

1 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

Publication Information

1 California Forms of Jury Instruction Questions?

Questions?

Technical Questions?

Phone: (800) 223-5297
Fax: (800) 533-1645 or (518) 487-3191
E-Mail: technical.support@lexisnexis.com
Visit Our Web Site: <http://www.lexis.com>

Editorial Questions?

For questions about the Editorial Content appearing in these volumes or reprint permission, please call: Medico-Legal Andrew D. Watry, J.D. cal.custquest@lexisnexis.com at 1-800-424-0651 Ext. 3268
Galen Clayton cal.custquest@lexisnexis.com at 1-800-424-0651 Ext. 3426
For assistance with replacement pages, shipments, billing or other customer service matters, please call:
Customer Services Department at (800) 833-9844
Outside the United States and Canada, please call (518) 487-3000
Fax Number (518) 487-3584
Customer Service Website <http://www.lexisnexis.com/custserv/>
For information on other Matthew Bender publications, please call
Your account manager or (800) 223-1940
Outside the United States and Canada, please call (518) 487-3000

2 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

Publication Information

1 California Forms of Jury Instruction Cite As

Cite As

Cite this publication as:

[Vol. no.] California Forms of Jury Instruction, § [sec. no.] (Matthew Bender)

Because the section you are citing may be revised in a later release, you may wish to photocopy or print out the section for convenient future reference.

3 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

Publication Information

1 California Forms of Jury Instruction Copyright

Copyright

This publication is designed to provide accurate and authoritative information in regard to the subject matter covered. It is sold with the understanding that the publisher is not engaged in rendering legal, accounting, or other professional services. If legal advice or other expert assistance is required, the services of a competent professional should be sought.

LexisNexis, the knowledge burst logo, and Michie are trademarks of Reed Elsevier Properties, Inc., used under license. Matthew Bender is a registered trademark of Matthew Bender Properties, Inc.

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, Directions for Use, Sources and Authority, or other Advisory Committee commentary, User's Guide, Life Expectancy Tables, Disposition Table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

Judicial Council Jury Instructions reprinted by permission of the Judicial Council of California. © 2010 Judicial Council of California.

ISBN 0-8205-1138-2

Library of Congress Card Number: 84-073086

4 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

Publication Information

1 California Forms of Jury Instruction Drafters of Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions (CACI)

Drafters of Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions (CACI)

The Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions (CACI) reproduced in this publication were written by the Civil Subcommittee of the Task Force on Jury Instructions, and are updated by the Judicial Council's Advisory Committee on Civil Jury Instructions.

Judicial Council Advisory Committee on Civil Jury Instructions Appointed by the Honorable Chief Justice Ronald M. George

Hon. H. Walter Croskey
Chair

Committee Members

Hon. Victoria M. Chavez	Mr. Todd M. Schneider
Mr. Robert A. Goodin	Mr. Richard L. Seabolt
Hon. Elizabeth A. Grimes	Mr. Roman Silberfeld
Mr. Leonard C. Herr	Hon. Diana Becton Smith
Hon. Stephen J. Kane	Ms. Christine Spagnoli
Mr. Michael A. Kelly	Hon. Martin J. Tangeman
Hon. Monica Marlow	Hon. Lynn O' Malley Taylor (Ret.)
Ms. Edith R. Matthai	Prof. Peter Tiersma
Hon. Richard J. McAdams	Hon. Jon S. Tigar
Mr. John E. Porter	Mr. Robert S. Warren

Hon. James A. Richman

Hon. John Shepard Wiley Jr.

5 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

Publication Information

1 California Forms of Jury Instruction About the Contributors

About the Contributors

ORIGINAL AUTHORS FOR CALIFORNIA FORMS OF JURY INSTRUCTION (Matthew Bender)

Former Chapters 1-5, 7 and 8 (now Chapters 1A, 3A-3D, 3F, and 3G) were originally authored by John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman in 1985, who at the time were both partners in the Oakland law firm of Stark, Stewart, Wells & Robinson. He received a B.S. degree from Jamestown College in 1949 and L.L.B. (Order of the Coif) from Stanford University in 1952; Ms. Pearlman received a B.A. (magna cum laude) from Yale University in 1971 and a J.D. (Order of the Coif) from Boalt Hall School of Law, University of California at Berkeley in 1974. Mr. Wells has since retired and lives in Sonoma, California. In 1989, Ms. Pearlman became the first Presiding Judge of the State Bar Court, serving until 1995. Since then, she returned to Oakland and serves as an arbitrator and mediator in civil cases for Alternative Resolution Centers and as an expert witness in attorney ethics.

The current revised edition of former Chapters 1-5, 7 and 8 of this volume (now Chapters 1A, 3A-3D, 3F, and 3G) updates the authors' work to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

CONSULTANTS FOR CALIFORNIA FORMS OF JURY INSTRUCTION (Matthew Bender)

Since 1971, the Honorable Rex Heeseman was a commercial litigator in California federal and state courts, with significant experience with respect to agency, class action, contract, employment, insurance, and real estate issues, as well as related tort theories. He has first-chaired 20 trials to resolution, and personally settled over 500 lawsuits and other disputes. He is often retained as an expert witness, a consultant, an arbitrator and a mediator.

1 California Forms of Jury Instruction About the Contributors

A graduate of Stanford Law School, Mr. Heeseman is currently a Superior Court Judge in Los Angeles. Prior to this appointment, he was a partner in the Los Angeles office of Luce, Forward, Hamilton & Scripps, LLP. A former Assistant and Special Assistant U.S. Attorney, he has taught as an Adjunct Professor ("Insurance Law" and "California Business Torts") at Loyola Law School and as a Lecturer at UCLA Law School.

Judge Heeseman co-authors TRG's California Practice Guide "Insurance Litigation" (1995 and updates). He has written "Good Faith Duties and Tort Remedies in Lender Liability Litigation," 15 W.St.U.L.Rev. 617, and "The Special Relationship Requirement for Bad Faith Liability," Los Angeles Lawyer, as well as a columnist for the Los Angeles Daily Journal on "Commercial Torts" and "Insurance Topics." And, he has been a panelist on many subjects for various groups (e.g., California CEB's "Business Practices Litigation" and "Evaluating and Proving Damages in Business Litigation" and the ABA Litigation Section's "Trial of Lending Practices Case" and "Appellate Analysis of Emerging Business Torts").

Ronald Oster is a Partner in the Litigation Department of Paul, Hastings, Janofsky & Walker LLP. He received his A.B. degree in 1970, with honors, from Stanford University. He received his J.D. degree in 1973 from Stanford Law School, where he co-chaired the Moot Court Board. He has served as the Chair of the Firm's National Litigation Department as well as the head of the Los Angeles Litigation Department.

Mr. Oster has extensive trial experience in complex commercial cases. He was the lead trial counsel in cases resulting in multi-million jury verdicts for clients Amoco Corporation ($425 million), Childcraft Corp. ($18.6 million), Chemstar, Inc. ($16.8 million), American Medical International ($12 million), and Baxter Healthcare ($6.1 million). He has successfully defended many other clients including General Electric Capital Corporation, McGraw-Hill, Inc. and Harnischfeger Corporation. In 1999, Mr. Oster was part of the litigation team that successfully defended Standard & Poor's in the massive Orange County Bankruptcy proceedings, which resulted in a victory for Standard & Poor's and the establishment of significant First Amendment protections for commercial rating entities.

Mr. Oster has also taken a leading role in the settlement of some of the nation's largest and most complex commercial disputes. Between 1989 and 1991, he advised Phillips Petroleum in successfully recovering more than $1 billion for property damage and business interruption claims arising from the fire and explosion at the Houston Chemical Complex. In 1988 and 1989, he represented First Interstate Bank in connection with the highrise fire at First Interstate's Los Angeles headquarters. Between 1987 and 1992, he represented UNR Industries, Inc. in Chicago regarding insurance coverage for tens of thousands of asbestos claims. Between 1979 and 1983, he represented GAF Corporation with respect to asbestos liabilities.

Mr. Oster has spoken on litigation subjects for the American Bar Association, the Los Angeles County Bar Association, the California Continuing Education of the Bar (CEB), the Stanford Law School and the University of Southern California Law School. He has served as a faculty member for The Rutter Group and the California Judges Association. For 20 years he has taught the CEB course on "Recent Developments in Civil Litigation." He is a contributing editor to the Environmental Insurance Handbook and a co-author of The Greening of American Business. He wrote the 1994 revisions to the chapter on pleadings in the Matthew Bender publication Insurance Bad Faith Litigation, and he has provided comments and revisions to the 1999 California Practice Guide on Insurance Litigation by The Rutter Group. He has also written for The National Law Journal and other legal publications.

Joseph M. Devine is a member of the San Francisco insurance defense firm Kern, Noda, Devine and Segal. He has extensive experience in the defense of automobile accident cases, including a substantial number of jury trials. He is a member of the Defense Council Association of Northern California as well as the Northern California Fraud Investigators Association. Mr. Devine is a Graduate of San Francisco Law School and previously worked in the Consumer Fraud Unit of the San Francisco District Attorney's Office. He has received numerous appointments from the Superior Courts of San Francisco and Marin Counties to conduct settlement conferences and arbitrations.

Dona E. Cohn-Payne received her B.A. from the University of South Florida and her J.D. from Nova Southeastern University. She was admitted to the Florida Bar in 1983 and the California Bar in 1989.

Ms. Cohn-Payne has been a managing attorney at a major personal injury firm in San Francisco and a partner in her previous firm. She is currently the founder of the Cohn Law Firm in the San Francisco Bay area. She has extensive experience in all aspects of civil trial practice and has handled thousands of personal injury cases. Ms. Cohn-Payne's litigation experience includes winning verdicts for automobile accident victims and obtaining multi-million dollar settlements for her clients.

Ms. Cohn-Payne has acted as a settlement conference judge and is an approved arbitrator/mediator for the San Francisco County Superior Court. She is a member of the Consumer Attorneys of California, the American Trial Lawyers Association, and the San Francisco Trial Lawyers Association. www.cohnlawoffice.com

6 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

Publication Information

1 California Forms of Jury Instruction Publisher's Editorial Staff

Publisher's Editorial Staff

MARK WASSERMAN, J.D.

Senior Director, Content Development

ANDREW D. WATRY, J.D.

Coordinating Legal Editor

GALEN CLAYTON

Editor

CLAUDIA GUREVICH

Manager, Content Administration

PAUL SOUSA

Coordinator of Content Operations

Tim Morimoto

Index Editor

7 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

Publication Information

1 California Forms of Jury Instruction Contributing Authors

Contributing Authors

ED BASKAUSKAS, J.D. KATHERINE HARDY, J.D. STEPHANIE OSTROVE, J.D. JULIE A. PARR, J.D.
BILL RYAN, J.D. BRIAN VAUGHN, J.D. LINDA WALLIMANN, J.D.
Contributing Freelance Writers

8 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

What's New

1 California Forms of Jury Instruction Scope

Scope

HIGHLIGHTS

Release 54 October 2010

Fiduciary Duty Practice Tips

Ch. 41 has been revised and updated with expert practice tips by Susan Azad of Latham & Watkins, Los Angeles.

Recent Cases

Recent cases have been added throughout the publication.

New and Revised CACI

June 2010 CACI changes are incorporated, including six new instructions, 23 revised instructions, two revoked instructions, and 27 instructions with revised sources and authority.

Fraud. Ch. 19A, Matthew Bender Fraud and Deceit Instructions, has been edited and improved with practice tips, expanded discussion, and recent cases.

Construction Contracts. Recovery authorized by Bus. & Prof. Code § 7031(b) may not be reduced by an unlicensed contractor's claim of offset for materials and services provided in connection with the unlicensed work or for work performed during a period that it held a license [Alatraste v. Cesar's Exterior Designs Inc. (2010) 183 Cal.App.4th 656] . See Ch. 3I, Matthew Bender Construction Contract Instructions, MB 300I.59[3][e].

Conversion. In a change from the past, recent cases allow a conversion cause of action for certain types of intangible personal property [Hernandez v. Lopez (2009) 180 Cal.App.4th 932 ; see, e.g., CRS Recovery, Inc. v. Laxton (9th Cir. 2010) 600 F.3d 1138 . See Ch. 21A, Matthew Bender Conversion Instructions, MB 2100A.05[3][a].

Employment Law. A California appellate court has held that the public policy in favor of an employer's duty to pay overtime wages protects an employee from termination in retaliation for making a good-faith but mistaken claim to overtime pay. See Barbosa v. IMPCO Techs., Inc. (2009) 179 Cal.App.4th 1116, discussed in Ch. 24A, Matthew Bender Employment Contract Instructions, MB 2400A.11[3][e].

1 California Forms of Jury Instruction Scope

Insurance. Self-insurance retentions are somewhat equivalent to primary liability insurance, and policies that are subject to SIRs are "excess policies" that have no duty to indemnify until the SIR is exhausted [see Forecast Homes, Inc. v. Steadfast Ins. Co. (2010) 181 Cal.App.4th 1466]. The analogy between "primary" and "excess" insurance should not be carried too far; an SIR is not the same as primary insurance for all purposes [Forecast Homes, Inc. v. Steadfast Ins. Co. (2010) 181 Cal.App.4th 1466]. See Ch. 23A, Matthew Bender Insurance Contract Instructions, MB 2300A.06[3].

Fiduciary Duties. Ch. 41, California Judicial Council Breach of Fiduciary Duty Instructions, has been revised and updated with expert practice tips by Susan Azad, a litigation partner in the Los Angeles office of Latham & Watkins, LLP.

Cases Citing CACI. The table of cases citing CACI has updated in this release.

New and Revised CACI. Release 54 of California Forms of Jury Instruction includes the following CACI changes, approved at the June 24, 2010, Judicial Council of California meeting:

- 6 new instructions
- 23 revised instructions
- 2 revoked instructions
- 27 instructions with sources and authority

A complete list of all instructions included in this release can be found below.

PRETRIAL

CACI No. 101. Overview of Trial (Revised)

CACI No. 113. Bias (New)

EVIDENCE

CACI No. 204. Willful Suppression of Evidence (Sources and Authority)

NEGLIGENCE

CACI No. 450. Good Samaritan (Revoked)

CACI No. 456. Defendant Estopped From Asserting Statute of Limitations Defense (Sources and Authority)

MEDICAL NEGLIGENCE

CACI No. 504. Standard of Care for Nurses (Revised)

PROFESSIONAL NEGLIGENCE

CACI No. 606. Legal Malpractice Causing Criminal Conviction -- Actual Innocence (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 610. Affirmative Defense -- Statute of Limitations -- Attorney Malpractice -- One-Year Limit (Code Civ. Proc., § 340.6) (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 611. Affirmative Defense -- Statute of Limitations -- Attorney Malpractice -- Four-Year Limit (Code Civ. Proc., § 340.6) (Sources and Authority)

PREMISES LIABILITY

1 California Forms of Jury Instruction Scope

CACI No. 1001. Basic Duty of Care (Revised)

CACI No. 1006. Landlord's Duty (Revised)

DANGEROUS CONDITION OF PUBLIC PROPERTY

CACI No. 1102. Definition of "Dangerous Condition" (Gov. Code, § 830(a)) (Revised)

CACI No. 1123. Loss of Design Immunity (Cornette) (Revised)

CACI No. VF-1101. Dangerous Condition of Public Property -- Affirmative Defense -- Reasonable Act or Omission (Gov. Code, § 835.4(a)) (Revised)

PRODUCTS LIABILITY

CACI No. 1205. Strict Liability -- Failure to Warn -- Essential Factual Elements (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 1222. Negligence -- Manufacturer or Supplier -- Duty to Warn -- Essential Factual Elements (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 1240. Affirmative Defense to Express Warranty -- Not "Basis of Bargain" (Revoked)

CACI No. 1244. Affirmative Defense -- Sophisticated User (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 1246. Affirmative Defense -- Design Defect -- Governmental Contractor (New)

MALICIOUS PROSECUTION

CACI No. 1501. Wrongful Use of Civil Proceedings (Sources and Authority)

EMOTIONAL DISTRESS

CACI No. 1621. Negligent Infliction of Emotional Distress -- Bystander -- Essential Factual Elements (Sources and Authority)

RIGHT OF PRIVACY

CACI No. 1800. Intrusion Into Private Affairs (Revised)

CACI No. 1801. Public Disclosure of Private Facts (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 1805. Affirmative Defense to Use or Appropriation of Name or Likeness -- First Amendment (Comedy III) (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 1807. Affirmative Defense -- Invasion of Privacy Justified (Revised)

FRAUD OR DECEIT

CACI No. 1901. Concealment (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. VF-1903. Negligent Misrepresentation (Revised)

TRESPASS

CACI No. 2003. Treble Damages -- Timber (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 2020. Public Nuisance -- Essential Factual Elements (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 2030. Affirmative Defense -- Statute of Limitations -- Trespass or Private Nuisance (Sources and Authority)

INSURANCE LITIGATION

CACI No. 2336. Bad Faith (Third Party) -- Unreasonable Failure to Defend -- Essential Factual Elements (Sources and Authority)

FAIR EMPLOYMENT AND HOUSING ACT

CACI No. 2505. Retaliation (Gov. Code, § 12940(h)) (Revised)

CACI No. 2508. Failure to File Timely Administrative Complaint (Gov. Code, § 12960(d)) -- Plaintiff Alleges Continuing Violation (New)

CACI No. 2523. "Harassing Conduct" Explained (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 2540. Disability Discrimination -- Disparate Treatment -- Essential Factual Element (Revised)

CACI No. 2541. Disability Discrimination -- Reasonable Accommodation -- Essential Factual Element (Gov. Code, § 12960(m)) (Revised)

1 California Forms of Jury Instruction Scope

CACI No. 2546. Disability Discrimination -- Reasonable Accommodation -- Failure to Engage in Interactive Process (Gov. Code, § 12960(n)) (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. VF-2508. Disability Discrimination -- Disparate Treatment (Revised)

CACI No. VF-2514. Failure to Prevent Harassment, Discrimination, or Retaliation (New)

CIVIL RIGHTS

CACI No. 3000. Violation of Federal Civil Rights -- In General -- Essential Factual Elements (42 U.S.C. § 1983) (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 3010. Violation of Prisoner's Federal Civil Rights -- Eighth Amendment -- Excessive Force (42 U.S.C. § 1983) (Revised)

CACI No. 3016. Retaliation -- Essential Factual Elements (42 U.S.C., § 1983) (New)

ELDER ABUSE AND DEPENDENT ADULT CIVIL PROTECTION ACT

CACI No. 3100. Financial Abuse -- Essential Factual Elements (Welf. & Inst. Code, § 15610.30) (Revised)

SONG-BEVERLY CONSUMER WARRANTY ACT

CACI No. 3201. Failure to Promptly Purchase or Replace New Motor Vehicle After Reasonable Number of Repair Opportunities -- Essential Factual Elements (Civ. Code, § 1793.2(d)) (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 3212. Duration of Implied Warranty (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 3213. Affirmative Defense -- Statute of Limitations (U. Com. Code, § 2725) (New)

CACI No. 3221. Affirmative Defense -- Disclaimer of Implied Warranties (Revised)

CACI No. 3241. Restitution From Manufacturer -- New Motor Vehicle (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 3244. Civil Penalty -- Willful Violation (Civ. Code, § 1794(c)) (Sources and Authority)

VICARIOUS LIABILITY

CACI No. 3713. Nondelegable Duty (Revised)

CACI No. 3721. Scope of Employment -- Peace Officer's Misuse of Authority (Sources and Authority)

DAMAGES

CACI No. 3903F. Damage to Real Property (Economic Damage) (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 3930. Mitigation of Damages (Personal Injury) (Sources and Authority)

BREACH OF FIDUCIARY DUTY

CACI No. 4102. Duty of Undivided Loyalty -- Essential Factual Elements (Revised)

UNLAWFUL DETAINER

CACI No. 4304. Termination for Violation of Terms of Lease/Agreement -- Essential Factual Elements (Revised)

CACI No. 4320. Affirmative Defense -- Implied Warranty of Habitability (Revised)

CACI No. 4321. Affirmative Defense -- Retaliatory Eviction -- Tenant's Complaint (Civ. Code, § 1942.5) (Revised)

CACI No. 4324. Affirmative Defense -- Waiver by Acceptance of Rent (Revised)

9 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

Table of New, Revised, and Revoked Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions (CACI)

1 California Forms of Jury Instruction .syn

§ Synopsis to Appendix : Table of New, Revised, and Revoked Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions (CACI)

June 2010 Scope

10 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

Table of New, Revised, and Revoked Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions (CACI)

1 California Forms of Jury Instruction June 2010

June 2010

This supplement to the 2010 Edition of CACI includes all of the new, revised, and revoked California Civil Jury Instructions approved by the Judicial Council of California at its meeting of June 25, 2010.

PRETRIAL

CACI No. 101. Overview of Trial (Revised)

CACI No. 113. Bias (New)

EVIDENCE

CACI No. 204. Willful Suppression of Evidence (Sources and Authority)

NEGLIGENCE

CACI No. 450. Good Samaritan (Revoked)

CACI No. 456. Defendant Estopped From Asserting Statute of Limitations Defense (Sources and Authority)

MEDICAL NEGLIGENCE

CACI No. 504. Standard of Care for Nurses (Revised)

PROFESSIONAL NEGLIGENCE

CACI No. 606. Legal Malpractice Causing Criminal Conviction--Actual Innocence (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 610. Affirmative Defense--Statute of Limitations--Attorney Malpractice--One-Year Limit (Code Civ. Proc., § 340.6) (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 611. Affirmative Defense--Statute of Limitations--Attorney Malpractice--Four-Year Limit (Code Civ. Proc., § 340.6) (Sources and Authority)

PREMISES LIABILITY

CACI No. 1001. Basic Duty of Care (Revised)

CACI No. 1006. Landlord's Duty (Revised)

DANGEROUS CONDITION OF PUBLIC PROPERTY

CACI No. 1102. Definition of "Dangerous Condition" (Gov. Code, § 830(a)) (Revised)

CACI No. 1123. Loss of Design Immunity (Cornette) (Revised)

CACI No. VF-1101. Dangerous Condition of Public Property--Affirmative Defense--Reasonable Act or Omission (Gov. Code, § 835.4(a)) (Revised)

PRODUCTS LIABILITY

CACI No. 1205. Strict Liability--Failure to Warn--Essential Factual Elements (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 1222. Negligence--Manufacturer or Supplier--Duty to Warn--Essential Factual Elements (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 1240. Affirmative Defense to Express Warranty--Not "Basis of Bargain" (Revoked)

CACI No. 1244. Affirmative Defense--Sophisticated User (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 1246. Affirmative Defense--Design Defect--Governmental Contractor (New)

MALICIOUS PROSECUTION

CACI No. 1501. Wrongful Use of Civil Proceedings (Sources and Authority)

EMOTIONAL DISTRESS

CACI No. 1621. Negligent Infliction of Emotional Distress--Bystander--Essential Factual Elements (Sources and Authority)

RIGHT OF PRIVACY

CACI No. 1800. Intrusion Into Private Affairs (Revised)

CACI No. 1801. Public Disclosure of Private Facts (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 1805. Affirmative Defense to Use or Appropriation of Name or Likeness--First Amendment (Comedy III) (

Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 1807. Affirmative Defense--Invasion of Privacy Justified (Revised)

FRAUD OR DECEIT

CACI No. 1901. Concealment (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. VF-1903. Negligent Misrepresentation (Revised)

TRESPASS

CACI No. 2003. Treble Damages--Timber (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 2020. Public Nuisance--Essential Factual Elements (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 2030. Affirmative Defense--Statute of Limitations--Trespass or Private Nuisance (Sources and Authority)

INSURANCE LITIGATION

CACI No. 2336. Bad Faith (Third Party)--Unreasonable Failure to Defend--Essential Factual Elements (Sources and Authority)

FAIR EMPLOYMENT AND HOUSING ACT

CACI No. 2505. Retaliation (Gov. Code, § 12940(h)) (Revised)

CACI No. 2508. Failure to File Timely Administrative Complaint (Gov. Code, § 12960(d))--Plaintiff Alleges Continuing Violation (New)

CACI No. 2523. "Harassing Conduct" Explained (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 2540. Disability Discrimination--Disparate Treatment--Essential Factual Element (Revised)

CACI No. 2541. Disability Discrimination--Reasonable Accommodation--Essential Factual Element (Gov. Code, § 12960(m)) (Revised)

CACI No. 2546. Disability Discrimination--Reasonable Accommodation--Failure to Engage in Interactive Process (Gov. Code, § 12960(n)) (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. VF-2508. Disability Discrimination--Disparate Treatment (Revised)

CACI No. VF-2514. Failure to Prevent Harassment, Discrimination, or Retaliation (New)

CIVIL RIGHTS

CACI No. 3000. Violation of Federal Civil Rights--In General--Essential Factual Elements (42 U.S.C. § 1983) (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 3010. Violation of Prisoner's Federal Civil Rights--Eighth Amendment--Excessive Force (42 U.S.C. § 1983) ( Revised)

CACI No. 3016. Retaliation--Essential Factual Elements (42 U.S.C., § 1983) (New)

ELDER ABUSE AND DEPENDENT ADULT CIVIL PROTECTION ACT

CACI No. 3100. Financial Abuse--Essential Factual Elements (Welf. & Inst. Code, § 15610.30) (Revised)

SONG-BEVERLY CONSUMER WARRANTY ACT

CACI No. 3201. Failure to Promptly Purchase or Replace New Motor Vehicle After Reasonable Number of Repair Opportunities--Essential Factual Elements (Civ. Code, § 1793.2(d)) (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 3212. Duration of Implied Warranty (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 3213. Affirmative Defense--Statute of Limitations (U. Com. Code, § 2725) (New)

CACI No. 3221. Affirmative Defense--Disclaimer of Implied Warranties (Revised)

CACI No. 3241. Restitution From Manufacturer--New Motor Vehicle (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 3244. Civil Penalty--Willful Violation (Civ. Code, § 1794(c)) (Sources and Authority)

VICARIOUS LIABILITY

CACI No. 3713. Nondelegable Duty (Revised)

CACI No. 3721. Scope of Employment--Peace Officer's Misuse of Authority (Sources and Authority)

DAMAGES

CACI No. 3903F. Damage to Real Property (Economic Damage) (Sources and Authority)

CACI No. 3930. Mitigation of Damages (Personal Injury) (Sources and Authority)

BREACH OF FIDUCIARY DUTY

CACI No. 4102. Duty of Undivided Loyalty--Essential Factual Elements (Revised)

UNLAWFUL DETAINER

CACI No. 4304. Termination for Violation of Terms of Lease/Agreement--Essential Factual Elements (Revised)

CACI No. 4320. Affirmative Defense--Implied Warranty of Habitability (Revised)

CACI No. 4321. Affirmative Defense--Retaliatory Eviction--Tenant's Complaint (Civ. Code, § 1942.5) (Revised)

CACI No. 4324. Affirmative Defense--Waiver by Acceptance of Rent (Revised)

Table of Related Instructions for New and Revoked CACI (June 25, 2010)

1 California Forms of Jury Instruction June 2010

CACI No.		BAJI No.
113		None
1246		9.30
2508		12.12.7
VF-2514		None
3016		12.10
3213		9.55, 9.86
BAJI No.		CACI No.
4.45		None
9.30		1246
9.55		1232, 3211, 3213
9.86		3204, 3213, 3241
12.10		2505, 3016
12.12.7		2508
None		113

11 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1 California Judicial Council Pretrial Instructions

1-1 California Forms of Jury Instruction 1.syn

§ 1.syn Synopsis to Chapter 1: California Judicial Council Pretrial Instructions

CACI 100 Preliminary Admonitions

CACI 101 Overview of Trial

CACI 102 Taking Notes During the Trial

CACI 103 Multiple Parties

CACI 104 Nonperson Party

CACI 105 Insurance

CACI 106 Evidence

CACI 107 Witnesses

CACI 108 Duty to Abide by Translation Provided in Court

CACI 109 Removal of Claims or Parties

CACI 110 Service Provider for Juror With Disability

CACI 111 Instruction to Alternate Jurors

CACI 112 Questions From Jurors

CACI 113 Bias

CACI 114-CACI 199 Reserved for Future Use

12 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1 California Judicial Council Pretrial Instructions

1-1 California Forms of Jury Instruction Scope

Scope

SCOPE

This chapter contains the California Judicial Council's "Pretrial Series" of jury instructions [CACI No. 100 et seq.]. The Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions (CACI) included in this publication are the product of the Judicial Council of California Task Force on Jury Instructions, which are updated by the Judicial Council of California Advisory Committee on Civil Jury Instructions.

This chapter includes instructions on the following topics:

- Preliminary admonitions [CACI No. 100].
- Overview of trial [CACI No. 101].
- Taking notes during trial [CACI No. 102].
- Multiple parties [CACI No. 103] and nonperson party [CACI No. 104].
- Insurance [CACI No. 105].
- Evidence [CACI No. 106] and witnesses [CACI No. 107].
- Duty to abide by translation provided in court [CACI No. 108].
- Removal of claims or parties [CACI No. 109].
- Service provider for juror with disability [CACI No. 110].
- Instruction to alternate jurors [CACI No. 111].

1-1 California Forms of Jury Instruction Scope

- Questions from jurors [CACI No. 112].
- Bias [CACI No. 113].

For an introduction to the drafting and use of jury instructions in California, see Ch. 1A, Matthew Bender Introduction to California Jury Instructions. Ch. 1A includes a "how to" guide for using the Judicial Council and Matthew Bender specific instructions in this publication, as well as methods for making instructions more understandable to juries and suggestions for drafting jury instructions. That chapter further explains the use of the HotDocs(R) document assembly program to prepare and submit instructions to the court.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Scope of Pre-Instructions: The CACI pre-instructions are an improvement. The number of preliminary instructions that should be given have been reduced. For the most part, they do not require significant filling in of blanks or alteration. They cover the required topics that should be given and they get the jury off to a good start.

Some of the preliminary instructions may not be necessary in every case. CACI Nos. 103, 104, 108, 109, and 110 need not be given if they do not apply. These instructions are fairly straight forward and should be easy to use for the court and the attorneys. By Joseph Devine

13 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1 California Judicial Council Pretrial Instructions

1-1 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 100

CACI 100 Preliminary Admonitions

You have now been sworn as jurors in this case. I want to impress on you the seriousness and importance of serving on a jury. Trial by jury is a fundamental right in California. The parties have a right to a jury that is selected fairly, that comes to the case without bias, and that will attempt to reach a verdict based on the evidence presented. Before we begin, I need to explain how you must conduct yourselves during the trial.

Do not allow anything that happens outside this courtroom to affect your decision. During the trial do not talk about this case or the people involved in it with anyone, including family and persons living in your household, friends and co-workers, spiritual leaders, advisors, or therapists.

This prohibition is not limited to face-to-face conversations. It also extends to all forms of electronic communications. Do not use any electronic device or media, such as a cell phone or smart phone, PDA, computer, the Internet, any Internet service, any text or instant-messaging service, any Internet chat room, blog, or Web site, including social networking websites or online diaries, to send or receive any information to or from anyone about this case or your experience as a juror until after you have been discharged from your jury duty.

You may say you are on a jury and how long the trial may take, but that is all. You must not even talk about the case with the other jurors until after I tell you that it is time for you to decide the case.

During the trial you must not listen to anyone else talk about the case or the people involved in the case. You must avoid any contact with the parties, the lawyers, the witnesses, and anyone else who may have a connection to the case. If anyone tries to talk to you about this case, tell that person that you cannot discuss it because you are a juror. If he or she keeps talking to you, simply walk away and report the incident to the court [attendant/bailiff] as soon as you can.

After the trial is over and I have released you from jury duty, you may discuss the case with anyone, but you are not required to do so.

During the trial, do not read, listen to, or watch any news reports about this case. [I have no information that there will be news reports concerning this case.] This prohibition extends to the use of the Internet in any way, including reading any blog about the case or about anyone involved with it or using Internet maps or mapping programs or any other program or device to search for or to view any place discussed in the testimony.

You must decide this case based only on the evidence presented in this trial and the instructions of law that I will provide. Nothing that you see, hear, or learn outside this courtroom is evidence unless I specifically tell you it is. If you receive any information about this case from any source outside of the courtroom, promptly report it to the court [attendant/bailiff]. It is important that all jurors see and hear the same evidence at the same time.

Do not do any research on your own or as a group. Do not use dictionaries, the Internet, or other reference materials. Do not investigate the case or conduct any experiments. Do not contact anyone to assist you, such as a family accountant, doctor, or lawyer. Do not visit or view the scene of any event involved in this case. If you happen to pass by the scene, do not stop or investigate. If you do need to view the scene during the trial, you will be taken there as a group under proper supervision.

It is important that you keep an open mind throughout this trial. Evidence can only be presented a piece at a time. Do not form or express an opinion about this case while the trial is going on. You must not decide on a verdict until after you have heard all the evidence and have discussed it thoroughly with your fellow jurors in your deliberations.

Do not concern yourselves with the reasons for the rulings I will make during the course of the trial. Do not guess what I may think your verdict should be from anything I might say or do.

When you begin your deliberations, you may discuss the case only in the jury room and only when all the jurors are present.

You must decide what the facts are in this case. And, I repeat, your verdict must be based only on the evidence that you hear or see in this courtroom. Do not let bias, sympathy, prejudice, or public opinion influence your verdict.

At the end of the trial, I will explain the law that you must follow to reach your verdict. You must follow the law as I explain it to you, even if you do not agree with the law.

New September 2003; Revised April 2004, October 2004, February 2005, June 2005, December 2007, December 2009

Directions for Use

This instruction should be given at the outset of every case, even as early as when the jury panel enters the courtroom (without the first sentence).

If the jury is allowed to separate, Code of Civil Procedure section 611 requires the judge to admonish the jury that "it is their duty not to converse with, or suffer themselves to be addressed by any other person, on any subject of the trial, and that it is their duty not to form or express an opinion thereon until the case is finally submitted to them."

Sources and Authority

■ Article I, section 16 of the California Constitution provides that "trial by jury is an inviolate right and shall be secured to all."

■ Code of Civil Procedure section 608 provides, in part: "In charging the jury the court may state to them all matters of law which it thinks necessary for their information in giving their verdict; and, if it state the testimony of the case, it must inform the jury that they are the exclusive judges of all questions of fact." (See also Evid. Code, § 312; Code Civ. Proc., § 592.)

■ Under Code of Civil Procedure section 611, jurors may not "form or express an opinion" prior to deliberations. (See also City of Pleasant Hill v. First Baptist Church of Pleasant Hill (1969) 1 Cal.App.3d 384, 429 [82 Cal.Rptr. 1] . It is misconduct for a juror to prejudge the case. (Deward v. Clough (1966) 245 Cal.App.2d 439, 443-444 [54 Cal.Rptr. 68] .)

■ Jurors must not undertake independent investigations of the facts in a case. (Kritzer v. Citron (1950) 101 Cal.App.2d 33, 36 [224 P.2d 808] ; Walter v. Ayvazian (1933) 134 Cal.App. 360, 365 [25 P.2d 526] .)

■ Jurors are required to avoid discussions with parties, counsel, or witnesses. (Wright v. Eastlick (1899) 125 Cal. 517, 520-521 [58 P. 87] ; Garden Grove School Dist. v. Hendler (1965) 63 Cal.2d 141, 144 [45 Cal.Rptr. 313, 403 P.2d 721] .)

■ It is misconduct for jurors to engage in experiments that produce new evidence. (Smoketree-Lake Murray, Ltd. v. Mills Concrete Construction Co. (1991) 234 Cal.App.3d 1724, 1746 [286 Cal.Rptr. 435] .)

■ Unauthorized visits to the scene of matters involved in the case are improper. (Anderson v. Pacific Gas & Electric Co. (1963) 218 Cal.App.2d 276, 280 [32 Cal.Rptr. 328] .)

■ It is improper for jurors to receive information from the news media about the case. (Province v. Center for Women's Health & Family Birth (1993) 20 Cal.App.4th 1673, 1679 [25 Cal.Rptr.2d 667] , disapproved on other grounds in Heller v. Norcal Mutual Ins. Co. (1994) 8 Cal.4th 30, 41 [32 Cal.Rptr.2d 200, 876 P.2d 999] ; Hilliard v. A. H. Robins Co. (1983) 148 Cal.App.3d 374, 408 [196 Cal.Rptr. 117] .)

■ Jurors must avoid bias: " 'The right to unbiased and unprejudiced jurors is an inseparable and inalienable part of the right to trial by jury guaranteed by the Constitution.' " (Weathers v. Kaiser Foundation Hospitals (1971) 5 Cal.3d 98, 110 [95 Cal.Rptr. 516, 485 P.2d 1132] , internal citations omitted.) Evidence of racial prejudice and bias on the part of jurors amounts to misconduct and may constitute grounds for ordering a new trial. (Ibid.)

■ An instruction to disregard any appearance of bias on the part of the judge is proper and may cure any error in a judge's comments. (Gist v. French (1955) 136 Cal.App.2d 247, 257-259 [288 P.2d 1003] , disapproved on other grounds in Deshotel v. Atchinson, Topeka & Santa Fe Ry. Co. (1958) 50 Cal.2d 664, 667 [328 P.2d 449] and West v. City of San Diego (1960) 54 Cal.2d 469, 478 [6 Cal.Rptr. 289, 353 P.2d 929] .) "It is well understood by most trial judges that it is of the utmost importance that the trial judge not communicate in any manner to the jury the judge's opinions on the case submitted to the jury, because juries tend to attach inflated importance to any such communication, even when the judge has no intention whatever of influencing a jury's determination." (Dorshkind v. Harry N. Koff Agency, Inc. (1976) 64 Cal.App.3d 302, 307 [134 Cal.Rptr. 344] .)

Secondary Sources

27 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 322, Juries and Jury Selection, § 322.50 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 17, Dealing With the Jury, 17.05

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI Nos. 0.50, 1.00, 1.00.5, and 15.35.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--When to Give CACI No. 100: This instruction should be given just before the plaintiff's opening statement. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--CACI No. 100 Improves Upon BAJI No. 1.00: CACI No. 100 includes the admonition "Do not let bias, sympathy, prejudice, or public opinion influence your verdict." This replaces BAJI No. 1.00, which provides that "You must not be influenced by sympathy, prejudice or passion." "Public opinion" is probably much better understood by the average juror than "passion." Although they are not the same, the jury is less likely to be confused by their duty to be fair and impartial. By Joseph Devine

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--CACI No. 100 Is Important: Most attorneys do not even listen to the preliminary admonitions given by the judge, but CACI No. 100 provides the trial attorney with some important wording that she or he can use during voir dire and opening statement. Stressing to the jury that it is their duty to wait until all the evidence is presented before reaching a verdict or waiting to form their opinion before the end of the presentation of evidence is a very important part of this instruction. This is especially true if you are the defense and must present your case after the plaintiff. Remind the jury of this portion of the instruction when giving your opening statement.

It is important to note that a juror who conducts her or his own research or investigation outside of the courtroom constitutes juror misconduct. Should you find that to be the case during or after the trial, CACI No. 100 is the basis for making your motion for a new trial.

Judges have become strict regarding the portion of the instruction that prohibits contact with the parties, the lawyers, the witnesses, and anyone else who may have a connection to the case. You should determine from the judge from the outset of trial if even courteous "hellos" are prohibited and if so request that the judge inform the jury of this so that it does not appear that you are being discourteous. Avoid the appearance of impropriety by not taking the same elevators as jurors and eating at restaurants that are not frequented by your jury. By Dona Cohn-Payne

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jurors General Overview Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Deliberations Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions Standard Instructions

14 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1 California Judicial Council Pretrial Instructions

1-1 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 101

CACI 101 Overview of Trial

To assist you in your tasks as jurors, I will now explain how the trial will proceed. I will begin by identifying the parties to the case. [Name of plaintiff] filed this lawsuit. [He/She/It] is called a plaintiff. [He/She/It] seeks damages [or other relief] from [name of defendant], who is called a defendant.

[[Name of plaintiff] claims [insert description of the plaintiff's claim(s)]. [Name of defendant] denies those claims. [[Name of defendant] also contends that [insert description of the defendant's affirmative defense(s)].]]

[[Name of cross-complainant] has also filed what is called a cross complaint against [name of cross-defendant]. [Name of cross-complainant] is the defendant, but also is called the cross-complainant. [Name of cross-defendant] is called a cross-defendant.]

[In [his/her/its] cross-complaint, [name of cross-complainant] claims [insert description of the cross-complainant's claim(s)]. [Name of cross-defendant] denies those claims. [[Name of cross-defendant] also contends that [insert description of the cross-defendant's affirmative defense(s) to the cross-complaint].]]

First, each side may make an opening statement, but neither side is required to do so. An opening statement is not evidence. It is simply an outline to help you understand what that party expects the evidence will show. Also, because it is often difficult to give you the evidence in the order we would prefer, the opening statement allows you to keep an overview of the case in mind during the presentation of the evidence.

Next, the jury will hear the evidence. [Name of plaintiff] will present evidence first. When [name of plaintiff] is finished, [name of defendant] will have an opportunity to present evidence. [Then [name of cross-complainant] will present evidence. Finally, [name of cross-defendant] will present evidence.]

Each witness will first be questioned by the side that asked the witness to testify. This is called direct examination. Then the other side is permitted to question the witness. This is called cross-examination.

Documents or objects referred to during the trial are called exhibits. Exhibits are given a [number/letter] so that they may be clearly identified. Exhibits are not evidence until I admit them into evidence. During your deliberations, you will be able to look at all exhibits admitted into evidence.

There are many rules that govern whether something will be admitted into evidence. As one side presents evidence, the other side has the right to object and to ask me to decide if the evidence is permitted by the rules. Usually, I will decide immediately, but sometimes I may have to hear arguments outside of your presence.

After the evidence has been presented, I will instruct you on the law that applies to the case and the attorneys will make closing arguments. What the parties say in closing argument is not evidence. The arguments are offered to help you understand the evidence and how the law applies to it.

New September 2003; Revised February 2007, June 2010

Directions for Use

This instruction is intended to provide a "road map" for the jurors. This instruction should be read in conjunction with CACI No. 100, Preliminary Admonitions.

The bracketed second, third, and fourth paragraphs are optional. The court may wish to use these paragraphs to provide the jurors with an explanation of the claims and defenses that are at issue in the case. Include the third and fourth paragraphs if a cross-complaint is also being tried. Include the last sentence in the second and fourth paragraphs if affirmative defenses are asserted on the complaint or cross-complaint.

The sixth paragraph presents the order of proof. If there is a cross-complaint, include the last two sentences. Alternatively, the parties may stipulate to a different order of proof--for example, by agreeing that some evidence will apply to both the complaint and the cross-complaint. In this case, customize this paragraph to correspond to the stipulation.

Sources and Authority

■ Rule 2.1035 of the California Rules of Court provides: "Immediately after the jury is sworn, the trial judge may, in his or her discretion, preinstruct the jury concerning the elements of the charges or claims, its duties, its conduct, the order of proceedings, the procedure for submitting written questions for witnesses as set forth in rule 2.1033 if questions are allowed, and the legal principles that will govern the proceeding."

■ "[W]e can understand that it might not have seemed like [cross-complainants] were producing much evidence on their cross-complaint at trial. Most of the relevant (and undisputed) facts bearing on the legal question of whether [cross-defendants] had a fiduciary duty and, if so, violated it, had been brought out in plaintiffs' case-in-chief. But just because the undisputed evidence favoring the cross-complaint also happened to come out on plaintiffs' case-in-chief does not mean it was not available to support the cross-complaint." (Le v. Pham (2010) 180 Cal.App.4th 1201, 1207 [103 Cal.Rptr.3d 606] , original italics.)

■ Code of Civil Procedure section 607 provides:

When the jury has been sworn, the trial must proceed in the following order, unless the court, for special reasons otherwise directs:

1. The plaintiff may state the issue and his case;
2. The defendant may then state his defense, if he so wishes, or wait until after plaintiff has produced his evidence;
3. The plaintiff must then produce the evidence on his part;
4. The defendant may then open his defense, if he has not done so previously;
5. The defendant may then produce the evidence on his part;
6. The parties may then respectively offer rebutting evidence only, unless the court, for good reason, in furtherance of justice, permit them to offer evidence upon their original case;
7. When the evidence is concluded, unless the case is submitted to the jury on either side or on both sides without argument, the plaintiff must commence and may conclude the argument;
8. If several defendants having separate defenses, appear by different counsel, the court must determine their relative order in the evidence and argument;
9. The court may then charge the jury.

Secondary Sources

7 Witkin, California Procedure (5th ed. 2008) Trial, § 147

Wagner et al., Cal. Practice Guide: Civil Trials and Evidence (The Rutter Group) PP 1:427-1:432; 4:460-4:463

48 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 551, Trial, § 551.50 (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI Nos. 0.50, 1.00, 1.00.5, 1.21, 1.20, and 1.23.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--When to Charge the Jury: Due to the increasing flexibility in trying cases, some judges may opt to charge the jury before the end of the case (e.g., just before the final arguments). By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Points for the Defense: This instruction provides the jury with an overview of the trial, including the fact that plaintiff will present its evidence first. From a defense standpoint, it may be worthwhile to emphasize to the jury in opening statement that the defense case will not be presented until later in the trial, and to emphasize the need to keep an open mind as instructed by the court. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Identifying the Parties: CACI No. 101 requires the names of the parties to be inserted. It is clearly appropriate at the beginning of the trial to identify by name the plaintiff, defendants, cross complainants, etc. After appropriate insertion of the names of the parties, CACI No. 101 will make it easy for the jury to comprehend each party's identity and relationship to the case. The Directions for Use for this instruction includes the following statement: "Throughout these instructions, the names of the parties should be inserted as indicated." Many of the instructions that follow these preliminary admonitions do indicate that the names of the parties should be inserted.

A good argument can be made that repeatedly identifying the name and relationship of the parties becomes tedious and may be more confusing to the jury than simply identifying them once at the outset of the case. It is tedious and time consuming for the attorneys to prepare. The instructions become repetitive for the judge to read and for the jury to hear. There is also a danger in requiring the judge to repeatedly name and identify the parties. Inadvertently, undue emphasis may be placed on one party, or another. A difficult name has more opportunity to be mispronounced with each reading.

The Task Force was undoubtedly attempting to personalize the instructions to the parties in a particular case. The court should always appear to be impartial. The jury should consider the case on its merits without regard to any appearance of undue emphasis on any party. The impartial presentation of jury instructions would be best accomplished by identifying the parties in CACI No. 101, and not repeatedly.

Thus, consider asking the court to identify the parties only once at the beginning of the case in CACI No. 101 and refer to the parties as "plaintiff," "defendant," etc. in the remaining instructions. This will make it easier for the attorneys and the court. It will impress on the jury their obligation to remain impartial, and will make it less likely that they will perceive the court to have any leanings on the case. By Joseph Devine

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard Instructions

15 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1 California Judicial Council Pretrial Instructions

1-1 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 102

CACI 102 Taking Notes During the Trial

You have been given notebooks and may take notes during the trial. Do not take the notebooks out of the courtroom or jury room at any time during the trial. You may take your notes into the jury room during deliberations.

You should use your notes only to remind yourself of what happened during the trial. Do not let your note-taking interfere with your ability to listen carefully to all the testimony and to watch the witnesses as they testify. Nor should you allow your impression of a witness or other evidence to be influenced by whether or not other jurors are taking notes. Your independent recollection of the evidence should govern your verdict, and you should not allow yourself to be influenced by the notes of other jurors if those notes differ from what you remember.

[The court reporter is making a record of everything that is said. If during deliberations you have a question about what the witness said, you should ask that the court reporter's records be read to you. You must accept the court reporter's record as accurate.]

At the end of the trial, your notes will be [collected and destroyed/collected and retained by the court but not as a part of the case record/[specify other disposition]].

New September 2003; Revised April 2007, December 2007

Directions for Use

This instruction may be given as an introductory instruction or as a concluding instruction after trial.
(See CACI No. 5010, Taking Notes During the Trial).

The bracketed paragraph should not be read if a court reporter is not being used to record the trial proceedings.

In the last paragraph, specify the court's disposition of the notes after trial. No statute or rule of court requires any particular disposition.

Sources and Authority

■ Rule 2.1031 of the California Rules of Court provides: "Jurors must be permitted to take written notes in all civil and criminal trials. At the beginning of a trial, a trial judge must inform jurors that they may take written notes during the trial. The court must provide materials suitable for this purpose."

■ "Because of [the risks of note-taking], a number of courts have held that a cautionary instruction is required. For example, [one court] held that the instruction should include 'an explanation ... that [jurors] should not permit their note-taking to distract them from the ongoing proceedings; that their notes are only an aid to their memory and should not take precedence over their independent recollection; that those jurors who do not take notes should rely on their independent recollection of the evidence and not be influenced by the fact that another juror has taken notes; and that the notes are for the note taker's own personal use in refreshing his recollection of the evidence. The jury must be reminded that should any discrepancy exist between their recollection of the evidence and their notes, they should request that the record of the proceedings be read back and that it is the transcript that must prevail over their notes.' " (People v. Whitt (1984) 36 Cal.3d 724, 747 [205 Cal.Rptr. 810, 685 P.2d 1161] , internal citations and footnote omitted.)

■ "In People v. Whitt, we recognized the risks inherent in juror note-taking and observed that it is 'the better practice' for courts to give, sua sponte, a cautionary instruction on note-taking. Although the ideal instruction would advert specifically to all the dangers of note-taking, we found the less complete instruction given in Whitt to be adequate: 'Be careful as to the amount of notes that you take. I'd rather that you observe the witness, observe the demeanor of that witness, listen to how that person testifies rather than taking copious notes [I]f you do not recall exactly as to what a witness might have said or you disagree, for instance, during the deliberation [sic] as to what a witness may have said, we can reread that transcript back' " (People v. Silbertson (1985) 41 Cal.3d 296, 303 [221 Cal.Rptr. 152, 709 P.2d 1321] , internal citations and footnote omitted.)

Secondary Sources

Deskbook on the Management of Complex Civil Litigation, Ch. 2, Case Management, § 2.81[5] (Matthew Bender)

28 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 326, Jury Instructions, § 326.32 (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 0.50.

Note that the trial judge should encourage counsel in complex civil cases to create juror notebooks containing key documents, exhibits, and other appropriate materials [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1032].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral
OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsNotes

16 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1 California Judicial Council Pretrial Instructions

1-1 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 103

CACI 103 Multiple Parties

[There are [number] plaintiffs in this trial. You should decide the case of each plaintiff separately as if it were a separate lawsuit. Each plaintiff is entitled to separate consideration of his or her own claim(s).]

[There are [number] defendants in this trial. You should decide the case against each defendant separately as if it were a separate lawsuit. Each defendant is entitled to separate consideration of his or her own defenses.]

[Different aspects of this case involve different parties (plaintiffs and defendants). Each instruction will identify the parties to whom it applies. Pay particular attention to the parties named in each instruction.]

[or]

[Unless I tell you otherwise, all instructions apply to each plaintiff and defendant.]

New September 2003; Revised April 2009

Directions for Use

The CACI instructions require the use of party names rather than party-status words like "plaintiff" and "defendant." In multiparty cases, it is important to name only the parties in each instruction to whom the instruction applies. For example, an instruction on loss of consortium (see CACI No. 3920) will not apply to all plaintiffs. Instructions on vicarious liability (see CACI No. 3700 et seq.) will not apply to all defendants. Unless all or nearly all of the instructions will apply to all of the parties, give the first option for the last paragraph.

Sources and Authority

■ "We realize, of course, that multiple defendants are involved and that each defendant is entitled to instructions on, and separate consideration of, every defense available and applicable to it. The purpose of this rule is to insure that the jury will distinguish and evaluate the separate facts relevant to each defendant." (Campbell v. Southern Pacific Co. (1978) 22 Cal.3d 51, 58 [148 Cal.Rptr. 596, 583 P.2d 121] , internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

4 Witkin, California Procedure (4th ed. 1997) Pleading, § 67 et seq.

27 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 318, Judgments, § 318.15 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Pretrial Civil Procedure, Ch. 5, Parties, 5.30 et seq.

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI Nos. 15.00 and 15.02, and covers issues presented in BAJI No. 1.22.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Multiple Parties: This instruction may be helpful if, for instance, you are counsel for a defendant who is not a "main target" of the plaintiff. By Rex Heeseman

17 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1 California Judicial Council Pretrial Instructions

1-1 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 104

CACI 104 Nonperson Party

A [corporation/partnership/city/county/[other entity]], [name of entity], is a party in this lawsuit. [Name of entity] is entitled to the same fair and impartial treatment that you would give to an individual. You must decide this case with the same fairness that you would use if you were deciding the case between individuals.

When I use words like "person" or "he" or "she" in these instructions to refer to a party, those instructions also apply to [name of entity].

New September 2003

This instruction should be given as an introductory instruction if one of the parties is an entity. Select the type of entity and insert the name of the entity where indicated in the instruction.

- Corporations Code section 207 provides that a corporation "shall have all of the powers of a natural person in carrying out its business activities." Civil Code section 14 defines the word "person," for purposes of that code, to include corporations as well as natural persons.

- As a general rule, a corporation is considered to be a legal entity that has an existence separate from that of its shareholders. (Erkenbrecher v. Grant (1921) 187 Cal. 7, 9 [200 P. 641] .)

- "In general, any person or entity has capacity to sue or defend a civil action in the California courts. This includes artificial 'persons' such as corporations, partnerships and associations." (American Alternative Energy Partners II, 1985 v. Windridge, Inc. (1996) 42 Cal.App.4th 551, 559 [49 Cal.Rptr.2d 686] , internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

9 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Corporations, § 1, p. 775

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Pretrial Civil Procedure, Ch. 5, Parties, 5.13 -5.17

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI Nos. 1.03 and 1.10, and covers issues presented in BAJI No. 11.50.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Business Entity Defendants: This instruction seems desirable for attorneys representing business entities, at least as an attempt to reduce some jurors' sympathetic feelings for an individual suing such a business entity. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Humanizing Business Entities: Getting the jurors to "see" a corporation or business as an individual person with the same rights is difficult. Although the instruction addresses this issue, it is something that you may want to discuss in your closing argument. Further, having a representative from the business sit at counsel table during the entire length of the trial will help humanize the business entity. By Dona Cohn-Payne

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedurePartiesGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePartiesCapacity of PartiesGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard Instructions

18 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1 California Judicial Council Pretrial Instructions

1-1 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 105

CACI 105 Insurance

You must not consider whether any of the parties in this case has insurance. The presence or absence of insurance is totally irrelevant. You must decide this case based only on the law and the evidence.

New September 2003

- Evidence Code section 1155 provides: "Evidence that a person was, at the time a harm was suffered by another, insured wholly or partially against loss arising from liability for that harm is inadmissible to prove negligence or other wrongdoing."
- As a rule, evidence that the defendant has insurance is both irrelevant and prejudicial to the defendant. (Neumann v. Bishop (1976) 59 Cal.App.3d 451, 469 [130 Cal.Rptr. 786] .)
- Generally, evidence that the plaintiff was insured is not admissible under the "collateral source rule." (Helfend v. Southern California Rapid Transit Dist. (1970) 2 Cal.3d 1, 16-18 [84 Cal.Rptr. 173, 465 P.2d 61] ; Acosta v. Southern California Rapid Transit Dist. (1970) 2 Cal.3d 19, 25-26 [84 Cal.Rptr. 184, 465 P.2d 72] .)
- Evidence of insurance coverage may be admissible where it is coupled with other relevant evidence, provided that the probative value of the other evidence outweighs the prejudicial effect of the mention of insurance. (Blake v. E. Thompson Petroleum Repair Co., Inc. (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 823, 831 [216 Cal.Rptr. 568] .)
- An instruction to disregard whether a party has insurance may, in some cases, cure the effect of counsel's improper reference to insurance. (Sally v. Pacific Gas & Electric Co. (1972) 23 Cal.App.3d 806, 814 [100 Cal.Rptr. 501] .)

Secondary Sources

7 Witkin, California Procedure (4th ed. 1997) Trial, §§ 230-233

Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook (3rd ed. 1997) §§ 34.32-34.36

California Practice Guide: Civil Trials and Evidence, § 5 :371

3 California Trial Guide, Unit 50, Extrinsic Policies Affecting or Excluding Evidence, §§ 50.20, 50.32 (Matthew Bender)

48 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 551, Trial, § 551.68 (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI No. 1.04.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Corporate Defendants: This instruction could be helpful to some defendants, especially some corporations. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Mentioning Insurance During Trial May Be Grounds for Mistrial: Do not mention insurance during the trial. To do so may cause an automatic mistrial, so beware. By Dona Cohn-Payne

19 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1 California Judicial Council Pretrial Instructions

1-1 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 106

CACI 106 Evidence

Sworn testimony, documents, or anything else may be admitted into evidence. You must decide what the facts are in this case from the evidence you see or hear during the trial. You may not consider as evidence anything that you see or hear when court is not in session, even something done or said by one of the parties, attorneys, or witnesses.

What the attorneys say during the trial is not evidence. In their opening statements and closing arguments, the attorneys will talk to you about the law and the evidence. What the lawyers say may help you understand the law and the evidence, but their statements and arguments are not evidence.

The attorneys' questions are not evidence. Only the witnesses' answers are evidence. You should not think that something is true just because an attorney's question suggests that it is true. However, the attorneys for both sides can agree that certain facts are true. This agreement is called a "stipulation." No other proof is needed and you must accept those facts as true in this trial.

Each side has the right to object to evidence offered by the other side. If I do not agree with the objection, I will say it is overruled. If I overrule an objection, the witness will answer and you may consider the evidence. If I agree with the objection, I will say it is sustained. If I sustain an objection, you must ignore the question. If the witness did not answer, you must not guess what he or she might have said or why I sustained the objection. If the witness has already answered, you must ignore the answer.

There will be times when I need to talk to the attorneys privately. Do not be concerned about our discussions or try to guess what is being said.

An attorney may make a motion to strike testimony that you have heard. If I grant the motion, you must totally disregard that testimony. You must treat it as though it did not exist.

New September 2003; Revised February 2005

This instruction should be given as an introductory instruction.

■ Evidence Code section 140 defines "evidence" as "testimony, writings, material objects, or other things presented to the senses that are offered to prove the existence or nonexistence of a fact."

■ Evidence Code section 312 provides:

Except as otherwise provided by law, where the trial is by jury:

(a) All questions of fact are to be decided by the jury.

(b) Subject to the control of the court, the jury is to determine the effect and value of the evidence addressed to it, including the credibility of witnesses and hearsay declarants.

■ Evidence Code section 353 provides:

A verdict or finding shall not be set aside, nor shall the judgment or decision based thereon be reversed, by reason of the erroneous admission of evidence unless:

(a) There appears of record an objection to or a motion to exclude or to strike the evidence that was timely made and so stated as to make clear the specific ground of the objection or motion; and

(b) The court which passes upon the effect of the error or errors is of the opinion that the admitted evidence should have been excluded on the ground stated and that the error or errors complained of resulted in a miscarriage of justice.

■ A stipulation in proper form is binding on the parties if it is within the authority of the attorney. Properly stipulated facts may not be contradicted. (Palmer v. City of Long Beach (1948) 33 Cal.2d 134, 141-142 [199 P.2d 952] .)

■ Courts have held that "attempts to suggest matters of an evidentiary nature to a jury other than by the legitimate introduction into evidence is misconduct whether by questions on cross-examination, argument or other means." (Smith v. Covell (1980) 100 Cal.App.3d 947, 960 [161 Cal.Rptr. 377] .)

■ Courts have stated that "[t]he right to object on appeal to misconduct or improper argument, even when prejudicial, is generally waived in the absence of a proper objection and request the jury be admonished." (Atkins v. Bisigier (1971) 16 Cal.App.3d 414, 427 [94 Cal.Rptr. 49] ; Horn v. Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Ry. Co. (1964) 61 Cal.2d 602, 610 [39 Cal.Rptr. 721, 394 P.2d 561] .)

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Presentation at Trial

1A California Trial Guide, Unit 21, Procedures for Determining Admissibility of Evidence, §§ 21.01, 21.03 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 322, Juries and Jury Selection, §§ 322.56 -322.57 (Matthew Bender)

48 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 551, Trial, §§ 551.61, 551.77 (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI Nos. 1.02 and 2.09.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Dealing With Objectionable Evidence: Despite CACI No. 106, jurors will be affected by statements made by counsel and things they see and hear outside of the courtroom that is not admissible evidence. Making motions in limine to prevent objectionable evidence and thereby avoiding objections in front of the jury is a useful tool that should always be used by counsel. Further, counsel should not object to evidence solely because it is objectionable. Sometimes a jury will see objections as bothersome and obstructionist. Try to limit your objections to evidence that really matters in the case. By Dona Cohn-Payne

In Joyce v. Simi Valley Unified School Dist. (2003) 110 Cal.App.4th 292, 305-306 [1 Cal.Rptr.3d 712], the plaintiff's attorney at trial remarked about an off-site incident in final argument. The trial court sustained an objection and directed the jury to ignore the remarks. The trial court instructed the jury that the counsel's statements were not evidence and to decide all questions of fact from the evidence received at trial and not from any other source. The admonishment cured any prejudice and a motion for a new trial was denied.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsProvince of Court & JuryEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsJudicial Intervention in TrialsComments by JudgesGeneral OverviewEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsObjections & Offers of ProofGeneral OverviewEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsObjections & Offers of ProofObjections

20 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1 California Judicial Council Pretrial Instructions

1-1 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 107

CACI 107 Witnesses

A witness is a person who has knowledge related to this case. You will have to decide whether you believe each witness and how important each witness's testimony is to the case. You may believe all, part, or none of a witness's testimony.

In deciding whether to believe a witness's testimony, you may consider, among other factors, the following:

- (a) How well did the witness see, hear, or otherwise sense what he or she described in court?
- (b) How well did the witness remember and describe what happened?
- (c) How did the witness look, act, and speak while testifying?
- (d) Did the witness have any reason to say something that was not true? Did the witness show any bias or prejudice? Did the witness have a personal relationship with any of the parties involved in the case? Does the witness have a personal stake in how this case is decided?
- (e) What was the witness's attitude toward this case or about giving testimony?

Sometimes a witness may say something that is not consistent with something else he or she said. Sometimes different witnesses will give different versions of what happened. People often forget things or make mistakes in what they remember. Also, two people may see the same event but remember it differently. You may consider these differences, but do not decide that testimony is untrue just because it differs from other testimony.

However, if you decide that a witness has deliberately testified untruthfully about something important, you may choose not to believe anything that witness said. On the other hand, if you think the witness testified untruthfully about some things but told the truth about others, you may accept the part you think is true and ignore the rest.

Do not make any decision simply because there were more witnesses on one side than on the other. If you believe it is true, the testimony of a single witness is enough to prove a fact.

You must not be biased in favor of or against any witness because of his or her disability, gender, race, religion, ethnicity, sexual orientation, age, national origin, [or] socioeconomic status[, or [insert any other impermissible form of bias]].

New September 2003; Revised April 2004, June 2005, April 2007

This instruction may be given as an introductory instruction or as a concluding instruction after trial.
(See CACI No. 5003, Witnesses.)

In the last paragraph, the court may delete inapplicable categories of potential jury bias.

■ Evidence Code section 312 provides:

Except as otherwise provided by law, where the trial is by jury:

- (a) All questions of fact are to be decided by the jury.
- (b) Subject to the control of the court, the jury is to determine the effect and value of the evidence addressed to it, including the credibility of witnesses and hearsay declarants.

■ Considerations for evaluating the credibility of witnesses are contained in Evidence Code section 780:

Except as otherwise provided by statute, the court or jury may consider in determining the credibility of a witness any matter that has any tendency in reason to prove or disprove the truthfulness of his testimony at the hearing, including but not limited to any of the following:

- (a) His demeanor while testifying and the manner in which he testifies.
- (b) The character of his testimony.
- (c) The extent of his capacity to perceive, to recollect, or to communicate any matter about which he testifies.
- (d) The extent of his opportunity to perceive any matter about which he testifies.
- (e) His character for honesty or veracity or their opposites.
- (f) The existence or nonexistence of a bias, interest, or other motive.
- (g) A statement previously made by him that is consistent with his testimony at the hearing.
- (h) A statement made by him that is inconsistent with any part of his testimony at the hearing.

(i) The existence or nonexistence of any fact testified to by him.

(j) His attitude toward the action in which he testifies or toward the giving of testimony.

(k) His admission of untruthfulness.

■ Evidence Code section 411 provides that "[e]xcept where additional evidence is required by statute, the direct evidence of one witness who is entitled to full credit is sufficient for proof of any fact." According to former Code of Civil Procedure section 2061, the jury should be instructed that "they are not bound to decide in conformity with the declarations of any number of witnesses, which do not produce conviction in their minds, against a less number or against a presumption or other evidence satisfying their minds."

■ The willfully false witness instruction was formerly codified at Code of Civil Procedure section 2061. This statute was repealed in 1965 to avoid giving undue emphasis to this rule compared to other common-law rules. Refusal to give an instruction on this point is not error: "It should certainly not be of importance to tell the ordinary man of the world that he should distrust the statements of a witness whom he believes to be a liar." (Wallace v. Pacific Electric Ry. Co. (1930) 105 Cal.App. 664, 671 [288 P. 834] .)

■ Standard 10.20(a)(2) of the California Standards for Judicial Administration provides: "In all courtroom proceedings, refrain from engaging in conduct and prohibit others from engaging in conduct that exhibits bias, including but not limited to bias based on disability, gender, race, religion, ethnicity, and sexual orientation, whether that bias is directed toward counsel, court personnel, witnesses, parties, jurors, or any other participants."

■ Canon 3(b)(5) of the California Code of Judicial Ethics provides: "A judge shall perform judicial duties without bias or prejudice. A judge shall not, in the performance of judicial duties, engage in speech, gestures, or other conduct that would reasonably be perceived as (1) bias or prejudice, including but not limited to bias or prejudice based upon race, sex, religion, national origin, disability, age, sexual orientation, or socioeconomic status, or (2) sexual harassment." Canon 3(b)(6) requires the judge to impose these standards on attorneys.

Secondary Sources

1A California Trial Guide, Unit 22, Rules Affecting Admissibility of Evidence, § 22.30 (Matthew Bender)

48 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 551, Trial, § 551.122 (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI Nos. 2.01, 2.20, 2.21, and 2.22.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Single Witness Is Enough to Prove a Fact: The instruction that "a single witness is enough to prove a fact" can be especially important in cases when there is a disparity between the two sides in terms of witnesses and resources. This instruction can be argued effectively in closing argument to the jury. By Ronald Oster

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral

OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsEvidenceTestimonyCredibilityGeneral
Overview

21 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1 California Judicial Council Pretrial Instructions

1-1 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 108

CACI 108 Duty to Abide by Translation Provided in Court

Some testimony will be given in [insert language other than English]. An interpreter will provide a translation for you at the time that the testimony is given. You must rely solely on the translation provided by the interpreter, even if you understand the language spoken by the witness. Do not retranslate any testimony for other jurors. If you believe the court interpreter translated testimony incorrectly, let me know immediately by writing a note and giving it to the [clerk/bailiff].

New September 2003; Revised April 2004

- It is misconduct for a juror to retranslate for other jurors testimony that has been translated by the court-appointed interpreter. (People v. Cabrera (1991) 230 Cal.App.3d 300, 303 [281 Cal.Rptr. 238] .)

- "It is well-settled a juror may not conduct an independent investigation into the facts of the case or gather evidence from outside sources and bring it into the jury room. It is also misconduct for a juror to inject his or her own expertise into the jury's deliberation." (People v. Cabrera, supra, 230 Cal.App.3d at p. 303 .)

- "If [the juror] believed the court interpreter was translating incorrectly, the proper action would have been to call the matter to the trial court's attention, not take it upon herself to provide her fellow jurors with the 'correct' translation." (People v. Cabrera, supra, 230 Cal.App.3d at p. 304 .)

Secondary Sources

1 California Trial Guide, Unit 3, Other Non-Evidentiary Motions, § 3.32 (Matthew Bender)

1A California Trial Guide, Unit 20, Procedural Rules for Presentation of Evidence, § 20.13 (Matthew Bender)

4 California Trial Guide, Unit 91, Jury Deliberations and Rendition of Verdict, §§ 91.10, 91.12 (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

There is no BAJI instruction on this subject.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Testimony Through an Interpreter;

Translations: If your client, or an important witness, will testify through an interpreter, this is an important instruction. You may also wish to explore in jury voir dire whether any juror will have a problem with translations and will be willing to give such testimony the same weight as other testimony.
By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Choosing a Translator: With our unique diversity in the state an attorney will invariably need to rely on a translator at trial. Make sure you choose a certified translator for the language and you and your witness should meet with the translator before trial. You are gauging the appearance of the translator; remember that the jury will possibly attribute the character of the translator to your witness so you want to make sure the translator makes a favorable appearance. Further, your witness must meet with the translator to make sure there are no problems with communication between the two of them. By Dona Cohn-Payne

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsEvidenceCompetencyInterpretersEvidenceDocumentary EvidenceWritingsTranscripts & TranslationsTranslations

22 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1 California Judicial Council Pretrial Instructions

1-1 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 109

CACI 109 Removal of Claims or Parties

[[Name of plaintiff]'s claim for [insert claim] is no longer an issue in this case.]

[[Name of party] is no longer a party to this case.]

Do not speculate as to why this [claim/person] is no longer involved in this case. You should not consider this during your deliberations.

New September 2003

This instruction may be read during trial as appropriate.

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI No. 1.24.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Importance of CACI No. 109: This instruction could be important in those cases containing several legal theories (either by the plaintiff or by the defendant). Some jurors might be concerned if some theories are dropped, and the instruction should address that concern. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--When Defendant Settles During Trial: In situations where one or more defendants settle during trial, any remaining defendant should request this instruction. By Ronald Oster

23 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1 California Judicial Council Pretrial Instructions

1-1 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 110

CACI 110 Service Provider for Juror With Disability

During trial, [name of juror] will be assisted by a [insert service provider]. The [insert service provider] is not a member of the jury and is not to participate in the deliberations in any way other than as necessary to provide the service to [name of juror].

New September 2003

This instruction should be read along with other introductory instructions at the beginning of the trial if appropriate.

- Code of Civil Procedure section 203(a)(6) provides: "All persons are eligible and qualified to be prospective trial jurors, except the following: ... Persons who are not possessed of sufficient knowledge of the English language, provided that no person shall be deemed incompetent solely because of the loss of sight or hearing in any degree or other disability which impedes the person's ability to communicate or which impairs or interferes with the person's mobility."

- Code of Civil Procedure section 224 provides:

- (a) If a party does not cause the removal by challenge of an individual juror who is deaf, hearing impaired, blind, visually impaired, or speech impaired and who requires auxiliary services to facilitate communication, the party shall (1) stipulate to the presence of a service provider in the jury room during jury deliberations, and (2) prepare and deliver to the court proposed jury instructions to the service provider.

(b) As used in this section, "service provider" includes, but is not limited to, a person who is a sign language interpreter, oral interpreter, deaf-blind interpreter, reader, or speech interpreter. If auxiliary services are required during the course of jury deliberations, the court shall instruct the jury and the service provider that the service provider for the juror with a disability is not to participate in the jury's deliberations in any manner except to facilitate communication between the juror with a disability and other jurors.

(c) The court shall appoint a service provider whose services are needed by a juror with a disability to facilitate communication or participation. A sign language interpreter, oral interpreter, or deaf-blind interpreter appointed pursuant to this section shall be a qualified interpreter, as defined in subdivision (f) of Section 754 of the Evidence Code. Service providers appointed by the court under this subdivision shall be compensated in the same manner as provided in subdivision (i) of Section 754 of the Evidence Code.

Secondary Sources

7 Witkin, California Procedure (4th ed. 1997) Trial, §§ 331, 340

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 1.25.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard Instructions

24 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1 California Judicial Council Pretrial Instructions

1-1 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 111

CACI 111 Instruction to Alternate Jurors

As [an] alternate juror[s], you are bound by the same rules that govern the conduct of the jurors who are sitting on the panel. You will observe the same trial and should pay attention to all of my instructions just as if you were sitting on the panel. Sometimes a juror needs to be excused during a trial for illness or some other reason. If that happens, an alternate will be selected to take that juror's place.

New October 2004

If an alternate juror is substituted, see CACI No. 5014, Substitution of Alternate Juror.

- "Alternate jurors are members of the jury panel which tries the case. They are selected at the same time as the regular jurors. They take the same oath and are subject to the same qualifications as the regular jurors. Alternate jurors hear the same evidence and are subject to the same admonitions as the regular jurors and, unless excused by the court, are available to participate as regular jurors." (Rivera v. Sassoon (1995) 39 Cal.App.4th 1045, 1048 [46 Cal.Rptr.2d 144] , internal citations omitted.)

- Code of Civil Procedure section 234 provides:

Whenever, in the opinion of a judge of a superior court about to try a civil or criminal action or proceeding, the trial is likely to be a protracted one, or upon stipulation of the parties, the court may cause an entry to that effect to be made in the minutes of the court and thereupon, immediately after the jury is impaneled and sworn, the court may direct the calling of one or more additional jurors, in its discretion, to be known as "alternate jurors."

These alternate jurors shall be drawn from the same source, and in the same manner, and have the same qualifications, as the jurors already sworn, and shall be subject to the same examination and challenges. However, each side, or each defendant, as provided in Section 231, shall be entitled to as many peremptory challenges to the alternate jurors as there are alternate jurors called.

The alternate jurors shall be seated so as to have equal power and facilities for seeing and hearing the proceedings in the case, and shall take the same oath as the jurors already selected, and shall, unless excused by the court, attend at all times upon the trial of the cause in company with the other jurors, but shall not participate in deliberation unless ordered by the court, and for a failure to do so are liable to be punished for contempt.

They shall obey the orders of and be bound by the admonition of the court, upon each adjournment of the court; but if the regular jurors are ordered to be kept in the custody of the sheriff or marshal during the trial of the cause, the alternate jurors shall also be kept in confinement with the other jurors; and upon final submission of the case to the jury, the alternate jurors shall be kept in the custody of the sheriff or marshal who shall not suffer any communication to be made to them except by order of the court, and shall not be discharged until the original jurors are discharged, except as provided in this section.

If at any time, whether before or after the final submission of the case to the jury, a juror dies or becomes ill, or upon other good cause shown to the court is found to be unable to perform his or her duty, or if a juror requests a discharge and good cause appears therefor, the court may order the juror to be discharged and draw the name of an alternate, who shall then take his or her place in the jury box, and be subject to the same rules and regulations as though he or she has been selected as one of the original jurors.

All laws relative to fees, expenses, and mileage or transportation of jurors shall be applicable to alternate jurors, except that in civil cases the sums for fees and mileage or transportation need not be deposited until the judge directs alternate jurors to be impaneled.

Secondary Sources

27 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 322, Juries and Jury Selection, §§ 322.44, 322.52, 322.101 (Matthew Bender)

1 California Trial Guide, Unit 10, Voir Dire Examination (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 0.50.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJurorsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard Instructions

25 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1 California Judicial Council Pretrial Instructions

1-1 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 112

CACI 112 Questions From Jurors

If, during the trial, you have a question that you believe should be asked of a witness, you may write out the question and send it to me through my courtroom staff. I will share your question with the attorneys and decide whether it may be asked.

Do not feel disappointed if your question is not asked. Your question may not be asked for a variety of reasons. For example, the question may call for an answer that is not allowed for legal reasons. Also, you should not try to guess the reason why a question is not asked or speculate about what the answer might have been. Because the decision whether to allow the question is mine alone, do not hold it against any of the attorneys or their clients if your question is not asked.

Remember that you are not an advocate for one side or the other. Each of you is an impartial judge of the facts. Your questions should be posed in as neutral a fashion as possible. Do not discuss any question asked by any juror with any other juror until after deliberations begin.

New February 2005; Revised April 2007, April 2009

Directions for Use

The instruction may need to be modified to account for an individual judge's practice.

Sources and Authority

- Rule 2.1033 of the California Rules of Court provides: "A trial judge should allow jurors to submit written questions directed to witnesses. An opportunity must be given to counsel to object to such questions out of the presence of the jury."

■ "In a proper case there may be a real benefit from allowing jurors to submit questions under proper control by the court. However, in order to permit the court to exercise its discretion and maintain control of the trial, the correct procedure is to have the juror write the questions for consideration by the court and counsel prior to their submission to the witness." (People v. McAlister (1985) 167 Cal.App.3d 633, 644 [213 Cal.Rptr. 271] .)

■ "[T]he judge has discretion to ask questions submitted by jurors or to pass those questions on and leave to the discretion of counsel whether to ask the questions." (People v. Cummings (1993) 4 Cal.4th 1233, 1305 [18 Cal.Rptr.2d 796, 850 P.2d 1] .)

■ "The appellant urges that when jurymen ask improper questions the defendant is placed in the delicate dilemma of either allowing such question to go in without objection or of offending the jurors by making the objection and the appellant insists that the court of its own motion should check the putting of such improper questions by the jurymen, and thus relieve the party injuriously affected thereby from the odium which might result from making that objection thereto. There is no force in this contention. Objections to questions, whether asked by a juror or by opposing counsel, are presented to the court, and its ruling thereon could not reasonably affect the rights or standing of the party making the objection before the jury in the one case more than in the other." (Maris v. H. Crummey, Inc. (1921) 55 Cal.App. 573, 578-579 [204 P. 259] .)

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Presentation at Trial, § 85

4 California Trial Guide, Unit 91, Jury Deliberations and Rendition of Verdict, §§ 91.01 -91.03 (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 15.53.1.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJurorsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury DeliberationsCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard Instructions

26 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1 California Judicial Council Pretrial Instructions

1-1 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 113

CACI 113 Bias

Each one of us has biases about or certain perceptions or stereotypes of other people. We may be aware of some of our biases, though we may not share them with others. We may not be fully aware of some of our other biases.

Our biases often affect how we act, favorably or unfavorably, toward someone. Bias can affect our thoughts, how we remember, what we see and hear, whom we believe or disbelieve, and how we make important decisions.

As jurors you are being asked to make very important decisions in this case. You must not let bias, prejudice, or public opinion influence your decision.

Your verdict must be based solely on the evidence presented. You must carefully evaluate the evidence and resist any urge to reach a verdict that is influenced by bias for or against any party or witness.

New June 2010

The committee wishes to express its thanks to Judge Mark W. Bennett of the United States District Court for the Northern District of Iowa, for his assistance in the drafting of this instruction.

Sources and Authority

- Standard 10.20(a)(2) of the California Standards of Judicial Administration provides: "In all courtroom proceedings, refrain from engaging in conduct and prohibit others from engaging in conduct that exhibits bias, including but not limited to bias based on disability, gender, race, religion, ethnicity, and sexual orientation, whether that bias is directed toward counsel, court personnel, witnesses, parties, jurors, or any other participants."

■ Canon 3(b)(5) of the California Code of Judicial Ethics provides: "A judge shall perform judicial duties without bias or prejudice. A judge shall not, in the performance of judicial duties, engage in speech, gestures, or other conduct that would reasonably be perceived as (1) bias or prejudice, including but not limited to bias or prejudice based upon race, sex, religion, national origin, disability, age, sexual orientation, or socioeconomic status, or (2) sexual harassment." Canon 3(b)(6) requires the judge to impose these standards on attorneys.

Secondary Sources

Witkin, California Procedure (5th ed. 2008) Trial, § 132

1 California Trial Guide, Unit 10, Voir Dire Examination, §§ 10.03[1], 10.21[2], 10.50, 10.80, 10.100 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 6, Jury Selection, § 6.21

Publisher's Notes

There is no BAJI instruction on this subject.

27 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1 California Judicial Council Pretrial Instructions

1-1 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 114-CACI 199

Reserved for Future Use

CACI 114Reserved for Future Use

28 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1A Matthew Bender Introduction to California Jury Instructions

1-1A California Forms of Jury Instruction 1A.syn

§ 1A.syn Synopsis to Chapter 1A: Matthew Bender Introduction to California Jury Instructions

MB 100A.01 How to Use California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender)

- [1] Introduction
- [2] Organization of Set
- [3] Identifying Issues
- [4] Citing to Judicial Council and Matthew Bender Specific Instructions

MB 100A.02 Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions--CACI

- [1] Background
- [2] Source and Coverage of Judicial Council Civil Jury Instructions
- [3] Use of Judicial Council Instructions Is Strongly Encouraged
- [4] Use of Other Forms in Lieu of Judicial Council Instructions
- [5] Guide for Using Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions

MB 100A.03 Making Instructions Comprehensible

MB 100A.04 Drafting Suggestions

- [1] Clarity of Language

1-1A California Forms of Jury Instruction 1A.syn

[a] Use Plain English

[b] Legalese

[c] Nominalizations

[d] Double Negatives

[e] Passives

[f] Word Lists

[g] Organization

[2] Gender-Neutral Language

[3] Length and Detail

[4] Statutory Language

[5] Language From Judicial Decisions

[6] Using Other Sources

[7] When Instructions Should Be Read to Jury

[a] Instruction Before Evidence

[b] Instruction During Trial

[c] Instruction Before Argument

[8] Special Verdicts and Interrogatories

[9] Process Instructions

[a] Relationship to Special Verdicts and Interrogatories

[b] Court's Duty to Instruct on Law

[c] Jury's Duty to Find Ultimate Facts

MB 100A.05 Preparation of Jury Instructions

[1] Requirements of Statute and Rules of Court

[2] Form of Jury Instructions Cover Page

[3] Use of Document Assembly Program

MB 100A.06 Submission of Proposed Instructions

[1] Before Trial

[2] Before Argument

MB 100A.07 Giving Jurors Copy of Instructions

MB 100A.08 Need to Request Complete Instructions

MB 100A.09 Right to Proper Instructions

MB 100A.10 Formula Instructions

MB 100A.11 Court's Disposition of Proposed Instructions

[1] Power to Refuse Instructions Generally

[2] Demand for Clarification

MB 100A.12 Automatic Objection to Instructions

MB 100A.13 When Giving or Failing to Give Instructions Is Appealable

[1] Requirement of Prejudicial Effect

[2] Instructions Considered in Their Totality

[3] Determination of Prejudice

[4] Need for Objection or Request

29 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1A Matthew Bender Introduction to California Jury Instructions

1-1A California Forms of Jury Instruction Scope

Scope

SCOPE

This chapter presents an introduction to the drafting and use of jury instructions in California. The chapter covers the following topics:

- A "how to" guide for using California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender) [see MB 100A.01].
- Use of the Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions (CACI) [see MB 100A.02].
- Methods for making instructions more understandable to juries [see MB 100A.03] and suggestions for drafting jury instructions [see MB 100A.04].
- The procedures for (1) preparing jury instructions [see MB 100A.05], including the use of the HotDocs(R) document assembly program [see MB 100A.05[3]]; (2) submitting instructions to the court and presenting them to the jury [see MB 100A.06]; and (3) the actual providing to jurors of a copy of the instructions [see MB 100A.07].
- The need to request complete instructions [see MB 100A.08] and the right of each party to have the jury instructed on all applicable theories of the case [see MB 100A.09].
- The use of "formula instructions" [see MB 100A.10].
- The court's disposition of proposed jury instructions, including discussion of its power to refuse instructions and a party's right to request further clarification [see MB 100A.11].
- Objecting to instructions [see MB 100A.12] and when the giving or failure to give instructions is appealable [see MB 100A.13].

For the California Judicial Council pretrial jury instructions, see Chapter 1. Judicial Council evidence instructions are in Chapter 2, and concluding instructions are in Chapter 50.

30 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1A Matthew Bender Introduction to California Jury Instructions

1-1A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 100A.01

MB 100A.01 How to Use California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender)

[1] Introduction

The purpose of California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender), including the Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions ("CACI"), is to provide the most comprehensive jury instructions for use in California litigation. In 2003, the California Judicial Council released a comprehensive set of civil jury instructions--CACI (pronounced "Casey"). These instructions cover many areas of law and are approved by the Judicial Council as the "official instructions for use" in California [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1050(a); see MB 100A.02[2]]. Their use is "strongly encouraged" [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1050(e); see MB 100A.02[3]]. The CACI instructions are set out throughout this publication. The Matthew Bender ("MB") specific instructions in this publication are intended to supplement CACI by covering additional fact situations as well as additional topics.

The procedure by which jury instructions are drafted, submitted, modified or rejected, and finally given, is a joint effort among the lawyers and the judge, with the judge having the last word. Each of the litigants wants instructions that frame the issues most favorably to his or her side without, of course, creating reversible error. In the heat of battle, the lawyer, particularly the plaintiff's lawyer, may concentrate so heavily on winning the jury verdict that the prospect of losing on appeal goes unattended. The parties often request instructions that are quite one-sided, with the result that the lawyers and the judge spend hours in conference settling their differences. The instructions in California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender) are intended to cut through that process. The aim, for both the Matthew Bender instructions as well as the California Judicial Council instructions, has been to create neutral instructions that simply and correctly state the applicable issues of fact and principles of law.

For legal background on using and drafting jury instructions, the court's role in providing and approving instructions, and other issues affecting the preparation and review of jury instructions, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 326, Jury Instructions (Matthew Bender).

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Keep Jury Instructions Basic: Judges are extremely knowledgeable about jury instructions and unless you have a unique case, the jury instructions should be basic. In addition, the judge will not allow instructions to favor one side over the other. An attorney's time is better spent getting the verdict form that best helps her or his case. By Dona Cohn-Payne

[2] Organization of Set

The California Judicial Council has drafted over 40 "series" of jury instructions. These instructions--CACI--cover a wide range of topics. Many of the series include their own verdict forms. The chapters in this publication are organized so that the CACI instructions appear first and are followed by additional Matthew Bender ("MB") instructions that enhance CACI or cover areas of law that are not addressed by CACI. The organization is based on the legal topic. Thus, for example, the CACI instructions on general contracts law [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions, CACI Nos. 300- 374 (e.g., formation, interpretation, defenses, damages, and common counts)] are followed by the Matthew Bender specific contract instructions [see Chs. 3A- 3I]. The Matthew Bender instructions that do not have corresponding Judicial Council instructions are set forth last [see Chs. 70A et seq.]. These include instructions on such topics as trade libel, debt collection torts, unlawful detainer, and real property sales.

As the Judicial Council and Matthew Bender draft new jury instructions over the years, these instructions will be slotted into this general organization.

The Matthew Bender specific instructions include general instructions that can be used in any case regardless of the subject matter, and several chapters devoted to instructions on the substantive law of contracts [see Chs. 3A- 3G]. Matthew Bender substantive law instructions on specialized fields of contract law are also included [see, e.g., Chs. 3H (commercial code sales contracts), 3I (construction contracts)]. Because general contract principles may apply in many of these situations, counsel searching for an instruction on a particular kind of contract should also consult the Judicial Council's general contracts series in Ch. 3 as well as the general contract instructions in Chs. 3A-3G when drafting instructions covering issues peculiar to specific types of contracts.

All Judicial Council and Matthew Bender instructions are followed by authorities and a discussion of how the instruction should be used or modified, as well as an analysis of the legal basis for the instruction.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Organization of Jury Instructions in This Publication: It is extremely helpful to follow the CACI chapters, which set forth the California Judicial Council's jury instructions, with chapters immediately following that propose additional special instructions. By Joseph Devine

[3] Identifying Issues

It is a truism that the jury should be instructed only on subjects that are actually at issue in the case. "The task of a jury of laymen to comprehend and apply pertinent instructions is onerous enough at best; it should not be unnecessarily aggravated by loading on them a congeries of wholly inapplicable legal propositions. ... [I]t is the duty of the trial judge to scrupulously delete them from the charge finally given" [Mantonya v. Bratlie (1948) 33 Cal.2d 120, 124-125, 199 P.2d 677]. Accordingly, the key instructions in any case are the ones that identify the issues that the jury must decide. In the CACI and MB chapters in this publication, these instructions are often identified as the "Essential Factual Elements" or as the "Burden of Proof" instructions. They will be different in every case. Separate instructions defining the standard of proof generally (e.g., "more likely true than not true") are in the CACI evidence instructions [see Ch. 2, California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Identifying Issues: It is always beneficial to identify the issues in your opening and closing statements. Using the same language as the jury instruction when delivering your arguments allows the jury to hear the issues several times before they actually go in to deliberate. Identification of issues combined with the evidence presented that you believe support your case should be part of the jury instructions. By Dona Cohn-Payne

[4] Citing to Judicial Council and Matthew Bender Specific Instructions

Cite to the Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions as follows: "CACI No. _____."
(Pronounced "Casey")

Cite to the CACI verdict forms as follows: "CACI No. VF-_____."

Cite to the Matthew Bender jury instructions as follows: "(Matthew Bender) Cal. Forms Jury Inst. MB
_____."

If an instruction is modified or relied on in part, "with modifications" should appear following the citation to the instruction.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Providing Legal Authority for Instructions:

You must cite to any appropriate law (e.g., cases or statutes) if you use the Matthew Bender jury instructions or if you modify the CACI instructions. No citation is required for CACI instructions that are not modified [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1055(d)]. You should always provide legal authority for a jury instruction that was self-crafted. By Dona Cohn-Payne

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral
OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury
InstructionsSupplemental Instructions

31 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1A Matthew Bender Introduction to California Jury Instructions

1-1A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 100A.02

MB 100A.02 Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions--CACI

[1] Background

In 1995, the California Judicial Council established a Blue Ribbon Commission on Jury System Improvement. The Commission was to "conduct a comprehensive evaluation of the jury system and [make] timely recommendations for improvement" [Final Report of the Blue Ribbon Commission on Jury System Improvement (Judicial Council of California, Administrative Office of the Courts 5/6/1996) p.1]. The Commission subsequently recommended to the Chief Justice and the Judicial Council to create a Task Force on Jury Instructions for the purpose of drafting more understandable instructions. The Judicial Council acted on this recommendation and created the Task Force on Jury Instructions Civil Subcommittee (a criminal subcommittee was also formed regarding preparation of criminal instructions). The Chief Justice spoke of the following two principal goals underlying the creation of more intelligible jury instructions [Final Report of the Blue Ribbon Commission on Jury System Improvement (Judicial Council of California, Administrative Office of the Courts 5/6/1996) p.1, n. 1]:

- "[M]aking juror's experiences more meaningful and rewarding"; and
- "[P]roviding clear instructions that will improve the quality of justice by insuring that jurors understand and apply the law correctly in their deliberations."

[2] Source and Coverage of Judicial Council Civil Jury Instructions

In 2003, the Judicial Council released its set of civil jury instructions, the Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions ("CACI"--pronounced "Casey"). The instructions cover many areas of law, such as negligence, intentional torts, damages, insurance, employment relations, civil rights, unfair practices, and eminent domain. In 2005, the Judicial Council also released its set of criminal jury instructions, the Judicial Council of California Criminal Jury Instructions--"CALCRIM." Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1050(a), provides that "[t]he California jury instructions approved by the Judicial Council are the official instructions for use in the State of California. The goal of these instructions is to improve the quality of jury decision making by providing standardized instructions that accurately state the law in a way that is understandable to the average juror." LexisNexis Matthew Bender is the official publisher of the Judicial Council of California civil and criminal jury instructions.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Purpose of JC Instructions: Under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1050(a), the Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions are the "official instructions for use" in California. The purpose of these jury instructions is to improve the quality of jury decision-making by stating the instructions so that an average juror can easily understand them. To obtain this goal, there are common characteristics of the jury instructions. For instance, the names of the parties are used rather than "plaintiff" or "defendant" and technical legal terms are replaced by common definitions. These are just two of the common characteristics. Others will be noted in the individual jury instructions in the appropriate chapter. By Dona Cohn-Payne

[3] Use of Judicial Council Instructions Is Strongly Encouraged

Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1050(e), provides as follows:

Use of the Judicial Council instructions is strongly encouraged. If the latest edition of the jury instructions approved by the Judicial Council contains an instruction applicable to a case and the trial judge determines that the jury should be instructed on the subject, it is recommended that the judge use the Judicial Council instruction unless he or she finds that a different instruction would more accurately state the law and be understood by jurors. Whenever the latest edition of the Judicial Council jury instructions does not contain an instruction on a subject on which the trial judge determines that the jury should be instructed, or when a Judicial Council instruction cannot be modified to submit the issue properly, the instruction given on that subject should be accurate, brief, understandable, impartial, and free from argument.

Thus, on the adoption of former Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 855 on September 1, 2003, now Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1050, the prior rule governing the use of "California Jury Instructions--Civil (BAJI)" was revised to delete references to BAJI [see former Cal. Rules of Ct., Appendix, Div. 1, § 5].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Using CACI: Experienced trial lawyers and judges have become very familiar with BAJI over many years. It will take some time before they will have the experience to be comfortable using CACI. There are more blanks to fill in and brackets to remove in the CACI instructions. Perhaps over time CACI will become easier for the lawyers and judges to use, if they can customize the instructions so that less alterations will be required for each case [see MB 100A.05[3] regarding use of the LexisNexis automated document assembly program]. By Joseph Devine

[4] Use of Other Forms in Lieu of Judicial Council Instructions

Generally, the Matthew Bender specific jury instructions in this publication cover subjects that are not covered by the California Judicial Council's civil jury instructions. Many of the Matthew Bender instructions enhance the Judicial Council instructions by including additional language on related issues. If instructions properly state the law and are "accurate, brief, understandable, impartial, and free from argument," the courts should not hesitate to use them [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1050(e)].

[5] Guide for Using Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions n*

Ease of understanding by jurors, without sacrificing accuracy, is the primary goal of these Judicial Council instructions. A secondary goal is ease of use by lawyers. This guide provides an introduction to the instructions, explaining conventions and features that will assist in the use of both the loose-leaf and electronic editions.

Jury Instructions as a Statement of the Law: While jury instructions are not a primary source of the law, they are a statement or compendium of the law, a secondary source. That the instructions are in plain English does not change their status as an accurate statement of the law.

Instructions Approved by Rule of Court: Rule 2.1050 of the California Rules of Court provides: "The California jury instructions approved by the Judicial Council are the official instructions for use in the state of California ... The Judicial Council endorses these instructions for use and makes every effort to ensure that they accurately state existing law ... Use of the Judicial Council instructions is strongly encouraged."

Using the Instructions

Directions for Use: The instructions contain directions for use. The directions alert the user to special circumstances involving the instruction and may include references to other instructions that should or should not be used. In some cases the directions include suggestions for modifications or for additional instructions that may be required. Prior to using any instruction, reference should be made to the directions for use.

Sources and Authorities: Each instruction has an analysis of applicable law. References are given to a variety of legal publishers.

Instructions for the Common Case: These instructions were drafted for the common type of case and can be used as drafted in most cases. When unique or complex circumstances prevail, users will have to adapt the instructions to the particular case.

Multiple Parties: Because jurors more easily understand instructions that refer to parties by name rather than by legal terms such as "plaintiff" and "defendant," the instructions provide for insertion of names. For simplicity of presentation, the instructions use single party plaintiffs and defendants as examples. If a case involves multiple parties or cross-complaints and counterclaims, the user will want to modify the instructions. Rather than naming a number of parties in each place calling for names, the user may consider putting the names of all applicable parties in the beginning and thereafter identifying them as "plaintiffs," "defendants," "cross-complaints," etc.

Related California Jury Instructions, Civil, Book of Approved Jury Instructions (BAJI): This publication includes, at the end of the instructions, tables of related BAJI instructions. However, the Judicial Council instructions include topics not covered by BAJI, such as antitrust, federal civil rights, lemon law, trespass and conversion and the California Family Rights Act.

Reference to "Harm" in Place of "Damage" or "Injury": In many of the instructions, the word harm is used in place of damage, injury or other similar words. The drafters of the instructions felt that this word was clearer to jurors.

Substantial Factor: The instructions frequently use the term "substantial factor" to state the element of causation, rather than referring to "cause" and then defining that term in a separate instruction as a "substantial factor." An instruction that defines "substantial factor" is located in the Negligence series. The use of the instruction is not intended to be limited to cases involving negligence.

Listing of Elements and Factors: For ease of understanding, elements of causes of action or affirmative defenses are listed by numbers (e.g., 1, 2, 3) and factors to be considered by jurors in their deliberations are listed by letters (e.g., a, b, c).

Burdens of Proof: The applicable burden of proof is included within each instruction explaining a cause of action or affirmative defense. The drafters felt that placing the burden of proof in that position provided a clearer explanation for the jurors.

Affirmative Defenses: For ease of understanding by users, all instructions explaining affirmative defenses use the term

"affirmative defense" in the title.

Titles and Definitions

Titles of Instructions: Titles to instructions are directed to lawyers and sometimes use words and phrases not used in the instructions themselves. Since the title is not a part of the instruction, the titles may be removed prior to presentation to the jury.

Definitions of Legal Terms: The instructions avoid separate definitions of legal terms whenever possible. Instead, definitions have been incorporated into the language of the instructions. In some instances (e.g., specific statutory definitions) it was not possible to avoid providing a separate definition.

Evidence

Circumstantial Evidence: The words "indirect evidence" have been substituted for the expression "circumstantial evidence." In response to public comment on the subject, however, the drafters added a sentence indicating that indirect evidence is sometimes known as circumstantial evidence.

Preponderance of the Evidence: To simplify the instructions' language, the drafters avoided the phrase preponderance of the evidence and the verb preponderate. The instructions substitute in place of that phrase reference to evidence that is "more likely to be true than not true."

Using Verdict Forms

Verdict Forms are Models: A large selection of special verdict forms accompany the instructions. Users of the forms must bear in mind that these are models only. Rarely can they be used without modifications to fit the circumstances of a particular case.

Purpose of Verdict Forms: The special verdict forms generally track the elements of the applicable cause of action. Their purpose is to obtain the jury's finding on the elements defined in the instructions. "The special verdict must present the conclusions of fact as established by the evidence, and not the evidence to prove them; and those conclusions of fact must be so presented as that nothing shall remain to the court but to draw from them conclusions of law." (Code of Civil Procedure section 624; see Saxena v. Goffney (2008) 159 Cal.App.4th 316, 325-326, 71 Cal.Rptr.3d 469] .) Modifications made to the instructions in particular cases ordinarily will necessitate corresponding modifications to the special verdict form.

Multiple Parties: The verdict forms have been written to address one plaintiff against one defendant. In nearly all cases involving multiple parties, the issues and the evidence will be such that the jury could reach different results for different parties. The liability of each defendant should always be evaluated individually, and the damages to be awarded to each plaintiff must usually be determined separately. Therefore, separate special verdicts should usually be prepared for each plaintiff with regard to each defendant. In some cases, the facts may be sufficiently simple to include multiple parties in the same verdict form, but if this is done, the transitional language from one question to another must be modified to account for all the different possibilities of yes and no answers for the various parties.

Multiple Causes of Action: The verdict forms are self-contained for a particular cause of action. When multiple causes of action are being submitted to the jury, it may be better to combine the verdict forms and eliminate duplication.

Modifications as Required by Circumstances: The verdict forms must be modified as required by the circumstances. It is necessary to determine whether any lesser or greater specificity is appropriate. The question in special verdict forms for plaintiff's damages provides an illustration. Consistent with the jury instructions, the question asks the jury to determine separately the amounts of past and future economic loss, and of past and future non-economic loss. These four choices are included in brackets. In some cases it may be unnecessary to distinguish between past and future losses. In others there may be no claim for either economic or non-economic damages. In some cases the court may wish to eliminate the terms "economic loss" and "non-economic loss" from both the instructions and the verdict form. Without defining those terms, the court may prefer simply to ask the jury to determine the appropriate amounts for the various components of such losses without categorizing those losses for the jury as economic or non-economic. The court can fix liability as joint or several under Civil Code sections 1431 and 1431.2, based on the verdicts. A more itemized breakdown of damages may be appropriate if the court is concerned about the sufficiency of the evidence supporting a particular component of damages. Appropriate special verdicts are preferred when periodic payment schedules may be required by Code of Civil Procedure section 667.7. (Gorman v. Leftwich (1990) 218 Cal.App.3d 141, 148-150, 266 Cal.Rptr. 671 .)

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Using Verdict Forms: A draft of your verdict form should be prepared well in advance of trial and should be modified during the course of the trial. Many times opposing counsel is so caught up in the trial that they do not timely prepare a verdict form and the attorney who has one ready for the judge has a good chance of his or her verdict form being used by the jury. By Dona Cohn-Payne

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard Instructions

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote *. * By: Hon. Barton C. Gaut, Associate Justice

Hon. Stuart R. Pollak, Associate Justice

Hon. James D. Ward, Associate Justice Chair, Civil Subcommittee of the Judicial Council Task Force on Jury Instructions

32 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1A Matthew Bender Introduction to California Jury Instructions

1-1A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 100A.03

MB 100A.03 Making Instructions Comprehensible

The conventional approach to instructing juries has come under increasing criticism. Traditionally, the jury was not instructed until the very end of the case, when the judge would read instructions "... at such length and with such a superfluity of legal words and phrases as to make it impossible for them to separate the wheat from the chaff" [Mr. Justice Schinn, concurring in Werkman v. Howard Zink Corp. (1950) 97 Cal.App.2d 418, 428, 218 P.2d 43]. The main function of that exercise was to make a record for appeal.

Several general principles should be reviewed:

- There is general agreement that the traditional method can and should be improved [see Charrow & Charrow, Making Legal Language Understandable: A Psycholinguistic Study of Jury Instructions, 79 Colum. L. Rev. 1306 (1979); Tiersma, The Rocky Road to Legal Reform: Improving the Language of Jury Instructions, 66 Brook. L. Rev. 1081 (2001); Elwork, Sales & Alfini, Making Jury Instructions Understandable, Contemporary Litigation Series, Charlottesville, Va. (The Michie Company, 1983); McBride, The Art of Instructing the Jury, Cincinnati (The W. H. Anderson Co., 1969); Schwarzer, Communicating With Juries: Problems and Remedies, 69 Calif. L. Rev. 731 (1981); Forston, Sense and Non-Sense: Jury Trial Communication, B.Y.U. Law Rev. 601 (1975); Farrell, Communication in the Courtroom: Jury Instructions, 85 W. Va. L. Rev. 5 (1982); Avakian, Let's Learn to Instruct the Jury, The Judge's Journal, The American Bar Association (1979); Goebel, Defects in Jury Instructions: Can They Be Eliminated? 54 Calif. State B.J. 290 (1979); Memory, Magic, and Myth: The Timing of Jury Instructions, 59 Ore. L. Rev. 451 (1981); Cunningham, Instructing Juries, 32 Calif. State B.J. 127 (1957); Cunningham, Should Instructions Go Into the Jury Room? 33 Calif. State B.J. 278 (1958)].
- It is possible to make legal principles understandable to lay juries by employing known linguistic techniques--or at least greatly to improve comprehension levels [Charrow & Charrow, Making Legal Language Understandable: A Psycholinguistic Study of Jury Instructions, 79 Colum. L. Rev. 1306 (1979); Elwork, Sales and Alfini, Making Jury Instructions Understandable, Contemporary Litigation Series, Charlottesville, Va. (The Michie Company, 1983); McBride, The Art of Instructing the Jury,

Cincinnati (The W. H. Anderson Co., 1969); Forston, Sense and Non-Sense: Jury Trial Communication, B.Y.U. Law Rev. 601 (1975)]. Both the California Judicial Council and Matthew Bender jury instructions in this set are designed to be understood by lay juries.

- Juror comprehension is significantly improved if certain instructions are given at the beginning, and others at intervals during the trial rather than all at one time at the end [Elwork, Sales and Alfini, Making Jury Instructions Understandable, Contemporary Litigation Series, pp. 21-24, Charlottesville, Va. (The Michie Company, 1983); Forston, Sense and Non-Sense: Jury Trial Communication, B.Y.U. Law Rev. 601, 620-623 (1975); Schwarzer, Communicating With Juries: Problems and Remedies, 69 Calif. L. Rev. 731, 755 (1981); Avakian, Let's Learn to Instruct the Jury, The Judge's Journal, The American Bar Association (1979); Cunningham, Should Instructions Go Into the Jury Room? 33 State B.J. 278, 286 (1958); Goebel, Defects in Jury Instructions: Can They Be Eliminated? 54 Cal. State B.J. 290 (1979)].

- Juror comprehension is also improved when, in addition to being read aloud, the instructions are given to the jurors in written form for their use during deliberation [Forston, Sense and Non-Sense: Jury Trial Communication, B.Y.U. Law Rev. 601, 619-620 (1975); Elwork, Sales and Alfini, Making Jury Instructions Understandable, Contemporary Litigation Series, p. 18, Charlottesville, Va. (The Michie Company, 1983); Schwarzer, Communicating With Juries: Problems and Remedies, 69 Cal. L. Rev. 731, 756 (1981); Cunningham, Should Instructions Go Into the Jury Room? 33 State B.J. 278 (1958); The Jury Instruction Process--Apathy or Aggressive Reform? 49 Marq. L. Rev. 137, 144 (1965)]. A 1986 amendment to Code Civ. Proc. § 612.5 requires the judge to (1) advise the jury that a copy of written instructions is available for its use during deliberations; and (2) supply a copy of these instructions to the jury on its request. A written copy of oral instructions is still available only in the court's discretion [Code Civ. Proc. § 612.5; see CACI No. 5000, "Duties of the Judge and Jury"]].

- The use of special verdicts, interrogatories, and so-called "process" instructions [see MB 100A.04[9]] may also be desirable in particular cases [Schwarzer, Communicating With Juries: Problems and Remedies, 69 Calif. L. Rev. 731, 757 (1981); Thornburg, The Power and the Process: Instructions and the Civil Jury, 66 Fordham L. Rev. 1837 (1998); Farrell, Communication in the Courtroom: Jury Instructions, 85 W. Va. L. Rev. 5, 13-14, 17-20 (1981)]. Most of the Judicial Council's CACI series of instructions include special verdict forms.

Each of the above suggested areas of improvement and their roles in using this set are discussed in the remaining sections of this chapter.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsRequests for InstructionsCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard Instructions

33 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1A Matthew Bender Introduction to California Jury Instructions

1-1A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 100A.04

MB 100A.04 Drafting Suggestions

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Importance of Jury Instructions: The importance of jury instructions that accurately state the law cannot be underestimated. Any instruction to a jury that misstates the law, or is not understood, can result in a miscarriage of justice. Improper instructions have caused defense verdicts when liability and damages have been proven. They have also caused excessive damage awards. By Joseph Devine

[1] Clarity of Language

[a] Use Plain English

Obviously, if jury instructions are to be understood by most jurors they should be written in plain English [see Hildebrand v. Los Angeles Junction Ry. Co. (1960) 53 Cal.2d 826, 831, 3 Cal.Rptr. 313, 350 P.2d 65, which states that "Instructions should be clear and simply stated ... to avoid misleading the jury"; see also Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions CACI, "Preface" and MB 100A.02[5], "Guide for Using Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions"]. Lawyers and judges are notorious for using a language foreign to almost everyone else. We say "prior to" and "subsequent to" instead of "before" and "after"; we "proffer" evidence and "execute" documents; we write about the "hereinabove" and the "hereinafter," not to mention the "said" and the "aforesaid." It is bad enough that this language exists in our statutes, rules, and legal documents, but it is unpardonable that we use this language in attempting to communicate with jurors.

It has been demonstrated in psycholinguistic studies that the comprehensibility of standard jury instructions can be significantly improved by rewriting to simplify and clarify them in ways that do not detract from their legal correctness. Several such studies have been described in the literature [see MB 100A.03]. These empirical studies uniformly show that the jurors' level of understanding of the standard instructions in use in most jurisdictions is shockingly low. This includes those instructions found in California Jury Instructions--Civil--Book of Approved Jury Instructions (referred to below as "BAJI"), which seems to have been the model for many others. Performance scores of below 50 percent were common. When the instructions were rewritten to "plain English," the scores improved [see Charrow & Charrow, Making Legal Language Understandable: A Psycholinguistic Study of Jury Instructions, 79 Colum. L. Rev. 1306 (1979)]. Note: The article refers to BAJI (6th ed. 1977), which has since been replaced by subsequent editions].

According to the psycholinguists, there is no set of drafting rules that will guarantee success. One must write, test the results empirically, rewrite, and test the results again. Thus, extensive additional empirical studies will be needed to achieve maximum comprehensibility of jury instructions, experimentation that is beyond the resources of any one jurisdiction or drafting committee [see Elwork, Sales, and Alfini, Making Jury Instructions Understandable, Contemporary Litigation Series, pp. 75-78, Charlottesville, Va. (The Michie Company, 1983)].

In drafting CACI, the California Judicial Council followed a set of general drafting principles and guidelines in an attempt to make the instructions as clear and as comprehensible as possible. It applied the following specific techniques, which the Judicial Council outlined in its "Drafting Policies of Task Force on Jury Instructions Civil Subcommittee":

- Avoiding the use of nominalizations [see MB 100A.04[1][c]].
- Using "modal" verbs (must, should, may) to clarify the jury's task.
- Avoiding redundancy or unnecessary words.
- Using short sentences.
- Keeping the subject close to the verb and moving interrupting phrases to the beginning or end of the sentence.
- Avoiding the omission of relative pronouns and auxiliary verbs.
- Avoiding the use of double negatives [see MB 100A.04[1][d]].
- Being concrete rather than abstract.
- Avoiding instructions to the jurors about things they do not need to know.
- Adopting a structure that is logical and easy to follow.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Task Force on Jury Instructions: There have been numerous revisions to BAJI since they were first published in 1938. The California Judicial Council's Task Force on Jury Instructions was commissioned to entirely rewrite the civil instructions to make them more intelligible to a jury. It was long overdue, and, overall, the Task Force has done an excellent and commendable job. The comprehensive project was a noble effort. Certainly it involved discussion, debate, disagreement, and compromise. No doubt, there was a political element to the process. The advocate attorney proposing instructions to the court obviously prefers instructions most beneficial to his or her client's position. Although the Task Force has done an admirable job, the element of politics remains evident.

Of course, no studies are yet available to determine the comprehension by juries of the CACI instructions. Undoubtably, there will be revisions to some of these instructions. However, a great effort has been made and, hopefully, the revisions will be few. Once the lawyers and courts become comfortable and find the instructions easy to use, the jurors will find them easy to understand. By Joseph Devine

[b] Legalese

Technical words and legal terms should be avoided whenever possible. Examples are "credibility," "deem," "stipulate," and "proximate." If some of these words must be used, they should be clearly defined for the jury.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--CACI Improves Upon BAJI: The language in the CACI instructions is a vast improvement over the much criticized "legalese" contained in BAJI. The burden to prove something "more likely to be true than not true" [CACI No. 200] is less confusing than "preponderance of the evidence" [BAJI No. 2.60]. The Task Force should be commended for replacing the phrase "Failure of recollection is common. Innocent misrecollection is not uncommon" [BAJI No. 2.21]. The concept is certainly easier to understand when stated as follows: "People often forget things or make mistakes in what they remember" [CACI No. 107; see also MB 100A.04[1][d]]. By Joseph Devine

[c] Nominalizations

Nouns constructed from verbs (e.g., "the doing of" and "the making of the stipulation") create an abstraction and should be used as little as possible.

[d] Double Negatives

Multiple negatives impede comprehension. For example, "[i]nnocent misrecollection is not uncommon" (BAJI No. 2.21) is difficult to follow and could be translated to "people often forget" without sacrificing its meaning [see CACI No. 107 (Witnesses)].

[e] Passives

The passive voice, which is very common in legal writing, including jury instructions--e.g., "the evidence offered should be viewed with distrust" (BAJI No. 2.02)--is sometimes necessary, but should be avoided if possible.

[f] Word Lists

Lists of words of similar meaning should be limited to the essential ones. For example, "knowledge, skill, experience, training or education" [see BAJI No. 2.40] is a list containing words of similar meaning that a study has shown do not enhance juror comprehension and may in fact detract from it [see Charrow & Charrow, Making Legal Language Understandable: A Psycholinguistic Study of Jury Instructions, 79 Colum. L. Rev. 1306, 1326 (1979)].

[g] Organization

Experts have identified a number of other specific problems as having an important bearing on the comprehensibility of instructions. Like any other spoken or written discourse, instructions need to be logically organized, with separate ideas separately identified, and in many instances numbered as such. Care should be taken to avoid misplacing phrases within sentences. For example, "a proximate cause ... is a cause which in natural and continuous sequence, produces the injury ..." (BAJI (7th ed. 1986) No. 3.75) would be more comprehensible if it read "a proximate cause ... is a cause that produces the injury in a natural and continuous sequence" [see Mitchell v. Gonzales (1991) 54 Cal.3d 1041, 1 Cal.Rptr.2d 913, 819 P.2d 872 ; in 1992, the Committee on Standard Jury Instructions of the Superior Court of Los Angeles County withdrew its approval of BAJI No. 3.75, citing Mitchell; see also, for example, CACI No. 350 (setting forth causation requirement for recovering contract damages)]. The vague and sometimes misleading "as to" is another example of a phrase that could be replaced by words of more definite meaning if some thought is given to organizing the instruction.

[2] Gender-Neutral Language

All instructions submitted to the jury must be written in gender-neutral language [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1058]. Both the Judicial Council instructions and Matthew Bender specific instructions comply with this rule. If additions or modifications are necessary, these must also be couched in gender-neutral language.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Gender-Neutrality: Gender-neutral language should be used. CACI instructions provide for that requirement by bracketing "he/she" which requires the attorneys to go through the instructions to make sure they are gender correct. Once properly corrected, they would certainly be clear to the jury. The instructions would be easier to use, if so much effort was not required to make "politically correct" alterations. Maybe some day a gender neutral word or phrase, that is politically acceptable to all, will become common in the English language and the instructions will be easier to use as less alterations will be necessary. By Joseph Devine

[3] Length and Detail

Jury instructions should be as brief as possible, avoiding repetition and redundancy. The shorter the overall length of the instructions, the more the jurors are likely to understand. Repetition may also result in over emphasis of a particular point. Furthermore, when the same point is expressed twice in different ways jurors may become confused and think that different things are intended.

[4] Statutory Language

Jury instructions that track statutory language should only be given when the jury will have no difficulty in understanding the statute without further guidance from the court [Lourence v. West Side Irrigation Dist. (1965) 233 Cal.App.2d 532, 538, 43 Cal.Rptr. 889 ; see Conservatorship of Gregory (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 514, 520, 95 Cal.Rptr.2d 336 (proper to instruct jury in applicable statute's language)]. If the applicability of a statute is not supported by the evidence in the case, it would of course be error to instruct the jury on it [Shamblin v. Polich (1973) 32 Cal.App.3d 756, 762, 108 Cal.Rptr. 410].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Caution If Proposing Statutory Language to Instruct Jury: Statutory language should only be given when the jury will have no difficulty in understanding the statute. Every person with common sense is in complete agreement with this statement. The California Judicial Council should convene a Legislative Task Force charged with rewriting every single statute so that it could be clearly understood. That probably won't happen in California anytime soon. How about a law requiring all future rules, regulations, and statutes be written so that they are more "understandable?" By Joseph Devine

[5] Language From Judicial Decisions

Although there is great temptation to use language taken directly from judicial opinions, counsel must be certain that the facts in the reported opinion and the case being tried are analogous, and that the same principles of law apply. It is sometimes not proper to give instructions on a principle of law in language taken from an opinion [Schance v. H.O. Adams Tile Co. (1955) 131 Cal.App.2d 549, 555-556, 280 P.2d 851]. As in the case of an instruction based on a statute, it may be possible to improve on the clarity of the language used in an opinion without distorting the principle of law it expresses.

[6] Using Other Sources

There are a wide variety of sources from which parties may draw instructions, so long as the instructions are correct statements of law. These include, in addition to statutes [see MB 100A.04[4]] and judicial opinions [see MB 100A.04[5]], treatises, hornbooks, legal encyclopedias, digests, and form books. Thus, for example, in a proper case, instructions may be based on state or federal regulations [Conservatorship of Gregory (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 514, 523, 95 Cal.Rptr.2d 336].

[7] When Instructions Should Be Read to Jury

[a] Instruction Before Evidence

Many judges now follow the practice of instructing in installments. For instance, certain instructions may be given during the voir dire selection phase. Some writers and judges recommend that the substantive law instructions also be given at the outset, before the jury begins to hear the evidence [Elwork, Sales & Alfini, Making Jury Instructions Understandable, Contemporary Litigation Series, p. 24, Charlottesville, Va. (The Michie Company, 1983); Schwarzer, Communicating With Juries: Problems and Remedies, 69 Calif. L. Rev. 731, 755 (1981); Avakian, Let's Learn to Instruct the Jury, The Judge's Journal, The American Bar Association (1979); Forston, Sense and Non-Sense: Jury Trial Communication, B.Y.U. Law Rev. 601, 620 (1975)]. The jurors should be told at least in a general way what they will be called on to decide. This may be especially important in protracted trials involving multiple issues. In some cases the trial should probably be bifurcated and tried in stages [Schwarzer, Communicating With Juries: Problems and Remedies, 69 Calif. L. Rev. 731, 757 (1981)].

[b] Instruction During Trial

Many believe that, during the course of the trial, the jury should be instructed from time to time as the subjects arise on such matters as expert witnesses, the use of depositions, answers to interrogatories, and the effect of rulings on objections. It would then not be necessary to repeat all these procedural instructions at the conclusion of the trial. Rather, the jury's attention would then be concentrated on the instructions that cover the substantive law applicable to the issues. The complete instructions, those given throughout the trial as well as those given at the end, should then be furnished in written form to be taken to the jury room [see Code Civ. Proc. § 612.5 (court has discretion to permit jury to retire with written copy of instructions); see also CACI No. 5000, "Duties of the Judge and Jury"].

This approach to jury instructions will require that the issues be defined and the instructions written before the trial begins. Code Civ. Proc. § 607a requires this, but it is more often honored in the breach than in the observance. This approach will also call for a pretrial conference on jury instruction that should probably be held even before the voir dire process begins. Although all of this will demand greater initial effort by the lawyers and the judge, it should save time in the long run. Many federal judges follow a similar practice.

[c] Instruction Before Argument

Another suggestion regularly followed by some courts is to instruct before rather than after argument. The standard procedure in California courts is to instruct after argument, and Code Civ. Proc. § 607 places instructing the jury last in the order of proceedings, after argument [see Avakian, "Let's Learn to Instruct the Jury," The Judge's Journal, The American Bar Association (1979); Schwarzer, Communicating With Juries: Problems and Remedies, 69 Calif. L. Rev. 731, 755-766, n. 1 (1981)]. However, the language of Code Civ. Proc. § 607 is permissive and the trial court has discretion to vary that practice [see Penal Code § 1093; People v. Pena (1972) 25 Cal.App.3d 414, 427-429, 101 Cal.Rptr. 804 ; People v. Valenzuela (1977) 76 Cal.App.3d 218, 222, 142 Cal.Rptr. 655], just as it has discretion to determine the sequence in which instructions are given to the jury [People v. Smith (2009) 168 Cal. App. 4th 7, 14-15, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 180]. Probably more trial lawyers favor instructing before argument, thereby giving them the last word. If the other reforms recommended above are adopted, it probably does not matter a great deal whether argument precedes or follows the instructions. By the time that stage of the trial is reached, the jury will have heard most of the instructions already and will understand the issues. There will, in any event, be certain concluding instructions relating to the jury's deliberations, and verdict forms that ought to be given after argument.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Instruct Before or After Closing Argument?:

Should the jury be instructed before or after closing argument? Apparently, the court has discretion in this regard [Code Civ. Proc. § 607]. Instruction before closing argument would appear to give the plaintiff the advantage of having the last word before the jury retires to deliberate. Instruction after argument appears more neutral as the court would have the last word to the jury before deliberations. Thus:

- If you represent the defendant, request that the court instruct the jury after argument, which has been traditionally the standard practice. It will leave the last words to the jury before deliberations in the hands of the court. To do otherwise, would unfairly advantage the plaintiff with the last word.

- If you represent the plaintiff, request that the court instruct before argument. It will impress on the jury that argument is not evidence. Furthermore, the court has discretion and the traditional order of argument/instruction is not mandated. By Joseph Devine

[8] Special Verdicts and Interrogatories

Some judges and writers feel that too little use is made of special verdicts and interrogatories [McCloud v. Roy Riegels Chemicals (1971) 20 Cal.App.3d 928, 936-937, 97 Cal.Rptr. 910 ; Murrell v. California ex rel. Dep't of Public Works (1975) 47 Cal.App.3d 264, 271, 120 Cal.Rptr. 812]. Special interrogatories are used with a general verdict as a means of testing the general verdict [Code Civ. Proc. § 625; Cembrook v. Sterling Drug, Inc. (1964) 231 Cal.App.2d 52, 64, 41 Cal.Rptr. 492 ; see CACI No. VF-5000, CACI No. VF-5001]. Special verdicts, on the other hand, constitute a set of special findings on the basis of which the judge enters an appropriate judgment [see CACI No. 5012]. The jury's conclusions of fact must be framed so that nothing remains to the court but to draw from them the conclusions of law [Code Civ. Proc. § 624; see Burlingame Motor Co. v. Peninsula Activities, Inc. (1971) 15 Cal.App.3d 656, 661, 93 Cal.Rptr. 376]. Special verdicts perform much the same function as findings of fact in a nonjury trial [cf. Murrell v. California ex rel. Dep't of Public Works (1975) 47 Cal.App.3d 264, 120 Cal.Rptr. 812 ; see Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 7, Ch. VIII, Trial, § 352 (4th ed. 1997)]. Note that Code Civ. Proc. § 632 provides for a Statement of Decision in lieu of Written Findings and Conclusions. Special verdicts are required in punitive damage cases, although requiring the jury to separately state punitive damages on a verdict form will suffice [Code Civ. Proc. § 625; see, e.g., CACI No. VF-3900- CACI No. VF-3904]. Otherwise, the use of interrogatories and special verdicts is discretionary.

The California Judicial Council appears to endorse the use of special verdicts in its official CACI jury instructions [see MB 100A.02]. Most of the CACI series of instructions have accompanying verdict forms.

[9] Process Instructions

[a] Relationship to Special Verdicts and Interrogatories

Both special verdicts and special interrogatories serve to focus the jury's attention on the fact-finding process and result in a special finding on each issue submitted. The use of special verdicts or interrogatories, particularly in complex cases, may also be beneficial in clarifying the fact-finding process. It can also simplify the instructions by relating legal propositions to specific fact issues.

This technique of instructing juries, or something very similar to it, is sometimes referred to as giving "process instructions" [Farrell, Communication in the Courtroom: Jury Instructions, 85 W. Va. L. Rev. 5, 17, n. 1 (1982)].

[b] Court's Duty to Instruct on Law

It is doubtful whether such an extreme, even if it were desirable, is within the discretion accorded the trial judge under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 607 and 607a. Although in some contexts those sections use the permissive "may" when referring to the judge's giving of instructions, it is often said that the court has a duty to instruct the jury [see Thomas v. Buttress & McClellan (1956) 141 Cal.App.2d 812, 819, 297 P.2d 768 ; Jackson v. City of San Diego (1981) 121 Cal.App.3d 579, 589-590 n. 7, 175 Cal.Rptr. 395 ; see also Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 7, Ch. VIII, Trial, §§ 268, 270, 273 (4th ed. 1997)]. The jury's duty is to apply the law as given by the judge to determine the facts [see CACI No. 100]. It can be argued that the application of the law to the facts is the essence of the right to a jury trial.

[c] Jury's Duty to Find Ultimate Facts

In any event, it is clear that a special verdict must present the conclusions of fact as established by the evidence, and not the evidence to prove them [Code Civ. Proc. § 624]. In other words, the questions submitted in special verdicts must call for ultimate facts, not for evidentiary facts [Wyller v. Feuer (1978) 85 Cal.App.3d 392, 404, 149 Cal.Rptr. 626]. Although there may be considerable doubt in a particular case what will be held to constitute "ultimate" as distinguished from "evidentiary" facts, it seems clear that the determination of ultimate facts such as negligence, undue influence, mental capacity, or mistake require the application of legal principles. The jury will have to be instructed as to the meaning of those principles that have a legal as well as a factual content.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureJudicial OfficersJudgesDiscretionCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard Instructions

34 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1A Matthew Bender Introduction to California Jury Instructions

1-1A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 100A.05

MB 100A.05 Preparation of Jury Instructions

[1] Requirements of Statute and Rules of Court

Code Civ. Proc. § 607a requires that each proposed instruction be typed on a separate sheet of paper. For each special instruction, a citation of authorities that support the instruction must be included at the bottom of the page. No citation is required for approved instructions (that is, CACI instructions approved by the California Judicial Council) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1055(d); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1055(a)(1)(A) ("approved jury instructions" defined)].

All instructions submitted to the jury must be written in gender-neutral language [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1058].

All proposed instructions must be submitted to the court in the form and format prescribed for papers in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.100-2.150 (requirements surrounding papers and forms to be filed) [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1055(b)(1); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.111 (format of first page)]. Each set of instructions must be bound loosely [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1055(b)(4)].

Under Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.110(a), each paper filed with the court must contain a footer in the bottom margin of each page, placed below the page number and divided from the rest of the document page by a printed line. The footer must contain the title of the paper in at least 10-point type or a clear and concise abbreviation [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.110(b), (c)]. However, the Rules of Court surrounding papers filed [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.100-2.119] do not apply to Judicial Council and local court forms [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.119]. Therefore, county superior courts may adopt local forms and procedures for the submission of jury instructions. In Los Angeles county, a form on perforated paper is often used [see Los Angeles County Local Forms 176, 177].

Rule 2.1055 applies to proposed jury instructions that a party submits to the court. These include both of the following [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1055(a)(1)]:

- "Approved jury instructions," which are civil and criminal instructions approved by the Judicial Council of California (CACI and CALCRIM); and

- "Special jury instructions," which are instructions from other sources (such as the Matthew Bender specific instructions in this publication), instructions specially prepared by the party, or approved jury instructions that have been substantially modified by the party.

Rule 2.1055, however, does not apply to the form or format of the instructions presented to the jury, which is a matter left to the court's discretion [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1055(a)(2)].

As noted above, all proposed jury instructions must be submitted to the court in the form and format prescribed for papers in Cal. Rules of Ct., Rules 2.100-2.119 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1055(b)(1)]. In addition, each set of proposed jury instructions must have a cover page, containing the caption of the case and stating the name of the party proposing the instructions, and an index listing all the proposed instructions [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1055(b)(2)]. In the index, approved jury instructions must be identified by their reference numbers (that is, "CACI No. ____" for civil instructions and "CALCRIM No. ____" for criminal instructions) and special jury instructions must be numbered consecutively [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1055(b)(3)]. The index must contain a checklist that the court may use to indicate whether the instruction was [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1055(b)(3); see, e.g., sample "Disposition Table" in MB 100A.11[1]]:

- Given as proposed;
- Given as modified;
- Refused; or
- Withdrawn.

Rule 2.1055 also prescribes the format of each proposed instruction by specifying that each proposed instruction must [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1055(c)]:

- Be on a separate page or pages;
- Include the instruction number and title of the instruction at the top of the first page of the instruction; and
- Be prepared without any blank lines or unused bracketed portions, so that it can be read directly to the jury.

No local court form or rule for the filing or submission of proposed jury instructions may require that the instructions be submitted in any manner other than as prescribed by Rule 2.1055 [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1055(e)]. Note, however, that Rule 2.1055 does not preclude a judge from requiring the parties in an individual case to transmit the jury instructions to the court electronically [Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1055, Advisory Committee Comment].

[2] Form of Jury Instructions Cover Page

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA
COUNTY OF _____

 _____ [name],)
) CASE NO. _____

Plaintiff,	)	REQUEST FOR JURY
vs.	)	INSTRUCTIONS
_____ [name],	)	[Code Civ. Proc. § 607a]
Defendant.	)
	)

_____ [Plaintiff or Defendant] _____ [name] respectfully requests this court to give the following jury instructions and any further or additional instructions that may be subsequently requested.

Dated: _____.

Law Offices of _____

By _____ [signature]

_____ [name]

Attorney for _____ [name]

[Plaintiff or Defendant]

[3] Use of Document Assembly Program

Preparation of jury instructions using computer document assembly software can save time and increase accuracy. For a software program to prepare the Judicial Council civil jury instructions using HotDocs(R) document assembly automation, see LexisNexis Automated Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions.

Although the attorney must still exercise careful attention to detail, the LexisNexis Automated Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions program walks the user through questions and decisions that surface, and leads to the creation of better jury instructions. The attorney must review all instructions to make sure that they apply correctly to the particular facts and circumstances of the case for which they are submitted.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsGovernmentsCourtsRule Application & Interpretation

35 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1A Matthew Bender Introduction to California Jury Instructions

1-1A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 100A.06

MB 100A.06 Submission of Proposed Instructions

[1] Before Trial

Code Civ. Proc. § 607a requires that all proposed instructions covering the law as disclosed by the pleadings be delivered to the judge and served on opposing counsel before the first witness is sworn. Failure to submit instructions before trial is technically grounds for the court's refusing them. However, the requirement that jury instructions be submitted before trial is not consistently enforced.

The court may properly refuse to give an instruction that is not submitted in a timely manner [see Webber v. Inland Empire Investments, Inc. (1999) 74 Cal.App.4th 884, 909, 88 Cal.Rptr.2d 594 (submitted after initial instructions had been given; late instruction would have unduly emphasized its contents)].

[2] Before Argument

Code Civ. Proc. § 607a also provides that before argument, counsel may deliver to the judge and serve on opposing counsel additional proposed instructions on questions of law developed by the evidence at trial.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsObjections to InstructionsCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsRequests for InstructionsCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard Instructions

36 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1A Matthew Bender Introduction to California Jury Instructions

1-1A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 100A.07

MB 100A.07 Giving Jurors Copy of Instructions

Jurors must be advised by the court at the time they retire to deliberate that written jury instructions are available [Code Civ. Proc. § 612.5; see, e.g., first paragraph in CACI No. 5000, which provides, in part, that jurors "will have a copy of [the] instructions" with them when they go to the jury room to deliberate]. The court may, at its discretion, provide the jury with a written copy of the instructions that have been given orally. However, if the jury requests a copy of the instructions, then the court must supply it [Code Civ. Proc. § 612.5].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJurorsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard Instructions

37 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1A Matthew Bender Introduction to California Jury Instructions

1-1A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 100A.08

MB 100A.08 Need to Request Complete Instructions

Each party must propose complete jury instructions according to the theory of the case as disclosed by the pleadings. If complete instructions are not submitted by the parties, the court is under no duty to give the missing instructions to the jury [Agarwal v. Johnson (1979) 25 Cal.3d 932, 951, 160 Cal.Rptr. 141, 603 P.2d 58 ; Switzer v. State of California (1969) 269 Cal.App.2d 627, 635, 75 Cal.Rptr. 371]. On the other hand, the court is entitled to give instructions sua sponte [Code Civ. Proc. § 608; see Jennings v. Arata (1948) 83 Cal.App.2d 143, 146, 188 P.2d 298], and it would probably be an abuse of discretion to fail entirely to instruct the jury [Thomas v. Buttress & McClellan (1956) 141 Cal.App.2d 812, 819, 297 P.2d 768]. This is particularly true when the jury asks for guidance. For example, in one case it was held to be error not to give more particular instructions after the jury asked questions indicating that it was confused, even though neither party offered further jury instructions on the point at issue [Bartosh v. Banning (1967) 251 Cal.App.2d 378, 387-388, 59 Cal.Rptr. 382].

38 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1A Matthew Bender Introduction to California Jury Instructions

1-1A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 100A.09

MB 100A.09 Right to Proper Instructions

It is clear that each party has a right to have the jury instructed on all theories of the case that are within the issues and supported by the pleadings and by the evidence [Hasson v. Ford Motor Co. (1977) 19 Cal.3d 530, 543, 138 Cal.Rptr. 705, 564 P.2d 857 ; Sesler v. Ghumman (1990) 219 Cal.App.3d 218, 223, 268 Cal.Rptr. 70 ; Bozanich v. Jo Ann Fisheries, Inc. (1969) 270 Cal.App.2d 178, 183, 75 Cal.Rptr. 463], regardless of whether the issues are framed in the pleadings, in a pretrial order, or by the evidence adduced at trial [Alvarez v. Felker Mfg. Co. (1964) 230 Cal.App.2d 987, 998, 41 Cal.Rptr. 514], and regardless of whether the court considers the evidence to be persuasive [Maxwell v. Powers (1994) 22 Cal.App.4th 1596, 1607, 28 Cal.Rptr.2d 62 , citing Fish v. Los Angeles Dodgers Baseball Club (1976) 56 Cal.App.3d 620, 633, 128 Cal.Rptr. 807]. This right is intended to insure that the jury has a full and complete understanding of the law that applies to the disputed facts of the case before it [Sesler v. Ghumman (1990) 219 Cal.App.3d 218, 223, 268 Cal.Rptr. 70].

When a correct but general instruction is given, a party is entitled to a more specific instruction that applies the law to the particular facts of the case or to that party's theory of the case [Menchaca v. Helms Bakeries, Inc. (1968) 68 Cal.2d 535, 542, 67 Cal.Rptr. 775, 439 P.2d 903 ; Borenkraut v. Whitten (1961) 56 Cal.2d 538, 545-546, 15 Cal.Rptr. 635, 364 P.2d 467 ; Sesler v. Ghumman (1990) 219 Cal.App.3d 218, 225, 268 Cal.Rptr. 70]. The evidence necessary to justify an instruction need not be overwhelming but may be slight, inconclusive, or even opposed to the preponderance of other evidence [Byrne v. City & County of San Francisco (1980) 113 Cal.App.3d 731, 737, 170 Cal.Rptr. 302]. Of course, the court is not required to give every instruction offered by a party [see, e.g., Morey v. Vannucci (1998) 64 Cal.App.4th 904, 914-915, 75 Cal.Rptr.2d 573 (trial court did not err in refusing to give plaintiff's proposed instructions defining contract term, without evidence that parties had considered technical definitions in those instructions)] and may modify the instructions it does accept [Byrum v. Brand (1990) 219 Cal.App.3d 926, 939, 268 Cal.Rptr. 609 ; Ray v. Jackson (1963) 219 Cal.App.2d 445, 455, 33 Cal.Rptr. 339]. This is true even though the requested instructions may state the applicable legal principles more clearly and directly than the instructions the court chooses to give [Eagar v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1973) 32 Cal.App.3d 116, 121, 107 Cal.Rptr. 819]. Furthermore, if proffered instructions require major modification to make them proper, the trial court is not required to make the changes as long as other instructions cover the principles of law applicable to the factual issues involved [Wank v. Richman & Garrett (1985) 165 Cal.App.3d 1103, 1113-1114, 211 Cal.Rptr. 919].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Right to Proper Instructions: The parties to a civil action are entitled to appropriate and fair instructions that clearly define the law. This insures that the jury's decision on disputed facts will result in a fair verdict. Proper use of the instructions should be clear to the attorneys who request that they be given. The judge who will decide what instructions will be given should be able to instruct with the confidence that the jury has been properly advised. Improper jury instructions have been one of the most common reasons given by appellate courts for overturning jury decisions. By Joseph Devine

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedurePretrial MattersConferencesPretrial OrdersCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard Instructions

39 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1A Matthew Bender Introduction to California Jury Instructions

1-1A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 100A.10

MB 100A.10 Formula Instructions

Formula instructions are those that direct the jury to find for a party if it finds certain facts to be true [see Dodge v. San Diego Elec. Ry. Co. (1949) 92 Cal.App.2d 759, 764, 208 P.2d 37]. Formula instructions can be defective unless they state all the legal prerequisites to a verdict for a party [Murrell v. California ex rel. Dep't of Public Works (1975) 47 Cal.App.3d 264, 269, 120 Cal.Rptr. 812]. Formula instructions have also been criticized as argumentative because they may be selective of certain facts and may emphasize that the jury must find in favor of a party [see Dodge v. San Diego Elec. Ry. Co. (1949) 92 Cal.App.2d 759, 764, 208 P.2d 37]. As a general rule, omission of one of the elements necessary for a formula instruction cannot be cured by other instructions that cover the omitted element [see Mazzotta v. Los Angeles Ry. Corp. (1944) 25 Cal.2d 165, 170, 153 P.2d 338]. On the other hand, this rule is not strictly enforced when the instructions fully and fairly charge the jury, and the jury is instructed to consider all instructions given together [Amidon v. Hebert (1949) 93 Cal.App.2d 225, 227, 208 P.2d 733].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsPeremptory InstructionsCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsSupplemental Instructions

40 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1A Matthew Bender Introduction to California Jury Instructions

1-1A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 100A.11

MB 100A.11 Court's Disposition of Proposed Instructions

[1] Power to Refuse Instructions Generally

Before argument, and at the request of counsel, the court must do all of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 607a]:

- Decide whether to give, refuse, or modify the proposed instructions.
- Decide which instructions, if any, are to be given in addition to those proposed.
- Advise counsel of all instructions that will be given.

In deciding whether to give instructions, the court will consider whether the offered instructions, though legally sound, cover subjects adequately dealt with by other instructions [Mezerkor v. Texaco, Inc. (1968) 266 Cal.App.2d 76, 100, 72 Cal.Rptr. 1 ; Crooks v. Pirrone (1964) 228 Cal.App.2d 549, 554, 39 Cal.Rptr. 622]. The court's power to refuse repetitive instructions underscores the importance of drafting instructions as to the matters at issue, couched in neutral language. A court properly refuses instructions (or is in error if it gives them) that unduly emphasize issues, theories, or defenses by using repetitive language, giving prominence to certain testimony, or stressing one party's duties [Slayton v. Wright (1969) 271 Cal.App.2d 219, 238, 76 Cal.Rptr. 494 ; Clark v. State of California (1950) 99 Cal.App.2d 616, 624, 222 P.2d 300 ; Dodge v. San Diego Elec. Ry. Co. (1949) 92 Cal.App.2d 759, 764, 208 P.2d 37].

Similarly, an instruction can be refused because it is argumentative. It should state the rules of law rather than elaborate on matters of evidence. On the other hand, it is not objectionable to merely state the claims of a party without intimating that the claims are proved or that certain facts exist that are either not in evidence or concerning which the evidence is in conflict [Slayton v. Wright (1969) 271 Cal.App.2d 219, 238-239, 76 Cal.Rptr. 494]. With regard to instructions on facts that are not in evidence, they have been consistently held irrelevant and either error to give or proper to refuse [see, e.g., Walbrook Ins. Co. v. Liberty Mutual Ins. Co. (1992) 5 Cal.App.4th 1445, 1463, 7 Cal.Rptr.2d 513 ; Klemme v. Hoag Memorial Hospital Presbyterian (1980) 103 Cal.App.3d 640, 644-645, 163 Cal.Rptr. 109 (error nonprejudicial); Foster v. Gillette Co. (1979) 100 Cal.App.3d 569, 575, 161 Cal.Rptr. 134].

A "Disposition Table" is set forth below:

Click here to view image.

[2] Demand for Clarification

It is incumbent on a party who feels an instruction is too general, incomplete, or unclear to request additional or substitute instructions [see Weeks v. Baker & McKenzie (1998) 63 Cal.App.4th 1128, 1162, 74 Cal.Rptr.2d 510 ; Switzer v. State of California (1969) 269 Cal.App.2d 627, 636, 75 Cal.Rptr. 371] . If counsel has some doubt about the clarity of an instruction to be given by the court, then he or she should ask the court to explain, or provide an instruction that does [O'Connor v. United Railroads (1914) 168 Cal. 43, 52, 141 P. 809]. The court may refuse the clarifying instruction on the ground that it is repetitive, argumentative, or would otherwise be error to give; however, by offering the alternative instruction, counsel may at least have the instruction given reviewed on appeal [Switzer v. State of California (1969) 269 Cal.App.2d 627, 636, 75 Cal.Rptr. 371].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsObjections to InstructionsCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsPeremptory InstructionsCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsSupplemental Instructions

41 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1A Matthew Bender Introduction to California Jury Instructions

1-1A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 100A.12

MB 100A.12 Automatic Objection to Instructions

Ordinarily, an objection to a court ruling must be made at the time of the ruling [Code Civ. Proc. § 646]. However, this rule is subject to a number of exceptions, among them the one for jury instructions that are given, refused, or modified [Code Civ. Proc. § 647]. This means that erroneous instructions that are offered by an opponent or given on the court's own motion are objected to automatically. "When a trial court gives a jury instruction which is prejudicially erroneous as given, i.e., which is an incorrect statement of law, the party harmed by that instruction need not have objected to the instruction or proposed a correct instruction of his own in order to preserve the right to complain of the erroneous instruction on appeal" [Suman v. BMW of North America, Inc. (1994) 23 Cal.App.4th 1, 9, 28 Cal.Rptr.2d 133 (emphasis in original)].

Although the automatic objection is of no avail if an instruction correctly states the law but is deficient by reason of its generality, when prejudice results from an erroneous instruction it is a matter that can be raised on appeal without exception having been taken in the trial court [Agarwal v. Johnson (1979) 25 Cal.3d 932, 948-949, 160 Cal.Rptr. 141, 603 P.2d 58 ; Rivera v. Parma (1960) 54 Cal.2d 313, 316, 5 Cal.Rptr. 665, 353 P.2d 273 ; People ex rel. Dept. of Transportation v. Salami (1991) 2 Cal.App.4th 37, 42 n.2, 2 Cal.Rptr.2d 833 ; U.S. Roofing, Inc. v. Credit Alliance Corp. (1991) 228 Cal.App.3d 1431, 1446-1447, 279 Cal.Rptr. 533]. The automatic objection rule does not apply when a party has failed to request an instruction that would have been proper, or has failed to request a clarifying instruction [Bisno v. Douglas Emmett Realty Fund 1988 (2009) 174 Cal.App.4th 1534, 1555 n.7, 95 Cal.Rptr.3d 492; Hilts v. County of Solano (1968) 265 Cal.App.2d 161, 171, 71 Cal.Rptr. 275].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsObjections to InstructionsCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsCivil ProcedureAppealsReviewabilityPreservation for Review

42 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 1A Matthew Bender Introduction to California Jury Instructions

1-1A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 100A.13

MB 100A.13 When Giving or Failing to Give Instructions Is Appealable

[1] Requirement of Prejudicial Effect

Article VI, § 13 of the California Constitution provides that an error in instructing the jury is grounds for reversal only if the reviewing court, "after an examination of the entire cause, including the evidence," concludes that "the error complained of has resulted in a miscarriage of justice." The court must determine whether it is reasonably probable that a result more favorable to the appealing party would have been reached in the absence of error [Soule v. General Motors Corp. (1994) 8 Cal.4th 548, 580, 34 Cal.Rptr.2d 607, 882 P.2d 298 (error held harmless); Mitchell v. Gonzales (1991) 54 Cal.3d 1041, 1054, 1 Cal.Rptr.2d 913, 819 P.2d 872 (error held prejudicial); Weiner v. Fleischman (1991) 54 Cal.3d 476, 490, 286 Cal.Rptr. 40, 816 P.2d 892 (error held prejudicial)]. Code Civ. Proc. § 475 more specifically provides that a judgment cannot be reversed or affected by any error, improper ruling, instruction, or defect unless the record shows all of the following:

- The effect of the error is prejudicial;
- The appealing party sustained substantial injury as a result; and
- A different result would have been probable if the error, improper ruling, instruction, or defect had not occurred.

Merely showing that error occurred creates no presumption of prejudice or injury to the complaining party [Code Civ. Proc. § 475].

[2] Instructions Considered in Their Totality

When it is claimed that the trial court has erred in giving or refusing to give an instruction, the appellate court will consider instructions in their entirety to determine whether or not the effect of the claimed error was prejudicial. If when considered together the instructions state the law fairly and clearly, they are unobjectionable even though isolated passages of single instructions may be justly criticized [Eagar v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1973) 32 Cal.App.3d 116,

120, 107 Cal.Rptr. 819]. This means that reversal will not be granted on grounds of verbal inaccuracies in an instruction or because a single instruction falls short of including all elements when these can be gathered from the instructions as a whole [Mangrum v. Union P. R. Co. (1964) 230 Cal.App.2d 960, 967, 41 Cal.Rptr. 536] . This also explains the significance of the court's standard admonition to the jury that it consider all instructions together and not give more weight to individual instructions.

[3] Determination of Prejudice

If it appears that giving or refusing to give an instruction was likely to mislead the jury and become a factor in its verdict, then the instructional error is prejudicial and a court should not speculate on what may have been the basis for the jury's verdict [Henderson v. Harnischfeger Corp. (1974) 12 Cal.3d 663, 670, 117 Cal.Rptr. 1, 527 P.2d 353 ; Carney v. Santa Cruz Women Against Rape (1990) 221 Cal.App.3d 1009, 1018, 271 Cal.Rptr. 30]. Although there is no exact formula for measuring the degree of error that will be found prejudicial, a number of factors can be considered [LeMons v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1978) 21 Cal.3d 869, 876, 148 Cal.Rptr. 355, 582 P.2d 946 ; see Soule v. General Motors Corp. (1994) 8 Cal.4th 548, 580, 34 Cal.Rptr.2d 607, 882 P.2d 298 (citing LeMons and indicating that multifactor test applies in cases of instructional omission as well as when instruction is erroneously given); Mitchell v. Gonzales (1991) 54 Cal.3d 1041, 1054-1056, 1 Cal.Rptr.2d 913, 819 P.2d 872 (citing LeMons to find prejudicial error when closing argument contributed to instruction's misleading effect and other instructions did not cure error); Weiner v. Fleischman (1991) 54 Cal.3d 476, 490, 286 Cal.Rptr. 40, 816 P.2d 892 (applying LeMons factors to find prejudicial error); Logacz v. Limansky (1999) 71 Cal.App.4th 1149, 1156-1166, 84 Cal.Rptr.2d 257 (citing Soule and analyzing various factors to find prejudicial error); Gargir v. B'nei Akiva (1998) 66 Cal.App.4th 1269, 1275, 78 Cal.Rptr.2d 557 (no prejudicial error in court's refusal to give instruction that was common sense principle for evaluating witness credibility)]:

- The extent to which there is conflict in the evidence on critical issues.
- Whether the respondent's argument to the jury may have contributed to the instruction's misleading effect.
- Whether the jury requested a rereading of the erroneous instruction or of related evidence.
- The closeness of the jury's verdict.
- The effect of other instructions in curing the error.

[4] Need for Objection or Request

Although there may be no need for an objection to an erroneous instruction because of the automatic objection provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 647 [see MB 100A.12], a party may not raise the issue on appeal of the court's failure to instruct on a particular issue unless the party requested the specific proper instruction [Bisno v. Douglas Emmett Realty Fund 1988 (2009) 174 Cal. App. 4th 1534, 1555 n.7, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 492 ; Orient Handel v. United States Fid. & Guar. Co. (1987) 192 Cal.App.3d 684, 699, 237 Cal.Rptr. 667 ; Spahn v. Guild Industries Corp. (1979) 94 Cal.App.3d 143, 160, 156 Cal.Rptr. 375 ; Switzer v. State of California (1969) 269 Cal.App.2d 627, 636, 75 Cal.Rptr. 371]. In addition, when a party feels that a given instruction states the law correctly, but is too general, incomplete, or unclear, the party should request a clarifying instruction to preserve the objection to the instruction for review on appeal [White v. Inbound Aviation (1999) 69 Cal.App.4th 910, 925, 82 Cal.Rptr.2d 71 ; Weeks v. Baker & McKenzie (1998) 63 Cal.App.4th 1128, 1162, 74 Cal.Rptr.2d 510 ; Switzer v. State of California (1969) 269 Cal.App.2d 627, 636, 75 Cal.Rptr. 371 ; see MB 100A.11[2]].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury
InstructionsObjections to InstructionsCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsCivil
ProcedureAppealsReviewabilityPreservation for ReviewCivil ProcedureAppealsStandards of ReviewHarmless &
Invited ErrorsPrejudicial Errors

43 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction 2.syn

§ 2.syn Synopsis to Chapter 2: California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

CACI 200 Obligation to Prove--More Likely True Than Not True

CACI 201 More Likely True--Clear and Convincing Proof

CACI 202 Direct and Indirect Evidence

CACI 203 Party Having Power to Produce Better Evidence

CACI 204 Willful Suppression of Evidence

CACI 205 Failure to Explain or Deny Evidence

CACI 206 Evidence Admitted for Limited Purpose

CACI 207 Evidence Applicable to One Party

CACI 208 Deposition as Substantive Evidence

CACI 209 Use of Interrogatories of a Party

CACI 210 Requests for Admissions

CACI 211 Prior Conviction of a Felony

CACI 212 Statements of a Party Opponent

CACI 213 Adoptive Admissions

CACI 214 Admissions by Silence

CACI 215 Exercise of a Communication Privilege

CACI 216 Exercise of Witness' Right Not to Testify

CACI 217 Evidence of Settlement

CACI 218 Statements Made to Physician (Previously Existing Condition)

CACI 219 Expert Witness Testimony

CACI 220 Experts--Questions Containing Assumed Facts

CACI 221 Conflicting Expert Testimony

CACI 222 Evidence of Sliding-Scale Settlement

CACI 223 Opinion Testimony of Lay Witness

CACI 224 Testimony of Child

CACI 225-CACI 299 Reserved for Future Use

44 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction Scope

Scope

SCOPE

This chapter contains the California Judicial Council's "Evidence Series" of jury instructions [CACI No. 200 et seq.]. The Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions (CACI) included in this publication are the product of the Judicial Council of California Task Force on Jury Instructions, which are updated by the Judicial Council of California Advisory Committee on Civil Jury Instructions.

This chapter includes instructions on the following topics:

- The general burden of proof in a civil action ("more likely true than not true") [CACI No. 200].
- Clear and convincing proof ("more likely true") [CACI No. 201].
- Direct and indirect (i.e. "circumstantial") evidence [CACI No. 202].
- Party having power to produce better evidence [CACI No. 203].
- Willful suppression of evidence [CACI No. 204].
- Failure to explain or deny evidence [CACI No. 205].
- Evidence admitted for a limited purpose [CACI No. 206] and evidence applicable to just one party [CACI No. 207].
- Discovery related instructions, including the use of deposition testimony [CACI No. 208], party interrogatories [CACI No. 209], and requests for admissions [CACI No. 210].
- Admissibility of evidence issues, including instructions on the prior conviction of a felony [CACI No. 211], statements of a party opponent [CACI No. 212], adoptive admissions [CACI No. 213] and admissions by silence [CACI No. 214], and the witness' right not to testify [CACI No. 215] and privilege against self-incrimination [CACI No. 216].

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction Scope

- Evidence of settlement [CACI No. 217].
- Statements made to a doctor (previously existing condition) [CACI No. 218].
- Expert witness testimony [CACI Nos. 219-221].
- Evidence of sliding-scale settlement [CACI No. 222].
- Lay witness opinion testimony [CACI No. 223].
- Child testimony [CACI No. 224].

45 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 200

CACI 200 Obligation to Prove--More Likely True Than Not True

A party must persuade you, by the evidence presented in court, that what he or she is required to prove is more likely to be true than not true. This is referred to as "the burden of proof."

After weighing all of the evidence, if you cannot decide that something is more likely to be true than not true, you must conclude that the party did not prove it. You should consider all the evidence, no matter which party produced the evidence.

In criminal trials, the prosecution must prove that the defendant is guilty beyond a reasonable doubt. But in civil trials, such as this one, the party who is required to prove something need prove only that it is more likely to be true than not true.

New September 2003; Revised February 2005

Evidence Code section 502 requires the court to instruct the jury regarding which party bears the burden of proof on each issue and the requisite degree of proof.

For an instruction on clear and convincing evidence, see CACI No. 201, More Likely True--Clear and Convincing Proof.

■ Evidence Code section 115 provides: " 'Burden of proof' means the obligation of a party to establish by evidence a requisite degree of belief concerning a fact in the mind of the trier of fact or the court. The burden of proof may require a party to raise a reasonable doubt concerning the existence or nonexistence of a fact or that he establish the existence or nonexistence of a fact by a preponderance of the evidence, by clear and convincing proof, or by proof beyond a reasonable doubt. Except as otherwise provided by law, the burden of proof requires proof by a preponderance of the evidence."

■ Evidence Code section 500 provides: "Except as otherwise provided by law, a party has the burden of proof as to each fact the existence or nonexistence of which is essential to the claim for relief or defense that he is asserting."

■ Each party is entitled to the benefit of all the evidence, including the evidence produced by an adversary. (Williams v. Barnett (1955) 135 Cal.App.2d 607, 612 [287 P.2d 789] ; 7 Witkin, California Procedure (4th ed. 1997) Trial, § 305, p. 352.)

■ The general rule in California is that " '[i]ssues of fact in civil cases are determined by a preponderance of testimony.' " (Weiner v. Fleischman (1991) 54 Cal.3d 476, 483 [286 Cal.Rptr. 40, 816 P.2d 892] , citation omitted.)

■ The preponderance-of-the-evidence standard "simply requires the trier of fact 'to believe that the existence of a fact is more probable than its nonexistence.' " (In re Angelia P. (1981) 28 Cal.3d 908, 918 [171 Cal.Rptr. 637, 623 P.2d 198] , citation omitted.)

■ "Preponderance of the evidence" " 'means what it says, viz., that the evidence on one side outweighs, preponderates over, is more than, the evidence on the other side, not necessarily in number of witnesses or quantity, but in its effect on those to whom it is addressed.' " (Glage v. Hawes Firearms Co. (1990) 226 Cal.App.3d 314, 325 [276 Cal.Rptr. 430] (quoting People v. Miller (1916) 171 Cal. 649, 652 [154 P. 468] and holding that it was prejudicial misconduct for jurors to refer to the dictionary for definition of the word "preponderance").)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Burden of Proof and Presumptions, § 35

Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook (3d ed. 1997) Ch. 45, Burdens of Proof and of Producing Evidence; Presumptions

4 California Trial Guide, Unit 91, Jury Deliberations and Rendition of Verdict, § 91.20 (Matthew Bender)

48 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 551, Trial, §§ 551.90, 551.92 (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI No. 2.60.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Change in Language: In light of change in language as to proof, attorneys may need to alter their closing arguments (i.e., work the "new" language into your argument). By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--CACI No. 200 Improves on BAJI: CACI No. 200 is a clear improvement over the "Burden of Proof" in BAJI No. 2.60. "More likely to be true than not true" is a great improvement over "by a preponderance of the evidence." Also, this important instruction requires no alterations. Unlike BAJI No. 2.60, CACI No. 200 explains the difference between the burden of proof in a criminal case and a civil case. This distinction was commonly given in civil cases before CACI, and it is an important instruction which, rightfully, will now be given in every civil case. By

Joseph Devine

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Using CACI No. 200: Most tort actions will utilize CACI No. 200's more likely true than not true standard. This instruction makes it very clear for a juror to understand what it means to have the responsibility of proving a fact and to what degree that fact must be proved in order for it to be true. Most attorneys explain to the jury during voir dire and at closing argument the difference between the standard of "beyond a reasonable doubt" used in criminal trials and the standard used in civil trials. By Dona Cohn-Payne

The burden of proof does not shift during trial--it remains with the party who originally bears it. Unlike the burden of proof, the burden of producing evidence may shift between plaintiff and defendant during the trial. Once a party produces evidence sufficient to make its prima facie case, the burden of producing evidence to refute the prima facie case shifts to the other party. (Sargent Fletcher, Inc. v. Able Corp. (2003) 110 Cal.App.4th 1658, 1667-1668 [3 Cal.Rptr.3d 279] , internal citations omitted.)

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofGeneral OverviewEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofClear & Convincing Proof

46 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 201

CACI 201 More Likely True--Clear and Convincing Proof

Certain facts must be proved by clear and convincing evidence, which is a higher burden of proof. This means the party must persuade you that it is highly probable that the fact is true. I will tell you specifically which facts must be proved by clear and convincing evidence.

New September 2003; Revised October 2004

Evidence Code section 502 requires the court to instruct the jury regarding which party bears the burden of proof on each issue and the requisite degree of proof.

This instruction should be read immediately after CACI No. 200, Obligation to Prove--More Likely True Than Not True, if the jury will have to decide an issue by means of the clear-and-convincing evidence standard.

■ Evidence Code section 115 provides: "Burden of proof" means the obligation of a party to establish by evidence a requisite degree of belief concerning a fact in the mind of the trier of fact or the court. The burden of proof may require a party to raise a reasonable doubt concerning the existence or nonexistence of a fact or that he establish the existence or nonexistence of a fact by preponderance of the evidence, by clear and convincing proof, or by proof beyond a reasonable doubt. [P] Except as otherwise provided by law, the burden of proof requires proof by a preponderance of the evidence."

■ Evidence Code section 500 provides: "Except as otherwise provided by law, a party has the burden of proof as to each fact the existence or nonexistence of which is essential to the claim for relief or defense that he is asserting."

■ Each party is entitled to the benefit of all the evidence, including the evidence produced by an adversary. (Williams v. Barnett (1955) 135 Cal.App.2d 607, 612 [287 P.2d 789] ; 7 Witkin, California Procedure (4th ed. 1997) Trial, § 305, p. 352.)

■ "Proof by clear and convincing evidence is required 'where particularly important individual interests or rights are at stake,' such as the termination of parental rights, involuntary commitment, and deportation. However, 'imposition of even severe civil sanctions that do not implicate such interests has been permitted after proof by a preponderance of the evidence.' " (Weiner v. Fleischman (1991) 54 Cal.3d 476, 487 [286 Cal.Rptr. 40, 816 P.2d 892] (quoting Herman & MacLean v. Huddleston (1983) 459 U.S. 375, 389-390).)

■ " 'Clear and convincing' evidence requires a finding of high probability." (In re Angelia P. (1981) 28 Cal.3d 908, 919 [171 Cal.Rptr. 637, 623 P.2d 198] .)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Burden of Proof and Presumptions, §§ 38, 39

Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook (3d ed. 1997) §§ 45.4, 45.21

4 California Trial Guide, Unit 91, Jury Deliberations and Rendition of Verdict, § 91.20 (Matthew Bender)

48 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 551, Trial, §§ 551.90, 551.92 (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI No. 2.62.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Closely Consider How to Phrase Your

Argument: This language, it seems, is more difficult for a juror to understand than the prior instruction. Thus, if you have a trial with a "clear and convincing" standard, closely consider how to phrase your argument. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--"Clear and Convincing Evidence" Is Not Proof

"Beyond a Reasonable Doubt": You may also want to remind the jury that proof by "clear and convincing evidence" is still not proof "beyond a reasonable doubt" that only applies in criminal cases. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use of CACI No. 201 in Tort Actions Is Unlikely: It would be uncommon for this instruction to be used in a tort action as it is not the appropriate degree of proof. By Dona Cohn-Payne

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--"Clear and Convincing" Standard: CACI No.

201 instructs the jury that certain facts must be proven by "clear and convincing" evidence. Unfortunately, the instruction does not set forth which facts need to be proved by the higher standard. The instruction would be improved if it required alteration by inserting those facts which must be proved by "clear and convincing" evidence. By Joseph Devine

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury
InstructionsStandard InstructionsEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofGeneral
OverviewEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofClear & Convincing Proof

47 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 202

CACI 202 Direct and Indirect Evidence

Evidence can come in many forms. It can be testimony about what someone saw or heard or smelled. It can be an exhibit admitted into evidence. It can be someone's opinion.

Some evidence proves a fact directly, such as testimony of a witness who saw a jet plane flying across the sky. Some evidence proves a fact indirectly, such as testimony of a witness who saw only the white trail that jet planes often leave. This indirect evidence is sometimes referred to as "circumstantial evidence." In either instance, the witness's testimony is evidence that a jet plane flew across the sky.

As far as the law is concerned, it makes no difference whether evidence is direct or indirect. You may choose to believe or disbelieve either kind. Whether it is direct or indirect, you should give every piece of evidence whatever weight you think it deserves.

New September 2003

Directions for Use

An instruction concerning the effect of circumstantial evidence must be given on request when it is called for by the evidence. (Shepherd v. Walley (1972) 28 Cal.App.3d 1079, 1084 [105 Cal.Rptr. 387] ; Calandri v. Ione Unified School Dist. (1963) 219 Cal.App.2d 542, 551 [33 Cal.Rptr. 333] ; Trapani v. Holzer (1958) 158 Cal.App.2d 1, 6 [321 P.2d 803] .)

Sources and Authority

- Evidence Code section 410 provides: "As used in this chapter, 'direct evidence' means evidence that directly proves a fact, without an inference or presumption, and which in itself, if true, conclusively establishes that fact."

■ Evidence Code section 600(b) provides: "An inference is a deduction of fact that may logically and reasonably be drawn from another fact or group of facts found or otherwise established in the action."

■ The Assembly Committee on Judiciary Comment to section 600 observes: "Under the Evidence Code, an inference is not itself evidence; it is the result of reasoning from evidence."

■ "[T]he fact that evidence is 'circumstantial' does not mean that it cannot be 'substantial.' Relevant circumstantial evidence is admissible in California. Moreover, the jury is entitled to accept persuasive circumstantial evidence even where contradicted by direct testimony." (Hasson v. Ford Motor Co. (1977) 19 Cal.3d 530, 548 [138 Cal.Rptr. 705, 564 P.2d 857] , overruled on other grounds in Soule v. GM Corp. (1994) 8 Cal.4th 548 [34 Cal.Rptr.2d 607, 882 P.2d 298] .)

