This chapter discusses the issues that must be considered and resolved in connection with the issuance, offer, or sale of securities, with specific emphasis on nonpublic or closely held corporations. It focuses on the California and federal securities laws and the ways in which these laws can impact on the issuance and sale of corporate stock and other securities. It is intended to guide attorneys in structuring securities transactions in a manner that will be most appropriate to the goals of the client, by helping the attorney to balance the often-competing considerations of minimum regulatory involvement and maximum flexibility in offering and selling the securities.

The chapter is designed to assist practitioners in determining whether or not the California securities laws are applicable to a planned transaction. It addresses the issues of whether an instrument is classified as a "security" for purposes of the California securities laws [see § 6.11], whether or not a particular transaction involves an "offer" and/or "sale" [see § 6.12], and whether that transaction occurs "in California" [see § 6.13] for purposes of the securities laws.

The chapter contains a discussion of the National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996 [see § 6.15] and the effect of its preemption provisions on California regulation of securities transactions. It discusses the various exemptions from qualification that exist under the California securities laws [see § 6.30], and focuses on some of the more commonly used exemptions in connection with nonpublic offerings by California corporations, and the considerations involved in selecting the exemption best suited to a particular transaction [see §§ 6.31-6.34]. Finally, it discusses the basic nature of the qualification process, the several methods of qualification available, and the distinguishing features of each [see §§ 6.40-6.42].

The Legal Background includes a basic discussion of the federal laws governing securities transactions [see § 6.50], explains how these laws operate, and compares them to analogous provisions of California law. The federal exemptions under Regulation D, Regulation A, and SEC Rule 147 are explained [see §§ 6.51-6.58].

The forms include a table containing a complete list of all the California statutory exemptions from qualification [see § 6.200], and a chart comparing the requirements of the most commonly used California and federal exemptions [see §

6.201]. A worksheet is also included [see § 6.210], along with a form requesting an interpretive opinion from the Commissioner of Corporations [see § 6.230] and forms relating to some exemptions not discussed elsewhere in this publication [see §§ 6.231, 6.232].

Other chapters in this publication contain in-depth coverage of some of the exemptions and qualification requirements introduced in this chapter:

- For detailed discussion of the federal securities exemptions, see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations .

- For detailed discussion of the California limited offering exemptions, see Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions .

- For detailed discussion of the California small offering exemption, see Ch. 6C, California Small Offering Exemption .

- For detailed coverage of the California institutional investor and qualified purchaser exemptions, see Ch. 6D, California Qualified Purchaser Exemptions .

The issuance of securities is discussed in Ch. 6I, Issuance of Equity Securities , and Ch. 6J, Issuance of Debt Securities , respectively.

§ 6.10 Nature and Effect of Securities Laws

[1] Basic Issues in Securities Transactions

Two basic types of issues arise in connection with the issuance, offer, and sale of interests in corporations and other business entities:

- First, issues related to the mechanics of issuance and the rights, privileges, and obligations of the holder of the interest in relation to the entity and the holders of other interests in the entity. These issues are discussed in Ch. 6I, Issuance of Equity Securities , and Ch. 6J, Issuance of Debt Securities .

- Second, issues relating to government regulation of the interests. These issues are discussed in this chapter and in Chapters 6A through 6H of this publication.

[2] Securities Regulation in the United States

Laws regulating the offer and sale of interests in corporations and other business entities have been enacted by the federal government as well as all states, the District of Columbia, Guam, and Puerto Rico. These laws are known generically as the "securities laws," and they are applicable not merely to corporate shares and similar interests, but to any interest falling within the definition of a "security," as discussed in § 6.11. The definition of a "security," which may vary slightly from one statute to the next, generally is broad enough to encompass a wide variety of interests. Securities laws regulate the offer, subscription, sale, transfer and issuance of shares of stock and other securities by corporations, associations, business trusts, public partnerships, and joint stock companies, and even by individuals in some cases.

Securities laws other than those enacted by the federal government are commonly known as "blue sky laws." The term "blue sky laws" comes from an early judicial opinion, rendered prior to the enactment of the federal securities laws, that described the purpose of state regulations as the prevention of "speculative schemes which have no more basis than so many feet of blue sky" [Hall v. Geiger-Jones Co. (1917) 242 U.S. 539, 550, 37 S. Ct. 217, 61 L. Ed. 480] .

Securities laws have been enacted to protect the public against the imposition of insubstantial, unlawful, and fraudulent stock and investment schemes, and to promote full disclosure of all information necessary to enable investors to make informed and intelligent investment decisions [see People v. Figueroa (1986) 41 Cal. 3d 714, 736, 224 Cal. Rptr. 719, 715 P.2d 680 ; see also Diamond Multimedia Systems, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 19 Cal. 4th 1036, 1064, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 828, 968 P.2d 539 , cert. denied, 119 S. Ct. 2338 (out-of-state purchasers/sellers of securities whose price has been affected by unlawful market manipulation under Corp. Code § 25400 may avail themselves of Corp. Code § 25500 remedy, which is not limited to transactions made in California); Moreland v. Department of Corporations (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 506, 512, 239 Cal. Rptr. 558] .

[3] California Securities Laws

In California, offers and sales of securities are governed by the Corporate Securities Law of 1968 [Corp. Code § 25000 et seq.], supplemented by the rules of the Commissioner of Corporations [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.000 et seq.]. Additional guidance is periodically provided by the Commissioner in releases and in interpretive opinions. The Corporate Securities Law governs issuer transactions, nonissuer transactions, recapitalizations and reorganizations, and exchanges of securities (including changes in the terms of outstanding securities that may be treated as a securities exchange).

The Corporate Securities Law requires that securities must be "qualified" with the Commissioner of Corporations prior to being offered or sold in California, unless they are exempt from the statutory qualification requirements [Corp. Code § 25110]. "Qualification" is essentially a process by which the security in question is reviewed by the Commissioner and approved for offer and sale in California. The California Corporate Securities Law of 1968 is a "merit statute" that regulates the offer and sale of securities by applying a "fair, just and equitable" standard [see Corp. Code § 25140 (authority of Commissioner)].

It is unlawful to offer or sell securities that have not been qualified or exempted from qualification, or that are offered or sold in a manner that varies or differs from a material condition of the qualification [Corp. Code § 25110]. It is unlawful willfully to make any untrue statement of a material fact in any application, notice, or report filed with the Commissioner, or in any offering document, or willfully to omit to state any material fact that is required to be stated in any application, notice, report, or offering document [Corp. Code §§ 25166, 25401; see also Small v. Fritz Companies, Inc. (2003) 30 Cal. 4th 167, 171, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 490 (plaintiff may bring "holder's action"--cause of action by persons wrongfully induced to hold stock--for fraud or negligent misrepresentation; cause of action limited to stockholders who can make bona fide showing of actual reliance on misrepresentation); Murphy v. BDO Seidman, LLP (2003) 113 Cal. App. 4th 687 (citing Small and following its new pleading rule for plaintiffs relying on forbearance theory)].

The regulation of certain types of securities and securities transactions have been preempted by federal law, and the California securities laws have only limited application to those transactions. Federal preemption is discussed in greater detail in § 6.15.

[4] Federal Securities Laws

The two principal federal securities laws are the Securities Act of 1933 [see 15 U.S.C. § 77a et seq.] ("Securities Act") and the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [see 15 U.S.C. § 78a et seq.] ("Securities Exchange Act"). The federal Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) enforces and interprets these laws.

The Securities Act is a "disclosure law" rather than a "merit law." It generally requires a corporation, when undertaking to sell its securities, to give potential investors full disclosure of all material facts--facts that investors would find important in making an investment decision [see 15 U.S.C. § 77j (information required in prospectus)]. The Act also requires the corporation to file a registration statement with the SEC that includes information for investors [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 77e, 77f]. The SEC does not evaluate the merits of offerings or determine whether the securities offered are good investments. The SEC's staff only reviews a registration statement and declares it "effective" if it satisfies the Act's disclosure requirements. The Securities Act contains numerous exemptions from the registration requirement.

PRACTICE TIP:

SEC disclosure requirements may, however, impact the business of the issuer. For instance, financial statements must be prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and Regulation S-X [17 C.F.R. § 210.1-01 et seq.] and must be audited. These requirements may alter the manner in which the company has previously prepared its financial statements. As a result, the company may find that its revenues, earnings and assets are reduced or its liabilities increased. A company may also prefer to alter certain of its business practices regarding compensation of officers and directors, affiliate transactions or other matters rather than disclose these practices. A company may also be concerned about disclosure of sensitive business information which it believes may be of value to its competitors. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

Under the Exchange Act, a corporation that has not filed a registration statement under the Securities Act must file an Exchange Act registration statement if and when one of these conditions is satisfied:

- The corporation's securities become exchange-listed [see 15 U.S.C. § 78l(b)].

- The corporation has a class of equity securities with 500 or more shareholders and has total assets exceeding $1 million at the end of its last two fiscal years, or a class of equity securities with 750 or more shareholders and has total assets exceeding $1 million at the end of its last fiscal year [see 15 U.S.C. § 78l(g); 17 C.F.R. § 240.12g-1].

A corporation that has filed an Exchange Act registration statement is subject to reporting requirements [see 15 U.S.C. § 78m] and is commonly known as a reporting company. Major shareholders, officers, and directors of the corporation also may be subject to reporting requirements [see 15 U.S.C. § 78m(d)]. In addition, the corporation will be subject to regulatory oversight of proxies and tender offers. Because the Exchange Act registration provisions are applicable only to large, publicly held corporations, ordinarily they do not figure into the planning for close or closely held corporations in California.

All securities transactions, even exempt transactions, are subject to the antifraud provisions of the federal securities laws, such as Section 17(a) of the Securities Act [15 U.S.C. § 77q(a)], Section 10(b) of the Exchange Act [15 U.S.C. § 78j(b)], and Rule 10b-5 [17 C.F.R. § 240.10b-5]. The corporation and responsible individuals will be liable for false or misleading statements, whether oral or written. The SEC and other agencies can enforce the antifraud provisions through criminal, civil, and administrative proceedings. Enforcement also may be pursued through private lawsuits. Unless all conditions of an exemption are met, the buyers of the securities may be able to obtain rescission and restitution.

The Securities Act is discussed in greater detail in §§ 6.50-6.58. For more detailed discussion of the federal securities laws, federal exemptions from registration that are typically used by nonpublic corporations in California and elsewhere, and coordination of California and federal exemption requirements, see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations .

[5] Evaluating Application of Securities Laws

A party that is planning to offer or sell business or investment interests in California must determine whether, and the extent to which, the California and federal securities laws apply to the transaction. Basically, the process of determination involves the following issues, which are discussed in greater detail throughout this chapter:

- Is the interest in question a "security" [see §§ 6.11, 6.110]?
- Will there be an "offer" or "sale" for value [see §§ 6.12, 6.111]?
- Will the offer and sale be made in California [see §§ 6.13, 6.112]?
- Are any exemptions from qualification available [see §§ 6.30, 6.115, 6.116]?
- If qualification is required, what must be done to qualify the offering [see §§ 6.40-6.42, 6.118; see also Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities]?
- How will this transaction be treated under the federal securities laws [see §§ 6.50-6.58]?

§ 6.11 What Constitutes a "Security"

[1] Statutory Definition

The definition of "security" under California law is fairly broad. Corp. Code § 25019 lists numerous instruments, financial arrangements, and transactions that constitute securities. Corp. Code § 25019 defines "security" to mean any of the following, whether or not evidenced by a written instrument [Corp. Code § 25019]:

- Any note.
- Stock, including treasury stock.
- Membership in an incorporated or unincorporated association.
- Bond, debenture, or evidence of indebtedness.
- Certificate of interest or participation in any profit-sharing agreement.
- Collateral trust certificate.
- Preorganization certificate or subscription.
- Transferable share.
- Investment contract.
- Viatical settlement contract [see Corp. Code § 25023 (definition); see also § 6.110[1][m]] or fractionalized or pooled interest therein.

- Life settlement contract or fractionalized or pooled interest therein [see Corp. Code § 25023 (definition); see also § 6.110[1][n]].

- Voting trust certificate.

- Certificate of deposit for a security.

- Interest in a limited liability company and any class or series of such an interest, including any fractional or other interest, except a membership interest in a limited liability company in which all of the members are actively engaged in the management of the limited liability company (evidence of the right to vote without more does not establish that all members are actively engaged in the management of the company) [see Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies].

PRACTICE TIP:
The determination of whether a limited liability company interest is a security is similar to the determination of whether a general partnership or joint venture interest is a security. Interpretive opinions in the joint venture or general partnership area may therefore be useful in helping counsel making this determination. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

- Certificate of interest or participation in an oil, gas, or mining title or lease or in payments out of production under such a title or lease.

- Any put, call, straddle, option, or privilege on any security, certificate of deposit, or group or index of securities, including any interest in any of these or any interest based on their value.

- Any put, call, straddle, option, or privilege entered into on a national securities exchange relating to foreign currency.

- Any beneficial interest or other security issued in connection with a funded employee's pension, profit-sharing, stock bonus, or similar benefit plan.

- In general, any interest or instrument commonly known as a security.

- Any certificate of interest or participation in, temporary or interim certificate for, receipt for, guarantee of, or warrant or right to subscribe to or purchase any of the foregoing.

The statutory list is illustrative rather than all-inclusive [see People v. Syde (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 765, 768, 235 P.2d 601] .

[2] Judicial Rules Applicable to Transactions Not Specifically Listed in Statute

Whether or not a financial arrangement or transaction not listed in Corp. Code § 25019 involves securities is a question of fact that must be determined on a case-by-case basis [People v. Figueroa (1986) 41 Cal. 3d 714, 736, 224 Cal. Rptr. 719, 715 P.2d 680 ; Moreland v. Department of Corporations (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 506, 512, 239 Cal. Rptr. 558] . To determine whether or not securities are involved, courts ask whether the arrangement in question comes within the regulatory purpose of the Corporate Securities Act: to protect the public against "spurious schemes" to attract capital [Silver Hills Country Club v. Sobieski (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 811, 814, 13 Cal. Rptr. 186, 361 P.2d 906] . Courts use two tests to answer this question: the "risked capital" test and the "common enterprise" test:

- Under the "risked capital" test, a security is found whenever capital is sought from third parties to be risked in the start-up of a business venture for profit [see Silver Hills Country Club v. Sobieski (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 811, 815, 13 Cal. Rptr. 186, 361 P.2d 906 ; People v. Wind River Mining Project (1990) 219 Cal. App. 3d 1390, 1399-1400, 269 Cal. Rptr. 106] .

- Under the "common enterprise" test, adopted from the test used under federal law to determine whether a transaction constitutes an investment contract, a security will be found when a person has invested value in a "common enterprise" with an expectation of profit to be derived from the substantial efforts of others [see Moreland v. Department of Corporations (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 506, 513-519, 239 Cal. Rptr. 558 (applying Securities & Exch. Com. v. Howey Co. (1946) 328 U.S. 293, 301, 66 S. Ct. 1100, 90 L. Ed. 1244)].

Both tests have been applied, either separately or together, by California courts in making the factual determination of whether a particular transaction is a security under Corp. Code § 25019 [Reiswig v. Department of Corps. (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 327, 333-342, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 386 (bait-and-switch scheme offering above-market interest on bank-issued CDs, which was used by life insurance seller to lure potential buyers of annuities, was not a security and scheme was not subject to regulatory power of Department of Corporations, although Department of Insurance might have regulatory oversight); Moreland v. Department of Corporations (1987) 194 Cal. App. 3d 506, 513, 239 Cal. Rptr. 558] .

[3] Specific Transactions

[a] Promissory Notes and Evidences of Indebtedness

Although Corp. Code § 25019 provides that a security includes "any note," courts have held that not all notes or evidences of indebtedness are securities. If a note is one for which the purchaser has only the right to expect payment of principal and interest according to the terms of the note, and has no expectation of profit otherwise, the note is not a security [People v. Davenport (1939) 13 Cal. 2d 681, 685, 690, 91 P.2d 892] . On the other hand, if the note is given in consideration of risk capital, is inadequately secured, and repayment of the debt is dependent on the success of the enterprise, the debt is a security [People v. Figueroa (1986) 41 Cal. 3d 714, 735-738, 224 Cal. Rptr. 719, 715 P.2d 680] .

PRACTICE TIP:

The term "evidence of indebtedness" is quite expansive and may encompass arrangements that may not be easily recognized by laymen as involving the issuance of securities. A common problem area involves employee compensation arrangements, such as deferred compensation plans and employee bonus arrangements based on the earnings of a corporation or unit for periods longer than a year. The Commissioner has issued numerous interpretive opinions in this area that should be reviewed by counsel preparing these types of plans. Compensation plans that do not involve the issuance of a security under federal law may nevertheless involve the issuance of a security under California law since the Commissioner interprets the term "security" and offer or sale "for value" much more broadly than the SEC. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

[b] General Partnership and Joint Venture Interests

The definition of a "security" in Corp. Code § 25019 does not specifically include a partnership interest. Courts have held that a bona fide general partnership or joint venture interest is not a "security" within the regulatory purpose of the statute [see People v. Feno (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 719, 725-726, 201 Cal. Rptr. 513] . The legal right of the general partner directly to exercise control over the operations of the business has been considered to negate the existence of any security within the regulatory purposes of the Corporate Securities Law. A general partnership interest, however, may constitute a security if the actual arrangement is such that the general partners are merely passive investors and the direction and control of the enterprise is concentrated in the hands of only one or a few of the ostensible general partners, the interest of the other partners may be a "security" within the regulatory purpose of the statute [see Goldberg v. Paramount Oil Co. (1956) 143 Cal. App. 2d 215, 222, 300 P.2d 329] .

One of the tests for determining whether a partnership interest or joint venture interest is actually a security is to inquire whether the purported partner or venturer is so inexperienced and unknowledgeable in business affairs as to be incapable of intelligently exercising real partnership or venture powers, that is, incapable of participating in any meaningful way except as a passive investor. The leading case on when a general partnership interest or joint venture interest constitutes a security is a Fifth Circuit case [Williamson v. Tucker (5th Cir. 1981) 645 F.2d 404] , under which the scope of that inquiry relates specifically to the nature of the partnership or joint venture. The question would be whether the purported partners or venturers have experience in the particular kinds of business affairs in which the partnership or joint venture is to be engaged. If so, the partnership interests or joint venture interests probably are genuine; if not, they probably are securities. This approach has been used by a court of appeal in California [Consolidated Management Group, LLC v. Department of Corps. (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 598, 610-612, 75 Cal. Rptr. 3d 795] . The court acknowledged but rejected the Ninth Circuit's preference for finding a genuine partnership or joint venture when the purported partners or venturers merely have experience in business affairs generally. The Ninth Circuit holds that it is not proper to inquire whether the purported partners or joint venturers are "experienced and sophisticated in the particular industry or area" in which the partnership or joint venture is to be engaged [Holden v. Hagopian (9th Cir. 1992) 978 F.2d 1115, 1121] . In the California court's view, however, the Fifth Circuit standard is consonant with the remedial purpose of the securities laws and takes into account the reality that general business sophistication does not necessarily equip an investor to manage a specialized enterprise [Consolidated Management Group, LLC v. Department of Corps. (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 598, 612, 75 Cal. Rptr. 3d 795] .

[c] Limited Partnership Interests

Limited partnership agreements ordinarily will be securities, despite the fact that they are not specifically mentioned in Corp. Code § 25019. Under California law, an investment may constitute a security notwithstanding that investor participation is contemplated or required, as long as the investor is not involvedin "those essential managerial efforts which affect the failure or success of the enterprise." Under Corp. Code §§ 15632 (CRLPA), 15903.03 (ULPA '08), a limited partner cannot maintain limited partner status and at the same time exercise managerial control over the partnership; thus a true limited partnership interest, by definition, satisfies this "nocontrol" requirement [People v. Graham (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 1159, 1168-1169, 210 Cal. Rptr. 318 (decided under Corp. Code § 15507 (ULPA); see now Corp. Code § 15903.03 (ULPA '08)); accord, SEC v. Glenn W. Turner Enters., Inc. (9th Cir. 1973) 474 F.2d 476, 482] . For additional discussion of limited partnership interests as securities, see Ch. 16, Formation of Limited Partnerships .

[4] Statutory Exclusions to Definition of "Security"

By statute, the term "security" specifically excludes the following [Corp. Code § 25019]:

- Any beneficial interest in any voluntary inter vivos trust that is not created for the purpose of carrying on any business or solely for the purpose of voting [see also 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.019.1, 260.019.2; Commissioner's Opinion No. 06/1C (June 2, 2006)(concluding that certain beneficial interests in trusts were not securities under this exclusion)].

