participate in its management and who each own 50 percent interest of its profits has consistently not been viewed as an investment contract because profits do not come from the efforts of others. On the other hand, investments in limited partnership interests which are traded on stock exchanges consistently have been held to be investment securities because profits do come substantially from the efforts of others. Indeed, interests in an entity called a general partnership may be a security when the general partnership functions like a limited partnership. See, e.g., Williamson v. Tucker, 645 F.2d 404, 424 (5th Cir. 1981), cert. denied, 454 U.S. 897 (1981); see generally 2 Loss & Seligman, supra, at 1019-1033. Section 102(28)(E) is consistent with state and federal securities laws which have recognized interests in limited liability companies and limited partnerships in some circumstances as "securities," see 2 Louis Loss & Joel Seligman, Securities Regulation 1028-1031 (3d ed. rev. 1999), when consistent with the court decisions interpreting the investment contract concept. This Act also refers to an investment in a viatical settlement or a similar agreement to make unequivocally clear that viatical settlement and similar agreements, which otherwise satisfy the definition of an investment contract, are securities. This is intended to reject the holding of one court that a viatical contract could not be a security. See SEC v. Life Partners Inc., 87 F.3d 536 (D.C. Cir. 1996), reh'g denied, 102 F.3d 587 (D.C. Cir. 1996). A number of states have done so by statute. Judicial construction of the term "investment contract" has been the most frequently litigated issue concerning the term "security." See Gabaldon, A Sense of Security: An Empirical Study, 25 J. Corp. L. 307 (2000), explaining that there had been 792 cases decided to that date in which the definition of a security played a prominent role. Id. at 308. Some 461 of the 792 cases (58 percent) concerned investment contracts. Id. at 322. A number of states, by statute, rule, or case law have also adopted the "risk capital" test to find a security when an investment is subject to the risks of an enterprise with the expectation of profit or other valuable benefit and the investor has no direct control over the management of the enterprise. See, e.g., 2 Loss & Seligman, supra, at 939-940 n.50.

Section 102(29): Self-regulatory organization: Prior Provision: RUSA Section 101(17). This definition was added by RUSA and is based on a counterpart provision in the American Law Institute Federal Securities Code. At the current time national securities exchanges are registered under Section 6 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934; national securities associations under Section 15A; clearing agencies under Section 17A; and the Municipal Securities Rulemaking Board under Section 15B.

30.

Section 102(30): Sign: No Prior Provision. This definition is intended to facilitate electronic signatures, to the extent permitted by Section 105.

31.

Section 102(31): State: Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 401(m); RUSA Section 101(18). This is the standard definition used by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws. It does include territories and possessions of the United States, as well as the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico, but does not include foreign governments, their territories, or their possessions. In this Act "foreign" always refers to activity, a government, or person outside of the United States, not a different state within the United States.

§ 103. REFERENCES TO FEDERAL STATUTES.

"Securities Act of 1933" (15 U.S.C. Section 77a et seq.), "Securities Exchange Act of 1934" (15 U.S.C. Section 78a et seq.), "Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935" (15 U.S.C. Section 79 et seq.), "Investment Company Act of 1940" (15 U.S.C. Section 80a-1 et seq.), "Investment Advisers Act of 1940" (15 U.S.C. Section 80b-1 et seq.), "Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974" (29 U.S.C. Section 1001 et seq.), "National Housing Act" (12 U.S.C. Section 1701 et seq.), "Commodity Exchange Act" (7 U.S.C. Section 1 et seq.), "Internal Revenue Code" (26 U.S.C. Section 1 et seq.), "Securities Investor Protection Act of 1970" (15 U.S.C. Section 78aaa et seq.), "Securities Litigation Uniform Standards Act of 1998" (112 Stat. 3227), "Small Business Investment Act of 1958" (15 U.S.C. Section 661 et seq.), and "Electronic Signatures in Global and National Commerce Act" (15 U.S.C. Section 7001 et seq.) mean those statutes and the rules and regulations adopted under those statutes, as in effect on the date of enactment of this [Act] [, or as later amended].

Official Comments

There are a large number of references to other laws in this Act, particularly to the federal securities laws identified in Section 103, and to rules adopted by the Securities and Exchange Commission under those laws. One of the main objectives of this Act is to take account of those provisions in the federal laws that are preemptive, and to coordinate with other, nonpreemptive provisions of the federal laws where coordination between federal and state securities law is in the public interest.

2.

Section 12(d) of the Uniform Statute and Rule Construction Act, adopted by NCCUSL in 1995, provides: "A statute or rule that incorporates by reference a statute or rule of another jurisdiction does not incorporate a later enactment or adoption or amendment of the other statute or rule." Nevertheless, it is not uncommon for States to permit later amendments to statutes and rules referenced in enacted legislation to become automatically effective. In those states the final bracketed language in this Section should be included in the Act.

3.

In those states which do not permit automatic effectiveness of later amendments and that follow Section 12(d) of the Uniform Statute and Rule Construction Act, this problem has been addressed by either giving the administrator the power to update by rule or the duty to notify the legislature when amendment is necessary. When the legislature notification approach is adopted, to prevent a gap period, the administrator might be given the power to act by rule until the legislature has acted.

4.

After enactment, amendments to a preemptive federal statute, to rules adopted by a federal agency under a preemptive provision of a federal statute, or to amendments to such rules should be enforced in all states under the Supremacy Clause of the United States Constitution. A number of such references are in this Act.

§ 104. REFERENCES TO FEDERAL AGENCIES.

A reference in this [Act] to an agency or department of the United States is also a reference to a successor agency or department.

Official Comment

No Prior Provision.

§ 105. ELECTRONIC RECORDS AND SIGNATURES.

This [Act] modifies, limits, and supersedes the federal Electronic Signatures in Global and National Commerce Act, but does not modify, limit, or supersede Section 101(c) of that act (15 U.S.C. Section 7001(c)) or authorize electronic delivery of any of the notices described in Section 103(b) of that act (15 U.S.C. Section 7003(b)). This [Act] authorizes the filing of records and signatures, when specified by provisions of this [Act] or by a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act], in a manner consistent with Section 104(a) of that act (15 U.S.C. Section 7004(a)).

Official Comment

No Prior Provision. The purpose of this Section is to permit the filing of electronic signatures and electronic records.

Official Comments

Section 201 includes exempt securities and Section 202 includes exempt transactions. Both exempt securities and exempt transactions are exempt from the securities registration, notice filing requirement of Section 302, and the filing of sales literature Section 504 of this Act. Neither Section 201 nor Section 202 provides an exemption from the Act's antifraud provisions in Article 5, nor the broker-dealer, agent, investment adviser, or investment adviser registration requirements in Article 4.

A Section 201 exempt security retains its exemption when initially issued and in subsequent trading.

A Section 202 transaction exemption must be established for each transaction.

Neither the exempt security nor the transaction exemptions are meant to be mutually exclusive. A security or transaction may qualify for two or more exemptions.

Article 2 is not available to any security, transaction, or offer that, although in technical compliance with a specific section in Article 2, is part of an unlawful plan or scheme to evade the registration provisions of Article 3. In such cases registration is required. Cf. Prelim. Note 6 to Regulation D adopted under the Securities Act of 1933.

§ 201. EXEMPT SECURITIES.

The following securities are exempt from the requirements of Sections 301 through 306 and 504:

(1)

a security, including a revenue obligation or a separate security as defined in Rule 131 (17 C.F.R. 230.131)

2-UA Blue Sky Regulation adopted under the Securities Act of 1933, issued, insured, or guaranteed by the United States; by a State; by a political subdivision of a State; by a public authority, agency, or instrumentality of one or more States; by a political subdivision of one or more States; or by a person controlled or supervised by and acting as an instrumentality of the United States under authority granted by the Congress; or a certificate of deposit for any of the foregoing;

a security issued, insured, or guaranteed by a foreign government with which the United States maintains diplomatic relations, or any of its political subdivisions, if the security is recognized as a valid obligation by the issuer, insurer, or guarantor;

(3)

a security issued by and representing or that will represent an interest in or a direct obligation of, or be guaranteed by:

(A)

an international banking institution;

a banking institution organized under the laws of the United States; a member bank of the Federal Reserve System; or a depository institution a substantial portion of the business of which consists or will consist of receiving deposits or share accounts that are insured to the maximum amount authorized by statute by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, the National Credit Union Share Insurance Fund, or a successor authorized by federal law or exercising fiduciary powers that are similar to those permitted for national banks under the authority of the Comptroller of Currency pursuant to Section 1 of Public Law 87-722 (12 U.S.C. Section 92a); or any other depository institution, unless by rule or order the administrator proceeds under Section 204;

(4)

a security issued by and representing an interest in, or a debt of, or insured or guaranteed by, an insurance company authorized to do business in this State;

a security issued or guaranteed by a railroad, other common carrier, public utility, or public utility holding company that is:

(A)

regulated in respect to its rates and charges by the United States or a State; regulated in respect to the issuance or guarantee of the security by the United States, a State, Canada, or a Canadian province or territory; or a public utility holding company registered under the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 or a subsidiary of such a registered holding company within the meaning of that act; a federal covered security specified in Section 18(b)(1) of the Securities Act of 1933 (15 U.S.C. Section 77r(b)(1)) or by rule adopted under that provision or a security listed or approved for listing on another securities market specified by rule under this [Act]; a put or a call option contract; a warrant; a subscription right on or with respect to such securities; or an option or similar derivative security on a security or an index of securities or foreign currencies issued by a clearing agency registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and listed or designated for trading on a national securities exchange, a facility of a national securities exchange, or a facility of a national securities association registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 or an offer or sale, of the underlying security in connection with the offer, sale, or exercise of an option or other security that was exempt when the option or other security was written or issued; or an option or a derivative security designated by the Securities and Exchange Commission under Section 9(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (15 U.S.C. Section 78i(b)); a security issued by a person organized and operated exclusively for religious, educational, benevolent, fraternal, charitable, social, athletic, or reformatory purposes, or as a chamber of commerce, and not for pecuniary profit, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of a private stockholder or other person, or a security of a company that is excluded from the definition of an investment company under Section 3(c)(10)(B) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 (15 U.S.C. Section 80b-3(c)(10)(B)); except that with respect to the offer or sale of a note, bond, debenture, or other evidence of indebtedness issued by such a person, a rule may be adopted under this [Act] limiting the availability of this exemption by classifying securities, persons, and transactions, imposing different requirements for different classes, specifying with respect to paragraph (B) the scope of the exemption and the grounds for denial or suspension, and requiring an issuer:

(B)

(A)

to file a notice specifying the material terms of the proposed offer or sale and copies of any proposed sales and advertising literature to be used and provide that the exemption becomes effective if the administrator does not disallow the exemption within the period established by the rule;

(B)

to file a request for exemption authorization for which a rule under this [Act] may specify the scope of the exemption, the requirement of an offering statement, the filing of sales and advertising literature, the filing of consent to service of process complying with Section 611, and grounds for denial or suspension of the exemption; or to register under Section 304;

(8)

a member's or owner's interest in, or a retention certificate or like security given in lieu of a cash patronage dividend issued by, a cooperative organized and operated as a nonprofit membership cooperative under the cooperative laws of a State, but not a member's or owner's interest, retention certificate, or like security sold to persons other than bona fide members of the cooperative; and an equipment trust certificate with respect to equipment leased or conditionally sold to a person, if any security issued by the person would be exempt under this section or would be a federal covered security under Section 18(b)(1) of the Securities Act of 1933 (15 U.S.C. Section 77r(b)(1)).

Section 201(1): United States government and municipal securities: Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 402(a)(1); RUSA Section 401(b)(1). This exemption generally follows the 1956 Act except that it adds securities "insured" by a specified government to those "issued" or "guaranteed." RUSA, in contrast, also addressed foreign governments, which in this Act are treated separately in Section 201(2). Rule 131 issued under the Securities Act of 1933 defines separate securities issued under governmental obligations. A significant minority of states have excluded from the Section 201(1) exemption industrial revenue bonds. Interest on these securities is solely repayable from revenues received from a nongovernmental industrial or commercial enterprise. Typically this exclusion will not operate if (A) the payments are made or unconditionally guaranteed by a person whose securities are exempt from registration under Section 18(b)(1) of the Securities Act of 1933, or (B) in accordance with a rule under this [Act], the issuer first files a notice in a record specifying the terms of the proposed offer or sale and a copy of the offering statement and the administrator does not disallow the exemption within the time period established by the rule.

Section 201(2): Foreign government securities: Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 402(a)(2); RUSA Section 401(b)(2). The 1956 Act, as amended, and RUSA both reached foreign governments as specified in Section 201(2) and separately treated "a security issued, insured, or guaranteed by Canada, a Canadian province or territory, a political subdivision of Canada or a Canadian province or territory, an agency or corporate or other instrumentality of one or more of the foregoing." The separate treatment of Canadian securities is largely redundant and has been eliminated from this Section.

Section 201(3): Depository institution and international banking institution securities: Prior Provision: RUSA 401(b)(3). Section 402(a)(3) of the 1956 Act exempts specified bank and similar depository institutions; Section 402(a)(4) exempts specified savings and loan and similar thrift institution securities; and Section 402(a)(6) exempts specified credit union securities. RUSA Section 401(b)(3) combines the three types of depository institutions into a common definition (see RUSA Section 101(13)) which are adopted in this Act as Sections 102(3) and 102(5)) and a common exemption (see RUSA Section 401(b)(3)) which is adopted in this subsection. Banks specified in Section 3(a)(2) of the Securities Act of 1933 issue federal covered securities under Section 18(b)(4)(C) of the Securities Act of 1933. Section 201(3)(C) applies to securities issued by depository institutions without depository insurance. Under Section 204, the administrator will have the ability to revoke or limit this exemption.

Section 201(4): Insurance company securities: Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 402(a)(5); RUSA Section 401(b)(4). The issuance, insurance, or guarantee of securities by an insurance company is extensively regulated by state insurance commissions or other state agencies. Under this Act insurance, endowment policies, or annuity contracts under which an insurance company promises to pay fixed sums are excluded from the definition of a security in Section 102(28)(B). Unless brackets are removed from the words "or variable" in Section 102(28)(B), a variable annuity or other variable insurance product would be considered a security under this Act and under federal securities law. See SEC v. Variable Annuity Life Ins. Co. of Am., 359 U.S. 65 (1959); SEC v. United Benefit Life Ins. Co., 387 U.S. 202 (1967). A variable annuity or other variable insurance product issued by an investment company registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission under the Investment Company Act of 1940 would be a "federal covered security," see Section 102(7). See Lander v. Hartford Life & Annuity Ins. Co., 251 F.3d 101 (2d Cir. 2001). A variable annuity or other variable insurance product not issued by a registered investment company would be exempted by Section 201(4), but would be subject to the antifraud provisions in Article 5.

Section 201(5): Common carrier and public utility securities: Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 401(a)(7); RUSA Section 401(b)(5). Both the 1956 Act and RUSA include references, omitted here, to the Interstate Commerce Commission, whose enabling legislation subsequently was repealed. Public utility holding companies covered by this exemption are subject both to the Public Utility Holding Company Act and to state or Canadian utility regulation.

6.

Section 201(6): Certain options and rights: No Prior Provision. The 1956 Act Section 402(a)(8) provided an exemption for securities listed on the New York, American, Midwest (now Chicago), or other designated stock exchanges, senior or substantially equal securities of the same issuer listed on the exchange and any security covered by listed or approved subscription rights or warrants, or any warrant or right to purchase or subscribe to any security exempted by Section 402(a)(8). RUSA essentially retained this exemption in Section 401(b)(7) and added securities designated for inclusion in the National Market System by the National Association of Securities Dealers in Section 401(b)(8) and specified options issued by a clearing agency registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 in Section 401(b)(9). In 1996 Congress enacted the National Securities Markets Improvement Act and provided in Section 18(b)(1) that securities listed on the New York, American or Nasdaq Stock Exchange, or designated by rule of the Securities and Exchange Commission, as well as any security of the same issuer that is equal in seniority or senior to any of these securities will be a federal covered security. Under Rule 146 the SEC has designated as federal covered securities under Section 18(b)(1) Tier I of the Pacific Exchange; Tier I of the Philadelphia Stock Exchange; and The Chicago Board Options Exchange on condition that the relevant listing standards continue to be substantially similar to those of the New York, American, or Nasdaq stock markets. See Reporter's Note to Section 102(7). A federal covered security subject to Section 18(b)(1) of the Securities Act of 1933 will not be subject to the securities registration requirements of Sections 301 and 303 through 306. The exemption in Section 201(6) addresses specified options, warrants, and rights that are not federal covered securities under Section 18(b)(1) of the Securities Act of 1933, but generally would have been exempted under RUSA. The 1956 Act, which was narrower, was drafted before the computerized Nasdaq stock market began trading the National Market List and the development of standardized options markets. The final clause of Section 201(6) makes clear that any offer or sale of the underlying security that occurs as a result of the offer or sale of an option or other derivative security exempted under this provision or as the result of the exercise of the option or other derivative security, is covered by the exemption if the option met the terms of the exemption at the time such derivative security was written (that is, sold) or issued. The sale of the underlying security when an option is exercised would be exempt even if the underlying security is not at that time subject to any exemption under the Act. This is consistent with existing precedent under federal law suggesting that the legality of the sale of an underlying security when an option is exercised should be determined by the status of the security at the time the option was written rather than at the time of exercise. See, e.g., H. Kook & Co., Inc. v. Scheinman, Hochstin & Trotta, Inc., 414 F.2d 93 (2d Cir. 1969). Any transaction in an underlying security that results from the offer, sale, or exercise of any derivative security issued by a registered clearing agency and traded on a national securities exchange or association is exempt if the derivative security when written was exempt under Section 201(6). The Securities and Exchange Commission has adopted Rule 9b-1 under Section 9(b).

Section 201(7): Nonprofit organization securities: Prior Provision: Section 3(a)(4) of the Securities Act of 1933. Section 402(a)(9) of the 1956 Act and Section 401(b)(10) of RUSA exempt specified nonprofit securities. Both are modeled on Section 3(a)(4) of the Securities Act, which was subsequently amended. Securities issued under Section 3(a)(4) of the Securities Act of 1933 are not treated as federal covered securities in Section 18(b)(4)(C), although a separate Section 3(a)(13) exemption which addresses certain church plan securities are federal covered securities under Section 18(b)(4)(C). RUSA included an optional notice and review requirement for nonprofit securities in Section 401(b)(10) "if at least ten days before a sale of the security the person has filed with the administrator a notice setting forth the material terms of the proposed sale and copies of any sales and advertising literature to be used and the administrator by order does not disallow the exemption within the next five full business days." The nonprofit exemption is of particular concern to state securities administrators. See, e.g., State Regulators Announce Dramatic Rise in Religious Scams; Tens of Thousands Lured, 33 Sec. Reg. & L. Rep. (BNA) 1189 (2001). Under Section 6 of the Philanthropy Protection Act, Congress preempted application of the registration provisions of state securities laws to issuance of securities covered by Section 3(c)(10) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 unless states acted within three years of enactment (December 1998) to pass special state legislation cancelling federal preemption. Ten states enacted such legislation. Those states may preserve this treatment of Section 3(c)(10) securities by deleting from Section 201(7) the phrase "or a security of a company that is excluded from the definition of an investment company under Section 3(c)(10)(B) of the Investment Company Act of 1940." Section 201(7) provides statutory authority for the states to adopt rules with respect to notes, bonds, debentures and other evidences of indebtedness issued by nonprofit organizations. Each state may adopt different rules tailored for various types of nonprofit debt offerings, (e.g., local church bond offerings, national church bond offerings, church extension funds, charitable gift annuities). For states that do not wish to provide an automatic exemption from registration for a particular type of nonprofit debt instrument or offering, Section 201(7) creates three categories of regulatory review that may be required by rule: (a) exemption by notice filing, (b) exemption by state authorization, and (c) registration by qualification. These categories are consistent with the manner in which many states currently review different types of nonprofit debt securities. See Horner & Makens, Securities Regulation of Religious and Other Nonprofit Organizations, 27 Stetson L. Rev. 473 (1997).

Section 201(8): Cooperatives: Prior Provision: RUSA Section 401(b)(13). Section 201(8) is derived from RUSA Section 401(b)(13) which was included in that act after a number of states had adopted exemptions for securities issued by cooperatives. Section 201(8) is not intended to be available if securities are offered or sold to the public generally. The 1956 Act Section 402(a)(12) had instead provided: "insert any desired exemption for cooperatives." The Reporter for the 1956 Act had found such sharp variation among the 18 states that then had adopted a cooperative exemption that "no common pattern can be found." Louis Loss, Commentary on the Uniform Securities Act 118 (1976).

Section 201(9): Equipment trust certificates: Prior Provision: RUSA Section 401(b)(6). The Securities Act of 1933 Section 3(a)(6) includes a narrower exemption for railroad equipment trusts. Section 201(9) follows RUSA. The Official Comment to RUSA Section 401(b)(6) explained: The new paragraph (b)(6) reflects the extensive development of equipment lease financing through leveraged leases, conditional sales, and other devices. The underlying premise is that if the securities of the person using such a financing device would be exempt under some other paragraph of Section 401, the equipment trust certificate or other security issued to acquire the property in question also is exempt.

§ 202. EXEMPT TRANSACTIONS.

The following transactions are exempt from the requirements of Sections 301 through 306 and 504:

(1)

2-UA Blue Sky Regulation

an isolated nonissuer transaction, whether effected by or through a broker-dealer or not; a nonissuer transaction by or through a broker-dealer registered, or exempt from registration under this [Act], and a resale transaction by a sponsor of a unit investment trust registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940, in a security of a class that has been outstanding in the hands of the public for at least 90 days, if, at the date of the transaction:

(A)

the issuer of the security is engaged in business, the issuer is not in the organizational stage or in bankruptcy or receivership, and the issuer is not a blank check, blind pool, or shell company that has no specific business plan or purpose or has indicated that its primary business plan is to engage in a merger or combination of the business with, or an acquisition of, an unidentified person;

(B)

the security is sold at a price reasonably related to its current market price;

(C)

the security does not constitute the whole or part of an unsold allotment to, or a subscription or participation by, the broker-dealer as an underwriter of the security or a redistribution; and a nationally recognized securities manual or its electronic equivalent designated by rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] or a record filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission that is publicly available contains:

(iv)

an audited income statement for each of the issuer's two immediately previous fiscal years or for the period of existence of the issuer, whichever is shorter, or, in the case of a reorganization or merger when each party to the reorganization or merger had audited income statements, a pro forma income statement; or the issuer of the security has a class of equity securities listed on a national securities exchange registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 or designated for trading on the National Association of Securities Dealers Automated Quotation System, unless the issuer of the security is a unit investment trust registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940; or the issuer of the security, including its predecessors, has been engaged in continuous business for at least three years; or the issuer of the security has total assets of at least $2,000,000 based on an audited balance sheet as of a date within 18 months before the date of the transaction or, in the case of a reorganization or merger when the parties to the reorganization or merger each had the audited balance sheet, a pro forma balance sheet for the combined organization; is rated at the time of the transaction by a nationally recognized statistical rating organization in one of its four highest rating categories; or a transaction in a security, whether or not the security or transaction is otherwise exempt, in exchange for one or more bona fide outstanding securities, claims, or property interests, or partly in such exchange and partly for cash, if the terms and conditions of the issuance and exchange or the delivery and exchange and the fairness of the terms and conditions have been approved by the administrator after a hearing;

a commission or other remuneration is not paid or given, directly or indirectly, to a person other than a broker-dealer registered under this [Act] or an agent registered under this [Act] for soliciting a prospective purchaser in this State; and

a transaction under an offer to existing security holders of the issuer, including persons that at the date of the transaction are holders of convertible securities, options, or warrants, if a commission or other remuneration, other than a standby commission, is not paid or given, directly or indirectly, for soliciting a security holder in this State;

a solicitation of interest is provided in a record to offerees in compliance with a rule adopted by the administrator under this [Act]; and a stop order of which the offeror is aware has not been issued by the administrator under this [Act] and an (18)

a transaction involving the distribution of the securities of an issuer to the security holders of another person in connection with a merger, consolidation, exchange of securities, sale of assets, or other reorganization to which the issuer, or its parent or subsidiary and the other person, or its parent or subsidiary, are parties;

a rescission offer, sale, or purchase under Section 510;

an offer or sale of a security to a person not a resident of this State and not present in this State if the offer or sale does not constitute a violation of the laws of the State or foreign jurisdiction in which the offeree or purchaser is present and is not part of an unlawful plan or scheme to evade this [Act];

(21)

employees' stock purchase, savings, option, profit-sharing, pension, or similar employees' benefit plan, including any securities, plan interests, and guarantees issued under a compensatory benefit plan or compensation contract, contained in a record, established by the issuer, its parents, its majority-owned subsidiaries, or the majority-owned subsidiaries of the issuer's parent for the participation of their employees including offers or sales of such securities to:

directors; general partners; trustees, if the issuer is a business trust; officers; consultants; and advisors; family members who acquire such securities from those persons through gifts or domestic relations orders; former employees, directors, general partners, trustees, officers, consultants, and advisors if those individuals were employed by or providing services to the issuer when the securities were offered; and insurance agents who are exclusive insurance agents of the issuer, or the issuer's subsidiaries or parents, or who derive more than 50 percent of their annual income from those organizations;

(B)

(C)

(22)

a transaction involving:

(A)

a stock dividend or equivalent equity distribution, whether the corporation or other business organization distributing the dividend or equivalent equity distribution is the issuer or not, if nothing of value is given by stockholders or other equity holders for the dividend or equivalent equity distribution other than the surrender of a right to a cash or property dividend if each stockholder or other equity holder may elect to take the dividend or equivalent equity distribution in cash, property, or stock;

(B) an act incident to a judicially approved reorganization in which a security is issued in exchange for one or more outstanding securities, claims, or property interests, or partly in such exchange and partly for cash; or the solicitation of tenders of securities by an offeror in a tender offer in compliance with Rule 162 adopted under the Securities Act of 1933 (17 C.F.R. 230.162); or a nonissuer transaction in an outstanding security by or through a broker-dealer registered or exempt from registration under this [Act], if the issuer is a reporting issuer in a foreign jurisdiction designated by this paragraph or by rule adopted or order issued under this [Act]; has been subject to continuous reporting requirements in the foreign jurisdiction for not less than 180 days before the transaction; and the security is listed on the foreign jurisdiction's securities exchange that has been designated by this paragraph or by rule adopted or order issued under this [Act], or is a security of the same issuer that is of senior or substantially equal rank to the listed security or is a warrant or right to purchase or subscribe to any of the foregoing. For purposes of this paragraph, Canada, together with its provinces and territories, is a designated foreign jurisdiction and The Toronto Stock Exchange, Inc., is a designated securities exchange. After an administrative hearing in compliance with [the state administrative procedure act], the administrator, by rule adopted or order issued under this [Act], may revoke the designation of a securities exchange under this paragraph, if the administrator finds that revocation is necessary or appropriate in the public interest and for the protection of investors.

Sections 202(1) through (8) are available only for nonissuer transactions. An issuer selling securities in an initial public offering or other offering may not rely on Sections 202(1) through (8). A nonissuer, however, can rely on any issuer transaction exemption such as Section 202(13), when the exemption would be applicable to a nonissuer. The term "nonissuer transaction or nonissuer distribution" is defined in Section 102(18); the term "issuer" is defined in Section 102(17).

Section 202(1): Isolated nonissuer transactions: Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 402(b)(1); RUSA Section 402(1). The term "isolated transaction" is not defined in this Act, but left to the states to develop. Historically under state law there has been somewhat varied case law development of the term "isolated transactions." See, e.g., Blinder, Robinson & Co., Inc. v. Goettsch, 403 N.W.2d 772 (Iowa 1987) (isolated nonissuer transaction exemption is not unconstitutionally vague); Allen v. Schauf, 449 P.2d 1010 (Kan. 1969) (regulation defined isolated transactions to not exceed four persons solicited in a 12 month period); Nelson v. State, 355 P.2d 413, 420 (Okla. Ct. Crim. App. 1960) ("[a]n isolated sale means one standing alone, disconnected from any other"); see generally 1 Louis Loss & Joel Seligman, Securities Regulation 125-130 (3d ed. rev. 1998). In general this subsection is intended to cover the occasional sale by a person. It would not exempt multiple or successive transactions by a person or group, whether those sales are sufficient to constitute a "distribution" as that term is used for purposes of the federal securities laws, see 2 Louis Loss & Joel Seligman, Securities Regulation 1138.50-1138.52 (3d ed. rev. 1999), or merely too frequent to be considered "isolated" under the relevant state law. Limited issuer offering transactions are separately addressed in Section 202(14).

3.

Section 202(2): Nonissuer transactions in specified outstanding securities: Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 402(b)(2); RUSA Sections 402(3) and (4). This Section represents a modernization of the securities manual exemption which was included in both the 1956 Act and RUSA. NASAA recommended an amendment to the 1956 Act Section 402(b) after discussion with the Securities Industry Association and others in the securities industry. This Section generally follows the NASAA amendment. Rule 419 issued under the Securities Act of 1933 defines a "blank check company" to be a company that "is a development stage company that has no specific business plan or purpose or has indicated that its business plan is to engage in a merger or acquisition with an unidentified company or companies, or other entity or person." A "blind pool" is similar and would involve an investment in a blank check or other entity with no identified business plan or purpose. A "shell company" is also similar and would involve an entity which, to date, has no significant business assets, plan, or purpose.

Section 202(3): Nonissuer transactions in specified foreign transactions: No Prior Provision. The NASAA recommendation that was the basis of Section 202(2) also included specified foreign nonissuer transactions subject to a manual exemption when there was disclosure of the issuer's officers and directors in the issuer's country of domicile. This subsection uses margin securities as an alternative approach to identify sufficiently seasoned foreign securities. Margin securities are required to be in compliance with Regulation T which was adopted by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System.

Section 202(4): Nonissuer transactions in securities subject to Securities Exchange Act reporting: Prior Provision: RUSA Section 402(2). RUSA added this exemption to authorize nonissuer secondary trading in the securities of issuers that were subject to the periodic reporting requirements of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. To bar immediate secondary trading in nonregistered initial public offerings, there was a further requirement that these securities be subject to the reporting requirements of Sections 13 or 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 for not less than 90 days. Section 202(4) only covers the guarantor because if the issuer of the security is a reporting company under Sections 13 or 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, the transaction is preempted by Section 18(b)(4)(A) of the Securities Act of 1933. Section 18(b)(4)(A) of the National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996 defines nonissuer transactions under Section 4(1) of the Securities Act of 1933 ("transactions by persons other than an issuer, underwriter, or dealer") as "federal covered securities," see Section 102(7), if the issuer files reports with the Securities and Exchange Commission under Sections 13 or 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. Under Section 18(a) of the Securities Act of 1933 no state statute, rule, order, or other administrative action with respect to registration of securities or reporting requirements may apply to a federal covered security. To harmonize Section 202(4) with Sections 18(a) and 18(b)(4)(A) of the Securities Act of 1933, the 90 day reporting period in RUSA Section 402(2) is not adopted in this Act.

Section 202(5): Nonissuer transactions in specified fixed income securities: Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 402(b)(2)(B); RUSA Section 402(4). The concept of a fixed income security rated by a nationally recognized statistical rating organization in one of its four highest rating categories described in Section 202(5)(A) is well established in federal securities law in Form S-3 adopted under the Securities Act of 1933 and the net capital Rule 15c3-1(c)(2)(vi)(F) adopted under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. See 2 Louis Loss & Joel Seligman, Securities Regulation 649-653 (3d ed. rev. 1999). Nationally recognized statistical rating organizations have been identified by the Securities and Exchange Commission and include such organizations as Moody's and Standard and Poor's. Rating categories typically begin with AAA and under this Act would include BBB as the fourth highest rating category. Section 202(5)(B) follows the 1956 Act and RUSA, but also addresses blank check and similar offerings, which became major concerns at the state and federal levels during the past two decades. Cf. Securities Act of 1933 Rule 419. See Official Comment (3). This subsection includes both debt securities with fixed maturity or a fixed interest rate and preferred stock with fixed dividend provisions.

Section 202(6): Unsolicited brokerage transactions: Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 402(b)(3); RUSA Section 402(5). Section 18(b)(4)(B) of the Securities Act of 1933 defines as federal covered securities those subject to Section 4(4) of the Securities Act of 1933: "brokerage transactions executed upon customers' orders on any exchange or in the over-the-counter market but not the solicitation of such orders." Section 202(6) is intended to provide exemption for nonagency transactions by dealers not within the scope of Section 4(4). The 1956 Act Section 402(b)(3) had provided that the administrator "may by rule require that the customer acknowledge upon a specified form that the same was unsolicited, and that a signed copy of each such form be preserved by the broker-dealer for a specified period." This type of requirement is preempted by Section 18(a) of the Securities Act of 1933 for federal covered securities and is viewed as unnecessary for the limited class of dealer nonagency transactions that will be exempted by Section 202(6).

Section 202(7): Nonissuer transactions by pledgees: Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 402(b)(7); RUSA Section 402(9). This subsection is identical to the 1956 Act and substantively identical to RUSA.

9.

Section 202(8): Nonissuer transactions with federal covered investment advisers: No Prior Provision. This exemption was added because of a recognition that federal covered investment advisers are sophisticated financial professionals capable of determining the merits of a security and do not require the protections provided by requiring registration in a particular state.

10.

Section 202(9): Specified exchange transactions: No Prior Provision. Section 202(9) provides a state counterpart to the exemption in Section 3(a)(10) of the Securities Act of 1933.

11.

Section 202(10): Underwriter transactions: Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 402(b)(4); RUSA Section 402(6). This subsection is substantively identical to the 1956 Act and RUSA.

12.

Section 202(11): Unit secured transactions: Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 402(b)(5); RUSA Section 402(7). In recent years the application of this exemption has been one of concern to state securities administrators. The conditions that conclude this exemption are new and are intended to address these concerns.

13.

Section 202(12): Bankruptcy, guardian, or conservator transactions: Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 402(b)(6); RUSA Section 402(8). This subsection is identical to that in the 1956 Act and RUSA.

14.

Section 202(13): Transactions with specified investors: Prior Provision: 1956 Act Section 402(b)(8). The 1956 Act contains similar but less inclusive language in Section 402(b)(8). If the Securities and Exchange Commission adopts a rule defining "qualified purchaser" as used in Section 18(b)(3) of the Securities Act to specify certain purchasers of federal covered securities, part or all of this exemption will be redundant. As of September 2002, the Commission has proposed, but not adopted, Rule 146(c). Section 202(13)(B) is limited to transactions for the account of a federal covered investment adviser and is not intended to reach transactions on behalf of others by such adviser.

Section 202(14): Limited offering transactions: Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 402(b)(9); RUSA Section 402(11). The reference in the prefatory language to "a single issue" signifies that two or more issues can be "integrated" and potentially destroy the exemption. There are two general tests for integration under the federal securities laws. The states similarly have followed generally these types of integration principles with respect to securities transaction exemptions. First, there is a six month "buffer" before and after an offer, offer to sell, or sale of a transaction exempt under Section 202(14) during which no other issue can be distributed if integration automatically is to be avoided. See Rule 147(b)(2) and Rule 502(a) of the Securities Act of 1933. Second, if two issues occur within six months, integration may occur depending upon the following factors:

are the offerings part of a single plan of financing;

(ii)

do the offerings involve issuance of the same class of securities;

(iii)

are the offerings made at or about the same time;

(iv)

is the same type of consideration to be received; and are the offerings made for the same general purpose.

See generally 3 Louis Loss & Joel Seligman, Securities Regulation 1231-1248 (3d ed. rev. 1999).

Section 402(b)(9) of the 1956 Act and Section 402(11) of the 1985 Act provide alternative limited offering transaction exemptions. The 1956 Act was limited to offers to no more than ten persons (other than institutional investors specified in Section 402(b)(8)); all purchasers in the State had to purchase for investment; and no remuneration was given for soliciting prospective purchasers in the State. RUSA, in contrast, was limited to no more than 25 purchasers (other than financial or institutional investors); no general solicitation or advertising; and no remuneration was paid to a person other than a broker-dealer for soliciting a prospective purchaser.

This Section would apply to preorganization limited offerings as well as operating company limited offerings. The Securities Act of 1933 Sections 3(b) and 4(2) also apply to both. In contrast, the 1956 Act Section 402(b)(10) and RUSA Section 402(12) used similar concepts in separate Sections to apply to preorganization limited offerings.

Section 18(b)(4)(D) of the Securities Act of 1933 defines as federal covered securities those issued under Securities and Exchange Commission rules under Section 4(2) of the Securities Act. This would include Rule 506, which uses the "accredited investor" definition in Rule 501(a). When a transaction involves Rule 506, Section 18(b)(4)(D) further provides "that this paragraph does not prohibit a state from imposing notice filing requirements that are substantially similar to those required by rule or regulation under Section 4(2) that are in effect on September 1, 1996." These notice requirements are found in Section 302(c) of this Act.

A majority of states have adopted a Uniform Limited Offering Exemption, coordinate to varying degrees with Regulation D. The authority to adopt this and other exemptive rules is provided in Section 203.

Section 202(15): Transactions with existing security holders: Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 402(b)(11); RUSA Section 402(14). Section 3(a)(9) of the Securities Act of 1933 exempts exchange offerings with existing security holders. Under Section 18(b)(4)(C) transactions subject to Section 3(a)(9) are federal covered securities. See Section 102(7). Notice requirements in the earlier 1956 Act and RUSA accordingly would be preempted by the Securities Act of 1933. See Section 18(a) of the Securities Act of 1933. Otherwise this exemption is substantively identical to the 1956 Act and RUSA.

17.

Section 202(16): Offerings registered under this [Act] and the Securities Act of 1933: Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 402(b)(12); RUSA Section 402(15). This exemption generally follows the 1956 Act and RUSA. Rule 165 of the Securities Act of 1933, which was adopted in 1999, allows the offeror of securities in a business combination to make written communications that offer securities for sale before a registration statement is filed as long as specified conditions are satisfied. RUSA Section 402(15)(ii) also required that a registration statement be filed under this Act, but not yet be effective. By eliminating the filing requirement this exemption will reach the offer (but not the sale) of a security that is anticipated to be a federal covered security by applying for listing on the New York Stock Exchange or other exchange specified in Section 18(b)(1) of the Securities Act of 1933, but the listing and federal covered security status has not yet become effective.

18.

Section 202(17): Offerings when registration has been filed, but is not effective under this [Act] and exempt from the Securities Act of 1933: Prior Provisions: RUSA Section 402(16). If a rule is adopted by the administrator a solicitation of interest document must accompany a registration by qualification as specified in Section 304(b)(13). Oral offers may be made after a registration statement has been filed, both before and after a registration statement is effective. This exemption does not operate unless the administrator adopts a rule under 202(17)(B).

19.

Section 202(18): Control transactions: Prior Provision: RUSA Section 402(17). Until 1972 mergers and similar transactions were not considered to involve sales and did not have to register under the Securities Act of 1933. In 1972 the Securities and Exchange Commission adopted Rule 145 defining many mergers and similar transactions to be sales and abandoned its earlier "no sale" doctrine. See 3 Louis Loss & Joel Seligman, Securities Regulation 1262-1280 (3d ed. rev. 1999). Because most merger and similar transactions require shareholder approval and shareholders often have appraisal rights if they choose to dissent, the potential for abuse is less than in an offering of securities for cash. When appropriate the administrator can deny, condition, limit or revoke this exemption under Section 204. Section 202(18) does not follow the requirement in RUSA Section 402(17) that written notice of the transactions and a copy of the solicitation materials be given to the administrator 10 days before the consummation of the transaction and, that the administrator is empowered to disallow the exemption within the next 10 days.

20.

Section 202(19): Rescission offers: No Prior Provision. See Section 510 for discussion of rescission offers.

21.

Section 202(20): Out-of-state offers or sales: Source of law: Colo. Section 11-51-102(7). Compare A.S. Goldmen & Co., Inc. v. New Jersey Bur. of Sec., 163 F.3d 780 (3d Cir. 1999), which held that under the United States Constitution's Commerce Clause a State could authorize a securities administrator to prevent a broker-dealer from selling securities from a State to purchasers in other States where purchase of the securities was authorized. The concluding phrase "and is not part of an unlawful plan or scheme to evade this [Act]" is intended to preclude reliance on this exemption by boiler rooms and others engaged in illegal activities. Section 202(20) provides an exemption from securities registration and does not address an administrator's power to investigate and bring enforcement actions under Articles 5 and 6.

Section 202(21): Employee benefit plans: Prior Provision: RUSA Section 401(b)(12). The 1956 Act Section 402(a)(11) was limited to investment contracts issued in connection with specified employee benefit plans if the administrator was given 30 days written notice. In 1979, the United States Supreme Court in International Bhd. of Teamsters v. Daniel, 439 U.S. 551 (1979), held that a noncontributory, mandatory pension plan subject to the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA) was not a security within the meaning of the Securities Act of 1933 or the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. The Securities and Exchange Commission staff subsequently took the position that the interests of employees in involuntary, contributory plans are not securities. Sec. Act Rel. 6188, 19 SEC Dock. 465, 473 (1980). Both contributory and noncontributory pension or welfare plans subject to ERISA are excluded from the definition of security in Section 102(28). In this definition, the term "advisors" does not mean "investment advisers," as defined in Section 102(15). With respect to employee benefit plans that are securities, Section 202(21) provides an exemption, but follows RUSA in not limiting the exemption to investment contracts and not requiring 30 days notice to the administrator. Section 202(21) is modeled, in part, on Rule 701(c) adopted under the Securities Act of 1933. Compliance with Rule 701 will provide compliance with this exemption. Both the 1956 Act and RUSA, for unstated reasons, treated employee benefit plans as exempt securities, rather than exempt securities transactions. There appears to be no appropriate reason to do so. Resale of employee benefit plan securities can occur under appropriate section 202 transaction exemptions. Section 202(21) is not intended to provide a new method of publicly issuing securities. The administrator, when appropriate, can deny, condition, limit, or revoke an exemption under Section 202(21). See Section 204.

Section 202(22): Specified dividends and tender offers and judicially recognized reorganizations: Prior Provision: 1956 Act Section 401(j)(6)(B) and (D); RUSA Section 101(13)(vi). Section 202(22)(A) and (B) generally follow exclusions from the definition of sale in the 1956 Act and RUSA. Section 202(22)(C) is new and corresponds to Rule 162, recently adopted under the Securities Act of 1933, which allows the offeror in a stock exchange offer to solicit tenders of securities before a registration statement is effective as long as no securities are purchased until the registration statement is effective and the tender offer has expired.

24.

Section 202(23): Nonissuer transactions involving specified foreign issuer securities traded on designated securities exchanges. This exemption expressly covers Toronto Stock Exchange issuers that are public reporting companies under Canadian securities law and meet the 180 day continuous reporting requirement. In conformance with the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) and General Agreement on Trade in Services (GATS), the exemption separately provides authority for the administrator to designate by rule or order other specific foreign jurisdictions and their trading exchanges upon an adequate showing. The exemption also provides authority for an administrator to revoke any designation if necessary or appropriate in the public interest and for the protection of investors.

§ 203. ADDITIONAL EXEMPTIONS AND WAIVERS.

A rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] may exempt a security, transaction, or offer; a rule under this [Act] may exempt a class of securities, transactions, or offers from any or all of the requirements of Sections 301 through 306 and 504; and an order under this [Act] may waive, in whole or in part, any or all of the conditions for an exemption or offer under Sections 201 and 202.

Official Comments

Prior Provision: RUSA Section 403.

1.

2-UA Blue Sky Regulation

Under this type of authority, 50 of 53 jurisdictions through September 2002 had adopted the Uniform Limited Offering Exemption (ULOE) or a Regulation D exemption, and 32 jurisdictions had adopted a Rule 144A exemption. This Act does not incorporate ULOE or a Rule 144A exemption because of their complexity and the likelihood of periodic updating of their provisions. Rule 144A, and similar exemptions in ULOE, can be most effectively implemented by rule rather than statute.

Under Section 203 a state would also be authorized to adopt by rule or order new exemptions as circumstances warrant for new technologies such as the Internet. Cf. NASAA Resolution Regarding Securities Offered on Internet, NASAA Rep. P 7040 (Jan. 7, 1996).

3.

It is the intent of this Section that ULOE, Rule 144A, and additional exemptions or waivers be adopted uniformly by states, to the extent this is practicable.

§ 204. DENIAL, SUSPENSION, REVOCATION, CONDITION, OR LIMITATION OF EXEMPTIONS.

(a) [Enforcement related powers.] Except with respect to a federal covered security or a transaction involving a federal covered security, an order under this [Act] may deny, suspend application of, condition, limit, or revoke an exemption created under Section 201(3)(C), (7) or (8) or 202 or an exemption or waiver created under Section 203 with respect to a specific security, transaction, or offer. An order under this section may be issued only pursuant to the procedures in Section 306(d) or 604 and only prospectively.

(b) [Knowledge of order required.] A person does not violate Section 301, 303 through 306, 504, or 510 by an offer to sell, offer to purchase, sale, or purchase effected after the entry of an order issued under this section if the person did not know, and in the exercise of reasonable care could not have known, of the order.

Section 204 is potentially far reaching. The ability to deny, condition, limit, or revoke the exemptions specified in Sections 201(3)(C), 201(7), 201(8), 202, or 203 is adopted concomitant with the breadth of these exemptions. One or more than one security, transaction, or offer can be covered by a Section 204 order.

2.

The courts have given a securities administrator's decision to deny or revoke an exemption substantial deference when there was compliance with applicable due process and statutory requirements. See, e.g., Johnson-Bowles Co., Inc. v. Div. of Sec., 829 P.2d 101 (Utah Ct. App. 1992).

§ 301. SECURITIES REGISTRATION REQUIREMENT.

It is unlawful for a person to offer or sell a security in this State unless:

the security is a federal covered security;

(2)

the security, transaction, or offer is exempted from registration under Sections 201 through 203; or the security is registered under this [Act].

(3)

This Section is substantively identical to the 1956 Act and RUSA except for the addition of Section 301(1), which is necessitated by the National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996. See Section 102(7).

2.

Except for federal covered securities, exempt securities, or securities offered or sold in exempt transactions, no sale of a security may be made in this State before the security is registered. "Sale" is defined in Section 102(26); "in this State" is addressed in Section 610; and securities registration is addressed in Sections 303 through 306.

3.

The Securities Act of 1933 permits certain types of offers during the "waiting period" between the filing and effectiveness of a registration statement. The exemptive provisions of Sections 202(16) and (17) operate to permit similar offers for securities that are not federal covered securities and are in the process of registration under federal or state statutes or both.

4.

Notice filings and fees applicable to federal covered securities, see Section 102(7), are addressed in Section 302.

§ 302. NOTICE FILING.

(a) [Required filing of records.] With respect to a federal covered security, as defined in Section 18(b)(2) of the Securities Act of 1933 (15 U.S.C. Section 77r(b)(2)), that is not otherwise exempt under Sections 201 through 203, a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] may require the filing of any or all of the following records:

before the initial offer of a federal covered security in this State, all records that are part of a federal registration statement filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission under the Securities Act of 1933 and a consent to service of process complying with Section 611 signed by the issuer and the payment of a fee of $[_____];

after the initial offer of the federal covered security in this State, all records that are part of an amendment to a federal registration statement filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission under the Securities Act of 1933; and to the extent necessary or appropriate to compute fees, a report of the value of the federal covered securities sold or offered to persons present in this State, if the sales data are not included in records filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission and payment of a fee of $[_____].

(b) [Notice filing effectiveness and renewal.] A notice filing under subsection (a) is effective for one year commencing on the later of the notice filing or the effectiveness of the offering filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission. On or before expiration, the issuer may renew a notice filing by filing a copy of those records filed by the issuer with the Securities and Exchange Commission that are required by rule or order under this [Act] to be filed and by paying a renewal fee of $[_____]. A previously filed consent to service of process complying with Section 611 may be incorporated by reference in a renewal. A renewed notice filing becomes effective upon the expiration of the filing being renewed.

(c) [Notice filings for federal covered securities under Section 18(b)(4)(D).] With respect to a security that is a federal covered security under Section 18(b)(4)(D) of the Securities Act of 1933 (15 U.S.C. Section 77r(b)(4)(D)), a rule under this [Act] may require a notice filing by or on behalf of an issuer to include a copy of Form D, including the Appendix, as promulgated by the Securities and Exchange Commission, and a consent to service of process complying with Section 611 signed by the issuer not later than 15 days after the first sale of the federal covered security in this State and the payment of a fee of $[_____]; and the payment of a fee of $[_____] for any late filing.

(d) [Stop orders.] Except with respect to a federal security under Section 181(b)(1) of the Securities Act of 1933 (15 U.S.C. Section 77r(b)(1)), if the administrator finds that there is a failure to comply with a notice or fee requirement of this section, the administrator may issue a stop order suspending the offer and sale of a federal covered security in this State. If the deficiency is corrected, the stop order is void as of the time of its issuance and no penalty may be imposed by the administrator.

The little used "registration by notification" in the 1956 Act Section 302 or "registration by filing" in RUSA Section 302 are omitted from this Act because of the notice filing approach required by Section 18(b)(2) of the Securities Act of 1933 for federal covered securities, which, in essence, replaces the need for registration by notification.

For Rule 506 offerings which are addressed by Section 18(d)(4)(D) of the Securities Act of 1933, the Securities and Exchange Commission requires the filing of Form D. See Rule 503. When an issuer meets the conditions of Rule 506, Section 302(c) is intended to limit required state filings to no more than a requirement of filing a copy of Form D, including the Appendix, a consent to service of process, and a fee.

3.

The definition of "filing" in Section 102(8) will permit states to receive electronic filing of records under this Section. An administrator may also accept under this Section a signed consent filed electronically with a designee of the administrator. See Section 105.

If a State prefers to have the fees in this section established by rule, replace the phrase "a fee of $[_____]" in subsections (a), (b), and (c) with the phrase "a fee established by the administrator by rule". See Comment 3 to Section 410.

§ 303. SECURITIES REGISTRATION BY COORDINATION.

(a) [Registration permitted.] A security for which a registration statement has been filed under the Securities Act of 1933 in connection with the same offering may be registered by coordination under this section.

(b) [Required records.] A registration statement and accompanying records under this section must contain or be accompanied by the following records in addition to the information specified in Section 305 and a consent to service of process complying with Section 611:

a copy of the latest form of prospectus filed under the Securities Act of 1933;

a copy of the articles of incorporation and bylaws or their substantial equivalents currently in effect; a copy of any agreement with or among underwriters; a copy of any indenture or other instrument governing the issuance of the security to be registered; and a specimen, copy, or description of the security that is required by rule adopted or order issued under this [Act];

(3)

copies of any other information or any other records filed by the issuer under the Securities Act of 1933 requested by the administrator; and an undertaking to forward each amendment to the federal prospectus, other than an amendment that delays the effective date of the registration statement, promptly after it is filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

(c) [Conditions for effectiveness of registration statement.] A registration statement under this section becomes effective simultaneously with or subsequent to the federal registration statement when all the following conditions are satisfied:

a stop order under subsection (d) or Section 306 or issued by the Securities and Exchange Commission is not in effect and a proceeding is not pending against the issuer under Section 412; and the registration statement has been on file for at least 20 days or a shorter period provided by rule adopted or order issued under this [Act].

2-UA Blue Sky Regulation

(d) [Notice of federal registration statement effectiveness.] The registrant shall promptly notify the administrator in a record of the date when the federal registration statement becomes effective and the content of any price amendment and shall promptly file a record containing the price amendment. If the notice is not timely received, the administrator may issue a stop order, without prior notice or hearing, retroactively denying effectiveness to the registration statement or suspending its effectiveness until compliance with this section. The administrator shall promptly notify the registrant of an order by telegram, telephone, or electronic means and promptly confirm this notice by a record. If the registrant subsequently complies with the notice requirements of this section, the stop order is void as of the date of its issuance.

(e) [Effectiveness of registration statement.] If the federal registration statement becomes effective before each of the conditions in this section is satisfied or is waived by the administrator, the registration statement is automatically effective under this [Act] when all the conditions are satisfied or waived. If the registrant notifies the administrator of the date when the federal registration statement is expected to become effective, the administrator shall promptly notify the registrant by telegram, telephone, or electronic means and promptly confirm this notice by a record, indicating whether all the conditions are satisfied or waived and whether the administrator intends the institution of a proceeding under Section 306. The notice by the administrator does not preclude the institution of such a proceeding.

Registration by coordination was one of the key innovations of the 1956 Act. As in the 1956 Act, Section 303 streamlines the content of the registration statement and the procedure by which a registration statement becomes effective, but not the substantive standards governing the effectiveness of a registration statement.

The phrase "in connection with the same offering" in Section 303 does not require that the federal and state registration statements be filed simultaneously or become effective simultaneously. A registration by coordination can be filed in a State after the effectiveness of the federal registration statement as long as the administrator does not conclude that the interval was too long to consider the State registration statement "the same offering."

3.

Section 303 is similar to the 1956 Act except that these provisions have been modernized to include electronic filing and electronic notification. Cf. Sections 102(8), 102(25), 105. It is anticipated that this will facilitate simultaneous filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission and the States which is consistent with the uniformity intended by this Act. Simultaneous or sequential filing could be administered through a designee similar to the current Web-CRD or in conjunction with the Securities and Exchange Commission's Electronic Data Gathering, Analysis, and Retrieval (EDGAR) system or otherwise.

Section 303(b) is not intended to limit the administrator to requiring only the information and records filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Sections 303(c) through (e) describe the conditions to be satisfied to achieve effectiveness of a coordinated filing. "Price amendment" is defined in Section 102(23). The administrator retains the right to test the registration statement by the substantive standards of Section 306(a) and may issue a stop or denial order if the administrator believes any of those provisions are applicable.

§ 304. SECURITIES REGISTRATION BY QUALIFICATION.

(a) [Registration permitted.] A security may be registered by qualification under this section.

(b) [Required records.] A registration statement under this section must contain the information or records specified in Section 305, a consent to service of process complying with Section 611, and, if required by rule adopted under this [Act], the following information or records:

with respect to the issuer and any significant subsidiary, its name, address, and form of organization; the State or foreign jurisdiction and date of its organization; the general character and location of its business; a description of its physical properties and equipment; and a statement of the general competitive conditions in the industry or business in which it is or will be engaged; with respect to each director and officer of the issuer, and other person having a similar status or performing similar functions, the person's name, address, and principal occupation for the previous five years; the amount of securities of the issuer held by the person as of the 30th day before the filing of the registration statement; the amount of the securities covered by the registration statement to which the person has indicated an intention to subscribe; and a description of any material interest of the person in any material transaction with the issuer or a significant subsidiary effected within the previous three years or proposed to be effected; with respect to persons covered by paragraph (2), the aggregate sum of the remuneration paid to those persons during the previous 12 months and estimated to be paid during the next 12 months, directly or indirectly, by the issuer, and all predecessors, parents, subsidiaries, and affiliates of the issuer;

with respect to a person owning of record or owning beneficially, if known, 10 percent or more of the outstanding shares of any class of equity security of the issuer, the information specified in paragraph (2) other than the person's occupation; with respect to a promoter, if the issuer was organized within the previous three years, the information or records specified in paragraph (2), any amount paid to the promoter within that period or intended to be paid to the promoter, and the consideration for the payment; with respect to a person on whose behalf any part of the offering is to be made in a nonissuer distribution, the person's name and address; the amount of securities of the issuer held by the person as of the date of the filing of the registration statement; a description of any material interest of the person in any material transaction with the issuer or any significant subsidiary effected within the previous three years or proposed to be effected; and a statement of the reasons for making the offering; the capitalization and long term debt, on both a current and pro forma basis, of the issuer and any significant subsidiary, including a description of each security outstanding or being registered or otherwise offered, and a statement of the amount and kind of consideration, whether in the form of cash, physical assets, services, patents, goodwill, or anything else of value, for which the issuer or any subsidiary has issued its securities within the previous two years or is obligated to issue its securities; the kind and amount of securities to be offered; the proposed offering price or the method by which it is to be computed; any variation at which a proportion of the offering is to be made to a person or class of persons other than the underwriters, with a specification of the person or class; the basis on which the offering is to be made if otherwise than for cash; the estimated aggregate underwriting and selling discounts or commissions and finders' fees, including separately cash, securities, contracts, or anything else of value to accrue to the underwriters or finders in connection with the offering or, if the selling discounts or commissions are variable, the basis of determining them and their maximum and minimum amounts; the estimated amounts of other selling expenses, including legal, engineering, and accounting charges; the name and address of each underwriter and each recipient of a finder's fee; a copy of any underwriting or selling group agreement under which the distribution is to be made or the proposed form of any such agreement whose terms have not yet been determined; and a description of the plan of distribution of any securities that are to be offered otherwise than through an underwriter;

the estimated monetary proceeds to be received by the issuer from the offering; the purposes for which the proceeds are to be used by the issuer; the estimated amount to be used for each purpose; the order or priority in which the proceeds will be used for the purposes stated; the amounts of any funds to be raised from other sources to achieve the purposes stated; the sources of the funds; and, if a part of the proceeds is to be used to acquire property, including goodwill, otherwise than in the ordinary course of business, the names and addresses of the vendors, the purchase price, the names of any persons that have received commissions in connection with the acquisition, and the amounts of the commissions and other expenses in connection with the acquisition, including the cost of borrowing money to finance the acquisition;

a description of any stock options or other security options outstanding, or to be created in connection with the offering, and the amount of those options held or to be held by each person required to be named in paragraph (2), (4), (5), (6), or (8) and by any person that holds or will hold 10 percent or more in the aggregate of those options;

(11)

the dates of, parties to, and general effect concisely stated of each managerial or other material contract made or to be made otherwise than in the ordinary course of business to be performed in whole or in part at or after the filing of the registration statement or that was made within the previous two years, and a copy of the contract;

(12)

a description of any pending litigation, action, or proceeding to which the issuer is a party and that materially affects its business or assets, and any litigation, action, or proceeding known to be contemplated by governmental authorities;

a copy of any prospectus, pamphlet, circular, form letter, advertisement, or other sales literature intended as of the effective date to be used in connection with the offering and any solicitation of interest used in compliance with Section 202(17)(B); a specimen or copy of the security being registered, unless the security is uncertificated; a copy of the issuer's articles of incorporation and bylaws or their substantial equivalents, in effect; and a copy of any indenture or other instrument covering the security to be registered;

a signed or conformed copy of an opinion of counsel concerning the legality of the security being registered, with an English translation if it is in a language other than English, which states whether the security when sold will be validly issued, fully paid, and nonassessable and, if a debt security, a binding obligation of the issuer;

(16)

a signed or conformed copy of a consent of any accountant, engineer, appraiser, or other person whose profession gives authority for a statement made by the person, if the person is named as having prepared or certified a report or valuation, other than an official record, that is public, which is used in connection with the registration statement;

a balance sheet of the issuer as of a date within four months before the filing of the registration statement; a statement of income and changes in financial position for each of the three fiscal years preceding the date of the balance sheet and for any period between the close of the immediately previous fiscal year and the date of the balance sheet, or for the period of the issuer's and any predecessor's existence if less than three years; and, if any part of the proceeds of the offering is to be applied to the purchase of a business, the financial statements that would be required if that business were the registrant; and any additional information or records required by rule adopted or order issued under this [Act].

a stop order is not in effect and a proceeding is not pending under Section 306; the administrator has not issued an order under Section 306 delaying effectiveness; and the applicant or registrant has not requested that effectiveness be delayed.

(d) [Delay of effectiveness of registration statement.] The administrator may delay effectiveness once for not more than 90 days if the administrator determines the registration statement is not complete in all material respects and promptly notifies the applicant or registrant of that determination. The administrator may also delay effectiveness for a further period of not more than 30 days if the administrator determines that the delay is necessary or appropriate.

(e) [Prospectus distribution may be required.] A rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] may require as a condition of registration under this section that a prospectus containing a specified part of the information or record specified in subsection (b) be sent or given to each person to which an offer is made, before or concurrently, with the earliest of:

the first offer made in a record to the person otherwise than by means of a public advertisement, by or for the account of the issuer or another person on whose behalf the offering is being made or by an underwriter or broker-dealer that is offering part of an unsold allotment or subscription taken by the person as a participant in the distribution;

the confirmation of a sale made by or for the account of the person; payment pursuant to such a sale; or delivery of the security pursuant to such a sale.

(3)

Official Comments Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 304; RUSA Section 304.

2-UA Blue Sky Regulation

This Section generally follows the 1956 Act and RUSA. Any security may be registered by qualification, whether or not another type of registration is available. Ordinarily, however, registration by qualification will only be used by an issuer when no other procedure is available.

Section 304(b) originally was modeled on Schedule A of the Securities Act of 1933.

3.

In Section 304(b)(12) pending litigation can include litigation that has not yet been filed.

4.

Section 304(b)(17) uses the same terminology as is used currently in Regulation S-X of the Securities and Exchange Commission. Under Sections 605(a) and (c) the administrator is authorized to specify the form and content of rules and forms governing registration statements and the form and content of financial statements required under this Act.

Under Sections 304(b)(18) and 307 the administrator may require additional information or may waive in whole or in part or condition any of the requirements of Section 304(b). Section 304(b)(18), for example, would authorize the administrator to require that a report by an accountant, engineer, appraiser or other professional person be filed. Section 304(b)(18) would also authorize that securities of designated classes under a trust indenture contain additional specified information.

§ 305. SECURITIES REGISTRATION FILINGS.

(a) [Who may file.] A registration statement may be filed by the issuer, a person on whose behalf the offering is to be made, or a broker-dealer registered under this [Act].

(b) [Filing fee.] A person filing a registration statement shall pay a filing fee of $[_____]. If a registration statement is withdrawn before the effective date or a preeffective stop order is issued under Section 306, the administrator shall retain $[_____] of the fee.

(c) [Status of offering.] A registration statement filed under Section 303 or 304 must specify:

the amount of securities to be offered in this State;

the States in which a registration statement or similar record in connection with the offering has been or is to be filed; and any adverse order, judgment, or decree issued in connection with the offering by a State securities regulator, the Securities and Exchange Commission, or a court.

(d) [Incorporation by reference.] A record filed under this [Act] or the predecessor act within five years preceding the filing of a registration statement may be incorporated by reference in the registration statement to the extent that the record is currently accurate.

(e) [Nonissuer distribution.] In the case of a nonissuer distribution, information or a record may not be required under subsection (i) or Section 304, unless it is known to the person filing the registration statement or to the person on whose behalf the distribution is to be made or unless it can be furnished by those persons without unreasonable effort or expense.

(f) [Escrow and impoundment.] A rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] may require as a condition of registration that a security issued within the previous five years or to be issued to a promoter for a consideration substantially less than the public offering price or to a person for a consideration other than cash be deposited in escrow; and that the proceeds from the sale of the registered security in this State be impounded until the issuer receives a specified amount from the sale of the security either in this State or elsewhere. The conditions of any escrow or impoundment required under this subsection may be established by rule adopted or order issued under this [Act], but the administrator may not reject a depository institution solely because of its location in another State.

(g) [Form of subscription.] A rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] may require as a condition of registration that a security registered under this [Act] be sold only on a specified form of subscription or sale contract and that a signed or conformed copy of each contract be filed under this [Act] or preserved for a period specified by the rule or order, which may not be longer than five years.

(h) [Effective period.] Except while a stop order is in effect under Section 306, a registration statement is effective for one year after its effective date, or for any longer period designated in an order under this [Act] during which the security is being offered or distributed in a nonexempted transaction by or for the account of the issuer or other person on whose behalf the offering is being made or by an underwriter or broker-dealer that is still offering part of an unsold allotment or subscription taken as a participant in the distribution. For the purposes of a nonissuer transaction, all outstanding securities of the same class identified in the registration statement as a security registered under this [Act] are considered to be registered while the registration statement is effective. If any securities of the same class are outstanding, a registration statement may not be withdrawn until one year after its effective date. A registration statement may be withdrawn only with the approval of the administrator.

(i) [Periodic reports.] While a registration statement is effective, a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] may require the person that filed the registration statement to file reports, not more often than quarterly, to keep the information or other record in the registration statement reasonably current and to disclose the progress of the offering.

(j) [Posteffective amendments.] A registration statement may be amended after its effective date. The posteffective amendment becomes effective when the administrator so orders. If a posteffective amendment is made to increase the number of securities specified to be offered or sold, the person filing the amendment shall pay a registration fee of $[_____]. A posteffective amendment relates back to the date of the offering of the additional securities being registered if, within one year after the date of the sale, the amendment is filed and the additional registration fee is paid.

Section 305 generally follows the 1956 Act and RUSA except that earlier provisions in both Acts referring to Investment Company Act of 1940 securities, which are federal covered securities, see Section 102(7), have been deleted.

2.

Section 305 is applicable both to registration by coordination, see Section 303, and to registration by qualification, see Section 304.

3.

Section 305(a) expressly authorizes registration by "a person on whose behalf the offering is to be made." This would permit a nonissuer, cf. Section 102(18), or a broker-dealer to file a registration statement independent of the issuer.

4.

2-UA Blue Sky Regulation

This Act is intended, to the extent practicable, to be revenue neutral in its impact on existing state law, see Comment 3 to Section 608. Accordingly, Section 305(b) does not specify what fees states should provide. If a State prefers to have the fees in this section established by rule, replace the phrase "a fee of $[_____]" in subsections (b) and (j) with the phrase "a fee established by the administrator by rule pursuant to the [state administrative procedure act]" and replace the phrase "$[_____]" of the fee" in subsection (b) with the phrase "an amount of the fee established by the administrator by rule". See Comment 3 to Section 410.

Section 305(c), which generally follows the 1956 Act and RUSA, does not require in Section 305(c)(3) disclosure of an order permitting the withdrawal of a registration statement. The administrator may, however, require disclosure of this information in a registration by qualification under Section 304(b)(18).

Section 305(c), like every other provision concerned with the content of the registration statement, must be read with Section 306(a)(1) which judges the accuracy and completeness of the registration statement as of its effective date unless an order denying effectiveness had been entered before the effective date. A registration statement must be kept current with changing developments until the effectiveness date, but a registration statement is not required to be amended after the effective date except to correct inaccuracies or deficiencies which existed as of the effective date. An administrator, however, separately may require under Section 305(i) or (j) periodic reports or amendments to keep reasonably current the information contained in the registration statement.

Under Section 305(d) incorporation by reference is permitted as a matter of administrative practice.

8.

Section 305(e) is the substantive equivalent to provisions in the 1956 Act and RUSA. This subsection is designed to address nonissuer offerings where the seller cannot obtain certified financial statements and other normally required records. The phrase "without unreasonable effort or expense" originated in Section 10(a)(3) of the Securities Act of 1933. It is not meant to apply to expenses incidental to supplying required information required for registration in the case of a nonissuer distribution by a person in a control relationship with the issuer or otherwise having access to or contractual rights to obtain the required information. Section 305(e) applies only to registration by qualification under Section 304 and periodic reports for either registration by coordination or registration by qualification under Section 305(i).

Section 305(f), follows the 1956 Act and RUSA, and authorizes the administrator to require the impoundment of funds until the issuer receives a specified amount from the sale of the security in this State or elsewhere and to require the escrow of promotional stock until specific conditions are met. This Section is limited to a security issued within the past five years or to be issued to a promoter for a consideration substantially different from the public offering price or to a person for a consideration other than cash. The typical distribution subject to Section 305(f) will be a relatively new promotional or speculative offering. Section 305(f) follows the 1956 Act and RUSA and provides that the administrator may not reject a depository solely because of its location in another state. Unlike the statute in Schwaemmle Const. Co. v. Michigan Dep't of Commerce, 360 N.W.2d 141 (Mich. 1984), Section 305(f) broadly provides that the administrator "may determine the conditions of any escrow or impoundment under this subsection." As in Schwaemmle, this power will operate only until the impounded funds or escrowed shares are released.

Section 305(g) follows the 1956 Act in authorizing the administrator to specify the form of a subscription or sale contract.

11.

Section 305(h) generally follows the 1956 Act and RUSA. The term "nonissuer transaction" or "nonissuer distribution" is defined in Section 102(18). A sale by a nonissuer would have to be registered under Section 301 unless it is exempted or involves a federal covered security. Section 202(1) exempts "isolated nonissuer transactions." When a nonissuer transaction is not exempt under Section 202(1), it may still be exempted under other transaction exemptions. If no exemption is available for a nonissuer distribution, and it does not involve a federal covered security, the security must be registered under Article 3. Under the first sentence of Section 305(h) each registration statement remains effective for at least one year and for any longer period the administrator may determine. However, no registration statement is effective while a stop order with respect to it is in effect under Section 306. For the purposes of a nonissuer transaction, all outstanding securities of the same class as a registered security are considered to be registered as long as the registration statement remains effective. This means that during the effective period of a registration statement under this Act all outstanding securities of the same class can be traded by anyone, including nonissuers, as if they were registered. Section 305(h) also provides that, unless the administrator determines otherwise, a registration statement cannot be withdrawn until one year after its effective date if any securities of the same class are outstanding. This is designed to protect sellers who would be unaware of a withdrawal from being subject to civil liability.

12.

Section 305(j) follows RUSA and a procedure limited to investment companies in the 1956 Act in allowing posteffective date amendments. Under Section 305(j), when a posteffective amendment increases the number of securities to be offered or sold, an additional registration fee is required.

§ 306. DENIAL, SUSPENSION, AND REVOCATION OF SECURITIES REGISTRATION.

(a) [Stop orders.] The administrator may issue a stop order denying effectiveness to, or suspending or revoking the effectiveness of, a registration statement if the administrator finds that the order is in the public interest and that:

the registration statement as of its effective date or before the effective date in the case of an order denying effectiveness, an amendment under Section 305(j) as of its effective date, or a report under Section 305(i), is incomplete in a material respect or contains a statement that, in the light of the circumstances under which it was made, was false or misleading with respect to a material fact; this [Act] or a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] or a condition imposed under this [Act] has been willfully violated, in connection with the offering, by the person filing the registration statement; by the issuer, a partner, officer, or director of the issuer or a person having a similar status or performing a similar function; a promoter of the issuer; or a person directly or indirectly controlling or controlled by the issuer; but only if the person filing the registration statement is directly or indirectly controlled by or acting for the issuer; or by an underwriter;

the security registered or sought to be registered is the subject of a permanent or temporary injunction of a court of competent jurisdiction or an administrative stop order or similar order issued under any federal, foreign, or state law other than this [Act] applicable to the offering, but the administrator may not institute a proceeding against an effective registration statement under this paragraph more than one year after the date of the order or injunction on which it is based, and the administrator may not issue an order under this paragraph on the basis of an order or injunction issued under the securities act of another State unless the order or injunction was based on conduct that would constitute, as of the date of the order, a ground for a stop order under this section;

the issuer's enterprise or method of business includes or would include activities that are unlawful where performed; with respect to a security sought to be registered under Section 303, there has been a failure to comply with the undertaking required by Section 303(b)(4);

(5)

the applicant or registrant has not paid the filing fee, but the administrator shall void the order if the deficiency is corrected; or the offering:

(7)

will work or tend to work a fraud upon purchasers or would so operate; [or] has been or would be made with unreasonable amounts of underwriters' and sellers' discounts, commissions, or other compensation, or promoters' profits or participations, or unreasonable amounts or kinds of options[; or is being made on terms that are unfair, unjust, or inequitable].

(b) [Enforcement of subsection (a)(7).] To the extent practicable, the administrator by rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] shall publish standards that provide notice of conduct that violates subsection (a)(7).

(c) [Institution of stop order.] The administrator may not institute a stop order proceeding against an effective registration statement on the basis of conduct or a transaction known to the administrator when the registration statement became effective unless the proceeding is instituted within 30 days after the registration statement became effective.

(d) [Summary process.] The administrator may summarily revoke, deny, postpone, or suspend the effectiveness of a registration statement pending final determination of an administrative proceeding. Upon the issuance of the order, the administrator shall promptly notify each person specified in subsection (e) that the order has been issued, the reasons for the revocation, denial, postponement, or suspension, and that within 15 days after the receipt of a request in a record from the person the matter will be scheduled for a hearing. If a hearing is not requested and none is ordered by the administrator, within 30 days after the date of service of the order, the order becomes final. If a hearing is requested or ordered, the administrator, after notice of and opportunity for hearing for each person subject to the order, may modify or vacate the order or extend the order until final determination.

(e) [Procedural requirements for stop order.] A stop order may not be issued under this section without:

appropriate notice to the applicant or registrant, the issuer, and the person on whose behalf the securities are to be or have been offered; an opportunity for hearing; and

findings of fact and conclusions of law in a record [in accordance with the state administrative procedure act].

(f) [Modification or vacation of stop order.] The administrator may modify or vacate a stop order issued under this section if the administrator finds that the conditions that caused its issuance have changed or that it is necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors.

This Section generally follows the 1956 Act and RUSA and applies to both registration by coordination under Section 303 and registration by qualification under Section 304.

2.

Section 306(a)(1) follows the 1956 Act and RUSA in testing in a suspension or revocation proceeding the completeness and accuracy of a registration statement as of the registration statement's effective date. A registration statement that becomes misleading because of a development that occurs after its effective date is not a ground for the issuance of a stop order under Section 306(a)(1). An administrator, however, may require periodic reports under Section 305(i) or a posteffective amendment under Section 305(j). With respect to periodic reports under Section 305(i), a misleading report would be the basis of a stop order under Section 306(a)(1) if it is materially inaccurate as of the date it was filed.

On the meaning of "willfully," see Comment 2 under Section 508.

4.

A violation by an issuer has the same consequences whether the issuer has filed a registration statement or has had a broker-dealer file it. But this is not the case when the registration statement is filed by a broker-dealer acting independently.

5.

The verb "is" at the beginning of Section 306(a)(3) means that a stop order or injunction that has expired or been vacated is not the ground for action under this paragraph.

Section 306(a)(4) applies to activity that is conducted in a State where that activity is illegal. It does not apply if the activity is not illegal under that State's law. This paragraph is not meant to apply to activity which is lawful where conducted but would be illegal if conducted in the State where the registration statement is filed.

7.

Sections 306(a)(7) and (b) address merit regulation. Sections 306(E) and (F) of the 1956 Act authorized a stop order when an "offering has worked or tended to work a fraud upon purchasers or would so operate" or "the offering has been or would be made with unreasonable amounts of underwriters' and sellers' discounts, commissions, or other compensation, or promoters' profits or participation, or unreasonable amounts or kinds of options." By 1985 a majority of states which had adopted the 1956 Act had adopted this approach to merit regulation rather than the earlier and broader "unfair, unjust or inequitable" standard that then applied in a minority of States. RUSA Sections 306(a)(5) and (6) adopted provisions substantively identical to the 1956 Act and included in brackets an "unfair, unjust, or inequitable" alternative. The National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996 subsequently preempted merit regulation of federal covered securities. See Section 102(7). Sections 306(a)(7) and (b) take a different approach. Subject to the National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996, merit standards are retained but hortatory paragraph 306(b) encourages the administrator, to the extent practicable, to adopt, by rule or order, standards that provide notice to issuers of a state's merit standards. Notice will address one criticism of merit regulation. See generally 1 Louis Loss & Joel Seligman, Securities Regulation 111-124 (3d ed. rev. 1998). Statements of Policy of the North American Securities Administrator Association that have been adopted by a state would provide notice in compliance with Section 306(b). Similarly other state rules or orders could be adopted in the future to address new types of securities as they occur. An order under Section 306(b) can be adopted after a securities registration statement has been filed. Under Section 306(b) an administrator, by rule or order, for example, could adopt a standard that would provide the basis for a stop order denying effectiveness to a development stage company that has no specific business purpose or plan or has indicated that its primary business plan is to engage in a merger or acquisition with an unidentified company, entity, or person. "Blank check offerings" are subject to Rule 419 adopted under the Securities Act of 1933. See Comment 3 to Section 202.

Section 306(c) follows the 1956 Act and RUSA and allows an administrator up to 30 days after a registration statement becomes effective to institute a stop order proceeding on the basis of a fact or transaction known when the registration statement became effective. This is to avoid the necessity of an administrator issuing a stop order prematurely.

10.

Sections 306(d) and (e) assure each person subject to a stop order of notice, opportunity for a hearing, and findings of fact and conclusions of law contained in a record.

An administrator must consider the public interest when issuing a stop order and may under Section 306(f) consider the public interest when modifying or vacating a stop order. See, e.g., TechnoMedical Lab., Inc. v. Utah Sec. Div., 744 P.2d 320, 324-325 (Utah Ct. App. 1987) (a state has a valid public interest in stopping the issuance of hundreds of thousands of public shares that did not comply with the disclosure requirements of securities registration); cf. stop orders under the Securities Act of 1933, see 1 Louis Loss & Joel Seligman, Securities Regulation 576-589 (3d ed. rev. 1998).

As of September 2002 46 jurisdictions had adopted a form of Section 306(a)(7)(A) ("will tend to work a fraud or would so operate"); 34 jurisdictions had adopted a form of Section 306(a)(7)(B) ("unreasonable amounts of underwriters' and sellers' discounts, commissions, or other compensation, or promoter profits or participations, or unreasonable amounts or kinds of options"); and 16 jurisdictions had adopted a form of bracketed Section 306(a)(7)(C) ("terms that are unfair, unjust, or inequitable").

§ 307. WAIVER AND MODIFICATION.

The administrator may waive or modify, in whole or in part, any or all of the requirements of Sections 302, 303, and 304(b) or the requirement of any information or record in a registration statement or in a periodic report filed pursuant to Section 305(i).

Official Comments

Prior Provision: RUSA Section 303(h). Section 307 follows RUSA Section 303(h) and empowers the administrator to waive or modify any of the requirements of 302, 303, 304(b), or the requirement of any information or record in a registration statement. An example would be the expedited procedure several states have adopted to coordinate with shelf registration under Rule 415 of the Securities Act of 1933. In waiving or modifying requirements the administrator must make a finding satisfying the requirements of Section 605(b).

§ 401. BROKER-DEALER REGISTRATION REQUIREMENT AND EXEMPTIONS.

2-UA Blue Sky Regulation

(a) [Registration requirement.] It is unlawful for a person to transact business in this State as a broker-dealer unless the person is registered under this [Act] as a broker-dealer or is exempt from registration as a broker-dealer under subsection (b) or (d).

(b) [Exemptions from registration.] The following persons are exempt from the registration requirement of subsection (a):

a broker-dealer without a place of business in this State if its only transactions effected in this State are with:

(A)

the issuer of the securities involved in the transactions;

(B)

a person registered as a broker-dealer under this [Act] or not required to be registered as a broker-dealer under this [Act];

(C) an institutional investor;

a nonaffiliated federal covered investment adviser with investments under management in excess of $100,000,000 acting for the account of others pursuant to discretionary authority in a signed record;

(E)

a bona fide preexisting customer whose principal place of residence is not in this State and the person is registered as a broker-dealer under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 or not required to be registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and is registered under the securities act of the State in which the customer maintains a principal place of residence; a bona fide preexisting customer whose principal place of residence is in this State but was not present in this State when the customer relationship was established, if:

(i)

the broker-dealer is registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 or not required to be registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and is registered under the securities laws of the State in which the customer relationship was established and where the customer had maintained a principal place of residence; and within 45 days after the customer's first transaction in this State, the person files an application for registration as a broker-dealer in this State and a further transaction is not effected more than 75 days after the date on which the application is filed, or, if earlier, the date on which the administrator notifies the person that the administrator has denied the application for registration or has stayed the pendency of the application for good cause; not more than three customers in this State during the previous 12 months, in addition to those customers specified in subparagraphs (A) through (F) and under subparagraph (H), if the broker-dealer is registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 or not required to be registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and is registered under the securities act of the State in which the broker-dealer has its principal place of business; and any other person exempted by rule adopted or order issued under this [Act]; and a person that deals solely in United States government securities and is supervised as a dealer in government securities by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, the Comptroller of the Currency, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, or the Office of Thrift Supervision.

(c) [Limits on employment or association.] It is unlawful for a broker-dealer, or for an issuer engaged in offering, offering to purchase, purchasing, or selling securities in this State, directly or indirectly, to employ or associate with an individual to engage in an activity related to securities transactions in this State if the registration of the individual is suspended or revoked or the individual is barred from employment or association with a broker-dealer, an issuer, an investment adviser, or a federal covered investment adviser by an order of the administrator under this [Act], the Securities and Exchange Commission, or a self-regulatory organization. A broker-dealer or issuer does not violate this subsection if the broker-dealer or issuer did not know and in the exercise of reasonable care could not have known, of the suspension, revocation, or bar. Upon request from a broker-dealer or issuer and for good cause, an order under this [Act] may modify or waive, in whole or in part, the application of the prohibitions of this subsection to the broker-dealer.

(d) [Foreign transactions.] A rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] may permit:

a broker-dealer that is registered in Canada or other foreign jurisdiction and that does not have a place of business in this State to effect transactions in securities with or for, or attempt to effect the purchase or sale of any securities by:

(A)

an individual from Canada or other foreign jurisdiction who is temporarily present in this State and with whom the broker-dealer had a bona fide customer relationship before the individual entered the United States;

(B)

an individual from Canada or other foreign jurisdiction who is present in this State and whose transactions are in a self-directed tax advantaged retirement plan of which the individual is the holder or contributor in that foreign jurisdiction; or an individual who is present in this State, with whom the broker-dealer customer relationship arose while the individual was temporarily or permanently resident in Canada or the other foreign jurisdiction; and an agent who represents a broker-dealer that is exempt under this subsection to effect transactions in securities or attempt to effect the purchase or sale of securities in this State as permitted for a broker-dealer described in paragraph (1).

Official Comments Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 201; RUSA Sections 201-202.

1.

"Broker-dealer" is defined in Section 102(4). The scope of the Section 401(a) reference "to transact business in this State" is specified in Section 610. "Transacts a business" has been held to mean "more than a trivial or de minimis business." United States v. Schwartz, 464 F.2d 499, 506 (2d Cir. 1972), cert. denied, 409 U.S. 1009 (1972).

2.

Under Section 401(a) a person can be required to register as a securities broker-dealer only if the person transacts business in securities. See, e.g., AMR Realty Co. v. State, 373 A.2d 1002 (N.J. Supr. Ct. App. Div. 1977) (requirement that the transactions involve securities).

3.

"Bona fide" is a much construed term particularly in the U.C.C. context. See, e.g., MCC Proceeds, Inc. v. Advest, Inc., 743 N.Y.S.2d 1 (N.Y. A.D. 2002) (comparing bona fide to good faith standard).

4.

Section 401(b)(1)(D) was added to provide relief in situations where a broker-dealer is accepting orders from a sophisticated financial professional who is making the investment decisions for its customers.

5.

Under 401(b)(1)(E) and (F) preexisting customers must be bona fide. A principal place of residence, for example, normally would be the residence where the customer spends a majority of time. These exemptions were intended to facilitate ongoing broker-customer relationships with customers who have established a second or other residence for such purposes as a winter home (i.e. "snowbirds").

Section 401(c) prohibits a broker-dealer or issuer from employing or associating with an individual in a capacity for which that individual has been suspended by the administrator. Violation of this provision does not result in strict liability. In order for a broker-dealer or issuer to be liable, the broker-dealer or issuer must have known or should have known of the administrator's order to the individual suspended or barred. Cf. Comment 17 to Section 412.

7.

Section 401(d) recognizes the increasingly transnational nature of securities brokerage and permits, if the administrator adopts a rule or order, transactions by a Canadian or a foreign broker-dealer with a person from Canada or other foreign jurisdiction who is resident in this State. This subsection is not self-executing and is effective only if the administrator adopts a rule or order.

To give effect to action taken by rule or order under Section 401(d), there must be a transaction registration exemption that will enable securities transactions to take place in customer accounts involving the broker-dealers and agents contemplated in Section 401(d). See Sections 202 and 203.

§ 402. AGENT REGISTRATION REQUIREMENT AND EXEMPTIONS.

(a) [Registration requirement.] It is unlawful for an individual to transact business in this State as an agent unless the individual is registered under this [Act] as an agent or is exempt from registration as an agent under subsection (b).

an individual who represents a broker-dealer in effecting transactions in this State limited to those described in Section 15(h)(2) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (15 U.S.C. Section 78(o)(2)); an individual who represents a broker-dealer that is exempt under Section 401(b) or (d); an individual who represents an issuer with respect to an offer or sale of the issuer's own securities or those of the issuer's parent or any of the issuer's subsidiaries, and who is not compensated in connection with the individual's participation by the payment of commissions or other remuneration based, directly or indirectly, on transactions in those securities; an individual who represents an issuer and who effects transactions in the issuer's securities exempted by Section 202, other than Section 202(11) and (14); an individual who represents an issuer that effects transactions solely in federal covered securities of the issuer, but an individual who effects transactions in a federal covered security under Section 18(b)(3) or 18(b)(4)(D) of the Securities Act of 1933 (15 U.S.C. Section 77r(b)(3) or 77r(b)(4)(D)) is not exempt if the individual is compensated in connection with the agent's participation by the payment of commissions or other remuneration based, directly or indirectly, on transactions in those securities; an individual who represents a broker-dealer registered in this State under Section 401(a) or exempt from registration under Section 401(b) in the offer and sale of securities for an account of a nonaffiliated federal covered investment adviser with investments under management in excess of $100,000,000 acting for the account of others pursuant to discretionary authority in a signed record; an individual who represents an issuer in connection with the purchase of the issuer's own securities; an individual who represents an issuer and who restricts participation to performing clerical or ministerial acts; or any other individual exempted by rule adopted or order issued under this [Act].

(3)

(4)

(5)

(7)

(8)

(c) [Registration effective only while employed or associated.] The registration of an agent is effective only while the agent is employed by or associated with a broker-dealer registered under this [Act] or an issuer that is offering, selling, or purchasing its securities in this State.

(d) [Limit on employment or association.] It is unlawful for a broker-dealer, or an issuer engaged in offering, selling, or purchasing securities in this State, to employ or associate with an agent who transacts business in this State on behalf of broker-dealers or issuers unless the agent is registered under subsection (a) or exempt from registration under subsection (b).

(e) [Limit on affiliations.] An individual may not act as an agent for more than one broker-dealer or one issuer at a time, unless the broker-dealer or the issuer for which the agent acts are affiliated by direct or indirect common control or are authorized by rule or order under this [Act].

"Agent" is defined in Section 102(2). The scope of the Section 402(a) reference to "transact business in this State" is specified in Section 610. An administrator may by rule or order take action under Section 401(d)(2) to address an agent.

2.

An independent contractor must be either a broker-dealer or an agent if the individual transacts business as a broker-dealer or agent. There is no other status permitted under this Act for securities activities.

3.

A broker-dealer in violation of Section 402(a) may be disciplined under Section 412 and be subject to a civil or administrative enforcement action under Section 603 or 604.

Under Sections 402(b)(3) and (5) an agent may be exempt if acting for an issuer and receiving compensation (for example, as a corporate executive), as long as the compensation is not a commission or other remuneration based on transactions in the issuer's own securities. Such an agent could receive a salary with conventional benefits, including an annual bonus (related to his or her performance) as an executive, and still be within this exemption unless the agent is also being compensated directly or indirectly for participation in the specified securities transactions.

Section 402(b)(6) was added to provide relief in situations where an agent is accepting orders from a sophisticated financial professional who is making the investment decisions for its customers.

6.

Ministerial or clerical acts in Section 402(b)(8) might include preparing routine written communications or responding to inquiries.

7.

Section 402(e) limits agents to a single employment or affiliation unless a rule or order of the administrator authorizes multiple affiliations. In any event an agent must be registered, see Section 402(a), or exempt from registration, see Section 402(b). Registration is effective only while an agent is employed by or associated with a broker-dealer or an issuer. See Section 402(c).

§ 403. INVESTMENT ADVISER REGISTRATION REQUIREMENT AND EXEMPTIONS.

(a) [Registration requirement.] It is unlawful for a person to transact business in this State as an investment adviser unless the person is registered under this [Act] as an investment adviser or is exempt from registration as an investment adviser under subsection (b).

a person without a place of business in this State that is registered under the securities act of the State in which the person has its principal place of business if its only clients in this State are:

federal covered investment advisers, investment advisers registered under this [Act], or broker-dealers registered under this [Act];

(B) institutional investors;

(C)

bona fide preexisting clients whose principal places of residence are not in this State if the investment adviser is registered under the securities act of the State in which the clients maintain principal places of residence; or any other client exempted by rule adopted or order issued under this [Act];

a person without a place of business in this State if the person has had, during the preceding 12 months, not more than five clients that are resident in this State in addition to those specified under paragraph (1); or any other person exempted by rule adopted or order issued under this [Act].

(c) [Limits on employment or association.] It is unlawful for an investment adviser, directly or indirectly, to employ or associate with an individual to engage in an activity related to investment advice in this State if the registration of the individual is suspended or revoked or the individual is barred from employment or association with an investment adviser, federal covered investment adviser, or broker-dealer by an order under this [Act], the Securities and Exchange Commission, or a self-regulatory organization, unless the investment adviser did not know, and in the exercise of reasonable care could not have known, of the suspension, revocation, or bar. Upon request from the investment adviser and for good cause, the administrator, by order, may waive, in whole or in part, the application of the prohibitions of this subsection to the investment adviser.

(d) [Investment adviser representative registration required.] It is unlawful for an investment adviser to employ or associate with an individual required to be registered under this [Act] as an investment adviser representative who transacts business in this State on behalf of the investment adviser unless the individual is registered under Section 404(a) or is exempt from registration under Section 404(b).

"Investment adviser" is defined in Section 102(15). The scope of the Section 403(a) reference to "transact business in this State" is specified in Section 610.

Excluded from the definition of investment adviser in Section 102(15)(C) is a broker-dealer who receives no special compensation for investment advisory services. Such a broker-dealer would not have to register as both a broker-dealer and investment adviser in this State. A broker-dealer that does receive special compensation, on the other hand, would also meet the statutory definition of investment adviser and would be required to register in both capacities.

3.

2-UA Blue Sky Regulation

Section 403(b)(2) is consistent with the National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996 which prohibits a State from regulating an investment adviser that does not have a place of business in this State and had fewer than six clients who were state residents during the preceding 12 months.

Section 403(c) prohibits an investment adviser from employing an individual who is prohibited from such employment or association by the administrator. Violation of this provision does not result in strict liability. To be liable the investment adviser must have known or should have known of the administrator's order to the individual suspended or barred.

§ 404. INVESTMENT ADVISER REPRESENTATIVE REGISTRATION REQUIREMENT AND EXEMPTIONS.

(a) [Registration requirement.] It is unlawful for an individual to transact business in this State as an investment adviser representative unless the individual is registered under this [Act] as an investment adviser representative or is exempt from registration as an investment adviser under subsection (b).

(b) [Exemptions from registration.] The following individuals are exempt from the registration requirement of subsection (a):

an individual who is employed by or associated with an investment adviser that is exempt from registration under Section 403(b) or a federal covered investment adviser that is excluded from the notice filing requirements of Section 405; and any other individual exempted by rule adopted or order issued under this [Act].

(c) [Registration effective only while employed or associated.] The registration of an investment adviser representative is not effective while the investment adviser representative is not employed by or associated with an investment adviser registered under this [Act] or a federal covered investment adviser that has made or is required to make a notice filing under Section 405.

(d) [Limit on affiliations.] An individual may transact business as an investment adviser representative for more than one investment adviser or federal covered investment adviser unless a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] prohibits or limits an individual from acting as an investment adviser representative for more than one investment adviser or federal covered investment adviser.

2-UA Blue Sky Regulation

(e) [Limits on employment or association.] It is unlawful for an individual acting as an investment adviser representative, directly or indirectly, to conduct business in this State on behalf of an investment adviser or a federal covered investment adviser if the registration of the individual as an investment adviser representative is suspended or revoked or the individual is barred from employment or association with an investment adviser or a federal covered investment adviser by an order under this [Act], the Securities and Exchange Commission, or a self-regulatory organization. Upon request from a federal covered investment adviser and for good cause, the administrator, by order issued, may waive, in whole or in part, the application of the requirements of this subsection to the federal covered investment adviser.

(f) [Referral fees.] An investment adviser registered under this [Act], a federal covered investment adviser that has filed a notice under Section 405, or a broker-dealer registered under this [Act] is not required to employ or associate with an individual as an investment adviser representative if the only compensation paid to the individual for a referral of investment advisory clients is paid to an investment adviser registered under this [Act], a federal covered investment adviser who has filed a notice under Section 405, or a broker-dealer registered under this [Act] with which the individual is employed or associated as an investment adviser representative.

"Investment adviser representative" is defined in Section 102(16). The scope of the Section 404(a) reference to "transacts business in this State" is specified in Section 610.

2.

Neither the 1956 Act nor RUSA provided for the registration of investment adviser representatives. In recent years, however, the states increasingly have done so.

Under this Act a sole practitioner may register as an investment adviser. See Section 403. The Investment Adviser Registration Depository currently provides for entry of the legal name of the individual as the investment adviser and the entry of any name the individual is doing business under that is different from the individual's name. A sole practitioner is not required to register under Section 404 as an investment adviser representative, unless the administrator requires such registration.

Section 404(e) prohibits an investment adviser representative from association with a federal covered investment adviser when such association is prohibited by an order of the administrator. Unlike similar provisions in Sections 401 and 403, there is no culpability requirement that the investment adviser representative "knows or in the exercise of reasonable care should have known" of a suspension or bar because the order should be received by the investment adviser representative. As with Sections 401 and 403, the administrator may waive this prohibition. Cf. Comment 17 to Section 412.

The administrator may adopt rules or orders under Section 404(f) in accordance with Section 605. The Securities and Exchange Commission has adopted a rule that addresses referral fees in Rule 206(4)-3 of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940.

For a state that intends to extend Section 404(f) to those broker-dealers and investment advisers who are not required to register and those federal covered investment advisers not required to file a notice, this subsection should read:

(f) [Referral Fees.] An investment adviser registered under this [Act], a federal covered investment adviser that has filed a notice under Section 405, or a broker-dealer registered under this [Act] is not required to employ or associate with an individual as an investment adviser representative if the only compensation paid to the individual for a referral of investment advisory clients is paid to an investment adviser registered under this [Act], or not required to register under this [Act], a federal covered investment who has filed a notice under Section 405 or is not required to file a notice under Section 405, or a broker-dealer registered under this [Act] or not required to register under this [Act] with which the individual is employed or associated as an investment adviser representative.

§ 405. FEDERAL COVERED INVESTMENT ADVISER NOTICE FILING REQUIREMENT.

(a) [Notice filing requirement.] Except with respect to a federal covered investment adviser described in subsection (b), it is unlawful for a federal covered investment adviser to transact business in this State as a federal covered investment adviser unless the federal covered investment adviser complies with subsection (c).

(b) [Notice filing requirement not required.] The following federal covered investment advisers are not required to comply with subsection (c):

a federal covered investment adviser without a place of business in this State if its only clients in this State are:

federal covered investment advisers, investment advisers registered under this [Act], and broker-dealers

2-UA Blue Sky Regulation

registered under this [Act];

(B)

institutional investors;

(C)

bona fide preexisting clients whose principal places of residence are not in this State; or other clients specified by rule adopted or order issued under this [Act];

a federal covered investment adviser without a place of business in this State if the person has had, during the preceding 12 months, not more than five clients that are resident in this State in addition to those specified under paragraph (1); and any other person excluded by rule adopted or order issued under this [Act].

(c) [Notice filing procedure.] A person acting as a federal covered investment adviser, not excluded under subsection (b), shall file a notice, a consent to service of process complying with Section 611, and such records as have been filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 required by rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] and pay the fees specified in Section 410(e).

(d) [Effectiveness of filing.] The notice under subsection (c) becomes effective upon its filing.

Official Comments No Prior Provision.

"Federal covered investment adviser" is defined in Section 102(6). The scope of the Section 405(a) reference to "transacts business in this State" is specified in Section 610.

Section 405(b)(2) is necessitated by the National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996 and is intended to coordinate this Act with the Investment Advisers Act of 1940.

3.

Section 404(c) provides limits on those who can be employed by or associated with a federal covered investment adviser.

The succession provision of Section 407(a) is available to a federal covered investment adviser who has filed a notice under Section 405.

§ 406. REGISTRATION BY BROKER-DEALER, AGENT, INVESTMENT ADVISER, AND INVESTMENT ADVISER REPRESENTATIVE.

(a) [Application for initial registration.] A person shall register as a broker-dealer, agent, investment adviser, or investment adviser representative by filing an application and a consent to service of process complying with Section 611, and paying the fee specified in Section 410 and any reasonable fees charged by the designee of the administrator for processing the filing. The application must contain:

the information or record required for the filing of a uniform application; and upon request by the administrator, any other financial or other information or record that the administrator determines is appropriate.

(b) [Amendment.] If the information or record contained in an application filed under subsection (a) is or becomes inaccurate or incomplete in a material respect, the registrant shall promptly file a correcting amendment.

(c) [Effectiveness of registration.] If an order is not in effect and a proceeding is not pending under Section 412, registration becomes effective at noon on the 45th day after a completed application is filed, unless the registration is denied. A rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] may set an earlier effective date or may defer the effective date until noon on the 45th day after the filing of any amendment completing the application.

(d) [Registration renewal.] A registration is effective until midnight on December 31 of the year for which the application for registration is filed. Unless an order is in effect under Section 412, a registration may be automatically renewed each year by filing such records as are required by rule adopted or order issued under this [Act], by paying the fee specified in Section 410, and by paying costs charged by the designee of the administrator for processing the filings.

(e) [Additional conditions or waivers.] A rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] may impose such other conditions, not inconsistent with the National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996. An order issued under this [Act] may waive, in whole or in part, specific requirements in connection with registration as are in the public interest and for the protection of investors.

Under Section 406(a), the administrator is authorized to accept standardized forms such as Form B-D for broker-dealers; Form U-4 for agents and investment adviser representatives; and Form ADV for investment advisers, which are filed today through such designees as the Web-CRD or the Investment Adviser Registration Depository (IARD). While this Act generally encourages uniformity, Sections 406(a) and (e) are intended to give the administrator authority to augment or waive disclosure requirements in appropriate cases.

Section 406(a) eliminates the listing of specified information delineated in Section 202 of the 1956 Act. As with RUSA Section 205, the intent is to facilitate coordination with widely used standardized forms.

3.

Under this Act a single person may act both as an agent and investment adviser representative if the person satisfies applicable registration requirements to be both an agent and investment adviser representative.

§ 407. SUCCESSION AND CHANGE IN REGISTRATION OF BROKER-DEALER OR INVESTMENT ADVISER.

(a) [Succession.] A broker-dealer or investment adviser may succeed to the current registration of another broker-dealer or investment adviser or a notice filing of a federal covered investment adviser, and a federal covered investment adviser may succeed to the current registration of an investment adviser or notice filing of another federal covered investment adviser, by filing as a successor an application for registration pursuant to Section 401 or 403 or a notice pursuant to Section 405 for the unexpired portion of the current registration or notice filing.

2-UA Blue Sky Regulation

(b) [Organizational change.] A broker-dealer or investment adviser that changes its form of organization or State of incorporation or organization may continue its registration by filing an amendment to its registration if the change does not involve a material change in its financial condition or management. The amendment becomes effective when filed or on a date designated by the registrant in its filing. The new organization is a successor to the original registrant for the purposes of this [Act]. If there is a material change in financial condition or management, the broker-dealer or investment adviser shall file a new application for registration. A predecessor registered under this [Act] shall stop conducting its securities business other than winding down transactions and shall file for withdrawal of broker-dealer or investment adviser registration within 45 days after filing its amendment to effect succession.

(c) [Name change.] A broker-dealer or investment adviser that changes its name may continue its registration by filing an amendment to its registration. The amendment becomes effective when filed or on a date designated by the registrant.