■ "The terms 'indirect evidence' and 'circumstantial evidence' are interchangeable and synonymous." (People v. Yokum (1956) 145 Cal.App.2d 245, 250 [302 P.2d 406] , disapproved on other grounds, People v. Cook (1983) 33 Cal.3d 400, 413 [189 Cal.Rptr. 159, 658 P.2d 86] ; People v. Goldstein (1956) 139 Cal.App.2d 146, 152 [293 P.2d 495] .)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Circumstantial Evidence, §§ 1, 2

3 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Presentation at Trial, §§ 138-141

Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook (3d ed. 1997) §§ 19.12-19.18

48 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 551, Trial, § 551.62 (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI No. 2.00.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Structure Your Closing Argument Carefully:

This instruction is one that may be difficult for some jurors to understand and to apply. Hence, structure the closing argument carefully. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Proving Intent: This can be a very important instruction in cases where proving intent is an element of your case. Except in unusual circumstances, intent can only be proved through indirect evidence. Accordingly, this instruction that the law makes no difference between direct and indirect evidence should be emphasized in closing argument. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Point Out Direct Evidence: Pointing out direct evidence of a fact in issue in a closing argument when the other side only has indirect evidence of a contrary fact on the same issue is a good idea. Even though this instruction indicates no difference on whether the evidence is direct or indirect, jurors tend to favor direct evidence so it is important to point it out when you get the chance. By Dona Cohn-Payne

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsCircumstantial &
Direct EvidenceEvidenceRelevanceCircumstantial & Direct EvidenceEvidenceTestimonyLay WitnessesOpinion
TestimonyGeneral Overview

48 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 203

CACI 203 Party Having Power to Produce Better Evidence

You may consider the ability of each party to provide evidence. If a party provided weaker evidence when it could have provided stronger evidence, you may distrust the weaker evidence.

New September 2003

Directions for Use

An instruction on failure to produce evidence should not be given if there is no evidence that the party producing inferior evidence had the power to produce superior evidence. (Thomas v. Gates (1899) 126 Cal. 1, 6 [58 P. 315] ; Hansen v. Warco Steel Corp. (1965) 237 Cal.App.2d 870, 876 [47 Cal.Rptr. 428] ; Holland v. Kerr (1953) 116 Cal.App.2d 31, 37 [253 P.2d 88] .)

The reference to "stronger evidence" applies to evidence that is admissible. This instruction should not be construed to apply to evidence that the court has ruled inadmissible. (Hansen, supra, 237 Cal.App.2d at p. 877 .)

For willful suppression of evidence, see CACI No. 204, Willful Suppression of Evidence.

Secondary Sources

7 Witkin, California Procedure (4th ed. 1997) Trial, § 313, p. 358

48 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 551, Trial, § 551.93 (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI No. 2.02.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Missing Witnesses at Trial: This instruction can be useful in cases when one side has decided not to call an important witness because the witness did not do well in a deposition. A closing argument structured around "the empty chair" (e.g., the missing witness) can be strengthened by emphasizing this instruction. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use CACI No. 203, 204, and 205 Only When Evidence Exists to Support Finding on Issues: The "Directions for Use" for CACI Nos. 203, 204, and 205 make clear that these instructions should not be given unless there is evidence to support a finding on these issues by the jury. Although attorneys would commonly dispute whether these instructions should be given, BAJI use notes did not make it clear that such instructions should only be given if there was evidence to support them. By Joseph Devine

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--If Appropriate, Explain Why Strongest Evidence Was Not Presented: Always provide your strongest evidence and if you cannot then explain to the jury why it was not possible. For example, if a witness cannot testify live and you must rely on deposition testimony, explain to the jury why that witness was not there personally. This instruction should only be used if appropriate to the facts in the case. By Dona Cohn-Payne

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsCircumstantial & Direct EvidenceEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsPreliminary QuestionsWeight & Credibility of Evidence

49 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 204

CACI 204 Willful Suppression of Evidence

You may consider whether one party intentionally concealed or destroyed evidence. If you decide that a party did so, you may decide that the evidence would have been unfavorable to that party.

New September 2003; Revised October 2004

Directions for Use

This instruction should be given only if there is evidence of suppression. (In re Estate of Moore (1919) 180 Cal. 570, 585 [182 P. 285] ; Sprague v. Equifax, Inc. (1985) 166 Cal.App.3d 1012, 1051 [213 Cal.Rptr. 69] ; County of Contra Costa v. Nulty (1965) 237 Cal.App.2d 593, 598 [47 Cal.Rptr. 109] .)

If there is evidence that a party improperly altered evidence (as opposed to concealing or destroying it), users should consider modifying this instruction to account for that circumstance.

In Cedars-Sinai Medical Center v. Superior Court (1998) 18 Cal.4th 1, 12 [74 Cal.Rptr.2d 248, 954 P.2d 511] , a case concerning the tort of intentional spoliation of evidence, the Supreme Court observed that trial courts are free to adapt standard jury instructions on willful suppression to fit the circumstances of the case, "including the egregiousness of the spoliation and the strength and nature of the inference arising from the spoliation."

Sources and Authority

- Evidence Code section 413 provides: "In determining what inferences to draw from the evidence or facts in the case against a party, the trier of fact may consider, among other things, the party's failure to explain or to deny by his testimony such evidence or facts in the case against him, or his willful suppression of evidence relating thereto, if such be the case."

■ Former Code of Civil Procedure section 1963(5) permitted the jury to infer "[t]hat the evidence willfully suppressed would be adverse if produced." Including this inference in a jury instruction on willful suppression is proper because "Evidence Code section 413 was not intended as a change in the law." (Bihun v. AT&T Information Systems, Inc. (1993) 13 Cal.App.4th 976, 994 [16 Cal.Rptr.2d 787] , disapproved of on other grounds in Lakin v. Watkins Associated Industries (1993) 6 Cal.4th 644, 664 [25 Cal.Rptr.2d 109, 863 P.2d 179] .)

■ "The rule of [present Evidence Code section 413] ... is predicated on common sense, and public policy. The purpose of a trial is to arrive at the true facts. A trial is not a game where one counsel safely may sit back and refuse to produce evidence where in the nature of things his client is the only source from which that evidence may be secured. A defendant is not under a duty to produce testimony adverse to himself, but if he fails to produce evidence that would naturally have been produced he must take the risk that the trier of fact will infer, and properly so, that the evidence, had it been produced, would have been adverse." (Williamson v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County (1978) 21 Cal.3d 829, 836 fn. 2 [148 Cal.Rptr. 39, 582 P.2d 126] , original italics.)

Secondary Sources

7 Witkin, California Procedure (4th ed. 1997) Trial, § 313, p. 358

3 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Presentation at Trial, § 115

48 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 551, Trial, § 551.93 (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI No. 2.03.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Emphasize CACI No. 204, If Applicable: Willful suppression of evidence presents a dramatic part of your case, if applicable. Thus, structure your closing argument with emphasis on this instruction. By Rex Heeseman and Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use of CACI No. 204: CACI No. 204 is a particularly powerful instruction to the jury. Review case law on negligent and intentional spoliation of evidence. Plaintiffs counsel in tort cases should immediately notify in writing the defendant and their insurance company and later on counsel that a preservation of evidence (i.e. automobile, product, etc.) is demanded. This should be done as soon as you sign up your client. In the event the item is later destroyed or lost, your chances of obtaining this instruction have increased. By Dona Cohn-Payne

See also "LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use CACI No. 203, 204, and 205 Only When Evidence Exists to Support Finding on Issues" in CACI No. 203.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions Standard Instructions Evidence Inferences & Presumptions General Overview

50 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 205

CACI 205 Failure to Explain or Deny Evidence

You may consider whether a party failed to explain or deny some unfavorable evidence. Failure to explain or to deny unfavorable evidence may suggest that the evidence is true.

New September 2003

Directions for Use

This instruction should be given only if there is a failure to deny or explain a fact that is material to the case.

Sources and Authority

- Evidence Code section 413 provides: "In determining what inferences to draw from the evidence or facts in the case against a party, the trier of fact may consider, among other things, the party's failure to explain or to deny by his testimony such evidence or facts in the case against him, or his willful suppression of evidence relating thereto, if such be the case."

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Presentation at Trial, § 116

4 Johnson, California Trial Guide, Ch. 90, Closing Argument, § 90.30[2] (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI No. 2.04.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Highlight Evidence Not Explained or Denied: In almost every case, there is some evidence that one side fails to explain or deny. CACI No. 205 provides an opportunity to highlight the significance of such a failure. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Evidence Must be Material: Make sure if your opposing counsel is proposing this instruction, the evidence that was not denied or explained is actually material. By Dona Cohn-Payne

See also "LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use CACI No. 203, 204, and 205 Only When Evidence Exists to Support Finding on Issues" in CACI No. 203.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsEvidenceInferences & PresumptionsGeneral Overview

51 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 206

CACI 206 Evidence Admitted for Limited Purpose

During the trial, I explained to you that certain evidence was admitted for a limited purpose. You may consider that evidence only for the limited purpose that I described, and not for any other purpose.

New September 2003

Where appropriate, an instruction limiting the purpose for which evidence is to be considered must be given upon request. (Evid. Code, § 355; Daggett v. Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Ry. Co. (1957) 48 Cal.2d 655, 665-666 [313 P.2d 557] ; Continental Airlines, Inc. v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1989) 216 Cal.App.3d 388, 412 [264 Cal.Rptr. 779] .) It is recommended that the judge call attention to the purpose to which the evidence applies.

For an instruction on evidence applicable to one party or a limited number of parties, see CACI No. 207, Evidence Applicable to One Party.

- Evidence Code section 355 provides: "When evidence is admissible as to one party or for one purpose and is inadmissible as to another party or for another purpose, the court upon request shall restrict the evidence to its proper scope and instruct the jury accordingly."
- Refusal to give a requested instruction limiting the purpose for which evidence is to be considered may constitute error. (Adkins v. Brett (1920) 184 Cal. 252, 261-262 [193 P. 251] .)
- Courts have observed that "[w]here the information is admitted for a purpose other than showing the truth of the matter asserted ... , prejudice is likely to be minimal and a limiting instruction under section

355 may be requested to control the jury's use of the information." (Korsak v. Atlas Hotels, Inc. (1992) 2 Cal.App.4th 1516, 1525 [3 Cal.Rptr.2d 833] .)

■ An adverse party may be excused from the requirement of requesting a limiting instruction and may be permitted to assert error if the trial court unequivocally rejects the argument upon which a limiting instruction would be based. (Warner Construction Corp. v. City of Los Angeles (1970) 2 Cal.3d 285, 298-299 [85 Cal.Rptr. 444, 466 P.2d 996] .)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Circumstantial Evidence, §§ 30-34

Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook (3d ed. 1997) §§ 20.11-20.13

1A California Trial Guide, Unit 21, Procedures for Determining Admissibility of Evidence, § 21.21 (Matthew Bender)

48 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 551, Trial, §§ 551.66, 551.77 (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 2.05.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Considering Evidence for Limited Purpose: "It is hard to unring the bell." Similarly, some jurors will have some difficulties in considering evidence for a limited purpose. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Consider Keeping Evidence for Limited Purpose Out: CACI No. 206 is a very difficult instruction for a juror to follow since evidence for one purpose will undoubtedly be used for other purposes. If you are opposing the introduction of evidence, it is better to keep the evidence completely out than have to deal with this instruction due to the prejudicial effect. By Dona Cohn-Payne

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsEvidenceInferences & PresumptionsGeneral OverviewEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsCurative AdmissibilityEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsLimited Admissibility

52 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 207

CACI 207 Evidence Applicable to One Party

[During the trial, I explained that certain evidence could be considered as to only one party. You may not consider that evidence as to any other party.]

[During the trial, I explained that certain evidence could be considered as to one or more parties but not to every party. You may not consider that evidence as to any other party.]

New September 2003

If appropriate, an instruction limiting the parties to whom evidence applies must be given on request. (Evid. Code, § 355.) It is recommended that the judge call attention to the party or parties to which the evidence applies.

For an instruction on evidence admissible for a limited purpose, see CACI No. 206, Evidence Admitted for Limited Purpose.

■ Evidence Code section 355 provides: "When evidence is admissible as to one party or for one purpose and is inadmissible as to another party or for another purpose, the court upon request shall restrict the evidence to its proper scope and instruct the jury accordingly."

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Circumstantial Evidence, §§ 30-34

Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook (3d ed. 1997) §§ 20.11-20.13

1A California Trial Guide, Unit 21, Procedures for Determining Admissibility of Evidence, § 21.21 (Matthew Bender)

48 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 551, Trial, §§ 551.66, 551.77 (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 2.05.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury
InstructionsStandard InstructionsEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsLimited AdmissibilityEvidenceProcedural
ConsiderationsPreliminary QuestionsWeight & Credibility of Evidence

53 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 208

CACI 208 Deposition as Substantive Evidence

During the trial, you heard testimony read from a deposition. A deposition is the testimony of a person taken before trial. At a deposition the person is sworn to tell the truth and is questioned by the attorneys. You must consider the deposition testimony that was read to you in the same way as you consider testimony given in court.

New September 2003

- Code of Civil Procedure section 2002 provides:

The testimony of witnesses is taken in three modes:

1. By affidavit;
2. By deposition;
3. By oral examination.

- Code of Civil Procedure section 2025.620 provides, in part: "At the trial ... any part or all of a deposition may be used against any party who was present or represented at the taking of the deposition ... so far as admissible under the rules of evidence applied as though the deponent were then present and testifying as a witness, in accordance with the following [rules set forth in this subdivision]."

- "Admissions contained in depositions and interrogatories are admissible in evidence to establish any material fact." (Leasman v. Beech Aircraft Corp. (1975) 48 Cal.App.3d 376, 380 [121 Cal.Rptr. 768] .)

- Evidence Code section 1291(a) provides:

Evidence of former testimony is not made inadmissible by the hearsay rule if the declarant is unavailable as a witness and:

- (1) The former testimony is offered against a person who offered it in evidence in his own behalf on the former occasion or against the successor in interest of such person; or
- (2) The party against whom the former testimony is offered was a party to the action or proceeding in which the testimony was given and had the right and opportunity to cross-examine the declarant with an interest and motive similar to that which he has at the hearing.

■ Evidence Code section 1292(a) provides:

Evidence of former testimony is not made inadmissible by the hearsay rule if:

- (1) The declarant is unavailable as a witness;
- (2) The former testimony is offered in a civil action; and
- (3) The issue is such that the party to the action or proceeding in which the former testimony was given had the right and opportunity to cross-examine the declarant with an interest and motive similar to that which the party against whom the testimony is offered has at the hearing.

■ Evidence Code section 1290(c) defines "former testimony" as "[a] deposition taken in compliance with law in another action."

■ "The deposition of a witness, whether or not a party, may be used by any party for any purpose if the court finds the witness unavailable as a witness within the meaning of section 240 of the Evidence Code." (Chavez v. Zapata Ocean Resources, Inc. (1984) 155 Cal.App.3d 115, 118 [201 Cal.Rptr. 887] , citation omitted.)

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Presentation at Trial, §§ 153-163

7 Witkin, California Procedure (4th ed. 1997) Trial, § 304, p. 351

1A California Trial Guide, Unit 20, Procedural Rules for Presentation of Evidence, §§ 20.30 -20.38, Unit 40, Hearsay, §§ 40.60 -40.61 (Matthew Bender)

5 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 72, Discovery, § 72.41 (Matthew Bender)

16 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 193, Discovery: Depositions, §§ 193.90 -193.96 (Matthew Bender)

Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Civil Discovery, Ch. 6, Oral Depositions in California

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI No. 2.06.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Explain Discovery Devices to Jurors: Most jurors will be unfamiliar with depositions. Therefore, explain this procedural device carefully in your closing argument. This same comment applies to other discovery devices as well, e.g., CACI No. 209 (Interrogatories) and CACI No. 210 (Requests for Admissions). By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Impeaching Witness with Deposition Testimony: If you impeach a witness on the stand with a deposition, be sure to have the court read CACI No. 208 when the deposition is used during trial. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Reading Deposition Testimony During Trial: If you read a deposition at trial, have someone with a powerful presence as the witness reading the transcript from the witness chair, while you read the attorney portion of the transcript. The jury can relate more to this presentation and will be able to follow the evidence easier if read by two people in a questions and answer format. Before reading the deposition make sure that the judge has already ruled on any objections to the testimony and if there are any exhibits to the deposition that you want admitted, prior rulings on any objections make the reading flow better. By Dona Cohn-Payne

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsOral DepositionsCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsEvidenceDocumentary EvidenceWritingsTranscripts & TranslationsDeposition Transcripts

54 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 209

CACI 209 Use of Interrogatories of a Party

Before trial, each party has the right to ask the other parties to answer written questions. These questions are called interrogatories. The answers are also in writing and are given under oath. You must consider the questions and answers that were read to you the same as if the questions and answers had been given in court.

New September 2003

- Code of Civil Procedure section 2030.410 provides: "At the trial or any other hearing in the action, so far as admissible under the rules of evidence, the propounding party or any party other than the responding party may use any answer or part of an answer to an interrogatory only against the responding party. It is not ground for objection to the use of an answer to an interrogatory that the responding party is available to testify, has testified, or will testify at the trial or other hearing."

- "Admissions contained in depositions and interrogatories are admissible in evidence to establish any material fact." (Leasman v. Beech Aircraft Corp. (1975) 48 Cal.App.3d 376, 380 [121 Cal.Rptr. 768] .)

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Presentation at Trial, § 163

7 Witkin, California Procedure (4th ed. 1997) Trial, § 304, p. 351

1A California Trial Guide, Unit 20, Procedural Rules for Presentation of Evidence, § 20.50 (Matthew Bender)

16 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 194, Discovery: Interrogatories, § 194.26 (Matthew Bender)

Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Civil Discovery, Ch. 9, Interrogatories, 9.29

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI No. 2.07.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Using Responses to Interrogatories as Exhibit:

Interrogatories are usually used to impeach a party's testimony with his or her previous responses to interrogatories. Consider having the actual interrogatory along with the verification put into evidence as an exhibit for the jury to consider during deliberation. By Dona Cohn-Payne

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsInterrogatoriesUseCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral
OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard Instructions

55 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 210

CACI 210 Requests for Admissions

Before trial, each party has the right to ask another party to admit in writing that certain matters are true. If the other party admits those matters, you must accept them as true. No further evidence is required to prove them.

[However, these matters must be considered true only as they apply to the party who admitted they were true.]

New September 2003

The bracketed phrase should be given if there are multiple parties.

- Requests for admission are authorized by Code of Civil Procedure section 2033.010. Code of Civil Procedure section 2033.410 provides, in part: "Any matter admitted in response to a request for admission is conclusively established against the party making the admission in the pending action. ... [A]ny admission made by a party under this section is binding only on that party and is made for the purpose of the pending action only. It is not an admission by that party for any other purpose, and it shall not be used in any manner against that party in any other proceeding."

- "As Professor Hogan points out, '[t]he request for admission differs fundamentally from the other five discovery tools (depositions, interrogatories, inspection demands, medical examinations, and expert witness exchanges). These other devices have as their main thrust the uncovering of factual data that may be used in proving things at trial. The request for admission looks in the opposite direction. It is a device that seeks to eliminate the need for proof in certain areas of the case.' " (Brigante v. Huang (1993) 20 Cal.App.4th 1569, 1577 [25 Cal.Rptr.2d 354] (quoting 1 Hogan, Modern California Discovery (4th ed.

1988) § 9.1, p. 533).)

■ All parties to the action may rely on admissions. (See Swedberg v. Christiana Community Builders (1985) 175 Cal.App.3d 138, 143 [220 Cal.Rptr. 544] .)

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Discovery, §§ 157-167, 177

1A California Trial Guide, Unit 20, Procedural Rules for Presentation of Evidence, § 20.51 (Matthew Bender)

16 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 196, Discovery: Requests for Admissions, § 196.19 (Matthew Bender)

Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Civil Discovery, Ch. 12, Requests for Admissions

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 2.08.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Acceptance of True Matters: It is rare that a party will contradict something they admitted as true in a request for admission. However, CACI No. 210 is important to home in on the fact that the jury must accept a matter as true even if they believe otherwise. By Dona Cohn-Payne

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsAdmissionsEffectCivil ProcedureDiscoveryMethodsAdmissionsResponsesCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsEvidenceDocumentary EvidenceWritingsGeneral Overview

56 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 211

CACI 211 Prior Conviction of a Felony

You have heard that a witness in this trial has been convicted of a felony. You were told about the conviction only to help you decide whether you should believe the witness. You must not consider it for any other purpose.

New September 2003

- Evidence Code section 788 provides for the circumstances under which evidence of a prior felony conviction may be used to attack a witness's credibility. This section is most often invoked in criminal cases, but it may be used in civil cases as well.

- The standards governing admissibility of prior convictions in civil cases are different from those in criminal proceedings. In Robbins v. Wong (1994) 27 Cal.App.4th 261, 273 [32 Cal.Rptr.2d 337], the court observed: "Given the significant distinctions between the rights enjoyed by criminal defendants and civil litigants, and the diminished level of prejudice attendant to felony impeachment in civil proceedings, it is not unreasonable to require different standards of admissibility in civil and criminal cases." (Id. at p. 273.)

In Robbins, the court concluded that article I, section 28(f) of the California Constitution, as well as any Supreme Court cases on this topic in the criminal arena, does not apply to civil cases. (Robbins, supra, 27 Cal.App.4th at p. 274.) However, the court did hold that the trial court "may utilize such decisions to formulate guidelines for the judicial weighing of probative value against prejudicial effect under section 352." (Ibid.)

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Presentation at Trial, §§ 292, 294, 295, 308

48 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 551, Trial, § 551.123 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 11, Questioning Witnesses and Objections, 11.64

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI No. 2.24.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Considering Evidence for Limited Purpose:

Again, it is difficult for some jurors to consider an item of evidence for a limited purpose (see also CACI No. 206). By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Argue Against Introduction of Prior Felony

Conviction: Needless to say strenuous argument against the introduction of a prior felony conviction is required. Choose your jury members carefully if there is a possibility that the prior felony conviction is coming in as evidence and be prepared to address the issue of why the conviction does or does not affect the credibility of the witness during your closing argument. By Dona Cohn-Payne

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsEvidenceHearsayExceptionsJudgmentsPrior Felony ConvictionsEvidenceRelevancePrior Acts, Crimes & WrongsEvidenceTestimonyCredibilityImpeachmentConvictionsGeneral Overview

57 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 212

CACI 212 Statements of a Party Opponent

A party may offer into evidence any oral or written statement made by an opposing party outside the courtroom.

When you evaluate evidence of such a statement, you must consider these questions:

- 1. Do you believe that the party actually made the statement? If you do not believe that the party made the statement, you may not consider the statement at all.
- 2. If you believe that the statement was made, do you believe it was reported accurately?

You should view testimony about an oral statement made by a party outside the courtroom with caution.

New September 2003

Under Evidence Code section 403(c), the court must instruct the jury to disregard a statement offered as evidence if it finds that the preliminary facts do not exist. For adoptive admissions, see CACI No. 213, Adoptive Admissions.

■ Evidence Code section 1220 provides: "Evidence of a statement is not made inadmissible by the hearsay rule when offered against the declarant in an action to which he is a party in either his individual or representative capacity, regardless of whether the statement was made in his individual or representative capacity."

The Law Revision Commission comment to this section observes that "[t]he rationale underlying this exception is that the party cannot object to the lack of the right to cross-examine the declarant since the party himself made the statement."

- There is no requirement that the prior statement of a party must have been against his or her interests when made in order to be admissible. Any prior statement of a party may be offered against him or her in trial. (1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Hearsay § 93.)

- Evidence Code section 403(a)(4) provides: "The proponent of the proffered evidence has the burden of producing evidence as to the existence of the preliminary fact, and the proffered evidence is inadmissible unless the court finds that there is evidence sufficient to sustain a finding of the existence of the preliminary fact when [t]he proffered evidence is of a statement or other conduct of a particular person and the preliminary fact is whether that person made the statement or so conducted himself."

- The cautionary instruction regarding admissions is derived from common law, formerly codified at Code of Civil Procedure section 2061. The repeal of this section did not affect decisional law concerning the giving of the cautionary instruction. (People v. Beagle (1972) 6 Cal.3d 441, 455, fn. 4 [99 Cal.Rptr. 313, 492 P.2d 1] .)

- The purpose of the cautionary instruction has been stated as follows: "Ordinarily there is strong reasoning behind the principle that a party's extrajudicial admissions or declarations against interest should be viewed with caution. ... No class of evidence is more subject to error or abuse inasmuch as witnesses having the best of motives are generally unable to state the exact language of an admission and are liable, by the omission or the changing of words, to convey a false impression of the language used." (Pittman v. Boiven (1967) 249 Cal.App.2d 207, 214 [57 Cal.Rptr. 319] .)

- The need to give the cautionary instruction appears to apply to both civil and criminal cases. (See People v. Livaditis (1992) 2 Cal.4th 759, 789 [9 Cal.Rptr.2d 72, 831 P.2d 297] (conc. opn. of Mosk, J.).)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Hearsay, §§ 90-93, 125

3 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Presentation at Trial, § 113

Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook (3d ed. 1997) §§ 3.7-3.22

2 California Trial Guide, Unit 40, Hearsay, § 40.30 (Matthew Bender)

48 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 551, Trial, § 551.76 (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 2.25.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Emphasizing Inconsistencies: "Catching the other side" in an inconsistency can spell victory instead of defeat. Consequently, the closing argument on this point must be carefully drafted to emphasize the significance of the inconsistency. By Rex Heeseman and Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Examples of Believable Statements: Examples of common out-of-court statements in a personal injury action that have a high degree of believability are statements made to police officers and statements contained in medical records. By Dona Cohn-Payne

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsEvidenceHearsayExemptionsStatements by Party OpponentsGeneral OverviewEvidenceHearsayExemptionsStatements by Party OpponentsAuthorized StatementsEvidenceHearsayExemptionsStatements by Party OpponentsVicarious Statements

58 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 213

CACI 213 Adoptive Admissions

You have heard evidence that [insert name of declarant] made the following statement: [insert description of statement]. You may consider that statement as evidence against [insert name of party against whom statement was offered] only if you find that both of the following conditions are true:

- 1. That [name of party against whom statement was offered] was aware of and understood the statement; and
- 2. That [name of party against whom statement was offered], by words or conduct, either
 - (a) expressed [his/her] belief that the statement was true; or
 - (b) implied that the statement was true.

If you do not decide that these conditions are true, you must not consider the statement at all.

New September 2003

Under Evidence Code section 403(c), the court must instruct the jury to disregard the evidence of an adoptive admission if it finds that the preliminary facts do not exist.

For statements of a party opponent, see CACI No. 212, Statements of a Party Opponent. For admissions by silence, see CACI No. 214, Admissions by Silence. Evasive conduct falls under this instruction rather than CACI No. 212 or 214.

■ Evidence Code section 1221 provides: "Evidence of a statement offered against a party is not made inadmissible by the hearsay rule if the statement is one of which the party, with knowledge of the content thereof, has by words or other conduct manifested his adoption or his belief in its truth."

■ Evidence Code section 403(a)(4) provides: "The proponent of the proffered evidence has the burden of producing evidence as to the existence of the preliminary fact, and the proffered evidence is inadmissible unless the court finds that there is evidence sufficient to sustain a finding of the existence of the preliminary fact when [t]he proffered evidence is of a statement or other conduct of a particular person and the preliminary fact is whether that person made the statement or so conducted himself."

■ The basis for the doctrine of adoptive admissions has been stated as follows: "When a person makes a statement in the presence of a party to an action under circumstances that would normally call for a response if the statement were untrue, the statement is admissible for the limited purpose of showing the party's reaction to it. His silence, evasion, or equivocation may be considered as a tacit admission of the statements made in his presence." (In re Estate of Neilson (1962) 57 Cal.2d 733, 746 [22 Cal.Rptr. 1, 371 P.2d 745] .)

■ In order for the hearsay evidence to be admissible, "it must have been shown clearly that [the party] heard and understood the statement." (Fisch v. Los Angeles Metropolitan Transit Authority (1963) 219 Cal.App.2d 537, 540 [33 Cal.Rptr. 298] .) There must also be evidence of some type of reaction to the statement. (Ibid.) It is clear that the doctrine "does not apply if the party is in such physical or mental condition that a reply could not reasonably be expected from him." (Southers v. Savage (1961) 191 Cal.App.2d 100, 104 [12 Cal.Rptr. 470] .)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Hearsay, §§ 102-105

Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook (3d ed. 1997) §§ 3.23-3.30

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI Nos. 2.04 and 2.26.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions Standard Instructions Evidence Hearsay Exemptions Statements by Party Opponents Adopted Statements

59 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 214

CACI 214 Admissions by Silence

You have heard evidence that [insert name of declarant] made a statement in the presence of [insert name of party who remained silent] that [insert description of statement]. You have also heard that [insert name of party who remained silent] did not deny the statement.

You may treat the silence of [insert name of party who remained silent] as an admission that the statement was true only if you believe all of the following conditions are true:

- 1. That [insert name of party who remained silent] was aware of and understood the statement;
- 2. That [he/she], by either words or actions, could have denied the statement but [he/she] did not; and
- 3. That [he/she] would have denied the statement if [he/she] thought it was false. In determining this, you may consider whether, under the circumstances, a reasonable person would have denied the statement if he or she thought it was false.

If you do not decide that all three of these conditions are true, you must not consider [insert name of party who remained silent]'s silence as an admission.

New September 2003

The jury should be instructed on the doctrine of adoptive admission by silence if the evidence giving rise to the doctrine is conflicting. (See Southers v. Savage (1961) 191 Cal.App.2d 100, 104-105 [12 Cal.Rptr. 470] .)

Under Evidence Code section 403(c), the court must instruct the jury to disregard the evidence if it finds that the preliminary facts do not exist.

For statements of a party opponent, see CACI No. 212, Statements of a Party Opponent. For admissions by words or evasive conduct, see CACI No. 213, Adoptive Admissions.

- Evidence Code section 1221 provides: "Evidence of a statement offered against a party is not made inadmissible by the hearsay rule if the statement is one of which the party, with knowledge of the content thereof, has by words or other conduct manifested his adoption or his belief in its truth."

- Evidence Code section 403(a)(4) provides: "The proponent of the proffered evidence has the burden of producing evidence as to the existence of the preliminary fact, and the proffered evidence is inadmissible unless the court finds that there is evidence sufficient to sustain a finding of the existence of the preliminary fact when [t]he proffered evidence is of a statement or other conduct of a particular person and the preliminary fact is whether that person made the statement or so conducted himself."

- The basis for the doctrine of adoptive admissions has been stated as follows: "When a person makes a statement in the presence of a party to an action under circumstances that would normally call for a response if the statement were untrue, the statement is admissible for the limited purpose of showing the party's reaction to it. His silence, evasion, or equivocation may be considered as a tacit admission of the statements made in his presence." (In re Estate of Neilson (1962) 57 Cal.2d 733, 746 [22 Cal.Rptr. 1, 371 P.2d 745] .)

- This instruction addresses adoption of an admission by silence. Adoption occurs "where declarations of third persons made in the presence of a party give rise to admissions, the conduct of the party in the face of the declaration constituting the adoption of the statement to form an admission." (In re Estate of Gaines (1940) 15 Cal.2d 255, 262 [100 P.2d 1055] .)

- "The basis of the rule on admissions made in response to accusations is the fact that human experience has shown that generally it is natural to deny an accusation if a party considers himself innocent of negligence or wrongdoing." (Keller v. Key System Transit Lines (1954) 129 Cal.App.2d 593, 596 [277 P.2d 869] .) If the statement is not accusatory, then the failure to respond is not an admission. (Neilson, supra, 57 Cal.2d at p. 747 ; Gilbert v. City of Los Angeles (1967) 249 Cal.App.2d 1006, 1008 [58 Cal.Rptr. 56] .)

- Admissibility of this evidence depends upon whether (1) the statement was made under circumstances that call for a reply, (2) whether the party understood the statement, and (3) whether it could be inferred from his conduct that he adopted the statement as an admission. (Gilbert, supra, 249 Cal.App.2d at p. 1009 .)

- In order for the hearsay evidence to be admissible, "it must have been shown clearly that [the party] heard and understood the statement." (Fisch v. Los Angeles Metropolitan Transit Authority (1963) 219 Cal.App.2d 537, 540 [33 Cal.Rptr. 298] .) There must also be evidence of some type of reaction to the statement. (Ibid.) It is clear that the doctrine "does not apply if the party is in such physical or mental condition that a reply could not reasonably be expected from him." (Southers, supra, 191 Cal.App.2d at p. 104 .)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Hearsay §§ 102-105

Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook (3d ed. 1997) §§ 3.23-3.30

2 California Trial Guide, Unit 40, Hearsay, § 40.31 (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI Nos. 2.04 and 2.26.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Admissions by Silence Can Be Telling: A closing argument such as "silence is consent" can be telling if you have the appropriate evidence. By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsEvidenceHearsayExemptionsStatements by Party OpponentsGeneral OverviewEvidenceHearsayRule ComponentsNonverbal Conduct

60 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 215

CACI 215 Exercise of a Communication Privilege

People have a legal right not to disclose what they told their [doctor/attorney, etc.] in confidence because the law considers this information privileged. People may exercise this privilege freely and without fear of penalty.

You must not use the fact that a witness exercised this privilege to decide whether he or she should be believed. Indeed, you must not let it affect any of your decisions in this case.

New September 2003

This instruction must be given upon request, where appropriate. (Evid. Code, § 913(b).)

■ Evidence Code section 913(b), provides: "The court, at the request of a party who may be adversely affected because an unfavorable inference may be drawn by the jury because a privilege has been exercised, shall instruct the jury that no presumption arises because of the exercise of the privilege and that the jury may not draw any inference therefrom as to the credibility of the witness or as to any matter at issue in the proceeding."

■ The comment to Evidence Code section 913 notes that this statute "may modify existing California law as it applies in civil cases." Specifically, the comment notes that section 913 in effect overrules two Supreme Court cases: Nelson v. Southern Pacific Co. (1937) 8 Cal.2d 648 [67 P.2d 682] and Fross v. Wotton (1935) 3 Cal.2d 384 [44 P.2d 350]. The Nelson court had held that evidence of a person's exercise of the privilege against self-incrimination in a prior proceeding may be shown for impeachment purposes if he or she testifies in a self-exculpatory manner in a subsequent proceeding. Language in Fross indicated that unfavorable inferences may be drawn in a civil case from a party's claim of the privilege against self-incrimination during the case itself.

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Witnesses, §§ 95-97

Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook (3d ed. 1997) §§ 35.26-35.27

3 California Trial Guide, Unit 51, Privileges, §§ 51.01 -51.32 (Matthew Bender)

Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Civil Discovery, Ch. 2, Scope of Discovery, 2.09 -2.24

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 2.27.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care With Evidence of Privilege: The topic of privilege is not well known by those who are employed outside of the law. Thus, care must be taken with this type of evidence. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use/Non-Use of CACI No. 215: This instruction does not apply to communications of a plaintiff and the plaintiff's doctor in a personal injury case. You should remind your client before getting on the stand of the attorney-client privilege so that this instruction does not have to be used and it does not look like the client has something to hide. By Dona Cohn-Payne

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions Standard Instructions Evidence Privileges General Overview Evidence Privileges Attorney-Client Privilege Elements Evidence Privileges Marital Privileges General Overview Evidence Privileges Self-Incrimination Privilege General Overview

61 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 216

CACI 216 Exercise of Witness' Right Not to Testify

[Name of party/witness] has exercised [his/her] legal right not to testify concerning certain matters. Do not draw any conclusions from the exercise of this right or let it affect any of your decisions in this case. A [party/witness] may exercise this right freely and without fear of penalty.

New September 2003

Citing Fross v. Wotton (1935) 3 Cal.2d 384 [44 P.2d 350] , courts have stated the following: "When a claim of privilege made on this ground in a civil proceeding logically gives rise to an inference which is relevant to the issues involved, the trier of fact may properly draw that inference." (Shepherd v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal.3d 107, 117 [130 Cal.Rptr. 257, 550 P.2d 161] , internal citation omitted.)

However, Assembly Committee on the Judiciary's comment to Evidence Code section 913 states: "There is some language in Fross v. Wotton ... that indicates that unfavorable inferences may be drawn in a civil case from a party's claim of the privilege against self-incrimination during the case itself. Such language was unnecessary to that decision; but, if it does indicate California law, that law is changed by Evidence Code Sections 413 and 913. Under these sections, it is clear that, in civil cases as well as criminal cases, inferences may be drawn only from the evidence in the case, not from the claim of privilege."

- Evidence Code section 913 provides:

- (a) If in the instant proceeding or on a prior occasion a privilege is or was exercised not to testify with respect to any matter, or to refuse to disclose or to prevent another from disclosing any matter, neither the presiding officer nor counsel may comment thereon, no presumption shall arise because of the exercise of the privilege, and the trier of fact may not draw any inference therefrom as to the credibility of the witness or as to any matter at issue in the proceeding.

(b) The court, at the request of a party who may be adversely affected because an unfavorable inference may be drawn by the jury because a privilege has been exercised, shall instruct the jury that no presumption arises because of the exercise of the privilege and that the jury may not draw any inference therefrom as to the credibility of the witness or as to any matter at issue in the proceeding.

■ Evidence Code section 940 provides: "To the extent that such privilege exists under the Constitution of the United States or the State of California, a person has a privilege to refuse to disclose any matter that may tend to incriminate him."

■ Evidence Code section 930 provides: "To the extent that such privilege exists under the Constitution of the United States or the State of California, a defendant in a criminal case has a privilege not to be called as a witness and not to testify."

■ Evidence Code section 413 provides: "In determining what inferences to draw from the evidence or facts in the case against a party, the trier of fact may consider, among other things, the party's failure to explain or to deny by his testimony such evidence or facts in the case against him, or his willful suppression of evidence relating thereto, if such be the case."

■ "[I]n any proceeding, civil or criminal, a witness has the right to decline to answer questions which may tend to incriminate him in criminal activity." (Cramer v. Tyars (1979) 23 Cal.3d 131, 137 [151 Cal.Rptr. 653, 588 P.2d 793] , internal citation omitted.)

■ "[T]he privilege may not be asserted by merely declaring that an answer will incriminate; it must be 'evident from the implications of the question, in the setting in which it is asked, that a responsive answer to the question or an explanation of why it cannot be answered might be dangerous because injurious disclosure could result.' " (Troy v. Superior Court (1986) 186 Cal.App.3d 1006, 1010-1011 [231 Cal.Rptr. 108] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "The Fifth Amendment of the United States Constitution includes a provision that '[no] person ... shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, ...' Although the specific reference is to criminal cases, the Fifth Amendment protection 'has been broadly extended to a point where now it is available even to a person appearing only as a witness in any kind of proceeding where testimony can be compelled.' " (Brown v. Superior Court (1986) 180 Cal.App.3d 701, 708 [226 Cal.Rptr. 10] , citation and footnote omitted.)

■ "There is no question that the privilege against self-incrimination may be asserted by civil defendants who face possible criminal prosecution based on the same facts as the civil action. 'All matters which are privileged against disclosure upon the trial under the law of this state are privileged against disclosure through any discovery procedure.' " (Brown, supra, 180 Cal.App.3d at p. 708 , internal citations omitted.)

■ "It is well settled that the privilege against self-incrimination may be invoked not only by a criminal defendant, but also by parties or witnesses in a civil action. However, while the privilege of a criminal defendant is absolute, in a civil case a witness or party may be required either to waive the privilege or accept the civil consequences of silence if he or she does exercise it." (Alvarez v. Sanchez (1984) 158 Cal.App.3d 709, 712 [204 Cal.Rptr. 864] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "The privilege against self-incrimination is guaranteed by both the federal and state Constitutions. As pointed out by the California Supreme Court, 'two separate and distinct testimonial privileges' exist under this guarantee. First, a defendant in a criminal case 'has an absolute right not to be called as a witness and not to testify.' Second, 'in any proceeding, civil or criminal, a witness has the right to decline to answer questions which may tend to incriminate him [or her] in criminal activity.' " (People v. Merfeld (1997) 57 Cal.App.4th 1440, 1443 [67 Cal.Rptr.2d 759] , internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Witnesses, § 96, p. 347

5 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 72, Discovery, §§ 72.20, 72.30 (Matthew Bender)

3 California Trial Guide, Unit 51, Privileges, § 51.32 (Matthew Bender)

16 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 191, Discovery: Privileges and Other Discovery Limitations, § 191.30 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

1 California Deposition and Discovery Practice, Ch. 21, Privileged Matters in General, § 21.20, Ch. 22, Privilege Against Self-Incrimination (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 2.27.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Right Not to Testify: Many jurors will associate this instruction with a criminal case. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use of CACI No. 216: This instruction is mainly used in a civil case when a witness exercises the right not to testify in a criminal proceeding and then later there is a civil proceeding--for example, a murder trial whereby a witness exercises the right not to incriminate himself/herself and then there is later a civil suit for wrongful death. By Dona Cohn-Payne

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsConstitutional LawBill of RightsFundamental RightsProcedural Due ProcessSelf-Incrimination PrivilegeEvidenceInferences & PresumptionsInferencesEvidencePrivilegesSelf-Incrimination PrivilegeGeneral Overview

62 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 217

CACI 217 Evidence of Settlement

You have heard evidence that there was a settlement between [insert names of settling parties]. You must not consider this settlement to determine responsibility for any harm. You may consider this evidence only to decide whether [insert name of witness who settled] is biased or prejudiced and whether [his/her] testimony is believable.

New September 2003

Evidence of prior settlement is not automatically admissible: "Even if it appears that a witness could have been influenced in his testimony by the payment of money or the obtaining of a dismissal, the party resisting the admission of such evidence may still appeal to the court's discretion to exclude it under section 352 of the code." (Granville v. Parsons (1968) 259 Cal.App.2d 298, 305 [66 Cal.Rptr. 149] .)

- Evidence Code section 1152(a) provides: "Evidence that a person has, in compromise or from humanitarian motives, furnished or offered or promised to furnish money or any other thing, act, or service to another who has sustained or will sustain or claims that he or she has sustained or will sustain loss or damage, as well as any conduct or statements made in negotiation thereof, is inadmissible to prove his or her liability for the loss or damage or any part of it."

- "While evidence of a settlement agreement is inadmissible to prove liability, it is admissible to show bias or prejudice of an adverse party. Relevant evidence includes evidence relevant to the credibility of a witness." (Moreno v. Sayre (1984) 162 Cal.App.3d 116, 126 [208 Cal.Rptr. 444] , internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Circumstantial Evidence, §§ 140-148

Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook (3d ed. 1997) §§ 34.15-34.24

3 California Trial Guide, Unit 50, Extrinsic Policies Affecting or Excluding Evidence, § 50.20 (Matthew Bender)

48 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 551, Trial, § 551.68 (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI No. 2.28 and also covers issues presented in BAJI No. 15.03.1.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Evidence of Settlement Generally Not Well Understood By Most Jurors: This instruction is on a topic that is not well understood by laypersons (see also, e.g., CACI No. 215 regarding privilege). By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureSettlementsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsEvidenceInferences & PresumptionsGeneral Overview

63 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 218

CACI 218 Statements Made to Physician (Previously Existing Condition)

[Insert name of health-care provider] has testified that [insert name of patient] made statements to [him/her] about [name of patient]'s medical history. These statements helped [name of health-care provider] diagnose the patient's condition. You can use these statements to help you examine the basis of [name of health-care provider]'s opinion. You cannot use them for any other purpose.

[However, a statement by [name of patient] to [name of health-care provider] about [his/her] current medical condition may be considered as evidence of that medical condition.]

New September 2003; Revised June 2006

Directions for Use

This instruction does not apply to, and should not be used for, a statement of the patient's then-existing physical sensation, mental feeling, pain, or bodily health. Such statements are admissible as an exception to the hearsay rule under Evidence Code section 1250. This instruction also does not apply to statements of a patient regarding a prior mental or physical state if he or she is unavailable as a witness. (Evid. Code, § 1251.)

This instruction also does not apply to, and should not be used for, statements of a party that are offered into evidence by an opposing party. Such statements are admissible as an exception to the hearsay rule under Evidence Code section 1220. See CACI No. 212, Statements of a Party Opponent.

Sources and Authority

■ Statements pointing to the cause of a physical condition may be admissible if they are made by a patient to a physician. The statement must be required for proper diagnosis and treatment and is admissible only to show the basis of the physician's medical opinion. (People v. Wilson (1944) 25 Cal.2d 341, 348 [153 P.2d 720] ; Johnson v. Aetna Life Insurance Co. (1963) 221 Cal.App.2d 247, 252 [34 Cal.Rptr. 484] ; Willoughby v. Zylstra (1935) 5 Cal.App.2d 297, 300-301 [42 P.2d 685] .)

■ Evidence Code section 1220 provides: "Evidence of a statement is not made inadmissible by the hearsay rule when offered against the declarant in an action to which he is a party in either his individual or representative capacity, regardless of whether the statement was made in his individual or representative capacity."

■ Evidence Code section 1250(a) provides, in part:

[E]vidence of a statement of the declarant's then existing state of mind, emotion, or physical sensation ... is not made inadmissible by the hearsay rule when:

(1) The evidence is offered to prove the declarant's state of mind, emotion, or physical sensation at that time or at any other time when it is itself an issue in the action; or

(2) The evidence is offered to prove or explain acts or conduct of the declarant.

■ Evidence Code section 1251 provides, in part:

[E]vidence of a statement of the declarant's state of mind, emotion, or physical sensation ... at a time prior to the statement is not made inadmissible by the hearsay rule if:

(a) The declarant is unavailable as a witness; and

(b) The evidence is offered to prove such prior state of mind, emotion, or physical sensation when it is itself an issue in the action and the evidence is not offered to prove any fact other than such state of mind, emotion, or physical sensation.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Hearsay, § 196

2 California Trial Guide, Unit 40, Hearsay, § 40.42 (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI No. 2.43.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use of Evidence for Limited Purpose: CACI No. 218 is an instruction that asks jurors to use the evidence in only a certain respect (see also CACI No. 206, CACI No. 211). By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsEvidenceHearsayExceptionsMedical Diagnosis &

TreatmentEvidenceHearsayExceptionsState of MindGeneral OverviewEvidencePrivilegesDoctor-Patient
PrivilegeExceptionsEvidencePrivilegesDoctor-Patient PrivilegeWaiver

64 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 219

CACI 219 Expert Witness Testimony

During the trial you heard testimony from expert witnesses. The law allows an expert to state opinions about matters in his or her field of expertise even if he or she has not witnessed any of the events involved in the trial.

You do not have to accept an expert's opinion. As with any other witness, it is up to you to decide whether you believe the expert's testimony and choose to use it as a basis for your decision. You may believe all, part, or none of an expert's testimony. In deciding whether to believe an expert's testimony, you should consider:

- a. The expert's training and experience;
- b. The facts the expert relied on; and
- c. The reasons for the expert's opinion.

New September 2003

This instruction should not be given for expert witness testimony on the standard of care in professional malpractice cases if such testimony is uncontradicted. Uncontradicted testimony of an expert witness on the standard of care in a professional malpractice case is conclusive. (Howard v. Owens Corning (1999) 72 Cal.App.4th 621, 632-633 [85 Cal.Rptr.2d 386] ; Conservatorship of McKeown (1994) 25 Cal.App.4th 502, 509 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 542] ; Lysick v. Walcom (1968) 258 Cal.App.2d 136, 156 [65 Cal.Rptr. 406] .) In all other cases, the jury may reject expert testimony, provided that the jury does not act arbitrarily. (McKeown, supra, 25 Cal.App.4th at p. 509 .)

For an instruction on hypothetical questions, see CACI No. 220, Experts--Questions Containing Assumed

Facts. For an instruction on conflicting expert testimony, see CACI No. 221, Conflicting Expert Testimony.

Do not use this instruction in eminent domain and inverse condemnation cases.

- The "credibility of expert witnesses is a matter for the jury after proper instructions from the court." (Williams v. Volkswagenwerk Aktiengesellschaft (1986) 180 Cal.App.3d 1244, 1265 [226 Cal.Rptr. 306] .)

- Under Evidence Code section 801(a), expert witness testimony "must relate to a subject that is sufficiently beyond common experience that the opinion of an expert would assist the trier of fact." (New v. Consolidated Rock Products Co. (1985) 171 Cal.App.3d 681, 692 [217 Cal.Rptr. 522] .)

- Evidence Code section 720(a) provides, in part: "A person is qualified to testify as an expert if he has special knowledge, skill, experience, training, or education sufficient to qualify him as an expert on the subject to which his testimony relates."

- Expert witnesses are qualified by special knowledge to form opinions on facts that they have not personally witnessed. (Manney v. Housing Authority of The City of Richmond (1947) 79 Cal.App.2d 453, 460 [180 P.2d 69] .)

- "Although a jury may not arbitrarily or unreasonably disregard the testimony of an expert, it is not bound by the expert's opinion. Instead, it must give to each opinion the weight which it finds the opinion deserves. So long as it does not do so arbitrarily, a jury may entirely reject the testimony of a plaintiff's expert, even where the defendant does not call any opposing expert and the expert testimony is not contradicted." (Howard, supra, 72 Cal.App.4th at p. 633 , citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Opinion Evidence, §§ 26-44

Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook (3d ed. 1997) §§ 29.18-29.55

1 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 3, Proof of Negligence, § 3.04 (Matthew Bender)

3A California Trial Guide, Unit 60, Opinion Testimony, § 60.05 (Matthew Bender)

California Products Liability Actions, Ch. 4, The Role of the Expert, § 4.03 (Matthew Bender)

48 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 551, Trial, §§ 551.70, 551.113 (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 2.40.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Explaining Expert Witness Instructions to Jurors: Experts can sometimes be critical, especially with regard to complicated or esoteric subjects. Therefore, explaining CACI No. 219, as well as CACI No. 220 (hypothetical questions) and CACI No. 221 (conflicting expert testimony), may be important. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--CACI No. 219 vs. BAJI No. 2.40: CACI No. 219 omits the provision in BAJI No. 2.40 that "... you may not arbitrarily or unreasonably disregard the (expert) opinion testimony in this case." This former provision was frequently used by both plaintiffs and defendants. For instance, when the plaintiff would call an expert to render opinion testimony that was not countered by expert testimony on the other side, the party with the expert would argue that the jury could not (unreasonably) disregard the opinions. In a case of contested experts, defense counsel might argue that he had no choice but to bring in an expert, otherwise the jury might think they were bound by the plaintiff's expert witness's opinions. As a practical matter, this is a significant change in the instructions. The change is probably helpful to the jury. They are still instructed "you may believe all, part, or none of an expert's testimony." The jury is less likely to be confused by lawyer arguments regarding whether or not a jury "may not arbitrarily disregard" opinion testimony. By Joseph Devine

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Using CACI No. 219: Any time you have an expert witness in a personal injury trial, this instruction will be used. Make sure that you have the expert testify about the three considerations listed in the instruction during the expert's testimony. By Dona Cohn-Payne

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsEvidenceTestimonyExpertsGeneral OverviewEvidenceTestimonyExpertsCredibilityGeneral OverviewEvidenceTestimonyExpertsHelpfulness

65 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 220

CACI 220 Experts--Questions Containing Assumed Facts

The law allows expert witnesses to be asked questions that are based on assumed facts. These are sometimes called "hypothetical questions."

In determining the weight to give to the expert's opinion that is based on the assumed facts, you should consider whether the assumed facts are true.

New September 2003

Juries may be instructed that they should weigh an expert witness's response to a hypothetical question based on their assessment of the accuracy of the assumed facts in the hypothetical question. (Treadwell v. Nickel (1924) 194 Cal. 243, 263-264 [228 P. 25] .)

For an instruction on expert witnesses generally, see CACI No. 219, Expert Witness Testimony. For an instruction on conflicting expert testimony, see CACI No. 221, Conflicting Expert Testimony.

- The value of an expert's opinion depends on the truth of the facts assumed. (Richard v. Scott (1978) 79 Cal.App.3d 57, 63 [144 Cal.Rptr. 672] .)

- Hypothetical questions must be based on facts that are supported by the evidence: "It was decided early in this state that a hypothetical question to an expert must be based upon facts shown by the evidence and that the appellate court will place great reliance in the trial court's exercise of its discretion in passing upon a sufficiency of the facts as narrated." (Hyatt v. Sierra Boat Co. (1978) 79 Cal.App.3d 325, 339 [145 Cal.Rptr. 47] .)

■ Hypothetical questions should not omit essential material facts. (Coe v. State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Co. (1977) 66 Cal.App.3d 981, 995 [136 Cal.Rptr. 331] .)

■ The jury should not be instructed that they are entitled to reject the entirety of an expert's opinion if a hypothetical assumption has not been proven. Rather, the jury should be instructed "to determine the effect of that failure of proof on the value and weight of the expert opinion based on that assumption." (Lysick v. Walcom (1968) 258 Cal.App.2d 136, 156 [65 Cal.Rptr. 406] .)

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Presentation at Trial, §§ 194-201

Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook (3d ed. 1997) § 29.43, pp. 609-610

3A California Trial Guide, Unit 60, Opinion Testimony, §§ 60.05, 60.50 -60.51 (Matthew Bender)

California Products Liability Actions, Ch. 4, The Role of the Expert, § 4.03 (Matthew Bender)

48 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 551, Trial, § 551.70 (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI No. 2.42.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Discrediting Expert's Opinion: Attacking an expert witness's underlying assumptions is one of the most common methods of discrediting an expert's opinion. CACI No. 220 addresses the importance of assumptions used in hypothetical questions. If the assumptions are wrong, the testimony should be disregarded. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use of CACI No. 220: CACI No. 220 is an often used instruction since experts are usually presented with hypothetical questions. This is especially true for experts in the field of accident reconstruction in a personal injury case. By Dona Cohn-Payne

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsEvidenceTestimonyExpertsGeneral OverviewEvidenceTestimonyExpertsCredibilityGeneral OverviewEvidenceTestimonyExpertsCredibilityImpeachment

66 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 221

CACI 221 Conflicting Expert Testimony

If the expert witnesses disagreed with one another, you should weigh each opinion against the others. You should examine the reasons given for each opinion and the facts or other matters that each witness relied on. You may also compare the experts' qualifications.

New September 2003

Unless the issue is one that can be resolved only with expert testimony, the jury should not be instructed that they must accept the entire testimony of the expert whose testimony appears to be entitled to greater weight. (Santa Clara County Flood Control and Water Conservation Dist. v. Freitas (1960) 177 Cal.App.2d 264, 268-269 [2 Cal.Rptr. 129] .)

For an instruction on expert witnesses generally, see CACI No. 219, Expert Witness Testimony. For an instruction on hypothetical questions, see CACI No. 220, Experts--Questions Containing Assumed Facts.

■ Santa Clara County Flood Control and Water Conservation Dist., supra, 177 Cal.App.2d at p. 268 .

■ The "credibility of expert witnesses is a matter for the jury after proper instructions from the court." (Williams v. Volkswagenwerk Aktiengesellschaft (1986) 180 Cal.App.3d 1244, 1265 [226 Cal.Rptr. 306] .)

Secondary Sources

7 Witkin, California Procedure (4th ed. 1997) Trial, § 303, pp. 350-351

48 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 551, Trial, § 551.70 (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI No. 2.41.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Choosing Expert Witnesses: Choosing your expert is of paramount importance, not only for the opinions the expert will render but also for the qualifications and presence of the expert. CACI No. 221 speaks directly to the things you should consider when choosing an expert witness. By Dona Cohn-Payne

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewEvidenceTestimonyExpertsGeneral
OverviewEvidenceTestimonyExpertsCredibilityGeneral OverviewEvidenceTestimonyExpertsQualifications

67 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 222

CACI 222 Evidence of Sliding-Scale Settlement

You have heard evidence that there was a settlement agreement between [name of settling defendant] and [name of plaintiff].

Under this agreement, the amount of money that [name of settling defendant] will have to pay to [name of plaintiff] will depend on the amount of money that [name of plaintiff] receives from [name of nonsettling defendant] at trial. The more money that [name of plaintiff] might receive from [name of nonsettling defendant], the less that [name of settling defendant] will have to pay under the agreement.

You may consider evidence of the settlement only to decide whether [name of settling defendant/name of witness] [, who testified on behalf of [name of settling defendant],] is biased or prejudiced and whether [his/her] testimony is believable.

New April 2007

Use this instruction for cases involving sliding scale or "Mary Carter" settlement agreements if a party who settled appears at trial as a witness. If the settling defendant is an entity, insert the name of the witness who testified on behalf of the entity and include the bracketed language in the third paragraph.

The court must give this instruction on the motion of any party unless it finds that disclosure will create substantial danger of undue prejudice, of confusing the issues, or of misleading the jury. (Code Civ. Proc., § 877.5(a)(2).)

See CACI No. 217, Evidence of Settlement.

See also CACI No. 3926, Settlement Deduction.

■ Code of Civil Procedure section 877.5(a)(2) provides:

If the action is tried before a jury, and a defendant party to the agreement is called as a witness at trial, the court shall, upon motion of a party, disclose to the jury the existence and content of the agreement or covenant, unless the court finds that this disclosure will create substantial danger of undue prejudice, of confusing the issues, or of misleading the jury.

The jury disclosure herein required shall be no more than necessary to inform the jury of the possibility that the agreement may bias the testimony of the witness.

■ Evidence of a settlement agreement is admissible to show bias or prejudice of an adverse party. Relevant evidence includes evidence relevant to the credibility of a witness. (Moreno v. Sayre (1984) 162 Cal.App.3d 116, 126 [208 Cal.Rptr. 444] .)

■ Evidence of a prior settlement is not automatically admissible. "Even if it appears that a witness could have been influenced in his testimony by the payment of money or the obtaining of a dismissal, the party resisting the admission of such evidence may still appeal to the court's discretion to exclude it under section 352 of the code." (Granville v. Parsons (1968) 259 Cal.App.2d 298, 305 [66 Cal.Rptr. 149] .)

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Torts, § 101

5 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 74, Resolving Multiparty Tort Litigation, § 74.27 (Matthew Bender)

3 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Pretrial Civil Procedure, Ch. 37, Settlement and Release, 37.25

25 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 300, Indemnity and Contribution, § 300.73[10] (Matthew Bender)

46 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 520, Settlement and Release, § 520.16[3] (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 15.03.1.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Settlements General Overview Civil Procedure Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Civil Procedure Trials Jury Instructions Standard Instructions

68 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 223

CACI 223 Opinion Testimony of Lay Witness

A witness [who was not testifying as an expert] gave an opinion during the trial. You may, but are not required to, accept that opinion. You may give the opinion whatever weight you think is appropriate.

Consider the extent of the witness's opportunity to perceive the matters on which the opinion is based, the reasons the witness gave for the opinion, and the facts or information on which the witness relied in forming that opinion. You must decide whether information on which the witness relied was true and accurate. You may disregard all or any part of an opinion that you find unbelievable, unreasonable, or unsupported by the evidence.

New April 2008

Directions for Use

Give the bracketed phrase in the first sentence regarding the witness not testifying as an expert if an expert witness also testified in the case.

Sources and Authority

- Evidence Code section 800 provides:

If a witness is not testifying as an expert, his testimony in the form of an opinion is limited to such an opinion as is permitted by law, including but not limited to an opinion that is:

- (a) Rationally based on the perception of the witness; and

(b) Helpful to a clear understanding of his testimony.

■ Evidence Code section 802 provides: "A witness testifying in the form of an opinion may state on direct examination the reasons for his opinion and the matter (including, in the case of an expert, his special knowledge, skill, experience, training, and education) upon which it is based, unless he is precluded by law from using such reasons or matter as a basis for his opinion. The court in its discretion may require that a witness before testifying in the form of an opinion be first examined concerning the matter upon which his opinion is based."

■ Evidence Code section 1100 provides: "Except as otherwise provided by statute, any otherwise admissible evidence (including evidence in the form of an opinion, evidence of reputation, and evidence of specific instances of such person's conduct) is admissible to prove a person's character or a trait of his character."

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Opinion Evidence, §§ 3-25

Wegner et al., California Practice Guide: Civil Trial and Evidence (The Rutter Group) PP 8:643-8:681

Jefferson's California Evidence Benchbook (Cont.Ed.Bar 3d ed.) §§ 29.1-29.17

48 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 551, Trial, § 551.70 (Matthew Bender)

1 Cotchett, California Courtroom Evidence, Ch. 17, Nonexpert and Expert Opinion, § 17.01 (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

There is no BAJI instruction on this subject.

69 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 224

CACI 224 Testimony of Child

You have heard testimony from a witness who is [_____] years old. As with any other witness, you must decide whether the child gave truthful and accurate testimony.

In evaluating a child's testimony, you should consider all of the factors surrounding that testimony, including the child's age and ability to perceive, understand, remember, and communicate.

You should not discount or distrust testimony just because a witness is a child.

New April 2008

Sources and Authority

• Evidence Code section 700 provides: "Except as otherwise provided by statute, every person, irrespective of age, is qualified to be a witness and no person is disqualified to testify to any matter."

• Penal Code section 1127f provides:

In any criminal trial or proceeding in which a child 10 years of age or younger testifies as a witness, upon the request of a party, the court shall instruct the jury, as follows:

In evaluating the testimony of a child you should consider all of the factors surrounding the child's testimony, including the age of the child and any evidence regarding the child's level of cognitive development. Although, because of age and level of cognitive development, a child may perform differently as a witness from an adult, that does not mean that a child is any more or less credible a witness than an adult. You should not discount or distrust the testimony of a child solely because he or she is a child.

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Presentation, § 88(3)

Wegner et al., California Practice Guide: Civil Trial and Evidence (The Rutter Group) PP 8:228-8:230

Jefferson's California Evidence Benchbook (Cont.Ed.Bar 3d ed.) § 26.2

48 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 551, Trial, §§ 551.111, 551.113, 551.122 (Matthew Bender)

1 Cotchett, California Courtroom Evidence, Ch. 16, Competency, Oath, Confrontation, Experts, Interpreters, Credibility, and Hypnosis, § 16.01 (Matthew Bender)

Publisher's Notes

There is no BAJI instruction on this subject.

70 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 2 California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions

1-2 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 225-CACI 299

Reserved for Future Use

CACI 225Reserved for Future Use

71 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction 3.syn

§ 3.syn Synopsis to Chapter 3: California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

CACI 300 Breach of Contract--Introduction

CACI 301 Third-Party Beneficiary

CACI 302 Contract Formation--Essential Factual Elements

CACI 303 Breach of Contract--Essential Factual Elements

CACI 304 Oral or Written Contract Terms

CACI 305 Implied-in-Fact Contract

CACI 306 Unformalized Agreement

CACI 307 Contract Formation--Offer

CACI 308 Contract Formation--Revocation of Offer

CACI 309 Contract Formation--Acceptance

CACI 310 Contract Formation--Acceptance by Silence

CACI 311 Contract Formation--Rejection of Offer

CACI 312 Substantial Performance

CACI 313 Modification

CACI 314 Interpretation--Disputed Term

CACI 315 Interpretation--Meaning of Ordinary Words

CACI 316 Interpretation--Meaning of Technical Words

CACI 317 Interpretation--Construction of Contract as a Whole

CACI 318 Interpretation--Construction by Conduct

CACI 319 Interpretation--Reasonable Time

CACI 320 Interpretation--Construction Against Drafter

CACI 321 Existence of Condition Precedent Disputed

CACI 322 Occurrence of Agreed Condition Precedent

CACI 323 Waiver of Condition Precedent

CACI 324 Anticipatory Breach

CACI 325 Breach of Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing--Essential Factual Elements

CACI 326 Assignment Contested

CACI 327 Assignment Not Contested

CACI 328-CACI 329 Reserved for Future Use

CACI 330 Affirmative Defense--Unilateral Mistake of Fact

CACI 331 Affirmative Defense--Bilateral Mistake

CACI 332 Affirmative Defense--Duress

CACI 333 Affirmative Defense--Economic Duress

CACI 334 Affirmative Defense--Undue Influence

CACI 335 Affirmative Defense--Fraud

CACI 336 Affirmative Defense--Waiver

CACI 337 Affirmative Defense--Novation

CACI 338 Affirmative Defense--Statute of Limitations

CACI 339-CACI 349 Reserved for Future Use

CACI 350 Introduction to Contract Damages

CACI 351 Special Damages

CACI 352 Loss of Profits--No Profits Earned

CACI 353 Loss of Profits--Some Profits Earned

CACI 354 Owner's/Lessee's Damages for Breach of Contract to Construct Improvements on Real Property

CACI 355 Obligation to Pay Money Only

CACI 356 Buyer's Damages for Breach of Contract for Sale of Real Property

CACI 357 Seller's Damages for Breach of Contract to Purchase Real Property

CACI 358 Mitigation of Damages

CACI 359 Present Cash Value of Future Damages

CACI 360 Nominal Damages

CACI 361 Plaintiff May Not Recover Duplicate Contract and Tort Damages

CACI 362-CACI 369 Reserved for Future Use

CACI 370 Common Count: Money Had and Received

CACI 371 Common Count: Goods and Services Rendered

CACI 372 Common Count: Open Book Account

CACI 373 Common Count: Account Stated

CACI 374 Common Count: Mistaken Receipt

CACI 375-CACI 399 Reserved for Future Use

CACI VF-300 Breach of Contract

CACI VF-301 Breach of Contract--Affirmative Defense--Unilateral Mistake of Fact

CACI VF-302 Breach of Contract--Affirmative Defense--Duress

CACI VF-303 Breach of Contract--Contract Formation at Issue

CACI VF-304-CACI VF-399 Reserved for Future Use

72 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction Scope

Scope

SCOPE

This chapter contains the California Judicial Council's "Contracts Series" of civil jury instructions [CACI No. 300 et seq.]. The Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions (CACI) included in this publication are the product of the Judicial Council of California Task Force on Jury Instructions, which are updated by the Judicial Council of California Advisory Committee on Civil Jury Instructions.

This chapter includes instructions on the following topics:

- Essential factual elements generally for a cause of action for breach of contract [CACI No. 300].
- A party's status as a third-party beneficiary [CACI No. 301].
- Essential factual elements involved in contract formation [CACI No. 302] and breach of contract cases [CACI No. 303].
- Oral or written contract terms [CACI No. 304].
- Implied-in-fact contracts [CACI No. 305].
- Unformalized agreements [CACI No. 306].
- Contract formation (i.e., offer, revocation of offer, acceptance, and rejection of offer) [CACI No. 307- CACI No. 311].
- Substantial performance [CACI No. 312] and modification [CACI No. 313].
- Interpretation of contracts [CACI No. 314- CACI No. 320], including interpretation of disputed terms and the meaning of ordinary and technical words.

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction Scope

- Condition precedents [CACI No. 321- CACI No. 323].
- Anticipatory breach [CACI No. 324].
- Essential factual elements for a cause of action for breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing [CACI No. 325].
- Assignments, including contested assignments [CACI No. 326] and non-contested assignments [CACI No. 327].
- Affirmative defenses applicable in contract actions [CACI No. 330- CACI No. 338], such as mistake, duress, undue influence, fraud, waiver, and novation.
- Damages available in contract actions [CACI No. 350- CACI No. 361], such as lost profits and nominal damages.
- Common counts, including money had and received [CACI No. 370], goods and services rendered [CACI No. 371], open book accounts [CACI No. 372], accounts stated [CACI No. 373], and mistaken receipts [CACI No. 374].

The contracts series also includes special verdict forms for use in breach of contract actions [CACI No. VF-300- CACI No. VF-303].

For additional and alternative jury instructions on contracts generally, see Chs. 3A- 3G.

For jury instructions on sales contracts, see Ch. 3H, Matthew Bender Commercial Code Sales Contract Instructions.

For jury instructions on construction contracts, see Ch. 3I, Matthew Bender Construction Contract Instructions.

For jury instructions on insurance contracts, see Ch. 23A, Matthew Bender Insurance Contract Instructions.

For jury instructions on employment contracts, see Ch. 24A, Matthew Bender Employment Contract Instructions.

73 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

*1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 300CACI 300 Breach of Contract--Introduction

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [he/she/it] and [name of defendant] entered into a contract for [insert brief summary of alleged contract].

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] breached this contract by [briefly state the alleged breach].

[Name of plaintiff] also claims that [name of defendant]'s breach of this contract caused harm to [name of plaintiff] for which [name of defendant] should pay.

[Name of defendant] denies [insert denial of any of the above claims]. [Name of defendant] also claims [insert affirmative defense].

New September 2003; Revised December 2007

Directions for Use

This instruction is designed to introduce the jury to the issues involved in the case. It should be read before the instructions on the substantive law.

Sources and Authority

■ The Supreme Court has observed that "[c]ontract and tort are different branches of law. Contract law exists to enforce legally binding agreements between parties; tort law is designed to vindicate social policy." (Applied Equipment Corp. v. Litton Saudi Arabia, Ltd. (1994) 7 Cal.4th 503, 514 [28 Cal.Rptr.2d 475, 869 P.2d 454] .)

■ "The differences between contract and tort give rise to distinctions in assessing damages and in evaluating underlying motives for particular courses of conduct. Contract damages seek to approximate the agreed-upon performance ... and are generally limited to those within the contemplation of the parties when the contract was entered into or at least reasonably foreseeable by them at that time; consequential damages beyond the expectations of the parties are not recoverable." (Applied Equipment Corp., supra, 7 Cal.4th at p. 515 , internal citations omitted.)

■ Certain defenses are decided as questions of law, not as questions of fact. These defenses include frustration of purpose, impossibility, and impracticability. (Oosten v. Hay Haulers Dairy Employees and Helpers Union (1955) 45 Cal.2d 784, 788 [291 P.2d 17] ; Mitchell v. Ceazan Tires, Ltd. (1944) 25 Cal.2d 45, 48 [153 P.2d 53] ; Autry v. Republic Productions, Inc. (1947) 30 Cal.2d 144, 157 [180 P.2d 888] ; Glen Falls Indemnity Co. v. Perscallo (1950) 96 Cal.App.2d 799, 802 [216 P.2d 567] .)

■ "Defendant contends that frustration is a question of fact resolved in its favor by the trial court. The excuse of frustration, however, like that of impossibility, is a conclusion of law drawn by the court from the facts of a given case" (Mitchell, supra, 25 Cal.2d at p. 48 , italics added.)

■ Estoppel is a "nonjury fact question to be determined by the trial court in accordance with applicable law." (DRG/Beverly Hills, Ltd. v. Chopstix Dim Sum Cafe and Takeout III, Ltd. (1994) 30 Cal.App.4th 54, 61 [35 Cal.Rptr.2d 515] .)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 847-867

14 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.50 (Matthew Bender)

5 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 50, Contracts, § 50.10 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 13, Attacking or Defending Existence of Contract--Absence of Essential Element, 13.03-13.17

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI Nos. 10.55 and 10.85.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Setting a "Tone": Most jurors will be more likely familiar with negligence and some other tort theories as compared to a contract. Hence, CACI No. 300 may set a "tone." By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsContracts LawBreachGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral Overview

74 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 301

CACI 301 Third-Party Beneficiary

[Name of plaintiff] is not a party to the contract. However, [name of plaintiff] may be entitled to damages for breach of contract if [he/she/it] proves that [insert names of the contracting parties] intended for [name of plaintiff] to benefit from their contract.

It is not necessary for [name of plaintiff] to have been named in the contract. In deciding what [insert names of the contracting parties] intended, you should consider the entire contract and the circumstances under which it was made.

New September 2003

This topic may or may not be a question for the jury to decide. Third-party beneficiary status may be determined as a question of law if there is no conflicting extrinsic evidence. (Kalmanovitz v. Bitting (1996) 43 Cal.App.4th 311, 315 [50 Cal.Rptr.2d 332] .)

These pattern jury instructions may need to be modified in cases brought by plaintiffs who are third-party beneficiaries.

- Civil Code section 1559 provides: "A contract, made expressly for the benefit of a third person, may be enforced by him at any time before the parties thereto rescind it."

- A third party may qualify as a beneficiary under a contract where the contracting parties must have intended to benefit that individual and such intent appears from the terms of the agreement. (Brinton v. Bankers Pension Services, Inc. (1999) 76 Cal.App.4th 550, 558 [90 Cal.Rptr.2d 469] .) However,

"[i]nsofar as intent to benefit a third person is important in determining his right to bring an action under a contract, it is sufficient that the promisor must have understood that the promisee had such intent. No specific manifestation by the promisor of an intent to benefit the third person is required." (Lucas v. Hamm (1961) 56 Cal.2d 583, 591 [15 Cal.Rptr. 821, 364 P.2d 685] .)

- "Traditional third party beneficiary principles do not require that the person to be benefited be named in the contract." (Harper v. Wausau Insurance Corp. (1997) 56 Cal.App.4th 1079, 1086 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 64] .)

- Civil Code section 1559 excludes enforcement of a contract by persons who are only incidentally or remotely benefited by the agreement. (Lucas, supra, 56 Cal.2d at p. 590 .)

- "Whether a third party is an intended beneficiary or merely an incidental beneficiary to the contract involves construction of the parties' intent, gleaned from reading the contract as a whole in light of the circumstances under which it was entered. [Citation.]" (Jones v. Aetna Casualty & Surety Co. (1994) 26 Cal.App.4th 1717, 1725 [33 Cal.Rptr.2d 291] .)

- Restatement Second of Contracts, section 302, provides:

(1) Unless otherwise agreed between promisor and promisee, a beneficiary of a promise is an intended beneficiary if recognition of a right to performance in the beneficiary is appropriate to effectuate the intention of the parties and either

(a) the performance of the promise will satisfy an obligation of the promisee to pay money to the beneficiary; or

(b) the circumstances indicate that the promisee intends to give the beneficiary the benefit of the promised performance.

(2) An incidental beneficiary is a beneficiary who is not an intended beneficiary.

This section has been cited by California courts. (See, e.g., Outdoor Services v. Pabagold (1986) 185 Cal.App.3d 676, 684 [230 Cal.Rptr. 73] .)

- The burden is on the third party "to prove that the performance [it] seeks was actually promised." (Garcia v. Truck Insurance Exchange (1984) 36 Cal.3d 426, 436 [204 Cal.Rptr. 435, 682 P.2d 1100] ; Neverkovec v. Fredericks (1999) 74 Cal.App.4th 337, 348-349 [87 Cal.Rptr.2d 856] .)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 685-706

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, §§ 140.83, 140.103, 140.131 (Matthew Bender)

5 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 50, Contracts, § 50.132 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.11 (Matthew Bender)

2 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 19, Seeking or Opposing Recovery As Third Party Beneficiary of Contract, 19.03 -19.06

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI No. 10.59.

A third party beneficiary is one of the class of persons for whose benefit the contract was expressly made. (Diamond Woodworks, Inc. v. Argonaut Ins. Co. (2003) 109 Cal.App.4th 1020, 1042 [135 Cal.Rptr.2d 736] .)

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care When Explaining Third-Party Beneficiary: Some attorneys would struggle in understanding the meaning of "third-party beneficiary." Thus, consider the plight of almost all jurors. Care should therefore be taken in explaining CACI No. 301 in one's closing argument. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Facts Relating to Third-Party Beneficiary May Not be in Dispute: Many defense counsel will want to attack plaintiff's standing as a "third-party beneficiary" by way of motion on the ground that the facts relating to this issue are not in dispute and the matter is one for the court to resolve. Additionally, even if the facts are in dispute, but the evidence to support third-party beneficiary status is weak, the damages to this third party may not be reasonably foreseeable. By Ronald Oster

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawThird PartiesBeneficiariesClaims & EnforcementContracts LawThird PartiesBeneficiariesDefensesContracts LawThird PartiesBeneficiariesTypesIntended Beneficiaries

75 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 302

CACI 302 Contract Formation--Essential Factual Elements

[Name of plaintiff] claims that the parties entered into a contract. To prove that a contract was created, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

- 1. That the contract terms were clear enough that the parties could understand what each was required to do;
- 2. That the parties agreed to give each other something of value. [A promise to do something or not to do something may have value]; and
- 3. That the parties agreed to the terms of the contract.

[When you examine whether the parties agreed to the terms of the contract, ask yourself if, under the circumstances, a reasonable person would conclude, from the words and conduct of each party, that there was an agreement. You may not consider the parties' hidden intentions.]

If [name of plaintiff] did not prove all of the above, then a contract was not created.

New September 2003; Revised October 2004

This instruction should only be given where the existence of a contract is contested. If both parties agree that they had a contract, then the instructions relating to whether or not a contract was actually formed would not need to be given. At other times, the parties may be contesting only a limited number of contract formation issues. Also, some of these issues may be decided by the judge as a matter of law. Users should omit elements in this instruction that are not contested so that the jury can focus on the contested issues. Read the bracketed paragraph only if element #3 is read.

The elements regarding legal capacity and legal purpose are omitted from this instruction because these issues are not likely to be before the jury. If legal capacity or legal purpose is factually disputed then this instruction should be amended to add that issue as an element. Regarding legal capacity, the element could be stated as follows: "That the parties were legally capable of entering into a contract." Regarding legal purpose, the element could be stated as follows: "That the contract had a legal purpose."

The final element of this instruction would be given prior to instructions on offer and acceptance. If neither offer nor acceptance is contested, then this element of the instruction will not need to be given to the jury.

■ Civil Code section 1550 provides:

It is essential to the existence of a contract that there should be:

1. Parties capable of contracting;
2. Their consent;
3. A lawful object; and
4. A sufficient cause or consideration.

■ Civil Code section 1556 provides: "All persons are capable of contracting, except minors, persons of unsound mind, and persons deprived of civil rights."

■ The issue of whether a contract is illegal or contrary to public policy is a question of law. (Jackson v. Rogers & Wells (1989) 210 Cal.App.3d 336, 350 [258 Cal.Rptr. 454] .)

■ "In order for acceptance of a proposal to result in the formation of a contract, the proposal 'must be sufficiently definite, or must call for such definite terms in the acceptance, that the performance promised is reasonably certain.' [Citation.]" (Weddington Productions, Inc. v. Flick (1998) 60 Cal.App.4th 793, 811 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 265] .)

■ Section 33(1) of the Restatement Second of Contracts provides: "Even though a manifestation of intention is intended to be understood as an offer, it cannot be accepted so as to form a contract unless the terms of the contract are reasonably certain." Section 33(2) provides: "The terms of a contract are reasonably certain if they provide a basis for determining the existence of a breach and for giving an appropriate remedy."

■ Courts have stated that the issue of whether a contract is sufficiently definite is a question of law for the court. (Ladas v. California State Automobile Assn. (1993) 19 Cal.App.4th 761, 770, fn. 2 [23 Cal.Rptr.2d 810] ; Ersa Grae Corp. v. Fluor Corp. (1991) 1 Cal.App.4th 613, 623 [2 Cal.Rptr.2d 288] .)

■ Civil Code section 1605 defines "good consideration" as follows: "Any benefit conferred, or agreed to be conferred, upon the promisor, by any other person, to which the promisor is not lawfully entitled, or any prejudice suffered, or agreed to be suffered, by such person, other than such as he is at the time of consent lawfully bound to suffer, as an inducement to the promisor is a good consideration for a promise."

■ Civil Code section 1614 provides: "A written instrument is presumptive evidence of consideration." Civil Code section 1615 provides: "The burden of showing a want of consideration sufficient to support an instrument lies with the party seeking to invalidate or avoid it."

- In Rancho Santa Fe Pharmacy, Inc. v. Seyfert (1990) 219 Cal.App.3d 875, 884 [268 Cal.Rptr. 505], the court concluded that the presumption of consideration in section 1614 goes to the burden of producing evidence, not the burden of proof.

- Lack of consideration is an affirmative defense and must be alleged in answer to the complaint. (National Farm Workers Service Center, Inc. v. M. Caratan, Inc. (1983) 146 Cal.App.3d 796, 808 [194 Cal.Rptr. 617] .)

- "Consideration consists not only of benefit received by the promisor, but of detriment to the promisee. ... 'It matters not from whom the consideration moves or to whom it goes. If it is bargained for and given in exchange for the promise, the promise is not gratuitous.' " (Flojo Internat., Inc. v. Lassleben (1992) 4 Cal.App.4th 713, 719 [6 Cal.Rptr.2d 99], internal citation omitted.)

- "Consideration may be an act, forbearance, change in legal relations, or a promise." (1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, § 202.)

- Mutual consent is an essential contract element. (Civ. Code, § 1550.) Under Civil Code section 1565, "[t]he consent of the parties to a contract must be: 1. Free; 2. Mutual; and 3. Communicated by each to the other." Civil Code section 1580 provides, in part: "Consent is not mutual, unless the parties all agree upon the same thing in the same sense."

- California courts use the objective standard to determine mutual consent: "[A plaintiff's] uncommunicated subjective intent is not relevant. The existence of mutual assent is determined by objective criteria. The test is whether a reasonable person would, from the conduct of the parties, conclude that there was mutual agreement." (Hilleary v. Garvin (1987) 193 Cal.App.3d 322, 327 [238 Cal.Rptr. 247], internal citations omitted; see also Roth v. Malson (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 552, 557 [79 Cal.Rptr.2d 226] .)

- Actions as well as words are relevant: "The manifestation of assent to a contractual provision may be 'wholly or partly by written or spoken words or by other acts or by failure to act.' " (Merced County Sheriff's Employees' Assn. v. County of Merced (1987) 188 Cal.App.3d 662, 670 [233 Cal.Rptr. 519] (quoting Rest. 2d Contracts, § 19).)

- The surrounding circumstances can also be relevant in determining whether a binding contract has been formed. (California Food Service Corp., Inc. v. Great American Insurance Co. (1982) 130 Cal.App.3d 892, 897 [182 Cal.Rptr. 67] .) "If words are spoken under circumstances where it is obvious that neither party would be entitled to believe that the other intended a contract to result, there is no contract." (Fowler v. Security-First National Bank (1956) 146 Cal.App.2d 37, 47 [303 P.2d 565] .)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 26, 50, 58, 116-255, 419, 420

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, §§ 140.10, 140.20 -140.25 (Matthew Bender)

5 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 50, Contracts, § 50.350 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, §§ 75.10, 75.11 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 13, Attacking or Defending Existence of Contract--Absence of Essential Element, 13.03 -13.17

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI Nos. 10.55 and 10.61.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--"Hidden Intentions" Not Relevant: If the other party is contesting the existence of a contract on the ground of lack of agreement, then the bracketed portion of the above instruction is worth emphasizing. That is, a party's "hidden intentions" are not relevant and should be disregarded by the jury. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care During Oral Argument: Many contractual principles are not familiar to some jurors. That is especially the case with principles such as "capacity" and "legal purpose." Consequently, the related oral argument should be carefully thought out. *By Rex Heeseman 302)_and_footnotes(n1);vk n

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsStandard InstructionsContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationAcceptanceGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationDefinite TermsContracts LawFormationMeeting of MindsContracts LawFormationOffersGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote *. Editor's Note: The principles of "legal capacity" and "legal purpose" were removed from CACI No. 302 in the Judicial Council's October 2004 revisions. As noted in the Directions for Use: "The elements regarding legal capacity and legal purpose are omitted from this instruction because these issues are not likely to be before the jury." The Directions for Use continues by providing sample language if these elements are factually disputed.

76 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 303

CACI 303 Breach of Contract--Essential Factual Elements

To recover damages from [name of defendant] for breach of contract, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

- 1. That [name of plaintiff] and [name of defendant] entered into a contract;
- 2. That [name of plaintiff] did all, or substantially all, of the significant things that the contract required [him/her/it] to do [or that [he/she/it] was excused from doing those things];
- 3. [That all conditions required by the contract for [name of defendant]'s performance had occurred;]
- 4. That [name of defendant] failed to do something that the contract required [him/her/it] to do; and
- 5. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed by that failure.

New September 2003; Revised April 2004, June 2006

Directions for Use

Read this instruction in conjunction with CACI No. 300, Breach of Contract--Introduction. In many cases, some of the above elements may not be contested. In those cases, users should delete the elements that are not contested so that the jury can focus on the contested issues.

Element 3 is intended for cases in which conditions for performance are at issue. Not every contract has conditions for performance.

If the allegation is that the defendant breached the contract by doing something that the contract prohibited, then change element 4 to the following: "That [name of defendant] did something that the contract prohibited [him/her/it] from doing."

Equitable remedies are also available for breach. "As a general proposition, [t]he jury trial is a matter of right in a civil action at law, but not in equity. [Citations.]" (C & K Engineering Contractors v. Amber Steel Co., Inc. (1978) 23 Cal.3d 1, 8 [151 Cal.Rptr. 323, 587 P.2d 1136] ; Selby Constructors v. McCarthy (1979) 91 Cal.App.3d 517, 524 [154 Cal.Rptr. 164] .) However, juries may render advisory verdicts on these issues. (Raedeke v. Gibraltar Savings & Loan Assn. (1974) 10 Cal.3d 665, 670-671 [111 Cal.Rptr. 693, 517 P.2d 1157] .)

Sources and Authority

- Civil Code section 1549 provides: "A contract is an agreement to do or not to do a certain thing." Courts have defined the term as follows: "A contract is a voluntary and lawful agreement, by competent parties, for a good consideration, to do or not to do a specified thing." (Robinson v. Magee (1858) 9 Cal. 81, 83 .)

- A complaint for breach of contract must include the following: (1) the existence of a contract, (2) plaintiff's performance or excuse for non-performance, (3) defendant's breach, and (4) damages to plaintiff therefrom. (Acoustics, Inc. v. Trepte Construction Co. (1971) 14 Cal.App.3d 887, 913 [92 Cal.Rptr. 723] .) Additionally, if the defendant's duty to perform under the contract is conditioned on the happening of some event, the plaintiff must prove that the event transpired. (Consolidated World Investments, Inc. v. Lido Preferred Ltd. (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 373, 380 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 524] .)

- "Implicit in the element of damage is that the defendant's breach caused the plaintiff's damage." (Troyk v. Farmers Group, Inc. (2009) 171 Cal.App.4th 1305, 1352 [90 Cal.Rptr.3d 589] , original italics.)

- Restatement Second of Contracts, section 1, provides: "A contract is a promise or a set of promises for the breach of which the law gives a remedy, or the performance of which the law in some way recognizes as a duty."

- "The wrongful, i.e., the unjustified or unexcused, failure to perform a contract is a breach. Where the nonperformance is legally justified, or excused, there may be a failure of consideration, but not a breach." (1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) § 847, internal citations omitted.) "Ordinarily, a breach is the result of an intentional act, but negligent performance may also constitute a breach, giving rise to alternative contract and tort actions." (Ibid.)

- The doctrine of substantial performance does not apply to the party accused of the breach. Restatement Second of Contracts, section 235(2), provides: "When performance of a duty under a contract is due any non-performance is a breach." Comment (b) to section 235 states that "[w]hen performance is due, ... anything short of full performance is a breach, even if the party who does not fully perform was not at fault and even if the defect in his performance was not substantial."

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, § 847

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.50 (Matthew Bender)

5 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 50, Contracts, § 50.10 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

2 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 22, Suing or Defending Action for Breach of Contract, 22.03 -22.50

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI Nos. 10.85 and 10.86.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Provide Demonstrative Support and Use Care in Closing: This is a key instruction as it addresses the essential elements of a breach of contract action. Hence, consider having demonstrative support (e.g., a written checklist) to show the jury how your client has satisfied (or your opposition has not satisfied) these elements. Plaintiff's counsel must also be careful to demonstrate in closing that all elements of CACI No. 303 have been met. By Rex Heeseman and Ronald Oster

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionElements of ClaimsContracts LawBreachMaterial BreachContracts LawBreachNonperformance

77 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 304

CACI 304 Oral or Written Contract Terms

[Contracts may be written or oral.]

[Contracts may be partly written and partly oral.]

Oral contracts are just as valid as written contracts.

New September 2003

Give the bracketed alternative that is most applicable to the facts of the case.

If the agreement is fully integrated, this instruction should not be given. Parol evidence is inadmissible if the judge finds that the written agreement is fully integrated: "The parol evidence rule generally prohibits the introduction of extrinsic evidence--oral or written--to vary or contradict the terms of an integrated written instrument." (EPA Real Estate Partnership v. Kang (1992) 12 Cal.App.4th 171, 175 [15 Cal.Rptr.2d 209] .)

■ Civil Code section 1622 provides that "all contracts may be oral, except such as are specially required by statute to be in writing." (See also Civ. Code, § 1624.)

■ In Lande v. Southern California Freight Lines (1948) 85 Cal.App.2d 416, 420 [193 P.2d 144] , the court answered the question "May a contract be partly written and partly oral?" as follows: "This question posed by defendant must be answered in the affirmative in this sense: that a contract or agreement in legal contemplation is neither written nor oral, but oral or written evidence may be received to establish the terms of the contract or agreement between the parties. ... A so-called partly written and partly oral contract is in legal effect a contract, the terms of which may be proven by both written and oral evidence."

■ Evidence of a contract that is partly oral may be admitted if only part of the contract is fully integrated: "When the parties to a written contract have agreed to it as an 'integration'--a complete and final embodiment of the terms of an agreement--parol evidence cannot be used to add to or vary its terms ... [However,] '[w]hen only part of the agreement is integrated, the same rule applies to that part, but parol evidence may be used to prove elements of the agreement not reduced to writing.' " (Masterson v. Sine (1968) 68 Cal.2d 222, 225 [65 Cal.Rptr. 545, 436 P.2d 561] .)

Secondary Sources

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 13, Attacking or Defending Existence of Contract--Absence of Essential Element, 13.03 -13.17

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI No. 10.57.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Using Parol Evidence: Although parol evidence may not be admissible to vary the terms of an integrated written contract, it can be admitted when the contract is partly oral and partly written. Parol evidence may also be used to establish the existence of an ambiguity in a written contract. Finally, if the contract is entirely oral, then the last sentence of CACI No. 304 is critical--oral contracts are just as valid as written contracts. In other words, "handshake deals" are binding. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Oral vs. Written Contracts: Many jurors might believe that a contract should naturally be written. Thus, if your case deals with an oral contract, be ready to explain away (or seize upon) that common belief. By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionElements of ClaimsContracts LawContract InterpretationParol EvidenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsOral AgreementsEvidenceDocumentary EvidenceParol Evidence

78 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 305

CACI 305 Implied-in-Fact Contract

In deciding whether a contract was created, you should consider the conduct and relationship of the parties as well as all the circumstances of the case.

Contracts can be created by the conduct of the parties, without spoken or written words. Contracts created by conduct are just as valid as contracts formed with words.

Conduct will create a contract if the conduct of both parties is intentional and each knows, or has reason to know, that the other party will interpret the conduct as an agreement to enter into a contract.

New September 2003

- Civil Code sections 1619-1621 together provide as follows: "A contract is either express or implied. An express contract is one, the terms of which are stated in words. An implied contract is one, the existence and terms of which are manifested by conduct."

- Section 19(2) of the Restatement Second of Contracts provides: "The conduct of a party is not effective as a manifestation of his assent unless he intends to engage in the conduct and knows or has reason to know that the other party may infer from his conduct that he assents."

- "Unlike the 'quasi-contractual' quantum meruit theory which operates without an actual agreement of the parties, an implied-in-fact contract entails an actual contract, but one manifested in conduct rather than expressed in words." (Maglica v. Maglica (1998) 66 Cal.App.4th 442, 455 [78 Cal.Rptr.2d 101] .)

■ Express and implied-in-fact contracts have the same legal effect, but differ in how they are proved at trial: " 'Contracts may be express or implied. These terms, however, do not denote different kinds of contracts, but have reference to the evidence by which the agreement between the parties is shown. If the agreement is shown by the direct words of the parties, spoken or written, the contract is said to be an express one. But if such agreement can only be shown by the acts and conduct of the parties, interpreted in the light of the subject-matter and of the surrounding circumstances, then the contract is an implied one.' " (Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal.3d 660, 678, fn. 16 [134 Cal.Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] , internal citation omitted.)

■ "As to the basic elements [of a contract cause of action], there is no difference between an express and implied contract. ... While an implied in fact contract may be inferred from the conduct, situation or mutual relation of the parties, the very heart of this kind of agreement is an intent to promise." (Division of Labor Law Enforcement v. Transpacific Transportation Co. (1977) 69 Cal.App.3d 268, 275 [137 Cal.Rptr. 855] ; see also Friedman v. Friedman (1993) 20 Cal.App.4th 876, 888 [24 Cal.Rptr.2d 892] .)

■ The formation of an implied contract can become an issue for the jury to decide: "Whether or not an implied contract has been created is determined by the acts and conduct of the parties and all the surrounding circumstances involved and is a question of fact." (Del E. Webb Corp. v. Structural Materials Co. (1981) 123 Cal.App.3d 593, 611 [176 Cal.Rptr. 824] , internal citation omitted.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, § 102

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, §§ 140.10, 140.110 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 13, Attacking or Defending Existence of Contract--Absence of Essential Element, 13.07

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.56.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Implied-in-Fact Contracts Are Challenging for Jurors: The idea of an "implied-in-fact" contract will be particularly challenging for many jurors. Hence, be ready to confront this challenge. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Examples and Experts: Contracts that are "implied-in-fact" will be difficult for most jurors to comprehend. This issue should be addressed early on by use of examples (e.g., a bidder who raises a hand at an auction is agreeing to buy an item at a given price). The use of expert testimony to explain the custom and practice in a particular industry or commercial activity may also be necessary. By Ronald Oster

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General Overview Contracts Law Types of Contracts Implied-in-Fact Contracts

79 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 306

CACI 306 Unformalized Agreement

[Name of defendant] contends that the parties did not enter into a contract because the agreement was never written and signed. To overcome this contention, [name of plaintiff] must prove both of the following:

- 1. That the parties understood and agreed to the terms of the agreement; and
- 2. That the parties agreed to be bound without a written agreement [or before a written agreement was prepared].

New September 2003

Do not give this instruction unless the defendant has testified or offered other evidence in support of his or her contention.

■ "Where the writing at issue shows 'no more than an intent to further reduce the informal writing to a more formal one' the failure to follow it with a more formal writing does not negate the existence of the prior contract. However, where the writing shows it was not intended to be binding until a formal written contract is executed, there is no contract." (Harris v. Rudin, Richman & Appel (1999) 74 Cal.App.4th 299, 307 [87 Cal.Rptr.2d 822] , internal citations omitted.)

■ The execution of a formalized written agreement is not necessarily essential to the formation of a contract that is made orally: "[I]f the respective parties orally agreed upon all of the terms and conditions of a proposed written agreement with the mutual intention that the oral agreement should thereupon become binding, the mere fact that a formal written agreement to the same effect has not yet been signed does not alter the binding validity of the oral agreement. [Citation.]" (Banner Entertainment, Inc. v. Superior Court (1998) 62 Cal.App.4th 348, 358 [72 Cal.Rptr.2d 598] .)

■ If the parties have agreed not to be bound until the agreement is reduced to writing and signed by the parties, then the contract will not be effective until the formal agreement is signed. (Beck v. American Health Group International, Inc. (1989) 211 Cal.App.3d 1555, 1562 [260 Cal.Rptr. 237] .)

■ "Whether it was the parties' mutual intention that their oral agreement to the terms contained in a proposed written agreement should be binding immediately is to be determined from the surrounding facts and circumstances of a particular case and is a question of fact for the trial court." (Banner Entertainment, Inc., supra, 62 Cal.App.4th at p. 358 .)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 133, 134

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.22 (Matthew Bender)

5 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 50, Contracts, § 50.350 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 13, Attacking or Defending Existence of Contract--Absence of Essential Element, 13.07[3]

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI No. 10.58.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care in Putting Together Argument: Even more so than several of the prior instructions, great care must be utilized in putting together this argument. And, do not let the term "unformalized" be used in any respect. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Establishing Plaintiff's Case: Cases in which there is a time lag between the verbal agreement of the parties and the execution of a written document can be troublesome. In general, the plaintiff will want to establish that performance actually began with the verbal agreement of the parties (even though no written contract was yet prepared) thereby indicating that the parties intended to be bound at the time of the agreement without waiting for a written document. Performance can take the form of ordering supplies, hiring personnel, or otherwise acting to fulfill the terms of the contract in advance of the written documentation. Plaintiff's counsel will also want to use CACI No. 304 ("[o]ral contracts are just as valid as written contracts") to demonstrate that a final written document was not required. By Ronald Oster

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General Overview Contracts Law Formation Execution Contracts Law Types of Contracts Oral Agreements

80 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 307

CACI 307 Contract Formation--Offer

Both an offer and an acceptance are required to create a contract. [Name of defendant] contends that a contract was not created because there was never any offer. To overcome this contention, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

- 1. That [name of plaintiff] communicated to [name of defendant] that [he/she/it] was willing to enter into a contract with [name of defendant];
- 2. That the communication contained specific terms; and
- 3. That, based on the communication, [name of defendant] could have reasonably concluded that a contract with these terms would result if [he/she/it] accepted the offer.

If [name of plaintiff] did not prove all of the above, then a contract was not created.

New September 2003

Do not give this instruction unless the defendant has testified or offered other evidence in support of his or her contention.

This instruction assumes that the defendant is claiming the plaintiff never made an offer. Change the identities of the parties in the indented paragraphs if, under the facts of the case, the roles of the parties are switched (e.g., if defendant was the alleged offeror). If the existence of an offer is not contested, then this instruction is unnecessary.

■ Courts have adopted the definition of "offer" found at Restatement Second of Contracts, section 24: "An offer is the manifestation of willingness to enter into a bargain, so made as to justify another person in understanding that his assent to that bargain is invited and will conclude it." (City of Moorpark v. Moorpark Unified School Dist. (1991) 54 Cal.3d 921, 930 [1 Cal.Rptr.2d 896, 819 P.2d 854] .)

■ Under basic contract law " '[a]n offer must be sufficiently definite, or must call for such definite terms in the acceptance that the performance promised is reasonably certain.' " (Ladas v. California State Automobile Assn. (1993) 19 Cal.App.4th 761, 770 [23 Cal.Rptr.2d 810] .)

■ "The trier of fact must determine 'whether a reasonable person would necessarily assume ... a willingness to enter into contract.' [Citation.]" (In re First Capital Life Insurance Co. (1995) 34 Cal.App.4th 1283, 1287 [40 Cal.Rptr.2d 816] .)

■ Offers should be contrasted with preliminary negotiations: "Preliminary negotiations or an agreement for future negotiations are not the functional equivalent of a valid, subsisting agreement." (Kruse v. Bank of America (1988) 202 Cal.App.3d 38, 59 [248 Cal.Rptr. 217] .)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 116, 117, 125-137

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.22 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.210 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 13, Attacking or Defending Existence of Contract--Absence of Essential Element, 13.18 -13.24

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI No. 10.65.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Jurors May be Uncertain With Legal Term:

Attorneys readily understand the concept of an "offer" but many jurors will be uncertain about this legal term. By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationAcceptanceGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationOffersGeneral Overview

81 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 308

CACI 308 Contract Formation--Revocation of Offer

Both an offer and an acceptance are required to create a contract. [Name of defendant] contends that the offer was withdrawn before it was accepted. To overcome this contention, [name of plaintiff] must prove one of the following:

- 1. That [name of defendant] did not withdraw the offer; or
- 2. That [name of plaintiff] accepted the offer before [name of defendant] withdrew it; or
- 3. That [name of defendant]'s withdrawal of the offer was never communicated to [name of plaintiff].

If [name of plaintiff] did not prove any of the above, then a contract was not created.

New September 2003

Do not give this instruction unless the defendant has testified or offered other evidence in support of his or her contention.

This instruction assumes that the defendant is claiming to have revoked his or her offer. Change the identities of the parties in the indented paragraphs if, under the facts of the case, the roles of the parties are switched (e.g., if defendant was the alleged offeree).

■ Civil Code section 1586 provides: "A proposal may be revoked at any time before its acceptance is communicated to the proposer, but not afterwards."

- The methods for revocation are listed in Civil Code section 1587, and include:

- 1) Communication of revocation,
- 2) Lapse of time for acceptance,
- 3) Failure to fulfill condition precedent to acceptance, and
- 4) By death or insanity of proposer.

This instruction addresses the first method.

- "It is a well-established principle of contract law that an offer may be revoked by the offeror any time prior to acceptance." (T. M. Cobb Co., Inc. v. Superior Court (1984) 36 Cal.3d 273, 278 [204 Cal.Rptr. 143, 682 P.2d 338] .)

- " 'Under familiar contract law, a revocation of an offer must be directed to the offeree.' [Citation.]" (Moffett v. Barclay (1995) 32 Cal.App.4th 980, 983 [38 Cal.Rptr.2d 546] .)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 159-165

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, §§ 140.22, 140.61 (Matthew Bender)

5 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 50, Contracts, § 50.351 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.211 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 13, Attacking or Defending Existence of Contract--Absence of Essential Element, 13.23 -13.24

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI No. 10.67.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Try to Streamline CACI No. 308: This instruction could be confusing because it contains several double negatives. If possible, counsel should try to streamline CACI No. 308 by (1) eliminating unnecessary clauses that do not apply to the case at hand; and (2) carefully explaining the clauses that do apply. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Revocation Argument Requires Care: "Revocation" is not a simple concept for many jurors. Thus, the related argument must carefully go over the elements and the connecting evidence. By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General

OverviewContracts LawFormationOffersGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationOffersRejectionsContracts
LawFormationOffersRevocable Offers

82 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 309

CACI 309 Contract Formation--Acceptance

Both an offer and an acceptance are required to create a contract. [Name of defendant] contends that a contract was not created because the offer was never accepted. To overcome this contention, [name of plaintiff] must prove both of the following:

- 1. That [name of defendant] agreed to be bound by the terms of the offer. [If [name of defendant] agreed to be bound only on certain conditions, or if [he/she/it] introduced a new term into the bargain, then there was no acceptance]; and
- 2. That [name of defendant] communicated [his/her/its] agreement to [name of plaintiff].

If [name of plaintiff] did not prove both of the above, then a contract was not created.

New September 2003

Do not give this instruction unless the defendant has testified or offered other evidence in support of his or her contention.

This instruction assumes that the defendant is claiming to have not accepted plaintiff's offer. Change the identities of the parties in the indented paragraphs if, under the facts of the case, the roles of the parties are switched (e.g., if defendant was the alleged offeror).

● Civil Code section 1585 provides: "An acceptance must be absolute and unqualified, or must include in itself an acceptance of that character which the proposer can separate from the rest, and which will conclude the person accepting. A qualified acceptance is a new proposal."

■ "[T]erms proposed in an offer must be met exactly, precisely and unequivocally for its acceptance to result in the formation of a binding contract; and a qualified acceptance amounts to a new proposal or counteroffer putting an end to the original offer." (Panagotacos v. Bank of America (1998) 60 Cal.App.4th 851, 855-856 [70 Cal.Rptr.2d 595] .)

■ "[I]t is not necessarily true that any communication other than an unequivocal acceptance is a rejection. Thus, an acceptance is not invalidated by the fact that it is 'grumbling,' or that the offeree makes some simultaneous 'request.' Nevertheless, it must appear that the 'grumble' does not go so far as to make it doubtful that the expression is really one of assent. Similarly, the 'request' must not add additional or different terms from those offered. Otherwise, the 'acceptance' becomes a counteroffer." (Guzman v. Visalia Community Bank (1999) 71 Cal.App.4th 1370, 1376 [84 Cal.Rptr.2d 581] .)

■ "The interpretation of the purported acceptance or rejection of an offer is a question of fact. Further, based on the general rule that manifested mutual assent rather than actual mental assent is the essential element in the formation of contracts, the test of the true meaning of an acceptance or rejection is not what the party making it thought it meant or intended it to mean. Rather, the test is what a reasonable person in the position of the parties would have thought it meant." (Guzman, supra, 71 Cal.App.4th at pp. 1376-1377 .)

■ "Acceptance of an offer, which may be manifested by conduct as well as by words, must be expressed or communicated by the offeree to the offeror." (Russell v. Union Oil Co. (1970) 7 Cal.App.3d 110, 114 [86 Cal.Rptr. 424] .)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 180-192

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.22 (Matthew Bender)

5 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 50, Contracts, § 50.352 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.214 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 13, Attacking or Defending Existence of Contract--Absence of Essential Element, 13.25 -13.31

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.68.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General Overview Contracts Law Formation Acceptance General Overview Contracts Law Formation Acceptance Methods of Acceptance Overt Acts Contracts Law Formation Acceptance Reasonable Time

83 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 310

CACI 310 Contract Formation--Acceptance by Silence

Ordinarily, if a party does not say or do anything in response to another party's offer, then he or she has not accepted the offer. However, if [name of plaintiff] proves that both [he/she/it] and [name of defendant] understood silence or inaction to mean that [name of defendant] had accepted [name of plaintiff]'s offer, then there was an acceptance.

New September 2003

This instruction assumes that the defendant is claiming to have not accepted plaintiff's offer. Change the identities of the parties in the last two sets of brackets if, under the facts of the case, the roles of the parties are switched (e.g., if defendant was the alleged offeror).

This instruction should be read in conjunction with and immediately after CACI No. 309, Contract Formation--Acceptance, if acceptance by silence is an issue.

- Because acceptance must be communicated, "[s]ilence in the face of an offer is not an acceptance, unless there is a relationship between the parties or a previous course of dealing pursuant to which silence would be understood as acceptance." (Southern California Acoustics Co., Inc. v. C. V. Holder, Inc. (1969) 71 Cal.2d 719, 722 [79 Cal.Rptr. 319, 456 P.2d 975] .)

- Acceptance may also be inferred from inaction where one has a duty to act, and from retention of the offered benefit. (Golden Eagle Insurance Co. v. Foremost Insurance Co. (1993) 20 Cal.App.4th 1372, 1386 [25 Cal.Rptr.2d 242] .)

■ Civil Code section 1589 provides: "A voluntary acceptance of the benefit of a transaction is equivalent to a consent to all the obligations arising from it, so far as the facts are known, or ought to be known, to the person accepting."

■ Section 69(1) of the Restatement Second of Contracts provides:

(1) Where an offeree fails to reply to an offer, his silence and inaction operate as an acceptance in the following cases only:

(a) Where an offeree takes the benefit of offered services with reasonable opportunity to reject them and reason to know that they were offered with the expectation of compensation.

(b) Where the offeror has stated or given the offeree reason to understand the assent may be manifested by silence or inaction, and the offeree in remaining silent and inactive intends to accept the offer.

(c) Where because of previous dealings or otherwise, it is reasonable that the offeree should notify the offeror if he does not intend to accept.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 193-197

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.22 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.11 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 13, Attacking or Defending Existence of Contract--Absence of Essential Element, 13.31

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.68.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Caution When Explaining Impact of "Silence": Most jurors will think that a "positive" step must be taken in a contract. So, explaining (from either perspective) the impact of "silence" should be undertaken cautiously. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Establishing That Silence Means Acceptance: The Sources and Authority following CACI No. 310 identify several ways to establish that silence means acceptance of the contract. Of these possibilities, proof that the "silent" party received, or expected to receive, the benefits of the contract will go a long way toward persuading the jury that a contract was formed. By Ronald Oster

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General Overview Contracts Law Formation Acceptance General Overview Contracts Law Formation Acceptance Methods of

AcceptanceSilenceContracts LawFormationAcceptanceReasonable Time

84 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 311

CACI 311 Contract Formation--Rejection of Offer

[Name of defendant] contends that the offer to enter into a contract terminated because [name of plaintiff] rejected it. To overcome this contention, [name of plaintiff] must prove both of the following:

- 1. That [name of plaintiff] did not reject [name of defendant]'s offer; and
- 2. That [name of plaintiff] did not make any additions or changes to the terms of [name of defendant]'s offer.

If [name of plaintiff] did not prove both of the above, then a contract was not created.

New September 2003

Do not give this instruction unless the defendant has testified or offered other evidence in support of his or her contention.

Note that rejections of a contract offer, or proposed alterations to an offer, are effective only if they are communicated to the other party. (See Beverly Way Associates v. Barham (1990) 226 Cal.App.3d 49, 55 [276 Cal.Rptr. 240] .) If it is necessary for the jury to make a finding regarding the issue of communication then this instruction may need to be modified.

This instruction assumes that the defendant is claiming plaintiff rejected defendant's offer. Change the identities of the parties in the indented paragraphs if, under the facts of the case, the roles of the parties are switched (e.g., if defendant was the alleged offeree).

Conceptually, this instruction dovetails with CACI No. 309, Contract Formation--Acceptance. This instruction is designed for the situation where a party has rejected an offer by not accepting it on its terms.

■ Civil Code section 1585 provides: "An acceptance must be absolute and unqualified, or must include in itself an acceptance of that character which the proposer can separate from the rest, and which will conclude the person accepting. A qualified acceptance is a new proposal."

■ Section 39(2) of the Restatement Second of Contracts provides that "[a]n offeree's power of acceptance is terminated by his making of a counter-offer, unless the offeror has manifested a contrary intention or unless the counteroffer manifests a contrary intention of the offeree."

■ Cases provide that "a qualified acceptance amounts to a new proposal or counter-offer putting an end to the original offer. ... A counter-offer containing a condition different from that in the original offer is a new proposal and, if not accepted by the original offeror, amounts to nothing." (Apablaza v. Merritt and Co. (1959) 176 Cal.App.2d 719, 726 [1 Cal.Rptr. 500] , internal citations omitted.) More succinctly: "The rejection of an offer kills the offer." (Stanley v. Robert S. Odell and Co. (1950) 97 Cal.App.2d 521, 534 [218 P.2d 162] .)

■ "[T]erms proposed in an offer must be met exactly, precisely and unequivocally for its acceptance to result in the formation of a binding contract; and a qualified acceptance amounts to a new proposal or counteroffer putting an end to the original offer." (Panagotacos v. Bank of America (1998) 60 Cal.App.4th 851, 855-856 [70 Cal.Rptr.2d 595] .)

■ The original offer terminates as soon as the rejection is communicated to the offeror: "It is hornbook law that an unequivocal rejection by an offeree, communicated to the offeror, terminates the offer; even if the offeror does no further act, the offeree cannot later purport to accept the offer and thereby create enforceable contractual rights against the offeror." (Beverly Way Associates, supra, 226 Cal.App.3d at p. 55 .)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, § 163

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.22 (Matthew Bender)

5 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 50, Contracts, § 50.352 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, §§ 75.212 -75.214 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 13, Attacking or Defending Existence of Contract--Absence of Essential Element, 13.23 -13.24

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.68.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Counter Offers: CACI No. 311 parallels CACI No. 309 regarding acceptance of an offer. The second clause of this instruction is important in cases where there has been a counter offer, because a counter offer operates as a rejection of the original offer.

By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Using CACI No. 311: As compared to most of the other instructions in this chapter, the idea of a contract "rejection" should be more easily understood by most jurors. By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationOffersRejections

85 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

*1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 312CACI 312 Substantial Performance

[Name of defendant] contends that [name of plaintiff] did not perform all of the things that [he/she/it] was required to do under the contract, and therefore [name of defendant] did not have to perform [his/her/its] obligations under the contract. To overcome this contention, [name of plaintiff] must prove both of the following:

- 1. That [name of plaintiff] made a good faith effort to comply with the contract; and
- 2. That [name of defendant] received essentially what the contract called for because [name of plaintiff]'s failures, if any, were so trivial or unimportant that they could have been easily fixed or paid for.

New September 2003

Do not give this instruction unless the defendant has testified or offered other evidence in support of his or her contention.

■ " 'Substantial performance means that there has been no willful departure from the terms of the contract, and no omission of any of its essential parts, and that the contractor has in good faith performed all of its substantive terms. If so, he will not be held to have forfeited his right to a recovery by reason of trivial defects or imperfections in the work performed.' " (Connell v. Higgins (1915) 170 Cal. 541, 556 [150 P. 769] , citation omitted.)

■ The Supreme Court has cited the following passage from Witkin with approval: "At common law, recovery under a contract for work done was dependent upon a complete performance, although hardship might be avoided by permitting recovery in quantum meruit. The prevailing doctrine today, which finds its application chiefly in building contracts, is that substantial performance is sufficient, and justifies an action on the contract, although the other party is entitled to a reduction in the amount called for by the contract, to compensate for the defects. What constitutes substantial performance is a question of fact, but it is essential that there be no wilful departure from the terms of the contract, and that the defects be such as may be easily remedied or compensated, so that the promisee may get practically what the contract calls for." (Posner v. Grunwald-Marx, Inc. (1961) 56 Cal.2d 169, 186-187 [14 Cal.Rptr. 297, 363 P.2d 313] ; see also Kossler v. Palm Springs Developments, Ltd. (1980) 101 Cal.App.3d 88, 101 [161 Cal.Rptr. 423] .)

■ "Whether, in any case, such defects or omissions are substantial, or merely unimportant mistakes that have been or may be corrected, is generally a question of fact." (Connell, supra, 170 Cal. at pp. 556-557, internal citation omitted.)

■ "The doctrine of substantial performance has been recognized in California since at least 1921, when the California Supreme Court decided the landmark case of Thomas Haverty Co. v. Jones [citation], in which the court stated: "The general rule on the subject of [contractual] performance is that "Where a person agrees to do a thing for another for a specified sum of money to be paid on full performance, he is not entitled to any part of the sum until he has himself done the thing he agreed to do, unless full performance has been excused, prevented, or delayed by the act of the other party, or by operation of law, or by the act of God or the public enemy." [Citation.] [P] ... [I]t is settled, especially in the case of building contracts, where the owner has taken possession of the building and is enjoying the fruits of the contractor's work in the performance of the contract, that if there has been a substantial performance thereof by the contractor in good faith, where the failure to make full performance can be compensated in damages, to be deducted from the price or allowed as a counterclaim, and the omissions and deviations were not willful or fraudulent, and do not substantially affect the usefulness of the building for the purposes for which it was intended, the contractor may, in an action upon the contract, recover the amount unpaid of his contract price less the amount allowed as damages for the failure in strict performance. [Citations.]" (Murray's Iron Works, Inc. v. Boyce (2008) 158 Cal.App.4th 1279, 1291-1292 [71 Cal.Rptr.3d 317] .)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 818-819

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.23 (Matthew Bender)

5 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 50, Contracts, §§ 50.30, 50.31 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.230 (Matthew Bender)

2 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 22, Suing or Defending Action for Breach of Contract, 22.08[2], 22.16[2], 22.37, 22.69

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI Nos. 10.71, 10.82, 10.83, and 10.84.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care With Substantial Performance:

"Substantial performance" is not a simple idea for attorneys, let alone jurors. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Required Proof: CACI No. 312 requires proof that the non-performance was not important (or could be easily fixed) and that plaintiff made a "good faith" effort to comply with the terms of the contract. A willful departure from the contract's terms may fall short of the second element. By Ronald Oster

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawPerformanceSubstantial Performance

86 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 313

CACI 313 Modification

[Name of party claiming modification] claims that the original contract was modified or changed. [Name of party claiming modification] must prove that the parties agreed to the modification. [Name of other party] denies that the contract was modified.

The parties to a contract may agree to modify its terms. You must decide whether a reasonable person would conclude from the words and conduct of the parties that they agreed to modify the contract. You cannot consider the parties' hidden intentions.

[A contract in writing may be modified by a contract in writing.]

[A contract in writing may be modified by an oral agreement to the extent the oral agreement is carried out by the parties.]

[A contract in writing may be modified by an oral agreement if the parties agree to give each other something of value.]

[An oral contract may be modified by consent of the parties, in writing, without an agreement to give each other something of value.]

New September 2003; Revised December 2009

Sources and Authority

- "It is axiomatic that the parties to an agreement may modify it." (Vella v. Hudgins (1984) 151

Cal.App.3d 515, 519 [198 Cal.Rptr. 725] .)

■ Civil Code section 1698 provides:

(a) A contract in writing may be modified by a contract in writing.

(b) A contract in writing may be modified by an oral agreement to the extent that the oral agreement is executed by the parties.

(c) Unless the contract otherwise expressly provides, a contract in writing may be modified by an oral agreement supported by new consideration. The statute of frauds (Section 1624) is required to be satisfied if the contract as modified is within its provisions.

(d) Nothing in this section precludes in an appropriate case the application of rules of law concerning estoppel, oral novation and substitution of a new agreement, rescission of a written contract by an oral agreement, waiver of a provision of a written contract, or oral independent collateral contracts.

The Law Revision Commission comment to this section observes: "The rules provided by subdivisions (b) and (c) merely describe cases where proof of an oral modification is permitted; these rules do not, however, affect in any way the burden of the party claiming that there was an oral modification to produce sufficient evidence to persuade the trier of fact that the parties actually did make an oral modification of the contract."

■ Civil Code section 1697 provides: "A contract not in writing may be modified in any respect by consent of the parties, in writing, without a new consideration, and is extinguished thereby to the extent of the modification."

■ "Another issue of fact appearing in the evidence is whether the written contract was modified by executed oral agreements. This can be a question of fact. An agreement to modify a written contract will be implied if the conduct of the parties is inconsistent with the written contract so as to warrant the conclusion that the parties intended to modify it." (Daugherty Co. v. Kimberly-Clark Corp. (1971) 14 Cal.App.3d 151, 158 [92 Cal.Rptr. 120] , internal citation omitted.)

■ "Modification is a change in the obligation by a modifying agreement which requires mutual assent." (Wade v. Diamond A Cattle Co. (1975) 44 Cal.App.3d 453, 457 [118 Cal.Rptr. 695] .)

■ "A contract can, of course, be subsequently modified with the assent of the parties thereto, provided the same elements essential to the validity of the original contract are present." (Carlson, Collins, Gordon & Bold v. Banducci (1967) 257 Cal.App.2d 212, 223 [64 Cal.Rptr. 915] , internal citations omitted.)

■ Consideration is unnecessary if the modification is to correct errors and omissions. (Texas Co. v. Todd (1937) 19 Cal.App.2d 174, 185-186 [64 P.2d 1180] .)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 964-971

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, §§ 140.112, 140.149 -140.152 (Matthew Bender)

5 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 50, Contracts, §§ 50.520 -50.523 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations, §§ 77.21, 77.121, 77.320 -77.323 (Matthew Bender)

2 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 21, Asserting a Particular Construction of Contract, 21.58

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.69.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral
OverviewContracts LawContract ModificationsGeneral OverviewContracts LawContract ModificationsOral
ModificationsContracts LawContract ModificationsPreexisting Duties

87 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 314

CACI 314 Interpretation--Disputed Term

[Name of plaintiff] and [name of defendant] dispute the meaning of the following term contained in their contract: [insert text of term].

[Name of plaintiff] claims that the term means [insert plaintiff's interpretation of the term]. [Name of defendant] claims that the term means [insert defendant's interpretation of the term]. [Name of plaintiff] must prove that [his/her/its] interpretation of the term is correct.

In deciding what the terms of a contract mean, you must decide what the parties intended at the time the contract was created. You may consider the usual and ordinary meaning of the language used in the contract as well as the circumstances surrounding the making of the contract.

[The following instructions may also help you interpret the terms of the contract:]

New September 2003

Read any of the following instructions (as appropriate) on tools for interpretation (CACI Nos. 315 through 320) after reading the last bracketed sentence.

- Section 200 of the Restatement Second of Contracts provides: "Interpretation of a promise or agreement or a term thereof is the ascertainment of its meaning."
- Civil Code section 1636 provides: "A contract must be so interpreted as to give effect to the mutual intention of the parties as it existed at the time of contracting, so far as the same is ascertainable and lawful."

- Civil Code section 1647 provides: "A contract may be explained by reference to the circumstances under which it was made, and the matter to which it relates."

- "Juries are not prohibited from interpreting contracts. Interpretation of a written instrument becomes solely a judicial function only when it is based on the words of the instrument alone, when there is no conflict in the extrinsic evidence, or a determination was made based on incompetent evidence. But when, as here, ascertaining the intent of the parties at the time the contract was executed depends on the credibility of extrinsic evidence, that credibility determination and the interpretation of the contract are questions of fact that may properly be resolved by the jury." (City of Hope National Medical Center v. Genentech, Inc. (2008) 43 Cal.4th 375, 395 [75 Cal.Rptr.3d 333, 181 P.3d 142] , footnote and internal citations omitted.)

- California courts apply an objective test to determine the intent of the parties: "In interpreting a contract, the objective intent, as evidenced by the words of the contract is controlling. We interpret the intent and scope of the agreement by focusing on the usual and ordinary meaning of the language used and the circumstances under which the agreement was made." (Lloyd's Underwriters v. Craig & Rush, Inc. (1994) 26 Cal.App.4th 1194, 1197-1198 [32 Cal.Rptr.2d 144] , internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 741-743

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.32 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.15 (Matthew Bender)

2 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 21, Asserting a Particular Construction of Contract, 21.04[2][b], 21.14[2]

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.75.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Issues for Court and Jury: Interpretation of a contract is normally within the province of the court. However, conflicting extrinsic evidence can create a jury issue. Remember that unexpressed beliefs as to the meaning of the contract are not relevant (see, e.g., CACI No. 302 for instruction that the jury "may not consider the parties' hidden intentions"). By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Interpreting Contracts: Some jurors will be skeptical of an instruction that the jury should interpret the contract, especially by what was meant at the contract's inception. Therefore, be careful how the closing is presented. By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General Overview Contracts Law Contract Interpretation General Overview Contracts Law Contract Interpretation Good Faith &

Fair DealingEvidenceDocumentary EvidenceParol Evidence

88 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 315

CACI 315 Interpretation--Meaning of Ordinary Words

You should assume that the parties intended the words in their contract to have their usual and ordinary meaning unless you decide that the parties intended the words to have a special meaning.

New September 2003

- Civil Code section 1644 provides: "The words of a contract are to be understood in their ordinary and popular sense, rather than according to their strict legal meaning; unless used by the parties in a technical sense, or unless a special meaning is given to them by usage, in which case the latter must be followed."

- "Under statutory rules of contract interpretation, the mutual intention of the parties at the time the contract is formed governs interpretation. Such intent is to be inferred, if possible, solely from the written provisions of the contract. The 'clear and explicit' meaning of these provisions, interpreted in their 'ordinary and popular sense,' unless 'used by the parties in a technical sense or a special meaning is given to them by usage,' controls judicial interpretation. Thus, if the meaning a layperson would ascribe to contract language is not ambiguous, we apply that meaning." (Santisas v. Goodin (1998) 17 Cal.4th 599, 608 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 830, 951 P.2d 399] , internal citations omitted.)

- "Generally speaking, words in a contract are to be construed according to their plain, ordinary, popular or legal meaning, as the case may be. However, particular expressions may, by trade usage, acquire a different meaning in reference to the subject matter of a contract. If both parties are engaged in that trade, the parties to the contract are deemed to have used them according to their different and peculiar sense as shown by such trade usage and parol evidence is admissible to establish the trade usage even though the words in their ordinary or legal meaning are entirely unambiguous. [Citation.]" (Hayter Trucking Inc. v. Shell Western E & P, Inc. (1993) 18 Cal.App.4th 1, 15 [22 Cal.Rptr.2d 229] .)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, § 745

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.32 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.15 (Matthew Bender)

2 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 21, Asserting a Particular Construction of Contract, 21.20

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.75.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Interpreting Contracts: Some jurors will be uncertain of the role of interpreting a contract's meaning [see also Practice Tip in CACI No. 314]. However, the idea of applying the "usual and ordinary meaning" will be an easier task. By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General Overview Contracts Law Contract Interpretation General Overview

89 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 316

CACI 316 Interpretation--Meaning of Technical Words

You should assume that the parties intended technical words used in the contract to have the meaning that is usually given to them by people who work in that technical field, unless you decide that the parties clearly used the words in a different sense.

New September 2003

- Civil Code section 1645 provides: "Technical words are to be interpreted as usually understood by persons in the profession or business to which they relate, unless clearly used in a different sense."

- A court will look beyond the terms of the writing where it appears that the parties intended to ascribe a technical meaning to the terms used. (Cooper Companies, Inc. v. Transcontinental Insurance Co. (1995) 31 Cal.App.4th 1094, 1101 [37 Cal.Rptr.2d 508] .)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, § 745

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.32 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.15 (Matthew Bender)

2 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 21, Asserting a Particular Construction of Contract, 21.22

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.75.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Expert Testimony: Most jurors will be bothered by "technical words," especially jurors who are not that educated or experienced. Depending on the importance of the term being interpreted, it may be necessary to use expert testimony to establish the meaning of technical terms. This expert testimony can be supplied by the party's own personnel if they have the requisite background and experience. By Rex Heeseman and Ronald Oster

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawContract InterpretationGeneral Overview

90 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 317

CACI 317 Interpretation--Construction of Contract as a Whole

In deciding what the words of a contract meant to the parties, you should consider the whole contract, not just isolated parts. You should use each part to help you interpret the others, so that all the parts make sense when taken together.

New September 2003

- Civil Code section 1641 provides: "The whole of a contract is to be taken together, so as to give effect to every part, if reasonably practicable, each clause helping to interpret the other."
- "[T]he contract must be construed as a whole and the intention of the parties must be ascertained from the consideration of the entire contract, not some isolated portion." (County of Marin v. Assessment Appeals Bd. of Marin County (1976) 64 Cal.App.3d 319, 324-325 [134 Cal.Rptr. 349] .)
- Contracts should be construed as a whole, with each clause lending meaning to the others. Contractual language should be interpreted in a manner that gives force and effect to every clause rather than to one that renders clauses nugatory, inoperative, or meaningless. (City of Atascadero v. Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith (1998) 68 Cal.App.4th 445, 473 [80 Cal.Rptr.2d 329]; Titan Corp. v. Aetna Casualty and Surety Co. (1994) 22 Cal.App.4th 457, 473-474 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 476] .)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 746-747

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.32 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.15 (Matthew Bender)

2 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 21, Asserting a Particular Construction of Contract, 21.19

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.75.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Using CACI No. 317: This instruction uses general language that may not be very helpful to a jury (e.g., all the parts of a contract have to "make sense" when taken together). If you can show that your opponent's interpretation will defeat the very purpose of the contract, you can show that the interpretation does not "make sense." However, if your opponent's interpretation merely makes performance more difficult, or reduces the benefits to be received, this instruction is less useful. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care with Argument: Sometimes, it will help most jurors in evaluating a contract in its whole. But, other times, that approach will be daunting to some jurors. Hence, in most lawsuits this argument should be carefully detailed. By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General Overview Contracts Law Contract Interpretation General Overview Contracts Law Formation Meeting of Minds

91 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 318

CACI 318 Interpretation--Construction by Conduct

In deciding what the words in a contract meant to the parties, you may consider how the parties acted after the contract was created but before any disagreement between the parties arose.

New September 2003

- "In construing contract terms, the construction given the contract by the acts and conduct of the parties with knowledge of its terms, and before any controversy arises as to its meaning, is relevant on the issue of the parties' intent." (Southern Pacific Transportation Co. v. Santa Fe Pacific Pipelines, Inc. (1999) 74 Cal.App.4th 1232, 1242 [88 Cal.Rptr.2d 777] .)

- This instruction covers the "rule of practical construction." This rule "is predicated on the common sense concept that 'actions speak louder than words.' Words are frequently but an imperfect medium to convey thought and intention. When the parties to a contract perform under it and demonstrate by their conduct that they knew what they were talking about the courts should enforce that intent." (Crestview Cemetery Assn. v. Dieden (1960) 54 Cal.2d 744, 754 [8 Cal.Rptr. 427, 356 P.2d 171] .)

- "The conduct of the parties after execution of the contract and before any controversy has arisen as to its effect affords the most reliable evidence of the parties' intentions." (Kennecott Corp. v. Union Oil Co. of California (1987) 196 Cal.App.3d 1179, 1189 [242 Cal.Rptr. 403] .)

- "[T]his rule is not limited to the joint conduct of the parties in the course of performance of the contract. As stated in Corbin on Contracts, 'The practical interpretation of the contract by one party, evidenced by his words or acts, can be used against him on behalf of the other party, even though that other party had no knowledge of those words or acts when they occurred and did not concur in them. In the litigation that has ensued, one who is maintaining the same interpretation that is evidenced by the other party's earlier words, and acts, can introduce them to support his contention.' We emphasize the conduct of one party to the contract is by no means conclusive evidence as to the meaning of the contract. It is relevant, however, to show the contract is reasonably susceptible to the meaning evidenced by that party's conduct." (Southern California Edison Co. v. Superior Court (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 839, 851 [44 Cal.Rptr.2d 227], internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, § 749

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.32 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 13, Attacking or Defending Existence of Contract--Absence of Essential Element, 13.51

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.75.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Argument Should Be Straightforward:

"Conduct" is a term that will be familiar to most jurors. Thus, the related oral argument should be relatively straightforward. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Using CACI No. 318: This instruction can be very helpful in cases where a party has changed positions with an eye toward litigation. Many jurors are instinctively skeptical of legal positions that are taken "after the lawyers got involved." Conversely, evidence of how the parties acted beforehand can be especially persuasive and should be emphasized. By Ronald Oster

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General Overview Contracts Law Contract Interpretation General Overview Contracts Law Contract Interpretation Parol Evidence Course of Dealing Contracts Law Contract Interpretation Parol Evidence Custom & Usage

92 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 319

CACI 319 Interpretation--Reasonable Time

If a contract does not state a specific time in which the parties are to meet the requirements of the contract, then the parties must meet them within a reasonable time. What is a reasonable time depends on the facts of each case, including the subject matter of the contract, the reasons each party entered into the contract, and the intentions of the parties at the time they entered the contract.

New September 2003

- Civil Code section 1657 provides: "If no time is specified for the performance of an act required to be performed, a reasonable time is allowed. If the act is in its nature capable of being done instantly--as, for example, if it consists in the payment of money only--it must be performed immediately upon the thing to be done being exactly ascertained."

- This rule of construction applies where the contract is silent as to the time of performance. (See Palmquist v. Palmquist (1963) 212 Cal.App.2d 322, 331 [27 Cal.Rptr. 744] .)

- The reasonableness of time for performance is a question of fact that depends on the circumstances of the particular case. (Lyon v. Goss (1942) 19 Cal.2d 659, 673 [123 P.2d 11] ; Consolidated World Investments, Inc. v. Lido Preferred Ltd. (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 373, 381 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 524] .) These circumstances include the situation of the parties, the nature of the transaction, and the facts of the particular case. (Sawday v. Vista Irrigation Dist. (1966) 64 Cal.2d 833, 836 [52 Cal.Rptr. 1, 415 P.2d 816] .)

Secondary Sources

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 319

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 762-764

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.41 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.15 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 13, Attacking or Defending Existence of Contract--Absence of Essential Element, 13.49

2 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 21, Asserting a Particular Construction of Contract, 21.30

2 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 22, Suing or Defending Action for Breach of Contract, 22.46

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.75.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Analogies: "Reasonable time" is a term with which most attorneys are comfortable--but that is probably not the situation with a majority of jurors. So, think about a jury argument that uses analogies to explain this term. By Rex Heeseman

93 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 320

CACI 320 Interpretation--Construction Against Drafter

In determining the meaning of a term of the contract, you must first consider all of the other instructions that I have given you. If, after considering these instructions, you still cannot agree on the meaning of the term, then you should interpret the contract term against [the party that drafted the term] [the party that caused the uncertainty].

New September 2003

This instruction should be given only to a deadlocked jury, so as to avoid giving them this tool to resolve the case before they have truly exhausted the other avenues of approach.

- Civil Code section 1654 provides: "In case of uncertainty not removed by the preceding rules, the language of a contract should be interpreted most strongly against the party who caused the uncertainty to exist."

- Section 1654 states the general rule, but this canon does not operate to the exclusion of all other rules of contract interpretation. It is used only when none of the canons of construction succeed in dispelling the uncertainty. (Pacific Gas & Electric Co. v. Superior Court (1993) 15 Cal.App.4th 576, 596 [19 Cal.Rptr.2d 295] , disapproved on other grounds in Advanced Micro Devices, Inc. v. Intel Corp. (1994) 9 Cal.4th 362, 376-377 [36 Cal.Rptr.2d 581, 885 P.2d 994] .)

- "The trial court's instruction ... embodies a general rule of contract interpretation that was applicable to the negotiated agreement between [the parties]. It may well be that in a particular situation the discussions and exchanges between the parties in the negotiation process may make it difficult or even impossible for the jury to determine which party caused a particular contractual ambiguity to exist, but this added complexity does not make the underlying rule irrelevant or inappropriate for a jury instruction. We conclude, accordingly, that the trial court here did not err in instructing the jury on Civil Code section 1654's general rule of contract interpretation." (City of Hope National Medical Center v. Genentech, Inc. (2008) 43 Cal.4th 375, 398 [75 Cal.Rptr.3d 333, 181 P.3d 142] .)

■ This rule is applied more strongly in the case of adhesion contracts. (Badie v. Bank of America (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 779, 801 [79 Cal.Rptr.2d 273] .) It also applies with greater force when the person who prepared the writing is a lawyer. (Mayhew v. Benninghoff (1997) 53 Cal.App.4th 1365, 1370 [62 Cal.Rptr.2d 27] .)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, § 757

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.32 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.15 (Matthew Bender)

2 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 21, Asserting a Particular Construction of Contract, 21.15

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.75.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Using CACI No. 320: If the case involves a form contract that was clearly drafted by one side (e.g., an insurance policy), this instruction can be very helpful. However, in many commercial contexts, the parties negotiate the terms of the contract with both sides participating to some extent in the drafting. These situations make it more difficult to apply the instruction. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Using CACI No. 320: If you are representing the party that did not draft the term in question, this instruction should be emphasized as it often provides the jury with a relatively painless way to decide. By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General Overview Contracts Law Contract Interpretation General Overview

94 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 321

CACI 321 Existence of Condition Precedent Disputed

[Name of defendant] claims that the contract with [name of plaintiff] provides that [he/she/it] was not required to [insert duty] unless [insert condition precedent].

[Name of defendant] must prove that the parties agreed to this condition. If [name of defendant] proves this, then [name of plaintiff] must prove that [insert condition precedent].

If [name of plaintiff] does not prove that [insert condition precedent], then [name of defendant] was not required to [insert duty].

New September 2003

This instruction should only be given where both the existence and the occurrence of a condition precedent are contested. If only the occurrence of a condition precedent is contested, use CACI No. 322, Occurrence of Agreed Condition Precedent.

- Civil Code section 1434 provides: "An obligation is conditional, when the rights or duties of any party thereto depend upon the occurrence of an uncertain event."

- Civil Code section 1436 provides: "A condition precedent is one which is to be performed before some right dependent thereon accrues, or some act dependent thereon is performed."

- "Under the law of contracts, parties may expressly agree that a right or duty is conditional upon the occurrence or nonoccurrence of an act or event." (Platt Pacific, Inc. v. Andelson (1993) 6 Cal.4th 307, 313 [24 Cal.Rptr.2d 597, 862 P.2d 158] .)

■ "A condition is a fact, the happening or nonhappening of which creates (condition precedent) or extinguishes (condition subsequent) a duty on the part of the promisor. If the promisor makes an absolute or unconditional promise, he is bound to perform when the time arrives; but if he makes a conditional promise, he binds himself to perform only if the condition precedent occurs, or is relieved from the duty if the condition subsequent occurs. The condition may be the happening of an event, or an act of a party." (1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, § 776.)

■ "[W]here defendant's duty to perform under the contract is conditioned on the happening of some event, the plaintiff must prove the event transpired." (Consolidated World Investments, Inc. v. Lido Preferred Ltd. (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 373, 380 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 524] .)

■ "When a contract establishes the satisfaction of one of the parties as a condition precedent, two tests are recognized: (1) The party is bound to make his decision according to the judicially discerned, objective standard of a reasonable person; (2) the party may make a subjective decision regardless of reasonableness, controlled only by the need for good faith. Which test applies in a given transaction is a matter of actual or judicially inferred intent. Absent an explicit contractual direction or one implied from the subject matter, the law prefers the objective, i.e., reasonable person, test." (Guntert v. City of Stockton (1974) 43 Cal.App.3d 203, 209 [117 Cal.Rptr. 601] , internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 780-791

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, §§ 140.44, 140.101 (Matthew Bender)

5 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 50, Contracts, §§ 50.20 -50.22 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.230 (Matthew Bender)

2 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 22, Suing or Defending Action for Breach of Contract, 22.19, 22.66

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.80.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Using CACI No. 321: This is a difficult instruction for most jurors and some judges. Thus, exercise care in the way you approach it. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Avoid Using Legal Terms: The concepts of "conditions precedent" and "conditions subsequent" can be very confusing. Avoid these legal terms at all costs, and try to explain the deal in the simplest possible terms. Consider the use of graphics in your case-in-chief and closing argument to describe deals that involve several options. By Ronald Oster

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General

OverviewContracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsConditions PrecedentContracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsConditions SubsequentContracts LawContract InterpretationGeneral Overview

95 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 322

CACI 322 Occurrence of Agreed Condition Precedent

The parties agreed in their contract that [name of defendant] would not have to [insert duty] unless [insert condition precedent]. [Name of defendant] contends that this condition did not occur and that [he/she/it] did not have to [insert duty]. To overcome this contention, [name of plaintiff] must prove that [insert condition precedent].

If [name of plaintiff] does not prove that [insert condition precedent], then [name of defendant] was not required to [insert duty].

New September 2003

Do not give this instruction unless the defendant has testified or offered other evidence in support of his or her contention.

If both the existence and the occurrence of a condition precedent are contested, use CACI No. 321, Existence of Condition Precedent Disputed.

- Civil Code section 1434 provides: "An obligation is conditional, when the rights or duties of any party thereto depend upon the occurrence of an uncertain event."

- Civil Code section 1436 provides: "A condition precedent is one which is to be performed before some right dependent thereon accrues, or some act dependent thereon is performed."

- "Under the law of contracts, parties may expressly agree that a right or duty is conditional upon the occurrence or nonoccurrence of an act or event." (Platt Pacific, Inc. v. Andelson (1993) 6 Cal.4th 307, 313 [24 Cal.Rptr.2d 597, 862 P.2d 158] .)

■ "A condition is a fact, the happening or nonhappening of which creates (condition precedent) or extinguishes (condition subsequent) a duty on the part of the promisor. If the promisor makes an absolute or unconditional promise, he is bound to perform when the time arrives; but if he makes a conditional promise, he binds himself to perform only if the condition precedent occurs, or is relieved from the duty if the condition subsequent occurs. The condition may be the happening of an event, or an act of a party." (1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, § 776.)

■ Section 224 of the Restatement Second of Contracts provides: "A condition is an event, not certain to occur, which must occur, unless its non-occurrence is excused, before performance under a contract becomes due."

■ Section 225 of the Restatement Second of Contracts provides:

(1) Performance of a duty subject to a condition cannot become due unless the condition occurs or its non-occurrence is excused.

(2) Unless it has been excused, the non-occurrence of a condition discharges the duty when the condition can no longer occur.

(3) Non-occurrence of a condition is not a breach by a party unless he is under a duty that the condition occur.

■ "[W]here defendant's duty to perform under the contract is conditioned on the happening of some event, the plaintiff must prove the event transpired." (Consolidated World Investments, Inc. v. Lido Preferred Ltd. (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 373, 380 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 524] .)

■ "When a contract establishes the satisfaction of one of the parties as a condition precedent, two tests are recognized: (1) The party is bound to make his decision according to the judicially discerned, objective standard of a reasonable person; (2) the party may make a subjective decision regardless of reasonableness, controlled only by the need for good faith. Which test applies in a given transaction is a matter of actual or judicially inferred intent. Absent an explicit contractual direction or one implied from the subject matter, the law prefers the objective, i.e., reasonable person, test." (Gunter v. City of Stockton (1974) 43 Cal.App.3d 203, 209 [117 Cal.Rptr. 601] , internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 776-791

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, §§ 140.44, 140.101 (Matthew Bender)

5 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 50, Contracts, §§ 50.20 -50.22 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.230 (Matthew Bender)

2 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 22, Suing or Defending Action for Breach of Contract, 22.19, 22.66

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.80.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip-- CACI No. 322 Presents Challenges: CACI No. 322 presents a challenging argument to make the jurors understand what they should decide. Consider using graphics to describe deals that involve several options that depend on underlying facts. By Rex Heeseman and Ronald Oster

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsConditions PrecedentContracts LawContract InterpretationGeneral Overview

96 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 323

CACI 323 Waiver of Condition Precedent

[Name of plaintiff] and [name of defendant] agreed in their contract that [name of defendant] would not have to [insert duty] unless [insert condition precedent]. That condition did not occur. Therefore, [name of defendant] contends that [he/she/it] did not have to [insert duty].

To overcome this contention, [name of plaintiff] must prove that [name of defendant], by words or conduct, gave up [his/her/its] right to require [insert condition precedent] before having to [insert duty].

New September 2003

Do not give this instruction unless the defendant has testified or offered other evidence in support of his or her contention.

- "Ordinarily, a plaintiff cannot recover on a contract without alleging and proving performance or prevention or waiver of performance of conditions precedent and willingness and ability to perform conditions concurrent." (Roseleaf Corp. v. Radis (1953) 122 Cal.App.2d 196, 206 [264 P.2d 964] .)

- "A condition is waived when a promisor by his words or conduct justifies the promisee in believing that a conditional promise will be performed despite the failure to perform the condition, and the promisee relies upon the promisor's manifestations to his substantial detriment." (Sosin v. Richardson (1962) 210 Cal.App.2d 258, 264 [26 Cal.Rptr. 610] .)

- Waiver of a condition is a question of fact and not of law. (Moss v. Minor Properties, Inc. (1968) 262 Cal.App.2d 847, 857 [69 Cal.Rptr. 341] .)

■ Section 84 of the Restatement Second of Contracts provides:

(1) Except as stated in Subsection (2), a promise to perform all or part of a conditional duty under an antecedent contract in spite of the non-occurrence of the condition is binding, whether the promise is made before or after the time for the condition to occur, unless

(a) occurrence of the condition was a material part of the agreed exchange for the performance of the duty and the promisee was under no duty that it occur; or

(b) uncertainty of the occurrence of the condition was an element of the risk assumed by the promisor.

(2) If such a promise is made before the time for the occurrence of the condition has expired and the condition is within the control of the promisee or a beneficiary, the promisor can make his duty again subject to the condition by notifying the promisee or beneficiary of his intention to do so if

(a) the notification is received while there is still a reasonable time to cause the condition to occur under the antecedent terms or an extension given by the promisor; and

(b) reinstatement of the requirement of the condition is not unjust because of a material change of position by the promisee or beneficiary; and

(c) the promise is not binding apart from the rule stated in Subsection (1).

Secondary Sources

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 8, Seeking or Opposing Equitable Remedies in Contract Actions, 8.48

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.81.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Explain CACI No. 323 Carefully: This is an instruction that will generally need to be explained carefully. By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsConditions PrecedentContracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsWaiversGeneral OverviewContracts LawContract InterpretationGeneral Overview

97 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 324

CACI 324 Anticipatory Breach

A party can breach, or break, a contract before performance is required by clearly and positively indicating, by words or conduct, that he or she will not or can not meet the requirements of the contract.

If [name of plaintiff] proves that [he/she/it] would have been able to fulfill the terms of the contract and that [name of defendant] clearly and positively indicated, by words or conduct, that [he/she/it] would not or could not meet the contract requirements, then [name of defendant] breached the contract.

New September 2003

- Civil Code section 1440 provides: "If a party to an obligation gives notice to another, before the latter is in default, that he will not perform the same upon his part, and does not retract such notice before the time at which performance upon his part is due, such other party is entitled to enforce the obligation without previously performing or offering to perform any conditions upon his part in favor of the former party."

- Courts have defined anticipatory breach as follows: "An anticipatory breach of contract occurs on the part of one of the parties to the instrument when he positively repudiates the contract by acts or statements indicating that he will not or cannot substantially perform essential terms thereof, or by voluntarily transferring to a third person the property rights which are essential to a substantial performance of the previous agreement, or by a voluntary act which renders substantial performance of the contract impossible or apparently impossible." (C. A. Crane v. East Side Canal & Irrigation Co. (1935) 6 Cal.App.2d 361, 367 [44 P.2d 455] .)

■ Anticipatory breach can be express or implied: "An express repudiation is a clear, positive, unequivocal refusal to perform; an implied repudiation results from conduct where the promisor puts it out of his power to perform so as to make substantial performance of his promise impossible." (Taylor v. Johnston (1975) 15 Cal.3d 130, 137 [123 Cal.Rptr. 641, 539 P.2d 425] .)

■ "In the event the promisor repudiates the contract before the time for his or her performance has arrived, the plaintiff has an election of remedies--he or she may 'treat the repudiation as an anticipatory breach and immediately seek damages for breach of contract, thereby terminating the contractual relation between the parties, or he [or she] can treat the repudiation as an empty threat, wait until the time for performance arrives and exercise his [or her] remedies for actual breach if a breach does in fact occur at such time.' " (Romano v. Rockwell Internat., Inc. (1996) 14 Cal.4th 479, 489 [59 Cal.Rptr.2d 20, 926 P.2d 1114] .)

■ Anticipatory breach can be used as an excuse for plaintiff's failure to substantially perform. (Gold Mining & Water Co. v. Swinerton (1943) 23 Cal.2d 19, 29 [142 P.2d 22] .)

■ "Although it is true that an anticipatory breach or repudiation of a contract by one party permits the other party to sue for damages without performing or offering to perform its own obligations, this does not mean damages can be recovered without evidence that, but for the defendant's breach, the plaintiff would have had the ability to perform." (Ersa Grae Corp. v. Fluor Corp. (1991) 1 Cal.App.4th 613, 625 [2 Cal.Rptr.2d 288] , internal citations omitted.)

■ Section 253 of the Restatement Second of Contracts provides:

(1) Where an obligor repudiates a duty before he has committed a breach by non-performance and before he has received all of the agreed exchange for it, his repudiation alone gives rise to a claim for damages for total breach.

(2) Where performances are to be exchanged under an exchange of promises, one party's repudiation of a duty to render performance discharges the other party's remaining duties to render performance.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 861-868

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, §§ 140.54, 140.105 (Matthew Bender)

5 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 50, Contracts, § 50.23 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations, §§ 77.15, 77.361 (Matthew Bender)

2 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 22, Suing or Defending Action for Breach of Contract, 22.23

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.87.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Explain Concept to Jurors: The concept of

"anticipatory repudiation" can be difficult for some jurors because a party can be held liable for breach of contract even before the time when performance has taken place. It is therefore necessary to explain to the jury that when one party in essence "tears up the contract," the law allows recovery immediately. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care When Arguing: Many attorneys and some judges will struggle with the legal principle of "anticipatory breach." Thus, the argument to the jury must be thought out clearly and carefully. By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachAnticipatory
RepudiationGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawContract
Conditions & ProvisionsGeneral Overview

98 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 325

CACI 325 Breach of Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing--Essential Factual Elements

In every contract or agreement there is an implied promise of good faith and fair dealing. This means that each party will not do anything to unfairly interfere with the right of any other party to receive the benefits of the contract; however, the implied promise of good faith and fair dealing cannot create obligations that are inconsistent with the terms of the contract. [Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] violated the duty to act fairly and in good faith. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

- 1. That [name of plaintiff] and [name of defendant] entered into a contract;
- 2. That [name of plaintiff] did all, or substantially all of the significant things that the contract required [him/her/it] to do [or that [he/she/it] was excused from having to do those things];
- 3. That all conditions required for [name of defendant]'s performance had occurred;
- 4. That [name of defendant] unfairly interfered with [name of plaintiff]'s right to receive the benefits of the contract; and
- 5. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed by [name of defendant]'s conduct.

New April 2004

This instruction should be given only when the plaintiff has brought a separate cause of action for breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing. In many cases, some of the above elements may not be contested. In those cases, users should delete the elements that are not contested so that the jury can focus on the contested issues.

■ Section 205 of the Restatement Second of Contracts provides: "Every contract imposes upon each party a duty of good faith and fair dealing in its performance and its enforcement."

■ "There is an implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing in every contract that neither party will do anything which will injure the right of the other to receive the benefits of the agreement." (Comunale v. Traders & General Ins. Co. (1958) 50 Cal.2d 654, 658 [328 P.2d 198] , internal citation omitted.)

■ " "Every contract imposes upon each party a duty of good faith and fair dealing in its performance and its enforcement." " [] The covenant of good faith finds particular application in situations where one party is invested with a discretionary power affecting the rights of another. Such power must be exercised in good faith." (Carma Developers (Cal.), Inc. v. Marathon Development California, Inc. (1992) 2 Cal.4th 342, 371-372 [6 Cal.Rptr.2d 467, 826 P.2d 710] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "The covenant of good faith and fair dealing, implied by law in every contract, exists merely to prevent one contracting party from unfairly frustrating the other party's right to receive the benefits of the agreement actually made. The covenant thus cannot ' 'be endowed with an existence independent of its contractual underpinnings.' " ' It cannot impose substantive duties or limits on the contracting parties beyond those incorporated in the specific terms of their agreement." (Guz v. Bechtel National, Inc. (2000) 24 Cal.4th 317, 349-350 [100 Cal.Rptr.2d 352, 8 P.3d 1089] , internal citations omitted, original italics.)

■ "The implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing rests upon the existence of some specific contractual obligation. The covenant of good faith is read into contracts in order to protect the express covenants or promises of the contract, not to protect some general public policy interest not directly tied to the contract's purpose.' ... 'In essence, the covenant is implied as a supplement to the express contractual covenants, to prevent a contracting party from engaging in conduct which (while not technically transgressing the express covenants) frustrates the other party's rights to the benefits of the contract.' " (Racine & Laramie, Ltd. v. Department of Parks & Recreation (1992) 11 Cal.App.4th 1026, 1031-1032 [14 Cal.Rptr.2d 335] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "There is no obligation to deal fairly or in good faith absent an existing contract. If there exists a contractual relationship between the parties ... the implied covenant is limited to assuring compliance with the express terms of the contract, and cannot be extended to create obligations not contemplated in the contract." (Racine & Laramie, Ltd., supra, 11 Cal.App.4th at p. 1032 , internal citations omitted.)

■ "The issue of whether the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing has been breached is ordinarily 'a question of fact unless only one inference [can] be drawn from the evidence.' " (Hicks v. E.T. Legg & Associates (2001) 89 Cal.App.4th 496, 509 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 10] , internal citation omitted.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 798, 800-802

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, §§ 140.12, 140.50 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

2 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 23, Suing or Defending Action for Breach of Duty of Good Faith and Fair Dealing, 23.05

Publisher's Notes

For related BAJI instructions in the context of an employment contract, see BAJI Nos. 10.05, 10.35, 10.37, and 10.38.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care When Arguing: CACI No. 325 is an instruction dealing with a legal concept that will be difficult for almost all jurors to understand and apply. Needless to say then, the related argument should be constructed thoughtfully. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Using CACI No. 325: This instruction can be very helpful in situations where one party is relying on the fine print, strained interpretations, or other technicalities to evade obligations under a contract. Since the language of CACI No. 325 is very general (e.g., a party cannot do anything to "unfairly" interfere with the right of the other party to receive the contract's benefits), this instruction can be applied to many different fact situations. Moreover, CACI No. 325 allows plaintiff's counsel to argue that the "morals of the market place" must yield to the law's higher requirements of "good faith and fair dealings." By Ronald Oster

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General Overview Contracts Law Contract Interpretation Good Faith & Fair Dealing

99 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 326

CACI 326 Assignment Contested

[Name of plaintiff] was not a party to the original contract. However, [name of plaintiff] may bring a claim for breach of the contract if [he/she/it] proves that [name of assignor] transferred [his/her/its] rights under the contract to [name of plaintiff]. This transfer is referred to as an "assignment."

[Name of plaintiff] must prove that [name of assignor] intended to transfer [his/her/its] contract rights to [name of plaintiff]. In deciding [name of assignor]'s intent, you should consider the entire transaction and the conduct of the parties to the assignment.

[A transfer of contract rights does not necessarily have to be made in writing. It may be oral or implied by the conduct of the parties to the assignment.]

New February 2005

The bracketed third paragraph should be used only in cases involving a transfer that may be made without a writing.

- Civil Code section 1052 provides: "A transfer may be made without writing, in every case in which a writing is not expressly required by statute."

- Restatement Second of Contracts, section 324, provides: "It is essential to an assignment of a right that the obligee manifest an intention to transfer the right to another person without further action or manifestation of intention by the obligee. The manifestation may be made to the other or to a third person on his behalf and, except as provided by statute or by contract, may be made either orally or by a writing."

■ "While no particular form of assignment is required, it is essential to the assignment of a right that the assignor manifest an intention to transfer the right." (Sunburst Bank v. Executive Life Insurance Co. (1994) 24 Cal.App.4th 1156, 1164 [29 Cal.Rptr.2d 734] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "The burden of proving an assignment falls upon the party asserting rights thereunder. In an action by an assignee to enforce an assigned right, the evidence must not only be sufficient to establish the fact of assignment when that fact is in issue, but the measure of sufficiency requires that the evidence of assignment be clear and positive to protect an obligor from any further claim by the primary obligee." (Cockerell v. Title Insurance & Trust Co. (1954) 42 Cal.2d 284, 292 [267 P.2d 16] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "The accrued right to collect the proceeds of the fire insurance policy is a chose in action, and an effective assignment thereof may be expressed orally as well as in writing; may be the product of inference; and where the parties to a transaction involving such a policy by their conduct indicate an intention to transfer such proceeds, the courts will imply an assignment thereof. In making such a determination, substance and not form controls." (Greco v. Oregon Mutual Fire Insurance Co. (1961) 191 Cal.App.2d 674, 683 [12 Cal.Rptr. 802] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "An assignor may not maintain an action upon a claim after making an absolute assignment of it to another; his right to demand performance is extinguished, the assignee acquiring such right. To 'assign' ordinarily means to transfer title or ownership of property, but an assignment, to be effective, must include manifestation to another person by the owner of his intention to transfer the right, without further action, to such other person or to a third person. It is the substance and not the form of a transaction which determines whether an assignment was intended. If from the entire transaction and the conduct of the parties it clearly appears that the intent of the parties was to pass title to the chose in action, then an assignment will be held to have taken place." (McCown v. Spencer (1970) 8 Cal.App.3d 216, 225 [87 Cal.Rptr. 213] , internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 707-719

6 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 60, Assignments, § 60.20 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 76, Assignments of Rights and Obligations, § 76.201 (Matthew Bender)

2 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 22, Suing or Defending Action for Breach of Contract, 22.51 -22.56, 22.58, 22.59

Publisher's Notes

For a related BAJI instruction, see BAJI No. 10.96.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Closing Should be Focused: "Assignment" is a term that should be somewhat familiar to most jurors. However, applying it in a lawsuit may sometimes be difficult. Hence, the closing argument should be focused. By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral
OverviewContracts LawPerformanceAssignmentGeneral OverviewContracts
LawPerformanceAssignmentConsentContracts LawPerformanceAssignmentNonassignability Clauses

100 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 327

CACI 327 Assignment Not Contested

[Name of plaintiff] was not a party to the original contract. However, [he/she/it] may bring a claim for breach of contract because [name of assignor] transferred the rights under the contract to [name of plaintiff]. This transfer is referred to as an "assignment."

New February 2005

This instruction is intended to explain to the jury why a party not named in the original contract is nevertheless a party to the case.

- Civil Code section 1052 provides: "A transfer may be made without writing, in every case in which a writing is not expressly required by statute."

- Restatement Second of Contracts, section 324, provides: "It is essential to an assignment of a right that the obligee manifest an intention to transfer the right to another person without further action or manifestation of intention by the obligee. The manifestation may be made to the other or to a third person on his behalf and, except as provided by statute or by contract, may be made either orally or by a writing."

- "To 'assign' ordinarily means to transfer title or ownership of property, but an assignment, to be effective, must include manifestation to another person by the owner of his intention to transfer the right, without further action, to such other person or to a third person. It is the substance and not the form of a transaction which determines whether an assignment was intended. If from the entire transaction and the conduct of the parties it clearly appears that the intent of the parties was to pass title to the chose in action, then an assignment will be held to have taken place." (McCown v. Spencer (1970) 8 Cal.App.3d 216, 225 [87 Cal.Rptr. 213] , internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 707-719

6 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 60, Assignments, § 60.20 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 76, Assignments of Rights and Obligations, § 76.201 (Matthew Bender)

2 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 22, Suing or Defending Action for Breach of Contract, 22.51 -22.56, 22.58, 22.59

Publisher's Notes

For a related BAJI instruction, see BAJI No. 10.96.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawPerformanceAssignmentGeneral OverviewContracts LawPerformanceAssignmentConsentContracts LawPerformanceAssignmentNonassignability Clauses

101 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 328-CACI 329

Reserved for Future Use

CACI 328Reserved for Future Use

102 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 330

CACI 330 Affirmative Defense--Unilateral Mistake of Fact

[Name of defendant] claims that there was no contract because [he/she/it] was mistaken about [insert description of mistake]. To succeed, [name of defendant] must prove all of the following:

- 1. That [name of defendant] was mistaken about [insert description of mistake];
- 2. That [name of plaintiff] knew [name of defendant] was mistaken and used that mistake to take advantage of [him/her/it];
- 3. That [name of defendant]'s mistake was not caused by [his/her/its] excessive carelessness; and
- 4. That [name of defendant] would not have agreed to enter into the contract if [he/she/it] had known about the mistake.

If you decide that [name of defendant] has proved all of the above, then no contract was created.

New September 2003; Revised April 2004

If the mistake is one of law, this may not be a jury issue.

This instruction does not contain the requirement that the mistake be material to the contract because the materiality of a representation is a question of law. (Merced County Mutual Fire Insurance Co. v. State of California (1991) 233 Cal.App.3d 765, 772 [284 Cal.Rptr. 680] .) Accordingly, the judge would decide whether an alleged mistake was material, and that mistake would be inserted into this instruction.

■ The Civil Code provides that consent is not free when obtained through duress, menace, fraud, undue influence, or mistake, and is deemed to have been so obtained when it would not have been given but for such fraud or mistake. (Civ. Code, §§ 1567, 1568.)

■ Civil Code section 1576 provides: "Mistake may be either of fact or law."

■ Civil Code section 1577 provides the following definition of mistake of fact:

Mistake of fact is a mistake, not caused by the neglect of a legal duty on the part of the person making the mistake, and consisting in:

1. An unconscious ignorance or forgetfulness of a fact past or present, material to the contract; or,

2. Belief in the present existence of a thing material to the contract, which does not exist, or in the past existence of such a thing, which has not existed.

■ Civil Code section 1578 defines mistake of law:

Mistake of law constitutes a mistake, within the meaning of this Article, only when it arises from:

1. A misapprehension of the law by all parties, all supposing that they knew and understood it, and all making substantially the same mistake as to the law; or,

2. A misapprehension of the law by one party, of which the others are aware at the time of contracting, but which they do not rectify.

■ "It is settled that to warrant a unilateral rescission of a contract because of mutual mistake, the mistake must relate to basic or material fact, not a collateral matter." (Wood v. Kalbaugh (1974) 39 Cal.App.3d 926, 932 [114 Cal.Rptr. 673] .)

■ The following quotation explains how unilateral mistakes can be used as a defense: "A mistake need not be mutual. Unilateral mistake is ground for relief where the mistake is due to the fault of the other party or the other party knows or has reason to know of the mistake. ... To rely on a unilateral mistake of fact, [the party] must demonstrate his mistake was not caused by his 'neglect of a legal duty.' Ordinary negligence does not constitute the neglect of a legal duty as that term is used in section 1577." (Architects & Contractors Estimating Service, Inc. v. Smith (1985) 164 Cal.App.3d 1001, 1007-1008 [211 Cal.Rptr. 45] , internal citations omitted.)

■ To prevail on a unilateral mistake claim, the defendant must prove that the plaintiff knew that the defendant was mistaken and that plaintiff used that mistake to take advantage of the defendant: "Defendants contend that a material mistake of fact--namely, the defendants' belief that they would not be obligated to install a new roof upon the residence--prevented contract formation. A unilateral mistake of fact may be the basis of relief. However, such a unilateral mistake may not invalidate a contract without a showing that the other party to the contract was aware of the mistaken belief and unfairly utilized that mistaken belief in a manner enabling him to take advantage of the other party." (Meyer v. Benko (1976) 55 Cal.App.3d 937, 944 [127 Cal.Rptr. 846] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "Failure to make reasonable inquiry to ascertain or effort to understand the meaning and content of the contract upon which one relies constitutes neglect of a legal duty such as will preclude recovery for unilateral mistake of fact." (Wal-Noon Corporation v. Hill (1975) 45 Cal.App.3d 605, 615 [119 Cal.Rptr. 646] .) However, "[o]rdinary negligence does not constitute the neglect of a legal duty as that term is used in section 1577." (Architects & Contractors Estimating Service, Inc. v. Smith, supra, 164 Cal.App.3d at p. 1008 .)

■ Neglect of legal duty has been equated with "gross negligence," which is defined as "the want of even scant care or an extreme departure from the ordinary standard of conduct." (Van Meter v. Bent Construction Co. (1956) 46 Cal.2d 588, 594 [297 P.2d 644] .)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 256-275

17 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 215, Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake, §§ 215.50 -215.57, 215.141 (Matthew Bender)

9 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 92, Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake, § 92.90 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations, § 77.350 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 8, Seeking or Opposing Equitable Remedies in Contract Actions, 8.24

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 16, Attacking or Defending Existence of Contract--Mistake, 16.08[2], 16.13 -16.16, 16.18

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.60.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Explaining Mistake's Legal Effect Can Be Challenging: Almost all jurors are familiar with the impact of a "mistake" and how that affects many situations. Still, explaining a mistake's legal effect will sometimes be challenging. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Proving Mistake: One of the requirements of this affirmative defense is that plaintiff knew that defendant was operating under a mistake. Absent an admission by plaintiff, this may be difficult to prove because it turns on plaintiff's state of mind. By Ronald Oster

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General Overview Contracts Law Defenses Ambiguity & Mistake Unilateral Mistake Contracts Law Formation Ambiguity & Mistake Unilateral Mistake

103 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 331

CACI 331 Affirmative Defense--Bilateral Mistake

[Name of defendant] claims that there was no contract because both parties were mistaken about [insert description of mistake]. To succeed, [name of defendant] must prove both of the following:

- 1. That both parties were mistaken about [insert description of mistake]; and
- 2. That [name of defendant] would not have agreed to enter into this contract if [he/she/it] had known about the mistake.

