Employee did not carry his burden of demonstrating that adoption of 2005 Permanent Disability Rating Schedule by Administrative Director was arbitrary and capricious or inconsistent with Lab. Code § 4660(b)(2), so that employee failed to rebut presumptive validity of 2005 Schedule. Boughner v. Comp USA (2008) 73 Cal. Comp. Cases 854, 859-869 (Appeals Board en banc opinion)

Comprehensive medical-legal report or treating physician's report need not state that injured worker's condition has reached permanent and stationary status to indicate existence of permanent disability within meaning of Lab. Code § 4660(d). Lewis v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 696, 700, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 661

Court of appeal, relying on Costco Wholesale Corp. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 148, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 611 , held that pre-2005 comprehensive medical-legal report must indicate existence of permanent disability to satisfy Lab. Code § 4660(d) exception to application of 2005 Permanent Disability Rating Schedule and, rejecting another court of appeal's decision in Vera v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2007) 154 Cal. App. 4th 996, 65 Cal. Rptr. 3d 151 , held that employee's condition need not be permanent and stationary for treating physician's report or comprehensive medical-legal report to indicate existence of permanent disability. Genlyte Group, LLC v. W.C.A.B. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2008) 158 Cal. App. 4th 705, 716-724, 69 Cal. Rptr. 3d 903 ; see Zenith Insurance Co. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 483, 494499, 71 Cal. Rptr. 3d 724 (following Genlyte to hold that employee's condition need not be permanent and stationary for treating physician's report or comprehensive medical-legal report to indicate existence of permanent disability)

Employer, who paid injured employee temporary disability benefits through March 2006, was not required to provide employee with Lab. Code § 4061 notice until that date, and, therefore, no exception in Lab. Code § 4660(d) justified use of 1997 Schedule for Rating Permanent Disabilities in rating employee's permanent disability, and 2005 Permanent Disability Rating Schedule was to be used instead. Tanimura & Antle v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2007) 157 Cal. App. 4th 1489, 1494-1496, 69 Cal. Rptr. 3d 127

Employer, who paid injured employee temporary disability benefits through March 2005, was not required to provide employee with Lab. Code § 4061 notice until that date, that, therefore, no exception in Lab. Code § 4660(d) justified use of 1997 Schedule for Rating Permanent Disabilities in rating employee's permanent disability, and that 2005 Permanent Disability Rating Schedule was to be used instead. Energetic Painting and Drywall, Inc. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 633, 636-639, 63 Cal. Rptr. 3d 210

Treating physician's report dated April 26, 2004, which stated that employee had existence of permanent disability but that employee had not reached permanent and stationary status, was not pre-2005 treating physician report indicating existence of permanent disability, because disability is not ratable if it has not reached permanent and stationary status. Vera v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2007) 154 Cal. App. 4th 996, 1003-1008, 65 Cal. Rptr. 3d 151

Court of appeal, annulling WCAB decision that applied 1997 permanent disability rating schedule, held that WCAB's decision was not supported by substantial evidence, since 12/15/2004 single-sentence report by treating physician stating physician's belief that permanent disability was within reasonable medical probability as result of employee's 7/21/2004 industrial injury was not followed by any other treating physician's report that provided reasoning to support physician's 12/15/2004 conclusion, and medical opinion is not substantial evidence if it does not indicate reasoning behind physician's opinion. State Comp. Ins. Fund v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2007) 146 Cal. App. 4th 1311, 1314-1316, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 568

For compensable claims arising before January 1, 2005, in order for 1997 schedule for rating permanent disabilities to apply, pursuant to Lab. Code § 4660(d), existence of permanent disability must be indicated in either pre-2005 comprehensive medical-legal report or pre-2005 report from treating physician; otherwise, 2005 permanent disability rating schedule applied. Baglione v. Hertz Car Sales (2007) 72 Cal. Comp. Cases 444, 448-452 (Appeals Board en banc opinion) , pet. for writ of rev. filed 5/21/2007; Costco Wholesale Corp. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 148, 153-157, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 611

For compensable claims arising before January 1, 2005, only if last payment of temporary disability indemnity was made for any period of temporary disability ending before that date would 1997 schedule for rating permanent disabilities apply to determine extent of permanent disability, pursuant to Lab. Code § 4660(d), because Lab. Code § 4061 required employer to provide injured employee with notice regarding permanent disability "[t]ogether with the last payment of temporary disability indemnity"; otherwise, 2005 permanent disability rating schedule applied. Pendergrass v. Duggan Plumbing (2007) 72 Cal. Comp. Cases 456, 460-463 (Appeals Board en banc opinion) , pet. for writ of rev. filed 5/21/2007; Costco Wholesale Corp. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 148, 153-157, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 611 ; Zenith Insurance Co. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 461, 465-466, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 683

WCAB as without jurisdiction to alter permanent and stationary date of earliest injury sustained by employee and to award employee a single combined permanent disability rating of 100 percent for three successive industrial injuries, since award of permanent disability for earliest injury was final. Dept. of Education v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1348, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 900

Permanent disability payments as provided for permanent bodily impairment, to indemnify injured worker for impaired future earning capacity or decreased ability to compete in open labor market. Livitsanos v. Superior Court (1992) 2 Cal. 4th 744, 753, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 808, 828 P.2d 1195

In case of employee with progressive disease, WCAB as potentially required to rate worker's permanent disability in stages at several subsequent proceedings; if WCAB concludes at end of each proceeding that condition is not either (1) permanent and stationary, or (2) a total (100 percent) permanent disability, WCAB as permitted to continue to reserve its jurisdiction for future final determination of permanent disability. General Foundry Service v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 331, 338, 338 n.4, 228 Cal. Rptr. 243, 721 P.2d 124

Right to permanent disability compensation as not arising until injured worker's condition becomes permanent and stationary. LeBoeuf v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 234, 238 n.2, 193 Cal. Rptr. 547, 666 P.2d 989

Employee as not entitled to a combined permanent disability rating for two successive, specific industrial injuries, one to left knee and one to right knee, separated in timeby approximately 18 months, even though both injuries became permanent and stationary at same time, since injuries were not to same part of body. Parker v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 1636, 1641-1647, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 370

Permanent disability compensation as serving a dual function: to compensate both for (1) an actual incapacity to work, and (2) physical impairment of the employee's body that may or may not be incapacitating. Chavira v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 463, 473, 286 Cal. Rptr. 600

Permanent disability as one that causes impairment of earning capacity, impairment of normal use of a member, or a competitive handicap in open labor market. Sidders v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 613, 628, 252 Cal. Rptr. 304 ; Franklin v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 224, 237, 145 Cal. Rptr. 22

Percentage of permanent disability as function of part of body injured, extent of physical disability or impairment, age of employee at time of injury, and injured's occupation at time of injury; hence, occupational variant as having direct impact on size of permanent disability award. Holt v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1257, 1260, 232 Cal. Rptr. 442

Although employee who performs duties of two occupations is entitled to rating based on occupation carrying higher percentage of disability, employee as required to prove that he or she actually performed duties required of the more arduous occupation. Holt v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1257, 1262, 232 Cal. Rptr. 442

Permanent disability indemnity as having dual function: to compensate both for actual incapacity to work and for physical impairment of worker's body, which may or may not be incapacitating. J. T. Thorp, Inc. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 327, 333, 200 Cal. Rptr. 219

[54] Preexisting Conditions and Subsequent Injuries

Employee suffering from preexisting condition and disabled by industrial injury as entitled to compensation and reimbursement of medical expense even though healthy person would not have been injured by event. Braewood Convalescent Hospital v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 159, 165, 193 Cal. Rptr. 157, 666 P.2d 14 ; Lamb v. Workmen's Comp. Appeals Bd. (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 274, 282, 113 Cal. Rptr. 162, 520 P.2d 978

Liability for full disability without proration as imposed on employer when subsequent injury lights up or aggravates previously existing condition resulting in disability; apportionment allowed only in those cases in which part of disability would haveresulted, in absence of industrial injury, from normal progress of preexisting disease. Ballard v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1971) 3 Cal. 3d 832, 837, 92 Cal. Rptr. 1, 478 P.2d 937

Under Lab. Code § 4600, employer as liable for full award of costs of future medical treatment to employee injured in course of employment when need for such medical treatment is partially attributable to previous industrial injury; Lab. Code § 4600 as not impliedly repealed or amended by later enactment of Lab. Code § 3208.2, which requires separate determination of apportionment issues in cases involving combined effect of two or more injuries so as to preclude avoidance of statute of limitations. Buhlert Trucking v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1530, 1532, 247 Cal. Rptr. 190

Employer as liable only for portion of disability attributable to subsequent industrial injuries, not to preexisting condition of employee unless rehabilitation has occurred. Newman v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1984) 152 Cal. App. 3d 219, 222, 199 Cal. Rptr. 422

Apportionment between different employers as not permitted to be used to diminish employee's recovery. Jensen v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 1042, 1047, 186 Cal. Rptr. 570

Apportionment as inappropriate when successive and cumulative injuries to same part of body become permanent and stationary at same time. Rielli v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1982) 134 Cal. App. 3d 721, 724, 184 Cal. Rptr. 825

[55] Presumptions

Ninety-day period, during which employer's rejection of liability will avoid presumption of compensability of employee's injury, does not begin to run when employer receives knowledge of injury or asserted injury, even though no claim form has been filed; rather, 90-day period runs only from date on which employee files claim form with employer. Honeywell v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 24, 37-38, 24 Cal. Rptr. 3d 179, 105 P.3d 544

Lab. Code § 4663, as enacted in 2004 by SB 899, did not repeal non-attribution presumptions of Lab. Code §§ 3212-3213.2, and subsequent legislative enactments mean that non-apportionability of permanent disability awards made pursuant to Lab. Code §§ 3212-3213.2 has been law since 2004 enactment of Lab. Code § 4663 by SB 899. Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation v. W.C.A.B. (Alexander) (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 911, 917-919, 82 Cal. Rptr. 3d 920

Employer's duty to notify employee that his or her claim is rejected arises only when employee actually files formal claim, and only exception to this rule is estoppel when employer has led employee to believe that filing of claim form is not necessary, in which case employer's 90-day period for rejecting claim pursuant to Lab. Code § 5402(b), and avoiding presumption of compensability, may begin before claim is actually filed if employee suffered some loss of benefits or setback as to claim. Fleetwood Enterprises, Inc. v. W.C.A.B. (Moody) (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 1316, 1321-1322, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 587

Statutory presumption that employee's injury was due to uninsured employer's negligence does not extend to presumption that employee's claimed injury arose in course of employment, so that employee seeking damages from uninsured employer has same burden of proof as employee seeking workers' compensation benefits, i.e., burden of proving that injury was sustained in course of employment. Huang v. L.A. Haute (2003) 106 Cal. App. 4th 284, 289-291, 130 Cal. Rptr. 2d 619

WCAB applied presumption of compensability under Lab. Code § 5402 when employer accepted claim within 90 days of receiving claim form without thoroughly investigating claim, then denied liability after paying benefits for almost two years; application of presumption is mandatory when liability is not denied within 90 days, even if claim is accepted and paid but later denied. Williams v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1999) 74 Cal. App. 4th 1260, 1265-1266, 88 Cal. Rptr. 2d 798

Provisions of Lab. Code § 5402 did not bar employer from disputing liability for employee's alleged psychiatric injury based on fact that employee did not meetsix-month employment requirement set forth in Lab. Code § 3208.3, even though employer did not deny claim for psychiatric injury within the 90-day period allowed under Lab. Code § 5402. James v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 1053, 1057, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 392

Employer's failure to reject applicant's claim for workers' compensation within 90 days created presumption of compensability under Lab. Code § 5402; evidence contained in defendant's medical reports and records of lien claimant as inadmissible to rebut presumption of compensability since such evidence could have reasonably been obtained within the 90-day period. State Compensation Insurance Fund v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (Welcher) (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 675, 683-685, 43 Cal. Rptr. 2d 660

[56] Prisoners

Inmate earning no cash wages at time of industrial injury entitled to no temporary disability benefits. Department of Corrections v. W.C.A.B. (Stentz) (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1720, 1723, 1726, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 348

Person convicted of crime who is not incarcerated but undertakes community service for county in lieu of paying fine is "employee" as matter of law for purposes of exclusive remedy doctrine of workers' compensation law. Arriaga v.

County of Alameda (1995) 9 Cal. 4th 1055, 1066-1067, 40 Cal. Rptr. 2d 116, 892 P.2d 150 (expressly disapproving of contrary holding in California State Univ. Fullerton v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 1819, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 50)

County jail inmate who received consideration in form of release from confinement during hours he was not performing work for county pursuant to work release program, for which he volunteered, as an employee within meaning of Lab. Code § 3351 and entitled to workers' compensation for injury sustained while performing work activities for county under work release program. Morales v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 283, 289-290, 230 Cal. Rptr. 575

[57] Psychiatric Injury

Provisions of Lab. Code § 3208.3 as inapplicable to members of California Public Employees' Retirement System (PERS); Gov. Code § 20046's lower threshold of disability, "as a result of injury or disease arising out of and in the course of ... employment," governs. Pearl v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 189, 194-198, 109 Cal. Rptr. 2d 308, 26 P.3d 1044

Employee did not suffer psychiatric injury AOE/COE as result of actual events of employment that were predominant as to all causes combined, as required by Lab. Code § 3208.3(b)(1), when substantial evidence supported Appeals Board's factual findings that employee's supervisor and co-workers did not persecute or harass her and that it was employee who caused stressful work environment by being rude, inflexible, easily upset, and demeaning toward other employees. Verga v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 174, 183-189, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 871

Employee met his burden of establishing that he suffered psychiatric injury as result of sudden and extraordinary employment condition, making psychiatric injury compensable even though it occurred during first six months of employment, when court of appeal found that lumber falling into aisle and onto employee's leg wassuch uncommon, unusual, and totally unexpected event that it would naturally be expected to cause psychic disturbances even in diligent and honest employee. Matea v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 1435, 1447-1450, 51 Cal. Rptr. 3d 314

Employee's psychiatric injury satisfied standard for compensability set forth in Lab. Code § 3208.3(b)(1) only if it was proven that events of employment were predominant as to all causes combined of psychiatric disability taken as whole, when legislative history of statute indicated that Appeals Board's award of benefits, even though AME found that employee's overall psychiatric injury was only 35 percent industrially caused but stated that one of three separate diagnoses was caused exclusively by industrial factors, was contrary to legislature's intention. Sonoma State University v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 500, 504-506, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 330

Court of appeal annulled and remanded Appeals Board's award of benefits to employee for work-related psychiatric injury, when it found that only one of four factors relied on by Board, namely, employee's daily interactions with angry customers of his employer, fell within definition of actual events of employment in Lab. Code § 3208.3(b)(1), while other three factors, namely, downsizing of employer, loss of value of employer's stock owned by employee, and employee's concern about his employer's future and his retirement funds, did not fall within definition of actual events of employment. Pacific Gas & Electric v. W.C.A.B. (Bryan) (2004) 114 Cal. App. 4th 1174, 1182-1184, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 467

Rule regarding six months of employment applies to all claims of injury to psyche (other than those subject to statutory exception of having been caused by "sudden and extraordinary employment condition"), including those claimed to have arisen out of physical industrial injuries. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 1435, 1441-1443, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 822

Employer's investigation of employee's allegations against another employee of racial discrimination constituted good faith personnel action in face of accused employee's claim for psychiatric injury. Northrop Grumman Corp. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 1021, 1035-1037, 127 Cal. Rptr. 2d 285

Correct legal standard for determining good faith personnel actions is whetheremployer made and carried out regular and routine personnel decision with subjective good faith and whether employer's actions were objectively reasonable, not product of unlawful animus toward employee, in which case employer's mistakes in carrying out personnel action do not render that action unlawful. City of Oakland v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 261, 267-270, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 873

Language of Lab. Code § 3208.3 applies to psychiatric injury claimed as compensable consequence of precipitating physical injury, and precipitating physical injury constitutes actual event of employment, so that consequential psychiatric injury is compensable if and only if it is more than half attributable to physical industrial injury. Lockheed Martin Corp. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 1237, 1249, 117 Cal. Rptr. 2d 865

Psychiatric injury suffered by worker as result of workplace gossip about her extramarital affair with coworker was held, as matter of law, not to have arisen out of employment, since finding of industrial injury is proper only when employment plays "active" or "positive" role in development of psychological condition, so that injury that grows out of personal grievance between injured employee and third party does not arise out of employment if injury occurred merely by chance during working hours at place of employment or if employer's premises do not place injured employee in peculiarly dangerous position. Atascadero Unified School District v. W.C.A.B. (Geredes) (2002) 98 Cal. App. 4th 880, 882, 884-885, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 239

Lab. Code § 3208.3(b)(1), establishing a test of predominance for psychiatric injury claim, is rationally related to a legitimate governmental purpose and does not unconstitutionally violate employee's due process rights. Sakotas v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 262, 272, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 153

Provisions of Lab. Code § 5402 did not bar employer from disputing liability for employee's alleged psychiatric injury based on fact that employee did not meet six-month employment requirement set forth in Lab. Code § 3208.3, even though employer did not deny claim for psychiatric injury within the 90-day period allowed under Lab. Code § 5402. James v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 1053, 1057, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 392

Discharged employee as not entitled to workers' compensation benefits for psychiatric injury arising solely as result of termination from employment; Lab. Code § 3208.3 as inapplicable to post-termination psychiatric injury. Bray v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 530, 539-540, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 580

WCAB as properly finding that employee did not sustain industrial psychiatric injurywhen physician found that employee's psychiatric injury resulted from his reaction to employer's discontinuation of vocational rehabilitation benefits in reliance on physician's opinion that employee was not a qualified injured worker; employee's emotional reaction to physicians opinion and employer's reliance on that opinion as not compensable consequences oforiginal industrial injury. Rodriguez v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1994) 21 Cal. App. 4th 1747, 1760, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 93

Lab. Code § 3208.3(d), requiring at least six months of employment before employee eligible for workers' compensation benefits based on claim of psychiatric injury, as not so arbitrary or irrational to unconstitutionally violate employee's equal protection or due process rights. Hansen v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 1179, 1184, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 30

[58] Reconsideration

Standards of review on reconsideration. Lamb v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 274, 280-281

When WCJ, in response to employee's request, amended award by increasing awarded amounts of retroactive temporary disability payments and vocational rehabilitation maintenance allowance, court of appeal held that employer's subsequent petition for reconsideration, timely filed as to amended award, but untimely as to original award, was timely filed, since WCJ's amended award effected substantial and material change in award and involved exercise of judicial function. Nestle IceCream Co. v. W.C.A.B. (Ryerson) (2007) 146 Cal. App. 4th 1104, 1108-1111, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 340

Effect of WCAB's failure to distinguish between its role as reviewing body and as trier of fact in receiving evidence without referee (now WCJ) and without permitting full cross examination and rebutal testimony. Redner v. Workmen's Comp. Appeals Bd. (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 83, 86-95, 89 n.5, 95 Cal. Rptr. 447, 485 P.2d 799

WCAB, under Lab. Code § 5908.5, as permitted to deny petition for reconsideration of decision by memorandum order incorporating report of referee (now WCJ), provided it states evidence relied on and specifies in detail reasons for decision. LeVesque v. Workmen's Comp. App. Bd. (1970) 1 Cal. 3d 627, 635, 83 Cal. Rptr. 208, 463 P.2d 432

Time period after which a petition for reconsideration is deemed denied by operation of law pursuant to Lab. Code § 5909 as tolled during period WCAB had misplaced the applicant's file, as file was lost through no fault of the applicant and due to circumstances entirely beyond his control. Shipley v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 1104, 1107-1108, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 345

WCAB as committing reversible error by denying employer's petition for reconsideration of an award in favor of employee when employer had been deprived of due process since he had never been served with notice of additional injuries claimed by employee or with notice of proceedings before the workers' compensation judge. Katzin v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 703, 711-712, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 66

WCAB as exceeding its authority in denying reconsideration of workers' compensation award that expressly excluded chiropractic treatment chosen by employee. Derrick v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 451, 454-456, 205 Cal. Rptr. 595

Decision of WCAB on reconsideration as not permitted to incorporate petition for reconsideration. Urlwin v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1981) 126 Cal. App. 3d 466, 469-470, 178 Cal. Rptr. 758

WCJ's order as sufficiently final for purposes of reconsideration when it resolves current issue affecting substantive rights of parties. Scott v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1981) 122 Cal. App. 3d 979, 984, 176 Cal. Rptr. 267

[59] Res Judicata and Collateral Estoppel

Workers' compensation award for emotional injuries as barring injured employee's later claim for emotional distress against municipal employer infederal civil rights action under 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Sanchez v. City of Santa Ana (9th Cir. 1990) 915 F.2d 424, 431-432

Housing authority was barred by doctrine of collateral estoppel from denying employee Lab. Code § 4850 benefits, since issue had been decided against Housing Authority in previous WCAB proceeding. Housing Authority v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1998) 60 Cal. App. 4th 1076, 1086-1087, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 738

WCAB as a constitutional court with the result that its final decisions are given res judicata effect with respect to both subsequent civil actions and subsequent workers' compensation proceedings. Azadigian v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 372, 376, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 643

Issue necessarily decided by prior criminal conviction as conclusive against convicted person in subsequent civil action, including proceeding before WCAB. Westbrooks v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 249, 251-252 ns.1, 2, 252 Cal. Rptr. 26

When doctrines of res judicata and collateral estoppel apply to WCAB finding or order. Clemente v. State of California (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 202, 222, 219 Cal. Rptr. 445, 707 P.2d 818 ; Hughes v. Atlantic Pacific Construction Co. (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 987, 1001-1003, 240 Cal. Rptr. 200 (finding not res judicata in tort action); Dakins v. Board of Pension Commissioners (1982) 134 Cal. App. 3d 374, 381, 184 Cal. Rptr. 576 ; De Court v. Beckman Instruments, Inc. (1973) 32 Cal. App. 3d 628, 635, 108 Cal. Rptr. 109

WCAB's opinions as valid authority and looked to by courts of law. Ezzy v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 252, 261 n.4, 194 Cal. Rptr. 90

[60] Sanctions

Lab. Code § 5813 sanctions imposed on attorney who failed to appear at conference set on issue of employee's earnings, told claims adjuster he would not appear and that adjuster could take employee's deposition, and failed to notify WCJ that he would not attend. Runnion v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 277, 287-288, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 105

[61] Self-Insurers' Security Fund

Self-Insurers' Security Fund as empowered to bring any action against any person to recover compensation paid and liability assumed by fund [see Lab. Code § 3744(c)]; purpose of this provision as being to allow fund to seek legal redress against others to recover moneys it expends in continuing insolvent self-insured's compensation payments; term "any person" as sufficiently broad, without specifying language of 1986 amendments, to include one whose actions contributed to inadequacy of sel f-insured's security deposit, thereby necessitating fund's assumption and continued payment of workers' compensation liabilities; by initially not specifying entities whom fund could pursue, Legislature as in effect conferring standing on fund in all instances in which legal theory for recovery could be stated against defendant. Self-Insurers' Security Fund v. ESIS, Inc. (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 1148, 1154-1155, 251 Cal. Rptr. 693 (involving theory of equitable subrogation)

[62] Serious and Willful Misconduct by Employer

After one-year period allowed by statute of limitations, additional employers (such as, in this case, special employer) may not be joined in claim for serious and willful misconduct timely commenced against another employer (here, general employer), unless employee was ignorant of identity of late-filed-against employer until after running of statute. McGee Street Productions v. W.C.A.B. (Peterson) (2003) 108 Cal. App. 4th 717, 725-726, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 813

WCAB used proper standard to determine that employer willfully violated an occupational safety standard; finding of willful violation of safety standard does not require showing of actual intent and knowledge to do harm; rather, the standard requires proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the act committed by the employer was the desired consequence of employer's intent, and that employer was aware that act violated a safety order. Rick's Electric, Inc. v. Occupational Safety & Health Appeals Bd. (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 1023, 1037-1039, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 847

Lab. Code § 4553 (increase of compensation if injury results from employer's serious and willful misconduct) as applicable to employer that is governmental entity. State Dept. of Corrections v. Workmen's Comp. App. Bd. (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 885, 887-891, 97 Cal. Rptr. 786, 489 P.2d 818

"Serious and willful misconduct" defined. Hawaiian Pineapple Co., Ltd. v. Ind. Acc. Com. (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 656, 662-665, 255 P.2d 431 ; White v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1968) 265 Cal. App. 2d 115, 120-121, 71 Cal. Rptr. 49

Lab. Code § 4553 as sole remedy for additional compensation when employee was injured as result of deliberate failure to ensure safe place to work. United States Borax & Chemical Corp. v. Superior Court (1985) 167 Cal. App. 3d 406, 410-411, 213 Cal. Rptr. 155

[63] Services Performed for Aid or Sustenance

Exclusion of employee from workers' compensation coverage under Lab. Code § 3352(b) (services performed in return for aid and sustenance from charitable organization) as properly based on whether services are provided at minimal leval to obtain necessities of life, or are instead part of normal employment relationship; employment by church for pay that is above the minimum wage and not gauged by employee's necessities as outside scope of Lab. Code § 3352(b) and employee as therefore covered by workers' compensation law. Hoppmann v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1991) 226 Cal. App. 3d 1119, 1123, 277 Cal. Rptr. 116

[64] Special Employees

Firefighter who was employed by California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection and was killed fighting forest fire while under contract to U.S. Interior Department as "special employee" of U.S. government, which was thereby immune from wrongful death suit under Federal Tort Claims Act but subject to payment of compensation under California's workers' compensation law. Enslow v. U.S. (C.D. Cal. 1992) 811 F. Supp. 503, 506

Triable issue of fact existed as to whether defendant was plaintiff's special employer, when evidence on issue of control as well as other factors supported conflicting inferences. Brassinga v. City of Mountainview (1998) 66 Cal. App. 4th 195, 219, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 660

Temporary employment agency employee was barred by exclusive remedy doctrine from bringing tort action against her assigned employer, when evidence showing that assigned employer had right to control and direct manner in which employee's work was performed supported special employment relationship as matter of law. Wedeck v. Unocal Corp. (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 848, 862, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 501

Finding that tanker owner was plaintiff's "special employer" as proper notwithstanding that owner failed to allege exclusive remedy doctrine as affirmative defense in answer, since all parties had actual notice that owner was relying on employment as defense to liability and tried case accordingly; if tanker owner failed to secure workers' compensation insurance pursuant to Lab. Code § 3700, it will be liable to plaintiff for civil damages despite special employment relationship. Douglas Oil Co. v. Western Asphalt Service (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 372, 381, 394, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 269

Special employment relationship as arising when employer lends employee to another employer and relinquishes to borrowing employer all right of control over employee's activities. Johnson v. Berkofsky-Barret Productions, Inc. (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 1067, 1070 n.3, 260 Cal. Rptr. 67 ; Riley v. Southwest Marine, Inc. (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 1242, 1247, 250 Cal. Rptr. 718

Factors to be considered in determining whether individual is "special employee" or "employee" as essentially identical; in each case, presence of right to control alleged employee as primary factor; label placed by parties on their relationship as not dispositive. Johnson v. Berkofsky-Barret Productions, Inc. (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 1067, 1072 n.4, 1072, 260 Cal. Rptr. 67

Special employment (or borrowed servant) doctrine as applying to labor brokerage situation and as barring employee who is injured while on assignment from labor broker from bringing tort suit against assigned employer. Johnson v. Berkofsky-Barret Productions, Inc. (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 1067, 1074, 260 Cal. Rptr. 67

Borrowed employee as held to have two employers; his or her original or "general" employer and a second, the "special" employer; in this dual employer situation, employee as generally limited to statutory workers' compensation remedy for injuries received in course of employment with special employer and as not permitted to bring separate tort action against either employer. Riley v. Southwest Marine, Inc. (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 1242, 1248, 1249, 1251, 250 Cal. Rptr. 718

Primary consideration in determining whether special employment relationship exists as being whether special employer has right to control and direct activities of alleged employee or manner and method in which work is performed, whether exercised or not; factors relevant to determining whether employee is borrowed employee of another as including (1) whether borrowing employer's control over employee and work that employee is performing extends beyond mere suggestion of details or cooperation; (2) whether there was an agreement, understanding, or meeting of minds between original and special employer; (3) whether employee acquiesced in new work situation; (4) whether original employer terminated his or her relationship with employee; (5) whether special employer furnished tools and place for performance; (6) whether new employment was over considerable length of time; (7) whether borrowing employer had right to fire employee; and (8) whether borrowing employer had obligation to pay employee. Riley v. Southwest Marine, Inc. (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 1242, 1250, 250 Cal. Rptr. 718

Circumstances that tend to negate existence of special employment relationship as including following factors: (1) worker is skilled and has substantial control over operational details; (2) worker is not engaged in borrower's usual business; (3) worker works only for brief period of time and does not use tools or equipment of borrowing employer, but uses his or her own tools or tools of lending employer; and (4) borrowing employer neither pays worker nor has right to discharge worker. Riley v. Southwest Marine, Inc. (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 1242, 1250, 250 Cal. Rptr. 718

When alleged special employer was exercising direct supervision over exact task during accomplishment of which employee was injured, status of special employer as required to be found to exist as to claim for that injury. Riley v. Southwest Marine, Inc. (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 1242, 1251, 250 Cal. Rptr. 718

Extensive nationwide case law, interpreting both state workers' compensation statutes and Longshore and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act (33 U.S.C. § 901 et seq.), as holding "special employment" or "borrowed servant" doctrine applies to labor brokerage situation and bars employee who is injured while on assignment from labor broker from bringing tort suit against assigned employer. Riley v. Southwest Marine, Inc. (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 1242, 1251, 250 Cal. Rptr. 718

Worker as able to have more than one employer for purposes of workers' compensation; thus, employee of temporary employment agency (general employer) employed on one-day job assignment as employee of temporary employer (special employer) for purposes of workers' compensation when temporary employer had supervision and control over employee's job duties. Santa Cruz Poultry, Inc. v. Superior Court (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 575, 577-579, 239 Cal. Rptr. 578

When special employment relationship exists between temporary employee and employer, employee's exclusive remedy for job-related injuries as being workers' compensation. Santa Cruz Poultry, Inc. v. Superior Court (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 575, 577, 239 Cal. Rptr. 578

Neither right to control nor exercise of control by alleged special employer as exclusive consideration in determining whether worker is special employee (employee of one employer sent to do work for another employer) precluding employee's tort action against alleged special employer and relegating employee to exclusive remedy provisions of workers' compensation law (Lab. Code § 3602(a)). Barajas v. USA Petroleum Corp. (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 974, 983, 229 Cal. Rptr. 513

[65] State Compensation Insurance Fund

Supreme Court held State Compensation Insurance Fund was not immune from civil liability under Ins. Code § 11758 for allegedly misallocating an insured employer's medical-legal expenses and reporting that misinformation to a ratemaking organization, resulting in higher premiums for its insured. State Compensation Insurance Fund v. Superior Court of Orange County (2001) 24 Cal. 4th 930, 932, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 662, 16 P.3d 85

State Compensation Insurance Fund's actions in requiring non-refundable premium were not negligent or deceitful, unfair, unlawful, or arbitrary. Rail Services of America v. State Compensation Insurance Fund (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 323, 333-338, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 700

Court of appeal upheld jury verdict finding State Compensation Insurance Fund (SCIF) liable for compensatory and punitive damages based on its breach of implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing and fraudulent business practices; court of appeal upheld trial court's order enjoining SCIF from various business practices. Notrica v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 911, 925, 83 Cal. Rptr. 2d 89

Insured employer is entitled to bring a civil action against State Compensation Insurance Fund for refusal to defend and indemnify in a workers' compensation action. Salimi v. State Comp. Ins. Fund (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 216, 222, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 640

Insured employer is entitled to present evidence of negligent claims handling as circumstantial evidence of bad faith and breach of contract by State Compensation Insurance Fund. Tricor California, Inc. v. State Compensation Insurance Fund (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 230, 238, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 550

Adequate and prompt investigation of claims, payment of only legitimate claims in proper amounts, permitting insured employer to review and audit files, and accurate and fair setting of rates paid by employers are implied contractual duties of State Compensation Insurance Fund, violation of which may be actionable by insured under breach of contract and violation of implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing. Tricor California, Inc. v. State Compensation Insurance Fund (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 230, 238, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 550

State Compensation Insurance Fund is not immune from payment of punitive damages based on status as quasi-governmental agency. Tricor California, Inc. v. State Compensation Insurance Fund (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 230, 241, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 550

Insured employer is not required to exhaust administrative remedies prior to bringing suit against State Compensation Insurance Fund for bad faith practices. Tricor California, Inc. v. State Compensation Insurance Fund (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 230, 242, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 550

State Compensation Insurance Fund as not entitled to governmental immunity from tort claims. Security Officers Service, Inc. v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 887, 892-893, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 653

State Compensation Insurance Fund as required to conduct its functions of defending, investigating, allocating reserves, and settling claims with good faith regard for their effect on insured's premiums and dividends, as determined under the policy and governing regulations. Security OfficersService, Inc. v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 887, 893-898, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 653

Insured as entitled to bring suit against State Compensation Insurance Fund for tortious breach of implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing and for negligence based on Fund's delay in processing claims and its overestimation of reserves for claims that adversely affected insured's premiums and policy dividends. Security Officers Service, Inc. v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 887, 899-900, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 653

Tort Claims Act as not applicable to State Compensation Insurance Fund by virtue of Ins. Code § 11873, which excludes Fund from immunities of Act and places Fund in same position as other workers' compensation insurers. Maxon Industries, Inc. v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 1387, 1390-1395, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 730

Purpose of State Compensation Insurance Fund as to ensure that affordable compensation coverage will be available to all employers. Courtesy Ambulance Service v. Superior Court (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 1504, 1511, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 161

State Compensation Insurance Fund as granted greater freedom in conducting its affairs by Ins. Code §§ 11770-11881 than that granted to most other state agencies, enabling it to compete with private insurers. Courtesy Ambulance Service v. Superior Court (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 1504, 1511-1513, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 161

By virtue of Ins. Code § 11873, State Compensation Insurance Fund as not entitled to protection from liability for punitive damages provided by Gov. Code § 818 to most public entities. Courtesy Ambulance Service v. Superior Court (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 1504, 1513-1519, 11 Cal. Rptr. 2d 161

[66] Statute of Limitations

WCAB as proper forum for resolving issues regarding limitation period for claim filing by dependents of deceased employees. Marsh & McLennan, Inc. v. Superior Court (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 1, 5 n.1, 259 Cal. Rptr. 733, 774 P.2d 762

Although Lab. Code § 4600 imposes broad duty on employer to provide medical and other treatment to employee and makes employer liable for expenses incurred by employee or by third parties on employee's behalf when employer fails to do so, Lab. Code § 5405 as setting clear limits on time period within which procedures for enforcement of that duty must be invoked. Kaiser Foundation Hospitals v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 329, 336, 137 Cal. Rptr. 878, 562 P.2d 1037

CIGA failed to meet its burden to prove that employee gained actual knowledge of his potential eligibility for workers' compensation benefits for 1997 injury more than one year prior to filing his claim, when court of appeal found that employer had breached its statutory duty to notify unaware employee of his or her workers' compensation rights, so that one-year limitations period for filing claim for benefits was tolled until employee acquired actual knowledge of those rights. California Ins. Guarantee Assn. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2008) 163 Cal. App. 4th 853, 856-857, 862-878, 77 Cal. Rptr. 3d 868

Workers' compensation claim as not barred by statute of limitations unless worker knew, or in exercise of reasonable diligence should have known, that disability was caused by employment. Chambers v. Workmen's Comp. App. Bd. (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 556, 559, 72 Cal. Rptr. 651, 446 P.2d 531 (involving occupational disease); City of Fresno v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 467, 470-471, 209 Cal. Rptr. 463 (involving cumulative injuries)

Insurance carrier paying workers' compensation benefits on behalf of insured employer must file contribution claim against employer's other insurance carriers under Lab. Code § 5500.5(e) within one year from the date of award; Lab. Code § 5500.5(e) is not satisfied merely by joining another insurance carrier or employer as additional party in workers' compensation action. General Accident Insurance Co. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1996) 47 Cal. App. 4th 1141, 1148, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 272

Employee's psychiatric injury sustained during course of vocational rehabilitation for prior industrial injury as not barred by five-year statutory time limitations on WCAB's continuing jurisdiction under Lab. Code §§ 5410 and 5804; claim for psychiatric injury as new injury claim subject to time limitations set forth in Lab. Code § 5405. Newton v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 147, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 146

Partial payment of injured employee's health care expenses by employer or insurer with knowledge of potential workers' compensation claim as tolling one-year period within which original proceeding must be filed under Lab. Code § 5405 and triggering five-year period of Lab. Code § 5410; subsequent notice of denial of liability as terminating five-year limitation and commencing new one-year period. McDaniel v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 1011, 1016-1019, 267 Cal. Rptr. 440

For purposes of statute of limitations, date of cumulative injury as requiring concurrence of two elements: (1) compensable disability and (2) knowledge of industrial causation; these elements as presenting questions of fact to be determined by WCAB, and burden of proving them as being on employer. Bassett-McGregor v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 1102, 1110, 252 Cal. Rptr. 868

If employer or its compensation carrier, knowing of potential claim, furnishes treatment or advances sums for any purpose relating to industrial injury, such benefits as deemed given under Labor Code so as to toll statute of limitations. Gonzalez v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 514, 523, 230 Cal. Rptr. 649

Amended application for workers' compensation specifying willful misconduct by employer, filed more than one year after injury, as not barred by statute of limitations when original application, though deficient in setting forth factual basis for claim, identified issue and commenced action, and amendment presented no new legal theory or cause of action. Rubio v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1985) 165 Cal. App. 3d 196, 200-202, 211 Cal. Rptr. 461

Claims for vocational rehabilitation benefits as governed by five-year limitation period of Lab. Code § 5804, rather than by one-year limitation period for claiming medical and disability payments of Lab. Code § 5405. Bekins Moving & Storage Co. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 665, 668-670, 187 Cal. Rptr. 226

[67] Stipulations and Requests for Award

WCAB exceeded its authority by rescinding award based on stipulation to industrial injury and rendering finding of no industrial injury when rescission was based on conflicting AME opinion and erroneous legal interpretation. Brannen v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1996) 46 Cal. App. 4th 377, 383-384, 53 Cal. Rptr. 2d 768

Stipulations as permissible in workers' compensation cases and as treated as evidence in nature of admission, but as not binding on WCJ or WCAB; stipulations as encouraged, however, to expedite proceedings, and as not subject to being set aside absent inadvertence, excusable neglect, fraud, mistake of fact or law, or when facts stipulated have changed or there has been change in underlying conditions that could not have been anticipated, or when special circumstances exist rendering it unjust to enforce stipulation. Robinson v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 784, 790-791, 239 Cal. Rptr. 841

Stipulation on material fact as evidence in nature of an admission, and party who did not sign stipulation as permitted to take advantage of it. Turner Gas Co. v. Workmen's Comp. Appeals Bd. (1975) 47 Cal. App. 3d 286, 291-292, 120 Cal. Rptr. 663

[68] Suicide

When suicide may be considered result of industrial injury. Donovan v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1982) 138 Cal. App. 3d 323, 327-328, 187 Cal. Rptr. 869

[69] Supplemental Proceedings

Petition to terminate liability for precautionary award of medical benefits must be filed within five years from the date of injury. Barnes v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2000) 23 Cal. 4th 679, 690, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 638, 2 P.3d 1180

Appeals Board had jurisdiction to order additional temporary disability benefits more than five years after date of injury when employee filed timely petition to reopen and his new and further disability commenced within five years of date of his injury, when court found that employee's petition to reopen alleged change in his condition and requested further temporary disability benefits, and it was not error for WCJ to award temporary disability benefits commencing more than five years after date of injury because there had been no need to award benefits earlier since employer was making voluntary temporary disability payments until then. Sarabi v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 920, 925-928, 60 Cal. Rptr. 3d 189

Good cause for reopening as found in mistake of law, inadvertence, newly discovered evidence, fraud, or any factor or circumstance unknown at time of original award or order that renders it inequitable. LeBoeuf v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 234, 241-242, 193 Cal. Rptr. 547, 666 P.2d 989 ; Arias v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 813, 821, 194 Cal. Rptr. 640

Good cause to reopen permanent disability proceeding under Lab. Code § 5803 as established when injured worker was found by WCAB to be less than totally disabled and Bureau of Rehabilitation refused to find worker qualified for rehabilitation benefits. LeBoeuf v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 234, 240-245, 193 Cal. Rptr. 547, 666 P.2d 989

Award of medical-legal expenses, self-procured medical expense, and additional permanent disability on applicant's petition to reopen as not constituting termination of prior awards of future medical care, when further medical care was not listed as issue at hearing, award did not expressly rescind future medical care awards, and evidence before WCAB would not have supported determination that worker was not entitled to further medical treatment. Cedillo v. Workmen's Comp. Appeals Bd. (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 450, 453-457, 96 Cal. Rptr. 471, 487 P.2d 1039

Petition to reopen case pursuant to Lab. Code §§ 5803 and 5804 as enabling WCAB to exercise jurisdiction and to award relief not specifically requested (temporary disability when petition requested permanent disability). Bland v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 324, 328-329, 331, 90 Cal. Rptr. 431, 475 P.2d 663

Employee, who does not timely object to the termination of rehabilitation services, is required to fulfill requirements of Lab. Code § 5410 to reopen rehabilitation. Cisneros v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1995) 41 Cal. App. 4th 759, 768-769, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 655

Lab. Code §§ 5410 and 5804 as precluding award of temporary total disability indemnity more than five years after date of injury, even though in case of progressive disease, WCAB may tentatively rate employee's permanent disability and reserve jurisdiction to make final determination of permanent disability beyond five-year period; 1978 amendment of Lab. Code § 4656, removing 240-week limitation on awards of temporary total disability, as permitting award of temporary total disability beyond five-year period only when disability commences within five-year period and is continuous; amendment to Lab. Code § 4656 as not altering time and jurisdictional limits of Lab. Code §§ 5410 and

5804; WCAB as having no power to reserve jurisdiction to award temporary total disability indemnity for surgery that might take place more than five years after date of employee's specific injuries. Hartsuiker v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 209, 213-220, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 719

Existence of good cause as essential to WCAB's exercise of its continuing jurisdiction over its orders, decisions, and awards pursuant to Lab. Code § 5803; without proof of good cause, WCAB has no power to disturb its prior ruling. Azadigian v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 372, 378, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 643

Employee as entitled to full award for a 100 percent permanent disability under a single award for a combined disability arising from two separate industrial injuries for which the employee had filed two separate cases, even though the WCAB had properly determined that it lacked jurisdiction to reopen the earlier case since the petition to reopen was filed more than five years after the first injury. Stoiber v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1403, 1407-1410, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 470

Failure of efforts at self-rehabilitation as change of circumstances constituting good cause why initial award should be reopened to determine whether applicant is entitled to rehabilitation benefits not initially requested. Bekins Moving & Storage Co. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 665, 672, 187 Cal. Rptr. 226

Reopening case more than five years after date of injury as proper when petition to reopen was filed within five years of date of injury. Aliano v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 341, 365, 161 Cal. Rptr. 190

Subsequent judicial interpretation of compensation statutes contrary to prior administrative interpretation as good cause to reopen case under Lab. Code § 5803 when request to reopen is made within five years from date of injury. Knowles v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 1027, 1030, 89 Cal. Rptr. 356

[70] Temporary Disability

Injured employee not entitled to temporary disability benefits to reimburse him or her for wages lost while pursuing medical treatment for industrial injury,once that injury has become permanent and stationary and employee has returned to work with medical award. Department of Rehabilitation v. W.C.A.B. (Lauher) (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 1281, 1297, 1301, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 665, 70 P.3d 1076

One year of industrial disability leave payable to state employees under Gov. Code §§ 19869-19877.1 falls within the ambit of the two-year limitation on aggregate temporary disability payments in Lab. Code § 4656(c)(1). Brooks v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2008) 161 Cal. App. 4th 1522, 1527-1538, 75 Cal. Rptr. 3d 277

For purposes of determining two-year limitation period on temporary disability indemnity, temporary disability payments commenced when school district paid its injured employee her normal wages under Ed. Code § 44043. Mt. Diablo Unified School District v. W.C.A.B. (Rollick) (2003) 165 Cal. App. 4th 1154, 1158-1161, 81 Cal. Rptr. 3d 597

When independent injuries result in concurrent periods of temporary disability, 104-week, two-year limitation of Lab. Code § 4656(c)(1) likewise runs concurrently. Foster v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2008) 161 Cal. App. 4th 1505, 1511-1513, 75 Cal. Rptr. 3d 272

Pursuant to Lab. Code § 4653, temporary disability during seasonal employee's in-season period of regular employment was payable based on two-thirds of employee's in-season average weekly earnings, but seasonal employee was not entitled to temporary disability during off-season when parties stipulated that employee did not have any off-season earnings, and court stated that temporary disability was intended as substitute for injured employee's lost wages, so it would be illogical to award employee temporary disability as wage replacement when it was undisputed that there would be no wage to replace. Signature Fruit Co. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 790, 800-804, 47 Cal. Rptr. 3d 878

Employee was not entitled to temporary disability indemnity after her retirement date, when she indicated an intent to retire from all employment and, therefore, had zero earning capacity after her retirement date. Gonzales v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 843, 850, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 54

Employer's failure to reject appliant's claim for workers' compensation within 90 days created presumption of compensability under Lab. Code § 5402; evidence contained in employer's medical reports and records of lien claimant was inadmissible to rebut prsumption of compensability since such evidence could have reasonably been obtained within the 90-day period. State Compensation Insurance Fund v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 675, 683-685, 43 Cal. Rptr. 2d 660

Requirement of Lab. Code § 5402 that employer rejuect liability within 90 days in order to aboid presumption of compensability does not require that employer actually notify employee of rejection within that time period. Rodriguez v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 1425, 1433, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 713

Temporary disability benefits as a substitute for lost wages during period of temporary incapacity from working. Livitsanos v. Superior Court (1992) 2 Cal. 4th 744, 753, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 808, 828 P.2d 1195

Lab. Code § 4656 (maximum period for temporary disability payments) as not authorizing unlimited temporary total disability as consequence of award of further medical treatment. Nickelsberg v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1991) 54 Cal. 3d 288, 302, 285 Cal. Rptr. 86, 814 P.2d 1328

Temporary disability as rated as total or partial, depending on employee's ability to work during period of convalescence; under "odd lot" doctrine, worker who is only partially disabled as permitted to receive total disability payments if partial disability results in total loss of wages; this doctrine as placing burden on employer to show that work within capabilities of partially disabled employee is available; if employer does not make this showing, employee as entitled to temporary total disability benefits. General Foundry Service v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 331, 338, 339 n.5, 228 Cal. Rptr. 243, 721 P.2d 124

Period of temporary total disability as that period when employee is totally incapacitated for work and during which he or she may reasonably be expected to be cured or materially improved with proper medical attention, or until his or her condition becomes permanent and stationary; whether condition has become permanent and stationary as purely question of fact to be determined from evidence. Robinson v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 784, 792, 239 Cal. Rptr. 841

Temporary disability indemnity as intended primarily to substitute for worker's lost wages, in order to maintain steady stream of income. J. T. Thorp, Inc. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 327, 333, 200 Cal. Rptr. 219

[71] Third-Party Actions

[a] In General

Trial court properly granted summary judgment for employer and labor union as to employee's claims for breach of the union's statutory duty of fair representation and wrongful termination by employer without just cause in violation of collective bargaining agreement when employee injured in 1991 was unable to return to full job duties with employer and employer refused to hire her back. Conkle v. Sulinna Jeong (1995) 73 F.3d 909, 916

California workers' compensation laws (1) as allowing both employee and employer to sue third party who may be responsible for employee's injuries (see Lab. Code § 3852); (2) as authorizing employee and employer to intervene in each other's action (see Lab. Code § 3853); (3) as providing for mandatory consolidation of their lawsuits (see Lab. Code § 3853); (4) as allowing employer to sue on employee's behalf for employee's damages (see Lab. Code § 3852, 3853, 3854, 3859); and (5) as granting employee and employer right to share in each other's judgment or settlement (see Lab. Code §§ 3856, 3860). County of San Diego v. Sanfax Corp. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 862, 868, 868 n.1, 872-873, 140 Cal. Rptr. 638, 568 P.2d 363

Surviving wife and children of tow truck driver, who was killed when struck by passing motorist while working to remove defendant's car from side of highway, had no third-party cause of action against defendant when defendant's car had been left on side of highway after defendant had been stopped and arrested by police for driving while intoxicated. Bryant v. Glastetter (1995) 32 Cal. App. 4th 770, 782-783, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 291

Even absent physician-patient relationship, physician who evaluates workers' compensation claimant at request of defense counsel is liable to claimant for negligence or medical malpractice for injuries incurred during examination. Mero v. Sadoff (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1466, 1478, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 769

Injured worker as entitled to pursue malpractice claim against his attorneys for failure to advise him of possibility of filing third-party action and of applicable statute of limitations. Nichols v. Keller (1993) 15 Cal. App. 4th 1672, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 601

Under Lab. Code § 3853, if action against third party is brought by either employer or employee, other as permitted at any time before trial on facts to join as party plaintiff or shall consolidate his or her action if brought independently; workers' compensation insurance carrier under Lab. Code § 3850(b) as having same right to sue as employer. Buell v. CBS, Inc. (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 823, 825 ns.1, 2, 186 Cal. Rptr. 455

[b] Aggravation of Injuries

In addition to workers' compensation proceeding, employee injured in industrial accident as permitted to institute and pursue civil suit at common law against treating doctor for aggravation of injury through negligent treatment. Nation v. Certainteed Corp. (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 813, 816, 149 Cal. Rptr. 62

[b.1] Attorney's Duty to Advise Regarding Possible Third Party Action

Failure by attorney representing employee in workers' compensation proceeding to timely advise employee of possible personal injury action against third parties may constitute malpractice or negligence, but plaintiff's failure in malpractice action against workers' compensation attorney to present any evidence regarding collectibility of some portion of judgment in any third party action defeats malpractice action. Garretson v. Miller (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 563, 571-573, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 317

Workers' compensation insurer's attorneys owe no duty to employer after employer's dismissal from workers' compensation case by operation of Lab. Code § 3755, in absence of extenuating facts. Canton Poultry & Deli, Inc. v. Stockwell, Harris, Widom & Woolverton (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1219, 1227-1229, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 695

[c] Attorney's Fees

Although made-whole rule applies in medical payments insurance context, and insured must be made whole as to all damages proximately caused by injury, liability for attorney's fees is not included under made-whole rule, but is instead subject to equitable apportionment rule. 21st Century Insurance Co. v. Superior Court of San Diego County; Silvia Quintana, Real Party in Interest (2009) 47 Cal. 4th 511, 527-528, 98 Cal. Rptr. 3d 516, 213 P.3d 972

When employee and employer settle action against third-party tortfeasor for sum that is less than employer's reimbursable compensation costs, so that employee recovers nothing from settlement, and employee has contingency fee agreement with his or her attorney, employee's attorney is entitled to no fee out of settlement proceeds, and employee owes no attorney's fees. Draper v. Aceto (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 1086, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 61, 33 P.3d 479

When employer and third-party tortfeasor have prior contractual agreement in which prevailing party has right to attorney's fees from other party in event of litigation, subrogated insurance carrier who brings claim for reimbursement directly against alleged tortfeasor is liable for third-party's attorney's fees under contract to same extent as employer. Employers Muttal Liability Ins. Co. v. Tutor-Saliva Corp. (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 632, 640, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 851, 951 P.2d 420

Code Civ. Proc. § 1141.21(a)(ii) did not bar allocation of portion of plaintiff-employee's trial judgment proceeds for payment of reasonable litigation expenses and attorney's fees pursuant to Lab. Code § 3856, even though plaintiff rejected more favorable settlement offer. Phelps v. Stostad (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 23, 34, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 360, 939 P.2d 760

Fee of plaintiff's attorney under Lab. Code § 3856(b) in successful action by employee against third-party tortfeasor in which employer's compensation carrier filed lien to recover workers' compensation benefits paid as apportioned between parties benefitted by judgment by trial court on motion after judgment after court first calculates reasonable fee reflecting total services rendered to both beneficiaries. Quinn v. State of California (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 162, 164-167, 175-176, 124 Cal. Rptr. 1, 539 P.2d 761

Error for trial court, in calculating fees for employee's attorney, to include amount of employer's workers' compensation lien, which employer assigned to third party as part of settlement between them and which third party then gave up right to enforce against employee as part of settlement between them, and error for trial court to award employee's attorney's fees based on total settlement achieved among employee, employer, and third party without addressing issue of whether that settlement was obtained solely through efforts of employee's attorney. Manriquez v. Adams (2003) 108 Cal. App. 4th 340, 346-348, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 449

Plaintiff employee in action against third party is entitled under Lab. Code § 3856(b) to attorney's fees and costs allocated from workers' compensation lien when carrier's attorney's participation in lawsuit was limited to attending three of four depositions but asking only one question of one witness, submitting expert witness list naming "all such witnesses so designated by the plaintiff and defendants in this case," and allegedly spending 86.25 hours on case without specifying how hours were spent. Kindt v. Otis Elevator Company (1995) 32 Cal. App. 4th 452, 460, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 121

Plaintiff-employee as entitled to attorney's fees under Lab. Code § 3856(b) even though plaintiff's damages award was less than amount spent on workers' compensation benefits and resulted in no net recovery; despite lack of net recovery, benefit as conferred on plaintiff's employer who, without plaintiff's efforts, would not have had any fund from which to recoup or offset amount of benefits paid to plaintiff; when employer sold its workers' compensation lien to defendant, defendant as having stepped into employer's shoes for all purposes; lien rights as allowable against judgment only after payment of litigation and attorney's fees. Crampton v. Takegoshi (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 308, 316-319, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 284 , overruled on other grounds by Phelps v. Stostad (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 23

Plaintiff's claim for attorney's fees under Lab. Code § 3856(d) as not precluded by Code Civ. Proc. § 1141.21, when plaintiff recovered more at trial de novo than from arbitration in terms of damages awarded, notwithstanding that plaintiff's net recovery at trial was zero as a result of amount paid for workers' compensation benefits; assigned lien as not a factor in determining whether plaintiff's damages at trial were more favorable or not when employer assigned its lien to defendant and was not a party; Code Civ. Proc. § 1141.21 as inapplicable when verdict between plaintiff and defendant was larger than arbitrator's award. Crampton v. Takegoshi (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 308, 319-321, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 284 , overruled on other grounds by Phelps v. Stostad (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 23

When compensation insurer assigns worker's compensation lien to third party, if third party desires to avoid apportionment of attorney's fees under Lab. Code § 3856, third party must provide court with sufficient factual detail to establish that activities of insurer's attorney constituted a conscientious effort to address the substantive issues in the case; apportionment as not avoided if the only evidence presented by the third party consists of the attorney's declaration that fails to explain the nature of his services and provides no evidence of the hours expended. Hartwig v. Zacky Farms (1992) 2 Cal. App. 4th 1550, 1556-1557, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 828

Employer as not passive beneficiary of employee's third-party litigation when employer was represented in that action by its own attorney and this attorney was involved in discovery and pretrial settlement conference, designated several expert witnesses for trial, and appeared at trial and engaged in some questioning of witnesses; thus, employee's attorney was not entitled to an attorney's fee out of employer's recovery in action. Kavanaugh v. City of Sunnyvale (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 903, 916, 284 Cal. Rptr. 698

Principle of equitable apportionment of attorney's fees in action against third-party tortfeasor as applying when both employee and employer, or employer's workers' compensation carrier, retain separate attorneys so long as resulting fund is produced through efforts of only one of them; employee's attorney is entitled to attorney's fees based on amount of lien unless attorney for lienholder actively participated in prosecuting suit; attorney's fees are recoverable from liened portion of judgment even when lien has been assigned to third-party tortfeasor. Raisola v. Flower Street Ltd. (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 1004, 1009, 252 Cal. Rptr. 726

Under Lab. Code § 3856(c), when two attorneys are involved rendering services on behalf of their respective clients, the employer and the employee, in action against third-party tortfeasor award of fees to each attorney as based not on services benefitting both parties, but rather on service rendered in each instance by attorney in effecting recovery for benefit of party represented. Walsh v. Woods (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1273, 1278, 232 Cal. Rptr. 629

Under Lab. Code § 3856(b), amount of judgment in action begun by employee against third party and awarded to plaintiff's employer for reimbursement of compensation benefits paid to plaintiff as subject to deduction of costs and attorney's fees when resulting award was produced solely through active efforts of plaintiff's attorney in successfully prosecuting suit to judgment even though employer was represented by its own attorney if attorney did not actively participate in case. Walsh v. Woods (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 764, 768, 184 Cal. Rptr. 267 (remanding case for finding on issue of attorney participation)

[d] Comparative Negligence

Raising issue of employer's concurrent negligence by affirmative defense in defendant third-party tortfeasor's answer. Associated Construction & Engineering Co. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 829, 842, 150 Cal. Rptr. 888, 587 P.2d 684 ; Burrow v. Pike (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 384, 392-393, 235 Cal. Rptr. 408

Raising issue of employer's concurrent negligence by cross complaint of defendant third-party tortfeasor against employer. Del Monte Corp. v. Superior Court (1982) 127 Cal. App. 3d 1049, 1053-1055, 179 Cal. Rptr. 855

Third party sued by employee for injuries sustained in course of employment as not barred by Workers' Compensation Law from filing cross complaint for comparative indemnity against insurer who fraudulently concealed existence of injury from employee, as such conduct goes beyond normal role of insurer in compensation scheme intended to protect worker. Chase Chemical Co. v. Hartford Accident & Indemnity Co. (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 229, 239, 205 Cal. Rptr. 469

Principles of comparative negligence as applicable to employers' subrogation rights within workers' compensation system. Associated Construction & Engineering Co. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 829, 832-833, 846-847, 150 Cal. Rptr. 888, 587 P.2d 684 (modifying rule of Witt v. Jackson (1961) 57 Cal. 2d 57, 17 Cal. Rptr. 369, 366 P.2d 641 , and Roe v. Workmen's Comp. Appeals Bd. (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 884, 117 Cal. Rptr. 683, 528 P.2d 771 , which prevented negligent employer from obtaining any reimbursement of benefits paid or credit toward future workers' compensation liability when injured employee recovered from third party, to allowemployer reimbursement or credit against workers' compensation obligations that exceed proportionate liability employer would incur for indemnification of third party under comparative system of allocating tort responsibility among multiple wrongdoers); Del Monte Corp. v. Superior Court (1982) 127 Cal. App. 3d 1049, 1052, 179 Cal. Rptr. 855

[e] Credit Against Compensation Liability

Workers' compensation attorney's fees are considered "compensation" under Lab. Code § 3861 and are subject to a statutory credit for third-party recovery. State Comp. Ins. Fund v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 579, 585-586, 61 Cal. Rptr. 2d 794

When worker slipped and fell on spilled liquid detergent, employer and building management that failed to clean spill were concurrently negligent; employer's liability for purposes of credit against future indemnity and medical costs under Lab. Code § 3861 was greater than 5 percent as a matter of law due to employer's obligation to provide a safe workplace. Bonner v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1990) 225 Cal. App. 3d 1023, 1036-1037, 275 Cal. Rptr. 337

Application of Lab. Code § 3732, requiring that Uninsured Employers Fund [now called the Uninsured Employers Benefits Trust Fund] be given as credit against its liability amount equal to injured employee's recovery from third-party tortfeasor, as not retrospective when employee was injured prior to its enactment but received award from Fund subsequent to effective date of statute. Sobiniak v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1984) 156 Cal. App. 3d 448, 451, 202 Cal. Rptr. 789

Employer's comparative degree of negligence, determined by jury in prior strict products liability action arising out of work-related accident, as making employer joint tortfeasor, precluding employer's insurer from receiving credit for amount of damages attributed to employer's negligence. Anderson-Cottonwood Disposal Service v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 326, 331, 185 Cal. Rptr. 336

Compensation liability against which Lab. Code § 3861 credit applies as including penalty assessed for incorrect payment of temporary disability. State Compensation Ins. Fund v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 933, 940-941, 182 Cal. Rptr. 171

Employer adjudicated concurrently negligent as entitled to application of comparative negligence principles to any credit claim. Curtis v. State of California ex rel. Dept. of Transportation (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 668, 683, 180 Cal. Rptr. 843

Employer's failure to raise possibility of credit for amount awarded to employee in third-party action, or to reserve appeals board jurisdiction over issue in original compensation proceeding, as not waiving subsequent right to claim credit. Hodge v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 501, 510, 176 Cal. Rptr. 675

When third party's negligence was subsequent to and exacerbated employee's work-related injury, employer as entitled to credit for employee's recovery against third party only with respect to portion of compensation benefits paid as result of third party's exacerbation of injury. Hodge v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 501, 515, 176 Cal. Rptr. 675

County as entitled to credit, to be applied against future workers' compensation to injured employee, for injured employee's award recovered from third party. Herr v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1979) 98 Cal. App. 3d 321, 329, 159 Cal. Rptr. 435

Effect of Lab. Code §§ 3858 and 3861 as being to vest in and continue in Workers' Compensation Appeals Board exclusive jurisdiction to determine compensation, even though action against third party to recover for injured employee's injuries is brought before jurisdiction of board is invoked. Nelsen v. Workmen's Comp. App. Bd. (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 472, 478, 89 Cal. Rptr. 638

[f] Damages and Liability

Trial court erred by deducting amount of workers' compensation lien purchased by defendant from judgment prior to determining that defendant obtained a more favorable judgment than the settlement offered under Code of Civ. Proc. § 998; Code of Civ. Proc. § 998 determination should be made before workers' compensation benefits are deducted from judgment. Poire v. C.L. Peck/Jones Bros. Construction Corp. (1995) 39 Cal. App. 4th 1832, 1842-1843, 46 Cal. Rptr. 2d 631

Lab. Code § 3956(d) as unimbiguously requiring that workers' compensation lien be satisfied out of judgment recovered by injured employee against third-party tortfeasor and not out of verdict; verdict and judgment as properly referring only to plaintiff-employee and to third-party tortfeasor when employer elected to abstain from participating in third-party action and to claim lien on judgment. Manthey v. San Luis Rey Downs Enterprises, Inc. (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 782, 788-789, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 265

Amount of workers' compensation lien as required to be taken in partial satisfaction of judgment against third party after it is entered; offsetting amount of compensation lien against verdict as error. Manthey v. San Luis Rey Downs Enterprises, Inc. (1993) 16 Cal. App. 4th 782, 789, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 265

Method of computing injured employee's recovery against third-party tortfeasor as proper when proportionate amount of employee's negligence is first substracted from total award and proportionate amount attributable to employer's negligence up to amount of workers' compensation benefits paid is then subtracted. Engle v. Endlich (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 1152, 1162-1163, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 145

Third-part tortfeasor as jointly liable with employer for all economic damages, but with respect to noneconomic damages, third party's liability as several only and limited to his or her comparative fault. Engle v. Endlich (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 1152, 1159-1160, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 145

Employer and employee as entitled to verdicts and judgments in third-party action setting forth their respective rights, but damages must be segregated between them to prevent double recovery against third party. Demkowski v. Lee (1991) 233 Cal. App. 3d 1251, 1258-1259, 284 Cal. Rptr. 919

While negligent employee's recovery from third-party tortfeasor will be reduced in proportion to his or her own degree of fault, employee's award as required also to be reduced by amount of workers' compensation benefits receivedfrom nonnegligent employer in order to prevent double recovery and employer receives from judgment reimbursement for amount of workers' compensation benefits it has paid. Jarvis v. Southern Pac. Transportation Co. (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 246, 258-259, 191 Cal. Rptr. 29

When there is no finding of negligence on part of employer, jury verdict as not reducible for workers' compensation benefits paid; reduction in jury verdict as proper only when third-party tortfeasor is entitled to setoff because of employer's concurrent negligence, to which principles of comparative neligence apply, and only then as to compensation benefits paid as of time of trial and not for future compensation benefits. Curtis v. State of California ex rel. Dept. of Transportation (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 668, 683, 180 Cal. Rptr. 843

Third-party tortfeasor as liable for only his or her proportional share of responsibility, even when that share is less than compensation benefit paid by employer's compensation carrier. Finney v. Manpower, Inc. (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 1066, 1071, 177 Cal. Rptr. 74

Third-party tortfeasor who establishes that injury to worker was concurrently caused by negligence of employer as entitled to have judgment against him reduced by amount of workers' compensation benefits already paid, but not benefits to be paid. Patterson v. Sharp (1970) 10 Cal. App. 3d 990, 996, 89 Cal. Rptr. 396 ; Slayton v. Wright (1969) 271 Cal. App. 2d 219, 230-234, 76 Cal. Rptr. 494

Principle that judgment against third-party tortfeasor is reduced by compensation paid by employer whose negligence contributed to injury as not extending to benefits required to be paid by employer in the future. Gastelum v. City of Torrance (1969) 2 Cal. App. 3d 582, 583-584, 82 Cal. Rptr. 732 (death benefits payable in installments); Slayton v. Wright (1969) 271 Cal. App. 2d 219, 232, 76 Cal. Rptr. 494 (permanent disability benefits payable in future)

[g] Discovery

In third-party action by injured employee against manufacturer and distributor of power press, trial court improperly referred discovery dispute involving production of documents to referee when discovery issues were not sufficiently complex or time consuming so as to require referee. DeBlase v. Superior Court (1995) 40 Cal. App. 4th 1188, 1196-1197, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 224

Trial Court issued a protective order that: (1) allowed plaintiff's counsel to disclose trade secrets and other confidential information to counsel in similar cases only if plaintiff's counsel executed a stipulation agreeing to be bound by the order, and (2) required plaintiff's counsel to notify the defense counsel when disclosure was made. Raymond Handling Concepts Corp. v. Superior Court of the State of California for the County of Alameda (1995) 39 Cal. App. 4th 584, 590-591, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 885

[h] Dismissal

Action was barred by one-year statute of limitations under former Code of Civ. Proc. § 340(3) and equitable tolling doctrine did not apply to extend plaintiff's time to file action against defendants, when plaintiff sustained industrial injury in 1997, filed application for workers' compensation benefits in 1998, joined defendants in workers' compensation proceeding in 1999, months after statute of limitations had expired, with no proceeding of any sort filed against defendants within period of one-year statute of limitations, so defendants had no timely notice of potential claim against them that would justify application of equitable tolling doctrine, and plaintiff filed present civil action against defendants in 2007, almost 10 years after his injury. Aguilera v. Heiman (2009) 174 Cal. App. 4th 590, 596-602, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 18

Doe defendant as properly dismissed in third-party action when defendant was not named and served within the one-year statute of limitations for personalinjuries [former Code Civ. Proc. § 340(3)]; injured worker as not having the right to intervene in his own third-party action following a complaint in intervention by another intervener in the third-party action and bring back into the action a Doe defendant who had been previously dismissed from that action because of the worker's failure to name and serve the Doe defendant within the one-year statute of limitations. Taito v. Owens Corning (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 798, 801-803, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 687

Dismissal of entire third-party action, including compensation insurer's complaint in intervention as proper pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 583.410 for delay in prosecution when during the four years following the filing of the complaint the only action taken by the insurer was to participate in one deposition and to exchange interrogatories, and when the insurer consented to drop its case from the civil active list after the plaintiff dropped her case from judicial arbitration, and thereafter the insurer failed to file an at-issue memorandum or otherwise prosecute its case. Wagner v. Rios (1992) 4 Cal. App. 4th 608, 611-612, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 731

Date original complaint is filed as beginning five-year period of former Code Civ. Proc. § 583(b) (now see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 583.310-583.360) for dismissal for failure to prosecute as to intervener in workers' compensation action, although complaint in intervention was filed later. Johnson v. De Santos (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 566, 571, 196 Cal. Rptr. 145 (nevertheless holding five-year period was tolled as to intervening compensation carrier because of plaintiff employee's election for arbitration in which carrier had not joined)

Trial court as erring in failing to grant defendant's motion to dismiss action for personal injuries, based on faulty repair of vehicle that allegedly led to accident, for plaintiff's failure to serve summons and complaint within three years after action was filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 583.210] because defendant had filed answer to complaint in intervention by employer to recover workers' compensation benefits paid to plaintiffs; filing of answer to complaint in intervention that was subsequently dismissed with prejudice at request of intervenor as not constituting general appearance in main action so as to relieve plaintiffs of duty to timely serve summons and complaint. Duckett v. Superior Court (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 1419, 1422-1425, 255 Cal. Rptr. 733 (distinguishing on facts Rhode v. National Medical Hosp. (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 528, 155 Cal. Rptr. 797 , and disagreeing with Rhode's view that complaint in intervention is inextricably linked to main action)

[i] Employer's Right to Notice of Third-Party Action

Employee's failure to give employer notice of employee's action against third party, as required by Lab. Code § 3853, until two months before trial and one month before mandatory settlement conference, was insufficient as matter of law, even though employer may have had actual notice of action. O'Dell v. Freightliner Corp. (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 645, 656-657, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 774

Employee as having duty to give employer notice of impending settlement of action with third party, but no such duty to notify is imposed on third party. O'Dell v. Freightliner Corp. (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 645, 657, 662-663, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 774

Employer as having no standing to move to set aside dismissal of employee's third-party action pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 473, on grounds that employee failed to notify employer of that action, when employer is not a party to the action; employer as limited to suing employee for breach of duty to notify or to taking a credit against future compensation payable to employee. O'Dell v. Freightliner Corp. (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 645, 658-662, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 774

[j] Firefighter's Rule

County probation corrections officer's assumption of risk included risk of being injured during training, so that firefighter's rule barred officer's civil action against training company and instructor, and no statutory exception was applicable. Hamilton v. Martinelli & Associates (2003) 110 Cal. App. 4th 1012, 1023-1030, 2 Cal. Rptr. 3d 168

Police officer not barred from bringing civil action against owner and driver of truck whose alleged negligence caused collision that injured officer while driving to respond to domestic disturbance, since defendants' alleged negligence was independent cause separate from misconduct that summoned officer. Terry v. Garcia (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 245, 252-253, 134 Cal. Rptr. 2d 565 .

Restaurant cook whose assault on fellow employee in restaurant kitchen led to presence of police officer, who announced his presence to cook, owed duty of care to officer, notwithstanding firefighter's rule. Yamaguchi v. Harnsmut (2003) 106 Cal. App. 4th 472, 480-481, 130 Cal. Rptr. 2d 706

Statutory exceptions to firefighters' rule do not apply to fellow public safety members jointly engaged in discharge of their duties, and public safety members were "jointly engaged" in ongoing car chase, even though not engaged in formally coordinated efforts, and even though one group of officers was ignorant of specific nature of chase. McElroy v. State of California (2002) 100 Cal. App. 4th 546, 548-549, 122 Cal. Rptr. 2d 612

Police officer bitten by another officer's police dog at scene of an arrest was barred by "firefighter's rule" from suing other officer's employer for his injuries because bitten officer was engaged in dangerous activity; both officers shared objective to effect a felony arrest under dangerous conditions; duty of care officers owed to public under these circumstances precluded their owing duty of care to each other; and hazard posed by police dog was inherent in activity the public hired officers to perform. Farnam v. California Highway Patrol (2000) 84 Cal. App. 4th 1448, 1455, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 642

Public lifeguard injured while involved in a rescue was barred by "firefighter's rule" from pursuing tort action against employer and co-worker, pursuant to Calatayud v. State of California (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1057, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 202, 959 P.2d 360 . City of Oceanside v. Superior Court (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 269, 285, 96 Cal. Rptr. 2d 621

"Firefighter's rule" did not bar claim by police officer who was shot by man after responding to a 911 call when man's wife affirmatively misstated to police officer that her husband was not violent, since risk that someone would deceive officer about suspect's violent tendencies is not an inherent risk of police officer's job; wife of man who shot police officer owed officerduty of care under Civ. Code § 1714.9 not to affirmatively misrepresent nature of hazard officer encountered in responding to 911 call. Boon v. Rivera (2000) 80 Cal. App. 4th 1322, 1330, 1333, 96 Cal. Rptr. 2d 276

"Firefighter's rule" did not bar claim against manufacturer of garage door opener by firefighter injured in a garage fire after the garage door malfunctioned, where the malfunction was independent of the fire. Stapper v. GMI Holdings, Inc. (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 787, 796, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 688

"Firefighter's rule" barred action by police officer against psychiatrist for negligent care, where officer was shot by psychiatric patient after responding to a call of shots being fired and court found that risk of being shot while on duty in response to such a call is one the officer assumes under the "firefighter's rule"; psychiatrist's failure to warn police department of the shooter's homicidal feelings toward his work supervisor pursuant to Civil Code Section 43.92 did not abrogate application of the "firefighter's rule" since psychiatrist had no reason to know that shooter may have been homicidal toward officer. Tilley v. Schulte (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 79, 85-86, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 497

Civ. Code § 1714.9(a)(1) exception to firefighters' rule did not apply to plaintiff police officer who was injured by fellow officer while they were jointly engaged in discharge of their duties. Calatayud v. State of California (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1057, 1072, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 202, 959 P.2d 360

"Firefighter's rule" barred recovery of damages for personal injuries suffered by off-duty deputy sheriff when he confronted and struggled with, then shot and killed, suspected burglar who had broken into garage of apartment building where the deputy lived. Hodges v. Yarian (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 973, 980, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 130

Privately employed safety supervisor required to engage in periodic fire-fighting duties have cause of action against third party for injuries caused by third party's negligence in starting fire; claim as not barred by firefighter's rule or doctrine of assumption of risk. Neighbarger v. Irwin Industries, Inc. (1994) 8 Cal. 4th 532, 547, 34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 630, 882 P.2d 347

Federal court following Civ. Code § 1714.9(e) and reviewing and following California Supreme Court and court of appeal cases. Vasquez v. North County Transit District, 292 F.3d 1049, 1056-1060 (9th Cir. 2002)

[k] Indemnity

General contractor's indemnity claim against subcontractor for injuries to subcontractor's employee was barred when indemnification clause was never signed by subcontractor, rendering it ineffective under Lab. Code § 3864. Robert E. Blake v. Excel Environmental (1997) 104 F.3d 1158, 1162

Trial court erred in denying employer's motion for summary judgment on issue of third party's claims for express indemnity when indemnity provision in equipment lease agreement between employer and equipment lessor was unenforceable under Lab. Code § 3864 since agreement was not signed by equipment lessor before the date of employee's injury. Hansen Mechanical, Inc. v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County (1995) 40 Cal. App. 4th 722, 731-732, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 47

Lab. Code § 3864 as requiring that signatures of all parties to indemnity agreement be affixed to agreement prior to occurrence of employee's injury;indemnity agreement as not binding when indemnitee signed agreement only after employee's injury. Nielsen Construction Co. v. International Iron Products (1993) 18 Cal. App. 4th 863, 869, 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 497

[l] Intervention

Any person having interest recognized by law in subject matter of judgment, which interest is injuriously affected by judgment, as being party aggrieved and entitled to be heard on appeal; appellant's interest as required to be immediate, pecuniary, and substantial, and not nominal or remote consequence of judgment. Burrow v. Pike (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 384, 392, 235 Cal. Rptr. 408 (appeal from judgment by employer who filed and subsequently dismissed complaint in intervention in employee's action against third-party tortfeasor)

To ensure that both employee and employer recover their damages from third-party tortfeasor, regardless of which one of them sues, and in order to enable third party to settle all claims in only one lawsuit, statutory scheme (Lab. Code § 3853) as authorizing employee and employer to intervene in each other's actions, and right to so so as unconditional when intervention is made before trial commences. Buell v. CBS, Inc. (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 823, 825 n.2, 186 Cal. Rptr. 455

[m] Jurisdiction

Under California choice of law principles, Dominican Republic law governed personal injury action brought in California superior court against employer for injuries suffered by California resident in course of employment in that country pursuant to employment contract entered into in California, when Dominican Republic had particular interest in applying its law to incidents occurring within its borders, plaintiff would receive all workers' compensation benefits to which she might be entitled under either jurisdiction and Dominican Republic's social security system's benefits, employer's Dominican Republic workers' compensation insurer had already paid plaintiff's medical treatment bills of $110,000, lawsuit plaintiff was attempting to bring against her employer was not permitted under Dominican Republic law, and allowing plaintiff to sue for tort damages under California law would seriously undermine California's workers' compensation exclusivity principles. Tucci v. Club Mediterranee, S.A. (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 180, 189-194, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 401

Workers' compensation insurer as assignee within meaning of former Code Civ. Proc. § 117.5 (now see Code Civ. Proc. § 116.420) and therefore unable to sue third-party tortfeasor in small claims court to recoup compensation benefits paid to injured employee. Allianz Insurance Co. v. Municipal Court (1981) 126 Cal. App. 3d 1043, 1046, 179 Cal. Rptr. 334

[n] Liens

Employer or its workers' compensation carrier as permitted to assign to third-party tortfeasor its rights to lien on any recovery by worker from third-party tortfeasor for workers' compensation benefits paid. Raisola v. Flower Street, Ltd. (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 1004, 1008-1009, 252 Cal. Rptr. 726

Appeals board as erring in awarding employee's attorney priority lien for fees against compensation to be paid payable in advance of deduction of credit against settlement proceeds in employee's third-party action when entire amount of compensation to be paid, including penalties, is offset by credit against amount received by employee in settlement of his claim against third-party tortfeasor as that would result in employer's having to pay an amount in excess of that awarded in compensation proceeding. State Compensation Ins. Fund v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1982) 130 Cal. App. 3d 933, 942, 182 Cal. Rptr. 171

[o] Reimbursement and Off-Set for Compensation Benefits Paid

Employer could pursue reimbursement from third-party defendants for workers' compensation benefits paid to employee, when applicant and third party reached settlement in third-party action. Bailey v. Reliance Ins. Co. (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 449, 455-457, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 149

Third-party tortfeasor as entitled to seek offset of award against third party based on amount of workers' compensation benefits paid to or owed on behalf of employee, even if employer has not joined as a party in employee's action, filed complaint in intervention, or sought to interpose a lien; accordingly, in third-party action in which employer is determined to be concurrently negligent, court as required to deduct employer's percentage share of employee's total recovery from third party's liability, up to amount of compensation benefits assessed against employer. Engle v. Endlich (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 1152, 1161-1162, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 145

Third-party tortfeasor as not precluded from seeking offset of workers' compensation benefits paid to employee, even though tortfeasor had stipulated to good faith settlement of another tortfeasor that included employer's lien; settling tortfeasor's waiver of its right to assert any offset as not binding on nonsettling tortfeasor. Engle v. Endlich (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 1152, 1165-1166, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 145

Concurrently negligent employer as entitled to either credit or reimbursement for amount by which its workers' compensation liability exceeds its proportional share of injured employee's recovery, even though negligent employer is barred from reimbursement for any workers' compensation benefits paid to injured employee; injured employee's damages assessed in third-party action as having to be reduced by amount of workers' compensation benefits received since double recovery not allowed. Engle v. Endlich (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 1152, 1160-1161, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 145

Rule against double recovery as not barring assignment of employer's lien for workers' compensation benefits to injured employee who, in asserting lien in third-party action, does so in capacity of assignee of employer or insurer and not as "plaintiff." Engle v. Endlich (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 1152, 1164-1165, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 145

Employer's failure to file claim for reimbusement in liquidation proceeding against third-party tortfeasor's insurer within six months after notice of such proceeding as required by Ins. Code §§ 1021 and 1063.1 as not defeating employer's right to file lien against any judgment recovered by employee in employee's personal injury action; employer as able to enforce lien against third-party torfeasor or, if damages have been paid to employee, againstemployee under Lab. Code § 3862; employer as authorized to apply for lien in employee's pending third-party action at any time before satisfaction of judgment (see Lab. Code §§ 3857, 3858) and, hence, application for lien can be made after statute of limitations has barred employer from bringing independent action or after entry of judgment has barred employer from intervening. Burrow v. Pike (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 384, 394-395, 235 Cal. Rptr. 408

Civ. Code § 3333.1(b), precluding collateral source that has provided medical expenses to plaintiff in medical malpractice case from obtaining reimbursement from medical malpractice defendant, as not unconstitutional as applied to city, which under the statute was barred from seeking reimbursement for workers' compensation benefits paid to policeman who suffered heart attack while on duty and subsequently sued hospital and doctors for negligently causing brain damage during heart surgery. Barme v. Wood (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 174, 179-182, 207 Cal. Rptr. 816, 689 P.2d 446

City as not entitled under Lab. Code § 3852 to recover compensation and other benefits paid to city policeman whose action for damages for injuries sustained in accident had been dismissed pursuant to "fireman's rule," which is applicable to policeman; because employer's action under Lab. Code § 3852 is derivative of employee's right to sue, employer who has paid benefits to injured employee cannot collect reimbursement from party who is immune to suit by employee. Hubbard v. Boelt (1983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 882, 882-885, 190 Cal. Rptr. 15

In injured employee's action against third-party tortfeasor, employer as no longer precluded from recovering reimbursement of its workers' compensation payments due to its own negligence; recovery for workers' compensation benefits of employer who was concurrently negligent as limited to excess of those benefits after deducting employer's proportionate share of employee's damages. Jarvis v. Southern Pac. Transportation Co. (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 246, 257, 191 Cal. Rptr. 29

Third-party tortfeasor and his insurer, which purchased, for one half its face amount, lien claim from employer's compensation insurer, which had become insolvent, as properly allowed setoff in face amount of lien against judgment for employee in latter's action against third-party tortfeasor. Quinn v. Warnes (1983) 144 Cal. App. 3d 309, 314-318, 192 Cal. Rptr. 660

Employer adjudicated concurrently negligent as entitled to application of comparative negligence principles to any reimbursement claim. Curtis v. State of California ex rel. Dept. of Transportation (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 668, 683, 180 Cal. Rptr. 843

Comparative negligence principles as applicable to employer's right to reimbursement from third-party tortfeasor so that concurrently negligent employer is limited to recovering amount by which its workers' compensation liability exceeds its share of tort damages. Rodgers v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 330, 334-336, 204 Cal. Rptr. 403, 682 P.2d 1068 ; Associated Construction & Engineering Co. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 829, 844-845, 150 Cal. Rptr. 888, 587 P.2d 684 ; Del Monte Corp. v. Superior Court (1982) 127 Cal. App. 3d 1049, 1052, 179 Cal. Rptr. 855

Employer as entitled to full reimbursement for compensation payments when third-party defendant's tort liability is established in amount equal to or in excess of such expenditure. Breese v. Price (1981) 29 Cal. 3d 923, 929, 176 Cal. Rptr. 791, 633 P.2d 987

Nonnegligent employer, or its workers' compensation carrier, as entitled to complete reimbursement from third-party tortfeasor for amount paid to employee in compensation benefits, to extent that tortfeasor is proportionately liable for employee's damages. Kemerer v. Challenge Milk Co. (1980) 105 Cal. App. 3d 334, 338, 164 Cal. Rptr. 397

Jury determination that alleged third-party tortfeasor's negligence was not proximate cause of any injury to employee as defeating employer's right to reimbursement for workers' compensation benefits paid. Mendenhall v. Curtis (1980) 102 Cal. App. 3d 786, 790-794, 162 Cal. Rptr. 569

[p] Settlement

Good faith settlement of claim for damages made between third-party tortfeasor and employee as precluding action by county retirement board against third party for disability benefits it paid to employee, although retirement board did not receive statutorily mandated notice under Lab. Code § 3860 or consent to settlement under Lab. Code § 3859; when third-party defendant has absolutely no knowledge of possibility of subrogation claim, burden of failure to comply with notice and consent statutes as falling on employee and not third party, and retirement board as confined to action against injured employee to recover reimbursement for benefits paid. Board of Administration v. Glover (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 906, 911, 196 Cal. Rptr. 330, 671 P.2d 834

Pursuant to Lab. Code §§ 3853, 3859, and 3860(a), when employer fails to adequately notify its employee of its subrogation lawsuit and proposed settlement involving alleged third-party tortfeasor and fails to obtain employee's consent to settlement of that suit, and when settling alleged third-party tortfeasor, prior to settlement, was or reasonably should have been aware of possibility of employee's claim for damages against tortfeasor, alleged tortfeasor cannot use mere settlement and dismissal of employer's subrogation action to bar employee from maintaining action for damages against alleged tortfeasor. McKinnon v. Otis Elevator Co. (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 1125, 1128, 1131-1137, 57 Cal. Rptr. 3d 723

Third-party settlement offer signed by parties' counsel but not by litigants was unenforceable under Code of Civ. Proc. § 664.6. Burckhard v. Del Monte Corp. (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 1912, 1919, 56 Cal. Rptr. 2d 569

Compensation insurer as not without remedy for the collection of its proportionate share of the settlement of a third-party action of which it had no notice when the insurer is entitled to bring a separate action against the employee to collect its proportionate share, including a quasi-contractual cause of action and an action for breach of the statutory duty to notify the insurer of the impending satisfaction of judgment. Abdala v. Aziz (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 369, 378-381, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 130

[q] Statute of Limitations

Complaint in intervention by employer or compensation carrier filed in employee's action as timely, even if filed after statute of limitations has run, provided statute had not yet run at time employee's complaint was filed and complaint in intervention was filed before trial. County of San Diego v. Sanfax Corp. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 862, 872, 885, 140 Cal. Rptr. 638, 568 P.2d 363 ; Buell v. CBS, Inc. (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 823, 826, 186 Cal. Rptr. 455

Employer's complaint against third-party tortfeasor as required to be filed within one year from date of employee's injury (see former Code Civ. Proc. § 340(3)) and not from date workers' compensation benefits were paid. County of San Diego v. Sanfax Corp. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 862, 868-886, 140 Cal. Rptr. 638, 568 P.2d 363

Asbestosis victims death triggered statute of limitations set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 340.6 for legal malpractice claim; statute of limitations not tolled under exceptions set forth in Code Civ. Proc. § 340.6. Gailing v. Rose, Klein & Marias (1996) 43 Cal. App. 4th 1570, 1577, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 381

Statute of limitations did not bar applicant's second amended complaint for general negligence that changed situs of his accident when second amended complaint related back to filing of original complaint since it was based on the same facts and injuries. Idding v. North Bay Construction Company, Inc. (1995) 39 Cal. App. 4th 1111, 1115, 46 Cal. Rptr. 2d 149

Doe defendant as properly dismissed in third-party action when defendant was not named and served within the one-year statute of limitations for personal injuries [Code Civ. Proc. § 340(3)]; injured worker as not having the right to intervene in his own third-party action following a complaint in intervention by another intervener in the third-party action and bring back into the action a Doe defendant who had been previously dismissed from that action because of the worker's failure to name and serve the Doe defendant within the one-year statute of limitations. Taito v. Owens Corning (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 798, 801-803, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 687

Right of employee to intervene in employer's action against third party tortfeasor before trial commences as unconditional; right of employer and employee to intervene in timely filed action of the other as not dependent on their own compliance with statute of limitations. Buell v. CBS, Inc. (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 823, 825 n.2, 826, 186 Cal. Rptr. 455

In action by insurer against third-party tortfeasor, Lab. Code § 3853 as granting unconditional right to injured employee to intervene in suit at any time prior to trial, even though employee's claim was presented more than one year after injury (statute of limitations for personal injury suits). Jordan v. Superior Court (1981) 116 Cal. App. 3d 202, 206-211, 172 Cal. Rptr. 30

Complaint in intervention filed by employer's compensation insurer in action by injured employee against third party as not barred by statute of limitations when plaintiff's complaint was timely filed, although complaint in intervention was filed almost three years after employee's injury. Harrison v. Englebrick (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 871, 873, 874, 62 Cal. Rptr. 831

[r] Subrogation

Pursuant to Lab. Code § 3852, workers' compensation carrier stated cause of action against alleged third-party tortfeasors for recoupment of death benefits carrier paid to deceased employee's survivor, who was actual dependent of employee but who had no standing to bring wrongful death action against alleged tortfeasors, and carrier's right to sue was not limited to its status as subrogee of survivor, and wrongful death statute, with its limited standing provisions, was irrelevant in determining carrier's right to sue. Fremont Comp. Ins. Co. v. Sierra Pine, Ltd. (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 389, 394-401, 17 Cal. Rptr. 3d 80

Workers' compensation law as not imposing a duty on a compensation insurer to pursue its subrogation rights at all or in any particular manner, since subrogation is a right and not an obligation; trial court as properly dismissing employer's complaint against its insurer alleging that the insurer was negligent in not actively pursuing its subrogation rights against a third party who was responsible for the employee's injury, even though the employer alleged it would have received a refund of some increased premiums if the insurer had recovered from the third party. New Plumbing Contractors, Inc. v. Nationwide Mutual Ins. Co. (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 1088, 1093-1095, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 469

Employer who becomes obligated to pay workers' compensation benefits to an employee injured by a third party as having the right to recover the total amount of compensation paid in addition to damages for which the employer was liable; if the employer is insured for workers' compensation liability, the insurer as having the right to be put into the position of its insured against a third party who is legally responsible to the insured for the loss for which the insurer has both insured and paid. New Plumbing Contractors, Inc. v. Nationwide Mutual Ins. Co. (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 1088, 1093, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 469

Lab. Code § 3852 as allowing employers subrogation rights whenever, and to whatever extent, an employee suffers a subsequent tortious injury that also increases the employer's liability for compensation, whether or not the subsequent injury is industrial or nonindustrial. Abdala v. Aziz (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 369, 375, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 130

Employer's action under Lab. Code § 3852 as derivative of employee's right to sue, and employer that has paid benefits to injured employee as not able to collect reimbursement from party who is immune to suit by employee. Hubbard v. Boelt (1983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 882, 884, 190 Cal. Rptr. 15 (defendant immune to suit by policeman employee under fireman's rule)

Employer or its compensation insurer as entitled to sue third-party tortfeasor to recover money paid to state pursuant to Lab. Code § 4706.5 (death of injured employee without dependents) because such payments are not taxes but compensation within meaning of Lab. Code § 3852 (providing for recovery from third-party tortfeasors of compensation paid by employer). Travelers Insurance Co. v. Sierra Pacific Airlines (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 1144, 1155-1157, 197 Cal. Rptr. 416 ; Associated Indemnity Corp. v. Pacific Southwest Airlines (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 898, 904-907, 180 Cal. Rptr. 685

Employer's recovery under Lab. Code § 3852 (subrogation action against third-party tortfeasor) as limited to damages proximately caused by injury; burden of establishing proximate cause as on employer. Breese v. Price (1981) 29 Cal. 3d 923, 928, 176 Cal. Rptr. 791, 633 P.2d 987

Although employer's right to recover against negligent third party, or to lien employee's judgment against that party, is legislative recognition of equitable doctrine of subrogation, those rights as being wholly statutory. Nelsen v. Workmen's Comp. App. Bd. (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 472, 477, 89 Cal. Rptr. 638

Essential allegations in action against estate. Fidelity & Cas. Co. of New York v. McMurry (1963) 217 Cal. App. 2d 767, 32 Cal. Rptr. 243

Right of insurance carrier to bring independent action to recover medical, hospital and burial expenses after obtaining a lien for death benefits in a wrongful death action by the employee's heirs. v. Hartford Steam Boiler Inspection & Ins. Co. (1956) 143 Cal. App. 2d 646, 299 P.2d 928

[s] Uninsured Motorist Insurance

Employee injured by uninsured motorist while acting within course and scope of employment as entitled to make claim under uninsured motorist coverage provided by employee's automobile insurance policy as well as filing workers' compensation claim against his or her employer. Rangel v. Interinsurance Exchange (1992) 4 Cal. 4th 1, 8, 14 Cal. Rptr. 2d 783, 842 P.2d 82

Insurer as having no duty to pay its insured benefits under uninsured motorist provision until insured's workers' compensation claim is resolved. Rangel v. Interinsurance Exchange (1992) 4 Cal. 4th 1, 17, 14 Cal. Rptr. 2d 783, 842 P.2d 82

Ins. Code § 11580.2, relating to uninsured motorist coverage in motor vehicle liability policies, as contemplating that worker who is entitled to workers' compensation for injury caused by negligence of uninsured third-party motorist may also make claim for uninsured motorist coverage, but Ins. Code § 11580.2(h) as providing that recovery under uninsured motorist coverage shall be reduced by amount paid under workers' compensation law. Rankin v. West American Ins. Co. (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 829, 836, 149 Cal. Rptr. 57

[t] Waiver of Rights

Waiver by nonnegligent employer of subrogation rights against third-party tortfeasor for compensation paid as inuring to benefit of injured employee or employee's dependents, as case may be, as payments received by them from a collateral source, and not to benefit of third-party tortfeasor. De Cruz v. Reid (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 217, 227, 70 Cal. Rptr. 550, 444 P.2d 342

Waiver of subrogration rights by employer who was concurrently negligent as not barring third-party tortfeasor's assertion of such negligence so as to reduce any judgment against third party tortfeasor by injured employee or employee's dependents. De Cruz v. Reid (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 217, 227, 70 Cal. Rptr. 550, 444 P.2d 342

Injured employee's purchase of employer's lien for workers' compensation benefits and employer's waiver of right to lien as not barring third-party tortfeasor found partially liable to employer from asserting offset for these benefits. Engle v. Endlich (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 1152, 1167-1168, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 145

Settling tortfeasor's waiver of its right to assert any offset as not binding on nonsettling tortfeasor; nonsettling tortfeasor as not waiving its right to assert offset by agreeing that settlement was in good faith. Engle v. Endlich (1992) 9 Cal. App. 4th 1152, 1165-1166, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 145

Employer's waiver of right to reimbursement as not constituting waiver of its right to a credit. Curtis v. State of California ex rel. Dept. of Transportation (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 668, 683, 180 Cal. Rptr. 843

[72] Treating Physicians

When responding to employee's request to change physicians during 30 days following date of injury, employer, in order to retain control, including retention of power to designate primary treating physician, must follow notice provisions of Lab. Code § 4601 and Admin. Dir. Rule 9781, which provisions have been held to require that notice to employee name specific physician being designated by employer, specifically indicate that notice is being given in response to employee's request to change physicians, and make clear that designated alternative physician is primary treating physician. Pinkerton, Inc. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 1019, 1027-1030, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 787

Limitation of "one time change of physician" set forth in Lab. Code § 4601 does not apply to applicant who was exercising her right to control medical treatment by selecting her own physician. Ralphs Grocery Co. v. Workers' Compensation Appeals Bd. (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 820, 829, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 197

[73] Uninsured Employers

Workers' compensation insurer's civil action against illegally uninsured employer for reimbursement of award of benefits to employee for cumulative trauma was permitted by Lab. Code § 5500.5(a) as exception to exclusive remedy rule, and jurisdiction of action was not limited to Appeals Board. Graphics Arts Mutual Ins. Co. v. Time Travel Internat., Inc. (2005) 126 Cal. App. 4th 405, 413-415

Penalty assessed against employer for failure to have workers' compensation coverage would not be set aside, since subsequent reinstatement of employer's lapsed coverage to include retroactively date of penalty assessment could not invalidate penalty assessment. Leo's Assocs., Inc. v. Department of Indus. Relations (2004) 120 Cal. App. 4th 628, 631-632, 15 Cal. Rptr. 3d 594

Employer as not relieved of penalty under Lab. Code § 3722 for failure to secure workers' compensation insurance coverage at the time investigator issued stop order against employer pursuant to Lab. Code § 3710.1 notwithstanding that, immediately after stop order was issued, employer obtained insurance providing coverage for the hours preceding and including investigator's visit; Lab. Code § 3722 as providing for imposition of penalty at the moment stop order issues. Woodline Furniture Mfg. Co. v. Department of Industrial Relations (1994) 23 Cal. App. 4th 1653, 1658-1659, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 17

[74] Uninsured Employers Benefits Trust Fund

Limitation of liability specified by Lab. Code § 3716.2 precludes imposition of sanction against UEBTF pursuant to Lab. Code § 5813 for bad-faith actions or tactics that are frivolous or intended solely to cause unnecessary delay. Duncan v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 294, 300-304, 82 Cal. Rptr. 3d 664

UEBTF may not be joined in any proceedings unless legal person or entity has been identified as illegally uninsured employer in application and special notice of lawsuit and that employer has been served with application and special notice of lawsuit in manner provided for service of summons in Code of Civil Procedure. Rea v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 625, 644-652

Uninsured employer's obligation to reimburse UEBTF for award of workers' compensation benefits that UEBTF paid to injured employee is not excise tax for purposes of federal bankruptcy law and is, therefore, dischargeable in bankruptcy proceedings. George v. Uninsured Employers Fund (9th Cir. 2004) 361 F.3d 1157, 1162-1164

Action before W.C.A.B. to obtain judgment against uninsured employer, which is prerequisite to the UEBTF's obligation to pay benefits, is not barred by bankruptcy discharge injunction, nor is bankruptcy court order necessary for W.C.A.B. action to proceed. In re Munoz (9th Cir. 2002) 287 B.R. 546, 550, 554-556

Uninsured Employers Fund [now called the Uninsured Employers Benefits Trust Fund] as created to provide source of funds for injured workers whose employers have failed or refused either to obtain workers' compensation insurance coverage or to qualify as self-insurers for employers' liability; Fund as designed to be financed from various penalties that may be assessed against uninsured employers as well as from state tax revenues. DuBois v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 382, 388-389, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 523, 853 P.2d 978

Liability of Uninsured Employers Fund [now called the Uninsured Employers Benefits Trust Fund] for payment of award of workers' compensation benefits as derivative rather than vicarious; employer as primarily responsible for payment of award even when Fund has participated and is ultimately required to pay award; Fund as not liable to pay any amount in excess of, or different from, amount awarded against uninsured employer. DuBois v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 382, 390, 20 Cal. Rptr. 2d 523, 853 P.2d 978

Suit to recover damages against individual employees of UEF [now called the UEBTF] by plaintiff against whose property lien had been filed by UEF, alleging federal civil rights claim and several state law claims, barred by federal claim by statute of limitations and California Government Claims Act (i.e., Gov. Code § 821.6), respectively. Javor v. Taggart (2002) 98 Cal. App. 4th 795, 799-800, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 174

[74A] Utilization Review

When deciding whether to approve or deny injured employee's request for medical treatment, employer must conduct utilization review pursuant to Lab. Code § 4610 and may not, as alternative to utilization review, elect to dispute request for medical treatment pursuant to Lab. Code § 4062, which permits only employees to use its provisions to object to employers' decisions regarding treatment requests. State Compensation Insurance Fund v. Workers' Comp. Appeals

Bd. (2008) 44 Cal. 4th 230, 233-234, 236-237, 239-245, 79 Cal. Rptr. 3d 171, 186 P.3d 535

Procedures and timelines governing objections to treating physician's recommendation for spinal surgery are contained in Lab. Code §§ 4610 and 4062 and in 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 9788.1, 9788.11, and 9792.6(o), as elucidated by Appeals Board en banc. Cervantes v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2009) 74 Cal. Comp. Cases 1336, 1338, 1341-1346, 1351-1355 (Appeals Board en banc opinion)

[75] Vocational Rehabilitation

WCAB en banc held that: (1) repeal of Lab. Code § 139.5 terminated any rights to vocational rehabilitation benefits or services pursuant to orders or awards that were not final before January 1, 2009; (2) no saving clause was adopted to protect vocational rehabilitation rights in cases still pending on or after January 1, 2009; (3) vocational rehabilitation statutes that were repealed in 2003 do not continue to function as "ghost statutes" on or after January 1, 2009; (4) effective January 1, 2009, the WCAB lost jurisdiction over non-vested and inchoate vocational rehabilitation claims, but the WCAB continues to have jurisdiction under Lab. Code §§ 5502(b)(3) and 5803 to enforce or terminate vested rights; and (5) subject matter jurisdiction over non-vested and inchoate vocational rehabilitation claims cannot be conferred by waiver, estoppel, stipulation, or consent. Weiner v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2009) 74 Cal. Comp. Cases 736, 737, 742-758 (Appeals Board en banc opinion)

Even if WCAB assumed that some vocational rehabilitation maintenance allowance was indisputably due to employee prior to January 1, 2009, this does not mean that employee's right to this vocational rehabilitation maintenance allowance had vested, since statutory right vests through final order or award, but no final order or award of vocational rehabilitation maintenance allowance was made in present case, and repeal of Lab. Code § 139.5 extinguished employee's right to such award. Weiner v. Ralphs Co. (2009) 74 Cal. Comp. Cases 958, 962-964 (Appeals Board en banc opinion) , pet. for writ of rev. filed 9/28/2009

Court of appeal followed Weiner v. Ralphs Co. and held that October 2008 WCAB decision that affirmed WCJ's January 2008 award of vocational rehabilitation benefits to employee was not "final" decision, so that employee lost all rights to vocational rehabilitation benefits as of January 1, 2009, repeal of Lab. Code § 139.5. Beverly Hilton Hotel v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 1597, 1604-1611, 99 Cal. Rptr. 3d 50

Amendments to Lab. Code § 4646 are procedural in nature and thus apply to injuries occurring prior to January 1, 2003, date on which amendments went into effect, as well as to injuries occurring after that date. Pebworth v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2004) 116 Cal. App. 4th 913, 917-919, 10 Cal. Rptr. 3d 832

Employer's letter sent to employee, who had been terminated following industrial injury, indicating that it "would have offered" employee specified alternative position "had he not been terminated for breaching the attendance policy," did not constitute actual offer of alternative position. Robertson v. W.C.A.B. (2003) 112 Cal. App. 4th 893, 899-901, 5 Cal. Rptr. 3d 485

Rehabilitation Unit's grant of employer's request to terminate liability for rehabilitation services had no effect on Appeals Board's continuing jurisdiction to act on employee's timely petition, filed with Board, to reopen and reinstate vocational rehabilitation. Martino v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 485, 490, 126 Cal. Rptr. 2d 812

Writing letter to employer requesting vocational rehabilitation is sufficient to constitute an "initial" request for services, even when letter is not sent torehabilitation unit; timely request for vocational rehabilitation does not become untimely solely because interruption ends beyond the limitations period. Martinez v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2000) 84 Cal. App. 4th 1079, 1085-1086, 101 Cal. Rptr. 2d 406

Undocumented employee is not entitled to vocational rehabilitation benefits when employee is unable to return to work solely because of immigration status, since providing undocumented worker with greater benefits than those available to legal workers violates equal protection clause of the United States Constitution. Del Taco v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 1437, 1442-1443, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 825

Appeals Board loses jurisdiction to award further vocational rehabilitation benefits following an interruption of services for a defined period of time and more than five years after the date of injury, absent an express reservation of jurisdiction. Sacramento County Office of Education v. W.C.A.B. (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 107, 118, 97 Cal. Rptr. 2d 699

Salary benefits paid under Lab. Code § 4800.5 to California Highway Patrol officer during participation in vocational rehabilitation were in lieu of temporary disability benefits but not in lieu of vocational rehabilitation maintenance allowance and therefore were not credited toward the Lab. Code § 139.5 $16,000 vocational rehabilitation cap. Sabath v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 286, 292, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1

Employer's offer of alternate seasonal work to injured ski instructor was sufficient to meet requirements of Lab. Code § 4644(a)(6)(B), even though the alternate work was provided only during the ski season and not for 12 consecutive months. Henry v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 981, 985-986, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 631

Leave of absence salary benefits paid to police officer under former Lab. Code § 4800 during officer's participation in vocational rehabilitation was not in lieu of vocational rehabilitation maintenance allowance; Legislature did not intend that portion of leave of absence benefits, in maximum weekly amount of $246 as provided in Lab. Code § 139.5(c), be included in calculating vocational rehabilitation benefits that must be provided to injured police officer under $16,000 vocational rehabilitation cap; employer was not entitled to apply $246 per week credit against vocational rehabilitation cap during period officer received leave of absence benefits under former Lab. Code § 4800 while participating in vocational rehabilitation. Edgar v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 1, 19-20, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 83

Applicant's possible ineligibility to participate in vocational rehabilitation does not preclude entitlement to benefits during period between application for benefits and date WCAB makes finding of qualified injured worker status. Johnson v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 197, 202, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 422

Injured employee who was QIW pursuant to stipulation was entitled to VRTD benefits retroactive to date of employee's demand for benefits, or to earlier date if evidence showed earlier date applied; employer entitled to credit against retroactive payments for temporary disability or other duplicative benefits made to injured worker after date of employee's demand for vocationalrehabilitation benefits. Estrada v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 1458, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 176

WCAB as correctly determining that Lab. Code §§ 4850 and 4853 terminated city's liability for vocational rehabilitation maintenance allowance (VRMA) on date of detective's retirement; legislative history of relevant statutes indicates intent that VRMA be treated as form of temporary disability and, like temporary disability, must terminate upon disability retirement for employees covered by Lab. Code §§ 4850 and 4853. Ritchie v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 1174, 1189, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 722

Qualified employee as having statutory right (Lab. Code § 139.5) to rehabilitation and right to continued payment of temporary disability benefits from moment of his or her choice to undergo rehabilitation; employer as having primary duty for making rehabilitation available, which includes duty to inform employee of potential right to rehabilitation; if employer breaches its duty of notifying employee, employer as obligated to pay temporary rehabilitation benefits from date of its breach. General Foundry Service v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 331, 340, 340 n.6, 228 Cal. Rptr. 243, 721 P.2d 124

Statutory scheme as envisioning that vocational rehabilitation will be provided injured worker before final decision is reached on nature and extent of his or her permanent disability. General Foundry Service v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 331, 340, 228 Cal. Rptr. 243, 721 P.2d 124

Employee as entitled to receive vocational rehabilitation benefits during evaluation period despite ultimate determination that he or she is not a qualified injured worker if worker in good faith provides prima facie evidence to support request for rehabilitation benefits. General Foundry Service v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 331, 340 n.6, 228 Cal. Rptr. 243, 721 P.2d 124

Vocational rehabilitation as particularly effective in case of partially disabled employee with progressive disease whose health precludes his or her returning to former job but whose physical condition may still allow worker to pursue another occupation. General Foundry Service v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 331, 340, 228 Cal. Rptr. 243, 721 P.2d 124

Pursuant to Lab. Code § 139.5, employers as having mandatory duty to provide rehabilitation benefits to employees who seek them. LeBoeuf v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1983) 34 Cal. 3d 234, 242, 193 Cal. Rptr. 547, 666 P.2d 989

Order of WCAB denying injured worker's claim for retroactive vocational rehabilitation temporary disability benefits (for injury occurring before 1990) as not res judicata regarding worker's subsequent claim for these benefits when worker's initial claim was denied before he was found to be both medically and vocationally qualified for these benefits and when his subsequent claim was denied after he had been found to be so qualified. Belmontez v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 786, 795-796, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 405

Qualified injured worker as entitled to vocational rehabilitation temporary disability benefits (for injury occurring before 1990) beginning on date on which worker first requested rehabilitation; allegation in application filed with WCAB that parties have dispute regarding vocational rehabilitation as sufficient request for those benefits. Belmontez v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 786, 794-795, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 405

Employee as not qualified injured worker for purposes of award of vocational rehabilitation benefits when, although she was unable to return to work at her former position for same supervisor because of injury to her psyche, she was able to return to equivalent position with same employer; concept of "qualified injured worker" as focusing on performance of duties within labor market, and as not focusing on identity of persons with whom or under whom injured worker performed those duties. Save Mart Stores v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 720, 723-727, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 597

Request for vocational rehabilitation benefits as required to be supported by medical evidence. Malloy v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1991) 1 Cal. App. 4th 1658, 1662-1663, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 820

Once Rehabilitation Bureau (now Rehabilitation Unit of the Office of Benefit Determination) has determined that employee is qualified injured worker under Lab. Code § 139.5, employer as having duty to develop rehabilitation program for worker so that worker may return as soon as possible to maximum self-support. Armodia v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 554, 560, 249 Cal. Rptr. 156

History of Lab. Code § 139.5 as indicating legislative intent to encourage employees to enroll in rehabilitation programs and to place on employers primary duty of promptly making rehabilitation services available. Pereira v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 1, 5, 241 Cal. Rptr. 302

[76] Voluntary Services

Lab. Code § 3352(i), excluding from workers' compensation any person performing voluntary service for public agency or private, nonprofit organization who receives no remuneration for such services other than meals, transportation, lodging, or reimbursement for incidental expenses, as inapplicable to student medical student providing services to hospital as part of externship program required to obtain degree when program was mandatory, student's services were not voluntary, and hospital presented no evidence that it was private, nonprofit organization, and, even if it had, training received by student constituted sufficient remuneration to make Lab. Code § 3352 inapplicable. Barragan v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 637, 648-650, 240 Cal. Rptr. 811

[77] Work Place

Employee as not able to sue employer for injuries resulting from employer's failure to comply with employer's duties as landowner or to provide safe place to work. Jones v. Kaiser Industries Corp. (1987) 43 Cal. 3d 552, 561, 237 Cal. Rptr. 568, 737 P.2d 771

Workers' compensation law as compensating employees for injuries arising out of unsafe work place conditions, including enhanced compensation under Lab. Code § 4553 in cases involving serious and willful employer misconduct. Spratley v. Winchell Donut House, Inc. (1987) 188 Cal. App. 3d 1408, 1411-1412, 234 Cal. Rptr. 121

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Workers' Compensation & SSDIAdministrative ProceedingsCosts & Attorney FeesWorkers' Compensation & SSDIBenefit DeterminationsCumulative & Successive DisabilitiesWorkers' Compensation & SSDICompensabilityCourse of EmploymentGeneral OverviewWorkers' Compensation & SSDICompensabilityCourse of EmploymentRecreational ActivitiesWorkers' Compensation & SSDICompensabilityInjuriesWillful Misconduct

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.357

§ 577.357 Law Reviews

[1] Workers' Compensation System--In General

DeVader, Reducing Managerial Distress About Stress: An Analysis and Evaluation of Alternatives for Reducing Stress-Based Workers' Compensation Claims, 31 Santa Clara L. Rev. 1 (1990)

Note, Tackling Workers' Compensation in California: The Margolin-Bill Greene Workers' Compensation Reform Act of 1989, 21 Pac. L.J. 853 (1990)

Erlich, Inside the Workers' Comp Mess, 8(10) Cal. Law. 53 (1988)

Note, Scientific Decisionmaking in Workers' Compensation: A Long Overdue Reform, 59 S. Cal. L. Rev. 911 (1986)

Note, California's Going and Coming Rule in Workers' Compensation: A New Model for Consistency, 36 Hastings L.J. 969 (1985)

Comment, Indemnity Clauses and Workers' Compensation: A Proposal for Preserving the Employer's Limited Liability, 70 Cal. L. Rev. 1421 (1982)

Note, Associated Construction and Engineering Co. of California v. Workers' Compensation Appeals Board: Comparative Negligence in the Workers' Compensation System, 68 Cal. L. Rev. 895 (1980)

Bouret, The California Going and Coming Rule: A Plea for Legislative Clarification, 15 Cal. W.L. Rev. 116 (1979)

Mastoris, The Statutes of Limitation in Workers' Compensation Proceedings, 15 Cal. W.L. Rev. 32 (1979)

Comment, Employee or Independent Contractor: The Need for a Reassessment of the Standard Used Under California Workmen's Compensation, 10 U.S.F. L. Rev. 133 (1975)

Larson, The Conflict of Laws Problem Between the Longshoremen's Act and State Workmen's Compensation Acts, 45 S. Cal. L. Rev. 699 (1972)

Colvin, Appellate Review in Workmen's Compensation and the Approaching Demise of the Substantial Evidence Rule, 21 Hastings L.J. 647 (1970)

[2] Exclusive Remedy Principles and Exceptions

Comment, The Employment-Related Emotional Distress Morass: Confusing Signals From California's Courts and Legislature, 21 Pac. L.J. 1035 (1990)

Comment, Cole v. Fair Oaks Fire Protection District: Exploring the Parameters of the Normal Risks of Employment Test, 19 Pac. L.J. 303 (1988)

Note, Workers' Compensation Exclusivity and Wrongful Termination Tort Damages: An Injurious Tug of War? 39 Hastings L.J. 1229 (1988)

Note, Dual Capacity in California: A Premature End to an Equitable Doctrine? 59 S. Cal. L. Rev. 205 (1985)

Comment, Indemnity Clauses and Workers' Compensation: A Proposal for Preserving the Employer's Limited Liability, 70 Cal. L. Rev. 1421 (1982)

Miller and Goldstein, Double, Double, Toil, and Trouble: Dual Capacity and Worker's Compensation in California, 13 U. West L.A. L. Rev. 111 (1981)

Tomita, The Exclusive Remedy for Workers' Compensation for Intentional Torts of the Employer: Johns-Manville Products v. Superior Court, 18 Cal. W.L. Rev. 27 (1981)

Comment, Determining the Compensability of Mental Disabilities Under Workers' Compensation, 55 S. Cal. L. Rev. 193 (1981)

Note, Johns-Manville Products Corp v. Superior Court: Intentional Aggravation of Injury as an Exception to Exclusive Workers' Compensation Remedies, 69 Cal. L. Rev. 1230 (1981)

Peach, Limitation on an Employer's Immunity in Special Employment Situations, 15 Cal. W.L. Rev. 477 (1980)

Comment, Comparative Negligence in the Workers' Compensation System, 68 Cal. L. Rev. 895 (1980)

Larson, Nonphysical Torts and Workmen's Compensation, 12 Cal. W.L. Rev. 1 (1975)

Comment, The Scope of the Exclusive Remedy Clause in California Worker's Compensation Act: Should It Include Third Party Actions for Loss of Consortium? 10 U.S.F. L. Rev. 252 (1975)

Demler, Remedy for the Intentional Torts of a Workmen's Compensation Carrier, 1 Pepperdine L. Rev. 54 (1973)

[3] Third-Party Actions

Love, Retaliatory Discharge for Filing a Workers' Compensation Claim: The Development of a Modern Tort Action, 37 Hastings L.J. 551 (1986)

The California Supreme Court Survey--A Review of Decisions: July 1981-December 1981, 9 Pepperdine L. Rev. 939, 1058 (1982)

Note, Associated Construction and Engineering Co. of California v. Workers' Compensation Appeals Board: Comparative Negligence in the Workers' Compensation System, 68 Cal. Law Rev. 895 (1980)

A Critique of the Justification for Employee Suits in Strict Products Liability Against Third Party Manufacturers, 25 UCLA L. Rev. 125 (1977)

Note, Third Party and Employer Liability After Nga Li v. Yellow Cab Company for Injuries to Employerss Covered by Workers' Compensation, 50 So. Cal. L. Rev. 1029 (1977)

Note, Roe v. Workmen's Compensation Appeals Board: Something Fishy in California Workers' Compensation Law, 27 Hastings L.J. 637 (1976)

Lasky, Subrogation Under the California Workmen's Compensation Laws--Rules, Remedies and Side Effects, 12 Santa Clara L. Rev. 1 (1972)

Comment, Workmen's Compensation: The Impact of the Witt v. Jackson Rule on the Law of Third Party Settlements, 17 UCLA L. Rev. 651 (1970)

Note, Attorney's Fees in Third Party Actions, 21 Hastings L.J. 717 (1970)

Note, Workmen's Compensation and Third Party Suits: The Aftermath of Witt v. Jackson, 21 Hastings L.J. 661 (1970)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Workers' Compensation & SSDICompensabilityCourse of EmploymentGoing & Coming RuleWorkers' Compensation & SSDICompensabilityInjuriesPsychological InjuriesWorkers' Compensation & SSDIDefensesComparative & Contributory NegligenceWorkers' Compensation & SSDIRemedies Under Other LawsExclusivityExceptionsWorkers' Compensation & SSDIThird Party ActionsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.358

§ 577.358 Text References

[1] Workers' Compensation Principles--In General

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 1, (Cal. C.E.B. 4th ed. 2000)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Insurance, § 12; vol. 2, Worker's Compensation, §§ 2-20, 118-258, 366-384 (10th ed. 2005)

[2] Filing a Workers' Compensation Claim

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 1, §§ 1.16-1.37 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th ed. 2000)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Workers' Compensation, §§ 259-302, 385, 386 (10th ed. 2005)

[3] Initiating Proceedings to Collect Benefits

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 13, §§ 13.22-13.91 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th ed. 2000)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Worker's Compensation, §§ 385-389 (10th ed. 2005)

[4] Filing and Service of Papers

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Worker's Compensation, §§ 388-390 (10th ed. 2005)

[5] Arbitration

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 19 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th Ed. 2000)

[6] Settling Claims

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 16 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th Ed. 2000)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Workers' Compensation, §§ 354-361 (10th ed. 2005)

[7] Stipulations and Requests for Award

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 16, §§ 16.70-16.85 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th Ed. 2000)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Worker's Compensation, §§ 390-391 (10th ed. 2005)

[8] Pre-Hearing Proceedings and Hearings

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 17, §§ 17.1-17.44, ch. 18, (Cal. C.E.B. 4th Ed. 2000)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Worker's Compensation, §§ 390, 394-401 (10th ed. 2005)

[9] Findings and Awards, Reconsideration and Supplemental Proceedings

California Workers' Compensation Practice, chs. 20, 21 and 23 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th Ed. 2000)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Worker's Compensation, §§ 394-433 (10th ed. 2005)

[10] Payment and Enforcement of Awards

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 8, §§ 8.6-8.24; ch. 20, §§ 20.23-20.49 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th Ed. 2000)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Worker's Compensation, §§ 405-413 (10th ed. 2005)

[11] Judicial Review

California Workers' Compensation Practice ch. 22 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th Ed. 2000)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Worker's Compensation, §§ 434-451 (10th ed. 2005)

[12] Exclusive Remedy Principles and Exceptions

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Workers' Compensation, §§ 20, 24-29, 31-47, 49-55, 57-105 (10th ed. 2005)

[13] Third-Party Actions

California Worker's Compensation Practice ch. 1 §§ 1.38-1.47 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th Ed. 2000)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Worker's Compensation, §§ 27, 40-41, 43-47, 49-55, 57-105 (10th ed. 2005)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Workers' Compensation & SSDIAdministrative ProceedingsAlternative Dispute ResolutionWorkers' Compensation & SSDIAdministrative ProceedingsHearings & ReviewWorkers' Compensation & SSDIAdministrative ProceedingsJudicial ReviewGeneral OverviewWorkers' Compensation & SSDIAdministrative ProceedingsSettlementsWorkers' Compensation & SSDIDefensesExclusivity Provisions

194 of 194 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 577.359-577.369

[Reserved]

§§ 577.359[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
1. Filing Workers' Compensation Claims

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.370

§ 577.370 Attorney's Fees Disclosure Statement [Lab. Code § 4906(e); 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10134, 10135] [DWC Form 3]

[1] FORM Attorney's Fees Disclosure Statement [Lab. Code § 4906(e); 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10134, 10135] [DWC Form 3]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of DWC Form 3, a disclosure statement relating to attorney's fees. When an employee's injury occurred on or after January 1, 1990, counsel is required to furnish the employee with this form at the initial attorney consultation [Lab. Code § 4906(e); 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10134-10135.1]. The form must be signed by the employee and the attorney, and copies provided to the employee and to the employer, or to the employer's insurer or third-party administrator, if either is known, within 15 days of execution of the form by the employee and attorney [Lab. Code § 4906(e); 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10134, 10135.1].