(d) [Change of control.] A change of control of a broker-dealer or investment adviser may be made in accordance with a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act].

Section 407 is intended to avoid unnecessary interruptions of business by specifying procedures for a successor broker-dealer or investment adviser; a broker-dealer or investment adviser to maintain its registration if it changes its form of organization or name; or, in accordance with a rule or order adopted under this Act, a change of control of a broker-dealer or investment adviser.

There is no filing fee under Section 407.

§ 408. TERMINATION OF EMPLOYMENT OR ASSOCIATION OF AGENT AND INVESTMENT ADVISER REPRESENTATIVE AND TRANSFER OF EMPLOYMENT OR ASSOCIATION.

(a) [Notice of termination.] If an agent registered under this [Act] terminates employment by or association with a broker-dealer or issuer, or if an investment adviser representative registered under this [Act] terminates employment by or association with an investment adviser or federal covered investment adviser, or if either registrant terminates activities that require registration as an agent or investment adviser representative, the broker-dealer, issuer, investment adviser, or federal covered investment adviser shall promptly file a notice of termination. If the registrant learns that the broker-dealer, issuer, investment adviser, or federal covered investment adviser has not filed the notice, the registrant may do so.

2-UA Blue Sky Regulation

(b) [Transfer of employment or association.] If an agent registered under this [Act] terminates employment by or association with a broker-dealer registered under this [Act] and begins employment by or association with another broker-dealer registered under this [Act]; or if an investment adviser representative registered under this [Act] terminates employment by or association with an investment adviser registered under this [Act] or a federal covered investment adviser that has filed a notice under Section 405 and begins employment by or association with another investment adviser registered under this [Act] or a federal covered investment adviser that has filed a notice under Section 405; then upon the filing by or on behalf of the registrant, within 30 days after the termination, of an application for registration that complies with the requirement of Section 406(a) and payment of the filing fee required under Section 410, the registration of the agent or investment adviser representative is:

immediately effective as of the date of the completed filing, if the agent's Central Registration Depository record or successor record or the investment adviser representative's Investment Adviser Registration Depository record or successor record does not contain a new or amended disciplinary disclosure within the previous 12 months; or temporarily effective as of the date of the completed filing, if the agent's Central Registration Depository record or successor record or the investment adviser representative's Investment Adviser Registration Depository record or successor record contains a new or amended disciplinary disclosure within the preceding 12 months.

(c) [Withdrawal of temporary registration.] The administrator may withdraw a temporary registration if there are or were grounds for discipline as specified in Section 412 and the administrator does so within 30 days after the filing of the application. If the administrator does not withdraw the temporary registration within the 30 day period, registration becomes automatically effective on the 31st day after filing.

(d) [Power to prevent registration.] The administrator may prevent the effectiveness of a transfer of an agent or investment adviser representative under subsection (b)(1) or (2) based on the public interest and the protection of investors.

(e) [Termination of registration or application for registration.] If the administrator determines that a registrant or applicant for registration is no longer in existence or has ceased to act as a broker-dealer, agent, investment adviser, or investment adviser representative, or is the subject of an adjudication of incapacity or is subject to the control of a committee, conservator, or guardian, or cannot reasonably be located, a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] may require the registration be canceled or terminated or the application denied. The administrator may reinstate a canceled or terminated registration, with or without hearing, and may make the registration retroactive.

Official Comments Prior Provision: 1956 Act Section 204(d).

1.

Under Sections 402(c) and 404(c) registration of an agent or investment adviser representative is effective only while the agent or investment adviser representative is employed by or associated with a broker-dealer, issuer, or investment adviser, as may be the case. Section 408(a) specifies a procedure to inform the administrator of a notice of termination.

To expedite transfer to a new broker-dealer or investment adviser, Section 408(b) provides a procedure by which agents or investment adviser representative registration will be effective immediately as of the date of new employment when there is no new or added disciplinary disclosure in the relevant Central Research Depository or Investment Adviser Registration Depository records. Both electronic systems are currently administered by the National Association of Securities Dealers. Section 408(d) is intended to ensure that the administrator has the authority to prevent immediate effectiveness in appropriate cases.

§ 409. WITHDRAWAL OF REGISTRATION OF BROKER-DEALER, AGENT, INVESTMENT ADVISER, AND INVESTMENT ADVISER REPRESENTATIVE.

Withdrawal of registration by a broker-dealer, agent, investment adviser, or investment adviser representative becomes effective 60 days after the filing of the application to withdraw or within any shorter period as provided by rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] unless a revocation or suspension proceeding is pending when the application is filed. If a proceeding is pending, withdrawal becomes effective when and upon such conditions as required by rule adopted or order issued under this [Act]. The administrator may institute a revocation or suspension proceeding under Section 412 within one year after the withdrawal became effective automatically and issue a revocation or suspension order as of the last date on which registration was effective if a proceeding is not pending.

This section generally follows the 1956 Act Section 204(e) and RUSA Section 214. This section does not affect any applicant's privilege of withdrawal of an application from registration before the registration becomes effective. It is simply designed to prevent withdrawal of an effective registration under fire. The last sentence preserves the ability of the administrator to initiate an action under Section 412 when the administrator does not know of a reason to object to withdrawal until after withdrawal has become effective.

Ordinarily today a registrant will file a standardized form such as Form U-5, BD-W or ADV-W to withdraw registration.

(f) [Payment.] A person required to pay a filing or notice fee under this section may transmit the fee through or to a designee as a rule or order provides under this [Act].

[(g) [Dual agent/investment adviser representative.] An investment adviser representative who is registered as an agent under Section 402 and who represents a person that is both registered as a broker-dealer under Section 401 and registered as an investment adviser under Section 403 or required as a federal covered investment adviser to make a notice filing under Section 405 is not required to pay an initial or annual registration fee for registration as an investment adviser representative.]

Official Comments Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 202(b); RUSA Section 206.

1.

Each state should determine the appropriate fee for each type of registration and for each type of renewal, denial, or withdrawal of a registration.

Similarly each state should determine whether it wishes to remove the brackets from Section 410(g) and charge a single fee for dually registered agents and investment adviser representatives.

3.

If a State prefers to have the fees in this section established by rule, amend this section to read as follows, inserting the appropriate reference to the State's administrative procedure act:

[SECTION 410. FILING FEES.]

(a) [Fee established by administrator.] The administrator shall establish fees by rule pursuant to the [state administrative procedure act] for:

(1) an initial filing of an application as a broker-dealer and renewal of an application by a broker-dealer for registration, but, if the filing results in a denial or withdrawal, the administrator shall retain an amount of the fee established by the administrator;

(2) an application for registration as an agent and renewal of registration as an agent, but, if the filing results in a denial or withdrawal, the administrator shall retain an amount of the fee established by the administrator;

(3) an application for registration as an investment adviser and renewal of registration as an investment adviser, but, if the filing results in a denial or withdrawal, the administrator shall retain an amount of the fee established by the administrator.

(4) an application for registration as an investment adviser representative, a renewal of registration as an investment adviser representative, and a change of registration as an investment adviser representative, but, if the filing results in a denial or withdrawal, the administrator shall retain an amount of the fee established by the administrator; and

(5) an initial fee and annual notice fee for a federal covered investment adviser required to file a notice under Section 405.

(b) [Payment.] A person required to pay a filing or notice fee under this section may transmit the fee through or to a designee as a rule or order provides under this [Act].

(c) [Dual agent/investment adviser representative.] An investment adviser representative who is registered as an agent under Section 402 and who represents a person that is both registered as a broker-dealer under Section 401 and registered as an investment adviser under Section 403 or required as a federal covered investment adviser to make a notice filing under Section 405 is not required to pay an initial or annual registration fee for registration as an investment adviser representative.]

§ 411. POSTREGISTRATION REQUIREMENTS.

(a) [Financial requirements.] Subject to Section 15(h) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (15 U.S.C. Section 78o(h)) or Section 222 of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 (15 U.S.C. Section 80b-22), a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] may establish minimum financial requirements for broker-dealers registered or required to be registered under this [Act] and investment advisers registered or required to be registered under this [Act].

(b) [Financial reports.] Subject to Section 15(h) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (15 U.S.C. Section 78o(h)) or Section 222(b) of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 (15 U.S.C. Section 80b-22), a broker-dealer registered or required to be registered under this [Act] and an investment adviser registered or required to be registered under this [Act] shall file such financial reports as are required by a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act]. If the information contained in a record filed under this subsection is or becomes inaccurate or incomplete in a material respect, the registrant shall promptly file a correcting amendment.

(c) [Recordkeeping.] Subject to Section 15(h) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (15 U.S.C. Section 78o(h)) or Section 222 of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 (15 U.S.C. Section 80b-22):

a broker-dealer registered or required to be registered under this [Act] and an investment adviser registered or required to be registered under this [Act] shall make and maintain the accounts, correspondence, memoranda, papers, books, and other records required by rule adopted or order issued under this [Act]; broker-dealer records required to be maintained under paragraph (1) may be maintained in any form of data storage acceptable under Section 17(a) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (15 U.S.C. Section 78q(a)) if they are readily accessible to the administrator; and investment adviser records required to be maintained under paragraph (1) may be maintained in any form of data storage required by rule adopted or order issued under this [Act].

(d) [Audits or inspections.] The records of a broker-dealer registered or required to be registered under this [Act] and of an investment adviser registered or required to be registered under this [Act] are subject to such reasonable periodic, special, or other audits or inspections by a representative of the administrator, within or without this State, as the administrator considers necessary or appropriate in the public interest and for the protection of investors. An audit or inspection may be made at any time and without prior notice. The administrator may copy, and remove for audit or inspection copies of, all records the administrator reasonably considers necessary or appropriate to conduct the audit or inspection. The administrator may assess a reasonable charge for conducting an audit or inspection under this subsection.

(e) [Custody and discretionary authority bond or insurance.] Subject to Section 15(h) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (15 U.S.C. Section 78o(h)) or Section 222 of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 (15 U.S.C. Section 80b-22), a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] may require a broker-dealer or investment adviser that has custody of or discretionary authority over funds or securities of a customer or client to obtain insurance or post a bond or other satisfactory form of security in an amount not to exceed $[_____]. The administrator may determine the requirements of the insurance, bond, or other satisfactory form of security. Insurance or a bond or other satisfactory form of security may not be required of a broker-dealer registered under this [Act] whose net capital exceeds, or of an investment adviser registered under this [Act] whose minimum financial requirements exceed, the amounts required by rule or order under this [Act]. The insurance, bond, or other satisfactory form of security must permit an action by a person to enforce any liability on the insurance, bond, or other satisfactory form of security if instituted within the time limitations in Section 509(j)(2).

(f) [Requirements for custody.] Subject to Section 15(h) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (15 U.S.C. Section 78o(h)) or Section 222 of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 (15 U.S.C. Section 80b-22), an agent may not have custody of funds or securities of a customer except under the supervision of a broker-dealer and an investment adviser representative may not have custody of funds or securities of a client except under the supervision of an investment adviser or a federal covered investment adviser. A rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] may prohibit, limit, or impose conditions on a broker-dealer regarding custody of funds or securities of a customer and on an investment adviser regarding custody of securities or funds of a client.

(g) [Investment adviser brochure rule.] With respect to an investment adviser registered or required to be registered under this [Act], a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] may require that information or other record be furnished or disseminated to clients or prospective clients in this State as necessary or appropriate in the public interest and for the protection of investors and advisory clients.

(h) [Continuing education.] A rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] may require an individual registered under Section 402 or 404 to participate in a continuing education program approved by the Securities and Exchange Commission and administered by a self-regulatory organization or, in the absence of such a program, a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] may require continuing education for an individual registered under Section 404.

Official Comments Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Sections 102(c), 202(d) and (e) and 203; RUSA Sections 209, 211 and 215.

Sections 411(a) through (c) and (e) through (f) implicitly refer to "capital, custody, margin, financial responsibility, making and keeping records, bonding, or financial or operational reporting requirements." Under the

2-UA Blue Sky Regulation

National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996, States may not impose such requirements on covered broker-dealers and investment advisers greater than those specified in Section 15(h) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and Section 222 of the Investment Advisors Act of 1940.

Minimum financial requirements must be maintained during the entire time a person is registered and not merely at the time of the registration. See, e.g., National Grange Mut. Ins. Co. v. Prioleau, 236 S.E.2d 808 (S.C. 1977) (continuing bond requirement); Ridgeway, McLeod & Assoc., 281 A.2d 390 (N.J. Super. Ct. App. Div. 1971) (continuing minimum capital requirement).

3.

The duty in Section 411(b) to correct or update information is limited to material information which a reasonable investor would continue to consider important in deciding whether to purchase or sell securities. Cf. TSC Indus., Inc. v. Northway, Inc., 426 U.S. 438, 444-450 (1970); Securities Act Release No. 6084, 17 SEC Dock. 1048, 1054 (1979) ("persons are continuing to rely on all or any material portion of the statements").

Section 411(c)(1) authorizes the administrator to require all records to be preserved for the period the administrator prescribes by rule or order.

5.

Rule 17a-4 is the current rule under Section 17(a) of the Securities Exchange Act referred to in Section 411(c)(2) that addresses acceptable forms of data storage.

6.

The administrator's power to copy and examine records in Section 411(d) is subject to all applicable privileges. See, e.g., 10 Louis Loss & Joel Seligman, Securities Regulation 4921-4925 n.69 (3d ed. rev. 1996). The power in Section 411(d) to conduct audits or inspections is distinguishable from the administrator's enforcement powers under Section 602. No subpoena is necessary under Section 411(d). Failure to submit to a reasonable audit or inspection is a violation of this Act which may result in an action by the administrator under Section 412(d)(8), a criminal prosecution under Section 508, or an injunction under Section 603. An unreasonable audit, inspection or demand for information or documents would be subject to challenge in an appropriate court.

7.

2-UA Blue Sky Regulation

Section 411(f) broadens 1956 Act Section 102(c) and RUSA Section 215 to apply to agents as well as investment adviser representatives. Subject to Section 15(h) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and Section 222 of the Investment Adviser Act of 1940, the administrator is given broad authority to prohibit, limit, or condition custody arrangements.

Section 411(g) parallels Rule 204-3, adopted under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, popularly known as the brochure rule, which authorizes the SEC to require dissemination to investment adviser clients of specified information about the investment adviser and investment advice.

§ 412. DENIAL, REVOCATION, SUSPENSION, WITHDRAWAL, RESTRICTION, CONDITION, OR LIMITATION OF REGISTRATION.

(a) [Disciplinary conditions-applicants.] If the administrator finds that the order is in the public interest and subsection (d) authorizes the action, an order issued under this [Act] may deny an application, or may condition or limit registration: (1) of an applicant to be a broker-dealer, agent, investment adviser, or investment adviser representative, and (2) if the applicant is a broker-dealer or investment adviser, of any partner, officer, director, person having a similar status or performing similar functions, or person directly or indirectly controlling the broker-dealer or investment adviser.

(b) [Disciplinary conditions -- registrants.] If the administrator finds that the order is in the public interest and subsection (d) authorizes the action an order issued under this [Act] may revoke, suspend, condition, or limit the registration of a registrant and if the registrant is a broker-dealer or investment adviser, any partner, officer, or director, any person having a similar status or performing similar functions, or any person directly or indirectly controlling the broker-dealer or investment adviser. However, the administrator may not institute a revocation or suspension proceeding under this subsection based on an order issued by another State that is reported to the administrator or designee later than one year after the date of the order on which it is based; and under subsection (d)(5)(A) and (B), may not issue an order on the basis of an order under the state securities act of another State unless the other order was based on conduct for which subsection (d) would authorize the action had the conduct occurred in this State.

(c) [Disciplinary penalties -- registrants.] If the administrator finds that the order is in the public interest and subsection (d)(1) through (6), (8), (9), (10), or (12) and (13) authorizes the action, an order under this [Act] may censure, impose a bar, or impose a civil penalty in an amount not to exceed a maximum of $[] for a single violation or $[] for several violations on a registrant and if the registrant is a broker-dealer or investment adviser, any partner, officer, or director, any person having similar functions or any person directly or indirectly controlling the broker-dealer or investment adviser.

(d) [Grounds for discipline.] A person may be disciplined under subsections (a) through (c) if the person:

has filed an application for registration in this State under this [Act] or the predecessor act within the previous 10 years, which, as of the effective date of registration or as of any date after filing in the case of an order denying effectiveness, was incomplete in any material respect or contained a statement that, in light of the circumstances under which it was made, was false or misleading with respect to a material fact; willfully violated or willfully failed to comply with this [Act] or the predecessor act or a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] or the predecessor act within the previous 10 years; has been convicted of a felony or within the previous 10 years has been convicted of a misdemeanor involving a security, a commodity future or option contract, or an aspect of a business involving securities, commodities, investments, franchises, insurance, banking, or finance; is enjoined or restrained by a court of competent jurisdiction in an action instituted by the administrator under this [Act] or the predecessor act, a State, the Securities and Exchange Commission, or the United States from engaging in or continuing an act, practice, or course of business involving an aspect of a business involving securities, commodities, investments, franchises, insurance, banking, or finance; is the subject of an order, issued after notice and opportunity for hearing by:

(2)

(3)

(4)

(5)

(A)

2-UA Blue Sky Regulation

the securities, depository institution, insurance, or other financial services regulator of a State or by the Securities and Exchange Commission or other federal agency denying, revoking, barring, or suspending registration as a broker-dealer, agent, investment adviser, federal covered investment adviser, or investment adviser representative; the securities regulator of a State or by the Securities and Exchange Commission against a broker-dealer, agent, investment adviser, investment adviser representative, or federal covered investment adviser; the Securities and Exchange Commission or by a self-regulatory organization suspending or expelling the registrant from membership in the self-regulatory organization;

(B)

(C)

(D)

a court adjudicating a United States Postal Service fraud order; the insurance regulator of a State denying, suspending, or revoking the registration of an insurance agent; or a depository institution regulator suspending or barring a person from the depository institution business; is the subject of an adjudication or determination, after notice and opportunity for hearing, by the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Commodity Futures Trading Commission; the Federal Trade Commission; a federal depository institution regulator, or a depository institution, insurance, or other financial services regulator of a State that the person willfully violated the Securities Act of 1933, the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, the Investment Company Act of 1940, or the Commodity Exchange Act, the securities or commodities law of a State, or a federal or state law under which a business involving investments, franchises, insurance, banking, or finance is regulated; is insolvent, either because the person's liabilities exceed the person's assets or because the person cannot meet the person's obligations as they mature, but the administrator may not enter an order against an applicant or registrant under this paragraph without a finding of insolvency as to the applicant or registrant; refuses to allow or otherwise impedes the administrator from conducting an audit or inspection under Section 411(d) or refuses access to a registrant's office to conduct an audit or inspection under Section 411(d); has failed to reasonably supervise an agent, investment adviser representative, or other individual, if the agent, investment adviser representative, or other individual was subject to the person's supervision and committed a violation of this [Act] or the predecessor act or a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] or the predecessor act within the previous 10 years;

(E)

(F)

2-UA Blue Sky Regulation

(8)

(9)

(10)

has not paid the proper filing fee within 30 days after having been notified by the administrator of a deficiency, but the administrator shall vacate an order under this paragraph when the deficiency is corrected;

(11)

after notice and opportunity for a hearing, has been found within the previous 10 years:

by a court of competent jurisdiction to have willfully violated the laws of a foreign jurisdiction under which the business of securities, commodities, investment, franchises, insurance, banking, or finance is regulated;

(B)

to have been the subject of an order of a securities regulator of a foreign jurisdiction denying, revoking, or suspending the right to engage in the business of securities as a broker-dealer, agent, investment adviser, investment adviser representative, or similar person; or to have been suspended or expelled from membership by or participation in a securities exchange or securities association operating under the securities laws of a foreign jurisdiction;

(12)

is the subject of a cease and desist order issued by the Securities and Exchange Commission or issued under the securities, commodities, investment, franchise, banking, finance, or insurance laws of a State; has engaged in dishonest or unethical practices in the securities, commodities, investment, franchise, banking, finance, or insurance business within the previous 10 years; or is not qualified on the basis of factors such as training, experience, and knowledge of the securities business. However, in the case of an application by an agent for a broker-dealer that is a member of a self-regulatory organization or by an individual for registration as an investment adviser representative, a denial order may not be based on this paragraph if the individual has successfully completed all examinations required by subsection (e). The administrator may require an applicant for registration under Section 402 or 404 who has not been registered in a State within the two years preceding the filing of an application in this State to successfully complete an examination.

(e) [Examinations.] A rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] may require that an examination, including an examination developed or approved by an organization of securities regulators, be successfully completed by a class of individuals or all individuals. An order issued under this [Act] may waive, in whole or in part, an examination as to an individual and a rule adopted under this [Act] may waive, in whole or in part, an examination as to a class of individuals if the administrator determines that the examination is not necessary or appropriate in the public interest and for the protection of investors.

(f) [Summary process.] The administrator may suspend or deny an application summarily; restrict, condition, limit, or suspend a registration; or censure, bar, or impose a civil penalty on a registrant before final determination of an administrative proceeding. Upon the issuance of an order, the administrator shall promptly notify each person subject to the order that the order has been issued, the reasons for the action, and that within 15 days after the receipt of a request in a record from the person the matter will be scheduled for a hearing. If a hearing is not requested and none is ordered by the administrator within 30 days after the date of service of the order, the order becomes final by operation of law. If a hearing is requested or ordered, the administrator, after notice of and opportunity for hearing to each person subject to the order, may modify or vacate the order or extend the order until final determination.

(g) [Procedural requirements.] An order issued may not be issued under this section, except under subsection (f), without:

appropriate notice to the applicant or registrant;

(2)

opportunity for hearing; and

findings of fact and conclusions of law in a record [in accordance with the state administrative procedure act].

(h) [Control person liability.] A person that controls, directly or indirectly, a person not in compliance with this section may be disciplined by order of the administrator under subsections (a) through (c) to the same extent as the noncomplying person, unless the controlling person did not know, and in the exercise of reasonable care could not have known, of the existence of conduct that is a ground for discipline under this section.

(i) [Limit on investigation or proceeding.] The administrator may not institute a proceeding under subsection(a), (b), or (c) based solely on material facts actually known by the administrator unless an investigation or the proceeding is instituted within one year after the administrator actually acquires knowledge of the material facts.

Section 412 generally follows Section 204 of the 1956 Act and Sections 207 and 212-213 of RUSA, but has been modified to reflect subsequent developments that have broadened the scope and remedies of counterpart federal and state statutes.

2.

Section 412 authorizes the administrator to seek a sanction based on the seriousness of the misconduct. Under Section 412 the administrator must prove that the denial, revocation, suspension, cancellation, withdrawal, restriction, condition, or limitation both is (1) in the public interest and (2) involves one of the enumerated grounds in Section 412(d). See, e.g., Mayflower Sec. Co., Inc. v. Bureau of Sec., 312 A.2d 497 (N.J. 1973). The "public interest" is a much litigated concept that has come to have settled meanings. See generally 6 L. Loss & J. Seligman, Securities Regulation 3103.5-3103.18 (3d ed. rev. 2002) (under federal securities laws). The public interest will not require imposition of a sanction for every minor or technical violation of subsection (d).

3.

The term "foreign" means a jurisdiction outside of the United States, not a different state within the United States.

4.

Section 412(a) through (c) authorizes the administrator to proceed against an entire firm, regardless of whether the administrator proceeds against any individual, when an individual partner, officer, or director or person occupying a similar status or performing similar functions, or a controlling person is disciplined under subsection (d), but only if proceeding against the entire firm is in the public interest. The discipline of such an individual may not automatically be used against a broker-dealer or investment adviser. When, however, there is a failure to reasonably supervise, see Section 412(d)(9) or control person liability, see Section 412(h), the administrator is empowered to proceed against a firm in an appropriate case. In Section 412, "any partner, officer, or director, any person occupying a similar status or performing similar function." can include a branch manager, assistant branch manager, or other supervisor.

In Section 412(d)(1) the completeness and accuracy of an effective application for registration is tested as of the appropriate effective date. An application that becomes incomplete or inaccurate after its effective date is not a ground for discipline under paragraph (d)(1). In an appropriate case, an action might be available under paragraph (d)(2) and Section 406(b). On the other hand, in a proceeding to deny effectiveness to a pending application for registration, the completeness and accuracy of the application is not limited to the effective date and can be judged on any date after filing.

The term "willfully" in Section 412(d)(2) and (11)(A) is discussed in Comment 2 to Section 508.

7.

There is no time limit or statute of limitations on felony convictions in Section 412(d)(3) as a ground for disciplinary action.

8.

The present tense of the verb "is" in Sections 412(d)(4) through (6) and (12) means that an injunction, order, adjudication, or determination that has expired or been vacated is no longer a ground for discipline.

9.

In Sections 412(d)(5) and (6) the administrator is not required to prove the validity of the ground which led to the earlier disciplinary order.

10.

Under Section 412(d)(7) the administrator may not proceed against a broker-dealer or investment adviser firm on the basis of the insolvency of a partner, officer, director, controlling person or other person specified in subsection (b), unless it is a sole proprietorship.

11.

Section 412(d)(8) can be violated by a refusal to cooperate with an administrator's reasonable audit or inspection, including by withholding or concealing records, refusing to furnish required records, or refusing the administrator reasonable access to any office or location within an office to conduct an audit or inspection under this Act. However, a request by a person subject to an audit or inspection for a reasonable delay to obtain assistance of counsel does not constitute a violation of Section 412(d)(8).

The term "failed to supervise reasonably" in Section 412(d)(9) includes not having reasonable supervisory procedures in place as well as a proper system of supervision and internal control. Cf. Hollinger v. Titan Capital Corp., 914 F.2d 1564 (9th Cir. 1990), cert. denied, 499 U.S. 976 (1991). Section 15(b)(4)(E) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 similarly addresses "failure to supervise reasonably." See 6 Louis Loss & Joel Seligman, Securities Regulation 3097-3101 (3d ed. rev. 2002).

The term "dishonest and unethical practices" in Section 412(d)(13) has been held not to be unconstitutionally vague. See, e.g., Brewster v. Maryland Sec. Comm'n, 548 A.2d 157, 160 (M.D. Ct. Spec. App. 1988) ("a broad statutory standard is not vague if it has a meaningful referent in business practice, custom or usage"); Johnson-Bowles Co. v. Division of Sec., 829 P.2d 101, 114 (Utah Ct. App. 1992) (such legislative language bespeaks a legislative intent to delegate the interpretation of what constitutes "dishonest and unethical practices" in the securities industry to the administrator). Ministerial or clerical violations of a statute or rule, if immaterial and occurring without intent or recklessness, typically would not constitute dishonest or unethical practices.

14.

Under the counterparts to Section 412(d)(14) and (e) applicants to become agents of broker-dealers typically take standardized tests administered by the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc.

15.

Sections 412(f) and (g) amplify the earlier procedures found in Section 204(f) of the 1956 Act and are intended to facilitate summary disciplinary proceedings, when these are appropriate.

16.

Section 412(i) parallels the language of Section 204 of the 1956 Act and Section 212(b) of RUSA with some significant changes. The time period in which the administrator can act has been extended to one year from 30 days in the 1956 Act and 90 days in RUSA. The limitation on instituting a proceeding can also be tolled by instituting a formal investigation. The addition of the word "solely" is intended to make it clear that an administrator may consider the prior history of an applicant or registrant even if that prior history had been known to the administrator for more than one year if there are additional material facts which are actually known to the administrator within the last year.

17.

"Actually known" in Section 412(i) is used to signify that the mere filing of material facts in the Central Registration Depository or Investment Advisory Registration Depository systems does not constitute actual knowledge, unless that information was received by the administrator, or, but for a decision by the administrator, would have been received by the administrator.

§ 501. GENERAL FRAUD.

It is unlawful for a person, in connection with the offer, sale, or purchase of a security, directly or indirectly:

(1)

to employ a device, scheme, or artifice to defraud;

to make an untrue statement of a material fact or to omit to state a material fact necessary in order to make the statement made, in the light of the circumstances under which it is made, not misleading; or to engage in an act, practice, or course of business that operates or would operate as a fraud or deceit upon another person.

Official Comments Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 101; RUSA Section 501.

1.

Section 501, which was Section 101 in the 1956 Act, was modeled on Rule 10b-5 adopted under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and on Section 17(a) of the Securities Act of 1933. There has been significant later case development interpreting Rule 10b-5, Section 17(a), and Section 101 of the 1956 Act. Section 501 is not identical to either Rule 10b-5 or Section 17(a).

2.

There are no exemptions from Section 501.

3.

Section 501 applies to any securities offer, sale or purchase, including offers, sales, or purchases involving registered, exempt, or federal covered securities. It would also apply to a rescission offer under Section 510.

4.

The possible consequences of violating Section 501 are many. These include denial, suspension, or revocation of securities registration under Section 306; denial, revocation, suspension, withdrawal, restriction, condition or limitation of a broker-dealer, agent, investment adviser, or investment adviser representative registration under Section 412; criminal prosecution under Section 508; civil enforcement proceedings under Sections 603; and administrative proceedings under 604.

5.

Because Section 501, like Rule 10b-5, reaches market manipulation, see 8 Louis Loss & Joel Seligman, Securities Regulation Ch.10.D (3d ed. 1991), this Act does not include the RUSA market manipulation Section 502, which had no counterpart in the 1956 Act.

6.

The culpability required to be pled or proved under Section 501 is addressed in the relevant enforcement context. See, e.g., Section 508, criminal penalties, where "willfulness" must be proven; Section 509, civil liabilities, which includes a reasonable care defense; or civil and administrative enforcement actions under Sections 603 and 604, where no culpability is required to be pled or proven.

7.

2-UA Blue Sky Regulation

There is no private cause of action, express or implied, under Section 501. Section 509(m) expressly provides that only Section 509 provides a private cause of action for conduct that could violate Section 501.

§ 502. PROHIBITED CONDUCT IN PROVIDING INVESTMENT ADVICE.

(a) [Fraud in providing investment advice.] It is unlawful for a person that advises others for compensation, either directly or indirectly or through publications or writings, as to the value of securities or the advisability of investing in, purchasing, or selling securities or that, for compensation and as part of a regular business, issues or promulgates analyses or reports relating to securities:

to employ a device, scheme, or artifice to defraud another person; or

to engage in an act, practice, or course of business that operates or would operate as a fraud or deceit upon another person.

(b) [Rules defining fraud.] A rule adopted under this [Act] may define an act, practice, or course of business of an investment adviser or an investment adviser representative, other than a supervised person of a federal covered investment adviser, as fraudulent, deceptive, or manipulative, and prescribe means reasonably designed to prevent investment advisers and investment adviser representatives, other than supervised persons of a federal covered investment adviser, from engaging in acts, practices, and courses of business defined as fraudulent, deceptive, or manipulative.

(c) [Rules specifying contents of advisory contract.] A rule adopted under this [Act] may specify the contents of an investment advisory contract entered into, extended, or renewed by an investment adviser.

Official Comments Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 102(a); RUSA Section 503.

Section 502(a) applies to any person that commits fraud in providing investment advice. Section 502(b) is not limited to persons registered as investment advisers or investment adviser representatives.

2.

A person can violate both Section 501 and Section 502 if the person violates Section 502 in connection with the offer, purchase, or sale of a security.

3.

The rulemaking authority under Sections 502(b) and (c) would provide the basis for existing NASAA rules concerning investment advisers, to the extent these rules are not preempted by the National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996.

Under Section 203A(b)(2) of the Investment Advisers Act States retain their authority to investigate and bring enforcement actions with respect to fraud or deceit against a federal covered investment adviser or a person associated with a federal covered investment adviser. Under Section 502(a), which applies to any person, a State could bring an enforcement action against a federal covered investment adviser, including a federal covered investment adviser excluded from the definition of investment adviser in Section 102(15)(E).

There is no private cause of action, express or implied, under Section 502. Section 509(m) expressly provides that only Section 509 provides for a private cause of action for prohibited conduct in providing investment advice that could violate Section 502.

§ 503. EVIDENTIARY BURDEN.

(a) [Civil.] In a civil action or administrative proceeding under this [Act], a person claiming an exemption, exception, preemption, or exclusion has the burden to prove the applicability of the claim.

(b) [Criminal.] In a criminal proceeding under this [Act], a person claiming an exemption, exception, preemption, or exclusion has the burden of going forward with evidence of the claim.

As specified in Section 503(a), in a civil or administrative action, the person claiming an exemption, exception, preemption, or exclusion has the burden of persuasion.

In contrast, in a criminal action under Section 503(b), the prosecutor is required to prove each element of a crime "beyond a reasonable doubt." The defendant only has the burden of producing evidence of an exemption, exception, preemption, or exclusion. Some court decisions have characterized this burden as an affirmative defense. See, e.g.,

2-UA Blue Sky Regulation

United States ex. rel. Schott v. Tehan, 365 F.2d 191, 195 (6th Cir. 1966) (Ohio blue sky law constitutionally shifts burden of production to defendant); Commonwealth v. David, 309 N.E.2d 484, 488 (Mass. 1974) (exemption is an affirmative defense); State v. Frost, 387 N.E.2d 235, 238-239 (Ohio 1979) (it is not unconstitutional to require the burden of proof as an affirmative defense to prove a securities law exemption); State v. Andersen, 773 A.2d 328 (Conn. 2001) (an exemption from registration is an affirmative defense to the charge of selling unregistered securities).

§ 504. FILING OF SALES AND ADVERTISING LITERATURE.

(a) [Filing requirement.] Except as otherwise provided in subsection (b), a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] may require the filing of a prospectus, pamphlet, circular, form letter, advertisement, sales literature, or other advertising record relating to a security or investment advice, addressed or intended for distribution to prospective investors, including clients or prospective clients of a person registered or required to be registered as an investment adviser under this [Act].

(b) [Excluded communications.] This section does not apply to sales and advertising literature specified in subsection (a) which relates to a federal covered security, a federal covered investment adviser, or a security or transaction exempted by Section 201, 202, or 203 except as required pursuant to Section 201(7).

The prospectuses, pamphlets, circulars, form letters, advertisements, sales literature or advertising communications, include material disseminated electronically or available on a web site.

2.

The administrator may bring a civil enforcement action in a court under Section 603 or institute administrative enforcement under Section 604 to prevent publication, circulation or use of any materials required by the administrator to be filed under Section 504 that have not been filed.

3.

Section 504(b) is meant to refer to the communications described in Section 504(a).

§ 505. MISLEADING FILINGS.

It is unlawful for a person to make or cause to be made, in a record that is used in an action or proceeding or filed under this [Act], a statement that, at the time and in the light of the circumstances under which it is made, is false or misleading in a material respect, or, in connection with the statement, to omit to state a material fact necessary to make the statement made, in the light of the circumstances under which it was made, not false or misleading.

Official Comment

Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 404; RUSA Section 504.

The definition of "materiality" in TSC Indus., Inc. v. Northway, Inc., 426 U.S. 438, 449 (1976) ("an omitted fact is material if there is a substantial likelihood that a reasonable shareholder would consider it important in deciding how to vote") has generally been followed in both federal and state securities law. See 4 Louis Loss & Joel Seligman, Securities Regulation 2071-2105 (3d ed. rev. 2000).

§ 506. MISREPRESENTATIONS CONCERNING REGISTRATION OR EXEMPTION.

The filing of an application for registration, a registration statement, a notice filing under this [Act], the registration of a person, the notice filing by a person, or the registration of a security under this [Act] does not constitute a finding by the administrator that a record filed under this [Act] is true, complete, and not misleading. The filing or registration or the availability of an exemption, exception, preemption, or exclusion for a security or a transaction does not mean that the administrator has passed upon the merits or qualifications of, or recommended or given approval to, a person, security, or transaction. It is unlawful to make, or cause to be made, to a purchaser, customer, client, or prospective customer or client a representation inconsistent with this section.

Official Comment

Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 405; RUSA Section 505.

This Section follows the 1956 Act and RUSA, as well as state securities statutes generally, in providing that a misrepresentation concerning registration or an exemption is unlawful.

§ 507. QUALIFIED IMMUNITY.

A broker-dealer, agent, investment adviser, federal covered investment adviser, or investment adviser representative is not liable to another broker-dealer, agent, investment adviser, federal covered investment adviser, or investment adviser representative for defamation relating to a statement that is contained in a record required by the administrator, or designee of the administrator, the Securities and Exchange Commission, or a self-regulatory organization, unless the person knew, or should have known at the time that the statement was made, that it was false in a material respect or the person acted in reckless disregard of the statement's truth or falsity.

Official Comments

Source of Law: National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc. Proposal Relating to Qualified Immunity in Arbitration Proceedings for Statements Made in Forms U-4 and U-5.

In 1994 The Securities and Exchange Commission Division of Market Regulation published The Large Firm Project: A Review of Hiring, Retention, and Supervisory Practices (1994), which found that a small number of "rogue brokers" were responsible for a significant proportion of customer disciplinary complaints. These brokers in some instances moved from one broker-dealer firm to another, it was explained, without full and complete disclosure of disciplinary problems by the broker-dealer, because of broker-dealer firms' fear of state law defamation claims. See also GAO, Actions Needed to Better Protect Investors against Unscrupulous Brokers 3 (1994); Testimony of SEC Chairman Arthur Levitt Concerning the Large Firm Project, Subcomm. on Telecommunications & Fin., House Comm. on Energy

In 1998, the National Association of Securities Dealers proposed qualified immunity for statements made in Forms U-4 and U-5 to address this problem. This proposal was reprinted in Securities Exchange Act Release 39,892, 66 SEC Dock. 2473 (1998). This proposal was limited to arbitration proceedings. It was not acted on by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

3.

An alternative approach would be a standard providing for absolute immunity. See generally Anne Wright, Form U-5 Defamation, 52 Wash. & Lee L. Rev. 1299 (1995); Acciardo v. Millennium Sec. Corp., 83 F. Supp. 2d 413 (S.D.N.Y. 2000) (discussing both New York qualified and absolute immunity cases).

4.

Securities administrators or self-regulatory organizations generally are subject to absolute or qualified immunity for actions of their employees within the course of their official duties. See 10 Louis Loss & Joel Seligman, Securities Regulation 4818-4821 (3d ed. rev. 1996).

5.

As is generally the law "truth is a complete defense to a defamation action." Andrews v. Prudential Sec., Inc., 160 F.3d 304, 308 (6th Cir. 1998).

6.

An agent who has been the subject of a Form U-5, Uniform Termination Notice for Securities Industry Registration, may respond to specified adverse disclosures and have her or his responses reprinted on the published version of Form U-5.

7.

Through September 2002 no state had adopted an immunity provision in its securities statute. No state has rejected immunity in this context by judicial decision. A number of states have adopted qualified immunity by judicial decision. See, e.g., Eaton Vance Distrib., Inc. v. Ulrich, 692 So.2d 915 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 1997); Bavarati v. Josephal, Lyon & Ross, Inc., 28 F.3d 704 (7th Cir. 1994) (Illinois); Andrews v. Prudential Sec., Inc., 160 F.3d 304 (6th Cir. 1998) (Michigan); Prudential Sec., Inc. v. Dalton, 929 F. Supp. 1411 (N.D. Okla. 1996) (Oklahoma); Glennon v. Dean Witter Reynolds Inc., 83 F.3d 132 (6th Cir. 1996) (Tennessee).

§ 508. CRIMINAL PENALTIES.

(a) [Criminal penalties.] A person that willfully violates this [Act], or a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act], except Section 504 or the notice filing requirements of Section 302 or 405, or that willfully violates Section 505 knowing the statement made to be false or misleading in a material respect, upon conviction, shall be fined not more than $[] or imprisoned not more than [] years, or both. An individual convicted of violating a rule or order under this [Act] may be fined, but may not be imprisoned, if the individual did not have knowledge of the rule or order.

(b) [Criminal reference not required.] The [Attorney General or the proper prosecuting attorney] with or without a reference from the administrator, may institute criminal proceedings under this [Act].

(c) [No limitation on other criminal enforcement.] This [Act] does not limit the power of this State to punish a person for conduct that constitutes a crime under other laws of this State.

Official Comments Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 409; RUSA Section 604; Securities Exchange Act of 1934 Section 32(a).

This Section follows the 1956 Act and the federal securities laws in imposing criminal penalties for any willful violation of the Act. RUSA Section 604 distinguished between felonies and misdemeanors, limiting willful violations of cease and desist orders to a misdemeanor.

The term "willfully" has the same meaning in Section 508 as it did in the 1956 Act. All that is required is proof that a person acted intentionally in the sense that the person was aware of what he or she was doing. Proof of evil motive or intent to violate the law or knowledge that the law was being violated is not required.

3.

The final sentence of Section 508(a) is based on Section 32(a) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, which provides: "[N]o person shall be subject to imprisonment under this section in violation of any rule or regulation if he proves that he had no knowledge of such rule or regulation." The "no knowledge" clause in Section 508(a) is relevant only to sentencing. The person convicted has the burden of persuasion to prove no knowledge at sentencing. Because this does not impose a burden on the defendant to disprove the elements of a crime, Section 32(a) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 has been held not to raise a constitutional problem. United States v. Mandel, 296 F. Supp. 1038, 1040 (S.D.N.Y. 1969).

The appropriate state prosecutor under Section 508(b) may decide whether to bring a criminal action under this statute, another statute, or, when applicable, common law. In certain states the administrator has full or limited criminal enforcement powers.

5.

This section does not specify maximum dollar amounts for criminal fines, maximum terms for imprisonment, nor the years of limitation, but does provide for each state to specify appropriate magnitudes for criminal fines or maximum terms for imprisonment.

The definition of willfulness in Comment 2 to Section 508 has been followed by most courts. See, e.g., State v. Hodge, 460 P.2d 596, 604 (Kan. 1969) ("No specific intent is necessary to constitute the offense where one violates the securities act except the intent to do the act denounced by the statute"); State v. Nagel, 279 N.W.2d 911, 915 (S.D. 1979) ("[I]t is widely understood that the legislature may forbid the doing of an act and make its commission a crime without regard to the intent or knowledge of the doer"); State v. Fries, 337 N.W.2d 398, 405 (Neb. 1983) (proof of a specific intent, evil motive, or knowledge that the law was being violated is not required to sustain a criminal conviction under a state's blue sky law); People v. Riley, 708 P.2d 1359, 1362 (Colo. 1985) ("A person acts 'knowingly' or 'willfully' with respect to conduct ... when he is aware that his conduct ... exists"); State v. Larsen, 865 P.2d 1355, 1358 (Utah 1993) (willful implies a willingness to commit the act, not an intent to violate the law or to injure another or acquire any advantage); State v. Montgomery, 17 P.3d 292, 294 (Idaho 2001) (bad faith is not required for a violation of a state securities act; willful implies "simply a purpose or willingness to commit the act or make the omission referred to"); *State v. § 509. CIVIL LIABILITY.

(a) [Securities Litigation Uniform Standards Act.] Enforcement of civil liability under this section is subject to the Securities Litigation Uniform Standards Act of 1998.

(b) [Liability of seller to purchaser.] A person is liable to the purchaser if the person sells a security in violation of Section 301 or, by means of an untrue statement of a material fact or an omission to state a material fact necessary in order to make the statement made, in light of the circumstances under which it is made, not misleading, the purchaser not knowing the untruth or omission and the seller not sustaining the burden of proof that the seller did not know and, in the exercise of reasonable care, could not have known of the untruth or omission. An action under this subsection is governed by the following:

The purchaser may maintain an action to recover the consideration paid for the security, less the amount of any income received on the security, and interest [at the legal rate of interest] from the date of the purchase, costs, and reasonable attorneys' fees determined by the court, upon the tender of the security, or for actual damages as provided in paragraph (3).

(2)

The tender referred to in paragraph (1) may be made any time before entry of judgment. Tender requires only notice in a record of ownership of the security and willingness to exchange the security for the amount specified. A purchaser that no longer owns the security may recover actual damages as provided in paragraph (3).

Actual damages in an action arising under this subsection are the amount that would be recoverable upon a tender less the value of the security when the purchaser disposed of it, and interest [at the legal rate of interest] from the date of the purchase, costs, and reasonable attorneys' fees determined by the court.

(c) [Liability of purchaser to seller.] A person is liable to the seller if the person buys a security by means of an untrue statement of a material fact or omission to state a material fact necessary in order to make the statement made, in light of the circumstances under which it is made, not misleading, the seller not knowing of the untruth or omission, and the purchaser not sustaining the burden of proof that the purchaser did not know, and in the exercise of reasonable care, could not have known of the untruth or omission. An action under this subsection is governed by the following:

The seller may maintain an action to recover the security, and any income received on the security, costs, and reasonable attorneys' fees determined by the court, upon the tender of the purchase price, or for actual damages as provided in paragraph (3).

(2)

The tender referred to in paragraph (1) may be made any time before entry of judgment. Tender requires only notice in a record of the present ability to pay the amount tendered and willingness to take delivery of the security for the amount specified. If the purchaser no longer owns the security, the seller may recover actual damages as provided in paragraph (3).

(3)

Actual damages in an action arising under this subsection are the difference between the price at which the security was sold and the value the security would have had at the time of the sale in the absence of the purchaser's conduct causing liability, and interest [at the legal rate of interest] from the date of the sale of the security, costs, and reasonable attorneys' fees determined by the court.

(d) [Liability of unregistered broker-dealer and agent.] A person acting as a broker-dealer or agent that sells or buys a security in violation of Section 401(a), 402(a), or 506 is liable to the customer. The customer, if a purchaser, may maintain an action for recovery of actual damages as specified in subsections (b)(1) through (3), or, if a seller, for a remedy as specified in subsections (c)(1) through (3).

(e) [Liability of unregistered investment adviser and investment adviser representative.] A person acting as an investment adviser or investment adviser representative that provides investment advice for compensation in violation of Section 403(a), 404(a), or 506 is liable to the client. The client may maintain an action to recover the consideration paid for the advice, interest [at the legal rate of interest] from the date of payment, costs, and reasonable attorneys' fees determined by the court.

(f) [Liability for investment advice.] A person that receives directly or indirectly any consideration for providing investment advice to another person and that employs a device, scheme, or artifice to defraud the other person or engages in an act, practice, or course of business that operates or would operate as a fraud or deceit on the other person, is liable to the other person. An action under this subsection is governed by the following:

The person defrauded may maintain an action to recover the consideration paid for the advice and the amount of any actual damages caused by the fraudulent conduct, interest [at the legal rate of interest] from the date of the fraudulent conduct, costs, and reasonable attorneys' fees determined by the court, less the amount of any income received as a result of the fraudulent conduct.

(2)

This subsection does not apply to a broker-dealer or its agents if the investment advice provided is solely incidental to transacting business as a broker-dealer and no special compensation is received for the investment advice.

(g) [Joint and several liability.] The following persons are liable jointly and severally with and to the same extent as persons liable under subsections (b) through (f):

2-UA Blue Sky Regulation

a person that directly or indirectly controls a person liable under subsections (b) through (f), unless the controlling person sustains the burden of proof that the person did not know, and in the exercise of reasonable care could not have known, of the existence of conduct by reason of which the liability is alleged to exist;

an individual who is a managing partner, executive officer, or director of a person liable under subsections (b) through (f), including an individual having a similar status or performing similar functions, unless the individual sustains the burden of proof that the individual did not know and, in the exercise of reasonable care could not have known, of the existence of conduct by reason of which the liability is alleged to exist;

(3)

an individual who is an employee of or associated with a person liable under subsections (b) through (f) and who materially aids the conduct giving rise to the liability, unless the individual sustains the burden of proof that the individual did not know and, in the exercise of reasonable care could not have known, of the existence of conduct by reason of which the liability is alleged to exist; and a person that is a broker-dealer, agent, investment adviser, or investment adviser representative that materially aids the conduct giving rise to the liability under subsections (b) through (f), unless the person sustains the burden of proof that the person did not know and, in the exercise of reasonable care could not have known, of the existence of conduct by reason of which liability is alleged to exist.

(h) [Right of contribution.] A person liable under this section has a right of contribution as in cases of contract against any other person liable under this section for the same conduct.

(i) [Survival of cause of action.] A cause of action under this section survives the death of an individual who might have been a plaintiff or defendant.

(j) [Statute of limitations.] A person may not obtain relief:

under subsection (b) for violation of Section 301, or under subsection (d) or (e), unless the action is instituted within one year after the violation occurred; or under subsection (b), other than for violation of Section 301, or under subsection (c) or (f), unless the action is instituted within the earlier of two years after discovery of the facts constituting the violation and five years after the violation.

(k) [No enforcement of violative contract.] A person that has made, or has engaged in the performance of, a contract in violation of this [Act] or a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act], or that has acquired a purported right under the contract with knowledge of conduct by reason of which its making or performance was in violation of this [Act], may not base an action on the contract.

(l) [No contractual waiver.] A condition, stipulation, or provision binding a person purchasing or selling a security or receiving investment advice to waive compliance with this [Act] or a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] is void.

(m) [Survival of other rights or remedies.] The rights and remedies provided by this [Act] are in addition to any other rights or remedies that may exist, but this [Act] does not create a cause of action not specified in this section or Section 411(e).

Under Section 509 violations of two or more sections can be proven, but the remedy is limited either to rescission or actual damages. Actual damages means compensatory damages. Punitive or "double" damages are not provided by this section which also is the standard under Section 28(a) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. See 9 Louis Loss & Joel Seligman, Securities Regulation 4408-4427 (3d ed. rev. 1992).

2.

The Securities Litigation Uniform Standards Act of 1998 cited in Section 509(a) modifies the entire Section 509.

3.

As with Section 12(a)(2) of the Securities Act of 1933, Section 509(b) contains a type of privity requirement in that the purchaser is required to bring an action against the seller. Section 509(b) is broader than Section 12(a)(2) in that it will reach all sales in violation of Section 301, not just sales "by means of a prospectus" as is the law under Section 12(a)(2). See Gustafson v. Alloyd Co., Inc., 513 U.S. 561 (1995).

Unlike the current standards on implied rights of action under Rule 10b-5, neither causation nor reliance has been held to be an element of a private cause of action under the precursor to Section 509(b). See Gerhard W. Gohler, IRA v. Wood, 919 P.2d 561 (Utah 1996); Ritch v. Robinson-Humphrey Co., 748 So. 2d 861 (Ala. 1999); Kaufman v. I-Stat Corp., 754 A.2d 1188 (N.J. 2000).

The measure of damages in Section 509(b)(3) is that contemplated by Section 12 of the Securities of 1933. See 9 Louis Loss and Joel Seligman, Securities Regulations 4242-4246 (3d ed. 1992). The measure of damages in Section 509(c)(3), however, is that contemplated by Rule 10b-5. Sec. 9 id. 4408-4427. In providing for damages as an alternative to rescission, Section 509(b)(3) follows the 1956 Act and is an improvement upon many earlier state provisions, which conditioned the plaintiff's right of recovery on his or her being in a position to make a good tender. A plaintiff is not given the right under this type of statutory formula to retain stock and also seek damages.

Sections 509(e) and (f) are based on a proposed NASAA amendment to the Uniform Securities Act adopted in order "to establish civil liability for individuals who willfully violate Section 102 dealing with fraudulent practices pertaining to advisory activities." Neither provision is intended to limit other state law claims for providing investment advice.

7.

Broker-dealer employees, including research analysts, who receive no special compensation from third parties for investment advice would not be liable under Section 509(f).

8.

The control liability provision in Section 509(g)(1) is modeled on that in the 1956 Act. On the meaning of "control," see 4 Louis Loss & Joel Seligman, Securities Regulations 1703-1727 (3d ed. rev. 2000).

9.

The defense of lack of knowledge in Sections 509(g) is also modeled on the 1956 Act.

10.

2-UA Blue Sky Regulation

Under Section 509(g)(2) partners, officers, and directors are liable, subject to the defense afforded by that subsection, without proof that they aided in the sale. In Section 509(g)(2), the term "partner" is intended to be limited to partners with management responsibilities, rather than a partner with a passive investment.

11.

Under 509(g)(4), the performance by a clearing broker of the clearing broker's contractual functions -- even though necessary to the processing of a transaction -- without more would not constitute material aid or result in liability under this subsection. See, e.g., Ross v. Bolton, 904 F.2d 819 (2d Cir. 1990).

12.

The "reasonable attorneys' fees" specified in Section 509 are permissive, not mandatory. See, e.g., Andrews v. Blue, 489 F.2d 367, 377 (10th Cir. 1973), (Colorado statute).

13.

The contribution provision in Section 509(h) is a safeguard to avoid the common law principle that prohibited contribution among joint tortfeasors.

14.

The statute of limitations in Section 509(j) is a hybrid of the 1956 Act and federal securities law approaches. The 1956 Act Section 410(p) provided that: "No person may sue under this section more than two years after the contract of sale." Under this provision, the state courts generally decline to extend a statute of limitations period on grounds of fraudulent concealment or equitable tolling. Before the July 2002 enactment of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act, Rule 10b-5 of the Securities Exchange Act as construed by the United States Supreme Court in Lampf, Pleva, Lipkind, Preps & Petigrew v. Gilbertson, 501 U.S. 350 (1991), prohibited equitable tolling under the federal securities law one year after discovery and three years after the act formula. See generally 10 Louis Loss & Joel Seligman, Securities Regulation 4505-4525 (3d. ed. rev. 1996). The Sarbanes-Oxley Act added 28 U.S.C. § 1658(b) which provides

... a private right of action that involves a claim of fraud, deceit, manipulation, or contrivance in contravention of a regulatory requirement concerning the securities laws, as defined in section 3(a)(47) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (15 U.S.C. 78c(a)(47)), may be brought not later than the earlier of --

(1) 2 years after the discovery of the facts constituting the violation; or

(2) 5 years after such violation.

Section 509(j)(1), as with the 1956 Act, is a unitary statute of repose, requiring an action to be commenced within one year after a violation occurred. It is not intended that equitable tolling be permitted. Section 509(j)(2), in contrast, generally follows the federal securities law model. An action must be brought within the earlier of two years after discovery or five years after the violation. As with federal courts construing the statute of limitations under Rule 10b-5, it is intended that the plaintiff's right to proceed is limited to two years after actual discovery "or after such discovery should have been made by the exercise of reasonable diligence" (inquiry notice), see, e.g., Law v. Medco Research, Inc., 113 F.3d 781 (7th Cir. 1997), or five years after the violation. The rationale for replicating the basic federal statute of limitations in this Act is to discourage forum shopping. If the statute of limitations applicable to Rule 10b-5 were to be changed in the future, identical changes should be made in Section 509(j)(2).

Section 509(k) is similar to Section 29(b) of the Securities Exchange Act and is intended to apply only to actions to enforce illegal contracts. See Louis Loss, Commentary on the Uniform Securities Act 150 (1976).

16.

Section 509(m) follows the 1956 Act.

17.

Section 509 and Section 411(e) provide the exclusive private causes of action under this Act.

§ 510. RESCISSION OFFERS.

A purchaser, seller, or recipient of investment advice may not maintain an action under Section 509 if:

(1)

The purchaser, seller, or recipient of investment advice receives in a record, before the action is instituted:

(A)

an offer stating the respect in which liability under Section 509 may have arisen and fairly advising the purchaser, seller, or recipient of investment advice of that person's rights in connection with the offer, and any financial or other information necessary to correct all material misrepresentations or omissions in the information that was required by this [Act] to be furnished to that person at the time of the purchase, sale, or investment advice;

(B)

if the basis for relief under this section may have been a violation of Section 509(b), an offer to repurchase the security for cash, payable on delivery of the security, equal to the consideration paid, and interest [at the legal rate of interest] from the date of the purchase, less the amount of any income received on the security, or, if the purchaser no longer owns the security, an offer to pay the purchaser upon acceptance of the offer damages in an amount that would be recoverable upon a tender, less the value of the security when the purchaser disposed of it, and interest [at the legal rate of interest] from the date of the purchase in cash equal to the damages computed in the manner provided in this subsection;

(C)

if the basis for relief under this section may have been a violation of Section 509(c), an offer to tender the security, on payment by the seller of an amount equal to the purchase price paid, less income received on the security by the purchaser and interest [at the legal rate of interest] from the date of the sale; or if the purchaser no longer owns the security, an offer to pay the seller upon acceptance of the offer, in cash, damages in the amount of the difference between the price at which the security was purchased and the value the security would have had at the time of the purchase in the absence of the purchaser's conduct that may have caused liability and interest [at the legal rate of interest] from the date of the sale;

if the basis for relief under this section may have been a violation of Section 509(d); and if the customer is a purchaser, an offer to pay as specified in subparagraph (B); or, if the customer is a seller, an offer to tender or to pay as specified in subparagraph (C);

(E)

if the basis for relief under this section may have been a violation of Section 509(e), an offer to reimburse in cash the consideration paid for the advice and interest [at the legal rate of interest] from the date of payment; or if the basis for relief under this section may have been a violation of Section 509(f), an offer to reimburse in cash the consideration paid for the advice, the amount of any actual damages that may have been caused by the conduct, and interest [at the legal rate of interest] from the date of the violation causing the loss;

(F)

(2)

the offer under paragraph 1 states that it must be accepted by the purchaser, seller, or recipient of investment advice within 30 days after the date of its receipt by the purchaser, seller, or recipient of investment advice or any shorter period, of not less than three days, that the administrator, by order, specifies;

(3)

the offeror has the present ability to pay the amount offered or to tender the security under paragraph (1);

(4)

the offer under paragraph (1) is delivered to the purchaser, seller, or recipient of investment advice, or sent in a manner that ensures receipt by the purchaser, seller, or recipient of investment advice; and the purchaser, seller, or recipient of investment advice that accepts the offer under paragraph (1) in a record within the period specified under paragraph (2) is paid in accordance with the terms of the offer.

A rescission offer must meet the specific requirements of Section 510 for civil liability under Section 509 to be extinguished. Cf. Binder v. Gordian Sec., Inc., 742 F. Supp. 663, 666 (N.D. Ga. 1990). See generally Rowe, Rescission Offers under Federal and State Securities Law, 12 J. Corp. L. 383 (1987).

2.

A rescission offer that does not comply with Section 510 is subject to civil liability, administrative enforcement, or criminal penalties under this Act. A rescission offer, for example, could violate Section 501, the general fraud provision.

3.

The administrator may publish a form that would comply with Section 510, but the form would not be the only one that could be used by the parties.

4.

A valid rescission offer will be exempt from securities registration. See Section 202(19).

5.

If a state chooses to add a notice or filing provision, it could provide this provision in Section 510(6), which would state:

(6) The offer [or a notice] is required to be filed with the administrator 10 business days before the offering and conform in form and content with a rule prescribed by the administrator.

§ 601. ADMINISTRATION.

(a) [Administration.] The administrator shall administer this [Act] [insert any related provisions on such matters as method of selection, salary, term of office, selection and remuneration of personnel, and annual reports to the legislature or governor that are appropriate to the particular State].

(b) [Unlawful use of records or information.] It is unlawful for the administrator or an officer, employee, or designee of the administrator to use for personal benefit or the benefit of others records or other information obtained by or filed with the administrator that are not public under Section 607(b). This [Act] does not authorize the administrator or an officer, employee, or designee of the administrator to disclose the record or information, except in accordance with Section 602, 607(c), or 608.

(c) [No privilege or exemption created or diminished.] This [Act] does not create or diminish a privilege or exemption that exists at common law, by statute or rule, or otherwise.

(d) [Investor education.] The administrator may develop and implement investor education initiatives to inform the public about investing in securities, with particular emphasis on the prevention and detection of securities fraud. In developing and implementing these initiatives, the administrator may collaborate with public and nonprofit organizations with an interest in investor education. The administrator may accept a grant or donation from a person that is not affiliated with the securities industry or from a nonprofit organization, regardless of whether the organization is affiliated with the securities industry, to develop and implement investor education initiatives. This subsection does not authorize the administrator to require participation or monetary contributions of a registrant in an investor education program.

(e) [The Securities Investor Education and Training Fund.] The Securities Investor Education and Training Fund is created to provide funds for the purposes specified in subsection (d). [All monies received by the State by reason of civil penalties pursuant to this [Act] shall be deposited in the Securities Investor Education and Training Fund. The State may insert any other provision concerning appropriations to support this fund as well as procedures for its operations.]

Section 601(b) should be read with Section 607. Section 601(b) prohibits the administrator or the administrator's officers and employees from using for personal benefit records or information that Section 607(b) specifies do not constitute public records. Section 601(b) is not intended to limit the operation of Section 607(a). Neither Section 601(b) nor 607(b) is intended to impede the ability of the agencies specified in Section 608(a) from sharing records or other information in connection with an examination or an investigation.

2.

Section 601(c) makes clear that nothing in this Act alters the availability of evidentiary privileges. That question is left to the general law of the particular state.

3.

Sections 601(d) and (e) were adopted in recognition of the importance of investor education. An increasing number of jurisdictions are earmarking specific funds for this purpose. The lack of financial acumen among public investors, seniors, and students continues to be demonstrated in recent industry and regulatory studies. The importance of investor financial literacy is increasingly crucial given the decades long shift from defined benefit retirement plans toward defined contribution plans where employees are left to direct their own retirement accounts.

§ 602. INVESTIGATIONS AND SUBPOENAS.

(a) [Authority to investigate.] The administrator may:

conduct public or private investigations within or outside of this State which the administrator considers necessary or appropriate to determine whether a person has violated, is violating, or is about to violate this [Act] or a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act], or to aid in the enforcement of this [Act] or in the adoption of rules and forms under this [Act];

require or permit a person to testify, file a statement, or produce a record, under oath or otherwise as the administrator determines, as to all the facts and circumstances concerning a matter to be investigated or about which an action or proceeding is to be instituted; and publish a record concerning an action, proceeding, or an investigation under, or a violation of, this [Act] or a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] if the administrator determines it is necessary or appropriate in the public interest and for the protection of investors.

(b) [Administrator powers to investigate.] For the purpose of an investigation under this [Act], the administrator or its designated officer may administer oaths and affirmations, subpoena witnesses, seek compulsion of attendance, take evidence, require the filing of statements, and require the production of any records that the administrator considers relevant or material to the investigation.

(c) [Procedure and remedies for noncompliance.] If a person does not appear or refuses to testify, file a statement, produce records, or otherwise does not obey a subpoena as required by the administrator under this [Act], the administrator [may refer the matter to the Attorney General or the proper attorney, who] may apply to [insert name of the appropriate court] or a court of another State to enforce compliance. The court may:

hold the person in contempt;

(2)

order the person to appear before the administrator;

(3)

order the person to testify about the matter under investigation or in question;

(4)

order the production of records;

(5)

grant injunctive relief, including restricting or prohibiting the offer or sale of securities or the providing of investment advice; impose a civil penalty of not less than $[] and not greater than $[] for each violation; and grant any other necessary or appropriate relief.

(6)

(7)

2-UA Blue Sky Regulation

(d) [Application for relief.] This section does not preclude a person from applying to [insert name of appropriate court] or a court of another State for relief from a request to appear, testify, file a statement, produce records, or obey a subpoena.

(e) [Use immunity procedure.] An individual is not excused from attending, testifying, filing a statement, producing a record or other evidence, or obeying a subpoena of the administrator under this [Act] or in an action or proceeding instituted by the administrator under this [Act] on the ground that the required testimony, statement, record, or other evidence, directly or indirectly, may tend to incriminate the individual or subject the individual to a criminal fine, penalty, or forfeiture. If the individual refuses to testify, file a statement, or produce a record or other evidence on the basis of the individual's privilege against self-incrimination, the administrator may apply [to the name of the appropriate court] to compel the testimony, the filing of the statement, the production of the record, or the giving of other evidence. The testimony, record, or other evidence compelled under such an order may not be used, directly or indirectly, against the individual in a criminal case, except in a prosecution for perjury or contempt or otherwise failing to comply with the order.

(f) [Assistance to securities regulator of another jurisdiction.] At the request of the securities regulator of another State or a foreign jurisdiction, the administrator may provide assistance if the requesting regulator states that it is conducting an investigation to determine whether a person has violated, is violating, or is about to violate a law or rule of the other State or foreign jurisdiction relating to securities matters that the requesting regulator administers or enforces. The administrator may provide the assistance by using the authority to investigate and the powers conferred by this section as the administrator determines is necessary or appropriate. The assistance may be provided without regard to whether the conduct described in the request would also constitute a violation of this [Act] or other law of this State if occurring in this State. In deciding whether to provide the assistance, the administrator may consider whether the requesting regulator is permitted and has agreed to provide assistance reciprocally within its State or foreign jurisdiction to the administrator on securities matters when requested; whether compliance with the request would violate or prejudice the public policy of this State; and the availability of resources and employees of the administrator to carry out the request for assistance.

Sections 602 (a) and (b) follow the 1956 Act, which was modeled generally on Sections 21(a) through (d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 as it then read.

Standards for issuance of subpoenas have been generally established in federal and state securities law. See, e.g., 10 Louis Loss & Joel Seligman, Securities Regulation 4917-4937 (3d ed. rev. 1996) (discussing Oklahoma Press Pub. Co. v. Walling, 327 U.S. 186 (1946) and other cases). The scope of subpoena enforcement in each state is a general matter for judicial determination. Under Section 602, an individual subpoenaed to testify by the administrator is not compelled to testify within the meaning of these sections simply by service of a subpoena. Under Section 602(b) the individual can be subpoenaed and compelled to attend. Once in attendance an individual can assert an evidentiary privilege or exemption, see Section 601(c), including the Fifth Amendment privilege against self-incrimination. If an individual refuses to testify or give evidence, the administrator may apply (or have the appropriate State attorney apply) to the appropriate court for the relief specified in Section 602(c). If the individual invokes the privilege against self-incrimination, Section 602(d) allows the administrator to apply to the appropriate court to compel testimony under the "use immunity" provision barring the record compelled or other evidence obtained from being used in a criminal case. See People v. District Co. of Arapahoe County, 894 P.2d 739 (Colo. 1995). The phrase "directly or indirectly" in Section 602(e) is intended to include testimony, other evidence, or other information derived from immunized testimony, statements, records, or evidence.

Section 602 is intended to apply generally to securities offers and sales under Article 3 and broker-dealer and investment adviser activity under Article 4, when there is noncompliance with the first sentence of Section 602(c). This subsection does not limit the powers of an administrator under other provisions of this Act.

4.

A court may quash a subpoena for good cause under Section 602(d). The court may decline to enforce a subpoena that is arbitrary, capricious, or oppressive.

5.

Where appropriate under Section 602(f), an administrator could move to authorize admission of a requesting state's attorney under existing pro hac vice rules.

Section 602(f) is consistent with the Securities Litigation Uniform Standard Act of 1998 which provides in Section 102(e):

The Securities and Exchange Commission, in consultation with State securities commissions (or any agencies or offices performing like functions), shall seek to encourage the adoption of State laws providing for reciprocal enforcement by State securities commissions of subpoenas issued by another State securities commission seeking to compel persons to attend, testify in, or produce documents or records in connection with an action or investigation by a State securities commission of an alleged violation of State securities laws.

There are limitations on financial institutions being subject to visitatorial powers by State officials, such as those affecting national banks contained in 12 U.S.C. 484 and 12 C.F.R. Sec. 7.4000. Law outside this Act may place similar limits on state chartered financial institutions being subjected to visitorial powers. This Act does not negate these limitations.

§ 603. CIVIL ENFORCEMENT.

(a) [Civil action instituted by administrator.] If the administrator believes that a person has engaged, is engaging, or is about to engage in an act, practice, or course of business constituting a violation of this [Act] or a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] or that a person has, is, or is about to engage in an act, practice, or course of business that materially aids a violation of this [Act] or a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act], the administrator may maintain an action in the [insert the name of the court] to enjoin the act, practice, or course of business and to enforce compliance with this [Act] or a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act].

(b) [Relief available.] In an action under this section and on a proper showing, the court may: issue a permanent or temporary injunction, restraining order, or declaratory judgment; order other appropriate or ancillary relief, which may include:

(2)

(A)

an asset freeze, accounting, writ of attachment, writ of general or specific execution, and appointment of a receiver or conservator, that may be the administrator, for the defendant or the defendant's assets;

(B)

ordering the administrator to take charge and control of a defendant's property, including investment accounts and accounts in a depository institution, rents, and profits; to collect debts; and to acquire and dispose of property;

(C)

imposing a civil penalty up to $[] for a single violation or up to $[] for more than one violation; an order of rescission, restitution, or disgorgement directed to a person that has engaged in an act, practice, or course of business constituting a violation of this [Act] or the predecessor act or a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] or the predecessor act; and ordering the payment of prejudgment and postjudgment interest; or order such other relief as the court considers appropriate.

(3)

(c) [No bond required.] The administrator may not be required to post a bond in an action or proceeding under this [Act].

Section 408 of the 1956 Act was limited to injunctions. This Section follows RUSA in broadening the civil remedies available when the administrator believes that a violation has occurred. A primary purpose of a broad range of potential sanctions is to enable administrators to better tailor appropriate sanctions to particular misconduct.

2.

The administrator alternatively may proceed to seek administrative enforcement under Section 604; to deny, suspend, or revoke a securities registration under Section 306; or to deny, suspend, revoke, or take other action against a broker-dealer, agent, investment adviser, or investment adviser representative registration under Section 412.

3.

Constitutional due process considerations can also be addressed by rulemaking or incorporation of the applicable administrative procedure act provisions of each jurisdiction. The term "upon a proper showing" has a settled meaning in the federal securities laws. See, e.g., Securities Act of 1933 Section 20(b).

4.

As with Sections 509(g)(3) and (4), materially aid in Section 603(a) does not include ministerial or clerical acts.

§ 604. ADMINISTRATIVE ENFORCEMENT.

(a) [Issuance of an order or notice.] If the administrator determines that a person has engaged, is engaging, or is about to engage in an act, practice, or course of business constituting a violation of this [Act] or a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] or that a person has materially aided, is materially aiding, or is about to materially aid an act, practice, or course of business constituting a violation of this [Act] or a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act], the administrator may: issue an order directing the person to cease and desist from engaging in the act, practice, or course of business or to take other action necessary or appropriate to comply with this [Act];

(2)

issue an order denying, suspending, revoking, or conditioning the exemptions for a broker-dealer under Section 401(b)(1)(D) or (F) or an investment adviser under Section 403(b)(1)(C); or issue an order under Section 204.

(b) [Summary process.] An order under subsection (a) is effective on the date of issuance. Upon issuance of the order, the administrator shall promptly serve each person subject to the order with a copy of the order and a notice that the order has been entered. The order must include a statement whether the administrator will seek a civil penalty or costs of the investigation, a statement of the reasons for the order, and notice that, within 15 days after receipt of a request in a record from the person, the matter will be scheduled for a hearing. If a person subject to the order does not request a hearing and none is ordered by the administrator within 30 days after the date of service of the order, the order becomes final as to that person by operation of law. If a hearing is requested or ordered, the administrator, after notice of and opportunity for hearing to each person subject to the order, may modify or vacate the order or extend it until final determination.

(c) [Procedure for final order.] If a hearing is requested or ordered pursuant to subsection (b), a hearing must be held [pursuant to the state administrative procedure act]. A final order may not be issued unless the administrator makes findings of fact and conclusions of law in a record [in accordance with the state administrative procedure act]. The final order may make final, vacate, or modify the order issued under subsection (a).

(d) [Civil penalty.] In a final order under subsection (c), the administrator may impose a civil penalty up to $[] for a single violation or up to $[] for more than one violation.

(e) [Costs.] In a final order, the administrator may charge the actual cost of an investigation or proceeding for a violation of this [Act] or a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act].

(f) [Filing of certified final order with court; effect of filing.] If a petition for judicial review of a final order is not filed in accordance with Section 609, the administrator may file a certified copy of the final order with the clerk of a court of competent jurisdiction. The order so filed has the same effect as a judgment of the court and may be recorded, enforced, or satisfied in the same manner as a judgment of the court.

(g) [Enforcement by court; further civil penalty.] If a person does not comply with an order under this section, the administrator may petition a court of competent jurisdiction to enforce the order. The court may not require the administrator to post a bond in an action or proceeding under this section. If the court finds, after service and opportunity for hearing, that the person was not in compliance with the order, the court may adjudge the person in civil contempt of the order. The court may impose a further civil penalty against the person for contempt in an amount not less than $[] but not greater than $[] for each violation and may grant any other relief the court determines is just and proper in the circumstances.

Section 604, unlike Section 603, may be initiated by the administrator without prior judicial process or a prior hearing. The section, among other matters, empowers the administrator to act summarily in appropriate circumstances.

2.

Sections 603 and 604 are intended to be available to the administrator against persons not subject to stop orders under Section 306 or proceedings against registered broker-dealers, agents, investment advisers, or investment adviser representatives under Section 412. All persons or securities not subject to Section 306 or 412 will be subject to Sections 603 and 604. A person must be covered by either (1) Sections 306 or 412 or (2) Sections 603 or 604.

3.

Service of an order or notice under this Section is not effective unless made in accordance with Section 611.

§ 605. RULES, FORMS, ORDERS, INTERPRETATIVE OPINIONS, AND HEARINGS.

(a) [Issuance and adoption of forms, orders, and rules.] The administrator may: issue forms and orders and, after notice and comment, may adopt and amend rules necessary or appropriate to carry out this [Act] and may repeal rules, including rules and forms governing registration statements, applications, notice filings, reports, and other records;

2-UA Blue Sky Regulation

by rule, define terms, whether or not used in this [Act], but those definitions may not be inconsistent with this [Act]; and by rule, classify securities, persons, and transactions and adopt different requirements for different classes.

(b) [Findings and cooperation.] Under this [Act], a rule or form may not be adopted or amended, or an order issued or amended, unless the administrator finds that the rule, form, order, or amendment is necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors and is consistent with the purposes intended by this [Act]. In adopting, amending, and repealing rules and forms, Section 608 applies in order to achieve uniformity among the States and coordination with federal laws in the form and content of registration statements, applications, reports, and other records, including the adoption of uniform rules, forms, and procedures.

(c) [Financial statements.] Subject to Section 15(h) of the Securities Exchange Act and Section 222 of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, the administrator may require that a financial statement filed under this [Act] be prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles in the United States and comply with other requirements specified by rule adopted or order issued under this [Act]. A rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] may establish: subject to Section 15(h) of the Securities Exchange Act and Section 222 of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, the form and content of financial statements required under this [Act]; whether unconsolidated financial statements must be filed; and (3)

(2)

whether required financial statements must be audited by an independent certified public accountant.

2-UA Blue Sky Regulation

(d) [Interpretative opinions.] The administrator may provide interpretative opinions or issue determinations that the administrator will not institute a proceeding or an action under this [Act] against a specified person for engaging in a specified act, practice, or course of business if the determination is consistent with this [Act]. A rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] may establish a reasonable charge for interpretative opinions or determinations that the administrator will not institute an action or a proceeding under this [Act].

(e) [Effect of compliance.] A penalty under this [Act] may not be imposed for, and liability does not arise from conduct that is engaged in or omitted in good faith believing it conforms to a rule, form, or order of the administrator under this [Act].

(f) [Presumption for public hearings.] A hearing in an administrative proceeding under this [Act] must be conducted in public unless the administrator for good cause consistent with this [Act] determines that the hearing will not be so conducted.

It is anticipated that the administrator will propose amendments or make rules under Section 605(a) to remain coordinate with relevant federal law, as well as appropriate rules of the National Association of Securities Dealers, and to achieve uniformity among the States.

2.

Uniform forms such as Form B-D, U-4, U-5, and NF are today common in the securities industry and are authorized by Section 605(b).

3.

Section 605(c) refers to generally accepted accounting principles in the United States which currently are promulgated by the Financial Accounting Standards Board and the Securities and Exchange Commission.

4.

It is anticipated that the states will employ websites, e-mail or other electronic means to provide notice of proposed rulemaking or adoption of new rules, rule amendments, forms or form amendments, statements of policy or interpretations adopted by the administrator, and issuance of orders to registrants and others who have provided a current e-mail or similar address and expressed an interest in receiving such notice.

5.

Section 605(e) does not apply to staff no action or interpretative opinions, but does apply to rules, forms, orders, statements of policy or interpretations adopted by the administrator.

§ 606. ADMINISTRATIVE FILES AND OPINIONS.

(a) [Public register of filings.] The administrator shall maintain, or designate a person to maintain, a register of applications for registration of securities; registration statements; notice filings; applications for registration of broker-dealers, agents, investment advisers, and investment adviser representatives; notice filings by federal covered investment advisers that are or have been effective under this [Act] or the predecessor act; notices of claims of exemption from registration or notice filing requirements contained in a record; orders issued under this [Act] or the predecessor act; and interpretative opinions or no action determinations issued under this [Act].

(b) [Public availability.] The administrator shall make all rules, forms, interpretative opinions, and orders available to the public.

(c) [Copies of public records.] The administrator shall furnish a copy of a record that is a public record or a certification that the public record does not exist to a person that so requests. A rule adopted under this [Act] may establish a reasonable charge for furnishing the record or certification. A copy of the record certified or a certificate by the administrator of a record's nonexistence is prima facie evidence of a record or its nonexistence.

"Record" is defined in Section 102(25).

2.

Compliance with a state records law will typically satisfy the requirements of Section 606(a).

§ 607. PUBLIC RECORDS; CONFIDENTIALITY.

(a) [Presumption of public records.] Except as otherwise provided in subsection (b), records obtained by the administrator or filed under this [Act], including a record contained in or filed with a registration statement, application, notice filing, or report, are public records and are available for public examination.

(b) [Nonpublic records.] The following records are not public records and are not available for public examination under subsection (a):

(1)

a record obtained by the administrator in connection with an audit or inspection under Section 411(d) or an investigation under Section 602; a part of a record filed in connection with a registration statement under Sections 301 and 303 through 305 or a record under Section 411(d) that contains trade secrets or confidential information if the person filing the registration statement or report has asserted a claim of confidentiality or privilege that is authorized by law;

(2)

(3)

a record that is not required to be provided to the administrator or filed under this [Act] and is provided to the administrator only on the condition that the record will not be subject to public examination or disclosure;

(4) a nonpublic record received from a person specified in Section 608(a); [and]

(5)

any social security number, residential address, and residential telephone number contained in a record that is filed[]; and a record obtained by the administrator through a designee of the administrator that a rule or order under this [Act] determines has been:

(A)

expunged from the administrator's records by the designee; or

(B)

determined to be nonpublic or nondisclosable by that designee if the administrator finds the determination to be in the public interest and for the protection of investors].

(c) [Administrator discretion to disclose.] If disclosure is for the purpose of a civil, administrative, or criminal investigation, action, or proceeding or to a person specified in Section 608(a), the administrator may disclose a record obtained in connection with an audit or inspection under Section 411(d) or a record obtained in connection with an investigation under Section 602.

Section 607(a) reflects the extensive development of freedom of information and open records laws since the 1956 Act was adopted.

2.

Section 607(b) may insulate from public disclosure records or other information that may be available under a state freedom of information or open records act. Unless the state freedom of information or open records act implements a constitutional provision, this Act as the later and more specific enactment should control as a matter of statutory construction. A state may amend its freedom of information act, open records act or this section to eliminate any inconsistencies.

3.

Records and other information obtained by an administrator in connection with an audit or inspection under subsection 411(d) or an investigation under Section 602 may be made public in the enforcement action, even if records and other information would otherwise be subject to subsection 607(b)(1).

4.

An administrator may orally disclose information under Section 607(c) to a person specified in Section 608(a) for the purposes specified in Section 607(c).

§ 608. UNIFORMITY AND COOPERATION WITH OTHER AGENCIES.

(a) [Objective of uniformity.] The administrator shall, in its discretion, cooperate, coordinate, consult, and, subject to Section 607, share records and information with the securities regulator of another State, Canada, a Canadian province or territory, a foreign jurisdiction, the Securities and Exchange Commission, the United States Department of Justice, the Commodity Futures Trading Commission, the Federal Trade Commission, the Securities Investor Protection Corporation, a self-regulatory organization, a national or international organization of securities regulators, a federal or state banking and insurance regulator, and a governmental law enforcement agency to effectuate greater uniformity in securities matters among the federal government, self-regulatory organizations, States, and foreign governments.

(b) [Policies to consider.] In cooperating, coordinating, consulting, and sharing records and information under this section and in acting by rule, order, or waiver under this [Act], the administrator shall, in its discretion, take into consideration in carrying out the public interest the following general policies:

maximizing effectiveness of regulation for the protection of investors; maximizing uniformity in federal and state regulatory standards; and minimizing burdens on the business of capital formation, without adversely affecting essentials of investor protection.

(2)

(c) [Subjects for cooperation.] The cooperation, coordination, consultation, and sharing of records and information authorized by this section includes: establishing or employing one or more designees as a central depository for registration and notice filings under this [Act] and for records required or allowed to be maintained under this [Act]; developing and maintaining uniform forms;

(2)

(3) conducting a joint examination or investigation;

(4)

holding a joint administrative hearing;

(5) instituting and prosecuting a joint civil or administrative proceeding;

(6)

sharing and exchanging personnel;

(7) coordinating registrations under Sections 301 and 401 through 404 and exemptions under Section 203; sharing and exchanging records, subject to Section 607; formulating rules, statements of policy, guidelines, forms, and interpretative opinions and releases; formulating common systems and procedures;

(8)

(9)

(10)

(11)

notifying the public of proposed rules, forms, statements of policy, and guidelines;

(12) attending conferences and other meetings among securities regulators, which may include representatives of governmental and private sector organizations involved in capital formation, deemed necessary or appropriate to promote or achieve uniformity; and developing and maintaining a uniform exemption from registration for small issuers, and taking other steps to reduce the burden of raising investment capital by small businesses.

2-UA Blue Sky Regulation

Official Comments Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 415; RUSA Sections 704 and 803; 19(c) of the Securities Act of 1933.

Uniformity of regulation among the states and coordination with the Securities and Exchange Commission is a principal objective of this Act. Section 608 is intended to encourage such cooperation to the maximum extent appropriate. Operative phrases such as "shall, in its discretion" in Sections 608(a) and (b) are intended to be precisely coordinate with the directive that Congress gave to the Securities and Exchange Commission in Section 19(c) of the Securities Act of 1933.

The goals of uniformity among the states and coordination with related federal regulation, including self regulatory organizations, may be enhanced by greater use of information technology systems such as the Web-CRD, the Investment Adviser Registration Depository (IARD), or the Securities and Exchange Commission Electronic Data Gathering, Analysis and Retrieval System (EDGAR). These types of techniques are consistent with a potential system of "one stop filing" of all federal and state forms that is encouraged by this Act.

3.

This Act is intended, to the extent practicable, to be revenue neutral in its impact on existing state laws.

4.

Section 608(c) lists some joint or coordinated efforts which might be undertaken. Other appropriate cooperative activities are also encouraged.

5.

Court decisions interpreting the securities laws have construed these acts to achieve "broad protection to investors," a remedial approach that "embodies a flexible rather than a static principle, one that is capable of adaption to meet the countless and variable schemes devised by those who seek to use the money of others on the promise of profits." SEC v. W.J. Howey Co, 328 U.S. 293, 299, 301 (1946).

§ 609. JUDICIAL REVIEW.

(a) [Judicial review of orders.] A final order issued by the administrator under this [Act] is subject to judicial review in accordance with [the state administrative procedure act].

[(b) [Judicial review of rules.] A rule adopted under this [Act] is subject to judicial review in accordance with [the state administrative procedure act].]

The 1956 Act Section 411 specified procedures for judicial review of orders, in part modeled on Section 12 of the Model Administrative Procedure Act, 54 Handbook of National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws 334 (1944) and partly on Section 25 of the Securities Exchange Act.

2.

A rule adopted under this Act may be subject to judicial review in accordance with the state administrative procedure act.

3.

In those states in which judicial review of rules is permitted, a state may choose to add Section 609(b). In those states in which judicial review of rules is not permitted, Section 609(b) should be deleted.

§ 610. JURISDICTION.

(a) [Sales and offers to sell.] Sections 301, 302, 401(a), 402(a), 403(a), 404(a), 501, 506, 509, and 510 do not apply to a person that sells or offers to sell a security unless the offer to sell or the sale is made in this State or the offer to purchase or the purchase is made and accepted in this State.

(b) [Purchases and offers to purchase.] Sections 401(a), 402(a), 403(a), 404(a), 501, 506, 509, and 510 do not apply to a person that purchases or offers to purchase a security unless the offer to purchase or the purchase is made in this State or the offer to sell or the sale is made and accepted in this State.

(c) [Offers in this State.] For the purpose of this section, an offer to sell or to purchase a security is made in this State, whether or not either party is then present in this State, if the offer:

originates from within this State; or is directed by the offeror to a place in this State and received at the place to which it is directed.

(d) [Acceptances in this State.] For the purpose of this section, an offer to purchase or to sell is accepted in this State, whether or not either party is then present in this State, if the acceptance:

is communicated to the offeror in this State and the offeree reasonably believes the offeror to be present in this State and the acceptance is received at the place in this State to which it is directed; and has not previously been communicated to the offeror, orally or in a record, outside this State.

(e) [Publications, radio, television, or electronic communications.] An offer to sell or to purchase is not made in this State when a publisher circulates or there is circulated on the publisher's behalf in this State a bona fide newspaper or other publication of general, regular, and paid circulation that is not published in this State, or that is published in this State but has had more than two thirds of its circulation outside this State during the previous 12 months or when a radio or television program or other electronic communication originating outside this State is received in this State. A radio or television program, or other electronic communication is considered as having originated in this State if either the broadcast studio or the originating source of transmission is located in this State, unless:

the program or communication is syndicated and distributed from outside this State for redistribution to the general public in this State;

(2)

the program or communication is supplied by a radio, television, or other electronic network with the electronic signal originating from outside this State for redistribution to the general public in this State;

2-UA Blue Sky Regulation

(3)

the program or communication is an electronic communication that originates outside this State and is captured for redistribution to the general public in this State by a community antenna or cable, radio, cable television, or other electronic system; or the program or communication consists of an electronic communication that originates in this State, but which is not intended for distribution to the general public in this State.

(f) [Investment advice and misrepresentations.] Sections 403(a), 404(a), 405(a), 502, 505, and 506 apply to a person if the person engages in an act, practice, or course of business instrumental in effecting prohibited or actionable conduct in this State, whether or not either party is then present in this State.

Section 610 defines the application of the Act to interstate or international transactions when only some of the elements of a violation occur in this State. This Section applies to all types of proceedings specified by the Act -- administrative, civil, and criminal. The law is now settled that a person may violate the law of a particular state without ever being within the state or performing each act necessary to violate the law within that state.

Section 610 generally follows Section 414 of the 1956 Act, but has been modernized to reflect the development of the Internet and other electronic communications after 1956.

3.

Section 610 can be illustrated in the context of a civil action under Section 509(b) by a purchaser in State A against a seller in State B: Section 610(a) would apply when an "offer to sell is made in this State." Section 610(c) provides that an offer which originates in State B and is directed to State A is made in both states. The securities act of State A would apply under Section 610(c)(2). The act of State B would apply also, under Section 610(c)(1). The intent is to prevent a seller in State B from using that state as a base of operations for defrauding person in other states. Section 610(e) addresses offers made through publications, radio, television, or electronic communications. The subsection provides a series of safe harbors for advertisements in newspapers, magazines, radio, television, or electronic media that either originate outside State A or that originate in State A but are directed outside the state to the general public. With respect to bona fide newspapers or other publications of general, regular, and paid circulation, the safe harbor requires that more than two thirds of its circulation be outside State A. With respect to radio, television, or other electronic communications, safe harbors are specified in Sections 610(e)(1) through (4). Section 610(d), however, provides that a person in State A who makes an offer to purchase as a result of communication described in Section 610(e) may cause the act to be applicable if the offeror accepts the offer "in this State." Section 610(d) defines when an offer is accepted "in this State." If a selling broker-dealer in State B solely sends a confirmation into State A, or the purchaser in State A sends a check from within State A, the act will not apply unless, under Section 610(d), the confirmation or delivery constitutes the seller's acceptance of the purchaser's offer to buy in State A. The applicability of the act to purchaser is addressed by Section 610(b) which is the converse of Section 610(a). Under Section 509(c) there can be liability of purchasers to sellers. Section 610(f) is a new provision that specifies jurisdictions in cases involving investment advice and misrepresentations.

Under subsection 202(20) certain out-of-state offers or sales are exempt from securities registration.

5.

The phrase "other electronic means" is coextensive with computer or other information technology permitted by subsections 102(8), 102(25).

6.

Under Section 610 the administrator may adopt interpretative rules or orders to specify when particular uses of new electronic communications, including the Internet, involve an offer to sell or to purchase a security, acceptance of an order to purchase or sell a security, or an act or practice involving prohibited conduct, within a State, whether or not a purchaser, seller, or other party is then present in the State. The NASAA Interpretive Order Concerning Broker-Dealers, Agents, and Investment Adviser Representatives Using the Internet for General Dissemination of Information for Products and Services (Apr. 23, 1997) is an illustration of an interpretative order that would be in compliance with the administrator's authority under Section 610. Under this Order, broker-dealers, agents, investment advisers, and investment adviser representatives who distribute information on available products and services through communications on the Internet generally to anyone having access to the Internet such as postings on a bulletin board or home page shall not be deemed to be transacting business in a State if specified conditions are satisfied including a legend clearly stating that the broker-dealer, agent, investment adviser, or investment adviser representative may transact business in that State only if first registered, excluded or exempted from applicable registration requirements.

§ 611. SERVICE OF PROCESS.

(a) [Signed consent to service of process.] A consent to service of process complying with Section 611 required by this [Act] must be signed and filed in the form required by a rule or order under this [Act]. A consent appointing the administrator the person's agent for service of process in a noncriminal action or proceeding against the person, or the person's successor or personal representative under this [Act] or a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] after the consent is filed, has the same force and validity as if the service were made personally on the person filing the consent. A person that has filed a consent complying with this subsection in connection with a previous application for registration or notice filing need not file an additional consent.

(b) [Conduct constituting appointment of agent for service.] If a person, including a nonresident of this State, engages in an act, practice, or course of business prohibited or made actionable by this [Act] or a rule adopted or order issued under this [Act] and the person has not filed a consent to service of process under subsection (a), the act, practice, or course of business constitutes the appointment of the administrator as the person's agent for service of process in a noncriminal action or proceeding against the person or the person's successor or personal representative.

(c) [Procedure for service of process.] Service under subsection (a) or (b) may be made by providing a copy of the process to the office of the administrator, but it is not effective unless:

the plaintiff, which may be the administrator, promptly sends notice of the service and a copy of the process, return receipt requested, to the defendant or respondent at the address set forth in the consent to service of process or, if a consent to service of process has not been filed, at the last known address, or takes other reasonable steps to give notice; and the plaintiff files an affidavit of compliance with this subsection in the action or proceeding on or before the return day of the process, if any, or within the time that the court, or the administrator in a proceeding before the administrator, allows.

(d) [Service in administrative proceedings or civil actions by administrator.] Service pursuant to subsection (c) may be used in a proceeding before the administrator or by the administrator in a civil action in which the administrator is the moving party.

(e) [Opportunity to defend.] If process is served under subsection (c), the court, or the administrator in a proceeding before the administrator, shall order continuances as are necessary or appropriate to afford the defendant or respondent reasonable opportunity to defend.

Section 611 follows the 1956 Act and RUSA in providing for a signed consent to service of process in Section 611(a); a substituted service of process in Section 611(b); and process and opportunity to defend in Sections 611(c)

An issuer is not required to file a consent to service of process unless it proposes to offer a security in this State through someone acting on an agency basis. Since the civil liability provisions of Section 509(b) apply only in a suit by a purchaser against a seller, the issuer in a firm commitment underwriting is civilly liable only to the underwriter, who, in turn, may be liable to the dealer, who, in turn, may be liable to the purchaser. In contrast, in a best efforts underwriting, when the security is sold on an agency basis and title passes directly to the purchaser, the issuer can be liable to the purchaser.

Section 611(b) generally follows Section 414(h) of the 1956 Act and Section 708(c) of RUSA. The intent is to provide for substituted service of process when a seller in one state directs an offer into a second state either in violation of the laws of the second state or fraudulently. Under Section 611(b) the purchaser may sue the seller in the purchaser's state and then bring an action on the judgment in the seller's state. The constitutionality of this type of statute has long been sustained.

4.

This section was originally based on the type of nonresident motorist statute whose constitutionality was sustained in Hess v. Pawlowski, 274 U.S. 352 (1927) and subsequently in other contexts. See, e.g., International Shoe Co. v. State of Wash., 326 U.S. 310 (1945); Travelers Health Ass'n v. Commonwealth of Va., 339 U.S. 643 (1950).

§ 612. SEVERABILITY CLAUSE.

If any provision of this [Act] or its application to any person or circumstances is held invalid, the invalidity does not affect other provisions or applications of this [Act] that can be given effect without the invalid provision or application, and to this end the provisions of this [Act] are severable.

Official Comments

Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 417; RUSA Section 805.

§ 701. EFFECTIVE DATE.

This [Act] takes effect on [insert date, which should be at least 60 days after enactment].

§ 702. REPEALS.

The following act is repealed:

§ 703. APPLICATION OF ACT TO EXISTING PROCEEDING AND EXISTING RIGHTS AND DUTIES.

2-UA Blue Sky Regulation

(a) [Applicability of predecessor act to pending proceedings and existing rights.] The predecessor act exclusively governs all actions or proceedings that are pending on the effective date of this [Act] or may be instituted on the basis of conduct occurring before the effective date of this [Act], but a civil action may not be maintained to enforce any liability under the predecessor act unless instituted within any period of limitation that applied when the cause of action accrued or within five years after the effective date of this [Act], whichever is earlier.

(b) [Continued effectiveness under predecessor act.] All effective registrations under the predecessor act, all administrative orders relating to the registrations, rules, statements of policy, interpretative opinions, declaratory rulings, no action determinations, and conditions imposed on the registrations under the predecessor act remain in effect while they would have remained in effect if this [Act] had not been enacted. They are considered to have been filed, issued, or imposed under this [Act], but are exclusively governed by the predecessor act.

(c) [Applicability of predecessor act to offers or sales.] The predecessor act exclusively applies to an offer or sale made within one year after the effective date of this [Act] pursuant to an offering made in good faith before the effective date of this [Act] on the basis of an exemption available under the predecessor act.

Official Comments Prior Provisions: 1956 Act Section 418; RUSA Section 807. Prior law governs all suits, actions, prosecutions, or proceedings which are pending or may be initiated on the basis of facts or circumstances occurring before the effective date of a State blue sky statute. See Hilton v. Mumaw, 522 F.2d 588, 600 (9th Cir. 1975).

Form UF-3 How to Register as an Investment Adviser

How to Register as an Investment Adviser

-by-

United States Securities and Exchange Commission

Division of Investment Management

December 31, 1999

INTRODUCTION

If you are required to register with the SEC as an investment adviser, you must file Form ADV and keep it current by filing periodic amendments, including an annual amendment on Schedule I to Form ADV. You must also, among other things: comply with the "brochure rule," which requires most advisers to provide clients and prospective clients with information about the adviser's business practices and educational and business background; maintain accurate and current books and records, as specified by SEC rules; and be subject to inspection and examination by the SEC staff. You also may be subject to limited forms of state regulation. These requirements are discussed below, and in the document "General Information on the Regulation of Investment Advisers." In addition, please consult the Investment Advisers Act, the rules thereunder, and the instructions to the forms, all of which have been included in this booklet for your convenience.

FORM ADV

Form ADV is the application for registration with the SEC as an investment adviser. Part I asks for information that is used to review the application and is used in the SEC's investment adviser regulatory program. Part II requires disclosure of the background and business practices of the investment adviser, and can be given to clients of the investment adviser to comply with the "brochure rule." There are also several schedules to Form ADV. You must file both parts of Form ADV and the appropriate schedules with the SEC. Schedule I must be filed with the SEC annually, regardless of whether information on the schedule has changed.

How long does it take to process Form ADV?

Within 45 days after you file your Form ADV registration application, the SEC must grant your registration or begin proceedings to deny it, assuming that you have fully and properly completed all items of the form and accompanying schedules. The SEC staff will return any Form ADV that is not fully and properly completed. A new 45 day period will begin when the Form ADV is resubmitted.

AMENDING FORM ADV

SEC-registered advisers must update Form ADV annually by amending Schedule I and any information on the form that has become inaccurate. Instruction 10 to Form ADV specifies the type of information that must be corrected promptly, and the type that must be corrected within ninety days of the end of the adviser's fiscal year. Schedule I to Form ADV must be amended every year, within ninety days of the end of the adviser's fiscal year. If an adviser indicates on Schedule I that it is no longer eligible for SEC registration, the adviser must withdraw its registration within 180 days after the end of the adviser's fiscal year.

Amending the form requires completing the execution page (page one of the form) and the entire page(s) containing the updated item(s). Circle the items being amended. Rule 204-1 and the instructions to Form ADV give more complete information on amendments.

CURRENT BOOKS AND RECORDS, BALANCE SHEETS

All SEC-registered investment advisers must maintain true, accurate, and current books and records, as specified in Rule 204-2. Not all SEC-registered investment advisers, however, are required to submit financial statements to the Commission. SEC-registered investment advisers must file a balance sheet for the most recent fiscal year if they have custody or possession of client funds or securities, or if they require prepayment of more than $500 in fees per client, six months or more in advance. See Form ADV, Part II, Item 14, and Schedule G to Form ADV. If you are required to submit a balance sheet, it must be audited by an independent public accountant. It is filed annually on Schedule G as an amendment to Form ADV. In addition, an adviser that has custody of client funds or securities must arrange for an independent public accountant to perform a "surprise" inspection of the custody property at some time during the calendar year, and the accountant's report of this examination must be filed with the Commission as an attachment to Form ADV-E.

Copies, Signatures, Names, All adviser filings must be typed, and submitted in triplicate. Failure to submit three copies will result in the filing being returned. The filing also may be declared delinquent when it is resubmitted. You should retain a fourth copy of all filings for your records. Each copy of an execution page must contain an original, manual signature. Anyone executing a Form ADV or an amendment to Form ADV must use his full name unless the individual legally only has an initial. If the registration application is filed by a sole proprietor, it should be signed by the proprietor, if filed by a partnership, it should be signed in the name of the partnership by a general partner, if filed by a corporation, it should be signed in the corporation's name by an authorized principal officer. Information on Registration and Regulation of Brokers and Dealers

MARKET REGULATION

UNITED STATES
SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION
Washington, D.C. 20549

Information on Registration and Regulation of BROKERS AND DEALERS

I. GENERAL REQUIREMENTS

The Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (the "1934 Act") was enacted by the Congress to provide for the regulation of the nation's securities markets and the securities professionals who participate in those markets. The 1934 Act establishes a scheme of regulation with respect to, among other things, the business of being a broker or dealer in securities.

The threshold requirement applied to brokers and dealers is that they register with the Securities and Exchange Commission. The application for registration on Form BD, which is contained in this package, requires information concerning the background of the broker-dealer applicant and its principals, controlling persons, and employees. The application is designed to determine whether the applicant meets the statutory requirements to engage in a business that, at a minimum, involves high professional standards, and quite often, the more rigorous responsibilities of a fiduciary. Accordingly, it is important that a registered broker-dealer acquaint itself with and comply with the provisions of the federal securities laws that govern its business.

II. WHO IS REQUIRED TO REGISTER

2-UF Blue Sky Regulation

Section 15(a)(1) of the 1934 Act makes it unlawful for any broker or dealer (other than one whose business is exclusively intrastate and who does not make use of any facility of a national securities exchange) "to make use of the mails or any means or instrumentality of interstate commerce to effect any transactions in, or to induce ... the purchase or sale of, any security (other than an exempted security or commercial paper, bankers' acceptances, or commercial bills) unless such broker or dealer is registered in accordance with [Section 15(b)]."