If you decide that [name of defendant] has proved both of the above, then no contract was created.

New September 2003

This instruction does not contain the requirement that the mistake be material to the contract because the materiality of a representation is a question of law. (Merced County Mutual Fire Insurance Co. v. State of California (1991) 233 Cal.App.3d 765, 772 [284 Cal.Rptr. 680] .) Accordingly, the judge would decide whether an alleged mistake was material, and that mistake would be inserted into this instruction.

If the mistake is one of law, this may not be a jury issue.

■ The Civil Code provides that consent is not free when obtained through duress, menace, fraud, undue influence, or mistake, and is deemed to have been so obtained when it would not have been given but for such fraud or mistake. (Civ. Code, §§ 1567, 1568.)

■ Civil Code section 1576 provides: "Mistake may be either of fact or law."

■ Civil Code section 1577 provides the following definition of mistake of fact:

Mistake of fact is a mistake, not caused by the neglect of a legal duty on the part of the person making the mistake, and consisting in:

1. An unconscious ignorance or forgetfulness of a fact past or present, material to the contract; or,
2. Belief in the present existence of a thing material to the contract, which does not exist, or in the past existence of such a thing, which has not existed.

■ Civil Code section 1578 defines mistake of law:

Mistake of law constitutes a mistake, within the meaning of this Article, only when it arises from:

1. A misapprehension of the law by all parties, all supposing that they knew and understood it, and all making substantially the same mistake as to the law; or,
2. A misapprehension of the law by one party, of which the others are aware at the time of contracting, but which they do not rectify.

■ Section 20(1) of the Restatement Second of Contracts provides:

- (1) There is no manifestation of mutual assent to an exchange if the parties attach materially different meanings to their manifestations and
 - (a) neither party knows or has reason to know the meaning attached by the other; or
 - (b) each party knows or each party has reason to know the meaning attached by the other.

■ A mistake of fact may be urged as a defense to an action upon a contract only if the mistake is material to the contract. (Edwards v. Lang (1961) 198 Cal.App.2d 5, 12 [18 Cal.Rptr. 60] .)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 256-275

17 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 215, Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake, §§ 215.50 -215.57, 215.140 (Matthew Bender)

9 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 92, Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake, § 92.90 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations, § 77.350 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 8, Seeking or Opposing Equitable Remedies in Contract Actions, 8.24

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 16, Attacking or Defending Existence of Contract--Mistake, 16.08[1], 16.09, 16.11, 16.18

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.60.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Bilateral Mistakes Are Rare: The idea that both parties were mistaken will not occur often. Therefore, many jurors will be skeptical of its existence. By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeMutual MistakeContracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeUnilateral MistakeContracts LawFormationAmbiguity & MistakeUnilateral MistakeContracts LawTypes of ContractsBilateral Contracts

104 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 332

CACI 332 Affirmative Defense--Duress

[Name of defendant] claims that there was no contract because [his/her] consent was given under duress. To succeed, [name of defendant] must prove all of the following:

- 1. That [name of plaintiff] used a wrongful act or wrongful threat to pressure [name of defendant] into consenting to the contract;
- 2. That [name of defendant] was so afraid or intimidated by the wrongful act or wrongful threat that [he/she] did not have the free will to refuse to consent to the contract; and
- 3. That [name of defendant] would not have consented to the contract without the wrongful act or wrongful threat.

An act or a threat is wrongful if [insert relevant rule--e.g., "a criminal act is threatened"].

If you decide that [name of defendant] has proved all of the above, then no contract was created.

New September 2003; Revised December 2005

Use CACI No. 333, Affirmative Defense--Economic Duress, in cases involving economic duress.

■ The Civil Code provides that consent is not free when it is obtained through duress, menace, fraud, undue influence, or mistake and is deemed to have been so obtained when it would not have been given but for such fraud or mistake. (Civ. Code, §§ 1567, 1568.)

- Civil Code section 1569 provides that the following acts constitute duress:

1. Unlawful confinement of the person of the party, or of the husband or wife of such party, or of an ancestor, descendant, or adopted child of such party, husband, or wife;
2. Unlawful detention of the property of any such person; or,
3. Confinement of such person, lawful in form, but fraudulently obtained, or fraudulently made unjustly harassing or oppressive.

- Civil Code section 1570 provides:

Menace consists in a threat:

1. Of such duress as is specified in Subdivisions 1 and 3 of the last section;
2. Of unlawful and violent injury to the person or property of any such person as is specified in the last section; or,
3. Of injury to the character of any such person.

■ "Menace" is considered to be duress: "Under the modern rule, ' "[d]uress, which includes whatever destroys one's free agency and constrains [her] to do what is against [her] will, may be exercised by threats, importunity or any species of mental coercion. It is shown where a party 'intentionally used threats or pressure to induce action or nonaction to the other party's detriment.' " ' The coercion must induce the assent of the coerced party, who has no reasonable alternative to succumbing." (In re Marriage of Baltins (1989) 212 Cal.App.3d 66, 84 [260 Cal.Rptr. 403] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "Duress envisions some unlawful action by a party by which one's consent is obtained through fear or threats." (Keithley v. Civil Service Bd. of The City of Oakland (1970) 11 Cal.App.3d 443, 450 [89 Cal.Rptr. 809] , internal citations omitted.)

■ Duress is found only where fear is intentionally used as a means of procuring consent: "[A]n action for duress and menace cannot be sustained when the voluntary action of the apprehensive party is induced by his speculation upon or anticipation of a future event suggested to him by the defendant but not threatened to induce his conduct. The issue in each instance is whether the defendant intentionally exerted an unlawful pressure on the injured party to deprive him of contractual volition and induce him to act to his own detriment." (Goldstein v. Enoch (1967) 248 Cal.App.2d 891, 894-895 [57 Cal.Rptr. 19] .)

■ It is wrongful to use the threat of criminal prosecution to obtain a consent: "California law is clear that an agreement obtained by threat of criminal prosecution constitutes menace and is unenforceable as against public policy." (Bayscene Resident Negotiators v. Bayscene Mobilehome Park (1993) 15 Cal.App.4th 119, 127 [18 Cal.Rptr.2d 626] .) However, a threat of legitimate civil action is not considered wrongful: "[T]he action or threat in duress or menace must be unlawful, and a threat to take legal action is not unlawful unless the party making the threat knows the falsity of his claim." (Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal.App.2d 123, 128 [54 Cal.Rptr. 533] .)

■ Standard duress is evaluated under a subjective standard: "The question in each case [is], Was the person so acted upon by threats of the person claiming the benefit of the contract, for the purpose of obtaining such contract, as to be bereft of the quality of mind essential to the making of a contract, and was the contract thereby obtained? Hence, under this theory duress is to be tested, not by the nature of the threats, but rather by the state of mind induced thereby in the victim." (In re Marriage of Gonzalez (1976) 57 Cal.App.3d 736, 744 [129 Cal.Rptr. 566] .)

■ The wrongful acts of a third party may constitute duress sufficient to allow rescission of a contract with a party, who, although not participating in those wrongful acts, had knowledge of the innocent party's position. (Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal.2d 195, 205-206 [1 Cal.Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12] .)

■ "[Defendant has] the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence the affirmative of the issues of duress and plaintiff's default." (Fio Rito v. Fio Rito (1961) 194 Cal.App.2d 311, 322 [14 Cal.Rptr. 845] ; cf. Stevenson v. Stevenson (1940) 36 Cal.App.2d 494, 500 [97 P.2d 982] .)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 309-315

17 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 215, Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake, §§ 215.20 -215.21, 215.23 -215.28, 215.120 -215.121 (Matthew Bender)

9 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 92, Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake, § 92.20 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations, § 77.351 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 8, Seeking or Opposing Equitable Remedies in Contract Actions, 8.07

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 17, Attacking or Defending Existence of Contract--Fraud, Duress, Menace, and Undue Influence, 17.03 -17.06, 17.20 -17.24[1]

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.60.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Defense of Duress Is Limited: This is a limited defense as indicated by the commentary. Many counsel will want to challenge this defense by way of a motion before trial. By Ronald Oster

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceEconomic DuressContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceThreats of Arrest & Imprisonment

105 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 333

CACI 333 Affirmative Defense--Economic Duress

[Name of defendant] claims that there was no contract because [his/her/its] consent was given under duress. To succeed, [name of defendant] must prove all of the following:

- 1. That [name of plaintiff] used a wrongful act or wrongful threat to pressure [name of defendant] into consenting to the contract;
- 2. That a reasonable person in [name of defendant]'s position would have felt that he or she had no reasonable alternative except to consent to the contract; and
- 3. That [name of defendant] would not have consented to the contract without the wrongful act or wrongful threat.

An act or a threat is wrongful if [insert relevant rule, e.g., "a bad-faith breach of contract is threatened"].

If you decide that [name of defendant] has proved all of the above, then no contract was created.

New September 2003; Revised December 2005

■ The Civil Code provides that consent is not free when obtained through duress, menace, fraud, undue influence, or mistake, and is deemed to have been so obtained when it would not have been given but for such fraud or mistake. (Civ. Code, §§ 1567, 1568.)

■ The doctrine of economic duress has been described recently as follows: " 'As it has evolved to the present day, the economic duress doctrine is not limited by early statutory and judicial expressions requiring an unlawful act in the nature of a tort or a crime. Instead, the doctrine now may come into play upon the doing of a wrongful act which is sufficiently coercive to cause a reasonably prudent person faced with no reasonable alternative to succumb to the perpetrator's pressure. The assertion of a claim known to be false or a bad faith threat to breach a contract or to withhold a payment may constitute a wrongful act for purposes of the economic duress doctrine.' " (Philippine Export and Foreign Loan Guarantee Corp. v. Chuidian (1990) 218 Cal.App.3d 1058, 1077-1078 [267 Cal.Rptr. 457] , internal citations omitted.)

■ Economic duress is evaluated under an objective standard: "The doctrine of 'economic duress' can apply when one party has done a wrongful act which is sufficiently coercive to cause a reasonably prudent person, faced with no reasonable alternative, to agree to an unfavorable contract. The party subjected to the coercive act, and having no reasonable alternative, can then plead 'economic duress' to avoid the contract." (CrossTalk Productions, Inc. v. Jacobson (1998) 65 Cal.App.4th 631, 644 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 615] , internal citation omitted.)

■ The nonexistence of a "reasonable alternative" is a question of fact. (CrossTalk Productions, Inc., supra, 65 Cal.App.4th at p. 644 .)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 313-315

17 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 215, Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake, §§ 215.22, 215.122 (Matthew Bender)

9 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 92, Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake, § 92.24 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 8, Seeking or Opposing Equitable Remedies in Contract Actions, 8.07

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 17, Attacking or Defending Existence of Contract--Fraud, Duress, Menace, and Undue Influence, 17.03 -17.06, 17.20 -17.24[2]

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.60.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Defendant's Lack of Alternatives: The key limitation on this defense is the requirement that defendant "had no reasonable alternative except to consent to the contract." This is a question of fact, and plaintiff's counsel should present as many alternatives as possible. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Rely on Everyday Experiences: "Duress" is a concept alien to most jurors. So, often rely upon everyday experiences to draw a connection between them and the "duress" in question. By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral
OverviewContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceEconomic DuressContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue
InfluenceThreats of Arrest & Imprisonment

106 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 334

CACI 334 Affirmative Defense--Undue Influence

[Name of defendant] claims that no contract was created because [he/she] was unfairly pressured by [name of plaintiff] into consenting to the contract.

To succeed, [name of defendant] must prove both of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] used

[a relationship of trust and confidence] [or]

[[name of defendant]'s weakness of mind] [or]

[[name of defendant]'s needs or distress]

to induce or pressure [name of defendant] into consenting to the contract; and

2. That [name of defendant] would not otherwise have consented to the contract.

If you decide that [name of defendant] has proved both of the above, then no contract was created.

New September 2003

● The Civil Code provides that consent is not free when obtained through duress, menace, fraud, undue influence, or mistake, and is deemed to have been so obtained when it would not have been given but for such fraud or mistake. (Civ. Code, §§ 1567, 1568.)

■ Civil Code section 1575 provides three circumstances that support a finding of undue influence:

1. In the use, by one in whom a confidence is reposed by another, or who holds a real or apparent authority over him, of such confidence or authority for the purpose of obtaining an unfair advantage over him;
2. In taking an unfair advantage of another's weakness of mind; or,
3. In taking a grossly oppressive and unfair advantage of another's necessities or distress.

■ The question of undue influence is decided as a question of fact: "[D]irect evidence of undue influence is rarely obtainable and, thus the court is normally relegated to determination by inference from the totality of facts and circumstances. Indeed, there are no fixed definitions or inflexible formulas. Rather, we are concerned with whether from the entire context it appears that one's will was overborne and he was induced to do or forbear to do an act which he would not do, or would do, if left to act freely." (Keithley v. Civil Service Bd. of the City of Oakland (1970) 11 Cal.App.3d 443, 451 [89 Cal.Rptr. 809] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "In essence, undue influence consists of the use of excessive pressure by a dominant person over a servient person resulting in the apparent will of the servient person being in fact the will of the dominant person. The undue susceptibility to such overpersuasive influence may be the product of physical or emotional exhaustion or anguish which results in one's inability to act with unencumbered volition." (Keithley, supra, 11 Cal.App.3d at p. 451 .)

■ Whether or not the parties have a confidential relationship is a question of fact: "It is, of course, well settled that while the mere fact that a relationship is friendly and intimate does not necessarily amount to a confidential relationship, such relationship may be said to exist whenever trust and confidence is reposed by one person in the integrity and fidelity of another. It is likewise frequently emphasized that the existence of a confidential relationship presents a question of fact which, of necessity, may be determined only on a case by case basis." (O'Neil v. Spillane (1975) 45 Cal.App.3d 147, 153 [119 Cal.Rptr. 245] , internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 316-321

17 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 215, Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake, §§ 215.40 -215.42, 215.130 -215.132 (Matthew Bender)

9 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 92, Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake, § 92.70 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations, § 77.352 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 8, Seeking or Opposing Equitable Remedies in Contract Actions, 8.07

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 17, Attacking or Defending Existence of Contract--Fraud, Duress, Menace, and Undue Influence, 17.03 -17.06, 17.25 -17.28

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.60.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Explain Your Argument Carefully: In some lawsuits, many jurors may look upon the argument of undue influence as avoiding responsibility. Thus, care should be utilized in explaining how this argument should be accepted (or, as the case may be, rejected) by the jury. By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsProvince of Court & JuryContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral Overview

107 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 335

CACI 335 Affirmative Defense--Fraud

[Name of defendant] claims that no contract was created because [his/her/its] consent was obtained by fraud. To succeed, [name of defendant] must prove all of the following:

- 1. That [name of plaintiff] represented that [insert alleged fraudulent statement];
- 2. That [name of plaintiff] knew that the representation was not true;
- 3. That [name of plaintiff] made the representation to persuade [name of defendant] to agree to the contract;
- 4. That [name of defendant] reasonably relied on this representation; and
- 5. That [name of defendant] would not have entered into the contract if [he/she/it] had known that the representation was not true.

If you decide that [name of defendant] has proved all of the above, then no contract was created.

New September 2003

This instruction covers intentional misrepresentation under the first alternative presented in Civil Code section 1572. The other types of fraud that are set forth in section 1572 are negligent misrepresentation, concealment of a material fact, and false promise.

If the case involves an alleged negligent misrepresentation, substitute the following for element 2: "That [name of plaintiff] had no reasonable grounds for believing the representation was true."

If the case involves concealment, the following may be substituted for element 1: "That [name of plaintiff] intentionally concealed an important fact from [name of defendant], creating a false representation." See CACI No. 1901, Concealment, for alternative ways of proving this element.

If the case involves a false promise, substitute the following for element 1: "That [name of plaintiff] made a promise that [he/she/it] did not intend to perform" and insert the word "promise" in place of the word "representation" throughout the remainder of the instruction.

- The Civil Code provides that consent is not free when obtained through duress, menace, fraud, undue influence, or mistake, and is deemed to have been so obtained when it would not have been given but for such fraud or mistake. (Civ. Code, §§ 1567, 1568.)

- Civil Code section 1572 provides:

Actual fraud, within the meaning of this Chapter, consists in any of the following acts, committed by a party to the contract, or with his connivance, with intent to deceive another party thereto, or to induce him to enter into the contract:

1. The suggestion, as a fact, of that which is not true, by one who does not believe it to be true;
2. The positive assertion, in a manner not warranted by the information of the person making it, of that which is not true, though he believes it to be true;
3. The suppression of that which is true, by one having knowledge or belief of the fact;
4. A promise made without any intention of performing it; or,
5. Any other act fitted to deceive.

- Fraud can be found in making a misstatement of fact, as well as in the concealment of a fact: "Actual fraud involves conscious misrepresentation, or concealment, or non-disclosure of a material fact which induces the innocent party to enter the contract." (Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal.App.2d 123, 128 [54 Cal.Rptr. 533] .)

- Fraud may be asserted as an affirmative defense: "One who has been induced to enter into a contract by false and fraudulent representations may rescind the contract; or he may affirm it, keeping what he has received under it, and maintain an action to recover damages he has sustained by reason of the fraud; or he may set up such damages as a complete or partial defense if sued on the contract by the other party." (Grady v. Easley (1941) 45 Cal.App.2d 632, 642 [114 P.2d 635] .)

- "It is well established that a defrauded defendant may set up the fraud as a defense and, in fact, may even recoup his damages by counterclaim in an action brought by the guilty party to the contract. The right to avoid for fraud, however, is lost if the injured party, after acquiring knowledge of the fraud, manifests an intention to affirm the contract." (Bowmer v. H. C. Louis, Inc. (1966) 243 Cal.App.2d 501, 503 [52 Cal.Rptr. 436] , internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 285-308

17 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 215, Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake, §§ 215.70 -215.72, 215.144 (Matthew Bender)

9 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 92, Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake, § 92.40 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations, § 77.353 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 8, Seeking or Opposing Equitable Remedies in Contract Actions, 8.24

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 17, Attacking or Defending Existence of Contract--Fraud, Duress, Menace, and Undue Influence, 17.03 -17.09, 17.12 -17.18

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.60.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--When Claiming Fraud, Proof and Argument Should be Compelling: Fraud is a common claim. However, to some jurors fraud is a serious matter. Therefore, the proof and related argument should be especially compelling. By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationConstructive FraudContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationIntentional FraudContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationMaterial Misrepresentation

108 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 336

CACI 336 Affirmative Defense--Waiver

[Name of defendant] claims that [he/she/it] did not have to [insert description of performance] because [name of plaintiff] gave up [his/her/its] right to have [name of defendant] perform [this/these] obligation[s]. This is called a "waiver."

To succeed, [name of defendant] must prove both of the following by clear and convincing evidence:

- 1. That [name of plaintiff] knew [name of defendant] was required to [insert description of performance]; and
- 2. That [name of plaintiff] freely and knowingly gave up [his/her/its] right to have [name of defendant] perform [this/these] obligation[s].

A waiver may be oral or written or may arise from conduct that shows that [name of plaintiff] gave up that right.

If [name of defendant] proves that [name of plaintiff] gave up [his/her/its] right to [name of defendant]'s performance of [insert description of performance], then [name of defendant] was not required to perform [this/these] obligation[s].

New September 2003

This issue is decided under the "clear and convincing" standard of proof. See CACI No. 201, More Likely True--Clear and Convincing Proof.

■ "Waiver is the intentional relinquishment of a known right after knowledge of the facts." (Roesch v. De Mota (1944) 24 Cal.2d 563, 572 [150 P.2d 422] .)

■ "Waiver ... is a question of fact and not of law, hence the intention to commit a waiver must be clearly expressed." (Moss v. Minor Properties, Inc. (1968) 262 Cal.App.2d 847, 857 [69 Cal.Rptr. 341] .)

■ When the injured party with knowledge of the breach continues to accept performance from the guilty party, such conduct may constitute a waiver of the breach. (Kern Sunset Oil Co. v. Good Roads Oil Co. (1931) 214 Cal. 435, 440-441 [6 P.2d 71] .)

■ There can be no waiver where the one against whom it is asserted has acted without full knowledge of the facts. It cannot be presumed, in the absence of such knowledge, that there was an intention to waive an existing right. (Craig v. White (1921) 187 Cal. 489, 498 [202 P. 648] .)

■ " 'Waiver always rests upon intent. Waiver is the intentional relinquishment of a known right after knowledge of the facts.' The burden, moreover, is on the party claiming a waiver of a right to prove it by clear and convincing evidence that does not leave the matter to speculation, and 'doubtful cases will be decided against a waiver'." (City of Ukiah v. Fones (1966) 64 Cal.2d 104, 107-108 [48 Cal.Rptr. 865, 410 P.2d 369] ; Florence Western Medical Clinic v. Bonta (2000) 77 Cal.App.4th 493, 504 [91 Cal.Rptr.2d 609] .)

■ The "clear and convincing" standard applies "particularly" to rights favored in the law; however, it does not apply exclusively to such favored rights. It is proper to instruct a jury that waiver must be proved by this higher standard of proof. (DRG/Beverly Hills, Ltd. v. Chopstix Dim Sum Cafe and Takeout III, Ltd. (1994) 30 Cal.App.4th 54, 61 [35 Cal.Rptr.2d 515] .)

Secondary Sources

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, §§ 140.57, 140.113, 140.136 (Matthew Bender)

5 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 50, Contracts, §§ 50.40, 50.41, 50.110 (Matthew Bender)

2 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 22, Suing or Defending Action for Breach of Contract, 22.08, 22.65, 22.68

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.88.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Defeating Claim of Waiver: It is often relatively easy to defeat a waiver claim as it needs "clear and convincing evidence" that a party has "freely and knowingly" given up that right. Exploit those standards. By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General Overview Contracts Law Contract Conditions & Provisions Waivers Continued Performance Contracts Law Defenses General Overview

109 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 337

CACI 337 Affirmative Defense--Novation

[Name of defendant] claims that the original contract with [name of plaintiff] cannot be enforced because the parties substituted a new and different contract for the original.

To succeed, [name of defendant] must prove that all parties agreed, by words or conduct, to cancel the original contract and to substitute a new contract in its place.

If you decide that [name of defendant] has proved this, then the original contract is not enforceable.

New September 2003; Revised October 2004

If the contract in question is not the original contract, specify which contract it is instead of "original."

Although there is language in Alexander v. Angel (1951) 37 Cal.2d 856, 860-861 [236 P.2d 561] that could be read to suggest that a novation must be proved by the higher standard of clear and convincing proof, an examination of the history of that language and the cases upon which the language in Alexander depends (Columbia Casualty Co. v. Lewis (1936) 14 Cal.App.2d 64, 72 [57 P.2d 1010] and Houghton v. Lawton (1923) 63 Cal.App. 218, 223 [218 P. 475]) demonstrates that the original use of the term "clear and convincing," carried forward thereafter without analysis, was intended only to convey the concept that a novation must clearly be shown and may not be presumed. The history of the language does not support a requirement that a party alleging a novation must prove there is a high probability (i.e., clear and convincing proof) that the parties agreed to a novation. See also, sections 279 and 280 of the Restatement Second of Contracts. A party alleging a novation must prove that the facts supporting the novation are more likely to be true than not true.

■ Civil Code section 1530 provides: "Novation is the substitution of a new obligation for an existing one."

■ Civil Code section 1531 provides:

Novation is made:

1. By the substitution of a new obligation between the same parties, with intent to extinguish the old obligation;
2. By the substitution of a new debtor in place of the old one, with intent to release the latter; or,
3. By the substitution of a new creditor in place of the old one, with intent to transfer the rights of the latter to the former.

■ "A novation is a substitution, by agreement, of a new obligation for an existing one, with intent to extinguish the latter. A novation is subject to the general rules governing contracts and requires an intent to discharge the old contract, a mutual assent, and a consideration." (Klepper v. Hoover (1971) 21 Cal.App.3d 460, 463 [98 Cal.Rptr. 482] .)

■ Conduct may form the basis for a novation although there is no express writing or agreement. (Silva v. Providence Hospital of Oakland (1939) 14 Cal.2d 762, 773 [97 P.2d 798] .)

■ Novation is a question of fact, and the burden of proving it is upon the party asserting it. (Alexander v. Angel (1951) 37 Cal.2d 856, 860 [236 P.2d 561] .)

■ "When there is conflicting evidence the question whether the parties to an agreement entered into a modification or a novation is a question of fact." (Howard v. County of Amador (1990) 220 Cal.App.3d 962, 980 [269 Cal.Rptr. 807] .)

■ "The 'question whether a novation has taken place is always one of intention,' with the controlling factor being the intent of the obligee to effect a release of the original obligor on his obligation under the original agreement." (Alexander, supra, 37 Cal.2d at p. 860 , internal citations omitted.)

■ "[I]n order for there to be a valid novation, it is necessary that the parties intend that the rights and obligations of the new contract be substituted for the terms and conditions of the old contract." (Wade v. Diamond A Cattle Co. (1975) 44 Cal.App.3d 453, 457 [118 Cal.Rptr. 695] .)

■ "While the evidence in support of a novation must be 'clear and convincing,' the 'whole question is one of fact and depends upon all the facts and circumstances of the particular case,' with the weight and sufficiency of the proof being matters for the determination of the trier of the facts under the general rules applicable to civil actions." (Alexander, supra, 37 Cal.2d at pp. 860-861 , internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 961-963

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.141 (Matthew Bender)

5 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 50, Contracts, §§ 50.450 -50.464 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations, §§ 77.20, 77.280 -77.282 (Matthew Bender)

2 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 21, Asserting a Particular Construction of Contract, 21.58[3]

Publisher's Notes

There is no BAJI instruction on this subject.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care With Novation: Novation is not a typical argument. However, if present, be careful in making the related rejoinder. By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesGeneral OverviewContracts LawPerformanceNovation

110 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 338

CACI 338 Affirmative Defense--Statute of Limitations

[Name of defendant] contends that [name of plaintiff]'s lawsuit was not filed within the time set by law. To succeed on this defense, [name of defendant] must prove that [name of plaintiff]'s claimed harm occurred before [insert date two or four years before date of filing].

New December 2007

Directions for Use

This instruction is for use if the defendant claims that the plaintiff's action was not filed within the applicable four-year period for breach of a written contract (see Code Civ. Proc., § 337(1)) or two-year period for breach of an oral contract. (See Code Civ. Proc., § 339(1).) Do not use this instruction for breach of a Uniform Commercial Code sales contract. (See Com. Code, § 2725.)

If the contract either shortens or extends the limitation period, use the applicable period from the contract instead of two years or four years.

If the plaintiff alleges that the delayed-discovery rule applies to avoid the limitation defense, CACI No. 455, Statute of Limitations--Delayed Discovery, may be adapted for use.

Sources and Authority

- Code of Civil Procedure section 337(1) provides: "Within four years: 1. An action upon any contract, obligation or liability founded upon an instrument in writing, except as provided in Section 336a of this code; provided, that the time within which any action for a money judgment for the balance due upon an obligation for the payment of which a deed of trust or mortgage with power of sale upon real property or any interest therein was given as security, following the exercise of the power of sale in such deed of trust or mortgage, may be brought shall not extend beyond three months after the time of sale under such deed of trust or mortgage."

■ Code of Civil Procedure section 339(1) provides: "Within two years: 1. An action upon a contract, obligation or liability not founded upon an instrument of writing, except as provided in Section 2725 of the Commercial Code or subdivision 2 of Section 337 of this code; or an action founded upon a contract, obligation or liability, evidenced by a certificate, or abstract or guaranty of title of real property, or by a policy of title insurance; provided, that the cause of action upon a contract, obligation or liability evidenced by a certificate, or abstract or guaranty of title of real property or policy of title insurance shall not be deemed to have accrued until the discovery of the loss or damage suffered by the aggrieved party thereunder."

■ "In general, California courts have permitted contracting parties to modify the length of the otherwise applicable California statute of limitations, whether the contract has extended or shortened the limitations period." (Hambrecht & Quist Venture Partners v. Am. Medical Internat. (1995) 38 Cal.App.4th 1532, 1547 [46 Cal.Rptr.2d 33] .)

■ "A contract cause of action does not accrue until the contract has been breached." (Spear v. Cal. State Automobile Ass'n (1992) 2 Cal.4th 1035, 1042 [9 Cal.Rptr.2d 381, 831 P.2d 821] .)

■ "The claim accrues when the plaintiff discovers, or could have discovered through reasonable diligence, the injury and its cause." (Angeles Chem. Co. v. Spencer & Jones (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 112, 119 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 594] .)

■ "[T]he discovery rule may be applied to breaches [of contract] which can be, and are, committed in secret and, moreover, where the harm flowing from those breaches will not be reasonably discoverable by plaintiffs until a future time." (Gryczman v. 4550 Pico Partners, Ltd. (2003) 107 Cal.App.4th 1, 4-5 [131 Cal.Rptr.2d 680] .)

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin, California Procedure (4th ed. 1996) Actions, §§ 474-509

5 Witkin, California Procedure (4th ed. 1996) Pleadings, § 999

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, § 344

14 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.42[2] (Matthew Bender)

5 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 50, Contracts, § 50.120 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 4, Determining Applicable Statute of Limitations and Effect on Potential Action, 4.03 et seq.

Publisher's Notes

There is no BAJI instruction on this subject.

111 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 339-CACI 349

Reserved for Future Use

CACI 339Reserved for Future Use

112 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 350

CACI 350 Introduction to Contract Damages

If you decide that [name of plaintiff] has proved [his/her/its] claim against [name of defendant] for breach of contract, you also must decide how much money will reasonably compensate [name of plaintiff] for the harm caused by the breach. This compensation is called "damages." The purpose of such damages is to put [name of plaintiff] in as good a position as [he/she/it] would have been if [name of defendant] had performed as promised.

To recover damages for any harm, [name of plaintiff] must prove:

- 1. That the harm was likely to arise in the ordinary course of events from the breach of the contract; or
- 2. That when the contract was made, both parties could have reasonably foreseen the harm as the probable result of the breach.

[Name of plaintiff] also must prove the amount of [his/her/its] damages according to the following instructions. [He/She/It] does not have to prove the exact amount of damages. You must not speculate or guess in awarding damages.

[Name of plaintiff] claims damages for [identify general damages claimed].

New September 2003; Revised October 2004

This instruction should always be read before any of the following specific damages instructions. (See CACI Nos. 351- 360.)

■ Civil Code section 3281 provides: "Every person who suffers detriment from the unlawful act or omission of another, may recover from the person in fault a compensation therefor in money, which is called damages."

■ Civil Code section 3282 provides: "Detriment is a loss or harm suffered in person or property."

■ Civil Code section 3300 provides: "For the breach of an obligation arising from contract, the measure of damages, except where otherwise expressly provided by this code, is the amount which will compensate the party aggrieved for all the detriment proximately caused thereby, or which, in the ordinary course of things, would be likely to result therefrom."

■ "The detriment that is 'likely to result therefrom' is that which is foreseeable to the breaching party at the time the contract is entered into." (Wallis v. Farmers Group, Inc. (1990) 220 Cal.App.3d 718, 737 [269 Cal.Rptr. 299] , internal citation omitted.)

■ Civil Code section 3301 provides: "No damages can be recovered for a breach of contract which are not clearly ascertainable in both their nature and origin."

■ Civil Code section 3358 provides: "Except as expressly provided by statute, no person can recover a greater amount in damages for the breach of an obligation, than he could have gained by the full performance thereof on both sides."

■ Civil Code section 3359 provides: "Damages must, in all cases, be reasonable, and where an obligation of any kind appears to create a right to unconscionable and grossly oppressive damages, contrary to substantial justice, no more than reasonable damages can be recovered."

■ Restatement Second of Contracts, section 351, provides:

(1) Damages are not recoverable for loss that the party in breach did not have reason to foresee as a probable result of the breach when the contract was made.

(2) Loss may be foreseeable as a probable result of a breach because it follows from the breach

(a) in the ordinary course of events, or

(b) as a result of special circumstances, beyond the ordinary course of events, that the party in breach had reason to know.

(3) A court may limit damages for foreseeable loss by excluding recovery for loss of profits, by allowing recovery only for loss incurred in reliance, or otherwise if it concludes that in the circumstances justice so requires in order to avoid disproportionate compensation.

■ "The basic object of damages is compensation, and in the law of contracts the theory is that the party injured by a breach should receive as nearly as possible the equivalent of the benefits of performance. The aim is to put the injured party in as good a position as he would have been had performance been rendered as promised. This aim can never be exactly attained yet that is the problem the trial court is required to resolve." (Brandon & Tibbs v. George Kevorkian Accountancy Corp. (1990) 226 Cal.App.3d 442, 455 [277 Cal.Rptr. 40] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "The damages awarded should, insofar as possible, place the injured party in the same position it would have held had the contract properly been performed, but such damage may not exceed the benefit which it would have received had the promisor performed." (Brandon & Tibbs, supra, 226 Cal.App.3d at p. 468 , internal citations omitted.)

■ " 'The rules of law governing the recovery of damages for breach of contract are very flexible. Their application in the infinite number of situations that arise is beyond question variable and uncertain. Even more than in the case of other rules of law, they must be regarded merely as guides to the court, leaving much to the individual feeling of the court created by the special circumstances of the particular case.' " (Brandon & Tibbs, supra, 226 Cal.App.3d at p. 455 , internal citation omitted.)

■ " 'Contract damages are generally limited to those within the contemplation of the parties when the contract was entered into or at least reasonably foreseeable by them at that time; consequential damages beyond the expectation of the parties are not recoverable. This limitation on available damages serves to encourage contractual relations and commercial activity by enabling parties to estimate in advance the financial risks of their enterprise.' 'In contrast, tort damages are awarded to [fully] compensate the victim for [all] injury suffered.' " (Erlich v. Menezes (1999) 21 Cal.4th 543, 550 [87 Cal.Rptr.2d 886, 981 P.2d 978] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "California case law has long held the correct measure of damages to be as follows: 'Damages are awarded in an action for breach of contract to give the injured party the benefit of his bargain and insofar as possible to place him in the same position he would have been in had the promisor performed the contract. Damages must be reasonable, however, and the promisor is not required to compensate the injured party for injuries that he had no reason to foresee as the probable result of his breach when he made the contract.' " (Martin v. U-Haul Co. of Fresno (1988) 204 Cal.App.3d 396, 409 [251 Cal.Rptr. 17] , internal citations omitted.)

■ " 'It is often said that damages must be "foreseeable" to be recoverable for breach of contract. The seminal case announcing this doctrine, still generally accepted as a limitation on damages recoverable for breach of contract, is Hadley v. Baxendale. First, general damages are ordinarily confined to those which would naturally arise from the breach, or which might have been reasonably contemplated or foreseen by both parties, at the time they made the contract, as the probable result of the breach. Second, if special circumstances caused some unusual injury, special damages are not recoverable therefor unless the circumstances were known or should have been known to the breaching party at the time he entered into the contract.' " (Resort Video, Ltd. v. Laser Video, Inc. (1995) 35 Cal.App.4th 1679, 1697 [42 Cal.Rptr.2d 136] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "Where the fact of damages is certain, as here, the amount of damages need not be calculated with absolute certainty. The law requires only that some reasonable basis of computation be used, and the result reached can be a reasonable approximation." (Acree v. General Motors Acceptance Corp. (2001) 92 Cal.App.4th 385, 398 [112 Cal.Rptr.2d 99] , footnotes and internal citations omitted.)

■ "It is well settled that the party claiming the damage must prove that he has suffered damage and prove the elements thereof with reasonable certainty." (Mendoyoma, Inc. v. County of Mendocino (1970) 8 Cal.App.3d 873, 880-881 [87 Cal.Rptr. 740] , internal citation omitted.)

■ "Whether the theory of recovery is breach of contract or tort, damages are limited to those proximately caused by their wrong." (State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Co. v. Allstate Insurance Co. (1970) 9 Cal.App.3d 508, 528 [88 Cal.Rptr. 246] , internal citation omitted.)

■ "Under contract principles, the nonbreaching party is entitled to recover only those damages, including lost future profits, which are 'proximately caused' by the specific breach. Or, to put it another way, the breaching party is only liable to place the nonbreaching party in the same position as if the specific breach had not occurred. Or, to phrase it still a third way, the breaching party is only responsible to give the nonbreaching party the benefit of the bargain to the extent the specific breach deprived that party of its bargain." (Postal Instant Press v. Sealy (1996) 43 Cal.App.4th 1704, 1709 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 365], internal citations omitted.)

■ "[D]amages for mental suffering and emotional distress are generally not recoverable in an action for breach of an ordinary commercial contract in California." (Erlich, supra, 21 Cal.4th 543 at p. 558 , internal citations omitted.)

■ "Cases permitting recovery for emotional distress typically involve mental anguish stemming from more personal undertakings the traumatic results of which were unavoidable. Thus, when the express object of the contract is the mental and emotional well-being of one of the contracting parties, the breach of the contract may give rise to damages for mental suffering or emotional distress." (Erlich, supra, 21 Cal.4th at p. 559 , internal citations omitted.)

■ "The right to recover damages for emotional distress for breach of mortuary and crematorium contracts has been well established in California for many years." (Saari v. Jongordon Corp. (1992) 5 Cal.App.4th 797, 803 [7 Cal.Rptr.2d 82] , internal citation omitted.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 869-878

California Breach of Contract Remedies (Cont.Ed.Bar) Recovery of Money Damages, §§ 4.1-4.9

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, §§ 140.55 -140.56, 140.100 -140.106 (Matthew Bender)

15 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 177, Damages, §§ 177.70 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

5 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 50, Contracts, §§ 50.10 -50.11 (Matthew Bender)

6 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 65, Damages: Contract (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 7, Seeking or Opposing Damages in Contract Actions

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI No. 10.90.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Using CACI No. 350: Obviously, CACI No. 350 is an important instruction, especially for the plaintiff. Thus, the factual argument must be sound. From the defense perspective, it is interesting to note that the original version of CACI No. 350 required the plaintiff to prove the amount of his/her/its damages to a "reasonable certainty." That phrase often could have been exploited. However, the phrase was subsequently revised in the Judicial Council's October 2004 revisions to delete the "reasonable certainty" language and to provide that the plaintiff must prove the amount of his/her/its damages "according to the following instructions." By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Plaintiff Need Not Prove "Exact Amount" of Damages: Plaintiff's counsel will want to emphasize that plaintiff does not have to prove the "exact amount" of damages. This is especially important when defendant's breach of the contract has made it impossible to prove damages with mathematical precision. By Ronald Oster

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral
OverviewContracts LawRemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesCompensatory DamagesGeneral
OverviewContracts LawRemediesForeseeable DamagesGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesForeseeable
DamagesBenefit of the Bargain

113 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

*1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 351CACI 351 Special Damages

[Name of plaintiff] [also] claims damages for [identify special damages].

To recover for this harm, [name of plaintiff] must prove that when the parties made the contract, [name of defendant] knew or reasonably should have known of the special circumstances leading to such harm.

New September 2003

Before giving this instruction, the judge should determine whether a particular item of damage qualifies as "special."

■ Civil Code section 3300 provides: "For the breach of an obligation arising from contract, the measure of damages, except where otherwise expressly provided by this code, is the amount which will compensate the party aggrieved for all the detriment proximately caused thereby, or which, in the ordinary course of things, would be likely to result therefrom."

■ "The detriment that is 'likely to result therefrom' is that which is foreseeable to the breaching party at the time the contract is entered into." (Wallis v. Farmers Group, Inc. (1990) 220 Cal.App.3d 718, 737 [269 Cal.Rptr. 299] , internal citation omitted.)

■ Restatement Second of Contracts, section 351, provides:

(1) Damages are not recoverable for loss that the party in breach did not have reason to foresee as a probable result of the breach when the contract was made.

(2) Loss may be foreseeable as a probable result of a breach because it follows from the breach

(a) in the ordinary course of events, or

(b) as a result of special circumstances, beyond the ordinary course of events, that the party in breach had reason to know.

(3) A court may limit damages for foreseeable loss by excluding recovery for loss of profits, by allowing recovery only for loss incurred in reliance, or otherwise if it concludes that in the circumstances justice so requires in order to avoid disproportionate compensation.

■ "Special damages must fall within the rule of Hadley v. Baxendale, ... that is, they must reasonably be supposed to have been contemplated or foreseeable by the parties when making the contract as the probable result of a breach. If special circumstances cause an unusual injury, special damages cannot be recovered unless the circumstances were known or should have been known to the party at fault at the time the contract was made." (Sabraw v. Kaplan (1962) 211 Cal.App.2d 224, 227 [27 Cal.Rptr. 81] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "When reference is made to the terms of the contract alone, there is ordinarily little difficulty in determining what damages arise from its breach in the usual course of things, and the parties will be presumed to have contemplated such damages only. But where it is claimed the circumstances show that a special purpose was intended to be accomplished by one of the parties (a failure to accomplish which by means of the contract would cause him greater damage than would ordinarily follow from a breach by the other party), and such purpose was known to the other party, the facts showing the special purpose and the knowledge of the other party must be averred. This rule has frequently been applied to the breach of a contract for the sale of goods to be delivered at a certain time. In such cases the general rule of damages is fixed by reference to the market value of the goods at the time they were to have been delivered, because in the usual course of events the purchaser could have supplied himself with like commodities at the market price. And if special circumstances existed entitling the purchaser to greater damages for the defeat of a special purpose known to the contracting parties (as, for example, if the purchaser had already contracted to furnish the goods at a profit, and they could not be obtained in the market), such circumstances must be stated in the declaration with the facts which, under the circumstances, enhanced the injury." (Mitchell v. Clarke (1886) 71 Cal. 163, 164-165 [11 P. 882] , internal citation omitted.)

■ "The requirement of knowledge or notice as a prerequisite to the recovery of special damages is based on the theory that a party does not and cannot assume limitless responsibility for all consequences of a breach, and that at the time of contracting he must be advised of the facts concerning special harm which might result therefrom, in order that he may determine whether or not to accept the risk of contracting." (Martin v. U-Haul Co. of Fresno (1988) 204 Cal.App.3d 396, 409 [251 Cal.Rptr. 17] , internal citation omitted.)

■ "[I]f special circumstances caused some unusual injury, special damages are not recoverable therefor unless the circumstances were known or should have been known to the breaching party at the time he entered into the contract. The requirement of knowledge or notice as a prerequisite to the recovery of special damages is based on the theory that a party does not and cannot assume limitless responsibility for all consequences of a breach, and that at the time of contracting he must be advised of the facts concerning special harm which might result therefrom, in order that he may determine whether or not to accept the risk of contracting." (Brandon & Tibbs v. George Kevorkian Accountancy Corp. (1990) 226 Cal.App.3d 442, 455 [277 Cal.Rptr. 40] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "Contract damages must be clearly ascertainable in both nature and origin. A contracting party cannot be required to assume limitless responsibility for all consequences of a breach and must be advised of any special harm that might result in order to determine whether or not to accept the risk of contracting." (Erllich v. Menezes (1999) 21 Cal.4th 543, 560 [87 Cal.Rptr.2d 886, 981 P.2d 978] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "When the facts show that a special purpose is intended to be accomplished by one of the parties (a failure to accomplish which by means of the contract would cause him greater damage than would ordinarily flow from a breach by the other party), and this special circumstance is brought to the attention of the other party, damages normally flowing from a breach of the contract in view of such special circumstances are said to be within the contemplation of the parties." (Christensen v. Slawter (1959) 173 Cal.App.2d 325, 334 [343 P.2d 341] , internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, § 871

15 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 177, Damages, § 177.13 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 7, Seeking or Opposing Damages in Contract Actions, 7.04[6], 7.08[3]

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI No. 10.92.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Contract vs. Tort Damages: One of the major differences between recovery in tort and recovery for breach of contract is the measure of damages. Tort damages need only be "proximately caused" by defendant's conduct while contract damages must also be "reasonably foreseeable." CACI No. 351 emphasizes the element of foreseeability. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Clearly Articulate Foreseeability Rule: CACI No. 351 is related to the foreseeability rule, which needs to be articulated clearly to most jurors (and even some judges and opposing counsel). In some lawsuits, this could be the key instruction. By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Civil Procedure Remedies Damages Special Damages Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General Overview Contracts Law Remedies General Overview

114 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 352

CACI 352 Loss of Profits--No Profits Earned

To recover damages for lost profits, [name of plaintiff] must prove that it is reasonably certain [he/she/it] would have earned profits but for [name of defendant]'s breach of the contract.

To decide the amount of damages for lost profits, you must determine the gross, or total, amount [name of plaintiff] would have received if the contract had been performed and then subtract from that amount the costs [including the value of the [labor/materials/rents/expenses/interest on loans invested in the business]] [name of plaintiff] would have had if the contract had been performed.

You do not have to calculate the amount of the lost profits with mathematical precision, but there must be a reasonable basis for computing the loss.

New September 2003

This instruction applies to both past and future lost profit claims. Read this instruction in conjunction with CACI No. 350, Introduction to Contract Damages, or CACI No. 351, Special Damages.

Insertion of specified types of costs to be deducted from gross earnings is optional, depending on the facts of the case. Other types of costs may be inserted as appropriate.

- Civil Code section 3301 provides: "No damages can be recovered for a breach of contract which are not clearly ascertainable in both their nature and origin."

- Restatement Second of Contracts, section 351(3), provides: "A court may limit damages for foreseeable loss by excluding recovery for loss of profits, by allowing recovery only for loss incurred in reliance, or otherwise if it concludes that in the circumstances justice so requires in order to avoid disproportionate compensation."

- "Where the fact of damages is certain, the amount of damages need not be calculated with absolute certainty. The law requires only that some reasonable basis of computation of damages be used, and the damages may be computed even if the result reached is an approximation. This is especially true where, as here, it is the wrongful acts of the defendant that have created the difficulty in proving the amount of loss of profits or where it is the wrongful acts of the defendant that have caused the other party to not realize a profit to which that party is entitled." (GHK Associates v. Mayer Group (1990) 224 Cal.App.3d 856, 873-874 [274 Cal.Rptr. 168] , internal citations omitted.)

- "The extent of such damages may be measured by 'the past volume of business and other provable data relevant to the probable future sales.' " (Shade Foods, Inc. v. Innovative Products Sales & Marketing, Inc. (2000) 78 Cal.App.4th 847, 890 [93 Cal.Rptr.2d 364] , internal citation omitted.)

- " 'Lost profits to an established business may be recovered if their extent and occurrence can be ascertained with reasonable certainty; once their existence has been so established, recovery will not be denied because the amount cannot be shown with mathematical precision.' However, '[i]t has been frequently stated that if a business is new, it is improper to award damages for loss of profits because absence of income and expense experience renders anticipated profits too speculative to meet the legal standard of reasonable certainty necessary to support an award of such damage. However, the rule is not a hard and fast one and loss of prospective profits may nevertheless be recovered if the evidence shows with reasonable certainty both their occurrence and the extent thereof. In the present case the question is whether the evidence of loss of prospective profits meets that standard.' Unestablished businesses have been permitted to claim lost profit damages in situations where owners have experience in the business they are seeking to establish, and where the business is in an established market." (Resort Video, Ltd. v. Laser Video, Inc. (1995) 35 Cal.App.4th 1679, 1698-1699 [42 Cal.Rptr.2d 136] , internal citations omitted.)

- "Even if [plaintiff] was able to provide credible evidence of lost profits, it must be remembered that '[w]hen loss of anticipated profits is an element of damages, it means net and not gross profits. Net profits are the gains made from sales 'after deducting the value of the labor, materials, rents, and all expenses, together with the interest of the capital employed.' " (Resort Video, Ltd., supra, 35 Cal.App.4th at p. 1700 , internal citations omitted.)

- "Under general contract principles, when one party breaches a contract the other party ordinarily is entitled to damages sufficient to make that party 'whole,' that is, enough to place the nonbreaching party in the same position as if the breach had not occurred. This includes future profits the breach prevented the nonbreaching party from earning at least to the extent those future profits can be estimated with reasonable certainty." (Postal Instant Press v. Sealy (1996) 43 Cal.App.4th 1704, 1708-1709 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 365] , internal citations omitted.)

- "It is the generally accepted rule, in order to recover damages projected into the future, that a plaintiff must show with reasonable certainty that detriment from the breach of contract will accrue to him in the future. Damages which are remote, contingent, or merely possible cannot serve as a legal basis for recovery." (California Shoppers, Inc. v. Royal Globe Insurance Co. (1985) 175 Cal.App.3d 1, 62 [221 Cal.Rptr. 171] , internal citations omitted.)

- "Where the injured party shows that, as a reasonable probability, profits would have been earned on the contract except for its breach, the loss of the anticipated profits is compensable. Where business activity has been interrupted by a breach of contract, damages for the loss of prospective profits that otherwise might have been made from its operation are generally recoverable where such damages are shown to have been foreseeable and reasonably certain." (Brandon & Tibbs v. George Kevorkian Accountancy Corp. (1990) 226 Cal.App.3d 442, 468 [277 Cal.Rptr. 40] , internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 879-882

California Breach of Contract Remedies (Cont.Ed.Bar) Recovery of Money Damages, §§ 4.11-4.17

15 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 177, Damages, § 177.79 (Matthew Bender)

6 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 65, Damages (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 7, Seeking or Opposing Damages in Contract Actions, 7.12

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.91.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care When Determining Profits:

Determination of "profits" can be a difficult and intimidating idea for some jurors. Hence, your related argument should be crafted accordingly. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use of Experts: This is an area that will frequently require expert testimony. By Ronald Oster

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General Overview Contracts Law Remedies General Overview Contracts Law Remedies Foreseeable Damages Lost Profits

115 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 353

CACI 353 Loss of Profits--Some Profits Earned

To recover damages for lost profits, [name of plaintiff] must prove that it is reasonably certain [he/she/it] would have earned more profits but for [name of defendant]'s breach of the contract.

To decide the amount of damages for lost profits, you must:

- 1. First, calculate [name of plaintiff]'s estimated total profit by determining the gross amount [he/she/it] would have received if the contract had been performed, and then subtracting from that amount the costs [including the value of the [labor/materials/rents/expenses/interest on loans invested in the business]] [name of plaintiff] would have had if the contract had been performed;
- 2. Next, calculate [name of plaintiff]'s actual profit by determining the gross amount [he/she/it] actually received, and then subtracting from that amount [name of plaintiff]'s actual costs [including the value of the [labor/materials/rents/expenses/interest on loans invested in the business]]; and
- 3. Then, subtract [name of plaintiff]'s actual profit, which you determined in the second step, from [his/her/its] estimated total profit, which you determined in the first step. The resulting amount is [name of plaintiff]'s lost profit.

You do not have to calculate the amount of the lost profits with mathematical precision, but there must be a reasonable basis for computing the loss.

Read this instruction in conjunction with CACI No. 350, Introduction to Contract Damages, or CACI No. 351, Special Damages.

Insertion of specified types of costs to be deducted from gross earnings is optional, depending on the facts of the case. Other types of costs may be inserted as appropriate.

■ Civil Code section 3301 provides: "No damages can be recovered for a breach of contract which are not clearly ascertainable in both their nature and origin."

■ Restatement Second of Contracts, section 351(3), provides: "A court may limit damages for foreseeable loss by excluding recovery for loss of profits, by allowing recovery only for loss incurred in reliance, or otherwise if it concludes that in the circumstances justice so requires in order to avoid disproportionate compensation."

■ "Where the fact of damages is certain, the amount of damages need not be calculated with absolute certainty. The law requires only that some reasonable basis of computation of damages be used, and the damages may be computed even if the result reached is an approximation. This is especially true where, as here, it is the wrongful acts of the defendant that have created the difficulty in proving the amount of loss of profits or where it is the wrongful acts of the defendant that have caused the other party to not realize a profit to which that party is entitled." (GHK Associates v. Mayer Group (1990) 224 Cal.App.3d 856, 873-874 [274 Cal.Rptr. 168] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "The extent of such damages may be measured by 'the past volume of business and other provable data relevant to the probable future sales.' " (Shade Foods, Inc. v. Innovative Products Sales & Marketing, Inc. (2000) 78 Cal.App.4th 847, 890 [93 Cal.Rptr.2d 364] , internal citation omitted.)

■ " 'Lost profits to an established business may be recovered if their extent and occurrence can be ascertained with reasonable certainty; once their existence has been so established, recovery will not be denied because the amount cannot be shown with mathematical precision.' However, '[i]t has been frequently stated that if a business is new, it is improper to award damages for loss of profits because absence of income and expense experience renders anticipated profits too speculative to meet the legal standard of reasonable certainty necessary to support an award of such damage. However, the rule is not a hard and fast one and loss of prospective profits may nevertheless be recovered if the evidence shows with reasonable certainty both their occurrence and the extent thereof. In the present case the question is whether the evidence of loss of prospective profits meets that standard.' Unestablished businesses have been permitted to claim lost profit damages in situations where owners have experience in the business they are seeking to establish, and where the business is in an established market." (Resort Video, Ltd. v. Laser Video, Inc. (1995) 35 Cal.App.4th 1679, 1698-1699 [42 Cal.Rptr.2d 136] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "Even if [plaintiff] was able to provide credible evidence of lost profits, it must be remembered that '[w]hen loss of anticipated profits is an element of damages, it means net and not gross profits.' Net profits are the gains made from sales 'after deducting the value of the labor, materials, rents, and all expenses, together with the interest of the capital employed.' " (Resort Video, Ltd., supra, 35 Cal.App.4th at p. 1700 , internal citations omitted.)

■ "Under general contract principles, when one party breaches a contract the other party ordinarily is entitled to damages sufficient to make that party 'whole,' that is, enough to place the nonbreaching party in the same position as if the breach had not occurred. This includes future profits the breach prevented the nonbreaching party from earning at least to the extent those future profits can be estimated with reasonable certainty." (Postal Instant Press v. Sealy (1996) 43 Cal.App.4th 1704, 1708-1709 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 365] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "It is the generally accepted rule, in order to recover damages projected into the future, that a plaintiff must show with reasonable certainty that detriment from the breach of contract will accrue to him in the future. Damages which are remote, contingent, or merely possible cannot serve as a legal basis for recovery." (California Shoppers, Inc. v. Royal Globe Insurance Co. (1985) 175 Cal.App.3d 1, 62 [221 Cal.Rptr. 171] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "Where the injured party shows that, as a reasonable probability, profits would have been earned on the contract except for its breach, the loss of the anticipated profits is compensable. Where business activity has been interrupted by a breach of contract, damages for the loss of prospective profits that otherwise might have been made from its operation are generally recoverable where such damages are shown to have been foreseeable and reasonably certain." (Brandon & Tibbs v. George Kevorkian Accountancy Corp. (1990) 226 Cal.App.3d 442, 468 [277 Cal.Rptr. 40] , internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 879-882

California Breach of Contract Remedies (Cont.Ed.Bar) Recovery of Money Damages, §§ 4.11-4.17

15 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 177, Damages, § 177.79 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 7, Seeking or Opposing Damages in Contract Actions, 7.12

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.91.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General Overview Contracts Law Remedies General Overview Contracts Law Remedies Foreseeable Damages Lost Profits

116 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 354

CACI 354 Owner's/Lessee's Damages for Breach of Contract to Construct Improvements on Real Property

To recover damages for breach of a contract to construct improvements on real property, [name of plaintiff] must prove:

[[The reasonable cost to [name of plaintiff] of completing the work;]

[And the value of loss of use of the property;]

[And the reasonable cost of alternative housing from the date the work was to have been completed until the date the work was completed;]

[Less any amounts unpaid under the contract with [name of defendant];]

[or]

[The difference between the fair market value of the [lessee's interest in the] property and its fair market value had the improvements been constructed.]

New September 2003

Read this instruction in conjunction with CACI No. 350, Introduction to Contract Damages. The bracketed options state alternative measures of damage. Choose the option appropriate to the facts of the case. For a definition of "fair market value," see CACI No. 3501, "Fair Market Value" Explained.

■ "The proper measure of damages for breach of a contract to construct improvements on real property where the work is to be done on plaintiff's property is ordinarily the reasonable cost to the plaintiff of completing the work and not the difference between the value of the property and its value had the improvements been constructed. A different rule applies, however, where improvements are to be made on property not owned by the injured party. 'In that event the injured party is unable to complete the work himself and, subject to the restrictions of sections 3300 and 3359 of the Civil Code, the proper measure of damages is the difference in value of the property with and without the promised performance, since that is the contractual benefit of which the injured party is deprived.' " (Glendale Fed. Sav. & Loan Assn. v. Marina View Heights Dev. Co. (1977) 66 Cal.App.3d 101, 123-124 [135 Cal.Rptr. 802], internal citations omitted.)

■ "If the work were to be done on plaintiffs' property the proper measure of damages would ordinarily be the reasonable cost to plaintiffs of completing the work. A different rule applies, however, when the improvements are to be made on property that is not owned by the injured party." (Coughlin v. Blair (1953) 41 Cal.2d 587, 600 [262 P.2d 305] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "It is settled ... that the measure of damages for the breach of a building construction contract is ordinarily such sum as is required to make the building conform to the contract. In such situations, the diminution of value rule cannot be invoked and the measure of damages is not the difference between the actual value of the property and its value had it been constructed in accordance with the plans and specifications." (Kitchel v. Acree (1963) 216 Cal.App.2d 119, 123 [30 Cal.Rptr. 714] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "The available damages for defective construction are limited to the cost of repairing the home, including lost use or relocation expenses, or the diminution in value." (Erlich v. Menezes (1999) 21 Cal.4th 543, 561 [87 Cal.Rptr.2d 886, 981 P.2d 978] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "Where the measure of damages turns on the value of property, whether liability sounds in tort or breach of contract, the normal standard is market value. The definition of market value and the principles governing its ascertainment are the same as those applicable to the valuation of property in eminent domain proceedings and in ad valorem taxation of property. In Sacramento etc. R. R. Co. v. Heilbron, market value was defined as 'the highest price estimated in terms of money which the land would bring if exposed for sale in the open market, with reasonable time allowed in which to find a purchaser, buying with knowledge of all of the uses and purposes to which it was adapted and for which it was capable.' That classic exposition with subsequent refinements has always been the accepted definition of market value in California." (Glendale Federal Savings & Loan Assn., supra, 66 Cal.App.3d at pp. 141-142 , internal citations and footnote omitted.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 909-910

10 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 104, Building Contracts, § 104.10 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

6 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 65, Damages: Contract, § 65.100 (Matthew Bender)

15 California Legal Forms, Ch. 30D, Construction Contracts And Subcontracts, § 30D.223 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 10, Seeking or Opposing Statutory Remedies in Contract Actions, 10.05

Publisher's Notes

There is no BAJI instruction on this subject.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Argument Must Be Clear: Improvements to real property is not a common experience for some jurors. Thus, the related argument must explain things clearly. By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesCompensatory DamagesGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsConstruction Contracts

117 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 355

CACI 355 Obligation to Pay Money Only

To recover damages for the breach of a contract to pay money, [name of plaintiff] must prove the amount due under the contract.

New September 2003

Read this instruction in conjunction with CACI No. 350, Introduction to Contract Damages. If there is a dispute as to the appropriate rate of interest, the jury should be instructed to determine the rate. Otherwise, the judge should calculate the interest and add the appropriate amount of interest to the verdict.

■ Civil Code section 3302 provides: "The detriment caused by the breach of an obligation to pay money only, is deemed to be the amount due by the terms of the obligation, with interest thereon."

■ Civil Code section 3289 provides:

(a) Any legal rate of interest stipulated by a contract remains chargeable after a breach thereof, as before, until the contract is superseded by a verdict or other new obligation.

(b) If a contract entered into after January 1, 1986, does not stipulate a legal rate of interest, the obligation shall bear interest at a rate of 10 percent per annum after a breach.

For the purposes of this subdivision, the term contract shall not include a note secured by a deed of trust on real property.

■ "The section is part of the original Civil Code and was intended to codify a common-law rule of damages for breach of a contract to pay a liquidated sum. In Siminoff v. Jas. H. Goodman & Co. Bank, the court after careful and extensive analysis concluded that section 3302 was not intended to abolish the common-law measure of damages for dishonor of a check. Hartford, in reaching the opposite conclusion, failed even to note the common-law rule or the California cases which had followed it, and did not discuss the strong arguments in its favor advanced in the Siminoff opinion. The Hartford holding on section 3302 no longer applies to the instant problem since section 3320 clearly constitutes 'a legislative recognition that a depositor whose check is wrongfully dishonored may thereby sustain "actual damage" beyond the amount of the check' and thus supersedes the Hartford holding on the measure of damages." (Weaver v. Bank of America National Trust & Savings Assn. (1963) 59 Cal.2d 428, 436, fn. 11 [30 Cal.Rptr. 4, 380 P.2d 644] , internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, § 908

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 7, Seeking or Opposing Damages in Contract Actions, 7.04[7][a]

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI No. 10.93.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care in Explaining Lawsuit: The obligation to owe something is well-known to a vast majority of jurors. However, if your lawsuit presents a different scenario, consider the use of a more everyday experience to explain this lawsuit. By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureRemediesDamagesGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesGeneral Overview

118 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 356

CACI 356 Buyer's Damages for Breach of Contract for Sale of Real Property

To recover damages for the breach of a contract to sell real property, [name of plaintiff] must prove:

- 1. The difference between the fair market value of the property on the date of the breach and the contract price;
- 2. The amount of any payment made by [name of plaintiff] toward the purchase;
- 3. The amount of any reasonable expenses for examining title and preparing documents for the sale;
- 4. The amount of any reasonable expenses in preparing to occupy the property; and
- 5. [Insert item(s) of claimed consequential damages].

New September 2003

Read this instruction in conjunction with CACI No. 350, Introduction to Contract Damages. If the appropriate rate of interest is in dispute, the jury should be instructed to determine the rate. Otherwise, the judge should calculate the interest and add the appropriate amount of interest to the verdict.

For a definition of "fair market value," see CACI No. 3501, "Fair Market Value" Explained.

■ Civil Code section 3306 provides: "The detriment caused by the breach of an agreement to convey an estate in real property, is deemed to be the price paid, and the expenses properly incurred in examining the title and preparing the necessary papers, the difference between the price agreed to be paid and the value of the estate agreed to be conveyed at the time of the breach, the expenses properly incurred in preparing to enter upon the land, consequential damages according to proof, and interest."

■ "Said Civil Code Section 3306, 'relating to detriment caused by breach of agreement to convey an estate in real property being a special provision, prevails over general statutes on damages.' " (Gorges v. Johnson (1959) 167 Cal.App.2d 349, 353 [334 P.2d 621] , internal citations omitted.)

■ Civil Code section 3289 provides:

(a) Any legal rate of interest stipulated by a contract remains chargeable after a breach thereof, as before, until the contract is superseded by a verdict or other new obligation.

(b) If a contract entered into after January 1, 1986, does not stipulate a legal rate of interest, the obligation shall bear interest at a rate of 10 percent per annum after a breach.

For the purposes of this subdivision, the term contract shall not include a note secured by a deed of trust on real property.

■ "A simple reading of the statute discloses that by its explicit terms it is adaptable only to a failure to convey, and not to a delay in conveying." (Christensen v. Slawter (1959) 173 Cal.App.2d 325, 330 [343 P.2d 341] .)

■ "This court itself has recently described section 3306 as providing for 'loss-of-bargain damages' measured by the difference between the contract price and the fair market value on the date of the breach." (Reese v. Wong (2001) 93 Cal.App.4th 51, 56 [112 Cal.Rptr.2d 669] , internal citation omitted.)

■ "It is settled that when a seller of real property fails or refuses to convey, a buyer who has made advance payments toward the purchase price may recover interest on those payments as damages for breach of contract. This rule is not limited to sales of real property; it applies to sales in general." (Al-Husry v. Nilsen Farms Mini-Market, Inc. (1994) 25 Cal.App.4th 641, 648 [31 Cal.Rptr.2d 28] , internal citations omitted.)

■ Section 3306 does not ordinarily apply to breach of an unexercised option to buy property. (Schmidt v. Beckelman (1960) 187 Cal.App.2d 462, 470-471 [9 Cal.Rptr. 736] .)

■ "'Generally, [consequential] damages are those which, in view of all facts known by the parties at the time of the making of the contract, may reasonably be supposed to have been considered as a likely consequence of a breach in the ordinary course of events. This provision would conform the measure of damages in real property conveyance breaches to the general contract measure of damages which is specified in Civil Code 3300: "... all the detriment proximately caused (by the breach), or which, in the ordinary course of things, would be likely to result therefrom." ' " (Stevens Group Fund IV v. Sobrato Development Co. (1991) 1 Cal.App.4th 886, 892 [2 Cal.Rptr.2d 460] , quoting the Assembly Committee on Judiciary.)

■ "Rents received from the lease of the property in this case are not properly an item of consequential damages. Here, plaintiff introduced evidence as to the fair market value of the property which included these profits. To allow these as consequential damages under these circumstances would have permitted a double recovery for plaintiff." (Stevens Group Fund IV, supra, 1 Cal.App.4th at p. 892 .)

■ "The phrase 'to enter upon the land' refers to the taking of possession rather than to things done to put the land to general use." (Crag Lumber Co. v. Crofoot (1956) 144 Cal.App.2d 755, 779 [301 P.2d 952] .)

■ "We think the phrase 'and interest' should continue to be read as referring to the generally applicable provisions of [Civil Code] section 3287 regarding prejudgment interest. As amended in 1967, subdivision (a) of section 3287 establishes a right to recover prejudgment interest on damages 'capable of being made certain by calculation' and subdivision (b) gives the court general discretionary authority to award prejudgment interest where damages are 'based upon a cause of action in contract' The discretionary authority conferred by subdivision (b) will ordinarily apply to loss-of-bargain damages measured by the contract price/market value differential." (Rifkin v. Achermann (1996) 43 Cal.App.4th 391, 397 [50 Cal.Rptr.2d 661].)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 898-900

California Real Property Remedies Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar) Breach of Seller-Buyer Agreements, §§ 4.11-4.14

50 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 569, Vendor and Purchaser, § 569.22 (Matthew Bender)

9 California Legal Forms, Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements, § 23.12 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 7, Seeking or Opposing Damages in Contract Actions, 7.04[7][f]

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 8, Seeking or Opposing Equitable Remedies in Contract Actions, 8.37, 8.58

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI No. 10.94.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General Overview Contracts Law Remedies General Overview Contracts Law Remedies Compensatory Damages General Overview Real Property Law Purchase & Sale General Overview

119 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

*1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 357CACI 357 Seller's Damages for Breach of Contract to Purchase Real Property

To recover damages for the breach of a contract to buy real property, [name of plaintiff] must prove:

- 1. The difference between the amount that was due to [name of plaintiff] under the contract and the fair market value of the property at the time of the breach; [and]
- 2. [Insert item(s) of claimed consequential damages, e.g., resale expenses].

New September 2003

Read this instruction in conjunction with CACI No. 350, Introduction to Contract Damages. If there is a dispute regarding the appropriate rate of interest, the jury should be instructed to determine the rate. Otherwise, the judge should calculate the interest and add the appropriate amount of interest to the verdict.

For a definition of "fair market value," see CACI No. 3501, "Fair Market Value" Explained.

- Civil Code section 3307 provides: "The detriment caused by the breach of an agreement to purchase an estate in real property is deemed to be the excess, if any, of the amount which would have been due to the seller under the contract over the value of the property to him or her, consequential damages according to proof, and interest."

- "It is generally accepted that the equivalent of value to the seller is fair market value. Fair market value is reckoned 'in terms of money.' " (Abrams v. Motter (1970) 3 Cal.App.3d 828, 840-841 [83])

Cal.Rptr. 855] , internal citations omitted.)

- "The "value of the property" to [plaintiff] is to be determined as of the date of the breach of the agreement by [defendant]." (Allen v. Enomoto (1964) 228 Cal.App.2d 798, 803 [39 Cal.Rptr. 815] , internal citation omitted.)

- There can be no damages where the value to the owner equals or exceeds the contract price. (Newhart v. Pierce (1967) 254 Cal.App.2d 783, 792 [62 Cal.Rptr. 553] , internal citation omitted.)

- "[T]he view that this section is exclusive, and precludes other consequential damages occasioned by the breach, was rejected in Royer v. Carter. Under Civil Code, section 3300, other damages are recoverable, usually embracing the out-of-pocket expenses lost by failure of the transaction." (Wade v. Lake County Title Co. (1970) 6 Cal.App.3d 824, 830 [86 Cal.Rptr. 182] , internal citation omitted.)

- "[C]ourts have permitted consequential damages, only where the seller has diligently attempted resale after the buyer has breached the contract." (Askari v. R & R Land Co. (1986) 179 Cal.App.3d 1101, 1107 [225 Cal.Rptr. 285] , internal citation omitted.)

- "[I]f the property increases in value before trial and the vendor resells the property at a price higher than the value of the contract, there are no longer any loss of bargain damages." (Spurgeon v. Drumheller (1985) 174 Cal.App.3d 659, 664 [220 Cal.Rptr. 195] .)

- "The same rule of no loss of bargain damages to the vendor applies where the resale is for the same price as the contract price." (Spurgeon, supra, 174 Cal.App.3d at p. 664 , internal citations omitted.)

- "For the reason that no loss of bargain damages are available to a seller if there is a resale at the same or a higher price than the contract price, the law imposes on the seller of the property the duty to exercise diligence and to make a resale within the shortest time possible. In discussing the duty to mitigate where the vendee seeks return of a deposit, the Sutter court states the requirement that resales be made with reasonable diligence 'states a policy applicable to resales of real property. Whether the resale is made one, two or three months later, or whether it be a year or more, it should be made with reasonable diligence to qualify the vendor to an allowance of an off-set against the vendee's claim for restitution of money paid.' " (Spurgeon, supra, 174 Cal.App.3d at p. 665 , internal citations omitted.)

- "Although it is well settled in the foregoing authorities that damages under Civil Code section 3307 for the difference between the contract price and property value may be insufficient to give the vendor the benefit of his bargain and he is entitled also to resale expenses and some costs of continued ownership, he should not be permitted to receive a windfall at the purchaser's expense." (Smith v. Mady (1983) 146 Cal.App.3d 129, 133 [194 Cal.Rptr. 42] .)

- "Inasmuch as under Abrams and Sutter the vendor has an obligation to resell promptly in order to obtain consequential damages and the resale price may fix the property value as a basis for Civil Code section 3307 damages, we are impelled to conclude that there is no inherent separateness in the original sale and subsequent resale transactions. The increased resale price should not be disregarded in considering an offset to consequential damages awarded to a vendor against a defaulting purchaser of real property." (Smith, supra, 146 Cal.App.3d at p. 133 .)

- "The owner of real or personal property may competently testify to its value." (Newhart, supra, 254 Cal.App.2d at p. 789 , internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 901-906

California Real Property Remedies Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar), Breach of Seller-Buyer Agreements, §§ 4.37-4.43

California Practice Guide: Real Property Transactions (Rutter Group), 11-C, § C., Seller's Remedies Upon Buyer's Breach--Damages and Specific Performance

50 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 569, Vendor and Purchaser, § 569.22 (Matthew Bender)

9 California Legal Forms, Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements, § 23.12 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 7, Seeking or Opposing Damages in Contract Actions, 7.04[7][f]

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 8, Seeking or Opposing Equitable Remedies in Contract Actions, 8.37, 8.58

Publisher's Notes

This instruction replaces BAJI No. 10.95.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care with Argument: As noted in the Practice Tip to CACI No. 354, some jurors are not that familiar with the sale of real property. Thus, be careful with the argument. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Damages Measured as of Time of Breach: Under CACI No. 357, damages are to be measured as of the time of the breach. It is important to keep this requirement in mind since real property values will almost always vary over time. By Ronald Oster

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesGeneral OverviewReal Property LawPurchase & SaleGeneral OverviewReal Property LawPurchase & SaleContracts of SaleGeneral OverviewReal Property LawPurchase & SaleRemediesDamagesGeneral Overview

120 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 358

CACI 358 Mitigation of Damages

If [name of defendant] breached the contract and the breach caused harm, [name of plaintiff] is not entitled to recover damages for harm that [name of defendant] proves [name of plaintiff] could have avoided with reasonable efforts or expenditures. You should consider the reasonableness of [name of plaintiff]'s efforts in light of the circumstances facing [him/her/it] at the time, including [his/her/its] ability to make the efforts or expenditures without undue risk or hardship.

If [name of plaintiff] made reasonable efforts to avoid harm, then your award should include reasonable amounts that [he/she/it] spent for this purpose.

New September 2003

- "The doctrine of mitigation of damages holds that '[a] plaintiff who suffers damage as a result of either a breach of contract or a tort has a duty to take reasonable steps to mitigate those damages and will not be able to recover for any losses which could have been thus avoided.' A plaintiff may not recover for damages avoidable through ordinary care and reasonable exertion. The duty to mitigate damages does not require an injured party to do what is unreasonable or impracticable. 'The rule of mitigation of damages has no application where its effect would be to require the innocent party to sacrifice and surrender important and valuable rights.'" (Valle de Oro Bank v. Gamboa (1994) 26 Cal.App.4th 1686, 1691 [32 Cal.Rptr.2d 329] , internal citations omitted.)

- "A plaintiff who suffers damage as a result of either a breach of contract or a tort has a duty to take reasonable steps to mitigate those damages and will not be able to recover for any losses which could have been thus avoided." (Shaffer v. Debbas (1993) 17 Cal.App.4th 33, 41 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 110] , internal citation omitted.)

■ "A party injured by a breach of contract is required to do everything reasonably possible to negate his own loss and thus reduce the damages for which the other party has become liable. The plaintiff cannot recover for harm he could have foreseen and avoided by such reasonable efforts and without undue expense. However, the injured party is not precluded from recovery to the extent that he has made reasonable but unsuccessful efforts to avoid loss." (Brandon & Tibbs v. George Kevorkian Accountancy Corp. (1990) 226 Cal.App.3d 442, 460 [277 Cal.Rptr. 40] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "The burden of proving that losses could have been avoided by reasonable effort and expense must always be borne by the party who has broken the contract. Inasmuch as the law denies recovery for losses that can be avoided by reasonable effort and expense, justice requires that the risks incident to such effort should be carried by the party whose wrongful conduct makes them necessary. Therefore, special losses that a party incurs in a reasonable effort to avoid losses resulting from a breach are recoverable as damages." (Brandon & Tibbs, supra, 226 Cal.App.3d at pp. 460-461 , internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.56 (Matthew Bender)

15 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 177, Damages (Matthew Bender)

6 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 65, Damages: Contract, §§ 65.103, 65.121 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 7, Seeking or Opposing Damages in Contract Actions, 7.12[6][b], 7.15[4]

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.90.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Arguing Mitigation: Mitigation is usually considered a concept that applies to the defense. However, the second part of CACI No. 358 provides a basis for plaintiff to recover amounts reasonably spent to mitigate damages. Moreover, the duty to mitigate can be used by a plaintiff to explain why the plaintiff did not continue to spend money to perform a contract that defendant had repudiated (i.e., an anticipatory breach [see CACI No. 324]). By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Everyday Experiences to Explain Mitigation: Mitigation is a typical defense. However, many jurors will have difficulties in thinking about mitigation. Thus, often use everyday experiences to explain this concept. By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General Overview Contracts Law Remedies General Overview Contracts Law Remedies Avoidable Consequences

121 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 359

CACI 359 Present Cash Value of Future Damages

To recover for future harm, [name of plaintiff] must prove that such harm is reasonably certain to occur and must prove the amount of those future damages. The amount of damages for future harm must be reduced to present cash value. This is necessary because money received now will, through investment, grow to a larger amount in the future.

To find present cash value, you must determine the amount of money which, if reasonably invested today, will provide [name of plaintiff] with the amount of [his/her/its] future damages.

[You may consider expert testimony in determining the present cash value of future damages.]

[You will be provided with a table to help you calculate the present cash value.]

New September 2003

Present cash value tables have limited application. In order to use the tables, the discount rate to be used must be established by stipulation or by the evidence. Care must be taken that the table selected fits the circumstances of the case. Expert testimony will usually be required to accurately establish present values for future economic losses. However, tables may be helpful in many cases.

Give the second bracketed option if parties have stipulated to a discount rate or evidence has been presented from which the jury can determine an appropriate discount rate. A table appropriate to this calculation should be provided. (See Schiernbeck v. Haight (1992) 7 Cal.App.4th 869, 877 [9 Cal.Rptr.2d 716] .)

■ Civil Code section 3283 provides: "Damages may be awarded, in a judicial proceeding, for detriment resulting after the commencement thereof, or certain to result in the future."

■ "In an action for damages for such a breach, the plaintiff in that one action recovers all his damages, past and prospective. A judgment for the plaintiff in such an action absolves the defendant from any duty, continuing or otherwise, to perform the contract. The judgment for damages is substituted for the wrongdoer's duty to perform the contract." (Coughlin v. Blair (1953) 41 Cal.2d 587, 598 [262 P.2d 305] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "If the breach is partial only, the injured party may recover damages for non-performance only to the time of trial and may not recover damages for anticipated future non-performance. Furthermore, even if a breach is total, the injured party may treat it as partial, unless the wrongdoer has repudiated the contract. The circumstances of each case determine whether an injured party may treat a breach of contract as total." (Coughlin, supra, 41 Cal.2d at pp. 598-599 , internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

15 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 177, Damages, § 177.46 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 7, Seeking or Opposing Damages in Contract Actions, 7.09[3]

Publisher's Notes

There is no BAJI instruction on this subject.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Explaining Present Cash Value: Almost all jurors (and many attorneys and judges) will struggle with the concept of "present cash value." Often expert testimony will be helpful, but such testimony will occasionally make matters even more complicated. Spend a lot of time on this concept. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Calculating Present Cash Value: The plaintiff will usually rely on expert testimony in commercial cases to provide a damage analysis, including present value calculations. Providing the jury with a table to calculate present cash value is taking a big risk. By Ronald Oster

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesCompensatory DamagesGeneral Overview

122 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 360

CACI 360 Nominal Damages

If you decide that [name of defendant] breached the contract but also that [name of plaintiff] was not harmed by the breach, you may still award [him/her/it] nominal damages such as one dollar.

New September 2003

- Civil Code section 3360 provides: "When a breach of duty has caused no appreciable detriment to the party affected, he may yet recover nominal damages."

- "A plaintiff is entitled to recover nominal damages for the breach of a contract, despite inability to show that actual damage was inflicted upon him, since the defendant's failure to perform a contractual duty is, in itself, a legal wrong that is fully distinct from the actual damages. The maxim that the law will not be concerned with trifles does not, ordinarily, apply to violation of a contractual right. Accordingly, nominal damages, which are presumed as a matter of law to stem merely from the breach of a contract may properly be awarded for the violation of such a right. And, by statute, such is also the rule in California." (Sweet v. Johnson (1959) 169 Cal.App.2d 630, 632-633 [337 P.2d 499] , internal citations omitted.)

- "With one exception ... an unbroken line of cases holds that nominal damages are limited to an amount of a few cents or a dollar." (Avina v. Spurlock (1972) 28 Cal.App.3d 1086, 1089 [105 Cal.Rptr. 198] , internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, § 878

15 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 177, Damages, §§ 177.14, 177.71 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 7, Seeking or Opposing Damages in Contract Actions, 7.04[11]

Publisher's Notes

There is no BAJI instruction on this subject.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Seeking Nominal Damages: Nominal damages seem like a strange concept to many jurors. However, in some cases, such damages can lead to other damages. By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesNominal Damages

123 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 361

CACI 361 Plaintiff May Not Recover Duplicate Contract and Tort Damages

[Name of plaintiff] has made claims against [name of defendant] for breach of contract and [insert tort action]. If you decide that [name of plaintiff] has proved both claims, the same damages that resulted from both claims can be awarded only once.

New September 2003

If the issue of punitive damages is not bifurcated, read the following instruction: "You may consider awarding punitive damages only if [name of plaintiff] proves [his/her/its] claim for [insert tort action]."

- "Here the jury was properly instructed that it could not award damages under both contract and tort theories, but must select which theory, if either, was substantiated by the evidence, and that punitive damages could be assessed if defendant committed a tort with malice or intent to oppress plaintiffs, but that such damages could not be allowed in an action based on breach of contract, even though the breach was wilful." (Acadia, California, Ltd. v. Herbert (1960) 54 Cal.2d 328, 336-337 [5 Cal.Rptr. 686, 353 P.2d 294] .)

- "Ordinarily, a plaintiff asserting both a contract and tort theory arising from the same factual setting cannot recover damages under both theories, and the jury should be so instructed. Here, the court did not specifically instruct that damages could be awarded on only one theory, but did direct that punitive damages could be awarded only if the jury first determined that appellant had proved his tort action." (Pugh v. See's Candies, Inc. (1988) 203 Cal.App.3d 743, 761, fn. 13 [250 Cal.Rptr. 195] , internal citation omitted.)

■ "The trial court would have been better advised to make an explicit instruction that duplicate damages could not be awarded. Indeed, it had a duty to do so." (Dubarry International, Inc. v. Southwest Forest Industries, Inc. (1991) 231 Cal.App.3d 552, 565, fn. 16 [282 Cal.Rptr. 181] , internal citation omitted.)

Secondary Sources

15 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 177, Damages, § 177.50 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 7, Seeking or Opposing Damages in Contract Actions, 7.06

Publisher's Notes

There is no BAJI instruction on this subject.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Dividing Damages Among Several Claims:

CACI No. 361 is an important topic for closing argument, especially in cases with multiple defendants. Because some claims may apply to some defendants but not others, plaintiff's counsel must make sure that the jury understands how to divide the damages among several claims to provide the maximum (and collectible) judgment. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Contract vs. Tort Damages: Hopefully, the judge will pare the case down to the point where these too legal principles do not collide. Yet, if not, a careful argument may make the difference in the jury's appreciation of this tension. By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesCompensatory DamagesGeneral OverviewTortsDamagesGeneral Overview

124 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 362-CACI 369

Reserved for Future Use

CACI 362Reserved for Future Use

125 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

*1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 370CACI 370 Common Count: Money Had and Received

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] owes [him/her/it] money. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

- 1. That [name of defendant] received money that was intended to be used for the benefit of [name of plaintiff];
- 2. That the money was not used for the benefit of [name of plaintiff]; and
- 3. That [name of defendant] has not given the money to [name of plaintiff].

New June 2005

The instructions in this series are not intended to cover all available common counts. Users may need to draft their own instructions or modify the CACI instructions to fit the circumstances of their case.

■ " 'The common count is a general pleading which seeks recovery of money without specifying the nature of the claim Because of the uninformative character of the complaint, it has been held that the typical answer, a general denial, is sufficient to raise almost any kind of defense, including some which ordinarily require special pleading.' However, even where the plaintiff has pleaded in the form of a common count, the defendant must raise in the answer any new matter, that is, anything he or she relies on that is not put in issue by the plaintiff." (Title Ins. Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1992) 4 Cal.4th 715, 731 [14 Cal.Rptr.2d 822, 842 P.2d 121] , internal citations and footnote omitted.)

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 370

■ "Although such an action is one at law, it is governed by principles of equity. It may be brought 'wherever one person has received money which belongs to another, and which "in equity and good conscience," or in other words, in justice and right, should be returned. ... The plaintiff's right to recover is governed by principles of equity, although the action is one at law.' " (Mains v. City Title Ins. Co. (1949) 34 Cal.2d 580, 586 [212 P.2d 873] , internal citations omitted.)

■ " 'The action for money had and received is based upon an implied promise which the law creates to restore money which the defendant in equity and good conscience should not retain. The law implies the promise from the receipt of the money to prevent unjust enrichment. The measure of the liability is the amount received.' Recovery is denied in such cases unless the defendant himself has actually received the money." (Rotea v. Izuel (1939) 14 Cal.2d 605, 611 [95 P.2d 927] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "[S]ince the basic premise for pleading a common count ... is that the person is thereby 'waiving the tort and suing in assumpsit,' any tort damages are out. Likewise excluded are damages for a breach of an express contract. The relief is something in the nature of a constructive trust and ... 'one cannot be held to be a constructive trustee of something he had not acquired.' One must have acquired some money which in equity and good conscience belongs to the plaintiff or the defendant must be under a contract obligation with nothing remaining to be performed except the payment of a sum certain in money." (Zumbrun v. University of Southern California (1972) 25 Cal.App.3d 1, 14-15 [101 Cal.Rptr. 499] , internal citations omitted.)

■ " 'This kind of action to recover back money which ought not in justice to be kept is very beneficial, and, therefore, much encouraged. It lies for money paid by mistake, or upon a consideration which happens to fail, or extortion, or oppression, or an undue advantage of the plaintiff's situation contrary to the laws made for the protection of persons under those circumstances.' " (Minor v. Baldrige (1898) 123 Cal. 187, 191 [55 P. 783] , internal citation omitted.)

■ " 'As Witkin states in his text, "[a] common count is proper whenever the plaintiff claims a sum of money due, either as an indebtedness in a sum certain, or for the reasonable value of services, goods, etc., furnished. It makes no difference in such a case that the proof shows the original transaction to be an express contract, a contract implied in fact, or a quasi-contract.' " A claim for money had and received can be based upon money paid by mistake, money paid pursuant to a void contract, or a performance by one party of an express contract." (Utility Audit Co., Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (2003) 112 Cal.App.4th 950, 958 [5 Cal.Rptr.3d 520], internal citations omitted.)

■ "In the common law action of general assumpsit, it is customary to plead an indebtedness using 'common counts.' In California, it has long been settled the allegation of claims using common counts is good against special or general demurrers. The only essential allegations of a common count are '(1) the statement of indebtedness in a certain sum, (2) the consideration, i.e., goods sold, work done, etc., and (3) nonpayment.' A cause of action for money had and received is stated if it is alleged the defendant 'is indebted to the plaintiff in a certain sum "for money had and received by the defendant for the use of the plaintiff." ' " (Farmers Ins. Exchange v. Zerlin (1997) 53 Cal.App.4th 445, 460 [61 Cal.Rptr.2d 707] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "A common count is not a specific cause of action, ... rather, it is a simplified form of pleading normally used to aver the existence of various forms of monetary indebtedness, including that arising from an alleged duty to make restitution under an assumpsit theory. When a common count is used as an alternative way of seeking the same recovery demanded in a specific cause of action, and is based on the same facts, the common count is demurrable if the cause of action is demurrable." (McBride v. Boughton (2004) 123 Cal.App.4th 379, 394 [20 Cal.Rptr.3d 115] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "A cause of action is stated for money had and received if the defendant is indebted to the plaintiff in a certain sum 'for money had and received by the defendant for the use of the plaintiff.' The cause of action is available where, as here, the plaintiff has paid money to the defendant pursuant to a contract which is void for illegality." (Schultz v. Harney (1994) 27 Cal.App.4th 1611, 1623 [33 Cal.Rptr.2d 276] , internal citations omitted.)

■ " 'It is well established in our practice that an action for money had and received will lie to recover money paid by mistake, under duress, oppression or where an undue advantage was taken of plaintiffs' situation whereby money was exacted to which the defendant had no legal right.' " (J.C. Peacock, Inc. v. Hasko (1961) 196 Cal.App.2d 353, 361 [16 Cal.Rptr. 518] , internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

4 Witkin, California Procedure 4th (4th ed. 1997) Pleading, § 522

12 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 121, Common Counts, §§ 121.24[1], 121.51 (Matthew Bender)

4 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 43, Common Counts and Bills of Particulars (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 9, Seeking or Opposing Quantum Meruit or Quantum Valebant Recovery in Contract Actions, 9.02, 9.15, 9.32

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.70.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Using Common Count for Money Had and Received: A common count for money had and received can be useful when an underlying contract is unenforceable or otherwise unavailable. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General Overview Contracts Law Remedies General Overview

126 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

*1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 371CACI 371 Common Count: Goods and Services Rendered

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] owes [him/her/it] money for [goods delivered/services rendered]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

- 1. That [name of defendant] requested, by words or conduct, that [name of plaintiff] [perform services/deliver goods] for the benefit of [name of defendant];
- 2. That [name of plaintiff] [performed the services/delivered the goods] as requested;
- 3. That [name of defendant] has not paid [name of plaintiff] for the [services/goods]; and
- 4. The reasonable value of the [goods/services] that were provided.

New June 2005

■ " 'The common count is a general pleading which seeks recovery of money without specifying the nature of the claim Because of the uninformative character of the complaint, it has been held that the typical answer, a general denial, is sufficient to raise almost any kind of defense, including some which ordinarily require special pleading.' However, even where the plaintiff has pleaded in the form of a common count, the defendant must raise in the answer any new matter, that is, anything he or she relies on that is not put in issue by the plaintiff." (Title Ins. Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1992) 4 Cal.4th 715, 731 [14 Cal.Rptr.2d 822, 842 P.2d 121] , internal citations and footnote omitted.)

■ "To recover on a claim for the reasonable value of services under a quantum meruit theory, a plaintiff must establish both that he or she was acting pursuant to either an express or implied request for services from the defendant and that the services rendered were intended to and did benefit the defendant." (Ochs v. PacificCare of California (2004) 115 Cal.App.4th 782, 794 [9 Cal.Rptr.3d 734] , internal citation omitted.)

■ "[W]here services have been rendered under a contract which is unenforceable because not in writing, an action generally will lie upon a common count for quantum meruit." (Iverson, Yoakum, Papiano & Hatch v. Berwald (1999) 76 Cal.App.4th 990, 996 [90 Cal.Rptr.2d 665] .)

■ "Although such an action is one at law, it is governed by principles of equity. It may be brought 'wherever one person has received money which belongs to another, and which "in equity and good conscience," or in other words, in justice and right, should be returned. ... The plaintiff's right to recover is governed by principles of equity, although the action is one at law.' " (Mains v. City Title Ins. Co. (1949) 34 Cal.2d 580, 586 [212 P.2d 873] , internal citations omitted.)

■ " 'As Witkin states in his text, "[a] common count is proper whenever the plaintiff claims a sum of money due, either as an indebtedness in a sum certain, or for the reasonable value of services, goods, etc., furnished. It makes no difference in such a case that the proof shows the original transaction to be an express contract, a contract implied in fact, or a quasi-contract.' " A claim for money had and received can be based upon money paid by mistake, money paid pursuant to a void contract, or a performance by one party of an express contract." (Utility Audit Co., Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (2003) 112 Cal.App.4th 950, 958 [5 Cal.Rptr.3d 520], internal citations omitted.)

■ "In the common law action of general assumpsit, it is customary to plead an indebtedness using 'common counts.' In California, it has long been settled the allegation of claims using common counts is good against special or general demurrers. The only essential allegations of a common count are '(1) the statement of indebtedness in a certain sum, (2) the consideration, i.e., goods sold, work done, etc., and (3) nonpayment.' " (Farmers Ins. Exchange v. Zerin (1997) 53 Cal.App.4th 445, 460 [61 Cal.Rptr.2d 707] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "A common count is not a specific cause of action, ... rather, it is a simplified form of pleading normally used to aver the existence of various forms of monetary indebtedness, including that arising from an alleged duty to make restitution under an assumpsit theory. When a common count is used as an alternative way of seeking the same recovery demanded in a specific cause of action, and is based on the same facts, the common count is demurrable if the cause of action is demurrable." (McBride v. Boughton (2004) 123 Cal.App.4th 379, 394 [20 Cal.Rptr.3d 115] , internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

4 Witkin, California Procedure 4th (4th ed. 1997) Pleading, § 515

12 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 121, Common Counts, §§ 121.25, 121.55 -121.58 (Matthew Bender)

4 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 43, Common Counts and Bills of Particulars (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 9, Seeking or Opposing Quantum Meruit or Quantum Valebant Recovery in Contract Actions, 9.02, 9.15, 9.32

Publisher's Notes

This instruction covers issues presented in BAJI No. 10.71.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral
OverviewContracts LawRemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawSales of GoodsDamages & RemediesGeneral
Overview

127 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

*1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 372CACI 372 Common Count: Open Book Account

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] owes [him/her/it] money on an open book account. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

- 1. That [name of plaintiff] and [name of defendant] had (a) financial transaction(s);
- 2. That [name of plaintiff] kept an account of the debits and credits involved in the transaction(s);
- 3. That [name of defendant] owes [name of plaintiff] money on the account; and
- 4. The amount of money that [name of defendant] owes [name of plaintiff].

New December 2005

The instructions in this series are not intended to cover all available common counts. Users may need to draft their own instructions or modify the CACI instructions to fit the circumstances of the case.

■ " 'A book account may be deemed to furnish the foundation for a suit in assumpsit ... only when it contains a statement of the debits and credits of the transactions involved completely enough to supply evidence from which it can be reasonably determined what amount is due to the claimant.' ... 'The term "account," ... clearly requires the recording of sufficient information regarding the transaction involved in the suit, from which the debits and credits of the respective parties may be determined, so as to permit the striking of a balance to ascertain what sum, if any, is due to the claimant.' " (Robin v. Smith (1955) 132 Cal.App.2d 288, 291 [282 P.2d 135] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "A book account is defined ... as 'a detailed statement, kept in a book, in the nature of debit and credit, arising out of contract or some fiduciary relation.' It is, of course, necessary for the book to show against whom the charges are made. It must also be made to appear in whose favor the charges run. This may be shown by the production of the book from the possession of the plaintiff and his identification of it as the book in which he kept the account between him and the debtor. An open book account may consist of a single entry reflecting the establishment of an account between the parties, and may contain charges alone if there are no credits to enter. Money loaned is the proper subject of an open book account. Of course a mere private memorandum does not constitute a book account." (Joslin v. Gertz (1957) 155 Cal.App.2d 62, 65-66 [317 P.2d 155] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "A book account may furnish the basis for an action on a common count ' "... when it contains a statement of the debits and credits of the transactions involved completely enough to supply evidence from which it can be reasonably determined what amount is due to the claimant." ' A book account is described as 'open' when the debtor has made some payment on the account, leaving a balance due." (Interstate Group Administrators, Inc. v. Cravens, Dargan & Co. (1985) 174 Cal.App.3d 700, 708 [220 Cal.Rptr. 250] , internal citations and footnote omitted.)

■ "[T]he most important characteristic of a suit brought to recover a sum owing on a book account is that the amount owed is determined by computing all of the credits and debits entered in the book account." (Interstate Group Administrators, Inc., supra, 174 Cal.App.3d at p. 708 .)

■ "It is apparent that the mere entry of dates and payments of certain sums in the credit column of a ledger or cash book under the name of a particular individual, without further explanation regarding the transaction to which they apply, may not be deemed to constitute a 'book account' upon which an action in assumpsit may be founded." (Tillson v. Peters (1940) 41 Cal.App.2d 671, 679 [107 P.2d 434] .)

■ "The law does not prescribe any standard of bookkeeping practice which all must follow, regardless of the nature of the business of which the record is kept. We think it makes no difference whether the account is kept in one book or several so long as they are permanent records, and constitute a system of bookkeeping as distinguished from mere private memoranda." (Egan v. Bishop (1935) 8 Cal.App.2d 119, 122 [47 P.2d 500] .)

■ " 'The common count is a general pleading which seeks recovery of money without specifying the nature of the claim. ... Because of the uninformative character of the complaint, it has been held that the typical answer, a general denial, is sufficient to raise almost any kind of defense, including some which ordinarily require special pleading.' However, even where the plaintiff has pleaded in the form of a common count, the defendant must raise in the answer any new matter, that is, anything he or she relies on that is not put in issue by the plaintiff." (Title Ins. Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1992) 4 Cal.4th 715, 731 [14 Cal.Rptr.2d 822, 842 P.2d 121] , internal citations and footnote omitted.)

■ "Although such an action is one at law, it is governed by principles of equity. It may be brought 'wherever one person has received money which belongs to another, and which "in equity and good conscience," or in other words, in justice and right, should be returned. ... The plaintiff's right to recover is governed by principles of equity, although the action is one at law.' " (Mains v. City Title Ins. Co. (1949) 34 Cal.2d 580, 586 [212 P.2d 873] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "[S]ince the basic premise for pleading a common count ... is that the person is thereby 'waiving the tort and suing in assumpsit,' any tort damages are out. Likewise excluded are damages for a breach of an express contract. The relief is something in the nature of a constructive trust and ... 'one cannot be held to be a constructive trustee of something he had not acquired.' One must have acquired some money which in equity and good conscience belongs to the plaintiff or the defendant must be under a contract obligation with nothing remaining to be performed except the payment of a sum certain in money." (Zumbrun v. University of Southern California (1972) 25 Cal.App.3d 1, 14-15 [101 Cal.Rptr. 499] , internal citations omitted.)

■ " 'As Witkin states in his text, "[a] common count is proper whenever the plaintiff claims a sum of money due, either as an indebtedness in a sum certain, or for the reasonable value of services, goods, etc., furnished. It makes no difference in such a case that the proof shows the original transaction to be an express contract, a contract implied in fact, or a quasi-contract." ' A claim for money had and received can be based upon money paid by mistake, money paid pursuant to a void contract, or a performance by one party of an express contract." (Utility Audit Co., Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (2003) 112 Cal.App.4th 950, 958 [5 Cal.Rptr.3d 520] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "In the common law action of general assumpsit, it is customary to plead an indebtedness using 'common counts.' In California, it has long been settled the allegation of claims using common counts is good against special or general demurrers. The only essential allegations of a common count are '(1) the statement of indebtedness in a certain sum, (2) the consideration, i.e., goods sold, work done, etc., and (3) nonpayment.' " (Farmers Ins. Exchange v. Zerin (1997) 53 Cal.App.4th 445, 460 [61 Cal.Rptr.2d 707] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "A common count is not a specific cause of action, ... rather, it is a simplified form of pleading normally used to aver the existence of various forms of monetary indebtedness, including that arising from an alleged duty to make restitution under an assumpsit theory. When a common count is used as an alternative way of seeking the same recovery demanded in a specific cause of action, and is based on the same facts, the common count is demurrable if the cause of action is demurrable." (McBride v. Boughton (2004) 123 Cal.App.4th 379, 394 [20 Cal.Rptr.3d 115] , internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

4 Witkin, California Procedure (4th ed. 1997) Pleading, § 522

1 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 8, Accounts Stated and Open Accounts, §§ 8.20, 8.47 (Matthew Bender)

12 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 121, Common Counts (Matthew Bender)

4 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 43, Common Counts and Bills of Particulars (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 9, Seeking or Opposing Quantum Meruit or Quantum Valebant Recovery in Contract Actions, 9.02, 9.15, 9.32

Publisher's Notes

There is no BAJI instruction on this subject.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Defeating Claim Based on Open Book Account:

To defeat a claim based on an open book account, the defendant will have to prove that plaintiff's statement of account is inaccurate or incomplete. This could involve an attack on the manner in which the statement was prepared and maintained, or an attack on the underlying transaction itself (e.g., the statement is based on a shipment of goods that were not delivered or were defective). This seems like a straightforward concept but "open book account" can be difficult to prove and, sometimes, to defeat. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawSales of GoodsDamages & RemediesGeneral Overview

128 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 373

CACI 373 Common Count: Account Stated

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] owes [him/her/it] money on an account stated. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

- 1. That [name of defendant] owed [name of plaintiff] money from previous financial transactions;
- 2. That [name of plaintiff] and [name of defendant], by words or conduct, agreed that the amount stated in the account was the correct amount owed to [name of plaintiff];
- 3. That [name of defendant], by words or conduct, promised to pay the stated amount to [name of plaintiff];
- 4. That [name of defendant] has not paid [name of plaintiff] [any/all] of the amount owed under this account; and
- 5. The amount of money [name of defendant] owes [name of plaintiff].

New December 2005

■ "The essential elements of an account stated are: (1) previous transactions between the parties establishing the relationship of debtor and creditor; (2) an agreement between the parties, express or implied, on the amount due from the debtor to the creditor; (3) a promise by the debtor, express or implied, to pay the amount due." (Zinn v. Fred R. Bright Co. (1969) 271 Cal.App.2d 597, 600 [76 Cal.Rptr. 663] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "The agreement of the parties necessary to establish an account stated need not be express and frequently is implied from the circumstances. In the usual situation, it comes about by the creditor rendering a statement of the account to the debtor. If the debtor fails to object to the statement within a reasonable time, the law implies his agreement that the account is correct as rendered." (Zinn, supra, 271 Cal.App.2d at p. 600 , internal citations omitted.)

■ "An account stated is an agreement, based on the prior transactions between the parties, that the items of the account are true and that the balance struck is due and owing from one party to another. When the account is assented to, 'it becomes a new contract. An action on it is not founded upon the original items, but upon the balance agreed to by the parties. ...' Inquiry may not be had into those matters at all. It is upon the new contract by and under which the parties have adjusted their differences and reached an agreement.' " (Gleason v. Klamer (1980) 103 Cal.App.3d 782, 786-787 [163 Cal.Rptr. 483] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "To be an account stated, 'it must appear that at the time of the statement an indebtedness from one party to the other existed, that a balance was then struck and agreed to be the correct sum owing from the debtor to the creditor, and that the debtor expressly or impliedly promised to pay to the creditor the amount thus determined to be owing.' The agreement necessary to establish an account stated need not be express and is frequently implied from the circumstances. When a statement is rendered to a debtor and no reply is made in a reasonable time, the law implies an agreement that the account is correct as rendered. Actions on accounts stated frequently arise from a series of transactions which also constitute an open book account. However, an account stated may be found in a variety of commercial situations. The acknowledgement of a debt consisting of a single item may form the basis of a stated account. The key element in every context is agreement on the final balance due." (Maggio, Inc. v. Neal (1987) 196 Cal.App.3d 745, 752-753 [241 Cal.Rptr. 883] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "An account stated need not be submitted by the creditor to the debtor. A statement expressing the debtor's assent and acknowledging the agreed amount of the debt to the creditor equally establishes an account stated." (Truestone, Inc. v. Simi West Industrial Park II (1984) 163 Cal.App.3d 715, 726 [209 Cal.Rptr. 757] , internal citations omitted.)

■ " 'The common count is a general pleading which seeks recovery of money without specifying the nature of the claim Because of the uninformative character of the complaint, it has been held that the typical answer, a general denial, is sufficient to raise almost any kind of defense, including some which ordinarily require special pleading.' However, even where the plaintiff has pleaded in the form of a common count, the defendant must raise in the answer any new matter, that is, anything he or she relies on that is not put in issue by the plaintiff." (Title Ins. Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1992) 4 Cal.4th 715, 731 [14 Cal.Rptr.2d 822, 842 P.2d 121] , internal citations and footnote omitted.)

■ "The account stated may be attacked only by proof of 'fraud, duress, mistake, or other grounds cognizable in equity for the avoidance of an instrument.' The defendant 'will not be heard to answer when action is brought upon the account stated that the claim or demand was unjust, or invalid.' " (Gleason, supra, 103 Cal.App.3d at p. 787 , internal citations omitted.)

■ "An account stated need not cover all the dealings or claims between the parties. There may be a partial settlement and account stated as to some of the transactions." (Gleason, supra, 103 Cal.App.3d at p. 790 , internal citation omitted.)

■ "In the common law action of general assumpsit, it is customary to plead an indebtedness using

'common counts.' In California, it has long been settled the allegation of claims using common counts is good against special or general demurrers. The only essential allegations of a common count are '(1) the statement of indebtedness in a certain sum, (2) the consideration, i.e., goods sold, work done, etc., and (3) nonpayment.' " (Farmers Ins. Exchange v. Zerin (1997) 53 Cal.App.4th 445, 460 [61 Cal.Rptr.2d 707] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "A common count is not a specific cause of action, ... rather, it is a simplified form of pleading normally used to aver the existence of various forms of monetary indebtedness, including that arising from an alleged duty to make restitution under an assumpsit theory. When a common count is used as an alternative way of seeking the same recovery demanded in a specific cause of action, and is based on the same facts, the common count is demurrable if the cause of action is demurrable." (McBride v. Boughton (2004) 123 Cal.App.4th 379, 394 [20 Cal.Rptr.3d 115] , internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

4 Witkin, California Procedure (4th ed. 1997) Pleading, § 515

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, §§ 972-973

1 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 8, Accounts Stated and Open Accounts, §§ 8.10, 8.40 -8.46 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 9, Seeking or Opposing Quantum Meruit or Quantum Valebant Recovery in Contract Actions, 9.02, 9.15, 9.32

Publisher's Notes

There is no BAJI instruction on this subject.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesCompensatory DamagesGeneral OverviewContracts LawSales of GoodsDamages & RemediesGeneral Overview

129 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

*1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 374CACI 374 Common Count: Mistaken Receipt

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] owes [him/her/it] money [that was paid/for goods that were received] by mistake. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

- 1. That [name of plaintiff] [paid [name of defendant] money/sent goods to [name of defendant]] by mistake;
- 2. That [name of defendant] did not have a right to [that money/the goods];
- 3. That [name of plaintiff] has asked [name of defendant] to return the [money/goods];
- 4. That [name of defendant] has not returned the [money/goods] to [name of plaintiff]; and
- 5. The amount of money that [name of defendant] owes [name of plaintiff].

New December 2005

■ " 'As Witkin states in his text, "[a] common count is proper whenever the plaintiff claims a sum of money due, either as an indebtedness in a sum certain, or for the reasonable value of services, goods, etc., furnished. It makes no difference in such a case that the proof shows the original transaction to be an express contract, a contract implied in fact, or a quasi-contract." ' A claim for money had and received can be based upon money paid by mistake, money paid pursuant to a void contract, or a performance by one party of an express contract." (Utility Audit Co., Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (2003) 112 Cal.App.4th 950, 958 [5 Cal.Rptr.3d 520] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "It is well settled that no contract is necessary to support an action for money had and received other than the implied contract which results by operation of law where one person receives the money of another which he has no right, conscientiously, to retain. Under such circumstances the law will imply a promise to return the money. The action is in the nature of an equitable one and is based on the fact that the defendant has money which, in equity and good conscience, he ought to pay to the plaintiffs. Such an action will lie where the money is paid under a void agreement, where it is obtained by fraud or where it was paid by a mistake of fact." (Stratton v. Hanning (1956) 139 Cal.App.2d 723, 727 [294 P.2d 66] , internal citations omitted.)

■ Restatement First of Restitution, section 28, provides:

A person who has paid money to another because of a mistake of fact and who does not obtain what he expected in return is entitled to restitution from the other if the mistake was induced:

(a) by the fraud of the payee, or

(b) by his innocent and material misrepresentation, or

(c) by the fraud or material misrepresentation of a person purporting to act as the payee's agent, or

(d) by the fraud or material misrepresentation of a third person, provided that the payee has notice of the fraud or representation before he has given or promised something of value.

■ "Money paid upon a mistake of fact may be recovered under the common count of money had and received. The plaintiff, however negligent he may have been, may recover if his conduct has not altered the position of the defendant to his detriment." (Thresher v. Lopez (1921) 52 Cal.App. 219, 220 [198 P. 419] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "The common count is a general pleading which seeks recovery of money without specifying the nature of the claim Because of the uninformative character of the complaint, it has been held that the typical answer, a general denial, is sufficient to raise almost any kind of defense, including some which ordinarily require special pleading.' However, even where the plaintiff has pleaded in the form of a common count, the defendant must raise in the answer any new matter, that is, anything he or she relies on that is not put in issue by the plaintiff." (Title Ins. Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1992) 4 Cal.4th 715, 731 [14 Cal.Rptr.2d 822, 842 P.2d 121] , internal citations and footnote omitted.)

■ "Although such an action is one at law, it is governed by principles of equity. It may be brought 'wherever one person has received money which belongs to another, and which "in equity and good conscience," or in other words, in justice and right, should be returned. ... The plaintiff's right to recover is governed by principles of equity, although the action is one at law.' " (Mains v. City Title Ins. Co. (1949) 34 Cal.2d 580, 586 [212 P.2d 873] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "In the common law action of general assumpsit, it is customary to plead an indebtedness using 'common counts.' In California, it has long been settled the allegation of claims using common counts is good against special or general demurrers. The only essential allegations of a common count are '(1) the statement of indebtedness in a certain sum, (2) the consideration, i.e., goods sold, work done, etc., and (3) nonpayment.' " (Farmers Ins. Exchange v. Zerlin (1997) 53 Cal.App.4th 445, 460 [61 Cal.Rptr.2d 707] , internal citations omitted.)

■ "A common count is not a specific cause of action, ... rather, it is a simplified form of pleading normally used to

over the existence of various forms of monetary indebtedness, including that arising from an alleged duty to make restitution under an assumpsit theory. When a common count is used as an alternative way of seeking the same recovery demanded in a specific cause of action, and is based on the same facts, the common count is demurrable if the cause of action is demurrable." (McBride v. Boughton (2004) 123 Cal.App.4th 379, 394 [20 Cal.Rptr.3d 115] , internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

4 Witkin, California Procedure (4th ed. 1997) Pleading, § 515

12 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 121, Common Counts (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 9, Seeking or Opposing Quantum Meruit or Quantum Valebant Recovery in Contract Actions, 9.02, 9.15, 9.32

Publisher's Notes

There is no BAJI instruction on this subject.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General Overview Contracts Law Defenses Ambiguity & Mistake General Overview Contracts Law Remedies General Overview Contracts Law Remedies Compensatory Damages General Overview

130 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI 375-CACI 399

Reserved for Future Use

CACI 375Reserved for Future Use

131 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

*1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI VF-300CACI VF-300 Breach of Contract

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Did [name of plaintiff] and [name of defendant] enter into a contract?

_____ Yes _____ No

If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. Did [name of plaintiff] do all, or substantially all, of the significant things that the contract required [him/her/it] to do?

_____ Yes _____ No

If your answer to question 2 is yes, then skip question 3 and answer question 4. If you answered no, answer question 3.

3. Was [name of plaintiff] excused from having to do all, or substantially all, of the significant things that the contract required [him/her/it] to do?

_____ Yes _____ No

If your answer to question 3 is yes, then answer question 4. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

4. Did all the conditions occur that were required for [name of defendant]'s performance?

_____ Yes _____ No

If your answer to question 4 is yes, then answer question 5. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

5. Did [name of defendant] fail to do something that the contract required [him/her/it] to do?

_____ Yes _____ No

If your answer to question 5 is yes, then answer question 6. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

6. Was [name of plaintiff] harmed by that failure?

_____ Yes _____ No

If your answer to question 6 is yes, then answer question 7. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

7. What are [name of plaintiff]'s damages?

[a. Past [economic] loss [including [insert descriptions of claimed damages]]:..... $_____]

[b. Future [economic] loss [including [insert descriptions of claimed damages]]:..... $_____]

..... TOTAL $_____

Signed: _____

Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

[After it has been signed/After all verdict forms have been signed], deliver this verdict form to the [clerk/bailiff/judge].

New April 2004

If the verdict form used combines other causes of action involving both economic and non-economic damages, use "economic" in question 7.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 303, Breach of Contract--Essential Factual Elements. This form is intended for use in most contract disputes. If more specificity is desired, see verdict forms that follow.

If the allegation is that the defendant breached the contract by doing something that the contract prohibited, then change question 5 to the following: "Did [name of defendant] do something that the contract prohibited [him/her/it] from doing?"

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize the damages listed in question 7. The breakdown is optional depending on the circumstances. If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form.

Publisher's Notes

There is no BAJI verdict form on this subject.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Using CACI VF-300: Obviously, this is a key instruction. However, first consider whether you want the jury to be so specific. Sometimes that is not beneficial (e.g., may adversely impact insurance coverage), but other times a detailed instruction can aid the jurors. Thus, if using CACI VF-300, consider an argument using a demonstrative prop to aid the jury when making the related argument. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Go Over Each Question in Closing: In cases where a special verdict is used, counsel should go over each question in closing argument, preferably with the use of enlargements or other graphic aids. By Ronald Oster

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJurorsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsVerdictsSpecial VerdictsContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral Overview

132 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI VF-301

CACI VF-301 Breach of Contract--Affirmative Defense--Unilateral Mistake of Fact

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Was [name of defendant] mistaken about [insert description of mistake]?

_____ Yes _____ No

If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. Did [name of plaintiff] know that [name of defendant] was mistaken and use that mistake to take advantage of [him/her/it]?

_____ Yes _____ No

If your answer to question 2 is yes, then answer question 3. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

3. Was [name of defendant]'s mistake caused by [his/her/its] excessive carelessness?

_____ Yes _____ No

If your answer to question 3 is no, then answer question 4. If you answered yes, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

4. Would [name of defendant] have agreed to enter into the contract if [he/she/it] had known about the mistake?

_____ Yes _____ No

Signed: _____

Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

[After it has been signed/After all verdict forms have been signed], deliver this verdict form to the [clerk/bailiff/judge].

New April 2004

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case. This form is not a stand-alone verdict form. It may be incorporated into VF-300, Breach of Contract, if the elements of the affirmative defense are at issue.

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 330, Affirmative Defense--Unilateral Mistake of Fact. The verdict forms do not address all available affirmative defenses. The parties may need to create their own verdict forms to fit the issues involved in the case.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form.

Publisher's Notes

There is no BAJI verdict form on this subject.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care When Arguing Unilateral Mistake: A "unilateral mistake" is normally beyond the experiences of many jurors. Thus, be careful how you explain or attack this legal principle. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Go Over Each Question in Closing: In cases where a special verdict is used, counsel should go over each question in closing argument, preferably with the use of enlargements or other graphic aids. By Ronald Oster

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeUnilateral MistakeContracts LawFormationAmbiguity & MistakeUnilateral Mistake

133 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

*1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI VF-302CACI VF-302 Breach of Contract--Affirmative Defense--Duress

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Did [name of plaintiff] use a wrongful act or wrongful threat to pressure [name of defendant] into consenting to the contract?

_____ Yes _____ No

If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. Was [name of defendant] so afraid or intimidated by the wrongful act or wrongful threat that [he/she] did not have the free will to refuse to consent to the contract?

_____ Yes _____ No

If your answer to question 2 is yes, then answer question 3. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

3. Would [name of defendant] have consented to the contract without the wrongful act or wrongful threat?

_____ Yes _____ No

Signed: _____

Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

[After it has been signed/After all verdict forms have been signed], deliver this verdict form to the [clerk/bailiff/judge].

New April 2004

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case. This form is not a stand-alone verdict form. It may be incorporated into VF-300, Breach of Contract, if the elements of the affirmative defense are at issue.

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 332, Affirmative Defense--Duress. The verdict forms do not address all available affirmative defenses. The parties may need to create their own verdict forms to fit the issues involved in the case.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form.

Publisher's Notes

There is no BAJI verdict form on this subject.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsVerdictsSpecial VerdictsContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral Overview

134 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI VF-303

CACI VF-303 Breach of Contract--Contract Formation at Issue

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Were the contract terms clear enough so that the parties could understand what each was required to do?

_____ Yes _____ No

If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. Did the parties agree to give each other something of value?

_____ Yes _____ No

If your answer to question 2 is yes, then answer question 3. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

3. Did the parties agree to the terms of the contract?

_____ Yes _____ No

If your answer to question 3 is yes, then answer question 4. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

4. Did [name of plaintiff] do all, or substantially all, of the significant things that the contract required [him/her/it] to do?

_____ Yes _____ No

If your answer to question 4 is yes, then skip question 5 and answer question 6. If you answered no, answer question 5.

5. Was [name of plaintiff] excused from having to do all, or substantially all, of the significant things that the contract required [him/her/it] to do?

_____ Yes _____ No

If your answer to question 5 is yes, then answer question 6. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

6. Did all the conditions occur that were required for [name of defendant]'s performance?

_____ Yes _____ No

If your answer to question 6 is yes, then answer question 7. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

7. Did [name of defendant] fail to do something that the contract required [him/her/it] to do?

_____ Yes _____ No

If your answer to question 7 is yes, then answer question 8. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

8. Was [name of plaintiff] harmed by that failure?

_____ Yes _____ No

If your answer to question 8 is yes, then answer question 9. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

9. What are [name of plaintiff]'s damages?

[a. Past economic loss:..... $_____]

[b. Future economic loss:..... $_____]

..... TOTAL $_____

Signed: _____
Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

[After it has been signed/After all verdict forms have been signed], deliver this verdict form to the [clerk/bailiff/judge].

New October 2004

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 302, Contract Formation--Essential Factual Elements, and CACI No. 303, Breach of Contract--Essential Factual Elements. The elements concerning the parties' legal capacity and legal purpose will likely not be issues for the jury. If the jury is needed to make a factual determination regarding these issues, appropriate questions may be added to this verdict form.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 9. The breakdown is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form.

Publisher's Notes

There is no BAJI verdict form on this subject.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsVerdictsSpecial VerdictsContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationGeneral Overview

135 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3 California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions

1-3 California Forms of Jury Instruction CACI VF-304-CACI VF-399

Reserved for Future Use

CACI VF-304Reserved for Future Use

136 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction 3A.syn

§ 3A.syn Synopsis to Chapter 3A: Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions

MB 300A.01 Definition of Contract

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Definition of a Contract

[b] Elements of a Contract

[c] Oral Contracts

[d] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300A.02 Use of Nontechnical Language

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Liberal Construction

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300A.03 Objective Test of Agreement

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300A.04 Agreement Not to Be Bound

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300A.05 Contract--Express or Implied

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Implied Contract

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300A.06 Implied Contracts (Literary Property)

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Implied Agreement for Payment

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300A.07 Account Stated by Creditor

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300A.08 Contracts Implied by Law--Goods Supplied or Services Rendered

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Quasi-contract

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300A.09 Recovery in Quantum Meruit When Contract Is Illegal

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300A.10 Seller--Recovery of Price of Goods Sold

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300A.11-MB 300A.19 [Reserved for Future Use]

MB 300A.20 Offer Defined

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Definition of Offer

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300A.21 Revocation

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Revocation

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction 3A.syn

MB 300A.22 Acceptance by Words or Conduct

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Acceptance

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300A.23 Offer Accepted by Mailing of Acceptance

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Acceptance by Mail

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300A.24 Method of Acceptance Specified by Offer

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Prescribed Manner of Acceptance

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300A.25 Acceptance

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Acceptance Must Be Absolute

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300A.26 Acceptance of Benefits Assumes Duties

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Acceptance of Benefits Assumes Duties

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300A.27 Acceptance of Same Thing Offered

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Acceptance of Same Thing

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300A.28 Silence as Acceptance

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Communication of Acceptance

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300A.29-MB 300A.39 [Reserved for Future Use]

MB 300A.40 Consideration--Thing of Value

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300A.41 Agreed-Upon Exchange

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300A.42 Existing Obligation and Compromise of Existing Claim

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300A.43 Past Performance Insufficient

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300A.44 Consideration for Written Agreements

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300A.45 Consideration for Modification of Contract Not in Writing

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Means of Modification

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300A.46 Consideration Required for Modification of Written Contract by Oral Agreement

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Modification by Subsequent Oral Agreement

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300A.47 Oral Modification of Written Contract Dependent on Waiver or Estoppel

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Effect of Waiver and Estoppel

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300A.48-MB 300A.59 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300A.60 Promissory Estoppel

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

137 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction Scope

Scope

SCOPE

This chapter covers the basic issues of contract formation that are likely to be presented to a jury. For the Judicial Council instructions on formation, performance, modification, interpretation, and breach of contract, see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions. Ch. 3 also includes Judicial Council instructions on contract defenses and damages. The instructions in this chapter are intended to supplement the Judicial Council instructions [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1050].

This chapter covers the following topics:

- Part A includes instructions on the different ways in which contracts may be formed, that is, expressly or implicitly, orally or in writing [see MB 300A.01 -MB 300A.10]. The determination of whether an oral or implied contract has been formed requires the jury to interpret the parties' conduct. Therefore, it may be necessary to include instructions on legal principles applicable to interpretation issues, which are discussed in Ch. 3B, Matthew Bender Interpretation of Contract Instructions.
- Part B includes instructions on various consent issues [see MB 300A.20-MB 300A.28].
- Part C includes instructions for cases in which an issue involving consideration may present a question of fact, such as implied contracts or the modification of written contracts [see MB 300.40 -MB 300A.47].
- Part D includes an instruction on promissory estoppel [see MB 300A.60].

Ch. 3C, Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions, contains instructions on the persons who may sue or be sued on a contract, including the capacity of minors. Ch. 3F, Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions, includes instructions on fact issues arising out of the alleged incapacity of an adult to enter into a contract.

138 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions
PART A TYPES OF CONTRACT

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.01

MB 300A.01 Definition of Contract

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A contract is an agreement to do a certain thing.

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

It can also be an agreement not to do a certain thing.

Authority: Civ. Code § 1549.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in combination with the instructions applicable to the particular type of contract involved, that is, written or oral, express or implied. For example, if one of the issues is whether an oral agreement was formed, the instructions might be put together in the following way: "The first question is whether there was a contract between the parties for defendant to pay plaintiff a finder's fee. A contract is an agreement to do a certain thing." This would be followed by further applicable instructions on the issue of formation of a contract.

This instruction might also be used in a case when there is no issue of formation of contract as such, as an introduction to an understanding of other contract issues about which the jury will be instructed.

The optional paragraph is for use in cases when the agreement is to refrain from doing something. It is unnecessary and potentially confusing to include the negative when it has no application in the case.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][d], below.

[3] Comment

[a] Definition of a Contract

A contract is an agreement to do or not to do a certain thing [Civ. Code § 1549]. The plaintiff has the burden of proving the existence of the contract because it is an essential element of the plaintiff's claim [Evid. Code § 500; Reichert v. General Ins. Co. (1968) 68 Cal.2d 822, 830, 69 Cal.Rptr. 321, 442 P.2d 377].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care If Using Statutory Definition of "Contract": Most jurors have a basic understanding of a contract. However, many may be confused by the legal explanation of that term in this instruction [see Civ. Code § 1549]. Thus, be careful how you address that situation. By Rex Heeseman

[b] Elements of a Contract

For there to be a contract, all of the following must exist [Civ. Code § 1550]:

- The parties must be capable of contracting;
- The parties must give their consent;
- The contract must have a lawful object; and
- The contract must have a sufficient cause or consideration.

The plaintiff has the burden of proving the existence of the contract because it is an essential element of the plaintiff's claim [Evid. Code § 500; Reichert v. General Ins. Co. (1968) 68 Cal.2d 822, 830, 69 Cal.Rptr. 321, 442 P.2d 377].

[c] Oral Contracts

By statute, contracts can be oral unless the statute of frauds is applicable [Civ. Code § 1622; see, e.g., Cable & Computer Technology, Inc. v. Lockheed Sanders, Inc. (9th Cir. 2000) 214 F.3d 1030, 1035 (evidence of exchange of promises supported by consideration, to team that would submit subcontract bid to defense contractor, would establish oral contract under California law; issue of fact precluded summary judgment)]. The principal statute of frauds is Civ. Code § 1624, instructions for which are included in Ch. 3F, Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions . The Uniform Commercial Code contains its own statute of frauds governing the sale of goods [see Ch. 3H, Matthew Bender Commercial Code Sales Contract Instructions].

The fact that there are only certain categories of contracts that must be in writing does not affect the parties' right to choose to express their agreement exclusively in writing. A dispute over whether a writing expresses all of the parties' agreement presents a parol evidence question [see Ch. 3B, Matthew Bender Interpretation of Contract Instructions]. When only part of an agreement is in writing, parol evidence is admissible to prove the elements of the agreement that were not reduced to writing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1856(b); Masterson v. Sine (1968) 68 Cal.2d 222, 225, 65 Cal.Rptr. 545, 436 P.2d 561 ; Hulse v. Juillard Fancy Foods Co. (1964) 61 Cal.2d 571, 573, 39 Cal.Rptr. 529, 394 P.2d 65]. However, if the trial judge determines that the entire agreement has been reduced to an integrated writing, parol evidence of additional or contradictory terms is inadmissible [Code Civ. Proc. § 1856(b), (d); Masterson v. Sine (1968) 68 Cal.2d 222, 225, 65 Cal.Rptr. 545, 436 P.2d 561 ; EPA Real Estate Partnership v. Kang (1992) 12 Cal.App.4th 171, 175, 177, 15 Cal.Rptr.2d 209 ; Banco Do Brasil, S.A. v. Latian, Inc. (1991) 234 Cal.App.3d 973, 1000-1001, 1008-1009, 285 Cal.Rptr. 870 ; see Ch. 3B, Matthew Bender Interpretation of Contract Instructions].

[d] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 302 Contract Formation--Essential Factual Elements

CACI No. 303 Breach of Contract--Essential Factual Elements

CACI No. 304 Oral or Written Contract Terms

CACI No. 305 Implied-in-Fact Contract

CACI No. 306 Unformalized Agreement

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsOral Agreements

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

139 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions
PART A TYPES OF CONTRACT

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.02

MB 300A.02 Use of Nontechnical Language

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

In considering expressions of agreement, you must not hold the parties to some ideal standard of precision and clarity in their choice of words. You must take language as it is and people as they are.

Authorities: Masterson v. Sine (1968) 68 Cal.2d 222, 224, 65 Cal.Rptr. 545, 436 P.2d 561 ; Rivers v. Beadle (1960) 183 Cal.App.2d 691, 695, 7 Cal.Rptr. 170 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is an issue with regard to the formation of an oral or implied contract or a contract that is partly oral or implied and partly in writing. When an integrated writing is involved, the court will determine the existence and terms of the contract as a matter of law. The purpose of this instruction is to negate any impression that the requirement of certainty [see MB 300A.01] can only be met by formality. It is also useful when either or both of the parties used terms or expressions that may have been understood perfectly by the other party but might seem imprecise or inapt to others.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

[3] Comment

[a] Liberal Construction

Liberal construction of nontechnical language is favored to carry out the intent of the parties [Masterson v. Sine (1968)

68 Cal.2d 222, 224, 65 Cal.Rptr. 545, 436 P.2d 561 ; Rivers v. Beadle (1960) 183 Cal.App.2d 691, 695, 7 Cal.Rptr. 170].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 314 Interpretation--Disputed Term

CACI No. 315 Interpretation--Meaning of Ordinary Words

CACI No. 316 Interpretation--Meaning of Technical Words

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawContract InterpretationGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

140 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions PART A TYPES OF CONTRACT

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.03

MB 300A.03 Objective Test of Agreement

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

To determine what it was the parties agreed to, you must ignore any undisclosed intention of either party and consider only the parties' outward expressions by words and acts.

Authorities: Brant v. California Dairies, Inc. (1935) 4 Cal.2d 128, 133, 48 P.2d 13 ; Blumenfeld v. R. H. Macy & Co. (1979) 92 Cal.App.3d 38, 46, 154 Cal.Rptr. 652 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is an issue as to the parties' agreement on some term of the contract and there is some evidence before them that the contract as expressed does not comport with one of the party's subjective understanding of intent when the agreement was made. For purposes of determining the agreement, the jury will have to ignore evidence of undisclosed intention that may have been admitted on some other issue such as a defense of grounds for rescission or a tort claim by plaintiff for promissory fraud.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Keep Argument Simple: This instruction should be understandable to most jurors. Hence, usually keep your related argument simple. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip --Using MB 300A .03: This is an important instruction because a party's "hidden intentions" are not relevant to interpreting a contract. This issue will usually surface during the course of the trial in determining what evidence is admissible. If some evidence of undisclosed intentions gets into evidence (because it is relevant to some other issue in the case), this instruction is important to limit the impact of such evidence. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

This instruction is based on the modern contract rule requiring objective manifestation of agreement [Brant v. California Dairies, Inc. (1935) 4 Cal.2d 128, 133, 48 P.2d 13 ; Blumenfeld v. R. H. Macy & Co. (1979) 92 Cal.App.3d 38, 46, 154 Cal.Rptr. 652]. In drafting jury instructions, counsel must take pains not to use expressions such as "meeting of the minds," or "intent of the parties," which may suggest that subjective intent is relevant. A party is bound even if he or she misunderstood what he or she was agreeing to do [Blumenfeld v. R. H. Macy & Co. (1979) 92 Cal.App.3d 38, 46, 154 Cal.Rptr. 652]. On the issue of mistake as to the subject matter of the contract, see MB 300A.27[3] (law school problem of the two ships "Peerless"). The objective intent requirement does not affect the relevancy of evidence of subjective intent on the question of whether fraud, mistake, or other grounds for rescission might be present. These instructions are included in Ch. 3G, Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions.

In a sale-of-goods case in which the plaintiff contended that the parties' contract comprised only the defendant's written proposal to furnish goods and the plaintiff's check in full payment, while the defendant contended that additional documents (an invoice, a confirmation, certain receipts) together with the proposal and check evidenced the contract, there was substantial evidence to support the jury's finding in favor of the plaintiff's contention. The court of appeal noted: "And the parties do not dispute that the trial court correctly instructed the jury as follows: ... In determining the terms of the contract ... may consider all of the circumstances surrounding the contract, including the negotiations and statements of the parties prior to the contract; the object, nature, and subject matter of the contract; and the subsequent acts and conduct of the parties" [Brittalia Ventures v. Stuke Nursery Co. (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 17, 23, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 467] . This instruction was submitted by the defendant.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General Overview Contracts Law Contract Interpretation General Overview Contracts Law Formation General Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

141 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions PART A TYPES OF CONTRACT

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.04

MB 300A.04 Agreement Not to Be Bound

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

If there appears to be a contract between two parties but the parties have in fact agreed between themselves that it will not be binding, then no contract exists.

Authorities: P. A. Smith Co. v. Muller (1927) 201 Cal. 219, 222, 256 P. 411 ; Smith v. MacDonald (1918) 37 Cal.App. 503, 505-506, 174 P. 80 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when one party asserts that the parties agreed not to be bound by what otherwise appears to be a binding contract.

[3] Comment

Parties may agree that an instrument that they have executed is not legally enforceable [Smith v. MacDonald (1918) 37 Cal.App. 503, 505, 174 P. 80]. Evidence may always be introduced to show that a contract was a sham [P.A. Smith Co. v. Muller (1927) 201 Cal. 219, 224, 256 P. 411]. It makes no difference if the alleged contract is in writing because the parol evidence rule has no application to an offer of proof that a writing is not intended to have effect [P. A. Smith Co. v. Muller (1927) 201 Cal. 219, 222, 256 P. 411]. It is thereby possible to disprove the validity of what might otherwise appear to be an integrated written agreement and prove the existence of a contrary oral agreement without running afoul of the parol evidence rule [P. A. Smith Co. v. Muller (1927) 201 Cal. 219, 222, 256 P. 411]. Either party may still be liable to third parties based on their apparent contractual relationship or liable to each other in quasi contract.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Be Specific in Argument: This is a challenging concept--that a contract seems present but the parties agreed nothing will be binding. If you are making that argument, try to be specific. By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawContract InterpretationGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

142 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions
PART A TYPES OF CONTRACT

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.05

MB 300A.05 Contract--Express or Implied

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INST. NO. _____

The terms of a contract may be express or implied. The express terms of a contract are stated in words. The implied terms of a contract are shown by conduct.

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

Implied terms can also be shown by custom or usage.

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 1619-1621; Code Civ. Proc. § 1856(c); Penn. Sec. Life Ins. Co. v. Rising (1976) 62 Cal.App.3d 302, 307, 133 Cal.Rptr. 59 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when one party is claiming that there are implied terms to a contract. This instruction should be followed by instructions on the objective standard [see MB 300A.03] and consideration [see MB 300A.40]. These instructions should be sufficient in most situations involving an issue with regard to the formation of an implied contract. However, practitioners should be aware that case law on the particular subject with which they are dealing may require further refinements. An example is the unsolicited submission of a manuscript [see MB 300A.06].

This instruction should not be given when the court has ruled that parol evidence of the contents of an integrated written contract is not admissible or when the statute of frauds is allegedly applicable.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Remember That Actions Speak Louder Than Words: Express terms are usually easy to deal with, but implied terms are not. Recall, though, that "actions speak louder than words." That familiar refrain may simplify your argument. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Important Terms Should Be Expressed: The more important a contract term is to the parties, the more the jury will expect the term to be expressed orally or in writing. If an important term is not expressed, this will require some explanation, such as prior course of conduct between the parties, industry custom and usage, and so on. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Implied Contract

An implied contract is sometimes called an "implied-in-fact" contract to distinguish it from a contract implied by law. An "implied-at-law contract," or "quasi-contract," is in reality not a contract at all, but rather an obligation imposed by law when one party has received unjust enrichment [see In re De Laurentiis Entertainment Group Inc. (9th Cir. 1992) 963 F.2d 1269, 1272 ; County of Santa Clara v. Robbiano (1960) 180 Cal.App.2d 845, 848, 5 Cal.Rptr. 19]. Both types of obligation are often alleged in the same case [see, e.g., Mann v. Columbia Pictures, Inc. (1982) 128 Cal.App.3d 628, 631, 180 Cal.Rptr. 522]. For an implied-in-fact contract to be created, there must exist both mutual assent and consideration to the same extent required of an express contract [Desny v. Wilder (1956) 46 Cal.2d 715, 735, 299 P.2d 257 ; Division of Labor Law Enforcement v. Transpacific Transportation Co. (1977) 69 Cal.App.3d 268, 275, 137 Cal.Rptr. 855]. The only difference between a contract implied-in-fact and an express contract is in the manner of proof of assent: assent to an implied-in-fact contract is determined by evidence of conduct rather than verbal expressions [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal.3d 660, 678 n.16, 134 Cal.Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; Desny v. Wilder (1956) 46 Cal.2d 715, 735-736, 299 P.2d 257]. The burden of proof is on the party seeking to enforce the contract [Mann v. Columbia Pictures, Inc. (1982) 128 Cal.App.3d 628, 646-647, 180 Cal.Rptr. 522].

In Maglica v. Maglica [Maglica v. Maglica (1998) 66 Cal.App.4th 442, 78 Cal.Rptr.2d 101], an unmarried woman claimed breach of an agreement to share in the equity of her cohabitant's lucrative business. The court of appeal held that the trial court erred in giving instructions that may have misled the jury into concluding that evidence that can support a finding of an implied-in-fact contract could not [Maglica v. Maglica (1998) 66 Cal.App.4th 442, 454-457, 78 Cal.Rptr.2d 101 (instructions affirmatively suggested that facts of parties (1) living together, (2) holding themselves out as spouses, and (3) providing services such as companionship could not as a matter of law support finding of implied contract)]. The court stated that the jury instead should have been instructed that although the facts at issue did not by themselves show an implied agreement to share property, they could, when taken together and in conjunction with other facts bearing more directly on the alleged arrangement, show an implied agreement [Maglica v. Maglica (1998) 66 Cal.App.4th 442, 455-457, 78 Cal.Rptr.2d 101].

The same contract may be partly express and partly implied, e.g., an agreement reached by express oral statements and by conduct [Penn. Sec. Life Ins. Co. v. Rising (1976) 62 Cal.App.3d 302, 308, 133 Cal.Rptr. 59] or a written agreement supplemented by implied terms such as those derived from custom and usage [Code Civ. Proc. § 1856(c); Hind v. Oriental Products Co., Inc. (1925) 195 Cal. 655, 667, 235 P. 438 ; Pastorino v. Greene Brothers (1949) 90 Cal.App.2d 841, 845-846, 204 P.2d 368]. However, even if the evidence could support a finding of an implied-in-fact agreement that a newly-hired employee could not be terminated except for good cause, that evidence would be irrelevant when a written contract of employment provides that the employee can be terminated "upon two weeks notice." There cannot be both a valid express contract and also an implied contract, each embracing the same subject but requiring different results [Halvorsen v. Aramark Uniform Services, Inc. (1998) 65 Cal.App.4th 1383, 1388, 77 Cal.Rptr.2d 383].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 305 Implied-in-Fact Contract

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsExpress ContractsContracts LawTypes of ContractsImplied-in-Fact Contracts

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

143 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions
PART A TYPES OF CONTRACT

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.06

MB 300A.06 Implied Contracts (Literary Property)

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

For Plaintiff to recover for the use of [his/her/its] ideas, Plaintiff has the burden of proving all of the following facts:

- 1. That Plaintiff submitted [his/her/its] ideas for _____ [describe ideas] to Defendant, who received the ideas;
- 2. That either before or at the time Plaintiff submitted [his/her/its] ideas to Defendant, [he/she/it] clearly conditioned the submission of the ideas on Defendant's agreement to pay for them if Defendant used them;
- 3. That Defendant knew, or should have known, about the condition of payment _____ [before or at the time] Plaintiff's ideas were submitted by Defendant and Defendant proceeded voluntarily to accept the submission of Plaintiff's ideas; and
- 4. That in _____ [writing or preparing] _____ [describe literary work or portion of literary work that defendant allegedly wrote or prepared from plaintiff's ideas], Defendant actually used Plaintiff's ideas, and not Defendant's own ideas or ideas from another source.

In making your decision as to whether Defendant received and actually used Plaintiff's ideas, you may compare Plaintiff's ideas with Defendant's work. If an ordinary person would consider Defendant's work and Plaintiff's ideas basically similar, this is circumstantial evidence that Defendant did receive and use Plaintiff's ideas. You must weigh this evidence against any other evidence that Defendant did not receive and did not use Plaintiff's ideas.

Authorities: Desny v. Wilder (1956) 46 Cal.2d 715, 299 P.2d 257 ; Mann v. Columbia Pictures, Inc. (1982) 128 Cal.App.3d 628, 180 Cal.Rptr. 522 ; Kovacs v. Mutual Broadcasting System (1950) 99 Cal.App.2d 56, 65, 221 P.2d 108 ; see Gunther-Wahl Prods., Inc. v. Mattel, Inc. (2002) 104 Cal.App.4th 27, 42-43, 128 Cal.Rptr.2d 50 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when plaintiff claims the existence of an implied contract for payment for the use of literary ideas. It is an example of how the type of conduct giving rise to a contract may be circumscribed by case law on a particular subject. On the issue of compensation for the use of literary ideas, it was industry concern over the handling of unsolicited manuscripts that led the courts to specify precisely what conduct would give rise to an implied agreement under such circumstances. The final paragraph instructs the jury that they can compare the ideas and the work to ascertain whether the ideas were received and used. A preponderance of the evidence instruction should be used with this instruction [see Ch. 2, California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions, CACI No. 200 ("Obligation to Prove--More Likely True Than Not True")].

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Remember That Actions Speak Louder Than

Words: As noted in the Practice Tip in MB 300A.05[2], express terms are usually easy to deal with, but implied terms are not. Recall, though, that "actions speak louder than words." That familiar refrain may simplify your argument. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Implied Agreement for Payment

This instruction is a modification of the one given in Mann v. Columbia Pictures, Inc. [Mann v. Columbia Pictures, Inc. (1982) 128 Cal.App.3d 628, 632, 180 Cal.Rptr. 522]. A person who submits literary ideas to another person, who receives them, on the condition that payment will be made if the ideas are used, is entitled to recover on an implied contract if the ideas are used [Desny v. Wilder (1956) 46 Cal.2d 715, 734, 299 P.2d 257]. An inference that the material was received and used can be drawn from similarity of the material submitted and the defendant's work, but the inference can be rebutted by direct evidence to the contrary [Mann v. Columbia Pictures, Inc. (1982) 128 Cal.App.3d 628, 648, 180 Cal.Rptr. 522 ; Kovacs v. Mutual Broadcasting System (1950) 99 Cal.App.2d 56, 65, 221 P.2d 108].

Unlike the instruction given in Mann, the instruction in [1], above, does not include a requirement that the jury find that the ideas that were used had value. In Desny v. Wilder [Desny v. Wilder (1956) 46 Cal.2d 715, 734, 299 P.2d 257], the court held that the fact that the ideas were of some value could automatically be inferred from proof of use [Desny v. Wilder (1956) 46 Cal.2d 715, 743, 299 P.2d 257]. Moreover, since the entire action is predicated on the absence of an agreed price, any recovery will be limited to the reasonable value of plaintiff's ideas [Desny v. Wilder (1956) 46 Cal.2d 715, 734, 299 P.2d 257 ; Mann v. Columbia Pictures, Inc. (1982) 128 Cal.App.3d 628, 632, 180 Cal.Rptr. 522]. Therefore, a separate instruction on reasonable value as the measure of damages should be given [see Ch. 3E, Matthew Bender Contract Damages Instructions].

With regard to the "clearly conditioned" language set forth in the instruction, one court of appeal has held that the trial court prejudicially erred by instructing the jury that plaintiffs had to "clearly condition" the disclosure of their idea on defendant's agreement to pay for it if used. In that case, plaintiffs were invited to submit their ideas to a toy maker, whom plaintiffs claimed subsequently used the ideas without paying for them. The court of appeal held that the instruction as given incorrectly forced the jury to find against plaintiffs unless they "clearly conditioned their disclosure on Mattel's agreement to pay ... if it used the ... concept or any portion of it." The court of appeal found that the jury could easily interpret that language to require an express oral or written representation of compensation, which the law does not require for an implied contract [Gunther-Wahl Prods., Inc. v. Mattel, Inc. (2002) 104 Cal.App.4th 27, 42-43, 128 Cal.Rptr.2d 50].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 305, Implied-in-Fact Contract

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsImplied-in-Fact ContractsContracts LawTypes of ContractsImplied-in-Law Contracts

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

144 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions
PART A TYPES OF CONTRACT

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.07

MB 300A.07 Account Stated by Creditor[1] Instruction[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

For you to find that Defendant is liable to Plaintiff for the balance stated on Plaintiff's bill, Plaintiff has the burden of proving both of the following facts:

- 1. That Defendant received from Plaintiff _____ [describe bill or statement] showing the balance owed by Defendant to Plaintiff; and
- 2. That Defendant indicated agreement with Plaintiff's statement of the balance due.

If Defendant received the bill and failed to object to it within a reasonable time, that is circumstantial evidence that Defendant agreed the bill was owed. The weight you give this evidence is up to you to decide in light of other evidence explaining Defendant's conduct.

Authority: Zinn v. Fred R. Bright Co. (1969) 271 Cal.App.2d 597, 601, 76 Cal.Rptr. 663 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the plaintiff is relying on an account stated resulting from a bill or statement sent to defendant to which defendant did not object. A preponderance of the evidence instruction must be used with this instruction [see Ch. 2, California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions, CACI No. 200 ("Obligation to Prove--More Likely True Than Not True")].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Argument Should Be Thorough But Simple:

"Account stated" is a relatively common legal claim. However, that term is alien to many jurors. Thus,

the related argument should normally be thorough but simple. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Overcoming Concept That "Silence Implies Consent": The concept that "silence implies consent" is reflected in this instruction. This concept can be overcome by showing that the defendant was not aware of the basis for an objection until later. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

An account stated is in effect a type of novation with its own special method of proof. If prior transactions existed for which a balance due was sent to defendant, the plaintiff does not have to sue on the original contract, but may show that defendant failed to object to the balance within a reasonable time. Whether the debtor acquiesced or agreed to the amount due from defendant is a question of fact [Zinn v. Fred R. Bright Co. (1969) 271 Cal.App.2d 597, 601, 76 Cal.Rptr. 663].

An account stated may exist for only some of the parties' transactions [California Milling Corp. v. White (1964) 229 Cal.App.2d 469, 477, 40 Cal.Rptr. 301]. In that situation, the instruction should be modified to indicate which claims on the bill are at issue.

The defendant's failure to object to a statement will support an inference of assent to the balance stated, but the trier of fact may also consider other facts in deciding whether defendant agreed to the bill [Zinn v. Fred R. Bright Co. (1969) 271 Cal.App.2d 597, 601-602, 76 Cal.Rptr. 663].

Ordinarily an account stated will be relied on by the creditor in seeking payment from the debtor, but an account stated may also be a defense against a creditor's claim for a larger amount [see Ch. 3F, Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General Overview Contracts Law Formation General Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

145 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions
PART A TYPES OF CONTRACT

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.08

MB 300A.08 Contracts Implied by Law--Goods Supplied or Services Rendered[1] Instruction[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

To hold Defendant liable to Plaintiff for the reasonable value of _____ [describe the goods or services], Plaintiff has the burden of proving all of the following facts:

1. That Plaintiff in fact _____ [supplied or furnished] _____ [describe goods or services] to Defendant;

2. That Defendant benefited from receiving _____ [describe goods or services]; and

[EITHER (See Use of Instruction)]

3. That under the circumstances, both parties should have expected that the goods were going to be paid for.

[OR]

3. That under the circumstances, both parties should have expected that Plaintiff's services were going to be compensated.

Authorities: Philpott v. Superior Court (1934) 1 Cal.2d 512, 517-518, 36 P.2d 635 ; Culver Adjustment Bureau v. Hawkins Constr. Co. (1963) 217 Cal.App.2d 143, 146, 31 Cal.Rptr. 569 ; Caminetti v. Prudence Etc. Ins. Assn. (1944)

62 Cal.App.2d 945, 951, 146 P.2d 15 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the plaintiff is relying on a quasi-contract for reasonable compensation for goods furnished or services rendered. That cause of action is often combined with a cause of action for breach of contract. It generally permits recovery when an express contract is unenforceable, such as when the statute of frauds prevents recovery on the contract. The first alternative Paragraph 3 is for use when the cause of action is for goods supplied. The second alternative Paragraph 3 is for use when the cause of action is for services rendered. A preponderance of the evidence instruction should be used with this instruction [see Ch. 2, California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions, CACI No. 200 ("Obligation to Prove--More Likely True than Not True")].

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Don't Talk About "Quasi-Contract": This instruction brings to mind the saying "you get what you pay for." Thus, if you receive something, you should expect to pay for it. Taking this or a similar approach is better than talking about a quasi-contract.
By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Quasi-contract

Unlike a true contract, a quasi-contract does not depend on a showing of assent or consideration; instead, it is founded on a relationship from which an obligation is imposed by law, regardless of intent, because good conscience dictates that the person benefited should make reimbursement [In re De Laurentiis Entertainment Group Inc. (9th Cir. 1992) 963 F.2d 1269, 1272 ; County of Santa Clara v. Robbiano (1960) 180 Cal.App.2d 845, 848, 5 Cal.Rptr. 19]. Notwithstanding any equitable aspects of the remedy, the action is one at law for which a jury may be demanded [see Philpott v. Superior Court (1934) 1 Cal.2d 512, 523, 36 P.2d 635].

The most common quasi-contract actions are for goods furnished or for services rendered [see, e.g., Chodos v. West Publishing Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 2002) 292 F.3d 992, 1001-1002 (in case in which legal publisher breached author agreement by rejecting completed manuscript solely for commercial reasons and not because of any defect, author was entitled to sue for restitution for time and effort he reasonably invested in writing manuscript; full performance does not make restitution unavailable if any part of consideration due from defendant is something other than liquidated debt); Day v. Alta Bates (2002) 98 Cal.App.4th 243, 248-249, 119 Cal.Rptr.2d 606 (plaintiff's attorney in unsuccessful medical malpractice action brought quantum meruit action against hospital that filed lien in malpractice action; summary judgment for hospital affirmed as attorney failed to show that his services were either performed at request of hospital or were of benefit to it)]. However, the gravamen of the action--that the defendant has obtained a benefit that may not be justly retained--is not limited to these situations [see Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, §§ 1013-1042 (10th ed. 2005)].

Fact issues properly submitted to the jury include a determination whether the plaintiff rendered the services and whether defendant derived a benefit therefrom [see Culver Adjustment Bureau v. Hawkins Constr. Co. (1963) 217 Cal.App.2d 143, 146, 31 Cal.Rptr. 569 ; Meredith v. Marks (1963) 212 Cal.App.2d 265, 272, 27 Cal.Rptr. 737]. The jury is also entitled to consider whether the services were rendered under circumstances warranting the inference that it was the expectation of both parties that payment should be made [Caminetti v. Prudence Etc. Ins. Assn. (1944) 62 Cal.App.2d 945, 951, 146 P.2d 15 ; see Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, § 1038 (10th ed. 2005)], and the amount of compensation that is reasonable [Meredith v. Marks (1963) 212 Cal.App.2d 265, 272-273, 27 Cal.Rptr. 737 ; see Ch. 3E, Matthew Bender Contract Damages Instructions]. For example, in Maglica v. Maglica [Maglica v. Maglica (1998) 66 Cal.App.4th 442, 78 Cal.Rptr.2d 101], the jury considered the value of services rendered by an unmarried woman to the flashlight business owned by her cohabitant, and awarded $84 million on her quantum meruit claim. The court of appeal held that instructing the jury that it could value the measure of plaintiff's services "by [t]he value by which defendant has benefited as a result of [her] services" was error [Maglica v. Maglica (1998) 66 Cal.App.4th 442, 450-452, 78 Cal.Rptr.2d 101 (jury instruction stated that reasonable value of services could be either (1) reasonable value of what it would have cost defendant to obtain those services from another, or (2) value by which defendant benefited as result of services rendered by plaintiff)]. The court noted that the threshold requirement of a benefit from the services rendered can lead to confusion; that benefit is not necessarily related to the reasonable value of the services [Maglica v. Maglica (1998) 66 Cal.App.4th 442, 450-451, 78 Cal.Rptr.2d 101].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 305 Implied-in-Fact Contract

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General Overview Contracts Law Formation General Overview Contracts Law Sales of Goods Damages & Remedies General Overview Contracts Law Types of Contracts Implied-in-Law Contracts

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

146 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions
PART A TYPES OF CONTRACT

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.09

MB 300A.09 Recovery in Quantum Meruit When Contract Is Illegal

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The contract between Plaintiff and Defendant was not enforceable because _____ [describe illegality]. However, this does not necessarily mean that Plaintiff should not get paid anything for the work done. Plaintiff may still recover what [his/her/its] services were reasonably worth if [he/she/it] can prove all of the following three things:

- 1. That Defendant knew that the contract was illegal;
- 2. That Plaintiff did not know that the contract was illegal; and
- 3. That Plaintiff's ignorance of the illegality was reasonable under the circumstances.

Authority: Louis v. Wainscott (1954) 124 Cal.App.2d 345, 351, 268 P.2d 835 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in cases that involve illegal contracts when the plaintiff claims to have acted in justifiable ignorance. For a general instruction governing recovery in quantum meruit, see MB 300A.08.

[3] Comment

Even if a contract is void, there may be a valid claim for quantum meruit as long as the illegality does not violate strong public policy, that is, if the contract is malum prohibitum and not malum in se [see McGillycuddy v. Los Verjels Land

etc. Co. (1931) 213 Cal. 145, 146-147, 2 P.2d 19 (services in exchange for stock that could not be issued); Trumbo v. Bank of Berkeley (1947) 77 Cal.App.2d 704, 710, 176 P.2d 376 (invalid agreement by promoters to have directors employ plaintiff as permanent officer); see also Lawn v. Camino Heights, Inc. (1971) 15 Cal.App.3d 973, 980-983, 93 Cal.Rptr. 621]. Thus, when a contract is illegal because of facts of which the defendant is aware but the plaintiff is justifiably ignorant, recovery of the value of the performance is permitted [Holland v. Morgan & Peacock Properties (1959) 168 Cal.App.2d 206, 210-211, 335 P.2d 769 ; Louis v. Wainscott (1954) 124 Cal.App.2d 345, 351, 268 P.2d 835 ; see Restatement (Second) of Contracts §§ 180, 198(a)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General Overview Contracts Law Formation General Overview Contracts Law Remedies Equitable Relief Quantum Meruit

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

147 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions
PART A TYPES OF CONTRACT

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.10

MB 300A.10 Seller--Recovery of Price of Goods Sold[1] Instruction[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Defendant claims that Plaintiff sold the goods to Defendant knowing that [he/she/it] bought them for an illegal purpose. If you find that this is true, Plaintiff is not entitled to be paid for the goods unless [he/she/it] can prove both of the following two things:

- 1. That it was not made part of the contract that the goods would be used for the illegal purpose; and
- 2. That Plaintiff did nothing else to help Defendant accomplish the illegal purpose.

Authority: Gallick v. Castiglione (1934) 2 Cal.App.2d 716, 717-718, 38 P.2d 858 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the defendant raises the defense of illegality in an action for payment under a contract. For a general instruction governing recovery in quantum meruit, see MB 300A.08.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip --Use Care If Proposing MB 300A .10: It will be difficult for many jurors to follow this instruction, especially with its three references to "illegal purpose." Further, this will be a difficult instruction to apply. If the contract is illegal because of a technical deficiency that was unknown to plaintiff (e.g., a failure to register stock properly), the plaintiff has a chance. However, the more obvious the illegality, the bigger the burden on plaintiff to explain ignorance of the illegality. By Rex Heeseman and Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

A seller may recover the price of goods sold in spite of his or her knowledge that they were bought for an illegal purpose if (1) it was not made a part of the contract that the goods should be so used, and (2) the seller did nothing to further the unlawful design [Gallick v. Castiglione (1934) 2 Cal.App.2d 716, 717-718, 38 P.2d 858].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationGeneral OverviewContracts LawSales of GoodsBreach, Repudiation & ExcuseGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

148 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions
PART A TYPES OF CONTRACT

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.11-MB 300A.19

[Reserved for Future Use]

MB 300A.11[Reserved for Future Use]

149 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions
PART B. CONSENT

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.20

MB 300A.20 Offer Defined[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

An offer is a definite proposal to enter into a specific contract on acceptance by the person receiving the offer. It is not necessary that any particular words be used. However, an offer does not result every time a person suggests to another person the terms of a possible contract. A person who merely suggests the terms of a possible contract may be inviting an offer from the other person.

Authorities: Donovan v. RRL Corp. (2001) 26 Cal.4th 261, 271, 109 Cal.Rptr.2d 807, 27 P.3d 702 ; City of Moorpark v. Moorpark Unified School Dist. (1991) 54 Cal.3d 921, 930, 1 Cal.Rptr.2d 896, 819 P.2d 854 ; Ladas v. California State Auto. Ass'n (1993) 19 Cal.App.4th 761, 770, 23 Cal.Rptr.2d 810 ; Winnaman v. Cambria Community Services Dist. (1989) 208 Cal.App.3d 49, 52, 57-58, 256 Cal.Rptr. 40 ; Richards v. Flower (1961) 193 Cal.App.2d 233, 236, 14 Cal.Rptr. 228 ; Lonergan v. Scolnick (1954) 129 Cal.App.2d 179, 182, 276 P.2d 8 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is an issue as to whether an offer was made.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Consider Not Using Second Part of Instruction:

The difference between an "offer" and a solicitation to "invite an offer" from the other party may be confusing for the jury. Unless there is some issue in the case that requires the second half of this instruction to be given, it may be better to delete it. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Terms Carefully: "Consent" (or acceptance)

is a familiar concept to attorneys, but may in some lawsuits be challenging to a jury. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Definition of Offer

An offer has been defined as "the manifestation of willingness to enter into a bargain, so made as to justify another person in understanding that his assent to that bargain is invited and will conclude it" [Donovan v. RRL Corp. (2001) 26 Cal.4th 261, 271, 276, 109 Cal.Rptr.2d 807, 27 P.3d 702 (auto dealer's newspaper advertisement for sale of particular vehicle at specified price constituted offer that was accepted by customer's tender of advertised price); City of Moorpark v. Moorpark Unified School Dist. (1991) 54 Cal.3d 921, 930, 1 Cal.Rptr.2d 896, 819 P.2d 854 ; see Restatement (Second) of Contracts § 24; see also Winnaman v. Cambria Community Services Dist. (1989) 208 Cal.App.3d 49, 57, 256 Cal.Rptr. 40]. An offer must be distinguished from a statement of terms of a possible contract or the solicitation of proposals from others [City of Moorpark v. Moorpark Unified School Dist. (1991) 54 Cal.3d 921, 930, 1 Cal.Rptr.2d 896, 819 P.2d 854 ; Winnaman v. Cambria Community Services Dist. (1989) 208 Cal.App.3d 49, 52, 57-58, 256 Cal.Rptr. 40 ; Richards v. Flower (1961) 193 Cal.App.2d 233, 236, 14 Cal.Rptr. 228 ; Loneragan v. Scolnick (1954) 129 Cal.App.2d 179, 182, 276 P.2d 8]. The use of the word "quotation" or "estimate" is not dispositive. A quotation by itself is merely a statement of terms [Leo F. Piazza Paving Co. v. Bebek & Brkich (1956) 141 Cal.App.2d 226, 230, 296 P.2d 368], but taken in context it may be specific enough to constitute an offer [Gibson v. De La Salle Institute (1944) 66 Cal.App.2d 609, 624, 152 P.2d 774 ; see Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, § 132 (10th ed. 2005)]. The same is true of an estimate [Parker v. Meneley (1951) 106 Cal.App.2d 391, 398, 235 P.2d 101].

An offer must be sufficiently definite, or must call for such definite terms in the acceptance, that the performance promised is reasonably certain. A contract is void if it is so uncertain and indefinite that the intention of the parties in material regards cannot be determined [Ladas v. California State Auto. Ass'n (1993) 19 Cal.App.4th 761, 770, 23 Cal.Rptr.2d 810].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 307 Contract Formation--Offer

CACI No. 308 Contract Formation--Revocation of Offer

CACI No. 309 Contract Formation--Acceptance

CACI No. 310 Contract Formation--Acceptance by Silence

CACI No. 311 Contract Formation--Rejection of Offer

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General Overview Contracts Law Formation General Overview Contracts Law Formation Offers General Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

150 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions PART B. CONSENT

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.21

MB 300A.21 Revocation

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

An offer may be withdrawn by notice to the party to whom the offer was made. Notice of the withdrawal is only effective if it is received before the offer has been accepted.

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 1586, 1587; Grieve v. Mullaly (1930) 211 Cal. 77, 79, 293 P. 619 ; CPI Builders, Inc. v. Impco Technologies, Inc. (2002) 94 Cal.App.4th 1167, 1173-1174, 114 Cal.Rptr.2d 851 ; Bellasi v. Shackelford (1962) 201 Cal.App.2d 265, 267-268, 19 Cal.Rptr. 925 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is an issue as to whether an offer was revoked before its acceptance.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Keep Argument Simple: This is a straightforward instruction. Thus, keep your related argument simple as well. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Effect of Counter-Offer: Remember that a counter-offer operates as a rejection of the original offer. Thus, a withdrawal may not be necessary if the other side has made a counter-offer. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Revocation

An offer may be revoked before the acceptance is communicated to the offeree [Civ. Code § 1586], even if the offer states that it is irrevocable [Grieve v. Mullaly (1930) 211 Cal. 77, 79, 293 P. 619]. However, an offer for which consideration has been paid is an option, which may not be revoked contrary to its terms [San Diego v. Miller (1975) 119 Cal.Rptr. 491, 532 P.2d 139]. The notice of revocation may be oral and may be communicated in the same manner as an acceptance [Civ. Code § 1587; see CPI Builders, Inc. v. Impco Technologies, Inc. (2002) 94 Cal.App.4th 1167, 1173-1174, 114 Cal.Rptr.2d 851 (offeror's communication of revocation to offeror's attorney did not revoke offer when offeror's attorney did not notify offeree's attorney of revocation before offeree accepted); Bellasi v. Shackelford (1962) 201 Cal.App.2d 265, 267-268, 19 Cal.Rptr. 925 ; see also MB 300A.22, MB 300A.23].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 307 Contract Formation--Offer

CACI No. 308 Contract Formation--Revocation of Offer

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationOffersGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationOffersIrrevocable OffersContracts LawFormationOffersRevocable Offers

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

151 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions
PART B. CONSENT

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.22

MB 300A.22 Acceptance by Words or Conduct

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A person may accept an offer by words or by conduct or by a combination of the two that show agreement to the terms of the offer.

Authority: Beatty v. Oakland Sheet Metal etc. Co. (1952) 111 Cal.App.2d 53, 62, 244 P.2d 25 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is an issue as to whether an offer was accepted. If there is evidence that the acceptance was qualified or a counter offer was made, this instruction should be followed by the instruction in MB 300A.25.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

[3] Comment

[a] Acceptance

An offer expressed in words may be accepted by either words or conduct or a combination of words and conduct that indicates to the offeror that the offer has been accepted [Beatty v. Oakland Sheet Metal etc. Co. (1952) 111 Cal.App.2d 53, 62, 244 P.2d 25].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 309 Contract Formation--Acceptance

CACI No. 310 Contract Formation--Acceptance by Silence

CACI No. 311 Contract Formation--Rejection of Offer

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationAcceptanceMethods of AcceptanceGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationAcceptanceMethods of AcceptanceOvert ActsContracts LawFormationAcceptanceMethods of AcceptanceSilence

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

152 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions
PART B. CONSENT

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.23

MB 300A.23 Offer Accepted by Mailing of Acceptance

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A contract is formed on mailing of the acceptance regardless of _____ [when or whether] the acceptance is received.

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

The date of the contract is the date of the letter.

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 1582, 1583; Evid. Code §§ 640, 641; Palo Alto Town & Country Village, Inc. v. BBTC Company (1974) 11 Cal.3d 494, 499-502, 113 Cal.Rptr. 705, 521 P.2d 1097 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used only when the offer does not provide otherwise [see MB 300A.24]. It informs the jury that delayed receipt or no receipt is irrelevant. The optional paragraph should be used if the letter of acceptance was mailed on the date it bears. If there is evidence that the letter may have been incorrectly dated or not mailed on the date it was dated, then the optional paragraph should not be given.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Delayed Delivery vs. No Delivery: There is a big difference between a delayed delivery and no delivery. If the letter never arrives, some explanation will be required beyond this instruction. Further, keep in mind that most jurors will be suspicious (at least a little) of the mails. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Acceptance by Mail

When the contract does not provide a means for acceptance, any reasonable method of acceptance may be used [Civ. Code § 1582]. The acceptance is effective when the acceptance is put in the course of transmission to the offeror [Civ. Code § 1583]. Thus, the contract is formed when the acceptance is mailed [Palo Alto Town & Country Village, Inc. v. BBTC Company (1974) 11 Cal.3d 494, 499-502, 113 Cal.Rptr. 705, 521 P.2d 1097], even if the acceptance is lost and never reaches the offeror [Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, § 187 (10th ed., 2005)]. The acceptance is considered to have been mailed when it is placed in the custody of the postal service and when there has been sufficient compliance with applicable postal regulations that the postal service will accept it and assume responsibility for its delivery [Palo Alto Town & Country Village, Inc. v. BBTC Company (1974) 11 Cal.3d 494, 499-502, 113 Cal.Rptr. 705, 521 P.2d 1097 ; Jenkins v. Tuneup Masters (1987) 190 Cal.App.3d 1, 8-9, 235 Cal.Rptr. 214].

