee and not because of any wrongful acts or omissions on the trustee's part, then, at any time, the trustee may file a declaration of nonmonetary status [see § 555.135]. The declaration must contain specified information [see Civ. Code § 2924 l] and must be served on the parties in the manner of serving papers in civil actions generally [Civ. Code § 2924 l(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1010 et seq.].

Within 15 days after service of the declaration, the parties who have appeared in the action or proceeding may object to it [Civ. Code § 2924l(c); but see Civ. Code § 2924 l(e) (providing for later filing and service on all parties and the trustee of motion to require trustee to participate in action if parties determine that trustee should participate because of performance of duties as trustee)]. During this period, the time within which the trustee must file an answer or other responsive pleading is tolled [Civ. Code § 2924 l(f)]. If no timely objection is served, the trustee will not be required to participate any further in the action or proceeding and will be bound by any court order relating to the trust deed [Civ. Code § 2924 l(d)]. If a timely objection is served, the trustee will be required to participate in the action or proceeding [Civ. Code § 2924 l(e)] and will have 30 days from the date of service in which to file an answer or other responsive pleading [Civ. Code § 2924 l(f)].

For purposes of Civ. Code § 2924l, "trustee" includes any agent or employee of the trustee who performs some or all of the duties of a trustee under Civ. Code § 2920 et seq. [Civ. Code § 2924 l(g)].

§ 555.70 Foreclosure Action

[1] Judicial Foreclosure

Judicial foreclosure is the only action that may be maintained after a default to recover on the debt or enforce the obligation secured by a mortgage or trust deed [Civ. Code § 2931; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 725a, 726(a); see Lincoln v. Superior Court (1934) 2 Cal. 2d 127, 129, 39 P.2d 405] . For discussion of what constitutes a default, see § 555.30[3]. The action is a proceeding in equity [Nelson v. Orosco (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 73, 76, 172 Cal. Rptr. 457] . The remedy sought is a court-ordered sale of the property, to be followed by a proceeding, when permitted, to obtain a personal judgment for any deficiency [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(a), (b)]. It is the exclusive remedy when there is no power of sale under the mortgage or trust deed [see Aguilar v. Bocci (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 475, 476-477, 114 Cal. Rptr. 91] . For further discussion, see § 555.30.

For discussion of the merits of a foreclosure action, as compared with nonjudicial foreclosure pursuant to a power of sale, see § 555.30[2]. For discussion of the one-form-of-action rule [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(a)] and the antideficiency statutes [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 580a, 580b, 580d, 726] as they relate to judicial foreclosure, see §§ 555.31 and 555.32. For discussion of other statutes that may affect judicial foreclosure, see §§ 555.33 and 555.36. For a form of complaint in a foreclosure action, see § 555.160.

[2] Parties

[a] In General

A foreclosure action may be brought by the beneficiary or trustee of a trust deed, by a mortgagee, or by a successor in interest to any of these [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 725a, 726].

In the typical foreclosure action by the beneficiary of a trust deed, the trustee is a proper, but not a necessary, defendant. Because the trustee has no real interest, the trustee cannot properly interfere with the beneficiary's maintenance of the action and, if named as a defendant by the beneficiary, cannot recover attorney's fees from the beneficiary [Field v. Acres (1937) 9 Cal. 2d 110, 112-113, 69 P.2d 422] .

The present owner of record of the encumbered property is a necessary defendant, even though the owner may not be either the original trustor or an assuming grantee [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(c); Johnson v. Home Owners' Loan Corp. (1941) 46 Cal. App. 2d 546, 548-549, 116 P.2d 167] .

The original trustor or an assuming grantee has no further interest or lien after transferring all interest in the property to others and is, therefore, a proper but not a necessary defendant, unless the beneficiary intends to make a case against that party for any deficiency [Johnson v. Home Owners' Loan Corp. (1941) 46 Cal. App. 2d 546, 548-549, 116 P.2d 167] . For discussion of personal liability of grantees, see § 555.13[4]. If a deficiency judgment is being sought, a guarantor having independent liability for the secured obligation is a proper, but not a necessary, defendant [see Titus v. Woods (1920) 45 Cal. App. 541, 542-547, 188 P. 68] .

[b] Joinder of Parties With Recorded Interest

[i] Subordinate Interest or Lien

Anyone having a subordinate interest or lien that is recorded as of the commencement of the action must be joined as a defendant, otherwise that interest or lien will not be affected by the judicial sale [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(c); Castle v. Schulman (1948) 32 Cal. 2d 222, 225, 195 P.2d 781] . This includes the United States or the State of California when there is a subordinate federal or state tax lien or other claim on the property [I.R.C. § 7425(a); 28 U.S.C. § 2410(a); Civ. Code § 2931a]. If a subordinate interest is properly included in the action, it will generally be terminated by the sale [see Code Civ. Proc. § 701.630].

[ii] Interests Not Subject or Subordinate to Trust Deed

Persons having recorded interests not subject or subordinate to the trust deed being foreclosed are strictly not proper or necessary defendants, because their interests are not involved and will not be affected by the judicial sale [see Beronio v. Ventura Co. Lumber Co. (1900) 129 Cal. 232, 237, 61 P. 958 ; San Francisco v. Lawton (1861) 18 Cal. 465, 473-474] . These persons may be named as defendants, however, if there is any doubt as to whether their interest is actually not subject or subordinate to the plaintiff's interest, and this issue may properly be decided in a foreclosure action when it has been submitted without objection [Dobbins v. Economic Gas Co. (1920) 182 Cal. 616, 623-626, 189 P. 1073 ; Barrow v. Santa Monica B. Sup. Co. (1937) 9 Cal. 2d 601, 602-606, 71 P.2d 1108 ; see Beronio v. Ventura Co. Lumber Co. (1900) 129 Cal. 232, 237, 61 P. 958] . If a prior lienholder is named as a defendant, that person may file a cross complaint to foreclose a prior lien that is also in default [Van Loben Sels v. Bunnell (1901) 131 Cal. 489, 494, 63 P. 773] .

PRACTICE TIP:

Get a Litigation Sales Guaranty. For litigators involved in prosecuting judicial foreclosure actions, it is highly advisable to get a litigation sales guaranty from a reputable title company. Such a guaranty is insurance that all recorded interests have been identified so that all necessary parties can be named in the judicial foreclosure action. If any mistake is made, counsel can look to the title company for recourse. By William M. Hensley

[iii] Unrecorded Interests

A person with an interest in the encumbered property that is unrecorded as of the time the foreclosure action is commenced need not be made a defendant, and the ensuing judgment is conclusive against the person as if made a defendant [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(c)]. This rule has been applied even when the plaintiff had actual knowledge of the unrecorded interest [Hager v. Astorg (1904) 145 Cal. 548, 549-551, 79 P. 68] . For further discussion of the joinder of persons with interests recorded after the commencement of the foreclosure action, see [3], below.

[3] Recordation of Lis Pendens

The plaintiff should record a lis pendens in each county in which all or part of the property is located [Code Civ. Proc. § 405.20 et seq.]. For further discussion and a form of lis pendens for use in a foreclosure action, see Ch. 348, Lis Pendens . If a lis pendens is recorded, it imparts constructive notice of the foreclosure action, and any person acquiring or recording an interest in the property after the commencement of the foreclosure action need not be named as a defendant, because that person will be bound by the judgment in any event [Hibernia Sav. and Loan Soc. v. Cochran (1904) 141 Cal. 653, 656-657, 75 P. 315 (grantee); Bolton v. Logan (1938) 30 Cal. App. 2d 30, 32-33, 85 P.2d 546 (purchaser at execution sale of judgment lien)]. However, when the plaintiff fails to record a lis pendens, any person who subsequently acquires or records an interest in the property, and who is not joined in the action nor has actual knowledge of it, will not be bound by the judgment [Foster v. Warren (1940) 39 Cal. App. 2d 470, 475, 103 P.2d 591] .

[4] Appointment of Receiver

The plaintiff may have a receiver appointed to take possession of the encumbered property during the action on a showing that (1) the property is in danger of being lost or materially injured, or the conditions of the trust deed are not being performed, and (2) the property probably has insufficient security value to discharge the secured debt [Code Civ. Proc. § 564(b)(2); see Title etc. Trust Co. v. California Dev. Co. (1912) 164 Cal. 58, 60-62, 127 P. 502] . For further discussion and forms relating to the appointment of a receiver pendente lite, see Ch. 486, Receivers .

Following the judicial foreclosure sale, a receiver may be appointed to collect and disburse rents during the redemption period [Code Civ. Proc. § 564(b)(4)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Move for a Post-Sale Redemption Receiver. After the judicial foreclosure sale, the debtor retains possession of the property during the redemption period and should remit any rents, issues, or profits to the foreclosure purchaser. However, because the remittance is within the control of the debtor, a post-sale receiver is a necessity for a purchaser who wants to insure rents, issues, or profits are not dissipated by the debtor in possession. By William M. Hensley

[5] Defenses

[a] Overview

Circumstances that may affect the validity or enforceability of a given trust deed and may provide a basis for an affirmative defense are discussed throughout this chapter [see, e.g., §§ 555.12[2][d][i], 555.33[2]]. Defenses applicable generally to contracts, notes, and deeds may also apply [see, e.g., Benson v. Andrews (1955) 138 Cal. App. 2d 123, 132-135, 292 P.2d 39 (failure of consideration as to secured obligation)]. For further discussion and forms relating to these general defenses, see Ch. 107, Cancellation of Instruments , Ch. 140, Contracts , Ch. 184, Deeds , and Ch. 385, Negotiable Instruments .

PRACTICE TIP:

Affirmative Defenses in Judicial Foreclosure Action. Because judicial foreclosure actions are equitable in nature, affirmative defenses such as unclean hands and laches are allowable and should not be neglected (if facts exist for their assertion). By William M. Hensley

[b] Statute of Limitations

The statute of limitations that may be raised to bar a foreclosure action is the one governing an action on the secured obligation [Civ. Code § 2911; see, e.g., Code Civ. Proc. § 337(1) (four-year period for enforcement of written obligation); see also Ch. 345, Limitation of Actions]. For further discussion, see § 555.18[4][a]. For a form of this defense, see § 555.161.

[c] One-Form-of-Action Rule

If the beneficiary previously brought an action on the underlying debt, and the trustor then failed to raise the defense that foreclosure was the only proper action, the beneficiary may thereafter be barred from bringing a subsequent foreclosure action, by operation of the one-form-of-action rule of Code Civ. Proc. § 726(a) [Kaiser Industries Corp. v. Taylor (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 346, 353, 94 Cal. Rptr. 773] . For further discussion of the one-form-of-action rule, see § 555.31.

[d] Antideficiency Statutes

If a deficiency judgment is being sought, the defendant may be protected by the antideficiency statutes, as when the trust deed secures payment of all or part of the purchase price of the encumbered property [Code Civ. Proc. § 580b; see § 555.32[3][b]].

Nonliability for a deficiency would not be an affirmative defense but could be proved under a denial. A nonassuming grantee, for example, is not personally liable for the secured obligation [Cornelison v. Kornbluth (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 590, 596-597, 125 Cal. Rptr. 557, 542 P.2d 981 ; see § 555.13[4]].

PRACTICE TIP:

Allege It As a Defense or Waive It. A borrower must allege Code Civ. Proc. § 580b as a defense; otherwise, the borrower will be found to have waived it by failure to place the defense at issue in the action [see Palm v. Schilling (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 63, 67 n.3, 244 Cal. Rptr. 600] . By William M. Hensley

[e] Lack of Notice

A third party defendant may raise the defense that the trust deed being foreclosed is void as to his or her subsequent encumbrance for lack of constructive or actual notice [Civ. Code §§ 1214, 1215; see § 555.16[2]]. For a form of this defense, see § 555.162.

[f] Fraud

Fraud in inducing the loan secured by the trust deed may be raised as an affirmative defense to a foreclosure action. If successful, that defense would invalidate the trust deed [Wittman v. Chrysler Corp. (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 586, 590-591, 245 Cal. Rptr. 20] .

[6] Reinstatement and Equity of Redemption

The right of reinstatement is available as in a nonjudicial foreclosure proceeding, except that a person entitled to exercise the right of reinstatement may do so at any time before the entry of the decree of foreclosure [Civ. Code § 2924c(a)(1)]. For further discussion, see § 555.54. If reinstatement is accomplished by curing the default, the foreclosure action must be dismissed [Civ. Code § 2924c(a)(1)].

The costs and attorney's fees recoverable by the plaintiff as a condition to reinstatement and dismissal of the action are limited by statute [see Civ. Code § 2924c(a)(1); see also § 555.54[2]]. For example, the amount of recoverable attorney's fees before the entry of a foreclosure decree are limited in the same manner as in a nonjudicial foreclosure proceeding before giving the notice of sale [Civ. Code § 2924c(d); Bruntz v. Alfaro (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 411, 417-423, 260 Cal. Rptr. 488] .

Any person having an interest in the encumbered property has a right to redeem the property by discharging the secured obligation, and offering to pay any damages caused by delay, before the foreclosure sale [Civ. Code §§ 2903, 2905]. For further discussion of this right, see § 555.55. Junior lienholders are specifically entitled to redeem [Civ. Code § 2904]. For discussion of the separate right to redeem the property from the purchaser after the judicial foreclosure sale, see § 555.72.

[7] Foreclosure Decree

If the court determines that the plaintiff is entitled to foreclosure, the court must enter judgment accordingly. For a form and discussion of a judgment for use in a foreclosure action, see § 555.163.

After a judgment for judicial foreclosure has been rendered, it is improper for the court to make an order for a nonjudicial sale. Obtaining a judgment constitutes an election of remedies, and it would be unfair to allow the plaintiff to change remedies and deprive the defendant of the right to redeem [Vlahovich v. Cruz (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 317, 321-323, 261 Cal. Rptr. 565 ; see C.J.A. Corp. v. Trans-Action Financial Corp. (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 664, 671, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 538 (once junior lienholder pursued judicial foreclosure remedy to judgment it was estopped from seeking different remedy after senior lienholder sold property at trustee's sale; trial court therefore erred in modifying foreclosure judgment to money judgment for full amount of note)].

The court must direct the sale of the entire property and the application of the proceeds to the entire secured debt, if it is shown that the property cannot be sold in portions without injury to the parties. Otherwise, when the entire secured debt is not due, only as much of the property may be sold as is necessary to pay the amount then due [Code Civ. Proc. § 728].

[8] Protection from Foreclosure for Active Duty Service Members

[a] State Provisions

In 2002, the state legislature enacted special protections for officers and enlisted members of the National Guard called or ordered into active state or federal service and reservists of the United States Military Reserve who have been called to full-time active service or duty [see 2002 Stats., ch. 60, § 1; Mil. & Vet. Code § 400 et seq.]. This legislation establishes special protection from foreclosure for active service members and reservists [Mil. & Vet. Code § 408]. The legislation includes many provisions that are very similar to those included in the federal Servicemembers Civil Relief Act [50 U.S.C. App. § 501 et seq.; see 50 U.S.C. App. §§ 502, 511], discussed in [b], below. However, the federal legislation has many more provisions than the California law covering a greater variety of topics.

The state protections apply to obligations secured by mortgage, trust deed, or other security in the nature of a mortgage on real or personal property owned by a service member at the commencement of the period of the military service and still owned by the service member [Mil. & Vet. Code § 408(a)]. In any proceeding commenced in any court during the period of military service to enforce that obligation, arising out of nonpayment of any sum due or out of any other breach of the terms of the mortgage, trust deed, or other security occurring before or during the period of service, the court may, after hearing and in its discretion on its own motion, and must, on application by the service member or some person on the defendant's behalf (1) stay the proceedings for any period as the court deems just, and (2) make any other disposition of the case as may be equitable to conserve the interests of all parties [Mil. & Vet. Code § 408(b)]. The court may deny the stay if it finds that the ability of the defendant to comply with the terms of the obligation is not materially affected by the military service [Mil. & Vet. Code § 408(b)].

No sale, foreclosure, or seizure of property for nonpayment of any sum due under any obligation described above will be valid if made during the period of military service or within three months thereafter, except pursuant to an agreement between the parties or on an order previously granted by the court and a return thereto made and approved by the court [Mil. & Vet. Code § 408(c)]. Any person who knowingly makes or causes to be made a sale, foreclosure, or seizure of property in violation of these provisions is guilty of a misdemeanor [Mil. & Vet. Code § 408(d)].

These provisions apply to service members on active service or duty since September 11, 2001. However, the protections apply prospectively from June 20, 2002 (date bill was signed into law) [Mil. & Vet. Code § 409.11]. Dependents of service members are also entitled to these benefits unless the court finds that the dependents' ability to comply with the terms of the obligation has not been materially impaired by the military service of the person on whom the applicants are dependent [Mil. & Vet. Code § 409.5].

Relevant forms for relief under the provisions of both the state and federal Acts include (1) a petition for relief from a mortgage or installment contract for the purchase of real property [see § 555.138], (2) an application for stay of proceedings to collect real property taxes or assessments [see § 555.139], and (3) an order staying an action on an obligation secured by a mortgage, trust deed, or similar security [see § 555.139A].

[b] Federal Provisions

The Servicemembers Civil Relief Act (SCRA) [50 U.S.C. App. § 501 et seq.; see 50 U.S.C. App. §§ 502, 511 (applicable to current military personnel)] suspends the enforcement of certain civil liabilities of active service members so that they can devote their entire energy to national defense [50 U.S.C. App. § 502]. Among SCRA's protections are many similar to those afforded by the 2002 California legislation, discussed in [a], above.

With regard to mortgages and similar instruments, many provision of the SCRA are substantively the same as provisions in the Military and Veterans Code. These laws give a court authority to allow an eligible service member to postpone making payments on mortgages that were entered before the member began active duty, on property that was owned before that time, and that is still owned by the member, if the member's ability to pay the mortgage is affected by his or her service [see 50 U.S.C. App. §§ 532, 533, 591; Mil. & Vet. Code §§ 407, 408]. Active service members are allowed to apply to a court for a stay of proceedings to collect real property taxes or assessments [see 50 U.S.C. App. §§ 561, 591; Mil. & Vet. Code § 409.2], and the court is empowered to cap interest rates at 6 percent on all obligations of active service members (including mortgages) incurred before active duty [see 50 U.S.C. App. § 527; Mil. & Vet. Code § 405].

The SCRA allows for the stay of many civil legal proceedings if the service member demonstrates that his or her military service has materially affected the member's ability to appear for the court proceedings, including proceedings concerning mortgage foreclosures [see 50 U.S.C. App. §§ 522, 533]. The length of the stay is at the court's discretion based on the service member's showing. The SCRA also offers protections against eviction from residential property rented by a service member, as well as lawful termination of leases for members entering active duty [see 50 U.S.C. App. §§ 531, 535; see also Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions].

§ 555.71 Judicial Sale

[1] Writ of Sale

To enforce a judgment for the sale of real property, the plaintiff applies to the clerk of the court for a writ of sale directed to the sheriff or other levying officer in the county in which the judgment is to be enforced [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 712.010, 716.010(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 680.260 (levying officer is sheriff, marshal, or constable)]. That county is the county in which all or part of the property is located [see Code Civ. Proc. § 701.570(a); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 726(d) (when property is located in two or more counties, court may direct sale to take place in any of those counties)]. For further discussion and a form of writ of sale, see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments, § 254.130 et seq.

[2] Absolute Sale When No Deficiency Allowed

If the decree declares that a deficiency judgment cannot be recovered because of a waiver or bar [see § 555.163[2]], the levying officer executes the writ of sale [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(e)] by effecting a levy on the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 716.020(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 700.010 et seq. (levy)] then giving notice of the sale and selling the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 716.020(b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 701.510 et seq. (sale)]. The proceeds are applied in conformity with the foreclosure decree [Code Civ. Proc. § 716.020(c); see § 555.163[2]].

There is no right of redemption following the sale [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 726(e), 729.010(a)]. When the sale has been completed, the levying officer executes and delivers a deed to the purchaser and records a duplicate [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.660]. By this deed, the purchaser acquires the interest in the property that was held by the judgment debtor on the effective date of the trust deed, as well as any title acquired by the judgment debtor between that date and the date of sale [Code Civ. Proc. § 701.640]. The foreclosed lien and subordinate liens are generally extinguished by the sale [Code

Civ. Proc. § 701.630]. However, in the rare situation that the judgment debtor is the purchaser, the foreclosed lien is extinguished but the property remains subject to any subordinate liens [Call v. Thunderbird Mortgage Co. (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 542, 548, 25 Cal. Rptr. 265, 375 P.2d 169] .

For discussion and forms relating to the foregoing requirements for the issuance and execution of a writ of sale, see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments, § 254.130 et seq.

[3] Redemption When Deficiency Allowed

If a deficiency judgment is not waived or barred, and the decree declares one or more of the defendants to be personally liable [see § 555.163[2]], the levying officer must sell the property subject to a right of redemption [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 729.010-729.090 (redemption)], unless the property is a leasehold estate with an unexpired term of less than two years at the time of the levy [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 726(e), 729.010(a)]. A sale subject to the right of redemption is in most respects conducted in the same manner as an absolute sale [see [2], above], except for certain notice requirements [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.010(b)]. The chief difference is the effect of the sale.

After a sale subject to the right of redemption, the levying officer issues a certificate of sale [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.040]. The levying officer subsequently executes and delivers a deed to the purchaser only after the lapse of the redemption period, if there has been no redemption [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.080(a)]. During the redemption period, the judgment debtor remains entitled to possession of the property in the absence of an agreement to the contrary [Petersen v. Jurras (1935) 2 Cal. 2d 253, 257, 40 P.2d 257 ; House v. Lala (1963) 214 Cal. App. 2d 238, 245, 29 Cal. Rptr. 450] . The purchaser, however, has a statutory right to rents and profits or the value of use and occupation of the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.090(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 729.090(c) (purchaser's right to enter for purpose of repair and right to obtain court order restraining waste)]. A receiver may be appointed to collect and disburse rents during the redemption period [Code Civ. Proc. § 564(b)(4)].

For further discussion of a sale of property subject to the right of redemption, see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments, § 254.150 et seq. For discussion of the manner and effect of exercising the right of redemption, see § 555.72.

§ 555.72 Statutory Redemption

[1] By Judgment Debtor

Statutory redemption refers to a right of redemption after a judicial sale, which exists only if a deficiency judgment is allowed under the foreclosure decree [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 726(e), 729.010(a); see also § 555.71[3]]. The term is used to distinguish this right from the broader equity of redemption existing before foreclosure [see Duff v. Randall (1897) 116 Cal. 226, 229-230, 48 P. 66 ; see also § 555.55]. Only the judgment debtor or a successor in interest may redeem, and for the purpose of this limitation the purchaser at the sale is not a successor in interest [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.020]. For further discussion of the procedure for redeeming property and the time limit for exercising the right of redemption under Code Civ. Proc. § 729.010 et seq., together with related forms, see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments, § 254.150 et seq.

On redemption, the judgment debtor is restored to the former estate, and the effect of the judicial sale is terminated [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.080(d)]. As a result, the judgment debtor becomes entitled to any rents and profits received by the purchaser before redemption [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.090(b); see § 555.71[3]]. There is, however, one important exception to the rule that the effect of the judicial sale is terminated. Liens, such as the judgment lien under which the sale was made and subordinate liens, are extinguished by the judicial sale and do not reattach after redemption, and the redeemed property cannot thereafter be applied to the satisfaction of a claim or judgment underlying an extinguished lien [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.080(d), (e); see Code Civ. Proc. § 701.630 (foreclosed lien, subordinate liens, and state tax liens defined by Gov. Code § 7162 are extinguished by sale)]. This appears to be the rule even though the opposite is true if, instead of redeeming the property, the judgment debtor becomes the purchaser at the judicial sale [Call v. Thunderbird Mortgage Co. (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 542, 548-549, 25 Cal. Rptr. 265, 375 P.2d 169] .

[2] By United States

When the United States is named as a defendant in the action on the basis of a subordinate claim or encumbrance [see § 555.70[2][b]], the government has a right of redemption under federal law. The redemption period is generally one year, unless the subordinate interest is a lien in favor of the Internal Revenue Service, in which case the redemption period is 120 days [28 U.S.C. § 2410(c)].

§ 555.73 Deficiency Judgment

[1] In General

The recovery of a deficiency judgment in a foreclosure action is a two-stage proceeding. In the first stage, culminating in the foreclosure decree, the court determines whether any of the defendants is personally liable for the debt and may be subject to a deficiency judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(b); United California Bank v. Tijerina (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 963, 967-968, 102 Cal. Rptr. 234 ; see § 555.163[2]]. In the second stage, in a subsequent proceeding, the court determines the amount of the deficiency, if any, remaining after the sale of the encumbered property, and renders a money judgment for that amount [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(b); United California Bank v. Tijerina (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 963, 968, 102 Cal. Rptr. 234] .

PRACTICE TIP:

Make Section 998 Offer Before Foreclosure Decree Trial. If a party desires to make a pre-trial settlement offer under Code Civ. Proc. § 998, the proper time to do it is before the trial of the foreclosure decree phase of the action. In an unpublished section of the San Paolo decision [see [4][b], below], which this practitioner believes was correctly reasoned, the Court of Appeal found a Section 998 offer was too late when made at the fair value hearing juncture of the action. Counsel must make the Section 998 offer timely in the first phase if he or she wishes to use this method to attempt a resolution or to recover certain costs. By William M. Hensley

[2] Motion for Judgment

The plaintiff commences the second stage by moving for a deficiency judgment at any time within three months after the property has been sold under the foreclosure decree [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(b); United California Bank v. Tijerina

(1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 963, 965-966, 102 Cal. Rptr. 234] . The three-month period is a statute of limitations. Thus, a party entitled to seek a deficiency judgment must file an application within three months of the foreclosure sale or no money judgment for a deficiency can be obtained [Life Savings Bank v. Wilhelm (2000) 84 Cal. App. 4th 174, 177, 100 Cal. Rptr. 2d 657] . The motion must be filed within three months from the date the sale is effected, that is, when the highest bid is received at the auction, not when the certificate of sale is recorded [Paykar Construction, Inc. v. Bedrosian (1999) 71 Cal. App. 4th 803, 808, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 135] . Notice of the motion must be served at least 15 days before the scheduled date for the hearing, on all defendants who appeared in the action and against whom the deficiency judgment is sought [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(b)]. For a form of notice of motion for a deficiency judgment and a form of supporting declaration, see §§ 555.164 and 555.165.

[3] Appointment of Probate Referee As Appraiser

On the motion of any party made at least 10 days before the date set for the hearing of the motion for a deficiency judgment, the court must appoint a probate referee to appraise the property or interest that was sold, as of the time of the sale [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(b); see Prob. Code § 8900 et seq. (probate referees)]. For a form of notice of motion for the appointment of a referee and a form of order of appointment, see §§ 555.166 and 555.167.

The court may make such an appointment at any time on its own motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(b)].

The probate referee must file the appraisal with the clerk, together with a subscribed oath. The court fixes a reasonable compensation for the referee, not to exceed similar fees for similar services in the community, and this amount is taxed and allowed together with other costs [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(b)].

[4] Hearing and Judgment

[a] Evidence; Issue to Be Determined

The court must receive evidence, which may be presented by either party, as to the fair value of the property or property interest that was sold, as of the date of sale. If a probate referee was appointed for the purpose of appraising the property [see [3], above], the filed appraisal is admissible in evidence [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(b)]. The only issue to be determined is the amount of the deficiency, and a defendant cannot relitigate any issues decided by the foreclosure decree, such as the defendant's personal liability or the plaintiff's right to recover a deficiency judgment [United California Bank v. Tijerina (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 963, 968-969, 102 Cal. Rptr. 234] .