- Any beneficial interest in any testamentary trust.

- Any insurance or endowment policy or annuity contract under which an insurance company admitted in California promises to pay a sum of money (whether or not based on the investment performance of a segregated fund) either in a lump sum or periodically for life or some other specified period.

- Any franchise subject to registration under the Franchise Investment Law [Corp. Code § 31000 et seq.], or exempted from registration under that law by Corp. Code § 31100 or 31101.

- Discretionary accounts maintained with a commodity broker for trading in commodities or commodities' futures [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.019].

[1] Offers

Offers to sell and sales of securities in California must be qualified unless the security or the transaction is exempt or not subject to qualification [Corp. Code § 25110].

The meaning of "offer" in the Corporate Securities Law is much broader than that term in the usual contract sense. An offer, or offer to sell, includes every attempt or offer to dispose of, or solicitation of an offer to buy a security or interest therein for value [Corp. Code § 25017(b)]. The meaning of "offer" as defined under this section is limited to offers to sell and does not include offers to buy. The definition of "offer" does not encompass mere business conversations preliminary to any fixed plan that have not proceeded beyond an exchange of views or general discussion of a plan of organization [Commissioner's Opinion No. 76/13C; see also Commissioner's Opinion No. 81/10C].

Because the term "offer" is so broadly defined, Corp. Code § 25102(a) expressly exempts from qualification those offers that are not made to the public [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.1 for the definition of a public offering].

The terms "sale" or "sell" include the following [Corp. Code § 25017(a)]:

- Every contract of sale of, contract to sell, or disposition of, a security or interest in a security for value.

- An exchange of securities.

- Any change in the rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on outstanding securities. The adoption, modification or termination of a shareholders' agreement and changes in close corporation status will generally involve a change in the rights, preferences and privileges of outstanding securities [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.017.2, 260.017.3].

PRACTICE TIP:

The issuance of a new series of common or preferred stock may affect the rights, preferences and privileges of outstanding stock if the new series will have a preference over the existing securities, will dilute the voting rights of existing securities, or may otherwise adversely affect the rights of existing security holders. This type of transaction, however, is not required to be qualified as a reorganization or recapitalization. The issuance of the new security will still, of course, be subject to the provisions of either Corp. Code § 25110 or 25120 [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.103.1]. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

[3] Specific Transactions

The following transactions constitute an offer or sale:

- Any security given or delivered with, or as a bonus on account of, any purchase of securities or any other thing [Corp. Code § 25017(c)].

- A purported gift of assessable stock [Corp. Code § 25017(d)].

- A sale or offer of a warrant or right to purchase or subscribe to another security of the same or another issuer [Corp. Code § 25017(e)].

- A sale or offer of a security that gives the holder a present or future right or privilege to convert the security into another security of the same or another issuer includes an offer and sale of the other security (at the time of the offer or sale of the convertible security) [Corp. Code § 25017(e)].

PRACTICE TIP:

A "gift" of stock by an employer as an inducement for a person to become an employee or to remain an employee of a corporation will be considered to be an offer or sale of a security "for value" even if the stock is non-assessable. In the Commissioner's view, value is given by the employee by virtue of the employee's decision to remain or to become an employee of the corporation. Other "gifts" of stock may also be considered to be "for value," particularly if a number of "gifts" of stock are given and the stock is thereafter freely traded to others. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

No qualification is required, however, at the time the right to purchase, to subscribe, or to convert is exercised, or at the time securities are issued on conversion [Corp. Code § 25017(e)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Most state blue sky laws are the same as California in this regard. However, under federal law, the sale of the underlying security will be made at the time the right to purchase or the right to convert is exercised. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

[4] Exclusions

The statutory definition of "offer" or "sale" does not include the following [Corp. Code § 25017(f)]:

- A bona fide secured transaction in or loan of outstanding securities.

- Any stock dividend payable with respect to common stock of a corporation solely (except for any cash or scrip paid for fractional shares) in shares of the common stock if the corporation has no other class of voting stock outstanding. The term "stock dividend" means the issuance of additional shares of the issuer to its existing shareholders, or to the shareholders of a class, pro rata according to the shares held, except for the payment of cash or the issuance of script in lieu of the issuance of fractional shares, without consideration other than the transfer from surplus to stated capital of an amount equal to or greater than the par, stated, or market value of the shares distributed, and not by an amendment to the articles of incorporation stating the effect on outstanding shares. The term "stock dividend" does not include a "stock split" [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.017(a)]. The term "stock split" or "reverse stock split" means the subdivision or combination of previously outstanding shares of stock (whether or not including authorized and unissued shares) into a greater or lesser number of shares of the same class, effected by an amendment to the company's articles of incorporation [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.103]. A stock dividend is not payable solely in shares of common stock within the meaning of Corp. Code § 25017(f) when the shareholders are given an option to accept either cash or common stock [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.017(b)]. Nor is a stock dividend payable solely in common stock if the corporation has no other class of voting securities outstanding unless the dividend is payable solely in shares of voting common stock and that voting common stock is of the same class as the class on which the dividend is paid [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.017(c)].

PRACTICE TIP:

It is recommended that counsel consult with the issuer's accountants in making the determination that a particular transaction involves the issuance of a stock dividend rather than a stock split. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

- Any act incident to a transaction or reorganization approved by a state or federal court in which securities are issued and exchanged for one or more outstanding securities, claims or property interests, or partly for an exchange and partly for cash.

- The exercise of the right to purchase or subscribe or convert securities nor the issuance of securities pursuant thereto [Corp. Code § 25017(e)].

- The transfer of corporate stock as part of the division of community property in a divorce settlement [see D'Elia v. D'Elia (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 415, 423-426, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 324] .

§ 6.13 What Constitutes Offer or Sale "In This State"

[1] Offers and Sales in California

Only offers to sell and sales occurring in California must be qualified [Corp. Code § 25110]. An offer or a sale of a security is made in California when any of the following occur [Corp. Code § 25008]:

- An offer to sell is made or originates in California.
- An offer to sell is accepted in California [see [3], below].
- An offer to buy is accepted in California [see [2], below].
- The security is delivered to the purchaser in California and both the seller and the purchaser are domiciled in California [see [4], below].
- The offer is directed to California and is received at the place in California to which it was directed.

[2] Offers to Buy in California

Although only offers to sell and sales in California must be qualified, offers to buy made in California may still be the basis for liability for misrepresentation. An offer to buy in California is made in California when any of the following occur [Corp. Code § 25008]:

- An offer to buy is made in California.
- An offer originates from California.

- An offer is directed by the offeror to California and is received at the place to which directed.

[3] Accepted Offers

An offer to buy or sell is accepted in California when acceptance is communicated to the offeror there. Acceptance is communicated to an offeror in California when the offeree directs it to the offeror there reasonably believing the offeror to be in California and the offer is received at the place to which it is directed [Corp. Code § 25008(b)].

[4] Delivery of Securities

A security is delivered to a purchaser in California when the certificate or other evidence of the security is directed to the purchaser there and received at the place to which it is directed [Corp. Code § 25008(b)].

[5] Offers Deemed Not Made in California

An offer to sell or buy is not made in California merely because of the following [Corp. Code § 25008(c)]:

- The publisher circulates or there is circulated on the publisher's behalf in California any bona fide newspaper or other publication of general, regular, and paid circulation that has had more than two thirds of its circulation during the past twelve months outside of California; or

- A radio or television program originating outside California is received in California.

[6] Offers Made on the Internet

Offers of securities made by, or on behalf of, issuers on or through the Internet are exempt from qualification under Corp. Code § 25110 if all of the following conditions are met [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 100-C (Nov. 5, 1996)]:

- The internet offer originates outside California.

- The offer indicates, directly or indirectly, that the securities are not being offered or sold to California residents.

- The offer is not directed to anyone in California.

PRACTICE TIP:
Internet offerings will, of course, affect the availability of exemptions that may be used. For example, the Corp. Code §§ 25102(e), (f), (h), 25102.1(d) exemptions would not available since there will have been the publication of an advertisement. The availability of Corp. Code § 25102(n) may also be affected if the general announcement standards have not been met [see Commissioner's Opinion No. 96/2C (use of internet in Corp. Code § 25102(n) transactions)]. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

- No sales of the issuer's securities will be made in California as a result of the offer without prior qualification and delivery of an appropriate prospectus, unless the security or sale is exempt.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Scope of California Regulation

3-6 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 6.14

AUTHOR: Marilyn Minger Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6.14 Types of Regulated Transactions

[1] Importance of Distinctions

The Corporate Securities law regulates all offers and sales of securities in California, whether the offer and sale is made by the issuer of the securities, or by a nonissuer. However, the distinction between issuer and nonissuer transactions can be significant for determining the available forms of qualification, and the availability of specific exemptions from qualification.

[2] Issuers and Issuer Transactions

An "issuer" is any person who issues or proposes to issue any security [Corp. Code § 25010]. Corp. Code § 25110 et seq. set forth the qualification requirements for issuer transactions.

[3] Nonissuer Transactions

A "nonissuer transaction" is one that does not directly or indirectly benefit the issuer [Corp. Code § 25011]. A transaction is indirectly for the benefit of the issuer if any portion of the purchase price of any security involved in the transaction will be received indirectly by the issuer [Corp. Code § 25011]. The term "purchase price" as used in Corp. Code § 25011 does not include any remote, contingent, or incidental benefit that may accrue to the issuer, such as the inducement to a person to become or remain an employee of the issuer or perform other services for the issuer, even though a motive of the seller or the purchaser is to obtain that remote, contingent, or incidental benefit for the issuer. Corp. Code § 25130 et seq. set forth the requirements for qualification for nonissuer transactions.

When a transaction involves both an issuer transaction and a nonissuer transaction, it is treated as an issuer transaction for purposes of the California qualification requirements [Corp. Code § 25011; see Corp. Code §§ 25110 et seq., 25130 et seq.]. However, it is treated as two separate transactions for purposes of the California exemptions [Corp. Code § 25011; see Corp. Code § 25100 et seq. (exemptions)].

The Corporate Securities Law also applies to changes in the rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on outstanding securities or in any exchange of securities by the issuer with its existing security holders exclusively, in any exchange in connection with any merger or consolidation or purchase of assets in consideration wholly or in part of the issuance of securities, or in any entity conversion transaction (as defined in Corp. Code § 25005.1) [Corp. Code § 25120]. Corp. Code § 25120 et seq. set forth the requirements for qualification for transactions involving recapitalizations and reorganizations.

[1] National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996

The National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996 (NSMIA) [Pub. L. No. 104-290, 110 Stat. 3416 (H.R. 3005)], which was signed into law on October 11, 1996, made significant changes to the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77a et seq.], the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [15 U.S.C. § 78a et seq.], the Investment Company Act of 1940 [15 U.S.C. § 80a-1 et seq.], and the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 [15 U.S.C. § 80b-1 et seq.]. Most significant to California practice is NSMIA's prohibition on state regulation of certain issuers and transactions, by means of federal preemption, in many areas of securities regulation that formerly were subject to dual regulation by the states under blue sky laws and by the SEC or other federal agencies. An attorney must now take NSMIA into account when determining whether a proposed transaction is subject to the qualification provisions of the Corporate Securities Law. In many cases NSMIA will effectively eliminate applicability of the California qualification and exemption requirements in situations in which those requirements would otherwise apply.

Section 18 of the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77r], as amended by NSMIA, provides that if the security in question is a "covered security" [see [5], below], no state may prohibit an offering or sale in the state, impose additional disclosure requirements, impose "merit" standards, require the registration or qualification of a security or transaction, or prohibit or limit the use of any offering document prepared on behalf of the issuer in an offering (including proxy statements and reports to shareholders required to be filed under Section 15A of the Exchange Act [15 U.S.C. § 78o-3] unless the issuer is incorporated in the state) [15 U.S.C. § 77r(a)]. However, as discussed in [4][b], below, the states may continue to impose notice filing requirements and filing fees unless the securities are listed on a national exchange, and to investigate and bring enforcement actions for fraud or unlawful conduct by a broker and dealer.

For extensive coverage of the Act and its interaction with California securities laws, see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 3A, Federal Preemption of State Securities Regulation (Matthew Bender).

[3] California Response and Implementation

California has incorporated the federal preemption provisions into the Corporations Code in the form of Corp. Code §§ 25100.1, 25101.1, and 25102.1. These sections provide in essence that those categories of securities preempted by the federal legislation are "not subject to," as opposed to "exempt from," the California qualification requirements. As noted in [4][b], below, however, California does impose notice filing requirements that are permissible under NSMIA. For more detailed discussion of these notice filing requirements, see § 6.141.

[a] Fraud Enforcement Actions

Notwithstanding the preemption of state regulation of securities offerings by NSMIA, the securities commission of any state retains jurisdiction under the laws of that state to investigate and bring enforcement actions with respect to fraud or deceit, or unlawful conduct by a broker or dealer, in connection with securities or securities transactions [15 U.S.C. § 77r(c)(1)].

Furthermore, notwithstanding the limitations on covered class actions based on state law brought by private parties alleging fraud in connection with the purchase or sale of a "covered security" [see Securities Litigation Uniform Standards Act of 1998, Pub. L. No. 105-353, 112 Stat. 3227 (S. 1260), effective Nov. 3, 1998; 15 U.S.C. §§ 77p, 78bb(f); see, e.g., Patenaude v. Equitable Life (9th Cir. 2002) 290 F.3d 1020, 1022 (removal and dismissal of state court class action held proper under SLUSA; tax-deferred variable annuities were covered securities under that act)], a state, political subdivision, or state pension plan may bring an action involving a covered security on its own behalf, or as a member of a class comprised solely of other states, political subdivisions, or state pension plans that are named plaintiffs and have authorized participation in such an action [15 U.S.C. §§ 77p(d)(2), 78bb(f)(3)(B); see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 21, Corporate Securities (Matthew Bender)].

[b] Notice Filing Requirements

NSMIA [15 U.S.C. § 77r] does not prohibit state securities regulators from requiring the filing of any document filed with the SEC pursuant to the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77a et seq.], together with annual or periodic reports of the value of securities sold or offered to be sold to persons located in the state (if that sales data is not included in documents filed with the Commission), solely for notice purposes, and the assessment of any fee, together with a consent to service of process and any required fee, unless the security is listed on a national securities exchange [15 U.S.C. § 77r(c)(2)(A)].

The states may continue to collect filing or registration fees with respect to securities or securities transactions (except for listed or to be listed securities and securities senior to them [15 U.S.C. § 77r(c)(2)(B)]) in amounts determined under state law as in effect on the day before October 11, 1996. Those fees will be paid, and all necessary supporting data on sales or offers for sales permitted as described above, will be reported on the same schedule that would have been applicable had the issuer not relied on the exemption provided for covered securities [15 U.S.C. § 77r(c)(2)(B)(ii)].

No filing or fee may be required with respect to any security that is a listed security and therefore a "covered security" [see 15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)] or will be a covered security upon completion of the transaction, or is a security of the same issuer that is equal in seniority or is a senior security to such a listed security [15 U.S.C. § 77r(c)(2)(D)]. No such fee is presently required under California law, so this provision would only apply prospectively if California attempted to impose such a fee in this situation.

Nothing in NSMIA prohibits any state securities commission or similar agency from suspending the offer or sale of securities within the state as a result of the failure to submit any filing or fee required under law and permitted under NSMIA [15 U.S.C. § 77r(c)(3)].

For a guide to the applicable California notice requirements and fees relating to offerings preempted by NSMIA, see § 6.141.

[5] Definition of "Covered Security"

[a] Nationally Traded Securities

Any security that is listed, or authorized for listing, on the New York Stock Exchange or the American Stock Exchange, on the National Market System of the NASDAQ Stock Market (or any other successor to those entities), or on a national securities exchange that has listing standards that the Securities Exchange Commission determines by rule are substantially similar to the listing standards applicable to those of the New York Stock Exchange, the American Stock Exchange or NASDAQ, is a "covered security" for purposes of NSMIA. A security of the same issuer that is equal in seniority or is a senior security [see 15 U.S.C. § 77r(d)(4) (definition)] to the securities just described is also a "covered security" [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(1)]. Equity securities senior to securities exempt under California's listing exemption have been exempted from qualification by rule of the Commissioner [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.33].

PRACTICE TIP:

As a result of a drafting "glitch," the California senior to listed exemption in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.33, unlike the senior to listed exemption in most other states, only applies to equity securities, not debt securities. The term "senior to listed" in NSMIA is narrowly defined to only apply to certain types of debt securities. As a result, certain types of evidences of indebtedness, such as corporate guarantees and deferred compensation plans, issued by issuers with common stock listed on a national securities exchange may not be entitled to the benefits of preemption under NSMIA or exempt under California law. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

Since the California Corporations Commissioner has certified the New York and American Stock Exchanges [see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 27-C (Mar. 4, 1972; revised Mar. 9, 1992) (this release has not been updated to reflect the name change of the American Stock Exchange to "NYSE AMEX LLC"); see also Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities laws, § 3A.04[1] (Matthew Bender)] and the NASDAQ Global Market and the NASDAQ Capital Market of the NASDAQ Stock Market LLC [see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 87-C (revised August 17, 2009)] under the California exemption from qualification in Corp. Code § 25100(o), the federal preemption is irrelevant in California with respect to those listed securities, which are already exempt from qualification under California law. In addition, the Commissioner has certified Tier I of the Philadelphia Stock Exchange [see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 96-C (Sept. 12, 1995) (this release has not been updated to reflect the name change of the Philadelphia Stock Exchange to "NASDAQ OMX PHLX, Inc."); see also Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities laws, § 3A.04[1] (Matthew Bender)] and Tier I (Select Market Companies) of the Pacific Stock Exchange, now operated as NYSE Arca [see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 95-C (December 27, 1994); see also Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities laws, § 3A.04[1] (Matthew Bender)], so that the state exemption remains significant as to securities listed in that tier. NSMIA does not by its terms appear to cover rights or warrants to purchase nationally traded securities. As a result, the state exemption remains significant with respect to these types of transactions.

[b] Registered Investment Companies

A security issued by an investment company that is registered, or that has filed a registration statement, under the Investment Company Act of 1940, is a "covered security" for purposes of NSMIA [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(2); see 15 U.S.C. § 80a-1 et seq.].

[c] Sales to Qualified Purchasers

A security is a "covered security" with respect to its offer or sale to qualified purchasers as defined by the SEC by rule. In prescribing such a rule, the SEC may define the term "qualified purchaser" differently with respect to different categories of securities, consistent with the public interest and the protection of investors [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(3)]. As of the date this text was written, the SEC had not published rules establishing categories of "qualified purchasers" for purposes of NSMIA.

[d] Exempt Offerings

A security is a "covered security" with respect to a transaction that is exempt from federal registration under any of the following exemption provisions of the Securities Act:

- Section 4(1) [15 U.S.C. § 77d(1)], which exempts transactions by any person other than an issuer, underwriter, or dealer, or Section 4(3) [15 U.S.C. § 77d(3)], which exempts dealer transactions, with certain exceptions. In order for a security to qualify as a "covered security" under this category, the issuer must be a "reporting company" that files reports with the SEC under Section 13 or 15(d) of the Exchange Act [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(4)(A); see 15 U.S.C. §§ 78m, 78o(d); for discussion of "reporting companies," see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations].

- Section 4(4) [15 U.S.C. § 77d(4)], which exempts brokers' transactions executed upon customers' orders on any exchange, or in the over-the-counter market, but does not extend to the solicitation of those orders [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(4)(B)].

- Section 3(a) [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)], which exempts a large number of securities such as those of various governmental entities, financial institutions; commercial paper; and insurance endowment or annuity contracts. Certain key categories of securities that are exempt under Section 3(a) are not subject to NSMIA's preemption provisions, however, including securities of charitable organizations, securities issued in exchange for other securities in a case under Title 11, securities exempt by virtue of state fairness headings, and purely intrastate issues [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(4), (10), (11)] (securities of charitable organizations, exchanges of securities, and intrastate exemption). The exclusion of intrastate transactions from NSMIA's preemption provisions is particularly significant to California nonpublic corporations. In addition, a municipal security that is exempt from registration by virtue of Section 3(a)(2) [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(2)] is not a covered security with respect to its offer or sale in the state in which the issuer of the security is located [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(4)(C)].

- SEC rules or regulations issued under Section 4(2) [15 U.S.C. § 77d(2)], which exempts transactions by an issuer not involving any public offering, including the Rule 506 SEC Regulation D exemption [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.506] (but not the Rule 504 and 505 exemptions [see 17 C.F.R. §§ 230.504, 230.505], which were adopted under Section 3(b) [15 U.S.C. § 77c(b)] of the Securities Act). This restriction on state action does not prohibit a state from imposing notice filing requirements that are substantially similar to those required by rule or regulation under this section that were in effect on September 1, 1996 [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(4)(D)].