The disclosure statement provides general information concerning workers' compensation attorney's fees, sets forth the range of attorney's fees customarily approved by the appeals board, and includes the telephone number of the Office of Benefit Assistance and Enforcement where the employee may receive answers to questions concerning workers' compensation benefits [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10134; see also Lab. Code § 4906(e)].

The foregoing is the English-language version of the form. A Spanish-language version is also available from the Division of Workers' Compensation.

For further discussion, see § 577.41[1].

[3] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 20, § 20.01[4] (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 17, §§ 17.6-17.12 (Cal. C.E.B. 3d ed. 1985)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
1. Filing Workers' Compensation Claims

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 577.371-577.372

[Reserved]

§§ 577.371[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
1. Filing Workers' Compensation Claims

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.373

§ 577.373 Employee's Claim for Workers' Compensation Benefits [Lab. Code § 5401; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10118.1] [DWC Form 1]

[1] FORM Employee's Claim for Workers' Compensation Benefits [Lab. Code § 5401; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10118.1] [DWC Form 1]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of DWC Form 1, for use by an employee, his or her agent, or, in case of death, his or her dependents in filing a claim for workers' compensation benefits [Lab. Code § 5401; 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10136-10142]. Copies are available at district offices of the Employment Development Department and the Division of Workers' Compensation [Lab. Code § 5401(a)].

[3] Form and Content

The employer's portion of the claim form may include information pertinent to the employer in addition to the information included on the official form, including a logo or other employer-identifying information, but inclusion of such information does not impose additional duties or prohibitions on the employee [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10138].

The claim form consists of an original and three copies [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10138]. The form must be made available in both English and Spanish [Lab. Code § 5401(b)].

For further discussion, see § 577.43.

[4] Filing and Service of Claim Form

The completed claim form must be filed with the employer [Lab. Code § 5401(c)]. A claim form is deemed filed when it is personally delivered to the employer or received by the employer by first-class or certified mail [Lab. Code § 5401(c)].

The claim form must be filed with the employer prior to the injured employee's entitlement to late payment supplements under Lab. Code § 4650(d), or prior to the employee's request for a medical evaluation under Lab. Code §§ 4061 or 4062 [Lab. Code § 5401(d)]. For injuries occurring on or after January 1, 1994, the filing of the claim form with the employer tolls the time limitations for commencing proceedings for workers' compensation benefits set forth in Lab. Code §§ 5405 and 5406 until the employer denies the claim or the injury becomes presumptively compensable under Lab. Code § 5402(b) [Lab. Code § 5401(d)]. For purposes of this provision, a claim form is deemed filed when it is personally delivered to the employer or mailed to the employer by first-class or certified mail [Lab. Code § 5401(d)].

[5] Employer's Duties

For injuries occurring on or after January 1, 1990, the employer must provide the injured employee or, in the case of death, his or her dependents with a copy of the claim form, along with a notice of potential eligibility for workers' compensation benefits, within one working day of receiving notice or knowledge of an injury that results in lost time beyond the employee's work shift at the time of injury or that results in medical treatment beyond first aid, or of the employee's request for a form [Lab. Code § 5401(a)]. For these purposes, the term "first aid" means any one-time treatment, and any follow-up visit for the purpose of observation, of minor scratches, cuts, burns, splinters, or other minor industrial injury, which do not ordinarily require medical care. This one-time treatment, and follow-up visit for the purpose of observation, is considered first aid even though provided by a physician or registered professional personnel. The term "minor industrial injury" does not include serious exposure to a hazardous substance as defined in Lab. Code § 6302(i) [Lab. Code § 5401(a)].

If the employer's claims administrator obtains knowledge that the employer has not provided a claim form, the administrator must provide one to the employee within three working days of obtaining knowledge that the form was not provided [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10140(b)]. If the administrator cannot determine if the employer has provided the employee with a claim form, the administrator must provide one within 30 days of the date the administrator has knowledge of the claim [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10140(c)].

Within one working day of receipt of the completed claim form, the employer must date the form and provide a dated copy to its claims administrator and to the employee, dependent, or agent who filed the claim form [Lab. Code § 5401(c); 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10140(a)]. The employer must also provide its insurer with a dated copy of the completed form [Lab. Code § 5401(c)].

[6] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 25, § 25.03[2] (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 1, §§ 1.16-1.22, ch. 13, § 13.114 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th ed. 2000)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
1. Filing Workers' Compensation Claims

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 577.374-577.389

[Reserved]

§§ 577.374[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
2. Initiating Proceedings Before the Appeals Board

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.390

§ 577.390 Application for Adjudication of Claim [DWC/WCAB Form 1A]

[1] FORM Application for Adjudication of Claim [DWC/WCAB Form 1A]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of an application for adjudication of claim for compensation benefits. The application must be on forms prescribed and approved by the WCAB [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10408]. A separate application must be filed for each separate injury for which benefits are claimed, even if the employer is the same in each case [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10401].

Effective November 17, 2008 [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10210-10297 (Rules of Court Administrator, including regulations relating to Electronic Adjudication Management System (EAMS))], DWC requires (with a handful of exceptions) that all documents designed and created by DWC to be read by electronic scanners be used in place of the previous, equivalent DWC forms. These new forms, called "optical character recognition forms" (OCR forms) [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10210(x) ("OCR form" defined)], may be downloaded and saved, then filled in and printed, as needed, with the printouts being filed with DWC and served on other parties and attorneys, as required by regulations. The form in [1], above, is one such form. Readers should check, periodically, DWC's website for further developments in the implementation of EAMS. DWC's website address is: http://www.dir.ca.gov/dwc/dwc_home_page.htm

For discussion of EAMS, see § 577.12A.

The statute of limitations applicable to an ordinary claim for medical, surgical, hospital, and disability benefits is Lab. Code § 5405, discussed under § 577.25[2].

Venue is at the district office where the application for adjudication is filed pursuant to Lab. Code § 5501.5 [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10408].

For further discussion, see § 577.83.

[3] Service of Application

Upon filing an Application for Adjudication, the filing party or lien claimant must concurrently serve a copy of the application and any accompanying documents on all other parties and lien claimants [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10400(e)].

For further discussion of service of the application and other documents, see § 577.108.

[4] Additional Allegations and Information

Additional allegations are required in cases involving serious and willful misconduct by the employer [8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10440, 10445; see § 577.396], subsequent injury cases [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10940; see § 577.397], and Lab. Code § 132a cases (employer discrimination against employee for filing or making known intention to file an application for adjudication) [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10447]. In such cases, the additional allegations may be attached to the foregoing form or alleged in a separate application for adjudication of claim.

In an occupational disease or cumulative injury case, the application must state the names and addresses of all employers liable under Lab. Code § 5500.5(a), the places of employment, and the approximate periods of employment during which the employee was exposed to the hazards of the occupational disease or cumulative injury [Lab. Code § 5500.5(b)].

For a form of petition to compel joinder when the application fails to comply with this requirement, see § 577.430[1].

[5] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 25, § 25.05 (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 13, §§ 13.25-13.57 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th ed. 2000)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Worker's Compensation, §§ 387-388 (10th ed. 2005)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
2. Initiating Proceedings Before the Appeals Board

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.391

§ 577.391 Application for Adjudication of Claim [Lab. Code §§ 5500, 5503]--For Disability Compensation for Injuries Occurring on or After January 1, 1990, and Before January 1, 1994 [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10408] [WCAB Form 1]

[1] FORM Application for Adjudication of Claim [Lab. Code §§ 5500, 5503]--For Disability Compensation for Injuries Occurring on or After January 1, 1990, and before January 1, 1994 [8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10408] [WCAB Form 1]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of an application for adjudication of claim for compensation benefits. The application must be on forms prescribed and approved by the WCAB [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10408]. A separate application must be filed for each separate injury for which benefits are claimed, even if the employer is the same in each case [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10401].

The foregoing form is a reproduction of the form prescribed by 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10965 (repealed January 1, 1994) (WCAB Form 1) for use by an injured worker to apply for workers' compensation disability benefits with respect to an injury occurring on or after January 1, 1990, and before January 1, 1994 [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10965]. An application may be filed at any time there is a bona fide dispute after service of the claim form required by Lab. Code § 5401 (discussed under § 577.42[2][b]). The reverse side of the first page of the form contains instructions for filling out the application and other information relating to the proceeding and to arbitration of the dispute. Copies may be obtained at any WCAB office.

The statute of limitations applicable to an ordinary claim for medical, surgical, hospital, and disability benefits is Lab. Code § 5405, discussed under § 577.25[2].

Venue is at the district office where the application for adjudication is filed pursuant to Lab. Code § 5501.5 [8 Cal.

Code Reg. § 10408].

For further discussion, see § 577.83.

[3] Service of Application

Upon filing an application for adjudication, the filing party or lien claimant must concurrently serve a copy of the application and any accompanying documents on all other parties and lien claimants [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10400(e)].

If the party filing the application is an unrepresented injured employee, an unrepresented dependent of a deceased employee, or a lien claimant or non-attorney representative of a lien claimant who falls within one of the exceptions of 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10228(c)(5)(A)-(C), the Appeals Board [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10400(f)]:

1. Must serve a conformed copy of the application on all parties and lien claimants, including the filing applicant, who are listed either on the application, on the proof of service to the application, or on the address record (if an address record was previously created for an earlier application).

2. If it is an initial application, must concurrently give notification of the assigned adjudication case number and venue.

Such service is deemed service of a conformed copy of the application for purposes of Lab. Code § 5501 [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10400(f)].

For all other parties and lien claimants, the Appeals Board [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10400(g)]:

1. Must serve a conformed copy of the application on the filing party or lien claimant (or, if represented, on the filing party or lien claimant's attorney or other representative).

2. If it is an initial application, must concurrently give notification of the assigned adjudication case number and venue.

Upon receipt of the conformed copy of the application, the filing party or lien claimant (or, if represented, the filing party or lien claimant's attorney or other representative) must forthwith serve a copy of the conformed application on all other parties and lien claimants who are listed on the application or on the proof of service to the application, and, if it is an initial application, concurrently notify all other parties and lien claimants of the assigned adjudication case number and venue [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10400(g)]. Such service is deemed service of a conformed copy of the application for purposes of Lab. Code § 5501 [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10400(g)].

[4] Additional Allegations and Information

Additional allegations are required in cases involving serious and willful misconduct by the employer [8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10440, 10445; see § 577.396], subsequent injury cases [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10940; see § 577.396], and Lab. Code § 132a cases (employer discrimination against employee for filing or making known intention to file an application for adjudication) [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10447]. In such cases, the additional allegations may be attached to the foregoing form or alleged in a separate application for adjudication of claim.

In an occupational disease or cumulative injury case, the application must state the names and addresses of all employers liable under Lab. Code § 5500.5(a), the places of employment, and the approximate periods of employment during which the employee was exposed to the hazards of the occupational disease or cumulative injury [Lab. Code § 5500.5(b)]. For a form of petition to compel joinder when the application fails to comply with this requirement, see §

577.430[1].

[5] Cross References

1 Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 25, § 25.05 (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 13, §§ 13.58-13.67 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th ed. 2000)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Worker's Compensation, §§ 387-388 (10th ed. 2005)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
2. Initiating Proceedings Before the Appeals Board

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.392

§ 577.392 Application for Adjudication of Claim [Lab. Code §§ 5500, 5503]--For Death Benefits for Injuries Occurring Before January 1, 1990, or on or After January 1, 1994 [8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10408, 10412(b)] [DIA WCAB Form 2]

[1] FORM Application for Adjudication of Claim [Lab. Code §§ 5500, 5503]--For Death Benefits for Injuries Occurring Before January 1, 1990, or on or after January 1, 1994 [8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10408, 10412(b)] [DIA WCAB Form 2]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of an application for adjudication of claim for death benefits. The application must be in writing on forms prescribed and approved by the WCAB [see Lab. Code § 5500; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10408].

The foregoing is a reproduction of the form prescribed by 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10412(b) (repealed January 1, 1994) (DIA WCAB Form 2) for use by the dependents of a deceased worker to apply for workers' compensation death benefits with respect to an injury occurring before January 1, 1990, or on or after January 1, 1994. The reverse side of the form contains the notice that "filing and service of a declaration of readiness (DIA WCAB Form 9) [see § 577.399[1]] is prerequisite to the setting of a case for hearing." It also contains instructions for filling out the application and other information relating to the proceeding. Copies may be obtained at any WCAB office.

The statute of limitations applicable to a claim for death benefits is set forth in Lab. Code § 5406, discussed under § 577.25[2]. For discussion of the definitions of "dependency" and "dependents," see § 577.14[2].

Venue is at the district office where the application for adjudication is filed pursuant to Lab. Code § 5501.5 [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10408].

For further discussion, see § 577.83. See also, §§ 577.390, 577.391 and 577.393.

[3] Service of Application

Upon filing an application for adjudication, the filing party or lien claimant must concurrently serve a copy of the application and any accompanying documents on all other parties and lien claimants [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10400(e)].

If the party filing the application is an unrepresented injured employee, an unrepresented dependent of a deceased employee, or a lien claimant or non-attorney representative of a lien claimant who falls within one of the exceptions of 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10228(c)(5)(A)-(C), the Appeals Board [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10400(f)]:

1. Must serve a conformed copy of the application on all parties and lien claimants, including the filing applicant, who are listed either on the application, on the proof of service to the application, or on the address record (if an address record was previously created for an earlier application).

2. If it is an initial application, must concurrently give notification of the assigned adjudication case number and venue.

Such service is deemed service of a conformed copy of the application for purposes of Lab. Code § 5501 [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10400(f)].

For all other parties and lien claimants, the Appeals Board [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10400(g)]:

1. Must serve a conformed copy of the application on the filing party or lien claimant (or, if represented, on the filing party or lien claimant's attorney or other representative).

2. If it is an initial application, must concurrently give notification of the assigned adjudication case number and venue.

Upon receipt of the conformed copy of the application, the filing party or lien claimant (or, if represented, the filing party or lien claimant's attorney or other representative) must forthwith serve a copy of the conformed application on all other parties and lien claimants who are listed on the application or on the proof of service to the application, and, if it is an initial application, concurrently notify all other parties and lien claimants of the assigned adjudication case number and venue [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10400(g)]. Such service is deemed service of a conformed copy of the application for purposes of Lab. Code § 5501 [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10400(g)]. When the application is filed in a death case in which there is a bona fide issue as to partial or total dependency, the filing party must serve a copy of the application on the Department of Industrial Relations, Death Without Dependents Unit [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10501].

[4] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 25, § 25.05 (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 13, §§ 13.68-13.76 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th ed. 2000)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
2. Initiating Proceedings Before the Appeals Board

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.393

§ 577.393 Application for Adjudication of Claim [Lab. Code §§ 5500, 5503]--For Death Benefits for Injuries Occurring on or After January 1, 1990, and Before January 1, 1994 [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10408] [WCAB Form 1A]

[1] FORM Application for Adjudication of Claim [Lab. Code §§ 5500, 5503]--For Death Benefits for Injuries Occurring On or After January 1, 1990 and Before January 1, 1994 [8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10408] [WCAB Form 1A]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of an application for adjudication of claim for death benefits. The application must be in writing on forms prescribed and approved by the WCAB [see Lab. Code § 5500; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10408].

The foregoing form is a reproduction of the form prescribed by 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10965 (repealed January 1, 1994) (WCAB Form 1A) for use by the dependents of a deceased worker to apply for workers' compensation death benefits with respect to an injury occuring on or after January 1, 1990 and before January 1, 1994 [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10965]. The reverse side of the first page of the form contains instructions for filling out the application and other information relating to the proceedings. Copies may be obtained at any WCAB office.

The statute of limitations applicable to a claim for death benefits is set forth in Lab. Code § 5406, discussed under § 577.25[2] . For discussion of the definitions of "dependency" and "dependents," see § 577.14[2].

Venue is at the district office where the application for adjudication is filed pursuant to Lab. Code § 5501.5 [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10408].

For further discussion, see § 577.83. See also, §§ 577.390 -577.392.

[3] Service of Application

Upon filing an application for adjudication, the filing party or lien claimant must concurrently serve a copy of the application and any accompanying documents on all other parties and lien claimants [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10400(e)].

If the party filing the application is an unrepresented injured employee, an unrepresented dependent of a deceased employee, or a lien claimant or non-attorney representative of a lien claimant who falls within one of the exceptions of 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10228(c)(5)(A)-(C), the Appeals Board [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10400(f)]:

> 3. Must serve a conformed copy of the application on all parties and lien claimants, including the filing applicant, who are listed either on the application, on the proof of service to the application, or on the address record (if an address record was previously created for an earlier application).
>
> 4. If it is an initial application, must concurrently give notification of the assigned adjudication case number and venue.

Such service is deemed service of a conformed copy of the application for purposes of Lab. Code § 5501 [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10400(f)].

For all other parties and lien claimants, the Appeals Board [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10400(g)]:

> 3. Must serve a conformed copy of the application on the filing party or lien claimant (or, if represented, on the filing party or lien claimant's attorney or other representative).
>
> 4. If it is an initial application, must concurrently give notification of the assigned adjudication case number and venue.

Upon receipt of the conformed copy of the application, the filing party or lien claimant (or, if represented, the filing party or lien claimant's attorney or other representative) must forthwith serve a copy of the conformed application on all other parties and lien claimants who are listed on the application or on the proof of service to the application, and, if it is an initial application, concurrently notify all other parties and lien claimants of the assigned adjudication case number and venue [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10400(g)]. Such service is deemed service of a conformed copy of the application for purposes of Lab. Code § 5501 [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10400(g)]. When the application is filed in a death case in which there is a bona fide issue as to partial or total dependency, the filing party must serve a copy of the application on the Department of Industrial Relations, Death Without Dependents Unit [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10501].

[4] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 25, § 25.05

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 13, §§ 13.77-13.79 (Cal. C.E.B. 3d ed. 1985)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
2. Initiating Proceedings Before the Appeals Board

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.394

§ 577.394 Answer to Application for Adjudication of Claim [DWC/WCAB Form 10]

[1] FORM Answer to Application for Adjudication of Claim [DWC/WCAB Form 10]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of the form of answer [see Lab. Code §§ 5500, 5505] prescribed by the WCAB for use by the defendant in answering an application for adjudication of claims.

The answer must be in writing, conform to the form prescribed by the WCAB, and set forth the particulars in which the application is alleged to be inaccurate or incomplete and the facts on which the defendant intends to rely [Lab. Code §§ 5500, 5505; see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10484]. Additional matters may be pleaded as deemed necessary, but a general denial is not an answer [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10484].

Effective November 17, 2008 [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10210-10297 (Rules of Court Administrator, including regulations relating to Electronic Adjudication Management System (EAMS))], DWC requires (with a handful of exceptions) that all documents designed and created by DWC to be read by electronic scanners be used in place of the previous, equivalent DWC forms. These new forms, called "optical character recognition forms" (OCR forms) [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10210(x) ("OCR form" defined)], may be downloaded and saved, then filled in and printed, as needed, with the printouts being filed with DWC and served on other parties and attorneys, as required by regulations. The form in [1], above, is one such form. Readers should check, periodically, DWC's website for further developments in the implementation of EAMS. DWC's website address is: http://www.dir.ca.gov/dwc/dwc_home_page.htm

For discussion of EAMS, see § 577.12A.

Evidence on matters and affirmative defenses not pleaded in the answer will be allowed only on such terms and conditions as the WCAB or WCJ may in their discretion impose [Lab. Code § 5505; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10484].

For further discussion, see § 577.83[2]. See also, §§ 577.390, 577.391 and 577.395.

[3] Time to File Answer

An answer to each application for adjudication must be filed and served 10 days after service of the declaration of readiness to proceed [Lab. Code § 5505; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10480].

[4] Employee's Serious and Willful Misconduct

If the employer seeks to reduce the compensation payable to the employee because of the employee's serious and willful misconduct [see Lab. Code § 4551], the allegations of serious and willful misconduct must be separately pleaded in the answer and must set out in sufficient detail the specific basis on which the charge is founded so that the adverse parties and the WCAB may be fully advised [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10440]. The allegations may be set forth on a separate document and attached to the official form. For general discussion of serious and willful misconduct of an employee, see discussion under § 577.17[1].

[5] Text References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 25, §§ 25.22-25.24 (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 13, §§ 13.136-13.142 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th ed. 2000)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Worker's Compensation, § 389 (10th ed. 2005)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
2. Initiating Proceedings Before the Appeals Board

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.395

§ 577.395 Answer to Application for Adjudication of Claim [Lab. Code §§ 5500(a), 5505]--For Injuries Occurring on or After January 1, 1990 and Before January 1, 1994 [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10484; former 8 Cal. Code Reg. 10969] [WCAB Form 2]

[1] FORM Answer to Application for Adjudication of Claim [Lab. Code §§ 5500(a), 5505]--For Injuries Occurring on or After January 1, 1990 [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10484; former 8 Cal. Code Reg. 10969] [WCAB Form 2]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of the form of answer [see Lab. Code §§ 5500, 5505] prescribed by the WCAB (WCAB Form 2) pursuant to former Rule 10969, for use by the defendant in answering an application for adjudication of claims relating to injuries occurring on or after January 1, 1990. Former Rule 10969 was repealed by the WCAB effective January 1, 1994. Until a new form of answer is approved by the WCAB, it would appear that with regard to claims involving injuries occuring on or after January 1, 1994, a defendant may use either the form set forth in former Rule 10969 or the form set forth in former Rule 10488 for injuries occurring prior to January 1, 1990 (see § 577.394). Until a new answer form is promulgated, counsel should contact the local workers' compensation district office to determine which form is being accepted.

Pursuant to former Rule 10969, the answer must be in writing, conform to the form prescribed by the WCAB, and set forth the particulars in which the application is inaccurate or incomplete and the facts on which the defendant intends to rely [Lab. Code §§ 5500, 5505; see former 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10969]. The answer may allege affirmative defenses and bona fide issues not raised in the application, but must respond to each substantive issue raised in the application [former 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10969(e), (g)]. The answer may also contain any objection to the application on the following grounds [former 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10969(h)]:

- There are no bona fide issues;

- Specific efforts have not been made to resolve disputed issues; or
- The proceedings requested are inappropriate.

Evidence on matters and affirmative defenses not pleaded in the answer will be allowed only on such terms and conditions imposed by the WCAB or the workers' compensation judge holding the hearing [Lab. Code § 5505].

For further discussion, see § 577.83[2]. See also, §§ 577.390, 577.391 and 577.394.

[3] Time to File Answer

An answer to each application for adjudication must be filed and served 10 days after service of the declaration of readiness to proceed [Lab. Code § 5505; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10480].

[4] Employee's Serious and Willful Misconduct

If the employer seeks to reduce the compensation payable to the employee because of the employee's serious and willful misconduct [see Lab. Code § 4551], the allegations of serious and willful misconduct must be separately pleaded in the answer and must set out in sufficient detail the specific basis on which the charge is founded so that the adverse parties and the WCAB may be fully advised [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10440]. The allegations may be set forth on a separate document and attached to the official form. For general discussion of serious and willful misconduct of an employee, see discussion under § 577.17[1].

[5] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 25, §§ 25.22-25.24 (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 5, §§ 5.34-5.37 (Cal. C.E.B. 3d ed. 1985)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Worker's Compensation, § 389 (10th ed. 2005)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
2. Initiating Proceedings Before the Appeals Board

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.396

§ 577.396 Allegation of Entitlement to Increased Benefits Because Injury Caused by Employer's Serious and Willful Misconduct [Lab. Code §§ 4553, 4553.1; 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10440, 10445]

[1] FORM Allegation of Entitlement to Increased Benefits Because Injury Caused by Employer's Serious and Willful Misconduct [Lab. Code §§ 4553, 4553.1; 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10440, 10445]

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
DEPARTMENT OF INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS
DIVISION OF WORKERS' COMPENSATION
WORKERS' COMPENSATION APPEALS BOARD

_____ [name],	)
Applicant,	)	CASE NO.
vs.	)	_____
_____ [name],	)	ALLEGATION OF ENTITLEMENT TO IN-Defendant.	)	CREASED BENEFITS BECAUSE OF EMPLOY-)	ER'S SERIOUS AND WILLFUL MISCONDUCT
	)

Applicant _____ [name] alleges that the injury to _____ [applicant or name of deceased employee] described in the attached application for adjudication of claim was caused by serious and willful misconduct on the part of the employer as follows:

FIRST THEORY
(Failure to Provide Safe Place to Work)

1. At all times herein mentioned, defendant _____ [name of employer] was, and is, _____ [specify type of business entity, e.g., a corporation organized and existing under the laws of California].

[2. At all times herein mentioned, _____ (name) was defendant's _____ (specify title, e.g., managing officer).]

3. On _____ [date], _____ [applicant or name of deceased employee] [hereinafter "the employee"], while employed by defendant as _____ [job title or description of work], was engaged in the performance of his/her duties in the course of his/her employment at _____ [address] under the immediate supervision and direction of _____ [name], _____ [specify title, e.g., defendant's managing officer].

4. On the above stated date, at about _____ [time], _____ [applicant or the employee] was directed by _____ [name], _____ [specify, e.g., defendant's managing officer], to _____ [describe work during which injury occurred].

5. At all times herein mentioned, defendant willfully and with knowledge that serious injury to _____ [applicant or the employee] was a probable result _____ [specify, e.g., failed to furnish and use safety devices and safeguards for the benefit of _____ (applicant or the employee), failed to adopt and use methods and processes reasonably adequate to render _____ (applicant's or the employee's) employment and place of employment safe, and failed to do those things reasonably necessary to protect the life and safety of _____ (applicant or the employee)], in that _____ [specify in detail specific act or omission on which charge of serious and willful misconduct is founded].

6. As a proximate result of the serious and willful misconduct of the defendant, as herein alleged, _____ [describe the accident that occurred and the applicant's or employee's involvement in it].

[EITHER, if applicant is the injured employee]

7. As a further proximate result of the serious and willful misconduct of the defendant and the accident, applicant sustained serious injuries resulting in _____ [specify, e.g., temporary and permanent disability, loss of work from _____ (date), to _____ (specify date or the present), and the need for medical treatment (at various times) _____ (between _____ and _____ (dates) or commencing on the date of the accident and continuing to the present)].

[OR, if applicant is a dependent]

7. As a further proximate result of the serious and willful misconduct of the defendant and the accident, the employee sustained serious injuries resulting in his/her death.

[CONTINUE]

SECOND THEORY
(Violation of Safety Order)

8. Applicant incorporates herein Paragraphs 1-4, inclusive, and 6 and 7 of the First Theory.

9. _____ [Identify safety order violated], entitled _____ [specify title of order] (hereinafter, "the safety order"), [providing _____ (quote in full if desired),] was applicable to the work being performed by _____ [applicant or the employee] on _____ [date of injury], in that _____ [describe conditions making safety order applicable].

[EITHER]

10. The safety order and the conditions making it applicable to _____ [applicant's or the employee's] work at the time of injury were known by _____ [defendant or _____ (name), defendant's _____ (e.g., managing officer)].

[OR]

10. The condition making the safety order applicable was obvious, created a probability of serious injury, and the failure of _____[defendant or _____ (name), defendant's _____ (e.g., managing officer)] to correct the condition constituted a reckless disregard for the probable consequences.

[CONTINUE]

11. The safety order was violated by _____ [defendant or _____ (name), defendant's _____ (e.g., managing officer)] in that _____ [describe specific manner in which order was violated].

12. The violation of the safety order as herein alleged proximately caused _____ [applicant's injury or the death of the employee] in that _____ [specify manner in which violation constituted the proximate cause].

WHEREFORE, applicant requests that the amount of compensation otherwise recoverable be increased one half, together with costs and expenses not to exceed $250.00, as authorized by Labor Code Section 4553.

Dated at _____ [city], California, on _____ [date].

_____ [signature]

Applicant

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Applicant

[Attach proof of service. See § 577.108[5].]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, may be used by an injured employee or a deceased employee's dependents to seek increased compensation on the ground the injury or death was caused by the employer's serious and willful misconduct [see Lab. Code § 4553]. The form set out above is drafted on the assumption that it will be attached to the official WCAB form of application for adjudication of claim [see forms in §§ 577.390 -577.393]. If attached to the official form of application, the attachment should be referred to and incorporated by reference in the official form, in the space provided for describing the nature of the dispute.

Alternatively, the applicant may submit a separate typed application for adjudication of claim containing the allegations set forth in the foregoing form [see 1 Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 5, § 5.01[2][l] (Matthew Bender); California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 5, § 5.23 (Cal. C.E.B. 3d ed. 1985)]. A separate typed application may be used when an official application has not yet been filed (allowing the WCAB to open a file on the matter and give it a number pending filing of the application), or when the serious and willful misconduct is alleged after the official application is already on file. If a separate typed application is filed, it would only place in issue the additional compensation afforded by statute for serious and willful misconduct. Therefore, an official application must be filed as well to claim other benefits. If a separate application is filed, it should conform as closely as possible to, and contain all the information required by, the official general form (unless such a form is already on file).

Regardless of whether filed separately or attached to an official WCAB application form, and irrespective of the date of injury, any allegation of serious and willful misconduct must comply with the requirements of 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10440 and 10445, discussed in § 577.396[4]. The statute of limitations applicable to a claim of increased compensation based on an employer's serious and willful misconduct is Lab. Code § 5407, discussed in § 577.25[e].

Although an insurer may provide insurance against the expense of defending a suit for serious and willful misconduct, it is prohibited from insuring against the additional compensation recoverable for such misconduct [Ins. Code § 11661; see Hawaiian Pineapple Co., Ltd. v. Ind. Acc. Com. (1953) 40 Cal. 2d 656, 662, 255 P.2d 431 ; Imperial Irrigation Dist. v. Chubb/Pacific Indemnity Group (1979) 95 Cal. App. 3d 317, 320, 321, 157 Cal. Rptr. 733] . Hence, the employer's insurer should not be named as a party. Because it may defend the proceeding, however, it should be served with a copy of the application. If the employer is self-insured or uninsured and represented by counsel, a copy should be served on counsel.

For further discussion, see § 57.17[2]. See also, §§ 577.390 -577.393.

[3] Serious and Willful Misconduct

The claim may be filed if the employee was injured by reason of the serious and willful misconduct (a) of the employer or his or her managing representative; or (b) if the employer is a partnership, of one of the partners or a managing representative or general superintendent; or (c) if the employer is a corporation, of an executive, managing officer, or general superintendent. The amount of compensation otherwise recoverable is increased by one half, together with costs and expenses not to exceed $250 [Lab. Code § 4553].

For general discussion of an employer's serious and willful misconduct, see § 577.17[2].

[4] Pleading Requirements

All allegations that an injury was caused by the serious and willful misconduct of the employer must be separately pleaded and the pleading must set out in sufficient detail the specific basis on which the charge is founded so that the adverse parties and the WCAB may be fully advised [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10440]. If the charge is based on more than one theory, each theory must be separately set forth [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10445(a)]. If the charge is predicated on the violation of a particular safety order, the application must allege the following [Lab. Code § 4553.1; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10445(b)]:

- The correct citation or reference of the safety order;
- The specific manner in which the order was violated;
- The specific manner in which the violation proximately caused the injury or death; and
- That the safety order and the conditions making it applicable were known to and violated by a particular named person, either the employer or a representative as designated in Lab. Code § 4553, or that the condition making the safety order applicable was obvious, created a probability of serious injury, and the failure of the employer or its representative to correct the condition constituted a reckless disregard for the probable consequences.

[5] Service of Form

All documents other than those specified in 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10500 and 10501 (discussed under § 577.108) must be served by the parties or lien claimants [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10505]. Such documents must be served on all attorneys or agents of record unless a party or lien claimant is unrepresented, in which case service must be made directly on the party or lien claimant [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10510].

For discussion of service of papers in workers' compensation proceedings, see the discussion under § 577.108. For discussion of the methods of proving service in civil actions, as well as a form of proof of service by mail that may be adapted for use to prove service by mail in a workers' compensation proceeding, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

[6] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 25, § 25.05[4] (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 5, §§ 5.23-5.26 (Cal. C.E.B. 3d ed. 1985)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Worker's Compensation, §§ 316-324 (10th ed. 2005)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
2. Initiating Proceedings Before the Appeals Board

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.397

§ 577.397 Application for Subsequent Injuries Fund Benefits

[1] FORM Application for Subsequent Injuries Fund Benefits

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use in a subsequent injury case to claim benefits from the Subsequent Injuries Benefits Trust Fund. Additional compensation for subsequent injuries is covered by Lab. Code §§ 4751-4755. It has been suggested that, to avoid the running of the period of limitation within which the claim may be filed [see [4], below], applicants would be well advised to join the Subsequent Injuries Benefits Trust Fund with the employer in every proceeding seeking permanent disability benefits [Subsequent Injuries Fund v. Workmen's Comp. App. Bd. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 56, 65-66, 84 Cal. Rptr. 140, 465 P.2d 28] . In any case, the fund should be joined before the extent of the employer's liability is determined to avoid a relitigation of that issue by the fund that could result in the employee being faced with conflicting decisions with respect to the benefits to which he or she is entitled [see Subsequent Injuries Fund v. Workmen's Comp. Appeals Bd. (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 403, 409, 115 Cal. Rptr. 204] .

Claims against the Subsequent Injuries Benefits Trust Fund must be by written application. The application must set forth the date and nature of the industrial injury, together with all factors of disability alleged to have preexisted the injury [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10940]. Allegations of additional factors must be made by amended application [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10940].

Effective November 17, 2008 [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10210-10297 (Rules of Court Administrator, including regulations relating to Electronic Adjudication Management System (EAMS))], DWC requires (with a handful of exceptions) that all documents designed and created by DWC to be read by electronic scanners be used in place of the previous, equivalent DWC forms. These new forms, called "optical character recognition forms" (OCR forms) [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10210(x) ("OCR form" defined)], may be downloaded and saved, then filled in and printed, as needed, with the printouts being filed with DWC and served on other parties and attorneys, as required by regulations. The form

in [1], above, is one such form. Readers should check, periodically, DWC's website for further developments in the implementation of EAMS. DWC's website address is: http://www.dir.ca.gov/dwc/dwc_home_page.htm

For discussion of EAMS, see § 577.12A.

See also, discussion under §§ 577.390, 577.391.

[3] Subsequent Injuries Benefits Trust Fund

A permanently disabled employee who sustains a subsequent permanent injury may not receive compensation for the subsequent injury from his or her employer in excess of that allowed for the subsequent injury alone. Therefore, the employer is not liable for the combined effect of the disabilities, but only for that portion due to the later injury [see Lab. Code §§ 4663(a), 4664]. When a permanently partially disabled employee receives a subsequent compensable injury, however, the degree of disability caused by the combination of both disabilities is greater than that which would have resulted from the subsequent injury alone, and the combined effect of the injuries is a permanent disability equal to 70 percent or more of total, the employee may apply for benefits from a fund administered by the State Compensation Insurance Fund, known as the Subsequent Injuries Benefits Trust Fund [see Lab. Code §§ 4751, 4754]. The employee is entitled to compensation from the fund in the amount of the difference between the amount payable for the last injury, and the total disability percentage, provided that either of the following conditions applies [Lab. Code § 4751]:

- The previous disability or impairment affects a hand, an arm, a foot, or an eye, and the permanent disability resulting from the subsequent injury affects the opposite and corresponding member to the extent of 5 percent of total, without adjustment for age and occupation; or

- The permanent disability resulting from the subsequent injury, disregarding adjustment for age and occupation, is equal to 35 percent or more of total.

A "qualified alien" may also apply for benefits from the Subsequent Injuries Benefits Trust Fund, but must fill out Form UEF-1, "Statement of Citizenship, Alienage, and Immigration Status for State Public Benefits" [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 15740(e)(3); see also 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 15741].

[4] Filing and Service of Application

An application against the Subsequent Injuries Benefits Trust Fund may be filed by the injured worker with the original application for workers' compensation benefits [see §§ 577.390, 577.391] or thereafter [see Subsequent Injuries Fund v. Workmen's Comp. App. Bd. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 56, 61-62, 65-66, 84 Cal. Rptr. 140, 465 P.2d 28] . There is no statute specifying a period of limitation within which the application must be filed to avoid being barred. Under case law, however, a claim against the fund is barred if not brought within five years from the date of injury, as set forth in Lab. Code § 5410, if during that period the worker knew or could reasonably be deemed to have known that there was substantial likelihood that he or she was entitled to subsequent injuries benefits [Subsequent Injuries Fund v. Workmen's Comp. App. Bd. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 74, 76, 84 Cal. Rptr. 151, 465 P.2d 39] .

Conversely, if the worker, prior to expiration of the five-year period, did not know and could not reasonably have been deemed to have known that there would be substantial liklihood that he or she would become entitled to subsequent injuries benefits, the application against the fund will not be barred if he or she files a proceeding against the fund within a reasonable time after learning from the WCAB's findings on the issue of permanent disability that the fund has probable liability [Subsequent Injuries Fund v. Workmen's Comp. App. Bd. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 56, 65, 84 Cal. Rptr. 140, 465 P.2d 28 (disapproving inconsistent langauge in State, Subsequent Injuries Fund v. Industrial Acci. Com. (1962) 198 Cal. App. 2d 818, 18 Cal. Rptr. 458 , and Subsequent Injuries Fund v. Industrial Acci. Com. (1960) 178 Cal. App. 2d 55, 2 Cal. Rptr. 646)].

Applications against the Subsequent Injuries Benefits Trust Fund must be filed with the WCAB and a copy served by mail on the Fund, in accordance with 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10507 and 10505. If joinder of the Subsequent Injuries Benefits Trust Fund is ordered by the WCAB or the WCJ, the applicant must forthwith file and serve an application as above [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10940].

[5] Service of Medical Reports

Any party who has previously filed medical reports must, unless service is waived, forthwith, and in no case later than 30 days prior to the mandatory settlement conference, serve copies of the reports on the Fund [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10946].

[6] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 8, § 8.09; ch. 25, § 25.05[7] (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 5, §§ 5.29, 5.30 (Cal. C.E.B. 3d ed. 1985)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Worker's Compensation, §§ 297-300 (10th ed. 2005)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
2. Initiating Proceedings Before the Appeals Board

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.397A

§ 577.397A Document Cover Sheet [DWC-CA Form 10232.1]

[1] FORM Document Cover Sheet [DWC-CA Form 10232.1]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

All documents must be filed with document cover sheets and document separator sheets [see § 577.397B (document separator sheet)]. A completed document cover sheet must be the first page of each individual document or set of documents filed at one time in the same case. The cover sheet provides space for information regarding 15 companion cases. Only the pages filled out need to be filed. The requirements regarding use of document cover sheets do not apply to any unrepresented employees, unrepresented dependents, or unrepresented uninsured employers who do not have ready access to document cover sheets [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10232(b)].

For further discussion of document cover sheets, see § 577.104.

Effective November 17, 2008 [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10210-10297 (Rules of Court Administrator, including regulations relating to Electronic Adjudication Management System (EAMS))], DWC requires (with a handful of exceptions) that all documents designed and created by DWC to be read by electronic scanners be used in place of the previous, equivalent DWC forms. These new forms, called "optical character recognition forms" (OCR forms) [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10210(x) ("OCR form" defined)], may be downloaded and saved, then filled in and printed, as needed, with the printouts being filed with DWC and served on other parties and attorneys, as required by regulations. The form in [1], above, is one such form. Readers should check, periodically, DWC's website for further developments in the implementation of EAMS. DWC's website address is: http://www.dir.ca.gov/dwc/dwc_home_page.htm

For discussion of EAMS, see § 577.12A.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
2. Initiating Proceedings Before the Appeals Board

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.397B

§ 577.397B Document Separator Sheet [DWC-CA Form 10232.2]

[1] FORM Document Separator Sheet [DWC-CA Form 10232.2]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

All documents must be filed with document cover sheets [see § 577.397A (document cover sheet)] and document separator sheets. If an individual document includes an attachment, a completed document separator sheet must precede the attachment, and, if an individual document includes multiple attachments, a document separator sheet must precede each individual attachment. A document separator sheet must not be placed between a document and the proof of service for that document. However, when one proof of service is used for multiple documents, a document separator sheet must precede the proof of service. A list of document titles is provided with the document separator sheet form and posted on the DWC website (http://www.dir.ca.gov/forms.html). These document titles must be used on a document separator sheet to describe the attached document. The document separator sheet requires the filer to list the product delivery units [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10210(bb); see also § 577.12A[1]] and the date and the author of the attached document. The requirements regarding use of document separator sheets do not apply to any unrepresented employees, unrepresented dependents, or unrepresented uninsured employers who do not have ready access to document cover sheets and document separator sheets [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10232(b)].

For further discussion of document separator sheets, see § 577.104.

Effective November 17, 2008 [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10210-10297 (Rules of Court Administrator, including regulations relating to Electronic Adjudication Management System (EAMS))], DWC requires (with a handful of exceptions) that all documents designed and created by DWC to be read by electronic scanners be used in place of the previous, equivalent DWC forms. These new forms, called "optical character recognition forms" (OCR forms) [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10210(x) ("OCR form" defined)], may be downloaded and saved, then filled in and printed, as needed, with the printouts being filed with DWC and served on other parties and attorneys, as required by regulations. The form

in [1], above, is one such form. Readers should check, periodically, DWC's website for further developments in the implementation of EAMS. DWC's website address is: http://www.dir.ca.gov/dwc/dwc_home_page.htm

For discussion of EAMS, see § 577.12A.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
2. Initiating Proceedings Before the Appeals Board

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.398

§ 577.398 Petition for Appointment of Guardian ad Litem and Trustee [Lab. Code § 5307.5(a); 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10402] [DIA WCAB Form 8]

[1] FORM Petition for Appointment of Guardian ad Litem and Trustee [Lab. Code § 5307.5(a); 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10402] [DIA WCAB Form 8]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of the form (DWC WCAB Form 8) prescribed by the WCAB for use to secure the appointment of a guardian ad litem and trustee for a minor or incompetent injured employee or dependent of a deceased employee [see Lab. Code § 5307.5(a); 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10402]. Blank forms may be obtained at any WCAB office. For the tolling of the statute of limitations until a guardian is appointed, see § 577.25[3].

If the applicant is a minor or incompetent, the application for adjudication must be accompanied by the foregoing petition. If the minor has the right of nomination, the nomination must be included in the petition [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10402; see § 577.81].

[3] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 24, § 24.05[1]; ch. 31, § 31.21 (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 5, §§ 5.31-5.33 (Cal. C.E.B. 3d ed. 1985)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Worker's Compensation, § 374 (10th ed. 2005)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
2. Initiating Proceedings Before the Appeals Board

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.399

§ 577.399 Declaration of Readiness to Proceed [DWC-CA Form 10250.1]

[1] FORM Declaration of Readiness to Proceed [DWC-CA Form 10250.1]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of DWC-CA Form 10250.1, which is used to have a case set for mandatory settlement conferences, status conferences, priority conferences [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10301 (v), (z), (dd)], or any other hearing. The Appeals Board may, in its discretion, designate a party or lien claimant, or their attorney or agent of record, to make service of notices of the time and place of hearing, orders approving compromise and release, awards based on stipulations with request for award, and any interim or procedural orders. In deciding whether to exercise this discretion, the Appeals Board may consider whether service by it would be more efficient and cost-effective because most or all of the parties, lien claimants, attorneys, or agents of record to be served have specified e-mail or fax as their preferred method of service. If discretion is exercised so as to require designated service, the party, lien claimant, attorney, or agent of record designated to make service must retain the proof of service and not file it unless ordered to do so by the Appeals Board [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10500(a); but see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10500(b) (exceptions)].

Applications or petitions may not be placed on calendar for mandatory settlement conferences, status conferences, priority conferences, expedited hearing, or any other hearing unless one of the parties has filed and served a declaration of readiness to proceed in the form prescribed by the Court Administrator. The declaration of readiness must be served on all other parties and lien claimants [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10250(a)].

All declarations of readiness to proceed must state under penalty of perjury that the moving party has made a genuine, good faith effort to resolve the dispute before filing the declarations of readiness to proceed, and must state with specificity those efforts [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10250(b)]. A false declaration or certification by any party, lien claimant, attorney, or representative may give rise to proceedings under Lab. Code § 134 for contempt or Lab. Code § 5813 for sanctions [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10250(c)]. If a party or a lien claimant is represented by an attorney or representative, any declaration of readiness filed on behalf of the party must be executed by the attorney or representative [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10250(d)].

For discussion of declarations of readiness to proceed, see § 577.88.

Effective November 17, 2008 [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10210-10297 (Rules of Court Administrator, including regulations relating to Electronic Adjudication Management System (EAMS))], DWC requires (with a handful of exceptions) that all documents designed and created by DWC to be read by electronic scanners be used in place of the previous, equivalent DWC forms. These new forms, called "optical character recognition forms" (OCR forms) [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10210(x) ("OCR form" defined)], may be downloaded and saved, then filled in and printed, as needed, with the printouts being filed with DWC and served on other parties and attorneys, as required by regulations. The form in [1], above, is one such form. Readers should check, periodically, DWC's website for further developments in the implementation of EAMS. DWC's website address is: http://www.dir.ca.gov/dwc/dwc_home_page.htm

For discussion of EAMS, see § 577.12A.

It may be filed with the application for adjudication [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10250(a), 10582].

For further discussion, see § 577.88.

[3] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 25, § 25.08 (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 6, §§ 6.17-6.24 (Cal. C.E.B. 3d ed. 1985)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
2. Initiating Proceedings Before the Appeals Board

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.400

§ 577.400 General Caption for Use on Paper Filed With WCAB

[1] FORM General Caption for Use on Paper Filed With WCAB

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
DEPARTMENT OF INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS
DIVISION OF WORKERS' COMPENSATION
WORKERS' COMPENSATION APPEALS BOARD

_____ [name of employee or other applicant], _____ [Applicant or Employee] [_____ (address)] [Employee's Social Security No._____]	)
vs.	)
_____ [name of employer] _____ [Defendant or Employee] [_____ (address)] _____ [name], Insurance Carrier [_____ (address)]	)
[If applicant is someone other than injured employee, add following:] [_____ (name of employee), Employee _____ (address) Employee's Social Security No. _____]	)
	CASE NO. _____ _____ [Title of document, e.g., PETITION FOR _____ (specify)]

_____

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, illustrates a general form of caption which may be adapted for use on papers filed with the WCAB either before or after the filing of an application for adjudication of claim.

If filed after the application for adjudication has been filed, the parties would be referred to as "applicant" and "defendant," as designated in the application. If someone other than the injured employee is the applicant (e.g., dependents in a death case), the name and address of the employee must be included in the caption [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10360].

Ordinarily, printed forms provided by the WCAB are used for the original pleadings [see §§ 577.390[1] -577.393[1], 577.394[1], 577.395[1]].

For additional discussion of captions, see § 577.101 .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
2. Initiating Proceedings Before the Appeals Board

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.401

§ 577.401 WCAB--Data Entry Sheet

[1] FORM WCAB--Data Entry Sheet

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is an illustration of the WCAB Data Entry Sheet that must accompany all filings in which no case number has been previously assigned. This includes the following:

- The Application for Adjudication [see §§ 577.390 -577.393].
- A Compromise and Release Agreement [see §§ 577.460 -577.462].
- Stipulations with Requests for Award [see § 577.470].
- Petitions seeking recovery under Lab. Code § 132a.
- Pre-application filings for cases involving injuries between January 1, 1990 and December 31, 1993, in which no case number was previously assigned by the WCAB.

Copies of the form may be obtained at any WCAB office.

For additional discussion, see § 577.102.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
2. Initiating Proceedings Before the Appeals Board

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 577.402-577.409

[Reserved]

§§ 577.402[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
3. Discovery

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.410

§ 577.410 Subpoena [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10530] With Proof of Service [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10505(c)] [DIA WCAB Form 30]

[1] FORM Subpoena [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10530] With Proof of Service [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10505(c)] [DIA WCAB Form 30]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of DIA WCAB Form 30 for use by a party to subpoena a witness to testify. On request, the WCAB will issue subpoenas in accordance with the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1985 and 1987.5 and Gov. Code § 68097.1 [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10530; see discussion under §§ 577.147, 577.148]. For injuries occurring on or after January 1, 1990, subpoenas must contain, in addition to the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 1985, an affidavit that a claim form has been duly filed pursuant to Lab. Code § 5401(d) [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10530]. Copies of the foregoing form may be obtained at any WCAB office.

[3] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 25, § 25.43 (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 8, §§ 8.9-8.11 (Cal. C.E.B. 3d ed. 1985)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
3. Discovery

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.411

§ 577.411 Subpoena Duces Tecum [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10530], Declaration for Subpoena Duces Tecum [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1987.5, 2015.5], and Declaration of Service [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10505(c)] [DIA WCAB Form 32]

[1] FORM Subpoena Duces Tecum [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10530], Declaration for Subpoena Duces Tecum [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1987.5, 2015.5], and Declaration of Service [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10505(c)] [DIA WCAB Form 32]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of DIA WCAB Form 32 for use by a party to subpoena a witness to testify and produce documents, papers, books, and records [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1985, 1987.5, 2015.5; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10530].

For injuries occurring on or after January 1, 1990, subpoenas duces tecum must contain, in addition to the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 1985, an affidavit that a claim form has been duly filed pursuant to Lab. Code § 5401(d) [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10530].

For further discussion, see § 577.147. See also § 577.410.

[3] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 25, § 25.43 (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 8, § 8.14 (Cal. C.E.B. 3d ed. 1985)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
3. Discovery

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.412

§ 577.412 Petition for Order to Compel Employee to Submit to Medical Examination and to Suspend Employee's Right to Begin or Maintain Proceeding for Collection of Workers' Compensation [Lab. Code §§ 4051, 4053, 4054, 5703.5]

[1] FORM Petition for Order to Compel Employee to Submit to Medical Examination and to Suspend Employee's Right to Begin or Maintain Proceeding for Collection of Workers' Compensation [Lab. Code §§ 4051, 4053, 4054, 5703.5]

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
DEPARTMENT OF INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS
DIVISION OF WORKERS' COMPENSATION
WORKERS' COMPENSATION APPEALS BOARD

_____ [name of employee or other applicant], _____ [Applicant or Employee] [_____ (address)] [Employee's Social Security No. _____] vs. _____ [name of employer] _____ [Defendant or Employer] [_____ (address)] _____ [name], Insurance Carrier [_____ (address)] [If applicant is someone other than injured employee, add following:] [_____ (name of employee), Employee _____ (address)	CASE NO. _____ _____ [Title of document, e.g., PETITION FOR _____ (specify)]

Employee's Social Security No. _____]

_____

Petitioner alleges:

1. Petitioner is, and at all times herein mentioned was, _____ [specify, e.g., the defendant in this proceeding or the workers' compensation carrier for _____ (name of employer)].

[EITHER, if no application for adjudication has been filed]

2. _____ [Name of worker] claims to have been an employee of _____ [name of employer] and that on _____ [date], he/she sustained an injury arising out of and occurring in the course of his/her employment.

[OR, if application has been filed]

2. On _____ [date], an application was filed by _____ [name of worker] alleging that on _____ [date], he/she sustained injury arising out of and occurring in the course of his/her employment with _____ [name of employer] and claiming temporary and permanent disability compensation.

[CONTINUE]

3. On _____ [date], petitioner delivered a writing to the employee requesting that he/she submit to a medical examination by _____ [name], M.D., to be conducted at the latter's office located at _____ [address] on _____ [date], at _____ [time].

4. The examination was arranged at a time and place that gave due consideration to the convenience of the employee and to his/her physical condition and ability to attend. Petitioner offered to pay, and is still willing and able to pay, all costs in connection with the examination [and did, in fact, pay the employee for travel and other expenses in advance of the scheduled examination date].

5. Without any cause whatsoever, the employee failed and refused to report for the examination.

6. The examination is necessary to enable petitioner to be informed concerning the nature, extent, and causes of the employee's injury, illness, or disability, if any, and to defend against the employee's claim for continuing temporary disability and other workers' compensation benefits.

WHEREFORE, petitioner requests that an order issue:

1. Requiring the employee to report to _____ [name], M.D., at _____ [address] on or before _____ [date], and to submit to a medical examination; and

2. Admonishing employee that his/her failure to appear for the above examination shall result in suspension of his/her right to maintain any proceeding for collection of compensation and forfeiture of his/her right to disability payments for the period during which he/she refuses to submit to the examination; and

3. Granting all other and further relief that may be necessary and proper.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Petitioner _____ [name]

[Attach proof of service. See § 577.108[5].]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, illustrates a petition for use to secure an order compelling an employee to submit to a medical examination after the employee has refused to do so [see generally Lab. Code §§ 4050-4054, 5703.5]. As noted in § 577.156, if an employee fails or refuses to submit to a medical examination after being requested to do so by the employer under Lab. Code §§ 4050, 4051, or obstructs the examination, the employee's right to begin or maintain a proceeding to collect compensation is suspended during the period of such failure, refusal, or obstruction [Lab. Code § 4053]. Furthermore, if the employee fails or refuses to submit to an examination after being directed to do so by the WCAB or by a WCJ, the employee's right to disability payments accruing during the period of failure, refusal, or obstruction is barred [Lab. Code § 4054].

For a discussion of service of papers and proof of service, see § 577.108.

[3] Failure to Submit to Examination

Although neither the Labor Code nor the WCAB regulations clearly specify the procedure to be followed when an employee fails or refuses to submit to a medical examination, the foregoing petition apparently may be filed either before or after the employee files an application for adjudication of claim, as a preliminary step to the employer's terminating payment of disability benefits under Lab. Code § 4054. If the employee has filed an application already, the employer may also wish to include in the answer [see §§ 577.394, 577.395] allegations regarding the employee's previous failure to submit to a medical examination requested by the employer under Lab. Code §§ 4050, 4051 and request a finding that the employee's right to maintain the proceeding is suspended pursuant to Lab. Code § 4053. Note, however, that, although the right to maintain the proceeding is suspended in such cases, the Labor Code and WCAB regulations do not appear to allow dismissal of the application. At the very least, the applicant is entitled to notice and an opportunity to be heard before the case may be dismissed for failure to submit to a medical examination [see Roth v. Workmen's Comp. Appeals Bd. (1971) 20 Cal. App. 3d 452, 457-460, 97 Cal. Rptr. 605] .

The Labor Code and WCAB regulations also do not indicate the procedure the employer should follow if the employee fails or refuses to submit to an examination after an award has already been entered by the WCAB. Apparently, however, the employer, at the very least, should seek an order compelling the employee to submit to an examination before terminating payment of any disability benefits on this basis [see Lab. Code § 4054]. For general discussion of supplemental proceedings after entry of an award, see § 577.220 et seq.

If an application is on file, the number of the case and the usual caption showing the title and cause should be specified [ see 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10301(y), 10450; § 577.400]. If no application is on file, the possibility that the injury occurred as the result of an industrial injury should be set forth.

[4] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 22, § 22.07[2] (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 7, § 7.62 (Cal. C.E.B. 3d ed. 1985)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
3. Discovery

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.413

§ 577.413 Petition for Order Directing [Exhumation and] Autopsy [Lab. Code §§ 5706, 5707; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10342(c)]

[1] FORM Petition for Order Directing [Exhumation and] Autopsy [Lab. Code §§ 5706, 5707; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10342(c)]

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
DEPARTMENT OF INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS
DIVISION OF WORKERS' COMPENSATION
WORKERS' COMPENSATION APPEALS BOARD

_____ [name of employee or other applicant], _____ [Applicant or Employee] [_____ (address)] [Employee's Social Security No. _____]	)	CASE NO. _____
vs.	)	_____ [Title of document, e.g., PETITION FOR _____ (specify)]
_____ [name of employer] _____ [Defendant or Employer] [_____ (address)] _____ [name], Insurance Carrier [_____ (address)]	)
[If applicant is someone other than injured employee, add following:] [_____ (name of employee), Employee _____ (address) Employee's Social Security No. _____]

_____

Petitioner hereby requests an order directing an [exhumation and] autopsy and, in support thereof, alleges:

1. Petitioner [is, and] was on _____ [date], the workers' compensation insurance carrier for _____ [name of employer], which was the employer of _____ [name of deceased worker], who died on _____ [date].

[EITHER, if no application for adjudication has been filed]

2. Petitioner is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that a claim will be made that the death of _____ [name of worker] was due to an injury arising out of and occurring in the course of his/her employment by _____ [name of employer]. Should such a claim be made it will not be possible to make a determination of liability in the absence of an autopsy showing the cause of death.

[OR, if application for adjudication has been filed]

2. The application for death benefits herein claims that the death of _____ [name of worker] was due to an injury arising out of and occurring in the course of his/her employment by _____ [name of employer]. An autopsy on the body of the decedent will be of material assistance in determining the cause of death.

[CONTINUE]

3. Petitioner will pay all reasonable and necessary expenses in connection with this autopsy, and nominates _____ [name], M.D., to perform the autopsy.

WHEREFORE, petitioner requests that an order issue:

1. Directing and authorizing the performance of an autopsy on the body of _____ [name of deceased employee] by _____ [name], M.D., or any other physician licensed to practice in the State of California;

2. Directing and authorizing that an autopsy surgeon take, for expert microscopic or pathological examination, all specimens that may be reasonably necessary for a determination of the decedent's cause of death;

[3. Directing and authorizing the exhumation of the decedent's body for these purposes;]

4. Directing petitioner to pay reasonable and necessary expenses in connection with the [exhumation,] autopsy[,] and microscopic or pathological examination; and

5. Granting all other and further relief that may be necessary and proper.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Petitioner _____ [name]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, illustrates a petition for use to secure an order directing that an autopsy be performed on the body of a deceased worker who allegedly died as the result of an injury sustained in the course of his or her employment. The form also includes optional language to require exhumation of the body, if necessary [see Lab. Code § 5707].

If an application is on file, the number of the case and the usual caption showing the title and cause should be specified [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10301(y), 10450; § 577.400]. If no application is on file, the possibility that death occurred as the result of an industrial injury should be set forth. The name of the pathologist or other qualified physician who is to do the autopsy should be specified so that he or she can be duly appointed. The WCAB will ordinarily issue an order for autopsy without a hearing. If the dependents, or a majority of them, having custody of the body refuse to allow the autopsy, however, it shall not be performed [Lab. Code § 5707; see discussion in § 577.156]. In such a case, at the hearing on any application for compensation, there is a disputable presumption that the injury or death was not due to causes entitling the claimants to workers' compensation benefits [Lab. Code § 5707].

For a discussion of service of papers and proof of service, see § 577.108.

[3] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 31, § 31.12 (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 17, § 17.112 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th ed. 2000)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
3. Discovery

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.414

§ 577.414 Motion to Quash Subpoena Duces Tecum [Code Civ. Proc. § 1987.1]

[1] FORM Motion to Quash Subpoena Duces Tecum [Code Civ. Proc. § 1987.1]

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
WORKERS' COMPENSATION APPEALS BOARD

_____,	)
Applicant	)	CASE NO.
vs.	)	_____
_____,	)	MOTION TO QUASH SUBPOENA
Defendants.	)	DUCES TECUM
	)
	)

TO DEFENDANTS AND EACH OF YOU:

Please take notice that Applicant moves to quash Defendant's _____ [name of defendant] Subpoena Duces Tecum directed to _____ [specify witness] seeking the production of "ANY AND ALL MEDICAL RECORDS ... "

1. The subpoena is over broad.

2. The subpoena is not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of relevant evidence.

3. Defendant's attempt to obtain "any and all" records on Applicant violates Applicant's legitimate rights to privacy.

4. The subpoena fails to comply with Code of Civ. Proc. § 1985(b) in that the affidavit affixed thereto is merely conclusory, stating that the matter sought is necessary and relevant. Defendants are required to state under penalty of perjury "in full detail the materiality of the material sought to the issues involved in this case" [Code of Civ. Proc. § 1985(b)].

5. The subpoena is so over inclusive and over broad it would generate production of material not relevant to the workers' compensation case and would invade Applicant's right to privacy.

6. A copy of the subpoena and affidavit are attached hereto and incorporated by reference herein.

WHEREFORE, Applicant respectfully requests that the enclosed Order Quashing/Limiting Subpoena Duces Tecum issue forthwith.
Dated: _____.

RESPECTFULLY SUBMITTED,

_____

[name of attorney]

[name of law firm]

[street address of law firm]

[city/state/zip code of law firm]

[telephone number of law firm]

State Bar No. _____

Attorney for Applicant

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above is for optional use by a party whose personal records are subpoenaed and who moves to quash or modify the subpoena, on the grounds that the subpoena requests the disclosure of privileged information or constitutes an invasion of privacy [see Code of Civ. Proc. § 1987.1]. A Motion to Quash Subpoena Duces Tecum is the only remedy to prevent a witness from producing original records sought by the subpoena duces tecum [see Code of Civ. Proc. § 1985.3(g); 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10530].

[3] Service of Motion

The Motion to Quash, along with a copy of the subpoena, and the form letter should be served on the requesting party at least five days before the date of production. The notice must specify the specific grounds on which production of the personal records should be prohibited. The motion must also be served on opposing counsel, the copy service directed to copy the subpoenaed records, and the medical provider from whom the records are being sought [Code of Civ. Proc. § 1985.3(g)].

For further discussion, see § 577.147. See also § 577.410.

[4] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, Ch. 25, § 25.43 (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, Ch. 17, § 17.48-17.51 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th ed. 2000)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
3. Discovery

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.415

§ 577.415 Order Limiting Subpoena Duces Tecum [Code Civ. Proc. § 1987.1, 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10530]

[1] FORM Order Limiting Subpoena Duces Tecum [Code Civ. Proc. § 1987.1, 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10530]

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
WORKERS' COMPENSATION APPEALS BOARD

_____,	)
Applicant	)	CASE NO.
vs.	)	_____
_____,	)	ORDER LIMITING
Defendants.	)	SUBPOENA DUCES TECUM
	)
	)

Pursuant to Applicant's Motion To Quash Subpoena Duces Tecum and good cause appearing therefore,

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED:

That Defendant's Subpoena Duces Tecum dated _____ [date] to _____ [specify witnesses] shall be limited to only the following records: medical records regarding the _____ [specify medical records]. Any other medical records are excluded from the subpoenas and shall not be produced.

Defendant is ordered to notify, in writing, each witness whose records were subpoenaed forthwith that only the records set forth above are to be produced, and that all other records are not to be produced. Defendant shall send copies of its written notice to Applicant's counsel.
Dated: _____.

_____

Workers' Compensation Judge

[2] Use of Form

When a subpoena has been served requiring the attendance of a witness or the production of books, documents, or other items before the Appeals Board, the Board on motion by a party, a witness, or a consumer as described in Code of Civil Procedure Section 1985.3, or on its own motion after notice and opportunity to be heard, may make an order quashing the subpoena entirely, modifying it, or directing compliance on certain terms or conditions, including protective orders. A prepared copy of the form in [1], above, may be filed along with the Motion to Quash Subpoena Duces Tecum.

For further discussion of subpoenas and motions to quash, see §§ 577.410, 577.411 and 577.414.

[3] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, Ch. 25, § 25.43 (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, Ch. 17, § 17.48-17.51 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th ed. 2000)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
3. Discovery

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.416

§ 577.416 Letter to Physician Regarding Motion to Quash Subpoena Duces Tecum [Code of Civ. Proc. § 1985.3]

[1] FORM Letter to Physician Regarding Motion to Quash Subpoena Duces Tecum [Code of Civ. Proc. § 1985.3]

[Date]

[Name and address]

Re: _____

Gentlepersons:

This office represents _____ [name of applicant] in [his or her] workers' compensation case. Recently you were served with an invalid and illegal Subpoena Duces Tecum by the defendants in that case. A copy of the subpoena is attached.

This office has filed a Motion to Quash that subpoena since it is without legal authority. You are being served with a copy of the Motion to Quash Subpoena Duces Tecum.

Please be advised that until a Court rules on this matter you should not release any records. If you do release any records prior to the time the Court issues an order, you may be liable for compensatory and punitive damages as well as attorneys fees and costs.

You should disregard the subpoena until the Judge rules.

Very truly yours,

_____

[name of attorney]

Attorney at Law

cc: _____

[2] Use of Form

The letter in [1], above may be sent to the medical provider advising the provider that no records should be produced or disseminated until the Appeals Board rules on a Motion to Quash the Subpoena Duces Tecum. The letter should not be sent to the Appeals Board; rather, the letter and a copy of the subpoena, and the Motion to Quash should be directed to the custodian of records or another person qualified to certify the records [Code of Civ. Proc. § 1985.3; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10222].

Failure to provide notice in the form of a letter to the witness or medical provider that a Motion to Quash is being sought does not invalidate the motion to quash or modify the subpoena, but it may be raised by the witness or medical provider as an affirmative defense in any action for liability for improper release of records [Code of Civ. Proc. § 1985.3(g)].

For further discussion of subpoenas and motions to quash, see §§ 577.410, 577.411 and 577.414.

[3] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, Ch. 25, § 25.43 (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, Ch. 17, § 17.48-17.51 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th ed. 2000)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
3. Discovery

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.417

§ 577.417 Letter to Copy Service Regarding Motion to Quash Subpoena Duces Tecum

[1] FORM Letter to Copy Service Regarding Motion to Quash Subpoena Duces Tecum

[Date]

[Name and address]

Re: _____

Gentlepersons:

You have issued a _____ subpoena at the request of _____ in the case of _____ [name of case]. The subpoena is legally invalid for multiple reasons.

Do not accept any records from _____ [name of witness] in this matter until the Judge has ruled on the Applicant's Motion to Quash Subpoena Duces Tecum. Only if the Judge allows the subpoena to go forward should you receive records, copy them and disseminate them.

If you have already received any records from _____ [name of witness] you must return them to _____ [name of witness] immediately. If any copies have been made of the records they must be destroyed immediately.

Please note that if you disseminate these records while the Motion to Quash is pending you may be liable for compensatory and punitive damages, costs, attorneys fees and fines for contempt of Court.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Very truly yours,

_____

[name of attorney]

Attorney at Law

[2] Use of Form

The letter in [1], above may be sent to the copy service advising the service that it has issued a subpoena at the request of the named party and that the subpoena is invalid. The copy service should also be notified that a Motion to Quash has been filed, that the service should not accept records from the "witness" or "medical provider," and that the records should be returned immediately if procured. The letter should not be sent to the Appeals Board; rather, the letter and a copy of the subpoena, and the Motion to Quash should be directed to the custodian of records or another person qualified to certify the records [Code of Civ. Proc. § 1985.3; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10222].

Failure to provide notice in the form of a letter to the copy service that a Motion to Quash is being sought does not invalidate the motion to quash or modify the subpoena, but it may be raised by the copy service as an affirmative defense in any action for liability for improper release of records [Code of Civ. Proc. § 1985.3(g)].

For further discussion of subpoenas and motions to quash, see §§ 577.410, 577.411 and 577.414.

[3] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, Ch. 25, § 25.43 (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, Ch. 17, § 17.48-17.51 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th ed. 2000)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
3. Discovery

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 577.418-577.419

[Reserved]

§§ 577.418[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
4. Permanent Disability Ratings

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.420

§ 577.420 Request for Informal Rating (by Insurance Carrier or Self-Insurer) [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10167] [DEU Form 201]

[1] FORM Request for Informal Rating (by Insurance Carrier or Self-Insurer) [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10167] [DEU Form 201]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of DEU Form 201 for use by an insurance carrier or a self-insured employer to request an informal rating from the Disability Evaluation Unit. The form should be used for all injuries occurring prior to January 1, 1991 [see Lab. Code § 4067.5]. All requests for ratings must be made in the manner prescribed and on forms provided by the Adminstrative Director. An informal rating will be issued only when no application for adjudication of a claim has been filed with the WCAB [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10167].

For discussion of informal permanent disability ratings, see § 577.45[4][c].

[3] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, Ch. 32, § 32.05[4] (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, Ch. 16, § 16.15 (Cal. C.E.B. 3d ed. 1985)

http://www.dir.ca.gov/DWC/forms.html

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
4. Permanent Disability Ratings

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.421

§ 577.421 Employee's Disability Questionnaire [DWC-AD Form 100 (DEU)]

[1] FORM Employee's Permanent Disability Questionnaire [DWC-AD Form 100 (DEU)]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form in [1], above, is a reproduction of DWC-AD Form 100 (DEU), Employee's Disability Questionnaire, which must be provided to an unrepresented injured worker by the insurance carrier or self-insurer before the worker's scheduled examination by the Qualified Medical Evaluator [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10160(b)]. The questionnaire may be reproduced by automated office equipment or other means as long as the printed content and layout of the form are identical to that in the foregoing form [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10161.1].

Effective November 17, 2008 [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10210-10297 (Rules of Court Administrator, including regulations relating to Electronic Adjudication Management System (EAMS))], DWC requires (with a handful of exceptions) that all documents designed and created by DWC to be read by electronic scanners be used in place of the previous, equivalent DWC forms. These new forms, called "optical character recognition forms" (OCR forms) [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10210(x) ("OCR form" defined)], may be downloaded and saved, then filled in and printed, as needed, with the printouts being filed with DWC and served on other parties and attorneys, as required by regulations. The form in [1], above, is one such form. Readers should check, periodically, DWC's website for further developments in the implementation of EAMS. DWC's website address is: http://www.dir.ca.gov/dwc/dwc_home_page.htm

For discussion of EAMS, see § 577.12A.

The injured worker will be instructed to complete the questionnaire and to provide it to the Qualified Medical Evaluator at the time of the examination [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10160(b)]. The medical evaluator must submit the following items:

- The questionnaire;

- A completed DWC-AD Form 101 (DEU), Request for Summary Rating Determination, which must be supplied to the medical evaluator by the insurance carrier, self-insurer, or injured worker [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10160(c); see § 577.422]; and

- The evaluator's formal medical evaluation, to the Disability Evaluation Unit.

Once the Unit has received all of these documents from the medical evaluator, it will prepare the summary rating determination [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10160(a)].

A request for a formal medical evaluation will not be considered received until all of these documents are received in the office of the Disability Evaluation Unit having jurisdiction over the injured employee's area of residence. Any requests received without all the required documents will be returned to the sender [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10160(e)]. On request, the Unit will provide a listing of its offices with their respective areas of jurisdiction [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10160(c)].

[3] Cross References

http://www.dir.ca.gov/DWC/forms.html

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
4. Permanent Disability Ratings

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.422

§ 577.422 Request for Summary Rating Determination of Qualified Medical Evaluator's Report [DWC-AD Form 101 (DEU)]

[1] FORM Request for Summary Rating Determination of Qualified or Agreed Medical Examiner's Report [DWC-AD Form 101 (DEU)]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of DWC-AD Form 101 (DEU), Request for Summary Rating Determination of Qualified Medical Evaluator's Report [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10161(b)]. The form may be reproduced by automated office equipment or other means as long as the printed content and layout of the form are identical to that in the official form [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10161.1]. The form is one of the documents that constitute an injured employee's properly prepared request for a summary rating [8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10160(a) (unrepresented workers), 10160.5(a) (represented workers)].

For injuries occurring on or after January 1, 1991, and before January 1, 1994, if the injured worker is represented by an attorney, an informal request for a summary rating is often requested because of the backlog of cases needing summary ratings. If, for some reason, an informal request has not been made, the person requesting the summary rating must complete DEU Form 101 and submit it, together will all medical reports and medical records concerning the case, to the Qualified or Agreed Medical Evaluator [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10160.5(a), (b)]. Once the medical evaluator has completed the evaluation, the completed medical evaluation report must be sent together with the completed DEU Form 101 to the office of the Disability Evaluation Unit designated on the form, with copies sent to the party or parties requesting the evaluation [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10160.5(b)]. Once the Unit has received these documents, it will prepare a summary rating determination [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10160.5(a)]. If a case is settled after a rating has been requested but before the rating is issued, the person who requested the rating must notify the Unit office that the case has been settled [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10160.5(d)].

Effective November 17, 2008 [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10210-10297 (Rules of Court Administrator, including regulations relating to Electronic Adjudication Management System (EAMS))], DWC requires (with a handful of exceptions) that all documents designed and created by DWC to be read by electronic scanners be used in place of the previous, equivalent DWC forms. These new forms, called "optical character recognition forms" (OCR forms) [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10210(x) ("OCR form" defined)], may be downloaded and saved, then filled in and printed, as needed, with the printouts being filed with DWC and served on other parties and attorneys, as required by regulations. The form in [1], above, is one such form. Readers should check, periodically, DWC's website for further developments in the implementation of EAMS. DWC's website address is: http://www.dir.ca.gov/dwc/dwc_home_page.htm

For discussion of EAMS, see § 577.12A.

For further discussion of summary rating determinations, see § 577.45[4][d].

[3] Unrepresented Employees

If the injured employee is not represented by an attorney, the request must be completed by the insurance carrier, self-insurer, or injured worker and sent, together with all medical reports and medical records relating to the case, to the Qualified Medical Evaluator before the employee's scheduled examination. A copy of the request must also be served on the opposing party [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10160(c)]. When a summary rating determination has been requested, the medical evaluator must submit the completed DWC-AD Form 101 (DEU), together with a completed DWC-AD Form 100 (DEU), Employee's Disability Questionnaire, which was submitted by the employee prior to the examination [see § 577.421], the evaluator's formal medical evaluation, and a document cover sheet and a separator sheet, pursuant to 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10232(b) (these sheets to be served on only the Disability Evaluation Unit), to the office of the Disability Evaluation Unit having jurisdiction over the employee's area of residence, with a copy to the parties [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10160(d)].

A list of the Unit's offices with their respective areas of jurisdiction is available from the Unit on request [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10160(c)]. Once the Unit has received all of these documents from the medical evaluator, it will prepare the summary rating determination [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10160(a)]. A request for a formal medical evaluation will not be considered received until all of these documents are received in the office of the Disability Evaluation Unit having jurisdiction over the injured employee's area of residence. Any requests received without all the required documents will be returned to the sender [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10160(e)].

[4] Cross References

http://www.dir.ca.gov/DWC/forms.html

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
4. Permanent Disability Ratings

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.423

§ 577.423 Request for Summary Rating Determination of Primary Treating Physician's Report [DWC-AD Form 102 (DEU)]

[1] FORM Request for Summary Rating Determination of Primary Treating Physician's Report [DWC-AD Form 102 (DEU)]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of DWC-AD Form 102 (DEU), Request for Summary Rating Determination of Primary Treating Physician's Report [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10161(c)]. The form is used to obtain a summary rating determination from a Disability Evaluation Unit based on the primary treating physician's report [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10160.1; see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 9785]. The form may only be used if the injury occurred on or after January 1, 1994, and the injured worker is unrepresented [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10160.1]. The form may be reproduced by automated office equipment or other means as long as the printed content and layout of the form are identical to that in the official form [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10161.1].

Effective November 17, 2008 [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10210-10297 (Rules of Court Administrator, including regulations relating to Electronic Adjudication Management System (EAMS))], DWC requires (with a handful of exceptions) that all documents designed and created by DWC to be read by electronic scanners be used in place of the previous, equivalent DWC forms. These new forms, called "optical character recognition forms" (OCR forms) [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10210(x) ("OCR form" defined)], may be downloaded and saved, then filled in and printed, as needed, with the printouts being filed with DWC and served on other parties and attorneys, as required by regulations. The form in [1], above, is one such form. Readers should check, periodically, DWC's website for further developments in the implementation of EAMS. DWC's website address is: http://www.dir.ca.gov/dwc/dwc_home_page.htm

For discussion of EAMS, see § 577.12A.

To request a summary rating determination based on the report of the primary treating physician, the carrier, self-insured employer, or employee must file this form along with a copy of the primary treating physician's report, if the report has not already been filed in EAMS, with the Disability Evaluation Unit 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10160.1(b)]. A copy of the request and the report must also be served on the non-requesting party, along with proof of service [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10160.1(c)].

For a discussion of summary rating determinations, see § 577.45[4][d].

[3] Cross References

http://www.dir.ca.gov/DWC/forms.html

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, Ch. 32, § 32.05[3] (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, Ch. 5, § 5.60 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th ed. 2000)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
4. Permanent Disability Ratings

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.424

§ 577.424 Request for Consultative Rating [DWC-AD Form 104 (DEU)]

[1] FORM Request for Consultative Rating [DWC-AD Form 104 (DEU)]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of DWC-AD Form 104 (DEU), Request for Consultative Rating [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10166]. The form may be used by the WCAB, WCJs, WCJs Pro-Tempore, Settlement Conference Referees, Arbitrators, and Information and Assistance Officers to request a consultative rating for a represented injured worker [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10166(a), (b)]. The form may also be submitted to the DEU by employers, injured workers or their respective representatives to make reasonable requests for consultative rating determinations [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10166(c)].

Effective November 17, 2008 [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10210-10297 (Rules of Court Administrator, including regulations relating to Electronic Adjudication Management System (EAMS))], DWC requires (with a handful of exceptions) that all documents designed and created by DWC to be read by electronic scanners be used in place of the previous, equivalent DWC forms. These new forms, called "optical character recognition forms" (OCR forms) [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10210(x) ("OCR form" defined)], may be downloaded and saved, then filled in and printed, as needed, with the printouts being filed with DWC and served on other parties and attorneys, as required by regulations. The form in [1], above, is one such form. Readers should check, periodically, DWC's website for further developments in the implementation of EAMS. DWC's website address is: http://www.dir.ca.gov/dwc/dwc_home_page.htm

For discussion of EAMS, see § 577.12A.

For a discussion of consultative rating determinations, see § 577.45[4][e].

[3] Purpose of Requesting Consultative Rating Determination

Consultative rating determinations may be requested to determine the ratable significance of factors, review proposed compromise and release agreements for adequacy, determine commuted values, resolve occupational questions or any other matter within the expertise of disability evaluators [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10166(b)].

[4] If Application for Adjudication Has Been Filed

No consultative rating determination will be provided for a case in which an application for adjudication of claim has been filed without prior written authorization of the Appeals Board, a WCJ, a WCJ pro tempore, a settlement conference referee, an arbitrator, or an information and assistance officer. If an application has been filed, the disability evaluator may require that any request for consultative rating determination be accompanied by the Appeals Board file [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10166(e)].

[5] Cross References

http://www.dir.ca.gov/DWC/forms.html

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, Ch. 32, § 32.05[5] (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, Ch. 5, § 5.62 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th ed. 2000)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
4. Permanent Disability Ratings

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 577.425-577.429

[Reserved]

§§ 577.425[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
5. Joinder and Dismissal of Parties

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.430

§ 577.430 Petition to Join Omitted Employers in Occupational Disease or Cumulative Injury Case [Lab. Code § 5500.5(b); 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10380]

[1] FORM Petition to Join Omitted Employers in Occupational Disease or Cumulative Injury Case [Lab. Code § 5500.5(b); 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10380]

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
DEPARTMENT OF INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS
DIVISION OF WORKERS' COMPENSATION
WORKERS' COMPENSATION APPEALS BOARD

_____ [name of employee or other applicant], _____ [Applicant or Employee] [_____ (address)] [Employee's Social Security No. _____] vs. _____ [name of employer] _____ [Defendant or Employer] [_____ (address)] _____ [name], Insurance Carrier [_____ (address)] [If applicant is someone other than injured employee, add following:] [_____ (name of employee), Employee _____ (address) Employee's Social Security No. _____]	CASE NO. _____ _____ [Title of document, e.g., PETITION FOR _____ (specify)]

_____

Petitioner _____ [name], _____ [status, e.g., a defendant herein], applies for an order joining other employers as parties defendant and in support of this request avers:

1. The application of _____ [name] states that between _____ and _____ [dates], he/she developed _____ [specify occupational disease or cumulative injury], which arose out of and occurred during the course of his/her employment during that period.

2. Applicant was in the employ of petitioner from _____ to _____ [dates], and at no other time.

3. Other employers who employed the applicant during the alleged period of exposure to the hazards causing the applicant's _____ [occupational disease or cumulative injury] are as follows: _____ [specify name of each of the other employers and dates or approximate dates of employment by each]. All or part of applicant's alleged _____ [occupational disease or cumulative injury], if shown to have been industrially caused, arose out of and occurred in the course of applicant's employment by the foregoing named employers.

WHEREFORE, petitioner requests that an order issue directing that _____ [names of other employers] [and all other employers of applicant during the period _____ to _____ (dates),] be joined as defendants in this proceeding.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Petitioner _____ [name]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, illustrates a petition for use by a party to request the joinder of other persons or entities as parties defendant in a case arising out of an occupational disease or cumulative injury [see Lab. Code § 5500.5(b); see also discussion under § 577.144]. For a discussion of service of papers and proof of service, see § 577.108 . See also Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

[3] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 26, § 26.01[2][c] (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 7, § 7.60 (Cal. C.E.B. 3d ed. 1985)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Worker's Compensation, § 352 (10th ed. 2005)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
5. Joinder and Dismissal of Parties

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.431

§ 577.431 Petition to Dismiss Improperly Joined Insurance Carrier [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10570]

[1] FORM Petition to Dismiss Improperly Joined Insurance Carrier [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10570]

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
DEPARTMENT OF INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS
DIVISION OF WORKERS' COMPENSATION
WORKERS' COMPENSATION APPEALS BOARD

_____ [name of employee or other applicant], _____ [Applicant or Employee] [_____ (address)] [Employee's Social Security No. _____]	CASE NO. _____
vs.	_____ [Title of document, e.g., PETITION FOR _____ (specify)]
_____ [name of employer] _____ [Defendant or Employer] [_____ (address)] _____ [name], Insurance Carrier [_____ (address)] [If applicant is someone other than injured employee, add following:] [_____ (name of employee), Employee _____ (address) Employee's Social Security No. _____]

Petitioner _____ [name], a defendant herein, hereby requests its dismissal from this proceeding and in support of its request avers:

1. The application of _____ [name] states that applicant received an injury arising out of and in the course of his/her employment with defendant _____ [name of employer] on _____ [date of injury], and that petitioner _____ [name of insurance carrier] was the employer's insurance carrier on that date.

2. Petitioner _____ [name] was not the insurance carrier of _____ [name of employer] at the time of injury, and _____ [has never been, and is not now, the insurance carrier for that employer or ceased to insure that employer for workers' compensation liability on _____ (date before injury) or did not begin to insure that employer for workers' compensation liability until _____ (date after injury)].

[3. On the date of applicant's injury, the employer's compensation insurance carrier was _____ (name).]

WHEREFORE, petitioner requests that it be dismissed as a party to this proceeding and that it be granted all other and further relief that is necessary and proper.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Petitioner _____ [name]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, illustrates a petition for use by an insurance carrier that has been improperly joined as a defendant in a workers' compensation proceeding to obtain its dismissal from the case. Dismissal of improper or unnecessary parties may be made by interlocutory order [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10570].

For further discussion on dismissal of parties, see § 577.144. See also § 577.430.

[3] Cross References

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 7, § 7.59 (Cal. C.E.B. 3d ed. 1985)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
5. Joinder and Dismissal of Parties

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 577.432-577.439

[Reserved]

§§ 577.432[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
6. Attorneys

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.440

§ 577.440 Substitution of Attorneys [Code Civ. Proc. § 284; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10774] [DIA WCAB Form 36]

[1] FORM Substitution of Attorneys [Code Civ. Proc. § 284; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10774] [DIA WCAB Form 36]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of DIA WCAB Form 36 for use by a party to substitute attorneys. Copies may be obtained at any WCAB office [see Code Civ. Proc. § 284; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10774].

Substitution or dismissal of attorneys must be made in the manner provided by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 284, 285, and 286 [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10774]. Code Civ. Proc. § 284 authorizes substitution

- On the consent of both the attorney and client filed in the case or entered in the minutes; or
- By order on application of either attorney or client.

Code Civ. Proc. § 285 requires notice of the substitution be given to the adverse parties.

Code Civ. Proc. § 286 covers the situation in which an attorney dies, is removed or suspended, or ceases to act as such. For further discussion of these statutes, see Ch. 72, Attorney Practice and Ethics .

[3] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 20, § 20.03

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 5, §§ 5.47-5.49 (Cal. C.E.B. 3d ed. 1985)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
6. Attorneys

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.441

§ 577.441 Notice of Dismissal of Attorney [Code Civ. Proc. § 285; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10774] [DIA WCAB Form 37]

[1] FORM Notice of Dismissal of Attorney [Code Civ. Proc. § 285; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10774] [DIA WCAB Form 37]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of DIA WCAB Form 37 for use by a party to give adverse parties notice that the party has dismissed his or her attorney and in effect substituted himself or herself in propria persona [see Code Civ. Proc. § 285; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10774]. Copies may be obtained at any WCAB office. For further discussion, see § 577.440.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
6. Attorneys

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 577.442-577.449

[Reserved]

§§ 577.442[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
7. Dismissing Claims

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.450

§ 577.450 Notice of Dismissal of Inactive Claim by Operation of Law When Claim Has Been Denied (Injuries Occurring Before January 1, 1994) [Lab. Code § 5404.5(a); 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10141(a)]

[1] FORM Notice of Dismissal of Inactive Claim by Operation of Law When Claim Has Been Denied (Injuries Occurring Before January 1, 1994) [Lab. Code § 5404.5(a); 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10141(a)]

NOTICE REGARDING WORKERS'
COMPENSATION CLAIM

Date(s) of Injury: _____ [date(s)]
Name of Employee: _____ [name]
Name of Employer: _____ [name]
Claims Administrator: _____ [name, address, telephone number]
Claim Number, if any: _____ [number or N/A]

You applied for workers' compensation benefits. A copy of your claim form is attached. We have not heard from you since we sent you a letter denying your claim on [date]. Your case has been inactive for at least 180 days. If you are still claiming benefits, you must file an Application for Adjudication of Claim with the Workers' Compensation Appeals Board within 180 days of the date this notice is served on you. The date of service is listed at the bottom of this form. IF YOU DO NOT FILE THE APPLICATION BY THE DEADLINE, THE CLAIM WILL AUTOMATICALLY BE DISMISSED "BY OPERATION OF LAW." This means you will not be able to claim benefits for the injury or illness listed on the claim form unless you file the Application for Adjudication of Claim by the deadline. Please call me at [telephone number] if you want more information or help figuring out the deadline for filing an Application.

You can get the Application form, help figuring out the deadline for filing an Application, and information about your claim by calling the State of California Division of Workers' Compensation Information and Assistance Office. [telephone number of office closest to injured worker's residence]. You may hear recorded information by calling 1-800-736-7401. You may also consult an attorney.

_____ [signature]

_____ [typed name of Claims Administrator Representative]

Date Notice Is Served: _____

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use by the employer's claims administrator seeking to dismiss an injured employee's claim for benefits by operation of law for an injury that occurred before January 1, 1994, when the claim has been denied and there has been no activity for at least 180 days [Lab. Code § 5404.5(a); 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10141(a)].

The text of the form is specifically prescribed by regulation [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10141(a)(1), (c)], and the blanks must be completed by the claims administrator to specify the information described in brackets [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10141(a)(2)]. A copy of the employee's claim for must be attached to the claim form prior to service [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10141(c)].

For further discussion of dismissal of inactive claims, see § 577.43[6].

[3] Service of Form

The form must be served on the employee in the manner prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure for service of summons [Lab. Code § 5404.5(a); 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10141(d); see Code Civ. Proc. § 415.10 et seq. (rules of service)]. If the employee is represented by an attorney, the claims administrator must also serve a copy of the notice on the attorney by personal delivery or first class mail. When no Application for Adjudication of Claim has been filed, but the WCAB has assigned a case number to the matter because of a pre-Application filing, the claims administrator must also serve a copy of the notice on the Appeals Board with proof of service made according to Rule 10975 of the Workers' Compensation Appeals Board's Rules of Practice and Procedure [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10141(d); see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10975].

The date of service must be inserted by the claims administrator or process server to accurately reflect the date service is effected in accordance with the Code of Civil Procedure [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10141(a)(2)].

[4] Determining When Claim Is Not Inactive

For purposes of this form, a claim is not inactive, and therefore not subject to dismissal by operation of law if, during the 180 days before the notice is served [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10141(e)],

- The employee has demanded payment or provision of any type of benefits;
- The claims administrator knows that there are benefits due and unpaid;
- Treatment has been rendered for the industrial injury;
- There has been a medical-legal evaluation of the employee;
- There has been a deposition with regard to the claim; or

- The claims administrator has other knowledge that the employee is actively pursuing the claim.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
7. Dismissing Claims

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.451

§ 577.451 Notice of Dismissal of Inactive Claim by Operation of Law When Benefits Have Been Furnished (Injuries Occurring Before January 1, 1994) [Lab. Code § 5404.5(b); 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10141(b)]

[1] FORM Notice of Dismissal of Inactive Claim by Operation of Law When Benefits Have Been Furnished (Injuries Occurring Before January 1, 1994) [Lab. Code § 5404.5(b); 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10141(b)]

NOTICE REGARDING WORKERS'
COMPENSATION CLAIM

Date(s) of Injury: _____ [date(s)]

Name of Employee: _____ [name]

Name of Employer: _____ [name]

Claims Administrator: _____ [name, address, telephone number]

Claim Number, if any: _____ [number or N/A]

You applied for workers' compensation benefits. A copy of your claim form is attached. Your case has been inactive for at least 180 days.

Your right to workers' compensation benefits will end on [insert date--either five years from the date of injury or one year from the last furnishing of benefits, whichever is later], unless you file an Application for Adjudication of Claim by that date. That date is [insert either five years from the date of you injury or one year from the date of the last benefit provided to you].

IF YOU DO NOT FILE THE APPLICATION BY THE DEADLINE, THE CLAIM WILL AUTOMATICALLY BE DISMISSED "BY OPERATION OF LAW." This means you will not be able to claim benefits for the injury or illness listed on the claim form unless you file the Application for Adjudication of Claim by the deadline. Please call me at [telephone number] if you want more information.

You can get the Application form and information about your claim by calling the State of California Division of Workers' Compensation Information and Assistance Office. [telephone number of office closest to injured worker's residence]. You may hear recorded information by calling 1-800-736-7401. You may also consult an attorney.

_____ [signature]

_____ [typed name of Claims Administrator Representative]

Date Notice Is Served: _____

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use by the employer's claims administrator seeking to dismiss an injured employee's claim for benefits by operation of law when a claim form has been filed for an injury that occurred before January 1, 1994, benefits have been furnished, and there has been no activity for at least 180 days [Lab. Code § 5404.5(b); 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10141(b)].

The text of the form is specifically prescribed by regulation [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10141(b)(1)(c)], and the blanks must be completed by the claims administrator to specify the information described in brackets [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10141(b)(3)]. A copy of the employee's claim for must be attached to the claim form prior to service [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10141(c)].

The date of last furnishing of benefits is the later of the following [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10120(b)(2)]:

- The latest date the employee received medical or rehabilitation services; or

- The latest date that payment of any compensation benefit was mailed or personally delivered to the employee or service provider.

For further discussion of dismissal of inactive claims, see § 577.43[6].

[3] Service of Form

The form must be served on the employee in the manner prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure for service of summons [Lab. Code § 5404.5(b); 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10141(d); see Code Civ. Proc. § 415.10 et seq. (rules of service)]. If the employee is represented by an attorney, the claims administrator must also serve a copy of the notice on the attorney by personal delivery or first class mail. When no Application for Adjudication of Claim has been filed, but the WCAB has assigned a case number to the matter because of a pre-Application filing, the claims administrator must also serve a copy of the notice on the Appeals Board with proof of service made according to Rule 10975 of the Workers' Compensation Appeals Board's Rules of Practice and Procedure [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10141(d); see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10975].

The date of service should be inserted by the claims administrator or process server to accurately reflect the date service is effected in accordance with the Code of Civil Procedure.