[b] Amount of Deficiency Judgment

The court must render a money judgment against the defendant or defendants for the amount by which the outstanding debt, with interest and costs, exceeds the fair value of the property as of the date of sale [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(b)]. "Fair value," within the context of the statute, may be simply the fair market value of the property, as of the date of the sale, without any reduction for the adverse impact of the foreclosure and the one-year right of redemption, which would temporarily lower the market value of the property [San Paolo U.S. Holding Co. v. 816 South Figueroa Co. (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 1010, 1026, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 272] . The market value of the property is not necessarily the determining value, however. The history of the statute indicates that market value is to be taken as one of the elements, but not the determinant, of the "fair value." Even property for which the market value happens to be zero as of the sale date can have a "fair value" for the purpose of limiting a deficiency [see Rainer Mortgage v. Silverwood Ltd. (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 359, 365-367, 209 Cal. Rptr. 294] . On the other hand, if there is a market value but it happens to be temporarily depressed as of the sale date (for a reason other than the adverse impact of the foreclosure and the one-year right of redemption which all courts agree must not be considered), that temporary depression cannot be ignored in determining the "fair value" for the purpose of limiting a deficiency [San Paolo U.S. Holding Co. v. 816 South Figueroa Co. (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 1010, 1026, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 272 (general market depression); Nelson v. Orosco (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 73, 79, 172 Cal. Rptr. 457 (cloud on title, from existence of lis pendens in unrelated action)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Significance of San Paolo Decision. The Second District's San Paolo decision is a very important case in the fair value hearing area. Aside from establishing that a bright-line "fair market value" test as of the date of the foreclosure sale governs at the fair value hearing stage, San Paolo dismissed a pro-borrower appraisal that essentially tried to disregard recessionary factors that made the fair market value much more depressed in amount. The San Paolo approach negates dicta in Rainer and will result in larger deficiencies. Although the fair market value test is a certain one, San Paolo ignores the 1939 legislative history to Code Civ. Proc. § 726, which rejected using "fair market value" language in favor of "fair value" verbiage. San Paolo does not address this important point relied on in Rainer to find a difference between "fair value" and "fair market value" constructs. Borrowers should continue to rely on broader intrinsic worth valuation language in Rainer, while creditors would do best to emphasize San Paolo's fair market value test until the Supreme Court definitively resolves the issue. By William M. Hensley

If the fair value of the property is less than the purchase price at the sale, the amount of the deficiency judgment is limited to the actual deficiency. In other words, the judgment amount, excluding costs and interest from the date of sale, can in no event exceed the amount by which the entire outstanding secured debt exceeds the price paid for the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(b)]. For a form of deficiency judgment, see § 555.168.

[c] Enforcement of Deficiency Judgment

The deficiency judgment may be enforced in the same manner as any other money judgment [see, e.g., Tompkins v. Powers (1930) 106 Cal. App. 464, 465, 289 P. 685] . For further discussion and forms relating to the enforcement of money judgments generally, see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments, § 254.40 et seq. However, the deficiency judgment may not be enforced against the property sold at the foreclosure sale when the property has been redeemed by the judgment debtor [Code Civ. Proc. § 729.080(e)].

§ 555.74 Attorney's Fees and Costs

Standard trust deed forms typically provide that the trustor must pay all costs and reasonable attorney's fees in a foreclosure action brought by the beneficiary. If the trust deed being foreclosed includes a provision for attorney's fees, the court may fix an award of attorney's fees in any reasonable amount, notwithstanding any contrary stipulation, except that the award cannot exceed the amount, if any, specified in the trust deed [Civ. Code § 2924d(e); Code Civ. Proc. §§ 580c, 726(a), 730; Hotaling v. Montieth (1900) 128 Cal. 556, 557-558, 61 P. 95] .

In many counties, a local court rule determines the manner in which an award of attorney's fees is computed in a foreclosure action [see, e.g., Los Angeles Co. Super. Ct. Rule 3.2(b)]. Otherwise, the manner of computing the award is within the court's discretion [see Hotaling v. Montieth (1900) 128 Cal. 556, 558, 61 P. 95] .

PRACTICE TIP:

Local Rule Schedules May Be Nondeterminative. Although many trial judges rely on local rules establishing fee amounts in judicial foreclosure actions, practitioners are advised to not place total reliance on these schedules and, in the process, imprudently dispense with proof of actual fees/costs incurred. One decision holds that local rules establishing schedules cannot be relied on because governing statutes (such as Civ. Code § 1717) require the trial judge to actually determine reasonableness of fees without use of arbitrary local rule ceilings [see Contractors Labor Pool, Inc. v. Westway Contractors, Inc. (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 152, 169, 61 Cal. Rptr. 2d 715 (construing L.A. Super. Ct. Local Rule 3.2)]. Practitioners should prove their actual fees and costs rather than bank on local schedule amounts, which may not be determinative at all. By William M. Hensley

Recoverable costs are limited to the actual cost of publishing, recording, mailing, and posting notices, a litigation guaranty, and litigation costs of suit [Civ. Code § 2924d(e); Code Civ. Proc. § 580c].

§ 555.80 Right to Possession, Rents, and Profits

In the absence of a contrary agreement, the trustor retains all ownership rights in the property, including the right to possession and any rents and profits of the property, while the property is encumbered by the trust deed [Civ. Code § 2927; Code Civ. Proc. § 744; Kinnison v. Guaranty Liquidating Corp. (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 256, 260, 115 P.2d 450 ; Hamel v. Gootkin (1962) 202 Cal. App. 2d 27, 29-30, 20 Cal. Rptr. 372] . However, the beneficiary may, and commonly does, acquire possessory rights before foreclosure, either under a provision in the trust deed or under separate contract [Civ. Code §§ 2927, 2938; Kinnison v. Guaranty Liquidating Corp. (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 256, 260, 115 P.2d 450 ; see § 555.81[1]].

The beneficiary may obtain appointment of a receiver to protect the security value of the property during a foreclosure action, if that value is in danger of being lost or materially injured to the extent of becoming insufficient to cover the secured obligation [Code Civ. Proc. § 564(b)(2); see § 555.70[4]]. However, the trustor would remain entitled to any rents and profits collected by the receiver in the absence of a special agreement to the contrary [Locke v. Klunker (1898) 123 Cal. 231, 235-238, 55 P. 993] .

§ 555.81 Assignment of Rents and Profits

[1] Creation of Security Interest

A written assignment of an interest in leases, rents, issues, or profits of real property made in connection with an obligation secured by the property, irrespective of whether the assignment is denoted as absolute, absolute conditioned on default, additional security for an obligation, or otherwise, is, on execution and delivery by the assignor, effective to create a present security interest in existing and future leases, rents, issues, or profits of the property. For these purposes, the term "leases, rents, issues, and profits of real property" includes the cash proceeds of the foregoing. "Cash proceeds" means cash, checks, deposit accounts, and the like [Civ. Code § 2938(a)].

Former Civ. Code §§ 2938 and 2938.1 as they were in effect before 1997 govern assignments made before 1997 and actions and proceedings based on those assignments [Civ. Code § 2938(i)]. For discussion of the prior law, see [8], below.

[2] Recordation and Perfection

The assignment may be recorded in the county in which the real property is located in the same manner as a conveyance of an interest in real property [Civ. Code § 2938(b)]. When the assignment (or a trust deed or mortgage containing the assignment) is duly recorded, the record will be deemed to give constructive notice of the assignment, and the security interest created by the assignment will be deemed fully perfected as of the time of recordation, notwithstanding any provision of the assignment or any provisions of law that would otherwise preclude or defer enforcement of the rights granted to the assignee until the occurrence of a subsequent event, including, but not limited to, a subsequent default of the assignor, the possession of the property by the assignee, or the appointment of a receiver [Civ. Code § 2938(b)].

[3] Enforcement on Assignor's Default

[a] Enforcement Steps

On default by the assignor under the obligation secured by the assignment of leases, rents, issues, and profits, once the assignee takes one or more of the enforcement steps described below, the assignee is entitled to collect and receive all rents, issues, and profits that have accrued but remain unpaid and uncollected by or for the assignor on the enforcement date and all rents, issues, and profits that accrue on or after that date [Civ. Code § 2938(c), (g)].

The assignment must be enforced by one or more of the following methods:

- Appointment of a receiver [Civ. Code § 2938(c)(1), (g); see Code Civ. Proc. § 564(b)(11), (12); see also [5], below].

- Obtaining possession of the rents, issues, or profits [Civ. Code § 2938(c)(2), (g)].

- Delivery to any one or more of the tenants of a written demand for turnover of rents, issues, and profits [see Civ. Code § 2938(j); [4], below], a copy of which must be delivered to the assignor [Civ. Code § 2938(c)(3)].

- Delivery to the assignor of a written demand for the rents, issues, or profits, a copy of which must be mailed to all other assignees of record of the leases, rents, issues, and profits of the real property [Civ. Code § 2938(c)(4)].

[b] Application of Money Received by Assignee

Money received by the assignee pursuant to the enforcement action, less amounts paid for certain expenses [see Civ. Code § 2938(g); [6], below], must be applied by the assignee to the debt or otherwise in accordance with the assignment or the promissory note, trust deed, or other instrument evidencing the obligation. However, neither the application nor the failure to apply the rents, issues, or profits will result in a loss of any lien or security interest that the assignee may have in the property or any other collateral, render the obligation unenforceable, constitute a violation of the one-form-of-action rule [Code Civ. Proc. § 726], or otherwise limit any right available to the assignee with respect to its security [Civ. Code § 2938(c)].

Nothing in Civ. Code § 2938(c) affects the entitlement to rents, issues, or profits as between assignees, as set forth in Civ. Code § 2938(h) [Civ. Code § 2938(d); see [7], below].

[4] Demand for Turnover of Rents, Issues, and Profits

[a] Execution and Receipt

If an assignee elects to make a demand for turnover of rents, issues, and profits [see Civ. Code § 2838(c)(3); [3], above], the demand in the form specified by statute [see § 555.189] must be signed under penalty of perjury by the assignee or an authorized agent of the assignee. The demand will be effective against a tenant when it is actually received by the tenant at the address for notices provided under the lease or other contractual agreement under which the tenant occupies the property or, if no address for notices is so provided, at the property [Civ. Code § 2938(d)].

[b] Tenant's Obligations

On receipt of this demand, the tenant must pay to the assignee all rents, issues, and profits that are past due and payable on the date of receipt of the demand and all rents, issues, and profits coming due under the lease following the date of receipt of the demand, unless either of the following conditions is satisfied [Civ. Code § 2938(d)]:

- The tenant previously received, from another assignee of the leases, issues, rents, and profits, a demand that is valid on its face and was sent by the other assignee in accordance with Civ. Code § 2938(c) and (d).

- The tenant, in good faith and in a manner that is not inconsistent with the lease, previously paid, or within 10 days following receipt of the demand pays, the rent to the assignor.

Payment of rent to an assignee following a demand under an assignment of leases, rents, issues, and profits discharges the tenant's obligation to pay the amounts under the lease. If the tenant pays rent to the assignor after receipt of a demand other than in the circumstances described above, the tenant's obligation to pay rent to the assignee will not be discharged unless the tenant occupies the property for residential purposes. The obligation of a tenant to pay rent pursuant to Civ. Code § 2938(c) and (d) continues until receipt by the tenant of a written notice from a court directing the tenant to pay the rent in a different manner, or until receipt by the tenant of a written notice from the assignee from whom the demand was received canceling the demand, whichever occurs first [Civ. Code § 2938(d)].

[5] Appointment of Receiver

A receiver may be appointed in an action by a secured lender for specific performance of an assignment of rents in a trust deed, mortgage, or separate document. That appointment may be continued after entry of a judgment for specific performance, if it is appropriate to protect, operate, or maintain the encumbered property or to collect the rents from the property while a pending nonjudicial foreclosure under power of sale in the trust deed or mortgage is being completed. In this situation, there is no need to show that the security is probably inadequate [Code Civ. Proc. § 564(b)(11); see Turner v. Superior Court (1977) 72 Cal. App. 3d 804, 811, 140 Cal. Rptr. 475] . For a form of complaint for specific performance and appointment of a receiver, see § 555.180.

A receiver may be appointed in a case brought by the assignee under an assignment of leases, rents, issues, or profits pursuant to Civ. Code § 2938(g) [Code Civ. Proc. § 564(b)(12)]. For discussion, see [6][c], below.

[6] Effect of Enforcement Action and Limitations

[a] In General

The application of rents, issues, or profits to the secured obligation discharges the secured obligation to the extent of those rents, issues, or profits, and, notwithstanding any provisions of the assignment or other loan documents to the contrary, must be credited against any amounts necessary to cure any monetary default for purposes of reinstatement under Civ. Code § 2924c [Civ. Code § 2938(e)].

No enforcement action of the type authorized by Civ. Code § 2938(c) [see [3], above], and no collection, distribution, or application of rents, issues, or profits by the assignee following such an enforcement action, may do any of the following [Civ. Code § 2938(e)]:

- Make the assignee a mortgagee in possession of the property, except if the assignee obtains actual possession of the real property, or an agent of the assignor.

- Constitute an action, render the obligation unenforceable, violate the one-form-of-action rule [Code Civ. Proc. § 726], or, except with respect to marshaling requirements, otherwise limit any rights available to the assignee with respect to security.

- Be deemed to create any bar to a deficiency judgment pursuant to any provision of law governing or relating to deficiency judgments following the enforcement of any encumbrance, lien, or security interest, notwithstanding that the action, collection, distribution, or application may reduce the debt secured by the assignment or by any trust deed or other security instrument.

[b] Distribution of Cash Proceeds

If cash proceeds of rents, issues, or profits to which the assignee is entitled following enforcement [see Civ. Code § 2938(c); [3], above] are received by the assignor or an agent for collection or by any other person who has collected the rents, issues, or profits for the assignor's benefit, or for the benefit of any subsequent assignee [see Civ. Code § 2938(h); [7], below], following a turnover demand by the assignee [see Civ. Code § 2938(c)(3),(4); [4], above], and the assignee has not authorized the assignor's disposition of the cash proceeds in a writing signed by the assignee, the rights to the cash proceeds and to the recovery of the cash proceeds must be determined as follows [Civ. Code § 2938(f)].

- The assignor or other party in possession of the cash proceeds must turn over the full amount of the cash proceeds to the assignee, less any amount representing payment of expenses authorized by the assignee in writing. The assignee will have a right to bring an action for recovery of the cash proceeds, without the necessity of bringing an action to foreclose any security interest in the real property. This action will not violate the one-form-of-action rule [Code Civ. Proc. § 726] or otherwise limit any right available to the assignee with respect to its security [Civ. Code § 2938(f)(1)].

- Between an assignee with a perfected security interest in cash proceeds [see Civ. Code § 2938(b); [2], above] enforced by a turnover demand [see Civ. Code § 2938(c)(3),(4); [3], above] and any other person claiming an interest in the cash proceeds, other than the assignor or an agent for collection or one collecting rents, issues, and profits for the benefit of the assignor, the assignee will have a continuously perfected security interest in the cash proceeds, to the extent that the cash proceeds are identifiable; but the assignee's interest is subject to Civ. Code § 2938(h) [see [7], below] and any generally applicable law with respect to payments made in the operation of the assignor's business [Civ. Code § 2938(f)(2)].

For these purposes, cash proceeds are identifiable if they are segregated or, if commingled with other funds of the assignor or an agent or one acting on the assignor's behalf, they can be traced using the lowest intermediate balance principle, unless the assignor or other party claiming an interest in proceeds shows that some other method of tracing would better serve the interests of justice and equity in the circumstances of the case [Civ. Code § 2938(f)(2)].

[c] Costs of Protecting Property

If the assignee enforces the assignment by any means other than the appointment of a receiver [see [5], above] and receives rents, issues, or profits pursuant to the enforcement, the assignor or any other assignee may make written demand on the enforcing assignee to pay the reasonable costs of protecting and preserving the property, including the payment of taxes and insurance and compliance with any applicable building and housing codes [Civ. Code § 2938(g)(1)].

On and after the date of receipt of the demand, the assignee must pay the reasonable costs of protecting and preserving the real property to the extent of any rents, issues, or profits actually received by the assignee. However, no such acts by the assignee will cause the assignee to become a mortgagee in possession, and the assignee's duties in this situation will not be construed to require the assignee to operate or manage the property. Instead, the assignor will continue to be responsible for that [Civ. Code § 2938(g)(2)].

The assignee's obligation continues until the date the assignee obtains the appointment of a receiver or, if earlier, the date the assignee ceases to enforce the assignment [Civ. Code § 2938(g)(3)].

The foregoing provisions may not be construed to supersede or diminish the right of the assignee to the appointment of a receiver [Civ. Code § 2938(g)(4)].

[7] Rents, Issues, or Profits Collected Before Enforcement

The lien priorities, rights, and interests among creditors concerning rents, issues, or profits collected before the enforcement by the assignee are governed generally by Civ. Code § 2938(a) and (b) [see [1], [2], above]. However, if an assignee with priority (according to the record) takes any enforcement action after a subordinate assignee's enforcement action, the prior assignee is entitled only to the rents, issues, and profits that are accrued and unpaid as of the date of that assignee's enforcement action, and to unpaid rents, issues, and profits accruing after that date. The prior assignee has no right to rents, issues, or profits paid before the date of the enforcement action, whether held by the assignor or a subordinate assignee. On receipt of notice that the prior assignee has enforced the prior interest in the rents, issues, and profits, the subordinate assignee must immediately send a notice canceling any turnover demand [see [3], above] previously sent to any tenant [Civ. Code § 2938(h)].

[8] Pre-1997 Law

[a] Applicability; General Rules

Former Civ. Code §§ 2938 and 2938.1 as in effect before 1997 continue to govern contracts entered into and actions and proceedings commenced before 1997 [Civ. Code § 2938(i)]. An assignment of the rents, issues, and profits of real property that was executed after 1992 and stated that it was given as additional security, was perfected by recording an instrument of assignment in the county in which the real property was located. Recordation perfected the assignment without requiring the beneficiary to obtain possession of the property, to have a receiver appointed, or to take any other action [former Civ. Code § 2938.1(a)].

The assignment could be contained in a mortgage, trust deed, or other instrument [former Civ. Code § 2938.1(c)]. The beneficiary could not exercise any rights under this type of assignment until and unless the trustor was in default [former Civ. Code § 2938.1(b)].

These provisions did not invalidate assignments as additional security that were perfected by other means before 1993. Further, they did not apply to absolute assignments of rents, issues, and profits [former Civ. Code § 2938.1(d)], discussed in the next paragraph.

[b] Absolute Assignment

An assignment of rents, issues, and profits made in connection with a loan secured by real property that was expressly absolute, was deemed to constitute a present transfer of the assignor's interest in existing and future rents, issues, and profits of that real property, effective when the assignment was executed and delivered by the assignor [former Civ. Code § 2938(a)]. Such an assignment could be recorded in the county in which the real property was located, whether the assignment was in a separate document or part of a mortgage or trust deed. The record constituted constructive notice of the contents and effect of the assignment. The interest granted by the assignment was deemed perfected as of the date it was recorded, notwithstanding any contrary provision of the assignment or of any other provision of law that would otherwise preclude or defer enforcement of the rights granted to the assignee under the assignment until the occurrence of a subsequent event, including, but not limited to, a subsequent default of the assignor [former Civ. Code § 2938(b)].

§ 555.82 Mortgagee in Possession

The mortgagee-in-possession doctrine holds that a beneficiary who, after default, succeeds peaceably in obtaining possession of the encumbered property may not be ousted by the trustor until the default is cured [Snyder v. Western Loan & Bldg. Co. (1934) 1 Cal. 2d 697, 700-701, 37 P.2d 86] . A mortgagee in possession may, notwithstanding the absence of any contractual right, collect rents and profits and apply any net profit to the outstanding debt [Nelson v. Bowen (1932) 124 Cal. App. 662, 670-671, 12 P.2d 1083] . The chief disadvantage of being a mortgagee in possession is that this status entails a duty of ordinary prudence in managing the property, and a mortgagee in possession may be liable to others having an interest in the property for negligent failure to collect rents or for other mismanagement [see, e.g., Johns v. Moore (1959) 168 Cal. App. 2d 709, 713, 336 P.2d 579 ; Davis v. Stewart (1944) 67 Cal. App. 2d 415, 418, 154 P.2d 447] .

§ 555.90 Waste

[1] Trustor's Duty Not to Impair Security by Waste

Standard trust deeds commonly obligate the trustor to maintain and care for the property [see Cornelison v. Kornbluth (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 590, 593-594, 125 Cal. Rptr. 557, 542 P.2d 981 ; Krone v. Goff (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 191, 193 n.1, 127 Cal. Rptr. 390] . By statute, no person whose interest is subject to the lien of a mortgage may do any act that will substantially impair the mortgagee's security [Civ. Code § 2929]. This statute codifies in part the common law action for waste, which may be defined as injury to property by one in possession that substantially depreciates its value and is actionable by another having a nonpossessory interest in the property [Cornelison v. Kornbluth (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 590, 597-598, 125 Cal. Rptr. 557, 542 P.2d 981 ; Patel v. Athow (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 727, 735, 110 Cal. Rptr. 460] . The duty not to commit waste applies to a nonassuming transferee, who otherwise has no personal liability under the trust deed [see § 555.13[4]], as well as to the trustor or a successor under the trust deed [Cornelison v. Kornbluth (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 590, 596-597, 599, 125 Cal. Rptr. 557, 542 P.2d 981] .

[2] What Constitutes Waste

Actionable waste is some physical harm to the property caused by injurious acts or a failure to care for the property [see, e.g., Easton v. Ash (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 530, 538-539, 116 P.2d 433 (removal of timber); Lavenson v. Standard Soap Co. (1889) 80 Cal. 245, 256, 22 P. 184 (removal of fixtures); Hickman v. Mulder (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 900, 908, 130 Cal. Rptr. 304 (allowing property to deteriorate by failing to preserve and properly cultivate orchard and vineyard)].

Physical harm not caused by the trustor, such as earthquake or fire damage, or failure to make repairs necessitated by this harm, does not constitute actionable waste, even if the failure to repair is in violation of the trust deed [Krone v. Goff (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 191, 194-195, 127 Cal. Rptr. 390 (also holding that breach of contractual duty to repair was enforceable only by foreclosure)].

One court has expanded the potential of an action for waste by holding that a trustor's failure to pay property taxes as required under the trust deed, if it results in a tax sale of the property that renders the security worthless, constitutes waste within the meaning of Civ. Code § 2929 [Osuna v. Albertson (1982) 134 Cal. App. 3d 71, 75-78, 184 Cal. Rptr. 338 ; but see Krone v. Goff (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 191, 195, 127 Cal. Rptr. 390 (noting absence of any authority for proposition that failure to pay taxes comes within traditional and legal meaning of waste)].

[3] Foreclosure Based on Waste

When the trustor commits waste in violation of a trust deed provision but is not otherwise in default, that may be a sufficient basis to commence foreclosure proceedings. However, foreclosure is proper only if the waste has substantially impaired the security; if it has not, the trustor may seek relief from foreclosure based on a mere technical violation [Bart v. Streuli (1935) 5 Cal. 2d 67, 67-68, 52 P.2d 922 ; see § 555.30[3]].

During judicial foreclosure, whether or not based on waste, a beneficiary may have the court appoint a receiver to preserve the property from the risk of harm that would render the security inadequate [Code Civ. Proc. § 564(b)(2)]. For further discussion, see § 555.70[4].

[4] Injunctive Relief Against Waste

Before the commencement of a foreclosure action, the beneficiary may obtain an injunction to prevent acts that would materially impair the security value of the property [Cornelison v. Kornbluth (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 590, 598 n.2, 125 Cal. Rptr. 557, 542 P.2d 981 ; see, e.g., Robinson v. Russell (1864) 24 Cal. 467, 473 (recognizing right to this relief but denying it when alleged injury did not materially impair value of property); see also Miller v. Waddingham (1891) 91 Cal. 377, 382, 27 P. 750 (no right to enjoin removal of buildings placed on property by trustor in absence of allegation that removal rendered security inadequate)]. A beneficiary may also obtain an injunction during foreclosure, on a showing of good cause, to restrain the person in possession from doing any harm to the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 745].

For a form of complaint for use in an action to enjoin impairment of security by waste, see § 555.191.

[5] Action for Damages for Waste

[a] Amount of Recovery; Timing of Action

In an action for waste, the beneficiary may recover damages to the extent that the security is rendered inadequate [Cornelison v. Kornbluth (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 590, 598, 602-603, 125 Cal. Rptr. 557, 542 P.2d 981] . For example, if the beneficiary purchases the property at a private foreclosure sale by making a full-credit bid, the purchase establishes that the value of the security is adequate, which in turn shows that there was no impairment of the security and precludes any recovery for waste [Cornelison v. Kornbluth (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 590, 606-608, 125 Cal. Rptr. 557, 542 P.2d 981 ; cf. Hickman v. Mulder (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 900, 902-903, 905 n.5, 908, 910, 130 Cal. Rptr. 304 (damages could be recovered for impairment of security when beneficiary bought property with less-than-full-credit bid)].

It appears that an action for damages must be brought either together with an action for judicial foreclosure or following foreclosure [see Easton v. Ash (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 530, 534, 538-539, 116 P.2d 433 (action for damages was properly brought together with action for foreclosure); Lavenson v. Standard Soap Co. (1889) 80 Cal. 245, 246, 22 P. 184 (action for damages was properly brought after action for foreclosure); Hickman v. Mulder (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 900, 903, 130 Cal. Rptr. 304 (action for damages was properly brought after trustee's sale)]. Before foreclosure, there is no way to determine the extent to which the security is inadequate. In addition, under the one-form-of-action-rule [Code Civ. Proc. § 726], the beneficiary must first foreclose and exhaust the security before attempting to recover damages from the trustor for rendering that security inadequate [see U.S. Financial v. Sullivan (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 5, 15, 112 Cal. Rptr. 18] .

For a form of complaint for use in an action for damages for impairment of security by waste, see § 555.190.

[b] Requirement of Bad Faith Waste

Recovery of damages for waste is similar in effect to a deficiency judgment [Cornelison v. Kornbluth (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 590, 603, 605, 125 Cal. Rptr. 557, 542 P.2d 981] . Therefore, when the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 580b or 580d would bar recovery of a deficiency judgment following foreclosure [see § 555.32], they also bar recovery of damages for waste unless the waste was committed in bad faith [Cornelison v. Kornbluth (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 590, 604-605, 125 Cal. Rptr. 557, 542 P.2d 981 ; see Osuna v. Albertson (1982) 134 Cal. App. 3d 71, 79-80, 184 Cal. Rptr. 338] . Bad faith waste includes reckless, intentional, or malicious despoiling of the property. It results from more than a simple inability to maintain the property adequately during depressed economic conditions [Cornelison v. Kornbluth (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 590, 603-604, 125 Cal. Rptr. 557, 542 P.2d 981 ; see Hickman v. Mulder (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 900, 903, 908-909, 130 Cal. Rptr. 304 (allegation of willful mismanagement resulting in deterioration of property was sufficient pleading of bad faith waste)]. The reason for this distinction is that allowing recovery for waste resulting only from depressed economic conditions would defeat the primary purpose of the antideficiency statutes [Cornelison v. Kornbluth (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 590, 603-605, 125 Cal. Rptr. 557, 542 P.2d 981] . Whether a given instance of waste is in bad faith is a question of fact [Cornelison v. Kornbluth (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 590, 604, 125 Cal. Rptr. 557, 542 P.2d 981 ; Hickman v. Mulder (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 900, 907, 909, 130 Cal. Rptr. 304] .

§ 555.91 Impairment of Security by Third Party

[1] Tortious Impairment

The beneficiary may bring an action based on tortious impairment of security caused by a third party's injury to the encumbered property [Cornelison v. Kornbluth (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 590, 598 n.3, 125 Cal. Rptr. 557, 542 P.2d 981 ; American Sav. & Loan Asso. v. Leeds (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 611, 614 n.2, 68 Cal. Rptr. 453, 440 P.2d 933] . This type of action is sometimes referred to as an action for waste [see, e.g., Brown v. Critchfield (1980) 100 Cal. App. 3d 858, 868, 161 Cal. Rptr. 342] , but this is inaccurate unless the third party is in possession of the property [& it;see Cornelison v. Kornbluth (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 590, 598 n.3, 125 Cal. Rptr. 557, 542 P.2d 981 ; see also § 555.90]. The action may be premised on negligent as well as intentional conduct [U.S. Financial v. Sullivan (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 5, 12-14, 112 Cal. Rptr. 18] . For discussion and forms relating to actions to enjoin a third party from injuring real property or to recover damages for the injury, which may be adapted for use by a beneficiary not in possession, see Ch. 11, Adjoining Landowners ; Ch. 266, Fences ; Ch. 303, Injunctions ; Ch. 391, Nuisance ; and Ch. 550, Trespass .

The beneficiary may join a third-party tortfeasor as a defendant in an action for foreclosure and may recover damages from that defendant for any deficiency caused by the tortious injury [Los Angeles T. & S. Bk. v. Bortenstein (1920) 47 Cal. App. 421, 423-424, 190 P. 850 ; see Easton v. Ash (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 530, 534, 538-539, 116 P.2d 433] . Alternatively, a separate action for damages may be brought after foreclosure [see Lavenson v. Standard Soap Co. (1889) 80 Cal. 245, 246, 22 P. 184] . The statutes barring recovery of deficiency judgments following foreclosure [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 581b, 581d] do not apply to actions for a third party's tortious impairment of security [Cornelison v. Kornbluth (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 590, 598 n.3, 604 n.9, 125 Cal. Rptr. 557, 542 P.2d 981] .

Injunctive relief is available, before or during foreclosure, when threatened acts by the third party would injure the property so as to render the security inadequate, if damages would not be an adequate remedy [Robinson v. Russell (1864) 24 Cal. 467, 467-468, 473 ; U.S. Financial v. Sullivan (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 5, 14, 112 Cal. Rptr. 18 ; see Code Civ. Proc. § 526(a)(2)].