A transaction must actually qualify for a registration exemption in order for the subject security to be a "covered security." Filing of the necessary documents and payment of the required fees are not sufficient, since an exemption-based "covered security" under the Improvement Act is a security in "a transaction that is exempt from registration" [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(4) (emphasis added); Consolidated Management Group, LLC v. Department of Corps. (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 598, 607-608, 75 Cal. Rptr. 3d 795] .

[6] Practical Effect of Preemption Provisions on Nonpublic Offerings

On a practical level, the impact of NSMIA on state requirements obviously depends on the status of the particular security or transaction under the Securities Act. If the security or the transaction is a publicly traded security, or the transaction is conducted under one of the exemptions from registration that is listed in NSMIA's definition of "qualified security" [see [5][d], above], any otherwise-relevant California requirements (other than notice requirements) are inapplicable.

With respect to nonpublic offerings by California close or closely held corporations, issuers relying on the federal intrastate exemption under Rule 147 [17 C.F.R. § 230.147; see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations, § 6A.24] or the federal Rule 504 or 505 exemptions under Regulation D [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.504, 230.505; see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations, §§ 6A.26, 6A.27], are unaffected by the federal preemption requirements and must still comply in full with the applicable California qualification or exemption requirements [see [5][d], above]. On the other hand, issuers relying on the Rule 506 exemption [17 C.F.R. § 230.506; see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations, § 6A.28] may invoke the preemption requirements and thereby avoid any applicable California qualification or exemption requirements [see 15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(4)(D)].

Thus, one of the practical effects of NSMIA has been to reduce the number of Rule 504 and 505 filings in multijurisdictional offerings, since NSMIA preemption provisions make filing under Rule 506 simpler than dealing with the requirements of multiple states. However, Rule 506 offering procedures may not always be attractive in small offerings, particularly those involving only one or a few states.

§ 6.30 Nature, Classes, and Importance of Exemptions

[1] Compared With Qualification

Once it has been determined that a proposed securities offering is subject to the Corporate Securities Law, the next step is usually to determine whether or not the offering comes within any of the numerous exceptions from qualification set out in the Corporate Securities Law. In some cases, it may be deemed most advantageous simply to restructure a proposed offering to come within a particular exemption. In other cases, an offering may be designed from the outset with a particular exemption in mind.

The decision to rely on an exemption instead of qualifying securities for sale in California involves weighing a number of factors, which are listed in § 6.118. As a general proposition, reliance on an exemption will save substantial time and expenses, but will subject a transaction to whatever limitations and conditions apply for that particular exemption. Many of the exemptions have very detailed and specific limitations. On the other hand, qualification ordinarily is a much more expensive and time-consuming process, but the end result is generally much less restrictive on matters such as the marketing, sale, transfer, and resale of the securities.

The California exemptions can be loosely grouped into three general categories:

- Exemptions based on the type of security being offered. These exemptions are specified in Corp. Code § 25100 for all types of securities and Corp. Code § 25101 for nonissuer securities, and the implementing regulations for these sections.

- Exemptions based on the nature of the transaction involved. These exemptions are specified in Corp. Code § 25102 for issuer securities and Corp. Code § 25104 for nonissuer securities, and the implementing regulations for these sections.

- Exemptions for reorganization, recapitalization, and exchange transactions, including changes in the rights, preferences, and restrictions on securities. These are, in effect, a specialized subcategory under the second category, above, but they are generally treated separately because of their specialized nature. These exemptions are specified in Corp. Code § 25103 and its implementing regulations.

For discussion of the distinction between issuer and nonissuer transactions, see § 6.14.

The Commissioner of Corporations is given broad authority to create additional exceptions for transactions that the Commissioner determines are not within the purposes of the Corporate Securities Law, and the qualification of which the Commissioner determines is not necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors [Corp. Code § 25105].

[3] Number and Significance

Exemptions from the California qualification requirements are numerous. Corp. Code § 25100 contains 20 different exemptions, Corp. Code § 25101 contains 2 different exemptions, Corp. Code § 25102 contains 17 different exemptions, Corp. Code § 25103 contains 8 different exemptions, and Corp. Code § 25104 contains 9 different exemptions. This makes a total of 53 different statutory exemptions in these sections alone, not counting categories exempted by the Commissioner's rules. The sheer number of these exemtions can be confusing to a practitioner who is unfamiliar with the securities laws. However, many of these exemptions are highly specialized and will rarely be used or encountered by most practitioners in the context of closely held corporations. For example, Corp. Code § 25100(g) exempts mutual capital certificates and savings accounts issued by a savings and loan association, Corp. Code § 25100(q) exempts certain medical malpractice trust funds, and Corp. Code § 25102(d) deals with agreements between issuers and underwriters.

Nationally listed securities generally are exempt under Corp. Code § 25100(o). Government-issued securities [see Corp. Code § 25100(a), (b)], bank or trust company securities [see Corp. Code § 25100(c)], short-term commercial paper [see Corp. Code § 25100(l)], and interests in employee pension and profit-sharing plans [see Corp. Code § 25100(n)] are among the other significant categories of exempt securities.

A detailed list of the statutory exemptions, together with the requirements applicable to each, appears in the table in § 6.200[2]. Since the majority of these exemptions are of limited application, they are not analyzed further in this publication. Rather, the analysis in this publication focusses on those few exemptions that are most often relevant to the issuance of securities by California nonpublic corporations.

[4] Exemptions Most Frequently Used by California Nonpublic Corporations and Other Similar Business Entities

In the context of nonpublic offers and sales of securities, the exemptions that are potentially applicable to the widest range of transactions, and therefore are the most commonly used, are the "limited offering exemption" (also sometimes referred to as the "nonpublic offering exemption") under Corp. Code § 25102(f) or Corp. Code § 25102(d) and the "small offering exemption" under Corp. Code § 25102(h). The requirements and procedures for using these exemptions are discussed in detail in Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions , and Ch. 6C, California Small Offering Exemption , respectively. An exemption is also available for the issuance of evidences of indebtedness in a transaction not involving a public offering under Corp. Code § 25102(e).

Also of possible significance are the "institutional investor" exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(i), which may be useful for nonpublic businesses seeking to raise capital from institutional investors, and the "qualified purchaser exemption" under Corp. Code § 25102(n), which is somewhat more complex than the small and limited offering exemptions, but provides more latitude in the solicitation of potential investors. These two exemptions are discussed in depth in Ch. 6D, California Qualified Purchaser Exemptions. An exemption is also available for certain employee option or employee purchase plans which qualify for the exemption under SEC Rule 701 [Corp. Code § 25102(o)].

Although the exemptions noted above are the most commonly used and the ones most likely to apply to a nonpublic offering, the attorney should stay alert to the possibility that other exemptions may also be applicable to specific situations. The table in § 6.200[2] provides a handy reference guide to the full spectrum of exemptions available under the California securities laws.

The following sections summarize the essential features of the important exemptions noted above, and offer some guidance to determining which one of them is best when there is a choice of exemptions in a given transaction.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Exemptions From California Qualification Requirements

3-6 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 6.31

AUTHOR: Marilyn Minger Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6.31 Limited Offering Exemptions

[1] Requirements

The limited offering exemption in Corp. Code § 25102(f) is probably relied on more than any other California exemption. The limited offering exemption is a general private offering exemption that applies to any offer or sale of any security in a transaction (except offers and sales to the issuer's pension or profit-sharing trust) that meets each of the following criteria [Corp. Code § 25102(f)]:

- Sales of securities are not made to more than 35 persons, excluding certain categories of purchasers who are not counted for purposes of this limitation.

- All purchasers either have a preexisting personal or business relationship with the offeror or any of certain individuals with management or oversight responsibilities, or, by reason of their business or financial experience or that of their professional advisors, who are not connected to the issuer, can be reasonably assumed to have the capacity to protect their own interests in connection with the transaction.

- Each purchaser represents that the purchaser is purchasing for the purchaser's own account (or a trust account if the purchaser is a trustee) and not with a view to or for sale in connection with any distribution of the security.

- The offer and sale of the security is not accomplished by the publication of any advertisement; and

- The issuer files a Notice of Transaction with the Commissioner of Corporations.

Although Corp. Code § 25102(f) exempts only issuer transactions, 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.103 extends the exemption to any change in the rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions on outstanding securities by the issuer exclusively with its existing security holder, and to bankruptcy reorganizations if the issuer files the required notice. Exchanges of securities in a merger, consolidation or sale of assets that satisfy the conditions of Corp. Code § 25102(f) will also be exempt if certain additional conditions are satisfied [Corp. Code § 25103(h)].

The limited offering exemption applies to any offer or sale (except an offer or sale to an issuer's employee benefit trust) of any security in a "transaction" that meets the criteria set forth in [1], above [Corp. Code § 25102(f)]. The term "transaction" is not defined in the statute, and one of the major problems confronting an issuer concerns the identification of all offerings, past, present, and future, that will be considered a part of the transaction. The treatment of multiple offers and/or sales as a single transaction is commonly referred to as "integration."

The primary threat posed by integration is the possibility that the Commissioner may include in the transaction a past offer or sale which, either alone or in conjunction with the other offers and sales of the transaction, violates the requirements of the exemption. For example, an issuer may decide that a transaction consists entirely of a single completed sale to 35 non-excluded purchasers (the maximum permitted under the statute) [see Corp. Code § 25102(f)(1)]. Once the notice of transaction is filed, the Commissioner may disagree with the issuer's definition of the limited offering transaction and include a past sale that causes the transaction to exceed the maximum number of purchasers and therefore destroys the exemption. Another common problem imposed by integration is the requirement that there be no publication of any advertisement in an offering made in reliance on the exemptions under Corp. Code §§ 25102(e), (f), (h), or 25102.1(d). A prior offering made publicly, including an offering that has been abandoned or in which no sales were made, may be integrated with the current offering.

For further discussion of the concepts of "single transaction" and "integration," see Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions, § 6B.21.

[3] Number of Purchasers

Sales of securities may be made to a maximum of 35 non-excluded purchasers, including out-of-state purchasers, under the limited offering exemption [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(1)]. For purposes of the exemption, the term "purchaser" means a person who acquires the beneficial ownership of the security, whether individually or in joint ownership in the transaction under the exemption. Therefore, each person who takes in joint ownership with another is counted as one [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(c)]. However, a husband and wife, together with any custodian or trustee acting for the account of their minor children, are counted as one, and a partnership, corporation, or other organization that was not specifically formed for the purpose of purchasing the security offered in reliance upon the exemption, is counted as one [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(4)]. Note that there is no limit on the number of offerees [but see [7], below].

[4] Exclusions From Purchaser Count

Numerous classes of persons and entities are excluded by statute and by rules of the Commissioner from being included in the purchaser count. Some of the significant exclusions include institutional investors; directors, executive officers, and affiliates of the issuer; relatives of purchasers; promoters; individuals who purchase $150,000 or more of the securities and have sufficient business or financial experience; business investment and business development companies; and anyone classified as an "accredited investor" under SEC Rule 501 [17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a)] of Regulation D [Corp. Code § 25102(f); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12]. For a complete list of those persons excluded from the purchaser count for purposes of the limited offering exemption, see Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions .

[5] Investor Suitability Requirements

Every purchaser under the limited offering exemption, except those purchasers specifically excluded from the purchaser

count by Corp. Code § 25102(f)(4) or 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13 [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(d)(2)] must be a suitable purchaser by virtue of the fact that he or she satisfies either of the following conditions [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(d)]:

- Has a preexisting personal or business relationship with the offeror or any of its partners, officers, directors or controlling persons, or managers (as appointed or elected by the members) if the offeror is a limited liability company. "Preexisting personal or business relationship" includes any relationship consisting of personal or business contacts of a nature and duration that would enable a reasonably prudent purchaser to be aware of the character, business acumen, and general business and financial circumstances of the person with whom the relationship exists [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(d)(1)]. An employer-employee relationship, or being a security holder of the issuer, or a customer of a broker-dealer, investment advisor, or other person does not necessarily establish a preexisting personal or business relationship [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(d)(1)].

- Could reasonably be assumed to have the capacity to protect his or her own interests in connection with the transaction, by reason of business or financial experience or the business or financial experience of his or her professional advisors who are unaffiliated with and who are not compensated by the issuer or any affiliate or selling agent of the issuer, directly or indirectly [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2)]. This "sophisticated investor" test focuses on the potential purchaser's ability to evaluate the risks present in an offering. It is up to the issuer to make a subjective determination as to the adequacy of the potential purchaser's investment sophistication [see Corp. Code § 25163 (burden of proving exemption); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(g)].

PRACTICE TIP:

A person acting as a professional adviser under Corp. Code § 25102(f) must generally be licensed as an investment adviser in California. The term "investment adviser" applies to any person who, for compensation, engages in the business of advising others with respect to investing in or purchasing or selling securities. A broker-dealer is excluded from this definition if the broker provides investment advice solely as an incident to the broker's business and the broker receives no special compensation for such services. It does not appear that a broker-dealer being used as a purchaser representative would fit within this exclusion, since under Corp. Code § 25102(f), the professional adviser must be a person who as a regular part of his or her business is customarily relied upon by others for investment advice and who is customarily compensated for such services. Attorneys and accountants are excluded from the definition only if investment advisory services are provided solely as an incidence to the practice of their profession. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

For more detailed analysis of the investor suitability requirements of the limited offering exemption, see Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions .

[6] Investment Intent

All purchasers of securities sold under the limited offering exemption must represent that they are purchasing for their own account (or a trust account if the purchaser is a trustee) and not with a view to or for sale in connection with any distribution of the security [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(3); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.15 (restriction inapplicable to private resales of securities to qualifying institutional buyers)]. It is advisable to require that this representation be in writing. The issuer is under no obligation to prevent the purchaser from subsequently violating this representation, and the purchase is not bound by any applicable holding period. However, if the purchaser violates the representation shortly after it is made and also violates one of the conditions of the exemption (such as the 35-purchaser maximum), then the exemption will probably be denied if it is found that the issuer should have known that the representation was false.

PRACTICE TIP:

It is customary for securities issued in transactions of this type to bear a restrictive legend stating that the securities are subject to restrictions on transferability and may not be transferred or sold except as permitted under the Securities Act of 1933 and applicable state securities laws in order to comply with federal securities laws or the blue sky laws of other states. As a general rule, this practice should be followed, even though it may not be technically required under California law, unless the securities by their very nature are not readily transferable (i.e., interests in an employer stock purchase plan in which the interests by their terms are non-transferability, other than on death). Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

[7] Prohibition on Advertising

The offer or sale of securities under the limited offering exemption must not be accomplished by the publication of any advertisement [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(4)]. "Publication" or "publish" means to publicly issue or circulate by newspaper, mail, radio or television, or otherwise disseminate to the public [Corp. Code § 25014]. "Advertisement" means any written or printed communication or any communication by means of recorded telephone messages or spoken on radio, television, or similar communications media, published in connection with the offer or sale of a security [Corp. Code § 25002].

Private placement memoranda are not "disseminated to the public" and thus are not advertisements if the issuer limits the circulation of the private placement memorandum to persons reasonably believed to be interested in purchasing the securities or to persons the issuer reasonably believes meets the investor suitability standards of Corp. Code § 25102(f) and neither the issuer nor any finder acting on the issuer's behalf offers the securities by means of any general solicitation or advertising [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(j)].

For further discussion of the prohibition on advertising, see Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions .

[8] Disclosure of Material Facts

The limited offering exemption does not require that an issuer disseminate information to purchasers of offerees. However, it is unlawful for any person to offer or sell a security in California by means of any written or oral communication that includes an untrue statement of a material fact or fails to state a material fact necessary to make the statements not misleading in light of the circumstances under which they were made [Corp. Code § 25401; see Corp. Code § 25501 (liability for misrepresentation or nondisclosure)]. Thus, all material facts must be disclosed in any oral or written communication made in connection with any offer or sale under the limited offering exemption.

PRACTICE TIP:

It may be possible not to use an offering document if all the purchasers have a pre-existing personal or business relationship with the issuer and are actively involved in the project being financed. In this circumstance, the potential investors may already have access to all the information necessary to make a business decision. Offering materials must, however, generally be prepared if the issuer intends to rely on the sophisticated investor provisions of Corp. Code § 25102(f) in order for the investor to be able to make an informed decision whether to participate in the offering. Other possible means of providing investors information include data rooms containing copies of all material documents and investor conference calls. Particular care should be taken with investor conference calls to provide full and complete information. The fact that the information is provided orally will not limit the issuer's liability for supplying false or misleading information. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

[9] Notice of Transaction

[a] Copy of SEC Form

Any issuer using the limited offering exemption must file a notice of transaction if any of the offered securities are purchased [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a), (b)]. If the issuer is filing a notice with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) under Section 4(6) of the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. 77d(6) (accredited investor exemption)] or Regulation D [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.503] in connection with the transaction, the notice of transaction may be a copy of the federal form first filed under those provisions with the Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a)(1); see Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions, § 6B.203].

[b] Electronic Filing; Hardship Exception

Unless the issuer files a copy of the SEC form, as set forth in [a], above, the notice of transaction must be filed electronically through the internet process made available by the Department of Corporations on www.corp.ca.gov. [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a)(2)].

An issuer may file a paper notice in person or by mail, in the form and containing the information specified in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(c), (d), only if the issuer claims a hardship exception for electronic filing [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a)(2), (f)]. That exception is available if computer equipment including hardware and software is unavailable to the issuer without unreasonable burden or expense, and the issuer includes in the notice both of the following [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(f)(1)]:

- The reason(s) that the computer equipment including hardware and software is unavailable without unreasonable burden and expense; and

- The description(s) of the unreasonable burden or expense to the issuer to make the electronic filing.

Alternatively, the exception is available if the issuer cannot obtain and provide information requested on the Department's electronic notice or through the Internet filing process, and the issuer includes in the notice both of the following [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(f)(2)]:

- The reason(s) that the issuer cannot obtain and provide the requested information on the electronic notice or through the Internet filing process without unreasonable burden or expense; and

- The description(s) of the unreasonable burden or expense to the issuer to make the electronic filing.

[c] Time for Filing

The notice of transaction must be filed with the Commissioner no later than 15 calendar days after the first sale of a security in the transaction in California [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(b)]. The first sale in California occurs when the issuer has obtained a contractual commitment in California to purchase one or more of the securities the issuer intends to sell in connection with the transaction in California [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(d)]. No notice is required if none of the securities offered are purchased [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(b)].

[d] Failure to File

Failure to file the notice will not affect the availability of the limited offering exemption [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(4)]. On the other hand, because this failure would be a violation of a Rule of the Commissioner, it would be a violation of the Corporate Securities Law. Sanctions include the possibility of a civil penalty of up to $2,500 a day [Corp. Code § 25525(a)].

[10] Impact of National Securities Markets Improvement Act

The Corp. Code § 25102(f) exemption is similar to SEC Regulation D. The National Securities Markets Improvement Act (NSMIA) [see § 6.15] preempts state blue sky laws made in reliance on Rule 506 of Regulation D. As a result, the Corp. Code § 25102(f) exemption is less frequently used in multi-state transactions in which an offering document will be used in connection with sales to non-accredited investors. In order to take advantage of NSMIA preemption, the issuer must file the Form D with the Commissioner and a consent to service of process, if required [Corp. Code § 25102.1(d)].

§ 6.32 Small Offering Exemption

[1] Requirements

To qualify for the small offering exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(h), a transaction must meet all of the following requirements [Corp. Code § 25102(h)]:

- The corporation must have only one class of outstanding stock immediately after the proposed sale and issuance.
- The stock of the corporation must be beneficially owned by no more than 35 persons.
- The offer and sale of the stock may not be accompanied by the publication of any advertisement.
- No selling expenses may be given, paid, or incurred in connection with the offer or sale.
- The consideration to be received by the issuer for the stock to be issued must be of the kind prescribed by Corp. Code § 25102(h)(2).
- No promotional consideration may be given, paid, or incurred in connection with the issuance.
- A notice in a form prescribed by the Commissioner [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.8(a); see also Ch. 6C, California Small Offering Exemption, § 6C.200], including an opinion of counsel that the exemption is available, must be filed with the Commissioner not later than 10 business days after the issuer receives consideration for the securities.
- Each purchaser must represent that the purchaser is purchasing for the purchaser's own account, or a > trust account if the purchaser is a trustee, and not with a view to or for sale in connection with any distribution of the stock.

The small offering exemption is only available to corporations [Corp. Code § 25102(h)]. A corporation incorporated under the laws of any state may use the exemption.