[4] Determining When Claim Is Not Inactive

For purposes of this form, a claim is not inactive, and therefore not subject to dismissal by operation of law if, during the 180 days before the notice is served [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10141(e)],

- The employee has demanded payment or provision of any type of benefits;
- The claims administrator knows that there are benefits due and unpaid;
- Treatment has been rendered for the industrial injury;
- There has been a medical-legal evaluation of the employee;
- There has been a deposition with regard to the claim; or
- The claims administrator has other knowledge that the employee is actively pursuing the claim.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
7. Dismissing Claims

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.452

§ 577.452 Request for Dismissal by Employee [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10780] [DWC WCAB Form 43]

[1] FORM Request for Dismissal by Employee [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10780] [DWC WCAB Form 43]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of DWC WCAB Form 43 for use by an employee to request dismissal of the proceeding without prejudice. Except as provided in 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10562 (failure to appear), 10582 (inactive cases), and unless good cause to the contrary appears, orders of dismissal of claim forms for injuries occurring on or after January 1, 1990, and before January 1, 1994, and orders of dismissal of applications for adjudication for injuries occurring before January 1, 1990, or on or after January 1, 1994, must be issued forthwith when requested by the employee [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10780].

For a discussion of dismissals, generally, see § 577.155.

[3] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 23, § 23.11[4][b] (Matthew Bender)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
7. Dismissing Claims

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.453

§ 577.453 Petition for Dismissal by Defendant [Lab. Code § 5507; 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10445, 10562, 10582]

[1] FORM Petition for Dismissal by Defendant [Lab. Code § 5507; 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10445, 10562, 10582]

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
DEPARTMENT OF INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS
DIVISION OF WORKERS' COMPENSATION
WORKERS' COMPENSATION APPEALS BOARD

_____ [name of employee or other applicant], _____ [Applicant or Employee] [_____ (address)] [Employee's Social Security No. _____] vs. _____ [name of employer] _____ [Defendant or Employer] [_____ (address)] _____ [name], Insurance Carrier [_____ (address)] [If applicant is someone other than injured employee, add following:] [_____ (name of employee), Employee _____ (address) Employee's Social Security No. _____]	CASE NO. _____ _____ [Title of document, e.g., PETITION FOR _____ (specify)]

Defendant _____ [name] hereby requests that the application for adjudication herein be dismissed without prejudice for the following reasons(s):

[Specify all appropriate grounds for dismissal, such as the following]

1. The application shows on its face that the applicant is not entitled to compensation in that _____ [specify how fact is shown].

2. The application was filed on _____ [date], and was not activated for hearing within one year thereafter.

3. It appears of record that the applicant was served with the notice of hearing on _____ [date], but failed to appear at the hearing, either in person or by attorney or agent.

4. The applicant has claimed that his/her injury was the result of the willful and serious misconduct of the employer but failed to state the basis of the claim in his/her application.

[CONTINUE]

Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Defendant _____ [name]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use by a defendant to petition for an order dismissing the application [see discussion in §§ 577.83, 577.143[2], 577.155 and 577.396]. For a discussion of service of papers and proof of service, see § 577.108 .

[3] Notice of Intention

All orders of dismissal, except those requested by an applicant, will issue only after service of a notice of intention allowing at least 15 days for the applicant to show good cause to the contrary [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10780].

[4] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 25, § 25.26 (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 6, § 6.44; ch. 7, § 7.58 (Cal. C.E.B. 3d ed. 1985)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
7. Dismissing Claims

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 577.454-577.459

[Reserved]

§§ 577.454[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
8. Settling Claims

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.460

§ 577.460 Compromise and Release [DWC-CA Form 10214(c)]

[1] FORM Compromise and Release [DWC-CA Form 10214(c)]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of DWC-CA Form 10214(c) for use in compromising an employee's claim for workers' disability benefits and releasing the employer and its insurer from further liability [see Lab. Code §§ 5000, 5003; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10874].

Paragraph 2 of the form is the release clause, providing that the employee releases the employer and the employer's insurer of all liability for the specified industrial injury. It specifically includes release of liability to the employee's "dependents, heirs, executors, representatives, administrators or assigns." Paragraph 2 concludes with the following limitation: "Execution of this form has no effect on claims that are not within the scope of the workers' compensation law or claims that are not subject to the exclusivity provisions of the workers' compensation law, unless otherwise expressly stated."

Paragraph 4 provides that, unless otherwise expressly stated, the agreement releases all claims of the employee's dependents to death benefits relating to the injury covered by the agreement. It adds that the parties have considered the release of these benefits in arriving at the sum of money set forth in the agreement, and it concludes that any addendum duplicating the language of this paragraph is no longer necessary and is not to be attached.

Paragraph 5 states that, unless otherwise expressly ordered by the Appeals Board or a WCJ, approval of the agreement does not release any claim the employee may have for vocational rehabilitation benefits or supplemental job displacement benefits.

Any accrued claims for Lab. Code § 5814 penalties are included in this settlement unless expressly excluded.

Effective November 17, 2008 [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10210-10297 (Rules of Court Administrator, including regulations relating to Electronic Adjudication Management System (EAMS))], DWC requires (with a handful of exceptions) that all documents designed and created by DWC to be read by electronic scanners be used in place of the previous, equivalent DWC forms. These new forms, called "optical character recognition forms" (OCR forms) [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10210(x) ("OCR form" defined)], may be downloaded and saved, then filled in and printed, as needed, with the printouts being filed with DWC and served on other parties and attorneys, as required by regulations. The form in [1], above, is one such form. Readers should check, periodically, DWC's website for further developments in the implementation of EAMS. DWC's website address is: http://www.dir.ca.gov/dwc/dwc_home_page.htm

For discussion of EAMS, see § 577.12A.

For forms for use in death cases and third-party cases, see §§ 577.461, 577.462, respectively.

For a general discussion of compromise and release agreements, see § 577.130 et seq.

[3] Execution and Attestation or Acknowledgment

Every release or compromise agreement must be duly executed, and the signature of the employee or other beneficiary must be attested by two disinterested witnesses or acknowledged before a notary public [Lab. Code § 5003].

[4] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 29, § 29.03[1]

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 13, § 13.20 (Cal. C.E.B. 3d ed. 1985)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
8. Settling Claims

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.461

§ 577.461 Compromise and Release--Dependency Claim [DWC-CA Form 10214(d)]

[1] FORM Compromise and Release--Dependency Claim [DWC-CA Form 10214(d)]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of DWC-CA Form 10214(d) for use by the dependents of a deceased employee to compromise their claim for workers' death benefits and to release the employer and its insurer from further liability [see Lab. Code §§ 5000, 5003, 5004; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10874]. For discussion of persons who are dependents, see § 577.14[2]. For a general discussion of compromise and release agreements, see § 577.130 et seq. See also, § 577.460.

Effective November 17, 2008 [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10210-10297 (Rules of Court Administrator, including regulations relating to Electronic Adjudication Management System (EAMS))], DWC requires (with a handful of exceptions) that all documents designed and created by DWC to be read by electronic scanners be used in place of the previous, equivalent DWC forms. These new forms, called "optical character recognition forms" (OCR forms) [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10210(x) ("OCR form" defined)], may be downloaded and saved, then filled in and printed, as needed, with the printouts being filed with DWC and served on other parties and attorneys, as required by regulations. The form in [1], above, is one such form. Readers should check, periodically, DWC's website for further developments in the implementation of EAMS. DWC's website address is: http://www.dir.ca.gov/dwc/dwc_home_page.htm

For discussion of EAMS, see § 577.12A.

[3] Service of Compromise and Release

When a compromise and release is filed in a death case in which there is a bona fide issue as to partial or total dependency, the filing party must serve copies of the document on the Department of Industrial Relations, Death

Without Dependents Unit [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10501].

[4] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 29, § 29.03[4]

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 13, § 13.40 (Cal. C.E.B. 3d ed. 1985)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
8. Settling Claims

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.462

§ 577.462 Compromise and Release--Third Party [DWC-CA Form 10214(e)]

[1] FORM Compromise and Release--Third Party [DWC-CA Form 10214(e)]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of DWC-CA Form 10214(e) for use as a compromise and release agreement between the employee and the employer after settlement of a claim against a third party for injury to the employee [see Lab. Code §§ 3860(f), 3861, 5000, 5003; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10874]. Paragraph 4 of the Instructions of the form requires that a copy of the settlement agreement with the third-party tortfeasor, if in writing, be attached. For a discussion of third-party liability and limitations on the rights of the employee and employer to settle their claims against the third party, see § 577.335[3][a]. For a general discussion of compromise and release agreements, see § 577.130 et seq. See also §§ 577.460, 577.461.

Effective November 17, 2008 [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10210-10297 (Rules of Court Administrator, including regulations relating to Electronic Adjudication Management System (EAMS))], DWC requires (with a handful of exceptions) that all documents designed and created by DWC to be read by electronic scanners be used in place of the previous, equivalent DWC forms. These new forms, called "optical character recognition forms" (OCR forms) [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10210(x) ("OCR form" defined)], may be downloaded and saved, then filled in and printed, as needed, with the printouts being filed with DWC and served on other parties and attorneys, as required by regulations. The form in [1], above, is one such form. Readers should check, periodically, DWC's website for further developments in the implementation of EAMS. DWC's website address is: http://www.dir.ca.gov/dwc/dwc_home_page.htm

For discussion of EAMS, see § 577.12A.

[3] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 29, § 29.07

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 13, § 13.41 (Cal. C.E.B. 3d ed. 1985)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
8. Settling Claims

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.463

§ 577.463 Information Guidelines for Submission of Settlement Documents

[1] FORM Information Guidelines for Submission of Settlement Documents

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, may be used as a reference or settlement checklist by parties to aid in the settlement of workers' compensation claims by way of compromise and release agreements [see §§ 577.460 -577.462] or stipulations with request for award [see §§ 577.470, 577.471]. WCJs may choose to refer to this form to identify inadequacies in proposed settlement documents or when requesting additional information from settling parties.

The informational sheet was developed to help claims personnel and others involved in the settlement of workers' compensation claims avoid problems that frequently arise when drafting settlement documents for submission to the WCAB. The form attempts to cover common problems that frequently exist in proposed settlement agreements, causing delays in approval by the WCAB. In addition, the form attempts to set forth the most important settlement requirements in a single document that can be quickly consulted.

Use of this form is completely voluntary. It is intended solely as a reference and need not be completed by the parties, filed, or served.

For further discussion regarding the settlement of workers' compensation claims by way of stipulations with request for award or compromise and release agreements, see §§ 577.120 et seq., 577.130 et seq.

[3] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 23, § 23.11[2]; ch. 26, § 26.06[2]; ch.

29 (Matthew Bender)

http://www.dir.ca.gov/DWC/forms.html

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
8. Settling Claims

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.464

§ 577.464 Settlement of Prospective Vocational Rehabilitation Services [RU 122 (Voc. Rehab.) § 10133.22]

[1] FORM Settlement of Prospective Vocational Rehabilitation Services [RU 122 (Voc. Rehab.) § 10133.22]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

In 2003 the legislature abolished the workers' compensation vocational rehabilitation program, repealing Lab. Code §§ 139.5, 4635-4647, and 5405.5 [see Stats. 2003, ch. 635, §§ 14, 14.3, 16]. In its place, the legislature created a "supplemental job displacement benefit" for specified workers who are permanently partially disabled, to be used for retraining. The new system applies only to injuries occurring on or after January 1, 2004 [see § 577.45[2A]]. Consequently, the form in this section may be used only for pre-2004 injuries.

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of RU 122 (Voc. Rehab.) § 10133.22 for use as an agreement between the employee and the employer to settle prospective vocational rehabilitation services for injuries on or after January 1, 2003 [see Lab. Code §§ 4644(a)(8), 4646(b), (c); 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10131.2, 10133.22]. Copies of the form may be obtained from the Department of Industrial Relations website: www.dir.ca.gov/DWC/forms. As explained in the instructions on page 5 of the form, the form is to be submitted to the applicable Rehabilitation Unit district office. For a discussion of settlement of vocational rehabilitation services, see § 577.131[2]. For a general discussion of compromise and release agreements, see § 577.130 et seq. See also §§ 577.460, 577.461, 577.462.

Effective November 17, 2008 [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10210-10297 (Rules of Court Administrator, including regulations relating to Electronic Adjudication Management System (EAMS))], DWC requires (with a handful of exceptions) that all documents designed and created by DWC to be read by electronic scanners be used in place of the previous, equivalent DWC forms. These new forms, called "optical character recognition forms" (OCR forms) [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10210(x) ("OCR form" defined)], may be downloaded and saved, then filled in and printed, as needed, with the printouts being filed with DWC and served on other parties and attorneys, as required by regulations. The form in [1], above, is one such form. Readers should check, periodically, DWC's website for further developments in the implementation of EAMS. DWC's website address is: http://www.dir.ca.gov/dwc/dwc_home_page.htm

For discussion of EAMS, see § 577.12A.

[3] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 35, § 35.54 (LexisNexis)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
8. Settling Claims

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 577.465-577.469

[Reserved]

§§ 577.465[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
9. Stipulations and Requests for Award

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.470

§ 577.470 Stipulations With Request for Award [DWC-CA Form 10214(a)]

[1] FORM Stipulations With Request for Award [DWC-CA Form 10214(a)]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of DWC-CA Form 10214(a) for use by the parties in a disability case to stipulate to the facts and to request issuance of an award [see Lab. Code § 5702; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10496]. For further discussion of stipulations with request for award, see § 577.121.

Effective November 17, 2008 [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10210-10297 (Rules of Court Administrator, including regulations relating to Electronic Adjudication Management System (EAMS))], DWC requires (with a handful of exceptions) that all documents designed and created by DWC to be read by electronic scanners be used in place of the previous, equivalent DWC forms. These new forms, called "optical character recognition forms" (OCR forms) [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10210(x) ("OCR form" defined)], may be downloaded and saved, then filled in and printed, as needed, with the printouts being filed with DWC and served on other parties and attorneys, as required by regulations. The form in [1], above, is one such form. Readers should check, periodically, DWC's website for further developments in the implementation of EAMS. DWC's website address is: http://www.dir.ca.gov/dwc/dwc_home_page.htm

For discussion of EAMS, see § 577.12A.

In death cases, a different form is used for making the stipulation, [see Lab. Code § 5702; 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10496, 10501; see also § 577.471].

[3] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 23, § 23.11[2]; ch. 26, § 26.06[2] (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 5, § 5.43 (Cal. C.E.B. 3d ed. 1985)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Worker's Compensation, §§ 390-391 (10th ed. 2005)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
9. Stipulations and Requests for Award

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.471

§ 577.471 Stipulations With Request for Award [DWC-CA Form 10214(b)]

[1] FORM Stipulations With Request for Award [DWC-CA Form 10214(b)]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of DWC-CA Form 10214(b) for use by the parties in death cases to stipulate to the facts of the employee's death, the status of the employee's dependents, and request the issuance of a Findings and Award consistent with the stipulations [see Lab. Code § 5702; 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10496, 10501].

Effective November 17, 2008 [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10210-10297 (Rules of Court Administrator, including regulations relating to Electronic Adjudication Management System (EAMS))], DWC requires (with a handful of exceptions) that all documents designed and created by DWC to be read by electronic scanners be used in place of the previous, equivalent DWC forms. These new forms, called "optical character recognition forms" (OCR forms) [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10210(x) ("OCR form" defined)], may be downloaded and saved, then filled in and printed, as needed, with the printouts being filed with DWC and served on other parties and attorneys, as required by regulations. The form in [1], above, is one such form. Readers should check, periodically, DWC's website for further developments in the implementation of EAMS. DWC's website address is: http://www.dir.ca.gov/dwc/dwc_home_page.htm

For discussion of EAMS, see § 577.12A.

For further discussion of stipulations with request for award, see § 577.121. See also §§ 577.390 -577.392.

[3] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 23, § 23.11[2]; ch. 26, § 26.06[2]

(Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 5, §§ 5.43 (Cal. C.E.B. 3d ed. 1985)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Workers' Compensation, §§ 390-391 (10th ed. 2005)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
9. Stipulations and Requests for Award

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.472

§ 577.472 Stipulation and Award and/or Order

[1] FORM Stipulation and Award and/or Order

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form, DWC WCAB Form 5, is sometimes used when the parties stipulate to some matter at issue at the hearing, or when the parties' attorneys are willing to "submit" an issue when they cannot get authority from their clients to agree to it, but are willing to have the issue decided without a hearing. The form contains a waiver of Lab. Code § 5313, which requires that the Appeals Board and the WCJs set forth in writing the evidence relied on and the reasons or grounds upon which any decision is made. By waiving this statute, and thus waiving the creation of a record, the parties are effectively waiving the right to reconsideration of the issue.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
9. Stipulations and Requests for Award

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 577.473-577.479

[Reserved]

§§ 577.473[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
10. Lien Claims

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.480

§ 577.480 Notice and Request for Allowance of Lien [DWC/WCAB Form 6]

[1] FORM Notice and Request for Allowance of Lien [DWC/WCAB Form 6]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of DWC WCAB Form 6 for use by a lien claimant to request a lien against any compensation recovered by an injured worker or his or her dependents [see Lab. Code § 4904; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10770]. For discussion of liens, see § 577.260.

Effective November 17, 2008 [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10210-10297 (Rules of Court Administrator, including regulations relating to Electronic Adjudication Management System (EAMS))], DWC requires (with a handful of exceptions) that all documents designed and created by DWC to be read by electronic scanners be used in place of the previous, equivalent DWC forms. These new forms, called "optical character recognition forms" (OCR forms) [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10210(x) ("OCR form" defined)], may be downloaded and saved, then filled in and printed, as needed, with the printouts being filed with DWC and served on other parties and attorneys, as required by regulations. The form in [1], above, is one such form. Readers should check, periodically, DWC's website for further developments in the implementation of EAMS. DWC's website address is: http://www.dir.ca.gov/dwc/dwc_home_page.htm

For discussion of EAMS, see § 577.12A.

[3] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 30, §§ 30.20-30.23

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 17, §§ 17.35-17.38 (Cal. C.E.B. 3d ed. 1985)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Worker's Compensation, § 408 (10th ed. 2005)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
10. Lien Claims

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.481

§ 577.481 Stipulation and Order to Pay Lien Claimant

[1] FORM Stipulation and Order to Pay Lien Claimant

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

This form in [1], above, is used by many lien claimants and defendants to reduce a lien settlement to a written stipulation and to obtain an enforceable Order reflecting the stipulation. It is often used when a lien settlement is reached at a conference or trial.

For discussion of liens against compensation, see § 577.260. See also § 577.480.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
10. Lien Claims

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.482

§ 577.482 Declaration of Defendant re Resolution of Liens

[1] FORM Declaration of Defendant Re: Resolution of Liens

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, when completed with specific information regarding lien settlement efforts, is accepted by many WCJ's as evidence that satisfactory efforts have been made to resolve outstanding liens. In order to avoid supplementary proceedings, the WCAB strongly encourages settlement of all outstanding liens at the time an applicant's case is settled by Compromise and Release Agreement or Stipulations. WCJ's are instructed to insure that the defendant has made reasonable efforts to settle liens before an Order Approving Compromise and Release or an Award on Stipulations issued.

For discussion of liens against compensation, see § 577.260. See also §§ 577.480, 577.481.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
10. Lien Claims

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 577.483-577.489

[Reserved]

§§ 577.483[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
11. Prehearing Proceedings and Hearings

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.490

§ 577.490 Declaration of Readiness to Proceed to Expedited Hearing (Trial) [DWC-CA Form 10252.1]

[1] FORM Declaration of Readiness to Proceed to Expedited Hearing (Trial) [DWC-CA Form 10252.1]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of DWC-CA Form 10252.1, promulgated by the Court Administrator, for use to request an expedited hearing and decision [see Lab. Code § 5502(b)]. In cases in which an expedited hearing is appropriate, the hearing must be held, and a determination as to the rights of the parties made and filed, within 30 days after filing of the declaration of readiness to proceed [Lab. Code § 5502(b)].

The form must be filed with a an application for adjudication of claim [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10252(a)].

Effective November 17, 2008 [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 10210-10297 (Rules of Court Administrator, including regulations relating to Electronic Adjudication Management System (EAMS))], DWC requires (with a handful of exceptions) that all documents designed and created by DWC to be read by electronic scanners be used in place of the previous, equivalent DWC forms. These new forms, called "optical character recognition forms" (OCR forms) [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10210(x) ("OCR form" defined)], may be downloaded and saved, then filled in and printed, as needed, with the printouts being filed with DWC and served on other parties and attorneys, as required by regulations. The form in [1], above, is one such form. Readers should check, periodically, DWC's website for further developments in the implementation of EAMS. DWC's website address is: http://www.dir.ca.gov/dwc/dwc_home_page.htm

For discussion of EAMS, see § 577.12A.

[3] Entitlement to Expedited Hearing

When injury to any part or parts of the body is accepted as compensable by the employer, a party is entitled to an expedited priority hearing and decision upon the filing of an application for adjudication of claim and a declaration of readiness to proceed pursuant to 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10250 establishing a bona fide, good faith dispute as to any of the following [Lab Code § 5502(b); 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10252(a)]:

1. The employee's entitlement to medical treatment pursuant to Lab. Code § 4600.

2. The employee's entitlement to, or the amount of, temporary disability indemnity payments.

3. The employee's entitlement to vocational rehabilitation services, or the termination of an employer's liability to provide these services to an employee.

4. The employee's entitlement to compensation from one or more responsible employers when two or more employers dispute liability as among themselves.

For discussion of expedited hearings, see § 577.172[3].

[4] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 26, § 26.02[1] (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 1, § 1.8; ch. 6, §§ 6.9, 6.17 (Cal. C.E.B. 3d ed. Special Supp. 1990)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
11. Prehearing Proceedings and Hearings

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.491

§ 577.491 Pre-Trial Conference Statement [DWC-CA Form 10253.1]

[1] FORM Pre-Trial Conference Statement [DWC-CA Form 10253.1]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, was developed for use at the time of the Mandatory Settlement Conference (MSC) preceding a hearing. If the case is not resolved at the MSC, the parties are required to complete and file this form, noting the specific issues in dispute, each party's proposed permanent disability rating, and listing the exhibits and witnesses to be presented at trial [Lab. Code § 5502(e)(3)]. The form is also used as a notice of hearing, and provides space for the WCJ to enter any orders or dispositions arising at the MSC.

Although the form provides space for multiple case numbers, many WCJs require that the parties complete a separate pre-trial conference statement for each case. Some judges prefer the parties to complete the pre-trial conference statement used in multiple party cases [see § 577.492[1]], which provides summary information concerning matters involving multiple dates of injury or continuous trauma claims involving multiple employers and/or insurance carriers.

For further discussion of mandatory settlement conferences and conference statements, see § 577.157[4].

[3] Failure to Disclose Evidence

Discovery closes on the date of the MSC. Evidence not disclosed in the Pre-Trial Conference Statement or obtained after the conference is inadmissible unless the proponent of the evidence demonstrates that the evidence was not available or could not have been discovered by the exercise of due diligence prior to the settlement conference [Lab. Code § 5502(e)(3); see § 577.157[4]].

[4] Filing and Service

The Appeals Board may, in its discretion, designate a party or lien claimant, or their attorney or agent of record, to make service of notices of the time and place of hearing, orders approving compromise and release, awards based on stipulations with request for award, and any interim or procedural orders, such as a pre-trial conference statement. In deciding whether to exercise this discretion, the Appeals Board may consider whether service by it would be more efficient and cost-effective because most or all of the parties, lien claimants, attorneys, or agents of record to be served have specified e-mail or fax as their preferred method of service. The party, lien claimant, attorney, or agent of record designated to make service must retain the proof of service and not file it unless ordered to do so by the Appeals Board [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10500(a); but see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10500(b) (exceptions)].

The WCJ may choose to personally serve the Pre-Trial Conference Statement on a particular party.

For a discussion of service of papers and proof of service, see § 577.108 .

[5] Penalties

A false declaration or certification by any party, lien claimant, attorney, or representative may give rise to proceedings under Lab. Code § 134 for contempt or Lab. Code § 5813 for sanctions [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10250(c)].

For further discussion of penalties and the WCAB's power to punish for contempt, see §§ 577.12[3][b], 577.194.

[6] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 26, § 26.04[2] (Matthew Bender)

http://www.dir.ca.gov/DWC/forms.html

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
11. Prehearing Proceedings and Hearings

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.492

§ 577.492 Pre-Trial Conference Statement (Multiple Parties) [DWC-CA Form 10253.1]

[1] FORM Pre-Trial Conference Statement (Multiple Parties) [DWC-CA Form 10253.1]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, was developed for optional use at the time of the Mandatory Settlement Conference (MSC) as an adjunct to the Pre-Trial Conference Statement [see § 577.491[1]], when an injured worker has multiple injuries which occurred on different dates and/or a continuous trauma claim which involves multiple employers and/or insurance carriers. Because the information on this form is not as detailed as that required on the Pre-Trial Conference Statement, WCJs have the option of using this form or requesting the parties to fully complete a separate Pre-Trial Settlement Conference Statement for each date of injury. Thus, before completing this form, the parties should check with the assigned judge to determine whether the form may be used.

For further discussion, see §§ 577.157[4], 577.491.

[3] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 26, § 26.04[2] (Matthew Bender)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
11. Prehearing Proceedings and Hearings

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 577.493-577.499

[Reserved]

§§ 577.493[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
12 Awards, Reconsideration and Supplemental Proceedings

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.500

§ 577.500 Petition for Certified Copy of Award [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10820]--By Person Entitled to Benefits Under the Award

[1] FORM Petition for Certified Copy of Award [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10820]--By Person Entitled to Benefits Under the Award

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
DEPARTMENT OF INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS
DIVISION OF WORKERS' COMPENSATION
WORKERS' COMPENSATION APPEALS BOARD

_____ [name of employee or other applicant], _____ [Applicant or Employee] [_____ (address)] [Employee's Social Security No. _____]	)	CASE NO. _____
vs.	)	_____ [Title of document, e.g., PETITION FOR _____ (specify)]
_____ [name of employer] _____ [Defendant or Employer] [_____ (address)] _____ [name], Insurance Carrier [_____ (address)]	)
[If applicant is someone other than injured employee, add following:] [_____ (name of employee), Employee _____ (address) Employee's Social Security No. _____]

_____

Petitioner _____ [name] is the applicant in the above-entitled case and hereby requests a certified copy of the _____ [describe, e.g., Decision and Award] herein made by the Workers' Compensation Appeals Board for the purpose of having judgment on the award entered in the superior court and execution issued. In support of this request, petitioner states:

1. On _____ [date], the Appeals Board issued its _____ [e.g., Decision and Award] awarding applicant _____ [specify amount and terms of award].

2. _____ [Specify whether proceedings are pending on reconsideration or judicial review, whether a petition for reconsideration or writ of review has been filed, and whether the decision has become final .]
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

[Applicant or Attorney for Applicant or other authorized representative]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use by a person awarded benefits by the WCAB to request issuance of a certified copy of the findings and award or other final order of the WCAB for the purpose of having judgment entered and execution issued by the clerk of the superior court [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10820; see Lab. Code § 5806]. If the request is granted, the copy will issue on payment of the fee prescribed by rules of the Administrative Director of the Division of Workers' Compensation (formerly the Division of Industrial Accidents) [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10820]. The request may be made by the person entitled to benefits under the award or by the person's attorney or authorized representative [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10820]. For discussion of awards, generally, see § 577.191.

[3] Form and Contents of Petition

The request must be in writing and must state the following [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10820]:

- Whether proceedings are pending on reconsideration or judicial review;
- Whether a petition for reconsideration or writ of review has been filed; and
- Whether the decision, a certified copy of which is requested, has become final.

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
12 Awards, Reconsideration and Supplemental Proceedings

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.501

§ 577.501 Petition for Reconsideration [Lab. Code § 5902; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10842] [DIA WCAB Form 45]

[1] FORM Petition for Reconsideration [Lab. Code § 5902; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10842] [DIA WCAB Form 45]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of DIA WCAB Form 45 for use to petition the WCAB for reconsideration of a final order, decision, or award made by the WCAB or by a workers' compensation judge [see Lab. Code § 5902]. Copies of the form may be obtained at any WCAB office.

[3] Grounds for Reconsideration

The sole grounds on which reconsideration may be sought are as follows [Lab. Code § 5903]:

- The workers' compensation judge or WCAB acted without or in excess of its powers;

- The order, decision, or award was procured by fraud [see Royal Globe Ins. Co. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 287, 293 n.5, 148 Cal. Rptr. 325] ;

- The findings of fact are not justified by the evidence [see Gillette v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1971) 20 Cal. App. 3d 312, 320-322, 97 Cal. Rptr. 542] ;

- Petitioner has discovered new material evidence that he or she could not, with reasonable diligence, have discovered and produced at the hearing [see Royal Globe Ins. Co. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1978) 84 Cal. App. 3d 287, 292-293, 148 Cal. Rptr. 325 (evidence in question was not newly discovered)]; or

- the order, decision, or award is not supported by the findings of fact [see Michon v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 917, 923-925, 93 Cal. Rptr. 476] .

[4] Form and Contents

The petition must set forth specifically and in full detail the grounds on which the petitioner considers the final order, decision, or award to be unjust or unlawful, and every issue to be considered, and must contain a statement of any evidence or other matters on which the applicant relies [Lab. Code § 5902]. It must fairly state all the material evidence relative to the point or points at issue, and each contention must be separately stated and clearly set forth [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10842]. Copies of documents that have been received in evidence or that have been made a part of the WCAB's legal file must not be attached as exhibits [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10842]. Documents attached in violation of this rule may be detached from the petition and discarded [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10842]. A petition that contains no more than allegations of the statutory grounds for reconsideration unsupported by specific references to the record and principles of law involved may be denied [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10846].

If reconsideration is sought on the ground that the findings are not justified by the evidence, the petition must set out specifically and in detail how the evidence fails to justify the findings [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10852]. If reconsideration is sought on the ground of newly discovered evidence or that the decision was procured by fraud, the petition must contain a specific and detailed offer of proof providing the following information [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10856]:

- The names of witnesses to be produced;
- A summary of the testimony to be elicited;
- A description of any documentary evidence to be offered;
- The effect the evidence will have on the record and on the prior decision; and
- As to newly discovered evidence, a full and accurate statement of the reasons why such testimony or exhibits could not reasonably have been discovered or produced before submission of the case.

The petition may be denied if it fails to meet these requirements or is based on cumulative evidence [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10856].

Any objections, irregularities, or illegalities, other than those set forth in the petition, are deemed waived by the petitioner [Lab. Code § 5904].

For further discussion of filing petitions for reconsideration, see § 577.212.

[5] Verification

The form in [1], above, must be verified [Lab. Code § 5902].

[6] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 28, §§ 28.20-28.23 (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 10, §§ 10.15-10.32 (Cal. C.E.B. 3d ed. 1985)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Worker's Compensation, §§ 418-420 (10th ed. 2005)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
12 Awards, Reconsideration and Supplemental Proceedings

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.502

§ 577.502 Petition to Reopen [Lab. Code § 5803; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10454] [DIA WCAB Form 42]

[1] FORM Petition to Reopen [Lab. Code § 5803; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 10454] [DIA WCAB Form 42]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of DIA WCAB Form 42 for use to petition the WCAB to reopen an order, decision, or award [see Lab. Code §§ 5803, 5804; see also § 577.222].

[3] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 31, § 31.04[4][a] (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 12, §§ 12.6-12.19 (Cal. C.E.B. 3d ed. 1985)

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Worker's Compensation, §§ 426-429, 432 (10th ed. 2005)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
12 Awards, Reconsideration and Supplemental Proceedings

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.503

§ 577.503 Petition for Commutation of Future Benefits [Lab. Code § 5100] [DIA WCAB Form 49]

[1] FORM Petition for Commutation of Future Benefits [Lab. Code § 5100] [DIA WCAB Form 49]

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is a reproduction of DIA WCAB Form 49 for use by either party to request an order that the compensation payable be commuted to a lump sum to be paid forthwith or at some future time [see Lab. Code § 5100]. Copies of the form may be obtained from any WCAB office. For discussion of commutation of awards, see § 577.244.

[3] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 27, § 27.02

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 23, § 23.63 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th ed. 2000)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
12 Awards, Reconsideration and Supplemental Proceedings

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.504

§ 577.504 Notice of Intent to Seek Multiple Penalties [Lab. Code § 5814]

[1] FORM Notice of Intent to Seek Multiple Penalties [Lab. Code § 5814]

[Name of Attorney]
[Name of Law Firm]
[Street Address]
[City, State, Zip Code]
[Telephone Number]
State Bar No. _____
Attorney for Applicant

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
WORKERS' COMPENSATION APPEALS BOARD

_____ [Applicant's Name], Applicant	)	CASE NO. _____
vs.	)	NOTICE OF INTENT TO SEEK MULTIPLE PENALTIES
_____ [Defendants' Names], Defendants.	)	(Lab. Code § 5814)

TO DEFENDANTS HEREIN, _____ AND THEIR ATTORNEYS OF RECORD:

Applicant _____ [name] hereby gives Notice of Intent to seek separate or additional penalties for each separate and distinct act of delay or failure to pay benefits.
Dated: _____
.....

_____

..... Attorney for the Applicant

Attachments:

Proof of service by mail

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, may be used by an injured employee to notify the employer or carrier that the employee is seeking multiple penalties under Labor Code § 5814 for an unreasonable delay or refusal to pay compensation due, either before or after an award is issued. The purpose of the form is to put the employer or carrier on notice that the employee is seeking separate penalties for each separate and distinct act of delay. Failure to provide such notice to the employer or carrier may preclude the employee from seeking multiple penalties.

For a general discussion of multiple penalties for delay or non-payment of compensation, see § 577.243[4][d]. See also § 577.505[1], for petition for penalty form.

[3] Separate and Distinct Acts of Delay

When multiple, separate penalties are sought for more than one distinct act of delay, the employee must give the employer or carrier timely notice of his or her intent to claim multiple or successive penalties in the same penalty proceeding. The bare allegation that a penalty for unreasonable delay in payment of compensation is being sought is not sufficient to raise the issue of liability for multiple or successive penalties [see Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 10, § 10.40[5], ch. 27, § 27.12[2][d] (Matthew Bender); California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 8, §§ 8.22-8.24 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th ed. 2000)].

[4] Filing and Service

This form should be filed prior to the petition for penalties in those cases where multiple penalties are sought. The notice must be served on the employer or carrier.

[5] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 10, § 10.40[5], ch. 27, § 27.12[2][d] (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 8, §§ 8.22-8.24 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th ed. 2000)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
12 Awards, Reconsideration and Supplemental Proceedings

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.505

§ 577.505 Petition for Penalties [Lab. Code § 5814]

[1] FORM Petition for Penalties [Lab. Code § 5814]

[Name of Attorney]
[Name of Law Firm]
[Street Address]
[City, State, Zip Code]
[Telephone Number]
State Bar No. _____
Attorney for Applicant

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
WORKERS' COMPENSATION APPEALS BOARD

_____ [Applicant's Name], Applicant	)
vs.	)	CASE NO. _____
_____ [Defendants' Names],	)	PETITION FOR PENALTIES
Defendants.	)	(Lab. Code § 5814)

Petitioner alleges that multiple payments of benefits have been unreasonably delayed and seeks an Order of this Board assessing multiple penalties against all of these unreasonably delayed payments of temporary disability, permanent disability and medical benefits pursuant to Lab. Code §§ 4600, 4650, 5800 and 5814, and in support thereof, alleges that:

Count 1

1. On [date] Defendants issued their first temporary disability check, paying benefits from [date] to [date].

2. This payment was not made within a reasonable time.

3. There was no genuine medical or legal doubt as to the Defendants' obligation to pay this compensation.

4. Said failure to pay properly constituted an unreasonable delay in benefits.

Count 2

1. On [date], Defendants issued their first temporary disability check, paying benefits from [date] to [date].

2. This check did not pay benefits in accordance with Lab. Code § 4650(a).

3. There was no genuine medical or legal doubt as to the Defendants' obligation to pay this compensation.

4. Said failure to pay properly constituted an unreasonable delay in benefits.

Count 3

1. On [date], Defendants issued their first temporary disability check, paying benefits from [date] to [date].

2. This check did not include the penalty assessment as mandated by Lab. Code § 4650(d).

3. This check did not include interest as mandated by Lab. Code § 5800.

4. There was no genuine medical or legal doubt as to the Defendants' obligation to pay this penalty and interest.

5. Said failure to pay properly constituted an unreasonably delay in benefits.

Count 4

1. On [date], Applicant was declared permanent and stationary by Dr. _____, who also described permanent disability consisting of a limitation to light work.

2. The Defendants have not paid any permanent disability advances.

3. There was no genuine medical or legal doubt as to the Defendants' obligation to pay this compensation.

4. Said failure to pay properly constituted an unreasonable delay in benefits.

Count 5

1. The earnings of the injured worker were found to be $_____ per week.

2. Pursuant to Lab. Code § 4661.5, the injured worker's temporary disability rate as of [enter two-year anniversary date] was [enter current maximum or 2/3 of average weekly wage, whichever is less].

3. On [date] Defendants issued a temporary disability check incorrectly paying benefits at the rate of $_____ per week.

4. There was no genuine medical or legal doubt as to the Defendants' obligation to pay compensation at the proper rate.

5. Said failure to pay at the correct rate constituted an unreasonable delay in benefits.

Count 6

1. At all times pertinent, Dr. [name of treating physician] was the authorized treating physician.

2. By report of [date of medical report], Dr. [name of treater] prescribed a _____. More than thirty days have elapsed from the request and this appliance has not been authorized despite repeated requests.

3. By report of [date of medical report], Dr. [name of treater] requested a referral to [name of facility or treater] for _____. More than thirty days have elapsed from the request and this referral has not been authorized.

4. The Defendants have not produced any medical report or other evidence indicating that the requested diagnostic study and mode of treatment are not reasonable or necessary. No petition to change the treating physician has been filed. The refusal to authorize this treatment constitutes an unreasonable refusal to provide benefits.

Count 7

1. Defendant failed to pay the injured worker the 10 percent increase in benefits as a self-assessed increase as required by Labor Code § 4650(d) at the time it made the late payment. The benefit remains unpaid.

2. In Farris v. Industrial Wire Products (2000) 65 Cal. Comp. Cases 824 , the Appeals Board en banc held that " ... when a 4650(d) penalty has been unreasonably delayed, the 10 percent penalty under section 5814 for that unreasonable delay applies to all payments of the underlying species of disability indemnity (past, present, and future), ... as increased by the section 4650(d) penalty amount." (65 Cal. Comp. Cases 824, 829 .) (See also Moulton v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd.Moulton v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2000) 84 Cal. App. 4th 837, 65 Cal. Comp. Cases 1259 , E & J Gallo Winery, PSI v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (Vega) (2001) 66 Cal. Comp. Cases 1547 (writ denied).) In Peter Kiewit Sons, Inc. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (Garland) (1998) 63 Cal. Comp. Cases 331 (writ denied), the Appeals Board imposed two penalties on permanent disability indemnity because defendant failed to pay at the correct rate and failed to assess self-imposed penalty under Labor Code § 4560.

3. The failure to timely pay the Labor Code § 4560(d) amount and the delay in payment of that penalty to the present constitutes an unreasonable delay in the payment of indemnity due the injured worker entitling _____ [him or her] to a penalty under Labor Code § 5814.

Count 8

1. The Findings and Award issued herein on [date]. That award required payment of substantial benefits, which were both unpaid and late. The amount of unpaid disability indemnity by the defendant's own calculations, amounts to $_____.

2. Labor Code § 4650(d) provides that if any indemnity payment is not made timely, the amount of the late payment shall be increased 10 percent and shall be paid, without application, to the employee.

3. A "good faith" belief on the part of the defendant that the benefits are not payable does not excuse the obligation to pay the Labor Code § 4650(d) penalty when an Award of the appeals board requires payment.

4. In Rhiner v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd.Rhiner v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd.Rhiner v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1993) 4 Cal. 4th 1213, 1227, 58 Cal. Comp. Cases 172, 183 , the Supreme Court stated that the penalty under Labor Code § 4650(d) is " ... a self-executing, strict liability provision, that applies only to delays in the payment of temporary or permanent disability payments ... " (See also Christian v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd.Christian v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 505, 517 ; Mote v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd.Mote v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 902, 910, 62 Cal. Comp. Cases 891, 895 ; State of California v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (Ellison)State of California v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (Ellison) (1996) 44 Cal. App. 4th 128, 139, 61 Cal. Comp. Cases 325, 333 .)

5. In State Compensation Insurance Fund v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (Stuart)State Compensation Insurance Fund v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (Stuart)State Compensation Insurance Fund v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (Stuart) (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1209, 1213, 63 Cal. Comp. Cases 916, 918 , the Supreme Court again observed that " ... if a payment is late, that individual payment is automatically increased by 10 percent, and this penalty [under Labor Code § 4650(d)] applies irrespective of the reason for the delay."

6. In Gangwish v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2001) 89 Cal. App. 4th 1284, 1293 , the Court of Appeals discussed the purpose that the legislative purpose of enacting the changes to Labor Code § 4650 was to promote prompt payment of benefits and certainty of timing. "The new legislation also included increased compensation for late payment as an incentive, apart from the increased compensation for unreasonable refusal or delay under section 5814." (66 Cal. Comp. Cases 584, at 590-591 .)

7. The condition for imposition of penalty under Labor Code § 4650(d) is that a periodic payment of temporary or permanent disability is delayed. It is the delay that triggers the entitlement to the penalty, which is a "self-executing, strict liability" (see Rhiner, Christian, Mote supra), which "applies irrespective of the reason for the delay" (see State Compensation Insurance Fund v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (Stuart) , supra), the purpose of which is "to promote prompt payment of benefits and certainty of timing." (see Gangwish , supra)

8. The failure to timely pay permanent disability indemnity that the Findings and Award determined to be due requires a Labor Code § 4650(d) penalty at the time of payment.

Count 9

1. The failure of the defendant to pay the Labor Code § 4650(d) penalty on the delayed permanent disability awarded entitles the applicant to an additional penalty under Labor Code § 5814. As discussed above regarding Count 7, the failure to pay, or the delay in the payment of a Labor Code § 4650(d) penalty gives rise to increasing the benefits in accordance with the provisions of Labor Code § 5814.

2. In this case, applicant's attorney wrote to defendant's attorney on [date], and specifically requested the voluntary payment of the Labor Code § 4650(d) penalty. Defendant has failed to pay.

As to all Counts, a Notice of Intent to Seek Multiple Penalties was properly served upon the Defendants.

WHEREFORE, Petitioner prays for penalties to be assessed as follows:

1. A 25-percent penalty, up to $10,000, whichever is less, against delayed payments alleged in Count One.

2. A 25-percent penalty, up to $10,000, whichever is less, against delayed payments alleged in Count Two.

3. A 25-percent penalty, up to $10,000, whichever is less, against delayed payments alleged in Count 3.

4. A 25-percent penalty, up to $10,000, whichever is less, against delayed payments alleged in Count 4.

5. A 25-percent penalty, up to $10,000, whichever is less, against delayed payments alleged in Count 5.

6. A 25-percent penalty, up to $10,000, whichever is less, against delayed payments alleged in Count 6.

7. A 25-percent penalty, up to $10,000, whichever is less, against delayed payments alleged in Count 7.

8. A 25-percent penalty, up to $10,000, whichever is less, against delayed payments alleged in Count 8.

9. A 25-percent penalty, up to $10,000, whichever is less, against delayed payments alleged in Count 9.

10. All other relief under the law.

Respectfully submitted,

_____

Attorney for the Applicant

Dated: _____

Attachments:
Exhibits
Proof of service by mail
Proposed Order

[2] Use of Form

IMPORTANT NOTE: Practitioners should be aware that SB 899 (Stats. 2004 Ch. 34) added new Labor Code § 5814(g), which provides that "[n]otwithstanding any other provisions of law, no action may be brought to recover penalties that may be awarded under this section more than two years from the date the payment of compensation was due." Whether or not this section applies to injuries and/or delayed compensation before June 1, 2004, and/or during the period June 1, 2004 through December 31, 2004, is not clear and is the subject of litigation.

The form in [1], above, illustrates a petition for penalties which may be used by an applicant seeking penalties under Labor Code § 5814 if payment of compensation is unreasonably delayed or refused, either before or after an award is issued.

For a general discussion of penalties for delay or non-payment of compensation, see § 577.243[4]. See also § 577.504[1], for form of notice required when seeking multiple penalties.

[3] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 10, § 10.40, ch. 27, § 27.12[2] (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 8, §§ 8.6-8.24 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th ed. 2000)

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
12 Awards, Reconsideration and Supplemental Proceedings

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.506

§ 577.506 Answer to Petition for Penalties [Lab. Code § 5814]

[1] FORM Answer to Petition for Penalties [Lab. Code § 5814]

[Name of Attorney]
[Name of Law Firm]
[Street Address]
[City, State, Zip Code]
[Telephone Number]
State Bar No. _____
Attorney for Defendants _____

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
WORKERS' COMPENSATION APPEALS BOARD

_____ [Applicant's Name],	)
Applicant	)	CASE NO. _____
vs.	)	ANSWER TO PETITION FOR PENALTIES
_____ [Defendants' Names],	)	(Lab. Code § 5814)
Defendants.	)
	)
	)

_____

COME NOW Defendants, [Defendants' names], in answer to the Petition for Penalties filed by the Applicant herein, admit, deny, and allege as follows:

Count 1

1. Defendants deny the allegations of Count 1.

2. Defendants allege that, at all times pertinent, there existed a genuine doubt as to liability for the allegedly delayed amounts.

3. Defendants further aver that if there was a delay, it was a reasonable delay, occurring in the normal course of business or that the delays complained of were not unreasonable.

4. Defendants further aver that if a penalty is to be awarded, the appropriate penalty is an amount considerably less than 25 percent of the delayed benefit, taking into consideration previously paid amounts pursuant to Labor Code § 4650.

5. Defendants further aver that they have voluntarily paid the delayed benefit along with a 10-percent penalty on the delayed benefit within the time frames outlined in Labor Code § 5814(b).

6. Defendants deny that they were provided notice of Applicant's treatment, nor were they afforded the opportunity to control care in accordance with Labor Code § 4616 et seq.

7. Defendants deny that the care that Applicant self-procured was reasonably related to the claim form that Applicant filed.

Count 2

1. Defendants deny the allegations of Count 2.

2. Defendants allege that, at all times pertinent, there existed a genuine doubt as to liability for the allegedly delayed amounts.

3. Defendants further aver that if there was a delay, it was a reasonable delay, occurring in the normal course of business or that the delays complained of were not unreasonable.

4. Defendants further aver that if a penalty is to be awarded, the appropriate penalty is an amount considerably less than 25 percent of the delayed benefit, taking into consideration previously paid amounts pursuant to Labor Code § 4650.

Count 3

1. Defendants deny each and every one of the allegations of Count 3.

2. Defendants further deny that any of the payments referred to in the petition were delayed.

3. Defendants further aver that if there was a delay, it was a reasonable delay, occurring in the normal course of business, and that the delays complained of were not unreasonable.

4. Defendants further aver that if a penalty is to be awarded, the appropriate penalty is an amount considerably less than 25 percent of the delayed benefit, taking into consideration previously paid amounts pursuant to Labor Code § 4650.

Count 4

1. Defendants deny the allegations of Count 4.

2. Defendants allege that, at all times pertinent, there existed a genuine doubt as to liability for the allegedly delayed amounts.

3. Defendants further aver that if there was a delay, it was a reasonable delay, occurring in the normal course of business, or that the delays complained of were not unreasonable.

4. Defendants further aver that if a penalty is to be awarded, the appropriate penalty is an amount considerably less than 25 percent of the delayed benefit, taking into consideration previously paid amounts pursuant to Labor Code § 4650.

Count 5

1. Defendants deny the allegations of Count 5.

2. Defendants allege that, at all times pertinent, there existed a genuine doubt as to liability for the allegedly delayed amounts.

3. Defendants further aver that if there was a delay, it was a reasonable delay, occurring in the normal course of business, or that the delays complained of were not unreasonable.

4. Defendants further aver that if a penalty is to be awarded, the appropriate penalty is an amount considerably less than 25 percent of the delayed benefit, taking into consideration previously paid amounts pursuant to Labor Code § 4650.

Count 6

1. Defendants deny the allegations of Count 6.

2. Defendants allege that, at all times pertinent, there existed a genuine doubt as to liability for the allegedly delayed amounts.

3. Defendants further aver that if there was a delay, it was a reasonable delay, occurring in the normal course of business, or that the delays complained of were not unreasonable.

4. Defendants further aver that if a penalty is to be awarded, the appropriate penalty is an amount considerably less than 25 percent of the delayed benefit, taking into consideration previously paid amounts pursuant to Labor Code § 4650.

Count 7

1. Defendants deny the allegations of Count 7.

2. Defendants allege that, at all times pertinent, there existed a genuine doubt as to the liability for the medical treatment requested.

3. Defendants allege that any denial or delay of the requested medical treatment was based on the reasonable use of the Utilization Review process described in Labor Code § 4610 and 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 9792 et seq.

4. Defendants further aver that if there was a delay, it was a reasonable delay, occurring in the normal course of business, or that the delays complained of were not unreasonable.

5. Defendants further aver that if a penalty is to be awarded, the appropriate penalty is an amount considerably less that 25 percent of the delayed benefit, taking into consideration previously paid amounts pursuant to Labor Code § 4650.

Count 8

1. Defendants deny the allegations of Count 8.

2. Defendants deny that there was any delay in the payments of benefits such as to provide for a self-assessed increase as provided for in Labor Code § 4650(d).

3. Defendants further aver that if a penalty is to be awarded, the appropriate penalty is an amount considerably less than 25 percent of the delayed benefit.

Count 9

1. Defendants deny the allegations of Count 9.

2. Defendants further aver that if there was a delay, it was a reasonable delay, occurring in the normal course of business, or that the delays complained of were not unreasonable in light of the complexity of the payments under the Findings and Award.

3. Defendants further aver that if a penalty is to be awarded, the appropriate penalty is an amount considerably less than 25 percent of the delayed benefit, taking into consideration previously paid amounts pursuant to Labor Code § 4650.

4. Defendants further aver that they have voluntarily paid the delayed benefits along with a 10-percent penalty on the delayed benefit within the time frames outlined in Labor Code § 5814(b).

5. Defendants further aver that if a penalty under Labor Code § 5814 is to be granted, the total maximum penalty is $10,000, without regard to the number of different species of benefits that were delayed.

6. Defendants further aver that no attorney fees should be awarded under Labor Code § 5814.5, since Applicant's Petition for Penalties was not a Petition to Enforce Award because the Award had been paid prior to the Petition for Penalties.

Count 10

1. Defendants deny the allegations of Count 10.

2. Defendants allege that, at all times pertinent, there existed a genuine doubt as to liability for the allegedly delayed amounts.

3. Defendants further aver that if there was a delay, it was a reasonable delay, occurring in the normal course of business or that the delays complained of were not unreasonable.

4. Defendants further aver that if a penalty is to be awarded, the appropriate penalty is an amount considerably less than 25 percent of the delayed benefit, taking into consideration previously paid amounts pursuant to Labor Code § 4650.

AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES

In addition, the Answering Defendants allege all of the following as separate and affirmative defenses:

FIRST AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE
Failure to State Facts Sufficient to Constitute the Imposition of a Penalty

As and for a first separate and affirmative defense to the Petition for Penalties herein, the Answering Defendants allege that the Petition fails to allege facts sufficient to constitute the imposition of a penalty, andfurther fails to allege facts sufficient to entitle Applicant to the relief sought, or to any relief whatsoever against the Answering Defendants.

SECOND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE
Fault of Third Parties

As and for a second separate and affirmative defense to the Petition for Penalties herein, the Answering Defendants allege that the Applicant in the Petition seeks damages against the Answering Defendants for the acts or omissions caused in whole or in part by the acts or omissions of third parties for whom the Answering Defendants bear no legal responsibility, and fails to entitle Applicant to the relief sought, or to any relief whatsoever against the Answering Defendants.

THIRD AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE
Previously Resolved

As and for a third separate and affirmative defense to the Petition for Penalties herein, the Answering Defendants allege that the alleged delays occurred prior to an order as defined in Labor Code § 5814(c) and accordingly are conclusively presumed to have been resolved.

FOURTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE
Statute of Limitations

As and for a fourth separate and affirmative defense to the Petition for Penalties herein, the Answering Defendants allege that whatever compensation was allegedly due was due more than two years prior to the filing of the Petition for Penalties and accordingly is barred by Labor Code § 5814(g).

FIFTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE
Labor Code § 5814(b)

As and for a firth separate and affirmative defense to the Petition for Penalties herein, the Answering Defendants allege that as to any delays in the payment of compensation, Defendants have voluntarily paid the delayed benefit along with a 10-percent penalty on the delayed benefit within the time frames outlined in Labor Code § 5814(b).

POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

Penalties are authorized under Labor Code § 5814 when payment of compensation has been unreasonably delayed or refused. Not all delays are unreasonable. In the landmark case of Gallamore v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 815, 828, 153 Cal. Rptr. 590, 591 P.2d 1242 , the Supreme Court cautioned, "In penalty cases the board should proceed with a view toward achieving a fair balance between the right of the employee to prompt payment of compensation benefits, and the avoidance of imposition upon the employer or carrier of harsh and unreasonable penalties." In the case of State Comp. Ins. Fund v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (Stuart) (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1209, 1216, 77 Cal. Rptr.2d 528, 959 P.2d 1204 , the Supreme Court commented on the showing necessary to establish an unreasonable delay: "A reasonably short delay attributable to human error cannot, standing alone, be considered unreasonable. In requiring a finding of unreasonableness as the trigger for a section 5814 penalty, our Legislature intended something beyond the mere existence of any delay in the payment of benefits." (emphasis added) In fact, in its earlier Kampner decision (Kampner v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 376, 150 Cal. Rptr. 222), the court held that, under appropriate circumstances, a short delay of an additional few days was not in itself unreasonable.

"The touchstone of a section 5814 penalty is a delay or refusal to pay benefits that is unreasonable." (Stuart, supra, 18 Cal. 4th at p. 1214 (emphasis by court)) An unreasonable delay or refusal occurs when there is no genuine doubt that benefits are owed from a medical or legal standpoint. (Kerley v. Workmen's Comp. Appeals Bd. (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 223, 93 Cal. Rptr. 192, 481 P.2d 200)

The procedures and standards for evaluating the appropriateness of a penalty enhancement are clearly enunciated in the leading cases. The initial burden is on the employee to establish entitlement to the benefit and delay in its provision. The burden then shifts to the employer to establish that a delay was reasonable. (Kerley, supra)

In determining whether a given delay is unreasonable, the Board must look beyond simply the number of days that benefits were delayed, but rather consider all of the relevant circumstances, including the reason for the employer's action or inaction. (Kampner, supra) Mere inadvertence, causing a brief delay, may not support the imposition of Labor Code § 5814 penalties. (County of Sacramento v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (Souza) (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 726, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 780)

With all due respect to the allegations of the petition, an inquiry into the circumstances of the administration of this claim will reveal that the delays complained of were, for the most part, occasioned by the realities of the business of processing claims, and thus not unreasonable, since this is the type of delay that would have occurred in the normal course of business. The question to be answered is how long the procedure should have taken, as opposed to any "delay" at all.

With respect to the question of multiple penalties, Christian v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 505, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 336, 936 P.2d 115 , instructs that those penalties have been approved only when the refusal of, or delay in payment of, benefits necessarily involved separate and distinct unreasonable acts by the insurance carrier. Multiple penalties may be imposed when there are separate classes of benefits, individual claims for payment of reimbursement of medical or travel expenses, or a repeated refusal or delay in payment of a benefit after the same conduct had already been found by the Board to be unreasonable and a priorpenalty imposed, or some analogous, legally significant event such as a stipulation of liability by the carrier had intervened between the first act for which a penalty was imposed and the second act. Multiple penalties do not apply when repeated delays in paying a benefit arise out of a single, unreasonable act by the employer and there is no subsequent legally significant event establishing the employer's liability.

Lastly, we ask that you to consider that, in Gallamore, the court admonished the Board to strike "a fair balance between the right of the employee to prompt payment of compensation benefits, and the avoidance of imposition upon the employer or carrier of harsh and unreasonable penalties." (Gallamore, supra)

For these reasons, it is respectfully submitted that no penalties should be assessed, because the delays complained of were not unreasonable.

Respectfully submitted,

_____

Attorney for the Defendants

Dated: _____

Attachments:
Exhibits
Proof of service by mail
Proposed Order

[2] Use of Form

IMPORTANT NOTE: Practitioners should be aware that SB 899 (Stats. 2004 Ch. 34) added new Labor Code § 5814(g), which provides that "[n]otwithstanding any other provisions of law, no action may be brought to recover penalties that may be awarded under this section more than two years from the date the payment of compensation was due." Whether or not this section applies to injuries and/or delayed compensation before June 1, 2004, and/or during the period June 1, 2004, through December 31, 2004, is not clear and is the subject of litigation.

The form in [1], above, illustrates an answer to a petition for penalties that may be used by a defendant in responding to an applicant seeking penalties under Labor Code § 5814 and alleging that payment of compensation is unreasonably delayed or refused, either before or after an award is issued.

For a general discussion of penalties for delay or non-payment of compensation, see § 577.243[4]. See also § 577.505[1], for a petition for penalties, and § 577.504[1], for form of notice required when seeking multiple penalties.

[3] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 10, § 10.40, ch. 27, § 27.12[2] (Matthew Bender)

California Workers' Compensation Practice, ch. 8, §§ 8.6-8.24 (Cal. C.E.B. 4th ed. 2000)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
12 Awards, Reconsideration and Supplemental Proceedings

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 577.507-577.509

[Reserved]

§§ 577.507[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
13. Judicial Review of Administrative Proceedings

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.510

§ 577.510 Petition for Writ of Review [Lab. Code § 5950; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.495(a)]--By Injured Employee or Dependent of Deceased Employee

[1] FORM Petition for Writ of Review [Lab. Code § 5950; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.495(a)]--By Injured Employee or Dependent of Deceased Employee

[IN THE] COURT OF APPEAL OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
_____ APPELLATE DISTRICT

_____ [name],	)
Petitioner,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	PETITION FOR WRIT OF REVIEW
THE WORKERS' COMPENSATION APPEALS	)	[Lab. Code § 5950]
BOARD OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA, and	)
_____ [names],	)
Respondents.	)

[TO THE HONORABLE (PRESIDING JUSTICE AND ASSOCIATE JUSTICES OF THE) COURT OF APPEAL, _____ APPELLATE DISTRICT:]

Petitioner requests issuance of a writ of review for the purpose of inquiring into and determining the lawfulness of the _____ [specify order, decision, or award, e.g., Findings and Award], made and filed on _____ [date], by respondent Workers' Compensation Appeals Board (hereinafter "Appeals Board"), and in support thereof alleges:

1. At all times herein mentioned, _____ [name of employer] (hereinafter "employer") was[, and is,] _____ [specify capacity, e.g., a corporation organized and existing under the laws of California authorized to transact, and transacting, business as a _____ (specify), in _____ County, California], and _____ [name of insurance company] was, and is, a corporation duly authorized to transact, and transacting, business as a workers' compensation insurer in California, with its principal place of business in _____ County, California, and at all times herein mentioned insured the employer against liability arising under the California workers' compensation law.

2. On _____ [date], _____ [petitioner or _____ (name of worker) (hereinafter "petitioner's decedent")] was employed by the employer as a _____ [specify job position]. On that day, _____ [petitioner or petitioner's decedent] sustained the following-described injury:_____ [briefly describe injury]. The injury arose out of the employment and occurred in the course of the employment as follows: _____ [briefly describe manner in which injury was sustained]. The injury resulted in _____ [briefly describe general effects of injury, e.g., petitioner's total disability to work for a period of _____ months or the death of petitioner's decedent].

3. On _____ [date], petitioner filed an application for adjudication of claim with the Appeals Board. Thereafter, on _____ [date], a hearing in the matter was held before a workers' compensation judge. The matter was submitted for decision and on _____ [date], the workers' compensation judge issued his/her _____ [specify, e.g., Findings and Award], a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A and made a part hereof.

4. On _____ [date], within the time prescribed by law, petitioner filed with the Appeals Board a petition for reconsideration, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit B and made a part hereof.

[5. The Appeals Board referred the matter to the workers' compensation judge from whose decision reconsideration was sought. On _____ [date], the workers' compensation judge prepared, served, and submitted to the Appeals Board his/her Report and Recommendations, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit C and made a part hereof.]

6. On _____ [date], the Appeals Board issued its order _____ [denying the petition for reconsideration. A copy of the Order or granted reconsideration and, after reconsideration, issued its decision _____ (specify, e.g., affirming) the _____ (e.g., Findings and Award) filed by the workers' compensation appeals judge. A copy of the Decision] is attached hereto as Exhibit D and made a part hereof.

7. The _____ [specify order, decision, or award, e.g., Findings and Award] was _____ [without or in excess of the Appeals Board's powers or procured by fraud or unreasonable or not supported by substantial evidence or not supported by the findings of fact] in that _____ [specify].

[ADD, if claim is that the decision is not supported by substantial evidence]

[8. All the material evidence relative to the point at issue is _____ [set forth in the Statement of Material Evidence appended to this decision, which, by this reference, is incorporated herein or as follows: _____ (summarize testimony and any statments in writings introduced in evidence relative to the point, and attach to this petition as an exhibit and incorporate by reference a copy of each writing referred to).]

[CONTINUE]

9. Petitioner has no right to appeal from the Findings and Award or from the order denying reconsideration and has no other plain, speedy, and adequate remedy or any remedy other than by writ of review.

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays:

1. That a writ of review issue out of this court to the Workers' Compensation Appeals Board, directing it to certify fully to this court at a specified time and place the records and proceedings of the cause so that the same may be inquired into and determined by this court;

2. That following the inquiry and determination by this court, the _____ [specify, e.g., Findings and Award be annulled];

3. That _____ [specify particular relief desired, e.g., the court further declare that as a matter of law _____ (petitioner or petitioner's decedent) was acting in the course and scope of his/her employment when the injury was sustained and that the cause be remanded to the Workers' Compensation Appeals Board for further proceedings consistent with that declaration]; and

4. That petitioner be granted such other and further relief as may be proper and just in the premises.
Dated: _____.

Respectfully submitted,_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Petitioner _____ [name]

[Verification.]

[STATEMENT OF MATERIAL EVIDENCE]

[If the claim is that the decision is not supported by substantial evidence and all material evidence relative to the claim is not set forth in the body of the petition (see Paragraph 8), set forth that evidence in this statement. The statement should summarize all testimony and any written statements introduced in evidence relative to the point. A copy of any writing referred to should be attached as an exhibit and incorporated by reference.]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use by an injured employee or the dependents of a deceased employee to seek judicial review of an order, ruling, decision, or award of the appeals board. It may be modified for use by an employer to seek review of an adverse order, ruling, decision, or award [see Lab. Code §§ 5810, 5950, 5952]. In the latter case, the petition may include a prayer for an order directing the appeals board not to take any further proceedings in the matter and for an order staying or suspending, in whole or in part, operation of the appeals board's order, ruling, decision, or award pending the court's determination of the petition for writ of review [see Lab. Code § 5956; for the undertaking required as a prerequisite to a stay order, see Lab. Code § 6000].

For discussion of judicial review, see § 577.280 et seq.

[3] Contents of Petition

The petition must include, as exhibits, copies of the following documents [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.495(a)(1)]:

- Each order, decision, or award to be reviewed; and

- The workers' compensation judge's minutes of hearing and summary of evidence, findings and decisions, and his or her report and recommendation on the petition for reconsideration.

If it is claimed that the decision is not supported by substantial evidence, the petition must fairly state and attach copies of all the material evidence relative to the point at issue [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.495(a)(2)].

Effective July 1, 2006, each party other than the Appeals Board must comply with the requirements of Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.208, concerning serving and filing a Certificate of Interested Entities or Persons. The petitioner's certificate must be included in the petition and must appear after the cover and before the tables. If the petitioner fails to file the certificate as required, the clerk will notify the petitioner that the certificate must be filed within 10 days and that failure to comply will result in the court's striking the petition [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.495(c)].

[4] Format and Copies

The petition for writ of review may be typed or printed in accordance with court rules as to format [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.40(a)]. It must have a cover containing the title of the case, the designation of the paper (Petition for Writ of Review), and the name, address, California State Bar membership number, and phone number of the attorney filing the petition [Cal. Rules of Ct, Rule 8.204(b)]. The cover should be red [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.40(b)]. An original and four copies of the petition must be presented to the clerk of the appellate court for filing [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.44(b)(3)].

Recycled paper must be used for an original brief or other paper filed with a reviewing court and for all copies of a brief or other paper whether filed with the court or served on other parties. The use of recycled paper for the cover of the brief is encouraged [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.204(b)(10)].

For the format requirements of petitions filed in a court of appeal and related procedures and forms for use in review proceedings, see Ch. 492, Review (Certiorari), Writ of.

[5] Verification and Supporting Papers

The petition must be verified and accompanied by a memorandum [see Lab. Code § 5954; Code Civ. Proc. § 1069; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.486(a), (5)]. It must also be accompanied by proof of service of two copies on the appeals board in San Francisco and one copy on each party who entered an appearance in the proceeding before the appeals board and whose interest is adverse to the petitioner. Service on the board's local district office is not required [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 8.495(a)(3)].

[6] Cross References

Hanna, California Law of Employee Injuries and Workers' Compensation, ch. 34, §§ 34.11, 34.12

California Workers' Compensation Practice (3d ed, Cal. CEB 1985), Ch. 11, Judicial Review, §§ 11.1, 11.24-11.49

Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Worker's Compensation, § 438 (10th ed. 2005)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
A. Administrative Procedures and Proceedings
13. Judicial Review of Administrative Proceedings

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 577.511-577.519

[Reserved]

§§ 577.511[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
B. Civil Actions Against Employer or Third-Party
1. Complaints for Damages

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.520

§ 577.520 Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] or in Intervention [Code Civ. Proc. § 387; Lab. Code § 3853]--By Insurance Carrier Against Third-Party Tortfeasor [Lab. Code § 3852]

[1] FORM Complaint for Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] or in Intervention [Code Civ. Proc. § 387; Lab. Code § 3853]--By Insurance Carrier Against Third-Party Tortfeasor [Lab. Code § 3852]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

[or other as appropriate]

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT _____ [FOR DAM-
_____ [name],	)	AGES or IN INTERVENTION]
[and DOES I through _____,]	)	[Amount demanded _____ (exceeds
Defendant(s)[; _____ (name),	)	or does not exceed) $10,000]
Intervener].	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]
	)

_____

_____ [Plaintiff alleges or Intervener joins with plaintiff herein and alleges]:

1. At all times herein mentioned, _____ [plaintiff or intervener] _____ [name] was, and now is, _____ [specify form of business organization, e.g., a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of California], authorized to write workers' compensation insurance in California, and at all times herein mentioned insured _____ [name of employer] (hereinafter "the employer") against liability to its employees for compensation benefits under the Workers' Compensation Law of the State of California.

2. At all times herein mentioned, the employer was the employer of _____ [name of employee] (hereinafter "the employee").

[3. The true names and capacities, whether individual, corporate, associate, or otherwise, of defendants DOES I through _____ are unknown to _____ [plaintiff or intervener], who therefore sues these defendants by such fictitious names, and will amend this complaint to show their true names and capacities when ascertained.]

4. Defendant _____ [name] is, and at all times herein mentioned was, [_____ (specify capacity if not a natural person, e.g., a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of _____ and authorized to transact business in California, and was and is] _____ [specify status giving rise to duty to injured employee, e.g., engaged in the manufacture of _____ (product causing injury) or the owner of _____ (describe property the negligent use of which proximately caused the injury)].

5. On _____ [date], at about _____ [time], while the employee was _____ [describe employee's activities at time of injury, e.g., driving a [date] _____ (describe vehicle) in a southerly direction over and along _____ (name of street, road, or highway) in the _____ (city or county) of _____ (name) at its intersection with _____ (name of street, road, or highway)], he/she sustained injuries, as hereinafter alleged, whicharose out of and occurred in the course of his/her employment [and from which he/she died].

6. _____ [Allege tort giving rise to liability, e.g.: At the time and place the injuries were sustained, defendants, and each of them, _____ (describe act(s) or omission(s), e.g., so negligently owned, maintained, operated, and repaired their above described vehicle) as to cause _____ [specify circumstances of accident, e.g., it to collide with the vehicle being driven by the employee].

7. As a proximate result of the _____ [specify tort, e.g., negligence] of defendants, and each of them, the employee sustained _____ [severe bodily injuries or specify injuries] [from which he/she died].

8. As a proximate result of the _____ [e.g., negligence] of defendants, and each of them, and of the resulting injuries sustained by [, and the death of,] the employee, _____ [plaintiff or intervener] has been obligated to pay, and has paid, workers' compensation [death] benefits to _____ [the employee or _____ (name(s)), who is/are the (sole) dependent(s) of the employee (hereinafter "the employee's dependent(s)") or the California State Department of Industrial Relations pursuant to the provisions of Section 4706.5 of the Labor Code] [if limited civil case, specify amount of damages, e.g., as follows:

a. Temporary disability benefits in the amount of $_____;

b. Permanent disability benefits in the amount of $_____; and

c. Medical benefits in the amount of $_____].

[9. _____ (Plaintiff or Intervener) is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that it will be required to pay further disability benefits and sums for medical care and treatment for an indefinite time in the future, and _____ (plaintiff or intervener) prays that when the _____ (extent of this liability is or total amount of such expenditures are) ascertained this complaint (in intervention) may be amended accordingly.]

WHEREFORE, _____ [plaintiff or intervener] prays judgment against defendants, and each of them, for:

1. Workers' _____ [compensation or death] benefits paid to the _____ [employee or employee's dependent(s) or California State Department of Industrial Relations] [in the amount of $_____];

2. Future disability benefits and costs of medical care and treatment according to proof;

3. Costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. Such other and further relief as this court deems just.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for [Plaintiff or Intervener]

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the _____ [specify title, e.g., President] of _____ [plaintiff or intervener] _____ [name of corporation] and am authorized to make this verification on its behalf.

I have read the foregoing complaint [in intervention] and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters that are therein alleged on information and belief, and, as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, illustrates a complaint for use by a workers' compensation insurance carrier (or by the employer if self-insured) to sue a third-party tortfeasor to recover the workers' compensation benefits paid as a result of an injury to or death of an employee in the course and scope of his or her employment [see Lab. Code § 3852]. The form may be used to commence an original action or as a complaint in intervention by the carrier in an action commenced by the injured employee [see discussion under §§ 577.332[6], [7]]. For when the complaint must be filed, see discussion under § 577.332[8]. For general discussion of third party actions, see § 577.330 et seq.

For additional or alternative allegations that may or must be included, depending on the nature of the specific tort involved, see the chapter in this publication covering that tort or subject, for example, Ch. 83, Automobiles: Bringing the Action , Ch. 380, Negligence , and Ch. 460, Products Liability .

For a comprehensive procedural guide that chronologically outlines all the procedures in a typical civil action brought in a California state court, see Ch. 2, Procedural Guide for Civil Actions .

For alternative forms of captions and introductions, see Ch. 108, Captions and Introductions .

For discussion and forms relating to the format of complaints, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints .

[3] Specification of Damages

In an unlimited civil case in superior court brought to recover damages for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

Otherwise, the amounts claimed as damages must be alleged [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)] or an equivalent statement must be included, for example, a statement that the damages for a particular loss or harm sustained [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282] are not known and that leave will be sought to amend the complaint to state the exact amount when ascertained. If this is done, counsel must remember to seek leave to amend the complaint to so state before judgment.

No claim for punitive damages may state an amount sought regardless of the nature of the case or whether it is a limited civil case [Civ. Code § 3295(e)].

For discussion of and forms for requesting and stating the amount of damages sought when they are not stated in the complaint, see Ch. 177, Damages, § 177.40 et seq., and Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.11, 425.115].

For alternative forms of prayers, see Ch. 420, Prayers .

[4] Allegations

The complaint alleges the following:

- Plaintiff's standing as the employer's workers' compensation insurance carrier (Paragraph 1);

- the defendant's duty to the class of persons of which the employee is a member (Paragraph 4) [see Civ. Code § 1714, and, e.g., Ch. 460, Products Liability (duty of a manufacturer of products not to place defective products into the stream of commerce) and Ch. 421, Premises Liability (duty of an owner of property to exercise due care in its management so as not to injure others)];

- injury to the employee arising out of and in the course of his or her employment, establishing plaintiff's duty to pay compensation benefits (Paragraphs 2, 5 and 7) [see Civ. Code §§ 3282, 3333; Lab. Code § 3600];

- defendant's tortious conduct, that is, defendant's breach of duty to the employee (Paragraph 6) [see Civ. Code § 1714];

- defendant's breach of duty as the proximate cause of the employee's injuries (Paragraph 7) [see Civ. Code § 3333];

- that plaintiff suffered a loss in the form of having to pay benefits as a result of defendant's breach of duty to the employee (Paragraph 8) [see Civ. Code §§ 3282, 3333]; and

- the amount of plaintiff's damages (Paragraph 8) [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3333; Lab. Code § 3852].

An optional allegation is included for use to allege the probability of additional compensation payments being required before the present action is adjudicated, that is, additional detriment and damages (Paragraph 9) [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282, 3333].

The court of appeal has held that, pursuant to Lab. Code § 3852, a workers' compensation carrier stated a cause of action against alleged third-party tortfeasors for recoupment of death benefits the carrier paid to a deceased employee's survivor, who was an actual dependent of the employee but who had no standing to bring a wrongful death action against the alleged tortfeasors. The court held that the carrier's right to sue was not limited to its status as subrogee of the survivor and that the wrongful death statute, with its limited standing provisions, was irrelevant in determining the carrier's right to sue [Fremont Comp. Ins. Co. v. Sierra Pine, Ltd. (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 389, 394-401, 17 Cal. Rptr. 3d 80] .

For alternative allegations as to agency, capacity, and residence of parties, and fictitious name allegations, see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used .

[5] Pleading Employee's Cause of Action

If the employee has failed to file an action against the third-party tortfeasor, the foregoing complaint may allege the employee's damages, even if the employee has not been joined as a party [State Comp. Ins. Fund v. Matulich (1942) 55 Cal. App. 2d 528, 530-531, 131 P.2d 21 ; see County of San Diego v. Sanfax Corp. (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 862, 873, 140 Cal. Rptr. 638, 568 P.2d 363 ; Buell v. CBS, Inc. (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 823, 826, 186 Cal. Rptr. 455] .

[6] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a) (section repealed on January 1, 2006, unless a later-enacted statute deletes or extends the repeal date)], verification will requireany answer to be verified in an unlimited civil case in the superior court [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude a general denial in an unimited civil case, and will preclude a general denial even in a limited civil case when the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion see Ch. 26, Answers .

For alternative forms of verification, see Ch. 572, Verification .

[7] Intervention

[a] Generally

Normally, leave to file a complaint in intervention may be obtained by noticed motion or by ex parte application. For forms for use in seeking leave to intervene as well as a form of order granting intervention, see Ch. 395, Parties .

For discussion and forms for use in seeking to intervene in the action of another, see Ch. 395, Parties .

[b] By Employee

The employee may also intervene in a pending action by the employer or its compensation carrier against the third-party tortfeasor [Buell v. CBS, Inc. (1982) 136 Cal. App. 3d 823, 825 n.2, 186 Cal. Rptr. 455 ; Jordan v. Superior Court (1981) 116 Cal. App. 3d 202, 206-211, 172 Cal Rptr 30 ; State Comp. Ins. Fund v. Matulich (1942) 55 Cal. App. 2d 528, 529-530, 131 P.2d 21 ; discussion under see §§ 577.332[6], [7]]. For forms of complaints for damages that may be used by the employee to sue the third-party tortfeasor either by a complaint in intervention or an original action, see the appropriate tort title in this set.

[8] Service of Complaint on Employee

If used as an original complaint, a copy of the foregoing complaint must be served forthwith on the employee personally or by registered mail [Lab. Code § 3853; see § 577.521].

For discussion and forms relating to service of summons generally, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

[9] Burden of Proof and Evidence

An employer seeking reimbursement for compensation benefits bears the burden of establishing that the defendant's negligence is the proximate cause of the employee's injuries and the amount of tort damages reasonably resulting therefrom. In a third-party tort action, the defendant must be permitted the opportunity of presenting evidence to the contrary, and this is so whether the claim is asserted by an employee for his or her own injury, or by an employer (or its carrier) for reimbursement of compensation paid [Breese v. Price (1981) 29 Cal. 3d 923, 930-931, 176 Cal. Rptr. 791, 633 P.2d 987] .

[10] Cross References

For discussion of jurisdiction in California courts in general, see Ch. 324, Jurisdiction: Subject Matter

For discussion and forms for use in actions in subrogation generally, see Ch. 536, Subrogation

For forms of allegations showing proper venue, see Ch. 571, Venue

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
B. Civil Actions Against Employer or Third-Party
1. Complaints for Damages

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.521

§ 577.521 Notice of Filing of Complaint Against Third Party [Lab. Code § 3853]--By Employee or Employer

[1] FORM Notice of Filing of Complaint Against Third Party [Lab. Code § 3853]--By Employee or Employer

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA, COUNTY OF _____

[or other as appropriate]

_____ [name], Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	NO. _____
_____ [name], [and DOES I	)	NOTICE OF FILING OF COMPLAINT through _____,] Defendant(s).	)
	)

_____

You are hereby notified that on _____ [date], plaintiff _____ [name of employee or employer] filed the _____ [attached or enclosed] complaint for damages in the _____ Court of _____ [name of court], Civil No. _____, against defendant _____ [name]. This action is based on an injury sustained by _____ [plaintiff or name of employee] on _____ [date], arising out of and in the course of his/her employment with _____ [plaintiff or name of employer], which was insured for workers' compensation liability at the time of the injury by _____ [name of insurance carrier]. This copy of the complaint is delivered to you pursuant to the provisions of Section 3853 of the Labor Code.

Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use by an injured employee or his or her employer to give notice to the other of the filing of a complaint against a third-party tortfeasor for damages arising out of the injury for which workers' compensation benefits were paid.

Under Lab. Code § 3853 prior to its 1980 amendment, the employee or employer filing a third-party action was required forthwith to give written notice of the filing to the other. As amended, Lab. Code § 3853 requires only that a copy of the complaint be forthwith given to the other. Under both the original and amended versions of the statute, delivery must be personal or by registered mail and proof of the service must be filed in the action (see § 577.332[10]).

Although the foregoing notice is no longer required, counsel may nevertheless wish to include it, or a formal letter, with the copy of the complaint delivered, particularly where the complaint is delivered by registered mail, to notify the recipient of the reason for it.

For forms of proof of service by mail, which may be adapted for use when service is by registered mail or when delivery is made in person, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
B. Civil Actions Against Employer or Third-Party
1. Complaints for Damages

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.522

§ 577.522 Complaint for Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] by Injured Employee Against Negligent Employer Who Failed to Secure Compensation Under Workers' Compensation Law [Lab. Code § 3706]

[1] FORM Complaint for Compensatory Damages [Civ. Code § 3333] by Injured Employee Against Negligent Employer Who Failed to Secure Compensation Under Workers' Compensation Law [Lab. Code § 3706]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

[or other as appropriate]

_____ [name of employee],	)	NO. _____
Plaintiff,	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
vs.	)	(Negligence)
_____ [name of employer], and	)	[Amount demanded _____ (exceeds
DOES I through _____, Defend-	)	or does not exceed) $10,000]
ants.	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Defendant _____ [name of employer] is, and at all times mentioned herein was,

_____ [capacity, e.g., a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of California with its principal place of business in _____ (city), _____ County, California].

2. Defendants Doe I through Doe _____, inclusive, are sued herein under fictitious names. Their true names and capacities are unknown to plaintiff. When their true names and capacities are ascertained, plaintff will amend this complaint by inserting their true names and capacities herein. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of the fictitiously named defendants is responsible in some manner for the occurrences herein alleged, and that plaintiff's damages as herein alleged were proximately caused by those defendants. Each reference in this complaint to "defendant," "defendants," or a specifically named defendant refers also to all defendants sued under fictitious names.

3. Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that at all times herein mentioned each of the defendants, including all defendants sued under fictitious names, was the agent and employee of each of the remaining defendants, and in doing the things hereinafter alleged, was acting within the course and scope of this agency and employment.

4. On or about _____ [date], at _____ [city], _____ County, California, plaintiff and defendant entered into _____ [a written or an oral] agreement for the employment of plaintiff by defendant _____[describe general nature of work, e.g., to perform construction work for defendant's construction company]. Pursuant to this employment, defendant _____ [name of employer] was required to secure payment of workers' compensation benefits as required by Labor Code Section 3700.

5. Plaintiff subsequently entered into employment pursuant to the above-described agreement.

[6. _____ (Allege any specific duty of care imposed on employer by statute or regulation).]

7. _____ [Allege facts showing defendant's duty of care in particular, e.g., At all times mentioned herein, defendant owned, maintained, controlled, operated, and provided a certain _____ (specify, e.g., scaffolding) for use by employees, including plaintiff, in performing work.]

8. _____ [Allege defendant's breach of duty of care, e.g., Defendant negligently maintained the _____(specify, e.g., scaffolding) in a dangerous and unsafe condition, in that _____ (specify).]

9. _____ [Allege plaintiff's injury and causal relationship with defendant's breach of duty of care, e.g., On or about _____ [date], plaintiff was using the _____ (specify, e.g., scaffolding) for an intended purpose, namely _____ (specify), in the course and scope of plaintiff's employment, at _____ (place). Plaintiff was then and there injured, as more particularly alleged hereinafter, as a proximate result of _____ (specify, e.g., the scaffolding's breaking and causing plaintiff to fall two stories and strike the ground).]

10. As a proximate result of the acts and omissions of defendant, plaintiff was hurt and injured in his/her health, strength, and activity, sustaining injury to his/her nervous system and person, all of which have caused, and continue to cause, plaintiff great mental, physical, and nervous pain and suffering. [Plain tiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that these injuries will result in some permanent disability to him/her.] As a result of these injuries, plaintiff has suffered general damages [in the amount of $_____].

[EITHER]

11. As a further proximate result of defendant's acts, plaintiff has been damaged in that he/she has been required to expend money and incur obligations for medical services, X rays, drugs, and sundries reasonably required in the treatment and relief of the injuries herein alleged [in the sum of $_____].

[OR]

11. As a further proximate result of the acts of defendant, plaintiff has incurred, and will continue to incur, medical and related expenses. The full amount of these expenses is not known to plaintiff at this time. Plaintiff will move to amend this complaint to state the amount when it becomes known to him/her, or on proof thereof.

[EITHER]

12. As a further proximate result of the acts of defendant, plaintiff was prevented from attending to his/her employment at a _____ [wage or salary] of _____ [specify amount and term, e.g., $2,000.00 per month] for a period of _____ [specify, e.g., 2 months] and thereby lost earnings to his/her damage [in the sum of $_____].

[OR]

12. As a further proximate result of the acts of defendant, plaintiff was prevented from attending to his/her employment at a _____ [wage or salary] of _____ [specify amount and term, e.g., $2,000.00 per month] for a period of _____ [specify, e.g., 2 months] as of the date of this complaint and continuing for an as yet undetermined period. Plaintiff thereby has lost and will lose earnings in an as yet unascertained amount. Plaintiff will seek to amend this complaint at such time as the amount is ascertained. [As a further proximate result of the acts of defendant, plaintiff's present and future earning capacity has been greatly impaired. The exact amount of this loss is not known to plaintiff at this time, and plaintiff will move to amend this complaint to state the amount when it becomes known to him/her, or on proof thereof.]

[CONTINUE]

13. [On _____ (date), in a proceeding entitled _____ (specify), No. _____, the Workers' Compensation Appeals Board made and entered findings and conclusions determining that at the time of the injury suffered by plaintiff as alleged herein, plaintiff and defendant were subject to the workers' compensation insurance and safety laws, and that] [D]efendant failed to secure the payment of compensation in one or more of the ways specified in Labor Code Section 3700.

14. A copy of this complaint _____ [has been or forthwith will be] given to the Uninsured Employers Benefits Trust Fund by _____ [personal service or certified mail], and proof of such service _____ [is attached hereto or will be filed herein].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendant(s) as follows:

1. For general damages [in the sum of $_____];

2. For medical and related expenses _____ [in the sum of $_____ or according to proof];

3. For lost earnings, past and future, _____ [in the sum of $_____ or according to proof];

4. For interest as allowed by law;

5. For costs of suit incurred herein;

6. For reasonable attorney's fees; and

7. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff

VERIFICATION (if desired)

I, _____ [name], am the plaintiff in the above-entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use by an employee to obtain damages from an employer who has failed to secure compensation pursuant to the workers' compensation and insurance laws [see Lab. Code § 3706]. For discussion of actions against uninsured employers under Lab. Code § 3706, see § 577.312[2].

Such an action may be maintained only if the workers' compensation law is otherwise applicable to the employee [see Lab. Code § 3706 (action may be brought by employee); see also Lab. Code § 3352 (persons excluded from definition of "employee")]. For a complaint for use in the case of excluded employment, see § 577.522[1].

An action may also be maintained by the dependents of an employee who died from his or her injuries [Lab. Code § 3706]. For discussion and forms for use in actions by an employee's dependents, see Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions

For alternative forms of captions and introductions, see Ch. 108, Captions and Introductions .

For discussion and forms relating to the format of complaints, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints .

[3] Allegations

In an action under Lab. Code § 3706, the complaint must allege the following [see Coleman v. Silverberg Plumbing Co. (1968) 263 Cal. App. 2d 74, 79, 69 Cal. Rptr. 158 ; Mantonya v Bratlie (1948) 33 Cal. 2d 120, 124-125, 199 P.2d 677 ; see also § 577.22, for discussion of who is employer and employee subject to workers' compensation requirements]:

- There was an employer-employee relationship between plaintiff and defendant, pursuant to which defendant was required to secure payment of workers' compensation (Paragraphs 4 and 5); and

- The employer failed to carry workers' compensation insurance in violation of Labor Code § 3700 (Paragraph 13).

This complaint also alleges that a copy of the complaint was sent to the Uninsured Employers Benefits Trust Fund as required by Lab. Code § 3708.5.

The findings and conclusions of the Workers' Compensation Appeals Board on questions of fact are conclusive and final and are not subject to review [Lab. Code § 5953]. Thus, if the WCAB has determined that defendant (employer) failed to secure compensation as required by Lab. Code § 3700, that fact should be alleged (Paragraph 13).

There is a statutory presumption that an injury to an employee of an uninsured employer was a direct result of, and grew out of, the negligence of the employer. The burden of proof is on the employer to rebut this presumption [Lab. Code § 3708]. Nevertheless, the elements of negligence should be alleged because the presumption is a rule of evidence only, and it does not relieve the injured employee of the burden of pleading facts showing a cause of action based on negligence [see Graybiel v. Consolidated Ass'ns, Ltd. (1936) 16 Cal. App. 2d 20, 25-26, 28, 60 P.2d 164] . Therefore, the complaint alleges the following four elements of a cause of action for negligence [see, e.g., Miglierini v. Havemann (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d 570, 572, 49 Cal. Rptr. 795] :

- The existence of a duty of care owed by defendant to plaintiff;

- Breach of that duty by defendant;

- Damage to plaintiff; and

- A causal relationship between the defendant's breach of duty and the damage suffered by plaintiff (Paragraphs 6-9).

The foregoing form also contains allegations of general damages (Paragraph 10), special damages for medical expenses (Alternative Paragraphs 11), and special damages for lost earnings (Alternative Paragraphs 12). The first alternative of Paragraph 11 alleges a fixed and known amount of medical expenses. The second alternative is for use if the amount of medical expenses is not known at the time when the complaint is filed. The first alternative of Paragraph 12 alleges a fixed and known amount of lost earnings. The second alternative is for use if the total amount of lost earnings cannot yet be ascertained and the plaintiff's future earning capacity has been impaired.

For alternative allegations as to agency, capacity, and residence of parties, and fictitious name allegations, see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used .

[4] Specification of Damages

In an unlimited civil case in superior court brought to recover damages for personal injury or wrongful death, the complaint must not state the amount of actual or punitive damages demanded [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)].

Otherwise, the amounts claimed as damages must be alleged [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10(b)] or an equivalent statement must be included, for example, a statement that the damages for a particular loss or harm sustained [see Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282] are not known and that leave will be sought to amend the complaint to state the exact amount when ascertained. If this is done, counsel must remember to seek leave to amend the complaint to so state before judgment.

No claim for punitive damages may state an amount sought regardless of the nature of the case or whether it is a limited civil case [Civ. Code § 3295(e)].

For discussion of and forms for requesting and stating the amount of damages sought when they are not stated in the complaint, see Ch. 177, Damages, § 177.40 et seq., and Ch. 205, Defaults and Default Judgments [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 425.11, 425.115].

For alternative forms of prayers, see Ch. 420, Prayers .

[5] Verification

Although verification of this complaint is not required [see Code Civ. Proc. § 128.7(a) (section repealed on January 1, 2006, unless a later-enacted statute deletes or extends the repeal date)], verification will require any answer to be verified in an unlimited civil case in the superior court [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446]. Verification will also preclude a general denial in an unlimited civil case, and will preclude a general denial even in a limited civil case when the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d)]. For further discussion see Ch. 26, Answers .

For alternative forms of verification, see Ch. 572, Verification .

[6] Cross References

For discussion of jurisdiction in California courts in general, see Ch. 324, Jurisdiction: Subject Matter

For discussion and forms relating to pleading a cause of action for negligence, see Ch. 380, Negligence

For discussion and forms relating to service of summons generally, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers

For forms of allegations showing proper venue, see Ch. 571, Venue

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
B. Civil Actions Against Employer or Third-Party
1. Complaints for Damages

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.523

§ 577.523 Allegation--Employment Excluded From Workers' Compensation Law Coverage [Lab. Code §§ 2800, 2801]

[1] FORM Allegation--Employment Excluded From Workers' Compensation Law Coverage [Lab. Code §§ 2800, 2801]

On or about _____ [date], at _____ [city], _____ County, California, plaintiff and defendant entered into _____ [a written or an oral] agreement for the employment of plaintiff by defendant _____ [describe general nature of work, e.g., to perform domestic and household services]. Pursuant to the terms of this agreement, plaintiff was not an employee within the meaning of California's workers' compensation law in that _____ [specify reason and cite statutory exclusion, e.g., under Section 3352(h) of the Labor Code, plaintiff earned less than $100 in wages from defendant during the 90 calendar days immediately preceding the date of the injury hereinafter alleged].

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, illustrates allegation in a complaint by an employee against his or her employer based on the employer's negligence. The form alleges that the employment relationship between the parties is one that is excluded under workers' compensation law [see Lab. Code §§ 3351-3352]. This allegation may be substituted for the allegation in Paragraph 4 of the complaint in § 577.522[1].

Such a civil action is subject to the special rules of Lab. Code § 2801, which define and limit the employer's defenses. For discussion, see § 577.312[3][b]. For a form for an affirmative defense alleging the plaintiff's negligence in such an action, see Form 162. See also, § 577.522.

[3] Pleading Alternative: No Mention of Employment Relationship

As an alternative to the use of this form, the plaintiff may plead the action as any other negligence action, without reference to any employment relationship between the parties. Such a pleading puts the burden on the defendant to raise any possible exclusive remedy issue as an affirmative defense [see Green v. City of Oceanside (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 212, 224, 239 Cal. Rptr. 470] . However, any reference in the complaint to an employment relationship should be accompanied by the pleading of facts that remove the case from the exclusive remedy principle [see Halliman v. Los Angeles Unified School Dist. (1984) 163 Cal. App. 3d 46, 50, 209 Cal. Rptr. 175] . In this case, such an allegation would set forth facts that establish excluded employment. For further discussion, see § 577.311[3].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
B. Civil Actions Against Employer or Third-Party
1. Complaints for Damages

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.524

§ 577.524 Complaint for Compensatory and Punitive Damages [Civ. Code §§ 3294, 3333] by Injured Employee Against Employer--Willful Physical Assault by Employer [Lab. Code § 3602(b)(1)]

[1] FORM Complaint for Compensatory and Punitive Damages [Civ. Code §§ 3294, 3333] by Injured Employee Against Employer--Willful Physical Assault by Employer [Lab. Code § 3602(b)(1)]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

[or other as appropriate]

_____ [name of employee],	)	NO. _____
Plaintiff,	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
vs.	)	(Assault and Battery)
_____ [name of employer], [and	)	[Amount demanded _____ (exceeds
DOES I through _____,] De-	)	or does not exceed) $10,000]
fendants.	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Allegation of defendant employer's capacity. See Paragraph 1 of complaint in § 577.522[1].]

2. [Fictitious name allegation. See Paragraph 2 of complaint in § 577.522[1].]

3. [Agency allegation. See Paragraph 3 of complaint in § 577.522[1].]

[4. Allegations of contractual employment relationship between plaintiff and defendant, if desired. See Paragraphs 4 and 5 of compalaint in § 577.522[1].]

5. On or about _____ [date], at _____ [location] in _____ [city], California, defendant _____ [name] _____ [state all acts of defendant that placed plaintiff in fear of a harmful or offensive contact, e.g., drove a fork lift truck directly toward plaintiff, who was standing with his back to an interior wall and unable to escape].

6. In doing the acts as alleged above, defendant intended to cause, or to place plaintiff in apprehension of, a harmful contact with plaintiff's person.

7. As a result of defendant's acts as alleged above, plaintiff was in fact placed in great apprehension of a harmful contact with plaintiff's person.

8. Immediately thereafter, defendant _____ [name] _____ [state all acts of defendant that constituted a harmful contact with plaintiff, e.g., did in fact strike plaintiff with the forklift truck that he was driving].

9. In doing the acts as alleged above, defendant acted with the intent to make a contact with plaintiff's person.

10. At no time did plaintiff consent to any of the acts of defendant as alleged above.

[11. _____ (Allege any specific physical injuries suffered by plaintiff, e.g., As a proximate result of the acts of defendant as alleged above, plaintiff suffered several cracked ribs, a dislocated hip, and numerous contusions and abrasion over his body).]

12. [Allegation of general damages. See Paragraph 10 of complaint in § 577.522[1].]

13. [Damages allegation for medical expenses. See alternative Paragraphs 11 of complain in § 577.522[1].]

14. [Damages allegation for lost earnings. See Alternative Paragraphs 12 of complaing in § 577.522[1].]

15. The aforementioned conduct of defendant was willful and malicious and was _____ [intended to harm plaintiff or in conscious disregard of plaintiff's rights and safety]. Plaintiff may therefore recover an award of punitive damages.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment on both causes of action against defendant(s) as follows:

1. For general damages [in the sum of $_____];

2. For medical and related expenses _____ [in the sum of $_____ or according to proof];

3. For lost earnings, past and future, _____ [in the sum of $_____ or according to proof];

4. For punitive damages;

5. For interest as allowed by law;

6. For costs of suit incurred herein; and

7. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 577.522[1].]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, illustrates a complaint for damages caused by a willful physical assault committed by an employer against an employee. Such an action is an express statutory exception to the exclusive remedy principle of workers' compensation law, permitting the employer to bring a civil action against the employer [see Lab. Code § 3602(b)(1)]. For further discussion, see § 577.314[2]. See also, §§ 577.522 and 577.523 and Ch. 58, Assault and Battery .

[3] Allegations

In addition to incorporating standard allegations of capacity, fictitiously named defendants, and agency, this form contains the following necessary allegations of the elements of causes of action for assault and battery [see Barbara A. v. John G. (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 369, 375, 193 Cal. Rptr. 422 (battery); Lowry v. Standard Oil Co. (1944) 63 Cal. App. 2d 1, 6-7, 146 P.2d 57 (assault)]:

- Defendant's act that placed plaintiff in fear of a harmful bodily contact (Paragraph 5),
- Defendant's intent to cause the apprehension (Paragraph 6);
- Plaintiff's actual apprehension of the contact (Paragraph 7);
- Defendant's act that produced the harmful contact or battery (Paragraph 8);
- Defendant's intent to make the contact (Paragraph 9); and
- Plaintiff's lack of consent to defendant's conduct (Paragraph 10).

For discussion, see Ch. 58, Assault and Battery .

This complaint contains an optional paragraph to allege any specific bodily injury that plaintiff may have received as a result of the defendant's conduct (Paragraph 11). Standard damages allegations for general damages for pain and suffering and for compensatory damages for medical expenses and lost income are also incorporated (Paragraphs 12-14). An allegation for punitive damages is also included (Paragraph 15).

Paragraph 5 alleges the employment relationship between the parties. This paragraph is optional because the burden is on the defendant to plead and prove the applicability of the exclusive remedy principle of workers' compensation law [see Green v. City of Oceanside (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 212, 224, 239 Cal. Rptr. 470] . If the plaintiff alleges the relationship, the complaint must also show sufficient facts to show an exception to the exclusive remedy principle [see Halliman v. Los Angeles Unified School Dist. (1984) 163 Cal. App. 3d 46, 50, 209 Cal. Rptr. 175] . This requirement is met by allegations of a willful physical assault by the employer [see Lab. Code § 3602(b)(1)]. For further discussion, see § 522.311[3].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
B. Civil Actions Against Employer or Third-Party
1. Complaints for Damages

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.525

§ 577.525 Complaint for Compensatory and Punitive Damages [Civ. Code §§ 3294, 3333] by Injured Employee Against Employer--Aggravation of Work-Related Injury by Fraudulent Concealment [Lab. Code § 3602(b)(2)]

[1] FORM Complaint for Compensatory and Punitive Damages [Civ. Code §§ 3294, 3333] by Injured Employee Against Employer--Aggravation of Work-Related Injury by Fraudulent Concealment [Lab. Code § 3602(b)(2)]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

[or other as appropriate]

_____ [name of employee],	)	NO. _____
Plaintiff,	)	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
vs.	)	(Fraudulent Concealment of Industrial Injury)
_____ [name of employer], and	)	[Amount demanded _____ (exceeds
DOES I through _____, Defend-	)	or does not exceed) $10,000]
ants.	)	[LIMITED CIVIL CASE]

Plaintiff alleges:

1. [Allegation of defendant employer's capacity. See Paragraph 1 of complaint in § 577.522[1].]

2. [Fictitious name allegation. See Paragraph 2 of complaint in § 577.522[1].]

3. [Agency allegation. See Paragraph 3 of complaint in § 577.522[1].]

[4. Allegations of contractual employment relationship between plaintiff and defendant, if desired. See Paragraphs 4 and 5 of complaint in § 577.522[1].]

5. _____ [Allege conditions of employment or occurrence of event that caused plaintiff's initial work-related injury, e.g., At all times herein mentioned, defendant was engaged in the business of milling, manufacturing, and packaging asbestos. Plaintiff's employment contract required that he/she work in proximity to all aspects of defendant's business, and thus during the period of his/her employment, he/she was continuously exposed to asbestos.]

6. _____ [Allege initial work-related injury, e.g., As a proximate result of being continuously exposed to asbestos, plaintiff developed frequent instances of pulmonary infections and dysfunctions.]

7. _____ [Allege defendant's fraudulent concealment of plaintiff's condition and its cause, e.g., Defendant has known since _____ (date), that long exposure to asbestos or the ingestion of that substance is dangerous to health, yet concealed this knowledge from plaintiff, advised him/her that it was safe to work in proximity to asbestos, and failed to provide protective devices to prevent plaintiff's exposure to asbestos. By _____ (date), defendant learned that plaintiff was suffering from a pulmonary disease but failed to inform plaintiff that his/her illness was caused by exposure to asbestos or to take any measures to cure the disease or to prevent plaintiff from further exposure to asbestos. Doctors retained by defendant were neither qualified nor supplied with adequate information regarding the risk of asbestos exposure. Defendant failed to advise these doctors of the development of pulmonary disease in plaintiff or of the fact that the disease was the result of the working conditions at defendant's place of employment.]

[8. _____ (Allege any further actions of fraudulent concealment, if appropriate, e.g., In addition to the foregoing acts designed to conceal from the plaintiff the nature and cause of his/her illness, defendant willfully failed to file a First Report of Occupational Injury or Illness with the State of California regarding plaintiff's injury, as required by law).]

9. Each of the acts and omissions described in Paragraphs 6 and 7[, and 8,] was done falsely and fraudulently by defendant, with the intent to induce plaintiff to continue to work in a dangerous environment. Plaintiff was ignorant of the risks involved and would not have continued to work in such an environment if he/she had known the facts.

10. _____ [Allege specific aggravation of physical injuries suffered by plaintiff, e.g., As a proximate result of the acts of defendant as alleged above, plaintiff developed pneumoconiosis, lung cancer, and other asbestos-related injuries].

11. [Allegation of general damages for pain and suffering. See Paragraph 10 of complaint in § 577.522[1].]

12. [Damages allegation for medical expenses. See alternative Paragraphs 11 of complaint in § 577.522[1].]

13. [Damages allegation for lost earnings. See alternative Paragraphs 12 of complaint in § 577.522[1].]

14. [Punitive damages allegation. See Paragraph 15 of complaint in § 577.524[1].]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment on both causes of action against defendant(s) as follows:

1. For general damages [in the sum of $_____];

2. For medical and related expenses _____ [in the sum of $_____ or according to proof];

3. For lost earnings, past and future, _____ [in the sum of $_____ or according to proof];

4. For punitive damages;

5. For interest as allowed by law;

6. For costs of suit incurred herein; and

7. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff

[Verification, if desired. See § 577.522[1].]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, illustrates a complaint by an employee against his or her employer to recover damages for the aggravation of an injury or disease because the employer fraudulently concealed the injury from the employee [see Lab. Code § 3602(b)(2); Johns-Manville Products Corp. v. Superior Court (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 465, 477-479, 165 Cal. Rptr. 858, 612 P.2d 948] . Such a cause of action is an exception to the exclusive remedy principle of workers' compensation law [see Lab. Code § 3602(b)(2); Johns-Manville Products Corp. v. Superior Court (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 465, 477-479, 165 Cal. Rptr. 858, 612 P.2d 948] . For further discussion, see the § 577.314[3]. See also, §§ 577.522, 577.524.

[3] Allegations

In addition to incorporating standard allegations of capacity, fictitiously named defendants, and agency (Paragraphs 1-3), this form sets forth the following allegations:

- The general conditions of employ ment leading to the injury (Paragraph 5);

- The initial onset of industrial injury (Paragraph 6);

- The acts of the defendant employer of fraudulently concealment of the disease and its connection to the employment from the employee (Paragraphs 7 and 8); and

- The ultimate extent of the injury attributable to the aggravation caused by the fraudulent concealment (Paragraph 10).

Paragraph 9 alleges plaintiff's reliance on defendant's conduct. Such an allegation may not be required, in that an action under Lab. Code § 3602(b)(2) does not appear to be one for common-law fraud [see Foster v. Xerox Corp. (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 306, 309-312, 219 Cal. Rptr. 485, 707 P.2d 858 (complaint pleaded on strict-liability theory held sufficient; apparently no allegation of plaintiff's reliance on defendant's conduct); see also Civ. Code §§ 1709, 1710; South Tahoe Gas Co. v. Hofmann Land Improvement Co., (1972) 25 Cal. App. 3d 750, 765, 102 Cal. Rptr. 286 (elements of tort of fraud); but see Chase Chemical Co. v. Hartford Accident & Indemnity Co. (1984) 159 Cal. App. 3d 229, 242, 205 Cal. Rptr. 469 (finding cause of action for fraudulent concealment against insurer insufficient for failure to allege facts on which common-law fraud element of duty to disclose may be predicated)]. For discussion of common-law fraud, see Ch. 269, Fraud and Deceit .

Paragraphs 11-13 incorporate standard allegations of general damages for pain and suffering, special damages for medical expenses, and special damages for lost earnings. Paragraph 14 incorporates an allegation for punitive damages [see Civ. Code § 3294; see also McDonald v. Superior Court (1986) 180 Cal. App. 3d 297, 300-303, 225 Cal. Rptr. 394] . Only the plaintiff's damages that were proximately caused by the aggravation of the original injury because of the fraudulent concealment may be recovered. However, the defendant has the burden with regard to apportionment [Lab. Code § 3602(b)(2)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
B. Civil Actions Against Employer or Third-Party
1. Complaints for Damages

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 577.526through 577.529

[Reserved]

§§ 577.526[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
B. Civil Actions Against Employer or Third-Party
2. Affirmative Defenses

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.530

§ 577.530 Employer's Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2), (g)]--Employee's Action Barred by Exclusive Remedy Principle of Workers' Compensation Law [Lab. Code § 3602(a)]

[1] FORM Employer's Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2), (g)]--Employee's Action Barred by Exclusive Remedy Principle of Workers' Compensation Law [Lab. Code § 3602(a)]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE TO THE _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST THROUGH FIFTH] CAUSE(S) OF ACTION, defendant alleges:

1. At the time and place of plaintiff's alleged injury, plaintiff was an employee of defendant, was performing service growing out of and incidental to his/her employment, and was acting within the course of his/her employment. Therefore, plaintiff's exclusive remedy is that provided by Workers' Compensation pursuant to Sections 3201-6208 of the Labor Code.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, illustrates an affirmative defense in an answer to a complaint for damages brought by an employee against his or her employer for an injury that is within the exclusive remedy principle of workers' compensation law [see Lab. Code §§ 3600(a) (conditions of compensation), 3602(a) (exclusiveness of remedy)]. This form may be inserted into a general form of answer, to be found in Ch. 26, Answers .