The optional paragraph in the instruction is based on the statutory presumption that a writing is truly dated [Evid. Code § 640]. This presumption is a presumption affecting the burden of producing evidence [Evid. Code § 640]. As such, once the letter is put in evidence, the trier of fact is required to assume the existence of the presumed fact unless and until evidence is introduced that would support a finding of its nonexistence, in which case the trier of fact must determine the issue from the evidence and without regard to the presumption [Evid. Code § 640]. The way in which presumptions affecting the burden of providing evidence should be handled in jury instructions is that the jury should never be told it is dealing with a presumption. If there is no contrary evidence, the jury should be instructed that the fact is established. If there is contrary evidence that the jury is entitled to consider, then no presumption applies [see Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook (3d ed., 1997), vol. 2, § 46.13].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 309 Contract Formation--Acceptance

CACI No. 310 Contract Formation--Acceptance by Silence

CACI No. 311 Contract Formation--Rejection of Offer

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationAcceptanceMailbox RuleContracts LawFormationAcceptanceMethods of AcceptanceGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

153 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions
PART B. CONSENT

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.24

MB 300A.24 Method of Acceptance Specified by Offer

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

If a particular method of acceptance is required by the terms of the offer, then no contract occurs unless that method is satisfied. Therefore, you must first decide whether Plaintiff's offer required a particular method of acceptance, and, if it did, you must then decide whether that method of acceptance was satisfied.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1582; Estate of Crossman (1964) 231 Cal.App.2d 370, 372, 41 Cal.Rptr. 800 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is a question of fact as to whether a particular method of acceptance was required by the offer and whether that method was satisfied. Generally, an offer is accepted on mailing [see MB 300A.23]. These issues might go to the jury in the case of an ambiguous written offer or an oral offer. If only one of these issues is involved, the instruction should be modified accordingly. The second issue could also go to the jury if there is an unambiguous written offer specifying a particular method of acceptance, and there is a dispute over whether that method was satisfied. For example, this could occur when receipt of the acceptance is required and receipt is denied.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care When Preparing Argument:

Depending on the facts in question, this could be a key instruction and, if so, will need a careful argument in explaining what is (and what is not) important for the jury. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Prescribed Manner of Acceptance

If an offer prescribes how the acceptance must be communicated, there is no contract unless that method is used [Civ. Code § 1582]. An offer that merely suggests a permitted manner of acceptance does not prevent the other party from using another reasonable method of acceptance [Estate of Crossman (1964) 231 Cal.App.2d 370, 372, 41 Cal.Rptr. 800] . Moreover, even if the offer contains a specific required method of acceptance, that provision may be waived [Artukovich v. Pacific State's etc. Pipe Co. (1947) 78 Cal.App.2d 1, 3, 176 P.2d 962]. For an instruction on waiver, see Ch. 3F, Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions.

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 309 Contract Formation--Acceptance

CACI No. 310 Contract Formation--Acceptance by Silence

CACI No. 311 Contract Formation--Rejection of Offer

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationAcceptanceMethods of AcceptanceGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationAcceptanceMethods of AcceptanceSilence

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

154 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions
PART B. CONSENT

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.25

MB 300A.25 Acceptance[1] Instruction[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

An acceptance results in a contract only if it accepts all the terms of the offer and does not propose any new terms. Therefore, you must decide whether a contract was formed because _____ [accepting party] agreed to all of the terms of _____ [offering party]'s offer or whether a contract did not result because _____ [accepting party] added one or more new terms or rejected one or more of the offered terms.

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

A grumbling acceptance is still an acceptance as long as no qualifications are added to the terms of the offer.

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 1500, 1585; Panagotacos v. Bank of America (1998) 60 Cal.App.4th 851, 855-856, 70 Cal.Rptr.2d 595 ; Chicago Bridge etc. Co. v. Ind. Acc. Com. (1964) 226 Cal.App.2d 309, 316, 38 Cal.Rptr. 57 ; Angus v. London (1949) 92 Cal.App.2d 282, 285, 206 P.2d 869 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is an issue as to whether an acceptance was unconditional. It is intended for use in cases in which oral evidence is admissible. When the alleged offer and acceptance are contained in an integrated writing, the court will determine the effect of the acceptance as a matter of law [see Ch. 3B, Matthew Bender Interpretation of Contract Instructions]. The optional paragraph can be used when there is an issue as to whether comments made in the acceptance were additional terms or mere complaints about the terms of the contract.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Explain "Acceptance" Carefully: "Acceptance" (like consent) is a common legal principle. However, sometimes it needs to be explained carefully to a jury. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Explain "Grumbling" Acceptance: The optional portion of this instruction (i.e., a "grumbling" acceptance) could be confusing and provides little guidance to the jury. Thus, if appropriate to your case, the term should be explained to the jury. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Acceptance Must Be Absolute

To result in a contract, an acceptance must be absolute and unqualified. A qualified acceptance that adds new terms or conditions is a new proposal [Civ. Code §§ 1580, 1585; Roth v. Malson (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 552, 557-559, 79 Cal.Rptr.2d 226 (prospective buyer's signature in "counter to counter offer" section of real estate form with additional terms proposed did not constitute acceptance of prospective seller's counteroffer); Angus v. London (1949) 92 Cal.App.2d 282, 285, 206 P.2d 869]. A grumbling acceptance is sufficient so long as it is unqualified [Panagotacos v. Bank of America (1998) 60 Cal.App.4th 851, 856 n.2, 70 Cal.Rptr.2d 595 ; Chicago Bridge etc. Co. v. Ind. Acc. Com. (1964) 226 Cal.App.2d 309, 316, 38 Cal.Rptr. 57]. Countering a counteroffer by proposing the same terms as the counteroffer is not an acceptance because the counter proposal calls for a response (acceptance) before a contract can be formed [Roth v. Malson (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 552, 559, 79 Cal.Rptr.2d 226].

Since an unqualified acceptance is essential to the formation of a contract [see Civ. Code §§ 1550, 1585], the burden of proof is on the party who is seeking to enforce the contract [Reichert v. General Ins. Co. (1968) 68 Cal.2d 822, 830, 69 Cal.Rptr. 321, 442 P.2d 377 ; Evid. Code § 500].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 309 Contract Formation--Acceptance

CACI No. 310 Contract Formation--Acceptance by Silence

CACI No. 311 Contract Formation--Rejection of Offer

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Formation General Overview Contracts Law Formation Acceptance Methods of Acceptance General Overview Contracts Law Formation Acceptance Methods of Acceptance Silence

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

155 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions PART B. CONSENT

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.26

MB 300A.26 Acceptance of Benefits Assumes Duties

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A person who voluntarily accepts the benefit of a transaction automatically agrees to all of the duties arising from the transaction that the person knows about or ought to know about.

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 1589, 3521; Melchior v. New Line Productions, Inc. (2003) 106 Cal.App.4th 779, 788-790, 131 Cal.Rptr.2d 347 ; Heppler v. J.M. Peters Co. (1999) 73 Cal.App.4th 1265, 1288-1292, 87 Cal.Rptr.2d 497 ; Veterans of Foreign Wars v. City of El Paso de Robles (1998) 62 Cal.App.4th 1077, 1080-1082, 73 Cal.Rptr.2d 171 ; Recorded Picture Co. v. Nelson Entertainment, Inc. (1997) 53 Cal.App.4th 350, 361-368, 61 Cal.Rptr.2d 742 ; Enterprise Leasing Corp. v. Shugart Corp. (1991) 231 Cal.App.3d 737, 745-747, 282 Cal.Rptr. 620 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in an implied or quasi-contract case in which one party contends that the other party has taken the benefits of the contract and is therefore liable for the resulting obligation.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Triggering Duties: This can be a useful instruction because it states that a party "automatically" takes on the duties when that party accepts the benefits of a contract. In other words, nothing further is required of either party to trigger the duties (i.e., no further consents). By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Acceptance of Benefits Assumes Duties

By statute, a voluntary acceptance of the benefit of a transaction is equivalent to a consent to all the obligations arising from it, so far as the facts are known, or ought to be known, to the person accepting [Civ. Code §§ 1589, 3521; see Melchior v. New Line Productions, Inc. (2003) 106 Cal.App.4th 779, 788-790, 131 Cal.Rptr.2d 347 (assignee of film production company, which accepted benefits of company's original agreement with author, also accepted obligations of original agreement despite different terms in assignment agreement; summary judgment on breach of contract reversed)]. Under the rule, "[a]ssumption of obligations may be implied from acceptance of benefits under the contract" [Enterprise Leasing Corp. v. Shugart Corp. (1991) 231 Cal.App.3d 737, 745, 282 Cal.Rptr. 620]. This rule applies both in cases of implied contract and quasi-contract [Desny v. Wilder (1956) 46 Cal.2d 715, 738-739, 299 P.2d 257 ; Harold A. Newman Co. v. Nero (1973) 31 Cal.App.3d 490, 497, 107 Cal.Rptr. 464]. It does not render enforceable contracts required to be in writing by the statute of frauds [Boyd v. Big Three Ranch Co. (1913) 22 Cal.App. 108, 110, 133 P. 623]. The rule does not require compliance with a contract to which a person or entity is not a party if the person or entity accepted only a portion of the contract's benefits [Recorded Picture Co. v. Nelson Entertainment, Inc. (1997) 53 Cal.App.4th 350, 363-365, 61 Cal.Rptr.2d 742].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Benefits Lead to Responsibilities: The idea of a party taking benefits leads most jurors to the conclusion that attendant responsibilities should follow. By Rex Heeseman

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 309 Contract Formation--Acceptance

CACI No. 310 Contract Formation--Acceptance by Silence

CACI No. 311 Contract Formation--Rejection of Offer

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Formation General Overview Contracts Law Formation Acceptance Methods of Acceptance General Overview Contracts Law Formation Acceptance Methods of Acceptance Overt Acts Contracts Law Formation Acceptance Methods of Acceptance Silence

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

156 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions PART B. CONSENT

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.27

MB 300A.27 Acceptance of Same Thing Offered

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

To form a contract by offer and acceptance, the parties must agree on the same thing in the same sense. If each party is mistaken as to the meaning of the other, no contract is formed unless one of the parties so carelessly expressed himself or herself that the other was caused to reasonably believe that an agreement existed.

Authority: Chakmak v. H. J. Lucas Masonry, Inc. (1976) 55 Cal.App.3d 124, 129, 127 Cal.Rptr. 404 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is an alleged mistake as to what was being offered and accepted and there is a question of fact as to whether one party was at fault for negligent expression of assent.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

[3] Comment

[a] Acceptance of Same Thing

When mistake prevents mutual consent to a contract because the parties did not agree on the same thing in the same sense, no contract is created [Chakmak v. H. J. Lucas Masonry, Inc. (1976) 55 Cal.App.3d 124, 129, 127 Cal.Rptr. 404 ; see Grimes v. New Century Mortgage Corp. (9th Cir. 2003) 340 F.3d 1007, 1010-1011 (because essential element of loan contract--rate of interest--was not determined, material issues of fact as to existence and terms of contract remained; summary judgement should not have been granted for lender on borrowers' Truth in Lending Act rescission action)). This is the familiar law school problem posed by the two ships "Peerless" [see Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, § 258 (10th ed. 2005)]. Attempts have been made to reconcile this rule with the objective theory of contracts, but Corbin considers it unnecessary to do so [see 3 Corbin on Contracts § 599 (rev. ed. 1960)]. It should simply be recognized that mistake as to the identity of the subject matter of the contract prevents formation of a contract unless one party so negligently expressed himself or herself that the other was caused reasonably to believe that an agreement existed [Chakmak v. H. J. Lucas Masonry, Inc. (1976) 55 Cal.App.3d 124, 127 Cal.Rptr. 404 (reversing summary judgment for trial of negligence issue)]. This is different from the right to rescind because consent to a mutually agreed performance was caused by mistake [Civ. Code § 1689(b)(1); see Ch. 3G, Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 309 Contract Formation--Acceptance

CACI No. 310 Contract Formation--Acceptance by Silence

CACI No. 311 Contract Formation--Rejection of Offer

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Formation Acceptance Methods of Acceptance General Overview Contracts Law Formation Acceptance Methods of Acceptance Overt Acts Contracts Law Formation Acceptance Methods of Acceptance Silence Contracts Law Formation Ambiguity & Mistake General Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

157 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions
PART B. CONSENT

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.28

MB 300A.28 Silence as Acceptance[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Ordinarily, silence does not operate as acceptance of an offer. However, there are exceptions to this rule. For example, silence can be considered acceptance of an offer based on (1) the offeree's retention of a benefit conferred by the offeror, (2) the past relations of the parties indicating their belief that silence operates as acceptance, or (3) the offeror's having given the offeree reason to think he or she could accept the offer by silence. If you find that the combination of _____ [offering party]'s type of offer and _____ [accepting party]'s silence fits within one of these exceptions, you may consider that silence to be an acceptance of _____ [offering party]'s offer.

Authorities: Durgin v. Kaplan (1968) 68 Cal.2d 81, 91, 65 Cal.Rptr. 158, 436 P.2d 70 ; Golden Eagle Ins. Co. v. Foremost Ins. Co. (1993) 20 Cal.App.4th 1372, 1385-1387, 25 Cal.Rptr.2d 242 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the circumstances of the case indicate that the relations of the parties, the manner of the offer, or the manner of acceptance indicate that one or both of the parties contemplated that the offer could be accepted by silence. This instruction can be given after the general instruction on acceptance in MB 300A.25. An instruction on manner of acceptance is in MB 300A.24.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Juries May Have Trouble Applying This

Instruction: This instruction gives several examples where silence could operate as an acceptance, and there could be others. Still, unless the other party affirms the contract in some manners (such as by keeping the benefits), this instruction will be difficult for many juries to apply. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Explaining Silence as Acceptance: This seems to be a complicated instruction. However, depending on the facts in question, it might be easy (or hard) to explain to a jury. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Communication of Acceptance

Acceptance can be communicated only by some act or omission of the accepting party, by which he or she intends to communicate the acceptance, or that necessarily tends to communicate acceptance [Civ. Code § 1581].

In general, silence or inaction does not constitute acceptance of an offer [Golden Eagle Ins. Co. v. Foremost Ins. Co. (1993) 20 Cal.App.4th 1372, 1385, 25 Cal.Rptr.2d 242 ; see Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, § 198 (9th ed. 1987)]. However, there are several well-recognized exceptions to this rule. For instance, acceptance may be inferred from inaction in the face of a duty to act to reject a benefit, the retention of a benefit conferred, the past relations of the parties, or the offeror's having given the offeree reason to believe acceptance would be manifested by silence [Golden Eagle Ins. Co. v. Foremost Ins. Co. (1993) 20 Cal.App.4th 1372, 1385-1387, 25 Cal.Rptr.2d 242 ; see Durgin v. Kaplan (1968) 68 Cal.2d 81, 91, 65 Cal.Rptr. 158, 436 P.2d 70].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 310 Contract Formation--Acceptance by Silence

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Formation Acceptance Methods of Acceptance General Overview Contracts Law Formation Acceptance Methods of Acceptance Overt Acts Contracts Law Formation Acceptance Methods of Acceptance Silence

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

158 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions
PART B. CONSENT

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.29-MB 300A.39

[Reserved for Future Use]

MB 300A.29[Reserved for Future Use]

159 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions
PART C CONSIDERATION

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.40

MB 300A.40 Consideration--Thing of Value[1] Instruction[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A promise is not enforceable as a contract unless something of value was given or agreed to be given in exchange for it. In law we call that "consideration" for the promise. Consideration may be either a benefit given or agreed to be given to the party making the promise by any other person or a detriment suffered or agreed to be suffered by that other person.

In exchange for Defendant's promise to _____ [specify defendant's promise], Plaintiff _____ [gave or agreed to give] _____ [describe thing of value, benefit or detriment, that plaintiff contends constituted consideration]. For that _____ [benefit or detriment] to be adequate consideration for Defendant's promise, it must have had some value. Any value, however slight, is sufficient consideration. How much value may be important on the question of damages, but you will be instructed about that separately. If _____ [describe benefit or detriment claimed to constitute consideration] had some value, then the consideration requirement has been met. If it had no value at all, then the consideration requirement has not been met, and you must find that no contract came into existence.

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 1550, 1605, 1615; Flojo Internat., Inc. v. Lassleben (1992) 4 Cal.App.4th 713, 719, 6 Cal.Rptr.2d 99 ; A.J. Industries, Inc. v. Ver Halen (1977) 75 Cal.App.3d 751, 761, 142 Cal.Rptr. 383 ; Blocksidge v. Broadway Sixth Co. (1962) 207 Cal.App.2d 628, 632, 24 Cal.Rptr. 622 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in cases involving oral or implied contracts when the only issue on the consideration requirement is whether the thing claimed to constitute consideration had any value. If there is no genuine issue of fact on that issue, this instruction should not be given. If there is a consideration issue as to whether what the defendant received was the agreed-on exchange for the promise, the instruction in MB 300A.41 should be used. If both are at issue, then both instructions should be given, or the two instructions should be consolidated into one. If the agreement is in writing, use the instruction in MB 300A.44.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care With Your Consideration

Instructions: Consideration is a legal principle that is well-known to attorneys but generally alien to jurors. So, this and the following instructions in this Part must be put together carefully and argued to the jury in an understandable way. Sometimes that will be difficult. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Value Can Be Almost Anything: If you are trying to enforce a contract, the key phrase in this instruction is "Any value, however slight, is sufficient consideration." The value can be almost anything (including detriment to the other party). By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

Consideration is an essential element of a contract [Civ. Code § 1550; see, e.g., O'Byrne v. Santa Monica-UCLA Medical Center (2002) 94 Cal.App.4th 797, 808-810, 114 Cal.Rptr.2d 575 (no consideration was given for medical staff bylaws adopted pursuant to 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70703; thus bylaws did not in and of themselves constitute contract between hospital and physician on its medical staff); see also Kremen v. Cohen (9th Cir. 2003) 337 F.3d 1024, 1028-1029 (registrar of Internet domain name did not breach implied contract with registrant by assigning name to another party; no consideration was given for registration of domain name so no contract existed)]. A purported agreement that is without consideration is void [HolcoMB v. Long Beach Investment Co. (1933) 129 Cal.App. 285, 292, 19 P.2d 31]. A written instrument is presumptive evidence of consideration [Civ. Code § 1614; see MB 300A.44]. The burden of showing a want of consideration is on the party seeking to invalidate or avoid the contract [Civ. Code § 1615; see MB 300A.44 (consideration for written agreements)]. Good consideration is defined by Civ. Code § 1605 as the following:

Any benefit conferred, or agreed to be conferred, upon the promisor, by any other person, to which the promisor is not lawfully entitled, or any prejudice suffered, or agreed to be suffered, by such person, other than such as he is at the time of consent lawfully bound to suffer, as an inducement to the promisor, is a good consideration for a promise.

Consideration thus includes detriment to the promisee, as well as benefit received by the promisor, and it does not matter from whom the consideration moves or to whom it goes. If the consideration (whether benefit or detriment) is bargained for and given in exchange for the promise, the promise is not gratuitous [Flojo Internat., Inc. v. Lassleben (1992) 4 Cal.App.4th 713, 719, 6 Cal.Rptr.2d 99 ; Restatement (Second) of Contracts § 71, comment e].

It is an issue of fact whether a purported consideration is sufficient to create a contract [see Estate of Thomson (1913) 165 Cal. 290, 296, 131 P. 1045 ; Sharman v. Longo (1967) 249 Cal.App.2d 948, 952, 58 Cal.Rptr. 79 ; Patek & Co. v. Vineberg (1962) 210 Cal.App.2d 20, 22, 26 Cal.Rptr. 293], but this does not mean that the finder of fact will inquire into the "quantum" of the consideration [A.J. Industries, Inc. v. Ver Halen (1977) 75 Cal.App.3d 751, 761, 142 Cal.Rptr. 383]. When a thing changes possession, as long as it has some value, it will be held to be sufficient consideration [see Louisville Title Ins. Co. v. Surety Title & Guar. Co. (1976) 60 Cal.App.3d 781, 790-799, 132 Cal.Rptr. 63 (evidence showed consideration as matter of law); Estate of Freeman (1965) 238 Cal.App.2d 486, 488-489, 48 Cal.Rptr. 1 ; Blocksidge v. Broadway Sixth Co. (1962) 207 Cal.App.2d 628, 632, 24 Cal.Rptr. 622].

The "mutuality of obligation" principle applies to bilateral contracts only. In the unilateral contract context, there is no mutuality of obligation [see Asmus v. Pacific Bell (2000) 23 Cal.4th 1, 14-15, 96 Cal.Rptr.2d 179, 999 P.2d 71 (rule governing termination of unilateral contracts is that once promisor--here, the employer--determines it will terminate or modify contract, and provides its employees with reasonable notice of change, additional consideration is not required)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawConsiderationGeneral
OverviewContracts LawConsiderationAdequate ConsiderationContracts LawFormationGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

160 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions PART C CONSIDERATION

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.41

MB 300A.41 Agreed-Upon Exchange

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A promise is not enforceable as a contract unless something of value was given or agreed to be given in exchange for it. In law we call that "consideration" for the promise. The facts are that Plaintiff _____ [gave or agreed to give] _____ [describe thing of value, benefit or detriment, that plaintiff contends constituted consideration]. For that _____ [benefit or detriment] to be adequate consideration, it must have been the agreed-upon exchange for Defendant's promise. If it was the agreed-upon exchange for Defendant's promise, the consideration requirement has been met. If it was not, then the consideration requirement has not been met, and you must find that no contract came into existence.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1605; Jara v. Suprema Meats, Inc. (2004) 121 Cal.App.4th 1238, 1248-1252, 18 Cal.Rptr.3d 187 ; A.J. Industries, Inc. v. Ver Halen (1977) 75 Cal.App.3d 751, 761, 142 Cal.Rptr. 383 ; Blocksidge v. Broadway Sixth Co. (1962) 207 Cal.App.2d 628, 632, 24 Cal.Rptr. 622 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in cases involving oral or implied contracts when the issue is whether the thing contended to constitute consideration was in fact the agreed-upon exchange for defendant's promise. If there is also an issue as to whether it had value, this instruction should be given in combination with the instruction in MB 300A.40. If there is no genuine issue on that subject, this instruction should not be given. If the agreement is in writing, use the instruction in MB 300A.44.

[3] Comment

The consideration must be the agreed-upon exchange in return for the promise to be enforced [Civ. Code § 1605; Jara v. Suprema Meats, Inc. (2004) 121 Cal.App.4th 1238, 1248-1252, 18 Cal.Rptr.3d 187 ; A.J. Industries, Inc. v. Ver Halen (1977) 75 Cal.App.3d 751, 761, 142 Cal.Rptr. 383 ; Blocksidge v. Broadway Sixth Co. (1962) 207 Cal.App.2d 628, 632, 24 Cal.Rptr. 622]. It is not enough merely that promises were traded; each party's promise must have been given as motive or inducement for the promise of the other [Jara v. Suprema Meats, Inc. (2004) 121 Cal.App.4th 1238, 1248-1252, 18 Cal.Rptr.3d 187]. This requirement is in addition to the requirement that the consideration must have value, which is discussed in MB 300A.40.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Consideration General Overview Contracts Law Consideration Adequate Consideration Contracts Law Formation General Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

161 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions
PART C CONSIDERATION

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.42

MB 300A.42 Existing Obligation and Compromise of Existing Claim

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A promise to do something that a person is already obligated to do is not consideration for a promise by another person. If a person is already bound by contract to do a particular act, then to specifically promise the same thing again would not be sufficient consideration for a promise by the other party.

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

An exception exists when there is a genuine dispute between the parties regarding their existing obligations. A promise to do something that a party in good faith asserts that [he/she/it] was not under an existing obligation to do is sufficient consideration for a promise by the other party to enter into an agreement compromising their dispute. This is so even if it later turns out that the party was wrong in claiming that [he/she/it] did not already have an existing obligation to do it.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1605; Louisville Title Ins. Co. v. Surety Title & Guar. Co. (1976) 60 Cal.App.3d 781, 791, 132 Cal.Rptr. 63 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used together with the instruction in MB 300A.40 when there is an issue as to whether the consideration relied on is a pre-existing obligation. The optional paragraph applies when there is a dispute as to whether there was an existing obligation. If possible, the instruction should be particularized to reflect the fact situation presented to the jury.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Draw on Everyday Experiences: It is reasonably typical that an obligation will be changed by the parties due to a compromise. However, the related explanation to the jury must draw on everyday experiences or the jury may be confused or misled by the legal terminology of this instruction. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Establishing "Good Faith" Can Be Difficult: The optional part of this instruction deals with the compromise of a genuine dispute. Such a compromise can constitute valid consideration so long as it is a "genuine" dispute and the party in question is acting in "good faith." The more one-sided a transaction looks, the more difficult it will be to establish "good faith." By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

A promise to do what one is already legally bound to do is insufficient to support a contract [Civ. Code § 1605; Louisville Title Ins. Co. v. Surety Title & Guar. Co. (1976) 60 Cal.App.3d 781, 791, 132 Cal.Rptr. 63; General Motors Accept. Corp. v. Brown (1934) 2 Cal.App.2d 646, 650, 38 P.2d 482]. One may be legally bound to perform some act either by contract [see Bailey v. Breetwor (1962) 206 Cal.App.2d 287, 292, 23 Cal.Rptr. 740 (promise to fulfill one's own contract with another cannot provide consideration for promise by third party)] or by law [Poetker v. Lowry (1914) 25 Cal.App. 616, 619, 144 P. 981 (mother's promise to support her child)].

However, the law favors compromises and the compromise of a disagreement over preexisting obligations is supported by consideration as long as the claimant is asserting the claim in good faith. It is not essential that the claim in dispute be valid [Louisville Title Ins. Co. v. Surety Title & Guar. Co. (1976) 60 Cal.App.3d 781, 791, 132 Cal.Rptr. 63]. Nonetheless, compromise of a wholly invalid claim is inadequate consideration [Orange County Foundation for preservation of Orange County Foundation v. Irvine Co. (1983) 139 Cal.App.3d 195, 201, 188 Cal.Rptr. 552]. Although California case law does not precisely define the term "invalid," the relinquishment of a colorable legal claim is valid consideration [see Murphy v. T. Rowe Price Prime Reserve Fund, Inc. (9th Cir. 1993) 8 F.3d 1420, 1423 (claim based on two distinct legal theories was colorable and therefore not completely invalid)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Consideration General Overview Contracts Law Consideration Adequate Consideration Contracts Law Consideration Preexisting Duties Contracts Law Formation General Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

162 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions PART C CONSIDERATION

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.43

MB 300A.43 Past Performance Insufficient

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The past performance of a party under a prior contract has no value in support of a new agreement. You must decide whether _____ [describe benefit or detriment that plaintiff contends constituted consideration] promised something new.

Authorities: Simmons v. Cal. Institute of Technology (1949) 34 Cal.2d 264, 272-273, 209 P.2d 581 ; Star Pacific Investments, Inc. v. Oro Hills Ranch, Inc. (1981) 121 Cal.App.3d 447, 456, 176 Cal.Rptr. 546 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there has been past performance under a prior contract and there is an issue as to whether something new was promised. It should be used in conjunction with the instruction in MB 300A.40.

[3] Comment

When the consideration for a contract is past performance under a prior contract, no detriment is imposed on the promisor, nor is a benefit conferred on the promisee beyond that obtained from the prior contract. Therefore, there is no consideration to support the contract [Simmons v. Cal. Institute of Technology (1949) 34 Cal.2d 264, 209 P.2d 581 (past employment not consideration for promise of a bonus)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawConsiderationGeneral
OverviewContracts LawFormationGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

163 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions
PART C CONSIDERATION

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.44

MB 300A.44 Consideration for Written Agreements

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A promise is not enforceable as a contract unless something of value was given or agreed to be given in exchange for it. In law we call that "consideration" for the promise.

[EITHER (See Use of Instruction)]

You must find that Plaintiff gave something of value in exchange for Defendant's promise unless Defendant proves that nothing of value was in fact given.

[OR]

You must find that Plaintiff gave something of value in exchange for Defendant's promise unless Defendant introduces evidence that nothing of value was in fact given.

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 1605, 1614, 1615; Simmons v. Cal. Institute of Technology (1949) 34 Cal.2d 264, 272, 209 P.2d 581 ; Rancho Santa Fe Pharmacy, Inc. v. Seyfert (1990) 219 Cal.App.3d 875, 884, 268 Cal.Rptr. 505 ; Niederer v. Ferreira (1983) 150 Cal.App.3d 219, 224, 197 Cal.Rptr. 685 ; Star Pacific Investments, Inc. v. Oro Hills Ranch, Inc. (1981) 121 Cal.App.3d 447, 456, 176 Cal.Rptr. 546 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is an issue as to whether there is consideration for a written contract. Plaintiff will want to offer the first alternative paragraph and argue that the presumption raised by Civ. Code §§ 1614 and 1615 affects the burden of proof. Defendant will want to offer the second alternative paragraph and argue that the presumption raised by Civ. Code §§ 1614 and 1615 affects only the burden of producing evidence [see [3], below, for discussion of the presumption raised by Civ. Code §§ 1614 and 1615].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Providing Something of Value for Promise:

Giving something valuable in return for a promise is a topic most jurors will appreciate. Thus, make your argument sound that way. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

A written instrument is presumptive evidence of consideration [Civ. Code § 1614; see Civ. Code § 1605 (definition of consideration); see also MB 300A.40]. Unlike an oral or implied contract, the burden of showing a want of consideration is on the party seeking to invalidate it [Civ. Code § 1615]. However, it is not clear whether the presumption raised by Civ. Code § 1614 and the burden placed on the defendant by Civ. Code § 1615 concern the burden of proof or the burden of producing evidence. The statutes themselves do not address this point. In one case, the court held that "the presumption of consideration under section 1614 affects the burden of producing evidence and not the burden of proof. In light of this conclusion, we hold the jury instructions placing the burden on the [Defendants] to prove a lack of consideration were incorrect" [Rancho Santa Fe Pharmacy, Inc. v. Seyfert (1990) 219 Cal.App.3d 875, 884, 268 Cal.Rptr. 505]. However, in another case, the court stated that the defendant, as the party seeking to avoid enforcement of the contract, "has the burden of proving his affirmative defense of want of consideration" [Niederer v. Ferreira (1983) 150 Cal.App.3d 219, 224, 197 Cal.Rptr. 685]. The Rancho Santa Fe court dismissed Niederer as authority, stating that it "did not analyze the issue" [Rancho Santa Fe Pharmacy, Inc. v. Seyfert (1990) 219 Cal.App.3d 875, 880, 268 Cal.Rptr. 505].

Until it is clear that the holding of Rancho Santa Fe will be generally followed, plaintiffs will want to offer the first alternative paragraph in [1], above, arguing that, under Niederer and Civ. Code §§ 1614 and 1615, the defendant has the burden of proving lack of consideration, not merely the burden of producing evidence to counteract the presumption raised by the written contract. Jefferson suggests that the proper way to instruct on a presumption affecting the burden of proof is to tell the jury that it must find the presumed fact, unless the other party proves its nonexistence by a preponderance of the evidence [Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook (3d ed. 1997), § 46.16]. This is predicated on plaintiff's proof of the preliminary fact giving rise to the presumption. Here it is assumed that plaintiff has already established the existence of a written instrument.

Extrinsic evidence is always admissible to show that there was no consideration for an agreement [Simmons v. Cal. Institute of Technology (1949) 34 Cal.2d 264, 272, 209 P.2d 581 ; Star Pacific Investments, Inc. v. Oro Hills Ranch, Inc. (1981) 121 Cal.App.3d 447, 456, 176 Cal.Rptr. 546]. However, the presumption is not rebutted by a mere denial of consideration [Cordes v. Harding (1915) 27 Cal.App. 474, 482, 150 P. 650]. It is doubtful that a fact issue will arise very often, but in one case the trial court held on conflicting evidence that defendant met the burden of proving no consideration existed [Star Pacific Investments, Inc. v. Oro Hills Ranch, Inc. (1981) 121 Cal.App.3d 447, 456, 176 Cal.Rptr. 546]. On the other hand, in another case, the jury found that no consideration existed, but the court of appeal reversed denial of judgment notwithstanding the verdict holding that the evidence showed that consideration existed as a matter of law [Louisville Title Ins. Co. v. Surety Title & Guar. Co. (1976) 60 Cal.App.3d 781, 132 Cal.Rptr. 63].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Consideration General Overview Contracts Law Consideration Adequate Consideration Contracts Law Formation General Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

164 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions
PART C CONSIDERATION

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.45

MB 300A.45 Consideration for Modification of Contract Not in Writing

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

An _____ [oral or implied] contract may be changed in any way by written consent of both parties without either party giving the other anything of additional value as consideration.

Authority: Civ. Code § 1697.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when an oral or implied contract has been modified by a writing. It is intended to counteract any inference the jury might draw that, based on a prior instruction on the consideration requirement for the original contract, consideration is required for such a modification.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

[3] Comment

[a] Means of Modification

A contract not in writing may be modified by a written agreement of the parties without any further consideration. The original contract is extinguished thereby to the extent of the modification [Civ. Code § 1697]. A plaintiff who asserts a claim for relief based on a modification of a contract has the burden of proving the elements necessary to establish the modification by a preponderance of the evidence [Barrett v. Bank of America (1986) 183 Cal.App.3d 1362, 1370-1371, 229 Cal.Rptr. 16].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 313 Modification

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawConsiderationGeneral
OverviewContracts LawConsiderationAdequate ConsiderationContracts LawContract ModificationsGeneral
OverviewContracts LawFormationGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

165 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions
PART C CONSIDERATION

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.46

MB 300A.46 Consideration Required for Modification of Written Contract by Oral Agreement

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff asserts that the written contract was orally modified by the parties so that Plaintiff's obligation to Defendant was changed from _____ [describe alleged obligation] to _____ [describe alleged modification].

A contract in writing may be changed by later oral agreement of the parties if there is new consideration for the agreed modification. Therefore, if you find that the contract was orally modified, you must also find that there was new consideration for the modification. If you find that there was no new consideration for the modification, then the modification never took effect.

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

An agreement not to exercise a legal right is sufficient consideration to support a modification of a contract.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1698; Malmstrom v. Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp. (1986) 187 Cal.App.3d 299, 318, 231 Cal.Rptr. 820 ; Coldwell Banker & Co. v. Pepper Tree Office Center Associates (1980) 106 Cal.App.3d 272, 279-280, 165 Cal.Rptr. 51 ; Louisville Title Ins. Co. v. Surety Title & Guar. Co. (1976) 60 Cal.App.3d 781, 791, 132 Cal.Rptr. 63 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is an issue as to whether an oral modification of a written contract is supported by consideration and therefore effective. It should not be used if modification must be in writing to satisfy the statute of frauds [see Ch. 3F, Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions] or if the terms of the written contract require written modification unless there is evidence of waiver or estoppel [see MB 300A.47].

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Examine New Consideration: If you are contesting an alleged oral modification of a written contract, be sure to examine the new consideration. Remember that a compromise of an existing dispute is not valid consideration for the modification unless the dispute was "genuine" and the other party was acting in "good faith" [see MB 300A.42]. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care If Oral Change to Written Contract: Some jurors will be skeptical of an oral change to a written contract. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Modification by Subsequent Oral Agreement

If there is no provision in the written agreement to the contrary, a written agreement may be modified by a subsequent oral agreement supported by new consideration, provided that the statute of frauds is satisfied [Civ. Code § 1698(c)]. An agreement to forego the exercise of a legal right is sufficient consideration to support a modification of a contract [Coldwell Banker & Co. v. Pepper Tree Office Center Associates (1980) 106 Cal.App.3d 272, 279-280, 165 Cal.Rptr. 51 ; Louisville Title Ins. Co. v. Surety Title & Guar. Co. (1976) 60 Cal.App.3d 781, 791, 132 Cal.Rptr. 63]. The provisions of Civ. Code § 1698, limiting proof of oral modification of written agreements, do not preclude a party from establishing estoppel, oral novation and substitution of a new agreement, rescission of a written contract by an oral agreement, waiver of the provisions of the written contract, or an oral independent collateral contract [Civ. Code § 1698(d)]. A plaintiff who asserts a claim for relief based on an oral modification of a written contract has the burden of proving the elements necessary to establish the modification by a preponderance of the evidence [Barrett v. Bank of America (1986) 183 Cal.App.3d 1362, 1370-1371, 229 Cal.Rptr. 16].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 313 Modification

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Consideration General Overview Contracts Law Consideration Adequate Consideration Contracts Law Contract Modifications Oral Modifications Contracts Law Formation General Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

166 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions
PART C CONSIDERATION

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.47

MB 300A.47 Oral Modification of Written Contract Dependent on Waiver or Estoppel

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The parties' written agreement states that any modification must be in writing. Under ordinary circumstances, when parties have expressly agreed in writing that the contract may only be modified in writing, later oral agreements or representations will not have any effect. This is the oral modification rule and it has two exceptions.

The first exception allows a later oral agreement or representation to be enforced if you find the existence of a waiver, as that term will be defined for you.

The second exception allows a later oral agreement or representation to be enforced if you find the existence of estoppel, as that term will be defined for you.

Authorities: Wade v. Markwell & Co. (1953) 118 Cal.App.2d 410, 421, 258 P.2d 497 ; Panno v. Russo (1947) 82 Cal.App.2d 408, 412-413, 186 P.2d 452 ; Bardeen v. Commander Oil Co. (1940) 40 Cal.App.2d 341, 347, 104 P.2d 875

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in cases involving an alleged unexecuted oral modification of a written contract when the enforceability of the modification is dependent on proof of waiver or estoppel. It should be given after the instruction in MB 300A.46.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care in Structuring Argument: The factual scenario that forms the basis for this instruction seems unlikely to occur in most trials. However, if this instruction seems advisable, be careful how you structure the related argument to the jury. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Effect of Waiver and Estoppel

Civ. Code § 1698 contains the general provisions governing modification of a contract in writing [see MB 300A.46]. However, Civ. Code § 1698 expressly states as follows: "Nothing in this section precludes in an appropriate case the application of rules of law concerning estoppel, oral novation and substitution of a new agreement, rescission of a written contract by an oral agreement, waiver of a provision of a written contract, or oral independent contracts." This instruction only concerns the effect of waiver or estoppel. Rescission is covered in Ch. 3G, Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions. The rule against varying written instruments by parol evidence or altering written contracts other than by written contract or executed oral agreement is subject to the exception that a party may waive performance of a condition by conduct or representation, or be estopped to deny such waiver [Panno v. Russo (1947) 82 Cal.App.2d 408, 412, 186 P.2d 452].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 313 Modification

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Consideration General Overview Contracts Law Consideration Promissory Estoppel Contracts Law Contract Modifications Oral Modifications Contracts Law Formation General Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

167 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions
PART C CONSIDERATION

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.48-MB 300A.59

Reserved for Future Use

MB 300A.48Reserved for Future Use

168 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3A Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions
PART D PROMISSORY ESTOPPEL

1-3A California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300A.60

MB 300A.60 Promissory Estoppel

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Under certain circumstances, to prevent an injustice, a judge has the power to enforce a promise that is not supported by consideration. In this case, Plaintiff has asked me to exercise that power to enforce Defendant's promise to _____ [describe promise]. If Defendant's promise was not supported by consideration, Plaintiff is required to prove all of the following five elements by a preponderance of the evidence before I can exercise my power to enforce that promise:

1. That Defendant promised to _____ [describe promise];
2. That Defendant reasonably should have expected Plaintiff to change [his/her/its] position substantially as a result of the promise;
3. That Plaintiff changed [his/her/its] position substantially as a result of the promise;
4. That Plaintiff was damaged or harmed in some way as a result of [his/her/its] change of position; and
5. That Defendant's breach of the promise was a substantial factor in causing injury to Plaintiff.

Although the law gives me the final responsibility for deciding whether to enforce a promise that is not supported by consideration, it will be your duty in this case to assist me in making my decision by determining whether Plaintiff has proven the elements I have just described and by rendering a special verdict setting out your decision on these issues.

Authorities: C & K Engineering Contractors v. Amber Steel Co. (1978) 23 Cal.3d 1, 6-7, 151 Cal.Rptr. 323, 587 P.2d 1136 ; Youngman v. Nevada Irrigation Dist. (1969) 70 Cal.2d 240, 249-250, 74 Cal.Rptr. 398, 449 P.2d 462 ; Drennan v. Star Paving Co. (1958) 51 Cal.2d 409, 413-415, 333 P.2d 757 ; US Ecology, Inc. v. State of California (2005) 129 Cal.App.4th 887, 891, 908, 28 Cal.Rptr.3d 894 ; Smith v. City and County of San Francisco (1990) 225 Cal.App.3d 38, 48, 275 Cal.Rptr. 17 ; A-C Company Inc. v. Security Pacific National Bank (1985) 173 Cal.App.3d 462, 472-474, 219 Cal.Rptr. 62 .

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED SPECIAL VERDICT

We, the jury in the above-entitled case, find the following special verdict on the issues submitted to us:

1. Did Defendant promise to _____ [describe promise]?

_____ Yes _____ No

If you answered "yes" to Question No. 1, please answer the next question.

2. Should Defendant reasonably have expected Plaintiff to change [his/her/its] position substantially as a result of the promise?

_____ Yes _____ No

If you answered "yes" to Question No. 2, please answer the next question.

3. Did Plaintiff change [his/her/its] position substantially as a result of Defendant's promise?

_____ Yes _____ No

If you answered "yes" to Question No. 3, please answer the next question.

4. Was Plaintiff damaged or harmed in some way as a result of [his/her/its] change of position?

_____ Yes _____ No

If you answered "yes" to Question No. 4, please answer the next question.

5. Was Defendant's breach of the promise a substantial factor in causing injury to Plaintiff?

_____ Yes _____ No

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction, and the accompanying special verdict form, should be used when it is appropriate to have the jury render an advisory verdict determining whether the plaintiff has established the facts that are a prerequisite to the exercise of the court's power to grant plaintiff relief on a promissory estoppel claim.

Under some circumstances, it is clearly reversible error to permit the jury to decide a promissory estoppel claim and there is a serious question as to whether it is ever proper to submit such a claim to the jury. Consequently, an instruction that asks the jury to determine whether the doctrine of promissory estoppel should be applied or what relief plaintiff may be entitled to on a promissory estoppel claim cannot be recommended; counsel considering the submission of these issues to the jury should give careful consideration to the propriety of such a course.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care in Presenting Estoppel: Many attorneys and judges have a vague or incorrect understanding of estoppel. So, exercise care in two respects. First, how to present the issue to the judge. And, second, how to present the issue to the jury. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

Under the doctrine of promissory estoppel, a promise that is not supported by consideration may be enforced to prevent an injustice if all of the following four requirements are met [C & K Engineering Contractors v. Amber Steel Co. (1978) 23 Cal.3d 1, 6-7, 151 Cal.Rptr. 323, 587 P.2d 1136 ; Youngman v. Nevada Irrigation Dist. (1969) 70 Cal.2d 240, 249-250, 74 Cal.Rptr. 398, 449 P.2d 462 ; Drennan v. Star Paving Co. (1958) 51 Cal.2d 409, 413-415, 333 P.2d 757 ; US Ecology, Inc. v. State of California (2005) 129 Cal.App.4th 887, 891, 908, 28 Cal.Rptr.3d 894 (plaintiff must prove that defendant's breach was substantial factor in causing plaintiff's injury); Smith v. City and County of San Francisco (1990) 225 Cal.App.3d 38, 48, 275 Cal.Rptr. 17 ; A-C Company Inc. v. Security Pacific National Bank (1985) 173 Cal.App.3d 462, 472-474, 219 Cal.Rptr. 62 ; see Kajima/Ray Wilson v. Los Angeles MTA (2000) 23 Cal.4th 305, 315-317, 96 Cal.Rptr.2d 747, 1 P.3d 63 (Supreme Court applied doctrine of promissory estoppel in public contract context, holding that lowest responsible bidder that was wrongfully denied public contract has cause of action for monetary damages against public entity; however, those damages included bid preparation costs but not lost profits)]:

- The defendant reasonably should have expected the plaintiff to substantially change its position as a result of the promise;
- The plaintiff did, in fact, substantially change its position as a result of the promise;
- The plaintiff was or will be injured or damaged as a result of the change in position; and
- That defendant's breach of the promise was a substantial factor in causing injury to plaintiff.

A claim based on promissory estoppel is an equitable claim to be tried by the court; the parties are not entitled to a jury trial [C & K Engineering Contractors v. Amber Steel Co. (1978) 23 Cal.3d 1, 11, 151 Cal.Rptr. 323, 587 P.2d 1136 ; A-C Company, Inc. v. Security Pacific National Bank (1985) 173 Cal.App.3d 462, 472-474, 219 Cal.Rptr. 62]. When the plaintiff's evidence is not legally sufficient to establish a contract supported by consideration, it is reversible error to permit the jury to decide claims based on an alleged promissory estoppel [A-C Company, Inc. v. Security Pacific National Bank (1985) 173 Cal.App.3d 462, 472-474, 219 Cal.Rptr. 62]. Furthermore, no authority exists to allow submission of a promissory estoppel claim to the jury merely because it is joined with a legally sufficient breach of contract claim [Raedeke v. Gibraltar Sav. & Loan Assn. (1974) 10 Cal.3d 665, 111 Cal.Rptr. 693, 517 P.2d 1157 , often cited as authority supporting this type of procedure, is not apposite]. In Raedeke, the California Supreme Court held that the jury was properly allowed to decide a cause of action that was characterized as a promissory estoppel claim by the parties, but that was, in fact, based on allegations of legally sufficient consideration. The Court also pointed out that the jury's decision of a related promissory estoppel claim could not have been prejudicial since it was favorable to the appellant [Raedeke v. Gibraltar Sav. & Loan Assn. (1974) 10 Cal.3d 665, 672-674, 111 Cal.Rptr. 693, 517 P.2d 1157].

As long as a promissory estoppel claim is independently decided by the court, it is proper to have the jury render an advisory verdict on whether the plaintiff has established the facts that are a prerequisite to the exercise of the court's equitable power to grant plaintiff relief [A-C Company, Inc. v. Security Pacific National Bank (1985) 173 Cal.App.3d 462, 473-474, 219 Cal.Rptr. 62]. However, even when a jury is acting in an advisory capacity, case law provides no authority for allowing it to decide the remaining issue raised by a promissory estoppel claim--that is, whether enforcement of the defendant's promise is necessary to avoid injustice--and that issue seems to be solely within the court's province [cf. A-C Company, Inc. v. Security Pacific National Bank (1985) 173 Cal.App.3d 462, 474, 219 Cal.Rptr. 62].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Consideration Promissory Estoppel Contracts Law Formation General Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

169 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3B Matthew Bender Interpretation of Contract Instructions *

1-3B California Forms of Jury Instruction 3B.syn

§ 3B.syn Synopsis to Chapter 3B: Matthew Bender Interpretation of Contract Instructions *

MB 300B.01 No Conflict in Extrinsic Evidence--Court Interprets Contract

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Extrinsic Evidence

[b] Integration

[c] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300B.02 Conflict in Evidence--Preliminary Instruction When Interpretation Is Jury Question

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Submitting Question of Interpretation to Jury

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300B.03 Objective Intention of Parties

1-3B California Forms of Jury Instruction 3B.syn

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Parties' Mutual Intent

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300B.04 Surrounding Circumstances

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Surrounding Circumstances

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300B.05 Interpretation of Words

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Interpretation of Words

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300B.06 Several Documents Interpreted Together

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Documents Interpreted Together

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300B.07 Interpretation in Favor of Contract

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Interpretation in Favor of Contract

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300B.08 Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300B.09 Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing Requires Party to Act Reasonably in Exercising Discretionary Power

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Exercising Discretionary Power

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

170 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3B Matthew Bender Interpretation of Contract Instructions *

*1-3B California Forms of Jury Instruction ScopeScope

SCOPE

This chapter includes jury instructions covering the interpretation of written agreements, which is ordinarily a question of law for the court. For the California Judicial Council jury instructions on contract interpretation, see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions. Ch. 3 also includes Judicial Council instructions on other issues relating to contracts, including formation, performance, modification, breach, defenses, and damages. The instructions in this chapter are intended to supplement the Judicial Council instructions [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1050(e)].

Although the interpretation of written agreements ordinarily is a question of law for the court, when the interpretation of a written contract depends on the credibility of extrinsic evidence, it becomes a jury question. Therefore, this chapter includes both an instruction for cases in which there is no conflict in the extrinsic evidence, in which event the court interprets the contract, and a series of instructions for use in those cases in which there is a conflict for the jury to resolve.

Ch. 3A, Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions, covers the related subject of formation of contracts that are partly written and partly oral. Only if there is an integrated written instrument is the question of interpretation distinct from that of formation of the contract. Thus, the rules of interpretation that are covered in the instructions in this chapter also may be appropriate in cases involving the formation of contracts that are partly written and partly oral.

171 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3B Matthew Bender Interpretation of Contract Instructions *

1-3B California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300B.01

MB 300B.01 No Conflict in Extrinsic Evidence--Court Interprets Contract[1] Instruction No Conflict in Extrinsic Evidence--Court Interprets Contract[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The written contract admitted in evidence as Exhibit _____ governs the rights and duties of the parties. It is my job as judge to interpret the meaning of this contract, and therefore, I will tell you what the contract means. Under the contract:

1. Plaintiff had a duty to _____ [describe plaintiff's duty]; and
2. Defendant had a duty to _____ [describe defendant's duty].

Authorities: Parsons v. Bristol Development Co. (1965) 62 Cal.2d 861, 865, 44 Cal.Rptr. 767, 402 P.2d 839 ; Oceanside 84, Ltd. v. Fidelity Federal Bank (1997) 56 Cal.App.4th 1441, 1448, 1451, 66 Cal.Rptr.2d 487 ; Home Federal Savings & Loan Assn. v. Ramos (1991) 229 Cal.App.3d 1609, 1613, 284 Cal.Rptr. 1 ; Greater Middleton Assn. v. Holmes Lumber Co. (1990) 222 Cal.App.3d 980, 989-990, 271 Cal.Rptr. 917 ; Medical Operations Management, Inc. v. National Health Laboratories, Inc. (1986) 176 Cal.App.3d 886, 890-892, 895, 222 Cal.Rptr. 455 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used only when the court determines that the written contract is integrated and the extrinsic evidence, if any was admitted, bearing on its interpretation is uncontroverted. It instructs the jury that the court will interpret the contract and then sets forth the court's interpretation. The statement of obligations under the contract must be tailored to fit the individual case [see Holz Rubber Co., Inc. v. American Star Ins. Co. (1975) 14 Cal.3d 45, 54, 120 Cal.Rptr. 415, 533 P.2d 1055]. It should be limited to a statement of those obligations and conditions that are claimed to have been breached, or the performance of which are otherwise in dispute.

When the meaning of words used in a contract is disputed, the trial court engages in a three-step process. First, the court provisionally receives any proffered extrinsic evidence that is relevant to prove a meaning to which the language of the contract is reasonably susceptible. If, in light of the extrinsic evidence, the language is reasonably susceptible to the interpretation urged, the extrinsic evidence is then admitted to aid the court in its role in interpreting the contract. When there is no material conflict in the extrinsic evidence, the trial court interprets the contract as a matter of law. This is true even when conflicting inferences may be drawn from the undisputed extrinsic evidence or when the extrinsic evidence renders the contract terms susceptible to more than one reasonable interpretation. If, however, there is a conflict in the extrinsic evidence, the factual conflict is to be resolved by the jury [Wolf v. Walt Disney Pictures & Television (2008) 162 Cal.App.4th 1107, 1126-1127, 76 Cal.Rptr.3d 585].

Instructions that should be used when conflicting extrinsic evidence has been presented, thus requiring the jury to interpret the contract, are set forth in the remainder of this chapter.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][c], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Be Ready to Influence Court: How the judge frames the duties of each side is important. Thus, if needed, be ready to argue this instruction in order to influence the judge. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Be Ready to Tailor Evidence: If the court is going to instruct the jury on the contract's meaning, try to find out as soon as possible in the trial how the court will frame the duties of the parties. You need to know this to tailor your presentation of evidence, and your statements to the jury in opening and closing. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Extrinsic Evidence

When no extrinsic evidence has been presented relating to the intent of the parties, or when the extrinsic evidence is uncontroverted, questions concerning the interpretation of a fully integrated written agreement are questions of law and it is error to submit them to the jury [Parsons v. Bristol Development Co. (1965) 62 Cal.2d 861, 865, 44 Cal.Rptr. 767, 402 P.2d 839 ; Oceanside 84, Ltd. v. Fidelity Federal Bank (1997) 56 Cal.App.4th 1441, 1448, 1451, 66 Cal.Rptr.2d 487 ; Home Federal Savings & Loan Assn. v. Ramos (1991) 229 Cal.App.3d 1609, 1613, 284 Cal.Rptr. 1 ; Greater Middleton Assn. v. Holmes Lumber Co. (1990) 222 Cal.App.3d 980, 989-990, 271 Cal.Rptr. 917 ; Medical Operations Management, Inc. v. National Health Laboratories, Inc. (1986) 176 Cal.App.3d 886, 890-892, 895, 222 Cal.Rptr. 455 ; see In re Crow Winthrop Operating Partnership (9th Cir. 2001) 241 F.3d 1121, 1124 (bankruptcy court properly determined validity of change in ownership provision)]. If the extrinsic evidence is uncontroverted, the fact that it may give rise to conflicting inferences does not raise factual issues or justify the submission of questions relating to the meaning or intent of the agreement to the jury; in other words, unless there is a dispute as to the existence or nonexistence of the facts that are relevant in determining the intent of the parties (as opposed to a dispute as to the inferences that may be drawn from those facts), questions concerning the interpretation of the agreement are questions of law to be decided by the court [Parsons v. Bristol Development Co. (1965) 62 Cal.2d 861, 866, n.2, 44 Cal.Rptr. 767, 402 P.2d 839 ; Greater Middleton Assn. v. Holmes Lumber Co. (1990) 222 Cal.App.3d 980, 989-990, 271 Cal.Rptr. 917 ; Medical Operations Management, Inc. v. National Health Laboratories, Inc. (1986) 176 Cal.App.3d 886, 890-892, 895, 222 Cal.Rptr. 455].

[b] Integration

If the trial court decides that the writing was not an integrated agreement and parol evidence of additional terms or agreements is admitted, the jury will have to determine what constitutes the contract [see Ch. 3A, Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions]. In such a case, there is no separate issue of interpretation identifiable as such since the terms of the agreement may be found in various oral conversations, letters, memoranda, or the conduct of the parties [see Carlson, Collins, Gordon & Bold v. Banducci (1967) 257 Cal.App.2d 212, 225, 64 Cal.Rptr. 915]. A separate question of interpretation exists only when the parties have reduced their entire agreement to writing.

If the question of integration is in dispute, the court will determine that question in a hearing outside the jury's presence [Brawthen v. H & R Block, Inc. (1975) 52 Cal.App.3d 139, 124 Cal.Rptr. 845].

[c] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 314 Interpretation--Disputed Term

CACI No. 315 Interpretation--Meaning of Ordinary Words

CACI No. 316 Interpretation--Meaning of Technical Words

CACI No. 317 Interpretation--Construction of Contract as a Whole

CACI No. 318 Interpretation--Construction by Conduct

CACI No. 319 Interpretation--Reasonable Time

CACI No. 320 Interpretation--Construction Against Drafter

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

172 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3B Matthew Bender Interpretation of Contract Instructions *

1-3B California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300B.02

MB 300B.02 Conflict in Evidence--Preliminary Instruction When Interpretation Is Jury Question[1] Instruction Conflict in Evidence--Preliminary Instruction When Interpretation Is Jury Question[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The contract admitted in evidence as Exhibit _____ governs the rights and duties of the parties.

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

That contract takes the place of any oral agreement on the same subject if the oral agreement was made before or at the same time as the written contract. You must not consider any evidence of such an oral agreement to add to or change the terms of the written contract.

[CONTINUE INSTRUCTION]

There is a dispute between the parties as to the meaning of that contract. Plaintiff contends that _____ [state plaintiff's contentions]. Defendant contends that _____ [state defendant's contentions]. This dispute raises a question of interpretation of the written contract that you must decide according to the following rules of interpretation.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1625; Warner Constr. Corp. v. City of Los Angeles (1970) 2 Cal.3d 285, 291-293, 85 Cal.Rptr. 444, 466 P.2d 996 ; Masterson v. Sine (1968) 68 Cal.2d 222, 225, 65 Cal.Rptr. 545, 436 P.2d 561 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is a conflict in the extrinsic evidence offered to interpret a written contract.

In such a case, the jury will determine the meaning of the contract based on its resolution of that conflict.

The optional paragraph regarding oral agreements is intended to make it clear that the extrinsic evidence is not to be used for a purpose prohibited by the parol evidence rule. This paragraph should be included in the instruction if the extrinsic evidence offered on the interpretation issues includes oral statements between the parties or if for any other reason the court believes this clarification would be desirable. If there is evidence of a subsequent oral agreement and one of the parties contends that the written agreement was thereby modified, then the instructions in Ch. 3A, Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions, on that subject should also be given.

As indicated in the last sentence of this instruction, the instruction should be combined with or followed by the rules of interpretation set forth in the remainder of this chapter as may be appropriate to the particular case. If the contract consists of a group of writings, the instruction in MB 300B.06 should be substituted for the first sentence of this instruction.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Be Ready to Argue Issue With Court:

Submitting a contractual issue to the jury is not that common. It turns on the presence (or absence) of a related factual issue. This may be important to argue with the judge. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Submitting Question of Interpretation to Jury

When the interpretation of a written contract depends on the credibility of extrinsic evidence, it is proper to submit the question of interpretation to the jury [Warner Constr. Corp. v. City of Los Angeles (1970) 2 Cal.3d 285, 291, 85 Cal.Rptr. 444, 466 P.2d 996 ; Morey v. Vannucci (1998) 64 Cal.App.4th 904, 914, 75 Cal.Rptr.2d 573 (when interpretation of contract term turned on assessment of conflicting evidence, trial court did not err in submitting that question to jury); Horsemen's Benevolent & Protective Assn. v. Valley Racing Assn. (1992) 4 Cal.App.4th 1538, 1559-1560, 6 Cal.Rptr.2d 698 ; Sunniland Fruit, Inc. v. Verni (1991) 233 Cal.App.3d 892, 898, 284 Cal.Rptr. 824]. Although the jury may in such a case consider oral testimony on the issue of the contract's meaning, if it is an integrated written contract it supersedes all prior oral agreements or negotiations, and they may not be considered by the jury to add to or change the terms of the written contract [Civ. Code § 1625; Masterson v. Sine (1968) 68 Cal.2d 222, 225, 65 Cal.Rptr. 545, 436 P.2d 561 ; Aragon-Haas v. Family Security Ins. Services, Inc. (1991) 231 Cal.App.3d 232, 240, 282 Cal.Rptr. 233].

A somewhat different approach to this problem was set forth in Estate of Casey [Estate of Casey (1982) 128 Cal.App.3d 867, 871, 180 Cal.Rptr. 582]. This case involved the interpretation of a will. The court stated that a fact issue created by extrinsic evidence should be tried to the jury but that once that factual dispute is resolved, the interpretation to be drawn from the established facts is a matter of law for the court. The appropriate procedure would seem to be to obtain a special verdict [see Code Civ. Proc. § 624] on the disputed fact issue, with the judge then determining the meaning of the written instrument based on the jury's finding [Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook (3d ed., Cal. C.E.B. 1997), vol. 2, § 32.30]. This seems a logical application of the general rule that interpretation of a contract is for the court [Parsons v. Bristol Development Co. (1965) 62 Cal.2d 861, 865, 44 Cal.Rptr. 767, 402 P.2d 839], which might be followed in a relatively simple case when the factual conflict is discrete and easily defined for separate determination by the jury. However, if there are other factual issues to be decided that depend on how the instrument is interpreted or if there are several conflicts in the extrinsic evidence, the only practical solution will be to submit the entire question of interpretation to the jury, instructing them on the rules of interpretation to be followed. This instruction and those that follow are intended to carry out this latter approach.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Consider Various Alternatives in Having Jury

Resolve Factual Disputes: As indicated in the above commentary, there are several different procedures that can be used in having the jury resolve factual disputes in interpreting a contract. These different procedures can have a major impact on the other issues in the trial, including the timing and sequence of jury deliberations. Consider all of these alternatives and be prepared to argue for the procedure best suited to your case. By Ronald Oster

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 314 Interpretation--Disputed Term

CACI No. 315 Interpretation--Meaning of Ordinary Words

CACI No. 316 Interpretation--Meaning of Technical Words

CACI No. 317 Interpretation--Construction of Contract as a Whole

CACI No. 318 Interpretation--Construction by Conduct

CACI No. 319 Interpretation--Reasonable Time

CACI No. 320 Interpretation--Construction Against Drafter

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Province of Court & Jury Contracts Law Contract Interpretation Parol Evidence General Overview

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

173 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3B Matthew Bender Interpretation of Contract Instructions *

1-3B California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300B.03

MB 300B.03 Objective Intention of Parties

[1] Instruction Objective Intention of Parties

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A contract must be interpreted to give effect to the agreement of the parties at the time of contracting. You must determine what the parties agreed to by the words used in the written contract. What the parties agreed to is based on the words and acts of the parties and not on their thoughts or unstated intentions.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1636; Pacific Gas & E. Co. v. G.W. Thomas Drayage etc. Co. (1968) 69 Cal.2d 33, 69 Cal.Rptr. 561, 442 P.2d 641 ; Brant v. California Dairies, Inc. (1935) 4 Cal.2d 128, 48 P.2d 13 ; Southern Pacific Transportation Company v. Santa Fe Pacific Pipelines Inc. (1999) 74 Cal.App.4th 1232, 1246, 88 Cal.Rptr.2d 777 ; San Diego Hospice v. County of San Diego (1995) 31 Cal.App.4th 1048, 1053, 37 Cal.Rptr.2d 501 ; Winet v. Price (1992) 4 Cal.App.4th 1159, 1166, 1169, 6 Cal.Rptr.2d 554 ; Sunniland Fruit, Inc. v. Verni (1991) 233 Cal.App.3d 892, 898, 284 Cal.Rptr. 824 ; H. S. Crocker Co. v. McFaddin (1957) 148 Cal.App.2d 639, 643, 307 P.2d 429 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used with the instruction in MB 300B.02 in any case when the jury is asked to ascertain the contract's meaning based on extrinsic evidence. This instruction can also be used with the instruction in MB 300B.07 when it is necessary to determine that the contract interpretation is not contrary to the intent of the parties. It should be given when there is an issue as to what the parties meant by the words they used in the contract.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip --Using MB 300B .03: This is an important instruction because "hidden intentions" are irrelevant to the interpretation of a contract. This rule can be helpful in keeping out evidence of a party's beliefs and intentions that were not communicated to the other side. If the evidence comes in anyway, this instruction can be used to minimize the impact. By

Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Common Saying to Your Advantage:

"Actions speak louder than words." Most jurors understand and appreciate this saying. Use it to your advantage in presenting the related argument. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Parties' Mutual Intent

A contract must be interpreted to give effect to the mutual intention of the parties as it existed when the contract was made [Civ. Code § 1636; AIU Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1990) 51 Cal.3d 807, 821-822, 274 Cal.Rptr. 820, 799 P.2d 1253; Jordan v. Allstate Ins. Co. (2004) 116 Cal.App.4th 1206, 1213, 11 Cal.Rptr.3d 169 (interpreting insurance policy); Founding Members of Newport Beach Country Club v. Newport Beach Country Club, Inc. (2003) 109 Cal.App.4th 944, 955-956, 961, 135 Cal.Rptr.2d 505 (interpreting country club's governing regulation); People v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. (2003) 107 Cal.App.4th 516, 525, 132 Cal.Rptr.2d 151 (interpreting terms of master settlement limiting outdoor tobacco advertising); Roden v. Bergen Brunswick Corporation (2003) 107 Cal.App.4th 620, 625, 633, 132 Cal.Rptr.2d 549; Nissel v. Lloyds of London (1998) 62 Cal.App.4th 1103, 1110, 73 Cal.Rptr.2d 174; Shell Oil Co. v. Winterthur Swiss Ins. Co. (1993) 12 Cal.App.4th 715, 737, 15 Cal.Rptr.2d 815; Winet v. Price (1992) 4 Cal.App.4th 1159, 1166, 6 Cal.Rptr.2d 554; Stevenson v. Oceanic Bank (1990) 223 Cal.App.3d 306, 316, 272 Cal.Rptr. 757; see United States Cellular v. GTE Mobilnet, Inc. (9th Cir. 2002) 281 F.3d 929, 934-936 (interpreting anti-transfer provisions in partnership agreement)]. This requires consideration of any evidence offered to show the intended meaning of the language used by the parties [Pacific Gas & E. Co. v. G.W. Thomas Drayage etc. Co. (1968) 69 Cal.2d 33, 69 Cal.Rptr. 561, 442 P.2d 641; De Anza Enterprises v. Johnson (2002) 104 Cal.App.4th 1307, 1314-1315, 1318, 128 Cal.Rptr.2d 749 (examination of joint venturers' contract terms, in context of document as whole and surrounding circumstances, led to conclusion that parties intended to fix purchase price by mutual agreement or appraisal, leaving date to follow as matter of course); Southern Pacific Transportation Company v. Santa Fe Pacific Pipelines Inc. (1999) 74 Cal.App.4th 1232, 1241-1246, 88 Cal.Rptr.2d 777 (trial court committed reversible error in rejecting almost all exhibits and refusing to interpret agreements to determine formula for establishing rent or to consider extrinsic evidence pertinent to issue)].

However, this determination of the parties' intent does not extend to an intent that is not objectively manifested [Brant v. California Dairies, Inc. (1935) 4 Cal.2d 128, 133, 48 P.2d 13 (testimony by one party to contract as to what he thought contract meant was inadmissible); Bionghi v. Metropolitan Water District (1999) 70 Cal.App.4th 1358, 1369, 83 Cal.Rptr.2d 388 (extrinsic evidence not admissible to vary terms of integrated contract by adding requirement of good cause for termination when words of contract not reasonably susceptible to meaning argued); San Diego Hospice v. County of San Diego (1995) 31 Cal.App.4th 1048, 1053, 37 Cal.Rptr.2d 501 (after explicitly waiving all claims, including unknown claims, with advice of counsel, releasing party may not contend it had no intention to release other party from unknown problems); Winet v. Price (1992) 4 Cal.App.4th 1159, 1166-1169, 6 Cal.Rptr.2d 554 (testimony on party's uncommunicated subjective intent as to meaning of contract not admissible to contradict terms of agreement); Sunniland Fruit, Inc. v. Verni (1991) 233 Cal.App.3d 892, 898, 284 Cal.Rptr. 824 (testimony of party as to his subjective intent or understanding may not be used to establish intent independent of express written terms)]. In construing contracts, the mutual intention of the parties as objectively exhibited by their language, acts, and conduct governs [Winograd v. American Broadcasting Company (1998) 68 Cal.App.4th 624, 632, 80 Cal.Rptr.2d 378 (interpreting oral stipulation in court regarding binding arbitration); Medical Operations Management, Inc. v. National Health Laboratories, Inc. (1986) 176 Cal.App.3d 886, 893, 222 Cal.Rptr. 455; H. S. Crocker Co. v. McFaddin (1957) 148 Cal.App.2d 639, 643, 307 P.2d 429]. Since the subjective intention of the parties is really irrelevant, it would seem desirable in jury instructions to avoid using the terms "intent" or "intention of the parties" even though these terms are frequently used in the Civil Code and in cases.

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 314 Interpretation--Disputed Term

CACI No. 315 Interpretation--Meaning of Ordinary Words

CACI No. 316 Interpretation--Meaning of Technical Words

CACI No. 317 Interpretation--Construction of Contract as a Whole

CACI No. 318 Interpretation--Construction by Conduct

CACI No. 319 Interpretation--Reasonable Time

CACI No. 320 Interpretation--Construction Against Drafter

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawContract InterpretationAmbiguities & Contra ProferentemGeneral OverviewContracts LawContract InterpretationParol EvidenceGeneral Overview

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

174 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3B Matthew Bender Interpretation of Contract Instructions *

1-3B California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300B.04

MB 300B.04 Surrounding Circumstances

[1] Instruction Surrounding Circumstances

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

In determining the meaning of the contract, you may consider all of the circumstances leading to the contract, such as the negotiations and statements of the parties before the contract, and the object, nature, and subject matter of the contract. The mutual intention of the parties is determined by objective manifestations of the parties' intent, including the words used in the agreement, as well as extrinsic evidence of objective matters such as the surrounding circumstances under which the parties negotiated or entered into the contract, the object, nature, and subject matter of the contract, and the subsequent acts and conduct of the parties.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1647; Pacific Gas & E. Co. v. G.W. Thomas Drayage etc. Co. (1968) 69 Cal.2d 33, 40, 69 Cal.Rptr. 561, 442 P.2d 641 ; Southern Pacific Transportation Company v. Santa Fe Pacific Pipelines Inc. (1999) 74 Cal.App.4th 1232, 1240, 88 Cal.Rptr.2d 777 ; City of Atascadero v. Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith (1998) 68 Cal.App.4th 445, 474, 80 Cal.Rptr.2d 329 ; In re Marriage of Hasso (1991) 229 Cal.App.3d 1174, 1180-1181, 280 Cal.Rptr. 919 ; see Blackburn v. Charnley (2004) 117 Cal.App.4th 758, 766, 11 Cal.Rptr.3d 885 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used with the instruction in MB 300B.02 when the jury is asked to ascertain the meaning of the contract based on extrinsic evidence. In a case in which the optional portion of the instruction in MB 300B.02 is used, it may be desirable to incorporate the language of this instruction immediately thereafter as a qualification, adding "However."

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Carefully Craft Your Argument: Many jurors will struggle with this instruction. So, carefully craft your argument. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip --Using MB 300B .04: This is a very open-ended instruction and is one reason why many counsel will want to consider whether the interpretation issue should be decided by the court. Assuming there are factual disputes that require submission to the jury, counsel may want to consider a special verdict that identifies the issues with specificity.

On the other hand, counsel with a case that has strong jury appeal will be happy to submit as many issues as possible to the jury, and this instruction will provide wide latitude to introduce evidence both before and after the contract's execution. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Surrounding Circumstances

This instruction states the rule of Civ. Code § 1647 that a contract may be explained by reference to the circumstances under which it was made and the matter to which it relates. This includes the object, nature, and subject matter of the contract [Pacific Gas & E. Co. v. G.W. Thomas Drayage etc. Co. (1968) 69 Cal.2d 33, 40, 69 Cal.Rptr. 561, 442 P.2d 641]. For example, in one case, the enforceability of a marital settlement agreement was challenged by the husband, who claimed that approval by the parties' attorneys was a condition to enforcement because the agreement included signature lines for approval by the parties' attorneys regarding form. In interpreting the agreement, the court looked to Civ. Code § 1647 and considered the circumstances and conduct surrounding the execution of the agreement. Pointing out that the parties had negotiated the agreement in question and prior settlement agreements without the assistance of attorneys, the court concluded that attorney approval was not a condition to the agreement's enforcement [In re Marriage of Hasso (1991) 229 Cal.App.3d 1174, 1181, 280 Cal.Rptr. 919].

Another case involved interpretation of real estate purchase contracts that specified only lot numbers in an as-yet unapproved subdivision, but not the precise architectural details of the houses to be constructed on those lots. The court approved interpretation of those contracts for purposes of a judgment for specific performance based on extrinsic evidence of the developer's tract map, site plans, standard home feature sheets, floor plans and elevation plans, as well as the fact that by the time the case went to trial houses had in fact been completed on the lots at issue [Blackburn v. Charnley (2004) 117 Cal.App.4th 758, 766, 11 Cal.Rptr.3d 885].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 314 Interpretation--Disputed Term

CACI No. 315 Interpretation--Meaning of Ordinary Words

CACI No. 316 Interpretation--Meaning of Technical Words

CACI No. 317 Interpretation--Construction of Contract as a Whole

CACI No. 318 Interpretation--Construction by Conduct

CACI No. 319 Interpretation--Reasonable Time

CACI No. 320 Interpretation--Construction Against Drafter

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawContract InterpretationParol EvidenceGeneral Overview

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

175 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3B Matthew Bender Interpretation of Contract Instructions *

1-3B California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300B.05

MB 300B.05 Interpretation of Words

[1] Instruction Interpretation of Words

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The words of a contract are to be understood in their ordinary and popular sense.

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

However, words used by the parties in a technical sense are to be interpreted as usually understood by persons in the profession or business to which they relate, unless clearly used in a different sense.

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

A party may establish that words in a contract have been given a special meaning by custom and usage if the party urging this meaning meets the burden of proving both of the following:

- 1. That there is a general, uniform, and widely accepted custom or usage; and
- 2. That the parties had knowledge of that custom or usage. This requirement of knowledge may be satisfied if the custom or usage is of such general and universal application that the parties must have been aware of it.

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 1644, 1645; Code Civ. Proc. § 1861; Texas Instruments, Inc. v. Tessera, Inc. (Fed. Cir. 2000) 231 F.3d 1325, 1329-1331 ; City Savings & Loan Assn. v. General Ins. Co. (N.D. Cal. 1974) 386 F.Supp. 1210, 1219 ; AIU Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1990) 51 Cal.3d 807, 822, 825, 274 Cal.Rptr. 820, 799 P.2d 1253 ; Miller v.

Germain Seed etc. Co. (1924) 193 Cal. 62, 69 ; Fibreboard Corp. v. Hartford Accident & Indemnity Co. (1993) 16 Cal.App.4th 492, 503, 20 Cal.Rptr.2d 376 ; State Farm Fire & Casualty Co. v. Elizabeth N. (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1232, 1236, 12 Cal.Rptr.2d 327 ; Sunniland Fruit, Inc. v. Verni (1991) 233 Cal.App.3d 892, 899, 284 Cal.Rptr. 824 ; Heggblade-Marguleas-Tenneco, Inc. v. Sunshine Biscuit, Inc. (1976) 59 Cal.App.3d 948, 957-958, 131 Cal.Rptr. 183 ; Roberts Distrib. Co. v. Kaye-Halbert Corp. (1954) 126 Cal.App.2d 664, 676, 272 P.2d 886 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used with the instruction in MB 300B.02 in a case in which the jury is asked to ascertain the meaning of the contract based on extrinsic evidence. It should be used when there is an issue over the meaning of words in the contract. The optional parts of the instruction should only be used if there is evidence supporting the applicability of one of the exceptions to the ordinary meaning rule.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Draw on Jury's Everyday Experiences: An argument by analogy may aid the jury in applying these legal principles. Draw on the jury's everyday experiences. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Interpretation of Words

Civ. Code § 1644 provides that words used in a contract are to be understood in their ordinary and popular sense, unless the parties are shown to have used them in a different sense [AIU Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1990) 51 Cal.3d 807, 822, 825, 274 Cal.Rptr. 820, 799 P.2d 1253 ; Nissel v. Lloyds of London (1998) 62 Cal.App.4th 1103, 1110, 73 Cal.Rptr.2d 174 ; Fibreboard Corp. v. Hartford Accident & Indemnity Co. (1993) 16 Cal.App.4th 492, 503, 20 Cal.Rptr.2d 376 ; State Farm Fire & Casualty Co. v. Elizabeth N. (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1232, 1236, 12 Cal.Rptr.2d 327 ; Sunniland Fruit, Inc. v. Verni (1991) 233 Cal.App.3d 892, 899, 284 Cal.Rptr. 824 ; see Texas Instruments, Inc. v. Tessera, Inc. (Fed. Cir. 2000) 231 F.3d 1325, 1331 (in patent case, term "litigation" in governing law clause of license agreement was found to include International Trade Commission proceedings); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1864 (construction--sense in which parties use words)]].

Civ. Code § 1645 provides that technical words are interpreted as usually understood by persons in the profession or business to which they relate, again unless clearly used in a different sense. In this instruction, the principles of Civ. Code §§ 1644 and 1645 have been combined with the requirements for "custom and usage" instructions that have been articulated by case law.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Expert Testimony: With regard to technical terms, it may be necessary to use expert testimony to establish industry custom or usage. By Ronald Oster

The instruction given when custom or usage is sought to be proven must include the following two prerequisites to a finding that the parties in effect intended the meaning established by that custom or usage:

- First, the existence of a custom or usage must be established; it is inadequate to prove a few instances that do not constitute a general, uniform, and widely accepted practice [see City Savings & Loan Assn. v. General Ins. Co. (N.D. Cal. 1974) 386 F.Supp. 1210, 1219 ; Roberts Distrib. Co. v. Kaye-Halbert Corp. (1954) 126 Cal.App.2d 664, 676, 272 P.2d 886].
- Second, it must be shown that the parties had knowledge--either actual or constructive--of the custom or usage. Constructive knowledge is established if the custom is of such general and universal application that knowledge will be presumed [Miller v. Germain Seed & Plant Co. (1924) 193 Cal. 62, 69 ; Heggblade-Marguleas-Tenneco, Inc. v. Sunshine Biscuit, Inc. (1976) 59 Cal.App.3d 948, 957-958, 131 Cal.Rptr. 183].

Contracts for sales of goods covered by the Uniform Commercial Code may also be interpreted by course of dealing, course of performance, or usage of trade [Com. Code § 2202(a); see Com. Code § 1303 (defining usage of trade); see also Ch. 3H, Matthew Bender Commercial Code Sales Contract Instructions].

Language in a contract must be construed in the context of the instrument as a whole, and in the circumstances of the particular case, and cannot be found to be ambiguous in the abstract. There cannot be an ambiguity unrelated to application of the instrument to the particular facts of the case [Bay Cities Paving & Grading v. Lawyers' Mutual Ins. Co. (1993) 5 Cal.4th 854, 867, 21 Cal.Rptr.2d 691, 855 P.2d 1263].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 315 Interpretation--Meaning of Ordinary Words

CACI No. 316 Interpretation--Meaning of Technical Words

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawContract InterpretationAmbiguities & Contra ProferentemGeneral OverviewContracts LawContract InterpretationParol EvidenceGeneral Overview

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

176 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3B Matthew Bender Interpretation of Contract Instructions *

1-3B California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300B.06

MB 300B.06 Several Documents Interpreted Together

[1] Instruction Several Documents Interpreted Together

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The rights and duties of the parties are governed by the written documents that have been admitted in evidence as Exhibits _____. All of the documents, which are part of the same transaction, must be interpreted together as one contract. If there are any provisions in one of these documents limiting, explaining, or otherwise affecting the provisions of another, all these provisions should be given consideration in determining the agreement of the parties.

Authority: Civ. Code § 1642.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the court has decided that several documents are all part of the same contract and must be interpreted together. In that situation, it should be substituted for the first sentence of the instruction in MB 300B.02.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--"Connect the Dots" for Jury: This is another instruction where you may need to be prepared to "connect the dots" for the jury, especially if there are many documents. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Visual Aids: If the case involves multiple documents, as is true of most commercial cases, the use of visual aids is critical. Many contracts are bulky documents with only a few pages or phrases that are important to the case. Good courtroom graphics can isolate and highlight the key portions during testimony and closing argument. By Ronald

Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Documents Interpreted Together

Civ. Code § 1642 provides that several contracts relating to the same matters, between the same parties, and made as parts of substantially one transaction, are to be taken together. This is in reality an aspect of the integration inquiry [Corbin on Contracts (1960 ed.), vol. 3, § 549]. Whether a writing, or several writings, constitutes the entire agreement of the parties is a question of law for the court [Brawthen v. H & R Block, Inc. (1975) 52 Cal.App.3d 139, 124 Cal.Rptr. 845]. Therefore, the court will decide in proceedings conducted outside the presence of the jury whether the documents must be interpreted together and will instruct the jury accordingly.

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 317 Interpretation--Construction of Contract as a Whole

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawContract InterpretationParol EvidenceGeneral Overview

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

177 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3B Matthew Bender Interpretation of Contract Instructions *

1-3B California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300B.07

MB 300B.07 Interpretation in Favor of Contract

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

[USE ONE OR MORE AS APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

[EITHER]

When there is more than one interpretation of a contract, and under one interpretation the contract could have been performed without violating the law, and under the other interpretation it could not have been performed legally, you must give it the lawful interpretation. [Use if applicable (see Use of Instruction): If the contract could have been performed legally it cannot be declared invalid just because it was performed in an illegal way.]

[OR]

When there is more than one interpretation of a contract, and under one interpretation the contract could have been operative and capable of being carried into effect, and under the other interpretation it would not have been, you must give it the interpretation that makes it operative and capable of being carried into effect. A contract is operative and capable of being carried into effect when it does not require the parties to perform tasks or acts that are impossible.

[OR]

When there is more than one interpretation of a contract, and under one interpretation the contract could have been reasonable, and under the other interpretation it would not have been, you must give it the interpretation that makes it reasonable. A contract is reasonable if the performance of the parties would not have resulted in _____ [unusual/extraordinary/harsh/unjust/inequitable] consequences.

[CONTINUE INSTRUCTION]

However, the interpretation that you give the contract cannot be contrary to the intention of the parties.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1643; Entremont v. Whitsell (1939) 13 Cal.2d 290, 297, 89 P.2d 392 ; Strong v. Theis (1986) 187 Cal.App.3d 913, 919-920, 232 Cal.Rptr. 272 ; Meadows v. Grimsaard (1985) 175 Cal.App.3d 475, 484, 221 Cal.Rptr. 22 ; Marathon Steel Co. v. Tilley Steel, Inc. (1977) 66 Cal.App.3d 413, 417, 136 Cal.Rptr. 73 ; Advance Medical Diagnostic Laboratories v. County of Los Angeles (1976) 58 Cal.App.3d 263, 269-270, 129 Cal.Rptr. 723 ; Beverly Hills Oil Co. v. Beverly Hills Unified School District (1968) 264 Cal.App.2d 603, 609, 70 Cal.Rptr. 640 ; White v. Indemnity Ins. Co. (1966) 246 Cal.App.2d 160, 162, 54 Cal.Rptr. 630 ; Freeman v. Jergins (1954) 125 Cal.App.2d 536, 546, 271 P.2d 210 ; Danley v. Merced Irr. Dist. (1925) 76 Cal.App. 52, 56, 243 P. 676 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there are two possible interpretations of a contract and one of the interpretations makes the contract lawful, reasonable, or operative and capable of being carried into effect, and the other interpretation does not. This instruction should be used in conjunction with the instruction in MB 300B.03 on determining the intention of the parties. One or more of the three alternative instructions may be used as appropriate. The instruction on the legality of the contract when it was carried out in an illegal manner may be used in applicable circumstances.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip --Using MB 300B .07: This can be a helpful instruction to a plaintiff, especially the portions that create a presumption that the contract was in effect and should be given a "reasonable" interpretation to eliminate harsh or inequitable consequences. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Finding a Contract: Most jurors, if confronted with this situation at trial, will normally want to find for the contract's existence. Exploit or respond to that view. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Interpretation in Favor of Contract

Under Civ. Code § 1643, if a contract can be interpreted in two or more ways, it must be interpreted in the way that will make it lawful [Entremont v. Whitsell (1939) 13 Cal.2d 290, 297, 89 P.2d 392 ; Strong v. Theis (1986) 187 Cal.App.3d 913, 919-920, 232 Cal.Rptr. 272], operative and capable of being carried into effect [Meadows v. Grimsaard (1985) 175 Cal.App.3d 475, 484, 221 Cal.Rptr. 22 ; White v. Indemnity Ins. Co. (1966) 246 Cal.App.2d 160, 162, 54 Cal.Rptr. 630], definite, and reasonable [Marathon Steel Co. v. Tilley Steel, Inc. (1977) 66 Cal.App.3d 413, 417, 136 Cal.Rptr. 73 ; Beverly Hills Oil Co. v. Beverly Hills Unified School District (1968) 264 Cal.App.2d 603, 609, 70 Cal.Rptr. 640]. If the contract could have been carried out in a way that is not in violation of the law, it is to be interpreted in this way, even if it was actually carried out in an unlawful manner [Freeman v. Jergins (1954) 125 Cal.App.2d 536, 546, 271 P.2d 210]. A contract is operative and capable of being carried into effect when it does not call for an impossible condition or event as a test of performance [see Danley v. Merced Irr. Dist. (1925) 76 Cal.App. 52, 56, 243 P. 676]. A contract is reasonable if the performance of the parties would not have resulted in unusual, extraordinary, harsh, unjust, or inequitable consequences [Beverly Hills Oil Co. v. Beverly Hills Unified School District (1968) 264 Cal.App.2d 603, 609, 70 Cal.Rptr. 640].

However, the interpretation must be made in conjunction with a decision regarding the intent of the parties at the time they made the contract [see Civ. Code § 1643 (interpretation may not violate intention of parties); Advance Medical Diagnostic Laboratories v. County of Los Angeles (1976) 58 Cal.App.3d 263, 269-270, 129 Cal.Rptr. 723]. A determination of the parties' intent is based not only on the words, but on the acts of the parties [see MB 300B.03 (determining objective intent of parties)].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 314 Interpretation--Disputed Term

CACI No. 315 Interpretation--Meaning of Ordinary Words

CACI No. 316 Interpretation--Meaning of Technical Words

CACI No. 317 Interpretation--Construction of Contract as a Whole

CACI No. 318 Interpretation--Construction by Conduct

CACI No. 319 Interpretation--Reasonable Time

CACI No. 320 Interpretation--Construction Against Drafter

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Contract Interpretation Ambiguities & Contra Proferentem General Overview

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

178 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3B Matthew Bender Interpretation of Contract Instructions *

1-3B California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300B.08MB 300B.08 Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing[1] Instruction Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

In every contract or agreement there is an implied promise of good faith and fair dealing. This means that each party impliedly agrees not to do anything to destroy or injure the right of the other to receive the benefits of the contract. Thus, each party has the duty not to prevent or hinder performance by the other party.

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

However, the law does not imply any promise or duty that is contrary to the express terms of the written agreement between the parties. When the written agreement states that _____ [characterize nature of express provision in issue, e.g., a party has the right to do a particular thing], the implied promise of good faith and fair dealing does not require that party _____ [characterize nature of prohibited application, e.g., to give up that right]. In this case, the written agreement between the parties expressly stated that _____ [state substance of specific provision, e.g., Defendant had the right to terminate Plaintiff's employment at any time whether or not a good reason existed for termination]. Therefore, Defendant had no duty under the contract _____ [characterize prohibited application specifically, e.g., to continue to employ Plaintiff unless good reason existed for termination].

Authorities: Comunale v. Traders & General Ins. Co. (1958) 50 Cal.2d 654, 658, 328 P.2d 198 ; Brown v. Superior Court (1949) 34 Cal.2d 559, 564, 212 P.2d 878 ; Universal Sales Corp. v. Cal. etc. Mfg. Co. (1942) 20 Cal.2d 751, 771, 128 P.2d 665 ; Storek & Storek, Inc. v. Citicorp Real Estate, Inc. (2002) 100 Cal.App.4th 44, 55-58, 64, 122 Cal.Rptr.2d 267 ; Ocean Services Corp. v. Ventura Port Dist. (1993) 15 Cal.App.4th 1762, 1780-1781, 19 Cal.Rptr.2d 750 ; Gerdlund v. Electronic Dispensers International (1987) 190 Cal.App.3d 263, 277-278, 235 Cal.Rptr. 279 ;

Edmond's of Fresno v. MacDonald Group, Ltd. (1985) 171 Cal.App.3d 598, 605-608, 217 Cal.Rptr. 375 ; see Pugh v. See's Candies, Inc. (1981) 116 Cal.App.3d 311, 327-328, 171 Cal.Rptr. 917 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used with the instruction in MB 300B.02 when the jury is asked to ascertain the meaning of the contract based on extrinsic evidence. This instruction should only be given if the facts and circumstances are such that the jury would be entitled to find that one of the parties breached the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing.

This instruction should not be used when express and unambiguous provisions of the contract between the plaintiff and defendant negate uncontradicted evidence establishing the implied duty or duties that the plaintiff contends were imposed on defendant. The optional provision should be used to inform the jury of the limitations on the scope of the covenant when express contract provisions negate some, but not all, of the duties that the jury might otherwise imply from the evidence presented.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care in Arguing This Instruction: This legal principle is difficult for many attorneys and some judges. Just imagine a juror's reaction! So, spend the time and effort to make an understandable, but not too complicated, oral argument in discussing this instruction. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing

In every contract there is an implied covenant that neither party will do anything that will have the effect of destroying or injuring the right of the other party to receive the fruits of the contract, which means that in every contract there exists an implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing [Comunale v. Traders & General Ins. Co. (1958) 50 Cal.2d 654, 658, 328 P.2d 198 ; Brown v. Superior Court (1949) 34 Cal.2d 559, 564, 212 P.2d 878 ; Universal Sales Corp. v. Cal. etc. Mfg. Co. (1942) 20 Cal.2d 751, 771, 128 P.2d 665 ; Locke v. Warner Brothers, Inc. (1997) 57 Cal.App.4th 354, 367, 66 Cal.Rptr.2d 921 ; Ocean Services Corp. v. Ventura Port Dist. (1993) 15 Cal.App.4th 1762, 1780-1781, 19 Cal.Rptr.2d 750 ; see Oracle Corp. v. Falotti (9th Cir. 2003) 319 F.3d 1106, 1111-1112 (compensation committee did not breach covenant of good faith and fair dealing under stock option agreement); Pasadena Live, LLC v. City of Pasadena (2004) 114 Cal.App.4th 1089, 1092-1094, 8 Cal.Rptr.3d 233 (entertainment company adequately alleged city's breach of contract for amphitheater productions, with allegations that defendant breached implied covenant by preventing plaintiff from submitting entertainment proposals for its consideration); Pugh v. See's Candies, Inc. (1981) 116 Cal.App.3d 311, 327-328, 171 Cal.Rptr. 917 ; cf. Kim v. Regents of the University of California (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 160, 164-165, 95 Cal.Rptr.2d 10 (civil service employee could not state cause of action for breach of contractual covenant of good faith and fair dealing, since public employment is held by statute rather than by contract)]. The implied covenant does not create a fiduciary relationship [see Wolf v. Superior Court (2003) 107 Cal.App.4th 25, 30-31, 130 Cal.Rptr.2d 860 (every contract requires one party to repose trust and confidence in other party to perform; contingent entitlement to future compensation within control of one party did not, alone, give rise to fiduciary relationship)]. The implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing does not supersede specific, unambiguous contractual provisions [Gerdlund v. Electronic Dispensers International (1987) 190 Cal.App.3d 263, 277-278, 235 Cal.Rptr. 279 ; Cherry v. Home Sav. & Loan Assn. (1969) 276 Cal.App.2d 574, 580, 81 Cal.Rptr. 135 , overruled on other grounds in Wellenkamp v. Bank of America (1978) 21 Cal.3d 943, 953, 148 Cal.Rptr. 379, 582 P.2d 970 and Tucker v. Lassen Sav. & Loan Assn. (1974) 12 Cal.3d 629, 640, 116 Cal.Rptr. 633, 526 P.2d 1169]. Although it may be applied to contradict an express contractual grant of discretion if necessary to protect an agreement that otherwise would be rendered illusory and unenforceable, it will not be applied if the contract is unambiguous, otherwise supported by adequate consideration, and unnecessary to effectuate the parties' expressed desire for a binding agreement [Storek & Storek, Inc. v. Citicorp Real Estate, Inc. (2002) 100 Cal.App.4th 44, 55-58, 64, 122 Cal.Rptr.2d 267 (covenant of good faith and fair dealing may not be implied to prohibit defendant lender from doing what it was expressly permitted to do under loan agreement--withhold loan funds when conditions precedent to its performance were not fulfilled to its satisfaction); Third Story Music, Inc. v. Waits (1995) 41 Cal.App.4th 798, 806-809, 48 Cal.Rptr.2d 747]. Consequently, it is error to give an instruction on the implied covenant when it will have the effect of inviting the jury to imply an obligation that is negated by the express terms of an unambiguous agreement [Gerdlund v. Electronic Dispensers International (1987) 190 Cal.App.3d 263, 277-278, 235 Cal.Rptr. 279].

In a case in which the express terms of a loan agreement provided that the lender's obligation to disburse loan funds was conditional on its objectively reasonable determination that the project budget was in balance, the court of appeal held that no obligation to act in good faith can be implied to contradict or limit that express condition precedent, and no inquiry into good faith can be made. Under those circumstances, it is error to instruct the jury to evaluate the lender's determination regarding the loan balance for both reasonableness and good faith [Storek & Storek, Inc. v. Citicorp Real Estate, Inc. (2002) 100 Cal.App.4th 44, 61-62, 64, 122 Cal.Rptr.2d 267].

The implied covenant is especially relevant when a contract contains a clause requiring performance to be to the personal satisfaction of a party to the contract as opposed to the reasonable satisfaction [see Ch. 3D, Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions]. In such a case, the party who must be satisfied is required by the implied covenant to exercise his or her judgment in good faith [Rodriguez v. Barnett (1959) 52 Cal.2d 154, 160, 338 P.2d 907 ; Mattei v. Hopper (1958) 51 Cal.2d 119, 124, 330 P.2d 625 ; Larwin-Southern California, Inc. v. JGB Investment Co. (1980) 101 Cal.App.3d 626, 640, 162 Cal.Rptr. 52 ; see Chodos v. West Publishing Co, Inc. (9th Cir. 2002) 292 F.3d 992, 997-998 (agreement between author and publisher giving publisher right to reject unacceptable manuscript was not illusory because duty to exercise discretion was limited by duty of good faith; because agreement obligated publisher to make judgment as to quality of author's work, it must make judgment in good faith)]. Although these cases dealt with mutuality of obligation rather than interpretation, when extrinsic evidence is offered to explain a satisfaction clause and the issue of the meaning of the contract goes to the jury, an instruction on the implied covenant would seem appropriate. For example, in a landlord-tenant context the implied covenant will not permit either a landlord or a tenant to avoid liability for damages under a percentage rental lease when either party conducts a competing business on adjacent premises causing a reduction of the gross receipts on the demised premises. The subject case involved interpretation of a lease that included a covenant restricting the landlord's right to lease space in an existing shopping mall to a business that was similar to that of the plaintiff. The court held that the implied covenant made the restrictive covenant in the lease applicable to an addition to the existing mall as well as to the existing mall itself. (Although this holding was based on the implied covenant, the court also interpreted the restrictive covenant to prohibit the landlord from allowing a competing business in an extension to the mall.) [Edmond's of Fresno v. MacDonald Group, Ltd. (1985) 171 Cal.App.3d 598, 605-608, 217 Cal.Rptr. 375]. However, the implied covenant does not require good cause for termination of a distributorship agreement because in that context there are no special elements of reliance or unequal bargaining power [Gianelli Distributing Co. v. Beck & Co. (1985) 172 Cal.App.3d 1020, 1036, 219 Cal.Rptr. 203 , overruled on other grounds, Dore v. Arnold Worldwide, Inc. (2006) 39 Cal.4th 384, 394, 46 Cal.Rptr.3d 668, 139 P.3d 56] .

For a further discussion of the various situations in which the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing has, or has not, been held to be applicable, see Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, §§ 742-750, 752 Law (9th ed. 1987).

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 314 Interpretation--Disputed Term

CACI No. 317 Interpretation--Construction of Contract as a Whole

CACI No. 318 Interpretation--Construction by Conduct

CACI No. 319 Interpretation--Reasonable Time

CACI No. 320 Interpretation--Construction Against Drafter

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawContract InterpretationGood Faith & Fair DealingContracts LawContract InterpretationParol
EvidenceGeneral Overview

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

179 of 179 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3B Matthew Bender Interpretation of Contract Instructions *

1-3B California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300B.09

MB 300B.09 Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing Requires Party to Act Reasonably in Exercising Discretionary Power

[1] Instruction Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing Requires Party to Act Reasonably in Exercising Discretionary Power

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A contract may give one of the parties power to take certain actions to protect [his/her/its] interests or to make sure that [he/she/it] will receive the benefits of the contract. When the contract does this, the implied promise of good faith and fair dealing requires the party to act in good faith and to deal fairly with the other party in deciding whether to use that power and in deciding what actions to take. This means that the party who is given a power to do something to protect [his/her/its] own interests may not use that power to unreasonably or unfairly harm the other party or to deprive the other party of the benefits of the contract.

In this case, the contract between Plaintiff and Defendant gave Defendant the power to _____ [describe discretionary power, e.g., apply the fire insurance proceeds toward repayment of the loan it made to Plaintiff]. The promise of good faith and fair dealing that was implied by law in the contract required Defendant to act in good faith and to deal fairly with Plaintiff in deciding _____ [characterize nature of discretion, e.g., whether to apply the fire insurance proceeds toward repayment of the loan]. Therefore, it required that Plaintiff not use the power to _____ [characterize nature of power, e.g., apply the fire insurance proceeds] in a way that unreasonably or unfairly harms Plaintiff or deprives Plaintiff of the benefits of the contract.

Authorities: Kendall v. Ernest Pestana, Inc. (1985) 40 Cal.3d 488, 500, 220 Cal.Rptr. 818, 709 P.2d 837 ; Cal. Lettuce Growers v. Union Sugar Co. (1955) 45 Cal.2d 474, 484, 289 P.2d 785 ; Acree v. General Motors Acceptance Corp. (2001) 92 Cal.App.4th 385, 393-396, 112 Cal.Rptr.2d 99 ; Locke v. Warner Brothers, Inc. (1997) 57 Cal.App.4th 354, 363-364, 66 Cal.Rptr.2d 921 ; Barney v. Aetna Casualty & Surety Co. (1986) 185 Cal.App.3d 966, 974, 230 Cal.Rptr.

215 ; Schoolcraft v. Ross (1978) 81 Cal.App.3d 75, 80-81, 146 Cal.Rptr. 57 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the plaintiff contends that a defendant breached the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing by exercising a discretionary contractual power in an unfair or unreasonable manner. It should be given along with the instruction on the general nature of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing in MB 300B.08 and the instruction on breach in Chapter 3D, Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions, MB 300D.03.

This instruction may also be used, with modification, when the defendant contends that the plaintiff breached the covenant of good faith and fair dealing in exercising a discretionary power. For example, it can be used when the defendant claims that compliance with a provision in a lease requiring the landlord's approval of a sublease is excused by the landlord's failure to act reasonably and in good faith in deciding whether to approve the proposed sublease.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

[3] Comment

[a] Exercising Discretionary Power

When a contract gives one party a discretionary power to take certain actions to protect its own interests, the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing requires it to act fairly and in good faith in exercising that power. Accordingly, a party may not exercise a discretionary power so that the other party is unreasonably or unfairly injured or the other party is deprived of the contract benefits [Kendall v. Ernest Pestana, Inc. (1985) 40 Cal.3d 488, 500, 220 Cal.Rptr. 818, 709 P.2d 837 (landlord's power to approve or disapprove proposed sublease); Cal. Lettuce Growers v. Union Sugar Co. (1955) 45 Cal.2d 474, 484, 289 P.2d 785 (buyer's power to select accounting firm to determine price under agreed-upon formula); Acree v. General Motors Acceptance Corp. (2001) 92 Cal.App.4th 385, 393-396, 112 Cal.Rptr.2d 99 (finance company's power to choose method for computing insurance premium refunds or credits on cancellation); Locke v. Warner Brothers, Inc. (1997) 57 Cal.App.4th 354, 363-364, 66 Cal.Rptr.2d 921 (film studio's power to evaluate prospective director's proposals); Barney v. Aetna Casualty & Surety Co. (1986) 185 Cal.App.3d 966, 974, 230 Cal.Rptr. 215 (insurer's power to settle claims against insured); Schoolcraft v. Ross (1978) 81 Cal.App.3d 75, 80-81, 146 Cal.Rptr. 57 (lender's power to apply fire insurance proceeds toward repayment of loan); see Milenbach v. Comm'r (9th Cir. 2003) 318 F.3d 924, 930-931 (Raiders football team's broad discretion in timing construction of luxury suites to generate revenue to repay entity's loan did not render contract illusory)].

However, in a case when the express terms of a loan agreement provided that the lender's obligation to disburse loan funds was conditional on its objectively reasonable determination that the project budget was in balance, the court held that no obligation to act in good faith can be implied to contradict or limit that express condition precedent, and no inquiry into good faith can be made. Under those circumstances, it is error to instruct the jury to evaluate the lender's determination regarding the loan balance for both reasonableness and good faith [Storek & Storek, Inc. v. Citicorp Real Estate, Inc. (2002) 100 Cal.App.4th 44, 61-62, 64, 122 Cal.Rptr.2d 267 (holding that lender had no duty to act in good faith in determining whether condition precedent to its performance had been fulfilled; lender was required only to act reasonably)].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 314 Interpretation--Disputed Term

CACI No. 317 Interpretation--Construction of Contract as a Whole

CACI No. 318 Interpretation--Construction by Conduct

CACI No. 319 Interpretation--Reasonable Time

CACI No. 320 Interpretation--Construction Against Drafter

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawBreachCauses of ActionElements of ClaimsContracts LawContract InterpretationFiduciary
ResponsibilitiesContracts LawContract InterpretationGood Faith & Fair Dealing

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

1 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction 3C.syn

§ 3C.syn Synopsis to Chapter 3C: Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *

MB 300C.01 Equal Treatment of Organizations

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Corporations Are Persons

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300C.02 Corporations

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Corporations Are Persons

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300C.03 Successor Corporation Liable for Obligations of Predecessor as a Matter of Law as a Result of Merger, Consolidation, or Reorganization

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.04 Successor Corporation Liable for Obligations of Predecessor as a Matter of Law as a Result of Express or Implied Assumption of Liabilities

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.05 When Successor Corporation Liable for Obligations of Predecessor

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.06 Corporation Acts Through Officers and Employees

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.07 Ostensible Authority of Corporate Officers, Agents, and Employees

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Ostensible Authority

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300C.08 Officer Who Participates in Management Is Fiduciary of Corporation as a Matter of Law

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.09 Associations

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Associations

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300C.10 Public Entities

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Public Entity as Party

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300C.11-MB 300C.20 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300C.21 Definition of Partnership

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Definition of Partnership

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300C.22 Definition of Joint Venture

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Joint Venture Defined

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300C.23 Oral or Implied Partnership Agreement

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction 3C.syn

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Proof of Oral Partnership Generally

[b] Burden of Proof

[c] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300C.24 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300C.25 Right of Management and Control

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.26 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300C.27 Sharing of Profits

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[a] Use in Business Context

[b] First Alternative: Defendant's Receipt of Share of Profits In Dispute

[c] Second Alternative: Profits Distributed Other Than as Share of Profits

[3] Comment

MB 300C.28 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300C.29 Co-Ownership of Profitable Property Is Not Equivalent to Partnership

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.30 Effect of Terminology Used by Parties

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.31 Contrary Written Agreement

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.32 Partnership Business Transacted in Name of Individual

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.33 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300C.34 Responsibility of Partnership (or Joint Venture) for Partners' Acts in Usual Course of Business

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.35 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300C.36 Responsibility of Partnership (or Joint Venture) for Acts Outside Usual Course of Business

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.37-MB 300C.49 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300C.50 Agency Defined; Liability of Principal; Burden of Proof

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Nature of Agency; Burden of Proof

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300C.51 Liability of Principal for Acts of Agent--Agency Not Disputed

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Agency Relationship

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300C.52 Creation of Agency Relationship

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Creation of Agency Relationship

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300C.53 Actual Authority of Agent

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Authority of Agent

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300C.54 Agent's Discretion in Emergency

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.55 Ostensible Authority

[1] Instruction

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction 3C.syn

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Ostensible Authority

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300C.56 Ratification by Acceptance of Benefits

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Ratification

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300C.57 Liability of Agent for Breach of Contract Executed in Name of Principal

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.58 Liability of Agent for Breach of Warranty of Authority

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.59 Notice to Either Agent or Principal Is Notice to Other

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.60-MB 300C.69 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300C.70 Minor's Right to Sue: Guardian Ad Litem

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.71 Minor's Right to Disaffirm

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Right to Disaffirm

[b] What Constitutes "Reasonable Time"

MB 300C.72 Liability of Minors

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.73 Guardian Ad Litem--Unknown Persons

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.74 Conservator

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.75 Trustee

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.76 Bankruptcy Trustee

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.77 Receiver

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.78 Executor or Administrator

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.79 Class Action--Plaintiff Class

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.80 Class Action--Defendant Class

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.81-MB 300C.89 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300C.90 Third-Party Beneficiaries

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Third Party Beneficiary

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300C.91 Third-Party Beneficiary Must Prove Performance by Promisee

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Performance by Principal

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300C.92 Assignee

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300C.93 When Assignment of Benefits Includes Assumption of Obligations

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Assumption of Obligations Not Automatically Included in Assignment

[b] Extent of Assignee's Liability

MB 300C.94 Guarantor or Surety

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

2 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction Scope

Scope

SCOPE

This chapter includes jury instructions on various issues that can arise regarding the nature and capacity of particular parties to lawsuits involving contracts. For the California Judicial Council jury instructions on contracts generally, see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions. Ch. 3 includes Judicial Council instructions on issues surrounding contract formation, performance, interpretation, modification, breach, defenses, and damages. The instructions in this chapter are intended to supplement the Judicial Council instructions [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1050].

This chapter covers the following topics:

- Part A covers organizations and includes instructions defining corporations, associations, and public entities [see MB 300C.01 -MB 300C.10].
- Part B includes instructions on partnerships formed under the Uniform Partnership Act of 1994 (UPA'94), and joint ventures [see MB 300C.21 -MB 300C.36].
- Part C includes instructions on certain aspects of agency law that may arise in a contract case [see MB 300C.50 -MB 300C.59].
- Part D includes instructions on representative parties and explains the special status of individuals serving as fiduciaries, such as guardians, executors, trustees, and class representatives [see MB 300C.70 -MB 300C.80].
- Part E includes instructions on additional parties to a contract, such as assignees, third-party beneficiaries, and guarantors [see MB 300C.90 -MB 300C.94].

The appropriate definitional instructions for all parties should be given at the outset in every case. Additional instructions relating to the status of the party may or may not be necessary depending on the circumstances. Pertinent issue instructions derived from this chapter should also be included with the preinstruction on the substantive issues involved in the case.

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction Scope

3 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART A. CORPORATIONS, ASSOCIATIONS, AND PUBLIC ENTITIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.01

MB 300C.01 Equal Treatment of Organizations

[1] Instruction Equal Treatment of Organizations

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Your decision must not be influenced by the fact that one of the parties in this case is a natural person and the other is a _____ [describe organization or entity, e.g., corporation or partnership].

_____ [Describe organization or entity] are entitled to the same fair treatment under the law as we give to natural persons.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 14; Johnson v. Goodyear Mining Co. (1899) 127 Cal. 4, 8, 59 P. 304 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when one of the parties is a corporation or other business entity and the other is a natural person.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

[3] Comment

[a] Corporations Are Persons

Corporations are persons within the meaning of the law and U.S. Const., amend. 14 [Civ. Code § 14; Pembina Con. Silver Mining etc. Co. v. Pennsylvania (1888) 125 U.S. 181, 189, 8 S.Ct. 737, 31 L.Ed. 650 ; Johnson v. Goodyear Mining Co. (1899) 127 Cal. 4, 8, 59 P. 304 ; see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 160 Corporations]. It is axiomatic that the same fair treatment must be accorded to all litigants under the law.

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 1, California Judicial Council Pretrial Instructions]:

CACI No. 104, Nonperson Party

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedurePartiesGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral Overview

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

4 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART A. CORPORATIONS, ASSOCIATIONS, AND PUBLIC ENTITIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.02

MB 300C.02 Corporations

[1] Instruction Corporations

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The _____ [Plaintiff or Defendant] in this case is a corporation. A corporation is an organization formed and authorized by law to act as a natural person in carrying out its business activities.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 14; Corp. Code § 207.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used whenever one of the parties is a corporation. If the other party is a natural person, the instruction in MB 300C.01[1] should be given as well.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

[3] Comment

[a] Corporations Are Persons

Corporations are persons within the meaning of the law [Civ. Code § 14; see Pembina Con. Silver Mining etc., Co. v. Pennsylvania (1888) 125 U.S. 181, 189, 8 S.Ct. 737, 31 L.Ed. 650 ; Johnson v. Goodyear Mining Co. (1899) 127 Cal. 4, 8, 59 P. 304 ; see also California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 160, Corporations]. As such, a corporation has all the powers of a natural person in carrying out its business activities, without limitation [Corp. Code § 207].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 1, California Judicial Council Pretrial Instructions]:

CACI No. 104, Nonperson Party

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate LawCorporationsFormationCorporate Existence, Powers & PurposePowersGeneral
OverviewCivil ProcedurePartiesGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral Overview

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

5 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART A. CORPORATIONS, ASSOCIATIONS, AND PUBLIC ENTITIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.03

MB 300C.03 Successor Corporation Liable for Obligations of Predecessor as a Matter of Law as a Result of Merger, Consolidation, or Reorganization

[1] Instruction Successor Corporation Liable for Obligations of Predecessor as a Matter of Law as a Result of Merger, Consolidation, or Reorganization

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

When a corporation acquires substantially all of the property and assets of another corporation in the course of a _____ [merger/consolidation/corporate reorganization], it becomes responsible for performing and fulfilling all of the obligations and paying all of the debts and liabilities of the corporation transferring the property and assets. However, it is not responsible for payment of any local agency transfer fees for licenses, permits, registrations, and other privileges granted by a local agency if the merger does not result in a change of ownership. In this case, it is [admitted/undisputed] that Defendant acquired substantially all of the property and assets of _____ [name of predecessor corporation] in the course of a _____ [merger/consolidation/corporate reorganization]. Therefore, I instruct you that Defendant has the same _____ [obligations/duties/liability] to Plaintiff that _____ [name of predecessor corporation] [has/would have had]. Plaintiff has the same right to sue Defendant for _____ [characterize plaintiff's claim, e.g., breach of contract] as [he/she/it] [has/would have had] to sue _____ [name of predecessor corporation]. Plaintiff is entitled to recover from Defendant any damages that [he/she/it] [is/would have been] entitled to recover from _____ [name of predecessor corporation] [optional:, including punitive damages].

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

By the same token, Defendant has the same rights in relation to Plaintiff that _____ [name of predecessor corporation] [has/would have had] and is entitled to the benefit of any defense that _____ [name of predecessor corporation] may [have/have had].

Authorities: Corp. Code § 1107; Ray v. Alad Corp. (1977) 19 Cal.3d 22, 28, 136 Cal.Rptr. 574, 560 P.2d 3 ; Marks v. Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Co. (1986) 187 Cal.App.3d 1429, 1434-1435, 232 Cal.Rptr. 594 ; Moe v. Transamerica Title Ins. Co. (1971) 21 Cal.App.3d 289, 304, 98 Cal.Rptr. 547 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the plaintiff is attempting to hold a corporate defendant liable for an obligation or for the liability of a predecessor corporation and it is admitted or established by undisputed evidence that the defendant has assumed or succeeded to the obligations and liabilities of the predecessor in connection with a merger, consolidation, or reorganization.

The optional provision is used when a corporate defendant wants to have the jury instructed that the corporation is entitled to assert any right or defense that would have been available to the predecessor corporation.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Organize Your Argument: Successor liability is a challenging concept for many attorneys, let alone jurors. And, use care if using this instruction as it is complicated. Accordingly, effort should be expended in organizing the related argument--usually with analogies and/or a "flow chart." By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

Corp. Code § 1107(a) provides that when a corporation is merged into another corporation in accordance with Chapter 11 of Division I of Title I of the Corporations Code [Corp. Code §§ 1100-1111], the surviving corporation is subject to all of the debts and liabilities of the disappearing corporation in the same manner as if it had itself incurred them. However, Corp. Code § 1107(b) permits a surviving corporation to succeed to all licenses, permits, registrations, and other privileged granted by any local agency, without the payment of any local agency transfer fee, if the merger does not result in a change of ownership. For example, mergers between a corporation and its wholly owned subsidiary, between a corporation and the wholly owned subsidiary of that corporation's wholly owned subsidiary, or between two wholly owned subsidiaries of the same parent corporation, do not result in a change of ownership [Corp. Code § 1107(b)]. Corp. Code § 1107(d) provides that an action that lies or has been commenced against the disappearing corporation may be brought or maintained against the surviving corporation.

At common law, when a corporation purchases or acquires the principal assets of another in a transaction that amounts, in substance, to a merger, consolidation, or reorganization, it also assumes the obligations and liabilities of that corporation by operation of law [Ray v. Alad Corp. (1977) 19 Cal.3d 22, 28, 136 Cal.Rptr. 574, 560 P.2d 3 ; Marks v. Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Co. (1986) 187 Cal.App.3d 1429, 1434-1435, 232 Cal.Rptr. 594 ; Moe v. Transamerica Title Ins. Co. (1971) 21 Cal.App.3d 289, 304, 98 Cal.Rptr. 547]. Consequently, any contract or tort action that could have been brought against the disappearing corporation may be brought against the surviving corporation [Moe v. Transamerica Title Ins. Co. (1971) 21 Cal.App.3d 289, 304, 98 Cal.Rptr. 547]. The liabilities imposed on the surviving corporation by operation of law include any liability for punitive damages that the disappearing corporation may have had [Marks v. Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Co. (1986) 187 Cal.App.3d 1429, 1434-1435, 232 Cal.Rptr. 594 ; Moe v. Transamerica Title Ins. Co. (1971) 21 Cal.App.3d 289, 304, 98 Cal.Rptr. 547].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Mergers & Acquisitions LawLiabilities & Rights of SuccessorsSuccessor Liability DoctrineMergers & Acquisitions

LawMergersGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral Overview

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

6 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART A. CORPORATIONS, ASSOCIATIONS, AND PUBLIC ENTITIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.04

MB 300C.04 Successor Corporation Liable for Obligations of Predecessor as a Matter of Law as a Result of Express or Implied Assumption of Liabilities

[1] Instruction Successor Corporation Liable for Obligations of Predecessor as a Matter of Law as a Result of Express or Implied Assumption of Liabilities

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

When a corporation that is acquiring the property and assets of another corporation expressly or impliedly agrees to assume the liabilities of the corporation transferring the property and assets, it becomes responsible for performing and fulfilling all of the obligations and paying all of the debts and liabilities of the transferring corporation. In this case, it is [admitted/undisputed] that Defendant acquired the property and assets of _____ [name of predecessor corporation] and agreed to assume the liabilities of _____ [name of predecessor corporation]. Therefore, I instruct you that Defendant has the same _____ [select appropriate characterization, e.g., obligations or duties or liability] to Plaintiff that _____ [name of predecessor corporation] [has/would have had]. Plaintiff has the same right to sue Defendant for _____ [characterize plaintiff's claim, e.g., breach of contract] as [he/she/it] [has/would have had] to sue _____ [name of predecessor corporation]. Plaintiff is entitled to recover from Defendant any damages that [he/she/it] [is/would have been] entitled to recover from _____ [name of predecessor corporation] [optional: , including punitive damages].

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

By the same token, Defendant has the same rights in relation to Plaintiff that _____ [name of predecessor corporation] [has/would have had] and is entitled to the benefit of any defense that _____ [name of predecessor corporation] may [have/have had].

Authorities: Ray v. Alad Corp. (1977) 19 Cal.3d 22, 28, 136 Cal.Rptr. 574, 560 P.2d 3 ; Schwartz v. McGraw-Edison Co. (1971) 14 Cal.App.3d 767, 781, 92 Cal.Rptr. 776 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when a plaintiff is attempting to hold a corporate defendant liable for an obligation or liability of a predecessor corporation and it is admitted or established by undisputed evidence that, in connection with an acquisition of its assets, the defendant has agreed to assume the liabilities of the predecessor corporation.

The optional provision is used when a corporate defendant desires to have the jury instructed that the corporation is entitled to assert any right or defense that would have been available to the predecessor corporation.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Issue of Successor Liability Requires Care: As with the instruction in MB 300C.03, this topic must be addressed carefully. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

When a corporation that purchases or acquires the assets of another corporation expressly or impliedly agrees to assume the liabilities of the other corporation, it becomes liable for all of the debts and obligations of the other corporation [Ray v. Alad Corp. (1977) 19 Cal.3d 22, 28, 136 Cal.Rptr. 574, 560 P.2d 3 ; Schwartz v. McGraw-Edison Co. (1971) 14 Cal.App.3d 767, 781, 92 Cal.Rptr. 776 ; see Fisher v. Allis-Chalmers Corp. (2002) 95 Cal.App.4th 1182, 1188-1190, 116 Cal.Rptr.2d 310 (manufacturer's successor-in-interest was not entitled to summary judgment because it failed to establish that its agreement to assume liabilities excluded plaintiff's product liability claim); Franklin v. USX Corporation (2001) 87 Cal.App.4th 615, 621-625, 105 Cal.Rptr.2d 11 (successor corporation not liable for asbestos-related injuries under theory of express or implied assumption of tort liabilities of predecessor); Chaknova v. Wilbur-Ellis Company (1999) 69 Cal.App.4th 962, 967-969, 81 Cal.Rptr.2d 871 (finding no express or implied assumption of liability for asbestos-related injuries)]. With regard to insurance coverage for a predecessor's liabilities, in a case in which the successor was sued for injuries arising from its predecessor's chemical products, the court held that when the successor voluntarily assumed liability by contract it did not also acquire the benefits of the predecessor's insurance policies as a matter of law [Henkel Corp. v. Hartford (2003) 29 Cal.4th 934, 941-943, 945, 129 Cal.Rptr.2d 828, 62 P.3d 69 (any assignment of predecessor's insurance benefits required consent of insurers; no coverage existed when policy had no-assignment clause and insurers did not consent to assignment)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Mergers & Acquisitions LawLiabilities & Rights of SuccessorsSuccessor Liability DoctrineCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral Overview

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

7 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART A. CORPORATIONS, ASSOCIATIONS, AND PUBLIC ENTITIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.05

MB 300C.05 When Successor Corporation Liable for Obligations of Predecessor

[1] Instruction When Successor Corporation Liable for Obligations of Predecessor

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

In this case, Plaintiff claims that [he/she/it] is entitled to recover damages from Defendant because Defendant is legally responsible for _____ [characterize obligation or liability, e.g., the performance of contractual promises made or the repayment of money borrowed] by _____ [name of predecessor corporation] as a result of Defendant's [acquisition/purchase] of the property and assets of _____ [name of predecessor corporation].

Defendant cannot be found to be legally responsible for _____ [characterize obligation or liability, e.g., the performance of contractual promises made or the repayment of money borrowed] by _____ [name of predecessor corporation] merely because it [purchased/acquired] the property and assets of _____ [name of predecessor corporation]. To prove that Defendant is legally responsible for _____ [characterize obligation or liability, e.g., the performance of contractual promises made or the repayment of money borrowed] by _____ [name of predecessor corporation], Plaintiff must prove that Defendant [purchased/acquired] substantially all of the property and assets of _____ [name of predecessor corporation] and must also prove [if jury is to be instructed on more than one theory, add: one of the following elements:]

[SELECT ONE OR MORE OF THE FOLLOWING (See Use of Instruction)]

1. The Defendant expressly or impliedly agreed to assume the liabilities of _____ [name of predecessor corporation];

2. The transaction in which Defendant [purchased/acquired] the property and assets of _____ [name of predecessor corporation] amounted to a merger or consolidation [if applicable: The transaction is considered in law to be a merger or consolidation if the only thing that Defendant gave in return for the property and assets of _____ (name of predecessor corporation) was shares of Defendant's stock, and if those shares of Defendant's stock were either given directly to the shareholders or owners of _____ (name of predecessor corporation) or given to _____ (name of predecessor corporation) and distributed by _____ (name of predecessor corporation) to its shareholders or owners as part of the overall transaction];

3. The Defendant is, in fact, merely a continuation of _____ [name of predecessor corporation];
or

4. _____ [Name of predecessor corporation] did not receive any substantial amount of money or anything else of any substantial value in return for transferring its property and assets to Defendant and, following the transfer, _____ [name of predecessor corporation] had no substantial funds or assets to pay or debts or obligations to satisfy that it owed to Plaintiff and its other creditors.

If you find that Defendant [purchased/acquired] substantially all of the property and assets of _____ [name of predecessor corporation], and if you also find that _____ [describe additional element relied on by plaintiff or state, e.g., Plaintiff has established the existence of one of the additional elements on which I have just instructed you], then you must find that Defendant was legally responsible for _____ [characterize obligation or liability at issue, e.g., the performance of contractual promises made or the repayment of money borrowed] by _____ [name of predecessor corporation]. If Defendant was legally responsible for _____ [characterize obligation or liability at issue, e.g., the performance of contractual promises made or the repayment of money borrowed] by _____ [name of predecessor corporation], then Plaintiff has the same right to sue Defendant for _____ [characterize plaintiff's claim, e.g., breach of contract] as [he/she/it] [has/would have had] to sue _____ [name of predecessor corporation], and Plaintiff is entitled to recover from Defendant any damages that [he/she/it] [is/would have been] entitled to recover from _____ [name of predecessor corporation] [optional: , including punitive damages].

Authorities: Corp. Code § 1107; Ray v. Alad Corp. (1977) 19 Cal.3d 22, 28, 136 Cal.Rptr. 574, 560 P.2d 3 ; Chaknova v. Wilbur-Ellis Company (1999) 69 Cal.App.4th 962, 967, 81 Cal.Rptr.2d 871 ; Rosales v. Thermex-Thermatron, Inc. (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 187, 191, 194-195, 78 Cal.Rptr.2d 861 ; Marks v. Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Co. (1986) 187 Cal.App.3d 1429, 1434-1435, 232 Cal.Rptr. 594 ; Moe v. Transamerica Title Ins. Co. (1971) 21 Cal.App.3d 289, 304, 98 Cal.Rptr. 547 ; Schwartz v. McGraw-Edison Co. (1971) 14 Cal.App.3d 767, 781, 92 Cal.Rptr. 776 ; Malone v. Red Top Cab (1936) 16 Cal.App.2d 268, 273-274, 60 P.2d 543 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the jury will be asked to resolve disputed factual issues raised by a plaintiff's claim that a corporate defendant is liable for an obligation or liability of a predecessor corporation as the result of a purchase or acquisition of its assets. This instruction is intended to supplement the main burden of proof instruction, which should instruct the jury that the plaintiff has the burden of proving that the defendant is legally responsible for the obligations and liabilities of the predecessor corporation. Depending on the facts of the particular case, it may be necessary or appropriate to supplement this instruction with other instructions that define the elements set forth in this instruction with greater particularity.

This instruction informs the jury of four separate grounds on which a corporate defendant can be held liable for the obligations of a predecessor corporation. The jury should be instructed only on those grounds that are supported by the evidence.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Break Down This Instruction: This is a very complex instruction that will require a lot of explanation in closing argument. At a minimum, it will be necessary to break down the instruction into parts with the use of courtroom graphics or a power point presentation, and then to relate the evidence to each part. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

In general, a corporation that purchases or acquires the assets of another corporation does not assume the liability for its debts and obligations [Ray v. Alad Corp. (1977) 19 Cal.3d 22, 28, 136 Cal.Rptr. 574, 560 P.2d 3 ; Rosales v. Thermex-Thermatron, Inc. (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 187, 191, 193-194, 78 Cal.Rptr.2d 861 ; Schwartz v. McGraw-Edison Co. (1971) 14 Cal.App.3d 767, 781, 92 Cal.Rptr. 776]. However, under recognized exceptions to this rule the purchasing or acquiring corporation may be held liable for the liabilities of the transferring corporation if one or more of the following circumstances exist:

- An express or implied agreement exists for the assumption of liability [Ray v. Alad Corp. (1977) 19 Cal.3d 22, 28, 136 Cal.Rptr. 574, 560 P.2d 3 ; Schwartz v. McGraw-Edison Co. (1971) 14 Cal.App.3d 767, 781, 92 Cal.Rptr. 776 ; see Henkel Corp. v. Hartford (2003) 29 Cal.4th 934, 941-943, 945, 129 Cal.Rptr.2d 828, 62 P.3d 69 (successor that voluntarily assumed liability by contract did not also acquire benefits of predecessor's insurance policies as matter of law; see also MB 300C.04)];
- The transaction amounts to a merger or consolidation [Corp. Code § 1107; Ray v. Alad Corp. (1977) 19 Cal.3d 22, 28, 136 Cal.Rptr. 574, 560 P.2d 3 ; Marks v. Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Co. (1986) 187 Cal.App.3d 1429, 1434-1435, 232 Cal.Rptr. 594 ; Moe v. Transamerica Title Ins. Co. (1971) 21 Cal.App.3d 289, 304, 98 Cal.Rptr. 547];
- The purchasing or acquiring corporation is a mere continuation of the transferring corporation [Ray v. Alad Corp. (1977) 19 Cal.3d 22, 28, 136 Cal.Rptr. 574, 560 P.2d 3 ; Schwartz v. McGraw-Edison Co. (1971) 14 Cal.App.3d 767, 781, 92 Cal.Rptr. 776 ; see McClellan v. Northridge Park Townhome Owners Association, Inc. (2001) 89 Cal.App.4th 746, 753-756, 107 Cal.Rptr.2d 702 (successor corporation properly named as judgment debtor in addition to bankrupt predecessor, when substantial evidence supported conclusion that successor was mere continuation of predecessor)]; and/or
- The transferring corporation receives no consideration for the transfer and is left without assets to satisfy the claims of its creditors [Schwartz v. McGraw-Edison Co. (1971) 14 Cal.App.3d 767, 781, 92 Cal.Rptr. 776 ; Malone v. Red Top Cab (1936) 16 Cal.App.2d 268, 273-274, 60 P.2d 543].

In Ray v. Alad Corp. [Ray v. Alad Corp. (1977) 19 Cal.3d 22, 136 Cal.Rptr. 574, 560 P.2d 3], the California Supreme Court stated that justification for imposing strict liability on a successor to a manufacturer rests on all of the following [Ray v. Alad Corp. (1977) 19 Cal.3d 22, 31, 136 Cal.Rptr. 574, 560 P.2d 3 (court did not specify whether those findings were for court or jury); see Franklin v. USX Corporation (2001) 87 Cal.App.4th 615, 629-630, 105 Cal.Rptr.2d 11 (successor corporation not liable for asbestos-related injuries under theories of express or implied assumption of tort liabilities of predecessor, de facto merger or mere continuation, or product line successor); Chaknova v. Wilbur-Ellis Company (1999) 69 Cal.App.4th 962, 970-973, 81 Cal.Rptr.2d 871 (corporation not liable as product line successor because facts did not satisfy three criteria of Ray v. Alad)]:

- The virtual destruction of the plaintiff's remedies against the original manufacturer caused by the successor's acquisition of the business;

- The successor's ability to assume the original manufacturer's risk-spreading role; and
- The fairness of requiring the successor to assume a responsibility for defective products that was a burden necessarily attached to the original manufacturer's good will being enjoyed by the successor in the continued operation of the business.

In Rosales v. Thermex-Thermatron, Inc. [Rosales v. Thermex-Thermatron, Inc. (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 187, 78 Cal.Rptr.2d 861], the court of appeal held that the question of whether it is fair to impose successor liability is exclusively for the trial court [Rosales v. Thermex-Thermatron, Inc. (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 187, 196, 78 Cal.Rptr.2d 861]. However, it further held that although the trial court erred in giving jury instructions leaving it to the jury to determine whether imposing successor liability was fair under the circumstances, the error was harmless as the facts concerning successor liability were undisputed, it was not a close question, and the trial court's grant of sanctions for defendant's failure to admit being a successor showed that it agreed with the jury's determination [Rosales v. Thermex-Thermatron, Inc. (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 187, 196, 78 Cal.Rptr.2d 861].

Corp. Code § 1107(a) provides that when a corporation is merged into another corporation pursuant to Chapter 11 of Division I of Title I of the Corporations Code [Corp. Code § 1100 et seq.], the surviving corporation is subject to all of the debts and liabilities of the disappearing corporation in the same manner as if it had itself incurred them. Corp. Code § 1107(b) provides an exception by permitting a surviving corporation to succeed to all licenses, permits, registrations, and other privileges granted by any local agency, without the payment of any local agency transfer fee, if the merger does not result in a change of ownership [Corp. Code § 1107(b); see MB 300C.03]. However, a statutory merger is not essential to the imposition of liability; liability for the debts of a disappearing corporation are imposed when there is a de facto merger or consolidation--a transaction that amounts in substance to a merger or consolidation [Marks v. Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Co. (1986) 187 Cal.App.3d 1429, 1434-1435, 232 Cal.Rptr. 594 ; Moe v. Transamerica Title Ins. Co. (1971) 21 Cal.App.3d 289, 304, 98 Cal.Rptr. 547 ; see Westoil Terminals Co. v. Harbor Ins. Co. (1999) 73 Cal.App.4th 634, 639-640, 86 Cal.Rptr.2d 636 (although finding of successor liability in tort does not entitle successor, by operation of law, to insurance coverage of corporate predecessor, in case of de facto merger, benefits of insurance policies inure to successor entity)]. A transaction is considered a de facto merger or consolidation when the sole consideration for the purchase of the disappearing corporation's assets is shares of stock in the surviving corporation and the stock is promptly distributed to the shareholders of the disappearing corporation [Marks v. Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Co. (1986) 187 Cal.App.3d 1429, 1435, 232 Cal.Rptr. 594].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Mergers & Acquisitions Law
Liabilities & Rights of Successors
Successor Liability Doctrine
Mergers & Acquisitions Law
MergersGeneral Overview
Mergers & Acquisitions Law
Sales of AssetsGeneral Overview

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

8 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART A. CORPORATIONS, ASSOCIATIONS, AND PUBLIC ENTITIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.06

MB 300C.06 Corporation Acts Through Officers and Employees

[1] Instruction Corporation Acts Through Officers and Employees

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A corporation may act only through its officers, agents, and employees. Under the law, a corporation is responsible for any act performed by an officer, agent, or employee within the scope of [his/her] authority.

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

A corporation is also responsible when an officer, agent, or employee fails to do something that [he/she] should have done within the scope of [his/her] authority.

Authority: Chamberlain v. California Edison Co. (1914) 167 Cal. 500, 502-503, 140 P. 25 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used only to address the issue of actual authority. The optional paragraph applies when there is evidence of an omission to do something with the officer's, agent's, or employee's authority. For an instruction and discussion concerning ostensible authority, see MB 300C.07.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Holding a Corporation Liable: Although a straightforward topic, this is often the main avenue in holding a corporation liable. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Emphasize This Instruction: Many jurors will be familiar with this concept of corporate liability, but it is worth emphasizing this instruction in closing. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

The liability of a corporation for acts of its officers, agents, and employees is a question of agency law. Thus, like all principals, corporations are responsible for the acts and omissions of their agents which acts or omissions are within the scope of the agent's authority [Chamberlain v. California Edison Co. (1914) 167 Cal. 500, 502-503, 140 P. 25].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate LawAgency RelationshipsAuthority to ActActual AuthorityGeneral OverviewBusiness & Corporate LawAgency RelationshipsDuties & LiabilitiesAuthorized Acts of AgentsLiability of PrincipalBusiness & Corporate LawAgency RelationshipsDuties & LiabilitiesAuthorized Acts of AgentsScope of AuthorityBusiness & Corporate LawCorporationsDirectors & OfficersScope of AuthorityGeneral Overview

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

9 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART A. CORPORATIONS, ASSOCIATIONS, AND PUBLIC ENTITIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.07

MB 300C.07 Ostensible Authority of Corporate Officers, Agents, and Employees[1] Instruction[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Under certain circumstances, a corporation is responsible for an act performed by an officer, agent, or employee outside the scope of [his/her] actual authority. To establish that _____ [corporation] was responsible for the acts of _____ [name of officer, agent, or employee], Plaintiff must prove all of the following:

1. That _____ [corporation] intentionally or carelessly allowed Plaintiff to believe _____ [name of officer, agent, or employee] possessed the authority of the corporation in _____ [describe conduct for which corporation is sought to be held responsible];
2. That Plaintiff's belief was reasonable, that is, that a reasonable person would have believed that _____ [name of officer, agent, or employee] had authority to act on behalf of _____ [corporation]; and
3. That Plaintiff, acting in good faith and with due care, incurred a liability or parted with something of value in reliance on the apparent authority of _____ [name of agent, officer, or employee] to act on _____ [corporation]'s behalf.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 2317; Torrance N. Bk. v. Enesco F. Credit Union (1955) 134 Cal.App.2d 316, 322-323, 285 P.2d 737.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when ostensible authority of a corporate officer, agent, or employee is alleged [see MB 300C.55 for similar instruction covering ostensible authority of agents generally].

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Defendants Beware: Defense arguments that a corporate officer or employee was acting without authority in entering into a contract will be greeted with skepticism by many jurors. This instruction permits recovery if it was "reasonable" for plaintiff to assume there was authority and if plaintiff was "acting in good faith and with due care." By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care When Arguing Ostensible Authority: Ostensible authority is confusing to many attorneys. Thus, imagine the reaction of a jury. In some lawsuits, however, this can be key in establishing (or refuting) liability. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Ostensible Authority

Ostensible authority is authority that a principal, intentionally or by want of ordinary care, causes or allows a third person to believe the agent possesses [Civ. Code § 2317]. The doctrine of ostensible authority applicable to corporations is the same as that applicable generally between a principal and agent [Columbia Outfitting Co. v. Freeman (1950) 36 Cal.2d 216, 219, 223 P.2d 21 ; but see Saks v. Charity Mission Baptist Church (2001) 90 Cal.App.4th 1116, 1137-1140, 110 Cal.Rptr.2d 45 (church held not liable on promissory notes signed by pastor who, by his own admission, acquiesced in scheme to wrongfully use name of eleemosynary corporation to obtain financial benefit for himself and his partners); see also MB 300C.55[3]]. It is based on the elements of estoppel [Dickens v. Bunker (1959) 169 Cal.App.2d 383, 387-388, 337 P.2d 489 ; see Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 3, Agency and Employment, § 144 (10th ed. 2005)]. It must be based on an act or omission of the corporation that leads another party to assume that authority exists. It cannot be based on the mere representations of the agent or employee [Torrance N. Bk. v. Enesco F. Credit Union (1955) 134 Cal.App.2d 316, 322, 285 P.2d 737].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 37, California Judicial Council Vicarious Responsibility Instructions]:

CACI No. 3709, Ostensible Agent

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Agency Relationships Authority to Act Apparent Authority Proof Business & Corporate Law Agency Relationships Duties & Liabilities Authorized Acts of Agents Unauthorized Acts Business & Corporate Law Agency Relationships Establishment Estoppel, Ostensible Agency & Necessity Ostensible Agency Business & Corporate Law Corporations Directors & Officers Scope of Authority General Overview

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

10 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART A. CORPORATIONS, ASSOCIATIONS, AND PUBLIC ENTITIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.08

MB 300C.08 Officer Who Participates in Management Is Fiduciary of Corporation as a Matter of Law

[1] Instruction Officer Who Participates in Management Is Fiduciary of Corporation as a Matter of Law

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

An officer of a corporation who participates in management of the corporation, exercising some discretionary authority, is a fiduciary of the corporation as a matter of law.

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

A "nominal" officer with no management authority is not a fiduciary.

Authority: GAB Business Services, Inc. v. Lindsey & Newsom Claim Services, Inc. (2000) 83 Cal.App.4th 409, 420, 99 Cal.Rptr.2d 665 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when a plaintiff is attempting to hold a corporate officer liable for breach of fiduciary duty to the corporation. The optional provision should be used when a defendant desires to have the jury instructed that he or she is not a fiduciary of the corporation.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--"Fiduciary" Requires Explanation: "Fiduciary" is another legal term that must be carefully explained to the jury. Sometimes, using an analogy to everyday life may make this term more understandable. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

In GAB Business Services, Inc. v. Lindsey & Newsom Claim Services, Inc. [GAB Business Services, Inc. v. Lindsey &

Newsom Claim Services, Inc. (2000) 83 Cal.App.4th 409, 99 Cal.Rptr.2d 665], the court of appeal stated that an officer who participates in the management of a corporation, exercising some discretionary authority, is a fiduciary of the corporation as a matter of law. Conversely, a "nominal" officer with no management authority is not a fiduciary. Whether a particular officer participates in management is a question of fact. Once this factual prerequisite is established, the law imposes a fiduciary duty [GAB Business Services, Inc. v. Lindsey & Newsom Claim Services, Inc. (2000) 83 Cal.App.4th 409, 420-421, 99 Cal.Rptr.2d 665]. The court held that the trial court erred in refusing to instruct the jury that a former regional vice president was a fiduciary of the company as a matter of law in light of his extensive management authority [GAB Business Services, Inc. v. Lindsey & Newsom Claim Services, Inc. (2000) 83 Cal.App.4th 409, 422, 99 Cal.Rptr.2d 665]. The court found it reasonably probable that a jury properly instructed concerning the officer's fiduciary duty would have found a breach of that duty. Consequently, the court's instructional error was prejudicial and required reversal of the judgment [GAB Business Services, Inc. v. Lindsey & Newsom Claim Services, Inc. (2000) 83 Cal.App.4th 409, 424, 99 Cal.Rptr.2d 665].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate LawAgency RelationshipsCauses of Action & RemediesBreach of Fiduciary DutyGeneral OverviewBusiness & Corporate LawCorporationsDirectors & OfficersManagement Duties & LiabilitiesFiduciary ResponsibilitiesGeneral OverviewBusiness & Corporate LawCorporationsDirectors & OfficersScope of AuthorityDiscretion

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

11 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART A. CORPORATIONS, ASSOCIATIONS, AND PUBLIC ENTITIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.09

MB 300C.09 Associations

[1] Instruction Associations

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The _____ [Plaintiff or Defendant] is an association. An association may sue and be sued in the same manner as a natural person.

Authorities: Code Civ. Proc. § 369.5(a); Corp. Code § 18035(a).

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used whenever one of the parties is an association.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

[3] Comment

[a] Associations

Corp. Code § 18035(a) defines an unincorporated association as an unincorporated group of two or more persons joined by mutual consent for a common lawful purpose, whether organized for profit or not. Joint tenancy, tenancy in common, community property, or another form of property tenure, does not by itself establish an unincorporated association, even if co-owners share ownership of the property for a common purpose [Corp. Code § 18035(b)]. Marriage or the creation of a registered domestic partnership does not by itself establish an unincorporated association [Corp. Code § 18035(c)].

An association has the right to sue or be sued in its own name [Code Civ. Proc. § 369.5(a)]. Individual members are not liable for any judgment unless personally joined as a party [see Code Civ. Proc. § 369.5(b)]. The basic statutes governing associations are set forth in Corp. Code § 18000 et seq. (concerning unincorporated associations in general) and Corp. Code § 18605 et seq. (concerning nonprofit associations). For a summary of the law governing associations, including sample complaints and allegations, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 61, Associations and Clubs (Matthew Bender).

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 1, California Judicial Council Pretrial Instructions]:

CACI No. 104, Nonperson Party

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate LawUnincorporated AssociationsCivil ProcedurePartiesGeneral OverviewCivil
ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral Overview

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

12 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART A. CORPORATIONS, ASSOCIATIONS, AND PUBLIC ENTITIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.10

MB 300C.10 Public Entities

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The _____ [Plaintiff or Defendant] is a public entity. Public entities may sue and be sued in the same manner as individuals.

Authorities: Gov. Code §§ 814, 945.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used whenever a public entity is a party to the action.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

[3] Comment

[a] Public Entity as Party

Public entities may sue and be sued [Gov. Code § 945]. They are subject to the general rules of civil practice unless specifically exempted from them [Gov. Code § 945.2]. The Legislature has specifically declared that the doctrine of sovereign or governmental immunity, which forms the basis of the Government Claims Act (or Tort Claims Act), does not protect public entities against actions arising out of contracts [Gov. Code § 814; City of Stockton v. Superior Court (2007) 42 Cal. 4th 730, 741, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 295, 171 P.3d 20 ("Section 814 simply reaffirms the long-standing rule that governmental immunity does not encompass contractual liability.")]. For additional discussion, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 464, Public Entities and Officers: California Tort Claims Act (Matthew Bender).

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 1, California Judicial Council Pretrial Instructions]:

CACI No. 104, Nonperson Party

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

GovernmentsFederal GovernmentClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsLocal GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstGovernmentsState & Territorial GovernmentsClaims By & AgainstTortsPublic Entity LiabilityImmunitySovereign Immunity

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

13 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART A. CORPORATIONS, ASSOCIATIONS, AND PUBLIC ENTITIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.11-MB 300C.20

Reserved for Future Use

MB 300C.11Reserved for Future Use

14 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART B. PARTNERSHIPS AND JOINT VENTURES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.21

MB 300C.21 Definition of Partnership

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A partnership consists of two or more persons who go into business together as co-owners for profit. ["For profit" means that the partners' purpose it to make a profit and to share that profit.]

Authorities: Corp. Code §§ 16101(9), 16202, 16401(f).

[2] Use of Instruction

This basic instruction should be used in all cases when a partnership is a party. The bracketed language should be used when a lack of realized profits might cause juror confusion.

The instruction is the definition of partnership as set forth in the Uniform Partnership Act of 1994 (UPA'94) [Corp. Code § 16100 et seq.]

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

[3] Comment

[a] Definition of Partnership

The definition of partnership is derived from Corp. Code § 16101(9). That section provides that "partnership" means an association of two or more persons to carry on as co-owners a business for profit formed under Corp. Code § 16202, predecessor law, or comparable law of another jurisdiction. The definition excludes any partnership formed under the Uniform Limited Partnership Act [Corp. Code § 15501 et seq. (ULPA, repealed 1/1/10)] the California Revised Limited Partnership Act [Corp. Code § 15611 et seq. (CRLPA, repealed 1/1/10)], or the Uniform Limited Partnership Act of 2008 [Corp. Code § 15900 et seq. (ULPA '08, operative 1/1/08)] but includes, for all purposes, a registered limited liability partnership [Corp. Code § 16101(9); see Corp. Code § 16101(8) (definition of registered limited liability partnership)]. If such an entity is a party, the instruction may be modified accordingly.

For an extensive discussion of partnerships, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 24, Partnerships (Matthew Bender).

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 37, California Judicial Council Vicarious Responsibility Instructions]:

CACI No. 3711, Partnerships

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate LawGeneral PartnershipsFormationElementsBusiness & Corporate LawLimited Liability Partnerships

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

15 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART B. PARTNERSHIPS AND JOINT VENTURES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.22

MB 300C.22 Definition of Joint Venture

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A joint venture is an agreement between two or more persons to undertake a business project or a series of business projects together for profit. ["For profit" means that their purpose is to make a profit and to share that profit.]

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

If the project turns out to be unprofitable, any losses are shared in the same way that profits would have been shared [unless the parties have agreed otherwise].

Authorities: Nelson v. Abraham (1947) 29 Cal.2d 745, 749-750, 177 P.2d 931 ; Campagna v. Market S. R. Co. (1944) 24 Cal.2d 304, 308, 149 P.2d 281 ; Bank of California v. Connolly (1973) 36 Cal.App.3d 350, 364, 111 Cal.Rptr. 468 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used whenever a business joint venture is alleged to exist between two or more parties. It is parallel to the instruction on partnerships [see MB 300C.21] since the incidents of both are the same, the difference being the scope and duration [see [3], below]. The optional instruction should be used only if there is an issue regarding sharing of losses. It should be used with caution when one joint venturer contributes tangible property and the other contributes services.

The specific instructions in this Part on various partnership issues apply equally to joint ventures.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Explain "Joint Ventures": The concept of a joint venture will be "new" to most jurors. Thus, especially for a plaintiff's counsel, a detailed explanation of this concept is usually the preferred path. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Joint Venture Defined

A joint venture exists when there is an "agreement between the parties under which they have ... a joint interest in a common business undertaking, an understanding as to the sharing of profits and losses, and a right of joint control" [Bank of California v. Connolly (1973) 36 Cal.App.3d 350, 364, 111 Cal.Rptr. 468]. Whether a joint venture exists depends on the intention of the parties [Rennick v. O.P.T.I.O.N. Care, Inc. (9th Cir. 1996) 77 F.3d 309, 317 ; Universal Sales Corp. v. Cal. etc. Mfg. Co. (1942) 20 Cal.2d 751, 764-765, 128 P.2d 665 ; April Enterprises, Inc. v. KTTV (1983) 147 Cal.App.3d 805, 819, 195 Cal.Rptr. 421 ; County of Riverside v. Loma Linda University (1981) 118 Cal.App.3d 300, 313, 173 Cal.Rptr. 371], and is primarily a question of fact to be determined by the trier of fact [Nelson v. Abraham (1947) 29 Cal.2d 745, 749-750, 177 P.2d 931 ; Redevelopment Agency v. International House of Pancakes, Inc. (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1343, 1351 n.7, 12 Cal.Rptr.2d 358 ; Bank of California v. Connolly (1973) 36 Cal.App.3d 350, 364, 111 Cal.Rptr. 468].

The incidents of a joint venture are the same as those of a partnership in all essential respects, the difference between the two being that a partnership ordinarily involves a continuing business, whereas a joint venture is usually formed for a specific transaction or a single series of transactions [Stodd v. Goldberger (1977) 73 Cal.App.3d 827, 836, 141 Cal.Rptr. 67 ; Bank of California v. Connolly (1973) 36 Cal.App.3d 350, 364, 111 Cal.Rptr. 468]. The relationship is founded on contract [see, e.g., De Anza Enterprises v. Johnson (2002) 104 Cal.App.4th 1307, 1314-1315, 128 Cal.Rptr.2d 749 (litigation between joint venturers over buyout procedure set forth in written joint venture agreement)] and the acts of the parties over a period of time may be sufficient to raise an implied agreement of joint venture [Campagna v. Market S. R. Co. (1944) 24 Cal.2d 304, 308, 149 P.2d 281].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 37, California Judicial Council Vicarious Responsibility Instructions]:

CACI No. 3712, Joint Ventures

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate LawJoint VenturesFormationBusiness & Corporate LawJoint VenturesManagement Duties & Liabilities

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

16 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART B. PARTNERSHIPS AND JOINT VENTURES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.23

MB 300C.23 Oral or Implied Partnership Agreement

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The _____ [Plaintiff or Defendant] has the burden of proving that a partnership existed between _____ [names of alleged partners].

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

[EITHER]

A partnership agreement need not be written. It may be oral or implied by conduct.

[OR]

A partnership agreement need not be expressed entirely in writing; it may be partly written and partly oral or implied.

Authorities: Smalley v. Baker (1968) 262 Cal.App.2d 824, 839, 69 Cal.Rptr. 521 ; ABC Egg Ranch v. Abdelnour (1963) 223 Cal.App.2d 12, 15, 35 Cal.Rptr. 487 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is a dispute as to the existence of a partnership agreement. The optional instructions should be used when the partnership was allegedly created by oral agreement or when part of the agreement was allegedly written and partly oral or implied. The instruction is also applicable to joint venture agreements [see MB 300C.22[3]]. Parol evidence issues would have to be resolved first [see [3][a], below].

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][c], below.

[3] Comment

[a] Proof of Oral Partnership Generally

Evidence of an oral agreement or of acts and declarations from which such an agreement may be implied is sufficient to prove the existence of a partnership [Campagna v. Market S. R. Co. (1944) 24 Cal.2d 304, 308, 149 P.2d 281 ; ABC Egg Ranch v. Abdelnour (1963) 223 Cal.App.2d 12, 15, 35 Cal.Rptr. 487]. When an express contract is partly in writing and partly oral, it is in legal effect an oral contract [Laughlin v. Haberfelde (1946) 72 Cal.App.2d 780, 785, 165 P.2d 544]. It is proper for the court to consider parol evidence of the parties' intention with regard to forming a partnership when the terms of their written agreement are ambiguous [Cal. Emp. etc. Com. v. Walters (1944) 64 Cal.App.2d 554, 558-559, 149 P.2d 17 ; see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 24, Partnerships, § 603.01 (Matthew Bender)].

Determining whether a partnership has been created is primarily a matter of deciding whether the parties intended to do those things that would make them partners irrespective of their awareness of the legal consequences of their conduct [Westcott v. Gilman (1915) 170 Cal. 562, 569, 150 P. 777 ; Constans v. Ross (1951) 106 Cal.App.2d 381, 386-387, 235 P.2d 113 ; see MB 300C.21 for instructions defining partnership]. This is primarily a question of fact to be resolved by the trier of fact [Smalley v. Baker (1968) 262 Cal.App.2d 824, 837-838, 69 Cal.Rptr. 521 ; Lyon v. MacQuarrie (1941) 46 Cal.App.2d 119, 124, 115 P.2d 594].

[b] Burden of Proof

The party alleging the existence of a partnership has the burden of proving that fact by a preponderance of the evidence [Drinkhouse v. Van Ness (1927) 202 Cal. 359, 381, 260 P. 869 ; Lyon v. MacQuarrie (1941) 46 Cal.App.2d 119, 124, 115 P.2d 594 ; see Gherman v. Colburn (1977) 72 Cal.App.3d 544, 566-567, 140 Cal.Rptr. 330 ; see also Evid. Code § 550 (burden of producing evidence)]. Although there is language in other cases to the effect that in the absence of a written partnership agreement, proof of partnership must be by "clear and convincing evidence" [see Welch v. Alcott (1921) 185 Cal. 731, 742-743, 198 P. 626 ; Smalley v. Baker (1968) 262 Cal.App.2d 824, 839, 69 Cal.Rptr. 521 ; Sullivan v. Schellinger (1959) 170 Cal.App.2d 111, 113, 338 P.2d 462], this language should not be read to require a higher standard of proof than that which ordinarily applies in civil cases [Liodas v. Sahadi (1977) 19 Cal.3d 278, 289 n.6, 137 Cal.Rptr. 635, 562 P.2d 316].

[c] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 37, California Judicial Council Vicarious Responsibility Instructions]:

CACI No. 3711, Partnerships

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate LawGeneral PartnershipsFormationPartnership AgreementsContracts LawTypes of ContractsImplied-in-Fact ContractsContracts LawTypes of ContractsOral AgreementsEvidenceProcedural

ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofPreponderance of Evidence

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

17 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART B. PARTNERSHIPS AND JOINT VENTURES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.24

Reserved for Future Use

MB 300C.24Reserved for Future Use

18 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART B. PARTNERSHIPS AND JOINT VENTURES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.25

MB 300C.25 Right of Management and Control

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

An agreement to share the profits of a business does not create a partnership unless each partner has equal rights in the management and conduct of the partnership business.

Authority: Corp. Code § 16401(f).

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used to supplement the instruction defining a partnership in MB 300C.21 whenever the existence of a partnership is disputed.

The instruction states the partners' right of management and conduct as set forth in the Uniform Partnership Act of 1994 (UPA'94) [Corp. Code § 16100 et seq.].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care When Arguing: "Equal rights" is a common phrase in life, but in a legal sense may be complex. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Participation in Management: The "right" to participate in management does not mean that each partner has to actually participate in management. Partners can agree to delegate management responsibilities to one or more partners. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

Absent agreement to the contrary, each partner has an equal right in the management and conduct of the partnership business [Corp. Code § 16401(f)].

For an extensive discussion of partnerships, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 24, Partnerships (Matthew Bender).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate LawGeneral PartnershipsManagement Duties & LiabilitiesRights of PartnersLosses & ProfitsBusiness & Corporate LawGeneral PartnershipsManagement Duties & LiabilitiesRights of PartnersManagement & VotingCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsSupplemental Instructions

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

19 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART B. PARTNERSHIPS AND JOINT VENTURES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.26

Reserved for Future Use

MB 300C.26Reserved for Future Use

20 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART B. PARTNERSHIPS AND JOINT VENTURES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.27

MB 300C.27 Sharing of Profits

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

[EITHER (See Use of Instruction)]

If you find that Defendant received money from _____ [partnership], then you must find that [he/she/it] is a partner in the business.

[OR]

The fact that Defendant received a share of the profits of Plaintiff's business does not by itself indicate that Defendant was Plaintiff's partner. Receipt of a share of profits may also be the agreed method of payment of _____ [describe obligation, e.g., a debt, wages, rent, consideration for the sale of goodwill of a business].

Authority: Corp. Code § 16202(c)(3).

[2] Use of Instruction

[a] Use in Business Context

This instruction should be used when there is a dispute involving the sharing of profits from a partnership. The alternatives [see [b] and [c], below] are predicated on the existence of a business and are not intended to be used when the parties are joint owners of property and share profits from its use. This type of a situation may still raise a question of whether they are in business together as partners [see MB 300C.25].

The alternative instructions concern the sharing of profits under the Uniform Partnership Act of 1994 (UPA'94) [Corp. Code § 16100 et seq.].

[b] First Alternative: Defendant's Receipt of Share of Profits In Dispute

The first alternative instruction should be used when the only disputed issue is whether the defendants received money designated by the parties as a share of the profits. The instruction is based on a suggestion for instructing the jury on presumptions affecting the burden of producing evidence when the basic fact is disputed, i.e., receipt of money designated as profits [see Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook (3d ed., Cal. C.E.B. 1997), vol. 2, §§ 46.2, 46.7]. If there is no dispute regarding receipt of profits or evidence of a contrary purpose, the jury should simply be instructed that the partnership has been established.

[c] Second Alternative: Profits Distributed Other Than as Share of Profits

The second alternative instruction should be used when the basic fact of receipt of profits is undisputed but substantial evidence has been introduced that the profits were for a purpose other than partner compensation. The presumption disappears in such a situation and no reference to the presumed fact is appropriate [see Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook (3d ed., Cal. C.E.B. 1997), vol. 2, § 46.15].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care When Arguing: The second alternative will be confusing to many jurors. Thus, the related argument must be clear. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

A person who receives a share of the profits of a business is presumed to be a partner in the business, unless the profits were received for any of the following reasons [Corp. Code § 16202(c)(3)]:

- In payment of a debt by installments or otherwise.
- In payment for services as an independent contractor or of wages or other compensation to an employee.
- In payment of rent.
- In payment of an annuity or other retirement benefit to a beneficiary, representative, or designee of a deceased or retired partner.
- In payment of interest or other charge on a loan, even if the amount of payment varies with the profits of the business, including a direct or indirect present or future ownership of the collateral, or rights to income, proceeds, or increase in value derived from the collateral.
- In payment for the sale of the goodwill of a business or other property by installments or otherwise.

For an extensive discussion of partnerships, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 24, Partnerships (Matthew Bender).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate LawGeneral PartnershipsFormationElementsBusiness & Corporate LawGeneral
PartnershipsManagement Duties & LiabilitiesRights of PartnersLosses & Profits

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

21 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART B. PARTNERSHIPS AND JOINT VENTURES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.28

Reserved for Future Use

MB 300C.28Reserved for Future Use

22 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART B. PARTNERSHIPS AND JOINT VENTURES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.29

MB 300C.29 Co-Ownership of Profitable Property Is Not Equivalent to Partnership

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

People who own property together are not necessarily in business together as partners even if they share in _____ [profits or gross receipts] from the property.

Authority: Corp. Code § 16202(c)(1).

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in cases involving co-owners of land who may or may not be business partners depending on the circumstances. The instruction concerns the co-ownership of property under the Uniform Partnership Act of 1994 (UPA'94) [Corp. Code § 16100 et seq.].

[3] Comment

Mere common ownership of property does not, of itself, establish a partnership [see Corp. Code § 16202(c)(1)]. The question of partnership is one of fact. Some degree of participation by partners in the management and control of the business is one of the primary elements of partnerships [Billups v. Tiernan (1970) 11 Cal.App.3d 372, 379, 90 Cal.Rptr. 246]. Therefore joint ownership of property, that is, joint tenancy, tenancy in common, tenancy by the entireties, joint property, common property, or part ownership, does not by itself establish a partnership, even if the co-owners share profits made by the use of the property [Corp. Code § 16202(c)(1)].

Similarly, the sharing of gross returns does not by itself establish a partnership, even if the persons sharing them have a joint or common right or interest in property from which the returns are derived [Corp. Code § 16202(c)(2)].

For an extensive discussion of partnerships, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 24, Partnerships (Matthew Bender).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate LawGeneral PartnershipsFormationElementsBusiness & Corporate LawGeneral PartnershipsManagement Duties & LiabilitiesRights of PartnersPartnership Property

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

23 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART B. PARTNERSHIPS AND JOINT VENTURES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.30

MB 300C.30 Effect of Terminology Used by Parties

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

[EITHER (See Use of Instruction)]

The fact that the parties called each other "partner" or referred to their relationship as a "partnership" does not necessarily mean that they entered into a relationship that the law recognizes as a partnership. It is only one of the factors you must consider in deciding whether a partnership existed.

[OR]

You must determine whether a partnership exists from the nature of the relation agreed on rather than the name that the parties have given to it. The fact that the parties did not call themselves "partners" is not controlling if you nevertheless are persuaded that they agreed to create a relationship that the law recognizes as a partnership.

Authorities: Kloke v. Pongratz (1940) 38 Cal.App.2d 395, 402, 101 P.2d 522 ; Smalley v. Baker (1968) 262 Cal.App.2d 824, 839, 69 Cal.Rptr. 521 ; Constans v. Ross (1951) 106 Cal.App.2d 381, 386-387, 235 P.2d 113 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is a factual issue as to whether or not an oral or implied partnership was created [see MB 300C.23] to explain to the jury the significance of the terminology used by the parties. If there is a written agreement that appears to create a different relationship, use the instruction in MB 300C.21.

The first alternative should be used when there is evidence that at least one of the parties referred to the other as "partner" or to the relationship as a "partnership." The second alternative applies when there is no evidence of this terminology.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Defining "Partner": The term "partner" can be used loosely to describe many different types of relationships. This instruction is helpful in making clear that a legal partnership is a specific entity that requires more than a general label to create. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Term's Use Does Not Always Equate With Legal Meaning: Many jurors will assume that use of a particular term equates with the legal meaning. Thus, if you are trying to make the opposite point, take time to make that point. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

The fact that the parties may have referred to each other as partners does not compel the finding that a partnership existed [Kloke v. Pongratz (1940) 38 Cal.App.2d 395, 402, 101 P.2d 522 ; Smalley v. Baker (1968) 262 Cal.App.2d 824, 839, 69 Cal.Rptr. 521 ; see Persson v. Smart Inventions, Inc. (2005) 125 Cal.App.4th 1141, 1157-1159, 23 Cal.Rptr.3d 335 (shareholders in duly-formed corporation operating in accordance with legal requirements generally are not de facto partners owing fiduciary duties to each other simply because they earn same salary and refer to each other as partners)]. Similarly, the fact that the parties did not use this terminology does not mean that they were not partners. The fact that parties express an intent that the relationship not be classified as a partnership is immaterial if they intended to do the things that constitute a partnership. Although some weight must be given to the language of the parties, the question of whether a partnership exists is to be determined from the nature of the relation agreed on rather than the names that the parties have given to it [Constans v. Ross (1951) 106 Cal.App.2d 381, 386-387, 235 P.2d 113].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate LawGeneral PartnershipsFormationElementsBusiness & Corporate LawGeneral PartnershipsFormationPartnership Agreements

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

24 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART B. PARTNERSHIPS AND JOINT VENTURES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.31

MB 300C.31 Contrary Written Agreement

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

You must determine the question of whether a partnership exists from the nature of the relationship agreed on rather than from the name that the parties have given to it. The fact that the parties have a written agreement that appears to create a relationship that is different from a partnership is a factor for you to consider. However, it does not prevent you from determining based on other evidence that the relationship agreed on by the parties was in fact a partnership.

Authorities: Refinite Sales Co. v. Fred R. Bright Co. (1953) 119 Cal.App.2d 56, 63, 258 P.2d 1116 ; Constans v. Ross (1951) 106 Cal.App.2d 381, 386-387, 235 P.2d 113 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when evidence of an oral partnership has been admitted despite the existence of a written agreement that is susceptible to an interpretation that the relationship was other than that of a partnership.