The beneficiary is not required to foreclose either before or at the time of bringing an action for damages against a third-party tortfeasor, because the one-form-of-action rule [Code Civ. Proc. § 726] applies only to actions against trustors [U.S. Financial v. Sullivan (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 5, 14-16, 112 Cal. Rptr. 18] . Moreover, the fact that a third party tortiously impaired the security does not necessarily mean that the trustor will default so as to permit the beneficiary to commence foreclosure proceedings [U.S. Financial v. Sullivan (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 5, 16, 112 Cal. Rptr. 18] . When an action is brought before foreclosure, the value of the property before and after injury is compared, and damages may be recovered to the extent that the security has been rendered inadequate [Cornelison v. Kornbluth (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 590, 598 n.3, 125 Cal. Rptr. 557, 542 P.2d 981 ; U.S. Financial v. Sullivan (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 5, 17, 112 Cal. Rptr. 18] .

[2] Recovery by Trustor As Substitute Security

The trustor also has a cause of action against a third party who injures the property [U.S. Financial v. Sullivan (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 5, 17, 112 Cal. Rptr. 18] . If the trustor sues first and recovers damages, the judgment becomes in effect a substitute security to the extent that the injured property has been rendered inadequate as security [Los Angeles T. & S. Bk. v. Bortenstein (1920) 47 Cal. App. 421, 424-425, 190 P. 850 (in subsequent foreclosure action, mortgagor's judgment debtor was ordered to pay specified percentage of judgment to mortgagee in event of deficiency); see American Sav. & Loan Asso. v. Leeds (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 611, 614 n.2, 68 Cal. Rptr. 453, 440 P.2d 933 (dictum)].

Damages recovered by the trustor to compensate only for the trustor's losses do not become substitute security for the beneficiary [American Sav. & Loan Asso. v. Leeds (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 611, 615-616, 68 Cal. Rptr. 453, 440 P.2d 933 (award of trustor's personal damages based on third party's fraud was not substitute security)].

§ 555.92 Environmentally Impaired Security

[1] Lender's Remedies Generally

When real property that is hypothecated to a lender becomes environmentally impaired [see [b][iii], below] without the lender's knowledge or complicity, the lender has statutory remedies [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 726.5(g), 736(e) (dates of application)]. On one hand, the lender may elect to waive the lien or pursue the remedies of an unsecured creditor [see Code Civ. Proc. § 726.5; [2], below]. On the other hand, the lender may bring a contract action against the borrower based on breach of any environmental provision in the security agreement [see Code Civ. Proc. § 736; [3], below].

In addition, the lender has express rights of entry and inspection related to the environmental damage [see Civ. Code § 2929.5; for discussion, see § 555.93]. A receiver may be appointed to enable the lender to enter and inspect [Code Civ. Proc. § 564(c)-(e); see Ch. 486, Receivers].

For discussion and forms regarding civil actions relating to pollution and other environmental matters generally, see Ch. 418, Pollution and Environmental Matters .

[2] Lender's Election to Waive Lien or Rely on Security

[a] When Election Is Available

If the borrower is in default, the secured lender may elect to waive the lien and exercise the rights and remedies of an unsecured creditor. When several parcels compose the encumbered property, the lender may waive the lien as to the affected parcels only [see [b][i], below]; and when the lien attaches to fixtures, the lender may waive the lien as to the fixtures only. On the other hand, the lender may elect to rely on the security, even though the property is environmentally impaired [Code Civ. Proc. § 726.5(a)].

This election applies only to loans, extensions of credit, guaranties, or other obligations secured by real property made, renewed, or modified after 1991 [Code Civ. Proc. § 726.5(g)], and notwithstanding the one-form-of-action rule [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(a)] or any other provision of law except Code Civ. Proc. § 726.5(d) [Code Civ. Proc. § 726.5(a); see [5], below].

The lender's election is not available if the release, or threat of release, of a hazardous substance, which is the cause the environmental impairment [see [b][iii], below], was not knowingly or negligently caused or contributed to, or knowingly or willfully permitted or acquiesced in, by the borrower or any related party or by any of their affiliates or agents [Code Civ. Proc. § 726.5(d)(1)], and either [Code Civ. Proc. § 726.5(d)(2)]:

- Neither the borrower nor any related party, nor any of their affiliates or agents, had actual knowledge or notice of the release, or threat of release, in conjunction with the making, renewal, or modification of the loan, extension of credit, guaranty, or other obligation secured by the property.

- If such a person had knowledge or notice of the release, or threat of release, the borrower made written disclosure of it to the secured lender after the lender's written request for information concerning the environmental condition of the property, or the lender otherwise obtained actual knowledge of it, before the making, renewal, or modification of the obligation.

[b] Definitions

[i] Borrower and Related Party

"Borrower" means the trustor under a trust deed, or the mortgagor under a mortgage, when the trust deed or mortgage secures a loan, extension of credit, guaranty, or other obligation. The term includes any successor in interest to the trustor or mortgagor before foreclosure or extinction of the trust deed or mortgage [Code Civ. Proc. § 726.5(e)(2)].

"Related party" means any person who shares an ownership interest with the borrower in the property or is a partner or joint venturer with the borrower in a business that includes the acquisition, development, use, lease, or sale of the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 726.5(e)(6)].

[ii] Environmentally Impaired

"Environmentally impaired" means that the estimated costs to clean up and remedy a past or present release or threatened release of any hazardous substance [see [iv], below] into, onto, beneath, or from the property, which is not disclosed in writing to, or otherwise actually known by, the secured lender before the making of the loan or extension of credit secured by the property, exceeds either 25 percent of the aggregate fair market value of all security for the loan or extension of credit at the time of the making of the loan or extension of credit or, if higher, 25 percent of the aggregate fair market value of all security for the loan or extension of credit at the time of the discovery of the release or threatened release by the secured lender [Code Civ. Proc. § 726.5(e)(3)].

If the property is included in the National Priorities List [see 42 U.S.C. § 9605] or in any list published by the California Department of Toxic Substances Control [Health & Safety Code § 25356(b)], it is deemed to be environmentally impaired, notwithstanding the foregoing definition [Code Civ. Proc. § 726.5(e)(3)].

The estimated cost to clean up and remedy the resultant contamination includes only costs that would be incurred reasonably and in good faith. Fair market value is determined without giving consideration to the release or threatened release and is exclusive of the amount of all liens and encumbrances against the property that are senior to the lien of the secured lender [Code Civ. Proc. § 726.5(e)(3)].

[iii] Real Property and Affected Parcel

"Real property" (or "real property security" in the statute) means any real property and improvements, other than a separate interest and any related interest in the common area of a residential common interest development [see Civ. Code § 1351], or residential real property containing not more than 15 dwelling units, that in either case is used solely for residential purposes or, if reasonably contemplated by the parties to the trust deed or mortgage, is used for residential purposes as well as limited incidental agricultural or commercial purposes, and is the subject of an issued certificate of occupancy unless the dwelling is to be owned and occupied by the borrower [Code Civ. Proc. § 726.5(e)(5)].

"Affected parcel" means any portion of a parcel of the property that is (1) contiguous to the environmentally impaired parcel, even if separated by roads, streets, utility easements, or railroad rights-of-way, (2) part of an approved or proposed subdivision [see Gov. Code § 66424], of which the environmentally impaired parcel is also a part, or (3) within 2,000 feet of the environmentally impaired parcel [Code Civ. Proc. § 726.5(e)(1)].

[iv] Release of Hazardous Substance

"Release of a hazardous substance" means any spilling, leaking, pumping, pouring, emitting, emptying, discharging, injecting, escaping, leaching, dumping, or disposing into the environment, including continuing migration, of hazardous substances into, onto, or through soil, surface water, or groundwater. The term does not include actions directly relating to the incorporation in a lawful manner of building materials into a permanent improvement to the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 726.5(e)(7)].

"Hazardous substance" means any hazardous substance as defined in Health & Safety Code § 25281(h), any waste material as defined in Water Code § 13050(d), or petroleum, including crude oil (or any fraction of crude oil), natural gas, natural gas liquids, liquefied natural gas, or synthetic gas usable for fuel, or any mixture of those substances [Code Civ. Proc. § 726.5(e)(4)].

[c] Notice of Default and Action to Confirm Impaired Status

Before the secured lender may elect to waive the lien on any parcel of property because of environmental impairment, the lender must provide written notice of the default to the borrower, and the value of the property must be established and its environmentally impaired status must be confirmed by an order of a court of competent jurisdiction in an action brought by the secured lender against the borrower. The complaint in a valuation and confirmation action may include causes of action for a money judgment for all or part of the secured obligation, in which case the waiver of the secured lender's lien is effective only if and when a final money judgment is obtained against the borrower [Code Civ. Proc. § 726.5(b)].

[d] Foreclosure Against Additional Collateral

If the secured lender elects to waive the lien, and the borrower's obligations are also secured by other real property, fixtures, or personal property, the secured lender must first foreclose against the additional collateral to the extent required by applicable law. In that case, the judgment for the lender must be limited to the extent that Code Civ. Proc. §§ 580a, 580d, and 726(b) (antideficiency statutes) apply to the foreclosure against the additional real-property collateral. The borrower may waive or modify the other-collateral-first foreclosure requirement, provided the waiver or modification is in writing and signed by the borrower after default [Code Civ. Proc. § 726.5(c)].

[e] Other Contractual Rights Not Impaired

Code Civ. Proc. § 726.5 does not invalidate or otherwise affect in any manner any rights or obligations arising under contract in connection with a loan or extension of credit, including, without limitation, provisions limiting recourse [

Code Civ. Proc. § 726.5(f)].

[3] Contract Action for Violation of Environmental Provision

[a] In General

[i] When Lender May Bring Action

A secured lender may bring an action for damages against a borrower for breach of any environmental provision relating to the property and for specific enforcement of the environmental provision. That action (or the attendant failure to foreclose first against collateral) does not constitute an action within the meaning of the one-form-of-action rule [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(a)] or constitute a money judgment for a deficiency or a deficiency judgment within the meaning of the antideficiency statutes [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 580a, 580b, 580d, 726(b)]. No injunction for the enforcement of an environmental provision may be issued after the obligation secured by the property has been discharged or after all of the borrower's rights, title, and interest in and to the property have been transferred in a good faith transaction to an unaffiliated third party for fair value [Code Civ. Proc. § 736(a)].

This statutory rule is applicable notwithstanding any other provision of law [Code Civ. Proc. § 736(a)]. Code Civ. Proc. § 736 applies only to environmental provisions contracted in conjunction with loans, extensions of credit, guaranties, or other obligations made, renewed, or modified after 1991. The statute does not validate, invalidate, or otherwise affect in any manner the rights and obligations of the parties to, or the enforcement of, environmental provisions contracted before 1992 [Code Civ. Proc. § 736(e)]. The statute is not intended to establish, abrogate, modify, limit, or otherwise affect any cause of action other than that provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 736(a) that a secured lender may have against a borrower under an environmental provision [Code Civ. Proc. § 736(d)].

[ii] "Environmental Provision" Defined

"Environmental provision" means any written representation, warranty, indemnity, promise, or covenant relating to the existence, location, nature, use, generation, manufacture, storage, disposal, handling, or past, present, or future release or threatened release, of any hazardous substance into, onto, beneath, or from the property, or to past, present, or future compliance with any related law, made by a borrower in conjunction with the making, renewal, or modification of a loan, extension of credit, guaranty, or other obligation involving the borrower. This definition applies whether or not the representation, warranty, indemnity, promise, or covenant is or was contained in or secured by the trust deed or mortgage, and whether or not the trust deed or mortgage has been discharged, reconveyed, or foreclosed on [Code Civ. Proc. § 736(f)(2); see Code Civ. Proc. § 736(f)(1),(3)-(6) (other definitions, which are same as in Code Civ. Proc. § 726.5(e)); [2][b], above].

[b] Limitation on Damages

The lender's damages are limited to reimbursement or indemnification of the following items [Code Civ. Proc. § 736(b)]:

- If cleanup or remediation is not pursuant to an order of any federal, state, or local governmental agency relating to the cleanup, remediation, or other response action required by applicable law: the costs relating to a reasonable and good faith cleanup, remediation, or other response action concerning a release or threatened release of hazardous substances that is anticipated by the environmental provision.

- If cleanup or remediation is pursuant to an order of any federal, state, or local governmental agency relating to the cleanup, remediation, or other response action required by applicable law that is anticipated by the environmental provision: all amounts reasonably advanced in good faith by the lender in connection with those activities, provided the lender negotiated, or attempted to negotiate, in good faith to minimize the amounts the lender was required to advance under the order.

- Indemnification against all liabilities to any third party relating to the breach and not arising from acts, omissions, or other conduct that occur after the borrower is no longer an owner or operator of the property [see 42 U.S.C. § 9601(20)(A) (definition of "owner or operator," which is incorporated by reference)], provided the lender is not responsible for the environmentally impaired condition of the property in accordance with the standards under Code Civ. Proc. § 726.5(d) [see [2][a], above].

- Attorney's fees and costs incurred by the lender relating to the breach.

[c] Items Not Recoverable

The lender may not recover damages for (1) any part of the principal amount or accrued interest of the secured obligation, except for amounts advanced by the lender to cure or mitigate the breach of the environmental provision that are added to the principal amount, plus contractual interest, or (2) amounts that relate to a release of a hazardous substance that the lender, or an affiliated person or agent, knowingly permitted, caused, or contributed to [Code Civ. Proc. § 736(b)].

The lender may not recover damages for amounts advanced or obligations incurred for the cleanup or other remediation of property, and related attorney's fees and costs, if all of the following conditions are satisfied [Code Civ. Proc. § 736(c)]:

- The original principal amount of, or commitment for, the loan or other obligation secured by the property did not exceed $200,000.

- The lender, in conjunction with accepting the environmental provision, agreed in writing to accept the property on the basis of a completed environmental site assessment and other relevant information from the borrower.

- The borrower did not permit, cause, or contribute to the release of a hazardous substance or threatened release.

- The trust deed or mortgage covering the property has not been extinguished.

§ 555.93 Inspection Regarding Hazardous Substance Release

[1] Lender's Right to Enter for Inspection

A secured lender may enter and inspect the property for the purpose of determining the existence, location, nature, and magnitude of any past or present release or threatened release of any hazardous substance into, onto, beneath, or from the property in either of the following situations [Civ. Code § 2929.5(a)]:

- On reasonable belief of the existence of a past or present release or threatened release of any hazardous substance into, onto, beneath, or from the property not previously disclosed in writing to the lender in conjunction with the making, renewal, or modification of a loan, extension of credit, guaranty, or other obligation involving the borrower [see Civ. Code § 2929.5(e) (definitions); see also § 555.92[2][b]].

- After the commencement of nonjudicial or judicial foreclosure proceedings against the property.

The lender must reimburse the borrower for the cost of repair of any physical harm to the property caused by the entry and inspection [Civ. Code § 2929.5(c)].

[2] Required Notice of Intent to Enter

The lender is prohibited from abusing the right of entry and inspection or using it to harass the borrower or tenant of the property. Except in an emergency, when the borrower or tenant of the property has abandoned the premises, or if it is impracticable to do so, the lender must give the borrower or tenant of the property reasonable notice of the secured lender's intent to enter. The lender may enter only during the borrower's or tenant's normal business hours. Twenty-four hours' notice is presumed to be reasonable notice in absence of evidence to the contrary [Civ. Code § 2929.5(b); see

Code Civ. Proc. § 564(c) (action for appointment of receiver to enforce right)].

[3] Petition for Entry and Inspection

If the lender is refused the right of entry and inspection by the borrower or tenant of the property, or is otherwise unable to enter and inspect the property without a breach of the peace, the lender may, on petition, obtain an order from a court of competent jurisdiction to exercise the lender's inspection rights [Civ. Code § 2929.5(d)].

A receiver may be appointed by the superior court to enable the lender to enter and inspect the property for the purpose of determining the existence, location, nature, and magnitude of any past or present release or threatened release of any hazardous substance into, onto, beneath, or from the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 564(c)]. For further discussion and forms, see Ch. 486, Receivers .

An action to enforce the right of entry and inspection or for appointment of a receiver does not constitute an action within the meaning of the one-form-of-action rule [Civ. Code § 2929.5(d); Code Civ. Proc. § 564(d); see Code Civ. Proc. § 726(a)].

§ 555.94 Rent Skimming

[1] Definition; Overview of Action; No Waiver

Rent skimming is the landlord's use of revenue received from the rental of a parcel of residential real property, within the first 12 months after acquiring the property, without first applying the revenue or an equivalent amount to the payments due on all mortgages and trust deeds encumbering the property [Civ. Code § 890(a)].

Vendors as lienholders, other lienholders, and tenants may, in certain circumstances, bring an action for damages against a person who has engaged in rent skimming [see Civ. Code § 891(a), (c), (d); see also Civ. Code § 890(c) (definition of "person")]. The antideficiency statutes [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 580a, 580b, 580d, 726] do not apply to the action [Civ. Code § 891(g)]. For a form of complaint for use in an action based on rent skimming, see § 555.192.

There can be no effective waiver of the provisions of Civ. Code § 891 [Civ. Code § 891(f)]. The rights and remedies provided by Civ. Code § 891 are in addition to any other rights and remedies provided by law [Civ. Code § 891(e)]. For discussion of other rights and remedies available to tenants and vendors, see Ch. 332, Landlord and Tenant: The Tenancy , and Ch. 569, Vendor and Purchaser .

[2] Action for Damages

[a] By Vendor As Lienholder

The vendor of an interest in residential real property who received a promissory note or other evidence of a debt for all or a portion of the purchase price, which is secured by a lien on the property, may bring an action against any person who has engaged in rent skimming with respect to that property. The vendor is entitled to recover all actual damages as well as reasonable attorney's fees and costs. The court may also award exemplary damages and any appropriate equitable relief [Civ. Code § 891(a)].

If the defendant engaged in multiple acts of rent skimming, the court must award exemplary damages not less than three times the actual damages [Civ. Code § 891(a)]. "Multiple acts of rent skimming" occur if the landlord knowingly and willfully engages in rent skimming with respect to each of five or more parcels of residential real property acquired within any two-year period [Civ. Code § 890(b)].

[b] By Other Lienholder

A mortgagee or beneficiary under a trust deed encumbering residential real property may bring an action against a person who has engaged in rent skimming with respect to that property as one of multiple acts of rent skimming [see [a], above]. The lienholder may bring such an action whether or not the defendant has become contractually bound by an obligation secured by the mortgage or trust deed. The mortgagee or beneficiary is entitled to recover actual damages, to the extent of the amount of the rent collected on the encumbered property, as well as reasonable attorney's fees and costs. The court may also award exemplary damages and any appropriate equitable relief [Civ. Code § 891(c)].

[c] By Tenant

A tenant of residential real property may bring an action against a person who has engaged in rent skimming with respect to that property for the recovery of actual damages, including any security deposit [see Civ. Code § 1950.5; Ch. 334, Landlord and Tenant: Claims for Damages], and for moving expenses if the property is sold at a foreclosure sale and the tenant is required to move. The tenant is entitled to recover reasonable attorney's fees and costs as well. The court may also award exemplary damages, and the court must award exemplary damages of at least three times the amount of actual damages if the defendant engaged in multiple acts of rent skimming [see [a], above], or if the payments due under any trust deed or mortgage were two or more months delinquent at the time the tenant rented the premises [Civ. Code § 891(d)].

[3] Vendor's Motion to Clear Reacquired Interest of Judgment Liens

If the vendor of an interest in residential real property reacquires that interest from a person who engaged in rent skimming with respect to that property, the vendor may move for an order declaring that the reacquired interest is not encumbered by any lien that is or has the effect of a judgment lien against the person who engaged in rent skimming. This motion must be granted, unless the interests of justice would not be served, when the lien is not related to any improvement of the property and does not represent security for a loan made in good faith by a lender without knowledge of the rent skimming [Civ. Code § 891(b)]. For a form of notice of this motion, see § 555.194.

[4] Criminal Penalties for Multiple Acts

A person who engages in multiple acts of rent skimming is subject to a $10,000 fine or one year's imprisonment or both, upon conviction of five acts of rent skimming. Conviction of additional acts will carry the same punishment for each additional act, as does a conviction of an act after a prior conviction [Civ. Code § 892(a), (b); see Civ. Code § 892(c) (three-year limitation period for prosecution); Civ. Code § 892(d) (penalties are cumulative to other remedies or penalties for same conduct); see also Civ. Code § 890(c) (definition of "person")].

"Multiple acts of rent skimming" occur if the landlord knowingly and willfully engages in rent skimming with respect to each of five or more parcels of residential real property acquired within any two-year period [Civ. Code § 890(b)].

[5] Defense

The following conditions would constitute an affirmative defense for a natural person who is a defendant in a civil or criminal action for rent skimming [Civ. Code § 893(a)]:

- The defendant used the rental revenue, which was due but not paid to holders of mortgages or trust deeds, to make payments to health care providers [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146(c)(2) (definition)] for unforeseen and necessary medical treatment of the defendant or a spouse, parent, or child or to licensed contractors or material suppliers to correct the violation of any statute, ordinance, or regulation relating to the habitability of the premises.

- The defendant made the payments within 30 days of receiving the rental revenue.

- The defendant had no other source of funds from which to make the payments.

The defendant has the burden of proof of each element of the defense in a civil action and the burden of producing evidence in a criminal action [Civ. Code § 893(b)]. For a form of this affirmative defense, see § 555.193.

§ 555.105 Decisions

[1] Antideficiency Statutes

When debtor fraudulently fabricated assets as security for loan and then further secured loan by real property, antideficiency statutes did not bar creditor's action for fraud. In re Franklin (9th Cir. 1991) 922 F.2d 536, 543

Action for money judgment was not election to proceed personally instead of proceeding against security if judgment was not obtained; obtaining personal judgment was election of remedies. In re Madigan (9th Cir. 1991) 122 Bankr. 103, 106-107

Purchaser may not make contractual waiver of protections of Code Civ. Proc. § 580b in exchange for renegotiation of original obligation. DeBerard v. Lim (1999) 20 Cal. 4th 659, 661-662, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 292, 976 P.2d 843 ; Palm v. Schilling (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 63, 72-76, 244 Cal. Rptr. 600

Three-month period in which motion for deficiency judgment must be filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(b)] is statute of limitations; thus, party who fails to file timely motion may not seek relief under Code Civ. Proc. § 473 from "a judgment, dismissal, order, or other proceeding taken against him or her through his or her mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect." Life Savings Bank v. Wilhelm (2000) 84 Cal. App. 4th 174, 178, 100 Cal. Rptr. 2d 657

Sham guaranty when guarantor was settlor and trustee of inter vivos revocable trust that was the principal obligor on obligation governed by antideficiency laws; guarantor's agreement to modification of loan did not waive protection of Code Civ. Proc. § 580b. Cadle Co. II v. Harvey (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 927, 933, 100 Cal. Rptr. 2d 150

Fraud action could not be based on borrowers' waiver of antideficiency protection of Code Civ. Proc. § 580b; because protections of § 580b may not be contractually waived by debtor, lender's fraud action was for nonperformance of invalid waiver. Lawler v. Jacobs (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 723, 736, 100 Cal. Rptr. 2d 52

Code Civ. Proc. § 580b did not bar deficiency when trust deed securing payment of purchase price was not recorded against purchased property but against property purchased by defendants three years earlier in completely unrelated transaction. Kurtz v. Calvo (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 191, 195, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 99

9604(a)(2)(A) (limited application of one action rule and antideficiency legislation when obligation secured by interest in personal property or fixtures is also secured by interest in real property) relieves mixed collateral creditor entirely from complying with three-month time limit for applying for deficiency judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 726. Florio v. Lau (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 637, 653, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 409

Judgment creditor who secured judgment lien by accepting note and trust deed was secured creditor and, thus, was barred by Code Civ. Proc. § 580d from recovering deficiency after nonjudicial foreclosure sale. Rettner v. Shepherd (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 943, 949-952, 282 Cal. Rptr. 687

Purchase of all shares of farming corporation that owned real property and had other assets was purchase of personal property not subject to bar of deficiency judgment. Union Bank v. Anderson (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 941, 945-950, 283 Cal. Rptr. 823

When loan was made to revocable family trust and was guaranteed by husband and wife, who were trustees, trustors, and beneficiaries of trust, guaranties were not true guaranties, and deficiency was barred. Torrey Pines Bank v. Hoffman (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 308, 318-322, 282 Cal. Rptr. 354

Fair-value limitation was not applicable to bankruptcy sale free and clear of all liens. Coppola v. Superior Court (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 848, 870-876, 259 Cal. Rptr. 811

Out-of-state judgment for deficiency on purchase money note in California was not entitled to full faith and credit when there was prior judgment in California denying deficiency. Stuart v. Lilves (1989) 210 Cal. App. 3d 1215, 1219-1221, 258 Cal. Rptr. 780

Subordinated loan secured by residential property to be demolished to construct three residential units was not standard transaction even though residential, not commercial, use was involved, and thus deficiency was available. Boyle v. Sweeney (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 998, 1002-1004, 255 Cal. Rptr. 153

When purchase agreement provided for subordination of vendor's lien to new financing, purpose of Code Civ. Proc. § 580b was not served and deficiency judgment was allowed. Wright v. Johnston (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 333, 337-338, 253 Cal. Rptr. 418

When exchange controlled by vendor purported to pass purchase money through third party not on title controlled by vendor, purchase money antideficiency protection for purchaser was continuing. Ziegler v. Barnes (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 224, 229-230, 246 Cal. Rptr. 69

When purchase-money note was not subject to antideficiency statutes because of subordination clause, renegotiation of subordination clause increasing amount to be subordinated was not making loan subject to antideficiency protection. Ziegler v. Barnes (1988) 200 Cal. App. 3d 224, 231-233, 246 Cal. Rptr. 69

Loan was purchase money even when proceeds were not used to pay purchase price if loan was integral part of purchase transaction. BMP Property Development v. Melvin (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 526, 529-531, 243 Cal. Rptr. 715

Purchase-money antideficiency law was applicable when nonpurchase-money loan was rewritten to allow other creditor to purchase in attempt to resell property and avoid foreclosure. LaForgia v. Kolsky (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 1103, 1108-1113, 242 Cal. Rptr. 282

Attorney's fees awarded in opposing action to enjoin sale were recoverable in nonjudicial foreclosure sale, and recovery was not precluded by one-form-of-action rule or antideficiency statutes. Passanisi v. Merit-McBride Realtors, Inc. (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 1496, 1506-1512, 236 Cal. Rptr. 59

Deficiency against purchaser was not barred when purchaser fraudulently obtained second secured loan with priority over first loan and stopped making payments on both. Bell v. Roy (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 694, 699-700, 232 Cal. Rptr. 83

Antideficiency statute did not bar action for fraud in purchase-money transaction because action was not for deficiency. Manson v. Reed (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 1493, 1501, 231 Cal. Rptr. 446

In action to recover on guaranty securing note executed in California with respect to sale of Texas land, California antideficiency statutes applied because law of situs of debt controls when action is brought on debt and not to obtain land. Consolidated Capital Income Trust v. Khaloghli (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 107, 112, 227 Cal. Rptr. 879

Guarantors were not specifically protected by antideficiency statutes; however, when creditor foreclosed on security and thereby destroyed guarantor's subrogation rights against debtor by application of Code Civ. Proc. § 580d, creditor was thereafter estopped to assert right to recover on guaranty. Consolidated Capital Income Trust v. Khaloghli (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 107, 112-113, 227 Cal. Rptr. 879

Code Civ. Proc. § 580b did not apply to variation on standard purchase money security transaction in which purchaser contemplated commercial development of purchased property and vendor agreed to subordinate purchase-money trust deed to trust deed securing third party's construction loan. Roffinella v. Sherinian (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 230, 236-240, 224 Cal. Rptr. 502

Code Civ. Proc. § 580d, barring deficiency judgment after nonjudicial foreclosure, did not apply to enforcement of judgment of sister state that allowed deficiency judgments. United Bank of Denver v. K & Y Trucking Co. (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 217, 220-221, 195 Cal. Rptr. 49

Code Civ. Proc. § 580b, barring deficiency judgment after sale under purchase-money trust deed, did not apply to variation of standard purchase-money transaction in which secured note was given by one ex-spouse to other to equalize division of community property on divorce. Nickerman v. Ryan (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 564, 567, 155 Cal. Rptr. 830

Code Civ. Proc. § 726, requiring sale of security before seeking deficiency judgment, did not require exhaustion of security before personal judgment on note secured by personal property consisting of other note secured by real property. Bank of California v. Leone (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 444, 448, 112 Cal. Rptr. 394

Code Civ. Proc. § 580b, barring deficiency judgment after sale under purchase-money trust deed, prevented deficiency judgment even though encumbered property was outside California. Younker v. Reseda Manor (1967) 255 Cal. App. 2d 431, 434-438, 63 Cal. Rptr. 197 ; Kish v. Bay Counties Title Guaranty Co. (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 725, 733, 62 Cal. Rptr. 494