The defendant has the burden of pleading and proving that a civil action is barred by the exclusive remedy principle [Green v. City of Oceanside (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 212, 224, 239 Cal. Rptr. 470 ; see § 577.311[3]]. Therefore, this defense should always be included in any answer to a complaint by an employee against an employer unless an exception to the principle is conceded.

[3] Pleading Affirmative Defenses

Defenses set forth in an answer must be separately stated. Each defense must refer to the causes of action that it is intended to answer in a manner by which it may be intelligibly distinguished [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(g)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 26, Answers . If the defense appears on the face of the complaint, the objection may be made by a demurrer to the complaint [see Code Civ. Proc. § 430.30(a); see also Colombo v. State of California (1991) 3 Cal. App. 4th 594, 599, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 567 ; Halliman v. Los Angeles Unified School Dist. (1984) 163 Cal. App. 3d 46, 50, 209 Cal. Rptr. 175 (if facts indicating applicability of exclusive remedy principle appear on face of complaint and no facts are alleged to bring action within exception to principle, complaint is subject to demurrer)].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
B. Civil Actions Against Employer or Third-Party
2. Affirmative Defenses

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.531

§ 577.531 Employer's Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2), (g)]--Lack of Jurisdiction Due to Pending Workers' Compensation Appeals Board Proceeding

[1] FORM Employer's Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2), (g)]--Lack of Jurisdiction Due to Pending Workers' Compensation Appeals Board Proceeding

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., SECOND)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE TO THE _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST THROUGH FIFTH] CAUSE(S) OF ACTION, defendant alleges:

1. The court has no jurisdiction to proceed with plaintiff's action, because on _____ [date], an application for compensation relating to the same injury that is the subject matter of plaintiff's action, entitled _____ [specify], WCAB No. _____, was filed with the Workers' Compensation Appeals Board. The WCAB, therefore, has exclusive jurisdiction to proceed in this matter.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use by an employer as an affirmative defense to an action by an employee brought subsequent to an application for workers' compensation benefits on account of the same injury. The employer may seek to have the civil action abated in court until the issue of the exclusive jurisdiction of the workers' compensation laws can be decided by the Workers' Compensation Appeals Board [see Busick v. Workmen's Comp. Appeals Bd. (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 967, 976, 104 Cal. Rptr. 42, 500 P.2d 1386 ; Taylor v. Superior Court (1956) 47 Cal. 2d 148, 151, 301 P.2d 866] .

This form is for use if it is clear that the employee's remedies of civil damages and workers' compensation are mutually exclusive, but the proper remedy turns on a finding of facts. For example, the issue may be whether the injury will be deemed to have occurred within the course of employment within the meaning of workers' compensation law [see Lab. Code § 3600(a)]. In such a case, the tribunal first assuming jurisdiction retains it to the exclusion of all other tribunals in which the action might have been initiated [Busick v. Workmen's Comp. Appeals Bd. (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 967, 976, 104 Cal. Rptr. 42, 500 P.2d 1386] .

The affirmative defense presented in this form will be of no avail if the issue is whether one of the statutory exceptions to the exclusive remedy principle applies. In such a case, there is concurrent jurisdiction, and the employee may pursue both remedies, subject to principles of set-off [Lab. Code § 3600(b)]. For further discussion, see §§ 577.319, 577.530.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
B. Civil Actions Against Employer or Third-Party
2. Affirmative Defenses

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.532

§ 577.532 Employer's Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2), (g)]--Negligence of Plaintiff [Lab. Code § 2801]

[1] FORM Employer's Affirmative Defense [Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b)(2), (g)]--Negligence of Plaintiff [Lab. Code § 2801]

AS A [_____ (if more than one, specify number, e.g., FIRST)] SEPARATE AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE TO THE _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST THROUGH FIFTH] CAUSE(S) OF ACTION, defendant alleges:

1. At the time and place of the accident alleged in the complaint, plaintiff himself/herself did not exercise ordinary care, caution, or prudence to avoid the accident, and the resulting injuries, if any, sustained by plaintiff were proximately caused and contributed to by the negligence of plaintiff in that _____ [set out acts of plaintiff constituting negligence].

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use as an affirmative defense to be included in an answer to a complaint charging an employer with negligence proximately resulting in personal injuries to an employee not subject to compensation under the workers' compensation and insurance law [see Fonseca v. County of Orange (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 361, 367, 104 Cal. Rptr. 566] . The form alleges the contributory (or comparative) negligence of the employee as a proximate cause of his or her injury.

In such an action, contributory negligence is not a bar to recovery if the employee's negligence is slight and that of the employer is gross in comparison [Lab. Code § 2801]. This statute has not been construed or amended since the adoption of principles of comparative negligence and the demise of contributory negligence as a complete bar to a negligence action in 1975 [see Li v. Yellow Cab Co. (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 804, 828-829, 119 Cal. Rptr. 858, 532 P.2d 1226] . Therefore, the effect of "gross" negligence on the part of the employee in comparison to "slight" negligence on the part of the employer is an open question. For further discussion, see §§ 577.312[3][b], 577.530.

Defendant is permitted to allege that plaintiff was negligent in and about matters alleged in complaint and that such negligence contributed to plaintiff's injury. Singer v. Superior Court (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 318, 323-324, 5 Cal. Rptr. 697, 353 P.2d 305 .

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
B. Civil Actions Against Employer or Third-Party
2. Affirmative Defenses

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 577.533through 577.539

[Reserved]

§§ 577.533[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
B. Civil Actions Against Employer or Third-Party
3. Lien Claims and Credit Against Compensation Liability

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.540

§ 577.540 Proceedings to Secure Lien Against Third-Party Judgment [Lab. Code § 3856(b)]--Notice of Motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010] and Supporting Declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]

[1] FORM Proceedings to Secure Lien Against Third-Party Judgment [Lab. Code § 3856(b)]--Notice of Motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 1010] and Supporting Declaration [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

[or other as appropriate]

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	MOTION AND NOTICE OF MOTION FOR LIEN
_____ [name],	)	AGAINST JUDGMENT[, SUPPORTING DECLAR-
Defendant.	)	ATION OF _____ (name), AND
_____ [name],	)	MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORIT-
Lien Claimant.	)	IES]
	)	[Telephone Appearance]
	)	Date: _____
	)	Time: _____
	)	Location: _____
		Judge: _____
		Date Action Filed: _____
		Trial Date: _____

_____

To each _____ [identify party, e.g., plaintiff] named above, and to the attorney of record for each such party:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____ [street address],_____ [city],_____ [identify party, e.g., defendant] _____ [name] will, and hereby does, move for an order allowing it a first lien for workers' compensation benefits paid to plaintiff _____ [name of employee] against the amount of the judgment rendered in this action on _____ [date], in favor of plaintiff. The motion will be made on the grounds that the lien claimant has paid to the plaintiff workers' compensation benefits for the same injuries that are the subject of this lawsuit and is entitled to reimbursement from the judgment herein rendered.

The motion will be based on this notice of motion, on the _____ [affidavit(s) or declaration(s)] of _____ [name(s)] and the memorandum of points and authorities served and filed herewith, on the records and file herein, and on such evidence as may be presented at the hearing of the motion.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Lien Claimant _____ [name]

SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF _____ [name]

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., an attorney at law duly admitted to practice before all the courts of the State of California and the attorney of record herein for _____ (name of insurance carrier) (hereinafter, "the lien claimant") or other statement as appropriate].

2. At all times herein mentioned, the lien claimant was[, and is,] a corporation [incorporated and] duly authorized to do business in the State of California as a workers' compensation insurance company.

3. At all times herein mentioned, the lien claimant was the workers' compensation insurance carrier for _____ [name of employer] (hereinafter "the employer"), pursuant to a policy of workers' compensation insurance, under which the lien claimant was obligated to pay workers' compensation benefits to those employees of the employer who sustained injuries arising out of and in the course of their employment.

4. On _____ [date of injury], plaintiff _____ [name of employee] (hereinafter "the employee") was an employee of the employer, and sustained injuries that arose out of and in the course of his/her employment.

5. The above-entitled action is by the employee against the third-party tortfeasor to recover damages arising out of the same happening for the same injuries.

6. As a proximate result of the injuries sustained by the employee, the lien claimant has been obligated to pay, and has paid, the following benefits to the employee: _____ [specify, e.g.:]

a. Temporary disability benefits in the amount of $_____;

b. Permanent disability benefits in the amount of $_____;

c. Medical benefits in the amount of $_____.

[7. In addition to the total amount of workers' compensation benefits paid to the employee, the lien claimant has been required to pay the following sums: _____ (specify any salary, wage, pension, or other emolument paid in addition to compensation benefits).]

[WHEREFORE, the lien claimant requests the allowance of a first lien in the amount of $_____ against the balance of a judgment in favor of plaintiff, _____ (name), after the court has ordered payment of plaintiff's litigation expenses and attorney's fees.]

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Lien Claimant _____ [name]

[MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES]

[Add points and authorities supporting motion, if desired]

Respectfully Submitted,_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Lien Claimant _____ [name]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use by the employer's compensation carrier, which has paid workers' compensation benefits to an injured employee, to secure a lien against a judgment rendered in favor of the employee in an action by the employee against a third-party tortfeasor. The court will, on application of the insurance carrier, after the payment of expenses and attorney's fees from the third-party judgment, allow as a first lien against the amount of the judgment, the amount of the carrier's expenditure for compensation benefits [Lab. Code § 3856(b)].

The declaration should set forth facts establishing the grounds of the motion and should be made and executed by a person having personal knowledge of the facts [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2002(1), 2003, 2009, 2015.5; Evid. Code § 702].

If the motion is made before judgment [see discussion under [3], below], it would appear that the application should be filed separately from the notice of hearing; that is, the application should take the form of a written motion, and a subsequent notice of hearing, set on a date following the judgment, should be prepared and served. For a discussion of written and noticed motions, see Ch. 372, Motions and Orders . For further discussion of lien claims, see § 577.335[2][a].

[3] Filing Motion

Prior to the 1959 enactment of Lab. Code § 3856 and repeal of the former section, it was held that the application for a lien could be filed at any time before judgment was satisfied [see Duprey v. Shane (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 781, 796, 249 P.2d 8 ; Jacobsen v. Industrial Acci. Com. (1931) 212 Cal. 440, 448, 299 P. 66 ; Dighton v. Martin (1935) 4 Cal. App. 2d 401, 403, 41 P.2d 197] . Subsequent to 1959, the rule appears to be that the employer, or its compensation carrier, who does not intervene or file a separate action can file its application for a lien before judgment, but under Lab. Code § 3856(b), the court may not allow the lien until after judgment and after the payment of the expenses and attorney's fees. Certainly, the court cannot, on the hearing of the motion to establish a lien before trial, determine whether the employer's right to reimbursement is defeated [in whole or in part] because of the concurring negligence of the employer [see Liberty Mut. Ins. Co. v. Fabian (1964), (Los Angeles County Superior Court No. 814000, order denying without prejudice compensation carrier's motion for order imposing a first lien on any judgment rendered in favor of plaintiff, which was set for hearing before judgment)].

[4] Supporting Papers

Although not expressly required by the Civil Law and Motion Rules (Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 3.1100-3.1362) [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1103], the better practice is to prepare, serve, and file a memorandum with the foregoing notice of motion if there is any question about the moving party's right to a lien or its amount [see generally Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1005, 1010]. The form and content of the memorandum are covered in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113. For discussion and forms, see Ch. 417, Points and Authorities .

[5] Amount Claimed and Supplemental Applications

When a lien is sought at the time of entry of judgment, it should be for the amount of expenditures for compensation made to that date [see Lab. Code § 3856(b)]. A supplemental application may be made at any time before the judgment is satisfied for the amount of any additional expenditures by the employer or its carrier for compensation subsequent to the original order [Lab. Code § 3857].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
B. Civil Actions Against Employer or Third-Party
3. Lien Claims and Credit Against Compensation Liability

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.541

§ 577.541 Proceedings to Secure Lien Against Third-Party Judgment [Lab. Code § 3856(b)]--Order Granting Motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 1003]

[1] FORM Proceedings to Secure Lien Against Third-Party Judgment [Lab. Code § 3856(b)]--Order Granting Motion [Code Civ. Proc. § 1003]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

[or other as appropriate]

	)
_____ [name],	)	NO. _____
Plaintiff,	)	ORDER GRANTING MOTION FOR LIEN
vs.	)	AGAINST JUDGMENT
_____ [name],	)	[Lab. Code § 3856(b)]
Defendant;	)	Date: _____
_____ [name],	)	Time: _____
Lien Claimant.	)	Location: _____
	)	Judge: _____
	)	Date Action Filed: _____
	)	Trial Date: _____

_____

The motion of _____ [name of insurance carrier], the lien claimant, for an order allowing a first lien against the judgment herein rendered in favor of plaintiff came on regularly for hearing by the court on _____ [date]. Moving lien claimant appeared by counsel _____ [name]; plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ [name][; defendant appeared by counsel _____ (name)].

On proof made to the satisfaction of the court that the motion ought to be granted,

IT IS ORDERED that the motion be, and it hereby is, granted, and that _____ [name of lien claimant] have a first lien in the sum of $_____ against the balance of the judgment after plaintiff's litigation expenses and attorney's fees have been paid.
Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]

Judge of the _____ Court

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, illustrates a formal order granting the lien claimant's motion for a lien [see Lab. Code § 3856(b); see also § 577.540].

[3] Enforcement of Lien

Any employer or the employer's workers' compensation carrier entitled to and who has been allowed and has perfected a lien on the judgment or award in favor of an employee against any third party for damages occasioned to the same employer by payment of compensation, expenses of medical treatment, and any other charges under the Workers' Compensation Law, may enforce payment of the lien against the third party, or, in case the damages recovered by the employee have been paid to the employee, against the employee to the extent of the lien, in the manner provided for enforcement of money judgments generally [Lab. Code § 3862]. For discussion and forms for use in enforcing money judgments, see Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments, § 254.40 et seq. For further discussion of enforcement of liens, see § 577.335[2][b].

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 577 WORKERS' COMPENSATION
PART IV. FORMS
B. Civil Actions Against Employer or Third-Party
3. Lien Claims and Credit Against Compensation Liability

51-577 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 577.542

§ 577.542 Petition for Credit of Third-Party Judgment Against Compensation Liability [Lab. Code § 3861]

[1] FORM Petition for Credit of Third-Party Judgment Against Compensation Liability [Lab. Code § 3861]

[Caption. See § 577.400[1].]

Petitioner alleges:

1. Petitioner was [and is] the workers' compensation insurance carrier for _____, the employer of _____ [name of employee] (hereinafter "the employee"), at the time the employee sustained an industrial injury on _____ [date].

2. Pursuant to the Workers' Compensation Appeals Board's Findings and Award issued on _____ [date], petitioner is required to pay _____ [specify, e.g.:]

(a) Permanent disability benefits in the amount of $_____; and

(b) Future medical benefits in the amount of $_____.

3. Under the Findings and Award there is a balance of $_____ unpaid for _____ [describe benefits] [and an indefinite amount due and to become due for the award of continuing medical benefits].

4. The injury to the employee was the result of the negligence of a third party, and a _____ [judgment or settlement] has been obtained and satisfied against the third party in the amount of $_____. [The court ordered a total of $_____ to be paid from the judgment for litigation expenses, attorney's fees, and a lien for compensation benefits paid, leaving a balance of $_____.]

5. Petitioner is entitled, under Section 3861 of the Labor Code, to a credit for the _____ [balance of the judgment or settlement] against its liability for compensation due or to become due under the Findings and Award.

WHEREFORE, petitioner requests that the Appeals Board make and issue its order allowing a credit to petitioner in the amount of $_____ against petitioner's liability for workers' compensation benefits.
Dated: _____.

_____ [firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Petitioner _____ [name]

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is for use by an employer or its insurance carrier to petition the appeals board for an order allowing as a credit against the amount of compensation to be paid, the balance of the amount recovered against a third-party tortfeasor by judgment or settlement after deduction of the expenses of litigation and attorney's fees and any amount used to reimburse the employer or its insurance carrier for compensation benefits paid [see Lab. Code § 3861].

[3] Credit Allowed

The appeals board will allow as a credit to the employer or its insurance carrier against liability for workers' compensation the amount of any recovery by an employee for his or her injury, either by settlement with or after judgment against a third-party tortfeasor that has not been applied to the payment of expenses or attorney's fees pursuant to Lab. Code §§ 3856, 3858, and 3860, or has not been applied to reimburse the employer [Lab. Code § 3861; see also § 577.335[4]].

[4] Comparative Negligence of Employer

[a] Determined in Judicial Forum

When the comparative fault of the employer, employee, and third-party tortfeasor has been determined in the third-party action, and the employer thereafter seeks to invoke the credit of Lab. Code § 3861 against future payments, the appeals board should deny the employer credit until the ratio of his or her contribution to the employee's damages corresponds to his or her proportional share of fault. Once the employer's workers' compensation contribution reaches this level, he or she should be granted credit for the full amount available under Lab. Code § 3861 [Associated Construction & Engineering Co. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 829, 843, 150 Cal. Rptr. 888, 587 P.2d 684] . That is, the employer is entitled to credit once it has paid the employee a threshold amount of benefits equal to its own proportionate share of the employee's total civil damages, and it is not obligated to first pay benefits equal to the combined share of both the employee and the employer prior to invoking the statutory credit [Rodgers v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 330, 338, 204 Cal. Rptr. 403, 682 P.2d 1068] .

[b] Determined by Appeals Board

When the issue of an employer's concurrent negligence arises in the context of his or her credit claim based on a third party settlement, the appeals board must determine the appropriate contribution of the employer because the employee's recovery does not represent a judicial determination of tort damages. Specifically, the board must determine the following:

- The degree of fault of the employer; and
- The total damages to which the employee is entitled.

The board must then deny the employer credit until the ratio of his or her contribution to the employee's damages corresponds to the employer's proportional share of fault. Once the employer's workers' compensation contribution reaches this level, the employer should be granted a credit for the full amount available under Lab. Code § 3861 [Associated Construction & Engineering Co. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 829, 843, 150 Cal. Rptr. 888, 587 P.2d 684 ; see Rodgers v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 330, 333, 341-342, 204 Cal. Rptr. 403, 682 P.2d 1068 ; and Kramer v. Cedu Foundation, Inc. (1979) 93 Cal. App. 3d 1, 8, 155 Cal. Rptr. 552] . Workers' compensation benefits previously paid by the employer must be included in calculating the employer's credit threshold, and the employer's credit threshold must be reduced by any amounts the employer receives by way of lien settlement from the third party [Southern Cal. Edison Co. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 766, 771-772, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 265] .

By way of example, assume an employee receives $20,000 in workers' compensation benefits, later sues a third party to recover for the same injury, and settles the case without the consent of the employer. Out of the settlement, the employee actually receives, after payment of expenses and attorney's fees within the meaning of Lab. Code § 3861, the sum of $25,000. (Out of the settlement, a nonnegligent employer would normally be entitled to reimbursement of the full $20,000 it paid and to a credit against its future liability of the $5,000 balance [see Lab. Code § 3860(b), discussed in § 577.335[3]].) Suppose the employee then seeks further benefits from the appeals board, and his or her employer claims a credit in the amount of the $25,000 settlement recovery. Under the foregoing principles, the board would then determine the employer's degree of fault and the employee's total damages. Should the board find the employer free of negligence, the employer would receive the benefit of the entire $25,000 settlement as a credit against future payments. Were the board, however, to determine that the employer was 50 percent negligent, and that the employee is entitled to $100,000 in damages, then the employer could not claim a credit until he or she contributed an additional $30,000 in benefits. The employer would then have contributed a total of $50,000 to the employee's recovery, or 50 percent of the employee's total damages of $100,000, and the ratio of his or her contribution to the employee's damages would correspond to his or her degree of fault [Associated Construction & Engineering Co. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 829, 843 n.10, 150 Cal. Rptr. 888, 587 P.2d 684 ; see Rodgers v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 330, 336, 204 Cal. Rptr. 403, 682 P.2d 1068] .

Had the employer received any settlement from the third party for workers' compensation benefits paid to the employee, the employer's credit threshold would be reduced by that amount. For example, if the employer had received $10,000 from the third-party tortfeasor as settlement of its $20,000 workers' compensation lien, the employer would not be entitled to claim credit until it paid the employee an additional $40,000 in workers' compensation benefits [Southern Cal. Edison Co. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 766, 771-772, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 265] .

88 of 88 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 578 RESERVED

51-578 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated Chapter 578

RESERVED

Chapter 578RESERVED

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated 579.syn

§ 579.syn Synopsis to Chapter 579: ZONING AND PLANNING

§ 579.01 Scope of Chapter

§ 579.02 Cross References

§§ 579.03through 579.09 [Reserved]

§ 579.10 Governing Law

§ 579.11 Relationship of Zoning and Planning

§ 579.12 Zoning Agencies and Tools

[1] Advisory Agencies

[2] Cities and Counties

[a] Agencies

[b] Plans and Ordinances

[c] Permits

[3] Coastal Commission

[4] Distinguished From Unconstitutional Taking of Property

[5] Raising Constitutional Issues

[a] Direct Challenge

[b] Collateral Attack in Eminent Domain Proceeding

§ 579.13 Zoning Generally

[1] Exercise of Police Power

[2] By General Law Cities and Counties

[a] Ordinance and Regulation

[b] Initiative or Referendum

[3] By Chartered Cities and Counties

[a] Ordinance and Regulation

[b] Initiative

[c] Applicability of State Regulations

§ 579.14 Legislative Versus Administrative Acts

[1] Limitation on Initiative and Referendum Power

[2] Judicial Review

§ 579.15 Preservation of Historical Property

§ 579.16 Open Space

[1] General Preservation

[2] Conservation of Agricultural Land

[a] Overview of Williamson Act

[b] Contents of Contract

[c] Enforcement of Contract

[d] Nonrenewal of Contract

[e] Cancellation of Contract

[f] Farmland Security Zones

[g] Agricultural Conservation Easements

[3] Timberland Preserve Zones

[4] Agricultural Land Stewardship Program

[5] Protection of Rangeland, Grazing Land, and Grassland

§ 579.17 Discrimination Prohibited

[1] Against Particular Parcels

[2] Against Particular Persons

§§ 579.18-579.29 [Reserved]

§ 579.30 Governing Law

§ 579.31 Purposes of Zoning

[1] Protecting Most Appropriate Use of Land and Maintaining Property Values

[2] Traffic Considerations

§ 579.32 Types of Uses and Zones; Control Methods

[1] Adoption of Ordinances

[2] Accessory Uses

[3] Conditional Uses

[4] Commercial Zones

[5] Residential Zones

[a] Protection of Home Life

[b] "Family" Restrictions

[6] Minimum Lot Sizes

[7] Setbacks

[8] Aesthetic Considerations

[a] Valid Objective

[b] First Amendment Limitations

[c] Architectural Policy

[d] Height Restrictions

[9] Cluster and Planned Unit Developments

§ 579.33 Spot Zoning

§§ 579.34-579.49 [Reserved]

§ 579.50 General Plan

[1] Adoption Is Mandatory

[2] Contents of General Plan

[3] Adoption of General Plan

[a] Legislative Act

[b] Procedures

[c] Effect of Adoption of General Plan

§ 579.51 Specific Plans

[1] Preperation Is Permissive

[2] Contents of Specific Plan

[3] Procedures Affecting Specific Plan

[4] Effect of Adoption of Specific Plan

[5] Assessment of Fees

§§ 579.52-579.69 [Reserved]

§ 579.70 Local Control Over Regulations

[1] Policy to Maximize

[2] Minimum Procedural Standards

[3] General Powers

[4] Statutory Limitations on Power

[a] Uniformity Within Zones

[b] Solar Energy Systems

[c] Manufactured Homes and Mobilehomes

§ 579.71 Enactment Procedures

[1] Generally

[2] Hearing Required

§ 579.72 Public Hearings

[1] Notice by Publication or Posting

[2] Notice by Mail or Delivery

[3] Notice to Blind, Aged, and Disabled of Hearing on Drive-Through Facility Permit

[4] Requests for Notice

[5] Failure to Receive Notice

[6] Continuances

§§ 579.73-579.89 [Reserved]

§ 579.90 Interim Ordinance

[1] Statutory Provision for Urgency Measure

[2] Purposes Served

§ 579.91 Holding Zone

§§ 579.92-579.109 [Reserved]

§ 579.110 Board of Zoning Adjustment

§ 579.111 Board of Appeals

[1] Generally

[2] Decision Requires Public Hearing

§ 579.112 Issuance of Variance or Permit

[1] Impermissible Conditions

[2] Fees

§ 579.113 Variances

[1] Grounds for Granting

[2] Challenging Constitutionality of Ordinance

[3] Unnecessary Hardship

[4] Special Circumstances

[5] Attachment of Conditions to Avoid Privilege

[6] Special Parking Rules

[7] Relationship to Legislative Zoning

§ 579.114 Conditional Use Permit

[1] Generally

[2] Criteria for Granting

[3] Challenging Issuance or Terms of Permit

[4] Revocation; Vested Rights

[5] Modification

§§ 579.115-579.129 [Reserved]

§ 579.130 Local Power

[1] Regulation of Construction and Removal of Buildings

[2] Permit Requirement

§ 579.131 Effect of State Provisions

§ 579.132 Expiration and Extension of Permits

§ 579.133 Effect of Change in Zoning Law

§ 579.134 Revocation

§ 579.135 Vested Rights

§ 579.136 Review

§ 579.137 State Building Codes

§ 579.138 State Housing Law

[1] Governing Statutes and Application of Law

[2] Statewide Standards

[3] Local Modification of Standards

[4] Challenge to Statewide Application

[5] Fees

§ 579.139 Individual Appeal of Application of Rule

§ 579.140 Enforcement

[1] Local Departments

[2] Inspections

§ 579.141 Violations

[1] Preliminary Notice to Correct

[2] Notice to Tenants

[3] Commencement of Abatement Proceedings

[4] Summons and Service

[5] Repair or Demolition of Building

[6] Relief Pending Order

[7] Notice of Action

[8] Penalties

[9] Restrictions on Abatement Proceedings

§ 579.142 Transfer of Ownership of Property in Violation

§§ 579.143-579.159 [Reserved]

§ 579.160 Nonconforming Uses

[1] Lawful Existing Use

[2] Actual Use

[3] Change or Expansion Prohibited

[4] Vested Rights to Extractive Uses: Diminishing Asset Doctrine

[5] Termination by Amortization

§§ 579.161-579.179 [Reserved]

§ 579.180 California Coastal Act

§ 579.181 Land Within Coastal Zone

§ 579.182 Implementation of Coastal Act

[1] California Coastal Commission

[2] Role of Local Government

§ 579.183 Policies Governing Coastal Development

§ 579.184 Development Controls

[1] Development Defined

[2] Necessity of Permit

[3] Permit Procedures

§ 579.185 Permit Required From State Commission

§ 579.186 Standing of Applicant

§ 579.187 Issuance of Permit

§ 579.188 Permit Not Necessary

[1] Generally

[2] Prior Permit

[3] Urban Areas

§ 579.189 Hearings Before Commission

§ 579.190 Permit Without Hearing

[1] Emergencies and Specified Nonemergency Developments

[2] Minor Developments

§ 579.191 Vested Rights

[1] Generally

[2] Confirmation of Claim

§ 579.192 Appeals to Commission

[1] Before Certification of Local Coastal Program--Appealable Decisions; Standing

[2] Time Limits for Filing

[3] After Certification of Local Coastal Program

[a] Standing

[b] Appealable Decisions

[c] Grounds for Appeal

[d] Time Limits for Filing Appeal

[4] Patently Frivolous Appeals; When Appeal Is Considered Filed

[5] Commission Decision to Hear Appeal

[6] Action on Appeal

§ 579.193 Reconsideration of Permit

§ 579.194 Violations of Coastal Act

[1] Notice of Violation

[2] Action to Restrain

[3] Penalties

[4] Transferability

[5] Remedies Not Exclusive

§§ 579.195-579.209 [Reserved]

§ 579.210 Standing

§ 579.211 Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

§ 579.212 Expedited Procedure for Review of Permit Decisions Involving First Amendment-Protected Expressive Conduct

§ 579.213 Rules of Procedure

§ 579.214 Harmless Error Rule

§ 579.215 Resolution of Zoning Disputes by Court-Initiated Mediation

§ 579.216 Review of Quasi-Judicial Acts

[1] By Administrative Mandate

[2] Variance

[3] Conditional Use Permit

[4] Variance and Permit Decisions--Priority on Court Calendar

[5] Limitation of Issues

[6] Pleading

[7] Developer Is Indispensable Party

[8] Scope of Review

[9] Standard of Review

[10] Res Judicata Effect

[11] By Writ of Review (Certiorari)

§ 579.217 Review of Ministerial Acts

§ 579.218 Review of Legislative Acts

[1] Presumption of Constitutionality

[2] Consideration of Regional Welfare

[3] Certainty Requirement

[4] Effect of Changed Circumstances

[5] By Traditional Mandate

[6] By Declaratory Relief

[7] By Injunctive Relief

[8] By Action for Inverse Condemnation

[9] Period of Limitation

§ 579.219 Low or Moderate Income Housing

§ 579.220 Joinder of Types of Relief

§ 579.221 Review of Ordinance Consistency With General Plan

[1] Required

[2] Enforcement Action

[3] Applicable to Charter Cities

§ 579.222 Review of Decisions Under California Coastal Act

[1] Decisions of Commission

[2] Decisions of Local Agency

§ 579.223 Actions to Challenge General Plan

[1] Traditional Mandate

[2] Time for Hearing

[3] Bringing General Plan Into Compliance

[a] 120-Day Time Limit

[b] Housing Element

[4] Remedies Available Pending Local Entity Compliance

[a] In General

[b] Exclusion of Project Required to Be Consistent

[c] Temporary Remedy

[5] Certain Housing Development May Not Be Enjoined

[6] Residential Housing

[a] Presumption Governing Low Income Housing

[b] Revocation of Building Permit Impermissible

[7] Reference of Action

[8] Environmental Effect

[9] Application

§§ 579.224-579.239 [Reserved]

§ 579.240 Inspections Require Consent

§ 579.241 Enforcement by Government Entity

[1] Civil or Criminal

[2] Estoppel From Enforcement

[3] Notice of Enforcement Action

[a] Recordation

[b] Vacation

[4] Statute of Limitations

§ 579.242 Injunctions

[1] Availability Generally

[2] Preliminary Injunctions

§ 579.243 Actions by Private Persons

[1] Injunctions

[2] Damages

[3] Mandate to Compel Action by Administrative Officer

[4] Period of Limitation

§ 579.244 Defenses

[1] Authorized Use

[2] Invalid Ordinance

[3] Unconstitutional Application of Ordinance

§§ 579.245-579.259 [Reserved]

§ 579.260 Governing Law

§ 579.261 Subdivision Map Act

§ 579.262 Definitions

[1] Subdivider

[2] Subdivision

[a] Generally

[b] Subsequent Subdivision

[c] Environmental Subdivision

[3] Local Agency

[4] Local Ordinance

[5] Tentative Map

§ 579.263 Projects Outside Scope of Act

[1] Generally

[2] Regulation by Local Agency

§ 579.264 Local Control

§ 579.265 Map Requirement

[1] Governing Statutes

[2] Tentative and Final Map

[3] Vesting Tentative Map

[4] Parcel Map

[a] When Required

[b] Waiver

§ 579.266 Map Procedures

§ 579.267 Tentative Map

[1] Notice of Filing

[2] Filing

[3] Staff Recommendation

[4] Procedure When Advisory Agency Exists--Decision or Report

[5] Decision

[6] Report

[7] Procedure When No Advisory Agency Exists

[8] Approval Conditioned on Availability of Sufficient Water Supply

[9] Expiration

§ 579.268 Final Map

[1] Preparation

[2] Filing

[3] Approval

§ 579.269 Factors Governing Map Decisions

[1] Generally

[2] Tentative Map or Parcel Map

[a] Prerequisites

[b] Disapproval Mandatory

[3] Final Map

§ 579.270 Approval Conditioned on Indemnification

§ 579.271 Obligations of Subdivider

[1] Dedication of Land

[2] Reservation for Public Uses

[3] Fees

§ 579.272 Appeals

[1] By Developer or Tenant From Advisory Agency Action

[2] From Appeal Board Action

[a] When Appeal Board Acts

[b] When Appeal Board Fails to Act

[3] By Adversely Affected Person

[4] Notice Requirements

§ 579.273 Hearings Under Act

[1] Required for Signficant Deprivation of Property Right

[2] Notice and Attendance

§ 579.274 Reversion

[1] Generally

[2] Prerequisites to Reversion

[3] Effect of Reversion

[4] Filing of Parcel Map for Reversion

[5] Resubdivision Without Reversion

§ 579.275 Exclusion

[1] Procedure

[2] Effect

§ 579.276 Effect of Noncompliance With Act

§ 579.277 Violation of Act

[1] Permit Precluded

[2] Conditional Permit

[3] Certificate of Compliance Available

§ 579.278 Notice of Violation

[1] Notice of Intention to Record

[2] Determination of Violation

§ 579.279 Certificate of Compliance

[1] Request by Owner or Vendee

[2] Conditional Certificate

[3] Contents of Certificate

[4] Antiquated Subdivision Maps

§ 579.280 Review of Decisions Under Subdivision Map Act

[1] Limitation Period

[2] Priority on Court Calendar

[3] Mediation of Disputes Involving Subdivision Map Act Time Limits

[4] Standard of Review

[a] Approval of Tentative Subdivision Map

[b] Approval of Final Subdivision Map

§ 579.281 Subdivided Lands Act

§ 579.282 Subdivided Lands and Subdivision

[1] Within Subdivided Lands Act

[2] Exempt From Subdivided Lands Act

§ 579.283 Public Report

[1] Application

[2] Issued by Commissioner

[3] Denial of Public Report

[a] Grounds

[b] Objection to Denial

§ 579.284 Desist Order

[1] Grounds for Issuance

[2] Review Procedure

§ 579.285 Violations

[1] Injunctive Relief

[2] Accrual of Cause of Action

[3] Misrepresentation

[4] Recission of Contract

§ 579.286 Regulation of Time-Share Developments

[1] The Vacation Ownership and Time-Share Act of 2004 (VOTSA)

[2] Scope and Application of VOTSA

[a] Projects That Must Be Registered

[b] Exempt Projects

[c] Effect of VOTSA on Time-Share Plans Registered Before July 1, 2005

[3] Registration Requirements

[4] Public Report

[5] Prohibited Marketing Practices

[6] Resolution of Disputes Between Time-Share Interest Owners or Association and Developer

[6A] Regular and Special Assessments

[7] Investigation of Violations and Enforcement of VOTSA

[8] Owners' and Association's Right to Relief

§ 579.287 Interstate Land Sales

§ 579.288 Definitions

§ 579.289 Exemptions

§ 579.290 Acts Prohibited

§ 579.291 Revocation of Contract or Agreement

§ 579.292 Civil Liabilities

§ 579.293 No Limitation of Rights

§ 579.294 Injunctions and Investigations

§ 579.295 Penalties

§ 579.296 Jurisdiction and Venue

§ 579.297 Interplay With State Law

§§ 579.298-579.309 [Reserved]

§ 579.310 California Legal Forms

§ 579.311 California Real Estate

§ 579.312 California Environmental Law

§ 579.313 Federal Statutes

§ 579.314 State Statutes

[1] Building Regulations

[2] Cemeteries

[3] Coastal Lands

[4] General

[5] Judicial Review

[6] Plans

[7] Zoning Regulations

§ 579.315 Federal Regulations

§ 579.316 State Regulations

§ 579.317 Decisions

[1] Accessory Uses

[2] Administrative Mandate

[3] Adult Entertainment Zoning

[4] Aesthetics

[5] Building Permits

[6] California Coastal Act

[a] Definition of Development

[b] EIR

[c] In General

[d] Permits

[e] Vested Right

[7] Conditional Use Permit

[a] Application

[b] Approval

[c] Condition

[d] Estoppel

[e] Expiration

[f] Review

[g] Standards

[8] Constitutional Challenges

[a] Deprivation of Property

[b] Discriminatory Zoning

[c] Due Process

[d] Equal Protection

[e] First Amendment Impact

[f] Free Exercise of Religion

[g] Method of Challenge

[h] Right of Privacy

[9] Declaratory Relief

[10] Dedication

[11] Development Agreements

[12] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

[13] Enforcement of Zoning Ordinances

[a] Against Municipality

[b] By Government Entity

[c] By Private Persons

[14] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

[15] Families

[16] Federal Preemption

[17] General Plan

[a] In General

[b] Amendment

[c] Consistency of Specific Plan

[d] Consistency of Zoning With Plan

[18] Interim Ordinances

[19] Judicial Review in General

[20] Nonconforming Use

[a] Amortization Period

[b] In General

[21] Notice and Hearing

[22] Particular Zone Requirements

[23] Purposes of Zoning--Traffic Considerations

[23A] Religious Land Use and Institutionalized Persons Act

[24] Traditional Mandate

[25] Variance

[a] Conditions

[b] Grounds

[c] Review

[26] Vested Rights

[27] Waiver

§ 579.318 Attorney General Opinions

§ 579.319 Law Reviews

§ 579.320 Text References

§§ 579.321-579.339 [Reserved]

§ 579.340 California Legal Forms

§ 579.341 California Real Estate

§ 579.342 California Environmental Law

§ 579.343 Federal Statutes

§ 579.344 State Statutes

§ 579.345 Federal Regulations

§ 579.346 State Regulations

§ 579.347 Decisions

[1] Certificate of Compliance

[2] Development Fees

[3] Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act

[4] Subdivided Lands Act

[5] Subdivision Map Act

[a] In General

[b] Effect of Noncompliance with Act

[c] Extension

[d] Map Approval

[e] Noticed Hearing

[f] Periods of Limitation

[g] Remedies

[h] Vesting Tentative Maps

§ 579.348 Attorney General Opinions

§ 579.349 Law Reviews

§ 579.350 Text References

§§ 579.351-579.369 [Reserved]

§ 579.370 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Declaratory Relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060] and for Preliminary [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 527(a)] and Permanent Injunctions [Civ. Code § 3422]--Zoning Ordinance Unconstitutional and Void [U.S. Const., Amends. V, XIV § 1; Cal. Const., art. IV, § 16(a)]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Constitutional Challenges

[a] Generally

[b] Method of Challenge

[4] Allegations

[5] State Statutes

[6] Decisions

[7] Cross References

§ 579.371 Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086]--To Review Administrative Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5]--Denial of Variance

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] State Statutes

[5] Decisions

§ 579.372 Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086]--To Review Administrative Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5]--Conditional Use Permit Issued Subject to Invalid Condition [Gov. Code § 65909]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

[4] Decisions

§ 579.373 Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086]--To Compel Issuance of Building Permit

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Allegations

§ 579.374 Summons for Enforcement of State Housing Law [Health & Safety Code § 17990]---Judicial Council Form SUM-145

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Contents of Summons

[4] Summons Procedure

§§ 579.375-579.389 [Reserved]

§ 579.390 Petition to Exclude Real Property From Subdivision [Gov. Code § 66499.22]

[1] FORM

[2] Use of Form

[3] Contents of Petition

[4] Jurisdiction

[5] Notice of Petition

[6] Hearing

[7] Decree

[8] State Statutes

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART I. SCOPE

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.01

§ 579.01 Scope of Chapter

This chapter discusses zoning and planning. The legal background analysis is divided into subparts, discussing use zoning and the purposes of zoning [see § 579.30 et seq.], general and specific plans [see § 579.50 et seq.], zoning ordinances [see § 579.70 et seq.], interim zoning [see § 579.90 et seq.], variances and conditional use permits [see § 579.110 et seq.], building permits [see § 579.130 et seq.], nonconforming uses [see § 579.160 et seq.], the coastal zone [see § 579.180 et seq.], and judicial review and enforcement [see § 579.210 et seq.]. It includes a form of complaint for declaratory and injunctive relief from an unconstitutional zoning ordinance [see § 579.370], and petitions for writ of mandate to review administrative decisions [see §§ 579.371 -579.373].

This chapter also discusses the Subdivision Map Act [see § 579.260 et seq.]. It also discusses the Subdivided Lands Act, the regulation of time-share developments, and the Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act, which contain provisions controlling the development and sale of subdivisions and other subdivided lands.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesWritsCommon Law WritsMandamusEnvironmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementEnforcementEnvironmental LawZoning & Land UseConditional Use Permits & VariancesReal Property LawPurchase & SaleInterstate Land Sales Full Disclosure ActReal Property LawZoning & Land UseJudicial Review

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART I. SCOPE

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.02

§ 579.02 Cross References

For discussion relating to notice requirements for proposed change in the use of a cemetery for other than cemetery purposes, see Ch. 180, Dead Bodies and Cemeteries

For discussion of eminent domain, see Ch. 247, Eminent Domain and Inverse Condemnation

For additional coverage of zoning, planning, and the Subdivision Map Act, see Manaster and Selmi, California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice, Ch. 60, Zoning , Ch. 61, Subdivision Regulation , and Ch. 62, Planning (Matthew Bender)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawEminent Domain ProceedingsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawInverse CondemnationGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART I. SCOPE

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 579.03through 579.09

[Reserved]

§§ 579.03[Reserved]

5 of 157 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Introduction to Zoning and Planning Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.10

§ 579.10 Governing Law

The necessity for compensation for the public taking of private property is governed by U.S. Const., amends. V, XIV § 1, and Cal. Const., art. I, § 19. Planning and zoning is governed generally by Gov. Code § 65000 et seq., and by city and county ordinances and regulations.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Constitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental RightsEminent Domain & TakingsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseLocal PlanningReal Property LawZoning & Land UseState & Regional Planning

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Introduction to Zoning and Planning Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.11

§ 579.11 Relationship of Zoning and Planning

Although local planning embraces zoning, the converse does not hold true. While not devoid of planning, zoning does not include the whole of planning. Zoning is a separation of the local legislative body into districts, the regulation of buildings and structures, according to their construction and use, and the regulation of the nature and extent of land uses. Planning has a much broader connotation. It is concerned with the physical development of the community in relation to its social and economic well-being, according to a master plan based on comprehensive surveys of present conditions and the prospects of future growth. It is an exercise of the state's inherent authority to have recourse to those measures that may serve the basic common moral and material needs [O'Loane v. O'Rourke (1965) 231 Cal. App. 2d 774, 780, 42 Cal. Rptr. 283] . Zoning changes can promote rational and orderly land-use planning. Zoning changes must conform to the city's general plan, which must in turn conform to requirements established by state statute [Arnel Development Co. v. City of Costa Mesa (1980) 28 Cal. 3d 511, 524, 169 Cal. Rptr. 904, 620 P.2d 565] .

For detailed coverage of zoning and planning, see Manaster and Selmi, California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice, Chs. 60 Zoning , and 62 Planning (Matthew Bender).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawZoning & Land UseGeneral OverviewReal Property LawZoning & Land UseLocal PlanningReal Property LawZoning & Land UseState & Regional Planning

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Introduction to Zoning and Planning Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.12

§ 579.12 Zoning Agencies and Tools

[1] Advisory Agencies

The Office of Planning and Research (OPR) is governed by Gov. Code §§ 65025-65049. It is responsible for developing state land use policies, coordinating planning of all state agencies, and assisting and monitoring local and regional planning, but OPR has no direct operating or regulatory powers [see Gov. Code § 65035]. Similarly, a regional district may develop a regional plan setting forth a comprehensive, long-term general plan for the physical development of that region. That plan is advisory only, and does not bind local planning [see generally Gov. Code §§ 65060-65060.8].

[2] Cities and Counties

[a] Agencies

Each city and county has the power necessary to carry out the purposes of Gov. Code §§ 65000-66499.58 (planning and land use), either through an assigned planning agency or through its legislative body. The legislative body of each city and county may assign the functions of the planning agency to a planning department, one or more planning commissions, administrative bodies or hearing officers, the legislative body itself, or any combination thereof, as it deems appropriate. In the absence of such an assignment, the legislative body will carry out all the functions of the planning agency [Gov. Code § 65100].

[b] Plans and Ordinances

Each planning agency must prepare, and the legislative body of each city and county must adopt, a general plan for that city or county [see Gov. Code § 65300]. The planning agency may prepare specific plans for the systematic implementation of the general plan for adoption by the legislative body [Gov. Code §§ 65450, 65453]. Revision and implementation of the general plan through the administration of specific plans and zoning and subdivision ordinances is a function of the planning agency [see Gov. Code § 65103].

The legislative body of any city or county may adopt zoning ordinances [Gov. Code § 65850]. County or city zoning ordinances must be consistent with the general plan of that county or city [Gov. Code § 65860(a)]. That legislative body may establish a board of zoning adjustment, an office of zoning administrator, and a board of appeals to hear and decide on applications for variances, conditional use permits, and other permits [see Gov. Code §§ 65900, 65901].

The development of subdivisions is governed by the Subdivision Map Act which sets forth statewide requirements, but which vests powers of regulation and control in the legislative bodies of cities and counties [see Gov. Code §§ 66410-66499.37, 66411, 66420]. The statewide building requirements set forth in Health & Safety Code §§ 17910-17995.5 are generally enforced by the planning or building department designated to do so by each city and county [see Health & Safety Code § 17964].

[c] Permits

As a practical manner, zoning decisions are based on the permit process, which involves an application for a permit, review of the application, and a decision by the administrative agency. Review of that decision may be available as part of the administrative process, and is available through judicial review. Even if a zoning ordinance does not require a permit for a specified use, typically a building permit will be required. Moreover, a zoning ordinance may necessitate a conditional use permit or a variance for specified uses. The map requirement for development of a subdivision is very similar to a permit. Development within the coastal zone requires a coastal development permit.

[3] Coastal Commission

If land is within the coastal zone, it is within the jurisdiction of the California Coastal Commission, and applications for development permits will be made to the local government, with rights of appeal to the commission [see generally Pub. Res. Code §§ 30330-30355, 30600-30627].

[4] Distinguished From Unconstitutional Taking of Property

All zoning restricts an owner regarding the uses that can be made of his or her property, thereby possibly resulting in some sort of diminution in the value of property [see Mid-Way Cabinet etc. Mfg. v. County of San Joaquin (1967) 257 Cal. App. 2d 181, 188-192, 65 Cal. Rptr. 37] . However, the federal and state governments are prohibited from taking private property for public use without just compensation [U.S. Const., Amends. V, XIV, § 1; Cal. Const., art. I, § 19].

The conflicting concepts of the constitutional mandate which states that compensation must be paid when private property is taken for a public purpose and the police power to zone under which compensation need not be paid are not clearly differentiated and each case must stand or fall on its own particular facts [Southern Pac. Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1966) 242 Cal. App. 2d 38, 46, 51 Cal. Rptr. 197] . Where that line will be drawn is essentially a question of reasonableness. The determination of reasonableness is a factual one encompassing the interests of the public, the appropriateness of the means, and the oppressiveness of the action [Dahl v. City of Palo Alto (ND Cal. 1974) 372 F. Supp. 647, 648] .

An ordinance that on its face results in a mere diminution in the value of property is not per se improper. However, if the zoning regulation is so unreasonable or arbitrary as to deprive a person of the complete use and enjoyment of his or her property, it may be unconstitutionally excessive [Agins v. Tiburon (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 266, 272, 277, 157 Cal. Rptr. 372, 598 P.2d 25 , aff'd, 447 U.S. 255, 259, 100 S. Ct. 2138, 65 L. Ed. 2d 106 (1980)] . An amendment to a zoning ordinance may be an unconstitutionally excessive regulation. For example, when an ordinance contained a provision for a special use permit, amendment of that ordinance eliminating the possibility of that permit may be unconstitutional when the use formerly allowed by the permit is the only suitable use of a parcel of land, thereby depriving the landowner of substantially all reasonable use of the property [see North Sacramento Land Co. v. City of Sacramento (1983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 576, 579-580, 189 Cal. Rptr. 739] .

Although a development pemit under a zoning ordinance may include conditions that would be considered a public taking of private property ifnot attached to the permit, there must be a nexus between the prohibition or restriction on the landowner and the public purpose advanced as justification for the prohibition. For example, a coastal development permit to build a home conditioned on the landowner conveying an easement allowing the public to pass along a beach, imposed to further the governmental interest of preserving the public's access to and view of the ocean, was held to be invalid as a public taking without compensation [Nollan v. California Coastal Comm'n (1987) 483 U.S. 825, 836, 107 S. Ct. 3141, 97 L. Ed. 2d 677 (suggesting that requiring an easement from the street to the beach or for a view point might have been so related to the stated governmental interest as to be a valid condition)]. If the essential nexus is found, there must be an inquiry into whether there is a "rough proportionality" between the conditions imposed on approval of the permit and their impact on the property owner's proposed development. No precise mathematical calculation is required, but the local governmental entity responsible for ruling on the permit must make some sort of individualized determination that the conditions imposed are related both in nature and extent to the projected impact of the proposed development [see Dolan v. City of Tigard (1994) 512 U.S. 374, 391, 114 S. Ct. 2309, 129 L. Ed. 2d 304 (approval of building permit conditioned on dedication of portion of applicant's property for flood control and traffic purposes was unconstitutional taking)].

The constitutional property rights preserved to the individual are held in subordination to the rights of society. Incidental damages to property resulting from governmental activities or laws passed in the promotion of the public welfare are not considered a taking of the property for which compensation must be made [HFH, Ltd. v. Superior Court (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 508, 513-515, 125 Cal. Rptr. 365, 542 P.2d 237] . For example, an ordinance prohibiting a landowner from removing rental units from the housing market by conversion or demolition without a removal permit is valid. Adequate housing for its residents is a legitimate government interest, and since the regulation did not interfere with the owner's primary, investment-backed expectations and did not render the owner unable to receive a reasonable return on his or her investment, there was no taking of property [Nash v. City of Santa Monica (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 97, 102-103, 207 Cal. Rptr. 285, 688 P.2d 894] .

Great financial losses should not be inflicted on an individual property owner when the benefits to the public are negligible, but public welfare and public convenience do control [Consolidated Rock Products Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 515, 532, 20 Cal. Rptr. 638, 370 P.2d 342] . A zoning ordinance will be upheld, against a due process attack, unless its provisions are clearly arbitrary and unreasonable, and have no substantial relation to the public health, safety, morals, or general welfare [Nash v. City of Santa Monica (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 97, 103, 207 Cal. Rptr. 285, 688 P.2d 894] .

If, however, a zoning regulation is ultimately held to be unconstitutional as a taking of property, the landowner is entitled to compensation for the period during which the regulation deprived the landowner of all use of his or her land [First Lutheran Church v. Los Angeles County (1987) 482 U.S. 304, 320, 107 S. Ct. 2378, 96 L. Ed. 2d 250 (this compensation requirement apparently is limited to the situation in which the owner is deprived of all use of its property; it is not required in the case of normal delays in obtaining building permits, changes in zoning ordinances, variances, and the like)].

[5] Raising Constitutional Issues

[a] Direct Challenge

A landowner alleging that a zoning ordinance has deprived him or her of substantially all use of his or her land may attempt through declaratory relief or mandamus to invalidate the ordinance as excessive regulation in violation of U.S. Const., amend. V, and Cal. Const., art. I, § 19 [Agins v. Tiburon (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 266, 273, 157 Cal. Rptr. 372, 598 P.2d 25 , aff'd, 447 U.S. 255, 259, 100 S. Ct. 2138, 65 L. Ed. 2d 106 (1980)] .

A challenge asserting that a zoning statute or ordinance is facially unconstitutional is made by an action for declaratory relief [see Agins v. Tiburon (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 266, 272-273, 276-277, 157 Cal. Rptr. 372, 598 P.2d 25 , aff'd, 447 U.S. 255, 259, 100 S. Ct. 2138, 65 L. Ed. 2d 106 (1980)] . Injunctive relief is also available to prevent the enforcement of, and the expenditure of public funds on, a facially unconstitutional ordinance [see State v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 250-252, 255, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281] . For a form of complaint challenging the constitutionality of a zoning ordinance, see § 579.370.

On the other hand, neither declaratory nor injunctive relief is appropriate to challenge an administrative decision applying an ordinance to the land of an individual property owner. In that case, a writ of administrative mandate would be the proper vehicle for review [see Agins v. Tiburon (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 266, 272-273, 276-277, 157 Cal. Rptr. 372, 598 P.2d 25 , aff'd, 447 U.S. 255, 259, 100 S. Ct. 2138, 65 L. Ed. 2d 106 (1980) ; State v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 249, 251, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281 ; see also §§ 579.371 -579.373].

The California Supreme Court has held that a landowner may not elect to sue in inverse condemnation and thereby transmute an excessive use of the police power into a lawful taking for which compensation in eminent domain must be paid [Agins v. Tiburon (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 266, 272-273, 157 Cal. Rptr. 372, 598 P.2d 25 , aff'd, 447 U.S. 255, 259, 100 S. Ct. 2138, 65 L. Ed. 2d 106 (1980)] . However, although a landowner may not use inverse condemnation to compel the exercise of eminent domain prospectively with respect to an unconstitutional regulation, and the governmental entity remains free to abandon or modify the regulation, orto choose to exercise eminent domain, the landowner is entitled to compensation for the period of time during which the regulation denied that landowner the use of all of his or her land. This compensation requirement, however, is limited to the situation in which the owner is deprived of all use of its property [First Lutheran Church v. Los Angeles County (1987) 482 U.S. 304, 321, 107 S. Ct. 2378, 96 L. Ed. 2d 250] . The U.S. Supreme Court expressly stated that it was not dealing with the questions that would arise in the case of normal delays in obtaining building permits, changes in zoning ordinances, variances, and the like [First Lutheran Church v. Los Angeles County (1987) 482 U.S. 304, 321, 107 S. Ct. 2378, 96 L. Ed. 2d 250] . For discussion of inverse condemnation, see Ch. 247, Eminent Domain and Inverse Condemnation .

[b] Collateral Attack in Eminent Domain Proceeding

Although typically a collateral attack on zoning is not permitted in an eminent domain proceeding, when the condemner purporting to exercise its police power by enacting a zoning ordinance has in reality discriminated against a particular parcel or parcels of land to depress their value with a view to future takings in eminent domain, the condemnee may attack the validity of the invalid zoning ordinance in the eminent domain action and, if successful, require that his or her property be valued free of the zoning restrictions [People ex rel. Dept. of Public Works v. Southern Pac. Trans. Co. (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 960, 965, 109 Cal. Rptr. 525 ; see Toso v. City of Santa Barbara (1980) 101 Cal. App. 3d 934, 949, 162 Cal. Rptr. 210 (action by former holder of option to purchase land, not landowner); Peacock v. County of Sacramento (1969) 271 Cal. App. 2d 845, 856-863, 77 Cal. Rptr. 391] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawZoning & Land UseGeneral OverviewReal Property LawSubdivisionsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawZoning & Land UseConstitutional LimitsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseOrdinances

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Introduction to Zoning and Planning Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.13

§ 579.13 Zoning Generally

[1] Exercise of Police Power

A local legislative body has the right to divide land into districts and prescribe regulations for its use, consistent with the reasonable exercise of the police power. However, that police power is not unlimited, and regulation of the use of property must be reasonable. Local governments may not impose restrictions that are oppressive, unnecessary, or unreasonable on the use of private property or the pursuit of useful activities [Skalko v. City of Sunnyvale (1939) 14 Cal. 2d 213, 215-216, 93 P.2d 93] . It is not required that the proscribed use of each individual lot in a zone will have a negative effect on the surrounding property if the zoning plan, as a whole, promotes the objectives of the police power [Hamer v. Town of Ross (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 776, 788, 31 Cal. Rptr. 335, 382 P.2d 375] . The zoning power has a much wider scope than the mere suppression of the offensive uses of property; it may be invoked not only negatively, but constructively and affirmatively for the promotion of the public welfare [see Clemons v. City of Los Angeles (1950) 36 Cal. 2d 95, 103-104, 222 P.2d 439] .

The segregation of residences, industries, commercial, and mercantile businesses of diverse kinds to particular localities is within the local police power, and bears a rational relation to the health, safety, and general welfare of the community. In recognition of the fact that the introduction of some uses, such as business or industry, into some districts, such as a strictly uniform residential district, operates in some measure to lower the value and depreciate the desirability of surrounding property, a city may establish and maintain residential and quasi-residential districts and exclude all nonconforming and conflicting uses from those districts [see Fourcade v. San Francisco (1925) 196 Cal. 655, 662, 664, 238 P. 934 ; Sechrist v. Municipal Court (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 737, 743, 134 Cal. Rptr. 733] .

Property owners have no vested right to continuity of the zoning of the general area in which they reside [Robinson v. City of Los Angeles (1956) 146 Cal. App. 2d 810, 816, 304 P.2d 814] . A change in the zoning restrictions in an area does not impair the enforceability of existing deed restrictions. In other words, while rezoning makes possible a change in an area, it cannot by itself create the change [Seaton v. Clifford (1972) 24 Cal. App. 3d 46, 52, 100 Cal. Rptr. 779] .

[2] By General Law Cities and Counties

[a] Ordinance and Regulation

A county or city may make and enforce within its limits all local, police, sanitary, and other ordinances and regulations not in conflict with general laws [Cal. Const., art. XI, § 7]. Gov. Code §§ 65800-65912 provide for the adoption and administration of zoning laws, ordinances, rules, and regulations by general law counties and cities.

[b] Initiative or Referendum

The powers of initiative and referendum are reserved to the people and may be exercised by the electors of each city or county under procedures provided by the Legislature [Cal. Const., art. II, § 11; art. IV, § 1; see Elec. Code §§ 3700-3720, 4000-4021 (county and city initiatives, respectively); Elec. Code §§ 3750 et seq., 4050-4061 (county and city referenda, respectively); see also Ch. 302, Initiative, Referendum, and Recall [. These procedures may be used to enact zoning ordinances [see Associated Home Builders etc., Inc. v. City of Livermore (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 582, 588, 593, 135 Cal. Rptr. 41, 557 P.2d 473] . These procedures do not apply to cities governed by charter rather than by general law [Cal. Const., art. II, § 11; Elec. Code § 4061; see § 579.13[3]].

The notice and hearing provisions of Gov. Code §§ 65853-65857 do not apply to zoning by initiative [Associated Home Builders etc., Inc. v. City of Livermore (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 582, 596, 135 Cal. Rptr. 41, 557 P.2d 473 ; for discussion of Gov. Code §§ 65853-65857, see § 579.71]. Although zoning by initiative is not required to provide the notice to landowners required of legislative zoning by Gov. Code § 65856, affected landowners have the opportunity to present their case to the electorate [Arnel Development Co. v. City of Costa Mesa (1980) 28 Cal. 3d 511, 524, 169 Cal. Rptr. 904, 620 P.2d 565] . A zoning ordinance adopted by initiative may not be amended or repealed except by a vote of the people, absent a provision otherwise [Elec. Code § 4013; C-Y Development Co. v. City of Redlands (1982) 137 Cal. App. 3d 926, 932, 187 Cal. Rptr. 370] .

[3] By Chartered Cities and Counties

[a] Ordinance and Regulation

A chartered county or chartered city may make and enforce within its limits all local, police, sanitary, and other ordinances and regulations with respect to its affairs, subject only to restrictions and limitations within its charter, so long as the ordinance or regulation is not in conflict with general laws [see Cal. Const., art. XI, §§ 5, 7; see also Regents of University of California v. City of Santa Monica (1978) 77 Cal. App. 3d 130, 135-137, 143 Cal. Rptr. 276] .

[b] Initiative

For its own government, a county or city may adopt a charter by majority vote of its electors. An election to amend, revise, or repeal the charter may be proposed by initiative or by the governing body [see Cal. Const., art. XI, § 3]. The initiative power may extend to all local legislation, including zoning ordinances [see Bayless v. Limber (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 463, 468-470, 102 Cal. Rptr. 647 ; see also Civ. Code § 3536].

An initiative measure limiting municipal growth that is inconsistent with the general plan cannot be construed as an amendment to the general plan if there is no basis in the title, ballot summary, or elsewhere in the ballot materials to support the conclusion that the voters both understand that the initiative amends the general plan and that they intend to do so. If an initiative is a zoning ordinance and is inconsistent with the general plan, the initiative is invalid [Lesher Communications, Inc. v. City of Walnut Creek (1990) 52 Cal. 3d 531, 540-546, 277 Cal. Rptr. 1, 802 P.2d 317] . An initiative that does not directly amend a city's general plan but directs the city council to amend the plan is invalid as beyond the power of initiative [Marblehead v. City of San Clemente (1991) 226 Cal. App. 3d 1504, 1509-1510, 277 Cal. Rptr. 550] .

An initiative is not proper when the power to make the decision has been delegated by the Legislature to the legislative body, such as when a statute authorized the board of supervisors to enact ordinances for development fees [Committee of Seven Thousand v. Superior Court (1988) 45 Cal. 3d 491, 500-507, 247 Cal. Rptr. 362, 754 P.2d 708] . An initiative that requires the vote of the electorate on a general plan amendment for an annexation also is invalid because annexation procedures are a matter of state-wide concern and therefore are not subject to municipal initiatives [L. I. F. E. Committee v. City of Lodi (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 1139, 1146-1148, 262 Cal. Rptr. 166] .

Zoning by initiative process in a chartered city does not have to conform to the notice and hearing requirements applicable to ordinances that are enacted by a legislative body. A hearing on a legislative matter is held to inform the lawmakers of relevant facts and policy considerations; it is not held to protect individual rights, property, or otherwise. Unless constitutionally compelled, the requirements for lawmaking by the legislative process should not be imposed on lawmaking by the initiative process. The electoral process itself normally provides both notice and an opportunity to be heard to all electors, by written arguments and otherwise [Bayless v. Limber (1972) 26 Cal. App. 3d 463, 468-470, 102 Cal. Rptr. 647 ; see Elec. Code § 4017].

[c] Applicability of State Regulations

If a chartered city has an ordinance that pertains to a purely municipal matter, it is not automatically invalid because it is in conflict with general state laws or because state laws have been enacted that cover the same subject. However, for matters that are of statewide concern, chartered cities remain subject to and controlled by applicable general state laws if it is the intent and purpose of those general laws to occupy the field to the exclusion of municipal regulation [City of Los Angeles v. Department of Health (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 473, 479, 133 Cal. Rptr. 771] . Thus, when intended to be applicable through out the state, state zoning laws apply to chartered cities.

Although Gov. Code §§ 65100-65763 (local planning) and Gov. Code §§ 65800-65912 (zoning regulations) do not generally apply to chartered cities, there are some notable exceptions, among them the applicability of the procedural standards and rules set forth in Gov. Code § 65804 [Gov. Code §§ 65700, 65803, 65804]. Chartered cities must adopt general plans containing the mandatory elements of Gov. Code § 65302 [Gov. Code § 65300; for discussion of Gov. Code § 65302, see § 579.50[2]]. Gov. Code § 65008, prohibiting discrimination in actions pursuant to Gov. Code §§ 65000-66499.58 (planning and land use), and Gov. Code § 65104, describing allowable fees, specifically apply to chartered cities. Additionally, Gov. Code §§ 65590, 65590.1 (low and moderate income housing within coastal zone), Gov. Code §§ 65913, 65914 (housing development approvals), and Gov. Code §§ 65915-65918 (incentives and density bonuses) all apply to chartered cities [Gov. Code §§ 65700, 65913.9, 65918, respectively].

Often, the application of statewide zoning provisions to chartered cities is a reflection that the topic is a matter of statewide concern [see, e.g., Gov. Code §§ 65850.5, 65913.9]. Indeed, in declaring legislative policy toward open-space zoning, Gov. Code § 65561 says that it is necessary to provide for the development of statewide coordinated plans for the conservation and preservation of open-space lands and thus includes charter cities within that goal [Gov. Code § 65561(d)]. The state statutes governing local regulation of solar energy systems apply to chartered cities [Gov. Code § 65850.5]. Gov. Code § 65852.3 pertaining to manufactured homes is also specifically applicable to charter cities.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLegislationInitiative & ReferendumGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsChartersGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsOrdinances & RegulationsGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsPolice PowerReal Property LawZoning & Land UseOrdinances

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Introduction to Zoning and Planning Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.14

§ 579.14 Legislative Versus Administrative Acts

[1] Limitation on Initiative and Referendum Power

The powers of referendum and initiative apply only to legislative acts by a local governing body [Yost v. Thomas (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 561, 569, 205 Cal. Rptr. 801, 685 P.2d 1152] . The adoption or amendment of a general plan or a specific plan is a legislative act [Yost v. Thomas (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 561, 570, 205 Cal. Rptr. 801, 685 P.2d 1152] . Similarly, the enactment of zoning ordinances or amendments are legislative acts; the size of the area or the number of property owners affected is not relevant [Arnel Development Co. v. City of Costa Mesa (1980) 28 Cal. 3d 511, 515-516, 169 Cal. Rptr. 904, 620 P.2d 565] . Administrative decisions, such as variances, use permits, subdivision maps, and similar proceedings are adjudicative [Arnel Development Co. v. City of Costa Mesa (1980) 28 Cal. 3d 511, 522, 522 n.11, 169 Cal. Rptr. 904, 620 P.2d 565] .

The formal name of an act of local authorities, such as whether it is called an ordinance or a resolution, is not determinative of its legislative or administrative nature. Actions that relate to subjects of a permanent or general character are considered to be legislative, while those that are temporary in operation and effect are not. Acts constituting a declaration of public purpose or policy and making provisions for ways and means of its accomplishment, may be seen as legislative. The crucial test is whether the action is making a new law or executing a law already in existence. Administrative acts are those that are assigned to the executive department or necessary to be done to carry out legislative policies already declared by the legislative body [O'Loane v. O'Rourke (1965) 231 Cal. App. 2d 774, 783-784, 42 Cal. Rptr. 283] .

Acts of a local governing body which, in a purely local context, would otherwise be legislative may become administrative in a situation in which the state's system of regulation over a matter of statewide concern is so pervasive that it converts the local legislative body into an administrative agency of the state. However, state regulation of a matter does not necessarily preempt the power of local voters to act when there is wide discretion to a local government not only to determine the contents of its land use plans, but to choose how to implement those plans. Thus, the California Coastal Act [Pub. Res. Code § 30000 et seq.], does not preclude a referendum on a local land use measure affecting the coastal zone adopted by the local governing body after the California Coastal Commission has approved the city's land use plan, because the local government has wide discretion in implementing the plan [Yost v. Thomas (1984) 36 Cal. 3d 561, 569-573, 205 Cal. Rptr. 801, 685 P.2d 1152] .

[2] Judicial Review

In addition to their origin, there are significant distinctions between legislative and administrative actions. A zoning ordinance is reviewable by ordinary mandate [Code Civ. Proc. § 1084], while an administrative decision is reviewable by administrative mandate [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5]. A zoning ordinance does not require explicit findings, and is valid if it is reasonably related to the public welfare, while administrative decisions must implement established standards and rest on findings supported by substantial evidence [Arnel Development Co. v. City of Costa Mesa (1980) 28 Cal. 3d 511, 522, 169 Cal. Rptr. 904, 620 P.2d 565 ; for discussion of judicial remedies in zoning cases, see § 579.210 et seq. and § 579.240 et seq; for general discussion and forms relating to traditional mandate proceedings, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition ; for discussion and forms relating to administrative mandate proceedings generally, see Ch. 474 et seq., Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLegislationInitiative & ReferendumGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsOrdinances & RegulationsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseJudicial ReviewReal Property LawZoning & Land UseOrdinancesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseSpecial Permits & Variances

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Introduction to Zoning and Planning Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.15

§ 579.15 Preservation of Historical Property

To promote the preservation of property of historical significance, the Legislature may define that property and provide that when it is enforceably restricted, it will be valued for property tax purposes only on a basis that is consistent with its restrictions and uses [Cal. Const., art. XIII, § 8].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawZoning & Land UseHistoric Preservation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Introduction to Zoning and Planning Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.16

§ 579.16 Open Space

[1] General Preservation

To promote the preservation of open space lands, the Legislature may define open space land and provide that when that land is enforceably restricted to recreation, enjoyment of scenic beauty, use or conservation of natural resources, or production of food or fiber, it will be valued for property tax purposes only on a basis that is consistent with its restrictions and uses [Cal. Const., art. XIII, § 8]. This open space amendment was not adopted to require counties and cities to establish land preserves. Rather, it was adopted to eliminate tax controversy; it reconciled assessments based on restricted open space uses with preexisting constitutional requirements that property be assessed at its full cash value [Kelsey v. Colwell (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 590, 595, 106 Cal. Rptr. 420] .

A variety of statutory schemes have been enacted in furtherance of perceivedopen space needs. For example, open space easement provisions [Gov. Code §§ 51050-51065], the Open Space Easement Act of 1974 [Gov. Code § 51070 et seq.], and the Roberti-Z'berg-Harris Urban Open-Space and Recreation Program Act [Pub. Res. Code § 5620 et seq.]. In recognition of the tax and assessment concerns associated with land earmarked as open space, provisions governing open-space subventions [Gov. Code §§ 16140-16154] and the valuation of open space land subject to an enforceable restriction [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 421-430.5] were also enacted. These open space preservation provisions are distinct from the open space land portion of the general plan of a city or county [see Gov. Code §§ 65560-65570, 65910].

[2] Conservation of Agricultural Land

[a] Overview of Williamson Act

Perhaps the most widely used open space provision is the California Land Conservation Act of 1965 (also known as the Williamson Act) [Gov. Code § 51200 et seq.]. The Williamson Act was a response to the rapid and virtually irreversible loss of agricultural land to residential and other developed uses and the disorderly patterns of suburban development that mar the landscape, require extension of municipal services to remote residential enclaves, and interfere with agricultural activities [Sierra Club v. City of Hayward (1981) 28 Cal. 3d 840, 850, 171 Cal. Rptr. 619, 623 P.2d 180 ; Honey Springs Homeowners Ass'n v. Board of Supervisors (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 1122, 1130, 203 Cal. Rptr. 886] .

The state aims envisioned by the Williamson Act must be correlated with local environmental and community needs, including long-range community planning [Honey Springs Homeowners Ass'n v. Board of Supervisors (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 1122, 1143, 203 Cal. Rptr. 886 ; Kelsey v. Colwell (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 590, 594, 106 Cal. Rptr. 420] .

The Williamson Act empowers any city or county having a general plan to establish agricultural preserves consisting of lands devoted to agricultural uses and related compatible uses. The owners of agricultural land within those preserves may enter into annually renewable contracts that restrict the land to open space use for at least 10 years. In return, the landowner is guaranteed a relatively stable tax base, founded on the value of the land for open space use only and unaffected by its development potential. Once the contract has not been renewed, taxes on the property gradually return to the level of taxes on comparable nonrestricted property, as the term of restriction draws nearer to expiration [Sierra Club v. City of Hayward (1981) 28 Cal. 3d 840, 850-852, 171 Cal. Rptr. 619, 623 ; see generally Gov. Code §§ 51230, 51236, 51240, 51242, 51244, 51246; Rev. & Tax. Code § 426].

For additional coverage, see Manaster and Selmi, California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice, Ch. 70, Agricultural Perservation (Matthew Bender).

[b] Contents of Contract

Every Williamson Act contract must provide for the exclusion of uses other than agricultural and those compatible with agricultural uses, for the duration of the contract [Gov. Code § 51243(a)]. The construction and maintenance of utility, communication, or agricultural laborer housing facilites are usually compatible uses. Conditions to permit and encourage compatible use of the land, particularly public outdoor recreational uses, may also be imposed [Gov. Code § 51238; see Gov. Code §§ 51238.1-51238.3]. The contract may provide for restrictions, terms, and conditions, including fees, more restrictive that those required by the Act [Gov. Code §§ 51240, 51242]. A similar contract must be offered under appropriate similar terms to other landowners within the same agricultural preserve [Gov. Code § 51241]. The terms of every contract, including a description of the subject land, will be recorded in the appropriate county recorder's office and serve as notice to all persons under the recording laws [Gov. Code § 51248].

[c] Enforcement of Contract

The county, city, or landowner may bring any court action necessary to enforce a Williamson Act contract, including an action to enforce the contract by specific performance or injunction. An owner of land may bring any action to enforce a contract on land with an exterior boundary within one mile of his or her land. An owner of land under contract may bring any action to enforce a contract on land located within the same county or city [Gov. Code § 51251]. For forms for bringing actions on a contract, see Ch. 140, Contracts , and Ch. 528, Specific Performance ; for forms for bringing an action for injunctive relief, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

[d] Nonrenewal of Contract

If either party to a Williamson Act contract chooses not to renew the contract, that party must give written notice of nonrenewal to the other party. A nonrenewing landowner must serve notice at least 90 days before the renewal date; a nonrenewing city or county must serve notice at least 60 days before the renewal date. On receipt of a nonrenewal notice a landowner may make a written protest [Gov. Code § 51245]. On notice of nonrenewal by either party, the existing contract remains in effect for the balance of the contract period remaining [Gov. Code § 51246(a)].

Notice of any proposal to disestablish or alter the boundary of an agricultural preserve must be published, and must be given to the owner of the affected land, to each owner of land under contract within one mile of the land to be removed, and every city within one mile, as well as the local agency formation commission [Gov. Code §§ 51232, 51233].

[e] Cancellation of Contract

The landowner may petition the county board of supervisors or city council for cancellation of a Williamson Act contract for all or part of the contract land. Tentative approval for cancellation may be granted if the board or council finds that cancellation is consistent with the purposes of the Williamson Act or is in the public interest [Gov. Code § 51282 (includes descriptions of what is consistent with purposes of Williamson Act and what is in public interest); see Gov. Code § 51280.1 (cancellation and alternative use)].

Before the cancellation of any contract, there must be a public hearing with notice sent to every owner of land under contract within the same agricultural preserve and within one mile of the exterior boundary of the contract land [Gov. Code § 51284]. Any owner of any property located in the county or city in which the agricultural preserve is situated may protest the proposed cancellation [Gov. Code § 51285].

Any action to set aside a decision concerning cancellation on the grounds of noncompliance with the Williamson Act must be brought within 180 days from the council or board action and is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 (writ of mandate to review administrative proceedings) [Gov. Code § 51286(a), (b); for procedure and forms, see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions , through Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions [. However, if the gravamen of an action to set aside a cancellation is based on a challenge to the assessor's fair market value assessment of the property, the action is based on a liability created by statute, that is, the assessor's duty to determine the fair market value as though it were free of a Williamson Act restriction, and is therefore subject to the three-year limitation period of Code Civ. Proc. § 338(a) [People Ex Rel. Dept. of Conservation v. Triplett (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 233, 251, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 610] .

[f] Farmland Security Zones

An optional program within the Williamson Act allows a landowner or a group of landowners to petition county boards of supervisors to create farmland security zones that enable landowners who have Williamson Act contracts to rescind their traditional 10-year rolling contracts to enter into 20-year rolling contracts [see Gov. Code § 51296.1]. To qualify for a farmland security zone contract, the land must be predominantly prime farmland or be included in the Important Farmland Series Maps [Gov. Code § 51296.8; see Gov. Code §§ 51201(c), 65570]. In return for committing their land to a farmland security zone, landowners receive the benefits oflower property tax bills [Gov. Code § 51296.2(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 423.4], and exemption from parcel taxes, annexation, and designation for school use [see Gov. Code § 51296.2(b)].

[g] Agricultural Conservation Easements

A landowner whose land is subject to a Williamson Act contract may petition a city or county to enter into an agreement to rescind the contract in accordance with the Act's cancellation provisions [see Gov. Code § 51282; see also § 579.16[2][e]] in order to simultaneously place other land under an agricultural conservation easement, consistent with the purposes and requirements of the Agricultural Land Stewardship Program [see Pub. Res. Code § 10200 et seq.; see also § 579.16[4]], provided the local governing body makes specified findings [Gov. Code § 51256]. The agreement will not take effect until it is approved by the Secretary of Resources [Gov. Code § 51256.1].

With certain exceptions, one or more cities or counties may adopt a plan for forming an agricultural conservation easement under Gov. Code § 51256 with respect to multiple transactions within one or more specific areas, and submit the plan to the Director of Conservation for his or her approval. The plan may be approved only on a finding that it is consistent with the provisions of § 51256. Thereafter, individual transactions must be approved if they are consistent with the approved plan [Gov. Code § 51256.2(a); see Gov. Code § 51256(b), (c) (exceptions)].

[3] Timberland Preserve Zones

The California Timberland Productivity Act of 1982 is set forth in Gov. Code § 51100 et seq. It was enacted in acknowledgment that forest resources contribute substantially to the state's economy and environment and that the state's increasing population threatens to erode the timberland base and diminish forest resource productivity through pressures to divert timberland to urban and other uses and through pressures to restrict timber operations when in conflict with nontimberland uses [Gov. Code § 51101]. The Timberland Productivity Act furthers the state policy to maintain the optimum amount of the limited supply of timberland, to ensure its continued availability, to discourage unnecessary conversion of timberland, to discourage expansion of urban services into timberland, and to encourage investment in timberlands based on reasonable expectation of harvest by including all qualifying timberland in a timberland preserve zone [Gov. Code §§ 51102(a), 51103]. The Act does not preempt the authority of local government to limit timber harvesting in designated zones other than those timberland preserve zones designated under the Act [Big Creek Lumber Co. v. County of San Mateo (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 418, 426-428, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 159] . Local zoning ordinances that speak to the location of timber operations, but not to the manner in which they are carried out, are not preempted [Big Creek Lumber Co. v. County of Santa Cruz (2006) 38 Cal. 4th 1139, 1157 (Forest Practice Act and California Timberland Productivity Act did not preempt county ordinances restricting timber harvesting operations to specific areas and regulating areas where helicopter operationsassociated with harvesting could occur)].

Parcels zoned as timberland production are zoned for an initial term of 10 years, and an additional year is added on each anniversary date unless a notice of rezoning is given [Gov. Code § 51114]. Those parcels will be zoned to restrict their use to growing and harvesting timber and to compatible uses [Gov. Code § 51115]. Zoning a parcel of land as a timberland preserve zone gives rise to a presumption that timber operations may be reasonably expected to and will occur on that parcel [Gov. Code § 51115.1(a); see Pub. Res. Code § 4527(a)(1) ("timber operations" defined)]. Changes to any nonconforming use are limited to ordinary maintenance and repair, except that no change that enlarges or tends to make more permanent any nonconforming use will be permitted. If any nonconforming use ceases for a period of at least one year, subsequent use must conform to the Timberland Productivity Act [Gov. Code § 51115.2].

The designation of a timberland preserve zone is not irrevocable and a timberland parcel may be rezoned pursuant to Gov. Code §§ 51130-51146, which include the rules governing the assessment of the parcel and a tax recoupment fee.

For further coverage of timberland preserve zones and the California Timberland Productivity Act of 1982, see Manaster and Selmi, California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice, Ch. 80, Forestry Development (Matthew Bender).

[4] Agricultural Land Stewardship Program

A primary purpose of the Agricultural Land Stewardship Program Act of 1995 [Pub. Res. Code § 10200 et seq.] is to encourage voluntary, long-term private stewardship of agricultural lands by offering landowners financial incentives to maintain such lands in agricultural use [Pub. Res. Code § 10202(a)]. It is a separate program from the Williamson Act and cannot be construed to overrule, rescind, or amend any of the Williamson Act's requirements [Pub. Res. Code § 10226].

The Act establishes a program for grants from the Department of Conservation to local governments and nonprofit organizations, subject to prescribed requirements and in accordance with prescribed procedures, for acquisition of agricultural conservation easements, which restrict the development or improvement of land for any purpose other than agricultural production [see Pub. Res. Code § 10211]. The Program establishes a fund from which grants are made. The financial sources include gifts, donations, proceeds from general obligation bond sales, funds appropriated by the Legislature, and federal grants or loans [Pub. Res. Code § 10230]. Proposed easements must meet specified criteria that relate both to the physical characteristics of the parcel to be restricted and to the city or county's commitment to agricultural conservation [see Pub. Res. Code §§ 10251, 10252].

[5] Protection of Rangeland, Grazing Land, and Grassland

The Rangeland, Grazing Land, and Grassland Protection Act [Pub. Res. Code § 10330 et seq.] establishes a program to accomplish the following [see Pub. Res. Code § 10331]:

- Prevent the conversion of rangeland, grazing land, and grassland to more intensive agricultural uses as well as nonagricultural uses;

- Protect the long-term sustainability of livestock grazing; and

- Ensure the continued wildlife, water quality, watershed, and open space benefits from livestock grazing.

The Act establishes a program for grants from the Wildlife Conservation Board for the acquisition from property owners of conservation easements over qualified property. Grants may also be given to other state agencies, local public agencies, and nonprofit organizations for the same purposes [Pub. Res. Code § 10334]. For discussion of agricultural conservation easements, see § 579.16[2][g]. For coverage of conservation easements generally, see Ch. 240, Easements, § 240.12[3], [5].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawZoning & Land UseAgriculture & FarmlandReal Property LawLimited Use RightsEasementsConservation EasementsTax LawState & Local TaxesReal Property TaxAssessment & ValuationValuation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Introduction to Zoning and Planning Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.17

§ 579.17 Discrimination Prohibited

[1] Against Particular Parcels

A local legislative body may not unfairly discriminate against a particular parcel of land, and the courts may properly examine the scheme of classfication and determine whether it has been applied fairly and impartially in each instance. The mere fact that some hardship is experienced is not material. An individual cannot complain of incidental injury if the power is exercised for proper purposes of public health, safety, morals, and general welfare, and if there is no arbitrary and unreasonable application in the particular case [Wilkins v. City of San Bernardino (1946) 29 Cal. 2d 332, 338, 175 P.2d 542] .

Zoning ordinances found to be invalid and unreasonable as applied to particular property fall roughly into the following four categories [Wilkins v. City of San Bernardino (1946) 29 Cal. 2d 332, 340, 175 P.2d 542] :

- When the zoning ordinance attempts to exclude and prohibit existing and established uses or businesses that are not nuisances;

- When the restrictions create a monopoly;

- When the use of adjacent property renders the land entirely unsuitable or unusable for the only purpose permitted by the ordinance; and

- When a small parcel is restricted and given less rights than the surrounding property, as in the case of a lot in the center of a business or commercial district limited to use for residential purposes, thereby creating an island in the middle of a larger area devoted to other uses.

[2] Against Particular Persons

Any action under the Planning and Zoning Law [Gov. Code § 65000 et seq.] by a city, county, or other local governmental agency is null and void if it denies to any individual or group of individuals the enjoyment of residence, landownership, tenancy, or any other land use because of any of the following reasons [Gov. Code § 65008(a)]:

- The lawful occupation, age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, marital status, national origin, ancestry, familial status, source of income, or disability of that person [see Gov. Code § 12955(a), (d), (m), (p)(1)];

- The method used by an individual or group to finance any residential development; or

- The income level of persons who intend to occupy any residential development.

The prohibition of discrimination based on familial status does not apply to specialized housing specifically designed and intended for older persons or senior citizens [Gov. Code § 65008(a)(1)(B)].

No city, county, city and county, or other local governmental agency may, in the enactment or administration of ordinances under Gov. Code § 65000 et seq., prohibit or discriminate against any residential development or emergency shelter due to the method of financing, or the lawful occupation, age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, marital status, national origin, ancestry, familial status, source of income, or disability of the owners or intended occupants, or because it is intended for occupancy by persons and families of very low, low, moderate, or middle income [Gov. Code § 65008(b), (c); see Gov. Code § 12955(a), (d), (m), (p)(1)]. No city, county, city and county, or other local governmental agency may impose different requirements on a residential development or emergency shelter that is subsidized, financed, insured, or otherwise assisted by a governmental entity, than those imposed on nonassisted developments, except as provided in Gov. Code § 65008(e) [Gov. Code § 65008(d)(1)]. Nor may a city, county, city and county, or other local governmental agency, because of the lawful occupation, age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, marital status, national origin, ancestry, familial status, source of income, or disability of the owners or intended occupants, or because the development is intended for occupancy by persons and families of very low, low, moderate, or middle income, impose different requirements on these residential developments than those imposed on developments generally, except as provided in Gov. Code § 65008(e) [Gov. Code § 65008(d)(2); see Gov. Code § 12955(a), (d), (m), (p)(1)].

A city, county, or city and county may, however, extend preferential treatment to residential developments or emergency shelters assisted by a governmental entity or intended for occupancy by persons and families of low, moderate, or middle income [Gov. Code § 65008(e)(2)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil Rights LawContractual Relations & HousingGeneral OverviewCivil Rights LawContractual Relations & HousingProperty Rights (sec. 1982)General OverviewGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsPolice PowerReal Property LawZoning & Land UseOrdinancesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseSpecial Permits & Variances

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Introduction to Zoning and Planning Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 579.18-579.29

[Reserved]

§§ 579.18[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
1. In General

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.30

§ 579.30 Governing Law

Zoning is largely governed by city and county ordinances, which are enacted within a framework of state statutes. General plans are governed by Gov. Code § 65300 et seq., while specific plans are governed by Gov. Code § 65450 et seq. Zoning ordinances are governed by Gov. Code § 65800 et seq. Interim ordinances are controlled by Gov. Code § 65858. Variances and conditional use permits are governed by Gov. Code § 65900 et seq. Building permits are controlled generally by Health & Safety Code § 17910 et seq. The California Coastal Act of 1976 is set forth in Pub. Res. Code § 30000 et seq.

Judicial review is governed generally by Civ. Code § 3422, Code Civ. Proc. § 526 (injunctions), Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1060 (declaratory relief), 1085, 1086 (traditional mandate), and 1094.5 (administrative mandate). Review of decisions of the Coastal or regional commissions is governed by Pub. Res. Code §§ 30801, 30802. Actions to challenge a general plan are governed by Gov. Code §§ 65750-65763, and to review its consistency are governed by Gov. Code § 65860(c).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementGeneral OverviewReal Property LawZoning & Land UseOrdinancesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseSpecial Permits & Variances

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
1. In General

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.31

§ 579.31 Purposes of Zoning

[1] Protecting Most Appropriate Use of Land and Maintaining Property Values

The primary purpose of comprehensive zoning is to protect others, and the general public, from uses of property that will, if permitted, prove injurious to them [Consolidated Rock Products Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 515, 524, 20 Cal. Rptr. 638, 370 P.2d 342] . Planning and zoning ordinances traditionally seek to maintain property values, protect tax revenues, provide neighborhood social and economic stability, attract business and industry, and encourage conditions which make a community a pleasant place to live and work [Van Sicklen v. Browne (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 122, 128, 92 Cal. Rptr. 786 , overruled in part by Hernandez v. City of Hanford (2007) 41 Cal. 4th 279]. Basically, most zoning decisions are designed to protect the most appropriate use of land and conserve property values [see Melton v. City of San Pablo (1967) 252 Cal. App. 2d 794, 801, 61 Cal. Rptr. 29] .

Zoning regulates land use in many ways and zoning regulations involve a variety of criteria. Thus, a zoning restriction (1) may be based on the type of land use within a zone, specifying residential, commercial, industrial, or some other use, (2) may regulate signs and billboards, lot size and setback requirements, the intensity of land use, offstreet parking, and loading requirements, and (3) may also regulate land use based on aesthetic considerations, specifying an historical or other objective standard [see Gov. Code § 65850; Sechrist v. Municipal Court (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 737, 743-744, 134 Cal. Rptr. 733] .

[2] Traffic Considerations

The state has plenary power over streets and highways and has preempted the entire field of traffic control [see Veh. Code § 21]. The Legislature has delegated some authority to local governments to regulate traffic within their jurisdictions in Veh. Code §§ 21100-21116. This authority is very strictly construed and may not be expanded. Thus, unless expressly provided with the authority by the state, a city has no authority over vehicular traffic control [Rumford v. City of Berkeley (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 545, 549-550, 183 Cal. Rptr. 73, 645 P.2d 124] . The state has expressly given cities limited authority over traffic patterns in furtherance of their general plan [see Gov. Code § 65302(b)]. Specifically, a city may prohibit access to streets by various roadway design features, such as barriers, as part of the implementation of the circulation element of its general plan [Veh. Code § 21101(f)].

Even though traffic control is in the hands of the state, the implication of traffic patterns on land is not totally irrelevant to local planning. A zoning decision based in part on a desire to limit the density of the area in order not to further burden public streets and highways may be upheld as a valid promotion of the public safety [see Spindler Realty Corp. v. Monning (1966) 243 Cal. App. 2d 255, 271, 53 Cal. Rptr. 7] . Additionally, the creation of a serious traffic hazard is sufficient grounds for local authority to deny an additional driveway access [Delta Rent-A-Car Systems, Inc. v. City of Beverly Hills (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 781, 786, 82 Cal. Rptr. 318] .

Traffic may be an important part of the zoned land use. If so, objections based on the volume of traffic may be inappropriate. For example, an objection to heavy traffic use was without merit in a commercial zone. Traffic, in the form of delivery trucks and store patrons, was a reasonable commercial use of land [see San Francisco v. Safeway Stores, Inc. (1957) 150 Cal. App. 2d 327, 332, 310 P.2d 68] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawZoning & Land UseGeneral OverviewTransportation LawPrivate VehiclesTraffic RegulationGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
1. In General

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.32

§ 579.32 Types of Uses and Zones; Control Methods

[1] Adoption of Ordinances

Under its basic zoning powers, the legislative body of any county or city may, pursuant to Gov. Code § 65800 et seq., adopt ordinances that do any of the following [Gov. Code § 65850]:

- Regulate the use of buildings, structures, and land as between industry, business, residences, open space, including agriculture, recreation, enjoyment of scenic beauty, use of natural resources, and other purposes.

- Regulate signs and billboards.

- Regulate (1) the location, height, bulk, number of stories, and size of buildings and structures, (2) the size and use of lots, yards, courts, and other open spaces, (3) the percentage of a lot that may be occupied by a building or structure, and (4) the intensity of land use.

- Establish requirements for offstreet parking and loading.

- Establish and maintain building setback lines.

- Create civic districts around civic centers, public parks, public buildings, or public grounds, and establish regulations for those civic districts.

The local legislative body may also regulate, pursuant to a content neutral ordinance and under prescribed circumstances, the time, place, and manner of operation of sexually-oriented businesses [Gov. Code § 65850.4(a)]. In this context, a "sexually-oriented business" is one whose primary purpose is the sale or display of matter that, because of its sexually explicit nature, may, pursuant to state law or local regulatory authority, be offered only to persons over 18 [Gov. Code § 65850.4(b)]. A local legislative body is also authorized to enter into a legally sanctioned and appropriate cooperative agreement, consortium, or joint powers authority with other adjacent cities or counties regarding regulation of established negative secondary effects of these businesses and their proximity to churches, schools, residents, and other businesses located in adjacent jurisdictions [Gov. Code § 65850.4(d)].

Thus, land may be zoned into different areas based on the types of land uses allowed within that zone. For example, a commercial zone allows the operation of a commercial enterprise. Similarly, a residential use zone is designed for residential use and may restrict uses that are nonresidential in nature. A zone may be validly restricted to specified types of uses deemed to be compatible in that type of area [see Sechrist v. Municipal Court (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 737, 743, 134 Cal. Rptr. 733] .

Within each zone, three types of uses may be allowed: primary, accessory, and conditional. Most ordinances define what the primary use within a zone is, explicitly provide for a variety of accessory uses, and allow some compatible conditional uses only after prior approval, or a permit. Thus, in a residential zone the primary use may be restricted to various types of residences; accessory usesmay include storage of construction materials, rental of rooms, and erection of accessory buildings; and conditional uses may include temporary carnivals and hiking trails [see Sechrist v. Municipal Court (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 737, 743-744, 134 Cal. Rptr. 733] .

In addition, zoning ordinances will typically provide other detailed restrictions on land use, such as banning the keeping of certain animals, front and side yard setbacks, area requirements, and regulation of vehicle storage [see Sechrist v. Municipal Court (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 737, 744, 134 Cal. Rptr. 733] .

[2] Accessory Uses

Most ordinances list the permitted primary uses in a zone and then explicitly provide for permissible accessory uses and buildings normally incidental to the primary uses. If an ordinance is silent on accessory uses, and does not state what uses are permissible accessory uses, administrative and judicial interpretations may be made. For example, the home occupation exception is often explicitly described in the zoning ordinance as a permissible accessory use in a residential zone [County of Butte v. Bach (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 848, 865, 218 Cal. Rptr. 613] . When an ordinance is silent on accessory uses, and does not include any residuary clause, such as one allowing uses customarily incidental to the primary use, reasonable uses will be permitted [Sechrist v. Municipal Court (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 737, 744, 748-749, 134 Cal. Rptr. 733] .

The application of zoning use restrictions to a particular set of facts is subject to investigation by the courts and each case is determinable on its individual merits. Thus, whether a property owner in a residential zone can be deprived of the right to pursue on his or her premises activities incidental to an unrestricted use when those activities do not interfere with the primarily residential character of the district or affect the aesthetic values sought to be preserved, is a question of degree. He or she may not be deprived of the right to engage in the normal activities incidental to a use not prohibited by the ordinance, for this is the nature of an accessory use [see City of Beverly Hills v. Brady (1950) 34 Cal. 2d 854, 856-857, 215 P.2d 460 ; see also Greenfield v. Bd. of City Plan. Commrs. (1935) 6 Cal. App. 2d 515, 517, 45 P.2d 219 (storage allowed as accessory use by ordinance authorizing businesses requiring storage)].

An ordinance may condition acceptable accessory uses. For example, if an ordinance provides that accessory uses are those uses customarily incidental to and subordinate to residential use which do not involve a commercial enterprise, an incidental commercial use that might be acceptable under a different residential ordinance, is not permissible [see Jones v. Robertson (1947) 79 Cal. App. 2d 813, 814-819, 180 P.2d 929] . In a residential zone, accessory uses are commonly limited to persons who use that property as their principal residence. Thus, use of a house as a law office when the attorney's primary residence was elsewhere would not be allowed [County of Butte v. Bach (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 848, 865-866, 218 Cal. Rptr. 613] .

[3] Conditional Uses

Conditional uses are those uses permissible in a zone subject to prior approval, or a permit [Sechrist v. Municipal Court (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 737, 744, 134 Cal. Rptr. 733] . A conditional use is one that is generally compatible with the other uses within a zone, but has the potential of being incompatible. Thus, before granting a conditional use permit, the local legislative body will consider its effect on the public welfare [see Sports Arenas Properties, Inc. v. City of San Diego (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 808, 814-815, 221 Cal. Rptr. 538, 710 P.2d 338 ; see also § 579.114 for discussion of conditional use permits].

[4] Commercial Zones

It is not the proper function of a zoning ordinance to restrict competition or to protect an enterprise that may have been encouraged by a prior zoning classification [Ensign Bickford Realty Corp. v. City Council (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 467, 475-476, 137 Cal. Rptr. 304] . When the restrictions of a zoning ordinance create a monopoly, that ordinance may be invalid and unreasonable as applied to particular property [see Wilkins v. City of San Bernardino (1946) 29 Cal. 2d 332, 340, 175 P.2d 542] . However, so long as the primary purpose of a zoning ordinance is not to regulate economic competition, but is to subserve a valid objective pursuant to a city's police powers, that ordinance is not invalid even though it might have an indirect impact on economic competition [Van Sicklen v. Browne (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 122, 128, 92 Cal. Rptr. 786 , overruled in part by Hernandez v. City of Hanford (2007) 41 Cal. 4th 279]. This does not mean, however, that a zoning ordinance is valid only when the ordinance has merely an "indirect impact" on economic competition, and never when the regulation of economic competition is a direct and intended effect of the ordinance [Hernandez v. City of Hanford (2007) 41 Cal. 4th 279, 296-297, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 442, 159 P.3d 33 , disapproving Van Sicklen v. Browne (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 122, 92 Cal. Rptr. 786 ; Ensign Bickford Realty Corp. v. City Council (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 467, 137 Cal. Rptr. 304 ; and Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. v. City of Turlock (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 273, 41 Cal. Rptr. 3d 420 , to the extent language in those cases could be read to suggest otherwise]. Even when the regulation of economic competition reasonably can be viewed as a direct and intended effect of a zoning ordinance or action, so long as the primary purpose of the ordinance or action--that is, its principal and ultimate objective--is not the impermissible private anticompetitive goal of protecting or disadvantaging a particular favored or disfavored business or individual, but instead is the advancement of a legitimate public purpose--such as the preservation of a municipality's downtown business district for the benefit of the municipality as a whole--the ordinance reasonably relates to the generalwelfare of the municipality and constitutes a legitimate exercise of the municipality's police power [Hernandez v. City of Hanford (2007) 41 Cal. 4th 279, 296-297, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 442, 159 P.3d 33] .

Ordinances formulated to regulate useful business enterprises are subject to investigation in the courts, with a view to determining whether the ordinance is a lawful exercise of the police power or whether, under the guise of enforcing police regulations, there has been an unwarranted and arbitrary interference with the right to carry on a lawful business, to make contracts, or to use and enjoy property [Pacific Palisades Asso. v. Huntington Beach (1925) 196 Cal. 211, 217, 237 P. 538, 237 P. 538] . However, an ordinance is not constitutionally defective when it classifies for residential use land that would yield a greater profit if used for business purposes. The fact that two parcels of property that are similar in nature but zoned differently does not make the zoning unreasonable due to economic regulation [Ensign Bickford Realty Corp. v. City Council (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 467, 477, 137 Cal. Rptr. 304] .

A municipality is not permitted, under the guise of regulating business and segregating it to a particular district, to grant a monopoly to business establishments and enterprises already situated in unrestricted districts[Pacific Palisades Asso. v. Huntington Beach (1925) 196 Cal. 211, 216, 237 P. 538, 237 P. 538] . Such a situation arose when planners divided a town into two districts, one devoted to residential uses and the other to business uses. The planners did not make adequate provision for the business district, but limited it to a small area which was already fully occupied by businesses. Business enterprises already established in that area were thereby favored to the exclusion of any future businesses; in essence a monopoly was created by that unreasonable restriction [In re White (1925) 195 Cal. 516, 520-521, 234 P. 396] . In contrast, a statistical indication that the population of an area warrants more commercial enterprises than currently exist does not prove anything in the absence of a showing that the districts or zones in which those enterprises may be operated have been so constricted as to show an intent to shut out newcomers. A municipality cannot be held responsible for economic conditions with which it had nothing to do that might prevent an individual from securing desirable locations [Safeway Stores v. City Council, San Mateo (1948) 86 Cal. App. 2d 277, 287-288, 194 P.2d 720] .

Although a city may not regulate business competition through zoning, its decision whether or not an area should be zoned as commercial will be upheld absent an abuse of its discretion. Thus, the presence of commercial pockets in an area is not determinative when the immediately surrounding parcels are not zoned commercial. Nor is the fact that an owner may enjoy greater benefits or an enhancement of the value of his or her property [see Safeway Stores v. City Council, San Mateo (1948) 86 Cal. App. 2d 277, 285, 194 P.2d 720] . Moreover, a zoning decision may be based on a perceived proliferation of a type of land use in a neighborhood already adequately serviced in that particular business enterprise [Van Sicklen v. Browne (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 122, 125-126, 92 Cal. Rptr. 786 (service station), overruled in part by Hernandez v. City of Hanford (2007) 41 Cal. 4th 279] .

[5] Residential Zones

[a] Protection of Home Life

Zoning establishing districts devoted to strictly private residences or single-family dwellings, from which are excluded businesses or multiple dwelling structures, as part of a comprehensive and systematic plan, is a legitimate exercise of the police power [Wilkins v. City of San Bernardino (1946) 29 Cal. 2d 332, 337, 175 P.2d 542] . Both single-family residential areas and minimum size lot areas have been allowed. While this zoning may cause a financial hardship to some, the benefit to society outweighs that hardship. A single-family dwelling restriction insures a homogeneous development of the neighborhood so that the quiet of the home will not be disturbed by the relative confusion and bustle of apartment buildings or the greater activity connected with commercial or manufacturing establishments [Hamer v. Town of Ross (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 776, 790-792, 31 Cal. Rptr. 335, 382 P.2d 375] .

Homogeneous residential zones are established to promote family life--to provide a safe, healthful, and aesthetic environment in which to raise a family--and those uses of property deleterious to this goal are excluded. Aesthetic considerations are a minor objective, and the more important consideration is that of preserving the basic character of a residential neighborhood for residential purposes [Sechrist v. Municipal Court (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 737, 746, 134 Cal. Rptr. 733] .

The restrictions on uses of property in a residential zone are a protective measure for the individual owner, and are also included to insure that a homemaker would not be deprived of the reasonable use of his or her premises. The residential use of property includes the broad sphere of home activities as they existed in common law. These activities include much more than the simple use of a house and grounds for food and shelter, and extend to the use of a home as a social institution, for the private religious, educational, cultural, and recreational advantages of the family. It includes those customary activities that make the home more comfortable and enjoyable, such as gardening, certain recreational activity, and the enjoyment of certain hobbies. The scope of such activity is circumscribed only insofar as it may not assume a commercial or public character, or constitute a health or safety hazard to the neighborhood. Clearly, a predominantly commercial use of property within a residential zone is prohibited. But even a semblance of commercial activity, incidental to the use of residential property, such as the establishment of a home occupation, may be an excludable use if it might affect the residential character of the neighborhood. Thus, when there is external evidence of such activity--the altering of a residential structure, or the storage of commercial vehicles on the property--it may be a use that is incompatible with a residential neighborhood and would accordingly be characterized as a non-residential use [Sechrist v. Municipal Court (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 737, 746-750, 134 Cal. Rptr. 733] .

An ordinance that prohibits commercial use of residential property for lodging for periods of more than 30 consecutive days is valid and is not a taking of the property [Ewing v. City of Carmel-by-the-Sea (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1579, 1586-1595, 286 Cal. Rptr. 382] .

[b] "Family" Restrictions

Zoning that attempts to restrict residential districts to a single family living in a dwelling may be subject to constitutional attack, even though the purpose of the ordinance is framed in terms of density and parking needs as valid public welfare concerns. Thus, a zoning ordinance that prohibited more than five unrelated persons from living together in a house in a single-family dwelling zone was unconstitutional under the right to privacy afforded by the California constitution [City of Santa Barbara v. Adamson (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 123, 128-134, 164 Cal. Rptr. 539, 610 P.2d 436] . Although the United States constitution provides similar protection,it is not as broad in scope [see Village of Belle Terre v. Boraas (1974) 416 U.S. 1, 2-8, 94 S. Ct. 1536, 39 L. Ed. 2d 797] .

[6] Minimum Lot Sizes

An ordinance prescribing a minimum lot size is valid as a promotion of the public health and general welfare [see Clemons v. City of Los Angeles (1950) 36 Cal. 2d 95, 103-104, 222 P.2d 439] . Frequently homogeneous residential zoning includes a minimum lot size requirement. This promotes homogeneous development of the neighborhood, and tends to insure adequate light and air and relieve congestion [Hamer v. Town of Ross (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 776, 790-792, 31 Cal. Rptr. 335, 382 P.2d 375] . A refusal to rezone a parcel so that it could be subdivided was an abuse of discretion when almost all of the neighboring parcels were smaller than any of the planned lots and the rezoning would have conformed to the zoning of most neighboring lots [Ross v. City of Yorba Linda (1991) 1 Cal. App. 4th 954, 959-963, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 638] .

However, this type of restrictive zoning is not always warranted. Thus, a zoning requirement setting forth a one acre lot limitation may be unwarranted when the property so zoned is located in an area of smaller parcels, thereby making it an island of one acre minimum lot size zoning in an area of substantially less restrictive zoning [Hamer v. Town of Ross (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 776, 781-783, 31 Cal. Rptr. 335, 382 P.2d 375] . A refusal to rezone a parcel so that it could be subdivided was an abuse of discretion when almost all of the neighboring parcels were smaller than any of the planned lots and the rezoning would conform to the zoning of most neighboring lots [Ross v. City of Yorba Linda (1991) 1 Cal. App. 4th 954, 959-963, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 638] .

In addition, if a zoning regulation prescribing minimum lot sizes is primarily designed for the development of new districts, but is framed in terms that renders it applicable to areas that have been fully improved and which cannot be made to conform to the new scheme, it must be applied reasonably. When an ordinance does not contain an exception concerning its application to old districts developed under different standards, it will be assumed that it was enacted with the understanding that it would not be given effect when the result would be to oppress the property owners without accomplishing any good whatsoever. Thus, a zoning ordinance that provides for a minimum width and area of lots will usually be invalid and unenforceable against an owner in an older, noncomplying district [see Morris v. City of Los Angeles (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 856, 862-863, 254 P.2d 935] .

[7] Setbacks

Ordinances imposing minimum setback requirements from the street, as well as minimum dimensions for sideyards and back yards, are valid [see Christensen v. Thurber (1953) 120 Cal. App. 2d 517, 518-521, 261 P.2d 312] . Strict limitations on a property owner's ability to construct accessory structures within the minimum setback area or yard areas have been upheld, recognizing that allowing structures in those areas would render a setback ordinance of little real efficacy [Town of Atherton v. Templeton (1961) 198 Cal. App. 2d 146, 150-152, 17 Cal. Rptr. 680] .