Definitions

"Broker" is defined in Section 3(a)(4) of the 1934 Act to mean any person engages in the business of effecting transactions in securities for the account of others, but does not include a bank.

"Dealer" is defined in Section 3(a)(5) of the 1934 Act to mean any person engaged in the business of buying and selling securities for his own account, through a broker or otherwise, but it does not include a bank, or any person insofar as he buys or sells securities for his own account, either individually or in some fiduciary capacity, but not as a part of a regular business.

"Exempted security" is defined in Section 3(a)(12) and includes, but is not limited to, securities that are direct obligations of, or obligations guaranteed as to principal or interest by, the United States and securities issued or guaranteed by corporations in which the United States has a direct or indirect interest, as designated by the Secretary of the Treasury. A security sold in a transaction that is exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933 is not necessarily an "exempted security" under the 1934 Act. Thus, the fact that a private offering is made pursuant to Regulation D does not necessarily relieve a person selling such securities from the requirement of broker-dealer registration.

CAUTION:

This information is provided as an introduction to the federal securities laws pertaining to brokers and dealers and is only intended to highlight and summarize some of the significant provisions. It should not relied on in lieu of reference to the actual statutes, rules regulations and interpretations.

Intrastate Exemption Limitations

The exemption from registration contained in Section 15(a)(1) of the 1934 Act for a broker or dealer whose business is "exclusively intrastate" is of very limited application. To be available to a broker or dealer, all of its business must be transacted within one state. Both sides of any transaction and all aspects of its securities business must be considered. The exemption would not be available if the broker or dealer effects transaction, or otherwise does business, for or with persons outside the state, whether such persons are public investors, issuers, or other broker-dealers. More specifically, without registering the broker or dealer cannot participate in any transaction executed on a national securities exchange and cannot, as agent, represent an out-of-state issuer or investor even if the transaction is effected with a customer in the broker-dealer's own state. The broker or dealer cannot sell to or buy from a person outside its state and cannot advertise in newspapers or other publications distributed outside its state unless the advertisement clearly states that it is doing an "exclusively intrastate" business and can act only for or with a person within its state in a wholly intrastate transaction.

Interpretations

The staff of the Division of Market Regulation has interpreted the definitions of the terms "broker" and "dealer" in a continuing series of "no-action" letters that are available through the Commission's Public Reference Branch. For example, under certain circumstances, persons selling only the securities of their employer may not be required to register as broker-dealers. Potential registrants may wish to review the "no-action" letters, consult with private counsel, or request interpretive advice from the Division's staff if they are uncertain about the need to register.

III. APPLICATION FOR REGISTRATION AND INITIAL FINANCIAL STATEMENT

Application for registration as a broker-dealer may be made by filing one executed copy of Form BD with the Commission through the Central Registration Depository (CRD) operated by the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc. ("NASD"). For detailed filing instructions, see the Special Instructions to Form BD contained in this package. There is no fee for filing. Non-resident applicants must submit an irrevocable appointment of the Commission as agent for service of process pursuant to Rule 15b1-5. An application will be returned to the applicant if all items have not been answered in the manner required, or if it is otherwise not acceptable for filing. Once an application has been accepted for filing, the Commission, within 45 days, will grant registration or institute proceedings to determine whether registration should be denied. A broker-dealer must not commence doing business until its registration has been granted by the Commission, it has become a member of a self-regulatory organization, and its officer, directors, and other employees have satisfied certain qualification requirements (see "Associated Persons," below).

IV. POST-REGISTRATION COMPLIANCE REQUIREMENTS

SRO Membership

In addition to registration with the Commission, a broker-dealer is required to become a member of an appropriate self-regulatory organization ("SRO"). If a broker-dealer effects transactions solely on a national securities exchange of which it is a member, that exchange is the appropriate SRO. If a broker-dealer effects transactions in over-the-counter securities, however, it must become a member of a national securities association. Since the NASD currently is the only such association, NASD membership is mandatory for broker-dealers that effect transactions in over-the-counter securities. A broker-dealer that does both an exchange and over-the-counter business must become a member of both the exchange and the NASD. Rule 15b9-1 under the 1934 Act, however, provides a limited exemption from membership with a national securities association for broker-dealers that belong to a national securities exchange and engage in very limited securities activities other than on such exchange. In most cases, initial and periodic membership fees must be paid to the NASD and exchanges. For further information about SRO membership, contact the applicable exchange or NASD district office listed in this package.

A broker-dealer may not commence business until its SRO membership has become effective.

SIPC Membership

Every registered broker-dealer must be a member of the Securities Investor Protection Corporation ("SIPC") unless its principal business is conducted outside of the United States or consists exclusively of the sale or distribution of investment company shares, variable annuities, or insurance. Each SIPC member must pay an annual fee to SIPC. For further information, contact SIPC, 805 15th St., N.W., Suite 800, Washington, D.C. 20005.

Associated Persons

"Associated person," as defined in Section 3(a)(18) of the 1934 Act, includes any partner, officer, director, branch manager, or employee of broker-dealer, or any person controlling, controlled by, or under common control with, a broker-dealer. Every associated person of a broker-dealer, other than one whose functions are solely clerical or ministerial, must meet certain specified qualification requirements. These qualifications include having his or her employer file a Form U-4 with the applicable SRO and passing an SRO securities examination. For certain associated persons who engage only in a limited range of securities activities, such as direct participation programs (i.e. certain tax shelter limited partnerships), the NASD provides in lieu of the general securities examination, a special examination focused on the particular type of security involved. Form U-4 is the standardized form for registration of individuals and contains, among other things, information about the prior employment and disciplinary history of the individual. Copies of Form U-4 and information on securities examinations are available from the applicable SRO.

Required Books, Records and Financial Reports

Rules 17a-3, 17a-4, and 17a-5 under the 1934 Act specify certain basic recordkeeping and reporting requirements. Rule 17a-3 requires registered broker-dealers to make and keep current books and records detailing, among other things, securities transactions, money balances, and securities positions. Rule 17a-4 specifies record retention and preservation requirements for registered broker-dealers. Rule 17a-5 requires broker-dealers to file with the Commission periodic reports, including quarterly and annual financial statements. The annual report, called the "FOCUS" report, generally must be certified by an independent public accountant.

Net Capital Requirements

Rule 15c3-1 under the 1934 Act sets forth the "net capital" requirements for broker-dealers. Its object is to require a broker-dealer to have at all times sufficient liquid assets to cover its current indebtedness. In addition to the ratios tests set forth in the rule, Rule 15c3-1 prescribes required minimum net capital levels based upon the type of securities activities a broker-dealer conducts. For example, broker-dealers that clear and carry customer accounts must maintain at least $250,000 in minimum net capital. Other categories of broker-dealers are permitted to operate with lesser levels of net capital.

Inspections

Broker-dealers are subject to inspections by the Commission and the SROs. Newly-registered broker-dealers generally must be inspected by the appropriate SRO for compliance with applicable financial responsibility rules within six months of registration and for compliance with all other regulatory requirements within twelve months of registration. Thereafter, the Commission and the SROs may inspect on a periodic basis. Under Section 17 of the 1934 Act, the books and records of a broker-dealer must be made available for Commission or SRO inspection without notice at any reasonable time.

Fingerprinting Requirement

Rule 17f-2 under the 1934 Act requires that every partner, officer, director, or employee of a broker-dealer be fingerprinted and submit the fingerprints to the Attorney General of the United States. Paragraph (a)(1)(iii) grants permissive exemptions from the requirements of the fingerprinting rule to registered broker-dealers engaged in the sale of certain securities that are not ordinarily evidenced by the issuance of certificates. The rule also provides that those persons who do not sell securities, have access to securities, money or original books and records, and who do not supervise persons engaged in such activities, are exempt. A registered broker-dealer claiming this exemption must, however, comply with the notice requirements of paragraph (e) of Rule 17f-2. SRO members may obtain fingerprint cards from the applicable SRO and should submit the completed fingerprint cards to the SRO for forwarding to the Attorney General.

Lost and Stolen Securities Program

All registered broker-dealers must register in this program, except those that effect securities transactions exclusively on the floor of a national securities exchange solely for other members of such exchange and do not receive or hold customer securities, and those that are engaged exclusively in the sale of variable contracts or limited partnership interests and do not receive or hold certain securities. Broker-dealers registered in the program must report on Form X-17F-1A securities losses, thefts and instances of counterfeiting to, and make the inquiries regarding securities coming into their possession of, the Securities Information Center, which operates the program for the Commission. The registration, reporting, inquiry, and recordkeeping requirements generally are set forth in Rule 17f-1 under the 1934 Act. A registration form can be obtained from Securities Information Center, P.O. Box 421, Wellesley Hills, Massachusetts 02181.

Conduct Rule

Registered broker-dealers that are members of the NASD are required to comply with the NASD's Rules of Fair Practice, which govern the conduct of certain aspects of the business of a broker-dealer and generally require that a broker-dealer observe high standards of commercial honor and just and equitable principals of trade in the conduct of business. The exchanges also have rules that govern the conduct of an exchange securities business.

In addition, any broker-dealer effecting transactions in municipal securities must comply with the rules of the Municipal Securities Rulemaking Board. Any broker-dealer effecting transactions in governments securities must file notice of its activities with the Commission and comply with the government securities rules adopted by the Secretary of the Treasury.

Antifraud Provisions

The antifraud provisions of the federal securities laws are contained in Section 17 of the Securities Act of 1933, Sections 10(b) and 15(c) of the 1934 Act, and the rules thereunder. These provisions prohibit misstatements or misleading omissions of material facts, and fraudulent or manipulative acts and practices, in connection with the purchase or sale of securities. There are many specific rules applicable to broker-dealers, such as Rule 10b-10 (customer confirmation rule) that were adopted pursuant to the antifraud provisions.

Responsibility for Compliance--SEC Assistance

Although attention has been directed to selected provisions of the 1934 Act and rules, this is not to be regarded as relieving any broker-dealer from complying with all regulatory provisions applicable to its conduct at any given time. The staff of the Commission is available to broker-dealer applicants and registrants to discuss problems with regard to registration and other provisions of the 1934 Act that may pertain to specific proposed activities. Although the Commission staff is not in a position to act as counsel to an individual or broker-dealer in this regard, interested persons may find it convenient to contact the Office of Chief Counsel of the Division of Market Regulation or the Regional Office of the Commission in their area. It also may be helpful to review these matters with a private attorney familiar with the securities laws.

State Requirements

Many states have their own requirements with respect to persons conducting business as broker-dealers within that state. Information with respect to the requirements of any particular state should be addressed to the appropriate official in that state.

[Editor's Note: Please note that the following is the new version of Form ADV. An IARD-compatible version of Form ADV was initially adopted by the SEC in Release No. IA-1897, Sept. 12, 2000, effective Oct. 10, 2000. FORM ADV (Paper Version)

UNIFORM APPLICATION FOR INVESTMENT ADVISER REGISTRATION

Form ADV: General Instructions

Read these instructions carefully before filing Form ADV. Failure to follow these instructions, properly complete the form, and pay all required fees may result in your filing being returned to you. Electronic filers should follow the instructions available on-line, which are different.

In these instructions and in the form, "you" means the investment adviser (i.e., the advisory firm) applying for registration or amending its registration. If you are a "separately identifiable department or division" (SID) of a bank, "you" means the SID, rather than your bank, unless the instructions or the form provide otherwise. Terms that appear in italics are defined in the Glossary of Terms to Form ADV.

1. Where can I get more information on Form ADV, electronic filing, and the IARD?

The SEC provides information about its rules and the Advisers Act on its website: <<www.sec.gov/iard>>.

NASAA provides information about state investment adviser laws and state rules, and how to contact a state securities authority, on its website: <<www.nasaa.org>>.

NASD provides information about the IARD and electronic filing on the IARD website: <<www.iard.com>>.

2. What is Form ADV used for?

Investment advisers use Form ADV to:

- Register with the Securities and Exchange Commission
- Register with one or more state securities authorities
- Amend those registrations

3. How is Form ADV organized?

Form ADV contains three parts:

- Part 1A asks a number of questions about you, your business practices, the persons who own and control you, and the persons who provide investment advice on your behalf. All advisers registering with the SEC or any of the state securities authorities must complete Part 1A.

Part 1 A also contains several schedules that supplement Part 1A. The items of Part 1A let you know which schedules you must complete.

- ☐ Schedule A asks for information about your direct owners and executive officers.
- ☐ Schedule B asks for information about your indirect owners.
- ☐ Schedule C is used by paper filers to update the information required by Schedules A and B (see Instruction 14).
- ☐ Schedule D asks for additional information for certain items in Part 1A.
- ☐ Disclosure Reporting Pages (or "DRPs") ask for details about disciplinary events involving you or persons affiliated with you. (These are considered schedules too.)

- Part 1B asks additional questions required by state securities authorities. Part 1B contains three DRPs. If you are applying for registration or are registered only with the SEC, you do not have to complete Part 1B. (If you are filing electronically and you do not have to complete Part 1B, you will not see Part 1B.)

- Part II is your current brochure. You must continue to amend your brochure, deliver it to prospective clients, and annually offer it to current clients. See rule 204-3. You are not required to file amendments to Part II with the SEC.

Note:

The SEC has proposed to amend Part II of Form ADV. These changes, proposed as Part 2, have not been adopted at this time. Until the Commission adopts Part 2, the current brochure requirements are in effect, except that you are no longer required to file amendments to Part II with the Commission. See rule 204-3.

4. When am I required to update my Form ADV?

You must amend your Form ADV each year by filing an annual updating amendment within 90 days after the end of your fiscal year. When you submit your annual updating amendment, you must update your responses to all items.

In addition to your annual updating amendment, you must amend your Form ADV by filing additional amendments (other-than-annual amendments) promptly if:

- information you provided in response to Items 1, 3, 9, or 11 of Part 1A or Items 1, 2.A. through 2.F., or 2.I. of Part 1B become inaccurate in any way;
- information you provided in response to Items 4, 8, or 10 of Part 1A or Item 2.G. of Part 1B become materially inaccurate; or
- information you provided in your brochure becomes materially inaccurate.

If you are submitting an other-than-annual amendment, you are not required to update your responses to Items 2, 5, 6, 7, or 12 of Part 1A or Items 2.H. or 2.J. of Part 1B even if your responses to those items have become inaccurate. If you are amending Part II, do not file the amendment with the SEC.

Failure to update your Form ADV, as required by this instruction, is a violation of SEC rule 204-1 and similar state rules and could lead to your registration being revoked.

5. Are there changes to the Part II requirements?

The rules for preparing, delivering and offering Part II have not changed. You can still satisfy these requirements by delivering Part II or a brochure containing at least the information contained in Part II. If you are using Part II, you can continue to use Schedule F as a continuation sheet. If you check "yes" to Item 14 of Part II, prepare and file a balance sheet following instructions in Schedule G. The balance sheet information must be distributed to clients as part of your written disclosure statement (regardless of whether you use Part II or a brochure).

If you are an SEC-registered adviser, however, you no longer have to file Part II with the SEC. Instead, you must keep a copy in your files, and provide it to SEC staff upon request. You must update the information in your Part II whenever it becomes materially inaccurate. You can do this by substituting pages, or by affixing a "sticker" replacing the stale information.

If you are a state-registered adviser, you must continue to file Part II with the appropriate state securities authority on paper, regardless of whether you are filing Part 1 on paper or electronically through the IARD.

Note:

The SEC has proposed, but not adopted, substantial changes to Part II.

6. Where do I sign my Form ADV application or amendment?

You must sign the appropriate Execution Page. There are three Execution Pages at the end of the form. Your initial application and all amendments to Form ADV must include at least one Execution Page.

2-UF Blue Sky Regulation ADV

- If you are applying for or amending your SEC registration, you must sign and submit either a:

☐ Domestic Investment Adviser Execution Page, if you (the advisory firm) are a resident of the United States; or ☐ Non-Resident Investment Adviser Execution Page, if you (the advisory firm) are not a resident of the United States.

- If you are applying for or amending your registration with a state securities authority, you must sign and submit the State-Registered Investment Adviser Execution Page.

7. Who must sign my Form ADV or amendment?

The individual who signs the form depends upon your form of organization:

- For a sole proprietorship, the sole proprietor.
- For a partnership, a general partner.
- For a corporation, an authorized principal officer.
- For a "separately identifiable department or division" (SID) of a bank, a principal officer of your bank who is directly engaged in the management, direction or supervision of your investment advisory activities.
- For all others, an authorized individual who participates in managing or directing your affairs.

The signature does not have to be notarized, and in the case of an electronic filing, should be a typed name.

8. How do I file my Form ADV?

Note:

Until May 1, 2001, you must also consult the Form ADV Supplemental Instructions for Transition to Electronic Filing.

Complete Form ADV electronically using the Investment Adviser Registration Depository (IARD) if:

- You are filing with the SEC (and submitting notice filings to any of the state securities authorities), or
- You are filing with a state securities authority that requires or permits advisers to submit Form ADV through the IARD.

To file electronically, go the IARD website (<<www.iard.com>>), which contains detailed instructions for advisers to follow when filing through the IARD.

Complete Form ADV (Paper Version) on paper if:

2-UF Blue Sky Regulation ADV

- You are filing with the SEC or a state securities authority that requires electronic filing, but you have been granted a continuing hardship exemption. Hardship exemptions are described in Instruction 13.
- You are filing with a state securities authority that permits (but does not require) electronic filing and you do not file electronically.

9. How do I get started filing electronically?

- First, get a copy of the IARD Entitlement Package from the following web site: <<www.iard.com>>. Second, request access to the IARD system for your firm by completing and submitting the IARD Entitlement Package. The IARD Entitlement Package must be submitted on paper. Mail the forms to: IARD Entitlement Requests, NASD, P.O. Box 9495, Gaithersburg, MD 20898-9495.
- When NASD receives your Entitlement Package, they will assign a CRD number (identification number for your firm) and a user I.D. code and password (identification number and system password for the individual(s) who will submit Form ADV filings for your firm). Your firm may request an I.D. code and password for more than one individual. The NASD also will create a financial account for you from which the IARD will deduct filing fees and any state fees you are required to pay. If you already have a CRD account with NASD, it will also serve as your IARD account; a separate account will not be established.
- Once you receive your CRD number, user I.D. code and password, and you have funded your account, you are ready to file electronically.
- Questions regarding the Entitlement Process should be addressed to NASD at 240.386.4848.

10. If I am applying for registration with the SEC, or amending my SEC registration, how do I make notice filings with the state securities authorities?

If you are applying for registration with the SEC or amending your SEC registration, one or more state securities authorities may require you to provide them with copies of your SEC filings. We call these filings "notice filings." Your notice filings will be sent electronically to the states that you check on Item 2.B. of Part 1A. The state securities authorities to which you send notice filings may charge fees, which will be deducted from the account you establish with NASD. To determine which state securities authorities require SEC-registered advisers to submit notice filings and to pay fees, consult the relevant state investment adviser law or state securities authority. See General Instruction 1.

If you are granted a continuing hardship exemption to file Form ADV on paper, NASD will enter your filing into the IARD and your notice filings will be sent electronically to the state securities authorities that you check on Item 2.B. of Part 1A.

11. I am registered with a state. When must I switch to SEC registration?

If you report on your annual updating amendment that your assets under management have increased to $30 million or more, you must register with the SEC within 90 days after you file that annual updating amendment. If your assets under management increase to $25 million or more but not $30 million, you may, but are not required to, register with the SEC (assuming you are not otherwise required to register with the SEC). Once you register with the SEC, you are subject to SEC regulation, regardless of whether you remain registered with one or more states. Each of your investment adviser representatives, however, may be subject to registration in those states in which the representative has a place of business. See SEC rule 203A-1(b). For additional information, consult the investment adviser laws or the state securities authority for the particular state in which you are "doing business." See General Instruction 1.

12. I am registered with the SEC. When must I switch to registration with a state securities authority?

If you report on your annual updating amendment that you have assets under management of less than $25 million and you are not otherwise eligible to register with the SEC, you must withdraw from SEC registration within 180 days after the end of your fiscal year by filing Form ADV-W. You should consult state law in the states that you are doing business to determine if you are required to register in these states. See General Instruction 1. Until you file your Form ADV-W with the SEC, you will remain subject to SEC regulation, and you also will be subject to regulation in any states where you register. See SEC rule 203A-1(b).

13. Are there filing fees?

Yes. These fees go to support and maintain the IARD. The IARD filing fees are in addition to any registration or other fee that may be required by state law. You must pay an IARD filing fee for your initial application and each annual updating amendment. There is no filing fee for an other-than-annual amendment or Form ADV-W. The IARD filing fee schedule is published at <<www.sec.gov/iard>>; <<www.nasaa.org>>; and <<www.iard.com>>.

If you are submitting a paper filing under a continuing hardship exemption (see Instruction 14), you are required to pay an additional fee. The amount of the additional fee depends on whether you are filing Form ADV or Form ADV-W. (There is no additional fee for filings made on Form ADV-W.) The hardship filing fee schedule is available at 240.386.4848.

14. What if I am not able to file electronically?

If you are required to file electronically but cannot do so, you may be eligible for one of two types of hardship exemptions from the electronic filing requirements.

- A temporary hardship exemption is available if you file electronically, but you encounter unexpected difficulties that prevent you from making a timely filing with the IARD, such as a computer malfunction or electrical outage. This exemption does not permit you to file on paper; instead, it extends the deadline for an electronic filing for seven business days. See SEC rule 203-3(a).

- A continuing hardship exemption may be granted if you are a small business and you can demonstrate that filing electronically would impose an undue hardship. You are a small business, and may be eligible for a continuing hardship exemption, if you are required to answer Item 12 of Part 1A (because you have assets under management of less than $25 million) and you are able to respond "no" to each question in Item 12. See SEC rule 0-7.

If you have been granted a continuing hardship exemption, you must complete and submit the paper version of Form ADV to NASD. NASD will enter your responses into the IARD. As discussed in General Instruction 13, NASD will charge you a fee to reimburse it for the expense of data entry.

Before applying for a continuing hardship exemption, consider engaging a firm that assists investment advisers in making filings with the IARD. Check the SEC's web site (<<www.sec.gov/iard>>) to obtain a list of firms that provide these services.

15. I am eligible to file on paper. How do I make a paper filing?

When filing on paper, you must:

2-UF Blue Sky Regulation ADV

- Type all of your responses.
- Include your name (the same name you provide in response to Item 1.A. of Part 1A) and the date on every page.
- If you are amending your Form ADV:
 - ☐ complete page 1 and circle the number of any item for which you are changing your response.
 - ☐ include your SEC 801-number (if you have one) and your CRD number (if you have one) on every page.
 - ☐ complete the amended item in full and circle the number of the item for which you are changing your response.
 - ☐ to amend Schedule A or Schedule B, complete and submit Schedule C.

Where you submit your paper filing depends on why you are eligible to file on paper:

- If you are filing on paper because you have been granted a continuing hardship exemption, submit one manually signed Form ADV and one copy to: IARD Document Processing, NASD, P.O. Box 9495, Gaithersburg, MD 20898-9495.

If you complete Form ADV on paper and submit it to NASD but you do not have a continuing hardship exemption, the submission will be returned to you.

- If you are filing on paper because a state in which you are registered or applying for registration allows you to submit paper instead of electronic filings, submit one manually signed Form ADV and one copy to the appropriate state securities authorities.

16. Who is required to file Form ADV-NR?

Every non-resident general partner and managing agent of all SEC-registered advisers, whether or not the adviser is resident in the United States, must file Form ADV-NR in connection with the adviser's initial application. A general partner or managing agent of an SEC-registered adviser who becomes a non-resident after the adviser's initial application has been submitted must file Form ADV-NR within 30 days. Form ADV-NR must be filed on paper (it cannot be filed electronically).

Submit Form ADV-NR to the SEC at the following address:

Securities and Exchange Commission, 450 5th Street, N.W., Mail Stop A-2, Washington, DC 20549; Attn: Branch of Registrations & Examinations

Failure to file Form ADV-NR promptly may delay SEC consideration of your initial application.

Federal Information Law and Requirements

2-UF Blue Sky Regulation ADV

Sections 203(c) and 204 of the Advisers Act [15 U.S.C. §§ 80b-3(c) and 80b-4] authorize the SEC to collect the information required by Form ADV. The SEC collects the information for regulatory purposes, such as deciding whether to grant registration. Filing Form ADV is mandatory for advisers who are required to register with the SEC. The SEC maintains the information submitted on this form and makes it publicly available. The SEC may return forms that do not include required information. Intentional misstatements or omissions constitute federal criminal violations under 18 U.S.C. § 1001 and 15 U.S.C. § 80b-17.

SEC's Collection of Information

An agency may not conduct or sponsor, and a person is not required to respond to, a collection of information unless it displays a currently valid control number. The Advisers Act authorizes the SEC to collect the information on Form ADV from applicants. See 15 U.S.C. §§ 80b-3(c)(1) and 80b-4. Filing the form is mandatory.

The main purpose of this form is to enable the SEC to register investment advisers. Every applicant for registration with the SEC as an adviser must file the form. See 17 C.F.R. § 275.203-1. By accepting a form, however, the SEC does not make a finding that it has been completed or submitted correctly. The form is filed annually by every adviser, no later than 90 days after the end of its fiscal year, to amend its registration. It is also filed promptly during the year to reflect material changes. See 17 C.F.R. § 275.204-1. The SEC maintains the information on the form and makes it publicly available through the IARD.

Anyone may send the SEC comments on the accuracy of the burden estimate on page 1 of the form, as well as suggestions for reducing the burden. The Office of Management and Budget has reviewed this collection of information under 44 U.S.C. § 3507.

The information contained in the form is part of a system of records subject to the Privacy Act of 1974, as amended. The SEC has published in the Federal Register the Privacy Act System of Records Notice for these records.

FORM ADV (Paper Version)UNIFORM APPLICATION FOR INVESTMENT ADVISER REGISTRATION*Form ADV: Supplemental Instructions for Electronic Filing*SEC Requirements

SEC rules require advisers that are registered or applying for registration with the SEC to file electronically. All applications for registration filed after December 31, 2000 must be filed electronically through the IARD system. See SEC rule 203-1.

State Requirements

Check with the state securities authorities of the states in which you have a filing obligation to determine whether you can or must file Form ADV electronically through the IARD. NASAA provides information about state investment adviser laws and state rules, and how to contact a state securities authority, on its website: www.nasaa.org.

FORM ADV (Paper Version)

UNIFORM APPLICATION FOR INVESTMENT ADVISER REGISTRATION

Form ADV: Instructions for Part 1A

These instructions explain how to complete certain items in Part 1A of Form ADV.

1 . Item 1: Identifying Information

If you are a "separately identifiable department or division" (SID) of a bank, answer Item 1.A. with the full legal name of your bank, and answer Item 1.B. with your own name (the name of the department or division) and all names under which you conduct your advisory business. In addition, your principal office and place of business in Item 1.F. should be the principal office at which you conduct your advisory business. In response to Item 1.I., the World Wide Web site addresses you list on Schedule D should be sites that provide information about your own activities, rather than general information about your bank.

2 . Item 2: SEC Registration

If you are registered or applying for registration with the SEC, you must indicate in Item 2.A. why you are eligible to register with the SEC by checking one or more boxes.

a. Item 2.A(1): Adviser with Assets Under Management of $25 Million or More. You may check box 1 only if your response to Item 5.F(2)(c) is $25 million or more. While you may register with the SEC if your assets under management are at least $25 million but less than $30 million, you must register with the SEC if your assets under management are $30 million or more. Part 1A Instruction 5.b. explains how to calculate your assets under management.

If you are a state-registered adviser and you report on your annual updating amendment that your assets under management increased to $25 million or more, you may register with the SEC. If your assets under management increased to $30 million or more, you must register with the SEC within 90 days after you file that annual updating amendment. See SEC rule 203A-1(b) and Form ADV General Instruction 10.

b. Item 2.A(4): Adviser to an Investment Company. You may check box 4 only if you currently provide advisory services under an investment advisory contract to an investment company registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 and the investment company is operational (i.e., has assets and shareholders, other than just the organizing shareholders). See section 203A(a)(1)(B) of the Advisers Act. Advising investors about the merits of investing in mutual funds or recommending particular mutual funds does not make you eligible to check this box.

c. Item 2.A(5): Nationally Recognized Statistical Rating Organization. You may check box 5 only if you are designated as a nationally recognized statistical rating organization pursuant to an application filed under paragraph (c)(13)(i) of SEC rule 15c3-1 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. See SEC rule 203A-2(a). This designation generally is limited to rating agencies, such as Moody's and Standard & Poor's.

d. Item 2.A(6): Pension Consultant. You may check box 6 only if you are eligible for the pension consultant exemption from the prohibition on SEC registration.

- You are eligible for this exemption if you provided investment advice to employee benefit plans, governmental plans, or church plans with respect to assets having an aggregate value of $50 million or more during the 12-month period that ended within 90 days of filing this Form ADV. You are not eligible for this exemption if you only advise plan participants on allocating their investments within their pension plans. See SEC rule 203A-2(b).

- To calculate the value of assets for purposes of this exemption, aggregate the assets of the plans for which you provided advisory services at the end of the 12-month period. If you provided advisory services to other plans during the 12-month period, but your employment or contract terminated before the end of the 12-month period, you also may include the value of those assets.

e. Item 2.A(7): Affiliated Adviser. You may check box 7 only if you are eligible for the affiliated adviser exemption from the prohibition on SEC registration. See SEC rule 203A-2(c). You are eligible for this exemption if you control, are controlled by, or are under common control with an investment adviser that is registered with the SEC, and you have the same principal office and place of business as that other investment adviser. Note that you may not rely on the SEC registration of an Internet investment adviser under rule 203A-2(f) in establishing eligibility for this exemption. See SEC rule 203A-2(f)(iii). If you check box 7, you also must complete Section 2.A(7) of Schedule D.

f. Item 2.A(8): Newly-Formed Adviser. You may check box 8 only if you are eligible for the newly-formed-adviser exemption from the prohibition on SEC registration. See SEC rule 203A-2(d). You are eligible for this exemption if:

- immediately before you file your application for registration with the SEC, you were not registered or required to be registered with the SEC or a state securities authority; and
- at the time of your formation, you have a reasonable expectation that within 120 days of registration you will be eligible for SEC registration.

If you check box 8, you also must complete Section 2.A(8) of Schedule D.

You must file an amendment to Part 1A of your Form ADV that updates your response to Item 2.A. within 120 days after the SEC declares your registration effective. You may not check box 8 on your amendment; since this exemption is available only if you are not registered, you may not "re-rely" on this exemption. If you indicate on that amendment (by checking box 12) that you are not eligible to register with the SEC, you also must at that same time file a Form ADV-W to withdraw your SEC registration.

g. Item 2.A(9): Multi-State Adviser. You may check box 9 only if you are eligible for the multi-state adviser exemption from the prohibition on SEC registration. See SEC rule 203A-2(e). You are eligible for this exemption if you are required to register as an investment adviser with the securities authorities of 30 or more states. If you check box 9, you must complete Section 2.A(9) of Schedule D. You must complete Section 2.A(9) of Schedule D in each annual updating amendment you submit.

If you check box 9, you also must:

- create and maintain a list of the states in which, but for this exemption, you would be required to register;
- update this list each time you submit an annual updating amendment in which you continue to represent that you are eligible for this exemption; and
- maintain the list in an easily accessible place for a period of not less than five years from each date on which you indicate that you are eligible for the exemption.

If, at the time you file your annual updating amendment, you are required to register in less than 25 states and you are not otherwise eligible to register with the SEC, you must check box 12 in Item 2.A. You also must file a Form ADV-W to withdraw your SEC registration. See Part 1A Instruction 2.i.

h. Item 2.A (10): Internet Investment Adviser. You may check box 10 only if you are eligible for the Internet adviser exemption from the prohibition on SEC registration. See SEC rule 203A-2(f). You are eligible for this exemption if:

- you provide investment advice to your clients through an interactive website. An interactive website means a website in which computer software-based models or applications provide investment advice based on personal information each client submits through the website. Other forms of online or Internet investment advice do not qualify for this exemption;
- you provide investment advice to all of your clients exclusively through the interactive website, except that you may provide investment advice to fewer than 15 clients through other means during the previous 12 months; and
- you maintain a record demonstrating that you provide investment advice to your clients exclusively through an interactive website in accordance with these limits.

i. Item 2.A(12): Adviser No Longer Eligible to Remain Registered with the SEC. You must check box 12 if:

- you are registered with the SEC;
- you are filing an annual updating amendment to Form ADV in which you indicate in response to Item 5.F(2)(c) that you have assets under management of less than $25 million; and
- you are not eligible to check any other box (other than box 12) in Item 2.A. (and are therefore no longer eligible to remain registered with the SEC).

You must withdraw from SEC registration within 180 days after the end of your fiscal year by filing Form ADV-W. Until you file your Form ADV-W, you will remain subject to SEC regulation, and you also will be subject to regulation in the states in which you register. See SEC rule 203A-1(b).

3 . Item 3: Form of Organization

If you are a "separately identifiable department or division" (SID) of a bank, answer Item 3.A. by checking "other." In the space provided, specify that you are a "SID of" and indicate the form of organization of your bank. Answer Items 3.B. and 3.C. with information about your bank.

4 . Item 4: Successions

a. Succession of an SEC-Registered Adviser. If you (1) have taken over the business of an investment adviser or (2) have changed your structure or legal status (e.g., form of organization or state of incorporation), a new organization has been created, which has registration obligations under the Advisers Act. There are different ways to fulfill these obligations. You may rely on the registration provisions discussed in the General Instructions, or you may be able to rely on special registration provisions for "successors" to SEC-registered advisers, which may ease the transition to the successor adviser's registration.

To determine if you may rely on these provisions, review "Registration of Successors to Broker-Dealers and Investment Advisers," Investment Advisers Act Release No. 1357 (Dec. 28, 1992). If you have taken over an adviser, follow Part 1A Instruction 4.a(1), Succession by Application. If you have changed your structure or legal status, follow Part 1A Instruction 4.a(2), Succession by Amendment. If either (1) you are a "separately identifiable department or division" (SID) of a bank that is currently registered as an investment adviser, and you are taking over your bank's advisory business; or (2) you are a SID currently registered as an investment adviser, and your bank is taking over your advisory business, then follow Part 1A Instruction 4.a(1), Succession by Application.

(1) Succession by Application. If you are not registered with the SEC as an adviser, and you are acquiring or assuming substantially all of the assets and liabilities of the advisory business of an SEC-registered adviser, file a new application for registration on Form ADV. You will receive new registration numbers. You must file the new application within 30 days after the succession. On the application, make sure you check "yes" to Item 4.A., enter the date of the succession in Item 4.B., and complete Section 4 of Schedule D.

Until the SEC declares your new registration effective, you may rely on the registration of the adviser you are acquiring, but only if the adviser you are acquiring is no longer conducting advisory activities. Once your new registration is effective, a Form ADV-W must be filed with the SEC to withdraw the registration of the acquired adviser.

(2) Succession by Amendment. If you are a new investment adviser formed solely as a result of a change in form of organization, a reorganization, or a change in the composition of a partnership, and there has been no practical change in control or management, you may amend the registration of the registered investment adviser to reflect these changes rather than file a new application. You will keep the same registration numbers, and you should not file a Form ADV-W. On the amendment, make sure you check "yes" to Item 4.A., enter the date of the succession in Item 4.B., and complete Section 4 of Schedule D. You must submit the amendment within 30 days after the change or reorganization.

2-UF Blue Sky Regulation ADV

b. Succession of a State-Registered Adviser. If you (1) have taken over the business of an investment adviser or (2) have changed your structure or legal status (e.g., form of organization or state of incorporation), a new organization has been created, which has registration obligations under state investment adviser laws. There may be different ways to fulfill these obligations. You should contact each state in which you are registered to determine that state's requirements for successor registration. See Form ADV General Instruction 1.

5 . Item 5: Information About Your Advisory Business

a. Newly-Formed Advisers: Several questions in Item 5 that ask about your advisory business assume that you have been operating your advisory business for some time. Your response to these questions should reflect your current advisory business (i.e., at the time you file your Form ADV), with the following exceptions:

- base your response to Item 5.E. on the types of compensation you expect to accept;
- base your response to Item 5.G. on the types of advisory services you expect to provide during the next year; and
- skip Item 5.H.

b. Item 5.F: Calculating Your Assets Under Management. In determining the amount of your assets under management, include the securities portfolios for which you provide continuous and regular supervisory or management services as of the date of filing this Form ADV.

(1) Securities Portfolios. An account is a securities portfolio if at least 50% of the total value of the account consists of securities. For purposes of this 50% test, you may treat cash and cash equivalents (i.e., bank deposits, certificates of deposit, bankers acceptances, and similar bank instruments) as securities. You may include securities portfolios that are:

- (a) your family or proprietary accounts (unless you are a sole proprietor, in which case your personal assets must be excluded);
- (b) accounts for which you receive no compensation for your services; and
- (c) accounts of clients who are not U.S. residents.

(2) Value of Portfolio. Include the entire value of each securities portfolio for which you provide continuous and regular supervisory or management services. If you provide continuous and regular supervisory or management services for only a portion of a securities portfolio, include as assets under management only that portion of the securities portfolio for which you provide such services. Exclude, for example, the portion of an account:

- (a) under management by another person; or
- (b) that consists of real estate or businesses whose operations you "manage" on behalf of a client but not as an investment.

Do not deduct securities purchased on margin.

(3) Continuous and Regular Supervisory or Management Services.

General Criteria. You provide continuous and regular supervisory or management services with respect to an account if:

(a) you have discretionary authority over and provide ongoing supervisory or management services with respect to the account; or

(b) you do not have discretionary authority over the account, but you have ongoing responsibility to select or make recommendations, based upon the needs of the client, as to specific securities or other investments the account may purchase or sell and, if such recommendations are accepted by the client, you are responsible for arranging or effecting the purchase or sale.

Factors. You should consider the following factors in evaluating whether you provide continuous and regular supervisory or management services to an account.

(a) Terms of the advisory contract. If you agree in an advisory contract to provide ongoing management services, this suggests that you provide these services for the account. Other provisions in the contract, or your actual management practices, however, may suggest otherwise.

(b) Form of compensation. If you are compensated based on the average value of the client's assets you manage over a specified period of time, that suggests that you provide continuous and regular supervisory or management services for the account. If you receive compensation in a manner similar to either of the following, that suggests you do not provide continuous and regular supervisory or management services for the account

(i) you are compensated based upon the time spent with a client during a client visit; or

(ii) you are paid a retainer based on a percentage of assets covered by a financial plan.

(c) Management practices. The extent to which you actively manage assets or provide advice bears on whether the services you provide are continuous and regular supervisory or management services. The fact that you make infrequent trades (e.g., based on a "buy and hold" strategy) does not mean your services are not "continuous and regular."

Examples. You may provide continuous and regular supervisory or management services for an account if you:

(a) have discretionary authority to allocate client assets among various mutual funds;

(b) do not have discretionary authority, but provide the same allocation services, and satisfy the criteria set forth in Instruction 5.b(3);

(c) allocate assets among other managers (a "manager of managers"), but only if you have discretionary authority to hire and fire managers and reallocate assets among them; or

(d) you are a broker-dealer and treat the account as a brokerage account, but only if you have discretionary authority over the account.

2-UF Blue Sky Regulation ADV

You do not provide continuous and regular supervisory or management services for an account if you:

- (a) provide market timing recommendations (i.e., to buy or sell), but have no ongoing management responsibilities;
- (b) provide only impersonal investment advice (e.g., market newsletters);
- (c) make an initial asset allocation, without continuous and regular monitoring and reallocation; or
- (d) provide advice on an intermittent or periodic basis (such as upon client request, in response to a market event, or on a specific date (e.g., the account is reviewed and adjusted quarterly)).

(4) Value of Assets Under Management. Determine your assets under management based on the current market value of the assets as determined within 90 days prior to the date of filing this Form ADV. Determine market value using the same method you used to report account values to clients or to calculate fees for investment advisory services.

(5) Example. This is an example of the method of determining whether a client account may be included as assets under management.

A client's portfolio consists of the following:

$ 6,000,000 stocks and bonds

$ 1,000,000 cash and cash equivalents

$ 3,000,000 non-securities (collectibles, commodities, real estate, etc.)

$10,000,000 Total Assets

First, is the account a securities portfolio? The account is a securities portfolio because securities as well as cash and cash equivalents (which you have chosen to include as securities) ($6,000,000 + $1,000,000 = $7,000,000) comprise at least 50% of the value of the account (here, 70%). (See Instruction 5.b(1)).

Second, does the account receive continuous and regular supervisory or management services? The entire account is managed on a discretionary basis and is provided ongoing supervisory and management services, and therefore receives continuous and regular supervisory or management services. (See Instruction 5.b(3)).

Third, what is the entire value of the account? The entire value of the account ($10,000,000) is included in the calculation of the adviser's total assets under management.

6 . Item 10: Control Persons

If you are a "separately identifiable department or division" (SID) of a bank, identify on Schedule A your bank's executive officers who are directly engaged in managing, directing, or supervising your investment advisory activities, and list any other persons designated by your bank's board of directors as responsible for the day-to-day conduct of your investment advisory activities, including supervising employees performing investment advisory activities.

7 . Additional Information.

If you believe your response to an item in Form ADV Part 1A requires further explanation, or if you wish to provide additional information, you may do so on Schedule D, in the Miscellaneous section. Completion of this section is optional

UNIFORM FORMS

Uniform Branch Office Form Instructions

INSTRUCTIONS

Rev. Form BR (10/2005)

UNIFORM BRANCH OFFICE FORM

Form BR

Uniform Branch Office
Registration Form

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

The Uniform Branch Office Registration Form (Form BR) is the form used for branch office registration, notification, closing or withdrawal. Broker-dealers and investment advisers must use this form to register or notice file their branch offices in the appropriate jurisdictions and/or with SROs. These instructions apply to the filing of Form BR electronically with the Central Registration Depository ("CRD®"). Filers submitting paper filings should read the Special Instructions For Paper Filers (Jurisdictions Only) in conjunction with the other instructions to the form. In addition, paper filers should contact the appropriate jurisdiction for specific filing instructions or requirements.

Filers must answer all questions and submit all requested information, unless otherwise directed in the Specific Instructions. The questions in Section 6 (NYSE Branch Information) are required to be completed only by applicants that are seeking registration, or are currently registered, with the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE).

Upon request, you may be required to provide documents to clarify or support responses to the form.

An applicant is under a continuing obligation to promptly update Form BR whenever the information becomes inaccurate or incomplete. Amendments must be filed electronically (unless the filer is an approved paper filer) by promptly updating the appropriate section of Form BR. Note: The SROs and most jurisdictions require that an amendment be filed not later than 30 days after the applicant learns of the facts and circumstances giving rise to the amendment.

NYSE and some jurisdictions require approval of a branch office before business can be conducted at a branch location.

Contact the appropriate SRO or jurisdiction, if you have questions about Form BR.

Electronic Filing Instructions

A complete Form BR is required when the applicant is registering or notice filing a branch office with the CRD system for the first time. All questions must be answered and all sections/fields requiring a response must be completed before the filing will be accepted. Section 6 (NYSE Branch Information) is required to be completed only by applicants that are seeking registration, or are currently registered, with NYSE. The applicant must complete Section 9 (Signature) to certify that Form BR and amendments thereto have been executed properly and that the information contained therein is accurate and complete. To amend information, the applicant must update the appropriate Form BR sections. A signed copy, with original signatures, of the initial Form BR filing and amendments thereto must be retained by the applicant and be made available for inspection upon a regulatory request.

Special Instructions For Paper Filers (Jurisdictions Only)

Some jurisdictions may require a separate paper filing of Form BR. The applicant should contact the appropriate jurisdiction(s) for specific filing requirements. Attach Section 9 (Signature) with original manual signatures to an initial Form BR filing. Type applicable information. Provide the name of the applicant and the date on each page. Use only the current version of Form BR, or a reproduction of the form. For an amendment to Form BR, circle the number of any item for which you are changing your response. Complete Section 9 (Signature) for all amendment filings.

The Sections of Form BR are as follows:

3-06CA Blue Sky Regulation

The California Corporate Securities Law provides for registration of securities, for registration of broker-dealers and agents, and for licensing of investment advisers and investment adviser representatives. Subject to statutory exemptions or exceptions, offers and sales of securities in California must be registered by coordination, notification or by permit, as applicable, on prescribed forms. Offerings registered by permit are subject to merit review through application of various guidelines and requirements. California participates in the NASAA Coordinated Equity Review (CER). In addition to prescribing registration requirements generally, California separately addresses requirements for "non-issuer" transactions, making clear that unless the securities involved or the transaction itself is exempted or otherwise excluded, non-issuer transactions are subject to qualification by notification.

The California Corporate Securities Law is administered overall by the Department of Corporations, and the Commissioner of Corporations, who is appointed by the governor. Direct administration carried out by the Securities Regulation Division, one of three operating divisions under the Corporations Commissioner. The Securities Regulation Division is headed by an Assistant Commissioner, and is responsible for the qualification of offers and sales of securities and the licensing and regulation of broker-dealers, agents, investment advisers and investment adviser representatives. The Division also registers the sale of franchises under the Franchise Investment Law, and licenses "capital access companies" under the Capital Access Company Law.ⁿ²

Requests for interpretive opinions, determinations and specific rulings may be made in California, by which interested persons may obtain interpretive advice on particular questions and facts presented to the Commissioner. Requests for interpretive opinions, determinations and rulings must be submitted in writing, and issuance is discretionary with the Commissioner. When issued, an interpretive opinion, determination or ruling is applicable only to the transaction identified in the request and may not be relied upon in connection with any other transaction.

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 2. The Capital Access Company Law, Cal. Codes §§ 28000-28958, establishes a licensing and particular regulatory scheme for certain companies organized in reliance on an exemption from the federal Investment Company Act of 1940, that are not in the business of issuing redeemable, but which provide financial or managerial assistance to enterprises doing business or proposing to do business in the state. The federal exemption turns on the application of state regulation of such companies. Accordingly, in order to permit them to operate in reliance on the federal exemption, California provides for licensing and regulation of those companies that will provide risk capital and management assistance, primarily to small business firms in the state.

These provisions make violators civilly liable for return of the full amount paid by a holder or owner, along with attorneys fees, and also make willful violations a crime.

(n3)Footnote 3. The Franchise Investment Law comprises Division 5 of Title 4 of the California Corporations Code. It requires all franchisors to make a full written disclosure to prospective franchisees of all material terms of the franchise arrangement, and further requires, subject to a narrow exemption, that the sale of franchises be registered with the Commissioner of Corporations.

The California Corporations Code also includes the California Commodity Law of 1990, Cal. III STATE FORMS (A-F)

California

3-06CA Blue Sky Regulation § III

§ III. Registration ("Qualification") of Securities

(California Codes §§ 25110-25166)

"Testing the Waters." By rule (Rule 260.105) California exempts offers of securities prior to sale if the securities are exempt from qualification under the law. Otherwise, offers prior to sale are exempted for both issuers and non-issuers only for securities actually sold only in transactions with a bank, savings and loan association, trust company, insurance company, registered investment company, pension or profit-sharing trust, individual retirement account or other institutional investor or governmental agency the Commissioner may designate. The latter category includes sales of securities to the federal government or any agency thereof, or to any corporation wholly owned by a federal, state or local government, and state university or state college, and any public employee retirement system (Rule 260.105.14).

Internet Offerings. n1 An offer on the Internet by an issuer is exempt from qualification requirements in California if:

- The Internet offer originates from outside the state and indicates directly or indirectly that the securities are not being offered to persons in the state;
- The offer is not directed to a person in the state by or on behalf of the issuer; and
- No sales of the securities will be made in the state as a result of the Internet offer until such time as the sale of the securities being offered has been qualified, and a final prospectus is delivered to residents of the state prior to such sale, or the security or sale is otherwise exempt from qualification. Corp. Comm. Rel. No. 100-C (Nov. 5, 1996).

Forms of Registration/Qualification

Unless a security or transaction is exempt under provisions of the Law, it is unlawful to offer or sell in California any security in an issuer transaction unless the sale is "qualified." Of particular note in California is the further provision that an offer or sale of a security in a manner that varies or differs from, exceeds the scope of, or fails to conform with either a material term or material condition of qualification of the offering as set forth in a permit or qualification order, or as to which a material misrepresentation is made in an application regarding the manner of the offering, is deemed an unqualified offer or sale.

Issuer Transactions

Qualification by Coordination (Cal. Codes § 25111; Rule 260.111). Any security for which a registration statement has been filed under the federal Securities Act of 1933 in connection with the same offering may be qualified in California by coordination. An application for qualification by coordination is comprised primarily of the registration statement filed with the SEC, along with certain undertakings in regard to amendments, consent to service of process, and certain other information. Alternatively, an application for qualification by coordination may be made on Form U-1. However, if Form U-1 is utilized, the same additional information is required. Qualification of the sales of securities by coordination automatically becomes effective at the moment the federal registration statement becomes effective, provided:

- There is no stop order in effect;
- The application has been on file with the Commissioner for at least ten days, although the actual time is by rule extended to permit filing of the application on or before the twentieth business day following filing of the registration statement with the SEC, provided that the application is on file with the Commissioner at least ten business days; and
- A statement of the maximum and minimum proposed offering prices and the maximum underwriting commissions and discounts has been on file for two business days (unless the time is shortened by the Commissioner).n2

If the issuer employs agents in connection with the offering, there is a $10,000 surety bond requirement for qualification by coordination (Rule 260.216.15), although cash may be deposited in lieu of a surety bond.

Qualification by Notification (Cal. Codes § 25112; Rule 260.112). Securities of an issuer that has outstanding securities registered under Section 12 of the federal Securities Exchange Act of 1934, or by an Investment Company registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940, which are not eligible for qualification by coordination may be qualified in California by notification. In the absence of a stop order, a qualification by notification automatically becomes effective on the tenth business day after filing of the application or the last amendment, or at such earlier time as the Commissioner may order. Instructions for an application for qualification by notification are provided in California Form 260.112 and, in addition to a prescribed facing page, the application includes information describing the business of the issuer, the use of proceeds, the plan of distribution, director and executive officer information, affiliate transaction information and several other categories of information. As with other forms of qualification, a surety bond is required if agents are employed in the distribution of the securities.

Qualification by Permit (Cal. Codes § 25113; Rule 260.113). All securities, whether or not eligible for qualification by coordination or notification, may be qualified by "permit" in California. An application for qualification by permit must include all of the information required for qualification by notification, and additional information prescribed by rule that, among other things, pertains to particular types of offerings. Instructions for an application for qualification by permit are set out in California Form 260.113. For qualifying small business issuers, Form U-7 (SCOR) is permitted, but subject to certain further requirements applicable to the offering.

Applications for qualification by permit in California are reviewed pursuant to "Standards for the Exercise of the Commissioner's Authority" set forth in rules, and intended to furnish guidelines for the exercise of the Commissioner's discretion relating to the qualification of securities, based upon the usual or typical circumstances encountered. The stated standards do not preclude application of different standards justified by the circumstances. Enumerated standards (and requirements) address the following:

- Suitability of investors
- Securities of speculative businesses
- Rights of security holders
- Selling expenses and options to underwriters
- Rights, warrants and options generally
- Promotional shares
- Recapitalizations and Reorganization
- Stock Dividends and stock splits
- Securities of particular issuers including, for example, debt offerings by churches
- Investment company securities
- Real estate program securities
- Oil and gas interests

The Commissioner is authorized to impose conditions of qualification including escrows and legends, restrictions on transfer, impound conditions and employment of licensed agents. In all of this process, California participates in the NASAA Coordinated Equity Review (CER) Program, and thus has agreed to adhere to applicable NASAA guidelines to the extent they do not otherwise conflict with California law, rules or orders. Comm. Rel. No.111-C (Apr. 16, 1998).

Non-Issuer Transactions n3

The Law specifically addresses sales of securities by a non-issuer in California, requiring qualification of all such transactions unless the security involved or the transaction is otherwise exempt. Qualification by notification is expressly made available for non-issuer sales, unless the securities are offered pursuant to an exemption under Regulation A of the Securities Act of 1933, in which case the sale must be qualified by permit. To the extent a non-issuer is unable to provide information that would otherwise be required by an application for qualification by notification, the person must only supply that information that is known to him/her, or which can be furnished without unreasonable effort or expense. Securities previously subject to an escrow condition may not be sold or transferred by a non-issuer without release of the escrow by the Commissioner. Applications to qualify securities for non-issuer transactions must further demonstrate that the issuer is engaged in an ongoing business. As a guideline, an issuer showing annual gross receipts from operations of not less than $500,000 will ordinarily be deemed to meet the requirement. See Rule 260.140.137 ("Shell companies").

Applications to qualify non-issuer transactions are subjected to the same standards that are applied to issuer transactions when:

- A non-issuer application is filed in connection with a proposed offering of the securities pursuant to a registration statement under the Securities Act of 1933, or pursuant to an exemption under Regulation A of the 1933 Act;

3-06CA Blue Sky Regulation § III

- The issuer of the securities has within 24 months immediately preceding the date of the filing made a public offering which was not qualified in California, or which was qualified as a limited offering; or
- A significant market for the securities proposed to be offered by the non-issuer does not exist in California. For purposes of this provision a "significant market" means that the securities are held by not less than 100 persons in the state and are subject to regular quotations by at least one market-maker.

Shelf Registration. To accommodate SEC Rule 415 under the Securities Act of 1933, California permits shelf registration through a short form qualification by coordination. The abbreviated procedure is available only for those issuers eligible to file with the SEC on Forms S-3 or F-3. After review of the application and resolution of any issues raised by application of qualification standards, on notice of effectiveness from the Commissioner the qualification will be effective for twelve months from the date of notification. Specific transactions involve additional requirements. Comm. Rel. No. 70-C (June 24, 1982, as revised).

Multijurisdictional Disclosure System (MJDS). California accommodates the MJDS through qualification by coordination, and with a waiver of the normal ten day review period in favor of the MJDS seven day period provided that the application in California is filed on the same day as the SEC filing. An MJDS application for qualification may be made on Form U-1, but will be granted expedited review only if clearly identified as an MJDS application.

Qualification of Small Corporate Offerings (Cal. Codes § 25113(b)(2)). Small company applicants in California may utilize Form U-7, the Small Corporate Offering Registration (SCOR) form for qualification of an offering by permit. The total offering of voting common stock and preferred stock by an applicant is limited to $1 million during a 12 month period, adjusted by the amounts, if any, of securities offered in certain exempt transactions under the Securities Act of 1933. A qualifying small company offering is subject to a minimum offering price per share, and the applicant must also undertake that there will be no stock splits, stock dividends, spinoffs or mergers for a period of two years from the close of the offering except as may be authorized by the Commissioner. The net proceeds of the offering must be expended in the operations of the business.

Application Fees:

Qualification by Coordination: $200 plus one-fifth of one per cent of the aggregate value of securities being offered, but subject to a maximum fee of $2500.

Qualification by Notification: $200 plus one-fifth of one per cent of the aggregate value of securities being offered, but subject to a maximum fee of $2500.

Non-issuer Qualification by Notification: $100.

Qualification by Permit: $200 plus one-fifth of one per cent of the aggregate value of securities being offered, but subject to a maximum fee of $2500. For an application for qualification by permit in a recapitalization or reorganization:

- For any change in the rights, preferences, privileges or restrictions of or on outstanding securities: $200.
- For an exchange of securities by an issuer with its existing security holders exclusively, or in an exchange in connection with a merger, consolidation or purchase of assets in consideration of the issuance of securities: $200 plus one-fifth of one per cent of the value as alleged in the application or the actual value as determined by the Commissioner of the consideration to be received in exchange, but subject to a maximum fee of $2500.

Small Company Qualification by Permit: $2500, subject to an additional fee of up to $1000 to cover actual costs of processing the application that exceed the base application fee.

Amendment to an Application after Effective Date of Qualification: $50 plus any additional fee that would have been required for the original application if the matters set forth in the amendment had been included in the original application.

The California policy on the use of the Internet by broker-dealers and investment advisers for the dissemination of information on products and services is discussed in Part V below.

(n2)Footnote 2. The procedure for automatic effectiveness of a qualification for an open-ended investment company or a unit investment trust which has previously qualified the sale of securities is slightly different, turning primarily on submission of a statement of no material changes in the offering, see Cal. Codes § 25111(d).

(n3)Footnote 3. A "non-issuer transaction" means any transaction not directly or indirectly for the benefit of the issuer. A transaction is indirectly for the benefit of the issuer if any portion of the proceeds will be received indirectly by the issuer, see Cal. Code § 25011.

- Limited Offering Exemption. An offering involving sales to no more than 35 purchasers who meet certain requirements and who purchase for their own accounts without a view to distribution is exempt. Certain purchasers are excluded from the count, including any person who meets "accredited investor" criteria as set forth in Regulation D under the federal Securities Act of 1933. There are limitations on the manner of the offering, and a notice filing requirement is included by rule. (Cal. Codes § 25102(f); Rules 260.102.12-.14)

- Qualified Purchaser Exemption. Offers and sales only to "qualified purchasers" as defined under NSMIA, or in transactions otherwise exempt by NSMIA from registration under the federal Securities Act of 1933, but subject to notice filing and fee requirements. Cal. Codes § 25102.1(a), (c), (d).

Restrictions include no advertising or selling expenses, they type of consideration paid for the stock, no intent to distribute, and a prescribed notice filing and fee requirement. Cal Codes § 25102(h).

The filing fee for an SEC Rule 506 offering is $150.

§ V. Intermediary Licensing/Registration

(California Codes §§ 25200-25403)

A. Securities Broker-Dealers. Unless exempted, any person who transacts business in the state as a broker-dealer or agent must be licensed under the Corporate Securities Law.ⁿ¹ For purposes of the California licensing ("certificate") provisions, broker-dealer means any person engaged in the business of effecting transactions in securities in the state for the account of others or for his/her own account. Broker-dealer does not include: (a) any other issuer; (b) an agent employed by a broker-dealer or issuer; (c) a bank, trust company or savings and loan association; or (d) any person insofar as he or she buys or sells securities for his or her own account, either individually or in some fiduciary capacity, but not as part of a regular business; (e) a person who has no place of business in the state and who effects transactions exclusively with (1) issuers of the securities involved in the transactions or (2) other broker-dealers; (f) a licensed real estate broker engaged in the sale of certain exempt securities; and (g) an exchange certified by the Commissioner when it is issuing or guaranteeing options.

Exemptions from broker-dealer licensing requirements. The following broker-dealers are exempt from licensing in California:

- A broker-dealer registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, having no place of business in California, and who does not direct offers to sell or buy into the state in any manner to persons other than broker-dealers, banks, savings and loan associations, trust companies, insurance companies, registered investment companies, pension or profit-sharing trusts, or other institutional investors or government agencies designated by rule, or to more than 15 other customers having an existing account with the broker-dealer prior to any offer made to them in the state, during any period of 12 consecutive months.
- A person whose only clients are insurance companies.
- A real estate broker licensed by the state Real Estate Commissioner, when engaged in transactions in any general or limited partnership, joint venture, unincorporated association, or similar organization (but not a corporation) owned beneficially by no more than 100 persons and formed for the sole purpose of, and engaged solely in, investment in an interest in real property.

3-06CA Blue Sky Regulation § V

(Rule 260.204.1)

- A financial institution which undertakes activities with respect to the operation of an investment company.

- Persons who effect securities transactions only in connection with mergers, consolidations or purchase of corporate assets, and who does not receive, transmit or hold for customers any funds or securities in connection with such transactions. (Rule 260.204.5)

- Certain licensed lenders. (Rule 260.204.6)

- A Canadian broker-dealer registered in good standing in the Canadian jurisdiction from which it is effecting transactions, and which is a member of a Canadian stock exchange or self-regulatory organization, with no office or physical presence in the state, who (a) effects transactions for Canadian residents temporarily resident in or visiting the state, with whom the Canadian broker-dealer had a bona fide client relationship before the Canadian resident entered the United States; or (b) effects transactions for a Canadian retirement account of which the holder or contributor is a permanent or temporary resident or visitor in the state. (Rule 260.204.10)

- A person licensed as a capital access company when engaged in the transaction of business pursuant to the requirements of the Capital Access Company Law and regulations.

A broker-dealer registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, and who is a member of a designated securities exchange or the NASD, and who has not had a certificate previously revoked or denied, may be licensed in California by "notification." A form of application by notification is prescribed by rule (Rule 260.211.1(b)). An application for broker-dealer licensing other than by notification is made on Form BD-the Uniform Application for Broker-Dealer Registration. Instructions for filing in California are prescribed by rule (Rule 260.211(b)). Unless a denial proceeding is initiated by the Commissioner, an application for licensing becomes effective on the third business day after the application is filed, or on the day a certificate is issued, whichever comes first. The Commissioner may delay the effectiveness of an application for up to 15 days (or longer by consent of the applicant) if the delay is necessary to determine whether a denial proceeding should be instituted.

Further requirements for all broker-dealer licenses include:

Minimum net capital. The applicable minimum net capital is that set by SEC Rule 15c3-1 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (Rule 260.216.12).n2

Broker-dealers and their compliance supervisors must pass either the Uniform Securities Agent State Law Examination (Series 63) or the Uniform Combined Law Examination (Series 66), in addition to whatever further examination may be required for principals and other associated persons of a firm by any self-regulatory organization of which the broker-dealer is a member.

3-06CA Blue Sky Regulation § V

B. Agents. "Agent" means any individual other than a dealer or a partner of a broker-dealer, who represents a broker-dealer or who, for compensation, represents an issuer in effecting or attempting to effect purchases or sales of securities in the state. The definition of agent in California does not include any of the following:

An individual who only represents an issuer in effecting transactions in exempt securities or in exempt transactions.

An individual who has no place of business in the state if he or she effects transactions in the state exclusively with broker-dealers.

An associated person of a broker or dealer effecting de minimis transactions in accordance with § 15(h)(2) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, namely, transactions by an associated person or broker-dealer registered in another state on behalf of an existing customer present in California for less than 30 days.

An officer or director of a broker-dealer or issuer, or a person occupying a similar status or performing similar functions who does not receive compensation specifically related to purchases and sales of securities.

A licensed "life agent" of an issuer selling viatical settlement contracts in transactions qualified for the applicable exemption.

Applications for licensing ("certificate") as a broker-dealer or agent in California are made by means of Form BD and Form U-4, respectively. Form BD is subject to separate instructions in California that prescribe certain additional categories of information, and modify that part of Form BD which requires certain criminal history disclosures, see Rule 260.211(b). Additional information required includes certain financial information, net capital computation, fingerprint cards and other exhibits. For broker-dealers eligible to use the Central Registration Depository system, application filings for agents on Form U-4 may be submitted through that system. However, no agent application is effective until specifically approved by the Commissioner, who may request submission of additional documentation or information in connection with the application.

Agents are subject to qualification requirements. Each agent applicant must, within two years prior to making the application, have passed the Series 63 (Uniform Securities Agent State Law Examination) or the Series 66 (Uniform Combined State Law Examination). Dual employment of an agent is permitted in California provided certain conditions are satisfied and required notice is given to the Commissioner. Rule 260.216.16.

Applications for broker-dealer and agent licensing are reviewed in accordance with conduct standards, and once licensed broker-dealers and agents are subject to numerous conduct rules adopted under a general prohibition against manipulative, deceptive, or other fraudulent schemes, devices or contrivances or as independent conduct rules, as, for example, rules relating to suitability of recommendations. As a general standard applicable to all broker-dealers and agents, California mandates that each must observe high standards of commercial honor and just and equitable principles of trade in the conduct of business.

Other requirements applicable to broker-dealers in California include:

Record keeping requirements (Rule 260.241). Every broker-dealer must make, maintain, and preserve books and records in compliance with U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission Rules 15c2-11 (17 C.F.R. 240.15c2-11), 15g-2(c) (17 C.F.R. 240.15g-2(c)), 15g-4(b)(2) (17 C.F.R. 240.15g-4(b)(2)), 15g-5(b)(2) (17 C.F.R. 240.15g-5(b)(2)), 15g-6(f) (17 C.F.R. 240.15g-6(f)), 17a-3 (17 C.F.R. 240.17a-3), and 17a-4 (17 C.F.R. 240.17a-4), all of which are incorporated by reference.

- Specific record keeping requirements (Rule 260.218.5).

3-06CA Blue Sky Regulation § V

- On-going compliance with reserve and custody of security requirements (Rule 260.216.12.1).
- Disclosure of compensation from financial planning activities.
- Timely amendments to Forms BD or U-4 when there are changes to the information contained in the original forms.
- Special filing requirements for terminations of agents by a broker-dealer for cause.
- Usury restrictions on margin loans.

Broker-dealers are also obligated to exercise diligent supervision over the securities activities of agents, and must establish, maintain and enforce written supervisory procedures designed to comply with specified duties, and records of which must be maintained as part of general record-keeping requirements (Rule 260.218.4).

Use of the Internet. California has adopted a modified version of the NASAA "Interpretive Order Concerning Broker-Dealers, Investment Advisers, Broker-Dealer Agents and Investment Adviser Representatives Using the Internet for General Dissemination of Information on Products and Services." Comm. Rel No. 107-C (Aug. 19, 1997). Use of the Internet by these intermediaries does not constitute "transacting business" in the state if specific conditions are met, including:

- A written legend requirement on the Internet communication disclosing that the intermediary may only transact business in a particular state after licensure or satisfying qualification requirements, unless excluded or exempted, and that individualized follow-up responses may not be made without the intermediary first complying the state's licensing requirements, or pursuant to an applicable exemption.
- The Internet communication contains a "firewall" or other mechanism designed to ensure that prior to any subsequent direct communication with prospective customers or clients the intermediary is first licensed in the state or has an available exemption.
- The Internet communication is limited to the dissemination of general information on products and services, and does not involve either effecting or attempting to effect transactions or the rendering of personalized investment advice for compensation in the state.

Advertising Generally. The Corporate Securities Act requires that a copy of any advertisement to be published in the state concerning any security sold or offered for sale must be filed with the Commissioner at least three days prior to publication. Certain advertisements are excluded, including those published by a licensed broker-dealer who is not effecting transactions in the security as an underwriter or other participant in a distribution for the issuer (Cal. Codes § 25300).

Broker-Dealer and Agent Filing Fees: The application and annual fee for licensing as a dealer in California is $300, and $25 for each agent (plus reimbursement of the processing fee for applicant fingerprints).

C. Investment Advisers/Investment Adviser Representatives. California has adopted the federal definition (and exclusions) of investment adviser as any person who, for compensation, engages in the business of advising others, either directly or through publications or writings, as to the value of securities or as to the advisability of investing in, purchasing or selling securities. Cal. Codes § 25009. By rule, California also exempts the following persons from licensing requirements:

- (1) Any person who does not hold itself out generally to the public as an investment adviser;

3-06CA Blue Sky Regulation § V

- (2) Has fewer than 15 clients;
- (3) Is exempt from federal registration; and
- (4) Either has assets under management of at least $25 million, or provides investment advice solely to qualifying venture capital companies. (Rule 260.204.9)

Otherwise, any person, other than a federal covered adviser, who transacts business as an investment adviser must be licensed under the Corporate Securities Law unless the adviser has no place of business in the state, and during the preceding twelve months had no more than six non-institutional clients who are residents of the state. The "client" definition used in this provision excludes advisers who, for example, provide investment advice only to investment companies registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940, banks and other financial institutions, and other institutional investors. Cal. Codes § 25202.

A federal covered adviser is subject to notice filing requirements in California if the adviser has more than six non-institutional clients. Federal covered advisers subject to notice filing must file an annual report with the Commissioner comprised of SEC-filed documents, and payment of a fee. Cal. Codes § 25230.1.

Financial Planners. In California, the definition of investment adviser also expressly includes an person who uses the title "financial planner," and who, for compensation, engages in the business, whether principally or as part of another business, of advising others in regard to securities, or who publishes analyses or reports regarding securities. The same exclusions and exemptions that apply generally to the definition of investment adviser are incorporated into the "financial planner" provision as well. Cal. Codes § 25009(b). Specific disclosure requirements related to compensation for financial planning³ are applicable to all advisers and associated persons (Rule 260.235.2).

Investment adviser representatives subject to licensing in California include any individual who is a principal or associated person of an adviser subject to supervision and control of the adviser, and who engages in any of the following activities:

- Makes any recommendations or otherwise renders advice regarding securities.
- Manages accounts or portfolios of clients.
- Determines which recommendations or advice regarding securities should be given.
- Solicits, offers, or negotiates for the sale or sells investment advisory services.
- Supervises employees or perform any of the foregoing. Cal. Codes § 25009.5.

Investment adviser representatives of federal covered advisers are subject to licensing in California regardless of the exempt status of the adviser itself if the investment adviser representative maintains a place of business in the state. Comm. Rel. No. 105-C (July 3, 1997).

Investment Adviser and Investment Adviser Representative licensing applications are subjected to the same standards and criteria for review as apply to broker-dealers and agents. Application requirements for investment advisers include:

- Filing Form ADV (modified in regard to criminal background, and to include certain additional information),ⁿ⁴ and a complete, current Form U-4 for each investment adviser representative. Both may be filed through the Investment Adviser Registration Depository system (IARD) by participating applicants, except that Part II of Form ADV must be filed directly with the Commissioner;

- Subject to some exemptions, proof of compliance with written examination requirements or certain professional qualification requirements (Rule 260.236);
- Such financial reports or information that may be required; and
- Applicable fee(s).

Capital Requirements. For investment advisers who have custody of their clients' funds (including prepaid fees) or securities, or who have any power-of-attorney or trading authority from an advisory client to execute transactions, must meet certain capital requirements. Such an adviser may not permit its total aggregate indebtedness to exceed 500% of its tangible net capital, or permit its current aggregate indebtedness to exceed its current net capital, and must maintain net capital as follows:

- Tangible net capital of not less than $25,000; or
- For advisers that have power-of-attorney or trading authority, but that do not have regular or periodic custody or possession of client funds or securities, but receive prepaid subscriptions or fees, tangible net capital of at least $5000; or
- For advisers that receive fees for periodic publications or services paid six months or more in advance, but that do not have any trading authority and do not otherwise have possession or custody of client funds or assets, tangible net capital of at least $1000.

There is no bonding requirement applicable to investment advisers or investment adviser representatives, although the Commissioner has the statutory authority to establish a fidelity bond requirement by rule for those advisers having custody of client funds or securities, or who have trading authority.

All Investment advisers in California are subject to books and records requirements that generally track the requirements imposed on federal covered advisers under SEC Rule 204-2 under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940. Books and records maintained by advisers are subject to periodic inspections by the Commissioner. Investment advisers are also subject to annual report requirements that include submission of a statement of financial condition with specific supporting schedules (Rule 260.241.2). Financial statements must be audited if the adviser has held or accepted custody of client funds or securities, or has owed money or securities to any client during the covered period and has acted under a general power-of-attorney or trading authorization.

Investment advisers are generally bound to conduct their activities in accordance with fair, equitable and ethical principles (Rule 260.238). Numerous acts and practices are identified as contrary to that standard, or as violations of the general antifraud provision applicable to advisers. Specific prohibitions include a bar against compensation based on capital gains, except in certain circumstances. There is a suitability requirement specifically applicable to advisers.

In California, investment advisers and investment adviser representatives are subject to specific financial and disciplinary information disclosure requirements (Rule 260.235.4), such that use Part II of Form ADV or its equivalent must be provided to advisory clients and prospective clients. Also, advertising materials by investment advisers that contain particular types of information are prohibited (Rule 260.235), and advertising material generally is subject to the same provisions for filing, and to the same standards, that are applicable to broker-dealers.

Investment Adviser and Representative Filing Fees: The fee for initial or annual renewal registration of an investment adviser is $125, and $25 for each investment adviser representative. For federal covered advisers making notice filings the fee is also $125, and $25.00 for each investment adviser representative.

3-06CA Blue Sky Regulation § VI

§ VI. Administration and Enforcement

A. Legislative and Rulemaking Developments.

1. In September 2008, California enacted section 25243.5 to the Corporations Code, to adopt the NASAA Model Rule on the use of senior-specific certifications and designations. The law prohibits a broker-dealer or investment adviser, or an agent or representative thereof, except as specified, from using a senior-specific certification, credential, or professional designation indicating or implying that he or she has a special certification or training in advising or servicing senior citizens or retirees in such a way as to mislead any person. The provision becomes effective on July 1, 2009.

2. Compensatory Benefit Plan Rules: Rule(s): 260.140.8, 260.140.41, 260.140.42, 260.140.45, and 260.140.46 governing the qualification and exemption of securities issued in connection with compensatory benefit plans have been amended. Among other things, SEC Rule 701 plans or agreements that intend to utilize the exemption in Corporations Code section 25102(o) will no longer be subject to restrictions on repurchase rights. Other changes allow companies greater flexibility in setting the total number of securities that may be issued under plans, and add flexibility in determining the appropriate exercise price of securities covered by options. Changes became effective on July 9, 2007.

C. Precedent Decisions.

The Department of Corporations has designated the following matters as "precedent" decisions in connection with application and enforcement of the Corporate Securities Law:

(1) In re American Equity Investment Life Ins. Co., et al., Agency Case No. 38300, OAH No. N2004080527 (Dec. 14, 2004). Desist and refrain order against unregistered investment advisers from advising people to sell securities in order to buy annuities. Individual Respondents were agents of American Equity, and as agents, they encouraged and facilitated the sale of securities to fund annuities. They gave "advice" to sell securities, and engaged in advising seniors regarding investing.

(2) Commissioner v. FairShare, Karl M. Sjogren and John G. Wilson, OAH No. N 19981 10288 (Dept. Corp. Jan. 26, 1999). "Membership" interests in an Internet based operation established to assist start-up and emerging companies raise venture capital through a large number of small investors are securities. Individuals participated in FairShare at different membership levels and, though financial incentives, were encouraged to solicit new members. A key element of FairShare services was the screening and selection of investment opportunities, and members were induced to become members as a means of realizing high returns on venture capital investments. The Administrative Law Judge concluded that membership interests in FairShare were securities under both investment contract and risk capital tests. FairShare created an expectation of profit from investments into start-up companies, an opportunity made available exclusively to members. Membership fees were a necessary part of, and coupled to, the ability of an individual to participate in the larger scheme of making capital investments in new business ventures. Members were dependent on FairShare services, including promotion, screening, due diligence of start-up companies, negotiation of pricing and share allotments, and marketing of new securities to members on exclusive and favorable terms.

(3) In re Internet & Web Services Corp., et al., OAH No. L1998 060195 (Dept. Corp. Sept. 28, 1998). Desist and Refrain Order issued against respondents who created a web site mall and engaged in the offer and sale of securities in the form of investment contracts. Respondents developed "1 World Center" as an Internet shopping location where numerous stores were available. Prospective store "purchasers" were solicited through promotional materials that emphasized the opportunity to establish a successful retailing business with minimal effort and in reliance on the ability of the respondents to set up a "store" and to manage it for the purchaser. The Administrative Law Judge concluded that the web site stores promoted and sold by the respondents were securities under investment contract analysis. The efforts of the promoters in setting up and operating the sites were undeniably significant and essential in the failure or success of the enterprise. The stores were promoted as investments requiring minimal equipment, knowledge and effort. The web site store scheme, on its face and as promoted, constitutes they type of transaction the securities law intends to oversee in order to protect the public. Purchasers were attracted solely by the prospect and promise of significant financial return on their substantial investment.

D. Administrative Fines or Assessment Authority.

Administrative Penalties. Under the Corporate Securities Law, the Commissioner may impose civil money penalties not exceeding $2,500 for each violation, or in the case of a continuing violation, $2,500 for each day for which the violation continues. Cal. Corp. Code § 28900. Additionally, the Commissioner is authorized to seek the imposition of a money penalty not exceeding $25,000 for each violation through a civil action brought in any court of competent jurisdiction. Cal. Corp. Code § 25535.

E. Ancillary Remedies.

The Law expressly empowers the Commissioner to seek the appointment of conservators, receivers or other fiduciaries as part of a civil injunctive action brought in the Superior Court.

3-06CA Blue Sky Regulation § VII

§ VII. Civil Liability/Private Remedies

(Cal. Codes §§ 25500-25510)

Subject to time limits, the Corporate Securities Law establishes several private rights of action as follows:

- A purchaser or seller of a security at a price that was affected by any act or transaction in violation of market-directed antifraud provisions may sue any person who willfully participates in such acts or transactions to recover damages representing the difference between the price paid or received for the security and the market value which the security would have had at the time of the purchase or sale in the absence of the violation, plus interest.
- A purchaser or seller of a security in a transaction involving any false or misleading written or oral communication may sue any violator for rescission or damages as a rescission equivalent. A reasonable care defense is available to a defendant, and there is a tender requirement for rescission.
- A purchaser of a security in a transaction that violates the qualification provisions of the Law may sue for rescission or damages as a rescission equivalent, plus interest. Subject to limitation, liability under this provision extends to underwriters.
- A person who purchases or sells any security while in possession of material non-public information about the issuer is, under circumstances in which the person knows the information is non-public and material, liable to the person to whom the security is sold or from whom it is purchased. The violator is liable for damages representing the difference between the price at which the security was purchased or sold and the market value which it would have had if the information had been known at the time of the transaction, plus interest, but subject to certain defenses.
- A person who trades on the basis of material, non-public information is liable to the issuer of the security in an amount up to three times the difference between the price at which the security was purchased or sold and the market value which the security would have had at the time of the transaction if the information had been publicly disclosed. This action may be brought derivatively in the right of the issuer, and the award may include costs and attorneys' fees. There are certain conditions and limitations on the availability of the action.

The private civil remedies of the California Corporate Securities Law also impose joint and several liability on controlling persons and other persons who materially aid in the commission of violations. A separate, specific, provision addresses the liability of professional persons named by consent in an offering circular or prospectus as having prepared or certified any part of the document or material distributed with it. Due diligence defenses are provided.

Amounts in the COLLECTIONS ACCOUNT may be transferred to an OPERATING ACCOUNT for reinvestment and the payment of ALLOWED EXPENSES or directly to a TRUST ACCOUNT for distribution to SECURITY HOLDERS.

D. Multiple Offerings

For other than ASSET-BACKED SECURITIES with an INVESTMENT GRADE rating, if the ADMINISTRATOR deems it appropriate, the ADMINISTRATOR may delay the registration of ASSET-BACKED SECURITIES of another SPECIAL PURPOSE ENTITY formed by the SPONSOR to purchase similar ELIGIBLE ASSETS until:

1. the offering of the ASSET-BACKED SECURITIES is completed; and
2. 75% of the proceeds of the offering have been invested, or committed to investment, in ELIGIBLE ASSETS.

E. Other AFFILIATED Transactions

For other than ASSET-BACKED SECURITIES with an INVESTMENT GRADE rating, the TRUST AGREEMENT shall provide that all transactions between the ISSUER and the SPONSOR or the SERVICER or their AFFILIATES will be on terms no less favorable to the ISSUER than could be obtained from a NONAFFILIATED entity in an arms length transaction.

IX. DISCLOSURE AND MARKETING

A. Sales Material

Sales Material, including without limitation: books, pamphlets, movies, slides, article reprints, television and radio commercials, materials prepared for broker-dealer use only, sales presentation's (including prepared presentations to prospective SECURITY HOLDERS at group meetings) and all other advertising used in the offer or sale of ASSET-BACKED, SECURITIES shall conform to filing, disclosure and adequacy requirements under all applicable state regulations. 5.

The state administrator has not reviewed the disclosure.

In addition to the legend, the cover page of the disclosure documents must include a statement that the investor may be required to hold the investment for an indefinite period of time, that other important risk factors are explained in detail in this document, and that the nature of the offering's risk requires that investors meet minimum asset/income conditions.

If the state securities administrator has statutory authority, the administrator may, by rule or order, extend the legend and statement requirement in this part C to appear on the cover of disclosure documents used in securities offerings not subject to a notice filing under state securities laws, and exempt from registration with the SEC.

Adopted April 17, 1994; Amended April 18, 2004

I.

INTRODUCTION. The North American Securities Administrators Association, Inc. ("NASAA") has determined that the following Statement of Policy ("SOP") for offerings of CHURCH EXTENSION FUND ("CEF") securities is consistent with public INVESTOR protection and is in the public interest. Under this SOP, the term "Church" includes worship facilities or religious organizations identified by other terms such as "Synagogue", "Mosque" or "Parish". Other terms are defined under I.B. and capitalized throughout this SOP.

A.Application.

The standards contained in this SOP apply to the offer and sale of NOTES issued by a CEF, the proceeds of which primarily finance or refinance the purchase, construction or improvement of church property and/or buildings or related capital expenditures or the operational needs of various affiliated churches and related religious organizations of a DENOMINATION.

2.

It is intended that this SOP may be applied by an ADMINISTRATOR in any STATE, whether required as a condition for exemption from securities registration or for registration of the NOTES. The ADMINISTRATOR may also allow or require this SOP to be applied by analogy to similar loan funds of NOT-FOR-PROFIT ORGANIZATIONS other than CEFs or religious organizations.

3.

Registration or exemption of NOTES may be denied or disallowed by the ADMINISTRATOR if a proposed offering of NOTES does not sufficiently comply with standards under this SOP. The ADMINISTRATOR may allow waivers or exceptions from certain standards under this SOP, if good cause is shown, or may require different or additional standards based on provisions of statutes or regulations of a STATE.

4.

This SOP is not applicable to single project financing by individual churches or congregations, which is the subject of a separate Statement of Policy Regarding Church Bonds that was adopted by the North American Securities Administrators Association, Inc. on April 14, 2002.

COMMENT:

General obligation financing by a CEF is different in its purposes and operation than the one-time offering of Church Bonds by an individual church or congregation to finance the construction of a single, specific church building or other related capital improvements, in which all of the securities are repaid within a set period of time. CEF NOTES are sold for various terms and at varying interest rates and the offerings are normally continuous in nature to provide an ongoing source of financing to the various affiliated churches and related organizations. In order to maintain the CEF as a permanent resource for the affiliated churches and related organizations, repayments of principal on loans made by the CEF are continuously reinvested in new loans to affiliated churches and related organizations.

A CEF should be a single purpose organization or fund with most of its activities related to raising and managing funds for the purpose of making capital loans to its affiliated churches and related organizations, and it should either be incorporated and operated separately from the DENOMINATION and its affiliated churches and related organizations, or its accounting records should be maintained separately. Assets of the CEF should be used primarily for the purpose of financing building projects or property acquisitions for affiliated churches and related organizations. If the CEF is a separately incorporated entity, it normally is not liable for any debts arising from other unrelated activities or programs of the DENOMINATION or its affiliated churches and related organizations.

The primary indebtedness of CEFs is the outstanding NOTES. A significant number of INVESTORS reinvest with the CEF when their NOTES mature. Due to the continuous nature of the offerings and the fact that the funds are not designated for specific capital projects, special repayment provisions, including a sinking fund or trust indenture, for the purpose of making payments on principal or interest due on NOTES, are normally unnecessary and inappropriate.

STATE--A state, commonwealth, province or similar jurisdiction in the United States, Canada, Puerto Rico or Mexico.

COMMENT:

Although DENOMINATIONAL ACCOUNTS are not included under the definition of NOTES above, a CEF should determine and comply with registration or exemption provisions of securities laws in all STATES where such obligations are held by affiliated organizations of the DENOMINATION.

II.QUALIFICATION, LICENSING AND MARKETING REQUIREMENTS*A.*Qualification Requirements.

An ISSUER shall take all steps required under applicable STATE securities laws to insure compliance with the registration or exemption provisions in all STATES in which it intends to offer and sell NOTES. Filing, procedural and review requirements will vary among the STATES. A CEF shall file such forms and pay such fees and comply with the filing, procedural and review requirements to achieve qualification for the offer and sale of its NOTES in each STATE, whether by registration, exemption or otherwise, as determined by that STATE's securities laws, rules and regulations.

COMMENT:

The NOTES should be exempt from federal registration pursuant to Section 3(a) (4) of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. Many STATES have adopted laws based upon the Uniform Securities Act, which contains an exemption from registration for the NOTES that is similar to the exemption contained in the Securities Act of 1933. There are certain STATES, however, which do not exempt the NOTES from registration. Furthermore, several other STATES provide an exemption from registration but require notice filings or administrative approval before the exemption is available.

B.No Fees and Commission.

The NOTES shall be offered and sold without the payment of any direct or indirect underwriting, sales or similar fees or commissions.

C.Licensing Requirements.

General Policy.

An ISSUER shall comply with the applicable broker-dealer and agent licensing requirements in each STATE in which it offers or sells NOTES. Therefore, it is necessary to check with the ADMINISTRATOR in each STATE where the NOTES will be offered to determine whether registration or licenser is required.

Waiver.

If a STATE's securities laws or regulations allow, the ADMINISTRATOR may consider waiving:

a.

Testing requirements;

b.

Broker-dealer registration requirements for the ISSUER; and/or

c.

Agent registration requirements for any individual who represents the CEF with respect to its offer or sale of NOTES if that individual is not compensated in connection with the individual's participation by the payment of commissions or other remuneration based, directly or indirectly, on transactions in the NOTES.

COMMENT:

When an ADMINISTRATOR considers waiving certain registration and testing requirements, the following factors may be considered: agents normally are officers, directors, or employees of the CEF; the offer and sale of the NOTES are to a limited class of INVESTORS and not to the general public; the communications with prospective INVESTORS by the Agents normally are accomplished at the offices of the CEF through delivery of the OFFERING CIRCULAR and other written communications by means of the U.S. mails, the Internet or through verbal communications. In connection with any such waiver, an ADMINISTRATOR may collect such fees as are appropriate and required and shall require such affidavits or documents as are deemed appropriate and necessary.

D.Limited Class of INVESTORS.

The NOTES shall be sold to a limited class of INVESTORS. The ISSUER shall specify a limited class of INVESTORS that is consistent with its operations and is compatible with the mission, structure, organization and theology of its DENOMINATION. A suggested form of limited class of INVESTORS is:

PERSONs who are, prior to the receipt of the OFFERING CIRCULAR, members of, contributors to (including previous INVESTORS), or participants in the DENOMINATION, the CEF or in any program, activity or organization which constitutes a part of the DENOMINATION or the CEF, or in other religious organizations that have a programmatic relationship with the DENOMINATION or the CEF.

COMMENT:

It is recognized that the concept of "membership" or similar affiliation within the various DENOMINATIONs involves various church structure, organizational and/or theological concepts with which federal and STATE governmental entities cannot and should not interfere. CEFs should direct their offering efforts to PERSONs who have some reasonable association or affiliation with the CEF, its affiliated DENOMINATION or its religious programs.

E.ADVERTISING.*1.

General Standards.

An ISSUER may use ADVERTISING that complies with the following standards:

a.

ADVERTISING shall set forth a statement to the following effect: This is not an offer to sell our securities to you and we are not soliciting you to buy our securities. We will offer and sell our securities only in STATES where authorized. The offering is made solely by our OFFERING CIRCULAR.

b.

ADVERTISING shall not set forth statements, data or information that:

i.

Are materially inconsistent with the statements, data or information set forth in the OFFERING CIRCULAR; or

ii.

When read in connection with the OFFERING CIRCULAR renders either the OFFERING CIRCULAR or ADVERTISING materially misleading; or

iii.

Emphasizes the religious aspect or any other aspect of the offering or ISSUER in a manner that is materially misleading.

2.

Filing.

Subject to the requirements of individual STATES,

a.

Proposed ADVERTISING shall be filed with the ADMINISTRATOR prior to use, except no filing is required for "Tombstone" advertisements with limited information about the ISSUER and proposed offering of NOTES. Such limited information may include: the name and address of the ISSUER; the amount and terms of the NOTES; the purpose of the offering; and the name, address and contact information for PERSONs who may be contacted regarding the offering. The limited "Tombstone" advertisement shall include a statement as required by I.E.1.a., and should also state that interested INVESTORS should request and carefully read the OFFERING CIRCULAR before making their investment decision.

b.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

ADVERTISING, filed pursuant to II.E.2.a. that is subsequently materially changed or modified during the applicable offering period, except as provided in II.E.2.c., below, shall be filed with the ADMINISTRATOR prior to use. The changes and modifications shall be clearly marked, and the ADVERTISING changes and modifications shall comply with II.E.1.

c.

d.

If an advertisement will include interest rates and it is not possible to specify interest rates in advertisements prior to use of the advertisements, the interest rate information shall be filed concurrently with its use.

3.

Use of ADVERTISING.

a.

ADVERTISING shall not be directed at potential INVESTORS in a particular STATE before the proposed offering of NOTES has become registered or authorized for exemption, as applicable, in such STATE.

b.

ADVERTISING shall not be directed to PERSONS who are not or potentially may not be within the limited class of INVESTORS described in II.D.

c.

Subject to the requirements of individual STATES, national, regional or other multi-state publications or information provided by a DENOMINATION or its CEF may include ADVERTISING if the statement required by II.E.1.a. is included in such ADVERTISING.

III.

OPERATIONAL AND STRUCTURAL STANDARDS

A.Organization and Structure.

The CEF shall be a NOT-FOR-PROFIT ORGANIZATION, validly organized and existing under the laws of a STATE, that operates exclusively for religious, charitable or educational purposes and qualifies as an organization described in Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended.

B.Exempt from Federal Registration.

The NOTES offered and sold by a CEF should be exempt from registration pursuant to the provisions of Section 3 (a) (4) of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended.

C.General Obligation Securities.

The NOTES, which provide general obligation financing for the CEF, shall not be specifically secured by particular loans to specific borrowing entities.

2.

The proceeds from the NOTES may be deposited to a general fund or unrestricted account from which the CEF will make or complete commitments for loans primarily to churches and religious organizations affiliated with the DENOMINATION.

3.

If a material amount of assets, liabilities, revenues or expenses of the CEF are unrelated to CEF operations, appropriate disclosure shall be provided in the OFFERING CIRCULAR. The ADMINISTRATOR may require management of the ISSUER to explain or justify any material balances or transactions that are unrelated to operation of the CEF.

4.

In all cases there shall be a separate accounting for the operations, financial position and cash flows of the CEF.

D.

Limited SENIOR SECURED INDEBTEDNESS.

The amount of any SENIOR SECURED INDEBTEDNESS to which the NOTES are or will be subordinated shall not exceed ten percent (10%) of the tangible assets (total assets less intangible assets as defined by GAAP) of the CEF. To the extent that such subordination of the NOTES exists, appropriate disclosure shall be provided in the OFFERING CIRCULAR.

E.

Limit on Securitization of CEF Loan Portfolio.

A CEF may ordinarily securitize up to ten percent (10%) of its loan portfolio, if all of the following are met:

1.

The loans are securitized and sold on a non-recourse basis predominantly to entities not affiliated with the CEF;

2.

The proceeds from the sale of the securitized loans will be used to make additional loans to churches and other entities within the DENOMINATION; and 3.

The securitization will not hinder the ability of the CEF to repay the principal and interest on the NOTES when due.

The ADMINISTRATOR may allow a greater portion of the CEF's loan portfolio to be securitized if management of the CEF provides sufficient justifications based on the particular circumstances of the CEF.

COMMENT:

Reasonableness of the extent of securitization of a CEF's loan portfolio can vary in relation to several factors, including but not limited to: experience and expertise of CEF management personnel; the extent to which the CEF meets or exceeds the requirements of financial standards under IV.; and the loan policies of the CEF.

F.Management of the CEF.

One or more executive officers or other individuals engaged in the day to day management of the CEF shall have at least three years of relevant experience in lending and investment activities involving churches or similar organizations or otherwise must demonstrate sufficient knowledge and experience to manage loans, investments and operations of the CEF.

IV.FINANCIAL STANDARDS*A.*General.

An ISSUER shall not offer and sell more NOTES than it can reasonably expect to repay, when due, in the ordinary course of its operations. Although each offering must be viewed in the context of the individual facts and circumstances surrounding each ISSUER and its offering, the following are the financial standards which an ADMINISTRATOR may consider in reviewing a proposed offering.

2.

AUDITED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS of the ISSUER and/or the OFFERING CIRCULAR must disclose sufficient information to evaluate the extent of compliance with the standards in this section of the SOP. To facilitate review by the ADMINISTRATOR and INVESTORS, the OFFERING CIRCULAR should provide the financial information required by this section in a tabular or graphic presentation. An ISSUER may be deemed to have complied with certain standards in this section of the SOP even if it fails to meet one or more of the other standards at the time of any one offering period, if: the ISSUER complies with or exceeds the requirements of the remaining standards and the information and data furnished reflects the ability of the ISSUER to repay its NOTES and other debt obligations when due in the ordinary course of its operations.

B.Capital Adequacy.

At the end of its most recent fiscal year as reported in its AUDITED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS, the ISSUER's NET ASSETS shall be positive and equal to five percent (5%) or more of its total assets.

C.Liquidity Status.

At the end of its most recent fiscal year as reported in its AUDITED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS, the ISSUER's cash, cash equivalents, readily marketable securities and available lines of credit shall have a value of at least eight percent (8%) of the principal balance of its total outstanding NOTES, except that the value of available lines of credit for meeting this standard shall not exceed two percent (2%) of the principal balance of its total outstanding NOTES.

2.

Management of the CEF shall establish and administer investment policies that provide for reasonable and prudent diversification and preservation of its cash, cash equivalents and readily marketable securities for compliance with IV.C.1.

D.Cash Flow Performance.

For each of the ISSUER's three (3) most recent fiscal years as reported in its AUDITED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS, the coverage ratio of available cash as compared to cash redemptions of NOTES, exclusive of DENOMINATIONAL ACCOUNTS, shall be at least one to one (1:1). In determining the ISSUER's available cash, the following may be considered:

1.

Cash provided by its normal CEF operating activities as reported in its Statements of Cash Flows;

2.

Liquid assets (the total of cash, cash equivalents and readily marketable securities) at the beginning of its fiscal year;

3.

Loan principal repayments, less loan disbursements;

4.

Cash generated from the sale of NOTES, exclusive of DENOMINATIONAL ACCOUNTS, except to the extent that year-end redemptions exceed deposits to, or investments in, such DENOMINATIONAL ACCOUNTS during its fiscal year; and 5.

Funds from other sources.

COMMENT:

In determining the amount of the ISSUER's available cash, the ADMINISTRATOR also may consider any other source of immediately available funds, such as a line of credit or other source of credit with a bank or other financial institution.

E.

Loan Quality.

1.

LOAN DELINQUENCIES during the ISSUER's most recent fiscal year as reported in its AUDITED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS and disclosed in the OFFERING CIRCULAR shall not be excessive and shall be at such a level that the overall quality of its loan portfolio will allow the ISSUER:

a.

To maintain sufficient Capital Adequacy in compliance with IV.B.; and

b.

Receive the timely repayments of sufficient loan principal necessary to meet the liquidity and cash flow requirements as set forth in IV.C. and IV.D.

2.

When the LOAN DELINQUENCIES are material, the extent of the LOAN DELINQUENCIES and the quality of the ISSUER's loan portfolio should be explained and emphasized as a risk factor in the OFFERING CIRCULAR.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

If LOAN DELINQUENCIES exceed ten percent (10%) of the CEF's total loan portfolio and no risk factor is disclosed, the ADMINISTRATOR may require management of the ISSUER to provide information to demonstrate that its LOAN DELINQUENCIES do not represent a material risk based on historical trends of the CEF and management's ability to obtain satisfactory repayments of delinquent loans.

COMMENT:

A risk factor disclosure based on part 2 does not necessarily correct a deficiency under part 1 of this standard.

3.

Management of the CEF shall establish and administer lending policies that provide reasonable assurance of sufficient loan quality to prevent excessive LOAN DELINQUENCIES that could result in loan losses by the CEF. The provisions of lending policies, such as, but not limited to, requirements for appraisals of properties to be financed, financial statements of borrowers, and limits or criteria for loan to value ratios, debt-service ratios and geographic concentration of loans shall be disclosed in the OFFERING CIRCULAR.

A CEF's loan program shall be primarily secured. Unless a lower percentage is justified by management of the ISSUER, at least ninety percent (90%) of the CEF's outstanding loans shall be secured by real or personal property or guaranteed by third parties. In evaluating justifications provided by management of the ISSUER, the ADMINISTRATOR may take into account, in addition to the quantity of secured and unsecured loans, the CEF's compliance with the other financial standards in this section, history of repayments of unsecured loans, provision for loan losses and other factors relative to the CEF's loan program and financial strength. The ADMINISTRATOR may require management of the CEF to file information about the property securing loans or the ability of third parties to provide guarantees.

F.

Operating Trends.

The CHANGE IN NET ASSETS of the ISSUER, less any non-recurring or extraordinary items, for three (3) of the last five (5) fiscal years as reported in the AUDITED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS of the ISSUER shall be positive. The ADMINISTRATOR may limit or require justification of material non-monetary contributions to be included in the CHANGE IN NET ASSETS of the ISSUER.

G.

SEASONED ISSUER Compliance.

The ADMINISTRATOR may consider the ISSUER's status as a SEASONED ISSUER for evaluating compliance with the above financial standards in any given fiscal year, if the ISSUER can show that:

2.

The average of the relevant financial information for its five (5) most recent fiscal years reflects compliance with the financial standards; and 3.

Management of the ISSUER has taken appropriate action to correct or mitigate the circumstances that caused noncompliance and can demonstrate satisfactory plans or ability to meet the financial standards and repay NOTES in future years.

H.

Transition.

A CEF which has offered and sold NOTES prior to adoption of this SOP may continue to comply with the Capital Adequacy and Liquidity Status provisions in IV.B. and IV.C. of the NASAA Statement of Policy Regarding Guidelines for "General Obligation Financing by Religious Denominations", adopted April 17, 1994, based on information in its AUDITED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS for fiscal years ending before January 1, 2007. A CEF must comply with IV.B. and IV.C. of this SOP based on information in its AUDITED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS for fiscal years ending after January 1, 2007. The ADMINISTRATOR may allow a longer transition period if management of the ISSUER provides information to the ADMINISTRATOR which justifies a longer transition period.

A new CEF that begins operations after the date this SOP is adopted by NASAA shall comply with the capital adequacy and liquidity standards under IV.B. and IV.C. of this SOP, but the CEF will not be expected to completely comply with IV.D. and IV.F. that require several years of operations. The new CEF shall demonstrate compliance with subsections other than IV.B. and IV.C. based on its actual period of operations since inception as reported in its AUDITED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS.

V.ISSUANCE OF NOTES

An ISSUER that meets the standards of this SOP shall be entitled to offer and sell its NOTES under the following provisions.

A.

No Trust Indentures or Sinking Fund Required. Trust indentures or sinking funds shall not be required in connection with the NOTES.

B.Extension or Roll-Over After Notice.

NOTES, upon maturity, may be extended or rolled over under the expressed terms and conditions stated in the OFFERING CIRCULAR, if:

a.

Each INVESTOR is provided with written notification of the maturity and the proposed extension or rollover of the NOTES at least thirty (30) days prior to the NOTES' maturity dates and the ISSUER retains appropriate documentation as may be required by the ADMINISTRATOR to demonstrate mailing or delivery of the written notification; and

b.

Each INVESTOR is or has been provided with the ISSUER's most current OFFERING CIRCULAR.

2.

If the INVESTOR notifies the Issuer in writing on or prior to the maturity date that the INVESTOR elects not to extend or roll-over the NOTE, then at maturity, the ISSUER shall promptly repay the principal and interest accrued thereon.

C.

Compound Interest.

Interest payable on NOTES may be compounded for payment at maturity of the NOTES if accrued interest is included with redemption amounts for determining compliance with IV.D.

VI.OFFERING CIRCULAR

INVESTORS shall receive adequate material information in order to make informed investment decisions, and the ISSUER must provide INVESTORS with a complete OFFERING CIRCULAR prior to their purchase of NOTES.