[2] Availability of Foreclosure

Foreclosure was permissible for failure to pay prepayment penalty, even though collection agent mistakenly accepted payoff from trustor's agent without objection or demand for prepayment penalty; neither Civ. Code § 1501 (waiver of inadequacies of tendered performance if no objection is made at time of tender) nor Code Civ. Proc. § 2076 (same) barred collection of prepayment penalty because both apply to intentional failures to demand proper tender. Sanguansak v. Myers (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 110, 115-117, 223 Cal. Rptr. 490

Foreclosure for failure to pay prepayment penalty was not barred on basis of equitable estoppel when collection agent mistakenly accepted payoff from maker's agent without penalty and maker's agent knew of clear penalty language in note. Sanguansak v. Myers (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 110, 117-118, 223 Cal. Rptr. 490

[3] Collection of Rents and Profits

Rents and profits under assignment of rents clause constituted additional security, not deficiency judgment. Mortgage Guarantee Co. v. Sampsell (1942) 51 Cal. App. 2d 180, 183-186, 124 P.2d 353

[4] Creation of Mortgage or Trust Deed

Description of secured obligation sufficient to ascertain extent of encumbrance is required to create valid mortgage. D'Oyly v. Capp (1893) 99 Cal. 153, 157, 33 P. 736

When parties each believe that trust deed encumbers different property and beneficiary misled trustor to that belief, trust deed is subject to cancellation. Balistreri v. Nevada Livestock Production Credit Assn. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 635, 640-644, 262 Cal. Rptr. 862

[5] Deed or Mortgage

In determining whether deed absolute was intended as mortgage, central inquiry is whether debt existed at time of transaction and relation of debtor and creditor continued thereafter; if so, court may infer that deed was intended as mortgage. Montgomery v. Spect (1880) 55 Cal. 352, 353

[6] Emotional Distress

Bank's foreclosure of property pledged to secure loan to corporation, on which individual plaintiff-shareholder lived, was privileged; banker's remark questioning whether plaintiff's daughter had "guts" to act as real estate broker in liquidation sale of her mother's house was heartless, insensitive, and merited condemnation but was not type of outrageous conduct necessary to support action for intentional infliction of emotional distress. Kruse v. Bank of America (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 38, 67-68, 248 Cal. Rptr. 217

[7] Equitable Mortgage

Defective mortgage or trust deed intended to provide property as security for debt was enforceable as equitable mortgage. Earle v. Sunnyside Land Co. (1907) 150 Cal. 214, 227-228, 88 P. 920 ; Bank of Suisun v. Fiske (1924) 65 Cal. App. 771, 777-778, 225 P. 7

Promise to give trust deed or mortgage providing property as security for debt was enforceable as equitable mortgage. Higgins v. Manson (1899) 126 Cal. 467, 469-470, 58 P. 907 ; Schelling v. Thomas (1929) 96 Cal. App. 682, 684, 687-688, 274 P. 755

[8] Foreclosure Action

Junior lienholder named as defendant in foreclosure action was permitted to file cross complaint for foreclosure of subordinate lien in default. Hibernia etc. Soc. v. London etc. Ins. Co. (1903) 138 Cal. 257, 260, 71 P. 334

[9] Fraud

Full credit bid rule did not bar repurchasing lender's causes of action against third party nonborrowers for fraud, negligent misrepresentation, and breach of contract. First Commercial Mortgage Co. v. Reece (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 731, 742-744, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 23

[9A] Home Equity Purchasers

Despite signing general release in settlement of unlawful detainer action brought by equity purchaser, seller was entitled to rescind sale of home when purchaser never provided seller notice of right to rescind as required under Home Equity Sales Contract Act. Hoffman v. Lloyd (9th Cir. 2009) 572 F.3d 999, 1001

Four-year limitations period for actions involving fraud [Pen. Code §§ 803(c), 805.1] applied to prosecution for violation of the Home Equity Sales Contract Act [Civ. Code § 1695 et seq.] in which the defendant failed to provide home equity seller with written contract that complied with disclosure and other requirements. People v. Shetty (2009) 174 Cal. App. 4th 1488, 1493-1494, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 355

[9B] Insurance on Encumbered Property

Lender was entitled to proceeds of earthquake insurance obtained by borrower, pursuant to provision of deed of trust assigning to lender "all sums due or payable" to owner or owner's successor "for injury or damage to such property" and provision stating that lender could use insurance proceeds it received pursuant to deed of trust to repair property, apply those funds to secured debt, or release funds to owner. JEM Enterprises v. Washington Mutual Bank (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 638, 646, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 458

Deed of trust that does not require homeowner to obtain earthquake insurance but provides that if such insurance is obtained lender must be named loss payee and has right to control or direct proceeds is fully enforceable. Martin v. World Savings and Loan Assn. (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 803, 809, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 225

If lender does not require earthquake insurance on property that secured loan, and loan documents contain no reference to earthquake insurance proceeds, lender has no right to receive or to control proceeds of earthquake insurance policy. Ziello v. Superior Court (1995) 36 Cal. App. 4th 321, 329, 42 Cal. Rptr. 2d 251

[10] Obligation Secured

Limitation on right to prepay secured loan under Civ. Code § 2954.9(a)(3) applies only during calendar year of sale. Donahue v. LeVesque (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d 620, 626-628, 215 Cal. Rptr. 388

[11] Priority of Liens

"Partial subordination" principle developed in judicial foreclosure context applied to determine priority of liens in nonjudicial foreclosure when inconsistency regarding priority was created by successive deeds of trust and intervening subordination agreement between two lenders. Wells Fargo Bank v. Neilsen (2009) 178 Cal. App. 4th 602, 616-617, 100 Cal. Rptr. 3d 547

Lender was not bona fide encumbrancer when its escrow holder knew that assignee of prior trust deed who had subordinated was pledgee, and pledgee had no right to impair trust deed's security by allowing its subordination without assignor's agreement. Triple A Management Co. v. Frisone (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 520, 539, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 669

When trust deed was recorded after trustor acquired title but before deed to trustor was recorded, trust deed was not in chain of title and did not impart constructive notice. Far West Savings & Loan Assn. v. McLaughlin (1988) 201 Cal. App. 3d 67, 73-74, 246 Cal. Rptr. 872

Junior lienholder did not have standing to challenge prior-recorded trust deed on ground that husband signed wife's name on it. Clar v. Cacciola (1987) 193 Cal. App. 3d 1032, 1036, 238 Cal. Rptr. 726

[12] Private Sale

In nonjudicial sale by state to foreclose tax lien, Fourteenth Amendment requires state to give notice of sale reasonably calculated to give actual notice to those with legally protected interest in property; mere posting and publication of notice, rather than personal or mailed service, is insufficient. Mennonite Board of Missions v. Adams (1983) 462 U.S. 791, 798-800, 103 S. Ct. 2706, 77 L. Ed. 2d 180

Nonjudicial foreclosure procedures do not implicate due process clause of Fourteenth Amendment because there is no direct state involvement in enforcement of creditor's remedies. Apao v. Bank of New York (9th Cir. 2003) 324 F.3d 1091

When nonjudicial foreclosure sale was void due to trustee's failure to properly execute ministerial acts, amount of interest due buyer on return of sale proceeds was 7 percent [Cal. Const., art. XV, sec. 1] rather than 10 percent under Civ. Code § 3289 (legal rate of interest chargeable after breach of contract that does not stipulate interest rate is 10 percent). Pro Value Properties Inc. v. Quality Loan Service Corp. (2009) 170 Cal. App. 4th 579, 583, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 381

Nonjudicial foreclosure does not involve constitutional rights or free speech, but rather concerns a commercial transaction that is not protected activity under the anti-SLAPP statute [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.16]; trial court therefore properly denied special motion to strike wrongful foreclosure cause of action. Garretson v. Post (2007) 156 Cal. App. 4th 1508, 1524-1525, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 230

Lender and trustee were indispensable parties in action to set aside trustee's sale, and therefore default judgment in that action against the purchaser of the property was subject to collateral attack in subsequent action. Washington Mutual Bank v. Blechman (2007) 157 Cal. App. 4th 662, 669, 69 Cal. Rptr. 3d 87

Trustee who was negligent in believing it was trustee of record and who conveyed title to successful bidder in nonjudicial foreclosure sale owed no duty to subsequent purchasers of the property. Heritage Oaks Partners v. First American Title Ins. Co. (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 339, 346, 66 Cal. Rptr. 3d 510

Premature service of notice of sale in nonjudicial foreclosure proceedings was not prejudicial to borrowers, who received more than 20-day notice required under Civ. Code § 2924b(b)(2); accordingly, summary judgment was properly granted defendants in borrowers' action seeking to set aside foreclosure. Knapp v. Doherty (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 76, 92-93, 20 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1

Nonjudicial foreclosure sale is subject to automatic stay pending appeal in lawsuit concerning title to property. Royal Thrift & Loan Co. v. County Escrow, Inc. (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 24, 36, 20 Cal. Rptr. 3d 37

Foreclosure sale properly set aside when trustor and beneficiary agreed to postpone sale, trustee did not receive notice of postponement, and trustee never delivered deed to high bidder; relief to which bidder was entitled was return of its money, plus interest. Residential Capital, LLC v. Cal-Western Reconveyance Corp. (2003) 108 Cal. App. 4th 807, 823-824, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 162

When escrow for sale of property closed on same day property was sold at foreclosure sale, fact that title passed to plaintiff on close of escrow did not mean foreclosure sale could be set aside; to protect interest in property from pending foreclosure, plaintiff had to ensure underlying obligation was satisfied, and lender did not receive payoff of debt before foreclosure sale. Nguyen v. Calhoun (2003) 105 Cal. App. 4th 428, 442-443, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 436

Although nonjudicial foreclosure statutes call for automatic recission when there is a failure of consideration [Civ. Code § 2924h(c)], they do not otherwise provide for rescission; thus, mortgagee could not rescind trustee's sale on basis that it mistakenly made full credit bid. Norwest Mortgage, Inc. v. State Farm Fire and Casualty Co. (2002) 97 Cal. App. 4th 571, 580, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 367

Nonjudicial foreclosure sale properly set aside when bidders agreed not to compete, in violation of Civ. Code § 2924h(g). Lo v. Jensen (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 1093, 1095, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 443

Nothing bars party from rebutting recital in trustee's deed pertaining to amount of unpaid debt at time of trustee's sale by evidence showing that amount was different from that stated in deed. Kolodge v. Boyd (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 349, 359, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 749

Foreclosure sale improperly set aside because clerical error by beneficiary's agent setting opening bid at $10,000 rather than $100,000 was not a "procedural error independent of inadequacy of price." 6 Angels, Inc. v. Stuart-Wright Mortgage, Inc. (2001) 85 Cal. App. 4th 1279, 1285, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 711

Trustee's duty to conduct sale fairly and openly does not extend to duty to bidders to provide detailed explanations concerning recorded encumbrances. Ostayan v. Serrano Reconveyance Co. (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 1411, 1420, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 577

Nonjudicial sale was properly set aside when defects in notice of default and notice of sale were discovered after sale but before issuance of trustee's deed. Angell v. Superior Court (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 691, 700, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 657

Prepayment penalty was includable in amount sought at private sale when right to penalty was set forth in note. Golden Forest Properties Inc. v. Columbia Sav. & Loan Assn. (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 193, 197-199, 248 Cal. Rptr. 316

Agent of trustee was permitted to bid at private sale. Stephens, Partain & Cunningham v. Hollis (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 948, 952-955, 242 Cal. Rptr. 251

Statutory provisions governing chargeable costs and fees in nonjudicial foreclosure proceeding were not applicable when trustor initiated equitable proceeding to enjoin sale. Sweatt v. Foreclosure Co. (1985) 166 Cal. App. 3d 273, 278, 212 Cal. Rptr. 350

When there were two or more beneficiaries, any one was empowered to give notice of default and election to sell in event of default. Perkins v. Chad Development Corp. (1979) 95 Cal. App. 3d 645, 651, 157 Cal. Rptr. 201

Right to exercise power of sale under trust deed was not affected by death or insanity of trustor. Strutt v. Ontario Sav. & Loan Assn. (1970) 11 Cal. App.3d 547, 553, 90 Cal. Rptr. 69 (insanity); New York Life Ins. Co. v. Doane (1936) 13 Cal. App. 2d 233, 238, 56 P.2d 989 (death)

Even though Civ. Code § 2924b requires copies of notice of default or sale to be sent by registered or certified mail, notice was valid when sent by regular mail and received within statutory time. Crummer v. Whitehead (1964) 230 Cal. App. 2d 264, 267-268, 40 Cal. Rptr. 826

[13] Property Encumbered

Severed fixture becomes personal property no longer included as part of encumbered property. Stowell v. Waddingham (1893) 100 Cal. 7, 9-10, 34 P. 436

[14] Reconveyance

When signatures on request for reconveyance were forged but reconveyance document was not forged, reconveyance was voidable rather than void and bone fide purchaser for value took property free and clear of plaintiffs' lien. Schiavon v. Arnaudo Bros. (2000) 84 Cal. App. 4th 374, 381, 100 Cal. Rptr. 2d 801

When trustee mistakenly reconveyed, trustor who received full proceeds after sale was liable on ground of unjust enrichment if trustor had knowledge of mistaken reconveyance. First Nationwide Savings v. Perry (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1657, 1666-1667, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 173

[15] Subordination Agreements

Seller could not obtain readjustment of priorities under automatic subordination theory when record showed she had tried her case on fraud and conspiracy theory and not on contract theory. Brown v. Boren (1999) 74 Cal. App. 4th 1303, 1319-1320, 88 Cal. Rptr. 2d 758

Agreement that misstates amount of lien to be subordinated is enforceable when intent of parties is clear. Klingele v. Engelman (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1482, 1485, 238 Cal. Rptr. 199

[16] Substitution of Trustee

Reformation of substitution of trustee was proper when substitution erroneously failed to indicate it was substitution as to one parcel only and that original trustee was retained for purposes of pending foreclosure proceedings. Jones v. First American Title Ins. Co. (2003) 107 Cal. App. 4th 381, 389, 131 Cal. Rptr. 2d 859

[and DOES I through _____,]	)
Defendant(s).	)

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff _____ [name] is, and at all times mentioned was, _____ [allege capacity and residence of plaintiff, e.g., a California corporation authorized to engage in, and engaging in, the banking business as a California state bank].

2. Defendant, _____ [name of trustee], is, and at all times mentioned was, _____ [allege capacity and residence, e.g., a partnership sued under the name that it has assumed, with its principal place of business in _____ County, California].

3. Defendant, _____ [name of beneficiary], is, and at all times mentioned was, _____ [allege capacity and residence, e.g., a resident of _____ County, California].

[4. Defendants DOES I through _____, inclusive, have, or claim to have, an interest in the property, the exact nature of which is unknown to plaintiff. Plaintiff is ignorant of the true names, interests, rights, and capacities of defendants sued as DOES I through _____, inclusive, and therefore sues these defendants by those fictitious names. Plaintiff will amend this complaint to allege their true names, rights, interests, and capacities when they are ascertained.]

5. On _____ [date], plaintiff, for a valuable consideration, made and delivered a promissory note ("the note") in the sum of $_____, with interest at the rate of _____ percent, dated _____ [date] and recorded in _____ County, California, at book _____, page _____.

6. On the same day, plaintiff executed and delivered to defendant _____ (name of beneficiary), as beneficiary, a certain trust deed ("the trust deed") recorded in _____ County, California, at book _____, page _____, and covering the following described real property situated in that county ("the property"): _____ [describe property, including both legal description and street address or common designation, if any]. The trust deed conveyed the property to defendant _____ [name] as trustee.

7. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff and _____ [name] ("the purchaser") entered into a written contract by the terms of which plaintiff agreed to sell and the purchaser agreed to buy the property for the price of $_____, subject to the condition that title of record to the property be cleared and the sale be consummated on or before _____ [date]. As required by the purchaser, the contract expressly provided that time was of the essence. To secure this contract, plaintiff was required to deposit $_____ into escrow, which, pursuant to the contract of sale, was to be forfeited to the purchaser in the event plaintiff was unable to clear title on or before _____ [date]. A copy of the contract is attached as Exhibit A and incorporated by reference. As required by the contract, an escrow was opened into which the purchaser deposited the full purchase price to be delivered to plaintiff on completion of the sale, and plaintiff deposited $_____, to be delivered to the purchaser should plaintiff fail to provide a clear title of record.

8. Plaintiff, on or about _____ [date], paid in full the obligation secured by the trust deed. At that time plaintiff, in writing, [notified defendant _____ (name of beneficiary) of the terms and conditions of the pending sale and] requested that defendant _____ (name of beneficiary) expedite the execution and recording of a reconveyance and deliver to plaintiff the note and trust deed. A copy of the request is attached as Exhibit B and incorporated by reference.

9. In spite of plaintiff's payment of the secured obligation and repeated requests that defendant _____ (name of beneficiary) reconvey the title to plaintiff as required by law [and deliver to plaintiff the note and trust deed], defendant _____ (name of beneficiary) failed and refused, and continues to fail and refuse, to do so[, with full knowledge of the pending sale of the property and that completion of the sale would depend on the recording of a reconveyance on or before _____ (date), and that time was of the essence].

10. As a proximate result of this failure and refusal of defendant _____ (name of beneficiary) to reconvey, _____ [specify detriment sustained as result of this breach of statutory duty and damages, e.g., plaintiff was unable to clear title to the property on or before _____ (date), the sale agreement was terminated by its own terms, and plaintiff's deposit in escrow, together with the purchase price deposited by the purchaser, were delivered to the purchaser, to plaintiff's damage in the sum of $_____. After the date title had to be cleared, the market value of the property plummeted, and the property is now worth no more than $_____. As a further proximate result of this failure and refusal, plaintiff has been damaged in the sum of $_____ (difference between contract price and present market value)].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For judgment quieting plaintiff's title to the property against defendants;

2. For damages in the sum of $_____;

3. For a statutory penalty in the further sum of $300;

4. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the plaintiff in the above-entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters that are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a complaint for use by a trustor to quiet title [see Code Civ. Proc. § 760.010 et seq.; [6], below] against a trustee and beneficiary, and to recover damages sustained as a proximate result of the beneficiary's breach of the statutory duty to execute and record a full reconveyance on discharge of the obligation secured by the trust deed [see Civ. Code § 2941(d); § 555.19].

Although this complaint assumes that the security instrument is a deed of trust, the form may be easily modified to apply to a mortgage and a certificate of discharge [see Civ. Code § 2941(a); § 555.19]. Further, if appropriate, it may be revised to reflect the fact that the action is being brought (1) by the heirs, successors, or assigns of the trustor, or (2) against the assignee of the beneficiary or trustee [see Civ. Code § 2941(a), (b); § 555.19].

This complaint is adapted from the fact situation in Dixon v. Grossman (1972) 22 Cal. App. 3d 941, 944, 99 Cal. Rptr. 659 , in which the court of appeal held that the plaintiff was entitled to have the title quieted and to recover the statutory penalty only, after concluding that sufficient evidence supported the trial court's finding that plaintiff had suffered no actual damages from the loss of the pending sale of the property.

[3] Allegations

The required contents of a complaint to quiet title are set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020 [see [6], below]. This complaint alleges the following facts:

- The plaintiff's capacity (Paragraph 1).
- The defendants' capacity and status as the trustee and beneficiary under the trust deed (Paragraphs 2 and 3) [see Civ. Code § 2941(a), (b)].
- The execution by the plaintiff of the promissory note (Paragraph 5) [see Civ. Code § 2941(b)].
- The execution by the plaintiff of the trust deed, and a description of the property (Paragraph 6) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(a)].
- The facts concerning the plaintiff's contract to sell the property (Paragraph 7).
- Payment of the obligation secured by the trust deed, entitling the plaintiff to a reconveyance (Paragraph 8) [see Civ. Code § 2941(a), (b); Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(b)].
- A request for the return of the original note and trust deed (Paragraph 8) [see Civ. Code § 2941(b)].
- The defendant's breach of the statutory duty to reconvey (Paragraph 9) [see Civ. Code § 2941(b); Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(c)].
- The detriment sustained by the plaintiff as a proximate result of the breach (Paragraph 10) [see Civ. Code § 3282].
- The plaintiff's damages (Paragraph 10) [see Civ. Code §§ 2941(d), 3281].

[4] Verification

A complaint to quiet title must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020].

PRACTICE TIP:

File and Serve Lis Pendens. Counsel also must file and record a lis pendens as a prerequisite to maintaining a quiet title action [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.010(h)]. If the plaintiff does not do so, defendant's counsel should consider bringing a motion to strike the quiet title claim. By William M. Hensley

[5] Jurisdiction and Venue

Jurisdiction of actions to quiet title [see Code Civ. Proc. § 760.010 et seq.; [6], below] is in the superior court [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.040]. The county in which the real property is situated is the proper county for trial of a quiet title action [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.050].

[6] Quiet Title Actions

Actions to quiet title are governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 760.010 et seq. The remedy provided by these provisions is cumulative and not exclusive of any other remedy, form or right of action, or proceeding provided by law for establishing or quieting title to property [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.030(a)]. However, in any action in which quieting title is in issue, the court, in its discretion, may, on motion of any party, require that the issue be resolved pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 760.010 et seq. to the extent practicable [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.030(b)].

4. Plaintiff's title at that time was based on _____ [specify, e.g., a deed from _____ (name of plaintiff's grantor) granting the property in fee simple to plaintiff, dated _____ (date) and recorded in _____ County, California, at book _____, page _____].

5. On _____ [date], plaintiff, for a valuable consideration, made and delivered a promissory note in the sum of $_____, with interest at the rate of _____ percent per annum, payable _____ [specify terms of payment] ("the note"). Defendant is presently the holder of the note, a copy of which is attached as Exhibit A and incorporated by reference.

6. On the same day, plaintiff executed and delivered to defendant a deed to the property. On _____ [date], that deed was recorded in _____ County, California, at book _____, page _____. A copy of that deed is attached as Exhibit B and incorporated by reference. Thatdeed was in fact a mortgage only and was intended by both parties to be mortgage only, in that it was executed and delivered solely to secure payment of the note.

[7. If accounting of rents and profits is sought from defendant as grantee in possession, allege: On or about _____ (date), defendant entered into actual possession of the property and since that time has received and retained the rents and profits derived from the property.]

[EITHER]

8. Plaintiff has paid all sums due to defendant under the note, as follows: _____ [specify amounts and manner of payment]. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff demanded that defendant reconvey the title to plaintiff. Defendant failed and refused, and continues to fail and refuse, to reconvey or to recognize the deed (Exhibit B) as a mortgage only.

[OR]

8. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff offered to pay defendant the _____ [whole sum or the unpaid balance] of principal and interest [owing and] unpaid under the terms of the note, in the sum of $_____, and demanded that defendant reconvey the title to plaintiff. Defendant failed and refused, and continues to fail and refuse, to accept this tender or to reconvey or to recognize the deed (Exhibit B) as a mortgage only.

[OR]

8. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff offered to pay defendant the _____ [whole sum or the unpaid balance] of principal and interest [owing and] unpaid under the terms of the note, less the rents and profits received by defendant, and requested defendant to give an accounting of rents and profits received and to deliver possession and reconvey the title on being paid whatever sum was found to be due defendant on the account. Defendant failed and refused, and continues to fail and refuse, to account to plaintiff, to deliver possession or reconvey, or to recognize the deed (Exhibit B) as a mortgage only.

[CONTINUE]

9. Plaintiff seeks a determination quieting title as against the defendant as of _____ [date] [because _____ (if date is other than date complaint was filed, allege why determination as of that date is sought)].

[10. If unpaid balance is due, allege: Plaintiff is ready to pay defendant whatever balance and interest are due on the note and offers to deliver this amount into the court for payment.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant as follows:

1. That the deed attached as Exhibit B be adjudged to be a mortgage;

[EITHER]

2. That the court [order an accounting of the rents and profits received by defendant and, after deducting this amount,] determine the amount [owing and] unpaid on the note;

3. That plaintiff be allowed to deposit whatever amount is adjudged due with the clerk of the court for defendant's benefit in discharge of the note and, on condition of making the deposit, plaintiff have title to the property quieted in plaintiff;

[OR]

2. That the note be adjudged to have been fully paid;

3. That plaintiff have title to the property quieted in plaintiff;

[CONTINUE]

4. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

5. For any other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint for use by the grantor under a deed absolute on its face, to establish that the deed was intended to be a mortgage only [Civ. Code §§ 2924(a), 2925] and to quiet title against the grantee after discharge of the debt secured by the mortgage. For further discussion of this particular type of action, see § 555.22.

This form may be modified to state a cause of action against the mortgagee's successor in interest, other than a good faith purchaser or lienholder [Civ. Code §§ 2925, 2950]. It may also be modified for use as a complaint for declaratory relief when the mortgagor merely seeks a declaration that a deed absolute on its face is in fact a mortgage [see Orlando v. Berns (1957) 154 Cal. App. 2d 753, 754-757, 316 P.2d 705] .

For a form of judgment, see § 555.126. For a complaint by a mortgagee to establish a deed as a mortgage and to foreclose, see § 555.127.

[3] Allegations

This complaint includes the following allegations, which are essential to state a cause of action to establish a deed absolute on its face as a mortgage and to quiet title in favor of the mortgagor:

- The mortgagor's title to the property in question and a description of the property (Paragraphs 3 and 4) [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(a),(b)];

- The execution and delivery of the deed solely to secure a debt, and the parties' intent that it be a mortgage only (Paragraphs 5 and 6) [Civ. Code § 2924(a); Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(c)];

- The mortgagor's payment of the debt, or offer to pay the debt, secured by the mortgage (Paragraphs 8) [see Aguilar v. Bocci (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 475, 476-477, 114 Cal. Rptr. 91] ;

- The date as of which the determination as to title is sought (Paragraph 9) [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020(d)].

For further discussion of allegations necessary to state a cause of action for quiet title generally, see Ch. 482, Quieting Title .

[4] Jurisdiction and Venue

An action to quiet title is within the jurisdiction of the superior court [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.040]. The proper county for the trial of an action to quiet title to real property is the county in which some or all of the property is located [Code Civ. Proc. § 760.050(a)].

[5] Verification

A complaint seeking to quiet title must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 761.020].

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	JUDGMENT
Defendant.	)

This action came on regularly for trial on _____ [date] in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] the above entitled court, the Honorable _____ [name], Judge, presiding[, sitting without a jury]. Plaintiff appeared by _____ [name], counsel, and defendant appeared by _____ [name], counsel. Oral and documentary evidence was presented by both parties. The cause was argued and submitted for decision. A statement of decision _____ [has been made and filed or was not requested].

IT IS ORDERED, ADJUDGED, AND DECREED that:

1. As of _____ [date], _____ [name of plaintiff] was the sole owner of the title in fee simple to the following real property: _____ [legal description].

2. The instrument executed by _____ [name of plaintiff] to _____ [name of defendant] in the form of a grant deed dated _____ [date], which is recorded in _____ County, California, at book _____, page _____, which purported to convey to defendant the above-described property, is in fact and law a mortgage to secure payment of an obligation evidenced by a promissory note dated _____ [date], in the sum of $_____.

[EITHER]

3. The above-described note has been fully paid.

4. Title to the above-described property is hereby quieted in _____ [name of plaintiff], and _____ [name of defendant] owns no right, title, estate, interest, or lien, whatever, in the property.

[OR]

3. The above-described note has a balance of principal and interest owing and unpaid on _____ [date], in the sum of $_____.

4. On payment to _____ [name of defendant] of $_____ on or before _____ [date], title to the above-described property shall be quieted in _____ [name of plaintiff], whereupon _____ [name of defendant] shall own no right, title, estate, interest, or lien whatever in the property. On the motion of any interested party after that date, the court shall enter an order confirming the payment and giving effect to this judgment as described in this paragraph or, if payment be not made, an order dismissing this action.

[CONTINUE]

5. Plaintiff shall recover costs from defendant.

Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

This form is a form of judgment for use by the mortgagor in an action to establish a deed absolute on its face as a mortgage and to quiet the mortgagor's title to the property. If the mortgagor has not previously paid the debt, the judgment quieting title must be conditioned on discharge of the secured obligation. For a related complaint, see § 555.125[2]. For further discussion and forms relating to judgments in quiet title actions, see Ch. 482, Quieting Title .

In an action to establish a deed as a mortgage, in which the mortgagor sought to recover clear title to the property on payment of the amount found to be due, the judgment properly provided for dismissal on the defendant's motion if the plaintiff failed to pay the amount determined to be due within a reasonable time set by the court, but the judgment could not provide for foreclosure of the mortgage [Cline v. Robbins (1896) 112 Cal. 581, 585-586, 44 P. 1023] .

§ 555.135 Declaration of Trustee's Nonmonetary Status [Civ. Code § 2924 l]

[1] FORM Declaration of Trustee's Nonmonetary Status [Civ. Code § 2924 l]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	DECLARATION OF TRUSTEE'S NONMONET-Defendant.	)	ARY STATUS

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am the trustee under a trust deed dated _____, executed by _____ [name] as _____ [trustor] to _____ [me or name of original trustee] as trustee for _____ [name] as beneficiary, recorded _____ [date] in _____ County, California, at book _____, page _____. That trust deed is the subject of this _____ [action or proceeding].