Analysis of a setback ordinance is not based on whether it is wise, but whether the city acted oppressively and irrationally, exceeding its authority in imposing harsh and unreasonable standards not based on the public welfare [Thille v. Board of Public Works (1927) 82 Cal. App. 187, 192, 255 P. 294] . For example, a setback ordinance was unconstitutional as applied to an individual parcel, thereby supporting the issuance of a building permit without compliance with the setbacks, when enforcement of the setbacks would have resulted in a usable parcel of only 10 square feet. Confiscation, or virtual confiscation, of lands by zoning cannot be upheld [Hoshour v. County of Contra Costa (1962) 203 Cal. App. 2d 602, 608, 21 Cal. Rptr. 714] . However, if that confiscation would have been the result of a self-induced hardship, such as might have occurred if the landowner had originally owned a lot of sufficient size, but disposed of part of the property, the ordinance will be enforced [see Town of Atherton v. Templeton (1961) 198 Cal. App. 2d 146, 154, 17 Cal. Rptr. 680] .

[8] Aesthetic Considerations

[a] Valid Objective

A state may legitimately exercise its police powers to advance aesthetic values. The concept of the public welfare is broad and inclusive, and represents spiritual, physical, aesthetic, and monetary values [City Council v. Taxpayers for Vincent (1984) 466 U.S. 789, 805, 104 S. Ct. 2118, 80 L. Ed. 2d 772] . Aesthetic regulation is permissible if it is reasonably related to the public safety and welfare [see Novi v. City of Pacifica (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d 678, 682, 215 Cal. Rptr. 439] . Indeed, an ordinance precluding the issuance of a site development permit if there is insufficient variety in the design of the structure and grounds to avoid monotony in the external appearance was upheld as a valid exercise of zoning power. Its intent was to avoid ticky-tacky development, and among its objectives was the avoidance of linear monotony and massive bulky appearance and the achievement of a small scale village atmosphere [Novi v. City of Pacifica (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d 678, 682-683, 215 Cal. Rptr. 439 (ordinance withstood charge of vagueness)].

Because it is within the police power to determine that the community should be beautiful as well as healthy, spacious as well as clean, and well-balanced, the improvement of the appearance of its community is within the authority of cities. Two different reasons have been cited as justification for this: the tourist industry in which aesthetic considerations assumeeconomic value, and the impossibility of present day city planning without some sort of aesthetic control [Metromedia, Inc. v. City of San Diego (1980) 26 Cal. 3d 848, 858-863, 164 Cal. Rptr. 510, 610 P.2d 407 , rev'd on other grounds, 453 U.S. 490, 521, 101 S. Ct. 2882, 69 L. Ed. 2d 800 (1981)] . The encouragement of tourism and its impact on the local economy may also support enforcement of aesthetic requirements based on preservation of buildings with historical significance [see Bohannan v. City of San Diego (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 416, 422, 106 Cal. Rptr. 333] .

Similarly, zoning ordinances designed to protect the views of existing buildings are valid. Thus, an ordinance providing a mechanism for owners of buildings to voice objections and have those objections be considered prior to the issuance of a building permit for construction or modification that would impair their view is valid [see Ross v. City of Rolling Hills Estates (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 370, 374-376, 238 Cal. Rptr. 561] .

Generally, zoning standards are permitted a substantial amount of vagueness, and unless the restriction impacts on the right of expression, a zoning standard is sufficient if the administrative body is required to make its decision in accord with the general, health, safety, and welfare standard [see Novi v. City of Pacifica (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d 678, 682, 215 Cal. Rptr. 439] . When aesthetic considerations control, general criteria for evaluation of the appropriateness of the structures are sufficient; minutely designated standards are not required [see Bohannan v. City of San Diego (1973) 30 Cal. App. 3d 416, 424-425, 106 Cal. Rptr. 333] . Even though aesthetic zoning regulations allow a fair amount of discretion, they may not be unreasonable or arbitrary. Thus, an ordinance prohibiting the parking of large commercial trucks in a low density rural zone in which the use of large vehicles and machinery is common, could not be justified by aesthetics [see In re Scarpitti (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 434, 440-441, 177 Cal. Rptr. 387] .

[b] First Amendment Limitations

An attempt to advance aesthetic values may sometimes result in an incidental restriction on expression. Thus, any aesthetic restriction that restricts expression must be narrowly tailored if it is to be justified as a reasonable regulation of the time, place, or manner of expression [City Council v. Taxpayers for Vincent (1984) 466 U.S. 789, 808, 104 S. Ct. 2118, 80 L. Ed. 2d 772 (city ordinance prohibiting posting of signs on public property is not violative of First Amendment)]. Ordinances regulating the erection of signs in the name of aesthetics appear most sensitive to this form of constitutional attack. For example, an ordinance making it unlawful for anyone to erect a sign without first obtaining a permit from the city planning director, who was given considerable latitude in that decision, was unconstitutional. Although the aesthetic interest the city sought to further through the sign ordinance was a proper interest, because there were no definite or objective guidelines for issuance or denial of the permit, it acted as a prior restraint [City of Indio v. Arroyo (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 151, 158-161, 191 Cal. Rptr. 565] .

By comparison, a sign prohibition that is restricted to those areas of a city deemed to be of special cultural, historic, or scenic importance was upheld. There, the city's interests in reducing traffic hazards and beautifying vital areas of the city outweighed any incidental infringement on First Amendment rights, especially since the ordinance left abundant alternative forums for the same communication. Moreover, a sign ordinance may validly allow all forms of on-site advertising while prohibiting off-site messages [City and County of San Francisco v. Eller Outdoor Advertising (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 643, 659-660, 237 Cal. Rptr. 815] .

[c] Architectural Policy

A zoning ordinance may require conformance with a specified type of architecture; implementation of an architectural policy is within a city's zoning authority for a variety of reasons. An architectural policy appears valid as an aesthetic regulation [see generally Novi v. City of Pacifica (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d 678, 682, 215 Cal. Rptr. 439] . Moreover, it could be likened to a use regulation, because requiring a building to conform to a design might, as a practical matter, limit its use to or prevent its use for a specific purpose. Similarly, such a policy could easily be used to regulate the location, height, bulk, number of stories, and size of buildings. Additionally, an architectural policy very likely would overlap the field of regulation granted a planning commission in the exercise of its authority to review the plans for buildings within civic districts in order to assure a orderly development in the vicinity [Laguna Beach Taxpayers' Asso. v. City Council of Laguna Beach (1960) 187 Cal. App. 2d 412, 415-416, 9 Cal. Rptr. 775 ; see Gov. Code § 65800]. However an architectural policy is characterized, it is permissible if it is reasonably related to the public safety and welfare [see generally Novi v. City of Pacifica (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d 678, 682, 215 Cal. Rptr. 439] .

[d] Height Restrictions

Whether or not a city has implemented an architectural policy, it may impose height regulations on buildings throughout the city or in particular and limited districts. The physical peculiarities of the city as a whole or of specific areas within the city may be considered in enacting height restrictions, as well as assurance of sunlight [see Brougher v. Board of Public Works (1930) 107 Cal. App. 15, 22, 290 P. 140] .

[9] Cluster and Planned Unit Developments

The terms "cluster development" and "planned unit development" are sometimes used interchangeably, although they have slightly different meanings. "Planned unit development" describes a tract of land absolvedfrom conventional zoning to permit clustering of residential uses and perhaps compatible commercial and industrial uses, and permitting structures of differing heights. "Cluster development" is a device for grouping dwellings to increase dwelling densities on some portions of the development area in order to have other portions free of buildings [Orinda Homeowners Committee v. Board of Supervisors (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 768, 772, 90 Cal. Rptr. 88] .

Neither a cluster development nor a planned unit development is in conflict with Gov. Code § 65852, which requires that regulations must be uniform for each class or kind of building or use of land throughout the zone. A residential planned unit development does not conflict merely because the units are not uniform, that is, they are not all single family dwellings and perhaps the multi-family units differ among themselves. Gov. Code § 65852 does not require the units to be alike even as to their character, whether single family or multi-family, but aims at the general objective of uniform land use within each land zone [Orinda Homeowners Committee v. Board of Supervisors (1970) 11 Cal. App. 3d 768, 773, 90 Cal. Rptr. 88] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawZoning & Land UseConditional Use Permits & VariancesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseBuilding & Housing CodesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseConstitutional LimitsReal Property LawZoning & Land UsePlanned Unit DevelopmentsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseZoning Methods

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
1. In General

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.33

§ 579.33 Spot Zoning

Spot zoning refers to the rezoning of a particular parcel of property which restricts the use of that property while it leaves all similarly situated property subject to the provisions of the comprehensive zoning ordinance [Kissinger v. City of Los Angeles (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 454, 460, 462-463, 327 P.2d 10] . Spot zoning may be the result of zoning or rezoning. The granting of a variance does not create a spot zone [see Rubin v. Board of Directors (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 119, 124, 104 P.2d 1041] . Similarly, the allowing of a nonconforming use does not create a spot zone [see Safeway Stores v. City Council, San Mateo (1948) 86 Cal. App. 2d 277, 280-281, 194 P.2d 720] .

The propriety of rezoning a parcel as a spot zone is a matter of legislative determination and courts will not generally interfere. For example, a court refused to interfere with a city's refusal to change the zoning of an individual parcel when the facts indicated that the parcel was in no different situation than the surrounding property and all were being treated alike [Tandy v. City of Oakland (1962) 208 Cal. App. 2d 609, 612-613, 25 Cal. Rptr. 429] . Of course, if the rezoning of a parcel as a spot zone is inconsistent with the general plan of the enacting city or county, that spot zone may be challenged as inconsistent with the general plan [see Gov. Code § 65860(b); see also § 579.221].

If the spot zoning evinces a discriminatory design against a property user, the courts will give weight to evidence disclosing a purpose other than that appearing on the face of the regulation to determine whether the scheme of classification has been applied fairly and impartially in each instance [see G & D Holland Construction Co. v. City of Marysville (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 989, 994, 91 Cal. Rptr. 227] .

Spot zoning is valid when long term changes in the neighborhood have created conditions compatible with the proposed new use. The very basis for the action--neighborhood change--provides the reclassification with a practical assurance of stability. Thus, an increase in population may render an agricultural classification unsuitable and justify rezoning a parcel to multiple family residential [Scrutton v. County of Sacramento (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 412, 419-420, 79 Cal. Rptr. 872] .

Spot zoning may be invalid as discriminatory zoning against a particular parcel of land. Thus, an ordinance that arbitrarily rezoned a parcel of property to single family residential, a use to which it could not economically be put, because it was located between multiple dwelling development and commercial development, discriminated against its owner, when it permitted all other property similarly situated and zoned to continue in the former use [see Kissinger v. City of Los Angeles (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 454, 460, 462-463, 327 P.2d 10] . Spot zoning was also discriminatory when its purpose was to help a city prevent the development of discontinued railway rights-of-way for other than street purposes [see People ex rel. Dept. Pub. Wks. v. Southern Pac. Trans. Co. (1973) 33 Cal. App. 3d 960, 963-965, 109 Cal. Rptr. 525] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil Rights LawContractual Relations & HousingFair Housing RightsGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawZoning & Land UseConditional Use Permits & VariancesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseNonconforming UsesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseSpot Zoning

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
1. In General

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 579.34-579.49

[Reserved]

§§ 579.34[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
2. General and Specific Plans

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.50

§ 579.50 General Plan

[1] Adoption Is Mandatory

Each planning agency must prepare, and the appropriate legislative body must adopt, a comprehensive, long-term general plan for the physical development of the county or city, and of any land outside its boundaries that, in the planning agency's judgment, bears relation to its planning. Chartered cities must adopt general plans that contain the mandatory elements specified in Gov. Code § 65302, discussed in § 579.50[2] [Gov. Code § 65300]. The general plan may be adopted in any format convenient to the legislative body and must be prepared by the planning agency so that all or individual elements of it may be adopted. The legislative body may adopt all or part of a plan of another public agency if that plan is sufficiently detailed and its contents are appropriate [Gov. Code § 65301(a)].

The legislative body of a newly incorporated city or newly formed county must adopt a general plan within 30 months of its incorporation or formation, unless an extension is granted by the state Director of Planning and Research [Gov. Code §§ 65360, 65361; see generally Gov. Code§§ 65035, 65040, 65067-65067.3 (role of office of Planning and Research in assisting local planning)].

[2] Contents of General Plan

The general plan must address the elements specified in Gov. Code § 65302 to the extent that the subject of the element exists in the planning area. The degree of specificity and level of detail of the discussion of each element must reflect local conditions and circumstances [Gov. Code § 65301(c)]. However, Gov. Code § 65301(c) is not to affect the requirements of Gov. Code § 65302(c) (housing element provisions), or the authority of the Department of Housing and Community Development to review housing elements pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 50459 [Gov. Code § 65301(c)].

The general plan must consist of a statement of development policies and include diagrams and text setting forth objectives, principles, standards, and plan proposals. It must include elements addressing land use, circulation (transportation), housing, conservation, open-space, noise, and safety [Gov. Code § 65302]. If the general plan limits the number of housing units that may be constructed annually, the adoption of that provision must contain findings that justify reducing the housing opportunities [Gov. Code § 65302.8].

The general plan may include any other elements or address any other subjects that, in the judgment of the legislative body, relate to the physical development of the county or city [Gov. Code § 65303].

The general plan must be consistent with the airport land use compatibility plan required by Pub. Util. Code § 21675 [Gov. Code § 65302.2]. Every county in which there is an airport must establish an airport land use commission that is charged with ensuring compatible land uses in the vicinity of new airports, coordinating planning to provide for the orderly development of air transportation, and preparing airport land use planning [see Pub. Util. Code §§ 21670, 21674]. Airport land use commissions are governed by Pub. Util. Code §§ 21670-21679. When there is no airport land use commission, special procedures allow an interested party to initiate superior court proceedings to postpone the effective date of a zoning regulation [see Pub. Util. Code § 21679].

[3] Adoption of General Plan

[a] Legislative Act

The adoption of or any amendment to the general plan or any part thereof is a legislative act that is reviewable pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 [Gov. Code § 65301.5].

[b] Procedures

The planning agency must provide opportunities for public involvement through public hearings and any other means the planning agency deems appropriate during the preparation of the general plan or amendment to the general plan [Gov. Code § 65351]. It should also refer any proposed action to affected public agencies, allowing them at least 45 days to comment before any action by the legislative body, although failure to do so will not affect the validity of any action [Gov. Code § 65352].

If the county or city has a planning commission, prior to making its written recommendation on the proposal, the commission must hold at least one public hearing after complying with the notice provisions of Gov. Code § 65090 [Gov. Code §§ 65353, 65354; for discussion of Gov. Code § 65090, see § 579.72[1]]. If a proposed general plan or amendments to a general plan would affect the permitted uses or the intensity of uses of real property, notice of the hearing must also be given pursuant to Gov. Code § 65091(a)(1)-(3). If the number of owners to whom notice would be required to be mailed is greater than 1,000, a local agency may, in lieu of mailed or delivered notice, publish notice pursuant to Gov. Code § 65091(a)(4). For discussion of notice requirements under Gov. Code § 65091, see § 579.72[2]. The legislative body must also hold at least one public hearing before adopting or amending a general plan [Gov. Code § 65355].

The legislative body must act by resolution of a majority of its total membership to adopt or amend a general plan. It may approve, modify, or disapprove the planning commission's recommendation, although a substantial modification must be referred to the planning commission for its consideration [Gov. Code § 65356].

[c] Effect of Adoption of General Plan

Copies of the adopted or amended general plan must be sent to all affected public entities and be made available to the general public [Gov. Code § 65357].

There are prescribed limitations on the frequency of amendments to the general plan [see Gov. Code § 65358]. However, the legislative authority to amend general plans is not an implied limitation on the right to amend general plans by exercise of the local right of initiative. That right has been upheld by the California Supreme Court [see DeVita v. County of Napa (1995) 9 Cal. 4th 763, 792-797, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 699, 889 P.2d 1019] .

The general plan must be compared to any other plan applicable to the same areas or matters affected by it, and the other plan amended as necessary to make it comply with the general plan [Gov. Code § 65359].

After the legislative body has adopted all or part of a general plan, the planning agency will investigate and make recommendations regarding means of implementation and provide an annual report on the status of the plan [Gov. Code § 65400(a)]. Proposed public works, acquisition or disposition of real property, and construction of public buildings must be submitted to the planning agency for a report regarding conformity with the general plan [Gov. Code §§ 65401, 65402].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawZoning & Land UseComprehensive & General PlansReal Property LawZoning & Land UseComprehensive Plans

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
2. General and Specific Plans

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.51

§ 579.51 Specific Plans

[1] Preperation Is Permissive

After the legislative body of a city or county has adopted a general plan, the planning agency, either on its own or after direction from the legislative body, may prepare specific plans for the systematic implementation of the general plan for all or part of the area covered by the general plan [Gov. Code § 65450]. However, no specific plan may be adopted or amended unless the proposed plan or amendment is consistent with the general plan [Gov. Code § 65454].

[2] Contents of Specific Plan

A specific plan must include a statement of the relationship of the specific plan to the general plan. It must also include (1) text and diagrams detailing the distribution, location, and extent of the uses of the land, (2) the proposed distribution, location, extent, and intensity of essential facilities, standards by which development will proceed, (3) standards for conservation and utilization of natural resources, and (4) a program of implementation measures [Gov. Code § 65451].

[3] Procedures Affecting Specific Plan

A specific plan will be prepared, adopted, and amended in the same manner as a general plan, except that a specific plan may be adopted by resolution or by ordinance and may be amended as often as necessary [Gov. Code § 65453(a); for discussion of the adoption of a general plan, see § 579.50[3]]. A specific plan may be repealed in the same manner as it is required to be amended [Gov. Code § 65453(b)].

[4] Effect of Adoption of Specific Plan

Copies of the documents adopting or amending the specific plan must be sent to all affected public entities and be made available to the general public [Gov. Code § 65456(c)].

No zoning ordinance may be adopted or amended within an area covered by a specific plan unless it is consistent with the adopted specific plan. Nor may a local public works project, a tentative map, or a parcel map be approved if inconsistent with the adopted specific plan [Gov. Code § 65455]. Certain residential projects that are undertaken to implement and that are consistent with a specific plan for which an environmental impact report was certified after January 1, 1980, are exempt from the requirements of Pub. Res. Code § 21000 et seq. (California Environmental Quality Act) [Gov. Code § 65457; for discussion of CEQA, see Ch. 418, Pollution and Environmental Matters [.

[5] Assessment of Fees

After adopting a specific plan, the legislative body may impose a specific plan fee on persons seeking governmental approvals that are required to be consistent with the specific plan. Additionally, a city or county may require a person requesting adoption, amendment, or repeal of a specific plan to deposit with the planning agency an amount equal to the estimated cost of that action prior to any agency action [Gov. Code § 65456(a), (b)]. A reasonable fee may be charged for a copy of the specific plan [Gov. Code § 65456(d)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawZoning & Land UseGeneral OverviewReal Property LawZoning & Land UseLocal Planning

21 of 157 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
2. General and Specific Plans

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 579.52-579.69

[Reserved]

§§ 579.52[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
3. Zoning Ordinances

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.70

§ 579.70 Local Control Over Regulations

[1] Policy to Maximize

Gov. Code §§ 65800-65912 set forth statewide zoning regulations to provide for the adoption and administration of zoning laws, ordinances, rules, and regulations by counties and cities, and to implement local general plans. Except for Gov. Code §§ 65910-65912 (open-space zoning) and Gov. Code § 65913.1 (zoning vacant land for residential use), the regulations are intended to provide only a minimum of limitation in order that counties and cites may exercise the maximum degree of control over local zoning matters [Gov. Code § 65800].

[2] Minimum Procedural Standards

Gov. Code § 65804 contains some very broad procedural standards and rules governing the conduct of local zoning hearings to insure at least a modicum of uniformity and public access to zoning matters. These standards apply to all local zoning agencies, including chartered cities [Gov. Code § 65804]. The standards require the local agencies to do the following [see Gov. Code § 65804]:

- Develop and publish procedural rules for conduct of their hearings so that all parties will have advance knowledge of the procedures to be followed. These rules must incorporate the procedures required by Gov. Code § 65854 for public hearings and notice in connection with proposed zoning ordinances and ordinance amendments [see §§ 579.71 and 579.72].

- Insure that, on written request made before the date of a hearing, a record of any contested proceeding is made and preserved, a copy of which must be available at cost, and for which the local agency may require a deposit.

- Make public before or at the beginning of the hearing any staff planning report; such reports must be a matter of public record.

- Include in the record of any hearing held on an application for a change of zone for parcels of at least 10 acres, a staff report with recommendations and the basis for the recommendations.

[3] General Powers

The legislative body of any county or city may, pursuant to Gov. Code § 65800 et seq., adopt ordinances that do any of the following [Gov. Code § 65850]:

- Regulate the use of buildings, structures, and land as between industry, business, residences, open space, including agriculture, recreation, enjoyment of scenic beauty, use of natural resources, and other purposes.

- Regulate signs and billboards.

- Regulate (1) the locations, height, bulk, number of stories, and size of buildings and structures; (2) the size and use of lots, yards, courts, and other open spaces; (3) the percentage of a lot that may be occupied by a building or structure; and (4) the intensity of land use.

- Establish requirements for offstreet parking and loading.

- Establish and maintain building setback lines.

- Create civic districts around civic centers, public parks, public buildings, or public grounds, and establish regulations for those civic districts.

The local legislative body may also regulate, pursuant to a content neutral ordinance and under prescribed circumstances, the time, place, and manner of operation of sexually-oriented businesses [Gov. Code § 65850.4(a)]. In this context, a "sexually-oriented business" is one whose primary purpose is the sale or display of matter that, because of its sexually explicit nature, may, pursuant to state law or local regulatory authority, be offered only to persons over 18 [Gov. Code § 65850.4(b)]. A local legislative body is also authorized to enter into a legally sanctioned and appropriate cooperative agreement, consortium, or joint powers authority with other adjacent cities or counties regarding regulation of established negative secondary effects of such businesses and their proximity to churches, schools, residents, and other businesses located in adjacent jurisdictions [Gov. Code § 65850.4(d)].

The local legislative body may divide its area into zones of whatever number, shape, and area it deems appropriate [Gov. Code § 65851]. It may also enact special provisions governing second residential units pursuant to Gov. Code § 65852.2.

[4] Statutory Limitations on Power

[a] Uniformity Within Zones

If a city or county has divided its territory into zones, all regulations must be uniform for each class, kind of building, or use of land throughout each zone, but the regulation in one type of zone may differ from those in other types of zones [Gov. Code § 65852].

[b] Solar Energy Systems

Because of the state's policy to promote and encourage use of solar energy systems [see Civ. Code § 801.5(a)(1), (2); Gov. Code § 65850.5(g)(2) ("solar energy system" defined)] and to limit obstacles to their use, a local legislative body must administratively approve an application to install a solar energy system by issuing a building or similar nondiscretionary permit. The requirements of local law must be limited to those standards and regulations necessary to ensure that the system will not have a specific, adverse impact on public health or safety [Gov. Code § 65850.5(a), (b); see Health & Safety Code § 17959.1]. If a local government denies an application for a use permit to install a solar energy system, it must make written findings based on substantial evidence in the record. The findings must include the government's basis for rejecting potential feasible alternatives for preventing the potential adverse impact on public health or safety [Gov. Code § 65850.5(c)].

[c] Manufactured Homes and Mobilehomes

The local political entity may not prohibit the installation of certified manufactured homes and mobilehomes or preclude mobilehome parks from land zoned for residential use [see Gov. Code §§ 65852.3, 65852.7; for discussion of zoning regulations specific to manufactured homes and mobilehomes, see Ch. 369, Mobilehomes and Mobilehome Parks [.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Energy & Utilities LawSolar & Biomass IndustriesReal Property LawMobilehomes & Mobilehome ParksSubdivisionsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseOrdinancesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseState & Regional Planning

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
3. Zoning Ordinances

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.71

§ 579.71 Enactment Procedures

[1] Generally

A zoning ordinance or an amendment to a zoning ordinance that changes any property from one zone to another or imposes any regulation listed in Gov. Code § 65850 not previously imposed or removes or modifies any Gov. Code § 65850 regulation, must be adopted in the manner set forth in Gov. Code §§ 65854-65857 [Gov. Code § 65853; for discussion of Gov. Code § 65850, see § 579.70[3]]. Any other amendment to a zoning ordinance may be adopted as other ordinances are adopted [Gov. Code § 65853].

If the legislative body has required the planning commission to study and report on a proposed zoning ordinance or amendment and the commission fails to act,that failure is deemed an approval of the proposal [see Gov. Code § 65853].

[2] Hearing Required

The planning commission must hold a public hearing on the proposed zoning ordinance or amendment, the notice for which must be given pursuant to Gov. Code § 65090, and if the permitted uses of real property are affected, pursuant to the additional notice requirements of Gov. Code § 65091 [Gov. Code § 65854; see § 579.72]. After the hearing, the planning commission must render its written recommendation to the legislative body. That recommendation must include the reasons for the recommendation, the relationship of the proposed ordinance or amendment to applicable general and specific plans, and must be transmitted in the form and manner specified by the legislative body [Gov. Code § 65855].

After receiving the commission's recommendation, the legislative body must hold a public hearing. Although no action on a proposed amendment need be taken if the proposed amendment was to change property from one zone to another and the recommendation was against the amendment, if local ordinance provides otherwise or if an interested party makes a written request for a hearing, a hearing must be held [Gov. Code § 65856]. The legislative body may approve, modify, or disapprove the recommendation of the planning commission. However, any suggested modification that was not previously considered by the commission must first be referred to it for report and recommendation without a public hearing. Failure of the planning commission to act is deemed approval of the modification proposed [Gov. Code § 65857]. The legislative body is not required to make express findings of facts concerning the public purpose of the ordinance or its relation to the police power [Ensign Bickford Realty Corp. v. City Council (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 467, 473, 137 Cal. Rptr. 304] .

A zoning ordinance that imposes new zoning requirements and prohibits second units is void if it was adopted without public notice or a public hearing [Sounhein v. City of San Dimas (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1255, 1259-1260, 14 Cal. Rptr. 2d 656] .

A "streamlined zoning process," under which the county gave notice of a hearing before the board of supervisors before the planning commission made its recommendation on a proposed amendment to the zoning ordinance, violated the Planning and Zoning Law [Environmental Defense Project of Sierra County v. County of Sierra (2008) 158 Cal. App. 4th 877, 881, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 474]. When a planning commission is required to hold a hearing and make a recommendation, the board hearing notice cannot be published until the commission (1) has completed its hearing, (2) adopted its recommendation, and (3) formally delivered the recommendation. Furthermore, the board hearing notice must include the commission's recommendation [Environmental Defense Project of Sierra County v. County of Sierra (2008) 158 Cal. App. 4th 877, 893, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 474].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsAdministrative BoardsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseAdministrative ProcedureReal Property LawZoning & Land UseOrdinances

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
3. Zoning Ordinances

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.72

§ 579.72 Public Hearings

[1] Notice by Publication or Posting

When a provision of Gov. Code § 65000 et seq. requires notice of a public hearing to be given pursuant to Gov. Code § 65090, notice must be published pursuant to Gov. Code § 6061 (one-time publication) in at least one newspaper of general circulation within the jurisdiction of the local agency conducting the proceedings at least 10 days before the hearing, or if there is no newspaper of general circulation, the notice must be posted at least 10 days before the hearing in at least three public places within that jurisdiction. The notice must include the date, time, and place of the public hearing, the identity of the hearing body or officer, a general explanation of the matter to be considered, and a general description, in text or by diagram, of the location of the real property, if any, that is the subject of the hearing [Gov. Code §§ 65090, 65094]. A local agency may also give notice of the hearing in any other manner it deems necessary or desirable [Gov. Code § 65090(c)].

[2] Notice by Mail or Delivery

When a provision of Gov. Code § 65000 et seq. requires notice of a public hearing to be given pursuant to Gov. Code § 65091, notice must be given in several ways. Notice of the hearing must be mailed or delivered at least 10 days before the hearing to all of the following [Gov. Code § 65091(a)(1), (3), (4)]:

- The owner of the subject real property and the owner's duly authorized agent;
- The proposed applicant;
- Each local agency expected to provide essential facilities or services to the project whose ability to provide those facilities and services may be significantly affected; and
- All owners of real property within 300 feet of the real property that is the subject of the hearing.

If the statute requiring a Section 65091 notice is the Subdivision Map Act [see Gov. Code § 66410 et seq.], notice must also be given to any owner of a mineral right on the property who has recorded a notice of intent to preserve those rights [Gov. Code § 65091(a)(2); see Civ. Code § 883.230 (notice of intent)].

If the number of persons to whom notice would be mailed or delivered is greater than 1,000, a local agency, in lieu of mailed or delivered notice, may provide notice by placing a display advertisement of at least one-eighth page in at least one newspaper of general circulation within the local agency in which the proceeding is conducted at least 10 days before the hearing. If the notice is mailed or delivered to the owners of real property within 300 feet of the subject real property, the notice must also either (1) be published pursuant to Gov. Code § 6061 (one-time publication) in at least one newspaper of general circulation within the local agency that is conducting the proceeding at least 10 days before the hearing, or (2) be posted at least 10 days before the hearing in at least three public places within the boundaries of the local agency, including one public place in the area directly affected by the proceeding [Gov. Code § 65091(a)(4), (5)]. The notice must include the date, time, and place of the public hearing, the identity of the hearing body or officer, a general explanation of the matter to be considered, and a general description, in text or by diagram, of the location of the real property, if any, that is the subject of the hearing [Gov. Code §§ 65091(b), 65094]. A local agency may also give notice of thehearing in any other manner it deems necessary or desirable [Gov. Code § 65091(c)].

[3] Notice to Blind, Aged, and Disabled of Hearing on Drive-Through Facility Permit

Whenever a local agency (1) considers adopting or amending policies or ordinances affecting drive-through facilities; or (2) holds a hearing regarding a permit for a drive-through facility or a modification of such a permit, the agency must incorporate, when necessary, notice procedures to the blind, aged, and disabled communities to facilitate their participation in any hearing on, or appeal of the denial of, such a facility. This notice requirement applies to charter cities as well as general law cities [Gov. Code §§ 65090(d), 65091(d)].

[4] Requests for Notice

When a provision of Gov. Code § 65000 et seq. requires notice of a public hearing to be given pursuant to Gov. Code § 65090 or 65091, the notice must also be mailed or delivered at least 10 days before the hearing to any person who has filed a written request for notice with either the clerk of the governing body or with any other designated person. The local agency may charge a fee reasonably related to its costs and may require each request to be annually renewed [Gov. Code § 65092(a)]. "Person" includes a California Native American tribe that is on the contact list maintained by the Native American Heritage Commission [Gov. Code § 65092(b)].

[5] Failure to Receive Notice

The failure of any person or entity to receive notice given pursuant to Gov. Code § 6500 et seq., or pursuant to the procedures established by a chartered city, does not constitute grounds for any court to invalidate the actions of a local agency for which the notice was given [Gov. Code § 65093].

[6] Continuances

Any public hearing conducted under Gov. Code § 65000 et seq. may be continued from time to time [Gov. Code § 65095].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawZoning & Land UseOrdinances

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
3. Zoning Ordinances

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 579.73-579.89

[Reserved]

§§ 579.73[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
4. Interim Zoning Measures

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.90

§ 579.90 Interim Ordinance

[1] Statutory Provision for Urgency Measure

Without following the standard procedures for adopting a zoning ordinance, the legislative body of a county, city (including a charter city), or city and county, to protect the public safety, health, and welfare, may adopt as an urgency measure an interim ordinance prohibiting any uses that may be in conflict with a contemplated general plan, specific plan, or zoning proposal that the legislative body, planning commission, or the planning department is studying or intends to study within a reasonable time. The urgency measure requires a four-fifths vote of the legislative body for adoption. That interim ordinance will have no further force and effect 45 days from its date of adoption. After notice pursuant to Gov. Code § 65090 and public hearing, the legislative body may extend the interim ordinance for 10 months and 15 days and subsequently extend the interim ordinance for one year. Any extension also requires a four-fifths vote for adoption. No more than two extensions may be adopted [Gov. Code § 65858(a)].

Alternatively, an interim ordinance may be adopted by a four-fifths vote following notice pursuant to Gov. Code § 65090 and public hearing. As in the case of an interim ordinance enacted without notice, it will have no further force and effect 45 days from its date of adoption. After enacting the ordinance in this manner, it may be extended for 22 months and 15 days on a four-fifths vote after notice pursuant to Gov. Code § 65090 and public hearing [Gov. Code § 65858(b); for discussion of Gov. Code § 65090, see § 579.72[1]].

When any interim ordinance has been adopted, every subsequent interim ordinance, covering the whole or a part of the same property, will automatically terminate and be of no further force or effect on the termination of the initial ordinance or any extension thereof [Gov. Code § 65858(e)]. However, on termination of a prior interim ordinance, the legislative body may adopt another interim ordinance if the new ordinance is adopted to protect the public safety, health, and welfare from an event, occurrence, or set of circumstances that differs from the event, occurrence, or set of circumstances that led to the adoption of the prior ordinance [Gov. Code § 65858(f)]. Such a new interim ordinance that was in existence on or before April 14, 1997, may not be invalidated if challenged pursuant to Gov. Code § 65858(e) (discussed above) [see 1996 Stats., ch. 129, § 2].

The legislative body has no power to adopt or extend any interim ordinance unless the ordinance contains legislative findings that there is a current and immediate threat to the public health, safety, or welfare, and that the approval of additional subdivisions, use permits, variances, building permits, or any other applicable entitlement for use that isrequired to comply with a zoning ordinance would result in a threat to public health, safety, or welfare [Gov. Code § 65858(c)]. In addition, if an interim ordinance has the effect of denying approvals needed to develop projects with a significant component of multifamily housing, that is, projects in which multifamily housing consists of at least one-third of the project's total square footage, the ordinance may not be extended unless the local legislative body makes written findings supported by substantial evidence on the record that all of the following conditions exist [Gov. Code § 65858(c); see Gov. Code § 65858(h)]:

- The continued approval of the development of multifamily housing projects would have a specific, adverse impact on the public health or safety;

- The interim ordinance is necessary to mitigate or avoid this specific, adverse impact; and

- There is no feasible alternative to satisfactorily mitigate or avoid this specific, adverse impact, as well or better, with a less burdensome or restrictive effect, than the adoption of the proposed interim ordinance.

"Specific, adverse impact" means a significant, quantifiable, direct, and unavoidable impact, based on objective, identified written public health or safety standards, policies, or conditions as they exist on the date the proposed ordinance is adopted [Gov. Code § 65858(c)(1)]. "Development of multifamily housing projects" does not include the demolition, conversion, redevelopment, or rehabilitation of multifamily housing that is affordable to lower income households, or that will result in an increase in the price or reduction of the number of affordable units in a multifamily housing project [Gov. Code § 65858(g)].

Ten days before the expiration of an interim ordinance or any extension, the legislative body must issue a written report describing the measures taken to alleviate the condition that lead to the adoption of that ordinance [Gov. Code § 65858(d)].

While the statute permits a local legislative body to adopt an interim ordinance prohibiting any uses that may conflict with a general plan being studied, an interim ordinance that prohibits the formal processing of development applications, such as a tentative subdivision map, is invalid [Building Indus. Legal Defense Found. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 1410, 1420, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 828] .

The limitations imposed by Gov. Code § 65858 are applicable to moratoriums passed by initiative as well as those enacted by the legislative body. The legislative history of Gov. Code § 65858 indicates that it is applicable to all moratoriums even though its specific language refers only to acts of the legislative body [Bank of the Orient v. Town of Tiburon (1990) 220 Cal. App. 3d 992, 999-1004, 269 Cal. Rptr. 690] , overruled in part by Morehart v. County of Santa Barbara (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 725, 743 .

Neither rezoning nor the expiration of a moratorium prevents the application of the statute's requirement that the moratorium and any subsequent moratorium or extension must expire after two years [Martin v. Superior Court (1991) 234 Cal. App. 3d 1765, 1769-1772, 286 Cal. Rptr. 513] .

[2] Purposes Served

An interim ordinance is designed as a stop gap or incubation period zoning ordinance. It is a recognition that development of a zoning plan takes time, and it would be destructive to the plan if, during the period of its incubation, parties seeking to evade its operation could be permitted to enter on a course of construction that might progess far enough to defeat in whole or in part the ultimate execution of the plan [Metro Realty v. County of El Dorado (1963) 222 Cal. App. 2d 508, 515, 35 Cal. Rptr. 480 (decided under former Gov. Code § 65806)]. As a temporary device to preserve the status quo pending adoption of a comprehensive zoning plan, an interim ordinance may require a development permit to assure that priceless resources are not irreversibly committed to uses that would be inconsistent with the plan ultimately developed [see State v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 253-255, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281 (Coastal Plan)].

There is no notice requirement for an interim zoning ordinance [see Gov. Code § 65858]. The reason no notice is required is that the ordinance is an urgency measure, the very purpose of which to preserve the status quo would be destroyed if notice and hearing were required. When the permanent plan and a zoning ordinance thereunder are before the county for adoption, notice and a hearing will be required [Metro Realty v. County of El Dorado (1963) 222 Cal. App. 2d 508, 518, 35 Cal. Rptr. 480] .

Interim ordinances are required to be reasonable; reasonableness in this connection is a matter of degree. A temporary restriction on land use may be a mere inconvenience when the same restriction indefinitely prolonged might possibly metamorphize into oppression [Metro Realty v. County of El Dorado (1963) 222 Cal. App. 2d 508, 516, 35 Cal. Rptr. 480] .

An interim ordinance may not be used to authorize a use formerly prohibited or to permit construction of a permanent structure. Such an ordinance would indicate an attempt to circumvent the statutory scheme of community development and the requirements of due process by misuse of a device designed only to maintain the status quo pending the completion of a comprehensive plan [Silvera v. City of South Lake Tahoe (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 554, 555-558, 83 Cal. Rptr. 698] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawZoning & Land UseOrdinances

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
4. Interim Zoning Measures

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.91

§ 579.91 Holding Zone

Some land uses possess characteristics of such unique and special form that their automatic inclusion within a designated zone is impracticable. Thus, some zoning ordinances leave certain areas unclassified concerning the uses permitted, but provide that certain uses within those areas may be carried on only under a permit. Known as holding zones, these zones are frequently appropriate in rural areas where their rural character will be maintained only until some definite trend toward particular uses begins to develop. Classification as a holding zone recognizes that these areas have not reached a point of development warranting more specific regulation. This scheme forestalls a future claim that such a use, if not carried out under a terminable permit, had become a nonconforming use under restrictive zoning that might later be established [see Castiglione v. County of San Diego (1971) 15 Cal. App. 3d 880, 883-884, 93 Cal. Rptr. 499] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawZoning & Land UseConditional Use Permits & VariancesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseOrdinancesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseSpecial Permits & Variances

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
4. Interim Zoning Measures

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 579.92-579.109

[Reserved]

§§ 579.92[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
5. Variances and Conditional Use Permits

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.110

§ 579.110 Board of Zoning Adjustment

The local legislative body may, by ordinance, establish a board of zoning adjustment, an office of zoning administrator, or both [Gov. Code § 65900]. If neither is established, the local planning commission will exercise all of the functions and duties of that board or administrator [Gov. Code § 65902].

The board of zoning adjustment or zoning administrator will hear and decide applications for variances and conditional uses or other permits when the zoning ordinance provides therefor and establishes determination criteria. The board or administrator may exercise any other powers granted by local ordinance, and may adopt all rules and procedures necessary or convenient [Gov. Code § 65901(a)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsAdministrative BoardsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseAdministrative ProcedureReal Property LawZoning & Land UseOrdinances

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
5. Variances and Conditional Use Permits

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.111

§ 579.111 Board of Appeals

[1] Generally

The local legislative body may, by ordinance, create and establish a board of appeals [Gov. Code § 65900]. If a board of appeals is not established, the local legislative body will exercise all of its functions and duties [Gov. Code § 65904].

The board of appeals hears and determines appeals from the decisions of the board of zoning adjustment or the zoning administrator. Procedures for those appeals are as provided by local ordinance. The board may reverse or affirm, wholly or partly, or may modify the order, requirement, decision, or determination appealed from, and may make that order, requirement, decision, or determination as should be made, and that action will be final [Gov. Code § 65903].

[2] Decision Requires Public Hearing

Except as otherwise provided by Gov. Code §§ 65900-65909.5, a public hearing must be held on (1) an application for a variance from the requirements of a zoning ordinance, (2) an application for a conditional use permit, or equivalent development permit, (3) a proposed revocation or modification of a variance, use permit, or equivalent development permit, or (4) an appeal from the action taken on any of those applications [Gov. Code § 65905(a)]. Notice of that hearing must be given pursuant to Gov. Code § 65091 [Gov. Code § 65905(b); for discussion of Gov. Code § 65091, see § 579.72[2]].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsAdministrative BoardsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseAdministrative ProcedureReal Property LawZoning & Land UseAdministrative Procedure

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
5. Variances and Conditional Use Permits

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.112

§ 579.112 Issuance of Variance or Permit

[1] Impermissible Conditions

No local governmental body, or any agency thereof, may condition the issuance of any zone variance or building or use permit on either of the following:

- The dedication of land for any purpose not reasonably related to the use of the property for which the variance, building, or use permit is requested.

- The posting of a bond to guarantee installation of public improvements not reasonably related to the use of the property for which the variance, building, or use permit is requested [Gov. Code § 65909].

[2] Fees

The local legislative body may establish reasonable fees for the processing of use permits, zone variances, or zone changes pursuant to the procedures required or authorized by Gov. Code §§ 65800-65912 or local ordinance. Those fees cannot exceed the amount reasonably required to administer the processing of those permits or zone variances. The fees will be imposed pursuant to Gov. Code §§ 54990-54994 (local agency service fees and charges) [Gov. Code § 65909.5].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesBondsGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawZoning & Land UseConditional Use Permits & VariancesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseImpact FeesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseOrdinancesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseSpecial Permits & Variances

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
5. Variances and Conditional Use Permits

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.113

§ 579.113 Variances

[1] Grounds for Granting

A variance sanctions a deviation from the standard set by the general zoning ordinance. Any variance granted must be in harmony with the general purpose and intent of the zoning laws [Zakessian v. City of Sausalito (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 794, 801, 105 Cal. Rptr. 105] . A variance will not be granted for a parcel of property that authorizes a use or activity that is not otherwise expressly authorized by the zone regulation governing the parcel of property [Gov. Code § 65906].

Variances are to be granted only when, because of special circumstances applicable to the property, including size, shape, topography, location or surroundings, the strict application of the zoning ordinance deprives the property of privileges enjoyed by other property in the vicinity and under identical zoning classification [Gov. Code § 65906]. In addition to Gov. Code § 65906, local ordinance may provide guidelines for granting variances [see Broadway, Laguna etc. Assn. v. Board of Permit Appeals (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 767, 771-772 ns. 3, 4, 59 Cal. Rptr. 146, 427 P.2d 810] .

The granting of a variance rests largely in the discretion of the body designated by the ordinance for that purpose. The board's action will not be disturbed in the absence of a clear showing of an abuse of discretion [Bringle v. Board of Supervisors (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 86, 89, 4 Cal. Rptr. 493, 351 P.2d 765 ; City of Santa Clara v. Paris (1977) 76 Cal. App. 3d 338, 341, 142 Cal. Rptr. 818] .

[2] Challenging Constitutionality of Ordinance

The application for a variance necessarily admits the constitutionality of the ordinance under which the city officials charged with the duty of administering a zoning ordinance are asked to exercise a discretion. Thus, an applicant may not challenge its constitutionality before the administrative body. However, once the decision of the administrative body is final, the applicant may assert in a judicial proceeding that the zoning law is unconstitutional as applied to his or her property [Minney v. City of Azusa (1958) 164 Cal. App. 2d 12, 28-29, 330 P.2d 255 , appeal dismissed, 359 U.S. 436, 79 S. Ct. 941, 3 L. Ed. 2d 932 (1959)] .

[3] Unnecessary Hardship

The essential requirement of a variance is a showing that a strict enforcement of the zoning limitation would cause unnecessary hardship; the burden of showing hardshipis on the applicant [PMI Mortgage Ins. Co. v. City of Pacific Grove (1981) 128 Cal. App. 3d 724, 731, 179 Cal. Rptr. 185] .

A variance is appropriate when the hardship is unique to the particular property owner seeking the variance. Unnecessary hardship clearly occurs when the circumstances of a particular parcel of land place its owner at a disadvantage vis-a-vis other landowners in the zoning district [Zakessian v. City of Sausalito (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 794, 799-800, 105 Cal. Rptr. 105] . Only that type of hardship that inheres in the particular property is recognized, such as inability to use it for purposes of its existing zoning due to the prevailing uses of surrounding property. A variance for undue hardship is grounded in conditions peculiar to the particular lot as distinguished from other property in the use district [Minney v. City of Azusa (1958) 164 Cal. App. 2d 12, 31, 330 P.2d 255 , appeal dismissed, 359 U.S. 436, 79 S. Ct. 941, 3 L. Ed. 2d 932 (1959)] .

Self-imposed burdens cannot legally justify the granting of a variance. Thus, the developer's adoption of superior building standards cannot support a hardship rationale [Broadway, Laguna etc. Assn. v. Board of PermitAppeals (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 767, 778, 59 Cal. Rptr. 146, 427 P.2d 810] . Although financial hardship alone ordinarily will not constitute unnecessary hardship, it may be considered along with other circumstances [Zakessian v. City of Sausalito (1972) 28 Cal. App. 3d 794, 802, 105 Cal. Rptr. 105] .

[4] Special Circumstances

Variances are required to be granted because of "special circumstances" applicable to the property [Gov. Code § 65906], a concept that the California Supreme Court has interpreted as emphasizing only undefined disparities between properties [Topanga Asso. for Scenic Community v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 506, 520, 113 Cal. Rptr. 836, 522 P.2d 12] . The disparities need not be physical, but may include, for example, a disparate impact of land use regulations on some properties in a particular zone [Craik v. County of Santa Cruz (2000) 81 Cal. App. 4th 880, 890, 96 Cal. Rptr. 2d 538] .

Examples of special circumstances justifying a variance vary with the facts of each case. For example, the requisite special circumstances existed when compliance with the ordinance requirement for a certain number of parking places would result in maintaining vacant and unused parking spaces and would not contribute to relieving traffic congestion, which was the stated purpose of the requirement [Siller v. Board of Supervisors (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 479, 485-486, 25 Cal. Rptr. 73, 375 P.2d 41] . Special circumstances were also found so as to uphold a variance granted to allow expansion of a resort hotel that had been built before the enactment of a zoning ordinance that only allowed cottage-type hotels. The hotel had been so designed and built, including irreplaceable matured landscaping, that it could never comply with the cottage requirement, without having a detrimental effect on the scenic drive adjacent to the hotel and destroying the aesthetic, architectural, and historic character and integrity of the hotel. The proposed project, however, would add only one building and would preserve the hotel's existing features, and result in a sleeping room density less than that of the only other hotel in the identical zoning classification [Miller v. Board of Supervisors (1981) 122 Cal. App. 3d 539, 546-548, 176 Cal. Rptr. 136] .

On the other hand, special circumstances justifying the granting of a variance were found not to exist based on the property's unusual subsoil condition when that condition bore no logical relationship to the variance requested. Nor did the factor of including attractive architectural features constitute an extraordinary condition applying to the intended use of the property that might have justified a variance under the ordinance in question [Broadway, Laguna etc. Assn. v. Board of Permit Appeals (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 767, 774, 59 Cal. Rptr. 146, 427 P.2d 810] . Also, profit motive is not an adequate ground for a variance. A distinction is drawn between those circumstances that prevent a builder from profitably developing a lot within the strictures of the planning code and those conditions that simply render a complying structure less profitable than anticipated. To justify granting a variance on this basis, there must be a finding that the developer could not earn a reasonable return on the investment if the building complied with the code requirements [Broadway, Laguna etc. Assn. v. Board of Permit Appeals (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 767, 775-776, 59 Cal. Rptr. 146, 427 P.2d 810 ; see Hamilton v. Board of Supervisors (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 64, 68-70, 75 Cal. Rptr. 106] .

[5] Attachment of Conditions to Avoid Privilege

Any variance granted is subject to those conditions that assure that the adjustment thereby authorized will not constitute a grant of special privileges inconsistent with the limitations on other properties in the vicinity and zone in which that property is situated [Gov. Code § 65906; see Gov. Code § 65909, discussed in § 579.112[1]]. Explicit conditions may be attached to a variance to preserve the general purposes and intent of the zoning ordinance. When a variance is granted on reasonable conditions, the landowner cannot later claim that the ordinance is invalid as applied to his or her property [Bringle v. Board of Supervisors (1960) 54 Cal. 2d 86, 90, 4 Cal. Rptr. 493, 351 P.2d 765] .

If the property can be put to effective use, consistent with its existing zoning, without the deviation sought, a variance is not appropriate, even if it would make the applicant's property more valuable, enable him or her to recover a greater income, or provide relief from the cost of complying with the existing restrictions. Profit motive, attractive architectural features, benefit to the community, and practical difficulty do not justify a variance. A variance based on those factors would confer not parity, but privilege [Hamilton v. Board of Supervisors (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 64, 69-70, 75 Cal. Rptr. 106 ; see Gov. Code § 65906].

[6] Special Parking Rules

Notwithstanding Gov. Code § 65906, a variance may be granted from the parking requirements of a zoning ordinance in order that some or all of the required parking spaces be located offsite, including locations in other local jurisdictions, or that in-lieu fees or facilities be provided instead of the required parking spaces, if both the following conditions are met:

- The variance will be an incentive to, and a benefit for, the nonresidential development.

- The variance will facilitate access to the nonresidential development by patrons of public transit facilities, particularly guideway facilities [Gov. Code § 65906.5].

[7] Relationship to Legislative Zoning

Radicial alteration of the nature of an entire zone is a proper subject for legislation, not for piecemeal adjudication by an administrative agency through the granting of variances for large parcels [Topanga Asso. for a Scenic Community v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 506, 522, 113 Cal. Rptr. 836, 522 P.2d 12 (variance for 28 acre parcel leads to suspicion that so large a parcel may not be sufficiently unrepresentative of realty in a zone to merit special treatment)].

Nor is annulment of legislative zoning a proper purpose of a variance. Thus, the granting of variances has no precedential value. Ill-advised or illegal variances do not furnish grounds for a repetition of the wrong. If that were so, one variance would sustain as well as compel others, thereby nullifying the general regulation [Minney v. City of Azusa (1958) 164 Cal. App. 2d 12, 32, 330 P.2d 255 , appeal dismissed, 359 U.S. 436, 79 S. Ct. 941, 3 L. Ed. 2d 932 (1959) ; see Miller v. Board of Supervisors (1981) 122 Cal. App. 3d 539, 547, 176 Cal. Rptr. 136 (although variance granted to another owner is not by itself a special circumstance justifying granting of a similar variance, it is relevant in assessing "privileges enjoyed by other property" element of Gov. Code § 65906)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Real Property LawZoning & Land UseComprehensive PlansReal Property LawZoning & Land UseConstitutional LimitsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseSpecial Permits & VariancesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseState & Regional Planning

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
5. Variances and Conditional Use Permits

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.114

§ 579.114 Conditional Use Permit

[1] Generally

Various terms have been used to refer to the conditional use permit (CUP), including use permit, special use permit, and exceptional use permit [see, e.g., Metcalf v. County of Los Angeles (1944) 24 Cal. 2d 267, 272, 148 P.2d 645 (exception); Rohan, Zoning and Land Use Controls, Ch. 44, Uses By Review, § 44.01]. A CUP can be issued only if the local zoning ordinance has established criteria for determining such matters [Stoddard v. Edelman (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 544, 548, 84 Cal. Rptr. 443 ; see Gov. Code § 65901]. Ordinarily, a zoning ordinance permits certain uses for an area and permits other uses only after consideration by an agency regarding whether the proposed other use will be in the best interests of public convenience and necessity and not contrary to the public welfare. Generally, a use requires a CUP because it could be incompatible in some respects with the applicable zoning. Once granted, the CUP does not permit uses other than those authorized by the permit or by the zoning ordinance without a permit [Sports Arenas Properties, Inc. v. City of San Diego (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 808, 814-815, 221 Cal. Rptr. 538, 710 P.2d 338 ; Neighborhood Action Group v. County of Calaveras (1984) 156 Cal. App. 3d 1176, 1183, 203 Cal. Rptr. 401] .

Traditionally, the conditional use permit has enabled the local legislative body to exercise some measure of control over the extent of certain uses, such as service stations, which, although desirable in limited numbers, could have a detrimental effect on the community in large numbers [Neighborhood Action Group v. County of Calaveras (1984) 156 Cal. App. 3d 1176, 1183-1184, 203 Cal. Rptr. 401 ; see Upton v. Gray (1969) 269 Cal. App. 2d 352, 357, 74 Cal. Rptr. 783] .

A conditional use permit runs with the land, and the successor in interest succeeds to any benefits that the original owner enjoyed under the permit issued. The successor in interest is also subject to the limitations in the permit and can assert no greater rights than the original permittee enjoyed [County of Imperial v. McDougal (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 505, 510, 138 Cal. Rptr. 472, 564 P.2d 14] .

[2] Criteria for Granting

The standards established by local ordinances for granting CUPs vary from very general to very specific, and have almost uniformly been judicially approved. Under the general welfare standard a permit may be issued if it is found that the proposed location of the use will be desirable to the public convenience or welfare and will be in harmony with the various elements and objectives of the master plan. This is not too vague to be valid [Stoddard v. Edelman (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 544, 548, 84 Cal. Rptr. 443 ; see Gov. Code § 65901]. It is a near impossibility to devise standards to cover all possible situations in which a use permit can be issued [Garavatti v. Fairfax Planning Com. (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 145, 150, 99 Cal. Rptr. 260] . In general, a determination that a permit applicant has satisfied the standards imposed by local ordinance is sufficient to justify granting the permit; findings outside those required by the ordinance, such as a finding that the applicant has not violated the terms of a previously-issued CUP, are not required [Baird v. County of Contra Costa (1995) 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 93] .

The granting of a CUP does not constitute rezoning and does not require observance of rezoning procedures [Concerned Citizens of Palm Desert, Inc. v. Board of Supervisors (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 257, 266, 113 Cal. Rptr. 328] . A conditional use permit is appropriate if it is shown that its use is essential or desirable to the public convenience or welfare and at the same time that it will not impair the integrity or character of the zoned district [Mitcheltree v. City of Los Angeles (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 791, 795, 95 Cal. Rptr. 76] .

Conditional use permits may be issued to allow a variety of uses. Some examples include (1) a planned residential development [Concerned Citizens of Palm Desert, Inc. v. Board of Supervisors (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 257, 261, 113 Cal. Rptr. 328] , (2) construction of a mobilehome park [Jones v. City Council (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 724, 727, 94 Cal. Rptr. 897] , and (3) construction of airplane hangars [Mitcheltree v. City of Los Angeles (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 791, 797, 95 Cal. Rptr. 76] .

Ordinances that purport to regulate the location and operation of adult businesses are subject to challenge under the First Amendment [see, e.g., Renton v. Playtime Theatres, Inc. (1986) 475 U.S. 41, 50, 106 S. Ct. 925, 89 L. Ed. 2d 29 ; Gammoh v. City of Anaheim (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 186, 191, 197-198, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 194] . While courts have accorded some deference to such ordinances if they do not completely ban restricted activity and serve a substantial governmental interest unrelated to suppression of speech, an ordinance must nonetheless be sufficiently specific to withstand the challenge that it is so vague that it constitutes an unconstitutional prior restraint [Smith v. County of Los Angeles (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 990, 995, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 680 ; Dease v. City of Anaheim (C.D. Cal. 1993) 826 F. Supp. 336, 342] . The criteria to be applied by local authorities in making a permit determination must be sufficientlyprecise to meet the constitutional requirement that they be narrow, objective, and definite [see Shuttlesworth v. City of Birmingham (1969) 394 U.S. 147, 150-151, 89 S. Ct. 935, 22 L. Ed. 2d 162] . Applying this standard, the Court of Appeal held that a Los Angeles conditional use permit ordinance that purported to regulate adult businesses was unconstitutionally vague because it required those making decisions based on the ordinance to exercise too much subjective discretion [Smith v. County of Los Angeles (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 990, 1004-1008, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 680] . The ordinance required that operation of an adult business at a requested location could not "adversely affect the use" of schools, parks, playgrounds, places of worship, or similar uses within a 90-foot radius. The adult business likewise was required to be "sufficiently buffered" from "residentially zoned areas within the immediate vicinity so as not to adversely affect" those areas. Furthermore, its exterior appearance could not be "inconsistent" with commercial structures within the immediate neighborhood [see Smith v. County of Los Angeles (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 990, 996, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 680] .

[3] Challenging Issuance or Terms of Permit

Administrative mandate is appropriate to challenge the issuance or denial of a conditional use permit [see Wheeler v. Gregg (1949) 90 Cal. App. 2d 348, 362, 203 P.2d 37 ; see also § 579.317[7]]. If the local general plan is defective, a CUP granted by that local legislative body may be successfully challenged [Neighborhood Action Group v. County of Calaveras (1984) 156 Cal. App. 3d 1176, 1184-1186, 203 Cal. Rptr. 401 ; for discussion of challenges to general plans, see § 579.223]. However, the requirements for the plan need not be formally approved and adopted before authority vests in relation to granting a CUP [see Mitcheltree v. City of Los Angeles (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 791, 796-797 n.4, 95 Cal. Rptr. 76] .

A permittee who fails to challenge the limitations imposed on him or her by the permit, waives any right to object [County of Imperial v. McDougal (1977) 19 Cal. 3d 505, 510-511, 138 Cal. Rptr. 472, 564 P.2d 14] .

[4] Revocation; Vested Rights

Once a use permit has been properly issued, the power of a municipality to revoke it is limited. If the permittee does nothing beyond obtaining the permit, it may be revoked. However, when a CUP has been properly obtained and in reliance on it the permittee has incurred material expense, he or she acquires a vested property right. Once a permittee has a vested right, the CUP may be revoked only if the permittee fails to comply with reasonable terms or conditions of the permit or if there is a compelling public necessity. Such a compelling public necessity may exist when the conduct of a business constitutes a nuisance [O'Hagen v. Board of Zoning Adjustment (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 151, 158, 96 Cal. Rptr. 484] .

Because a conditional use permit is a property right that runs with the land rather than a personal right of the permitee, when property that is subject to a CUP is transferred, the new owner accedes to the same rights under the permit as the previous owner, which includes any vested right to continuance of the permit so long as the new owner complies with the permit's original terms and conditions [Malibu Mountains Rec., Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 359, 369-370, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 25] .

[5] Modification

By contrast, the general health, safety, and welfare standard is a sufficient standard for the administrative body to apply in modifying a conditional use permit. Thus, when the application for a permit had represented that the proposed store would operate for specified hours, but the permittees did not abide by that representation, modification of the CUP to require shorter hours was valid because it was based on the public safety, health, and welfare [Garavatti v. Fairfax Planning Com. (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 145, 147, 150-151, 99 Cal. Rptr. 260] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesWritsCommon Law WritsMandamusEnvironmental LawZoning & Land UseConditional Use Permits & VariancesReal Property LawTortsNuisanceGeneral OverviewReal Property LawZoning & Land UseSpecial Permits & Variances

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
5. Variances and Conditional Use Permits

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 579.115-579.129

[Reserved]

§§ 579.115[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
6. Building Permits

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.130

§ 579.130 Local Power

[1] Regulation of Construction and Removal of Buildings

The legislative body of a city may regulate the building, construction, and removal of buildings within the city [Gov. Code § 38601(b); see Cal. Const., art. XI, § 7]. Additionally, the legislative body of a city may do any of the following [Gov. Code § 38660]:

- Regulate the construction of and the materials used in all buildings, chimneys, stacks, and other structures and in foundations and foundation walls.

- Regulate the construction, repair, or alteration of buildings pursuant to former Health & Safety Code § 15153 (now see Health & Safety Code § 17951, relating to fees and approval of alternative regulations to those prescribed by the State Building Standards Code).

- Prevent the erection and maintenance of unsafe building walls, chimneys, stacks, or other structures.

- Provide for the summary abatement, destruction, or removal of unsafe structures and of unsightly or partially destroyed buildings.

- Regulate the construction and location of drains and sewers.

- Regulate the materials used in wiring structures for electricity and in piping them for a water, gas, or electric supply, and regulate the manner of that piping.

- Prohibit the construction of structures not in conformance with its regulations.

[2] Permit Requirement

As part of its police power, a city or county may require a permit as a condition precedent to the erection of a structure on privately owned property [see O'Hagen v. Board of Zoning Adjustment (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 151, 158, 96 Cal. Rptr. 484] . The granting or denying of building permits is a local affair over which a city or county hassupreme control subject only to the rule that it must exercise sound discretion [Agnew v. City of Los Angeles (1961) 190 Cal. App. 2d 820, 827, 12 Cal. Rptr. 507] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsLicenses

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
6. Building Permits

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.131

§ 579.131 Effect of State Provisions

No building permit may be issued unless the proposed construction is consistent with the local open space plan [Gov. Code § 65567; Elysian Heights Residents Assn., Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 21, 28-29, 227 Cal. Rptr. 226] . However, there is no similar restriction on issuance of building permits in Gov. Code § 65860, which requires that zoning ordinances be consistent with the general plan. Thus, if a building permit conforms to existing zoning, opponents of the permit may not challenge the decision to issue it for failure to conform to the general plan, even though the zoning is subject to such a challenge [Elysian Heights Residents Assn., Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 21, 28-31, 227 Cal. Rptr. 226] .

The issuance of a building permit may not be conditioned on the dedication of land for a purpose not reasonably related to the use of the property for which the permit is requested, or the posting of a bond to guarantee installation of public improvements not reasonably related to the use of the property for which the permit is requested [Gov. Code § 65909].

If a local ordinance controlling building permits has not adopted an advisory state zoning provision, that provision will not control the issuance of a building permit [see Elysian Heights Residents Assn., Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (1986) 182 Cal. App. 3d 21, 28-31, 227 Cal. Rptr. 226 (building permit not required to be consistent with general plan)]. If the local ordinance has adopted advisory state provisions, compliance with those provisions will be mandatory before the permit will be issued [see Wesley Investment Co. v. County of Alameda (1984) 151 Cal. App. 3d 672, 677-680, 198 Cal. Rptr. 872 (Gov. Code § 65920 et seq. development projects)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsLicensesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseOrdinancesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseState & Regional Planning

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
6. Building Permits

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.132

§ 579.132 Expiration and Extension of Permits

Many ordinances controlling the granting of building permits provide for an expiration date when a permit will expire if the construction for which the permit was granted has not begun. Typically, the intent is to prevent a person from reserving land for future purposes when that person has no good faith intent to presently commence the proposed use, and extension periods are usually available. The granting or denying of the extension may be subject to the same type of discretion as applied in the initial granting of the permit. An abuse of discretion in failing to grant an extension may occur if the standard applied to determine the good faith of the permittee is unreasonable [Morgan v. County of San Diego (1971) 19 Cal. App. 3d 636, 641, 97 Cal. Rptr. 180] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsLicenses

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
6. Building Permits

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.133

§ 579.133 Effect of Change in Zoning Law

The mere application for a building permit or the submission of plans that comply with the law in existence at the time of that submission do not entitle an applicant to the issuance of the permit, if in the interim between administrative denial of the permit and the appeal from that denial, an ordinance has been enacted that would prohibit the project contemplated [Selby Realty Co. v. City of San Buenaventura (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 110, 125, 109 Cal. Rptr. 799, 514 P.2d 111] .

Even after a permit has been issued, it may be revoked by an administrative body on the basis of a subsequent change in the zoning laws unless the permittee has made substantial improvements in good faith reliance on the permit [Selby Realty Co. v. City of San Buenaventura (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 110, 125, 109 Cal. Rptr. 799, 514 P.2d 111] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsLicensesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseOrdinances

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
6. Building Permits

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.134

§ 579.134 Revocation

A city or county does not have unlimited discretion in revoking permits, and once a permit has been issued, the power to revoke it is limited. If the permittee does nothing beyond obtaining the permit or fails to comply with reasonable terms or conditions expressed in the permit granted, the proper authorities may revoke it. But a permit may not be revoked arbitrarily without cause [San Marino v. Roman Catholic Archbishop (1960) 180 Cal. App. 2d 657, 669, 4 Cal. Rptr. 547 , cert. denied, 364 U.S. 909] .

In determining that a validly issued permit should be revoked, the governing body acts in a quasi-judicial capacity. In revoking a permit lawfully granted, due process requires that it act only on notice to the permittee, on a hearing, and on evidence substantially supporting a finding of revocation. A revocation without notice, hearing, or reception of competent evidence is inoperative and of no legal force [San Marino v. Roman Catholic Archbishop (1960) 180 Cal. App. 2d 657, 669, 4 Cal. Rptr. 547 , cert. denied, 364 U.S. 909] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsLicensesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseAdministrative Procedure

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
6. Building Permits

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.135

§ 579.135 Vested Rights

The doctrine of vested rights, grounded in the constitutional protection of property from deprivation without due process of law, provides that when a permittee in good faith has undertaken substantial construction and incurred substantial liabilities in reliance on a permit, his or her right to the permit and to the use authorized thereby becomes immunized from impairment or revocation by subsequent governmental regulations [Highland Development Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 169, 186, 215 Cal. Rptr. 881 , overruled in part by Morehart v. County of Santa Barbara (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 725, 743 ; see U.S. Const., amend. V, XIV § 1; Cal. Const., art. I, § 19].

The rights that may vest through reliance on a permit are no greater than those specifically granted by the permit itself [Blue Chip Properties v. Permanent Rent Control Bd. (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 648, 660, 216 Cal. Rptr. 492] . The reliance must be on the permit under which the person is claiming the vested right. Thus, substantial expenditures incurred in constructing a garage for which a building permit had been obtained could not support a vested rights argument on a driveway access permit [Highland Development Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 169, 186-187, 215 Cal. Rptr. 881 , overruled in part by Morehart v. County of Santa Barbara (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 725, 743].

Neither the existence of particular zoning nor work undertaken pursuant to governmental approvals preparatory to construction of buildings can form the basis of a vested right to build a structure that does not comply with the laws applicable at thetime the building permit was issued. Thus, when construction of a 10-story building was divided into two phases, substantial expenditures made in reliance on phase one permits which were expressly limited to construction of the first four stories and basement, did not result in a vested right for completion of the building [see Court House Plaza Co. v. City of Palo Alto (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 871, 885, 173 Cal. Rptr. 161 , cert. denied and appeal dismissed 454 U.S. 1074] .

Although a vested right is immune from divestment through ordinary police power regulations, it may be impaired or revoked if the use authorized or conducted thereunder constitutes a menace to the public health and safety or a public nuisance [Highland Development Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 169, 186, 215 Cal. Rptr. 881 , overruled in part by Morehart v. County of Santa Barbara (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 725, 743].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawZoning & Land UseConstitutional LimitsGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsLicensesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseAdministrative ProcedureReal Property LawZoning & Land UseConstitutional Limits

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
6. Building Permits

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.136

§ 579.136 Review

Traditional mandate is usually appropriate to compel the issuance of a building permit, because most local ordinances governing their issuance provide that compliance with the code requirements is all that is required and no discretion is afforded the department charged with their issuance [see Court House Plaza Co. v. City of Palo Alto (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 871, 883, 173 Cal. Rptr. 161 , cert. denied and appeal dismissed, 454 U.S. 1074] .

However, administrative mandate is the appropriate remedy by which to consider a claim that the denial of a building permit was based on the applicant's failure to comply with an invalid condition [Selby Realty Co. v. City of San Buenaventura (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 110, 128, 109 Cal. Rptr. 799, 514 P.2d 111] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesWritsCommon Law WritsMandamusGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsLicensesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseAdministrative Procedure

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
6. Building Permits

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.137

§ 579.137 State Building Codes

There are a variety of building provisions that have statewide application. In addition to some isolated and very specific provisions, there are several important building codes. Among them are:

- Hospital Seismic Safety Act of 1983 [Health & Safety Code § 129675 et seq.].
- Essential Services Buildings Seismic Safety Act of 1986 [Health & Safety Code § 16000 et seq.].
- Earthquake protection standards [Health & Safety Code § 19100 et seq.].
- Access to public accommodations by physically handicapped persons [Health & Safety Code § 19955 et seq.].
- California Factory-Built Housing Law [Health & Safety Code § 19960 et seq.].

These building codes are enforced in different manners. For example, the Hospital Seismic Safety Act of 1983 and the Essential Services Buildings Seismic Safety Act of 1986 provide generally for the approval of building specifications by the enforcement agency before construction begins [see Health & Safety Code §§ 129760-129770, 16011, 16016]. Earthquake standards are enforced by a separate permit process, while access to public accommodations is enforced by the city or county building department [see Health & Safety Code §§ 19130-19133, 19958]. Finally, while all factory-built housing must be approved by the Department of Housing and Community Development, enforcement and inspection of the installation of factory-built housing is typically performed by local authorities [see Health & Safety Code §§ 19969, 19991-19992].

Another building code with a major impact throughout the state is the State Housing Law, set forth in Health & Safety Code § 17910 et seq. Because it has a pervasive influence and is probably the most detailed of the statewide codes, some of its procedural provisions are highlighted in § 579.138.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawZoning & Land UseBuilding & Housing Codes

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
6. Building Permits

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.138

§ 579.138 State Housing Law

[1] Governing Statutes and Application of Law

The State Housing Law is set forth in Health & Safety Code § 17910 et seq. The State Building Standards Law is set forth in Health & Safety Code § 18901 et seq., and the California Building Standards Code is set forth in Health & Safety Code § 18935 et seq.

The State Housing Law does not apply to any building regulated by Health & Safety Code § 18000 et seq. (manufactured housing), or 19960 et seq. (factory-built housing), unless those parts specifically require its application [Health & Safety Code § 17911; for discussion and forms relating to zoning regulation specific to mobilehomes, see Ch. 369, Mobilehomes and Mobilehome Parks].

[2] Statewide Standards

The rules and regulations promulgated under the State Housing Law and building standards published in the California Building Standards Code, relating to the erection or construction of buildings or structures, do not apply to existing buildings or structures or to buildings or structures on which construction is commenced or approved before the effective date of those rules. However, rules, regulations, and building standards relating to use, maintenance, and change of occupancy do apply to existing buildings and structures as well as those approved for construction [see Health & Safety Code § 17912].

Except as otherwise specifically provided by law, the building standards adopted and submitted by the Department of Housing and Community Development for approval under the California Building Standards Code, and the other rules and regulations, which are contained in Title 24 of the California Code of Regulations, are adopted by reference [see Health & Safety Code § 17922(a)].

The provisions published in the California Building Standards Code and the regulations promulgated under Health & Safety Code § 17922 will be applicable to any city or county that does not amend, add, or repeal ordinances or regulations to impose those requirements or make changes or modifications in those requirements on express findings. The provisions and regulations become effective 180 days after publication of the California Building Standards Code by the California Building Standards Commission [Health & Safety Code § 17958]. The 180-day period set forth in the statute merely establishes an effective date for new versions of the code and doesnot bar local entities from making amendments, additions, or deletions more than 180 days after publication [California Apartment Assn. v. City of Fremont (2002) 97 Cal. App. 4th 693, 700-701, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 603] .

[3] Local Modification of Standards

No local enforcement agency may prohibit the use of materials, appliances, installations, devices, arrangements, or methods of construction specifically permitted by the department to be used in the alteration or repair of existing buildings, but those things or methods may be specifically prohibited by local ordinance as provided by Health & Safety Code § 17958.5 [see Health & Safety Code § 17922(f)].

The building department of any city or county may approve the use of an alternative material, appliance, installation, device, arrangement, or method, or work on a case-by-case basis if it finds that the proposed design is satisfactory and that the proposed alternative is satisfactory and is, for the purpose intended, at least the equivalent of that prescribed by the California Building Standards Code [see Health & Safety Code § 17951(e)].

Except as provided in Health & Safety Code §§ 17958.8 (alteration and repair of existing building) and 17958.9 (moving apartment houses and dwellings), any city or county may make changes in the provisions adopted pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 17922 and published in the California Building Standards Code or other regulations thereafter adopted pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 17922 to amend, add, or repeal ordinances or regulations that impose the same requirements as are contained in the provisions adopted pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 17922 and published in the California Building Standards Code or the other regulations adopted pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 17922 or to make changes or modifications in those requirements on express findings pursuant to Health & Safety Code §§ 17958.5 and 17958.7 [Health & Safety Code § 17958].

Except as provided by Health & Safety Code § 17922.6 (minimum noise insulation regulations), in adopting ordinances or regulations pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 17958, a city or county may make changes or modifications in the requirements contained in the provisions published in the California Building Standards Code and the other regulations adopted pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 17922, including but not limited to green building standards, that it determines, pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 17958.7, are reasonably necessary because of local climatic, geological, or topographical conditions [see Health & Safety Code § 17958.5]. The local governing body must make an express finding that the modification or changes are reasonably necessary. The finding, together with the modification or change expressly marked, must be filed with the department. No modification or change is effective until the filing has been made [see Health & Safety Code § 17958.7(a)].

The State Housing Law is intended to preempt local regulation. A city ordinance that is stricter than the State Housing Law is invalid unless findings are made about local conditions requiring stricter standards [Briseno v. City of Santa Ana (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1378, 1381-1383, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 486] .

Grading standards contained in a county building code, which were adopted pursuant to and in conformity with the State Housing Law, were not purely local law and did not conflict with PUC rules and regulations and thus could be enforced against a public utility with respect to its grading of access roads located on property over which the utility held an easement for maintenance of its electric transmission lines [Leslie v. Superior Court of Ventura County (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 1042, 1047-1049].

[4] Challenge to Statewide Application

Except as provided in Health & Safety Code § 17922.6 (minimum noise insulation regulations), any person, firm, corporation, or governmental agency that opposes the application of any applicable building standard published in the California Building Standards Code or any other rule or regulation adopted by the department within a particular local area may request a hearing before the local appeals board regarding the matter. If the local appeals board determines after the hearing that because of local conditions it is not reasonable for that standard, rule, or regulation to be applied in that area, it will have no application within that local area [see Health & Safety Code § 17925].

[5] Fees

The governing body of any county or city, including a charter city, may prescribe fees for permits, certificates, or other forms or documents required or authorized by the State Housing Law or rules and regulations promulgated pursuant to the State Housing Law [Health & Safety Code § 17951(a)]. It may also prescribe fees to defray the enforcement costs [see Health & Safety Code § 17951(b)]. If the local enforcement agency fails to inspect permitted work for which fees have been charged within 60 days of receiving a notice of completion, the permittee is entitled to reimbursement of the permit fees. The right to reimbursement must be disclosed on each permit or on a document that accompanies each permit [Health & Safety Code § 17951(d)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsLicensesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseAdministrative ProcedureReal Property LawZoning & Land UseBuilding & Housing CodesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseImpact Fees

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
6. Building Permits

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.139

§ 579.139 Individual Appeal of Application of Rule

Except as provided in Health & Safety Code § 18945 (appeals), the director of the Department of Housing and Community Development or his or her designee will hear appeals brought by any person regarding the application of any rule or regulation promulgated pursuant to the State Housing Law to that person when that person is alleging that the application or enforcement of any other rule or regulation by the department under the facts and circumstances is an erroneous or unlawful application or enforcement of the other rule or regulation by the department. Any appeal will be submitted through the designated local agency [Health & Safety Code § 17930].

Any appeal alleging erroneous or unlawful application by the department of a building standard published in the California Building Standards Code may be brought pursuant to Health & Safety Code §§ 18945-18949 (appeal to State Building Standards Commission) [Health & Safety Code § 17930].

A decision of the director or his or her designee made pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 17930 is final, except for that action as may be taken by a court or required by law [Health & Safety Code § 17932].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsLicensesGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsEmployees & OfficialsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseBuilding & Housing Codes

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
6. Building Permits

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.140

§ 579.140 Enforcement

[1] Local Departments

A city or county may designate and charge a department organized to carry out the purposes of the State Housing Law with the enforcement of the provisions published in the California Building Standards Code, the provisions of the State Housing Law, and other rules and regulations promulgated pursuant to the State Housing Law for the protection of the public health, safety, and general welfare as set forth in Health & Safety Code § 17921 [see Health & Safety Code § 17964; see also Health & Safety Code § 17962 (enforcement of regulations relating to fire and panic safety reside in fire chief)].

The provisions published in the California Building Standards Code, the provisions of the State Housing Law, and other rules and regulations promulgated pursuant to the State Housing Law pertaining to the erection, construction, reconstruction, movement, enlargement, conversion, alteration, repair, removal, demolition, or arrangement of apartment houses, hotels, or dwellings are enforced by the building department of the city or county [Health & Safety Code § 17960]. Those provisions pertaining to maintenance, sanitation, ventilation, use, or occupancy of apartment houses, hotels, or dwellings are enforced by the city's or county's housing or health department or an authorized environmental agency [see Health & Safety Code § 17961]. Those provisions pertaining to fire prevention, fire protection, and fire safety generally are enforced by the chief of the local fire department or fire protection services district [see Health & Safety Code § 17962].

When there is no local enforcement agency charged with enforcement, the Department of Housing and Community Development will enforce all applicable provisions pertaining to apartment houses, hotels, or dwellings [see Health & Safety Code § 17965].

[2] Inspections

Any officer, employee, or agent of an enforcement agency may enter and inspect any building or premises whenever necessary to secure compliance with, or prevent a violation of, any provision published in the California Building

Standards Code, the provisions of the State Housing Law, and other rules and regulations promulgated pursuant to the State Housing Law that the enforcement agency has the power to enforce [Health & Safety Code § 17970]. The consent of the owner or occupants is necessary to enter a dwelling between 6 p.m. and 8 a.m., and if they are absent from the dwelling, a court order is necessary [see Health & Safety Code § 17972].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsAdministrative BoardsGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsLicensesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseBuilding & Housing Codes

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
6. Building Permits

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.141

§ 579.141 Violations

[1] Preliminary Notice to Correct

If any building is constructed, altered, converted, or maintained in violation of any provision of, or in violation of any order or notice giving a reasonable time to correct that violation issued by an enforcement agency pursuant to the building standards published in the California Building Standards Code, the provisions of the State Housing Law, and other rules and regulations promulgated pursuant to the State Housing Law, or if a nuisance exists in any building or on the lot on which it is situated, the enforcement agency will, after 30 days' notice to abate the nuisance, or violation, or to notice to abate with a shorter period of time if deemed necessary by the enforcement agency to prevent or remedy an immediate threat to the health and safety of the public or occupants of the structure, institute any appropriate action or proceeding to prevent, restrain, correct, or abate the violation or nuisance [Health & Safety Code § 17980(a)].

If any building is maintained in a manner that violates any provisions of the State Housing Law, applicable building standards published in the State Building Standards Code, any other rule or regulation adopted pursuant to the State Housing Law, or any provision in a local ordinance that is similar to a provision in the State Housing Law, and the violations are so extensive and of such a nature that the health and safety of residents or the public is substantially endangered, the enforcement agency may issue an order or notice to repair or abate [Health & Safety Code § 17980.6]. An order or notice pursuant to Section 17980.6 must be provided either by both posting a copy of the order or notice in a conspicuous place on the property and by first-class mail to each affected residential unit, or by posting a copy of the order or notice in a conspicuous place on the property and in a prominent place on each affected residential unit. The order or notice must include the name, address, and telephone number of the agency that issued the notice or order; the date, time, and location of any public hearing or proceeding concerning the order or notice; and information that the lessor cannot retaliate against a lessee pursuant to Civ. Code § 1942.5 [Health & Safety Code § 17980.6].

A notice to repair is not required by Health and Safety Code § 17980.6 to inform the property owner that receivership is a potential consequence of failure to correct or abate the identified violations, nor does the statute call for the disclosure of intent to seek a receivership at some point in the future [City of Santa Monica v. Gonzalez (2008) 43 Cal. 4th 905, 922, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 483, 182 P.3d 1027]. Furthermore, in City of Santa Monica v. Gonzalez the notice to repair was not rendered invalid by its failure to identify its statutory basis. However, the California Supreme Court encouraged enforcement agencies to do so in their notices to repair [City of Santa Monica v. Gonzalez (2008) 43 Cal. 4th 905, 922, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 483, 182 P.3d 1027]. Finally, Section 17980.6 does not mandate the specific caption "Order or Notice to Repair or Abate." Thus, a notice to repair captioned "Notice and Order to Comply" was not invalid [City of Santa Monica v. Gonzalez (2008) 43 Cal. 4th 905, 922, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 483, 182 P.3d 1027].

[2] Notice to Tenants

Tenants in a building must be provided with copies of any of the following [Health & Safety Code § 17980(c)(1)]:

- The notice of any violation that affects the health and safety of the occupants and that causes the building to be substandard pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 17920.3 or in violation of Health & Safety Code § 17920.10.

- An order of the code enforcement agency issued after inspection of thepremises declaring the dwelling to be in violation of any provision described in Health & Safety Code § 17980(a) [see § 579.141[1]].

- The enforcement agency's decision to repair or demolish.

- The issuance of a building or demolition permit following the abatement order of an enforcement agency.

Each document provided must be provided to each affected residential unit by the enforcement agency that issued the order or notice [Health & Safety Code § 17980(c)(2); see Health & Safety Code § 17980.6(a) (prescribed manner for providing documents)].

By requiring that any order or notice be posted "in a conspicuous place on the property," Health and Safety Code § 17980.6 (notice to repair or abate; see [1], above) provides for notice reasonably calculated to apprise the owner and others that the property has been found by the applicable enforcement agency to be in violation of specified building standards and that repair or abatement of the violations is demanded. Because it would be unreasonable and a violation of due process to hold an owner accountable for building code violations and repair demands without providing adequate notice of such matters, the conspicuous-posting requirement is an essential component of Section 17980.6 intended primarily for the protection of the owner. However, in City of Santa Monica v. Gonzalez, in which the property owner challenged the appointment of a receiver, the California Supreme Court held that the city substantially complied with this requirement by personally serving the property owner with the notice to repair [City of Santa Monica v. Gonzalez (2008) 43 Cal. 4th 905, 925, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 483, 182 P.3d 1027]. Furthermore, because the provisions requiring notice to each affected unit are intended for the informational benefit of tenants, the property owner was in no position to rely on them as a basis for invalidating subsequently issued receivership orders [City of Santa Monica v. Gonzalez (2008) 43 Cal. 4th 905, 926, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 483, 182 P.3d 1027].

[3] Commencement of Abatement Proceedings

Whenever the enforcement agency has through inspection determined that the building is a substandard building, it will commence proceedings to abate the violation by repair, rehabilitation, vacation, or demolition of the building. It will not require the vacating of a residential building unless it concurrently requires expeditious demolition or repair [see Health & Safety Code § 17980(b)].

[4] Summons and Service

Service of summons in the manner provided in the Code of Civil Procedure is sufficient for any action or proceeding brought pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 17980 et seq. [Health & Safety Code § 17988; see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers]. The time to file a written pleading in response to a summons in an action brought pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 17980 et seq. is 10 days [Health & Safety Code § 17990]. For a copy of Judicial Council Form SUM-145 (Summons--Enforcement of State Housing Law), see § 579.374.

Except under conditions immediately affecting health or safety, every notice or order issued pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 17980 et seq. must be served five days before the time for doing or refraining from doing the thing to which it pertains [Health & Safety Code § 17989].

[5] Repair or Demolition of Building

The owner has the choice of repairing or demolishing. However, if the owner chooses to repair, the enforcement agency will require that the building be brought into compliance according to a reasonable and feasible schedule for expeditious repair [Health & Safety Code § 17980(b)(1)].

The enforcement agency may require vacation and demolition or may itself vacate the building, repair, demolish, or institute any other appropriate action or proceeding, if any of the following occur [Health & Safety Code § 17980(b)(1)(A)-(C)]:

- The repair work is not done within the period required by the notice [see § 579.141[2]].
- The owner does not make a timely choice of repair or demolition.
- The owner selects an option that cannot be completed within a reasonable period of time, as determined by the enforcement agency, for any reason, including an outstanding judicial or administrative order.

In its decision, the enforcement agency will give preference to the repair when it is economically feasible to do so, without having to repair more than 75 percent of the dwelling, as determined by the enforcement agency, and will give full consideration to the needs for housing as expressed in the housing element of the local jurisdiction [Health & Safety Code § 17980(b)(2)].

A notice and order to demolish within 120 days that does not provide the owner with the opportunity to select repair over demolition violates Health & Safety Code § 17980(b) and the owner's due process rights when immediate demolition is not required for health or safety reasons. Further, if a notice to repair or demolish has been given to a prior owner, due process requires succeeding owners be put on notice that the city has offered an option to repair or demolish, and on notice as to the time within which the option must be exercised [Hawthorne Savings & Loan Assn. v. City of Signal Hill (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 148, 159-163, 23 Cal. Rptr. 2d 272] .

Health & Safety Code § 17980.7 empowers a receiver of substandard property to sell the property or to take any other action respecting the property as the court may authorize [City of Santa Monica v. Gonzalez (2008) 43 Cal. 4th 905, 930, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 483, 182 P.3d 1027]. In City of Santa Monica v. Gonzalez, the California Supreme Court upheld the trial court's approval of the receiver's application to demolish the substandard building, despite the owner's desire to have the building repaired. The Supreme Court held that the trial court did not abuse its discretion in authorizing the receiver to contract for demolition on finding that the property was uninhabitable and that rehabilitation was "not economically feasible" [City of Santa Monica v. Gonzalez (2008) 43 Cal. 4th 905, 933, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 483, 182 P.3d 1027]. The evidence presented to the trial court amply demonstrated that the nature of the known code violations were extensive and supported its determination that the property was uninhabitable and that rehabilitation was not economically feasible. In addition, therewas nothing to suggest the trial court approved a fraudulent, unfair, or oppressive course of action [City of Santa Monica v. Gonzalez (2008) 43 Cal. 4th 905, 933, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 483, 182 P.3d 1027].

The statutory right under Health & Safety Code § 17980(b)(1) to choose whether to repair or to demolish a building that is substandard or a nuisance did not aid the property owner in City of Santa Monica v. Gonzalez because it is part of a different, albeit related, statutory scheme that authorizes enforcement agencies to take actions concerning substandard buildings without involving a receiver. Nevertheless, the owner's wish to repair the property and to continue living there with his family was a legitimate factor for the trial court to consider. However, that factor did not mandate judicial disapproval of the demolition alternative, especially in view of the economic information presented [City of Santa Monica v. Gonzalez (2008) 43 Cal. 4th 905, 934, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 483, 182 P.3d 1027].

[6] Relief Pending Order

An enforcement agency that institutes any action or proceeding pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 17980 et seq. may, by verified complaint setting forth the facts, apply to the superior court for an order granting the relief for which the action or proceeding is brought until the entry of a final judgment or order [Health & Safety Code § 17981]. If any notice or order issued by an enforcement agency is not complied with within a reasonable time as specified in that notice or order, the enforcement agency may apply to the superior court for an order authorizing it to remove any violation or abate any nuisance specified [see Health & Safety Code § 17982].

[7] Notice of Action

Any enforcement agency that institutes an action or proceeding pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 17980 et seq. must record a notice of the pendency of the action or proceeding in the county recorder's office of the county where the property affected by the action or proceeding is situated. The notice will be recorded at the time of the commencement of the action or proceeding and has the same effect as the notice of pendency of action provided for in the Code of Civil Procedure [see Health & Safety Code § 17985(a)].

The enforcement agency will record a notice of final disposition of any action or proceeding in the county recorder's office where the property affected by the action or proceeding was recorded immediately following final resolution [Health & Safety Code § 17985(b)].

Any notice of pendency of action or proceeding may be vacated on the order of a judge of the court where the action or proceeding is pending. A certified copy of the order of vacation may be recorded in the office of the recorder [see Health & Safety Code § 17987].

[8] Penalties

Any person who violates any provision of the State Housing Law, the building standards published in the California Building Standards Code, or any other rule or regulation promulgated under the State Housing Law is guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine not exceeding $1,000, byimprisonment not exceeding six months, or by both [Health & Safety Code § 17995]. A subsequent conviction within a five-year period for violations at the same property is punishable by a fine not exceeding $5,000, by imprisonment not exceeding six months, or by both [Health & Safety Code § 17995.1].

Any person found in contempt of a court order or injunction pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 17910 et seq. for a subsequent time within a five year period for violation at the same property is guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine not exceeding $5,000, by imprisonment not exceeding six months, or by both [Health & Safety Code § 17995.2].

If the subsequent conviction is for a violation that endangers the immediate health and safety of residents or the public, is the result of the defendant's habitual neglect of customary maintenance, and displays a flagrant lack of concern for health and safety, it is punishable by a fine not exceeding $5,000 and by imprisonment of not less than six months but not exceeding one year. To impose this penalty the trier of fact must find at least four serious violations of statutorily listed health conditions [see Health & Safety Code § 17995.3]. A similar punishment is available under those conditions when the person has been found in contempt of a court order or injunction for a subsequent violation [see Health & Safety Code § 17995.4].

[9] Restrictions on Abatement Proceedings

No local ordinance may permit any action or proceedings to abate violations of regulations governing maintenance of existing buildings, unless the building is a substandard building or the violation is a misdemeanor [Health & Safety Code § 17922(g)].

The housing appeals board may, in cases of extreme hardship to the owner-occupants or tenants of dwellings, provide for deferral of the effective date of orders of abatement. Any such deferral terminates on any sale or transfer of the dwelling by the owner-occupant, but not if the dwelling is occupied by a tenant other than the owner-occupant [Health & Safety Code § 17959.4].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Criminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesMiscellaneous OffensesGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsAdministrative BoardsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseAdministrative ProcedureReal Property LawZoning & Land UseBuilding & Housing Codes

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
6. Building Permits

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.142

§ 579.142 Transfer of Ownership of Property in Violation

The sale or other transfer of property to a third party will not render moot an administrative or judicial action or proceeding pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 17980 et seq., including an action under Health & Safety Code § 17982, instituted by an enforcement agency, or a receiver on behalf of an enforcement agency, against the owner of record on the date that a citation for, or other notice of, a violation was issued [Health & Safety Code § 17991(a)].

If property is sold or otherwise transferred to a third party during the period between the issuance of the notice of violation and the abatement of the violation, or any related administrative or judicial actions, within five days after the sale or transfer occurs, the transferor must record a Notice of Conveyance of Substandard Property with the county recorder where the property is located. The notice must identify the name and address of the buyer or transferee, and it must be executed with a signature that the information is true and correct, under penalty of perjury [Health & Safety Code § 17991(b)]. The transferor must also provide the following information to the enforcement agency within the same five-day period [Health & Safety Code § 17991(c)]:

- If the seller or transferor is not an individual, the name, address, and driver's license number or identification card number of each individual who has an interest in excess of 5 percent in the entity which is selling or transferring the property.

- If the buyer or transferee is an individual person, that person's name, address, and driver's license number or identification number.

- If the buyer or transferee is not an individual person, the name, address, and driver's license or ID card number of each individual who has an interest in excess of 5 percent in the entity that is the buyer or transferee.

Any person who obtains an ownership interest in any property after a notice of pendency of an action or proceeding was recorded with regard to the property pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 17985, or any other notice of a violation was recorded with the county recorder of the county in which the property is located, and when the notice has neither been withdrawn nor expunged, will be subject to any order to correct a violation, including time limitations specified in a citation issued pursuant to Health & Safety Code §§ 17980 and 17981, or any other properly recorded notice of a violation [Health & Safety Code § 17992].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsAdministrative BoardsReal Property LawPurchase & SaleGeneral OverviewReal Property LawZoning & Land UseAdministrative ProcedureReal Property LawZoning & Land UseBuilding & Housing Codes

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
6. Building Permits

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 579.143-579.159

[Reserved]

§§ 579.143[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
7. Nonconforming Uses

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.160

§ 579.160 Nonconforming Uses

[1] Lawful Existing Use

A nonconforming use is a lawful use existing on the effective date of the zoning restriction and continuing since that time in nonconformance to the ordinance. Nonuse is not a nonconforming use, and reuse may be prohibited when a nonconforming use has been voluntarily abandoned [Hill v. City of Manhattan Beach (1971) 6 Cal. 3d 279, 285-286, 98 Cal. Rptr. 785, 491 P.2d 369] .

Typically, zoning ordinances include a provision permitting the continuance of a nonconforming use because of the hardship and doubtful constitutionality of compelling the immediate discontinuance of nonconforminguses [County of San Diego v. McClurken (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 683, 686, 234 P.2d 972] . The exemption may either exempt an existing use altogether or allow a limited period of continued operation adequate for amortization of the owners' investment in the particular use [see, e.g., National Advertising Co. v. County of Monterey (1970) 1 Cal. 3d 875, 83 Cal. Rptr. 577, 464 P.2d 33 ; Livingston Rock etc. Co. v. County of L.A. (1954) 43 Cal. 2d 121, 272 P.2d 4] .

Generally, an ordinance may not operate to immediately suppress or remove from a particular district an otherwise lawful business or use already established [City of Los Angeles v. Gage (1954) 127 Cal. App. 2d 442, 453-454, 274 P.2d 34] . However, because each zoning district is an appropriate area for the uses permitted by the zone plan in that area, and the existence of other uses tends to impair the development and stability of the area for the appropriate uses, pre-existing nonconforming uses are not perpetual. Thus, provisions that deny the right to add to buildings devoted to an existing nonconforming use, to resume a nonconforming use after a period of nonuse, to extend or enlarge an existing nonconforming use, and to substitute new buildings for those devoted to an existing nonconforming use are valid. In addition, an ordinance that requires termination of present nonconforming uses within a reasonable time may be permissible [City of Los Angeles v. Gage (1954) 127 Cal. App. 2d 442, 453-454, 459-460, 274 P.2d 34 (elimination of existing uses over reasonable period held not to constitute taking of property or to necessarily restrict its use so that it cannot be used for any reasonable purpose)]. An ordinance may otherwise authorize revocation of the allowance of a nonconforming use when it can be done without impairment of constitutional rights. Thus, an ordinance allowing revocation after a noticed public hearing, when it is found that the nonconforming use is a public nuisance or is exercised in a manner that was detrimental to the public health or safety is valid [Livingston Rock etc. Co. v. County of L.A. (1954) 43 Cal. 2d 121, 128, 272 P.2d 4 ; for discussion and forms relating to public nuisance, see Ch. 391, Nuisance].

[2] Actual Use

It is the activity of the owner in the use of his or her property at the time it becomes subject to a zoning ordinance, not his or her plans regarding the future use of the property, that determines the scope of the nonconforming use excepted from the restrictions imposed by the ordinance. The property owner acquires a vested right to continue a use actually instituted, not to capitalize on anticipated profit [anderson v. City Council (1964) 229 Cal. App. 2d 79, 88-89, 40 Cal. Rptr. 41] . An application by the owner for a building permit does not establish a vested right by actual use until the permit has been issued and the owner has expended considerable funds in reliance on it [see Spindler Realty Corp. v. Monning (1966) 243 Cal. App. 2d 255, 269, 53 Cal. Rptr. 7 , cert. denied, 385 U.S. 975 (1967)] .

[3] Change or Expansion Prohibited

The continuance of a nonconforming use is a continuance of the same use and not some other kind of use [County of San Diego v. McClurken (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 683, 688, 234 P.2d 972] . The use need not be identical, but must be substantially the same or similar. In determining whether a nonconforming use is the same before as after the application of a zoning ordinance, each case must stand on its own facts. Changes or additions to an existing nonconforming use are not protected when they make the use more noisome, enlarge it, or make it more permanent [City of Los Altos v. Silvey (1962) 206 Cal. App. 2d 606, 609-611, 24 Cal. Rptr. 200 ; see Sabek, Inc. v. County of Sonoma (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 163, 166-168, 235 Cal. Rptr. 350] . Under some circumstances, such as those where the nonconforming use involves mining or quarrying operations, the "diminishing asset" doctrine will be applied as an exception to the general rule prohibiting expansion of the existing use [see Hansen Bros. Enterprises v. Board of Supervisors (1996) 12 Cal. 4th 533, 553-559, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 778, 907 P.2d 1324] . For further discussion, see § 579.160[4].

Essential maintenance repairs may be made to nonconforming uses, but those repairs cannot be relied on to defeat zoning legislation dictating the eventual liquidation of those nonconforming uses [National Advertising Co. v. County of Monterey (1970) 1 Cal. 3d 875, 880, 83 Cal. Rptr. 577, 464 P.2d 33 , cert. denied, 398 U.S. 946 , disapproved on another point in Metromedia, Inc. v. City of San Diego (1980) 26 Cal. 3d 848 , that was overruled on other grounds in Metromedia, Inc. v. City of San Diego (1981) 453 U.S. 490, 521, 101 S. Ct. 2882, 69 L. Ed. 2d 800 (1981)]. An example of an essential repair would be the temporary removal of corrals to grade for proper drainage when the maintenance of a dairy herd was the valid nonconforming use [City of Fontana v. Atkinson (1963) 212 Cal. App. 2d 499, 503-507, 28 Cal. Rptr. 25] .

[4] Vested Rights to Extractive Uses: Diminishing Asset Doctrine

Unlike other nonconforming uses of property that operate within an existing structure or boundary, extractive uses, such as mining and quarrying, anticipate extension of mining into areas of the property that were not being exploited at the time a zoning change caused the use to be nonconforming. The question thus arises whether this extension is a prohibited expansion of a nonconforming use into another area of the property. In California the answer is a qualified "no" under the "diminishing asset" doctrine--an exception to the general rule banning expansion of a nonconforming use that is specific to extractive enterprises [Hansen Bros. Enterprises v. Board of Supervisors (1996) 12 Cal. 4th 533, 553, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 778, 907 P.2d 1324] .

The very nature of an extraction business such as mining or quarrying is the continuing use of the land, and this use is what is endorsed by theconcept of a nonconforming use. The diminishing asset doctrine holds that an owner of a nonconforming use may sometimes be found to have a vested right to use an entire tract even though only a portion of the tract was used when the restrictive zoning ordinance was enacted. The determining factor is whether the nature of the initial nonconforming use, in light of the character and adaptability to that use of the entire parcel, manifestly implies that the entire property was appropriated to that use before the restrictive ordinance was adopted. The landowner's mere subjective intention or hope to extend the use over the entire tract is insufficient. Successful application of the diminishing asset doctrine requires objective evidence that the owner intended to expand operations, and that this intent existed at the time of the zoning change [Hansen Bros. Enterprises v. Board of Supervisors (1996) 12 Cal. 4th 533, 553-559, 48 Cal. Rptr. 2d 778, 907 P.2d 1324 ; see McCaslin v. City of Monterey Park (1958) 163 Cal. App. 2d 339, 329 P.2d 522] .

[5] Termination by Amortization

A city seeking to eliminate nonconforming uses may pursue two constitutionally equivalent alternatives: (1) it can eliminate the use immediately by payment of just compensation or (2) it can require removal of the use without compensation following a reasonable amortization period [Metromedia, Inc. v. City of San Diego (1980) 26 Cal. 3d 848, 881, 164 Cal. Rptr. 510, 610 P.2d 407 , overruled on other grounds, 453 U.S. 490, 521, 101 S. Ct. 2882, 69 L. Ed. 2d 800 (1981)] .

Zoning legislation may validly provide for the eventual termination of nonconforming uses without compensation if it provides a reasonable amortization period commensurate with the investment involved. The determination of the length of a reasonable period of amortization is not merely a matter of accounting. It involves a process of weighing the public gain to be derived from a speedy removal of the nonconforming use against the private loss which the removal of the use would entail. The reasonableness of an amortization period as applied to each structure depends in part on facts peculiar to that structure. Such facts include the cost of the structure, its depreciated value, remaining useful life, the length and remaining term of the lease under which it is maintained, and the harm to the public if it remains standing beyond the prescribed amortization period. If the amortization period prescribed by the ordinance is a reasonable one, the fact that the city arrived at that period by a formula which did not include every one of the relevant considerations does not render the ordinance unconstitutional [Metromedia, Inc. v. City of San Diego (1980) 26 Cal. 3d 848, 882-884, 164 Cal. Rptr. 510, 610 P.2d 407 , overruled on other grounds, 453 U.S. 490, 521, 101 S. Ct. 2882, 69 L. Ed. 2d 800 (1981)] .

Use of a reasonable amortization scheme allows the owner of the nonconforming use, by being afforded an opportunity to make new plans, to at least partially offset any losses suffered. Any loss suffered is spread out over a period of years and that owner enjoys a monopolistic position by virtue of the zoning ordinance [City of Los Angeles v. Gage (1954) 127 Cal. App. 2d 442, 460, 274 P.2d 34] . The landowner has the burden of proving the invalidity of the amortization period as applied to each of his or her structures [Metromedia, Inc. v. City of San Diego (1980) 26 Cal. 3d 848, 884, 164 Cal. Rptr. 510, 610 P.2d 407 , overruled on other grounds, 453 U.S. 490, 521, 101 S. Ct. 2882, 69 L. Ed. 2d 800 (1981)] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawZoning & Land UseNonconforming UsesReal Property LawMiningGeneral OverviewReal Property LawZoning & Land UseConstitutional LimitsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseNonconforming Uses

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
7. Nonconforming Uses

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 579.161-579.179

[Reserved]

§§ 579.161[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
8. Coastal Zone

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.180

§ 579.180 California Coastal Act

The California Coastal Act of 1976 (Coastal Act) is set forth in Pub. Res. Code § 30000 et seq. Among the purposes of the Coastal Act is to protect and maintain the quality of the coastal zone, to maximize public access to the coastal zone, and to assure balanced utilization of coastal zone resources [Pub. Res. Code § 30001.5].

For additional detailed coverage of the Coastal Act, see Manaster and Selmi, California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice, Ch. 66, Coastal Zone Regulation (Matthew Bender).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawZoning & Land UseGeneral OverviewReal Property LawZoning & Land UseState & Regional Planning

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
8. Coastal Zone

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.181

§ 579.181 Land Within Coastal Zone

"Coastal zone" means that land and water area of California from the Oregon border to the border of Mexico, extending seaward to the state's outer limit of jurisdiction, including all offshore islands, and extending inland generally 1,000 yards from the mean high tide line of the sea. In significant coastal estuarine, habitat, and recreational areas it extends inland to the first major ridgeline paralleling the sea or five miles from the mean high tide line of the sea, whichever is less. In developed urban areas, the zone generally extends inland less than 1,000 yards. The coastal zone does not include the area of jurisdiction of the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission, nor any area contiguous thereto, including any river, stream, tributary, creek, or flood control or drainage channel flowing into that area [Pub. Res. Code § 30103(a); see Gov. Code § 66600 et seq. (jurisdiction of San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission)].

The coastal zone boundary has been revised for various cities and counties [see Pub. Res. Code §§ 30150-30176].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawZoning & Land UseGeneral OverviewReal Property LawZoning & Land UseState & Regional Planning

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
8. Coastal Zone

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.182

§ 579.182 Implementation of Coastal Act

[1] California Coastal Commission

The California Coastal Commission was created by the California Coastal Act of 1976 [Pub. Res. Code § 30300]. The commission, unless specifically provided otherwise, has the primary responsibility for implementing the Coastal Act. It is the state coastal zone planning and management agency, and may exercise any and all powers set forth in any federal act that relate to the planning or management of the coastal zone [Pub. Res. Code § 30330; see, e.g., Federal Coastal Zone Management Act of 1972 (16 U.S.C. §§ 1451-1464)]. Additional powers and duties of the commission are set forth in Pub. Res. Code §§ 30331-30344.

The commission reviews the proposed local coastal program of local governments within the coastal zone, and will either certify or refuse to certify that plan [see Pub. Res. Code §§ 30512-30513]. It performs a similar review and certification process with amendments to the local coastal program [Pub. Res. Code § 30514]. The commission also hears appeals from local government action on development permits [see Pub. Res. Code §§ 30602, 36303].

Although several provisions within the Coastal Act specifically refer to regional commissions, those commissions have been eliminated. Except as otherwise provided in the Coastal Act, the state Coastal Commission has succeeded to all the obligations, powers, and duties of the regional coastal commissions that existed before Coastal Commission termination on July 1, 1981 [see Pub. Res. Code §§ 30305, 30331].

In the absence of a specific authorization, no state agency may exercise any powers or carry out any duties or responsibilities established by the Coastal Act [Pub. Res. Code § 30400]. The Coastal Act provides that all state agencies must carry out their duties and responsibilities in conformity with the Coastal Act, and delineates the interrelationships between the commission and state agencies with possibly conflicting authority [Pub. Res. Code §§ 30402, 30401, 30403-30420].

In Marine Forests Society v. California Coastal Commission [Marine Forests Society v. California Coastal Com.

(2002) 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 869 , review granted, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 527)], the Third District Court of Appeal held that the appointment structure of the California Coastal Act, which gives the Senate Committee on Rules and the Speaker of the Assembly the power not only to appoint a majority of the Coastal Commission's voting members but also to remove them at will, contravened the separation of powers clause of the California Constitution. The court reasoned that by retaining the unilateral power to remove at will the majority of the voting members of the Commission, the legislative branch impermissibly controlled the Commission's executive function of implementing the Coastal Act. Accordingly, the court held that the trial court properly enjoined the Commission from granting, denying, or conditioning permits and from issuing and hearing cease and desist orders.