[2] Type of Stock

To qualify for the small offering exemption, a corporation must have only one class of stock outstanding immediately after the issue [Corp. Code § 25102(h)]. Obviously, a second class of common or a class of preferred shares would disqualify the offering. Debt securities are not considered a class of stock in the context of the small offering exemption even though they may be determined to be "equity" securities for the purpose of income taxes or for the purpose of priorities in bankruptcy or otherwise among creditors of the corporation [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.4].

Voting trust certificates should not constitute a second class of shares because the trustee, not the corporation, is normally the issuer [see Corp. Code § 25010]. However, a voting trust in which fewer than all of the shareholders are trustees is likely to violate the requirement that all shares have full and equal voting rights [see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 55-C (May 19, 1978); see also 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.1, 260.140.2 (voting rights)].

If the corporation using the exemption is a close corporation [see Corp. Code § 158], there is a chance that a shareholder agreement will have the effect of creating more than one class of shares [see Corp. Code § 25102(h); see also Ch. 8C, Close Corporation Shareholder Agreements]. Such a result will occur if an existing or planned shareholders' agreement provides (or will provide) that any of the rights, preferences, privileges, and restrictions enumerated in Corp. Code § 25103(e) apply or will apply to some but not all of the shares [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.4]. For example, a shareholder agreement that establishes profit-sharing rights that are disproportionate to share holdings will make the small offering exemption unavailable, whether or not the articles of incorporation provide for a single class of shares.

To alert the Commissioner to possible violations of the single-class requirement, the notice of issuance of shares under the small offering exemption [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.8; see also Ch. 6C, California Small Offering Exemption, § 6C.200] requires the signing officer to declare that to the best knowledge of the issuer, no shareholders' agreement, voting agreement, irrevocable proxy, or other arrangement that would cause the statements in the notice to be incorrect exists or is contemplated [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.8(a)]. The notice would be "incorrect" if its statements concerning the satisfaction of the single-class requirement were contradicted by a shareholders' agreement that had the effect of creating more than one class.

The number of owners of stock issued under the small offering exemption may not exceed 35 [see Corp. Code § 25102(h)]. The limitation refers to shares owned "beneficially" [Corp. Code § 25102(h)]. This limitation disallows individual legal owners from holding securities for large numbers of beneficial owners. In the context of the small offering exemption, shares held by a partnership or a joint venture are considered to be owned beneficially by each of the members of the group. Shares held by a trustee are considered to be owned beneficially by the trust beneficiaries, whether their interests are present, future, or contingent. However, a future or contingent beneficiary is not a beneficial owner in this context if he or she is an ancestor, descendent, or spouse of a present beneficiary or custodian or trustee for his or her account [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.5]. A husband and wife count as one shareholder, whether shares are in the name of either or both [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(5)].

Securities held by a corporation that has issued stock under the small offering exemption are considered to be held by the stockholders of that corporation [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(5)]. Thus, if securities will be issued to a corporation under the small offering exemption there may be no more than 35 shareholders in the issuee corporation [see Corp. Code §

[4] Prohibition on Advertising

The offer or sale of securities under the small offering exemption must not be accompanied by the publication of any advertisement [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(1)]. "Publication" or "publish" means to publicly issue or circulate by newspaper, mail, radio or television, or otherwise disseminate to the public [Corp. Code § 25014]. "Advertisement" means any written or printed communication or any communication by means of recorded telephone messages or spoken on radio, television, or similar communications media, published in connection with the offer or sale of a security [Corp. Code § 25002].

[5] Prohibition on Selling Expenses

To qualify for the small offering exemption, the issuer must not pay any selling expenses [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(1)]. "Selling expenses" means commissions, discounts or other compensation paid to any person as remuneration for selling the securities [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.7].

[6] Consideration for Securities

The consideration to be received for the stock to be issued may be any of the following [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(2)]:

- Any legal consideration, if there will be only one owner of the stock;
- Cash or cancellation of indebtedness for money borrowed or both, on the initial organization of the issuer, if all stock is issued for the same price per share;
- Only cash, if the sale (after initial organization) is approved in writing by each of the existing shareholders and the purchaser or purchasers are existing shareholders; or
- Only assets (including cash assets) of an existing business transferred to the issuer on its initial organization.

A more stringent restriction exists in the area of transfer of assets of an existing enterprise to the corporation in return for shares. The existing business must have been in operation for a period of at least one full year immediately preceding the new stock issue, and the stock issuees must have been owners all during that year (though others may have owned also but have dropped out) and receive their shares in proportion to their ownership just before the stock issue (though ownership interests fluctuated previously) [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(2)(A)]. The business could have been operated for any longer time, and it need never have shown a profit. However, it is clear that no shares may be issued at any time for promotional services rendered [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(2)(A), (3)].

[7] Promotional Activities

With one exception, no promotional consideration may be given, paid, or incurred in connection with the issuance of securities [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(3)]. Promotional consideration is defined to mean "any consideration paid directly or indirectly to a person, who, acting alone or in conjunction with one or more other persons, takes the initiative in founding and organizing the business or enterprise of an issuer, for services rendered in connection with such founding or organizing" [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(3)]. The exception to the rule against payment for promotional services applies in the case of the sole-shareholder corporation in which any legal considerations may be paid for shares, whether before or after the initial organization [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(2)(D)].

In connection with other preissuance activities by promoters, the Commissioner has relaxed the prohibition against the receipt of certain forms of consideration more than 10 days before the corporation files its notice of issuance of securities. Although stock may not be issued in consideration of promotional activities (except in the one-person corporation), stock may be issued in cancellation of loans and advances to the corporation, provided specified conditions are satisfied [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.11; see Ch. 6C, California Small Offering Exemption].

[8] Notice and Opinion of Counsel

The Department of Corporations itself has no provision for policing the small offering exemption in a manner equivalent to the services it performs while reviewing applications for permits, or services performed by the SEC in reviewing registrations qualifying locally by coordination and notification [Corp. Code §§ 25102(h), 25111-25113; Securities Act of 1933 § 6 (15 U.S.C. § 77f); Securities Exchange Act of 1934 § 12 (15 U.S.C. § 78l)]. Therefore, each Notice of Issuance of Shares required by Corp. Code § 25102(h)(4) must contain a signed opinion of an attorney that the exemption is available [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(4)]. The attorney must be on the active roster of the Bar, not on inactive status [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(4)].

The attorney need not be the attorney retained by the corporation for its business or even organizational affairs. The attorney's only task is to examine the facts stated in the notice and state that the facts, if true, qualify the transaction for the exemption [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.8]. The attorney has a responsibility, however, to make inquiries of his or her clients, and the extent of the investigation will depend on the facts peculiar to each transaction. As a member of the Bar and an officer of the court, the attorney is obliged to make sure that the exemption is not abused.

Failure to file the notice and the attorney's opinion required by Corp. Code § 25102(h) will not affect the availability of the small offering exemption if the issuer, within 15 business days after discovery of the failure to file the notice or after demand by the commissioner, whichever occurs first, files the notice and pays a fee equal to that payable had the transaction been qualified under Corp. Code § 25110 [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(4); see Corp. Code § 25608 (schedule of fees)].

Unlike most other notice filings, which may be filed in any office maintained by the Department of Corporations, the notice for this exemption must be filed in Los Angeles.

[9] Investment Intent

All purchasers of securities sold under the small offering exemption must represent that they are purchasing for their own account (or a trust account if the purchaser is a trustee) and not with a view to or for sale in connection with any distribution of the security [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(5)]. It is advisable to require that this representation be in writing. The issuer is under no obligation to prevent the purchaser from subsequently violating this representation, and the purchaser is not bound by any applicable holding period. However, if the purchaser violates the representation shortly after it is made and also violates one of the conditions of the exemption (such as the 35-beneficial owner maximum), then the exemption will probably be denied.

[1] In General

The "qualified purchaser exemptions" to the qualification requirements for issuer transactions under the Corporate Securities Law are set forth in Corp. Code § 25102(i) and (n) and in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.14. These sections create exemptions that apply to any offer or sale of securities to purchasers meeting enumerated qualifications [Corp. Code § 25102(i), (n); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.14]. There are two such exemptions: the "institutional investor exemption" under Corp. Code § 25102(i) [see [2], below] and the "limited offering qualified purchaser exemption" under Corp. Code § 25102(n) [see [3], below].

These exemptions are discussed in detail in Ch. 6D, California Qualified Purchaser Exemptions .

[2] Institutional Investor Exemption

The institutional investor exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(i) affords an exemption from registration for any offer or sale to a bank, savings and loan association, trust company, insurance company, registered investment company, pension or profit sharing trust (other than those of the issuer, a self-employed individual retirement plan, or individual retirement account), to other institutional investors, governmental agencies or instrumentalities that the Commissioner may designate by rule, or to a corporation with outstanding securities registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 or wholly owned subsidiary of such a corporation if, after the offer and sale, that corporation will own directly or indirectly all of the outstanding capital stock of the company; provided the purchaser represents that it is purchasing for investment and not for distribution, as discussed throughout this Legal Background [Corp. Code § 25102(i)]. No filings or filing fees are required, and all the issuer need do is comply with the criteria stated in Corp. Code § 25102(i) [see §§ 6D.22, 6D.100].

An exemption is also available for any offer or sale of a security to the federal government, any agency or instrumentality of the Federal Government, any state, any city, city and county, or county, or any agency or instrumentality or a state, city, city and county, or county, or any state university or state college and any retirement system for the benefit of their employees [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.14].

[3] Limited Offering Qualified Purchaser Exemption

The qualified purchaser exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(n) applies to offers and sales involving California corporations or pseudo-California corporations under Corp. Code § 2115 and purchasers meeting the qualifications of that section [see Corp. Code §§ 25102(n)(1)- (3)]. With certain limited exceptions, the issuer must provide a written offering disclosure statement pursuant to Corp. Code § 25102(n)(4) to each natural person. The issuer may publish a general notice of proposed offering pursuant to Corp. Code § 25102(n)(5), provided the general notice complies with the requirements of the statute. Each purchaser must also represent that it is purchasing for investment and not with a view to distribution. Under Corp. Code § 25102(n)(7), the issuer must file a first notice of transaction and pay a $600 filing fee, and also file a second notice of transaction for which no fee is required [see Ch. 6D, California Qualified Purchaser Exemptions, §§ 6D.23, 6D.201-6D.203].

[4] Comparison of Exemptions

The qualified purchaser exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(n) exempts a broader scope of purchasers than the institutional investor exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(i) or the public agency exemption under 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.14. The type of purchasers qualifying for exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(i)--basically, institutional investors-- are just one type of purchaser qualifying for exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(n). Other purchasers qualifying under Corp. Code § 25102(n) include any person designated in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13, specified pension or profit sharing trusts and retirement plans or accounts in which the investment decisions are made solely by persons who are qualified purchasers, and any natural person meeting enumerated financial requirements [Corp. Code § 25102(n)].

Issuers who intend offer or sell securities only to institutional investors qualified under Corp. Code § 25102(i) or *10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.14*may elect to offer and sell under that exemption, and avoid having to comply with the additional requirements of Corp. Code § 25102(n). On the other hand, those issuers who wish to offer and sell to a broader scope of qualified purchasers (which can include those qualified under Corp. Code § 25102(i) or 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.14 or other exemptions available under Corp. Code § 25102(f) or (d)) must use Corp. Code § 25102(n) to obtain a qualified purchaser exemption.

§ 6.34 Selecting the Most Appropriate California Exemption

[1] Comparison of Commonly Used Exemptions

The essential requirements of the limited offering exemption are as follows [Corp. Code § 25102(f)]:

- Sales must be made to no more than 35 purchasers, other than non-excluded purchasers.
- Purchasers must have either a preexisting relationship with insiders or financial sophistication, or be represented by a purchaser representative who is financially sophisticated.
- Each investor must be investing for his or her own account.
- No advertising is published.
- A notice (which may be a Form D) is filed.

The essential requirements of the small offering exemption are as follows [Corp. Code § 25102(h)]:

- The issuer may have no more than 35 shareholders.
- The issuer must be a corporation.
- The issuer may have only one class of outstanding stock.
- No selling expenses are paid.

- Consideration is restricted.
- No promotional consideration is paid.
- No advertising is published.
- An opinion of counsel is filed.
- Each investor must be investing for his or her own account.
- A notice is filed.

The essential requirements to take advantage of NSMIA preemption are as follows [Corp. Code § 25102.1(d)]:

- The issuer must have no more than 35 purchasers, other than accredited investors.
- Non-accredited investors must either have a preexisting relationship with insiders or financial sophistication or be represented by a purchaser representative who is financially sophisticated.
- Each investor must be purchasing for his or her own account.
- No advertising may be published.
- Non-accredited investors must be given a disclosure document containing specified disclosures.
- A Form D must be filed with the SEC and the Commissioner.

The essential requirements of the limited qualified purchaser exemption are as follows [Corp. Code § 25102(n)]:

- The issuer must be either a California corporation or a pseudo-California corporation under Corp. Code § 2115.
- The purchasers must be of a specified type, which includes accredited investors.
- Each investor must be investing for his or her own account.
- No advertisement, other than a general announcement, is published.
- Natural persons who are non-accredited investors must be given a disclosure document containing specified disclosures (same as that required by Regulation D).
- Two notices must be filed.

The essential requirements of the private placement exemption are as follows [Corp. Code § 25102(e)]:

- The security must be a debt security.
- Each investor must be investing for his or her own account.
- No advertisement is published.

[2] Analysis of Differences

In most cases, the criteria for the small offering exemption are stricter than their limited offering counterparts. For example, a corporation using the small offering exemption must issue only one class of shares [Corp. Code § 25102(h)], whereas the limited offering exemptions potentially apply to almost any offer or sale of any security [Corp. Code §§ 25102(f), 25102.1(d)]. Under the circumstances discussed in § 6.32[2], a close corporation shareholder agreement could be construed to create more than one class of shares. Furthermore, the small offering exemption requires that after the proposed sale and issuance the corporation have a total of no more than 35 shareholders [Corp. Code § 25102(h)]. In contrast, the limited offering exemptions permit the corporation to have a total of more than 35 shareholders, as long as the transaction in question results in sales to no more than 35 persons (other than excluded purchasers) [Corp. Code § 25102(f)]. Obviously, many issuers who are ineligible for the small offering exemption will be able to satisfy the less demanding limited offering criteria. Uncertainty concerning whether or not a proposed issuance qualifies for the small offering exemption may discourage an issuer from even attempting to use that exemption when a limited offering exemption is available.

On the other hand, issuers seeking to use the limited offering exemption are confronted with the possibility that an otherwise eligible transaction may be disqualified by being "integrated" with a past offer or sale that, either alone or in conjunction with the currently proposed issuance, violates the applicable criteria [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(b); see also § 6.31[2]; Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions, § 6B.21]. Furthermore, limited offering issuers are faced with the possibility that a potential shareholder will not be able to meet the purchaser suitability requirements, which are applicable solely to the limited offering exemption [Corp. Code § 25102(f); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12; see Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions].

Assuming that a transaction can qualify for either exemption without difficulty, the deciding factor may the fact that the small offering exemption is relatively easy to use, with very little documentation involved [see Ch. 6C, California Small Offering Exemption]. In contrast, sound practice dictates that an attorney document several aspects of a limited offering transaction in order to demonstrate compliance with that exemption's numerous requirements [see Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions].

The private placement exemption [Corp. Code § 25102(e)] and the institutional investor exemption [Corp. Code § 25102(i)] are the easiest to use and require no filings to perfect the exemption. The private placement exemption, however, is limited to offerings of debt securities. The institutional investor exemption is limited to a short list of institutional investors of a type that may not be interested in investing in a nonpublic corporation.

The limited qualified purchaser exemption [Corp. Code § 25102(n)] is only available to California corporations or pseudo-California corporations under Corp. Code § 2115, and has very detailed qualified purchaser requirements. The list of eligible purchasers, however, is more extensive than the institutional investor list and there is no limit on the number of purchasers, such as that contained in the exemptions under Corp. Code § 25102(f), (h), or 25102.1(d).

Certain types of institutional investors are also "accredited investors" as defined in Regulation D. Natural persons who are accredited investors, however, are not included in the institutional investor list. Accredited investors are qualified purchasers under Corp. Code § 25102(n)(2)(A) and are excluded purchasers under Corp. Code § 25102(f) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13(g)]. The list of qualified purchasers under Corp. Code § 25102(n) and the list of excluded purchasers under Corp. Code § 25102(f), however, is more extensive than the list of accredited investors. The most extensive list of qualified purchasers is contained in Corp. Code § 25102(n).

No offering document containing specified disclosures is required in order to use the exemptions under Corp. Code § 25102(e), (f), (h), or (i). An offering document containing specified disclosures is, however, required for offerings to natural persons who are non-accredited investors under Corp. Code § 25102(n) or who are non-accredited investors under Corp. Code § 25102.1(d).

Each of the exemptions requires the purchasers to be purchasing for investment only. None of the exemptions permits the publication of any advertisement, with the exception of the exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(n), which permits a general announcement meeting specified requirements.

Notice filings are required to perfect the exemptions under Corp. Code §§ 25102(f), (h), (n), and 25102.1(d); however, the failure to file the notice under Corp. Code § 25102(f) will not affect the availability of the exemption. No notice filings are required to perfect exemptions under Corp. Code § 25102(e) or (i).

§ 6.40 When Qualification Is Necessary

The Corporate Securities Law sets forth three distinct qualification requirements:

- Corp. Code § 25110 requires qualification of issuer transactions, which primarily involve sales of securities in an offering from which the issuer will obtain the proceeds.

- Corp. Code § 25130 requires qualification of non-issuer transactions, which generally include traditional secondary market trading activities.

- Corp. Code § 25120 requires qualification of various types of reorganization, recapitalization, or exchange transactions, including the modification of the terms of existing securities.

A security or securities transaction must be qualified in California when all of the following conditions exist [see Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, 25130 (statutory requirement of qualification)]:

- The interest or instrument constitutes a security [see Corp. Code § 25019; see also § 6.11].

- The transaction involves an offer or sale for value [see Corp. Code § 25017; see also § 6.12].

- The offer or sale is made in California [see Corp. Code § 25008; see also § 6.13].

- Regulation under the Corporate Securities Law is not preempted by federal law [see § 6.15].

- The security or transaction is not exempt from qualification [see Corp. Code §§ 25100-25105; see also §§ 6.30-6.33], or the issuer has elected to qualify the transaction, even if one or more exemptions are potentially available, in order to take advantage of the benefits of qualification.

§ 6.41 Nature of Qualification Process

[1] Application and Review by Commissioner

Qualification requires the submission of an application to the Commissioner of Corporations setting forth specified information concerning the issuer and the security to be qualified. The Commissioner may deny qualification if the issuance or sale of a security is found not to be "fair, just and equitable" [Corp. Code § 25140]. The Commissioner has adopted rules which set forth the merit standards frequently used for evaluating proposed securities offerings [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140-260.140.139]. The merit standards deal with issues that relate to whether an investor will receive a fair chance to realize the investor's investment objectives. The Commissioner has discretion to apply the merit standards in a more liberal or more stringent manner based on the circumstances of a particular offering.

[2] Merit Standards

The merit standards address the following general issues:

- Voting rights and other rights of security holders [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.1-260.140.10].
- Selling expenses and options to underwriters [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.20-260.140.22].
- Promotional shares [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.30-260.140.33].
- Rights, warrants and options [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.40-260.140.46].
- Offering price [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.50, 260.140.51].
- Recapitalizations and reorganizations [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.60-260.140.63].

- Stock dividends and stock splits [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.70].
- Nonissuer qualifications [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.135-260.140.139].

The merit standards also provide particular guidance for the following types of issuers or interests:

- Mutual water companies [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.71-260.140.71.10].
- Offerings of debt securities by churches [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.72-260.140.72.6].
- Investment companies [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.80-260.140.89].
- Real estate investment trusts [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.90-260.140.103].
- Real estate programs [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.110.1-260.140.119.1].
- Oil and gas interests [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.120-260.140.131.9].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Qualification of Securities

3-6 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 6.42

AUTHOR: Marilyn Minger Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6.42 Methods of Qualification

[1] Methods

There are three methods or procedures by which securities can be qualified:

- Coordination.
- Notification.
- Permit.

The applicable method of qualification under the Corporate Securities Law, as well as the exemptions available, depend on the type of transaction involved.

Qualification by coordination and qualification by notice are basically abbreviated processes, and for that reason are generally preferred by issuers over the more extensive requirements of the permit process. Qualification by coordination is designed to coordinate the California qualification with federal registration of the securities.