2. I _____ [know or maintain a reasonable belief] that I have been named as a defendant in this _____ [action or proceeding] solely in my capacity as trustee under the trust deed. Further, it is my reasonable belief that I have not been named as a defendant because of any acts or omissions on my part in the performance of my duties as trustee. The following is the basis for this [knowledge and] belief: _____ [specify, e.g., the action is a judicial foreclosure action by the beneficiary, and the beneficiary has acknowledged to me that I have been named simply as a nominal defendant and that the beneficiary is not seeking any monetary or other relief against me].

4. I agree to be bound by whatever order or judgment is issued by the court regarding the trust deed.

5. This declaration is made pursuant to Civil Code Section 2924l.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]
_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a declaration for use by a trustee under a trust deed when the trustee has been named in an action or proceeding in which the trust deed is the subject, and the trustee maintains a reasonable belief that the trustee has been named in the action or proceeding solely in the capacity of trustee and not as a result of any wrongful acts or omissions in the performance of duties as trustee. The trustee may file the declaration at any time [Civ. Code § 2924 l(a)].

For purposes of Civ. Code § 2924l, "trustee" includes any agent or employee of the trustee who performs some or all of the duties of a trustee under Civ. Code § 2920 et seq. [Civ. Code § 2924 l(g)].

[3] Contents

The declaration must set forth the following [Civ. Code § 2924 l(b)]:

- The status of the declarant as trustee under the trust deed that is the subject of the action or proceeding.

- That the declarant knows or maintains a reasonable belief that the declarant has been named as a defendant solely in the capacity of trustee under the trust deed.

- That the declarant maintains a reasonable belief that the declarant has not been named as a defendant because of any acts or omissions in the performance of duties as trustee.

- The basis for that knowledge or reasonable belief.

- That the declarant agrees to be bound by whatever order or judgment is issued by the court regarding the trust deed.

[4] Service; Objections; Subsequent Demand to Participate

The declaration must be served on the parties in the manner of serving papers in civil actions generally [Civ. Code § 2924 l(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1010 et seq.; see also Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers]. The parties who have appeared in the action or proceeding will have 15 days from the service of the declaration in which to object to the trustee's nonmonetary judgment status. Any objection must set forth the factual basis for the objection and be served on the trustee [Civ. Code § 2924 l(c)].

If a timely objection is made, the trustee will thereafter be required to participate in the action or proceeding [Civ. Code § 2924 l(e)]. Otherwise, the trustee will not be required to participate any further in the action or proceeding, will not be subject to any monetary awards for damages, attorneys' fees, or costs, will be allowed to respond to any discovery requests as a nonparty, and will be bound by any court order relating to the trust deed [Civ. Code § 2924 l(d)].

If the parties do not duly object to the declaration but later, through discovery or otherwise, determine that the trustee should participate in the action because of the performance of duties as a trustee, the parties may file and serve on all parties and the trustee a motion to require the trustee to participate. The motion must be brought pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 473 (governing certain amendments to pleadings that may be allowed in the court's discretion) and specify the factual basis for the demand to participate [for coverage of Code Civ. Proc. § 473, see Ch. 21, Amended and Supplemental Pleadings]. On the court's granting of the motion, the trustee will thereafter be required to participate in the action or proceeding [Civ. Code § 2924 l(e)].

[5] Filing of Answer

On the filing of the declaration, the time within which the trustee must file an answer or other responsive pleading will be tolled for the period within which the other parties may respond to the declaration. On the timely service of an objection to the declaration, the trustee will have 30 days from the date of service within which to file an answer or other responsive pleading to the complaint or cross-complaint [Civ. Code § 2924 l(f)].

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use by the sole beneficiary or all beneficiaries of a trust deed to substitute a new trustee in place of the trustee of record [see Civ. Code § 2934a(a)(1)(A)]. This form may be modified to substitute the trustee in multiple trust deeds that are recorded in the same county in which the substitution is being recorded and that all have the same trustee and beneficiary or beneficiaries [see Civ. Code § 2934a(a)(4)].

[3] Alternative Statutory Methods

Civ. Code § 2934a provides two alternative methods for substituting a trustee who is acting under a trust deed on real property or an estate for years in real property that (1) was given to secure an obligation to pay money, and (2) confers no duties on the trustee other than those that are incidental to the exercise of the power of sale conferred in the trust deed [Civ. Code § 2934a(a)(1)]. Both methods require the recordation of a substitution statement in the county in which the property is located. Under the first method, the substitution (this form) must be executed and acknowledged by all of the beneficiaries of the trust deed, or their successors in interest. The substitution will be effective notwithstanding any contrary provision in the trust deed, provided the trust deed was executed after 1967 [Civ. Code § 2934a(a)(1)(A)]. For a form of substitution under the second method, see § 555.137.

Under either statutory method, the instrument of substitution must include the date of recordation of the trust deed, the name of the trustor, the book and page or instrument number where the trust deed is recorded, and the name of the new trustee [Civ. Code § 2934a(a)(4)]. A substitution may be accomplished, with respect to multiple trust deeds that are recorded in the same county in which the substitution is being recorded and that all have the same trustee and beneficiary or beneficiaries, by recording a single document that complies with the requirements and substitutes trustees for all of the trust deeds [Civ. Code § 2934a(a)(4)].

From the time the substitution is filed for record, the new trustee succeeds to all of the powers, duties, authority, and title granted and delegated to the trustee named in the trust deed [Civ. Code § 2934a(a)(4)].

[4] Notice Requirements

If a substitution document is executed, but not recorded, before or concurrently with the recording of the notice of default, the beneficiary or beneficiaries or their authorized agents must cause notice of the substitution to be mailed, before or concurrently with the recording of the substitution document, to all persons to whom a copy of the notice of default wouldbe required to be mailed [Civ. Code § 2934a(b)]. If the substitution is effected after a notice of default has been recorded but before the recording of the notice of sale, the beneficiary or beneficiaries or their authorized agents must cause a copy of the substitution document to be mailed, before or concurrently with the recording of that document, to the trustee then of record and to all persons to whom a copy of the notice of default would be required to be mailed [Civ. Code § 2934a(c)]. An affidavit must be attached to the substitution document, stating that notice has been given to the persons and in the manner required [Civ. Code § 2934a(b), (c); see Civ. Code § 2924b (requirements for mailing)].

A trustee named in a recorded substitution document must be deemed to be authorized to act as the trustee under the mortgage or deed of trust for all purposes from the date the substitution document is executed by the mortgagee, beneficiaries, or by their authorized agents. Nothing in Civ. Code § 2934a requires that a trustee under a recorded substitution document accept the substitution. Once recorded, the substitution document constitutes conclusive evidence of the authority of the substituted trustee or his or her agents to act [Civ. Code § 2934a(d)].

Unless a new notice of sale containing the name, street address, and telephone number of the substituted trustee is given in accordance with Civ. Code § 2924f after execution of the substitution document, any sale conducted by the substituted trustee will be void [Civ. Code § 2934a(e)].

[5] Format Requirements

The document must meet format requirements prescribed for recordable documents (for instance, a half-inch margin on each vertical side and the top 2.5 inches of the first page left blank for recording information) [see Gov. Code § 27361.6]. For discussion, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording (Matthew Bender).

§ 555.137 Statement by Beneficiaries Holding More Than 50 Percent of Specified Interests [Civ. Code § 2934a(a)(1)(B), (2)]

[1] FORM Statement by Beneficiaries Holding More Than 50 Percent of Specified Interests [Civ. Code § 2934a(a)(1)(B), (2)]

[Recording information. See § 555.136[1].]

STATEMENT BY PARTIES SIGNING SUBSTITUTION OF TRUSTEE

The undersigned, the beneficiaries who executed the Substitution of Trustee to which this statement is attached (the "Substitution of Trustee"), hereby assert the following.

(1) The Substitution of Trustee was signed pursuant to Civil Code Section 2934a(a)(1)(B).

(2) None of the undersigned is a licensed real estate broker or an affiliate of the broker that is the issuer or servicer of the obligation secured by the trust deed ("Deed of Trust") described in the Substitution of Trustee.

(3) The undersigned together hold more than 50 percent of _____ [the record beneficial interest of a series of notes secured by the same real property securing the Deed of Trust or the undivided interests in a note secured by real property equivalent to a series transaction].

(4) Notice of the substitution was sent by certified mail, postage prepaid, with return receipt requested, to each holder of an interest in the obligation secured by the Deed of Trust identified in the Substitution of Trustee who has not joined in the execution of the Substitution of Trustee or this statement.

We, the undersigned, declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

[Acknowledgment. See § 555.136[1].]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a separate statement that may be used in connection with a form of substitution of the trustee [see § 555.136[1]] when the substitution is effected by the holders of more than 50 percent of the record beneficial interest of a series of notes secured by the same real property securing the trust deed or of undivided interests in a note secured by real property equivalent to a series transaction [Civ. Code § 2934a(a)(1)].

A substitution executed under this method is not effective unless all of the parties signing the substitution also sign, under penalty of perjury, a separate written document (this form) containing certain specified statements regarding compliance with the applicable statutory requirements [see Civ. Code § 2934a(a)(2)]. This separate document must be attached to the substitution and must be recorded in each county in which the real property described in the trust deed is located. Once this separate document is recorded, it constitutes conclusive evidence of compliance with these statutory requirements in favor of substituted trustees acting pursuant to Civ. Code § 2934a, subsequent assignees of the obligation secured by the trust deed, and subsequent good faith purchasers or lienholders for value of the described real property [Civ. Code § 2934a(a)(2)].

For additional discussion, see § 555.136[3] and [4].

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a petition for stay of foreclosure proceedings and related relief with regard to an installment contract or mortgage for the purchase of real property. It may be filed with the court by an active member of the United States military who otherwise meets the requirements for this type of relief with regard to an installment contract or mortgage, trust deed, or other security in the nature of a mortgage on real property. The form provides the court with information on the key elements that must be satisfied for the court to have authority to modify the terms of the installment or mortgage loan agreement and to provide relief for the active service member [Mil. & Vet. Code §§ 407(a), (b), 408; 50 U.S.C. App. §§ 532, 533; see [3], below].

[3] Court's Authority to Provide Relief for Active Military Service Members Under State and Federal Law

A court has extensive latitude in handling claims against a person who has joined military service after the date when he or she has given a deposit or paid an installment of the purchase price under a contract for the purchase of real or personal property, or purchased property secured by a mortgage, deed of trust, or other similar security [Mil. & Vet. Code §§ 407, 408; 50 U.S.C. App. §§ 532, 533].

With regard to proceedings to enforce mortgages and similar obligations of active service members, on application to the court by an active service member (or another person on the service member's behalf) or on the court's own motion, the court must stay the proceedings and take any other action to conserve the interest of all the parties if it finds that the ability of the defendant to comply with the terms of the obligation is materially affected by reason of the member's military service [Mil. & Vet. Code § 408(b); see 50 U.S.C. App. § 533(b)]. This applies to proceedings arising out of nonpayment of any sum due or out of any other breach of the terms of the mortgage commenced in any court during the period of military service to enforce the obligation. It covers obligations secured by a mortgage, trust deed, or other security in the nature of a mortgage on real property owned by a service member at the commencement of the period of the military service, and still owned by the service member whose obligations originated before the person's period of military service [Mil. & Vet. Code § 408(a), (b); see 50 U.S.C. App. § 533(a), (b)].

An active service member is otherwise protected from foreclosure and similar actions. To be valid, any sale, foreclosure, or seizure of property for nonpayment of any sum due under any obligation, or for any other breach of the terms made during the member's period of military service or within three months thereafter (or 90 days under the federal law), except pursuant to an agreement between the parties, may only take place on an order previously granted by the court and a return made and approved by the court [Mil. & Vet. Code § 408(c); see 50 U.S.C. App. § 533(c)]. This is applicable to actions taken under a power of sale, a judgment entered on warrant of attorney to confess judgment contained in the warrant, or otherwise [Mil. & Vet. Code § 408(c); see 50 U.S.C. App. § 533(c)]. Any person who knowingly makes or causes to be made any invalid sale, foreclosure, or seizure of property, or attempts to do so, is guilty of a misdemeanor [Mil. & Vet. Code § 408(d); see 50 U.S.C. App. § 533(d)(1)].

Similarly, with regard to installment contracts to purchase real property, the court may use its discretion, and on its own motion make any other disposition of the case as may be equitable to conserve the interests of all parties [Mil. & Vet. Code § 407(b); see 50 U.S.C. App. § 532(c)]. If the court finds that terminating the contract and allowing the lender to resume possession of the property is an appropriate form of relief, the court may order the repayment of prior installments or deposits or any part of those as a condition of that relief [Mil. & Vet. Code § 407(b); see 50 U.S.C. App. § 532(c)(1)]. A service member who meets the requirements for relief is protected by the law from any other actions from the lender or another party. Only by action of a court of competent jurisdiction may the selling party attempt to exercise any right or option under the contract to rescind or terminate the contract or resume possession of the property for nonpayment of any installment due, or for any other breach of its terms occurring before or during the period of the person's military service [Mil. & Vet. Code § 407(a); see 50 U.S.C. App. § 532(a) (installment contract may not be rescinded or terminated without court order)]. A lender or seller who knowingly resumes possession of the subject property, or attempts to do so, is guilty of a misdemeanor [Mil. & Vet. Code § 407(c); see 50 U.S.C. App. § 532(b)(1)].

For a general discussion of protection from foreclosure and other similar types of relief for active service members, see § 555.70[8].

[4] Jurisdiction and Venue

Jurisdiction under California law is in the superior court of the county in which the property is located [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 760.40, 760.50]. Jurisdiction is also granted by the federal Servicemembers Civil Relief Act (SCRA) [50 U.S.C. App. § 501 et seq.], which applies to any noncriminal proceedings commenced in any court in the United States, the individual states and territories, the District of Columbia, and all territory subject to the jurisdiction of the United States [50 U.S.C. App. § 512(a), (b)]. Under the SCRA, appropriate courts include any court of competent jurisdiction in the United States or any state, whether or not it is a court of record [50 U.S.C. App. § 511(5)]. Any application under SCRA that is required to be made to a court in which no proceeding has commenced may be made to any court that would otherwise have jurisdiction over the matter [50 U.S.C. App. § 512(c)].

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is an application for a stay of proceedings that may be used in response to an attempt by a taxing entity to collect taxes or assessments on real property of active service members who otherwise meet the requirements for preferential treatment under California or federal law [see [3], below]. The petition provides the court with information on the key elements that must be satisfied for the court to have authority to provide this relief for an active service member.

[3] Court's Authority to Provide Relief for Active Military Service Members Under State and Federal Law

An active service member may seek protection in response to an attempt by a taxing entity to collect any general or special property taxes or assessments that fall due before or during a service members period of military service and are not paid. This applies to taxes on real property owned and occupied for dwelling, professional, business, or agricultural purposes by a service member or his or her dependents at the commencement of the member's period of military service and still so occupied by the service member's dependents or employees [Mil. & Vet. Code § 409.2(a); see 50 U.S.C. App. § 561(a) (also applies to taxes on personal property, money, or credits, but not to taxes on income)]. The property may not be sold to enforce the collection of any tax or assessment, or any proceeding or action commenced for that purpose, except on leave of court granted on application by the collector of taxes or other officer whose duty it is to enforce the collection of taxes or assessments. The court may then stay the proceedings or sale for a period extending not more than six months after the member's termination of military service (180 days under the federal statute), unless the court finds that the ability of the service member to pay the taxes or assessments is not materially affected by reason of his or her military service [Mil. & Vet. Code § 409.2(b); see 50 U.S.C. App. § 561(b)]. The unpaid tax or assessment will bear interest until paid at the rate of 6 percent per year. No other penalty or interest may be incurred by reason of the nonpayment. Any lien for any unpaid taxes or assessment must also include 6 percent interest on the lien [Mil. & Vet. Code § 409.2(d); 50 U.S.C. App. § 561(d)].

If by law the service member's property may be sold or forfeited to enforce the collection of any tax or assessment, the service member has the right to redeem or commence an action to redeem that property, at any time not later than six months (180 days under the federal statute) after the termination of the period of military service [Mil. & Vet. Code § 409.2(c); 50 U.S.C. App. § 561(c)].

For a general discussion of protection from foreclosure and other similar types of relief for active service members, see § 555.70[8].

[4] Jurisdiction and Venue

Jurisdiction under California law is in the superior court of the county in which the property is located [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 760.40, 760.50]. Jurisdiction is also granted by the federal Servicemembers Civil Relief Act (SCRA) [50 U.S.C. App. § 501 et seq.], which applies to any noncriminal proceedings commenced in any court in the United States, the individual states and territories, the District of Columbia, and all territory subject to the jurisdiction of the United States [50 U.S.C. App. § 512(a), (b)]. Under the SCRA, appropriate courts include any court of competent jurisdiction in the United States or any state, whether or not it is a court of record [50 U.S.C. App. § 511(5)]. Any application under SCRA that is required to be made to a court in which no proceeding has commenced may be made to any court that would otherwise have jurisdiction over the matter [50 U.S.C. App. § 512(c)].

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is an order staying an action on an obligation secured by a mortgage, trust deed, or similar security, which may be combined with other related court-ordered remedies. It may be issued by an appropriate court [see [4], below] providing remedies available to the court to assist active military service members who otherwise meet the requirements for protection under California and federal law [see [3], below]. For a petition seeking appropriate relief for an active service member from actions based on mortgages or similar arrangements, including a stay of action, see § 555.138[1].

[3] Protections for Active Military Service Members Under State and Federal Law

A court has extensive latitude in handling claims against a person who has joined military service after the date when he or she has given a deposit or paid an installment of the purchase price under a contract for the purchase of real or personal property, or purchased property secured by a mortgage, deed of trust, or other similar security [Mil. & Vet. Code §§ 407, 408; 50 U.S.C. App. §§ 532, 533]. For discussion of this authority, see § 555.138[3].

[4] Jurisdiction and Venue

Jurisdiction under California law is in the superior court of the county in which the property is located [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 760.40, 760.50]. Jurisdiction is also granted by the federal Servicemembers Civil Relief Act (SCRA) [50 U.S.C. App. § 501 et seq.], which applies to any noncriminal proceedings commenced in any court in the United States, the individual states and territories, the District of Columbia, and all territory subject to the jurisdiction of the United States [50 U.S.C. App. § 512(a), (b)]. Under the SCRA, appropriate courts include any court of competent jurisdiction in the United States or any state, whether or not it is a court of record [50 U.S.C. App. § 511(5)]. Any application under SCRA that is required to be made to a court in which no proceeding has commenced may be made to any court that would otherwise have jurisdiction over the matter [50 U.S.C. App. § 512(c)].

§ 555.140 Declaration of Trustor's Nonmilitary Service [50 U.S.C. App. § 533(c)]

[1] FORM Declaration of Trustor's Nonmilitary Service [50 U.S.C. App. § 532(3)]

DECLARATION OF TRUSTOR'S NONMILITARY SERVICE

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am _____ [set forth capacity or status of affiant, e.g., and at all times mentioned was, the beneficiary under a trust deed executed by _____ (name) as _____ trustor to _____ (name) as _____ trustee for _____ (name) as beneficiary and recorded _____ (date), in _____ County, California, at book _____, page _____].

2. _____ [I have personally known _____ (name of trustor) since _____ (date) or I personally do not know _____ (name of trustor)]. He/she presently resides at _____ [address] and has resided at this address since _____ [date]. He/she is employed by _____ [name] at _____ [address] and has been so employed since _____ [date]. He/she _____ [set forth all other factors, such as age, physical disability, or discharge, tending to show that trustor is not in military service, and has not been in military service within preceding 90 days, e.g., is presently 55 years of age]. I know that he/she is not in military service.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a declaration for use by a beneficiary to submit to the trustee of a trust deed as proof that the trustor is not, and has not been within the preceding 90 days, on active military service. A trustee will usually require this proof before proceeding with a trustee's sale, because a trustor's status as a active member of the armed forces may preclude foreclosure in the absence of a court order [see 50 U.S.C. App. § 533(a), (c)]. For discussion of the special protections given to active military service members, see § 555.70[8], and for discussion and forms, see §§ 555.138-555.139A. See also § 555.33[2] for discussion of the effects of federal protections under the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act on judicial and nonjudicial foreclosure.

On _____ [date] before me, _____ [name and title of officer], personally appeared _____ [name(s)], who proved to me on the basis of satisfactory evidence to be the person(s) whose name(s) is/are subscribed to the within instrument, and acknowledged to me that he/she/they executed the same in his/her/their authorized capacity/capacities, and that by his/her/their signature(s) on the instrument the person(s), or the entity on behalf of which the person(s) acted, executed the instrument.

I certify under PENALTY OF PERJURY under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing paragraph is true and correct.

WITNESS my hand and official seal.

Signature: _____ (Seal)
Name of Office: _____

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, may be used by any person to request a copy of any notice of default or notice of sale that is given in a nonjudicial foreclosure proceeding under a specified trust deed or mortgage [Civ. Code § 2924b(a); see §§ 555.52[2], [3][a], 555.56[3]]. Printed forms of request for copies of notice of default and notice of sale may be obtained from most title insurance companies.

A title insurance company was liable to a junior lienholder in an action for negligent loss of security based on the company's failure to record a request for notice of default and notice of sale [Howe v. City Title Ins. Co. (1967) 255 Cal. App. 2d 85, 86-87, 63 Cal. Rptr. 119] .

[3] Contents, Acknowledgment, and Recordation of Request

A request for copies of a notice of default and notice of sale must be substantially the same as this form. It must (1) specify the name and address of the person to whom the notice is to be mailed, and (2) identify the trust deed or mortgage by stating the names of the parties, the recordation date, and the book and page in which it is recorded or the recorder's number [Civ. Code § 2924b(a)].

The request must be signed and acknowledged by the person making the request. It must also include, above the signature, a notice to that person that he or she will receive copies of a notice of default or notice of sale only at the address specified in the request, and he or she must record a new request in the event of a change of address [Civ. Code § 2924b(a)].

To be effective, the request must be filed for record in the office of the recorder of any county in which any part of the encumbered property is located, at any time after the recordation of the trust deed or mortgage specified in the request but before the recordation of notice of default [Civ. Code § 2924b(a)].

[4] Format Requirements

The document must meet format requirements prescribed for recordable documents (for instance, a half-inch margin on each vertical side and the top two inches of the first page left blank for recording information) [see Gov. Code § 27361.6]. For discussion, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording (Matthew Bender).

§ 555.141A Request by Homeowners' Association to Receive Copy of Trustee's Deed [Civ. Code § 2924b(f)]

[1] FORM Request by Homeowners' Association to Receive Copy of Trustee's Deed [Civ. Code § 2924b(f)]

[Recording information. See § 555.136[1].]

_____ [Name], which is a homeowners' association, requests that a mortgagee, trustee, or other person authorized to record a notice of default regarding any of the separate interests referred to below, mail to the association a copy of any trustee's deed on a sale concerning a separate interest, as provided in Section 2924b(f) of the Civil Code.

The separate interests in question are identified by _____ [either Assessor's Parcel Number or the following legal description:] _____ [specify].

The association's name and address are: _____ [specify].
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]

[typed name and title]

[Acknowledgment. See § 555.141[1].]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, may be used by a homeowners' association [see Civ. Code § 1351(a) (definition)] to request a copy of any trustee's deed in the event of a sale concerning any separate interest governed by the association. With respect to separate interests governed by a homeowners' association, the association may cause to be filed in the office of the recorder, in the county in which the separate interests are situated, a request that a mortgagee, trustee, or other person authorized to record a notice of default regarding any of those separate interests, mail to the association a copy of any trustee's deed on a sale concerning a separate interest. Subsequent requests by an association will supersede prior requests [Civ. Code § 2924b(f)].

The request must include a legal description or the assessor's parcel number of the separate interests and must include the name and address of the association and a statement that it is a homeowners' association [Civ. Code § 2924b(f)].

To be effective, the request must be recorded before the filing of a notice of default. The mortgagee, trustee, or other authorized person must mail the requested information to the association within 15 business days following the date the trustee's deed is recorded. Failure to mail the request, however, will not affect the title to real property [Civ. Code § 2924b(f)].

The document must meet format requirements prescribed for recordable documents (for instance, a half-inch margin on each vertical side and the top two inches of the first page left blank for recording information) [see Gov. Code § 27361.6]. For discussion, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording (Matthew Bender).

§ 555.142 Notice of Default [Civ. Code §§ 2924(a)(1), 2924c(b)(1)]--By Beneficiary, Trustee, Mortgagee, or Agent

[1] FORM Notice of Default [Civ. Code §§ 2924(a)(1), 2924c(b)(1)]--By Beneficiary, Trustee, Mortgagee, or Agent

[Recording information. See § 555.136[1].]

NOTICE OF DEFAULT

[If default is curable pursuant to Civ. Code § 2924c, notice of default must begin with statement below, which, except as otherwise specified, must appear in at least 12-point boldface type if printed.]

[Heading and introductory clause must be in capital letters if typed or 14-point boldface type if printed.]

IMPORTANT NOTICE

IF YOUR PROPERTY IS IN FORECLOSURE BECAUSE YOU ARE BEHIND IN YOUR PAYMENTS, IT MAY BE SOLD WITHOUT ANY COURT ACTION, and you may have the legal right to bring your account in good standing by paying all of your past due payments plus permitted costs and expenses within the time permitted by law for reinstatement of your account, which is normally five business days before the date set for the sale of your property. No sale date may be set until three months from the date this notice of default may be recorded (which date of recordation appears on this notice). This amount is $_____ as of _____ [date] and will increase until your account becomes current.

While your property is in foreclosure, you still must pay other obligations (such as insurance and taxes) required by your note and trust deed or mortgage. If you fail to make future payments on the loan, pay taxes on the property, provide insurance on the property, or pay other obligations as required in the note and trust deed or mortgage, the beneficiary or mortgagee may insist that you do so in order to reinstate your account in good standing. In addition, the beneficiary or mortgagee may require as a condition to reinstatement that you provide reliable written evidence that you paid all senior liens, property taxes, and hazard insurance premiums.

On your written request, the beneficiary or mortgagee will give you a written itemization of the entire amount you must pay. You may not have to pay the entire unpaid portion of your account, even though full payment was demanded, but you must pay all amounts in default at the time payment is made. However, you and your _____ [beneficiary or mortgagee] may mutually agree in writing before the time the notice of sale is posted (which may not be earlier than the end of the three-month period stated above), among other things, (1) to provide additional time in which to cure the default by transfer of the property or otherwise, (2) to establisha schedule of payments in order to cure your default, or (3) both (1) and (2).

Following the expiration of the time period referred to in the first paragraph of this notice, unless the obligation being foreclosed on or a separate written agreement between you and your creditor permits a longer period, you have only the legal right to stop the sale of your property by paying the entire amount demanded by your creditor.

To find out the amount you must pay, or to arrange for payment to stop the foreclosure, or if your property is in foreclosure for any other reason, contact:

_____ [name of beneficiary or mortgagee]
_____ [mailing address]
_____ [telephone]

If you have any questions, you should contact a lawyer or the government agency that may have insured your loan.

Notwithstanding the fact that your property is in foreclosure, you may offer your property for sale, provided the sale is concluded before the conclusion of the foreclosure.

[Warning below must be in capital letters if typed or 14-point boldface type if printed.]

Remember, YOU MAY LOSE LEGAL RIGHTS IF YOU DO NOT TAKE PROMPT ACTION.

[CONTINUE]

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN by the undersigned, as [agent for] the _____ [beneficiary or trustee or mortgagee] under a _____ [trust deed or mortgage] executed by _____ [name] as _____ [trustor or mortgagor] to _____ [name] as _____ [trustee or mortgagee] [for _____ (name) as beneficiary], recorded _____ [date] in _____ County, California, at book _____, page _____, that a breach of the obligation, for which the [trust deed or mortgage] provides security, has occurred as follows:

1. _____ [Describe with particularity all breaches in this and succeeding numbered paragraphs, e.g., _____ (name of trustor or mortgagor) has failed, and continues to fail, to make timely installment payments of principal and interest due for the months of _____ through _____ (specify)].

THEREFORE, the _____ [beneficiary or mortgagee] [declares that the entire debt and all sums secured by the above-described _____ (trust deed or mortgage) are immediately due and payable and] elects to sell the property, or to cause it to be sold, to satisfy the claim for all amounts now due and unpaid.

_____ [date]
_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

This form may be used by a beneficiary, trustee, or mortgagee (or an authorized agent) in a nonjudicial foreclosure proceeding to give notice of a default on the obligation secured by the trust deed or mortgage and of the consequent election by the beneficiary or mortgagee to sell the encumbered property [Civ. Code § 2924(a)(1)]. Optional language is included for use by the beneficiary or mortgagee to declare the entire outstanding secured debt to be immediately due and payable under an acceleration clause [see Engelbertson v. Loan & Bldg. Asso. (1936) 6 Cal. 2d 477, 479, 58 P.2d 647 (declaration of acceleration in notice of default was sufficient indication of election to exercise option under acceleration clause)]. For further discussion, see § 555.15[3]].