In response to Marine Forests Society, in February 2003 the Legislature amended Pub. Res. Code § 30312 to provide that the Senate Committee on Rules and Assembly Speaker may appoint members to the Coastal Commission for fixed four-year terms (expanded from the prior two-year term) while the Governor keeps the authority to appoint members for two-year terms. Only the gubernatorial appointees serve at the pleasure of the Governor. Each legislative appointer must appoint two members to serve two-year terms and two members to serve four-year terms to set in motion a staggered cycling of fixed terms [2003 Stats., ch. 1, ABX2 1].

The California Supreme Court granted review in Marine Forests and reversed the court of appeal [Marine Forests Society v. California Coastal Com. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1, 57-58, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 30] . The Court concluded that as amended, the statutory provisions governing the composition of the Coastal Commission do not violate the separation of powers clause of the California Constitution. The Supreme Court found that the history of the State Constitution, as well as case law, made it clear that the California Constitution, unlike the United States Constitution, does not categorically preclude the Legislature from enacting a statutory provision authorizing the Legislature itself to appoint a member or members of an executive commission or board [Marine Forests Society v. California Coastal Com. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1, 43, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 30] . Rather, the Court concluded that the California separation of powers clause precludes the adoption of a statutory scheme authorizing the legislative appointment of an executive officer or officers whenever the statutory provisions as a whole, viewed from a realistic and practical perspective, operate to defeat or materially impair the executive branch's exercise of its constitutional functions. The Court found that the amended versions of Pub. Res. Code §§ 30301 and 30312 do not violate that standard [Marine Forests Society v. California Coastal Com. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1, 45, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 30] .

The parties also requested, in light of the court of appeal's conclusion that the prior statutory scheme was unconstitutional, that the Supreme Court clarify the status of the numerous actions that were taken by the Coastal Commission during the period in which the prior statutes were in effect. The Court stated that even if it assumed that the prior version of the statutes violated the separation of powers clause, the past actions of the Commission could not properly be set aside on that ground. The Court stated that the applicable statute of limitations would bar a present challenge to most of the Commission's prior actions [Marine Forests Society v. California Coastal Com. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1, 54, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 30] . The Court further stated that even with regard to those cases in which a timely separation of powers challenge to the Commission's composition had been raised and remained pending, under the "de facto officer"doctrine, prior actions of the Commission could not be set aside on the ground that the appointment of the commissioners who participated in the decision might be vulnerable to constitutional challenge [Marine Forests Society v. California Coastal Com. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1, 54-55, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 30 , citing In re Redevelopment Plan for Bunker Hill (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 21, 37 Cal. Rptr. 74, 389 P.2d 538 (given existence of de jure office, "persons claiming to be public officers while in possession of an office, ostensibly exercising their function lawfully and with the acquiescence of the public, ... The lawful acts of an officer de facto, so far as the rights of third persons are concerned, are, if done within the scope and by the apparent authority of office, as valid and binding as if he were the officer legally elected and qualified for the office and in full possession of it")].

[2] Role of Local Government

Each local government lying, in whole or in part, within the coastal zone must prepare a local coastal program for that portion of the coastal zone within its jurisdiction. Amendments to a local general plan for the purpose of developing a local coastal program will not constitute an amendment of a general plan [Pub. Res. Code § 30500; see Gov. Code § 65358 (amendment of general plan); see also discussion of general plans in § 579.50[3]]. Procedures governing the establishment of a local coastal program, including certification of the local plan by the state commission, are set forth in Pub. Res. Code § 30500.1 et seq.

The authority to issue coastal development permits is delegated to the respective local government after its land use has been certified [Pub. Res. Code § 30600.5]. Any development within the coastal zone requires a coastal development permit, which can be obtained from the local government in whose jurisdiction the land to be developed is located [Pub. Res. Code § 30600].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawZoning & Land UseGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsAdministrative BoardsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseState & Regional Planning

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
8. Coastal Zone

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.183

§ 579.183 Policies Governing Coastal Development

The Coastal Act sets forth detailed standards of public access in compliance with Cal. Const., art. X, § 4, and provides for maximum access, conspicuously posted, and recreational opportunities for all the people consistent with public safety needs and the need to protect public rights, rights of private property owners, and natural resource areas from overuse [Pub. Res. Code § 30210; see Pub. Res. Code §§ 30211-30214 (other public access provisions); see also Pub. Res. Code §§ 30530-30534, 30610.3 (coastal access program)]. The Coastal Act also establishes policies regarding recreation, marine environment, land resources, development, and industrial development [see Pub. Res. Code §§ 30220-30224, 30230-30237, 30240-30244, 30250-30255, and 30260-30265.5, respectively].

The policies articulated in Pub. Res. Code § 30200 et seq. are the standards by which the adequacy of local programs and the permissibility of proposed developments subject to the Coastal Act are determined. In the case of a conflict between policies, Pub. Res. Code § 30007.5 (resolution of conflicts) will be used to resolve that conflict [Pub. Res. Code § 30200].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawZoning & Land UseGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsAdministrative BoardsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseState & Regional Planning

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
8. Coastal Zone

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.184

§ 579.184 Development Controls

[1] Development Defined

"Development" means, on land, in or under water, the placement or erection of any solid material or structure; discharge or disposal of any dredged material or of any gaseous, liquid, solid, or thermal waste; grading, removing, dredging, mining, or extraction of any materials; change in the density or intensity of use of land, including, but not limited to, subdivision pursuant to the Subdivision Map Act (Gov. Code § 66410 et seq.), and any other division of land, including lot splits, except when the land division is brought about in connection with the purchase of that land by a public agency for public recreational use; change in the intensity of use of water, or of access thereto; construction, reconstruction, demolition, or alteration of the size of any structure, including any facility of any private, public, or municipal utility; and the removal or harvesting of major vegetation other than for agricultural purposes, kelp harvesting, and timber operations that are in accordance with a timber harvesting plan submitted pursuant to the Z'berg-Nejedly Forest Practice Act of 1973 (Pub. Res. Code § 4511 et seq.) [Pub. Res. Code § 30106]. Because, like a subdivision of land or a lot split, a lot line adjustment is a division of land and can result in changes in the density or intensity of the use of property, a lot line adjustment is a "development" and therefore subject to the permit requirements of the Coastal Act [La Fe, Inc. v. Los Angeles County (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 231, 240, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 217] .

[2] Necessity of Permit

In addition to obtaining any other permit required by law from any local government or from any state, regional, or local agency, any person wishing to perform or undertake development in the coastal zone, other than a facility subject to Pub. Res. Code § 25500 (certified power facility) and specified emergency work on public service facilities and state highways, must obtain a coastal development permit [Pub. Res. Code § 30600(a), (e)]. A coastal development permit will not be required for any development on tidelands, submerged lands, public trust lands, or for any development by a public agency for which a local government permit is not otherwise required [Pub. Res. Code § 30600(b)(2)].

[3] Permit Procedures

Before certification of its local coastal program, a local government may establish procedures governing the issuance of a coastal developmentpermit. If the local government does not opt to establish those procedures, a coastal development permit may be obtained from the commission or from the local government as provided in Pub. Res. Code § 30519 (delegation of development review authority) or § 30600.5 [Pub. Res. Code § 30600(b)-(d)].

The state commission must adopt minimum standards for public notice, hearing, and appeal procedures to govern local government review of permit applications [Pub. Res. Code § 30600.5(e); see 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 13050 et seq.]. Before the delegation of authority to issue coastal development permits, a local government, after appropriate notice and hearing, will adopt an ordinance prescribing the procedures to be used in issuing those permits. Each ordinance must incorporate at least the minimum standards for public notice, hearings, and appeals and must contain provisions that prohibit the issuance of a permit for any development that may conflict with the ordinances that are being prepared to implement the certified land use plan [Pub. Res. Code § 30600.5(f)]. After delegation of authority to issue coastal development permits, a permit will be issued by the respective local government or the commission on appeal, if that government or commission on appeal finds that the proposed development is in conformity with the certified land use plan [Pub. Res. Code § 30600.5(c)].

Any action taken by a local government on a coastal development permit application may be appealed to the commission pursuant to Pub. Res. Code § 30602. The commission will hear an appeal, unless it determines that the action taken by the local government raises no substantial issue regarding conformity with the certified land use plan. Failure by any local government to act within any specified time limit constitutes an action taken [Pub. Res. Code § 30600.5(d)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementPermitsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseState & Regional Planning

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
8. Coastal Zone

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.185

§ 579.185 Permit Required From State Commission

Prior to certification of the local coastal program and, when applicable, in addition to a permit from local government pursuant to Pub. Res. Code § 30600(b) or (d), a coastal development permit must be obtained from the commission for any of the following [Pub. Res. Code § 30601]:

- Developments between the sea and the first public road paralleling the sea or within 300 feet of the inland extent of any beach or of the mean high tide line of the sea when there is no beach, whichever is the greater distance.

- Developments not included within first item, above, located on tidelands, submerged lands, public trust lands, within 100 feet of any wetland, estuary, stream, or within 300 feet of the top of the seaward face of any coastal bluff.

- Any development that constitutes a major public works project or a major energy facility.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementPermits

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
8. Coastal Zone

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.186

§ 579.186 Standing of Applicant

When the applicant for a coastal development permit is not the owner of a fee interest in the property on which a proposed development is to be located, but can demonstrate a legal right, interest, or other entitlement to use the property for the proposed development, the holder or owner of any superior interest in the property will not be required to join the applicant as coapplicant. However, all holders or owners of any other interests of record in the affected property must be notified in writing of the application and invited to join as coapplicant. In addition, prior to the issuance of a coastal development permit, the applicant must demonstrate the authority to comply with all conditions of approval [Pub. Res. Code § 30601.5].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJusticiabilityStandingPersonal StakeEnvironmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementPermits

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
8. Coastal Zone

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.187

§ 579.187 Issuance of Permit

Prior to certification of the local coastal program, a coastal development permit will be issued if the issuing agency, or the commission on appeal, finds that the proposed development is in conformity with Pub. Res. Code § 30200 et seq. and that it will not prejudice the ability of the local government to prepare a conforming local coastal program. A denial of the permit on the ground that it would prejudice the ability of the local government to prepare a conforming local coastal program must be accompanied by a specific finding that sets forth the basis for that conclusion [Pub. Res. Code § 30604(a)].

After certification of the local coastal program, a coastal development permit will be issued if the issuing agency, or the commission on appeal, finds that the proposed development is in conformity with the certified local coastal program [Pub. Res. Code § 30604(b)].

Any permit that is issued or any development or action approved on appeal is subject to reasonable terms and conditions to ensure that the development or action will be in accordance with the terms of the Coastal Act [Pub. Res. Code § 30607]. Any condition attached to a permit must substantially advance the governmental interest it furthers. Thus, a coastal development permit to build a home conditioned on the landowner conveying an easement allowing the public to pass along a beach, imposed to further the governmental interest of preserving the public's access to and view of the ocean, has been held invalid [Nollan v. California Coastal Comm'n (1987) 483 U.S. 825, 834-837, 107 S. Ct. 3141, 97 L. Ed. 2d 677 (suggesting that requiring an easement from the street to the beach or for a view point might have been so related to the stated governmental interest as to be a valid condition)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementPermitsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseAdministrative Procedure

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
8. Coastal Zone

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.188

§ 579.188 Permit Not Necessary

[1] Generally

No development or any portion thereof that is outside the coastal zone is subject to the coastal development permit requirements of the Coastal Act. Moreover, nothing in the Coastal Act authorizes the denial of a permit on the ground that the proposed development within the coastal zone will have an adverse environmental effect outside the coastal zone [Pub. Res. Code § 30604(d); see Sierra Club v. California Coastal Com. (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 839, 848-849, 28 Cal. Rptr. 3d 316 (in making permit decision regarding development inside coastal zone, commission may consider impacts in coastal zone of portions of project outside coastal zone and may properly act to prevent those impacts to extent they are related to development inside coastal zone; however, commission may not deny permit request solely on basis of impacts within coastal zone that will result from proposed development outside coastal zone)].

Notwithstanding any provision in the Coastal Act, no coastal development permit is required for the following types of development and in the following areas [Pub. Res. Code § 30610]:

(1) Improvements to existing single-family residences. However, the commission will specify, by regulation [see 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 13250(b)], those classes of development that involve a risk of adverse environmental effect and will require that a permit be obtained.

(2) Improvements to any structure other than a single-family residence or a public works facility. However, the commission will specify, by regulation [see 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 13253(b)], those types of improvements that involve a risk of adverse environmental effect, adversely affect public access, or involve a change in use contrary to any policy of the Coastal Act. For those improvements, a permit will be required.

(3) Maintenance dredging of existing navigation channels or moving dredged material from those channels to a disposal area outside the coastal zone, pursuant to a permit from the United States Army Corps of Engineers.

(4) Repair or maintenance activities that do not result in an addition to, or enlargement or expansion of, the object of those activities. However, if the commission determines that certain extraordinary methods of repair and maintenance involve a risk of substantial adverse environmental impact it will, by regulation [see 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 13252(a)], require that a permit be obtained.

(5) Any category of development, or any category of development within a specifically defined geographic area, that the commission, after following the requisite procedures, has described or identified and with respect to which the commission has found that there is no potential for any significant adverse effect on coastal resources or on public access, and that when the exclusion precedes certification of the applicable local coastal program, that the exclusion will not impair the ability of local government to prepare a local coastal program.

(6) The installation, testing, and placement in service or the replacement of any necessary utility connection between an existing service facility and any development approved pursuant to the Coastal Act. However, the commission may, when necessary, require reasonable conditions to mitigate any adverse impacts on coastal resources, including scenic resources.

(7) The replacement of any structure, other than a public works facility, destroyed by a disaster. The replacement structure must conform to applicable existing zoning requirements, must be for the same use and in the same location as the destroyed structure, and must not exceed the floor area, height, or bulk of the destroyed structure by more than 10 percent.

(8) Any activity anywhere in the coastal zone that involves the conversion of any existing multiple-unit residential structure to a time-share project, estate, or use [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11212(x)]. If any improvement to an existing structure is otherwise exempt from the permit requirements of the Coastal Act, no coastal development permit will be required for that improvement on the basis that it is to be made in connection with any exempt conversion. The division of a multiple-unit residential structure into condominiums (defined in Civ. Code § 783) is not considered a time-share project, estate, or use.

(9) Any proposed development that the executive director finds is a temporary event not having any significant adverse impact on coastal resources within the meaning of the commission's guidelines.

[2] Prior Permit

No person who obtained a vested right in a development prior to the effective date of the Coastal Act (January 1, 1977), or who obtained a permit pursuant to the former Coastal Act is required to secure approval for the development pursuant to the Coastal Act. However, no substantial change may be made in that development without prior approval having been obtained under the Coastal Act [Pub. Res. Code § 30608]. There is no distinction made between a person who has obtained a vested right and is therefore exempt and a person who obtained a permit under the former Coastal Act [Pardee Construction Co. v. California Coastal Com. (1979) 95 Cal. App. 3d 471, 478, 157 Cal. Rptr. 184] .

When, prior to the effective date of the Coastal Act, a permit was issued and expressly made subject to recorded conditions that are not dedications of land or interests in land for the benefit of the public, the owner of the real property that is the subject of the permit may apply for modification. Unless so modified or deleted, any condition imposed on a permit issued pursuant to the former CoastalAct remains in full force and effect [Pub. Res. Code § 30609].

[3] Urban Areas

Urban land areas will be excluded from the permit provisions by the commission, after public hearing, on request by a local government, when that area is either a residential area zoned and developed to a density of four or more dwelling units per acre or industrially zoned and developed on or before January 1, 1977. Additionally, the commission must find that locally permitted development will be infilling or replacement and in conformity with the surrounding community and that there is no potential for significant adverse effects on public access. However, no area may be excluded unless more than 50 percent of the lots are built on, to the same general density or intensity of use [Pub. Res. Code § 30610.5(a)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementIdentification & DelineationEnvironmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementPermitsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
8. Coastal Zone

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.189

§ 579.189 Hearings Before Commission

The commission must provide for a de novo public hearing on applications for coastal development permits and any appeals brought pursuant to the Coastal Act. It must give to any affected person a written public notice of the nature of the proceeding and of the time and place of the public hearing. Notice must also be given to any person who made a written request for notification [Pub. Res. Code § 30621(a)].

A hearing on the application or appeal will be set no later than 49 days after the date on which the application or appeal is filed with the commission [Pub. Res. Code § 30621(a)]. The commission is only required to open the hearing within 49 days. At the initial hearing, it must determine whether it has jurisdiction and may then continue the matter to a later date [Encinitas Country Day School, Inc. v. California Coastal Commission (2003) 108 Cal. App. 4th 575, 585,133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 551 (commission lost jurisdiction to hear appeal when it merely opened and continued hearing within 49-day period)]. A requirement that the hearing be concluded within 49 days would be unreasonable and create administrative impossibilities. Staff and environmental review would not be available in the 49-day period[Coronado Yacht Club v. California Coastal Com. (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 860, 869-872, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 10] .

The commission must act on the application or appeal within 21 days after the conclusion of the hearing [Pub. Res. Code § 30622].

The operation and effect of an action by any local government is stayed pending a decision by the commission on appeal [Pub. Res. Code § 30623].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementPermitsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseAdministrative Procedure

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
8. Coastal Zone

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.190

§ 579.190 Permit Without Hearing

[1] Emergencies and Specified Nonemergency Developments

The executive director or an appropriate local government authority may issue a permit without complying with normal procedures for notice and hearing in cases of emergency, other than those described in Pub. Res. Code § 30611, and for the following nonemergency developments [Pub. Res. Code § 30624(a)]:

- Improvements to any existing structure;
- Any single-family dwelling;
- Any development of up to four dwelling units within any incorporated area that does not require demolition;
- Any other development not in excess of $100,000 other than any division of land; and
- Any development specifically authorized as a principal permitted use and proposed in an area for which the land use portion of the applicable local coastal program has been certified.

A permit for any of these specified nonemergency developments will not be effective until after reasonable public notice and adequate review time has been given [Pub. Res. Code § 30624(a)].

One-third of the commissioners or the members of the local governing body may subsequently override the issuance of a permit for a nonemergency development and require the application to be processed by the usual procedures [Pub. Res. Code § 30624(b), (c)].

[2] Minor Developments

After a local coastal program has been certified, a local government may waive the public hearing requirement on a permit application for a "minor development" if [Pub. Res. Code § 30624.9(b)]:

- Notice that a public hearing will be held on request of any person is given to all persons who would otherwise be required to be notified of a public hearing as well as any other persons known to be interested in receiving notice; and

- No request for public hearing is received by the local government within 15 working days from the date this notice is sent.

The notice must include a statement that failure by any person to request a public hearing may result in loss of that person's ability to appeal to the commission any action taken on the permit application [Pub. Res. Code § 30624.9(c)].

For these purposes, a "minor development" is a development that the local government determines meets all of the following requirements [Pub. Res. Code § 30624.9(a)]:

- It is consistent with the certified local coastal program;

- It requires no discretionary approvals other than a coastal development permit; and

- It has no adverse effect either individually or cumulatively on coastal resources or public access to the shoreline or along the coast.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementPermitsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseAdministrative Procedure

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
8. Coastal Zone

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.191

§ 579.191 Vested Rights

[1] Generally

If a property owner has performed substantial work and incurred substantial liabilities in good faith reliance on a coastal development permit issued by the government, he or she acquires a vested right to complete construction within the terms of the permit. Once a landowner has secured a vested right, the commission may not, by virtue of a change in the Coastal Act, prohibit construction authorized by the permit the owner has relied on [see Halaco Engineering Co. v. South Central Coast Regional Com. (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 52, 72-73, 227 Cal. Rptr. 667, 720 P.2d 15] . A vested right is a property right protected by the constitution, and a failure to exercise that vested right to its fullest extent does not affect its vested character. Thus, a landowner exempt from the permit requirement of the former Coastal Act due to vested rights based on building permits, did not lose those vested rights by allowing the building permits to lapse [Pardee Construction Co. v. California Coastal Com. (1979) 95 Cal. App. 3d 471, 474, 479, 157 Cal. Rptr. 184] .

Preparatory work does not give rise to a vested right when it is done with knowledge that one or more additional permits will be required for actual construction, and the commission may apply the laws actually in effect at the time the additional permits are sought [see Halaco Engineering Co. v. South Central Coast Regional Com. (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 52, 73, 227 Cal. Rptr. 667, 720 P.2d 15] . For example, the permit exemption of Pub. Res. Code § 30608 based on a vested right was found not to protect a landowner who constructed a water system and water storage tanks without acquiring the necessary building permit [see Tosh v. California Coastal Com. (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 388, 393-396, 160 Cal. Rptr. 170] .

[2] Confirmation of Claim

A developer who claims exemption from the permit requirement of the Coastal Act on the grounds that he or she has a vested right to continue development must seek confirmation of that claim and may not first assert it as a defense to an action by the commission to enjoin further development [Halaco Engineering Co. v. South Central Coast Regional Com. (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 52, 63, 227 Cal. Rptr. 667, 720 P.2d 15 ; see Pub. Res. Code § 30608 and its discussion in § 579.188[2]]. Although the commission is the administrative tribunal charged with making the initial determination of a vested rights claim under the Coastal Act, that procedural authority in no way changes the constitutional character of the vested right. The commission has no authority to limit or deny a previously recognized vested right basis for exemption [Pardee Construction Co. v. California Coastal Com. (1979) 95 Cal. App. 3d 471, 480, 157 Cal. Rptr. 184] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementPermitsEnvironmental LawZoning & Land UseConstitutional LimitsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseAdministrative ProcedureReal Property LawZoning & Land UseConstitutional Limits

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
8. Coastal Zone

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.192

§ 579.192 Appeals to Commission

[1] Before Certification of Local Coastal Program--Appealable Decisions; Standing

Before its local coastal program has been certified, any local government action on a coastal development permit application may be appealed to the state commission by the executive director, any person (including the applicant), or any two members of the commission [Pub. Res. Code § 30602].

[2] Time Limits for Filing

The appeal must be filed within 20 working days after receipt of the notice required by Pub. Res. Code § 30620.5(c) or the local government decision will be final [Pub. Res. Code § 30602]. A decision is also final even when an appeal is filed, if the appeal is determined to be patently frivolous by the executive director and the filing fee that is therefore imposed is not deposited within five working days [Pub. Res. Code § 30602; see Pub. Res. Code § 30620(d)]. For discussion of frivolous appeals, see § 579.192[4].

[3] After Certification of Local Coastal Program

[a] Standing

After a city or county's local coastal program has been certified, certain permit decisions may be appealed to the state commission by the applicant, any aggrieved person, or any two members of the commission [Pub. Res. Code § 30625(a)]. An "aggrieved person" has been broadly defined to include residents or citizens of California or persons with a pecuniary or proprietary interest in the subject of the appeal [Klitgaard & Jones, Inc. v. San Diego Coast Regional Com. (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 99, 110, 121 Cal. Rptr. 650] .

[b] Appealable Decisions

A post-certification local government permit decision is appealable only if it concerns one of the following [Pub. Res.

Code § 30603(a)]:

(1) A development approved by the local government between the sea and the first public road paralleling the sea or within 300 feet of the inland extent of any beach or of the mean high tide line of the sea when there is no beach, whichever is the greater distance.

(2) A development approved by the local government that is not included in (1), above, and that is located on tidelands, submerged lands, public trust lands, within 100 feet of any wetland, estuary, or stream, or within 300 feet of the top of the seaward face of any coastal bluff.

(3) Developments approved by the local government that are not included in (1) or (2), above, that are located in a sensitive coastal resource area [see Pub. Res. Code § 30502(c)].

(4) Any development approved by a coastal county that is not designated as the principal permitted use under the approved zoning ordinance or zoning district map [see Pub. Res. Code §§ 30500-30534].

(5) Any development that constitutes a major public works project or a major energy facility.

[c] Grounds for Appeal

Appeals of post-certification local government permit decisions are limited to an allegation that the development does not conform to the standards set forth in the certified coastal program or the public access policies in the Coastal Act [Pub. Res. Code § 30603(b)(1)]. If the appeal is from the denial of a permit for a major public works or major energy facility, the grounds for appeal are limited to an allegation that the development conforms to the standards set forth in the certified local coastal program and the public access policies in the Coastal Act [Pub. Res. Code § 30603(b)(2)].

[d] Time Limits for Filing Appeal

Once a local government has taken action on a permit application, it must send notification of that action to the commission by certified mail within seven calendar days of the date the action was taken [Pub. Res. Code § 30603(d)]. Any appeal of that action must be filed within 10 working days of the date the commission receives the local government's notice. If the 10-day period passes with no appeal being filed, the decision becomes final [Pub. Res. Code § 30603(c)]. A decision also becomes final even when an appeal is filed, if the appeal is determined to be patently frivolous by the executive director and the filing fee that is therefore imposed is not deposited within five working days [Pub. Res. Code § 30603(c); see Pub. Res. Code § 30620(d)]. For discussion of frivolous appeals, see § 579.192[4].

[4] Patently Frivolous Appeals; When Appeal Is Considered Filed

When the applicant or any person other than members of the commission or a public agency requests an appeal of a local government action, whether before or after certification of a local plan, the executive director must determine whether the appeal is patently frivolous. The determination must be made within five working days after the commission receives the appeal. If such a determination is made, the appeal will not be considered filed unless a $300 filing fee is deposited with the commission within five working days of receipt of the executive director's determination. If the commission subsequently determines that the appeal raises a substantive issue, the filing fee will be refunded [Pub. Res. Code § 30620(d)].

An appeal that is properly submitted is considered to be filed only under the following circumstances [Pub. Res. Code § 30621]:

- The executive director determines that the appeal is not patently frivolous;

- The five-day period for the executive director to determine whether an appeal is patently frivolous expires without a determination; or

- The appellant pays the filing fee within the prescribed five-day period.

[5] Commission Decision to Hear Appeal

The commission will hear an appeal unless it determines the following [Pub. Res.Code § 30625(b)]:

- With regard to local government permit decisions before certification of the local coastal program, that there is no substantial issue regarding conformity with the Coastal Act's coastal resources, planning, and management policies [see Pub. Res. Code §§ 30200-30265.5].

- With regard to local government post-certification permit decisions, that there is no substantial issue with respect to the grounds on which the appeal was filed [see Pub. Res. Code § 30603(b), discussed in § 579.192[3][c]].

- With regard to appeals after certification of a port master plan, that there is no substantial issue with respect to conformity with that plan.

[6] Action on Appeal

Once the commission has accepted an appeal, it must set the matter for de novo hearing and provide notice as required by Pub. Res. Code § 30621(a). For discussion of the hearing and notice requirements, see § 579.189. The commission must act on the appeal within 21 days after the hearing is concluded [Pub. Res. Code § 30622], at which time it may approve, modify, or deny the proposed development [Pub. Res. Code § 30625(a)]. If the commission fails to meet this time limit, or fails to meet the 49-day limitation for setting the hearing [see Pub. Res. Code § 30621(a)], the local government decision appealed from will be deemedfinal, unless the permit applicant waives these time limits [Pub. Res. Code § 30625(a)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementPermitsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseAdministrative Procedure

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
8. Coastal Zone

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.193

§ 579.193 Reconsideration of Permit

The terms and conditions of any coastal development permit granted by the commission may be reconsidered to correct any information contained in those terms and conditions [see Pub. Res. Code § 30626].

A request for reconsideration of the denial of an application for a permit or terms or conditions imposed on the permit may be made under the following procedures [see Pub. Res. Code § 30627(a), (b)]:

- Only an applicant for a permit is eligible to request reconsideration.

- The request for reconsideration must be made within 30 days of the decision on the application for the permit.

- The basis for the request for reconsideration must be either that there is relevant new evidence that, in the exercise of reasonable diligence, could not have been presented at the hearing on the matter, or that an error of fact or law has occurred that has the potential of altering the regional commission's initial decision.

- The commission has the discretion to grant or deny a request for reconsideration.

A decision to deny a request for reconsideration is not subject to appeal [Pub. Res. Code § 30627(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementPermitsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseAdministrative Procedure

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
8. Coastal Zone

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.194

§ 579.194 Violations of Coastal Act

[1] Notice of Violation

When the Coastal Commission is the legally responsible coastal development permitting authority, or when a local government or port governing body requests the Commission to assist in resolving an unresolved violation, and the executive director has determined that real property has been developed in violation of the Coastal Act, he or she may cause a notification of intention to record a notice of violation (NOV) to be mailed by regular and certified mail to the owner of the property at issue. The notice must (1) describe the real property, (2) identify the nature of the violation, (3) name the owners, and (4) state that if the owner objects to the filing of the NOV, he or she will be afforded the opportunity to present evidence on the issue of whether a violation has occurred [Pub. Res. Code § 30812(a), (h)]. The owner will then have 20 days to object to the filing of the NOV. If no timely objection is made, the NOV will be filed in each county in which all or part of the property is located [Pub. Res. Code § 30812(b)].

If the owner files a timely objection, a public hearing will be held at which the owner may present evidence as to why the NOV should not be recorded [Pub. Res. Code § 30812(c)]. If, following the hearing, the Commission finds that a violation has occurred, the NOV will be recorded. If there is a finding that no violation occurred, a clearance letter will be issued to the property owner [Pub. Res. Code § 30812(d)].

When the NOV is properly recorded and indexed, it will be considered notice of the violation to all successors in interest in the subject property. It is for informational purposes only, however, and does not constitute a defect, lien, or encumbrance on the property [Pub. Res. Code § 30812(e)(2)]. Once the violation has been finally resolved, a clearance letter will be mailed to the owner and a notice of rescission will be recorded in each county office in which the NOV was recorded. The notice will indicate that the NOV is no longer valid and has the same effect as a withdrawal or expungement under Code Civ. Proc. § 405.61 [Pub. Res. Code § 30812(f)].

An NOV may not be issued until (1) existing methods (excluding the commencement of formal administrative or judicial proceedings) for resolving the violation have been utilized and (2) the property owner has been made aware of the possibility that a NOV will be recorded [Pub. Res. Code § 30812(g)].

[2] Action to Restrain

Any person may maintain an action for declaratory and equitable relief to restrain any violation of the Coastal Act. On a prima facie showing of a violation of the Coastal Act, preliminary equitable relief will be issued to restrain any further violation of the Act. No bond will be required [Pub. Res. Code § 30803].

Any person may maintain an action to enforce the duties specifically imposed on the commission, any governmental agency, any special district, or any local government by the Coastal Act. No bond will be required [Pub. Res. Code § 30804]. Pub. Res. Code § 30804 appears to be designed to make traditional mandate available to enforce ministerial duties imposed on the commission by the Coastal Act [Pacific Legal Foundation v. California Coastal Com. (1982) 33 Cal. 3d 158, 169, 169 n.5, 188 Cal. Rptr. 104, 655 P.2d 306] .

Any person may maintain an action for the recovery of civil penalties provided by Pub. Res. Code § 30820 or 30821.6 [Pub. Res. Code § 30805]. Pub. Res. Code § 30805 provides standing for private individuals to enforce the Coastal Act, but it does not mean that the penalties will be paid to them. All penalties under the Coastal Act are paid to the state [see Sanders v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (1975) 53 Cal. App. 3d 661, 670-678, 126 Cal. Rptr. 415 ; for discussion and forms pertaining to private individuals bringing an action in the name of the people or the attorney general, see Ch. 483, Quo Warranto].

The Coastal Commission may obtain a cease and desist order against violations of permit requirements [Pub. Res. Code §§ 30809-30810]. Anyperson may bring an action to enforce the order and seek penalties for its violation [Pub. Res. Code §§ 30803, 30805, 30821.6].

[3] Penalties

Any person who performs or undertakes development in violation of the Coastal Act may be civilly penalized by a superior court in an amount not exceeding $30,000 but not less than $500 [Pub. Res. Code § 30820(a)(1)]. Civil liability may also be imposed for any other violation of the Coastal Act in an amount that cannot exceed $30,000 [Pub. Res. Code § 30820(a)(2)]. In addition to any other penalties, any person who intentionally and knowingly performs any development in violation of the Coastal Act will be subject to a civil fine of not less than $1,000 nor more than $15,000 per day for each day in which the violation occurs [Pub. Res. Code § 30820(b)].

[4] Transferability

Any civil action under the Coastal Act by, or against, a city, county, or city and county, the Coastal Commission, a special district, or any other public agency must, on motion of either party, be transferred to a county or city and county not a party to the action or to a county or city and county other than that in which the city, special district, or any other public agency that is a party to the action is located [Pub. Res. Code § 30806(a); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 397, 410.10-410.70 (venue); for discussion and forms relating to change of venue, see Ch. 571, Venue [.

[5] Remedies Not Exclusive

The provisions of Pub. Res. Code §§ 30800-30824 are in addition to any other remedies available at law [Pub. Res. Code § 30800].

In addition to any other remedy provided by Pub. Res. Code §§ 30800-30811, any person, including the Coastal Commission, may bring an action to restrain a violation of the terms and conditions of an urban exclusion imposed pursuant to Pub. Res. Code § 30610.5. In any such action the court may grant whatever relief it deems appropriate to ensure compliance with the terms and conditions of the urban exclusion [Pub. Res. Code § 30808].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJusticiabilityStandingGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureEquityReliefCivil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementPermitsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseAdministrative Procedure

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
8. Coastal Zone

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 579.195-579.209

[Reserved]

§§ 579.195[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
9. Judicial Review
I. Review of Zoning and Planning Decisions

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.210

§ 579.210 Standing

A petition for a writ of mandate must be brought by a party beneficially interested [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086]. Although Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5, governing administrative mandamus, does not specify the beneficial interest requirement, cases involving administrative mandamus have applied that requirement [see Silva v. City of Cypress (1962) 204 Cal. App. 2d 374, 376, 22 Cal. Rptr. 453] . Zoning cases often combine a petition for a writ of mandate with a complaint for declaratory relief. The declaratory relief action requirement that there be an actual controversy between the parties relating to their rights appears to be met when a beneficial interest is shown [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060; see Residents of Beverly Glen, Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 117, 121, 109 Cal. Rptr. 724] .

Beneficial interest may be shown through residence or personal right or interest in the area affected or some other showing by the petitioner that he or she would be detrimentally affected or aggrieved [see Silva v. City of Cypress (1962) 204 Cal. App. 2d 374, 376-377, 22 Cal. Rptr. 453] . A resident landowner may be aggrieved by suffering a special damage distinguishable from that suffered by the public at large, perhaps through a decrease in property value or a restriction on the use of his or her property [see Tustin Heights Assn. v. Bd. of Supervisors (1959) 170 Cal. App. 2d 619, 636-637, 339 P.2d 914] .

Ownership of property is not mandatory, but some sort of injury or adverse affect is. For example, a corporation composed of residents in the affected area who would suffer an injury if the challenged project was allowed to proceed had standing, even though the corporation itself did not own property. The adverse affect on its members was sufficient [Residents of Beverly Glen, Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (1973) 34 Cal. App. 3d 117, 121, 109 Cal. Rptr. 724] . Indeed, residence within the boundaries of the local legislative body with zoning control is not required if an adverse affect can be shown. Thus, landowners outside the municipal limits whose property adjoined the property subject to the zoning have been held to have standing to challenge the zoning decisions of the municipality that affected their property [Scott v. City of Indian Wells (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 541, 549, 99 Cal. Rptr. 745, 492 P.2d 1137] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJusticiabilityStandingGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesWritsCommon Law WritsMandamusConstitutional LawThe JudiciaryCase or ControversyStandingGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
9. Judicial Review
I. Review of Zoning and Planning Decisions

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.211

§ 579.211 Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

When an administrative remedy is provided by statute, relief must be sought from the administrative body and that remedy exhausted before the courts will act. Unless exhaustion of administrative remedies is alleged in the petition or complaint, the pleadings may be subject to a general demurrer [see Temescal Water Co. v. Dept. of Public Works (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 90, 106-107, 280 P.2d 1 (writ of mandate); Igna v. City of Baldwin Park (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 909, 911-912, 88 Cal. Rptr. 581 (declaratory relief)].

As long as administrative remedies have been exhausted as to other issues in the case, a landowner may raise constitutional issues for the first time on judicial review of the administrative decision [State v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 250-251, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281 ; see Cal. Const., art. III, § 3.5; Metcalf v. County of Los Angeles (1944) 24 Cal. 2d 267, 272, 148 P.2d 645 (exception application); Dunham v. City of Westminster (1962) 202 Cal. App. 2d 245, 249-250, 20 Cal. Rptr. 772 (variance)].

There are several exceptions to the doctrine of exhaustion of administrative remedies. Thus, remedies need not be exhausted (1) when the subject matter of the controversy lies outside the agency's jurisdiction, (2) when pursuit of an administrative remedy would result in irreparable harm, (3) when the agency cannot grant an adequate remedy, or (4) when the agggrieved party can positively state what the agency's decision in that particular case would be [Ogo Associates v. City of Torrance (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 830, 834, 112 Cal. Rptr. 761] . Also, a facial challenge to the constitutionality of a local ordinance in the form of a cause of action for violation of federal civil rights under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 is not barred by the exhaustion doctrine [Yee v. City of Escondido (1993) 503 U.S. 519, 112 S. Ct. 1522, 1532, 118 L. Ed. 2d 153 ; Del Oro Hills v. City of Oceanside (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1060, 1078, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 677 (facial challenge based on claim of lost profits not sustainable)].

For full discussion of the doctrine of exhaustion of administrative remedies and the exceptions to it, see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawJudicial ReviewReviewabilityExhaustion of RemediesCivil ProcedureJusticiabilityExhaustion of RemediesAdministrative Remedies

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
9. Judicial Review
I. Review of Zoning and Planning Decisions

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.212

§ 579.212 Expedited Procedure for Review of Permit Decisions Involving First Amendment-Protected Expressive Conduct

An action to review the issuance, revocation, suspension, or denial of a permit or other entitlement for expressive conduct protected by the First Amendment, such as a license for the operation of a so-called adult business, is entitled to priority and subject to an expedited procedure for judicial review [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8]. These procedures were enacted in response to Baby Tam & Co., Inc. v. City of Las Vegas [Stats. 1999, ch. 49, § 2; see Baby Tam & Co., Inc. v. City of Las Vegas (9th Cir. 1998) 154 F.3d 1097] , which held that the Las Vegas business licensing ordinance was on its face a prior restraint of speech that violated the First and Fourteenth Amendments because it failed to provide for prompt judicial review of a license denial [Baby Tam & Co., Inc. v. City of Las Vegas (9th Cir. 1998) 154 F.3d 1097, 1100-1102] .

The expedited procedure permits either the public agency or the permit applicant to bring the action for judicial review. If the permit applicant brings the action, the action must be in the form of a petition for writ of mandate pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 or Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5, as appropriate [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(d)(2)]. Within five court days after receipt of written notification from a permit applicant that the permit applicant will seek judicial review of a public agency's action on the permit, the public agency must prepare, certify, and make available the administrative record to the permit applicant [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(d)(1)].

The party bringing the action must file and serve the petition for writ of mandate on the respondent no later than 21 calendar days following the public agency's final decision on the permit. The title page of the petition must contain the following language in 18-point type: "ATTENTION: THIS MATTER IS ENTITLED TO PRIORITY AND SUBJECT TO THE EXPEDITED HEARING AND REVIEW PROCEDURES CONTAINED IN SECTION 1094.8 OF THE CODE OF CIVIL PROCEDURE" [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(d)(3)]. The court clerk must set a hearing for review of the petition no later than 25 calendar days from the date the petition is filed. Moving, opposition, and reply papers must be filed as provided in the California Rules of Court. The petititoner must lodge the administrative record with the court no later than 10 calendar days in advance of the hearing date [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(d)(4)]. Following the hearing the court must render its decision "in an expeditious manner consistent with constricutional requirements in view of the particular facts and circumstances," but no later than 20 calendar days after the matter is submitted or 50 calendar days after the date the peititon is filed, whichever is earlier [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(d)(5)].

If the presiding judge of the court in which the action is filed determines that the court will be unable to meet any of the above deadlines applicable to it, the presiding judge must request the temporary assignment of a judicial officer to hear the petition and render a decision within the above time limits, pursuant to Gov. Code § 68543.8. This request will be entitled to priority [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(e)]. The parties to the action may jointly waive the above time limits [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(f)].

A public agency may adopt an odinance or resolution that contains a description of the permits or entitlement issued by the public agency that are eligible for this expedited judicial review [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(c)].

The United States Supreme Court has held that the First Amendment requires that an adult business ordinance provide both for prompt judicial review of the denial of a license and also for a prompt judicial decision. However, strict time limits do not apply. The requirement of a prompt judicial decision was met when the ordinance provided that an administrative decision could be appealed to the state courts [City of Littleton v. Z. J. Gifts D-4, L.L.C. (2004) 541 U.S. 774, 124 S. Ct. 2219, 159 L. Ed. 2d 84] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJusticiabilityStandingGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesWritsCommon Law WritsMandamusConstitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental FreedomsFreedom of SpeechGeneral OverviewReal Property LawZoning & Land UseAdministrative Procedure

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
9. Judicial Review
I. Review of Zoning and Planning Decisions

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.213

§ 579.213 Rules of Procedure

Formal rules of evidence or procedure applicable in judicial actions and proceedings do not apply in any proceeding subject to Gov. Code § 65000 et seq. (planning and zoning) except to the extent that a public agency otherwise provides by charter, ordinance, resolution, or rule of procedure [Gov. Code § 65010(a)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewGeneral OverviewEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsRule Application & InterpretationReal Property LawZoning & Land UseGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
9. Judicial Review
I. Review of Zoning and Planning Decisions

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.214

§ 579.214 Harmless Error Rule

No action, inaction, or recommendation by any public agency, its legislative body, or any of its administrative agencies or officials, on any matter subject to Gov. Code § 65000 et seq. will be held invalid or set aside by any court on the ground of the improper admission or rejection of evidence, or by reason of any error, irregularity, informality, neglect, or omission regarding any matter pertaining to petitions, applications, notices, findings, records, hearings, reports, recommendations, appeals, or any matters of procedure subject to Gov. Code § 65000 et seq., unless the court finds that the error was prejudicial and that the party complaining or appealing suffered substantial injury from that error and that a different result would have been probable if the error had not occurred. There is no presumption that error is prejudicial or that injury was done if the error is shown [Gov. Code § 65010(b); see Mack v. Ironside (1973) 35 Cal. App. 3d 127, 130, 110 Cal. Rptr. 557 (decided under former Gov. Code § 65801)]. The failure to consider the rights, desires, suggestions, and welfare of an entire class of landowners affected by a zoning action may be an error leading to a different result [Scott v. City of Indian Wells (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 541, 550, 99 Cal. Rptr. 745, 492 P.2d 1137 (decided under former Gov. Code § 65801)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawJudicial ReviewStandards of ReviewGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
9. Judicial Review
I. Review of Zoning and Planning Decisions

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.215

§ 579.215 Resolution of Zoning Disputes by Court-Initiated Mediation

Once an action has been filed, disputes involving the following matters may be resolved by mediation:

- A public agency's approval or denial of a development project [Gov. Code § 66031(a)(1)].

- A failure to meet time limits of the Permit Streamlining Act [Gov. Code § 66031(a)(3); see Gov. Code § 65920 et seq.].

- The adequacy of general or specific plans [Gov. Code § 66031(a)(6); see Gov. Code § 65100 et seq.].

- The validity of any zoning decision made pursuant to Gov. Code § 65800 et seq., which provide for the adoption and administration of zoning laws, ordinances, rules, and regulations by counties and cities, as well as the implementation of general plans.

The mediation process may be initiated by invitation from the court within five days after the deadline for the respondent or defendant to file a response to the action [Gov. Code § 66031(b)].

If the parties accept the court's invitation to mediate the dispute, all time limits with respect to the underlying action will be tolled while the mediator conducts the mediation [Gov. Code § 66032(a)]. The mediator is chosen according to prescribed procedures [Gov. Code § 66031(c)]. If the parties do not accept the court's invitation or if they cannot agree on a mediator, the civil action will proceed. The court is not permitted to draw any implication from either party's refusal to mediate [Gov. Code § 66031(d)]. Every 90 days after commencement of mediation, the civil action will be reactivated unless the parties either arrive at a settlement and implement it, or agree by written stipulation to extend the mediation for another 90 days [Gov. Code § 66032(d)].

If the mediation does not resolve the action, the court has discretion to schedule a settlement conference. If the action is subsequently tried on its merits, the same judge who presided at the conference will preside at trial [Gov. Code § 66034]. In the event the mediation is unsuccessful and the action goes to trial, the following will apply: (1) Evid. Code § 703.5, which precludes the mediator from testifying at trial; and (2) Evid. Code § 1115 et seq., which govern evidentiary issues in mediation proceedings and, among other things, limit the use at trial of evidence derived from mediation proceedings [Gov. Code § 66032(e); see Evid. Code § 1119]. The Judicial Council is authorized to adopt rules, forms, and standards necessary to implement the mediation procedures [Gov. Code § 66035].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureAlternative Dispute ResolutionMediationsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseGeneral Overview

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
9. Judicial Review
I. Review of Zoning and Planning Decisions

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.216

§ 579.216 Review of Quasi-Judicial Acts

[1] By Administrative Mandate

Administrative mandamus is available to inquire into the validity of quasi-judicial actions of administrative agencies. It is available only when the order or decision sought to be reviewed is the result of a proceeding in which by law a hearing is required, evidence is required to be taken, and the determination of the facts is the responsibility of the administrative agency. It applies only when the agency has been called on to make a factual determination in the exercise of a quasi-judicial function [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5].

Administrative mandate is the appropriate form of review in several types of zoning decisions, including decisions involving the following:

- Variances [see Siller v. Board of Supervisors (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 479, 481, 485-486, 25 Cal. Rptr. 73, 375 P.2d 41] ;

- Conditional use permits [see Scott v. City of Indian Wells (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 541, 546, 99 Cal. Rptr. 745, 492 P.2d 1137] ;

- Tentative maps under the Subdivision Map Act [see Youngblood v. Board of Supervisors (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 644, 651 n.2, 150 Cal. Rptr. 242, 586 P.2d 556] ; and

- Review of decisions under the Coastal Act [see Pub. Res. Code §§ 30801, 30802].

With limited exceptions [see McLain Western # 1 v. County of San Diego (1983) 146 Cal. App. 3d 772, 777, 194 Cal. Rptr. 594] , a party who is displeased with an agency decision, but nonetheless complies with it andthen sues for damages will be unsuccessful because the party did not first seek review by administrative mandamus [Rezai v. City of Tustin (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 443, 448-451, 453, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 559 ; City of Santee v. Superior Court (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 713, 716-718, 279 Cal. Rptr. 22 ; Pfeiffer v. City of La Mesa (1977) 69 Cal. App. 3d 74, 76, 78, 137 Cal. Rptr. 804] .

When a public agency makes a decision regarding the issuance, revocation, suspension, or denial of a permit or other entitlement for expressive conduct protected by U.S. Const., amend. I, either the public agency or the permit applicant or permit holder may bring an action for expedited judicial review of that decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8]. If the permit applicant or permit holder brings the action, it must be in the form of a petition for writ of mandate pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 or 1094.5 [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8(d)(2)]. Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.8 was enacted in response to a decision of the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals in a case involving zoning relating to adult bookstores and judicial proceedings necessary to protect First Amendment expressive conduct rights with regard to decisions of public agencies regarding permits [see Baby Tam & Co., Inc. v. City of Las Vegas (9th Cir. 1998) 154 F.3d 1097] . For discussion of and a form for a petition for writ of mandate for expedited judicial review of a public agency's decision relating to a permit involving expressive conduct protected by the First Amendment, see Ch. 59 Assemblies, Meetings, and Demonstrations .

For general discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5, see Ch. 474, Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions , et seq.

[2] Variance

The granting or denying of a variance is an administrative or quasi-judicial function [Allen v. Humboldt County Bd. of Suprs. (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 158, 163, 50 Cal. Rptr. 444] . Review of variance proceedings is appropriate under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 [Scott v. City of Indian Wells (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 541, 546 n.4, 99 Cal. Rptr. 745, 492 P.2d 1137 ; Briggs v. City of Rolling Hills Estates (1995) 40 Cal. App. 4th 637, 644-648, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 29] . The decision is within the discretion of the designated administrative body, and its decision will not be disturbed without a clear and convincing showing of an abuse of that discretion [Allen v. Humboldt County Bd. of Suprs. (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 158, 163, 50 Cal. Rptr. 444] . Traditional mandamus is not available to review the decision denying a variance [Rubin v. Board of Directors (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 119, 126-127, 104 P.2d 1041] .

[3] Conditional Use Permit

Issuance of a conditional use permit (CUP) is an exercise of quasi-judicial or administrative power; it is not an exercise of legislative power [Wheeler v. Gregg (1949) 90 Cal. App. 2d 348, 362, 203 P.2d 37] . Review of local planning commission proceedings regarding a CUP is appropriate under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 [Scott v. City of Indian Wells (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 541, 546, 99 Cal. Rptr. 745, 492 P.2d 1137 ; Rezai v. City of Tustin (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 443, 448, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 559] . Traditional mandate is not available to review the decision denying a CUP [Garden Grove Congregation v. City of Garden Grove (1959) 176 Cal. App. 2d 136, 140-142, 1 Cal. Rptr. 65] .

The courts have no authority to interfere with the denial of a use permit except on a clear and convincing showing of fraud, illegality, or abuse of discretion [Gong v. City of Fremont (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 568, 575, 58 Cal. Rptr. 664] ; as for example, when the property owner is deprived of a fair hearing under state law on a permit application appeal [see Clark v. City of Hermosa Beach (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 1152, 1169-1170, 56 Cal. Rptr. 2d 223] . The same rules apply to a challenge of the validity of conditions attached to the grant of a conditional use permit [see Mid-Way Cabinet etc. Mfg. v. County of San Joaquin (1967) 257 Cal. App. 2d 181, 182, 192-193, 65 Cal. Rptr. 37] .

[4] Variance and Permit Decisions--Priority on Court Calendar

All actions brought pursuant to Gov. Code § 65907 will be given preference over all other civil matters before the court, except probate, eminent domain, and forcible entry and unlawful detainer proceedings [Gov. Code § 65907(a)].

[5] Limitation of Issues

In an action or proceeding to attack, review, set aside, void, or annul a finding, determination, or decision of a public agency made pursuant to Gov. Code § 65000 et seq. (planning and land use) at a properly noticed public hearing, the issues raised are limited to those raised in the public hearing or in written correspondence delivered to the public agency by the time of the public hearing, except when the court finds either of the following [Gov. Code § 65009(b)(1)]:

- The issue could not have been raised at the public hearing by persons exercising reasonable diligence.

- The body conducting the public hearing prevented the issue from being raised at the public hearing.

If a public agency desires the provisions of Gov. Code § 65009(b) to apply to a matter, it must include a specified warning in any public notice issued [Gov. Code § 65009(b)(2)].

The application of Gov. Code § 65009(b) to causes of action brought pursuant to Gov. Code § 65009(d) [see § 579.219] applies only to the final action taken in response to the notice to the city or county clerk. If no finalaction is taken, then the issue raised in the cause of action brought pursuant to Gov. Code § 65009(d) will be limited to those matters presented at a properly noticed public hearing or to those matters specified in the notice given to the city or county clerk pursuant to § 65009(d), or both [Gov. Code § 65009(b)(3)].

[6] Pleading

A proceeding in mandate is subject to the general rules of pleading applicable to civil actions, except as otherwise provided in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1067-1110b. Therefore, it is necessary for the petition to allege specific facts showing an abuse of discretion. If those facts are not alleged, the petition is subject to general demurrer or the court is justified in denying the petition out of hand [Gong v. City of Fremont (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 568, 573, 58 Cal. Rptr. 664] . The petition must also allege exhaustion of administrative remedies or it will be subject to a general demurrer [see Temescal Water Co. v. Dept. of Public Works (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 90, 106-107, 280 P.2d 1] .

[7] Developer Is Indispensable Party

When the action challenges a specific zoning decision that applies to a specific project, the developer of the project is an indispensable party, and the action must be dismissed if the developer was not joined within the relevant limitation period [Beresford Neighborhood Assn. v. City of San Mateo (1988) 207 Cal. App. 3d 1180, 1188-1189, 255 Cal. Rptr. 434] . Developers are not indispensable when the challenge is to a general plan and the determination will apply to all developments in an area [Buena Vista Gardens Apartments Assn. v. City of San Diego Planning Dept. (1985) 175 Cal. App. 3d 289, 220 Cal. Rptr. 732] .

[8] Scope of Review

The review is limited to whether there was a want or an excess of jurisdiction, whether there was a fair trial, and whether there was any prejudicial abuse of discretion. Abuse of discretion is shown by failure of the administrative agency to proceed as required by law, failure of the findings to support the decision, or failure of the evidence to support the findings [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5; Topanga Asso. for Scenic Community v. County of Los Angeles (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 506, 514-515, 113 Cal. Rptr. 836, 522 P.2d 12] .

An agency's findings are adequate if they formally incorporate findings made by others, for example, factual findings in a staff report [Dore v. County of Ventura (1994) 23 Cal. App. 4th 320, 327-328, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 299] . Inadequacy of a single finding does not necessarily undermine the denial of a permit when other, adequate findings are made unless the findings are so intertwined that a failure of one could reasonably lead the local decision making agency to reconsider its decision to deny a permit [Saad v. City of Berkeley (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 1206, 1213-1216, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 95] .

[9] Standard of Review

In an administrative mandamus proceeding the proper standard of review is the substantial evidence test, that is, whether there was substantial evidence before the local agency to support its decision. Any reasonable doubts must be resolved in favor of the administrative findings and decision. However, as a matter of law, written findings of fact in an administrative decision are insufficient when they merely recite statutory language [City of Carmel-by-the-Sea v. Board of Supervisors (1977) 71 Cal. App. 3d 84, 91-92, 139 Cal. Rptr. 214] . Moreover, when a local ordinance provides that an agency must expressly state the agency's findings and must set forth the relevant supportive facts, there is no presumption that its ruling rested on the necessary findings and that those findings are supported by substantial evidence [see Broadway, Laguna etc. Assn. v. Board of Permit Appeals (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 767, 772-773, 59 Cal. Rptr. 146, 427 P.2d 810] . No new evidence may be received by the court [Gong v. City of Fremont (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 568, 573, 58 Cal. Rptr. 664] . Nor does the court have the right to judge the intrinsic value of the evidence or to weigh it [Siller v. Board of Supervisors (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 479, 481-482, 25 Cal. Rptr. 73, 375 P.2d 41] .

When a fundamental vested right is involved, such as the right to continue a 35-year legal nonconforming use as a tavern, the independent judgment test is the appropriate standard of review [Goat Hill Tavern v. City of Costa Mesa (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1519, 1525-1530, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 385 , citing Strumsky v. San Diego County Employees Retirement Ass'n (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 28, 32, 112 Cal. Rptr. 805, 520 P.2d 29 ; see Malibu Mountains Rec., Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (1998) 67 Cal. App. 4th 359, 367-369, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 25 (revocation of conditional use permit)]. Whether an administrative zoning decision substantially affects a fundamental vested right is decided on a case-by-case basis. While no exact formula exists for making this decision, courts are less sensitive to preservation of purely economic interests [see Metropolitan Outdoor Advertising Corp. v. City of Santa Ana (1994) 23 Cal. App. 4th 1401, 1403-1404, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 664] .

[10] Res Judicata Effect

A proceeding in mandamus to review administrative proceedings does not bar an action challenging the constitutionality of the underlying ordinance. Although the same type of evidence may be used in the two actions, the issues are not the same and the denial of relief under the administrative remedy is not res judicata on the constitutional question[H.W. Rohl Co. v. County of San Diego (1963) 212 Cal. App. 2d 707, 710-711, 28 Cal. Rptr. 196] .

[11] By Writ of Review (Certiorari)

The writ of certiorari may also be an appropriate remedy to test the proper exercise of discretion by a local board exercising its quasi-judicial powers [Livingston Rock etc. Co. v. County of L.A. (1954) 43 Cal. 2d 121, 128-129, 272 P.2d 4] . The writ of certiorari, however, may only be granted by the court when an inferior tribunal, board, or officer, exercising judicial functions, has exceeded its jurisdiction and there is neither an appeal nor any plain, speedy, and adequate remedy [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1067, 1068; for discussion and forms relating to the writ of certiorari, see Ch. 492, Review (Certiorari), Writ of].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawJudicial ReviewRemediesMandamusAdministrative LawJudicial ReviewStandards of ReviewSubstantial EvidenceEnvironmental LawZoning & Land UseJudicial ReviewReal Property LawZoning & Land UseSpecial Permits & Variances

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
9. Judicial Review
I. Review of Zoning and Planning Decisions

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.217

§ 579.217 Review of Ministerial Acts

Traditional mandamus is available to compel the performance of a ministerial act [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1085]. It may be appropriate in a zoning case to compel ministerial actions by an administrative agency when the petitioner has complied with the controlling ordinance [see Gong v. City of Fremont (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 568, 571-572, 58 Cal. Rptr. 664 (zoning clearance)]. It will not lie to control discretion within the area lawfully entrusted to the administrative body [Hilton v. Board of Supervisors (1970) 7 Cal. App. 3d 708, 713, 86 Cal. Rptr. 754] . A writ of mandate may be issued to any inferior tribunal or board to compel the performance of an act that the law specially enjoins, such as a duty resulting from an office, trust, or station. It may also issue to compel the admission of a party to the use and enjoyment of a right to which he or she is entitled, and from which he or she is unlawfully precluded by that inferior tribunal, corporation, board, or person [Code Civ. Proc. § 1085; for general discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 1085, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition [. The writ issues when there is not a plain, speedy, and adequate remedy, in the ordinary course of law. It may only be issued on the verified petition of the party beneficially interested [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086; Flora Crane Service, Inc. v. Ross (1964) 61 Cal. 2d 199, 203, 37 Cal. Rptr. 425, 390 P.2d 193] .

Traditional mandate is commonly appropriate in zoning and planning decisions that involve the following:

(1) A final map under the Subdivision Map Act [see Youngblood v. Board of Supervisors (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 644, 653 n. 4, 655-656, 150 Cal. Rptr. 242, 586 P.2d 556] .

(2) An action to challenge a general plan for noncompliance with Gov. Code §§ 65300-65307 [Gov. Code § 65751; see § 579.223].

(3) The issuance of building permits [see Court House Plaza Co. v. City of Palo Alto (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 871, 883, 173 Cal. Rptr. 161 , appeal dismissed and cert denied0, 454 U.S. 1074 ; see also West Coast Advertising Co. v. City & County of San Francisco (1967) 256 Cal. App. 2d 357, 359, 64 Cal. Rptr. 94 (some discretion may be allowed in determining whether to issue a building permit when a pending ordinance not yet enacted would render proposed building illegal)].

Exhaustion of administrative remedies is a prerequisite to a writ of mandate [Pan Pacific Properties, Inc. v. County of Santa Cruz (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 244, 249-251, 146 Cal. Rptr. 428 ; Stone v. Turton (1963) 220 Cal. App. 2d 417, 418-422, 33 Cal. Rptr. 853] .

Mandate is available to control an official's actions when that official is required and authorized to do a prescribed act on a prescribed contingency. Indeed, that official may also be liable for any damages sustained as a result of his or her conduct, as might be the case when a building inspector intentionally and arbitrarily refused to grant a building permit [Ellis v. City Council (1963) 222 Cal. App. 2d 490, 497, 35 Cal. Rptr. 317 ; for discussion of claims against public entities and officers, see Ch. 467, Public Entities and Officers: Enforcement of Judgments Against Public Entities [.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewRemediesMandamusCivil ProcedureRemediesWritsCommon Law WritsMandamusEnvironmental LawZoning & Land UseJudicial ReviewReal Property LawZoning & Land UseOrdinancesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseSpecial Permits & Variances

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
9. Judicial Review
I. Review of Zoning and Planning Decisions

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.218

§ 579.218 Review of Legislative Acts

[1] Presumption of Constitutionality

An ordinance restricting land use is valid if it has a real or substantial relation to the public health, safety, morals, or general welfare. To be unconstitutional, an ordinance must be clearly arbitrary and unreasonable, and have no substantial relation to the public health, safety, morals, or general welfare. Ordinances are presumed to be constitutional and come before the court with every intendment in their favor. If the validity of the ordinance is fairly debatable, the legislative judgment must be allowed to control [Associated Home Builders etc., Inc. v. City of Livermore (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 582, 601-607, 135 Cal. Rptr. 41, 557 P.2d 473] . The court's review of a zoning ordinance is not restricted to its impact on existing facilities. The court may look to the future and assume that development will proceed harmoniously with the requirements of the ordinance [see Robinson v. City of Los Angeles (1956) 146 Cal. App. 2d 810, 815-817, 304 P.2d 814] . Although the motives influencing the legislative body may not be considered by the court, when the facts show an attempt to exercise the police power in a manner that oppresses or discriminates against an individual, the court may consider the evidence disclosing a purpose other than that declared by the ordinance [Kissinger v. City of Los Angeles (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 454, 462, 327 P.2d 10] .

[2] Consideration of Regional Welfare

Municipalities are not isolated islands remote from the needs and problems of the area in which they are located. Thus an ordinance, althoughreasonable from the limited viewpoint of the enacting municipality, may be unreasonable when viewed from the larger perspective of surrounding communities. For example, a municipal ordinance may impact the supply and distribution of housing for an entire metropolitan region. If its impact is limited to the city boundaries, the inquiry may be limited accordingly. However, if an ordinance may strongly influence an entire metropolitan region, judicial inquiry must consider the welfare of that region. In determining whether a challenged ordinance restriction reasonably relates to the regional welfare, the trial court should forecast the probable effect and duration of the restriction, identify the competing interests affected by the restriction, and determine whether the ordinance, in light of its probable impact, represents a reasonable accommodation of the competing interests. In ascertaining whether a challenged ordinance reasonably relates to the regional welfare, the extent and bounds of the region significantly affected by the ordinance should be determined as a question of fact by the trial court [Associated Home Builders etc., Inc. v. City of Livermore (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 582, 607-609, 607-608 n.24, 135 Cal. Rptr. 41, 557 P.2d 473 ; see Northwood Homes, Inc. v. Town of Moraga (1989) 216 Cal. App. 3d 1197, 1201-1203, 265 Cal. Rptr. 363 (initiative stopping development of 113 units had no significant effect on regional housing supply)].

[3] Certainty Requirement

A zoning ordinance that lists the permitted and prohibited uses within given zones is not subject to attack for lacking the requisite certainty under due process standards. Indeed, many ordinances use that format. The mere fact that a landowner must search the zoning ordinance to discover the scope of permitted uses within a zone, cannot alone render that ordinance vague and uncertain. However, if a permitted use is ambiguous, then the range of impliedly proscribed uses is equally unclear. A specific itemization of proscribed uses within a given zone is not mandated by due process, if from a fair reading of the ordinance, the acts proscribed are reasonably clear [see Sechrist v. Municipal Court (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 737, 743, 134 Cal. Rptr. 733] .

Most zoning ordinances provide that a violation of their provisions constitute a misdemeanor, and provide a penalty for that violation. A zoning ordinance with a penal provision that either forbids or requires the doing of an act in terms so vague that persons of common intelligence must necessarily guess at its meaning and differ concerning its application, violates the first essential of due process. Although mathematical exactitude is not required, reasonable certainty is. While the dangers of discriminatory enforcement and ex post facto punishment posed by vague penal provisions must be considered in construing zoning ordinances, liberal regard will be given to legislative intent in order to give effect to the salutary objects of the law [Sechrist v. Municipal Court (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 737, 745, 134 Cal. Rptr. 733 ("residential use" not too vague)]. By contrast, when the zoning ordinance does not impose criminal sanctions for a violation, it appears that a lesser standard of certainty may be sufficient to uphold it. For example, in upholding an ordinance one court rationalized its finding by saying that a court would have no trouble ascertaining what the writers had in mind [In re Valterza (1940) 37 Cal. App. 2d 682, 685, 100 P.2d 337] .

[4] Effect of Changed Circumstances

Even though valid when adopted, a zoning regulation may become invalid due to changed circumstances. Thus, an originally valid ordinance may later prove to be confiscatory. Earlier compliance with the regulation does not forfeit the right of protest when the regulation becomes intolerable through the changed conditions [Skalko v. City of Sunnyvale (1939) 14 Cal. 2d 213, 216, 93 P.2d 93] .

[5] By Traditional Mandate

Traditional mandate may be used to challenge the consititutionality of zoning actions of the legislative body, that is, the validity of a zoning ordinance or actions taken with respect to rezoning of property [Ensign Bickford Realty Corp. v. City Council (1977) 68 Cal. App. 3d 467, 472-473, 137 Cal. Rptr. 304 ; see Arnel Development Co. v. City of Costa Mesa (1980) 28 Cal. 3d 511, 522, 169 Cal. Rptr. 904, 620 P.2d 565] .

[6] By Declaratory Relief

An action for declaratory relief is proper to test the constitutionality of a zoning ordinance [see Agins v. City of Tiburon (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 266, 272-273, 277, 157 Cal. Rptr. 372, 598 P.2d 25 , aff'd, 447 U.S. 255, 259, 100 S. Ct. 2138, 65 L. Ed. 2d 106 (1980)] .

A complaint for declaratory relief in a zoning case must allege an existing actual controversy regarding the ordinance in question [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1060; C. Dudley De Velbiss Co. v. Kraintz (1951) 101 Cal. App. 2d 612, 615-616, 225 P.2d 969] . For example, an action for declaratory relief is appropriate when a landowner alleges that a zoning restriction destroyed almost all the reasonable value of his or her property [Skalko v. City of Sunnyvale (1939) 14 Cal. 2d 213, 214, 216, 93 P.2d 93] . Moreover, when a landowner brings an action for declaratory relief to establish his or her zoning rights on his or her property, neighboring property owners are parties in interest and entitled to intervene in that action [Weiner v. City of Los Angeles (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 697, 706, 68 Cal. Rptr. 733, 441 P.2d 293] .

The court's jurisdiction to entertain an action for declaratory relief is conditioned on a completion of any administrative procedure, even when the statute sought to be enforced by the administrative agency is challenged on constitutional grounds [Igna v. City of Baldwin Park (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 909, 911-912, 88 Cal. Rptr. 581 ; Dunham v. City of Westminster (1962) 202 Cal. App. 2d 245, 249-250, 20 Cal. Rptr. 772] . That jurisdictional requirement may be waived in limited circumstances, however [see Hoshour v. County of Contra Costa (1962) 203 Cal. App. 2d 602, 605-606, 21 Cal. Rptr. 714] .

Actions for declaratory relief will be set for trial at the earliest possible date and will take precedence over all other cases, except older matters of the same character and matters to which special precedence may be given by law [Code Civ. Proc. § 1062.3(a); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1062.3(b) for precedence of action combined with declaratory relief action].

For a form of complaint for declaratory relief challenging the constitutionality of a zoning ordinance, see § 579.370. For discussion of declaratory relief actions generally and additional forms, see Ch. 182, Declaratory Relief .

[7] By Injunctive Relief

An aggrieved person, that is, one who is specially interested in the sense of being irreparably injured by enforcement of an allegedly invalid zoning ordinance, may enjoin enforcement of that ordinance against himself or herself if it is unconstitutionally applied or otherwise invalid [see Johnston v. Board of Supervisors (1947) 31 Cal. 2d 66, 71, 187 P.2d 686 ; Greenfield v. Bd. of City Plan. Commrs. (1935) 6 Cal. App. 2d 515, 518-519, 45 P.2d 219] . For example, injunctive relief is appropriate when a zoning ordinance is discriminatory [McCaslin v. City of Monterey Park (1958) 163 Cal. App. 2d 339, 347-348, 329 P.2d 522] .

As with all injunctions, injunctive relief in zoning cases is governed by Civ. Code § 3422 and Code Civ. Proc. § 526. Injunctive relief is not available when there is an adequate remedy at law. For example, injunctive relief is not available to challenge the decision of a planning commission, because administrative mandamus is appropriate and provides an adequate legal remedy [Triangle Ranch, Inc. v. Union Oil Co. (1955) 135 Cal. App. 2d 428, 438, 287 P.2d 537] .

[8] By Action for Inverse Condemnation

Although the California Supreme Court has held that a landowner may not elect to sue in inverse condemnation to contest the constitutionality of a zoning ordinance as an unconstitutional taking, the United States Supreme Court has held that such an action must be available, at least when the ordinance deprived the landowner of all use of its property [First Lutheran Church v. Los Angeles County (1987) 482 U.S. 304, 315, 107 S. Ct. 2378, 96 L. Ed. 2d 250 ; see Agins v. Tiburon (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 266, 272-273, 157 Cal. Rptr. 372, 598 P.2d 25 , aff'd, 447 U.S. 255, 259, 100 S. Ct. 2138, 65 L. Ed. 2d 106 (1980) ; for further discussion, see § 579.12[5][a]].

[9] Period of Limitation

Except as provided in Gov. Code § 65009(d) (relating to low or moderate income housing [see § 579.219] and challenges to the adequacy of general plan housing elements, respectively), no action or proceeding may be maintained in any of the following cases by any person unless it is commenced and service is made on the legislative body within 90 days after its decision [Gov. Code § 65009(c)]:

(1) To attack, review, set aside, void, or annul the decision of a legislative body to adopt or amend a general or specific plan. This does not apply when an action is brought based on the complete absence of a general plan or a mandatory element of the plan, but does apply to an action attacking a general plan or mandatory element of the plan on the basis that it is inadequate. The limitation period applies to adoption or amendments of a general plan made within the 120-day period. When an action is brought challenging the validity of a general plan based on amendments to the general plan within 120 days of the amendments, only the effect of the amendments may be challenged, and challenges to the validity of other parts of the general plan are barred by the 120-day limitation period [Garat v. City of Riverside (1991) 2 Cal. App. 4th 259, 280-284, 3 Cal. Rptr. 2d 504 , overruled in part by Morehart v. County of Santa Barbara (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 725, 743].

(2) To attack, review, set aside, void, or annul the decision of a legislative body to adopt or amend a zoning ordinance [see Gonzalez v. County of Tulare (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 777, 782-785, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 707] .

(3) To determine the reasonableness, legality, or validity of any decision to adopt or amend any regulation attached to a specific plan.

(4) To attack, review, set aside, void, or annul a legislative body's decision to adopt, amend, or modify a specific portion of a development agreement, when the agreement, amendment, or modification was adopted on or after January 1, 1996.

(5) To attack, review, set aside, void, or annul any decision on matters related to local government procedures involved in dealing with conditional use or other permits [see Gov. Code §§ 65901, 65903], or the validity of any condition attached to a variance, conditional use permit, or any other permit.

(6) Concerning any of the proceedings, acts, or determinations taken, done, or made before any of the decisions listed in 1-5, above.

On expiration of the time limits provided for in Gov. Code § 65009, all persons are barred from any further action or proceeding [Gov. Code § 65009(e)].

Gov. Code § 65009 applies to charter cities [Gov. Code § 65009(f)]. Except for challenges to post-1995 developments agreements [see (4), above], Gov. Code § 65009 is applicable to those decisions of the legislativebody of a city, county, or city and county made pursuant to Gov. Code § 65000 et seq. on or after January 1, 1984 [Gov. Code § 65009(h)].

Except as provided in Gov. Code § 65009(d), Gov. Code § 65009 does not affect any law prescribing or authorizing a shorter period of limitation than that specified herein [Gov. Code § 65009(g)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewRemediesMandamusCivil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral OverviewConstitutional LawThe JudiciaryCase or ControversyConstitutionality of LegislationPresumptionsEnvironmental LawZoning & Land UseJudicial ReviewReal Property LawZoning & Land UseOrdinances

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
9. Judicial Review
I. Review of Zoning and Planning Decisions

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.219

§ 579.219 Low or Moderate Income Housing

Certain actions or proceedings brought in support of the development of housing projects that meet the requirements for housing for persons and families with low or moderate incomes [see Health & Safety Code § 50079.5], or very low incomes [see Health & Safety Code § 50105], or middle-income households [see Gov. Code § 65008] must be commenced and the legislative body served within one year after the accrual of the cause of action [see Gov. Code § 65009(d)]. An action under Gov. Code § 65009(d) cannot be maintained until 60 days have expired following notice to the city or county clerk by the party bringing the cause of action, or by his or her representative, specifying the deficiencies of the general plan, specific plan, or zoning ordinance. The cause of action accrues 60 days after notice is filed or the legislative body takes a final action in response to the notice, whichever occurs first. A notice or cause of action brought by one party pursuant to Gov. Code § 65009(d) will not bar filing of a notice and initiation of a cause of action by any other party [Gov. Code § 65009(d)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil Rights LawContractual Relations & HousingFair Housing RightsEconomic DiscriminationEnvironmental LawZoning & Land UseJudicial ReviewGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime LimitationsPublic Health & Welfare LawHousing & Public BuildingsLow Income HousingReal Property LawZoning & Land UseOrdinances

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
9. Judicial Review
I. Review of Zoning and Planning Decisions

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.220

§ 579.220 Joinder of Types of Relief

Different methods of judicial relief may be combined in zoning cases. For example, an action to enjoin enforcement of a zoning ordinance is often joined with an action for declaratory relief [see, e.g., Morris v. City of Los Angeles (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 856, 857, 254 P.2d 935] . Additionally, a petition in mandamus is also commonly combined with a declaratory relief action [see, e.g., Floresta, Inc. v. City Council (1961) 190 Cal. App. 2d 599, 612, 12 Cal. Rptr. 182] . When a form of judicial relief is combined with an action for declaratory relief, the combined action may be given priority on the court calendar on noticed motion and a showing that the action requires a speedy trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 1062.3(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewRemediesMandamusCivil ProcedureDeclaratory Judgment ActionsState JudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesInjunctionsGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawZoning & Land UseJudicial Review

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
9. Judicial Review
I. Review of Zoning and Planning Decisions

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.221

§ 579.221 Review of Ordinance Consistency With General Plan

[1] Required

City and county zoning ordinances must be consistent with the applicable general plan [Gov. Code § 65860(a); Resource Defense Fund v. County of Santa Cruz (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 800, 806, 184 Cal. Rptr. 371] . The consistency requirement applies to zoning ordinances adopted by initiative or referendum as well as those adopted by legislative bodies [deBottari v. City Council (1985) 171 Cal. App. 3d 1204, 1212-1213, 217 Cal. Rptr. 790 ; see City of Irvine v. Irvine Citizens Against Overdevelopment (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 868, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 797] . Consistency requires that the various land uses authorized by the zoning ordinance be compatible with the objectives, policies, general land uses, and programs specified in the general plan [Gov. Code § 65860(a); City of Irvine v. Irvine Citizens Against Overdevelopment (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 868, 879, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 797 ; Corona-Norco Unified School Dist. v. City of Corona (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 985, 994, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 803] .

With the exception of Los Angeles, the consistency requirement does not apply to charter cities [Gov. Code § 65803]. However, charter cities are not precluded from adopting consistency requirements that are similar to those required of general law cities [see Gov. Code § 65803; City of Irvine v. Irvine Citizens Against Overdevelopment (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 868, 875-876, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 797] .

In the event that a zoning ordinance becomes inconsistent with a general plan by reason of amendment to that plan, or to any element of that plan, that zoning ordinance must be amended within a reasonable time so that it is consistent with the general plan as amended [Gov. Code § 65860(b)].

Interim measures available to challenge a general plan are governed by Gov. Code §§ 65750-65763. For a discussion of Gov. Code §§ 65750-65763, see § 579.223.

[2] Enforcement Action

Any resident or property owner within a city or county may bring an action or proceeding for writ of mandate in the superior court to enforce compliance with the consistency requirement. The action or proceeding must be commenced and service on the legislative body must be made within 90 days of the enactment or amendment of any new or existing zoning ordinance [Gov. Code § 65860(b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1084 et seq. (governing writ of mandate)].

[3] Applicable to Charter Cities

Gov. Code § 65860 applies in charter cities with a population of two million or more to a zoning ordinance adopted prior to January 1, 1979, which zoning ordinance must be consistent with the general plan of that city by July 1, 1982 [Gov. Code § 65860(d)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewRemediesMandamusEnvironmental LawZoning & Land UseInitiative & ReferendumGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsChartersReal Property LawZoning & Land UseComprehensive PlansReal Property LawZoning & Land UseInitiative & Referendum

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
9. Judicial Review
I. Review of Zoning and Planning Decisions

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.222

§ 579.222 Review of Decisions Under California Coastal Act

[1] Decisions of Commission

Any aggrieved person has the right to judicial review of any decision or action of the California Coastal Commission by filing a petition for a writof mandate in accordance with the provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 within 60 days after that decision or action has become final [Pub. Res. Code § 30801].

For purposes of Pub. Res. Code §§ 30513(c), 30625, and 30801, an "aggrieved person" means any person who, in person or through a representative, appeared at a public hearing of the commission, local government, or port governing body in connection with the decision or action appealed, or who, by other appropriate means prior to a hearing, informed the commission, local government, or port governing body of the nature of his or her concerns or who for good cause was unable to do either. "Aggrieved person" includes the applicant for a permit and, in the case of an approval of a local coastal program, the local government involved [Pub. Res. Code § 30801].

[2] Decisions of Local Agency

Any person, including a permit applicant or the commission, aggrieved by the decision or action of a local government that is implementing a certified local coastal program or certified port master plan, or is exercising its powers pursuant to Pub. Res. Code § 30600.5, which decision or action may not be appealed to the commission, has the right to judicial review of that decision or action by filing a petition for writ of mandate under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 within 60 days after the action or decision has become final. The commission may intervene in that proceeding on a showing that the matter involves a question of the conformity of a proposed development with a certified local coastal program or certified port master plan or the validity of a local government action taken to implement a local coastal program or certified port master plan. Any local government or port governing body may request that the commission intervene. Notice of the action against a local government or port governing body must be filed with the commission within five working days of the filing of the action. When an action is brought challenging the validity of a local coastal program or certified port master plan, a preliminary showing must be made prior to proceeding on the merits concerning why that action should not have been brought pursuant to Pub. Res. Code § 30801 [Pub. Res. Code § 30802].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewRemediesMandamusAdministrative LawJudicial ReviewReviewabilityStandingEnvironmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementEnforcementEnvironmental LawZoning & Land UseJudicial Review

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
9. Judicial Review
I. Review of Zoning and Planning Decisions

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.223

§ 579.223 Actions to Challenge General Plan

[1] Traditional Mandate

Any action to challenge a general plan or any element thereof on the grounds that the plan or element does not substantially comply with the requirements of Gov. Code §§ 65300-65307 (scope of general plans) must be brought pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 [Gov. Code § 65751].

[2] Time for Hearing

All actions brought pursuant to Gov. Code § 65751, including the hearing of any such action from the decision of a lower court, will be given preference over all other civil actions before the court in the setting for hearing or trial. All those actions will be speedily heard and determined [Gov. Code § 65752].

The petitioner must request a hearing or trial on the alternative writ or peremptory writ of mandate, and any other party may request a hearing or trial, within 90 days of the date the petitioner files the petition for a writ of mandate pursuant to Gov. Code § 65751. If no request is filed within 90 days of the date that petition is filed, the action or proceeding may be set for hearing or trial, dismissed on the motion of any party other than the petitioner, or dismissed on the court's own motion [Gov. Code § 65753(a)].

Within 30 days of the filing of the request for a hearing or trial pursuant to Gov. Code § 65753(a), the court will set a date for a hearing or trial on the action or part of an action brought pursuant to Gov. Code § 65751. The hearing or trial will be set to be heard at the earliest possible date, but not more than 120 days after the filing of a request for hearing under Gov. Code § 65753. The court may continue for a reasonable time the date of the hearing or trial on written motion and a finding of good cause. However, if the court grants a continuance to a respondent, it must, on the written motion of the petitioner and on the petitioner meeting the requirements of Gov. Code § 65757, grant the relief provided in Gov. Code § 65757 as temporary relief. But the court will not enjoin any housing developments that comply with applicable provisions of law and that may be developed without having an impact on the ability of the city or county to properly adopt and implement an adequate housing element [Gov. Code § 65753(b); see § 579.223[4][c]].

[3] Bringing General Plan Into Compliance

[a] 120-Day Time Limit

In any action brought to challenge the validity of the general plan of any city or county, or any mandatory element thereof, if the court, in a final judgment in favor of the plaintiff or petitioner, finds that the general plan or any mandatory element of a general plan, does not substantially comply with the requirements of Gov. Code §§ 65300-65307 [Gov. Code § 65754]:

(a) The city or county must bring its general plan or relevant mandatory elements thereof into compliance with the requirements of Gov. Code §§ 65300-65307 within 120 days.

(b) The city or county (including the chartered cities specified in Gov. Code § 65860(d)) must, in accordance with Gov. Code § 65860, bring itszoning ordinance into consistency with its general plan or relevant mandatory element or elements thereof within 120 days after the general plan has been amended in accordance with Gov. Code § 65754(a).

[b] Housing Element

Notwithstanding Gov. Code § 65585(b) (ordinary time frame for review of amendments to plan), the planning agency of the city or county must submit a draft of its revised housing element or housing element amendment at least 45 days prior to its adoption to the Department of Housing and Community Development for its review, notifying the department that the element is subject to the review procedure of Gov. Code § 65754. The department will review the draft element or amendment and report its findings to the planning agency within 45 days of receipt of the draft. The legislative body will consider the department's findings prior to final adoption of the housing element or amendment if the department's findings are reported to the planning agency within 45 days after the department receives that draft element or amendment [Gov. Code § 65754].

[4] Remedies Available Pending Local Entity Compliance

[a] In General

The court will include, in the order or judgment rendered pursuant to Gov. Code § 65754, one or more of the following provisions for any or all types or classes or developments or any or all geographic segments of the city or county until the city or county has substantially complied with the requirements of Gov. Code §§ 65300-65307 [Gov. Code § 65755(a)]:

(1) Suspend the authority of the city or county pursuant to Health & Safety Code §§ 17910-17995.5, to issue building permits, or any category of building permits, and all other related permits, except that the city or county will continue to function as an enforcement agency for review of permit applications for appropriate codes and standards compliance, prior to the issuance of building permits and other related permits for residential housing.

(2) Suspend the authority of the city or county pursuant to Gov. Code §§ 65800-65912 to grant any and all categories of zoning changes, variances, or both.

(3) Suspend the authority of the city or county pursuant to Gov. Code §§ 66410-66499.37 to grant subdivision map approvals for any and all categories of subdivision map approvals.

(4) Mandate the approval of all applications for building permits, or other related construction permits, for residential housing where a final subdivision map, parcel map, or plot plan has been approved for the project, where the approval will not impact on the ability of the city or county to properly adopt and implement an adequate housing element, and where the permit application conforms to all code requirements and other applicable provisions of law except those zoning laws held to be invalid by the final court order, and changes to the zoning ordinances adopted after that final court order that were enacted for the purpose of preventing the construction of a specific residential development.

(5) Mandate the approval of any or all final subdivision maps for residential housing projects that have previously received a tentative map approval from the city or county pursuant to Gov. Code §§ 66410-66499.37.

(6) Mandate that notwithstanding the provisions of Gov. Code §§ 66473.5 and 66474, any tentative subdivision map for a residential housing project will be approved if all of the following requirements are met:

> (A) The approval of the map will not significantly impair the ability of the city or county to adopt and implement those elements or portions thereof of the general plan that have been held to be inadequate.
>
> (B) The map complies with all of the provisions of Gov. Code §§ 66410-66499.37, except those parts that would require disapproval of the project due to the inadequacy of the general plan.
>
> (C) The approval of the map will not affect the ability of the city or county to adopt and implement an adequate housing element.
>
> (D) The map is consistent with the portions of the general plan not found inadequate and the proposed revisions, if applicable, to the part of the plan held inadequate.

[b] Exclusion of Project Required to Be Consistent

Any order or judgment of a court that includes the remedies described in Gov. Code § 65755(a)(1), (2), or (3) will exclude from the operation of that order or judgment any action, program, or project required by law to be consistent with a general or specific plan if the court finds that the approval or undertaking of the action, program, or project complies with both of the following requirements [Gov. Code § 65755(b)]:

(1) That it will not significantly impair the ability of the city or county to adopt or amend all or part of the applicable plan as may be necessary to make the plan substantially comply with the requirements of Gov. Code §§ 65300-65307 in the case of a general plan, or Gov. Code §§ 65450-65457 in the case of a specific plan.

(2) That it is consistent with those portions of the plan challenged in the action or proceeding and found by the court to substantially comply with applicable provisions of law.

The party seeking exclusion from any order or judgment of a court pursuant to Gov. Code § 65755(b) has the burden of showing that the action, program, or project complies with its provisions [Gov. Code § 65755(b)].

[c] Temporary Remedy

During the pendency of any action described in Gov. Code § 65754, the court may, on a showing of probable success on the merits, grant the relief provided in Gov. Code § 65755 as temporary relief. In any order granting temporary relief, the court will not enjoin during the pendency of the action any housing developments that comply with applicable provisions of law and that may be developed without having any impact on the ability of the city or county to properly adopt and implement an adequate housing element. Any housing developments permitted to proceed during the pendency of the action will not be subject to the restrictions specified in Gov. Code § 65754(a) or (b) as part of any final judgment [Gov. Code § 65757].

If the court orders any temporary relief in an action or proceeding subject to Gov. Code §§ 65750-65763, any party to the action may file with the court a written request that the court make a final determination in the action or proceeding, and the court will thereafter make a final determination and enter judgment within 180 days of the date the request was filed, unless the party who filed the request files a withdrawal of the request with the court prior to the filing by the court of its memorandum of intended decision [Gov. Code § 65758].

[5] Certain Housing Development May Not Be Enjoined

During the pendency of any action described in Gov. Code § 65754, or when issuing a final judgment in favor of the plaintiff or petitioner finding that the general plan or any element thereof does not conform to the requirements of Gov. Code §§ 65300-65307, the court will not enjoin the development of any housing development with respect to which all of the following conditions are met [Gov. Code § 65754.5(a)]:

(1) The legislative body has approved a development project (defined by Gov. Code § 65928), for housing or a specific plan for the housing development, and determined the development project for housing or the specific plan to be consistent with the general plan.

(2) The legislative body has certified an environmental impact report or a negative declaration for the development project for housing or for the specific plan for housing pursuant to the California Environmental Quality Act (Pub. Res. Code § 21000 et seq.), and no legal action was brought within the applicable statute of limitations period relating to that environmental impact report or negative declaration.

(3) The owner of the land on which the housing project is proposed to be developed, in satisfaction of any requirements imposed and in reliance on any action taken by the city or county pursuant to Gov. Code § 65754.5(a)(1), (2), has irrevocably committed at least $1,000,000 for public infrastructure, including, but not limited to, roads and water and sewer facilities.

(4) The proposed housing development may be developed without having an impact on the ability of the city or county to implement an adequate housing element or to properly adopt an adequate housing element if the court determines, in the pending action, that the general plan or plan element is inadequate. The court will apply the provisions of Gov. Code § 65760 to determine whether a housing development will have an impact on the ability of the city or county to properly adopt and implement an adequate housing element.

Gov. Code § 65754.5 applies to any legal action pending on January 1, 1984, and to every action commenced on or after that date [Gov. Code § 65754.5(b)]. Gov. Code § 65754.5 will not be construed to preclude a public agency from exercising discretion, in a manner authorized by any other provision of law, to alter plans, zoning, or subsequent development approvals applicable to those lands, or from enacting and enforcing further regulations on their use [Gov. Code § 65754.5(c)].

[6] Residential Housing

[a] Presumption Governing Low Income Housing

In determining whether a housing development will have an impact on the ability of the city or county to properly adopt and implement an adequate housing element, the court will consider all relevant factors. There is a conclusive presumption that any housing development, 25 percent of which units are affordable to persons and families of low or moderate income (defined in Health & Safety Code § 50093), can be developed without having an impact on the ability of the city or county to properly adopt and implement an adequate housing element, except when the approval of a housing development may prevent the city or county from complying with the final judgment of the court [Gov. Code § 65760].

[b] Revocation of Building Permit Impermissible

In no event will any court grant as relief in any action brought pursuant to Gov. Code §§ 65750-65763 the revocation of any building permits or related permits for the construction of residential housing that has been issued prior to the filing of the complaint in that action. Nothing in Gov. Code § 65761 will be construed as a limitation on the ability to bring an action and to grant relief for a violation of Gov. Code §§ 65560-65570 [Gov. Code § 65761].

[7] Reference of Action

If the court orders a reference of any action brought pursuant to Gov. Code §§ 65750-65763 or pursuant to any provision of law that grants a court the authority to appoint expert witnesses, monitors, masters, or other third-party judicial assistants used in complex litigation, the personso appointed must report their findings to the court within not more than 90 days following that reference [Gov. Code § 65756].

[8] Environmental Effect

In any action brought under Gov. Code § 65759 [Gov. Code § 65759]:

(1) The provisions of the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) (Pub. Res. Code § 21000 et seq.), will not apply to any action necessary to bring its general plan or relevant mandatory elements thereof into compliance with any court order or judgment under Gov. Code § 65759.

(2) The court for good cause shown may grant not more than two extensions of time, not to exceed a total of 240 days, in order to meet the requirements imposed by Gov. Code § 65754.

Even though CEQA does not apply, the local agency will prepare an initial study, within the time limitations specified in Gov. Code § 65754, to determine the environmental effects of the proposed action necessary to comply with the court order. If as a result of the initial study, the local agency determines that the action may have a significant effect on the environment, the local agency will prepare, with the time limitations specified in Gov. Code § 65754, an environmental assessment. The local agency must include notice of the preparation of the environmental assessment in all notices provided for the amendments to the general plan proposed to comply with the court order. The environmental assessment will be deemed part of the general plan and will only be reviewable as provided in Gov. Code §§ 65750-65763 [Gov. Code § 65759(a)(1)].

The local agency may comply with the provisions of CEQA in any action necessary to bring its general plan or relevant mandatory elements thereof into compliance with any court order or judgment under Gov. Code § 65759 so long as it does so within the time limitations specified in Gov. Code § 65754 [Gov. Code § 65759(a)(4)].

[9] Application

Nothing in Gov. Code §§ 65750-65763 prohibits a court from invalidating any development permit based on failure to comply with the Subdivision Map Act (Gov. Code § 66410 et seq.), the California Environmental Quality Act (Pub. Res. Code § 21000 et seq.), the planning and zoning law (Gov. Code § 65000 et seq.), or other applicable laws [Gov. Code § 65762].

The procedures and remedies set forth in Gov. Code §§ 65750-65763 will not be construed to affect the substantive standards of court review of a general plan or of other local government land use decisions. Its remedies are interim measures that have no application after a general plan has been revised to substantially comply with state law [Gov. Code § 65762]. Actions to enforce ordinance compliance with a general plan are governed by Gov. Code § 65860. For discussion of Gov. Code § 65860, see § 579.221[1].

The provisions of Gov. Code §§ 65750-65763 apply to all actions, proceedings, and causes of action set forth therein, whether commenced or alleged by the filing of a petition, complaint, cross-complaint, complaint in intervention, or otherwise. Nothing in Gov. Code §§ 65750-65763 will be construed to create any cause of action in or to confer standing to sue on any person, entity, public officer, or state or other public agency [Gov. Code § 65763].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewRemediesMandamusEnvironmental LawZoning & Land UseComprehensive & General PlansEnvironmental LawZoning & Land UseJudicial ReviewReal Property LawZoning & Land UseComprehensive PlansReal Property LawZoning & Land UseState & Regional Planning

81 of 157 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
9. Judicial Review
I. Review of Zoning and Planning Decisions

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 579.224-579.239

[Reserved]

§§ 579.224[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
9. Judicial Review
II Enforcement of Zoning and Planning Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.240

§ 579.240 Inspections Require Consent

Even though routine inspections of private property by local authorities in furtherance of public safety programs or zoning ordinances are a less hostile intrusion than the typical police search for the fruits and instrumentalities of crime, the freedom from unreasonable searches afforded by the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments is applicable [Camara v. Municipal Court (1967) 387 U.S. 523, 527-534, 87 S. Ct. 1727, 18 L. Ed. 2d 930] . Thus, if a landowner refuses to consent voluntarily to an inspection of his or her premises as called for by a local zoning ordinance, a warrantless search is not permitted. The provisions of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1822.50-1822.60, governing the issuance of warrants for routine administrative inspections, must be adhered to by public officials [see Currier v. City of Pasadena (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 810, 814-817, 121 Cal. Rptr. 913 ; County of Contra Costa v. Humore, Inc. (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 1335, 53 Cal. Rptr. 2d 647] . For further discussion of administrative searches, see Ch. 471, Investigations by Public Agencies .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Constitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental RightsSearch & SeizureScope of ProtectionCriminal Law & ProcedureSearch & SeizureWarrantless SearchesGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawZoning & Land UseConstitutional LimitsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseConstitutional Limits

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
9. Judicial Review
II Enforcement of Zoning and Planning Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.241

§ 579.241 Enforcement by Government Entity

[1] Civil or Criminal

Many zoning ordinances provide that violation of the ordinance is a crime, thereby making criminal remedies available to the government entity in its enforcement efforts. Civil enforcement of zoning ordinances, in the form of injunctive relief, has in the past been justified by reference to nuisance law. However, recent cases indicate that a violation of a valid zoning ordinance itself constitutes a sufficient showing to permit civil enforcement [see City of Santa Clara v. Paris (1977) 76 Cal. App. 3d 338, 341-342, 142 Cal. Rptr. 818] . Of course, if the violation is also a public nuisance, the government entity may bring an action in nuisance. For discussion relating to public nuisance, see Ch. 391, Nuisance .

Enforcement of city zoning ordinances is the duty of administrative officers and the city attorney [Taliaferro v. Wampler (1954) 127 Cal. App.2d 306, 309, 273 P.2d 829 ; for discussion of enforcement by private citizens, see § 579.243].

[2] Estoppel From Enforcement

Estoppel against government enforcement of zoning ordinances is rare and only occurs when (1) the city or county acted affirmatively, (2) the party seeking to assert the estoppel acted in reliance thereon, and (3) the city or county then attempted to alter its position to the detriment of that innocent party [see City etc. of San Francisco v. Burton (1962) 201 Cal. App. 2d 749, 756, 20 Cal. Rptr. 378] .

Mere inaction in enforcement or permitting some persons to violate a zoning regulation does not preclude its enforcement against others. Unless the lax enforcement of an ordinance is the result of an intentional or arbitrary scheme to discriminate, it does not violate any constitutional right [City etc. of San Francisco v. Burton (1962) 201 Cal. App. 2d 749, 755, 20 Cal. Rptr. 378] . It is similarly stated that no vested right to violate a zoning ordinance may be acquired by continued violations [see Acker v. Baldwin (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 341, 346, 115 P.2d 455 ; Donovan v.

City of Santa Monica (1948) 88 Cal. App. 2d 386, 396, 199 P.2d 51] .

[3] Notice of Enforcement Action

[a] Recordation

Any agency that institutes a judicial action or proceeding to enforce zoning regulations may file a notice of the pendency of that action or proceeding in the county recorder's office of the county where the affected property is situated. The notice will be filed at the time of the commencement of the action or proceeding, and, on its recordation, that notice will have the same effect as a notice recorded pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 405.20 (filing lis pendens or notice of action with recorder). The notice will be recorded and indexed in the index of grantors and any other relevant index [Gov. Code § 65908(a); for discussion of Code Civ. Proc. § 405 et seq., see Ch. 348, Lis Pendens].

[b] Vacation

Any notice filed pursuant to Gov. Code § 65908(a) may, on motion by a party to the action or proceeding, be vacated on an appropriate showing of need therefor by an order of a judge of the court where the action or proceeding is pending. A certified copy of that order may be recorded in the same office of the recorder where the notice of pendency of action is recorded. On that recordation the notice of pendency of the action or proceeding will not serve as constructive notice of any of the matters contained therein nor create any duty of inquiry in any person [Gov. Code § 65908(b)].

The order of vacation will not be appealable, but the party aggrieved by that order may, within 20 days after service of written notice of the order, or within such additional time up to 20 days as the court may, within the original 20 days allow, but in no event later than 60 days after entry of the order, petition the proper reviewing court to review that order by writ of mandate. No order of vacation will be effective, nor will it be recorded in the office of any county recorder, until the time within which a petition for writ of mandate may be filed pursuant to Gov. Code § 65908(b) has expired [Gov. Code § 65908(b)].

[4] Statute of Limitations

Code Civ. Proc. § 343, which provides that an action must be commenced within four years after the cause of action accrues, is applicable to an action by a city or county in enforcing a zoning ordinance. If the zoning ordinance provides that the violator is deemed guilty of a separate offense for each day during which any portion of the violation is committed or permitted, there is a continuing violation and the statute runs from the last such violation [City of Fontana v. Atkinson (1963) 212 Cal. App. 2d 499, 508-509, 28 Cal. Rptr. 25 (city seeking to enjoin unlawful extension or enlargement of nonconforming use and unlawful rebuilding was not barred due to continuing violation)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesInjunctionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesWritsCommon Law WritsMandamusCriminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesMiscellaneous OffensesGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime LimitationsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseOrdinances

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
9. Judicial Review
II Enforcement of Zoning and Planning Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.242

§ 579.242 Injunctions

[1] Availability Generally

A zoning ordinance that does not provide that a violation of its provisions is a crime and provide criminal sanctions is enforceable by injunction [City of Stockton v. Frisbie & Latta (1928) 93 Cal. App. 277, 285, 270 P. 270] . However, even if the zoning ordinance prescribes a criminal penalty for violations, an injunction is available if that criminal penalty seems inadequate [Sapiro v. Frisbie (1928) 93 Cal. App. 299, 303-305, 270 P. 280] .

The right of a city to bring an action for injunctive relief depends only on a violation of the zoning ordinance [City of Santa Clara v. Paris (1977) 76 Cal. App. 3d 338, 342, 142 Cal. Rptr. 818 (failure to comply with variance condition)]. That violation may be enjoined without any necessity of showing that the violation constitutes a nuisance [City etc. of San Francisco v. Burton (1962) 201 Cal. App. 2d 749, 756-757, 20 Cal. Rptr. 378] . Indeed, a city has the right to injunctive relief to enforce a zoning ordinance, even when the injunction requires the landowner to remove alterations made to a building in violation of the ordinance [City of San Mateo v. Hardy (1944) 64 Cal. App. 2d 794, 796-797, 149 P.2d 307] .

[2] Preliminary Injunctions

If a zoning ordinance that a governmental entity is seeking to enforce by injunction specifically provides for injunctive relief, when the entityestablishes that it is reasonably probable it will prevail on the merits, a rebuttable presumption arises that the potential harm to the public outweighs the potential harm to the defendant. If the defendant shows that he or she would suffer grave or irreparable harm from the issuance of the preliminary injunction, the court must then examine the relative actual harms to the parties. Once the defendant has made such a showing, an injunction should issue only if--after consideration of both the degree of uncertainty of the outcome on the merits, and the consequences to each of the parties of granting or denying interim relief--the trial court concludes that an injunction is proper [IT Corp. v. County of Imperial (1983) 35 Cal. 3d 63, 72, 196 Cal. Rptr. 715, 672 P.2d 121] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesInjunctionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesInjunctionsPreliminary & Temporary InjunctionsCriminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesMiscellaneous OffensesGeneral OverviewReal Property LawZoning & Land UseOrdinances

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
9. Judicial Review
II Enforcement of Zoning and Planning Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.243

§ 579.243 Actions by Private Persons

[1] Injunctions

An owner of private property may bring an action to enjoin violations of a zoning ordinance that effect his or her property, when that property is in the same vicinity as the property on which the violation is occurring and that owner suffers a different type of injury or an injury of greater degree than that suffered by the public generally. For example, although the operation of a cafe or grocery store does not have a deleterious effect on the public generally, it may have such an effect on surrounding property owners when constructed in a residential zone [Hopkins v. MacCulloch (1939) 35 Cal. App. 2d 442, 453-454, 95 P.2d 950 ; see Taliaferro v. Wampler (1954) 127 Cal. App. 2d 306, 310, 273 P.2d 829] . Private actions are not restricted to individuals, and a citizen's committee may have standing to sue when its members are property owners residing in close proximity to the parcel at issue. Standing has been found when each member of the committee had an interest in the enforcement of the ordinance peculiar to that member and each would have suffered special damage distinguishable from that suffered by the public at large as a result of the violation [Simons v. City of Los Angeles (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 496, 501, 161 Cal. Rptr. 67] .

Code Civ. Proc. § 731a places a limit on injunctive relief available to the private sector in certain zones. It provides that when manufacturing, commercial, or airport uses are expressly permitted within a zone, no person, firm, or corporation will be restrained by the injunctive process from the reasonable and necessary operation in that zone of any use expressly permitted, nor will that use be deemed a nuisance without evidence of the employment of unnecessary and injurious methods of operation [Code Civ. Proc. § 731a; for further discussion, see Ch. 391, Nuisance [.

[2] Damages

The violation of the provisions of a zoning ordinance prohibiting any unauthorized nonconforming use of premises constitutes an actionable wrong against each member of the community for whose particular welfare that ordinance was enacted, remediable at the suit of the persons specially injured thereby [McIvor v. Mercer-Fraser Co. (1946) 76 Cal. App. 2d 247, 253-254, 172 P.2d 758] .

[3] Mandate to Compel Action by Administrative Officer

Even though other remedies may exist, mandamus lies to compel an administrative officer to enforce an ordinance that imposes a mandatory duty on him or her to do so [Blankenship v. Michalski (1957) 155 Cal. App. 2d 672, 674, 318 P.2d 727] . For example, a writ of mandate to compel an administrative officer to issue an arrest warrant for a violation of a zoning ordinance was properly granted when that officer's duty was mandatory [see Wilson v. Edgar (1923) 64 Cal. App. 654, 655-657, 222 P. 623] .

Mandamus cannot be employed to control the exercise of discretion by an administrative officer. For example, mandamus to compel a city attorney to commence proceedings to abate operation of a pharmacy alleged to be in violation of the zoning ordinance was properly denied when that ordinance permitted the attorney some discretion to determine whether a violation had occurred, and there was no abuse of that discretion in determining there was no violation [Blankenship v. Michalski (1957) 155 Cal. App. 2d 672, 674-676, 318 P.2d 727] . In response to an appropriate application, the court may compel administrative action, but it may not substitute its discretion for the discretion properly vested in the administrative officer [Lindell Co. v. Board of Permit Appeals (1943) 23 Cal. 2d 303, 315, 144 P.2d 4] .

[4] Period of Limitation

An action by a private party for injury to real property resulting from a violation of a zoning ordinance has a three year statute of limitation [see Code Civ. Proc. § 338(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewRemediesMandamusCivil ProcedureJusticiabilityStandingGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime LimitationsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseNonconforming UsesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseOrdinances

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
9. Judicial Review
II Enforcement of Zoning and Planning Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.244

§ 579.244 Defenses

[1] Authorized Use

There are a variety of defenses available to the charge of violation of a zoning ordinance, although not all of them are applicable in every case. An obvious defense is that the use is specifically authorized, as is the case when the questioned use is incidental to a permissive use, especially when that use does not interfere with the general character and aesthetic harmonies of the district [City of Beverly Hills v. Brady (1950) 34 Cal. 2d 854, 857, 215 P.2d 460] .

[2] Invalid Ordinance

Another defense is that the ordinance is invalid. A zoning ordinance may be unconstitutional if it amounts to an uncompensated destruction of aprivate property right [see Agins v. Tiburon (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 266, 273, 157 Cal. Rptr. 372, 598 P.2d 25 , aff'd, 447 U.S. 255, 259, 100 S. Ct. 2138, 65 L. Ed. 2d 106 (1980)] . A zoning ordinance may also be invalid because it is inconsistent with the general plan [see Gov. Code § 65860(a); for discussion of actions under Gov. Code § 65860, see § 579.221]. An ordinance that is inconsistent with the general plan is invalid at the time it is enacted [Sierra Club v. Board of Supervisors (1981) 126 Cal. App. 3d 698, 704, 179 Cal. Rptr. 261] . Another ground of invalidity is vagueness. A zoning ordinance is invalid for vagueness or uncertainty when no one can know what use is or is not permitted and no procedure is prescribed whereby it may be ascertained [People v. Binzley (1956) 146 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 889, 890-891 , 303 P.2d 903] .

A zoning ordinance may also be invalid if it makes an improper delegation of authority. When restrictions imposed on the use of property are unnecessary, unreasonable, and oppressive, and absolute legislative discretion is delegated to the planning commission, that ordinance will be unconstitutional [People v. Perez (1963) 29 Cal. Rptr. 781] .