[2] Issuer Transactions

An issuer transaction may be qualified by any of the three methods noted in [1], above, depending on the circumstances of the transaction. If a registration statement has been filed under the federal Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77a et seq.] in connection with the same offering, the transaction may be qualified by coordination [Corp. Code § 25111]. A nonregistered offering by a company that either has any security registered under Section 12 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [15 U.S.C. § 78l] or is an investment company registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 [15 U.S.C. § 80a-1 et seq.] may be qualified by notification [Corp. Code § 25112]. All other offers and sales by an issuer must be qualified by permit [see Corp. Code § 25113].

[3] Nonissuer Transactions

Nonissuer transactions also may be qualified by any of the three methods of qualification, again depending on the circumstances of the transaction. Nonissuer transactions involving securities registered under the Securities Act of 1933 may be qualified by coordination under Corp. Code § 25111 [Corp. Code § 25111(a)]. For offerings involving securities qualified under Regulation A of the Securities Act of 1933 [17 C.F.R. § 230.251 et seq.], qualification must be sought by permit under Corp. Code § 25113 [Corp. Code § 25131(a)]. All other nonissuer transactions may be qualified by notification under Corp. Code § 25112 [Corp. Code § 25131(a)].

[4] Reorganizations and Recapitalizations

All reorganizations and recapitalizations must be qualified by permit under Corp. Code § 25121. Qualification by coordination or notification is not available.

[5] Qualification by Coordination

[a] Procedure

Qualification by coordination is accomplished by filing with the Commissioner of Corporations not later than the fifth business day following filing of the registration statement with the SEC, an application containing the following information and accompanied by the following documents [Corp. Code § 25111(b)]:

- A copy of the registration statement filed with the SEC under the Securities Act of 1933, together with all exhibits.

- An undertaking to forward to the Commissioner all future amendments to the registration statement no later than the first business day after the day such amendments are forwarded to or filed with the SEC.

- A statement of the maximum amount of securities to be offered in California [see Corp. Code § 25160].

- Any adverse order, judgment, or decree entered in connection with the offering by the regulatory authority in any state or by any court or by the SEC [see Corp. Code § 25160].

- A consent to service of process (if one is not already on file) [see Corp. Code § 25165].

- Other information required to evidence compliance with any rules of the Commissioner.

Abbreviated filing requirements apply to an open-ended investment company or unit investment trust that is in compliance with all terms of a prior qualification for the sale of the same securities and has made no material change in its offering [Corp. Code § 25111(d)]. Special procedures must be followed for offerings on Form S-3 or F-3 made on a delayed or continuous basis pursuant to SEC Rule 415 [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 70-C (June 24, 1982, as revised Nov. 5, 1982, and Dec. 31, 1983)].

[b] Effective Date

Securities qualified by coordination may be offered and sold in accordance with the terms of the application as amended at the moment the federal registration becomes effective if all of the following conditions are satisfied [Corp. Code § 25111(c)]:

- The Commissioner of Corporations has not issued a stop order that remains in effect [see Corp. Code § 25143(a)].

- The application for qualification by coordination has been on file with the Commissioner of Corporations for at least 10 days.

- A statement of the maximum and minimum proposed offering prices and the maximum underwriting discounts and commissions has been on file for two business with the Commissioner of Corporations and the offering is made within the filed limitations.

The applicant must promptly notify the Commissioner of Corporations by telephone or telegram of the date and time when the federal registration becomes effective and the content of the price amendment, if any, and promptly file the price amendment with the Commissioner of Corporations. The "price amendment" means the final federal amendment that includes a statement of the offering price, underwriting and selling discounts or commissions, amount of proceeds, interest, dividend or conversion rates, call prices and other matters related to the offering price.

PRACTICE TIP:
The Commissioner's processing guidelines deviate from common SEC practice in that pricing amendments are no longer required to be filed with the SEC in many circumstances. In these circumstances the final form of prospectus which contains the final pricing information should be filed with the Commissioner in lieu of the pricing amendment. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

A subsequent qualification of the sale of securities of an open-end investment company or unit investment trust becomes effective upon the day following the expiration of its prior qualification or, if that qualification has already expired, upon the first business day following the filing of the application [Corp. Code § 25111(d)(1)].

[a] Availability

Qualification by notification is available for any security issued by a person that is the issuer of any security that is registered under Section 12 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 or that is issued by an investment company registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940, and which is not eligible for qualification by coordination [Corp. Code § 25112(a)].

[b] Procedure

An application for qualification by notification is made by providing the Commissioner of Corporations with the information and documents required by the Commissioner's rules [Corp. Code § 25112(b)]. The information and documents required by the Commissioner are set forth in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.112 and include information about the issuer's business, management, financial condition, ownership and information about the offering. For detailed information regarding the items that must be included in an application for qualification by notification, see Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities, § 6H.215.

[c] Effective Date

Qualification by notification becomes effective at 12 o'clock noon California time of the 10th business day after the filing of the application or the last amendment, unless the Commissioner of Corporations has not issued a stop order that remains in effect [Corp. Code § 25112(c); see Corp. Code § 25143(a)]. Qualification may be effective earlier if specifically authorized by the Commissioner [Corp. Code § 25112(c)].

Any issuer may seek qualification of a transaction by seeking a permit from the Commissioner of Corporations. The Commissioner may refuse to issue a permit unless the Commissioner finds that the proposed plan of business of the applicant and the proposed issuance of securities are fair, just, and equitable, that the applicant intends to transact its business fairly and honestly, and that the securities that is proposes to issue and the methods to be used by it in issuing them will not work a fraud on the purchasers [Corp. Code § 25140(b)].

[b] Application

An issuer applies for a permit by providing the Commissioner of Corporations with the information and documents required by the applicable Commissioner's rule [Corp. Code § 25113(b)(1); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.113]. The requirements are more extensive than those for qualification by coordination or notification. The application process is streamlined somewhat, however, for an issuer and transaction that qualifies for the "small company application" procedure available for offerings of less than $1 million that meet a series of requirements [see Corp. Code § 25113(b)(2)]. The application may be either for an open qualification or a limited qualification. An open qualification generally will not be approved for an issuer that is not reasonably expected to be profitable within the next two years or for unseasoned corporations with complex capital structures [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.5, 260.140.9]. For more detailed discussion of these requirements and the contents of an application for qualification by permit, see Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities, § 6H.220.

§ 6.50 Relevance to Securities Sold in California

When an offer or sale of securities is made in California, that offer or sale needs to be either registered under federal securities laws or exempt from registration under those laws. Registration under the federal laws, or selection of the particular exemption used to avoid federal registration, also has an impact on the need for qualification and the availability of particular exemptions under the Corporate Securities Law.

In general, small business issuers will try to avoid having to register or qualify their securities by structuring their issuing transactions to be able to fall within an exemption. The federal exemptions used most frequently by small business issuers are the exemptions available under Regulation D of the federal securities laws [17 C.F.R. § 230.501 et seq.]. When planning the issuing transactions, the requirements of the appropriate exemptions should help to guide the structure of the transaction.

This chapter gives only a brief overview of the federal securities regulation scheme, an overview of Regulation D, and a contrast of the differences between Regulation D and Corp. Code § 25102(f). For detailed discussion of the Regulation D exemptions and other commonly used exemptions, see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations .

[1] Statutes

Regulation of the offer and sale of securities by the federal government is basically accomplished by several key acts:

- The Securities Act of 1933 (the "Securities Act"), codified at 15 U.S.C. §§ 77a-77aa. The Securities Act regulates public offerings of securities by prohibiting offers and sales of securities that are either not registered with the SEC or are exempt from registration. The Securities Act also prohibits fraudulent or deceptive practices in connection with any offer or sale of securities.

- The Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (the "Exchange Act"), codified at 15 U.S.C. §§ 78a-78mm. The Exchange Act established the SEC and gave it the responsibility of administering the Securities Act. In addition, the Exchange Act provides for the regulation of national securities exchanges and associations, securities brokers and dealers, and other persons and entities involved in the offering and sale of securities. The Exchange Act also imposes disclosure and reporting requirements on publicly held companies and prohibits various deceptive and manipulative practices in connection with the purchase and sale of securities.

- The Trust Indenture Act of 1939 (the "Trust Indenture Act"), codified at 15 U.S.C. §§ 77aaa-77bbbb. The Trust Indenture Act regulates public issues of debt securities in excess of a specified amount. These issues are also regulated by the Securities Act, but the Trust Indenture Act imposes standards on the indenture trustee and provides other protections for the securities holders.

- The Investment Company Act of 1940 (the "Investment Company Act"), codified at 15 U.S.C. § 80a-1 et seq. The Investment Company Act regulates publicly owned companies that engage in the business of investing and trading in securities.

- The Investment Advisers Act of 1940 (the "Investment Advisers Act"), codified at 15 U.S.C. § 80b-1 et seq. The Investment Advisers Act regulates investment advisers and subjects them to registration.

Of the statutes listed above, the Securities Act has by far the most impact on offers and sales of securities in the context of private or closely held corporations.

[2] Administrative Authorities

Generally, the acts noted above give the SEC broad rule-making power, which the SEC has used over the years to promulgate rules providing procedures by which to comply with the acts, definitions of terms found in the acts, and substantive requirements in addition to those found in the acts. Rules promulgated pursuant to the Securities Act are found at 17 C.F.R. §§ 230.100-230.1001. Rules promulgated pursuant to the Exchange Act are found at 17 C.F.R. §§ 240.0-1-240.36a1-2. The SEC also adopts forms for certain uses, and these forms have the legal force of rules.

In addition to its formal rules, the SEC provides guidance as to its interpretation of the governing statutes and rules through the following vehicles:

- "Releases," which provide in an informal manner the SEC's interpretation of certain issues; and

- "No-action letters," wherein the SEC responds to individual private inquiries about whether a certain transaction could be carried out in a manner as specified in the inquiry. The responses are known as "no-action letters" because they generally state that the SEC will "take no action" regarding the transaction in question if it is carried out in the manner specified in the inquiry, with any modifications specified in the letter.

[1] Purpose

The Securities Act [15 U.S.C. §§ 77a-77aa], regulating offerings of securities, most directly affects businesses trying to raise capital through the issuance of securities. Disclosure is the hallmark of the Securities Act. This regulatory scheme is based on the idea that if an investor has complete information about a transaction, including the perceived risks and the unknowns, and about the issuer, including management and financial information, the investor will be able to protect himself or herself. Disclosure required of issuers and underwriters is to be made in detailed registration statements, prospectus and offering circulars, advertising material, and notices of intent to sell prepared according to very specific guidelines. Registration is required for the offer or sale of all securities unless the offer or sale involves a security or transaction that the Act exempts from registration.

[2] Registration Requirement

The heart of the Securities Act is Section 5 [15 U.S.C. § 77e]. Subsection (a) of Section 5 provides that a registration statement must be on file for a security in order to use interstate transportation or communication or the mail to sell or deliver that security [15 U.S.C. § 77e(a)]. Subsection (c) of Section 5 similarly prohibits use of interstate transportation or communication or the mail to offer to sell an unregistered security [15 U.S.C. § 77e(c)]. Subsection (b) of Section 5 requires that a prospectus must be provided either prior to or concurrently with the delivery of a registered security and that the prospectus meets certain requirements [15 U.S.C. § 77e(b)].

[3] Exemptions From Registration Requirement

Sections 3 and 4 of the Securities Act [15 U.S.C. §§ 77c, 77d] set forth the types of securities and transactions involving the offer or sale of securities that are exempt from registration. Like the California Corporate Securities Law, the exemptions in the Securities Act can be loosely categorized as creating (1) exempt classes of securities and (2) exempt types of securities transactions. Section 3(a)(2)- (8) and (13)- (14) [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(2)- (8), (13)- (14)] lists type of securities that are exempt from the requirements of Section 5. Section 3(a)(9)- (12) [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(9)- (12)] and Section 4 [15 U.S.C. § 77d] list transactions exempted from the requirements of Section 5.

Although some of the federal exemptions are similar in scope to corresponding exemptions under the California securities laws, the specific federal and state requirements rarely are identical. Eligibility for an exemption under federal law does not automatically mean that a California issuer or transaction will qualify under any analogous federal exemption, and vice versa. There are also differences between state and federal law regarding whether a security is being offered or sold for value or when the sale is deemed to take place.

The Securities Act exempts the following categories of securities:

- Securities issued by the United States, any state or territory, or certain securities issued by various categories of institutional investors such as banks, insurance companies, and employee benefit plans (Section 3(a)(2)) [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(2)].

- Notes, drafts, bills of exchange, or banker's acceptances that arise out of a current transaction or the proceeds of a current transaction and have a maturity date at issuance not exceeding nine months (Section 3(a)(3)) [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(3)].

- Securities issued by religious, educational or charitable organizations that are not issued for pecuniary profit (Section 3(a)(4)) [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(4)].

- Securities issued by savings and loan associations that are supervised and examined by either federal or state authorities (Section 3(a)(5)) [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(5)].

- Securities representing an interest in a railroad equipment trust (Section 3(a)(6)) [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(6)].

- Specified securities issued by the trustee or debtor in possession in connection with a Chapter 11 bankruptcy (Section 3(a)(7)) [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(7)].

- Insurance policies or annuity contracts issued by a corporation subject to the supervision of a state insurance or bank commissioner (Section 3(a)(8)) [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(8)].

- Securities issued by certain entities excluded from the definition of investment company under Section 3(c)(14) of the Investment Company Act (Section 3(a)(13)) [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(13)].

- Any security futures products that are cleared by a clearing agency registered under 15 U.S.C. § 78q-1 or exempt from registration under 15 U.S.C. § 78q-1(b)(7), and traded on a national securities exchange or a national securities association registered pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 78o-3(a) (Section 3(a)(14)) [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(14)].

[5] Exempt Types of Transactions

The Securities Act exempts the following types of transactions from registration:

- A transaction in which the issuer of a security exchanges one security for another exclusively with existing shareholders of the security and there is no commission paid for soliciting the exchange (Section 3(a)(9)) [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(9)].

- A transaction in which securities are issued in exchange for outstanding securities, claims or property interests, and the terms and conditions of the issuance and exchange are approved, after hearing, by a federal, state or territorial authority expressly authorized to grant such approval (Section 3(a)(10)) [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(10)].

- Securities offered and sold in an intrastate offering (Section 3(a)(11)) [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(11)].

- Equity securities issued in connection with certain acquisitions by a holding company of a bank or savings and loan association (Section 3(a)(12)) [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(12)].

- Transactions by any person other than an issuer, underwriter, or dealer of securities (Section 4(1)) [15 U.S.C. § 77d(1)]. "Secondary trading" (trading in securities already outstanding) is largely exempted by Section 4(1) [15 U.S.C. § 77d(1)] and Section 4(3) [15 U.S.C. § 77d(3); see below] operating in combination.

- Transactions by an issuer not involving any public offering (Section 4(2)) [15 U.S.C. § 77d(2)]. Large amounts of securities have been sold pursuant to Section 4(2). This exemption works well when large blocks of securities are sold to institutional investors, such as insurance companies or pension funds. A potential problem arises, however, for issuers who want to use the exemption provided by Section 4(2) in a promotional offering to a limited number of people. The question is when does the offering become a public one. To provide a "safe harbor" for using this exemption, the SEC has promulgated Rule 506 under Regulation D [17 C.F.R. § 230.506].

- Certain transactions by a dealer (Section 4(3)) [15 U.S.C. § 77d(3)].

- Brokers' transactions executed upon customers' orders on any exchange or in the over-the-counter market but not the solicitation of such orders (Section 4(4)) [15 U.S.C. § 77d(4)].

- Certain transactions involving one or more promissory notes directly secured by a first lien on a single, improved piece of real estate (Section 4(5)) [15 U.S.C. § 77d(5)].

- Transactions by an issuer solely to accredited investors, when the aggregate offering price does not exceed $5 million and there is no advertising or public solicitation (Section 4(6)) [15 U.S.C. § 77d(6)].

[6] Small Offering Exemption

Section 3(b) of the Securities Act [15 U.S.C. § 77c(b)] authorizes the SEC to promulgate rules and regulations exempting offerings of up to $5,000,000 from registration. Specifically, Section 3(b) provides that registration will not be required if the SEC finds the following [15 U.S.C. § 77c(b)]:

- Registration of the securities is unnecessary in the public interest and unnecessary for the protection of investors by reason of the small amount involved or the limited character of the public offering; and

- The aggregate amount of the public offering does not exceed $5 million.

The SEC has promulgated two important exemptions under this subsection in Rules 504 and 505 of Regulation D [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.504, 230.505], as well as the Regulation A procedure, which is described in greater detail in § 6.57.

[1] In General

Regulation D, [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.501-230.508], a rule adopted by the SEC, provides three distinct exemptions that are very important to smaller business trying to raise business capital [see 17 C.F.R. §§ 230.501-230.508]:

- The Rule 504 exemption [17 C.F.R. § 230.504], promulgated under Section 3(b) of the Securities Act [15 U.S.C. § 77c(b)].

- The Rule 505 exemption [17 C.F.R. § 230.505], promulgated under Section 3(b) of the Securities Act [15 U.S.C. § 77c(b)].

- The Rule 506 exemption [17 C.F.R. § 230.506], promulgated under Section 4(2) of the Securities Act [15 U.S.C. § 77d(2)].

Each of the three Regulation D exemptions contemplates that the offering is limited in scope and made in an appropriate manner to an appropriate group of purchasers. Because of the similarity of the exemptions, common definitions and conditions are set forth in Rules 501, 502 and 503 [see 17 C.F.R. §§ 230.501-230.503].

The Regulation D exemptions are discussed in detail in Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations . For convenience, they are summarized below.

[2] Accredited Investors Under Regulation D

[a] Definition and Classification

Accredited investors are investors whom the SEC has found are capable of protecting themselves with respect to investment opportunities. The conditions the SEC places on issuers with respect to accredited investors, therefore, are less stringent than on nonaccredited investors. In addition, accredited investors generally are not counted as purchasers when the law limits the number of purchasers permitted to be able to qualify for an exemption. Rule 501(a) lists the following categories of accredited investors [17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a)]:

- Designated institutional investors, including banks, savings and loan associations, registered brokers and dealers, insurance companies, registered investment companies, small business investment companies licensed by the U.S. Small Business Administration, and government employee benefit plans with assets in excess of $5 million [17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a)(1)].

- Employee benefit plans if the plan fiduciary is a bank, savings and loan association, insurance company or registered investment advisor and has total assets in excess of $5 million or if the plan is self-directed, the investment decisions are made only by accredited investors [17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a)(1)].

- Business development companies (as defined in the Investment Advisers Act) [17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a)(2)].

- Corporations, partnerships, and certain nonprofit organizations not formed for the specific purpose of acquiring the securities offered, and with total assets in excess of $5,000,000 [17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a)(3)].

- Any director, executive officer, or general partner of the issuer of the securities being offered or sold, or any director, executive officer, or general partner of a general partner of that issuer is an accredited investor [17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a)(4)].

- Any natural person whose individual net worth, or joint net worth with that person's spouse, at the time of the purchase exceeds $1 million [17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a)(5)].

- Any natural person who had an individual income in excess of $200,000 in each of the two most recent years or joint income with that person's spouse in excess of $300,000 in each of those years and has a reasonable expectation of reaching the same income level in the current year [17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a)(6)].

- Trusts with total assets in excess of $5 million, not formed for the specific purpose of acquiring the securities offered, whose purchase is directed by a sophisticated person [17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a)(7)].

- Entities in which all of the equity owners are accredited investors [17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a)(8)].

[b] Comparison With California Law

Accredited investors are excluded from the 35 purchaser limitation under Corp. Code § 25102(f) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13(g)], and are qualified investors under Corp. Code § 25102(n) [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(2)(A); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13(g)]. Natural persons who are not accredited investors must receive a disclosure document containing the types of disclosures required to be provided to non-accredited investors under Regulation D [Corp. Code 25102(n)(4)]. Under Corp. Code § 25102(f), excluded purchasers do not need to satisfy the investor suitability requirements of Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(d)(2)].

[3] Calculation of Number of Purchasers

[a] Federal Law

Purchasers who are not counted in calculating the total number of purchasers for purposes of any applicable Regulation D limitations are the following [17 C.F.R. § 230.501(e)(1)]:

- Any accredited investor [see [2][a], above].
- Any relative, spouse or relative of spouse of an accredited investor who have the same principal residence as the purchaser ("excluded relatives").
- Any trust or estate in which an accredited investor and his or her excluded relatives collectively have more than 50 percent of the beneficial interest.
- Any corporation or other organization of which an accredited and any of his or her excluded relatives collectively are beneficial owners of more than 50 percent of the equity securities or equity interest.