Printed forms of notice of default may be obtained from most title insurance companies.

[3] Contents

[a] Standard Requirements; Actual and Potential Defaults

The notice of default must identify the trust deed by stating the name of the trustor or mortgagor and giving either the book and page in which it is recorded, as in this form, or a description of the property. It must also include a statement that a breach of the obligation secured by the trust deed or mortgage has occurred, a description of the nature of the breach, and a statement of the beneficiary's or mortgagee's election to sell the property [Civ. Code § 2924(a)(1)]. All copies of the notice must include its recordation date [see Civ. Code §§ 2924b(b)(1), (c)(1), 2924c(b)(1)].

Reference should be made not only to actual defaults but also to any other default that might arise before reinstatement, such as a delinquency in the payment of property taxes or installments under a senior trust deed. In one case, a junior beneficiary recorded a notice of default and afterward cured another default under a senior trust deed. The junior beneficiary then refused to accept a tender of payment for reinstatement on the ground that it did not cover the amount for the curing the default under the senior trust deed. The court of appeal indicated that such a refusal was wrongful. Although the junior beneficiary was entitled to add the disputed amount to the trustor's total debt, the junior beneficiary was not entitled to add that amount to the total sum necessary for reinstatement because that amount was not mentioned in the previously recorded notice of default[Little v. Harbor Pacific Mortgage Investors (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 717, 720-721, 221 Cal. Rptr. 59] . The court noted that the notice of default would have been sufficient to require tender of the disputed amount if it had included a reference, not only to actual delinquencies, but also to delinquent payments, if any, under the senior trust deed [Little v. Harbor Pacific Mortgage Investors (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 717, 721 n.6, 221 Cal. Rptr. 59] .

[b] Reinstatement

If the beneficiary or mortgagee has elected to accelerate the secured debt, the trustor or mortgagor has a limited right to reinstate the obligation without paying the entire accelerated amount [Civ. Code § 2924c(a)(1); see § 555.54], and the notice of default must be prefaced with the statement set out in this form, which provides information concerning reinstatement [Civ. Code §§ 2924(a)(1)(D), 2924c(b)(1)]. The statement must be given in Spanish if either of the following conditions is satisfied [Civ. Code § 2924c(b)(1)]:

- The trustor or mortgagor requested a Spanish translation of the security agreement in a consumer transaction described in Civ. Code § 1632(a)(1) or (4).

- The secured obligation was negotiated principally in Spanish and is a home improvement contract [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 7151.2, 7159] that is subject to the Unruh Act [see Civ. Code § 1801 et seq.].

[C] Failure to Comply

Failure to comply with these requirements does not affect the validity of a subsequent private sale to a good faith purchaser or the rights of a good faith lienholder [Civ. Code § 2924c(b)(2)]. There is a rebuttable presumption that the beneficiary actually knew of all unpaid loan payments to the beneficiary and secured by the trust deed or mortgage subject to the notice of default. The failure to include an actually known default does not invalidate the notice of sale, however, and the beneficiary is not precluded from asserting a claim based on the omitted default in a separate notice of default [Civ. Code § 2924(e)].

[4] Recording, Mailing, and Publishing Notice

The trustee, beneficiary, or mortgagee, or an authorized agent, must file the original notice of default for record in each county in which some part of the property is located [Civ. Code § 2924(a)(1)]. For further discussion, see § 555.52. Acknowledgment is not required before recordation [U.S. Hertz, Inc. v. Niobrara Farms (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 68, 85-86, 116 Cal. Rptr. 44] .

Copies of the notice of default must be mailed to certain persons after recordation of the original notice [see Civ. Code § 2924b(b)-(e)]. The time and manner of mailing these copies, and the persons entitled to receive mailed copies, are discussed in § 555.52[3]. In addition, publication of a copy of the notice is required in certain situations for the benefit of the trustor or mortgagor [Civ. Code § 2924b(d)]. For discussion of when this publication is necessary, and the time and manner in which it is accomplished, see § 555.52[4].

The mailing, publication, and delivery of a notice of default (or other notice) as required in Civ. Code § 2924, and the performance of related statutory procedures, constitute privileged communications within Civ. Code § 47 [Civ. Code § 2924(d)].

[1] FORM Notice of Rescission of Declaration of Default and Demand for Sale [Civ. Code § 2924c(a)(2)]

[Space for recording information; see § 555.141[4].]

NOTICE OF RESCISSION OF DEFAULT

_____ [Name], as [agent for] the _____ [beneficiary or trustee or mortgagee] under a _____ [trust deed or mortgage] executed by _____ [name] as _____ [trustor or mortgagor] to _____ [name] as _____ [trustee or mortgagee] [for _____ (name) as beneficiary], recorded _____ [date] in _____ County, California, at book _____, page _____, hereby rescinds the declaration of default and election to sell the property that was recorded _____ [date] in _____ County, California, at book _____, page _____. The date of reinstatement is _____ [date].

_____ [date]
_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by a beneficiary or mortgagee (or an agent for a beneficiary or mortgagee) in a nonjudicial foreclosure proceeding, to record a notice of rescission of the declaration of default and election to sell [see § 555.142] after reinstatement of the secured obligation. The form must be delivered to the trustee for recordation [see Civ. Code § 2924c(a)(2)]. For discussion of reinstatement, see § 555.54.

[3] Notice of Rescission As Mandatory

If the trustor, mortgagor, or other authorized person cures the default, the beneficiary, mortgagee, or an agent must, within 21 days, execute and deliver to the trustee a notice rescinding the declaration of default and demand for sale and stating the date of reinstatement. The trustee must cause the notice of rescission to be recorded within 30 days of receiving it (accompanied by all allowable fees and costs). No charge, except for the recording fee, may be made to the trustor for the execution and recordation of the notice of rescission [Civ. Code § 2924c(a)(2)]. It appears that acknowledgment of the notice of rescission is not necessary before recordation, as the notice does not confer any right to or lien on the property [see U.S. Hertz, Inc. v. Niobrara Farms (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 68, 86, 116 Cal. Rptr. 44] .

_____ [typed name]
_____ [Trustee or Mortgagee]

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by a trustee, mortgagee, or other person conducting a sale of real property pursuant to a power of sale conferred in a trust deed or mortgage, to give notice of the sale [see Civ. Code §§ 2924(a)(3), 2924b(b)-(e), 2924f(b), 2924g(a)]. For discussion of the requirements relating to the time and manner of recording the original notice of sale and posting, publishing, and mailing copies of the notice of sale, see § 555.56.

[3] Typeface and Heading

A notice of sale of real property under a power of sale must conform to the minimum requirements of Gov. Code § 6043 [Civ. Code § 2924f(b)(1)]. Thus, the notice must be set in type that is not smaller than nonpareil. Further, it must be preceded with words (that is, a heading) printed inblackface type, not smaller than nonpareil, describing or expressing in general terms the purport or character of the notice intended to be given [Gov. Code § 6043]. (There is no statutory definition of "nonpareil" as a type size. It is about six points, according to some old typesetting manuals.)

[4] Contents of Notice

[a] In General

The notice of sale must include the following contents (as well as information described in § 555.144[4][b]-[d]):

- A statement required by Civ. Code § 2924f(c)(3), which is set out in the first paragraph of the body of this form [Civ. Code § 2924f(b)(1)].

- The time of the sale, which must be between 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. on a business day [Civ. Code § 2924g(a)].

- The street address and the specific place at that address where the sale will be held, which must be in the county in which any part of the property to be sold is located [Civ. Code §§ 2924(a)(3), 2924f(b)(1), 2924g(a)].

- The name, street address in California (which may reflect an agent of the trustee), and either a toll-free telephone number or telephone number in California of the trustee, and the name of the original trustor [Civ. Code § 2924f(b)(1)].

- A statement that the notice is being republished pursuant to a cancellation of a cash equivalent under Civ. Code § 2924h(d) [see § 555.57[5]], if this is the case [Civ. Code § 2924f(b)(1)].

- A statement as to (1) whether a final or temporary order of exemption was obtained pursuant to Civ. Code § 2923.53 and is current and valid on the date the notice of sale is filed, and (2) whether the 90-day extension for giving notice of sale, specified in Civ. Code § 2923.52(a), applies or does not apply, pursuant to Civ. Code § 2923.52(b) and (c) and Civ. Code § 2923.55 [Civ. Code § 2923.54(a); see Civ. Code § 2923.54(c) (sunset date is January 1, 2011); for discussion, see § 555.54[1][f]].

In addition, if there has been an assignment of the secured note or a substitution of trustees, the notice of sale should include appropriate recording information [see Civ. Code §§ 2934, 2934a(a)]. The name, address, and telephone number of the substituted trustee must be included in the notice of sale, otherwise any sale by that trustee will be void [Civ. Code § 2934a(e)].

Other provisions in this form, such as the statement that the sale will be made without warranty of title, that the sale will be for cash, and that the notice is given pursuant to the beneficiary's request, are clauses that are typically included pursuant to the terms of standard trust deed forms.

It appears that acknowledgment of the notice of sale is not necessary before recordation, because the notice does not confer any right to or lien on the property [see U.S. Hertz, Inc. v. Niobrara Farms (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 68, 86, 116 Cal. Rptr. 44] .

[b] Property Description

The description of the property must include the county assessor's parcel number and the street address, if any, or other common designation, ifany. If the property has no street address or other common designation, the notice must include a legal description of the property, the name and address of the beneficiary at whose request the sale is to be conducted, and a statement that directions may be obtained pursuant to a written request submitted to the beneficiary within 10 days from the first publication of the notice of sale [Civ. Code § 2924f(b)(1)].

If the notice of sale indicates that directions to the property may be obtained from the beneficiary, any such directions will be deemed reasonably sufficient to locate the property if they refer to the direction and approximate distance from the nearest crossroads, frontage road, or access road [Civ. Code § 2924f(b)(1)].

If the property description includes a legal description or a county assessor's parcel number and either a street address or another common designation of the property, the validity of the notice and the validity of the sale will not be affected by any error or omission in the street address, other common designation, name and address of the beneficiary, or the directions obtained from the beneficiary [Civ. Code § 2924f(b)(1)].

[c] Amount Due

The notice must state the total amount of the unpaid balance of the secured obligation and reasonably estimated costs, expenses, and advances as of the date of the initial publication of the notice of sale. The trustee is not liable for any good faith error in stating the proper amount, including any amount provided in good faith by or on behalf of the beneficiary, and an inaccurate statement does not affect the validity of the sale to a good faith purchaser [Civ. Code § 2924f(b)(1)]. For discussion of permitted costs and expenses, see §§ 555.54[2], 555.58.

[d] Unified Sale Including Personal Property or Fixtures

If the sale of the property is to be a unified sale [see Com. Code § 9604(a)(1)(B)], the notice must include a description of the personal property or fixtures to be sold. If it is contemplated that all of the personal property or fixtures are to be sold, the description in the notice of the personal property or fixtures will be sufficient if it is the same as the description of the personal property or fixtures contained in the agreement creating the security interest in or encumbrance on the personal property or fixtures or the filed financing statement relating to the personal property or fixtures. In all other cases, the description in the notice will be sufficient if it would be a sufficient description of the personal property or fixtures under Com. Code § 9108 [Civ. Code § 2924f(b)(2)].

Inclusion of a reference to or a description of personal property or fixtures will not constitute an election by the secured party to conduct a unified sale and in no way will render defective or noncomplying either the notice or a sale pursuant to that notice by reason of the fact that the sale includesnone or less than all of the personal property or fixtures referred to or described in the notice [Civ. Code § 2924f(b)(2)].

§ 555.145 Declaration of Mailing Notices of Default and Sale [Civ. Code § 2924b(e)]

[1] FORM Declaration of Mailing Notices of Default and Sale [Civ. Code § 2924b(e)]

DECLARATION OF MAILING

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am _____ [identity of declarant, e.g., and at all times mentioned was, trustee under a trust deed executed by _____ (name) as _____ trustor to _____ (name) as _____ trustee for _____ (name) as beneficiary and recorded _____ (date), in _____ County, California, at book _____, page _____]. I am over the age of 18 years. My _____ [residence or business] address is _____ [address].

2. On _____ [date], within 10 business days after recordation of the notice of default, a true and correct copy of which is attached to this declaration, I deposited in the United States mail copies of the notice of default in separate, sealed envelopes, with first-class postage fully prepaid, addressed as follows:

_____ [Name and address of each trustor or mortgagor to whom notice of default was mailed].

3. On _____ [date], more than three months after the recording of the notice of default and at least 20 days before the date of the sale set forth in the notice of sale, a true and correct copy of which is attached to this declaration, I deposited in the United States mail copies of the notice of sale in separate, sealed envelopes, with first-class postage fully prepaid, addressed to the persons at the addresses stated above.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]
_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a declaration for use by any person who is required to send copies of a notice of default or sale to each trustor or mortgagor by first class mail, in addition to those copies required to be sent by registered or certified mail [under Civ. Code § 2924b(b), (c); see §§ 555.52[3][a], 555.56[3]]. Such a person must also execute and retain an affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) showing that these additional copies were mailed as required [Civ. Code § 2924b(e)].

[3] Contents and Effect of Declaration

The affidavit (or declaration under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) must state the following facts [Civ. Code § 2924b(e)]:

- The name and residence or business address of the declarant.
- That the declarant is over the age of 18 years.
- A specification of each notice of which a copy was mailed.
- The date each copy of a notice was deposited in the mail.
- The name and address of each trustor or mortgagor to whom a copy of a notice was mailed.
- That each envelope containing a copy of notice was sealed and deposited in the mail with first-class postage fully prepaid.

In the absence of fraud, the affidavit (or declaration) establishes a conclusive presumption of mailing [Civ. Code § 2924b(e)].

§ 555.146 Deed by Trustee Pursuant to Exercise of Power of Sale [Civ. Code § 2924(a), (c)]

[1] FORM Deed by Trustee Pursuant to Exercise of Power of Sale [Civ. Code § 2924(a), (c)]

[Recording information. See § 555.136[1].]

TRUSTEE'S DEED

_____ [Name of trustee], _____ [capacity, e.g., a California corporation], as trustee under the trust deed described below, grants without warranty to _____ [name] all that real property situated in [_____ (city),] _____ County, California, at _____ [street address or other common designation], described as follows: _____ [full legal description].

This conveyance is made pursuant to the powers conferred on the grantor by the trust deed executed by _____ [name] as trustor to _____ [name] as trustee for _____ [name] as beneficiary, recorded _____ [date] in _____ County, California, at book _____, page _____, and after fulfillment of the conditions specified in the trust deed authorizing this conveyance, as follows:

1. A default occurred in the obligations for which the transfer in trust under the trust deed was given as security, and notice of default was recorded in _____ [the or each] county in which the property described in the trust deed is situated. The default consisted of the following: _____ [specify all breaches, e.g., _____ (name of trustor) failed to make timely installment payments of principal and interest due for the months of _____ through _____]. This default still existed at the time of sale.

2. The beneficiary made due demand on the trustee to sell the property pursuant to the terms of the trust deed.

3. Not less than three months elapsed between the recordation of the notice of default and the posting and first publication of the notice of sale of the property.

4. The trustee gave notice of the time and place of sale of the property in accordance with law and the terms of the trust deed.

5. Copies of the notice of default and notice of sale were mailed in accordance with the law to the trustor and to all persons who recorded requests for copies of notice or who were entitled by law to receive notice.

6. The trustee sold the property at public auction on _____ [date] in _____ County, California, in accordance with the law and the terms of the trust deed. The above-named grantee was the highest bidder at the sale, became the purchaser, and paid to the trustee the amount bid, being $_____, in lawful money of the United States.

_____ [date]
_____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Trustee

[Acknowledgment. See § 555.141[1].]

[2] Use of Form

This form is a deed for use by a trustee to grant title to the person who purchased the property at the foreclosure sale [see Civ. Code § 2924(a), (c)]. For discussion of the effect of the trustee's deed and the rights of the grantee, see §§ 555.61 and 555.62.

[3] Contents of Deed

The form includes a conveyance of title without warranty, because the trustee has no duty to guaranty title [Brown v. Busch (1957) 152 Cal. App. 2d 200, 204, 313 P.2d 19] .

The form also includes recitals indicating that title was duly conveyed pursuant to the trustee's authority under the terms of the trust deed, after (1) a specified default in the secured obligation, and (2) compliance with all terms of the trust deed and all applicable requirements of law. For discussion of the effect of the recitals of compliance with statutory notice requirements, see § 555.63[2][b].

Plaintiff alleges:

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION
(Declaratory Relief)

1. [Capacity and residence of plaintiff. See § 555.120[1], Paragraph 1.]

2. [Capacity and residence of defendants. See § 555.120[1], Paragraphs 2 and 3.]

3. [Making of promissory note. See § 555.125[1], Paragraph 5.]

4. On the same day and as part of the same transaction, plaintiff executed a trust deed conveying certain property to defendant _____ [name] as trustee for defendant _____ [name], the beneficiary, to secure payment of the note. That property is located in _____ County, California, and is described as follows ("the property"): _____ [legal description]. The trust deed was recorded _____ [date] in _____ County, California, at book _____, page _____. A copy of the trust deed is attached as Exhibit B and incorporated by reference.

5. On _____ [date], defendant _____ [name] recorded a notice of default in _____ County, California, at book _____, page _____, alleging that the following breach of the obligation secured by the deed of trust had occurred: _____ [summarize breach set out in notice of default]. A copy of the notice of default is attached as Exhibit C and incorporated by reference.

6. _____ [Allege facts showing that default was improperly declared or that defendant is otherwise not entitled to proceed with sale of property].

7. An actual controversy has arisen and now exists between plaintiff and defendants concerning their respective rights and duties. Plaintiff contends that _____ [plaintiff's contentions as to legal consequences resulting from allegations above, e.g., defendant _____ (name of beneficiary) was not entitled to accelerate the maturity of the secured obligation by reason of the acts of plaintiff described above], whereas defendants dispute this contention and contend that _____ [defendants' contentions, e.g., defendant _____ (name of beneficiary) was entitled to accelerate it].

8. A judicial declaration is necessary and appropriate at this time in the circumstances in order that plaintiff may ascertain plaintiff's rights and duties under the note and trust deed.

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION
(Injunction)

9. Plaintiff refers to and incorporates Paragraphs 1-6 of the First Cause of Action.

10. Defendants threaten to (and unless restrained, will) sell the property, or cause it to be sold, to plaintiff's great and irreparable injury, for which pecuniary compensation would not afford adequate relief, in that _____ [specify].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant as follows:

1. For a declaration of the rights and duties of the parties, including a declaration that _____ [specify declaration, e.g., a breach of the obligation for which the trust deed is security has not occurred];

2. For an order requiring defendant _____ [name of trustee] to show cause why defendant should not be enjoined as set forth below, during the pendency of this action;

3. For a temporary restraining order, a preliminary injunction, and a permanent injunction, all enjoining defendant _____ [name of trustee] and all persons acting under, for, or in concert with that defendant, from selling the trust property or attempting to sell it or causing it to be sold, either under the power of sale in the trust deed or by foreclosure action.

4. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

5. For any other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint for use by a trustor or a successor in interest, to bring an action to enjoin a threatened nonjudicial foreclosure sale under a power of sale in a trust deed [Civ. Code § 3420 et seq.; Code Civ. Proc. § 525 et seq.] and obtain a declaration of the rights of the parties [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1060, 1061], when the plaintiff contends that the beneficiary and trustee are not entitled to exercise the power of sale. For further discussion, see § 555.63[1].

Although the trustor or a successor in interest is usually the plaintiff in this type of action, it appears that any other person with an interest adversely affected by the sale may also have a cause of action [see, e.g., Lansdown v. Smith & Sons R. Corp., Ltd. (1934) 1 Cal. App. 2d 618, 619-620, 37 P.2d 127 (assuming, without deciding, that junior lienholder would have standing to sue)].

Foreclosure for failure to pay a prepayment penalty was not enjoinable on the basis of equitable estoppel when the collection agent mistakenly accepted payoff from the debtor's agent without a penalty, even though the debtor's agent knew of the clear penalty language in the note [Sanguansak v. Myers (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 110, 117-118, 223 Cal. Rptr. 490] . Nor could an injunction be issued on the basis of Civ. Code § 1501 (waiver of the inadequacies of tendered performance if no objection is made at the time of tender) or Code Civ. Proc. § 2076 (same) after the collection agent mistakenly accepted payoff without objection or demand for the prepayment penalty, because those statutes apply to intentional failures to demand proper tender [Sanguansak v. Myers (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 110, 115-117, 223 Cal. Rptr. 490] .

[3] Allegations

This complaint states two causes of action. The first, for declaratory relief, alleges the following facts:

- The existence of the secured obligation and trust deed in issue, indicating a proper subject for declaratory relief (Paragraphs 3 and 4) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1060 (declaration of rights under written instrument or in respect to property)].

- The declaration of default and election to sell under the trust deed, together with any other steps that the defendant trustee may have taken to conduct the threatened sale (Paragraphs 5).

- The existence of facts on the basis of which the plaintiff contends that an actual justiciable controversy exists with respect to the defendanttrustee's right to conduct the sale (Paragraphs 6-8) [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1060, 1061].

For further discussion and alternative forms of complaints relating to declaratory relief generally, see Ch. 182, Declaratory Relief .

The second cause of action for injunctive relief incorporates the allegations of the first cause of action (Paragraph 9) and alleges grounds for preliminary and permanent injunctive relief to enjoin the threatened sale (Paragraph 10) [Civ. Code § 3422(1); Code Civ. Proc. § 526(a)(2), (4)]. For further discussion and forms relating to injunctive relief generally, including forms for use in conjunction with this form of complaint to obtain preliminary injunctive relief, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

[4] Verification

Verification [see Code Civ. Proc. § 446] is required if the plaintiff seeks a temporary restraining order or a preliminary injunction on the complaint instead of on an affidavit (or declarations under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a); see generally Ch. 303, Injunctions]. Otherwise, verification is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a) (unless otherwise required by law, pleadings not required to be verified)]. However, if the complaint is verified, the defendant is required to file a verified answer in an unlimited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446(a)] and is precluded from making a general denial in an unlimited civil case and even in a limited civil case that is based on a claim assigned to a third party for collection [see Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion of the effect that verifying a complaint has on the answer, see Ch. 26, Answers .

If relying on a verified complaint instead of an affidavit (or declaration), counsel must plead evidentiary facts that would entitle the plaintiff to the relief sought [see E.H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1 ; San Juan G. Co. v. San Juan R. etc. Assn. (1939) 34 Cal. App. 2d 159, 174, 93 P.2d 582] . In addition, counsel must append to this form a declaration relating to notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1204(b)]. For discussion, a procedural checklist, and additional forms necessary to obtain a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

[5] Jurisdiction and Venue

An action for declaratory relief or for a permanent injunction restraining a private sale of real property is within the jurisdiction of the superior court and is not a limited civil action [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. § 1060; see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(8), (b)]. When title or right to possession is to be tried, or permanent injunctive relief is sought, the case will be classified as an unlimited civil case [see Code Civ. Proc. § 88].

In an action for the determination of rights with respect to real property, the superior court in the county in which the real property is situated is the proper court for the trial of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 392(a)(1)].

§ 555.148 Petition and Declaration Regarding Unresolved Claims and Deposit of Undistributed Surplus Proceeds of Trustee's Sale--Judicial Council Form MC-095

[1] FORM Petition and Declaration Regarding Unresolved Claims and Deposit of Undistributed Surplus Proceeds of Trustee's Sale--Judicial Council Form MC-095

[2] Use of Form

The form illustrated in [1], above, is the mandatory Judicial Council form for a petition and declaration to be used by a trustee when the trustee is unable to determine the priority of written claims to the surplus, or the trustee determines that there is a conflict between potential claimants [Civ. Code § 2924j(c); see Cal. Judicial Council Form MC-095]. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

At the time of filing this form, the trustee must deposit the portion of the sale proceeds that cannot be distributed with the court [Civ. Code § 2924j(c)] and send appropriate notice to all potential claimants [Civ. Code § 2924j(d); see [4], below].

At least 15 days before the scheduled hearing date, the court must serve written notice of the hearing by first class mail on all claimants identified in the trustee's declaration, at the specified addresses of the claimants. Within 90 days after the trustee files the petition and declaration and deposits the funds with the clerk, the court must consider all claims filed. After the hearing, the court must distribute the deposited funds to all entitled claimants in the priority specified by statute [Civ. Code § 2924j(d); see § 555.59 (priority of claims)].

[3] Information, Allegations, and Accompanying Documents

The declaration must set forth (1) the date of the trustee's sale, (2) a description of the property, (3) the names and addresses of all persons to whom notice was sent, (4) a statement that the trustee exercised due diligence and provided written notice as required, and (5) the amount of the sale proceeds deposited. In addition, the trustee must submit a copy of the trustee's sale guaranty and any information relevant to the identity, location, and priority of potential claims. The trustee must also file proof of service of the required notice with the declaration [Civ. Code § 2924j(c); see [4], below].

[4] Notice of Conflicting Claims Mailed to Entitled Persons

Before the trustee deposits the funds with the court clerk, the trustee must send written notice by first-class mail, postage prepaid, to all persons entitled to notice of conflicting claims. The notice must state that the trustee intends to deposit the funds with the clerk, and that claimants must file claims within 30 days following the date of the notice. The address of the court where the funds were deposited, and a phone number for further information, must be included in the notice [Civ. Code § 2924j(d)].

[5] Jurisdiction and Venue

The petition and declaration and related documents [see [3], above] must be filed, and the sales proceeds that cannot be distributed must be deposited, with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the sale occurred [Civ. Code § 2924j(c)].

§ 555.160 Complaint for Foreclosure of Deed of Trust Based on Monetary Default [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 725a, 726(a)]--By Beneficiary

[1] FORM Complaint for Foreclosure of Deed of Trust Based on Monetary Default [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 725a, 726(a)]--By Beneficiary

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	COMPLAINT FOR FORECLOSURE OF TRUST
Defendant.	)	DEED

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Capacity and residence of plaintiff. See § 555.120[1], Paragraph 1.]

2. Defendant, _____ [name of trustor], is, and at all times mentioned was, _____ [allege capacity and residence, e.g., a resident of _____ County, California].

3. [Making of promissory note. See § 555.126[1], Paragraph 3.]

4. [Execution and recordation of trust deed. See § 555.147[1], Paragraph 4.]

5. Defendant is the record owner of the property.

6. [On _____ (date) the note and the beneficial interest in the trust deed were assigned to plaintiff. A copy of the assignment is attached as Exhibit C and incorporated by reference.] Plaintiff is now, and at all times _____ [mentioned was or since _____ (date of assignment) has been], the lawful owner and holder of the note and the beneficiary of the trust deed.

7. The note provides that, should a default occur in the payment of any installment when due, or in the performance of any obligation in the trust deed securing payment of the note, the whole sum of principal and interest shall become immediately due at the election of the holder of the note and shall, at the election of the holder, bear interest during the period of the default at the rate of _____ percent per annum. The trust deed provides that, should a default occur in the payment of any debt secured by the trust deed, or in the performance of any obligation in the note or trust deed, all sums secured by the trust deed shall, at the election of the beneficiary, become immediately due and payable.

8. By the terms of the note, defendant promised to pay monthly installments of $_____ or more, principal and interest, on the _____ day of each month beginning _____ [date]. Defendant has failed and refused to make payments of $_____ principal and interest, due on _____ [date] and in subsequent months, up to and including _____ [date], and amounting to $_____ in installments. By reason of these defaults, plaintiff elected to declare the whole sum of principal and interest immediately due and payable. The whole sum due consists of a principal balance of $_____ plus interest from _____ [date] to _____ [date] at _____ percent per annum amounting to $_____, a combined total of $_____. Interest on the combined total amounts to $_____ per day for each additional day from _____ [date] to the date of entry of judgment.

[9. _____ (Allege additional obligation in default, e.g., By the terms of the trust deed, defendant promised to pay, at least _____ days before delinquency, all general and special city and county taxes affecting the property. Defendant has failed and refused to pay these for the fiscal year _____ in the sum of $_____, and plaintiff has paid these taxes to prevent a sale to the State of California for delinquency).]

[10. _____ (Allege additional obligation in default, e.g., By the terms of the trust deed, defendant promised to provide and maintain in force at all times fire, earthquake, and other insurance, each in an amount satisfactory to, and with loss payable to, plaintiff as beneficiary. Since _____ (date), defendant has failed and refused to renew and maintain in force fire, earthquake, and other insurance. By reason of defendant's failure and refusal to pay the premium on the insurance policies at the time of renewal, plaintiff has been required to pay, and has paid, the premiums on the insurance in order to keep the property and improvements insured at all times. The dates and amounts of, and periods covered by, these payments are: _____ (specify). By the terms of the trust deed, when plaintiff is required to make payments because of defendant's failure and refusal to pay the premiums on the insurance policies, the amounts paid by plaintiff shall be charged to the principal due on the note secured by the trust deed. The sum of $_____, representing payment by plaintiff on the insurance policies, is not included in, and is in addition to, the above-described principal sum of $_____).]