Any parol evidence problems will have to be resolved before the admission of the evidence [see Ch. 3B, Matthew Bender Interpretation of Contract Instructions, for appropriate interpretation instructions].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Overcoming Written Document Can Be

Difficult: Many jurors will be impressed by a written document and it will be hard to overcome the writing, particularly if both parties were involved in drafting the document. Hence, if you are relying on contrary oral and other evidence, you should "take on" such an assumption. By Rex Heeseman and Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

"While the question of whether a partnership exists is to be determined from the nature of the relationship agreed upon rather than the name which the parties have given to it, some weight must be given to the language of the parties themselves" [Constans v. Ross (1951) 106 Cal.App.2d 381, 386, 235 P.2d 113]. It has been said that when the parties have entered into a written agreement, their intention should be determined chiefly from the terms of the writing [Constans v. Ross (1951) 106 Cal.App.2d 381, 386-387, 235 P.2d 113 ; Kersch v. Taber (1945) 67 Cal.App.2d 499, 504, 154 P.2d 934]. However, the courts' real concern is that the parties' intention be determined objectively and not from subjective or undisclosed intentions [Constans v. Ross (1951) 106 Cal.App.2d 381, 387, 235 P.2d 113]. If there is other admissible evidence showing that the transaction is in fact a partnership or joint venture for mutual profit, the mere form of the agreement between partners is immaterial [Refinite Sales Co. v. Fred R. Bright Co. (1953) 119 Cal.App.2d 56, 63, 258 P.2d 1116 ; Constans v. Ross (1951) 106 Cal.App.2d 381, 387, 235 P.2d 113]. It is the intent to do the things that constitute a partnership that determines whether or not that relationship exists [Constans v. Ross (1951) 106 Cal.App.2d 381, 387, 235 P.2d 113 , quoting Chapman v. Hughes (1894) 104 Cal. 302, 304, 37 P. 1048].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law General Partnerships Formation Partnership Agreements Contracts Law Contract Interpretation Parol Evidence General Overview

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

25 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART B. PARTNERSHIPS AND JOINT VENTURES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.32

MB 300C.32 Partnership Business Transacted in Name of Individual

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

You are instructed that _____ [partnership] is not responsible for the contract entered into between _____ [individual partner] and Plaintiff unless Plaintiff proves that _____ [individual partner] in fact executed the contract on behalf of the partnership. In deciding whether _____ [individual partner] entered into the contract on behalf of the partnership, you should consider all of the surrounding circumstances. These circumstances may include, but are not limited to, _____ [e.g., any agreement between the partners concerning the power of individual partners to enter into contracts in their own name on behalf of the partnership, or whether the contract in this case is reflected as a partnership asset or liability on any partnership books or records, or the source of any payments on the contract, or the dealings between Plaintiff and Defendant, or the partnership's general manner of doing business with outsiders.]

Authorities: Refinite Sales Co. v. Fred R. Bright Co. (1953) 119 Cal.App.2d 56, 63, 258 P.2d 1116 ; Bank of America v. Kumle (1945) 70 Cal.App.2d 362, 368, 160 P.2d 875 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when an individual has entered into a written contract in his or her own name and there is evidence that he or she may have been acting on behalf of the partnership. There is a presumption that the partnership is not liable for such a contract. This manner of instructing on the presumption is based on the suggestion in Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook (3d ed., Cal. C.E.B. 1997), vol. 2, § 46.3].

The instruction should be tailored to reflect the evidence in the case bearing on the issue of an individual partner's authority to bind the partnership to contracts executed by the individual partner.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Go Over Instruction Carefully and Use Visual

Aids: This is a complicated instruction. However, if your facts warrant such an argument, it may be advisable to go over this instruction line-by-line. The use of visual aids to break down the instruction might be helpful. By Rex Heeseman and Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

A contract executed by an individual is presumed to be the contract of the individual and not of a partnership to which the individual belongs. The party alleging liability of the partnership for the contract signed by an individual bears the burden of proof on this issue [Refinite Sales Co. v. Fred R. Bright Co. (1953) 119 Cal.App.2d 56, 62, 258 P.2d 1116 ; Bank of America v. Kumle (1945) 70 Cal.App.2d 362, 368, 160 P.2d 875]. The jury is entitled to consider the agreement of the partners, their conduct, and their dealings with the world [Refinite Sales Co. v. Fred R. Bright Co. (1953) 119 Cal.App.2d 56, 65, 258 P.2d 1116]. It is proper to show that a debt is reflected on the partnership books and to show the source of payments [Refinite Sales Co. v. Fred R. Bright Co. (1953) 119 Cal.App.2d 56, 63, 258 P.2d 1116].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Agency Relationships Authority to Act Contracts & Conveyances Liability of Principal Business & Corporate Law General Partnerships Management Duties & Liabilities Rights of Partners Authority to Act Evidence Inferences & Presumptions Presumptions

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

26 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART B. PARTNERSHIPS AND JOINT VENTURES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.33

Reserved for Future Use

MB 300C.33Reserved for Future Use

27 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART B. PARTNERSHIPS AND JOINT VENTURES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.34

MB 300C.34 Responsibility of Partnership (or Joint Venture) for Partners' Acts in Usual Course of Business

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff must prove that Defendant is responsible for the conduct of _____ [individual partner] in _____ [describe transaction for which liability is sought]. Every partner is an agent of the partnership for purposes of the partnership's business. Therefore, the law holds Defendant responsible for the conduct of _____ [individual partner] to the extent that [he/she/it] appeared to be carrying on the partnership business in the usual way [unless:].

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

- 1. [He/She/It] in fact had no authority to act for Defendant in this particular matter; and
- 2. Plaintiff knew that _____ [name of partner]'s conduct was unauthorized or had received a notification of _____ [name of partner]'s lack of authority.

Authorities: Corp. Code §§ 16102, 16301.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the plaintiff is seeking to hold a defendant partnership liable for the actions of a particular partner that appear to have been taken in the usual course of business. Partnership terminology is interchangeable with that of a joint venture.

The instruction concerns the responsibility of a partnership under the Uniform Partnership Act of 1994 (UPA'94) [Corp. Code § 16100 et seq.].

If the existence of a partnership or joint venture is itself in issue, the instruction in MB 300C.21 or MB 300C.22 should be given before this instruction.

[3] Comment

The incidents of a joint venture and a partnership are the same in all essential respects [Bank of California v. Connolly (1973) 36 Cal.App.3d 350, 364, 111 Cal.Rptr. 468].

This instruction is derived from Corp. Code § 16301. That section provides that, subject to the effect of a statement of partnership authority under Corp. Code § 16303, a partner is an agent of the partnership for the purpose of its business. An act of a partner, including the execution of an instrument in the partnership name, for apparently carrying on in the ordinary course the partnership business (or business of the kind carried on by the partnership) binds the partnership, unless (1) the partner had no authority to act for the partnership in the particular matter, and (2) the person with whom the partner was dealing knew or had received notice that the partner lacked authority [Corp. Code § 16301(1); see Corp. Code § 16102 ("knowledge" and "notice" construed)]. An act of a partner that is not apparently for carrying on in the ordinary course the partnership business (or business of the kind carried on by the partnership) binds the partnership only if the other partners authorized the act [Corp. Code § 16301(2)]. A statement of partnership authority may authorize or limit the authority of partners to enter into transactions on behalf of the partnership [Corp. Code § 16303].

Since the plaintiff must show that the partnership is responsible for the contract sued on, the plaintiff should have the burden of proof on the agency issue [Evid. Code § 500; see E. K. Wood Lumber Co. v. Moore Mill & Lumber Co. (9th Cir. 1938) 97 F.2d 402, 408 (burden of proof on agency issues embroiled within contract claim falls on plaintiff)].

For further discussion of the authority of partners to act on behalf of a partnership, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 24, Partnerships (Matthew Bender).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate LawAgency RelationshipsAgents DistinguishedJoint VenturersBusiness & Corporate LawAgency RelationshipsAuthority to ActBusiness TransactionsManagementBusiness & Corporate LawGeneral PartnershipsManagement Duties & LiabilitiesRights of PartnersAuthority to ActBusiness & Corporate LawJoint VenturesManagement Duties & Liabilities

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

28 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART B. PARTNERSHIPS AND JOINT VENTURES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.35

Reserved for Future Use

MB 300C.35Reserved for Future Use

29 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART B. PARTNERSHIPS AND JOINT VENTURES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.36

MB 300C.36 Responsibility of Partnership (or Joint Venture) for Acts Outside Usual Course of Business

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff must prove that Defendant is responsible for the conduct of _____ [partner or joint venturer] in _____ [describe act(s) apparently outside usual course of business]. For Defendant to be responsible for the _____ [act or acts] of _____ [partner or joint venturer] in _____ [describe act(s)], it must be shown that the act was authorized by the other partners.

Authority: Corp. Code § 16301(2).

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the defendant is a partnership or joint venture and the plaintiff is seeking to hold the partnership or joint venture liable for the actions of a particular partner or joint venturer that were not taken in the usual course of business. It is assumed that the judge will decide in advance whether the nature of the act is such that it is outside the usual course of business, thereby requiring the instruction in MB 300C.34.

This instruction concerns the responsibility of a partnership for partners' acts outside the usual course of business under the Uniform Partnership Act of 1994 (UPA'94) [Corp. Code § 16100 et seq.].

For purposes of this instruction, partnership terminology is interchangeable with that of a joint venture and the instruction should be modified accordingly if the case involves a joint venture.

[3] Comment

This instruction is derived from Corp. Code § 16301(2), which provides that an act of a partner that is not apparently for carrying on in the ordinary course the partnership business (or business of the kind carried on by the partnership) binds the partnership only if the act was authorized by the other partners [Corp. Code § 16301(2)].

For further discussion of the authority of partners to act on behalf of a partnership under UPA'94, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 24, Partnerships (Matthew Bender).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate LawAgency RelationshipsDuties & LiabilitiesAuthorized Acts of AgentsUnauthorized ActsBusiness & Corporate LawGeneral PartnershipsManagement Duties & LiabilitiesRights of PartnersAuthority to ActBusiness & Corporate LawJoint VenturesManagement Duties & Liabilities

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

30 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART B. PARTNERSHIPS AND JOINT VENTURES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.37-MB 300C.49

Reserved for Future Use

MB 300C.37Reserved for Future Use

31 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART C. PRINCIPAL AND AGENT

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.50

MB 300C.50 Agency Defined; Liability of Principal; Burden of Proof[1] Instruction Agency Defined; Liability of Principal; Burden of Proof[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

An agent is a person who represents another, called the principal, in business dealings with third persons. The principal is responsible for any act of the agent within the scope of the agent's authority.

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

Plaintiff has the burden of proving that _____ [name of alleged agent] is the agent of Defendant.

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

Plaintiff also has the burden of proving that _____ [specify act(s) at issue] [was/were] within the scope of _____ [name of alleged agent]'s authority as Defendant's agent.

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 2295, 2330; Inglewood Teachers Assn. v. Public Employment Relations Bd. (1991) 227 Cal.App.3d 767, 780, 278 Cal.Rptr. 228 ; Aspen Pictures, Inc. v. Oceanic S. S. Co. (1957) 148 Cal.App.2d 238, 253, 306 P.2d 933 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This is an introductory instruction that should be used in any contract case when there is an issue with regard to the representation of one of the parties by an agent. It should be followed by the instructions in this Part that deal with the specific agency issues in the case.

If the existence of the agency is at issue, the first optional paragraph may be used to explain who bears the burden of proving the existence of the agency. If the existence of the agency is not disputed, the jury should be instructed as provided in MB 300C.51. If the scope of the agency is at issue, the second optional paragraph may be used to explain who bears the burden of proving the scope of the agency.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Explain These Points to Jury: In many lawsuits, the nature of an agency and the burden of proof will be key points. Hence, make sure the jury understands their significance. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Pay Attention to Scope of Agent's Authority: Many agency relationships are not spelled out in writing. Accordingly, the "scope" of an agent's authority can lead to disputes when something goes wrong. Most jurors will assume that if the agent was purporting to act on behalf of a principal, then the agent had the authority to do so. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Nature of Agency; Burden of Proof

An agent is one who represents another, called the principal, in dealings with third persons. The representation is called agency [Civ. Code § 2295; see Jacoves v. United Merchandising Corp. (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 88, 103, 11 Cal.Rptr.2d 468 (citing statutory definition)]. The principal will be contractually bound by any act of the agent within the scope of the agency, just as if the act had been done by the principal [Civ. Code § 2330].

The existence of an agency relationship and the scope of the agent's authority are generally questions of fact [see Seneris v. Haas (1955) 45 Cal.2d 811, 831, 291 P.2d 915 ; Universal Bank v. Lawyers Title Ins. Corp. (1997) 62 Cal.App.4th 1062, 1066, 73 Cal.Rptr.2d 196], and the burden of proving both agency and the scope of the agent's authority rests on the party asserting the existence of the agency and seeking to hold the principal responsible for the agent's acts [Inglewood Teachers Assn. v. Public Employment Relations Bd. (1991) 227 Cal.App.3d 767, 780, 278 Cal.Rptr. 228 ; Aspen Pictures, Inc. v. Oceanic S. S. Co. (1957) 148 Cal.App.2d 238, 253, 306 P.2d 933]. It is proper to instruct the jury that the burden of proving an agency and its scope is on the party asserting the agency [Aspen Pictures, Inc. v. Oceanic S. S. Co. (1957) 148 Cal.App.2d 238, 253, 306 P.2d 933].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 37, California Judicial Council Vicarious Responsibility Instructions]:

CACI No. 3705 Existence of "Agency" Relationship Disputed

CACI No. 3709 Ostensible Agent

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Agency Relationships Causes of Action & Remedies Burdens of Proof Business & Corporate Law Agency Relationships Duties & Liabilities Authorized Acts of Agents Scope of Authority Business & Corporate Law Agency Relationships Establishment Definition Business & Corporate Law Agency Relationships Establishment Proof of Agency Burdens of Proof

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

32 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART C. PRINCIPAL AND AGENT

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.51

MB 300C.51 Liability of Principal for Acts of Agent--Agency Not Disputed

[1] Instruction Liability of Principal for Acts of Agent-Agency Not Disputed

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

In dealing with Plaintiff concerning _____ [describe contract or transaction in question], Defendant was represented by _____ [name of agent]. Anything that [he/she/it] said or did within the scope of [his/her/its] authority as Defendant's agent will have the same legal effect as if it had been said or done by Defendant.

Authority: Civ. Code § 2330.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used only if there is no dispute about the existence of the agency relationship. It applies the general principle of the instruction in MB 300C.50 to the parties by name. It should be followed by the instructions in this Part that deal with the agency issues in the case, e.g., as to the scope of the agent's authority. The instruction in MB 300C.52 should be used if there is a dispute as to the existence of the agency relationship,

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

[3] Comment

[a] Agency Relationship

An agent represents the principal for all purposes within the scope of the agent's authority. All the rights and liabilities that would accrue to the agent from transactions within those limits if they had been entered into on the agent's account, accrue to the principal [Civ. Code § 2330].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 37, California Judicial Council Vicarious Responsibility Instructions]:

CACI No. 3705 Existence of "Agency" Relationship Disputed

CACI No. 3709 Ostensible Agent

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Agency Relationships Duties & Liabilities Authorized Acts of Agents Scope of Authority Business & Corporate Law Agency Relationships Establishment Definition

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

33 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART C. PRINCIPAL AND AGENT

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.52

MB 300C.52 Creation of Agency Relationship

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The relationship of principal and agent arises whenever two parties agree that one may act for the other in dealings with third persons. Such an agreement may be written or oral, or partly written and partly oral. [The terms of the agreement may be express or implied. Express terms are stated in words. Implied terms are shown by conduct.]

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

Implied terms may also be shown by custom and usage.

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 1619-1622, 2295, 2299, 2307-2309, 2316; Restatement (Second) of Agency §§ 15.16, 15.26 (1958).

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is a dispute as to the existence of an agency relationship or the extent of the agent's authority. If it is contended that there was an ostensible agency or authority in addition to or in lieu of actual authority, the instruction in MB 300C.55 should be used instead of, or in addition to, this instruction, as appropriate. The bracketed language should be used if the existence of the agency or the extent of the agent's actual authority is sought to be implied from conduct, such as silence in the face of knowledge that another is representing himself or herself as an agent.

This instruction should not be given if the question is whether the agent was authorized to enter into a contract required to be in writing. The equal dignities rule requires that this authority must be written [see [3][a], below].

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

[3] Comment

[a] Creation of Agency Relationship

An agent is a person who represents another, called the principal, in dealings with third persons [Civ. Code § 2295]. An agency may be created, and an authority may be conferred, by prior authorization or subsequent ratification [Civ. Code § 2307]. The relationship is consensual, and is governed by the usual rules for the formation of contracts [Restatement (Second) of Agency § 15 (1958); see Civ. Code §§ 1619-1622], except that consideration is not necessary [Civ. Code § 2308]. The objective standard of consent applies, just as with contracts generally, and the agency may be implied from the circumstances and conduct of the parties [Civ. Code § 2316; Restatement (Second) of Agency § 26 (1958)]. The instructions in Ch. 3A, Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions, and Ch. 3B, Matthew Bender Interpretation of Contract Instructions, should also be consulted for their possible applicability to any disputed issues relating to an agency agreement.

An oral authorization is sufficient for any purpose, except that an authority to enter into a contract required by law to be in writing can only be given by an instrument in writing [Civ. Code § 2309; see Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 3, Agency and Employment (10th ed. 2005)].

In determining whether an agency relationship exists between a franchisor and franchisee, the courts focus on the right to control. A true principal-agency relationship exists only when the franchisor retains complete or substantial control over the daily activities of the franchisee's business [Kaplan v. Coldwell Banker (1997) 59 Cal.App.4th 741, 745-746, 69 Cal.Rptr.2d 640 ; Cislaw v. Southland Corp. (1992) 4 Cal.App.4th 1284, 1296, 6 Cal.Rptr.2d 386].

In addition to actual authority, express or implied, in which the agent is really employed by the principal [Civ. Code § 2299], the law also recognizes that a person may become contractually bound to third parties by the acts of an ostensible agent under principles of estoppel [see MB 300C.55].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care With Evidence: Oral evidence or "implied" evidence on the topic of creating an agency relationship may be difficult for some jurors. By Rex Heeseman

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 37, California Judicial Council Vicarious Responsibility Instructions]:

CACI No. 3705 Existence of "Agency" Relationship Disputed

CACI No. 3709 Ostensible Agent

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate LawAgency RelationshipsAuthority to ActActual AuthorityExpress AuthorityBusiness & Corporate LawAgency RelationshipsAuthority to ActActual AuthorityImplied AuthorityGeneral OverviewBusiness & Corporate LawAgency RelationshipsAuthority to ActActual AuthorityImplied AuthorityCustoms & UsagesBusiness & Corporate LawAgency RelationshipsAuthority to ActActual AuthorityOral & Written AuthorityBusiness & Corporate

LawAgency RelationshipsEstablishmentAgency AgreementsBusiness & Corporate LawAgency
RelationshipsEstablishmentDefinitionContracts LawContract InterpretationParol EvidenceCustom & Usage

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

34 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART C. PRINCIPAL AND AGENT

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.53

MB 300C.53 Actual Authority of Agent

[1] Instruction Actual Authority of Agent

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

An agent has the authority as the principal _____ [purposely gives [him/her/it] and/or carelessly allows [him/her/it] to believe [he/she/it] possesses].

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

Even though it may not be expressly stated, an agent has authority to do everything necessary or proper and usual in the ordinary course of business to carry out the purpose of the agency. However, this authority may be limited by the principal's express instructions.

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 2315, 2316, 2319(1).

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is a dispute about the scope of the agent's authority and there is evidence that the agent's activity fell within the general scope of the agency. If there is a question of ostensible authority, the instruction in MB 300C.55 should be considered.

The choice indicated in brackets will depend on the evidence in the case. The optional instruction will probably be appropriate in most cases in which it is contended that the agent exceeded the actual authority.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Explain "Actual" Authority Carefully: An agent's actual authority is usually a more straightforward concept than ostensible agency. Still, in some lawsuits, "actual" authority may need to be explained carefully. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Establishing Agent's Authority: The optional portion of this instruction is easier to follow. Many agency relationships are not spelled out in writing, so the optional instruction is important to establish that the agent has the authority unless the principal gives express instructions otherwise. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Authority of Agent

An agent has that authority as the principal, actually or ostensibly, confers on the agent [Civ. Code § 2315]. An agent's actual authority is whatever the principal intentionally confers on the agent, or intentionally, or by want of ordinary care allows the agent to believe the agent possesses [Civ. Code § 2316]. In general, an agent has the authority to do everything necessary or proper and usual, in the ordinary course of business, to effect the agency's purpose [Civ. Code § 2319(1)]. Even though the principal expressly limits the agent's authority to something less than the usual and ordinary course of business, the agent will have ostensible authority [Civ. Code § 2317; see MB 300C.55] except as to persons who have notice of the restriction [Civ. Code § 2318].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 37, California Judicial Council Vicarious Responsibility Instructions]:

CACI No. 3709 Ostensible Agent

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate LawAgency RelationshipsAuthority to ActActual AuthorityExpress AuthorityBusiness & Corporate LawAgency RelationshipsDuties & LiabilitiesAuthorized Acts of AgentsScope of AuthorityBusiness & Corporate LawAgency RelationshipsEstablishmentEstoppel, Ostensible Agency & NecessityOstensible Agency

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

35 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART C. PRINCIPAL AND AGENT

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.54

MB 300C.54 Agent's Discretion in Emergency

[1] Instruction Agent's Discretion in Emergency

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

In this case Defendant contends that _____ [agent] exceeded [his/her/its] authority when [he/she/it] _____ [describe activity that may have exceeded authority], and that Defendant is therefore not obligated to Plaintiff to perform _____ [describe disputed obligation]. As agent for Defendant, _____ [agent] was entitled to disobey Defendant's instructions if it was clearly in the best interest of Defendant and there was no time to communicate with Defendant.

You must first decide whether _____ [agent] exceeded [his/her/its] authority. In deciding that question, you must be guided by the instructions that _____ [I will give next or I have already given] on the scope and extent of an agent's authority. If you decide that _____ [agent] acted within [his/her/its] authority, Defendant will be obligated to Plaintiff to perform _____ [describe disputed obligation]. If, on the other hand, you decide that _____ [agent] exceeded [his/her/its] authority, Defendant will not be obligated to Plaintiff unless you find both of the following:

1. That _____ [agent]'s actions were clearly in the best interests of Defendant; and
2. That there was no time to communicate with Defendant.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 2320; Restatement (Second) of Agency § 47 (1958).

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the alleged principal denies the agent's authority and the third party contends that the agent acted in the principal's best interest in an emergency, thereby binding the principal even though the agent may have exceeded the agent's authority. If it is conceded that the agent disobeyed instructions, the only issue being whether the emergency rule applies, the instruction should be modified accordingly.

[3] Comment

An agent has the power to disobey instructions in dealing with the subject of the agency when it is clearly for the interest of the principal that the agent do so, and there is no time to communicate with the principal [Civ. Code § 2320]. This is a special application of the general principle of implied authority that the authority of an agent is interpreted in light of the circumstances at the time the agent acts and the known purposes of the principal [Restatement (Second) of Agency § 47, Comment (a) (1958)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Agency Relationships Establishment Estoppel, Ostensible Agency & Necessity Agency by Necessity

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

36 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART C. PRINCIPAL AND AGENT

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.55

MB 300C.55 Ostensible Authority

[1] Instruction Ostensible Authority

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Under certain circumstances a person is held responsible as a principal for _____ [acts performed by another person who is not in fact (his/her/its) agent or acts of an agent outside the scope of the agent's actual authority]. In this case, Plaintiff contends that Defendant is responsible for _____ [describe allegedly authorized act(s)] taken by _____ [ostensible agent].

To establish Defendant's responsibility for _____ [those acts or that act], Plaintiff must prove each of the following:

[CHOOSE FROM THE FOLLOWING (See Use of Instruction)]

1. Defendant intentionally or carelessly allowed Plaintiff to believe that _____ [ostensible agent] possessed Defendant's authority to _____ [describe allegedly authorized act(s)];

2. Plaintiff's belief was reasonable, that is, that a reasonable person would have believed that _____ [ostensible agent] had authority to so act on behalf of Defendant; and

3. In good faith and acting with due care, Plaintiff incurred a liability or parted with something of value in reliance on the apparent authority of _____ [ostensible agent] to act on Defendant's behalf.

Authorities: C.A.R. Transportation v. Darden Restaurants, Inc. (9th Cir. 2000) 213 F.3d 474, 479-481 ; Civ. Code §§

2317, 2334; Seneris v. Haas (1955) 45 Cal.2d 811, 831, 291 P.2d 915 ; Mejia v. Community Hospital of San Bernardino (2002) 99 Cal.App.4th 1448, 1456-1457, 122 Cal.Rptr.2d 233 ; Kaplan v. Coldwell Banker (1997) 59 Cal.App.4th 741, 747, 69 Cal.Rptr.2d 640 ; Torrance N. Bk. v. Enesco F. Credit Union (1955) 134 Cal.App.2d 316, 322-324, 285 P.2d 737 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is evidence that the plaintiff relied on the ostensible authority of a third person who the plaintiff believed was the defendant's agent. It states each of the elements necessary to establish the liability of a principal under the doctrine of ostensible agency. If one or more of the elements is not in dispute, the instruction should be modified accordingly.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care When Preparing Argument:

Sometimes, this is a key element of a party's case. However, ostensible agency will be a tough concept for many jurors. Hence, the related argument must be constructed carefully. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Emphasizing "Good Faith" and "Due Care"

Requirements: The last part of this instruction requires plaintiff to prove that plaintiff acted in "good faith" and with "due care." Defense counsel may want to highlight these elements in closing argument. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Ostensible Authority

Ostensible authority is authority that the principal, intentionally or by want of ordinary care, causes or allows a third person to believe the agent possessed [Civ. Code § 2317; Seneris v. Haas (1955) 45 Cal.2d 811, 831, 291 P.2d 915 ; Mejia v. Community Hospital of San Bernardino (2002) 99 Cal.App.4th 1448, 1460, 122 Cal.Rptr.2d 233 (trial court erred in granting nonsuit when there was triable issue as to whether negligent doctor was ostensible agent of hospital); Jacoves v. United Merchandising Corp. (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 88, 103, 11 Cal.Rptr.2d 468]. Ostensible authority must be based on the acts or declarations of the principal, not on the acts or words of the alleged agent [C.A.R. Transportation v. Darden Restaurants, Inc. (9th Cir. 2000) 213 F.3d 474, 480 ; Pagarigan v. Libby Care Center, Inc. (2002) 99 Cal.App.4th 298, 301-302, 120 Cal.Rptr.2d 892 (person cannot become agent of another merely by representing himself or herself as such); Kaplan v. Coldwell Banker (1997) 59 Cal.App.4th 741, 747, 69 Cal.Rptr.2d 640 ; Lindsay-Field v. Friendly (1995) 36 Cal.App.4th 1728, 1734, 43 Cal.Rptr.2d 71 ; Petersen v. Securities Settlement Corp. (1991) 226 Cal.App.3d 1445, 1452, 277 Cal.Rptr. 468]. Note, however, that conduct of the principal sufficient to justify a finding of ostensible authority may include the failure to act or speak, as when the principal fails to tell a third party of secret limitations on a general agent's authority [Leavens v. Pinkham & McKeivitt (1912) 164 Cal. 242, 247, 128 P. 399 ; see Jacoves v. United Merchandising Corp. (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 88, 103, 11 Cal.Rptr.2d 468 (principal is liable for acts of ostensible agent when principal knows agent holds himself or herself out as clothed with authority and principal remains silent)]. In addition, no ostensible authority may be found when the third party is not justified in believing that it exists [Torrance N. Bk. v. Enesco F. Credit Union (1955) 134 Cal.App.2d 316, 323, 325, 285 P.2d 737 ; see Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 3, Agency and Employment, § 146 (10th ed. 2005)]. The test of justifiable reliance is negligence. The person relying on the agency must have acted as a reasonably prudent person would do under the circumstances [People v. Surety Ins. Co. (1982) 136 Cal.App.3d 556, 562, 186 Cal.Rptr. 385]. Ostensible authority arises when the principal's conduct causes the third party reasonably to believe that the agent possesses the authority to act on the principal's behalf [Kaplan v. Coldwell Banker (1997) 59 Cal.App.4th 741, 748, 69 Cal.Rptr.2d 640 (triable issue of fact existed regarding whether real estate franchise company was ostensible agent of franchisee); Petersen v. Securities Settlement Corp. (1991) 226 Cal.App.3d 1445, 1452, 277 Cal.Rptr. 468 ; see C.A.R.

Transportation v. Darden Restaurants, Inc. (9th Cir. 2000) 213 F.3d 474, 479-481 (holding that truck drivers had ostensible authority to sign waivers of right to payment from shipper)]. However, an agent can never have authority, either actual or ostensible, to do an act that is, and is known to the person dealt with, to be a fraud on the principal [Civ. Code § 2306; Saks v. Charity Mission Baptist Church (2001) 90 Cal.App.4th 1116, 1137-1140, 110 Cal.Rptr.2d 45 (in real estate investor's action for breach of contract and fraud, church held not liable on promissory notes signed by pastor, when plaintiff acquiesced in scheme to wrongfully use church's name to obtain financial benefit for himself and his partners)].

The plaintiff has the burden of proving that a contract was entered into with the defendant [see Ch. 3A, Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions]. This includes any agency issue embraced in the contract [E. K. Wood Lumber Co. v. Moore Mill & Lumber Co. (9th Cir. 1938) 97 F.2d 402, 408].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 37, California Judicial Council Vicarious Responsibility Instructions]:

CACI No. 3709 Ostensible Agent

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Agency Relationships Establishment Estoppel, Ostensible Agency & Necessity Ostensible Agency

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

37 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART C. PRINCIPAL AND AGENT

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.56

MB 300C.56 Ratification by Acceptance of Benefits

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

An agent's act, even though it was not authorized, will be binding on the principal if the principal later ratifies it.

To establish that Defendant ratified _____ [agent]'s act(s) in _____ [describe unauthorized act(s)], Plaintiff must prove all of the following:

1. That Defendant accepted _____ [describe benefits received by defendant under contract or transaction];

[EITHER (See Use of Instruction)]

2. That in doing so, Defendant had full knowledge of the unauthorized act(s) of _____ [agent]; and

[OR]

2. That the circumstances were such that they would put a reasonable person on inquiry, and Defendant failed to investigate; and

[CONTINUE WITH INSTRUCTION]

3. That Defendant could have rejected _____ [describe benefit received by defendant] and restored the same to Plaintiff.

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 2307, 2310; Friddle v. Epstein (1993) 16 Cal.App.4th 1649, 1656, 21 Cal.Rptr.2d 85 ; Ripani v. Liberty Loan Corp. (1979) 95 Cal.App.3d 603, 613, 157 Cal.Rptr. 272 ; Reusche v. California Pac. Title Ins. Co. (1965) 231 Cal.App.2d 731, 737-738, 42 Cal.Rptr. 262 ; Pacific Bone etc. Co. v. Bleakmore (1927) 81 Cal.App. 659, 664, 254 P. 618 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when it is claimed that the defendant ratified an unauthorized act of an agent by accepting the benefits of the act.

The first alternative Paragraph 2 should be used if it is claimed that the defendant expressly ratified the act. The second alternative Paragraph 2 should be used if there is evidence that the defendant had inquiry notice of the agent's act.

The equal dignities rule will require that ratification be in writing if the original authorization was required to be in writing [see [3][a], below].

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Using Ratification in Your Case: Defenses based on "lack of authority" are sometimes raised late in the game when it becomes clear that a contract or transaction will not turn out as expected. Ratification is one way to deal with this problem because a substantial delay in questioning authority can be used to support a claim of ratification. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Plaintiff's Response to Defense of Ratification: Ratification is often the best path for a defendant to avoid responsibility for an agent's act. Thus, plaintiff's counsel needs to (1) deflect this response in some lawsuits, or (2) emphasize appropriate facts to establish liability. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Ratification

An agency may be created or an authority may be confirmed by ratification [Civ. Code § 2307]. Ratification may be oral or implied from conduct as well as by express words, but the equal dignities rule applies to ratification as well as to an original authorization [Civ. Code § 2310; see Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Agency and Employment, § 92 (10th ed. 2005)]. Ratification of part of an indivisible transaction is a ratification of the whole [Civ. Code § 2311; Friddle v. Epstein (1993) 16 Cal.App.4th 1649, 1656, 21 Cal.Rptr.2d 85]. The principal may not ratify the beneficial parts and refuse to affirm the rest [Civ. Code § 2311; Friddle v. Epstein (1993) 16 Cal.App.4th 1649, 1656, 21 Cal.Rptr.2d 85 ; see Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Agency and Employment, § 98 (10th ed. 2005)].

The most typical kind of ratification by conduct occurs when one voluntarily accepts the benefits of a transaction made on his or her behalf by another [see Civ. Code § 2310; Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 2, Agency and Employment, § 97 (10th ed. 2005)]. The acceptance of benefits must be with full knowledge of the unauthorized act and its consequences [Ripani v. Liberty Loan Corp. (1979) 95 Cal.App.3d 603, 613, 157 Cal.Rptr. 272 ; Johnson v. California I.M.T. Assn. (1938) 24 Cal.App.2d 322, 336-337, 74 P.2d 1073], unless the principal's ignorance was based on his or her own failure to investigate and the circumstances were such as to put a reasonable person on inquiry [Reusche v. California Pac. Title Ins. Co. (1965) 231 Cal.App.2d 731, 737, 42 Cal.Rptr. 262]. It must also be shown that at the time the principal learned of the unauthorized act he or she was in a position to reject it and restore the benefits [Pacific Bone etc. Co. v. Bleakmore (1927) 81 Cal.App. 659, 664, 254 P. 618 ; see Streetscenes LLC v. ITC Entertainment Group, Inc. (2002) 103 Cal.App.4th 233, 242-243, 126 Cal.Rptr.2d 754 (evidence was sufficient to establish that movie production company ratified or authorized movie producer's wrongful conduct; its failure to repudiate producer's acts was evidence of ratification)].

The plaintiff has the burden of proving that a contract was entered into with the defendant [see Ch. 3A, Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions]. This includes any agency issue embraced in the contract [E. K. Wood Lumber Co. v. Moore Mill & Lumber Co. (9th Cir. 1938) 97 F.2d 402, 408].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 37, California Judicial Council Vicarious Responsibility Instructions]:

CACI No. 3710 Ratification

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate LawAgency RelationshipsDuties & LiabilitiesAuthorized Acts of AgentsUnauthorized ActsBusiness & Corporate LawAgency RelationshipsRatificationExpress & Implied Ratification

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

38 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART C. PRINCIPAL AND AGENT

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.57

MB 300C.57 Liability of Agent for Breach of Contract Executed in Name of Principal

[1] Instruction Liability of Agent for Breach of Contract Executed in Name of Principal

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff has sued both _____ [principal] and _____ [agent] for breach of the contract to _____ [describe contract]. That contract was made with Plaintiff by _____ [agent] on behalf of _____ [principal]. Normally an agent is not responsible for breach of a contract made on behalf of the agent's principal. Therefore, if _____ [agent] acted within [his/her/its] authority, [he/she/it] will not be responsible to Plaintiff, even if you find that the contract was breached. In this type of situation, only _____ [principal] will be responsible.

To hold _____ [agent] responsible for breach of the contract, Plaintiff must prove both of the following:

1. That _____ [agent] entered into the contract without any authority to act on _____ [principal]'s behalf; and
2. That _____ [agent] did so without believing in good faith that [he/she/it] had the authority.

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 2342, 2343(2); Jeppi v. Brockman Holding Co. (1949) 34 Cal.2d 11, 18-19, 206 P.2d 847 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the third person with whom a purported agent has dealt with sues both the agent and the principal for breach of contract. It should only be used if the contract was written [see [3], below].

If the purported agent has been sued for breach of warranty of his or her authority, rather than for breach of contract, use the instruction in MB 300C.58.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care When Arguing: The concept that an agent is liable for breach of a contract executed in the principal's name is complicated. So, care must be exercised in arguing, one side or the other. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

One who assumes to act as an agent thereby warrants, to all who deal with him or her in that capacity, that the agent has the authority that he or she assumes [Civ. Code § 2342]. If the purported agent has no authority, he or she will be liable for breach of that warranty [see MB 300C.58]. A purported agent is liable for breach of contract as a principal only if (1) it is a written contract, and (2) the agent did not believe in good faith that he or she had authority to enter into the contract [Civ. Code § 2343(2); Jeppi v. Brockman Holding Co. (1949) 34 Cal.2d 11, 18-19, 206 P.2d 847].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate LawAgency RelationshipsCauses of Action & RemediesBreach of Contract

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

39 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART C. PRINCIPAL AND AGENT

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.58

MB 300C.58 Liability of Agent for Breach of Warranty of Authority

[1] Instruction Liability of Agent for Breach of Warranty of Authority

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff has [also] sued _____ [agent] for breach of warranty of [his/her/its] authority to act as _____ [principal]'s agent.

Normally an agent is not responsible for the breach of a contract made on behalf of the agent's principal. Therefore, if _____ [agent] acted within [his/her/its] authority, [he/she/it] will not be responsible to Plaintiff, even if you find that the contract was breached. In such a situation, only _____ [principal] will be responsible.

If, on the other hand, you find that _____ [agent] _____ [acted without authority or exceeded (his/her/its) authority], then _____ [agent] will be obligated to Plaintiff for whatever damages Plaintiff sustained because of [his/her/its] lack of authority.

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 2342, 3318; Cheda v. Grandi (1950) 97 Cal.App.2d 513, 518-519, 218 P.2d 97 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when an agent is sued for breach of warranty of his or her authority, in addition to or in lieu of being sued for breach of the contract that he or she purportedly made on behalf of the principal. This latter situation is covered in MB 300C.57.

[3] Comment

An agent warrants his or her authority, and will be liable to those dealing with him or her in reliance on that authority [Civ. Code § 2342; Cheda v. Grandi (1950) 97 Cal.App.2d 513, 518-519, 218 P.2d 97]. The measure of damages for breach of warranty of an agent's authority is the amount that could have been recovered and collected from the principal if the warranty had been complied with, and the reasonable expenses of legal proceedings, brought in good faith, to enforce the act of the agent against his or her principal [Civ. Code § 3318]. For damage instructions generally, see Ch. 3E, Matthew Bender Contract Damages Instructions.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Agency Relationships Causes of Action & Remedies Breach of Contract Business & Corporate Law Agency Relationships Duties & Liabilities Authorized Acts of Agents Scope of Authority

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

40 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions * PART C. PRINCIPAL AND AGENT

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.59

MB 300C.59 Notice to Either Agent or Principal Is Notice to Other

[1] Instruction Notice to Either Agent or Principal Is Notice to Other

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A principal is considered to have notice of whatever the agent has notice of and ought, in good faith and the exercise of ordinary care, to communicate to the principal. Similarly, an agent is considered to have notice of whatever the principal has notice of and ought, in good faith and the exercise of ordinary care, to communicate to the agent.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 2332; Syah v. Johnson (1966) 247 Cal.App.2d 534, 545, 55 Cal.Rptr. 741 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used whenever there is an issue concerning the imputation of knowledge between a principal and an agent.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Be Clear When Arguing: This instruction may not be common sensical to some jurors--and, thus, highlights the need to be clear in arguing agency principles. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

As against a principal, both principal and agent are deemed to have notice of whatever either has notice of, and ought, in good faith and the exercise of ordinary care and diligence, to communicate to the other [Civ. Code § 2332; Syah v. Johnson (1966) 247 Cal.App.2d 534, 545, 55 Cal.Rptr. 741].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate LawAgency RelationshipsDuties & LiabilitiesKnowledge & NoticeGeneral OverviewBusiness & Corporate LawAgency RelationshipsDuties & LiabilitiesKnowledge & NoticeAgent Knowledge

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

41 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART C. PRINCIPAL AND AGENT

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.60-MB 300C.69

Reserved for Future Use

MB 300C.60Reserved for Future Use

42 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART D. REPRESENTATIVE PARTIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.70

MB 300C.70 Minor's Right to Sue: Guardian Ad Litem

[1] Instruction Minor's Right to Sue: Guardian Ad Litem

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Because _____ [name of minor] is under the age of 18, and is therefore a minor, the law requires that an adult _____ [bring or defend] the suit on [his/her] behalf. The adult is called a guardian. In this case _____ [name of guardian and relationship, if any, to minor] has been named as the guardian for _____ [name of minor].

Authorities: Code Civ. Proc. § 372(a); Fam. Code § 6601; Prob. Code § 2462.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used at the outset of any case brought or defended on behalf of a minor, other than certain domestic violence cases or certain other family proceedings [see [3], below].

[3] Comment

A guardian of the estate or a guardian ad litem must be appointed to represent any minor involved in civil litigation [Code Civ. Proc. § 372(a); Fam. Code § 6601]. Guardianship proceedings are governed by Prob. Code §§ 1500-1611. Married minors and minors whose marriage has been dissolved are represented by conservators rather than by guardians unless the marriage has been declared a nullity before the appointment [Prob. Code §§ 1515, 1800.3].

However, a minor 12 years or older may appear in court without a guardian, counsel, or guardian ad litem for the purpose of requesting, or opposing a request, for any of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 372(b) (1)]:

- An injunction or temporary restraining order (or both) to prohibit harassment [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527.6];
- An injunction or temporary restraining order (or both) against violence or a credible threat of violence in the workplace [see Code Civ. Proc. § 527.8];
- A protective order under the Domestic Violence Protective Act [Fam. Code § 6200 et seq.]; or
- Ex parte protective orders [Code Civ. Proc. § 372(b)(1); see Fam. Code §§ 7710, 7720].

Furthermore, a minor may appear in court without a guardian ad litem in the following proceedings if the minor is a parent of the child who is the subject of the proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. § 372(c)(1); but see Code Civ. Proc. § 372(c)(2) (court may appoint guardian ad litem if necessary)]:

- Family court proceedings pursuant to the Uniform Parentage Act [see Fam. Code § 7600 et seq.];
- Dependency proceedings pursuant to the Juvenile Court Law [see Welfare & Inst. Code § 200 et seq.];
- Guardianship proceedings for a minor child [see Prob. Code § 1500 et seq.]; or
- Any other proceedings concerning child custody, visitation, or support.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Parties Capacity of Parties Guardians Estate, Gift & Trust Law Conservators & Guardians Guardians for Minors Family Law Guardians Duties & Rights

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

43 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART D. REPRESENTATIVE PARTIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.71

MB 300C.71 Minor's Right to Disaffirm[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

_____ [Name of party seeking to disaffirm] was a minor, that is, under the age of 18, when the contract was _____ [made or claimed to have been made]. The law gives a minor the right to cancel a contract of this type if the minor tells the other party that [he/she] has changed [his/her] mind before [he/she] becomes an adult or within a reasonable time after becoming an adult. The amount of time that is reasonable depends on the circumstances. _____ [Name of party seeking to disaffirm] must have had a reasonable opportunity after learning of _____ [his/her rights or duties] to decide what to do.

Authorities: Fam. Code § 6700; Hurley v. Southern California Edison Co. (9th Cir. 1950) 183 F.2d 125, 132 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when a minor's contract is voidable and there is an issue as to whether the minor had a reasonable time to disaffirm [see [3][b], below].

[3] Comment[a] Right to Disaffirm

The age of majority is 18 [Fam. Code § 6500]. Fam. Code § 6701 provides that minors may not:

- Give delegations of power;

- Contract regarding real property or any interest in real property; or
- Contract regarding personal property not in the possession or control of the minor.

Any such contract is void [Burnand v. Irigoyen (1947) 30 Cal.2d 861, 865, 186 P.2d 417].

Therefore, a minor may not enter into a partnership, since the Corporations Code [see Corp. Code § 16301 (UPA'94)] generally requires a delegation of authority to other partners [Blankenship v. Hearst Corp. (9th Cir. 1975) 519 F.2d 418, 425 (citing former Corp. Code § 15009 (UPA))]. In most other situations, a minor's contract is valid but may be disaffirmed [Fam. Code § 6700; see Fam. Code §§ 6712-6713, 6750-6751].

[b] What Constitutes "Reasonable Time"

When a minor has complete knowledge of his or her rights, the statute of limitations for the particular contract is a guide to what constitutes a reasonable time for disaffirmance [Hurley v. Southern California Edison Co. (9th Cir. 1950) 183 F.2d 125, 132 ; see Ch. 3F, Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions, for instructions on the various statutes of limitation]. However, the analogy is inapplicable when the minor is ignorant of his or her rights. In Hurley v. Southern California Edison Co. [Hurley v. Southern California Edison Co. (9th Cir. 1950) 183 F.2d 125], a grandson, while a minor, signed dividend orders directing payment to his grandmother without consideration and in ignorance of the true nature of the transactions. He did not discover that he owned a stock interest in the corporation until his grandmother died 15 years later. His immediate disaffirmance of the dividend orders at that time--15 years later--was held to have been made within a reasonable time and the company was liable to him for the payments to his grandmother [Hurley v. Southern California Edison Co. (9th Cir. 1950) 183 F.2d 125].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Formation Capacity of Parties Age Contracts Law Remedies Rescission & Redhibition General Overview Governments Legislation Statutes of Limitations Time Limitations

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

44 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART D. REPRESENTATIVE PARTIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.72

MB 300C.72 Liability of Minors

[1] Instruction Liability of Minors

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

In deciding whether _____ [name of minor] is responsible to Plaintiff for performing under the contract, it makes no difference that _____ [name of minor] was under the age of 18 when the contract was alleged to have been made. A minor is just as responsible as an adult for performing this type of contract. Plaintiff has the burden of proving _____ [describe applicable statutory requirements (see Use of Instruction)].

Authorities: Fam. Code §§ 6500-6929.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in cases involving statutory exceptions to the general rule of the right of a minor to disaffirm contracts. It should be given at the outset of the trial in cases when it appears necessary to counteract any misperception the jury might have as to the minor's responsibility for entering into such a contract.

The instruction must be amplified by adding the requirements of the particular statutes pursuant to which the action is brought [see [3], below]. The authorities for the instruction must include a reference to the particular statute as well.

The instruction should also be given with appropriate modifications if the suit involves multiple contract claims when one or more of these claims are subject to the right to disaffirm [see MB 300C.71] but others are not. The jury should be given both this instruction and the instruction in MB 300C.71 with appropriate introductory language stating that different rules apply to different claims.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Address Feelings of Jurors: Some jurors will "feel sorry" for most minors. This instruction may thus seem "harsh" to those jurors. Thus, consider how to address those feelings. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

A minor may not disaffirm an obligation, otherwise valid, entered into by him or her under the express authority or direction of a statute [Fam. Code § 6711]. The Family Code sets forth particular types of contracts that may not be disaffirmed, despite the fact that the contracting party had not attained the age of majority. These include the following types of contracts:

- Contracts for necessities [Fam. Code § 6712];
- Contracts for artistic or creative services;
- Contracts for literary, musical, or dramatic properties;
- Contracts for services as a participant or player in professional sports [Fam. Code § 6750 et seq.];
and
- Contracts for medical care [Fam. Code § 6900 et seq.], provided applicable statutory requirements are met.

The burden of establishing the statutory requirements appears to lie with the party seeking to enforce the contract [Evid. Code § 500].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General Overview Contracts Law Formation Capacity of Parties Age Evidence Procedural Considerations Burdens of Proof Allocation

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

45 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART D. REPRESENTATIVE PARTIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.73

MB 300C.73 Guardian Ad Litem--Unknown Persons[1] Instruction Guardian Ad Litem-Unknown Persons[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Sometimes, in addition to the known parties to a lawsuit, a lawsuit involves the possible rights of _____ [unknown persons or persons not yet born]. In these situations, it is necessary to protect the rights of these persons by designating someone to represent their interests. This representative is called a guardian. In this case, the court has appointed _____ [name of guardian] to act on behalf of _____ [describe potential claimants].

Authorities: Code Civ. Proc. § 373.5; Wogman v. Wells Fargo Bank (1954) 123 Cal.App.2d 657, 666, 267 P.2d 423 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when a guardian ad litem has been appointed to protect potential legal interests of unknown persons or persons not yet born. The most familiar use of this type of guardian is in a will contest. The instruction should not be used if a known person is missing. In that case, the law requires that he or she be represented by a conservator and not a guardian. An instruction for the latter situation is included in MB 300C.74.

[3] Comment

A guardian ad litem may be appointed whenever "under the terms of a written instrument, or otherwise, a person or persons of a designated class who are not ascertained or who are not in being, or a person or persons who are unknown, may be or may become legally or equitably interested in any property, real or personal" [Code Civ. Proc. § 373.5].

After appointing a guardian, the trial court and the appellate court must review the guardian's conduct to determine whether the guardian has in fact acted to protect the ward [Wogman v. Wells Fargo Bank (1954) 123 Cal.App.2d 657, 666, 267 P.2d 423 ; see Leonardini v. Wells Fargo Bank (1955) 131 Cal.App.2d 9, 17-18, 280 P.2d 81 (guardian without power to consent to invasion of trust corpus absent showing that wards would benefit thereby)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedurePartiesCapacity of PartiesGuardiansCivil ProcedurePartiesFictitious NamesEstate, Gift & Trust
LawConservators & GuardiansGuardians for Missing & Undetermined Heirs

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

46 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART D. REPRESENTATIVE PARTIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.74

MB 300C.74 Conservator

[1] Instruction Conservator

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A conservator is a representative appointed by law to protect the interests of a person when that person is unable to protect those interests _____ [himself/herself]. In this case, _____ [Plaintiff or Defendant] is the conservator for _____ [name of conservatee].

Authority: Prob. Code § 2462.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used whenever a real party in interest is represented by a conservator.

[3] Comment

A conservator may commence and maintain actions and proceedings for the benefit of the conservatee and may defend actions and proceedings against the conservatee [Prob. Code § 2462(a), (b)].

Statutes governing the appointment of conservators are set forth in Prob. Code §§ 1800 et seq., 2100 et seq., 2200 et seq., and 2300 et seq.

Conservatorships are not limited to persons substantially unable to care for themselves. They are also available, if necessary, for married minors [Prob. Code § 1800.3] and for missing persons in government service [Prob. Code §§ 1403, 1803] or simply of unknown whereabouts [Prob. Code § 1804].

For in-depth coverage of conservatorships, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 280, Guardianship and Conservatorship (Matthew Bender).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedurePartiesCapacity of PartiesRepresentativesEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsAppointmentEstate, Gift & Trust LawConservators & GuardiansConservatorsDuties & Rights

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

47 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART D. REPRESENTATIVE PARTIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.75

MB 300C.75 Trustee

[1] Instruction Trustee

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A trustee is a person who holds property in trust for the benefit of another and takes care of it on [his/her/their] behalf. Persons for whose benefit the trust is created are called beneficiaries. In this case, _____ [Plaintiff or Defendant] is the trustee for _____ [name of beneficiary].

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

Under the law, a trust is responsible for any act performed by the trustee within the scope of [his/her/its] authority.

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 2216, 2218, 2267; Purdy v. Bank of America N.T. & S. Assn. (1935) 2 Cal.2d 298, 301, 40 P.2d 481 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when a trustee is a party. The optional paragraph explains to the jury the responsibility of the trust for the acts of the trustee. General instructions applicable to principals and agents may also be given in appropriate cases [see MB 300C.50 -MB 300C.59].

Depending on the circumstances of a particular case, it may be appropriate to give additional instructions on the role of trustees derived from specific statutes, e.g., liability for wrongs of co-trustee [Civ. Code § 2239], or the presumption against transactions between trustee and beneficiary [Civ. Code § 2235; for instructions that apply to rescission of a transaction between a trustee and beneficiary, see the instructions applicable to confidential relationships in Ch. 3G, Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Everyday Analogies: These concepts, especially "trustee," may seem complicated or even strange to some jurors. Hence, use of everyday analogies may often be advisable. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

A voluntary trust is an obligation arising out of a personal confidence reposed in, and voluntarily accepted by, one for the benefit of another [Civ. Code § 2216]. The person whose confidence creates a trust is the trustor and the person in whom the confidence is reposed is the trustee. The person for whose benefit the trust is created is the beneficiary [Civ. Code § 2218]. A trustee is a general agent for the trust property and a trustee's acts, within the scope of the authority granted by statute and the trust instrument, bind the trust to the same extent as the acts of an agent bind a principal [Civ. Code § 2267; Purdy v. Bank of America N.T. & S. Assn. (1935) 2 Cal.2d 298, 301-302, 40 P.2d 481].

The nature and creation of a trust are governed by Civ. Code §§ 2215-2225. Civ. Code §§ 2216 and 2218 specifically define the nature of a voluntary trust and the roles of the trustor, trustee, and beneficiary. The powers and obligations of a trustee are set forth in Civ. Code §§ 2228-2240.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Parties Capacity of Parties Trustees Estate, Gift & Trust Law Trusts Trustees Duties & Powers General Overview Estate, Gift & Trust Law Trusts Trustees Duties & Powers Claims By & Against

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

48 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART D. REPRESENTATIVE PARTIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.76

MB 300C.76 Bankruptcy Trustee[1] Instruction Bankruptcy Trustee

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A trustee has been appointed by the bankruptcy court to manage the bankrupt's property on behalf of all of [his/her/its] creditors. The trustee is entitled to _____ [carry on or defend] a lawsuit in the same manner as the bankrupt could have done. In doing so, the trustee stands in the shoes of the bankrupt; the trustee's rights are the same as those the bankrupt had. In this case, _____ [Plaintiff or Defendant] is the trustee in bankruptcy for _____ [name of bankrupt].

Authorities: 11 U.S.C. §§ 323, 541(a); Marin v. England (1966) 385 U.S. 99, 101, 87 S.Ct. 274, 17 L.Ed.2d 197 ; Reichert v. General Ins. Co. (1968) 68 Cal.2d 822, 829, 69 Cal.Rptr. 321, 442 P.2d 377 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when a bankruptcy trustee is a party.

[3] Comment

A bankruptcy trustee is the representative of the bankruptcy estate and, as such, may sue and be sued in the same manner as the bankrupt could have been sued [11 U.S.C. § 323; see 11 U.S.C. § 541(a) (property comprising bankruptcy estate)]. A bankruptcy trustee's powers and functions are derived from statute and significantly differ from those of an ordinary trustee [see Shivell v. Hurd (1953) 115 Cal.App.2d 405, 406, 252 P.2d 62 ; see also Witkin, California Procedure, Ch. V, Pleading (4th ed., 1997)].

The trustee in bankruptcy succeeds to all of the debtor's nonexempt property as of the date the bankruptcy petition was filed, including rights arising in contract [11 U.S.C. § 541(a); Marin v. England (1966) 385 U.S. 99, 101, 87 S.Ct. 274, 17 L.Ed.2d 197 ; Reichert v. General Ins. Co. (1968) 68 Cal.2d 822, 829, 69 Cal.Rptr. 321, 442 P.2d 377].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Bankruptcy LawCase AdministrationExaminers, Officers & TrusteesDuties & FunctionsCapacities & RolesCivil
ProcedurePartiesCapacity of PartiesTrustees

- * John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

49 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART D. REPRESENTATIVE PARTIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.77

MB 300C.77 Receiver[1] Instruction Receiver

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A receiver is a person who has been appointed by the court to manage property or a fund on behalf of others. The receiver stands in the shoes of the party on whose behalf the receivership was created and has no greater or lesser rights than that party did. In this case, _____ [Plaintiff or Defendant] is the receiver for _____ [name of property or estate represented].

Authorities: Code Civ. Proc. §§ 564(a)-(c), 568; Allen v. Ramsay (1960) 179 Cal.App.2d 843, 848, 4 Cal.Rptr. 575 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when a receiver is a party.

[3] Comment

A receiver is an officer of the court subject to its continuing control, and has only those powers granted by statute, by the order of appointment, and by subsequent orders. After appointment a receiver may request additional authority or supervision as the need arises [Steinberg v. Goldstein (1956) 145 Cal.App.2d 692, 699, 303 P.2d 80]. Specifically, a receiver has, under the court's control, the power to bring and defend actions in his or her name, as receiver [Code Civ. Proc. § 568]. Subject to court control, the receiver has the same rights as the party or estate he or she represents [Allen v. Ramsay (1960) 179 Cal.App.2d 843, 848, 4 Cal.Rptr. 575]. The grounds for appointment of a receiver and his or her powers and duties are set forth in Code Civ. Proc. §§ 564-570.

For further coverage of receivers, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 486, Receivers .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedurePartiesCapacity of PartiesRepresentativesCivil ProcedureRemediesReceivershipsReceiversDutiesCivil ProcedureRemediesReceivershipsReceiversPowers

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

50 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART D. REPRESENTATIVE PARTIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.78

MB 300C.78 Executor or Administrator[1] Instruction Executor or Administrator

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

In this case, _____ [Plaintiff or Defendant] is the [executor/administrator] for _____ [name of deceased person], who is deceased. An [executor/administrator] is a person appointed to manage the property of a person who has died. The [executor/administrator] manages the property for the benefit of the deceased person's heirs until it can be distributed.

[SELECT ONE OF FOLLOWING ALTERNATIVES (See Use of Instruction)]

As the [executor/administrator] for _____ [name of deceased person], Plaintiff has the same right to bring a lawsuit against Defendant that _____ [name of deceased person] would have if [he/she/it] were alive and is entitled to recover any damages that _____ [name of deceased person] would have been entitled to recover.

[OR]

Because Defendant is the [executor/administrator] for _____ [name of deceased person], Plaintiff has the same right to bring a lawsuit against Defendant as [he/she/it] would have to bring a lawsuit against _____ [name of deceased person] if _____ [name of deceased person] were alive and Plaintiff is entitled to recover from Defendant any damages [he/she/it] would have been entitled to recover from _____ [name of deceased person]. By the same token, Defendant has the same right to defend the lawsuit brought by Plaintiff that _____ [name of deceased person] would have if [he/she/it] were alive and is entitled to the benefit of any defense that _____ [name of deceased person] would have had.

Authorities: Code Civ. Proc. §§ 377.30, 377.40; Prob. Code § 9820.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when an executor or administrator is a party. The first of the two alternative provisions should be used when the executor or administrator is a plaintiff. The second of the two alternative provisions should be used when the executor or administrator is a defendant.

[3] Comment

As the representative for a decedent's estate [see Prob. Code § 58 ("personal representative" defined to include executors and administrators)], an executor or administrator is entitled to file or defend any action that survives the decedent's death [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.30; Prob. Code § 9820]. The decedent's heirs need not be joined as parties to the lawsuit [Code Civ. Proc. § 369(a)]. Provided that it survives the decedent's death, any action that could have been brought against the decedent may be brought against the executor or administrator [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.40].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Parties Capacity of Parties Executors Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Claims By & Against Estate, Gift & Trust Law Probate Personal Representatives Duties & Powers General Overview

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

51 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions * PART D. REPRESENTATIVE PARTIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.79

MB 300C.79 Class Action--Plaintiff Class

[1] Instruction Class Action-Plaintiff Class

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

This action is being brought as a class action. That means that the Plaintiffs are not just acting on their own behalf, but are here representing other people with similar claims. Whatever decision you reach will affect all members of the class, not just the persons named as plaintiffs.

Authorities: Code Civ. Proc. § 382; Daar v. Yellow Cab Co. (1967) 67 Cal.2d 695, 703-704, 63 Cal.Rptr. 724, 433 P.2d 732 ; Weaver v. Pasadena Tournament of Roses (1948) 32 Cal.2d 833, 836-837, 198 P.2d 514 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when a plaintiff class has been certified.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Caution When Explaining "Class": Almost all jurors are familiar with the word "class," but not in this context. So, use caution when explaining the impact of this word. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Defense Has Added Burden in Class Actions: Very few class actions get tried to a jury. For those that do, the defense counsel has the added burden of trying to defeat the claims of an entire class whose members are not in the courtroom. The last sentence of this instruction is something plaintiff's counsel will want to emphasize. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

Representative actions, which are governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 382, can be brought as actions at law as well as in equity [Weaver v. Pasadena Tournament of Roses (1948) 32 Cal.2d 833, 837, 198 P.2d 514]. In contrast, under California law, shareholder derivative suits must proceed in equity despite the availability of a jury trial in a shareholder derivative suit in federal court [Rankin v. Frebank Co. (1975) 47 Cal.App.3d 75, 92, 121 Cal.Rptr. 348]. The requirements of a class action are set forth in Fed. R. of Civ. Pro., Rule 23, which the California Supreme Court has found to be "in substantial coincidence with our view ... as to the applicable criteria under section 382" [Daar v. Yellow Cab Co. (1967) 67 Cal.2d 695, 709, 63 Cal.Rptr. 724, 433 P.2d 732].

For a discussion of representative or class suits, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 120, Class Actions (Matthew Bender).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedurePartiesCapacity of PartiesRepresentativesCivil ProcedureClass ActionsCertificationCivil ProcedureClass ActionsClass MembersNamed Members

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

52 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART D. REPRESENTATIVE PARTIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.80

MB 300C.80 Class Action--Defendant Class

[1] Instruction Class Action--Defendant Class

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

This action is being defended as a class. This means that the Defendants are not just acting on their own behalf, but are here representing other people with similar defenses to Plaintiff's claims. Whatever decision you reach will affect all members of the class, not just the named defendants.

Authority: Code Civ. Proc. § 382.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when a defendant class has been certified.

[3] Comment

For discussion of class actions, see MB 300C.79 and California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 120, Class Actions (Matthew Bender).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureClass ActionsClass MembersDefendants

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

53 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART D. REPRESENTATIVE PARTIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.81-MB 300C.89

Reserved for Future Use

MB 300C.81Reserved for Future Use

54 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART E. ADDITIONAL PARTIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.90

MB 300C.90 Third-Party Beneficiaries[1] Instruction Third-Party Beneficiaries

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff alleges that the contract between _____ [parties to contract] was intended to be for [his/her/its] benefit. If an agreement is made between two persons for the _____ [direct or specific] benefit of a third person, the third person may enforce the agreement even though [he/she/it] was not a party to it.

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

You must first decide whether there was an agreement between _____ [parties to alleged contract]. If you decide that there was such an agreement, then you must decide whether the agreement was made for plaintiff's _____ [direct or specific] benefit. It is not enough that the agreement had the effect of benefiting Plaintiff if that was not its purpose. On the other hand, the agreement does not have to be solely for the benefit of _____ [Plaintiff or the class of which Plaintiff is a member], nor does it have to mention _____ [Plaintiff or the class of which Plaintiff is a member] by name if one of the purposes of the parties to the agreement was to benefit _____ [Plaintiff or the class of which Plaintiff is a member].

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1559; Prouty v. Gores Technology Group et al. (2004) 121 Cal.App.4th 1225, 1232-1233, 18 Cal.Rptr.3d 178 ; Macaulay v. Norlander (1992) 12 Cal.App.4th 1, 6-8, 15 Cal.Rptr.2d 204 ; Eastern Aviation Group, Inc. v. Airborne Express, Inc. (1992) 6 Cal.App.4th 1448, 1452-1453, 8 Cal.Rptr.2d 355 ; Steve Schmidt & Co. v. Berry (1986) 183 Cal.App.3d 1299, 1313, 228 Cal.Rptr. 689 ; Ullwelling v. Crown Coach Corp. (1962) 206 Cal.App.2d 96, 139, 23 Cal.Rptr. 631 ; Le Ballister v. Redwood Theatres, Inc. (1934) 1 Cal.App.2d 447, 448-449, 36 P.2d 827 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the plaintiff is a third-party beneficiary. The second paragraph should be used when there is an alleged oral or partly oral agreement and a dispute over whether that agreement was made expressly for the plaintiff's benefit. The instruction should be modified if the existence of the agreement is stipulated and the only issue is whether it was expressly made for the plaintiff's benefit.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Trying Third-Party Beneficiary Cases Can Be

Difficult: The term "third-party beneficiary" will be alien to almost all jurors. And, some jurors may not "like" to benefit someone who is not a party to the contract. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Third Party Beneficiary

A contract expressly made for the benefit of a third party may be enforced by the third party any time before the agreement is rescinded [Civ. Code § 1559; Prouty v. Gores Technology Group et al. (2004) 121 Cal.App.4th 1225, 1232, 18 Cal.Rptr.3d 178 ; Eastern Aviation Group, Inc. v. Airborne Express, Inc. (1992) 6 Cal.App.4th 1448, 1452, 8 Cal.Rptr.2d 355 ; Ulwelling v. Crown Coach Corp. (1962) 206 Cal.App.2d 96, 139, 23 Cal.Rptr. 631]. Courts interpret the requirement in Civ. Code § 1559 that the contract "expressly" benefit the third person to mean simply that the benefit not be incidental [Prouty v. Gores Technology Group et al. (2004) 121 Cal.App.4th 1225, 1232-1233, 18 Cal.Rptr.3d 178 , citing Gilbert Financial Corp. v. Steelform Contracting Co. (1978) 82 Cal.App.3d 65, 70, 145 Cal.Rptr. 448].

The contract need not identify the third party by name; it is sufficient if the third party can show that he, she, or it is one of a class of persons for whose benefit it was made [Garratt v. Baker (1936) 5 Cal.2d 745, 748, 56 P.2d 225 ; Prouty v. Gores Technology Group et al. (2004) 121 Cal.App.4th 1225, 1232, 18 Cal.Rptr.3d 178 ; Macaulay v. Norlander (1992) 12 Cal.App.4th 1, 6-8, 15 Cal.Rptr.2d 204 ; Steve Schmidt & Co. v. Berry (1986) 183 Cal.App.3d 1299, 1313, 228 Cal.Rptr. 689 ; see Vahle v. Barwick (2001) 93 Cal.App.4th 1323, 1328-1329, 1332, 113 Cal.Rptr.2d 793 (trial court erred in granting summary judgment to attorney sued for malpractice on basis that she was third party beneficiary of release agreement between plaintiff and defendant in underlying lawsuit; whether defendant was intended beneficiary was triable issue of fact); Johnson v. Superior Court (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 1050, 1064-1067, 95 Cal.Rptr.2d 864 (sperm donor not specifically named in agreement between sperm bank and potential parent belonged to class of persons who were to benefit from agreement's confidentiality provisions; however, agreement precluding disclosure of donor's identity under all circumstances was contrary to public policy and unenforceable); Neverkovec v. Fredericks (1999) 74 Cal.App.4th 337, 348-350, 87 Cal.Rptr.2d 856 (third party not named in release was not entitled to summary judgment on ground that general release discharged him from liability)]. However, one who was benefited only incidentally is not entitled to enforce the contract [Eastern Aviation Group, Inc. v. Airborne Express, Inc. (1992) 6 Cal.App.4th 1448, 1452-1453, 8 Cal.Rptr.2d 355 ; Mottashed v. Central & Pac. Impr. Corp. (1935) 8 Cal.App.2d 256, 260, 47 P.2d 525 ; see Benasra v. Marciano (2001) 92 Cal.App.4th 987, 991-993, 112 Cal.Rptr.2d 358 (no evidence supported assertion that corporate officer who signed licensing agreements providing for arbitration with defendant corporation in representative capacity rather than in individual capacity was third party beneficiary of contracts; officer could not be compelled to arbitrate libel action he had brought against defendant corporation and its president); Mariani v. Price Waterhouse (1999) 70 Cal.App.4th 685, 701-702, 82 Cal.Rptr.2d 671 (ordinary audit engagement contracts have no express third party beneficiaries)].

Generally, it is a question of fact whether a particular third person is an intended beneficiary of a contract [Prouty v.

Gores Technology Group et al. (2004) 121 Cal.App.4th 1225, 1233, 18 Cal.Rptr.3d 178, citing Bancomer, S.A. v. Superior Court (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 1450, 1458, 52 Cal.Rptr.2d 435]. However, when the issue can be answered by interpreting the contract as a whole in light of uncontradicted evidence of the circumstances and negotiations of the parties, the issue becomes one of law [Prouty v. Gores Technology Group et al. (2004) 121 Cal.App.4th 1225, 1233, 18 Cal.Rptr.3d 178]. "The test for determining whether a contract was made for the benefit of a third person is whether an intent to benefit a third person appears from the terms of the contract. If the terms of the contract necessarily require the promisor to confer a benefit on a third person, then the contract, and hence the parties thereto, contemplate a benefit to the third person. The parties are presumed to intend the consequences of a performance of the contract" [Prouty v. Gores Technology Group et al. (2004) 121 Cal.App.4th 1225, 1232, 18 Cal.Rptr.3d 178, quoting Johnson v. Holmes Tuttle Lincoln-Mercury, Inc. (1958) 160 Cal.App.2d 290, 296-297, 325 P.2d 193].

A common situation involving third-party beneficiaries is one in which a debtor and creditor agree that the debt is to be paid to the creditor's creditor. In that case, the creditor's creditor may sue in his, her, or its own name despite the fact that the promise was not made to him, her, or it [Sacramento Lumber Co. v. Wagner (1885) 67 Cal. 293, 295, 7 P. 705], and despite the fact that the creditor's creditor gave no consideration to the debtor for the promise [Malone v. Crescent City M. & T. Co. (1888) 77 Cal. 38, 44, 18 P. 858 ; Macaulay v. Norlander (1992) 12 Cal.App.4th 1, 8 n.3, 15 Cal.Rptr.2d 204].

Another situation in which suit might be brought by a third-party beneficiary involves intended beneficiaries of a will [Lucas v. Hamm (1961) 56 Cal.2d 583, 591, 15 Cal.Rptr. 821, 364 P.2d 685]. Formerly, cases distinguished between donee and creditor beneficiaries, but these characterizations have been dropped [see Gilbert Financial Corp. v. Steelform Contracting Co. (1978) 82 Cal.App.3d 65, 70-71, 145 Cal.Rptr. 448].

A third-party beneficiary's rights are subject to the conditions of the contract [see, e.g., Mercury Casualty Co. v. Maloney (2003) 113 Cal.App.4th 799, 802-803, 6 Cal.Rptr.3d 647 (injured passenger who received medical payments from driver's excess insurer was obligated to reimburse insurer pursuant to insurance policy provision requiring reimbursement on settlement with responsible party)].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 301 Third Party Beneficiary

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawThird PartiesBeneficiariesClaims & Enforcement

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

55 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART E. ADDITIONAL PARTIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.91

MB 300C.91 Third-Party Beneficiary Must Prove Performance by Promisee

[1] Instruction Third-Party Beneficiary Must Prove Performance by Promisee

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

As a third-party beneficiary, Plaintiff may not enforce greater rights than _____ [party who made contract with defendant for plaintiff's benefit]. Plaintiff must therefore prove everything that _____ [promisee] would have to prove to enforce the contract.

Authority: Votaw Precision Tool Co. v. Air Canada (1976) 60 Cal.App.3d 52, 56-57, 131 Cal.Rptr. 335 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when a third-party beneficiary of a contract is the plaintiff in a suit to enforce the contract. It should be followed by a burden of proof instruction [see Ch. 3A, Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions].

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

[3] Comment

[a] Performance by Principal

A third-party beneficiary may not assert greater rights than the party who made the contract for the beneficiary's benefit. If the promisee failed to perform the contract, then the third party may not collect from the promisor [Votaw Precision Tool Co. v. Air Canada (1976) 60 Cal.App.3d 52, 56-57, 131 Cal.Rptr. 335].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 301 Third Party Beneficiary

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawThird PartiesBeneficiariesClaims & Enforcement

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

56 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions * PART E. ADDITIONAL PARTIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.92

MB 300C.92 Assignee

[1] Instruction Assignee

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

An assignee is a person to whom a party to a contract transfers [his/her/its] rights under the contract. The assignee stands in the shoes of the party who transferred the rights. In this case, Plaintiff is the assignee of the contract rights of _____ [name of assignor].

Authorities: Cockerell v. Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1954) 42 Cal.2d 284, 291, 267 P.2d 16 ; Greco v. Oregon Mut. Fire Ins. Co. (1961) 191 Cal.App.2d 674, 683, 12 Cal.Rptr. 802 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when an assignee is the plaintiff in an action to enforce a contract.

[3] Comment

An assignment must be "a manifestation to another by the owner of the right indicating his intention to transfer without further action or manifestation of intention, the right to such other person, or to a third person" [Cockerell v. Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1954) 42 Cal.2d 284, 291, 267 P.2d 16]. It may be oral, except when a writing is expressly required by statute [Civ. Code § 1052]; or it may be implied by the parties' conduct [Greco v. Oregon Mut. Fire Ins. Co. (1961) 191 Cal.App.2d 674, 683, 12 Cal.Rptr. 802].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawPerformanceAssignmentGeneral OverviewContracts LawThird PartiesDelegation of Performance

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

57 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART E. ADDITIONAL PARTIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.93

MB 300C.93 When Assignment of Benefits Includes Assumption of Obligations

[1] Instruction When Assignment of Benefits Includes Assumption of Obligations

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A contract that has not yet been performed has two aspects. One is the benefit that each party to the contract is entitled to receive. The other is the obligation that each party has agreed to perform. In this case _____ [assignor] assigned the benefit of [his/her/its] contract with Plaintiff to Defendant.

[EITHER (See Use of Instruction)]

You must separately determine whether _____ [assignor] also transferred to Defendant the obligation to perform required by the contract. Plaintiff has the burden of proof on this issue. In making this determination you must decide whether _____ [assignor] and Plaintiff intended to relieve _____ [assignor] of that obligation and transfer it to Defendant. Otherwise, the responsibility to perform _____ [assignor]'s obligation under the contract remains solely with _____ [assignor].

When you make this decision, you must consider the acts and words of _____ [assignor] and Plaintiff and all of the circumstances surrounding the assignment, including the subject matter of the contract that was assigned.

[OR]

Defendant is not automatically responsible for _____ [assignor]'s obligation to perform under the contract. To hold Defendant liable for _____ [assignor]'s obligations, Plaintiff must prove both of the following:

- 1. That Defendant voluntarily accepted all of the benefits of Plaintiff's performance; and
- 2. That Defendant knew or should have known of the contract's obligations at the time the benefits were accepted.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1589; Melchior v. New Line Productions, Inc. (2003) 106 Cal.App.4th 779, 788-790, 131 Cal.Rptr.2d 347 ; Heppler v. J.M. Peters Co. (1999) 73 Cal.App.4th 1265, 1288-1292, 87 Cal.Rptr.2d 497 ; Veterans of Foreign Wars v. City of El Paso de Robles (1998) 62 Cal.App.4th 1077, 1080-1082, 73 Cal.Rptr.2d 171 ; Recorded Picture Co. v. Nelson Entertainment, Inc. (1997) 53 Cal.App.4th 350, 361-368, 61 Cal.Rptr.2d 742 ; Enterprise Leasing Corp. v. Shugart Corp. (1991) 231 Cal.App.3d 737, 745-747, 282 Cal.Rptr. 620 ; see Civ. Code § 3521.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the defendant is the assignee of a contract between the plaintiff and the defendant's assignor and the plaintiff is seeking to hold the defendant liable for performance of the assignor's duties under the contract.

The first alternative paragraph should be used when the assumption of obligations occurs by agreement between the defendant and the assignor. The second alternative paragraph should be used when the defendant received all of the benefits of the plaintiff's performance and knew or should have known of the contract's obligations at the time the benefits were accepted.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Explain Instruction Thoroughly: The gist of this instruction seems fair--one gets the benefits and the burdens of a contract. However, it should be explained thoroughly in many cases because the evidence in question may not be that clear. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Assumption of Obligations Not Automatically Included in Assignment

An assignment always carries with it all rights of the assignor unless exceptions are expressed in the assignment itself [Civ. Code § 1084]. However, the mere assignment of rights under a contract does not include an assumption of liabilities [Griffin v. Williamson (1955) 137 Cal.App.2d 308, 315, 290 P.2d 361 ; Jegen v. Berger (1946) 77 Cal.App.2d 1, 6, 174 P.2d 489 ; Gregers v. Peterson Ice Cream Co., Inc. (1958) 158 Cal.App.2d 746, 751, 323 P.2d 572]. Thus, the party seeking to hold the assignee liable for the assignor's obligations under the contract should bear the burden of proof on the issue of whether or not the assignment included an assumption of those obligations [Evid. Code § 500].

[b] Extent of Assignee's Liability

The leading California cases on an assignee's liability for the obligations of his or her assignor are Recorded Picture Company v. Nelson Entertainment [Recorded Picture Co. v. Nelson Entertainment, Inc. (1997) 53 Cal.App.4th 350, 361-368, 61 Cal.Rptr.2d 742] and Enterprise Leasing v. Shugart [Enterprise Leasing Corp. v. Shugart Corp. (1991) 231 Cal.App.3d 737, 282 Cal.Rptr. 620]. Both cases restate the general proposition that whether an assignee assumes the obligations of the assignor under a contract depends on the intent of the parties, evidenced "either by their acts, the subject matter of the contract, or their words" [Recorded Picture Co. v. Nelson Entertainment, Inc. (1997) 53 Cal.App.4th 350, 362, 61 Cal.Rptr.2d 742 ; Enterprise Leasing Corp. v. Shugart Corp. (1991) 231 Cal.App.3d 737, 745, 282 Cal.Rptr. 620]. These cases also clarify what must be shown to prove a party impliedly assumed a contract's obligations. In Enterprise Leasing, the court ruled that a non-party to a computer lease that accepted its benefits could be held liable for its payment obligations, reversing summary judgment in the defendant's favor. In explaining the ruling, the court stated that "[a]ssumption of obligations may be implied from acceptance of benefits under the contract" [Enterprise Leasing Corp. v. Shugart Corp. (1991) 231 Cal.App.3d 737, 745, 282 Cal.Rptr. 620 ; see Silva v. Providence Hospital of Oakland (1939) 14 Cal.2d 762, 773-774, 97 P.2d 798 ; Melchior v. New Line Productions, Inc. (2003) 106 Cal.App.4th 779, 788-790, 131 Cal.Rptr.2d 347 (assignee of film production company, which accepted benefits of company's original agreement with author, also accepted obligations of original agreement; summary judgment on breach of contract reversed); Citizens Suburban Co. v. Rosemont Dev. Co. (1966) 244 Cal.App.2d 666, 676 n.2, 53 Cal.Rptr. 551 ; Gregers v. Peterson Ice Cream Co., Inc. (1958) 158 Cal.App.2d 746, 751, 323 P.2d 572].

Recorded Picture Company elaborated on the requirement that the non-party must receive all of the contract's benefits before he or she can be held liable. The court ruled that a movie sub-distributor that contracted with a distributor for home video distribution rights did not impliedly assume the broader agreement between the distributor and the movie's producer, reversing summary judgment in the producer's favor. The court rested its decision on the fact that the sub-distributor accepted only a portion of the benefits of the distribution agreement, not all of them [Recorded Picture Co. v. Nelson Entertainment, Inc. (1997) 53 Cal.App.4th 350, 362-365, 61 Cal.Rptr.2d 742].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawPerformanceAssignmentGeneral OverviewContracts LawThird PartiesDelegation of Performance

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

58 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3C Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions *
PART E. ADDITIONAL PARTIES

1-3C California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300C.94

MB 300C.94 Guarantor or Surety

[1] Instruction Guarantor or Surety

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A guarantor is a person who _____ [promises to answer for the debt or default of another person or pledges property as security for the debt or default of another person].

Defendant is the guarantor of the obligation of _____ [person whose obligation is sought to be enforced] under the contract being sued on here.

Authority: Civ. Code § 2787.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in cases involving guarantors or sureties. Additional instructions will depend on the facts. For instructions on defenses applicable to sureties, see Ch. 3F, Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions.

[3] Comment

"Guarantor" and "surety" are interchangeable terms. A guarantor or surety is one who promises to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriage of another, or hypothecates property as security for another's debt or default [Civ. Code § 2787]. Guaranties of collection and continuing guaranties are forms of suretyship obligations. However, a letter of credit is not a form of suretyship obligation [Civ. Code § 2787; see Com. Code § 5102(a)(10) ("letter of credit" defined)]. There are also numerous provisions governing the creation, interpretation, liability, and exoneration of sureties that may give rise to additional instructions in a particular case [see Civ. Code §§ 2787-2855; see also Ch. 3F, Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawTypes of ContractsGuaranty Contracts

* John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

59 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction 3D.syn

§ 3D.syn Synopsis to Chapter 3D: Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions

MB 300D.01 Performance

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Performance

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300D.02 Substantial Performance

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Substantial Performance

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300D.03 Breach

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.04 Performing Party's Right to Select Alternative Performance

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.05 Other Party's Right to Demand Choice of Performance

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.06 Performance of Alternative Duty

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.07 Partial Performance--Indivisible Contract

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.08 Lack of Choice in Accepting Part Performance

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.09 Waiver of Right to Installment Payment on Indivisible Contract

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.10 Right to Recover for Performance of Part of Severable Contract

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.11 Reasonable Satisfaction Requirement

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.12 Performance to Satisfaction of Other Party's Taste

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.13 Performance to Satisfaction of Other Party When Type of Satisfaction Is Jury Issue

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.14 Performance to Satisfaction of Third Party

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.15 Performance by Another

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.16 Performance by One of Several Joint Obligor

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.17-MB 300D.29 [Reserved]

MB 300D.30 Condition Defined

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Effect of Conditions

[b] Burden of Proof

[c] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300D.31 Due Diligence in Seeking to Cause Condition Precedent to Occur

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Due Diligence

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300D.32 Condition Concurrent

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.33 Condition Subsequent

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.34 Time for Performance: Time Is of the Essence

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Time Is of the Essence

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300D.35-MB 300D.49 [Reserved]

MB 300D.50 Definition of Tender

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.51 Offer of Full Performance Required

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.52 Person Required to Make Offer

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.53 Person to Whom Offer Must Be Made

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.54 Unwarranted Conditions

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.55 Time of Offer

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.56 Place of Offer

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.57 Requirement of Good Faith

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.58 Ability to Perform

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.59 Ability to Perform--Third Party Cooperation

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.60 Effect of Tender

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.61 Production of Things to Be Delivered

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.62 Separation of Thing Offered

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.63-MB 300D.69 [Reserved]

MB 300D.70 Useless Tender

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.71 Reasonable Certainty of Rejection

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.72 Notice of Refusal or Inability to Perform

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.73 Notice of Intended Breach of Contractual Promise

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Notice of Intended Breach

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300D.74 Refusal in Advance to Accept Offer of Performance

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Refusal in Advance to Accept Offer of Performance

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300D.75 Change of Position Based on Notice of Refusal to Perform

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.76 Clear and Definite Notice

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.77 Implied Repudiation

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300D.78 Performance Excused by Material Breach

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[a] Basic Considerations

[b] Terminology

[c] Option: Timing of Breach

[d] Option: Amount Required to Remedy Breach

[3] Comment

60 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction Scope

Scope

SCOPE

This chapter includes jury instructions surrounding the performance and breach of contracts. For the California Judicial Council jury instructions on performance and breach of contract, see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions. Ch. 3 also includes Judicial Council instructions on other issues surrounding contracts, including formation, interpretation, modification, defenses, and damages. The instructions in this chapter are intended to supplement the Judicial Council instructions [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1050].

To recover damages for a defendant's breach of contract, a plaintiff must first prove his or her own performance or excuse for nonperformance. However, proof of performance may just as easily be viewed as lack of breach on plaintiff's part and proof of breach as lack of performance on defendant's part. "Performance" and "breach" are opposite sides of the same coin. Therefore, this chapter combines the two. The chapter covers the following topics:

- Part A includes instructions on the various methods of performance, part performance, and substantial performance [see MB 300D.01 -MB 300D.16].
- Part B includes instructions on conditions that must occur (precedent, concurrent, and subsequent), as well as time and place of performance [see MB 300D.30-MB 300D.34].
- Part C includes instructions on tender of performance [see MB 300D.50-MB 300D.62].
- Part D includes instructions on excuses for nonperformance, such as repudiation [see MB 300D.70 -MB 300D.78].

Ch. 3F, Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions, covers other issues affecting performance or breach, such as waiver and estoppel.

61 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART A. VARIOUS METHODS OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.01

MB 300D.01 Performance

[1] Instruction Performance

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

Plaintiff must prove that [he/she/it] fully performed [his/her/its] obligation to _____ [describe performance required of plaintiff].

[CONTINUE WITH INSTRUCTION]

I will now tell you the rules of law that you must follow in deciding whether Plaintiff fully performed.

Authorities: Reichert v. General Ins. Co. (1968) 68 Cal.2d 822, 830, 69 Cal.Rptr. 321, 442 P.2d 377 ; Consolidated World Investments, Inc. v. Lido Preferred Ltd. (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 373, 380, 11 Cal.Rptr.2d 524 ; Stone v. Carpenter (1963) 211 Cal.App.2d 491, 498, 27 Cal.Rptr. 203 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the plaintiff's full performance is required. The first paragraph should be used to introduce any additional instruction that might apply to the issue of the plaintiff's performance such as a right to select alternative performance [see MB 300D.04] or performance to a reasonable satisfaction [see MB 300D.11]. A preponderance of the evidence instruction must be given in conjunction with this instruction [see Ch. 2, California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions, CACI No. 200 ("More Likely True Than Not True")].

When substantial performance is sufficient, use the instruction in MB 300D.02. When tender of performance is sufficient, see the instructions in MB 300D.50-MB 300D.62. When the plaintiff's performance or tender is excused, see the instructions in MB 300D.70-MB 300D.78. When the defendant has waived or is estopped from asserting defects in the plaintiff's performance, see pertinent instructions in Ch. 3F, Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions, Part B.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

[3] Comment

[a] Performance

Since contracts generally contemplate mutual obligations, full performance by one party obligates the other party to perform his or her duties under the contract [Civ. Code § 1473; Consolidated World Investments, Inc. v. Lido Preferred Ltd. (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 373, 380, 11 Cal.Rptr.2d 524 ; Stone v. Carpenter (1963) 211 Cal.App.2d 491, 498, 27 Cal.Rptr. 203]. Whether full performance has occurred is a question for the trier of fact [Coleman v. Mora (1968) 263 Cal.App.2d 137, 151, 69 Cal.Rptr. 166].

The plaintiff will have the burden of proof on the issues of his or her performance and of the defendant's failure of performance [Evid. Code § 500; Reichert v. General Ins. Co. (1968) 68 Cal.2d 822, 830, 69 Cal.Rptr. 321, 442 P.2d 377 ; Consolidated World Investments, Inc. v. Lido Preferred Ltd. (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 373, 380, 11 Cal.Rptr.2d 524 ; Pry Corp. of America v. Leach (1960) 177 Cal.App.2d 632, 639, 2 Cal.Rptr. 425].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 312 Substantial Performance

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawBreachNonperformanceContracts LawPerformanceAccord & SatisfactionContracts LawPerformanceSubstantial PerformanceEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofAllocationEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofPreponderance of Evidence

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

62 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART A. VARIOUS METHODS OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.02

MB 300D.02 Substantial Performance

[1] Instruction Substantial Performance

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff must prove that [he/she/it] substantially performed [his/her/its] obligation to _____ [describe required performance]. Proof of substantial performance means that Plaintiff must prove all of the following:

- 1. That Plaintiff performed the important parts of the contract;
- 2. That any defects in Plaintiff's performance may be easily remedied or compensated, so that Defendant can get substantially what the contract calls for; and
- 3. That Plaintiff acted in good faith.

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

In deciding whether or not Plaintiff substantially performed [his/her/its] obligations under the contract, you may consider the combined effect of any defects in Plaintiff's performance, any one of which standing alone would be unimportant.

Authorities: Posner v. Grunwald-Marx, Inc. (1961) 56 Cal.2d 169, 187, 14 Cal.Rptr. 297, 363 P.2d 313 ; Thomas Haverty Co. v. Jones (1921) 185 Cal. 285, 288-289, 197 P. 105 ; Shell v. Schmidt (1958) 164 Cal.App.2d 350, 366, 330 P.2d 817 ; Tolstoy Constr. Co. v. Minter (1978) 78 Cal.App.3d 665, 673, 143 Cal.Rptr. 570 ; Bonadelle Constr. Co. v.

Hernandez (1959) 169 Cal.App.2d 396, 399, 337 P.2d 85 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in cases involving substantial, although not complete, performance. The most common application of the substantial performance doctrine is in building contracts, which are covered more extensively in Ch. 3I, Matthew Bender Construction Contract Instructions, but other contracts may permit such recovery as well.

The word "important" is used in the first element because the word "material," more often found in instructions, is not as readily understandable by laypersons [see Black's Law Dictionary (5th ed. 1979) at 880].

The optional paragraph should be used when there are numerous minor defects that, taken together, might be construed as a material deviation from the contract.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Appeal to Jurors' Common Sense: The concept of "substantial performance" may be difficult for some jurors to apply. However, appeal to their common sense--that is, if plaintiff performed the "important parts" in "good faith" then he/she should win. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Emphasis Depends on Which Party You Represent: Plaintiff will want to emphasize that "substantial performance" only requires that the important parts of the contract be performed. Defendant will want to emphasize that plaintiff must be in "good faith," so that any deliberate or wilful departure from the contract falls short of this requirement. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Substantial Performance

The doctrine of substantial performance relaxes somewhat the strict common law rule that one is not entitled to any payment until the agreed-upon performance is completed or executed [Thomas Haverty Co. v. Jones (1921) 185 Cal. 285, 288-289, 197 P. 105]. This rule was especially onerous in building contracts because the owner could take possession of the building but refuse payment due to minor defects in the building. The question of what constitutes substantial performance must be determined on the facts of each case [Bonadelle Constr. Co. v. Hernandez (1959) 169 Cal.App.2d 396, 399, 337 P.2d 85]. When applicable, the substantial performance rule permits recovery on the contract despite a lack of strict performance. It also permits an offset for defects if there has been substantial performance in good faith, when the failure to render full performance can be compensated in damages so that the promisee can get practically what he or she contracted for [Posner v. Grunwald-Marx, Inc. (1961) 56 Cal.2d 169, 14 Cal.Rptr. 297, 363 P.2d 313 ; Thomas Haverty Co. v. Jones (1921) 185 Cal. 285, 289, 197 P. 105]. Substantial performance in good faith requires performance of all essential parts of the contract [Bonadelle Constr. Co. v. Hernandez (1959) 169 Cal.App.2d 396, 399, 337 P.2d 85 , quoting Connell v. Higgins (1915) 170 Cal. 541, 556, 150 P. 769]. There may be no intentional major deviations from the terms of the contract [Shell v. Schmidt (1958) 164 Cal.App.2d 350, 365-366, 330 P.2d 817]. The performance rendered may be held to be less than substantial by reason of the accumulation of many defects, any one of which standing alone would be minor in character [Tolstoy Constr. Co. v. Minter (1978) 78 Cal.App.3d 665, 673, 143 Cal.Rptr. 570].

Although the doctrine of substantial performance is well known for its application to building contracts, this is not the only application [see Suastez v. Plastic Dress-Up Co. (1982) 31 Cal.3d 774, 783, 183 Cal.Rptr. 846, 647 P.2d 122 ; Division of Labor Law Enforcement v. Ryan Aero Co. (1951) 106 Cal.App.2d Supp. 833, 835, 236 P.2d 236 (substantial performance to earn vacation pay); Cline v. Yamaga (1979) 97 Cal.App.3d 239, 248, 158 Cal.Rptr. 598 (substantial performance to earn real estate broker's commission)].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 312 Substantial Performance

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Performance Substantial Performance Evidence Procedural Considerations Burdens of Proof Allocation Real Property Law Construction Law Contracts

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

63 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART A. VARIOUS METHODS OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.03

MB 300D.03 Breach

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff must prove that Defendant breached [his/her/its] obligation under the contract to _____ [describe performance required of defendant].

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

I will now tell you the rules of law that you must follow in deciding whether or not Defendant breached the contract.

Authorities: Evid. Code § 500; Reichert v. General Ins. Co. (1968) 68 Cal.2d 822, 830, 69 Cal.Rptr. 321, 442 P.2d 377

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in all breach of contract cases. The optional paragraph should be used to introduce any additional instructions that might apply to the issues of the defendant's breach, e.g., the right to select alternative performance or performance to plaintiff's reasonable satisfaction. A preponderance of the evidence instruction should be used with this instruction [see Ch. 2, California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions, CACI No. 200 ("Obligation to Prove--More Likely True than Not True")].

[3] Comment

The plaintiff has the burden of proof on the issue of the defendant's breach of contract [Evid. Code § 500; Reichert v. General Ins. Co. (1968) 68 Cal.2d 822, 830, 69 Cal.Rptr. 321, 442 P.2d 377].

Although the plaintiff has the burden of proving both his or her excuse from tendering performance and the defendant's breach, the plaintiff is not required to negate the existence of all justifiable excuses for the defendant's failure to tender performance. Excuses for nonperformance not apparent on the face of the contract or embraced within the facts alleged in the complaint are an affirmative defense [Eucalyptus G. Assn. v. Orange C. N. & L. Co. (1917) 174 Cal. 330, 335, 163 P. 45]. As such, the defendant carries the burden of proof [Evid. Code § 500].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofAllocationEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofPreponderance of Evidence

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

64 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART A. VARIOUS METHODS OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.04

MB 300D.04 Performing Party's Right to Select Alternative Performance

[1] Instruction Performing Party's Right to Select Alternative Performance

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

[EITHER (See Use of Instruction)]

As part of their contract, the parties agreed that Plaintiff would have the obligation either to _____ [describe first alternative] or to _____ [describe second alternative]. The choice of which thing to do was up to Plaintiff.

[OR]

You must decide whether Plaintiff had a choice under the contract either to _____ [describe first alternative] or to _____ [describe second alternative]. Plaintiff had that choice if you decide one of the following:

[CHOOSE FROM THE FOLLOWING (See Use of Instruction)]

1. That the parties agreed to give Plaintiff the choice;

2. That the parties agreed that performance of either alternative would be enough without indicating who had the right to choose; or

3. That the parties agreed that either alternative would be enough and gave Defendant the choice but Defendant did not give Plaintiff timely notice of [his/her/its] choice.

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 1448, 1449; San Bernardino Valley Water Dev. Co. v. San Bernardino Valley Mun. Water Dist. (1965) 236 Cal.App.2d 238, 243, 45 Cal.Rptr. 793 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in cases involving alleged alternative choices of performance. The instruction assumes that it is the plaintiff's performance of alternative obligations that is at issue. If the issue is the defendant's breach of alternative obligations, then the party designations should be reversed.

The first paragraph applies when the contract is contained in an integrated writing and the court has determined that the plaintiff had the right to choose among alternative obligations [see Ch. 3B, Matthew Bender Interpretation of Contract Instructions]. The optional paragraph should be used when the jury must determine whether or not the plaintiff had the right to choose. If the judge decides that the defendant had the right to choose among the performance of alternative obligations then the instruction in MB 300D.05[1] should be given instead of this instruction.

The second alternative should be used in cases in which the determination of the terms of the contract is a jury question. In using the second alternative, only those possibilities supported by evidence should be used. If the third possibility given above is applicable, then the instruction should be followed by the first alternative of the instruction in MB 300D.05[1]. If there is a fact issue as to whether such a provision was in the agreement, the second alternative in MB 300D.05[1] should be used.

[3] Comment

The right to select which of two alternative performances will be done belongs to the performing party unless the contract specifies otherwise [Civ. Code § 1448; San Bernardino Valley Water Dev. Co. v. San Bernardino Valley Mun. Water Dist. (1965) 236 Cal.App.2d 238, 247, 45 Cal.Rptr. 793]. If one party has the right to choose but does not notify the other party by the time of performance, the right passes to the other party [Civ. Code § 1448; see MB 300D.05[3]].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsIntegration ClausesContracts LawContract InterpretationAmbiguities & Contra ProferentemGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

65 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART A. VARIOUS METHODS OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.05

MB 300D.05 Other Party's Right to Demand Choice of Performance[1] Instruction Other Party's Right to Demand Choice of Performance[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

[EITHER (See Use of Instruction)]

As part of their contract, the parties agreed that Defendant would have the right to demand that Plaintiff perform _____ [describe first alternative] or _____ [describe second alternative] provided that Defendant notified Plaintiff of [his/her/its] choice _____ [by the time specified by the contract or before the time for performance]. If you find that the notice was given, then Plaintiff had to perform the chosen alternative. If you find that the notice was not given, Plaintiff could choose to perform either alternative.

[OR]

You must determine whether or not Defendant had a right to demand that Plaintiff _____ [describe chosen alternative]. Defendant had that right if you decide both of the following:

1. That the parties agreed that Defendant had the right to demand _____ [describe demanded performance] instead of _____ [describe alternative performed or tendered]; and

2. That Defendant notified Plaintiff of that demand _____ [by the time specified by the contract or before the time for performance].

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 1448, 1449.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the party to whom performance is due has the right to demand one of two or more alternative performances. The instruction assumes that the plaintiff is the party whose performance is at issue. If the issue is the defendant's breach of alternative obligations, the party designations should be reversed. The second alternative should be used when the question of whether defendant has the right to demand a particular form of performance is one for the jury to decide [see MB 300D.04].

[3] Comment

The right to select which of two alternative performances will be done belongs to the performing party unless the contract specifies otherwise [Civ. Code § 1448]. Thus, the other party will only have the right if the agreement so provides and if timely notice is given [Civ. Code § 1449].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

66 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART A. VARIOUS METHODS OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.06

MB 300D.06 Performance of Alternative Duty

[1] Instruction Performance of Alternative Duty

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff had the choice under the contract to perform either by _____ [describe first alternative] or by _____ [describe second alternative]. Plaintiff did not have to do both. Whichever one Plaintiff chose to perform had to be performed completely.

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

Plaintiff's duty under the contract could not be satisfied by doing part of each choice unless there was conduct on Defendant's part agreeing to a modification of the contract or amounting to waiver or estoppel.

Authority: Civ. Code § 1450.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when a party has the choice of performing one of two or more acts and there is an issue as to whether complete performance of one choice was rendered as opposed to part performance of more than one alternative. This instruction assumes that the plaintiff was the party with choice of performances. If the defendant was the party with a choice, the party designations should be reversed. The optional paragraph should be used when there is evidence that only part of both choices was performed [see [3], below]. If the optional paragraph is used, it should be accompanied by the instructions in Ch. 3F, Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions, related to waiver and estoppel.

[3] Comment

When the performing party has the choice of performances, the performance must be one of the acts in its entirety. A purported performance consisting of parts of more than one alternative constitutes performance only with the consent of the other party [Civ. Code § 1450]. The doctrines of waiver and estoppel might also be invoked. These defenses are discussed in Ch. 3F, Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

67 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions PART A. VARIOUS METHODS OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.07

MB 300D.07 Partial Performance--Indivisible Contract

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff performed only part of [his/her/its] duty under the contract. Defendant had the right to accept or reject this part performance. If you find that Defendant accepted the part performance, Defendant is responsible for part payment under the contract. If you find that Defendant rejected the part performance, then part performance is failure to perform and Defendant is not responsible to Plaintiff for any payments.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1477; Dennison v. Chapman (1895) 105 Cal. 447, 454-456, 39 P. 61 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in cases involving part performance of an indivisible contract. Whether a particular contract calls for an indivisible obligation is a question of law for the court. It must be determined before any issue of acceptance of part performance is submitted to the jury. If a party allegedly had no choice in accepting part performance, then the instruction in MB 300D.08 should be given as well.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Defendant Must Accept Part Performance: To come within this instruction, plaintiff has to show that the defendant "accepted" part performance and therefore must pay for that part. Note that "substantial performance" may require greater performance by plaintiff (i.e., all important parts of the contract) but does not require proof of defendant's acceptance. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Address Apparent Unfairness: "Partial performance" will seem unfair to some jurors. Why should someone "win" if he/she only does part of something? So, address that assumption. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

The partial performance of an indivisible obligation creates a proportional obligation on the part of the other party only if the latter voluntarily accepts the benefit of the partial performance [Civ. Code § 1477; see MB 300D.08]. The party to whom performance is owed need not accept the partial performance, but once such performance is accepted, that party is obligated to perform his or her duties (such as proportional payment) under the contract [see Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, § 759 (10th ed., 2005)]. By the same token, the party rendering only partial performance cannot deny the other party's rights based on incomplete performance [Dennison v. Chapman (1895) 105 Cal. 447, 454-456, 39 P. 61].

The rule that acceptance of partial performance creates a concomitant duty of partial payment should be distinguished from an accord and satisfaction, when a party agrees to accept less than full performance as satisfaction of a contractual obligation. Partial performance should also be distinguished from the doctrine of substantial performance discussed in MB 300D.02, which does not depend on acceptance.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Province of Court & Jury Contracts Law Breach Partial Breach Contracts
Law Performance Partial Performance General Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

68 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART A. VARIOUS METHODS OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.08

MB 300D.08 Lack of Choice in Accepting Part Performance

[1] Instruction Lack of Choice in Accepting Part Performance

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff performed only part of [his/her/its] obligation under the contract. If you find that Defendant had no choice in accepting the benefit of that part performance, Defendant still has the right to treat the part performance as a failure to perform by Plaintiff. If Defendant could only avoid retaining the benefit of Plaintiff's part performance by _____ [injuring [his/her/its] own property or incurring great expense or difficulty], then Defendant's retention of the benefit of Plaintiff's part performance is not assumed to be by choice.

Authority: Civ. Code § 1477.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used by a defendant when the plaintiff has claimed that the defendant was liable for a partial payment for accepting partial performance [see MB 300D.06] when the defendant claims that retention of partial performance was not by choice.

[3] Comment

Partial performance of an indivisible obligation extinguishes a corresponding proportion of the obligation, if the benefit of such performance is voluntarily retained by the creditor, but not otherwise. If the partial performance is of such a nature that the creditor cannot avoid retaining it without injuring his or her own property, the retention is not presumed to be voluntary [Civ. Code § 1477]. Although the statute refers only to injury to property, it would seem logical that involuntary acceptance would also encompass situations in which retention of the benefit could only be avoided by substantial expense or difficulty.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawBreachPartial BreachContracts LawPerformancePartial PerformanceGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

69 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions PART A. VARIOUS METHODS OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.09

MB 300D.09 Waiver of Right to Installment Payment on Indivisible Contract

[1] Instruction Waiver of Right to Installment Payment on Indivisible Contract

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The contract provided that Plaintiff was not required to complete [his/her/its] performance until after Defendant made a partial payment. When Defendant failed to make that payment, Plaintiff had the right to stop performing. Instead, Plaintiff chose to continue. Having chosen to continue, Plaintiff became responsible for completing performance before being entitled to any payment.

Authority: Jozovich v. Central California Berry Growers Asso. (1960) 183 Cal.App.2d 216, 225-226, 6 Cal.Rptr. 617.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is a provision for installment payments in an indivisible contract and the plaintiff elected to continue performing despite the defendant's failure to make installment payments. It provides a different rule from that applicable to severable obligations [see MB 300D.10].

[3] Comment

A party who elects to continue to perform an indivisible contract without receiving installment payments loses the right to payment until the contract is completely performed [Jozovich v. Central California Berry Growers Asso. (1960) 183 Cal.App.2d 216, 225-226, 6 Cal.Rptr. 617].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsWaiversGeneral OverviewContracts LawSales of GoodsBreach,
Repudiation & ExcuseInstallment ContractsContracts LawSales of GoodsPerformancePayment Tender & Payment
Before InspectionContracts LawTypes of ContractsInstallment Contracts

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

70 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART A. VARIOUS METHODS OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.10

MB 300D.10 Right to Recover for Performance of Part of Severable Contract[1] Instruction Right to Recover for Performance of Part of Severable Contract[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

To recover, Plaintiff does not have to show that [he/she/it] performed the entire contract with Defendant. Plaintiff may show that [he/she/it] performed _____ [describe part performance sued on] and recover for that part performance.

Authorities: Lowy v. United Pacific Ins. Co. (1967) 67 Cal.2d 87, 92-93, 60 Cal.Rptr. 225, 429 P.2d 577 ; Agnifili v. Lagna (1928) 204 Cal. 262, 267, 267 P. 705 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in cases involving severable contracts when the plaintiff has failed to perform one or more parts but seeks recovery on others.

[3] Comment

Breach of one part of a severable contract does not prevent recovery for performance of another part of that contract [Lowy v. United Pacific Ins. Co. (1967) 67 Cal.2d 87, 92-93, 60 Cal.Rptr. 225, 429 P.2d 577 ; Agnifili v. Lagna (1928) 204 Cal. 262, 267, 267 P. 705].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawBreachPartial BreachContracts LawContract InterpretationSeverabilityContracts LawTypes of

ContractsDivisible Contracts

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

71 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions PART A. VARIOUS METHODS OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.11

MB 300D.11 Reasonable Satisfaction Requirement

[1] Instruction Reasonable Satisfaction Requirement

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The contract here called for Plaintiff to _____ [describe required performance] to the Defendant's satisfaction. This does not mean that Defendant had the right to reject Plaintiff's performance merely by claiming that [he/she/it] was dissatisfied. Defendant's dissatisfaction must be reasonable. In other words, Plaintiff must prove that a reasonable person would have been satisfied with [his/her/its] performance.

Authority: Brenner v. Redlick Furniture Co. (1931) 113 Cal.App. 343, 346-347, 298 P. 62 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in the usual satisfaction cases that call for reasonably satisfactory performance based on an objective standard. It is predicated on a determination by the court that the objective test is applicable to the particular contract at issue. This instruction assumes that the plaintiff's performance is at issue. If the issue is the defendant's breach, the party designations should be reversed. For contracts calling for performance to the personal satisfaction of the other party, see MB 300D.12. If the contract is oral and the jury is to determine as a question of fact what type of satisfaction the parties intended, use the instruction in MB 300D.13.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care in Arguing "Reasonable Person"

Standard: The concept of a "reasonable person" (found in the last sentence of this instruction) is often found in the law but not that often in life. Hence, be careful in how you argue that point. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Keep in Mind Whether Defendant Acted in Good Faith: Another way of addressing this issue is to rely on the instruction relating to the covenant of good faith and fair dealing [see MB 300B.08]. In other words, a defendant's discretionary right to reject performance must be exercised in "good faith." By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

There are two categories of contracts calling for performance to the satisfaction of the other party. One involves the fancy, taste, or judgment of the other party [Tiffany v. Pacific Sewer Pipe Co. (1919) 180 Cal. 700, 702, 182 P. 428]. The other involves performance that would be satisfactory to a reasonable person. The objective test generally applies to questions of operative fitness or mechanical utility [Thomas Haverty Co. v. Jones (1921) 185 Cal. 285, 296, 197 P. 105 ; Bruner v. Hegyi (1919) 42 Cal.App. 97, 99, 183 P. 369]. Absent an explicit contractual provision dealing with subject matter that necessarily calls for personal taste, the law prefers the objective reasonable person test [Guntert v. City of Stockton (1974) 43 Cal.App.3d 203, 209, 117 Cal.Rptr. 601].

The reasonableness test is especially preferable when factors of commercial value or financial concern are involved, as distinct from matters of personal taste [see, e.g., Storek & Storek, Inc. v. Citicorp Real Estate, Inc. (2002) 100 Cal.App.4th 44, 58-60, 64, 122 Cal.Rptr.2d 267 (when contract was commercial transaction involving lending of money, proper method for evaluating lender's satisfaction with budget balance--a condition precedent for making disbursements under loan agreement--was objective test; no duty of good faith was owed); see also Ch. 3B, Matthew Bender Interpretation of Contract Instructions, MB 300B.08]. The question of which category a particular contract falls into is generally one of law for the court [Brenner v. Redlick Furniture Co. (1931) 113 Cal.App. 343, 346, 298 P. 62]. The instruction given here is predicated on a determination by the court that the objective test is applicable to the particular contract at issue.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Province of Court & Jury Contracts Law Sales of Goods Breach, Repudiation & Excuse Buyer's Rights on Improper Delivery Contracts Law Sales of Goods Breach, Repudiation & Excuse Rightful Rejection Contracts Law Sales of Goods Buyer's Duty to Inspect Buyer's Right to Reject

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

72 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions PART A. VARIOUS METHODS OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.12

MB 300D.12 Performance to Satisfaction of Other Party's Taste

[1] Instruction Performance to Satisfaction of Other Party's Taste

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

This contract requires Plaintiff to perform to the Defendant's satisfaction. This means that Plaintiff agreed that [his/her/its] performance would satisfy Defendant's personal taste or judgment. However, Defendant must act in good faith. You must decide whether Defendant was in fact dissatisfied with Plaintiff's performance or whether Defendant only said that [he/she/it] was dissatisfied to avoid [his/her/its] obligation under the contract.

Authority: Brenner v. Redlick Furniture Co. (1931) 113 Cal.App. 343, 346-347, 298 P. 62 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in cases involving contracts in which the court has determined that the performance called for involves the taste, fancy, or judgment of the other party. The evidence of such taste, fancy, or judgment is subject to the implied covenant of good faith, a general instruction on which is included in Ch. 3B, Matthew Bender Interpretation of Contract Instructions, and may be given before this instruction. The instruction assumes that it is the plaintiff's performance that is at issue. If the issue is the defendant's breach of a duty to perform to the plaintiff's satisfaction, then the party designations should be reversed. For contracts requiring only performance satisfactory to a reasonable person, use the instruction in MB 300D.11. If the contract is oral and the jury is to determine as a question of fact what type of satisfaction the parties intended, use the instruction in MB 300D.13.

[3] Comment

The only fact issue presented when personal fancy, taste, or judgment is involved is whether the dissatisfaction is genuine or in bad faith [Brenner v. Redlick Furniture Co. (1931) 113 Cal.App. 343, 346-347, 298 P. 62].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawContract InterpretationGood Faith & Fair Dealing

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

73 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART A. VARIOUS METHODS OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.13

MB 300D.13 Performance to Satisfaction of Other Party When Type of Satisfaction Is Jury Issue

[1] Instruction Performance to Satisfaction of Other Party When Type of Satisfaction Is Jury Issue

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

This contract requires Plaintiff to perform to the Defendant's satisfaction. This means one of two things:

- 1. That performance must satisfy Defendant's personal taste or judgment; or
- 2. That performance need only be reasonably satisfactory.

You must decide which of these meanings the parties agreed to. In deciding that question you should consider the nature of the thing Plaintiff agreed to do. In practical affairs, such as making a machine work to another party's satisfaction, use of the term "satisfaction" usually means that the machine works reasonably well by standards that are generally applied to such machines. All that need be shown in such case is that a reasonable person would have been satisfied with the performance. If something more personal and subjective is involved, such as an art work, then the parties' use of the term "satisfaction" may mean something different. It may mean that the parties agreed that Plaintiff's performance would suit Defendant's personal taste and judgment, whether or not other people would have found the performance satisfactory. In such a case, the dissatisfaction of the Defendant is controlling so long as [he/she/it] is acting in good faith.

Authorities: Thomas Haverty Co. v. Jones (1921) 185 Cal. 285, 296, 197 P. 105 ; Brenner v. Redlick Furniture Co. (1931) 113 Cal.App. 343, 346-347, 298 P. 62 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used only when the type of satisfaction intended by the parties is a question of fact for the jury. It may be adapted and combined with the instruction in Ch. 3B, Matthew Bender Interpretation of Contract Instructions, MB 300B.02 and other applicable interpretation instructions in Ch. 3B, including the instruction on the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing.

This instruction assumes that the plaintiff's performance was at issue. If the issue is the defendant's breach of an obligation to perform to the plaintiff's satisfaction, the party designations should be reversed. If the contract clearly provides for performance to the reasonable satisfaction of the other party, the instruction in MB 300D.11 should be used. If it clearly calls for performance to the personal satisfaction of the other party, the instruction in MB 300D.12 should be used.

[3] Comment

The two alternative tests of performance to the satisfaction of another party are discussed at length in Brenner v. Redlick Furniture Co. [Brenner v. Redlick Furniture Co. (1931) 113 Cal.App. 343, 346-347, 298 P. 62 ; see MB 300D.11, MB 300D.12]. Generally, the question of which type of satisfaction is involved is one of law for the court [Brenner v. Redlick Furniture Co. (1931) 113 Cal.App. 343, 346, 298 P. 62]. However, the terms of the agreement present a jury question in the case of a disputed oral agreement, or possibly when there is a conflict in the extrinsic evidence on the interpretation of a written agreement [see Ch. 3B, Matthew Bender Interpretation of Contract Instructions].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Province of Court & Jury Contracts Law Breach Causes of Action General Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

74 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART A. VARIOUS METHODS OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.14

MB 300D.14 Performance to Satisfaction of Third Party[1] Instruction Performance to Satisfaction of Third Party[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

This contract called for Plaintiff to _____ [describe performance required of plaintiff] to the satisfaction of _____ [name of third party] _____ [OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)] to be evidenced by a certificate of satisfaction]. _____ [Name of third party] _____ [refused to issue the certificate or describe facts showing that third party indicated plaintiff's performance was unsatisfactory]. You must, therefore, find that Plaintiff's performance was unsatisfactory unless Plaintiff proves that _____ [name of third party]'s dissatisfaction _____ [was obtained by fraud or mistake or was arbitrary].

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)][EITHER]

To show that _____ [name of third party]'s refusal was arbitrary, Plaintiff must prove that _____ [name of third party] had no good reason for refusing to _____ [certify or approve] Plaintiff's performance.

[OR]

To show that _____ [name of third party]'s refusal to certify Plaintiff's work was arbitrary, Plaintiff must prove that _____ [name of third party] actually considered Plaintiff's work to be satisfactory.

Authorities: Coplew v. Durand (1908) 153 Cal. 278, 279-281, 95 P. 38 ; Kinkle v. Fruit Growers Supply Co. (1944) 63 Cal.App.2d 102, 107-108, 146 P.2d 8 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the contract at issue calls for performance to the satisfaction of a third party. Most often such contracts call for the third party to evidence satisfaction by issuing a certificate to that effect. In these cases, this instruction assumes that the third party refused to issue a certificate and that language should be used. If no certificate is involved alternative language should be included in the instruction as indicated.

The optional portion of the instruction should be used when the court has determined that the parties intended that the third party's satisfaction be reasonable, and there is evidence that the third person acted arbitrarily. Additional instructions on fraud and mistake are included in Ch. 3F, Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions.

[3] Comment

In the case of contracts requiring third party approval, just as with contracts requiring performance to the satisfaction of a party to the contract, there is a preliminary question as to whether a subjective or objective standard is to be applied. This depends on the parties' agreement. If the parties intended an objective standard, they will not be bound by a decision of the third party that does not conform to that standard [Kinkle v. Fruit Growers Supply Co. (1944) 63 Cal.App.2d 102, 107-108, 146 P.2d 8]. On the other hand, if the parties intended to be bound by the third party's decision, that decision is generally deemed to be conclusive absent proof of fraud, or mistake amounting to constructive fraud [California Sugar etc. Agency v. Penoyar (1914) 167 Cal. 274, 279, 139 P. 671 ; Pacific Commercial Co. v. Greer (1933) 129 Cal.App. 751, 756, 19 P.2d 543].

There is also authority for recovery on proof that the third party arbitrarily refused to issue a certificate of satisfaction [Coplew v. Durand (1908) 153 Cal. 278, 279-281, 95 P. 38]. It is unclear whether arbitrariness in this context means bad faith (i.e., refusal to issue a certificate when the third party was actually satisfied) or mere lack of justification. The former is consistent with a personal satisfaction standard, the latter is consistent with an objective standard. In most cases, the court will determine which standard the parties intended and instruct the jury accordingly. If the question of interpretation turns on an issue of fact, the instruction should be modified [see MB 300D.13[2]]. When the objective test is applied, arbitrariness may be shown by a lack of justification for the claimed dissatisfaction [see, e.g., San Bernardino Valley Water Dev. Co. v. San Bernardino Valley Mun. Water Dist. (1965) 236 Cal.App.2d 238, 243, 45 Cal.Rptr. 793 (involving dissatisfaction of party to contract)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawThird PartiesGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

75 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART A. VARIOUS METHODS OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.15

MB 300D.15 Performance by Another[1] Instruction Performance by Another[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

[EITHER (See Use of Instruction)]

Plaintiff delegated the performance of [his/her/its] obligation under the contract to _____ [name of substitute]. Plaintiff must prove that _____ [name of substitute] _____ [performed or tendered performance or was excused from performing] Plaintiff's obligation.

[OR]

Plaintiff must prove that Defendant breached the contract. Defendant asserts that [he/she/it] carried out [his/her/its] obligation under the contract by having _____ [name of substitute] perform that obligation instead of Defendant. Even though Plaintiff did not agree to have _____ [name of substitute] perform instead of Defendant, Defendant is relieved from responsibility to Plaintiff for performing that obligation to the extent of _____ [name of substitute]'s performance. If _____ [name of substitute] did not fully perform, Defendant remains responsible for any difference between what [name of substitute] did and the performance required of Defendant under the contract.

Authority: Civ. Code § 1473.[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the obligations of one of the parties were allegedly performed by another person delegated by that party. It assumes that the contract is one in which the duties of the parties are delegable.

The first alternative should be used when it is contended that the plaintiff's obligation was performed or tendered by a substitute; or if it is contended that performance was excused by defendant. The second alternative should be used when the defendant claims that there was no breach of contract due to the substituted performance of another.

If the other party allegedly consented to the substitution, then the jury should be instructed on novation [see Ch. 3F, Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Enforcing Contract Against Defendant: The key concept here is "good faith." If it looks like defendant is using a pretext to avoid an obligation under the contract, this instruction gives the jury ample opportunity to enforce the contract. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Proving This Instruction Can Be Challenging: Having to prove someone besides a party did (or did not do) something is sometimes challenging. When added to the concept of a contract's performance, the task is even more daunting. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

Full performance of an obligation may be accomplished either by a party or by another person on the party's behalf [Civ. Code § 1473]. Absent a novation, the original party remains liable for any breach [Civ. Code § 1531; Alexander v. Angel (1951) 37 Cal.2d 856, 863, 236 P.2d 561].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawPerformanceNovationContracts LawThird PartiesDelegation of Performance

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

76 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART A. VARIOUS METHODS OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.16

MB 300D.16 Performance by One of Several Joint Obligors[1] Instruction Performance by One of Several Joint Obligors[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff must prove that Defendant breached the obligation to _____ [describe performance required]. That obligation was shared by Defendant and _____ [name of joint obligor]. Both of them were responsible to Plaintiff to see to it that Plaintiff received the performance agreed on. Defendant asserts that _____ [name of joint obligor]'s performance satisfied that obligation. If _____ [name of joint obligor] did fully perform, then Defendant has no further responsibility to Plaintiff. If _____ [name of joint obligor] did not fully perform, then Defendant is responsible to Plaintiff for any remaining obligation.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1474; Lovetro v. Steers (1965) 234 Cal.App.2d 461, 477, 44 Cal.Rptr. 604 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the defendant asserts that his or her obligations under a contract with the plaintiff have been satisfied by the performance of a joint obligor who may or may not be a party to the suit. For instructions concerning the effect of release of the other obligor when the defendant contends that a guarantee was all that was intended, see Ch. 3F, Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Focus Your Argument: The "sharing" of an obligation will seem strange or unfair to some jurors. So, the related argument should focus on addressing that view. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

Performance of an obligation by one of several persons who are jointly liable under it, extinguishes the liability of all [Civ. Code § 1474]. The extinguishment of the obligation of a joint debtor operates only to the extent that the debt was paid. The other obligors are still liable for any remaining debt [Lovetro v. Steers (1965) 234 Cal.App.2d 461, 477, 44 Cal.Rptr. 604]. A release or contract not to sue presents different issues that are discussed in Ch. 3F, Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawNegotiable InstrumentsEnforcementJoint & Several InstrumentsContracts LawThird PartiesJoint & Several Contracts

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

77 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART A. VARIOUS METHODS OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.17-MB 300D.29

[Reserved]

MB 300D.17[Reserved]

78 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART B. OCCURRENCE OF CONDITIONS

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.30

MB 300D.30 Condition Defined

[1] Instruction Condition Defined

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The obligation of a party is conditional when [his/her/its] duty to perform the obligation depends on the happening of an uncertain event.

Authority: Civ. Code § 1434.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used only if terms such as "conditional obligation" have been used during the trial. Otherwise, the jury should be instructed directly on the issue without being given the legal term "conditional obligation." When the contract is in writing, the issue of whether a condition is a condition precedent, concurrent, or subsequent is a question of interpretation for the court. When oral agreements are involved, the issue may be so intertwined with ascertaining the terms of the oral agreement that the type of condition is a question of fact for the jury. The various types of conditions are described in the following instructions.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][c], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care in Argument: The "happening of an uncertain event" seems confusing. Thus, be careful in argument. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Effect of Conditions

An obligation is conditional when the rights or duties of any party depend on the occurrence of an uncertain event [Civ. Code § 1434]. A condition is an event that must occur or be excused before performance on a contract becomes due [In re Marriage of Hasso (1991) 229 Cal.App.3d 1174, 1181, 280 Cal.Rptr. 919 ; Restatement (Second) of Contracts § 224]. It is for the court in the first instance to interpret a written agreement to determine whether there is a conditional obligation [see Ch. 3B, Matthew Bender Interpretation of Contract Instructions]. The jury can then decide the fact issue, if any, as to whether the uncertain event occurred. The occurrence or nonoccurrence of an uncertain event can operate to extinguish or create a contractual obligation. When the event is an act to be performed by a party to a contract, it becomes necessary to distinguish between conditions that depend on uncertain events and covenants. A covenant is a promise to render some performance, the breach of which gives rise to a cause of action for damages. The occurrence or nonoccurrence of an uncertain event on which a condition depends determines whether a duty to perform arises, the breach of which will give rise to an action for damages [Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, § 778 (10th ed. 2005)].

[b] Burden of Proof

The plaintiff will have the burden of proof on the issue of the occurrence of uncertain events that cause defendant to have a duty to perform since such proof is necessary to establish the defendant's breach [Evid. Code § 500; Reichert v. General Ins. Co. (1968) 68 Cal.2d 822, 830, 69 Cal.Rptr. 321, 442 P.2d 377].

[c] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 321 Existence of Condition Precedent Disputed

CACI No. 322 Occurrence of Agreed Condition Precedent

CACI No. 323 Waiver of Condition Precedent

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsConditions PrecedentContracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsConditions SubsequentContracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsExpress ConditionsGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

79 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART B. OCCURRENCE OF CONDITIONS

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.31

MB 300D.31 Due Diligence in Seeking to Cause Condition Precedent to Occur[1] Instruction[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Under the terms of the contract, Defendant was obligated to _____ [describe obligation, e.g., purchase the property] only if _____ [describe condition precedent, e.g., Defendant's Board of Directors approved the terms of the purchase]. However, the contract also required Defendant to make reasonable efforts to _____ [describe defendant's implied duty, e.g., obtain the approval of the Board] and, if [he/she/it] failed to do so, the law does not permit [him/her/it] to take advantage of that failure to avoid an obligation to _____ [describe obligation, e.g., purchase the property]. Consequently, if _____ [describe events constituting nonoccurrence, e.g., the lack of Board approval] was caused by Defendant's failure to make reasonable efforts to _____ [describe defendant's implied duty, e.g., obtain the approval of the Board], then Defendant is obligated to Plaintiff in the same manner as if _____ [describe events constituting fulfillment of condition, e.g., the Board had approved the terms of the purchase].

If you find that Defendant made reasonable efforts to _____ [describe defendant's implied duty, e.g., obtain the approval of the Board], you must find that Defendant had no obligation under the contract to _____ [describe obligation, e.g., purchase the property]. On the other hand, if you find that Defendant failed to make reasonable efforts to _____ [describe defendant's implied duty, e.g., obtain the approval of the Board], you must find that Defendant is obligated to Plaintiff in the same manner as if _____ [describe events constituting fulfillment of condition, e.g., the Board had approved the terms of the purchase] [optional (See Use of Instruction): unless Defendant proves, by a preponderance of the evidence, that _____ (describe events constituting nonoccurrence, e.g., the Board would not have given its approval) even if Defendant had made reasonable efforts to _____ (describe defendant's implied duty, e.g., obtain the Board's approval)].

Authorities: Campbell v. Kennedy (1918) 177 Cal. 430, 432, 170 P. 1107 ; Lynch v. Keystone Con. Min. Co. (1912) 163 Cal. 690, 699, 126 P. 968 ; Jacobs v. Tenneco West, Inc. (1986) 186 Cal.App.3d 1413, 1417, 231 Cal.Rptr. 351 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the defendant's performance was conditioned on the occurrence of something over which the defendant had some control, such as obtaining a license. It should not be used when the occurrence or nonoccurrence is totally out of the defendant's control. The optional portion of the final sentence is used when a defendant claims that the condition precedent would have failed even if he or she had made reasonable efforts to secure its fulfillment.

This instruction assumes that the existence of the condition precedent and the nonoccurrence of the condition precedent are not disputed. If there is conflicting evidence as to the existence or failure of a condition precedent, this instruction should be modified to inform the jury that the above rules will only become applicable if it determines that there was a condition precedent to defendant's obligation and if it determines that the condition did not occur.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

[3] Comment

[a] Due Diligence

A party whose obligation to perform is subject to a condition precedent has an implied obligation to use reasonable diligence to secure the fulfillment of the condition [Campbell v. Kennedy (1918) 177 Cal. 430, 432, 170 P. 1107 ; Lynch v. Keystone Con. Min. Co. (1912) 163 Cal. 690, 699, 126 P. 968 ; Jacobs v. Freeman (1980) 104 Cal.App.3d 177, 188-191, 163 Cal.Rptr. 680]. When a party's failure to use reasonable diligence contributes materially to the nonoccurrence of a condition precedent, the condition is excused and the party will be obligated in the same manner as if the condition had occurred [Jacobs v. Tenneco West, Inc. (1986) 186 Cal.App.3d 1413, 1417, 231 Cal.Rptr. 351 ; Rains v. Arnett (1961) 189 Cal.App.2d 337, 347-348, 11 Cal.Rptr. 299]. When the plaintiff establishes that a defendant has failed to use reasonable diligence to secure the fulfillment of a condition precedent, the burden of proof shifts to the defendant; the defendant then has the burden of proving that his or her failure did not contribute materially to the nonoccurrence of the condition (i.e., that the condition would not have occurred even if defendant had used reasonable diligence) and the occurrence of the condition will be excused if defendant does not sustain this burden [Jacobs v. Tenneco West, Inc. (1986) 186 Cal.App.3d 1413, 1418-1419, 231 Cal.Rptr. 351].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 321 Existence of Condition Precedent Disputed

CACI No. 322 Occurrence of Agreed Condition Precedent

CACI No. 323 Waiver of Condition Precedent

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsConditions Precedent

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

80 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART B. OCCURRENCE OF CONDITIONS

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.32

MB 300D.32 Condition Concurrent[1] Instruction Condition Concurrent[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Under this contract, at the same time that Defendant was obligated to _____ [describe defendant's performance], Plaintiff was obligated to _____ [describe plaintiff's performance]. Plaintiff can only hold Defendant responsible for failing to perform if Plaintiff offered to perform at the same time that Defendant was supposed to perform.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1437; Katemis v. Westerlind (1953) 120 Cal.App.2d 537, 545-546, 261 P.2d 553 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the parties agreed to exchange simultaneous performances.

[3] Comment

Concurrent conditions are conditions that are mutually dependent and to be performed at the same time [Civ. Code § 1437; Katemis v. Westerlind (1953) 120 Cal.App.2d 537, 545-546, 261 P.2d 553]. Whenever possible, the courts will construe promises in a bilateral contract as mutually dependent and concurrent [Rubin v. Fuchs (1969) 1 Cal.3d 50, 54, 81 Cal.Rptr. 373, 459 P.2d 925]. The chief practical distinction between conditions concurrent and conditions precedent is that conditions precedent require performance of an act (or the happening of some event) before an obligation arises, while performance of the concurrent condition need only be tendered for the other party to become obligated to perform his or her concurrent condition [Pittman v. Canham (1992) 2 Cal.App.4th 556, 559, 3 Cal.Rptr.2d 340 ; Groobman v. Kirk (1958) 159 Cal.App.2d 117, 123, 323 P.2d 867 ; see MB 300D.50 -MB 300D.62 (requirements for tender)].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Condition Concurrent Is Unusual: The idea of two things happening "at the same time" is unusual. That is especially true as to "offered to perform" as contrasted to "supposed to perform." By Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsConditions PrecedentContracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsExpress ConditionsGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

81 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART B. OCCURRENCE OF CONDITIONS

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.33

MB 300D.33 Condition Subsequent

[1] Instruction Condition Subsequent

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

[EITHER (See Use of Instruction)]

The parties agreed that Defendant would no longer be obligated to perform if _____ [condition subsequent] occurred. You must decide whether or not that event took place.

[OR]

You must determine whether or not Plaintiff and Defendant agreed that Defendant would not be bound to perform if _____ [condition subsequent] occurred. If you decide that they did so agree, you must then decide whether or not that event took place.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1438; Langford v. Eckert (1970) 9 Cal.App.3d 439, 444-445, 88 Cal.Rptr. 429 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is an issue involving a condition subsequent. The first alternative should be used when the court determines that there was a condition subsequent and the jury must decide whether the condition was met. The second alternative should be used when the jury must first determine whether there was a condition subsequent and then determine whether the condition was met.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Words of This Instruction: Many attorneys will struggle with the concept of a "condition subsequent." So, use the actual words of this instruction.

By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

A condition subsequent is defined as one referring to a future event, on the happening of which a contractual obligation is no longer binding on the other party, if that party chooses to avail himself or herself of the condition [Civ. Code § 1438]. Thus, a condition subsequent is a contractual provision that permits a party to a contract to terminate the contract on the happening of a specified future event. Before a court will construe a contract as creating a condition subsequent, an intent to create a condition subsequent must either be expressed or clearly implied [Langford v. Eckert (1970) 9 Cal.App.3d 439, 444-445, 88 Cal.Rptr. 429]. Examples of conditions subsequent are (1) a construction subcontract clause allowing cancellation for failure to timely perform [Call v. Alcan Pacific Co. (1967) 251 Cal.App.2d 442, 447-448, 59 Cal.Rptr. 763], and (2) an employment contract terminable on the sale of the company or the employee's entry into military service [Hartman v. San Pedro Commercial Co. (1944) 66 Cal.App.2d 935, 936-937, 153 P.2d 212]. There may be a related question as to the waiver of the right to rely on a condition subsequent [Mitchell v. Cheney Slough Irrigation Co. (1943) 57 Cal.App.2d 138, 143-144, 134 P.2d 34]. For instructions on waiver, see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions, CACI No. 336 ("Affirmative Defense--Waiver"), and Ch. 3F, Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
 Contracts Law Contract Conditions & Provisions Conditions Subsequent

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

82 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART B. OCCURRENCE OF CONDITIONS

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.34

MB 300D.34 Time for Performance: Time Is of the Essence

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The particular time of performance is not critical unless it is made critical either by the express agreement of the parties or by the circumstances of the case. If the thing to be done can be done as well at one time as another, time is not critical. On the other hand, if it is critical that performance take place at the particular time agreed on, a late offer of performance may be rejected. You must therefore decide whether the agreement of the parties or the circumstances of the case required timely performance. If so, late performance could properly be rejected.

Authorities: Katemis v. Westerlind (1956) 142 Cal.App.2d 799, 804-805, 807, 299 P.2d 383 ; Major-Blakeney Corp. v. Jenkins (1953) 121 Cal.App.2d 325, 331-332, 263 P.2d 655 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is a factual dispute as to the parties' intent to make time of the essence or a dispute as to whether the circumstances made it so.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

[3] Comment

[a] Time Is of the Essence

A contractual provision making time of the essence of the contract has been held to mean at law that failure to perform by the specified time terminates the failing party's rights under the contract [Major-Blakeney Corp. v. Jenkins (1953)

121 Cal.App.2d 325, 331, 263 P.2d 655]. Whether time is of the essence can be determined either from the express agreement of the parties or from the nature of the contract [Katemis v. Westerlind (1956) 142 Cal.App.2d 799, 804-805, 807, 299 P.2d 383 ; Restatement (Second) of Contracts § 276].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 319, Interpretation--Reasonable Time

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsExpress ConditionsTime Limitations

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

83 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART B. OCCURRENCE OF CONDITIONS

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.35-MB 300D.49

[Reserved]

MB 300D.35[Reserved]

84 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART C. TENDER OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.50

MB 300D.50 Definition of Tender

[1] Instruction Definition of Tender

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

To establish that [he/she/it] made a valid offer to perform, Plaintiff must prove the following:

[CHOOSE FROM THE FOLLOWING (See Use of Instruction)]

1. That [his/her/its] offer was for full performance;
2. That the offer was made by _____ [Plaintiff or someone authorized to act on Plaintiff's behalf];
3. That the offer did not impose any conditions not already required by the contract;
4. That the offer was made at an appropriate time and place;
5. That the offer was made to _____ [Defendant or someone authorized to act on Defendant's behalf];
6. That the offer was made in good faith; and
7. That Plaintiff was able and willing to perform according to the offer.

I will now explain each of these requirements in more detail.

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 1485-1505.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be modified to include only the elements of tender that are actually issues of fact in the particular case. It should be followed by relevant instructions in this Part on the specific issues that are raised. This instruction assumes that it is the plaintiff's tender of performance that is at issue. If the issue is whether the defendant's obligation to perform has been extinguished by a tender, the instruction should be modified accordingly.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Checklist and Visual Aid in Going Through

Elements: The instruction in [1], above, is clear, but with many elements. Therefore, in arguing this instruction to a jury, you may want to utilize a checklist. In addition, a courtroom visual aid could be helpful in going over each element of the instruction and the related evidence. By Rex Heeseman and Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

The rules regarding offers of performance are codified in Civ. Code §§ 1485-1505. In summary, the tender must be:

- An offer of full performance [Civ. Code § 1486] with intent to extinguish the obligation [Civ. Code § 1485];
- Made by the obligor, or someone acting on his or her behalf and with his or her consent [Civ. Code § 1487], to a creditor or one authorized to act on behalf of the creditor [Civ. Code § 1488];
- Made at an appropriate place [Civ. Code § 1489] and time [Civ. Code §§ 1490, 1491], neither early [Waller v. Brooks (1968) 267 Cal.App.2d 389, 394-395, 72 Cal.Rptr. 228] nor late [see Beauchamp v. Archer (1881) 58 Cal. 431, 434], and without any conditions except those that the creditor is already obligated to perform [Civ. Code §§ 1494, 1498]; and
- Made in good faith [Civ. Code § 1493], with the person tendering performance able and willing to perform [Civ. Code § 1495].

Whether the tender is sufficient under these rules is an issue of fact [see K. & M., Inc. v. Le Cuyer (1951) 107 Cal.App.2d 710, 717, 238 P.2d 28; McDorman v. Moody (1942) 50 Cal.App.2d 136, 140, 122 P.2d 639].

The plaintiff will have the burden of proof on the issue of whether there has been a valid tender, whether the issue is the plaintiff's performance or the defendant's breach [Evid. Code § 500; Reichert v. General Ins. Co. (1968) 68 Cal.2d 822, 830, 69 Cal.Rptr. 321, 442 P.2d 377; Pry Corp. of America v. Leach (1960) 177 Cal.App.2d 632, 639, 2 Cal.Rptr. 425].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Performance Tender & Delivery Contracts Law Sales of Goods Performance Tender of Delivery Evidence Procedural Considerations Burdens of Proof Allocation

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

85 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART C. TENDER OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.51

MB 300D.51 Offer of Full Performance Required

[1] Instruction Offer of Full Performance Required

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

An offer of full performance means an offer to perform everything required by the contract to be performed. It is not enough to offer to do only part of what is required.

Authority: Civ. Code § 1486.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used with the instruction in MB 300D.50 when there is a fact issue as to whether plaintiff tendered full performance. If there is evidence of waiver of defects in the tender, see Ch. 3F, Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions.

[3] Comment

The Civil Code states categorically that an offer of partial performance is of no effect [Civ. Code § 1486]. However, this rule is subject to exceptions, such as when full performance is impossible or when there is evidence of waiver of defects in tender. For coverage of these exceptions, see Ch. 3F, Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawPerformanceTender & DeliveryContracts LawSales of GoodsPerformanceTender of Delivery

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

86 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART C. TENDER OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.52

MB 300D.52 Person Required to Make Offer

[1] Instruction Person Required to Make Offer

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

An offer of performance may be made by someone on Plaintiff's behalf if:

- 1. The person making the offer did so with Plaintiff's consent; and
- 2. The person making the offer informed Defendant that the offer was being made on Plaintiff's behalf.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1487; Mahler v. Newbaur (1867) 32 Cal. 168, 170 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used with the instruction in MB 300D.50 when there is a fact issue as to whether a valid tender was made by someone acting on the debtor's behalf. The instruction assumes that it is the plaintiff's tender of performance that is at issue. If the issue is whether the defendant's obligation to perform was extinguished by a tender, the party designations should be reversed.

[3] Comment

An offer of performance must be made by the debtor or by some person on his or her behalf and with his or her assent [Civ. Code § 1487]. The tender is only valid if the creditor is informed on whose behalf it is made [Mahler v. Newbaur (1867) 32 Cal. 168, 170]. If a third party actually performs a party's obligation, it is extinguished in the same manner as if the party performed it [Civ. Code § 1473].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawPerformanceTender & DeliveryContracts LawSales of GoodsPerformanceTender of Delivery

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

87 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART C. TENDER OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.53

MB 300D.53 Person to Whom Offer Must Be Made

[1] Instruction Person to Whom Offer Must Be Made

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff asserts that [he/she/it] made an offer to perform to _____ [name of agent or co-obligor of defendant], and that the offer was refused. If you find that the offer was made to _____ [name of agent or co-obligor of defendant], it has the same effect as an offer made to Defendant.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1488; Barnes v. Osgood (1930) 103 Cal.App. 730, 734, 284 P. 975 ; Hoover v. Wolfe (1914) 167 Cal. 337, 342, 139 P. 794 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used with the instruction in MB 300D.50 when tender has been made to an agent or joint obligor of the other party. If there is an issue of fact as to whether or not such relationship existed, an instruction should be given on that issue as well [see Ch. 3C, Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions]. This instruction assumes that it is the plaintiff's tender of performance that is at issue. If the issue is whether the defendant's obligation to perform was extinguished by a tender, the party designations should be reversed.

[3] Comment

A tender may be made to a co-obligor or person authorized to receive the tender [Civ. Code § 1488; Barnes v. Osgood (1930) 103 Cal.App. 730, 734, 284 P. 975]. Refusal of tender by one of the joint obligors is tender to and refusal by both [Hoover v. Wolfe (1914) 167 Cal. 337, 342, 139 P. 794].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawPerformanceTender & DeliveryContracts LawSales of GoodsPerformanceTender of Delivery

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

88 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART C. TENDER OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.54

MB 300D.54 Unwarranted Conditions

[1] Instruction Unwarranted Conditions

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff offered to perform on condition that _____ [describe condition]. This offer was only proper if you find that the parties had agreed that the _____ [describe condition] had to occur before Plaintiff was required to perform.

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 1494, 1498.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used with the instruction in MB 300D.50 when there is a fact issue as to whether an unconditional tender was made. The instruction assumes that it is the plaintiff's tender of performance that is at issue. If the issue is whether the defendant's obligation to perform was extinguished by a tender, the party designations should be reversed.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Stress Second Sentence of Instruction: The phrase "perform on condition" may be confusing to some jurors. So, stress the second sentence. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

A party may only make his or her offer conditional if, under the agreement, such party's performance is subject to a condition precedent or concurrent [Civ. Code § 1498]. An offer of performance must be free from any conditions to which the other party is not bound [Civ. Code § 1494].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawPerformanceTender & DeliveryContracts LawSales of GoodsPerformanceTender of Delivery

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

89 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART C. TENDER OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.55

MB 300D.55 Time of Offer

[1] Instruction Time of Offer

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

If you find that the parties by their agreement specified a certain time when Plaintiff was required to perform, Plaintiff had to offer performance at that time, [within reasonable hours] and not before or after.

Authority: Civ. Code § 1490.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used with the instruction in MB 300D.50 when there is a fact issue as to whether a specified time for performance was fixed by the parties. The bracketed language may be used if the specified time was a particular date or dates.

The instruction assumes that it is the plaintiff's tender of performance that is at issue. If the issue is whether the defendant's obligation to perform was extinguished by a tender, the party designations should be reversed.

[3] Comment

When an obligation fixes a time for its performance, an offer of performance must be made at that time, within reasonable hours, and not before or afterwards [Civ. Code § 1490]. This does not apply to obligations to be performed on demand. An offer to perform such obligations may be made at any time before the debtor, on a reasonable demand, has refused to perform [Civ. Code § 1491].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsExpress ConditionsTime LimitationsContracts LawPerformanceTender
& DeliveryContracts LawSales of GoodsPerformanceTender of Delivery

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

90 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART C. TENDER OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.56

MB 300D.56 Place of Offer

[1] Instruction Place of Offer

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

You must decide whether or not Plaintiff's offer to perform was made at a proper place based on the following:

- 1. If you find that the parties agreed on a place of performance, then the offer to perform was required to be made at that place.
- 2. If you find that the parties did not agree on a place of performance, then Plaintiff was entitled to offer to perform where Defendant was located or, if Defendant could not be located, at Defendant's home or business in California or, if neither Defendant nor [his/her/its] home or business could be located, then at any place in California.

Authority: Civ. Code § 1489.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used with MB 300D.50 when there is a fact issue as to whether a specified place for performance was fixed by the parties and, if it was not, whether the offer of performance was at a proper place.

The instruction assumes that it is the plaintiff's tender of performance that is at issue. If the issue is whether the defendant's obligation to perform was extinguished by a tender, the party designations should be reversed.

[3] Comment

In the absence of an express provision to the contrary, an offer of performance may be made, at the debtor's option [Civ. Code § 1489]:

- At any place appointed by the creditor;
- Wherever the person to whom the offer ought to be made can be found;
- If such person cannot, with reasonable diligence, be found in California, and within a reasonable distance from his or her residence or place of business, or if he or she evades the debtor, then at his or her residence or place of business, if the same can, with reasonable diligence, be found in California; or
- If this cannot be done, then at any place in California.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawPerformanceTender & DeliveryContracts LawSales of GoodsPerformanceTender of Delivery

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

91 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions PART C. TENDER OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.57

MB 300D.57 Requirement of Good Faith

[1] Instruction Requirement of Good Faith

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A good faith offer to perform means an honest offer to do what is required under the contract. [If Plaintiff was in fact unable to perform, such inability is evidence that Plaintiff's offer to perform was not made in good faith.]

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1493; K. & M., Inc. v. Le Cuyer (1951) 107 Cal.App.2d 710, 717, 238 P.2d 28 ; McCarthy v. Grider (1925) 72 Cal.App. 393, 402, 237 P. 751 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used with the instruction in MB 300D.50 when good faith of a tender is at issue. The second sentence should only be given when there is evidence that the tendering party was unable to perform.

The instruction assumes that it is the plaintiff's tender of performance that is at issue. If the issue is whether the defendant's obligation to perform was extinguished by a tender, the party designations should be reversed.

[3] Comment

An offer of performance must be made in good faith, and in such manner as is most likely, under the circumstances to benefit the offeree [Civ. Code § 1493; K. & M., Inc. v. Le Cuyer (1951) 107 Cal.App.2d 710, 717, 238 P.2d 28]. Good faith is a requirement that may not be waived [Dickey v. Kuhn (1930) 106 Cal.App. 300, 304-305, 289 P. 242]. The inability to perform is evidence of lack of good faith [McCarthy v. Grider (1925) 72 Cal.App. 393, 402, 237 P. 751]. However, inability to perform is also an independent ground for invalidating tender of performance [see MB 300D.58].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawContract InterpretationGood Faith & Fair DealingContracts LawPerformanceTender & DeliveryContracts LawSales of GoodsPerformanceTender of Delivery

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

92 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART C. TENDER OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.58

MB 300D.58 Ability to Perform

[1] Instruction Ability to Perform

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

An offer to perform has no effect if the person making it is not able and willing to perform according to the offer. This means that at the time performance was supposed to take place Plaintiff must have been in control of resources by which [he/she/it] could in fact have performed if called on to do so.

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

A person is able to perform if that person has the ability to borrow the required funds.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1495; Baber v. Pappas (1929) 97 Cal.App. 534, 536, 275 P. 978 ; Ramsdell v. Krehmke (1928) 95 Cal.App. 195, 199, 272 P. 333 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used with the instruction in MB 300D.50 in any case involving a tender of performance in which ability to perform is at issue. The optional sentence should be used when the ability to borrow funds necessary for performance is an issue.

The instruction assumes that it is the plaintiff's tender of performance that is at issue. If the issue is whether the defendant's obligation to perform was extinguished by a tender, the party designations should be reversed.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Willingness to Perform vs. Ability to Perform:

There is an obvious difference between being willing to perform and being able to perform. Jurors will usually understand and appreciate this distinction. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Using Optional Part of Instruction: The optional portion of this instruction may be necessary if the defendant questions the plaintiff's financial ability to perform. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

An offer of performance is of no effect if the person making it is not able and willing to perform according to the offer [Civ. Code § 1495]. This ability to perform is an essential requirement of tender that cannot be waived by the other party [Canal-Randolph Anaheim, Inc. v. Wilkoski (1978) 78 Cal.App.3d 477, 497, 144 Cal.Rptr. 474]. Proof of ability to perform has been defined in real estate commission cases as proof that a buyer commanded resources on which he or she could have performed or could have obtained the requisite credit [Baber v. Pappas (1929) 97 Cal.App. 534, 536, 275 P. 978 ; Ramsdell v. Krehmke (1928) 95 Cal.App. 195, 199, 272 P. 333]. This same definition should be applicable in all cases involving ability to perform when the availability of credit is an issue. Good faith is a related requirement that similarly cannot be waived [see MB 300D.57].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawPerformanceTender & DeliveryContracts LawSales of GoodsPerformanceTender of Delivery

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

93 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART C. TENDER OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.59

MB 300D.59 Ability to Perform--Third Party Cooperation

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff could only have performed [his/her/its] obligation under the agreement with the cooperation of _____ [name of third party]. To show that [he/she/it] had the ability to perform, Plaintiff must prove either that [he/she/it] had that cooperation, or that [he/she/it] could have obtained it.

Authority: Pacific Odorite Corp. v. Gersh (1949) 94 Cal.App.2d 174, 178-179, 210 P.2d 318 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the plaintiff's ability to perform is at issue and performance would have required third party cooperation.

The instruction assumes that it is the plaintiff's tender of performance that is at issue. If the issue is whether the defendant's obligation to perform was extinguished by a tender, the party designations should be reversed.

[3] Comment

When performance requires the cooperation of a third party, establishing the ability to perform includes a showing that such cooperation could have been obtained [Pacific Odorite Corp. v. Gersh (1949) 94 Cal.App.2d 174, 178-179, 210 P.2d 318].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawPerformanceTender & DeliveryContracts LawSales of GoodsPerformanceTender of Delivery

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

94 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART C. TENDER OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.60

MB 300D.60 Effect of Tender

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A valid offer to perform must be accepted.

[EITHER (See Use of Instruction)]

If Plaintiff made a valid offer to perform, then any rejection of that offer by Defendant was a breach of the contract.

[OR]

If Defendant made a valid offer to perform that Plaintiff rejected, then Defendant did not breach the contract.

Authority: Still v. Plaza Marina Commercial Corp. (1971) 21 Cal.App.3d 378, 385, 98 Cal.Rptr. 414 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in conjunction with the instruction in MB 300D.50 and any other applicable instructions in cases involving a fact issue of valid tender. The first alternative should be used if the plaintiff was the tendering party. If the defendant was the tendering party, then the second alternative is applicable.

[3] Comment

If the party to whom performance is properly tendered refuses to accept the tender, he or she has breached the contract [Still v. Plaza Marina Commercial Corp. (1971) 21 Cal.App.3d 378, 385, 98 Cal.Rptr. 414]. To a certain extent, tender has the same effect as actual performance. Proper tender may also be raised in defense of a contract action brought by the other party. The burden of proving improper tender is on the plaintiff because the plaintiff must prove the defendant's breach [Reichert v. General Ins. Co. (1968) 68 Cal.2d 822, 830, 69 Cal.Rptr. 321, 442 P.2d 377]. The party making the tender that is refused may (1) rescind the contract [see Ch. 3G, Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions], (2) sue for breach of contract, or (3) seek specific performance when that remedy is available [see Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, § 769 (10th ed. 2005)].

However, the tender does not by itself discharge the principal obligation. If the tender is monetary, the debt may be extinguished by depositing payment in a bank in accordance with Civ. Code § 1500. Although tender does not itself discharge the obligation, it does extinguish incidents of the obligation, such as liens held as security for a debt, and stops the running of any interest on the payment [Civ. Code § 1504; Universal C.I.T. Credit Corp. v. Rater (1963) 214 Cal.App.2d 493, 494, 29 Cal.Rptr. 631 (discharge of lien); Rose v. Hecht (1949) 94 Cal.App.2d 662, 665, 211 P.2d 347 (stopping interest)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Performance Tender & Delivery Contracts Law Sales of Goods Performance Tender of Delivery

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

95 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions PART C. TENDER OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.61

MB 300D.61 Production of Things to Be Delivered

[1] Instruction Production of Things to Be Delivered

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The contract called for Plaintiff to deliver _____ [describe thing to be delivered] to Defendant. Plaintiff must only show that [he/she/it] offered to deliver _____ [describe thing to be delivered]. It was not necessary to go through with the actual delivery if an offer of delivery was rejected by Defendant.

Authority: Civ. Code § 1496.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used with the instruction in MB 300D.50 when an offer of delivery was made but nothing was actually delivered. It assumes that it is the plaintiff's performance that is at issue. If the issue is the defendant's performance, the party designations should be reversed.

[3] Comment

This instruction is derived from Civ. Code § 1496, which provides that a thing to be delivered, if any, need not in any case be actually produced, on an offer of performance, unless the offer is accepted. Civ. Code § 1496 altered the common law formerly requiring the thing to be delivered to be physically tendered [Galland v. Lewis (1864) 26 Cal. 46, 49-50]. Although physical production may be excused, proof of good faith [see MB 300D.57] and ability to perform [see MB 300D.58 -MB 300D.59] are not [Backus v. Sessions (1941) 17 Cal.2d 380, 385, 110 P.2d 51 ; Dickey v. Kuhn (1930) 106 Cal.App. 300, 304-305, 289 P. 242 ; McCarthy v. Grider (1925) 72 Cal.App. 393, 402, 237 P. 751].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawPerformanceTender & DeliveryContracts LawSales of GoodsPerformanceTender of Delivery

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

96 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART C. TENDER OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.62

MB 300D.62 Separation of Thing Offered[1] Instruction Separation of Thing Offered[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff offered _____ [describe thing offered in performance] together with _____ [describe things with which it was intermingled]. This is only a valid offer if _____ [describe thing offered in performance] could be separated immediately and without difficulty from _____ [describe things with which it was intermingled]. If it could not in fact be so separated, Defendant was justified in refusing to accept Plaintiff's offer of performance.

Authority: Civ. Code § 1497.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used with the instruction in MB 300D.50 when the tendered performance has been mingled with other things and there is a question of fact as to whether the thing tendered was separable. The party designations should be reversed if it is the validity of the defendant's tender of performance that is at issue. In both situations the burden of proof is on the plaintiff because the plaintiff must prove both the plaintiff's performance and the defendant's breach.

[3] Comment

This instruction is based on Civ. Code § 1497, which provides that a thing, when offered by way of performance, must not be mixed with other things from which it cannot be separated immediately and without difficulty. For coverage of contracts governed by the Commercial Code, see Ch. 3H, Matthew Bender Commercial Code Sales Contract Instructions.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawPerformanceTender & DeliveryContracts LawSales of GoodsPerformanceTender of Delivery

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

97 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART C. TENDER OF PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.63-MB 300D.69

[Reserved]

MB 300D.63[Reserved]

98 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions PART D. EXCUSES FOR NON-PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.70

MB 300D.70 Useless Tender

[1] Instruction Useless Tender

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff contends that [he/she/it] did not offer to perform at the time required by the contract for the reason that _____ [describe facts by which plaintiff claims tender would have been useless]. Plaintiff must prove that under the circumstances an offer to perform would have been useless. If you find that such was the case, then Plaintiff was excused from offering to perform.

Authorities: Greenstone v. Claretian Theo. Seminary (1959) 173 Cal.App.2d 21, 33, 343 P.2d 161 ; Enfield v. Hoffman Motor Co. (1953) 117 Cal.App.2d 800, 807, 257 P.2d 458 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when tender was allegedly useless for reasons other than a reasonable certainty of rejection [see MB 300D.71], notice of refusal or inability to perform [see MB 300D.72], and notice of refusal to accept performance [see MB 300D.74]. These situations all involve useless tender, and the cited instructions should be used instead of this general instruction in those specific fact situations.

This instruction assumes that it is the plaintiff's excuse for failure to tender performance that is at issue. If the issue is the defendant's excuse for failure to perform, the instruction should be modified accordingly. The determination of which party has the burden of proving the defendant's excuse depends on whether it is apparent from the terms of the contract pleaded by the plaintiff [see [3], below].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Be Ready to Explain Facts: The word "useless" may seem strange in this context to some jurors. Therefore, be ready to explain the relevant facts. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

This instruction reflects the general rule that the law does not require idle acts [Greenstone v. Claretian Theo. Seminary (1959) 173 Cal.App.2d 21, 33, 343 P.2d 161 ; Enfield v. Hoffman Motor Co. (1953) 117 Cal.App.2d 800, 807, 257 P.2d 458] .

The plaintiff has the burden of proof on the issue of whether there is a valid excuse for his or her nonperformance [Evid. Code § 500; Reichert v. General Ins. Co. (1968) 68 Cal.2d 822, 830, 69 Cal.Rptr. 321, 442 P.2d 377 ; Pry Corp. of America v. Leach (1960) 177 Cal.App.2d 632, 639, 2 Cal.Rptr. 425].

Although the plaintiff has the burden of proving both his or her excuse from tendering performance and the defendant's breach, the plaintiff is not required to negate the existence of all justifiable excuses for the defendant's failure to tender performance. Excuses for nonperformance not apparent on the face of the contract or embraced within the facts alleged in the complaint are an affirmative defense [Eucalyptus G. Assn. v. Orange C. N. & L. Co. (1917) 174 Cal. 330, 335, 163 P. 45]. As such, the defendant carries the burden of proof [Evid. Code § 500].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawBreachNonperformanceContracts LawPerformanceTender & DeliveryContracts LawSales of GoodsBreach, Repudiation & ExcuseExcuse From PerformanceContracts LawSales of GoodsPerformanceTender of Delivery

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

99 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART D. EXCUSES FOR NON-PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.71

MB 300D.71 Reasonable Certainty of Rejection

[1] Instruction Reasonable Certainty of Rejection

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff asserts that [he/she/it] never offered to perform because Defendant would have rejected that performance had it been offered. Plaintiff must prove that under the circumstances it was reasonably certain that Plaintiff's offer of performance would have been rejected. If so, then no offer of performance by Plaintiff was necessary.

Authority: Hossom v. City of Long Beach (1948) 83 Cal.App.2d 745, 750, 189 P.2d 787 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when tender allegedly was not made because it appeared that it would have been rejected. If the defendant has given notice of refusal or inability to perform, use the instruction in MB 300D.72. If the defendant has given notice that the Plaintiff's performance will be rejected, use the instruction in MB 300D.73. If tender was allegedly useless for reasons other than apparent rejection, use the instruction in MB 300D.70.

This instruction assumes that the issue is the plaintiff's excuse for failing to tender performance. If the issue is the defendant's failure, then the party designations should be reversed and the defendant may have the burden of proof [see MB 300D.70[3]].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Plaintiff Should Explain Reasons for Not Offering to Perform: This instruction obviously applies to cases of anticipatory repudiation of a contract. If defendant has not expressly repudiated the contract, plaintiff should explain why plaintiff did not offer to perform. For example, it may be expensive to make an offer that is reasonably certain to be rejected. Since plaintiff is under a duty to avoid unnecessary damages (i.e., the duty to mitigate), this could explain the lack of an offer to perform. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care When Coordinating Evidence: The phrase "reasonably certain" may be confusing to some jurors. Hence, marshal the related evidence with some care. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

An offer to perform is not necessary when it is reasonably certain that it will not be accepted [Hossom v. City of Long Beach (1948) 83 Cal.App.2d 745, 750, 189 P.2d 787]. The burden of proof for excuse of tender is on the plaintiff [Evid. Code § 500; Reichert v. General Ins. Co. (1968) 68 Cal.2d 822, 830, 69 Cal.Rptr. 321, 442 P.2d 377].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawBreachAnticipatory RepudiationGeneral OverviewContracts LawPerformanceTender & Delivery

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

100 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART D. EXCUSES FOR NON-PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.72

MB 300D.72 Notice of Refusal or Inability to Perform[1] Instruction Notice of Refusal or Inability to Perform[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff asserts that [he/she/it] did not offer to perform [his/her/its] obligations under the contract because Defendant notified Plaintiff that Defendant _____ [would not or could not] perform. To be excused from offering to perform, Plaintiff must prove both of the following:

- 1. Defendant gave Plaintiff clear and definite notice that Defendant _____ [would not or could not] perform when required to do so; and
- 2. At the time such notice was given, Plaintiff's performance was not yet due.

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

If Plaintiff proves both of these things, then Plaintiff's offer to perform is excused unless Defendant proves that before Plaintiff's performance was due, Defendant gave Plaintiff clear and definite notice that [he/she/it] _____ [would or could] perform when required to do so.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1440; Hulen v. Stuart (1923) 191 Cal. 562, 569-571, 217 P. 750 ; Layton v. West (1969) 271 Cal.App.2d 508, 512, 76 Cal.Rptr. 507 ; Hertz Driv-Ur-Self Stations, Inc. v. Schenley Distil. (1953) 119 Cal.App.2d 754, 758, 260 P.2d 93 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is a fact issue as to whether notice of refusal or inability to perform has been given. The optional instruction applies when a retraction has allegedly been given. If the defendant has given notice of an intended breach of a contractual promise that would substantially impair the contract's value, use the instruction in MB 300D.73. If the defendant has given notice of refusal to accept the plaintiff's performance, use the instruction in MB 300D.74.

An instruction on the requirements for the notice is set forth in MB 300D.76. If there is evidence of the plaintiff's change of position based on the defendant's notice of refusal to perform, use the instruction in MB 300D.74. The plaintiff has the burden of proving notice of the defendant's refusal [see MB 300D.70[3]] and the defendant has the burden of proving retraction [see [3], below].

[3] Comment

If one party notifies the other that he or she will not perform the contract and does not retract the notice before the time for performance is due, the other party does not have to perform [Civ. Code § 1440]. Repudiation is a question of fact to be determined from the evidence [Hulen v. Stuart (1923) 191 Cal. 562, 571, 217 P. 750 ; Layton v. West (1969) 271 Cal.App.2d 508, 512, 76 Cal.Rptr. 507 ; Singh v. Burkhardt (1963) 218 Cal.App.2d 285, 293, 32 Cal.Rptr. 639 ; Hertz Driv-Ur-Self Stations, Inc. v. Schenley Distil. (1953) 119 Cal.App.2d 754, 758-760, 260 P.2d 93]. After one party to a contract has notified the other that he or she will not, or cannot, perform, the burden is on him or her to show that before the time of performance he or she notified the other party of his or her willingness and ability to perform [Hulen v. Stuart (1923) 191 Cal. 562, 571, 217 P. 750].

In any event, proof of repudiation excusing tender does not dispense with the requirement that the nonrepudiating party prove ability to perform [McDorman v. Moody (1942) 50 Cal.App.2d 136, 140-141, 122 P.2d 639]. This does not mean that the nonrepudiating party must have completed all steps necessary to perform so long as he or she was prepared to do so [L.A. Coin-O-Matic Laundries v. Harow (1961) 195 Cal.App.2d 324, 330, 15 Cal.Rptr. 693].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawBreachAnticipatory RepudiationGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachNonperformanceContracts LawPerformanceImpossibility of PerformanceGeneral OverviewEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofAllocation

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

101 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART D. EXCUSES FOR NON-PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.73

MB 300D.73 Notice of Intended Breach of Contractual Promise

[1] Instruction Notice of Intended Breach of Contractual Promise

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INST. NO. _____

Plaintiff asserts that [he/she/it] did not offer to perform [his/her/its] obligations under the contract because Defendant made a statement to Plaintiff indicating that [he/she/it] would breach an important contractual promise, thereby substantially impairing the value of the contract.

Authority: Mobil Oil Exploration & Producing Southeast, Inc. v. United States (2000) 530 U.S. 604, 120 S.Ct. 2423, 2437-2438, 147 L.Ed.2d 528 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is a fact issue as to whether notice of intended breach of a promise that would substantially impair the value of the contract has been given. If the defendant has given notice of refusal or inability to perform, use the instruction in MB 300D.72. If defendant has given notice of refusal to accept the plaintiff's performance, use the instruction in MB 300D.74.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

[3] Comment

[a] Notice of Intended Breach

In Mobil Oil Exploration & Producing Southeast, Inc. v. United States [Mobil Oil Exploration & Producing Southeast, Inc. v. United States (2000) 530 U.S. 604, 120 S.Ct. 2423, 147 L.Ed.2d 528], two oil companies sought restitution

(rather than damages for breach of contract) of $156 million that they had paid to the federal government in return for lease contracts giving them rights to explore for and develop oil off the North Carolina coast. The rights were conditioned on the companies obtaining a set of further governmental permissions. The companies claimed that the government repudiated the contracts when it denied them certain elements of the permission-seeking opportunities that the contracts had promised. The United States Supreme Court agreed that the government broke its promise and repudiated the contracts, and that it must give the companies their money back [Mobil Oil Exploration & Producing Southeast, Inc. v. United States (2000) 530 U.S. 604, 607, 120 S.Ct. 2423, 147 L.Ed.2d 528] .

The Court noted that when the United States enters into contractual relations its rights and duties are governed by the law applicable to contracts between private individuals. It then reviewed the applicable contract principles set forth in the Restatement of Contracts. Under the Restatement, when one party to a contract repudiates the contract, the other party is entitled to restitution for any benefit that he or she has conferred on the repudiating party by way of part performance or reliance [Mobil Oil Exploration & Producing Southeast, Inc. v. United States (2000) 530 U.S. 604, 607-608, 120 S.Ct. 2423, 147 L.Ed.2d 528 (citing Restatement of Contracts (2nd) § 373)]. "Repudiation" is a statement by the obligor to the obligee indicating that the obligor will commit a breach that would of itself give the obligee a claim for damages for total breach [Mobil Oil Exploration & Producing Southeast, Inc. v. United States (2000) 530 U.S. 604, 608, 120 S.Ct. 2423, 147 L.Ed.2d 528 (citing Restatement of Contracts (2nd) § 250)]. "Total breach" is a breach that so substantially impairs the value of the contract to the injured party at the time of the breach that it is just in the circumstances to allow him or her to recover damages based on all of his or her remaining rights to performance [Mobil Oil Exploration & Producing Southeast, Inc. v. United States (2000) 530 U.S. 604, 608, 120 S.Ct. 2423, 147 L.Ed.2d 528 (citing Restatement of Contracts (2nd) § 243)]. As applied to the facts of this case, those principles meant that if the government said it would break, or did break, an important contractual promise, thereby "substantially impairing the value of the contracts" to the companies, then unless the companies waived their rights to restitution, the government must give the companies their money back. Furthermore, it must do so whether or not the contracts ultimately would have proved financially beneficial to the companies [Mobil Oil Exploration & Producing Southeast, Inc. v. United States (2000) 530 U.S. 604, 608, 120 S.Ct. 2423, 147 L.Ed.2d 528].