A corporation, partnership or other entity is counted as one purchaser, unless the entity was organized for the specific purpose of acquiring the securities offered and is not an accredited investor, in which case each beneficial owner of equity securities or equity interests in the entity count as a separate purchaser except to the extent they are excluded purchasers [17 C.F.R. § 230.501(e)(2)]. A noncontributory employee benefit plan as defined in ERISA is counted as one purchaser if the trustee makes all investment decisions [17 C.F.R. § 230.501(e)(3)].

[b] Comparison With California Law

Accredited investors are excluded from the purchaser count under both Rule 505 and 506 of Regulation D and Corp. Code § 25102(f) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13(g)].

§ 6.54 Rule 504

[1] Eligible Issuers

Rule 504 is promulgated pursuant to Section 3(b) of the Securities Act [15 U.S.C. § 77c(b)]. Rule 504 is available to any issuer that is not any of the following [17 C.F.R. § 230.504(a)]:

- A reporting company under Sections 13 or 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. §§ 78m, 78o(d);
- An investment company; or
- A development stage company with no specific plan or intends to engage in mergers or acquisitions with unidentified companies.

[2] Eligible Offerings

No more that $1 million worth of securities may be sold. The aggregate offering price includes sales of any securities by the issuer that were made in the previous 12 months pursuant to an exemption afforded by Section 3(b) of the Securities Act or in violation of Section 5(a) of the Securities Act [17 C.F.R. § 230.504(b)(2)]. There is no limit on the number of purchasers to whom the securities may be sold to take advantage of the exemption afforded by Rule 504.

If the offering is made in at least one state where the offering must be registered under state law and a disclosure document must be delivered to purchasers before the sale, and disclosure documents are delivered to all purchasers, general solicitation with respect to the offering is permissible [17 C.F.R. § 230.504(b)(1)]. The issuer must file SEC Form D [17 C.F.R. § 239.500] for each new offering of securities with the SEC no later than 15 calendar days after the first sale of securities in the offering [17 C.F.R. 230.503(a)(1)]. As of March 16, 2009, a notice of sale on Form D must be filed with the SEC in electronic format by means of the Commission's EDGAR system in accordance with the rules set forth in Regulation S-T [17 C.F.R. § 230.503(b); see 17 C.F.R. Part 232; see also Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations, § 6A.202]. The issuer is not required to provide information to purchasers when using Rule 504 [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(1)].

[3] Comparison to California Limited Offering Exemption and Qualified Purchaser Exemption

An offering under Rule 504 will not necessarily qualify for the exemption afforded by Corp. Code § 25102(f). General solicitation and unlimited purchasers are permitted under Rule 504 but not Corp. Code § 25102(f).

Corp. Code § 25102(n) permits the use of general announcements and does not limit the number of purchasers. It also requires the use of a disclosure document in connection with sales to natural persons who are non-accredited investors. It therefore may be possible to make an offering under Rule 504 and Corp. Code § 25102(n) if the other conditions of the Corp. Code § 25102(n) exemption are satisfied.

[1] Eligible Issuers

Rule 505 is promulgated pursuant to Section 3(b) of the Securities Act [15 U.S.C. § 77c(b)]. Rule 505 is available to any issuer that

- Is not an investment company [17 C.F.R. § 230.505(a)].

- Has not been disqualified under any of the "bad boy provisions" in 17 C.F.R. § 230.262 [17 C.F.R. § 230.505(b)(2)(iii)].

[2] Eligible Offerings

No more than $5 million worth of securities may be sold. The aggregate offering price includes sales of any securities by the issuer that were made in the previous 12 months pursuant to any exemption afforded by Section 3(b) of the Securities Act or in violation of Section 5(a) of the Securities Act [17 C.F.R. § 230.505(b)(2)(i)]. There may be no more than, or the issuer must reasonably believe there are no more than, 35 purchasers (excluding accredited investors) [17 C.F.R. § 230.505(b)(2)(ii)]. The issuer must file SEC Form D [17 C.F.R. § 239.500] for each new offering of securities with the SEC no later than 15 calendar days after the first sale of securities in the offering [17 C.F.R. 230.503(a)(1)]. As of March 16, 2009, a notice of sale on Form D must be filed with the SEC in electronic format by means of the Commission's EDGAR system in accordance with the rules set forth in Regulation S-T [17 C.F.R. § 230.503(b); see 17 C.F.R. Part 232; see also Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations, § 6A.202].

Securities acquired under the exemption afforded by Rule 505 may not be offered or sold in connection with any form of general solicitation or general advertising [17 C.F.R. § 230.505(b)(1); 17 C.F.R. § 230.502(c)]. Securities acquired pursuant to an exemption under Rule 505 cannot be resold without registration under the Securities Act or an exemption from the registration requirement [17 C.F.R. § 230.505(b)(1); 17 C.F.R. § 230.502(d)].

The information an issuer must disclose under Rule 505 is set forth in 17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b) [17 C.F.R. § 230.505(b)(1); see also Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations, § 6A.27]. The issuer need not provide the information to accredited investors, but should consider providing such information to accredited investors when it provides information to nonaccredited investors in view of the anti-fraud provisions of the federal securities laws [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(1), note].

[3] Comparison to California Limited Offering Exemption

Offerings exempt under Rule 505 will frequently qualify for the California limited offering exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(f). All purchasers, except excluded purchasers, must meet investor suitability requirements under Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2), but there is no similar requirement under Rule 505. Under both Rule 505 and Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2), there is a limitation of 35 counted purchasers but the excluded purchaser list is more extensive under Corp. Code § 25102(f). Under Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2), there must be no more than 35 counted purchasers, and, under Rule 505, the issuer must have a reasonable belief that there are no more than 35 counted purchasers.

There are no "bad boy" disqualifiers under Corp. Code § 25102(f). A disclosure document satisfying the requirements of Regulation D must be provided to non-accredited investors under Rule 505, but there is no requirement for the preparation of any disclosure document under Corp. Code § 25102(f). There is a limitation on the amount of the securities that may be offered under Rule 505. There is no similar restriction under Corp. Code § 25102(f).

3-6 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 6.56

AUTHOR: Marilyn Minger Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6.56 Rule 506

[1] Eligible Issuers

Rule 506 is similar to Rule 505, except that Rule 506 is promulgated under Section 4(2) [15 U.S.C. § 77d(2)] of the Securities Act instead of Section 3(b) [17 C.F.R. § 230.506(a)]. This is a significant distinction because, as discussed in § 6.15, the federal preemption provisions of the National Securities Markets Improvement Act (NSMIA) exempt Rule 506 transactions from having to comply with California qualification requirements, whereas Rule 504 and Rule 505 transactions are not similarly exempted. Rule 506 is available to any issuer.

[2] Eligible Offerings

There is no limitation on the dollar amount of the securities an issuer may offer under Rule 506. There may be no more than, or the issuer must reasonably believe there are no more than, 35 counted purchasers purchasing securities from the issuer in the offering [17 C.F.R. § 230.506(b)(2)(i)]. Each purchaser who is not an accredited investor either alone or with his or her purchaser representative [see [3], below], must have such knowledge and experience in financial and business matters that he or she is capable of evaluating the merits and risks of the prospective investment, or the issuer reasonably believes the purchaser comes within this description [17 C.F.R. § 230.506(b)(2)(ii)].

The issuer must file SEC Form D [17 C.F.R. § 239.500] for each new offering of securities with the SEC no later than 15 calendar days after the first sale of securities in the offering [17 C.F.R. 230.503(a)(1)]. As of March 16, 2009, a notice of sale on Form D must be filed with the SEC in electronic format by means of the Commission's EDGAR system in accordance with the rules set forth in Regulation S-T [17 C.F.R. § 230.503(b); see 17 C.F.R. Part 232; see also Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations, § 6A.202]. The information an issuer must disclose under Rule 506 is set forth in 17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b) [17 C.F.R. § 230.506(b)(1); see also Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations, § 6A.28]. The issuer need not provide the information to accredited investors, but should consider providing that information to accredited investors when it provides information to nonaccredited investors in view of the anti-fraud provisions of the federal securities laws [17

C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(1), note].

Securities acquired under the Rule 506 exemption may not be offered or sold in connection with any form of general solicitation or general advertising [17 C.F.R. § 230.506(b); 17 C.F.R. § 230.502(c)]. Securities acquired pursuant to an exemption under Rule 506 cannot be resold without registration under the Securities Act or an exemption therefrom [17 C.F.R. § 230.506(b); 17 C.F.R. § 230.502(d)].

The concept of "purchaser representative" is applicable only to Rule 506 offerings. A "purchaser representative" is any person who satisfies all of the following conditions or who the issuer reasonably believes satisfies all of the following conditions [17 C.F.R. § 230.501(h)]:

- Is not an affiliate, director, officer or other employee of the issuer, or beneficial owner of 10 percent or more of any class of the equity securities or 10 percent or more of the equity interest in the issuer, except when the purchaser is
  - A relative of the purchaser representative by blood, marriage or adoption and not more remote than a first cousin (a "purchaser relative");
  - A trust or estate in which the purchaser representative and any purchaser relatives collectively have more than 50 percent of the beneficial interest or of which the purchaser representative serves as trustee, executor, or in any similar capacity; or
  - A corporation or other organization of which the purchaser representative and any purchaser relatives collectively are the beneficial owners of more than 50 percent of the equity securities or equity interests.
- Has such knowledge and experience in financial and business matters that he or she is capable of evaluating, alone, or together with other purchaser representatives of the purchaser, or together with the purchaser, the merits and risks of the prospective investment.
- Is acknowledged by the purchaser in writing, during the course of the transaction, to be his or her purchaser representative in connection with evaluating the merits and risks of the prospective investment.
- Discloses to the purchaser in writing a reasonable time prior to the sale of securities to that purchaser any material relationship between the purchaser representative or its affiliates and the issuer or its affiliates that then exists, that is mutually understood to be contemplated, or that has existed at any time during the previous two years, and any compensation received or to be received as a result of that relationship [17 C.F.R. § 230.501(h)(4)].

[4] Comparison to California Limited Offering Exemption

An offering exempt under Rule 506 will frequently qualify for an exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(f). Under both Rule 506 and Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2), there is a limitation of 35 counted purchasers, but the excluded purchaser list is more extensive under Corp. Code § 25102(f). Under Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2) there must be no more than 35 counted purchasers and under Rule 506 the issuer must have a reasonable belief that there are no more than 35 counted purchasers.

The purchaser qualification requirements under Rule 506 and under Corp. Code § 25102(f) are substantially similar and under both exemptions only nonaccredited investors or nonexcluded purchasers are required to meet the purchaser suitability requirements. Issuers should be aware of the different rules that apply to purchaser representatives under federal law and professional advisors under California law when there are purchasers who qualify by virtue of their purchaser representatives and professional advisors.

Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2) employs the concept of "professional advisor," which is similar to that of a purchaser representative, but there are notable differences. Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2) requires that all purchasers, to the extent they are not excluded purchasers, have either a preexisting relationship with insiders or have the business or financial sophistication to protect themselves in connection with respect the transaction. Purchasers can satisfy the sophistication requirement if their "professional advisors" have the requisite experience.

Unlike a purchaser representative, a professional advisor must be an actual professional in that the professional advisor must be one of the following [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(g)]:

- An attorney.
- A certified public accountant.
- A person who, as a regular part of that person's business, is customarily relied on by others for investment recommendations or decisions, and who is customarily compensated for such services, either specifically or by way of compensation for related professional services.

"Professional advisor" includes persons licensed or registered as broker-dealers, agents, investment advisors, banks, savings and loan associations, and, with respect to those real estate securities described in Corp. Code § 25206, licensed real estate brokers [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(g)(1)].

A professional advisor may not be affiliated with the issuer, employed by the issuer, be an owner of more than 1 percent of the beneficial interest of the issuer, or be compensated by the issuer either directly or indirectly [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(h)]. A purchaser representative may own up to 10 percent of the beneficial interest of the issuer and may receive compensation from the issuer as long as it is disclosed to the purchaser [17 C.F.R. § 230.501(h)].

Like a purchaser representative, the personal advisor must be designated as such by the purchaser and may not be affiliated with or compensated by the issuer [see Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(g); 17 C.F.R. § 230.501(h)].

There are no "bad boy" disqualifiers under Corp. Code § 25102(f), such as those applicable to Rule 506 offerings. A disclosure document satisfying the requirements of Regulation D must be provided to non-accredited investors under Rule 506, but there is no requirement for the preparation of a disclosure document under Corp. Code § 5102(f).

An issuer with an offering that satisfies the requirements of Rule 506 will generally take advantage of the NSMIA preemption provisions and make the necessary filings under Corp. Code § 25102.1(d), rather than comply with Corp. Code § 25102(f), unless each of the purchasers has a preexisting relationship with the issuer so that an offering document need not be prepared. However, the provisions of Rule 508 of Regulation D, which excuse certain de minimis failures to comply with Rule 506 of Regulation D, may not be applicable to preempted offerings. In addition, it may be necessary to rely on Corp. Code § 25102(f) if the issuer fails to make the required filings under Corp. Code § 25102.1(d) as required by that section. Failure to make the required filings does not preclude reliance on the exemption afforded by Corp. Code § 25102(f).

Regulation A [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.251-230.263] is an exemption promulgated by the SEC pursuant to Section 3(b) of the Securities Act [15 U.S.C. § 77c(b)]. The Regulation A exemption is actually an exemption only from full registration because a notification of the issuance is required. Regulation A is not satisfied by finding that specified conditions exist, but only upon compliance with its procedures.

The sum of all consideration to be received for the securities (the "aggregate offering price") sold as exempt under Regulation A and any other securities offered or sold by the issuer within one year prior to the commencement of the proposed Regulation A offering pursuant to any other exemption under Section 3(b) of the Securities Act may not exceed $5 million, including no more than $1.5 million in nonissuer resales [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.251(b)]. Sales during that period in which the issuer relies on other exemptions, however, do not reduce the Regulation A dollar ceiling [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.251(c)].

Notification on Form 1-A must be filed with the SEC prior to making an offer of securities in reliance on Regulation A [17 C.F.R. § 230.251(d)]. A preliminary or final offering circular must be furnished to offerees at least 48 hours prior to mailing a confirmation of sale to those offerees [17 C.F.R. § 230.251(d)(2)(i)(B)]. The securities may not be sold until Form 1-A is qualified and the final offering circular is delivered to the purchaser [17 C.F.R. § 230.251(d)(2)].

All sales material must be filed with the SEC and the issuer must report all sales made under the exemption afforded by Regulation A [17 C.F.R. § 230.256].

The small company application procedures under California law are intended to facilitate Regulation A offerings in California [see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 93-C (Oct. 13, 1993)].

Section 3(a)(11) of the Securities Act exempts any security that is part of an issue offered and sold only to persons resident within a single state or territory, if the issuer resides or is doing business in that state or territory, or, in the case of a corporation is incorporated in and doing business within that state or territory [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(11)]. SEC Rule 147 [17 C.F.R. § 230.147] provides objective standards, or a safe harbor, on which issuers intending to raise capital from local sources may rely in claiming the exemption under Section 3(a)(11). Rule 147 applies only to issuers, and not to other persons selling securities.

If an issuer relies on Rule 147, all securities of the issuer that are part of an issue must be offered or sold in accordance with all of the terms and conditions of Rule 147 [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(b)(1)]. In other words, the issuer cannot rely on Rule 147 for part of an issue and some other exemption for the balance.

For purposes of Rule 147, an issue is deemed not to include offers or sales that take place prior to the six month period immediately preceding or after the six month period immediately following an offer or sale made pursuant to Rule 147 if there are not offers or sales by or for the issuer of the same or similar class as those offered or sold pursuant to Rule 147 [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(b)(2)].

Under Rule 147, during the period that the securities are being offered and sold by the issuer and for nine months after the last sale by the issuer, all resales of any part of the issue may be made only to persons resident within the state or territory [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(e)].

[2] Residence/Doing Business Requirement--Issuer

For purposes of Rule 147, an issuer is deemed to be a resident of the state or territory in which it meets the following conditions [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(c)(1)]:

- It is incorporated or organized under the laws of that state or territory;

- Its principal office is located, if the issuer is not an organization required to be organized under state or territorial law; and

- The issuer's principal residence is located if the issuer is an individual.

For purposes of Rule 147, an issuer is deemed to be doing business within a state or territory if it meets the following conditions [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(c)(2)]:

- The issuer derived at least 80 percent of its gross revenues and those of its subsidiaries from that state or territory;

- The issuer had at the end of its most recent semi-annual fiscal period prior to the first offer of any part of the issue, at least 80 percent of its assets and those of its subsidiaries located within the state or territory;

- The issuer intends to use at least 80 percent of the net proceeds from the issue in connection with the operation of a business or real property, the purchase of real property in the state or territory, or the rendering of services in the state or territory; and

- The principal office of the issuer is located in the state or territory.

[3] Residence/Doing Business Requirement--Offerees and Purchasers

For purposes of Rule 147, offerees and purchasers are deemed to be residents of the state or territory if, at the time of the offer or sale, they meet the following conditions [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(d)]:

- The offeree or purchaser is a business entity with its principal place of business within the state or territory; or

- The offeree or purchaser is an individual with his or her principal residence in the state or territory.

If a business entity is formed specifically to acquire part of an issue exempt under Section 3(a)(11), it is deemed not a resident of the subject state or territory unless all of the beneficial owners of the entity are residents of the state or territory [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(d)(3)].

[4] Other Issuer Requirements for Rule 147

To satisfy the Rule 147 requirements, the issuer must also do the following [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(f)]:

- Place a legend regrading the restrictions on resale on the certificate or other evidencing document.

- Issue stop transfer instructions to its transfer agent.

- Obtain a written representation from each purchaser as to his or her residence.

- In connection with any offer or sale, disclose in writing the limitations on resale.

It is frequently possible to take advantage of Rule 147 in offerings made in reliance on Corp. Code § 25102(h) or (n) or by California corporations.

§ 6.70 Interstate Offerings

Offers or sales of securities made in multiple jurisdictions present special problems. All states, as well as the District of Columbia, Guam, and Puerto Rico, have enacted some form of securities regulation. When a securities offering is made in California, and also in one or more other jurisdictions, the issuer must be aware of and comply with not only federal securities regulations but also with securities regulations in all other jurisdictions in which offers or sales are made.

As discussed in § 6.15, the National Securities Markets Improvement Act (NSMIA) preempted state regulation of offerings of "covered securities" [see § 6.15[5]]. One of the reasons behind enactment of NSMIA was the reduction of duplicative and inconsistent regulatory requirements among individual states. Since securities qualifying for the Rule 506 [17 C.F.R. § 230.506; see § 6.56] exemption are "qualified securities" subject to the NSMIA preemption provisions, filing under Rule 506 may be simpler in many cases than dealing with the requirements of multiple states.

§ 6.71 Coordinated Equity Review Program

[1] California Participation

The North American Securities Administrators Association, Inc. (NASAA) has established the Coordinated Review of Equity Offerings program (CER), a pilot program designed to build on coordination efforts by NASAA. The Commissioner of Corporations has announced the participation of the California Department of Corporations in the CER program [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 111-C (Apr. 16, 1998)].

[2] Coordinated Review

The CER program provides for coordination of review among sister state securities regulators that allows each participating state to avoid the duplication of another state's regulatory efforts and resources in reviewing each application. Under CER, an issuer requests coordination of review by notifying the Department of Corporations of its intent to participate under CER. The issuer then files a complete application with the Department and any other state in which the issuer seeks to offer securities. A "lead state" is then appointed to manage the coordination process among the participating states. The Department reviews a California offering application and forwards all comments and other issues raised by the application to the lead state. The lead state has the responsibility to combine all of the relevant comments into a single letter that is then forwarded to the issuer.

Under CER, all negotiations related to a particular offering are conducted with a single state regulator. Individual state-specific comments may necessitate additional interaction with the issuer outside of the lead state relationship [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 111-C (Apr. 16, 1998)].

[3] Guidelines

States participating in CER have agreed to adhere to the guidelines promulgated by NASAA, except to the extent that the guidelines contradict state law, including rules and orders. The purpose of the guidelines is to provide a basis for uniformity among the states without contravening state law, including rules and orders. To facilitate its participation in the pilot program, the Department has appointed an internal working group to oversee and review CER applications. This group is responsible for maintaining the consistency of the review process and insuring that each applicant is in compliance with the Corporate Securities Law of 1968. Variances from the requirements of the Commissioner's rules will be considered on an ad hoc basis, consistent with 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140 [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 111-C (Apr. 16, 1998); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140].