[3] Unconstitutional Application of Ordinance

Finally, one charged with violation of a zoning ordinance may assert as a defense improper application or construction of that ordinance by the enforcing agent. An alleged violation of an ordinance was successfully defended when it was shown that the proposed interpretation would lead to uncertain results through defective notice, discriminatory enforcement, and ex post facto punishment [see In re Scarpitti (1981) 124 Cal. App. 3d 434, 439-441, 177 Cal. Rptr. 387 (landowner parking large commercial dump truck used in his livelihood at his residence did not violate ordinance in rural residential zone)]. The construction of zoning ordinances is ruled by the same rules as general statutes [City of Norwalk v. Auction City, Inc. (1960) 186 Cal. App. 2d 287, 290, 8 Cal. Rptr. 781 ; for discussion of the rules of statutory interpretation, see Ch. 531, Statutes and Ordinances [.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Constitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental FreedomsJudicial & Legislative RestraintsOverbreadth & VaguenessConstitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental RightsEminent Domain & TakingsEnvironmental LawZoning & Land UseConstitutional LimitsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseConstitutional LimitsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseOrdinances

87 of 157 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Zoning and Planning
9. Judicial Review
II Enforcement of Zoning and Planning Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 579.245-579.259

[Reserved]

§§ 579.245[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.260

§ 579.260 Governing Law

The Subdivision Map Act is contained in Gov. Code § 66410 et seq. In addition, the subdivision of property may be governed by local ordinances adopted pursuant to the Subdivision Map Act. The Subdivided Lands Act is set forth in Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq. The Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act is set forth in 15 U.S.C. § 1701 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawPurchase & SaleInterstate Land Sales Full Disclosure ActReal Property LawSubdivisionsLocal Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.261

§ 579.261 Subdivision Map Act

The Subdivision Map Act (the Act) establishes general statewide criteria for land development planning and delegates authority to cities and counties to regulate the details of subdivisions [Benny v. City of Alameda (1980) 105 Cal. App. 3d 1006, 1010-1011, 164 Cal. Rptr. 776] . The Act and the ordinances passed in conformity with it have several purposes, such as: (1) to regulate and control the design and improvement of subdivisions, with proper consideration of their relation to adjoining areas; (2) to require the subdivider to install streets and drains; (3) to prevent fraud and exploitation; and (4) to protect both the public and the purchaser [Tiburon v. Northwestern P. R. Co. (1970) 4 Cal. App. 3d 160, 175, 84 Cal. Rptr. 469 ; Pratt v. Adams (1964) 229 Cal. App. 2d 602, 605-606, 40 Cal. Rptr. 505] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawSubdivisionsLocal RegulationReal Property LawSubdivisionsState Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.262

§ 579.262 Definitions

[1] Subdivider

"Subdivider" means a person, firm, corporation, partnership, or association who proposes to divide, divides, or causes to be divided real property into a subdivision for himself, herself, or itself or for others. However, employees and consultants of those persons or entities, acting in that capacity, are not "subdividers" [Gov. Code § 66423].

[2] Subdivision

[a] Generally

"Subdivision" means the division, by any subdivider, of any unit or units of improved or unimproved land, or any portion thereof, shown on the latest equalized county assessment roll as a unit or as contiguous units, for the purpose of sale, lease, or financing, whether immediate or future. Property will be considered as contiguous units, even if it is separated by roads, streets, utility easement, or railroad rights-of-way. "Subdivision" includes a condominium project as defined in Civ. Code § 1351(f), a community apartment project as defined in Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004, or the conversion of five or more existing dwelling units to a stock cooperative as defined in Bus. & Prof. Code § 11003.2 [Gov. Code § 66424].

An agreement that a seller could use a portion of a lot until the seller's adjacent lot was sold or the seller died did not create a subdivision because it was not a division for purposes of sale or lease of property [Robinson v. City of Alameda (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 1286, 1288-1289, 239 Cal. Rptr. 926] .

[b] Subsequent Subdivision

Nothing in Gov. Code § 66424 prevents a purchaser of a unit of land created under the provisions of the Act or a local ordinance, fromsubdividing the land one or more times, pursuant to the provisions of the Act prior to the time that an equalized county assessment roll has been completed reflecting the creation of the unit proposed to be subdivided [Gov. Code § 66424.1].

Nothing in Gov. Code §§ 66410-66424.6 prevents the same subdivider of a unit of land created under the provisions of the Act or a local ordinance, from making consecutive subdivisions of the same parcel or any portion of it. Further, local agencies must not prohibit consecutive subdivisions of the same parcel or portion thereof either by the same subdivider or a subsequent purchaser because the parcel was previously subdivided. However, the local agency may impose appropriate conditions or requirements on the consecutive subdivisions [Gov. Code § 66424.1].

[c] Environmental Subdivision

An "environmental subdivision" is a subdivision of land for biotic and wildlife purposes that meets specified conditions. Among other things, the parcel must consist of at least 20 acres, and be encumbered by an easement to ensure compliance with the goal of maintaining and preserving the biotic or wildlife character of the land [Gov. Code § 66418.2].

The concept of environmental subdivisions represents an effort to provide a market-based solution for developers and landowners who either need to satisfy local government-imposed mitigation conditions on development of environmentally sensitive lands, or who own land that cannot be developed due to environmental designation. For example, as a condition to approval of a proposed subdivision, a local government may require a subdivider to permanently protect an acre of wildlife land for every acre of habitat that the proposed development would convert to housing. By creating an environmental subdivision at another location, a developer can satisfy the mitigation condition and still proceed with its development. Environmental subdivisions are also intended to provide a landowner who cannot develop its property because it has been designated wildlife habitat with the possibility of an economic return on its investment by designating it an environmental subdivision and transferring it to a developer looking to satisfy mitigation conditions off-site.

[3] Local Agency

"Local agency" means a city, county, or city and county [Gov. Code § 66420].

[4] Local Ordinance

"Local ordinance" refers to a local ordinance regulating the design and improvement of subdivisions, enacted by the legislative body of any local agency under the provisions of the Act or any prior statute, regulating the design and improvements of subdivisions, insofar as the provisions of the ordinance are consistent with and not in conflict with the provisions of the Subdivision Map Act [Gov. Code § 66421].

[5] Tentative Map

"Tentative map" refers to a map made for the purpose of showing the design and improvement of a proposed subdivision and the existing conditions in and around it and need not be based on an accurate or detailed final survey of the property [Gov. Code § 66424.5(a)]. A "vesting tentative map" refers to a map that meets the requirements of Gov. Code §§ 66424.5(a) (tentative map) and 66452 (filing map) [Gov. Code § 66424.5(b); see § 579.267 (notice and filing of tentative map)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawSubdivisionsState Regulation

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.263

§ 579.263 Projects Outside Scope of Act

[1] Generally

The Subdivision Map Act does not apply to any of the following [Gov. Code § 66412]:

(1) The financing or leasing of apartments, offices, stores or similar space within apartment buildings, industrial buildings, commercial buildings, mobilehome parks, or trailer parks.

(2) Mineral, oil, or gas leases.

(3) Land dedicated for cemetery purposes under the Health and Safety Code.

(4) A lot line adjustment between four or fewer existing adjoining parcels, when the land taken from one parcel is added to an adjoining parcel, and when a greater number of parcels than originally existed is not thereby created, if the lot line adjustment is approved by the local agency, or advisory agency [see, e.g., San Dieguito Partnership v. City of San Diego (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 748, 755-759, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 440 (lot line adjustment exception not limited to minor adjustments or to only two adjacent parcels; but applicable to adjustments to nine adjacent lots when no additional lots were created)].

(5) Boundary line or exchange agreements to which the State Lands Commission or a local agency holding a trust grant of tide and submerged lands is a party.

(6) Any separate assessment under Rev. & Tax. Code § 2188.7 (tax on improvements).

(7) The conversion of a community apartment project [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004] to a condominium [see Civ. Code § 783], when specified statutory requirements are met.

(8) Unless a parcel or final map was approved by the legislative body of a local agency, the conversion of a stock cooperative as defined in Bus.& Prof. Code § 11003.2 to a condominium as defined in Civ. Code § 783, when specified statutory requirements are met.

(9) The leasing of, or the granting of an easement to, a parcel of land, or any portion thereof, in conjunction with the financing, erection, and sale or lease of a windpowered electrical generation device on the land, if the project is subject to discretionary action by the advisory agency or legislative body.

(10) The leasing or licensing of a portion of a parcel, or the granting of an easement, use permit, or similar right on a portion of a parcel, to a telephone corporation exclusively for the placement and operation of cellular radio transmission facilities, if the project is subject to discretionary action by the local advisory agency or legislative body.

(11) Leases of agricultural land for agricultural purposes, which are defined as the cultivation of food or fiber, or the grazing or pasturing of livestock.

(12) The leasing of, or granting an easement to, a parcel of land in conjunction with the financing, erection, and sale or lease of a solar electrical generation device on the land; provided the project is otherwise subject either to review under local agency ordinances regulating design and improvement or, to other discretionary action by the advisory agency or legislative body.

(13) The leasing of, or granting an easement to, a parcel of land in conjunction with a biogas project that uses agricultural waste or byproducts from the land where the project is located and reduces overall emissions of greenhouse gases from agricultural operations on the land; provided the project is otherwise subject either to review under local agency ordinances regulating design and improvement or, to discretionary action by the advisory agency or legislative body.

The Act is also inapplicable to the financing or leasing of any parcel of land, or any portion thereof, in conjunction with the construction of commercial or industrial buildings on a single parcel, unless the project is not subject to review under other local agency ordinances regulating design and improvement. Nor is it applicable to the financing or leasing of existing separate commercial or industrial buildings on a single parcel [Gov. Code § 66412.1].

The Act does not apply to the creation of second units pursuant to Gov. Code § 65852.2. However, it does apply to the sale or transfer of those units [Gov. Code § 66412.2]. Moreover, when so provided by local ordinance, the Act does not apply to subdivisions of four parcels or less for construction of removable commercial buildings having a floor area of less than 100 square feet [Gov. Code § 66412.5].

[2] Regulation by Local Agency

Each local agency may, by ordinance, regulate and control subdivisions not within the Act, provided that those regulations are not more restrictive than the regulations for those subdivisions within the Act, and provided that those regulations are not applied to short-term leases of a portion of the operating right-of-way of a railroad corporation unless public policy necessitates the application of those regulations to those short-term leases [see Gov. Code § 66411].

Notwithstanding the fact that a local ordinance may permit the parcel map requirement to be waived in favor of requiring a tentative map [see Gov. Code § 66428, discussed in § 579.265[4]], any improvements that are required for a division of land that is not a subdivision of five or more lots must be limited to dedication of rights-of-way or easements, and construction of reasonable off-site and on-site improvements for the parcels being created. Construction requirements for these off-site and on-site improvements must be noticed by a certificate that is (1) on the parcel map itself, (2) in the instrument that evidences the waiver of a parcel map, or (3) in a separate instrument. The certificate must be recorded on, concurrently with, or before the parcel map or the instrument waiving the parcel map is filed for record [Gov. Code § 66411.1(a)].

Unless required by the public health and safety or as a prerequisite to the orderly development of the surrounding area, the subdivider cannot be required to fulfill any requirements to construct off-site or on-site improvements until either (1) the local agency has issued a permit or other grant of approval for development of the parcel, or (2) the time construction of the improvements is required pursuant to any authorized agreement between the subdivider and the local agency. If there is no agreement and the public agency finds that fulfillment of the construction requirements is necessary for either the public health and safety or as a prerequisite to the orderly development of the surrounding area, the subdivider may be required to fulfill the requirements within a reasonable time after the parcel map is approved or a waiver granted, but before a permit or other approval for the development is issued [Gov. Code § 66411.1(b)]. Although the local agency cannot require that the improvements be finished before approving the parcel map, it can require the developer to provide security to insure that the improvements will be completed [see 62 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 175, 176-179 (1979)] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawSubdivisionsLocal RegulationReal Property LawSubdivisionsState Regulation

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.264

§ 579.264 Local Control

Regulation and control of the design and improvement of subdivisions are vested in the legislative bodies of local agencies [Gov. Code § 66411]. They impliedly have the power to adopt supplementary regulations pursuant to the Act, when that power is not expressly granted by the Act, provided the regulation is reasonably related to the purposes of the Act [Soderling v. City of Santa Monica (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 501, 506, 191 Cal. Rptr. 140] . However, local ordinances that are inconsistent with the language and apparent intent of the Act are invalid [Benny v. City of Alameda (1980) 105 Cal. App. 3d 1006, 1011, 164 Cal. Rptr. 776] .

In performing its functions under the Act, a local government must follow the Act's procedures, the purpose of which is to preserve the affected parties' procedural safeguards. A city failed to fulfill its obligations under the Act when it refused to accept and process a developer's tentative map application pending the receipt of a determination from the Department of Health Services as to whether or not the parcel to be developed was a hazardous waste property. In holding that the city must accept and consider the developer's application for tentative map, the court of appeal noted that nothing in the statutes governing local land use regulationexcuses a local government from following the statutorily mandated procedures when a hazardouswaste issue is suspected. The court further noted that the Planning and Zoning Law in general, and the Subdivision Map Act specifically, provide multiple means and opportunities to ensure the public health and safety as part of the procedural process [see Beck Development Co., Inc. v. Southern Pacific Transportation Co. (1996) 44 Cal. App. 4th 1160, 1200-1203, 52 Cal. Rptr. 2d 518] .

Each local agency must, by ordinance, regulate and control subdivisions for which the Act requires a tentative and final or parcel map. In the development, adoption, revision, and application of that ordinance, the local agency must comply with the provisions of Gov. Code § 65913.2 (guidelines governing exercise of authority) in developing and applying the ordinance. The ordinance must specifically provide for proper grading and erosion control, including the prevention of sedimentation or damage to offsite property [Gov. Code § 66411]. The agency must also regulate and control the initial design and improvement of common interest subdivisions as defined in Civ. Code § 1351 [Gov. Code § 66411].

In carrying out the provisions of the Act, each local agency must consider the effect of ordinances and actions adopted pursuant to the Act on the housing needs of that region and balance those needs against the public service needs of its residents and available fiscal and environmental resources [Gov. Code § 66412.3].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsAdministrative BoardsReal Property LawSubdivisionsLocal RegulationReal Property LawSubdivisionsState Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.265

§ 579.265 Map Requirement

[1] Governing Statutes

The necessity for tentative, final, and parcel maps is governed by Gov. Code §§ 66425-66431 [Gov. Code § 66425].

[2] Tentative and Final Map

A tentative and final map is required for all subdivisions creating five or more parcels, five or more condominiums as defined in Civ. Code § 783, a community apartment project containing five or more parcels, or for the conversion of a dwelling to a stock cooperative containing five or more dwelling units, except when [Gov. Code § 66426]:

- The land before division contains less than five acres, each parcel created by the division abuts on a maintained public street or highway and no dedications or improvements are required by the legislative body;

- Each parcel created by the division has a gross area of 20 acres or more and has an approved access to a maintained public street or highway;

- The land consists of a parcel or parcels of land that has approved access to a public street or highway that comprises part of a tract ofland zoned for industrial or commercial development, and that has the approval of the governing body concerning street alignments and widths;

- Each parcel created by the division has a gross area of not less than 40 acres or is not less than a quarter or a quarter section; or

- The land is being subdivided solely for the creation of an environmental subdivision pursuant to Gov. Code § 66418.2 [see § 579.262[2][c]].

A local ordinance may require a tentative map when a parcel map is required by Gov. Code §§ 66425-66431. If the local ordinance does not require a tentative map when a parcel map is required by the Act, the subdivider has the option of submitting a tentative map, or if the subdivider desires to obtain the rights conferred by Gov. Code §§ 66498.1-66498.9 (development rights), a vesting tentative map [Gov. Code § 66428]. For further discussion, see § 579.265[3].

[3] Vesting Tentative Map

A subdivider is permitted to file a vesting tentative map whenever the Subdivision Map Act requires a tentative map to be filed [Gov. Code § 66498.1(a)]. This confers a vested right to proceed with development in substantial compliance with the ordinances, policies, and standards in effect at the time the application is deemed complete or approved [Gov. Code § 66498.1(b)]. This procedure is intended to provide greater statutory protection to subdividers than was afforded under the common law vested rights doctrine [Bright Development v. City of Tracy (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 783, 792, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 618] . Because a subdivider will be bound by the local ordinances, policies, and standards in effect at the time the map application is deemed complete, due process requires that the subdivider have actual or constructive notice of those ordinances, policies, and standards, including any development fees [see Kaufman & Broad Central Valley, Inc. v. City of Modesto (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1577, 1588-1589, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 904] . It may be possible, however, for a local agency to provide in its ordinances, policies, and standards for increases in fees that may take place after a vesting tentative map is deemed complete. But provision for an increase in fees must provide reasonable notice of the nature of any fee increase and the manner in which it will be calculated. A general fee escalation provision in the original ordinances, policies, and standards, by itself, is not sufficient notice [Kaufman & Broad Central Valley, Inc. v. City of Modesto (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1577, 1589, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 904] .

[4] Parcel Map

[a] When Required

A parcel map is required for the five types of subdivisions described in Gov. Code § 66426(a)-(e) as exceptions from the requirement for tentativeand final maps [Gov. Code § 66426(f); see § 579.265[2]]. A parcel map is also required for subdivisions for which a final or parcel map is not otherwise required by Gov. Code §§ 66425-66431, unless the preparation of that parcel map is waived by local ordinance [Gov. Code § 66428].

A parcel map is not required for either of the following [Gov. Code § 66428(a)]:

- Subdivisions of a portion of the operating right-of-way of a railroad corporation (defined in Pub. Util. Code § 230) that are created by short-term leases; or

- Land conveyed to or from a governmental agency, public entity, or public utility, or for land conveyed to a subsidiary of a public utility for conveyanceto that public utility for rights-of-way, unless a showing is made in individual cases, on substantial evidence, that public policy necessitates a parcel map.

[b] Waiver

A local agency must, by ordinance, provide a procedure for waiving the requirement for a parcel map imposed by the Act, including the requirements for a parcel map imposed by Gov. Code § 66426. The procedure may include provisions for waiving the requirement for a tentative and final map for the construction of a condominium project on a single parcel. The ordinance must require a finding by the legislative body or advisory agency that the proposed division of land complies with those requirements that have been established with regard to the following: area, improvement and design, floodwater drainage control, appropriate improved public roads, sanitary disposal facilities, water supply availability, environmental protection, and other requirements of the Act or local ordinance. In any case, when the requirement for a parcel map is waived by local ordinance pursuant to Gov. Code § 66428, a tentative map may be required by local ordinance [Gov. Code § 66428]. A local agency must act on an application for parcel map waiver within 60 days of the time the application is deemed complete under Gov. Code § 65943 [Gov. Code § 66451.7].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawSubdivisionsLocal RegulationReal Property LawSubdivisionsState Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.266

§ 579.266 Map Procedures

The procedures set forth in Gov. Code §§ 66451-66472.1 govern the processing, approval, conditional approval, disapproval, filing, and mediation of tentative, final, and parcel maps. Local ordinances may modify those procedures to the extent authorized by Gov. Code §§ 66451-66472.1 [Gov. Code § 66451]. The local agency may establish reasonable fees for required or authorized procedures [Gov. Code §§ 66451.2, 66451.3(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawSubdivisionsLocal RegulationReal Property LawSubdivisionsState RegulationReal Property LawZoning & Land UseAdministrative Procedure

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.267

§ 579.267 Tentative Map

[1] Notice of Filing

When a subdivision is to be created from the conversion of residential real property into a condominium project, community apartment project, or stock cooperative project, the subdividing owner must give notice of the intention to convert to each tenant at least 60 days before filing the tentative map [Gov. Code §§ 66427.1(a)(2)(A), 66452.18; for discussion and forms relating to condominiums, see Ch. 124, Condominiums and Other Common Interest Developments]. Additionally, at least 60 days before filing the tentative map, the subdivider must give notice of that filing to each person applying for rental of a unit of the subject property immediately prior to the acceptance of any rent or deposit from the prospective tenant by the subdivider [Gov. Code §§ 66427.1(a)(2)(A), 66452.17(a)]. Failure to provide the requisite notice will result in the subdivider paying specified monies to the formerly prospective tenant [Gov. Code § 66452.17(c)].

[2] Filing

A tentative map must be filed with the clerk of the advisory agency or, if there is no advisory agency, with the clerk of the legislative body, or with any officer or employee of the local agency that may be designated by local ordinance [Gov. Code § 66452(a)].

[3] Staff Recommendation

Any report or recommendation on a tentative map by the staff of the local agency to the advisory agency or legislative body must be in writing and a copy served on the subdivider and on each tenant of the subject property, in the case of a proposed conversion of residential real property to a condominium project, community apartment project, or stock cooperative project, at least three days prior to any hearing or action on that map by the advisory agency or legislative body [Gov. Code § 66452.3]. The subdivider may collect fees for expenses incurred [Gov. Code §§ 66451.2, 66452.3].

[4] Procedure When Advisory Agency Exists--Decision or Report

If an advisory agency exists, it may be authorized either to make an initial decision on the map or merely to draft a report on the map for the legislative body [see Gov. Code § 66452.1(a), (b)].

[5] Decision

If the advisory agency is authorized by local ordinance to approve, conditionally approve, or disapprove the tentative map, it must take action within 50 days after its filing and report its action to the subdivider [Gov.Code § 66452.1(b)]. The advisory agency must comply with the time periods of Pub. Res. Code § 21151.5 (environmental impact report), within the time limits of Gov. Code § 66452.1. However, if an environmental impact report is prepared, the 50-day time period is not applicable, and the advisory agency must render its decision within 45 days after certification of the environmental impact report [Gov. Code § 66452.1(c); for general discussion of environmental impact report requirements, see Ch. 418, Pollution and Environmental Matters, §§ 418.34 -418.36].

If no action is taken on a tentative map by the advisory agency, the tentative map is deemed approved as filed, insofar as it complies with other applicable requirements of the Act and local ordinance [Gov. Code § 66452.4(a)]. A map cannot be deemed approved if it does not comply with all applicable requirements of the Subdivision Map Act and local ordinance [Pongputmong v. City of Santa Monica (1993) 15 Cal. App. 4th 99, 104-105, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 550 (map not deemed approved when tenant approvals required by local ordinance were obtained through coercion and misrepresentation)]. Once a tentative map is deemed approved, the subdivider is entitled to request and receive a written certification of approval [Gov. Code § 66452.4(b)].

An advisory agency that is faced with expiration of the prescribed time limits for it to act on an application for a tentative map may not disapprove the map solely because the time limit is about to expire; there must be additional reasons for disapproval [Gov. Code § 66451.4].

Gov. Code § 66452.4 is silent on the effect of the agency's failure to act when it has no final authority to approve, conditionally approve, or disapprove the tentative map.It appears that failure of the advisory agency to act within 50 days triggers the 30-day period within which the legislative body must act, and the failure of that body to act within 30 days would be deemed an approval of the map [Benny v. City of Alameda (1980) 105 Cal. App. 3d 1006, 1012-1013, 164 Cal. Rptr. 776 ; see Gov. Code § 66452.2, discussed in § 579.267[6], [7]].

[6] Report

If the advisory agency is not authorized by local ordinance to approve, conditionally approve, or disapprove the tentative map, it must make its written report of the tentative map to the legislative body within 50 days after its filing [Gov. Code § 66452.1(a)]. The advisory agency must comply with the time periods of Pub. Res. Code § 21151.5 (environmental impact report), within the time limits of Gov. Code § 66452.1. The 50-day time period then begins after the environmental impact report is certified, a negative declaration is adopted, or it is determined that the project is exempt [Gov. Code § 66452.1(c)].

At the next regular meeting of the legislative body following the filing of the advisory agency's report with it, that body must set a date for consideration of the tentative map. That date must be within 30 days, during whichtime the legislative body must approve, conditionally approve, or disapprove the tentative map [Gov. Code § 66452.2(a)]. The local agency must comply with the time periods of Pub. Res. Code § 21151.5 (environmental impact report), within the time limits of Gov. Code § 66452.2 [Gov. Code § 66452.2(c); for general discussion of environmental impact report requirements, see Ch. 418, Pollution and Other Environmental Matters, §§ 418.34 -418.36].

If no action is taken on a tentative map by the legislative body within the specified time limits, the tentative map is deemed approved as filed, insofar as it complies with other applicable requirements of the Act and local ordinance [Gov. Code § 66452.4(a)].

[7] Procedure When No Advisory Agency Exists

If there is no advisory agency, the clerk of the legislative body must submit the tentative map to the legislative body at its next regular meeting. The legislative body must approve, conditionally approve, or disapprove that map within 50 days after submission [Gov. Code § 66452.2(b)]. The local agency must comply with the time periods of Pub. Res. Code § 21151.5 (environmental impact report), within the time limits of Gov. Code § 66452.2. The 50-day time period then begins after the environmental impact report is certified, a negative declaration is adopted, or it is determined that the project is exempt [Gov. Code § 66452.1(c); for general discussion of environmental impact report requirements, see Ch. 418, Pollution and Other Environmental Matters, §§ 418.34 -418.36].

If no action is taken on a tentative map by the legislative body within the specified time limits, the tentative map is deemed approved as filed, insofar as it complies with other applicable requirements of the Act and local ordinance [Gov. Code § 66452.4(a)].

A local legislative body that is faced with expiration of the prescribed time limits for it to act on an application for a tentative map may not disapprove the map based solely on the fact that the time limit is about to expire; there must be additional reasons for disapproval [Gov. Code § 66451.4].

[8] Approval Conditioned on Availability of Sufficient Water Supply

The local legislative body or the advisory agency (to the extent that the latter is authorized by local ordinance to approve, conditionally approve, or disapprove a tentative map) must include as a condition in any tentative map that includes a subdivision consisting of a residential development of more than 500 dwelling units, a requirement that a sufficient water supply be available. Proof of the availability of a sufficient water supply must be requested by the subdivision applicant or local agency, at the agency's discretion, and must be based on written verification from the applicable public water system within 90 days of a request [Gov. Code § 66473.7(b); see Gov. Code § 66473.7(a)(1), (2) ("subdivision" and "sufficient water supply" defined for these purposes)].

The condition does not apply to any residential project proposed for a site that is within an urbanized area and has been previously developed for urban uses, or when the immediate contiguous properties surrounding the residential project site are, or previously have been, developed for urban uses, or housing projects that are exclusively for very low and low-income households [Gov. Code § 66473.7(i)].

[9] Expiration

An approved or conditionally approved tentative map will expire 24 months after its approval or conditional approval, or after any additional period of time that may be prescribed by local ordinance, not to exceed 12 months [Gov. Code § 66452.6(a)(1)]. However, this expiration time may be different under some circumstances. For example, if the subdivider is subject to a requirement of at least $178,000 to construct, improve, or finance public improvements outside the boundary of the tentative map, the expiration time may be extended [Gov. Code § 66452.6(a)(1); see Gov. Code § 66452.6(a)(2) (amount adjusted for inflation each calendar year beginning January 1, 2005)]. That time may also be changed due to a development moratorium imposed after approval of the tentative map [Gov. Code § 66452.6(b) ; see Ailanto Properties, Inc. v. City of Half Moon Bay (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 572, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 340 (Gov. Code § 66452.6(b)(1) limits to five years length of any moratorium-related tolling of tentative map's expiration, and does not address length of moratorium itself)].

The period of time specified in Gov. Code § 66452.6(a)(1), including any local discretionary extension of up to six years granted pursuant to Gov. Code § 66452.6(e), does not include the period of time during which a lawsuit involving the approval or conditional approval of the tentative map is or was pending in court, if the stay of the time period is approved by the local agency pursuant to Gov. Code § 66452.6. After service of the initial petition or complaint in the lawsuit on the local agency, the subdivider may apply to the local agency for a stay pursuant to the local agency's adopted procedures. Within 40 days after receiving the application, the local agency must either stay the time period for up to five years or deny the requested stay. Thelocal agency may, by ordinance, establish procedures for reviewing the requests, including, but not limited to, notice and hearing requirements, appeal procedures, and other administrative requirements [Gov. Code § 66452.6(c)].

The expiration of the approved or conditionally approved tentative map will terminate all proceedings and no final map or parcel map of all or any portion of the real property included within the tentative map will be filed with the legislative body without first processing a new tentative map. Once timely filing is made, subsequent actions of the local agency, including, but not limited to, processing, approving, and recording, may lawfully occur after the date of expiration of the tentative map. Delivery to the county surveyor or city engineer will be deemed a timely filing [Gov. Code § 66452.6(d)]. This language prohibits a subdivider from filing a final map after the tentative map has expired. However, the language "once a timely filing is made, subsequent actions of the local agency, including, but not limited to, processing, approving, and recording, may lawfully occur after the date of expiration of the tentative map" authorizes the local agency to approve a timely filed application for an extension of a tentative map [Bodega Bay Concerned Citizens v. County of Sonoma (2005) 125 Cal. App. 4th 1061, 1070, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 327] .

In 2008, because of the depressed housing market with subdividers facing the prospect of having their tentative and parcel maps expire before they could obtain financing or have their projects be economically viable on completion, legislation was enacted to extend by 12 months the expiration date of any tentative or vesting tentative map or parcel map that had not expired on July 15, 2008, but was due to expire before January 1. 2011 [Gov. Code § 66452.21(a)]. The extension is in addition to any other statutory extensions [Gov. Code § 66452.21(b); see Gov. Code §§ 66452.6, 66452.11, 66452.13, 66463.5]. The determination of whether a map expires before January 1, 2011, will count only those local discretionary extensions of time pursuant to Gov. Code § 66452.6(e) approved on or before July 15, 2008, and any additional time in connection with the filing of a final map pursuant to Gov. Code § 66452.6(a) for a map that was recorded on or before July 15, 2008. The determination does not include any development moratorium or litigation stay [Gov. Code § 66452.21(d)]. In 1993 and 1996, extensions were granted under similar economic circumstances and, although any affected maps have undoubtedly expired, the legislation remains part of the Subdivision Map Act [see Gov. Code §§ 66452.11, 66452.13].

In 2009, the Legislature amended the Act to extend, for an additional 24 months, the expiration date of any tentative or vesting tentative map, or parcel map for which a tentative or vesting tentative map has been approved, that (1) was in existence on July 15, 2009, and (2) will not expire before January 1, 2012 [Gov. Code § 66452.22(a); see Gov. Code § 66452.22(d) (determining whether map expires before January 1, 2012)]. The extension also applies to any legislative, administrative, or other state agency approval pertaining to a development project included in the map, provided the approval had not expired on July 15, 2009 [Gov. Code § 66452.22(c)]. These extensions are automatic, and in addition to all other discretionary and mandatory extensions available under the Act [Gov. Code § 66452.22(b), (c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawSubdivisionsLocal RegulationReal Property LawSubdivisionsState RegulationReal Property LawWater RightsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.268

§ 579.268 Final Map

[1] Preparation

After the approval or conditional approval of the tentative map and before the expiration of that map, the subdivider may have the real property included within the map, or any part thereof, surveyed and a final map thereof prepared in accordance with the approved or conditionally approved tentative map [Gov. Code § 66456]. Under some circumstances, a subdivider may file multiple final maps [see Gov. Code § 66456.1]. The filing of a final map on a portion of an approved or conditionally approved tentative map will not invalidate any part of that tentative map [Gov. Code § 66456.1].

[2] Filing

A final map or parcel map conforming to the approved or conditionally approved tentative map, if any, may be filed with the legislative body for approval after all required certificates or statements on the map have been signed and, when necessary, acknowledged [Gov. Code § 66457(a)].

If the subdivision lies entirely within the territory of a city, the map must be filed with the city. If the subdivision lies partially within two or more territories, the map must be filed with each, and each territory must act on the map [Gov. Code § 66457(b)].

[3] Approval

The legislative body must, at the meeting at which it receives the map or at its next regular meeting, approve the map if it conforms to all the Act requirements and any local subdivision ordinance applicable at the time of approval orconditional approval of the tentative map and any rulings thereunder. If the map does not conform, the legislative body mustdisapprove the map [Gov. Code § 66458(a); see Soderling v. City of Santa Monica (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 501, 505, 191 Cal. Rptr. 140] .

If the legislative body does not approve or disapprove the map within the prescribed time and the map conforms to all requirements and rulings, it will be deemed approved [Gov. Code § 66458(b)]. The legislative body that is faced with expiration of the prescribed time limits for it to act on a final map may not disapprove the map solely on the basis that the time limit is due to expire; there must be additional reasons for disapproval [Gov. Code § 66451.4].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawSubdivisionsLocal Regulation

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.269

§ 579.269 Factors Governing Map Decisions

[1] Generally

A local agency must disapprove a map for failure to meet or perform any of the requirements or conditions imposed by the Act or local ordinance enacted pursuant to the Act. Local ordinance may provide a procedure for waiver of the Act's provisions when the failure of the map is the result of a technical and inadvertent error that, in the determination of the local agency, does not materially affect the map's validity [Gov. Code § 66473].

In considering tentative or final maps of proposed subdivisions, the local agency is bound by a requirement of public access to public natural resources, and must protect public access to the stream banks of public waterways, including rivers, streams, ocean coastlines, bay shorelines, lakes, and reservoirs [see Gov. Code §§ 66478.1-66478.14].

[2] Tentative Map or Parcel Map

[a] Prerequisites

No local agency will approve a tentative map, or a parcel map for which a tentative map was not required, unless the legislative body finds that the proposed subdivision, together with provisions for its design and improvement, is consistent with the general plan [Gov. Code §§ 65300-65307] or any specific plan [Gov. Code §§ 65450-65457]. A proposed subdivision is consistent with a general or specific plan only if the local agency has officially adopted such a plan and the proposed subdivision is compatible with the objectives, policies, general land uses, and programs specified in the plan [Gov. Code § 66473.5]. The consistency standard does not require an exact match between a proposed subdivision and the applicable plan; rather, it means that the subdivision must be in agreement or harmony with the plan [Sequoyah Hills Homeowners Assn. v. City of Oakland (1994) 23 Cal. App. 4th 704, 717-718, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 182 ; Greenebaum v. City of Los Angeles (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 391, 406, 200 Cal. Rptr. 237 ; for discussion of the general plan and specific plans, see §§ 579.50, 579.51].

In determining whether to approve or disapprove an application for a tentative map, the local agency must apply only those ordinances, policies,and standards in effect at the date the local agency has determined that the application is complete pursuant to Gov. Code § 65943. However, if the local agency has formally initiated proceedings to amend applicable ordinances before receiving the complete application, the local agency may apply any policies in effect on the date it approves or disapproves the tentative map [Gov. Code § 66474.2].

A local government may approve a tentative map, or a parcel map for which a tentative map was not required, if an environmental impact report was prepared with respect to the project and a finding was made pursuant to Pub. Res. Code § 21081(c) that specific economic, social, or other considerations make infeasible the mitigation measures or project alternatives identified in the environmental impact report [Gov. Code § 66474.01]. For general discussion of the environmental impact report requirement, see Ch. 418, Pollution and Other Environmental Matters .

[b] Disapproval Mandatory

A legislative body of a city or county must deny approval of a tentative map, or a parcel map for which a tentative map was not required, if it makes any of the following findings [Gov. Code § 66474]:

- That the proposed map is not consistent with applicable general plans as specified in Gov. Code § 65451.

- That the design or improvement of the proposed subdivision is not consistent with applicable general and specific plans.

- That the site is not physically suitable for the type of development.

- That the site is not physically suitable for the proposed density of development.

- That the design of the subdivision or the proposed improvements are likely to cause substantial environmental damage or substantially and avoidably injure fish or wildlife or their habitat.

- That the design of the subdivision or type of improvements is likely to cause serious health problems.

- That the design of the subdivision or the type of improvements will conflict with easements, acquired by the public at large, for access through or use of, property within the proposed subdivision.

The legislative body must also deny approval of a tentative map, or parcel mapfor which a tentative map was not required, if it finds that either (1) the resulting parcels following subdivision would be too small to sustain their agricultural use [see Gov. Code § 66474.4(b); but see Gov. Code § 66474.4(c) (when legislative body may approve subdivision with parcels smaller than those specified)], or (2) the subdivision will result in residential development not incidental to the commercial agricultural use of the land, and the legislative body finds that the land is subject to any of the following [Gov. Code § 66474.4(a); see Gov. Code § 66474.4(k) (amendments made to § 66474.4 in 2001-2002 Regular Session of Legislature apply only to contracts or easements entered into on or after January 1, 2003); see also § 579.16]:

- A contract entered into pursuant to the California Land Conservation Act of 1965 before the contract's last three years [see Gov. Code § 66474.4(f); see also Gov. Code § 51200 et seq.];

- An open-space easement entered into on or after January 1, 2003 [see Gov. Code § 51074 et seq.];

- An agricultural conservation easement entered into on or after January 1, 2003 [see Gov. Code § 10260 et seq.]; or

- A conservation easement entered into on or after January 1, 2003 [see Civ. Code § 815].

The legislative body's authority to approve a tentative or parcel map with regard to land subject to one of these easements is not limited, however, if the resulting parcels can sustain uses consistent with the easement's intent or purposes [Gov. Code § 66474.4(h), (i)].

[3] Final Map

A final map must be disapproved only for failure to meet or perform requirements or conditions that were applicable to the subdivision at the time of approval of the tentative map. That disapproval must be accompanied by a finding identifying the requirements or conditions that have not been met or performed [Gov. Code § 66473].

A legislative body must not deny approval of a final or parcel map if it (1) has previously approved a tentative map for the proposed subdivision and (2) finds that the final or parcel map is in substantial compliance with the previously approved tentative map [Gov. Code § 66474.1].

The conversion of rental property to condominiums is considered to be a subdivision under the Subdivision Map Act. A local legislative body may not approve a final map for a subdivision to be created from the conversion of residential rental property into a condominium project, a community apartment project, or a stock cooperative unless that body finds that each tenant of the proposed conversion project and each person applying to rent a unit in the residential property to be converted has received or will have received all applicable notices and rights required under the Act [Gov. Code § 66427.1(a)(1); see Gov. Code § 66427.1(a)(2) (list of notices)]. For further discussion of these requirements, see Ch. 124, Condominiums and Other Common Interest Developments, § 124.19.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawCommon Interest CommunitiesCondominiumsConversionsReal Property LawSubdivisionsLocal RegulationReal Property LawSubdivisionsState RegulationReal Property LawWater RightsNonconsumptive UsesGeneral OverviewReal Property LawZoning & Land UseComprehensive Plans

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.270

§ 579.270 Approval Conditioned on Indemnification

Under prescribed circumstances, a local agency may require, as a condition for a tentative, parcel, or final map application or approval, that the subdivider or its agent, defend, indemnify, and hold harmless the local agency or its agents, officers, and employees from any claim, action, or proceeding against the local agency as a result of the action or inaction of the local agency, advisory agency, appeal board, or legislative body in reviewing, approving, or denying the map [Gov. Code § 66474.9(a)]. Any condition imposed must include the requirement that the local agency promptly notify the subdivider of any claim, action, or proceeding and that the local agency cooperate fully in the defense. The local agency's failure to fulfill the requirement eliminates the subdivider's responsibility [Gov. Code § 66474.9(b)(2)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsIndemnityReal Property LawSubdivisionsLocal Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.271

§ 579.271 Obligations of Subdivider

[1] Dedication of Land

Local ordinance may impose a requirement of dedication or irrevocable offer of dedication of real property within the subdivision for streets and alleys, including access rights and abutter's rights, drainage, public utility easements, and other public easements [Gov. Code § 66475]. Dedications may also be required for bicycle paths, local transit facilities, easements to insure the receipt of sunlight, park or recreational purposes, and elementary schools [see Gov. Code §§ 66475.1-66475.3, 66477, 66478]. For discussion of dedication generally, see Ch. 183, Dedication .

Land dedicated other than for open space, parks, and schools must be returned to the subdivider if the public entity determines that the public purpose for which it was dedicated no longer exists. This requirement applies only to land dedicated on or after January 1, 1990 [Gov. Code § 66477.5].

[2] Reservation for Public Uses

A local ordinance may require that areas of real property within the subdivision be reserved for parks, recreational facilities, fire stations, libraries, or other public uses. The required reservation must be in accordance with an adopted specific orgeneral plan, in effect for at least 30 days before the filing of the tentative map, that contains policies for public use. The reserved area must be of a size and shape that permits the balance of the property to develop in an orderly and efficient manner and that does not make development of the remaining subdivision land infeasible [Gov. Code § 66479].

[3] Fees

Fees may be imposed by local ordinance for defraying the costs of constructing planned drainage and sanitary sewer facilities, bridges, major thoroughfares, and ground water recharge facilities [Gov. Code §§ 66483, 66484, 66484.5]. When the subdivider installs improvements for thebenefit of the subdivision, local ordinance may require the improvements to contain supplemental size, capacity, number, or length for the benefit of property not within the subdivision, although the subdivider will be reimbursed for those supplemental costs [Gov. Code §§ 66485, 66486].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationGeneral OverviewReal Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationProcedureReal Property LawSubdivisionsLocal RegulationReal Property LawZoning & Land UseImpact Fees

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.272

§ 579.272 Appeals

[1] By Developer or Tenant From Advisory Agency Action

The subdivider, or any tenant of the subject property, in the case of a proposed conversion of residential real property to a condominium project, community apartment project, or stock cooperative project, may appeal from any action of the advisory agency with respect to a tentative map to the appeal board established by local ordinance, or if none, to the legislative body [Gov. Code § 66452.5(a)(1)].

Any appeal must be filed with the clerk of the appeal board, or if there is none, with the clerk of the legislative body, within 10 days after the action of the advisory agency from which the appeal is being taken [Gov. Code § 66452.5(a)(2)]. When the appeal has been filed, the appeal board, or legislative body, must set the matter for hearing. The hearing must be held within 30 days after the date of a request filed by the subdivider or appellant. If there is no regular meeting of the legislative body within the 30-day period, the appeal may be heard at the legislative body's next regular meeting for which notice can be given, or within 60 days from the date of receiving the request, whichever period is shorter. The decision must be rendered within 10 days following the hearing's conclusion [Gov. Code § 66452.5(a)(3)]. The decision must be supported by findings that are consistent with the Subdivision Map Act and any local ordinance adopted pursuant to that Act [Gov. Code § 66452.5(e)].

[2] From Appeal Board Action

[a] When Appeal Board Acts

The subdivider, any tenant of the subject property, in the case of a conversion of residential real property, or the advisory agency may appeal from the action of the appeal board to the legislative body [Gov. Code § 66452.5(b)(1)].

Any appeal must be filed in writing with the clerk of the legislative body within 10 days after the action of the appeal board from which the appeal is being taken [Gov. Code § 66452.5(b)(1)]. After the filing of an appeal, the legislative body must set the matter for hearing, which must be held within 30 days after the date the hearing request was filed. If there is no regular meeting of the legislative body within the 30-day period, the appeal may be heard at the legislative body's next regular meeting for which notice can be given, or within 60 days from the date of receiving the request, whichever period is shorter. The decision must be rendered within 10 days following the hearing's conclusion [Gov. Code § 66452.5(b)(2)]. The decision must be supported by findings that are consistent with the Subdivision Map Act and any local ordinance adopted pursuant to that Act [Gov. Code § 66452.5(e)].

[b] When Appeal Board Fails to Act

If there is an appeal board and it fails to act on an appeal within the specified time limit, the decision from which the appeal was taken is affirmed and an appeal of that decision may be taken to the legislative body as provided in Gov. Code § 66452.5(b). If no further appeal is taken, the tentative map, insofar as it complies with applicable Act requirements and local ordinance, will be deemed approved or conditionally approved as last approved or conditionally approved by the advisory agency [Gov. Code § 66452.5(c)(1)].

If the legislative body fails to act on an appeal within the specified time limit, the tentative map, insofar as it complies with applicable Act requirements and local ordinance, will be deemed approved or conditionally approved as last approved or conditionally approved [Gov. Code § 66452.5(c)(2)].

[3] By Adversely Affected Person

An interested person adversely affected by a decision of the advisory agency or appeal board may file an appeal with the legislative body concerning any decision of the agency or appeal board. Any appeal must be filed with the clerk of the legislative body within 10 days after the action of the advisory agency or appeal board that is the subject of the appeal. On the filing of the appeal, the legislative body must set the matter for hearing. The hearing must be held within 30 days after it was requested by the subdivider or appellant. If there is no regular meeting of the legislative body within the 30-day period, the appeal may be heard at the legislative body's next regular meeting for which notice can be given, or within 60 days from the date of receiving the request, whichever period is shorter. The hearing may be a public hearing for which notice must be given in the time and manner provided [Gov. Code § 66452.5(d)(1)].

On conclusion of the hearing the governing body must, within 10 days, declareits findings based on the testimony and documents produced before it, the advisory board, or the appeal board. It may sustain, modify, reject, or overrule any recommendations or rulings of the advisory board or appeal board and may make findings that are not inconsistent with the Act or local ordinance [Gov. Code § 66452.5(d)(2)]. The decision must be supported by findings that are consistent with the Subdivision Map Act and any local ordinance adopted pursuant to that Act [Gov. Code § 66452.5(e)].

[4] Notice Requirements

Notice of each hearing provided for in Gov. Code § 66452.5 must be sent by United States mail to each tenant of the subject property, in the case of a conversion of residential real property to a condominium project, community apartment project, or stock cooperative project, at least three days prior to any hearing [Gov. Code § 66452.5(f)]. This notice requirement will be deemed satisfied if the notice complies with the legal requirements for service by mail. Fees may be collected from the subdivider for expenses incurred [Gov. Code § 66452.5(f); see Gov. Code § 66451.2].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationReview of Initial DecisionsCivil ProcedureJusticiabilityStandingGeneral OverviewReal Property LawCommon Interest CommunitiesCondominiumsConversionsReal Property LawSubdivisionsLocal Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.273

§ 579.273 Hearings Under Act

[1] Required for Signficant Deprivation of Property Right

Whenever approval of a tentative subdivision map will constitute a substantial or significant deprivation of the property rights of otherlandowners, the affected persons are entitled to reasonable notice and an opportunity to be heard before the approval occurs. For example, a landowner who claimed that the particular details of a plan would cause him injury in that the lots in the proposed subdivision were topographically unsuited for residential construction, that the design of the subdivision would hinder access to his property thereby creating substantial traffic and parking congestion, and that the county's environmental assessment of the project was inadequate, alleged a sufficient deprivation to require a hearing [Horn v. County of Ventura (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 605, 616, 156 Cal. Rptr. 718, 596 P.2d 1134] . As the first step in the subdivision map process, the tentative subdivision map is the principal time at which a deprivation of property rights would be asserted. For discussion of the approval of tentative subdivision maps, see § 579.269[2][a].

The nature, content, and timing of the requisite notice are within the determination of the affected local government. However, depending on the magnitude of the project and the degree to which a particular landowner's interests may be affected, acceptable techniques might include notice by mail to the owners of record of property situated with a designated radius of the subject property, or by the posting of notice at or near the project site, or both. Notice must occur sufficiently prior to a final decision to permit a meaningful predeprivation hearing to affected landowners [Horn v. County of Ventura (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 605, 618, 156 Cal. Rptr. 718, 596 P.2d 1134] .

[2] Notice and Attendance

Unless otherwise provided, notice of a hearing held pursuant to the Act must be given pursuant to Gov. Code §§ 65090 and 65091. If the proposed subdivision is a conversion of residential real property to a condominium project, community apartment project, or stock cooperative project, the notice must also be given by the local agency by United States mail to each tenant of the subject property, and must also include notification of the tenant's right to appear and be heard. These requirements may be satisfied by service of the notice in compliance with the requirements for service of legal process by mail [Gov. Code § 66451.3(a), (b); for discussion of Gov. Code §§ 65090, 65091, see § 579.72].

Any interested person may appear at the hearing and be heard [Gov. Code § 66451.3(d)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawAgency AdjudicationReview of Initial DecisionsReal Property LawSubdivisionsLocal Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.274

§ 579.274 Reversion

[1] Generally

Subdivided real property may be reverted to acreage pursuant to *Gov. Code §§ 66499.11-66499.20*3/4[Gov. Code § 66499.11]. Reversion proceedings may be initiated by the legislative body on its own motion or by petition of all of the landowners within the subdivision [Gov. Code § 66499.12]. The petition by the landowners must be in the form prescribed by the local agency and include the contents set forth in Gov. Code § 66499.13. A noticed public hearing must be held [Gov. Code § 66499.15].

[2] Prerequisites to Reversion

Subdivided real property may be reverted to acreage only if the legislative body finds that the dedications to be abandoned by the reversion are unnecessary for present or prospective public purposes and one of the following applies [Gov. Code § 66499.16]:

(1) All owners of an interest in the real property within the subdivision have consented to the reversion; or

(2) None of the improvements required to be made have been made within two years from the date the final or parcel map was filed for record, or within the time allowed by agreement for completion of the improvements, whichever is later; or

(3) No lots shown on the final or parcel map have been sold within five years from the date that map was filed for record.

As conditions of reversion, the legislative body must require the following [Gov. Code § 66499.17]:

- Dedications or offers of dedication necessary for the purposes specified by local ordinance following reversion.

- Retention of all previously paid fees if necessary to accomplish the purposes of the Act or local ordinance adopted pursuant to the Act.

- Retention of any portion of required improvement security or deposits necessary to accomplish the purposes of the Act and local ordinance adopted pursuant to the Act.

[3] Effect of Reversion

Reversion will be effective on the final map being filed for record by the county recorder. Thereafter, all dedications and offers of dedication not shown on the map will be of no further force or effect [Gov. Code § 66499.18].

[4] Filing of Parcel Map for Reversion

A city or county may authorize a parcel map to be filed under Gov. Code §§ 66499.11-66499.29 for the purpose of reverting to acreage land previously subdivided and consisting of four or less contiguous parcels under the same ownership. That map must be accompanied by evidence of title and nonuse or lack of necessity of any streets or easements that are to be abandoned. Any streets or easements to be left in effect after the reversion must be delineated on the map. The filing of the map with thecounty recorder will constitute legal reversion to acreage and abandonment of all streets and easements not shown on the map. It will also constitute a merger of the separate parcels into one parcel and be shown as such on the assessment roll. On the parcel map used for reverting acreage, a certificate must appear signed and acknowledged by all parties having any record title interest in the land being reverted, consenting to the preparation and filing of the parcel map [*Gov. Code § 66499.20*1/4].

[5] Resubdivision Without Reversion

Subdivided lands may be merged and resubdivided without reverting to acreage by complying with all the subdivision requirements of the Act and local ordinance. The filing of the final or parcel map will constitute legal merging of the separate parcels into one parcel and the resubdivision of that parcel. Any unused fees or deposits previously made will be credited pro rata towards any similar requirements applicable at the time of resubdivision. Any streets or easements to be left in effect after the resubdivision must be delineated on the map. The filing of the map with the county recorder will constitute legal merger and resubdivision of the land, and abandonment of all streets and easements not shown on the map [*Gov. Code § 66499.20*1/2]. *Gov. Code § 66499.20*1/2 applies only when there is a previously-recorded subdivision map. When there are recorded easements and no recorded subdivision map, the filing of a subdivision map that does not delineate the easements does not render them abandoned [Negron v. Dundee (1990) 221 Cal. App. 3d 1502, 1506-1508, 271 Cal. Rptr. 381] .

When a parcel map requirement may be waived pursuant to a local ordinance adopted under Gov. Code § 66428, property may be resubdivided without reversion as long as the property owner complies with the local ordinance requirements. For example, a resubdivision was accomplished when, as required by the county waiver ordinance, a unilateral agreement was recorded setting forth, among other matters, a statement signed by the owner and subdivider under penalty of perjury attesting that all the conditions of approval had been met. When the unilateral agreement was endorsed by the county director of planning and recorded, a subdivision was deemed effective [see Gomes v. County of Mendocino (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 977, 44 Cal. Rptr. 2d 93] .

A city or county may authorize the merger of contiguous parcels under common ownership without reverting to acreage. That ordinance will require the recordation of an instrument evidencing the merger [Gov. Code § 66499.20 3/4].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Real Property LawOwnership & TransferTransfer Not By DeedDedicationGeneral OverviewReal Property LawSubdivisionsLocal RegulationReal Property LawZoning & Land UseComprehensive Plans

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.275

§ 579.275 Exclusion

[1] Procedure

All or any portion of the real property included within the boundaries of a subdivision may be excluded from that subdivision and the recorded map altered or vacated, in accordance with the procedures set forth in Gov. Code §§ 66499.21-66499.29 [Gov. Code § 66499.21]. An exclusion proceeding is initiated by filing, in the superior court of the county in which the subdivision is located, a petition signed by the owners of at least two-thirds of the total area of the real property sought to be excluded [Gov. Code §§ 66499.21, 66499.22; see § 579.390].

After a petition for exclusion has been filed, public notice of the hearing on the petition must be given [see Gov. Code § 66499.24]. If no objection is filed, and the petitioner produces satisfactory evidence of the necessity of the exclusion, that the petitioners are the owners of two-thirds of the area sought to be excluded, and that there is no reasonable objection to making that exclusion, the requested exclusion may be ordered [Gov. Code § 66499.25].

If a material objection is made to the petition, the court will hear that objection and may adjourn the proceedings to such time as may be necessary on proper notice to the petitioners and objectors [Gov. Code § 66499.26].

[2] Effect

A certified copy of the court decree excluding any real property or ordering the alteration or vacation of any recorded map will be recorded in the office of the county recorder of the county in which that real property is situated [Gov. Code § 66499.28]. At that time, a copy of the new map will be filed for record with the county recorder, and a copy will also be filed with the local agency. A reference to this map will be sufficient identification of the real property for reassessment purposes [Gov. Code § 66499.29].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawSubdivisionsLocal Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.276

§ 579.276 Effect of Noncompliance With Act

No person shall sell, lease, or finance any parcel of real property or commence construction of any building for sale, lease, or financing thereon, except for model homes, or allow occupancy thereof, for which a final or parcel map is required by the Act or local ordinance, until a map in full compliance with the provisions of the Act and local ordinance has been filed for record by the recorder of the county in which any portion of the subdivision is located [Gov. Code § 66499.30(a), (b)].

Conveyances of any part of a division of real property for which a final or parcel map is required by the Act or local ordinance will not be made by parcel or block number, initial or other designation, unless and until that map has been filed for record by the recorder of the county in which any portion of the subdivision is located [Gov. Code § 66499.30(c)].

Gov. Code § 66499.30(a), (b), and (c) does not apply to any parcel of a subdivision offered for sale or lease, contracted for sale or lease, or soldor leased in compliance with or exempt from any law (including a local ordinance), regulating the design and improvement of subdivisions in effect at the time the subdivision was established [Gov. Code § 66499.30(d)].

Nothing in Gov. Code § 66499.30(a), (b) prohibits an offer or contract to sell, lease, or finance real property or to construct improvements thereon when that sale, lease, or financing, or the commencement of that construction, is expressly conditioned on the approval and filing of a final subdivision map or parcel map, as required under the Act [Gov. Code § 66499.30(e)]. However, a contract for the purchase and sale of four acres of real property that allowed the purchaser of the property who was the drafter of the contract to complete the purchase if, at its election, the four acres were made into a legal parcel by recording a final map or if the buyer "waived" the recording of a final map was void at its inception. The contract allowed the sale of a parcel of real property before the final map had been filed without being "expressly conditioned" on the approval and filing of a final subdivision or parcel map. It was therefore void as a matter of law at the time it was executed [Sixells, LLC v. Cannery Business Park (2008) 170 Cal. App. 4th 648, 653-654, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 235].

Nothing in Gov. Code § 66499.30(a)-(c), inclusive, in any way modifies or affects the provisions of Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.2 (public report applicable to subdivided lands transaction) [Gov. Code § 66499.30(f); for discussion of the rules governing subdivided lands transactions, see § 579.281].

For purposes of Gov. Code § 66499.30, the limitation period for commencing an action, either civil or criminal, against the subdivider or an owner of record at the time of a violation of the Act, will be tolled for any time period during which there is no constructive notice of the transaction constituting the violation, because the owner of record, at the time of the violation or at any time thereafter, failed to record a deed, lease, or financing document with the county recorder [Gov. Code § 66499.30(g)].

Each violation of the Act by a person who is the subdivider or an owner of record, at the time of the violation, of property involved in the violation is punishable by imprisonment in the county jail or in the state prison for a period not exceeding one year, by a fine not exceeding $10,000, or by both fine and imprisonment. Every other violation of the Act is a misdemeanor [Gov. Code § 66499.31].

The Act does not bar any legal, equitable, or summary remedy to which any aggrieved local agency or other public agency, or any person, firm, or corporation may otherwise be entitled, and any aggrieved entity or person may file a suit in the superior court of the county in which any real property attempted to be sold, leased, or financed in violation of the Act or local ordinance enacted pursuant to the Act is located, to restrain or enjoin any attempted or proposed subdivision or sale, lease, or financing in violation of the Act or local ordinance [Gov. Code § 66499.33].

Any deed of conveyance, sale, or contract to sell real property that has been divided, or that has resulted from a division, in violation of the provisions of the Act or local ordinance enacted pursuant to the Act, is voidable at the sole option of the grantee, buyer, or person contracting to purchase, or his or her heirs, personal representative, or trustee in insolvency or bankruptcy within one year after the date of discovery of the violation. However, the deed of conveyance, sale, or contract to sell is binding on any successor in interest of the grantee, buyer, or person contracting to purchase, other than those above enumerated. It is also binding on the grantor, vendor, or person contracting to sell, or his or her assignee, heir, or devisee [Gov. Code § 66499.32(a); see Munns v. Stenman (1957) 152 Cal. App. 2d 543, 554, 314 P.2d 67 (decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 11540)]. For general discussion and forms for use by a purchaser in rescinding a contract for the sale of real property, see Ch. 569, Vendor and Purchaser .

Any grantee, or his or her successor in interest, of real property that has been divided, or has resulted from a division, in violation of the provisions of the Act or local ordinance, may, within one year of the date of discovery of that violation, bring an action in the superior court to recover any damages he or she has suffered by reason of that division of property. The action may be brought against the person who divided the property in violation of the Act or local ordinance and against any successors in interest who have actual or constructive knowledge of that division of property [Gov. Code § 66499.32(b)].

This remedy does not limit or affect in any way the rights of a grantee or his or her successor in interest under any other provision of law [Gov. Code § 66499.32(b)]. For general discussion and forms for use by a purchaser in seeking damages based on a misleading contract for the sale of real property, see Ch. 569, Vendor and Purchaser .

Neither the voidability nor the damage remedy is available in connection with the conveyance of any parcel of real property identified in a certificate of compliance filed pursuant to Gov. Code § 66499.35 or identified in a recorded final or parcel map, from and after the date of recording [Gov. Code § 66499.32(b); for discussion of Gov. Code § 66499.35, see § 579.279]. This limitation is intended to prevent a challenge to a deed based on an allegedly invalid property division that has been previously adjudged as proper. Thus, it denies a buyer the option of voiding the contract whenever a certificate of compliance, parcel map, or final map exists to ratify the seller's compliance with the Act. However, it does not preclude a buyer from voiding a sale when the seller has violated the Act and, by doing so, has also violated the certificate of compliance, parcel map, or final map [Le Gault v. Erickson (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th

369, 374, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 692] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Criminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesMiscellaneous OffensesGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTollingReal Property LawPriorities & RecordingGeneral OverviewReal Property LawPurchase & SaleContracts of SaleGeneral OverviewReal Property LawSubdivisionsLocal Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.277

§ 579.277 Violation of Act

[1] Permit Precluded

No local agency shall issue any permit or grant any approval necessary to develop any real property that has been divided, or resulted from a division, in violation of the Act or local ordinance enacted pursuant to the Act if it finds that development of that property is contrary to public healthor safety. The authority to deny that permit or approval applies whether the applicant was the owner of record at the time of the violation, is the current owner of record, or is a vendee of the current owner of record pursuant to a contract of sale of the real property. It applies whether or not the applicant had actual or constructive knowledge of the violation at the time of the acquisition of his or her interest in that property [Gov. Code § 66499.34].

[2] Conditional Permit

If a city or county issues a permit or grants approval for the development of real property that has been divided, or resulted from a division, in violation of the Act or local ordinance enacted pursuant to the Act, it may impose only those conditions that would have been applicable to the division of the property at the time the applicant acquired his or her interest in that real property, and that had been established at that time by the Act or local ordinance [Gov. Code § 66499.34; see Keizer v. Adams (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 976, 980-981, 88 Cal. Rptr. 183, 471 P.2d 983 (decided under former Subdivison Map Act)]. However, when the applicant was the owner of record at the time of the initial violation, and by a grant of the real property, created parcels in violation of the Act or local ordinance, and that person is the current owner of record of one or more of those parcels, then the local agency may impose those conditions as would be applicable to a current division of the property. Moreover, if a conditional certificate of compliance has been filed for record under Gov. Code § 66499.35(b), only those conditions stipulated in that certificate will be applicable [Gov. Code § 66499.34].

[3] Certificate of Compliance Available

The issuance of a permit or grant of approval for development of real property, or with respect to improvements completed prior to the time a permit or grant of approval for development was required by local ordinances in effect at the time of the improvement, or with respect to improvements completed in reliance on a permit or grant of approval for development, constitutes "real property which has been approved for development," for the purposes of Gov. Code § 66499.35(c). On request by the person owning the real property or a vendee of that person pursuant to a contract of sale, the local agency must issue a certificate of compliance for the affected real property [Gov. Code § 66499.34].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawZoning & Land UseConditional Use Permits & VariancesGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsLicensesReal Property LawSubdivisionsLocal RegulationReal Property LawZoning & Land UseSpecial Permits & Variances

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.278

§ 579.278 Notice of Violation

[1] Notice of Intention to Record

Whenever a local agency has knowledge that real property has been divided in violation of the provisions of the Act or local ordinance, it must cause to be mailed by certified mail to the then current owner of record of the property a notice of intention to record a notice of violation, describing the real property in detail, naming the owners, and stating that an opportunity will be given to the owner to present evidence. The notice will specify a time, date, and place for a meeting at which the owner may present evidence to the legislative body or advisory agency why the notice should not be recorded. The notice must also contain a description of the violations and an explanation of why the subject parcel is not lawful under Gov. Code § 66412.6(a) or (b) [Gov. Code § 66499.36].

[2] Determination of Violation

The meeting between the owners and the local agency must take place no sooner than 30 days and no later than 60 days from the date of mailing. If, within 15 days of receipt of the notice, the owner of the real property fails to inform the local agency of his or her objection to recording the notice of violation, the legislative body or advisory agency will record the notice of violation with the county recorder. If, after the owner has presented evidence, it is determined that there has been no violation, the local agency will mail a clearance letter to the then current owner of record. If, however, after the owner has presented evidence, the legislative body or advisory agency determines that the property has in fact been illegally divided, it will record the notice of violation with the county recorder. The notice of violation, when recorded, will be deemed to be constructive notice of the violation to all successors in interest in that property. The county recorder will index those names of the fee owners in the general index [Gov. Code § 66499.36].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawPriorities & RecordingGeneral OverviewReal Property LawSubdivisionsLocal RegulationReal Property LawZoning & Land UseNonconforming Uses

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.279

§ 579.279 Certificate of Compliance

[1] Request by Owner or Vendee

Any person owning real property or a vendee of that person pursuant to a contract of sale may request, and a local agency must determine, whether that real property complies with the provisions of the Act and local ordinances enacted pursuant to the Act [Gov. Code § 66499.35(a)]. In determining whether a parcel complies with the provisions of the Act and of local ordinances enacted pursuant to it, the presumption of lawful creation set forth in Gov. Code § 66412.6(b) is not operative [Gov. Code § 66412.6(b)]. On making a determination of compliance the city or county will cause a certificate of compliance to be filed with the recorder of the county in which the real property is located. The local agency may impose a reasonable fee to cover the cost of issuing and recording the certificate of compliance [Gov. Code § 66499.35(a)].

A certificate of compliance must be issued for any real property that has been approved for development pursuant to Gov. Code § 66499.34 [Gov.Code § 66499.35(c)]. Because the Subdivision Map Act specifically exempts any parcel that was sold in compliance with or exempt from any law regulating the design and improvement of subdivisions in effect at the time the subdivision was established, a certificate of compliance must be issued on request for those parcels as well. This also applies to parcels that were created before 1893 when the subdivision of land was first regulated in California [Lakeview Meadows Ranch v. County of Santa Clara (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 593, 599, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615 ; see Gov. Code § 66499.30(d) (exempting from current law parcels that complied with law in effect at time they were subdivided)].

When a certificate of compliance is recorded, it is a conclusive determination that parcels have not merged, and any claim of merger must be reviewed by challenge to the merger determination and not by a later nuisance action against the landowner [Stell v. Jay Hales Development Co. (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1214, 1226-1228, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 220] .

[2] Conditional Certificate

If a local agency determines that the real property is not in compliance, it will issue a conditional certificate of compliance. A local agency may, as a condition to granting a conditional certificate of compliance, impose those conditions that would have been applicable to the division of the property at the time the applicant acquired his or her interest therein, and that had been established at that time by the Act or local ordinance. However, when the applicant was the owner of record at the time of the initial violation and, by a grant of the real property, created parcels in violation of the Act or local ordinance, and that person is the current owner of record of one or more of those parcels, then the local agency may impose those conditions that would be applicable to a current division of the property. On making that determination and establishing those conditions the city or county will cause a conditional certificate of compliance to be filed with the recorder of the county in which the real property is located. That certificate will serve as notice that the fulfillment and implementation of those conditions will be required prior to subsequent issuance of a permit or other grant of approval for development of the property [Gov. Code § 66499.35(b)].

Compliance with those conditions will not be required until a permit or other grant of approval for development of that property is issued by the local agency [Gov. Code § 66499.35(b)].

[3] Contents of Certificate

A certificate of compliance must identify property and state that the division of the property complies with applicable provisions of the Subdivision Map Act and relevant local ordinances [Gov. Code § 66499.35(a)]. The certificate or conditional certificate must also include all of the following information as well as any other information the local agency deems necessary: (1) the name or names of the owners of the parcel or parcels; (2) the assessor parcel number or numbers; (3) the number of parcels for which the certificate or conditional certificate is being issued and recorded; (4) the legal description of the parcel or parcels for which the certificate or conditional certificate is being issued and recorded; (5) any conditions to be fulfilled and implemented before a permit or other grant of development approval will be issued; and (6) a prescribed notice stating the effect of the certificate [Gov. Code § 66499.35(f)(1)].

A recorded final map, parcel map, or official map will constitute a certificate of compliance with respect to the parcels of real property described in it [Gov. Code § 66499.35(d)]. An official map prepared pursuant to Gov. Code § 66499.52(b) will constitute a certificate of compliance with respect to the parcels of real property described therein and may be filed for record, whether or not the parcels are contiguous, so long as the parcels are within the same section or, with the approval of the city engineer or county surveyor, within contiguous sections of land [Gov. Code § 66499.35(e)].

[4] Antiquated Subdivision Maps

Certificates of compliance may be obtained without compliance with Subdivision Map Act requirements for parcels of a subdivision that were offered for sale or lease, contracted for sale or lease, or sold or leased in compliance with, or under an exemption from, any law regulating the design and improvement of subdivisions in effect at the time the subdivision was established [Gov. Code § 66499.30(d)]. This exemption may apply to parcels created before 1893 when the subdivision of land was first regulated in California [Gardner v. County of Sonoma (2003) 29 Cal. 4th 990, 999, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 869, 62 P.3d 103 ; Lakeview Meadows Ranch v. County of Santa Clara (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 593, 599, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615] . For purposes of this exception, a subdivision is deemed established on the date of recordation of the final map or parcel map [Gardner v. County of Sonoma (2003) 29 Cal. 4th 990, 999, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 869, 62 P.3d 103 ; Gov. Code § 66412.7]. In the case of (1) maps filed for approval before March 4, 1972, and subsequently approved by the local agency, or (2) subdivisions exempted from map requirements by a certificate of exception applied for before this date and subsequently issued by the local agency under local ordinance, the subdivision will be deemed established on the date the map or application for a certificate of exception was filed with the local agency [Gov. Code § 66412.7].

In the absence of an applicable subdivision statute, ordinance, or regulation, an antiquated subdivision map [see Gardner v. County of Sonoma (2003) 29 Cal. 4th 990, 996, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 869, 62 P.3d 103 ("antiquated subdivision maps" are subdivision maps recorded before 1893)] does not in and of itself establish subdivisions or create legal parcelsfor which certificates of compliance must be issued [Gardner v. County of Sonoma (2003) 29 Cal. 4th 990, 1006, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 869, 62 P.3d 103] . In Gardner, the Supreme Court reasoned that because Gov. Code § 66499.30(d) recognizes only parcels or parcel sales that were made in compliance with or were exempt from the provisions of any law "regulating the design and improvement of subdivisions in effect at the time the subdivision was established," the logical inference was that Gov. Code § 66412.7's requirement of approval for maps filed before March 4, 1972, must likewise be related to subdivision design and improvement. The Court therefore concluded that Gov. Code §§ 66412.7 and 66499.30(d) protect subdivisions that either already were approved by local agencies, or were deemed exempt under previous subdivision laws in effect at the time the subdivisions were established [Gardner v. County of Sonoma (2003) 29 Cal. 4th 990, 1000, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 869, 62 P.3d 103] . The map at issue in Gardner, which was recorded in Sonoma County in 1865, did not qualify under these statutes because there was no statewide mechanism generally authorizing local agencies to review or approve subdivision maps before 1893 and there was no other subdivision statute, ordinance, or regulation specifically authorizing public agency approval of subdivisions in Sonoma County in 1865 [Gardner v. County of Sonoma (2003) 29 Cal. 4th 990, 1000, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 869, 62 P.3d 103] .

Furthermore, unlike a modern-day final map or parcel map, which on recordation ordinarily converts what was formerly a single parcel into as many separate lots as appear on the map, the recordation of an antiquated subdivision map without something more such as a conveyance would not have worked a legal subdivision of the property shown on that map. Thus, property owners who recorded subdivision maps in Sonoma County in 1865 generally remained free to deed parcels and lots as they desired without regard to the depicted subdivisions [Gardner v. County of Sonoma (2003) 29 Cal. 4th 990, 1002, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 869, 62 P.3d 103] . It was undisputed in Gardner that the property in question remained intact under sequential owners throughout its history. Consequently, the plaintiffs could not fit their case within the decisions recognizing the establishment of subdivisions by conveyance [Gardner v. County of Sonoma (2003) 29 Cal. 4th 990, 1003, 129 Cal. Rptr. 2d 869, 62 P.3d 103] .

A map that was undisputedly recorded in compliance with subdivision map laws in effect in 1915 was not valid under the Subdivision Map Act, because the statutes in effect in 1915 did not regulate the design and improvement of subdivisions as required by Gov. Code § 66499.30(d) [Witt Home Ranch., Inc. v. County of Sonoma (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 543, 564, 81 Cal. Rptr. 3d 123]. As a result of this decision, the Act's grandfather provisions do not validate subdivision maps approved under the statutes in effect from 1893 (the date of the state's first regulation of private subdivision maps) through 1915 [Witt Home Ranch., Inc. v. County of Sonoma (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 543, 548, 81 Cal. Rptr. 3d 123]. The reasoning of Witt Home Ranch was subsequently applied by a court holding that maps recorded in compliance with the 1907 statewide subdivision map law do not come within the scope of the Subdivision Map Act grandfather clause [Abernathy Valley, Inc. v. County of Solano (2009) 173 Cal. App. 4th 42, 51, 92 Cal. Rptr. 3d 459] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
GovernmentsLocal GovernmentsLicensesReal Property LawSubdivisionsLocal Regulation

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.280

§ 579.280 Review of Decisions Under Subdivision Map Act

[1] Limitation Period

Any action or proceeding to attack, review, set aside, void, or annul the decision of an advisory agency, appeal board, or legislative body concerning a subdivision, or any of the proceedings, acts, or determinations taken, done, or made prior to that decision, or to determine the reasonableness, legality, or validity of any condition attached thereto, including, but not limited to, the approval of a tentative or final map, must be commenced, and service of summons effected, with 90 days after the date of the decision. Thereafter all persons are barred from any such action or proceeding or any defense of invalidity or unreasonableness of that decision or of those proceedings, actions, or determinations [Gov. Code § 66499.37]. The requirement that service of summons be within 90 days is mandatory and not subject to equitable tolling. Failure to satisfy it will subject a complaint to mandatory dismissal [Maginn v. City of Glendale (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 1102, 1108-1110, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 639] .

Moreover, even if an action is brought within the statutory period, it may be barred by laches if an unjustified delay has operated to the injury of another. For example, laches might bar an action if the affected landowner expended substantial time, expense, and effort in processing the application with the county over a lengthy period of time and expended substantial additional time, money, and expense based on the approved application to his or her detriment [Resource Defense Fund v. County of Santa Cruz (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 800, 809-810, 184 Cal. Rptr. 371] .

[2] Priority on Court Calendar

Any proceeding based on a decision of an advisory agency, appeal board, or legislative body will take precedence over all matters of the court calendar except criminal, probate, eminent domain, and forcible entry and unlawful detainer proceedings [Gov. Code § 66499.37].

[3] Mediation of Disputes Involving Subdivision Map Act Time Limits

Once an action has been filed, a dispute involving a failure to meet time limits specified in the Subdivision Map Act may be resolved by mediation [Gov. Code § 66031(a)(3)]. The process may be initiated by invitation from the court within five days after the deadline for the respondent or defendant to file a response to the action [Gov. Code § 66031(b)].

If the parties accept the court's invitation to mediate the dispute, all time limits with respect to the underlying action will be tolled while the mediator conducts the mediation [Gov. Code § 66032(a)]. If the parties agree to mediate, a mediator is chosen according to prescribed procedures [Gov. Code § 66031(c)]. If the parties do not accept the court's invitation or if they cannot agree on a mediator, the civil action will proceed. The court is not permitted to draw any implication from either party's refusal to mediate [Gov. Code § 66031(d)]. Every 90 days after commencement of mediation, the civil action will be reactivated unless the parties either arrive at a settlement and implement it, or agree by written stipulation to extend the mediation for another 90 days [Gov. Code § 66032(d)].

If the mediation does not resolve the action, the court has discretion to schedule a settlement conference. If the action is subsequently tried onits merits, the same judge who presided at the conference will preside at trial [Gov. Code § 66034]. In the event the mediation is unsuccessful and the action goes to trial, the following provisions will apply [Gov. Code § 66032(e); see Evid. Code § 1119]:

- Evid. Code § 703.5, which precludes the mediator from testifying at trial; and

- Evid. Code § 1115 et seq., which govern evidentiary issues in mediation proceedings and, among other things, limit the use at trial of evidence derived from mediation proceedings.

The Judicial Council is authorized to adopt rules, forms, and standards necessary to implement the mediation procedures [Gov. Code § 66035].

For discussion of Evid. Code §§ 703.5 and 1115 et seq., along with general discussion of mediation, see Ch. 31, Mediation .

[4] Standard of Review

[a] Approval of Tentative Subdivision Map

Approval of a tentative subdivision map is a quasi-judicial act subject to judicial review for abuse of discretion under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 [Youngblood v. Board of Supervisors (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 644, 651 n. 2, 150 Cal. Rptr. 242, 586 P.2d 556 (decided under prior law)].

[b] Approval of Final Subdivision Map

Approval of the final subdivision map is a ministerial act reviewable by ordinary mandamus pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1085. Once the tentative map is approved, the developer often must expend substantial sums to comply with the conditions attached to that approval. These expenditures will result in the construction of improvements consistent with the proposed subdivisions, but often inconsistent with alternative uses of the land. Consequently, it is only fair to the developer and to the public interest to require the governing body to render its discretionary decision whether and on what conditions to approve the proposed subdivision when it acts on the tentative map. Approval of the final map thus becomes a ministerial act once the appropriate officials certify that it is in substantial compliance with the previously approved tentative map [Youngblood v. Board of Supervisors (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 644, 653 n. 4, 655-656, 150 Cal. Rptr. 242, 586 P.2d 556 (decided under prior law)].

However, when a tentative map is approved subject to conditions and those conditions remain unfulfilled, approval of a final subdivision map is not a ministerial act [Soderling v. City of Santa Monica (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 501, 509, 191 Cal. Rptr. 140 ; see Gov. Code § 66473].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewRemediesMandamusAdministrative LawJudicial ReviewStandards of ReviewAbuse of DiscretionCivil ProcedureAlternative Dispute ResolutionMediationsReal Property LawSubdivisionsLocal RegulationReal Property LawZoning & Land UseJudicial Review

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.281

§ 579.281 Subdivided Lands Act

The Subdivided Lands Act is contained in Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq. It is a limited economic regulation of the use of real property imposed to protect the members of the public exposed to that land use. Its object is the prevention of fraud and sharp practices in a type of real estate transaction peculiarly open to those abuses [People v. Byers (1979) 90 Cal. App. 3d 140, 148, 153 Cal. Rptr. 249] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawSubdivisionsState Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.282

§ 579.282 Subdivided Lands and Subdivision

[1] Within Subdivided Lands Act

"Subdivided lands" and "subdivision" refer to improved or unimproved land or lands divided or proposed to be divided for the purpose of sale, lease, or financing, whether immediate or future, into five or more lots or parcels [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000(a)]. Those terms also include improved or unimproved land or lands, lot or lots, or parcel or parcels, of any size, in which, for the purpose of sale, lease, or financing, whether immediate or future, five or more undivided interests are created or are proposed to be created. However, certain undivided interests are excluded [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000.1].

Additionally, "subdivided lands" and "subdivision" include (1) any planned development, as defined in Bus. & Prof. Code § 11003, containing five or more lots; (2) any community apartment project as defined in Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004, containing five or more apartments; (3) any condominium project containing five or more condominiums, as defined in Civ. Code § 783; (4) certain stock cooperatives, as defined in Bus. & Prof. Code § 11003.2, having two or more shareholders; and (5) any limited-equity housing cooperative, as defined in Bus. & Prof. Code § 11003.4. In addition, any accompanying memberships or other rights of privileges created in, or in connection with, any of these forms of development, as well as any interests or memberships in any owners' association created in connection with any of these developments, are also subject to the Subdivided Lands Act. Time-share plans, exchange programs, incidental benefits, and short term product subject to the Vacation Ownership and Time-Share Act of 2004 [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11210 et seq. (operative July 1, 2005), discussed in § 579.286] are not subdivisions or subdivided lands for purposes of the Subdivided Lands Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004.5].

The leasing of apartments in a community apartment project as defined in Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004 is also subject to the Subdivided Lands Act [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000].

[2] Exempt From Subdivided Lands Act

Land or lands sold by lots or parcels of not less than 160 acres that are designated by such lot or parcel description by government surveys andthat appear as such on the current roll of the county in which those lands are situated are not

"subdivided lands" or a "subdivision" within the meaning of Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000, unless that land or lands are divided or proposed to be divided for the purpose of sale for oil and gas purposes [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000(a)].

The Subdivided Lands Act does not apply to the leasing of apartments, offices, stores, or similar space within an apartment building, industrial building, commercial building, or mobilehome park, as defined in Health & Safety Code § 18214. However, leases in a mobilehome park are subject to the Subdivided Lands Act when acceptance of a mandatory term of more than five years is a prerequisite to tenancy [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000(a)].

The Subdivided Lands Act does not apply to the proposed sale or lease of lots or other interests in a subdivision in which lots or other interests are either [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.3]:

- Limited to industrial or commercial uses by zoning; or

- Limited to industrial or commercial uses by a declaration of CC&Rs that has been recorded in the official records of the county or counties in which the subdivision is located.

The Act does not apply to subdivided land that is offered or proposed to be offered for sale, lease, or financing by most public agencies [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.6].

For transactions entered into on or after January 1, 2001 [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.35(c)], the Subdivided Lands Act does not apply to the proposed sale or lease of five or more lots, parcels, or other interests in a subdivision or the sale of one or more lots or parcels when the subject property is intended to be further subdivided into five or more lots, parcels, or other subdivision interests to any person who acquires the property in order to engage in the business of constructing residential, commercial, or industrial buildings, or for the purpose of resale or lease to persons engaged in such a business. To qualify for this exemption, the purchase or lease agreement (or a separate disclosure document) must include a statement or provision that the purchaser or lessee is required to comply with the applicable provisions of the Subdivided Lands Act before offering for sale or lease any lot, parcel, or other subdivision interest acquired pursuant to the exemption [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.35(a)].

Finally, the Subdivided Lands Act does not apply to subdivisions that are offered for sale in California, but located entirely outside California [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000(c); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 10249.1 ("subdivision" defined for purposes of regulating out-of-state land promotions)].

Although not exempt from the Subdivided Lands Act itself, some situations do not require a notice of intention [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 11010.4, 11010.7; see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.10 (alternative requirements)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawPurchase & SaleContracts of SaleGeneral OverviewReal Property LawSubdivisionsState Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.283

§ 579.283 Public Report

[1] Application

Except as otherwise specifically provided, any person who intends to offer subdivided lands within California for sale or lease must file with the Department of Real Estate an application for a public report consisting of a notice of intention and a completed questionnaire form. The notice of intention must contain specified information about the subdivided lands and the proposed offering. The information required in the notice includes the identities of the owner and subdivider, the legal description and area of the land, the condition of title to the land, a statement of the terms of disposition of the land, including copies of proposed contracts, any provisions for public utilities, and other essential information [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010].

If the developer proposes to create a senior citizen housing development, as defined in Civ. Code § 51.3, through phased development and marketing of subdivision interests, additional information is required [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010.05].

[2] Issued by Commissioner

In subdivisions for which a notice of intention is required, no person shall sell, lease, or offer for sale or lease in California any parcels in a subdivision without first obtaining a public report from the Real Estate Commissioner [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.2]. The Commissioner will make an examination of any subdivision and issue to the subdivider a public report authorizing the sale or lease of the parcels within the subdivision. The report will contain the data obtained in accordance with Bus. & Prof. Code § 11010 and that the Commissioner determines is necessary [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018].

Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.5 provides for the issuance of a public report on specified findings by the Commissioner.

[3] Denial of Public Report

[a] Grounds

The grounds for the denial of a public report are the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018]:

- Failure to comply with any of the provisions of the Subdivided Lands Act or pertinent regulations.
- The sale or lease would constitute misrepresentation to or deceit or fraud of the purchasers or lessees.
- Inability to deliver title or other contracted interest.
- Inability to demonstrate that adequate financial arrangements have been made for all offsite improvements.
- Inability to demonstrate that adequate financial arrangements have been made for any community, recreation, or other facilities included in the offering.
- Failure to make a showing that the parcels can be used for the purpose for which they are offered; and in the case of a subdivision being offered for residential purposes, failure to make a showing that vehicular access and a source of potable domestic water will be available.
- Failure to provide in the contract or other writing the use or uses for which the parcels are offered, together with any covenants or conditions relative thereto.
- Agreements or bylaws to provide for management or other services pertaining to common facilities in the offering, which fail to comply with the regulations of the Commissioner.
- Failure to demonstrate that adequate financial arrangements have been made for any guaranty or warranty included in the offering.

[b] Objection to Denial

Any subdivider objecting to the denial of a public report may, within 30 days after receiving the order of denial, file a written request for a hearing. The Commissioner will hold the hearing within 20 days unless the party requesting the hearing requests a postponement. If the hearing is not held within 20 days after request for a hearing is received plus the period of any requested postponement or if a proposed decision is not rendered within 45 days after submission and an order adopting or rejecting that proposed decision is not issued within 15 days thereafter, the order of denial will be rescinded and a public report issued [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11018.3].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsRight to HearingStatutory RightReal Property LawPurchase & SaleContracts of SaleGeneral OverviewReal Property LawSubdivisionsState Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.284

§ 579.284 Desist Order

[1] Grounds for Issuance

Whenever the Commissioner determines from available evidence that a person has done any of the following, that person may be ordered to desist and refrain from those acts and omissions or from the further sale or lease of interests in the subdivision until the condition has been corrected [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11019(a)]:

- Violated or caused the violation of any provision of Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq. or the regulations pertaining thereto.

- Violated or caused a violation of Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17537, 17537.1, or 17539.1 (representations to public regarding contests or prizes) in advertising or promoting the sale of subdivision interests.

- Failed to fulfill representations or assurances with respect to the subdivision or the subdivision offering on which the Department relied in issuing a subdivision public report.

- Failed to inform the Department of material changes that have occurred in the subdivision or subdivision offering that have caused the subdivision public report to be misleading or inaccurate or that would have caused the Department to deny a public report if the conditions had existed at the time of issuance.

[2] Review Procedure

On receipt of that order, the person to whom the order is directed must immediately discontinue activities in accordance with the order [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11019(b)]. Any person to whom the order is directed may, within 30 days of its service on him or her, file with the Commissioner a written request for a hearing to contest the order. The Commissioner will then assign the matter to the office of Administrative Hearings to conduct a hearing for findings of fact and determinations of the issues set forth in the order [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11019(c)].

If the hearing is not commenced within 15 days after receipt of the request or on the date to which continued with the agreement of the person requesting the hearing, or if the decision of the Commissioner is not rendered within 30 days after completion of the hearing, the order will be deemed vacated [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11019(c)]. Service and proof of service of an order issued by the Commissioner pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 11019 may be made in a manner and on those persons as prescribed for the service of summons in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 415.10-417.40 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11019(d)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationDecisionsGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsRight to HearingStatutory RightReal Property LawPurchase & SaleContracts of SaleGeneral OverviewReal Property LawSubdivisionsState Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.285

§ 579.285 Violations

[1] Injunctive Relief

Whenever the Commissioner believes from satisfactory evidence that a violation of the Subdivided Lands Act has occurred or is about to occur, he or she may bring an action against the violator or would-be violator to enjoin that person from continuing that violation or doing any acts in furtherance of that violation. Additionally, when the circumstances warrant it, a receiver may be appointed to manage the defendant's business [Bus. & Prof. Code § 10081].

[2] Accrual of Cause of Action

For the purpose of calculating the period of any applicable statute of limitations in any action or proceeding, either civil or criminal, involving any violation of Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq., the cause of action will be deemed to have accrued not earlier than the time of recording, with thecounty recorder of the county in which the property is situated, of any deed, lease, or contract of sale conveying property sold or leased in violation of Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq. and that describes that lot or parcel. Moreover, any such action may be maintained at any time before the recording of those instruments [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11021].

[3] Misrepresentation

It is unlawful for any owner, subdivider, agent, employee of that subdivision, or other person with intent directly or indirectly to sell or lease any subdivided land, to authorize, use, direct, or aid in the publication, distribution, or circularization of any advertisement, radio broadcast, or telecast concerning subdivided lands, that contains any statement, pictorial representation, or sketch that is false or misleading [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11022(a)]. However, unless the publisher, employee, or printer of the publication has actual knowledge of its falsity or has an interest either as an owner or agent in the subdivided lands so advertised, he or she is not liable [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11022(c)].

Marketing advertisements may be, but are not required to be, submitted, along with a prescribed fee, to the Department of Real Estate for approval before they are disseminated. If disapproval of the submitted advertisement is not communicated within 15 days, it will be deemed approved. The Department, however, is not precluded from disapproving a later use of the same or similar advertising [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11022(b)].

[4] Recission of Contract

A person who has made an offer to purchase an interest in certain undivided interests in which five or more undivided parcels were created as defined in Bus. & Prof. Code § 11001.1 has the right to rescind any contract resulting from the acceptance of that offer until midnight of the third calendar day following the day on which the offer to purchase was executed [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000.2(a)]. The owner must, in accordance with Real Estate Commissioner regulations, clearly and conspicuously disclose the right of rescission to all prospective purchasers of undivided interests, and must furnish to each offeror a form with which to exercise that right [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000.2(b)].

For general discussion and forms for use by a purchaser in rescinding a contract for the sale of real property, see Ch. 569, Vendor and Purchaser .

The availability of rescission is limited to executory contracts between purchaser and subdivider. Subsequent purchasers of subdivided land do not have standing to seek rescission of the original sale from the subdivider to the subsequent purchaser's predecessor in interest [Drake v. Martin (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 984, 995-996, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 704] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Antitrust & Trade LawConsumer ProtectionFalse AdvertisingState RegulationCivil ProcedureRemediesInjunctionsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime LimitationsReal Property LawPurchase & SaleRemediesRescission & RestitutionReal Property LawSubdivisionsState Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.286

§ 579.286 Regulation of Time-Share Developments

[1] The Vacation Ownership and Time-Share Act of 2004 (VOTSA)

The Vacation Ownership and Time-Share Act of 2004 (VOTSA) [Bus & Prof. Code § 11210 et seq.], which went into effect on July 1, 2005 [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11288], provides for the disclosure to purchasers and prospective purchasers of time-share plans and exchange programs, as defined, by time-share developers and exchange companies. It requires specified time-share plans offered for sale in California or created and existing in California to comply with specified fee, registration, notice, and disclosure requirements with regard to oral and written communications, including the issuance of a public report by the Real Estate Commissioner.

Time-share plans, exchange programs, incidental benefits, and short-term products that are subject to VOTSA are not "subdivisions" or "subdivided lands" within the meaning of the Subdivided Lands Act, and are exempt from other specified provisions of existing law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11004.5(g); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq. (Subdivided Lands Act)].

Regulation of time-share plans and exchange programs is an exclusive power and function of the state [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11280(a)]. However, no provision of VOTSA can be construed to violate any zoning, subdivision, or building code or other real estate use law, ordinance, or regulation [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11280(b)].

[2] Scope and Application of VOTSA

[a] Projects That Must Be Registered

VOTSA applies to all of the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11211.5]:

- Time-share plans with an accommodation or component site in California [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11212(a), (f), (z) ("accommodation," "component site," and "time-share plan" defined)];

- Time-share plans without an accommodation or component site in California, if those plans are sold or offered for sale to any individual located in California;

- Exchange programs Bus. & Prof. Code § 11212(l); and

- Short term products [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11212(v) ("short term product" defined)].

The application of VOTSA to single site time-share plans and component sites of multisite plans that are located outside California that are offered for sale or sold in California is somewhat limited [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11211.5(d)].

[b] Exempt Projects

VOTSA does not apply to any of the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11211.5(b)]:

- Time-share plans, whether or not an accommodation is located in California, consisting of 10 or fewer time-share interests.

- Time-share plans, whether or not an accommodation is located in California, the use of which extends over any period of three years or less.

- Time-share plans, whether or not an accommodation is located in California, under which the prospective purchaser's total financial obligation will be equal to or less than $3,000 during the entire term of the time-share plan.

Use of an exchange program by owners of time-share interests to secure access to other accommodations does not affect the exemption described in the first bullet, above [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11211.5(b)(1)].

[c] Effect of VOTSA on Time-Share Plans Registered Before July 1, 2005

All registrations of time-share plans that were in effect on July 1, 2005, remain in full force and effect and will be considered registered pursuant to VOTSA [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11219(b)(1)]. These plans must fully comply with VOTSA when they seek amendment or renewal of their existing registrations. While an amendment or renewal is pending, the existing registration will continue in full force and effect [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11219(b)(2)].

Any existing injunction or temporary restraining order that prohibits unregistered practice of time-share developers, time-share plans, or their agents is not invalidated by the enactment of VOTSA and will continue to have full force and effect on and after July 1, 2005 [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11219(c)].

Time-share plans that are registered as Qualified Resort Vacation Club Projects under prior law will continue to operate under that law notwithstanding VOTSA [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11219(a)].

[3] Registration Requirements

Any person who, to any individual located in California, sells, offers to sell, or attempts to solicit prospective purchasers to purchase a time-share interest, or any person who creates a time-share plan with an accommodation in California, must register the plan with the Commissioner, unless the plan is otherwise exempt [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11226(a); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11225 (exemptions)]. A developer, or any of its agents, may not sell, offer, or dispose of a time-share interest in the state unless [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11226(b)]:

- All necessary registration requirements are provided and approved by the Real Estate Commissioner;

- The sale, offer, or disposition is otherwise permitted by VOTSA; or
- An order revoking or suspending a registration is in effect.

In this context, the terms "sells," "offers to sell," and "attempts to solicit prospective purchasers" include any written or oral communication that is disseminated or otherwise used in California for the purpose of inducing a resident to travel outside California for a required presentation with the primary intention of causing the person to purchase time-share interests located outside California [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2805.5].

[4] Public Report

A developer must prepare a public report that fully and accurately discloses the facts concerning the developer and time-share plan that are required by VOTSA and its implementing regulations. The report must be provided to each purchaser of a time-share interest in any time-share plan at the time of purchase. It must be written and dated, and the purchaser must certify its receipt in writing [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11234]. There are different content requirements for the report depending on whether it is for (1) a single site time-share plan [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11234(a); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2809.1], (2) a specific time-share interest multisite time-share plan [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11234(a), (b); 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 2809.1, 2809.2], or (3) a nonspecific time-share interest multisite time-share plan [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11234(c); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2809.3].

The Commissioner must issue a final public report if all registration requirements have been met and if all deficiencies and substantive inadequacies in the application for final public report have been corrected [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11227(a)].

The term of a final public report is five years, but may be renewed on application and submission of any additional information the Commissioner may require [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11228].

The Commissioner may refuse to issue a public report if the applicant fails to comply with any provisions of VOTSA and its implementing regulations [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11229(b)].

[5] Prohibited Marketing Practices

VOTSA includes numerous, specific prohibitions on marketing practices related to misrepresentation of information and failure to give disclosures required to be made to prospective purchasers [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11245; but see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11217]. A violation constitutes a public offense punishable by fine, imprisonment, or both [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11287].

[6] Resolution of Disputes Between Time-Share Interest Owners or Association and Developer

Any procedure provided for in a sales contract or in the time-share instruments implemented after July 1, 2005, for resolving a dispute or claim between a time-share interest owner and a developer, or any provision in the time-share instruments implemented after July 1, 2005, setting forth terms, conditions, and procedures for resolving a dispute of a claim between an association and the developer, must, at a minimum, provide that the dispute or claim resolution process be conducted in accordance with the following rules [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11275(a)]:

- The developer must advance the fees necessary to initiate the dispute or claim resolution process, with the costs and fees, including ongoing costs and fees, if any, to be paid as agreed by the parties. If they cannot agree then the costs and fees are to be paid as determined by the person or persons presiding at the dispute or claim resolution proceeding or hearing.

- There must be a neutral or impartial person to administer and preside over the claim or dispute resolution process.

- The selection of the person who will administer and preside over the claim or dispute resolution process must be made within a specified period of time, which in no event may be more than 60 days from initiation of the claim or dispute resolution process. The person selected may be challenged for bias.

- The venue of the claim or dispute resolution process must be in the county where the time-share is located unless the parties agree to some other location.

- The claim or dispute resolution process must be commenced in a prompt and timely manner.

- The claim or dispute resolution process must be conducted in accordance with rules and procedures that are reasonable and fair to the parties.

- The claim or dispute resolution process must conclude in a prompt and timely manner, including the issuance of any decision or ruling.

- The person presiding at the claim or dispute resolution process must be authorized to provide all recognized remedies available in law or equity for any cause of action that is the basis of the proceeding or hearing. The parties may authorize the limitation or prohibition of punitive damages.

If the claim or dispute resolution process provides or allows for a judicial remedy in accordance with the laws of California, it will be presumed that the proceeding or hearing satisfies the provisions listed above [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11275(c)].

[6A] Regular and Special Assessments

The owners' association is permitted to levy regular and special assessments against the time-share owners and to secure a lien against delinquent assessments [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11265]. Assessments are delinquent 30 days after they become due unless the time-share instrument provides a longer period. If an assessment is delinquent, the association may recover the following [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11265.1(a)]:

- Reasonable costs incurred in collecting the delinquent assessment, including attorneys' fees;

- A late charge not exceeding 10 percent of the assessment or $10, whichever is greater, unless the time-share instrument specifies a smaller amount; and

- Interest on the delinquent assessment, reasonable fees and costs of collection, and reasonable attorneys' fees.

Regular assessments are exempt from execution by the association's judgment creditor only to the extent necessary for the association to perform essential services, such as paying for utilities and insurance. The exemption does not apply to [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11265.1(b)]:

- Consensual pledges, liens, or encumbrances that have been approved by the owners;

- State tax liens; or

- Liens for labor or materials supplied to common areas.

[7] Investigation of Violations and Enforcement of VOTSA

Responsibility for investigating violations of VOTSA and enforcing its provisions falls on the Real Estate Commissioner [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 11282-11284].

Violations of specified provisions of VOTSA are public offenses punishable by fine and/or imprisonment [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 11286, 11287].

[8] Owners' and Association's Right to Relief

Any time-share interest owner or association may bring an action for damages or injunctive or declaratory relief against a developer, seller, or marketer of time-share interests, or an escrow holder, or the managing entity for a violation of VOTSA. This right to relief does not exclude other remedies provided by law [Bus. & Prof. Code § 11285].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Antitrust & Trade LawConsumer ProtectionFalse AdvertisingState RegulationCivil ProcedureAlternative Dispute ResolutionGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesInjunctionsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawCommon Interest CommunitiesTimesharesReal Property LawSubdivisionsState Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.287

§ 579.287 Interstate Land Sales

The Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act is set forth in 15 U.S.C. § 1701 et seq. Designed to protect against fraud in interstate land sales, it insures that the buyer is informed of the facts necessary to make an informed decision about whether or not to purchase property [see Law v. Royal Palm Beach (5th Cir. 1978) 578 F.2d 98, 99] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawPurchase & SaleInterstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.288

§ 579.288 Definitions

"Subdivision" means any land that is located in any state or in a foreign country and is divided or is proposed to be divided into lots, whether contiguous or not, for the purpose of sale or lease as a part of a common promotional plan [15 U.S.C. § 1701(3)].

"Common promotional plan" means a plan, undertaken by a single developer or a group of developers acting in concert, to offer lots for sale or lease. Where that land is offered for sale by that developer or group of developers acting in concert, and is contiguous or is known, designated, or advertised as a common unit or by a common name, that land will be presumed, without regard to the number of lots covered by each individual offering, as being offered for sale or lease as part of a common promotional plan [15 U.S.C. § 1701(4)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawPurchase & SaleInterstate Land Sales Full Disclosure ActReal Property LawSubdivisionsGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.289

§ 579.289 Exemptions

Unless the method of disposition is adopted to evade the Full Disclosure Act, its provisions do not apply to various types of real estate sales and leases. Among the types of real estate sales and leases to which the Full Disclosure Act does not apply are [15 U.S.C. § 1702(a)]:

- The sale or lease of lots in a subdivision containing less than 25 lots.

- The sale or lease of any improved land on which there is a building, or the sale or lease of land under a contract obligating the seller to erect such a building within two years.

- The sale or lease of lots to any person who acquires those lots for the purpose of engaging in the business of constructing residential, commercial, or industrial buildings or for the purpose of resale or lease of those lots to persons engaged in those businesses.

Additionally, unless the method of disposition is adopted to evade the Full Disclosure Act, its provisions requiring registration and disclosure do not apply in several instances. Among these instances are [15 U.S.C. § 1702(b)]:

- The sale or lease of lots in a subdivision containing fewer than 100 lots.

- The sale or lease of lots in a subdivision, if within 12 months not more than 12 lots are sold or leased, and the sale or lease of the first 12 lots in that subdivision in any subsequent 12-month period.

- The sale or lease of lots in a subdivision in which each of the lots is at least 20 acres.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawPurchase & SaleInterstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.290

§ 579.290 Acts Prohibited

It is unlawful for any developer or agent, directly or indirectly, to make use of any means of interstate commerce or of the mails with respect to the sale or lease of any nonexempt lot unless a statement of record regarding that lot is in effect and a printed property report is furnished to the purchaser in advance of the signing of any contract; and when any part of the statement of record or the property report contains an untrue statement of a material fact or omits to state a material fact or to display to prospective purchasers or lessees promotional material that is inconsistent with information required to be disclosed in the property report [15 U.S.C. § 1703(a)(1)].

It is unlawful for any developer or agent, directly or indirectly, to make use of any means of interstate commerce or of the mails with respect to the sale or lease of any lot not exempt under 15 U.S.C. § 1702(a) to employ any device, scheme, or artifice to defraud, or to obtain money or property by means of a material misrepresentation, or to engage in any transaction, practice, or course of business that operates or would operate as a fraud or deceit on a purchaser [15 U.S.C. § 1703(a)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawPurchase & SaleInterstate Land Sales Full Disclosure ActReal Property LawPurchase & SaleRemediesDuty to Disclose

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.291

§ 579.291 Revocation of Contract or Agreement

Any contract or agreement for the purchase or lease of any nonexempt lot may be revoked at the option of the purchaser or lessee until seven daysafter it has been signed or until a later time required pursuant to state law [15 U.S.C. § 1703(b)].

If the required property report was not given to the purchaser or lessee in advance of his or her signing the contract or agreement, that contract or agreement may be revoked at the option of the purchaser or lessee within two years from the date of its signing [15 U.S.C. § 1703(c)].

Any contract or agreement for the purchase or lease of any nonexempt lot that does not provide the statutorily required notice regarding breach or default may be revoked at the option of the purchaser or lessee within two years from the date of its signing [15 U.S.C. § 1703(d)]. 15 U.S.C. § 1703(d) does not apply to the sale of a lot for which, within 180 days after the signing of the sale contract the purchaser receives a warranty deed [15 U.S.C. § 1703(d)].

If a contract or agreement is revoked pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 1703(b), (c), or (d), if the purchaser or lessee tenders to the sell er or lessor an instrumentconveying his or her rights and interests in the lot, and if the rights and interests and the lot are in a condition substantially similar to the condition in which they were conveyed or purported to be conveyed, that purchaser or lessee is entitled to all money paid [15 U.S.C. § 1703(e)]. For general discussion and forms for use by a purchaser in rescinding a contract for the sale of real property, see Ch. 569, Vendor and Purchaser .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawPurchase & SaleInterstate Land Sales Full Disclosure ActReal Property LawPurchase & SaleRemediesRescission & Restitution

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.292

§ 579.292 Civil Liabilities

A purchaser or lessee may bring an action at law or in equity against a developer or agent if the sale or lease was made in violation of 15 U.S.C. § 1703(a). In such a suit, the court may order damages, specific performance, or such other relief as the court deems fair, just, and equitable. In determining that relief, the court may take into account, but not be limited to, the following factors [15 U.S.C. § 1709(a)]:

- The contract price;
- The amount actually paid;
- The cost of any improvements to the lot;
- The fair market value of the lot or leasehold at the time relief is determined; and
- The fair market value of the lot or leasehold at the time that lot was purchased or leased.

A purchaser or lessee may bring an action at law or in equity against the seller or lessor (or successor thereof) to enforce any rights under 15 U.S.C. § 1703(b), (c), (d), or (e) [15 U.S.C. § 1709(b)].

The amount recoverable in a suit authorized by 15 U.S.C. § 1709 may include, in addition to matters specified, interest, court costs, and reasonable amounts for attorney's fees, independent appraiser's fees, and travel to and from the lot [15 U.S.C. § 1709(c)].

Every person who becomes liable to make any payment under 15 U.S.C. § 1709 may recover contributions as in cases of contract from any person who, if sued separately, would have been liable to make the same payment [15 U.S.C. § 1709(d)].

Generally, an action maintained under 15 U.S.C. § 1709 must be brought within three years after the date of signing the sale contract or lease, or within three years after the violation was or should have been discovered [15 U.S.C. § 1711].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesCosts & Attorney FeesAttorney Expenses & FeesGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesCosts & Attorney FeesCostsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawPurchase & SaleInterstate Land Sales Full Disclosure ActReal Property LawPurchase & SaleRemediesDamagesGeneral OverviewReal Property LawPurchase & SaleRemediesSpecific Performance

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.293

§ 579.293 No Limitation of Rights

Any condition, stipulation, or provision binding any person acquiring any lot in a subdivision to waive compliance with any provision of 15 U.S.C. §§ 1701-1720 is void [15 U.S.C. § 1712].

The rights and remedies provided by 15 U.S.C. §§ 1701-1720 are in addition to any and all other rights and remedies that may exist at law or in equity [15 U.S.C. § 1713].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawPurchase & SaleInterstate Land Sales Full Disclosure ActReal Property LawPurchase & SaleRemediesGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.294

§ 579.294 Injunctions and Investigations

Whenever it appears that any person is engaged or about to engage in any acts or practices that constitute or will constitute a violation of the provisions of 15 U.S.C. §§ 1701-1720 or of any rule or regulation prescribed pursuant thereto, the Secretary may bring an action in any federal district court to enjoin those acts or practices, and, on a proper showing, a permanent or temporary injunction or restraining order will be granted without bond. The Secretary may transmit evidence to the Attorney General who may institute the appropriate criminal proceedings [15 U.S.C. § 1714(a)].