The OFFERING CIRCULAR must be written in clearly understandable language and disclose all relevant and material information that affects or would affect a prospective INVESTOR's decision to purchase the NOTES. THE INFORMATION OUTLINED BELOW IS PROVIDED AS A GUIDE, BUT IS NOT INTENDED TO BE ALL-INCLUSIVE AND THE ISSUER MUST INCLUDE OTHER INFORMATION NOT SPECIFICALLY LISTED THAT WOULD BE IMPORTANT FOR AN INVESTOR'S UNDERSTANDING OF THE ISSUER AND THE NOTES.

Any material adverse changes in the financial condition of the ISSUER or material changes in other information in the OFFERING CIRCULAR during the offering period shall be promptly disclosed in an appropriate supplement, or an amendment to the OFFERING CIRCULAR, and shall be promptly filed with each ADMINISTRATOR.

The following information must be included in the OFFERING CIRCULAR unless the ISSUER can demonstrate to the ADMINISTRATOR that a particular type of information is not applicable or material to an understanding of the ISSUER or the NOTES. Disclosure of additional types of information not listed below may be requested by the ADMINISTRATOR.

Any legends that are required by applicable STATE laws, rules or regulations, or are deemed to be appropriate by the ADMINISTRATOR. The following are uniform model legends:

THESE SECURITIES MAY EITHER BE REGISTERED OR EXEMPT FROM REGISTRATION IN THE VARIOUS STATES OR JURISDICTIONS IN WHICH THEY ARE OFFERED OR SOLD BY THE ISSUER. THIS OFFERING CIRCULAR HAS BEEN FILED WITH THE SECURITIES ADMINISTRATORS IN SUCH STATES OR JURISDICTIONS THAT REQUIRE IT FOR REGISTRATION OR EXEMPTION.

THESE SECURITIES ARE ISSUED PURSUANT TO A CLAIM OF EXEMPTION FROM REGISTRATION UNDER SECTION 3(a)(4) OF THE FEDERAL SECURITIES ACT OF 1933. A REGISTRATION STATEMENT RELATING TO THESE SECURITIES HAS NOT BEEN FILED WITH THE UNITED STATES SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION.

THESE SECURITIES HAVE NOT BEEN RECOMMENDED BY ANY FEDERAL OR STATE SECURITIES COMMISSION OR REGULATORY AUTHORITY. FURTHERMORE, THE FOREGOING AUTHORITIES HAVE NOT DETERMINED THE ACCURACY, ADEQUACY, TRUTHFULNESS, OR COMPLETENESS OF THIS DOCUMENT AND HAVE NOT PASSED UPON THE MERIT OR VALUE OF THESE SECURITIES, OR APPROVED, DISAPPROVED OR ENDORSED THE OFFERING. ANY REPRESENTATION TO THE CONTRARY IS A CRIMINAL OFFENSE.

IN MAKING AN INVESTMENT DECISION, INVESTORS MUST RELY ON THEIR OWN EXAMINATION OF THE ISSUER AND THE TERMS OF THE OFFERING, INCLUDING THE DISCLOSURE, MERITS, AND RISKS INVOLVED.

THE NOTES ARE NOT SAVINGS OR DEPOSIT ACCOUNTS OR OTHER OBLIGATIONS OF A BANK AND ARE NOT INSURED BY THE FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION, ANY STATE BANK INSURANCE FUND OR ANY OTHER GOVERNMENTAL AGENCY. THE PAYMENT OF PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST TO AN INVESTOR IN THE NOTES IS DEPENDENT UPON THE ISSUER'S FINANCIAL CONDITION. ANY PROSPECTIVE INVESTOR IS ENTITLED TO REVIEW THE ISSUER'S FINANCIAL STATEMENTS, WHICH SHALL BE FURNISHED AT ANY TIME DURING BUSINESS HOURS UPON REQUEST. THE NOTES ARE NOT OBLIGATIONS OF, NOR GUARANTEED BY, [NAME OF DENOMINATION], OR BY ANY CHURCH, CONFERENCE, INSTITUTION OR AGENCY AFFILIATED WITH [NAME OF DENOMINATION].

NO PERSON HAS BEEN AUTHORIZED TO GIVE ANY INFORMATION OR TO MAKE ANY REPRESENTATION IN CONNECTION WITH THIS OFFERING OTHER THAN THOSE CONTAINED IN THIS OFFERING CIRCULAR, AND IF GIVEN OR MADE, SUCH INFORMATION OR REPRESENTATION MUST NOT BE RELIED ON AS HAVING BEEN MADE BY [NAME OF ISSUER].

Disclose any other state-specific limitations or conditions of sales to INVESTORS.

10.

An advisory disclosure such as the following should be included for consideration by INVESTORS:

INVESTORS ARE ENCOURAGED TO CONSIDER THE CONCEPT OF INVESTMENT DIVERSIFICATION WHEN DETERMINING THE AMOUNT OF NOTES THAT WOULD BE APPROPRIATE FOR THEM IN RELATION TO THEIR OVERALL INVESTMENT PORTFOLIO AND PERSONAL FINANCIAL NEEDS.

COMMENT:

An ISSUER may use a national OFFERING CIRCULAR in all STATES in which it offers and sells its securities. Disclosure of specific legends or other information may be required by various STATE laws, rules or ADMINISTRATORS. If there is insufficient space on the front side of the cover page of the OFFERING CIRCULAR for the information described in VI.A., or when otherwise appropriate, such information may be disclosed on the reverse side of the cover page or on additional pages immediately following the cover page of the OFFERING CIRCULAR.

B.

SUMMARY

A summary of narrative and financial information that highlights the key aspects and risks of the NOTES and the financial and operational characteristics of the ISSUER should be presented concisely in the OFFERING CIRCULAR following the cover page or risk factor section. The Summary section should include the disclosure of the ISSUER's proposed use of proceeds and a summary in tabular form of the financial data specified by VI.I.1. for the ISSUER's most recent fiscal year.

C.

RISK FACTORS

1.

Format and Use of Risk Factors.

a.

Risk factors should immediately follow the Cover or the Summary. Consistent with investor protection, a comprehensive listing of the material risks to the potential INVESTOR in the offering should be located at the forefront of the OFFERING CIRCULAR. Potential INVESTORS often focus on the forepart of the document. When comparing potential investment opportunities, consistency in format of complex disclosure documents further assists the INVESTOR.

b.

The Risk factor section is a list identifying the material risks associated with the offering. The risk factor section should not be a comprehensive discussion of the risks and counterbalancing considerations. Like the summary section, the risk factor section is a summary of the material disclosures that are discussed and analyzed in more detail in the appropriate, related sections of the body of the OFFERING CIRCULAR. Consistent with this purpose, most risk factors will not be comprehensive discussions of the issues. The risk factor section itself should be limited in length. In order to emphasize the nature of the disclosures as risks, no ameliorative statements should appear in the risk factors.

c.

The risk factors that identify risks the potential INVESTOR is likely to find most significant should appear at or close to the beginning of the list.

d.

A caption shall precede each risk factor and shall appear in off-set or emphasized type. As a listing of the material risks of the NOTES, captions should stand out to the eye of the reader. Italicized, bold-face, or underlined type assists the reader to quickly comprehend the scope and nature of the particular risk factors, and permits the reader to focus further on the risk factors of most interest to that reader. For the same reason, ISSUERS should avoid lengthy captions.

2.

Risk Factor Content.

a.

Each caption should succinctly identify the risky element of the factor. The caption should avoid the use of general, boiler-plate language. As a topic sentence to the factor, the caption can further streamline and shorten the factor.

b.

Specific cross-references point the reader to complete discussions of the issue. Risk factors should not merely repeat verbatim disclosure appearing elsewhere in the disclosure document. Where appropriate, the risk factor should be a two or three sentence summary with a cross reference to the discussion appearing elsewhere in the OFFERING CIRCULAR. In some cases, there may be no need to repeat the risk factor in the body of the OFFERING CIRCULAR. Potential INVESTORS often focus interest on disclosure that is of most interest to them, and cross-references assist the potential INVESTOR in locating this disclosure.

c.

Eliminate general, boiler-plate risk factors that could apply to any type of securities offering. Include only risks that are material to the particular offering, the particular ISSUER, or specific to NOTES.

3.

Specific Risk Factors for CEF NOTES.

The ISSUER must describe to the INVESTORS the risks of investing in the NOTES. Particular care must be taken with respect to risks associated with the financial condition of the ISSUER. Statements to the effect that little or no risk is involved in buying NOTES are prohibited, and such statements by most ISSUERS will be regarded as material misrepresentations. It is important that the ISSUER concisely describe all of the relevant and material risks. These risks could include, but are not limited to, explanations of any of the following risks, if applicable to the particular offering. The captions of those risk factors may be, but are not required to be, similar to the following:

a.

NOTES are unsecured general obligations of the ISSUER, and INVESTORS will be dependent solely upon the financial condition and operations of the ISSUER for repayment of principal and interest.

b.

No sinking fund or trust indenture has been or will be established to ensure or secure the repayment of NOTES.

c.

The NOTES are subordinate in ranking and priority in relation to the ISSUER's existing and anticipated future SENIOR SECURED INDEBTEDNESS (See III.D.).

d.

No public market exists for the NOTES and none will develop, and therefore, the transferability of the NOTES is limited and restricted.

e.

The recent negative changes or trends in the financial condition of the ISSUER and its operations may adversely affect the ISSUER's ability to make payments of principal and interest on the NOTES when due.

f.

The ISSUER's liquid assets invested in readily marketable securities are subject to various market risks which may result in losses if market values of investments decline.

g.

There are no income tax benefits with respect to investment in the NOTES and interest paid or payable on NOTES is taxed as ordinary income regardless of whether interest is received by the INVESTOR or retained and compounded by the ISSUER.

h.

The ISSUER's loans are made primarily to affiliated churches and related religious organizations, including local churches, whose ability to repay the loans depend primarily upon contributions that they receive from their members.

i.

The loan policies of the ISSUER for loans to its affiliated churches and its related religious organizations are less stringent than loan policies of commercial lenders.

j.

Future changes in federal or STATE laws may adversely affect the ISSUER's ability to continue to sell its NOTES.

k.

The ISSUER is involved in activities other than its CEF Operations.

l.

There are risks involved in specific transactions or arrangements, such as loan securitizations, undertaken or entered into by the CEF.

m.

There are risks related to geographic concentration of loans to affiliated churches or other related organizations within a limited region, such that changes in economic conditions of that region could affect the ability of the churches or organizations, as a group, to repay the loans.

n.

Risks of investment in the NOTES may be greater than implied by relatively low interest rates on the NOTES and the NOTES are not insured by any governmental agency or private insurance company.

Adopted April 25, 1993

I. INTRODUCTION. The North American Securities Administrators Association, Inc. ("NASAA") has determined that the following guideline relating to debt securities is consistent with public investor protection and is in the public interest. Nothing shall prevent the Securities Administrator ("Administrator") from applying different standards than those contained in this Statement of Policy.

II. DEFINITIONS. The following definitions shall apply to this Statement of Policy.

A.

ADJUSTED CASH FLOW is the Issuer's CASH FLOW adjusted on a pro forma basis to reflect:

The elimination of interest and fees on debt or debt securities and of cash dividends on preferred stock that are to be retired with the proceeds derived from the offering;

The effect of interest and fees on debt w debt securities or cash dividends paid after the Issuer's last fiscal year:

4.

The effect of any interest and fees on debt or debt securities and of cash dividends on preferred stock or common stock that were issued during the Issuer's last fiscal year, but which were outstanding for only a portion of such fiscal year, as if such debt, debt securities, preferred stock or common stock had been outstanding for the entire fiscal year;

5.

The effect of imputed or deferred charges of zero coupon debt or debt securities for the Issuer's last fiscal year and any additional charges on such debt or debt securities issued after the Issuer's last fiscal year;

6.

C.

An ASSOCIATE, when used to indicate a relationship with a PERSON, includes:

Trusts or other estates in which a PERSON has a substantial beneficial interest or for which a PERSON serves as a trustee or in a similar capacity; and

D.

E.

CONTROL is the power to direct or influence the direction of the management or policies of a PERSON, directly or indirectly, through the ownership of voting securities, by contract or otherwise.

F.

5.

A PERSON who is an AFFILIATE or an ASSOCIATE of a PERSON specified in II.H.1., 2., 3., or 4., above.

III.

A public offering of debt securities may be disallowed by the Administrator if the Issuer's ADJUSTED CASH FLOW for the last fiscal year or its average ADJUSTED CASH FLOW for the last three (3) fiscal years prior to the public offering was insufficient to cover its fixed charges, meet its debt obligations as they became due, and service the debt securities being offered.

IV.

Notwithstanding II.A.6., above, accrued dividends of cumulative preferred stock having a stated interest rate may be excluded from ADJUSTED CASH FLOW at the discretion of the Administrator.

V.

The Administrator, in his or her discretion, may choose to not apply III., above, to public offerings of convertible debt securities that are superior in right of payment of interest and liquidation proceeds to any convertible debt that is or may be legally or beneficially, directly or indirectly, owned by PROMOTERS. The risks of failure to meet debt service obligations and the equity characteristics of such securities must be disclosed in the prospectus. An offering of such securities may be reviewed using guidelines for equity offerings.

VI.

Unless the Administrator permits otherwise, public offerings of debt securities shall be offered and sold pursuant to a Trust Indenture ("Indenture") which adequately protects the rights of the purchasers. Some of these protections are:

A.

The Indenture shall comply with the provisions of the Trust Indenture Act of 1939. This shall be disclosed in the offering document.

B.

The events of default of the Indenture shall be disclosed in the offering document.

C.

The trustee shall be provided with adequate reports, including any compliance reports from independent auditors, to allow the trustee to ensure compliance with the Indenture.

D.

Neither the trustee nor its PROMOTERS may be major creditors of the Issuer or its AFFILIATES.

E.

The Indenture shall provide that upon any consolidation, merger, recapitalization, reorganization, pledge foreclosure, equity or share exchange, conveyance or transfer of the properties and assets of the Issuer substantially as an entirety, or any other transaction having a substantially equivalent effect, the successor PERSON shall expressly assume the payment obligations on the debt securities and the performance of the covenants of the Indenture.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

F.

The Indenture shall provide that interest will accrue and be paid to the date(s) of redemption or conversion of the debt securities.

VII.

If the Issuer's CASH FLOW is subject to cyclical fluctuations or if the Administrator deems it necessary for investor protection, the Administrator may require that the Issuer establish a sinking fund or redemption requirements.

NASAA Broker-Dealer Sales Practice Committee Adopted 4/27/97

Any broker dealer or agent who engages in one or more of the following practices shall be deemed to have engaged in "dishonest or unethical practices in the securities business" as used in Section 204 of the Uniform Securities Act and such conduct may constitute grounds for denial, suspension or revocation of registration or such other action authorized by statute.

A. Sales Load Communications:

In connection with the solicitation of investment company shares, failing to adequately disclose to a customer all sales charges, including asset based and contingent deferred sales charges, which may be imposed with respect to the purchase, retention or redemption of such shares.

2.

In connection with the solicitation of investment company shares, stating or implying to a customer that the shares are sold without a commission, are "no load" or have "no sales charge" if there is associated with the purchase of the shares: (i) a front-end load; (ii) a contingent deferred sales load; (iii) a SEC Rule 12b-1 fee or a service fee if such fees in total exceeds .25% of average net fund assets per year; or (iv) in the case of closed-end investment company shares, underwriting fees, commissions or other offering expenses.

3.

In connection with the solicitation of investment company shares, failing to disclose to any customer any relevant: (i) sales charge discount on the purchase of shares in dollar amounts at or above a breakpoint; or (ii) letter of intent feature, if available, which will reduce the sales charges.

In connection with the solicitation of investment company shares, recommending to a customer the purchase of a specific class of investment company shares in connection with a multi-class sales charge or fee arrangement without reasonable grounds to believe that the sales charge or fee arrangement associated with such class of shares is suitable and appropriate based on the customer's investment objectives, financial situation and other securities holdings, and the associated transaction or other fees.

B. Recommendations:

Adopted by the NASAA Membership on April 17, 1994

I. INTRODUCTION.

A.

Application.

1.

The standards contained in this Guideline apply to the offer and sale of debt securities in the form of general obligation financing, such as notes, certificates, or similar debt instruments (herein referred to as NOTES) issued by a religious DENOMINATION, or a national or regional unit thereof or other entity affiliated or associated therewith (herein collectively referred to as a "CHURCH EXTENSION FUND" or "CEF"), the proceeds of which primarily finance or refinance the purchase, construction or improvement of church property and/or buildings or related capital expenditures or the operational needs of various affiliated churches and related religious organizations "related organizations" of the DENOMINATION.

While offers and sales not conforming to the standards contained herein shall be looked upon with disfavor, if good cause is shown certain standards of the Guideline may be modified or waived by the ADMINISTRATOR.

3.

This Guideline is not applicable to single project financing by individual churches or congregations, which is the subject of a separate Statement of Policy entitled "Church Bonds" that was adopted by the North American Securities Administrators Association, Inc. on April 29, 1981.

COMMENT:

General obligation financing by a CEF is different in its purposes and operation than the one-time offering of Church Bonds by an individual church or congregation to finance the construction of a single, specific church building or other related capital improvements, in which all of the securities are repaid within a set period of time. CEF NOTES are sold for various terms and at varying interest rates and the offerings are normally continuous in nature to provide an ongoing source of financing to the various affiliated churches and related organizations. In order to maintain the CEF as a permanent resource for the affiliated churches and related organizations, repayments of principal on loans made by the CEF are continuously reinvested in new loans to affiliated churches and related organizations. A CEF normally is a single purpose organization and has no significant operating activities other than raising funds and making capital loans to its affiliated churches and related organizations. Since the CEF is generally incorporated and operated separately from the DENOMINATION and its affiliated churches and related organizations, assets of the CEF are used primarily for the purpose of financing building projects for affiliated churches and related organizations. To the extent the CEF is a separately incorporated entity, it normally is not liable for any debts arising from other unrelated activities or programs of the DENOMINATION or its affiliated churches and related organizations. The history of most CEFs reflects an absence of delinquency or default in payments on amounts owed under their NOTES. The primary indebtedness of most CEFs consists of the outstanding NOTES. A significant number of INVESTORS reinvest with the CEF when their NOTES mature. Therefore, the establishment of any special repayment provisions, including a sinking fund or trust indenture, for the purpose of making payments on principal or interest due on NOTES, is normally unnecessary and inappropriate in view of the continuous nature of the offerings and the fact that the funds are not designated for specific capital projects.

SENIOR SECURED INDEBTEDNESS--Any debt or debt securities incurred or issued by a CEF and secured by assets of the CEF in such a manner as to have a priority claim against any of the assets of the CEF over and above the NOTES.

II. QUALIFICATION, LICENSING AND MARKETING REQUIREMENTS.

A.

Qualification Requirements. An ISSUER shall take all steps required under applicable state securities law to insure compliance with the registration or exemption provisions in all states in which it intends to offer and sell NOTES. Filing, procedural and review requirements will vary among the states. A CEF shall file such forms and pay such fees and comply with the filing, procedural and review requirements to achieve qualification for the offer and sale of its NOTES in each state, whether by registration, exemption or otherwise, as determined by that state's securities laws, rules and regulations.

COMMENT:

It is anticipated that the NOTES will be exempt from federal registration pursuant to Section 3(a)(4) of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. Individual states have adopted their own securities laws to govern the offer and sale of securities within their respective jurisdictions. NOTES are securities under state securities laws. Many states, however, have adopted laws based upon the Uniform Securities Act, which contains an exemption from registration for the NOTES that is similar to the exemption contained in the Securities Act of 1933. There are certain states, however, which do not exempt the NOTES from registration. Furthermore, certain other states provide an exemption from registration but require notice filings or administrative approval before the exemption is available.

B.

No Fees and Commission. The NOTES shall be offered and sold without the payment of any direct or indirect underwriting, sales or similar fees or commissions.

C.

Licensing Requirements.

1.

General Policy. An ISSUER shall comply with the applicable broker-dealer and agent licensing requirements in each state in which it offers or sells NOTES.

2.

Waiver. If a state's securities laws or regulations allow, the ADMINISTRATOR may consider waiving:

a.

Testing requirements;

b.

Broker-dealer registration requirements; and/or

c.

Agent registration requirements with respect to officers, directors or other employees of the CEF ("Agents"), who represent the CEF in effecting or attempting to effect offers and sales of the NOTES, provided, however, the Agents:

1)

Receive no commission or similar remuneration in connection with the offer and sale of the NOTES;

2)

Perform significant functions for the CEF other than the sale of NOTES; and 3)

Represent only the CEF in effecting or attempting to effect offers and sales of securities.

COMMENT:

When an ADMINISTRATOR considers waiving certain registration and testing requirements, the following factors may be considered. Agents normally are officers, directors, or employees of the CEF. The offer and sale of the NOTES are to a limited class of INVESTORS and not to the general public. The communications with prospective INVESTORS by the Agents normally are accomplished at the offices of the CEF through delivery of the OFFERING CIRCULAR and other written communications by means of the U.S. mails or through verbal communications. In connection with any such waiver, an ADMINISTRATOR may collect such fees as are appropriate and required and shall require such affidavits or documents as are deemed appropriate and necessary.

D.

Limited Class of INVESTORS. The NOTES shall be sold to a limited class of INVESTORS. Each ISSUER should define a limited class of INVESTORS that is consistent with its operations and is compatible with the structure, organization and theology of its DENOMINATION. A suggested form of limited class of INVESTORS is:

PERSONS who were, prior to the receipt of the OFFERING CIRCULAR, members of, contributors to (including INVESTORS), or participants in the DENOMINATION, the CEF or in any program, activity or organization which constitutes a part of the DENOMINATION or the CEF, or in other church organizations that have a programmatic relationship with the DENOMINATION or the CEF.

COMMENT:

It is recognized that the concept of "membership" or similar nomenclature within the various DENOMINATIONS involves various church structure, organizational and/or theological concepts with which federal and state governmental entities cannot and should not interfere. Most CEFs presently direct their offering efforts to PERSONS who have some reasonable association or affiliation with the CEF, its affiliated DENOMINATION or its religious programs.

E.

Advertising.

1.

General Standards. An ISSUER may use ADVERTISING that complies with the following standards:

a.

ADVERTISING shall set forth a statement to the following effect:

This shall not constitute an offer to sell or the solicitation of an offer to buy, nor shall there be any sale of these securities in any state in which such offer, solicitation or sale is not authorized. The offering is made solely by the OFFERING CIRCULAR.

b.

ADVERTISING shall be directed to PERSONS who fall within, or potentially will fall within, the limited class of INVESTORS described in II. D. above.

c.

ADVERTISING shall not set forth statements, data or information that:

(1)

Is inconsistent with the statements, data or information set forth in the OFFERING CIRCULAR; or

(2)

When read in connection with the OFFERING CIRCULAR renders either the OFFERING CIRCULAR or ADVERTISING misleading or confusing.

2.

Filing.

a.

If required by state law or by the ADMINISTRATOR, ADVERTISING shall be filed with the ADMINISTRATOR prior to use.

b.

ADVERTISING, filed pursuant to II.E.2.a., above, that is subsequently materially changed or modified during the applicable offering period, except as provided in II.E.2.c., below, shall be filed with the ADMINISTRATOR as a notice filing concurrently with its use, provided that the changes and modifications are clearly marked, and the ADVERTISING changes and modifications comply with II.E.1. above.

c.

ADVERTISING, that has been filed with the ADMINISTRATOR, and which is subsequently changed or modified in a non-material manner, need not be refiled unless it is required by the ADMINISTRATOR.

III. OPERATIONAL AND STRUCTURAL STANDARDS.

A.

Organization and Structure. A CEF shall be an organization that is organized and operates exclusively for religious, charitable or educational purposes and as an organization described in Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended.

B.

Exempt from Federal Registration. The NOTES offered and sold by a CEF shall be exempt from registration pursuant to the provisions of Section 3(a)(4) of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended.

C.

General Obligation Securities. The NOTES offered by a CEF shall be offered under one or more programs of general obligation financing.

1.

The NOTES are not specifically secured by particular loans to specific borrowing entities.

2.

The proceeds from the NOTES are deposited to a general fund from which the CEF makes and completes commitments for loans primarily to churches and religious organizations affiliated with the DENOMINATION.

3.

To the extent that a material amount of operating revenues or expenses of the CEF arise out of activities other than general obligation financing programs, appropriate disclosure of such activities shall be made.

4.

In all cases there shall be a separate accounting for the operations of the CEF.

D.

Limited Senior Secured Indebtedness. Except as provided in the COMMENT below, NOTES that are offered by a CEF normally shall be of the same rank and priority as its other debt securities and debt obligations.

1.

2.

To the extent that such subordination of the NOTES exists, appropriate disclosure shall be required.

COMMENT:

Within the operations of a CEF, SENIOR SECURED INDEBTEDNESS is often in the form of: (1) a mortgage loan incurred for the purchase of an advance church site or headquarters building and/or (2) a secured operating line of credit with a commercial financial institution.

IV. FINANCIAL STANDARDS.

A.

General. An ISSUER should offer and sell no more NOTES than it can reasonably expect to repay, when due, in the ordinary course of its business. Although each offering must be viewed in the context of the individual facts and circumstances surrounding each ISSUER and its offering, the following are the financial standards which an ADMINISTRATOR may consider in reviewing a proposed offering.

COMMENTS:

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

To the extent that the AUDITED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS or the other information in the OFFERING CIRCULAR do not disclose sufficient information to evaluate the extent of compliance with the standards in this Guideline, the ISSUER shall furnish supplemental data and information to the ADMINISTRATOR. Further, an ISSUER may be deemed to have complied with the standards in this Guideline even if it fails to meet one or more of the standards at the time of any one offering period, if: the ISSUER complies with or exceeds the requirements of the remaining standards; and the information and data furnished reflects the ability of the ISSUER to repay its NOTES and other debt obligations when due in the ordinary course of business.

B.

Capital Adequacy. At the end of its most recent fiscal year, the ISSUER's NET WORTH shall be positive and at least equal to three percent (3%) of its total assets.

COMMENT:

This standard should be evaluated in the light of the financial operating history of the CEF.

C.

Liquidity Status. At the end of its most recent fiscal year, the ISSUER's cash, cash equivalent and readily marketable assets shall have market value of at least five percent (5%) of the principal balance of its total outstanding NOTES.

COMMENT:

In evaluating compliance with this standard, the ADMINISTRATOR also may consider the ISSUER's other sources of immediately available funds, such as a line of credit or other source of credit with a bank or other financial institution.

D.

Cash Flow Performance. For each of the ISSUER's three (3) most recent fiscal years and, as estimated, for each of the ISSUER's next two (2) fiscal years, the coverage ratio of available cash as compared to cash redemptions, exclusive of DENOMINATIONAL ACCOUNTS, shall be at least one to one (1:1). In determining the ISSUER's available cash, the ADMINISTRATOR may consider:

1.

Cash provided by its normal operating activities;

2.

Liquid assets (market value) at the beginning of its fiscal year;

3.

Loan principal repayments;

4.

Cash generated from the sale of NOTES, exclusive of DENOMINATIONAL ACCOUNTS, except to the extent that year-end redemptions exceed deposits to, or investments in, such DENOMINATIONAL ACCOUNTS during its fiscal year;

5.

Funds from other sources; and 6.

Loan disbursements.

COMMENT:

For the ISSUER's next two (2) fiscal years, projected cash redemptions may be based on the ISSUER's five (5) year historical experience by applying the average percent of actual redemptions compared to maturing obligations each year. For the ISSUER's next two (2) years, projected cash generated from the sale of NOTES may be based on the ISSUER's five (5) year historical experience, by calculating the average amount of cash generated from its sale of NOTES, exclusive of DENOMINATIONAL ACCOUNTS, for its five (5) year historical period. Further, in determining the amount of the ISSUER's available cash, the ADMINISTRATOR also may consider any other source of immediately available funds, such as a line of credit or other source of credit with a bank or other financial institution.

E.

Loan Quality.

1.

LOAN DELINQUENCIES during the ISSUER's most recent fiscal year, reviewed in light of its historical operating experience, shall not be excessive and shall be at such a level that the overall quality of its loan portfolio will allow the ISSUER:

a.

To maintain a positive NET WORTH; and

b.

Receive the timely repayments of sufficient loan principal necessary to meet the liquidity and cash flow requirements as set forth in IV. C. and D. above.

2.

When the LOAN DELINQUENCIES become material, the extent of the LOAN DELINQUENCIES and the quality of the ISSUER's loan portfolio should be disclosed as risk factors in the OFFERING CIRCULAR.

F.

Profitability. The ISSUER's NET INCOME, less any non-recurring or extraordinary items, for three (3) of its last five (5) fiscal years shall be positive.

G.

SEASONED ISSUER Compliance. A SEASONED ISSUER shall be deemed to comply with the above financial standards in any given fiscal year, if it can show that:

1.

It has fulfilled the requirements of the financial standards for at least three (3) out of its five (5) most recent fiscal years;

2.

The average of its five (5) most recent fiscal years reflects compliance with the financial standards; or 3.

The information and data furnished indicates the ability of the SEASONED ISSUER to repay its NOTES and other debt obligations when due in the ordinary course of its business.

V. ISSUANCE OF NOTES. An ISSUER that meets the standards of this Guideline shall be entitled to offer and sell its NOTES under the following provisions.

A.

No Trust Indentures or Sinking Fund Required. Trust indentures or sinking funds shall not be required in connection with the NOTES.

B.

Extension or Roll-Over After Notice. NOTES, upon maturity, may be extended or rolled over under the expressed terms and conditions stated in the OFFERING CIRCULAR, if:

1.

Each INVESTOR is provided with written notification of the maturity and the proposed extension of rollover of the NOTES at least thirty (30) days prior to the NOTES' maturity dates;

2.

Each INVESTOR is or has been provided with the ISSUER's most current OFFERING CIRCULAR; and 3.

The INVESTOR notifies the ISSUER in writing on or prior to the maturity date that the INVESTOR elects not to extend or roll-over the NOTE, the ISSUER promptly shall repay the principal and interest accrued thereon.

C.

Compound Interest. NOTES may contain provisions pursuant to which interest payable thereon may be retained and compounded.

VI. DISCLOSURE To insure that INVESTORS receive adequate information to make informed investment decisions, the ISSUER must provide INVESTORS with OFFERING CIRCULARS prior to their investments.

VII. OFFERING CIRCULAR. The OFFERING CIRCULAR should include a narrative or descriptive form of all of the relevant and material information relating to the ISSUER and the NOTES, and any other material information that affects or would affect an offeree's decision to purchase the NOTES. If there is insufficient space on the front side of the cover page of the OFFERING CIRCULAR for the information and materials described in VII.A.6. and A.7., above, or when otherwise appropriate, such information and materials may be disclosed on the reverse side of the cover page or on additional pages immediately following the cover page of the OFFERING CIRCULAR.

Statement of the North American Securities Administrators Association

Adopted, March 26, 1995.

II.

The members of the North American Securities Administrators Association ("N.A.S.A.A.") are aware that certain broker-dealers have established local offices by purportedly franchising the operations of these offices to individuals who then engage in the conduct of securities business. These broker-dealers may regard their registered agents, who operate within these "franchised" offices, as independent contractors. Such agents may conduct business with the public in the name of the broker-dealer who sponsored the agents or under a name that gives the appearance that the office is a different entity. N.A.S.A.A. is concerned that broker-dealers who attempt to establish independent contractors or franchised local offices may believe that supervisory duties and liabilities do not apply to these agents and local offices. Under the Uniform Securities Act, any person who sells or purchases securities for another person is, by definition, either a "broker-dealer" or an "agent" unless that person falls within an exception to the appropriate definition. Section 401(c) of the Uniform Securities Act defines a "broker-dealer" as any person engaged in the business of effecting transactions in securities for the account of others or for his own account. Although the definition provides certain exceptions, none of the exceptions is based upon one's status as an independent contractor or franchise. Section 401 (b) of the Uniform Securities Act defines an "agent" as an individual, other than a broker-dealer, who represents a broker-dealer or issuer in effecting or attempting to effect purchases or sales of securities. Nowhere in the definition of an "agent" is an independent contractor or franchisee excluded from the definition. Therefore, neither the classification of an office as a "franchisee" nor the classification of an agent as an "independent contractor" alters the supervisory responsibilities of a broker-dealer imposed under the Uniform Securities Act. Section 204(j) of the Uniform Securities Act provides that an administrator may deny, suspend, or revoke the registration of a broker-dealer if the broker-dealer has failed to supervise reasonably its agents. The broker-dealer is legally bound by this supervision requirement regardless of any belief that its agents are independent contractors or that a branch office is an independent franchisee. By causing its agent to become registered as an agent, or by sponsoring an agent's registration application, a broker-dealer legally consents to this statutory supervision requirement for all its offices and agents and is legally responsible for any acts of an agent in connection with the broker-dealer's securities business, including acts which the broker-dealer may consider to be outside the scope of the agent's representation of the broker-dealer. In conclusion, it is the position of N.A.S.A.A. that purported "independent contractor" and "franchisee" status does not alter the relationship between a broker-dealer and its agents under the Uniform Securities Act. Any agent sponsored by a broker-dealer and registered by a jurisdiction through such sponsorship is a representative of the broker-dealer in the conduct of securities business for all regulatory purposes, regardless of any agreement between the broker-dealer and the agent relating to "independent contractor" or "franchisee" status. Unless an agent is registered separately as a broker-dealer, the agent is considered to be a representative of the sponsoring broker-dealer, acting on its behalf. Similarly, unless an office is registered separately as a broker-dealer, that office is considered to be a local office of the sponsoring broker-dealer, acting on its behalf through its agents, and not an independent franchisee.

Statement of the North American Securities Administrators Association STATEMENTS OF POLICY_and_@_NASAA SOP)_and_footnotes(n1);.vk n1

Adopted, April 29, 1989.

I. Introduction

The number and dollar amount of securities transactions among the world's securities markets soared during the 1980s. This phenomenon was precipitated by the convergence of several factors. Most dramatic, perhaps were technological advances witnessed in global telecommunications and fund transfer systems operated by international banking systems.

During this period, significant shifts were observed in official government policy of many countries towards injecting competition into the private sector by dismantling domestic monopolies and withdrawing support from nationalized industries. This policy was manifested by several large flotations on the stock markets of shares of nationalized companies being privatized, most notably those in Great Britain. Also, public policy in countries outside North America now encourage individual share owning.

Governments realized, however, that individual investors needed protection from unscrupulous promoters and sharp business practices of brokers. Therefore, most embarked on either implementing a new comprehensive scheme of securities regulation or substantially strengthened existing regulation. Governments understood that the public would participate only in markets which were perceived as fair and honest due to investor protections afforded by a regime of effective securities regulation.

Another, but sinister, participant in the internationalization of the securities markets has been the criminal element. Launderers of drug monies, insider trading rings, and securities defrauders operating from protected havens have expanded their activities into the emerging international securities markets. Domestic markets which traditionally have been concerned with protecting investors from unscrupulous persons operating within their own jurisdiction now are confronted with threats to the integrity of their markets emanating from countries far from their borders.

The foregoing developments pose numerous challenges to the mission of securities regulators of maintaining the integrity of their capital markets through enforcement of investor protection standards while simultaneously according investor and market access to legitimate capital-raising activities spanning national borders.

II. Investor Protection

The development and growth of international securities require that minimum standards of investor protection be established and made applicable to issuers, broker-dealers, investment advisers and other securities professionals dealing with investors in international securities transactions.

A. Securities Registration and Disclosure

Investors participating in international securities transactions should be protected by registration and prospectus requirements. Although such requirements may vary according to the type of transaction or sophistication of the investor, certain minimum standards should be established. Such standards would address disclosure, financial information prepared under commonly accepted accounting principles, auditing standards, auditor independence and other principles consistent with the protection of public investors. STATEMENTS OF POLICY_and_@_NASAA SOP)_and_footnotes(n2);.vk n2

In addition, regulators should support the requirement of continuous disclosure to the securities markets by issuers whose securities are freely traded. Monitoring and compliance with public disclosure requirements should be vested in a government regulator.

Regulatory review of private placements, or according a right of access by the regulator to disclosure documents being used in a private placement should be maintained. A recent survey of one rather large NASAA state indicated that of all filings made by foreign issuers with that jurisdiction during the last 6 months, over 50% of such filings were private placements and therefore exempt from review by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC). As evidenced by the number of such enforcement cases brought annually by NASAA jurisdictions, regulators also have experienced a significant amount of enforcement problems in this area.

B. Broker-Dealer and Investment Adviser Regulation

All firms engaged in the business of effecting transactions in, or advising on the purchase or sale of, securities should be required to obtain a license for the conduct of such business from a securities regulator. The regulator should have authority to deny a license if the applicant does not possess sufficient capital to enter the business or its principals lack minimum knowledge and experience in the securities business.

Similarly, a record of past serious securities law violations of any jurisdiction, rules of a self-regulatory organization or significant evidence of customer abuse or dishonest or unethical practices in the securities business should constitute grounds for denial of a license. Disclosure to prospective customers of prior securities law violations should be mandatory.

As broker-dealers and investment adviser activities expand across national borders and subsidiaries are established in other national jurisdictions, securities regulators must work together to develop consistent capital adequacy standards for such firms to ensure stability and liquidity. Special attention must be paid to those jurisdictions which permit banks or bank subsidiaries to engage in the securities business.

For those firms with foreign subsidiaries, the relevant regulators should establish open lines of communication among counterparts in the parent company's domicile and other jurisdictions where foreign subsidiaries have been established to become better informed about the global activities of such firms. Thus, regulators would be in a better position to respond to events which might have an adverse effect on the financial and operational activities of such firms in their domestic markets.

C. Cooperative Enforcement Efforts

Criminal elements also are taking advantage of the internationalization of the securities markets. It is now not uncommon that illegal activities occurring in the domestic market of one country, or multiple countries, are being controlled by persons resident in another country, often in a jurisdiction which affords protection to such persons through blocking statutes and bank secrecy laws. Those countries should seek to narrow the application of such laws only to bona fide and legitimate purposes and permit exceptions where regulators are able to indicate that those laws are being used to shield unscrupulous activity. Further, countries which require that an activity must be illegal in its jurisdiction before rendering enforcement assistance should reconsider such a policy which acts as a deterrent to cooperative law enforcement efforts.

Securities regulators should recognize that their enforcement programs must include an international dimension. Responses to inquiries from foreign regulators should be made with dispatch. Establishment of agreements governing on-going exchanges of investigatory and regulatory information should be encouraged.

NASAA, the SEC, and other securities regulators have endorsed the Cooperative Enforcement Resolution passed by the International Organization of Securities Commissions (IOSCO) in 1987.

In addition, NASAA members, as well as the SEC, have entered into several Memoranda of Understanding with foreign securities regulators to facilitate an ongoing exchange of regulatory and enforcement information. This activity should continue.

In 1968, NASAA began exploring, through a written survey among global securities regulators and law enforcement agencies, the feasibility of establishing an International Securities Law Violators Data Base. This would serve as a clearinghouse of public actions taken against securities law violators submitted by program participants. It is further evidence of the multinational cooperation required to be effective regulators in the 1990s.

III. Facilitating Legitimate Transnational Capital Formation

Securities regulators should encourage legitimate capital raising activities which span national borders. Artificial barriers to entry into domestic markets by foreign competitors should be eliminated to produce a level playing field for all participants. The level playing field, however, should be governed by minimum rules to ensure investor protection. Regulation S proposed by the SEC and the participation of NASAA with the SEC and Canada in development of the multijurisdictional securities registration project evidence such activity.

Regulators should look to methods to ease administrative burdens which may accompany compliance with such rules. STATEMENTS OF POLICY_and_@_NASAA SOP)_and_footnotes(n3);vk n3

Among other things, consideration should be given to establishment of centralized depositories for receipt of licensing and securities registration documents which would be re-distributed to appropriate regulatory authorities for review, comment and approval.

Given continued technological advances, it is conceivable that the foregoing would be facilitated through a computerized system with access afforded the applicants/registrants in their own offices by means of a desktop computer terminal.

Both NASAA and the SEC have been long involved in such efforts. NASAA spearheaded the development of the Central Registration Depository which centrally receives and then re-distributes documentation for broker-dealer and agent licensure in the United States. NASAA also has worked alongside the SEC in the development of the EDGAR program which aims to centralize filing of securities registration and disclosure documents.

IV. Coordination, Mutual Assistance and Consultation

A. Coordination

Coordination and acceptance of a common standard by securities regulators in the following several areas are crucial if a truly international securities market is to develop: accounting principles for the presentation of financial information; auditing standards; auditor independence principles; capital adequacy ratios for brokerage firms (including definitive treatment of bank and non-bank firms) routing, execution, clearance and settlement systems; and securities registration systems.

Regulators should participate in international organizations such as IOSCO and the International Accounting Standards Committee to develop commonly acceptable rules.

B. Mutual Assistance

Securities regulators should provide assistance to other government agencies, international organizations, self-regulatory organizations and other bodies whose goal is providing investor protection in the international securities markets. Those organizations which possess a long history of experience in regulating the securities markets have a unique opportunity to assist other jurisdictions which recently have enacted a scheme of securities regulation or are attempting to foster legitimate capital markets in their own countries as a means of increasing their economic vitality. Those regulators should view positively such opportunities recognizing, however, that the culture and economic realities of another jurisdiction may not be suitable for transplanting intact the regulatory regime of one country to another. Relating experiences, rather than form, is more important.

C. Consultation

Securities regulation and regulatory structures have evolved based upon national history, political realities and accepted business practices in each particular culture. In many jurisdictions, regulatory authority is shared, either with private corporations with public responsibilities (e.g., stock exchanges and self-regulatory organizations) or other governmental authorities. Each regulator has a valuable history of regulatory experience, but more importantly, a legal duty to acquit certain public responsibilities. STATEMENTS OF POLICY_and_@_NASAA SOP)_and_footnotes(n4);.vk n4

In the consultative process, which must occur if an integrated, functional international securities market is to be achieved, great care should be taken not to overlook the views and potential contributions of all regulatory bodies. The tasks are so enormous that no one regulator or privileged group of regulators could possibly address all the nuances of each issue requiring examination.

Although some organizations undoubtedly will emerge in a leadership role, the fruits of the process depend directly upon the concrete contributions made. As securities regulators with over 70 years experience, the government agencies comprising the NASAA membership have made, and will continue to make, important contributions toward the internationalization process consistent with their statutory mandate of providing investor protection.

NASAA has been alert to the issues implicit in the internationalization of the securities markets and has addressed many of them. It intends to be a partner with all other securities regulators in the consultative process which no doubt will continue well into the next decade.

The views expressed by NASAA in this Statement on Internationalization of the Securities Markets are designed to stimulate discussion concerning regulation of the international securities markets. It does not necessarily reflect the position of any individual NASAA jurisdiction.

Baldwin, NASAA President and mailed to the NASAA Corporate Office at 555 New Jersey Ave., N.W., Suite 750, Washington, D.C. 20001, with a copy to Mr. Wayne Klein, Chair, NASAA Internationalization Committee, Idaho Securities Bureau, 700 W. C. Reports to ADMINISTRATOR. Each application for registration shall contain a commitment, executed by the SPONSOR, to submit to the ADMINISTRATION upon request any report or statement required to be distributed to PARTICIPANTS pursuant to VII.C. (relating to Rights and Obligations of PARTICIPANTS).

D. Liability and Indemnification.

1. The PROGRAM shall not provide for indemnification of the SPONSOR for any liability or loss suffered by the SPONSOR, nor shall it provide that the SPONSOR be held harmless for any loss or liability suffered by the PROGRAM, unless all of the following conditions are met:

a. the SPONSOR has determined, in good faith, that the course of conduct which caused the loss or liability was in the best interests of the PROGRAM;

b. the SPONSOR was acting on behalf of or performing services for the PROGRAM;

c. such liability or loss was not the result of negligence or misconduct by the SPONSOR; and

d. such indemnification or agreement to hold harmless is recoverable only out of the assets of the PROGRAM and not from the PARTICIPANTS.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

b. such claims have been dismissed with prejudice on the merits by a court of competent jurisdiction as to the particular indemnitee, or

c. a court of competent jurisdiction approves a settlement of the claims against a particular indemnitee and finds that indemnification of the settlement and related costs should be made, and

d. in the case of subparagraph c. of this paragraph, the court of law considering the request for indemnification has been advised of the position of the Securities and Exchange Commission and the position of any state securities regulatory authority in which securities of the PROGRAM were offered or sold as to indemnification for violations of securities laws; provided that the court need only be advised of and consider the positions of the securities regulatory authorities of those states:

(1) which are specifically set forth in the PROGRAM agreement; and

(2) in which plaintiffs claim they were offered or sold PROGRAM interests.

(3) The PROGRAM may not incur the cost of that portion of liability insurance which insures the SPONSOR for any liability as to which the SPONSOR is prohibited from being indemnified under this subsection.

(4) The provision of advancement from PROGRAM funds to a SPONSOR or its AFFILIATES for legal expenses and other costs incurred as a result of any legal action is permissible if the following conditions are satisfied:

a. The legal action relates to acts or omissions with respect to the performance of duties or services on behalf of the PROGRAM.

b. The legal action is initiated by a third party who is not a PARTICIPANT, or the legal action is initiated by a PARTICIPANT and a court of competent jurisdiction specifically approves such advancement; and

In addition, the PROGRAM shall not permit the PARTICIPANT to contract away the fiduciary duty owed to the PARTICIPANT by the SPONSOR under the common law.

F. Terminated SPONSOR.

1. Upon the occurrence of a terminating event, the PROGRAM may be required to pay to the terminated SPONSOR all amounts then accrued and owing to the terminated SPONSOR. Additionally, the PROGRAM may terminate the SPONSOR's interest in PROGRAM income, losses, distributions, and capital by payment of an amount equal to the then--present fair market value of the terminated SPONSOR'S interest determined by agreement of the terminated SPONSOR and the PROGRAM, or, if they cannot agree, by arbitration in accordance with the then--current rules of the American Arbitration Association. The expense of arbitration shall be borne equally by the terminated SPONSOR and the PROGRAM.

2. The method of payment to the terminated SPONSOR must be fair; and must protect the solvency and liquidity of the PROGRAM. Where the termination is voluntary, the method of payment will be deemed presumptively fair where it provides for a non-interest bearing unsecured promissory note with principal payable, if at all, from distributions which the terminated SPONSOR otherwise would have received under the partnership agreement had the SPONSOR not terminated. Where the termination is involuntary, the method of payment will be deemed presumptively fair where it provides for an interest bearing promissory note coming due in no less than 5 years with equal installments each year.

III. SUITABILITY OF PARTICIPANTS.

A. General Policy.

a. a minimum annual gross income of $70,000, and a minimum NET WORTH of $70,000; or

b. a minimum NET WORTH of $250,000.

2. NET WORTH shall be determined exclusive of home, home furnishings, and automobiles.

3. In the case of sales to fiduciary accounts, these minimum standards shall be met by the beneficiary, the fiduciary account, or by a donor or grantor who directly or indirectly supplies the funds to purchase the PROGRAM INTERESTS if the donor or grantor is the fiduciary.

4. The SPONSOR shall set forth in the final PROSPECTUS:

a. the investment objectives of the PROGRAM;

b. a description of the type of PERSON who might benefit from an investment in the PROGRAM; and

 - (iii) the lack of liquidity of PROGRAM INTERESTS;
 - (iv) the restrictions on transferability of PROGRAM INTERESTS;
 - (v) background and qualifications of the SPONSOR or PERSONS responsible for directing and managing the PROGRAM; and
 - (vi) the tax consequences of the investment.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

3. The SPONSOR and each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or the PROGRAM will make this determination on the basis of the information it has obtained from the prospective PARTICIPANT. Relevant information for this purpose will include at least the age, investment objectives, investment experience, income, NET WORTH, financial situation, and other investment of the prospective PARTICIPANT, as well as any other pertinent factors.

4. The SPONSOR and each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or the PROGRAM shall maintain records of the information used to determine that an investment in PROGRAM INTERESTS is suitable and appropriate for each PARTICIPANT. The SPONSOR or each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM shall maintain these records for at least six years.

5. The SPONSOR shall disclose in the final PROSPECTUS the responsibility of the SPONSOR and each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM shall make every reasonable effort to determine that the purchase of PROGRAM INTERESTS is a suitable and appropriate investment for each PARTICIPANT, based on information provided by the PARTICIPANT regarding the PARTICIPANT'S financial situation and investment objectives.

D. Subscription Agreements.

1. The ADMINISTRATOR may require that each PARTICIPANT complete and sign a written subscription agreement.

2. The SPONSOR may require that each PARTICIPANT acknowledge that the investment is not liquid.

3. If the representation in Section III.D.2. above is included in the Subscription Agreement, the PARTICIPANT must separately sign or initial that representation. Except in the case of fiduciary accounts, the PARTICIPANT may not grant any PERSON a power of attorney to make such representation on his or her behalf.

4. The SPONSOR and each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM shall not require a PARTICIPANT to make representations in the subscription agreement which are subjective or unreasonable and which:

a. might cause the PARTICIPANT to believe that he or she has surrendered any rights to which he or she is entitled under federal or state law; or

b. would have the effect of shifting duties regarding suitability, imposed by law on broker-dealers, to the PARTICIPANT.

5. Prohibited representations include, but are not limited to the following:

a. The PARTICIPANT understands or comprehends the risks associated with an investment in the PROGRAM.

b. The investment is a suitable one for the PARTICIPANT.

c. The PARTICIPANT has read the PROSPECTUS.

d. In deciding to invest in the PROGRAM, the PARTICIPANT has relied solely on the PROSPECTUS, and not on any other information or representations from other PERSONS or sources.

This shall be set forth in one location in tabular form.

B. Organization and Offering Expenses. All ORGANIZATION AND OFFERING EXPENSES incurred in order to sell PROGRAM INTERESTS shall be reasonable and shall comply with all statutes, rules, and regulations imposed in connection with the offering of other securities in the state.

C. Investment in Mortgages.

1. FRONT-END FEES paid to the SPONSOR shall be in accordance with this subsection.

a. The SPONSOR shall be required to commit a substantial portion of the PROGRAM'S CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS toward INVESTMENT IN MORTGAGES. The remaining CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS may be used to pay FRONT-END FEES. The total amount of FRONT-END FEES, whenever paid and from whatever source, shall be limited to an amount equal to the initial amount of CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS not applied to INVESTMENT IN MORTGAGES.

2. At a minimum, the SPONSOR shall commit a percentage of the CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS to INVESTMENT IN MORTGAGES which is equal to 82%. [Refer to Section IV.I.1.c. of these Guidelines for the minimum required INVESTMENT IN MORTGAGES for a PROGRAM electing an ASSET-BASED FEE.]

3. If the SPONSOR enters into an INVESTMENT IN MORTGAGES commitment in excess of that specified in paragraph 2. of this subsection, the SPONSOR may take a fully participating CARRIED INTEREST equal to 1.0% for the first 2.5% of additional INVESTMENT IN MORTGAGES, 1.0% for the next 2.0% of additional INVESTMENT IN MORTGAGES, and 1.0% for each 1.0% of additional INVESTMENT IN MORTGAGES thereafter.

4. For PROGRAMS whose total CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS do not exceed $2 million, the ADMINISTRATOR may reduce the required amount of INVESTMENT IN MORTGAGES to 71%.

5. Notwithstanding the language in paragraph 4. of this subsection, the $2 million limitation is intended to be a benchmark figure and may be adjusted upward or downward by the ADMINISTRATOR based on the marketplace in the ADMINISTRATOR'S jurisdiction.

The 6.0% cumulative return may be reduced, but not below zero, by the aggregate amount of prior distributions to investors from CASH AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION. The SPONSOR'S interest in CASH AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION and proceeds of CAPITAL TRANSACTIONS provided for in this Section IV.D.1.b. may be increased 1% for each percentage point below 10% that the SPONSOR accepts in its interest in CASH AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION, allowed under Section IV.D.1.a.

3. Dissolution and liquidation of the PROGRAM. The distribution of assets upon dissolution and liquidation of the PROGRAM shall conform to the applicable subordination provisions of paragraph 1. of this subsection, and appropriate language shall be included in the PROGRAM agreement.

In the absence of adequate justification provided under subsection IV.C.(3) of this section for any unsubordinated participation in cash to be distributed from the net proceeds remaining from the CAPITAL TRANSACTIONS in the PROGRAM'S mortgages, the Administrator may require an express limitation in the PROGRAM agreement that the dollar amount of the SPONSOR'S distributive share will not exceed the maximum amount that would be allowable under paragraphs (1) or (2) of this subsection.

E. Real Estate Brokerage Commissions on Resale of Property.

The total compensation paid to all PERSONS for the sale of a property held by the PROGRAM as the result of foreclosure shall be limited to a competitive real estate commission, not to exceed 6.0% of the contract price for the sale of the property. If the SPONSOR provides a substantial amount of the services in the sales effort, he may receive up to 1/2 of the competitive real estate commission, not to exceed 3.0%, and subordinated as in subsection D. of this section. If the SPONSOR participates with an independent broker on resale, the subordination requirement shall apply only to the commission earned by the SPONSOR.

Should the SPONSOR or its AFFILIATES perform property management services with respect to a foreclosed property as permitted under subsection IV.A.1. of this section, the fees paid to the SPONSOR or its AFFILIATES shall be the lesser of the maximum fees set forth in paragraphs 1.-3. of this subsection, or the fees which are competitive for similar services in the same geographic area. Included in such fees shall be bookkeeping services and fees paid to nonrelated PERSONS for property management services.

1. In the case of a residential property, the maximum PROPERTY MANAGEMENT FEE (included all rent-up, leasing, and re-leasing fees and bonuses, and leasing related services, paid to any PERSON) shall be 5.0% of the gross revenues from such property.

2. 3. In the case of industrial and commercial properties which are leased on a long term (10 or more years) net (or similar) bases, the maximum PROPERTY MANAGEMENT FEE from such leases shall be 1.0% of the gross revenues, except for a one time initial leasing fee of 3.0% of the gross revenues on each lease payable over the first five full years of the original term of the lease.

G. Insurance Services.

The SPONSOR or his AFFILIATE may provide insurance brokerage services in connection with obtaining insurance on a PROGRAM property held as the result of foreclosure so long as the cost of providing such service, including cost of the insurance, is no greater than the lowest quote obtained from two unaffiliated insurance agencies and the coverage and terms are likewise comparable. In no event may such services be provided by the SPONSOR or his AFFILIATES unless they are independently engaged in the business of providing such services to other than AFFILIATES and at least 75% of their insurance brokerage service gross revenue is derived from other than AFFILIATES.

H. Mortgage Servicing Fee.

The SPONSOR or its AFFILIATES may provide mortgage servicing, for which it may be paid a fee, which, when added to all other fees paid in connection with the servicing of a particular mortgage, does not exceed the lesser of the customary, competitive fee for the provision of such mortgage services on that type of mortgage or 1/4 of 1.0% of the principal outstanding in such loan.

I. Asset Based Fee.

b. The anticipated life of the PROGRAM does not exceed 20 years from the date the offering is declared effective by the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC"). However, the partnership agreement may provide that the PROGRAM will be extended by the affirmative vote of a majority of the PARTICIPANTS.

c. The PROGRAM will invest not less than 84% of the CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS as the INVESTMENT IN MORTGAGES. The remaining CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS may be used to pay FRONT-END FEES. The total amount of FRONT-END FEES, whenever paid, shall be limited to the initial amount of CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS not applied to INVESTMENT IN MORTGAGES. Of this INVESTMENT IN MORTGAGES, not more than 3.0% of the CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS may be included as a working capital reserve.

2. Computation. The annual asset-based fee shall be 0.75% of the BASE AMOUNT. On CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS temporarily held while awaiting INVESTMENT IN MORTGAGES, the ASSET BASED FEE shall be 0.5% of those CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS. The SPONSOR may also be allowed the following additional fees and compensation:

2. Sales to the SPONSOR. A PROGRAM shall not sell a mortgage to the SPONSOR unless all of the following criteria are met:

(i) the PROGRAM does not have sufficient offering proceeds available to retain the mortgage (or contract rights related thereto);

(ii) the PROSPECTUS discloses that the SPONSOR will purchase all mortgages (or contract rights) that the PROGRAM does not have sufficient proceeds to retain;

(iii) the SPONSOR pays the PROGRAM an amount in cash equal to the cost of the mortgage (or contract rights) to the PROGRAM (including all cash payments and carrying costs related thereto);

(iv) the SPONSOR assumes all of the PROGRAM'S obligations and liabilities incurred in connection with the holding of the mortgage (or contract rights) by the PROGRAM;

(v) the sale of the SPONSOR occurs not later than 90 days following the termination date of the offering;

The SPONSOR may be reimbursed for the actual cost of goods and materials used for or by the PROGRAM and obtained from entities unaffiliated with the SPONSOR. The SPONSOR may be reimbursed for the administrative services necessary to the prudent operation of the PROGRAM provided that the reimbursement shall be at the lower of the SPONSOR's actual cost or the amount the PROGRAM would be required to pay to independent parties for comparable administrative services in the same geographical location. No reimbursement shall be permitted for services for which the SPONSOR is entitled to compensate by way of a separate fee. The method of verification shall at a minimum provide:

(i) a review of the time records of individual employees, the costs of whose services were reimbursed; and

(ii) a review of the specific nature of the work performed by each such employee.

d. The methods of verification shall be in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and shall accordingly include such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures which the SPONSOR's independent certified public accountants consider appropriate in the circumstance. The additional costs of such verification will be itemized by said accountants on a PROGRAM by PROGRAM basis and may be reimbursed to the SPONSOR by the PROGRAM in accordance with this subsection only to the extent that such reimbursement when added to the cost for administrative services rendered does not exceed the competitive rate for such services as determined in this paragraph. The PROSPECTIJS must disclose in tabular form an estimate of such proposed expenses for the next fiscal year together with a breakdown by year of such expenses reimbursed in each of the last five public PROGRAMS formed by the SPONSOR.

2. Other goods and services. Except as provided in Section IV. of these guidelines (relating to Fees--Compensation--Expenses) and paragraph V.D.1. of this subsection, other goods and services may be provided by the SPONSOR for the PROGRAM only if all of the following criteria are met.

c. The goods or services shall be provided pursuant to a written contract which precisely describes such goods or services and all compensation to be paid. The contract may be modified in any material respect only by the vote of a majority in interest of the PARTICIPANTS and shall be terminable without penalty on 60 days' notice.

d. The goods and services provided and the written contract referred to in subparagraph c. of this paragraph must be fully disclosed in the PROSPECTUS.

e. The SPONSOR must have been previously engaged in the business of rendering services or selling or leasing such goods as an ordinary and ongoing business for a period of at least three years.

f. The SPONSOR must receive at least 33% of gross revenues for such goods or services from PERSONS other than AFFILIATES.

g. Except as provided in Section IV. of these guidelines (relating to Fees--Compensation--Expenses), paragraph V.D.1. of this subsection, and other than as provided in subparagraphs b., d., e., and f. of this paragraph, the SPONSOR may provide additional goods and services to the PROGRAM if all of the following criteria are met:

E. Rebates, Kickbacks, and Reciprocal Arrangements.

1. No rebates or give-ups may be received by the SPONSOR nor may the SPONSOR participate in any reciprocal business arrangement which would circumvent these rules. Furthermore, the PROSPECTUS and PROGRAM charter documents shall contain language prohibiting the rebates or give-ups as well as language prohibiting reciprocal business arrangements which would circumvent the restrictions against dealing with AFFILIATES or promoters.

2. No SPONSOR shall directly or indirectly pay or award any commissions or other compensation to any PERSON engaged by a potential investor for investment advice as an inducement to such adviser to advise the purchaser of interests in a particular PROGRAM; provided, however, that this clause shall not prohibit the normal sales commissions payable to a registered broker-dealer or of other properly licensed PERSON for selling PROGRAM interests.

F. Commingling of Funds. The funds of a PROGRAM shall not be commingled with the funds of any other PERSON. Nothing contained in this subsection however, shall prohibit a SPONSOR from establishing a master fiduciary account pursuant to which separate subtrust accounts are established for the benefit of AFFILIATED PROGRAMS, provided, that PROGRAM funds are protected from claims of such other PROGRAMS and/or creditors. The prohibition of this subsection shall not apply to investments meeting the requirements of subsection G. of this section.

e. exercise a right of first refusal on any desired sale by the joint venture partner of its interest in the mortgage except for transfer to an AFFILIATE of the joint venture partner.

2. The PROGRAM shall be permitted to invest in general partnerships or joint ventures with other publicly registered AFFILIATES of the PROGRAM if all the following conditions are met:

a. the PROGRAMS have substantially identical investment objectives.

b. there are no duplicate fees.

c. the compensation to SPONSORS is substantially identical in each PROGRAM.

d. each PROGRAM must have a right of first refusal to buy if the other PROGRAMS wish to sell assets held in the joint venture.

e. The investment of each PROGRAM is substantially the same terms and conditions.

f. the PROSPECTUS discloses the potential risk of impasse on joint venture decisions since no PROGRAM may have the right to buy the asset from the partnership or joint venture, it may not have the resources to do so.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

3. The PROGRAM shall be permitted to invest in general partnerships or joint ventures with AFFILIATES other than publicly registered AFFILIATES of the PROGRAM only under the following conditions:

a. the investment is necessary to relieve the SPONSOR from any commitment to purchase a mortgage entered into in compliance with subsection V.A.1.a. of this section prior to the closing of the offering period of the PROGRAM;

b. there are no duplicate fees;

c. the investment of each entity is on substantially the terms and conditions;

d. the PROGRAM provides for a right of first refusal to buy if the SPONSOR wishes to sell a mortgage held in the joint venture; and

e. the PROSPECTUS discloses the potential risk of impasse on joint venture decisions.

4. Other than as specifically permitted in paragraphs 2. and 3. of this subsection, the PROGRAM shall not be permitted to invest in general partnerships or joint ventures with AFFILIATES.

5. A PROGRAM shall be permitted to invest in general partnership interests of limited partnerships only if the PROGRAM alone or together with any publicly registered AFFILIATE of the PROGRAM meeting the requirements of paragraph 2. of this subsection acquires a "controlling interest" as defined in paragraph V.H.1. of this subsection, no duplicate fees are permitted, no additional compensation beyond that permitted by Section IV. of these guidelines (relating to Fees--Compensation-- Expenses), shall be paid to the SPONSOR, and the PROGRAM agreement shall comply with this section.

6. A PROGRAM that is an "upper-tier PROGRAM" shall be permitted to invest in interests of other PROGRAMS (the "lower-tier PROGRAMS") only if all of the following conditions are met.

(ii) provide that compensation payable in the aggregate from both tiers shall not exceed the amounts permitted under Section IV. of these guidelines (relating to Fees--Compensation-- Expenses).

b. If the SPONSOR of the lower-tier PROGRAM is not a SPONSOR of the upper-tier PROGRAM, the PROGRAM agreement of the upper-tier PROGRAM shall prohibit that PROGRAM from investing in the lower-tier PROGRAM unless the PROGRAM agreement of the lower-tier contains provisions complying with Sections II.E. and F. of these Guidelines (relating to Requirements of SPONSORS); VII. A.-D., H. and J (relating to Rights and Obligations of PARTICIPANTS); and IX.C. of these Guidelines (relating to Miscellaneous Provisions); and shall provide that the compensation payable at both tiers shall not exceed the amounts permitted in Section IV. of these Guidelines (relating to Fees--Compensation-- Expenses).

c. Each lower-tier PROGRAM shall have as its PARTICIPANTS only publicly registered upper-tier PROGRAMS, provided, however, that special limited partners (or PARTICIPANTS holding comparable interests) not AFFILIATED with the SPONSOR shall be permitted if the interests taken result in no diminution in the control exercisable by the other PARTICIPANTS.

d. No PROGRAM may be structured with more than two tiers.

e. The PROGRAM agreement of the upper-tier PROGRAM must contain a prohibition against duplicate fees.

f. The PROGRAM agreement of the upper-tier PROGRAM must provide that the PARTICIPANTS in the upper-tier PROGRAM can, upon the vote of a majority in interest and without the concurrence of the SPONSOR, direct the SPONSOR Of the upper-tier PROGRAM (acting on behalf of the upper-tier PROGRAM) to the any action permitted to a PARTICIPANT (e.g. the upper-tier PROGRAM) in the lower-tier PROGRAM.

g. The PROSPECTUS must fully and prominently disclose the two-tiered arrangement and any risks related thereto.

7. Notwithstanding subsections V.G.6.b. through g. of this section, if the SPONSOR of the lower-tier PROGRAM is not a SPONSOR of the upper-tier PROGRAM, an upper-tier PROGRAM may invest in a lower-tier PROGRAM that holds a particular mortgage to be qualified pursuant to the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, Section 42(g) as amended, if

a. the circumstances under which the loans will be made and the actual terms of the loan must be fully disclosed in the PROSPECTUS; or

b. an independent and qualified adviser must issue a letter of opinion to the effect that any proposed loan to an AFFILIATE of the PROGRAM is fair and at least as favorable to the PROGRAM as a loan to an unaffiliated borrower in similar circumstances. In addition, the SPONSORS will be required to obtain a letter of opinion from the independent adviser in connection with any disposition, renegotiation, or other subsequent transaction involving loans made to a SPONSOR or an AFFILIATE of the SPONSOR. The independent adviser must be identified in the initial PROGRAM PROSPECTUS. The independent adviser's compensation must be paid by the SPONSOR and not be reimbursable by the PROGRAM;

c. loans made to third parties, the proceeds of which are used to purchase or refinance a property or other asset in which the SPONSOR or an AFFILIATE has an equity or security interest, must meet the requirements of subparagraph a. or b. of this paragraph.

3. On loans made available to the PROGRAM by the SPONSOR, the SPONSOR may not receive interest or similar charges or fees in excess of the amount which would be charged by unrelated lending institutions on comparable loans for the same purpose, in the same locality of the property if the loan is made in connection with a particular property. No prepayment charge or penalty shall be required by the SPONSOR on a loan to the PROGRAM secured by either a first or junior or all-inclusive trust deed, mortgage, or encumbrance on the property, except to the extent that such prepayment charge or penalty is attributable to the underlying encumbrance.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

4. The SPONSOR shall be prohibited from providing FINANCING except as permitted by paragraph 3. of this subsection, in which case there will be independent advisers for each publicly registered party to the transaction.

COMMENT A:

Full disclosure of the terms of the loans and the circumstances under which they will be made includes, but is not limited to identification of the borrower(s) and the property(ies) securing the loan(s), a description of the parameters of the loan(s) or model loan documents, disclosure of the SPONSOR'S or the AFFILIATES' interest in such property, and a description of the terms and circumstances surrounding such interest.

COMMENT B:

In order for the adviser to be considered qualified and independent, the following conditions must be met:

(i) The adviser must be a long-established, nationally recognized investment banking firm, accounting firm, mortgage banking firm, real estate financial consulting firm or advisory firm;

(ii) The adviser must have a staff of real estate professionals;

(iii) The compensation of the adviser must be determined and embodied in a written contract before the opinion is rendered;

(iv) If an adviser has been engaged to render a fairness opinion who is not the adviser previously engaged by the PROGRAM to render this or the preceding fairness opinion, the SPONSOR shall inform the investors (by no later than the next annual report) of the date when such adviser was engaged, and whether there were any disagreements with the former adviser on any matters of valuation, assumptions, methodology, accounting principles and practice, or disclosure, which disagreements, if not resolved to the satisfaction of the former adviser would have caused him to make reference, in connection with the fairness opinion, to the subject matter of the disagreement or decline to give an opinion;

(v) The adviser, directly or indirectly, has no interest in, nor any material business or professional relationship with, the PROGRAM, the SPONSOR, the borrower, or any AFFILIATES thereof. Independence will be considered to be impaired if, for example, during the period of the adviser's engagement, or at any time of expressing his opinion, he or his firm: (i) has, or was committed to acquire any direct or indirect ownership interest in the PROGRAM, SPONSOR, borrower, or AFFILIATES thereof, or (ii) had any joint closely held business investment with the PROGRAM, SPONSOR, borrower, or any AFFILIATE thereof, which was material in relation to the adviser's net worth; or (iii) had any loan to or from the PROGRAM, SPONSOR, borrower, or AFFILIATES thereof.

The foregoing examples are not intended to be all-inclusive. However, for purposes of determining whether or not a business or professional relationship or joint investment is material, the gross revenue derived by the adviser from the PROGRAM, SPONSOR, borrower, and their AFFILIATES shall be deemed material if it exceeds 5% of the annual gross revenue derived by the adviser from all sources, or exceeds 5% of the individual's or advisory firm's net worth (on an estimated fair market value basis).

I. Requirement for Real Property Appraisal. Every mortgage loan originated, purchased or otherwise acquired by the PROGRAM must be supported by a current appraisal prepared by a competent, independent appraiser. The appraisal shall be maintained in the SPONSOR'S records for at least five years, and shall be made available for inspection and duplication by any PARTICIPANT. The PROSPECTUS shall contain notice of this right. Also a mortgagee's or owner's title insurance policy or commitment as to the priority of a mortgage or the condition of title shall be obtained. Further, the SPONSOR of the PROGRAM shall observe the following policies in connection with investing in or making mortgage loans.

1. The PROGRAM may not invest in or make mortgage loans on any one property which would exceed, in the aggregate, an amount equal to 20% of the CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS to be raised by the PROGRAM.

2. The PROGRAM may not invest in or make mortgage loans to or from any one borrower which would exceed, in the aggregate, an amount greater than 20% of the CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS to be raised by the PROGRAM.

3. The PROGRAM may not invest in or make mortgage loans on unimproved real property in an amount in excess of 25% of the CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS to be raised by the PROGRAM.

4. The PROGRAM shall not invest in real estate contracts of sale otherwise known as land sale contracts unless such contracts of sale are in recordable form and are appropriately recorded in chain of title.

a. The PROGRAM normally shall not make or invest in mortgage loans on any one property if at the time of the acquisition of the mortgage the aggregate amount of all mortgage loans outstanding on the property, including the loans of the PROGRAM, would exceed an amount equal to 85% of the appraised value of the property as determined by an independent appraisal, unless substantial justification exists because of the presence of other underwriting criteria.

b. If the total amount of all mortgage loans outstanding on any one property, including the loans of the PROGRAM, exceeds 80% of the value of the property, and such loans are not supported by the presence of other underwriting criteria, the minimum financial suitability standards for PARTICIPANTS shall be increased to a minimum annual gross income of $85,000, and a minimum net worth of $330,000. For purposes of this paragraph V.I.5, the "aggregate amount of all mortgage loans outstanding on the property, including the loans of the PROGRAM," shall include all interest (excluding contingent participations in income and/or appreciation in value of the mortgaged property), the current payment of which may be deferred pursuant to the terms of such loans. This restriction applies to all loans, including construction loans.

6. The PROGRAM is permitted to borrow money when it has taken over the operation of a property in order to prevent defaults under existing loans, or there otherwise is a need for additional capital with respect to such a property.

COMMENT:

This Section provides certain minimum standards in connection with the investment in or making of mortgage loans by a PROGRAM. The standards may be exceeded for a particular registration if the mortgage loans are supported by sound underwriting criteria, such as the net worth of the borrower; the credit rating of the borrower based on historical financial performance; or collateral adequate to justify waiver of application of this Section. The standards may also be exceeded where program mortgage loans are or will be insured or guaranteed by a government or a government agency; where the loan is secured by a pledge or assignment of other real estate or another real estate mortgage; where rents are assigned under a lease where a tenant or tenants have demonstrated through historical net worth and cash flow the ability to satisfy the terms of the lease; or where similar criteria are presented that are satisfactory to the Administrator.

J. PROGRAM indebtedness.

1. The PROGRAM shall not incur indebtedness at its commencement.
2. The total amount of indebtedness incurred by the PROGRAM shall at no time exceed the sum of 70% of the aggregate fair market value of all PROGRAM mortgages.

K. Appraisal and Compensation.

1. In connection with a proposed ROLL-UP, an appraisal of all PROGRAM assets shall be obtained from a competent, independent expert. If the appraisal will be included in a PROSPECTUS used to offer the securities of a ROLL-UP ENTITY, the appraisal shall be filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission and the states as an Exhibit to the Registration Statement for the offering. Accordingly, an issuer using the appraisal shall be subject to liability for violation of the Securities Act of 1933, Section 11, and comparable provisions under state laws for any material misrepresentations or material omissions in the appraisal. PROGRAM assets shall be appraised on a consistent basis. The appraisal shall be based on an evaluation of all relevant information, and shall indicate the value of the PROGRAM's assets as of a date immediately prior to the announcement of the proposed ROLL-UP. The appraisal shall assume an orderly liquidation of the PROGRAM's assets over a 12 month period. The terms of the engagement of the independent expert shall clearly state that the engagement is for the benefit of the PROGRAM and its PARTICIPANTS. A summary of the independent appraisal, indicating all material assumptions underlying the appraisal, shall be included in a report to the PARTICIPANTS in connection with a proposed ROLL-UP.

2. In connection with a proposed ROLL-UP the PERSON sponsoring the ROLL-UP shall offer to PARTICIPANTS who vote "no" on the proposal the choice of:

- A. accepting the securities of the ROLL-UP ENTITY offered in the proposed ROLL-UP; or

B. one of the following:

(i) remaining as PARTICIPANTS in the PROGRAM and preserving their interests therein on the same terms and conditions as existed previously; or

(ii) receiving cash in an amount equal to the PARTICIPANTS' pro-rata share of the appraised value of the net assets of the PROGRAM.

3. The PROGRAM shall not participate in any proposed ROLL-UP which would result in PARTICIPANTS having democracy rights in the ROLL-UP ENTITY which are less than those provided for under Section VII.A. and B. of these guidelines (relating to Rights and Obligations of PARTICIPANTS). If the ROLL-UP ENTITY is a corporation, the voting rights of PARTICIPANTS shall correspond to the voting rights provided for in these guidelines to the greatest extent possible.

4. The PROGRAM shall not participate in any proposed ROLL-UP which includes provision which would operate to materially impede or frustrate the accumulation of shares by any purchaser of the securities of the ROLL-UP ENTITY (except to the minimum extent necessary to preserve the tax status of the ROLL-UP ENTITY). The PROGRAM shall not participate in any proposed ROLL-UP which would limit the ability of a PARTICIPANT to exercise the voting rights of its securities of the ROLL-UP ENTITY on the basis of the number of PROGRAM interests held by that PARTICIPANT.

5. The PROGRAM shall not participate in any proposed ROLL-UP in which the PARTICIPANTS' rights of access to the records of the ROLL-UP ENTITY will be less than those provided for under Section VII.D. of these guidelines relating to Rights and Obligations of PARTICIPANTS).

6. The PROGRAM shall not participate in any proposed ROLL-UP in which any of the costs of the transaction would be borne by the PROGRAM if the ROLL-UP is not approved by the PARTICIPANTS.

VI. NON-SPECIFIED MORTGAGE PROGRAMS.

A. Minimum Capitalization. A non-specified mortgage PROGRAM shall provide for minimum cash gross proceeds from the offering of not less than $1 million to be available for INVESTMENT IN MORTGAGES.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

B. Experience of SPONSOR. For non-specified mortgage PROGRAMS, the SPONSOR or at least one of its principals must establish that he has the equivalent of not less than five years' experience in real estate business in an executive capacity and two years' experience in the management and acquisition of the type of mortgage loans to be acquired or otherwise must demonstrate to the satisfaction of the ADMINISTRATOR that he has sufficient knowledge and experience to acquire and manage the type of mortgages proposed to be acquired by the non-specified mortgage PROGRAM.

C. Statement of Investment Objectives. A non-specified mortgage PROGRAM shall state types of mortgages in which it proposes to invest or originate. The size and characteristics of such mortgage loans shall be consistent with the objectives of the PROGRAM and the experience of the SPONSORS. As a minimum, the following restrictions on investment objectives shall be observed.

(1) The statement of investment objectives shall indicate whether the PROGRAM will enter into joint venture arrangements and the projected extent thereof.

(2) The statement of investment objectives shall not include a quantitative estimate of the PROGRAM's anticipated economic performance or anticipated return to investors (in the form of distributable funds or tax benefits). The presentation of a proposed level of economic performance or return to investors (in the form of distributable funds or tax benefits) in connection with a non-specified mortgage PROGRAM is prohibited by Section VIII.C. of these guidelines (relating to Disclosure and Marketing Requirements).

D. Period of Offering and Expenditure of Proceeds. Subject to compliance with applicable state securities laws and regulations, an offering of securities in a non-specified mortgage PROGRAM may extend for up to two years from the date of original effectiveness provided that the minimum amount of PROGRAM interests necessary to satisfy the greater of the minimum capitalization requirements of subsection A. of this section or the impound requirements set by the PROGRAM is sold within one year of commencement of the offering. While the proceeds of an offering are awaiting investment in mortgage loans, the proceeds may be temporarily invested in short-term highly liquid investments where there is appropriate safety of principal, such as U.S. Treasury Bonds or Bills. Any proceeds of the offering of PROGRAM interests not invested within the later of two years after commencement of the offering or one year after the termination of the offering (except for necessary, operating capital) shall be distributed pro rata to the PARTICIPANTS as a return of capital so long as the adjusted INVESTMENT IN MORTGAGES is in compliance with Section IV.C. of these guidelines (relating to Fees--Compensation--Expenses).

E. Multiple PROGRAMS. The method for the allocation of the acquisition of mortgages by two or more PROGRAMS of the same SPONSOR seeking to acquire similar types of properties shall be reasonable. The method also shall, be described in the PROSPECTUS.

Upon receipt of a written request either in PERSON or by certified mail stating the purpose(s) of the meeting, the SPONSOR shall provide all PARTICIPANTS, within 10 days after receipt of said request, written notice (either in PERSON or by certified mail) of a meeting and the purpose of such meeting to be held on a date not less than 15 nor more than 60 days after receipt of said request, at a time and place convenient to PARTICIPANTS.

B. Voting Rights of Limited Partners.

1. To the extent permitted by the law of the state of formation, the PROGRAM agreement shall provide that a majority of the outstanding PROGRAM interests may, without necessity for concurrence by the general partner, vote to:

- b. remove the SPONSOR(s);
- c. elect a new SPONSOR(s);
- d. approve or disapprove the sale or liquidation of all or substantially all of the assets of the PROGRAM except pursuant to a plan disclosed in the final PROSPECTUS; and
- e. dissolve the PROGRAM.

2. Without concurrence of a majority of the outstanding PROGRAM interests, the SPONSOR(s) may not:

- a. amend the PROGRAM agreement except for amendments which do not adversely affect the rights of PARTICIPANTS;
- b. voluntarily withdraw as a SPONSOR unless such withdrawal would not affect the tax status of the

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

PROGRAM and would not materially adversely affect the PARTICIPANT;

c. appoint a new SPONSOR(s);

d. sell all or substantially all of the PROGRAM's assets other than in the ordinary course of the PROGRAM's business;

e. cause the merger or other reorganization of the PROGRAM; or

f. dissolve the PROGRAM. Notwithstanding subparagraph c. of this paragraph, an additional SPONSOR may be appointed without obtaining the consent of the PARTICIPANTS if the addition of such PERSON is necessary to preserve the tax status of the PROGRAM, such PERSON has no authority to manage or control the PROGRAM under the PROGRAM agreement, there is no change in the identity of PERSONS who have authority to manage or control the PROGRAM, and the admission of such PERSON as an additional general partner does not materially adversely affect the PARTICIPANTS.

3. Any amendment to the PROGRAM agreement which modifies the compensation or distributions to which a SPONSOR is entitled or which affects the duties of a SPONSOR may be conditioned upon the consent of the SPONSOR. With respect to any PROGRAM interests owned by the SPONSOR, the SPONSOR may not vote or consent on matters submitted to the PARTICIPANTS regarding the removal of the SPONSOR or regarding any transaction between the PROGRAM and the SPONSOR. In determining the existence of the requisite percentage of PROGRAM interests necessary to approve a matter on which the SPONSOR may not vote or consent, any PROGRAM interests owned by the SPONSOR shall not be included.

4. If the law of the State of formation provides that the PROGRAM will dissolve upon termination of a SPONSOR(s) unless the remaining SPONSOR(s) continues the existence of the PROGRAM, the PROGRAM agreement shall obligate the remaining SPONSOR(s) to continue the PROGRAM's existence; and if there will be no remaining SPONSOR(S), the termination of the last SPONSOR shall not be effective for a period of at least 120 days during which time a majority of the outstanding PROGRAM INTERESTS shall have the right to elect a SPONSOR who shall agree to continue the existence of the PROGRAM.

5. The PROGRAM agreement shall provide for a successor SPONSOR where the only SPONSOR of the PROGRAM is an individual.

C. Reports to Holders of PROGRAM INTERESTS. The PROGRAM agreement shall provide that the SPONSOR

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

shall cause to be prepared and distributed to the holders of PROGRAM interests during each year the following reports:

1. In the case of a PROGRAM registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, Section 12(g), within 60 days after the end of each quarter of the PROGRAM, a report containing:

- a. a balance sheet, which may be unaudited;
- b. a statement of income for the quarter then ended, which may be unaudited; and
- c. a statement of cash flows for the quarter then ended, which may be unaudited; and
- d. other pertinent information regarding the PROGRAM and its activities during the quarter covered by the report.

2. In the case of all PROGRAMS, within 75 days after the end of each PROGRAM's fiscal year, all information necessary for the preparation of the PARTICIPANTS' federal income tax returns.

3. In the case of all PROGRAMS, within 120 days after the end of each PROGRAMS' fiscal year, an annual report containing:

- a. audited financial statements accompanied by an auditor's report which, for purposes of this section only, may contain a qualified, adverse, or disclaimer opinion or explanatory paragraph;
- b. a report of the activities of the PROGRAM during the period covered by the report; and
- c. where forecasts have been provided to the holders of PROGRAM INTERESTS, a table comparing the forecasts previously provided with the actual results during the period covered by the report,

4. Such report shall set forth distributions to PARTICIPANTS for the period covered thereby and shall separately identify distributions from:

- a. CASH FLOW from operations during the period;
- b. CASH FLOW from operations during a prior period which had been held as reserves;
- c. proceeds from CAPITAL TRANSACTIONS;
- d. lease payments on net leases with builders and sellers; and
- e. reserves from the gross proceeds of the offering originally obtained from the PARTICIPANTS.

D. Access to Records. Every PARTICIPANT shall at all times have access to the records of the PROGRAM and may inspect and copy any of them. The limited partnership agreement, by-laws, or other PROGRAM agreement shall include the following provisions regarding access to the list of PARTICIPANTS:

1. An alphabetical list of names, addresses, and business telephone numbers of the PARTICIPANTS of the PROGRAM along with the number of PROGRAM interests held by each of them (the "PARTICIPANT list") shall be maintained as a part of the books and records of the PROGRAM and shall be available for inspection by any PARTICIPANT or its designated agent at the home office of the PROGRAM upon the request of the PARTICIPANT.
2. The PARTICIPANT list shall be updated at least quarterly to reflect changes in the information contained therein.
3. A copy of the PARTICIPANT list shall be mailed to any PARTICIPANT requesting the PARTICIPANT list within ten days of the request. The copy of the PARTICIPANT list shall be printed in alphabetical order, on white paper, and in a readily readable type size (in no event smaller than 10-point type). A reasonable charge for copy work may be charged by the PROGRAM.
4. The purposes for which a PARTICIPANT may request a copy of the PARTICIPANT list include, without limitation, matters relating to PARTICIPANT' voting rights under the PROGRAM agreement, tender offers, and the exercise of PARTICIPANT'S' rights under federal proxy laws; and

5. If the SPONSOR of the PROGRAM neglects or refuses to exhibit, produce, or mail a copy of the PARTICIPANT list as requested, the SPONSOR shall be liable to any PARTICIPANT requesting the list for the costs, including attorneys' fees, incurred by that PARTICIPANT for compelling the production of the PARTICIPANT list, and for actual damages suffered by any PARTICIPANT by reason of such refusal or neglect. It shall be a defense that the actual purpose and reason for the requests for inspection or for a copy of the PARTICIPANT list is to secure such list of PARTICIPANTS or other information for the purpose of selling such list or copies thereof, or of using the same for a commercial purpose other than in the interest of the applicant as a PARTICIPANT relative to the affairs of the PROGRAM. The SPONSOR may require the PARTICIPANT requesting the PARTICIPANT list to represent that the list is not requested for a commercial purpose unrelated to the PARTICIPANT'S interest in the PROGRAM. The remedies provided, hereunder to PARTICIPANTS requesting copies of the PARTICIPANT list are in addition to, and shall not in any way limit, other remedies available to PARTICIPANTS under federal law, or the laws of any state.

E. Admission of PARTICIPANTS. Admission of PARTICIPANTS to the PROGRAM shall be subject to the following:

1. Admission of Original PARTICIPANTS. Upon the original sale of PROGRAM INTERESTS by the PROGRAM, the purchasers should be admitted as PARTICIPANTS not later than 15 days after the release from impound of the purchaser's funds to the PROGRAM, and thereafter purchasers should be admitted into the PROGRAM not later than the last day of the calendar month following the date their subscription was accepted by the PROGRAM. Subscriptions shall be accepted or rejected by the PROGRAM within 30 days of their receipt; if rejected, all funds should be returned to the subscriber within 10 business days.

2. Admission of Substituted PARTICIPANTS and Recognition of Assignees. The PROGRAM shall amend the certificates of the PROGRAM least once each calendar quarter to effect the substitution of substituted PARTICIPANTS, although the SPONSOR may elect to do so more frequently. In the case of assignments, where the assignee does not become a substituted PARTICIPANT, the PROGRAM shall recognize the assignment not later than the last day of the calendar month following receipt of notice of assignment and required documentation.

3. Rights of Assignees.

a. Except where deemed inappropriate by the ADMINISTRATOR, PERSONS holding PROGRAM interests by assignment from entities holding limited partnership interests in a PROGRAM for the purpose of assigning all or a portion of such interests to PERSONS investing in such PROGRAM (hereinafter the "assignor") shall be expressly granted the same rights as if they were limited partners except as prohibited by applicable local law including, but not limited to, the rights enumerated in this section.

b. The assignment agreement and PROSPECTUS shall provide that the assignor's management shall have fiduciary responsibility for the safekeeping and use of all funds and assets of the assignees, whether or not in the assignor management's possession or control, and that the management of the assignor shall not employ, or permit another to employ such funds or assets in any manner except for the exclusive benefit of the assignees. In addition, the agreement shall not permit the assignees to contract away the fiduciary duty owed to the assignees by the assignor's management under the common law of agency.

F. Redemption of PROGRAM INTERESTS. Ordinarily, the PROGRAM and the SPONSOR may not be mandatorily obligated to redeem or repurchase any of its PROGRAM interests, although the PROGRAM and the SPONSOR may not be precluded from purchasing such outstanding interests if such purchase does not impair the capital or the operation of the PROGRAM. Notwithstanding the foregoing, a mortgage PROGRAM may provide for mandatory redemption rights under the following necessitous circumstances:

1. death or legal capacity of the owner, or
2. a substantial reduction in the owner's NET WORTH or income provided that:
 - a. the PROGRAM has sufficient cash to make the purchase;
 - b. the purchase will not be in violation of applicable legal requirements;
 - c. not more than 15% of the outstanding units are purchased in any year; and
 - d. where the purchase price is not mutually agreed upon, the matter shall be submitted to arbitration.

G. Transferability of PROGRAM INTERESTS. Restrictions on assignment of PROGRAM INTERESTS or on the substitution of a PARTICIPANT are generally disfavored and will be allowed only if:

1. they comply with the safe harbor provisions of Internal Revenue Service Notice 88-75 (or other safe harbors adopted by the Internal Revenue Service that protect against treatment as a publicly traded partnership); or
2. they are intended to preserve the tax status of the PROGRAM or the characterization or treatment of income or loss;

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

3. in the case of paragraph (2) of this subsection any restriction must be affirmatively supported by an opinion of counsel;

4. The PROGRAM agreement shall require the SPONSOR to eliminate or modify any restriction on substitution or assignment at such time as the restriction is no longer necessary.

H. Dividend Reinvestment Plans. A PROGRAM may offer PARTICIPANTS the opportunity to elect to have cash distributions reinvested in the PROGRAM or subsequent PROGRAMS if the following conditions are met:

1. the PROGRAM and subsequent PROGRAMS in which the PARTICIPANTS reinvest are registered or exempted under the state's blue sky laws;

2. counsel for the PROGRAM submits an opinion that the pooling of the funds for reinvestment is not in itself a security;

3. the subsequent PROGRAM has substantially identical investment objectives as the original PROGRAM;

4. the PARTICIPANTS are free to elect to revoke reinvestment within a reasonable time and such right is fully disclosed in the offering documents;

5. prior to each reinvestment the PARTICIPANTS receive a current updated disclosure document which contains at a minimum the following information:

a. the minimum investment amount;

b. the type or source of proceeds (e.g., cash distributions from operations or CAPITAL TRANSACTIONS) which may be reinvested;

c. the tax consequences of the reinvestment to the PARTICIPANTS;

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

6. counsel for the PROGRAM submits an opinion that different consideration paid on reinvestment is not in violation of the state law (the difference arises when one PARTICIPANT agrees to payment of commission to the broker-dealer and another PARTICIPANT does not agree to payment of commission);

7. the broker-dealer or the issuer assumes responsibility for blue sky compliance and performance of due diligence responsibilities and has contacted the PARTICIPANTS to ascertain whether the PARTICIPANTS continue to meet the state's suitability standard for participation in each reinvestment;

8. if a broker-dealer is involved, it shall obtain writing an agreement from the client by which the client agrees to the payment of compensation to the broker-dealer in connection with individual reinvestment.

I. Special Reports. Within 60 days after the end of each quarter during which there have been mortgage loan originations or acquisitions, a "special report" (which may be part of the quarterly report) shall be sent to all PARTICIPANTS until the proceeds of the offering are committed or returned to the investors. The report shall disclose the amount of the mortgage loan, disclose the terms of the loan, identify the borrower, identify the property securing the mortgage loan, and disclose the appraised value of the property.

J. Arbitration of Disputes. Except as permitted in Section II.F. of these guidelines (relating to Requirements of SPONSORS), no provision requiring mandatory arbitration of disputes between the PARTICIPANT and the SPONSOR or the PROGRAM is permitted. Nothing contained herein shall apply to preexisting contracts between broker-dealers and PARTICIPANTS.

VIII. DISCLOSURE AND MARKETING REQUIREMENTS.

A. Sales Promotional Efforts.

1. Sales literature. Sales literature, sales presentations (including prepared presentations to prospective investors at group meetings), and advertising used in the offer or sale of PROGRAM INTERESTS shall conform in all applicable respects to requirements of filing, disclosure, and adequacy currently imposed on sales literature, sales presentations, and advertising used in the sale of corporate securities.

K. Contents of PROSPECTUS. The PROSPECTUS shall meet the requirements of Guide 5 of the Securities and Exchange Commission. The use of proceeds tabular summary required by Guide 5 shall include a separate line item for estimated ACQUISITION AND ORIGINATION EXPENSES to be incurred by the PROGRAM. All of the information required to be set forth in the use of proceeds tabular summary by Guide 5 shall also be provided for estimated ACQUISITION AND ORIGINATION EXPENSES, including an estimate of ACQUISITION AND ORIGINATION EXPENSES to be paid to the SPONSOR. The description of the method for the allocation of the acquisition of mortgages by two or more PROGRAMS of the same SPONSOR shall meet the requirements of Section VI.E. of these guidelines (relating to Non-specified Property PROGRAMS). The ADMINISTRATOR may require additional disclosure if, in the ADMINISTRATOR's opinion, specific facts concerning the offering require it.

L. Forecasts.

1. Use of forecasts. The presentation of predicted future results of operations of real estate PROGRAMS shall be permitted but not required for specified mortgage PROGRAMS and shall be prohibited for non-specified mortgage PROGRAMS. The covers of the PROSPECTUS must contain in bold face language one of the following statements.

a. For specified mortgage PROGRAMS: FORECASTS ARE CONTAINED IN THIS PROSPECTUS (OFFERING CIRCULAR). ANY PREDICTIONS AND REPRESENTATIONS, WRITTEN OR ORAL, WHICH DO NOT CONFORM TO THOSE CONTAINED IN THE PROSPECTUS (OFFERING CIRCULAR) SHALL NOT BE PERMITTED.

b. For non-specified mortgage PROGRAMS: THE USE OF FORECASTS IN THIS OFFERING IS PROHIBITED. ANY REPRESENTATIONS TO THE CONTRARY AND ANY PREDICTIONS, WRITTEN OR ORAL, AS TO THE AMOUNT OR CERTAINTY OF ANY PRESENT OR FUTURE CASH BENEFIT OR TAX: CONSEQUENCE WHICH MAY FLOW FROM AN INVESTMENT IN THIS PROGRAM IS NOT PERMITTED.

2. Presentation of forecasts. Forecasts for specified mortgage PROGRAMS shall be included in the PROSPECTUS or sales material of the PROGRAM only if they comply with the following requirements.

a. General. Forecasts shall be realistic in their predictions and shall clearly identify the assumptions made with respect to all material features of the presentation. Forecasts shall be examined by an independent certified public accountant in accordance with the Statement on Standards for Accountant's Services on Prospective Financial Information and the Guide For Prospective Financial Statements, as promulgated by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. The accountant's examination report shall be included in the PROSPECTUS. No forecasts shall be permitted in any sales literature which does not appear in the sales literature, all forecasts must be presented.

b. Material information. Forecasts shall include all the following information:

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

- (i) Annual predicted revenue by source; including the occupancy rate used in predicting rental revenue.
 - (ii) Annual predicted expenses.
 - (iii) Debt obligation--annual payment for principal and interest, points and financing fees, shown as dollars, not percentages.
 - (iv) The loan-to-value standard to be followed by the PROGRAM.
 - (v) Predicted annual cash flow.
 - (vi) Predicted annual taxable income or loss and a simplified explanation of the tax treatment of such results; assumed tax brackets may not be used.
 - (vii) Accounting policies--e.g., with respect to points, financing costs, and depreciation.
- c. Presentation.
- (i) Caveat. Forecasts shall prominently display a statement to the effect that they represent a mere prediction of future events based on assumptions which may or may not occur and may not be relied upon to indicate the actual results which will be obtained.
 - (ii) Additional guidelines. Explanatory notes describing assumptions made and referring to risk factors should be integrated with tabular and numerical information.
- d. Additional disclosures and limitations.
- (i) Forecasts shall be for a period at least equivalent to the anticipated holding period for the mortgage, or 10 years, whichever is shorter, and project a final disposition of mortgages.

3. No quantitative estimate of anticipated return. The PROSPECTUS and sales material shall not include a quantitative estimate of a PROGRAM'S anticipated economic performance or anticipated return to PARTICIPANTS (in the form of distributable funds or tax benefits), except as permitted under subsection C. of this section.

IX. MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.

A. Reserves. Provisions should be made for adequate reserves in the future by retention of a reasonable percentage of proceeds from the offering and regular receipts for normal repairs, replacements, and contingencies. Normally, not less than 1.0% of the offering proceeds will be considered adequate.

B. Reinvestment of Cash Flow. Reinvestment of cash flow (excluding proceeds resulting from a CAPITAL TRANSACTION) shall not be allowed. Proceeds of CAPITAL TRANSACTIONS may be reinvested only within 7 years of the original effectiveness of the PROGRAM'S registration. The partnership agreement and the PROSPECTUS shall set forth that reinvestment of proceeds of a CAPITAL TRANSACTION will not take place unless sufficient cash will be distributed to pay any state or federal income tax (assuming investors are in a specified tax bracket) created by the disposition or refinancing of mortgage. Such a prohibition must be contained in the PROSPECTUS.

C. Financial Information Required on Application. In any offering of interests by a PROGRAM, the PROGRAM shall provide as an exhibit to the application the following financial information.

1. Financial statements of PROGRAM. The PROSPECTUS shall include audited financial statements of the PROGRAM for each of the last three fiscal years (or for the life of the PROGRAM, if less), provided that the only audited balance sheet that shall be required shall be as of the end of the most recent fiscal year of the PROGRAM. When a PROGRAM has operated less than one fiscal year, audited financial statements are not required unless requested by the ADMINISTRATOR.

2. Balance sheet of corporate SPONSOR. Audited financial statements consisting only of an audited balance sheet for each corporate SPONSOR as of the end of the SPONSOR's most recent fiscal year shall be included in the PROSPECTUS.

3. Other SPONSORS. A balance sheet for each non-corporate SPONSOR (including individual partners or individual joint ventures of a SPONSOR) as of a date not more than 135 days prior to the date of filing the application shall be submitted. Such balance sheet shall be prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and reviewed and reported upon by an independent certified public accountant under the review standards set forth by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, and shall be signed and sworn to by such SPONSOR. A representation of the amount of such NET WORTH must be included in the PROSPECTUS, or in the alternative, a representation that such SPONSOR meets the NET WORTH requirements of Section II.B. of these guidelines (relating to Requirements of Sponsors) shall be so included.

4. Interim Financial information. Where an audited balance sheet required by this subsection is as of a date more than 90 days prior to the date of filing, an unaudited balance sheet as of date not more than 90 days prior to the date of filing shall also be provided. Where the application is made in coordination with a Registration Statement submitted to the Securities and Exchange Commission pursuant to the Securities Act of 1933, an interim unaudited balance sheet as of a date not more than 135 days prior to the date of filing shall be provided only if the audited balance sheet is as of a date more than 134 days prior to the date of filing. Interim unaudited statements of income, partners' equity, and cash flows shall also be provided with the unaudited balance sheet in instances where such statements are required by this subsection as part of the audited financial statements for the last fiscal year. The ADMINISTRATOR may require the interim unaudited information to be included in the PROSPECTUS when the audited information required by this section must be included.

5. Filing of other statements. The ADMINISTRATOR may permit the omission of one or more of the statements requires under this subsection and the filing (in substitution thereof) of appropriate statements and verifying financial information having comparable relevance to an investor in determining whether to invest in the PROGRAM. Such substitution will only be allowed where the ADMINISTRATOR finds this would be consistent with the protection of investors.

D. Opinions of Counsel. The application for qualification and registration shall contain a favorable ruling from the Internal Revenue Service or an opinion of independent counsel to the effect that the issuer will be taxed as a "partnership" and not as an "association" for federal income tax purposes. An opinion of counsel shall be in form and substance satisfactory to the ADMINISTRATOR, and shall be unqualified except to the extent permitted by the ADMINISTRATOR. However, an opinion of counsel may be based on reasonable assumptions, such as:

1. facts or proposed operations as set forth in the offering circular or PROSPECTUS and organizational documents;

2. the absence of future changes in applicable laws;

3. the securities offered are paid for;

4. compliance with certain procedures such as the execution and delivery of certain documents and the filing of a certificate of limited partnership or and amended certificate; and

5. the continued maintenance of or compliance with certain financial, ownership, or other requirements by the issuer or SPONSOR.

E. Supplemental information. The ADMINISTRATOR may request from counsel as supplemental information such supporting legal memoranda and an analysis as he shall deem appropriate under the circumstances. To the extent the opinion of counsel or Internal Revenue Service ruling is based on the maintenance of or compliance with certain requirements or conditions by the issuer or SPONSOR the offering circular or PROSPECTUS shall contain representations that such requirements or conditions will be met and the partnership agreement shall, to the extent practicable, contain provisions requiring such compliance. There shall be included also an opinion of independent counsel to the effect that the securities being offered are duly authorized or created and validly issued interests in the issuer, and that the liability of the public investors will be limited to their respective total agreed upon investment in the issuer. The ADMINISTRATOR may request an opinion of counsel concerning tax aspects when this appears necessary for the protection of investors.