In the contract, the U.S. promised the companies that they could explore for oil and develop any oil that they found provided that they received exploration and development permissions in accordance with various statutes and regulations to which the lease contracts were made subject. The Court found that (1) the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act (OCSLA) required the Department of Interior (Interior) to approve within 30 days a submitted exploration plan that met OCSLA's requirements; (2) Interior had told Mobil that the companies' submitted plan met those requirements; (3) Interior had told Mobil that it would not approve the submitted plan for at least 13 months due to a new law (OBPA) prohibiting approval of exploration plans until additional governmental actions had taken place; and (4) Interior had never either approved or disapproved the plan. The Court then concluded that the government's actions violated the contracts, and in fact the new statute required Interior to impose the contract-violating delay. The changes made by the statute were changes in approval procedures and standards that the contracts had incorporated through cross-reference. Therefore, by communicating to the companies its intent to follow OBPA, the government was communicating its intent to violate the contracts. The Court next found that the incorporated procedures and standards amounted to a gateway to the companies' enjoyment of all other rights. To significantly narrow that gateway violated material conditions in the contracts. The breach was substantial, depriving the companies of the benefit of the bargain. The government's communication of its intent to commit that breach amounted to a repudiation of the contracts [Mobil Oil Exploration & Producing Southeast, Inc. v. United States (2000) 530 U.S. 604, 616-623, 120 S.Ct. 2423, 147 L.Ed.2d 528].

For further discussion, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 50, Contracts (Matthew Bender).

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 324 Anticipatory Breach

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawBreachNonperformanceContracts LawPerformanceImpossibility of PerformanceGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

102 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART D. EXCUSES FOR NON-PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.74

MB 300D.74 Refusal in Advance to Accept Offer of Performance

[1] Instruction Refusal in Advance to Accept Offer of Performance

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

If before Plaintiff's performance was due under the contract, Defendant notified Plaintiff that [he/she/it] would not accept performance, then Plaintiff was excused from offering to perform when the time came unless Defendant proves that before Plaintiff's performance was due Defendant gave Plaintiff clear and definite notice that [he/she/it] had changed [his/her/its] mind and was now willing to accept performance.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1515; Hulen v. Stuart (1923) 191 Cal. 562, 571, 217 P. 750 ; Nix v. Heald (1949) 90 Cal.App.2d 723, 729-730, 203 P.2d 847 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is evidence of the defendant's notice of refusal to accept the plaintiff's performance and retraction of such notice. Clear and definite notice is defined in MB 300D.76. If there is evidence of the plaintiff's change of position between the notice of repudiation and retraction, use the instruction in MB 300D.75. If the case involves the plaintiff's alleged notice of refusal to accept the defendant's offer of performance, the party designations should be reversed and the defendant will have the burden of proof.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

[3] Comment

[a] Refusal in Advance to Accept Offer of Performance

If the defendant notifies the plaintiff that he or she will refuse to accept performance when due and does not retract such notice and agree to accept performance before performance is due, the plaintiff does not have to offer performance to place the defendant in breach [Civ. Code § 1515]. The burden of proof on retraction is the defendant's [see MB 300D.75[3]].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 324 Anticipatory Breach

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawBreachAnticipatory RepudiationGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

103 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART D. EXCUSES FOR NON-PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.75

MB 300D.75 Change of Position Based on Notice of Refusal to Perform[1] Instruction Change of Position Based on Notice of Refusal to Perform[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff asserts that [he/she/it] did not offer to perform because Defendant had notified Plaintiff that Defendant _____ [would not or could not] perform, and that Plaintiff then _____ [describe facts indicating change of position]. Plaintiff must prove that before Plaintiff's performance was due Defendant gave clear and definite notice that [he/she/it] _____ [would not or could not] perform. If Plaintiff establishes that such notice was given then Defendant must prove that [he/she/it] clearly and definitely retracted such notice before Plaintiff _____ [describe facts indicating change of position] in reliance on such notice.

Authorities: Guerrieri v. Severini (1958) 51 Cal.2d 12, 19, 330 P.2d 635 ; Pichignau v. Paris (1963) 264 Cal.App.2d 138, 142, 70 Cal.Rptr. 147 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the defense of withdrawal of a repudiation is alleged. Clear and definite notice is defined in MB 300D.76.

[3] Comment

Repudiation may be retracted before performance is due, but it is too late to retract it if the other party has already changed position in reliance on the repudiation [Guerrieri v. Severini (1958) 51 Cal.2d 12, 19, 330 P.2d 635]. This instruction, and the instruction in MB 300D.74, treat withdrawal of repudiation before reliance as a special defense for which the defendant bears the burden of proof [see Hulen v. Stuart (1923) 191 Cal. 562, 571, 217 P. 750 ; Pichignau v.

Paris (1963) 264 Cal.App.2d 138, 142, 70 Cal.Rptr. 147 ; see also Evid. Code § 500]. The retraction must be clear and unequivocal. The repudiating party may not impose new conditions not in accord with the original contract [Pichignau v. Paris (1963) 264 Cal.App.2d 138, 142, 70 Cal.Rptr. 147].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawBreachAnticipatory RepudiationGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

104 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART D. EXCUSES FOR NON-PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.76

MB 300D.76 Clear and Definite Notice[1] Instruction Clear and Definite Notice[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Notice that a party _____ [will not or cannot perform or will not accept the other party's performance] must be clear and definite for the other party to treat such notice as an excuse for [his/her/its] own failure to perform. A threat to abandon a contract is not enough, nor is a statement by a party that [he/she/it] does not consider the contract binding. Such conduct merely amounts to a message that the contract may not be performed.

Authorities: Kossler v. Palm Springs Developments, Ltd. (1980) 101 Cal.App.3d 88, 99, 161 Cal.Rptr. 423 ; Whitney Inv. Co. v. Westview Dev. Co. (1969) 273 Cal.App.2d 594, 602-603, 78 Cal.Rptr. 302 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used with the instructions in MB 300D.72-MB 300D.75 to inform the jury of the criteria for clear and definite notice not to perform or not to accept performance.

[3] Comment

Notice that a party will not or cannot perform may not be equivocal [Kossler v. Palm Springs Developments, Ltd. (1980) 101 Cal.App.3d 88, 99, 161 Cal.Rptr. 423]. It must be clear, positive, and absolute [Whitney Inv. Co. v. Westview Dev. Co. (1969) 273 Cal.App.2d 594, 602, 78 Cal.Rptr. 302 ; Layton v. West (1969) 271 Cal.App.2d 508, 512, 76 Cal.Rptr. 507 ; Daum v. Superior Court (1964) 228 Cal.App.2d 283, 287, 39 Cal.Rptr. 443 ; Hertz Driv-Ur-Self Stations, Inc. v. Schenley Distil. (1953) 119 Cal.App.2d 754, 760, 260 P.2d 93]. A threat to abandon a contract is not the same as repudiation [Gold Mining & Water Co. v. Swinerton (1943) 23 Cal.2d 19, 28, 142 P.2d 22]; nor is a statement by a party that it considers the contract not binding [Copy Lease Corp. of America v. Memorex Corp. (N.Y.D.C. 1975) 403 F.Supp. 625, 630 (federal court applied Com. Code § 2609(1) to hold that although seller's statement that contract was "not binding" did not amount to anticipatory repudiation and did not discharge buyer's obligation to order goods within reasonable time, statement did give buyer right to demand assurances of seller's intention to perform)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawBreachNonperformance

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

105 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART D. EXCUSES FOR NON-PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.77

MB 300D.77 Implied Repudiation

[1] Instruction Implied Repudiation

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff contends that [he/she/it] did not perform or offer to perform because before the time [his/her/its] performance was due, Defendant _____ [describe facts by which implied repudiation allegedly occurred] and therefore had acted in such a way as to put [himself/herself/itself] in a position where [he/she/it] could not perform. To be excused from performing, Plaintiff must prove that Defendant did in fact put [himself/herself/itself] in a position where [he/she/it] could not perform. It is not enough if performance by Defendant appeared less likely or more difficult.

Authorities: Taylor v. Johnston (1975) 15 Cal.3d 130, 139, 123 Cal.Rptr. 641, 539 P.2d 425 ; Zogarts v. Smith (1948) 86 Cal.App.2d 165, 170-172, 194 P.2d 143 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the plaintiff contends that his or her tender of performance was excused because the defendant had rendered himself or herself unable to perform. If it is the defendant who contends that the plaintiff impliedly repudiated the contract, the party designations should be reversed and the defendant will have the burden of proof [see MB 300D.70[3]].

[3] Comment

Implied repudiation occurs when a party puts it out of his or her power to perform [Taylor v. Johnston (1975) 15 Cal.3d 130, 139, 123 Cal.Rptr. 641, 539 P.2d 425 ; Zogarts v. Smith (1948) 86 Cal.App.2d 165, 170-172, 194 P.2d 143]. The burden of proof is on the plaintiff to show an excuse for his or her failure to tender performance [Reichert v. General

Ins. Co. (1968) 68 Cal.2d 822, 830, 69 Cal.Rptr. 321, 442 P.2d 377].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawBreachAnticipatory RepudiationGeneral OverviewContracts LawPerformanceImpossibility of PerformanceGeneral OverviewContracts LawPerformanceTender & Delivery

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

106 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3D Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions
PART D. EXCUSES FOR NON-PERFORMANCE

1-3D California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300D.78

MB 300D.78 Performance Excused by Material Breach

[1] Instruction Performance Excused by Material Breach

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff contends that [he/she/it] was excused from performing [[his/her/its] remaining obligations] under the contract because of Defendant's conduct in _____ [describe breach]. To establish this as an excuse, Plaintiff must prove one of the following, either:

1. That Defendant breached an important part of the contract; or
2. That Defendant's conduct was the type of breach that made it likely that Defendant would breach important parts of the contract in the future.

If either of these things is established, Plaintiff was excused from [further] performance under the contract. If not, then Plaintiff was required to continue to perform [although [he/she/it] may still be entitled to compensation for the breach].

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

A breach of contract before or at the beginning of performance may be important enough to excuse the other party from performing under the contract, although the same breach late in performance would be unimportant. [By the same token, a number of small breaches may be important even if each by itself would be unimportant.] You should consider whether the breach[es] is [are] great or small and when it [they] occurred in relation to the life of the contract. If the contract required team work and cooperation, then you should also consider the effect of any breach[es] by Defendant on the likelihood of future team work and cooperation as well as any other factors that might indicate whether or not it was likely that Defendant would commit additional breaches of a serious nature before the contract was completed.

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The seriousness of a breach of contract does not depend on the amount of money necessary to remedy it. A serious breach may sometimes cause very little loss if action is taken to lessen its impact.

Authority: Assoc. Lathing etc. Co. v. Lewis C. Dunn, Inc. (1955) 135 Cal.App.2d 40, 49-50, 286 P.2d 825 .

[2] Use of Instruction

[a] Basic Considerations

This instruction should be used when a defendant has committed a breach that the plaintiff has treated as excusing further performance of the contract and there is a dispute as to the materiality of the breach. It applies in an action on the contract. If material breach is alleged as a basis for rescission, see Ch. 3G, Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions.

The bracketed language is included in the basic instruction to be used when the contract calls for further performance and when the plaintiff, although required to continue to perform, may still be entitled to compensation for a breach by the defendant.

The instruction assumes that it is the plaintiff's performance that was allegedly excused by the defendant's breach. If the defendant is raising the plaintiff's prior material breach as an excuse for performance, the party designations should be reversed and the defendant will have the burden of proof [see [3], below].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Checklist or Diagram: This instruction deals with an important issue in some lawsuits. However, this is a lengthy instruction. Consequently, use of a checklist or diagram could aid some jurors. By Rex Heeseman

[b] Terminology

"Important" is used as a synonym for "material" [see Ch. 3G, Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions], and the phrase "perform important part[s] of the contract" is used as a synonym for substantial performance [see MB 300D.02] to increase juror comprehension.

[c] Option: Timing of Breach

The first optional instruction, dealing with the size of the breach and its timing, should be used when the materiality of the breach is affected by its timing. The bracketed language should be used when there are a number of small breaches.

[d] Option: Amount Required to Remedy Breach

The second optional instruction on the amount of money required to remedy a breach should be used when the amount of damage from an alleged material breach is small. Its purpose is to counteract the impression a jury might otherwise have that a breach that does not cause significant damage is not material.

[3] Comment

Any breach that causes a measurable injury gives the injured party a right to compensatory damages [Borgonovo v. Henderson (1960) 182 Cal.App.2d 220, 231, 6 Cal.Rptr. 236]. However, the injured party is only justified in refusing further performance on his or her own part if the breach is material [see Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, § 852 (10th ed. 2005)].

The materiality of a breach is primarily a question of fact [Assoc. Lathing etc. Co. v. Lewis C. Dunn, Inc. (1955) 135 Cal.App.2d 40, 49-50, 286 P.2d 825 ; Smith v. Empire Sanitary Dist. (1954) 127 Cal.App.2d 63, 73, 273 P.2d 37]. Among factors to be taken into account are the timing of the breach, the likelihood of future breaches, and the necessity for continued team work and cooperation. The seriousness of a breach is not dependent on the amount of damage that is caused [Assoc. Lathing etc. Co. v. Lewis C. Dunn, Inc. (1955) 135 Cal.App.2d 40, 49-50, 286 P.2d 825]. It also appears proper to consider the cumulative effect of small breaches [see Tolstoy Constr. Co. v. Minter (1978) 78 Cal.App.3d 665, 673, 143 Cal.Rptr. 570].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Breach Material Breach Contracts Law Remedies Rescission & Redhibition General Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

107 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3E Matthew Bender Contract Damages Instructions

1-3E California Forms of Jury Instruction 3E.syn

§ 3E.syn Synopsis to Chapter 3E: Matthew Bender Contract Damages Instructions

MB 300E.01 Introductory Instruction: Right to Recover Damages and Determination of Damages

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Right to Compensatory Damages

[b] Right to Nominal Damages

[c] What Constitutes Nominal Damages

[d] Determination of Damages

[e] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300E.02 General Measure of Damages (Civ. Code § 3300)

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Applicability of Civ. Code § 3300

1-3E California Forms of Jury Instruction 3E.syn

[b] Measure of Damages Under Civ. Code § 3300

[c] Instructions on General Measure of Damages

[d] Instructions on Special Measures of Damages

[e] Emotional Distress Damages

[f] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300E.03 Recovery Limited to Damages Proximately Caused by Breach

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Proximate Cause Requirement

[b] Necessity of Instructing on Proximate Cause

[c] Drawbacks of "Proximate Cause" and "Legal Cause" Terminology

[d] "Substantial Factor" Formulation of Proximate Cause Requirement

[e] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300E.04 Damages Not Recoverable Unless Loss or Harm Would Not Have Occurred "But For" Breach

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Nature and Scope of "But For" Rule

[b] Necessity of Instructing on "But For" Rule

[c] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300E.05 Concurrent Causes

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Nature and Scope of "Concurrent Causes" Rule

[b] Instructions on "Concurrent Causes"

MB 300E.06 Damage Must Be Reasonably Certain; Certainty as to Amount Not Required

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Certainty as to Damages Already Sustained

[b] Certainty as to Future Damages

[c] Burden of Proof

[d] Instructing on Requirement of Certainty

[e] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300E.07 Effect of Contingencies That May Increase Future Damages

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Right to Damages for Future Injury

[b] Contingencies Affecting Future Damages

[c] Reduction to Present Cash Value

[d] Consideration of Inflation and Economic Trends

[e] Necessity of Instructing on Effects of Inflation and Other Economic Trends

[f] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300E.08 Effect of Contingencies That May Decrease Amount of Future Damages

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300E.09 Damages May Not Exceed What Plaintiff Would Have Received From Full Performance

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Nature and Purpose of Limitation Imposed by Civ. Code § 3358

[b] Applicability of Civ. Code § 3358

MB 300E.10 Choice of Alternative Methods of Determining Plaintiff's Damages

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Choosing Permissible Methods of Determining Damages

[b] Propriety of Instruction on Rule Requiring Use of Least Expensive Method

MB 300E.11 Damages Not to Be Measured by Defendant's Savings or Costs

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300E.12 Punitive Damages Not Recoverable (Jury Instructed Only on Breach of Contract)

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Punitive Damages Not Permitted in Action Based Solely on Breach of Contract

[b] Related Judicial Council Instructions

MB 300E.13 Punitive Damages Not Recoverable (Jury Also Instructed on Non-Contract Punitive Damage Claims)

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

1-3E California Forms of Jury Instruction 3E.syn

[a] Contract Claims No Bar to Punitive Damages on Tort Claim Based on Same Facts

[b] Necessity of Instructing That Punitive Damages Not Recoverable on Breach of Contract Claims

[c] Code Civ. Proc. § 625 Special Verdict Requirement Distinguished

[d] Related Judicial Council Instructions

MB 300E.14 Extent of Plaintiff's Obligation to Avoid or Minimize Damages

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Plaintiff's Obligation to Mitigate Damages

[b] Recovery Not Barred as Long as Plaintiff Acts Reasonably to Avoid Loss

[c] Nature of Obligation to Act Reasonably to Mitigate

[d] Necessity of Instructing on Plaintiff's Obligation to Mitigate Damages

[e] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300E.15 Obligation to Mitigate Does Not Require Obligations Beyond Plaintiff's Means

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Reasonable Effort to Mitigate

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300E.16 Obligation to Mitigate Is Excused by Reliance on Defendant's Promises

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Obligation to Mitigate Excused by Reliance on Defendant's Promises

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

108 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3E Matthew Bender Contract Damages Instructions

1-3E California Forms of Jury Instruction Scope

Scope

SCOPE

This chapter includes jury instructions on the general rules governing determination of damages for breach of contract. For the California Judicial Council jury instructions on contract damages, see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions. Ch. 3 also includes Judicial Council instructions on other issues surrounding contracts, including formation, performance, interpretation, modification, breach, and defenses. The instructions in this chapter are intended to supplement the Judicial Council instructions [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1050].

This chapter covers the following topics:

- An introductory instruction on the right to recover damages and a determination of damages [see MB 300E.01].
- The general measure of damages applicable in the absence of a special statute or a specific judicial formulation [see MB 300E.02].
- The general rules limiting the damages recoverable (i.e., the "proximate cause" and "but for" limitations) [see MB 300E.03, MB 300E.04].
- Concurrent causes [see MB 300E.05].
- The requirement that damages be reasonably certain [see MB 300E.06].
- Other generally applicable rules relating to the appropriate measure and amount of damages, including instructions on the nonavailability of punitive damages in contracts cases and the obligation to mitigate [see MB 300E.07 -MB 300E.16].

The chapter organizes the instructions in the order in which it is recommended that they be presented to the jury and makes other suggestions on how damage instructions should be organized to maximize juror comprehension.

Matthew Bender specific instructions on the general rules governing the determination of liability for breach of contract are contained in Chs. 3A-3D, 3F, and 3G. Liability and damage instructions for specific types of contracts are set forth in Chs. 3H (Commercial Code Sales Contracts), 3I (Construction Contracts), 23A (Insurance Contracts), and 24A (Employment Contracts).

109 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3E Matthew Bender Contract Damages Instructions

1-3E California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300E.01

MB 300E.01 Introductory Instruction: Right to Recover Damages and Determination of Damages

[1] Instruction Introductory Instruction: Right to Recover Damages and Determination of Damages

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Every person who suffers a loss or harm as a result of another person's breach of contract is entitled to be compensated in money for that loss or harm by the person who breached the contract. This compensation is called "damages."

If you find that Defendant breached a contract that [he/she/it] made with Plaintiff [or that was made for Plaintiff's benefit], you must award Plaintiff damages for that breach [OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction): unless you find that Plaintiff's claim for damages was waived, released, or paid, or unless you find that Plaintiff's rights under the contract or (his/her/its) claim for damages were assigned or transferred]. You must determine the amount of the damages to be awarded to Plaintiff according to the evidence, the rules of law on which I instruct you, and the other instructions that I will give you on the subject of damages.

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282, 3360; Bergen v. Tulare Power Co. (1916) 173 Cal. 709, 721, 161 P. 269 ; Parke v. Frank (1888) 75 Cal. 364, 369, 17 P. 427 ; Hancock v. Hubbell (1887) 71 Cal. 537, 539, 12 P. 618 ; Browner v. Davis (1860) 15 Cal. 9, 11 ; Ericson v. Playgirl, Inc. (1977) 73 Cal.App.3d 850, 859, 140 Cal.Rptr. 921 ; Sweet v. Johnson (1959) 169 Cal.App.2d 630, 632-633, 337 P.2d 499 ; Steers v. City and County of San Francisco (1931) 118 Cal.App. 361, 363, 5 P.2d 32 ; Weaver v. Atlantian Constr. Co. (1927) 84 Cal.App. 154, 161, 258 P. 111 ; Weichers v. Dehail (1919) 41 Cal.App. 547, 549, 183 P. 187 ; Restatement (Second) of Contracts § 346.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used to instruct the jury on the basic rules relating to damages for breach of contract. It defines the term "damages," which will be used repeatedly in the instructions in this chapter. The instruction is a preface to the instructions setting forth the applicable rules governing the determination of damages.

The bracketed language referring to a contract made for the plaintiff's benefit should be used if the plaintiff claims to be a third party beneficiary of the underlying contract. The bracketed language referring to the waiver, release, satisfaction, or transfer of the plaintiff's claim should be used only when the defendant asserts that the plaintiff's claim for damages was discharged by a waiver, release, or full payment after the alleged breach of contract, or when the defendant contends that the plaintiff's claim for damages, or the plaintiff's rights to receive the benefits of the contract, have been assigned or transferred to a third person. It should only be used to the extent that it applies to claims actually made by the defendant and supported by legally sufficient evidence.

When there is no dispute as to the existence of the contract, a specific reference to the contract that is the basis of the action (e.g., the employment contract, the real property sales contract, the August 1, 2003, distributorship contract, etc.) should be substituted for the general reference to the contract in the first sentence of the second paragraph.

The last sentence of this instruction covers the necessity of determining compensatory damages in accordance with the evidence and the specific rules of law establishing the legal measure of damages. A specific instruction on this point may nullify any prejudice caused by other instructions that erroneously suggest that the jury has unbridled discretion in determining the amount of damages [see Hasty v. Trevillian (1929) 102 Cal.App. 405, 410-411, 283 P. 148 ; Nielsen v. E. Gottschalk & Co., Inc. (1926) 77 Cal.App. 481, 481-483, 246 P. 1086].

When the plaintiff asserts alternative contract and tort causes of action based on the same act or omission, the jury should also be instructed that the plaintiff is not entitled to a duplicate award of damages for breach of contract if damages are awarded on the tort theory [see Weaver v. Bank of America (1963) 59 Cal.2d 428, 432, 30 Cal.Rptr. 4, 380 P.2d 644 ; Acadia, California, Ltd. v. Herbert (1960) 54 Cal.2d 328, 336-337, 5 Cal.Rptr. 686, 353 P.2d 294 ; Glendale Fed. Sav. & Loan Assn. v. Marina View Heights Dev. Co. (1977) 66 Cal.App.3d 101, 136-138, 135 Cal.Rptr. 802].

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][e], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Right to Damages, Generally: This is an introductory instruction on damages that requires the jury to award damages to plaintiff for every breach of contract (i.e., "you must award Plaintiff damages for that breach"). Even if the plaintiff cannot prove specific damages, nominal damages can be awarded [see CACI No. 360]. Nominal damages can be important for establishing the right to recover costs including attorney's fees and, sometimes, to seek punitive damages. Because this is an introduction, you should treat it as such. In other words, stress to the jury that this instruction is the "starting point." By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Right to Compensatory Damages

Every person who suffers loss or harm as a result of the unlawful act or omission of another is entitled to recover monetary compensation, known as damages [Civ. Code §§ 3281, 3282]. The propriety of giving an instruction on this fundamental principle along with other instructions on the subject of damages is well established [Bergen v. Tulare Power Co. (1916) 173 Cal. 709, 721, 161 P. 269 ; Steers v. City and County of San Francisco (1931) 118 Cal.App. 361, 363, 5 P.2d 32].

[b] Right to Nominal Damages

In an action for breach of contract, unlike an action in tort, a plaintiff who establishes a breach of contract is entitled to a favorable verdict and is entitled, as a matter of right, to recover at least nominal damages regardless of whether there are any actual damages resulting from the breach [Civ. Code § 3360; Hancock v. Hubbell (1887) 71 Cal. 537, 539, 12 P. 618 ; Browner v. Davis (1860) 15 Cal. 9, 11 ; Ericson v. Playgirl, Inc. (1977) 73 Cal.App.3d 850, 859, 140 Cal.Rptr.

921 ; Sweet v. Johnson (1959) 169 Cal.App.2d 630, 632, 337 P.2d 499 ; Restatement (Second) of Contracts § 346]. An instruction that directs the jury to render a verdict in the defendant's favor if it finds that the plaintiff was not damaged by a breach of contract is erroneous [Browner v. Davis (1860) 15 Cal. 9, 11].

The rule that a plaintiff establishing a breach of contract is entitled to at least nominal damages as a matter of right may have important consequences. Early cases, decided at a time when the applicable statute did not authorize an award of costs to a plaintiff recovering nominal damages [Lund v. Lachman (1915) 29 Cal.App. 31, 36, 154 P. 295], held that a failure to award nominal damages did not require reversal when the defendant was prepared to waive or remit any cost award assessed against the plaintiff and the judgment did not otherwise have the effect of determining some permanent right [Hancock v. Hubbell (1887) 71 Cal. 537, 540, 12 P. 618 ; Kenyon v. Western Union Tel. Co. (1893) 100 Cal. 454, 458-459, 35 P. 75 ; Lund v. Lachman (1915) 29 Cal.App. 31, 36, 154 P. 295]. However, when an amended statute gave the court discretion to award costs to a plaintiff recovering nominal damages, a failure to award nominal damages in a court trial was held to be reversible error because it deprived the judge of the opportunity to exercise discretion to award costs to the plaintiff [Capell Associates, Inc. v. Central Valley Security Co. (1968) 260 Cal.App.2d 773, 785-786, 67 Cal.Rptr. 463]. It is not clear whether a subsequent 1986 amendment to Code Civ. Proc. § 1032 makes an award of costs mandatory or discretionary when a plaintiff recovers nominal damages. Now, under Code Civ. Proc. § 1032, an award of costs is mandatory if the plaintiff obtains a "net monetary recovery"; it is discretionary when neither party obtains any relief or in situations not expressly provided for [see, e.g., Goodman v. Lozano (2010) 47 Cal.4th 1327, 1330, 104 Cal.Rptr.3d 219, 223 P.3d 77 (although plaintiff was entitled to damages, trial court entered take-nothing judgment against defendant because damages award was entirely offset by plaintiff's settlement with other defendants, and in view of plaintiff's failure to obtain any actual monetary recovery, trial court properly exercised discretion, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 1032(a)(4), in awarding attorney's fees and costs to defendant)]. However, absent specific authority otherwise, the rule as stated above in Capell Associates, Inc. v. Central Valley Security Co. [Capell Associates, Inc. v. Central Valley Security Co. (1968) 260 Cal.App.2d 773, 785-786, 67 Cal.Rptr. 463] would still seem to apply. Accordingly, it appears that a failure to instruct the jury on a plaintiff's right to recover at least nominal damages may result in the reversal of a judgment for the defendant if the jury's verdict may have been based on a finding that the plaintiff did not suffer any damages.

It should be noted that attorney's fees that are recoverable by the prevailing party under the terms of a statute, including those recoverable by virtue of an attorney's fee clause in a contract and the provisions of Civ. Code § 1717, are generally treated as costs of suit [Civ. Code § 1717(a); Beneficial Standard Properties, Inc. v. Scharps (1977) 67 Cal.App.3d 227, 231-232, 136 Cal.Rptr. 549 ; Committee for Sewer Referendum v. Humboldt Bay Wastewater Authority (1978) 77 Cal.App.3d 117, 125, n. 7, 143 Cal.Rptr. 463 ; Jeffers v. Screen Extras Guild (1955) 134 Cal.App.2d 622, 623-624, 286 P.2d 30 ; Woodward v. Bruner (1951) 104 Cal.App.2d 83, 85, 230 P.2d 861 ; see also Civ. Code § 1717.5 (award of attorney's fees for prevailing party in any action on contract based on book account); Civ. Code § 1717.5 (severely limiting amount of award and parties on whom award may be imposed)]. Therefore, in addition to permitting a plaintiff to recover other costs and disbursements, an award of nominal damages may enable a plaintiff to recover attorney's fees or avoid a liability for the defendant's attorney's fees [see Civ. Code § 1717(b)(1); Nasser v. Superior Court (1984) 156 Cal.App.3d 52, 60-61, 202 Cal.Rptr. 552].

[c] What Constitutes Nominal Damages

By definition, nominal damages must be trifling and insubstantial [Avina v. Spurlock (1972) 28 Cal.App.3d 1086, 1089, 105 Cal.Rptr. 198 ; Price v. McComish (1937) 22 Cal.App.2d 92, 99-100, 70 P.2d 978 ; Broads v. Mead (1911) 159 Cal. 765, 769, 116 P. 46 ; Maher v. Wilson (1903) 139 Cal. 514, 520, 73 P. 418]. A number of cases, particularly older ones, define nominal in terms of a few cents or a dollar [Avina v. Spurlock (1972) 28 Cal.App.3d 1086, 1089, 105 Cal.Rptr. 198 ; Price v. McComish (1937) 22 Cal.App.2d 92, 99-100, 70 P.2d 978 ; Broads v. Mead (1911) 159 Cal. 765, 769, 116 P. 46 ; Maher v. Wilson (1903) 139 Cal. 514, 520, 73 P. 418 ; Davidson v. Devine (1886) 70 Cal. 519, 520, 11 P. 664]; and it has been said that one dollar is the amount usually awarded as nominal damages [Broads v. Mead (1911) 159 Cal. 765, 769, 116 P. 46].

Nominal damage awards of $501 [Avina v. Spurlock (1972) 28 Cal.App.3d 1086, 1089, 105 Cal.Rptr. 198], $200 [Price v. McComish (1937) 22 Cal.App.2d 92, 99-100, 70 P.2d 978], and $100 [Broads v. Mead (1911) 159 Cal. 765, 769, 116 P. 46 ; Chowchilla National Bank v. Nilmeier (1927) 83 Cal.App. 18, 22, 256 P. 298] have been found excessive. However, a 1977 court of appeal case modified a judgment improperly awarding compensatory damages by substituting a $300 nominal damage award and indicated that it may be appropriate to look to analogous statutory damage provisions in determining the amount of nominal damages [Ericson v. Playgirl, Inc. (1977) 73 Cal.App.3d 850, 859, 140 Cal.Rptr. 921].

[d] Determination of Damages

The nature of the damages recoverable in actions for breach of contract differs from those available in tort actions in a fundamental respect. Although the determination of damages in a tort action is largely committed to the jury's discretion and is based on the jury's experience and values [see Beagle v. Vasold (1961) 65 Cal.2d 166, 172, 53 Cal.Rptr. 129, 417 P.2d 673 ; Rystinki v. Central California T. Co. (1917) 175 Cal. 336, 344-345, 165 P. 952 ; Lemere v. Safeway Stores, Inc. (1951) 102 Cal.App.2d 712, 728, 228 P.2d 296], an action for breach of contract is governed by rules that establish a specific and precise measure of damages for every breach. The amount of compensatory damages recoverable in an action for breach of contract is therefore regarded as something to be established and determined as a fact on the basis of the evidence presented [Parke v. Frank (1888) 75 Cal. 364, 369, 17 P. 427 ; Weaver v. Atlantian Constr. Co. (1927) 84 Cal.App. 154, 161, 258 P. 111 ; Weichers v. Dehail (1919) 41 Cal.App. 547, 549, 183 P. 187].

[e] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 350, Introduction to Contract Damages

CACI No. 351, Special Damages

CACI No. 352, Loss of Profits--No Profits Earned

CACI No. 353, Loss of Profits--Some Profits Earned

CACI No. 358, Mitigation of Damages

CACI No. 359, Present Cash Value of Future Damages

CACI No. 360, Nominal Damages

CACI No. 361, Plaintiff May Not Recover Duplicate Contract and Tort Damages

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Remedies Compensatory Damages General Overview Contracts Law Remedies Nominal Damages Contracts Law Third Parties Beneficiaries Claims & Enforcement

Scott Noble contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

110 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3E Matthew Bender Contract Damages Instructions

1-3E California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300E.02

MB 300E.02 General Measure of Damages (Civ. Code § 3300)

[1] Instruction General Measure of Damages (Civ. Code § 3300)

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

If you find that Defendant breached a contract that [he/she/it] made with Plaintiff _____ [or (See Use of Instruction) that was made for Plaintiff's benefit], you must award Plaintiff damages in an amount that will fully compensate [him/her/it] for all losses and harm that the breach caused [him/her/it], unless the other rules of law on which I will instruct you limit the amount that Plaintiff is entitled to recover or the type of losses or harm for which you can award damages to Plaintiff.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 3300; Coughlin v. Blair (1953) 41 Cal.2d 587, 600, 262 P.2d 305 ; Lisec v. United Airlines, Inc. (1992) 10 Cal.App.4th 1500, 1504, 11 Cal.Rptr.2d 689 ; DuBarry Internat., Inc. v. Southwest Forest Industries, Inc. (1991) 231 Cal.App.3d 552, 563, 282 Cal.Rptr. 181 ; Wickman v. Oppen (1961) 188 Cal.App.2d 129, 132, 10 Cal.Rptr. 291 ; Phalanx Air Freight v. National Skyway Freight Corp. (1951) 104 Cal.App.2d 771, 776, 232 P.2d 510 .

[2] Use of Instruction

Unless all parties are in agreement that there are no causation or foreseeability issues, this instruction should always be given with the appropriate instructions on causation, proximate cause, and foreseeability of damage in MB 300E.03-MB 300E.05. The bracketed language in the first sentence referring to a contract made for the plaintiff's benefit should be used only if the plaintiff claims to be a third-party beneficiary of the underlying contract.

When an instruction on the general measure of damages is agreed to by all parties or is clearly proper under existing case law, it is preferable specifically to instruct the jury as to the particular losses or items of damage for which recovery is permitted or to utilize a specific formulation of the general measure of damages that is tailored to the facts of the particular case. This instruction should not be given if it is agreed or otherwise clear that the specific damage instruction adequately covers all components of the damages claimed by the plaintiff. In such a situation, this instruction may confuse the jury.

This instruction should not be given in a case that is governed by a special statute providing a specific measure of damages for particular types of actions. In such a case, the giving of this instruction or another instruction based on Civ. Code § 3300 may be error [see [3][a], below].

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][f], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Keep Argument Simple: Attorneys will often have difficulties with these concepts. Thus, it would be best to keep your related argument simple so that the jury can follow along as well. In addition, this instruction may be duplicative depending on the other instructions given. By Rex Heeseman and Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Applicability of Civ. Code § 3300

Civ. Code § 3300 is a general statute that sets forth the basic measure of damages in an action for breach of contract [Coughlin v. Blair (1953) 41 Cal.2d 587, 600, 262 P.2d 305 ; Lisec v. United Airlines, Inc. (1992) 10 Cal.App.4th 1500, 1504, 11 Cal.Rptr.2d 689 ; DuBarry Internat., Inc. v. Southwest Forest Industries, Inc. (1991) 231 Cal.App.3d 552, 563, 282 Cal.Rptr. 181 ; Wickman v. Oppen (1961) 188 Cal.App.2d 129, 132, 10 Cal.Rptr. 291 ; Phalanx Air Freight v. National Skyway Freight Corp. (1951) 104 Cal.App.2d 771, 776, 232 P.2d 510]. In the absence of a special statute establishing a specific measure of damages, the measure in Civ. Code § 3300 is the proper one in a breach of contract action [Coughlin v. Blair (1953) 41 Cal.2d 587, 600, 262 P.2d 305 ; Wickman v. Oppen (1961) 188 Cal.App.2d 129, 132, 10 Cal.Rptr. 291]. However, when a special statute establishing a specific measure of damages is applicable [see Civ. Code §§ 1951.2, 1794, 3302-3318, 3353, 3354], that statute is controlling, and use of the general measure embodied in Civ. Code § 3300 is error [Code Civ. Proc. § 1859; Crag Lumber Co. v. Crofoot (1956) 144 Cal.App.2d 755, 778, 301 P.2d 952 ; Boshes v. Miller (1953) 119 Cal.App.2d 332, 336, 259 P.2d 447].

[b] Measure of Damages Under Civ. Code § 3300

Essentially, Civ. Code § 3300 provides that a party injured by a breach of contract is entitled to recover damages for "all detriment" resulting from the breach, subject to the following two limitations:

- The loss or harm for which recovery is sought must have been "proximately caused" by the breach [Friend & Terry L. Co. v. Miller (1885) 67 Cal. 464, 465, 8 P. 40 ; Southall v. Security Title Ins. etc. Co. (1952) 112 Cal.App.2d 321, 323-324, 246 P.2d 74 ; Reliance A. Corp. v. Hooper-Holmes Bureau (1934) 139 Cal.App. 607, 613, 34 P.2d 762]; and
- The parties must have been able to foresee, at the time they contracted, that the loss or harm for which recovery is sought was likely to result from the breach [Hunt Bros. Co. v. San Lorenzo etc. Co. (1906) 150 Cal. 51, 56-57, 87 P. 1093 ; Allen v. Jones (1980) 104 Cal.App.3d 207, 210-211, 163 Cal.Rptr. 445 ; Glendale Fed. Sav. & Loan Assn. v. Marina View Heights Dev. Co. (1977) 66 Cal.App.3d 101, 125, 135 Cal.Rptr. 802].

Civ. Code § 3300 must also be interpreted and applied in conjunction with other general statutes limiting the amount of damages that can be awarded for a breach of contract [see Civ. Code §§ 3358, 3359] or for the type of loss or harm for which damages can be awarded [see Civ. Code §§ 3301, 3353, 3354]. The rules set forth in these statutes therefore represent additional limitations on an injured party's right to recover damages resulting from the breach [Coughlin v. Blair (1953) 41 Cal.2d 587, 600, 262 P.2d 305 ; Phalanx Air Freight v. National Skyway Freight Corp. (1951) 104 Cal.App.2d 771, 776, 232 P.2d 510].

[c] Instructions on General Measure of Damages

A single instruction on the general measure of damages contained in Civ. Code § 3300 that attempted to incorporate the prerequisites of proximate cause and foreseeability would inevitably be complex, awkward, and difficult for the jury to understand. Accordingly, the jury should be initially instructed that a person injured by a breach of contract is entitled to full compensation for all detriment resulting from the breach unless other applicable rules require that the damages be limited. The jury should then be instructed separately on the relevant limitations on the general right to recover damages, including proximate cause and foreseeability.

This approach will not affect the legal sufficiency of the instructions. It is well settled that the court is not required to use the language of the pertinent statutes or any particular language in instructing the jury as long as the instructions it gives, taken as a whole, correctly state the substance of the applicable law [Peters v. Southern Pacific Co. (1911) 160 Cal. 48, 69, 116 P. 400 ; Hom v. Clark (1963) 221 Cal.App.2d 622, 643, 35 Cal.Rptr. 11 ; Hooper v. Bronson (1954) 123 Cal.App.2d 243, 254-255, 266 P.2d 590].

[d] Instructions on Special Measures of Damages

In addition to statutes that establish special measures of damages for particular types of cases [see Civ. Code §§ 1951.2, 1794, 3302-3318, 3353, 3354], there are a number of appellate decisions that have established specific formulations of the measure of damages required by Civ. Code § 3300 in particular fact situations [see Parker v. Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. (1970) 3 Cal.3d 176, 181-182, 89 Cal.Rptr. 737, 474 P.2d 689 (breach of employment contract); Coughlin v. Blair (1953) 41 Cal.2d 587, 600, 262 P.2d 305 (breach of contract to construct improvements); Caminetti v. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. (1943) 23 Cal.2d 94, 104-110, 142 P.2d 741 (wrongful cancellation of insurance policy); A.A. Baxter Corp. v. Colt Industries, Inc. (1970) 10 Cal.App.3d 144, 157-160, 88 Cal.Rptr. 842 (delay in delivery of equipment)].

[e] Emotional Distress Damages

In Erlich v. Menezes [Erlich v. Menezes (1999) 21 Cal.4th 543, 87 Cal.Rptr.2d 886, 981 P.2d 978], plaintiff homeowners sued the contractor who built a house for breach of contract, fraud, negligent misrepresentation, and negligent construction, claiming emotional distress resulting from the condition of the house and defendant's unsuccessful repair attempts. The jury found that defendant breached the construction contract by negligently constructing the house, but was not guilty of fraud or negligent misrepresentation. The jury awarded the homeowners the full cost necessary to repair their home as well as damages for emotional distress caused by the contractor's negligent performance. The court of appeal affirmed.

The California Supreme Court reversed and remanded, holding that since the contractor's negligence directly caused only economic injury and property damage, and breached no duty independent of the contract, the homeowners could not recover damages for emotional distress based on breach of a contract to build a house [Erlich v. Menezes (1999) 21 Cal.4th 543, 548, 87 Cal.Rptr.2d 886, 981 P.2d 978 ; see Dunkin v. Boskey (2000) 82 Cal.App.4th 171, 193-194, 98 Cal.Rptr.2d 44 (unmarried male partner, in action for breach of agreement by female partner to grant him paternity rights to child conceived by artificial insemination, not entitled to amend pleading to state cause of action for infliction of emotional distress, citing Erlich)]. The Court initially stated the rule set forth in Civ. Code § 3300 that in an action for breach of contract, the measure of damages is the amount that will compensate the aggrieved party for all the detriment proximately caused by the breach, or which, in the ordinary course of things, would be likely to result from the breach. Contract damages are generally limited to those within the contemplation of the parties when they entered into the contract or at least reasonably foreseeable by them at that time; consequential damages beyond the expectation of the parties are not recoverable. The Court articulated the issue in this case as whether a negligent breach of a contract will support an award of damages for emotional distress--either as tort damages for negligence, or as consequential or special contract damages [Erlich v. Menezes (1999) 21 Cal.4th 543, 550-551, 87 Cal.Rptr.2d 886, 981 P.2d 978].

The Court first noted that the court of appeal permitted plaintiffs to recover both full repair costs as normal contract damages and emotional distress damages as a tort remedy. However, conduct amounting to a breach of contract becomes tortious only when it also violates a duty independent of the contract arising from principles of tort law. For example, tort damages have been permitted in contract cases in which the duty that gives rise to tort liability is either completely independent of the contract or arises from conduct that is both intentional and intended to harm. Under the facts of this case, the Court concluded that tort damages were not available [Erlich v. Menezes (1999) 21 Cal.4th 543, 552-558, 87 Cal.Rptr.2d 886, 981 P.2d 978]. Next, the Court considered whether damages for emotional distress should be included as consequential or special damages in a contract claim. Damages for mental suffering and emotional distress are generally not recoverable in an action for breach of an ordinary commercial contract in California. Courts have carved out a narrow range of exceptions to the general rule of exclusion only when emotional tranquility is the contract's essence. The Court held that the balance of policy considerations, including the potential for significant increases in liability in amounts disproportionate to culpability, the court's inability to formulate appropriate limits on the availability of claims, and the magnitude of the impact on stability and predictability in commercial affairs, counseled against expanding contract damages to include mental distress claims in negligent construction cases [Erlich v. Menezes (1999) 21 Cal.4th 543, 558-561, 87 Cal.Rptr.2d 886, 981 P.2d 978]. For discussion of jury instructions specifically applicable to construction contracts, see Ch. 3I, Matthew Bender Construction Contract Instructions.

[f] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 350 Introduction to Contract Damages

CACI No. 351 Special Damages

CACI No. 352 Loss of Profits--No Profits Earned

CACI No. 353 Loss of Profits--Some Profits Earned

CACI No. 358 Mitigation of Damages

CACI No. 359 Present Cash Value of Future Damages

CACI No. 360 Nominal Damages

CACI No. 361 Plaintiff May Not Recover Duplicate Contract and Tort Damages

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions Standard Instructions Contracts Law Remedies Compensatory Damages General Overview Torts Damages Compensatory Damages Pain & Suffering Emotional & Mental Distress General Overview Torts Damages Proof Torts Intentional Torts

Scott Noble contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

111 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3E Matthew Bender Contract Damages Instructions

1-3E California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300E.03

MB 300E.03 Recovery Limited to Damages Proximately Caused by Breach[1] Instruction Recovery Limited to Damages Proximately Caused by Breach[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff is only entitled to recover damages for loss or harm that was caused by a breach of contract. In law, a breach of contract is considered to have caused a loss or harm if it was a substantial factor in bringing it about. Therefore, you may not award Plaintiff damages for a particular loss or harm unless you find that a breach of contract by Defendant was a substantial factor in bringing it about.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 3300; Mitchell v. Gonzales (1991) 54 Cal.3d 1041, 1048-1054, 1 Cal.Rptr.2d 913, 819 P.2d 872 ; Friend & Terry L. Co. v. Miller (1885) 67 Cal. 464, 466-467, 8 P. 40 ; Postal Instant Press, Inc. v. Sealy (1996) 43 Cal.App.4th 1704, 1713, 51 Cal.Rptr.2d 365 ; Maupin v. Widling (1987) 192 Cal.App.3d 568, 574-575, 237 Cal.Rptr. 521 ; Fraijo v. Hartland Hospital (1979) 99 Cal.App.3d 331, 345-347, 160 Cal.Rptr. 246 ; State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Allstate Ins. Co. (1970) 9 Cal.App.3d 508, 528, 88 Cal.Rptr. 246 ; Automatic Poultry Feeder Co. v. Wedel (1963) 213 Cal.App.2d 509, 515-516, 28 Cal.Rptr. 795 ; Mahar v. MacKay (1942) 55 Cal.App.2d 869, 877, 132 P.2d 42 ; Reliance A. Corp. v. Hooper-Holmes Bureau (1934) 139 Cal.App. 607, 613, 34 P.2d 762 ; Long v. Barbieri (1932) 120 Cal.App. 207, 217-218, 7 P.2d 1082 ; Restatement of Torts §§ 430, 431 (1934); Prosser, Proximate Cause in California, 38 Calif. L. Rev. 369, 392 (1950).

[2] Use of Instruction

This instructions should be used immediately following the instruction on the general measure of damages in MB 300E.02. It is a general instruction on the requirements of cause-in-fact and proximate cause that are elements of the basic measure of damages for breach of contract set forth in Civ. Code § 3300.

This instruction should also be used when the jury is instructed on a special measure of damages or on specific items or elements of damages when the cause or proximate cause of some or all of the claimed elements of damage is an issue.

In such a case, this instruction should be given immediately after the instruction on the special measure or the compensable elements of the plaintiff's damages.

This instruction is not sufficient in and of itself to cover the applicable law on cause in fact and proximate cause when there is evidence of an independent, nonconcurrent cause or when there is evidence that two or more unrelated causes operated concurrently to bring about the damages sustained by the plaintiff. Under these circumstances, a specific instruction on the "but for" rule of causation [see MB 300E.04] or on concurrent causation [see MB 300E.05] should be given.

If it is feasible in light of the nature of the plaintiff's damage claims, this instruction can be tailored to the facts of a particular case by modifying the last sentence to substitute references to the specific items or elements of damages claimed by the plaintiff for the general references to loss or harm.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][e], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Breach Does Not Have to Be Sole Factor: This instruction uses the phrase "substantial factor" instead of the phrase "proximate cause" or "legal cause." From the plaintiff's standpoint, the important point to stress is that the breach of contract does not have to be the sole factor in bringing about the damage, just a substantial factor. Note too that the term "proximate cause" is often difficult for law students to understand. What about jurors? By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Proximate Cause Requirement

Civ. Code § 3300 limits a plaintiff's recovery in an action for breach of contract to those "proximately caused" by the breach [Friend & Terry L. Co. v. Miller (1885) 67 Cal. 464, 467, 8 P. 40 ; Automatic Poultry Feeder Co. v. Wedel (1963) 213 Cal.App.2d 509, 515-516, 28 Cal.Rptr. 795 ; Southhall v. Security Title Ins. Etc. Co. (1952) 112 Cal.App.2d 321, 323-324, 246 P.2d 74 ; Reliance A. Corp. v. Hooper-Holmes Bureau (1934) 139 Cal.App. 607, 613, 34 P.2d 762]. This rule embodies two separate limitations on recoverable damages for breach of contract. First, there must be a causal connection between the defendant's breach and the plaintiff's damages, that is, the breach must be a cause-in-fact, a necessary antecedent of the damages [McDonald v. John P. Scripps Newspaper (1989) 210 Cal.App.3d 100, 104, 257 Cal.Rptr. 473 ; Camper v. McDermott (1968) 266 Cal.App.2d 41, 46, 71 Cal.Rptr. 590 ; Southhall v. Security Title Ins. Etc. Co. (1952) 112 Cal.App.2d 321, 323-324, 246 P.2d 74]. Second, even if the plaintiff would not have been damaged if the defendant had not breached the contract, the causal connection between the defendant's breach and the plaintiff's damages must be sufficiently close to justify holding the defendant liable for the damages [Friend & Terry L. Co. v. Miller (1885) 67 Cal. 464, 467, 8 P. 40 ; Automatic Poultry Feeder Co. v. Wedel (1963) 213 Cal.App.2d 509, 515-516, 28 Cal.Rptr. 795 ; Reliance A. Corp. v. Hooper-Holmes Bureau (1934) 139 Cal.App. 607, 613, 34 P.2d 762 ; J. Breuner Co. v. Western Union Tel. Co. (1930) 108 Cal.App. 243, 255-256, 291 P. 445 ; Brown v. Rives (1919) 42 Cal.App. 482, 488-489, 184 P. 32].

[b] Necessity of Instructing on Proximate Cause

The rule that damages must be proximately caused by a breach to be recoverable is essentially a broad rule that permits the trier of fact to limit the liability of the defendant in a variety of situations in which a limitation is warranted by principles of equity and justice [Hunt Bros. Co. v. San Lorenzo Etc. Co. (1906) 150 Cal. 51, 55-57, 87 P. 1093 ; Martin v. Deetz (1894) 102 Cal. 55, 67-69, 36 P. 368 ; Friend & Terry L. Co. v. Miller (1885) 67 Cal. 464, 466-468, 8 P. 40]. For example, a franchisee's breach of contract in failing to timely pay past royalties was not a "proximate" cause of the franchisor's loss of future royalties, when only the franchisor's decision to terminate the agreement ended its ability to collect the future royalties from the franchisee [Postal Instant Press, Inc. v. Sealy (1996) 43 Cal.App.4th 1704, 1713,

51 Cal.Rptr.2d 365]. The rule that a defendant should not be held liable for loss or damage that could not have been foreseen is an important element of the concept of proximate cause [Brookings L. & B. Co. v. Manufacturers' Co. (1916) 173 Cal. 679, 683, 161 P. 266 ; Hunt Bros. Co. v. San Lorenzo Etc. Co. (1906) 150 Cal. 51, 55-57, 87 P. 1093 ; Ely v. Bottini (1960) 179 Cal.App.2d 287, 293-294, 3 Cal.Rptr. 756 ; Reliance A. Corp. v. Hooper-Holmes Bureau (1934) 139 Cal.App. 607, 613, 614, 34 P.2d 762 ; Parkinson v. Langdon (1918) 36 Cal.App. 80, 84-86, 171 P. 710]. However, a breach of contract may be held not to be a proximate cause of a foreseeable loss when, viewed in relation to other operative causes (including the conduct of the plaintiff) it played only an incidental role in bringing about the loss [see Valencia v. Shell Oil Co. (1944) 23 Cal.2d 840, 846-847, 147 P.2d 558 ; Stultz v. Benson Lumber Co. (1936) 6 Cal.2d 688, 59 P.2d 100 ; Automatic Poultry Feeder Co. v. Wedel (1963) 213 Cal.App.2d 509, 515-516, 28 Cal.Rptr. 795 ; Shasta Douglas Oil Co. v. Work (1963) 212 Cal.App.2d 618, 626, 28 Cal.Rptr. 190 ; Brown v. Rives (1919) 42 Cal.App. 482, 488-489, 184 P. 32], or when the imposition of liability will deter others from engaging in commercial transactions or produce other socially undesirable results [see Westwater v. Grace Church (1903) 140 Cal. 339, 342-343, 73 P. 1055 ; Friend & Terry L. Co. v. Miller (1885) 67 Cal. 464, 466-468, 8 P. 40]. Accordingly, even though there is considerable overlap between the requirement of foreseeability and the requirement of proximate cause, the giving of a separate instruction on foreseeability will not obviate the need to instruct the jury on proximate cause.

Although appellate decisions dealing with proximate cause in the context of an action for breach of contract are scarce, the proximate cause requirement imposed by Civ. Code § 3300 in breach of contract actions and the proximate cause requirement of Civ. Code § 3333 for actions sounding in tort are identical [Berge v. International Harvester Co. (1983) 142 Cal.App.3d 152, 161, 190 Cal.Rptr. 815 ; Seaboard Music Co. v. Germano (1972) 24 Cal.App.3d 618, 622, 101 Cal.Rptr. 255 ; State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Allstate Ins. Co. (1970) 9 Cal.App.3d 508, 528, 88 Cal.Rptr. 246 ; Northwestern Title Security Co. v. Flack (1970) 6 Cal.App.3d 134, 146, 85 Cal.Rptr. 693]. Therefore, decisions arising from tort actions may properly be looked to for guidance. Under these decisions, proximate cause is generally treated as a factual issue that must be submitted to the jury [Mosley v. Arden Farms Co. (1945) 26 Cal.2d 213, 219, 157 P.2d 372 ; Wells v. Lloyd IV (1936) 6 Cal.2d 70, 86, 56 P.2d 517 ; Osborn v. Irwin Memorial Blood Bank (1992) 5 Cal.App.4th 234, 252, 7 Cal.Rptr.2d 101 ; Thomsen v. Rexall Drug & Chemical Co. (1965) 235 Cal.App.2d 775, 783, 45 Cal.Rptr. 642]. A failure to instruct the jury on the requirement of proximate cause when requested to do so has been held to be error [Craven v. Central P. R. Co. (1887) 72 Cal. 345, 347, 13 P. 878 ; Mahar v. MacKay (1942) 55 Cal.App.2d 869, 877, 132 P.2d 42 ; Brower v. Arnstein (1932) 126 Cal.App. 291, 298, 14 P.2d 863 ; Long v. Barbieri (1932) 120 Cal.App. 207, 217-218, 7 P.2d 1082], and, when there were substantial causation issues, a ground for reversal [Long v. Barbieri (1932) 120 Cal.App. 207, 217-218, 7 P.2d 1082].

[c] Drawbacks of "Proximate Cause" and "Legal Cause" Terminology

Perhaps nothing has detracted from the comprehensibility of instructions on the requirement of causation as much as the terms used to describe or refer to the legal concept of "proximate" cause.

As a number of commentators have recognized, the traditional term "proximate" does not satisfactorily express the nature of the requirement of proximate cause [see Prosser, Proximate Cause in California, 38 Calif. L. Rev. 369, 392 (1950); Charrow & Charrow, Making Legal Language Understandable: A Psycholinguistic Study of Jury Instructions, 79 Colum. L. Rev. 1306, 1353 (1979); see also Maupin v. Widling (1987) 192 Cal.App.3d 568, 573-575, 237 Cal.Rptr. 521]. It implies a requirement of physical nearness, of a cause and effect close together in terms of time, sequence, or distance, when in fact the concept of proximate cause does not include any requirement of chronological or physical proximity [Mitchell v. Gonzales (1991) 54 Cal.3d 1041, 1050, 1 Cal.Rptr.2d 913, 819 P.2d 872 ; Maupin v. Widling (1987) 192 Cal.App.3d 568, 573, 237 Cal.Rptr. 521 ; John B. Gunn Law Corp. v. Maynard (1987) 189 Cal.App.3d 1565, 1571, 235 Cal.Rptr. 180 ; see Automatic Poultry Feeder Co. v. Wedel (1963) 213 Cal.App.2d 509, 516, 28 Cal.Rptr. 795 ; Osborn v. City of Whittier (1951) 103 Cal.App.2d 609, 616, 230 P.2d 132 ; Lacy Mfg. Co. v. Los Angeles Gas Etc. Co. (1909) 12 Cal.App. 37, 42, 106 P. 413]. It also suggests, and is frequently confused with, the term "approximate" [see Mitchell v. Gonzales (1991) 54 Cal.3d 1041, 1051, 1 Cal.Rptr.2d 913, 819 P.2d 872 ; see also Charrow & Charrow, Making Legal Language Understandable: A Psycholinguistic Study of Jury Instructions, 79

Colum. L. Rev. 1306, 1353 (1979) (authors found that 23 percent of subjects participating in study to test comprehensibility of standard jury instructions understood "proximate" cause to be one that was an "approximate" or "estimated" cause, as opposed to an actual cause)], a term with a meaning sufficiently different and distinct that its use in instructions on causation has been held to be error [Hart v. Farris (1933) 218 Cal. 69, 74-75, 21 P.2d 432 ; State Compensation Fund v. Jorn (1921) 186 Cal. 782, 784-785, 200 P. 624]. Most important, it fails to convey the essence of the rule it purports to describe, that is, that a defendant will not be held liable for damages that were actually caused by a breach when the imposition of liability would be unjust or inequitable because, considered in relation to all other causes that contributed to the ensuing loss, the breach did not significantly increase the risk of that loss or played only an incidental or insignificant part in bringing it about [Stultz v. Benson Lumber Co. (1936) 6 Cal.2d 688, 59 P.2d 100 ; Westwater v. Grace Church (1903) 140 Cal. 339, 342-343, 73 P. 1055 ; Automatic Poultry Feeder Co. v. Wedel (1963) 213 Cal.App.2d 509, 515-516, 28 Cal.Rptr. 795 ; Brown v. Rives (1919) 42 Cal.App. 482, 488-489, 184 P. 32 ; Prosser, Proximate Cause in California, 38 Calif. L. Rev. 369, 374-419 (1950)].

The use of the term "legal cause" has been found to create similar problems. It is frequently understood as a phrase used to distinguish a result brought about by legal (i.e., lawful and permissible) conduct from one brought about by illegal (i.e., wrongful and impermissible) conduct [see Mitchell v. Gonzales (1991) 54 Cal.3d 1041, 1053, 1 Cal.Rptr.2d 913, 819 P.2d 872 ; see also Charrow & Charrow, Making Legal Language Understandable: A Psycholinguistic Study of Jury Instructions, 79 Colum. L. Rev. 1306, 1353 (1979), in which authors reported that 25 percent of subjects participating in study to test comprehensibility of standard jury instructions misconstrued simplified version of BAJI No. 3.75 (6th ed. 1977) that used term "legal cause" in place of "proximate cause" in this manner]. When so understood, the phrase "legal cause" imports a cause that is lawful and, hence, cannot be a basis for liability, a meaning precisely opposite of the one intended. The practice of using labels such as "proximate" and "legal" to distinguish the legal requirement of causation from lay concepts has done nothing but generate confusion. The jurors will be aware that they are being asked to determine questions of causation in the context of a lawsuit; they will be instructed on the legal definition of causation that they are required to apply. There is no reason to believe that they will construe other references to causation as references to some concept other than the legal concept of causation defined in the instructions if they are not qualified with some sort of descriptive label. Accordingly, this instruction does not use a label such as "proximate" or "legal" to refer to the requirement of proximate cause that is defined. Rather, it informs the jury, in clear, simple language, when a breach of contract is considered in law to be the cause of an injury.

The above approach is in accordance with the recommendations made by Charrow and Charrow as a result of their findings on the comprehensibility of the standard causation instructions in former BAJI No. 3.75 and former BAJI No. 3.76 [Charrow & Charrow, Making Legal Language Understandable: A Psycholinguistic Study of Jury Instructions, 79 Colum. L. Rev. 1306, 1352-1353 (1979)]. The findings of Charrow and Charrow, and the confusion resulting from the use of "proximate cause" and "legal cause" were discussed and relied on by the California Supreme Court in disapproving former BAJI No. 3.75 [Mitchell v. Gonzales (1991) 54 Cal.3d 1041, 1053, 1 Cal.Rptr.2d 913, 819 P.2d 872]. The findings of Charrow and Charrow and the decision in Mitchell prompted the withdrawal of BAJI No. 3.75 and the revision of BAJI No. 3.76 [see BAJI (7th ed. Supp. 1992) pp. IX, 34-35].

[d] "Substantial Factor" Formulation of Proximate Cause Requirement

California courts have never insisted on the use of any particular language to define the requirement of proximate cause. Rather, they have acknowledged that it has defied precise definition [Mosley v. Arden Farms Co. (1945) 26 Cal.2d 213, 220-222, 157 P.2d 372 (Traynor, J., conc.) ; Friend & Terry L. Co. v. Miller (1885) 67 Cal. 464, 466-467, 8 P. 40 ; Osborn v. Irwin Memorial Blood Bank (1992) 5 Cal.App.4th 234, 252, 7 Cal.Rptr.2d 101 ; State Compensation Ins. Fund v. Industrial Acci. Com. (1959) 176 Cal.App.2d 10, 20, 1 Cal.Rptr. 73]. In one of the leading cases on the subject, the Supreme Court observed that "The most that has been or that can be done, is to formulate such arbitrary rules as the subject to which they are applied considered, will in the great majority of cases afford such measure of indemnity as the ends of justice will warrant" [Friend & Terry L. Co. v. Miller (1885) 67 Cal. 464, 466, 8 P. 40].

The instruction in [1], above, is based on the "substantial factor" formulation that was initially used by the First Restatement of Torts and has since found widespread acceptance in California decisions. This instruction was found to produce proportionately the most misunderstanding (i.e., the most incorrect responses per variable) of all instructions tested [Charrow & Charrow, Making Legal Language Understandable: A Psycholinguistic Study of Jury Instructions, 79 Colum. L. Rev. 1306, 1352-1353 (1979)].

In dealing with the requirements of cause and proximate cause, the First Restatement of Torts dispensed with both the term "proximate" and the traditional definition of proximate cause as a cause that in a "natural," "continuous," "unbroken" sequence produces injury [Chutuk v. Southern Counties Gas Co. (1942) 21 Cal.2d 372, 380-381, 132 P.2d 193 ; Baillargeon v. Myers (1919) 180 Cal. 504, 508, 182 P. 37]. The Restatement substituted the concept of the "legal cause" of an injury, which it defined as a "substantial factor" in producing the injury [Restatement of Torts §§ 430, 431]. The Restatement formulation of the proximate cause requirement has been frequently endorsed in California decisions [Vesely v. Sager (1971) 5 Cal.3d 153, 163-164, 95 Cal.Rptr. 623, 486 P.2d 151 ; Signorelli v. Potter (1954) 43 Cal.2d 541, 545, 275 P.2d 449 ; Benton v. Sloss (1952) 38 Cal.2d 399, 405, 240 P.2d 575 ; McEvoy v. American Pool Corp. (1948) 32 Cal.2d 295, 298, 195 P.2d 783 ; Maupin v. Widling (1987) 192 Cal.App.3d 568, 575, 237 Cal.Rptr. 521 ; Fraijo v. Hartland Hospital (1979) 99 Cal.App.3d 331, 345-347, 160 Cal.Rptr. 246 ; Thomsen v. Rexall Drug & Chemical Co. (1965) 235 Cal.App.2d 775, 783, 45 Cal.Rptr. 642 ; Tate v. Canonica (1960) 180 Cal.App.2d 898, 909, 5 Cal.Rptr. 28 ; Singh v. Frye (1960) 177 Cal.App.2d 590, 593, 2 Cal.Rptr. 372]. In his classic article on the rule of proximate cause in California, Dean Prosser observed that, for the purpose of submitting issues of factual causation to the jury in intelligible form, it did not appear possible to improve on the Restatement's "substantial factor" formulation [Prosser, Proximate Cause in California, 38 Calif. L. Rev. 369, 421 (1950)]. California appellate courts have never questioned the use of the alternative "substantial factor" instruction [see Espinosa v. Little Co. of Mary Hospital (1995) 31 Cal.App.4th 1304, 1314, 37 Cal.Rptr.2d 541 ; Maupin v. Widling (1987) 192 Cal.App.3d 568, 574-575, 237 Cal.Rptr. 521 ; John B. Gunn Law Corp. v. Maynard (1987) 189 Cal.App.3d 1565, 1571-1573, 235 Cal.Rptr. 180 ; Fraijo v. Hartland Hospital (1979) 99 Cal.App.3d 331, 345-347, 160 Cal.Rptr. 246].

[e] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 350 Introduction to Contract Damages

CACI No. 351 Special Damages

CACI No. 430 Causation: Substantial Factor

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Remedies Compensatory Damages General Overview Torts Negligence Causation Cause in Fact Torts Negligence Causation Proximate Cause General Overview

Scott Noble contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

112 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3E Matthew Bender Contract Damages Instructions

1-3E California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300E.04

MB 300E.04 Damages Not Recoverable Unless Loss or Harm Would Not Have Occurred "But For" Breach

[1] Instruction Damages Not Recoverable Unless Loss or Harm Would Not Have Occurred "But For" Breach

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

If a loss or harm that Plaintiff suffered would have happened even if Defendant had fully performed the contract [he/she/it] made with Plaintiff [or that was made for Plaintiff's benefit], then any breach of that contract by Defendant may not be considered in law to be a substantial factor in bringing about that loss or harm and therefore may not be considered to be a cause of that loss or harm.

Authorities: Signorelli v. Potter (1954) 43 Cal.2d 541, 545, 275 P.2d 449 ; McDonald v. John P. Scripps Newspaper (1989) 210 Cal.App.3d 100, 105, 257 Cal.Rptr. 473 ; Metzenbaum v. R.O.S. Associates (1986) 188 Cal.App.3d 202, 211-214, 232 Cal.Rptr. 741 ; Vecchione v. Carlin (1980) 111 Cal.App.3d 351, 168 Cal.Rptr. 571 ; Self v. General Motors Corp. (1974) 42 Cal.App.3d 1, 10, 116 Cal.Rptr. 575 ; Camper v. McDermott (1968) 266 Cal.App.2d 41, 46, 71 Cal.Rptr. 590 ; Southhall v. Security Title Ins. Etc. Co. (1952) 112 Cal.App.2d 321, 323-324, 246 P.2d 74 ; Feldesman v. McGovern (1941) 44 Cal.App.2d 566, 568-569, 112 P.2d 645 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction on the so-called "but for" or cause-in-fact rule should be used when there is evidence that the loss or harm at issue was produced by an independent cause, unrelated to any breach of contract, and would have occurred even if the contract had been fully performed. The instruction should be given immediately after the basic instruction on cause and proximate cause in MB 300E.03.

This instruction is an alternative to the instruction on concurrent causes in MB 300E.05. In general, this instruction is proper unless there is evidence that two or more independent causes, operating concurrently, combined to produce the loss or harm at issue, and that either of these causes, operating alone, would have produced the loss or harm. In this latter situation, the concurrent cause instruction should be given. For a more detailed discussion of concurrent causes, see [3], below, and MB 300E.05[3].

When feasible, this instruction should be particularized by substituting specific references to the particular contract that is the basis for the claim and the particular element or elements of loss or harm at issue. Particularization is especially appropriate when there is evidence that some, but not all, of the elements of loss or harm that the plaintiff claims to have suffered would have occurred even if the contract had been performed.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][c], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Structure "But For" Into Closing: "But for" is a concept that most jurors will understand and be able to apply. Hence, structure your closing accordingly.
By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--"Substantial Factor" Can Be Plaintiff's Counter to "Damages Would Have Happened Anyway": Causation can be an issue in cases involving consequential damages when a breach of contract allegedly results in loss of other contracts, other customers, or even plaintiff's ability to continue in business. This instruction provides that if defendant can show the damage would have happened anyway, there can be no recovery. To counter this defense, plaintiff need only prove that the breach was a substantial factor, not the sole factor in causing the consequential damages. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Nature and Scope of "But For" Rule

The "but for" rule precludes the recovery of damages for a loss or harm unless the breach at issue was a necessary antecedent of that loss or harm, that is, unless the loss or harm would not have occurred "but for" the breach. Under the "but for" rule, if a loss or harm would have occurred even if a legal or contractual obligation had been fully performed, a breach of that obligation cannot be considered to be a cause of that loss or harm [Signorelli v. Potter (1954) 43 Cal.2d 541, 545, 275 P.2d 449 ; Burt v. Bank of California Nat'l Assn. (1931) 211 Cal. 548, 550, 296 P. 68 ; McDonald v. John P. Scripps Newspaper (1989) 210 Cal.App.3d 100, 105, 257 Cal.Rptr. 473 ; Southall v. Security Title Ins. Etc. Co. (1952) 112 Cal.App.2d 321, 323-324, 246 P.2d 74 ; Feldesman v. McGovern (1941) 44 Cal.App.2d 566, 568-569, 112 P.2d 645 ; McVay v. Central California Inv. Co. (1907) 6 Cal.App. 184, 188-189, 91 P. 745 ; Restatement (Second) of Torts § 432, subd. 1, p. 430 (1979)].

The "but for" rule expresses a requirement of cause-in-fact that is generally essential to a determination that a breach of an obligation proximately caused a loss or harm [Signorelli v. Potter (1954) 43 Cal.2d 541, 545, 275 P.2d 449 ; Burt v. Bank of California Nat. Assn. (1931) 211 Cal. 548, 557, 296 P. 68 ; Metzenbaum v. R.O.S. Associates (1986) 188 Cal.App.3d 202, 211-214, 232 Cal.Rptr. 741 ; Vecchione v. Carlin (1980) 111 Cal.App.3d 351, 359, 168 Cal.Rptr. 571 ; Self v. General Motors Corp. (1974) 42 Cal.App.3d 1, 10, 116 Cal.Rptr. 575 ; Camper v. McDermott (1968) 266 Cal.App.2d 41, 46, 71 Cal.Rptr. 590 ; Southall v. Security Title Ins. Etc. Co. (1952) 112 Cal.App.2d 321, 323-324, 246 P.2d 74 ; Feldesman v. McGovern (1941) 44 Cal.App.2d 566, 568-569, 112 P.2d 645 ; McVay v. Central California Inv. Co. (1907) 6 Cal.App. 184, 188-189, 91 P. 745]. The only significant exception to the "but for" rule is the "concurrent causes" rule first enunciated in Thomsen v. Rexall Drug & Chemical Co. [Thomsen v. Rexall Drug & Chemical Co. (1965) 235 Cal.App.2d 775, 782-783, 45 Cal.Rptr. 642]. Under this rule, when the breach of an obligation and an independent cause that is operating concurrently combine to bring about a loss or harm and when both the breach and the independent cause would have been sufficient, operating alone, to cause the loss or harm, the defendant will not be relieved of liability because the loss or harm would have occurred even if the obligation had not been breached [Vecchione v. Carlin (1980) 111 Cal.App.3d 351, 359, 168 Cal.Rptr. 571 ; Thomsen v. Rexall Drug & Chemical Co. (1965) 235 Cal.App.2d 775, 782-783, 45 Cal.Rptr. 642 ; Restatement (Second) of Torts § 432(2), p. 430 (1979)]. The "concurrent causes" rule is discussed more fully in MB 300E.05.

[b] Necessity of Instructing on "But For" Rule

Except in those cases when the Thomsen "concurrent causes" rule applies [Thomsen v. Rexall Drug & Chemical Co. (1965) 235 Cal.App.2d 775, 45 Cal.Rptr. 642 ; see [a], above, and MB 300E.05], a specific instruction on the "but for" rule is proper [McGee v. Cessna Aircraft Co. (1983) 139 Cal.App.3d 179, 190-191, 188 Cal.Rptr. 542 ; Vecchione v. Carlin (1980) 111 Cal.App.3d 351, 359, 168 Cal.Rptr. 571 ; Self v. General Motors Corp. (1974) 42 Cal.App.3d 1, 10, 116 Cal.Rptr. 575], and a failure to specifically instruct the jury on the "but for" rule will constitute reversible error when there are substantial cause-in-fact issues [McGee v. Cessna Aircraft Co. (1983) 139 Cal.App.3d 179, 190-191, 188 Cal.Rptr. 542 ; Self v. General Motors Corp. (1974) 42 Cal.App.3d 1, 10-11, 116 Cal.Rptr. 575]. This is so even when the jury is otherwise instructed that a breach of an obligation is the legal cause of a loss or injury only if it was a substantial factor in bringing about that loss or harm [McGee v. Cessna Aircraft Co. (1983) 139 Cal.App.3d 179, 190-191, 188 Cal.Rptr. 542 ; Self v. General Motors Corp. (1974) 42 Cal.App.3d 1, 10, 116 Cal.Rptr. 575].

The court in Self v. General Motors Corp. [Self v. General Motors Corp. (1974) 42 Cal.App.3d 1, 10, 116 Cal.Rptr. 575] held that the trial court prejudicially erred not only in refusing to instruct the jury on the "but for" rule but in refusing a particularized instruction applying the rule to the central causation issue in the case. The instruction read: "If you find that the gasoline tank in the 1962 Chevrolet station wagon was improperly located, but that the fire would have occurred even if the tank had been properly located, its location was not a substantial factor in bringing about the fire and was, therefore, not a contributing cause thereof." The court specifically noted the importance of particularizing causation instructions [Self v. General Motors Corp. (1974) 42 Cal.App.3d 1, 10, 116 Cal.Rptr. 575].

[c] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 350 Introduction to Contract Damages

CACI No. 351 Special Damages

CACI No. 430 Causation: Substantial Factor

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Remedies Compensatory Damages General Overview Torts Negligence Causation Cause in Fact

Scott Noble contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

113 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3E Matthew Bender Contract Damages Instructions

1-3E California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300E.05

MB 300E.05 Concurrent Causes

[1] Instruction Concurrent Causes

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

In law, more than one act, omission, or event may be considered to be a cause of loss or harm. The fact that an independent cause that was operating at the same time caused or would have caused a loss or harm claimed by Plaintiff does not necessarily mean that a breach of contract cannot also be considered to be a cause of that loss or harm.

If a breach of contract by Defendant actually caused some loss or harm to Plaintiff or if it would have caused that loss or harm if the independent cause was not operating, the breach of contract is considered in law to be a cause of that loss or harm as long as it was or would have been a substantial factor in bringing it about. This is so even if the independent cause would have produced the loss or harm suffered by Plaintiff if the contract had been fully performed.

Authorities: Bromme v. Pavitt (1992) 5 Cal.App.4th 1487, 1498, 1507, 7 Cal.Rptr.2d 608 ; John B. Gunn Law Corp. v. Maynard (1987) 189 Cal.App.3d 1565, 1571-1573, 235 Cal.Rptr. 180 ; McGee v. Cessna Aircraft Co. (1983) 139 Cal.App.3d 179, 190-191, 188 Cal.Rptr. 542 ; Vecchione v. Carlin (1980) 111 Cal.App.3d 351, 358-359, 168 Cal.Rptr. 571 ; Hart v. Browne (1980) 103 Cal.App.3d 947, 959-962, 163 Cal.Rptr. 356 ; Fraijo v. Hartland Hospital (1979) 99 Cal.App.3d 331, 346-347, 160 Cal.Rptr. 246 ; Seaboard Music Co. v. Germano (1972) 24 Cal.App.3d 618, 622, 101 Cal.Rptr. 255 ; State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Allstate Ins. Co. (1970) 9 Cal.App.3d 508, 528, 88 Cal.Rptr. 246 ; Northwestern Title Security Co. v. Flack (1970) 6 Cal.App.3d 134, 146, 85 Cal.Rptr. 693 ; McDonald v. Schwartz (1966) 239 Cal.App.2d 900, 905-906, 49 Cal.Rptr. 242 ; Thomsen v. Rexall Drug & Chemical Co. (1965) 235 Cal.App.2d 775, 783, 45 Cal.Rptr. 642 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction, on the rule of concurrent causes established by Thomsen v. Rexall Drug & Chemical Co. [Thomsen v. Rexall Drug & Chemical Co. (1965) 235 Cal.App.2d 775, 45 Cal.Rptr. 642], a negligence action, should be given immediately following the general instruction on cause and proximate cause in MB 300E.03. This rule is applicable only when there is evidence that both the breach and some other unrelated cause operating at the same time would have been sufficient to bring about the loss or harm at issue if they had been operating alone. When this instruction is given, it may be reversible error to give a proximate cause instruction using the traditional "natural, continuous, unbroken sequence" formulation rather than the "substantial factor" formulation embodied in the general instruction in MB 300E.03.

There is no direct California authority declaring this rule to be applicable in an action for breach of contract, and the instruction should be used with caution [see [3][a], below].

If the concurrent causes instruction is applicable, the jury should not be instructed on the "but for" rule [see MB 300E.04].

Whenever feasible, this instruction should be particularized by substituting specific references to the contract at issue, the particular items or elements of loss or harm claimed to have been produced by some cause other than the breach, and the independent cause claimed to have produced the loss or harm at issue in the second paragraph.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tips--Explain Carefully in Closing and Do Not Give with "But For" Instruction: This instruction could be very confusing and will strike some jurors as counterintuitive. If given, the instruction should be carefully explained in closing argument. Also, note that this instruction should not be given along with the "but for" instruction [see MB 300E.04], which sets up a different test of causation that conflicts with this instruction. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tips--Keep in Mind Difficulty of Concept: "Concurrent causation" is hard for attorneys and judges to apply and to understand. Remember that when fashioning your closing. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Nature and Scope of "Concurrent Causes" Rule

The case of Thomsen v. Rexall Drug & Chemical Co. [Thomsen v. Rexall Drug & Chemical Co. (1965) 235 Cal.App.2d 775, 783, 45 Cal.Rptr. 642] recognized a narrow exception to the "but for" rule of causation. It held that when a defendant's breach of a duty and an independent, unrelated concurrent cause combine to produce an injury and when both the breach and the independent cause would have produced the injury if they had been operating alone, the defendant will not be absolved of liability on the ground that the injury would have occurred without the breach. The breach will be deemed to be a proximate cause of the injury if it was otherwise a substantial factor in bringing it about. The validity of the Thomsen rule in tort cases is now well established [Bromme v. Pavitt (1992) 5 Cal.App.4th 1487, 1498, 7 Cal.Rptr.2d 608 ; McGee v. Cessna Aircraft Co. (1983) 139 Cal.App.3d 179, 190-191, 188 Cal.Rptr. 542 ; Vecchione v. Carlin (1980) 111 Cal.App.3d 351, 358-359, 168 Cal.Rptr. 571 ; Hart v. Browne (1980) 103 Cal.App.3d 947, 959-962, 163 Cal.Rptr. 356 ; Fraijo v. Hartland Hospital (1979) 99 Cal.App.3d 331, 346-347, 160 Cal.Rptr. 246 ; McDonald v. Schwartz (1966) 239 Cal.App.2d 900, 905-906, 49 Cal.Rptr. 242 ; Restatement (Second) of Torts § 432(2) (1979)].

No subsequent California appellate decisions have considered the nature or scope of the Thomsen rule in the context of an action for breach of contract. However, the Thomsen case assumes that the plaintiff was entitled to recover on a breach of warranty theory as well as on a negligence theory. Additionally, the rule adopted by the Thomsen court is based on a determination of the scope and meaning of the statutory requirement of proximate cause contained in Civ. Code § 3333 and the proximate cause requirement imposed by Civ. Code § 3300 has been held to be the same as that imposed by Civ. Code § 3333 [Seaboard Music Co. v. Germano (1972) 24 Cal.App.3d 618, 622, 101 Cal.Rptr. 255 ; State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Allstate Ins. Co. (1970) 9 Cal.App.3d 508, 528, 88 Cal.Rptr. 246 ; Northwestern Title Security Co. v. Flack (1970) 6 Cal.App.3d 134, 146, 85 Cal.Rptr. 693]. Therefore, the Thomsen rule should apply to a determination of whether loss or harm was proximately caused by a breach of contract.

[b] Instructions on "Concurrent Causes"

It has been held that it is reversible error to instruct the jury on the "but for" rule rather than the "concurrent causes" rule when there is evidence that either the breach at issue or an independent concurrent cause would have been sufficient, operating alone, to bring about the plaintiff's injuries [John B. Gunn Law Corp. v. Maynard (1987) 189 Cal.App.3d 1565, 1571-1573, 235 Cal.Rptr. 180 ; Hart v. Browne (1980) 103 Cal.App.3d 947, 959-962, 163 Cal.Rptr. 356]. On the other hand, unless there is evidence that both the breach and an independent concurrent cause would have been sufficient in and of themselves to cause the injury, it is improper to instruct the jury on the concurrent causes rule [Vecchione v. Carlin (1980) 111 Cal.App.3d 351, 359, 168 Cal.Rptr. 571].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Remedies Compensatory Damages General Overview Torts Negligence Causation Proximate Cause Concurrent Causation

Scott Noble contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

114 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3E Matthew Bender Contract Damages Instructions

1-3E California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300E.06

MB 300E.06 Damage Must Be Reasonably Certain; Certainty as to Amount Not Required

[1] Instruction Damage Must Be Reasonably Certain; Certainty as to Amount Not Required

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff is not entitled to recover damages for a particular loss or type of harm unless [he/she/it] proves that it is reasonably certain that [he/she/it] has suffered [or will suffer] such a loss or type of harm as a result of a breach by Defendant. However, once Plaintiff proves that it is reasonably certain that [he/she/it] has suffered [or will suffer] a particular loss or type of harm as a result of a breach by Defendant, the law does not require Plaintiff to prove the exact amount of that loss or harm.

If it is reasonably certain that [he/she/it] has suffered [or will suffer] a particular loss or type of harm as a result of a breach by Defendant, Plaintiff is entitled to recover damages for that loss or harm as long as there is some reasonable basis for estimating or approximating the amount of the loss or harm. Plaintiff may not be denied damages merely because the amount of the loss or harm is uncertain or difficult to determine.

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 3283, 3301; Cal. Lettuce Growers v. Union Sugar Co. (1955) 45 Cal.2d 474, 487, 289 P.2d 785 ; Stott v. Johnston (1951) 36 Cal.2d 864, 875, 229 P.2d 348 ; Acree v. General Motors Acceptance Corp. (2001) 92 Cal.App.4th 385, 396-398, 112 Cal.Rptr.2d 99 ; Ericson v. Playgirl, Inc. (1977) 73 Cal.App.3d 850, 854-855, 140 Cal.Rptr. 921 ; Guntert v. City of Stockton (1976) 55 Cal.App.3d 131, 143, 126 Cal.Rptr. 690 ; Carpenter Foundation v. Oakes (1972) 26 Cal.App.3d 784, 799-800, 103 Cal.Rptr. 368 ; Mendoyoma, Inc. v. County of Mendocino (1970) 8 Cal.App.3d 873, 880-881, 87 Cal.Rptr. 740 ; Israel v. Campbell (1958) 163 Cal.App.2d 806, 816, 330 P.2d 83 ; Noble v. Tweedy (1949) 90 Cal.App.2d 738, 744-746, 203 P.2d 778 ; see Vestar Development v. General Dynamics Corp. (9th Cir. 2001) 249 F.3d 958, 961-962 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is an issue in the case as to the statutory rules prohibiting the recovery of damages for items or elements of damage that are uncertain, speculative, or hypothetical [see Civ. Code §§ 3301, 3283]. Because the plaintiff has the burden of proving the nature and extent of the damages caused by a defendant's breach of contract, this instruction should be given whenever a defendant contends that the plaintiff has failed to prove with the requisite degree of certainty some or all of the items or elements of damage for which recovery is sought. It should be given immediately following the instructions on causation in MB 300E.03-MB 300E.05.

This instruction is not intended to cover fully a situation in which the amount of damages may be contingent on future events. If a claim is made that the damages may be increased or decreased as a result of the occurrence or nonoccurrence of some future event, counsel should consider requesting the instructions on contingencies affecting the amount of damage in MB 300E.07 and MB 300E.08 in addition to this instruction.

Although the law is not entirely clear on this point, it does not appear that Civ. Code §§ 3301 and 3283 affect the quantum of proof or evidence necessary to establish the nature and extent of the plaintiff's damages. The intent of these statutes seems to be to require the plaintiff to establish, as a certain and definite fact rather than as a hypothesis or surmise, that the damages sought actually have been or will be sustained. Accordingly, it is recommended that the jury also be instructed that the plaintiff has the burden of proving the nature and extent of the damages claimed by a preponderance of the evidence [see Ch. 2, California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions, CACI No. 200 ("More Likely True than Not True")].

When the plaintiff is seeking to recover for future losses or damages, the bracketed "[or will suffer]" alternatives should be used. Whenever feasible, this instruction should be particularized by substituting specific references to the items or elements of damage at issue (e.g., a loss of profits, a decrease in the fair market value of the property) for the general references to a particular loss or type of harm.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][e], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tips--Plaintiff's Counsel Should Explain Rationale; Defense Can Use Instruction to Cast Doubt: This is a very important instruction for the plaintiff. The thrust of the instruction is that once plaintiff establishes with reasonable certainty that plaintiff has been damaged, then plaintiff is entitled to estimate or approximate the amount of that damage. In closing argument, plaintiff's counsel should take time to explain the rationale behind the rule: In many cases, the breach of contract by the defendant prevents the plaintiff (and the jury) from knowing exactly what would have happened. By allowing plaintiff to estimate or approximate the loss, this rule prevents the defendant from unfairly benefitting from this situation.

Conversely, this instruction is often a good way for the defense to cast doubt on the plaintiff's claim for damages. So, if you are the defense counsel, strongly consider how to take advantage of this instruction.
By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Certainty as to Damages Already Sustained

Civ. Code § 3301 provides that damages may not be recovered in an action for breach of contract unless they are "clearly ascertainable in both their nature and origin." Although such a requirement is not found in the language of the statute, California courts (probably for want of a more precise or suitable way of paraphrasing what is essentially a rule prohibiting speculative or hypothetical damages) have consistently stated that Civ. Code § 3301 requires the plaintiff to prove "with reasonable certainty" that the elements of damage for which recovery is sought were in fact suffered and were in fact caused by the defendant's breach of contract [Stott v. Johnston (1951) 36 Cal.2d 864, 875, 229 P.2d 348 ; GHK Associates v. Mayer Group, Inc. (1990) 224 Cal.App.3d 856, 873, 274 Cal.Rptr. 168 ; Ericson v. Playgirl, Inc. (1977) 73 Cal.App.3d 850, 854-855, 140 Cal.Rptr. 921 ; Carpenter Foundation v. Oakes (1972) 26 Cal.App.3d 784, 799-800, 103 Cal.Rptr. 368 ; Mendoyoma, Inc. v. County of Mendocino (1970) 8 Cal.App.3d 873, 880-881, 87 Cal.Rptr. 740 ; Walnut Creek Pipe Distributors, Inc. v. Gates Rubber Co. (1964) 228 Cal.App.2d 810, 819, 39 Cal.Rptr. 767 ; see Vestar Development v. General Dynamics Corp. (9th Cir. 2001) 249 F.3d 958, 961-962 (district court properly dismissed action for breach of agreement to negotiate when only damages sought were lost profits, which could not be proven with reasonable certainty as required by Civ. Code § 3301)].

The requirement that the plaintiff establish the elements of the damages claimed with "reasonable certainty" is limited to a showing of the existence and cause of the damages. Once the plaintiff proves the existence and cause of damages, recovery will not be denied because the amount of damages is uncertain, contingent, or difficult to determine [Cal. Lettuce Growers v. Union Sugar Co. (1955) 45 Cal.2d 474, 487, 289 P.2d 785 ; Stott v. Johnston (1951) 36 Cal.2d 864, 875, 229 P.2d 348 ; Pacific Etc. Co. v. Packers' Assn. (1903) 138 Cal. 632, 638, 72 P. 161 ; DuBarry Internat., Inc. v. Southwest Forest Industries, Inc. (1991) 231 Cal.App.3d 552, 562-563, 282 Cal.Rptr. 181 ; Guntert v. City of Stockton (1976) 55 Cal.App.3d 131, 143, 126 Cal.Rptr. 690 ; Israel v. Campbell (1958) 163 Cal.App.2d 806, 816, 330 P.2d 83]. All that is required is that there be some reasonable basis for estimating or approximating the amount [Western Union Tel. Co. v. Commercial Pac. C. Co. (1918) 177 Cal. 577, 585, 171 P. 317 ; Pacific Etc. Co. v. Packers' Assn. (1903) 138 Cal. 632, 638, 72 P. 161 ; Acree v. General Motors Acceptance Corp. (2001) 92 Cal.App.4th 385, 396-398, 112 Cal.Rptr.2d 99 (jury was presented with reasonable basis for computing damages resulting from contract breach involving method used to calculate premium refunds); GHK Associates v. Mayer Group, Inc. (1990) 224 Cal.App.3d 856, 873, 274 Cal.Rptr. 168 ; DuBarry Internat., Inc. v. Southwest Forest Industries, Inc. (1991) 231 Cal.App.3d 552, 562-563, 282 Cal.Rptr. 181 ; Guntert v. City of Stockton (1976) 55 Cal.App.3d 131, 143, 126 Cal.Rptr. 690 ; Israel v. Campbell (1958) 163 Cal.App.2d 806, 816, 330 P.2d 83 ; Allen v. Gardner (1954) 126 Cal.App.2d 335, 340-342, 272 P.2d 99].

[b] Certainty as to Future Damages

Civ. Code § 3283 applies to both breach of contract and tort actions [Brix v. Peoples Mut. Life Ins. Co. (1935) 2 Cal.2d 446, 452-453, 41 P.2d 537]. It authorizes an award of damages "for detriment ... certain to result in the future." Notwithstanding the difference in the language contained in the two statutes, Civ. Code § 3283 has been held to impose essentially the same requirements as Civ. Code § 3301. It precludes the plaintiff from recovering for prospective injury unless the nature, existence, and cause of future damages is proven "with reasonable certainty" [Caminetti v. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. (1943) 23 Cal.2d 94, 103, 142 P.2d 741 ; Fisher v. Hampton (1975) 44 Cal.App.3d 741, 748, 118 Cal.Rptr. 811 ; Noble v. Tweedy (1949) 90 Cal.App.2d 738, 745, 203 P.2d 778 ; Parsell v. San Diego Consol. G. & E. Co. (1941) 46 Cal.App.2d 212, 216, 115 P.2d 539]. However, once it is reasonably certain that the plaintiff will suffer a particular element of damages in the future, uncertainty as to the amount of those damages will not bar recovery [Seymour v. Oelrichs (1909) 156 Cal. 782, 803, 106 P. 88 , disapproved on other grounds, Sterling v. Taylor (2007) 40 Cal. 4th 757, 770 ; Guntert v. City of Stockton (1976) 55 Cal.App.3d 131, 143, 126 Cal.Rptr. 690 ; Fisher v. Hampton (1975) 44 Cal.App.3d 741, 748, 118 Cal.Rptr. 811 ; Noble v. Tweedy (1949) 90 Cal.App.2d 738, 745, 203 P.2d 778].

[c] Burden of Proof

The authority on this point indicates that a requirement that elements of damage be shown with "reasonable certainty" is one that relates to what plaintiff is required to prove and not to the quantum of evidence required to prove it. That is, it is an element of the plaintiff's case that it is reasonably certain that the plaintiff sustained the damages for which recovery is sought, but the plaintiff is only required to establish this element by a preponderance of the evidence [Khan v. Southern Pac. Co. (1955) 132 Cal.App.2d 410, 416, 282 P.2d 78 ; Parsell v. San Diego Consol. G. & E. Co. (1941) 46 Cal.App.2d 212, 216, 115 P.2d 539].

[d] Instructing on Requirement of Certainty

Although appellate courts have occasionally held that the evidence presented at trial was legally insufficient to establish the requisite degree of certainty [Bellman v. San Francisco H. S. Dist. (1938) 11 Cal.2d 576, 588-589, 81 P.2d 894 ; Ericson v. Playgirl, Inc. (1977) 73 Cal.App.3d 850, 854-855, 140 Cal.Rptr. 921], the determination of whether the plaintiff has shown claimed elements of damage with "reasonable certainty" is generally regarded as one to be made by the trier of fact [Varjabedian v. Madera (1977) 20 Cal.3d 285, 294-295, 142 Cal.Rptr. 429, 572 P.2d 43 ; Pacific Etc. Co. v. Packers' Assn. (1903) 138 Cal. 632, 637-638, 72 P. 161 ; Fisher v. Hampton (1975) 44 Cal.App.3d 741, 748-750, 118 Cal.Rptr. 811 ; Carpenter Foundation v. Oakes (1972) 26 Cal.App.3d 784, 800, 103 Cal.Rptr. 368 ; Khan v. Southern Pac. Co. (1955) 132 Cal.App.2d 410, 416-417, 282 P.2d 78 ; Bauman v. San Francisco (1940) 42 Cal.App.2d 144, 163-164, 108 P.2d 989]. A failure to instruct the jury, on request, as to a requirement that elements of damage be established with reasonable certainty is probably error [see Melone v. Sierra Railway Co. (1907) 151 Cal. 113, 116-117, 91 P. 522 ; Christy v. City of Alhambra (1935) 9 Cal.App.2d 499, 503, 50 P.2d 454 ; Lindner v. Barkley (1930) 109 Cal.App. 337, 293 P. 112 ; Hasty v. Trevillian (1929) 102 Cal.App. 405, 410-411, 283 P. 148], although it is likely to be regarded as harmless if the instructions as a whole adequately inform the jury that an element of damages must be established as a definite fact and that an award may not be based on speculation [see Pacific Etc. Co. v. Packers' Assn. (1903) 138 Cal. 632, 637-638, 72 P. 161 ; Christy v. City of Alhambra (1935) 9 Cal.App.2d 499, 503, 50 P.2d 454 ; Lindner v. Barkley (1930) 109 Cal.App. 337, 293 P. 112 ; Hasty v. Trevillian (1929) 102 Cal.App. 405, 410-411, 283 P. 148].

[e] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 350 Introduction to Contract Damages

CACI No. 351 Special Damages

CACI No. 352 Loss of Profits--No Profits Earned

CACI No. 353 Loss of Profits--Some Profits Earned

CACI No. 358 Mitigation of Damages

CACI No. 359 Present Cash Value of Future Damages

CACI No. 360 Nominal Damages

CACI No. 361 Plaintiff May Not Recover Duplicate Contract and Tort Damages

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Remedies Compensatory Damages General Overview Evidence Procedural Considerations Burdens of Proof Allocation Torts Damages Compensatory Damages Pain & Suffering Future Pain & Suffering Torts Damages Proof

Scott Noble contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

115 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3E Matthew Bender Contract Damages Instructions

1-3E California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300E.07

MB 300E.07 Effect of Contingencies That May Increase Future Damages

[1] Instruction Effect of Contingencies That May Increase Future Damages

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

In determining the amount of damages that will compensate Plaintiff for loss or harm that [he/she/it] is reasonably certain to suffer in the future, you may not consider the effect of possible future events that could increase Plaintiff's damages unless you find that it is reasonably certain that those events will occur.

Authorities: Guntert v. City of Stockton (1976) 55 Cal.App.3d 131, 150-153, 127 Cal.Rptr. 602 ; Fisher v. Hampton (1975) 44 Cal.App.3d 741, 748, 118 Cal.Rptr. 811 ; Meyers v. Nolan (1936) 18 Cal.App.2d 319, 324, 63 P.2d 1216 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the plaintiff seeks to recover damages for future loss or harm and when there is evidence or argument concerning contingencies that may increase the amount of any future loss or harm. It is set forth as a separate instruction to make it clear to the jury that the requirement that future damages be established with reasonable certainty applies to proof of the extent of such damages and is not satisfied merely by a showing that some future damages will result.

This instruction should be given immediately after the general instruction on the requirement that future damages be established with reasonable certainty [see MB 300E.06].

The instruction may be particularized by substituting specific references to the contingencies at issue for the general references to possible future events.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][f], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Defense's Use of "Reasonably Certain": The concept of "reasonably certain" will be challenging to some jurors. However, it is a concept that can often be used skillfully by defense counsel. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Expert Testimony: This instruction can be used to take into account the effects of inflation and other future economic factors. To be persuasive, expert testimony will probably be required. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Right to Damages for Future Injury

Civ. Code § 3283 expressly authorizes the recovery of damages "for detriment ... certain to result in the future." By virtue of its provisions, the damages that may be recovered for a breach of contract include damages for future losses or harm that will result from the breach [Caminetti v. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. (1943) 23 Cal.2d 94, 104-110, 142 P.2d 741 ; Cleaning & P. Co. v. Hollywood L. Service (1932) 217 Cal. 131, 134, 17 P.2d 712 ; Guntert v. City of Stockton (1976) 55 Cal.App.3d 131, 150, 126 Cal.Rptr. 690].

When there is an anticipatory or other total breach of a contract, recoverable future damages include damages for the value of performance of obligations that, under the terms of the contract, are due to be performed at some point in the future [Caminetti v. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. (1943) 23 Cal.2d 94, 104-110, 142 P.2d 741 ; Guntert v. City of Stockton (1976) 55 Cal.App.3d 131, 150, 127 Cal.Rptr. 602 ; Daum Development Corp. v. Yuba Plaza, Inc. (1970) 11 Cal.App.3d 65, 76-77, 89 Cal.Rptr. 458]. However, when there is only a partial breach, or when the plaintiff has elected to treat a breach as a partial breach, the plaintiff may not recover damages for the anticipated breach of obligations that have not become due under the contract [Coughlin v. Blair (1953) 41 Cal.2d 587, 598-599, 262 P.2d 305 ; Guntert v. City of Stockton (1976) 55 Cal.App.3d 131, 150-151, 126 Cal.Rptr. 690].

[b] Contingencies Affecting Future Damages

An award of damages may not be predicated on the possible occurrence of some future event that would have increased the benefits the plaintiff would have obtained from performance or that may otherwise increase the plaintiff's damages [Guntert v. City of Stockton (1976) 55 Cal.App.3d 131, 150-153, 126 Cal.Rptr. 690 ; Fisher v. Hampton (1975) 44 Cal.App.3d 741, 748, 118 Cal.Rptr. 811 ; Meyers v. Nolan (1936) 18 Cal.App.2d 319, 324, 63 P.2d 1216]. Put another way, damages that will only be sustained on the happening of some future event are not reasonably certain to occur unless the event itself is reasonably certain to occur [Guntert v. City of Stockton (1976) 55 Cal.App.3d 131, 150-153, 126 Cal.Rptr. 690 ; Fisher v. Hampton (1975) 44 Cal.App.3d 741, 748, 118 Cal.Rptr. 811 ; Meyers v. Nolan (1936) 18 Cal.App.2d 319, 324, 63 P.2d 1216].

[c] Reduction to Present Cash Value

Damages that may be awarded to compensate a plaintiff for a loss that will be suffered in the future are limited to the present cash value of the amount required to compensate the plaintiff at the time the loss occurs [Caminetti v. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. (1943) 23 Cal.2d 94, 104-110, 142 P.2d 741 ; Daum Development Corp. v. Yuba Plaza, Inc. (1970) 11 Cal.App.3d 65, 76-77, 89 Cal.Rptr. 458 ; Noble v. Tweedy (1949) 90 Cal.App.2d 738, 744-748, 203 P.2d 778]. The present cash value of an element of future damage is the amount which, together with the investment income earned in the interim, will be sufficient to fully compensate plaintiff for the future loss or harm when it occurs [see Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Geher (9th Cir. 1931) 50 F.2d 657, 659-660 ; Caminetti v. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. (1943) 23 Cal.2d 94, 104-110, 142 P.2d 741 ; Fox v. Pacific Southwest Airlines (1982) 133 Cal.App.3d 565, 568-570, 184 Cal.Rptr. 87 ; Wilson v. Gilbert (1972) 25 Cal.App.3d 607, 613-614, 102 Cal.Rptr. 31 ; Daum Development Corp. v. Yuba Plaza, Inc. (1970) 11 Cal.App.3d 65, 76-77, 89 Cal.Rptr. 458].

The case law reflects two radically different approaches to the determination of present value. One line of cases holds that the present value of future damages should be determined by discounting them at the legal interest rate, i.e., by assuming that the plaintiff will earn a rate of return equal to the legal interest rate by investing a lump-sum award [see Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Geher (9th Cir. 1931) 50 F.2d 657, 659-660]. This approach has been used in cases involving the determination of damages for anticipatory breach of a contract to pay specific sums or to furnish goods or services at a specific price in the future [Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Geher (9th Cir. 1931) 50 F.2d 657, 659-660 ; Caminetti v. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. (1943) 23 Cal.2d 94, 104-110, 142 P.2d 741 ; Daum Development Corp. v. Yuba Plaza, Inc. (1970) 11 Cal.App.3d 65, 76-77, 89 Cal.Rptr. 458 ; see Noble v. Tweedy (1949) 90 Cal.App.2d 738, 744-748, 203 P.2d 778]. Although this approach, like the legal interest rate, may not be firmly grounded in present-day economic reality, it does have the virtue of supplying some degree of consistency to the assumptions made by the law about the value of the use of money.

Another line of cases holds that the present value of future damages should be determined by discounting them at the prevailing market rates established by the evidence, i.e., by assuming that the plaintiff will earn a rate of return equal to the highest obtainable market rate for a reasonably secure investment by investing a lump-sum award. This approach, used primarily in personal injury and wrongful death cases, views the determination of present value as a factual question, the resolution of which is committed to the sound discretion of the trier of fact [Canavin v. Pacific Southwest Airlines (1983) 148 Cal.App.3d 512, 520-524, 196 Cal.Rptr. 82 ; Stratton v. Tejani (1982) 139 Cal.App.3d 204, 213, 187 Cal.Rptr. 231 ; Fox v. Pacific Southwest Airlines (1982) 133 Cal.App.3d 565, 568-570, 184 Cal.Rptr. 87 ; Deshotel v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. (1956) 144 Cal.App.2d 224, 229-231, 300 P.2d 910 ; Emery v. Southern Cal. Gas Co. (1946) 72 Cal.App.2d 821, 823-826, 165 P.2d 695].

Under this approach, the parties have a right to present evidence of the actual value of the use of damages awardable for future injuries and computations of present value based on that evidence [Stratton v. Tejani (1982) 139 Cal.App.3d 204, 213, 187 Cal.Rptr. 231 ; Fox v. Pacific Southwest Airlines (1982) 133 Cal.App.3d 565, 568-570, 184 Cal.Rptr. 87 ; Emery v. Southern Cal. Gas Co. (1946) 72 Cal.App.2d 821, 823-826, 165 P.2d 695]. In the absence of some evidentiary basis for a computation of present value, the jury need not be instructed on the standards for determining present value [Wilson v. Gilbert (1972) 25 Cal.App.3d 607, 613-614, 102 Cal.Rptr. 31].

It seems inconsistent to use the legal interest rate to establish the damages that the plaintiff sustained by being denied the use of monies wrongfully withheld [see Civ. Code §§ 3287, 3302] and a substantially higher market rate to determine the value of the use of monies to be awarded the plaintiff for prospective injuries [see Stratton v. Tejani (1982) 139 Cal.App.3d 204, 213, 187 Cal.Rptr. 231 (specific performance action in which court held that equitable considerations required use of actual market rates in determining offset reflecting value of interim use of purchase monies retained by buyer as well as discount to be made in determining buyer's prospective damages)].

[d] Consideration of Inflation and Economic Trends

A consideration that is frequently overlooked is the fact that the determination of damages for prospective injuries is a two-step process. The ultimate goal is to generate an amount that will be sufficient to compensate plaintiff at the time the future loss is sustained. The first step in the process is to determine the amount that will be required in the future to compensate plaintiff for his or her loss.

The amount required to compensate the plaintiff for future loss is not necessarily the same as the amount necessary to compensate the plaintiff for the same loss at the time of trial. The law has long recognized the economic reality of inflation and other economic trends that decrease the purchasing power of the dollar or otherwise increase the amount required in the future to compensate the plaintiff. The plaintiff's right to have the trier of fact take these factors into account in determining damages for future losses is well established [Kircher v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. (1948) 32 Cal.2d 176, 187, 195 P.2d 427 ; Fox v. Pacific Southwest Airlines (1982) 133 Cal.App.3d 565, 570, 184 Cal.Rptr. 87 ; Rodriguez v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1978) 87 Cal.App.3d 626, 662, 151 Cal.Rptr. 399 ; Burke v. City & County of San Francisco (1952) 111 Cal.App.2d 314, 320-322, 244 P.2d 708].

The effects of inflation and other economic trends will not always be applied. In the case of the breach of an agreement that requires the payment of money at some point in the future, the plaintiff will be given all of the benefits of performance by an award of the present value of the agreed-upon amount of the future payment. On the other hand, in the case of an agreement to supply goods or services or to construct improvements at some point in the future, an award of the current cost of securing a substitute performance that is then reduced to present value will not give the plaintiff the benefit of the bargain. This approach fails to take into account the fact that, as a result of inflation, the cost of securing the goods and services or of constructing the improvements will have increased by the time performance would have been due under the contract.

[e] Necessity of Instructing on Effects of Inflation and Other Economic Trends

In an appropriate case, it is clearly proper to instruct the jury that it may take inflationary and economic trends into consideration in determining the damages necessary to compensate the plaintiff for future injuries [Kircher v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. (1948) 32 Cal.2d 176, 187, 195 P.2d 427 ; Chadek v. Spira (1956) 146 Cal.App.2d 360, 368, 303 P.2d 879 ; Risley v. Lenwell (1954) 129 Cal.App.2d 608, 650, 277 P.2d 897 ; Guerra v. Balestrieri (1954) 127 Cal.App.2d 511, 520, 274 P.2d 443 ; Burke v. City & County of San Francisco (1952) 111 Cal.App.2d 314, 320-322, 244 P.2d 708].

However, two appellate cases have held that it is not error to refuse an instruction that the jury may consider the decreased purchasing power of the dollar in determining damages [Flores v. McCoy (1960) 186 Cal.App.2d 502, 508, 9 Cal.Rptr. 349 ; Lemere v. Safeway Stores, Inc. (1951) 102 Cal.App.2d 712, 728, 228 P.2d 296]. The only rationale advanced for this holding is that an instruction on the effects of inflation is unnecessary because the members of a jury will be well aware of the effects of inflation and will consider them even if an instruction is not given [Risley v. Lenwell (1954) 129 Cal.App.2d 608, 650, 277 P.2d 897 ; Guerra v. Balestrieri (1954) 127 Cal.App.2d 511, 520, 274 P.2d 443 ; Lemere v. Safeway Stores, Inc. (1951) 102 Cal.App.2d 712, 728, 228 P.2d 296].

At least as applied to damages for future injuries, the basic premise of these cases, i.e., that because jurors are aware of the effects of inflation they will necessarily consider them in determining damages, is faulty. Jurors are instructed to follow the law as stated to them by the court. Presumably, a substantial number of jurors make a conscientious attempt to base their decisions solely on the law as it is stated to them. When they are specifically instructed on the manner in which damages must be determined and the factors to be considered, it is illogical to assume that they will make an adjustment for inflationary trends or that they will take into account a factor that is not mentioned in the instructions merely because they are aware of it.

Of the two cases that held that it was not error to refuse an instruction on the effect of inflation, the only one that expressly discussed the reasons for this holding focused on a contention that, in the absence of such an instruction, the jury may have based its determination of damages for past injuries on past values of the dollar. In that case, the plaintiff's contention was that the jury should have been instructed that damages for past injuries must be based on the current value of the dollar [Lemere v. Safeway Stores, Inc. (1951) 102 Cal.App.2d 712, 728, 228 P.2d 296]. The other case appears merely to have accepted this earlier holding without any discussion of either the reasons for applying it or the damage aspects of the case at bar [Flores v. McCoy (1960) 186 Cal.App.2d 502, 508, 9 Cal.Rptr. 349].

It is one thing to say, as do these authorities, that a juror will assume that damages for past injuries are to be based on the current value of the dollar without a specific instruction to that effect. It is quite another to say that, in the absence of a specific instruction, a juror will assume that damages for future injuries are to be based on the projected future value of the dollar. Accordingly, as applied to future damages, the cases holding that it is not error to refuse an instruction on the effects of inflation are of questionable validity.

In a case involving damages for future losses, the plaintiff is entitled to counter the defendant's evidence of the amount that can be earned with monies awarded as damages with evidence that its real value will decrease as a result of inflation [Fox v. Pacific Southwest Airlines (1982) 133 Cal.App.3d 565, 570, 184 Cal.Rptr. 87 ; Rodriguez v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1978) 87 Cal.App.3d 626, 662, 151 Cal.Rptr. 399]. There is no justification for instructions that specifically direct the jury to discount the damages awarded for future injuries to present value but omit any reference to the plaintiff's right to have the effects of inflation taken into account in determining these damages.

[f] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 359 Present Cash Value of Future Damages

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Remedies Compensatory Damages General Overview Torts Damages Compensatory Damages Pain & Suffering Future Pain & Suffering Torts Damages Proof

Scott Noble contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

116 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3E Matthew Bender Contract Damages Instructions

1-3E California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300E.08

MB 300E.08 Effect of Contingencies That May Decrease Amount of Future Damages

[1] Instruction Effect of Contingencies That May Decrease Amount of Future Damages

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

If you determine that it is reasonably certain that Plaintiff will suffer a particular loss or type of harm in the future, you may not consider the effect of possible future events that could reduce Plaintiff's damages unless you find that those events are reasonably likely to occur and unless the nature and timing of the reduction in damages will be such that you can make a reasonable determination of its present value.

Authority: Noble v. Tweedy (1949) 90 Cal.App.2d 738, 744-746, 203 P.2d 778 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the plaintiff seeks to recover damages for future losses or harm and there is evidence or argument concerning contingencies that may reduce the amount of the plaintiff's future damages. It will inform the jury of the rule that the plaintiff cannot be denied the right to recover damages that are otherwise certain to be sustained in the future merely because it is possible that hypothetical events could reduce the damages.

This instruction should be given immediately following the instruction on contingencies that may increase the plaintiff's future damages in MB 300E.07. If the jury is not instructed on such contingencies, this instruction should be given after the general instruction on the requirement that future damages be established with certainty in MB 300E.06.

This instruction may be particularized by substituting specific references to the contingencies at issue (e.g., the possibility of plaintiff's going out of business, the possibility that the property might be destroyed) for the general references to possible future events.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Jurors Likely to Be Skeptical of Predictions of Future Events: Predictions as to future events that will reduce damages are likely to be greeted with skepticism by many jurors, especially in cases when the jury finds the defendant liable. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

This instruction is based on the decision in Noble v. Tweedy [Noble v. Tweedy (1949) 90 Cal.App.2d 738, 203 P.2d 778], a case in which the trial court awarded the tenants of a commercial building damages for the loss of promised improvements over the remaining nine year term of their lease. On appeal, the landlord contended that the trial court should have reduced the award of future damages to reflect the possibility that the lease might be terminated before the lease term's expiration because of the tenants' breach, the destruction of the property, the failure of the landlords' business, or a number of other potential occurrences. The court of appeal concluded that future damages that are otherwise certain to result could not be reduced because of the possibility of future speculative or hypothetical events. It held that contingencies that may reduce future damages could be considered only if they "are reasonably probable of occurrence and are reducible to a present monetary value" and must be disregarded if they are "wholly conjectural and have no ascertainable present worth" [Noble v. Tweedy (1949) 90 Cal.App.2d 738, 746, 203 P.2d 778].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Remedies Compensatory Damages General Overview Torts Damages Compensatory Damages Pain & Suffering Future Pain & Suffering

Scott Noble contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

117 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3E Matthew Bender Contract Damages Instructions

1-3E California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300E.09

MB 300E.09 Damages May Not Exceed What Plaintiff Would Have Received From Full Performance

[1] Instruction Damages May Not Exceed What Plaintiff Would Have Received From Full Performance

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A person injured by a breach of contract will be fully compensated by an award of damages that will place [him/her/it] in the position that [he/she/it] would have been in if the contract had been fully performed. [He/She/It] is not entitled to recover damages in any greater amount. Therefore, you may not award Plaintiff damages that will place [him/her/it] in a better position than [he/she/it] would have been in if both [he/she/it] and Defendant had fully performed all of their obligations under the contract.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 3358; Steelduct Co. v. Henger-Seltzer Co. (1945) 26 Cal.2d 634, 648-649, 160 P.2d 804 ; Lisec v. United Airlines, Inc. (1992) 10 Cal.App.4th 1500, 1503, 11 Cal.Rptr.2d 689 ; Smith v. Mady (1983) 146 Cal.App.3d 129, 132-133, 194 Cal.Rptr. 42 ; Wickman v. Oppen (1961) 188 Cal.App.2d 129, 132-133, 10 Cal.Rptr. 291 ; Phalanx Air Freight v. National Skyway Freight Corp. (1951) 104 Cal.App.2d 771, 776-777, 232 P.2d 510 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instructions should be used to instruct the jury on the rule of Civ. Code § 3358. That section limits the damages that may be awarded to the amount the plaintiff would have gained if the contract had been fully performed on both sides.

Civ. Code § 3358 is not applicable by its terms, and this instruction should therefore not be used, when there is a statute providing for an inconsistent element of damages. It should also not be used when there is no evidence regarding the savings or benefits plaintiff obtained by avoiding performance, when these savings or benefits cannot be ascertained with the requisite degree of certainty, and when the plaintiff has fully performed [see [3], below].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Defense Can Use This Instruction to Its

Advantage: From the defendant's viewpoint, the primary purpose of this instruction is to require plaintiff to deduct unspent costs and other savings from the breach of contract damages. In commercial cases, this can be quite complicated and may require expert testimony. However, defense counsel should exploit this instruction as it can often "raise the bar" for the plaintiff. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Nature and Purpose of Limitation Imposed by Civ. Code § 3358

Damages are awarded in an action for breach of contract to place the injured party in the position it would have been in had the contract been fully performed [Coughlin v. Blair (1953) 41 Cal.2d 587, 603, 262 P.2d 305 ; Lisec v. United Airlines, Inc. (1992) 10 Cal.App.4th 1500, 1503, 11 Cal.Rptr.2d 689 ; Wickman v. Oppen (1961) 188 Cal.App.2d 129, 132, 10 Cal.Rptr. 291]. Therefore, an award of damages that permits the plaintiff to recover more for the breach of the contract than he or she would have obtained from the performance of the contract represents a windfall to the plaintiff at the defendant's expense [see Smith v. Mady (1983) 146 Cal.App.3d 129, 133, 194 Cal.Rptr. 42]. Civ. Code § 3358 prohibits such windfalls; it provides that "no person can recover a greater amount in damages for the breach of an obligation, than he could have gained by full performance thereof on both sides." It is therefore a limitation on the amount of damages that may be awarded under Civ. Code § 3300 and other statutes establishing a general measure of damages [Royer v. Carter (1951) 37 Cal.2d 544, 550, 233 P.2d 539 ; Steelduct Co. v. Henger-Seltzer Co. (1945) 26 Cal.2d 634, 648-649, 160 P.2d 804 ; Wickman v. Oppen (1961) 188 Cal.App.2d 129, 132-133, 10 Cal.Rptr. 291 ; Phalanx Air Freight v. National Skyway Freight Corp. (1951) 104 Cal.App.2d 771, 776-777, 232 P.2d 510]. Essentially, it prohibits the plaintiff from recovering damages that will place the plaintiff in a better position than it would have been in if all parties had fully performed all of their obligations under the contract [Smith v. Mady (1983) 146 Cal.App.3d 129, 133, 194 Cal.Rptr. 42]. For example, when a contract may be terminated without cause on 30 days' notice, damages for the breach of that contract are limited by Civ. Code § 3358 to the damages attributable to the 30-day period, because the contract could have been fully performed within those 30 days [Martin v. U-Haul Co. of Fresno (1988) 204 Cal.App.3d 396, 410-411, 251 Cal.Rptr. 17].

[b] Applicability of Civ. Code § 3358

Civ. Code § 3358 contemplates a measure of damages based on a consideration of the benefits the plaintiff obtained by avoiding performance as well as the benefits the plaintiff lost as a result of the defendant's failure to perform [see Henderson v. Oakes-Waterman, Builders (1941) 44 Cal.App.2d 615, 618, 112 P.2d 662]. In practice, its application appears to have been restricted to cases in which an award is based only on what the plaintiff would have received from the defendant's performance and fails to offset savings that the plaintiff effected or other benefits that the plaintiff obtained as a result of not having to perform its obligations [see Royer v. Carter (1951) 37 Cal.2d 544, 550, 233 P.2d 539 ; Steelduct Co. v. Henger-Seltzer Co. (1945) 26 Cal.2d 634, 648-649, 160 P.2d 804 ; Smith v. Mady (1983) 146 Cal.App.3d 129, 132-133, 194 Cal.Rptr. 42 ; Wickman v. Oppen (1961) 188 Cal.App.2d 129, 132-133, 10 Cal.Rptr. 291 ; Phalanx Air Freight v. National Skyway Freight Corp. (1951) 104 Cal.App.2d 771, 776-777, 232 P.2d 510 ; Paul v. Williams (1944) 64 Cal.App.2d 696, 702-703, 149 P.2d 284]. It has been held to be inapplicable when there is no evidence as to what it would have cost the plaintiff to perform [Wolfson v. Haddan (1930) 110 Cal.App. 573, 576-577, 294 P. 772], when the savings or benefits that the plaintiff obtained by avoiding performance cannot be determined [Benard v. Walkup (1969) 272 Cal.App.2d 595, 605-606, 77 Cal.Rptr. 544], and when the plaintiff's obligations had been fully performed at the time of the breach [Henderson v. Oakes-Waterman, Builders (1941) 44 Cal.App.2d 615, 618, 112 P.2d 662].

Civ. Code § 3358 is applicable "[e]xcept as expressly provided by statute." The effect of this exception appears to be to permit the recovery of specific elements of damage that the plaintiff may not have realized in the absence of a breach when such elements are expressly made recoverable by statute. In the case of an action for breach of contract, the principle effect of this exception is to make it clear that Civ. Code § 3358 does not bar the recovery of (1) interest [Civ. Code §§ 3287, 3289], (2) liquidated damages [Civ. Code §§ 1671, 1676], or (3) when a breach of contract also constitutes a tort or a statutory violation, exemplary or statutory damages [see Law Revision Com. Comment to Civ. Code § 3358; Law Revision Com. Comment to Civ. Code § 1671; Recommendations Relating to Liquidated Damages, 13 Cal. Law Revision Com. Reports 1735 (1976)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Remedies Compensatory Damages General Overview

Scott Noble contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

118 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3E Matthew Bender Contract Damages Instructions

1-3E California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300E.10

MB 300E.10 Choice of Alternative Methods of Determining Plaintiff's Damages

[1] Instruction Choice of Alternative Methods of Determining Plaintiff's Damages

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

In this case, there is more than one possible method for determining the amount of damages that is necessary to compensate Plaintiff. You should use the method that you find produces the most accurate and certain result.

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

However, if you find that either of two methods produces a result that is certain and accurate and that will fully compensate Plaintiff, you should use the method that produces the lowest amount of damages.

Authorities: California P. Mfg. Co. v. Stafford P. Co. (1923) 192 Cal. 479, 485, 221 P. 345 ; A. A. Baxter Corp. v. Colt Industries, Inc. (1970) 10 Cal.App.3d 144, 160, 88 Cal.Rptr. 842 ; Rilovich v. Raymond (1937) 20 Cal.App.2d 630, 644-646, 67 P.2d 1062 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is more than one permissible measure of damages or more than one permissible method of determining or computing damages that finds support in the evidence. It should be emphasized that in numerous situations the applicable measure or method of determining damages is dictated by statute or case law and the use of alternative measures or methods, however logical or appropriate, is error [see Civ. Code §§ 1951.2, 1794, 3302-3318, 3353-3354; Parker v. Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. (1970) 3 Cal.3d 176, 181-182, 89 Cal.Rptr. 737, 474 P.2d 689 ; Royer v. Carter (1951) 37 Cal.2d 544, 548-551, 233 P.2d 539 ; Caminetti v. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. (1943) 23 Cal.2d 94, 104-110, 142 P.2d 741 ; Shaffer v. Debbas (1993) 17 Cal.App.4th 33, 46-47, 21 Cal.Rptr.2d 110 ; Kitchel v. Acree (1963) 216 Cal.App.2d 119, 123, 30 Cal.Rptr. 714]. Accordingly, this instruction should be used with caution.

The optional paragraph should be used in cases in which the cost of alternative approaches to remedying the effects of the breach or giving plaintiff the benefit of the bargain is significantly different. For reasons discussed in greater detail in [3][b], below, careful consideration should be given to the propriety of instructing the jury on the rule requiring the use of the least expensive method of compensation and to the propriety of this particular formulation. Nevertheless, it is included because there is authority for it and because it is potentially a critical rule when the difference in the cost of alternative methods of compensation is great.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--View Optional Portion of Instruction With

Caution: The optional portion of this instruction should be viewed with caution. As noted in the commentary in [3][b], below, there is very limited appellate support for it. Additionally, in cases where there are competing damage experts, the optional portion almost looks like a direction to the jury to accept the defendant's expert analysis because it will produce "the lowest amount of damages." Moreover, the phrase "certain and accurate" clearly favors the defendant. By Ronald Oster and Rex Hesseman

[3] Comment

[a] Choosing Permissible Methods of Determining Damages

It has long been recognized that when there are two measures or methods of determining damages that are otherwise adequate and permissible, the one yielding the more accurate and certain result should be used [California P. Mfg. Co. v. Stafford P. Co. (1923) 192 Cal. 479, 485, 221 P. 345 ; A. A. Baxter Corp. v. Colt Industries, Inc. (1970) 10 Cal.App.3d 144, 160, 88 Cal.Rptr. 842 ; Rilovich v. Raymond (1937) 20 Cal.App.2d 630, 644-646, 67 P.2d 1062]. In A. A. Baxter Corp. v. Colt Industries, the court, while recognizing the continuing validity of this rule, announced another rule to be applied by the trial court in choosing between competing methods of determining damages: "if the facts show that either of two measures of damages will fully compensate plaintiff for his loss, that measure must be adopted which is less expensive to defendant" [A. A. Baxter Corp. v. Colt Industries, Inc. (1970) 10 Cal.App.3d 144, 160, 88 Cal.Rptr. 842].

[b] Propriety of Instruction on Rule Requiring Use of Least Expensive Method

The rule requiring the use of the least expensive method of compensation does not appear to have any express support in appellate decisions other than the A. A. Baxter Corp. case [A. A. Baxter Corp. v. Colt Industries, Inc. (1970) 10 Cal.App.3d 144, 160, 88 Cal.Rptr.842] . However, it is consistent in theory with a number of other well settled doctrines (e.g., rules prohibiting damages that the plaintiff could have avoided, damages that cannot be determined with certainty, and punitive damages or other damages in addition to those necessary to compensate the plaintiff) that limit the damages that may be awarded and there is no reason to believe that, in a proper context, it is not valid law.

This instruction is based on the assumptions that the rule requiring the use of the least expensive measure is subordinate to the rule requiring the use of the most certain and accurate measure, and that such an instruction is applicable only when it is clear that there are two certain and accurate measures that will fully compensate the plaintiff. These assumptions are indicated by an analysis of the facts and language of the court in A. A. Baxter Corp. [A. A. Baxter Corp. v. Colt Industries, Inc. (1970) 10 Cal.App.3d 144, 160, 88 Cal.Rptr. 842] and the apparent object and purpose of the rules governing the choice between alternative measures of damages. However, it is strongly recommended that counsel make their own evaluation of the propriety of this instruction in light of the particular factual situation with which they are dealing.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Remedies Compensatory Damages General Overview

Scott Noble contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

119 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3E Matthew Bender Contract Damages Instructions

1-3E California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300E.11

MB 300E.11 Damages Not to Be Measured by Defendant's Savings or Costs

[1] Instruction Damages Not to Be Measured by Defendant's Savings or Costs

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

There has been some evidence presented in this case that tends to show what savings or benefits Defendant may have obtained as a result of a breach of contract. To the extent that this evidence also tends to show what losses or harm Plaintiff may have suffered, it may be considered and used in determining any damages to be awarded to Plaintiff. However, what Defendant may or may not have gained as a result of a breach may not be considered or used in determining damages.

[AND/OR]

If there was a breach of contract, the amount of Plaintiff's damages cannot be reduced because they are greater than what it would have cost Defendant to perform the contract or because Defendant received no benefit from breaching the contract. By the same token, those damages may not be increased because they are less than what it would have cost Defendant to perform or because Defendant received some substantial benefit from breaching the contract.

Any award of damages that you make for breach of contract must be based only on what is necessary to compensate Plaintiff for losses or harm [he/she/it] _____ [has suffered or has suffered and will suffer].

Authorities: Gregory v. Spieker (1895) 110 Cal. 150, 155, 42 P. 576 ; Fisher v. Hampton (1975) 44

Cal.App.3d 741, 750-752, 118 Cal.Rptr. 811 ; Macken v. Martinez (1963) 214 Cal.App.2d 784, 789, 29 Cal.Rptr. 867 ; Avery v. Fredericksen and Westbrook (1944) 67 Cal.App.2d 334, 336-341, 154 P.2d 41 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This is an instruction on the rule that prohibits the determination of damages on the basis of what the defendant gained from a breach of contract rather than on what the plaintiff lost. It should be used when there is some evidence or argument from which the jury may draw inferences concerning the savings or benefits the defendant did or did not obtain as a result of a breach and when there is potentially a significant discrepancy between the losses suffered by the plaintiff and the savings or benefits obtained by the defendant as a result of the breach. In cases in which there is a very close correlation between the plaintiff's loss and the defendant's gain (e.g., in a case involving the breach of an agreement to pay money, the breach of an agreement to procure goods or services from a third party, or the breach of an agreement for the sale of property), this instruction may either be inapplicable or of marginal relevance and may generate unnecessary confusion.

When there is no direct evidence of what it would have cost the defendant to perform the contract or of any saving or benefits that the defendant obtained as a result of the breach, it is recommended that the first paragraph of the instruction not be used. However, even in the absence of direct evidence of the defendant's savings or benefits, the remaining portion of the instruction may still be appropriate when the facts are such that the jury may draw inferences as to what the defendant gained or did not gain by breaching or when there are statements or arguments of counsel suggesting that there should be some relationship between the damages awarded and the benefits or savings the defendant obtained as a result of the breach.

Depending on the circumstances of the particular case, this instruction might be offered by either party. It would certainly be important to a defendant that had breached or risked placing itself in breach to avoid the prohibitive cost of performing a contract that was not likely to produce any significant benefit to the plaintiff. However, it might be equally important to the plaintiff in a case in which the breach of a contract that defendant could have performed with relatively small effort or expense produces horrendous collateral consequences for plaintiff.

The bracketed reference to damages that the plaintiff will suffer should be included if the plaintiff is seeking future damages.

When it is agreed that the defendant gained no benefit by breaching the contract other than avoiding expenditures required to complete performance, the instruction should refer only to what it would have cost the defendant to perform.

[3] Comment

Damages for breach of contract are limited to, and must be based on, what is necessary to compensate the plaintiff for loss or injury suffered as a result of the breach. Damages may not be based on or measured by what it would have cost the defendant to perform, or on savings or benefits the defendant obtained as a result of the breach [Gregory v. Spieker (1895) 110 Cal. 150, 155, 42 P. 576 ; Fisher v. Hampton (1975) 44 Cal.App.3d 741, 750-752, 118 Cal.Rptr. 811 ; Macken v. Martinez (1963) 214 Cal.App.2d 784, 789, 29 Cal.Rptr. 867 ; Avery v. Fredericksen and Westbrook (1944) 67 Cal.App.2d 334, 336-341, 154 P.2d 41]. This rule applies when the cost of the defendant's performance is greater than the benefits the plaintiff would have obtained [Avery v. Fredericksen and Westbrook (1944) 67 Cal.App.2d 334, 336-341, 154 P.2d 41] when the cost of the defendant's performance is definitely ascertainable but it cannot be shown with any reasonable degree of certainty that the plaintiff would have profited from performance [Fisher v. Hampton (1975) 44 Cal.App.3d 741, 750-752, 118 Cal.Rptr. 811], and when a breach that resulted in little or no savings or benefit to the defendant caused substantial damages to the plaintiff [Gregory v. Spieker (1895) 110 Cal. 150, 155, 42 P. 576 ; Macken v. Martinez (1963) 214 Cal.App.2d 784, 789, 29 Cal.Rptr. 867 ; Ojala v. Bohlin (1960) 178 Cal.App.2d 292, 302, 2 Cal.Rptr. 919].

Notwithstanding this rule, evidence of what it would have cost the defendant to perform or of the benefits the defendant obtained as a result of the breach is admissible if it tends to prove the amount of the plaintiff's loss or harm, that is, if there is a correlation between the benefits obtained by the defendant or the cost of performing the defendant's obligations and the amount necessary to compensate the plaintiff for loss or injury resulting from the breach [Macken v. Martinez (1963) 214 Cal.App.2d 784, 789, 29 Cal.Rptr. 867 ; General Paint Corp. v. Seymour (1932) 124 Cal.App. 611, 615-616, 12 P.2d 990].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Defendant's Savings or Benefits Can Shed Light on Claimed Damages: Even though defendant's savings or benefits from a breach of contract do not determine the amount of plaintiff's damage, such evidence may still be admissible to shed light on the amount of plaintiff's claimed damages. This evidence can be used by either side to provide a "reality check" on the amount of damages claimed by plaintiff. By Ronald Oster

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts Law Remedies Compensatory Damages General Overview

Scott Noble contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

120 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3E Matthew Bender Contract Damages Instructions

1-3E California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300E.12MB 300E.12 Punitive Damages Not Recoverable (Jury Instructed Only on Breach of Contract)[1] Instruction Punitive Damages Not Recoverable (Jury Instructed Only on Breach of Contract)[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Damages that are intended to punish a defendant or to make an example of a defendant to discourage that defendant and others from engaging in wrongful conduct in the future are called punitive damages. Punitive damages may not be awarded on a claim based on the breach of a contract _____ [OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction): even if a defendant intentionally breached the contract or committed other acts that were fraudulent, malicious, or oppressive]. Therefore, you may not include punitive damages, or any damages that are awarded to punish or make an example of Defendant rather to compensate Plaintiff, in any award of damages you may make.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 3294; Crogan v. Metz (1956) 47 Cal.2d 398, 405, 303 P.2d 1029 ; Chelini v. Nieri (1948) 32 Cal.2d 480, 486-487, 196 P.2d 915 ; Mabb v. Stewart (1901) 133 Cal. 556, 565-566, 65 P. 1085 ; Myers Building Industries, Ltd. v. Interface Technology, Inc. (1993) 13 Cal.App.4th 949, 959, 17 Cal.Rptr.2d 242 ; Middlebrook-Anderson Co. v. Southwest Sav. & Loan Assn. (1971) 18 Cal.App.3d 1023, 1038, 96 Cal.Rptr. 338 ; Spencer v. San Francisco Brick Co. (1907) 5 Cal.App. 126, 129, 89 P. 851 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the only causes of action that will be submitted to the jury are for breach of contract, or when causes of action for breach of contract are joined with other causes of action for which punitive damages are not recoverable. In the latter situation, the instruction should be modified by replacing the specific references to breach of contract claims with general references to the claims asserted by the plaintiff and by deleting the bracketed material.

This instruction will usually be proposed by the defendant. However, the defendant's counsel must weigh the risk that the instruction may be construed as an adverse comment or reflection on the actions or credibility of his or her client against the risk that, if the instruction is not given, the jury may award punitive or exemplary damages in the guise of increased compensatory damages.

This instruction is most clearly warranted when there is a significant possibility that the jury may inflate an award of compensatory damages to punish a defendant or to make some kind of a statement about the defendant's conduct. Thus, serious consideration should be given to specifically instructing the jury that punitive damages are not recoverable in the following circumstances:

- When a plaintiff is particularly appealing or sympathetic;
- When a defendant is unpopular or abrasive;
- When there is evidence of a deliberate breach or other reprehensible conduct by a defendant;
- When claims for punitive or exemplary damages are initially presented and subsequently withdrawn from the jury; or
- When there are improper or inflammatory statements and arguments designed to encourage a punitive or exemplary award.

Although the bracketed material is recommended when there is evidence suggesting a deliberate breach or other morally reprehensible conduct by a defendant, counsel may wish to delete that material when the evidence is slight or nonexistent to avoid conveying the impression that the court thinks that there is some basis for concluding that the defendant has engaged in such conduct.

When both causes of action for breach of contract and other causes of action on which punitive damages are recoverable are submitted to the jury, this instruction is not proper and the instruction in MB 300E.13 should be used.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tips--Consider Whether or Not to Forego This Instruction: Punitive damages are not recoverable for breach of contract. Whether or not defense counsel wants to raise the issue of punitive damages by giving this instruction depends on the circumstances, and there are arguments that go both ways. In general, unless there are some unusual factors in the case that would encourage the jury to seek punishment, many defense counsel would forego this instruction. And, as a defense counsel, ask yourself if the opposing counsel has actually raised this issue. In other words, don't have an instruction given unless there is a need for it. By Ronald Oster and Rex Hesseman

[3] Comment

[a] Punitive Damages Not Permitted in Action Based Solely on Breach of Contract

Civ. Code § 3294 limits the recovery of punitive or exemplary damages to actions "for the breach of an obligation not arising from contract." Accordingly, punitive or exemplary damages are not permitted in an action based solely on breach of contract [Crogan v. Metz (1956) 47 Cal.2d 398, 405, 303 P.2d 1029 ; Chelini v. Nieri (1948) 32 Cal.2d 480, 486-487, 196 P.2d 915 ; Myers Building Industries, Ltd. v. Interface Technology, Inc. (1993) 13 Cal.App.4th 949, 959, 17 Cal.Rptr.2d 242 ; Middlebrook-Anderson Co. v. Southwest Sav. & Loan Assn. (1971) 18 Cal.App.3d 1023, 1038, 96 Cal.Rptr. 338]. For example, a special jury verdict finding that the defendant had breached its contract with the plaintiff was held not to support an award of punitive damages, even though the jury found that the defendant's conduct amounted to oppression, fraud, or malice. The court of appeal struck the punitive damage award from the judgment [Myers Building Industries, Ltd. v. Interface Technology, Inc. (1993) 13 Cal.App.4th 949, 959, 975, 17 Cal.Rptr.2d 242].

When punitive or exemplary damages are not recoverable, it is proper to affirmatively instruct the jury that it may not award such damages [Mabb v. Stewart (1901) 133 Cal. 556, 565-566, 65 P. 1085 ; Sloane v. Southern Cal. Ry. Co. (1896) 111 Cal. 668, 687, 44 P. 320] and a defendant requesting such an instruction is entitled to it [Mabb v. Stewart (1901) 133 Cal. 556, 565-566, 65 P. 1085 ; Spencer v. San Francisco Brick Co. (1907) 5 Cal.App. 126, 129, 89 P. 851]. Even when the jury is instructed that it may only award compensatory damages, a failure to give a requested instruction that punitive or exemplary damages may not be awarded may constitute reversible error [Mabb v. Stewart (1901) 133 Cal. 556, 565-566, 65 P. 1085 ; cf. Parra v. Cleaver (1930) 110 Cal.App. 168, 173-175, 294 P. 6]. However, when the instruction is not requested by a party, the court is probably not required to give it on its own motion and it is unlikely that its failure to do so can be successfully attacked on appeal [see Agarwal v. Johnson (1979) 25 Cal.3d 932, 950-951, 160 Cal.Rptr. 141, 603 P.2d 58 ; Little v. Stuyvesant Life Ins. Co. (1977) 67 Cal.App.3d 451, 468, 136 Cal.Rptr. 653].

[b] Related Judicial Council Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 39, California Judicial Council Damages Instructions]:

CACI No. 3924 No Punitive Damages

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts Law Remedies Punitive Damages

Scott Noble contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

121 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3E Matthew Bender Contract Damages Instructions

1-3E California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300E.13

MB 300E.13 Punitive Damages Not Recoverable (Jury Also Instructed on Non-Contract Punitive Damage Claims)

[1] Instruction Punitive Damages Not Recoverable (Jury Also Instructed on Non-Contract Punitive Damage Claims)

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

In addition to claims for breach of contract, Plaintiff has also sued on claims for _____ [describe punitive damage claims]. In connection with these claims, Plaintiff is asking that [he/she/it] be awarded punitive damages.

Punitive damages may not be awarded on a claim for breach of contract. Damages for breach of contract are limited to those that are necessary to compensate the plaintiff for [his/her/its] injuries or losses.

Therefore, you may not include punitive damages, or any damages that are awarded to punish or to make an example of Defendant rather than to compensate Plaintiff, in any award that you may make on Plaintiff's breach of contract claims. If punitive damages may be awarded under the other rules on which I will instruct you, they may only be awarded on Plaintiff's claims for _____ [describe punitive damage claims].

Authorities: Civ. Code § 3294; Acadia, California, Ltd. v. Herbert (1960) 54 Cal.2d 328, 336-337, 5 Cal.Rptr. 686, 353 P.2d 294 ; Miller v. National American Life Ins. Co. (1976) 54 Cal.App.3d 331, 336-337, 126 Cal.Rptr. 731 ; Kuchta v. Allied Builders Corp. (1971) 21 Cal.App.3d 541, 549, 98 Cal.Rptr. 588 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when claims for damages for breach of contract will be submitted to the jury along with tort or other claims on which the jury will be instructed on the possibility of awarding punitive damages. When the jury will not be instructed on that possibility, this instruction should not be used and the instruction in MB 300E.12 should be considered.

A brief but accurate designation of all claims that can support an award of punitive damages should be inserted in both of the blanks.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][d], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tips--Critical Instruction If Punitive Damages

Considered Simultaneously: Punitive damages are usually addressed in a separate bifurcated phase of the trial pursuant to Civ. Code § 3295, so this instruction will be limited to the unusual case.

Nevertheless, in cases when the jury will simultaneously consider damages for punitive and non-punitive claims, this could be a critical instruction. Among other things, the awarding of punitive damages (1) requires plaintiff to meet a higher burden of proof (i.e., clear and convincing), (2) requires specific findings of fraud, malice, oppression, or homicide, and (3) has higher requirements for employer liability [see Civ. Code § 3294]. Claims for breach of contract have none of these requirements, and defense counsel must make sure the jury understands the differences. The specific standards in § 3294 are often helpful to defense counsel to delineate the differences for the jury. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Contract Claims No Bar to Punitive Damages on Tort Claim Based on Same Facts

The rule that punitive damages may not be recovered on a claim based on the breach of a contract [Crogan v. Metz (1956) 47 Cal.2d 398, 405, 303 P.2d 1029 ; Chelini v. Nieri (1948) 32 Cal.2d 480, 486-487, 196 P.2d 915 ; see MB 300E.12[3]] does not preclude the recovery of punitive damages merely because a tortious act or omission also constitutes a breach of contract [Schroeder v. Auto Driveaway Co. (1974) 11 Cal.3d 908, 921, 114 Cal.Rptr. 622, 523 P.2d 662 ; Fletcher v. Western National Life Ins. Co. (1970) 10 Cal.App.3d 376, 401, 89 Cal.Rptr. 78]. Nor does it bar an award of punitive damages on a claim that a defendant fraudulently induced the plaintiff to enter into a contract [Schroeder v. Auto Driveaway Co. (1974) 11 Cal.3d 908, 921-922, 114 Cal.Rptr. 622, 523 P.2d 662 ; Kuchta v. Allied Builders Corp. (1971) 21 Cal.App.3d 541, 549, 98 Cal.Rptr. 588] or a claim that a defendant violated a legal or statutory duty imposed as a result of the contractual relationship [Egan v. Mutual of Omaha Ins. Co. (1979) 24 Cal.3d 809, 818-819, 169 Cal.Rptr. 691, 620 P.2d 141 ; Acadia, California, Ltd. v. Herbert (1960) 54 Cal.2d 328, 335-337, 5 Cal.Rptr. 686, 353 P.2d 294 ; Richardson v. Employers Liab. Assur. Corp. (1972) 25 Cal.App.3d 232, 239, 102 Cal.Rptr. 547].

When the same general set of facts gives rise to claims for breach of contract and claims sounding in tort, the plaintiff is entitled to have both the contract claims and the tort claims submitted to the jury [Glendale Fed. Sav. & Loan Assn. v. Marina View Heights Dev. Co. (1977) 66 Cal.App.3d 101, 133-138, 135 Cal.Rptr. 802 ; Miller v. National American Life Ins. Co. (1976) 54 Cal.App.3d 331, 336-337, 126 Cal.Rptr. 731]. Even when alternative contract and tort claims are alleged based on the same acts or omissions and seeking damages for the same injuries, the plaintiff--although not permitted to recover on both the contract and tort claims--is entitled to have both claims submitted to the jury, unless the defendant would suffer substantial prejudice [see Weaver v. Bank of America (1963) 59 Cal.2d 428, 432, 30 Cal.Rptr. 4, 380 P.2d 644 ; Acadia, California, Ltd. v. Herbert (1960) 54 Cal.2d 328, 336-337, 5 Cal.Rptr. 686, 353 P.2d 294 ; Glendale Fed. Sav. & Loan Assn. v. Marina View Heights Dev. Co. (1977) 66 Cal.App.3d 101, 136-138, 135 Cal.Rptr. 802]. Moreover, a jury's decision to award compensatory damages on the contract claim rather than the alternative tort claim will not preclude it from awarding punitive damages on the tort claim as long as it finds that the plaintiff would otherwise have been entitled to compensatory damages on the tort claim [All-West Design, Inc. v. Boozer (1986) 183 Cal.App.3d 1212, 1225, 228 Cal.Rptr. 736].

[b] Necessity of Instructing That Punitive Damages Not Recoverable on Breach of Contract Claims

When contract and tort claims predicated on the same acts or omissions or arising from the same general set of facts are submitted to the jury, it is proper to instruct the jury that punitive damages are permitted only on the tort claims, that they may not be awarded on the contract claims, and that only compensatory damages may be recovered for a breach of contract [Acadia, California, Ltd. v. Herbert (1960) 54 Cal.2d 328, 336-337, 5 Cal.Rptr. 686, 353 P.2d 294 ; Miller v. National American Life Ins. Co. (1976) 54 Cal.App.3d 331, 336-337, 126 Cal.Rptr. 731 ; Kuchta v. Allied Builders Corp. (1971) 21 Cal.App.3d 541, 549, 98 Cal.Rptr. 588]. Mabb v. Stewart [Mabb v. Stewart (1901) 133 Cal. 556, 565-566, 65 P. 1085] and Spencer v. San Francisco Brick Co. [Spencer v. San Francisco Brick Co. (1907) 5 Cal.App. 126, 129, 89 P. 851] appear to compel a holding that the failure to give such an instruction when requested is error. If, as these cases hold, it is error to refuse a proper instruction that punitive damages may not be recovered in a case in which punitive damages are not mentioned to the jury and it is instructed only on compensatory damages, it would seem that it must be error to refuse such an instruction when, in connection with other claims, the jury has been expressly instructed that punitive damages may be awarded under certain circumstances.

When there are circumstances indicating that an undifferentiated general award may have included improper punitive or exemplary elements, a failure to adequately instruct the jury, on request, regarding the propriety of an award of punitive damages has been held to require reversal [Mabb v. Stewart (1901) 133 Cal. 556, 565-566, 65 P. 1085 ; Lyles v. Perrin (1897) 119 Cal. 264, 266, 51 P. 332 ; Hall v. Berkell (1955) 130 Cal.App.2d 800, 803-805, 279 P.2d 832 ; Spencer v. San Francisco Brick Co. (1907) 5 Cal.App. 126, 129, 89 P. 851]. By analogy, it would seem that when there is an undifferentiated award of compensatory damages and when there are circumstances indicating that an award of punitive damages may have been made solely on a cause of action for a breach of contract, a failure to instruct the jury that punitive damages may not be recovered on a breach of contract claim may result in a reversal of the punitive damage award. On the other hand, a party who fails to request a particular instruction regarding the circumstances under which punitive damages may be awarded probably will be held to have waived the right to attack the trial court's failure to give that instruction [see Agarwal v. Johnson (1979) 25 Cal.3d 932, 950-951, 160 Cal.Rptr. 141, 603 P.2d 58 ; Little v. Stuyvesant Life Ins. Co. (1977) 67 Cal.App.3d 451, 468, 136 Cal.Rptr. 653].

[c] Code Civ. Proc. § 625 Special Verdict Requirement Distinguished

Code Civ. Proc. § 625, which requires a written special verdict that separates punitive damages from compensatory damages, does not dispense with the need to instruct the jury that punitive damages may not be recovered on breach of contract claims. It obviously does not preclude the jury from awarding punitive damages for breach of contract. In addition, even if it furnished a reliable method of correcting an erroneous award of punitive damages, the fact that an erroneous verdict can be corrected by a motion for a new trial or a judgment now cannot be considered a justification for a failure to properly instruct the jury in the first place.

Special verdicts separating punitive damages from compensatory damages will not, in and of themselves, assure the detection and correction of erroneous punitive damage awards. Unless the jury is also required to render special verdicts or answer special interrogatories showing the individual causes of action on which it found liability and awarded punitive damages, there is no way for the parties or the court to determine whether the punitive damage award was made solely under a contract claim or even whether the jury found liability on a tort claim that would support a punitive damage award [see, e.g., All-West Design, Inc. v. Boozer (1986) 183 Cal.App.3d 1212, 1225, 228 Cal.Rptr. 736 (special verdicts on liability and compensatory damages furnished basis for upholding punitive damage award)].

[d] Related Judicial Council Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 39, California Judicial Council Damages Instructions]:

CACI No. 3924 No Punitive Damages

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsVerdictsSpecial VerdictsContracts LawRemediesPunitive
DamagesTortsDamagesProofTortsDamagesPunitive DamagesAvailabilityEmployersTortsDamagesPunitive
DamagesConduct Supporting Awards

Scott Noble contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

122 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3E Matthew Bender Contract Damages Instructions

1-3E California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300E.14

MB 300E.14 Extent of Plaintiff's Obligation to Avoid or Minimize Damages

[1] Instruction Extent of Plaintiff's Obligation to Avoid or Minimize Damages

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Your determination of whether Plaintiff acted reasonably to avoid or minimize loss or harm must be based on the situation Plaintiff was in at the time [he/she/it] became aware of a breach of contract, and the knowledge, capabilities, and resources that Plaintiff had at that time. It may not be based on later events, or on knowledge, capabilities, or resources that Plaintiff did not have when [he/she/it] became aware of the breach.

In determining whether Plaintiff acted reasonably to avoid or minimize loss or harm once [he/she/it] became aware of a breach of contract, you should consider all of the following:

- 1. Plaintiff was required to act with reasonable promptness and in good faith and to do all that was reasonable under the circumstances to try to avoid or minimize the resulting loss or harm. If Plaintiff fulfilled this requirement, [he/she/it] cannot be denied the right to recover damages because [his/her/its] efforts were unsuccessful or because it now appears that some or all of the loss or harm [he/she/it] suffered could have been avoided by steps that [he/she/it] did not take.
- 2. Plaintiff was not required to do things that were impractical or to take risks or make efforts or expenditures that were unreasonable or large in view of the loss or harm to be avoided. Plaintiff was also not required to go to unusual or extraordinary lengths to avoid or minimize damages, or to do things [he/she/it] was unable to do.
- 3. Plaintiff was not required to assume the burden of doing the things that Defendant agreed to do under the contract unless Plaintiff was able to do so and unless it was reasonable for Plaintiff to do so under the circumstances.

Authorities: Guerrieri v. Severini (1958) 51 Cal.2d 12, 23, 330 P.2d 635 ; Valencia v. Shell Oil Co.

(1944) 23 Cal.2d 840, 846, 147 P.2d 558 ; Henrici v. South Feather Land etc. Co. (1918) 177 Cal. 442, 449-450, 170 P. 1135 ; Ash v. Soo Sing Lung (1918) 177 Cal. 356, 361-363, 170 P. 843 ; Camrosa County Water Dist. v. Southwest Welding & Mfg. Co. (1975) 49 Cal.App.3d 951, 955, 123 Cal.Rptr. 93 ; Gerwin v. Southeastern Cal. Assn. of Seventh Day Adventists (1971) 14 Cal.App.3d 209, 219-221, 92 Cal.Rptr. 111 ; Capaldi v. Levy (1969) 1 Cal.App.3d 274, 282-283, 81 Cal.Rptr. 629 ; Green v. Smith (1968) 261 Cal.App.2d 392, 396-397, 67 Cal.Rptr. 796 ; Basin Oil Co. v. Baash-Ross Tool Co. (1954) 125 Cal.App.2d 578, 600-603, 271 P.2d 122 ; Dutra v. Cabral (1947) 80 Cal.App.2d 114, 121-123, 181 P.2d 26 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used to inform the jury of the plaintiff's obligation to mitigate damages. It will inform the jury, in general terms, of the nature and extent of the plaintiff's obligation to act reasonably to avoid or minimize damages and the standards for determining the reasonableness of the plaintiff's efforts.

It should be emphasized that this instruction is a general formulation based on generally applicable rules defining the nature of the plaintiff's obligation to mitigate damages. Frequently, the case law defines more specifically the requirements imposed on parties confronted with a particular type of breach [see Bomberger v. McKelvey (1950) 35 Cal.2d 607, 613-615, 220 P.2d 729 (party notified to cease performance); Spurgeon v. Drumheller (1985) 174 Cal.App.3d 659, 665, 220 Cal.Rptr. 195 (seller of real property); Rabago-Alvarez v. Dart Industries, Inc. (1976) 55 Cal.App.3d 91, 97-99, 127 Cal.Rptr. 222 (discharged employee); Sutter v. Madrin (1969) 269 Cal.App.2d 161, 169, 74 Cal.Rptr. 627 (seller of real property)]. Accordingly, before using this general instruction in a particular case, counsel should determine whether a more specific formulation is applicable.

Portions of this instruction may not be applicable in certain cases. For example, if the defendant does not contend that the plaintiff could have mitigated damages by making expenditures or incurring expenses, references to expenditures should be deleted.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][e], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Failure-to-Mitigate Defense Rarely Succeeds, But Can Raise Doubt: Failure to mitigate damages is a commonly asserted defense but rarely succeeds. This instruction illustrates the limitations of the defense. In short, unless plaintiff was deliberately trying to inflate damages or was manifestly unreasonable in failing to avoid harm, the defense will fail. Yet, mitigation is sometimes a good way to raise doubt in the jurors' minds about whether the plaintiff really tried to take care of this dispute or whether he/she was just looking for a windfall. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Plaintiff's Obligation to Mitigate Damages

It is well established in California that a person who is injured by a breach of contract must act reasonably to minimize the resulting damages and that any damages the injured party could have avoided by making reasonable efforts or expenditures may not be recovered [Valencia v. Shell Oil Co. (1944) 23 Cal.2d 840, 844, 147 P.2d 558 ; Henrici v. South Feather Land etc. Co. (1918) 177 Cal. 442, 449-450, 170 P. 1135 ; Brandon & Tibbs v. George Kevorkian Accountancy Corp. (1990) 226 Cal.App.3d 442, 460, 277 Cal.Rptr. 40 ; Sackett v. Spindler (1967) 248 Cal.App.2d 220, 238-239, 56 Cal.Rptr. 435]. The defendant bears the burden of proving that all or part of the plaintiff's losses were reasonably avoidable [Brandon & Tibbs v. George Kevorkian Accountancy Corp. (1990) 226 Cal.App.3d 442, 460, 277 Cal.Rptr. 40]. Although California cases frequently speak of the plaintiff's "duty" to mitigate damages, it is not strictly accurate to say that a duty is imposed on the plaintiff because there is no correlative right of action for a breach [see

Green v. Smith (1968) 261 Cal.App.2d 392, 396, 67 Cal.Rptr. 796]. The rationale expressed by California courts is that when a plaintiff has the opportunity to avoid a loss that is threatened as a result of another's wrongful act and fails to make a reasonable effort to do so, the loss will be considered to have been proximately caused by the plaintiff's failure to take steps to avoid it rather than by the defendant's wrongful act or omission [Valencia v. Shell Oil Co. (1944) 23 Cal.2d 840, 846-847, 147 P.2d 558 ; Vitagraph, Inc. v. Liberty Theatres Co. (1925) 197 Cal. 694, 697-698, 242 P. 709 ; Shasta Douglas Oil Co. v. Work (1963) 212 Cal.App.2d 618, 626, 28 Cal.Rptr. 190].

[b] Recovery Not Barred as Long as Plaintiff Acts Reasonably to Avoid Loss

The focus of the mitigation requirement is on the reasonableness of the plaintiff's conduct rather than on the likelihood that a particular course of conduct would have avoided or minimized the plaintiff's damages. Thus, the recovery of damages is not barred merely because the plaintiff's efforts to mitigate are unsuccessful or because, in retrospect, it appears that the plaintiff could have taken some action that would have avoided some or all of the damages claimed [Gerwin v. Southeastern Cal. Assn. of Seventh Day Adventists (1971) 14 Cal.App.3d 209, 219-221, 92 Cal.Rptr. 111 ; Green v. Smith (1968) 261 Cal.App.2d 392, 396-397, 67 Cal.Rptr. 796 ; Basin Oil Co. v. Baash-Ross Tool Co. (1954) 125 Cal.App.2d 578, 600-603, 271 P.2d 122 ; Johnson v. Comptoir Etc. D'Exportation (1955) 135 Cal.App.2d 683, 689, 288 P.2d 151]. The plaintiff is obligated only to use reasonable care and diligence to avoid or minimize damages and will not be barred from recovering damages as long as he or she has done so [Guerrieri v. Severini (1958) 51 Cal.2d 12, 23, 330 P.2d 635 ; Gerwin v. Southeastern Cal. Assn. of Seventh Day Adventists (1971) 14 Cal.App.3d 209, 219-221, 92 Cal.Rptr. 111 ; Jegen v. Berger (1946) 77 Cal.App.2d 1, 10-11, 174 P.2d 489].

Whether a plaintiff has acted reasonably to mitigate damages is not to be determined by hindsight, but in light of the situation with which the plaintiff was confronted and the knowledge and resources the plaintiff had at the time the loss was threatened [Gerwin v. Southeastern Cal. Assn. of Seventh Day Adventists (1971) 14 Cal.App.3d 209, 219-221, 92 Cal.Rptr. 111 ; Green v. Smith (1968) 261 Cal.App.2d 392, 396-397, 67 Cal.Rptr. 796 ; Basin Oil Co. v. Baash-Ross Tool Co. (1954) 125 Cal.App.2d 578, 600-603, 271 P.2d 122].

[c] Nature of Obligation to Act Reasonably to Mitigate

Generally, the obligation to exercise reasonable care and diligence to mitigate damages requires the plaintiff to act in good faith and with due diligence [Green v. Smith (1968) 261 Cal.App.2d 392, 396-397, 67 Cal.Rptr. 796 ; Basin Oil Co. v. Baash-Ross Tool Co. (1954) 125 Cal.App.2d 578, 600-603, 271 P.2d 122 ; Marshall v. Ransome Concrete Co. (1917) 33 Cal.App. 782, 786, 166 P. 846], and to do all that is reasonable to attempt to avoid or minimize damages [Henrici v. South Feather Land etc. Co. (1918) 177 Cal. 442, 449-450, 170 P. 1135 ("all reasonable exertions"); Alaska Salmon Co. v. Standard Box Co. (1910) 158 Cal. 567, 572, 112 P. 454 ("every reasonable thing"); Sackett v. Spindler (1967) 248 Cal.App.2d 220, 238-239, 56 Cal.Rptr. 435 ("everything reasonably possible"); Johnson v. Comptoir Etc. D'Exportation (1955) 135 Cal.App.2d 683, 689, 288 P.2d 151 ("every reasonable step")]. It does not require the plaintiff to do that which is unreasonable or impractical or to go to extraordinary or unusual lengths [Guerrieri v. Severini (1958) 51 Cal.2d 12, 23, 330 P.2d 635 ; Valencia v. Shell Oil Co. (1944) 23 Cal.2d 840, 846, 147 P.2d 558 ; Camrosa County Water Dist. v. Southwest Welding & Mfg. Co. (1975) 49 Cal.App.3d 951, 955, 123 Cal.Rptr. 93 ; Gerwin v. Southeastern Cal. Assn. of Seventh Day Adventists (1971) 14 Cal.App.3d 209, 219-221, 92 Cal.Rptr. 111 ; Scott's V. F. Exch. v. Growers Refrig Co. (1947) 81 Cal.App.2d 437, 451, 184 P.2d 183]. It also does not require the plaintiff to assume a burden or risk that is disproportionate to the loss to be avoided or otherwise unreasonable [Camrosa County Water Dist. v. Southwest Welding & Mfg. Co. (1975) 49 Cal.App.3d 951, 955-957, 123 Cal.Rptr. 93 ; Capaldi v. Levy (1969) 1 Cal.App.3d 274, 282-283, 81 Cal.Rptr. 629 ; Scott's V. F. Exch. v. Growers Refrig Co. (1947) 81 Cal.App.2d 437, 450-451, 184 P.2d 183 ; Dutra v. Cabral (1947) 80 Cal.App.2d 114, 121-123, 181 P.2d 26], or to make relatively large or unreasonable expenditures [Schultz v. Lakeport (1936) 5 Cal.2d 377, 384-385, 54 P.2d 1110 ; Camrosa County Water Dist. v. Southwest Welding & Mfg. Co. (1975) 49 Cal.App.3d 951, 955-957, 123 Cal.Rptr. 93 ; Gerwin v. Southeastern Cal. Assn. of Seventh Day Adventists (1971) 14 Cal.App.3d 209, 219-221, 92 Cal.Rptr. 111 ; Questo v. Dorado (1955) 136 Cal.App.2d 332, 335-336, 288 P.2d 529 ; Dutra v. Cabral (1947) 80 Cal.App.2d 114, 121-123, 181

P.2d 26]. It does not require the plaintiff to do that which is impracticable, and, consequently, does not require the plaintiff to make expenditures or to incur obligations beyond the plaintiff's financial means [Jordan v. Talbot (1961) 55 Cal.2d 597, 610-611, 12 Cal.Rptr. 488, 361 P.2d 20 ; Guerrieri v. Severini (1958) 51 Cal.2d 12, 23, 330 P.2d 635 ; Valencia v. Shell Oil Co. (1944) 23 Cal.2d 840, 846, 147 P.2d 558 ; Gerwin v. Southeastern Cal. Assn. of Seventh Day Adventists (1971) 14 Cal.App.3d 209, 219-221, 92 Cal.Rptr. 111 ; see MB 300E.15].

The obligation to mitigate damages does not necessarily require a plaintiff to assume the burden of performing the defendant's contractual obligations or of securing a substitute performance. The plaintiff is obligated to assume such a burden only if it is practicable and the prudent thing to do under all the circumstances [Ash v. Soo Sing Lung (1918) 177 Cal. 356, 361-363, 170 P. 843 ; Horne v. Peckham (1979) 97 Cal.App.3d 404, 417-418, 158 Cal.Rptr. 714 ; Camrosa County Water Dist. v. Southwest Welding & Mfg. Co. (1975) 49 Cal.App.3d 951, 955, 123 Cal.Rptr. 93 ; Capaldi v. Levy (1969) 1 Cal.App.3d 274, 282-283, 81 Cal.Rptr. 629 ; Dutra v. Cabral (1947) 80 Cal.App.2d 114, 121-123, 181 P.2d 26].

[d] Necessity of Instructing on Plaintiff's Obligation to Mitigate Damages

Generally, the question of whether the injured party acted reasonably to avoid or minimize damages is one of fact and the jury's determination on the question will not be disturbed if it is supported by substantial evidence [Green v. Smith (1968) 261 Cal.App.2d 392, 397, 67 Cal.Rptr. 796 ; Sackett v. Spindler (1967) 248 Cal.App.2d 220, 239, 56 Cal.Rptr. 435 ; Gainer v. Storck (1959) 169 Cal.App.2d 681, 691, 338 P.2d 195 ; Jegen v. Berger (1946) 77 Cal.App.2d 1, 11, 174 P.2d 489]. The failure to instruct the jury in a proper case that a plaintiff may not recover damages that could have been avoided with reasonable efforts is a ground for reversal [see Schultz v. Lakeport (1936) 5 Cal.2d 377, 384, 54 P.2d 1110 ; Sargent v. North End Water Co. (1923) 190 Cal. 512, 512-513, 213 P. 33].