The Secretary may make those investigations deemed necessary to determine whether any person has violated or is about to violate any provision of 15 U.S.C. §§ 1701-1720 or any rule or regulation prescribed pursuant thereto, and may require or permit any person to file a written statement regarding all the facts and circumstances concerning the matter to be investigated. The Secretary may publish information concerning any violations [15 U.S.C. § 1714(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesInjunctionsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawPurchase & SaleInterstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.295

§ 579.295 Penalties

Any person who willfully violates any of the provisions of 15 U.S.C. §§ 1701-1720 or the rules and regulations prescribed pursuant thereto, or any person who willfully, in a statement of record filed under, or in a property report issued pursuant to 15 U.S.C. §§ 1701-1720, makes any untrue statement of a material fact or omits to state any material fact required to be stated therein, will, on conviction, be fined not more than$10,000 or imprisoned not more than five years, or both [15 U.S.C. § 1717].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Criminal Law & ProcedureCriminal OffensesMiscellaneous OffensesGeneral OverviewReal Property LawPurchase & SaleInterstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.296

§ 579.296 Jurisdiction and Venue

The district courts of the United States, the United States courts of any territory, and the United States District Court for the District of Columbia have jurisdiction of offenses and violations under 15 U.S.C. §§ 1701-1720 and under the rules and regulations issued pursuant thereto. Those courts have concurrent jurisdiction with the state courts of all suits in equity and actions at law brought to enforce any liability or duty created by 15 U.S.C. §§ 1701-1720. Any such suit or action may be brought in the district wherein the defendant is found, is an inhabitant, or transacts business, or in the district where the offer or sale took place, if thedefendant participated therein. No case arising under 15 U.S.C. §§ 1701-1720 and brought in any state court of competent jurisdiction will be removed to any court of the United States, except when the United States or any officer or employee of the United States in his or her official capacity is a party [15 U.S.C. § 1719].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJurisdictionSubject Matter JurisdictionGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJurisdictionSubject Matter JurisdictionJurisdiction Over ActionsConcurrent JurisdictionCriminal Law & ProcedureJurisdiction & VenueGeneral OverviewReal Property LawPurchase & SaleInterstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.297

§ 579.297 Interplay With State Law

15 U.S.C. §§ 1701-1720 does not prevent or limit the authority of the state or local government to enact and enforce with regard to the sale of land any law, ordinance, or code not in conflict with the Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act [15 U.S.C. § 1708(e)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawPurchase & SaleInterstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act

126 of 157 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Subdivision Map Act and Related Laws

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 579.298-579.309

[Reserved]

§§ 579.298[Reserved]

127 of 157 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Zoning and Planning

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.310

§ 579.310 California Legal Forms

For discussion and forms relating to building permits and seeking relief from zoning ordinances, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 30B, Zoning, Building and Environmental Entitlements and Permits (Matthew Bender)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawZoning & Land UseAdministrative Procedure

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Zoning and Planning

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.311

§ 579.311 California Real Estate

For discussion of general zoning regulations, including variances, conditional use permits, and nonconforming uses, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Chs. 260- 265; for discussion of zoning enforcement and judicial review of zoning decisions, see Chs. 280- 283; for discussion of building permits, see Ch. 423, Building Codes (Matthew Bender)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawZoning & Land UseConditional Use Permits & VariancesEnvironmental LawZoning & Land UseJudicial ReviewReal Property LawZoning & Land UseJudicial ReviewReal Property LawZoning & Land UseNonconforming Uses

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Zoning and Planning

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.312

§ 579.312 California Environmental Law

For detailed coverage of zoning regulations, including types and methods of zoning, conditional use permits and variances, constitutional and nonconstitutional limits on zoning power, nonconforming uses, and judicial review of zoning restrictions, see Manaster and Selmi, California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice, Ch. 60, Zoning (Matthew Bender); for discussion of general and specific plans, see Ch. 62, Planning ; for discussion of the California coastal zone, see Ch. 66, Coastal Zone Regulation

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawZoning & Land UseConditional Use Permits & VariancesEnvironmental LawZoning & Land UseConstitutional LimitsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseJudicial ReviewReal Property LawZoning & Land UseNonconforming UsesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseZoning Methods

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Zoning and Planning

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.313

§ 579.313 Federal Statutes

Coastal Zone Management Act. 16 U.S.C. § 1451 et seq.

National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA). 42 U.S.C. § 4321 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawNational Environmental Policy ActGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Zoning and Planning

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.314

§ 579.314 State Statutes

[1] Building Regulations

State Housing Law. Health & Safety Code § 17910 et seq.

State Building Standards Law. Health & Safety Code §§ 18901, 18949.31

State Building Standards Code. Health & Safety Code §§ 18902, 18935 et seq.

Reconstruction standards for earthquake hazardous buildings. Health & Safety Code §§ 19160-19168

[2] Cemeteries

Required notice under Gov. Code §§ 65091-65094 when application is made to use cemetery for other than cemetery uses. Gov. Code § 65096; Health & Safety Code § 8120

[3] Coastal Lands

State Coastal Conservancy. Pub. Res. Code § 31000 et seq.

California Coastal Act of 1976. Pub. Res. Code § 30000 et seq.

San Francisco Bay Area Conservancy Program. Pub. Res. Code § 31160 et seq.

[4] General

Planning and Zoning Law. Gov. Code § 65000 et seq.

Dedication of land for schools as condition for approval of residential development. Gov. Code § 65970 et seq.

Procedures for adopting certain fees. Gov. Code § 66016 et seq.

Procedures for protesting residential development fees. Gov. Code § 66020 et seq.

Official Maps. Gov. Code § 66499.50 et seq.

California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA). Pub. Res. Code § 21000 et seq.

Airport land use commission. Pub. Util. Code § 21670 et seq.

[5] Judicial Review

Injunctions. Civ. Code § 3422; Code Civ. Proc. § 526

Action for declaratory relief. Code Civ. Proc. § 1060

Traditional Mandate. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086

Administrative Mandate. Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5

California Coastal Act review. Pub. Res. Code §§ 30801, 30802

Actions challenging local government decision. Gov. Code § 65009

Rules of evidence and procedure. Gov. Code § 65010

Challenge to general plan. Gov. Code §§ 65750-65763

Review of general plan. Gov. Code § 65860

Review of variances and conditional use permits. Gov. Code § 65907

Notice of enforcement. Gov. Code § 65908

[6] Plans

General plans. Gov. Code § 65300 et seq.

Specific plans. Gov. Code §§ 65450-65457

[7] Zoning Regulations

Zoning regulations. Gov. Code § 65800 et seq.

Adoption of regulations. Gov. Code § 65850 et seq.

Variances and conditional use permits. Gov. Code § 65900 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementGeneral OverviewReal Property LawZoning & Land UseAdministrative ProcedureReal Property LawZoning & Land UseBuilding & Housing CodesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseJudicial ReviewReal Property LawZoning & Land UseSpecial Permits & Variances

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Zoning and Planning

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.315

§ 579.315 Federal Regulations

Implementation of National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. 40 C.F.R. § 6.100 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawNational Environmental Policy ActGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Zoning and Planning

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.316

§ 579.316 State Regulations

Coastal development permits. 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 13050 et seq.

Implementation of California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA Guidelines). 14 Cal. Code Reg. § 15000 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementGeneral Overview

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Zoning and Planning

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.317

§ 579.317 Decisions

[1] Accessory Uses

When commercial and residential zones were on opposite sides of an alley, use of residentially-zoned portion of alley to gain access to building in commercially-zoned area constituted commercial accessory use in violation of zoning restrictions of residential district. Teachers Ins. & Annuity Assn. v. Furlotti (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 1487, 1495, 83 Cal. Rptr. 2d 455

Zoning ordinance that prohibited commercial use of dwelling when assistants were employed was valid and did not violate privacy rights. City of Los Altos v. Barnes (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 1193, 1199-1202, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 77

[2] Administrative Mandate

Administrative action of board is overturned only on clear showing of abuse of discretion. Rubin v. Board of Directors (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 119, 126-127, 104 P.2d 1041 ; Garden Grove Congregation v. City of Garden Grove (1959) 176 Cal. App. 2d 136, 140-141, 1 Cal. Rptr. 65

Administrative mandamus under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 was appropriate remedy to challenge city's decision, which required removal of nonconforming patio as condition to grant of variance. Briggs v. City of Rolling Hills Estates (1995) 40 Cal. App. 4th 637, 644-648, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 29

Federal civil rights claim under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 challenging city's zoning decision, which required removal of nonconforming patio as condition to grant of variance, was barred by plaintiff's failure to petition for administrative mandamus under Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5. Briggs v. City of Rolling Hills Estates (1995) 40 Cal. App. 4th 637, 644-648, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 29

In administrative mandamus proceeding, court is limited to reviewing record before board and as not to substitute its opinion on facts. Patterson v. Board of Supervisors (1947) 79 Cal. App. 2d 670, 671-672, 180 P.2d 945

[3] Adult Entertainment Zoning

First Amendment requires that adult business ordinance provide both for prompt judicial review of denial of license and also for prompt judicial decision. City of Littleton v. Z. J. Gifts D-4, City of Littleton (2004) 541 U.S. 774, 124 S. Ct. 2219, 159 L. Ed. 2d 84

City could rely on 1977 study showing association between areas with high concentrations of adult establishments and high crime rates in support of ordinance prohibiting operation of more than one adult entertainment business in the same building, even though study did not consider secondary effects of combined operations in a single building. City of Los Angeles v. Alameda Books, Inc. (2002) 535 U.S. 425, 122 S. Ct. 1728, 1734, 152 L. Ed. 2d 670

Injunction against enforcement of adult entertainment business zoning was proper based on finding of serious hardship to adult businesses because of lack of adequate number of potential relocation sites that met zoning criteria. Topanga Press, Inc. v. Los Angeles (9th Cir. 1993) 989 F.2d 1524

Adult theatre zoning is unconstitutional when its separation requirement precludes reasonable alternative sites for adult theatres. Walnut Properties, Inc. v. City of Whittier (9th Cir. 1988) 861 F.2d 1102

Zoning ordinance that restricted area for adult entertainment establishments was valid when all commercially zoned areas were available for these establishments and space was available in commercial area; private landowners' refusal to rent to adult entertainment establishments was not relevant. City of National City v. Wiener (1992) 3 Cal. 4th 832, 847-849, 12 Cal. Rptr. 2d 701, 838 P.2d 223

Theatre is adult theatre for zoning purposes if theatre shows adult films are regular and substantial course of conduct. People v. Superior Court (Lucero) (1989) 49 Cal. 3d 14, 26-28, 259 Cal. Rptr. 740, 774 P.2d 769

City ordinance forbidding adult businesses within 100 feet of freeway was unconstitutional on its face; purpose of avoiding visual blight could be addressed by less intrusive means, such as appropriate sign and exterior requirements. Gammoh v. City of Anaheim (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 186, 199-200, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 194

City ordinance prohibiting location of adult businesses within 400 feet of any area zoned residential was unconstitutional as applied to business that would be located within 400 feet of single wedge-shaped vacant residential lot in industrial zone next to freeway. Gammoh v. City of Anaheim (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 186, 197-198, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 194

Inclusion of adult newsracks in adult entertainment zoning is unconstitutional as violation of First Amendment right of free speech. Sebago, Inc. v. City of Alameda (1989) 211 Cal. App. 3d 1372, 1381-1386, 259 Cal. Rptr. 918

[4] Aesthetics

Advancement of esthetic values is legitimate exercise of state police powers; public welfare is broad and inclusive concept and represents spiritual, physical, aesthetic, and monetary values. City Council v. Taxpayers for Vincent (1984) 466 U.S. 789, 805, 104 S. Ct. 2118, 80 L. Ed. 2d 772

Ordinance imposing height limitations on pre-existing foliage was legitimate exercise of city's police power. Echevarietta v. City of Rancho Palos Verdes (2001) 86 Cal. App. 4th 472, 479, 103 Cal. Rptr. 2d 165

Zoning ordinance preserving views and sunlight against unreasonable obstruction by tree growth and providing for private enforcement advanced aesthetic values and was reasonable exercise of police power. Kucera v. Lizza (1997) 59 Cal. App. 4th 1141, 1148, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 582

Ordinance that provided for discretionary review to consider effect of construction on neighborhood was valid even though it allowed prohibition of building that met zoning requirements; ordinances requiring considerationof aesthetics are valid under police power. Guinnane v. San Francisco City Planning Com. (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 732, 736-742, 257 Cal. Rptr. 742

Sign regulation is valid when it expressly prohibits signs characterizing person or object in only certain areas of city, permits them in other areas with conditional use permit subject to zoning administrator approval if they are desirable and in character with area, and sign shape, not message, is determinative. City of Salinas v. Ryan Outdoor Advertising, Inc. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 416, 433, 234 Cal. Rptr. 619

On-premises business sign is protected as property right and is limited First Amendment free speech right; size, location, and other physical attributes of sign is subject to regulation in interests of public safety and aesthetics; prohibition of nonoffensive name on sign simply because it may attract undesirable clientele is unconstitutional violation of right to free speech. Kuhns v. Board of Supervisors (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 369, 376, 181 Cal. Rptr. 1

Signs and billboards are subject to reasonable regulation through police power; size, location, and other physical attributes of sign and number of signs that may be posted, affixed, or installed are subject to regulation; classification of advertising signs is not to be arbitrarily made for mere purpose of classification, but must be based on some distinction, natural, intrinsic, or constitutional, which suggests reason for and justifies particular legislation. Carlin v. City of Palm Springs (1971) 14 Cal. App. 3d 706, 712, 92 Cal. Rptr. 535

[5] Building Permits

City estopped from revoking building permit on ground building's size violated city building code; permit was issued following settlement of litigation over permit requirements, and city had ample opportunity to review both building plans and settlement agreement before granting permit. Congregation Etz Chaim v. City of Los Angeles (9th Cir. 2004) 371 F.3d 1122, 1124-1125

Plaintiff's building permit did not give it vested rights in proposed redevelopment agency plan or in parking spaces allocated to it in proposed parking facility, when permit contained no commitment on part of agency to provide parking spaces and because this right could not be created by estoppel under facts of case. Boone v. Redevelopment Agency of City of San Jose (9th Cir. 1988) 841 F.2d 886, 893

Party challenging plan review and building permit fees under Gov. Code § 66014 must seek prospective fee reduction under Gov. Code § 66016 and may not seek refund of allegedly excess fees under Gov. Code § 66020. Barratt American, Inc. v. City of Rancho Cucamonga (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 685, 699, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 149, 124 P.3d 719

Action seeking removal of conditions imposed by ordinance on building permit was timely under Gov. Code § 65009(c)(1)(E) even though plaintiff raised facial rather than as-applied challenge, because action was brought within 90 days of final decision imposing conditions. Travis v. County of Santa Cruz (2004) 33 Cal. 4th 757, 767, 16 Cal. Rptr. 3d 404, 94 P.3d 538

Transit development fee imposed after issuance of building permit was valid when permit contained condition that developer participate in assessment district or similar mechanism for transit and fee actually imposed was similar to assessment district. Russ Bldg. Partnership v. City and County of San Francisco (1988) 44 Cal. 3d 839, 845-854, 244

Cal. Rptr. 682, 750 P.2d 324

Increased in-lieu affordable housing fee to be paid by developer on issuance of building permits for market-rate housing was not "reasonably justified" within meaning of development agreement because there was no reasonable relationship between amount of fee as increased and deleterious public impact of development. Building Industry Assn. v. City of Patterson (2009) 171 Cal. App. 4th 886, 898, 90 Cal. Rptr. 3d 63

Statute of limitations set forth in Gov. Code § 65009(c)(1)(E) applied to action challenging city planning department issuance of building permit. Honig v. San Francisco Planning Dept. (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 520, 524, 528, 25 Cal. Rptr. 3d 649

Building permit properly denied on aesthetic grounds; applicant's claim that denial was arbitrary and capricious was not sufficient to state claim for violation of substantive due process under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 without showing that applicant was deprived of protected property interest. Breneric Associates v. City of Del Mar (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 166, 182-183, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 324

Developer challenging change of zoning and other local actions based on alleged substantive due process violation under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 had no vested right on which to base its claim due to fact that it had not applied for nor received building permit for its project. Stubblefield Construction Co. v. City of San Bernardino (1995) 32 Cal. App. 4th 687, 708, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 413

[6] California Coastal Act

[a] Definition of Development

Use of settling pond and waste disposal area was within definition of development in Pub. Res. Code § 30106, which includes placement of any solid material and disposal of any dredged material. Halaco Engineering Co. v. South Central Coast Regional Com. (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 52, 58, 62, 227 Cal. Rptr. 667, 720 P.2d 15

Development includes placement on land of any structure, including 18,000 gallon propane tank; structure includes any building, road, pipe, flume, conduit, siphon, aqueduct, telephone line, and electrical power transmission and distribution line. Halaco Engineering Co. v. South Central Coast Regional Com. (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 52, 76-77, 227 Cal. Rptr. 667, 720 P.2d 15

Lot line adjustments constitute "development" within meaning of Pub. Res. Code § 30106, for which permit or waiver is required under La Fe, Inc. v. County of Los Angeles (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 231, 240, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 217

[b] EIR

EIR for aquarium that did not consider alternative sites on waterfront that would not require fill was adequate when all waterfront sites were analyzed and no sites that did not require fill were identified. Save San Francisco Bay Ass'n v. San Francisco Bay Conservation Etc. Com. (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 908, 919-922, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 117

[c] In General

Commission's decision involves discretion; issuing of permit requires delicate balancing of effect of each proposed development on coastal environment; development must not have any substantial adverse environmental or ecological effect or irreversibly commit coastal zone resources, and must enhance environment of coastal zone. State v. Superior

Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 247-248, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281

Before certification of local coastal plan, Coastal Commission or other permit issuing agency has authority to designate property as environmentally sensitive habitat area and deny permit on that basis. Douda v. California Coastal Commission (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 1181, 1193, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 98

When project approval is appealed to California Coastal Commission and Commission issues permit after conducting de novo proceeding, subsequent administrativemandamus challenge naming local governmental entity but not Commission is vulnerable to claim that Commission is indispensable party. Kaczorowski v. Mendocino County Bd. of Supervisors (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 564, 569-570, 106 Cal. Rptr. 2d 14

Coastal Commission properly determined that wetlands existed on proposed development site. Kirkorowicz v. California Coastal Com. (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 980, 987-988, 100 Cal. Rptr. 2d 124

City was not required to obtain Coastal Commission approval before implementing and enforcing interim ordinance imposing height and density restrictions on development in coastal zone, because ordinance was not in conflict with Coastal Act and did not authorize a use other than those designated in local coastal plan. Conway v. City of Imperial Beach (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 78, 88-89, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 402

Coastal commission had authority to deny certification to coastal plan that allowed oil and gas development on Santa Cruz island and did not sufficiently limit residential development. Pier Gherini v. California Coastal Com. (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 699, 705-710, 251 Cal. Rptr. 426

In reviewing regional commission decision, state commission is required to exercise its independent judgment to decide if conformity with statewide standards has been achieved. City of Chula Vista v. Superior Court (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 472, 488-490, 183 Cal. Rptr. 909

Commission is authorized to require dedication for public parking through its power to provide access consistent with needs for public safety and to protect public rights, private property owners' rights, and natural resources areas from overuse; provision requiring parking for use to be made of land involved is proper, to require landowner to dedicate property for free public parking far beyond his or her own land use requirements is improper. Liberty v. California Coastal Com. (1980) 113 Cal. App. 3d 491, 502-503, 170 Cal. Rptr. 247

Rule of exhaustion of administrative remedies is applicable in Coastal Act cases. La Costa Beach Homeowners Assn. v. Wayne (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 327, 330-332, 152 Cal. Rptr. 355

Coastal Act creates chain of responsibility; regional commission has responsibility to adjudicate propriety of granting or denying permit, recognizing regional effect on ecosystem; on appeal, state commission takes unlimited look at same request by de novo public hearing, reviewing regional effect and statewide effect of proposed development. REA Enterprises v. California Coastal Zone Conservation Com. (1975) 52 Cal. App. 3d 596, 605, 125 Cal. Rptr. 201 (decided under former Coastal Act)

Denial of building permit during preparation of coastal zone plan was not taking of property for public use without compensation, even when denial was result of Department of Parks and Recreation expressing interest in and intent to acquire that property. Briggs v. State of California ex rel. Dept. Parks & Recreation (1979) 98 Cal. App. 3d 190, 203-205, 159 Cal. Rptr. 390

[d] Permits

Placement of 18,000-gallon propane tank after effective date of Coastal Act was change or new development for which permit is required, even though rest of operation was exempt from Coastal Act. Halaco Engineering Co. v. South Central Coast Regional Com. (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 52, 76-77, 227 Cal. Rptr. 667, 720 P.2d 15

Coastal Commission must make findings to support grant of permit for development in environmentally sensitive habitat area on basis that denial of permit would effect unconstitutional taking. McAllister v. California Coastal Commission (2009) 169 Cal. App. 4th 912, 942, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 365

Coastal Commission properly granted permit although addition to home would partially block view of sea; in providing that "permitted development shall be sited and designed to protect views" [see Pub. Res. Code § 30251] Legislature did not intend that permits be denied for all projects that infringed in any way, no matter how minimally, on any view, no matter how limited. Farr v. Coastal Commission (2009) 173 Cal. App. 4th 1474, 1479-1480, 93 Cal. Rptr. 3d 710

Coastal Commission lacked jurisdiction to designate proposed development site as an environmentally sensitive habitat area on appeal of local government's grant of coastal development permit. Security National Guaranty Inc. v. California Coastal Commission (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 402, 425, 71 Cal. Rptr. 3d 522

Coastal Commission acted within its jurisdiction in imposing mitigation fee on homeowners' association in connection with permit to build a seawall; Commission was not limited by Pub. Res. Code § 30235 ("seawalls ... shall be permitted when required ... to protect existing structures ... and when designed to eliminate or mitigate adverse impacts on local shoreline sand supply") in the type of conditions it could impose in granting such permit. Ocean Harbor House Homeowners Association v. California Coastal Commission (2008) 163 Cal. App. 4th 215, 241, 77 Cal. Rptr. 3d 432

Mitigation fee imposed by Coastal Commission on homeowners' association in connection with permit to build seawall did not effect an unconstitutional taking. Ocean Harbor House Homeowners Association v. California Coastal Commission (2008) 163 Cal. App. 4th 215, 241, 77 Cal. Rptr. 3d 432

Doctrine of equitable estoppel did not bar Coastal Commission from ordering homeowner to remove private three-hole golf course from around house and restore area to its native sand dune vegetation in accordance with applicable restrictions on landscaping, even though property had been in visible violation of coastal development permit conditions for 18 years. Feduniak v. California Coastal Com. (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 1346, 1380, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 591

Following Coastal Commission proceedings on appeal of development permit, property owner could not state cause of action against the county under California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) because county's determinations were superseded by Coastal Commission's environmental review. McAllister v. County of Monterey (2007) 147 Cal. App. 4th 253, 294, 54 Cal. Rptr. 3d 116

Coastal Commission may not include boaters' "right to a view" of coastline as factor to deny or restrict development permits in coastal zone. Schneider v. California Coastal Comm'n (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 1339, 1348, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 867

Coastal Commission had authority to allow Malibu property owners to delete permit conditions requiring on-site view corridors and to substitute off-site view and access mitigation. La Costa Beach Homeowners' Assn. v. California Coastal Commission (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 804, 817, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 618

Coastal development permit was activated on approval of final subdivision map, and therefore did not expire even though construction was commenced prior to permit expiration date. Trancas Property Owners Assn. v. City of Malibu (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 1058, 1061-1062, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 131

Vested right was not acquired by permanent construction under emergency permit and Commission was not estopped from requiring removal of construction. Barrie v. California Coastal Com. (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 8, 14-20, 241 Cal. Rptr. 477

Former Pub. Res. Code § 27401 (now see Pub. Res. Code § 30601) provides for interim permit procedure, with two-thirds vote needed for approval, for developments in particularly sensitive area. Patterson v. Central Coast Regional Com. (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 833, 847, 130 Cal. Rptr. 169

[e] Vested Right

Developer claiming exemption from permit requirement of Coastal Act on grounds of having vested right to continue development was required to seek confirmation of vested right claim by regional commission; developer was unable to first assert claim in defense to action by regional commission to enjoin further development. Halaco Engineering Co. v. South Central Coast Regional Com. (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 52, 63, 227 Cal. Rptr. 667, 720 P.2d 15

Vested rights doctrine protects property owners from changes in zoning or other land use regulations that occur before completion of owner's coastal development project; vested right to complete project arises only after property owner has performed substantial work, incurred substantial liability, and shown good faith reliance on coastal development permit. Halaco Engineering Co. v. South Central Coast Regional Com. (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 52, 64-65, 227 Cal. Rptr. 667, 720 P.2d 15 ; Tosh v. California Coastal Com. (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 388, 392-393, 160 Cal. Rptr. 170

Filing of vesting tentative map in 1990 did not deprive Coastal Commission of jurisdiction to deny development permit on appeal based on policies enacted after tentative map was filed. Charles A. Pratt Construction Co. v. California Coastal Commission (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 1068, 1074-1075, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 466

Property owners acquired no vested right in development under Pub. Res. Code § 30608 resulting from tentative map approval under former California Coastal Act when that approval was conditioned on property owners conveying scenic easement to county and obtaining permit for water system from county health department and they failed to comply with either condition, even though they expended substantial sum of money and performed approximately 80 percent of work. Tosh v. California Coastal Com. (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 388, 392-396, 160 Cal. Rptr. 170

1976 Coastal Act did not terminate vested right that existed under law prior to its passage; Coastal Act does not make distinction in exemptions between person with vested right and person who obtained permit under former Coastal Act. Pardee Construction Co. v. California Coastal Com. (1979) 95 Cal. App. 3d 471, 479-480, 157 Cal. Rptr. 184

[7] Conditional Use Permit

[a] Application

Lessee has standing as owner to apply for conditional use permit. Shell Oil Co. v. City and County of San Francisco (1983) 139 Cal. App. 3d 917, 920-921, 189 Cal. Rptr. 276

[b] Approval

Determination that permit applicant has satisfied local ordinance standards is sufficient to justify granting permit; findings outside those of ordinance, such as finding that applicant has not violated terms of previously-issued conditional use permit, are not required. Baird v. County of Contra Costa (1995) 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 93

[c] Condition

Condition of approval of use permit that is specifically related to individual is invalid because conditional use permit regulates land, not individuals; any condition imposed must relate to property and not to particular applicant. Sounhein v. City of San Dimas (1996) 47 Cal. App. 4th 1181, 1187, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 290

Condition that conditional use permit not be transferrable with property was invalid. Anza Parking Corp. v. Burlingame (1987) 195 Cal. App. 3d 855, 858-860, 241 Cal. Rptr. 175

[d] Estoppel

County was not estopped to assert invalidity of conditional use permit, when builder knew that permit issued to former landowner had expired, when no construction had commenced prior to expiration, and there was no evidence that any extension would have been granted. Strong v. County of Santa Cruz (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 720, 722-727, 125 Cal. Rptr. 896, 543 P.2d 264

[e] Expiration

Permit that was to expire within one year unless substantial evidence of use was in progress did not expire when funding had been sought, professionals hired, property purchased, and plans submitted even though construction had not actually begun. Community Development Com. v. City of Fort Bragg (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 1124, 1129-1130, 251 Cal. Rptr. 709

[f] Review

Ninety-day limitations period (Gov. Code § 65009(c)) applied to proceeding challenging board of supervisors' decision granting conditional use permit on ground a supervisor had conflict of interest in violation of Political Reform Act. Ching v. San Francisco Bd. of Permit Appeals (1998) 60 Cal. App. 4th 888, 891, 70 Cal. Rptr. 2d 700

Period of limitations for review of decision to issue conditional use permit. Hawkins v. County of Marin (1976) 54 Cal. App. 3d 586, 592-593, 126 Cal. Rptr. 754

[g] Standards

Los Angeles conditional use permit ordinance that purported to regulate adult businesses was unconstitutionally vague because it required those making decisions based on ordinance to exercise too much subjective discretion. Smith v. County of Los Angeles (1994) 24 Cal. App. 4th 990, 1004-1008, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 680

Federal law regulating satellite dishes preempted local law and required specific aesthetic standards in zoning ordinance requiring conditional use permit to install satellite dish. Hunter v. City of Whittier (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 588, 596-598, 257 Cal. Rptr. 559

[8] Constitutional Challenges

[a] Deprivation of Property

Zoning ordinance that is so unreasonable or arbitrary as to virtually deprive landowner of complete use and enjoyment of his or her property is unconstitutionally excessive under U.S. Const., amend. V, and Cal. Const., art. I, § 19. Agins

v. Tiburon (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 266, 272-273, 277, 157 Cal. Rptr. 372, 598 P.2d 25 , aff'd, 447 U.S. 255, 259, 100 S. Ct. 2138, 65 L. Ed. 2d 106 (1980)

[b] Discriminatory Zoning

Zoning action is not overthrown absent physical facts requiring conclusion that ordinance is unreasonable; when spot zoning or other restriction on particular property evinces discriminatory design against property user, evidence disclosing purpose other than that appearing on face of regulation is given weight by court. G & D Holland Construction Co. v. City of Marysville (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 989, 994, 91 Cal. Rptr. 227

[c] Due Process

Developer failed to establish that city's delay in processing its permit application constituted violation of substantive due process, because there was reasonable explanation on face of the complaint for every delay in city's eventual approval of application; condition included only in developer's permit and no others did not support claim for violation of equal protection, because city did not intentionally treat developer differently than other developers. North Pacifica LLC v. City of Pacifica (9th Cir. 2008) 526 F.3d 478, 485-486

County's decision to rezone landowner's property deprived landowner of protected property interest, and thus landowner was entitled to constitutional due process prior to deprivation; individual notice to landowner was required because county specifically changed zoning of landowner's land on receiving request to make change to restrict its use after county had published notice of proposed general plan amendment that did not include change. Harris v. County of Riverside (9th Cir. 1990) 904 F.2d 497, 503-505

Applicant's claim that city's denial of building permit was arbitrary and capricious was not sufficient by itself to state claim for violation of substantive due process under 42 U.S.C. § 1983; applicant had to show deprivation of protected property interest. Breneric Associates v. City of Del Mar (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 166, 182-183, 81 Cal. Rptr. 2d 324

In action under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, landowner's interest in approval of development project permits did not rise to level of property interest that is constitutionally protected; thus, city council's denial of permits did not violate landowner's procedural and substantive due process rights, although he was denied fair hearing under state law. Clark v. City of Hermosa Beach (1996) 48 Cal. App. 4th 1152, 1177-1187, 56 Cal. Rptr. 2d 223

Land developer's action for deprivation of due process, equal protection, and just compensation in inverse condemnation under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 against city and county based on regulations severely limiting development of parcel of land was not ripe for adjudication when there was no final decision on developer's applications for annexation of parcel by city, zoning variances, and building permit. Long Beach Equities, Inc. v. County of Ventura (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1016, 1041-1042, 282 Cal. Rptr. 877

[d] Equal Protection

City's refusal to rezone to higher density was not denial of equal protection when based on rational basis of protection of neighborhood values. Nelson v. City of Selma (9th Cir. 1989) 881 F.2d 836

City ordinance that allowed second units in single-family residential zones only if person occupying second unit was property owner or his or her dependent, or owner's or dependent's caregiver, violated equal protection clause of California Constitution because it effectively classified permissible users of second units. Coalition Advocating Legal Housing Options v. City of Santa Monica (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 451, 462, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 802

Local ordinance that limited number of persons over age 18 who could live in non-owner-occupied single-family residences in targeted areas violated equal protection because no significant relationship existed between stated purpose of ordinance, which was to alleviate overcrowding of single-family dwellings, and non-owner-occupied classification contained in ordinance. College Area Renters & Landlord Assn. v. City of San Diego (1996) 43 Cal. App. 4th 677, 686-688, 50 Cal. Rptr. 2d 515

[e] First Amendment Impact

Zoning ordinance requiring conditional use permit for operation of adult bookstore is subject to strict scrutiny because it impacts on First Amendment right. City of Imperial Beach v. Escott (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 134, 137, 171 Cal. Rptr. 197

[f] Free Exercise of Religion

City's denial of application to rezone property to build college for religious education did not violate applicant's First Amendment rights or Religious Land Use and Institutionalized Persons Act of 2000; city's zoning requirements were general laws of neutral application and there was no evidence that city enforced its ordinance in discriminatory manner. San Jose Christian College v. City of Morgan Hill (9th Cir. 2004) 360 F.3d 1024

Denial of conditional use permit to use house in residential neighborhood as church was not violation of free exercise of religion; ordinance did not preclude use of home as church in other areas and city had interest in protecting neighborhood. Christian Gospel Church, Inc. v. City and County of San Francisco (9th Cir. 1990) 896 F.2d 1221

[g] Method of Challenge

City's refusal to rezone to higher density was not denial of equal protection when based on rational basis of protection of neighborhood values. Nelson v. City of Selma (9th Cir. 1989) 881 F.2d 836

Ordinance was not subject to constitutional attack in administrative mandamus proceeding; proper remedy was action for declaratory relief. Gong v. City of Fremont (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 568, 574, 58 Cal. Rptr. 664

[h] Right of Privacy

City ordinance that allowed second units in single-family residential zones only if person occupying second unit was property owner or his or her dependent, or owner's or dependent's caregiver, violated state constitutional right of privacy. Coalition Advocating Legal Housing Options v. City of Santa Monica (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 451, 461, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 802

[9] Declaratory Relief

Action for declaratory relief was not available to attack administrative order, but will be regarded as petition for writ of mandate for purposes of ruling on general demurrer. Scott v. City of Indian Wells (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 541, 546, 99 Cal. Rptr. 745, 492 P.2d 1137

[10] Dedication

Requirement that portion of property be dedicated for street widening as condition for zoning change was improper when zoning change would not increase traffic. Rohn v. City of Visalia (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 1463, 1474-1477, 263 Cal. Rptr. 319

[11] Development Agreements

Development agreement that instituted zoning freeze at planning state of large real estate development did not unconstitutionally contract away county's right to exercise its police power in future. Santa Margarita Area Residents Together v. San Luis Obispo County Board of Supervisors (2000) 84 Cal. App. 4th 221, 232, 100 Cal. Rptr. 2d 740

[12] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

Developer who was not ultimate developer of housing and thus not in usual position of developer seeking building permits, was not exempt from requirement to exhaust administrative remedies as prerequisite to filing as-applied challenge to local growth control ordinance. Del Oro Hills v. City of Oceanside (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1060, 1077, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 677

Facial challenge to constitutionality of local ordinance in form of cause of action for violation of federal civil rights under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 is not barred by exhaustion doctrine. Del Oro Hills v. City of Oceanside (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1060, 1077-1078, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 677

[13] Enforcement of Zoning Ordinances

[a] Against Municipality

Municipality owning property within another municipality was subject to latter's zoning ordinances; private person suffering identifiable harm by violation of ordinance was entitled to bring action against violating municipality. Nestle v. City of Santa Monica (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 920, 939-940, 101 Cal. Rptr. 568, 496 P.2d 480 (municipal airport located in residential zone of neighboring city)

[b] By Government Entity

Right of local legislative body to bring action for injunctive relief is dependent only on violation of zoning ordinance. City of Santa Clara v. Paris (1977) 76 Cal. App. 3d 338, 342, 142 Cal. Rptr. 818

Mere inaction in enforcement of zoning regulations against some persons does not preclude its enforcement against others. City etc. of San Francisco v. Burton (1962) 201 Cal. App. 2d 749, 755, 20 Cal. Rptr. 378

[c] By Private Persons

Person who suffers identifiable harm due to violation of municipal zoning law has right to sue private violator for compensatory damages and injunctive relief. Nestle v. City of Santa Monica (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 920, 939-940, 101 Cal. Rptr. 568, 496 P.2d 480

Citizen's committee comprised of property owners residing in close proximity to parcel in violation had standing to bring enforcement action. Simons v. City of Los Angeles (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 496, 501, 161 Cal. Rptr. 67

[14] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

Petitioner for writ of mandate to compel issuance of building permit on ground that zoning ordinance was unconstitutional was not required to exhaust administrative remedy of application for variance when evidence was overwhelming that city council rezoned area because petitioner intended to build project there. Ogo Associates v. City of Torrance (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 830, 834, 112 Cal. Rptr. 761

Action attacking city zoning ordinance was subject to demurrer without leave to amend when plaintiff failed to exhaust administrative remedies, knew of applicable administrative procedures, and had not incurred building expenses immediately prior to en actment of ordinance. Igna v. City of Baldwin Park (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 909, 911-914, 88 Cal. Rptr. 581

Applicant does not waive rights to object to validity of ordinance affecting his or her property by proceeding under statute and exhausting administrative remedies to secure variance or conditional use permit. Garden Grove Congregation v. City of Garden Grove (1959) 176 Cal. App. 2d 136, 143, 1 Cal. Rptr. 65

[15] Families

Zoning ordinance that restricted occupancy of home to members of single family and defined "family" as only limited categories of related persons was violation of due process. Moore v. East Cleveland (1977) 431 U.S. 494, 498-500, 97 S. Ct. 1932, 52 L. Ed. 2d 531

Local ordinance restricting land use to one-family dwellings and defining "family" as persons related by blood, adoption, or marriage or as two persons living and cooking together but not related by blood, adoption, or marriage was constitutional. Village of Belle Terre v. Boraas (1974) 416 U.S. 1, 2-8, 94 S. Ct. 1536, 39 L. Ed. 2d 797

Zoning ordinance prohibiting more than five unrelated persons from living together in house in single-family dwelling zone was unconstitutional under California constitution's right to privacy. Santa Barbara v. Adamson (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 123, 128-134, 164 Cal. Rptr. 539, 610 P.2d 436

Zoning ordinance prohibiting more than three unrelated persons from occupying one house in residential zone was unconstitutional, even though there were overcrowding and parking problems; zoning ordinance designed to prevent overcrowding, minimize traffic and parking congestion, and avoid undue financial burden on schools and other public facilities must be based on floor space and facilities rather than biological or legal relationships. Chula Vista v. Pagard (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 785, 791-800, 171 Cal. Rptr. 738

[16] Federal Preemption

Private contractor constructing building to be leased to federal agency was not exempt from local regulation. Smith v. County of Santa Barbara (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 1415, 1422-1424, 251 Cal. Rptr. 1

[17] General Plan

[a] In General

Memorandum of understanding between cities and county providing that each jurisdiction's general plan amendments related to particular parcel were ineffective unless other parties to memorandum enacted like amendments constituted impermissible delegation of local jurisdiction's power to adopt, review, and amend general plan. Alameda Land Use Assn. v. City of Hayward (1995) 38 Cal. App. 4th 1716, 1724-1725, 45 Cal. Rptr. 2d 752

Gov. Code § 65300.5 requirement of internally consistent policy among elements of general plan was violated when precedence clause in plan subordinated open space and conservation element in cases of conflict with land use element. Sierra Club v. Board of Supervisors (1981) 126 Cal. App. 3d 698, 704, 708, 179 Cal. Rptr. 261

California Environmental Quality Act applies to amendment of general plan and Environmental Impact Report was required. City of Santa Ana v. City of Garden Grove (1979) 100 Cal. App. 3d 521, 526-534, 160 Cal. Rptr. 907

[b] Amendment

Exercise of local power of initiative is proper means of amending general plan notwithstanding statutorily-prescribed amendment authority of local legislative body. DeVita v. County of Napa (1995) 9 Cal. 4th 763, 777-784, 38 Cal. Rptr. 2d 699, 889 P.2d 1019

[c] Consistency of Specific Plan

To be "consistent" with general plan, specific plan must (1) be compatible with general plan, (2) not frustrate general plan's goals and policies, and (3) include definite, affirmative commitments to mitigate adverse effects of general plan. Napa Citizens for Honest Government v. Napa County Board of Supervisors (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 342, 378-379, 110 Cal. Rptr. 2d 579

[d] Consistency of Zoning With Plan

Zoning changes must conform to local general plan and must reasonably relate to welfare of affected region. Arnel Development Co. v. City of Costa Mesa (1981) 28 Cal. 3d 511, 524, 169 Cal. Rptr. 904, 620 P.2d 565 ; Associated Home Builders etc., Inc. v. City of Livermore (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 582, 609-610, 135 Cal. Rptr. 41, 557 P.2d 473

Zoning ordinance is consistent with city's general plan when, considering all of its aspects, ordinance furthers objectives and policies of general plan and does not obstruct their attainment. City of Irvine v. Irvine Citizens Against Overdevelopment (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 868, 879, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 797

When city is granted extension of time to adopt general plan and has proposed amendment to general plan, application for development is required to conform to proposed general plan. Harroman Co. v. Town of Tiburon (1991) 235 Cal. App. 3d 388, 394-396, 1 Cal. Rptr. 2d 72

City was not required to rezone land to higher density even though general plan allowed higher density when there was evidence of inadequate parks, lack of sidewalks, traffic bottlenecks, and inadequate schools. Mira Development Corp. v. City of San Diego (1988) 205 Cal. App. 3d 1201, 1213-1215, 252 Cal. Rptr. 825

When general plan lacks mandatory element that is directly involved in project being reviewed, zoning change is not valid. Guardians of Turlock's Integrity v. Turlock City Council (1983) 149 Cal. App. 3d 584, 594-597, 197 Cal. Rptr. 303

Denial of permit to convert apartment to condominiums was appropriate when evidence showed violations of building code and inconsistency with general plan. Rasmussen v. City Council (l983) 140 Cal. App. 3d 842, 848-849, 190 Cal. Rptr. 1

Absence of valid general plan or valid relevant elements thereof precludes enactment of zoning ordinances. Resource Defense Fund v. County of Santa Cruz (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 800, 806-807, 184 Cal. Rptr. 371

Injunction against subdivision activity until county adopted adequate general plan was proper. Camp v. Board of Supervisors (1981) 123 Cal. App. 3d 334, 354-358, 176 Cal. Rptr. 620

[18] Interim Ordinances

Gov. Code § 65858, which authorizes adoption of interim ordinances prohibiting any uses that may be in conflict with contemplated general plan, specific plan, or zoning proposal that legislative body, planning commission, or planning department is studying or intends to study within reasonable time, does not authorize adoption of interim ordinance that prohibits formal processing of development applications. Building Industry Legal Defense Foundation v. Superior Court (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 1410, 1420, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 828

[19] Judicial Review in General

Declaratory relief action is proper to test constitutionality of zoning ordinance, but not appropriate method for judicial review of administrative decisions; complaint for declaratory relief improperly brought to review administrative decision is treated as petition for writ of mandate. Hill v. City of Manhattan Beach (1971) 6 Cal. 3d 279, 287, 98 Cal. Rptr. 785, 491 P.2d 369

Administrative mandamus is exclusive remedy for owner to challenge condition in conditional use permit. City of Santee v. Superior Court (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 713, 718-720, 279 Cal. Rptr. 22

When agency acts in two capacities simultaneously and performs two functions, which are subject to different standards of review, with only one decision, review of that determination must be by more stringent standard; thus, if board of supervisors in its discretionary (legislative) role determines change in general plan and in its ministerial (quasi-judicial) role approves private development plan in one decision, that decision is reviewed by stricter substantial evidence test of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 rather than arbitrary and capricious test of Code Civ. Proc. § 1085. Mountain Defense League v. Board of Supervisors (1977) 65 Cal. App. 3d 723, 727-729, 135 Cal. Rptr. 588

[20] Nonconforming Use

[a] Amortization Period

Facts of individual case was controlling in determination of whether or not amortization period prescribed by legislation providing for eventual discontinuance of nonconforming uses was reasonable and commensurate with investment involved and so may validly apply to particular property and use at issue. National Advertising Co. v. County of Monterey (1970) 1 Cal. 3d 875, 879, 83 Cal. Rptr. 577, 464 P.2d 33

Local zoning legislation requiring termination of nonconforming uses is valid if it provides for reasonable amortization period, considering investment involved; reasonableness is dependent on interplay of many factors, including depreciated value of structures to be removed, their remaining usefullife, and harm to public if they are left standing. City of Salinas v. Ryan Outdoor Advertising, Inc. (1987) 189 Cal. App. 3d 416, 423-424, 234 Cal. Rptr. 619

Nonconforming use was terminable after amortization period when property owner failed to establish that amortization period was unreasonable; reasonableness of amortization period was indicated by facts showing property owner had no investment in permanent property improvements, lease expired during amortization period, and cost of removing nonconforming materials was negligible. Castner v. City of Oakland (1982) 129 Cal. App. 3d 94, 96-97, 180 Cal. Rptr. 682

Zoning ordinance prohibiting parking of large commercial trucks in residential neighborhood where defendants had always parked their truck had 14-month amortization period, which was time from adoption of ordinance to enforcement; amortization period was reasonable because it did not deprive defendants of investment in either house or truck. People v. Tolman (1980) 168 Cal. Rptr. 328

[b] In General

"Permitted conditional use," defined in San Francisco Planning Code as property use that lawfully existed on effective date of new zoning controls, distinguished from "nonconforming use" on ground permitted conditional use provision did not require uses to be brought into compliance with Code. Tenderloin Housing Clinic, Inc. v. Astoria Hotel, Inc. (2000) 83 Cal. App. 4th 139, 146, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 924

Burden is on landowner to establish that nonconforming use preexisted zoning ordinance. City and County of San Francisco v. Board of Permit Appeals (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 1099, 1108-1109, 255 Cal. Rptr. 307

Zoning ordinance requiring immediate discontinuance of nonconforming use that existed when ordinance was adopted was deprivation of property without due process of law unless use was public nuisance. City of Los Altos v. Silvey (1962) 206 Cal. App. 2d 606, 609, 24 Cal. Rptr. 200 ; McCaslin v. City of Monterey Park (1958) 163 Cal. App. 2d 339, 346-347, 329 P.2d 522

[21] Notice and Hearing

Property owner had right to notice of specific general plan change affecting only a few property owners. Harris v. County of Riverside (9th Cir. 1990) 904 F.2d 497

Due process requires notice and hearing only in quasi-judicial or adjudicatory settings and not in adoption of general legislation; general zoning legislation may be enacted without affording affected landowners notice and hearing. San Diego Bldg. Contractors Assn. v. City Council (1974) 13 Cal. 3d 205, 210-211, 118 Cal. Rptr. 146, 529 P.2d 570

[22] Particular Zone Requirements

San Bernardino County general plan classification of "Desert Special Service Center," was not zone, but isolated area in DL (desert living) zone in which commercial development was allowed on site-by-site basis by issuance ofconditional use permit. United Outdoor Advertising Co., Inc. v. Business, Transportation & Housing Agency (1988) 44 Cal. 3d 242, 249-251, 242 Cal. Rptr. 738, 746 P.2d 877

Ordinance was not precluded from requiring different things from property owners in areas zoned differently; property owners in different zones were in different positions and dedication of land for access purposes was not required in all zones. Southern Pac. Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1966) 242 Cal. App. 2d 38, 49-50, 51 Cal. Rptr. 197

[23] Purposes of Zoning--Traffic Considerations

City creating cul de sac pursuant to Veh. Code § 21101(f) is not required to find that street is "no longer needed for vehicular traffic" as provided in Veh. Code § 21101(a)(1). Save the Sunset Strip Coalition v. City of West Hollywood (2001) 87 Cal. App. 4th 1172, 1181, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 172

[23A] Religious Land Use and Institutionalized Persons Act

County's denial of conditional use permit for construction of Sikh temple on land zoned for agricultural use, despite applicant's agreement to numerous conditions and recommendation by county planning commission that permit be granted, violated Religious Land Use and Institutionalized Persons Act. Guru Nanak Sikh Soc'y of Yuba City v. County of Sutter (9th Cir. 2006) 456 F.3d 978, 992

City's denial of application to rezone property to build college for religious education did not violate applicant's First Amendment rights or Religious Land Use and Institutionalized Persons Act of 2000. City's zoning requirements were general laws of neutral application and there was no evidence that city enforced its ordinance in discriminatory manner. San Jose Christian Coll. v. City of Morgan Hill (9th Cir. 2004) 360 F.3d 1024, 1035

[24] Traditional Mandate

Local assessment committee appointed to advise county on application for permit to expand hazardous waste site did not have "beneficial interest" required by Code Civ. Proc. § 1086 for standing to challenge county's subsequent approval of permit. Laidlaw Environmental Services, Inc. v. Kern County (1996) 44 Cal. App. 4th 346, 351-353, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 666

Mandate proceeding to compel county to grant permit for permitted use of property was properly denied when plaintiff failed to exhaust administrative remedy in form of discretionary conditional use permit that, if granted, would have given plaintiff everything sought in judicial action. Sabek, Inc. v. County of Sonoma (1987) 190 Cal. App. 3d 163, 165-168, 235 Cal. Rptr. 350

Traditional mandate is not available to review conditional use permit decision. Garden Grove Congregation v. City of Garden Grove (1959) 176 Cal. App. 2d 136, 140-142, 1 Cal. Rptr. 65

[25] Variance

[a] Conditions

Conditions may be attached to variance to preserve general purposes and intent of zoning ordinance. Cow Hollow Improvement Club v. Board of Permit Appeals (1966) 245 Cal. App. 2d 160, 183, 53 Cal. Rptr. 610

[b] Grounds

Self-imposed burdens, such as developer's adoption of superior building standards, are not legal justification for granting variance. Broadway Laguna etc. Assn. v. Board of Permit Appeals (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 767, 778, 59 Cal. Rptr. 146, 427 P.2d 810

Variance improperly granted gasoline station that was nonconforming use in residential area; because there were no other gas stations located in same geographic area, station owner could not show he was deprived of useafforded to other properties in same zone and vicinity. Stolman v. City of Los Angeles (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 916, 928-929, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 178

Lot's location in "fringe area" of one zone was not acceptable justification for variance; surrounding lots in nonconformance with law were not justification for variance. Cow Hollow Improvement Club v. Board of Permit Appeals (1966) 245 Cal. App. 2d 160, 178-179, 53 Cal. Rptr. 610

[c] Review

Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 is applicable in reviewing validity of zoning variance. Scott v. City of Indian Wells (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 541, 546 n.4, 99 Cal. Rptr. 745, 492 P.2d 1137

[26] Vested Rights

Allocation of specific units under interim development ordinance did not create vested rights when allocation was conditioned on application for building permit within specified period. Consaul v. City of San Diego (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1781, 1796-1801, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 762

[27] Waiver

Governmental body is unable to waive requirements of ordinance enacted for public benefit; county is unable to waive its right to insist on application for extension of use permit. Strong v. County of Santa Cruz (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 720, 727, 125 Cal. Rptr. 896, 543 P.2d 264

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesWritsCommon Law WritsMandamusEnvironmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementGeneral OverviewEnvironmental LawZoning & Land UseConditional Use Permits & VariancesGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime LimitationsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseZoning Methods

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Zoning and Planning

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.318

§ 579.318 Attorney General Opinions

Local agency is prohibited from charging building permit and similar fees, based on Uniform Building Code Valuation Tables or otherwise, that are more than estimated reasonable cost of providing services rendered unless fee amounts are approved by electorate; fees charged by local agency are invalid to extent they exceed reasonable costs of providing services rendered. 76 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 4, 8-11 (1993)

Coastal Act's provisions for approval of amendments to certified local coastal program or land use plan by Coastal Commission are applicable to charter cities. 70 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 221 (1987)

City or county is not permitted, without Coastal Commission approval, to authorize or prohibit, by ordinance, including one adopted by initiative or referendum, use of land in coastal zone when use is not permitted or prohibited by local coastal program or land use plan certified by Commission. 70 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 220-221 (1987)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsChartersReal Property LawZoning & Land UseImpact FeesReal Property LawZoning & Land UseInitiative & ReferendumReal Property LawZoning & Land UseOrdinances

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Zoning and Planning

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.319

§ 579.319 Law Reviews

Alperin and King, Ballot Box Planning: Land Use Planning Through the Initiative Process in California, 21 Sw. U.L. Rev. 1 (1992)

Galowitz, Interstate Metro-Regional Responses To Exclusionary Zoning, 27 Real Prop., Prob. & Tr. J. 49 (1992)

Comment, Land Use by, for and of the People: Problems With the Application of Initiatives and Referenda to the Zoning Process, 19 Pepperdine L. Rev. 99 (1992)

Comment, Shifting Sands and Shifting Doctrines: The Supreme Court's Changing Takings Doctrine and South Carolina's Coastal Zone Statute, 79 Cal. L. Rev. 207 (1991)

Liebmann, Suburban Zoning--Two Modest Proposals, 25 Real Prop. Prob. and Tr. J. 1 (1990)

Bittle, Nollan v. California Coastal Commission: You Can't Always Get What You Want, But Sometimes You Get What You Need, 15 Pepperdine L. Rev. 345 (1988)

Falik and Shimko, The "Takings" Nexus--The Supreme Court Chooses a New Direction in Land-Use Planning: A View from California, 39 Hastings L.J. 359 (1988)

Note, Instant Planning--Land Use Regulation by Initiative in California, 61 S. Cal. L. Rev. 497 (1988)

Note, Environmental Restrictions or Land Use Regulation--The Supreme Court Draws a Distinction: California Coastal Commission v. Granite Rock Co., 23 U.S.F. L. Rev. 123 (1988)

Geraci and Nabozny-Younger, Damages for a Temporary Regulatory Taking: First English Evangelical Lutheran Church v. County of Los Angeles, 24 Cal. W.L. Rev. 33 (1987-1988)

Alperin, AB 283--A Zoning Consistency Odyssey, 17 Sw. U.L. Rev. 1 (1987)

Comment, Fear and Loathing on the California Coastline: Are Coastal Commission Property Exactions Constitutional? 14 Pepperdine L. Rev. 357 (1987)

Slimp, The Sovereign Commission: of Coastal Permits, Continuing Jurisdiction, and Vanishing Local Independence, 16 Sw. U.L. Rev. 699 (1986)

Note, City of Cleburne v. Cleburne Living Center: Rational Basis With a Bite? 20 U.S.F. L. Rev. 927 (1986)

Comment, Land Use Planning in the Coastal Zone: Protecting a Sensitive Ecosystem with Transferable Development Credits, 21 Santa Clara L. Rev. 439 (1981)

Comment, Public Access and the California Coastal Commission: A Question of Overreaching, 21 Santa Clara L. Rev. 395 (1981)

Note, City of Santa Barbara V. Adamson: New Protection for Alternate Life Style Decisions, 14 Loyola L. Rev. 359 (1981)

Note, Single-Family Zoning: Ramifications of State Court Rejection of Belle Terre on Use and Density Control, 32 Hastings L.J. 1687 (1981)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Constitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental RightsEminent Domain & TakingsEnvironmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementGeneral OverviewReal Property LawZoning & Land UseConstitutional LimitsReal Property LawZoning & Land UseInitiative & ReferendumReal Property LawZoning & Land UseZoning Methods

137 of 157 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Zoning and Planning

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.320

§ 579.320 Text References

Rohan, Zoning and Land Use Controls, Ch. 26, Coastal Zone Management (Matthew Bender)

Land Use Law, Ch. 4, The Zoning System (Matthew Bender)

California Zoning Practice (Cal. CEB 1969), Chs. 7, 9, 11, 12

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawNatural Resources & Public LandsCoastal Zone ManagementGeneral OverviewReal Property LawZoning & Land UseZoning Methods

138 of 157 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
A. Zoning and Planning

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 579.321-579.339

[Reserved]

§§ 579.321[Reserved]

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Subdivision Map Act

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.340

§ 579.340 California Legal Forms

For discussion and forms relating to the Subdivided Lands Act, Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act, and Subdivision Map Act, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 30 Subdivision Regulation , (Matthew Bender)

For discussion and forms relating to the Vacation Ownership Time-Share Act of 2004, see California Legal Forms, Ch. 34 Condominiums and Other Common Interest Developments, Pt. D, Time-Share Projects , (Matthew Bender)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawCommon Interest CommunitiesTimesharesReal Property LawPurchase & SaleInterstate Land Sales Full Disclosure ActReal Property LawSubdivisionsLocal RegulationReal Property LawSubdivisionsState Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Subdivision Map Act

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.341

§ 579.341 California Real Estate

For discussion of the Subdivision Map Act, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 290- 292 (Matthew Bender)

For discussion of the regulation of subdivided land sales, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 424, Regulation of Subdivided Land Sales (Matthew Bender)

For discussion of the regulation of time-share developments, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 425, Regulation of Time-Share Developments (Matthew Bender)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawCommon Interest CommunitiesTimesharesReal Property LawSubdivisionsLocal RegulationReal Property LawSubdivisionsState Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Subdivision Map Act

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.342

§ 579.342 California Environmental Law

For detailed coverage of subdivision regulation, see California Environmental Law and Land Use Practice, Ch. 61, Subdivision Regulation (Matthew Bender)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawSubdivisionsLocal RegulationReal Property LawSubdivisionsState Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Subdivision Map Act

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.343

§ 579.343 Federal Statutes

Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act. 15 U.S.C. §§ 1701-1720

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawPurchase & SaleInterstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Subdivision Map Act

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.344

§ 579.344 State Statutes

Out of state land promotions. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 10249-10249.93

Disclaimer requirement for offerings related to subdivided land entirely located outside California, but within United States. Bus. & Prof. Code § 10249.8

Disclaimer requirement for offerings related to subdivided land outside United States. Bus. & Prof. Code § 10249.9

Subdivided Lands Act. Bus. & Prof. Code § 11000 et seq.

Vacation Ownership and Time-Share Act of 2004. Bus. & Prof. Code § 11210 et seq.

Violation of specified provisions of Subdivided Lands Act as penal offense. Bus. & Prof. Code § 11023

Procedure for imposing fees as condition of approval of development projects. Gov. Code § 66000 et seq.

Subdivision Map Act. Gov. Code § 66410 et seq.

Subdivision Map Act review. Gov. Code § 66499.37

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawCommon Interest CommunitiesTimesharesReal Property LawSubdivisionsLocal RegulationReal Property LawSubdivisionsState RegulationReal Property LawZoning & Land UseImpact Fees

144 of 157 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Subdivision Map Act

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.345

§ 579.345 Federal Regulations

Interstate Land Sales Registration Program. 24 C.F.R. § 1710.1 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawPurchase & SaleInterstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Subdivision Map Act

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.346

§ 579.346 State Regulations

Subdivided lands. 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2790 et seq.

Time-Share Projects. 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2805 et seq.

Environmental impact evaluation of subdivided lands. 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 2820 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Environmental LawZoning & Land UseGeneral OverviewReal Property LawCommon Interest CommunitiesTimesharesReal Property LawSubdivisionsLocal RegulationReal Property LawSubdivisionsState Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Subdivision Map Act

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.347

§ 579.347 Decisions

[1] Certificate of Compliance

Developer who lost all interest in property following foreclosure lacked standing to maintain mandamus action to compel county to issue certificates of compliance for property. County of San Luis Obispo v. Superior Court (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 288, 295, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 753

[2] Development Fees

Heightened scrutiny of development conditions required by U.S. Supreme Court for determining whether compensable regulatory taking has occurred applies to development conditions that require payment of monetary fee (rather than requiring possessory dedication), at least when governmental conditions requiring monetary exactions are imposed on individual and discretionary basis, rather than generally or ministerially. Ehrlich v. City of Culver City (1996) 12 Cal. 4th 854, 865, 50 Cal. Rptr. 2d 242, 911 P.2d 429

[3] Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act

Defendants' voluntary ceasing of selling land was no defense to suit for injunctive relief brought by Secretary. Lynn v. Biderman (9th Cir. 1976) 536 F.2d 820, 825

Developers served with subpoenas duces tecum issued in course of investigation under Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act were entitled to protective order prohibiting administrator from writing letters to their customers advising them they had right to void their contracts and receive refund. Lynn v. Biderman (9th Cir. 1976) 536 F.2d 820, 826-827

When defendant is not developer or agent, defendant must have assisted or participated in fraud in violation of

Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act in order to be liable as aider or abettor. Fuls v. Shastina Properties, Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1978) 448 F. Supp. 983, 990

Papers properly filed and accepted by state are accepted as appropriate and complete statement of record for purposes of Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act. Happy Investment Group v. Lakeworld Prop., Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1975) 396 F. Supp. 175, 185

Tolling of statute of limitations required showing that defendants concealed from plaintiffs basic facts forming cause of action and that plaintiffs were ignorant of facts through no fault of their own. Happy Investment Group v. Lakeworld Prop., Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1975) 396 F. Supp. 175, 188

[4] Subdivided Lands Act

Buyer who rescinded real estate contract with developer on learning that developer had violated Subdivision Lands Act was entitled to attorneys' fees pursuant to attorneys' fees clause in contract, even though buyer elected to "void" contract. Yuba Cypress Housing Partners, Ltd. v. Area Developers (2002) 98 Cal. App. 4th 1077, 1083, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 273

Right to rescind contract subject to Subdivided Lands Act is limited to executory contracts between purchaser and subdivider; thus, subsequent purchaser of subdivided land does not have standing to seek rescission of original sale from subdivider to subsequent purchaser's predecessor in interest. Drake v. Martin (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 984, 995-996, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 704

[5] Subdivision Map Act

[a] In General

When developer had secured final subdivision map approval to convert units to condominiums and had satisfied requirements established by state law, later enacted ordinance regulating condominium conversions was not applicable to approved conversions. CUPity of West Hollywood v. Beverly Towers, Inc. (1991) 52 Cal. 3d 1184, 1190-1194, 278 Cal. Rptr. 375, 805 P.2d 329

Subdivision Map Act did not preempt city's attempt to regulate condominium conversion in connection with rent control law. Santa Monica Pines, Ltd. v. Rent Control Board (1984) 35 Cal. 3d 858, 868-869, 201 Cal. Rptr. 593, 679 P.2d 27 (overruled on other grounds in City of West Hollywood v. Beverly Towers, Inc. (1991) 52 Cal. 3d 1184, 1191-1192, 278 Cal. Rptr. 375, 805 P.2d 329 (noted above))

Subdivision Map Act does not control land division by probate court in setting aside probate homestead because state law overrides local ordinance. Wells Fargo Bank v. Town of Woodside (1983) 33 Cal. 3d 379, 384-390, 189 Cal. Rptr. 41, 657 P.2d 819

Filing of subdivision map is insufficient to exempt one from subsequent zone change. Palmer v. Board of Supervisors (1983) 145 Cal. App. 3d 779, 783, 193 Cal. Rptr. 669

Subdivision Map Act allows local ordinances relating to matters covered by Act. Benny v. City of Alameda (1980) 105 Cal. App. 3d 1006, 1011, 164 Cal. Rptr. 776 (overruled on other grounds in The Pines v. Santa Monica (1981) 29 Cal. 3d 656, 664, 175 Cal. Rptr. 336, 630 P.2d 521); Longridge Estates v. City of Los Angeles (1960) 183 Cal. App. 2d 533, 538-539, 6 Cal. Rptr. 900 (construing former Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 11500-11628)

[b] Effect of Noncompliance with Act

Gov. Code § 66499.32(b), which denies buyer the option of voiding contract whenever certificate of compliance, parcel map, or final map exists to ratify seller's compliance with Subdivision Map Act, is inapplicable when any of those documents constitute proof of violation; although senior lienholder who foreclosed on lot in improperly subdivided parcel had option to void contract, he elected not to do so, and junior lienholder who foreclosed on entire merged parcel had no standing to void deed for that lot. Le Gault v. Erickson (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 369, 374, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 692

[c] Extension

Extension of subdivision map beyond 10-year limit to 13 years was possible by mandatory extension if discretionary extension used during initial 10-year period. California Country Club Homes Ass'n v. City of Los Angeles (1993) 22 Cal. Rptr. 2d 917

[d] Map Approval

Once developer has complied with conditions attached to approval of tentative subdivision map and submitted final map corresponding to tentative map, approval of final map by county board of supervisors is ministerial. Youngblood v. Board of Supervisors (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 644, 648, 655-656, 150 Cal. Rptr. 242, 586 P.2d 556

When parcels in subdivision are resubdivided by subsequent parcel map recorded in compliance with Subdivision Map Act, new parcel map amends provisions of any previously recorded parcel map made in compliance with Subdivision Map Act. Christian v. Flora (2008) 164 Cal. App. 4th 539, 542, 78 Cal. Rptr. 3d 892

While project is not required to be in perfect conformity with each and every general plan policy, nature of policy and nature of inconsistency are critical factors that must be considered; inconsistency with general plan policy that was fundamental and mandatory was fatal. Families Unafraid to Uphold Rural Etc. County v. Board of Supervisors (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th 1332, 1341-1342, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1

Statutory requirement that proposed subdivision map be consistent with general plan does not require exact match between proposed subdivision and applicable general plan; rather it requires map to be "in agreement or harmony with" the plan. Sequoyah Hills Homeowners Assn. v. City of Oakland (1994) 23 Cal. App. 4th 704, 717-718, 29 Cal. Rptr. 2d 182 ; Greenebaum v. City of Los Angeles (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 391, 406, 200 Cal. Rptr. 237

If approval of tentative subdivision map is conditioned on performance of work that requires building permit, when permit is sought landowner must comply with all applicable laws, including those enacted after conditional approval of tentative map. Hazon-Iny Development, Inc. v. City of Santa Monica (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 1, 9-11

Express finding of consistency with applicable general plan is legal prerequisite of approval of proposed map; tie votes of council and planning commission does not constitute requisite findings. Woodland Hills Residents Assn., Inc. v. City Council (1975) 44 Cal. App. 3d 825, 832-838, 118 Cal. Rptr. 856 (decided under former Bus. & Prof. Code § 11526.2)

[e] Noticed Hearing

When approval of subdivision map constitutes significant or substantial deprivation of property rights of other landowners, those landowners are entitled to reasonable notice and opportunity for hearing prior to approval. Horn v.

County of Ventura (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 605, 615, 156 Cal. Rptr. 718, 596 P.2d 1134

When approval of tentative subdivision map will constitute substantial or significant deprivation of property rights of other landowners, those landowners are entitled to reasonable notice and opportunity to be heard before approval occurs. Kennedy v. City of Hayward (1980) 105 Cal. App. 3d 953, 960-961, 165 Cal. Rptr. 132

[f] Periods of Limitation

Ninety-day service of summons requirement in Gov. Code § 66499.37 applies to CEQA causes of action concerning a subdivision. Friends of Riverside's Hills v. City of Riverside (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 743, 754, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 695

Action challenging city council's decision to merge lot with adjacent parcel and thereby preclude residential use of property was subject to 90-day statute of limitations in Subdivision Map Act rather than longer limitations period set forth in Mitigation Fee Act. Fogarty v. City of Chico (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 537, 544, 55 Cal. Rptr. 3d 795

Service of summons within 90 days is mandatory under Gov. Code § 66499.37 and not subject to equitable tolling. Maginn v. City of Glendale (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 1102, 1109, 85 Cal. Rptr. 2d 639

Limitation period of Gov. Code § 66499.37 applies to action for declaratory relief asking that expiration date of tentative map be tolled. Presenting Jamul v. Board of Supervisors (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 665, 670-672, 282 Cal. Rptr. 564

When extension of effective period of tentative map specifically authorized by local ordinance is challenged as unlawful, Gov. Code § 66499.37 statute of limitations begins to run at time extension is granted; limitation period does not begin again on approval of final map. Griffis v. County of Mono (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 414, 421-423, 209 Cal. Rptr. 519

Limitation period of Gov. Code § 66499.37 is applicable when conduct of local agency is called into question, whether under traditional mandate of Code Civ. Proc. § 1085 alleging violation of ministerial duty or under administrative mandate of Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5 alleging abuse of discretion. Kirk v. County of San Luis Obispo (1984) 156 Cal. App. 3d 453, 460, 202 Cal. Rptr. 606

Failure to seek judicial review of denial of certificate of compliance under Gov. Code § 66499.35 within limitation period of Gov. Code § 66499.37 bars judicial review. Kirk v. County of San Luis Obispo (1984) 156 Cal. App. 3d 453, 460-461, 202 Cal. Rptr. 606

Laches due to unjustified delay bars action attacking decision regarding subdivision even though brought within time constraints of Gov. Code § 66499.37. Resource Defense Fund v. County of Santa Cruz (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 800, 809-810, 184 Cal. Rptr. 371 ; Holt v. County of Monterey (1982) 128 Cal. App. 3d 797, 801-802, 180 Cal. Rptr. 514

Gov. Code § 66499.37 requires that decision must be judicially attacked within stated number of days of that decision; when decision approves map and attaches conditions, period begins to run from date of decision, not from date on which conditions must be performed. Timberidge Enterprises, Inc. v. City of Santa Rosa (1978) 86 Cal. App. 3d 873, 885-886, 150 Cal. Rptr. 606

[g] Remedies

Claim of violation of due process in processing subdivision map act application is ripe for review when subdivision map is rejected. Herrington v. County of Sonoma (9th Cir. 1987) 834 F.2d 1488

Subdivision Map Act does not require innocent purchaser to suffer for violation of Act by his or her grantor, of which he or she has neither knowledge nor means of discovery; local authority may require innocent purchaser, as condition to issuance of building permit, to comply with reasonable conditions and to perform reasonable improvements as could have been required of grantor before subdivision by Act and local ordinance at time of sale to purchasers. Keizer v. Adams (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 976, 980-981, 88 Cal. Rptr. 183, 471 P.2d 983

Developers whose subdivision application was denied could not assert estoppel against city based on city's prior recommendation that "clustered" design would comply with city's open space policies, when developer had obtained no permits or preliminary approvals and city's recommendation did not address project's consistency with other important policies. Toigo v. Town of Ross (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 309, 323-324, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 649

Subdivider was liable to public entity for breach of contract to install improvements when water and sewer systems were defective. County of Mariposa v. Yosemite West Associates (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 791, 805-812, 248 Cal. Rptr. 778

[h] Vesting Tentative Maps

Due process notice requirement implicit in vesting tentative map statutes [Gov. Code §§ 66498.1-66498.9] limits increases in developer's fees to those for which adequate standards for determining scope and extent of fee increases are in place at time vesting tentative map is deemed complete. Kaufman & Broad Central Valley, Inc. v. City of Modesto (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1577, 1589, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 904

Vesting tentative map statutes [Gov. Code §§ 66498.1-66498.9] require prior notice, either actual or constructive, as condition to imposing local ordinances, policies, and standards on applicant who is entitled to rely on complete vesting tentative map. Bright Development v. City of Tracy (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 783, 798, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 618

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJusticiabilityStandingGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesWritsCommon Law WritsMandamusReal Property LawPurchase & SaleInterstate Land Sales Full Disclosure ActReal Property LawSubdivisionsLocal RegulationReal Property LawSubdivisionsState Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Subdivision Map Act

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.348

§ 579.348 Attorney General Opinions

Subdivider, tenants, and advisory agency may appeal tentative map determination made by city advisory agency or appeal board; any interested person adversely affected by determination may obtain review by filing complaint. 73 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 338, 341 (1990)

Legislature may enact statute that prohibits persons affected by parcel or tentative map determination from appealing to governing body of city; but that action may notbe accomplished by a charter provision. 73 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 338, 345, 347 (1990)

County must issue certificates of compliance for lots that were described on map properly recorded under predecessor statute to Subdivision Map Act, as well as local ordinances enacted thereunder. 74 Ops. Cal. Att'y Gen. 149 (1991)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJusticiabilityStandingGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsChartersGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsLegislaturesReal Property LawSubdivisionsLocal RegulationReal Property LawSubdivisionsState Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Subdivision Map Act

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.349

§ 579.349 Law Reviews

Note, The Pines v. City of Santa Monica: Redefining the Focus of California's Subdivision Map Act, 16 Loy. L. Rev. 61 (1983)

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Subdivision Map Act

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.350

§ 579.350 Text References

Powell, The Law of Real Property, Ch. 70A, Federal Regulation of Interstate Land Sales--The Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act (Matthew Bender)

Rohan, Zoning and Land Use Controls, Ch. 45, Subdivision Controls (Matthew Bender)

California Subdivision Map Act Practice (Cal CEB 1987), Chs. 1-10

Guide to California Subdivision Sales Law (Cal CEB 1974), Ch. 2, Applicability of the Subdivided Lands Act, §§ 2.1-2.23

Anderson, American Law of Zoning, Vol 3, Ch. 19 Subdivision Controls, §§ 19.01-19.48

Miller and Starr, Current Law of California Real Estate, (2d ed), Vol. 4, Ch. 24, Subdivisions and Condominiums, §§ 24:33-24:57, 24:58-24:80

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Real Property LawCommon Interest CommunitiesCondominiumsGeneral OverviewReal Property LawPurchase & SaleInterstate Land Sales Full Disclosure ActReal Property LawSubdivisionsLocal RegulationReal Property LawSubdivisionsState Regulation

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART III. RESEARCH GUIDE
B. Subdivision Map Act

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 579.351-579.369

[Reserved]

§§ 579.351[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART IV. FORMS
A. Zoning and Planning

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.370

§ 579.370 Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Declaratory Relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060] and for Preliminary [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 527(a)] and Permanent Injunctions [Civ. Code § 3422]--Zoning Ordinance Unconstitutional and Void [U.S. Const., Amends. V, XIV § 1; Cal. Const., art. IV, § 16(a)]

[1] FORM Complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 425.10] for Declaratory Relief [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060] and for Preliminary [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 527(a)] and Permanent Injunctions [Civ. Code § 3422]--Zoning Ordinance Unconstitutional and Void [U.S. Const., Amends. V, XIV § 1; Cal. Const., art. IV, § 16(a)]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR DECLARATORY RELIEF,
_____ [names],	)	AND FOR PRELIMINARY AND PERMANENT
Defendants.	)	INJUNCTIONS
	)	[U.S. Const., amend. XIV, § 1; Cal. Const., art. IV, § 16(a); Civ. Code § 3422; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 526, 527(a) 1060]
	)

_____

Plaintiff alleges:

FIRST COUNT
(Declaratory Relief)

1. Defendant is _____ [County or _____ (name of city), a municipal corporation organized and existing under the constitution and laws of the State of California and situated in _____ County], California.

2. Defendant _____ [board of supervisors or city council] is the legally constituted legislative body of _____ [name of city or county] consisting of individual defendants _____ [names]. One of the duties with which defendant is charged is enacting ordinances dividing the _____ [city or county] or portions thereof into zoning districts in accordance with the promotion of the public welfare.

3. Defendant _____ [specify administrative agency, e.g., planning commission] is a duly constituted appointive body of defendant _____ [city or county] consisting of individual defendants _____ [names]. Oneof the duties with which defendant is charged is classifying and reclassifying private real property according to its location withinzoning districts in accordance with the promotion of the public welfare, for the purpose of recommending to defendant legislative body the enactment or amendment of ordinances zoning that real property.

4. Plaintiff is, and at all times herein mentioned was, _____ [state facts showing plaintiff's standing to challenge the ordinance, e.g., the operator of coin-operated flipper amusement games who desired to install those games at various game arcades located throughout the city].

5. On _____ [date], the _____ [the city council of _____ (name of city) or the board of supervisors of _____ County] enacted a comprehensive zoning ordinance entitled _____ [title]. That ordinance _____ [set forth briefly what the ordinance did, e.g., regulated the use of property throughout the city by regulating the allowable commercial operation of games throughout the city]. _____ [Section(s) _____ (specify section(s) relevant to dispute) of that ordinance provide(s) as follows: "_____" or A true copy of the ordinance is attached to this complaint as Exhibit A and made a part of this complaint].

6. _____ [State ultimate facts establishing that the ordinance is unconstitutional on its face, e.g., The ordinance prohibits the commercial operation of mechanical games involving the use of flippers, which are games of skill, but allows commercial operation of other types of games involving skill, thereby establishing an invidious discrimination between operation of flipper games and operation of other skill games and other recreational and sporting activities that are predominantly of skill].

7. Under defendant's comprehensive zoning ordinance, a person aggrieved by a zoning action of defendant may _____ [specify the administrative remedies and appeals provided for by the ordinance].

[EITHER]

8. On or about _____ [date], plaintiff _____ [set forth the steps taken by plaintiff in complying with the administrative remedies and attach copies of any written rulings].

[OR]

8. _____ [State why exhaustion of administrative remedies would have been futile, e.g., Defendant city council expressly enacted the above-described ordinance to prevent plaintiffs from operating his/her games within the city].

[CONTINUE]

9. Plaintiff has pursued and exhausted all administrative remedies available to him/her in attempting to obtain relief from the above-described ordinance. There is no provision for further appeal from those decisions, and by reason thereof, plaintiff has no plain, speedy, and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law.

10. An actual controversy exists between plaintiff and defendant relating to the legal rights and duties of the respective parties.

11. Plaintiff contends that the above-described ordinance is unconstitutional _____ [specify basis of contention, e.g., in that it is based on an unreasonable and arbitrary classification between commercial games and establishes an invidious discrimination between flipper games and other skill and recreational or sporting activities that are predominantly of skill in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution and Article IV, section 16(a) of the California Constitution]; whereas defendant contends that the above-described ordinance is a reasonable exercise of the police power and has a reasonable relation to the public health, safety, morals, and general welfare.

12. Plaintiff desires a judicial determination of his/her rights and a declaration that the above-described ordinance is invalid.

13. A judicial determination is necessary and appropriate at this time under the circumstances in order that plaintiff may ascertain his/her rights and duties under the above-described ordinance.

SECOND COUNT
(Injunctive Relief)

14. Plaintiff refers to and herein incorporates Paragraphs 1-9 of the First Count.

15. Defendant's enforcement of the ordinance, unless and until enjoined and restrained by order of this court, will _____ [specify particular facts establishing grounds for preliminary injunctive relief, e.g., cause great and irreparable injury to plaintiff in that plaintiff will be unable to operate his/her coin-operated flipper games within defendant city].

16. Plaintiff has no adequate remedy at law for the injuries currently being suffered in that _____ [specify any additional facts tending to show grounds for permanent injunctive relief, e.g., if defendant is allowed to continue its enforcement of the above-described ordinance, plaintiff will be permanently prohibited from operating his/her coin-operated flipper games within defendant city in that the arcade owners will fill their arcades with the games allowed under the ordinance, and will not have any room left for plaintiff's games].

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment as follows:

On the FIRST COUNT:

1. For a declaration that the above-described ordinance is unconstitutional, invalid, and void on its face.

On the SECOND COUNT:

2. For issuance of preliminary injunction and permanent injunction restraining and enjoining defendants from _____ [specify, e.g., enforcing the zoning ordinance enacted on _____ (date)];

On BOTH COUNTS:

3. For costs of suit herein incurred;

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [signature]

Attorney for Plaintiff

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the plaintiff in the above-entitled action. I have read the foregoing complaint and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

This form of complaint is for use by a plaintiff to bring an action for declaratory relief to determine the constitutionality of a zoning ordinance. The form contains a second count for use to seek injunctive relief from enforcement of the ordinance.

The ground alleged for the unconstitutionality of the ordinance is that it is based on an arbitrary and unreasonable classification that establishes an invidious discrimination between the plaintiff and other persons similarly situated [U.S. Const., amend. XIV, § 1; Cal. Const., art. IV, § 16(a); see Cossack v. City of Los Angeles (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 726, 734, 114 Cal. Rptr. 460, 523 P.2d 260] .

CAUTION:

A complaint seeking preliminary injunctive relief must be either verified or accompanied by affidavits (or declarations under Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5) in support of the allegations of the complaint [Code Civ. Proc. § 527(a)]. If relying on a verified complaint instead of affidavits (or declarations), counsel must plead evidentiary facts that would entitle plaintiff to the relief sought [see E.H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1 ; San Juan G. Co. v. San Juan R. etc. Assn. (1939) 34 Cal. App. 2d 159, 174, 93 P.2d 582] . For discussion, a procedural checklist, and additional forms necessary to obtain a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction, see Ch. 303, Injunctions .

[3] Constitutional Challenges

[a] Generally

If an ordinance is clearly arbitrary and unreasonable and has no substantial relation to the public health, safety, morals, or general welfare it may be unconstitutional [see Associated Home Builders etc., Inc. v. City of Livermore (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 582, 601-607, 135 Cal. Rptr. 41, 557 P.2d 473 ; see also § 579.218[1]]. An ordinance may also be subject to constitutional challenge when it creates discriminatory spot zoning [see Kissinger v. City of Los Angeles (1958) 161 Cal. App. 2d 454, 460, 462-463, 327 P.2d 10 ; see also § 579.33].

[b] Method of Challenge

An action for declaratory relief and an action seeking injunctive relief from enforcement are only appropriate to challenge the constitutionality of an ordinance that is allegedly unconstitutional on its face [see Agins v. Tiburon (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 266, 272-273, 277, 157 Cal. Rptr. 372, 598 P.2d 25 , aff'd, 447 U.S. 255, 259, 100 S. Ct. 2138, 65 L. Ed. 2d 106 (1980) ; State v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 250-252, 255, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281] . When the ordinance is allegedly unconstitutional as applied to an individual property owner, administrative mandate is the appropriate form of relief [see Agins v. Tiburon (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 266, 272-273, 277, 157 Cal. Rptr. 372, 598 P.2d 25 , aff'd, 447 U.S. 255, 259, 100 S. Ct. 2138, 65 L. Ed. 2d 106 (1980) ; State v. Superior Court of Orange County (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 237, 249, 115 Cal. Rptr. 497, 524 P.2d 1281] .

[4] Allegations

The first cause of action in the above complaint alleges: (1) defendant's capacity (Paragraphs 1-3); (2) plaintiff's capacity (Paragraph 4); (3) the enactment of the ordinance (Paragraph 5); (4) the facts indicating that the ordinance is unconstitutional on its face as a violation of equal protection of the law based on an arbitrary classification (Paragraph 6) [U.S. Const., amend. XIV, § 1; Cal. Const., art. IV, § 16(a)]; (5) plaintiff's exhaustion of available administrative remedies or the futility of doing so (Paragraphs 7-9) [see Igna v. City of Baldwin Park (1970) 9 Cal. App. 3d 909, 911-912, 88 Cal. Rptr. 581 ; see also Ogo Associates v. City of Torrance (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 830, 834, 112 Cal. Rptr. 761 (futility); for discussion of the exhaustion requirement, see Ch. 474 et seq., Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions]; and (6) the existence of an actual controversy and the necessity for a judicial determination (Paragraphs 9-13) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1060; see also Ch. 182, Declaratory Relief [.

The second cause of action in the complaint incorporates by reference the paragraphs setting forth the necessity for relief and alleges (1) facts to support preliminary injunctive relief (Paragraph 15) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 526; E.H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 Cal. 2d 369, 373, 106 P.2d 1] ; and (2) any additional facts necessary to support permanent injunctive relief (Paragraph 16) [see Civ. Code § 3422; see also Ch. 303, Injunctions [.

[5] State Statutes

Injunctions. Civ. Code § 3244; Code Civ. Proc. § 526

Action for declaratory relief. Code Civ. Proc. § 1060

[6] Decisions

Zoning ordinance is unconstitutional when it is so unreasonable or arbitrary as virtually to deprive landowner of complete use and enjoyment of his or her property. Agins v. Tiburon (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 266, 272-273, 277, 157 Cal. Rptr. 372, 598 P.2d 25 , aff'd, 447 U.S. 255, 259, 100 S. Ct. 2138, 65 L. Ed. 2d 106 (1980)

Equal protection of laws requires that classification be reasonable, not arbitrary, and must have some ground of difference so that all persons similarly situated are treated alike. Cossack v. City of Los Angeles (1974) 11 Cal. 3d 726, 734, 114 Cal. Rptr. 460, 523 P.2d 260

Ordinance is improperly and unlawfully discriminatory when it confers particular privileges on class arbitrarily selected from larger class of persons all of whom stand in same relation to privileges granted and between whom no reasonable difference exists to justify inclusion of one and exclusion of another. Looff v. Long Beach (1957) 153 Cal. App. 2d 174, 181, 314 P.2d 518

[7] Cross References

For alternative allegations as to agency, capacity, and residence of parties, and fictitious name allegations, see Ch. 20, Allegations Commonly Used

For alternative forms of captions and introductions, see Ch. 108, Captions and Introductions

For discussion and forms relating to the format of complaints, see Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints

For discussion and forms relating to damages and pleading damages, see Ch. 177, Damages

For discussion of jurisdiction in California courts in general, see Ch. 323, Jurisdiction: Personal , and Ch. 324, Jurisdiction: Subject Matter

For alternative forms of prayers, see Ch. 420, Prayers

For discussion and forms relating to service of summons generally, see Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers

For forms of allegations showing proper venue, see Ch. 571, Venue

For alternative forms of verification, see Ch. 572, Verification

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART IV. FORMS
A. Zoning and Planning

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.371

§ 579.371 Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086]--To Review Administrative Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5]--Denial of Variance

[1] FORM Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086]--To Review Administrative Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5]--Denial of Variance

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Petitioner,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	PETITION FOR WRIT OF MANDATE
_____ [name (s)],	)	[Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5]
Respondent(s).	)
	)
	)

Petitioner represents:

1. Petitioner is, and at all times herein mentioned was, the owner of land located at _____ [address], _____ [city], _____ County, California, more particularly described as follows: _____ [set forth legal description].

2. Respondent is _____ [County or _____ (name of city), a municipal corporation organized and existing under the constitution and laws of the State of California and situated in _____ County], California.

3. Respondent _____ [specify administrative agency, e.g., board of zoning adjustment] is a duly constituted appointive body of respondent _____ [city or county] consisting of individual respondents _____ [names]. Respondent is charged with the duty of administering the planning code of _____ [city or county].

4. Respondent _____ [board of supervisors or city council] is the legally constituted legislative body of _____ [name of city or county] consisting of individual respondents _____ [names]. One of the duties with which respondent is charged is hearing and determining appeals from decisions of respondent _____ [specify administrative agency, e.g., board of zoning adjustment].

5. Petitioner intends to _____ [briefly describe plans for development of property, e.g., construct a 19-story apartment building with 190 dwelling units for residency by middle income persons on his/her above-described property].

6. According to the comprehensive zoning ordinance of _____ [name of city of county], development within the zone in which the above-described property of petitioner is located _____ [set forth applicablezoning requirement, e.g., requires one off-street parking space for every dwelling unit within a multiple dwelling structure].

7. _____ [Describe request for action made to respondent, e.g., Petitioner filed an application with respondent for a variance from the off-street parking provision of the zoning ordinance in which he/she requested that the number required be reduced by one-half].

8. Government Code Section 65905(a) requires _____ [name of city of county] to hold a public hearing on an application for a variance from the requirements of a zoning ordinance. Respondent is required to exercise its discretion in making a decision on a variance application.

9. On _____ [date], the required hearing was held. The evidence presented at the hearing indicated that _____ [set forth facts, e.g., his/her apartment building is designed for persons of middle income, of whom only 50 percent have cars and that there are three public garages within two blocks of his/her property which have consistently high vacancy rates]. On _____ [date], petitioner received notice of respondent's decision denying his/her request for a variance. [A copy of that decision is attached to this petition as Exhibit A and made a part of this petition.]

10. _____ [Set forth reasons why the decision is claimed to be invalid, e.g., Respondent's decision is invalid as an abuse of discretion because the stated purpose of the off-street parking requirement is to relieve traffic congestion, and not allowing petitioner a variance will in no way serve that purpose while creating an unnecessary hardship for him/her].

[11. Exhaustion of administrative remedies allegation. See § 579.370, Paragraphs 7-9.]

[12. Respondent's actions in denying petitioner's requested variance were frivolous, and petitioner has become and is obligated personally to pay his/her counsel _____ (name), attorney's fees _____ (in the sum of $ _____ or according to proof) as a result of being forced to exhaust his/her administrative remedies and bringing and maintaining this proceeding.]

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays:

1. That the court issue a peremptory writ of mandate ordering respondent _____ [city or county] to grant petitioner the variance requested;

[2. For attorney's fees _____ (in the sum of $_____ or according to proof)];

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [signature]

Attorney for Petitioner

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the petitioner in the above-entitled proceedings. I have read the foregoing petition and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein stated on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signature]

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by a person to petition for a writ of mandate to obtain judicial review of an administrative decision that a variance not be granted [see Siller v. Board of Supervisors (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 479, 485-486, 25 Cal. Rptr. 73, 375 P.2d 41 ; see also § 579.113]. It may be modified for use to petition for a writ of mandate in other zoning decisions in which the administrative body exercises its discretion, such as a conditional use permit or a tentative map under the Subdivision Map Act [see Scott v. City of Indian Wells (1972) 6 Cal. 3d 541, 546, 99 Cal. Rptr. 745, 492 P.2d 1137 and Youngblood v. Board of Supervisors (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 644, 651 n. 2, 150 Cal. Rptr. 242, 586 P.2d 556 (decided under prior law), respectively].

The form is adapted from the fact situation in Siller v. Board of Supervisors (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 479, 25 Cal. Rptr. 73, 375 P.2d 41 .

CAUTION:

A petition for a writ of mandate must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086]. Points and authorities customarily accompany a petition filed in a superior court, although they do not appear to be expressly required by statute. When no alternative writ is sought, proof of service of a copy of the petition need not accompany the application, but proof of service of a copy of the filed petition must be lodged with the court prior to a hearing or any action by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1088.5].

[3] Allegations

The petition alleges: (1) the petitioner's standing (Paragraph 1); (2) the respondents' identities as the decision makers (Paragraphs 2-4); and (3) the necessity for and holding of an evidentiary hearing in which respondent exercises its discretion (Paragraphs 7-10) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5; see also Ch. 474 et seq., Availability of Judicial Review of Agency Decisions].

Optional paragraphs are also included to allege (1) that attorney's fees were incurred due to repondent's frivolous conduct (Paragraph 12) [see Gov. Code § 800]; and (2) that plaintiff exhausted any available administrative remedies; they must be exhausted if they exist, but not all zoning ordinances provide additional remedies after the hearing (Paragraph 11) [see Temescal Water Co. v. Dept. of Public Works (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 90, 106-107, 280 P.2d 1] .

[4] State Statutes

Administrative mandate. Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5

[5] Decisions

Award of attorney's fees is allowable under Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.5 (private attorney general theory) in action against planning agency to compel compliance with Subdivision Map Act. Margolin v. Regional Planning Com. (1982) 134 Cal. App. 3d 999, 1001-1007, 185 Cal. Rptr. 145

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART IV. FORMS
A. Zoning and Planning

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.372

§ 579.372 Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086]--To Review Administrative Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5]--Conditional Use Permit Issued Subject to Invalid Condition [Gov. Code § 65909]

[1] FORM Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086]--To Review Administrative Decision [Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5]--Conditional Use Permit Issued Subject to Invalid Condition [Gov. Code § 65909]
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Petitioner,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	PETITION FOR WRIT OF MANDATE
_____ [name(s)],	)	[Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086 1094.5; Gov. Code § 65909]
Respondent(s).	)
	)
	)

Petitioner represents:

1. [Petitioner's capacity. See § 579.371, Paragraph 1.]

2. [Identity and capacity of respondents. See § 579.371, Paragraphs 2-4.]

3. Petitioner intends to _____ [describe plans for development of property, e.g., construct a church, with an adjoining parking lot and meeting hall].

4. According to the comprehensive zoning ordinance of _____ [name of city or county], the zone in which the above-described property of petitioner is located _____ requires a conditional use permit _____ [specify petitioner's use, e.g., for construction and operation of a church].

5. On or about _____ [date], _____ [allege compliance with conditional use permit procedures, e.g., petitioner filed an application with respondent for a conditional use permit. A public hearing was held on that application, and on or about _____ [date], respondent made its decision, and sent a copy to petitioner. [A true copy of that decision is attached to this petition as Exhibit A and made a part of this petition].

6. Respondent issued the requested conditional use permit, conditioned on _____ [specify conditions attached to conditional use permit issued to petitioner, e.g., petitioner's dedicating the back one-fourth of the above-described property for use as a public baseball field].

7. Government Code Section 65909 provides that no conditional use permit may be conditioned on _____ [the dedication of land for any purpose and/or the posting of a bond to guarantee installation of publicimprovements] not reasonably related to the use of the property for which the permit is requested.

8. _____ [Set forth reasons why the condition is impermissible, e.g., The dedication condition imposed on petitioner by respondent is prohibited because it is not reasonably related to the use of the property as a church].

[9. Exhaustion of administrative remedies. See § 579.370, Paragraphs 7-9.]

[10. Respondent's actions in imposing the above-described condition on the conditional use permit it granted to petitioner were frivolous, and petitioner has become and is obligated personally to pay his/her counsel _____ (name), attorney's fees _____ (in the sum of $_____ or according to proof) as a result of being forced to exhaust his/her administrative remedies and bringing and maintaining this proceeding.]

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays:

1. That the court issue a peremptory writ of mandate ordering respondents to remove the conditions attached to the conditional use permit issued to petitioner;

[2. For attorney's fees _____ (in the sum of $_____ or according to proof)];

3. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

4. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [signature]

Attorney for Petitioner

[Verification. See § 579.371.]

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by a person to petition for a writ of mandate to obtain judicial review of an administrative decision conditioning the issuance of a conditional use permit on impermissible conditions [Gov. Code § 65909; see Nollan v. California Coastal Commission (1987) 483 U.S. 825, 107 S. Ct. 3141, 97 L. Ed. 2d 677 (requirement that easement be conveyed in return for use permit may constitute unconstitutional taking of land under U.S. Const., art. V, and amend.

XIV, unless requirement substantially advances legitimate state interests; requirement that does not further the same legitimate purpose that denial of permit would is invalid); Dolan v. City of Tigard (1994) 512 U.S. 374, 386-391, 114 S. Ct. 2309, 129 L. Ed. 2d 304 (once it is found that conditions imposed on approval of permit advances legitimate state interest, there must be some sort of individualized determination that conditions are related both in nature and extent to projected impact of proposed development); see also Lingle v. Chevron U.S.A. Inc. (2005) 544 U.S. 528, 125 S. Ct. 2074, 2086-2087, 161 L. Ed. 2d 876 (rule articulated in Nollan is not whether exaction would substantially advance some legitimate state interest but rather whether exaction would substantially advance same interests that land use authorities asserted would allow them to deny permit altogether)]. With appropriate modifications, this form may be used when the impermissible condition is attached to the issuance of a variance or building permit [see Gov. Code § 65909].

For discussion of conditional use permits, see § 579.114.

CAUTION:

A petition for a writ of mandate must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086]. Points and authorities customarily accompany a petition filed in a superior court, although they do not appear to be expressly required by statute. When no alternative writ is sought, proof of service of a copy of the petition need not accompany the application, but proof of service of a copy of the filed petition must be lodged with the court prior to a hearing or any action by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1088.5].

[3] Allegations

This petition alleges (1) the necessity for the conditional use permit and its issuance (Paragraphs 3-5); and (2) the attachment of prohibited conditions to the conditional use permit that was granted (Paragraphs 6-8) [Gov. Code § 65909].

[4] Decisions

To be constitutional, exaction must substantially advance same interests that land use authorities asserted would allow them to deny permit altogether. Lingle v. Chevron U.S.A. Inc. (2005) 544 U.S. 528, 125 S. Ct. 2074, 2087, 161 L. Ed. 2d 876

Conditioning approval of building permit on applicant's dedication of portion of its property for flood control and traffic purposes is unconstitutional taking because conditions were not "roughly proportional," i.e., related in nature and extent, to projected impact of expansion of applicant's place of business. Dolan v. City of Tigard (1994) 512 U.S. 374, 386, 114 S. Ct. 2309, 129 L. Ed. 2d 304

Requirement that landowner convey public easement running along beach in return for building permit is unconstitutional taking of property because requirement did not have sufficient nexus with legitimate police power purpose of preserving access to and view of beach. Nollan v. California Coastal Commission (1987) 483 U.S. 825, 107 S. Ct. 3141, 97 L. Ed. 2d 677

Administrative mandate is appropriate remedy when alleging that denial of permit was based on applicant's failure to comply with invalid condition. Selby Realty Co. v. City of San Buenaventura (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 110, 128, 109 Cal. Rptr. 799, 514 P.2d 111

Zoning officials are not allowed to deny permit as means of coercing applicant to comply with separate and entirely unrelated provisions of zoningordinance. Ellis v. City Council (1963) 222 Cal. App. 2d 490, 497, 35 Cal. Rptr. 317

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART IV. FORMS
A. Zoning and Planning

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.373

§ 579.373 Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086]--To Compel Issuance of Building Permit

[1] FORM Petition for Writ of Mandate [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086]--To Compel Issuance of Building Permit

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Petitioner,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	PETITION FOR WRIT OF MANDATE
_____ [name(s)],	)	[Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1085, 1086]
Respondent(s).	)
	)
	)

Petitioner represents:

1. [Petitioner's status as landowner within jurisdiction of respondent. See § 579.371, Paragraph 1.]

2. Respondent is _____ [County or _____ (name of city), a municipal corporation organized and existing under the constitution and laws of the State of California and situated in _____ County], California.

3. Respondent _____ [specify administrative agency, e.g., Building and Safety Department] is a duly constituted and appointed body of respondent _____ [city or county], under the direction of _____ [name], the appointed and qualified Director. One of the duties with which respondent is charged is issuing building permits to applicants under the planning and zoning ordinance of _____ [city or county].

4. Petitioner _____ [set forth activity requiring building permit, e.g., wants to build a swimming pool in her backyard].

5. According to the comprehensive planning and zoning ordinance of _____ [city or county], a building permit for _____ [specify, e.g., construction of a swimming pool] requires _____ [set forth construction requirements] and provides that once these requirements are met, that building permit must be issued by _____ [specify administrative agency, e.g., the Building and Safety Department].

6. Petitioner has complied with all the requirements set forth in that ordinance, and filed an application for a building permit indicating complete compliance with the code requirements.

7. Respondent has a clear, present, and ministerial duty to issue the requested building permit to petitioner. Respondent has refused to issue the permit and continues to refuse to issue the permit.

8. [Exhaustion of admininstrative remedies allegation. See § 579.370, Paragraphs 7-9.]

9. As a proximate result of respondent's failure to issue the requested building permit, petitioner has sustained damages _____ [specify nature and extent of damages, e.g., in that she has already executed building contracts and purchased building materials], all to petitioner's damage in the sum of $_____].

10. Petitioner has no plain, speedy, and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law, other than the relief sought herein, in that _____ [set forth facts showing lack of recourse, e.g., there is no other authority from whom petitioner can obtain the required building permit].

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays:

1. That the court issue an alternative writ of mandate commanding respondent to issue the building permit to petitioner or show cause before this court at a time specified by court order why it has not done so and why a peremptory writ should not issue;

2. That on return of the alternative writ and the hearing of the petition, this court issue a peremptory writ of mandate ordering respondent to issue the building permit to petitioner;

3. For compensatory damages in the sum of $_____;

4. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court may deem proper.

_____ [signature]

Attorney for Petitioner

[Verification. See § 579.371.]

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by a person whose application for a building permit has been denied to petition for a writ of mandate to compel the planning department to issue a building permit and to seek damages [see Court House Plaza Co. v. City of Palo Alto (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 871, 883, 173 Cal. Rptr. 161 , appeal dismissed and cert denied, 454 U.S. 1074, 102 S. Ct. 623, 70 L. Ed. 2d 607 ; Ellis v. City Council (1963) 222 Cal. App. 2d 490, 499, 35 Cal. Rptr. 317] . It may be modified for use to petition for a writ of mandate in other zoning decisions in which actions of the administrative body are ministerial, such as approval of a final map on completion of the conditions of the tentative map already approved under the Subdivision Map Act [see Youngblood v. Board of Supervisors (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 644, 653 n. 4, 655-656, 150 Cal. Rptr. 242, 586 P.2d 556 (decided under prior law)].

CAUTION:

A petition for a writ of mandate must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 1086]. Proof of service on each respondent and real party in interest of a copy of a petition that seeks an alternative writ must accompany the petition when it is offered for filing except when, in its discretion and for good cause, the court has granted the application for the writ ex parte [Code Civ. Proc. § 1107; for a discussion of serving the petition, see Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition [. Points and authorities also customarily accompany a petition filed in a superior court, although they do not appear to be expressly required by statute. When no alternative writ is sought, proof of service of a copy of the petition need not accompany the application, but proof of service of a copy of the filed petition must be lodged with the court prior to a hearing or any action by the court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1088.5].

[3] Allegations

This petition alleges: (1) the petitioner's standing (Paragraph 1); (2) the respondents' duty to issue and the petitioner's right to receive the permit (Paragraphs 2-7) [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1085; see also Ch. 481, Public Works]; (3) exhaustion of administrative remedies (Paragraph 8) [see Temescal Water Co. v. Dept. of Public Works (1955) 44 Cal. 2d 90, 106-107, 280 P.2d 1] ; (4) compensatory damages (Paragraph 9) [see Civ. Code § 3333]; and (5) lack of an adequate legal remedy (Paragraph 10) [see Phelan v. Superior Court (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 363, 366, 217 P.2d 951 ; see also Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition].

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART IV. FORMS
A. Zoning and Planning

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.374

§ 579.374 Summons for Enforcement of State Housing Law [Health & Safety Code § 17990]---Judicial Council Form SUM-145

[1] FORM Summons for Enforcement of State Housing Law [Health & Safety Code § 17990]---Judicial Council Form SUM-145

Click here to view image.

[2] Use of Form

The form in [1], above, is the Judicial Council-approved form of summons for mandatory use in the enforcement of the State Housing Law [see Health & Safety Code § 17990]; Judicial Council Form SUM-145; see also § 579.141[4]].

This form is available in an interactive, electronic format in LexisNexis(R) Automated California Judicial Council Forms, which may be accessed at www.lexisone.com for an individual or monthly charge. A noninteractive version in PDF format also is available at www.lexisone.com at no charge.

[3] Contents of Summons

The manner in which the blanks are to be filled in and boxes checked is self-explanatory.

[4] Summons Procedure

The issuance and service of a summons in a civil action is governed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 412.10-417.40. See Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers .

156 of 157 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART IV. FORMS
A. Zoning and Planning

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated §§ 579.375-579.389

[Reserved]

§§ 579.375[Reserved]

LexisNexis®

California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

Volume 51: Vexatious Litigants thru Zoning and Planning-Chs. 573-579
Chapter 579 ZONING AND PLANNING
PART IV. FORMS
B. Subdivision Map Act

51-579 California Forms of Pleading and Practice--Annotated § 579.390

§ 579.390 Petition to Exclude Real Property From Subdivision [Gov. Code § 66499.22]

[1] FORM Petition to Exclude Real Property From Subdivision [Gov. Code § 66499.22]

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

	)
	)	NO. _____
IN RE PETITION TO EXCLUDE REAL PROP-	)	PETITION
ERTY FROM SUBDIVISION	)	[Gov. Code § 66499.22]
	)

_____

Petitioners allege:

1. _____ [Describe real property within subdivision from which exclusion is sought by reference to the recorded map or by another accurate survey].

2. Petitioners constitute the owners of _____ [specify proportion of at least two-thirds] of the total area of the real property proposed to be excluded from the above-described subdivision.

3. Petitioners request that the following property be excluded from the above-described subdivision: _____ [describe real property to be excluded by reference to the recorded map or by another accurate survey].

4. Petitioners request exclusion of the above-described property for the following reasons: _____ [set forth reasons].

5. As far as is known to petitioners, the following persons are owners of real property situated within the boundaries of the area sought to be excluded: _____ [set forth names and addresses of persons].

6. A map showing the boundaries of the subdivision as it will appear after exclusion and alteration is attached to this petition as Exhibit A and made a part of this petition.

WHEREFORE, petitioners pray as follows:

1. For an order directing the clerk of the court to give notice of the filing of this petition, and to fix a time and place for hearing as prescribed by law.

2. For the court to enter an order excluding the above-described real property from the above-described subdivision and to further order the alteration or vacation of the recorded map.

[3. For such other and further relief as the court may deem equitable.]

Residence	Date	Name
_____	_____	_____ [signature]
_____	_____	_____ [signature]
_____	_____	_____ [signature]
_____	_____	_____ [signature]

[COMPILE signatures of the owners of at least two-thirds of the total area of property sought to be excluded]

VERIFICATION

I, _____ [name], am the petitioner in the above-entitled proceeding. I have read the foregoing petition and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date]

_____ [signatures of all petitioners]

[2] Use of Form

This form is for use by the owners of land within a subdivision to petition to exclude their land from that subdivision. It is filed with the county surveyor and clerk of the board of supervisors of the county in which the subdivision or the portion thereof sought to be excluded is situated [Gov. Code § 66499.22; see § 579.275].

CAUTION:
This petition must be verified [Gov. Code § 66499.22].

[3] Contents of Petition

The petition must (1) accurately and distinctly describe the real property sought to be excluded by reference to the recorded map or by any accurate survey (Paragraph 3) [Gov. Code § 66499.22]; (2) set forth the reasons for the requested exclusion (Paragraph 4) [Gov. Code § 66499.22]; (3) show the names and addresses of all owners of real property in the subdivision or in the portion thereof sought to be excluded as far as they are known to the petitioners (Paragraph 5) [Gov. Code § 66499.22]; (4) be signed and verified by the owners of at least two-thirds of the total area of the real property sought to be excluded (Paragraph 2) [Gov. Code § 66499.22]; and(5) be accompanied by a new map showing the boundaries of the subdivision as it appears after the exclusion and alteration, with numbered or lettered designations of the parcels excluded and showing the acreage of each (Paragraph 6) [Gov. Code § 66499.23].

[4] Jurisdiction

The superior court of the county in which the subdivision is situated has jurisdiction over the petition [Gov. Code § 66499.21].

[5] Notice of Petition

On the filing of a petition for exclusion of property from a subdivision, a judge of the superior court will make an order directing the court clerk to give notice of the petition. The notice will be given once a week for not less than five consecutive weeks and will be by publication in a newspaper of general circulation within the county, or if there is no newspaper published therein, by posting in three of the principal places in the county. However, if any portion of the property is situated within a city, notice is given in the same manner but within that city. The notice is required to state the nature of the petition and explain that any person may file a written objection to the petition at any time before the expiration of the time of publication or posting. On expiration of the notice time, an affidavit showing that publication or posting must be filed with the clerk of the court [Gov. Code § 66499.24].

[6] Hearing

If no objection has been filed, the court may proceed without further notice to hear the petition. If during the hearing the petitioners produce to the court satisfactory evidence of the necessity of the exclusion of the real property, that the owners of two-thirds of the area of the real property sought to be excluded are the petitioners, and that there is no reasonable objection to making that exclusion, the court may proceed to exclude the real property sought to be excluded, and order the alteration or vacation of the recorded map and enter its decree accordingly [Gov. Code § 66499.25]. If a material objection is made to the petition, the court will proceed to hear that objection and may adjourn the proceedings to such time as may be necessary on proper notice to the petitioners and objectors [Gov. Code § 66499.26].

[7] Decree

A certified copy of the decree granting the petition and a new map are filed with the county recorder [Gov. Code § 66499.28; see § 579.275[2]].

[8] State Statutes

Form of verification. Code Civ. Proc. § 446

Exclusion does not affect public street or highway. Gov. Code § 66499.27