NOTE:

Before any determination can be made as to the type of qualification procedure to be used, counsel must determine that there is a security offered or sold in California, that the security is not exempt or involved in an exempt transaction, and that the security is subject to qualification [see Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, 25130; see also Corp. Code §§ 25100.1, 25101.1, 25102.1]. Because some types of qualification are dependent upon federal registration, counsel must also determine whether the security or transaction is subject to federal registration requirements.

§ 6.110 Existence of Security

1. Determine whether instrument or interest is one of following which constitutes "security" [Corp. Code § 25019]:

NOTE:

The list of items set forth in Corp. Code § 25019, enumerated below, is illustrative rather than all-inclusive [see People v. Syde (1951) 37 Cal. 2d 765, 768, 235 P.2d 601] . In California, courts have generally used the "risk-capital test" to determine whether an investment is a "security" within the meaning of Corp. Code § 25019. That test states that the purposes of the Corporate Securities Law are implicated whenever investors provide capital that will be risked in the promoter's venture or enterprise [see Silver Hills Country Club v. Sobieski (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 811, 814, 13 Cal. Rptr. 186, 361 P.2d 906] . For example, a limited partnership interest is a security under that test, notwithstanding that investor participation is contemplated or required, as long as the investor is not involved in those essential managerial efforts that affect the failure or success of the enterprise [People v. Graham (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 1159, 1168-1169, 210 Cal. Rptr. 318] .

a. Note.

NOTE:

Not every note or evidence of indebtedness, regardless of its nature and of the circumstances surrounding its execution, is a security under the statutory definition. Fractional interests in promissory notes secured by deeds of trust are not securities under that definition without proof that they constitute securities under the California "risk capital" test or the federal test [Leyva v. Superior Court (1985) 164 Cal. App. 3d 462, 474-475, 210 Cal. Rptr. 545] .

b. Stock.

c. Treasury stock.

d. Membership in incorporated or unincorporated association.

e. Bond.

f. Debenture.

g. Evidence of indebtedness.

h. Certificate of interest or participation in any profit-sharing agreement.

i. Collateral trust certificate.

j. Preorganization certificate or subscription.

k. Transferable share.

l. Investment contract.

m. Viatical settlement contract or fractionalized or pooled interest therein.

NOTE:
Although the term "viatical settlement contract" is no longer used in the Insurance Code, neither Corp. Code § 25019 nor Corp. Code § 25023 (defining that term by reference to Ins. Code § 10113.1) has been amended to conform to that change.

n. Life settlement contract or fractionalized or pooled interest therein.

o. Voting trust certificate.

p. Certificate of deposit for security.

q. Interest in limited liability company, and any class or series of that interest (including any fractional or other interest), except membership interest in which person claiming exception can prove that all members are actively engaged in management of LLC.

NOTE:
Evidence that members vote or have the right to vote, or the right to information concerning the business and affairs of the limited liability company, or the right to participate in management, does not establish, without more, that all members are actively engaged in the management of the company [Corp. Code § 25019].

r. Certificate of interest or participation in oil, gas, or mining title or lease, or in payments out of production under that title or lease.

s. Put, call, straddle, option, or privilege on any security, certificate of deposit, or group or index of securities.

t. Put, call, straddle, option, or privilege entered into on national securities exchange relating to foreign currency.

u. Beneficial interest or other security issued in connection with funded employees' pension, profit-sharing, stock bonus, or similar benefit plan.

v. Interest or instrument commonly known as "security."

w. Certificate of interest or participation in, temporary or interim certificate for, receipt for, guarantee of, or warrant or right to subscribe to or purchase any of above.

x. Any of items listed in PP a through w, above, even though not evidenced by written document.

2. Determine whether instrument or interest is one of following which by law do not constitute a "security" [Corp. Code § 25019]:

a. Beneficial interest in voluntary inter vivos trust not created for purpose of carrying on business or solely for purpose of voting [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.019.1 ("voluntary inter vivos trusts" defined), 260.019.2 ("non-business trusts" defined); see also Commissioner's Opinion No. 06/1C (June 2, 2006)(concluding that certain beneficial interests in trusts were not securities].

b. Beneficial interest in testamentary trust.

c. Insurance or endowment policy or annuity contract under which insurance company admitted in California promises to pay sum of money either in lump sum or periodically for life or for some other specified period.

d. Franchise which is either:

(1) Subject to registration under Franchise Investment Law [see Corp. Code §§ 31000-31516].

(2) Exempted from registration by Corp. Code § 31100 or 31101.

e. Discretionary account maintained by customer with commodity broker for trading in commodities or commodity futures [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.019].

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

3-6 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 6.111

AUTHOR: Marilyn Minger Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6.111 Existence of Offer or Sale

1. Determine whether transaction is one of following transactions classified as "sales" [Corp. Code § 25017(a)]:

a. Contracts of sale of, contracts to sell, or dispositions of, securities or interests in securities for value.

b. Exchange of securities.

c. Changes in rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on outstanding securities.

NOTE:
These changes include changes in the rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on outstanding securities of a corporation effected through the adoption, modification, or termination of provisions of a shareholders' agreement, when the provisions would be required to be in the articles of incorporation or bylaws to be effective [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.017.2; see Corp. Code § 204(a)(2) (excluded)]. These changes also include the addition to or deletion from the articles of incorporation of the provisions prescribed by Corp. Code § 158(a) with respect to close corporations [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.017.3].

2. Determine whether transaction constitutes any of following:

a. Attempts or offers to dispose of or solicitations of offers to buy securities or interest in securities for value.

NOTE:
These constitute an "offer" or "offer to sell" [Corp. Code § 25017(b)].

b. Security given or delivered with, or as bonus on account of, purchase of securities or any other thing.

NOTE:
Such a security constitutes part of the subject of the purchase and is considered to have been offered and sold for value [Corp. Code § 25017(c)].

c. Gift of assessable stock.

NOTE:
A purported gift of assessable stock involves an offer and sale [Corp. Code § 25017(d)].

d. Offer or sale of warrant or right to purchase or subscribe to another security of same or another issuer, or offer or sale of a security that gives holder present or future right or privilege to convert security into another security of same or another issuer.

NOTE:
Every such offer or sale includes an offer and sale of the underlying security only at the time of the offer or sale of the warrant, right, or convertible security. However, neither the exercise of the right to purchase, subscribe, or convert, nor issuance of securities pursuant to such an exercise constitutes an offer or sale [Corp. Code § 25017(e)].

3. Determine whether transaction is one of following which by law do not constitute offer or sale: [Corp. Code § 25017(f)]:

NOTE:
The following transactions are specifically excluded from the definition of "offer" and "sale" [Corp. Code § 25017(f)].

a. Bona fide secured transaction in, or loan of, outstanding securities.

b. Stock dividends payable with respect to common stock of corporation solely in shares of that common stock (except cash or scrip paid for fractional shares), provided corporation has no other class of voting stock outstanding.

NOTE:
For these purposes, the term "stock dividend" means the issuance of additional shares (including treasury shares) of the issuer to its existing shareholders or to the shareholders of a class, pro rata according to the shares previously held (except for any cash or scrip paid for fractional shares), without consideration other than the transfer from surplus to stated capital of an amount equal to or greater than the par, stated, or market value of the shares distributed, but without any other consideration being paid by the shareholders, and not by an amendment to the articles of incorporation stating the effect on outstanding shares. The term "stock dividend" does not include a stock split, exchange, or reclassification of shares [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.017(a)].

A stock dividend is not payable "solely in shares of such common stock" within the meaning of Corp. Code § 25017(f) if the shareholders have the option to accept either cash or additional shares of common stock [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.017(b)]. A stock dividend is not payable" in shares of such common stock, if the corporation has no other class of voting stock outstanding," unless the dividend is payable in shares of voting common stock, and that stock is of the same class as the class on which the dividend is paid [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.017(c)].

"Voting stock" means any stock presently entitling the owner or holder to vote in elections of directors. It does not include any security which entitles the owner or holder to vote in elections of directors only upon the happening of an event or contingency which has not yet occurred [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.017.1].

For further discussion, see Ch. 9, Dividends, Reacquisitions of Shares, and Assessments .

c. Act incident to transaction or reorganization, approved by state or federal court, in which securities are issued and exchanged for one or more outstanding securities, claims, or property interests, or partly in exchange and partly for cash.

4. Determine whether transaction is transfer of corporate stock as part of division of community property in divorce settlement.

NOTE:

Such a transaction is not treated as a "sale" of securities for purposes of California securities laws [see D'Elia v. D'Elia (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 415, 423-426, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 324 (citing Corp. Code § 25017); see also Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 21, Corporate Securities , § 445.01 (Matthew Bender)].

§ 6.114 Single or Multiple Transactions

NOTE:

One of the major problems confronting an issuer concerns the identification of all offerings--past, present, and future--that will be considered a part of the transaction. The treatment of multiple offers and/or sales as a single transaction is commonly referred to as "integration." The primary threat posed by integration is the possibility that the Commissioner may include in the transaction a past offer or sale which, either alone or in conjunction with the other offers and sales of the transaction, violates the requirements of an exemption. The variety present in securities transactions preclude a single definition of the term "transaction" or a single test for integration. The Commissioner has stated that "transaction" refers to one or more offers or sales of a security that have such a connection with each other as to be considered one transaction for statutory purposes [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 67-C (Oct. 20, 1981)]. For additional discussion of integration, see § 6B.21.

1. Evaluate whether transaction and other transactions by same issuer exhibit any of following factors indicating existence of single transaction:

a. Different offerings made for same general purpose.

b. Different offerings that are part of single plan of financing.

c. Different offerings involving issuance of same class of security.

d. Different offerings made at or about the same time.

e. Same type of consideration received from different offerings.

2. Evaluate whether transaction and other transactions by same issuer exhibit any of following factors indicating existence of separate transactions:

a. Offer or sale were made more than six months before start of other offering.

b. Offer or sale were made more than six months after completion of other offering.

c. Offer or sale were pursuant to qualification effective after filing notice of transaction under limited offering exemption, or in which application for qualification discloses transaction under limited offering exemption, whether past, current or proposed.

§ 6.115 Securities Exempt From Qualification

NOTE:

An exemption from qualification may exist either because the security itself is exempt [see below; see also Corp. Code §§ 25100, 25101] or because it is involved in an exempt transaction [see § 6.116; see also Corp. Code § 25102].

1. If security is issuer security [see § 6.113], determine whether it will qualify for any of the following exemptions for issuer securities [see Corp. Code § 25100]:

a. Securities (including revenue obligations) or certificates of deposit issued or guaranteed by United States, any state, city, county, city and county, public district, public authority, public corporation, public entity, political subdivision of a state, or any agency or instrumentality of the foregoing [Corp. Code § 25100(a)].

b. Securities or certificates of deposit issued or guaranteed by any foreign government with which United States currently maintains diplomatic relations [Corp. Code § 25100(b)].

c. Bank or trust company securities [Corp. Code § 25100(c)]:

(1) Securities issued or guaranteed by and representing interest in or direct obligation of a national bank or a bank or trust company incorporated under California law; or

(2) Securities issued by a bank to one or more other banks and representing interest in asset of issuing bank.

d. Securities issued or guaranteed by federal savings and loan associations, federal savings banks, federal land banks, joint land banks, national farm loan associations, or by savings associations [see Fin. Code § 5102(a) (definition)], subject to supervision and regulation of California Commissioner of Financial Institutions [Corp. Code § 25100(d)].

e. Securities issued subject to authorization by California Insurance Commissioner, California Public Utilities Commission, or California Real Estate Commissioner [Corp. Code § 25100(e)].

f. Securities consisting of interest in one or more parcels of real property that constitute subdivided lands, subdivision, or real estate development [Corp. Code § 25100(f)].

NOTE:

The preceding exemption does not apply to (1) any investment contract sold or offered for sale with, or as part of, any interest in subdivided land, a subdivision, or a real estate development; or (2) any person engaged in the business of selling, distributing, or supplying water for irrigation purposes or domestic use that is not a public utility. However, the exemption is applicable to any security of a mutual water company (other than an investment contract described in (1), above) offered or sold in connection with subdivided lands pursuant to Corp. Code § 14310 et seq. [Corp. Code § 25100(f)].

g. Mutual capital certificates or savings accounts, as defined in Savings Association law, issued by savings association [see Fin. Code § 5102(a) (definition)], holding license or certificate of authority then in force from California Commissioner of Financial Institutions [Corp. Code § 25100(g)].

h. Securities issued or guaranteed by federal credit union or by credit union organized and supervised or regulated under Credit Union Law [Corp. Code § 25100(h); Fin. Code § 14000 et seq.].

i. Securities issued or guaranteed by common carrier, public utility, or public utility holding company that is [Corp. Code § 25100(i)]:

NOTE:

Corp. Code § 25100(i) also lists a holding company or subsidiary registered with the SEC under 15 U.S.C. § 79 et seq. The latter United States Code section, however, was repealed in 2005.

(1) Subject to jurisdiction of Interstate Commerce Commission or its successor;

(2) Regulated by governmental authority of United States, any state, Canada, or Canadian province with respect to issuance or guarantee of security.

j. Securities (except evidences of indebtedness) of an issuer [Corp. Code § 25100(j)]:

(1) Organized exclusively for educational, benevolent, fraternal, religious, charitable, social, or reformatory purposes and not for pecuniary profit, provided no part of net earnings of issuer inures to benefit of private shareholder or individual; or

(2) Organized as chamber of commerce or trade or professional association.

NOTE:

This exemption does not apply to the securities of a nonprofit organization if any promoter of those securities expects or intends to profit directly or indirectly from the nonprofit organization [Corp. Code § 25100(j)]. An exemption may be available when a promoter expects to profit directly or indirectly from the nonprofit organization, if specified criteria are met [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.20].

k. Agreements commonly known as "life income contracts" [Corp. Code § 25100(k)].

NOTE:

Life income contracts are agreements between an issuer (1) organized exclusively for educational, benevolent, fraternal, religious, charitable, social, or reformatory purposes and not for pecuniary profit, and (2) that the Commissioner designates by rule or order, and a donor who has made an irrevocable donation of property to the issuer. These agreements provide for the payment of income or of specified periodic payments to the donor or to persons designated by the donor [Corp. Code § 25100(k); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.100.2; see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.100 (designating certain colleges entitled to exemption), 260.100.1 (prescribing form for request for exemption)].

l. Notes, drafts, bills of exchange, banker's acceptances, or renewals or guarantees of these instruments that are [Corp. Code § 25100(l)]:

(1) Freely transferable;

(2) Prime quality;

(3) Arising out of a current transaction (or their proceeds have been or will be used for a current transaction);

(4) Evidence of obligation to pay cash within nine months of date of issuance; and

(5) Not offered to public in aggregate amounts of less than $25,000 to any one purchaser.

NOTE:

An issuer whose short term commercial paper would be exempt from qualification by virtue of Corp. Code § 25100(l) but for the fact that the securities are to be offered and sold in aggregate amounts of less than $25,000 to any one purchaser may request an order of exemption [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.100.3(a); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.100.3(b) (request form)].

m. Securities issued by corporations organized and existing under provisions of Chapter 1 of Division 20 of Food and Agricultural Code [Corp. Code § 25100(m)].

n. Beneficial interests in employees' pension, profit sharing, stock bonus, or similar benefit plans that meet requirements for qualification under I.R.C. § 401 [Corp. Code § 25100(n)].

o. Securities that are listed or approved for listing on a national securities exchange certified by Commissioner [Corp. Code § 25100(o)].

NOTE:

Detailed criteria for certification of a securities exchange are set forth in Corp. Code § 25100(o). All securities listed or approved for listing on the New York Stock Exchange or the American Stock Exchange are exempt from registration [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 27-C (Revised Mar. 9, 1992)], as are Tier I securities of the Philadelphia Stock Exchange [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 96-C (Sept. 12, 1995)], the NASDAQ Global Market and the NASDAQ Capital Market [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 87-C (revised Aug. 17, 2009)], and Tier I (Select Market Companies) securities of the Pacific Stock Exchange, including any warrant or right to purchase or subscribe to those securities [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 95-C (Dec. 27, 1994)]. For further discussion of the securities exchanges under this exemption, some of which have been undergoing name changes in recent years [see § 6.15[5][a]], see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 4, General Exemptions From Qualification, § 4.03. The exemption does not apply to securities listed, or approved for listing on notice of issuance, in a rollup transaction unless it is an eligible rollup transaction [Corp. Code § 25100(o); see Corp. Code § 25014.7 ("eligible rollup transaction" defined)]. Equity securities that are senior to listed securities are also exempt [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.33].

p. Promissory notes secured by lien on real property unless note is [Corp. Code § 25100(p)]:

(1) One of series of notes of equal priority secured by same property; or

(2) One in which beneficial interests are sold to more than one person or entity.

q. Unincorporated interindemnity, reciprocal, or interinsurance contracts that qualify under Ins. Code § 1280.7 and that [Corp. Code § 25100(q)]:

(2) Indemnify solely with respect to medical malpractice claims against members of cooperative corporation; and

(3) Do not collect in advance of loss moneys other than contributions by members to collective reserve trust fund or for necessary administration expenses.

r. Shares or memberships issued by cooperative corporations organized and existing pursuant to Corp. Code § 12200 et seq. [see Ch. 14, Consumer Cooperative Corporations , and Ch. 14A, Agricultural Nonprofit Cooperative Associations], provided that aggregate investment of any shareholder or member does not exceed $300 [Corp. Code § 25100(r)].

NOTE:

This exemption does not apply to shares or memberships if any promoter of the corporation expects or intends to profit directly or indirectly from any business or activity associated with the corporation, from the operation of the corporation, or from remuneration from the corporation, other than a reasonable salary. Further, this exemption does not apply to nonvoting shares or memberships of the corporation issued to a person who does not possess voting power [see Corp. Code § 12253 ("voting power" defined)] in the corporation and who will not acquire voting power in connection with the issuance of nonvoting shares or memberships [Corp. Code § 25100(r)]. Finally, this exemption does not apply to shares or memberships issued by a nonprofit cooperative corporation organized to facilitate the creation of an unincorporated interindemnity arrangement that provides indemnification for medical malpractice to its physician and surgeon members [Corp. Code § 25100(r); see Corp. Code § 25100(q); see also P q, above].

s. Securities consisting of or representing interest in pool of mortgage loans, subject to following requirements [Corp. Code § 25100(s)]:

(1) Pool consists of whole mortgage loans, or participation interests in those loans, originated or acquired in ordinary course of business by:

(a) National bank, or federal savings and loan association, or federal savings bank, having principal office in California;

(b) Bank incorporated under laws of state of California; or

(c) Savings and loan association [see Fin. Code § 5102(a) (definition)], that is subject to supervision and regulation by Savings and Loan Commissioner.

(2) Mortgage loan at time of transfer to pool is authorized investment for originating or acquiring institution.

(3) Pool of mortgage loans is held in trust by trustee that is one of above-described financial institutions.

(4) Loans are serviced by one of above-described financial institutions.

(5) Security is not offered in aggregate amounts of less than $25,000 to any one purchaser.

(6) Security is offered pursuant to registration under Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77a et seq.] or pursuant to exemption under either Regulation A or Section 4(2)("private offering exemption") of that Act.

t. Securities issued or guaranteed by and representing interest in or direct obligation of industrial loan company incorporated under laws of California and authorized by Commissioner of Financial Institutions to engage in industrial loan business, and any investment certificate in or issued by industrial loan company that is organized under laws of any other state that is insured by FDIC and that maintains branch office in California [Corp. Code § 25100(t)].

2. If security is nonissuer security [see § 6.113], determine whether security qualifies as exempt nonissuer security by virtue of fact that issuer has security listed on national securities exchange, which is certified by rule or order of commissioner [Corp. Code § 25101(a)]:

NOTE:

Corp. Code § 25101(b) specifically excludes from the nonissuer exemption nonissuer securities offered pursuant to registration under Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77a et seq.] or pursuant to exemption under Regulation A of that Act, if the aggregate offering price of the securities exceeds $50,000 [Corp. Code § 25101(b)].

For further discussion of the securities exchanges under this exemption, some of which have been undergoing name changes in recent years [see § 6.15[5][a]], see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 10, Nonissuer Transactions, § 10.03.

a. Listed on New York Stock Exchange [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.101.2(a)].

b. Listed on American Stock Exchange [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.101.2(c)].