11. By the terms of the trust deed, defendant promised that if any action were commenced on the note or trust deed, defendant would pay plaintiff's reasonable attorney's fees and that these charges would also become a lien on the property. By reason of the above-mentioned defaults by defendant it has become necessary for plaintiff to employ _____ [name], an attorney at law duly licensed to practice in all the courts of the State of California, to commence and prosecute this foreclosure action.

[12. _____ (If deficiency judgment is being sought, allege basis for personal liability of defendant other than trustor, e.g., On _____ (date) _____ (name) assumed the obligation evidenced by the note. A copy of the assumption agreement is attached as Exhibit D and incorporated by reference).]

[13. _____ (If deficiency judgment, otherwise permissible, is not being sought, allege express waiver, if desired, e.g., Plaintiff waives judgment for any deficiency between the sale price of the real property and the amount due plaintiff with costs).]

[14. _____ (Allege existence of all known junior lienholders or other interest holders, if any, e.g., Defendant _____ (name) is a judgment creditor of defendant _____ (name of trustor) and on _____ (date) recorded an abstract of judgment for the sum of $_____ in _____ County, California. The lien of this judgment is subsequent to and subject to the lien of the trust deed).]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. Against _____ [names of trustor and any other defendant personally liable for secured obligation] for the total sum of $_____, principal and interest, together with interest at the rate of $_____ per day from _____ [date] to the date of entry of judgment[, and for the sum of $_____ paid by plaintiff on account of _____ (specify additional amounts of taxes, premiums, etc., for which plaintiff is entitled to repayment under terms of trust deed)];

2. Against _____ [names of trustor and any other defendant personally liable for secured obligation] for attorney's fees in an amount that the court adjudges reasonable;

3. Adjudging that all rights, claims, ownership, liens, titles, and demands of defendant[s, jointly and severally,] are subsequent to and subject to the lien of the trust deed;

4. Adjudging that the trust deed be foreclosed, that the property be sold according to law by a levying officer to be appointed by the court, that the proceeds of the sale be applied in payment of the amounts due to plaintiff, that [each] defendant and all persons claiming under [each] defendant, after execution of plaintiff's trust deed, whether as lien claimant, judgment creditor, claimant under a junior trust deed, purchaser, lienholder, or otherwise, be barred and foreclosed from all rights, claims, interests, or equity of redemption in the property and every part of the property when time for redemption has elapsed;

[5. Adjudging that _____ (names of trustor and any other defendant personally liable for secured obligation) is/are personally liable for payment of the obligation secured by the trust deed, and that a deficiency judgment may be ordered following proceedings prescribed by law;]

6. Permitting plaintiff or any parties to this action to become a purchaser at the foreclosure sale;

7. Directing the levying officer, after the time for redemption has elapsed, to execute a deed to the purchaser of the property at the sale, and directing that the purchaser be let into possession of the property on production of the levying officer's deed;

8. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

9. For any other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint for use by a beneficiary of a trust deed to bring an action for foreclosure based on a monetary default in the obligation secured by the trust deed [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 725a, 726(a); see § 555.70]. It may be modified for use by a mortgagee [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 725a, 726(a); § 555.70[2][a]].

A lis pendens should be recorded at the time the complaint is filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 405.20 et seq.; see § 555.70[3]]. For further discussion and a form of lis pendens for use in a foreclosure action, see Ch. 348, Lis Pendens .

[3] Allegations

This complaint alleges the following essential facts:

- The secured obligation (Paragraph 3).
- The trust deed securing the obligation (Paragraph 4).
- The plaintiff's status as creditor (Paragraph 6).
- Acceleration clauses enabling the plaintiff to declare the entire unpaid debt immediately due (Paragraph 7) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 728; § 555.15[3]].
- The defaults entitling the plaintiff to foreclose (Paragraphs 8-10) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 726(a)].
- A provision for the recovery of reasonable attorney's fees (Paragraph 11) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 730; § 555.74].
- Optional allegations for use if the plaintiff will seek a deficiency judgment (Paragraph 12) or if the plaintiff desires to waive recovery of a deficiency judgment (Paragraph 13) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 726(b)].

[4] Defendants

Necessary defendants are the record owner, whether the trustor or a successor, and all persons with a recorded interest in the property that is subsequent or subordinate to the trust deed [see Code Civ. Proc. § 726(c)]. Persons who are liable for the secured obligation must be made defendants if a deficiency judgment is being sought [see Code Civ. Proc. § 726(b)]. The trustee need not be a defendant [see Field v. Acres (1937) 9 Cal. 2d 110, 112-113, 69 P.2d 422] . For further discussion relating to these parties, see § 555.70[2].

[5] Appointment of Receiver

In some circumstances a receiver may be appointed during the pendency of the action, to take possession of the property [Code Civ. Proc. § 564(b)(2); see § 555.70[4]]. For further discussion and related forms, see Ch. 486, Receivers .

A receiver may be appointed in an action by a secured lender for specific performance of an as signment of rents in a trust deed, mortgage, or separate assignment document. Such an appointment may be continued after entry of a judgment for specific performance in the action if appropriate to protect, operate, or maintain the property or to collect rents while a pending nonjudicial foreclosure under power of sale is being completed [Code Civ. Proc. § 564(b)(11)].

A receiver may be appointed in a case brought by an assignee under an assignment of leases, rents, issues, or profits pursuant to Civ. Code § 2938(g) [Code Civ. Proc. § 564(b)(12); see Civ. Code § 2938 (governing written assignments of interests in leases, rents, issues, or profits of real property made in connection with obligation secured by real property); see also § 555.81[1]].

[6] Deficiency Judgment

If a deficiency judgment is being sought, the court will determine whether one may be recovered in the circumstances and, if so, who among the defendants may be held liable [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(b); see § 555.163[2]]. The amount of the deficiency will be determined and adjudged in a subsequent proceeding, which must be commenced within three months after the sale of the property under the foreclosure decree [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(b); see § 555.73 and §§ 555.164-555.168].

[7] Verification

Verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a) (unless otherwise required by law, pleadings not required to be verified)]. However, if the complaint is verified, the defendant is required to file a verified answer in a superior court action other than a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446(a)] and is precluded from making a general denial in superior court actions that are not limited civil cases and in some limited civil cases [see Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion of the effect that verifying a complaint has on the answer, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[8] Jurisdiction and Venue

The superior court has jurisdiction of foreclosure actions involving real property; the action is not a limited civil case [see Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86]. The court retains jurisdiction until expiration of the statutory redemption period [Van Loben Sels v. Bunnell (1901) 131 Cal. 489, 492, 63 P. 773 ; see § 555.72]. When title or right to possession is to be tried, or permanent injunctive relief is sought, the case will be classified as an unlimited civil case [see Code Civ. Proc. § 88].

When the United States is a defendant, the action may be brought in, or removed to, the U.S. district court [28 U.S.C. §§ 1444, 2410(a); see § 555.70[2][b]].

The superior court in the county in which all or part of the encumbered property is located is the proper court for the trial of a foreclosure action [Code Civ. Proc. § 392(a)(2)].

§ 555.161 Affirmative Defense Allegation--Bar of Statute of Limitations [Civ. Code § 2911(1); Code Civ. Proc. § 337(1)]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense Allegation--Bar of Statute of Limitations [Civ. Code § 2911(1); Code Civ. Proc. § 337(1)]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action is alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges that the plaintiff's alleged cause of action herein is barred by the provisions of Civil Code Section 2911(1) and Code of Civil Procedure Section 337(1) in that the four-year statute of limitations has run on the promissory note secured by the _____ [trust deed or mortgage].

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use by a defendant in an action for foreclosure to raise the statute of limitations as a bar by way of an affirmative defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2); see Flack v. Boland (1938) 11 Cal. 2d 103, 106-107, 77 P.2d 1090] . For further discussion, see § 555.18[4][a] and Ch. 345, Limitation of Actions . The limitation period is the one that applies to an action on the secured obligation [Civ. Code § 2911(1)]. Usually, it is the four-year period applicable to actions on a written contract [Code Civ. Proc. § 337(1)]. For further discussion of answers generally, including general forms in which this affirmative defense may be inserted, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[3] Alternative Use of Demurrer

If the defense of the statute of limitations is apparent on the face of the complaint or from matter of which the court may take judicial notice [see Evid. Code §§ 451, 452], the bar of the statute may be raised by a general demurrer [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 430.10(e), 430.30(a)], although the specific ground must be pleaded. This is an exception to the rule that general demurrers need only state that the complaint fails to state a cause of action. However, the defense of the statute of limitations is not waived for failure to demur, and it may be asserted as an affirmative defense [California Safe etc. Co. v. Sierra etc. Co. (1910) 158 Cal. 690, 697-698, 112 P. 274] . For further discussion and forms of demurrers generally, see Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings .

§ 555.162 Affirmative Defense Allegation--Senior Lien of Another Trust Deed [Civ. Code §§ 1214, 1215]

[1] FORM Affirmative Defense Allegation--Senior Lien of Another Trust Deed [Civ. Code §§ 1214, 1215]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE [if more than one cause of action alleged, state TO THE _____ (specify, e.g., SECOND) CAUSE OF ACTION], defendant alleges:

1. On _____ [date] _____ [name of trustor], for a valuable consideration, made, executed, and delivered to defendant a promissory note for the sum of $_____, plus interest. A copy of the note is attached as Exhibit A and incorporated by reference.

2. On the same day and as part of the same transaction, _____ [name of trustor] executed a trust deed conveying the property described in the complaint to _____ [name] as trustee for defendant as beneficiary to secure payment of the note. The trust deed, duly acknowledged on _____ [date], was recorded _____ [date] in _____ County, California, at book _____, page _____. A copy of the trust deed is attached as Exhibit B and incorporated by reference.

3. Defendant took the trust deed attached as Exhibit B in good faith without any knowledge, actual or constructive, that plaintiff had, or claimed to have, a prior trust deed on the property. That prior trust deed was not recorded and is void as against defendant.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use as an affirmative defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2)] by the beneficiary of a second trust deed, who has been named in an action to foreclose a prior trust deed and whose trust deed is alleged in the complaint to be subsequent or subordinate to the trust deed being foreclosed. The defense is that the second trust deed is, in fact, superior to the trust deed being foreclosed, because the second beneficiary was a subsequent lienholder in good faith and for a valuable consideration, who had no actual notice of the prior trust deed and whose own trust deed was first recorded [Civ. Code §§ 1214, 1215, 1217].

For further discussion of answers generally, including general forms in which this affirmative defense may be inserted, see Ch. 26, Answers .

§ 555.163 Judgment of Foreclosure and Order of Sale [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(a), (b)]

[1] FORM Judgment of Foreclosure and Order of Sale [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(a), (b)]

[Caption and recitals. See § 555.126[1].]

IT IS ORDERED, ADJUDGED, AND DECREED that:

1. Now due and owing to plaintiff from defendant _____ [name of trustor or other defendant personally liable] are the following sums: _____ [specify, e.g., $_____ principal and interest on a promissory note made _____ [date]; $_____ expended for general and special city and county taxes; $_____ expended for premiums on fire, earthquake, and other insurance; $_____ in attorney's fees; and plaintiff's costs of suit. These debts are liens on the real property described below, pursuant to a trust deed executed by _____ [name] as trustor to _____ [name] as trustee for _____ [name] as beneficiary, which was recorded _____ [date] in _____ County, California, at book _____, page _____.

2. The real property described, or as much of it as may be necessary, shall be sold in the manner prescribed by law by the levying officer of _____ County, California, on proper application for issuance of a writ of sale to the levying officer. Any party to this action may be a purchaser at the sale.

3. From the proceeds of the sale, the levying officer shall deduct the expenses for the levy and sale and shall then pay to plaintiff the sums adjudged due, together with interest at the rate of _____ percent per annum from the date of this judgment.

4. If any surplus remains after making those payments, it shall be paid by the levying officer as follows: _____ [specify order of payment and amounts to be paid to other parties determined to be entitled to any surplus proceeds].

[EITHER]

5. Defendant _____ [name] is personally liable for payment of the sums secured by the trust deed, and a deficiency judgment may be ordered against him/her/it following proceedings prescribed by law. The Court retains jurisdiction to determine the amount of the deficiency, if any, and to render a money judgment on proper application.

6. A deficiency judgment not being waived or prohibited, the property shall be sold subject to the right of redemption as provided in Code of Civil Procedure Section 729.010 et seq.

[OR]

5. _____ [No defendant is personally liable or Plaintiff has waived judgment] for any deficiency between the sale price and the total amount due plaintiff together with expenses of sale.

6. A deficiency judgment being _____ [prohibited or waived], the property shall be sold as provided in Code of Civil Procedure Section 716.020.

[CONTINUE]

7. From and after delivery of a deed by the levying officer to the purchaser at the sale, _____ [name(s) of defendant(s)] and all persons claiming under him/her/them or having liens subsequent to the trust deed on the real property described below, and their personal representatives, and all persons claiming to have acquired any estate or interest in the property subsequent to the filing of notice of the pendency of this action with the county recorder, are forever barred and foreclosed from all equity of redemption in, and claim to, the property and every part of it.

8. The property that is the subject of this judgment and order is located in _____ County, California, and is described as follows: _____ [legal description].
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a form of judgment for use by the plaintiff in an action for foreclosure and an order of sale under a trust deed [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(a), (b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 725a]. For a related complaint and discussion of such an action, see § 555.160.

This form assumes that one or more of the defendants appeared in the action. It may be modified, as appropriate, when judgment is taken by default. For further discussion and forms, see Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments .

[3] Contents

The judgment must do the following:

- Declare the amount of the secured debt or otherwise state the secured obligation [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(b)].

- Direct the sale of the encumbered property, or as much of it as may be necessary [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(a); see § 555.71].

- Direct application of the sale proceeds to pay court costs, levy and sale expenses, and the amount due to the plaintiff, including, if the trust deed provides for payment of attorney's fees [see § 555.74], a reasonable sum for attorney's fees set by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 730].

- Direct that any surplus proceeds be paid to the defendants or cross complainants who are determined to be entitled to the surplus, according to their determined priorities; or, if the interests of these parties are not properly put in issue, direct that any surplus be paid into the court pending later determination and order [Code Civ. Proc. § 727; see Livingston v. Rice (1955) 131 Cal. App. 2d 1, 4-5, 280 P.2d 52 ; Withington v. Shay (1941) 47 Cal. App. 2d 68, 73, 117 P.2d 415 ; § 555.59].

- Identify the defendants, if any, who have been determined to have personal liability and against whom a deficiency judgment may be ordered in subsequent proceedings, unless a deficiency judgment has been waived or is barred by Code Civ. Proc. § 580b [see §§ 555.31[4], 555.32[2][a], [3][b]], in which case the judgment must so declare [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(b)].

For discussion and forms relating to a subsequent proceeding for a deficiency judgment, see §§ 555.73 and 555.164-555.168.

[4] Entry of Judgment and Notice of Entry

In an action tried by the court, the clerk is required to enter judgment immediately after the order granting judgment is filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 664]. The prevailing party must then serve notice of entry of judgment on all parties and file the original of the notice with proof of service [Code Civ. Proc. § 664.5(a)]. For further discussion and forms of notice and proof of service, see Ch. 318, Judgments, § 318.40 et seq.

[5] Enforcement

The sale of the property is initiated by application of the judgment creditor to the clerk of the court for issuance of a writ of sale to the levying officer of the county in which the property is to be sold [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 701.570(a), 712.010, 716.010(a), 716.020, 726(e), 729.010(b); see § 555.71]. For further discussion along with forms for use in enforcing the judgment, see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments, § 254.130 et seq.

specify party, e.g., plaintiff] will, and hereby does, move for a deficiency judgment. The motion will be and hereby is made on the ground that the proceeds for the foreclosure sale, duly held on _____ [date], are insufficient to satisfy the judgment of foreclosure entered _____ [date], pursuant to which the sale was held, and that plaintiff is entitled to a money judgment for the deficiency, pursuant to that judgment, which provides that the Court shall retain jurisdiction for the purpose of rendering a deficiency judgment in the event that the proceeds from the foreclosure sale are insufficient.

The motion will be based on this notice of motion, on the declaration(s) of _____ [name(s)] and the memorandum of points and authorities served and filed with this notice, on the records and file in this action, and on evidence to be presented at the hearing of the motion.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a notice of motion for use by the plaintiff to move for a deficiency judgment after a foreclosure sale held pursuant to a judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(b); see § 555.73[2]]. It must be filed within three months after the date of the foreclosure sale [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(b)]. The three-month period is a statute of limitations. Thus, a party entitled to seek a deficiency judgment must file an application within three months of the foreclosure sale or no money judgment for a deficiency can be obtained [Life Savings Bank v. Wilhelm (2000) 84 Cal. App. 4th 174, 177, 100 Cal. Rptr. 2d 657] . The three-month period runs from the date the sale is effected, that is, when the highest bid is received at the auction, not when the certificate of sale is recorded [Paykar Construction, Inc. v. Bedrosian (1999) 71 Cal. App. 4th 803, 808, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 135] . Copies must be served on all appearing defendants against whom a deficiency judgment is sought, or on their attorneys of record, at least 15 days before the date set for the hearing to determine the amount of the deficiency [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(b)].

For a declaration supporting such a motion, see § 555.165. For a judgment for deficiency, see § 555.168.

A supporting memorandum must be served and filed with this notice of motion [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a)]. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

[3] Jurisdiction and Venue

For coverage of judisdiction and venue, see § 555.160[8].

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., the attorney of record for the plaintiff].

2. On _____ [date], this Court entered a judgment of foreclosure of the trust deed in this action. By that judgment the Court determined that defendant _____ [name of trustor or other defendant, as appropriate] is personally liable for payment of the sums secured by the trust deed and that a deficiency judgment may be ordered.

3. On _____ [date within three months preceding filing of notice of motion], the real property was sold at foreclosure sale. As shown by the levying officer's accounting of amounts collected and costs incurred, filed with the return of the writ of sale on _____ [date], the property was sold for $_____, and the expenses of levy and sale amounted to $_____.

4. The entire amount of the debt under the judgment, with interest, fees, costs, and expenses of levy and sale, is $_____, consisting of the following items: _____ [list items and amounts].

5. The appraised fair value of the property, as of the time of sale, is $_____.

6. There is a deficiency of $_____.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____[date]
_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5] for use by a plaintiff to support a motion for a deficiency judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(b)]. For an illustrative motion and related discussion, see § 555.164.

[3] Contents

The supporting declaration should show the amount of the deficiency [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(b); see §§ 555.73[1], 555.163[2]].

The existence of the deficiency and the persons liable for it may be determined by reference to court records showing the amount due to the plaintiff under the judgment and the amount of proceeds and expenses of the sale reported by the levying officer (Paragraphs 2-4) [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 699.560, 712.050 (return of writ of sale and report of levying officer)].

The amount of the deficiency is determined by reference to the fair value of the property as of the date of sale [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(b); see § 555.73[4]]. If the plaintiff had the property appraised (in lieu of or in addition to the appraisal, if any, by a court-appointed probate referee [see §§ 555.166, 555.167]), this fact should be included (Paragraph 5).

The motion will be made on the following grounds:

1. On _____ [date], this Court entered judgment for plaintiff for the following amounts: principal and interest in the amount of $_____, attorney's fees in the amount of $_____, and costs in the amount of $_____, together with interest. The judgment directed that the real property subject to the trust deed be sold, and this Court retained jurisdiction to enter a deficiency judgment against defendant _____ [name].

2. On _____ [date], the real property was sold as ordered. The proceeds of $_____, less expenses of levy and sale in the sum of $_____, yielded a net amount of $_____, as shown by the levying officer's accounting of amounts collected and costs incurred, filed with the return of the writ of sale on _____ [date].

3. On _____ [date], plaintiff moved for a deficiency judgment against defendant _____ [name], which motion is set for hearing on _____ [date].

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a notice of motion for use by any party to a proceeding for a deficiency judgment, to obtain appointment of a probate referee to appraise the property sold at the foreclosure sale, as of the time of the sale [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1003 (application for order not contained in judgment is made by motion); Prob. Code § 8920 et seq. (designation by court of probate referee); see also § 555.73[3]].

The notice of motion must be filed at least 10 days before the date set for the hearing on the motion for a deficiency judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(b)]. Service of copies of the notice of motion on other parties to the proceeding does not appear to be necessary [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1005 (motions requiring written notice)], but counsel may provide copies as a courtesy.

For a form of order of appointment, see § 555.167.

STIPULATION FOR DEFICIENCY JUDGMENT

_____ [Identify stipulating parties, e.g., Plaintiff _____ (name) and defendants _____ (names)] stipulate as follows.

1. On _____ [date], pursuant to the judgment of foreclosure entered in this action on _____ [date] ("the foreclosure judgment"), the real property described in the foreclosure judgment ("the property") was sold.

2. The parties have exchanged information relating to the value of the property as of the date of sale. There was a deficiency of $_____ for which, pursuant to the foreclosure judgment, defendants _____ [names] are personally liable, jointly and severally.

3. _____ [Financial terms of stipulation and judgment, e.g., Defendant _____ (name) has paid the deficiency amount to plaintiff _____ (name). Judgment may be rendered that defendant _____ (name) recover from defendants _____ (names), jointly and severally, the sum of $_____ with interest at the rate of _____ percent per annum from _____ (date), and that plaintiff _____ (name) has received satisfaction of all claims arising from or based on the foreclosure judgment ("the stipulated judgment"). Each party shall bear the party's own costs. Plaintiff _____ (name) shall, on entry of the stipulated judgment, file an acknowledgment of full satisfaction of the foreclosure judgment.]

4. Each of the parties waives any and all rights to appeal or otherwise attack the stipulated judgment. Each of the parties waives the right to have findings of fact or a statement of decision with respect to the stipulated judgment.

5. Each of the parties acknowledges, represents, and warrants that in all negotiations for this stipulation, each party had an adequate opportunity to be, and each party was, represented by the party's attorney of choice, and that each attorney signing this stipulation is duly and fully authorized to make this stipulation on behalf of the party represented.

6. Each attorney signing this stipulation acknowledges, represents, and warrants that he/she is duly and fully authorized to make this stipulation on behalf of the party represented.

7. This stipulation shall be governed by the laws of the State of California.

JUDGMENT

The parties having so stipulated, and the Court having determined that the stipulation is regular and proper,

IT IS ORDERED, ADJUDGED, AND DECREED that:

1. Defendant _____ [name] recover from defendants _____ [names], jointly and severally, the sum of $_____ with interest at the rate of _____ percent per annum from _____ [date].

2. Plaintiff _____ [name] has received satisfaction of all claims arising from or based on the judgment entered in this action on _____ [date].
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, may be used in lieu of the forms in §§ 555.164-555.168 for rendition of a deficiency judgment following a judicial foreclosure sale, when the parties can come to an agreement about the amount of the deficiency, and they have a reason for wanting and allowing a judgment to be entered (instead of simply paying the amount of the deficiency). For instance, if multiple defendants were jointly and severally liable for the deficiency, they could agree that one of them would pay it and that a judgment would be rendered to establish the payer's claim and the others' liability for contribution. Thus, the paying defendant could take the place of the plaintiff as the judgment creditor to whom the other defendants would be liable--a situation that all of the defendants could have reason to view as preferable in supplanting a potentially hostile creditor with a comparatively friendly one. The plaintiff could be willing to agree on the amount of the deficiency because by stipulating to a judgment, the plaintiff would avoid the litigation expenses of moving for a deficiency judgment and establishing the amount of the deficiency.

The judgment may be separated from the stipulation, as the parties may prefer if the stipulation is lengthy. For further discussion of stipulations and judgments based on stipulations, see Ch. 318, Judgments, § 318.40 et seq., and Ch. 533, Stipulations .

This stipulation and judgment is based on a form prepared by William M. Hensley, the Editorial Consultant for this chapter, for an action litigated in the Los Angeles County Superior Court.

§ 555.170 Complaint on Promissory Note Secured by Junior Trust Deed--Security Rendered Valueless by Foreclosure of Senior Lien

[1] FORM Complaint on Promissory Note Secured by Junior Trust Deed--Security Rendered Valueless by Foreclosure of Senior Lien
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____
[or other as appropriate]

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR MONEY
_____ [name],	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
Defendant.	)

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Capacity and residence of plaintiff. See § 555.120[1], Paragraph 1.]

2. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 555.120[1], Paragraph 2.]

3. [Making of promissory note. See § 555.126[1], Paragraph 3.]

4. [Execution and recordation of trust deed. See § 555.147[1], Paragraph 4.]

5. The trust deed was subject to a senior trust deed encumbering the property, dated _____ [date] and recorded in _____ County, California, at book _____, page _____, securing payment of an obligation in the original amount of $_____ owed by defendant to _____ [name].

6. _____ [Allege foreclosure of senior lien, e.g., After giving notice of default and notice of sale as required by law, _____ [name], trustee under the senior trust deed, proceeded at _____ [time] on _____ [date] under a power of sale to sell the property at _____ [city], _____ County, California. The property was sold for $_____; the amount claimed due and delinquent on the obligation secured by the senior trust deed was $_____; and the expenses of the sale were $_____. No portion of the proceeds of the sale remained to be applied on the note after deducting the amount due on the above mentioned obligation and the expenses of the sale.]

7. As a result of the sale of the property, the security for the note has become worthless, without any act on the part of plaintiff.

8. Defendant has defaulted on the note, and the entire unpaid balance, together with interest, is now due.

9. Plaintiff has performed all conditions and promises required to be performed on plaintiff's part by the terms of the note, including all conditions precedent to the right to enforce defendant's duty of performance.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

1. For the sum of $_____;

2. For interest on that sum at _____ percent per annum from _____ [date];

3. For reasonable attorney's fees in the sum of $_____;

4. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

5. For any other and further relief as the court may deem proper.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]
By: _____ [signature]
_____ [typed name]
Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

[Verification, if desired. See § 555.120[1].]

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by the payee of a promissory note to sue the maker of the note, after real property securing the note has been rendered worthless as security by foreclosure of a senior lien. This situation is an exception to the general rule requiring a secured creditor first to exhaust the security [see Roseleaf Corp. v. Chierighino (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 35, 39-44, 27 Cal. Rptr. 873, 378 P.2d 97] . For further discussion, see § 555.31[3]. An action on the note is barred, however, if the note was secured by a purchase-money trust deed subject to Code Civ. Proc. § 580b [see Brown v. Jensen (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 193, 197-198, 259 P.2d 425] . For further discussion of this ban, see § 555.32[4].

Code Civ. Proc. § 580a limits the amount of recovery on a debt by a junior lienholder whose security has been rendered worthless by private foreclosure of the senior lien and who purchased the property at the foreclosure sale [Walter E. Heller Western, Inc. v. Bloxham (1985) 176 Cal. App. 3d 266, 270-274, 221 Cal. Rptr. 425] . For further discussion, see § 555.32[4].

[3] Allegations

A complaint to recover money due under a promissory note [Civ. Code § 3302; Com. Code § 3122] must allege the following essential facts:

- The note and security (Paragraphs 3 and 4).
- That the security for the note has become worthless in consequence of the foreclosure of a senior lien (Paragraphs 5-7).
- The defendant's default and the resulting damage to the plaintiff (Paragraph 8).
- The plaintiff's performance of all conditions to be performed on the plaintiff's part (Paragraph 9).

Usually an action cannot be brought directly on a note secured by a trust deed, because foreclosure is the required remedy [Code Civ. Proc. § 726(a)]. To forestall this affirmative defense, the complaint also alleges facts showing that the security for the note has become worthless without any fault on the plaintiff's part, in consequence of the foreclosure of a senior lien on the property [see, e.g., Cohen v. Marshall (1925) 197 Cal. 117, 122-125, 239 P. 1050 ; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 483.010(b) (attachment may be issued on claim originally secured when security has become valueless without any act of plaintiff); cf. Barbieri v. Ramelli (1890) 84 Cal. 154, 156-158, 23 P. 1086 (action on note was barred when security was initially valueless)].

[4] Verification

Verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a) (unless otherwise required by law, pleadings not required to be verified)]. However, if the complaint is verified, the defendant is required to file a verified answer in a superior court action other than a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446(a)] and is precluded from making a general denial in superior court actions that are not limited civil cases and in some limited civil cases [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion of the effect that verifying a complaint has on the answer, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[5] Jurisdiction and Venue

The superior court has jurisdiction of the action, which will be classified as an unlimited civil case unless the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest, is $25,000 or less, in which case it will be classified as a limited civil case [Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(a)(8)]. When title or right to possession is to be tried, or permanent injunctive relief is sought, the case will be classified as an unlimited civil case [see Code Civ. Proc. § 88].