F. Provisions of Partnership Agreement. The requirements and/or provisions of appropriate portions of the following sections shall be included in the partnerships agreement: I.B. of these guidelines (relating to Definitions); II.A.-F. of these guidelines (relating to Requirements of SPONSORS); IV.C.-I. of these guidelines (relating to Fees--Compensation--Expenses); V. A.-K. of these guidelines (relating to Conflicts of Interest and Investment Restrictions); VI.C. and D. of these guidelines (relating to Non-specified Mortgage PROGRAMS); VII A.-F., H., J. and K. of these guidelines (relating to Rights and Obligations of PARTICIPANTS), and subsections A.-B. of this section.

G. General Instructions--Mortgage Program Guidelines.

1. The Cross Reference Sheet should be completed with the application for registration.

2. Sections which are not applicable should be noted as such.

3. Provisions of the PROGRAM which vary from the guidelines must be explained by footnote; for example, if the PROGRAM uses a defined term which is different from the guidelines definition, the variance must be explained. Footnotes should be numbered sequentially in the column designated footnotes and should be presented on a rider identified as footnotes with each footnote on the rider numerically corresponding to the footnote identified on the Cross Reference Sheet.

4. A section is provided at the bottom of each page of the Cross Reference Sheet for additional or supplemental cross references. Lines are provided in the event additional cross references are needed with respect to subsections of the guidelines not specifically identified on the top of the page, or in the event there were insufficient lines to present all relevant cross references with respect to an item appearing on that page.

5. The last page of The Cross Reference Sheet should be executed by preparer.

6. These general instructions should be removed before filing with the ADMINISTRATOR.

H. Amendments and Supplements. A redlined copy of all amendments and supplements to an application shall be filed with the ADMINISTRATOR as soon as the amendment or supplement is available.

Reserves shall not be included in the 75%.

27. SPONSOR--Any PERSON directly or indirectly instrumental in organizing, wholly or in part, a PROGRAM or any PERSON who will control, manage or participate in the management of a PROGRAM, and any AFFILIATE of such PERSON. Not included is any PERSON whose only relation with the PROGRAM is that of an independent manager of a portion of PROGRAM assets, and whose only compensation is as such. "SPONSOR" does not include wholly independent third parties such as attorneys, accountants, and underwriters whose only compensation is for professional services rendered in connection with the offering of PROGRAM INTERESTS. A PERSON may also be deemed a SPONSOR of the PROGRAM by:

(a) taking the initiative, directly or indirectly, in founding or organizing the business or enterprise of the PROGRAM, either alone or in conjunction with one or more other PERSONS;

(b) receiving a material participation in the PROGRAM in connection with the founding or organizing of the business of the PROGRAM, in consideration of services or property, or both services and property;

(c) having a substantial number of relationships and contacts with the PROGRAM;

(d) possessing significant rights to control PROGRAM properties;

(e) receiving fees for providing services to the PROGRAM which are paid on a basis that is not customary in the industry; or

(f) providing goods or services to the PROGRAM on a basis which was not negotiated at arm's length with the PROGRAM.

II. REQUIREMENTS OF SPONSOR

A. Experience. The SPONSOR, the general partner, or their chief operating officers shall have at least three years relevant experience demonstrating the knowledge and experience to acquire and manage the type of assets being acquired, and any of the foregoing, or any AFFILIATE providing services to the PROGRAM, shall have had not less than four years relevant experience in the kind of service being rendered or otherwise must demonstrate sufficient knowledge and experience to perform the services proposed.

COMMENT:

"Relevant experience" should be interpreted to include actual direct experience by the chief executive officer, or other PERSONS at the management level, either as a principal or agent in performing the services to be provided to the PROGRAM. This would include acquiring and managing assets for one's own account or acting as an agent in acquiring and managing assets comparable to that which the PROGRAM will acquire.

B. Financial Condition. The financial condition of the SPONSOR liable for the debts of the PROGRAM must be commensurate with any financial obligations assumed in connection with the offering and the operation of the PROGRAM. As a minimum, such SPONSOR shall have an aggregate financial NET WORTH, exclusive of home, automobiles, and home furnishings, of the greater of either $100,000, or 5.0% of the first $20 million of both the gross amount of securities currently being offered and the gross amount of any originally issued direct participation PROGRAM securities sold by the SPONSOR within the prior 12 months, plus 1.0% of all amounts in excess of the first $20 million. In determining NET WORTH for this purpose, evaluation will be made of contingent liabilities and the use of promissory notes, to determine the appropriateness of their inclusion in the computation of NET WORTH. Promissory notes may be included in NET WORTH if the maker can demonstrate the ability to pay upon demand and the terms of the notes are satisfactory to the ADMINISTRATOR. The gross amount of an offering includes the principal amounts to be received on account of deferred payments.

C. Reports. Each application for registration shall contain a commitment, executed by the SPONSOR, to submit to the ADMINISTRATOR, upon request, reports and statements required to be distributed to PARTICIPANTS pursuant to section VI. C.

COMMENT:

The SPONSOR need not file with the ADMINISTRATOR all reports that will be distributed to PARTICIPANTS, but should retain copies of such reports of information and make them available to the ADMINISTRATOR as required.

D. Fiduciary Duty of SPONSOR. The PROGRAM agreement shall provide that the SPONSOR shall have a fiduciary responsibility for the safekeeping and use of all funds and assets of the PROGRAM, whether or not in the SPONSOR's immediate possession or control, and that the SPONSOR shall not employ, or permit another to employ, such funds or assets in any manner except for the exclusive benefit of the PROGRAM. In addition, the PROGRAM shall not permit the PARTICIPANT to contract away the fiduciary obligation owed to the PARTICIPANT by the SPONSOR under common law.

E. Termination of SPONSOR.

1. The SPONSOR may not voluntarily withdraw from the PROGRAM without 120 days prior written notice to the PARTICIPANTS. If the PARTICIPANTS or any remaining SPONSOR elect to continue the PROGRAM, the withdrawing SPONSOR shall pay all expenses incurred as a result of its withdrawal.

2. Upon termination of the SPONSOR, the PROGRAM may be required to pay to the terminated SPONSOR all amounts then accrued and owing to the terminated SPONSOR. Additionally, the PROGRAM may terminate the SPONSOR's interest in PROGRAM revenues, expenses, income, losses, distributions, and capital by payment of an amount equal to the then present fair market value of the terminated SPONSOR's interest, determined by agreement of the terminated SPONSOR and the PROGRAM, or, if they cannot agree, by arbitration in accordance with the then current rules of the American Arbitration Association. The expense of arbitration shall be borne equally by the terminated SPONSOR and the PROGRAM.

3. The method of payment to the terminated SPONSOR must be fair and must protect the solvency and liquidity of the PROGRAM. When the termination is voluntary, the method of payment will be presumed to be fair if it provides for a non-interest bearing unsecured promissory note with principal payable, if at all, from distributions which the terminated SPONSOR otherwise would have received under the program agreement had the SPONSOR not been terminated. When the termination is involuntary, the method of payment will be presumed to be fair if it provides for an interest bearing promissory note maturing in not less than five years with equal installments each year.

4. The agreement should also provide for a successor SPONSOR where the only SPONSOR of the PROGRAM is an individual.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

F. Tax Ruling or Opinion. The SPONSOR shall, if the ADMINISTRATOR deems it appropriate, have a tax ruling from the U.S. Internal Revenue Service or an opinion of qualified independent tax counsel concerning the flow-through of tax benefits and other tax consequences to the PARTICIPANT. An opinion of counsel shall be in a form and substance satisfactory to the ADMINISTRATOR and shall be unqualified except to the extent permitted by the ADMINISTRATOR. Also included shall be, an opinion of independent counsel to the effect that the securities being offered are duly authorized and validly issued INTERESTS in the issuer, and that the liability of the public investors will be limited to their respective total agreed upon investment in the issuer.

COMMENT:

An opinion meeting the requirements of ABA Formal Opinion 346 (Revised) of the American Bar Association Standing Committee on Ethics and Professional Responsibility and any applicable law shall be deemed satisfactory.

G. Liability and Indemnification.

1. The PROGRAM shall not provide for indemnification of the SPONSOR for any liability or loss suffered by the SPONSOR, nor shall it provide that the SPONSOR be held harmless for any loss or liability suffered by the PROGRAM, unless all of the following conditions are met:

(a) The SPONSOR has determined, in good faith, that the course of conduct which caused the loss or liability was in the best interests of the PROGRAM.

(b) The SPONSOR was acting on behalf of or performing services for the PROGRAM.

(c) Such liability or loss was not the result of negligence or misconduct by the SPONSOR.

(d) Such indemnification or agreement to hold harmless is recoverable only out of PROGRAM net assets and not from PARTICIPANTS.

2. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in Section II.G.1., the SPONSOR and any person acting as broker-dealer shall not be indemnified for any losses, liabilities or expenses arising from or out of an alleged violation of federal or state securities laws unless one or more of the following conditions are met:

(a) There has been a successful adjudication on the merits of each count involving alleged securities law violations as to the particular indemnitee.

(b) Such claims have been dismissed with prejudice on the merits by a court of competent jurisdiction as to the particular indemnitee.

(c) A court of competent jurisdiction approves a settlement of the claims against a particular indemnitee and finds that indemnification of the settlement and related costs should be made, and the court of law considering the request for indemnification has been advised of the position of the Securities and Exchange Commission and the published position of any state securities regulatory authority in which securities of the PROGRAM were offered or sold as to indemnification for violations of securities laws.

3. The PROGRAM may not incur the cost of that portion of liability insurance which insures the SPONSOR for any liability as to which the SPONSOR is prohibited from being indemnified under this section.

4. The advancement of PROGRAM funds to a SPONSOR or its AFFILIATES for legal expenses and other costs incurred as a result of any legal action for which indemnification is being sought is permissible only if all of the following conditions are satisfied:

(a) The legal action relates to acts or omissions with respect to the performance of duties or services on behalf of the PROGRAM.

(b) The legal action is initiated by a third party who is not a PARTICIPANT, or the legal action is initiated by a PARTICIPANT and a court of competent jurisdiction specifically approves such advancement.

(c) The SPONSOR or its AFFILIATES undertake to repay the advanced funds to the PROGRAM, together with the applicable legal rate of interest thereon, in cases in which such PERSON is found not to be entitled to indemnification.

H. Arbitration Provisions. The PROGRAM agreement may contain provisions relating to the use of arbitration as a means of dispute resolution; provided however, it may not require arbitration for allegations involving breach of contract, negligence, violations of state or federal securities laws, breach of fiduciary duty or other misconduct by the SPONSOR, nor shall it provide for mandatory venue. PROGRAM agreements which contain arbitration provisions shall prominently disclose such fact on the cover page of the PROGRAM agreement. Allocation of the cost of arbitration may be made a matter for determination in the proceedings. This Section II.H is not intended to prohibit arbitration agreements entered into as a condition for opening or maintaining an account with a broker-dealer, who may also be a SPONSOR. In addition, this section II.H should not be interpreted to prohibit separate arbitration agreements between SPONSORS and PARTICIPANTS if the agreements are not a condition of making an investment in the PROGRAM.

III. SUITABILITY OF PARTICIPANTS

A. General Policy.

1. The SPONSOR shall establish minimum income and net worth standards for PERSONS who purchase PROGRAM INTERESTS.

2. The SPONSOR shall propose minimum income and net worth standards which are reasonable given the type of PROGRAM and the risks associated with the purchase of PROGRAM INTERESTS. PROGRAMS with greater investor risk shall have minimum standards with a substantial NET WORTH requirement. The ADMINISTRATOR shall evaluate the standards proposed by the SPONSOR when the PROGRAM'S application for registration is reviewed. In evaluating the proposed standards, the ADMINISTRATOR may consider the following:

(a) the PROGRAM'S use of leverage;

(b) tax implications;

(c) mandatory deferred payments;

(d) assessments;

(e) balloon payment financing;

(f) potential variances in cash distributions;

(g) potential PARTICIPANTS;

- (h) relationship between potential PARTICIPANTS and the SPONSOR;
- (i) liquidity of PROGRAM INTERESTS;
- (j) performance of SPONSOR'S prior programs;
- (k) financial condition of the SPONSOR;
- (l) potential transactions between the PROGRAM and the SPONSOR; and
- (m) any other relevant factors.

B. Income and Net Worth Standards.

1. Unless the ADMINISTRATOR determines that the risks associated with the PROGRAM would require lower or higher standards, each PARTICIPANT shall have:

- (a) a minimum annual gross income of $70,000 and a minimum NET WORTH of $70,000; or
- (b) a minimum NET WORTH of $250,000.

2. NET WORTH shall be determined exclusive of home, home furnishings, and automobiles.

3. In the case of sales to fiduciary accounts, these minimum standards shall be met by the beneficiary, the fiduciary account, or by the donor or grantor who directly or indirectly supplies the funds to purchase the PROGRAM INTERESTS if the donor or grantor is the fiduciary.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

4. The SPONSOR shall set forth in the final PROSPECTUS:

- (a) the investment objectives of the PROGRAM;
- (b) a description of the type of PERSON who might benefit from an investment in the PROGRAM; and
- (c) the minimum standards imposed on each PARTICIPANT in the PROGRAM.

C. Determination that Sale to PARTICIPANT is Suitable and Appropriate.

1. The SPONSOR and each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM shall make every reasonable effort to determine that the purchase of PROGRAM INTERESTS is a suitable and appropriate investment for each PARTICIPANT.

2. In making this determination, the SPONSOR or each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM shall ascertain that the prospective PARTICIPANT:

- (a) meets the minimum income and net worth standards established for the PROGRAM;
- (b) can reasonably benefit from the PROGRAM based on the prospective PARTICIPANT'S overall investment objectives and portfolio structure;
- (c) is able to bear the economic risk of the investment based on the prospective PARTICIPANT'S overall financial situation; and
- (d) has apparent understanding of:
 - (i) the fundamental risks of the investment;

- (ii) the risk that the PARTICIPANT may lose the entire investment;
- (iii) the lack of liquidity of PROGRAM INTERESTS;
- (iv) the restrictions on transferability of PROGRAM INTERESTS;
- (v) the background and qualifications of the SPONSOR or the PERSONS responsible for directing and managing the PROGRAM; and
- (vi) the tax consequences of the investment.

3. The SPONSOR or each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM will make this determination on the basis of information it has obtained from a prospective PARTICIPANT. Relevant information for this purpose will include at least the age, investment objectives, investment experience, income, NET WORTH, financial situation, and other investments of the prospective PARTICIPANT, as well as any other pertinent factors.

4. The SPONSOR or each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM shall maintain records of the information used to determine that an investment in PROGRAM INTERESTS is suitable and appropriate for each PARTICIPANT. The SPONSOR or each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM shall maintain these records for at least six years.

5. The SPONSOR shall disclose in the final PROSPECTUS the responsibility of the SPONSOR and each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM to make every reasonable effort to determine that the purchase of PROGRAM INTERESTS is a suitable and appropriate investment for each PARTICIPANT, based on information provided by the PARTICIPANT regarding the PARTICIPANT'S financial situation and investment objectives.

D. Subscription Agreements.

1. The ADMINISTRATOR may require that each PARTICIPANT complete and sign a written subscription agreement.

2. The SPONSOR may require that each PARTICIPANT make certain factual representations in the subscription agreement, including the following:

- (a) The PARTICIPANT meets the minimum income and net worth standards established for the PROGRAM.
- (b) The PARTICIPANT is purchasing the PROGRAM INTERESTS for his or her own account.
- (c) The PARTICIPANT has received a copy of the PROSPECTUS.
- (d) The PARTICIPANT acknowledges that the investment is not liquid.

3. The PARTICIPANT must separately sign or initial each representation made in the subscription agreement. Except in the case of fiduciary accounts, the PARTICIPANT may not grant any PERSON a power of attorney to make such representations on his or her behalf.

4. The SPONSOR and each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM shall not require a PARTICIPANT to make representations in the subscription agreement which are subjective or unreasonable and which:

- (a) might cause the PARTICIPANT to believe that he or she has surrendered rights to which he or she is entitled under federal or state law; or
- (b) would have the effect of shifting the duties regarding suitability, imposed by law on broker-dealers, to the PARTICIPANT.

5. Prohibited representations include, but are not limited to the following:

- (a) The PARTICIPANT understands or comprehends the risks associated with an investment in the PROGRAM.

(b) The investment is a suitable one for the PARTICIPANT.

(c) The PARTICIPANT has read the PROSPECTUS.

(d) In deciding to invest in the PROGRAM, the PARTICIPANT has relied solely on the PROSPECTUS, and not on any other information or representations from other PERSONS or sources.

6. The SPONSOR may place the content of the prohibited representations in the subscription agreement in the form of disclosures to the PARTICIPANT. The SPONSOR may not place these disclosures in the PARTICIPANT representation section of the subscription agreement.

E. Completion of Sale.

1. The SPONSOR or any person selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM may not complete a sale of PROGRAM INTERESTS to a PARTICIPANT until at least five business days after the date the PARTICIPANT receives a final prospectus.

2. The SPONSOR or the PERSON designated by the SPONSOR shall send each PARTICIPANT a confirmation of his or her purchase.

F. Minimum Investment.

The ADMINISTRATOR may require a minimum initial and subsequent cash investment amount.

IV. FEES, COMPENSATION, AND EXPENSES

A. Introduction.

1. The total amount of consideration of all kinds which may be paid directly or indirectly to all parties shall be reasonable.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

2. The PROSPECTUS must fully disclose and itemize all consideration which may be received in connection with the PROGRAM directly or indirectly by the SPONSOR and underwriters, what the consideration is for and how and when it will be paid. This shall be set forth in one location in tabular form.

3. This Section of these Guidelines will ordinarily not be applied to PROGRAMS being registered by a SPONSOR which has qualified repetitive PROGRAMS with a permitted structure of fees, compensation and expenses prior to the effective date of these Guidelines. This Section of these Guidelines should be applied in a flexible manner to all other PROGRAMS to take into consideration competition against PROGRAMS with ongoing variance from the provisions of this Section and characteristics of the particular plan of business of each PROGRAM including whether it requires intensive continuing management activities by the SPONSOR.

B. FRONT END FEES.

1. All FRONT END FEES shall be reasonable and generally will not be allowed to exceed 18% of the gross proceeds of the offering, regardless of the source of payment. Any reimbursement to the SPONSOR for deferred ORGANIZATIONAL AND OFFERING EXPENSES, including any interest thereon, if any, will be included within the 18% limitation.

2. All items of compensation to underwriters or dealers, including, but not limited to, selling commissions, expenses, rights of first refusal, consulting fees, finders' fees and all other items of compensation of any kind or description paid by the PROGRAM, directly or indirectly, shall be taken into consideration in computing the amount of allowable selling commissions.

C. INVESTMENT IN PROGRAM ASSETS.

1. The SPONSOR shall commit a substantial percentage of the CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS toward INVESTMENT IN PROGRAM ASSETS. The remaining CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS may be used to pay FRONT END FEES.

2. The percentage of CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS committed to INVESTMENT IN PROGRAM ASSETS will generally be required to be at least 82 percent.

D. COMPENSATION FOR PROGRAM MANAGEMENT.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

1. Any management compensation taken by the SPONSOR shall be reasonable, taking into account all relevant factors.

2. Management compensation will be considered presumptively reasonable if it complies with the following limitations:

(a) For Business Development Companies, it is limited to the participation in net gains allowed by the Investment Company Act of 1940.

(b) For other PROGRAMS, it is limited to either:

(i) a 5.0% PROMOTIONAL INTEREST prior to PAYOUT and a 15.0% PROMOTIONAL INTEREST after PAYOUT; or

(ii) A NET ASSET FEE of not more than 0.75%.

3. SPONSORS that elect to receive a NET ASSET FEE will not be entitled to any payment upon termination for NET ASSET FEES attributable to future periods.

4. SPONSORS that elect to receive a NET ASSET FEE may be allocated up to 1% of the PROGRAM'S profits and losses if such allocation is necessary to preserve the PROGRAM'S status for tax purposes.

E. Other Goods or Services. The SPONSOR may provide other goods or services to the PROGRAM in connection with the operation of PROGRAM assets as long as the SPONSOR, as a fiduciary, determines such self-dealing arrangement is in the best interest of the PROGRAM. The terms pursuant to which all goods or services are provided to the PROGRAM by the SPONSOR shall be embodied in a written contract, the material terms of which must be fully disclosed to the PARTICIPANTS. The contract may only be modified by vote of a majority of the then outstanding PROGRAM INTERESTS. The contract shall contain a clause allowing termination without penalty on 60 days notice.

1. At a minimum, arrangements must meet all of the following criteria:

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

(a) The SPONSOR must be independently engaged in the business of providing such goods or services to PERSONS other than AFFILIATES and at least 33% of the SPONSOR'S associated gross revenues must come from PERSONS other than AFFILIATES.

(b) The compensation, price or fee charged for providing such goods or services must be comparable and competitive with the compensation, price or fee charged by PERSONS other than AFFILIATES in the same geographic location who provide comparable goods or services which could reasonably be made available to the PROGRAM.

(c) Except in extraordinary circumstances, the compensation and other material terms of the arrangement must be fully disclosed in the PROSPECTUS. Extraordinary circumstances are limited to instances when immediate action is required and the goods or services are not immediately available from PERSONS other than AFFILIATES.

2. If the SPONSOR is not engaged in the business to the extent required by Section IV.E.1.(a). above, the SPONSOR may provide other goods and services if all of the following additional conditions are met:

(a) It can demonstrate the capacity and capability to provide such goods or services on a competitive basis.

(b) The goods or services are provided at the lesser of cost or the competitive rate charged by PERSONS other than AFFILIATES in the same geographic location who are in the business of providing comparable goods or services.

(c) The cost is limited to the reasonable necessary and actual expenses incurred by the SPONSOR on behalf of the PROGRAM in providing such goods or services, exclusive of expenses of the type which may not be reimbursed under Section IV.F.1.

(d) Expenses are allocated in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and are made subject to the special audit required by Section IV.F.2.

F. Expenses of the PROGRAM.

1. All expenses of the PROGRAM shall be billed to and paid by the PROGRAM. The SPONSOR may be reimbursed for the actual cost of goods and services used for or by the PROGRAM and obtained from PERSONS other than AFFILIATES. The SPONSOR may be reimbursed for the administrative services necessary to the prudent operation of the PROGRAM; provided, the reimbursement shall be the lower of the SPONSOR'S actual cost or the amount the PROGRAM would be required to pay PERSONS other than AFFILIATES for comparable administrative services in the same geographic location; and provided, further, that such costs are reasonably allocated to the PROGRAM on the basis of assets, revenues, time records or other method conforming with generally accepted accounting principles. No reimbursement shall be permitted for services for which the SPONSOR is entitled to compensation by way of a separate fee. Excluded from the allowable reimbursement shall be:

(a) rent or depreciation, utilities, capital equipment, other administrative items of the SPONSOR; and

(b) salaries, fringe benefits, travel expenses and other administrative items incurred or allocated to any CONTROLLING PERSON of the SPONSOR.

2. The annual PROGRAM report must contain a breakdown of the costs reimbursed to the SPONSOR. Within the scope of the annual audit of the SPONSOR'S financial statements, the independent certified public accountants must issue a special report on the allocation of such costs to the PROGRAM in accordance with the PROGRAM agreement. The special report shall be in accordance with the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants United States Auditing Standards relating to special reports. The additional costs of such special report will be itemized by said accountants on a PROGRAM by PROGRAM basis and may be reimbursed to the SPONSOR by the PROGRAM in accordance with this subparagraph only to the extent that such reimbursement, when added to the cost for administrative services rendered, does not exceed the competitive rate for such services as determined above. The special report shall at minimum provide:

(a) a review of the time records of individual employees, the costs of whose services were reimbursed; and

(b) a review of the specific nature of the work performed by each such employee.

COMMENT:

The following is an illustration of a report prepared by ABC Accountants expressing an opinion on reimbursed costs of XYZ PROGRAM.

We have audited the accompanying schedule of cost reimbursed as defined in the PROGRAM agreement dated _____ of XYZ PROGRAM as of December 31, 19XX. This schedule is the responsibility of the PROGRAMS management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion of this schedule based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the schedule of cost reimbursed is free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts of and disclosures in the schedule of cost reimbursed. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall schedule presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the schedule of cost reimbursed referred to above presents fairly, in all material respects, the cost reimbursed of XYZ PROGRAM as of December 31, 19XX as defined in the PROGRAM agreement referred to in the first paragraph.

3. The PROSPECTUS shall disclose in tabular form an itemized estimate of such proposed expenses for the next fiscal year together with a breakdown by year of such expenses reimbursed in each of the last five public PROGRAMS formed by the SPONSOR.

V. CONFLICTS OF INTEREST AND INVESTMENT RESTRICTIONS

A. Sales and Leases to PROGRAM.

1. A PROGRAM shall not purchase or lease assets in which a SPONSOR has an interest unless all of the following conditions are met:

(a) The transaction occurs at the formation of the PROGRAM and is fully disclosed in its PROSPECTUS.

(b) The assets are sold upon terms fair to the PROGRAM and at a price not to exceed the lesser of cost or fair market value as determined by an INDEPENDENT EXPERT.

2. Notwithstanding provisions of Subsection 1 above, the SPONSOR may purchase assets in its own name (and assume loans in connection therewith) and temporarily hold title thereto, for the purposes of facilitating the acquisition of the assets, the borrowing of money, obtaining financing for the PROGRAM, or completion of construction of the assets, provided that all of the following conditions are met:

(a) The assets are purchased by the PROGRAM for a price no greater than the cost of the assets to the SPONSOR.

(b) All income generated by, and expenses associated with, the assets so acquired shall be treated as belonging to the PROGRAM.

(c) There are no other benefits arising out of such transaction to the SPONSOR apart from compensation otherwise permitted by these Guidelines.

B. Sales and Leases to SPONSOR.

1. A SPONSOR shall not acquire assets from the PROGRAM unless approved by the PARTICIPANTS in accordance with subsection VI.B.1(d).

2. A PROGRAM may lease assets to the SPONSOR only if both of the following are met:

(a) The transaction occurs at the formation of the PROGRAM, and is fully disclosed in the PROSPECTUS.

(b) The terms of the lease are fair to the PROGRAM.

C. Loans. No loans may be made by the PROGRAM to the SPONSOR.

D. Exchange of PROGRAM INTERESTS. The PROGRAM may not acquire assets in exchange for PROGRAM INTERESTS.

E. Exclusive agreement. The PROGRAM shall not give the SPONSOR an exclusive right to sell or exclusive employment to sell assets for the PROGRAM.

F. Commissions on financing, refinancing or reinvestment. A PROGRAM shall not pay, directly or indirectly, a commission or fee to a SPONSOR (except as permitted under Section IV.B.1) in connection with the reinvestment of CASH AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION or of the proceeds of the resale, exchange, or refinancing of PROGRAM assets.

G. Rebates, Kickbacks, and Reciprocal Arrangements.

1. No rebates or give-ups may be received by the SPONSOR nor may the SPONSOR participate in any reciprocal business arrangements which would circumvent these Guidelines. Furthermore, the PROSPECTUS and PROGRAM agreement shall contain language prohibiting the above, as well as language prohibiting reciprocal business arrangements which would circumvent the restrictions against dealing with AFFILIATES or promoters.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

2. No SPONSOR shall directly or indirectly pay or award any commissions or other compensation to any PERSON engaged to sell PROGRAM INTERESTS or give investment advice to a potential PARTICIPANT; provided, however, that this clause shall not prohibit the payment to a registered broker-dealer or other properly licensed PERSON of normal sales commissions for selling PROGRAM INTERESTS.

H. Commingling. The funds of a PROGRAM shall not be commingled with the funds of any other PERSON. Nothing contained in this section shall prohibit the SPONSOR from establishing a master fiduciary account pursuant to which separate sub-trust accounts are established for the benefit of AFFILIATED PROGRAMS, provided that PROGRAM funds are protected from the claims of such other PROGRAMS and creditors of the PROGRAMS. The prohibition of this Section shall not apply to investments meeting the requirements of Section V.I.

I. Investment in Other PROGRAMS.

1. The PROGRAM shall be permitted to invest in general partnerships or joint ventures with non-AFFILIATES that own and operate specific assets, if the PROGRAM, alone or together with any publicly registered AFFILIATE of the PROGRAM meeting the requirements of Subsection (b) below, acquires a controlling interest in such a general partnership or joint venture, but in no event shall duplicate fees be permitted. For purposes of this section, "controlling interest" means an equity interest possessing the power to direct or cause the direction of the management and policies of the general partnership or joint venture, including the authority to:

(a) review all contracts entered into by the general partnership or joint venture that will have a material effect on its business or assets;

(b) cause a sale or refinancing of the assets or its interest therein subject, in certain cases where required by the partnership or joint venture agreement, to limits as to time, minimum amounts and/or a right of first refusal by the joint venture partner or consent of the joint venture partner;

(c) approve budgets and major capital expenditures, subject to a stated minimum amount;

(d) veto any sale or refinancing of the assets, or alternatively, to receive a specified preference on sale or refinancing proceeds; and

(e) exercise a right of first refusal on any desired sale or refinancing by the joint venture partner of its interest in the assets, except for transfer to an AFFILIATE of the joint venture partner.

2. The PROGRAM shall be permitted to invest in general partnerships or joint ventures with other publicly registered AFFILIATES of the PROGRAM if all of the following conditions are met:

- (a) The PROGRAMS have substantially identical investment objectives.
- (b) There are no duplicate fees.
- (c) The compensation payable by the general partnership or joint venture to the SPONSORS in each PROGRAM that invests in such partnership or joint venture is substantially identical.
- (d) Each PROGRAM has a right of first refusal to buy if the other PROGRAM wishes to sell assets held in the joint venture.
- (e) The investment of each PROGRAM is on substantially the same terms and conditions.
- (f) The PROSPECTUS discloses the potential risk of impasse on joint venture decisions since no PROGRAM controls, and the potential risk that while a PROGRAM may have the right to buy the assets from the partnership or joint venture, it may not have the resources to do so.

3. The PROGRAM shall be permitted to invest in general partnerships or joint ventures with AFFILIATES other than publicly registered AFFILIATES of the PROGRAM only if all of the following conditions are met:

- (a) The investment is necessary to relieve the SPONSOR from any commitment to purchase the assets entered into in compliance with Section V.A.2. prior to the closing of the offering period of the PROGRAM.
- (b) There are no duplicate fees.
- (c) The investment of each entity is on substantially the same terms and conditions.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

(d) The PROGRAM has a right of first refusal to buy if the SPONSOR wishes to sell assets held in the joint venture.

(e) The PROSPECTUS discloses the potential risk of impasse on joint venture decisions.

4. PROGRAMS structured to conduct operations through separate single-purpose entities managed by the SPONSOR (multi-tier arrangements) shall be permitted provided that the terms of any such arrangements do not result in the circumvention of any of the requirements or prohibitions contained in these Guidelines. In particular, all such PROGRAM agreements shall accompany the PROSPECTUS, if available, and shall contain provisions which assure that all of the following restrictions will be present:

(a) There will be no duplication or increase in ORGANIZATION AND OFFERING EXPENSES, SPONSOR's compensation, program expenses or other fees and costs.

(b) There will be no substantive alteration in the fiduciary and contractual relationship between the SPONSOR and the PARTICIPANTS.

(c) There will be no diminishment in the voting rights of PARTICIPANTS.

5. Other than as specifically permitted in Subsections (2), (3) and (4) above, the PROGRAM shall not be permitted to invest in general partnerships or joint ventures with AFFILIATES.

6. A PROGRAM shall be permitted to invest in general partnership interests of limited partnerships only if the PROGRAM, alone or together with any publicly registered AFFILIATE of the PROGRAM meeting the requirements of Subsection (2) above, acquires a "controlling interest" as defined in Subsection (1), no duplicate fees are permitted, no additional compensation beyond that permitted by the ADMINISTRATOR is paid to the SPONSOR, and the PROGRAM agreement complies with Section V.

COMMENT:

Nothing contained in Section V.I. may be used to circumvent or abrogate the restrictions and requirements of these Guidelines, including, but not limited to, Section V.A.

J. Lending Practices. On financing made available to the PROGRAM by the SPONSOR, the SPONSOR may not receive interest in excess of the lesser of the SPONSOR's cost of funds or the amounts which would be charged by unrelated lending institutions on comparable loans for the same purpose. The SPONSOR shall not impose a prepayment charge or penalty in connection with such financing and the SPONSOR shall not receive points or other financing charges. The SPONSOR shall be prohibited from providing permanent financing for the PROGRAM. For purposes of this Section, "permanent financing" shall mean any financing with a term in excess of 12 months.

K. Minimum Capitalization. The minimum amount of funds to activate a PROGRAM shall be sufficient to accomplish the objectives of the PROGRAM, including "spreading the risk". Where it appears unlikely that the stated objectives of the PROGRAM can be achieved with the minimum subscriptions, the ADMINISTRATOR may require a greater amount or a lesser amount based on the stated objectives of the PROGRAM. All funds received prior to activation of the PROGRAM must be deposited in an interest bearing account with an independent custodian, trustee, or escrow agent whose name and address shall be disclosed in the PROSPECTUS. Provision must be made for the return to public investors of 100% of paid subscriptions, including interest earned, in the event that the established minimum to activate the PROGRAM is not reached.

L. Statement of Objectives. The PROSPECTUS must state specific investment objectives of the PROGRAM. It should indicate whether the primary objective is to obtain current income, tax benefits, or capital appreciation for its PARTICIPANTS.

M. Multiple PROGRAMS. The method for the allocation of the acquisition of properties by two or more PROGRAMS of the same SPONSOR seeking to acquire similar types of assets shall be reasonable. The method also shall be described in the PROSPECTUS.

N. Period of Offering and Expenditure of Proceeds. The offering period of PROGRAM INTERESTS in a PROGRAM may not exceed one year from the date of effectiveness unless permitted by the ADMINISTRATOR. While the proceeds of an offering are awaiting INVESTMENT IN PROGRAM ASSETS, the proceeds may be temporarily placed into short-term, highly liquid investments which afford appropriate safety of principal, such as U.S. Treasury Bonds or Bills. Any proceeds of the offering of PROGRAM INTERESTS not committed for investment within the later of two years from the date of effectiveness or one year from termination of the offering, unless a longer period is permitted by the ADMINISTRATOR, shall be distributed pro rata to the PARTICIPANTS as a return of capital without deduction of FRONT END FEES.

O. ASSESSMENTS. Mandatory ASSESSMENTS of any kind shall be prohibited.

P. Appraisal and Compensation.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

of a ROLL-UP ENTITY, the appraisal shall be filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission and the ADMINISTRATOR as an Exhibit to the Registration Statement for the offering. Accordingly, an issuer using the appraisal shall be subject to liability for violation of Section 11 of the Securities Act of 1933 and comparable provisions under State law for any material misrepresentations or material omissions in the appraisal. PROGRAM assets shall be appraised on a consistent basis. The appraisal shall be based on all relevant information and shall indicate the value of the PROGRAM's assets as of a date immediately prior to the announcement of the proposed ROLL-UP. The appraisal shall assume an orderly liquidation over a 12 month period. The terms of the engagement of the INDEPENDENT EXPERT shall clearly state that the engagement is the benefit of the PROGRAM and its PARTICIPANTS. A summary of the independent appraisal, indicating all material assumptions underlying the appraisal, shall be included in a report to the PARTICIPANTS in connection with a proposed ROLL-UP.

2. In connection with a proposed ROLL-UP, the PERSON sponsoring the ROLL-UP shall offer to PARTICIPANTS who vote "no" on the proposal the choice of:

(a) accepting the securities of the ROLL-UP ENTITY offered in the proposed ROLL-UP; or

(b) one of the following:

(i) remaining as PARTICIPANTS in the PROGRAM and preserving their INTERESTS therein on the same terms and conditions as existed previously; or

(ii) receiving cash in an amount equal to the PARTICIPANTS' pro rata share of the appraised value of the net assets of the PROGRAM.

COMMENT:

With respect to the options specified in Subsection V.P.2.(b), the PERSON sponsoring the ROLL-UP needs only offer one of these alternatives to dissenting investors who do not wish to accept the security of the ROLL-UP ENTITY.

3. The PROGRAM shall not participate in any proposed ROLL-UP which, if approved, would result in PARTICIPANTS having democracy rights in the ROLL-UP ENTITY which are less than those provided for under Sections VI. A. and VI. B. of these Guidelines. If the ROLL-UP ENTITY is a corporation, the democracy rights of PARTICIPANTS shall correspond to the democracy rights provided for in these Guidelines to greatest extent possible.

4. The PROGRAM shall not participate in any proposed ROLL-UP which includes provisions which would operate to materially impede or frustrate the accumulation of shares by any purchaser of the securities of the ROLL-UP ENTITY (except to the minimum extent necessary to preserve the tax status of the ROLL-UP ENTITY). The

PROGRAM shall not participate in any proposed ROLL-UP which would limit the ability of a PARTICIPANT to exercise the voting rights of its securities of the ROLL-UP ENTITY on the basis of the number of PROGRAM INTERESTS held by that PARTICIPANT.

5. The PROGRAM shall not participate in any proposed ROLL-UP in which PARTICIPANTS' rights of access to the records of the ROLL-UP ENTITY will be less than those provided for under Section VI. D. of these Guidelines.

6. The PROGRAM shall not participate in any proposed ROLL-UP in which any of the costs of the transaction would be borne by the PROGRAM if the ROLL-UP is not approved by the PARTICIPANTS.

VI. Rights and Obligations of PARTICIPANTS

A. Meetings. Meetings of the PROGRAM may be called by the SPONSOR or the PARTICIPANTS holding ten percent or more of the then outstanding PROGRAM INTERESTS, for any matters for which the PARTICIPANTS may vote as set forth in the PROGRAM agreement. Upon receipt of a written request, either in PERSON or by certified mail, stating the purpose(s) of the meeting, the SPONSOR shall provide all PARTICIPANTS within ten days after receipt of said request, written notice, either in PERSON or by mail, of a meeting and the purpose of such meeting to be held on a date not less than fifteen nor more than sixty days after distribution of such notice, at a time and place specified in the request, or if none is specified, at a time and place convenient to PARTICIPANTS.

B. Voting Rights of PARTICIPANTS

1. The PROGRAM agreement must provide that a majority of the then outstanding PROGRAM INTERESTS may, without the necessity for concurrence by the SPONSOR, vote to:

(a) amend the PROGRAM agreement;

(b) dissolve the PROGRAM;

(c) remove the SPONSOR and elect a new SPONSOR; and

(d) approve or disapprove the sale of all or substantially all of the assets of the PROGRAM, when such sale is to be made other than in the ordinary course of the PROGRAM's business.

2. Without concurrence of a majority of the outstanding PROGRAM INTERESTS, the SPONSOR may not:

(a) amend the PROGRAM agreement except for amendments which do not adversely affect the rights of PARTICIPANTS;

(b) voluntarily withdraw as a SPONSOR unless such withdrawal would not affect the tax status of the PROGRAM and would not materially adversely affect the PARTICIPANT;

(c) appoint a new SPONSOR;

(d) sell all or substantially all of the PROGRAM's assets other than in the ordinary course of the PROGRAM's business; or

(e) cause the merger or other reorganization of the PROGRAM.

3. With respect to any PROGRAM INTERESTS owned by the SPONSOR, the SPONSOR may not vote or consent on matters submitted to the PARTICIPANTS regarding the removal of the SPONSOR or regarding any transaction between the PROGRAM and the SPONSOR. In determining the existence of the requisite percentage in interest of PROGRAM INTERESTS necessary to approve a matter on which the SPONSOR may not vote or consent, any PROGRAM INTERESTS owned by the SPONSOR shall not be included.

C. Reports to PARTICIPANTS. The PROGRAM agreement shall provide that the SPONSOR shall cause to be prepared and distributed to PARTICIPANTS during each year the following reports:

1. In the case of PROGRAM registered under Section 12(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, within sixty days after the end of each quarter of the PROGRAM, a report containing the same financial information contained in the PROGRAM's Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q filed by the PROGRAM under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934.

2. In the case of all other PROGRAMS, within sixty days of the end of the first six months of each fiscal year, a report, prepared on the same accounting basis to be utilized in the annual reports, containing:

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

- (a) a balance sheet, which may be unaudited;
- (b) a statement of income for the period then ended, which may be unaudited;
- (c) a statement of PARTICIPANTS' equity for the period then ended, which may be unaudited;
- (d) a statement of CASH FLOW for the period then ended, which may be unaudited; and
- (e) other pertinent material regarding the PROGRAM and its activities during the period covered by the report.

3. In the case of all PROGRAMS, within 120 days after the end of each PROGRAM'S fiscal year, an annual report containing:

(a) a balance sheet as of the end of each fiscal year and statements of income, PARTICIPANTS' equity, and CASH FLOW, for the year then ended, all of which shall be prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and accompanied by an auditor's report containing an opinion of an independent certified public accountant;

(b) a report of the activities of the PROGRAM during the period covered by the report; and

(c) where forecasts have been provided to the PARTICIPANTS, a table comparing the forecasts previously provided with the actual results during the period covered by the report; and

(d) a report setting forth distributions to PARTICIPANTS for the period covered thereby and separately identifying distributions from:

(i) CASH FLOW from operations during the period,

(ii) CASH FLOW from operations during a prior period which have been held as reserves,

(iii) proceeds from disposition of PROGRAM assets; and

(iv) reserves from the gross proceeds of the offering originally obtained from the PARTICIPANTS.

4. In the case of all PROGRAMS, within 75 days after the end of each PROGRAM'S fiscal year, all information necessary for the preparation of the PARTICIPANTS' federal income tax returns.

5. Where PROGRAM INTERESTS have been purchased on a deferred payment basis, on which there remains an unpaid balance during any period covered by any report required by Subsections 1, 2, and 3, hereof; then such report shall contain a detailed statement of the status of all deferred payments, actions taken by the PROGRAM in response to any defaults, and a discussion and analysis of the impact on capital requirements of the PROGRAM.

D. Access to PROGRAM Records.

Every PARTICIPANT shall at all times have access to the records of the PROGRAM and may inspect and copy any of them. However, the ADMINISTRATOR may consider the appropriateness of including a clause in the PROGRAM agreement to restrict access to trade secrets relating to PROGRAM investments. The limited partnership agreement, by-laws or other PROGRAM agreement shall include the following provisions regarding access to the list of PARTICIPANTS:

1. An alphabetical list of the names, addresses and business telephone numbers of the PARTICIPANTS of the PROGRAM along with the number of PROGRAM INTERESTS held by each of them (the "PARTICIPANT list") shall be maintained as a part of the books and records of the PROGRAM and shall be available for inspection by any PARTICIPANT or its designated agent at the home office of the PROGRAM upon the request of the PARTICIPANT.

2. The PARTICIPANT list shall be updated at least quarterly to reflect changes in the information contained therein.

3. A copy of the PARTICIPANT list shall be mailed to any PARTICIPANT requesting the PARTICIPANT list within ten days of the request. The copy of the PARTICIPANT list shall be printed in alphabetical order, on white paper, and in a readily readable type size (in no event smaller than 10-point type). A reasonable charge for copy work may be charged by the PROGRAM.

4. The purposes for which a PARTICIPANT may request a copy of the PARTICIPANT list include, without limitation, matters relating to PARTICIPANTS' voting rights under the PROGRAM agreement and the exercise of PARTICIPANTS' rights under federal proxy laws.

5. If the SPONSOR of the PROGRAM neglects or refuses to exhibit, produce, or mail a copy of the PARTICIPANT list as requested, the SPONSOR shall be liable to any PARTICIPANT requesting the list for the costs, including attorneys' fees, incurred by that PARTICIPANT for compelling the production of the PARTICIPANT list, and for actual damages suffered by any PARTICIPANT by reason of such refusal or neglect. It shall be a defense that the actual purpose and reason for the requests for inspection or for a copy of the PARTICIPANT list is to secure such list of PARTICIPANTS or other information for the purpose of selling such list or copies thereof, or of using the same for a commercial purpose other than in the interest of the applicant as a PARTICIPANT relative to the affairs of the PROGRAM. The SPONSOR may require the PARTICIPANT requesting the PARTICIPANT list to represent that the list is not requested for a commercial purpose unrelated to the PARTICIPANT'S interest in the PROGRAM. The remedies provided hereunder to PARTICIPANTS requesting copies of the PARTICIPANT list are in addition to, and shall not in any way limit, other remedies available to PARTICIPANTS under federal law, or the laws of any state.

E. Admission of PARTICIPANTS. Admission of PARTICIPANTS to the PROGRAM shall be subject to the following:

1. Admission of Original PARTICIPANTS. Upon the original sale of PROGRAM INTERESTS, the purchasers should be admitted as PARTICIPANTS not later than the last day of the calendar month following the date their subscription was accepted by the PROGRAM. Subsequent subscriptions shall be accepted or rejected by the program within 30 days of their receipt; if rejected, all subscription monies should be returned to the subscriber within 10 business days.

2. Admission of Substituted PARTICIPANTS and Recognition of Assignees. The PROGRAM shall amend its records at least once each calendar quarter to effect the substitution of substituted PARTICIPANTS, although the SPONSOR may elect to do so more frequently. In the case of assignments, where the assignee does not become a substituted PARTICIPANT, the PROGRAM shall recognize the assignment not later than the last day of the calendar month following receipt of notice assignment and required documentation.

3. Except where deemed inappropriate by the ADMINISTRATOR, PERSONS holding PROGRAM INTERESTS for the purpose of assigning all or a portion of such interests (hereinafter "Assignor") shall be expressly granted the same rights as if they were PARTICIPANTS except as prohibited by applicable law, including but not limited to, the rights enumerated under Article VI of these Guidelines. The assignment agreement and PROSPECTUS shall provide that the Assignor's management shall have fiduciary responsibility for the safekeeping and use of all funds and assets of the Assignees, whether or not in the Assignor management's possession or control, and that the management of the Assignor shall not employ, or permit another to employ, such funds or assets in any manner except for the exclusive benefit of the Assignees. In addition, the agreement shall not permit the Assignees to contract away the fiduciary duty owed to the Assignees by the Assignor's management under the common law of agency.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

F. Redemption of PROGRAM INTERESTS. Ordinarily, the PROGRAM and the SPONSOR are not obligated to redeem or repurchase any of the PROGRAM INTERESTS. However, the PROGRAM and the SPONSOR are not precluded from voluntarily repurchasing or redeeming the PROGRAM INTERESTS if such repurchase or redemption does not impair the capital or operations of the PROGRAM. A PROGRAM may provide for mandatory redemption rights under the following circumstances:

1. death or legal incapacity of the PARTICIPANT, or
2. a substantial reduction in the PARTICIPANT'S NET WORTH or income provided that all of the following are met:
 - (a) the PROGRAM has sufficient cash to make the purchase.
 - (b) the purchase will not be in violation of applicable legal requirements.
 - (c) not more than 15% of the outstanding units are purchased in any year.

A penalty may be assessed on the redemption of the PROGRAM INTEREST if the penalty accrues to the benefit of the PROGRAM. The SPONSOR is prohibited from receiving a fee on the redemption of PROGRAM INTERESTS by the PROGRAM. Where the purchase price is not mutually agreed upon, the matter may be submitted to arbitration.

G. Transferability of PROGRAM INTEREST. Restrictions on assignment of PROGRAM INTERESTS or a substitution of limited partners are generally disfavored and such restrictions will be allowed only to the extent necessary to preserve the tax status of the partnership or the characterization or treatment of income or loss. Any restriction must be affirmatively supported by an opinion of counsel. A charge may be imposed by the PROGRAM to cover its actual, necessary and reasonable administrative and filing expenses incurred in connection with a transfer. Such a charge shall be disclosed in the PROSPECTUS.

H. Distribution Reinvestment Plans. A PROGRAM may offer PARTICIPANTS the opportunity to elect to have cash distributions reinvested in the PROGRAM or subsequent PROGRAMS if all of the following conditions are met:

1. The PROGRAM and subsequent PROGRAMS in which the PARTICIPANTS reinvest are registered or exempted under applicable state securities laws.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

2. No sales commissions or fees shall be deducted directly or indirectly from the reinvested funds by the SPONSOR.

3. The subsequent PROGRAM has substantially identical investment objectives as the original PROGRAM.

4. The PARTICIPANTS are free to elect or revoke reinvestment within a reasonable time and such right is fully disclosed in the offering documents.

5. The PARTICIPANTS shall have received a PROSPECTUS for the PROGRAM in which the PARTICIPANTS are reinvesting, which is current as of the date of each such reinvestment.

6. The broker-dealer or the issuer assumes responsibility for blue sky compliance and performance of due diligence responsibilities and has contacted the PARTICIPANTS to ascertain whether the PARTICIPANTS continue to meet the applicable states' suitability standard for participation in each reinvestment.

I. Reinvestment of CASH AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION. Reinvestment of CASH AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION will be allowed if the PROGRAM'S structure requires that CASH AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION be reinvested for all PARTICIPANTS upon the same terms and does not create differing classes of PROGRAM INTERESTS resulting from inequitable allocations of tax or economic benefits. CASH AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION reinvested pursuant to this subsection are not considered to be "investments" in the PROGRAM for purposes of calculating CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS.

J. Reinvestment of Proceeds. Reinvestment of proceeds resulting from the sale or refinancing of PROGRAM assets may take place if sufficient cash will be distributed to pay state and federal income tax, if any, (assuming investors are in a specified tax bracket) created by the sale or refinancing of such assets. Proceeds reinvested pursuant to this subsection are not considered to be "investments" in the PROGRAM for purposes of calculating CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS.

K. Quarterly Distribution. From time to time and not less than quarterly, the SPONSOR must review the PROGRAM'S accounts to determine whether cash distributions are appropriate. The PROGRAM shall distribute pro rata to the PARTICIPANTS funds received by the PROGRAM and allocated to their accounts which the SPONSOR deems unnecessary to retain in the PROGRAM. In no event, however, shall funds be advanced or borrowed for purpose of distributions, if the amount of such distributions would exceed the partnership's accrued and received revenues for the previous four quarters, less paid and accrued operating costs with respect to such revenues and costs shall be made in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, consistently applied. Cash distributions from the PROGRAM to the SPONSOR shall only be made in conjunction with distributions to PARTICIPANTS and only out of funds properly allocated to the SPONSOR'S account.

L. Distributions in Kind. Distributions in kind shall not be permitted, except for:

1. distributions of readily marketable securities;

2. distributions of cash from a liquidating trust established for the dissolution of the PROGRAM and the liquidation of its assets in accordance with the terms of the PROGRAM agreement; or

3. distributions of in-kind property which meet all of the following conditions:

(a) The SPONSOR advises each PARTICIPANT of the risks associated with direct ownership of the property;

(b) The SPONSOR offers each PARTICIPANT the election of receiving in-kind property distributions; and

(c) The SPONSOR distributes in-kind property only to those PARTICIPANTS who accept the SPONSOR'S offer.

VII. DISCLOSURE AND MARKETING

A. Sales Material. Sales material, including without limitations, books, pamphlets, movies, slides, article reprints, television and radio commercials, materials prepared for broker/dealer use only, sales presentations (including prepared presentations to prospective PARTICIPANTS at group meetings) and all other advertising used in the offer or sale of units shall conform in all applicable respects to filing, disclosure, and adequacy requirements under any applicable state regulations. Statements made in sales material communicated directly or indirectly to the public may not conflict with, or modify, risk factors or other statements made in the PROSPECTUS.

B. PROSPECTUS and Its Contents.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

1. PROSPECTUS. A PROSPECTUS which is not part of a Registration Statement declared effective by the Securities and Exchange Commission pursuant to the Securities Act of 1933 shall generally conform to the disclosure requirements which would apply if the offering were so registered. The format and information requirements of applicable Guide(s) promulgated by the Securities and Exchange Commission shall be followed, with appropriate adjustments made for the different business of the PROGRAM.

2. Prohibited Representations.

(a) In connection with the offering and sale of INTERESTS in a PROGRAM, neither the SPONSOR(S) nor the underwriter(s) may, in writing or otherwise, directly or indirectly, represent or imply that an administrator has approved the merits of the investment or any aspects thereof.

(b) Any reference to the PROGRAM'S compliance with these Guidelines or any provisions herein which connotes or implies compliance shall not be allowed.

3. Forecasts and Projections.

(a) Neither the PROSPECTUS nor any sales material communicated directly or indirectly to the public shall contain a quantitative estimate of a PROGRAM'S anticipated economic performance or anticipated return to PARTICIPANTS, in the form of investment objectives, cash distributions, tax benefits or otherwise, except as permitted by this Section of these Guidelines.

(b) The presentation of predicted future results of operations of PROGRAMS shall be permitted but not required for SPECIFIED ASSET PROGRAMS and shall be prohibited for all other PROGRAMS. The cover of the PROSPECTUS must contain in bold face language one of the following statements:

(i) for SPECIFIED ASSET PROGRAMS with forecasts: "Forecasts are contained in this prospectus. Any representations to the contrary and any predictions, written or oral, which do not conform to that contained in the prospectus shall not be permitted"; or

(ii) for all other PROGRAMS: "The use of forecasts in this offering is prohibited. Any representations to the contrary and any predictions, written or oral, as to the amount or certainty of any present or future cash benefit or tax consequence which may flow from an investment in this program is not permitted".

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

(b) Content of Forecasts. Forecasts for SPECIFIED ASSET PROGRAMS may be included in the PROSPECTUS, and sales material of the PROGRAM only if they comply with the following requirements:

(i) Generally, forecasts shall be realistic in their predictions and shall clearly identify the assumptions made with respect to all material features of the presentation. Forecasts should be examined by an independent certified public accountant in accordance with the Guide for Prospective Financial Statements and the Statement on Standards for Accountant's Services on Prospective Financial Information as promulgated by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. The report of the independent certified public accountant must be included in the PROSPECTUS.

(ii) If any part of the forecast appears in the sales material, the entire forecast must be presented.

(iii) Forecasts shall generally be for a period equivalent to the anticipated holding period for PROGRAM assets. Forecasts which do not extend through the expected term of the PROGRAM'S life must show the effects of a hypothetical liquidation of PROGRAM assets under good and bad conditions. Yield information may not be presented for Forecasts which do not extend through the expected term of the PROGRAM'S life.

(iv) Forecasts shall disclose possible undesirable tax consequences of an early sale of program assets, such as depreciation recapture, the loss of prior year tax credits or the possible failure to generate sufficient cash from the disposition to pay the associated tax liabilities.

(v) In computing any rate of return or yield to investors, only realized gains in value may be included.

VIII. MISCELLANEOUS

A. Deferred Payments. Arrangements for deferred payments on account of the purchase price of PROGRAM INTERESTS may be allowed when warranted by the investment objectives of the PROGRAM. Such arrangements shall be subject to all of the following conditions:

1. The period of deferred payments coincides with the anticipated cash needs of the PROGRAM.

2. Deferred payments shall be evidenced by a promissory note of the investor. Such notes shall be with recourse and shall not be negotiable and shall be assignable only subject to defenses of the maker. Such notes shall not contain a provision authorizing a confession of judgment;

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

3. Selling commissions and FRONT END FEES paid upon deferred payments are collectible when payment is made on the note;

4. The PROGRAM shall not sell or assign the deferred obligation notes at a discount to meet financing needs of the PROGRAM;

5. In the event of a default in the payment of deferred payments by PARTICIPANTS, their interests may be subjected to a reasonable penalty.

B. Reserves. Provisions should be made for adequate reserves in the future by retention of a reasonable percentage of proceeds from the offering and revenues for normal repairs, replacements and contingencies but not for payment of the sponsor fees. Normally, not less than 1 % of the offering proceeds will be considered adequate.

C. Financial Information of SPONSOR and PROGRAM. The SPONSOR or the PROGRAM shall provide as an exhibit to the application, or where indicated below, shall provide as part of the prospectus all of the following financial information and financial statements:

1. Balance Sheet of the PROGRAM. A Balance sheet of the PROGRAM as of the end of its most recent fiscal year, prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and accompanied by an independent auditor's report containing no material qualification or explanatory paragraph relating to material uncertainties or going concern issues, and an unaudited balance sheet as of a date not more than 135 days prior to the date of filing. Such balance sheets shall be included in the PROSPECTUS.

2. Balance sheet of the SPONSOR.

(a) Corporate and/or Partnership SPONSOR. A balance sheet of any corporate and/or partnership SPONSOR as of the end of its most recent fiscal year, prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and accompanied by an independent auditor's report containing no material qualification or explanatory paragraph relating to material uncertainties or going concern issues, and an unaudited balance sheet as of a date not more than 135 days prior to the date of filing. Such balance sheets shall be included in the PROSPECTUS.

(b) Individual SPONSOR. A statement of financial condition as of a time not more than 135 days prior to the date of filing an application. Such statement of financial condition shall be prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and reviewed and reported upon by an independent certified public accountant or independent public accountant under the review standards as set forth by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. A representation of the amount of such NET WORTH must be included in the PROSPECTUS.

3. Filing of Other Statements. The ADMINISTRATOR may, where consistent with the protection of investors, request additional financial statements of the SPONSOR, ADVISOR, PROGRAM BROKER or any AFFILIATE thereof, or permit the omission of one or more of the statements required under this Section and the filing, and substitution thereof, of appropriate statements verifying financial information having comparable relevance to an investor in determining whether he or she should invest in the PROGRAM.

D. Provisions of the PROGRAM Agreement. The requirements and/or provisions of appropriate portions of the following sections shall be included in the PROGRAM agreement: I.B.; II.B.; II.D.; II.E.; II.G.; III.B.; III.C.; III.F.; IV.B.; IV.C.; IV.D.; IV.E.; IV.F.; V.A.; V.B.; V.C.; V.D.; V.E.; V.F.; V.G.; V.H.; V.I.; V.J.; V.N.; V.O.; V.P.; VI.A.; VI.B.; VI.C.; VI.D.; VI.E.; VI.F.; VI.G.; VI.H.; VI.I.; VI.J.; VI.K.; VI.L; VIII.A; VIII.B.;

As released for public comment by the NASAA Board of Directors on December 12, 1991, and adopted by the NASAA membership on March 29, 1992.

A. Application.

1. These guidelines apply to the registration and qualification of Periodic Payment Plans (sometimes referred to as "contractual plans").

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

2. Applications not conforming to the standards contained in these Guidelines shall be looked upon with disfavor. However, where good cause is shown, certain guidelines may be modified or waived by the Administrator.

B. Definitions. As used in these guidelines, the following terms mean:

1. Administrator. The official or agency administering the securities laws of a jurisdiction.

2. Current Account. Any account in a Periodic Payment Plan:

(a) which has not been liquidated and

(i) which is no more than six (6) payments in arrears, or

(ii) in which a payment has been made in the past six (6) months; or

(b) in which the total amount deducted from all payments for sales charges or commissions is nine percent (9%) or less of the total amount of payments made.

3. Periodic Payment Plan. A plan which issues any certificate, investment contract or other security providing for a series of periodic payments by the holder, and representing an undivided interest in certain specific securities or in a unit or fund of securities purchased wholly or partly with the proceeds of such payment.

4. Persistency Rate. The percentage of the total number of accounts in a Periodic Payment Plan which are Current Accounts. For purposes hereof, the computation of the Persistency Rate shall not include any account which has been canceled in accordance with the cancellation right contained in Section 27(f) of the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended.

II. SUITABILITY STANDARDS. No Periodic Payment Plan may be sold unless a principal of the selling broker/dealer has determined that the Plan is suitable for the purchasing investor. Such determination shall include, but not be limited to, consideration of the following factors:

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

A.

the investor's age, marital status, and number of dependents;

B.

the investor's major investment goals and the time frame for achieving those goals;

C.

the investor's current and anticipated future financial status including income, and reasonably anticipated short and long term liabilities or other obligations;

D.

the reasonable likelihood of the investor's continued income;

E.

the investor's ability to address potentially burdensome financial situations, (e.g., the death of a family member) through the use of insurance, savings, or other assets; and

F.

the investor's understanding of the risks inherent in investing in securities and the proper use of savings instruments or accounts for shorter term needs;

The selling broker/dealer shall retain for at least five (5) year's the documents disclosing the basis upon which the determination of suitability was reached as to each purchasing investor.

III. LIMITATION ON COMMISSIONS.

A.

In addition to the refund rights available to an investor in a Periodic Payment Plan pursuant to Sections 27(d) and 27(f) of the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended, in the event that an investor in a Periodic Payment Plan shall withdraw from the Plan within twenty-eight (28) months of the investor's initial payment, the investor shall receive the sum of (i) the value of his or her account, and (ii) the amount by which all sales charges, commissions or other selling or redemption fees deducted from the investor's account exceed fifteen percent (15%) of the gross payments made by the investor.

B.

For purposes of paragraph III. A. above, each investor shall be provided a notice setting forth his or her cancellation rights. This notice, in the form set forth below, shall be sent not less than thirty (30) days and not more than sixty (60) days prior to the expiration of the investor's cancellation rights. Neither the Sponsor nor its agent(s) shall advise the investor against exercising his or her right to cancel the plan without first determining that such advice is suitable for the particular investor. Such determination shall include, but not be limited to, consideration of the factors set forth in paragraph II of these Guidelines, as well as of other factors indicating the likelihood that the investor will complete the Plan.

IV. DISCLOSURE. Each investor in a Periodic Payment Plan shall be provided with disclosure in the form set forth below. This disclosure shall be executed by the investor and by the selling broker/dealer. The investor shall be provided with an executed copy. The broker/dealer shall retain an executed copy for a period of at least five (5) years.

IMPORTANT MESSAGE REGARDING YOUR (NAME OF PLAN)

Dear Investor:

You have the right within twenty-eight (28) months of the commencement of your Plan to cancel your Plan and receive a refund of all sales charges paid which are in excess of fifteen percent (15%) of the total payments made. In determining whether or not to exercise your cancellation right, you should consider, among other things, the projected cost of your investment and your ability to make the scheduled payments over the life of your Plan as they become due.

If you wish to exercise your cancellation rights, you must send notice to that effect to _____ by (date of expiration of cancellation rights).

Very truly yours,

[MESSAGE TO BE PUT ON ONE PAGE]

IMPORTANT MESSAGE TO PURCHASER OF A PERIODIC PAYMENT PLAN

Regarding your application for (_____ name of Plan _____) at (monthly) investment amount/total number of years of program). Date (of application) _____

You are applying for an investment account which features a brokerage commission structure which concentrates the sales charge in the first twelve installments. In establishing such an account, you should most carefully consider your financial ability and personal intention to complete all of the scheduled [120 (10 years) or 180 (15 years)] payments. If you do not complete the full schedule of (120 or 180) payments, you will incur very high effective sales charges. These sales charges could cost you up to 50% of the amount invested. You should be aware that there are many mutual funds which are available with brokerage commission structures that do not concentrate the sales charge in the early installments.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

There are two points at which you may withdraw from the plan and receive a full or partial refund of the sales charges: (1) within forty-five (45) days after receiving notice of your cancellation rights, you may cancel the Plan and receive a full refund of all sales charges paid; or (2) within twenty-eight (28) months of the commencement of the Plan, you may cancel the Plan and receive a refund of all sales charges paid which are in excess of fifteen percent (15%) of the total payments made.

In evaluating your ability to invest regularly for a number of years, you should consider your income pattern, contingencies which may arise, and your willingness to invest in securities which fluctuate in value. If you have reason to doubt your ability and likelihood to complete this Plan, you are urged to seek an alternative investment method.

V. PERSISTENCY RATE and REPORTS.

A.

For all fiscal years beginning on or after January 1, 1993, the issuer of securities under a Periodic Payment Plan shall file with the Administrator within sixty (60) days of the end of the Plan's fiscal year a report disclosing the Plan's Persistency Rate for all accounts opened in the jurisdiction no less than one year nor more than five years before the last day of the fiscal year.

B.

An issuer who fails to maintain a Persistency Rate of seventy percent (70%) or higher within the jurisdiction shall furnish a report setting forth an explanation for such failure. Failure to furnish such a report or failure to provide an explanation satisfactory to the Administrator shall be grounds for the Administrator to deny, suspend or revoke registration of the Periodic Payment Plan. In making this determination, the Administrator may consider all relevant factors including but not limited to national persistency rates, market conditions, the number of investors in that jurisdiction, the period of time the Plan has been selling in that jurisdiction, legislative and regulatory developments, and any other unusual or unique circumstances.

C.

The Administrator may deny the registration of a Periodic Payment Plan based upon low Persistency Rates in one or more other jurisdictions. This provision shall not apply to the renewal of the registration of any Plan currently registered in the jurisdiction.

VI. INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE. The stated investment objective of a Periodic Payment Plan shall be a fundamental policy of the Plan as defined in Section 8(b) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 and shall be consistent with the goal of providing a long-term investment opportunity suitable for persons of relatively modest means. If a fund's investment objective is not currently a fundamental policy, it shall be made one at the next meeting of shareholders.

Amended April 27, 1997

I.

INTRODUCTION. The North American Securities Administrators Association, Inc. ("NASAA") has determined that the following guideline relating to preferred stock is consistent with public investor protection and is in the public interest. Nothing shall prevent the Securities Administrator ("Administrator") from applying different standards than those contained in this Statement of Policy.

II.

DEFINITIONS. The terms used in this Statement of Policy are defined pursuant to the NASAA Statement of Policy Regarding Corporate Securities Definitions.

III.

A public offering of preferred stock may be disallowed by the Administrator if the Issuer's ADJUSTED NET EARNINGS for the last fiscal year or its average ADJUSTED NET EARNINGS for the last three (3) fiscal years prior to the public offering were insufficient to pay its fixed charges and preferred stock dividends, whether or not accrued, and to meet the redemption requirements, if applicable, of the preferred stock being offered.

IV.

As an alternative to III. above, the Administrator may choose to apply a CASH ANALYSIS. The Administrator may consider the Statement of Cash Flows if the statement demonstrates that the issuer has had positive "Net Cash Provided by Operating Activities" for its last fiscal year. The Administrator may request that the issuer submit a financial statement demonstrating an average positive "Net Cash Provided by Operating Activities" for the last three (3) fiscal years prior to the public offering. In either instance there must be sufficient cash to cover the preferred stock dividend whether or not declared.

V.

Section III. and IV. above shall not apply to public offerings of convertible preferred stock that are superior in right to payment of dividends, interest and liquidation proceeds to any convertible debt and preferred stock that are or may be legally or beneficially, directly or indirectly, owned by PROMOTERS. The risks of failure to declare or pay dividends and the equity characteristics of the convertible preferred stock must be disclosed in the offering prospectus. An offering of such securities may be reviewed using guidelines for equity offerings.

VI.

If the Issuer's NET EARNINGS are subject to cyclical fluctuations or if the Administrator deems it necessary for investor protection, the Administrator may require that the Issuer establish redemption requirements.

VII.

A public offering of EQUITY SECURITIES may be disallowed by the Administrator if the Issuers articles of incorporation authorize its board of directors to issue preferred stock in the future without a vote of the common shareholders unless:

A.

The issuer represents in its prospectus or offering document that it will not offer preferred stock to PROMOTERS except on the same terms as it is offered to all other existing shareholders or to new shareholders; or

B.

The issuance of preferred stock is approved by a majority of the Issuers INDEPENDENT DIRECTORS who do not have an interest in the transaction and who have access, at the issuers expense, to issuers or independent legal counsel.

I. INTRODUCTION.

A. Application.

1. The rules contained in these guidelines apply to qualifications and registrations of real estate programs in the form of limited partnerships (herein sometimes called "PROGRAM" or "partnerships") and will be applied by analogy to real estate programs in other forms. While applications not conforming to the standards contained herein shall be looked upon with disfavor, where good cause is shown certain guidelines may be modified or waived by the ADMINISTRATOR.

The purpose of the guidelines is to establish uniform and consistent standards to be applied by the various state securities ADMINISTRATORS throughout the country. With respect to PROGRAMS which make or invest in mortgage loans, all provisions of these guidelines are applicable thereto, unless specifically excluded or modified.

The Cross Reference Sheet in the form set forth in Section IX.H. Real Estate Guidelines Cross Reference Sheet shall be furnished with the application.

3. Where these guidelines conflict with requirements of the Securities and Exchange Commission, the guidelines will not apply.

(b) a transaction involving the conversion to corporate, trust or association form of only the PROGRAM if, as a consequence of the transaction, there will be no significant adverse change in any of the following:

(i) PARTICIPANTS' voting rights;

(ii) the term of existence of the PROGRAM;

(iii) SPONSOR compensation; or

(iv) the PROGRAM'S investment objectives.

27. ROLL-UP ENTITY--A partnership, real estate investment trust, corporation, trust or other entity that would be created or would survive after the successful completion of a proposed ROLL-UP transaction.

34. 35. PURCHASE PRICE--the price paid upon the purchase or sale of a particular property, including the amount of ACQUISITION FEES and all liens and mortgages on the property, but excluding points and prepaid interest.

36. 37. SPONSOR--a "SPONSOR" is any PERSON directly or indirectly instrumental in organizing, wholly or in part, a PROGRAM or any PERSON who will manage or participate in the management of a PROGRAM, and any

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

AFFILIATE of any such person, but does not include a PERSON whose only relation with the PROGRAM is as that of an independent property manager, whose only compensation is as such. "SPONSOR" does not include wholly independent third parties such as attorneys, accountants, and underwriters whose only compensation is for professional services rendered in connection with the offering of syndicate interests. A PERSON may also be a SPONSOR of the PROGRAM by:

(i) Taking the initiative, directly or indirectly, in founding or organizing the business or enterprise of the PROGRAM, either alone or in conjunction with one or more other PERSONS.

(ii) Receiving a material participation in the PROGRAM in connection with the founding or organizing of the business of the PROGRAM, in consideration of services or property, or both services and property.

(iii) Having a substantial number of relationships and contacts with the PROGRAM.

(iv) Possessing significant rights to control PROGRAM properties.

(v) Receiving fees for providing services to the PROGRAM which are paid on a basis that is not customary in the industry.

(vi) Providing goods or services to the PROGRAM on a basis which was not negotiated at arm's length with the PROGRAM.

II. REQUIREMENTS OF SPONSORS.

A. Experience. The SPONSOR, the general partner or their chief operating officers shall have at least two years relevant real estate or other experience demonstrating the knowledge and experience to acquire and manage the type of assets being acquired, and any of the foregoing or any AFFILIATE providing services to the PROGRAM shall have had not less than four years relevant experience in the kind of service being rendered or otherwise must demonstrate sufficient knowledge and experience to perform the services proposed.

COMMENT:

"Relevant real estate or other experience" should be interpreted to include actual direct experience by the chief executive officer, or other PERSONS at the management level, either as a principal or agent in performing the services to be provided to the PROGRAM. This would include acquiring and managing real estate for one's own account or acting as an agent in acquiring and managing real estate comparable to that which the PROGRAM will acquire. If the PROGRAM will be in the business of acquiring shopping centers and office buildings, "relevant real estate experience" would not include experience in buying or selling houses. It is apparent that a different level of sophistication and knowledge is required.

B. NET WORTH Requirement of SPONSOR. The financial condition of the SPONSOR liable for the debts of the PROGRAM must be commensurate with any financial obligations assumed in the offering and in the operation of the PROGRAM. As a minimum, such SPONSOR shall have an aggregate financial NET WORTH, exclusive of home, automobile and home furnishings, of the greater of either $50,000 or an amount at least equal to 5% of the gross amount of all offerings sold within the prior 12 months plus 5% of the gross amount of the current offering, to an aggregate maximum NET WORTH of such SPONSOR of one million dollars. In determining NET WORTH for this purpose, evaluation will be made of contingent liabilities and the use of promissory notes, to determine the appropriateness of their inclusion in computation of NET WORTH.

COMMENT:

The inclusion of promissory notes may be insufficient to satisfy the NET WORTH requirements where the maker of the notes is inadequately capitalized. The gross amount of offerings includes the principal amounts to be received on account of mandatory deferred payments.

C. Reports to ADMINISTRATOR. Each application for registration shall contain a commitment, executed by the SPONSOR, to submit to the ADMINISTRATOR upon request any report or statement required to be distributed to limited partners pursuant to VII.C.

COMMENT:

The SPONSOR need not file with the ADMINISTRATOR all reports that will be filed with the limited partners, but should retain copies of such reports or information and make them available to the ADMINISTRATOR as required. The length this information must be retained will vary from state to state depending upon its requirements.

D. Liability and Indemnification.

1. The PROGRAM shall not provide for indemnification of the SPONSOR for any liability or loss suffered by the SPONSOR, nor shall it provide that the SPONSOR be held harmless for any loss or liability suffered by the PROGRAM, unless all of the following conditions are met:

a. The SPONSOR has determined, in good faith, that the course of conduct which caused the loss or liability was in the best interests of the PROGRAM, and

b. the SPONSOR was acting on behalf of or performing services for the PROGRAM, and

c. such liability or loss was not the result of negligence or misconduct by the SPONSOR, and

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

d. such indemnification or agreement to hold harmless is recoverable only out of the assets of the PROGRAM and not from the PARTICIPANTS.

2. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in Section II.D.1., the SPONSOR (which shall include AFFILIATES only if such AFFILIATES are performing services on behalf of the PROGRAM) and any person acting as a broker-dealer shall not be indemnified for any losses, liabilities or expenses arising from or out of an alleged violation of federal or state securities laws unless the following conditions are met:

a. There has been a successful adjudication on the merits of each count involving alleged securities law violations as to the particular indemnitee, or

b. such claims have been dismissed with prejudice on the merits by a court of competent jurisdiction as to the particular indemnitee, or

c. a court of competent jurisdiction approves a settlement of the claims against a particular indemnitee and finds that indemnification of the settlement and related costs should be made, and

d. in the case of subparagraph c., the court of law considering the request for indemnification has been advised of the position of the Securities and Exchange Commission and the position of any state securities regulatory authority in which securities of the PROGRAM were offered or sold as to indemnification for violations of securities laws; provided that the court need only be advised of and consider the positions of the securities regulatory authorities of those states (i) which are specifically set forth in the PROGRAM agreement and (ii) in which plaintiffs claim they were offered or sold PROGRAM INTERESTS.

3. The PROGRAM may not incur the cost of that portion of liability insurance which insures the SPONSOR for any liability as to which the SPONSOR is prohibited from being indemnified under this section.

4. The provision of advancement from PROGRAM funds to a SPONSOR or its AFFILIATES for legal expenses and other costs incurred as a result of any legal action is permissible if the following conditions are satisfied:

a. the legal action relates to acts or omissions with respect to the performance of duties or services on behalf of the PROGRAM;

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

b. the legal action is initiated by a third party who is not a PARTICIPANT, or the legal action is initiated by a PARTICIPANT and a court of competent jurisdiction specifically approves such advancement; and

c. the SPONSOR or its AFFILIATES undertake to repay the advanced funds to the PROGRAM in cases in which such PERSON is not entitled to indemnification under Section II.D.1.

E. Fiduciary Duty. The program agreement shall provide that the SPONSOR shall have fiduciary responsibility for the safekeeping and use of all funds and assets of the program, whether or not in the SPONSOR'S possession or control, and that the SPONSOR shall not employ, or permit another to employ such funds or assets in any manner except for the exclusive benefit of the PROGRAM.

In addition, the PROGRAM shall not permit the PARTICIPANT to contract away the fiduciary duty owed to the PARTICIPANT by the SPONSOR under the common law.

F. Terminated SPONSOR. Upon the occurrence of a terminating event, the partnership may be required to pay to the terminated SPONSOR all amounts then accrued and owing to the terminated SPONSOR. Additionally, the partnership may terminate the SPONSOR'S interest in partnership income, losses, distributions, and capital by payment of an amount equal to the then present fair market value of the terminated SPONSOR'S interest determined by agreement of the terminated SPONSOR and the partnership, or, if they cannot agree, by arbitration in accordance with the then current rules of the American Arbitration Association. The expense of arbitration shall be borne equally by the terminated SPONSOR and the partnership.

The method of payment to the terminated SPONSOR must be fair; and must protect the solvency and liquidity of the partnership. Where the termination is voluntary, the method of payment will be deemed presumptively fair where it provides for a non-interest bearing unsecured promissory note with principal payable, if at all, from distributions which the terminated SPONSOR otherwise would have received under the partnership agreement had the SPONSOR not terminated. Where the termination is involuntary, the method of payment will be deemed presumptively fair where it provides for an interest bearing promissory note coming due in no less than 5 years with equal installments each year.

III. SUITABILITY OF PARTICIPANTS

A. General Policy.

1. The SPONSOR shall establish minimum income and net worth standards for PERSONS who purchase PROGRAM INTERESTS.

2. The SPONSOR shall propose minimum income and net worth standards which are reasonable given the type of PROGRAM and the risks associated with the purchase of PROGRAM INTERESTS. PROGRAMS with greater investor risk shall have minimum standards with a substantial NET WORTH requirement. The ADMINISTRATOR shall evaluate the standards proposed by the SPONSOR when the PROGRAM'S application for registration is reviewed. In evaluating the proposed standards, the ADMINISTRATOR may consider the following:

- a. the PROGRAM'S use of leverage;
- b. tax implications;
- c. MANDATORY DEFERRED PAYMENTS;
- d. assessments;
- e. balloon payment financing;
- f. investments in unimproved land;
- g. potential variances in cash distributions;
- h. potential PARTICIPANTS;
- i. relationship between potential PARTICIPANTS and the SPONSOR;
- j. liquidity of PROGRAM INTERESTS;
- k. performance of SPONSOR'S prior programs;
- l. financial condition of the SPONSOR;

m. potential transactions between the PROGRAM and the SPONSOR; and

n. any other relevant factors.

B. Income and Net Worth Standards.

1. For PROGRAMS other than PROGRAMS with MANDATORY DEFERRED PAYMENTS, unless the ADMINISTRATOR determines that the risks associated with the PROGRAM would require lower or higher standards, each PARTICIPANT shall have:

a. a minimum annual gross income of $70,000 and a minimum NET WORTH of $70,000; or

b. a minimum NET WORTH of $250,000.

2. For PROGRAMS with MANDATORY DEFERRED PAYMENTS, unless the ADMINISTRATOR determines that the risks associated with the PROGRAM would require lower or higher standards, each PARTICIPANT shall have:

a. a minimum annual gross income of $85,000 and a minimum NET WORTH of $85,000; or

b. a minimum NET WORTH of $330,000.

3. NET WORTH shall be determined exclusive of home, home furnishings, and automobiles.

4. In the case of sales to fiduciary accounts, these minimum standards shall be met by the beneficiary, the fiduciary account, or by the donor or grantor who directly or indirectly supplies the funds to purchase the PROGRAM INTERESTS if the donor or grantor is the fiduciary.

5. The SPONSOR shall set forth in the final PROSPECTUS:

- a. the investment objectives of the PROGRAM;
- b. a description of the type of PERSON who might benefit from an investment in the PROGRAM; and
- c. the minimum standards imposed on each PARTICIPANT in the PROGRAM.

C. Determination that Sale to PARTICIPANT is Suitable and Appropriate.

1. The SPONSOR and each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM shall make every reasonable effort to determine that the purchase of PROGRAM INTERESTS is a suitable and appropriate investment for each PARTICIPANT.

2. In making this determination, the SPONSOR or each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM shall ascertain that the prospective PARTICIPANT:

- a. meets the minimum income and net worth standard established for the PROGRAM;
- b. can reasonably benefit from the PROGRAM based on the prospective PARTICIPANT'S overall investment objectives and portfolio structure;
- c. is able to bear the economic risk of the investment based on the prospective PARTICIPANT'S overall financial situation; and
- d. has apparent understanding of:
 - (i) the fundamental risks of the investment;
 - (ii) the risk that the PARTICIPANT may lose the entire investment;

(iii) the lack of liquidity of PROGRAM INTERESTS;

(iv) the restrictions on transferability of PROGRAM INTERESTS;

(v) the background and qualifications of the SPONSOR or the PERSONS responsible for directing and managing the PROGRAM; and

(vi) the tax consequences of the investment.

3. The SPONSOR or each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM will make this determination on the basis of information it has obtained from a prospective PARTICIPANT. Relevant information for this purpose will include at least the age, investment objectives, investment experience, income, NET WORTH, financial situation, and other investments of the prospective PARTICIPANT, as well as any other pertinent factors.

4. The SPONSOR or each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM shall maintain records of the information used to determine that an investment in PROGRAM INTERESTS is suitable and appropriate for each PARTICIPANT. The SPONSOR or each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM shall maintain these records for at least six years.

5. The SPONSOR shall disclose in the final PROSPECTUS the responsibility of the SPONSOR and each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM to make every reasonable effort to determine that the purchase of PROGRAM INTERESTS is a suitable and appropriate investment for each PARTICIPANT, based on information provided by the PARTICIPANT regarding the PARTICIPANT'S financial situation and investment objectives.

D. Subscription Agreements.

1. The ADMINISTRATOR may require that each PARTICIPANT complete and sign a written subscription agreement.

2. The SPONSOR may require that each PARTICIPANT make certain factual representations in the subscription agreement, including the following:

- a. The PARTICIPANT meets the minimum income and net worth standards established for the PROGRAM.
- b. The PARTICIPANT is purchasing the PROGRAM INTERESTS for his or her own account.
- c. The PARTICIPANT has received a copy of the PROSPECTUS.
- d. The PARTICIPANT acknowledges that the investment is not liquid.

3. The PARTICIPANT must separately sign or initial each representation made in the subscription agreement. Except in the case of fiduciary accounts, the PARTICIPANT may not grant any PERSON a power of attorney to make such representations on his or her behalf.

4. The SPONSOR and each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM shall not require a PARTICIPANT to make representations in the subscription agreement which are subjective or unreasonable and which: a. might cause the PARTICIPANT to believe that he or she has surrendered rights to which he or she is entitled under federal or state law; or b. would have the effect of shifting the duties regarding suitability, imposed by law on broker-dealers, to the PARTICIPANT.

5. Prohibited representations include, but are not limited to the following:

- a. The PARTICIPANT understands or comprehends the risks associated with an investment in the PROGRAM.
- b. The investment is a suitable one for the PARTICIPANT.
- c. The PARTICIPANT has read the PROSPECTUS.

d. In deciding to invest in the PROGRAM, the PARTICIPANT has relied solely on the PROSPECTUS, and not on any other information or representations from other PERSONS or sources.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

6. The SPONSOR may place the content of the prohibited representations in the subscription agreement in the form of disclosures to the PARTICIPANT. The SPONSOR may not place these disclosures in the PARTICIPANT representation section of the subscription agreement.

E. Completion of Sale.

1. The SPONSOR or any person selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM may not complete a sale of PROGRAM INTERESTS to a PARTICIPANT until at least five business days after the date the PARTICIPANT receives a final prospectus.

2. The SPONSOR or the PERSON designated by the SPONSOR shall send each PARTICIPANT a confirmation of his or her purchase.

F. Minimum Investment. The ADMINISTRATOR may require a minimum initial and subsequent cash investment amount.

IV. FEES--COMPENSATION--EXPENSES.

A. Fees, Compensation and Expenses to Be Reasonable.

1. The total amount of consideration of all kinds which may be paid directly or indirectly to all parties shall be reasonable.

2. The PROSPECTUS must fully disclose and itemize all consideration which may be received from the PROGRAM directly or indirectly by the SPONSOR, its AFFILIATES and underwriters, what the consideration is for and how and when it will be paid. This shall be set forth in one location in tabular form.

B. ORGANIZATION AND OFFERING EXPENSES. All ORGANIZATION AND OFFERING EXPENSES incurred in order to sell PROGRAM interests shall be reasonable and shall comply with all statutes, rules and regulations imposed in connection with the offering of other securities in the state.

C. INVESTMENT IN PROPERTIES.

1.

a. The SPONSOR shall be required to commit a substantial portion of the PROGRAM'S CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS toward INVESTMENT IN PROPERTIES. The remaining CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS may be used to pay FRONT-END FEES. The total amount of FRONT-END FEES, whenever paid and from whatever source, shall be limited to an amount equal to the initial amount of CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS not applied to INVESTMENT IN PROPERTIES. When FRONT-END FEES are paid by the seller of properties, such fees shall not be included in satisfying the required minimum INVESTMENT IN PROPERTIES.

b. If CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS are paid on an installment basis, the FRONT-END FEE shall be paid to the SPONSOR pro rata as installments are paid.

c. Notwithstanding Sections IV.C.1.a. and IV.C.2., FRONT-END FEES may be limited as required by Section V.J. If so, the proportion of CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS subject to the limitations of Section V.J. shall be the same proportion as the amount of invested assets subject to Section V.J. to the aggregate amount of all investments of the PROGRAM. Borrowed amounts shall not be included in determining the amount of investment.

COMMENT:

This section is to provide an alternative to Section IV.C.1.a. when a SPONSOR is developing a specified property. If the SPONSOR does not elect to follow this alternative, the FRONT-END FEES shall include the DEVELOPMENT FEE and CONSTRUCTION FEE paid to the SPONSOR.

2. At a minimum, the SPONSOR shall commit a percentage of the CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS to INVESTMENT IN PROPERTIES which is equal to 82% for PROGRAMS which make or invest in mortgage loans and for all other PROGRAMS is equal to the greater of:

a. 80% of the CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS reduced by .1625% for each 1% of financing of PROGRAM properties; or

b. 67% of the CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS.

COMMENT:

The expenses incurred and level of effort required in locating and funding mortgages is not as high as that which is required in locating and closing upon real properties. In addition, the fees traditionally payable in the mortgage funding and acquisition area are much lower than those payable in real property acquisitions. For example, real estate commissions which can represent a large portion of the front-end fees in a traditional PROGRAM are not present in a mortgage PROGRAM. Consequently, the FRONT END FEES permissible in a mortgage PROGRAM are less than those permissible in the more traditional real estate equity PROGRAMS.

3. If the SPONSOR enters into an INVESTMENT IN PROPERTIES commitment in excess of that specified in Section 2. above, the following mutually exclusive forms of compensation are viewed as not unreasonable alternatives to FRONT-END FEES:

a. the SPONSOR may take an additional promotional interest in the net proceeds remaining from the sale or refinancing of the properties after payment of such proceeds to PARTICIPANTS in an amount equal to 100% of CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS, equal to 1% for each 1% of additional INVESTMENT IN PROPERTIES; or

b. the SPONSOR may take a CARRIED INTEREST which accrues and is payable from the net proceeds remaining from the sale or refinancing of properties only after payment of such proceeds to PARTICIPANTS in an amount equal to 100% of CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS, equal to 1% for the first 2% of additional INVESTMENT IN PROPERTIES, plus 1% for the next 1.5% of additional INVESTMENT IN PROPERTIES, plus 1% for each 1% of additional INVESTMENT IN PROPERTIES thereafter; or

c. the SPONSOR may take a fully participating CARRIED INTEREST equal to 1% for the first 2.5% of additional INVESTMENT IN PROPERTIES, 1% for the next 2% of additional INVESTMENT IN PROPERTIES, and 1% for each 1% of additional INVESTMENT IN PROPERTIES thereafter.

COMMENT:

A CARRIED INTEREST may not be taken other than on the basis of the foregoing. In the case of PROGRAMS offering MANDATORY DEFERRED PAYMENTS, the compensation identified in IV.C.3. above as an alternative to FRONT-END FEES paid the SPONSOR shall be credited to the SPONSOR pro rata as installments are paid.

4. For PROGRAMS whose total CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS do not exceed $2 million, the ADMINISTRATOR may reduce the required amount of INVESTMENT IN PROPERTIES to that permitted by 2(b) above notwithstanding the level of indebtedness encumbering the PROGRAM'S properties.

COMMENT:

The purpose of the section is to require the SPONSOR to invest a specified percentage of CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS in the acquisition of properties and use the balance for FRONT-END FEES in any manner he wishes, or defer a portion of the FRONT-END FEES to a promotional interest.

This will avoid the necessity of having to attempt to establish the reasonableness of the various FRONT-END FEES on an individual basis. However, the formula continues the tradition of the Guidelines by allowing the SPONSOR's fee to increase as leverage is employed to acquire properties. The PROSPECTUS should include an example demonstrating the mechanics of the formula.

To calculate the percent of financing of PROGRAM properties in Section 2., divide the amount of financing by the PURCHASE PRICE of the property, excluding FRONT-END FEES. The Quotient is multiplied by .1625% to determine the percentage to be deducted from 80%.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

The following are examples of application of the formula using CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS of $1 Million in each case:

a. No financing--80% to be committed to INVESTMENT IN PROPERTIES.

b. 50% financing-- $50 \times .1625\% = 8.125\%$ $80\% - 8.125\% = 71.875\%$ to be committed to INVESTMENT IN PROPERTIES.

c. 80% financing-- $80 \times .1625\% = 13\%$

$80\% - 13\% = 67\%$ to be committed to INVESTMENT IN PROPERTIES.

Notwithstanding the language in paragraph 4 above, the 2 million dollar limitation is intended to be a benchmark figure and may be adjusted upward or downward by an Administrator based on the marketplace in his jurisdiction.

D. PROGRAM MANAGEMENT FEE.

1. A general partner of a PROGRAM owning unimproved land shall be entitled to annual compensation not exceeding 1/4 of 1% of the cost of such unimproved land for operating the PROGRAM until such time as the land is sold or improvement of the land commences by the limited partnership. In no event shall this fee exceed a cumulative total of 2% of the original cost of the land regardless of the number of years held.

2. A general partner of a PROGRAM holding property in government subsidized projects shall be entitled to annual compensation not exceeding 1/2 of 1% of the cost of such property for operating the PROGRAM until such time as the property is sold.

3. PROGRAM MANAGEMENT FEES other than as set forth above shall be prohibited.

E. Promotional Interest. An interest in the PROGRAM will be allowed as a promotional interest and PROGRAM MANAGEMENT FEE, provided the amount or percentage of such interest is reasonable. Such an interest will be considered presumptively reasonable if it is within the limitations expressed below:

1. An interest equal to 25% of cash to be distributed from the net proceeds remaining from the sale or refinancing

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

of properties after payment to investors from such proceeds, an amount equal to 100% of CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS, plus an amount equal to 6% of CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS per annum cumulative (the 6% cumulative return may be reduced, but not below zero, by the aggregate amount of prior distributions to investors from CASH AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION); or

COMMENT:

The SPONSOR should not participate in sale or refinancing proceeds until the PARTICIPANTS have received a minimum return on their CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS.

However, the 6% subordination requirement may be waived in the situation where the PROGRAM invests more than 60% of its CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS in newly constructed or totally rehabilitated properties, including housing subsidized under the National Housing Act or similar such programs.

2. An interest equal to:

a. 10% of distributions from CASH AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION; and

b. 15% of cash to be distributed from the net proceeds remaining from the sale or refinancing of properties after payment to investors from such proceeds, an amount equal to 100% of CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS, plus an amount equal to 6% of CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS per annum cumulative. The 6% cumulative return may be reduced, but not below zero, by the aggregate amount of prior distributions to investors from CASH AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION.

COMMENT:

In addition to a 6% per annum cumulative return, investors in traditional equity real estate limited partnerships receive:

(i) Capital gains through product appreciation;

(ii) Federal income taxation deductions during the early years of property operations leading to all or a portion of cash distributions being treated as a return of capital for taxation purposes;

(iii) Equity buildup through a reduction of mortgage loans.

Since PROGRAMS which make or invest in mortgage loans are income oriented and investors in such PROGRAMS may forego a major portion of the benefits set forth in (i) through (iii) above, the per annum cumulative return for such PROGRAMS shall be equal to 300 basis points below the average Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation (FHLMC) rate as reported in The Wall Street Journal or similar publication for the 30-day period beginning 35 days prior to the date the PROGRAM is declared effective by the Securities and Exchange Commission. Notwithstanding the foregoing, such minimum cumulative return will not be less than 7% nor required to be more than

3. For purposes of this Section, the CAPITAL CONTRIBUTION of the investors shall only be reduced by a cash distribution to investors of the proceeds from the sale or refinancing of properties. In addition, the cumulative return to each investor shall commence no later than the end of the calendar quarter in which his CAPITAL CONTRIBUTION is made.

4. Dissolution and liquidation of the partnership. The distribution of assets upon dissolution and liquidation of the partnership shall conform to the applicable subordination provisions of subsections 1 and 2b. herein, and appropriate language shall be included in the partnership agreement.

5. The maximum dollar amount of the SPONSORS' distributive share permitted under paragraph 1. or 2. above may not be increased by any allocation to the SPONSORS made for the purpose of satisfying the requirements of the Internal Revenue Code, applicable regulations, or any Revenue Ruling or Revenue Procedure. In the absence of adequate justification provided under Section IV.C.3. for any unsubordinated participation in cash to be distributed from the net proceeds remaining from the sale or refinancing of properties, the ADMINISTRATOR may require an express limitation in the PROGRAM agreement that the dollar amount of the SPONSORS' distributive share will not exceed the maximum amount that would be allowable under paragraph 1. or 2. above.

COMMENT:

For PROGRAMS which make or invest in mortgage loans, all funds which constitute repayment of loan principal or which represent an equity interest in sale or refinancing proceeds of a real property underlying a loan shall be subordinated and apportioned in the same manner as provided in Sections IV.E.1. or 2.b. above.

F. REAL ESTATE BROKERAGE COMMISSIONS ON RESALE OF PROPERTY. The total compensation paid to all PERSONS for the sale of a PROGRAM property shall be limited to a COMPETITIVE REAL ESTATE COMMISSION, not to exceed 6% of the contract price for the sale of the property. If the SPONSOR provides a substantial amount of the services in the sales effort, he may receive up to one-half of the COMPETITIVE REAL ESTATE COMMISSION, not to exceed 3%, and subordinated as in E. above. If the SPONSOR participates with an independent broker on resale, the subordination requirement shall apply only to the commission earned by the SPONSOR.

COMMENT:

If the SPONSOR provides a substantial amount of services in connection with the sale, he may then receive up to 1/2 of the brokerage commission, to a maximum of 3%, with the fee subordinated, to a return of 100% of CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS plus a 6% annual cumulative return, regardless of the type of property acquired by the PROGRAM.

G. PROPERTY MANAGEMENT FEE. Should the SPONSOR or its AFFILIATES perform property management services permitted under section IV. A.1. of these guidelines, the fees paid to the SPONSOR or its AFFILIATES shall be the lesser of the maximum fees set forth in subsections 1. through 3. below or the fees which are competitive for similar services in the same geographic area. Included in such fees shall be bookkeeping services and fees paid to non-related persons for property management services.

1. In the case of a residential property, the maximum PROPERTY MANAGEMENT FEE (including all rent-up, leasing, and re-leasing fees and bonuses, and leasing related services, paid to any person) shall be 5% of the gross revenues from such property.

2. In the case of industrial and commercial property, except as set forth in 3. below, the maximum PROPERTY MANAGEMENT FEE from such leases shall be 6% of the gross revenues where the SPONSOR or its AFFILIATES includes leasing, re-leasing and leasing related services. Conversely the maximum PROPERTY MANAGEMENT FEE from such leases shall be 3% of the gross revenues where the SPONSOR or its AFFILIATES do not perform the leasing, re-leasing and leasing related services with respect to the property.

3. In the case of industrial and commercial properties which are leased on a long term (ten or more years) net (or similar) bases, the maximum PROPERTY MANAGEMENT FEE from such leases shall be 1% of the gross revenues, except for a one time initial leasing fee of 3% of the gross revenues on each lease payable over the first five full years of the original term of the lease.

COMMENT:

This section provides a method to calculate the allowable fees for property management by the SPONSOR. The amount of the fee will be based upon, if competitive, the kinds of property management services performed by the SPONSOR for various types of rental properties and lease arrangements. This section prohibits the SPONSOR from receiving fees for the same service, for which the project has incurred costs to any other PERSON. The salary and fringe benefits of the on-site property personnel may be separately charged, as an operating expense, so long as such manager is not an officer, director, or controlling person of the SPONSOR.

This section is not intended to preclude the charging of a separate competitive fee for the one-time initial rent-up or leasing-up of a newly constructed property if such service is not included in the PURCHASE PRICE of the property paid by the PROGRAM. New construction could include a total rehabilitation.

Under Section 3., the initial leasing fee may be taken during each of the first five years on any lease which may include exercised renewals during that period; however, no initial leasing fee may be collected beyond five years for renewals or extensions with the same tenant or tenant's assignee.

The fee limitation would be considered presumptively reasonable unless the SPONSOR can demonstrate, to the satisfaction of the ADMINISTRATOR, thru empirical data that a higher competitive fee in the geographic area for the services rendered, the type of property to be acquired and the terms of the management contract is justified.

H. INSURANCE SERVICES. The SPONSOR or his AFFILIATE may provide insurance brokerage services in connection with obtaining insurance on the PROGRAM'S property so long as the cost of providing such service, including cost of the insurance, is no greater than the lowest quote obtained from two unaffiliated insurance agencies and the coverage and terms are likewise comparable. In no event may such services be provided by the SPONSOR or his AFFILIATE unless they are independently engaged in the business of providing such services to other than AFFILIATES and at least 75% of their insurance brokerage service gross revenue is derived from other than AFFILIATES.

I. MORTGAGE SERVICING FEE. The SPONSOR or his AFFILIATE may provide mortgage services in programs which make or invest in mortgage loans for which he may be paid a fee which when added to all other fees paid in connection with the servicing of a particular mortgage does not exceed the lesser of the customary, competitive fee for the provision of such mortgage services on that type of mortgage or 1/4 of 1% of the principal outstanding in such loan.

J. ASSET BASED FEE.

1. Eligibility. A PROGRAM may elect to compensate the SPONSOR according to the provisions of this section only if the PROGRAM meets all of the following:

a. The PROSPECTUS states that a primary investment objective of the PROGRAM is to generate and to distribute to the PARTICIPANTS the CASH FLOW from the operation of the properties of the PROGRAM.

b. The anticipated life of the PROGRAM does not exceed 20 years from the date the offering is declared effective by the SEC. However, the partnership agreement may provide that the PROGRAM will be extended by the affirmative vote of a majority of the PARTICIPANTS.

c. The PROGRAM will invest not less than 82% of the CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS as the INVESTMENT IN PROPERTIES. The remaining CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS may be used to pay FRONT-END FEES. The total amount of FRONT-END FEES, whenever paid, shall be limited to the initial amount of CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS not applied to INVESTMENT IN PROPERTIES. Of this INVESTMENT IN PROPERTIES, not more than 3% of the CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS may be included as a working capital reserve.

2. Computation. The annual ASSET BASED FEE shall be 0.75% of the BASE AMOUNT. On CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS temporarily held while awaiting INVESTMENTS IN PROPERTIES, the ASSET BASED FEE shall be 0.5% of those CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS. The SPONSOR may also be allowed the following additional fees and compensation:

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

- a. A PROPERTY MANAGEMENT FEE as provided in section IV.G.
- b. REAL ESTATE COMMISSIONS as provided in section IV.F.
- c. A promotional interest as provided in subsection IV.E.2.b.
- d. Fees for insurance services as allowed by section IV.H.
- e. FRONT-END FEES as provided in section IV.J.1.c.
- f. Reimbursement for PROGRAM expenses as provided in section V.E.
- g. Fees, interest and other charges as allowed in section V.I.3.
- h. Additional promotional interest in sale or refinancing proceeds as provided in section IV.C.3.a.
- i. Except as provided above, the SPONSOR shall receive no fees or other compensation from the program.