However, there are a number of circumstances when it may be improper to instruct the jury on the plaintiff's obligation to mitigate. Although the rule precluding recovery for losses that could have been avoided has been said to be one of proximate cause, a defendant who claims that a plaintiff is barred from recovering damages by a failure to act reasonably to minimize or avoid those damages has the burden of pleading and proving that claim [Mass v. Board of Education (1964) 61 Cal.2d 612, 627-628, 39 Cal.Rptr. 739, 394 P.2d 579 ; Steelduct Co. v. Henger-Seltzer Co. (1945) 26 Cal.2d 634, 654-655, 160 P.2d 804 ; Vitagraph, Inc. v. Liberty Theatres Co. (1925) 197 Cal. 694, 699-700, 242 P. 709 ; Carnation Company v. Olivet Egg Ranch (1986) 189 Cal.App.3d 809, 816-818, 229 Cal.Rptr. 261 ; Mayes v. Sturdy Northern Sales, Inc. (1979) 91 Cal.App.3d 69, 85-86, 154 Cal.Rptr. 43]. A defendant who does not plead an affirmative defense based on an alleged failure to avoid or minimize damages may be barred from raising it and may not be entitled to have it submitted to the jury [Rosenberger v. Pacific Coast Ry. Co. (1896) 111 Cal. 313, 317-318, 43 P. 963 ; Mayes v. Sturdy Northern Sales, Inc. (1979) 91 Cal.App.3d 69, 85-86, 154 Cal.Rptr. 43 ; Hunter v. Croysdill (1959) 169 Cal.App.2d 307, 318, 337 P.2d 126].

Some California cases have recognized a distinction between a claim that a plaintiff could have avoided or minimized damages and a claim that the plaintiff did, in fact, avoid or minimize damages [Carlotta, Ltd. v. County of Ventura (1975) 47 Cal.App.3d 931, 937, 121 Cal.Rptr. 171 ; Erler v. Five Points Motors, Inc. (1967) 249 Cal.App.2d 560, 562-569, 57 Cal.Rptr. 516 ; Schmidt v. New Plastic Corp. (1956) 144 Cal.App.2d Supp. 849, 851-853, 301 P.2d 131 ; Marconi W. T. Co. v. North P. S. Co. (1918) 36 Cal.App. 653, 655-657, 173 P. 103]. These cases indicate that because the plaintiff has the burden of proving the actual loss caused by the breach and because monies or benefits obtained as a result of not having to perform contractual obligations or as a result of efforts to mitigate damages decrease the plaintiff's actual loss, the plaintiff has the burden of proof on issues relating to monies or benefits that were actually earned or obtained as a result of efforts to mitigate damages and savings that were effected by being relieved of contractual obligations.

The implication of this view is that if the defendant claims that the plaintiff actually has reduced or avoided the damages assertedly suffered, the claim should be dealt with as part of the plaintiff's case in instructions relating to the proof and determination of the damages actually suffered by plaintiff and not in instructions on an affirmative defense predicated on the plaintiff's obligation to avoid or minimize damages. Accordingly, when the defendant claims that the plaintiff has mitigated damages, counsel should consider carefully the propriety of this instruction.

The requirement that a plaintiff attempt to mitigate damages may not be applied to deprive the plaintiff of any benefits he or she could have obtained even if the contract had been fully performed [see Steelduct Co. v. Henger-Seltzer Co. (1945) 26 Cal.2d 634, 655-656, 160 P.2d 804 ; Seaboard Music Co. v. Germano (1972) 24 Cal.App.3d 618, 623, 101 Cal.Rptr. 255 ; Wendt v. Smith (1920) 50 Cal.App. 233, 237-238, 194 P. 736 ; Nuckolls v. College of Physicians, etc. (1907) 7 Cal.App. 233, 236-237, 94 P. 81]. When the plaintiff is not precluded by the terms or nature of the contract from entering into and profiting from other transactions or relationships, the plaintiff has no obligation to seek out or enter into substitute or alternative transactions or relationships to relieve the defendant of the consequences of the breach, and the defendant is not entitled to the benefit of such other transactions or relationships [Seaboard Music Co. v. Germano (1972) 24 Cal.App.3d 618, 623, 101 Cal.Rptr. 255 ; Stephan v. Maloof (1969) 274 Cal.App.2d 843, 851, 79 Cal.Rptr. 461 ; Gollaher v. Midwood Constr. Co. (1961) 194 Cal.App.2d 640, 650-651, 15 Cal.Rptr. 292 ; Wendt v. Smith (1920) 50 Cal.App. 233, 237-238, 194 P. 736 ; Nuckolls v. College of Physicians, etc. (1907) 7 Cal.App. 233, 236-237, 94 P. 81].

In a number of other situations the plaintiff may have no obligation to attempt to mitigate damages or the plaintiff's obligation may be very narrowly circumscribed and it may be reversible error to instruct the jury that the plaintiff was required to mitigate damages [see Wendt v. Smith (1920) 50 Cal.App. 233, 237-238, 194 P. 736]. Therefore, care should be taken to see that any instruction submitted on the plaintiff's obligation to avoid or minimize damages is limited to the evidence of the circumstances giving rise to the obligation.

[e] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 358 Mitigation of Damages

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts Law Remedies Avoidable Consequences Torts Damages Mitigation

Scott Noble contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

123 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3E Matthew Bender Contract Damages Instructions

1-3E California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300E.15

MB 300E.15 Obligation to Mitigate Does Not Require Obligations Beyond Plaintiff's Means

[1] Instruction Obligation to Mitigate Does Not Require Obligations Beyond Plaintiff's Means

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The rule that a person injured by a breach of contract should attempt to avoid or minimize the resulting loss or harm does not require that person to make expenditures or to incur debts that are beyond [his/her/its] financial means. Therefore, the fact that Plaintiff could have avoided or minimized a loss or harm resulting from a breach of contract by making reasonable expenditures or incurring reasonable debts does not prevent Plaintiff from recovering damages for that loss or harm if you find that the expenditures or debts were beyond Plaintiff's financial means.

Authorities: Jordan v. Talbot (1961) 55 Cal.2d 597, 610-611, 12 Cal.Rptr. 488, 361 P.2d 20 ; Valencia v. Shell Oil Co. (1944) 23 Cal.2d 840, 846, 147 P.2d 558 ; Berge v. International Harvester Co. (1983) 142 Cal.App.3d 152, 163, 190 Cal.Rptr. 815 ; Gerwin v. Southeastern Cal. Assn. of Seventh Day Adventists (1971) 14 Cal.App.3d 209, 219-220, 92 Cal.Rptr. 111 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the defendant presents evidence that the plaintiff could have avoided or minimized damages by making reasonable expenditures or incurring reasonable obligations and the defendant's evidence is countered with evidence that the plaintiff was not financially able to do so.

This instruction should be given immediately after the instruction on the general nature of the plaintiff's obligation to mitigate damages in MB 300E.14.

When feasible, the instruction should be particularized by substituting specific references to the loss or harm at issue (e.g., the damage to Plaintiff's crops, the lost profits) and the nature of the breach (e.g., Defendant's refusal to supply water, Defendant's failure to remedy the defects in the equipment) for the general references to these matters in the second sentence.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Instruction Rarely Used: This instruction will rarely be used. The previous instruction in MB 300E.14 containseverything plaintiff needs to show that it would be "unreasonable" to require plaintiff to spend money plaintiff does not have. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Reasonable Effort to Mitigate

As a general rule, a party injured by a breach of contract is required to make reasonable expenditures to avoid or minimize damages [Jordan v. Talbot (1961) 55 Cal.2d 597, 610-611, 12 Cal.Rptr. 488, 361 P.2d 20 ; Valencia v. Shell Oil Co. (1944) 23 Cal.2d 840, 844, 147 P.2d 558 ; Henrici v. South Feather Land etc. Co. (1918) 177 Cal. 442, 449-450, 170 P. 1135]. When it is reasonable to do so, the injured party may be required to obtain the funds necessary to make the expenditures by borrowing money or incurring other obligations [see Jordan v. Talbot (1961) 55 Cal.2d 597, 610-611, 12 Cal.Rptr. 488, 361 P.2d 20]. However, the obligation to mitigate damages does not require expenditures that the injured party is unable to make. Consequently, the plaintiff will not be barred from recovering damages that could have been avoided by making reasonable expenditures or incurring reasonable obligations that were beyond the plaintiff's financial capabilities [Jordan v. Talbot (1961) 55 Cal.2d 597, 610-611, 12 Cal.Rptr. 488, 361 P.2d 20 ; Valencia v. Shell Oil Co. (1944) 23 Cal.2d 840, 846, 147 P.2d 558 ; Berge v. International Harvester Co. (1983) 142 Cal.App.3d 152, 163, 190 Cal.Rptr. 815 ; Gerwin v. Southeastern Cal. Assn. of Seventh Day Adventists (1971) 14 Cal.App.3d 209, 219-220, 92 Cal.Rptr. 111]. Whether a particular expenditure or obligation that allegedly would have reduced the plaintiff's damages was beyond the plaintiff's financial means is a factual question, generally left to the trier of fact [Berge v. International Harvester Co. (1983) 142 Cal.App.3d 152, 163, 190 Cal.Rptr. 815 ; Gerwin v. Southeastern Cal. Assn. Of Seventh Day Adventists (1971) 14 Cal.App.3d 209, 219-220, 92 Cal.Rptr. 111].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 358 Mitigation of Damages

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts Law Remedies Avoidable Consequences Torts Damages Mitigation

Scott Noble contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

124 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3E Matthew Bender Contract Damages Instructions

1-3E California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300E.16MB 300E.16 Obligation to Mitigate Is Excused by Reliance on Defendant's Promises[1] Instruction Obligation to Mitigate Is Excused by Reliance on Defendant's Promises[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A person injured by a breach of contract is not required to act to avoid or minimize the resulting loss or harm as long as [he/she/it] reasonably believes, as a result of the statements or conduct of the person who has breached the contract, that the person who has breached intends to perform [his/her/its] obligations _____
[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction): or take other action to avoid or minimize the resulting loss or harm].
Therefore, any failure by Plaintiff to act to avoid or minimize a loss or harm resulting from a breach of contract by Defendant does not prevent Plaintiff from recovering damages for that loss or harm if you find that Plaintiff refrained from acting because [he/she/it] reasonably believed, as a result of Defendant's statements or conduct, that Defendant intended to perform [his/her/its] obligations [or take other action to avoid or minimize Plaintiff's losses].

Authorities: Valencia v. Shell Oil Co. (1944) 23 Cal.2d 840, 844-846, 147 P.2d 558 ; Questo v. Dorado (1955) 136 Cal.App.2d 332, 335-336, 288 P.2d 529 ; McGuire & Hester v. San Francisco (1952) 113 Cal.App.2d 186, 192-193, 247 P.2d 934 ; Jegen v. Berger (1946) 77 Cal.App.2d 1, 10-11, 174 P.2d 489 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the defendant claims that the plaintiff failed to mitigate damages and there is a factual dispute as to whether that failure was excused because the plaintiff reasonably relied on the defendant's express or implied promises to perform the obligations at issue or to take other steps to minimize the damages.

This instruction should be given after the instruction on the general nature of the plaintiff's obligation to mitigate in MB 300E.14.

The bracketed material should be included only if there is evidence that the defendant expressly or impliedly promised to take steps to minimize the plaintiff's damages in addition to promising performance under the contract.

Whenever feasible, this instruction should be particularized by substituting specific references to the loss or harm at issue (e.g., the damage to plaintiff's crops, the lost profits), the nature of the breach or alleged breach (e.g., defendant's failure to furnish water, defendant's alleged breach of warranty) and the nature of the statements or conduct allegedly relied on by plaintiff (e.g., defendant's continuing promises to supply water, defendant's attempts to repair the defects in the equipment) for the general references in the instruction.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Defense Can Attack "Excused by Reliance"

Claim: Like the instruction in MB 300E.15, this is another instruction that will be used only in the exceptional case when a defendant allegedly made statements that plaintiff relied on in failing to mitigate damages. However, if the opposing counsel presses for this instruction, defense counsel should be prepared to "attack" plaintiff's "excused by reliance" claim. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Obligation to Mitigate Excused by Reliance on Defendant's Promises

A party who is injured by another's breach or other wrongful conduct is excused from complying with any obligation to mitigate damages if the failure to take action is the result of a reasonable belief, induced by the promises or actions of the wrongdoer, that the wrongdoer will perform the obligations at issue or take steps to minimize the injured party's damages [Valencia v. Shell Oil Co. (1944) 23 Cal.2d 840, 844-846, 147 P.2d 558 ; Questo v. Dorado (1955) 136 Cal.App.2d 332, 335-336, 288 P.2d 529 ; McGuire & Hester v. San Francisco (1952) 113 Cal.App.2d 186, 192-193, 247 P.2d 934 ; Jegen v. Berger (1946) 77 Cal.App.2d 1, 10-11, 174 P.2d 489]. However, compliance with the obligation to mitigate damages is excused only as long as the wrongdoer appears to acknowledge the obligations owed to the injured party. Once the wrongdoer repudiates or conditions an express or implied promise to perform or to take steps to avoid the damages resulting from a breach, the injured party must act to mitigate [Valencia v. Shell Oil Co. (1944) 23 Cal.2d 840, 844-846, 147 P.2d 558]. Whether and to what extent the plaintiff is excused from complying with an obligation to mitigate damages as a result of reliance on the express or implied promises of the defendant is generally regarded as a question to be decided by the trier of fact [Questo v. Dorado (1955) 136 Cal.App.2d 332, 335-336, 288 P.2d 529 ; Jegen v. Berger (1946) 77 Cal.App.2d 1, 10-11, 174 P.2d 489].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 358 Mitigation of Damages

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts Law Remedies Avoidable Consequences Torts Damages Mitigation

Scott Noble contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

125 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction 3F.syn

§ 3F.syn Synopsis to Chapter 3F: Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions

MB 300F.01 Accord and Satisfaction

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.02 Acceptance of Check

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.03 Requirement of Payment by Deposit and Notice

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.04 Primary Obligor Not Bound by Contract

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Exoneration

[b] No Exoneration

[c] Indemnification and Security

MB 300F.05 Creditor's Rights Against Primary Obligor Altered

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.06 Creditor's Failure to Exhaust Security or Attempt to Recover From Principal Obligor

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.07 Creditor's Obligation to Disclose Material Facts to Guarantor

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.08--MB 300F.19 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300F.20 Waiver Defined

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Waiver Defined; Burden of Proof

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300F.21 Waiver by Conduct

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Waiver by Conduct

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300F.22 Waiver of Timely Payments

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Waiver of Timely Payments

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300F.23 Waiver of Defects in Offer of Performance

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Objection Requirement

[b] When Objection Must Be Made

[c] Adequacy of Objection

[d] When Objection Is Not Necessary

[e] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300F.24 Hidden Defects

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.25 Waiver of Rights as Third Party Beneficiary

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Waiver of Rights of Third Party Beneficiary

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300F.26 Waiver of Right to Treat Breach as Repudiation

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Repudiation

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300F.27 Estoppel

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.28 Estoppel to Rescind Third Party Beneficiary Contract

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Estoppel to Rescind Third Party Beneficiary Contract

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300F.29 Unclean Hands

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.30--MB 300F.39 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300F.40 Statute of Frauds

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] General Rule

[b] Qualified Financial Contracts

MB 300F.41 Statute of Frauds--Reasonable Time

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.42 Estoppel to Assert the Statute of Frauds

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.43 Effect of Part Performance on Statute of Frauds

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.44--MB 300F.49 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300F.50 General Time Limitation for Suit on Written Contract

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Limitation Period

[b] Accrual of Cause of Action

[c] Anticipatory Breach

[d] Burden of Proof

MB 300F.51 General Time Limitation for Suit on Oral or Implied Contract

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.52 Breach of Agreement to Pay for Continuous Services

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.53 Statute of Limitations Against Third Party Beneficiary

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.54 Statute of Limitations--Discovery of Claim

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Basis for Tolling

[b] Reasonable Diligence

[c] Special Fraud Limitations Period

MB 300F.55 Inquiry Notice

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.56 Statute of Limitations for Rescission of Contract

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.57--MB 300F.69 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300F.70 Impossibility

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.71 Impracticability

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.72 Requirement of Objective Impossibility

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.73 Unforeseeability Required

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.74 Nature of Event

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.75 Temporary Impossibility

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.76 Frustration of Purpose

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.77 Destruction of Value Defined

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.78 Partial Impossibility

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.79--MB 300F.89 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300F.90 Object of Contract Must Be Legal

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.91 Unlawful Purpose--Defrauding Creditors

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.92 Usury Defined

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] When Jury Issue

[b] Necessary Intent

[c] What Is Interest

[d] Burden of Proof

MB 300F.93 Loan Defined

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.94 Interest Defined

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300F.95 Usury--Defense of Good Faith in Case of Variable Interest

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

126 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction Scope

Scope

SCOPE

This chapter includes jury instruction on various defenses that may be asserted to a contract action. For the California Judicial Council jury instructions on affirmative defenses in contract cases, see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions. Ch. 3 also includes Judicial Council instructions on other issues surrounding contracts, including formation, performance, interpretation, modification, breach, and damages. The instructions in this chapter are intended to supplement the Judicial Council instructions [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1050].

This chapter covers the following topics:

- Part A includes instructions on discharge, including accord and satisfaction, novation, and exoneration of a guarantor or surety [see MB 300F.01-MB 300F.07].
- Part B includes instructions on waiver, estoppel, and unclean hands [see MB 300F.20 -MB 300F.29].
- Part C includes instructions on the statute of frauds [see MB 300F.40-MB 300F.43].
- Part D includes instructions on the statute of limitations [see MB 300F.50-MB 300F.56].
- Part E includes instructions on impossibility and frustration of purpose [see MB 300F.70 -MB 300F.78].
- Part F includes instructions on illegality [see MB 300F.90 -MB 300F.95].

Some of the issues addressed in this chapter may also arise as part of plaintiff's case. For example, plaintiff might urge oral modification of a written agreement and have to prove either waiver or estoppel to assert the terms of the written agreement. The defense of usury is another example of a shield that can also be used as a sword. Practitioners should be careful when adapting instructions to substitute party designations when appropriate and to allocate the burden of proof properly.

An instruction defining the preponderance of the evidence standard of proof should be used with all instructions allocating a burden of proof to one of the parties [see Ch. 2, California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions, CACI No. 200 ("More Likely True than Not True")].

Ch. 3D, Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions, should be reviewed for issues that may have been pleaded as an affirmative defense but relate directly to performance or breach. Ch. 3G, Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions, includes instructions related to rescission.

127 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART A. DISCHARGE AND EXONERATION

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.01MB 300F.01 Accord and Satisfaction[1] Instruction Accord and Satisfaction[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Defendant claims as a defense that Plaintiff accepted the sum of $_____ in full satisfaction of Plaintiff's claim. To establish this defense, Defendant has the burden of proving all of the following:

(1) That there was an honest dispute about the amount due;

(2) That Defendant clearly notified Plaintiff that Defendant was offering payment of that sum in full satisfaction of the claim; and

(3) That Plaintiff accepted the payment.

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

Even if Plaintiff accepted Defendant's [check/draft] in the sum of $_____, this does not constitute full satisfaction of Plaintiff's claim if Plaintiff proves that:

[USE EITHER OR BOTH OF FOLLOWING (See Use of Instruction)]

(1) Plaintiff protested against accepting the [check/draft] in full satisfaction of [his/her/its] claim by striking out or otherwise deleting the words _____ ["payment in full" or specify other words of similar import] from the [check/draft];

[AND/OR]

(2) The acceptance of the [check/draft] was inadvertent or without knowledge that the words _____ ["payment in full" or specify other words of similar import] were notated on the [check/draft].

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 1521-1523, 1526; Potter v. Pacific Coast Lumber Co. (1951) 37 Cal.2d 592, 597, 234 P.2d 16 ; Thompson v. Williams (1989) 211 Cal.App.3d 566, 571, 259 Cal.Rptr. 518 ; Besco Enterprises, Inc. v. Carole, Inc. (1969) 274 Cal.App.2d 42, 44, 78 Cal.Rptr. 645 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the defense of accord and satisfaction is raised to an unliquidated claim.

The final three paragraphs of the instruction are to be used if the defense of accord and satisfaction is based on the tender of a check or draft notated with "payment in full" or similar words, and the plaintiff claims that there was no accord and satisfaction for the reasons provided in Civ. Code § 1526(a) [see [3], below, for discussion of Civ. Code § 1526]. Either or both of the numbered alternative paragraphs may be included in the instruction, depending on the facts alleged by the plaintiff to defeat the accord and satisfaction defense.

This instruction does not address the issues raised by a check or draft tendered pursuant to a composition or extension agreement between a debtor and its creditors [see Civ. Code § 1526(b) (check or draft as accord and satisfaction when tendered pursuant to composition or extension agreement)] or a check or draft tendered pursuant to or in conjunction with a release of a claim [see Civ. Code § 1526(c) (check or draft as accord and satisfaction when tendered pursuant to or in connection with a release)]. For an instruction on a release by the acceptance of final payment under a construction contract, see Ch. 3I, Matthew Bender Construction Contract Instructions, MB 300I.93.

If acceptance of payment is predicated on an uncashed check, see MB 300F.02.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Avoid This Defense By Showing Bad Faith:

Note the requirement that there be an "honest" dispute about the amount due. Even if the elements of an accord and satisfaction otherwise apply, a party may still be able to show that the dispute was in bad faith thereby avoiding this defense. But for defense counsel, in some cases this can be a powerful argument; thus, consider it. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

Accord and satisfaction is a defense [Potter v. Pacific Coast Lumber Co. (1951) 37 Cal.2d 592, 597, 234 P.2d 16]. As such, the burden of proof is on the defendant [Evid. Code § 500]. The principle of accord and satisfaction applies to an unliquidated claim when there is an honest dispute over the amount and there has been acceptance of payment that was clearly tendered on the condition that it be in full satisfaction of the debt [Potter v. Pacific Coast Lumber Co. (1951) 37 Cal.2d 592, 597, 234 P.2d 16 ; Thompson v. Williams (1989) 211 Cal.App.3d 566, 571, 259 Cal.Rptr. 518 ; Besco Enterprises, Inc. v. Carole, Inc. (1969) 274 Cal.App.2d 42, 78 Cal.Rptr. 645]. An accord is an agreement to accept, in extinction of an obligation, something different from or less than that to which the accepting party is entitled [Civ. Code § 1521; see Civ. Code § 1522 (effect of accord)]. The creditor's acceptance of an accord extinguishes the obligation and is called satisfaction [Civ. Code § 1523].

When a check or draft is tendered by a debtor in full discharge of a disputed or unliquidated claim, and "payment in full" or similar words are notated on the check or draft, acceptance of the check or draft is not an accord and satisfaction if the creditor protests against accepting the check or draft in full payment by striking out or otherwise deleting the notation or if the acceptance of the check or draft was inadvertent or without knowledge of the notation [Civ. Code § 1526(a)]. Despite this provision, the acceptance of a check or draft may constitute an accord and satisfaction if the check or draft was tendered pursuant to a composition or extension agreement between a debtor and its creditors [see Civ. Code § 1526(b) (check or draft as accord and satisfaction when tendered pursuant to composition or extension agreement)] or pursuant to or in conjunction with a release of a claim [see Civ. Code § 1526(c) (check or draft as accord and satisfaction when tendered pursuant to or in connection with a release)]; see also Ch. 3I, Matthew Bender Construction Contract Instructions, MB 300I.93 for an instruction on a release by the acceptance of final payment under a construction contract].

Before the adoption of Civ. Code § 1526, it was held that the creditor could not accept the benefit of the payment and reject the condition [Potter v. Pacific Coast Lumber Co. (1951) 37 Cal.2d 592, 599, 234 P.2d 16 ; Thompson v. Williams (1989) 211 Cal.App.3d 566, 575, 259 Cal.Rptr. 518]. Under Civ. Code § 1526, this rule clearly no longer applies to a check or draft tendered in full discharge of a disputed or unliquidated claim when "payment in full" or the like is notated on the check or draft. However, the rule should continue to govern when the statute does not apply, as when the payment alleged as an accord and satisfaction is a cash payment. Similarly, the statute does not apply when there is no notation such as "payment in full" on the check or draft and the notice and acceptance required for an accord and satisfaction are shown by means of the circumstances surrounding the transaction.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawNegotiable InstrumentsDischarge & PaymentDischargeContracts LawNegotiable InstrumentsDischarge & PaymentPaymentGeneral OverviewContracts LawPerformanceAccord & Satisfaction

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

128 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART A. DISCHARGE AND EXONERATION

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.02

MB 300F.02 Acceptance of Check

[1] Instruction Acceptance of Check

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A check is considered to have been accepted if it is retained and used by cashing it. A check is also considered accepted if it is retained uncashed for an unreasonable length of time without notification to _____ [person tendering check] that the check is rejected. What constitutes an unreasonable time is for you to decide under the circumstances.

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

If the creditor gives the debtor notice of rejection of the uncashed check within a reasonable time, [he/she/it] has no duty to return the uncashed check itself, unless requested to do so by the debtor.

Authorities: Besco Enterprises, Inc. v. Carole, Inc. (1969) 274 Cal.App.2d 42, 44, 78 Cal.Rptr. 645 ;
Sheldon Builders, Inc. v. Trojan Towers (1967) 255 Cal.App.2d 781, 788, 63 Cal.Rptr. 425 ; Western Pacific Land Co. v. Wilson (1912) 19 Cal.App. 338, 343, 125 P. 1076 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used together with MB 300F.01 when an accord and satisfaction is alleged to result from the unreasonable retention of an uncashed check offered in full satisfaction of a disputed debt. The optional sentence applies when there has been notice of rejection but no return of the check.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Rejecting Acceptance Argument: It will be difficult to persuade a jury that an uncashed check has been "accepted" absent further evidence. The question of what constitutes an "unreasonable" time gives the jury plenty of room to reject the acceptance argument. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

When a check is presented as payment and not refused, it is the payee's duty to return it without unreasonable delay if he or she does not wish to cash it. Otherwise, there will be a presumption that it constituted satisfaction of the obligation [Sheldon Builders, Inc. v. Trojan Towers (1967) 255 Cal.App.2d 781, 63 Cal.Rptr. 425]. It is up to the jury to determine from the circumstance whether a check is held for an unreasonable period of time so as to make its retention equivalent to payment [Western Pacific Land Co. v. Wilson (1912) 19 Cal.App. 338, 343, 125 P. 1076]. When prompt protest is made, the uncashed check need not be returned unless requested by the debtor [Besco Enterprises, Inc. v. Carole, Inc. (1969) 274 Cal.App.2d 42, 78 Cal.Rptr. 645].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawNegotiable InstrumentsDischarge & PaymentDischargeContracts LawNegotiable InstrumentsDischarge & PaymentPaymentGeneral OverviewContracts LawNegotiable InstrumentsDishonor & PresentmentPresentmentContracts LawPerformanceAccord & Satisfaction

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

129 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART A. DISCHARGE AND EXONERATION

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.03

MB 300F.03 Requirement of Payment by Deposit and Notice

[1] Instruction Requirement of Payment by Deposit and Notice

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The parties dispute the proper amount owed by Defendant to Plaintiff. Defendant offered payment in the amount [he/she/it] claimed was due, but Plaintiff refused it as not being enough. It is up to you to decide what amount was owed, but even if you find that Defendant offered the right amount, Plaintiff will be entitled to a judgment for any amount that has not in fact been paid. The mere offer of payment does not extinguish the obligation. There must be actual payment.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1500; Mau v. Hollywood Commercial Buildings, Inc. (1961) 194 Cal.App.2d 459, 468-469, 15 Cal.Rptr. 181 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there has been tender of performance without actual payment to the creditor or a bank deposit in the creditor's name.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Actual Payment Is Required to Extinguish

Debt: Sometimes an "offer to pay" is either ambiguous or based on conditions that are unacceptable.

This instruction cuts through the confusion by making clear that actual payment is required to extinguish a debt. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

A debt is extinguished by payment or by deposit in a bank in the creditor's name with notice to the creditor [Civ. Code § 1500]. The instruction is derived from one approved in Mau v. Hollywood Commercial Buildings, Inc. [Mau v. Hollywood Commercial Buildings, Inc. (1961) 194 Cal.App.2d 459, 468-469, 15 Cal.Rptr. 181]. There, the court of appeal held that the trial court erred in failing to give the following requested instruction:

I instruct you that an offer of partial performance of an obligation to pay money is of no effect as an extinguishment of an obligation. To extinguish an obligation for the payment of money there must not only be an offer of payment but also actual payment or the deposit of the amount due in a bank and notice of the deposit given to the creditor. The mere tender of a check does not extinguish an obligation for the payment of money.

Since the instruction only applies when no payment has been made, it appears unnecessary to instruct the jury that deposit in a bank is equivalent to payment, and that has not been included in the proposed instruction.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawNegotiable InstrumentsDischarge & PaymentPaymentMethods & Places

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

130 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART A. DISCHARGE AND EXONERATION

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.04

MB 300F.04 Primary Obligor Not Bound by Contract[1] Instruction Primary Obligor Not Bound by Contract[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Defendant claims as a defense that [he/she/it] is not responsible to pay Plaintiff because _____ [principal obligor] is not bound by the contract. To establish this defense, Defendant must prove by a preponderance of the evidence that _____ [principal obligor] is _____ [not or no longer] bound by the contract, and that Defendant did not know that _____ [principal obligor] was not bound by the contract at the time Defendant agreed to be responsible to pay _____ [principal obligor's] debt to Plaintiff.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 2810; Evid. Code § 500; Wells v. Comstock (1956) 46 Cal.2d 528, 532-533, 297 P.2d 961 ; Rochester Capital Leasing Corp. v. K & L Litho Corp. (1970) 13 Cal.App.3d 697, 702-703, 91 Cal.Rptr. 827 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when a defendant guarantor alleges as an affirmative defense that the principal obligor has a good defense to liability on the contract. However, this instruction should not be given when the principal obligor is not liable because of a mere personal disability [Civ. Code § 2810; Gottschalk v. Draper Companies (1972) 23 Cal.App.3d 828, 832, 100 Cal.Rptr. 434]. Nor should this instruction be given when the principal obligor's liability has been discharged solely by reason of (1) the statute of limitations, or (2) operation of law without any act or omission of the creditor [see [3][b], below]. If the fact that the principal is not bound by the contract is undisputed, then the instruction should be modified accordingly.

If the creditor claims that the guarantor has received something from the principal to reimburse the guarantor in the event he or she is required to pay the creditor, the instruction should be modified accordingly.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Help Jurors Understand the Term "Bound":

This instruction uses the term "bound" three times. Some jurors will have difficulty understanding the term in this context. So, plan your closing accordingly. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Defendant Guarantor's Argument: A defendant guarantor might argue that this instruction improperly reverses the burden of proof by requiring the defendant guarantor to prove that the original debtor was not bound by the contract. The argument would be that it is plaintiff's burden to establish the validity of the original obligation. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment[a] Exoneration

Generally, a guarantor is exonerated when the principal debtor has no liability under the contract [Civ. Code § 2810; Gottschalk v. Draper Companies (1972) 23 Cal.App.3d 828, 831, 100 Cal.Rptr. 434]. However, if the guarantor assumed liability with knowledge of the principal obligor's defense of the principal obligor, the guarantor is not exonerated [Civ. Code § 2810]. There is no clear authority on the allocation of the burden of proof on the question whether the surety knew that the principal had a defense to liability on the contract. The instruction allocates this burden in accordance with the general rule of Evid. Code § 500 that the burden of proof as to each fact is on the party to whom the existence or nonexistence of the fact is essential for the relief or defense claimed.

If the creditor has made a promise the effect of which is to impair his or her rights against the principal obligor, that promise may exonerate the surety regardless of whether the promise is unenforceable [Civ. Code § 2820; Wise v. Clapper (1968) 257 Cal.App.2d 770, 775-776, 65 Cal.Rptr. 231]. Similarly, the rescission of an agreement impairing the creditor's rights against the principal does not restore the liability of a surety who has been exonerated by the agreement [Civ. Code § 2821].

[b] No Exoneration

Exoneration of the guarantor does not result when the principal debtor's liability is discharged solely by reason of (1) a defense personal to the principal obligor [Gottschalk v. Draper Companies (1972) 23 Cal.App.3d 828, 832, 100 Cal.Rptr. 434], (2) the statute of limitations [Civ. Code § 2823; Regents of University of Cal. v. Hartford Acc. & Indem. Co. (1978) 21 Cal.3d 624, 633-639, 147 Cal.Rptr. 486, 581 P.2d 197], or (3) operation of law without an act or omission by the creditor [Civ. Code § 2825; Gottschalk v. Draper Companies (1972) 23 Cal.App.3d 828, 831, 100 Cal.Rptr. 434].

[c] Indemnification and Security

If the principal has indemnified the guarantor, the guarantor is liable to the creditor to the extent of the indemnity irrespective of the release of the principal's obligations [Civ. Code §§ 2819, 2822, 2824; Ehrman v. Rosenthal (1897) 117 Cal. 491, 497, 49 P. 460 ; but see Maurice Merc. Co. v. American Emp. Ins. Co. (1934) 140 Cal.App. 354, 359, 35 P.2d 1047]. Similarly, the creditor is entitled to receive any security the principal has given to the guarantor [Civ. Code § 2854; Banta v. Rosasco (1936) 12 Cal.App.2d 420, 422, 55 P.2d 601]. Civ. Code § 2854 does not expressly state that a creditor is entitled to the benefit of security given to the guarantor regardless of whether the principal's liability has been released. However, this would appear to be the only construction of Civ. Code § 2854 that is consistent with the rule expressed in Civ. Code § 2824 [see Cal. Jur. 3d, Suretyship and Guaranty, § 63; but see Maurice Merc. Co. v. American Emp. Ins. Co. (1934) 140 Cal.App. 354, 359, 35 P.2d 1047] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDebtor & Creditor RelationsContracts LawDefensesGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsGuaranty Contracts

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

131 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART A. DISCHARGE AND EXONERATION

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.05

MB 300F.05 Creditor's Rights Against Primary Obligor Altered[1] Instruction Creditor's Rights Against Primary Obligor Altered[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Defendant claims as a defense that [he/she/it] is not responsible to pay Plaintiff because Plaintiff's rights against _____ [principal obligor] have been changed. To establish this defense, Defendant must prove by a preponderance of the evidence that there has been a change in Plaintiff's rights against _____ [principal obligor] and that Defendant did not consent to the change.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 2819; Evid. Code § 500; Bloom v. Bender (1957) 48 Cal.2d 793, 800-803, 313 P.2d 568 ; Union Bank v. Gradsky (1968) 265 Cal.App.2d 40, 43, 71 Cal.Rptr. 64 ; Katz v. Haskell (1961) 196 Cal.App.2d 144, 151-152, 16 Cal.Rptr. 453 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when a defendant guarantor alleges as an affirmative defense that the creditor's rights against the principal obligor have been materially altered or impaired without the guarantor's consent.

This instruction should not be given when the creditor's rights against the principal obligor have been altered or impaired solely by operation of law without any act or omission by the creditor [see [3], below].

If the creditor claims that the guarantor has received something from the principal to reimburse the guarantor in the event he or she is required to pay the creditor, the instruction should be modified accordingly.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Addressing "Changes" in Party's "Rights":

This instruction does not contain any requirement that the "changes" in plaintiff's rights be important, significant, or material. Plaintiff's counsel may want to amend this instruction to include that requirement. Additionally, the idea of a "change" in one party's "rights" will be challenging to many jurors. Hence, think through how to explain this idea. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

Generally, a guarantor is exonerated when the rights of the creditor against the principal obligor are materially altered or impaired without the guarantor's consent [Civ. Code § 2819; FM Conner v. Conner (1999) 76 Cal.App.4th 646, 649-652, 90 Cal.Rptr.2d 687 (finding no alteration of obligation as surety); Cathay Bank v. Lee (1993) 14 Cal.App.4th 1533, 1535, 18 Cal.Rptr.2d 420 ; Union Bank v. Gradsky (1968) 265 Cal.App.2d 40, 44-45, 71 Cal.Rptr. 64]. A material alteration is one that works a change in the meaning or legal effect of the contract regardless of whether it is prejudicial [Verdugo Highlands, Inc. v. Security Ins. Co. (1966) 240 Cal.App.2d 527, 530, 49 Cal.Rptr. 736]. The guarantor's consent to the change in the creditor's rights against the principal prevents the guarantor's exoneration regardless of whether the consent is given in advance of, simultaneously with, or after the time of the change [Bloom v. Bender (1957) 48 Cal.2d 793, 801, 313 P.2d 568].

Although dictum in Braun v. Crew [Braun v. Crew (1920) 183 Cal. 728, 733, 192 P. 531] suggests that the burden of proving that the surety did not consent is on the surety, there is no clear authority on the matter. This instruction allocates that burden in accordance with the general rule of Evid. Code § 500 that the burden of proof as to each fact is on the party to whom the existence or nonexistence of the fact is essential for the relief or defense claimed.

An agreement by a creditor to accept from the principal obligor a sum less than the balance owed on the original obligation, without the prior consent of the surety and without any other change to the underlying agreement between the creditor and principal obligor, does not exonerate the guarantor for the lesser sum agreed on by the creditor and principal obligor [Civ. Code § 2822(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDebtor & Creditor RelationsContracts LawDefensesGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsGuaranty Contracts

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

132 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART A. DISCHARGE AND EXONERATION

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.06

MB 300F.06 Creditor's Failure to Exhaust Security or Attempt to Recover From Principal Obligor[1] Instruction Creditor's Failure to Exhaust Security or Attempt to Recover From Principal Obligor[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Defendant claims as a defense that [he/she/it] is not required to pay Plaintiff because [he/she/it] demanded that Plaintiff first seek to recover from _____ [primary obligor or the security given to plaintiff] and Plaintiff failed to do so. To establish this defense, Defendant has the burden of proving both of the following:

(1) That Defendant demanded that Plaintiff seek recovery from _____ [primary obligor or the security given to plaintiff]; and

(2) That Plaintiff failed to seek recovery from _____ [primary obligor or the security given to plaintiff].

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

If Defendant proves both of these things, Defendant is not responsible to pay anything to Plaintiff except to the extent that Plaintiff proves that Plaintiff could not have recovered from _____ [primary obligor or the security] even if Plaintiff had sought the recovery.

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 2845, 2849; Glickman v. Collins (1975) 13 Cal.3d 852, 862, 120 Cal.Rptr. 76, 533 P.2d 204 ; Sukut-Coulson, Inc. v. Allied Canon Co. (1978) 85 Cal.App.3d 648, 654-655, 149 Cal.Rptr. 711 ; Moffett v. Miller (1953) 119 Cal.App.2d 712, 713-714, 260 P.2d 215 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when a defendant guarantor contends, as an affirmative defense, that despite his or her demand, the creditor failed to attempt to recover from the primary obligor or exhaust the security. The burden appears to shift to the plaintiff to prove that the attempt to recover would have been unavailing [see [3], below].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care When Explaining This Instruction:

This instruction is complicated, especially with its references to someone or something else. So, be careful how to explain it in your closing. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Defendant Guarantor's Argument: As with the instruction in MB 300F.04, a defendant guarantor might argue that this instruction improperly reverses the burden of proof by requiring the defendant guarantor to prove that the original debtor was not bound by the contract. The argument would be that it is plaintiff's burden to establish the validity of the original obligation. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

A guarantor may require the creditor to pursue any other remedy available only to the creditor, including an action against the principal obligor, or to exhaust any security, before the guarantor may be held liable [Civ. Code §§ 2845, 2849; Glickman v. Collins (1975) 13 Cal.3d 852, 862-863, 120 Cal.Rptr. 76, 533 P.2d 204 ; Moffett v. Miller (1953) 119 Cal.App.2d 712, 713-714, 260 P.2d 215]. However, the creditor has no obligation to either exhaust the security or pursue any other remedy absent a demand by the surety [Sukut-Coulson, Inc. v. Allied Canon Co. (1978) 85 Cal.App.3d 648, 654-655, 149 Cal.Rptr. 711 ; see Developers Small Business Investment Corp. v. Hoeckle (9th Cir. 1968) 395 F.2d 80, 85 n. 2]. Should the creditor fail to pursue other available remedies after a demand by the surety that the creditor do so, the surety is exonerated to the extent he or she is prejudiced [Civ. Code § 2845; Glickman v. Collins (1975) 13 Cal.3d 852, 863, 120 Cal.Rptr. 76, 533 P.2d 204 ; Moffett v. Miller (1953) 119 Cal.App.2d 712, 714, 260 P.2d 215].

The proper allocation of the burden of proof on the question whether the surety has been prejudiced may be in doubt. This instruction allocates the burden in accordance with the holding of Moffett v. Miller [Moffett v. Miller (1953) 119 Cal.App.2d 712, 714, 260 P.2d 215]. Although acknowledging that that case is authority to the contrary, one author nonetheless has suggested that the burden should be on the surety [see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 583, Suretyship, Bonds, and Undertakings (Matthew Bender)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDebtor & Creditor RelationsContracts LawDefensesGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsGuaranty ContractsEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofBurden Shifting

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

133 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART A. DISCHARGE AND EXONERATION

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.07

MB 300F.07 Creditor's Obligation to Disclose Material Facts to Guarantor[1] Instruction Creditor's Obligation to Disclose Material Facts to Guarantor[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Defendant claims as a defense that [he/she/it] is not responsible to pay Plaintiff because of Plaintiff's failure to disclose important facts to Defendant. To establish this defense, Defendant must prove all of the following:

1. That before Defendant guaranteed _____ [principal obligor's] debt to Plaintiff, Plaintiff was _____ [aware of facts or had good grounds to be aware of facts] that increased in an important way the risk that Defendant had agreed to assume;
2. That these facts were unknown to Defendant;
3. That Plaintiff had reason to believe that those facts were unknown to Defendant;
4. That Plaintiff had a reasonable opportunity to communicate those facts to Defendant; and
5. That Plaintiff did not do so before Defendant guaranteed the debt.

Authority: Sumitomo Bank of Cal. v. Iwasaki (1968) 70 Cal.2d 81, 90, 73 Cal.Rptr. 564, 447 P.2d 956 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when a guarantor claims as an affirmative defense that he or she is not liable to the creditor because the creditor knew, or had good grounds to believe, but failed to disclose to the guarantor, material facts that increased the risk of the guarantee. The use of the word important is suggested instead of material.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--All Elements Must Be Satisfied: This instruction

sets forth the elements that will give rise to a duty on the part of plaintiff creditor to disclose information to a guarantor. Note that all of the elements have to be satisfied to establish a defense based on failure to disclose. And, go over each element carefully to avoid juror confusion. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

If before the guarantor undertook his or her obligation, the creditor (1) knew, or had good grounds for believing, facts unknown to the guarantor that materially increased the guarantor's risk beyond that which the creditor had reason to believe the guarantor intended to assume, and (2) the creditor also had reason to believe that those facts were unknown to the guarantor and had a reasonable opportunity to communicate the facts to the guarantor, the creditor's failure to notify the guarantor is a defense to liability on the guarantee [Sumitomo Bank of Cal. v. Iwasaki (1968) 70 Cal.2d 81, 90, 73 Cal.Rptr. 564, 447 P.2d 956]. However, the creditor is not required to undertake an investigation for the guarantor's benefit or to take any unusual steps to insure that the guarantor is acquainted with facts that the creditor may assume are known to both of them [Sumitomo Bank of Cal. v. Iwasaki (1968) 70 Cal.2d 81, 91, 73 Cal.Rptr. 564, 447 P.2d 956 ; Restatement of Security § 124, Comment b (1941)]. On a revocable continuing guarantee of credit, the creditor owes this duty of disclosure to the guarantor before each new extension of credit to the principal obligor [Sumitomo Bank of Cal. v. Iwasaki (1968) 70 Cal.2d 81, 92, 73 Cal.Rptr. 564, 447 P.2d 956].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDebtor & Creditor RelationsContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationMaterial
MisrepresentationContracts LawTypes of ContractsGuaranty Contracts

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

134 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART A. DISCHARGE AND EXONERATION

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.08--MB 300F.19

Reserved for Future Use

MB 300F.08Reserved for Future Use

135 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART B. WAIVER, ESTOPPEL, AND UNCLEAN HANDS

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.20

MB 300F.20 Waiver Defined

[1] Instruction Waiver Defined

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

You may find waiver if you find that Plaintiff deliberately acted so inconsistently with an intent to enforce the right in question that a reasonable person would believe that Plaintiff had relinquished that right.

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

The right must have been in existence at the time of the acts claimed to constitute waiver. Only an existing right can be waived.

Authorities: Soon v. Beckman (1965) 234 Cal.App.2d 33, 36, 44 Cal.Rptr. 190 ; Howard J. White, Inc. v. Varian Associates (1960) 178 Cal.App.2d 348, 355, 2 Cal.Rptr. 871 ; Richfield Oil v. Security-First Nat. Bank (1958) 159 Cal.App.2d 184, 194, 323 P.2d 834 ; Bettelheim v. Hagstrom Food Stores (1952) 113 Cal.App.2d 873, 878, 249 P.2d 301 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction defines the nature of waiver. If waiver allegedly consists of conduct, an additional requirement of reliance exists [see MB 300F.21]. Reliance is arguably required in express cases as well. The instruction assumes that defendant is raising the defense of waiver. If plaintiff is alleging waiver, then the designation defendant should be substituted for plaintiff. The optional paragraph should be used only when there is a question of fact as to whether the right existed at the time of the alleged waiver.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Explain "Waiver" to Jury: Words such as "waiver" and "waived" are foreign to most jurors. And, the phrase "so inconsistently" will confuse some jurors. Thus, make sure to spend time explaining these terms. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Convincing Jury to Accept Waiver Defense: Although there is no requirement in this instruction that plaintiff receive any consideration for the waiver, it may be difficult to convince a jury that the plaintiff "deliberately" gave up a valuable right for nothing. Alternatively, proving that defendant relied on plaintiff's waiver (even if plaintiff received nothing in return) is another way to convince a jury to accept this defense. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Waiver Defined; Burden of Proof

Waiver is the intentional relinquishment of a known right [Earl of Loveless, Inc. v. Gabele (1991) 2 Cal.App.4th 27, 35, 2 Cal.Rptr.2d 829 ; Salton Community Services Dist. v. Southard (1967) 256 Cal.App.2d 526, 532-533, 64 Cal.Rptr. 246]. It may result from an act that according to its natural import is so inconsistent with the intent to enforce the right in question as to induce a reasonable belief that the right has been relinquished [Soon v. Beckman (1965) 234 Cal.App.2d 33, 36, 44 Cal.Rptr. 190 ; Howard J. White, Inc. v. Varian Associates (1960) 178 Cal.App.2d 348, 355, 2 Cal.Rptr. 871].

Waiver is an affirmative defense that presents a question of fact to be determined from all of the surrounding circumstances [Richfield Oil v. Security-First Nat. Bank (1958) 159 Cal.App.2d 184, 194, 323 P.2d 834 ; Banducci v. Frank T. Hickey, Inc. (1949) 93 Cal.App.2d 658, 663, 209 P.2d 398]. As such, the burden of proof is on the defendant [Evid. Code § 500]. The waiver of a known right must be shown by clear and convincing evidence and not by a preponderance of the evidence [DRG/Beverly Hills, Ltd. v. Chopstix Dim Sum Cafe & Takeout III, Ltd. (1994) 30 Cal.App.4th 54, 60-61, 35 Cal.Rptr.2d 515 (trial court correctly instructed jury that waiver of known right must be shown by clear and convincing evidence)]. If plaintiff is alleging waiver as part of plaintiff's case in chief, such as waiver of rights under a written agreement as the basis for enforcement of an oral modification, then plaintiff will have the burden of proof [Evid. Code § 500; see Ch. 3A, Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions]. The test of whether a contractual provision may be waived by one party is not whether the parties believed or assumed that it could be waived. Instead, the determinative inquiry is whether the provision was inserted for the sole benefit of one of the parties [Wyler Summit Partnership v. Turner Broadcasting (9th Cir. 2000) 235 F.3d 1184, 1190-1192 (trial court erred in granting summary judgment to movie studio on issue of waiver when genuine issue of material fact existed regarding whether installment provision originally was included in contract for sole benefit of director)].

An additional requirement of reliance is present in cases of waiver by conduct [see MB 300F.21]. Indeed, Witkin suggests that a waiver may always be retracted until the other party materially changes his or her position in reliance on it. Thus, Witkin states that although waiver is defined as the intentional relinquishment of a known right, it is generally not binding without an additional showing of consideration, election of one of two inconsistent rights, or estoppel. Witkin concludes that when there is no consideration and there has been no choice between inconsistent rights, the waiver, express or implied, may be retracted until the other party's reliance thereon creates an estoppel [Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, § 825 (10th ed. 2005)].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 336 Affirmative Defense--Waiver

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Contract Conditions & Provisions Waivers General Overview Evidence Procedural Considerations Burdens of Proof Clear & Convincing Proof

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

136 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART B. WAIVER, ESTOPPEL, AND UNCLEAR HANDS

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.21

MB 300F.21 Waiver by Conduct

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Waiver may be based on verbal expressions, or alternatively, on conduct. If you find waiver based on Plaintiff's conduct rather than verbal expressions, Defendant must additionally establish that [he/she/it] relied in good faith on that conduct to [his/her/its] prejudice.

Authorities: Jones v. Sunset Oil Co. (1953) 118 Cal.App.2d 668, 672-673, 258 P.2d 510 ; Linnard v. Sonnenschein (1928) 94 Cal.App. 729, 736, 272 P. 315 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used with the instruction in MB 300F.20 in cases involving waiver by conduct.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Good Faith Reliance Requirement: Note the requirement of good faith reliance if the waiver is based on conduct. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Waiver by Conduct

Waiver may result from words or conduct [Jones v. Sunset Oil Co. (1953) 118 Cal.App.2d 668, 672-673, 258 P.2d 510 ; Linnard v. Sonnenschein (1928) 94 Cal.App. 729, 735-736, 272 P. 315]. If conduct is relied on as constituting waiver, bona fide reliance on that conduct must also appear [Jones v. Sunset Oil Co. (1953) 118 Cal.App.2d 668, 672-673, 258 P.2d 510]. The other party must show that he or she was misled to his or her prejudice into the honest belief that waiver was intended [Linnard v. Sonnenschein (1928) 94 Cal.App. 729, 736, 272 P. 315]. Since waiver may be retracted, it is arguable that a binding express waiver may also depend on a showing of reliance by the other party [Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, § 825 (10th ed. 2005); see MB 300F.20[3]].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 336 Affirmative Defense--Waiver

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsWaiversGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

137 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART B. WAIVER, ESTOPPEL, AND UNCLEAN HANDS

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.22

MB 300F.22 Waiver of Timely Payments

[1] Instruction Waiver of Timely Payments

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The contract here required Defendant to make payments according to a payment schedule. Defendant claims as a defense that Plaintiff _____ [granted oral extensions or engaged in conduct inconsistent with strict insistence on the terms of payment] that operated as a waiver of the payment terms. To establish this defense, Defendant must prove that Plaintiff acted so inconsistently with an intent to enforce the payment schedule as to lead Defendant reasonably to believe that Plaintiff had given up the right to enforce the payment schedule according to its terms. If you find that Plaintiff waived the payment terms, Plaintiff may not rely on the terms unless [he/she/it] later notified Defendant that the terms would be enforced and gave Defendant a reasonable time to pay.

Authorities: Kossler v. Palm Springs Developments, Ltd. (1980) 101 Cal.App.3d 88, 99, 161 Cal.Rptr. 423 ; Hunt v. Smyth (1972) 25 Cal.App.3d 807, 822, 101 Cal.Rptr. 4 ; Bledsoe v. Pacific Ready Cut Homes, Inc. (1928) 92 Cal.App. 641, 645 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is an alleged waiver of a payment schedule allowing a reasonable time for payment. It is drafted on the assumption that defendant is the party claiming waiver, but is equally applicable when plaintiff alleges contractual rights predicated on defendant's alleged waiver of strict compliance with a payment schedule. In that event, the party designations should be reversed and the burden of proof will be on plaintiff.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Retracting a Waiver: This instruction includes a provision that a waiver of timely payments may be retracted so long as the other party is given notice and a reasonable opportunity to perform. What constitutes a reasonable opportunity may depend on how long the waiver was in effect. And, there will likely be factual disputes that should be highlighted for the jury.

By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Waiver of Timely Payments

When a specified time for performance has been waived by a party, he or she must, to put the other in default, not only give notice that strict compliance will thereafter be required, but must also allow the other party a reasonable time within which to perform [Kossler v. Palm Springs Developments, Ltd. (1980) 101 Cal.App.3d 88, 99, 161 Cal.Rptr. 423]. Thus, when the payment of an installment has been waived, before foreclosure, the creditor must give notice of intent to require performance and a reasonable opportunity to perform [Hunt v. Smyth (1972) 25 Cal.App.3d 807, 822, 101 Cal.Rptr. 4 ; Bledsoe v. Pacific Ready Cut Homes, Inc. (1928) 92 Cal.App. 641, 645]. The burden of proof is on the party alleging waiver [Evid. Code § 500]. Thus, when the payment of an installment has been waived, before foreclosure, the creditor must give notice of intent to require performance and a reasonable opportunity to perform [Hunt v. Smyth (1972) 25 Cal.App.3d 807, 822, 101 Cal.Rptr. 4 ; Bledsoe v. Pacific Ready Cut Homes, Inc. (1928) 92 Cal.App. 641, 645]. The burden of proof is on the party alleging waiver [Evid. Code § 500].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 336 Affirmative Defense--Waiver

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsWaiversAcceptance of Late PaymentContracts LawNegotiable InstrumentsDischarge & PaymentPaymentTime for PaymentContracts LawNegotiable InstrumentsDishonor & PresentmentExcused Presentment & Notice

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

138 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART B. WAIVER, ESTOPPEL, AND UNCLEAN HANDS

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.23

MB 300F.23 Waiver of Defects in Offer of Performance

[1] Instruction Waiver of Defects in Offer of Performance

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The offer of performance by Defendant differed from the agreement. Defendant claims as a defense that Plaintiff waived the right to object because the differences could have been corrected if they had been pointed out at the time. To establish this defense, Defendant must prove both of the following:

1. That at the time the offer of performance was made Plaintiff had the opportunity to point out to Defendant that [his/her/its] performance was defective but did not do so; and

2. That Defendant could then have performed according to the agreement.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1501; Code Civ. Proc. § 2076; Hind v. Oriental Products Co., Inc. (1925) 195 Cal. 655, 672, 235 P. 438 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in cases involving one or more defects in a rejected tender of performance when the defects were curable if objection had been raised at the time of tender. If plaintiff's acceptance of performance was allegedly based on the fact that the defects were latent, this instruction should be followed with the instruction in MB 300F.24. The instruction assumes that it was defendant's tender that was rejected by plaintiff but is equally applicable to defendant's rejection of plaintiff's tender. If plaintiff is making the claim of waiver, then the party designations should be reversed. It then becomes an instruction on performance to be used in conjunction with the instructions in Ch. 3D, Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][e], below.

[3] Comment[a] Objection Requirement

Civ. Code § 1501 and Code Civ. Proc. § 2076 both require a person to whom tender is made to state any objections at the time of the tender that could be obviated by the other party. Otherwise, the objections will be deemed waived [Hind v. Oriental Products Co., Inc. (1925) 195 Cal. 655, 672, 235 P. 438 ; Allen v. Chatfield (1916) 172 Cal. 60, 69, 156 P. 47]. Loss of the opportunity to correct the tender is apparently sufficient prejudice to render the waiver binding [see MB 300F.20[3]].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Note Exceptions to Rule: Note the exceptions in the commentary to the rule that objections must be made at the time of performance or the objections will be waived. The biggest exception is hidden defects [see MB 300F.24]. By Ronald Oster

[b] When Objection Must Be Made

Although the statutes specify that the objections must be made at the time of tender, objection may also be made in advance so long as it fulfills the purpose of the statutes to allow the debtor an opportunity to make a conforming tender [Noyes v. Habitation Resources, Inc. (1975) 49 Cal.App.3d 910, 914-915, 123 Cal.Rptr. 261]. Courts have also held in the case of payment by check that refusal to cash the check plus a statement of reasons within a reasonable time thereafter is sufficient to satisfy the objection requirement [see Sheldon Builders, Inc. v. Trojan Towers (1967) 255 Cal.App.2d 781, 788, 63 Cal.Rptr. 425 ; Peterson v. Kaufman (1929) 100 Cal.App. 330, 332, 279 P. 1016]. If these situations are present, the instruction should be modified accordingly.

[c] Adequacy of Objection

The factual issue most likely to be litigated is whether and to what extent objection to the tender was made. An objection to a tender on one ground, such as amount of tender, waives all other grounds of objections [Bogue v. Roeth (1929) 98 Cal.App. 257, 262, 276 P. 1071]. Moreover, when the objection is to the amount of money, terms of an instrument, or kind of property, the rejecting party must generally specify the required performance or be precluded from objecting afterward [Code Civ. Proc. § 2076].

When a dispute exists as to the extent of the objection, it is for the trier of fact to decide whether the objection has been made [see Fidler v. Schiller (1963) 212 Cal.App.2d 569, 575-576, 28 Cal.Rptr. 48]. The burden of proof is on the party asserting waiver. Loss of the opportunity to correct the tender is apparently sufficient prejudice to render the waiver binding [see MB 300F.20[3]].

Generally, types of defects that should have been raised at the time of tender or not at all include the following:

- The amount of money, terms of an instrument, or amount or kind of property [Code Civ. Proc. § 2076; Hohener v. Gauss (1963) 221 Cal.App.2d 797, 799-800, 34 Cal.Rptr. 656];
- The informality of the tender [Peardon v. Markley (1920) 50 Cal.App. 257, 262-263, 195 P. 70 ; but see Young v. Rocha (1923) 65 Cal.App. 15, 19, 222 P. 861]; and
- The imposition of conditions that the offeror is not entitled to demand [Layton v. West (1969) 271 Cal.App.2d 508, 511-512, 76 Cal.Rptr. 507].

[d] When Objection Is Not Necessary

The purpose of the rule is to permit a person making a tender in good faith the opportunity to conform the tender to any objections [Still v. Plaza Marina Commercial Corp. (1971) 21 Cal.App.3d 378, 386, 98 Cal.Rptr. 414]. Thus, no objection need be made at the time of tender if the defect in the tender amounts to a total failure to deliver [Ward v. Lewis Lumber Co. v. Mahony (1925) 70 Cal.App. 708, 714, 234 P. 417]. Failure to object also does not waive the requirement of Civ. Code § 1495 that the person offering the tender must be able and willing to perform [Allen v. Chatfield (1916) 172 Cal. 60, 68-69, 156 P. 47 ; Canal-Randolph Anaheim, Inc. v. Wilkoski (1978) 78 Cal.App.3d 477, 497, 144 Cal.Rptr. 474]. Other examples of situations when objections can be raised at any time include:

- The requirement that an assignee of a lease be equal to the lessee in financial and moral responsibility [Reuling v. Sergeant (1949) 93 Cal.App.2d 241, 243, 208 P.2d 1046];
- Tender pursuant to a contract no longer in force [Major-Blakeney Corp. v. Jenkins (1953) 121 Cal.App.2d 325, 332, 263 P.2d 655];
- The purported tender of a wholly different proposal [Thomassen v. Carr (1957) 250 Cal.App.2d 341, 349-350, 58 Cal.Rptr. 297];
- Tender of a grossly inadequate sum [Colton v. Oakland Bank of Savings (1902) 137 Cal. 376, 382-383, 70 P. 225 ($10 tendered toward $20,000 debt)];
- Tender of unmerchantable title [Allen v. Chatfield (1916) 172 Cal. 60, 68-69, 156 P. 47]; and
- Additional escrow instructions not within the power of the parties to perform [Wuchner v. Goggin (9th Cir. 1949) 175 F.2d 261].

[e] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 336 Affirmative Defense--Waiver

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsWaiversGeneral OverviewContracts LawPerformanceTender & DeliveryContracts LawSales of GoodsBuyer's Duty to InspectBuyer's Right to RejectContracts LawSales of GoodsForm, Formation & ReadjustmentFormationModification, Rescission & WaiverContracts LawSales of GoodsPerformanceTender of Delivery

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

139 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART B. WAIVER, ESTOPPEL, AND UNCLEAN HANDS

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.24

MB 300F.24 Hidden Defects

[1] Instruction Hidden Defects

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Even though Plaintiff _____ [specify conduct indicating acceptance of performance], Plaintiff may show that Defendant's performance was incomplete if Plaintiff proves both of the following:

- 1. Plaintiff was unaware of the defects in Defendant's performance and had no reasonable method of determining the defects at the time; and
- 2. Plaintiff gave notice of the defects to the Defendant within a reasonable time after determining that they existed.

Authority: Banducci v. Frank T. Hickey, Inc. (1949) 93 Cal.App.2d 658, 663, 209 P.2d 398 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the accepting party's conduct might indicate waiver of complete performance by the other party [see MB 300F.23] but there is evidence that the defects were latent. Whether there is an additional requirement of reliance may depend on whether the waiver is express or implied [see MB 300F.20[3]]. The instruction assumes that the plaintiff is raising hidden defects in defendant's performance, thereby vitiating plaintiff's prior acceptance of Defendant's performance. It is equally applicable to a claim by defendant of latent defects in plaintiff's performance. If defendant is making the claim, the party designations should be reversed. It then becomes an instruction on performance to be used in conjunction with the instructions in Ch. 3D, Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Availability of Defense: The key element in this instruction is the requirement that plaintiff had no reasonable method of determining the defect "at the time." So long as plaintiff objects within a reasonable amount of time to defective performance, it will be difficult to prevail on this defense. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care With Closing: The term "defects" may be confusing in the context of some lawsuits. So, be careful with the related closing. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

Whether defects are patent or latent and when they were discovered are for the jury to determine on appropriate instructions. The burden of proof appears to be on the party accepting performance since the conduct creates a presumption that the performance was proper [Banducci v. Frank T. Hickey, Inc. (1949) 93 Cal.App.2d 658, 663, 209 P.2d 398].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsWaiversGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

140 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART B. WAIVER, ESTOPPEL, AND UNCLEAR HANDS

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.25

MB 300F.25 Waiver of Rights as Third Party Beneficiary[1] Instruction Waiver of Rights as Third Party Beneficiary[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Defendant claims as a defense that Plaintiff waived any rights under the contract between Defendant and _____ [other party to contract]. To establish this defense, Defendant must prove both of the following:

(1) That Plaintiff knew what [his/her/its] rights were under the contract; and

(2) That, with this knowledge, [he/she/it] voluntarily refused to accept the benefits of the contract.

Authorities: Liodas v. Sahadi (1977) 19 Cal.3d 278, 287 n. 4, 137 Cal.Rptr. 635, 562 P.2d 316 ; Bass v. John Hancock Mut. Life Ins. Co. (1974) 10 Cal.3d 792, 796, 112 Cal.Rptr. 195, 518 P.2d 1147 ; Gilbert Financial Corp. v. Steelform Contracting Co. (1978) 82 Cal.App.3d 65, 70-71, 145 Cal.Rptr. 448 ; Stanley v. Robert S. Odell and Co. (1950) 97 Cal.App.2d 521, 533, 218 P.2d 162 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used together with any other applicable instructions on waiver contained in this part in a suit by a third party beneficiary whom the defendant claims has waived the benefit of the contract.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

[3] Comment[a] Waiver of Rights of Third Party Beneficiary

The burden of proving waiver of the rights of a third party beneficiary is on the party claiming waiver. Although the court stated that the proof must be by clear and convincing evidence [Bass v. John Hancock Mut. Life Ins. Co. (1974) 10 Cal.3d 792, 796, 112 Cal.Rptr. 195, 518 P.2d 1147], it is doubtful that the court intended the use of this language to invoke a higher standard of proof than generally applicable in civil cases [see Liodas v. Sahadi (1977) 19 Cal.3d 278, 287 n. 4, 137 Cal.Rptr. 635, 562 P.2d 316 ; but see DRG/Beverly Hills, Ltd. v. Chopstix Dim Sum Cafe & Takeout III, Ltd. (1994) 30 Cal.App.4th 54, 60-61, 35 Cal.Rptr.2d 515 (trial court correctly instructed jury that waiver of known right must be shown by clear and convincing evidence)].

The concept of waiver of the rights of a third party beneficiary is generally described as one applying to donee beneficiaries [see, e.g., Stanley v. Robert S. Odell and Co. (1950) 97 Cal.App.2d 521, 533, 218 P.2d 162], but there is no reason not to apply the same rule to creditor beneficiaries [see Gilbert Financial Corp. v. Steelform Contracting Co. (1978) 82 Cal.App.3d 65, 70-71, 145 Cal.Rptr. 448].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 301 Third Party Beneficiary

CACI No. 336 Affirmative Defense--Waiver

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsWaiversGeneral OverviewContracts LawThird PartiesBeneficiariesDefenses

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

141 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART B. WAIVER, ESTOPPEL, AND UNCLEAR HANDS

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.26

MB 300F.26 Waiver of Right to Treat Breach as Repudiation

[1] Instruction Waiver of Right to Treat Breach as Repudiation

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff claims that Defendant breached the contract by _____ [describe conduct allegedly constituting repudiation]. Defendant claims as a defense that at the time Plaintiff did not treat that conduct as terminating the contract but instead elected to treat the contract as ongoing. To establish this defense, Defendant must prove that Plaintiff did not treat Defendant's conduct as terminating the contract. If this is shown, then the contract continued in effect, and Plaintiff was required to perform when the time came for Plaintiff's performance.

Authorities: Calhoun v. Davis (1953) 121 Cal.App.2d 167, 172, 262 P.2d 620 ; Cook v. Nordstrand (1948) 83 Cal.App.2d 188, 195, 188 P.2d 282 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is a question of fact as to whether the party receiving the notice disregarded it and elected to treat the contract as ongoing. It should be used in conjunction with the instructions in Ch. 3D, Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions, on excuse for performance. Waiver of the right to treat breach as repudiation also affects the application of the statute of limitations [see MB 300F.50[3]].

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care With These Concepts: The concepts of "terminating" and "ongoing" may be unique to some jurors. In addition, not every breach constitutes a termination of the contract. This instruction addresses the situation (and the consequences) that arise when plaintiff treats the contract as ongoing, including the requirement that plaintiff perform. By Rex Heeseman and Ronald Oster

[3] Comment[a] Repudiation

Repudiation is of no effect if the other party disregards it. A party may not rely on a repudiation as an excuse for nonperformance if the party continued to treat the contract as continuing after the repudiation [Cook v. Nordstrand (1948) 83 Cal.App.2d 188, 195, 188 P.2d 282]. Disregarding the repudiation is a form of waiver. Since waiver is an affirmative defense [Calhoun v. Davis (1953) 121 Cal.App.2d 167, 172, 262 P.2d 620], the burden of proof should be on the defendant.

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 324 Anticipatory Breach

CACI No. 336 Affirmative Defense--Waiver

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawBreachAnticipatory RepudiationGeneral OverviewContracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsWaiversGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

142 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART B. WAIVER, ESTOPPEL, AND UNCLEAN HANDS

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.27

MB 300F.27 Estoppel[1] Instruction Estoppel

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Defendant claims as a defense that Plaintiff is barred from claiming _____ [state plaintiff's position] because of _____ [describe plaintiff's alleged prior statement or conduct to the contrary]. To establish this defense, Defendant must prove all of the following:

(1) That Plaintiff made a representation of fact by words or conduct intending that Defendant should rely on it. [ADD IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction) This conduct may also include silence if Plaintiff had a duty to speak and remained silent knowing that the circumstances required [him/her/it] to speak;]

(2) That Plaintiff knew the facts;

(3) That Defendant was ignorant of the true state of facts; and

(4) That Defendant reasonably relied on Plaintiff's representation to Defendant's injury. Defendant's reliance must be reasonable in the sense that under the circumstances a reasonable person would have acted as Defendant did.

Authorities: Evid. Code § 623; Robinson v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1992) 2 Cal.4th 226, 244-245, 5 Cal.Rptr.2d 782, 825 P.2d 767; Lusardi Construction Co. v. Aubry (1992) 1 Cal.4th 976, 994, 4 Cal.Rptr.2d 837, 824 P.2d 643; Shaffer v. Debbas (1993) 17 Cal.App.4th 33, 43; Lundeen Coatings Corp. v. Department of Water & Power (1991) 232 Cal.App.3d 816, 829, 283 Cal.Rptr. 551; Security Environmental Systems, Inc. v. South Coast Air Quality Management Dist. (1991) 229 Cal.App.3d 110, 128-129, 280 Cal.Rptr. 108; Laks v. Coast Fed. Sav. & Loan Assn.

(1976) 60 Cal.App.3d 885, 890-891, 131 Cal.Rptr. 836 ; Miller v. Rau (1963) 216 Cal.App.2d 68, 79, 30 Cal.Rptr. 612 ; Bettelheim v. Hagstrom Food Stores (1952) 113 Cal.App.2d 873, 879, 249 P.2d 301 ; C.I.T. Corporation v. Hawley (1939) 34 Cal.App.2d 66, 72, 93 P.2d 216 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the defense of estoppel is tried to a jury. It can also be used together with an instruction on oral modification of a written contract either as a defense or as part of plaintiff's case in chief [see Civ. Code § 1698(d)]. If plaintiff is the party relying on the estoppel, the party designations should be reversed, and plaintiff has the burden of proof [Evid. Code § 500]. If the issue is the enforceability of an oral modification of a written contract, the instruction should be preceded by the instruction in Ch. 3A, Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions, MB 300A.47. The optional sentence should be included if silence is relied on as creating or contributing to the estoppel. For instructions on when a party has a duty to speak, see Ch. 3G, Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--If Appropriate, Explain Each Element to Jury:

Estoppel is an equitable defense that is usually tried to the court. As noted in the commentary in [3], below, there are situations when it can become an issue for the jury. The key element in the defense is proving reasonable reliance. Still, all of the elements of this instruction will seem confusing to some jurors. Thus, carefully explain each in your argument. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

Whenever a party, by a statement or conduct, intentionally and deliberately leads another to believe a particular thing to be true and to act on this belief, he or she is not in any litigation arising out of the statement or conduct, permitted to contradict it [Evid. Code § 623]. The elements of estoppel are as follows [Robinson v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1992) 2 Cal.4th 226, 244-245, 5 Cal.Rptr.2d 782, 825 P.2d 767 ; Lusardi Construction Co. v. Aubry (1992) 1 Cal.4th 976, 994, 4 Cal.Rptr.2d 837, 824 P.2d 643 ; Lundeen Coatings Corp. v. Department of Water & Power (1991) 232 Cal.App.3d 816, 829, 283 Cal.Rptr. 551 ; Security Environmental Systems, Inc. v. South Coast Air Quality Management Dist. (1991) 229 Cal.App.3d 110, 128-129, 280 Cal.Rptr. 108 ; Miller v. Rau (1963) 216 Cal.App.2d 68, 79, 30 Cal.Rptr. 612]:

- That there was a representation of fact with intent that it would be acted on;
- That the party estopped knew the facts;
- That the innocent party was ignorant of the true state of facts; and
- That the innocent party reasonably relied to his or her injury on the representation.

Reliance must be reasonable [Shaffer v. Debbas (1993) 17 Cal.App.4th 33, 43 ; Lundeen Coatings Corp. v. Department of Water & Power (1991) 232 Cal.App.3d 816, 829, 283 Cal.Rptr. 551 ; Aragon-Haas v. Family Security Ins. Services, Inc. (1991) 231 Cal.App.3d 232, 241, 282 Cal.Rptr. 233 ; Laks v. Coast Fed. Sav. & Loan Assn. (1976) 60 Cal.App.3d 885, 890-891, 131 Cal.Rptr. 836]. Silence in the face of a duty to speak may create an estoppel [Skulnick v. Roberts Express, Inc. (1992) 2 Cal.App.4th 884, 891, 3 Cal.Rptr.2d 597 ; Bettelheim v. Hagstrom Food Stores (1952) 113 Cal.App.2d 873, 879, 249 P.2d 301 ; C. I. T. Corporation v. Hawley (1939) 34 Cal.App.2d 66, 72, 93 P.2d 216].

Although estoppel is an equitable defense [Young v. Bank of California (1948) 88 Cal.App.2d 184, 186, 198 P.2d 543], it may become an issue in a jury trial since estoppel is available as a defense in actions at law as well as suits in equity. When the issues are severable, the court may first decide the equitable issues and submit the legal issues to the jury if any remain. The practical reason for this procedure is that the trial of the equitable issues may dispense with the legal issues and end the case [Raedeke v. Gibraltar Sav. & Loan Assn. (1974) 10 Cal.3d 665, 671, 111 Cal.Rptr. 693, 517 P.2d 1157 ; Moss v. Bluemm (1964) 229 Cal.App.2d 70, 73, 40 Cal.Rptr. 50]. Alternatively, the court can determine equitable issues after the jury has tried the legal issues [Bate v. Marsteller (1965) 232 Cal.App.2d 605, 617, 43 Cal.Rptr. 149].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDefensesEquitable EstoppelElementsEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofAllocation

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

143 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART B. WAIVER, ESTOPPEL, AND UNCLEAN HANDS

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.28

MB 300F.28 Estoppel to Rescind Third Party Beneficiary Contract

[1] Instruction Estoppel to Rescind Third Party Beneficiary Contract

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

One of the questions in this case is whether the contract was canceled before Plaintiff did anything of importance in reliance on it. On this question, Plaintiff must prove that [he/she/it] made an important change of position in reasonable reliance on the contract before _____ [the contract was canceled or before the right to cancel the contract arose] and that substantial damage would be caused to Plaintiff if the contract were not enforced.

Authorities: Laks v. Coast Fed. Sav. & Loan Assn. (1976) 60 Cal.App.3d 885, 890-891, 131 Cal.Rptr. 836 ; R. J. Cardinal Co. v. Ritchie (1963) 218 Cal.App.2d 124, 149, 32 Cal.Rptr. 545 ; Silveyra v. Harper (1947) 82 Cal.App.2d 761, 766, 187 P.2d 83 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction is included among the defenses although it is more likely to arise as a defense to a defense when the defendant has alleged rescission as a defense to suit on the contract by a third party beneficiary.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Reasonable Reliance Is Key Element: As with the defense of estoppel [see MB 300F.27], reasonable reliance is the key element for this defense. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Estoppel to Rescind Third Party Beneficiary Contract

Absent estoppel, parties to a third party beneficiary contract may rescind the contract at any time before the third party beneficiary commences the action [Civ. Code § 1559; R. J. Cardinal Co. v. Ritchie (1963) 218 Cal.App.2d 124, 136, 32 Cal.Rptr. 545]. Evidence that before the rescission the third party had relied on the contract to his or her injury will work an estoppel [Silveyra v. Harper (1947) 82 Cal.App.2d 761, 766, 187 P.2d 83]. The burden of proof should be on the third party beneficiary who alleges estoppel [Evid. Code § 500]. Reliance must be reasonable [Laks v. Coast Fed. Sav. & Loan Assn. (1976) 60 Cal.App.3d 885, 890-891, 131 Cal.Rptr. 836]. However, estoppel may not give the third party the full benefit of the contract. A judgment was reversed to the extent that it awarded the third party beneficiary a recovery for the full contract price because plaintiff had not changed his position to his damage in reliance on that part of the promise. The alternative grounds for reaching this result were either that the rescission was effective to the extent there was no reliance or because the contract was never completed [Silveyra v. Harper (1947) 82 Cal.App.2d 761, 766, 187 P.2d 83].

For discussion of the right to submit the issues of estoppel to the jury, see MB 300F.27[3].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 301 Third Party Beneficiary

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDefensesEquitable EstoppelElementsContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral OverviewEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofAllocation

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

144 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART B. WAIVER, ESTOPPEL, AND UNCLEAN HANDS

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.29

MB 300F.29 Unclean Hands[1] Instruction Unclean Hands

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Defendant claims as a defense that Plaintiff's misconduct precludes [his/her/its] enforcement of Plaintiff's claim. To establish this defense, Defendant must prove that Plaintiff's conduct was unconscionable and resulted in prejudice to Defendant.

Plaintiff's misconduct must be intimately connected with Plaintiff's claims of _____ [describe plaintiff's claim] and of such a prejudicial nature that it would be unfair to allow Plaintiff to rely on _____ [describe plaintiff's claim]. If that is established by Defendant, then Plaintiff is barred from claiming _____ [describe claim].

Authorities: Unilogic, Inc. v. Burroughs Corp. (1992) 10 Cal.App.4th 612, 618-623, 12 Cal.Rptr.2d 741 ; Soon v. Beckman (1965) 234 Cal.App.2d 33, 36, 44 Cal.Rptr. 190 ; Fibreboard Paper Products Corp. v. East Bay Union of Machinists (1964) 227 Cal.App.2d 675, 728, 39 Cal.Rptr. 64 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the doctrine of unclean hands is given to the jury either by stipulation or because it is intertwined with the gist of the action or defense. The instruction assumes that defendant is raising the doctrine as a defense. If plaintiff is the party asserting unclean hands, the party designations should be reversed, and the burden of proof is on plaintiff.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Explain Terms to Jury: Terms such as "unconscionable" and "prejudicial nature" are not common in most jurors' life experiences. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Application of Unclean Hands Defense: Unclean hands is an equitable defense that is usually tried to the court. Note that the alleged misconduct must be "intimately connected" to plaintiff's claim for the defense to apply. In other words, bad behavior by itself is not enough. The bad behavior must be interwoven with plaintiff's claim and must result in prejudice to the defendant. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

The defense of "unclean hands" reflects not one doctrine but various doctrines, each dependent for its substance on the context of application. Lacking a bright line to signal application of the defense, a court called on to determine whether recovery is barred by the defense must analyze analogous case law, the nature of the misconduct, and the relationship of the misconduct to the claimed injuries [CrossTalk Productions, Inc. v. Jacobson (1998) 65 Cal.App.4th 631, 641, 76 Cal.Rptr.2d 615, citing Blain v. Doctor's Co. (1990) 222 Cal.App.3d 1048, 1059-1060, 272 Cal.Rptr. 250, for "Blain doctrine" on this point].

Unclean hands is an equitable doctrine that may be asserted as an affirmative defense in an action at law [CrossTalk Productions, Inc. v. Jacobson (1998) 65 Cal.App.4th 631, 639-643, 76 Cal.Rptr.2d 615; Unilogic, Inc. v. Burroughs Corp. (1992) 10 Cal.App.4th 612, 618-623, 12 Cal.Rptr.2d 741; Fibreboard Paper Products Corp. v. East Bay Union of Machinists (1964) 227 Cal.App.2d 675, 728, 39 Cal.Rptr. 64]. Because the doctrine of unclean hands is an affirmative defense, the burden of proof is on defendant [Evid. Code § 500]. A plaintiff has unclean hands when he or she has engaged in unconscionable conduct of such a nature that it would, if permitted to go unnoticed, result in prejudice to the other party [Soon v. Beckman (1965) 234 Cal.App.2d 33, 36, 44 Cal.Rptr. 190]. The misconduct must be intimately connected with the matter in which the party seeks equitable assistance [Unilogic, Inc. v. Burroughs Corp. (1992) 10 Cal.App.4th 612, 620-621, 12 Cal.Rptr.2d 741; Smoketree-Lake Murray, Ltd. v. Mills Concrete Construction Co. (1991) 234 Cal.App.3d 1724, 1743, 286 Cal.Rptr. 435; Blain v. Doctor's Co. (1990) 222 Cal.App.3d 1048, 1060, 272 Cal.Rptr. 250; Soon v. Beckman (1965) 234 Cal.App.2d 33, 36, 44 Cal.Rptr. 190]. Like the doctrine of estoppel, the equitable defense of unclean hands may arise in a legal action [Unilogic, Inc. v. Burroughs Corp. (1992) 10 Cal.App.4th 612, 618-623, 12 Cal.Rptr.2d 741; Blain v. Doctor's Co. (1990) 222 Cal.App.3d 1048, 1059-1063, 272 Cal.Rptr. 250]. In a legal action, the issue of unclean hands may be presented to the jury either by stipulation or because it is so intertwined with legal claims that it cannot be separately tried to the judge. It has been said that "the application of the doctrine [of unclean hands] is primarily a question of fact" that is within the trial court's discretion on an application for an injunction [Unilogic, Inc. v. Burroughs Corp. (1992) 10 Cal.App.4th 612, 623, 12 Cal.Rptr.2d 741 (quoting text); California Satellite Systems, Inc. v. Nichols (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 56, 70, 216 Cal.Rptr. 180]. In a legal action, this question of fact might properly be presented to the jury [see Unilogic, Inc. v. Burroughs Corp. (1992) 10 Cal.App.4th 612, 623, 12 Cal.Rptr.2d 741, quoting text as support for finding that equitable defense of unclean hands properly submitted to jury in tort action and holding equitable defense of unclean hands properly presented to jury in conversion action].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts Law Remedies Equitable Relief Unclean Hands

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

145 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART B. WAIVER, ESTOPPEL, AND UNCLEAN HANDS

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.30--MB 300F.39

Reserved for Future Use

MB 300F.30Reserved for Future Use

146 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART C. STATUTE OF FRAUDS--CONTRACTS NOT TO BE PERFORMED WITHIN A YEAR

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.40

MB 300F.40 Statute of Frauds

[1] Instruction Statute of Frauds

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The law does not enforce oral contracts, other than certain financial contracts, that necessarily require more than a year to perform. Plaintiff has the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that the terms of the contract were such that it could be performed within one year from the date the contract was made. Even though it might take longer, it is still enforceable if there is a possibility that it could be performed within a year. The year starts from the date the contract was made, not from when the performance begins.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1624(a)(1); Blaustein v. Burton (1970) 9 Cal.App.3d 161, 164, 88 Cal.Rptr. 319 ; Barcelon v. Cortese (1968) 263 Cal.App.2d 517, 527, 69 Cal.Rptr. 657 ; Keller v. Pacific Turf Club (1961) 192 Cal.App.2d 189, 196, 13 Cal.Rptr. 346 ; Kraft v. Rooke (1930) 103 Cal.App. 552, 554, 284 P. 935 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used to raise the defense of the statute of frauds. Generally, the statute of frauds presents a question of law for the court. However, a jury issue may arise when the question of whether a contract exceeds one year turns on an issue as to what are the terms of the contract. If the contract is for a reasonable time that may or may not exceed one year, this instruction should be followed by MB 300F.41. Estoppel to assert the statute of frauds may also present a jury question [see MB 300F.42].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Removing Contract From Statute of Frauds:

There are numerous exceptions to the statute of frauds. In this instruction, the fact that a contract possibly could be performed within a year, even though it actually takes longer to perform, removes the contract from the statute. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Spend Time Explaining Statute of Frauds:

Attorneys have "problems" with this legal theory. Hence, consider how to explain this to laypersons. By
Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment[a] General Rule

Oral and implied contracts that necessarily cannot be performed within a year are invalid under the statute of frauds, with the exception of certain financial contracts [Civ. Code § 1624(a)(1); see Blaustein v. Burton (1970) 9 Cal.App.3d 161, 164, 88 Cal.Rptr. 319 ; see also [b], below]. Even though a promise may not be performed within a year, it is not invalidated by the statute if there is a possibility that it may be. The contract itself must contain language whose reasonable interpretation shows a clear intention that it cannot be performed within the year [Keller v. Pacific Turf Club (1961) 192 Cal.App.2d 189, 196, 13 Cal.Rptr. 346]. The period commences when the agreement is made, not when performance begins [Kraft v. Rooke (1930) 103 Cal.App. 552, 554, 284 P. 935 ; see Witkin, Summary of California Law, Contracts, § 364 (10th ed. 2005)]. Defendant must raise the statute of frauds by demurrer, answer, or objection at trial [Sloan v. Hiatt (1966) 245 Cal.App.2d 926, 935, 54 Cal.Rptr. 351], but once defendant does so plaintiff has traditionally had the burden of proving that the contract is not barred by the statute of frauds [E. K. Wood Lumber Co. v. Moore Mill & Lumber Co. (9th Cir. 1938) 97 F.2d 402, 409 ; Jamison v. Hyde (1903) 141 Cal. 109, 112, 74 P. 695 ; Feeney v. Howard (1889) 79 Cal. 525, 527-528, 21 P. 984 ; Barcelon v. Cortese (1968) 263 Cal.App.2d 517, 527, 69 Cal.Rptr. 657 ; Estate of Rivolo (1961) 194 Cal.App.2d 773, 777, 15 Cal.Rptr. 268].

[b] Qualified Financial Contracts

Notwithstanding the general requirement regarding agreements not to be performed within one year [Civ. Code § 1624(a)(1); see [a], above], a qualified financial contract that is valid in other regards and is otherwise enforceable is not invalid for lack of a note, memorandum, or other writing and is enforceable by way of action or defense, if either of the following is true:

- There is sufficient evidence to indicate that a contract has been made see [Civ. Code § 1624(b)(3) (listing types of evidence)]; or
- The parties have agreed by means of a prior or subsequent written contract to be bound by the terms of the qualified financial contract from the time they reached agreement (by telephone, by exchange of electronic messages, or otherwise) on those terms [Civ. Code § 1624(b)(1)].

A "qualified financial contract" means an agreement as to which each party is other than a natural person and that is any of the following [Civ. Code § 1624(b)(2)]:

- For the purchase and sale of foreign exchange, foreign currency, bullion, coin, or precious metals on a forward, spot, next-day value or other basis.
- A contract (other than for the purchase of a commodity for future delivery on, or subject to the rules of, a contract market or board of trade) for the purchase, sale, or transfer of any commodity or any similar good, article, service, right, or interest that is presently or in the future becomes the subject of a dealing in the forward contract trade, or any product or byproduct thereof, with a maturity date more than two days after the date the contract is entered into.
- For the purchase and sale of currency, or interbank deposits denominated in United States dollars.

- For a currency option, currency swap, or cross-currency rate swap.
- For a commodity swap or a commodity option (other than an option contract traded on, or subject to the rules of, a contract market or board of trade).
- For a rate swap, basis swap, forward rate transaction, or an interest rate option.
- For a security-index swap or option, or a security or securities price swap or option.
- An agreement that involves any other similar transaction relating to a price or index (including any transaction or agreement involving any combination of the above, any cap, floor, collar, or similar transaction with respect to a rate, commodity price, commodity index, security or securities price, security index, other price index, or loan price).
- An option with regard to any of the above.

For additional discussion, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 530, Statute of Frauds (Matthew Bender).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Province of Court & Jury Contracts Law Statutes of Frauds Requirements Performance Evidence Procedural Considerations Burdens of Proof Preponderance of Evidence

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

147 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART C. STATUTE OF FRAUDS--CONTRACTS NOT TO BE PERFORMED WITHIN A YEAR

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.41

MB 300F.41 Statute of Frauds--Reasonable Time

[1] Instruction Statute of Frauds--Reasonable Time

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

If you find that the parties agreed that their contract was to continue for a reasonable time, then you must determine what period would constitute a reasonable time. If this reasonable time would necessarily exceed one year, then the agreement is not enforceable because it was not in writing.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1624(a)(1); San Francisco Brewing Corp. v. Bowman (1959) 52 Cal.2d 607, 619, 343 P.2d 1 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in cases involving future performance required under oral or implied contracts that are terminable after a reasonable time and there is a fact question as to whether a reasonable time necessarily exceeds one year. A special verdict may be used to have the jury find the exact duration of the contract.

[3] Comment

The statute of frauds requires a writing for any agreement that by its terms is not to be performed within a year from the time that it is made [Civ. Code § 1624(a)(1)]. Under this provision, the enforceability of an executory contract that is expressly or impliedly terminable after a reasonable time is subject to the statute of frauds if in fact the reasonable time is found to exceed one year [San Francisco Brewing Corp. v. Bowman (1959) 52 Cal.2d 607, 619, 343 P.2d 1]. However, to the extent the contract has been partly performed, neither party can avoid its obligations as to past transactions by objecting that it was oral and within the statute of frauds [MacMorris Sales Corp. v. Kozak (1968) 263 Cal.App.2d 430, 442, 69 Cal.Rptr. 719]. It is proper to instruct the jury on the statute of frauds if there is a fact issue regarding the intended duration of the agreement [San Francisco Brewing Corp. v. Bowman (1959) 52 Cal.2d 607, 619,

343 P.2d 1]. When plaintiff sued for the balance due on an open account for the sale of beer and the defendant cross-complained for premature termination of a distributorship, defendant raised alternate theories of an express oral agreement and an implied agreement for a reasonable time. The Supreme Court reversed the judgment for the defendant on the cross-complaint because the trial court failed to instruct the jury on the applicability of the statute of frauds to an alleged implied agreement to continue the distributorship for a reasonable period that the jury could have found to be more than one year. On retrial, the defendant abandoned the implied agreement theory, relying entirely on an alleged express contract to continue only so long as defendant exerted his best efforts to sell plaintiff's beer and to take care of the territory. This time, the court of appeal upheld the trial court's refusal to instruct the jury on the statute of frauds since the contract could have been completely performed in one year [Burgermeister Brewing Corp. v. Bowman (1964) 227 Cal.App.2d 274, 38 Cal.Rptr. 597].

The burden of proof appears to be on the plaintiff [see MB 300F.40[3]].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Using This Defense May Be Difficult: The commentary above shows the difficulty of applying the statute of frauds to contracts that are to continue for a "reasonable time." One party simply comes up with express or implied terms that potentially limit the contract to less than one year. In addition, "reasonable time" means different things to different jurors. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Statutes of Frauds Requirements Performance Evidence Procedural Considerations Burdens of Proof Allocation

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

148 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART C. STATUTE OF FRAUDS--CONTRACTS NOT TO BE PERFORMED WITHIN A YEAR

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.42

MB 300F.42 Estoppel to Assert the Statute of Frauds

[1] Instruction Estoppel to Assert the Statute of Frauds

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The agreement claimed by Plaintiff is one that ordinarily must be in writing to be enforced. However, an exception exists if Plaintiff proves one of the following, either:

- 1. That Plaintiff was induced by Defendant to seriously change [his/her/its] position in reasonable reliance on the contract, and that unconscionable injury to Plaintiff would result from a refusal to enforce the contract; or
- 2. That Defendant would be unjustly enriched by a refusal to enforce the contract.

It is enough for you to find either one of these two things.

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

Evidence that Defendant promised to reduce the agreement to writing is not enough by itself to make the contract enforceable. However, you may take this evidence into account in determining whether there has been unjust enrichment or unconscionable injury.

Authorities: Tenzer v. Superscope, Inc. (1985) 39 Cal.3d 18, 27, 216 Cal.Rptr. 130, 702 P.2d 212 ; Monarco v. Lo Greco (1950) 35 Cal.2d 621, 626-627, 220 P.2d 737 ; Estate of Housley (1997) 56 Cal.App.4th 342, 359, 65 Cal.Rptr.2d 628 ; Whorton v. Dillingham (1988) 202 Cal.App.3d 447, 456, 248 Cal.Rptr. 405 ; Tomlins v. American Ins. Co. (1968) 258 Cal.App.2d 525, 528, 66 Cal.Rptr. 92 ; Gressley v. Williams (1961) 193 Cal.App.2d 636, 640-641, 14 Cal.Rptr. 496 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when a statute of frauds has been raised to defeat an oral or implied contract and there is evidence to support an estoppel to assert the statute of frauds that the parties have stipulated, or the judge has decided, to submit to the jury [see MB 300F.27[3]]. The optional paragraph addresses the effect of evidence that the defendant promised to reduce the agreement to writing.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Defeating Statute of Frauds: Detrimental reliance and unjust enrichment are two ways to defeat the statute of frauds. This instruction covers both of them. However, these concepts will be complicated for most jurors. For example, be careful in explaining what is an "unconscionable injury." By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

The plaintiff may seek to avoid the bar of the statute of frauds by alleging estoppel to assert it [Tomlins v. American Ins. Co. (1968) 258 Cal.App.2d 525, 527, 66 Cal.Rptr. 92]. The burden of proof is on the plaintiff [Wilk v. Vencill (1947) 30 Cal.2d 104, 108, 180 P.2d 351]. Estoppel to assert the statute of frauds is a question of fact [Estate of Housley (1997) 56 Cal.App.4th 342, 358-359, 65 Cal.Rptr.2d 628 ; Reynolds v. Special Projects, Inc. (1968) 260 Cal.App.2d 496, 501-502, 67 Cal.Rptr. 374]. It requires proof that unconscionable injury would result from denying the contract's enforcement after one party has been induced by the other to seriously change his or her position in reliance on the contract or unjust enrichment that would result if a party who has received the benefits of the other's performance were allowed to rely on the statute [Tenzer v. Superscope, Inc. (1985) 39 Cal.3d 18, 27, 216 Cal.Rptr. 130, 702 P.2d 212 ; Monarco v. Lo Greco (1950) 35 Cal.2d 621, 220 P.2d 737 ; Whorton v. Dillingham (1988) 202 Cal.App.3d 447, 456, 248 Cal.Rptr. 405 ; see Allied Grape Growers v. Bronco Wine Co. (1988) 203 Cal.App.3d 432, 444, 249 Cal.Rptr. 872 (estoppel applied to oral contract under state Commercial Code)]. It is not essential to show that there was a promise to reduce the agreement to writing [Monarco v. Lo Greco (1950) 35 Cal.2d 621, 626-627, 220 P.2d 737]. Nor is proof of a promise to reduce the agreement to writing sufficient by itself to create an estoppel. However, evidence of a promise may be a relevant factor to be taken into account in determining whether unjust enrichment or unconscionable injury would result [Tomlins v. American Ins. Co. (1968) 258 Cal.App.2d 525, 528, 66 Cal.Rptr. 92].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesEquitable EstoppelStatutes of Frauds

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

149 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART C. STATUTE OF FRAUDS--CONTRACTS NOT TO BE PERFORMED WITHIN A YEAR

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.43

MB 300F.43 Effect of Part Performance on Statute of Frauds

[1] Instruction Effect of Part Performance on Statute of Frauds

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Mere performance of services is not usually enough to make an oral agreement of this type enforceable. However, an exception exists if Plaintiff proves all of the following:

- (1) That Plaintiff's services were of such a peculiar or exceptional character that it is impossible to estimate their value in money;
- (2) That the parties did not intend to measure Plaintiff's services by a money standard; and
- (3) That, after the performance of the services, Plaintiff could not be restored to [his/her/its] previous situation.

Authorities: Estate of Rivolo (1961) 194 Cal.App.2d 773, 778, 15 Cal.Rptr. 268 ; Walker v. Calloway (1950) 99 Cal.App.2d 675, 678, 222 P.2d 455 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when part performance of unique services is alleged as a basis for avoiding the statute of frauds with regard to the contract's executory portion.

[3] Comment

Ordinarily, part performance of an oral agreement will not suffice to circumvent the statute of frauds [Walker v. Calloway (1950) 99 Cal.App.2d 675, 678, 222 P.2d 455]. A plaintiff may generally obtain recovery in quantum meruit for services already performed but will not be able to circumvent the statute of frauds to enforce the contract [Ward v. Wrixon (1959) 168 Cal.App.2d 642, 655, 336 P.2d 640]. However, an oral contract is enforceable when a plaintiff has changed position in reliance on an agreement if the services are of such a peculiar or exceptional character that it is impossible to estimate their value by any pecuniary standard, if it is evident that the parties did not intend to measure them by any such standard, and if the plaintiff after the performance of the services could not be restored to the situation in which he or she was before the rendition of the services [Estate of Rivolo (1961) 194 Cal.App.2d 773, 778, 15 Cal.Rptr. 268 ; Walker v. Calloway (1950) 99 Cal.App.2d 675, 678, 222 P.2d 455 ; Ward v. Wrixon (1959) 168 Cal.App.2d 642, 655, 336 P.2d 640]. Whether or not the elements of estoppel exist depends on the particular factual context [Ward v. Wrixon (1959) 168 Cal.App.2d 642, 655, 336 P.2d 640]. Although the doctrine is of equitable origin, it was presented to the jury in a proceeding to enforce an oral contract of adoption for purposes of determining heirship. The burden of proof is on the party seeking to enforce the oral contract [Estate of Rivolo (1961) 194 Cal.App.2d 773, 777, 15 Cal.Rptr. 268].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts Law Statutes of Frauds Exceptions Partial Performance

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

150 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions

PART C. STATUTE OF FRAUDS--CONTRACTS NOT TO BE PERFORMED WITHIN A YEAR

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.44--MB 300F.49

Reserved for Future Use

MB 300F.44Reserved for Future Use

151 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART D. STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.50MB 300F.50 General Time Limitation for Suit on Written Contract[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Defendant claims as a defense that Plaintiff filed this suit too late. To establish this defense, Defendant must prove that this action was not commenced within four years of the date on which the claim sued on arose. You must decide when the claim arose, that is, when _____ [describe alleged breach of defendant giving rise to cause of action]. If the _____ [alleged breach] occurred before _____ [date four years before commencement of the action], Plaintiff's suit was filed too late and is time-barred.

Authorities: Code Civ. Proc. § 337; Balfour, Guthrie & Co. v. Hansen (1964) 227 Cal.App.2d 173, 188-192, 38 Cal.Rptr. 525 ; Mitchell v. County Sanitation Dist. (1957) 150 Cal.App.2d 366, 371, 309 P.2d 930 ; Waxman v. Citizens Nat. Trust & Sav. Bk. (1954) 123 Cal.App.2d 145, 149, 266 P.2d 48 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used only when there is an issue of fact regarding the date on which the defendant breached the contract. The instruction states the general rule that the limitation for suit on a written contract is four years from date of breach. Tolling of the statute of limitations due to delayed discovery of the existence of the cause of action poses a different situation for which the burden of proof is on plaintiff. An instruction on delayed discovery is set forth in MB 300F.54.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--This Is a Key Instruction, But Other

Instructions Will Be Needed: This is often a key instruction. Treat it accordingly. The issue of fact under this instruction is: When did the claim arise? Depending on the type of claim involved, additional instructions will be required to deal with severable contracts, continuing breaches, and similar issues. By

Rex Heeseman and Ronald Oster

For a CACI instruction on this issue, see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions, CACI No. 338 (Affirmative Defense--Statute of Limitations).

[3] Comment

[a] Limitation Period

The statute of limitations for an action on a written contract is four years [Code Civ. Proc. § 337]. The statute of limitations is a special defense that the defendant must plead or be deemed to have waived [Union Sugar Co. v. Hollister Estate Co. (1935) 3 Cal.2d 740, 740, 47 P.2d 273 ; Mitchell v. County Sanitation Dist. (1957) 150 Cal.App.2d 366, 371, 309 P.2d 930]. If the application of the statute is apparent from the face of the complaint, the defense may be raised by demurrer [Kunstman v. Mirizzi (1965) 234 Cal.App.2d 753, 755, 44 Cal.Rptr. 707]. Otherwise, it must be raised as an affirmative defense [O'Neil v. Spillane (1975) 45 Cal.App.3d 147, 156, 119 Cal.Rptr. 245]. When the statute of limitations can be raised by demurrer, it presents the question of a fatal defect in plaintiff's case in chief that must be determined as a matter of law. Demurrer does not lie if the action may be, but is not necessarily, barred by the statute of limitations [County of Los Angeles v. Security First National Bank (1948) 84 Cal.App.2d 575, 580, 191 P.2d 78].

[b] Accrual of Cause of Action

The cause of action for breach of contract accrues when the contract is breached. When the cause of action accrued is a question of fact [Jaffe v. Carroll (1973) 35 Cal.App.3d 53, 59, 110 Cal.Rptr. 435]. Ordinarily a cause of action accrues when the promisor fails to do the thing contracted for in the manner contracted [Balfour, Guthrie & Co. v. Hansen (1964) 227 Cal.App.2d 173, 188-192, 38 Cal.Rptr. 525 ; Waxman v. Citizens Nat. Trust & Sav. Bk. (1954) 123 Cal.App.2d 145, 149, 266 P.2d 48]. If the contract does not fix a time of payment for services continuously rendered over an indefinite period, the statute does not begin to run on the right of action for payment until the services end [Cullinan v. McColgan (1927) 87 Cal.App. 684, 693, 263 P. 353 ; see MB 300F.53].

In actions on third party creditor beneficiary contracts, accrual is governed by the third party beneficiary agreement and not by the maturity of the original debt [Pitzer v. Wedel (1946) 73 Cal.App.2d 86, 90 ; Anderson v. Calaveras Cent. Min. Corp. (1936) 13 Cal.App.2d 338, 344, 57 P.2d 560 ; Sherwood & Sherwood v. Gill & Lutz (1918) 36 Cal.App. 707, 711, 173 P.171 ; see MB 300F.53].

When the contract is severable, the duty to perform each part arises independently and the statute begins to run on the severable obligations from the time the performance of each is due [see Trigg v. Arnott (1937) 22 Cal.App.2d 455, 459, 71 P.2d 330 ; Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 3, Actions, § 486 (4th ed. 1997)].

One exception to the general rule of accrual on breach occurs when a promise is construed as continuing, so that each failure to perform results in a new breach, giving rise to a new cause of action [Oil Base, Inc. v. Continental Cas. Co. (1969) 271 Cal.App.2d 378, 389, 76 Cal.Rptr. 594 ; McGrath v. County of Butte (1939) 30 Cal.App.2d 734, 736, 87 P.2d 381]. Another exception occurs when the promise is construed as prospective [Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 3, Actions, § 491 (4th ed. 1997)].

[c] Anticipatory Breach

If the law gives the plaintiff a choice of two or more remedies, both the applicable statute of limitations and the accrual of the cause of action may depend on that election. When the defendant commits an anticipatory breach, the injured party may elect to sue at once or to wait until the time when performance is due. If the defendant waits, the statute does not begin to run until the anticipatory repudiation becomes an actual breach [Brewer v. Simpson (1960) 53 Cal.2d 567, 593, 2 Cal.Rptr. 609, 349 P.2d 289 ; Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 3, Actions, § 492 (4th ed. 1997)]. When the defendant is obligated to perform over a period of time and commits a material breach, the plaintiff may waive it and stand on the contract until the time for final performance. Such a waiver should not prejudice the plaintiff, and the statute ought not to begin running until the date when the last performance is due [Tahoe Pines v. Newman (1922) 59 Cal.App. 186, 188, 210 P. 445 ; Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 3, Actions, § 492 (4th ed. 1997)]. If the obligation of the defendant is conditional on the happening of an event or the act of a third person, the cause of action does not accrue until that time [Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 3, Actions, § 494 (4th ed. 1997)].

[d] Burden of Proof

When the fact issue for the jury concerns a dispute over the date of breach, it would appear that this issue is part of defendant's affirmative defense for which defendant should have the burden of proof [Evid. Code § 500]. No cases specifically address this point, but this allocation of the burden of proof is identical to the rule regarding the burden of proof on illegality of a contract. If the illegality is not apparent on the face of the transaction, illegality is an affirmative defense for which defendant bears the burden of proof [see MB 300F.90[3]]. Trial may be bifurcated and the limitations defense tried first [Code Civ. Proc. § 597].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawBreachAnticipatory RepudiationGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesStatutes of LimitationsEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofAllocationGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsPleading & ProofGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime Limitations

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

152 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART D. STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.51

MB 300F.51 General Time Limitation for Suit on Oral or Implied Contract

[1] Instruction General Time Limitation for Suit on Oral or Implied Contract

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Defendant claims as a defense that Plaintiff filed this suit too late. To establish this defense, Defendant must prove that this action was not commenced within two years of the date on which the claim sued on arose. You must decide when the claim arose, that is, when _____ [describe alleged breach of defendant giving rise to cause of action]. If the _____ [alleged breach] occurred before _____ [describe date two years before commencement of the action], Plaintiff's suit was filed too late and is time-barred.

Authorities: Code Civ. Proc. § 339; Estate of Fincher (1981) 119 Cal.App.3d 343, 352, 174 Cal.Rptr. 18 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is an issue of fact as to when defendant breached the contract. It states the general rule that the limitation period for suit on an oral or implied contract is two years from the date of breach. The instruction regarding breach of a written contract is set forth in MB 300F.50.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Other Instructions Will Be Needed: The key question under this instruction is: When did the claim arise? This will be a challenging concept to many jurors. Hence, depending on the type of contract involved, additional instructions will be required to deal with severable contracts, continuing breaches, and similar issues. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

The statute of limitations for an oral or implied contract is generally two years from breach [Code Civ. Proc. § 339;

Estate of Fincher (1981) 119 Cal.App.3d 343, 352, 174 Cal.Rptr. 18]. It is a defense that the defendant must plead, and defendant should therefore have the burden of proof when the facts concerning the date of breach are in conflict [see MB 300F.50]. Tolling of the statute of limitations due to delayed discovery poses a different situation for which the burden of proof is on plaintiff [see MB 300F.54].

In a contract action based on constructive discharge from employment, the statute of limitations does not begin to run until actual termination. An employee is not barred from bringing a claim on the basis of the statute of limitations as long as the claim is brought in a timely manner after the actual termination of employment [Mullins v. Rockwell Int'l. Corp. (1997) 15 Cal.4th 731, 743, 63 Cal.Rptr.2d 636, 936 P.2d 1246].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law
 Defenses
 Statutes of Limitations
 Contracts Law
 Types of Contracts
 Implied-in-Fact Contracts
 Contracts Law
 Types of Contracts
 Oral Agreements
 Evidence
 Procedural Considerations
 Burdens of Proof
 Allocation
 Governments
 Legislation
 Statutes of Limitations
 Pleading & Proof
 Governments
 Legislation
 Statutes of Limitations
 Time Limitations

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

153 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART D. STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.52MB 300F.52 Breach of Agreement to Pay for Continuous Services[1] Instruction Breach of Agreement to Pay for Continuous Services[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Defendant claims that Plaintiff waited too long before bringing suit on certain of the services allegedly performed by Plaintiff. Defendant has the burden of proof on this issue. If the parties agreed to periodic payments as the services were being rendered, then Defendant breached the agreement the first time [he/she/it] failed to make a payment when due. Plaintiff would then be barred from recovering any payments that were due before _____ [specify cut off date]. However, if the parties did not fix a time for payment, the time of Defendant's breach of the obligation to pay was the date the services ended. In that event, if any services were rendered after _____ [specify cut off date], Plaintiff is entitled to seek payment for all services rendered, whether before or after that date.

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

If you find from the evidence that Plaintiff's services were not in fact rendered continuously but were interrupted, then Plaintiff's claim for any services performed before _____ [specify cut off date] will be barred unless the interruption was brought about by the wrongful act of the Defendant.

Authorities: Belletich v. Pollock (1946) 75 Cal.App.2d 142, 145-146, 171 P.2d 57 ; Cullinan v. McColgan (1927) 87 Cal.App. 684, 693, 263 P. 353 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when services were performed over a period of time and there is a dispute over whether breach of a duty of payment for the services performed more than two or four years before suit are barred by the statute of limitations. If the services were part of continuous services that continued to a time within the statute of limitations, then suit is timely for all services. The optional paragraph should be used if there is a dispute over whether the services were in fact continuous. The final phrase applies only if there is evidence that the interruption in service was caused by defendant.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Should You Opt to Give it, Use Care With This

Instruction: Most trial counsel do not want to argue a technical statute of limitations defense to a jury. This instruction illustrates several ways for a plaintiff to avoid the effect of the statute of limitations for services. Among other things, plaintiff can argue that payment was deferred by mutual or implied consent until a later time. In any event, many jurors will likely be confused by this instruction. So, be careful with the closing. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

The statute of limitations for a service contract runs from the date of breach of the duty of payment for the services. If a service contract does not provide a fixed date for payment and the services are continuous, the statute of limitations does not begin to run on any of the services until the services end [Cullinan v. McColgan (1927) 87 Cal.App. 684, 693, 263 P. 353]. If there is a serious question whether services have been continuous, it is error not to instruct the jury on this issue [Belletich v. Pollock (1946) 75 Cal.App.2d 142, 145-146, 171 P.2d 57].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawBreachContinuing BreachContracts LawDefensesStatutes of LimitationsContracts LawTypes of ContractsPersonal Service Agreements

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

154 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART D. STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.53

MB 300F.53 Statute of Limitations Against Third Party Beneficiary[1] Instruction Statute of Limitations Against Third Party Beneficiary[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Defendant claims as a defense that Plaintiff filed this suit too late. To establish this defense, Defendant must prove that the complaint was not filed within _____ [two or four] years of the time of _____ [the breach or the time _____ (name of promisee) knew or reasonably should have known of the breach by Defendant]. It does not matter that Plaintiff may have been unaware of the contract or of the time for Defendant's performance. Plaintiff has no greater rights than _____ [name of promisee].

Authorities: Skylawn v. Superior Court (1979) 88 Cal.App.3d 316, 318-319, 151 Cal.Rptr. 793 ; Sanders v. American Casualty Co. (1969) 269 Cal.App.2d 306, 310, 74 Cal.Rptr. 634 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is an issue of fact as to whether the statute of limitations has run on a third party beneficiary contract. The alternative language applies in cases when the time limitation turns on discovery [see MB 300F.54]. A special verdict may be requested to determine the date that the jury found the cause of action to have accrued.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--When Statute Begins to Run: Note that the statute begins to run (1) from the date of the breach, or (2) from the date the promisee (not the third party beneficiary) knew or should have known of the breach. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

A third party beneficiary is subject to the same limitations period as the promisee to the contract that created the rights of the beneficiary [Skylawn v. Superior Court (1979) 88 Cal.App.3d 316, 318-319, 151 Cal.Rptr. 793]. The fact that the third party beneficiary may be ignorant of the contract does not toll the statute [Sanders v. American Casualty Co. (1969) 269 Cal.App.2d 306, 310, 74 Cal.Rptr. 634]. The statute of limitations for an oral contract is two years [Code Civ. Proc. § 339] and for a written contract is four years [Code Civ. Proc. § 337]. Whether the accrual date is the date of breach or date of discovery, or whether some other exception is applicable, is determined by the same rules applicable to contracts generally [see MB 300F.54, MB 300F.56].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Verdicts Special Verdicts Contracts Law Defenses Statutes of Limitations Contracts Law Third Parties Beneficiaries Defenses

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

155 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART D. STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.54

MB 300F.54 Statute of Limitations--Discovery of Claim[1] Instruction Statute of Limitations--Discovery of Claim

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The law requires that this action have been brought within [two or four] years of the time plaintiff knew or should have known _____ [describe acts allegedly in breach of agreement]. This means that Plaintiff must prove each of the following:

(1) That the alleged breach was first discovered by Plaintiff some time after _____ [specify date two or four years after breach];

(2) The circumstances under which Plaintiff made the discovery;

(3) That Plaintiff's failure to discover the alleged breach before _____ [specify date two or four years after breach] was not due to Plaintiff's own fault in that Plaintiff shows that [he/she/it] exercised reasonable care in availing [himself/herself/itself] of the opportunity to obtain knowledge of the breach from sources open to [his/her/its] investigation; and

(4) That before _____ [specify same date] Plaintiff had no knowledge of facts sufficient to put [him/her/it] on inquiry notice of the breach.

Authorities: Kimball v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (1934) 220 Cal. 203, 215, 30 P.2d 39 ; April Enterprises, Inc. v. KTTV (1983) 147 Cal.App.3d 805, 833, 195 Cal.Rptr. 421 ; Seelenfreund v. Terminix of Northern Cal., Inc. (1978) 84 Cal.App.3d 133, 136, 148 Cal.Rptr. 307 ; Bedolla v. Logan & Frazer (1975) 52 Cal.App.3d 118, 129, 125 Cal.Rptr. 59 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in breach of contract cases when plaintiff alleges fraud or mistake tolling the statute of limitations or breach of a duty of full disclosure. The word breach is used throughout, but wrongful act, fraud, or mistake may be substituted, if appropriate. This instruction assumes that the applicable time limit is two or four years (depending on whether the contract is oral or written) from discovery or the date discovery should have been made. However, it is arguable that the plaintiff is limited to three years from the date of discovery or the date discovery should have been made if that date is more than four years after the breach [see [3][a], below]. The traditional formulation of the first element of an instruction on belated discovery tells the jury that plaintiff has the burden of proving when the discovery took place. Actually, it does not matter precisely "when" so long as the date is within the applicable time limits. This instruction is worded accordingly.

The second element, proof of the circumstances of the discovery, would appear to be subsumed within proof of the first and third elements, but since it adds no greater burden to plaintiff and has traditionally been viewed as a distinct element that plaintiff must prove, it appears safer to continue to treat it as a separate element. If there is a fiduciary relationship, plaintiff generally need not prove reasonable diligence and therefore the third element should not be given in these situations. The fourth element requires plaintiff to negate inquiry notice. It should be followed with the definition of inquiry notice in MB 300F.55.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Visual Aid: This would be a good instruction for a visual aid since there are a number of hurdles that must be overcome to fit within the discovery exception to the statute of frauds. Yet, "discovery" will be alien to some jurors. That is, they will have difficulty in understanding, for example, how someone "discovers" the alleged breach. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Basis for Tolling

The general California rule is that the contract cause of action accrues at the date of injury [see MB 300F.50[3]]. When it appears on the face of the complaint that the action is barred by the statute of limitations, plaintiff has an obligation to anticipate the defense and plead facts to negate the bar [Union Carbide Corp. v. Superior Court (1984) 201 Cal.Rptr. 580, 679 P.2d 14]. One basis for tolling the statute is fraud or mistake [see, e.g., El Pollo Loco, Inc. v. Hashim (9th Cir. 2003) 316 F.3d 1032, 1038-1040 (discovery rule applied to toll statute of limitations in contract claim when misrepresentations and forgery hindered discovery of breach)]. When a party relies on fraud or mistake in an action governed by the limitations periods of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 337 and 339, the same rules apply as with cases governed by the three-year provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 338(d). Plaintiff has the burden of proving (1) when the fraud or mistake was discovered, (2) the circumstances under which the fraud or mistake was discovered, (3) that plaintiff is not at fault for late discovery, and (4) that plaintiff had no actual or presumptive knowledge of facts sufficient to put him or her on inquiry [Sears v. Rule (1949) 27 Cal.2d 131, 147, 163 P.2d 443 ; Kimball v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (1934) 220 Cal. 203, 215, 30 P.2d 39 ; Bedolla v. Logan & Frazer (1975) 52 Cal.App.3d 118, 129, 125 Cal.Rptr. 59 ; Bowman v. McPheeters (1945) 77 Cal.App.2d 795, 798, 176 P.2d 745].

The same rule of discovery has been extended to situations involving a defendant with a statutory duty of disclosure [Seelenfreund v. Terminix of Northern Cal., Inc. (1978) 84 Cal.App.3d 133, 137, 148 Cal.Rptr. 307]. Accrual on discovery was also held applicable to breaches that are committed in secret involving harm that would not be reasonably discoverable until a future time [Gryczman v. 4550 Pico Partners, Ltd. (2003) 107 Cal.App.4th 1, 5-6, 131 Cal.Rptr.2d 680 (delayed discovery rule applied when owner conveyed property without providing potential buyer with notice and right of first refusal); April Enterprises, Inc. v. KTTV (1983) 147 Cal.App.3d 805, 833, 195 Cal.Rptr. 421]. Because a plaintiff is presumed to have knowledge of injury when it occurs, it is plaintiff's burden to rebut that presumption by proving that delayed discovery was justified [April Enterprises, Inc. v. KTTV (1983) 147 Cal.App.3d 805, 833, 195 Cal.Rptr. 421 ; G.D. Searle & Co. v. Superior Court (1975) 49 Cal.App.3d 22, 26, 122 Cal.Rptr. 218].

[b] Reasonable Diligence

Whether the plaintiff exercised reasonable diligence is a question of fact [Enfield v. Hunt (1979) 91 Cal.App.3d 417, 419, 154 Cal.Rptr. 146 ; see Gryczman v. 4550 Pico Partners, Ltd. (2003) 107 Cal.App.4th 1, 6-7, 131 Cal.Rptr.2d 680 (because reasonable minds could differ as to sufficiency of plaintiff's diligence, issue of reasonable diligence under circumstances was question of fact for jury; trial court erred in granting summary judgment)]. The exercise of reasonable diligence requires plaintiff to negate the existence of an opportunity to obtain knowledge from sources open to his or her investigation [Baker v. Beech Aircraft Corp. (1979) 96 Cal.App.3d 321, 327, 157 Cal.Rptr. 779]. The acts and knowledge of plaintiff's agents are attributable to plaintiff [Bedolla v. Logan & Frazer (1975) 52 Cal.App.3d 118, 129, 125 Cal.Rptr. 59]. This rule need not be repeated in this instruction, if instructed on separately [see Ch. 3C, Parties].

Unlike claims between people dealing at arm's length, there is generally no requirement that the plaintiff prove exercise of reasonable diligence in actions against fiduciaries [Bedolla v. Logan & Frazer (1975) 52 Cal.App.3d 118, 125 Cal.Rptr. 59 ; see MB 300F.55]. However, this does not mean that plaintiff may wait until he or she has actual knowledge of all the facts constituting the claim against a fiduciary before suing. Even in cases involving fiduciaries, a plaintiff is charged with actual knowledge of all facts of which a reasonably prudent person would have been put on inquiry [Bedolla v. Logan & Frazer (1975) 52 Cal.App.3d 118, 131-132, 125 Cal.Rptr. 59]. The reason that it is said that there is generally no reasonable diligence requirement is because there are statutory exceptions applicable to certain fiduciary relationships. Thus, a contract action against an attorney is governed by Code Civ. Proc. § 340.6, which requires an action to be brought within one year after the plaintiff discovers or through the use of reasonable diligence should have discovered, the facts constituting the wrongful act or omission, or four years from the date of the wrongful act or omission, whichever occurs first (or, as of 2010, two years after post-conviction exoneration if plaintiff must establish factual innocence for underlying criminal charge as element of claim) [Southland Mechanical Constructors Corp. v. Nixen (1981) 119 Cal.App.3d 417, 431, 173 Cal.Rptr. 917]. However, in recognition of the fiduciary relationship, the statute is tolled during the period the attorney continues to represent the plaintiff regarding the specific subject matter and the four-year limitation is tolled during the period the attorney willfully conceals the facts constituting the wrongful act or omission [Code Civ. Proc. § 340.6(a) (also contains other tolling provisions)]. Actions against health care providers also require proof of reasonable diligence with specific tolling provisions [Code Civ. Proc. § 340.5]. Even in these cases, however, the level of required diligence is diminished because of the assumption of continued reliance on the fiduciary [Brown v. Bleiberg (1982) 32 Cal.3d 426, 438, 186 Cal.Rptr. 228, 651 P.2d 815].

[c] Special Fraud Limitations Period

There is another aspect of the relationship between the limitations periods of Code Civ. Proc. §§ 337 and 339 and Code Civ. Proc. § 338(d). The time for bringing an action in contract (whether two years or four years) is tolled while the right of action is concealed by the defendant's fraud. The action is timely if brought within three years of discovery of the fraud, even if discovery occurs more than two or four years after the breach [Acme Paper Co. v. Goffstein (1954) 125 Cal.App.2d 175, 179-180, 270 P.2d 505]. Although the otherwise applicable four year statute will be extended until three years from discovery of the fraud, the four year statute will not be shortened because discovery occurred sooner [San Filippo v. Griffiths (1975) 51 Cal.App.3d 640, 645, 124 Cal.Rptr. 399].

If the tolling of the statute is predicated on fraud, it should be noted that mere silence does not constitute fraudulent concealment absent a duty to disclose [Kimball v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (1934) 220 Cal. 203, 217-218, 30 P.2d 39 ; see Ch. 3G, Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions]. However, a person who is under no obligation to speak but who undertakes to do so either voluntarily or in response to inquiries is bound not only to state truly what he or she tells but also not to suppress or conceal any facts within his or her knowledge that will materially qualify those stated. To tell a half truth is equivalent to concealment of the other half [Kimball v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (1934) 220 Cal. 203, 219, 30 P.2d 39 ; see Ch. 3G, Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions]. The fraudulent concealment must be of a fact relating to the cause of action, not the identity of the defendant [Staples v. Zoph (1935) 9

Cal.App.2d 369, 370, 49 P.2d 1131].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDefensesStatutes of LimitationsGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime
LimitationsGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTolling

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

156 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART D. STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.55

MB 300F.55 Inquiry Notice

[1] Instruction Inquiry Notice

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

As I have already instructed you, when you consider whether this suit was filed on time, you do not have to find that Plaintiff knew every fact about [his/her/its] claim to start the time running. It is enough if Plaintiff was put on inquiry notice of the facts. Inquiry notice involves both of the following:

(1) That Plaintiff had knowledge of circumstances that would have made a reasonable person suspicious of the acts and conduct of Defendant; and

(2) That inquiry thereon, if followed, would have led to knowledge of the essential facts giving rise to Plaintiff's claim.

If both of these things exist, Plaintiff is charged with actual knowledge of these facts at the time Plaintiff should have made inquiry based on [his/her/its] knowledge of the circumstances.

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

When you decide whether a reasonable person would have been suspicious of the acts and conduct of Defendant, you must take into account the relationship between Plaintiff and Defendant. Plaintiff had the right to rely on the representations of Defendant and to place trust and confidence in Defendant to disclose all important facts with regard to _____ [describe transaction] within [his/her/its] knowledge.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 19; Brown v. Bleiberg (1982) 32 Cal.3d 426, 437-438, 186 Cal.Rptr. 228, 651 P.2d 815 ; Bedolla v. Logan & Frazer (1975) 52 Cal.App.3d 118, 128, 125 Cal.Rptr. 59 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction defines inquiry notice and should be used with the instruction in MB 300F.54 and MB 300F.56. The optional paragraph applies in cases involving fiduciaries [see MB 300F.54].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Plan Closing Argument Accordingly: The word "inquiry" will not be in some jurors' vocabulary. So, plan the closing to address that. By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Claims Against Fiduciaries: Note the special provisions applicable to claims against fiduciaries. If statute of limitations defenses are difficult to prove in front of juries, then such defenses by fiduciaries (e.g., lawyers) are even more difficult to prove. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

The instruction is derived from the constructive notice provision in Civ. Code § 19 and the instruction on inquiry notice approved in Bedolla v. Logan & Frazer [Bedolla v. Logan & Frazer (1975) 52 Cal.App.3d 118, 128, 125 Cal.Rptr. 59]. The mere fact that means of knowledge are open and not used does not make plaintiff chargeable with knowledge if a prudent man would not have been put on inquiry notice.

Use of reasonable diligence is a separate requirement [Baker v. Beech Aircraft Corp. (1979) 96 Cal.App.3d 321, 333, 157 Cal.Rptr. 779 ; Sanchez v. South Hoover Hospital (1976) 18 Cal.3d 93, 101, 132 Cal.Rptr. 657, 553 P.2d 1129], which is set forth in MB 300F.54.

Even in cases involving wrongful acts of fiduciaries, a plaintiff is charged with inquiry notice. The fact that the relationship exists does not excuse a party who has notice of facts from investigating those facts [Bedolla v. Logan & Frazer (1975) 52 Cal.App.3d 118, 128, 125 Cal.Rptr. 59]. However, the fiduciary relationship can be considered in determining whether a plaintiff was on inquiry notice because a person can rely on representations of a fiduciary [Brown v. Bleiberg (1982) 32 Cal.3d 426, 437-438, 186 Cal.Rptr. 228, 651 P.2d 815].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesStatutes of Limitations

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

157 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART D. STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.56

MB 300F.56 Statute of Limitations for Rescission of Contract

[1] Instruction Statute of Limitations for Rescission of Contract

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Defendant claims as a defense that Plaintiff filed this suit too late. To establish this defense, Defendant must prove that _____ [describe the facts on which the plaintiff bases a right to cancel the contract] occurred before [date two or four years before commencement of suit]. If so, the suit is too late, and Defendant is entitled to a verdict.

[ALTERNATIVE (See Use of Instruction)]

A suit to cancel a contract for _____ [fraud or mistake] must be brought within [two or four] years of the time Plaintiff has discovered or in the exercise of reasonable care should have discovered the true facts. This means that Plaintiff must prove all of the following:

(1) That the alleged breach was first discovered by Plaintiff some time after _____ [specify date two or four years after breach];

(2) The circumstances under which Plaintiff made the discovery;

(3) That Plaintiff's failure to discover the alleged breach before _____ [specify date two or four years after breach] was not due to Plaintiff's own fault in that Plaintiff must show that [he/she/it] exercised reasonable care in availing [himself/herself/itself] of the opportunity to obtain knowledge of the breach from sources open to [his/her/its] investigation; and

(4) That before _____ [specify same date] Plaintiff had no knowledge of facts sufficient to put [him/her/it] on inquiry notice of the breach.

Authorities: Code Civ. Proc. §§ 337(3), 339(3).

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the defendant asserts the statute of limitations as a defense to a claim of belated discovery of a right to rescind for fraud or mistake. Inquiry notice is defined in MB 300F.55. The first alternative is for situations when the issue is when the right to rescind arose; the second is for situations when the issue is when the defendant should have known that a right to rescind existed. The general instructions applicable to rescission for mistake or fraud are set forth in Ch. 3G, Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Visual Aid: This would be a good instruction for a visual aid in closing argument since there are a number of hurdles that must be overcome. In addition, keep in mind that whether or not some act is "too late" (see last sentence of first paragraph in this instruction) is a relative concept. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

An action for rescission of a written contract must be brought within four years from the date the facts entitling the aggrieved party to rescind occurred [Code Civ. Proc. § 337(3)]. An action for rescission of a contract not in writing must be brought within two years of the date on which the facts that entitle the aggrieved party to rescind occurred [Code Civ. Proc. § 339(3)]. When the ground for rescission is fraud or mistake, the time does not begin to run until the discovery by the aggrieved party of the facts constituting the fraud or mistake [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 337(3), 339(3)]. When the ground for rescission is a misrepresentation under Ins. Code § 359, the time does not begin to run until the representation becomes false [Code Civ. Proc. § 337(3)].

The four elements that plaintiff must prove to justify belated discovery of a claim of rescission for fraud or mistake are the same as a claim for breach of contract based on fraud or mistake [see MB 300F.54[3]].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesStatutes of LimitationsContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral OverviewGovernmentsLegislationStatutes of LimitationsTime Limitations

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

158 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART D. STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.57--MB 300F.69

Reserved for Future Use

MB 300F.57Reserved for Future Use

159 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions PART E. IMPOSSIBILITY

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.70

MB 300F.70 Impossibility

[1] Instruction Impossibility

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Defendant claims as a defense that [his/her/its] obligation to perform under the contract was discharged because it was impossible. Defendant has the burden of proof on this defense. I will now instruct you on what I mean by impossibility.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1596; Oosten v. Hay Haulers etc., Union (1955) 45 Cal.2d 784, 788, 291 P.2d 17 ; Calabrese v. Rexall Drug & Chemical Co. (1963) 218 Cal.App.2d 774, 784, 32 Cal.Rptr. 665 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when impossibility is alleged as a defense. Impossibility is defined in MB 300F.71 and MB 300F.72.

[3] Comment

The object of a contract must be possible [Civ. Code § 1597]. Impossibility is an affirmative defense on which the defendant has the burden of proof [Oosten v. Hay Haulers etc., Union (1955) 45 Cal.2d 784, 788, 291 P.2d 17]. It may be shown by proof of impracticability because of extreme and unreasonable difficulty, expenses, injury, or loss [Oosten v. Hay Haulers etc., Union (1955) 45 Cal.2d 784, 788, 291 P.2d 17 ; Calabrese v. Rexall Drug & Chemical Co. (1963) 218 Cal.App.2d 774, 784, 32 Cal.Rptr. 665]. If the impossibility existed at the time of the contract and the parties were unaware of it, an alternative defense available to the defendant is rescission for mistake [see Ch. 3G, Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Performance Impossibility of Performance General Overview Evidence Procedural Considerations Burdens of Proof Allocation

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

160 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions PART E. IMPOSSIBILITY

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.71

MB 300F.71 Impracticability

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The fact that performance may involve some unforeseen difficulty or expense does not establish impossibility. On the other hand, it is not necessary to show that performance was totally impossible. It is enough that an unforeseen event occurred that made performance excessively difficult or unreasonably expensive.

Authority: Oosten v. Hay Haulers etc., Union (1955) 45 Cal.2d 784, 788, 291 P.2d 17 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when impracticability is asserted as the equivalent of permanent impossibility. If the impossibility was temporary, use the instruction in MB 300F.75. Objective impossibility is defined in MB 300F.72.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Impossibility Defense Will Typically Not

Succeed: It will be a very unusual case where the defense of impossibility succeeds. As noted in the instruction in [1], above, unforeseen difficulty or expense does not establish impossibility. The obvious question the jury will ask is: Why did the defendant enter into the contract if it was impossible to perform? By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

Impracticability may be shown by proof of extreme and unreasonable difficulty, expenses, injury or loss [Schmeltzer v. Gregory (1968) 266 Cal.App.2d 420, 424, 72 Cal.Rptr. 194 ; Kennedy v. Reece (1964) 225 Cal.App.2d 717, 724, 37 Cal.Rptr. 708].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawPerformanceImpossibility of PerformanceImpracticability

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

161 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions PART E. IMPOSSIBILITY

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.72

MB 300F.72 Requirement of Objective Impossibility

[1] Instruction Requirement of Objective Impossibility

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Impossibility refers to the nature of the thing to be done, not the inability of a person to do it. This means that it would not have been reasonably possible for anyone to perform the obligation. It is not considered impossible merely because Defendant was unable to do it.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1597; El Rio Oils v. Pacific Coast Asphalt Co. (1949) 95 Cal.App.2d 186, 197, 213 P.2d 1 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used with MB 300F.70 or MB 300F.75 to define objective impossibility.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Keep in Mind That This Is an "Objective"

Standard: This is a difficult standard to meet--that performance of the contract would be impossible for anyone. However, this is an "objective" standard and thus should involve the "reasonable person." Stress that to avoid the "anyone" concern. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

Everything is possible except that which is impossible in the nature of things [Civ. Code § 1597]. Subjective impossibility is insufficient; the performance of the contract must be objectively impossible [El Rio Oils v. Pacific Coast Asphalt Co. (1949) 95 Cal.App.2d 186, 197, 213 P.2d 1].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawPerformanceImpossibility of PerformanceGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

162 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART E. IMPOSSIBILITY

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.73

MB 300F.73 Unforeseeability Required

[1] Instruction Unforeseeability Required

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Impossibility must be due to an event that was unknown to Defendant at the time of contracting and that [he/she/it] could not reasonably have foreseen. If you find that by the terms of the contract Defendant assumed the risk of _____ [describe alleged impossibility] then the fact that it occurred is not an excuse for [his/her/its] failure to perform.

Authorities: Glens Falls Indem. Co. v. Perscallo (1950) 96 Cal.App.2d 799, 802, 216 P.2d 567 ; McCulloch v. Liguori (1948) 88 Cal.App.2d 366, 372, 199 P.2d 25 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is an issue of fact as to whether defendant assumed the risk of the particular factor allegedly causing impossibility.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Standard Is Very High to Meet: As with the jury instruction in MB 300F.72, the standard for this defense is very high. Defendant must not only prove that no one could perform the contract, but also that the impossibility could not reasonably have been foreseen. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

Impossibility must be of an unforeseen occurrence the risk of which was not assumed in the contract [Glens Falls Indem. Co. v. Perscallo (1950) 96 Cal.App.2d 799, 802, 216 P.2d 567 ; McCulloch v. Liguori (1948) 88 Cal.App.2d 366, 199 P.2d 25]. If parties have contracted with reference to the continued existence of a thing and it is destroyed, the defense of impossibility is available unless one of the parties has assumed the risk of its destruction [Restatement (Second) of Contracts §§ 460, 461; see Comment, The Economic Implications of the Doctrine of Impossibility, 26 Hastings L.J. 1251 (1978)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawPerformanceImpossibility of PerformanceGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

163 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART E. IMPOSSIBILITY

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.74

MB 300F.74 Nature of Event[1] Instruction Nature of Event

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

_____ [describe event] is the type of event that if unknown and unforeseen at the time of contracting could excuse _____ [Defendant's performance or part of Defendant's performance or postpone Defendant's performance] because of impossibility. You should consider the occurrence of this event along with other facts and circumstances in determining whether the Defendant is to be excused.

Authority: County of Yuba v. Mattoon (1958) 160 Cal.App.2d 456, 458, 325 P.2d 162 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used after determination by the court that the event is of the magnitude and type that could give rise to the defense of impossibility under the circumstances.

[3] Comment

It is appropriate to instruct the jury that a particular event is the type of fortuitous event that the jury may consider in deciding whether performance is excused by impossibility [County of Yuba v. Mattoon (1958) 160 Cal.App.2d 456, 458, 325 P.2d 162].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawPerformanceImpossibility of PerformanceGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

164 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART E. IMPOSSIBILITY

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.75

MB 300F.75 Temporary Impossibility

[1] Instruction Temporary Impossibility

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A duty to perform is suspended by temporary impossibility, but the duty resumes as soon as the thing that made it impossible is over, unless performance would then impose a substantially greater burden on Defendant than before.

Authorities: Oosten v. Hay Haulers etc., Union (1955) 45 Cal.2d 784, 788, 291 P.2d 17 ; Autry v. Republic Productions, Inc. (1947) 30 Cal.2d 144, 148, 180 P.2d 888 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used with the instruction in MB 300F.70 when the defense of impossibility involves a temporary impossibility. The final phrase is only applicable when the defendant is asserting that defendant's performance is discharged due to the fact that a substantially greater burden existed after temporary impossibility.

[3] Comment

Temporary impossibility of the character which, if it should become permanent, would discharge a promisor's entire contractual duty, operates as a permanent discharge if performance after the impossibility ceases would impose a substantially greater burden on the promisor; otherwise the duty is merely suspended while the impossibility exists [Oosten v. Hay Haulers etc., Union (1955) 45 Cal.2d 784, 788-789, 291 P.2d 17 ; Autry v. Republic Productions, Inc. (1947) 30 Cal.2d 144, 148, 180 P.2d 888].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawPerformanceImpossibility of PerformanceGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

165 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART E. IMPOSSIBILITY

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.76

MB 300F.76 Frustration of Purpose[1] Instruction Frustration of Purpose[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Defendant claims as a defense that [his/her/its] performance was excused because the object of the contract was frustrated by _____ [describe event].

To establish this defense, Defendant must prove all of the following:

- (1) That _____ [describe event] destroyed the value of the contract to Defendant;
- (2) That the occurrence of this event was not contemplated by the parties' agreement; and
- (3) That the event was not reasonably foreseeable by Defendant.

Authorities: Lloyd v. Murphy (1944) 25 Cal.2d 48, 52, 153 P.2d 47 ; Federal Leasing Consultants, Inc. v. Mitchell Lipsett Co. (1978) 85 Cal.App.3d Supp. 44, 47-48, 150 Cal.Rptr. 82 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the defense of frustration of purpose is asserted.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--"Reasonably Foreseeable" Requirement Limits

Application of Defense: The requirement that the event was not reasonably foreseeable (element (3) of instruction) limits the applicability of this defense. Most commercial contracts involve some elements of risk, and many jurors will be skeptical of any claim that the risk could not have been anticipated.

However, the key is that the event was not "reasonably" foreseeable and that should aid some arguments

by the plaintiff. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

The doctrine of commercial frustration applies when the whole value of the performance to one party is destroyed by an unforeseen event [Lloyd v. Murphy (1944) 25 Cal.2d 48, 52, 153 P.2d 47]. Frustration of purpose is a defense akin to the doctrine of impossibility. The burden of proof is on the defendant [Lloyd v. Murphy (1944) 25 Cal.2d 48, 56, 153 P.2d 47 ; Dorn v. Goetz (1948) 85 Cal.App.2d 407, 415, 193 P.2d 121] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Performance Impossibility of Performance Frustration of Purpose Evidence Procedural
Considerations Burdens of Proof Allocation

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

166 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART E. IMPOSSIBILITY

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.77

MB 300F.77 Destruction of Value Defined

[1] Instruction Destruction of Value Defined

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Destruction of the value of the contract means that the value of Plaintiff's performance to Defendant was totally or almost totally destroyed. It is not enough for Defendant to prove that the value of the contract to Defendant was decreased or the contract was less profitable.

Authority: Lloyd v. Murphy (1944) 25 Cal.2d 48, 55, 153 P.2d 47 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used with the instruction in MB 300F.76 to define destruction of value.

[3] Comment

To invoke the doctrine of commercial frustration, the value of performance must be totally or nearly totally destroyed. Frustration is no defense if counter performance remains valuable, even if the value is substantially decreased [Lloyd v. Murphy (1944) 25 Cal.2d 48, 55, 153 P.2d 47].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawPerformanceImpossibility of PerformanceGeneral OverviewContracts LawPerformanceImpossibility of PerformanceFrustration of Purpose

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

167 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART E. IMPOSSIBILITY

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.78

MB 300F.78 Partial Impossibility

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Partial impossibility only serves as an excuse for performance to the extent of the impossibility.

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

When a person makes two or more contracts that cannot each be performed in their entirety but are each capable of being partly performed, then the person is under a duty of part performance on each contract. The obligation to perform must be ratably apportioned among the contracts insofar as possible.

Authority: County of Yuba v. Mattoon (1958) 160 Cal.App.2d 456, 458, 325 P.2d 162 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the defense of partial impossibility applies. The optional paragraph applies in cases in which the defendant had several contracts and could fulfill part of each but not all of them.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--This Instruction Typically Will Not Apply: This instruction raises a number of issues, including: What constitutes "ratably apportioned" performance? There will not be many cases where this instruction applies. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

The defense of impossibility does not completely excuse performance if the impossibility is partial. Under circumstances in which the defendant still has limited ability to fulfill the contract, the defendant must do so to the extent possible [County of Yuba v. Mattoon (1958) 160 Cal.App.2d 456, 458, 325 P.2d 162]. Thus, when a promisor makes several contracts that cannot all be performed but are capable of partial, ratable performance, the promisor is under a duty to perform each ratable [County of Yuba v. Mattoon (1958) 160 Cal.App.2d 456, 458, 325 P.2d 162 ; Restatement (Second) of Contracts § 464].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawPerformanceImpossibility of PerformanceGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

168 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART E. IMPOSSIBILITY

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.79--MB 300F.89

Reserved for Future Use

MB 300F.79Reserved for Future Use

169 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART F. ILLEGALITY

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.90

MB 300F.90 Object of Contract Must Be Legal

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Defendant claims as a defense that the purpose of the contract was illegal. To establish this defense, Defendant must prove that the object of the contract when made was not _____ [describe plaintiff's alleged lawful object] but _____ [describe unlawful object].

Authority: Civ. Code § 1608; Hamilton v. Abadjian (1947) 30 Cal.2d 49, 53, 179 P.2d 804 ; see McIntosh v. Mills (2004) 121 Cal.App.4th 333, 344, 17 Cal.Rptr.3d 66 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used whenever there is a question of fact as to the legality of the object of a contract. Defendant has the burden of proof when the illegality is not apparent on the face of the transaction [see [3], below].

[3] Comment

In addition to the requirement that consideration for a contract must be lawful [Civ. Code §§ 1607, 1608], the object of a contract must be lawful [Civ. Code § 1550; see, e.g., Kashani v. Tsann Kuen China Enterprise, Ltd. (2004) 118 Cal.App.4th 531, 537, 13 Cal.Rptr.3d 174 (plaintiffs not entitled to recover damages for breach of agreement to establish plant in Iran for manufacture of computer products; claim held to be based on agreement that violated law and was against public policy); Diosdado v. Diosdado (2002) 97 Cal.App.4th 470, 474, 118 Cal.Rptr.2d 494 (contract between husband and wife providing for liquidated damages for infidelity held contrary to public policy underlying no-fault provisions for dissolution of marriage)]. If a contract has a single object that is unlawful, the entire contract is void [Civ. Code § 1598; McIntosh v. Mills (2004) 121 Cal.App.4th 333, 344, 17 Cal.Rptr.3d 66]. Thus, if plaintiff is unable to allege a lawful object, the contract is void, and no jury issue will be presented. On the other hand, an independent, lawful contract will not ordinarily be denied enforcement because it is remotely connected with or indirectly aiding in the accomplishment of an illegal object [Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, § 423 (10th ed. 2006)]. If a transaction is fair and regular on its face, the burden of proof of unlawful purpose is on the person asserting the illegality [Hamilton v. Abadjian (1947) 30 Cal.2d 49, 53, 179 P.2d 804].

If the object of a contract is only partly illegal and the agreement is severable, the legal portion may be enforced [Civ. Code § 1599; see Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, § 421 (10th ed. 2005)]. The issue of severability is one of law for the court [Keene v. Harling (1964) 61 Cal.2d 318, 321, 38 Cal.Rptr. 513, 392 P.2d 273]. If money consideration is apportioned or capable of being readily apportioned to each of the items to be performed, the covenants are ordinarily regarded as severable [Pacific Wharf & Storage Co. v. Standard American Dredging Co. (1920) 184 Cal. 21, 25, 192 P. 847].

However, Civ. Code § 1599 merely authorizes, and does not require, a court to sever the illegal object of a contract from the legal object. The decision whether to sever the illegal object of a contract is informed by equitable considerations [Yoo v. Robi (2005) 126 Cal. App. 4th 1089, 1105, 24 Cal. Rptr. 3d 740 ; e.g., Blanks v. Seyfarth Shaw LLP (2009) 171 Cal. App. 4th 336, 369-371, 89 Cal. Rptr. 3d 710 (in case involving contractual relationship that evidently was governed in part by Talent Agencies Act, trial court erroneously refused to apply doctrine of severability, by which party's activities as unlicensed talent agent, which were unlawful and therefore not compensable, might have been separated from activities as personal manager, which were not unlawful and for which contractual compensation could have been allowed); Chiba v. Greenwald (2007) 156 Cal.App.4th 71, 81-82, 67 Cal.Rptr.3d 86 (trial court, in refusing to order severance, correctly found that agreement's lawful and unlawful objects were inextricably intertwined and correctly disregarded plaintiff's attempt, in second amended complaint, to allege separate consideration for each object, which allegation was inconsistent with two previous iterations of complaint)].

In a California Supreme Court case, the Court noted that the issue of severability was one of law but further predicated its affirmance on the trial court finding that the promise to pay the purchase price of $50,000 was not induced by the sale of illegal bingo-type machines and that they were of minor importance compared to the legal personal property involved in the sale. The Court stated that this finding was supported by substantial evidence [Keene v. Harling (1964) 61 Cal.2d 318, 321, 38 Cal.Rptr. 513, 392 P.2d 273]. This leaves open the question whether a jury instruction might be given on this issue in an appropriate case.

In an earlier appellate court decision, the plaintiffs sued for the value of improvements plus a claim for loss of prospective profits pursuant to an agreement to operate a restaurant and bar for the proceeds thereof plus 25 percent of proceeds from illegal gambling devices installed on the premises. To minimize the taint of illegality, the plaintiffs waived their claim for lost profits and sought judgment solely for the value of the improvements. The court of appeal nonetheless held that the claims were not severable and thus unenforceable [Fong v. Miller (1951) 105 Cal.App.2d 411, 414, 233 P.2d 606]. It would seem that a jury issue could be presented on slightly different facts. In Fong, the parties stipulated that reference in their contract to sharing the proceeds of "amusement machines" on the premises was understood to mean gambling tables, slot machines, and the like. Thus, if a contract is ambiguous, a jury could be asked to determine whether illegal consideration was intended.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Defenses Illegal Bargains Evidence Procedural Considerations Burdens of Proof Allocation

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

170 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART F. ILLEGALITY

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.91

MB 300F.91 Unlawful Purpose--Defrauding Creditors

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Defendant claims as a defense that the contract was illegal because its purpose was to cheat creditors of _____ [name of party]. To establish this defense, Defendant must prove that the purpose of the contract was to cheat creditors. In determining whether the parties here had such an illegal purpose, you may take into account the circumstances of the contract and the negotiations leading up to it.

Authorities: Penal Code § 531; Redke v. Silvertrust (1971) 6 Cal.3d 94, 103-104, 98 Cal.Rptr. 293, 490 P.2d 805 ; Severance v. Knight-Counihan Co. (1947) 29 Cal.2d 561, 568-570, 177 P.2d 4 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in cases involving a fact issue as to whether the purpose of the contract was to defraud creditors.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--This Instruction May Require Additional Guidance, But Use it Nonetheless: This instruction will probably require some additional guidance from the court as to what constitutes "cheating" creditors. Yet, many jurors will understand "cheat" more easily than many other typical "legal terms." Thus, do not avoid this instruction. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

The fact that a contract depends on an illegal condition precedent may be shown by parol evidence when there are no express provisions in the contract inconsistent with the condition [Severance v. Knight-Counihan Co. (1947) 29 Cal.2d

561, 563, 177 P.2d 4]. If a transaction is fair and regular on its face, the burden of proving an unlawful purpose is on the person asserting the illegality [Hamilton v. Abadjian (1947) 30 Cal.2d 49, 53, 179 P.2d 804].

In Redke v. Silvertrust [Redke v. Silvertrust (1971) 6 Cal.3d 94, 103-104, 98 Cal.Rptr. 293, 490 P.2d 805], the Court concluded that in the absence of fraudulent intent by the promisee spouse, an oral agreement to make a testamentary disposition of the nature involved therein was not void as against public policy. This presented a question of fact. In Severance v. Knight-Counihan Company [Severance v. Knight-Counihan Co. (1947) 29 Cal.2d 561, 563, 177 P.2d 4], a financially troubled printer granted an option to plaintiff, his employee, to purchase certain plates at about one-fourth their value. Later plaintiff left his employment and attempted to exercise the option. The defendant testified that the purpose of the agreement was to safeguard materials for operation of the business in the event that creditors liquidated the company. The California Supreme Court found the purpose to be in accord with defendant's testimony and held that plaintiff could not recover because the agreement was made for the purpose of defrauding creditors. Thus, the case turned on a fact issue that could have been given to a jury.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Bankruptcy LawCase AdministrationExaminers, Officers & TrusteesFraudulent TransfersIntentMergers & Acquisitions
LawFraudulent TransfersContracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsConditions PrecedentContracts LawContract
InterpretationParol EvidenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesIllegal BargainsEvidenceProcedural
ConsiderationsBurden of ProofAllocationReal Property LawPurchase & SaleFraudulent Transfers

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

171 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART F. ILLEGALITY

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.92

MB 300F.92 Usury Defined

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Defendant claims usury as a defense, that is, that an illegal interest rate was included in the contract. To establish this defense, Defendant must prove that the parties in fact agreed to a rate of interest on the loan of Plaintiff's money to Defendant in excess of _____ [the maximum legal rate]. If so, then Plaintiff is entitled to recover only the principal of Plaintiff's loan to Defendant and all other charges are unlawful. In determining whether the parties agreed to usurious interest charges, you may take into account all of the circumstances of the contract and the negotiations leading up to it.

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instructions)]

You are not limited by the words used by the parties. It makes no difference if additional and excessive amounts of interest are designated as payments for services or materials if they are actually disguised interest charges. Nor does it make any difference if the additional charges are in a separate agreement if they are actually intended as interest on the loan of money by Plaintiff to Defendant. However, usury does not result from the mere fact that as a condition to receiving a loan, Plaintiff required Defendant to enter into a separate agreement that was unprofitable for Defendant. To be considered usury, the additional expense to Defendant must have been an agreed charge for the use of Plaintiff's money.

Authorities: Klett v. Security Acceptance Co. (1952) 38 Cal.2d 770, 787-788, 242 P.2d 873 ; Terry Trading Corp. v. Barsky (1930) 210 Cal. 428, 434, 292 P. 474 ; Rochester Capital Leasing Corp. v. K & L Litho Corp. (1970) 13 Cal.App.3d 697, 703, 91 Cal.Rptr. 827 ; Mong v. Bass (1967) 248 Cal.App.2d 377, 381-384, 56 Cal.Rptr. 579 ; Goldenzwig v. Shaddock (1939) 31 Cal.App.2d 719, 722, 88 P.2d 933 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used whenever usury is alleged as a defense to a contract that does not appear usurious on its face. It may be supplemented with the definitions of loan and interest in MB 300F.93 and MB 300F.94. The instruction is applicable whether or not payment of usurious interest has been made. If a defendant has already made some payments of usurious interest, defendant presumably will have cross-complained for recovery of usurious interest and penalties [Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, § 471 (10th ed. 2005); Stats. 1919, p. lxxxiii, § 3].

The instruction can be adapted for use by plaintiff. In that event, the party designation should be reversed. If the contract provided for variable interest and was allegedly entered into in the good faith belief that it would not be usurious, the instruction in MB 300F.95 is applicable.

Constitutional and statutory prohibitions against usury are intended to aid the borrower or a personal representative of the borrower [Roes v. Wong (1999) 69 Cal.App.4th 375, 378, 81 Cal.Rptr.2d 596 (junior lienholder on real property was not entitled to assert usury laws against senior lenders after assuming senior indebtedness to preserve his equity)].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care With Terminology: "Usury" and the related terminology will be quite challenging for most jurors to understand. The optional part of this instruction will usually be necessary to show that charges for alleged services are in reality interest. By Rex Heeseman and Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] When Jury Issue

If a transaction is usurious on its face, neither good faith nor absence of guilty intent is material [Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, §§ 469, 470 (10th ed. 2005)]. That situation will not present a question of fact for the jury. However, it is always permissible to show that a transaction, ostensibly lawful, actually constituted a usurious loan [Terry Trading Corp. v. Barsky (1930) 210 Cal. 428, 434, 292 P. 474]. Whether on piercing the form of a transaction the substance of the transaction is usurious is essentially a question of fact [Glaire v. La Lanne-Paris Health Spa, Inc. (1974) 12 Cal.3d 915, 927, 117 Cal.Rptr. 541, 528 P.2d 357 ; Mong v. Bass (1967) 248 Cal.App.2d 377, 381-384, 56 Cal.Rptr. 579]. The test is stated as whether there was an intent to evade the law. All of the circumstances and negotiations that preceded the transaction may be material in determining intent [Terry Trading Corp. v. Barsky (1930) 210 Cal. 428, 434, 292 P. 474]. Once usury is shown, the lender may recover the principal of the loan, but is not entitled to claim any interest [Rochester Capital Leasing Corp. v. K & L Litho Corp. (1970) 13 Cal.App.3d 697, 703, 91 Cal.Rptr. 827 ; Teichner v. Klassman (1966) 240 Cal.App.2d, 514, 524, 49 Cal.Rptr. 742].

[b] Necessary Intent

The courts sometimes refer to the intent to evade the usury law as involving a question of good faith [Glaire v. La Lanne-Paris Health Spa, Inc. (1974) 12 Cal.3d 915, 927, 117 Cal.Rptr. 541, 528 P.2d 357 ; Fox v. Federated Department Stores, Inc. (1979) 94 Cal.App.3d 867 . 877, 156 Cal.Rptr. 893]. Generally, however, the courts invariably go on to explain that the case is not to be judged by what the parties appear to be or represent themselves to be doing, but by the substance of the transaction as disclosed by the whole evidence [Glaire v. La Lanne-Paris Health Spa, Inc. (1974) 12 Cal.3d 915, 927, 117 Cal.Rptr. 541, 528 P.2d 357]. Thus, it appears that the question is not good faith ignorance of the law, but whether the parties intended to do the act that the law prohibits, charging interest higher than the law allows, whether or not the parties know what the legal limit is.

[c] What Is Interest

The mere fact that a party may have been required to enter into an unprofitable contract as a condition to a loan of money does not itself make the loan usurious. On the other hand, the law would be violated if the lender provided for a lawful rate of interest in the note itself, but required additional and excessive interest by the terms of a collateral agreement. Nor would it make any difference that the additional and excessive amounts of interest were designated as payments for services or materials furnished by the lender if they were actually intended as interest [Terry Trading Corp. v. Barsky (1930) 210 Cal. 428, 434, 292 P. 474 ; see Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, § 471 (10th ed. 2005)].

[d] Burden of Proof

The burden of proof is on the party alleging usury [Mong v. Bass (1967) 248 Cal.App.2d 377, 381-384, 56 Cal.Rptr. 579 ; Goldenzwig v. Shaddock (1939) 31 Cal.App.2d 719, 722, 88 P.2d 933].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDefensesUsuryEvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

172 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART F. ILLEGALITY

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.93

MB 300F.93 Loan Defined

[1] Instruction Loan Defined

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A loan of money is a contract by which one person, the lender, delivers a sum of money to another person, the borrower, and the borrower agrees to return the money at some future time.

Authority: Civ. Code § 1912.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used to define the nature of a loan whenever a transaction appears to be other than a loan and defendant has alleged that the parties in fact intended a usurious loan.

[3] Comment

This definition of loan is derived from the provisions of Civ. Code § 1912.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDebtor & Creditor RelationsContracts LawDefensesUsury

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

173 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART F. ILLEGALITY

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.94

MB 300F.94 Interest Defined

[1] Instruction Interest Defined

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Interest is the amount of payment fixed by the parties for [the use of money or refraining from the collection of money or detaining money].

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 1914, 1915.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used to define the nature of interest.

[3] Comment

Civ. Code § 1915 defines interest as the payment allowed by law or fixed by the parties for the use, forbearance, or detention of money.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesUsury

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

174 of 174 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3F Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions
PART F. ILLEGALITY

1-3F California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300F.95

MB 300F.95 Usury--Defense of Good Faith in Case of Variable Interest

[1] Instruction Usury--Defense of Good Faith in Case of Variable Interest

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff claims that [he/she/it] is not liable to Defendant for charging too much interest because [he/she/it] acted in good faith in agreeing to a variable interest rate. To establish this claim, Plaintiff must prove that at the time the interest rate was fixed by the parties Plaintiff was acting in the honest belief that the interest charge would not exceed _____ [specify applicable legal rate].

Authority: Arneill Ranch v. Petit (1976) 64 Cal.App.3d 277, 293-294, 134 Cal.Rptr. 456 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used only in cases involving variable interest. In these cases, good faith may be alleged as a justification for an otherwise usurious interest charge. Although good faith also is mentioned in other situations when usury is charged, it does not appear to have the same meaning [see MB 300F.92] and has not been incorporated in the general instruction on usury.

[3] Comment

The lawfulness of variable interest that exceeds the usury rate depends on a determination whether the provisions were entered into in good faith and without intent to violate the usury law [Arneill Ranch v. Petit (1976) 64 Cal.App.3d 277, 293, 134 Cal.Rptr. 456]. It appears that good faith in this context refers not to knowledge or ignorance of the law but of the facts, that is, whether at the time the variable rate was fixed, the party charging the interest honestly believed that the fluctuations in the rate would not exceed the maximum legal rate.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Contracts LawDefensesUsury

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

1 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction 3G.syn

§ 3G.syn Synopsis to Chapter 3G: Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions

MB 300G.01 Rescission

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300G.02 Rescission by Consent

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Mutual Consent

[b] Right to Jury Trial

[c] Alternative Theories

MB 300G.03 Acceptance of Repudiation

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300G.04 Rescission of Third Party Beneficiary Contract

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300G.05 Improperly Obtained Consent

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300G.06 Rescission Based on Improper Conduct of Third Party

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300G.07 Material Failure of Consideration

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300G.08 Rescission for Breach

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Rescission for Breach

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300G.09 Causation

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300G.10-MB 300G.19 [Reserved for Future Use]

MB 300G.20 Consent Obtained by Mistake

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Rescission Based on Mistake

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300G.21 Types of Mistake

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Types of Mistake

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300G.22 Mutual Mistake

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Mutual Mistake

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300G.23 Unilateral Mistake

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Unilateral Mistake

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300G.24 Mistake of Fact Defined

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Mistake of Fact Defined

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300G.25 Mistake of Law Defined

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Mistake of Law Defined

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300G.26 Mistake--Neglect of Legal Duty

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300G.27 Mistake--Risk Assumed

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300G.28 Rescission Due to Mistake--Necessity of Injury

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Necessity of Injury

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300G.29-MB 300G.39 [Reserved for Future Use]

MB 300G.40 Affirmative Misrepresentation

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Affirmative Misrepresentation

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300G.41 Statement of Opinion or Statement About the Law

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Statement of Opinion or Fact

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300G.42 Concealment

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Concealment

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300G.43 Duty to Disclose--Sole Access

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Duty to Disclose

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300G.44 Duty to Disclose to Correct Misleading Statements

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Fraudulent Suppression

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300G.45 Active Prevention of Investigation

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300G.46 Effect of Independent Investigation

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300G.47 Effect of Defrauded Party's Failure to Investigate

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Failure to Investigate

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300G.48 Promise Without Intent to Perform

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Promise Without Intent to Perform

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300G.49 Materiality of Misrepresentation

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] When Misrepresented Fact Is Material

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300G.50-MB 300G.59 [Reserved for Future Use]

MB 300G.60 Constructive Fraud

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300G.61 Existence of Confidential Relationship

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300G.62 Fiduciary Relationship Is Confidential

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300G.63 Advantage Defined

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300G.64 Full Disclosure Defined

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300G.65 Constructive Fraud of Agent

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300G.66 Undue Influence in Confidential Relationship

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Definition of Undue Influence

[b] Presumption

[c] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300G.67 Undue Influence Absent Confidential Relationship

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Undue Influence Depends on Facts

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300G.68 Weakness of Mind Defined

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300G.69 Lack of Understanding as to Nature of Transaction

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300G.70-MB 300G.79 [Reserved for Future Use]

MB 300G.80 Traditional Duress or Menace

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Duress

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300G.81 Economic Duress

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Economic Duress

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300G.82 Nature of Threat

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Nature of Threat

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300G.83-MB 300G.89 [Reserved for Future Use]

MB 300G.90 Effect of Delay

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300G.91 Waiver of Right to Cancel

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Waiver

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300G.92 Effect of Confidential Relationship on Waiver

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Waiver Induced by Fraud

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

2 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction Scope

Scope

SCOPE

This chapter includes jury instructions on various issues involving rescission (i.e., cancellation) of contracts that are likely to be presented to a jury. For the California Judicial Council jury instructions on damages and affirmative defenses in contract cases, see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions. Ch. 3 also includes Judicial Council instructions on other issues surrounding contracts, including formation, performance, interpretation, modification, and breach. The instructions in this chapter are intended to supplement the Judicial Council instructions [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1050].

Rescission can go to the jury either in a plaintiff's suit for rescission and damages or as a defense to a contract action.

This chapter covers the following topics:

- Part A includes general instructions on the elements of rescission, causation, and the bases for rescission, including special contexts such as acquiescence in repudiation and cancellation of a third party beneficiary contract [see MB 300G.01-MB 300G.09].
- Part B includes instructions related to rescission for mistake [see MB 300G.20-MB 300G.28].
- Part C includes instructions related to rescission for fraud, including negligent misrepresentation [see MB 300G.40 -MB 300G.49].
- Part D includes instructions related to constructive fraud and undue influence [see MB 300G.60 -MB 300G.69].
- Part E includes instructions on rescission for duress or menace, including economic duress [see MB 300G.80 -MB 300G.82].

- Part F includes instructions on defenses to rescission, including the effect of the rescinding party's delay in giving notice of rescission [see MB 300G.90], waiver of the right to rescind [see MB 300G.91], and the effect of a confidential relationship on the issue of waiver [see MB 300G.92].

Instructions in Ch. 3A, Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions, apply if rescission is alleged to be by mutual consent.

Ch. 3D, Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions, should be consulted if there is an issue as to the rescinding party's right to rescind because of that party's own prior breach.

Ch. 3E, Matthew Bender Contract Damages Instructions, should be consulted if damages are sought on rescission. No attempt has been made to formulate a damage instruction specific to rescission. The right to damages as well as other relief is governed by Civ. Code § 1692. Restoration of benefits as a condition of judgment is governed by Civ. Code §§ 1691 and 1692. It may be best to handle the particular conditions of recovery by stipulation or court determination separate from the submission of the damage issue to the jury.

The defenses dealt with in this chapter are specific to rescission. Ch. 3F, Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions, includes other contract defenses that may apply.

3 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART A. GENERAL BASES FOR RESCISSION

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.01

MB 300G.01 Rescission

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

_____ [Party claiming rescission] has the burden of proving that the contract with _____ [other party] was canceled. I will now tell you the rules of law that you must follow in deciding whether or not the contract was canceled.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1692; Evid. Code § 500.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used to introduce the applicable instructions on rescission. The word "cancel" is suggested because it is a widely recognized synonym for the word "rescind" and because it is a much easier word for the jury to hear and to understand. However, counsel should observe caution in making this substitution. In strict legal parlance, cancellation of a contract means only termination, whereas rescission technically means something more: to unmake a contract and wipe it out from the beginning as if it had never been [Black's Law Dictionary (6th ed. 1990) at 206, 1306; see PWS, Inc. v. Ban (1991) 234 Cal.App.3d 223, 285 Cal.Rptr. 598 (effect of rescission is to void contract ab initio)]. The importance of this distinction is that all previously accrued rights survive a cancellation and are enforceable, but a rescission restores the parties to their positions before the contract. Thus, recovery for prior performance is available under a canceled contract, but not under a rescinded contract [Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, § 926 (10th ed. 2005)]. So long as the jury is properly instructed on the consequences of rescission in a given case, there should be no problem in using the term "cancel." If a confidential relationship is involved, use the instruction that reflects the more limited issues on which the rescinding party has the burden of proof [see MB 300G.60]. If defenses to rescission are alleged, the burden of proof of the defenses is on the party asserting them [see Part F]. Damages will almost invariably be sought by a plaintiff and may or may not be sought by a defendant by way of cross-complaint in addition to raising rescission as a defense.

For general damage instructions and the additional burden of proof placed on the other party, see Ch. 3E, Matthew Bender Contract Damages Instructions.