Generally, the proper county for the trial is the county in which the obligation was entered into, the county in which the obligation is to be performed, or the county in which the defendant presently resides. Unless there is an agreement to the contrary, the county in which the obligation was incurred is deemed to be the county in which it is to be performed [Code Civ. Proc. § 395(a)]. If the defendant is a corporation or association, the county in which its principal place of business is located is also a proper county for trial [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 395.2, 395.5].

§ 555.180 Complaint for Specific Performance of Trust Deed [Civ. Code § 3384 et seq.]--Beneficiary to Take Possession After Default and Collect Rents, Issues, and Profits [Civ. Code § 2927]

[1] FORM Complaint for Specific Performance of Trust Deed [Civ. Code § 3384 et seq.]--Beneficiary to Take Possession After Default and Collect Rents, Issues, and Profits [Civ. Code § 2927]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name],	)	COMPLAINT FOR SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Capacity and residence of plaintiff. See § 555.120[1], Paragraph 1.]

2. [Capacity and residence of defendant. See § 555.160[1], Paragraph 2.]

3. [Making of promissory note. See § 555.126[1], Paragraph 3.]

4. [Execution and recordation of trust deed. See § 555.147[1], Paragraph 4.]

5. The trust deed provides, "_____ [recite assignment-of-rents clause, e.g., As additional security, Trustor hereby confers on Beneficiary the right, power, and authority, during the continuance of the Trust, to collect the rents, issues, and profits of the property, reserving to Trustor the right, before any default by Trustor in payment of any debt secured by this deed or in performance of any agreement under this deed, to collect and retain the rents, issues, and profits as they become due and payable. Upon any such default, Beneficiary may enforce this assignment in any method authorized by Civil Code Section 2938]."

6. The consideration received by defendant for the note was _____ [specify, e.g., the principal amount of the note, received at the time the transaction was entered into], and the agreement is, as to defendant, just and reasonable.

7. Plaintiff has performed all conditions, covenants, and promises required to be performed by plaintiff in accordance with the terms and conditions of the agreement.

8. Defendant defaulted under the terms of the note and trust deed in that _____ [allege default, e.g., defendant failed to pay interest and principal for the months of _____ through _____].

9. Plaintiff has demanded that defendant let, but defendant failed and refused and continues to fail and refuse to let, plaintiff into possession of the property to collect the rents, issues, and profits as provided in the trust deed.

10. There is no adequate remedy at law to enforce the provision of the trust deed set out above.

[11. A notice of default and election to sell under the trust deed, as a result of defendant's default, was recorded on _____ (date).]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant as follows:

1. That a receiver be appointed to take possession and charge of the property described in this complaint, to conserve and manage it [pending the sale] under the terms of the trust deed, and to collect any and all rents and profits [pending the sale];

2. That defendant and anyone holding under defendant be ordered to deliver possession of the property to the receiver without delay;

3. For reasonable attorney's fees and expenses incurred in the collection of rents, issues, and profits;

4. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

5. For any other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

[2] Use of Form

This form is a complaint for use by a beneficiary of a trust deed, to sue for specific performance of a standard assignment-of-rents clause in the trust deed by requiring the trustor to surrender possession to a receiver, who will collect rents and profits after a default by the trustor. If an action for foreclosure is contemplated, this form should be combined with a complaint for foreclosure [see § 555.160]. For further discussion and forms relating to actions for specific performance, see Ch. 528, Specific Performance .

This form is based on Code Civ. Proc. § 564(b)(11), which authorizes the appointment of a receiver in the circumstances described and also provides for the appointment of a receiver in a case brought by an assignee under an assignment of leases, rents, issues, or profits pursuant to Civ. Code § 2938(g) [Code Civ. Proc. § 564(b)(12); see § 555.180[4]].

[3] Allegations

This complaint contains the following allegations essential to state a cause of action for specific performance of a standardized assignment-of-rents clause:

- The execution and delivery of a con tract sufficiently certain in its terms, namely, the promissory note and trust deed (Paragraphs 4 and 5) [see Civ. Code § 3390(5)].

- The consideration received by the defendant, showing that the agreement was just and reasonable (Paragraph 6) [Civ. Code § 3391(1), (2)].

- The plaintiff's performance of all of his or her contractual obligations (Paragraph 7) [Civ. Code §§ 3386, 3392].

- The occurrence of conditions entitling the plaintiff to enforce the assignment-of-rents clause, such as the defendant's default and refusal to give the plaintiff possession (Paragraphs 8 and 9).

- The lack of an adequate legal remedy, which justifies equitable relief (Paragraph 10) [see Mines v. Superior Court (1932) 216 Cal. 776, 778, 16 P.2d 732] .

For further discussion of allegations necessary to state a cause of action for specific performance generally, see Ch. 528, Specific Performance .

An optional paragraph alleging notice of default and election to sell is included (Paragraph 11) for use when nonjudicial foreclosure proceedings have been commenced. This allegation is not required but should be included if applicable, because the plaintiff's rights under the assignment-of-rents clause will be affected by any sale of the property [see § 555.18[1]].

[4] Appointment of Receiver

A receiver may be appointed in an action by a secured lender for specified performance of an assignment-of-rents clause in a trust deed, mortgage, or separate assignment document. The appointment may be continued after entry of a judgment for specific performance in that action, if appropriate to protect, operate, or maintain the property encumbered by the trust deed or mortgage, or to collect the rents from the property while a pending nonjudicial foreclosure under power of sale in the trust deed or mortgage is being completed [Code Civ. Proc. § 564(b)(11)].

A receiver may be appointed in a case brought by an assignee under an assignment of leases, rents, issues, or profits pursuant to Civ. Code § 2938(g) [Code Civ. Proc. § 564(b)(12); see § 555.81[6]]. That section governs a written assignment of an interest in leases, rents, issues, or profits of real property made in connection with an obligation secured by the property. It specifies alternative methods for the enforcement of the assignment, including the appointment of a receiver and obtaining possession of the rents, issues, or profits [see Civ. Code § 2938(c)].

For discussion of these statutory appointments, see § 555.81[1]. For a form of demand for turnover of rents, which may be used in connection with the appointment of a receiver, see § 555.189. If the plaintiff will apply for ex parte appointment of a receiver, see § 555.186[3] for required contents of the application, which may be inserted into a verified complaint (such as the form in [1], above) or stated in an accompanying affidavit or declaration under penalty of perjury [see § 555.182].

[5] Verification

Verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a) (unless otherwise required by law, pleadings not required to be verified)]. However, if the complaint is verified, the defendant is required to file a verified answer in a superior court action other than a limited civil case [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446(a)] and is precluded from making a general denial in superior court actions that are not limited civil cases and in some limited civil cases [see Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion of the effect that verifying a complaint has on the answer, see Ch. 26, Answers .

[6] Jurisdiction and Venue

An action for specific performance to enforce an assignment-of-rents clause of a trust deed must be brought in the superior court and is not a limited civil action [see Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 85, 86(b)]. When title or right to possession is to be tried, or permanent injunctive relief is sought, the case will be classified as an unlimited civil case [see Code Civ. Proc. § 88].

In an action to determine a right or interest in real property, the superior court in the county in which the real property is located is the proper court for trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 392(a)(1)].

[2] Use of Form

This form is a notice of motion for use by a beneficiary who has brought an action for specific performance of a standard assignment-of-rents clause [see § 555.180], to obtain appointment of a receiver to take possession of the property pendente lite and to collect rents and profits. A superior court may appoint a receiver in an action by a secured lender for specific performance of an assignment-of-rents clause in a trust deed, mortgage, or separate assignment document. The court also has authority to continue that appointment after entry of a judgment for specific performance in the action, if appropriate to protect, operate, or maintain the property encumbered by the trust deed or mortgage or to collect the rents while a pending nonjudicial foreclosure under power of sale in the trust deed or mortgage is being completed [Code Civ. Proc. § 564(b)(11)].

A receiver also may be appointed in a case brought by an assignee under an assignment of leases, rents, issues, or profits pursuant to Civ. Code § 2938(g) [Code Civ. Proc. § 564(b)(12)]. For coverage of that statute, see § 555.81[1].

A supporting memorandum must be served and filed with this notice of motion [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005(b), 1010; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(a)]. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

For a related declaration and order, see §§ 555.182 and 555.183, respectively.

[3] Ex Parte Application for Appointment of Receiver

An order appointing a receiver pendente lite is generally obtained by a noticed motion but may instead be sought ex parte by an application for an order to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed or by an application for an order of appointment ex parte with a subsequent hearing by way of an order to show cause why the receiver should not be confirmed [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1175 et seq.]. For discussion and forms of orders for the ex parte appointment of a receiver for rents, issues, and profits, see §§ 555.186 and 555.187. For further discussion of substantive and procedural requirements for ex parte appointments, see Ch. 486, Receivers .

PRACTICE TIP:

Consult "Local, Local" Rules of Receivership Judges. More and more, certain departments or divisions of courts are designated as "writs and receivers" departments or divisions. The practitioner seeking receiverships in these specialized departments or divisions should consult with department guidelines, or "local, local rules" in common parlance. For example, some Los Angeles County Superior Court judges do not allow for ex parte receiverships (in the absence of waste or an impending calamity) unless theborrower is at least three monthsdelinquent. Knowing these local, local rules will save receivership attorneys precious time and expense when practicing in this area. By William M. Hensley

The motion of _____ [identify party, for example, plaintiff] for an order appointing a receiver in the above entitled action came on regularly for hearing by the court on _____ [date]. Plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ [name]; defendant appeared by counsel _____ [name].

On proof made to the satisfaction of the court that the motion ought to be granted,

IT IS ORDERED that the motion be, and it hereby is, granted, and:

1. _____ [Name], whose address is _____ [specify], is appointed receiver.

2. Before commencing the duties described below, the receiver shall take an oath to perform these duties faithfully and, further, shall execute an undertaking to the State of California for the faithful performance of these duties and subject to the orders of this Court in the amount of $_____.

3. After qualifying, the receiver shall take possession of the following described property: _____ [legal description and address or other designation, description of any personal property or fixtures and furnishings, description of any business, etc.].

4. The receiver shall care for, preserve, and maintain the property and may incur expenses necessary for that care, preservation, and maintenance.

5. The receiver shall demand and collect all rents now due and coming due from tenants of any portion of the property, and tenants occupying or using any portion of the property shall pay rents to the receiver.

6. The receiver shall bring and prosecute all proper actions for the collection of rents due, or for the removal of tenants in default or other persons, or for the protection or to recover possession of the property, and for this purpose may employ an attorney to be approved by this Court.

7. The receiver may employ an agent to collect the rents and/or manage, maintain, or repair the property.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the receiver and _____ [moving party, e.g., plaintiff] may apply to this Court from time to time for further instructions or powers necessary to enable the receiver to perform the receiver's duties properly.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]
Judge of the Superior Court

[2] Use of Form

This form is an order for use by a beneficiary moving for appointment of a receiver pendente lite [see § 555.181 (notice of motion)]. Submission of a carefully drafted order is essential because of the importance of specifying the property that the receiver is to take into possession and the receiver's powers and duties. Additional powers and duties that might be specified in the order include the duty to file an inventory of all property on taking possession and to make periodic accountings; the duty to make specified payments in a specified order for the secured obligation, taxes, insurance, maintenance expenses, senior liens, compensation for the receiver or agents, and other payments; the duty to hold or otherwise dispose of amounts remaining after the specified payments are made; and particular duties or instructions as to the operation of a business [see Code Civ. Proc. § 568]. For an illustration of a Judicial Council form of order that may be used as a model for drafting this order, see § 555.185[1] or § 555.186[1]. Under local rules or court practice, one of those Judicial Council forms might be approved for use, with appropriate modifications, in lieu of a custom-drafted order (or an alternative form of order might be prescribed).

[3] Notice of Order

The moving party must serve notice of the order on all other parties, unless the court orders otherwise or notice is waived by all parties in open court and is entered in the minutes [Code Civ. Proc. § 1019.5(a); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1109 (notice to be given by clerk)].

[2] Use of Form

This form is California Judicial Council Form RC-300, which may be used to obtain appointment of a receiver for rents, issues, and profits, along with a temporary restraining order designed to preserve the status quo respecting the receivership property [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1175 et seq.]. This form would be appropriate when exigent circumstances, not allowing for a normal noticed motion [see § 555.181[1]], evidently require issuance of the temporary restraining order. If even more urgent circumstances require the ex parte appointment of a receiver, the form in § 555.186[1] may be used. After the hearing on this order to show cause, the form in § 555.185[1] may be used for the order appointing a receiver.

There is no Judicial Council form specifically for use in applying for this order. The application would be made by verified complaint [see, e.g., § 555.180[1]] or by affidavit or declaration under penalty of perjury [see, e.g., § 555.182[1]]. The contents of the application would be essentially the same as for an application for ex parte appointment of a receiver [see § 555.186[3]]. For further discussion of temporary restraining orders and additional forms, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

Use of this form is optional. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge.

A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[3] Notice of Hearing

When a temporary restraining order is issued without notice, the matter must be made returnable on an order requiring cause to be shown why a preliminary injunction should not be granted, on the earliest day that the business of the court will allow, but not later than 15 days or, if good cause appears to the court, 22 days from the date the temporary restraining order is issued [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(d)(1)].

The hearing date will control the service and briefing schedule (see Paragraphs 7-9 of form) [see [5], below].

[4] Nomination of Receiver

No receiver is named in this order to show cause. At the hearing of an application for appointment of a receiver on notice, each party appearing may, at the time of the hearing, suggest in writing one or more persons for appointment as receiver, stating the reasons. For discussion of who may be appointed as a receiver, see § 555.185[3][a]. A party's suggestion is without prejudice to the party's objections to the appointment of a receiver [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1177]. The court is not bound by a party's nomination, but the party's choice is usually given considerable weight. The statement of nomination should demonstrate that the nominee is not disqualified for any statutory reason [see Code Civ. Proc. § 566(a); § 555.185[3][a]].

[5] Service and Briefing Schedule

The party who obtained the temporary restraining order must, within five days from the date the temporary restraining order is issued or two days before the hearing, whichever is earlier, serve on the opposing party:

- A copy of the complaint if not previously served;
- The order to show cause stating the date, time, and place of the hearing;
- Any affidavits to be used in the application; and
- A copy of the points and authorities in support of the application.

The court may for good cause, on motion of the applicant or on its own motion, shorten the time required for service on the opposing party [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(d)(2)].

The service and briefing schedule in this order will necessarily be controlled by the hearing date. For example, if the hearing date were set 10 days after issuance of the order to show cause [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527(d)(1); see also [3], above], the schedule might mandate service by the applicant (see Paragraph 7 of form) eight days before the hearing, and service of opposition papers (see Paragraph 8) four days before the hearing, and service of any reply papers (see Paragraph 9) two days before the hearing. This is a matter that could be governed by a local rule or practice.

When the matter first comes up for hearing, if the party who obtained the temporary restraining order has failed to effect service as required, the court must dissolve the temporary restraining order [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(d)(3); but see Code Civ. Proc. § 527(d)(5) (order may be reissued if applicant shows inability to effect service as required)]. The opposing party is entitled to one continuance for a reasonable period of not less than 15 days or any shorter period requested by the opposing party, to enable the opposing party to meet the application for a preliminary injunction. If the opposing party obtains a continuance, the temporary restraining order will remain in effect until the date of the continued hearing [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(d)(4)].

[3] Order Appointing Receiver

[a] Who May Be Receiver

The receiver is the agent of the court and not of any party, and as such (1) is neutral, (2) acts for the benefit of all who may have an interest in the receivership property, and (3) holds assets for the court and not for the plaintiff or the defendant [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1179(a)]. The person appointed as receiver (see Paragraph 2 of form) must be eligible under this standard of neutrality and impartiality. The receiver should not be a party, or an attorney of a party, or a person otherwise interested in the action, or a relative of any judge of the court by consanguinity or affinity within the third degree [see Code Civ. Proc. § 566(a)].

The receiver must provide a bond and take an oath (see Paragraph 3 of form) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 567]. The court should fix the amount of the receiver's bond so as to cover the value of transferable personal property and cash that the receiver may possess at any point during the expected period of the receivership. If the bond were set too high or too low, the appropriate remedy would be a noticed motion for a modification. Counsel should be prepared to discuss the amount of the bond at the hearing.

[b] Prohibited Arrangements

The party seeking the appointment of the receiver may not, directly or indirectly, require any contract, agreement, arrangement, or understanding with any receiver whom the party intends to nominate or recommend to the court, and the receiver may not enter any such contract, arrangement, agreement, or understanding concerning any of the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1179(b)]:

- How much the receiver will charge for services (see Paragraph 4 of form) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1179(b)(2)];

- Whom the receiver will hire, or seek approval to hire, to perform necessary services (see, e.g., Paragraphs 5 and 14b of form) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1179(b)(3)];

- How much the receiver will pay for services to appropriate or approved third parties hired to provide services (see, e.g., Paragraphs 5 and 14 of form) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1179(b)(2)];

- How the receiver will administer the receivership (see Paragraph 7 et seq. of form) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1179(b)(2)];

- The role of the receiver with regard to the property following a trustee's sale or termination of the receivership, without specific court permission (see Paragraph 8 of form) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1179(b)(1)]--for example, the party could not promise or agree that the receiver will get the listing for the property after the receivership or a particular management company will get the right to manage the property; or

- What capital expenditures will be made on the property (see Paragraph 14c of form) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1179(b)(4)].

[c] Inventory

A receiver must, within 30 days after appointment, or within any other time as the court may order, file an inventory containing a complete and detailed list of all property of which the receiver has taken possession by virtue of the appointment (see Paragraph 9 of form). The receiver must promptly file a supplementary inventory of all subsequently obtained property [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1181].

[d] Monthly Reports

The receiver must provide monthly reports to the parties and, if requested, to nonparty client lienholders [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1182(a)]. The monthly reports are not to be filed with the court unless the court so orders [Cal. Rules of Ct.,

Rule 3.1182(b)]. These reports must include all of the following:

- A narrative report of events [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1182(a)(1)];
- A financial report (see Paragraph 13a of form) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1182(a)(2)]; and
- A statement of all fees paid to the receiver [see [e], below], employees, and professionals showing all of the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1182(a)(3)]:
  - Itemized services;
  - A breakdown of the services by six-minute increments;
  - If the fees are hourly, the hourly fees; and
  - If the fees are on another basis, that basis.

Unless good cause is shown, objections to a receiver's interim report and accounting (1) must be made within 10 days of notice of the report andaccounting, (2) must be specific, and (3) must be delivered to the receiver and all parties entitled to service of the interim report and accounting [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1183(b)].

[e] Interim Fees

Interim fees (see Paragraph 13b of form) are subject to final review and approval by the court. The court retains jurisdiction to award a greater or lesser amount as the full, fair, and final value of the services received [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1183(a)].

[f] Employment of Attorney

A receiver must not employ an attorney without the court's approval. The application for approval to employ an attorney must be in writing and must state the necessity for the employment, the name of the attorney whom the receiver proposes to employ, and that the attorney is not the attorney for any party, nor associated with any party, nor employed by an attorney for any party (see Paragraph 18 of form) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1180].

[g] Final Account and Report on Noticed Motion or Stipulation

A receiver must present all of the following by noticed motion or stipulation of all parties [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1184(a)]:

- A final account and report (see Paragraph 22 of form);
- A request for the discharge; and
- A request for exoneration of the receiver's surety.

No memorandum needs to be submitted in support of the motion or stipulation unless the court issues an order requiring a memorandum [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1184(b)]. Notice of the motion or the stipulation must be given to every person or entity known to the receiver to have a substantial unsatisfied claim that will be affected by the order or stipulation, whether or not the person or entity is a party to the action and has appeared in the action [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1184(c)]. If any allowance of compensation for the receiver or for an attorney employed by the receiver is claimed in an account, it must state in detail what services have been performed by the receiver or the attorney, and whether previous allowances have been made to the receiver or attorney, and the amounts [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1184(d)].

[2] Use of Form

This form is California Judicial Council Form RC-200, which may be used to order the ex parte appointment of a receiver for rents, issues, and profits [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1175 et seq.], along with a temporary restraining order, if necessary, to preserve the status quo regarding the receivership property. This form may be appropriate for use only in the most urgent circumstances, not allowing for a normal noticed motion [see § 555.181[1]] and not amenable to issuance of a show-cause order with a temporary restraining order [see § 555.184[1]], but evidently requiring the immediate appointment of a receiver. It would be considered a drastic remedy [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1175(a)(1); see also [3], below].

For examples of additional orders that could be stated in (or attached to) Paragraph 29 of this form, see § 555.188[1].

Use of this form is optional. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

Before going into court to request the ex parte appointment of a receiver, the applicant should verify his or her nominee's availability and obtain the information necessary to ensure that the receiver's bond and oath [see [5][b], below ] and the applicant's bond [see [5][d], below] can be immediately submitted to the court if the application is granted.

[3] Contents of Application

There is no Judicial Council form specifically for use in applying for this ex parte order. The application would be made by verified complaint [see, e.g., § 555.180[1]] or by affidavit or declaration under penalty of perjury [see, e.g., § 555.182[1]]. It must show in detail (in addition to any other matters supporting an application for the ex parte appointment of a receiver) all of the following:

- The nature of the emergency and the reasons irreparable injury would be suffered by the applicant during the time necessary for a hearing on notice [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1175(a)(1)];

- The names, addresses, and telephone numbers of the persons in actual possession of the property for which a receiver is requested, or of the president, manager, or principal agent of any corporation in possession of the property [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1175(a)(2)];

- The use being made of the property by the persons in possession [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1175(a)(3)]; and

- If the property is a part of the plant, equipment, or stock in trade of any business, the nature and approximate size or extent of thebusiness, and facts sufficient to show whether the taking of the property by a receiver would stop or seriously interfere with the operation of the business [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1175(a)(4)].

[4] Notice of Hearing

Whenever a receiver is appointed without notice, the matter must be made returnable on an order to show cause why the appointment should not be confirmed. The order to show cause must be made returnable on the earliest date the business of the court will allow, but not later than 15 days or, if good cause appears to the court, 22 days from the date the order is issued [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1176(a); see § 555.184[3]].

The hearing date will control the service and briefing schedule in the form (see Paragraphs 34-36 of form) [see [6], below].

[5] Order Appointing Receiver

[a] Who May Be Receiver

The receiver is the agent of the court and not of any party, and as such (1) is neutral, (2) acts for the benefit of all who may have an interest in the receivership property, and (3) holds assets for the court and not for the plaintiff or the defendant [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1179(a)]. The person appointed as receiver (see Paragraph 3 of form) must be eligible under this standard of neutrality and impartiality. The receiver should not be a party, or an attorney of a party, or a person otherwise interested in the action, or a relative of any judge of the court by consanguinity or affinity within the third degree [see Code Civ. Proc. § 566(a)].

[b] Receiver's Bond and Oath

The receiver must provide a bond and take an oath (see Paragraph 4 of form) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 567]. The court should fix the amount of the receiver's bond so as to cover the value of transferable personal property and cash that the receiver may possess at any point during the expected period of the receivership. If the bond were set too high or too low, the appropriate remedy would be a noticed motion for a modification. Counsel should be prepared to discuss the amount of the bond at the ex parte hearing (and at the confirmation hearing; see § 555.187).

[c] Prohibited Arrangements

The party seeking the appointment of the receiver may not, directly or indirectly, require any contract, agreement, arrangement, or understanding with any receiver whom the party intends to nominate or recommend to the court, and the receiver may not enter any such contract, arrangement, agreement, or understanding concerning any of the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1179(b)]:

- How much the receiver will charge for services (see Paragraph 5 of form) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1179(b)(2)];

- Whom the receiver will hire, or seek approval to hire, to perform necessary services (see, e.g., Paragraphs 6 and 16b of form) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1179(b)(3)];

- How much the receiver will pay for services to appropriate or approved third parties hired to provide services (see, e.g., Paragraph 6 of form) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1179(b)(2)];

- How the receiver will administer the receivership (see Paragraph 9 et seq. of form) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1179(b)(2)];

- The role of the receiver with regard to the property following a trustee's sale or termination of the receivership, without specific court permission (see Paragraph 10 of form) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1179(b)(1)]--for example, the party could not promise or agree that the receiver will get the listing for the property after the receivership or a particular management company will get the right to manage the property; or

- What capital expenditures will be made on the property (see Paragraph 16c of form) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1179(b)(4)].

[d] Applicant's Bond

Because the receiver is appointed ex parte, the applicant is required to provide a bond (see Paragraph 8 of form) [Code Civ. Proc. § 566(b)]. Counsel should be prepared to discuss the amount of the bond at the ex parte hearing. If the bond were set too high or too low, the appropriate remedy would be a noticed motion for a modification.

[e] Inventory

A receiver must, within 30 days after appointment, or within such other time as the court may order, file an inventory containing a complete and detailed list of all property of which the receiver has taken possession by virtue of the appointment (see Paragraph 11 of form). The receiver must promptly file a supplementary inventory of all subsequently obtained property [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1181].

[f] Monthly Reports

The receiver must provide monthly reports to the parties and, if requested, to nonparty client lienholders [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1182(a)]. The monthly reports are not to be filed with the court unless the court so orders [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1182(b)]. These reports must include all of the following:

- A narrative report of events [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1182(a)(1)];

- A financial report (see Paragraph 15a of form) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1182(a)(2)]; and

- A statement of all fees paid to the receiver [see [g], below], employees, and professionals showing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1182(a)(3)]:

    - Itemized services;

    - A breakdown of the services by six-minute increments;

    - If the fees are hourly, the hourly fees; and

    - If the fees are on another basis, that basis.

Unless good cause is shown, objections to a receiver's interim report and accounting (1) must be made within 10 days of notice of the report and accounting, (2) must be specific, and (3) must be delivered to the receiver and all parties entitled to service of the interim report and accounting [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1183(b)].

[g] Interim Fees

Interim fees (see Paragraph 15b of form) are subject to final review and approval by the court. The court retains jurisdiction to award a greater or lesser amount as the full, fair, and final value of the services received [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1183(a)].

[h] Employment of Attorney

A receiver must not employ an attorney without the court's approval. The application for approval to employ an attorney must be in writing and must state the necessity for the employment, the name of the attorney whom the receiver proposes to employ, and that the attorney is not the attorney for any party, nor associated with any party, nor employed by an attorney for any party (see Paragraph 20 of form) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1180].

[i] Final Account and Report on Noticed Motion or Stipulation

A receiver must present all of the following by noticed motion or stipulation of all parties [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1184(a)]:

- A final account and report (see Paragraph 24 of form);

- A request for the discharge; and

- A request for exoneration of the receiver's surety.

No memorandum needs to be submitted in support of the motion or stipulation unless the court issues an order requiring a memorandum [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1184(b)]. Notice of the motion or the stipulation must be given to every person or entity known to the receiver to have a substantial unsatisfied claim that will be affected by the order or stipulation, whether or not the person or entity is a party to the action and has appeared in the action [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1184(c)]. If any allowance of compensation for the receiver or for an attorney employed by the receiver is claimed in an account, it must state in detail what services have been performed by the receiver or the attorney, and whether previous allowanceshave been made to the receiver or attorney, and the amounts [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1184(d)].

[6] Service and Briefing Schedule

The applicant must serve, by personal service (see Paragraph 34 of form) on each of the adverse parties all of the following:

- A copy of the complaint if not previously served;
- The order to show cause stating the date, time, and place of the hearing;
- Any affidavits supporting the application; and
- A memorandum of points and authorities supporting the application.

Service must be made as soon as reasonably practical, but no later than five days after the date the order to show cause is issued, unless the court orders another time for service [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1176(b)].

The service and briefing schedule will necessarily be controlled by the hearing date. For example, if the hearing date were set 10 days after issuance of the order to show cause [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1176(a); [4], above], the schedule might mandate service by the applicant (see Paragraph 34 of form) eight days before the hearing, and service of opposition papers (see Paragraph 35) four days before the hearing, and service of any reply papers (see Paragraph 36) two days before the hearing. This is a matter that could be governed by a local rule or practice.

If the party that obtained the ex parte appointment fails to exercise diligence to effect service on the adverse parties, the court may discharge the receiver [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1176(c)].

[2] Use of Form

This form is California Judicial Council Form RC-210, which may be used to confirm the ex parte appointment of a receiver for rents, issues, and profits [see § 555.186] and to issue a preliminary injunction in aid of the receivership [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1175 et seq.].

Use of this form is optional. This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

At the hearing for confirmation of an ex parte appointment, each party appearing may, at the time of the hearing, suggest in writing one or more persons for substitution as receiver, stating the reasons. A party's suggestion is without prejudice to the party's objections to the confirmation of the receiver [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1177].

If the party that obtained the ex parte appointment is not ready to proceed at the confirmation hearing, the court may discharge the receiver [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1176(c)]. The adverse parties are entitled to one continuance to enable them to oppose the confirmation. If a continuance is granted, the order to show cause remains in effect until the date of the continued hearing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1176(d)].