3. Limitations. An election to compensate the SPONSOR with an ASSET BASED FEE as provided in this section shall be subject to the following limitations:

a. The PROGRAM may reinvest the proceeds from the sale and refinancing of its PROPERTIES during the 7 years following the date of its effectiveness with the SEC. No deduction for FRONT-END FEES shall be allowed on such reinvestments. Beginning on a date 7 years after the date of effectiveness with the SEC, no reinvestment of the proceeds from the sale and refinancing of the PROPERTIES of the PROGRAM shall be allowed.

b. The ASSET BASED FEE may be accrued without interest when PROGRAM funds are not available for its payment. Any accrued ASSET BASED FEE may be paid from the next available CASH FLOW or net proceeds from sale or refinancing of properties. No ASSET BASED FEE may be paid from PROGRAM reserves.

c. A SPONSOR that is terminated and entitled to compensation from the PROGRAM as provided in the partnership documents and governed by section II.F. shall be paid the ASSET BASED FEE through the date of such termination.

d. Except as modified by this section, all other portions of this Statement of Policy shall apply where appropriate to PROGRAMS electing an ASSET BASED FEE.

V. CONFLICTS OF INTEREST AND INVESTMENT RESTRICTIONS.

A. Sales, Leases and Related Program Transactions.

1. Sales and Leases to PROGRAM. A PROGRAM shall not purchase or lease property in which a SPONSOR has an interest unless:

a. The transaction occurs at the formation of the PROGRAM and is fully disclosed in its PROSPECTUS or offering circular, and

b. The property is sold upon terms fair to the PROGRAM and at a price not in excess of its appraised value, and

c. The cost of the property and any improvements thereon to the SPONSOR is clearly established. If the SPONSOR'S cost was less than the price to be paid by the PROGRAM, the price to be paid by the PROGRAM will not be deemed fair, regardless of the appraised value, unless some material change has occurred to the property which would increase the value since the SPONSOR acquired the property. Material factors may include the passage of a significant amount of time (but in no event less than 2 years prior to the offering of PROGRAM INTERESTS), the assumption by the promoter of the risk of obtaining a rezoning of the property and its subsequent rezoning, or some other extraordinary event which in fact increases the value of the property. If the material factor includes development, construction, or MAJOR REPAIRS OR REHABILITATION of the property by the SPONSOR less than two years prior to the offering of PROGRAM INTERESTS, the costs shall be limited as required by Section V.J.

d. The provisions of this subsection notwithstanding, the SPONSOR may purchase property in its own name (and assume loans in connection therewith) and temporarily hold title thereto for the purpose of facilitating the acquisition of such property, or the borrowing of money or obtaining of financing for the PROGRAM, or completion of construction of the property, or any other purpose related to the business of the PROGRAM, provided that such property is purchased by the PROGRAM for a price no greater than the cost of such property to the SPONSOR, except compensation in accordance with Sections IV. and V.J. of these Guidelines, and provided there is no difference in interest rates of the loans secured by the property at the time acquired by the SPONSOR and the time acquired by the PROGRAM, nor any other benefit arising out of such transaction to the SPONSOR apart from compensation otherwise permitted by these Guidelines. Accordingly, all income generated and expenses associated with property so acquired shall be treated as belonging to the PROGRAM.

In no event shall the PROGRAM purchase property from the SPONSOR pursuant to this subparagraph d. if the SPONSOR has held the property for a period in excess of 12 months prior to commencement of the offering. The SPONSOR shall not sell property to the PROGRAM pursuant to this subparagraph d. if the cost of the property exceeds the funds reasonably anticipated to be available to the PROGRAM to purchase the property. The PROSPECTUS and the PROGRAM agreement shall set forth in a manner satisfactory to the ADMINISTRATOR the methodology to be utilized for determining which properties will ultimately be transferred to the PROGRAM when the cost of the property acquired by the SPONSOR on behalf of the PROGRAM exceeds PROGRAM funds available to purchase the property.

e. The purchase is made from a PROGRAM formed by the SPONSOR pursuant to the rights of first refusal required by Section V.H. In such a case the PURCHASE PRICE should be no more than fair market value as determined by an independent appraisal.

2. Sales and Leases to SPONSOR. A PROGRAM shall not sell or lease property to the SPONSOR except as provided herein.

a. The PROGRAM may lease property to the SPONSOR pursuant to a lease-back arrangement made at the outset, the terms of which are fully disclosed in the PROSPECTUS and no less favorable to the PROGRAM than those offered to and accepted by PERSONS who are not AFFILIATES of the SPONSOR.

b. Not more than 10% of aggregate leasable space owned by the PROGRAM may be under lease to the SPONSOR pursuant to terms not less favorable to the PROGRAM than those offered to and accepted by PERSONS who are not AFFILIATES of the SPONSOR; provided that the SPONSOR may not sublet such properties unless all profits derived from such subleases in excess of rentals due on the master lease are paid to the PROGRAM.

c. A SPONSOR may purchase property (or contract rights related thereto) from the PROGRAM only if all of the following criteria are met:

(i) The PROGRAM does not have sufficient offering proceeds available to retain the property (or contract rights related thereto).

(ii) The PROSPECTUS discloses that the SPONSOR will purchase all properties (or contract rights) that the PROGRAM does not have sufficient proceeds to retain.

(iii) The SPONSOR pays the PROGRAM an amount in cash equal to the cost of the property (or contract rights) to the PROGRAM (including all cash payments and carrying costs related thereto).

(iv) The SPONSOR assumes all of the PROGRAM's obligations and liabilities incurred in connection with the holding of the property (or contract rights) by the PROGRAM.

(v) The sale to the SPONSOR occurs not later than 90 days following the termination date of the offering.

(vi) The methodology to be used by the SPONSOR in determining which properties it will purchase in the event that the PROGRAM's offering proceeds are insufficient to retain all properties must be fully disclosed in the PROSPECTUS.

3. Dealing with Related PROGRAMS. A PROGRAM shall not acquire property from a PROGRAM in which the SPONSOR has an interest.

COMMENT:

This provision prohibits transactions among PROGRAMS where the SPONSOR has an interest whereas section V.A.1. above relates to properties where the SPONSOR has an interest.

B. Exchange of Limited Partnership Interests. The PROGRAM may not acquire property in exchange for limited partnership interests, except for property which is described in the PROSPECTUS which will be exchanged immediately upon effectiveness. In addition, such exchange shall meet the following conditions:

1. A provision for such exchange must be set forth in the partnership agreement, and appropriate disclosure as to tax effects of such exchange are set forth in the PROSPECTUS;

2. The property to be acquired must come within the objectives of the PROGRAM;

3. The purchase price assigned to the property shall be no higher than the value supported by an appraisal prepared by an independent qualified appraiser;

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

4. Each limited partnership interest must be valued at no less than market value if there is a market or if there is no market, fair market value of the PROGRAM's assets as determined by an independent appraiser within the last 90 days, less its liabilities, divided by the number of interests outstanding;

5. No more than one-half of the interests issued by the PROGRAM shall have been issued in exchange for property;

6. No securities sales or underwriting commissions shall be paid in connection with such exchange.

C. Exclusive Agreement. A PROGRAM shall not give a SPONSOR an exclusive right to sell or exclusive employment to sell property for the PROGRAM.

D. Commissions on Reinvestment or Distribution. A PROGRAM shall not pay, directly or indirectly, a commission or fee (except as permitted under section IV) to a SPONSOR in connection with the reinvestment or distribution of the proceeds of the resale, exchange, or refinancing of PROGRAM PROPERTY.

COMMENT:

This section clarifies that financing, refinancing, or servicing fees are subject to the limitations of section IV.C.

E. Services Rendered to the PROGRAM by the SPONSOR.

1. Expenses of the PROGRAM.

a. All expenses of the PROGRAM shall be billed directly to and paid by the PROGRAM. The SPONSOR may be reimbursed for the actual cost of goods and materials used for or by the PROGRAM and obtained from entities unaffiliated with the SPONSOR. The SPONSOR may be reimbursed for the administrative services necessary to the prudent operation of the PROGRAM provided that the reimbursement shall be at the lower of the SPONSOR'S actual cost or the amount the PROGRAM would be required to pay to independent parties for comparable administrative services in the same geographic location. No reimbursement shall be permitted for services for which the SPONSOR is entitled to compensation by way of a separate fee. Excluded from the allowable reimbursement (except as permitted under IV.C.1.) shall be:

(i) rent or depreciation, utilities, capital equipment, other administrative items; and

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

(ii) salaries, fringe benefits, travel expenses, and other administrative items incurred or allocated to any controlling persons of the SPONSOR or AFFILIATES.

Controlling person, for purpose of this section, includes but is not limited to, any person, whatever their title, who performs functions for the SPONSOR similar to those of:

(i) Chairman or member of the Board of Directors;

(ii) Executive Management, such as the

(1) President,

(2) Vice-President or Senior Vice-President,

(3) Corporate Secretary,

(4) Treasurer;

(iii) Senior Management, such as the Vice-President of an operating division who reports directly to Executive Management; or

(iv) Those holding 5% or more equity interest in the SPONSOR or a person having the power to direct or cause the direction of the SPONSOR, whether through the ownership of voting securities, by contract, or otherwise.

b. The annual PROGRAM report must contain a breakdown of the costs reimbursed to the SPONSOR. Within the scope of the annual audit of the SPONSOR'S financial statement, the independent certified public accountants must verify the allocation of such costs to the PROGRAM. The method of verification shall at minimum provide:

(i) A review of the time records of individual employees, the costs of whose services were reimbursed;

(ii) A review of the specific nature of the work performed by each such employee.

The methods of verification shall be in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and shall accordingly include such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures which the SPONSOR'S independent certified public accountants consider appropriate in the circumstance. The additional costs of such verification will be itemized by said accountants on a PROGRAM by PROGRAM basis and may be reimbursed to the SPONSOR by the PROGRAM in accordance with this subsection only to the extent that such reimbursement when added to the cost for administrative services rendered does not exceed the competitive rate for such services as determined above.

The PROSPECTUS must disclose in tabular form an estimate of such proposed expenses for the next fiscal year together with a breakdown by year of such expenses reimbursed in each of the last five public programs formed by the SPONSOR.

COMMENT:

This section permits the SPONSOR to be reimbursed for a portion of the costs incurred in performing certain administrative functions for the PROGRAM provided the SPONSOR is both qualified to perform such functions and does so at a cost no greater to the PROGRAM than that which an unaffiliated PERSON would charge the PROGRAM. Regardless of the capacity in which controlling persons of the SPONSOR serve the PROGRAM, their salaries may not be allocated to the PROGRAM.

2. Other Goods and Services. Except as provided in Sections IV. V.E.1., and V.J., other goods and services may be provided by the SPONSOR for the PROGRAM only if all of the following criteria are met:

a. The goods or services must be necessary to the prudent operation of the PROGRAM.

b. The compensation, price or fee must be equal to either (i) the lesser of 90% of the compensation, price or fee of any non-affiliated PERSON who is rendering comparable services or selling or leasing comparable goods on competitive terms in the same geographic location or 90% of the compensation, price or fee charged by the SPONSOR for rendering comparable services or selling or leasing comparable goods on competitive terms, or (ii) if at least 95% of gross revenues attributable to the business of rendering such services or selling or leasing such goods are derived from PERSONS other than AFFILIATES, the compensation, price or fee charged by any nonaffiliated PERSON who is rendering comparable services or selling or leasing comparable goods on competitive terms in the same geographic location.

c. The goods or services shall be provided pursuant to a written contract which precisely describes such goods or services and all compensation to be paid. The contract may be modified in any material respect only by the vote of a majority in interest of the limited partners and shall be terminable without penalty on 60 days' notice.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

d. The goods and services to be provided and the written contract referred to in subparagraph c. must be fully disclosed in the PROSPECTUS.

e. The SPONSOR must have been previously engaged in the business of rendering such services or selling or leasing such goods as an ordinary and ongoing business for a period of at least three years.

f. The SPONSOR must receive at least 33% of gross revenues for such goods or services from PERSONS other than AFFILIATES.

g. Except as provided in Sections IV., V.E.1. and V.J., and other than as provided in Section V.E.2.b., d., e., and f. herein, the SPONSOR may provide additional goods and services to the PROGRAM if all of the following criteria are met:

(i) The goods or services may only be provided by the SPONSOR in extraordinary circumstances.

COMMENT: Where the services are available elsewhere from unaffiliated parties, there would be a presumption that there are no extraordinary circumstances. Extraordinary circumstances would only be presumed where there is an emergency situation requiring immediate action by the SPONSOR, and the service is not immediately available from unaffiliated parties. Extraordinary circumstances shall, in no event, include general and administrative expenses, except as otherwise provided herein.

(ii) The compensation, price or fee must be competitive with the compensation, price or fee of any non-affiliated PERSON who is rendering comparable services or selling or leasing comparable goods on competitive terms which could reasonably be made available to the PROGRAM.

(iii) The fees and other terms of the contract shall be fully disclosed.

(iv) The SPONSOR must be previously engaged in the business of rendering such services or selling or leasing such goods, independently of the PROGRAM and as an ordinary and ongoing business.

(v) There must be compliance with subparagraphs a. and c. of this Section V.E.2.

F. Rebates, Kickbacks and Reciprocal Arrangements.

1. No rebates or give-ups may be received by the SPONSOR nor may the SPONSOR participate in any reciprocal business arrangements which would circumvent these Rules. Furthermore the PROSPECTUS and PROGRAM charter documents shall contain language prohibiting the above as well as language prohibiting reciprocal business arrangements which would circumvent the restrictions against dealing with AFFILIATES or promoters.

2. No SPONSOR shall directly or indirectly pay or award any commissions or other compensation to any PERSON engaged by a potential investor for investment advice as an inducement to such advisor to advise the purchaser of interests in a particular PROGRAM; provided, however, that this clause shall not prohibit the normal sales commissions payable to a registered broker-dealer or other properly licensed PERSON for selling PROGRAM INTERESTS.

G. Commingling of Funds. The funds of a PROGRAM shall not be commingled with the funds of any other PERSON. Nothing contained in this Section however, shall prohibit a SPONSOR from establishing a master fiduciary account pursuant to which separate subtrust accounts are established for the benefit of affiliated limited partnerships, provided, that PROGRAM funds are protected from claims of such other partnerships and/or creditors. The prohibition of this Section shall not apply to investments meeting the requirements of Section V.H.

H. Investments in or With Other PROGRAMS.

1. The PROGRAM shall be permitted to invest in general partnerships or joint ventures with non-AFFILIATES that own and operate one or more particular properties if the PROGRAM, alone or together with any publicly registered AFFILIATE of the PROGRAM meeting the requirements of paragraph 2. below, acquires a controlling interest in such a general partnership or joint venture, but in no event shall duplicate fees be permitted. For purposes of this Section, "controlling interest" means an equity interest possessing the power to direct or cause the direction of the management and policies of the general partnership or joint venture, including the authority to:

a. review all contracts entered into by the general partnership or joint venture that will have a material effect on its business or property;

b. cause a sale or refinancing of the property or its interest therein subject in certain cases where required by the partnership or joint venture agreement, to limits as to time, minimum amounts and/or a right of first refusal by the joint venture partner or consent of the joint venture partner;

c. approve budgets and major capital expenditures, subject to a stated minimum amount;

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

d. veto any sale or refinancing of the property, or, alternatively, to receive a specified preference on sale or refinancing proceeds; and

e. exercise a right of first refusal on any desired sale or refinancing by the joint venture partner of its interest in the property except for transfer to an AFFILIATE of the joint venture partner.

2. The PROGRAM shall be permitted to invest in general partnerships or joint ventures with other publicly registered AFFILIATES of the PROGRAM if all of the following conditions are met:

a. The PROGRAMS have substantially identical investment objectives.

b. There are no duplicate fees.

c. The compensation to SPONSORS is substantially identical in each PROGRAM.

d. Each PROGRAM must have a right of first refusal to buy if the other PROGRAMS wish to sell property held in the joint venture.

e. The investment of each PROGRAM is on substantially the same terms and conditions.

f. The PROSPECTUS must disclose the potential risk of impasse on joint venture decisions since no PROGRAM controls and the potential risk that while a PROGRAM may have the right to buy the property from the partnership or joint venture, it may not have the resources to do so. COMMENTS: In certain situations, it would be to the advantage of the PROGRAM to be able to invest in a general partnership or joint venture with other PROGRAMS where no PROGRAM has sufficient money to make the entire investment even if the PROGRAM does not acquire a controlling interest. However, there is a need to not only require full disclosure of the general partnership or joint venture arrangements but also to set out substantive standards that must be adhered to in order to provide the protection necessary for this type of investment.

For PROGRAMS which make or invest in mortgage loans, general partnerships or joint venture arrangements are permitted so long as general partnerships or joint ventures with publicly registered AFFILIATES of the PROGRAM satisfy the requirements of Section V.I.2. of these guidelines.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

3. The PROGRAM shall be permitted to invest in general partnerships or joint ventures with AFFILIATES other than publicly registered AFFILIATES of the PROGRAM only under the following conditions: (a) the investment is necessary to relieve the SPONSOR from any commitment to purchase a property entered into in compliance with Section V.A.1.d. prior to the closing of the offering period of the PROGRAM; (b) there are no duplicate fees; (c) the investment of each entity is on substantially the same terms and conditions; (d) the PROGRAM must have a right of first refusal to buy if the SPONSOR wishes to sell property held in the joint venture; and (e) the PROSPECTUS discloses the potential risk of impasse on joint venture decisions.

4. Other than as specifically permitted in paragraphs 2. and 3. above, the PROGRAM shall not be permitted to invest in general partnerships or joint ventures with AFFILIATES.

5. A PROGRAM shall be permitted to invest in general partnership interests of limited partnerships only if the PROGRAM alone or together with any publicly registered AFFILIATE of the PROGRAM meeting the requirements of paragraph 2. above, acquires a "controlling interest" as defined in Section V.H.1., no duplicate fees are permitted, no additional compensation beyond that permitted by Section IV. shall be paid to the SPONSOR, and the PROGRAM agreement shall comply with Section V.

6. A PROGRAM that is a limited partnership (the "Upper-Tier Partnership") shall be permitted to invest in limited partnership interests of other limited partnerships (the "Lower-Tier Partnerships") only if all of the following conditions are met:

a. If the general partner of the Lower-Tier Partnership is a SPONSOR of the Upper-Tier Partnership, the Program agreement of the Upper-Tier Partnership shall:

(1) prohibit the PROGRAM from investing in such Lower-Tier Partnership unless the partnership agreement of the Lower-Tier Partnership contains provisions complying with Section IX.F. of these guidelines and provisions acknowledging privity between the Lower-Tier general partner and the PARTICIPANTS; and

(2) provide that compensation payable in the aggregate from both levels shall not exceed the amounts permitted under Section IV. of these guidelines.

b. If the general partner of the Lower-Tier Partnership is not a SPONSOR of the Upper-Tier Partnership, the PROGRAM agreement of the Upper-Tier Partnership shall prohibit the PROGRAM from investing in the Lower-Tier Partnership unless the partnership agreement of the Lower-Tier Partnership contains provisions complying with Sections II.E. and F.; VII.A.--D., H. and J.; and IX.C. of these guidelines; and shall provide that the compensation payable at both tiers shall not exceed the amounts permitted in Sections IV. of these guidelines.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

c. Each Lower-Tier Partnership shall have as its limited partners only publicly registered Upper-Tier Partnerships; provided, however, that special limited partners not affiliated with the SPONSOR shall be permitted if the interests taken result in no diminution in the control exercisable by the other limited partners.

d. No PROGRAM may be structured with more than two tiers.

e. The PROGRAM agreement of the Upper-Tier Partnership must contain a prohibition against duplicate fees.

f. The PROGRAM agreement of the Upper-Tier Partnership must provide that the limited partners of the Upper-Tier Partnership can, upon the vote of a majority in interest and without the concurrence of the SPONSOR, direct the general partner of the Upper-Tier Partnership (acting on behalf of the Upper-Tier Partnership) to take any action permitted to a limited partner (e.g., the Upper-Tier Partnership) in the Lower-Tier Partnership.

g. The PROSPECTUS must fully and prominently disclose the two-tiered arrangement and any risks related thereto.

7. Notwithstanding Section V.H.6.b. through g., if the general partner of the Lower-Tier Partnership is not a SPONSOR of the Upper-Tier Partnership, an Upper-Tier Partnership may invest in a Lower-Tier Partnership that owns and operates a particular property to be qualified pursuant to Section 42(g) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, if limited partners at both tiers are provided all of the rights and obligations required by Section VII. of these guidelines and the PROGRAM agreement of the Upper-Tier Partnership contains a prohibition against payment of duplicate fees.

COMMENT:

Nothing contained in Section V.H. may be used to circumvent or abrogate the restrictions and requirements of these guidelines, including, but not limited to, Section V.A. hereof. However, no provision contained in Section V.H. is intended to restrict or prohibit any payment to a PERSON who is not an AFFILIATE of the SPONSOR otherwise permitted in Section IV. of these guidelines.

I. Lending Practices.

1. No loans may be made by the PROGRAM to the Sponsor or an AFFILIATE except as provided in V.I.2. and II. D.4.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

2. PROGRAMS which make or invest in mortgage loans may provide such loans to PROGRAMS formed by or affiliated with the SPONSOR in those circumstances in which such activities have been fully justified to the ADMINISTRATOR. These affiliated transactions must at the minimum meet the following conditions:

a. the circumstances under which the loans will be made and the actual terms of the loans must be fully disclosed in the prospectus or;

b. an independent and qualified adviser must issue a letter of opinion to the effect that any proposed loan to an AFFILIATE of the PROGRAM is fair and at least as favorable to the PROGRAM as a loan to an unaffiliated borrower in similar circumstances. In addition, the SPONSORS will be required to obtain a letter of opinion from the independent adviser in connection with any disposition, renegotiation or other subsequent transaction involving loans made to a SPONSOR or an AFFILIATE of the SPONSOR. The adviser's compensation must be paid by the SPONSOR and not reimbursable by the PROGRAM.

c. Loans made to third parties, the proceeds of which are used to purchase or refinance property in which the SPONSOR or an AFFILIATE has an equity or security interest, must meet the requirements of V.I.2.a. or b.

COMMENT A:

Full disclosure of the terms of the loans and the circumstances under which they will be made includes, but is not limited to identification of the borrower(s) and the property(ies) securing the loan(s), a description of the parameters of the loan(s) or model loan documents, disclosure of the SPONSORS' or the AFFILIATES' interest in such property, and a description of the terms and circumstances surrounding such interest.

COMMENT B:

In order for the adviser to be considered qualified and independent the following conditions must be met:

(i) The adviser must be a long established, nationally recognized investment banking firm, accounting firm, mortgage banking firm, bank, real estate financial consulting firm or advisory firm;

(ii) The adviser must have a staff of real estate professionals;

(iii) The compensation of the adviser must be determined and embodied in a written contract before an opinion is rendered.

(iv) If an adviser has been engaged to render a fairness opinion who is not the adviser previously engaged to render this or the preceding fairness opinion, the SPONSOR shall inform the investors (by no later than the next annual report) of the date when such adviser was engaged, and whether there were any disagreements with the former adviser on any matters of valuation, assumptions, methodology, accounting principles and practice, or disclosure, which disagreements, if not resolved to the satisfaction of the former adviser would have caused him to make reference, in connection with the fairness opinion, to the subject matter of the disagreement or decline to give an opinion.

(v) The compensation of the adviser must be paid by the SPONSOR and the SPONSOR may not claim reimbursement from the PROGRAM for such expenses.

(vi) The adviser, directly or indirectly, has no interest in, nor any material business or professional relationship with, the PROGRAM, the SPONSOR, the borrower, or any AFFILIATES thereof. Independence will be considered to be impaired if, for example, during the period of the adviser's engagement, or at any time of expressing his opinion, he or his firm: (i) had, or was committed to acquire any direct or indirect ownership interest in the PROGRAM, SPONSOR, borrower, or AFFILIATES thereof, or (ii) had any joint closely held business investment with the PROGRAM, SPONSOR, borrower, or any AFFILIATE thereof, which was material in relation to the adviser's net worth; or, (iii) had any loan to or from the PROGRAM, SPONSOR, borrower, or AFFILIATES thereof.

The foregoing examples are not intended to be all-inclusive. However, for purposes of determining whether or not the business or professional relationship or joint investment is material, the gross revenue derived by the adviser from the PROGRAM, the SPONSOR, the borrower, and their AFFILIATES shall be deemed material per se if it exceeds 5% of the annual gross revenue derived by the adviser from all sources or exceeds 5% of the individual's or the advisor's net worth (on an estimated fair market value basis).

3. On loans made available to the PROGRAM by the SPONSOR, the SPONSOR may not receive interest or similar charges or fees in excess of the amount which would be charged by unrelated lending institutions on comparable loans for the same purpose, in the same locality of the property if the loan is made in connection with a particular property. No prepayment charge or penalty shall be required by the SPONSOR on a loan to the PROGRAM secured by either a first or a junior or all-inclusive trust deed, mortgage or encumbrance on the property, except to the extent that such prepayment charge or penalty is attributable to the underlying encumbrance.

4. The SPONSOR shall be prohibited from providing FINANCING except:

a. As permitted by Section V.I.2., in which case there will be independent advisers for each publicly registered party to the transaction; or

b. As permitted by Section V.I.5.

5. An "all-inclusive" or "wrap-around" note and deed of trust (the "all-inclusive note" herein) may be used to finance the purchase of property by the PROGRAM only if the following conditions are complied with:

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

a. The SPONSOR under the all-inclusive note shall not receive interest on the amount of the underlying encumbrance included in the all-inclusive note in excess of that payable to the lender on that underlying encumbrance;

b. The PROGRAM shall receive credit on its obligation under the all-inclusive note for payments made directly on the underlying encumbrance, and

c. A paying agent, ordinarily a bank, escrow company, or savings and loan, shall collect payments (other than any initial payment of prepaid interest or loan points not to be applied to the underlying encumbrance) on the all-inclusive note and make disbursements therefrom to the holder of the underlying encumbrance prior to making any disbursement to the holder of the all-inclusive note, subject to the requirements of subparagraph a. above, or, in the alternative, all payments on the all-inclusive and underlying note shall be made directly by the PROGRAM.

J. Development Construction, or MAJOR REPAIRS OR REHABILITATION of Properties.

1. Provision of Services by the SPONSOR. The SPONSOR will be permitted to develop, construct or provide MAJOR REPAIRS AND REHABILITATION for properties, or render any services in connection with such activities only if all of the following conditions are satisfied:

a. The transactions occur upon the formation of the PROGRAM and are for properties specified in the final PROSPECTUS.

b. The specific terms of the contract(s) are ascertainable and fully disclosed in the final PROSPECTUS.

c. The purchase price to be paid by the PROGRAM is based upon a contract price fully disclosed in the final PROSPECTUS which in no event can exceed the lesser of appraised value as completed (assuming a market rate of occupancy) or the sum of the cost of the land and the cost of development, construction or repairs and rehabilitation. For the purposes of this paragraph, the cost of development, construction or repairs and rehabilitation includes the DEVELOPMENT FEE, the CONSTRUCTION FEE, direct costs, the cost of construction site personnel construction administration, legal fees, design costs, engineering costs, and construction site utilities. The costs of construction site personnel and construction administration shall be limited as required by Section V.E.1.a. and shall not include reimbursement of costs of controlling persons as set forth in that section. In no event may any other overhead of the SPONSOR be charged to the PROGRAM or included in the total costs paid. The appraisal shall be prepared in accordance with Section V.L.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

d. The ADMINISTRATOR may require demonstration that the fees and costs payable under paragraph c. above are comparable to and competitive with amounts charged by third parties in the same geographic area. The total of the DEVELOPMENT FEE and the CONSTRUCTION FEE paid in connection with such project shall not exceed 15% of the direct costs of the project. For the purposes of this limitation, direct costs shall not include construction site personnel or construction site utilities.

e. Notwithstanding Section IV.C., the only FRONT-END FEES paid to the SPONSOR in connection with such project shall consist of ORGANIZATION AND OFFERING EXPENSES, a DEVELOPMENT FEE (if applicable), a CONSTRUCTION FEE and a real estate commission in connection with the acquisition of the land from PERSONS who are not AFFILIATES of the general partner. The SPONSOR may not receive any other FRONT-END FEES. The foregoing fees and commissions plus any additional ACQUISITION FEES and ACQUISITION EXPENSES to unaffiliated PERSONS (and any DEVELOPMENT FEE and CONSTRUCTION FEE individually) must be comparable to and competitive with the fees paid to unaffiliated PERSONS rendering comparable services in the same geographic location. The ADMINISTRATOR may require demonstration that such fees, commissions and expenses are comparable and competitive.

f. The SPONSOR must comply with Section V.K.

g. Subcontractors who are affiliates of the general partner must meet the requirements of Section V.E.2.b-f.

h. If the contract price equals the appraised value set forth in subparagraph c. above, the SPONSOR shall be responsible for the direct costs incurred to achieve the appraisal assumptions.

COMMENT:

In lieu of this requirement, the ADMINISTRATOR may impose higher suitability standards for PROGRAM PARTICIPANTS pursuant to Section III.

i. The SPONSOR complies with paragraphs c., d., e. and f. of Section V.E.2.

j. DEVELOPMENT FEES and CONSTRUCTION FEES paid to PERSONS not affiliated with the general partner may be included in INVESTMENT IN PROPERTIES.

K. Completion Bond Requirements.

1. The completion of property acquired which is under construction shall be guaranteed at the price contracted by an adequate completion bond or other satisfactory arrangements.

2. For purposes of this Section, satisfactory arrangements include, but are not limited to, the following:

a. A written guarantee of completion by a person, supported by financial statements demonstrating sufficient net worth or adequately collateralized by other real or personal properties or other persons guarantees.

b. A retention of a reasonable portion of the purchase consideration as a potential offset to such purchase consideration in the event the seller does not perform in accordance with the purchase and sale agreement.

3. Other satisfactory arrangements to guarantee completion may be made, provided they are disclosed in the prospectus and the prior written approval of the ADMINISTRATOR has been obtained.

L. Requirement for Real Property Appraisal. All real property acquisitions must be supported by an appraisal prepared by a competent, independent appraiser. The appraisal shall be maintained in the SPONSOR's records for at least five years, and shall be available for inspection and duplication by any PARTICIPANT. The PROSPECTUS shall contain notice of this right.

M. Mortgage Loan PROGRAMS. A PROGRAM will not be permitted to invest in or make mortgage loans unless a real property appraisal is obtained as provided for in Paragraph L of this Section for each mortgage loan and a mortgagee's or owner's title insurance policy or commitment as to the priority of a mortgage or the condition of title is obtained. Further, the sponsor of mortgage loan programs shall observe the following policies in connection with investing in or making mortgage loans:

1. The PROGRAM may not invest in or make mortgage loans on any one property which would exceed, in the aggregate, an amount equal to 20% of the CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS to be raised by the program;

2. The PROGRAM may not invest in or make mortgage loans to or from any one borrower which would exceed, in the aggregate, an amount greater than 20% of the CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS to be raised by the program;

3. The PROGRAM may not invest in or make mortgage loans on unimproved real property in an amount in excess of 25% of the CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS to be raised by the program;

COMMENT:

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

Subsections 1. 2. and 3. shall not apply to SPECIFIED PROPERTY PROGRAMS.

4. The PROGRAM shall not invest in real estate contracts of sale otherwise known as land sale contracts unless such contracts of sale are in recordable form and are appropriately recorded in the chain of title;

5. The PROGRAM shall not make or invest in mortgage loans on any one property if the aggregate amount of all mortgage loans outstanding on the property, including the loans of the PROGRAM, would exceed an amount equal to 85% of the appraised value of the property as determined by an independent appraisal unless substantial justification exists because of the presence of other underwriting criteria. For purposes of this subsection 5., the "aggregate amount of all mortgage loans outstanding on the property, including the loans of the PROGRAM," shall include all interest (excluding contingent participations in income and/or appreciation in value of the mortgaged property), the current payment of which may be deferred pursuant to the terms of such loans, to the extent that deferred interest on each loan exceeds 5% per annum of the principal balance of the loan;

COMMENT:

This restriction applies to all loans including construction loans.

6. The PROGRAM is permitted to borrow money to the extent necessary to prevent defaults under existing loans; when the program has taken over the operation of property and there is a need for additional capital; to pay organizational and/or offering expenses.

COMMENT:

This Section provides certain minimum standards in connection with the investment in or making of mortgage loans by a program. The standards may be exceeded for a particular registration if the mortgage loans are supported by sound underwriting criteria, such as the net worth of the borrower; the credit rating of the borrower based on historical financial performance; or collateral adequate to justify waiver from application of this section. The standards may also be exceeded where program mortgage loans are or will be insured or guaranteed by a government or a government agency; where the loan is secured by the pledge or assignment of other real estate or another real estate mortgage; where rents are assigned under a lease where a tenant or tenants have demonstrated through historical net worth and cash flow the ability to satisfy the terms of the lease; or where similar criteria is presented satisfactory to the Administrator.

COMMENT:

MANDATORY DEFERRED PAYMENTS in PROGRAMS which make or invest in mortgage loans may require adherence to more conservative diversification standards as the ADMINISTRATOR deems appropriate.

N. PROGRAM INDEBTEDNESS.

1. Except as contained in paragraph 2, following the termination of the offering the total amount of indebtedness incurred by the PROGRAM shall at no time exceed the sum of 85% of the aggregate PURCHASE PRICE of all properties which have not been refinanced, and 85% of the aggregate fair market value of all refinanced properties, as determined by the lender as of the date of refinancing.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

2. For PROGRAMS which own properties financed by (i) loans insured or guaranteed by the full faith and credit of the United States government, or of a state or local government, or by an agency or instrumentality of any of them, and/or (ii) loans received from any of the foregoing entities, following the termination of the offering the total amount of indebtedness incurred by the PROGRAM shall at no time exceed the sum of 100% of the aggregate PURCHASE PRICE of all properties which have not been refinanced, and 100% of the aggregate fair market value of all refinanced properties as determined by the lender as of the date of refinancing.

3. For any PROGRAM subject to the limitations of both paragraphs 1 and 2, the maximum percentage of indebtedness for the entire PROGRAM shall be calculated as follows:

(a) divide the total value of properties as determined under paragraph 2 by the total value of properties as determined under paragraphs 1 and 2;

(b) multiply the number 15 by the quotient of subsection (a); and,

(c) add the product from subsection (b) to the number 85.

4. For purposes of this section V.N. only, "indebtedness" shall include the principal of any loan together with any interest that may be deferred pursuant to the terms of the loan agreement which exceeds 5% per annum of the principal balance of such indebtedness (excluding contingent participations in income and/or appreciation in the value of the PROGRAM property); and shall exclude any indebtedness incurred by the PROGRAM for necessary working capital.

O. APPRAISAL AND COMPENSATION.

1. In connection with a proposed ROLL-UP, an appraisal of all PROGRAM assets shall be obtained from a competent, INDEPENDENT EXPERT. If the appraisal will be included in a PROSPECTUS used to offer the securities of a ROLL-UP ENTITY, the appraisal shall be filed with the SEC and the states as an Exhibit to the Registration Statement for the offering. Accordingly, an issuer using the appraisal shall be subject to liability for violation of Section 11 of the Securities Act of 1933 and comparable provisions under state laws for any material misrepresentations or material omissions in the appraisal. PROGRAM assets shall be appraised on a consistent basis. The appraisal shall be based on an evaluation of all relevant information, and shall indicate the value of the PROGRAM'S assets as of a date immediately prior to the announcement of the proposed ROLL-UP. The appraisal shall assume an orderly liquidation of the PROGRAM'S assets over a 12 month period. The terms of the engagement of the INDEPENDENT EXPERT shall clearly state that the engagement is for the benefit of the PROGRAM and its PARTICIPANTS. A summary of the independent appraisal, indicating all material assumptions underlying the appraisal, shall be included in a report to the PARTICIPANTS in connection with a proposed ROLL-UP.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

2. In connection with a proposed ROLL-UP the PERSON sponsoring the ROLL-UP shall offer to PARTICIPANTS who vote "no" on the proposal the choice of:

(a) accepting the securities of the ROLL-UP ENTITY offered in the proposed ROLL-UP; or

(b) one of the following:

(i) remaining as PARTICIPANTS in the PROGRAM and preserving their interests therein on the same terms and conditions as existed previously; or

(ii) receiving cash in an amount equal to the PARTICIPANTS' pro-rata share of the appraised value of the net assets of the PROGRAM.

COMMENT:

With respect to the options specified in Subsection V.O.2.(b), the PERSON sponsoring the ROLL-UP needs only offer one of these alternatives to dissenting investors who do not wish to accept the security of the ROLL-UP ENTITY.

3. The PROGRAM shall not participate in any proposed ROLL-UP which would result in PARTICIPANTS having democracy rights in the ROLL-UP ENTITY which are less than those provided for under Sections VII.A. and VII.B. of these Guidelines. If the ROLL-UP ENTITY is a corporation, the voting rights of PARTICIPANTS shall correspond to the voting rights provided for in these Guidelines to the greatest extent possible.

4. The PROGRAM shall not participate in any proposed ROLL-UP which includes provisions which would operate to materially impede or frustrate the accumulation of shares by any purchaser of the securities of the ROLL-UP ENTITY (except to the minimum extent necessary to preserve the tax status of the ROLL-UP ENTITY). The PROGRAM shall not participate in any proposed ROLL-UP which would limit the ability of a PARTICIPANT to exercise the voting rights of its securities of the ROLL-UP ENTITY on the basis of the number of PROGRAM INTERESTS held by that PARTICIPANT.

5. The PROGRAM shall not participate in any proposed ROLL-UP in which PARTICIPANTS' rights of access to the records of the ROLL-UP ENTITY will be less than those provided for under Section VII.D. of these Guidelines.

6. The PROGRAM shall not participate in any proposed ROLL-UP in which any of the costs of the transaction would be borne by the PROGRAM if the ROLL-UP is not approved by the PARTICIPANTS.

VI. NON-SPECIFIED PROPERTY PROGRAMS.

The following special provisions shall apply to NON-SPECIFIED PROPERTY PROGRAMS:

A. Minimum Capitalization. A NON-SPECIFIED PROPERTY PROGRAM shall provide for minimum cash gross proceeds from the offering of not less than $1,000,000.00 to be available for INVESTMENT IN PROPERTIES.

B. Experience of SPONSOR. For NON-SPECIFIED PROPERTY PROGRAMS, the SPONSOR or at least one of its principals must establish that he has had the equivalent of not less than five years experience in the real estate business in an executive capacity and two years experience in the management and acquisition of the type of properties to be acquired or otherwise must demonstrate to the satisfaction of the ADMINISTRATOR that he has sufficient knowledge and experience to acquire and manage the type of properties proposed to be acquired by the NON-SPECIFIED PROPERTY PROGRAM.

C. Statement of Investment Objectives. A NON-SPECIFIED PROPERTY PROGRAM shall state types of properties in which it proposes to invest, such as first-user apartment projects, subsequent-user apartment projects, shopping centers, office buildings, unimproved land, etc., and the size and scope of such projects shall be consistent with the objectives of the PROGRAM and the experience of the SPONSORS. As a minimum the following restrictions on investment objectives shall be observed.

1. Unimproved or non-income producing property shall not be acquired except in amounts and upon terms which can be financed by the PROGRAM's proceeds or from cash available for distribution from operations. Investments in such property shall not exceed 25% of the gross proceeds of the offering. Properties which are expected to produce income within a reasonable period of time shall not be considered non-income producing. For purposes of this subsection two years shall be deemed to be presumptively reasonable.

2. Investments in junior trust deeds and other similar obligations shall be prohibited, except for junior trust deeds which arise from the sale of PROGRAM properties.

COMMENT:

This provision shall not be applicable to: (1) those PROGRAMS formed solely to make or invest in mortgage loans, and (2) in the case of programs whose objectives are to invest in mortgage loans and acquire real properties to that portion of net offering proceeds which are utilized to make or invest in mortgage loans. The restrictions on these PROGRAMS are governed, in part, by Section V.M. of these GUIDELINES.

3. The manner in which acquisitions will be financed including the use of an all-inclusive note or wrap-around, and the leveraging to be employed shall all be fully set forth in the statement of investment objectives.

4. The statement of investment objectives shall indicate whether the PROGRAM will enter into joint venture arrangements and the projected extent thereof.

5. The statement of investment objectives shall not include a quantitative estimate of the PROGRAM's anticipated economic performance or anticipated return to investors (in the form of distributable funds or tax benefits). The presentation of a proposed level of economic performance or return to investors (in the form of distributable funds or tax benefits) in connection with a NONSPECIFIED PROPERTY PROGRAM is prohibited by Section VIII.C.

D. Period of Offering and Expenditure of Proceeds. Subject to compliance with applicable state securities laws and regulations, an offering of securities in a NON-SPECIFIED PROPERTY PROGRAM may extend for up to two years from the date of original effectiveness provided that the minimum amount of PROGRAM INTERESTS necessary to satisfy the greater of the minimum capitalization requirements of Section VI.A. or the impound requirements set by the PROGRAM is sold within one year of commencement of the offering. While the proceeds of an offering are awaiting investment in real property, the proceeds may be temporarily invested in short-term highly liquid investments where there is appropriate safety of principal, such as U.S. Treasury Bonds or Bills. Any proceeds of the offering of PROGRAM INTERESTS not invested within the later of two years after commencement of the offering or one year after the termination of the offering, or, if allowed by the ADMINISTRATOR, six months from the last scheduled MANDATORY DEFERRED PAYMENT date (except for necessary operating capital) shall be distributed pro rata to the PARTICIPANTS as a return of capital so long as the adjusted INVESTMENT IN PROPERTIES is in compliance with Section IV.C.

E. Multiple Programs. The method for the allocation of the acquisition of properties by two or more programs of the same SPONSOR seeking to acquire similar types of properties shall be reasonable. The method also shall be described in the prospectus.

VII. RIGHTS AND OBLIGATIONS OF PARTICIPANTS.

A. Meetings. Meetings of the PROGRAM may be called by the SPONSOR or the PARTICIPANTS holding more than 10% of the then outstanding limited partnership interests, for any matters for which the PARTICIPANTS may vote as set forth in the limited partnership agreement. Upon receipt of a written request either in PERSON or by certified mail stating the purpose(s) of the meeting, the SPONSOR shall provide all PARTICIPANTS within ten days after receipt of said request, written notice (either in PERSON or by certified mail) of a meeting and the purpose of such meeting to be held on a date not less than fifteen nor more than sixty days after receipt of said request, at a time and place convenient to PARTICIPANTS.

B. Voting Rights of Limited Partners. To the extent permitted by the law of the state of formation, the PROGRAM agreement shall provide that a majority of the outstanding PROGRAM INTERESTS may, without necessity for concurrence by the general partner, vote to: (1) amend the PROGRAM agreement, (2) remove the general partner(s), (3) elect a new general partner(s), (4) approve or disapprove the sale of all or substantially all of the assets of the PROGRAM except pursuant to a plan disclosed in the final PROSPECTUS, and (5) dissolve the PROGRAM. Without concurrence of a majority of the outstanding PROGRAM INTERESTS, the general partner(s) may not (i) amend the PROGRAM agreement except for amendments which do not adversely affect the rights of PARTICIPANTS, (ii) voluntarily withdraw as a general partner unless such withdrawal would not affect the tax status of the PROGRAM and would not materially adversely affect the PARTICIPANT, (iii) appoint a new general partner(s), (iv) sell all or substantially all of the PROGRAM's assets other than in the ordinary course of the PROGRAM's business, (v) cause the merger or other reorganization of the PROGRAM or (vi) dissolve the PROGRAM. Notwithstanding clause (iii) of the preceding sentence, an additional general partner may be appointed without obtaining the consent of the PARTICIPANTS if the addition of such PERSON is necessary to preserve the tax status of the PROGRAM, such PERSON has no authority to manage or control the PROGRAM under the PROGRAM agreement, there is no change in the identity of the PERSONS who have authority to manage or control the PROGRAM, and the admission of such PERSON as an additional general partner does not materially adversely affect the PARTICIPANTS. Any amendment to the PROGRAM agreement which modifies the compensation or distributions to which a general partner is entitled or which affects the duties of a general partner may be conditioned upon the consent of the general partner. With respect to any PROGRAM INTERESTS owned by the SPONSOR, the SPONSOR may not vote or consent on matters submitted to the PARTICIPANTS regarding the removal of the SPONSOR or regarding any transaction between the PROGRAM and the SPONSOR. In determining the existence of the requisite percentage in interest of PROGRAM INTERESTS necessary to approve a matter on which the SPONSOR may not vote or consent, any PROGRAM INTERESTS owned by the SPONSOR shall not be included. If the law of the state of formation provides that the PROGRAM will dissolve upon termination of a general partner(s) unless the remaining general partner(s) continues the existence of the PROGRAM, the PROGRAM agreement shall obligate the remaining general partner(s) to continue the PROGRAM's existence; and if there will be no remaining general partner(s), the termination of the last general partner shall not be effective for a period of at least 120 days during which time a majority of the outstanding PROGRAM INTERESTS shall have the right to elect a general partner who shall agree to continue the existence of the PROGRAM. The PROGRAM agreement shall provide for a successor general partner where the only general partner of the PROGRAM is an individual.

COMMENT:

A sale of all or substantially all of the PROGRAM's assets shall mean the sale of two-thirds or more of the PROGRAM's assets based on the total number of properties and mortgages, or the current fair market value of these assets.

C. Reports to Holders of Limited Partnership Interests. The partnership agreement shall provide that the SPONSOR shall cause to be prepared and distributed to the holder of PROGRAM INTERESTS during each year the following reports:

1. In the case of a PROGRAM registered under Section 12(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, within sixty days after the end of each quarter of the PROGRAM, a report containing:

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

- a. A balance sheet, which may be unaudited,
 - b. A statement of income for the quarter then ended, which may be unaudited, and
 - c. A statement of cash flows for the quarter then ended, which may be unaudited, and
 - d. Other pertinent information regarding the PROGRAM and its activities during the quarter covered by the report;
2. In the case of all PROGRAMS, within 75 days after the end of each PROGRAM'S fiscal year, all information necessary for the preparation of the limited partners' federal income tax returns;
3. In the case of all PROGRAMS, within 120 days after the end of each PROGRAM'S fiscal year, an annual report containing: (i) AUDITED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS accompanied by an auditor's report which, for purposes of this Section only, may contain a qualified, adverse or disclaimer opinion or explanatory paragraph, (ii) a report of the activities of the PROGRAM during the period covered by the report, and (iii) where forecasts have been provided to the holders of limited partnership interests to the holders of limited partnership interests, a table comparing forecasts previously provided with the actual results during the period covered by the report. Such report shall set forth distributions to limited partners for the period covered thereby and shall separately identify distributions from: (a) CASH FLOW from operations during the period, (b) CASH FLOW from operations during a prior period which had been held as reserves, (c) proceeds from disposition of property and investments, (d) lease payments on net leases with builders and sellers, and (e) reserves from the gross proceeds of the offering originally obtained from the limited partners.

COMMENT:

See the additional reporting requirements of section V.E.1.b.

4. Where ASSESSMENTS have been made during any period covered by any report required by paragraphs 1., 2., and 3. hereof, then such report shall contain a detailed statement of such ASSESSMENTS and the application of the proceeds derived from such ASSESSMENTS.
5. Where PROGRAM INTERESTS have been purchased on a mandatory deferred payment basis, on which there remains an unpaid balance during any period covered by any report required by paragraphs 1., 2., and 3., hereof; then such report shall contain a detailed statement of the status of all MANDATORY DEFERRED PAYMENTS, actions taken by the PROGRAM in response to any defaults, and a discussion and analysis of the impact on capital requirements of the PROGRAM.

D. Access to Records. Every PARTICIPANT shall at all times have access to the records of the PROGRAM and may inspect and copy any of them. The limited partnership agreement, by-laws, or other PROGRAM agreement shall include the following provisions regarding access to the list of PARTICIPANTS:

1. An alphabetical list of the names, addresses, and business telephone numbers of the PARTICIPANTS of the PROGRAM along with the number of PROGRAM INTERESTS held by each of them (the "PARTICIPANT List") shall be maintained as a part of the books and records of the PROGRAM and shall be available for inspection by any PARTICIPANTS or its designated agent at the home office of the PROGRAM upon the request of the PARTICIPANT;

2. The PARTICIPANT List shall be updated at least quarterly to reflect changes in the information contained therein;

3. A copy of the PARTICIPANT List shall be mailed to any PARTICIPANT requesting the PARTICIPANT List within ten days of the request. The copy of the PARTICIPANT List shall be printed in alphabetical order, on white paper, and in a readily readable type size (in no event smaller than 10-point type). A reasonable charge for copy work may be charged by the PROGRAM;

4. The purposes for which a PARTICIPANT may request a copy of the PARTICIPANT List include, without limitation, matters relating to PARTICIPANTS' voting rights under the PROGRAM agreement, and the exercise of PARTICIPANTS' rights under federal proxy laws; and

5. If the SPONSOR of the PROGRAM neglects or refuses to exhibit, produce, or mail a copy of the PARTICIPANT List as requested, the SPONSOR be liable to any PARTICIPANT requesting the list for the costs, including attorneys' fees, incurred by that PARTICIPANT for compelling the production of the PARTICIPANT List, and for actual damages suffered by any PARTICIPANT by reason of such refusal or neglect. It shall be a defense that the actual purpose and reason for the requests for inspection or for a copy of the PARTICIPANT List is to secure such list of PARTICIPANTS or other information for the purpose of selling such list or copies thereof, or of using the same for a commercial purpose other than in the interest of the applicant as a PARTICIPANT relative to the affairs of the PROGRAM. The SPONSOR may require the PARTICIPANT requesting the PARTICIPANT List to represent that the list is not requested for a commercial purpose unrelated to the PARTICIPANT'S interest in the PROGRAM. The remedies provided hereunder to PARTICIPANTS requesting copies of the PARTICIPANT List are in addition to, and shall not in any way limit, other remedies available to PARTICIPANTS under federal law, or the laws of any state.

E. Admission of PARTICIPANTS. Admission of PARTICIPANTS to the PROGRAM shall be subject to the following:

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

1. Admission of original PARTICIPANTS. Upon the original sale of partnership units by the PROGRAM, the purchasers should be admitted as limited partners not later than 15 days after the release from impound of the purchaser's funds to the PROGRAM, and thereafter purchasers should be admitted into the PROGRAM not later than the last day of the calendar month following the date their subscription was accepted by the PROGRAM. Subscriptions shall be accepted or rejected by the PROGRAM within 30 days of their receipt; if rejected, all funds should be returned to the subscriber within ten (10) business days.

2. Admission of substituted limited partners and recognition of assignees. The PROGRAM shall amend the certificates of limited partnership at least once each calendar quarter to effect the substitution of substituted PARTICIPANTS, although the SPONSOR may elect to do so more frequently.

In the case of assignments, where the assignee does not become a substituted limited partner, the PROGRAM shall recognize the assignment not later than the last day of the calendar month following receipt of notice of assignment and required documentation.

3. Except where deemed inappropriate by the ADMINISTRATOR, PERSONS holding PROGRAM INTERESTS by assignment from entities holding limited partnership interests in a PROGRAM for the purpose of assigning all or a portion of such interests to PERSONS investing in such PROGRAM (hereinafter the "Assignor") shall be expressly granted the same rights as if they were limited partners except as prohibited by applicable local law, including but not limited to, the rights enumerated under Article VII of this Statement of Policy Regarding Real Estate Programs.

The assignment agreement and PROSPECTUS shall provide that the Assignor's management shall have fiduciary responsibility for the safekeeping and use of all funds and assets of the assignees, whether or not in the Assignor management's possession or control, and that the management of the Assignor shall not employ, or permit another to employ such funds or assets in any manner except for the exclusive benefit of the assignees. In addition, the agreement shall not permit the assignees to contract away the fiduciary duty owed to the assignees by the Assignor's management under the common law of agency.

F. Redemption of PROGRAM INTERESTS. Ordinarily, the PROGRAM and the SPONSOR may not be mandatorily obligated to redeem or repurchase any of its PROGRAM INTERESTS, although the PROGRAM and the SPONSOR may not be precluded from purchasing such outstanding interests if such purchase does not impair the capital or the operation of the PROGRAM. Notwithstanding the foregoing, a real estate PROGRAM may provide for mandatory redemption rights under the following necessitous circumstances:

1. death or legal incapacity of the owner, or
2. a substantial reduction in the owner's NET WORTH or income provided that: (i) the PROGRAM has sufficient cash to make the purchase, (ii) the purchase will not be in violation of applicable legal requirements, and (iii) not more than 15% of the outstanding units are purchased in any year. Where the purchase price is not mutually agreed upon, the matter shall be submitted to arbitration.

G. Transferability of PROGRAM INTERESTS. Restrictions on assignment of PROGRAM INTERESTS or on the substitution of a limited partner are generally disfavored and such restrictions will be allowed only if (i) they comply with the safe harbor provisions of Internal Revenue Service Notice 88-75 (or other safe harbors adopted by the Internal Revenue Service that protect against treatment as a publicly traded partnership) or (ii) they are intended to preserve the tax status of the partnership or the characterization or treatment of income or loss. In the case of (ii), any restriction must be affirmatively supported by an opinion of counsel. The PROGRAM agreement shall require the SPONSOR to eliminate or modify any restriction on substitution or assignment at such time as the restriction is no longer necessary.

H. ASSESSMENTS and Defaults.

1. ASSESSMENTS. ASSESSMENTS will not be allowed for NON-SPECIFIED PROGRAMS. In the case of SPECIFIED PROGRAMS, ASSESSMENTS shall be permitted only when specific circumstances demonstrate a need. If the anticipated CASH FLOW from property (after payment of debt service and all operating expenses) is not sufficient to pay taxes and/or special ASSESSMENTS imposed by governmental or quasi-government units, the PROGRAM agreement may include a provision for assessability to meet such deficiencies. Assessability must be limited to the foregoing obligations, and all amounts derived from such ASSESSMENTS must be applied only to satisfaction of said obligations.

2. Defaults on ASSESSMENTS. In the event of a default in the payment of ASSESSMENTS by a PARTICIPANT his interests shall not be subject to forfeiture, but may be subject to a reasonable penalty for failure to meet his commitment. Provided that the arrangements are fair, this may take the form of reducing his proportionate interest in the PROGRAM, subordinating his interest to that of nondefaulting partners, a forced sale complying with applicable procedures for notice and sale, the lending of the amount necessary to meet his commitment by the other PARTICIPANTS or a fixing of the value of his interest by independent appraisal or other suitable formula with provision for a delayed payment to him for his interest not beyond a reasonable period, but a debt security issued for such interest should not have a claim prior to that of the other investors in the event of liquidation.

COMMENT:

A limited partner will be reinstated to his full status as a limited partner upon payment of the delinquent ASSESSMENT with interest at the maximum rate allowed by law, within 30 days of the date of default. Default would be the failure to pay the ASSESSMENT within 30 days of the date of notice requesting the ASSESSMENT.

I. Dividend Reinvestment Plans. A PROGRAM may offer participants the opportunity to elect to have cash distributions reinvested in the PROGRAM or subsequent programs if the following conditions are met:

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

1. The PROGRAM and subsequent programs in which the participants reinvest are registered or exempted under the state's blue sky laws.

2. Counsel for the PROGRAM submits an opinion that the pooling of the funds for reinvestment is not in itself a security.

3. The subsequent program has substantially identical investment objectives as the original PROGRAM.

4. The participants are free to elect or revoke reinvestment within a reasonable time and such right is fully disclosed in the offering documents.

5. Prior to each reinvestment the participants receive a current updated disclosure document which contains at a minimum the following information:

a. The minimum investment amount.

b. The type or source of proceeds (e.g. cash distributions from operations or the sale or disposition of properties) which may be reinvested.

c. The tax consequences of the reinvestment to the participants.

6. Counsel for the PROGRAM submits an opinion that different consideration paid on reinvestment is not in violation of the state law (the difference arises when one participant agrees to payment of commission to the broker-dealer and another participant does not agree to payment of commission).

7. The broker-dealer or the issuer assumes responsibility for blue sky compliance and performance of due diligence responsibilities and has contacted the participants to ascertain whether the participants continue to meet the state's suitability standard for participation in each reinvestment.

8. If a broker-dealer is involved it shall obtain in writing an agreement from the client by which the client agrees to the payment of compensation to the broker-dealer in connection with individual reinvestment.

J. Within 60 days after the end of each quarter during which there have been real property acquisitions, a "Special Report" (which may be part of the quarterly report) shall be sent to all PARTICIPANTS until the proceeds of the offering are committed or returned to the investors. The report shall contain the following information:

1. the location and a description of the general character of all materially important real properties acquired or presently intended to be acquired by or leased to the program, during the quarter.
2. the present or proposed use of such properties and their suitability and adequacy for such use.
3. the terms of any material lease affecting the property.
4. the proposed method of financing, including estimated down payment, leverage ratio, prepaid interest, balloon payment(s), prepayment penalties, due-on-sale or encumbrance clauses and possible adverse effects thereof and similar details of the proposed financing plan, and
5. a statement that title insurance and any required construction, permanent or other financing and performance bonds or other assurances with respect to builders have been or will be obtained on all properties acquired.

COMMENT:

When a PROGRAM is making or investing in mortgage loans then information should be included in these reports not only about the terms and present status of the loan but also such information reasonably available about the underlying property which could influence the value of the loan.

K. Arbitration of Disputes. Except as permitted in Section II.F., no provision requiring the mandatory arbitration of disputes between the PARTICIPANT and the SPONSOR or the PROGRAM is permitted. Nothing contained herein shall apply to preexisting contracts between broker-dealers and PARTICIPANTS.

VIII. DISCLOSURE AND MARKETING REQUIREMENTS.

A. Sales Promotional Efforts.

1. Sales Literature. Sales literature, sales presentations (including prepared presentations to prospective investors at group meetings) and advertising used in the offer or sale of partnership interests shall conform in all applicable respects to requirements of filing, disclosure and adequacy currently imposed on sales literature, sales presentations and advertising used in the sale of corporate securities.

2. Group Meetings. All advertisements of and oral or written invitations to "seminars" or other group meetings at which PROGRAM INTERESTS are to be described, offered or sold shall clearly indicate that the purpose of such meeting is to offer such PROGRAM INTERESTS for sale, the minimum purchase price thereof, and the name of the SPONSOR, underwriter or selling agent. No cash, merchandise or other item of value shall be offered as an inducement to any prospective PARTICIPANTS to attend any such meeting. In connection with the offer or sale of PROGRAM INTERESTS, no general offer shall be made of "free" or "bargain price" trips to visit property in which the PROGRAM or proposed PROGRAM has invested or intends to invest.

All written or prepared audio-visual presentations (including scripts prepared in advance for oral presentations) to be made at such meetings must be submitted in advance to the ADMINISTRATOR not less than three business days prior to the first use thereof. The foregoing paragraphs 1. and 2. shall not apply to meetings consisting only of representatives of securities broker-dealers.

B. Contents of PROSPECTUS. The PROSPECTUS shall meet the requirements of Guide 5 of the Securities and Exchange Commission. The use of proceeds tabular summary required by Guide 5 shall include a separate line item for estimated ACQUISITION EXPENSES to be incurred by the PROGRAM. All of the information required to be set forth in the use of proceeds tabular summary by Guide 5 shall also be provided for estimated ACQUISITION EXPENSES, including an estimate of ACQUISITION EXPENSES to be paid to the SPONSOR. The description of the method for the allocation of the acquisition of properties by two or more programs of the same sponsor shall meet the requirements of Section VI.E. The PROSPECTUS shall contain a full description of the terms, consequences, risks to investors and the PROGRAM of any MANDATORY DEFERRED PAYMENTS. The ADMINISTRATOR may require additional disclosure if, in the ADMINISTRATOR'S opinion, specific facts concerning the offering require it.

COMMENT:

Where the ADMINISTRATOR deems it appropriate, offering materials may be required to comment on the ability of investors to rely on tax benefits and cash flow from the PROGRAM to satisfy future obligations on MANDATORY DEFERRED PAYMENTS, the inappropriateness of treating such obligations as options or warrants, possible liability to third-party creditors of the PROGRAM as a result of such unpaid obligations, and/or possible tax consequences of the use of such payment methods.

C. Forecasts.

1. Use of Forecasts. The presentation of predicted future results of operations of real estate PROGRAMS shall be permitted but not required for specified property PROGRAMS investing primarily in improved property and shall be prohibited for NON-SPECIFIED PROPERTY PROGRAMS or specified property PROGRAMS investing primarily in unimproved land. The covers of the PROSPECTUS must contain in bold face language one of the following statements:

a. for SPECIFIED PROPERTY PROGRAMS:

FORECASTS ARE CONTAINED IN THIS PROSPECTUS (OFFERING CIRCULAR). ANY PREDICTIONS AND REPRESENTATIONS, WRITTEN OR ORAL, WHICH DO NOT CONFORM TO THOSE CONTAINED IN THE PROSPECTUS (OFFERING CIRCULAR) SHALL NOT BE PERMITTED.

b. for NON-SPECIFIED PROPERTY and unimproved land programs:

THE USE OF FORECASTS IN THIS OFFERING IS PROHIBITED. ANY REPRESENTATIONS TO THE CONTRARY AND ANY PREDICTIONS, WRITTEN OR ORAL, AS TO THE AMOUNT OR CERTAINTY OF ANY PRESENT OR FUTURE CASH BENEFIT OR TAX CONSEQUENCE WHICH MAY FLOW FROM AN INVESTMENT IN THIS PROGRAM IS NOT PERMITTED.

2. Presentation of Forecasts. Forecasts for specified property PROGRAMS shall be included in the PROSPECTUS or sales material of the PROGRAM only if they comply with the following requirements:

a. General. Forecasts shall be realistic in their predictions and shall clearly identify the assumptions made with respect to all material features of the presentation. Forecasts shall be examined by an independent certified public accountant in accordance with the Statement on Standards for Accountants' Services on Prospective Financial Information and the Guide for Prospective Financial Statements as promulgated by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. The accountant's examination report shall be included in the PROSPECTUS. No forecasts shall be permitted in any sales literature which does not appear in the PROSPECTUS. If any forecasts are included in the sales literature, all forecasts must be presented.

COMMENT:

If predicted future results of operations are used, they shall be prepared in the form of a forecast by an expert using standard criteria and format.

b. Material Information. Forecasts shall include all the following information:

(i) Annual predicted revenue by source; including the occupancy rate used in predicting rental revenue;

(ii) Annual predicted expenses;

(iii) Mortgage obligation--annual payments for principal and interest, points and financing fees, shown as dollars, not percentages;

(iv) The required occupancy rate in order to meet debt service and all expenses;

(v) Predicted annual CASH FLOW; stating assumed occupancy rate;

(vi) Predicted annual depreciation and amortization with full description of methods to be used;

(vii) Predicted annual taxable income or loss and a simplified explanation of the tax treatment of such results; assumed tax brackets may not be used;

(viii) Predicted construction costs--including disclosure regarding contracts;

(ix) Accounting policies--e.g., with respect to points, financing costs and depreciation.

c. Presentation.

(i) Caveat. Forecasts shall prominently display a statement to the effect that they represent a mere prediction of future events based on assumptions which may or may not occur and may not be relied upon to indicate the actual results which will be obtained.

(ii) Additional Guidelines. Explanatory notes describing assumptions made and referring to risk factors should be integrated with tabular and numerical information.

(iii) Sale-leasebacks. When a sale-leaseback is employed, the statement that the seller is assuming the operating risk and consequently may have charged a higher price for the property must be included.

d. Additional Disclosures and Limitations.

(i) Forecasts shall be for a period at least equivalent to the anticipated holding period for the property, or 10 years, whichever is shorter, and project a resale occurrence, including depreciation recapture, if applicable. The forecasted resale price must be reasonable.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

(ii) Adequate disclosure shall be made of the changing economic effects upon the limited partners resulting principally from federal income tax consequences over the life of the partnership property, e.g., substantial tax losses in early years followed by [an] increasing amount of taxable income in later years.

(iii) Forecasts shall disclose all possible undesirable tax consequences of an early sale of the PROGRAM property (such as, depreciation recapture or the failure to sell the property at a price which would return sufficient cash to meet resulting tax liabilities of the PARTICIPANTS). (iv) In computing the return to investors, no appreciation, so called "equity buildup", or any other benefits from unrealized gains or value shall be shown or included.

3. Unimproved Land.--Forecasts shall not be allowed for unimproved land. Instead, a table of deferred payments specifying the various holding costs, i.e., interest, taxes, and insurance shall be inserted. However, where the PROGRAM intends to develop and sell the land as its primary business, a detailed CASH FLOW statement showing the timing of expenditures and anticipated revenues shall be required. Additionally, the consequences of a delayed selling PROGRAM shall be shown.

4. The PROSPECTUS and sales material shall not include a quantitative estimate of a PROGRAM's anticipated economic performance or anticipated return to PARTICIPANTS (in the form of distributable funds or tax benefits), except as permitted under this Section VIII.C.

COMMENT:

Quantitative estimates of returns are permitted when they are consistent with a financial forecast that has been examined by an independent certified public accountant and the forecast is included in the PROSPECTUS.

IN SPECIFIED PROPERTY PROGRAMS formed to generate tax credits, quantitative statements of tax credit objectives may be included in the PROSPECTUS if they are accompanied by adequate disclosure concerning the risks involved, the limited utility of the tax credits to investors (including appropriate investment suitability), and the analytical basis supporting such statements.

An ADMINISTRATOR may require documentation supporting the reasonableness of any quantitative statements of tax credit objectives.

IX. MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.

A. Deferred Payments. Deferred payments or similar arrangements on account of the purchase price of PROGRAM INTERESTS shall not be allowed except as set forth below:

1. MANDATORY DEFERRED PAYMENTS may be allowed in the case of SPECIFIED PROPERTY PROGRAMS to the extent such payments bear a reasonable and demonstrable relationship to the capital needs and objectives of the PROGRAM as described in the presentation of the business development plan in the investor disclosure document, but in any event such arrangements shall be subject to the following conditions:

a. A minimum of 50% of the purchase price of the PROGRAM INTERESTS must be paid by the investor at the time of sale, with the remainder to be paid within three years of the earlier of the completion of the offering or one year following the effective date of the offering or such shorter period as the ADMINISTRATOR, under the circumstances, deems appropriate.

b. MANDATORY DEFERRED PAYMENTS shall be evidenced by a promissory note of the investor. Such notes shall be with recourse, shall not be negotiable and shall be assignable only subject to defenses of the maker. Such notes shall not contain a provision authorizing a confession of judgment. In any event, the notes shall provide for venue in the jurisdiction of the investor.

c. The PROGRAM shall not sell or assign the MANDATORY DEFERRED PAYMENT notes at a discount.

d. Selling commissions for PROGRAM INTERESTS sold on a mandatory deferred payment basis are payable pro rata only from cash payments made by the PARTICIPANT.

e. In the event of default in the payment of MANDATORY DEFERRED PAYMENTS by a PARTICIPANT, the PARTICIPANT'S interest may be subject to a reasonable reduction as set forth in the PROSPECTUS and acceptable to the ADMINISTRATOR. Responses to defaults should be designed to protect the capital requirements of the PROGRAM and the best interests of the non-defaulting PARTICIPANTS while being fair to the defaulting PARTICIPANT.

f. The PROGRAM may take a security interest in the PARTICIPANT'S PROGRAM INTERESTS in the amount of the unpaid portion of the note provided that proceedings to enforce the security interest may not be commenced earlier than 30 days after default and notice of intent to foreclose on the security interest. Security interests on PROGRAM INTERESTS that have been fully paid up shall be dissolved promptly.

g. Unless MANDATORY DEFERRED PAYMENTS are guaranteed by the SPONSOR or by a surety bond or other arrangement satisfactory to the ADMINISTRATOR at the start of the offering, the SPONSOR shall not be allowed to purchase PROGRAM INTERESTS recovered as a result of default in MANDATORY DEFERRED PAYMENTS unless, after recovery, such PROGRAM INTERESTS have first been offered to the non-defaulting PARTICIPANTS.

h. Any certificates evidencing PROGRAM INTERESTS purchased on a mandatory deferred payment basis shall so indicate.

i. Upon receipt of any request to assign or transfer PROGRAM INTERESTS purchased on mandatory deferred payment basis and having an unpaid balance, the SPONSOR, before the assignment or transfer, at its own cost, shall notify the proposed assignee/transferee of the material terms of the mandatory deferred payment obligation, including: the schedule of payments, the status of payments, the status of any encumbrance held by the PROGRAM on the PROGRAM INTEREST; the terms of default, the consequences thereof, and the terms of curing the default. In lieu of such notification the SPONSOR may accept a written statement containing such information and signed by the assignee/transferee.

j. A default would be the failure to make a scheduled payment on the mandatory deferred payment obligation note before 30 days after its due date. A PARTICIPANT shall be allowed to cure a default and avoid any reduction in his interest in the PROGRAM if within a minimum of 30 days from default and notice thereof the PARTICIPANT makes the delinquent payment with interest at the rate set forth in the PROSPECTUS for the curing of defaulted payments.

COMMENT:

Default provisions should have as a priority the integrity of the PROGRAM'S capital. Depending on the circumstances, examples of arrangements which may be appropriate include: 1) a reduction in the PARTICIPANT'S percentage interest in PROGRAM revenues based on the ratio of the cost to the PROGRAM of his unpaid mandatory deferred payment obligation to all CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS; 2) a reallocation of the defaulting PARTICIPANT'S right to receive revenues from the PROGRAM and application of such revenues to make up the cost to the PROGRAM of his unpaid mandatory deferred payment obligations; 3) a reallocation of the defaulting PARTICIPANTS right to receive revenues from the PROGRAM to those nondefaulting PARTICIPANTS who have voluntarily paid the defaulting PARTICIPANT'S obligation until such time as such non-defaulting PARTICIPANTS have recovered from this reallocation 200% of the proportionate amount of the defaulted payment which they forwarded; 4) a forced sale of the PROGRAM INTEREST complying with applicable procedures for notice and sale; 5) a delayed buy-out of the defaulting PARTICIPANT'S interest; or 6) a foreclosure on the security interest held by the PROGRAM. "Cost to the PROGRAM" shall be defined in the PROSPECTUS and may include the reasonable costs to the PROGRAM of collecting unpaid installments, reselling the interests, and/or additional financing costs caused by the default.

2. MANDATORY DEFERRED PAYMENTS shall not be allowed in the case of NON-SPECIFIED PROPERTY PROGRAMS except where the SPONSOR is able to satisfy the ADMINISTRATOR that the MANDATORY DEFERRED PAYMENTS bear a reasonable and demonstrable relationship to the capital needs and objectives of the PROGRAM as described in the business development plan in the investor disclosure document. In any event, such arrangements shall be subject to the following conditions:

a. A minimum of 50% of the purchase price of the PROGRAM INTERESTS must be paid by the investor at the time of sale, with the remainder to be paid within two years of the earlier of the completion of the offering or one year following the effective date of the offering or such shorter period as the ADMINISTRATOR, under the circumstances, deems appropriate.

b. The PROGRAM shall otherwise comply with the provisions of IX.A.1.b. through 3.

COMMENT:

A plan that merely states that money will be invested as installments are received or at specified intervals will not be considered a sufficient business development plan.

3. Warrants or options (or their equivalents) to purchase PROGRAM INTERESTS will be allowed only at the discretion of the ADMINISTRATOR but, in any event, must be identified as such and be accompanied with a clear statement of their nature and effect. PROGRAM INTERESTS acquired by their exercise may not differ from the stated terms of PROGRAM INTERESTS otherwise acquired. Any penalty for non-exercise will ordinarily be viewed with disfavor.

B. Reserves. Provision should be made for adequate reserves in the future by retention of a reasonable percentage of proceeds from the offering and regular receipts for normal repairs, replacements and contingencies. Normally, not less than 3% of the offering proceeds will be considered adequate. However, in PROGRAMS that invest in or make mortgage loans, reserves in an amount greater than 1% of the offering proceeds will be considered adequate.

C. Reinvestment of CASH FLOW (excluding proceeds resulting from a disposition or refinancing of property) shall not be allowed. The partnership agreement and the PROSPECTUS shall set forth that reinvestment of proceeds resulting from a disposition or refinancing will not take place unless sufficient cash will be distributed to pay any state or federal income tax (assuming investors are in a specified tax bracket) created by the disposition or refinancing of property. Such a prohibition must be contained in the PROSPECTUS.

D. Financial Information Required on Application. In any offering of interests by a PROGRAM, the PROGRAM shall provide as an exhibit to the application the following financial information.

COMMENT:

In the case of PROGRAMS which invest in or make mortgage loans any reinvestment must be structured to terminate when the PROGRAM terminates.

1. Financial Statements of Program. The PROSPECTUS shall include AUDITED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS of the PROGRAM for each of the last three fiscal years (or for the life of the PROGRAM, if less), provided that the only audited balance sheet that shall be required shall be as of the end of the most recent fiscal year of the PROGRAM. When a PROGRAM has operated less than one fiscal year, AUDITED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS are not required unless requested by the ADMINISTRATOR.

2. Balance Sheet of Corporate Sponsor. AUDITED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS consisting only of an audited balance sheet for each corporate SPONSOR as of the end of the SPONSOR's most recent fiscal year shall be included in the PROSPECTUS.

3. Other SPONSORS. A balance sheet for each noncorporate SPONSOR (including individual partners or individual joint ventures of a SPONSOR) as of a date not more than one hundred thirtyfive days prior to the date of filing the application shall be submitted. Such balance sheet shall be prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and reviewed and reported upon by an independent certified public accountant under the review standards set forth by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, and shall be signed and sworn to by such SPONSOR. A representation of the amount of such NET WORTH must be included in the PROSPECTUS, or in the alternative, a representation that such SPONSOR meets the NET WORTH requirements of Section II.B. shall be so included.

COMMENT:

It is not intended that financial statements of AFFILIATES of the SPONSOR be required to be disclosed unless appropriate in order to comply with the NET WORTH requirements of Section II.B.

4. Interim Financial Information. Where an audited balance sheet required by this Section IX.D. is as of a date more than 90 days prior to the date of filing, an unaudited balance sheet as of a date not more than 90 days prior to the date of filing shall also be provided. Where the application is made in coordination with a Registration Statement submitted to the Securities and Exchange Commission pursuant to the Securities Act of 1933, an interim unaudited balance sheet as of a date not more than one hundred thirtyfive days prior to the date of filing shall be provided only if the audited balance sheet is as of a date more than 134 days prior to the date of filing. Interim unaudited statements of income, partners' equity, and cash flows shall also be provided with the unaudited balance sheet in instances where such statements are required by this Section IX.D. as part of the AUDITED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS for the last fiscal year. The ADMINISTRATOR may require the interim unaudited information to be included in the Prospectus when the audited information required by this Section must be included.

5. Filing of Other Statements. The ADMINISTRATOR may permit the omission of one or more of the statements required under this Section and the filing (in substitution thereof) of appropriate statements verifying financial information having comparable relevance to an investor in determining whether to invest in the PROGRAM. Such substitution will only be allowed where the ADMINISTRATOR finds this would be consistent with the protection of investors.

E. Opinions of Counsel. The application for qualification and registration shall contain a favorable ruling from the Internal Revenue Service or an opinion of independent counsel to the effect that the issuer will be taxed as a "partnership" and not as an "association" for federal income tax purposes. An opinion of counsel shall be in form and substance satisfactory to the ADMINISTRATOR and shall be unqualified except to the extent permitted by the ADMINISTRATOR. However, an opinion of counsel may be based on reasonable assumptions, such as:

(1) facts or proposed operations as set forth in the offering circular or PROSPECTUS and organizational documents; (2) the absence of future changes in applicable laws; (3) the securities offered are paid for; (4) compliance with certain procedures such as the execution and delivery of certain documents and the filing of a certificate of limited partnership or an amended certificate; and (5) the continued maintenance of or compliance with certain financial, ownership, or other requirements by the issuer or SPONSOR. The ADMINISTRATOR may request from counsel as supplemental information such supporting legal memoranda and an analysis as he shall deem appropriate under the circumstances. To the extent the opinion of counsel or Internal Revenue Service ruling is based on the maintenance of or compliance with certain requirements or conditions by the issuer or SPONSOR the offering circular or PROSPECTUS shall contain representations that such requirements or conditions will be met and the partnership agreement shall, to the extent practicable, contain provisions requiring such compliance.

There shall be included also an opinion of independent counsel to the effect that the securities being offered are duly authorized or created and validly issued interests in the issuer, and that the liability of the public investors will be limited to their respective total agreed upon investment in the issuer.

The ADMINISTRATOR may request an opinion of counsel concerning tax aspects when this appears necessary for the protection of investors.

F. Provisions of the Partnership Agreement. The requirements and/or provisions of appropriate portions of the following sections shall be included in the partnership agreement: I.B.; II.C.; II.D.; II.E.; II.F.; IV.C.; IV.D.; IV.E.; IV.F.; IV.G.; IV.H.; IV.I.; V.A.; V.B.; V.C.; V.D.; V.E.; V.F.; V.G.; V.H.; V.I.; V.K.; V.L.; V.M.; V.N.; VI.C.; VI.D.; VII.A.; VII.B.; VII.C.; VII.D.; VII.E.; VII.F.; VII.H.; VII.J.; VII.K.; IX.A.; IX.B.; and IX.C.

NOTE:

The cross-reference sheet will be amended to include Sections I.B.4., I.B.11. and I.B.18. if Section IX.F. is amended to include Section I.B.

[G. Omitted in the 1986 amendment.--CCH]

H. General Instructions--NASAA Real Estate Guidelines.

1. The Cross Reference Sheet should be completed with the Application for Registration.

2. Sections which are not applicable should be noted as such.

3. Provisions of the program which vary from the Guidelines must be explained by footnote; for example, if the program uses a defined term which is different from the Guidelines definition, the variance must be explained. Footnotes should be numbered sequentially in the column designated Footnotes and should be presented on a rider identified as Footnotes with each Footnote on the rider numerically corresponding to the Footnote identified on the Cross Reference Sheet.

4. A section is provided at the bottom of each page of the Cross Reference Sheet for additional or supplemental

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

Cross References. Lines are provided in the event additional Cross References are needed with respect to subsections of the Guidelines not specifically identified on the top of the page, or in the event there were insufficient lines to present all relevant cross references with respect to an item appearing on that page.

5. The last page of the Cross Reference Sheet should be executed by preparer.

6. These General Instructions should be removed before filing with the State Administrator.

Real Estate Investment Subcommittee of the NASAA Merit Regulation Committee adopted on April 23, 1983

ADVISORY I

[In General] The NASAA Real Estate Investment Subcommittee ("Subcommittee") at its meeting of May 12, 1982, has adopted a procedure whereby the Subcommittee will from time to time issue interpretations of the NASAA Real Estate Guidelines ("Guidelines"). As with the Guidelines themselves, and even to a greater degree with respect to these interpretations, each state administrator will retain the discretion with respect to the interpretations and implementation of the Guidelines. However, for those administrators who are seeking to increase the degree of uniformity of interpretations of the Guidelines and/or seeking additional guidance with respect to the interpretation of the Guidelines, the Subcommittee has prepared the following interpretations:

INTERPRETATION 1 When a sponsor's promotional interest in liquidation proceeds is subordinated to a higher return to the limited partners than is specified under Sections IV.E.1 and IV.E.2 b. of the Guidelines, the compensation permitted the sponsors by this section or other sections of the Guidelines should not be increased as a result of this type of arrangement unless specifically justified under Section I.A.2.

INTERPRETATION 2 When a sponsor takes an increased promotional interest pursuant to Section IV.C.3 of the Guidelines, but subordinates the payment of such fees to a higher return to the investors than is specified under such section, the compensation permitted sponsors by this section or other sections of the Guidelines should not be increased as a result of this type of arrangement unless specifically justified under Section I.A.2.

INTERPRETATION 3

When a sponsor takes a share of cash distributions from operations under Section IV.E.2 a. of the Guidelines, but subordinates this interest to a specified return to the investors (which is not required by the Guidelines), the compensation permitted sponsors by this section or other sections of the Guidelines should not be increased as a result of this type of arrangement unless specifically justified under Section I.A.2.

COMMENT ON INTERPRETATIONS 1 THROUGH 3 ABOVE. The Subcommittee believes that the Guidelines create a substantial opportunity for the sponsor to exchange one form of compensation for another form of compensation. For example, there is substantial latitude as to the "mix" in the front-end fees permitted, and the front-end fees can be deferred entitling the sponsor to a larger liquidation fee. In addition, the maximum compensation permitted to sponsors under the Guidelines is liberal and sponsors are permitted and in fact do, in many instances, package programs with sponsors' compensation well below the maximum permitted by the Guidelines. Therefore, in general, the Subcommittee does not believe that it is necessary or appropriate to create an additional standard for modification of the compensation based upon the sponsor increasing subordination beyond that specified in Sections IV.E.1, IV.E.2, and IV.C.3 of the Guidelines. The fact that a sponsor may increase the subordination of his share of cash distributions could be meaningful only when an accurate forecast of annual cash distributions from operations and net proceeds from liquidation could be forecasted, and thus show the "real trade-off" involved in a particular arrangement. Nevertheless, even if a very reliable forecast of the future timing and amount of proceeds from operations and the sale of the property could be made, the Subcommittee believes that the sponsor's willingness to subject its return to a higher subordination than is required under the Guidelines should be considered a response to the pressures of the competitive marketplace and not a trade-off in compensation entitling the sponsor to a larger share somewhere else.

INTERPRETATION 4

When applying the suitability standards under Section III.B.4. of the Guidelines to a participant which is an IRA or Keogh plan, the participant for the purposes of suitability is the beneficiary of the IRA or Keogh plan.

COMMENT ON INTERPRETATION 4. Suitability standards for investors are imposed because of factors such as the limited transferability, relative lack of liquidity, degree of risk, and specific tax orientation of a real estate program. When an investment in a real estate program is made through an IRA or Keogh plan the investor or participant is considered to be the beneficiary. The beneficiary is the real investor in interest. The beneficiary is the person who supplies the funds to purchase the partnership interest and is the person at risk on the selection and performance of the investment. In the case of self-directed plans or accounts, the beneficiary makes the investment decision. In a fiduciary account the ability to bear the loss as reflected by the beneficiary's financial status is more relevant to the application of a suitability standard than the trustee's financial status or ability to understand the investment risks to the beneficiary.

INTERPRETATION 5

Section II.E. of the Guidelines prohibits the sponsor from employing or permitting another to employ program funds and assets in any manner except for the exclusive benefit of the program. This section would disallow deposits of funds with affiliated financial institutions, such as banks, savings and loans, or money market funds, and would also prohibit "compensating balance" arrangements for the sponsor's benefit. The administrator may allow certain deposits with affiliated institutions if it can be demonstrated that any conflict of interest between the early investment of program funds and the financial benefits to the affiliated institution could be adequately resolved:

1. Deposits in affiliated money market funds, savings and loans, and banks may be allowed if such deposits from the program do not exceed five percent of all funds held by such money entity. Additionally, any fees, including commissions, advisory fees, or other fees shall not be paid from PROGRAM funds.

2. Compensating balance arrangements for the benefit of other than the program shall not be allowed.

3. The prospectus shall contain separately numbered paragraphs in the Conflicts of Interest section which would discuss any conflicts of interest, including the possible conflict in the timing of deposits and withdrawals and the permanent investment of program funds in properties. Such section shall also contain an explicit statement that the sponsor will abide by its obligation not to use program funds except for the exclusive benefit of the program.

4. Funds deposited in affiliated banks, savings and loans, or money market funds shall earn interest and/or dividends at a rate competitive with those available from similar independent depositories.

INTERPRETATION 6 When applying the limitation imposed by Subsection 1 and 2 of Section V.M. of the Guidelines, the phrase "... CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS to be raised by the PROGRAM" means the actual amount raised in the offering.

COMMENT ON INTERPRETATION 6. The limitations contained in Subsection 1 and 2 are designed to assure diversification in a real estate program and are based on the premise that diversification lessens the investor's risk. They require a program to invest in at least five properties with five different lenders or borrowers in order to limit to a reasonable degree the risk to the program.

Industry members have pointed out some practical problems in situations where a program does not sell completely or where the sales period is prolonged. Good investment opportunities may present themselves before the final amount of the offering is known and the limitations can be determined. It is impossible for the program to take advantage of these opportunities without the risks of finding that the limitations have been exceeded when sales are completed.

The Subcommittee believes that the language of the provisions is clear and that the limiting percentages apply to the amount actually raised by the program. The Subcommittee also recognizes the problem presented and concludes that the comment following Subsection 6 indicates that the limitations need not be rigidly applied.

A compromise reached by several states appears to the Subcommittee to meet the intent of the guideline section and is suggested as a way to handle this problem. That compromise provides that (1) the limiting percentage will apply to the stated maximum amount of the offering; (2) a minimum of three properties and three lenders or borrowers will be involved; (3) the 85% of value limitation contained in Subsection 5 will be strictly applied to each property; and (4) a risk factor discussing the relationship between the number of properties invested in and the risk to the investor shall be contained in the prospectus. A consideration of higher suitability standards may also be appropriate because of the higher risk involved.

I. Introduction.

The North American Securities Administrators Association, Inc. ("NASAA") has determined that the following guidelines relating to the registration of agents allowed to sell Small Corporate Offering Registration ("SCOR") securities are consistent with public investor protection and capital formation. Nothing shall prevent the Securities Administrator from applying different standards from those contained in these guidelines.

II. Discussion.

On April 29, 1989, NASAA adopted SCOR, which represented a significant breakthrough for legitimate small businesses in search of a mechanism to raise capital from individual investors. The securities offered under SCOR may be sold through a broker-dealer that has a licensed sales force or they may be sold directly by the company. Of those SCOR offerings that have been registered throughout the United States, only 10-20% have been marketed by registered broker-dealers. The remaining issuers have attempted to sell the offering through their officers and directors or employees hired to sell the securities. Most often this is the one and only time these individuals will be selling securities.

According to a survey done by the Small Business Sales Practices Committee in late 1993, the registration requirements for agents selling SCOR securities vary. Some states require agents to take various exams and to obtain surety bonds while other states do not. The guidelines represent an effort to make the registration process more uniform among the states in order to facilitate multi-state small business offerings. The guidelines pertaining to exam requirements are only meant to apply when an officer, director or partner is required to be registered as an agent or broker-dealer in order to sell the SCOR offering.

The text of the guidelines offers alternative approaches on two issues. The first is whether to apply the guidelines to corporate directors. The second is whether to limit the exclusion from the examination requirements to those sellers who receive no sales commissions. The bracketed language in the text sets forth these alternatives.

To summarize, three considerations underlie the guidelines. First it is difficult for SCOR issuers to find broker-dealers to sell their securities. Second, SCOR issuers are not in the business of selling securities. Third, adoption of the guidelines will promote legitimate capital formation.

III. Text of guidelines.

A bona fide officer [or director] of an issuer selling securities registered under SCOR is exempt from the examination requirements for agent or broker-dealer registration as follows:

a.

A bona fide officer [or director] [who will be receiving no sales related compensation] is not required to take any examinations.

[b.A bona fide officer [or director] who will be receiving sales related compensation is required to pass only the Series 63 examination.]

Comment:

If a state decides to adopt just 1a., the introductory sentence and a. would need to be combined.

2.

(If applicable) A bona fide officer [or director] of an issuer selling securities registered under SCOR is exempt from the requirement that agents post surety bonds.

3.

Any officer [or director] who offers or sells securities registered under SCOR must provide a copy of the

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

"Consumers Guide to Small Business Investments" to all offerees at or before the time the offering document is required to be delivered.

4.

The registration of any person relying on either or both of the exemptions set forth in section 1 may be suspended or revoked if that person fails to deliver a copy of the "Consumers Guide to Small Business Investments" to any person to whom he or she offers or sells securities pursuant to the SCOR offering for which he or she is being registered.

5.

To qualify for either or both of the exemptions set forth in section 1 and 2 above, a person must submit to the Administrator an affidavit representing that he or she:

a.

Is a bona fide officer [or director] of the SCOR issuer,

b.

Will provide all persons to whom he or she offers or sells securities with a copy of "Consumers Guide to Small Investments,"

c.

(If applicable) Will not be receiving sales related compensation for the sale of the SCOR securities,

d.

Understands that the agent registration will only authorize the offer and sale of securities on behalf of the issuer of the SCOR offering to be carried out pursuant to the registration statement that has been filed with the Administrator, and

e.

Understands that failure to provide all offerees with a copy of the "Consumers Guide to Small Business" is grounds for revocation or suspension of his or her registration.

6.

For purposes of this guideline the following definitions apply:

a.

"Bona fide officer" means the president, vice president in charge of a business unit or division, the secretary, the treasurer, the chief executive officer, the chief financial officer, the chief operating officer, or an officer who performs a principal policy making function for a principal business unit or division.

ADOPTED APRIL 28, 1996

I. Introduction

I. INTRODUCTION

The North American Securities Administrators Association, Inc. ("NASAA") has determined that the following Guidelines Regarding VIATICAL INVESTMENTS ("Guidelines") are consistent with public investor protection and are in the public interest. Nothing shall prevent the ADMINISTRATOR from applying different standards from those contained in these Guidelines.

There have been questions from investors and the industry regarding VIATICAL INVESTMENTS and their treatment under the Blue Sky Securities Acts. Typically, a VIATICAL INVESTMENT involves the purchase by a VIATICAL INVESTOR of an interest in an insurance policy covering the life of an individual. The purchase may be for a whole or fractional interest in the policy. Some interests may be in a pool of policies insuring the lives of several people. The INSURED receives an amount of money less than the expected death benefit of the policy, while the VIATICAL INVESTOR in turn receives the right to some portion of the face amount of the policy upon the death of the INSURED.

It is the position of NASAA that VIATICAL INVESTMENTS, commonly known as investments in viatical, senior, or life settlement contracts, are securities and must be registered with a state securities division as required by state law. Further, those persons and/or entities selling them must be registered as required by state law.

VIATICAL INVESTMENTS, in general, may not be suitable for many investors. There are risks associated with VIATICAL INVESTMENTS that individual investors may not recognize, and which unscrupulous promoters may misrepresent or fail to disclose. Funds invested in VIATICAL INVESTMENTS are not accessible on the demand of the investor. These factors and others render this type of investment unsuitable for the financial needs and interests of the average individual investor.

The question of whether VIATICAL INVESTMENTS are properly characterized as securities is answered by reference to long-standing principles governing the interpretation of state securities laws by both the state securities administrators and the courts. Conventional analysis as set forth in S.E.C. v. W.J. Howey Co., 328 U.S. 293, 301 (1946) and its progeny results in the conclusion that VIATICAL INVESTMENTS are securities.

NASAA is mindful of the decision of the D.C. Circuit in SEC v. Life Partners, Inc., 87 F.3d 536, 543 (D.C. Cir. 1996), pet. for reh. denied, 102 F.3d 587 (D.C. Cir. 1996). NASAA does not agree with either the rationale or the outcome of this case. State securities regulators are not bound by the interpretation of federal statutes by federal courts, particularly where the rationale does not serve the prophylactic and remedial purposes of the state securities laws. Life Partners disregards the premise underlying the Howey test--that is, that the statutory definition of "security" "embodies a flexible rather than a static principle, one that is capable of adaptation to meet the countless and variable schemes devised by those who seek the use of the money of others on the promise of profits." Howey, 328 U.S. at 299.

NASAA concludes that VIATICAL INVESTMENTS, regardless of the health status or age of the insured, are securities. All persons involved in the offer and/or sale of VIATICAL INVESTMENTS should be aware of the nature and extent of the registration and antifraud provisions of state securities laws, as well as the applicability of these provisions to every offer and/or sale of a security.

A. Application

The standards contained in these Guidelines apply to the offer and sale of VIATICAL INVESTMENTS. These Guidelines do not apply to investments in a pool of life insurance policies, as those offerings are covered by existing registration guidelines. Applications not conforming to the standards contained herein shall be looked upon with disfavor. However, the ADMINISTRATOR may allow waivers or exceptions from certain standards under these Guidelines, if good cause is shown, or may require different standards based on provisions of statutes or regulations of a state.

The information outlined below is not intended to be all-inclusive and the VIATICAL ISSUER must include other information not specifically listed that would be material to a VIATICAL INVESTOR's understanding of the VIATICAL ISSUER and the VIATICAL INVESTMENT.

The following information must be included in the OFFERING CIRCULAR unless the VIATICAL ISSUER can demonstrate to the ADMINISTRATOR that a particular type of information is not applicable or material to an understanding of the VIATICAL ISSUER or the VIATICAL INVESTMENT.

The following is a model legend: In making an investment decision, you must rely on your own examination of the terms of the offering, including the merits and risks involved. These VIATICAL INVESTMENTS have not been recommended by any federal or state securities commission or regulatory authority. Furthermore, the foregoing authorities have not confirmed the accuracy or determined the adequacy of this document. Any representation to the contrary is a criminal offense. No person has been authorized to give any information or to make any representations in connection with this offering other than those contained in this OFFERING CIRCULAR, and if given or made, such information or representations must not be relied upon as having been made by the VIATICAL ISSUER. For filings with some ADMINISTRATORS, it may be necessary to add a legend to describe statutory rescission rights that are available to VIATICAL INVESTORS.

Disclose any limitations or conditions of sales to VIATICAL INVESTORS in this State, including but not limited to the suitability requirements set forth in Section III. A table of contents should follow the cover page or it may be placed on the back of the last page to outline and provide page number references for the various sections and subtitles in the OFFERING CIRCULAR.

B. SUMMARY

A summary of narrative and financial information that describes the nature of the investment and highlights the key aspects and risks of the VIATICAL INVESTMENTS, and the financial and operational characteristics of the VIATICAL ISSUER should be presented concisely in the OFFERING CIRCULAR following the cover page or risk factor section. The Summary section should include the disclosure of the VIATICAL ISSUER's proposed estimated use of proceeds, and a summary of the proposed estimated compensation and fees to be paid by or on behalf of the VIATICAL ISSUER in connection with the VIATICAL INVESTMENTS.

C. RISK FACTORS

Format and Use of Risk Factors

a.

Risk factors should immediately follow the Cover Page or the Summary. Consistent with investor protection, a comprehensive listing of the material risks to the potential VIATICAL INVESTORS in the offering should be located at the forefront of the OFFERING CIRCULAR. Potential VIATICAL INVESTORS often focus on the forepart of the document. When comparing potential investment opportunities, consistency in format of complex disclosure documents further assists the VIATICAL INVESTOR.

b.

Risk factor captions should appear in off-set or emphasized type. As a listing of the material risks of the VIATICAL INVESTMENTS, captions should stand out to the eye of the reader. Italicized, bold-faced, or underlined type assists the reader to quickly comprehend the scope and nature of the particular risk factors, and permits the reader to focus further on the risk factors of most interest to that reader. For the same reason, VIATICAL ISSUERS should avoid lengthy captions.

2.

Specific Risk Factors The VIATICAL ISSUER must describe to potential VIATICAL INVESTORS the risks of investing in the VIATICAL INVESTMENTS. Statements to the effect that little or no risk is involved in VIATICAL

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

INVESTMENTS are prohibited, and such statements will be regarded as material misrepresentations. It is important that the VIATICAL ISSUER concisely describe all of the relevant and material risks which may include, if applicable, the following:

a.

The rate of return on your investment cannot be calculated before the insured dies. The longer the insured lives, the lower the rate of return on your investment will be.

b.

No one can accurately predict the actual life expectancy of an insured. Some factors that may affect the accuracy of a prediction are: • The experience and qualifications of the PERSONs making the life expectancy prediction. • The nature of the insured's illness. • Future breakthrough treatments and cures. • If the insured has AIDS, the definition of AIDS used by the viatical company.

c.

You may have to pay money in addition to your initial investment. The insurance company will cancel the policy in which you have invested if periodic premium payments are not made to keep the policy in force. The insurance company will not pay the death benefit if the policy is not in force. It is likely that a portion of the money you invest will be set aside to pay premiums. However, if the insured lives longer than expected, you may be required to pay additional premiums to keep the policy in force.

d.

Being a beneficiary of a policy and not also an owner carries special risks. The person who buys a life insurance policy is the owner of the policy and decides who the beneficiaries of the policy will be - that is, who will receive the death benefit when the owner dies. If the owner sells that policy (now called a viator), the investors become the new beneficiaries and therefore are entitled to receive the death benefit when the insured dies. The new owner of the policy may be the investors, the viatical company, or the escrow agent. Only an owner of a policy, not a beneficiary, has the right to make premium payments directly to the insurance company so that the policy will remain in force. If the funds that have been set aside to pay premiums run out, you will be dependent on the viatical company to collect additional premium money from investors and to pay premiums promptly. If that company goes out of business or otherwise fails to collect premiums from investors, you may not be able to pay the premiums yourself if you are only a beneficiary.

e.

Term insurance policies carry special risks. A term policy is issued for a specific time period. The insurance company will not pay the death benefit if the insured outlives that time period. If you purchase a term policy, you will be dependent on the viatical company from which you purchased your viatical investment to renew the policy when the term expires.

f.

Contestable policies carry special risks. The insurance company may "contest" a policy for a two-year period after its issuance if the company finds a reason to cancel the policy. The insurance company will not pay the death benefit if: • the insured dies within the contestability period, and • the insurance company has a reason to cancel the policy. One example of a reason that an insurance company might cancel a policy is if the insured did not truthfully answer a question on the policy application. The policy may also be cancelled if the insured commits suicide within the two-year contestability period.

g.

Group policies carry special risks. A group policy insures the members of a specific group of people, usually the employees of a company. The biggest risk for someone who invests in a group policy is that the policy can be terminated by the employer or the insurance company. Although the policy may contain a provision allowing conversion to an individual policy, there may be limits or restrictions on the right to convert. Also, the insurance company may charge additional premiums once the policy is converted.

h.

Investing IRA money in a viatical settlement contract carries special risks. Internal Revenue Code section 408(a)(3) requires that "no part of trust [IRA] funds will be invested in life insurance contracts." This means that the Internal Revenue Service may not allow you the tax benefits of an IRA if you invest in a viatical settlement contract. Even if such an investment is allowed, you should carefully consider your age, the life expectancy of the insured, and the difficulty in predicting life expectancy before investing IRA funds in a viatical settlement contract. Since death benefits are not paid until the insured dies, you may encounter a problem taking annual distributions from your IRA that are mandatory beginning at age 70 1/2. If the funds are not available to take the mandatory distribution, you may be penalized by the IRS.

i.

An investment in a viatical settlement contract is not a liquid investment. The death benefit on a viatical settlement contract will not be paid until the insured dies, and there is no established secondary market for viatical investments. This means that you will probably not be able to sell your contract in an emergency to raise money for your immediate needs.

j.

Check any promises of guarantees carefully. The viatical company from which you purchase your viatical investment may provide a performance or fidelity bond, or another similar instrument, with your purchase. The purpose of these instruments is to "guarantee," or "insure," your investment. Ask exactly what is being guaranteed. Also ask the salesperson for a copy of the instrument. If the company issuing the "guarantee" does not have the necessary financial resources to make payments under the "guarantee," you will not receive any benefit from the "guarantee." You should do a background check on the company issuing the guarantee instrument. Contact the appropriate regulator to verify that the company exists, is in good standing, and is licensed to do business in the appropriate state(s). Obtain a copy of the company's most recent financial statements. Be particularly wary if the company is located in a foreign country. The terms of the contract between the company issuing the "guarantee" and the viatical company may also affect how valuable, or useful, the "guarantee" is to you. Ask for a copy of this agreement.

k.

You could lose some of the death benefit you have purchased if the insurance company that issued the life insurance policy goes out of business. Insurance companies are rated based on their financial safety and soundness. A lower rating means that the company is more likely to go out of business. Each state maintains an insurance guarantee fund for the benefit of policyholders of insurance companies that have gone out of business. The guarantee fund may impose a limit on the amount that can be recovered on each policy. Also, the payment on your viatical settlement contract would be delayed if you needed to seek funds from this guarantee fund or from the receivership of the insurance company. This delay would reduce the rate of return on your investment.

l.