A preponderance of the evidence instruction must be used with this instruction [see Ch. 2, California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions, CACI No. 200 ("Obligation to Prove--More Likely True Than Not True")].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care With Terms: The term "canceled" is preferable to "rescinded" and should be used in closing argument. Still, some jurors may be uncertain about the meaning of "canceled." Thus, explain it as related to the facts. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

By statute, when a contract has been rescinded in whole or in part, any party may seek relief based on the rescission by bringing an action to recover any money or thing owing to him or her as a consequence of the rescission or by asserting the rescission by way of defense or cross-complaint [Civ. Code § 1692]. Restoration of benefits as a condition of rescission is governed by Civ. Code §§ 1691 and 1692. The party relying on the rescission has the burden of proof as to whether the contract was rescinded [Evid. Code § 500].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Remedies Rescission & Redhibition General Overview Evidence Procedural Considerations Burdens of Proof Allocation

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

4 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART A. GENERAL BASES FOR RESCISSION

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.02

MB 300G.02 Rescission by Consent

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Parties may consent to cancel an agreement between them. When that happens their agreement is at an end; each gives up the right to enforce it against the other.

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

Consent to cancel a written agreement need not be expressed in writing; it may be oral or implied by conduct. The parties need not use special words, or any words at all, so long as the conduct on the part of both parties is clearly inconsistent with keeping the agreement in force.

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

Parties may cancel their agreement at any stage, not just at the beginning.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1689(a); Pennel v. Pond Union School Dist. (1973) 29 Cal.App.3d 832, 837-838, 105 Cal.Rptr. 817 ; Griffin v. Beresa, Inc. (1956) 143 Cal.App.2d 299, 301, 300 P.2d 31 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when one of the parties is alleging rescission by mutual consent and there is a fact issue as to whether the rescission took place. If questions are presented regarding the rescission agreement's formation, see

Ch. 3A, Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions, for applicable instructions. If there are more than two parties to the original agreement, the instruction should be modified to clarify that the agreement may only be rescinded with the consent of all of the parties. The first optional provision is intended for use when the original contract was in writing and the alleged rescission is not. Although the case law describes conduct supporting rescission as having to be "positive" [see [3][a], below], it would appear unnecessary to attempt to instruct the jury on what is meant by positive conduct. If the type of conduct is insufficient to support a finding of rescission, the court should not let the issue go to the jury. The second optional paragraph is intended for use when the alleged rescission took place after the parties had been operating under their agreement for some time. Its purpose is to counteract any inference that it was too late to rescind the agreement at the time rescission allegedly occurred.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Silence Implies Consent: Rescission (or cancellation) by consent can occur when neither party takes any action to follow the terms of a contract, or when one party claims the contract is canceled, and the other party does not dispute the claim. This is a situation where "silence implies consent." However, be sure to set forth the facts that support your view of this issue. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Mutual Consent

A contract may be rescinded by mutual consent at any stage [Civ. Code § 1689(a); Griffin v. Beresa, Inc. (1956) 143 Cal.App.2d 299, 301, 300 P.2d 31]. Offer and acceptance of rescission are governed by the rules generally governing formation of contracts [Harriman v. Tetik (1962) 56 Cal.2d 805, 810, 17 Cal.Rptr. 134, 366 P.2d 486]. This means the burden of proof of rescission is on the party alleging the agreement to rescind [see Reichert v. General Ins. Co. (1968) 68 Cal.2d 822, 830, 69 Cal.Rptr. 321, 442 P.2d 377]. Consideration is supplied by each party giving up the right to enforce the agreement against the other [Schertzinger v. Williams (1961) 198 Cal.App.2d 242, 17 Cal.Rptr. 719]. An agreement to rescind may be oral or implied by conduct [Pennel v. Pond Union School Dist. (1973) 29 Cal.App.3d 832, 837, 105 Cal.Rptr. 817] even if the original agreement was in writing [Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, §§ 927-928 (10th ed., 2005)]. The parol evidence rule has no application because the acts giving rise to rescission are subsequent to the writing [Code Civ. Proc. § 1856(a)]. No special words are necessary or any words at all, but if rescission is implied, the acts and conduct relied on must be positive, unequivocal, and inconsistent with the contract [Pennel v. Pond Union School Dist. (1973) 29 Cal.App.3d 832, 838, 105 Cal.Rptr. 817].

[b] Right to Jury Trial

The right to a jury trial in actions to enforce rescission is governed by the nature of the substantive relief requested. If the gist of the action is the recovery of damages, a jury trial is available [Paularena v. Superior Court (1965) 231 Cal.App.2d 906, 913, 42 Cal.Rptr. 366]. If no damages or restitution of consideration is sought, there is no right to a jury trial [Porter v. Superior Court (1977) 73 Cal.App.3d 793, 797-798, 141 Cal.Rptr. 59]. In an action at law the court may require the plaintiff to return property received as a condition to an award of damages. Although the offsetting process is in the nature of an accounting, it does not convert the damage action to one in equity [Paularena v. Superior Court (1965) 231 Cal.App.2d 906, 914, 42 Cal.Rptr. 366]. For general instructions on damages, see Ch. 3E, Matthew Bender Contract Damages Instructions.

[c] Alternative Theories

An alternative theory to mutual rescission is unilateral rescission [Civ. Code § 1689(b)(2); Pennel v. Pond Union School Dist. (1973) 29 Cal.App.3d 832, 838, 105 Cal.Rptr. 817 ; see MB 300G.23]. Other theories that might fit the facts are oral modification [see Ch. 3A, Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions] or novation [see Ch. 3F, Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesRescission &
RedhibitionGeneral OverviewContracts LawTypes of ContractsAgreements of RescissionEvidenceProcedural
ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofAllocation

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

5 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions PART A. GENERAL BASES FOR RESCISSION

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.03

MB 300G.03 Acceptance of Repudiation

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

An agreement is canceled if one party refuses to recognize that a binding agreement exists and the other party thereafter treats the agreement as canceled.

Authorities: Griffin v. Beresa, Inc. (1956) 143 Cal.App.2d 299, 301, 300 P.2d 31 ; McCreary v. Mercury Lumber Distributors (1954) 124 Cal.App.2d 477, 486, 268 P.2d 762 ; Dessert Seed Co. v. Garbus (1944) 66 Cal.App.2d 838, 847, 153 P.2d 184 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used together with the instruction in MB 300G.01 when one party alleges that the other repudiated the contract and the response is that rescission resulted from acquiescence in the repudiation. The use of the word "cancel" is suggested instead of "rescind" [see MB 300G.01].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Need for Outward Expression of Intent: A party disputing cancellation of a contract may be able to show that protestations would have been futile.

However, some outward expression of dissent will be necessary to avoid the impact of this instruction.

By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

Acquiescence in the repudiation of a contract is a form of rescission by mutual consent [Griffin v. Beresa, Inc. (1956) 143 Cal.App.2d 299, 301, 300 P.2d 31 ; McCreary v. Mercury Lumber Distributors (1954) 124 Cal.App.2d 477, 486, 268 P.2d 762 ; Dessert Seed Co. v. Garbus (1944) 66 Cal.App.2d 838, 847, 153 P.2d 184]. The general rules governing consensual rescission are discussed in MB 300G.01.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Remedies Rescission & Redhibition General Overview Contracts Law Types of Contracts Agreements of Rescission

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

6 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions PART A. GENERAL BASES FOR RESCISSION

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.04

MB 300G.04 Rescission of Third Party Beneficiary Contract

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A contract for the benefit of a third person may be cancelled by agreement of both parties to the contract without the consent of the third person for whose benefit the contract was made.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1559; R. J. Cardinal Co. v. Ritchie (1963) 218 Cal.App.2d 124, 136, 32 Cal.Rptr. 545 ; Silveyra v. Harper (1947) 82 Cal.App.2d 761, 766, 187 P.2d 83 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the defendant is sued by a third party beneficiary and alleges rescission as a defense. The use of the word "cancel" is suggested instead of rescind [see MB 300G.01]. The instruction should be followed by whatever general rescission instructions are applicable. If there is evidence of estoppel to rescind the contract, an estoppel instruction should be included [see Ch. 3F, Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions]. For instructions on establishing a third party beneficiary contract, see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions, CACI No. 301, and Ch. 3C, Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Detrimental Reliance Can Alter Rule: This instruction states the general rule. However, detrimental reliance by a third party beneficiary can alter the general rule. And, some jurors may be concerned about "fairness" here. Thus, emphasize that this is the law. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

Absent an estoppel, the parties to a third party beneficiary contract may rescind the agreement at any time before commencement of an action by the third party beneficiary [Civ. Code § 1559; R. J. Cardinal Co. v. Ritchie (1963) 218 Cal.App.2d 124, 136, 32 Cal.Rptr. 545 ; Silveyra v. Harper (1947) 82 Cal.App.2d 761, 766, 187 P.2d 83]. The principles governing rescission of third party beneficiary contracts are the same as those applicable to contracts generally [R.J. Cardinal Co. v. Ritchie (1963) 218 Cal.App.2d 124, 135-136, 32 Cal.Rptr. 545]. The recitation in some cases [see R.J. Cardinal Co. v. Ritchie (1963) 218 Cal.App.2d 124, 136, 32 Cal.Rptr. 545] that a third party beneficiary contract cannot be rescinded or revoked as long as the promisor retains or continues to receive the consideration from the original promisee is misleading. The rules governing rescission of a third-party beneficiary contract include all of the principles by which any rescinding party may be relieved from the obligation of restoring everything of value received under the contract [R.J. Cardinal Co. v. Ritchie (1963) 218 Cal.App.2d 124, 150, 32 Cal.Rptr. 545 (directing trial court on remand to incorporate applicable rules relevant to unilateral rescission into jury instructions)].

Estoppel may not give the third party the full benefit of the contract. In one case, the court reversed the judgment to the extent that it awarded the third party beneficiary a recovery for the full contract price because he had only changed his position to his damage in reliance on part of the promise. The court's alternative grounds for reaching this result were either that the rescission was effective to the extent there was no reliance or because the contract was never completed [Silveyra v. Harper (1947) 82 Cal.App.2d 761, 766-768, 187 P.2d 83]. The submission of the estoppel issue to the jury is discussed in Ch. 3F, Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Consideration Detrimental
Reliance Contracts Law Remedies Rescission & Redhibition General Overview Contracts Law Third Parties Beneficiaries General Overview Contracts Law Third Parties Beneficiaries Claims & Enforcement Contracts
Law Types of Contracts Agreements of Rescission

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

7 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions PART A. GENERAL BASES FOR RESCISSION

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.05

MB 300G.05 Improperly Obtained Consent

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Normally, each party to a contract is bound by it and neither may cancel the contract or ignore any duties under it because, by hindsight, it turns out to have been a bad bargain. A contract is still valid even if it was based on bad judgment. However, consent to an agreement must be freely given. A party's consent is not freely given if two things are shown: (1) consent was obtained under circumstances that the law considers improper, and (2) consent would not have been given without the improper circumstances. I will now tell you what rules to apply to determine if _____ [rescinding party's] consent to the contract was improperly obtained.

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 1565-1568; Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal.App.2d 123, 132, 54 Cal.Rptr. 533 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when rescission is claimed based on lack of free consent. It may either be raised by the defendant in defense of an action on the contract or by the plaintiff in a suit to rescind. This instruction should be followed by one or more of the specific instructions in this chapter on various theories of rescission.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Validity of Contract: This is an introductory instruction that sets forth the important concept that a contract is still valid even if based on bad judgment. Absent extraordinary circumstances (that are the subject of the following instructions), most jurors will respond favorably to the argument that "a deal is a deal" even if one side benefits more than the other. However, be careful when explaining what is "improper" in this context. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

There are second thoughts to every bargain. Hindsight may not be used to avoid a bad bargain. Second thoughts are a risk inherent in managing one's affairs [Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal.App.2d 123, 132, 54 Cal.Rptr. 533]. However, a party may rescind a contract if his or her consent was not freely given [Civ. Code §§ 1565, 1566]. Apparent consent is not free when obtained through duress, menace, fraud, undue influence, or mistake [Civ. Code § 1567]. Rescission may only be obtained for one of these causes if it is shown that consent would not have otherwise been given [Civ. Code § 1568].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Contracts Law Defenses Duress & Undue Influence General Overview Contracts Law Defenses Fraud & Misrepresentation General Overview Contracts Law Remedies Rescission & Redhibition General Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

8 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART A. GENERAL BASES FOR RESCISSION

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.06

MB 300G.06 Rescission Based on Improper Conduct of Third Party[1] Instruction[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A person may not knowingly take advantage of another's wrongdoing. You must determine whether _____ [other party] knew or had reason to know that _____ [rescinding party's] consent was caused by the _____ [describe improper conduct] of _____ [third person] before _____ [other party] performed, promised to perform, or made an important change in [his/her/its] position in reliance on the contract.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1689(b)(1); Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal.2d 195, 206, 1 Cal.Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the improper conduct allegedly justifying rescission is that of a third party. The word "important" is suggested instead of "material" [see Black's Law Dictionary (5th ed. 1979) at p. 880] because it is more likely to be correctly understood by the jury. The word "serious" is an alternate suggestion. If the third party does not act with the connivance of the party sought to be held but with a jointly interested party, the instruction should be modified accordingly [see [3], below].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Show Connection Between Improper Conduct and Other Party to Contract: Mere knowledge of improper conduct by an unrelated third party may be sufficient to cancel a contract. However, most attorneys will want to show some greater connection between the improper conduct and the other party to the contract to support cancellation of the contract.
By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

Rescission is permitted not only when a party obtains the consent of another by his or her own improper conduct, but also when that consent has been wrongfully induced by a third person with the "connivance of" the party against whom rescission is sought or by a party jointly interested in the contract [Civ. Code § 1689(b)(1)]. "Connivance" means advantage, knowingly taken, of the wrongdoing of third parties [Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal.2d 195, 206, 1 Cal.Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12]. This rule makes voidable a contract obtained by the improper conduct of a third party when one party has reason to know of the improper means used to obtain the other party's consent. The nonrescinding party's knowledge must have been obtained before that party gave or promised to give something of value in the transaction or materially changed position in reliance on the transaction [Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal.2d 195, 206, 1 Cal.Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12 ; Hall v. Department of Adoptions (1975) 47 Cal.App.3d 898, 903, 121 Cal.Rptr. 223] .

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral OverviewContracts LawThird PartiesGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

9 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART A. GENERAL BASES FOR RESCISSION

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.07

MB 300G.07 Material Failure of Consideration

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A party to a contract may cancel the contract if for any reason [he/she/it] does not receive what was promised in exchange by the other party or if an important part of what was promised is missing. You must decide whether an important part of what was promised is missing. Something is important to a contract if it would be likely to cause a reasonable person not to have made the contract if that part was missing.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1689; Wyler v. Feuer (1978) 85 Cal.App.3d 392, 403-404, 149 Cal.Rptr. 626 ; Wood v. Kalbaugh (1974) 39 Cal.App.3d 926, 930, 114 Cal.Rptr. 673 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the basis for rescission is failure of consideration from any cause before it is rendered to the rescinding party. If there is failure of consideration due to material breach by the other party, then the instruction in MB 300G.08 should be given. The instruction contemplates material failure rather than complete failure of consideration since complete failure is unlikely to present a jury question. The phrase "what was promised in exchange" is suggested instead of "consideration" since it is more likely to be understood by the average juror.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Missing Consideration Must Be Important Part of What Was Promised: The key language in this instruction is that the missing consideration must be an important part of "what was promised." Just because a contract does not turn out to be as advantageous as one side expected is not a ground for cancellation unless the missing element is part of "what was promised." You need to explain, in light of the facts, "what was promised." By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

A contract may be rescinded if the consideration fails in a material regard from any cause before the consideration is rendered to the rescinding party [Civ. Code § 1689(b)(4)]. The materiality of failure of consideration is a question of fact [Calabrese v. Rexall Drug & Chemical Co. (1963) 218 Cal.App.2d 774, 782, 32 Cal.Rptr. 665]. A fact is material if it would be likely to affect the conduct of a reasonable person with reference to the transaction [Wood v. Kalbaugh (1974) 39 Cal.App.3d 926, 930, 114 Cal.Rptr. 673].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsProvince of Court & JuryContracts LawBreachMaterial BreachContracts LawConsiderationSufficient ConsiderationContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

10 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART A. GENERAL BASES FOR RESCISSION

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.08

MB 300G.08 Rescission for Breach

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A party to a contract may cancel the contract if the other party breaches the contract by failing to perform an important part of what he or she promised to do. Something is an important part of a party's promised performance under a contract if a reasonable person would not have made the contract if that part of the promise had not been made.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1689(b)(2); Wyler v. Feuer (1978) 85 Cal.App.3d 392, 403-404, 149 Cal.Rptr. 626 ; Wood v. Kalbaugh (1974) 39 Cal.App.3d 926, 930, 114 Cal.Rptr. 673 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is an issue as to whether a contract can be rescinded because of a material breach of contract by the other party.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Be Prepared to Explain Rescission for Breach:

Most jurors will not have difficulty understanding that if one side fails to perform an important part of the bargain, the contract may be canceled. The other party is then entitled to recover amounts paid under the contract. Still, it is sometimes difficult to explain what happened through the eyes of hindsight. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Rescission for Breach

A contract may be canceled if the consideration for the obligation of the cancelling party fails, in whole or in part, through the fault of the party as to whom he or she cancels [Civ. Code § 1689(b)(2)]. It is proper to instruct the jury that the failure of consideration must be material to justify rescission [Wylar v. Feuer (1978) 85 Cal.App.3d 392, 404, 149 Cal.Rptr. 626]. Even a slight breach at the outset may justify cancellation if it is indicative of future problems [Pennel v. Pond Union School Dist. (1973) 29 Cal.App.3d 832, 105 Cal.Rptr. 817 ; see Ch. 3D, Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 324 Anticipatory Breach

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawBreachCauses of ActionGeneral OverviewContracts LawBreachMaterial BreachContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

11 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART A. GENERAL BASES FOR RESCISSION

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.09

MB 300G.09 Causation[1] Instruction[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A party may only cancel a contract if consent would not have been given absent the _____ [alleged cause for rescission]. It is not necessary for _____ [rescinding party] to prove that the _____ [alleged cause for rescission] was the sole reason for entering into the contract, but only that _____ [alleged cause for rescission] was of such nature, weight, and force that, without it, the contract would not have been made.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1568; Ford v. Cournale (1973) 36 Cal.App.3d 172, 183 n.10, 111 Cal.Rptr. 334 ; Reid v. Landon (1958) 166 Cal.App.2d 476, 483, 333 P.2d 432 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in all cases involving a claim of rescission due to duress, menace, fraud, undue influence, or mistake when there is an issue as to whether the consent was affected by the basis for cancellation.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Reason for Canceling Contract Need Not Be Sole Reason for Entering Into Contract: This is an important instruction for a party seeking to cancel a contract--the reason for canceling the contract does not have to be the sole reason for entering into the contract. However, some jurors may be wondering if the canceling party acted "fairly." Consequently, stress (or attack) the facts in that regard. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

To obtain rescission for duress, menace, fraud, undue influence, or mistake, it must be shown that consent would not have been given had the cause not existed [Civ. Code § 1568; Merced County Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. State of California (1991) 233 Cal.App.3d 765, 772, 284 Cal.Rptr. 680 (misrepresentation or mistake); Ford v. Cournale (1973) 36 Cal.App.3d 172, 183, 111 Cal.Rptr. 334 (fraud); Keithley v. Civil Service Bd. (1970) 11 Cal.App.3d 443, 451, 89 Cal.Rptr. 809 (undue influence); Reid v. Landon (1958) 166 Cal.App.2d 476, 483, 333 P.2d 432 (mistake)]. The instruction is modeled after the one approved in Ford v. Cournale [Ford v. Cournale (1973) 36 Cal.App.3d 172, 183 n.10, 111 Cal.Rptr. 334].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue
InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewContracts
LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

12 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART A. GENERAL BASES FOR RESCISSION

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.10-MB 300G.19

[Reserved for Future Use]

MB 300G.10[Reserved for Future Use]

13 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART B. MISTAKE

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.20

MB 300G.20 Consent Obtained by Mistake

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A party may cancel a contract if [his/her/its] consent was given by mistake under the limited circumstances about which I will now instruct you.

Authority: Civ. Code § 1689(b)(1).

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used to introduce the applicable additional instructions on mistake that follow. The word "cancel" is suggested instead of "rescind" [see MB 300G.01[2]].

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care When Arguing Mistake: Many jurors will look with some doubt on a party talking about a "mistake." Thus, structure the closing accordingly.
By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Mistake Must Fit "Limited Circumstances": Most disadvantageous contracts are entered into by mistake. The key words in this instruction are that the mistake must fit the "limited circumstances" described in the following instructions [see MB 300G.21 -MB 300G.28]. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Rescission Based on Mistake

An injured party may rescind a contract based on mistake [Civ. Code § 1689(b)(1); see Harris v. Rudin, Richman & Appel (2002) 95 Cal.App.4th 1332, 1339-1341, 116 Cal.Rptr.2d 552 (concluding that defendants raised triable issues of fact as to whether they were entitled to rescind settlement agreement based on mutual mistake of fact or law); see also MB 300G.25]. The mistake must be material [Merced County Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. State of California (1991) 233 Cal.App.3d 765, 772, 284 Cal.Rptr. 680 ; Bellwood Discount Corp. v. Empire Steel Buildings Co. (1959) 175 Cal.App.2d 432, 435, 346 P.2d 467 ; see MB 300G.09]. It may be of fact or law [Civ. Code § 1576; see MB 300G.21], mutual [Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal.App.3d 879, 884, 124 Cal.Rptr. 577 ; see MB 300G.22], or unilateral [see MB 300G.23], provided that it was the mistake of the complaining party [Wood v. Metzenbaum (1951) 107 Cal.App.2d 727, 731, 237 P.2d 703]. The other party must be aware or have reason to be aware of the mistake [see MB 300G.23]. Proof of injury may also be required [Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal.App.3d 879, 886, 124 Cal.Rptr. 577 ; see MB 300G.28]. The rescinding party must also show that but for the mistake, he or she would not have entered into the contract [Civ. Code § 1568; Reid v. Landon (1958) 166 Cal.App.2d 476, 483, 333 P.2d 432 ; see MB 300G.09].

Relief based on rescission will not be denied because of delay in giving notice of rescission unless delay has been substantially prejudicial to the other party [Civ. Code § 1693; see MB 300G.90]. Rescission will be denied if the mistake was the result of the neglect of a legal duty [Civ. Code § 1577; see MB 300G.26].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 330 Affirmative Defense--Unilateral Mistake of Fact

CACI No. 331 Affirmative Defense--Bilateral Mistake

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeMutual MistakeContracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeUnilateral MistakeContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

14 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART B. MISTAKE

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.21

MB 300G.21 Types of Mistake

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Mistake may be either a mistake about a fact or mistake about the law.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1576; Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal.App.3d 879, 884, 124 Cal.Rptr. 577 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in all cases involving mistake but it is only necessary when both types of mistake are alleged. It should be followed by the definitional instructions in MB 300G.24 and MB 300G.25.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

[3] Comment

[a] Types of Mistake

This instruction is derived from Civ. Code § 1576. The Civil Code distinguishes between the two types of mistake [Civ. Code §§ 1577, 1578], but specifically provides that a mistake of foreign law is to be treated as a mistake of fact [Civ. Code § 1579]. However, very little distinction exists in the case law. Thus, under California law, a mutual mistake, whether of fact or law, which affects an essential element of the contract and is harmful to one of the parties, is subject to rescission by the party harmed [Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal.App.3d 879, 884-886, 124 Cal.Rptr. 577].

However, there may still be a difference under California law regarding the effect of unilateral mistake of fact and law. Civ. Code § 1578 requires that the other party be aware of a mistake of law. There is authority that the other party must only have reason to be aware of the mistake of fact [Neptune Gunite Co. v. Monroe Enterprises (1964) 229 Cal.App.2d 439, 442, 40 Cal.Rptr. 367]. Thus, the only difference under California law between the effect of a unilateral mistake of law and mistake of fact is if the court interprets Civ. Code § 1578 to require actual knowledge as opposed to reason to know for a mistake of law. No cases were found that dealt with this point, but it appears likely that California courts would recognize rescission for mistake of law when the other party has reason to know of such mistake just as they recognize the right to rescind for mistake of fact under the same circumstances [see Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, §§ 267, 274 (10th ed. 2005); see also MB 300G.23].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 330 Affirmative Defense--Unilateral Mistake of Fact

CACI No. 331 Affirmative Defense--Bilateral Mistake

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeUnilateral MistakeContracts LawFormationAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationAmbiguity & MistakeUnilateral Mistake

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

15 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART B. MISTAKE

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.22

MB 300G.22 Mutual Mistake

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A party may cancel a contract for mistake if both parties made basically the same mistake as to an important part of the contract.

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 1578, 1689(b)(1); Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal.App.3d 879, 884, 124 Cal.Rptr. 577 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used if mutual mistake is alleged. The use of the word "important" is suggested for "material" [see Black's Law Dictionary (5th ed. 1979) at p. 880]. The necessity of an injury instruction may be given with this instruction [see MB 300G.28].

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Mutual Mistake Is Uncommon: Cancellation for mutual mistake is not very common. Usually one side knows the real situation. Further, several jurors will find it difficult to believe that both sides "made the same mistake." By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Mutual Mistake

A mutual mistake, whether of fact or law, which affects an essential element of the contract and is harmful to one of the parties, is subject to rescission by the party harmed [Civ. Code §§ 1578, 1689(b)(1); Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal.App.3d 879, 884, 124 Cal.Rptr. 577; see Harris v. Rudin, Richman & Appel (2002) 95 Cal.App.4th 1332, 1339-1341, 116 Cal.Rptr.2d 552 (concluding that defendants raised triable issues of fact as to whether they were entitled to rescind settlement agreement based on mutual mistake of fact or law); see also MB 300G.25].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 331 Affirmative Defense--Bilateral Mistake

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeMutual MistakeContracts LawFormationAmbiguity & MistakeMutual MistakeContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

16 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART B. MISTAKE

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.23

MB 300G.23 Unilateral Mistake

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A party may cancel a contract because [he/she/it] made a mistake if the mistake was due to the fault of the other party or the other party knew about the mistake _____ [or had reason to know about it] at the time of contracting.

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

If a plaintiff has no reason to know of and does not cause the defendant's unilateral mistake of fact, the defendant must establish all of the following facts to obtain the contract's rescission:

- (1) The defendant made a mistake regarding a basic assumption on which the defendant made the contract;
- (2) The mistake has a material effect on the agreed exchange of performances that is adverse to the defendant;
- (3) The defendant does not bear the risk of the mistake; and
- (4) The effect of the mistake is such that the contract's enforcement would be unconscionable.

Authorities: Donovan v. RRL Corp. (2001) 26 Cal.4th 261, 281-282, 109 Cal.Rptr.2d 807, 27 P.3d 702 ; Architects & Contractors Estimating Service, Inc. v. Smith (1985) 164 Cal.App.3d 1001, 1007-1008, 211 Cal.Rptr. 45 ; Larsen v. Johannes (1970) 7 Cal.App.3d 491, 503, 86 Cal.Rptr. 744 ; Neptune Gunit Co. v. Monroe Enterprises (1964) 229

Cal.App.2d 439, 442, 40 Cal.Rptr. 367.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used if unilateral mistake is asserted. The optional language in brackets is clearly applicable in cases involving mistake of fact and may also apply in cases involving mistake of law. If the mistake is caused by the other party's misrepresentation, counsel will also want to consider instructions on rescission for fraud in MB 300G.40-MB 300G.49.

The optional paragraph is applicable when a plaintiff attempts to enforce a contract, which the defendant attempts to rescind based on unilateral mistake.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care When Arguing Unilateral Mistake:

Many jurors will struggle with the concept of a "unilateral mistake." In addition, the optional paragraph, if applicable, creates a series of hurdles that must be overcome to cancel a contract. The opposing side will want to highlight each of these hurdles in closing argument, preferably with the use of visual aids.
By Rex Heeseman and Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Unilateral Mistake

If a unilateral mistake of law has been made, rescission is available if the other party was aware of it and did not correct it [Larsen v. Johannes (1970) 7 Cal.App.3d 491, 503, 86 Cal.Rptr. 744]. Rescission for unilateral mistake of fact is available if the mistake was due to the fault of the other party or the other party knew or had reason to know about it [Architects & Contractors Estimating Service, Inc. v. Smith (1985) 164 Cal.App.3d 1001, 1007-1008, 211 Cal.Rptr. 45 ; Neptune Gunit Co. v. Monroe Enterprises (1964) 229 Cal.App.2d 439, 442, 40 Cal.Rptr. 367]. Whether the latter rule also applies to a mistake of law is not clear [see MB 300G.21[3]].

In Donovan v. RRL Corporation [Donovan v. RRL Corp. (2001) 26 Cal.4th 261, 109 Cal.Rptr.2d 807, 27 P.3d 702], the California Supreme Court stated that when a plaintiff has no reason to know of and does not cause the defendant's unilateral mistake of fact, the defendant must establish the four facts listed in the instruction in MB 300G.23[1] to obtain rescission of the contract. The Court stated that California law does not adhere to the original Restatement of Contract's requirements for rescission based on unilateral mistake of fact, i.e., only in circumstances when the other party knew of the mistake or caused the mistake. The Court adopted as California law the rule set forth in the Restatement Second of Contracts, § 153(a), authorizing rescission for unilateral mistake of fact when enforcement would be unconscionable [Donovan v. RRL Corp. (2001) 26 Cal.4th 261, 281-282, 109 Cal.Rptr.2d 807, 27 P.3d 702 (auto dealership's lack of knowledge regarding typographical error in advertised price of car constituted mistake of fact; rescission was warranted because evidence established that unilateral mistake of fact was made in good faith, defendant did not bear risk of mistake, and contract's enforcement with erroneous price would be unconscionable)].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 330 Affirmative Defense--Unilateral Mistake of Fact

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeUnilateral MistakeContracts LawDefensesFraud &
MisrepresentationMaterial MisrepresentationContracts LawFormationAmbiguity & MistakeUnilateral
MistakeContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

17 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART B. MISTAKE

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.24

MB 300G.24 Mistake of Fact Defined

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A mistake of fact refers to a misunderstanding about something happening at the time of the contract or something that had already happened before the contract was made. The misunderstanding must be about some basic fact that is important to the contract. It can be the result of one of two things:

1. Innocent ignorance or forgetfulness; or
2. Innocent belief that something has happened that did not happen.

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

Since in this case the misunderstanding relied on is about the quality or characteristics of _____ [describe thing sold], the contract can be cancelled only if the difference between _____ [describe thing sold] as it really is and as it was supposed to be was so great that it is as if _____ [describe thing sold] is a different thing than it was supposed to be.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1577; Donovan v. RRL Corp. (2001) 26 Cal.4th 261, 278-279, 109 Cal.Rptr.2d 807, 27 P.3d 702 ; Architects & Contractors Estimating Service, Inc. v. Smith (1985) 164 Cal.App.3d 1001, 1007-1008, 211 Cal.Rptr. 45 ; Bellwood Discount Corp. v. Empire Steel Buildings Co. (1959) 175 Cal.App.2d 432, 435, 346 P.2d 467 ; Vickerson v. Frey (1950) 100 Cal.App.2d 621, 628, 224 P.2d 126 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used to define mistake. The use of the word "important" is suggested for "material" [see Black's Law Dictionary (5th ed. 1979) at p. 880]. The word "cancel" is suggested instead of "rescind" [see MB 300G.01]. If there is evidence of neglect on the part of the mistaken party, use the instruction in MB 300G.26 as well. The optional paragraph is applicable when the mistake concerns the quality or characteristics of the thing sold.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care in Explaining Impact of Instruction:

This instruction seems confusing and complicated. If it is used, be careful in explaining its impact. In addition, the instruction seems to be at odds with the concept that a contract is still valid even if based on bad judgment [see MB 300G.05]. "Innocent ignorance" or "forgetfulness" are very general concepts that cover a lot of circumstances. Most jurors will therefore probably require more than "forgetfulness" to support cancellation of a contract. By Rex Heeseman and Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Mistake of Fact Defined

This instruction is based on Civ. Code § 1577, which provides that a mistake of fact consists of an unconscious ignorance or forgetfulness of a fact past or present, or a belief in the present existence of a thing that does not exist, or in the past existence of a thing that has not existed [see Donovan v. RRL Corp. (2001) 26 Cal.4th 261, 278-279, 109 Cal.Rptr.2d 807, 27 P.3d 702 (auto dealership's lack of knowledge regarding typographical error in advertised price of car constituted mistake of fact); Architects & Contractors Estimating Service, Inc. v. Smith (1985) 164 Cal.App.3d 1001, 1007-1008, 211 Cal.Rptr. 45]. The mistake must be material [Bellwood Discount Corp. v. Empire Steel Buildings Co. (1959) 175 Cal.App.2d 432, 435, 346 P.2d 467 ; see Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, § 260 (10th ed. 2005)]. The mistake must not be the result of neglect on the part of the party harmed [Civ. Code § 1577; see MB 300G.26]. When a mistake occurs regarding the quality or characteristics of something, the mistake is not ground for rescission unless the difference between the real and supposed quality is so extreme as to make it virtually a different thing [Vickerson v. Frey (1950) 100 Cal.App.2d 621, 628, 224 P.2d 126].

No distinction is drawn in the instruction between mistake of fact and mistake of judgment. Although such a distinction used to be drawn [see M. F. Kemper Constr. Co. v. Los Angeles (1951) 37 Cal.2d 696, 701-702, 235 P.2d 7], the rule appears to be that the facts surrounding the mistake and not the label should control [White v. Berrenda Mesa Water Dist. (1970) 7 Cal.App.3d 894, 907, 87 Cal.Rptr. 338 ; see Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal.App.3d 879, 886, 124 Cal.Rptr. 577 (refusing to hold as matter of law that mutual mistake of judgment about legal effect court would give to transaction could not form basis for rescission for mutual mistake)].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 330 Affirmative Defense--Unilateral Mistake of Fact

CACI No. 331 Affirmative Defense--Bilateral Mistake

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeMutual MistakeContracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeUnilateral MistakeContracts LawRemediesRescission &

RedhibitionGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

18 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART B. MISTAKE

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.25

MB 300G.25 Mistake of Law Defined

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A mistake of law occurs when a person knows the specific facts on which his or her rights depend but is mistaken about the rules of law that apply to those facts. The mistake must be about a law that has an important effect on the contract.

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

Mistake about the law may occur if there is a mistaken opinion concerning the legal effect a court will give to a contract.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1578; Harris v. Rudin, Richman & Appel (2002) 95 Cal.App.4th 1332, 1339-1341, 116 Cal.Rptr.2d 552 ; Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal.App.3d 879, 884-885, 124 Cal.Rptr. 577 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when a mistake of law must be defined. The use of the word "important" is suggested instead of "material" [see Black's Law Dictionary (5th ed. 1979) at p. 880]. The optional paragraph may be used when a mistaken legal opinion is involved and the court has determined that it is of the type for which rescission may be available.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care With Mistake of Law Defense: Many

jurors will be skeptical of a defense based on mistake of law. This is especially true if a party is represented by an attorney at the time the contract was formed. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Ignorance of Law Is No Excuse: Some jurors will recall the saying "ignorance of the law is no excuse." Exploit, or explain away as the case may be, this saying. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Mistake of Law Defined

A mistake of law occurs when a person knows the specific facts on which his or her rights depend but is ignorant of the rules of law the courts will apply to the facts [Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal.App.3d 879, 884-886, 124 Cal.Rptr. 577]. For example, in a case involving a legal malpractice action for preparation of a trust exposing the trustees to tax liability, all parties were unaware of a recent Probate Code amendment that eliminated the tax problem. The court of appeal held that defendants raised triable issues of fact as to whether they were entitled to rescind the agreement based on a mutual mistake of fact or law [Harris v. Rudin, Richman & Appel (2002) 95 Cal.App.4th 1332, 1339-1341, 116 Cal.Rptr.2d 552 (finding that parties' mutual mistake regarding applicable Probate Code section went to heart of settlement agreement)].

It is possible that mistake of judgment as to the legal effect a court will give to a contract may under some circumstances give rise to rescission for mistake [Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal.App.3d 879, 884-886, 124 Cal.Rptr. 577]. However, this does not include mistakes as to matters that the contracting parties had in mind as possibilities and as to the existence of which they took the risk [Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal.App.3d 879, 885, 124 Cal.Rptr. 577 ; see MB 300G.27].

A mistake of foreign laws is treated as a mistake of fact [Civ. Code § 1579].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 330 Affirmative Defense--Unilateral Mistake of Fact

CACI No. 331 Affirmative Defense--Bilateral Mistake

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

19 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART B. MISTAKE

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.26

MB 300G.26 Mistake--Neglect of Legal Duty[1] Instruction[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A party is not entitled to cancel a contract for mistake if the mistake resulted from that party's own neglect of a legal duty. By neglect of a legal duty, I do not mean ordinary carelessness. I mean extreme departure from the ordinary standards of conduct by which reasonable people are governed. If the type of mistake is one that will sometimes occur in the conduct of reasonable persons, then it does not amount to the neglect of a legal duty.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1577; Donovan v. RRL Corp. (2001) 26 Cal.4th 261, 283-284, 109 Cal.Rptr.2d 807, 27 P.3d 702 ; Van Meter v. Bent Construction Co. (1956) 46 Cal.2d 588, 594, 297 P.2d 644 ; M. F. Kemper Constr. Co. v. Los Angeles (1951) 37 Cal.2d 696, 702, 235 P.2d 7 ; Architects & Contractors Estimating Service, Inc. v. Smith (1985) 164 Cal.App.3d 1001, 1008, 211 Cal.Rptr. 45 ; Williams v. Puccinelli (1965) 236 Cal.App.2d 512, 518, 46 Cal.Rptr. 285 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when mistake is alleged as a basis for rescission and there is a question of fact as to whether the mistake resulted from the rescinding party's own neglect of a legal duty. The word "cancel" is suggested instead of "rescind" [see MB 300G.01]. If the jury is also being instructed on the alternative theory of fraudulent misrepresentation, counsel should note that a different test of the plaintiff's conduct is applicable to negligent misrepresentation [see MB 300G.47], and the defense of neglect of legal duty is generally unavailable if rescission is based on intentional misrepresentations.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Define "Legal Duty" for Jury: This could be a confusing instruction without some further definition of what constitutes a "legal duty." In addition, "extreme departure" is a strange idea. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

Mistake of fact is a mistake not caused by the neglect of a legal duty on the part of the person making the mistake [Civ. Code § 1577]. The same rule would presumably apply to defeat a claim for rescission based on mistake of law although there appears to be no case on point. Whether there has been neglect of a legal duty is a question of fact [Williams v. Puccinelli (1965) 236 Cal.App.2d 512, 518, 46 Cal.Rptr. 285]. Ordinary negligence is insufficient to constitute "neglect of a legal duty" [Donovan v. RRL Corp. (2001) 26 Cal.4th 261, 283, 288-289, 109 Cal.Rptr.2d 807, 27 P.3d 702 (absent evidence of bad faith, violation of any obligation imposed by Veh. Code § 11713.1--which creates Vehicle Code violation for dealer to fail to sell vehicle at advertised price--did not constitute neglect of legal duty precluding rescission for unilateral mistake of fact); Architects & Contractors Estimating Service, Inc. v. Smith (1985) 164 Cal.App.3d 1001, 1008, 211 Cal.Rptr. 45 ; see Harris v. Rudin, Richman & Appel (2002) 95 Cal.App.4th 1332, 1341-1342, 116 Cal.Rptr.2d 552 (even if defendants' failure to discover amendment to applicable Probate Code section constituted mistake of fact, breach of duty to monitor pending Legislative bills would be no more than ordinary negligence and would not preclude rescission of agreement settling legal malpractice action)]. Gross negligence is required [M. F. Kemper Constr. Co. v. Los Angeles (1951) 37 Cal.2d 696, 702, 235 P.2d 7 ; French v. Construction Laborers Pension Trust (1975) 44 Cal.App.3d 479, 487, 118 Cal.Rptr. 731]. Gross negligence has been said to mean the want of even scant care or an extreme departure from the ordinary standard conduct [Van Meter v. Bent Construction Co. (1956) 46 Cal.2d 588, 594, 297 P.2d 644].

One difference between a claim for rescission based on fraudulent misrepresentation and a claim for rescission based on mistake is the test applied to evaluate the effect of the plaintiff's own conduct. If rescission is sought for intentional fraud, the rescinding party's negligence is no defense to the claim for rescission [Seeger v. Odell (1941) 18 Cal.2d 409, 414-415, 115 P.2d 977]. When the fraud is the result of negligent misrepresentations, the victim's failure to investigate is only a defense if the conduct in the light of his or her own intelligence and information is preposterous or irrational [Van Meter v. Bent Construction Co. (1956) 46 Cal.2d 588, 594-595, 297 P.2d 644 ; see MB 300G.47].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral OverviewTortsNegligenceStandards of CareReasonable CareGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

20 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART B. MISTAKE

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.27

MB 300G.27 Mistake--Risk Assumed

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

[CHOOSE ONE OR BOTH OF FOLLOWING (See Use of Instruction)]

The kind of mistake for which a party may cancel a contract does not include possibilities that the parties had in mind at the time they entered into the contract. If at the time the contract was entered into, the parties were aware that a doubt exists in regard to a certain matter and proceeded with their contract anyway, they took the risk that what they considered to be a possibility when they entered into the contract turns out to be a fact.

[OR]

A party bears the risk of a mistake when the party knows, at the time that the contract is made, that [he/she/it] has only limited knowledge about the fact[s] to which the mistake relates but treats [his/her/its] knowledge as sufficient.

Authorities: In re Marriage of Hahn (1990) 224 Cal.App.3d 1236, 1241, 273 Cal.Rptr. 516 ; Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal.App.3d 879, 885, 124 Cal.Rptr. 577 ; Restatement (Second) of Contracts § 154(b).

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is an issue of fact as to whether the party seeking rescission assumed the risk of the mistake that the party now offers as a basis for rescission. Either or both of the alternative paragraphs may be used, depending on which paragraph or paragraphs fit the facts of the case. The word "cancel" is suggested instead of "rescind" [see MB 300G.01].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Bad Judgment Is Not Basis for Canceling

Contract: This could be a critical instruction for a party opposing cancellation of a contract. Every bargain contains some element of risk. If the risk is the type that normally applies in similar situations, or similar contracts, cancellation is not proper. Bad judgment is not a proper basis for canceling a contract [see MB 300G.05]. Remember, many jurors believe "a deal is a deal." By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

When parties are aware at the time the contract was entered into that a doubt exists with regard to a certain matter and contract on that assumption, the risk of the existence of the doubtful matter is assumed as an element of the bargain [Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal.App.3d 879, 885, 124 Cal.Rptr. 577 , citing Restatement of Contracts § 502, Comment f; see Hannah v. Steinman (1911) 159 Cal. 142, 147, 112 P. 1094]. Stated differently, the kind of mistake that renders a contract voidable does not include mistakes as to matters that the contracting parties had in mind as possibilities and as to the existence of which they took the risk [Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal.App.3d 879, 885, 124 Cal.Rptr. 577]. Similarly, a party bears the risk of a mistake when the party knows, at the time that the contract is made, that he or she has only limited knowledge about the facts to which the mistake relates but treats his or her knowledge as sufficient [In re Marriage of Hahn (1990) 224 Cal.App.3d 1236, 1241, 273 Cal.Rptr. 516 ; Restatement (Second) of Contracts § 154(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

21 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART B. MISTAKE

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.28

MB 300G.28 Rescission Due to Mistake--Necessity of Injury[1] Instruction[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A contract may be cancelled for mistake only if the mistake has an _____ [important or serious] and harmful effect on a basic part of the contract, making it more burdensome to the party seeking to cancel than it would have been had _____ [the law or the facts] been as [he/she/it] believed them to be.

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

An _____ [important or serious] effect does not have to involve a loss of money.

Authority: Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal.App.3d 879, 886, 124 Cal.Rptr. 577 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is a threshold question of fact as to whether there has been material injury caused by mistake. If there is pecuniary damage allegedly caused by the mistake, that will be the subject of a separate damage instruction [see Ch. 3E, Matthew Bender Contract Damages Instructions]. The giving of such damage instruction is predicated on the assumption that all of the requirements for rescission have been met. The word "cancel" is suggested for "rescind" [see MB 300G.01] and "important" or "serious" is suggested for "material" [see Black's Law Dictionary (5th ed. 1979) at p. 880].

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

[3] Comment[a] Necessity of Injury

A contract is voidable for mistake only if enforcement would be materially harmful or more onerous to the party seeking avoidance than it would have been had the law or the facts been as believed [Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal.App.3d 879, 886, 124 Cal.Rptr. 577, citing Restatement of Contracts § 502]. This is stated to be a necessary corollary to the principle that the mistake, whether of law or fact, must materially affect an essential element of the contract [Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal.App.3d 879, 886, 124 Cal.Rptr. 577]. In support of the injury requirement, the court cites cases holding that a party seeking to rescind a contract must show material injury or prejudice although pecuniary loss is not required [Guthrie v. Times-Mirror Co. (1975) 51 Cal.App.3d 879, 886, 124 Cal.Rptr. 577; Witkin, California Procedure, vol. 4, Pleading, § 506 (4th ed. 1997)].

Nonetheless, it is questionable whether there really is a separate requirement of injury or, if there is, that it ever presents a jury issue. In a case involving rescission based on fraud, the California Supreme Court reasoned that injury necessarily follows from being fraudulently induced to consent to a contractual obligation to which a party would not otherwise have agreed [Earl v. Saks & Co. (1951) 36 Cal.2d 602, 611, 226 P.2d 340]. This would likewise seem inevitable if cause exists to vitiate consent to an agreement for mistake, duress, or undue influence.

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 330 Affirmative Defense--Unilateral Mistake of Fact

CACI No. 331 Affirmative Defense--Bilateral Mistake

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDefensesAmbiguity & MistakeGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

22 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART B. MISTAKE

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.29-MB 300G.39

[Reserved for Future Use]

MB 300G.29[Reserved for Future Use]

23 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART C. FRAUD

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.40

MB 300G.40 Affirmative Misrepresentation

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

1. _____ [Other party] made a representation;
2. The representation was important to the contract;
3. The representation was _____ [false or was partly false in an important regard];
4. _____ [Other party] _____ [believed that the representation was false when the representation was made or made the representation without any reasonable ground for believing it to be true];
5. _____ [Other party] made the representation for the purpose of causing _____ [rescinding party] to enter into the contract;
6. _____ [Rescinding party] was not aware that the representation was false and would not have otherwise consented to the contract.

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

The misrepresentation may be of a fact, an opinion, or a statement about the law.

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 1567, 1568, 1572; Wood v. Kalbaugh (1974) 39 Cal.App.3d 926, 114 Cal.Rptr. 673 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction applies to all representations of fact. The final paragraph applies when opinions or representations of law by a fiduciary are involved. For an instruction on when a statement of law or opinion by a non-fiduciary may be treated as a statement of fact, see MB 300G.41. If a misleading half-truth is asserted, follow this instruction with the instruction on half-truths and concealment in MB 300G.42 and MB 300G.43. The use of the word "important" is suggested instead of "material" [see Black's Law Dictionary (5th ed. 1979) at p. 880]. The requirement of materiality is further explained by the instruction in MB 300G.49. Causation is explained in MB 300G.09.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Instruction as Checklist in Closing: This instruction contains the basic elements of a claim for fraud in the inducement. The instruction provides a convenient checklist to go over in closing argument, preferably with the use of graphic aids to highlight the evidence applicable to each element. And, go over each element carefully so that the elements do not blur. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Affirmative Misrepresentation

The most obvious type of fraud is the act of inducing a party to enter into a contract by the intentional misrepresentation that something is true which is not true by a person who does not believe it to be true [Civ. Code § 1572]. Fraud also includes the unwarranted assertion as true of something that is not true even though the person making the representation believes it to be true [Civ. Code § 1572]. A misrepresentation justifies rescission only if the misrepresentation is material [Wood v. Kalbaugh (1974) 39 Cal.App.3d 926, 930, 114 Cal.Rptr. 673].

If a confidential relationship exists, a misrepresentation of law is treated the same as a misrepresentation of fact [Bank of America v. Sandez (1934) 3 Cal.App.2d 238, 242-243, 38 P.2d 787]. The same is true of representations of opinion by fiduciaries. Outside a fiduciary relationship, misrepresentations of law are treated generally in the same way as misrepresentations of factual opinion [Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 5, Torts, § 784 (10th ed. 2005); see MB 300G.41]. Mixed misrepresentations of fact and law are treated as misrepresentations of fact [Bobak v. Mackey (1951) 107 Cal.App.2d 55, 57, 236 P.2d 626]. Rescission is available for unilateral mistake of law when caused by the fault of the other party [Civ. Code § 1578; see MB 300G.23].

Consent is only deemed to have been obtained by fraud when it would not have been given absent the fraud [Civ. Code § 1568; see MB 300G.09].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 19, California Judicial Council Fraud or Deceit Instructions]:

CACI No. 1900 Intentional Misrepresentation

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationConstructive FraudContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationIntentional FraudContracts

LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationMaterial MisrepresentationContracts LawRemediesRescission &
RedhibitionGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

24 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART C. FRAUD

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.41

MB 300G.41 Statement of Opinion or Statement About the Law

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A _____ [statement of opinion or statement about the law] is not a representation of fact unless the _____ [opinion or statement] was stated in such a way that the other party reasonably relied on it as a fact.

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

It is reasonable to rely on another person's _____ [statement of opinion or statement about the law] as a fact if that other person holds himself or herself out as basing such _____ [opinion or statement] on superior knowledge or special information that the person relying on the opinion does not possess.

Authorities: Harazim v. Lynam (1968) 267 Cal.App.2d 127, 131, 72 Cal.Rptr. 670 ; Sime v. Malouf (1949) 95 Cal.App.2d 82, 101, 212 P.2d 946 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in any case when no confidential relationship exists between the parties and there is a dispute as to whether a statement of opinion or a statement about the law was represented as a fact. The optional paragraph applies only when there is evidence that the defendant was stating an opinion based on expert knowledge or special information. When a confidential relationship has been established, reliance on an opinion is automatically considered justified [see MB 300G.40[3]].

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Give Substance to This Instruction in Closing:

It is sometimes difficult to differentiate between a "fact" and an "opinion," and between an "opinion" and a "statement about the law." And, this a general instruction that provides little guidance to the jury as to what constitutes reasonable reliance on a statement of opinion. Thus, in closing argument counsel will have to appeal to the jury's common sense and provide concrete examples to give substance to this instruction. By Rex Heeseman and Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Statement of Opinion or Fact

Absent a confidential relationship, it is a question of fact whether a statement is an opinion or a representation of fact [Sime v. Malouf (1949) 95 Cal.App.2d 82, 101, 212 P.2d 946]. The same rule applies to misrepresentations of law by one who has superior knowledge [Bank of America v. Sandez (1934) 3 Cal.App.2d 238, 242-243, 38 P.2d 787]. A false affirmation of opinion is actionable when the one making it has superior knowledge or special information concerning the subject matter of the representation [Harazim v. Lynam (1968) 267 Cal.App.2d 127, 131, 72 Cal.Rptr. 670].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 19, California Judicial Council Fraud or Deceit Instructions]:

CACI No. 1904 Opinions as Statements of Fact

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationMaterial MisrepresentationContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

25 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART C. FRAUD

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.42

MB 300G.42 Concealment[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

1. _____ [Other party] failed to disclose an important fact that he or she knew or believed to be true;
2. _____ [Other party] was under a duty to disclose the fact to _____ [rescinding party];
3. _____ [Other party] acted with the intent to cause _____ [rescinding party] to enter into the contract;
4. _____ [Rescinding party] was unaware of the fact and would not have otherwise entered into the contract.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1572; Goodman v. Kennedy (1976) 18 Cal.3d 335, 346-348, 134 Cal.Rptr. 375, 556 P.2d 737

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is evidence of a duty to disclose and concealment. Instructions on circumstances giving rise to a duty to disclose are set forth in MB 300G.43-MB 300G.46 for nonfiduciaries. A fiduciary's duty of disclosure is set forth in Part D. Required disclosures in real estate sales transactions are discussed in Ch. 75A, Matthew Bender Real Property Sales Instructions.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Arguing Concealment: The key issue in concealment cases usually turns on the presence or absence of a legal "duty" to disclose. This issue is frequently addressed in advance of trial by way of a motion for summary judgment. However, if it needs to be addressed in closing, use a checklist for each element and explain each one carefully. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Concealment

Fraud includes the suppression of that which is true, by one having knowledge or belief of the fact who is acting with the intent to induce the other party to enter into the contract [Civ. Code § 1572]. Proof of causation is required [Civ. Code § 1568]. However, nondisclosure is not actionable unless there is a duty to disclose [Goodman v. Kennedy (1976) 18 Cal.3d 335, 347, 134 Cal.Rptr. 375, 556 P.2d 737]. Absent a fiduciary relationship, a duty to disclose only exists in the following three situations [Goodman v. Kennedy (1976) 18 Cal.3d 335, 347, 134 Cal.Rptr. 375, 556 P.2d 737 ; Warner Constr. Corp. v. City of Los Angeles (1970) 2 Cal.3d 285, 294, 85 Cal.Rptr. 444, 466 P.2d 996 ; see MB 300G.43 -MB 300G.46]:

- When a party has made representations that were likely to mislead for want of the disclosures;
- When a party has actively concealed undisclosed matters; or
- When a party has sole knowledge or access to material facts and knows that these facts are not known to or reasonably discoverable by the other party.

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 19, California Judicial Council Fraud or Deceit Instructions]:

CACI No. 1901 Concealment

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawContract InterpretationFiduciary ResponsibilitiesContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral OverviewReal Property LawPurchase & SaleContracts of SaleEnforceabilityFraud & MisrepresentationReal Property LawPurchase & SaleRemediesDuty to DiscloseReal Property LawPurchase & SaleRemediesRescission & Restitution

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

26 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART C. FRAUD

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.43

MB 300G.43 Duty to Disclose--Sole Access

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A duty to disclose important facts arises when one party to a contract has sole knowledge or access to important facts and knows that these facts are not known to or reasonably discoverable by the other party.

Authorities: Goodman v. Kennedy (1976) 18 Cal.3d 335, 346-347, 134 Cal.Rptr. 375, 556 P.2d 737 ; Warner Constr. Corp. v. City of Los Angeles (1970) 2 Cal.3d 285, 294, 85 Cal.Rptr. 444, 466 P.2d 996 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used with the instruction in MB 300G.42 when there is evidence that one party concealed material facts of which that party had sole knowledge or access. If a fiduciary relationship existed, this instruction is unnecessary. In such a case, use the instruction in MB 300G.61. If there is evidence of misleading half-truths and concealment of other facts, see the instruction in MB 300G.44. If there is evidence of active concealment, use the instruction in MB 300G.45.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Arguing Duty to Disclose: Some lawsuits will turn on whether or not there was a "duty to disclose." The critical element in this instruction is the requirement of "sole knowledge or access" to important facts. If the other party could discover the facts, the instruction does not apply. Counsel can argue that the more important the facts are, the greater the duty to investigate. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Duty to Disclose

One situation in which a duty to disclose exists is when a party has sole knowledge or access to material facts and knows that these facts are not known to or reasonably discoverable by the other party [Goodman v. Kennedy (1976) 18 Cal.3d 335, 347, 134 Cal.Rptr. 375, 556 P.2d 737 ; Warner Constr. Corp. v. City of Los Angeles (1970) 2 Cal.3d 285, 294, 85 Cal.Rptr. 444, 466 P.2d 996].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 19, California Judicial Council Fraud or Deceit Instructions]:

CACI No. 1901 Concealment

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawContract InterpretationFiduciary ResponsibilitiesContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

27 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART C. FRAUD

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.44

MB 300G.44 Duty to Disclose to Correct Misleading Statements

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Normally, each party to a contract must look out for his or her own interest. This means that each party to a contract has a right to remain silent about facts within his or her knowledge that might affect the other party's decision to enter into the contract. However, once a party makes a representation to the other party, an obligation arises not to mislead. A party who makes a representation that is misleading because of other important facts known to that party has a duty to disclose these other facts.

Authorities: Goodman v. Kennedy (1976) 18 Cal.3d 335, 346-347, 134 Cal.Rptr. 375, 556 P.2d 737 ; Mesmer v. White (1953) 121 Cal.App.2d 665, 670-671, 264 P.2d 60 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used together with the instruction in MB 300G.42 when misleading statements are made.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Misleading Statements: This instruction introduces two important elements. First, a party has the right to remain silent about his or her knowledge of important facts (assuming the facts are otherwise reasonably discoverable [see MB 300G.43]). Second, once a party speaks, there is a duty to speak truthfully. In other words, half-truths and incomplete statements are treated the same as affirmative misrepresentations. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Fraudulent Suppression

This instruction is predicated on the knowledge or belief of the concealed facts since knowledge is an essential element of fraudulent suppression [see Civ. Code § 1572]. Generally, absent a fiduciary relationship, a party has no duty to disclose facts known to him or her but not known to the other party [Mesmer v. White (1953) 121 Cal.App.2d 665, 670, 264 P.2d 60]. However, a duty to disclose arises when a party has made representations that were likely to mislead for want of further disclosures [Goodman v. Kennedy (1976) 18 Cal.3d 335, 346-347, 134 Cal.Rptr. 375, 556 P.2d 737 ; see Architects & Contractors Estimating Service, Inc. v. Smith (1985) 164 Cal.App.3d 1001, 1008, 211 Cal.Rptr. 45]. For other situations when a duty to disclose arises, see MB 300G.43 and MB 300G.45.

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 19, California Judicial Council Fraud or Deceit Instructions]:

CACI No. 1901 Concealment

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationMaterial MisrepresentationContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

28 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART C. FRAUD

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.45

MB 300G.45 Active Prevention of Investigation

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Normally, a party to a contract has a right to remain silent about facts within his or her knowledge that might affect the other party's decision to enter into a contract. However, a party who actively prevents investigation and discovery of important facts by the other party is under a duty to disclose those facts.

Authority: Goodman v. Kennedy (1976) 18 Cal.3d 335, 346-348, 134 Cal.Rptr. 375, 556 P.2d 737 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used with the instruction in MB 300G.42 when active prevention of discovery is alleged.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Explain Basis of Law: Most jurors will have no difficulty with this instruction. In addition to the instruction, counsel can argue that the legal principle in question is based on common sense and fundamental fairness. However, it might be difficult to prove "actively presents." By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

Silence is not enough to constitute fraud if there is no duty to disclose. However, active prevention of discovery of material facts by the other party gives rise to a duty of disclosure; the failure to meet this duty is the basis for an action for fraud [Goodman v. Kennedy (1976) 18 Cal.3d 335, 347, 134 Cal.Rptr. 375, 556 P.2d 737].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationConstructive FraudContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationIntentional FraudContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

29 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART C. FRAUD

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.46

MB 300G.46 Effect of Independent Investigation

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A party may not cancel a contract based on the fraud of the other party if, before entering into the contract, the party claiming to have been defrauded made an independent investigation of the subject matter of the alleged false representation and decided to enter into the contract as the result of the independent investigation.

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

However, an independent investigation makes no difference if one of the following is shown:

- 1. The fraud was not readily apparent on independent investigation;
- 2. The fraud was based on claimed superior knowledge; or
- 3. The inspecting party was not competent to judge the facts without expert assistance, which [he/she/it] did not have.

Authorities: Bagdasarian v. Gragnon (1948) 31 Cal.2d 744, 748, 192 P.2d 935 ; Curran v. Heslop (1953) 115 Cal.App.2d 476, 482, 252 P.2d 378 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used by the party against whom rescission is sought, who will want to use the instruction

when an independent investigation was undertaken by the party seeking to rescind. The other party would then request that the applicable exceptions be included in the instruction.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Using Optional Part of Instruction: The optional part of this instruction applies to situations where there is a clear disparity in resources between the contracting parties (e.g., an individual versus a corporation). In addition, because only one of the three exceptions needs to be shown, it may be important to emphasize the word "or" in this list. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

An independent investigation precludes reliance on representations unless the falsity of the statement is not apparent from an inspection, the person making the representations has superior knowledge, or the party relying on the representations is not competent to judge the facts without expert assistance [Bagdasarian v. Gragnon (1948) 31 Cal.2d 744, 748, 192 P.2d 935 ; Curran v. Heslop (1953) 115 Cal.App.2d 476, 482, 252 P.2d 378].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationConstructive FraudContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationIntentional FraudContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

30 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART C. FRAUD

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.47

MB 300G.47 Effect of Defrauded Party's Failure to Investigate

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

If the representation that _____ [rescinding party] claims _____ [other party] made was such that under the circumstances it was absurd for _____ [rescinding party] to accept it as true without checking further, then _____ [rescinding party] may not cancel the contract based on a claim of fraud. In deciding whether it was absurd for _____ [rescinding party] not to have checked out the facts independently, you must look at the situation from _____ [rescinding party]'s point of view in light of his or her experience, knowledge, and intelligence. You should not decide this issue based on what you or someone else would have done.

Authorities: Van Meter v. Bent Construction Co. (1956) 46 Cal.2d 588, 593-594, 297 P.2d 644 ; Seeger v. Odell (1941) 18 Cal.2d 409, 415, 115 P.2d 977 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is an issue as to whether a party seeking to rescind on the basis of fraud had a duty to investigate the truth. This issue should only arise in a claim based on negligent misrepresentation [see [3][a], below]. Courts have described the test to be applied as whether it was "manifestly unreasonable," "preposterous," or "irrational" for the plaintiff to rely on the defendant's misrepresentation [see [3][a], below]. The word "absurd" is suggested as a more common synonym for "preposterous" or "irrational."

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Relying on the "Absurd": This instruction provides a common sense exception for "absurd" situations when reliance is unreasonable without an investigation. Note, however, that the reliance is based on the subjective "experience, knowledge, and intelligence" of the party in question. Moreover, different jurors will have different views of what is "absurd." By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Failure to Investigate

The general rule is that the plaintiff's negligence in accepting the defendant's statements without making an independent inquiry or investigation is not a defense to intentional fraud [Seeger v. Odell (1941) 18 Cal.2d 409, 415-416, 115 P.2d 977]. Even in cases involving negligent misrepresentation, the fact that an investigation would have revealed the falsity of the misrepresentation does not bar recovery unless the failure to investigate was "manifestly unreasonable" in light of the rescinding party's own intelligence and information [Seeger v. Odell (1941) 18 Cal.2d 409, 415-416, 115 P.2d 977 ; Winn v. McCulloch Corp. (1976) 60 Cal.App.3d 663, 671, 131 Cal.Rptr. 597]. "Manifestly unreasonable" means that the plaintiff "may not put faith in representations which are preposterous, or which are shown by facts within his observation to be so patently and obviously false that he must have closed his eyes to avoid discovery of the truth" [Seeger v. Odell (1941) 18 Cal.2d 409, 415, 115 P.2d 977]. In a subsequent case, the Supreme Court explained that a defendant in a fraud action may not assert that the plaintiff's reliance on any misrepresentations was negligent unless the plaintiff's conduct, in light of his intelligence and information, is preposterous or irrational [Van Meter v. Bent Construction Co. (1956) 46 Cal.2d 588, 593-594, 297 P.2d 644]. The Court's rejection of simple negligence of the plaintiff to defeat a claim for rescission for fraud was predicated on a comparison of mistaken plaintiffs with defrauded plaintiffs. As discussed in MB 300G.26[3], ordinary negligence of the plaintiff is not a defense to rescission for mistake; gross negligence is required [Van Meter v. Bent Construction Co. (1956) 46 Cal.2d 588, 593-594, 297 P.2d 644]. Since a mistaken party is only charged with neglect of a legal duty if his or her conduct amounts to an extreme departure from ordinary conduct, there is even more reason for relieving a plaintiff from his or her own negligent reliance on misrepresentations of the defendant unless the plaintiff's conduct is preposterous or irrational [Van Meter v. Bent Construction Co. (1956) 46 Cal.2d 588, 593-594, 297 P.2d 644 ; Hartong v. Partake, Inc. (1968) 266 Cal.App.2d 942, 965, 72 Cal.Rptr. 722].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 19, California Judicial Council Fraud or Deceit Instructions]:

CACI No. 1907 Reliance

CACI No. 1908 Reasonable Reliance

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationConstructive FraudContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationIntentional FraudContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationMaterial MisrepresentationContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral OverviewTortsBusiness TortsFraud & MisrepresentationNegligent MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewTortsBusiness TortsFraud & MisrepresentationNondisclosureGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

31 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART C. FRAUD

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.48

MB 300G.48 Promise Without Intent to Perform

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

1. _____ [Other party] made a promise about a matter important to the contract and, at the time the promise was made, did not intend to perform it;
2. _____ [Other party] made the promise with an intent to cause _____ [rescinding party] to rely on it; and
3. _____ [Rescinding party] was unaware of _____ [other party's] intention not to perform the promise and entered into the contract based on the promise.

Authority: Civ. Code § 1572.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when promissory fraud is asserted as the basis for rescission.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Proving Promise Without Intent to Perform

Can Be Difficult: A promise made without intent to perform is simply another species of fraud. Without an admission by the other party (i.e. the smoking gun document), these can be difficult cases to prove. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Promise Without Intent to Perform

Fraud includes a promise made without any intention of performing it [Civ. Code § 1572]. Justifiable reliance is not required, since this type of fraud by definition is intentional [see MB 300G.47[3][a]].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 19, California Judicial Council Fraud or Deceit Instructions]:

CACI No. 1902 False Promise

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Defenses Fraud & Misrepresentation Intentional Fraud Contracts Law Remedies Rescission & Redhibition General Overview Torts Business Torts Fraud & Misrepresentation Actual Fraud General Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

32 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART C. FRAUD

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.49

MB 300G.49 Materiality of Misrepresentation

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A fact is important to the contract if its existence or nonexistence would be likely to affect the conduct of a reasonable person in deciding to enter into the contract.

Authority: Wood v. Kalbaugh (1974) 39 Cal.App.3d 926, 930, 114 Cal.Rptr. 673 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used as a follow-up to the instruction in MB 300G.40 when there is an issue as to whether a misrepresented fact was material to the contract.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Objective Test of Materiality: This instruction provides an objective test of materiality based on the reasonable person standard. Note that the phrase "likely to affect" will have different meanings to different jurors. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] When Misrepresented Fact Is Material

A misrepresented fact is material if it would be likely to affect the conduct of a reasonable person with reference to the transaction [Wood v. Kalbaugh (1974) 39 Cal.App.3d 926, 114 Cal.Rptr. 673].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 19, California Judicial Council Fraud or Deceit Instructions]:

CACI No. 1905 Definition of Important Fact/Promise

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationMaterial MisrepresentationContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

33 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART C. FRAUD

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.50-MB 300G.59

[Reserved for Future Use]

MB 300G.50[Reserved for Future Use]

34 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART D. CONSTRUCTIVE FRAUD AND UNDUE INFLUENCE

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.60

MB 300G.60 Constructive Fraud

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

When a relationship of trust and confidence exists between two persons, it imposes a special duty on one person not to gain an unfair advantage over the other person. Plaintiff has the burden of proving both of the following:

- 1. That a confidential relationship existed between the Plaintiff and Defendant; and
- 2. That the contract gave Defendant an advantage over Plaintiff.

Once Plaintiff proves these two things, you must find that Plaintiff is entitled to cancel the contract for unfairness unless Defendant proves by a preponderance of the evidence that the contract is fair and that Defendant acted in good faith in all regards.

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

A contract that gives Defendant an advantage over Plaintiff is not fair if the contract resulted from Defendant's breach of [his/her/its] duty of full disclosure to Plaintiff.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1573; Main v. Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc. (1977) 67 Cal.App.3d 19, 32, 136 Cal.Rptr. 378 ; Smith v. Zak (1971) 20 Cal.App.3d 785, 793, 98 Cal.Rptr. 242 ; Boyd v. Bevilacqua (1966) 247 Cal.App.2d 272, 290, 55 Cal.Rptr. 610 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when rescission due to constructive fraud is alleged. It assumes that plaintiff is the rescinding party. If rescission for constructive fraud is asserted as a defense, the party designations should be reversed. The instruction is worded to reflect the presumption that applies on proof of the confidential relationship and an advantage. It follows the approach suggested by Jefferson for instructing on presumptions affecting the burden of proof [see Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook (3d ed., Cal. C.E.B. 1997), vol. 2, §§ 46.2, 46.8]. If the advantage was gained by someone claiming under the breaching fiduciary or if the prejudice resulted to someone claiming under the person of whom advantage was taken, the instruction should be modified accordingly. If there is a question of fact about the existence of the confidential relationship, MB 300G.61 should be given first. If a confidential relationship is established as a matter of law, the jury should be so instructed and this instruction modified accordingly. The instruction in MB 300G.62 should be used when the jury must decide issues of fact that would establish a confidential relationship by virtue of the existence of a fiduciary relationship. The optional paragraph is suggested if there is a question of fact regarding the nondisclosure of material facts by the fiduciary. This instruction should then be followed by the instruction in MB 300G.64 defining the duty of full disclosure.

A preponderance of the evidence instruction must be used with this instruction [see Ch. 2, California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions, CACI No. 200 ("Obligation to Prove--More Likely True Than Not True")].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care With Terms: This instruction contains general language with little specific guidance to the jury. The definition of a "confidential relationship" is critical but largely undefined [see MB 300G.61]. The definition of an "advantage" is likewise very open-ended [see MB 300G.63]. There is no definition of "unfairness." Counsel will have to appeal to the common sense of the jury. So, be thorough in marshaling your facts to support your points. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

Constructive fraud arises from a breach of duty by a person in a confidential or fiduciary relationship to another person that gains an advantage to the person breaching the duty [Gold v. Los Angeles Democratic League (1975) 49 Cal.App.3d 365, 373, 122 Cal.Rptr. 732 ; Civ. Code § 1573]. The Civil Code requires proof of causation in rescission cases based on constructive fraud [Civ. Code §§ 1568, 1571]. Once it is determined that a fiduciary relationship exists between the parties and there is a showing of an advantage to one of them in a joint transaction, the transaction is presumptively fraudulent and the burden shifts to the party gaining the advantage to show good faith and fairness in all regards [Solon v. Lichtenstein (1952) 39 Cal.2d 75, 82, 244 P.2d 907 ; Ball v. Posey (1986) 176 Cal.App.3d 1209, 1214, 222 Cal.Rptr. 746 ; Smith v. Zak (1971) 20 Cal.App.3d 785, 793, 98 Cal.Rptr. 242 ; Boyd v. Bevilacqua (1966) 247 Cal.App.2d 272, 290, 55 Cal.Rptr. 610 ; see Evid. Code § 605; see also Barrett v. Bank of America (1986) 183 Cal.App.3d 1362, 1368-1369, 229 Cal.Rptr. 16].

It thus appears that causation is presumed from the existence of the confidential relationship and the advantage (i.e., it is assumed that the confidential relationship was used to gain an advantage). The burden then shifts to the defendant to show good faith and fairness (i.e., no misuse of the confidential relationship to cause the other party to enter into an unfair contract).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawContract InterpretationFiduciary ResponsibilitiesContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationConstructive FraudContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral OverviewTortsBusiness TortsFraud & MisrepresentationConstructive FraudElementsTortsBusiness TortsFraud & MisrepresentationNondisclosureElements

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

35 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART D. CONSTRUCTIVE FRAUD AND UNDUE INFLUENCE

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.61

MB 300G.61 Existence of Confidential Relationship

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A confidential relationship exists whenever one person places trust and confidence in the integrity and faithfulness of another. It can occur in the context of a family relationship such as husband and wife or brother and sister. It can also occur in a formal business relationship such as attorney and client.

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

The mere fact that a label can be put on the relationship does not by itself establish that the persons in such relationship do place trust and confidence in each other.

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

These are examples, not limitations, of the situations in which a confidential relationship may arise. It may also arise between two persons who do not have any formal relationship or family ties. In deciding whether a confidential relationship existed, you may take into account the following factors:

- 1. The length of the parties' relationship;
- 2. The closeness of the relationship; and

3. The amount of reliance placed by _____ [party alleging confidential relationship] in _____ [other party] over the course of their relationship.

Authorities: O'Neil v. Spillane (1975) 45 Cal.App.3d 147, 153, 119 Cal.Rptr. 245 ; Faulkner v. Beatty (1958) 161 Cal.App.2d 547, 550, 327 P.2d 41 ; Kloehn v. Prendiville (1957) 154 Cal.App.2d 156, 160, 316 P.2d 17 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when a question of fact is presented regarding the existence of a confidential relationship between the parties or persons under whom they claim. The examples can be changed to reflect the fact situation. The first optional paragraph applies when there is a formal or family relationship and there is a question of fact whether trust and confidence really was placed in the integrity and faithfulness of the other. The second optional paragraph applies when there is no formal or family relationship between the parties. The instruction in MB 300G.62 should be used when the jury must decide issues of fact that would establish a confidential relationship by virtue of the existence of a fiduciary relationship. These issues most commonly arise when the cause of action includes allegations of undue influence [see MB 300G.66].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Confidential Relationships: If a relationship comes within one of the examples listed in the instruction (e.g., husband/wife or attorney/client), the elements of trust and confidence will usually be obvious. For other relationships, counsel will have to develop facts to show why these relationships should be treated with the same degree of closeness and confidentiality. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

Close family relationships or formal relationships such as that of attorney and client or trustee and beneficiary are the usual type of relationship that is found to be confidential, but even in these relationships liability is imposed only when actual trust and confidence is shown to exist [Buchmayer v. Buchmayer (1945) 68 Cal.App.2d 462, 157 P.2d 9 ; Steinberger v. Steinberger (1943) 60 Cal.App.2d 116, 122-123, 140 P.2d 31]. The existence of a formal relationship or family tie is not a prerequisite to the finding of a confidential relationship [see Steinberger v. Steinberger (1943) 60 Cal.App.2d 116, 122-123, 140 P.2d 31 (listing numerous relationships qualifying as confidential)]. Each case turns on its own facts [O'Neil v. Spillane (1975) 45 Cal.App.3d 147, 153, 119 Cal.Rptr. 245 (holding that a long-time friend was liable for restoration of real property obtained through breach of confidential relationship); see also Faulkner v. Beatty (1958) 161 Cal.App.2d 547, 550, 327 P.2d 41 ; Kloehn v. Prendiville (1957) 154 Cal.App.2d 156, 160, 316 P.2d 17]. However, the existence of a formal relationship that can be characterized as a fiduciary relationship creates a rebuttable presumption of a confidential relationship [see MB 300G.62[3]].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawContract InterpretationFiduciary ResponsibilitiesContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationConstructive FraudContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral OverviewTortsBusiness TortsFraud & MisrepresentationConstructive FraudElements

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

36 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART D. CONSTRUCTIVE FRAUD AND UNDUE INFLUENCE

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.62

MB 300G.62 Fiduciary Relationship Is Confidential[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

However, there are some relationships--these are sometimes called fiduciary relationships--that are deemed to be confidential relationships because of the position of the persons involved in them. An example of a fiduciary relationship is that of _____ [attorney and client/real estate broker and client/trustee and beneficiary].

[USE ONE OF THE FOLLOWING (See Use of Instruction)]

If you find that _____ [name] [was/is] _____ [an attorney/a real estate broker/a trustee], you must find that a confidential relationship existed between _____ [plaintiff] and _____ [defendant].

[or]

If you find that _____ [plaintiff] and _____ [defendant] had _____ [an attorney-client/a real estate broker-client/a trustee-beneficiary] relationship, you must find that they had a confidential relationship.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 2235; Rev. & Tax. Code § 17006; Sodikoff v. State Bar of California (1975) 14 Cal.3d 422, 429, 121 Cal.Rptr. 467, 535 P.2d 331 ; Batson v. Strehlow (1968) 68 Cal.2d 662, 674-675, 68 Cal.Rptr. 589, 441 P.2d 101 ; Bradner v. Vasquez (1954) 43 Cal.2d 147, 151, 272 P.2d 11 ; Estate of Cover (1922) 188 Cal. 133, 143, 204 P. 583 ; Soule v. Hayward (1850) 1 Cal. 345, 346 ; Barrett v. Bank of America (1986) 183 Cal.App.3d 1362, 1369, 229 Cal.Rptr. 16 ; Ball v. Posey (1986) 176 Cal.App.3d 1209, 1214, 222 Cal.Rptr. 746 ; Ford v. Cournale (1973) 36 Cal.App.3d 172, 180-181, 111 Cal.Rptr. 334 ; Szekeres v. Reed (1950) 96 Cal.App.2d 348, 357, 215 P.2d 522 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in conjunction with the instruction in MB 300G.61 when the confidential relationship in issue is one that would be characterized as a fiduciary relationship. These two instructions will most commonly be used in conjunction with the instruction in MB 300G.66 on undue influence in a confidential relationship.

Choose the proper instruction on factual findings on the existence of the relationship according to the issue in question. The names of other fiduciary relationships may be substituted for the ones listed in the instruction as appropriate.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Terms Other Than "Fiduciary": California law is arguably not that clear on what is a "fiduciary relationship." In addition, the term "fiduciary" will be unknown or confusing to many jurors (it sounds like something to do with a bank). Counsel should use "confidential relationship" or "special relationship" or other similar terms whenever possible. By Rex Heeseman and Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

Confidential and fiduciary relations are synonymous in law and exist whenever one person reposes trust and confidence in another [Estate of Cover (1922) 188 Cal. 133, 143, 204 P. 583 ; Barrett v. Bank of America (1986) 183 Cal.App.3d 1362, 1369, 229 Cal.Rptr. 16]. The word "fiduciary" is used to denote a person occupying a specific position in which trust and confidence is placed [Soule v. Hayward (1850) 1 Cal. 345, 346 ; see, e.g., Rev. & Tax. Code § 17006 (fiduciary means guardian, trustee, executor, administrator, receiver, conservator for any person, estate, or trust)]. Examples of persons in fiduciary positions are:

- An attorney [Sodikoff v. State Bar of California (1975) 14 Cal.3d 422, 429, 121 Cal.Rptr. 467, 535 P.2d 331 ; Ball v. Posey (1986) 176 Cal.App.3d 1209, 1214, 222 Cal.Rptr. 746 ; Szekeres v. Reed (1950) 96 Cal.App.2d 348, 357, 215 P.2d 522].
- A stockbroker--even before execution of a brokerage agreement, in some cases [Brown v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. (2008) 168 Cal.App.4th 938, 959-961, 85 Cal.Rptr.3d 817 (in "unique factual circumstances" of this case, defendant "knowingly induced the elderly and increasingly frail couple to rely on it to handle their financial affairs, thus creating a fiduciary relationship between Wells Fargo and the Browns" before brokerage agreement was executed)].
- A real estate broker [Batson v. Strehlow (1968) 68 Cal.2d 662, 674-675, 68 Cal.Rptr. 589, 441 P.2d 101 ; Ford v. Cournale (1973) 36 Cal.App.3d 172, 180-181, 111 Cal.Rptr. 334].
- A trustee [Civ. Code § 2235].

When an individual acting in a fiduciary capacity gains an advantage, a presumption of undue influence arises [Bradner v. Vasquez (1954) 43 Cal.2d 147, 151, 272 P.2d 11 ; Ball v. Posey (1986) 176 Cal.App.3d 1209, 1214, 222 Cal.Rptr. 746]. Thus, for instance, when a preexisting attorney-client relationship exists at the time of a transaction, a rebuttable presumption of undue influence arises if the attorney benefits from the transaction [Hicks v. Clayton (1977) 67 Cal.App.3d 251, 262, 136 Cal.Rptr. 512 ; Walton v. Broglio (1975) 52 Cal.App.3d 400, 403, 125 Cal.Rptr. 123 ; see BGI Associates, LLC v. Wilson (2003) 113 Cal.App.4th 1217, 1221, 1226-1230, 7 Cal.Rptr.3d 140 (presumption of undue influence under Prob. Code § 16004 was not rebutted)]. For instructions and discussion on the fiduciary status and duties of real estate brokers, see Ch. 75A, Matthew Bender Real Property Sales Instructions, MB 7500A.30 through MB 7500A.36.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawContract InterpretationFiduciary ResponsibilitiesContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral OverviewReal Property LawBrokersFiduciary Responsibilities

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

37 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART D. CONSTRUCTIVE FRAUD AND UNDUE INFLUENCE

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.63

MB 300G.63 Advantage Defined

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

An advantage is obtained by a person whenever that person's position is improved or he or she obtains a favorable opportunity or otherwise gains, benefits, or profits.

Authorities: Rader v. Thrasher (1962) 57 Cal.2d 244, 250, 18 Cal.Rptr. 736, 368 P.2d 360 ; Main v. Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc. (1977) 67 Cal.App.3d 19, 31, 136 Cal.Rptr. 378 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used with the instruction in MB 300G.60 to define advantage to a fiduciary. The use of the word "person" is suggested because it is more understandable than "fiduciary" and should not result in any confusion since it follows MB 300G.60 defining persons in a confidential relationship. More specific terms can be substituted such as lawyer and client or husband and wife.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Jurors Will Know What Constitutes

"Advantage": This is a very open-ended instruction. Note that the definition of an "advantage" includes a "favorable opportunity" as well as an actual gain or benefit. But most jurors will know what an "advantage" is and is not. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

When a fiduciary enters into a transaction with a beneficiary whereby the fiduciary's position is improved or he or she obtains a favorable opportunity or otherwise gains, benefits, or profits, it may fairly be said that an advantage has been obtained [Rader v. Thrasher (1962) 57 Cal.2d 244, 250, 18 Cal.Rptr. 736, 368 P.2d 360 ; Main v. Merrill, Lynch,

Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc. (1977) 67 Cal.App.3d 19, 31, 136 Cal.Rptr. 378].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Contract Interpretation Fiduciary Responsibilities

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

38 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART D. CONSTRUCTIVE FRAUD AND UNDUE INFLUENCE

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.64

MB 300G.64 Full Disclosure Defined[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A duty of full disclosure existed between _____ [fiduciary] and _____ [beneficiary] with regard to the _____ [describe transaction]. A duty of full disclosure means a duty to reveal everything of importance that a person knows about a transaction before obtaining the other person's consent to the transaction.

Authorities: Montoya v. McLeod (1985) 176 Cal.App.3d 57, 64-65, 221 Cal.Rptr. 353 ; Main v. Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc. (1977) 67 Cal.App.3d 19, 32, 136 Cal.Rptr. 378 ; Smith v. Zak (1971) 20 Cal.App.3d 785, 793, 98 Cal.Rptr. 242 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when an explanation of the duty of full disclosure is necessary, such as when concealment is alleged [see MB 300G.42, MB 300G.60].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Duty of Full Disclosure: One of the key elements of a fiduciary relationship is a legal duty of full disclosure. This instruction sets forth the requirement that "everything of importance" be disclosed. Yet, the word "full" in this context may be challenging for some jurors. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

A fiduciary has the duty of full and complete disclosure of all material facts [Montoya v. McLeod (1985) 176 Cal.App.3d 57, 64-65, 221 Cal.Rptr. 353 ; Main v. Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc. (1977) 67 Cal.App.3d

19, 32, 136 Cal.Rptr. 378].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawContract InterpretationFiduciary ResponsibilitiesContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewTortsBusiness TortsFraud & MisrepresentationNondisclosureGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

39 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART D. CONSTRUCTIVE FRAUD AND UNDUE INFLUENCE

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.65

MB 300G.65 Constructive Fraud of Agent

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A principal has a right to rely on the truth of a representation made to [him/her/it] by [his/her/its] agent about the terms of the transaction for which the agent is employed. An agent is charged with the duty of fullest disclosure of all important facts within his or her knowledge that might affect the principal's decision. You should treat any failure of the agent to disclose important facts known to him or her the same as if the agent had affirmatively misrepresented those facts to the principal.

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

It does not matter if Plaintiff could have found out the truth by doing [his/her/its] own investigation of the facts. Defendant was under no duty to investigate those facts for [himself/herself/itself].

Authorities: Batson v. Strehlow (1968) 68 Cal.2d 662, 674-675, 68 Cal.Rptr. 589, 441 P.2d 101 ; Montoya v. McLeod (1985) 176 Cal.App.3d 57, 64-65, 221 Cal.Rptr. 353 ; Ford v. Cournale (1973) 36 Cal.App.3d 172, 182, 111 Cal.Rptr. 334 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when defendant is the principal and alleges the constructive fraud of plaintiff as agent as a ground for rescission of the contract that plaintiff seeks to enforce. If the rescinding party is the plaintiff, the designations should be reversed. The optional paragraph should be used to counteract any inference that the principal could have found out the truth by independent investigation when the principal is under no duty to conduct such an investigation.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Care With Terms: Be careful when using subjective words such as "fullest," "important" and "affirmatively." By Rex Heeseman

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Principal Not Required to Investigate Facts: This instruction sets a very high standard for the duty of disclosure by an agent. Note that the principal is not required to investigate the facts even if the investigation would have uncovered the truth. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

This instruction is a simplified form of the instructions approved by the court of appeal in Ford v. Cournale [Ford v. Cournale (1973) 36 Cal.App.3d 172, 182 n. 8, 111 Cal.Rptr. 334].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Business & Corporate Law Agency Relationships Duties & Liabilities Unlawful Acts of Agents Fraud & Misrepresentation Contracts Law Defenses Fraud & Misrepresentation Constructive Fraud Contracts Law Remedies Rescission & Redhibition General Overview Torts Business Torts Fraud & Misrepresentation Constructive Fraud Elements Torts Business Torts Fraud & Misrepresentation Nondisclosure Elements

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

40 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART D. CONSTRUCTIVE FRAUD AND UNDUE INFLUENCE

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.66

MB 300G.66 Undue Influence in Confidential Relationship

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A _____ [confidential relationship with or position of authority over] another person imposes a special duty not to take unfair advantage over that other person. The use of _____ [the confidence placed in a person by another or the use of authority over another] for the purpose of obtaining an unfair advantage is improper. To establish the right to cancel the contract, Plaintiff has the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence both of the following:

1. That a confidential relationship existed between the parties; and
2. That Defendant caused Plaintiff to enter into a contract that gave Defendant an advantage over Plaintiff.

Once Plaintiff proves these two things, you must find that Plaintiff is entitled to cancel the contract for unfairness unless defendant proves by a preponderance of the evidence that the contract is fair and that Defendant acted in good faith in all regards.

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

The fact that Plaintiff did not receive independent advice does not by itself indicate that the contract was unfair.

Authorities: Civ. Code §§ 1567, 1575; Ball v. Posey (1986) 176 Cal.App.3d 1209, 1214, 222 Cal.Rptr. 746 ; O'Neil v. Spillane (1975) 45 Cal.App.3d 147, 153, 155, 119 Cal.Rptr. 245 ; Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246

Cal.App.2d 123, 131, 54 Cal.Rptr. 533 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when undue influence of a fiduciary or person in a position of authority over another is alleged. If the breach of fiduciary duty is due to lack of complete disclosure, use the instruction for constructive fraud in MB 300G.60. The instruction is worded to reflect the presumption that applies on proof of the confidential relationship and an advantage. Confidential relationship is defined in MB 300G.61, fiduciary relationship as a confidential relationship is covered in MB 300G.62, and advantage is defined in MB 300G.63. This instruction follows the approach suggested by Jefferson for instructing on presumptions affecting the burden of proof [see Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook (3d ed., Cal. C.E.B. 1997), vol. 2, §§ 46.2, 46.8]. If the existence of a confidential relationship is disputed, use MB 300G.61, and if a fiduciary relationship is in issue, use MB 300G.62 followed by this instruction and MB 300G.67, depending on the determination of the confidential relationship issue.

A preponderance of the evidence instruction must be used with this instruction [see Ch. 2, California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions, CACI No. 200 ("Obligation to Prove--More Likely True than Not True")].

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][c], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--May Need to Elaborate on Basis of Unfairness:

This instruction does not define the term "unfair advantage." Some situations of "unfairness" will be obvious. In other situations, counsel will have to introduce testimony (i.e. custom and practice, industry standards, similar contracts) to show that the transaction should be canceled. That is particularly true as to "special duty" and "unfairness." By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Definition of Undue Influence

Apparent consent is not real or free when obtained by undue influence [Civ. Code § 1567]. Rescission is therefore available for undue influence. Undue influence has been characterized as a species of constructive fraud [O'Neil v. Spillane (1975) 45 Cal.App.3d 147, 159, 119 Cal.Rptr. 245]. However, unlike the classic constructive fraud situation, it does not require any misrepresentations or concealment [Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal.App.2d 123, 130, 54 Cal.Rptr. 533]. Undue influence consists of any of the following [Civ. Code § 1575]:

- The use, by one in whom a confidence is reposed by another or who holds a real or apparent authority over another, of such confidence or authority for the purpose of obtaining an unfair advantage;
- Taking an unfair advantage of another's weakness of mind; or
- Taking a grossly oppressive and unfair advantage of another's necessities or distress.

Examples of cases involving undue influence by persons in a position of authority over others, as opposed to fiduciaries, include a police officer's entering into a real estate contract with a prisoner [Grimes v. Allen (1949) 93 Cal.App.2d 653, 209 P.2d 651] and a school teacher's resignation to a school board [Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal.App.2d 123, 54 Cal.Rptr. 533 ; cf. Robison v. City of Manteca (2000) 78 Cal.App.4th 452, 457-458, 92 Cal.Rptr.2d 748 (employee's allegations that he was "coerced" by employee-organization representative into signing substance abuse recovery agreement were inadequate to establish undue influence)].

[b] Presumption

Undue influence is persuasion that tends to be coercive in nature, persuasion that overcomes the will without convincing the judgment [Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal.App.2d 123, 130, 54 Cal.Rptr. 533]. If a substantial benefit has been obtained by the fiduciary or person in position of authority and a detriment has been worked on the other party, a presumption arises that there was undue influence in the transaction [Bradner v. Vasquez (1954) 43 Cal.2d 147, 151, 272 P.2d 11 ; Ball v. Posey (1986) 176 Cal.App.3d 1209, 1214, 222 Cal.Rptr. 746 ; O'Neil v. Spillane (1975) 45 Cal.App.3d 147, 154, 119 Cal.Rptr. 245 ; see BGJ Associates, LLC v. Wilson (2003) 113 Cal.App.4th 1217, 1221, 1226-1230, 7 Cal.Rptr.3d 140 (presumption of undue influence under Prob. Code § 16004 was not rebutted)]. Causation appears to be presumed and the burden shifts to defendant to prove fairness and good faith in all regards [O'Neil v. Spillane (1975) 45 Cal.App.3d 147, 155, 119 Cal.Rptr. 245 ; see MB 300G.60 (causation in constructive fraud cases generally)]. It has been held that there can be no recovery for undue influence absent proof of injury [Leathers v. Leathers (1946) 77 Cal.App.2d 134, 140, 174 P.2d 875], but this is merely a different way of saying that the presumption of undue influence may be overcome by evidence of adequacy of consideration and general fairness and mutuality [Leathers v. Leathers (1946) 77 Cal.App.2d 134, 140, 174 P.2d 875].

[c] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 334, Affirmative Defense--Undue Influence

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Contract Interpretation Fiduciary Responsibilities Contracts Law Defenses Duress & Undue Influence General Overview Contracts Law Remedies Rescission & Redhibition General Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

41 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART D. CONSTRUCTIVE FRAUD AND UNDUE INFLUENCE

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.67

MB 300G.67 Undue Influence Absent Confidential Relationship

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A contract can be cancelled if _____ [other party] obtained the consent of _____ [rescinding party] by _____ [taking an unfair advantage of the other's weakness of mind or taking a grossly oppressive and unfair advantage of the other's necessities or distress].

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

A grossly oppressive advantage is something far greater than the ordinary efforts of persuasion that may be present any time parties negotiate a contract. It means the use of high pressure tactics approaching force. In determining whether grossly oppressive advantage was taken you should consider all of the circumstances, including all of the following:

- (1) Whether discussion of the contract took place at an unusual or inappropriate time;
- (2) Whether the contract was completed in an unusual place;
- (3) Whether there was insistent demand that the business be finished at once;
- (4) Whether there was extreme emphasis on terrible consequences for delay;
- (5) Whether there were more people present on behalf of the party attempting to persuade than the party persuaded;

(6) Whether there were any independent parties present advising the party persuaded; and

(7) Whether statements were made that there was no time to consult financial advisers or attorneys.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1575; Channell v. Anthony (1976) 58 Cal.App.3d 290, 305-306, 129 Cal.Rptr. 704 ; Keithley v. Civil Service Bd. (1970) 11 Cal.App.3d 443, 451, 89 Cal.Rptr. 809 ; Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal.App.2d 123, 133, 54 Cal.Rptr. 533 ; Buchmayer v. Buchmayer (1945) 68 Cal.App.2d 462, 467, 157 P.2d 9 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is evidence of undue influence but no confidential relationship. It should be followed by the instruction on causation in MB 300G.09. If a confidential relationship has been established, use MB 300G.66. If there is a question of fact as to the existence of a confidential relationship, use MB 300G.60 followed by instructions to the jury on both standards of undue influence. Appropriate introductory language should be used indicating that these are alternative standards depending on the existence or nonexistence of a confidential relationship. The two standards differ most notably in the burden of proof. When no confidential relationship exists, no presumption applies from the advantage gained by one party that undue influence was used. If weakness of mind is the basis for this undue influence instruction, it should be followed by the definitional instruction in MB 300G.69. The optional paragraph should be used when there is evidence of grossly oppressive advantage.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Assemble Your Facts Accordingly: This instruction provides a checklist of potentially applicable factors to go over with the jury in closing argument. However, the instruction is complicated and contains some subjective terms like "insistent demand" and "extreme emphasis." So, put together the facts accordingly. By Rex Heeseman and Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Undue Influence Depends on Facts

Undue influence consists of taking an unfair advantage of another's weakness of mind or of taking a grossly oppressive and unfair advantage of another's necessities or distress [Civ. Code § 1575]. The existence of undue influence depends on the facts and circumstances of the particular case [Sparks v. Sparks (1950) 101 Cal.App.2d 129, 135, 225 P.2d 238]. It is something far greater than ordinary efforts at persuasion [Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal.App.2d 123, 132, 54 Cal.Rptr. 533 , citing Estate of Anderson (1921) 185 Cal. 700, 706-707, 198 P. 407]. Undue influence results from the use of high pressure that works on mental, moral, or emotional weakness to such an extent that it approaches force. It overcomes the will and induces someone to do an act that he or she would not do if left to act freely [Keithley v. Civil Service Bd. (1970) 11 Cal.App.3d 443, 89 Cal.Rptr. 809]. Overpersuasion is generally accompanied by certain characteristic elements which, when simultaneously present in a significant number, characterize the persuasion as excessive. These elements are [Channell v. Anthony (1976) 58 Cal.App.3d 290, 306, 129 Cal.Rptr. 704 ; Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal.App.2d 123, 133, 54 Cal.Rptr. 533]:

- Discussion of the transaction at an unusual or inappropriate time;
- Consummation of the transaction in an unusual place;
- Insistent demand that the business be finished at once;

- Extreme emphasis on untoward consequences of delay;
- The use of multiple persuaders by the dominant side against a single servient party;
- Absence of third-party advisers to the servient party; and
- Statements that there is no time to consult financial advisers or attorneys.

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 334 Affirmative Defense--Undue Influence

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Defenses Duress & Undue Influence General Overview Contracts Law Remedies Rescission & Redhibition General Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

42 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART D. CONSTRUCTIVE FRAUD AND UNDUE INFLUENCE

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.68

MB 300G.68 Weakness of Mind Defined

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Weakness of mind must either have been known by the other party at the time of contracting or readily apparent so that the other party should have been aware of it. It need not be long lasting or completely disabling. It may consist of lack of full vigor due to age, physical condition, emotional anguish, or a combination of these factors.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1575; Smalley v. Baker (1968) 262 Cal.App.2d 824, 835, 69 Cal.Rptr. 521 ; Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal.App.2d 123, 131, 54 Cal.Rptr. 533 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used together with the instruction in MB 300G.67 when the alleged undue influence consists of taking advantage of another's weakness of mind.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Consider Not Using Statutory Phrase

"Weakness of Mind:" Most parties do not want to be described by their counsel as having "weakness of mind." In situations where a party entered into a one-sided contract following physical or emotional trauma, counsel may want to describe the party as being "vulnerable" or "defenseless" to high pressure tactics. If the disability is temporary, counsel should show that the party objected or at least questioned the contract as soon as the condition was removed. Hence, it may be advisable to ask the judge not to use the phrase "weakness of mind." By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

Weakness of mind as referred to in Civ. Code § 1575 does not mean total lack of capacity. Total incapacity to make any contract is defined in Civ. Code § 38 and renders a contract void. A lesser weakness of mind ("unsound mind, but not entirely without understanding") renders a contract rescindable without proof of undue influence under Civ. Code § 39(a). The weakness of mind standard set forth in Civ. Code § 1575 is an easier standard to satisfy than either that of Civ. Code §§ 38 or 39 but must be coupled with a showing of the taking of unfair advantage of this condition by the other party [Smalley v. Baker (1968) 262 Cal.App.2d 824, 836, 69 Cal.Rptr. 521 ; Odorizzi v. Bloomfield School Dist. (1966) 246 Cal.App.2d 123, 131, 54 Cal.Rptr. 533]. Thus, when there was no evidence that the other party knew or was aware of the plaintiff's mental illness or that plaintiff took advantage of the illness, Civ. Code § 1575 was not applicable [Smalley v. Baker (1968) 262 Cal.App.2d 824, 836, 69 Cal.Rptr. 521]. The mentally weakened condition may be shown by evidence that the promisor was lacking in the mental vigor needed to protect against an imposition [O'Neil v. Spillane (1975) 45 Cal.App.3d 147, 155, 119 Cal.Rptr. 245 ; Peterson v. Ellebrecht (1962) 205 Cal.App.2d 718, 721-722, 23 Cal.Rptr. 349]. Cases involving will contests that require the total destruction of free agency and substitution of the volition of another are not applicable to contract situations [O'Neil v. Spillane (1975) 45 Cal.App.3d 147, 155, 119 Cal.Rptr. 245].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Defenses Duress & Undue Influence General Overview Contracts Law Formation Capacity of Parties General Overview Contracts Law Remedies Rescission & Redhibition General Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

43 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART D. CONSTRUCTIVE FRAUD AND UNDUE INFLUENCE

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.69

MB 300G.69 Lack of Understanding as to Nature of Transaction

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A person may cancel a contract if at the time of contracting, his or her mental state was such that he or she did not understand the nature, purpose, and effect of the contract. You must decide whether _____ [rescinding party] understood the nature of the particular contract to which [he/she/it] consented, its purpose, and its effect. If _____ [rescinding party] was substantially unable to manage his or her own finances, or was unable to resist fraud or undue influence, _____ [other party] has the burden of proving that _____ [rescinding party] understood the nature, purpose, and effect of the contract. _____ [Rescinding party]'s substantial inability cannot be proved solely by isolated incidents of negligence or poor judgment.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 39; Smalley v. Baker (1968) 262 Cal.App.2d 824, 832, 69 Cal.Rptr. 521 ; Drum v. Bummer (1947) 77 Cal.App.2d 453, 460, 175 P.2d 879 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is evidence that would justify rescission for incapacity. If the facts justify this instruction, they will also likely justify alternative instructions on mistake, fraud, or undue influence set forth in this chapter.

[3] Comment

This instruction is based on Civ. Code § 39 which permits rescission when a person was of unsound mind but not entirely without understanding. It is unlikely that a jury issue will occur in a case in which a contract was made with someone totally without understanding. If total incapacity can be shown or has already been judicially determined, the contract is void, not just voidable under Civ. Code § 38. Both Civ. Code §§ 38 and 39 differ from Civ. Code § 1575(2), which permits rescission on a lesser showing of weakness of mind if there is evidence that it was exploited by undue influence as discussed in MB 300G.68.

A party is entitled to rescind a contract pursuant to Civ. Code § 39 if at the time of contracting, he or she was not mentally competent to deal with the subject. The test in each instance is whether he or she understood the nature, purpose, and effect of what he or she did [Smalley v. Baker (1968) 262 Cal.App.2d 824, 832, 69 Cal.Rptr. 521 ; Drum v. Bummer (1947) 77 Cal.App.2d 453, 460, 175 P.2d 879]. One may be incapable of contracting even though the incapacity is the result of voluntary intoxication [Guidici v. Guidici (1935) 2 Cal.2d 497, 41 P.2d 932]. However, it is not necessary to show that the person was incompetent to make any kind of contract or to transact any business but only that the party was not mentally competent to deal with the subject before him or her with a full understanding of his or her rights [Pomeroy v. Collins (1926) 198 Cal. 46, 68-69, 243 P. 657]. The level of understanding required will vary among different types of contracts [Smalley v. Baker (1968) 262 Cal.App.2d 824, 832, 69 Cal.Rptr. 521 ; Pomeroy v. Collins (1926) 198 Cal. 46, 68-69, 243 P. 657]. The evidence presented on the issue of capacity must therefore focus on whether the party was capable of understanding the type of contract involved; a more complex contract will require a higher degree of capacity.

A rebuttable presumption affecting the burden of proof that a person is of unsound mind exists for purposes of Civ. Code § 39 if the person is substantially unable to manage his or her own financial resources or resist fraud or undue influence. However, substantial inability is not proved solely by isolated incidents of negligence or improvidence [Civ. Code § 39(b)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationCapacity of PartiesGeneral OverviewContracts LawFormationCapacity of PartiesMental CapacityContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

44 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART D. CONSTRUCTIVE FRAUD AND UNDUE INFLUENCE

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.70-MB 300G.79

[Reserved for Future Use]

MB 300G.70[Reserved for Future Use]

45 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART E. DURESS AND MENACE

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.80

MB 300G.80 Traditional Duress or Menace[1] Instruction[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A party may cancel a contract if his or her consent was given out of fear caused by wrongful conduct on the part of the other party.

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

It may involve harm or threats to the safety or liberty of the person or of a member of his or her family. It may also involve harm or threats to a person's property.

Here, _____ [rescinding party] claims that _____ [describe alleged wrongful conduct]. There are two things you must decide:

1. Whether _____ [alleged wrongful conduct] took place; and

2. Whether _____ [rescinding party] agreed to the contract because of _____ [wrongful conduct] and would not have otherwise agreed to the contract.

In deciding the second question, you determine the state of mind of _____ [rescinding party]. If _____ [rescinding party] would have consented to the contract anyway, then the contract may be enforced even if the other party acted wrongfully. In deciding this issue, you may consider the means used by _____ [other party] and the age, sex, state of health, and mental characteristics of _____ [rescinding party].

Authorities: McKay v. Retail Auto. S. L. Union No. 1067 (1940) 16 Cal.2d 311, 321, 106 P.2d 373, cert. denied, 313 U.S. 566 (1941) ; In re Marriage of Gonzalez (1976) 57 Cal.App.3d 736, 743-744, 129 Cal.Rptr. 566 ; Balling v. Finch (1962) 203 Cal.App.2d 413, 418, 21 Cal.Rptr. 490 ; Gross v. Needham (1960) 184 Cal.App.2d 446, 461, 7 Cal.Rptr. 664 ; Lewis v. Fahn (1952) 113 Cal.App.2d 95, 99, 247 P.2d 831 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the jury will be allowed to consider evidence that consent to a contract was obtained by noneconomic duress. The word "cancel" is suggested instead of "rescind" [see MB 300G.01]. This instruction is equally appropriate for rescission based on menace. In cases involving economic duress, use the instruction in MB 300G.81; for an instruction on the nature of the threat, see MB 300G.82.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Threats of Violence vs. Economic Duress: By its terms, this instruction appears to be limited to threats of violence to person or property. For economic duress, see MB 300G.81. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Duress

The concept of duress as molded by California case law is much broader than the definition of duress in Civ. Code § 1569 [In re Marriage of Gonzalez (1976) 57 Cal.App.3d 736, 743, 129 Cal.Rptr. 566]. Although menace is technically a threat of duress [Civ. Code § 1570], the terms are used interchangeably by the courts [see California Forms of Pleading & Practice, Ch. 215, Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake (Matthew Bender)]. Duress, as discussed herein, therefore includes menace. Generally, an act constituting duress may be either a tort or a crime [Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, § 313 (10th ed. 2005)]. It involves any contract obtained by so oppressing a person by threats regarding his or her safety or liberty, property, or family, as to deprive him or her of the free exercise of will and prevent the necessary meeting of minds [In re Marriage of Broderick (1989) 209 Cal.App.3d 489, 499, 257 Cal.Rptr. 397 ; Lewis v. Fahn (1952) 113 Cal.App.2d 95, 99, 247 P.2d 831 ; see Tarpy v. County of San Diego (2003) 110 Cal.App.4th 267, 276-279, 1 Cal.Rptr.3d 607 (dog owner failed to raise triable issue of fact as to whether county's retention of dog was unlawful so as to establish statutory duress in signing release for neutering)].

Duress has also been defined to include whatever destroys a person's free agency and constrains him or her to do what is against his or her will. It may be exercised by threats, importunity, or any species of mental coercion [Gross v. Needham (1960) 184 Cal.App.2d 446, 461, 7 Cal.Rptr. 664]. The case law is divided regarding the appropriate test for duress, whether it should be subjective or objective. Thus, it has repeatedly been said that duress is to be tested not by the nature of the threats, but rather by the state of mind induced thereby in the victim. The means used to produce that condition, the age, sex, state of health, and mental characteristics of the alleged injured party are only evidentiary of the ultimate fact in issue, whether the person was bereft of the free exercise of will power. His or her resisting power, under all the circumstances of the situation and not any arbitrary standard, is to be considered in determining whether there was duress [In re Marriage of Gonzalez (1976) 57 Cal.App.3d 736, 744, 129 Cal.Rptr. 566 , quoting Lewis v. Fahn (1952) 113 Cal.App.2d 95, 99, 247 P.2d 831].

This instruction is predicated on the subjective standard described above. However, there is also a line of economic duress cases that applies an objective standard discussed in MB 300G.81.

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 332 Affirmative Defense--Duress

CACI No. 333 Affirmative Defense--Economic Duress

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

46 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART E. DURESS AND MENACE

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.81

MB 300G.81 Economic Duress[1] Instruction[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The law allows a party to cancel a contract if consent to the contract was obtained by wrongful economic pressure. Wrongful economic pressure occurs when one party causes the other to agree to a contract by a threat of wrongful action to cause harm to his or her business or otherwise cause him or her to suffer economic loss. To determine this issue, you must decide all of the following:

1. Whether _____ [alleged wrongful economic pressure] was used by _____ [other party];
2. Whether _____ [rescinding party] entered into the contract because of the wrongful pressure; and
3. Whether a reasonable alternative was available to _____ [rescinding party].

A party claiming that he or she was the victim of wrongful economic pressure must show that no reasonable alternative course existed. An alternative is reasonable if a reasonably prudent person would have chosen it instead of giving in to the other party's demand.

Authorities: Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal.2d 195, 204, 1 Cal.Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12 ; Rich & Whillock, Inc. v. Ashton Development, Inc. (1984) 157 Cal.App.3d 1154, 1158, 204 Cal.Rptr. 86 ; Louisville Title Ins. Co. v. Surety Title & Guar. Co. (1976) 60 Cal.App.3d 781, 801-802, 132 Cal.Rptr. 63 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when the basis for rescission is economic duress. For other situations including duress or menace, use the instruction in MB 300G.80. The use of the word "cancel" is suggested instead of "rescind" [see MB 300G.01]. If all three issues are not presented by the facts, the instruction should be modified accordingly.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Provide Alternatives If Opposing Claim of Economic Duress: One of the key elements in this instruction is the requirement of "no reasonable alternative." In opposing a claim of economic duress, counsel will want to present as many alternatives as the facts will allow. This approach is obviously much better if your party is "sympathetic." By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Economic Duress

Under modern law, duress is not limited to threats against the person. It may also consist of threats to business or property interests [Louisville Title Ins. Co. v. Surety Title & Guar. Co. (1976) 60 Cal.App.3d 781, 807, 132 Cal.Rptr. 63, quoting Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal.2d 195, 203, 1 Cal.Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12]. The threat must be sufficiently coercive to cause a reasonably prudent person faced with no reasonable alternative to succumb to the perpetrator's pressure [Philippine Export & Foreign Loan Guarantee Corp. v. Chuidian (1990) 218 Cal.App.3d 1058, 1078, 267 Cal.Rptr. 457; Rich & Whillock, Inc. v. Ashton Development, Inc. (1984) 157 Cal.App.3d 1154, 1158, 204 Cal.Rptr. 86, citing Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal.2d 195, 203-205, 1 Cal.Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12; see Crosstalk Productions, Inc. v. Jacobson (1998) 65 Cal.App.4th 631, 644-646, 76 Cal.Rptr.2d 615]. It is a question of fact whether a reasonably prudent person would yield to the other party's threats instead of taking an alternative course [Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal.2d 195, 205, 1 Cal.Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12; Philippine Export & Foreign Loan Guarantee Corp. v. Chuidian (1990) 218 Cal.App.3d 1058, 1078-1081, 267 Cal.Rptr. 457; Louisville Title Ins. Co. v. Surety Title & Guar. Co. (1976) 60 Cal.App.3d 781, 801-802, 132 Cal.Rptr. 63].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 332 Affirmative Defense--Duress

CACI No. 333 Affirmative Defense--Economic Duress

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceEconomic DuressContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

47 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART E. DURESS AND MENACE

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.82

MB 300G.82 Nature of Threat

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Whether a threat is wrongful depends on what is threatened. Generally, a person may threaten to do what he or she has a legal right to do. A person may give warning of his or her intentions and allow the other person to avoid the consequences. It is only the threat of wrongful conduct that is improper.

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

So long as a party to a contract acts in good faith, that party has a legal right to take a different view of his or her contract rights and obligations than the view held by the other party to the contract. This is true even if it turns out that he or she is mistaken.

Thus, a person has a legal right to refuse in good faith to proceed with a contract even though the refusal might later be found wrong. It is only improper to _____ [refuse or threaten to refuse] to perform if both of the following are shown:

- 1. That the _____ [refusal or threat not to perform] was made in bad faith; and
- 2. That the _____ [refusal or threat] was made with the intent to force the other party to do something that he or she would not have otherwise been willing to do.

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

A party has a legal right to bring suit or take other legal action or threaten to do so even if it would cause great economic harm to another party unless the party who does so acts with the knowledge that the claims that would be made in the suit are false.

Authorities: Louisville Title Ins. Co. v. Surety Title & Guar. Co. (1976) 60 Cal.App.3d 781, 801, 132 Cal.Rptr. 63 ; see Thompson Crane & Trucking Co. v. Eymean (1954) 123 Cal.App.2d 904, 909, 267 P.2d 1043 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is evidence of threatened conduct that could be considered proper. Use the first optional paragraph when the alleged threat involves a breach of contract. Use the second optional paragraph when a civil action is threatened.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Party Must Know Its Refusal Was Wrong:

Some cases may present pros (and cons) in discussing what a party "has a legal right to do." If the "wrongful conduct" is the refusal to proceed with a contract, the party asserting economic duress must show that the refusal was made in "bad faith." In practice, this usually means that the other party actually knew (not merely should have known) that its refusal was wrong. By Rex Heeseman and Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

[a] Nature of Threat

It is not an act of duress or menace to threaten to do what one has a legal right to do [McKay v. Retail Auto. S. L. Union No. 1067 (1940) 16 Cal.2d 311, 321, 106 P.2d 373 ; U.S. Hertz, Inc. v. Niobrara Farms (1974) 41 Cal.App.3d 68, 81, 116 Cal.Rptr. 44]. Threatened breach of contract is not improper if it is the result of a mistaken view of contractual rights [London Homes, Inc. v. Korn (1965) 234 Cal.App.2d 233, 240, 44 Cal.Rptr. 262], but it is wrongful if it is asserted in bad faith with the intent to force the other party to do something that he or she would not have otherwise been willing to do [Rich & Whillock, Inc. v. Ashton Development, Inc. (1984) 157 Cal.App.3d 1154, 1160, 204 Cal.Rptr. 86 ; Louisville Title Ins. Co. v. Surety Title & Guar. Co. (1976) 60 Cal.App.3d 781, 801, 132 Cal.Rptr. 63 ; see Crosstalk Productions, Inc. v. Jacobson (1998) 65 Cal.App.4th 631, 644-646, 76 Cal.Rptr.2d 615]. A threat of legal action is only improper if the claims asserted are known to be false [Leeper v. Beltrami (1959) 53 Cal.2d 195, 204, 1 Cal.Rptr. 12, 347 P.2d 12].

These cases involve a threat of civil action. A threat of criminal prosecution is viewed differently. It is against public policy to use a threat of criminal prosecution as a means of collecting a debt [Shasta Water Co. v. Croke (1954) 128 Cal.App.2d 760, 764, 276 P.2d 88]. Such threats are considered threats of injury to the character constituting menace [see Witkin, Summary of California Law, vol. 1, Contracts, §§ 311, 312 (10th ed. 2005); see also MB 300G.80 (menace instruction)].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 332, Affirmative Defense--Duress

CACI No. 333, Affirmative Defense--Economic Duress

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawContract InterpretationGood Faith & Fair DealingContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue
InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

48 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART E. DURESS AND MENACE

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.83-MB 300G.89

[Reserved for Future Use]

MB 300G.83[Reserved for Future Use]

49 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions PART F. DEFENSES TO RESCISSION

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.90

MB 300G.90 Effect of Delay

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A party may lose the right to cancel a contract by delaying too long before giving notice of cancellation if the other party proves by a preponderance of the evidence that the delay caused him or her substantial harm.

Authorities: Civ. Code § 1693; Saret-Cook v. Gilbert, Kelly, Crowley & Jennett (1999) 74 Cal.App.4th 1211, 1227, 88 Cal.Rptr.2d 732 ; Wilke v. Coinway, Inc. (1967) 257 Cal.App.2d 126, 140, 64 Cal.Rptr. 845 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used by the nonrescinding party when there is evidence of prejudice from delay in receiving notice of rescission. The word "harm" is suggested instead of "prejudice" because it is more likely to be understood by the jury. If the delay is coupled with other evidence showing an intent to waive the right to rescind, a separate instruction on waiver of the right to rescind should be given [see MB 300G.91].

A preponderance of the evidence instruction must be used with this instruction [see Ch. 2, California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions, CACI No. 200 ("Obligation to Prove--More Likely True than Not True")].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Harm Must Be Substantial: The key work in this instruction is "substantial" harm caused by the delay to assert a right to cancel. Thus, the related facts must be organized accordingly. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

Delay in giving notice of rescission is only a basis for denying relief if the delay has substantially prejudiced the other party [Civ. Code § 1693; see Saret-Cook v. Gilbert, Kelly, Crowley & Jennett (1999) 74 Cal.App.4th 1211, 1227, 88 Cal.Rptr.2d 732 (employee's delay in giving notice of rescission of settlement agreement resulted in substantial prejudice to employer)]. The existence of prejudice from delay in seeking rescission is a question of fact [Wilke v. Coinway, Inc. (1967) 257 Cal.App.2d 126, 140, 64 Cal.Rptr. 845]. Prejudice from delayed notice of rescission is an affirmative defense [In re Consol. Pretrial Proceedings in Airwest (N.D. Cal. 1977) 436 F.Supp. 1281, 1290]. As such, defendant bears the burden of proof [Evid. Code § 500].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsWaiversGeneral OverviewContracts LawContract Conditions & ProvisionsWaiversContinued PerformanceContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

50 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART F. DEFENSES TO RESCISSION

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.91

MB 300G.91 Waiver of Right to Cancel

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A party may waive a right to cancel a contract if, after full discovery of the facts giving rise to the right to cancel, that party takes steps to _____ [affirm the contract or to modify the contract]. The party's words and acts must indicate that the party has made a definite choice to affirm the contract in spite of knowing all the facts on which he or she might be entitled to cancel the contract.

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

Waiver does not necessarily follow from the fact that plaintiff continued to make contract payments to defendant after discovering the facts giving rise to plaintiff's claim. You must consider the duration of the payments and the circumstances under which they were made.

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

Waiver may not occur if the acts of waiver are themselves caused by _____ [fraud or other improper conduct].

Authorities: Channell v. Anthony (1976) 58 Cal.App.3d 290, 304, 129 Cal.Rptr. 704 ; Beason v. Griff (1954) 127 Cal.App.2d 382, 391, 274 P.2d 47 ; Schied v. Bodinson Mfg. Co. (1947) 79 Cal.App.2d 134, 142-143, 179 P.2d 380 ; Mobley v. Richfield Oil Corp. (1942) 53 Cal.App.2d 406, 411-412, 128 P.2d 105 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used after the general instruction defining waiver [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions, CACI No. 336, and Ch. 3F, Matthew Bender Contract Defenses Instructions] when there is evidence of waiver of a right to rescind for mistake or fraud. If the basis for rescission is undue influence, duress, or menace, then waiver should still be an available defense but the issue would not be whether the act of waiver occurred after full discovery of the facts but whether the improper pressure had been removed before the act of waiver. In those cases, the instruction should be modified accordingly. The first optional paragraph applies if there is evidence of continued payments after full discovery of the facts. The second optional paragraph applies if there is evidence that fraud or other improper conduct permeated the alleged waiver. If the party alleging waiver is a fiduciary, see MB 300G.92.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Establishing Waiver: To establish a waiver, counsel will want to show that the other party had alternatives, but chose to go along with the contract even when the facts were known. In other words, counsel will want to emphasize what the other party did not do, as well as show what was done, and prove that it was "intentional." By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Waiver

The right to rescind for fraud may be waived, if after full discovery of fraud, a party takes steps to affirm the transaction [Beason v. Griff (1954) 127 Cal.App.2d 382, 391, 274 P.2d 47 ; Schied v. Bodinson Mfg. Co. (1947) 79 Cal.App.2d 134, 142-143, 179 P.2d 380] or enters into new arrangements [Channell v. Anthony (1976) 58 Cal.App.3d 290, 304, 129 Cal.Rptr. 704]. Waiver should be equally available to a claim of rescission for other causes. Whether waiver of the right to rescind has taken place is a question of fact [Esau v. Briggs (1948) 201 P.2d 25]. The burden of proof is on the party seeking to establish waiver. The payments constitute merely acts to be considered by the trier of fact along with other circumstances [Flash Cleaners v. Columbia Appliance (1956) 156 Cal.App.2d 455, 459, 319 P.2d 454 ; Mobley v. Richfield Oil Corp. (1942) 53 Cal.App.2d 406, 410, 128 P.2d 105]. Mere continuance of contract payments for a short period pending negotiations does not amount to waiver [Mobley v. Richfield Oil Corp. (1942) 53 Cal.App.2d 406, 412, 128 P.2d 105]. Waiver may not occur when the acts allegedly constituting waiver were themselves induced by fraud or undue influence or other improper conduct [Channell v. Anthony (1976) 58 Cal.App.3d 290, 304-306, 129 Cal.Rptr. 704].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 335 Affirmative Defense--Fraud

CACI No. 336 Affirmative Defense--Waiver

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts Law Contract Conditions & Provisions Waivers General Overview Contracts Law Defenses Duress & Undue Influence General Overview Contracts Law Defenses Fraud & Misrepresentation General Overview Contracts Law Remedies Rescission & Redhibition General Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

51 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3G Matthew Bender Rescission of Contract Instructions
PART F. DEFENSES TO RESCISSION

1-3G California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300G.92

MB 300G.92 Effect of Confidential Relationship on Waiver

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

You may not find that Plaintiff waived the right to cancel the contract if Defendant improperly induced plaintiff to waive the right to cancel the contract against Plaintiff's better judgment. Defendant must have fully disclosed all important facts before obtaining Plaintiff's waiver, and Defendant must not have used Plaintiff's trust and confidence in Defendant to cause Plaintiff to waive Plaintiff's rights.

[IF APPLICABLE (See Use of Instruction)]

The fact _____ [that the relationship had become strained or that Plaintiff had obtained information that caused him or her to entertain grave doubts about defendant's trustworthiness] by the time _____ [alleged acts of waiver] took place does not mean that plaintiff no longer reposed any trust or confidence in defendant. It is only a factor for you to take into account.

Channell v. Anthony (1976) 58 Cal.App.3d 290, 304-305, 129 Cal.Rptr. 704 ; Sime v. Malouf (1949) 95 Cal.App.2d 82, 97, 212 P.2d 946, 213 P.2d 788 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when waiver is alleged as a defense to rescission of a contract between persons in a fiduciary relationship. For the definition of full disclosure, see MB 300G.64. For an instruction on undue influence in obtaining consent to the original contract, see MB 300G.66.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Waivers Are Subjected to More Scrutiny: As long as a relationship of trust and confidence continues, transactions (including waivers) are subjected to heightened scrutiny and can be set aside much more easily than arms-length contracts. By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Be Prepared to Argue Whether There Has Been Full Disclosure: There may be a key controversy as to whether the defendant "fully disclosed all important facts." As defense counsel, there are several options in putting together the appropriate closing. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Waiver Induced by Fraud

Waiver may not occur when the acts allegedly constituting waiver were themselves induced by fraud or undue influence or other improper conduct [Channell v. Anthony (1976) 58 Cal.App.3d 290, 304, 129 Cal.Rptr. 704]. A person may still rely in part on the representations of a fiduciary even when their relationship has become strained [Sime v. Malouf (1949) 95 Cal.App.2d 82, 97, 212 P.2d 946, 213 P.2d 788] or the person obtains information that causes him or her to entertain grave doubts [Channell v. Anthony (1976) 58 Cal.App.3d 290, 305, 129 Cal.Rptr. 704].

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 335 Affirmative Defense--Fraud

CACI No. 336 Affirmative Defense--Waiver

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Contracts LawContract InterpretationFiduciary ResponsibilitiesContracts LawDefensesDuress & Undue InfluenceGeneral OverviewContracts LawDefensesFraud & MisrepresentationGeneral OverviewContracts LawRemediesRescission & RedhibitionGeneral Overview

John F. Wells and Lise A. Pearlman were the original authors of this chapter. It has since been updated to reflect changes in the law, additional case citations and practice pointers by other lawyers as well as revisions including cross-references to the official CACI instructions.

52 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3H Matthew Bender Commercial Code Sales Contracts Instructions

2-3H California Forms of Jury Instruction 3H.syn

§ 3H.syn Synopsis to Chapter 3H: Matthew Bender Commercial Code Sales Contracts Instructions

MB 300H.01 Definition of Conforming Goods and Performance

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Conforming Goods and Performance

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300H.02 Identification of Contract Goods

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.03 Definition of Commercial Unit

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.04 Definition of Seller

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.05 Definition of Buyer

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.06 Definition of Merchant and Transactions Between Merchants

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.07 Definition of Agreement

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.08 Definition of Contract and Contract for Sale

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.09 Definition of Contract Terms

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Definition of Contract Terms

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300H.10 Good Faith Obligation

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.11 Course of Dealing Defined

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.12 Usage of Trade Defined

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.13 Course of Performance Defined

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.14 Definition of Reasonable Time

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Reasonable Time

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300H.15 Definition of Seasonably

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.16 Notice of a Fact

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.17 Giving Notice or Notification

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Notice

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300H.18 Receiving Notice

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.19 Definition of Send

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.20 Definition of Signed

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.21 Definition of a Writing and Written

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.22 Definition of Bill of Lading

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.23-MB 300H.29 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300H.30 Statute of Frauds Generally

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.31 Agreement in Signed Writing

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.32 Confirming Writing Between Merchants

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.33 Confirmation of Contract by Seller's Performance

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.34 Confirmation of Contract by Acceptance of Payment or Delivery

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.35 Admission That Contract Was Made

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Exception to Writing Requirement

[b] In-Court Admission by Party Against Whom Enforcement Is Sought

[c] What Constitutes an Admission

[d] Contents of Admission

[e] Voluntary and Involuntary Admissions

[f] Effect of Admission

MB 300H.36-MB 300H.39 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300H.40 Formation of Contracts for the Sale of Goods

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Formation of Contracts

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300H.41 Offer and Acceptance Generally

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Offer and Acceptance Generally

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300H.42 Offer Defined

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Offer Defined

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300H.43 Revocable and Irrevocable Offers

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Revocable and Irrevocable Offers

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300H.44 Firm Offer by Merchant to Construction Contractor

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.45 Acceptance Generally

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Acceptance

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300H.46 Acceptance by Shipment

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.47 Acceptance or Confirmation Stating Additional Terms

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.48 Agreement Evidenced by Conduct

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.49-MB 300H.59 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300H.60 General Instruction

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Contract Terms

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300H.61 Evidence Supplementing and Explaining Terms

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.62 Evidence of Consistent Additional Terms

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.63 Added Terms in Non-Merchant's Acceptance or Confirmation

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.64 Added Terms in Merchants' Acceptance or Confirmation

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.65-MB 300H.69 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300H.70 Requirement of Written Modification or Rescission

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Modification or Rescission

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300H.71 Waiver

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Waiver

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300H.72 Retraction of Waiver

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Retraction of Waiver

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300H.73 Delegation of Performance

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.74 Assignment of Rights

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.75-MB 300H.89 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300H.90 Interpretation of Contract Terms

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Interpretation of Contract Terms

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300H.91-MB 300H.99 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300H.100 General Obligations of Parties

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Fundamental Obligations of Parties

[b] Incomplete Agreements

MB 300H.101-MB 300H.109 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300H.110 Open Price Term: Reasonable Price

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Market Quotation Distinguished; Course of Dealing, Usage of Trade, or Course of Performance Controls Over Open Price Term

[b] Intent of Parties; Question of Fact

[c] Open Price Term No Bar to Remedy for Breach

[d] Wrongful Interference

MB 300H.111 One Party to Set Price

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.112 Failure to Cooperate in Setting a Price

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.113 Quantity Under Output Contract

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.114 Quantity Under Requirements Contract

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.115 Exclusive Dealing Contract

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.116 Number of Deliveries and Payments

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.117 Place for Delivery of Goods

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.118 Time for Shipment or Delivery

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.119 Contracts of Indefinite Duration

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.120 Notice of Contract Termination

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.121 Time for Payment of Contract Price

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.122 Time for Payment of Contract Price Against Documents

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.123 Time for Running of Credit Period

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.124 Performance to Be Specified by a Party

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.125 Duty of Cooperation

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.126 Did Parties "Otherwise Agree"?

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[a] When to Use This Instruction

[b] How to Use This Instruction; Examples

[3] Comment

[a] Implied Agreements

[b] Definitions

MB 300H.127-MB 300H.139 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300H.140 Warranties in General

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Express and Implied Warranties

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300H.141 Terms of Warranty of Title

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.142 Exclusion or Modification of Warranty of Title

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.143 Warranty Against Infringement

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.144 Breach of Warranty of Title--Burden of Proof

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.145 Express Warranties Defined

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Creation of Express Warranty

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300H.146 Statement of Fact Distinguished From Expression of Opinion

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.147 Express Warranties Arising From a Course of Dealing or Usage of Trade

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.148 Breach of Express Warranty--Burden of Proof

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Breach of Express Warranty; Burden of Proof

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300H.149 Implied Warranties of Fitness for Purpose Defined

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Implied Warranty--Reliance

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300H.150 Seller's Knowledge of Buyer's Particular Purpose

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Implied Warranty--Seller's Knowledge

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300H.151 Buyer's Reliance on Seller's Skill

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Buyer's Reliance

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300H.152 Breach of Implied Warranty of Fitness

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Breach of Implied Warranty

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300H.153 Implied Warranty of Merchantability Defined

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Implied Warranty of Merchantability

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300H.154 Breach of Implied Warranty of Merchantability

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Implied Warranty of Merchantability

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300H.155 Notice of Breach of Warranty

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Notice of Breach

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300H.156 Disclaimer of Implied Warranties

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Disclaimer of Implied Warranties

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300H.157 Disclaimer of Express Warranties

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Disclaimer of Express Warranties

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

MB 300H.158-MB 300H.169 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300H.170 General Shipping Terms Definition

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.171 F.O.B. Definition

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.172 F.A.S. Definition

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.173 C.I.F. Definition

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.174 C. & F. Definition

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.175 No Arrival; No Sale

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.176 Ex-Ship Definition

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.177-MB 300H.189 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300H.190 Repudiation

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.191 Substantial Impairment

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.192 Retraction of Repudiation

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.193 Demand for Adequate Assurance

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.194 Grounds for Insecurity

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.195 Adequate Assurance

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.196-MB 300H.209 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300H.210 Tender of Goods Generally

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.211 Tender by Seller Under Shipment and Destination Contracts

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.212-MB 300H.219 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300H.220 Acceptance and Rejection Generally

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.221 Acceptance by Buyer

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.222 Notice of Breach as to Accepted Goods

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.223 Grounds for Revocation of Acceptance

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.224 Requirements of an Effective Rejection

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.225 Buyer's Failure to Specify Defects

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.226-MB 300H.239 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300H.240 Excuse of Performance--Special Findings

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[a] In General

[b] Question of Law or Fact

[3] Comment

MB 300H.241 Excuse of Performance for Increased Cost

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.242 Seller's Duty to Allocate Supply

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[a] In General

[b] Question of Law or Fact

[3] Comment

MB 300H.243 Buyer's Option to Terminate or Modify on Notice of Allocation or Delay

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.244 Substitution of Delivery Arrangements

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.245 Commercial Impracticability Defined

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.246-MB 300H.249 Reserved for Future Use

MB 300H.250 Seller's Action for Contract Price

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.251 Seller's Damages Recoverable After Resale

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.252 Seller's Damages for Buyer's Nonacceptance or Repudiation

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Measure of Damages

[b] Proof of Market Price

MB 300H.253 Seller's Incidental Damages

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.254 Buyer's Incidental Damages

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.255 Buyer's Consequential Damages

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] Measures of Consequential Damages; Foreseeability

[b] Contractual Disclaimer

[c] Buyer's Obligation to Mitigate Damages

[d] Breach of Warranty; Proximate Cause

MB 300H.256 Damages to Buyer Who Has "Covered"

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.257 Buyer's Damages for Seller's Non-Delivery or Repudiation

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

MB 300H.258 Buyer's Damages for Accepted Goods and for Breach of Warranty

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

[a] When Nonconformity Is Not Breach of Warranty

[b] When Non-Conformity Is Breach of Warranty

[c] When Value of Goods Is Determined

[d] Notice Requirements

[e] Burden of Proving Breach

MB 300H.259 Liquidated Damages

[1] Instruction

[2] Use of Instruction

[3] Comment

53 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3H Matthew Bender Commercial Code Sales Contracts Instructions

2-3H California Forms of Jury Instruction Scope

Scope

SCOPE

This chapter includes specialized jury instructions for use in sale of goods cases arising under the Uniform Commercial Code's Sales Article as adopted in California. For the California Judicial Council jury instructions on contracts generally, see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions. Ch. 3 includes Judicial Council instructions on issues surrounding contract formation, performance, interpretation, modification, breach, damages, and defenses. The instructions in this chapter are intended to supplement the Judicial Council instructions [see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1050].

The relevant provisions of California's Commercial Code are found in Division 2, Com. Code §§ 2101-2724, and the general provisions in Chapter 1, Com. Code §§ 1101-1208. Instructions are included for most Commercial Code sales provisions, grouped under the following topics:

- Part A: Definitions [see MB 300H.01 -MB 300H.22].
- Part B: Statute of Frauds [see MB 300H.30 -MB 300H.35].
- Part C: Formation of Contract [see MB 300H.40 -MB 300H.48].
- Part D: Contract Terms [see MB 300H.60 -MB 300H.64].
- Part E: Modification and Waiver of Contract Terms [see MB 300H.70-MB 300H.74].
- Part F: Interpretation of Contract Terms [see MB 300H.90].
- Part G: General Obligations, including open terms, warranties, and shipping and credit terms [see MB 300H.100 -MB 300H.176].

2-3H California Forms of Jury Instruction Scope

- Part H: Contract Repudiation [see MB 300H.190 -MB 300H.195]
- Part I: Tender [see MB 300H.210, MB 300H.211].
- Part J: Acceptance and Rejection [see MB 300H.220 -MB 300H.225].
- Part K: Excuse of Performance [see MB 300H.240 -MB 300H.245].
- Part L: Measure of Proof and Damages [see MB 300H.250 -MB 300H.259].

Additional necessary instructions are set forth in other chapters. In particular, when the existence of a contract is an issue, instructions contained in Ch. 3A, Matthew Bender Formation of Contract Instructions, on offer and acceptance should be consulted in addition to those in Part C, as well as the instructions contained in Ch. 3D, Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions, setting forth what must be proved to establish a breach. Instructions on such matters as expert testimony (see Ch. 2, California Judicial Council Evidence Instructions, CACI Nos. 219-221), proximate cause (see Ch. 4, California Judicial Council Negligence Instructions, CACI No. 430 ("Causation: Substantial Factor")), agency (see Ch. 3C, Matthew Bender Contract Party Instructions, MB 300C.50), good faith (see Ch. 3B, Matthew Bender Interpretation of Contract Instructions, MB 300B.08, and Ch. 3D, Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions, MB 300D.57), and waiver (see Ch. 3G, Matthew Bender Rescission Instructions, MB 300G.91) are cross-referenced in the comments in this chapter and should be consulted when these issues arise. Instructions on issues peculiar to construction contracts are contained in Ch. 3I, Matthew Bender Construction Contract Instructions.

In such areas as warranties, contract modification, and remedies in the event of breach, the Commercial Code controls when parties to the contract have not agreed otherwise (whether expressly or implicitly). As a result, some of the following instructions are relevant only when the parties have failed to agree on terms to deal with the items in dispute. In those cases when the terms of the agreement govern, general instructions on contract interpretation (see Ch. 3B, Matthew Bender Interpretation of Contract Instructions) may be more relevant even though the Commercial Code applies to the contract as a whole.

54 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3H Matthew Bender Commercial Code Sales Contracts Instructions
PART A. DEFINITIONS FOR SALE OF GOODS CONTRACTS

2-3H California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300H.01

MB 300H.01 Definition of Conforming Goods and Performance

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Goods "conform to the contract" when (1) they are of the type, quality, and quantity called for by the contract, (2) they are supplied in the manner called for by the contract, and (3) they are otherwise in accordance with what the contract requires.

The conduct required of any party as part of contract performance conforms to the contract when it is in accordance with that party's obligations under the contract.

Authority: Com. Code § 2106(2).

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is an issue as to whether or not goods or performance conform to the contract. For example, this instruction should be given with the instructions on acceptance and rejection in Part J.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

[3] Comment

[a] Conforming Goods and Performance

This Commercial Code definition of conforming goods embodies the so-called perfect tender rule requiring that the goods conform exactly to the parties' agreement [Com. Code § 2106(2)]. The common law rule of substantial performance is covered in Ch. 3D, Matthew Bender Performance and Breach of Contract Instructions.

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 312 Substantial Performance

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Commercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Breach, Repudiation & ExcuseBuyer's Rights on Improper
DeliveryCommercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Subject MatterGoodsDefinitionContracts LawSales of GoodsBreach,
Repudiation & ExcuseBuyer's Rights on Improper Delivery

Irene Sall Holmes and Lock Holmes contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction
(Matthew Bender).

55 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3H Matthew Bender Commercial Code Sales Contracts Instructions
PART A. DEFINITIONS FOR SALE OF GOODS CONTRACTS

2-3H California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300H.02

MB 300H.02 Identification of Contract Goods

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The phrase "identification of goods to the contract" means designating goods as those to which the contract refers. Identification may be made at any time and in any manner expressly agreed on by the parties. If the parties fail to agree, identification occurs either:

1. When the contract is made, if the contract is for the sale of goods already existing and identified; or
2. When the goods are shipped, marked, or otherwise designated by the seller as goods to which the contract refers.

Authority: Com. Code § 2501(1).

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used with instructions that pose the issue of whether or not the goods were identified to the contract, such as the damage instructions in Part L and the instruction in MB 300H.117.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Explain Terms: This instruction could be confusing to many jurors. For instance, when was the contract "made" and what does "otherwise designated" mean? These terms will need to be explained. Hence, craft your closing accordingly. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

This definition is based on Com. Code § 2501(1). That section also contains special provisions for identifying crops and livestock [Com. Code § 2501(1)(c)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Commercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Subject MatterGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Subject MatterDefinitionsGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Subject MatterGoodsGeneral Overview

Irene Sall Holmes and Lock Holmes contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

56 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3H Matthew Bender Commercial Code Sales Contracts Instructions
PART A. DEFINITIONS FOR SALE OF GOODS CONTRACTS

2-3H California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300H.03

MB 300H.03 Definition of Commercial Unit

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

As used in these instructions, a "commercial unit" is a unit of goods that is in commercial usage treated as a single whole for purposes of sale. A unit of goods is a "commercial unit" if the division of the unit would decrease its market value or its usefulness, or would materially impair its quality.

Authority: Com. Code § 2105(6).

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when it is necessary to define a "commercial unit," as with the option on acceptance of part of a commercial unit in the instruction on partial acceptance in MB 300H.221.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Explain Instruction; Use Examples: This is a complicated instruction. Both of these sentences need to be carefully explained. The use of examples may help to clarify it. For example, no one buys a single left or right shoe, so a pair of shoes is a "commercial unit" for most people. Depending on the goods involved in the case, expert testimony may be required to demonstrate why division of a "commercial unit" into smaller lots or batches will decrease its market value or impair its quality. By Rex Heeseman and Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

This instruction is based on Com. Code § 2105(6). A commercial unit may be a single item such as a machine, a set of articles (for example, a suite of furniture), or a commercially usable quantity (for example, a ton of coal or a cord of wood). Commercial units may also include a quantity of assorted items such as a gross of hats of assorted sizes [Com.

Code § 2105(6)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Commercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Breach, Repudiation & ExcuseAcceptance of GoodsGeneral
OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Subject MatterDefinitionsGeneral OverviewCommercial Law
(UCC)Sales (Article 2)Subject MatterGoodsGeneral Overview

Irene Sall Holmes and Lock Holmes contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction
(Matthew Bender).

57 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3H Matthew Bender Commercial Code Sales Contracts Instructions PART A. DEFINITIONS FOR SALE OF GOODS CONTRACTS

2-3H California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300H.04

MB 300H.04 Definition of Seller

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

As used in these instructions, "seller" means a person who sells or contracts to sell goods. The seller in this case is _____ [name of party].

Authority: Com. Code § 2103(1)(d).

[2] Use of Instruction

It is useful to give this short instruction the first time the term "seller" is used or when the parties are first identified.

[3] Comment

This instruction is based on Com. Code § 2103(1)(d). When price is payable in whole or in part in goods by both parties, then each party is a seller of the goods which he or she is to transfer [Com. Code § 2304(1)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Commercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Subject MatterDefinitionsGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Subject MatterGoodsGeneral Overview

Irene Sall Holmes and Lock Holmes contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

58 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3H Matthew Bender Commercial Code Sales Contracts Instructions
PART A. DEFINITIONS FOR SALE OF GOODS CONTRACTS

2-3H California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300H.05

MB 300H.05 Definition of Buyer

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

As used in these instructions, "buyer" means a person who buys or contracts to buy goods. The buyer in this case is _____ [name of party].

Authority: Com. Code § 2103(1)(a).

[2] Use of Instruction

It is helpful to give this short instruction at the time the term "buyer" is first used in the instructions or when the parties are first identified.

[3] Comment

This instruction is based on Com. Code § 2103(1)(a).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Commercial Law (UCC) Sales (Article 2) Subject Matter Definitions General Overview

Irene Sall Holmes and Lock Holmes contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

59 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3H Matthew Bender Commercial Code Sales Contracts Instructions
PART A. DEFINITIONS FOR SALE OF GOODS CONTRACTS

2-3H California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300H.06

MB 300H.06 Definition of Merchant and Transactions Between Merchants

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

[CHOOSE FROM THE FOLLOWING (See Use of Instruction)]

A merchant is one who engages in a trade, business, or a type of commerce to such an extent that [he/she/it] has or should have knowledge of common business practices.

[OR]

A merchant is one who deals in goods of the kind involved in the transaction at issue in this case.

[OR]

A merchant is one whose occupation indicates that [he/she/it] has particular knowledge about, or skill in, the practice or goods involved in the transaction.

[OR]

An individual or an organization is considered to be a merchant when [he/she/it] hires an agent, broker, or other intermediary to act for [him/her/it], and the occupation of the _____ [person or organization] employed indicates a particular knowledge about, or skill in, the practice or goods involved in the transaction.

[CONTINUE INSTRUCTION]

A transaction between merchants is one in which both parties are merchants as defined in the preceding instruction.

Authorities: Com. Code § 2104(1), (3); U.C.C. Comment No. 2 to Com. Code § 2104; Com. Code § 1201(27).

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when merchant status is a disputed issue of fact on which reasonable people could differ. Use the definition of merchant that comports with the use of the term in the substantive instruction. Any one paragraph can be given independently, except the last, which refers to whichever definition of merchant has been used.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Explain Terms: The fourth optional paragraph is awkward and, if applicable to the case, needs to be explained. The terms "agent, broker, or other intermediary" will also require further explanation. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

This instruction is based on the definition of "merchant" in Com. Code § 2104(1), and the definition of "between merchants" in Com. Code § 2104(3). Com. Code § 1201(27) is cited to show that the term "person" used in the statutory definition of a merchant includes both individuals and organizations.

The Commercial Code states various rules that apply "between merchants" or "as against a merchant," but do not apply to a casual or inexperienced seller or buyer [U.C.C. Comment No. 1 to Com. Code § 2104]. When the practices involved in the transaction are nonspecialized business practices, such as answering mail, then the term is applied very broadly, and almost anyone in business would be considered a "merchant." For example, even a university is presumed to know how to answer its mail and thus to be a merchant for purposes of such a nonspecialized transaction [U.C.C. Comment No. 2 to Com. Code § 2104]. Commercial Code sections employing the term this broadly include Com. Code §§ 2201(2), 2207, and 2209. The key to being a merchant under statutes like these is having knowledge or skill peculiar to the nonspecialized business practices involved in the transaction [U.C.C. Comment No. 2 to Com. Code § 2104].

Other Commercial Code provisions apply only to individuals or organizations who have the knowledge or skill of a merchant with regard to goods of the kind involved in the transaction. A public transit district, for example, has knowledge and skill peculiar to buying buses [Sacramento Regional Transit Dist. v. Grumman Flexible (1984) 158 Cal.App.3d 289, 295, 204 Cal.Rptr. 736]. These provisions include Com. Code §§ 2314 (warranty of merchantability), 2402(2) (merchant-sellers), and 2403(2) (entrusting goods). A third group of Commercial Code statutes applies to persons who are merchants in either of the first two senses--that is, merchants under either the "practices" or the "goods" aspect of the definition. Commercial Code sections using the term in that sense include Com. Code §§ 2509 (risk of loss), 2603 (rejected goods), 2605 (waiver of objections), and 2609 (adequacy of assurances).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Commercial Law (UCC)General Provisions (Article 1)Application & ConstructionGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Subject MatterDefinitionsGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Subject MatterDefinitionsMerchant

Irene Sall Holmes and Lock Holmes contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction
(Matthew Bender).

60 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3H Matthew Bender Commercial Code Sales Contracts Instructions
PART A. DEFINITIONS FOR SALE OF GOODS CONTRACTS

2-3H California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300H.07

MB 300H.07 Definition of Agreement

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

"Agreement," as distinguished from "contract," means the bargain of the parties in fact. The nature of the parties' bargain can be determined from the language used by the parties and from the surrounding circumstances of the transaction, including earlier dealings between the parties, commonly understood customs and practices in the trade or business, and the subsequent conduct of the parties in carrying out the agreement in question.

Authority: Com. Code § 1201(3).

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used together with the applicable offer and acceptance instructions in Part C when the existence of an agreement or the specific terms agreed on are an issue of fact on which persons might reasonably differ.

[3] Comment

This instruction is based on Com. Code § 1201(3). The parties' agreement is distinguished from their contract in that the contract includes terms imposed by law as well as those expressly or impliedly agreed on [Com. Code § 1201(a)(12)]. In one case, the court found that no implied agreement by a buyer to pay freight for ocean transport arose when the cargo was purchased "C+F, freight prepaid for delivery to Los Angeles," and the seller's check for freight was accepted by the shipper, although eventually it was dishonored. Terms in the shipper's bill of lading purporting to impose liability for freight are broadly defined, and "Merchant" did not bind the C+F buyer in the absence of that buyer's signature or other evidence of acceptance of the terms [Mitsui O.S.K. Lines, Ltd. v. Dynasea Corp. (1999) 72 Cal.App.4th 208, 210-213, 85 Cal.Rptr.2d 1].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Commercial Law (UCC)General Provisions (Article 1)Definitions & InterpretationGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Form, Formation & ReadjustmentGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Form, Formation & ReadjustmentOffer & Acceptance

Irene Sall Holmes and Lock Holmes contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

61 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3H Matthew Bender Commercial Code Sales Contracts Instructions
PART A. DEFINITIONS FOR SALE OF GOODS CONTRACTS

2-3H California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300H.08

MB 300H.08 Definition of Contract and Contract for Sale

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

The term "contract," as distinguished from "agreement," encompasses the total legal obligation resulting from the parties' agreement. The parties' legal obligations include duties imposed by law that may not appear in the agreement itself.

A contract for sale means a contract to pass ownership of goods from the seller to the buyer for a price, either at the time of making the contract or at a future time.

Authorities: Com. Code §§ 1201(a)(12), 2106(1).

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used as a general introductory instruction when contract terms are in dispute or as appropriate with other code definitions.

[3] Comment

This instruction is based on Com. Code §§ 1201(a)(12) and 2106(1). The Code's distinction between "agreement" and "contract" is largely technical [see MB 300H.07[3]]. However, it may be helpful to use instructions defining these Code terms when the case involves obligations beyond the express terms of the parties' agreement, such as implied warranties not disclaimed by the agreement and obligations of good faith and fair dealing.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Commercial Law (UCC)General Provisions (Article 1)Definitions & InterpretationGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Form, Formation & ReadjustmentGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Form, Formation & ReadjustmentOffer & Acceptance

Irene Sall Holmes and Lock Holmes contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

62 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3H Matthew Bender Commercial Code Sales Contracts Instructions
PART A. DEFINITIONS FOR SALE OF GOODS CONTRACTS

2-3H California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300H.09

MB 300H.09 Definition of Contract Terms

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A "term" is a portion of an agreement that relates to a particular matter. The terms of the parties' agreement are those particular matters that the parties have in fact agreed on or that are imposed by law.

Authorities: Com. Code §§ 1201(a)(40), 2202.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in conjunction with the instruction in MB 300H.08, defining agreement, and those instructions requiring the jury to look beyond the written or oral terms to determine the full extent of the parties' agreement.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

[3] Comment

[a] Definition of Contract Terms

This instruction is based on Com. Code § 1201(a)(40). Contract terms include those express and implied terms that can be found in the language and conduct of the parties, as well as past dealings and trade practices [Com. Code § 2202]. Contract terms also include those provided by the Commercial Code such as open terms and implied warranties.

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 3, California Judicial Council Contracts Instructions]:

CACI No. 304 Oral or Written Contract Terms

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Commercial Law (UCC)General Provisions (Article 1)Definitions & InterpretationGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Form, Formation & ReadjustmentGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Form, Formation & ReadjustmentParol EvidenceGap-Filler Provisions

Irene Sall Holmes and Lock Holmes contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

63 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3H Matthew Bender Commercial Code Sales Contracts Instructions
PART A. DEFINITIONS FOR SALE OF GOODS CONTRACTS

2-3H California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300H.10

MB 300H.10 Good Faith Obligation

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Every contract for the sale of goods imposes an obligation to act in good faith in the performance and enforcement of the contract. Good faith means honesty in fact.

Authorities: Com. Code §§ 1201(a)(20), 1304.

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction contains the basic rule and definitions regarding good faith conduct. It should be used in conjunction with other instructions when good faith is an issue, such as in the instructions in MB 300H.110-MB 300H.126 regarding open terms. It applies except as otherwise provided in Com. Code § 5101 et seq. (governing letters of credit) [Com. Code § 1201(a)(20)].

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Good Faith Obligation: This could be an important instruction for the plaintiff. Many jurors are receptive to the argument that the law imposes a higher standard of good faith and fair dealing than the "morals of the market place." By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Explain Terms: A key here is making the jury understand the evidence related to "what is commercially reasonable." By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

This instruction is based on Com. Code §§ 1201(a)(20) and 1304.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)General Provisions (Article 1)Definitions & InterpretationGood FaithCommercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Subject MatterDefinitionsGeneral Overview

Irene Sall Holmes and Lock Holmes contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

64 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3H Matthew Bender Commercial Code Sales Contracts Instructions
PART A. DEFINITIONS FOR SALE OF GOODS CONTRACTS

2-3H California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300H.11

MB 300H.11 Course of Dealing Defined

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A "course of dealing" is a sequence of conduct concerning previous transactions between the parties that can be fairly regarded as establishing a common basis for the parties' understanding or interpretation of their expressions and other conduct in the context of _____ [specify transaction]. A course of dealing is relevant in ascertaining the meaning of the parties' agreement, gives meaning to specific terms of the agreement, and supplements or qualifies the terms of the parties' agreement.

Authorities: Com. Code § 1303(b), (d); Insurance Co. of North America v. NNR Aircargo Service (USA), Inc. (9th Cir. 2000) 201 F.3d 1111, 1113-1115 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when one of the parties relies on a course of dealing to supplement or interpret the terms of their agreement. Usage of trade is defined in MB 300H.12.

[3] Comment

This instruction is based on Com. Code § 1303(b), (d). An inference of the parties' common understanding that is based on a prior course of dealing is a question of fact [Insurance Co. of North America v. NNR Aircargo Service (USA), Inc. (9th Cir. 2000) 201 F.3d 1111, 1113]. One court has held that under former Com. Code § 1205(1) [now see Com. Code § 1303(b)] (amended and renumbered by Stats. 2006, ch. 254, § 23)], the receipt of 47 identical invoices for 47 separate transactions was sufficient to constitute a course of dealing, modifying a shipping agreement [Insurance Co. of North America v. NNR Aircargo Service (USA), Inc. (9th Cir. 2000) 201 F.3d 1111, 1113-1115].

Under Com. Code § 2202, a party may introduce extrinsic evidence of a course of dealing, course of performance, or usage of trade that supplements or explains, but does not contradict, the agreement of the parties. The express terms of an agreement and any applicable course of performance, course of dealing, and usage of trade must be construed whenever reasonable as consistent with each other. However, if such a construction is unreasonable, express terms prevail over course of performance, course of dealing, and usage of trade; course of performance prevails over course of dealing and usage of trade; and course of dealing prevails over usage of trade [Com. Code § 1303(e)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Commercial Law (UCC)General Provisions (Article 1)Definitions & InterpretationGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Form, Formation & ReadjustmentParol EvidenceGap-Filler Provisions

Irene Sall Holmes and Lock Holmes contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

65 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3H Matthew Bender Commercial Code Sales Contracts Instructions
PART A. DEFINITIONS FOR SALE OF GOODS CONTRACTS

2-3H California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300H.12

MB 300H.12 Usage of Trade Defined[1] Instruction[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

A "usage of trade" is any practice or method of dealing that is followed in a certain community, occupation, or trade regularly enough to justify an expectation that it will be observed with regard to this transaction. Whether such usage, and what is required by it, are questions of fact for you to decide based on the evidence in this case. A usage of trade gives particular meaning to and supplements or qualifies the terms of their agreement.

Plaintiff contends that _____ [specify usage of trade] is a usage of trade where _____ [location of performance]. If you find that Plaintiff has proved this usage of trade, and that Defendant had actual knowledge of it, or should have known about it because of its general application to _____ [specify business], then you must interpret the parties' agreement as including _____ [specify usage] but only with regard to the part of the agreement that required
Defendant's performance at _____ [location of performance].

Authorities: Com. Code § 1303(c), (d); Heggblade-Marguleas-Tenneco, Inc. v. Sunshine Biscuit, Inc. (1976) 59 Cal.App.3d 948, 956-958, 131 Cal.Rptr. 183 .

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when one of the parties contends a custom or usage of trade either supplements or interprets the parties' agreement. Additional instructions must be given when usage is embodied in a code of conduct or similar record.

The designation of the parties is for illustrative purposes only and should be changed if necessary.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Use Caution With "Usage of Trade" Argument:

Although "usage of trade" does not require universal acceptance, any variation in actual practices will make it difficult for a party to rely on this concept. Moreover, the more important the practice is to the lawsuit, the greater the argument becomes that if it is so important, why is it not spelled out in the contract? By Ronald Oster

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Go Over "Usage of Trade" With Jury: It is one thing for the jury to see and hear about the agreement in question. However, "usage of trade" is more vague and subjective. So, go over this phrase in some detail. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

This instruction is based on Com. Code § 1303(c), (d). Under Com. Code § 1303(c), if an applicable usage of trade is embodied in a trade code or similar record, the interpretation of the record is a question of law. The Code also requires a party intending to introduce evidence of a trade usage to give advance notice of the intention to the opposing party to avoid unfair surprise [Com. Code § 1303(g)].

Persons engaged in a particular trade are deemed to be aware of the prominent trade customs of that business or industry [Heggblade-Marguleas-Tenneco, Inc. v. Sunshine Biscuit, Inc. (1976) 59 Cal.App.3d 948, 956-957, 131 Cal.Rptr. 183].

The relationship between the express agreement, trade usage or custom, and course of dealing is discussed in MB 300H.11[3]. Trade usage or custom cannot supplant express contract terms but can qualify or supplement the contract, even a formal and final writing [U.C.C. Comment No. 1 to former Com. Code § 1205 (now see Com. Code § 1303)]. A trade usage need not be "ancient or immemorial" as a custom at common law, nor need it be universally observed; but it must have the requisite "regularity of observance" [U.C.C. Comment No. 5 to former Com. Code § 1205 (now see Com. Code § 1303)].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Commercial Law (UCC)General Provisions (Article 1)General OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)General Provisions (Article 1)Application & ConstructionGap-Filler ProvisionsCommercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Form, Formation & ReadjustmentParol EvidenceGap-Filler Provisions

Irene Sall Holmes and Lock Holmes contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

66 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3H Matthew Bender Commercial Code Sales Contracts Instructions
PART A. DEFINITIONS FOR SALE OF GOODS CONTRACTS

2-3H California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300H.13

MB 300H.13 Course of Performance Defined

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

Plaintiff contends that the meaning of the agreement between [him/her/it] and Defendant should be determined by the _____ [Plaintiff's or Defendant's] course of performance. "Course of performance" means any repeated performance under the agreement by one of the parties that is known to the other party and to which the other party had an opportunity to object. Any course of performance that is accepted or assented to without objection is relevant to determine the meaning of the parties' agreement and may supplement or modify that agreement. Therefore, if you find that _____ [Plaintiff or Defendant] was engaged in a course of performance, you must determine the meaning of the parties' agreement in light of that course of performance.

Authorities: Com. Code §§ 2202, 1303(a); U.C.C. Comment No. 2 to former Com. Code § 1205 (now see Com. Code § 1303).

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in connection with instructions that require the jury to interpret the conduct of the parties as that conduct may supplement, modify, or add meaning to their agreement, such as the instruction in MB 300H.61, on evidence supplementing and explaining terms, and the instruction in MB 300H.90, on interpretation of contract terms. The designation of the parties is for illustrative purposes only and should be changed if necessary.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Using Course of Performance Evidence:

"Course of performance" evidence can be useful in overcoming boilerplate contract language that the parties never followed before the present dispute arose. Note that such evidence is stronger than "usage of trade" evidence [see MB 300H.12] because "course of performance" can not only supplement but also

"modify" the parties' written agreement. By Ronald Oster

[3] Comment

This instruction is based on Com. Code § 2202 and Com. Code § 1303(a). The express terms of the contract must be construed consistently with any course of performance, course of dealing, or usage of trade whenever reasonable. However, when that construction is unreasonable, express terms prevail over course of performance, course of dealing, and usage of trade; course of performance prevails over course of dealing and usage of trade; and course of dealing prevails over usage of trade [Com. Code § 1303(e)].

A course of performance may also show a waiver or modification of any term inconsistent with the course of performance [see Com. Code § 1303(f)]. For example, a course of performance extending the time for performance has been held to constitute a waiver of a contract performance date [In re Humboldt Fir, Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1977) 426 F.Supp. 292, 297]. When it is difficult to distinguish between a course of performance amounting to a waiver versus a modification of the contract, the Code gives preference to a finding of waiver [U.C.C. Comment No. 3 to former Com. Code § 2208]. This interpretation is preferred because a waiver can be retracted pursuant to the provisions of Com. Code § 2209, whereas a modification by implied agreement must be mutually rescinded.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Commercial Law (UCC)General Provisions (Article 1)Application & ConstructionGap-Filler ProvisionsCommercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Form, Formation & ReadjustmentParol EvidenceGap-Filler ProvisionsCommercial Law (UCC)Sales (Article 2)Subject MatterDefinitionsGeneral Overview

Irene Sall Holmes and Lock Holmes contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

67 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3H Matthew Bender Commercial Code Sales Contracts Instructions PART A. DEFINITIONS FOR SALE OF GOODS CONTRACTS

2-3H California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300H.14

MB 300H.14 Definition of Reasonable Time

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

You must determine whether _____ [action taken] was done within a reasonable time. What is a reasonable time depends on the nature, purpose, and circumstances of the action.

Authority: Com. Code § 1205(a).

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used when there is an issue as to what is a reasonable time.

For related Judicial Council instructions, see [3][b], below.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Explain "Reasonable Time": The phrase "reasonable time" sounds understandable. But it must be explained in light of the "nature, purpose, and circumstances" of the particular lawsuit. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

[a] Reasonable Time

This instruction is based on Com. Code § 1205(a).

[b] Related Judicial Council Jury Instructions

The Judicial Council Jury Instructions contain the following instructions that pertain to topics covered in this section [see Ch. 12, California Judicial Council Products Liability Instructions]:

CACI No. 1243 Notification/Reasonable Time

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureTrialsJury TrialsJury InstructionsGeneral OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)General Provisions (Article 1)General OverviewCommercial Law (UCC)General Provisions (Article 1)Definitions & InterpretationReasonable Time & Seasonableness

Irene Sall Holmes and Lock Holmes contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction (Matthew Bender).

68 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3H Matthew Bender Commercial Code Sales Contracts Instructions PART A. DEFINITIONS FOR SALE OF GOODS CONTRACTS

2-3H California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300H.15

MB 300H.15 Definition of Seasonably

[1] Instruction

[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

An action is taken seasonably if it is taken at or within the time agreed. When no time is agreed on, an action is taken seasonably when it is taken within a reasonable time.

Authority: Com. Code § 1205(b).

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used whenever there is an issue as to whether a particular action was seasonably taken. The instruction should be accompanied by the instruction in MB 300H.14, defining "reasonable time."

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Explain "Seasonably": "Seasonably" is a strange word, especially in the context of this instruction. Hence, explain it. By Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

The definition of "seasonably" given in this instruction is based on the definition in Com. Code § 1205(b).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Trials Jury Trials Jury Instructions General Overview Commercial Law (UCC) General Provisions (Article 1) Definitions & Interpretation General Overview Commercial Law (UCC) Sales (Article 2) Performance General Overview

Irene Sall Holmes and Lock Holmes contributed to the original chapter for California Forms of Jury Instruction
(Matthew Bender).

69 of 188 DOCUMENTS

California Forms of Jury Instruction

Copyright © 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. All rights reserved. No copyright is claimed in the text of the Judicial Council jury instructions and verdict forms, directions for use, sources or authorities, or other Advisory Committee commentary, user's guide, life expectancy tables, disposition table, and tables of related instructions quoted in this work, which are included with the permission of the Judicial Council of California, or in the statutes, regulations, or excerpts from court opinions.

CHAPTER 3H Matthew Bender Commercial Code Sales Contracts Instructions
PART A. DEFINITIONS FOR SALE OF GOODS CONTRACTS

2-3H California Forms of Jury Instruction MB 300H.16

MB 300H.16 Notice of a Fact[1] Instruction[PLAINTIFF'S/DEFENDANT'S] PROPOSED INSTR. NO. _____

_____ [A person or An organization] had notice of a fact when:

1. [He/She/It] actually knew of the fact; or
2. [He/She/It] was notified of the fact; or
3. From all the circumstances known to [him/her/it] at the time in question, [he/she/it] had reason to know that the fact existed.

[OPTIONAL (See Use of Instruction)]

_____ [Name of entity's] notice or knowledge of a fact was effective for _____ [describe transaction] from the time it was brought to the attention of _____ [individual conducting transaction], or from the time the notice or knowledge would have been brought to the attention of _____ [individual conducting transaction] if _____ [name of entity] exercised due diligence. An organization exercises due diligence if it maintains reasonable routines for communicating significant information to the person conducting the transaction, and the organization reasonably complies with these routines. Due diligence does not require a particular individual working for the organization to communicate the notice, unless that communication is part of that individual's regular duties, or the individual has reason to know of the transaction and that the transaction would be significantly affected by the information.

Authority: Com. Code §§ 1201(a)(25), (27), 1202(a), (f).

[2] Use of Instruction

This instruction should be used in conjunction with instructions requiring notice of a fact by either party. If the giving of notice is an issue, MB 300H.17 and MB 300H.19 should be consulted. If receipt of notice is an issue, MB 300H.18 should be consulted.

The optional paragraph should be used with the basic instruction when the party alleged to have notice is not a natural person.

LexisNexis Matthew Bender Expert Practice Tip--Explain Instruction With Examples: This instruction will have to be explained with examples. It is not obvious from the instruction what the differences are between knowing a fact (Paragraph 1), being notified of a fact (Paragraph 2), and having reason to know that the fact existed (Paragraph 3). Further, the optional portion of the instruction seems too detailed. Consequently, if you use it, you should be careful how to structure the instruction itself and your related argument. By Ronald Oster and Rex Heeseman

[3] Comment