Privacy laws and other factors may limit the information you receive about the insured. Federal and state privacy laws may limit the information you receive about the insured after your investment, such as the insured's current medical condition. In addition, other factors, such as the insured's unwillingness to cooperate, may limit the information you receive after your investment.

m.

You should seek legal advice to help you understand the nature of this investment, the terms and conditions of any contract you are asked to sign, and the tax consequences of your decision to invest. There are many risks and potential risks associated with an investment in a viatical settlement contract. You should be aware that there may be risks related to this type of investment in addition to those discussed above.

Section 402. Exemptions

(a)

The following securities are exempted from sections 301 and 403:

(12)

Securities meeting all of the following conditions:

(i)

The securities are:

(A)

Equity securities except options, warrants, preferred stock, subscription rights, securities convertible into equity securities or any right to subscribe to or purchase such options, warrants, convertible securities or preferred stock;

(B)

Units consisting of equity securities permitted by (A) and warrants to purchase the same equity security being offered in the unit;

(C)

Non-convertible debt securities that are rated in one of the four highest rating categories of Standard and Poor's, Moody's, Dominion Bond Rating Services or Canadian Bond Rating Services or such other rating organization which the Administrator by rule or order may designate. For purposes of this subparagraph, non-convertible debt securities means securities that cannot be converted for at least one year from the date of issuance and then only into equity shares of the issuer or its parent; or American Depositary receipt representing securities described in (A), (B) or (C).

COMMENTARY: The original draft provided on exemption for equity securities other than options, warrants, convertible securities and preferred stock (or right to subscribe to or purchase any of the foregoing) which securities may have restrictions on voting rights if disclosed in writing to the investor prior to purchase. Interim drafts did not permit a World Class Issuer to rely upon the exemption to offer and sell investment grade debt which was either non-convertible or convertible only after one year into the securities of the issuer or its parent. It would appear appropriate to include quality debt securities within the ambit of the exemption. Investment grade is defined as having a nationally recognized statistical rating organization rating the security in one of its four highest rating categories. Current financing appears to favor unit offerings consisting of shares of stock and warrants to purchase those shares. Since this is but a variation on a basic stock offering, it is permitted. These provisions are similar to those in the Multi- jurisdictional Disclosure System (MJDS).

(ii)

The issuer is not organized under the laws of the United States, or of any state, territory or possession of the United States, or of the District of Columbia or Puerto Rico.

COMMENTARY: This provision is designed to ensure the basic foreign nature of the Exemption. Domestic issuers would still have the full range of existing exemptions available to them.

(iii)

The issuer, at the time an offer or sale is made under this subsection, has been a going concern engaged in continuous business operations for the immediate past five years and during that period, has not been the subject of a proceeding relating to insolvency, bankruptcy, involuntary administration, receivership or similar proceeding. For purposes of this subparagraph, the operating history of any predecessor that represented more than 50% of the value of the assets of the issuer that otherwise would have met the conditions of this section may be used toward the five year requirement.

COMMENTARY: The provision has been part of the Exemption from the first draft and is designed to ensure the stability of the issuer.

(iv)

The issuer, at the time an offer or sale is made under this subsection, has public float of US $1 billion or more. For purposes of this subparagraph:

(A)

Public float means the market value of all outstanding equity shares owned by non-affiliates.

(B)

Equity shares means common shares, non-voting equity shares and subordinate or restricted voting equity shares, but does not include preferred shares.

(C)

An affiliate of a person is anyone who beneficially owns, directly or indirectly, or exercises control or direction over, more than 10% of the outstanding equity shares of such person.

COMMENTARY: This indicator shows the value of freely tradable securities of non-affiliates available to the public for buying and selling. Public float would have the same meaning as under MJDS which is the market value of all outstanding equity shares owned by non-affiliates. An affiliate of a person is anyone who beneficially owns, directly or indirectly, or exercises control or direction over, more than 10% of the outstanding equity shares of such person. This requirement approximates the CDN $1 billion public float requirement under the proposed Canadian National Policy.

The market value of the issuer's equity shares, at the time an offer or sale is made under this subsection, is US $3 billion or more. For purposes of this subparagraph, equity shares means common shares, non-voting equity shares and subordinate or restricted voting equity shares, but does not include preferred shares.

COMMENTARY: The Committee feels that measuring assets, by definition, usually means acceptance of the accounting practices and procedures of the country in which the company is domiciled. By assets, the world's largest companies are the major Japanese banks. Their assets, however, consist of many property loans which are non-performing or under-performing. The proposed Canadian National Policy has determined to establish its eligibility criteria on the public float of the issuer's equity securities and the market capitalization of those equity securities. The market capitalization test is CDN $3 billion. All of the 200 top foreign companies listed by market value would meet the Canadian market capitalization criteria. This criteria also reflects the market's assessment of a company's value and performance. The Committee feels that market capitalization is a more readily available statistic for broker-dealers to obtain.

(vi)

The issuer, at the time an offer or sale is made under this subsection, has a class of equity securities listed for trading on or through the facilities of a foreign securities exchange or recognized foreign securities market included in Rule 902(a)(1) or successor rule promulgated under the Securities Act of 1933 or designated by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission under Rule 902(a)(2) promulgated under the Securities Act of 1933.

COMMENTARY: The Committee feels that, while a listing on a stock exchange should not be the sole determinant in affording an exemption, it did provide for an independent means whereby the market's perception of the issuer could be communicated to public investors. The tie-in to SEC Rule 902 allows the states to be uniform with the SEC where a listing on a foreign securities exchange is used as a condition of the availability of a state registration exemption.

MODEL RULES

Adopted April 3, 2000, Amended April 18, 2004

Rule 202(e)-1. Bonding Requirements for Certain Investment Advisers.

Adopted April 3, 2000, Amended April 18, 2004

Rule 102(e)(1)-1. Custody of Client Funds or Securities by Investment Advisers.

(a)

Safekeeping required. If you are an investment adviser registered or required to be registered, it is unlawful and deemed to be a fraudulent, deceptive, or manipulative act, practice or course of business for you to have custody of client funds or securities unless:

(1)

Notice to Administrator. The investment adviser notifies the Administrator promptly in writing that the investment adviser has or may have custody. Such notification is required to be given on Form ADV;

(2)

Qualified custodian. A qualified custodian maintains those funds and securities;

(i)

In a separate account for each client under that client's name; or

(ii)

In accounts that contain only your clients' funds and securities, under your name as agent or trustee for the clients.

(3)

Notice to clients. If you open an account with a qualified custodian on your client's behalf, either under the client's name or under your name as agent, you notify the client in writing of the qualified custodian's name, address, and the manner in which the funds or securities are maintained, promptly when the account is opened and following any changes to this information.

(4)

Account statements must be sent to clients, either:

(i)

By a qualified custodian. You have reasonable basis for believing that the qualified custodian sends an account statement, at least quarterly, to each of your clients for which it maintains funds or securities, identifying the amount of funds and of each security in the account at the end of the period and setting forth all transactions in the account during that period; or

(ii)

By the adviser.

(A)

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

The adviser sends an account statement, at least quarterly, to each client for whom you have custody of funds or securities, identifying the amount of funds and of each security of which you have custody at the end of the period and setting forth all transactions during that period;

(B)

An independent certified public accountant verifies all client funds and securities by actual examination at least once during each calendar year at a time chosen by the accountant without prior notice or announcement to the adviser and that is irregular from year to year, and files a copy of the auditor's report and financial statements with the [Administrator] within 30 days after the completion of the examination, along with a letter stating that it has examined the funds and securities and describing the nature and extent of the examination; and

(C)

The independent certified public accountant, upon finding any material discrepancies during the course of the examination, notifies the [Administrator] within one business day of the finding, by means of a facsimile transmission or electronic mail, followed by first class mail, directed to the attention of the [Administrator];

(iii)

Special rule for limited partnerships and limited liability companies. If you are a general partner of a limited partnership (or managing member of a limited liability company, or hold a comparable position for another type of pooled investment vehicle), the account statements required under paragraphs (a)(4) of this section must be sent to each limited partner (or member or other beneficial owner or their independent representative).

(5)

Independent representatives. A client may designate an independent representative to receive, on his behalf, notices and account statements as required under paragraphs (a)(3) and (a)(4) of this section.

(6)

Direct Fee Deduction. An adviser who has custody as defined in Rule 102(e)(1)-1(c)(1)(ii) by having fees directly deducted from client accounts must also provide the following safeguards:

(i.) Written Authorization. The adviser must have written authorization from the client to deduct advisory fees from the account held with the qualified custodian;

(ii.) Notice of fee deduction. Each time a fee is directly deducted from a client account, the adviser must concurrently:

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

(A)

Send the qualified custodian notice of the amount of the fee to be deducted from the client's account; and

(B)

Send the client an invoice itemizing the fee. Itemization includes the formula used to calculate the fee, the amount of assets under managements the fee is based on, and the time period covered by the fee.

(iii.) Notice of Safeguards. The investment adviser notifies the [Administrator] in writing that the investment adviser intends to use the safeguards provided above. Such notification is required to be given on Form ADV.

(iv.) Waiver of Net Worth or Bonding Requirements. An investment adviser having custody solely because it meets the definition of custody as defined in Rule 102(e)(1)-1(c)(1)(ii) and who complies with the safekeeping requirements in Rule 102(e)(1)-1(a)(1)-(6) will not be required to meet the financial requirements for custodial advisers as set forth in Rule 202(d)-1.

Pooled Investments. An investment adviser who has custody as defined in Rule 102(e)(1)-1(c)(1)(iii) and who does not meet the exception provided under Rule 102(e)(1)-1(b)(3) must, in addition to the safeguards set forth in Rule 102(e)(1)-1(a)(1)-(5) also comply with the following:

(i)

Engage an Independent Party. Hire an independent party to review all fees, expenses and capital withdrawals from the pooled accounts;

(ii)

Review of Fees. Send all invoices or receipts to the independent party, detailing the amount of the fee, expenses or capital withdrawal and the method of calculation such that the independent party can:

(A)

Determine that the payment is in accordance with the pooled investment vehicle standards (generally the partnership agreement or membership agreement) and

(B)

Forward, to the qualified custodian, approval for payment of the invoice with a copy to the investment adviser.

(iii)

For purposes of this rule, an Independent Party means a person that:

(A)

Is engaged by you to act as a gatekeeper for the payment of fees, expenses and capital withdrawals from the pooled investment;

(B)

Does not control and is not controlled by and is not under common control with you; and

(C)

Does not have, and has not had within the past two years, a material business relationship with you.

(iv)

Notice of Safeguards. The investment adviser notifies the [Administrator] in writing that the investment adviser intends to use the safeguards provided above. Such notification is required to be given on Form ADV.

(v)

Waiver of Net Worth or Bonding Requirements. An investment adviser having custody solely because it meets the definition of custody as defined in Rule 102(e)(1)-1(c)(1)(iii) and who complies with the safekeeping requirements in Rule 102(e)(1)-1(a)(1)-(5) and (7) will not be required to meet the financial requirements for custodial advisers as set forth in Rule 202(d)-1

(b)

(5)

Beneficial Trusts. You are not required to comply with safekeeping requirements of this Rule 102(e)(1)-1(a) or the Net Worth and Bonding Requirements of Rule 202(d)-1 if you have custody solely because you are the trustee for a beneficial trust, if all of the following conditions are met for each trust:

The beneficial owner of the trust is a parent, a grandparent, a spouse, a sibling, a child or a grandchild of the adviser. These relationships shall include "step" relationships.

(C)

You maintain a copy of both documents described in subparagraphs (A) and (B) above until the account is closed or you are no longer trustee.

Any adviser who intends to have custody of client funds or securities but is not able to utilize a Qualified Custodian as defined in Rule 102(e)(1)-1(c) must first obtain approval from the [Administrator] and must comply with all of the applicable safekeeping provisions under Rule 102(e)(1)-1(a) including taking responsibility for those provisions that are designated to be performed by a qualified custodian.

(c)

Definitions. For purposes of this section:

(1)

"Custody" means holding directly or indirectly, client funds or securities, or having any authority to obtain possession of them [or has the ability to appropriate them]. Custody includes:

(i)

For purposes of this Rule, "custody" is defined in Rule 102(e)(1)-1(c)(1).

(g)

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

For purposes of this Rule an investment adviser shall not be deemed to be exercising discretion when it places trade orders with a broker-dealer pursuant to a third party trading agreement if:

(1)

the investment adviser has executed a separate investment adviser contract exclusively with its client which acknowledges that a third party trading agreement will be executed to allow the investment adviser to effect securities transactions for the client in the client's broker-dealer account, and

(2)

the investment adviser contract specifically states that the client does not grant discretionary authority to the investment adviser and the investment adviser in fact does not exercise discretion with respect to the account, and a third party trading agreement is executed between the client and a broker-dealer which specifically limits the investment adviser's authority in the client's broker-dealer account to the placement of trade orders and deduction of investment adviser fees.

(3)

(i)

Every investment adviser that has its principal place of business in a state other than this state shall maintain only such minimum capital as required by the state in which the investment adviser maintains its principal place of business, provided the investment adviser is licensed in such state and is in compliance with such state's minimum capital requirement.

Adopted August 30, 1990, Amended July 1, 2005

Rule No. 1

Offerings filed on U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") Form F-7, Form F-8, Form F-9 or Form F-10, shall become effective the later of three days after filing, or the effective date with the SEC. This rule is adopted pursuant to [Section 303 (c) (2) of the Act.]

Commentary:

The North American Securities Administrators Association, Inc. initially adopted these model rules August 30, 1990 to utilize the Multijurisdictional Disclosure System ("MJDS") developed by the SEC. MJDS was originally described in SEC Release 33-6841 and adopted in SEC Release 33-6902. These amended rules are designed to conform to the Uniform Securities Act 2002 ("USA").

Rule No. 1 is designed to permit offerings to become effective in US jurisdictions at the same time they become effective in Canada. When initially adopted this period could be as short as 7 days. Since adoption the period has been reduced. Eligibility is limited to the offerings listed below:

SEC Form F-7 may be used for registration of securities offered for cash upon the exercise of rights granted to existing securities holders.

2.

SEC Form F-8 may be used for registration of securities issued in an exchange offer, merger or other business combination.

3.

SEC Form F-9 may be used for registration of investment grade, non-convertible preferred stock or non-convertible debt. Form F-9 defines non-convertible to include securities not convertible for at least one year.

4.

SEC Form F-10 may be used for registration of securities of companies meeting a continuous reporting requirement and a public float of $75 million or more.

Authority for Adoption: Section 605 of the USA.

Rule No. 2

Financial statements and financial information for offerings filed under Rule No. 1 shall comply with instructions provided with SEC Form F-7, Form F-8, Form F-9 or Form F-10. This rule is adopted pursuant to [Section [605(c)] of the _____ Act].

Commentary:

The Rule is designed to permit use of financial statements and financial information prepared in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles to the extent allowed by the SEC.

Rule No. 3

In a Rights Offering, SEC Form F-7 will be accepted in lieu of any state form required to claim an exemption for any transaction pursuant to an offer to existing securities holders.

Commentary:

Under the Uniform Securities Act of 1956 an offering to existing security holders including commissions or other remuneration other than standby commissions, required a filing with the state administrator. This Rule was designed to allow Form F-7 to serve as the filing. Section 202 (15) of USA modifies this exemption.

Rule No. 4.

After the SEC has declared effective an issuer's Form F-8, Form F-9 or Form F-10 registration statement, a non-issuer transaction in any class of the issuer's securities is exempt from registration, whether or not the transaction is effected through a broker dealer.

Commentary:

This Rule is intended to give certain MJDS-registered securities an exemption for subsequent secondary trading.

Whether or not to include securities issued pursuant to a rights offering filed on SEC Form F-7, as well, is at the discretion of each jurisdiction adopting this rule. Non-issuer transactions in these securities may already be exempt under Sections 202(4) and (6) of the USA, preempted for securities of issuers that are reporting companies under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, or exempt transactions under the state securities act.

Adopted April 27, 1997; Amended April 18, 2004

Rule 102(a)(4)-1. Unethical Business Practices of Investment Advisers

A person who is an investment adviser or a federal covered adviser is a fiduciary and has a duty to act primarily for the benefit of its clients. The provisions of this subsection apply to federal covered advisers to the extent that the conduct alleged is fraudulent, deceptive, or as otherwise permitted by the National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996 (Pub. L. No. 104-290). While the extent and nature of this duty varies according to the nature of the relationship between an investment adviser and its clients and the circumstances of each case, an investment adviser or a federal covered adviser shall not engage in unethical business practices, including the following:

1.

Recommending to a client to whom supervisory, management or consulting services are provided the purchase, sale or exchange of any security without reasonable grounds to believe that the recommendation is suitable for the client on the basis of information furnished by the client after reasonable inquiry concerning the client's investment objectives, financial situation and needs, and any other information known by the investment adviser.

2.

Exercising any discretionary power in placing an order for the purchase or sale of securities for a client without obtaining written discretionary authority from the client within ten (10) business days after the date of the first transaction placed pursuant to oral discretionary authority, unless the discretionary power relates solely to the price at which, or the time when, an order involving a definite amount of a specified security shall be executed, or both.

3.

Inducing trading in a client's account that is excessive in size or frequency in view of the financial resources, investment objectives and character of the account in light of the fact that an adviser in such situations can directly benefit from the number of securities transactions effected in a client's account. The rule appropriately forbids an excessive number of transaction orders to be induced by an adviser for a "customer's account."

4.

Placing an order to purchase or sell a security for the account of a client without authority to do so.

5.

Placing an order to purchase or sell a security for the account of a client upon instruction of a third party without first having obtained a written third-party trading authorization from the client.

6.

Borrowing money or securities from a client unless the client is a broker-dealer, an affiliate of the investment adviser, or a financial institution engaged in the business of loaning funds.

7. Loaning money to a client unless the investment adviser is a financial institution engaged in the business of loaning funds or the client is an affiliate of the investment adviser.

8. To misrepresent to any advisory client, or prospective advisory client, the qualifications of the investment adviser or any employee of the investment adviser, or to misrepresent the nature of the advisory services being offered or fees to be charged for such service, or to omit to state a material fact necessary to make the statements made regarding qualifications, services or fees, in light of the circumstances under which they are made, not misleading.

9. Providing a report or recommendation to any advisory client prepared by someone other than the adviser without disclosing that fact. (This prohibition does not apply to a situation where the adviser uses published research reports or statistical analyses to render advice or where an adviser orders such a report in the normal course of providing service.)

10. Charging a client an unreasonable advisory fee.

11. Failing to disclose to clients in writing before any advice is rendered any material conflict of interest relating to the adviser or any of its employees which could reasonably be expected to impair the rendering of unbiased and objective advice including:

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

(a) Compensation arrangements connected with advisory services to clients which are in addition to compensation from such clients for such services; and

(b) Charging a client an advisory fee for rendering advice when a commission for executing securities transactions pursuant to such advice will be received by the adviser or its employees.

12. Guaranteeing a client that a specific result will be achieved (gain or no loss) with advice which will be rendered.

13. Publishing, circulating or distributing any advertisement which does not comply with Rule 206 (4)-1 under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940.

14. Disclose the identity, affairs, or investments of any client unless required by law to do so, or unless consented to by the client.

15. Taking any action, directly or indirectly, with respect to those securities or funds in which any client has any beneficial interest, where the investment adviser has custody or possession of such securities or funds when the adviser's action is subject to and does not comply with the requirements of Rule 102(e)(1)-1. and any subsequent amendments.

16. Entering into, extending or renewing any investment advisory contract unless such contract is in writing and discloses, in substance, the services to be provided, the term of the contract, the advisory fee, the formula for computing the fee, the amount of prepaid fee to be returned in the event of contract termination or nonperformance, whether the contract grants discretionary power to the adviser and that no assignment of such contract shall be made by the investment adviser without the consent of the other party to the contract.

17. Failing to establish, maintain, and enforce written policies and procedures reasonably designed to prevent the misuse of material nonpublic information contrary to the provisions of Section 204A of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940.

18. Entering into, extending, or renewing any advisory contract contrary to the provisions of section 205 of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940. This provision shall apply to all advisers registered or required to be registered under this Act, notwithstanding whether such adviser would be exempt from federal registration pursuant to section 203 (b) of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940.

20. Engaging in any act, practice, or course of business which is fraudulent, deceptive, or manipulative in contrary to the provisions of section 206 (4) of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, notwithstanding the fact that such investment adviser is not registered or required to be registered under section 203 of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940.

21. Engaging in conduct or any act, indirectly or through or by any other person, which would be unlawful for such person to do directly under the provisions of this act or any rule or regulation thereunder. The conduct set forth above is not inclusive. Engaging in other conduct such as nondisclosure, incomplete disclosure, or deceptive practices shall be deemed an unethical business practice. The federal statutory and regulatory provisions referenced herein shall apply to investment advisers and federal covered advisers, to the extent permitted by the National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996 (Pub. L. No. 104-290).

As amended May 7, 2007 (originally adopted Nov. 20, 1986 and amended April 22, 1988)

I. INTRODUCTION.

A. Application:

1. The rules contained in these guidelines apply to qualification, and registration of PROGRAMS formed to own equipment and either (a) lease it to non-AFFILIATES, or (b) operate the equipment themselves or through AFFILIATES. While applications not conforming to the standards contained herein shall be looked upon with disfavor, where good cause is shown, certain guidelines may be modified or waived by the ADMINISTRATOR.

COMMENT:

The purpose of the guidelines is to establish uniform and consistent standards to be applied by the various state securities ADMINISTRATORS throughout the country. These standards are primarily designed for public programs which acquire and own and either lease or operate equipment of any kind. Excluded shall be PROGRAMS formed to acquire or develop and operate a business and eventually dispose of the business as a whole rather than dispose of identified pieces of equipment. In such PROGRAMS, actual ownership and operation of equipment is incidental to the business of the PROGRAM. An example of this exclusion would be a PROGRAM formed to acquire, develop and operate cable television systems, where the purchase of equipment is incidental to the business. Among other things, the guidelines apply to drilling rig PROGRAMS, service and supply PROGRAMS, and cable television PROGRAMS which do not fall within the above exclusion.

2. Where the individual characteristics of specific PROGRAMS warrant modification from these standards, they will be accommodated insofar as possible while still being consistent with the spirit of these guidelines. When required by the ADMINISTRATOR, a CROSS REFERENCE SHEET shall be furnished with the application.

3. Where these guidelines conflict with disclosure requirements of the Securities and Exchange Commission, the guidelines will not apply.

B. Definitions: Where terms used in the PROSPECTUS are subject to more than one interpretation and such terms are material to PROGRAM provisions, the PROSPECTUS shall contain a glossary of such terms. Any discrepancies between the definitions set forth in these GUIDELINES and the definitions set forth in the glossary shall be indicated in the application filed with the ADMINISTRATOR.

1. ACQUISITION EXPENSES: expenses including but not limited to legal fees and expenses, travel and communication expenses, costs of appraisals, accounting fees and expenses, and miscellaneous expenses relating to selection and acquisition of equipment, whether or not acquired.

2. ACQUISITION FEE: the total of all fees and commissions paid by any party in connection with the initial purchase or manufacture of equipment acquired by a PROGRAM. Included in the computation of such fees or commissions shall be any commission, selection fee, construction supervision fee, financing fee, non-recurring management fee, or any fee of a similar nature, however designated.

3. ADMINISTRATOR: the official or agency administering the securities law of a State.

4. AFFILIATE: (a) any PERSON directly or indirectly controlling, controlled by or under common control with another PERSON (b) any PERSON owning or controlling 10% or more of the outstanding voting securities of such other PERSON (c) any officer, director, or partner of such PERSON and (d) if such other PERSON is an officer, director or partner, any company for which such PERSON acts in such capacity.

5. ASSESSMENTS: additional amounts of capital which may be mandatorily required of or paid at the option of a PARTICIPANT beyond his subscription commitment.

6. CAPITAL CONTRIBUTION: the gross amount of investment in a PROGRAM by a PARTICIPANT, or all PARTICIPANTS, as the case may be.

COMMENT:

Funds reinvested pursuant to Subsections VIII.D and E of these GUIDELINES are not considered to be "investments" in the PROGRAM for purposes of calculating CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

7. CARRIED INTEREST: an interest taken in a program by a PERSON, other than the promotional interest provided for in Sections IV.C. 3 and IV.D., for which full consideration has neither been paid nor is to be paid.

8. CASH AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION: CASH FLOW plus cash funds available for distribution from PROGRAM reserves less amounts set aside for restoration or creation of reserves.

9. CASH FLOW: PROGRAM cash funds provided from operations, without deduction for depreciation, but after deducting cash funds used to pay all other expenses, debt payments, capital improvements and replacements (other than cash funds withdrawn from reserves).

COMMENT:

The PROGRAM agreement should contain appropriate language to effectuate this provision.

10. COMPETITIVE EQUIPMENT SALE COMMISSION: that brokerage fee paid for services rendered in connection with the purchase or sale of equipment which is reasonable, customary and competitive in light of the size, type and location of the equipment.

11. CROSS REFERENCE SHEET: a compilation of the Guideline sections, referenced to the page of the PROSPECTUS, PROGRAM agreement, or other exhibits, and justification for any deviation from the Guidelines.

12. EQUIPMENT MANAGEMENT: personnel and services necessary to the leasing activities of the PROGRAM, including but not limited to, leasing and re-leasing of PROGRAM equipment, arranging for necessary maintenance and repair of the equipment, collecting revenues, paying operating expenses, determining that the equipment is used in accordance with all operative contractual arrangements and providing clerical and bookkeeping services necessary to the operation of PROGRAM equipment.

13. FRONT-END FEES: fees and expenses paid by any party for any services rendered during the PROGRAM'S organizational or acquisition phase including ORGANIZATION AND OFFERING EXPENSES, LEASING FEES, ACQUISITION FEES, ACQUISITION EXPENSES, and any other similar fees, however designated by the SPONSOR. FRONT-END FEES shall not include any ACQUISITION FEES or ACQUISITION EXPENSES paid by a manufacturer of equipment to any of its employees unless such PERSONS are AFFILIATES of the SPONSOR.

COMMENT:

It is anticipated that fees and expenses covered by the last sentence may be incorporated into the purchase price, and these are not to be construed as FRONT-END FEES. The general approach in these definitions and the limits contained in Section IV. is that there should be no duplication of fees.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

14. FULL PAYOUT LEASES: leases under which the non-cancellable rental payments due during the initial term of the lease are sufficient to recover the PURCHASE PRICE OF EQUIPMENT.

15. INDEPENDENT EXPERT: A PERSON with no current material or prior business or personal relationship with the SPONSOR who is engaged to a substantial extent in the business of rendering opinions regarding the value of assets of the type held by the PROGRAM, and who is qualified to perform such work.

16. INVESTMENT IN EQUIPMENT: the amount of CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS actually paid or allocated to the purchase, manufacture, or renovation of equipment acquired by the PROGRAM, including the purchase of equipment, working capital reserves allocable thereto (except that working capital reserves in excess of 3% shall not be included), and other cash payments such as interest and taxes but excluding FRONT-END FEES.

17. LEASING FEE: the total of all fees and commissions paid by any party in connection with the initial lease of equipment acquired by a PROGRAM.

18. NET DISPOSITION PROCEEDS: the proceeds realized by the PROGRAM from sale, refinancing or other disposition of PROGRAM EQUIPMENT, including insurance proceeds or lessee indemnity payments arising from the loss or destruction of the EQUIPMENT, less all PROGRAM liabilities.

19. NET LEASE PROVISIONS: contractual arrangements under which the lessee assumes responsibility for, and bears the cost of, insurance, taxes, maintenance, repair and operation of the leased asset and where the non-cancellable rental payments under the lease are absolutely net to the lessor.

COMMENT:

A lease may be deemed to contain NET LEASE PROVISIONS even if some minor costs or responsibilities remain with the lessor or if the lessor retains the option to require and pay for a higher standard of care or a greater level of maintenance or insurance, than would be imposed upon the lessee under the terms of the lease.

20. NET WORTH: the excess of total assets over total liabilities as determined by generally accepted accounting principles, except that if any of such assets have been depreciated, then the amount of depreciation relative to any particular asset may be added to the depreciated cost of such asset to compute total assets. The amount of depreciation may be added only to the extent that the amount resulting after adding such depreciation does not exceed the fair market value of such asset.

21. OPERATING LEASES: leases which will return to the lessor less than the PURCHASE PRICE OF EQUIPMENT from rentals payable during the initial term of the lease.

22. ORGANIZATIONAL AND OFFERING EXPENSES: expenses incurred in connection with preparing a PROGRAM for registration and subsequently offering and distributing it to the public, including sales commissions paid to broker-dealers in connection with the distribution of PROGRAM INTERESTS and all advertising expenses except advertising expenses related to the leasing of the PROGRAM's equipment.

23. PARTICIPANT: the holder of a PROGRAM INTEREST.

24. PERSON: any natural person, partnership, corporation, association, or other legal entity.

25. PROGRAM: a limited or general partnership, joint venture, unincorporated association or similar organization, other than a corporation formed and operated for the primary purpose of investment in and the operation of or gain from an interest in equipment.

26. PROGRAM INTEREST: the limited partnership unit or other indicia of ownership in a PROGRAM.

27. PROSPECTUS: shall have the meaning given to that term by Section 2(10) of the Securities Act of 1933, including a preliminary PROSPECTUS; provided, however, that such term as used herein shall also include an offering circular as described in Rule 256 of the General Rules and Regulations under the Securities Act of 1933, or, in the case of an intrastate offering, any document by whatever name known, utilized for the purpose of offering and selling securities to the public.

28. PURCHASE PRICE OF EQUIPMENT: the price paid upon the purchase or sale of a particular item of equipment, including the amount of ACQUISITION FEES and all liens and mortgages on the equipment, but excluding points and prepaid interest.

29. ROLL UP: a transaction involving the acquisition, merger, conversion, or consolidation either directly or indirectly of the PROGRAM and the issuance of securities of a ROLL-UP ENTITY. Such term does not include:

(a) a transaction involving securities of a PROGRAM that have been for at least 12 months listed on a national securities exchange or traded through the National Association of Securities Dealers Automated Quotation National Market System; or

(b) a transaction involving the conversion to corporate, trust or association form of only the PROGRAM if, as a consequence of the transaction, there will be no significant adverse change in any of the following:

- (i) PARTICIPANT'S voting rights;
- (ii) the term of existence of the PROGRAM;
- (iii) SPONSOR compensation; or
- (iv) the PROGRAM'S investment objectives.

30. ROLL-UP ENTITY: the partnership, corporation, trust, or other entity that would be created or would survive after the successful completion of a proposed ROLL-UP transaction.

31. SPECIFIED EQUIPMENT PROGRAM: a PROGRAM where, at the time a securities registration is ordered effective, at least 75% of the net proceeds from the sale of PROGRAM INTERESTS are allocable to the purchase or renovation of identified equipment or one specified type of identified equipment. Reserves shall not be included in the 75%.

COMMENT:

Identified equipment means items of equipment (not types of equipment) actually specified in the Prospectus at the date of effectiveness.

One specified type of identified equipment is narrowly defined. For example, one specified type of equipment would be commercial aircraft, marine containers or computer software. A broader category, e.g. transportation or computer equipment will not be considered to be one specified type of identified equipment.

32. SPONSOR: any PERSON directly or indirectly instrumental in organizing, wholly or in part, a PROGRAM or any PERSON who will manage or participate in the management of a PROGRAM, and any AFFILIATE of any such person. SPONSOR does not include a PERSON whose only relation with the PROGRAM is that of an independent equipment manager and whose only compensation is as such. SPONSOR does not include wholly independent third parties such as attorneys, accountants, and underwriters whose only compensation is for professional services rendered in connection with the offering of PROGRAM interests.

II. REQUIREMENTS OF SPONSORS.

A. Experience. The SPONSOR, the general partner, or their chief operating officers, shall have at least three years relevant equipment leasing or other experience which demonstrates sufficient knowledge and experience to acquire and manage the type of equipment the PROGRAM will purchase. Any of the foregoing or any AFFILIATE providing services to the PROGRAM shall have had not less than three years relevant experience in the kind of service being rendered or must otherwise demonstrate sufficient knowledge and experience to perform the services proposed.

B.

1. NET WORTH Requirement of SPONSOR.

The financial condition of the SPONSOR liable for the debts of the PROGRAM must be commensurate with any financial obligations assumed in the offering and in the operation of the PROGRAM. At a minimum, such SPONSOR shall have an aggregate financial NET WORTH, exclusive of home, automobile and home furnishings, of the greater of either $50,000 or an amount at least equal to 5% of the gross amount of all direct participation offerings sold within the prior 12 months plus 5% of the gross amount of the current offering, to an aggregate maximum NET WORTH of such SPONSOR of one million dollars. In determining NET WORTH for this purpose, contingent liabilities and the use of promissory notes will be evaluated by the ADMINISTRATOR to determine the appropriateness of their inclusion in NET WORTH computation.

COMMENT:

The ADMINISTRATOR may want to consider the terms of the note, including whether the note is demand or recourse, as well as the maker's ability to honor the note through the use of liquid assets.

2. Financial Information Required. The SPONSOR shall provide as an exhibit to the application the following financial information in support of its NET WORTH:

a. Corporate SPONSORS shall submit a balance sheet as of the end of their most recent fiscal year, prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and examined and reported upon by an independent certified public accountant in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. A balance sheet for the prior fiscal year which meets the above qualifications shall be used if the most recent fiscal year has ended not more than ninety days prior to the date of filing, and an unaudited balance sheet as of a date not more than one hundred thirty-five days prior to the date of filing should also be prepared. Such statements shall be included in the PROSPECTUS.

b. Where the NET WORTH requirement of this section cannot be met by corporate SPONSORS, a balance sheet for each non-corporate SPONSOR (including individual partners or individual joint ventures of a SPONSOR) as of a date not more than one hundred thirty-five days prior to the date of filing an application shall be submitted. Such balance sheet shall be prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and reviewed and reported upon by an independent certified public accountant under the review standards set forth by the American Institute of

Certified Public Accountants. In such case, a representation of the amount of such NET WORTH must be included in the PROSPECTUS, or in the alternative, a representation that such SPONSOR meets the NET WORTH requirements of this section.

C. Tax Ruling or Opinion. The SPONSOR must have a tax ruling from the U.S. Internal Revenue Service or an opinion of qualified tax counsel concerning the flow-through of tax benefits and other tax consequences to the PARTICIPANT. An opinion of counsel shall be in form and substance satisfactory to the ADMINISTRATOR and shall be unqualified except to the extent permitted by the ADMINISTRATOR.

COMMENT:

An opinion meeting the requirements of ABA Formal Opinion 346 (Revised) of the American Bar Association Standing Committee on Ethics and Professional Responsibility and any applicable law shall be deemed satisfactory.

D. Reports to ADMINISTRATOR. The SPONSOR shall submit to the ADMINISTRATOR any other information which the ADMINISTRATOR requires, including, but not limited to, reports and statements required to be distributed to PARTICIPANTS.

E. Liability and Indemnification.

1. The PROGRAM shall not provide for indemnification of the SPONSOR for any liability or loss suffered by the SPONSOR, nor shall it provide that the SPONSOR be held harmless for any loss or liability suffered by the PROGRAM, unless all of the following conditions are met:

a. The SPONSOR has determined, in good faith, that the course of conduct which caused the loss or liability was in the best interests of the PROGRAM, and

b. the SPONSOR was acting on behalf of or performing services for the PROGRAM, and

c. such liability or loss was not the result of negligence or misconduct by the SPONSOR, and

d. such indemnification or agreement to hold harmless is recoverable only out of the assets of the PROGRAM and not from the limited partners.

For purposes of this section, AFFILIATES must be performing services on behalf of the PROGRAM and acting within the scope of the general partner's authority.

2. Indemnification of the SPONSORS will not be allowed for any liability imposed by judgment, and costs associated therewith, including attorney's fees, arising from or out of a violation of state or federal securities laws associated with the offer and sale of partnership units. Indemnification will be allowed for settlements and related expenses of lawsuits alleging securities law violations, and for expenses incurred in successfully defending such lawsuits, provided that a court either:

- a. approves the settlement and finds that indemnification of the settlement and related costs should be made, or
- b. approves indemnification of litigation costs if a successful defense is made. Every application for registration must contain an undertaking that such parties seeking indemnification will apprise the court of the positions of the ADMINISTRATOR and the SEC with respect to indemnification for securities laws violations, before seeking court approval for indemnification.

3. The PROGRAM may not incur the cost of that portion of liability insurance which insures the SPONSOR for any liability as to which the SPONSOR is prohibited from being indemnified under this section.

III. SUITABILITY OF PARTICIPANTS

A. General Policy.

1. The SPONSOR shall establish minimum income and net worth standards for PERSONS who purchase PROGRAM INTERESTS.

2. The SPONSOR shall propose minimum income and net worth standards which are reasonable given the type of PROGRAM and the risks associated with the purchase of PROGRAM INTERESTS. PROGRAMS with greater investor risk shall have minimum standards with a substantial NET WORTH requirement. The ADMINISTRATOR shall evaluate the standards proposed by the SPONSOR when the PROGRAM'S application for registration is reviewed. In evaluating the proposed standards, the ADMINISTRATOR may consider the following:

- a. the PROGRAM'S use of leverage;
- b. tax implications;

c. mandatory deferred payments;

d. assessments;

e. balloon payment financing;

f. potential variances in cash distributions;

g. potential PARTICIPANTS;

h. relationship between potential PARTICIPANTS and the SPONSOR;

i. liquidity of PROGRAM INTERESTS;

j. performance of the SPONSOR'S prior programs;

k. financial condition of the SPONSOR;

l. potential transactions between the PROGRAM and the SPONSOR; and

m. any other relevant factors.

B. Income and Net Worth Standards.

1. Unless the ADMINISTRATOR determines that the risks associated with the PROGRAM would require lower or higher standards, each PARTICIPANT shall have:

a. a minimum annual gross income of $70,000 and a minimum NET WORTH of $70,000; or

b. a minimum NET WORTH of $250,000.

2. NET WORTH shall be determined exclusive of home, home furnishings, and automobiles.

3. In the case of sales to fiduciary accounts, these minimum standards shall be met by the beneficiary, the fiduciary account, or by the donor or grantor who directly or indirectly supplies the funds to purchase the PROGRAM INTERESTS if the donor or grantor is the fiduciary.

4. The SPONSOR shall set forth in the final PROSPECTUS:

a. the investment objectives of the PROGRAM;

b. a description of the type of PERSON who might benefit from an investment in the PROGRAM; and

c. the minimum standards imposed on each PARTICIPANT in the PROGRAM.

C. Determination that Sale to PARTICIPANT is Suitable and Appropriate.

1. The SPONSOR and each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM shall make every reasonable effort to determine that the purchase of PROGRAM INTERESTS is a suitable and appropriate investment for each PARTICIPANT.

2. In making this determination, the SPONSOR or each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM shall ascertain that the prospective PARTICIPANT:

a. meets the minimum income and net worth standards established for the PROGRAM;

b. can reasonably benefit from the PROGRAM based on the prospective PARTICIPANT'S overall investment objectives and portfolio structure;

c. is able to bear the economic risk of the investment based on the prospective PARTICIPANT'S overall financial situation; and

d. has apparent understanding of:

(1) the fundamental risks of the investment;

(2) the risk that the PARTICIPANT may lose the entire investment;

(3) the lack of liquidity of PROGRAM INTERESTS;

(4) the restrictions on transferability of PROGRAM INTERESTS;

(5) the background and qualifications of the SPONSOR or the PERSONS responsible for directing and managing the PROGRAM; and

(6) the tax consequences of the investment.

3. The SPONSOR or each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM will make this determination on the basis of information it has obtained from a prospective PARTICIPANT. Relevant information for this purpose will include at least the age, investment objectives, investment experience, income, NET WORTH, financial situation, and other investments of the prospective PARTICIPANT, as well as any other pertinent factors.

4. The SPONSOR or each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM shall maintain records of the information used to determine that an investment in PROGRAM INTERESTS is suitable and appropriate for each PARTICIPANT. The SPONSOR or each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM shall maintain these records for at least six years.

5. The SPONSOR shall disclose in the final PROSPECTUS the responsibility of the SPONSOR and each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM to make every reasonable effort to determine that the purchase of PROGRAM INTERESTS is a suitable and appropriate investment for each PARTICIPANT, based on information provided by the PARTICIPANT regarding the PARTICIPANT'S financial situation and investment objectives.

D. Subscription Agreements.

1. The ADMINISTRATOR may require that each PARTICIPANT complete and sign a written subscription agreement.

2. The SPONSOR may require that each PARTICIPANT make certain factual representations in the subscription agreement, including the following:

a. The PARTICIPANT meets the minimum income and net worth standards established for the PROGRAM.

b. The PARTICIPANT is purchasing the PROGRAM INTERESTS for his or her own account.

c. The PARTICIPANT has received a copy of the PROSPECTUS.

d. The PARTICIPANT acknowledges that the investment is not liquid.

3. The PARTICIPANT must separately sign or initial each representation made in the subscription agreement. Except in the case of fiduciary accounts, the PARTICIPANT may not grant any PERSON a power of attorney to make such representations on his or her behalf.

4. The SPONSOR and each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM shall not require a PARTICIPANT to make representations in the subscription agreement which are subjective or unreasonable and which:

a. might cause the PARTICIPANT to believe that he or she has surrendered rights to which he or she is entitled under federal or state law; or

b. would have the effect of shifting the duties regarding suitability, imposed by law on broker-dealers, to the PARTICIPANT.

5. Prohibited representations include, but are not limited to the following:

a. The PARTICIPANT understands or comprehends the risks associated with an investment in the PROGRAM.

b. The investment is a suitable one for the PARTICIPANT.

c. The PARTICIPANT has read the PROSPECTUS.

d. In deciding to invest in the PROGRAM, the PARTICIPANT has relied solely on the PROSPECTUS, and not on any other information or representations from other PERSONS or sources.

6. The SPONSOR may place the content of the prohibited representations in the subscription agreement in the form of disclosures to the PARTICIPANT. The SPONSOR may not place these disclosures in the PARTICIPANT representation section of the subscription agreement.

E. Completion of Sale.

1. The SPONSOR or any person selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM may not complete a sale of PROGRAM INTERESTS to a PARTICIPANT until at least five business days after the date the PARTICIPANT receives a final prospectus.

2. The SPONSOR or the PERSON designated by the SPONSOR shall send each PARTICIPANT a confirmation of his or her purchase.

F. Minimum Investment. The ADMINISTRATOR may require a minimum initial and subsequent cash investment amount.

III. COMPENSATION AND EXPENSES.

A. Introduction. All forms of fees, reimbursement, compensation and remuneration paid to the SPONSOR from any source in connection with the PROGRAM shall be reasonable, taken as a whole, and shall be presumed reasonable if permitted by these Guidelines. Any other form of remuneration may be permitted if fully justified, supported and permitted by the ADMINISTRATOR. All such remuneration shall be disclosed in the PROSPECTUS.

B. Organizational and Offering Expenses. ORGANIZATIONAL AND OFFERING EXPENSES shall be reasonable and shall comply with all statutes, rules and regulations imposed in connection with the offering of other securities in the State. Compensation of broker-dealers and agents for selling PROGRAM INTERESTS or assisting in the organization of the PROGRAM shall be in cash.

C. Investment in Equipment.

1. The SPONSOR shall be required to commit a substantial portion of the PROGRAM's CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS toward INVESTMENT IN EQUIPMENT. The remaining CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS may be used to pay FRONT-END FEES. If CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS are paid on an installment basis, the FRONT-END FEES shall be paid to the SPONSOR pro rata as installments are paid.

2. The SPONSOR shall commit a percentage of CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS to INVESTMENT IN EQUIPMENT which is equal to the greater of:

a. 80% of the CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS reduced by .0625% for each 1% of indebtedness encumbering PROGRAM equipment; or

b. 75% of CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS.

3. If the SPONSOR enters into an INVESTMENT IN EQUIPMENT commitment in excess of that specified in paragraph 2. above, the following mutually exclusive forms of compensation are viewed as reasonable alternatives to

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

FRONT-END FEES:

a. For each 1% of CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS committed to INVESTMENT IN EQUIPMENT in excess of the minimum amount required the SPONSOR may take an additional promotional interest equal to 1% of all distributions from CASH AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION and NET DISPOSITION PROCEEDS remaining after PARTICIPANTS have received a cash return of 100% of their CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS; or

b. The SPONSOR may take a fully participating CARRIED INTEREST equal to 1% for the first 2.5% of additional INVESTMENT IN EQUIPMENT, 1% for the next 2% of additional INVESTMENT IN EQUIPMENT, and 1% for each 1% of additional INVESTMENT IN EQUIPMENT thereafter.

4. Except as permitted by paragraph 3. above, no CARRIED INTEREST in the PROGRAM shall be allowed.

COMMENT:

The purpose of this section is to require the SPONSOR to invest a specified percentage of CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS in the acquisition of equipment and use the balance for FRONT-END FEES or defer a portion of the FRONT-END FEES for an additional promotional interest or CARRIED INTEREST.

This will avoid the necessity of having to attempt to establish the reasonableness of the various FRONT-END FEES on an individual basis. However, the formula continues the tradition of other NASAA guidelines by allowing the SPONSOR's fee to increase as leverage is employed to acquire equipment. The PROSPECTUS should include an example demonstrating the mechanics of the formula.

To calculate the percent of indebtedness encumbering PROGRAM EQUIPMENT in paragraph 2., divide the amount of indebtedness by the PURCHASE PRICE OF EQUIPMENT, excluding FRONT-END FEES. The Quotient is multiplied by .0625% to determine the percentage to be deducted from 80%.

The following are examples of application of the formula:

(1) No indebtedness--80% to be committed to INVESTMENT IN EQUIPMENT.

(2) 50% indebtedness-- $50\% \times .0625\% = 3.125\%$
 $80\% - 3.125\% = 76.875\%$ to be committed to INVESTMENT IN EQUIPMENT.

(3) 80% indebtedness-- $80\% \times .0625\% = 5\%$
 $80\% - 5\% = 75\%$ to be committed to INVESTMENT IN EQUIPMENT.

D. Promotional Interest: An interest in the PROGRAM will be allowed as a promotional interest provided that the amount or percentage of such interest is reasonable. Such an interest will be presumed reasonable if it is within the limitations expressed below:

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

1. An interest equal to:

a. 5% of all distributions from CASH AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION and 1% of all distributions from NET DISPOSITION PROCEEDS until such time as the PARTICIPANTS have received a return of their CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS plus an amount equal to 8% of CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS per annum cumulative; thereafter the SPONSOR's interest in all distributed CASH AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION plus distributed NET DISPOSITION PROCEEDS may increase to 15%. For each 1% less taken in the unsubordinated CASH AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION under subparagraph 1.a., the subordinated interest may increase by 1%, or,

COMMENT:

This provision would allow the SPONSOR an interest only in CASH AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION prior to satisfaction of the subordination requirements except for the 1% interest in NET DISPOSITION PROCEEDS.

b. 20% of all distributed CASH AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION and distributed NET DISPOSITION PROCEEDS after a return to the PARTICIPANTS of their CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS plus an amount equal to 8% of CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS per annum cumulative.

2. For purposes of this paragraph, the cumulative return to each PARTICIPANT shall commence no later than the end of the calendar quarter in which the PARTICIPANT'S CAPITAL CONTRIBUTION is made.

COMMENT:

Income earned on impounded funds and distributed to PARTICIPANTS may be used to satisfy the cumulative return requirement.

3. For the purposes of this paragraph, the CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS of the PARTICIPANTS shall be reduced only by distributions from CASH AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION, and distributions from NET DISPOSITION PROCEEDS.

COMMENT:

Only CASH AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION and NET DISPOSITION PROCEEDS actually paid to PARTICIPANTS, as opposed to allocations for bookkeeping purposes, may be used to satisfy the subordination requirements of Section IV.D. The PROSPECTUS should include an example of how the PARTICIPANT's 8% cumulative return is calculated upon a decreasing base of CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS. For example, on a $100 investment, a $10 distribution would result in a $2.00 reduction in CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS, leaving a $98 base upon which the 8% return would be calculated in year two. The $2.00 reduction consists of $2.00 in distributions in excess of that required to satisfy the cumulative return requirement.

E. Equipment Management Fee. If the SPONSOR performs the services as described below, the fees paid to the SPONSOR shall be the lesser of the maximum fees set forth below in paragraphs 1. through 4., whichever is applicable, or the fees which are competitive for similar services for similar equipment. Except for the fee provided in paragraph 3. below, included in these fees shall be fees paid by the PROGRAM to PERSONS who are not AFFILIATES.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

1. The SPONSOR may charge the PROGRAM an annual fee for EQUIPMENT MANAGEMENT, not exceed 5% of gross rental payments for OPERATING LEASES; or

2. The SPONSOR may charge the PROGRAM an annual fee for EQUIPMENT MANAGEMENT not to exceed 2% of gross rental payments in the case of FULL PAYOUT LEASES which contain NET LEASE PROVISIONS; or

3. The SPONSOR may receive a fee of 1% of gross rental payments if it arranges for and actively supervises the performance of the services in paragraph 1. above by non-AFFILIATES; or

4. If the SPONSOR provides both EQUIPMENT MANAGEMENT and additional services relating to the continued and active operation of PROGRAM equipment, such as on-going marketing and re-leasing of equipment, hiring or arranging for hiring of crews or operating personnel for PROGRAM equipment and similar services, it may charge the PROGRAM a fee not to exceed 7% of gross rental payments from equipment operated by the PROGRAM.

COMMENT (1):

This subparagraph 4 is not intended to limit the costs or PROGRAM personnel hired to operate equipment so long as such costs do not include salaries, fringe benefits, travel expenses, and other administrative items incurred or allocated to any controlling persons (as defined in Section V.G.1.b. of these Guidelines) of the SPONSOR. Further, the terms "executive management" used in Section V.G.1.b. do not include those individuals who provide EQUIPMENT MANAGEMENT services to the PROGRAM and who are not involved in executive policy making decisions, regardless of title.

If maintenance and repair of the equipment is required, that cost should be borne by the lessee, or the service may be provided by the SPONSOR as permitted by Section V.G.2. of these Guidelines.

COMMENT (2):

The distinction between the first three limitations on fees and the fourth limitation concerns the level of services provided by the SPONSOR who operates the equipment on behalf of the PROGRAM. The 7% fee should only be allowed where the PROGRAM equipment is actually being operated on behalf of the PROGRAM by PROGRAM personnel, and not when its simply leased out under OPERATING LEASES or FULL PAYOUT LEASES. It should be noted that a syndicator who has the necessary facilities to provide maintenance, repair and storage services to PROGRAM equipment and provides extensive marketing efforts in order to reemploy PROGRAM equipment may be considered to be operating equipment on behalf of the PROGRAM. A PROGRAM which enters into vendor leasing agreements with manufacturers of equipment will not be considered to be operating equipment on behalf of the PROGRAM.

F. Resale Fee.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

1. In SPECIFIED EQUIPMENT PROGRAMS, the total compensation paid to the SPONSOR for the sale of PROGRAM equipment shall be limited to one-half of the COMPETITIVE EQUIPMENT SALE COMMISSION, subordinated as in Section D.1.b. above. If such amount exceeds 3% of the contract sales price, the SPONSOR shall state the current COMPETITIVE EQUIPMENT SALE COMMISSION, the basis upon which such was determined, and the method to be used in establishing the COMPETITIVE EQUIPMENT SALE COMMISSION at the time of sale. The total of all such commissions paid to all PERSONS shall not exceed the COMPETITIVE EQUIPMENT SALE COMMISSION.

2. In all other PROGRAMS, the total compensation paid to the SPONSOR for the sale of PROGRAM equipment shall be limited to one-half of a COMPETITIVE EQUIPMENT SALE COMMISSION, not to exceed 3% of the contract sales price and subordinated as in Section D.1.b. above. In no event shall total commissions paid to all persons exceed the COMPETITIVE EQUIPMENT SALE COMMISSION. If the SPONSOR participates with an independent broker on resale, the subordination requirement shall apply only to the commission earned by the SPONSOR.

G. Re-Leasing Services. Subject to the provisions of Section V.G.2.b. and 3., the SPONSOR may provide re-leasing services to the PROGRAM if all of the following conditions are met:

1. The SPONSOR represents that it has and will maintain adequate staff which it will utilize in rendering such services to the PROGRAM.

2. The services will be provided at a price that does not exceed the lesser of the competitive rate for comparable services for similar equipment or 2% of gross rental payments derived from the re-lease of such equipment after the time that the re-lease of such equipment has been consummated as a result of the efforts of the SPONSOR. Such payment for services shall be paid as each rental payment is made over the term of the lease.

3. The SPONSOR may not be paid or reimbursed for re-leasing services where the equipment is re-leased to a previous lessee of AFFILIATES of such lessee.

4. The SPONSOR has rendered substantial re-leasing services in connection with such re-lease.

5. The SPONSOR is compensated for rendering EQUIPMENT MANAGEMENT services pursuant to paragraphs 1., 2., or 3. of section IV.E.

V. CONFLICTS OF INTEREST AND INVESTMENT RESTRICTIONS.A. Sales and Leases to or from PROGRAM.

1. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph 2. the SPONSOR may purchase equipment in its own name (and assume loans in connection therewith) and hold title thereto on a temporary or interim basis (generally not in excess of six months) for the purpose of facilitating the acquisition of such equipment or the borrowing of money or obtaining of financing for the PROGRAM, or any other purpose related to the business of the PROGRAM, provided: (a) it is in the best interest of the PROGRAM; (b) such equipment is purchased by the PROGRAM for a price no greater than the cost of such equipment to the SPONSOR, except compensation in accordance with Section IV. of these Guidelines; (c) there is no difference in interest terms of the loans secured by the equipment at the time acquired by the SPONSOR and the time acquired by the PROGRAM; and (d) no other benefit arises out of such transaction to the SPONSOR apart from compensation otherwise permitted by these Guidelines.

COMMENT:

"Cost" is interpreted to mean the reasonable, necessary and actual expenses incurred by the SPONSOR or its AFFILIATES, as determined in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, in holding title to equipment on a temporary or interim basis.

2. The PROGRAM shall not purchase or lease equipment from nor sell or lease equipment to, the SPONSOR, including equipment in which the SPONSOR has an interest, except that the PROGRAM may lease equipment to the SPONSOR under a lease arrangement made at the outset and on terms no more favorable to the SPONSOR than those offered other PERSONS and fully described in the PROSPECTUS. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the PROGRAM may purchase new equipment from the SPONSOR if such PERSON is in the business of manufacturing and selling such equipment to PERSONS not affiliated with the PROGRAM, the transaction occurs at the formation of a SPECIFIED EQUIPMENT PROGRAM and the terms thereof are fully described in the PROSPECTUS, the equipment is sold at the lower of manufacturer's cost without mark-up or fair market value, and the equipment is subject to a prearranged lease. Such equipment may not be leased to the SPONSOR.

COMMENT:

The term "manufacturer's cost without mark-up", is used to insure that profits, if any, to be earned by the manufacturer should come from the promotional interest of the manufacturer/SPONSOR/

The prohibition in the last sentence of this section is based on the significant conflict of interest which exists where a SPONSOR manufacturers equipment, sells it to a limited partnership of which it is the general partner, and then leases it to an operating AFFILIATE.

3. If the PROGRAM has been formed for the primary purpose of financing equipment to be ultimately used by the SPONSOR in its business, the SPONSOR shall have the right to purchase the equipment at the time of sale at fair market value as determined in a commercially reasonable manner. Such purchase price shall be not less than that established by an independent appraiser. However, the sale may not take place until any applicable investment tax credit is no longer subject to recapture from PARTICIPANTS unless the SPONSOR indemnifies the PROGRAM.

B. Loans. No loans may be made by the PROGRAM to the SPONSOR.

C. Dealings with Related PROGRAMS. A PROGRAM shall not acquire equipment from a PROGRAM in which the SPONSOR has an interest.

D. Exchange of PROGRAM INTERESTS. The PROGRAM may not acquire equipment in exchange for PROGRAM INTERESTS, except for equipment which is described in the PROSPECTUS which will be exchanged immediately upon effectiveness. In addition, such exchange shall meet the following conditions:

1. A provision for such exchange must be set forth in the PROGRAM agreement, and appropriate disclosure as to tax effects of such exchange must be set forth in the PROSPECTUS;

2. The equipment to be acquired must come within the objectives of the PROGRAM;

3. The purchase price assigned to the equipment shall be no higher than the value supported by an appraisal prepared by an independent qualified appraiser;

4. Each PROGRAM interest must be valued at no less than market value if there is a market or if there is no market, fair market value of the PROGRAM's assets as determined by an independent appraiser within the last 90 days, less its liabilities, divided by the number of PROGRAM INTERESTS outstanding;

5. No more than one-half of the PROGRAM INTERESTS issued by the PROGRAM shall have been issued in exchange for equipment;

6. No securities sales or underwriting commissions shall be paid in connection with such exchange.

E. Exclusive Agreement. A PROGRAM shall not give the SPONSOR an exclusive right to sell or exclusive employment to sell equipment for the PROGRAM.

F. Commissions on Financing, Refinancing, Reinvestment or Distribution. A PROGRAM shall not pay, directly or indirectly, a commission or fee (except as permitted under Section IV.) to a SPONSOR in connection with the reinvestment or distribution of CASH AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION or of the proceeds of the resale, exchange, or refinancing of PROGRAM equipment.

G. Services Rendered to the PROGRAM by the SPONSOR.

1. Expenses of the PROGRAM.

a. All expenses of the PROGRAM shall be billed directly to and paid by the PROGRAM. The SPONSOR may be reimbursed for the actual cost of goods and materials used for or by the PROGRAM and obtained from entities unaffiliated with the SPONSOR. The SPONSOR may be reimbursed for the administrative services necessary to the prudent operation of the PROGRAM provided that the reimbursement shall be at the lower of the SPONSOR'S actual cost or the amount the PROGRAM would be required to pay to independent parties for comparable administrative services in the same geographic location. No reimbursement shall be permitted for services for which the SPONSOR is entitled to compensation by way of a separate fee. Excluded from the allowable reimbursement (except as permitted under Section IV.C) shall be:

(1) rent or depreciation, utilities, capital equipment, other administrative items; and

(2) salaries, fringe benefits, travel expenses, and other administrative items incurred or allocated to any controlling person of the SPONSOR.

b. Controlling PERSON, for purposes of this subsection, includes but is not limited to, all PERSONS, whatever their titles, who perform functions for the SPONSOR similar to those of:

(1) Chairman or member of the Board of Directors;

(2) Executive Management, such as the

(a) President,

(b) Vice-President or Senior Vice-President,

(c) Corporate Secretary,

(d) Treasurer;

(3) Senior Management, such as the Vice-President of an operating division who reports directly to Executive Management; or

(4) Those holding 5% or more equity interest in the SPONSOR or a PERSON having the power to direct or cause the direction of the SPONSOR, whether through the ownership of voting securities, by contract, or otherwise.

c. The annual PROGRAM report must contain a breakdown of the costs reimbursed to the SPONSOR. Within the scope of the annual audit of the SPONSOR's financial statements, the independent certified public accountants must issue a special report on the allocation of such costs to the PROGRAM in accordance with the PROGRAM agreement. The special report shall at minimum provide:

(1) A review of the time records of individual employees, the costs of whose services were reimbursed;

(2) A review of the specific nature of the work performed by each such employee.

The special report shall be in accordance with the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants United States Auditing standards relating to special reports. The additional costs of such special report will be itemized by said accountants on a PROGRAM by PROGRAM basis and may be reimbursed to the SPONSOR by the PROGRAM in accordance with this subparagraph only to the extent that such reimbursement, when added to the cost for administrative services rendered does not exceed the competitive rate for such services as determined above.

COMMENT:

The following is an illustration of a report prepared by ABC Accountants expressing an opinion on reimbursed costs of XYZ Program:

We have examined the schedule of costs reimbursed as defined in the PROGRAM Agreement dated _____ of XYZ Program for the year ended 12-31-_____. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and, accordingly, included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, the schedule of costs reimbursed referred to above presents fairly the costs reimbursed of XYZ Program for the year ended 12-31-_____, on the basis specified in the PROGRAM agreement referred to above.

d. The PROSPECTUS must disclose in tabular form an estimate of such proposed expenses for the next fiscal year together with a breakdown by year of such expenses reimbursed in each of the last five public programs formed by the SPONSOR.

COMMENT:

This section permits the SPONSOR to be reimbursed for a portion of the costs incurred in performing certain administrative functions for the PROGRAM provided the SPONSOR is both qualified to perform such functions and does so at a cost no greater to the PROGRAM than that which an unaffiliated PERSON would charge the PROGRAM. Regardless of the capacity in which controlling persons of the SPONSOR serve the PROGRAM, their salaries may not be allocated to the PROGRAM.

2. Other Services. The SPONSOR may provide other services for the PROGRAM, if necessary. At a minimum, self-dealing arrangements must meet the following criteria:

a. The compensation, price or fee charged for providing such services must be comparable and competitive with the compensation, price or fee of any other PERSON who is rendering comparable services or selling or leasing comparable goods and materials which could reasonably be made available to the PROGRAM, and

b. The fees and other terms of the contract shall be fully disclosed, and

c. The SPONSOR must be independently engaged in the business of providing such services to other than AFFILIATES and at least 75% of the PERSON's gross revenue from providing such services must be derived from other than the SPONSOR.

3. Contracts for Goods and Services. All services or goods for which the SPONSOR is to receive compensation shall be embodied in a written contract which precisely describes the services to be rendered and all compensation to be paid. The contract may only be modified by vote of a majority of the then outstanding PROGRAM INTERESTS. The contract shall contain a clause allowing termination without penalty on 60 days notice.

H. Rebates, Kickbacks and Reciprocal Arrangements.

1. No rebates or give-ups may be received by the SPONSOR nor may the SPONSOR participate in any reciprocal business arrangements which would circumvent these guidelines. Furthermore, the PROSPECTUS and PROGRAM charter documents shall contain language prohibiting the above as well as language prohibiting reciprocal business arrangements which would circumvent the restrictions against dealing with AFFILIATES.

2. No SPONSOR shall directly or indirectly pay or award any commissions or other compensation to any PERSON engaged by a potential investor for investment advice as an inducement to such advisor to advise the purchaser of interests in a particular PROGRAM; provided, however, that this clause shall not prohibit the normal sales commissions payable to a registered broker-dealer or other properly licensed PERSON for selling PROGRAM INTERESTS.

I. Commingling of Funds. The funds of a PROGRAM shall not be commingled with the funds of any other PERSON. Nothing contained in this Section shall prohibit a SPONSOR from establishing a master fiduciary account pursuant to which separate subtrust accounts are established for the benefit of affiliated limited partnerships, provided, that PROGRAM funds are protected from claims of such other partnerships and/or creditors. The prohibition of this Section shall not apply to investments meeting the requirements of Section V.J.

J. Investments in Other PROGRAMS.

1. Investments in limited partnership interests of another PROGRAM shall be prohibited; however, nothing herein shall preclude the investment in general partnerships or ventures which own and operate specific equipment provided the PROGRAM acquires a controlling interest in such other ventures or general partnerships and the non-controlling interest is owned by a non-AFFILIATE. In such event, duplicate fees shall not be permitted.

2. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the PROGRAM shall be permitted to invest in joint venture arrangements with other PROGRAMS formed by the SPONSOR, if such action is in the best interest of all PROGRAMS and if all of the following conditions are met:

- a. The PROGRAMS have substantially identical investment objectives;
- b. There are no duplicate fees;
- c. The SPONSOR compensation should be substantially identical in each PROGRAM;
- d. The PROGRAM must have a right of first refusal to buy if another PROGRAM desires to sell equipment held in the joint venture;
- e. The investment of each PROGRAM is on substantially the same terms and conditions;

f. The joint venture is done either for the purpose of effecting appropriate diversification for such PROGRAMS or for the purpose of relieving the SPONSOR from a commitment entered into pursuant to Section V.A.1;

g. The PROSPECTUS must disclose the potential risk of impasse on joint venture decisions since neither PROGRAM controls and the potential risk that while one PROGRAM may buy the equipment from the other joint venturer in the event of a sale, it may not have the resources to do so.

COMMENT:

In certain situations, it would be to the advantage of the PROGRAM to be able to invest in a joint venture with other PROGRAMS when no PROGRAM has sufficient money to make the entire investment even if the PROGRAM does not acquire a controlling interest. However, in order to provide the necessary protections, there is a need not only to require full disclosure of the joint venture arrangements, but also to set out substantive standards that must be adhered to in order to assure these protections.

K. Lending Practices. When financing is made available to the PROGRAM by the SPONSOR, the SPONSOR may not receive interest and other financing charges or fees in excess of the amounts which would be charged by unrelated lending institutions on comparable loans for the same purpose. The SPONSOR shall be prohibited from providing permanent financing for the PROGRAM. For purposes of this section, permanent financing shall mean any financing with a term in excess of twelve months.

L. Minimum Capitalization. Before commencing business all PROGRAMS, other than SPECIFIED EQUIPMENT PROGRAMS, shall provide for gross proceeds from the offering of not less than $1,000,000 after payment of all ORGANIZATIONAL and OFFERING EXPENSES. An escrow of funds may be required to guarantee this minimum.

M. Statement of Investment Objectives. The PROSPECTUS must state specific investment objectives of the PROGRAM. It should indicate whether the primary objective is to obtain current income, tax benefits or capital appreciation for its PARTICIPANTS. The PROSPECTUS shall state the general types of equipment to be acquired and shall indicate whether the equipment will be leased under FULL PAYOUT LEASES or OPERATING LEASES or whether the PROGRAM will operate the equipment itself. The size, scope and risk factors of such investment shall be consistent with the objectives of the PROGRAM.

N. Multiple Programs. SPONSORS are prohibited from offering for sale PROGRAM INTERESTS in more than one PROGRAM simultaneously unless the PROGRAMS have different investment objectives or are SPECIFIED EQUIPMENT PROGRAMS. The method for allocating investment opportunities among PROGRAMS of the SPONSOR seeking to acquire similar types of equipment shall be reasonable. The method shall be described in the PROSPECTUS.

COMMENT:

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

This section should not be read so as to prohibit the serial offering of PROGRAMS pursuant to a single SEC Registration Statement.

O. Period of Offering and Expenditure of Proceeds. The offering period of PROGRAM interests in a PROGRAM may not exceed one year from the date of effectiveness unless permitted by the ADMINISTRATOR. While the proceeds of an offering are awaiting investment in equipment, the proceeds may be temporarily placed into short-term, highly liquid investments which afford appropriate safety of principal, such as U.S. Treasury Bonds or Bills. Any proceeds of the offering of PROGRAM INTERESTS not committed for investment within two (2) years from the date of effectiveness (except for necessary operating capital) shall be distributed pro rata to the PARTICIPANTS as a return of capital.

COMMENT:

For purposes of this section the date of effectiveness is generally considered the date of SEC effectiveness for the initial partnership in a series PROGRAM. For subsequent partnerships in the series, the date of effectiveness will be when the partnership commences its offering.

P. Assessments, Installment Payments, Warrants, Options, or Other Staged or Deferred Payments. Plans calling for assessments, installment payments, warrants, options, or other staged or deferred payments shall not be allowed in other than SPECIFIED EQUIPMENT PROGRAMS.

Q. Distributions in Kind. Distributions in kind shall not be permitted except upon dissolution and liquidation, and then only to a liquidating trust which has been established for the purpose of the liquidation of the assets of the PROGRAM, and the distribution of cash in accordance with the terms of the PROGRAM agreement.

R. Appraisal and Compensation.

1. In connection with a proposed ROLL-UP, an appraisal of all PROGRAM assets shall be obtained from a competent, INDEPENDENT EXPERT. If the appraisal will be included in a PROSPECTUS used to offer the securities of a ROLL-UP ENTITY, the appraisal shall be filed with the SEC and the states as an Exhibit to the Registration Statement for the offering. Accordingly, an issuer using the appraisal shall be subject to liability for violation of Section 11 of the Securities Act of 1933 and comparable provisions under state laws for any material misrepresentations or material omissions in the appraisal. PROGRAM assets shall be appraised on a consistent basis. The appraisal shall be based on an evaluation of all relevant information, and shall indicate the value of the PROGRAM'S assets as of a date immediately prior to the announcement of the proposed ROLL-UP transaction. The appraisal shall assume an orderly liquidation of PROGRAM assets over a 12 month period. The terms of the engagement of the INDEPENDENT EXPERT shall clearly state that the engagement is for the benefit of the PROGRAM and its PARTICIPANTS. A summary of the independent appraisal, indicating all material assumptions underlying the appraisal, shall be included in a report to the PARTICIPANTS in connection with a proposed ROLL-UP.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

2. In connection with a proposed ROLL-UP, the PERSON sponsoring the ROLL-UP shall offer to PARTICIPANTS who vote "no" on the proposal the choice of:

(a) accepting the securities of the ROLL-UP ENTITY offered in the proposed ROLL-UP; or

(b) one of the following:

(i) remaining as PARTICIPANTS in the PROGRAM, and preserving their interests therein on the same terms and conditions as existed previously; or

(ii) receiving cash in an amount equal to the PARTICIPANTS' pro-rata share of the appraised value of the net assets of the PROGRAM.

COMMENT:

With respect to the options specified in Subsection V.R.2.(b), the PERSON sponsoring the ROLL-UP needs only offer one of these alternatives to dissenting investors who do not wish to accept the security of the ROLL-UP ENTITY.

3. The PROGRAM shall not participate in any proposed ROLL-UP which would result in PARTICIPANTS having democracy rights in the ROLL-UP ENTITY which are less than those provided for under Sections VI.A. and VI.B. of these Guidelines. If the ROLL-UP ENTITY is a corporation, the voting rights of PARTICIPANTS shall correspond to the voting rights provided for in these Guidelines to the greatest extent possible.

4. The PROGRAM shall not participate in any proposed ROLL-UP which includes provisions which would operate to materially impede or frustrate the accumulation of shares by any purchaser of the securities of the ROLL-UP ENTITY (except to the minimum extent necessary to preserve the tax status of the ROLL-UP ENTITY). The PROGRAM shall not participate in any proposed ROLL-UP which would limit the ability of a PARTICIPANT to exercise the voting rights of its securities of the ROLL-UP ENTITY on the basis of the number of PROGRAM INTERESTS held by that PARTICIPANT.

5. The PROGRAM shall not participate in any proposed ROLL-UP in which PARTICIPANTS' rights of access to the records of the ROLL-UP ENTITY will be less than those provided for under Section VI.D. of these Guidelines.

6. The PROGRAM shall not participate in any proposed ROLL-UP in which any of the costs of the transaction would be borne by the PROGRAM if the ROLL-UP is not approved by PARTICIPANTS.

VI. RIGHTS AND OBLIGATIONS OF PARTICIPANTS.

A. Meetings. Meetings of the PROGRAM may be called by the SPONSOR or the PARTICIPANTS holding more than 10% of the then outstanding PROGRAM INTERESTS, for any matters for which the PARTICIPANTS may vote as set forth in the PROGRAM agreement. Upon receipt of a written request, either in person or by registered mail, stating the purpose(s) of the meeting, the SPONSOR shall provide all PARTICIPANTS within ten days after receipt of said request, written notice (either in person or by certified mail) of a meeting and the purpose of such meeting to be held on a date not less than fifteen nor more than sixty days after distribution of such notice, at the time and place specified in the request, or if none, at a time and place convenient to PARTICIPANTS.

B. Voting Rights of PARTICIPANTS. The limited partnership agreement must provide that a majority of the then outstanding PROGRAM INTERESTS may, without the necessity of concurrence by the SPONSOR, vote to (1) amend the limited partnership agreement, (2) dissolve the PROGRAM, (3) remove the SPONSOR and elect a new SPONSOR, (4) approve or disapprove the sale of all or substantially all of the assets of the PROGRAM except pursuant to a plan disclosed in the final PROSPECTUS. The agreement should provide for a successor SPONSOR where the only SPONSOR of the PROGRAM is an individual. With respect to any PROGRAM INTERESTS owned by the SPONSOR, the SPONSOR may not vote or consent on matters submitted to the PARTICIPANTS regarding the removal of the SPONSOR or regarding any transaction between the PROGRAM and the SPONSOR. In determining the requisite percentage in interest of PROGRAM INTERESTS necessary to approve a matter on which the sponsor may not vote or consent, any PROGRAM INTERESTS owned by the SPONSOR shall not be included.

COMMENT:

The exercise of voting rights by PARTICIPANTS shall not be restricted or subject to satisfaction of conditions prior to the exercise of the rights.

C. Reports. The PROGRAM agreement shall provide that the SPONSOR shall prepare and distribute to PARTICIPANTS the following reports:

1. For other than SPECIFIED EQUIPMENT PROGRAMS, a report of equipment acquisitions made during each quarter shall be sent to all PARTICIPANTS within sixty days following the end of each quarter, until the proceeds of the offering are fully invested or returned to the PARTICIPANTS, as set out in Section V.O. of these Guidelines. Such reports shall include, by way of illustration and not limitation, a statement of the actual PURCHASE PRICE OF EQUIPMENT, including terms of the purchase, a statement of the total amount of cash expended by the PROGRAM to acquire such items of equipment (including and itemizing all commissions, fees, expenses and the name of each payee), and a statement of the amount of proceeds in the PROGRAM which remain unexpended or uncommitted.

2. In the case of a PROGRAM registered under Section 12(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, within sixty days after the end of each quarter of the PROGRAM, a report containing the same financial information contained in the PROGRAM's Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q filed by the PROGRAM under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

3. In the case of all other PROGRAMS, within sixty days of the end of the first six months of each fiscal year, a report, prepared on the same accounting basis to be utilized in the annual reports, containing:

- a. a condensed balance sheet, which may be unaudited;
- b. a condensed statement of income for the period then ended, which may be unaudited;
- c. a CASH FLOW statement for the period then ended, which may be unaudited; and
- d. other pertinent material regarding the PROGRAM and its activities during the quarter covered by the report.

4. In the case of all PROGRAMS, within seventy-five days after the end of each PROGRAM's fiscal year, all information necessary for the preparation of the PARTICIPANTS' federal income tax returns.

5. In the case of all PROGRAMS, within 120 days after the end of each PROGRAM's year, an annual report containing: (i) a balance sheet as of the end of its fiscal year and statements of income, partners' equity, and changes in financial position and a CASH FLOW statement, for the year then ended, all of which, except the CASH FLOW statement, shall be prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and accompanied by an auditor's report containing an opinion of an independent certified public accountant, (ii) where forecasts have been provided to the holders of PROGRAM interests, a table comparing the forecasts previously provided with the actual results during the period covered by the report, and (iii) a breakdown of distributions to PARTICIPANTS for the period covered thereby separately identifying distributions from: (1) CASH FLOW from operations during the period, (2) CASH FLOW from operations during a prior period which had been held as reserves, (3) proceeds from disposition of equipment and investments, and (4) reserves from the gross proceeds of the offering originally obtained from the PARTICIPANTS.

For each piece of equipment acquired by the PROGRAM which individually represents at least 10% of the PROGRAM's total investment in equipment, the SPONSOR shall include a status report as part of the annual report, which status report shall indicate: (i) condition of equipment, (ii) how equipment is being utilized as of the end of year (leased, operated, held for lease, repair, or sale), (iii) remaining term of leases, (iv) projected use of equipment for next year (renew lease, lease, retire, or sell), and (v) such other information relevant to the value or utilization of the equipment as the SPONSOR deems appropriate. The status report shall describe the method used or basis for valuation.

6. If ASSESSMENTS have been made during any period covered by any report required by paragraphs 2., 3., and 5.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

hereof, then such report shall contain a detailed statement of such ASSESSMENTS and the application of the proceeds derived from such ASSESSMENTS.

7. If any SPONSOR receives fees for services, it shall, within sixty days of the end of each quarter wherein such fees were received, send to each PARTICIPANT a detailed statement setting forth the services rendered, or to be rendered, by such SPONSOR and the amount of the fees received. This requirement may not be circumvented by lump-sum payments to management companies or other entities who then disburse the funds.

8. The SPONSOR shall undertake to make any of the reports required by paragraphs 1. through 7. available to the ADMINISTRATOR upon request.

D. Access to Records. Any PARTICIPANT and any designated representative thereof shall be permitted access to all records of the PROGRAM at all reasonable times, and may inspect and copy any of them. The limited partnership agreement, by-laws, or other PROGRAM agreement shall include the following provisions regarding access to the list of PARTICIPANTS:

1. An alphabetical list of the names, addresses, and business telephone numbers of the PARTICIPANTS of the PROGRAM along with the number of PROGRAM INTERESTS held by each of them (the "PARTICIPANT List") shall be maintained as a part of the books and records of the PROGRAM and shall be available for inspection by any PARTICIPANT or its designated agent at the home office of the Program upon the request of the PARTICIPANT;

2. The PARTICIPANT List shall be updated at least quarterly to reflect changes in the information contained therein;

3. A copy of the PARTICIPANT List shall be mailed to any PARTICIPANT requesting the PARTICIPANT List within ten days of the request. The copy of the PARTICIPANT List shall be printed in alphabetical order, on white paper, and in a readily readable type size (in no event smaller than 10-point type). A reasonable charge for copy work may be charged by the PROGRAM;

4. The purposes for which a PARTICIPANT may request a copy of the PARTICIPANT List include, without limitation, matters relating to PARTICIPANTS' voting rights under the PROGRAM agreement, and the exercise of PARTICIPANTS' rights under federal proxy laws; and

5. If the SPONSOR of the PROGRAM neglects or refuses to exhibit, produce, or mail a copy of the PARTICIPANT List as requested, the SPONSOR shall be liable to any PARTICIPANT requesting the list for the costs, including attorneys' fees, incurred by that PARTICIPANT for compelling the production of the PARTICIPANT List, and for actual damages suffered by any PARTICIPANT by reason of such refusal or neglect. It shall be a defense that the actual purpose and reason for the requests for inspection or for a copy of the PARTICIPANT List is to secure such list of PARTICIPANTS or other information for the purpose of selling such list or copies thereof, or of using the same for a commercial purpose other than in the interest of the applicant as a PARTICIPANT relative to the affairs of the PROGRAM. The SPONSOR may require the PARTICIPANT requesting the PARTICIPANT List to represent that the list is not requested for a commercial purpose unrelated to the PARTICIPANT'S interest in the PROGRAM. The remedies provided hereunder to PARTICIPANTS requesting copies of the PARTICIPANT List are in addition to, and shall not in any way limit, other remedies available to PARTICIPANTS under federal law, or the laws of any state.

E. ASSESSMENTS and Defaults.

1. ASSESSMENTS. In appropriate cases there may be a provision for voluntary assessability in SPECIFIED EQUIPMENT PROGRAMS, provided however, that the maximum amount for such voluntary ASSESSMENTS shall not exceed 100% of initial CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS. The ASSESSMENTS shall be made solely for or relating to equipment already acquired, when the SPONSOR has determined that the additional expenditures are allowed and in the best interests of the PROGRAM. Examples of expenditures which may be merited include expenditures for extraordinary repairs when such expenditures will not exceed the value of benefits to be derived from the equipment after repair or when anticipated CASH FLOW from equipment is not sufficient to pay taxes and/or special assessments imposed by governmental or quasi-governmental units.

2. Defaults. In the event of a default in the payment of ASSESSMENTS by PARTICIPANTS, their interests shall not be subject to forfeiture, but they may be subject to a reasonable penalty for failure to meet their commitments. This may take the form of reducing their proportionate interests in the PROGRAM, subordinating their interests to that of non-defaulting PARTICIPANTS, a forced sale complying with applicable procedures for notice and sale, the lending of the amount necessary to meet their commitment(s) by the other PARTICIPANTS or a fixing of the value of their interests by independent appraisal or other suitable formula with provision for a delayed payment to them for their interests for a reasonable period. A debt security issued for such interest(s) should not have a claim prior to that of the other PARTICIPANTS in the event of liquidation.

F. Admission of PARTICIPANTS. Admission of PARTICIPANTS to the PROGRAM shall be subject to the following:

1. Admission of Original PARTICIPANTS. Upon the original sale of PROGRAM INTERESTS, the purchasers should be admitted as PARTICIPANTS not later than 15 days after the release from impound of the purchaser's funds to the PROGRAM. Thereafter, purchasers should be admitted into the PROGRAM not later than the last day of the calendar month following the date their subscription was accepted by the PROGRAM. Subsequent subscriptions shall be accepted or rejected by the PROGRAM within 30 days of their receipt; if rejected, all subscription monies should be returned to the subscriber immediately.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

2. Admission of Substituted PARTICIPANTS and Recognition of Assignees. The PROGRAM shall amend the PROGRAM agreement at least once each calendar quarter to effect the substitution of substituted PARTICIPANTS, although the SPONSOR may elect to do so more frequently.

In the case of assignments where the assignee does not become a substituted PARTICIPANT, the PROGRAM shall recognize the assignment not later than the last day of the calendar month following receipt of notice of assignment and required documentation..

3. Except where deemed inappropriate by the ADMINISTRATOR, PERSONS holding PROGRAM INTERESTS by assignment from entities holding limited partnership interests in a PROGRAM for the purpose of assigning all or a portion of such interests to PERSONS investing in such PROGRAM (hereinafter the "Assignor") shall be expressly granted the same rights as if they were limited partners except as prohibited by applicable law, including but not limited to, the rights enumerated under Article VI of this Statement of Policy.

The assignment agreement and PROSPECTUS shall provide that the Assignor's management shall have fiduciary responsibility for the safekeeping and use of all funds and assets of the assignees, whether or not in the Assignor management's possession or control, and that the management of the Assignor shall not employ, or permit another to employ such funds or assets in any manner except for the exclusive benefit of the assignees. In addition, the agreement shall not permit the assignees to contract away the fiduciary duty owed to the assignees by the Assignor's management under the common law of agency.

G. Redemption of PROGRAM INTERESTS. Ordinarily, the PROGRAM and the SPONSOR are not obligated to redeem or repurchase any of the PROGRAM INTERESTS. However, the PROGRAM and the SPONSOR are not precluded from voluntarily repurchasing or redeeming the PROGRAM INTERESTS if such repurchase or redemption does not impair the capital or operations of the PROGRAM. A PROGRAM may provide for mandatory redemption rights under the following circumstances:

1. death or legal incapacity of the owner; or,

2. a substantial reduction in the owner's NET WORTH or income provided that (i) the PROGRAM has sufficient cash to make the purchase, (ii) the purchase will not be in violation of applicable legal requirements and (iii) not more than 15% of the outstanding units are purchased in any year.

A penalty may be assessed on the redemption of the interest if the penalty accrues to the benefit of the PROGRAM. The SPONSOR is prohibited from receiving a fee on the redemption of PROGRAM INTERESTS by the PROGRAM.

COMMENT:

This will not preclude the PROGRAM, the SPONSOR or the PARTICIPANTS from purchasing these interests at a reduced cost for their own account so long as the method for repurchase is fully disclosed in the PROSPECTUS and the PROGRAM agreement. This section applies to both voluntary and mandatory redemptions.

H. Transferability of PROGRAM INTEREST. Restrictions on assignment of limited partnership interests or a substitution of limited partners are generally disfavored and such restrictions will be allowed only to the extent necessary to preserve the tax status of the partnership or the characterization or treatment of income or loss. Any restriction must be affirmatively supported by an Opinion of Counsel. A charge may be imposed by the PROGRAM to cover its actual, necessary and reasonable administrative and filing expenses incurred in connection with a transfer. Such a charge shall be disclosed in the PROSPECTUS.

VII. DISCLOSURE AND MARKETING REQUIREMENTS.

A. Sales Promotional Efforts.

1. Sales Literature. Sales literature, sales presentations (including prepared presentations to prospective PARTICIPANTS at group meetings) and advertising used in the offer or sale of PROGRAM INTERESTS shall conform in all applicable respects to requirements of filing, disclosure and adequacy currently imposed on sales literature, sales presentations and advertising used in the sale of securities other than PROGRAM INTERESTS.

2. Group Meetings. All advertisements of and oral or written invitations to "seminars" or other group meetings at which PROGRAM INTERESTS are to be described, offered or sold shall clearly indicate that the purpose of such meetings is to offer such PROGRAM INTERESTS for sale, the minimum purchase price thereof, and the name of the SPONSOR, underwriter or selling agent. No cash, merchandise or other item of value shall be offered as an inducement to any prospective PARTICIPANTS to attend any such meeting. In connection with the offer or sale of PROGRAM INTERESTS, no general offer shall be made of "free" or "bargain price" trips to view equipment in which the PROGRAM has invested or intends to invest. All written or prepared audiovisual presentations (including scripts prepared in advance for oral presentations) to be made at such meetings must be submitted in advance to the ADMINISTRATOR not less than five business days prior to the use thereof. The foregoing restrictions shall not apply to meetings consisting only of representatives of securities broker-dealers.

B. PROSPECTUS and Its Contents.

1. Prospectus. A PROSPECTUS which is not part of a Registration Statement declared effective by the Securities and Exchange Commission pursuant to the Securities Act of 1933 shall generally conform to the disclosure requirements which would apply if the offering were so registered. The format and information requirements of Guide 5 promulgated by the Securities and Exchange Commission shall be followed, with appropriate adjustments made for the different business of the PROGRAM.

2. Forecasts.

a. Use of Forecasts. The presentation of predicted future results of operations of equipment PROGRAMS shall be permitted but not required for SPECIFIED EQUIPMENT PROGRAMS and shall be prohibited for all other PROGRAMS. The covers of the PROSPECTUS must contain in bold face language one of the following statements:

(1) for SPECIFIED EQUIPMENT PROGRAMS: "FORECASTS ARE CONTAINED IN THIS PROSPECTUS (OFFERING CIRCULAR). ANY PREDICTIONS AND REPRESENTATIONS, WRITTEN OR ORAL, WHICH DO NOT CONFORM TO THOSE CONTAINED IN THE PROSPECTUS (OFFERING CIRCULAR) SHALL NOT BE PERMITTED."

(2) for all other PROGRAMS: "THE USE OF FORECASTS IN THIS OFFERING IS PROHIBITED. ANY REPRESENTATIONS TO THE CONTRARY AND ANY PREDICTIONS, WRITTEN OR ORAL, AS TO THE AMOUNT OR CERTAINTY OF ANY PRESENT OR FUTURE CASH BENEFIT OR TAX CONSEQUENCE WHICH MAY FLOW FROM AN INVESTMENT IN THIS PROGRAM IS NOT PERMITTED."

b. Content of Forecasts. Forecasts for SPECIFIED EQUIPMENT PROGRAMS shall be included in the PROSPECTUS, offering circular or sales material of the PROGRAM only if they comply with the following requirements:

(1) General. Forecasts shall be realistic in their predictions and shall clearly identify the assumptions made with respect to all material features of the presentation. Forecasts should be examined by an independent certified public accountant in accordance with the Guide for Prospective Financial Statements and the Statement on Standards for Accountant's Services on Prospective Financial Information as promulgated by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. The report of the independent certified public accountant must be included in the PROSPECTUS. No forecasts shall be permitted in any sales literature which do not appear in the PROSPECTUS or offering circular. If any forecasts are included in the sales literature, all forecasts must be presented.

COMMENT:

If predicted future results of operations are used, they shall be prepared in the form of a forecast.

(2) Material Information. Forecasts shall include all the following information:

(a) Annual predicted revenue by source;

(b) Annual predicted expenses;

(c) Debt obligation--annual payments for principal and interest, points and financing fees, shown as dollars, not percentages;

(d) The required percentage of equipment on lease in order to meet debt service and all expenses;

(e) Predicted annual CASH FLOW, stating forecasted percentage of equipment on lease;

(f) Predicted annual depreciation and amortization with full description of methods to be used;

(g) Predicted annual taxable income or loss and a simplified explanation of the tax treatment of such results (assumed tax brackets may be used); and

(h) Accounting policies--e.g., with respect to points, financing costs and depreciation.

c. Presentation.

(1) Caveat. Forecasts shall prominently display a statement to the effect that they represent a mere prediction of future events based on assumptions which may or may not occur and should not be relied upon to indicate the actual results which will be obtained.

(2) Explanatory Notes. Explanatory notes describing assumptions made and referring to risk factors should be integrated with tabular and numerical information.

(3) Sale-leasebacks. When a sale-leaseback is employed, a statement that the seller is assuming the operating risk and consequently may have charged a higher price for the equipment must be included.

d. Additional Disclosures and Limitations.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

(1) Forecasts shall be for a period equivalent to the anticipated holding period for the equipment, or 5 years, whichever is shorter.

(2) Adequate disclosure shall be made of the changing economic effects upon the PARTICIPANTS resulting principally from federal income tax consequences over the life of the PROGRAM equipment, e.g., substantial tax losses in early years followed by increasing amounts of taxable income in later years.

(3) Forecasts shall disclose possible undesirable tax consequences of an early sale of the PROGRAM equipment (such as depreciation recapture or the failure to sell the equipment at a price which would return sufficient cash to meet resulting tax liabilities of the PARTICIPANTS).

(4) In computing the return to investors, no appreciation, so called "equity buildup", or any other benefits from unrealized gains or value shall be shown or included.

(5) Forecasts of a resale occurrence shall be permitted.

VIII. MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.

A. Fiduciary Duty. The PROGRAM agreement shall provide that the SPONSOR shall have fiduciary responsibility for the safekeeping and use of all funds and assets of the PROGRAM, whether or not in its immediate possession or control. The SPONSOR shall not employ, or permit another to employ such funds or assets in any manner except for the exclusive benefit of the PROGRAM.

In addition, the PROGRAM shall not permit the PARTICIPANT to contract away the fiduciary duty owed to the PARTICIPANT by the SPONSOR under the common law.

B. Deferred Payments. Arrangements for deferred payments on account of the purchase price of PROGRAM INTERESTS may be allowed when warranted by the investment objectives of the PROGRAM. Such arrangements shall be subject to the following conditions:

1. The period of deferred payments shall coincide with the anticipated cash needs of the PROGRAM;
2. Selling commissions paid upon deferred payments are collectible when payment is made on the note;

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

3. Deferred payments shall be evidenced by a promissory note of the investor. Such notes shall be with recourse and shall not be negotiable and shall be assignable only subject to defenses of the maker. Such notes shall not contain a provision authorizing a confession of judgment;

4. The PROGRAM shall not sell or assign the deferred obligation notes at a discount to meet financing needs of the PROGRAM;

5. In the event of a default in the payment of deferred payments by PARTICIPANTS, their interests may be subjected to a reasonable penalty, as set forth in Section VI.E.2. of these Guidelines.

C. Reserves. Provisions should be made for adequate reserves in the future by retention of a reasonable percentage of proceeds from the offering and regular receipts for normal repairs, replacements and contingencies. Normally, not less than 1% of the offering proceeds will be considered adequate.

D. Reinvestment of CASH AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION. Reinvestment of CASH AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION will be allowed if:

1. The PROGRAM's structure requires that CASH AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION be reinvested for all PARTICIPANTS upon the same terms.

COMMENT:

This prohibition is designed to prevent the creation of differing classes of limited partnership interests resulting from inequitable allocations of tax or economic benefits.

2. The cumulative return requirement in subsection IV.D shall be compounded daily. This policy should be contained in the PROSPECTUS.

E. Reinvestment of Proceeds on Disposition of Equipment. Reinvestment of proceeds resulting from the sale or refinancing of PROGRAM equipment may take place if sufficient cash will be distributed to pay state and federal income tax, if any, (assuming investors are in a specified tax bracket) created by the sale or refinancing of such equipment. This policy should be contained in the PROSPECTUS.

COMMENT:

Funds reinvested pursuant to Subsections VIII.D. and E. are not considered to be "investments" in the PROGRAM for purposes of calculating CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS.

F. Payments to Terminated Sponsors. Upon the occurrence of a terminating event, the partnership may be required to pay to the terminated SPONSOR all amounts then accrued and owing to the terminated SPONSOR. Additionally, the partnership may terminate the SPONSOR'S interest in partnership income, losses, distributions, and capital by payment of an amount equal to the then present fair market value of the terminated SPONSOR'S interest determined by agreement of the terminated SPONSOR and the partnership, or, if they cannot agree, by arbitration in accordance with the then current rules of the American Arbitration Association. The expense of arbitration shall be borne equally by the terminated SPONSOR and the partnership.

The method of payment to the terminated SPONSOR must be fair and must protect the solvency and liquidity of the partnership. When the termination is voluntary, the method of payment will be presumed to be fair if it provides for a non-interest bearing unsecured promissory note with principal payable, if at all, from distributions which the terminated SPONSOR otherwise would have received under the partnership agreement had the SPONSOR not terminated. When the termination is involuntary, the method of payment will be presumed to be fair if it provides for an interest bearing promissory note maturing in not less than five years with equal installments each year.

G. Provisions of PROGRAM Agreement. The requirements and/or provisions of appropriate portions of the following sections shall be included in the PROGRAM agreement: II.D; IV.D; IV.E; IV.F; IV.G; V.A; V.B; V.C; V.D; V.E; V.F; V.G; V.H; V.I; V.J; V.K; V.M; V.O; V.P; V.Q; VI.A; VI.B; VI.C; VI.D; VI.E; VI.F; VI.G; VIII.A; VIII.B.4; VIII.C; VIII.D; VIII.E; VIII.F.

Adopted September 22, 1976

North American Securities Administrators Association, Inc., amended October 12, 1977, October 31, 1979, April 23, 1983, July 1, 1984, September 3, 1987, and September 14, 1989; amended October 24, 1991; amended May 7, 2007

1. INTRODUCTION.

A. Application.

1. These guidelines apply to the registration and qualification of oil and gas programs, as defined in Section I.B.23 below, and will be applied by analogy to oil and gas programs in other forms, including but not limited to multi-tier structures. While applications not conforming to the standards contained herein shall be looked upon with disfavor, where good cause is shown certain guidelines may be modified or waived by the Administrator.

2. Where the individual characteristics of specific programs warrant modification from these standard, they will be accommodated, insofar as possible, while still being consistent with the spirit of the guidelines.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

B. Definitions. As used in the guidelines, the following terms mean:

1. Administrative Costs: All customary and routine expenses incurred by the conduct of program administration, including: legal, finance, accounting, secretarial travel, office rent, telephone, data processing and other items of a similar nature.

2. Administrator: The official or agency administering the securities laws of a state.

3. Affiliate: An affiliate of a specified person means (a) any person directly or indirectly owning, controlling, or holding with power to vote 10 percent or more of the outstanding voting securities of such specified person; (b) any person 10 percent or more of whose outstanding voting securities are directly or indirectly owned, controlled, or held with power to vote, by such specified person; (c) any person directly or indirectly controlling, controlled by, or under common control with such specified person; (d) any officer, director, trustee or partner of such specified person, and (e) if such specified person is an officer, director, trustee or partner, any person for which such person acts in any such capacity.

4. Assessments: Additional amounts of capital which may be mandatorily required of or paid voluntarily by a participant beyond his subscription commitment.

5. Capital Contributions: The total investment, including the original investment, assessments and amounts reinvested, in a program by a participant or by all participants, as the case may be.

6. Capital Expenditures: Those cost associated with property acquisition and the drilling and completion of oil and gas wells which are generally accepted as capital expenditures pursuant to the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code.

7. Carried Interest: An equity interest in a program issued to a person without consideration, in the form of cash or tangible property, in an amount proportionately equivalent to that received from the participants.

8. Cost: When used with respect to property in Section VI, means (a) the sum of the prices paid by the seller to an unaffiliated person for such property, including bonuses; (b) title insurance or examination costs, brokers' commissions, filing fees, recording costs, transfer taxes, if any, and like charges in connection with the acquisition of such property; (c) a pro rata portion of seller's actual necessary and reasonable expenses for seismic and geophysical services; and (d) rentals and ad valorem taxes paid by the seller with respect to such property to the date of its transfer to the buyer, interest and points actually incurred on funds used to acquire or maintain such property, and such portion of the seller's reasonable, necessary and actual expenses for geological, engineering, drafting, accounting legal and other like services allocated to the property cost in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles and industry standards, except for expenses in connection with the past drilling of wells which are not producers of sufficient quantities of oil and gas to make commercially reasonable their continued operations, and provided that the expenses enumerated in this subsection (d) hereof shall have been incurred not more than 36 months prior to the purchase by the program; provided that such period may be extended, at the discretion of the Administrator, upon proper justification. When used with respect to services, "cost" means the reasonable, necessary and actual expenses incurred by the seller on behalf of the program in providing such services, determined in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. As used elsewhere, "cost" means the price paid by the seller in an arm's-length transaction.

9. Development Well: A well drilled within the proved area of an oil or gas reservoir to the depth of a stratigraphic horizon known to be productive.

10. Direct Costs: All actual and necessary costs directly incurred for the benefit of the program and generally attributable to the goods and services provided to the program by parties other than the sponsor or its affiliates. Direct costs shall not include any cost otherwise classified as organization and offering expenses, administrative costs, or property costs. Direct costs may include the cost of services provided by the sponsor or its affiliates if such services are provided pursuant to written contracts and in compliance with Section V.B.8 of these guidelines.

11. Exploratory Well: A well drilled to find commercially productive hydrocarbons in an unproved area, to find a new commercially productive horizon in a field previously found to be productive of hydrocarbons at another horizon, or to significantly extend a known prospect.

12. Farmout: An agreement whereby the owner of the leasehold or working interest agrees to assign his interest in certain specific acreage to the assignees, retaining some interest such as an overriding royalty interest, an oil and gas payment, offset acreage or other type of interest, subject to the drilling of one or more specific wells or other performance as a condition of the assignment.

13. Horizon: A zone of a particular formation; that part of a formation of sufficient porosity and permeability to form a petroleum reservoir.

14. Independent Expert: A person with no material relationship to the sponsor who is qualified and who is in the business of rendering opinions regarding the value of oil and gas properties based upon the evaluation of all pertinent economic, financial, geologic and engineering information available to the sponsor.

15. Landowner's Royalty Interest: An interest in production, or the proceeds therefrom, to be received free and clear of all costs of development, operation, or maintenance, reserved by a landowner upon the creation of an oil and gas lease.

16. Non-Capital Expenditures: Those expenditures associated with property acquisition and the drilling and completion of oil and gas wells that under present law are generally accepted as fully deductible currently for federal income tax purposes.

17. Operating Costs: Expenditures made and costs incurred in producing and marketing oil or gas from completed wells, including, in addition to labor, fuel, repairs, hauling, materials, supplies, utility charges and other costs incident to or therefrom, ad valorem and severance taxes, insurance and casualty loss expense, and compensation to well operators or others for services rendered in conducting such operations.

18. Organization and Offering Expenses: All costs of organizing and selling the offering, including but not limited to, total underwriting and brokerage discounts and commissions (including fees of the underwriters' attorneys), expenses for printing, engraving, mailing, salaries of employees while engaged in sales activity, charges of transfer agents, registrars, trustees, escrow holders, depositories, engineers and their experts, expenses of qualification of the sale of the securities under Federal and State law, including taxes and fees, accountants' and attorneys' fees and other front-end fees.

19. Overriding Royalty Interest: An interest in the oil and gas produced pursuant to a specified oil and gas lease or leases, or the proceeds from the sale thereof, carved out of the working interest, to be received free and clear of all costs of development, operation, or maintenance.

20. Participant: The purchaser of a unit in the oil and gas program.

21. Person: Any natural person, partnership, corporation, association, trust or other legal entity.

22. Production Purchase or Income Program: Any program whose investment objective is to directly acquire, hold, operate and/or dispose of producing oil and gas properties. Such a program may acquire any type of ownership interest in a producing property, including but not limited to, working interests, royalties, or production payments. A program which spends at least 90% of capital contributions and funds borrowed (excluding offering and organizational expenses) in the above described activities is presumed to be a production purchase or income program.

23. Program: One or more limited or general partnerships or other investment vehicles formed, or to be formed, for the primary purpose of exploring for oil, gas and other hydrocarbon substances or investing in or holding any property interests which permit the exploration for or production of hydrocarbons or the receipt of such production or the proceeds thereof (a prospectus may offer a series of programs with individual programs being formed in sequence).

24. Prospect: An area covering lands which are believed by the sponsor to contain subsurface structural or stratigraphic conditions making it susceptible to the accumulations of hydrocarbons in commercially productive quantities at one or more horizons. The area, which may be different for different horizons, shall be designated by the sponsor in writing prior to the conduct of program operations and shall be enlarged or contracted from time to time on the basis of subsequently acquired information to define the anticipated limits of the associated hydrocarbon reserves and to include all acreage encompassed therein. A "prospect" with respect to a particular horizon may be limited to the minimum area permitted by state law or local practice, whichever is applicable, to protect against drainage from adjacent wells if the well to be drilled by the program is to a horizon containing proved reserves.

25. Proved Reserves: Those quantities of crude oil, natural gas, and natural gas liquids which, upon analysis of geologic and engineering data, appear with reasonable certainty to be recoverable in the future from known oil and gas reservoirs under existing economic and operating conditions. Proved reserves are limited to those quantities of oil and gas which can be expected, with little doubt, to be recoverable commercially at current prices and costs, under existing regulatory practices and with existing conventional equipment and operating methods. Depending upon their status of development, such proved reserves shall be subdivided into the following classifications:

(a) Proved Developed Reserves. These are proved reserves which can be expected to be recovered through existing wells with existing equipment and operating methods. This classification shall include:

(1) Proved Developed Producing Reserves. These are proved developed reserves which are expected to be produced from existing completion interval(s) now open for production in existing well, and

(2) Proved Developed Non-Producing Reserves. These are proved developed reserves which exist behind the casing of existing wells, or at minor depths below the present bottom of such wells, which are expected to be produced through these wells in a predictable future, where the cost of making such oil and gas available for production should be relatively small compared to the cost of a new well.

Additional oil and gas expected to be obtained through the application of fluid injection or other improved recovery techniques for supplementing the natural forces and mechanisms of primary recovery should be included as "Proved Developed Reserves" only after testing by a pilot project or after the operation of an installed program has confirmed through production response that increased recovery will be achieved.

(b) Proved Undeveloped Reserves. These are proved reserves which are expected to be recovered from new wells or undrilled acreage, or from existing wells where a relatively major expenditure is required for recompletion. Reserves on undrilled acreage shall be limited to those drilling units offsetting productive units, which are virtually certain of production when drilled. Proved reserves for other undrilled units can be claimed only where it can be demonstrated with certainty that there is continuity of production from the existing productive formation.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

Under no circumstances should estimates for proved undeveloped reserves be attributable to any acreage for which an application of fluid injection or other improved recovery technique is contemplated, unless such techniques have been proved effective by actual tests in the area and in the same reservoir. If warranted, however, a narrative discussion can be provided to point out those areas where future drilling or other operations may develop oil and gas production which at the time of filing is considered too uncertain to be expressed as numerical estimates for proved reserves.

26. Roll-Up: A transaction involving the acquisition, merger, conversion, or consolidation, either directly or indirectly, of the program and the issuance of securities of a roll-up entity. Such term does not include:

(a) a transaction involving securities of the program that have been listed for at least 12 months on a national exchange or traded through the National Association of Securities Dealers Automated Quotation National Market System; or

(b) a transaction involving the conversion to corporate, trust or association form of only the program if, as a consequence of the transaction, there will be no significant adverse change in any of the following:

(1) voting rights;

(2) the term of existence of the program;

(3) sponsor compensation; or

(4) the program's investment objectives.

27. Roll-Up Entity: A partnership, trust, corporation or other entity that would be created or survive after the successful completion of a proposed roll-up transaction.

28. Sponsor: Any person directly or indirectly instrumental in organizing, wholly or in part, a program or any person who will manage or is entitled to manage or participate in the management or control of a program. "Sponsor" includes the managing and controlling general partner(s) and any other person who actually controls or selects the person who controls 25% or more of the exploratory, developmental or producing activities of the program, or any segment thereof, even if that person has not entered into a contract at the time of formation of the program. "Sponsor" does not include wholly independent third parties such as attorneys, accountants, and underwriters whose only compensation is for professional services rendered in connection with the offering of units. Whenever the context of these guidelines so requires, the term "sponsor" shall be deemed to include its affiliates.

29. Subordinate Interest: An equity interest in a program issued to a person, without payment of full consideration, after the attainment of certain specified performance by the program.

30. Working Interest: An interest in an oil and gas leasehold which is subject to some portion of the costs of development, operation, or maintenance.

II. REQUIREMENTS OF SPONSOR.

A. Experience The sponsor or its chief operating officers shall have at least three years' relevant oil and gas experience demonstrating the knowledge and experience to carry out the stated program policies and to manage the program operations. Additionally, the sponsor or any affiliate providing services to the program shall have had not less than four years' relevant experience in the kind of service being rendered, or otherwise must demonstrate sufficient knowledge and experience to perform the services proposed. If any managerial responsibility for the program is to be rendered by persons other than the sponsor, then such persons must be identified in the prospectus, their experience must be similar to that required of a sponsor and must be set out in the prospectus, and a contract setting forth the basis of their relationship with the program must be filed with and not disapproved by the Administrator.

B. Net Worth:

1. The financial condition of the sponsor must be commensurate with any financial obligations assumed by it in connection with the offering and the operation of the program.

(a) For limited partnership offerings, the general partner must specifically have a minimum aggregate net worth at all times equal to 5% of participants' capital in all existing programs organized by the general partner plus 5% of total subscriptions in the program being offered, but such minimum required net worth shall in no case be less than $200,000 nor shall net worth in excess of $2 million be required.

(b) For general partnership offerings and other offerings in which investors are not provided statutory protection against unlimited liability, the managing or controlling general partner's net worth should be of a sufficient amount to adequately protect the participants against unreasonable exposure to program liabilities. Unless the Administrator establishes a different amount based upon mitigating factors, $5 million will be considered a presumptively reasonable net worth.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

2. For purposes of computing a managing or controlling general partner's net worth, 70% of the standardized measure of discounted future net cash flows relating to the proved oil and gas reserves, as determined by a qualified independent petroleum consultant, of a managing or controlling general partner may be used as an alternative to the stated value of the associated oil and gas properties on the sponsor's balance sheet. Reserves, notes and accounts receivables from all programs, interests in all programs, and all contingent liabilities will be scrutinized carefully to determine the appropriateness of their inclusion in the net worth computation. If an individual managing or controlling general partner's net worth is used in complying with the above requirements, a statement as to such net worth shall be included in the prospectus.

3. If more than one person acts or serves as managing or controlling general partner of a program, the net worth requirements may be met by aggregating the net worth of all such persons. In addition, the net worth of any guarantor of the managing or controlling general partner's obligations to or for the program may be included in the net worth computation, but only if the guarantor's liability is co-extensive with that of the managing or controlling general partner and the financial statements of the guarantor, prepared in accordance with the requirements of Section II.C of the guidelines, are furnished to the Administrator and made available to participants.

C. Financial Statements.

1. Managing or controlling general partners, other than individuals, shall provide to the Administrator and make available to participants, upon request, audited financial statements for the most recent fiscal year and unaudited financial statements for any interim period ending not more than 90 days prior to the date of filing the application; provided however, if the application is made in coordination with a Securities and Exchange Commission filing, the date of the financial statements may be not more than 135 days prior to the date of filing the registration application. The financial statements shall include, at a minimum, a balance sheet and a statement of operations. The statements shall be prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and the statements for the most recent fiscal year shall be accompanied by an audit report from an independent certified public accountant.

2. Individual managing or controlling general partners, whose net worth is being relied upon for purposes of demonstrating compliance with Section II.B of these guidelines, shall provide the Administrator and make available to participants a statement of financial condition as of a date not more than 90 days prior to the date of filing the application. The statement of financial condition shall be prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and accompanied by a review report from an independent certified public accountant.

D. Additional Requirements for General Partnership and Working Interests Programs. For offerings in which investors are not provided statutory protection against unlimited liability:

1. The sponsor shall agree to fully indemnify each participant against all program related liabilities which exceed the participant's interest in the undistributed net assets of the program. This indemnification shall be included in the program agreement.

2. Unless the Administrator establishes different terms, the sponsor shall obtain insurance coverage protecting the program and the participants against potential liabilities. The coverage should include public liability insurance with limits, including umbrella policy limits, of at least two times the program's capitalization but in no event less than $10 million. Coverage limits in excess of $50 million will not be required unless there are extraordinary circumstances. Other insurance policies, such as well control, environmental damage and workers compensation, should also be obtained if the program is going to engage directly in operating activities or will otherwise be exposed to potential losses in these areas. The program agreement must require the sponsor to notify the participants thirty days prior to the effective date of any adverse material change in the program's insurance coverage. If the insurance coverage is to be materially reduced, the program agreement must provide the participants a right to convert their program interests from general partnership or working interests to limited partnership interests prior to such reduction, or in the alternative, the program agreement may require the cessation of all drilling activity until the required insurance coverage can be obtained.

3. The prospectus shall disclose the terms of the indemnification agreement and shall also disclose the types and amounts of insurance coverage to be obtained for the benefit of the program and the participants along with the insurance claims history of the sponsor in the area where the program anticipates drilling wells, if such information is material. The Administrator may establish different requirements for the protection of participants based on the specific circumstances surrounding the program's proposed activities. In establishing such requirements, the Administrator may consider factors such as the net worth of the sponsor and any other person who has agreed to indemnify the participants, the insurance claims history of the sponsor and its previous programs, the availability and cost to the program of the insurance, the extent to which the drilling to be conducted by the program may include exploratory drilling, the geological and other characteristics of the formations to be developed by the program, and other procedures or policies implemented by the sponsor which may increase or decrease the potential risk of loss or liability to the program or the potential magnitude of loss or liability to the program.

E. Tax Ruling or Opinion. If a significant feature for federal income or excise tax purposes of a program is either deductions in excess of income from the program being available in a year to reduce income from other sources in that year or credits in excess of the tax attributable to the income from the investment being available within a year to offset taxes on income from other sources in that year, then the sponsor must receive a tax ruling from the Internal Revenue Service or an opinion of qualified tax counsel in a form acceptable to the Administrator concerning the status of the program for federal income tax purposes and an opinion of qualified tax counsel in a form acceptable to the Administrator indicating whether it is more likely than not that an investor will prevail on the merits of each material tax issue respecting which there is a reasonable possibility that the Internal Revenue Service will challenge the tax effect disclose in the prospectus.

F. Investment in Program. In appropriate cases, in order to create an identity of interest with the participants, the Administrator may require that the sponsor purchase for cash up to 5.0% of the program units.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

G. Reports. The Sponsor shall agree to file with the Administrator, if he so requests it, concurrently with their transmittal to participants, a copy of each report made pursuant to Section VIII.B of these guidelines.

H. Fiduciary Duty.

1. The program agreement and prospectus shall provide that the sponsor shall have a fiduciary responsibility for the safekeeping and use of all funds and assets of the program, whether or not in the sponsor's possession or control, and that the sponsor shall not employ, or permit another to employ, such funds or assets in any manner except for the exclusive benefit of the program.

2. Except as provided in Section II.H.3, neither the program agreement nor any other agreement between the sponsor and the program shall contractually limit any fiduciary duty owed to the participants by the sponsor under any applicable law.

3. The program agreement may contractually limit fiduciary duties owed to the participant by the sponsor as follows:

(a) The program may indemnify and hold harmless the sponsor and its affiliates as provided in Section II.I

(b) The sponsor may be required to devote only so much of its time as is necessary to manage the affairs of the program.

(c) The sponsor and its affiliates may conduct business with the program in a capacity other than as sponsor but only in compliance with Sections V and VI of these guidelines.

(d) Except as otherwise provided in Section VI of these guidelines, the sponsor and any of its affiliates may pursue business opportunities that are consistent with the program's investment objectives for their own account only after they have determined that such opportunity either cannot be pursued by the program because of insufficient funds or because it is not appropriate for the program under the existing circumstances.

(e) The sponsor may manage multiple programs simultaneously.

I. Liability and Indemnification of the Sponsor.

1. The program shall not provide for indemnification of the sponsor, or its affiliates performing services on behalf of the program for any liability or loss suffered by the sponsor or affiliate, nor shall it provide that the sponsor or affiliate be held harmless for any loss or liability suffered by the program, unless all of the following conditions are met:

(a) The sponsor has determined, in good faith, that the course of conduct which caused the loss of liability was in the best interests of the program, and

(b) the sponsor or affiliate was acting on behalf of or performing services for the program, and

(c) such liability or loss was not the result of negligence or misconduct by the sponsor or affiliate, and

(d) payments arising from such indemnification or agreement to hold harmless are recoverable only out of the tangible net assets of the program.

2. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in Section II.I.1., the sponsor, its affiliates and any person acting as a broker-dealer shall not be indemnified for any losses, liabilities or expenses arising from or out of an alleged violation of federal or state securities laws by such party unless the following conditions are met:

(a) There has been a successful adjudication on the merits of each count involving alleged securities law violations as to the particular indemnitee, or

(b) such claims have been dismissed with prejudice on the merits by a court of competent jurisdiction as to the particular indemnitee, or

(c) a court of competent jurisdiction approves a settlement of the claims against a particular indemnitee and finds that indemnification of the settlement and the related costs should be made, and the court considering the request for indemnification has been advised of the position of the Securities and Exchange Commission and of the position of any state securities regulatory authority in which securities of the program were offered or sold as to indemnification for violations of securities laws; provided however, the court need only be advised of the positions of the securities regulatory authorities of those states (i) which are specifically set forth in the program agreement and (ii) in which plaintiffs claim they were offered or sold program units.

3. The program may not incur the cost of that portion of liability insurance which insures the sponsor for any liability as to which the sponsor is prohibited from being indemnified under this Section II.I; provided however, that this Section II.I.3 shall not preclude the program from purchasing and paying for such types of insurance, including extended coverage liability, casualty and workers' compensation, as in customary in the oil and gas industry.

4. The advancement of program funds to a sponsor or its affiliates for legal expenses and other costs incurred as a result of any legal action for which indemnification is being sought is permissible only if the program has adequate funds available and the following conditions are satisfied:

(a) The legal actions related to acts or omissions with respect to the performance of duties or services on behalf of the program, and

(b) The legal action is initiated by a third party who is not a participant, or the legal action is initiated by a participant and a court of competent jurisdiction specifically approves such advancement, and

(c) The sponsor or its affiliates undertake to repay the advances funds to the program, together with the applicable legal rate of interest thereon, in cases in which such party is found not to be entitled to indemnification.

J. Arbitration Provisions. The program agreement may contain provisions relating to the use of arbitration as a means of dispute resolution; provided however, it may not require arbitration for allegations involving breach of contract, negligence, violations of state and federal securities laws, breach of fiduciary duty or other misconduct by the sponsor, nor shall it provide for mandatory venue. Program agreements which contain arbitration provisions shall prominently disclose such fact on the cover page of the program agreement. Allocation of the cost of arbitration may be made a matter for determination in the proceedings. This Section II.J. should not be interpreted to prohibit separate arbitration agreements between sponsors and participants if the agreements are not a condition of making an investment in the program.

III. SELLING OF UNITS AND SALES MATERIALS.

A. Sales of Units

1. Compensation to all broker-dealers shall be a cash commission. Compensation of an indeterminate nature to broker-dealers for sales of program units, or for services of any kind rendered in connection with or related to the distribution of program units, including, but not necessarily limited to, a percentage of a management fee, a profit sharing arrangement, overriding royalty interest, net profits interest, percentage of revenues, reversionary interest, working interest or other similar incentive items shall be prohibited.

2. Compensation to wholesale dealers must be a cash commission, must be reasonable and must be fully disclosed.

3. Sales commissions based on assessment of units or unfunded capital contributions are prohibited.

4. The sale of units in a program together with shares, options to purchase shares or other securities issued by the sponsor or another issuer will not be permitted unless such other securities, viewed separately, satisfy the requirements otherwise applicable to their registration.

B. Sales Material.

1. Supplementary materials (including prepared presentations for group meetings) must be submitted to the Administrator in advance of use, and its use must either be preceded by or accompanied with an effective prospectus.

2. Sales Literature: Sales literature, including without limitation, books, pamphlets, movies, slides, article reprints, and television and radio commercials, sales presentations (including prepared presentations to prospective participants at group meetings) and all other advertising used in the offer or sale of units shall conform in all applicable aspects to filing, disclosure and adequacy requirements currently imposed on the sale of corporate securities under applicable regulations. When periodic or other reports, except those required by and filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission, furnished to participants in prior programs are furnished to prospective participants in a program not yet sold, such reports will be treated as sales literature subject to the above requirements. Statements made in sales literature may not conflict with, or significantly modify, risk factors or other statements made in the prospectus. Sales literature shall not be so excessive in size or amount as to detract from the prospectus, nor shall any sales literature be used by securities broker-dealers or agents unless such literature has been approved by the sponsor in writing and incorporates, if the Administrator so requests, disclosure of the participant suitability standards imposed by Section IV of these guidelines.

3. Group Meetings: All advertisements of, and oral or written invitations to "seminars" or other group meetings at which units are to be described, offered or sold shall clearly indicate that the purpose of such meeting is to offer such units for sale, the minimum purchase price thereof, the suitability standards to be employed, and the name of the person selling the units. No cash, merchandise or other items of value shall be offered as an inducement to any prospective participants to attend any such meeting. All written or prepared audio-visual presentations (including scripts prepared in advance for oral presentations) to be made at such meetings must be submitted to the Administrator within a prescribed review period. The provisions of this section shall not apply to meetings consisting only of representatives of securities broker-dealers.

4. Prohibited Representations:

(a) In connection with the offering and sale of interests in a program, neither the sponsor(s) nor the underwriter(s) may, in writing or otherwise, directly or indirectly, represent or imply that an Administrator has approved the merits of the investment or any aspects thereof.

(b) Any reference to the program's compliance with these guidelines or any provisions herein which connotes or implies such approval shall be deemed to be in noncompliance with paragraph (a) of this subsection.

IV. SUITABILITY OF PARTICIPANTS

A. General Policy.

1. The sponsor shall establish minimum income and net worth standards for persons who purchase program interests.

2. The sponsor shall propose minimum income and net worth standards which are reasonable given the type of program and the risks associated with the purchase of program interests. Programs with greater investor risk shall have minimum standards with a substantial net worth requirement. The Administrator shall evaluate the standards proposed by the sponsor when the program's application for registration is reviewed. In evaluating the proposed standards, the Administrator may consider the following:

(a) the program's use of leverage;

(b) tax implications;

(c) mandatory deferred payments;

- (d) assessments;
- (e) potential variances in cash distributions;
- (f) potential participants;
- (g) relationship between potential participants and the sponsor;
- (h) liquidity of program interests;
- (i) performance of sponsor's prior programs;
- (j) financial condition of the sponsor;
- (k) potential transactions between the program and the sponsor; and
- (l) any other relevant factors.

B. Income and Net Worth Standards.

1. For income programs or programs that utilize at least 90% of capital contributions and funds borrowed (excluding organization and offering expenses) in providing completion financing, debt financing, or making other types of oil and gas investments, unless the Administrator determines that the risk associated with the program would require lower or higher standards, each participant shall have:

- (a) a minimum annual gross income of $70,000 and a minimum net worth of $70,000; or
- (b) a minimum net worth of $250,000.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

2. For drilling programs which provide the participant with statutory protection against unlimited liability, unless the Administrator determines the risks associated with the program would require lower or higher standards, each participant shall have:

(a) a minimum annual gross of income of $85,000 and a minimum net worth of $85,000; or

(b) a minimum net worth of $330,000.

3. For drilling programs which do not provide the participant with statutory protection against unlimited liability, unless the Administrator determines that the risks associated with the program would require lower or higher standards, each participant shall have

(a) a minimum net worth of $330,000, without regard to the investment in the program, and a minimum annual gross income of $150,000 for the current year and for the two previous years; or

(b) a minimum net worth in excess of $1,000,000, inclusive of home, home furnishings and automobiles; or

(c) a minimum net worth of $750,000; or

(d) a minimum annual gross income of $200,000 in the current year and the two previous years.

4. Unless otherwise specified, net worth shall be determined exclusive of home, home furnishings, and automobiles.

5. In the case of sales to fiduciary accounts, these minimum standards shall be met by the beneficiary, the fiduciary account, or by the donor or grantor who directly or indirectly supplies the funds to purchase the program interests if the donor or grantor is the fiduciary.

6. The sponsor shall set forth in the final prospectus:

- (a) the investment objectives of the program;
- (b) a description of the type of person who might benefit from an investment in the program; and
- (c) the minimum standards imposed on each participant in the program.

C. Determination that Sale to Participant is Suitable and Appropriate.

1. The sponsor and each person selling program interests on behalf of the sponsor or program shall make every reasonable effort to determine that the purchase of program interests is a suitable and appropriate investment for each participant.

2. In making this determination, the sponsor and each person selling program interests on behalf of the sponsor or program shall ascertain that the prospective participant:

- (a) meets the minimum income net worth standard established for the program;
- (b) can reasonably benefit from the program based on the prospective participant's overall investment objectives and portfolio structure;
- (c) is able to bear the economic risk of the investment based on the prospective participant's overall financial situation; and
- (d) has apparent understanding of:
 - (1) the fundamental risks of the investment;
 - (2) the risk that the participant may lose the entire investment;

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

- (3) the lack of liquidity of program interests;
- (4) the restrictions on transferability of program interests;
- (5) the background and qualifications of the sponsor or the persons responsible for directing and managing the program;
- (6) the tax consequences of the investment; and
- (7) the unlimited liability associated with working interest or general partnership offerings.

3. The sponsor or each person selling program interests on behalf of the sponsor or program will make this determination on the basis of information it has obtained from a prospective participant. Relevant information for this purpose will include at least the age, investment objectives, investment experience, income, net worth, financial situation, and other investments of the prospective participant, as well as any other pertinent factors.

4. The sponsor or each person selling program interests on behalf of the sponsor or program shall maintain records of the information used to determine that an investment in program interests is suitable and appropriate for each participant. The sponsor or each person selling program interests on behalf of the sponsor or program shall maintain these records for at least six years.

5. The sponsor shall disclose in the final prospectus the responsibility of the sponsor and each person selling program interests on behalf of the sponsor or program to make every reasonable effort to determine that the purchase of program interests is a suitable and appropriate investment for each participant, based on information provided by the participant regarding the participant's financial situation and investment objectives.

D. Subscription Agreements.

1. The Administrator may require that each participant complete and sign a written subscription agreement.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

2. The sponsor may require that each participant make certain factual representations in the subscription agreement, including the following:

- (a) The participant meets the minimum income and net worth standards established for the program.
- (b) The participant is purchasing the program interests for his or her own account.
- (c) The participant has received a copy of the prospectus.
- (d) The participant acknowledges that the investment is not liquid.

3. The participant must separately sign or initial each representation made in the subscription agreement. Except in the case of fiduciary accounts, the participant may not grant any person a power of attorney to make such representations on his or her own behalf.

4. The sponsor and each person selling program interests on behalf of the sponsor or program shall not require a participant to make representations in the subscription agreement which are subjective or unreasonable and which:

- (a) might cause the participant to believe that he or she has surrendered rights to which he or she is entitled under federal or state law; or
- (b) would have the effect of shifting the duties regarding suitability, imposed by law on broker-dealers, to the participant.

5. Prohibited representations include, but are not limited to the following:

- (a) The participant understands or comprehends the risks associated with an investment in the program.
- (b) The investment is a suitable one for the participant.

(c) The participant has read the prospectus.

(d) In deciding to invest in the program, the participant has relied solely on the prospectus, and not on any other information or representations from other persons or sources.

6. The sponsor may place the content of the prohibited representations in the subscription agreement in the form of disclosures to the participant. The sponsor may not place these disclosures in the participant representation section of the subscription agreement.

E. Completion of Sale.

1. The sponsor or any person selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM may not complete a sale of PROGRAM INTERESTS to a PARTICIPANT until at least five business days after the date the PARTICIPANT receives a final prospectus.

2. The sponsor or the person designated by the sponsor shall send each participant a confirmation of his or her purchase.

F. Minimum Investment.

The Administrator may require a minimum initial and subsequent cash investment amount.

V. FEES, COMPENSATION AND EXPENSES.

A. Organization and Offering Expenses, and Management Fees.

1. All organization and offering expenses incurred in order to sell program units shall be reasonable, and the total of those organization and offering expenses, which may be charged to the program, plus any management fee, which may be charged by the sponsor, shall not exceed 15% of the initial subscriptions.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

2. Commissions payable on the sale of program units shall be paid in cash solely on the amount of initial subscriptions. Payment of commissions in the form of overriding royalties, net profit interests or other interests in production will not be approved, except that no objection will be raised to the payment of commissions in the form of interests in the program, provided the amount does not exceed that purchasable by applying the aggregate cash commission allowable to the unit offering price.

3. All items of compensation to underwriters or dealers, including, but not limited to, selling commissions, expenses, rights of first refusal, consulting fees, finders' fees and all other items of compensation of any kind or description paid by the program, directly or indirectly, shall be taken into consideration in computing the amount of allowable selling commissions.

B. Compensation. The participation in program revenues by the sponsor and any affiliate shall be reasonable, taking into account all relevant factors. Overriding royalty interests will be looked upon with disfavor. Subject to Section II.F.1 of these guidelines, the sponsors' interests in revenues will be considered reasonable if they meet the standards set forth below. Any other combination of fees, carried interests, or interests subordinate to pay out to the public investors, which can be demonstrated to provide participants equal or more favorable terms of participation in the program, may also be considered reasonable by the Administrator.

1. Drilling Programs: Functional Allocation.

(a) Where the sponsor agrees to pay the capital expenditures of the program, but in any case at least 10% of the capital contributions to the program (including any capital contributions from the sponsor or any of its affiliates), its share of revenues will be determined by the following formula: (1) If the agreement is to pay capital expenditures but in any case a sum of not less than 10% of the capital contributions to the program (including any capital contributions from the sponsor or any of its affiliates), the sponsor will be entitled to receive 25% of program revenues; (2) the sponsor's revenue sharing may be increased in additional increments of 1% for each additional 1% increase in the percentage of capital contributions to the program (including any capital contributions from the sponsor or any of its affiliates) actually made by the sponsor up to a maximum of 50% of revenues subject to sponsor's agreement to pay in any case all capital expenditures.

(b) The aforesaid arrangement to pay capital expenditures refers to and includes capital expenditures for the drilling and completing of wells during the life of the program, but does include capital expenditures for facilities downstream of a wellhead. If the sponsor should enter into a farmout or other arrangements through which only the sponsor is relieved of its obligations to pay for such capital expenditures, then the sponsor's share of revenue shall be proportionately reduced, the amount to be determined on an individual basis.

(c) In order to elect a sharing agreement as above provided, the sponsor must have a net worth of $300,000 or 10% of the total contributions to the program by the participants, whichever is greater, and must be under a contractual obligation to pay its share of expenses as such expenses are paid by the program and to complete its minimum financial commitment to the program by the payment of cash by the end of the first fiscal year succeeding the fiscal years in which the program commenced operations. Any additional contributions made by the sponsor will be used to pay program expenses which would otherwise be charged to the participants; provided however, the sponsor may receive credit for the amount of such payments against any subsequent capital expenditure incurred by the program and allocated to the sponsor.

(d) For the purposes of this subsection, if a well is not abandoned within 60 days following the commencement of production, then it shall be deemed to be a commercial well insofar as the program is concerned and the sponsor may not recapture its capital expenditures from the program, which otherwise would be treated as noncapital expenditures upon abandonment. As used herein, production shall refer to the commencement of the commercial marketing of oil and gas and shall not include any spot sales of oil or gas produced as a result of testing procedures. All revenues from a well abandoned under this subsection shall be allocated pro rata to those persons bearing the costs of such well.

(e) The sharing arrangement set forth in this subsection shall not be considered presumptively reasonable: (1) in the case of sharing arrangements in which the sponsor pays all development costs and exploratory wells are drilled on prospects which cannot reasonably be expected to require developmental drilling if the exploratory drilling is successful, or (2) in the case of sharing arrangements where the sponsor does not pay its share or category of costs on a current basis.

2. Drilling Programs: Subordinate Interest. As an alternative to sharing revenues on a basis related to costs paid, it will be considered reasonable for a sponsor of a drilling program to receive a promotional interest in the form of a subordinated interest in program distributions. A subordinated interest will be considered presumptively reasonable if it does not exceed 25% of program distributions after the participants have been distributed an amount equal to their capital contribution.

At such time as the sponsor is entitled to receive its promotional interest, it shall also be allocated and pay program costs in the same ratio as its participants in program revenues.

3. Drilling Programs: Other Alternatives. A sponsor who is allocated and pays at least 1% of all program costs as incurred (excluding organizational and offering expenses, and management fees) may receive 11% of program revenues plus an additional percentage of program revenues equal to the additional percentage of program costs which it pays in excess of 1%, up to a maximum of 50% of program revenues. The sponsor must be allocated and pay operating expenses, direct costs and administrative costs in the same ratio as they participate in program revenues.

4. Prospect Origination Services of the Sponsor. The sharing arrangements for drilling programs set forth in Section V.B. shall not be considered presumptively reasonable for a sponsor who does not actively participate in obtaining a significant portion of the program's prospects and who does not assume management responsibility for drilling, completing, equipping and operating a significant portion of a program's wells, unless such sponsor shall satisfactorily demonstrate that its compensation together with the costs of procuring such services for the program from third parties does not exceed the permissible compensation to the sponsor set forth in this Section V.B. For purposes of these guidelines, a sponsor shall be deemed to be actively participating in obtaining a significant portion of a program's prospects if the sponsor has in-house or under contract the technical capability of originating and/or fully evaluating the prospects to be acquired by that program. "Prospect origination" is the process of formulating a geological or geophysical concept and negotiating for the acquisition of a sufficient acreage interest in the area to warrant drilling and testing. "Prospect evaluation" is the process of determining the viability of a prospect which has been originated by a third party.

A sponsor must describe in adequate detail in the offering documents the nature of the sponsor's capability to originate and/or evaluate the prospects the sponsor intends to transfer to a program. If the capability is in-house, the "Operation" Section of the offering documents should have a full discussion of the process by which such origination and evaluation will take place and the "Management" Section of those documents should include a biographical discussion of the key personnel of the sponsor performing these activities. If the capability is to be provided by third parties under contract to the sponsor, the third parties should be identified, their qualifications described, and the contractual nature of the arrangement between the sponsor and the third party should be fully disclosed. This should include a detailed discussion of the administrative process involved in the relationship. It will be deemed presumptively unreasonable, in the latter instance, if the contracts do not provide the program with comparable capabilities to those that would be provided if the sponsor's capability was in-house, including, among other things, availability of technical expertise and the provisions of adequate response time. Unless the sponsor can adequately demonstrate the availability of such capability, it will not be permitted to elect any of the sharing costs and revenues described in the guidelines.

5. Income or Production Purchase Programs. An interest in the program will be allowed as a promotional interest provided that the amount or percentage of such interest is reasonable. Such an interest will generally be presumed reasonable if it is within the limitations expressed below:

(a) Where the sponsor does not maintain a technical staff which has the necessary capability and experience to originate, evaluate and consummate property acquisitions without substantial third party assistance, the sponsor may take a fully participating 3% carried interest until participants have received cash distributions in an amount equal to their capital contributions after which the sponsor may take up to a fully participating 5% carried interest.

(b) Where the sponsor maintains a technical staff which has the necessary capability and experience and will in fact originate, evaluate and consummate property acquisitions without substantial third party assistance, the sponsor may take:

(1) a fully participating 10% carried interest, or

(2) a fully participating 1% carried interest until participants have received cash distributions in an amount equal to their capital contributions after which the sponsor may take up to a fully participating 20% carried interest.

6. Operator Services. If the sponsor or one of its affiliates reserves the right to be designated as operator of any property acquired by the program, the prospectus must disclose the extent of the sponsor's or affiliate's operating experience and capabilities. Operator services may not be provided unless the sponsor or the affiliate has substantial operating experience. If the sponsor or an affiliate is designated as operator of any property acquired by the program, such services must be performed pursuant to a model form operating agreement issued by the American Association of Petroleum Landmen and an accounting procedure for joint operations issued by the Council of Petroleum Accountants Societies of North America, or other form of agreement acceptable to the Administrator, all in a form which is customary and usual for the geographic area in which the properties are located. In no event shall any consideration received for operator services be in excess of the competitive rate or duplicative of any consideration or reimbursements received pursuant to the program agreement. The sponsor may not benefit by interpositioning itself between the program and the actual provider of operator services.

7. Drilling Contractor Services. If the sponsor or one of its affiliates reserves the right to act as contractor in connection with the drilling of program wells, the prospectus must disclose the extent of the sponsor's or affiliate's contracting experience and capabilities. Contracting services may not be provided unless the sponsor or the affiliate, or their principals, has substantial contracting experience. The prospectus must disclose the material terms pursuant to which contractor services may be provided and if there is a separate contract to be utilized in connection with such services a copy of the form of such contract must accompany the registration application. Turnkey drilling contracts or other contracts with the sponsor or an affiliate of the sponsor that establish a fixed price for drilling services shall not be permitted. The sponsor or affiliate may guarantee cost estimates of subcontractors or provide indemnification against cost overruns, provided no additional compensation is received by the sponsor or affiliate as a result of such guarantees or indemnification. The rates charged for drilling contractor services must be competitive with the rates charged by unaffiliated contractors in the same geographic region. With respect to subcontractor services provided by the sponsor or affiliate, there must be documentation, maintained for the life of the program, demonstrating compliance with Section V.B.8 below. The sponsor may not benefit by interpositioning itself between the program and the actual provider of drilling contractor services.

8. Equipment, Supplies and Services.

(a) Neither the sponsor nor any affiliate shall render to the program any oil field, equipage or other services nor sell or lease to the program any equipment or supplies unless:

(1) such entity is engaged, independently of the program and as an ordinary and ongoing business, in the business of rendering such services or selling or leasing such equipment and supplies to a substantial extent to other persons in the industry in addition to programs in which the sponsor or its affiliates have an interest; and

(2) the compensation, price or rental therefor is competitive with the compensation, price or rental of other persons in the area engaged in the business of rendering comparable services or selling or leasing comparable equipment and supplies which could reasonably be made available to the program.

(b) If such entity is not engaged in the business as required by Section V.B.8(a)(1) above, then such compensation, price or rental shall be the cost of such services, equipment or supplies to such entity, or the competitive rate which could be obtained in the area, whichever is less.

9. Written Contracts. All services for which the sponsor or any affiliate is to receive compensation shall be embodied in a written contract (which may be the program agreement) that specifically describes each service to be rendered and all compensation to be paid.

C. Program Expenses.

1. Administrative costs and other charges for goods and services must be fully supportable as to the necessity thereof and the reasonableness of the amount charged. All actual and necessary expenses incurred by the program may be paid out of capital contributions and out of program revenues.

2. Direct costs shall be billed directly to and paid by the program to the extent practicable.

3. The sponsor may be reimbursed for administrative costs, provided such costs are reasonably allocated to the program on the basis of assets, revenues, time records or other method conforming with generally accepted accounting principles. No portion of the salaries, benefits, compensation or remuneration of controlling persons shall be reimbursed as administrative costs. Controlling persons include directors, executive officers and those holding 5% or more equity interest in the sponsor or a person having power to direct or cause the direction of the sponsor, whether through the ownership of voting securities, by contract, or otherwise.

A description of the method to be used for allocating costs shall be clearly described in the prospectus and such allocations must be audited annually by the sponsor's independent certified public accountants. The program agreement shall require the independent certified public accountants to provide written attestation annually, to be included as part of the program's annual report, that the method used to make allocations was consistent with the method described in the prospectus and that the total amount of costs allocated did not materially exceed the amounts incurred by the sponsor. If the sponsor subsequently decides to allocate expenses in a manner different from that described in the prospectus, such change must be reported to the participants together with an explanation of why such change was made and the basis used for determining the reasonableness of the new allocation method.

4. The program shall disclose in tabular form and estimate of expenses to be charged to the program showing direct costs and administrative costs separately, and the sponsor must demonstrate that it has a reasonable basis for such estimates. The estimate of direct costs and administrative costs shall be broken down into various types of services and costs. The following is the type of tabular disclosure which will be considered reasonable for disclosing estimated direct costs and administrative costs:

ESTIMATED PROGRAM EXPENSES

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

The sponsor estimates that direct costs and administrative costs allocable to the program for the first twelve months of operation will be approximately $_____ if the minimum program capital is received (representing _____% of program capital) and approximately $_____ if the maximum program capital is received (representing _____% of program capital). The sponsor estimates that the components of such allocable amounts will be as follows:

	Minimum Program	Maximum Program
Administrative Costs:
Legal.....	$.....	$.....
Accounting.....
Geological.....
Secretarial.....

Direct Costs:

Outside Computer Services.....
Other (list).....

The procedures followed to determine the amounts of administrative costs to be allocated to the program are enumerated as follows:

- 1.
- 2.
- 3.
4. etc.

5. The prospectus shall disclose in tabular form for each program formed in the last three years the dollar amount of direct costs and administrative costs incurred, and the percentage of subscriptions raised reflected thereby.

6. The sponsor shall bear a percentage of direct costs and administrative costs equal to its percentage of revenue participation. A subordinate interest shall bear its percentage of direct costs and administrative costs from the time that the sponsor becomes eligible to receive its subordinated interest.

VI. PROPERTY TRANSACTIONS WITH AFFILIATES AND OTHER RESTRICTED ACTIVITIES.

A. Sales and Purchase of Properties

1. Sales to Drilling Programs. Neither the sponsor nor any affiliate, including an affiliated program, shall sell, transfer or convey any property to a drilling program, directly or indirectly, except pursuant to transactions that are fair and reasonable to the participants of the program and then subject to the following conditions:

(a) The prospectus discloses the possibility that the sponsor or an affiliate may sell, transfer or convey property to the program and whether or not the property may be sold from an existing inventory.

(b) The property is sold, transferred or conveyed to the program at cost, unless the seller or transferor has cause to believe that cost is materially more than the fair market value of such property, in which case such sale should be made for a price not in excess of its fair market value; provided however, if the sale, transfer or conveyance is from an affiliated program that has held the property for more than two years and in which program the interest of the sponsor is substantially similar to, or less than, its interest in the subject program, the sale, transfer or conveyance may be made at fair market value.

(c) If the sponsor or an affiliate sells, transfers or conveys any oil, gas or other mineral interests or property to the program, it must, at the same time, sell to the program an equal proportionate interest in all its other property in the same prospect.

(d) During a period of five years from the date of formation of the program, if the sponsor or any of its affiliates proposes to acquire an interest, from an unaffiliated person, in a prospect in which the program possesses an interest or in a prospect in which the program's interest has been terminated without compensation within one year preceding such proposed acquisition, the following conditions shall apply:

(1) If the sponsor or the affiliate does not currently own property in the prospect separately from the program, then neither the sponsor nor the affiliate shall be permitted to purchase an interest in the prospect.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

(2) If the sponsor or the affiliate currently own a proportionate interest in the prospect separately from the program, then the interest to be acquired shall be divided between the program and the sponsor or the affiliate in the same proportion as in the other property in the prospect; provided however, if cash or financing is not available to the program to enable it to consummate a purchase of the additional interest to which it is entitled, then neither the sponsor nor the affiliate shall be permitted to purchase any additional interest in the prospect.

(e) If the area constituting a program's prospect is subsequently enlarged to encompass any area wherein the sponsor or an affiliate of the sponsor owns a separate property interest, such separate property interest or a portion thereof shall be sold, transferred or conveyed to the program in accordance with this Section VI.A.1 if the activities of the program were material in establishing the existence of proved undeveloped reserves which are attributable to such separate property interest.

(f) A sale, transfer or conveyance of less than all of the ownership of the sponsor or any of its affiliates in any lease interest or property is prohibited unless the interest retained by the sponsor or affiliate is a proportionate working interest, the respective obligations of the sponsor or affiliate and the program are substantially the same after the sale of the interest by the sponsor or affiliate and its interest in revenues does not exceed the amount proportionate to its retained working interest. The sponsor or affiliate may not retain any overrides or other burden on the interest conveyed to the program.

(g) For purposed of Section VI.A.1(c), (d), (e) and (f) above, the terms "sponsor" and "affiliate" shall not include another program in which the interest of the sponsor is substantially similar to or less than its interest in the subject program.

(h) If the program acquires property pursuant to a farmout or joint venture from an affiliated program, the sponsor's and/or its affiliates aggregate compensation associated with the property and any direct and indirect ownership interest in the property may not exceed the lower of the compensation and ownership interest the sponsor and/or its affiliates could receive if the property were separately owned or retained by either on of the programs.

2. Sales to Production Purchase or Income Programs. Neither the sponsor nor the affiliate, including an affiliated program, shall sell, transfer or convey any property to a production purchase or income program, directly or indirectly, except pursuant to transactions that are fair and reasonable to the participants of the program and then subject to the following conditions:

(a) The prospectus discloses the possibility that the sponsor or an affiliate may sell property to the program and whether the property may be sold from an existing inventory.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

(b) If the property has been held for less than two years and there have not been significant expenditures made in connection with the property, the sale, transfer or conveyance to the program from the sponsor or an affiliate, other than an affiliated program in which the interest of the sponsor is substantially similar to or less than its interest in the subject program, must be at cost as adjusted for intervening operations, unless the sponsor has cause to believe that such adjusted cost is materially more than the fair market value of such property, in which case such sale must be made at fair market value.

(c) If the property has been held for less than six month and there have not been significant expenditures made in connection with the property, the sale, transfer or conveyance to the program from an affiliated program, in which the interest of the sponsor is substantially similar to or less than its interest in the subject program, must be at cost as adjusted for intervening operations, unless the sponsor has cause to believe that such adjusted cost is materially more than the fair market value of such property, in which case such sale must be made at fair market value.

(d) In all other circumstances, the sale, transfer or conveyance to the program from the sponsor or an affiliate, including an affiliated program, must be made at not more than fair market value.

3. Purchases from All Programs. Neither the sponsor nor any affiliate, including affiliated programs, may purchase or acquire any property from the program, directly or indirectly, except pursuant to transactions that are fair and reasonable to the participants of the program and then subject to the following conditions:

(a) A sale, transfer or conveyance, including a farmout, of an undeveloped property from the program to the sponsor or an affiliate, other than an affiliated program, must be made at the higher of cost or fair market value.

(b) A sale, transfer or conveyance of a developed property from the program to the sponsor or an affiliate, other than an affiliated program in which the interest of the sponsor is substantially similar to or less than its interest in the subject program, shall not be permitted except in connection with the liquidation of the program and then only at fair market value.

(c) Except in connection with farmouts or joint ventures made in compliance with Section VI.A.1(h) above, a transfer of an undeveloped property from a program to an affiliated drilling program must be made fair market value if the property has been held for more than two years. Otherwise, if the sponsor deems it to be in the best interest of the program, the transfer may be made at cost.

(d) Except in connection with farmouts or joint ventures made in compliance with Section VI.A.1(h) above, a transfer of any type is of property from a program to an affiliated production purchase or income program must be made at fair market value if the property has been held for more than six months or there have been significant expenditures made in connection with the property. Otherwise, if the sponsor deems it to be in the best interest of the program, the transfer may be made at cost as adjusted for intervening operations.

4. Determination of Fair Market Value. A determination of fair market value as required by the provisions of this Section VI must be supported by an appraisal from an independent expert. Such opinion and any associated supporting information must be maintained in the program's records for at least six years.

B. Custody of Program Funds and Properties.

1. Funds of a program must not be commingled with funds of any other entity and the prospectus and program agreement must clearly prohibit any such commingling. Notwithstanding the above, the sponsor may establish a master fiduciary account pursuant to which separate subtrust accounts are maintained for the benefit of affiliated programs, provided, the program's funds are protected from the claims of such other programs and their creditors. The prohibition of this Section VI.B.1 shall not apply to investments meeting the requirements of Section VI.B.4 below.

2. Advance payments to the sponsor or its affiliates are prohibited, except where necessary to secure tax benefits of prepaid drilling costs. These payments, if any, shall not include nonrefundable payments for completion costs prior to the time that a decision is made that the well or wells warrant a completion attempt.

3. Program properties may be held in the names of nominees temporarily to facilitate the acquisition of properties and for similar valid purposes. On a permanent basis, program properties may be held in the name of a special nominee entity organized by the sponsor provided the nominee's sole purpose is the holding of record title for oil and gas properties and it engages in no other business and incurs no other liabilities. If properties are held in the name of a special nominee, either a ruling from the Internal Revenue Service or an opinion of qualified tax counsel shall be obtained to the effect that such arrangement shall not change the ownership status of the program for federal income tax purposes.

4. Program funds may not be invested in the securities of another person except in the following instances:

(a) investments in working interests or undivided lease interests made in the ordinary course of the program's business;

(b) temporary investments made in compliance with Section VI.B.5;

(c) multi-tier arrangements meeting the requirements of Section VI.C.1;

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

(d) investments involving less than 5% of program capital which are a necessary and incidental part of a property acquisition transaction; and

(e) investments in entities established solely to limit the program's liabilities associated with the ownership or operation of property or equipment, provided, in such instances duplicative fees and expenses shall be prohibited.

5. Until proceeds from the public offering are invested in the program's operations, such proceeds may be temporarily invested in income producing short-term, highly liquid investments, where there is appropriate safety of principal, such as U.S. Treasury Bills. Any such income shall be allocated pro rata to the participants providing such capital contributions.

6. Any proceeds of the public offering of a drilling program not used, or committed for use, as evidenced by a written agreement, in the program's operations within one year of the closing of the offering, except for necessary operating capital, must be distributed pro rata to the participants as a return of capital, and the sponsor shall reimburse the participants for selling, management fees and offering expenses allocable to the return of capital.

7. If a production purchase program sponsor has not used, or committed for use, as evidenced by a written agreement, an amount equal to 100% of the net proceeds of the public offering for property acquisitions within two years of the closing of the offering, any excess proceeds, except for necessary operating capital and amounts reserved for identified activities, must be distributed pro rata to the participants as a return of capital, and the sponsor shall reimburse the participants for selling, management fees and offering expenses allocable to the return of capital.

C. Other Restricted and Prohibited Activities.

1. Programs structured to participate in other partnerships or joint ventures (multi-tier arrangements) shall be permitted provided that the terms of any such arrangements do not result in the circumvention of any of the requirements or prohibitions contained in these guidelines. In particular, all such program agreements shall accompany the prospectus and shall contain provisions which assure:

(a) that there will be no duplication or increase in organization and offering expenses, sponsor's compensation, program expenses or other fees and costs;

(b) there will be no substantive alteration in the fiduciary and contractual relationship between the sponsor and the participants; and

(c) there will be no diminishment in the voting rights of the participants.

2. A sponsor or affiliate shall not take any action with respect to the assets or property of the program which does not primarily benefit the program, including among other things;

(a) the utilization of program funds as compensating balances for its own benefit, and

(b) the commitment of future production.

3. All benefits from marketing arrangements or other relationships affecting property of the sponsor or affiliate and the program shall be fairly and equitably apportioned according to the respective interests of each

4. Any agreements or arrangements which bind the program must be fully disclosed in the prospectus.

5. Anything to the contrary notwithstanding, a sponsor or affiliate may never profit by drilling in contravention of his fiduciary obligation to the participants.

6. No loans may be made by the program to the sponsor or any affiliate of the sponsor.

7. On loans made available to the program by the sponsor or affiliate, the sponsor or affiliate may not receive interest in excess of its interest costs, nor may the sponsor or affiliate receive interest in excess of the amounts which would be charged the program (without reference to the sponsor's financial abilities or guaranties) by unrelated banks on comparable loans for the same purpose, and the sponsor or affiliate shall not receive points or other financing charges or fees, regardless of the amount.

8. No rebates or give-ups may be received by the sponsor or any affiliate nor may the sponsor or any affiliate participant in any reciprocal business arrangements which would circumvent these guidelines.

VII. FARMOUTS, SPECIAL DISCLOSURE REQUIREMENTS.

A. The prospectus shall contain the definition of farmout and no other term shall be used to describe a farmout transaction.

B. The prospectus shall state the circumstances under which the sponsor may farmout a prospect or lease, the ability to farmout to other public programs of the sponsor or its affiliates and any limitations on the ability to farmout to such public programs.

C. The prospectus shall state that no program lease will be farmed out, sold or otherwise disposed of unless the sponsor, exercising the standard of a prudent operator, determines:

1. the program lacks sufficient funds to drill on the leases and cannot obtain suitable alternative financing for such drilling; or

2. the leases have been downgraded by events occurring after assignment to the program so that drilling would no longer be desirable for the program; or

3. drilling on the leases would result in an excessive concentration of program funds creating in the sponsor's opinion undue risk to the program; or

4. the best interests of the program would be served by the farmout.

D. The prospectus shall state that the decision with respect to making a farmout and the terms of a farmout to a program involve conflicts of interest, as the sponsor may benefit from cost savings and reduction of risk, and in the event of a farmout to an affiliated public program, the sponsor will represent both partnerships.

E. Except as required by Section VI.A.1, the prospectus shall state that the program shall acquire only those leases that are reasonably acquired for the stated purpose of the program and no leases shall be acquired for the purpose of subsequent sale or farmout, unless the acquisition of such leases by the program is made after a well has been drilled to a depth sufficient to indicate that such an acquisition is believed to be in the best interests of the program.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

F. The prospectus shall state that the sponsor shall not farmout a lease for the primary purpose of avoiding payment of sponsor's costs relating to drilling a lease or prospect.

VIII. RIGHTS AND OBLIGATIONS OF PARTICIPANTS.

A. Meetings. Meetings of the participants may be called by the sponsor or by participants holding 10% or more of the then outstanding units for any matters for which the participants may vote as set forth in the program agreement. Such call for a meeting shall be deemed to have been made upon receipt by the sponsor of a written request from holders of the than 60 days after the date of mailing of said notice, at a reasonable time and place. Provided however, that the date for notice of such a meeting may be extended for a period of up to 60 days, if in the opinion of the sponsor such additional time is necessary to permit preparation of proxy or information statements or other documents required to be delivered in connection with such meeting by the Securities and Exchange Commission or other regulatory authorities. Participants shall be granted the right to vote in person or by proxy.

B. Annual and Periodic Reports. The program agreement shall provide for the transmittal to each participant of an annual report within 120 days after the close of the fiscal year, and commencing with the year following investment of substantially all the. program subscriptions, a report within 75 days after the end of the first six months of its fiscal year, containing, except as otherwise indicated, at least the following information:

(a) Financial statements, including a balance sheet and statements of operations, partners' equity and cash flows prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and accompanied by a report of an independent certified public accountant stating that his audit was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and that in his opinion such financial statements present fairly the financial position, results of operations, partners' equity and cash flows in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, except that semiannual reports need not be audited.

(b) A summary itemization, by type and/or classifications of the total fees and compensation, including any administrative cost reimbursements and operating fees, paid by the program, or indirectly on behalf of the program, to the sponsor and affiliates of the sponsor together with the accountant's attestation as required by Section V.C of these guidelines. If compensation is paid on a subordinated interest, a reconciliation of all such payments to the conditions precedent and limitations thereto.

(c) A description of each property in which the program owns an interest, including the cost, location, number of acres under lease and the interest owned therein by the program, except succeeding reports need contain only material changes, if any, regarding such property.

(d) If a drilling program, a list of the wells drilled or abandoned by such program during the period of the report

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

(indicating whether each of such wells has or has not been completed), and a statement of the cost of each well completed or abandoned. Justification shall be included for wells abandoned after production has commenced.

(e) A description of all farmouts, farmins and joint ventures, made during the period of the report, including sponsor's justification for the arrangement and a description of the material terms.

(f) If assessments have been made during any period covered by the report, then such report shall contain a detailed statement of such assessments and the application of the proceeds derived from such assessments.

(g) With respect to a program which compensated the sponsor on a basis related to certain costs paid by the sponsor; (1) a schedule reflecting the total program costs, and where applicable, the costs pertaining to each prospect, the costs paid by the sponsor and the costs paid by the participants, (2) the total program revenues, the revenues received or credited to the sponsor and the revenues or credited to the participants, and (3) a reconciliation of such expenses and revenues to the limitations prescribed.

(h) Annually, beginning with the fiscal year succeeding the fiscal year in which the program commenced operations, a computation of the total oil and gas proved reserves of the program and dollar value thereof at then existing prices and of each participant's interest in such reserve value. The reserve computations shall be based upon engineering reports prepared by qualified independent petroleum consultants. In addition, there shall be included an estimate of the time required for the extraction of such services and the present worth of such reserves, with a statement that, because of the time period required to extract such reserves, the present value of revenues to be obtained in the future is less than if immediately receivable. In addition to the annual computation and estimate required, as soon as possible, and in no event more than 90 days after the occurrence of an event leading to reduction of such reserves of the program of 10% or more, excluding reduction as a result of normal production, sales of reserves or product price changes, a computation and estimate shall be sent to each participant.

2. By March 15 of each year, the general partner must furnish a report to each participant containing such information as is pertinent for tax purposes.

3. Programs which agree to make all relevant financial and engineering reports available to participants on request, will not be required to transmit to participants reports other than:

(a) the annual reports required under subsection (1) above,

(b) the reports for tax purposes required by subsection (2) above, and

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

(c) a quarterly cash receipts and disbursements statement after the program commences its operational phase.

C. Access to Program Records.

1. The participants and/or their accredited representatives shall be permitted access to all records, of the program, after adequate notice, at any reasonable time and may inspect and copy any of them. The sponsor shall maintain and preserve during the term of the program and for four (4) years thereafter all accounts, books and other relevant program documents. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the sponsor may keep logs, well reports and other drilling data confidential for a reasonable period of time.

2. The limited partnership agreement, by-laws or other program agreement shall include the following provisions regarding access to the list of participants:

(a) An alphabetical list of the names, addresses and business telephone numbers of the participants of the program along with the number of program units held by each of them (the "participant list") shall be maintained as a part of the books and records of the program and shall be available for the inspection by any participant or its designated agent at the home office of the program upon the request of the participant;

(b) The participant list shall be updated at least quarterly to reflect changes in the information contained therein;

(c) A copy of the participant list shall be mailed to any participant requesting the participant list within ten days of the request. The copy of the participant shall be printed in alphabetical order, on white paper, and in a readily readable type size (in no event smaller than 10-point type). A reasonable charge for copy work may be charged by the program;

(d) The purposes for which a participant may request a copy of the participant list include, without limitation, matters relating to participant's voting rights under the program agreement and the exercise of participants' rights under federal proxy laws; and

(e) If the sponsor of the program neglects or refuses to exhibit, produce, or mail a copy of the participant list as requested, the sponsor shall be liable to any participant requesting the list for the costs, including attorneys fees, incurred by that participant for compelling the production of the participant list, and for actual damages suffered by any participant by reason of such refusal or neglect. It shall be a defense that the actual purpose and reason for the requests for inspection or for a copy of the participant list is to secure the list of participants or other information for the purpose of selling such list or information or copies thereof, or of using the same for a commercial purpose other than in the interest of the applicant as a participant relative to the affairs of the program. The sponsor may require the participant requesting the participant list to represent that the list is not requested for a commercial purpose unrelated to the participant's interest in the program. The remedies provided hereunder to participants requesting copies of the participant list are in addition to, and shall not in any way limit, other remedies available to participants under federal law, or the laws of any state.

D. Admission of Participants.

1. Upon the original sale of program units, the participants should be admitted as unit holders not later than 15 days after the release from escrow of participants' funds to the program, and thereafter participants should be admitted into the program not later than the last day of the calendar month in which their subscriptions were accepted by the program. Subscriptions shall be accepted or rejected by the program within 30 days of their receipt, if rejected, all funds shall be returned to the subscriber immediately.

2. The program shall amend its records at least once each calendar quarter to effect the substitution of substituted participants, although the sponsor may elect to do so more frequently. In the case of assignments; where the assignee does not become a substituted participant, the program shall recognize the assignment not later than the last day of the calendar month following receipt of notice of assignment and required documentation.

Restrictions on the assignment of units or the substitution of participants are generally disfavored and will be allowed only to the extent necessary to preserve the tax status of the partnership or the classification of program income for tax purposes and any restrictions must be supported by opinion of counsel as to its legal necessity.

E. Assessability and Defaults.

1. In appropriate cases there may be a provision for assessability; provided however, that the maximum amount voluntary assessments shall not exceed 100% of initial subscriptions and for mandatory assessments shall not exceed 25% of initial subscriptions, and provided further, that in no case shall the total of all assessments exceed 100% of initial subscriptions. All assessments shall be made solely for the purpose of conducting subsequent operations on prospects upon which evaluation had begun during a program's initial operations, or on leases sufficiently related to such prospects as to merit, in the sponsor's judgement, additional operations to fully develop those prospects. In such cases, the aggregate offering price of the units as set forth in the application for qualification shall include and show separately the basic unit offering price and the maximum amount of the assessment.

2. In the event of a default in all or a portion of the payment of assessments, the participant's percentage interest in the program represented by his unite should not be subject to forfeiture, but may be subject to a reasonable reduction for the failure of the participant to meet his commitment. Unless the sponsor agrees to pay all defaulted assessments, the nondefaulting limited partners shall have the first option to pay any defaulted assessments. Provisions which conform to the following will be considered reasonable.

(a) For voluntary assessments,

(1) A proportionate reduction of the participant's percentage interest in revenues derived from the wells drilled and/or completed with the proceeds of the assessments based on the ratio of the participant's unpaid assessment to all capital contributions and assessments used for such drilling and/or completion, or

(2) A subordination of the defaulting participant's right to receive revenues from the wells drilled and/or completed with the proceeds of the assessments until those nondefaulting participants who have paid the defaulting participant's assessment have received an amount of revenues from revenues of the program from such wells equal to 300% of the proportionate amount of the defaulted assessment which they paid.

(b) For mandatory assessments,

(1) A proportionate reduction of the participant's percentage interest in program revenues, based on the ratio of his unpaid assessment to all capital contributions and assessments, or

(2) A subordination of the defaulting participant's right to receive revenues from the program until those nondefaulting participants who have paid the defaulting participant's assessment have received an amount of revenues from all revenues of the program equal to 300% of the proportionate amount of the defaulted assessment which they paid, or

(3) Personal liability of a participant as to the amount defaulted upon. The sponsor may enforce such personal liability through a lien on the participant's program interest, which permits the sponsor to withhold and apply all revenues attributable to the participant to the payment of any delinquent assessment. For purposes of this subsection, voluntary assessments which a participant has committed to pay will be considered mandatory assessments.

(c) In order to make any assessment, the sponsor shall include with the call for such assessment a statement of the purpose and intended use of the proceeds from such assessment, a statement of the reduction to be imposed for failure of the participant to meet the assessment, and to the extent practicable, a summary of pertinent geological data on the relevant properties to which the assessments relate and any other information material to a participant's decision to fund the assessment.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

(d) The above alternatives, set forth in (a) and (b), are not exclusive and other provisions demonstrated to be essentially equivalent to these alternatives may be permitted by the Administrator.

F. Voting Rights of Participants.

1. To the extent the law of the state of organization is not inconsistent, the program agreement must provide that a majority, in interest of the then outstanding unit holders may, without the necessity for concurrence by the sponsor, vote to:

(a) Amend the program agreement; provided however, any such amendment may not increase the duties or liabilities of any participant or sponsor or increase or decrease the profit or loss sharing or required capital contribution of any participant or sponsor without the approval of such participant or sponsor. Furthermore, any such amendment may not affect the classification of program income and loss for federal income tax purposes without the unanimous approval of all participants;

(b) Dissolve the program;

(c) Remove the sponsor and elect a new sponsor;

(d) Elect a new sponsor if the sponsor elects to withdraw from the program;

(e) Approve or disapprove the sale of all or substantially all of the assets of the program; and

(f) Cancel any contract for services with the sponsor or any affiliate without penalty upon 60 days notice.

2. With respect to any program units owned by the sponsor, the sponsor may not vote or consent on matters submitted to the participants regarding the removal of the sponsor or regarding any transaction between the program and the sponsor. In determining the requisite percentage in interest of program units necessary to approve a matter on which the sponsor may not vote or consent, any program units owned by the sponsor shall not be included.

G. Removal or Withdrawal of the Sponsor.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

1. In the event the sponsor is removed in accordance with subsection F above, the incoming sponsor and the removed sponsor shall, by mutual agreement, select an independent expert to value the removed sponsor's interest in the program. In determining the value of the sponsor's interest, the independent expert will take into account appropriate discount factors in light of the risk of recovery of oil and gas reserves, and, in any event, will utilize a risk factor discount no less than that utilized in the most recent offer extended pursuant to Section IX.C of these guidelines (relating to cash redemptions), if any. The incoming sponsor, or the program, shall have the option to purchase at least 20% of the interests of the removed sponsor for the value determined by the expert.

The method of payment for such interest must be fair and must protect the solvency and liquidity of the program. Where the termination is voluntary, the method of payment will be deemed presumptively fair where it provides for a non-interest bearing unsecured promissory note with principal payable, if at all, from distributions which the terminated sponsor otherwise would have received under the program agreement had the sponsor not been terminated. Where the termination is involuntary, the method of payment will be deemed presumptively fair where it provides for an interest bearing promissory note coming due in no less than five years with equal installments each year.

2. If the sponsor withdraws as sponsor and the participants elect to continue the program, the valuation procedure outlined in subsection 1 hereof applies. The sponsor may not voluntarily withdraw from the program prior to the program's completion of its primary drilling and/or acquisition activities, and then only after giving 120 days written notice. The sponsor may not partially withdraw its property interests held by the program unless such withdrawal is necessary to satisfy the bona fide request of its creditors or approved by a majority in interest vote of the participants. The sponsor must fully indemnify the program against any additional expenses which may result from a partial withdrawal of property interests and such withdrawal may not result in a greater amount of direct costs or administrative costs being allocated to the participants. The withdrawing sponsor shall pay all expenses incurred as a result of its withdrawal.

IX. MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.

A. Minimum Program Capital. The minimum amount of funds to activate a program shall be sufficient to accomplish the objectives of the program, including "spreading the risk". Any minimum less than 1,000,000 will be presumed to be inadequate to spread the risk of the public investors. In those instances where it appears unlikely that the stated objectives of the program can be achieved with the minimum subscriptions, the Administrator may require a greater amount or a reduction of the stated objectives of the program. Provision must be made for the return to public investors of one hundred percent (100%) of paid subscriptions in the event that the established minimum to activate the program is not reached. All funds received prior to activation of the program must be deposited in an interest bearing account with an independent custodian, trustee, or escrow agent whose name and address shall be disclosed in the prospectus.

B. Deferred Payment. Arrangements for deferred payments on account of the purchase price of program interests may be allowed when warranted by the investment objectives of the partnership, but in any event such arrangements shall be subject to the following conditions:

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

1. The period of deferred payments shall coincide with the anticipated cash needs of the program, but the full amount of the purchase price shall be paid within nine (9) months of the date on which the program commences operations.
2. Selling commissions paid upon deferred payments are collectible when such payment is made.
3. The program shall not sell or assign the deferred payments.
4. Such deferred payments shall be contractually binding obligations of the buyer whether or not a promissory note is taken.
5. In the event of a default in the payment of any deferred payment when due, the participant's percentage interests in the program shall not be subject to forfeiture but may be subject to a reasonable reduction for failure of the participant to meet his commitment. Reduction provisions will be considered reasonable if they conform to the reduction provisions provided for in Section VIII.E.2(b) of these guidelines, relating to defaults of mandatory assessments.

C. Cash Redemptions.

1. When cash redemption values of units are computed, such values must be supported by an appraisal of properties prepared by an independent petroleum consultant within 120 days of the commencement date of such cash redemptions. Any evaluation by company personnel must be based on such independent appraisal. Any redemption must be for cash. No redemption shall be considered effective until after cash payments have been paid to the participants.
2. Provisions in the program agreement or other documents which require a participant to sell his unit or give the program or any other person the right to repurchase such unit, irrespective of the desire of the participant to sell, will not be approved unless the participant made misrepresentations which jeopardize the legal or tax status of the program.

D. Appraisal and Compensation

1. In connection with a proposed roll-up; an appraisal of all program assets shall be obtained from a competent independent expert. If the appraisal will be included in a prospectus used to offer the securities of a roll-up entity, the appraisal shall be filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Administrator as an Exhibit to the

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

Registration Statement for the offering. Accordingly, an issuer using the appraisal shall be subject to liability for violation of Section 11 of the Securities Act of 1933 and comparable provisions under State law for any material misrepresentations or material omissions in the appraisal. Program assets shall be appraised on a consistent basis. The appraisal shall be based on all relevant information, including current reserve estimates prepared by an independent petroleum consultant, and shall indicate the value of the program's assets as of a date immediately prior to the announcement of the proposed roll-up transaction. The appraisal shall assume an orderly liquidation of program assets over a 12 month period. The terms of the engagement of the independent expert shall clearly state that the engagement is for the benefit of the program and its participants. A summary of the independent appraisal, indicating all material assumptions underlying the appraisal, shall be included in a report to the participants in connection with a proposed roll-up.

2. In connection with a proposed roll-up, the person sponsoring the roll-up shall offer the participants who vote "no" on the proposal the choice of:

(a) accepting the securities of the roll-up entity offered in the proposed roll-up; or

(b) one of the following:

(1) remaining as participants in the program and preserving their interests therein on the same terms and, conditions as existed previously; or

(2) receiving cash in an amount equal to the participants' pro-rata share of the appraised value of the net assets of the program.

3. The program shall not participate in any proposed roll-up which would result in the participants having democracy rights in the roll-up entity which are less than those provided under Sections VIII.A and VIII.F of these guidelines. If the roll-up entity is a corporation, the democracy rights provided for in these guidelines to greatest extent possible.

4. The program shall not participate in any proposed roll-up which includes provisions which would operate materially impede or frustrate the accumulation of shares by any purchaser of the securities of the roll-up entity (except to the minimum extent necessary to preserve the tax status of the roll-up entity). The program shall not participate in any proposed roll-up which would limit the ability of a participant to exercise the voting rights of its securities of the roll-up entity on the basis of the number of program units held by that participant.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

5. The program shall not participate in any proposed roll-up in which participants' rights of access to the records of the roll-up entity will be less than those provided for under Section VIII.C of these guidelines,

6. The program shall not participate in any proposed roll-up in which any of the costs of the transaction would be borne by the program if the roll-up is not approved by participants.

E. Reinvestment Plans.

1. No offering will be approved by the Administrator that includes a provision which requires that the participant reinvest his share of distributable cash distributions.

2. If permitted under applicable securities laws, a program may make available to its participants a voluntary plan for systematic reinvestments in such program or in any other program if the terms of the plan are fair and reasonable to the participants.

3. To the extent it is economically feasible, money held for reinvestment must be placed in an income-producing account which provides an appropriate safety for the principal, and must be subject to withdrawal by the participant upon not less than 10 days notice. If the funds are not reinvested within 180 days of the date of distribution, they must be distributed, with such income, if any, to the participants.

4. No sales commissions may be deducted directly or indirectly from the reinvested funds.

F. Distribution of Revenues. From time to time and not less often than quarterly, the sponsor must review the program's accounts to determine whether cash distributions are appropriate. The program shall distribute pro rata to the participants funds received by the program and allocated to their accounts which the sponsor deems unnecessary to retain in the program. In no event, however, shall funds be advanced or borrowed for purposes of distributions, if the amount of such distributions would exceed the partnership's accrued and received revenues for the previous four quarters, less paid and accrued operating costs with respect to such revenues. The determination of such revenues and costs shall be made in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, consistently applied. Cash distributions from the program to the sponsor shall only be made in conjunction with distributions to participants and only out of funds properly allocated to the sponsor's account.

G. Distributions in Kind. The program agreement shall provide that any in kind property distributions to the participants will be made to a liquidating trust or similar entity for the benefit of the participants, unless at the time of the distribution:

(1) the sponsor shall offer the individual participants the election of receiving in kind property distributions and the participants, accept such offer after being advised of the risks associated with such direct ownership; or

(2) there are alternative arrangements in place which assure the participants that they will not, at any time, be responsible for the operation or disposition of program properties.

X. PROSPECTUS DISCLOSURE.

A. Offerings Registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission. With respect to offerings registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, and registered or qualified with the Administrator, a prospectus which is part of a registration statement which has been declared effective by said Commission shall be deemed to comply with all requirements as to form; provided, however, the Administrator reserves the right to require additional disclosure in his discretion.

B. Offerings Not Registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

(a) The SPONSOR has determined, in good faith, that the course of conduct which caused the loss or liability was in the best interests of the PROGRAM, and

(a) the legal action relates to acts or omissions with respect to the performance of duties or services on behalf of the PROGRAM;

(b) the legal action is initiated by a third party who is not a PARTICIPANT, or the legal action is initiated by a PARTICIPANT and a court of competent jurisdiction specially approves such advancement; and

III. SUITABILITY OF PARTICIPANTS

A. General Policy

1. The SPONSOR shall establish minimum income and net worth standards for PERSONS who purchase PROGRAM INTERESTS.

PROGRAMS with greater investor risk shall have minimum standards with a substantial NET WORTH requirement. In evaluating the proposed standards, the ADMINISTRATOR may consider the following:

- (g) potential transactions between the PROGRAM and the SPONSOR; and
- (h) any other relevant factors.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

(b) a minimum NET WORTH of $ 250,000

2. NET WORTH shall be determined exclusive of home, home furnishings, and automobiles.

4. The SPONSOR shall set forth in the final prospectus:

(a) meets the minimum income and net worth standards established for the PROGRAM;

objectives and portfolio structure;

(c) is able to bear the economic risk of the investment based on the prospective PARTICIPANT'S overall financial situation; and

(2) the risk that the PARTICIPANT may lose the entire investment;

(3) the restrictions on the liquidity of PROGRAM INTERESTS;

(4) the restrictions on transferability of PROGRAM INTERESTS;

(5) the background and qualifications of the SPONSOR and ADVISOR; and

(6) the tax consequences of the investment.

3. The SPONSOR or each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM will make this determination on the basis of information it has obtained from a prospective PARTICIPANT. Relevant information for this purpose will include at least the age, investment objectives, investment experience, income, NET WORTH, financial situation, and other investments of the prospective PARTICIPANT, as well as any other pertinent factors.

4. The SPONSOR or each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM shall maintain records of the information used to determine that an investment in PROGRAM INTERESTS is suitable and appropriate for each PARTICIPANT. The SPONSOR or each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM shall maintain these records for at least six years.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

5. The SPONSOR shall disclose in the final prospectus the responsibility of the SPONSOR and each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM to make every reasonable effort to determine that the purchase of PROGRAM INTERESTS is a suitable and appropriate investment for each PARTICIPANT, based on information provided by the PARTICIPANT regarding the PARTICIPANT'S financial situation and investment objectives.

D. Subscription Agreements.

1. The ADMINISTRATOR may require that each PARTICIPANT complete and sign a written subscription agreement.

2. The SPONSOR may require that each PARTICIPANT make certain factual representations in the subscription agreement, including the following:

(a) The PARTICIPANT meets the minimum income and net worth standards established for the PROGRAM.

(b) The PARTICIPANT is purchasing the PROGRAM INTERESTS for his or her own account.

(c) The PARTICIPANT has received a copy of the prospectus.

4. The SPONSOR and each PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS on behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM shall not require a PARTICIPANT to make representations in the subscription agreement which are subjective or unreasonable and which:

(a) might cause the PARTICIPANT to believe that he or she has surrendered rights to which he or she is entitled under federal or state law; or

(b) would have the effect of shifting the duties regarding suitability, imposed by law on broker-dealers, to the PARTICIPANT.

5. Prohibited representations include, but are not limited to the following:

(a) The PARTICIPANT understands or comprehends the risks associated with an investment in the PROGRAM.

(b) The investment is a suitable one for the PARTICIPANT.

(c) The PARTICIPANT has read the prospectus.

(d) In deciding to invest in the PROGRAM, the PARTICIPANT has relied solely on the prospectus, and not on any other information or representations from other PERSONS or sources.

6. The SPONSOR may place the content of the prohibited representations in the subscription agreement in the form of disclosures to the PARTICIPANT. The SPONSOR may not place these disclosures in the PARTICIPANT representation section of the subscription agreement.

E. Completion of Sale.

1. The SPONSOR or any PERSON selling PROGRAM INTERESTS ON behalf of the SPONSOR or PROGRAM may not complete a sale of PROGRAM INTERESTS to a PARTICIPANT until at least five business days after the date the PARTICIPANT receives a final prospectus.

2. The SPONSOR or the PERSON designated by the SPONSOR shall send each PARTICIPANT a confirmation of his or her purchase.

F. Minimum Investment. The ADMINISTRATOR may require a minimum initial and subsequent cash investment amount.

IV. FEES, COMPENSATION AND EXPENSES

A. Organizational and Offering Expenses

1. All ORGANIZATIONAL AND OFFERING EXPENSES, including commissions, and any other compensation for sales of PROGRAM INTERESTS shall be reasonable. In no event shall these expenses exceed 15% of the CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS of the offering, regardless of the source of payment. Any interest paid by the PROGRAM on deferred ORGANIZATIONAL AND OFFERING EXPENSES shall comply with Section VI.C.2.(e). Included in ORGANIZATIONAL AND OFFERING EXPENSES shall be the redemption fees as set forth in Section VII.B.

5. No SPONSOR shall directly or indirectly pay or award any commissions or other compensation to any PERSON engaged to sell PROGRAM INTERESTS or give investment advice to a potential PARTICIPANT; provided, however, that this clause shall not prohibit the payment to a registered broker-dealer or other properly licensed PERSON of normal sales commissions for selling PROGRAM INTERESTS.

COMMENT:

Compensation paid to sales agents from a percentage of commodity brokerage commissions (trail commissions) will not be considered objectionable offering expenses under Section IV.A.

B. Expenses of the PROGRAM. All expenses of the PROGRAM shall be billed directly to and paid by the PROGRAM. The SPONSOR shall not be allowed (other than for ORGANIZATIONAL AND OFFERING EXPENSES) to allocate to the PROGRAM any portion of its indirect expenses incurred in connection with the administration of the PROGRAM, including but not limited to salaries, rent, travel expenses and such other items generally falling under the category of SPONSOR overhead expense. All customary and routine administrative expenses of the PROGRAM, except for the actual cost of legal and audit services provided by third parties, shall be subject to the limitations imposed by Section IV.C.1. of these Guidelines. The prospectus shall contain a separate estimate of the amount of legal and audit fees to be charged to the PROGRAM during the first full year of its operations based on minimum and maximum offering sizes.

C. Compensation.

1. NET ASSET Fee--Management fees, advisory fees and all other fees, except for incentive fees and commodity brokerage commissions, when added to the customary and routine administrative expenses of the PROGRAM shall not exceed $\frac{1}{2}$ of 1% of NET ASSETS per month (not to exceed 6% annually). For the purpose of this limitation, customary and routine administrative expenses shall include all expenses of the PROGRAM other than commodity brokerage commissions, incentive fees, the actual cost of legal and audit services and extraordinary expenses. The SPONSOR shall not receive a NET ASSET fee if it receives, directly or indirectly, any portion of the brokerage commissions under Section IV.C.3. If necessary, the SPONSOR shall reimburse the PROGRAM, no less frequently than quarterly, for the amount by which such aggregate fees and expenses exceed the limitations herein provided during the period for which reimbursement is made up to an amount not exceeding the aggregate compensation received by the SPONSOR, including direct or indirect participation in commodity brokerage commissions charged to the PROGRAM. If reimbursement is required or extraordinary expenses are incurred, the SPONSOR shall include in the PROGRAM'S next regular report to the PARTICIPANTS a discussion of the circumstances or events which resulted in the reimbursement or extraordinary expenses.

2. Incentive Fees.

(a) The aggregate incentive fee paid by the PROGRAM shall not exceed 15% of the NEW TRADING PROFITS of the PROGRAM, calculated not more often than quarterly on the VALUATION DATE, over the highest previous VALUATION DATE. For purposes of this calculation, PROGRAM losses shall be carried forward but shall not be carried back. In no event may a modification of ADVISOR compensation result in such compensation exceeding the limitations provided herein. Furthermore, any new contract with an existing ADVISOR must carry toward all losses attributable to that ADVISOR.

(b) The SPONSOR or ADVISOR will be entitled to an additional 2% incentive fee for each 1% by which the PROGRAM'S NET ASSET fee as set forth in IV.C.I. is reduced below 6% annually.

(c) Multi-ADVISOR PROGRAMS. The prospectus must clearly disclose, in both the prospectus summary and text of the prospectus, that incentive fees may be paid to an ADVISOR for a given period despite aggregate PROGRAM losses for such period.

(d) The prospectus shall contain a sample calculation of how incentive fees will be determined.

3. Brokerage Commissions.

(a) The round turn commission to be initially charged to the PROGRAM for each commodity on each exchange on which the PROGRAM is expected to trade shall be disclosed immediately following the compensation table in the prospectus. An estimated range of such round turn commission shall be included in the prospectus summary section. Such round turn commission shall include all fees charged for each brokerage transaction; including, but not limited to, PIT BROKERAGE FEES. An estimate of the round turn commission should be included where a flat rate or asset based commission will be utilized.

(b) The prospectus must clearly disclose, in both the prospectus summary and the text of the prospectus, an estimate of what the brokerage rate will equal as a percentage of average NET ASSETS annually.

(c) The PROGRAM shall seek the best price and services available in its commodity futures brokerage transactions in COMMODITY CONTRACTS with any COMMODITY BROKER affiliated directly or indirectly with the SPONSOR or with any ADVISOR providing the SPONSOR with, research information, recommendations or other services which might be of value to the SPONSOR, unless such transactions are effected at competitive rates. In no event will the PROGRAM be allowed to enter into any exclusive brokerage contract. Brokerage commission charges will be presumptively reasonable if they satisfy one of the following maximum rates:

- i. 80% of the published retail rate plus PIT BROKERAGE FEES, or
- ii. 14% annually of the average NET ASSETS excluding the PROGRAM assets not directly related to trading activity. This 14% limitation shall include PIT BROKERAGE FEES.

The prospectus must state that the brokerage commissions to be charged will not exceed the limitations set forth herein. The ADMINISTRATOR may require the PROGRAM to file periodic reports concerning all brokerage transactions.

4. Other income.

(a) Any interest or other income derived from any portion of the PROGRAM assets whether held in the PROGRAM'S margin account or otherwise shall accrue solely to the benefit of the PROGRAM except as set forth below:

(1) Interest income may be used to reimburse the SPONSOR for "deferred" ORGANIZATIONAL AND OFFERING EXPENSES. Such compensation must be within the overall limits set by Section IV.A.1.

(2) Not more than 20% of interest income derived from PROGRAM assets may be allocated to the PROGRAM BROKER. However, any interest income allocated to the PROGRAM BROKER must be included in determining: whether the limitations imposed by Section IV.C.3.(c) have been satisfied.

PARTICIPANTS shall be notified in writing within 10 days after the VALUATION DATE whether or not their PROGRAM INTERESTS have been redeemed. Payment for the redeemed PROGRAM INTERESTS shall be made within 30 days after the VALUATION DATE. The SPONSOR may provide that redemptions may be temporarily suspended if, in the SPONSOR'S judgment, additional redemptions would impair the ability of the PROGRAM to meet its objectives.

This shall be set forth in one location in tabular form.

2. The INDEPENDENT TRUSTEES will determine, from time to time but at least annually, that the total fees and expenses of the REIT are reasonable in light of the investment performance of the REIT, its NET ASSETS, its NET INCOME, and the fees and expenses of other comparable unaffiliated REITS. Each such determination shall be reflected in the minutes of the meeting of the Trustees.

B. ORGANIZATION AND OFFERING EXPENSES

The ORGANIZATION AND OFFERING EXPENSES paid in connection with the REIT'S formation or the syndication of its shares shall be reasonable and shall in no event exceed an amount equal to 15% of the proceeds raised in an offering.

2. Within 60 days after the end of any fiscal quarter of the REIT for which TOTAL OPERATING EXPENSES (for the twelve (12) months then ended) exceeded 2% of AVERAGE INVESTED ASSETS or 25% of NET INCOME, whichever is greater, there shall be sent to the SHAREHOLDERS of the REIT a written disclosure of such fact, together with an explanation of the factors the INDEPENDENT TRUSTEES considered in arriving at the conclusion

D. Investments

1. The REIT shall not invest in joint ventures with the SPONSOR, ADVISOR, TRUSTEE, or any AFFILIATE thereof, unless a majority of TRUSTEES (including a majority of INDEPENDENT TRUSTEES) not otherwise interested in such transactions, approve the transaction as being fair and reasonable to the REIT and on substantially the same terms and conditions as those received by the other joint venturers.

2. The INDEPENDENT TRUSTEES shall review the investment policies of the REIT with sufficient frequency and at least annually to determine that the policies being followed by the REIT at any time are in the best interests of its SHAREHOLDERS. Each such determination and the basis therefor shall be set forth in the minutes of the TRUSTEES.

F. Multiple PROGRAMS

H. Appraisal of Real Property

The consideration paid for real property acquired by the REIT shall ordinarily be based on the fair market value of the property as determined by a majority of the TRUSTEES. In cases in which a majority of the INDEPENDENT TRUSTEES so determine, and in all cases in which assets are acquired from the ADVISORS, TRUSTEES, SPONSORS or AFFILIATES thereof, such fair market value shall be as determined by an INDEPENDENT EXPERT selected by the INDEPENDENT TRUSTEES.

I. Roll-Up Transaction

1. In connection with a proposed ROLL-UP, an appraisal of all REIT assets shall be obtained from a competent, INDEPENDENT EXPERT. If the appraisal will be included in a PROSPECTUS used to offer the securities of a ROLL-UP ENTITY, the appraisal shall be filed with the SEC and the states as an Exhibit to the Registration Statement for the offering. The terms of the engagement of the INDEPENDENT EXPERT shall clearly state that the engagement is for the benefit of the REIT and its investors. A summary of the independent appraisal, indicating all material assumptions underlying the appraisal, shall be included in a report to the investors in connection with a proposed ROLL-UP.

2. In connection with a proposed ROLL-UP, the PERSON sponsoring the ROLL-UP shall offer to SHAREHOLDERS who vote "no" on the proposal the choice of:

 - ii. receiving cash in an amount equal to the SHAREHOLDERS' pro-rata share of the appraised value of the net assets of the REIT.

COMMENT:

With respect to the options specified in Subsection V.I.2.(b), the PERSON sponsoring the ROLL-UP needs only offer one of these alternatives to dissenting investors who do not wish to accept the security of the ROLL-UP ENTITY.

3. The REIT shall not participate in any proposed ROLL-UP which would result in SHAREHOLDERS having democracy rights in the ROLL-UP ENTITY that are less than those provided for under Sections VI.A., VI.B., VI.C., VI.D., VI.E of these Guidelines.

4. The REIT shall not participate in any proposed ROLL-UP which includes provisions which would operate to materially impede or frustrate the accumulation of shares by any purchaser of the securities of the ROLL-UP ENTITY (except to the minimum extent necessary to preserve the tax status of the ROLL-UP ENTITY). The REIT shall not participate in any proposed ROLL-UP which would limit the ability of an investor to exercise the voting rights of its securities of the ROLL-UP ENTITY on the basis of the number of REIT SHARES held by that investor.

The maximum amount of such borrowings in relation to the NET ASSETS shall, in the absence of a satisfactory showing that higher level of borrowing is appropriate, not exceed 300%. Any excess in borrowing over such 300% level shall be approved by a majority of the INDEPENDENT TRUSTEES and disclosed to SHAREHOLDERS in the next quarterly report of the REIT, along with justification for such excess.

K. Other Limitations. The REIT may not:

1. Invest more than 10% of its total assets in UNIMPROVED REAL PROPERTY or mortgage loans on UNIMPROVED REAL PROPERTY.

3. Invest in or make mortgage loans unless an appraisal is obtained concerning the underlying property except for those loans insured or guaranteed by a government or government agency. In cases in which a majority of the INDEPENDENT TRUSTEES so determine, and in all cases in which the transaction is with the ADVISOR, TRUSTEES, SPONSOR or AFFILIATES thereof, such an appraisal must be obtained from an INDEPENDENT EXPERT concerning the underlying property. This appraisal shall be maintained in the REIT's records for at least five years, and shall be available for inspection and duplication by any SHAREHOLDER. For purposes of this subsection, the "aggregate amount of all mortgage loans outstanding on the property, including the loans of the REIT," shall include all interest (excluding contingent participation in income and/or appreciation in value of the mortgaged property), the current payment of which may be deferred pursuant to the terms of such loans, to the extent that deferred interest on each loan exceeds 5% per annum of the principal balance of the loan;

COMMENT:

Section V.K.3(b) provides certain minimum standards in connection with the investment in or making of mortgage loans by a REIT. The standards may be exceeded for a particular registration if the mortgage loans are supported by sound underwriting criteria, such as the net worth of the borrower; the credit rating of the borrower based historical financial performance, or collateral adequate to justify waiver from application of this section. The standards may also be exceeded where program mortgage loans are or will be insured or guaranteed by a government or a government Agency; where the loan is secured by the pledge or assignment of other real estate or another real estate mortgage; where rents are assigned under a lease where a tenant or tenants have demonstrated through historical net worth and cash flow the ability to satisfy the terms of the lease; or where similar criteria is presented satisfactory to the ADMINISTRATOR.

The REIT may issue options or warrants to persons not so connected with the REIT but not at exercise prices less than the fair market value of such securities on the date of grant and for consideration (which may include services) that in the judgement of the INDEPENDENT TRUSTEES, has a market value less than the value of such option on the date of grant. I. Background STATEMENTS OF POLICY_and_@_NASAA SOP)_and_footnotes(n5);vk n1 The 2007 Franchise Rule represents the first time the FTC has amended its Franchise Rule (the "Original Franchise Rule") since 1978, when it was originally promulgated.STATEMENTS OF POLICY_and_@_NASAA SOP)_and_footnotes(n6);vk n2 Among other things, the 2007 Franchise Rule adopts new requirements for franchisors preparing franchise disclosure documents, also called "offering circulars." Since December 30, 1993, the FTC has allowed franchisors to prepare and distribute disclosure documents under one of two disclosure formats: (1) the FTC's Original Franchise Rule; or (2) the Uniform Franchise Offering Circular ("UFOC") Guidelines, adopted on April 23, 1993 by the North American Administrators Association, Inc. ("NASAA").STATEMENTS OF POLICY_and_@_NASAA SOP)_and_footnotes(n7);vk n3 After NASAA adopted the UFOC Guidelines, fifteen states ("Registration States") required franchisors to follow that disclosure format to comply with state franchise laws. As a practical matter, most franchisors have chosen to prepare their disclosure documents under the UFOC Guidelines, even in states where that format is not specifically required.

The FTC's 2007 Franchise Rule adopts disclosure requirements that closely track the UFOC Guidelines.STATEMENTS OF POLICY_and_@_NASAA SOP)_and_footnotes(n8);vk n4 In some instances, however, the 2007 Franchise Rule omits or streamlines UFOC Guideline disclosure requirements, such as broker disclosures, cover page risk factors, and detailed computer requirements. In addition, the 2007 Franchise Rule incorporates new disclosure requirements not found in the UFOC Guidelines, including disclosures related to a franchisor's parent, franchisor initiated litigation, confidentiality clauses and the existence of trademark-specific franchisee associations. The 2007 Franchise Rule also substantially revised the UFOC Guideline disclosure of statistical information on franchisees and outlets (Item 20), adopting the approach suggested by NASAA in its comment to the FTC's Notice of Proposed Rulemaking.STATEMENTS OF POLICY_and_@_NASAA SOP)_and_footnotes(n9);vk n5

In light of the similarities between the 2007 Franchise Rule and the UFOC Guidelines, and the FTC's lengthy and comprehensive regulatory review that preceded its adoption of the 2007 Franchise Rule, NASAA intends at this time to adopt the disclosure requirements under the 2007 Franchise Rule as a successor to the UFOC Guidelines, with minimal additional requirements, the most significant being a state risk factor cover page.

The FTC's 2007 Franchise Rule allows franchisors to choose to follow the new disclosure format on July 1, 2007, and some franchisors may seek to utilize that disclosure format in the Registration States as soon as possible. Consequently, until NASAA adopts a replacement for the UFOC Guidelines, NASAA recommends that, as of July 1, 2007, Registration States permit franchisors to file in those states franchise disclosure documents prepared under the 2007 Franchise Rule, in accordance with the Instructions set forth below. Franchisors may continue to file and use in the Registration States franchise disclosure documents prepared under the UFOC Guidelines until July 1, 2008.

II. Uniform Franchise Registration Application

In order to register a franchise in the Registration States, franchisors must continue to follow the Instructions provided under the UFOC Guidelines for filing franchise registration applications, and must continue to file the following application documents, other than the disclosure document, in the format required under the UFOC Guidelines:

A. Uniform Franchise Registration Application Page;

B. Supplemental Information page(s);

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

C. Certification page;

D. Uniform Consent to Service of Process;

E. Sales Agent Disclosure Form;

F. If the applicant is a corporation or partnership or limited liability company, an authorizing resolution if the application is verified by a person other than applicant's officer or general partner;

G. Uniform Franchise Offering Circular, or

Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document (see Part III below);

H. Application Fee (varies by state);

I. Auditor's consent (or a photocopy of the consent) to the use of the latest audited financial statements in the offering circular; and J. Advertising or promotional materials, if required.

III. The Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document

A. Format.

The Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document shall be prepared in the format required under the 2007 Franchise Rule, 16 CFR 436.3-5, as amended, (Subparts C and D), with the additions listed at Section III B and C below. A copy of the contents and instructions for preparing a Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document under the 2007 Franchise Rule, along with accompanying definitions applicable for preparing that form of disclosure document, is attached to these Instructions at Exhibit 1.

B. State Cover Page.

1. State the following legend:

STATE COVER PAGE

Your state may have a franchise law that requires a franchisor to register or file with a state franchise administrator before offering or selling in your state. REGISTRATION OF A FRANCHISE BY A STATE DOES NOT MEAN THAT THE STATE RECOMMENDS THE FRANCHISE OR HAS VERIFIED THE INFORMATION IN THIS DISCLOSURE DOCUMENT.

Call the state franchise administrator listed in Exhibit _____ for information about the franchisor, or about franchising in your state.

2. State the following:

MANY FRANCHISE AGREEMENTS DO NOT ALLOW YOU TO RENEW UNCONDITIONALLY AFTER THE INITIAL TERM EXPIRES. YOU MAY HAVE TO SIGN A NEW AGREEMENT WITH DIFFERENT TERMS AND CONDITIONS IN ORDER TO CONTINUE TO OPERATE YOUR BUSINESS. BEFORE YOU BUY, CONSIDER WHAT RIGHTS YOU HAVE TO RENEW YOUR FRANCHISE, IF ANY, AND WHAT TERMS YOU MIGHT HAVE TO ACCEPT IN ORDER TO RENEW.

3. If any of the following apply, state the following, using capital letters as shown:

Please consider the following RISK FACTORS before you buy this franchise:

THE FRANCHISE AGREEMENT REQUIRES YOU TO RESOLVE DISPUTES WITH US BY [LITIGATION/ARBITRATION/MEDIATION] ONLY IN [STATE]. OUT-OF-STATE [LITIGATION/ARBITRATION/MEDIATION] MAY FORCE YOU TO ACCEPT A LESS FAVORABLE SETTLEMENT FOR DISPUTES. IT MAY ALSO COST YOU MORE TO [SUE/ARBITRATE/MEDIATE] WITH US IN [STATE] THAN IN YOUR OWN STATE.

THE FRANCHISE AGREEMENT STATES THAT [STATE] LAW GOVERNS THE AGREEMENT, AND THIS LAW MAY NOT PROVIDE THE SAME PROTECTIONS AND BENEFITS AS LOCAL LAW. YOU MAY WANT TO COMPARE THESE LAWS.

4. In addition to the above, disclose other risk factors required by a state administrator.

5. If one or more risk factor applies, also state:

THERE MAY BE OTHER RISKS CONCERNING THIS FRANCHISE.

6. If applicable, state the following:

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

We use the services of one or more FRANCHISE BROKERS or referral sources to assist us in selling our franchise. A franchise broker or referral source represents us, not you. We pay this person a fee for selling our franchise or referring you to us. You should be sure to do your own investigation of the franchise.

7.

(a) State the following: Effective Date: _____

(b) Leave the effective date blank until notified of effectiveness by the state administrator.

(c) If an applicant is using a multi state disclosure document, the applicant may list multiple state effective dates together on a separate page following the Supplement State Cover page.

C. Receipt.

If applicable state law requires a franchisor to provide the disclosure document earlier than the 14 days provided in the 2007 Franchise Rule, the franchisor shall add a statement to the receipt page to the uniform franchise disclosure document to accurately reflect state law requirements to deliver the disclosure document.

Exhibit 1: Uniform Franchise Disclosure Document

(4) For purposes of this section, a public figure means a person whose name or physical appearance is generally known to the public in the geographic area where the franchise will be located.

Item 19: Financial Performance Representations.

(1) Begin by stating the following:

The FTC's Franchise Rule permits a franchisor to provide information about the actual or potential financial performance of its franchised and/or franchisor-owned outlets, if there is a reasonable basis for the information, and if the information is included in the disclosure document. Financial performance information that differs from that included in Item 19 may be given only if: (1) a franchisor provides the actual records of an existing outlet you are considering buying; or (2) a franchisor supplements the information provided in this Item 19, for example, by providing information about possible performance at a particular location or under particular circumstances.

(2) If a franchisor does not provide any financial performance representation in Item 19, also state:

We do not make any representations about a franchisee's future financial performance or the past financial performance of company-owned or franchised outlets. We also do not authorize our employees or representatives to make any such representations either orally or in writing. If you are purchasing an existing outlet, however, we may provide you with the actual records of that outlet. If you receive any other financial performance information or projections of your future income, you should report it to the franchisor's management by contacting [name, address, and telephone number], the Federal Trade Commission, and the appropriate state regulatory agencies.

(3) If the franchisor makes any financial performance representation to prospective franchisees, the franchisor must have a reasonable basis and written substantiation for the representation at the time the representation is made and must state the representation in the Item 19 disclosure. The franchisor must also disclose the following:

(i) Whether the representation is an historic financial performance representation about the franchise system's existing outlets, or a subset of those outlets, or is a forecast of the prospective franchisee's future financial performance.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

(ii) If the representation relates to past performance of the franchise system's existing outlets, the material bases for the representation, including:

(A) Whether the representation relates to the performance of all of the franchise system's existing outlets or only to a subset of outlets that share a particular set of characteristics (for example, geographic location, type of location (such as free standing vs. shopping center), degree of competition, length of time the outlets have operated, services or goods sold, services supplied by the franchisor, and whether the outlets are franchised or franchisor-owned or operated).

(B) The dates when the reported level of financial performance was achieved.

(C) The total number of outlets that existed in the relevant period and, if different, the number of outlets that had the described characteristics.

(D) The number of outlets with the described characteristics whose actual financial performance data were used in arriving at the representation.

(E) Of those outlets whose data were used in arriving at the representation, the number and percent that actually attained or surpassed the stated results.

(F) Characteristics of the included outlets, such as those characteristics noted in paragraph (3)(ii)(A) of this Item 19, that may differ materially from those of the outlet that may be offered to a prospective franchisee.

(iii) If the representation is a forecast of future financial performance, state the material bases and assumptions on which the projection is based. The material assumptions underlying a forecast include significant factors upon which a franchisee's future results are expected to depend. These factors include, for example, economic or market conditions that are basic to a franchisee's operation, and encompass matters affecting, among other things, a franchisee's sales, the cost of goods or services sold, and operating expenses.

(iv) A clear and conspicuous admonition that a new franchisee's individual financial results may differ from the result stated in the financial performance representation.

(v) A statement that written substantiation for the financial performance representation will be made available to the prospective franchisee upon reasonable request.

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

(4) If a franchisor wishes to disclose only the actual operating results for a specific outlet being offered for sale, it need not comply with this section, provided the information is given only to potential purchasers of that outlet.

(5) If a franchisor furnishes financial performance information according to this section, the franchisor may deliver to a prospective franchisee a supplemental financial performance representation about a particular location or variation, apart from the disclosure document. The supplemental representation must:

(i) Be in writing.

(ii) Explain the departure from the financial performance representation in the disclosure document.

(iii) Be prepared in accordance with the requirements of paragraph (3)(i)-(iv) of this Item 19.

(iv) Be furnished to the prospective franchisee.

Your state may have a franchise law that requires a franchisor to register or file with a state franchise administrator before offering or selling in your state. REGISTRATION OF A FRANCHISE BY A STATE DOES NOT MEAN

3-NASAA STATEMENTS OF POLICY Blue Sky Regulation § NASAA

THAT THE STATE RECOMMENDS THE FRANCHISE OR HAS VERIFIED THE INFORMATION IN THIS DISCLOSURE DOCUMENT.

Call the state franchise administrator listed in Exhibit _____ for information about the franchisor, or about franchising in your state.

MANY FRANCHISE AGREEMENTS DO NOT ALLOW YOU TO RENEW UNCONDITIONALLY AFTER THE INITIAL TERM EXPIRES. YOU MAY HAVE TO SIGN A NEW AGREEMENT WITH DIFFERENT TERMS AND CONDITIONS IN ORDER TO CONTINUE TO OPERATE YOUR BUSINESS. BEFORE YOU BUY, CONSIDER WHAT RIGHTS YOU HAVE TO RENEW YOUR FRANCHISE, IF ANY, AND WHAT TERMS YOU MIGHT HAVE TO ACCEPT IN ORDER TO RENEW.

Please consider the following RISK FACTORS before you buy this franchise:

1. THE FRANCHISE AGREEMENT REQUIRES YOU TO RESOLVE DISPUTES WITH US BY ARBITRATION ONLY IN MINNESOTA. OUT-OF-STATE ARBITRATION MAY FORCE YOU TO ACCEPT A LESS FAVORABLE SETTLEMENT FOR DISPUTES. IT MAY ALSO COST YOU MORE TO ARBITRATE WITH US IN MINNESOTA THAN IN YOUR OWN STATE.
2. THE FRANCHISE AGREEMENT STATES THAT MINNESOTA LAW GOVERNS THE AGREEMENT, AND THIS LAW MAY NOT PROVIDE THE SAME PROTECTIONS AND BENEFITS AS LOCAL LAW. YOU MAY WANT TO COMPARE THESE LAWS
3. THERE MAY BE OTHER RISKS CONCERNING THIS FRANCHISE.

We use the services of one or more FRANCHISE BROKERS or referral sources to assist us in selling our franchise. A franchise broker or referral source represents us, not you. We pay this person a fee for selling our franchise or referring you to us. You should be sure to do your own investigation of the franchise.

Further, any franchisor who has historically used only the Franchise Rule format, or who is new to franchising, need not disclose confidential settlements entered prior to the effective date of this Rule.

The text of the disclosure may include a summary of the opinion if the full opinion is attached and the attorney issuing the opinion consents to the use of the summary.

(n18)Footnote 14. If counsel consents, the franchisor may include a counsel's opinion or a summary of the opinion if the full opinion is attached.

(n19)Footnote 15. Franchisors may substitute alternative contact information at the request of the former franchisee, such as a home address, post office address, or a personal or business email address.