NOTE:

The Commissioner has certified the American Stock Exchange, but only to the extent that the securities are those of an issuer that has a security that is regularly listed on the American Stock Exchange. An issuer with securities listed on the American Stock Exchange's Emerging Company Marketplace or the AMEX/ECM is not an issuer with regularly listed securities [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.101.2(c)].

c. Listed on Tier I of Philadelphia Stock Exchange [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.101.2(a); see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 96-C (Sept. 12, 1995)].

d. Designated as national market system security on interdealer quotation system by National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc., and certified by rule or order of Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.101.2(b); see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 88-C (Revised Aug. 17, 2009), certifying the NASDAQ Global Market and the NASDAQ Capital Market of the NASDAQ Stock Market LLC, the successor to the Nasdaq Stock Market)].

NOTE:

The Commissioner has certified the interdealer quotation system of the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc., but only to the extent that the securities on the interdealer quotation system are those of an issuer that has a security designated as a National Market System security [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.101.2(b)].

e. Listed on Pacific Stock Exchange.

NOTE:

The Commissioner has certified the Pacific Stock Exchange; however, with regard to Small Corporate Offering Registration (SCOR) securities on the Pacific's SCOR Marketplace, only common and preferred stocks are exempt from qualification [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.101.2(d); see Corp. Code § 25130].

§ 6.116 Securities Transactions Exempt From Qualification

NOTE:

Transactions may be exempted by statute or by rule of the Commissioner [see Corp. Code § 25105; 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.105-260.105.30].

For a discussion of securities exempt from federal registration requirements under the Securities Act of 1933, see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations .

1. If transaction is issuer transaction [see § 6.113], determine whether it will qualify for any of the following exemptions for issuer transactions [see Corp. Code § 25102]:

a. Nonpublic offers (but not sales) and the execution and delivery of agreements for sale of securities pursuant to such offers, if both of following conditions are satisfied [Corp. Code § 25102(a)]:

NOTE:

For purposes of this exemption, no public offering is involved in offers made to 35 or fewer persons. This number excludes institutional and registered investors and public agencies [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.1(a)(1); see Corp. Code § 25102(i); 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.102.10, 260.105.14], and officers, directors, and other affiliates of the issuer [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.1(a)(2); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13]. Husband and wife are counted as one person, as is a partnership, corporation, or other association not specifically formed to purchase the security offered in reliance on this exemption [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.1(a)(3)].

(1) Agreement contains substantially the following provision:

"The sale of the securities that are the subject of this agreement has not been qualified with the Commissioner of Corporations of the State of California and the issuance of the securities or the payment or receipt of any part of the consideration therefor prior to the qualification is unlawful, unless the sale of securities is exempt from the qualification by Section 25100, 25102, or 25105 of the California Corporations Code. The rights of all parties to this agreement are expressly conditioned upon the qualification being obtained, unless the sale is so exempt."

(2) No part of purchase price is paid or received and no securities are issued until sale of securities is qualified under the Corporations Code, unless sale of securities is exempted from qualification by Corp. Code §§ 25100 or 25105.

b. Offers (but not sales) of securities for which registration statement has been filed under Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77a et seq.] but has not yet become effective, or offering statement has been filed under Regulation A but has not yet been qualified, if [Corp. Code § 25102(b)]:

(1) No stop order or refusal order is in effect;

(2) No public proceeding or examination considering such order is pending; and

(3) No order under Corp. Code § 25140 or under Corp. Code § 25143(a) is in effect.

c. Offers (but not sales) and the execution and delivery of agreements for the sale of securities pursuant to such offers if the Commissioner grants a negotiating permit [Corp. Code § 25102(c)].

NOTE:
Negotiating permits are seldom issued and it is recommended that issuers apply for a definitive qualification of the securities.

d. Transactions or agreements between issuer and underwriter or among underwriters, if sale of securities is qualified or exempt from qualification at time of distribution in California [Corp. Code § 25102(d)].

e. Offers or sales of evidence of indebtedness, secured or unsecured, and guarantees in transactions not involving public offerings [Corp. Code § 25102(e)].

NOTE:
The term "evidence of indebtedness" does not include a debt security that is convertible into an equity security, unless the debt security is convertible into a debt security of the same issuer and the sale of the equity security would be exempt from qualification other than under Corp. Code § 25102(h) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.2].

For purposes of the above exemption, offers or sales do not involve public offerings if offers are not made to more than 25 persons and sales are not consummated to more than 10 of those persons, and if all offerees either have preexisting personal or business relationships with offeror or its partners, officers, directors, or controlling persons, or by reason of business or financial experience could reasonably be assumed to have the capacity to protect their own interests [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.2].

The number of offerees and purchasers excludes institutional and accredited investors [Corp. Code § 25102(i)]. In addition, husband and wife (together with custodian or trustee acting on behalf of minor children) are counted as one person [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.2].

Failure to comply with these limitations does not necessarily mean that the transaction involves a public offering. Guidelines for determining whether an offering constitutes a public offering have been provided by the Commissioner in Dept. of Corps. Release No. 5-C (Jan. 31, 1969).

f. Offers or sales of securities, other than offers or sales to pension or profit-sharing trusts of the issuer, if the conditions of the "limited offering" exemption are satisfied [Corp. Code § 25102(f); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.102.12, 260.102.13, 260.102.14].

NOTE:

This exemption is generally known as the limited offering exemption. The requirements of this exemption are discussed in detail in Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions .

g. Offers or sales of conditional sale agreements, equipment trust certificates, or certificates of interest or participation or partial assignments of those interests, covering purchase of railroad rolling stock or equipment, or purchase of motor vehicles, aircraft, or parts, in transactions not involving public offerings [Corp. Code § 25102(g)].

h. Offers or sales of voting common stock by corporations in a "small offering" transaction [Corp. Code § 25102(h); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.102.4-260.102.9, 260.102.11].

NOTE:

This exemption is generally referred to as the "small offering" exemption. It is discussed in detail in Ch. 6C, California Small Offering Exemption .

i. Offers or sales for purchaser's own account (or trust account) for investment and not for sale in connection with distribution of security to [Corp. Code § 25102(i); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.10]:

NOTE:

Each purchaser must represent that the purchaser is purchasing for the purchaser's own account (or a trust account if the purchaser is a trustee) and not with a view to or for sale in connection with any distribution of the security. An offer to resell or a resale under 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.13.1 is not viewed as inconsistent with this purchaser representation [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.10.1]. Specifically permitted under this rule are private resales of securities to qualified institutional buyers under SEC Rule 144A [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.102.10.1, 260.105.13.1; see 17 C.F.R. § 230.144A].

(1) Banks, savings and loan associations, trust companies, insurance companies, investment companies registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 [15 U.S.C. § 80a-1 et seq.], pension or profit-sharing trusts (other than pension or profit-sharing trusts or issuer, self-employed individual retirement plans, or individual retirement accounts), or other institutional investors or governmental agencies or instrumentalities designated by the Commissioner; or

(2) Corporations with outstanding securities registered under Section 12 of Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [15 U.S.C. § 78l] or wholly owned subsidiaries thereof which, after offer and sale, will own directly or indirectly 100 percent of outstanding capital stock of issuer.

j. Offers or sales of certificates of interest or participation in oil or gas titles or leases (including subsurface gas storage and payments out of production), if either of following apply [Corp. Code § 25102(j)]:

(1) All purchasers either:

(a) Are and have been during the preceding two years engaged primarily in business of drilling for, producing, or refining oil or gas;

(b) Are institutional investors [Corp. Code § 25102(i)(1)]; or

(c) Have been found by Commissioner to be substantially engaged in business of drilling for, producing, or refining oil or gas so as not to require protection afforded by Corporate Securities Law of 1968.

(2) Security is concurrently hypothecated to bank in ordinary course of business to secure loan made by bank, provided that each purchaser represents that it is purchasing for its own account for investment and not with view to or for sale in connection with distribution of security [see Stewart v. Ragland (9th Cir. 1991) 934 F.2d 1033, 1041] .

k. Offers or sales of securities under or pursuant to plan of reorganization under Chapter 11 of federal bankruptcy law [11 U.S.C. § 1101 et seq.], confirmed or subject to confirmation, by decree or order of court of competent jurisdiction [Corp. Code § 25102(k)].

l. Offers or sales of options, warrants, puts, calls, straddles, or guarantees thereof by nonissuers subject to such rights, if the transaction, had it involved an offer or sale of the underlying security, would not have violated Corp. Code § 25110 or 25130 [Corp. Code § 25102(l)].

m. Offers or sales of stock to pension plans, stock bonus or employee stock ownership plans, provided [Corp. Code § 25102(m)]:

(1) Plan meets requirements for qualification under I.R.C. § 401; and

(2) Employees are not required or permitted individually to make any contribution to plan.

NOTE:
The above exception is not affected by whether the stock is contributed to the plan, purchased from the issuer with contributions by the issuer or an affiliate of the issuer, or purchased from the issuer with funds borrowed from the issuer, an affiliate of the issuer, or any other lender [Corp. Code § 25102(m)].

n. Offers or sales of securities in a qualified purchaser limited public offering [see Corp. Code § 25102(n)].

NOTE:
An offer or sale of a security in a limited public offering (other than in a rollup transaction) by specified issuers to certain "qualified purchasers" is exempt from the Commissioner's review and approval process if it meets statutory criteria. The exemption is designed to facilitate the ability of small companies to raise capital to finance their growth, and is unique in that it allows for the publication of a notice announcing the proposed offer [see Corp. Code § 25102(n)(5); Dept. of Corps. Release No. 94-C (Sept. 27, 1994); see also 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.102.16-260.102.18; Commissioner's Opinion No. 99/1C (concluding that exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(n) may not be relied on by limited liability company if it offers or sells membership interest to "qualified purchasers" as defined Corp. Code § 25102(n)(2)(E), as membership interest in LLCs are not "stock")]. This exemption is discussed in detail in Ch. 6D, California Qualified Purchaser Exemptions .

o. Offers or sales of securities by a corporation or LLC issued pursuant to purchase plan or agreement, or issued pursuant to option plan or agreement, if at time of issuance or grant, securities are exempt from registration under Securities Act of 1933 pursuant to 17 C.F.R. 230.701 [Corp. Code § 25102(o)].

NOTE:

The terms of any option or purchase plan or agreement must comply with the substantive and disclosure requirements contained in the applicable provisions of the rules [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.41, 260.140.42, 260.140.45, 260.140.46]. The issuer must file a notice of the transaction [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.19 (form for notice)] no later than 30 days after the initial issuance of any security in California under the plan in accordance with rules adopted by the Commissioner, accompanied by the filing fee specified in Corp. Code § 25608(y) [Corp. Code § 25102(o)]. The failure to file a notice of transaction, or the failure to file that notice within the specified time, however, will not affect the availability of the exemption. Within 15 business days after discovery of the failure to file the notice or after demand by the Commissioner, whichever occurs first, an issuer that has failed to file the notice must file it and pay the Commissioner a fee equal to the maximum aggregate fee payable had the transaction been qualified under Corp. Code § 25110. Offers and sales exempt under this subdivision are deemed to be part of a single, discrete offering and are not subject to integration with any other offering or sale, whether qualified as an issuer transaction [see Corp. Code § 25100 et seq.], otherwise exempt, or not subject to qualification [Corp. Code § 25102(o)].

p. Offers or sales of nonredeemable securities to accredited investors [see Corp. Code § 28031 (definition)] by persons licensed under the Capital Access Company Law [Corp. Code § 25102(p); see Corp. Code § 28000 et seq.].

NOTE:

All nonredeemable securities must be evidenced by certificates that have stamped or printed prominently on their face a legend in a form to be prescribed by rule or order of the Commissioner restricting transfer of the securities in the manner as the rule or order provides [Corp. Code § 25102(p)].

q. Offers or sales of any viatical or life settlement contract or fractionalized or pooled interest therein, in transaction that meets all of following criteria [Corp. Code § 25102(q)]:

NOTE:

Although the term "viatical settlement contract" is no longer used in the Insurance Code, neither Corp. Code § 25102(q) nor Corp. Code § 25023 (defining that term by reference to Ins. Code § 10113.1) has been amended to conform to that change.

(1) Sales of securities are made only to qualified purchasers, or other persons the issuer reasonably believes after reasonable inquiry to be qualified purchasers [see Corp. Code § 25102(q)(1) (defining "qualified purchasers")].

(2) Each purchaser represents that the purchaser is purchasing for that purchaser's own account (or trust account, if purchaser is trustee) and not with view to or for sale in connection with distribution of the security [Corp. Code § 25102(q)(2)].

(3) Each natural person purchaser receives certain written information at least five business days before securities are sold to (or commitment to purchase is accepted from) purchaser [see Corp. Code § 25102(q)(3) (list of required information)].

r. Following transactions are exempt from Corp. Code § 25110 if they comply with all provisions of Bus. & Prof. Code § 10237 et seq. (concerning exemption from securities qualification for real-property-backed notes) [Corp. Code § 25102.5]:

NOTE:

A real estate broker licensed by the California Real Estate Commissioner who engages in the offer and sale of notes secured directly by real property of various makers, which are a series of notes or notes in which undivided interests are offered and sold, will be deemed to be the issuer of these notes and undivided interests if the notes of the various makers are offered and sold pursuant to a plan or arrangement that is common to the various makers with respect to documentation and loan standards and that include provisions for servicing these notes on behalf of purchasers [Corp. Code § 25102.5].

(1) Sale of a series of notes secured directly by an interest in the same real property.

(2) Sale of undivided interest in a note secured directly by real property equivalent to a series transaction.

2. If transaction is nonissuer transaction [see § 6.113], determine whether it will qualify for any of the following exemptions for nonissuer transactions [see Corp. Code § 25104]:

a. Offer or sale of securities by bona fide owner, provided sale is not [Corp. Code § 25104(a)]:

(1) Accompanied by publication [see Corp. Code § 25014 ("publish" defined)] of an advertisement [see Corp. Code § 25002 ("advertisement" defined)]; or

(2) Effected by or through a broker-dealer in a public offering.

b. Offers of sales effected by or through licensed broker-dealers pursuant to unsolicited orders or offers to buy [Corp. Code § 25104(b)].

NOTE:

For purposes of the above exemption, inquiries regarding written bids for securities or written solicitations of offers to sell securities made by another broker-dealer within the previous 60 days are not considered solicitations of orders or offers to buy [Corp. Code § 25104(b)]. However, an order or offer to buy a security is presumed not to be unsolicited if the broker-dealer knows or has reason to know that the order or offer to buy is in response to one or more of the following activities in which the selling broker-dealer has engaged within the last 60 days [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.104]:

- Publicly quoting a bid or asked price for the security that identifies the broker-dealer other than an interdealer quotation system intended for broker-dealer use only;
- Making a direct solicitation that customers buy the security;
- Recommending the purchase of the security to customers, either directly or in a manner that would bring its recommendation to the attention of customers;

- Volunteering information about the issuer of the security either to a particular customer who then buys the security or to customers generally; or

- Executing a transaction to buy or sell a security pursuant to its discretionary authority for a customer in a discretionary account.

A statement to the effect that the security is ineligible for purchase or sale in California, or that investment in a security is not recommended for California purchasers, included in a recommendation or other information circulated with respect to a security or an issuer does not negate this presumption [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.104].

c. Offers or sales to institutional investors, provided purchaser represents that it is purchasing for its own account for investment purposes and not for sale in connection with distribution of security [Corp. Code § 25104(c)].

NOTE:

For purposes of this exemption, institutional investors include banks, savings and loan associations, trust companies, insurance companies, investment companies registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 [15 U.S.C. § 80a-1 et seq.], pension or profit-sharing trusts (other than pension or profit-sharing trusts of issuer, self-employed individual retirement plans, or individual retirement accounts), or such other institutional investors or governmental agencies or instrumentalities as the Commissioner may designate, whether purchaser acts for itself or as trustee [Corp. Code § 25104(c); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.104.1].

d. Transactions or agreements either between person on whose behalf offering is made and underwriter or among underwriters, provided that either [Corp. Code § 25104(d)]:

(1) Sale of securities is exempt from qualification at time of distribution in California; or

(2) Sale is qualified prior to distribution in California.

e. Offers or sales of securities by or for account of bona fide secured party selling security in ordinary course of business to liquidate bona fide debt [Corp. Code § 25104(e); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.104.2].

f. Transactions by executors, administrators, sheriffs, marshals, receivers, trustees in bankruptcy, guardians, or conservators [Corp. Code § 25104(f)].

g. Offers (but not sales) of securities for which registration statements have been filed under Securities Act of 1933 but have not yet become effective, or for which offering statements have been filed under Regulation A but have not yet been qualified [Corp. Code § 25104(g)].

NOTE:

The exemption described above is not applicable if a stop order or refusal order is in effect or a public proceeding or examination considering such an order is pending under Section 8 of the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77h], or if an order under Corp. Code § 25140 or 25143(a) is in effect [Corp. Code § 25104(g)].

h. Offers or sales of securities if securities of the same class were qualified in either [Corp. Code § 25104(h)]:

NOTE:

This exemption is not applicable if a stop order under Corp. Code §§ 25140 or 25143(a) is in effect with respect to the qualification [Corp. Code § 25104(h)]. Furthermore, it is not applicable to securities offered pursuant to registration under the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. §§ 77a-77aa], or pursuant to an exemption under Regulation A of that Act [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.251-230.263] if the aggregate offering price exceeds $50,000 [Corp. Code § 25104(h)]. The Commissioner may withhold this exemption, by rule or order, with respect to securities not qualified pursuant to an "open" qualification, that is, when the Commissioner has conditioned qualification in some manner, such as by restrictions regarding who may purchase the securities [Corp. Code § 25104(h); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.104.4].

(1) Issuer transaction [see Corp. Code §§ 25110-25117] within preceding 18 months or longer period ordered by Commissioner; or

NOTE:

Each consecutive order of the Commissioner must be for six months or less [Corp. Code § 25104(h)].

(2) Recapitalization or reorganization transaction [see Corp. Code §§ 25120-25122] or nonissuer transaction [see Corp. Code §§ 25130-25134] within preceding 12 months.

NOTE:

This exemption is not applicable if an order under Corp. Code §§ 25140 or 25143(a) is in effect. It is also inapplicable to securities offered pursuant to registration under Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. §§ 77a-77aa] or pursuant to exemption under Regulation A under that Act [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.251-230.263] if the aggregate offering price exceeds $50,000. The Commissioner may withhold this exemption in the case of securities not qualified pursuant to an "open" qualification; that is, when the Commissioner has conditioned qualification in some manner, such as by restrictions on who may purchase the securities [Corp. Code § 25104(h); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.104.4].

3. If transaction is reorganization or recapitalization transaction [see § 6.113, P 2], determine whether it will qualify for any of the following exemptions for reorganization and recapitalization transactions [see Corp. Code § 25103; see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.103]:

a. Negotiations or agreements prior to general solicitation of approval by holders of equity securities of [Corp. Code § 25103(a)]:

(1) Changes in rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on outstanding securities;

(2) Mergers, consolidations, or sales of corporate assets in consideration of issuance of securities; or

(3) Entity conversion transaction.

NOTE:

"An entity conversion transaction" means a conversion pursuant to Corp. Code §§ 1151, 1157 (general corporation law) [see Ch. 11C, Mergers, §§ 11C.50 et seq., for discussion of the statutes governing corporate conversions], 15677.2, 15677.8 (CRLPA, repealed 1/1/2010), Corp. Code §§ 15911.02, 15911.08 (ULPA '08), [see Ch. 16B, Conversions and Mergers of Limited Partnerships], Corp. Code §§ 16902, 16908 (UPA '94) [see Ch.

15, Part C, Conversions and Mergers of General Partnerships*, § 15.602*], 17540.2, or 17540.8 (LLCs) [see Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies*, § 12C.26*], or a conversion that occurs entirely out of state, unless the interests in the entity resulting from the conversion to be held by the equity holders of the entity being converted as a result of the conversion are not securities. For the purposes of Corp. Code §§ 25103 and 25120, an entity conversion transaction is not a change in the rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on outstanding securities or an exchange of securities by the issuer with its existing security holders exclusively [Corp. Code § 25005.1].

b. Changes in rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on outstanding securities or any entity conversion transaction [see P a, NOTE, above], when holders of fewer than 25 percent of outstanding shares of securities affected have addresses in California [Corp. Code § 25103(b)].

c. Exchanges incident to mergers, consolidations, or sales of corporate assets in consideration of issuance of securities of another corporation (except rollup transactions), when fewer than 25 percent of outstanding shares, holders of which are to receive securities in exchange, are held by persons having addresses in California [Corp. Code § 25103(c)].

NOTE:

For purposes of PP b and c, above, securities held in names of broker-dealers or nominees of broker-dealers, and securities controlled by one person controlling directly or indirectly 50 percent or more of outstanding securities of that class are not considered outstanding [Corp. Code § 25103(d)]. For purposes of Corp. Code § 25103(b) and (c), the determination of whether 25 percent of outstanding securities are held by persons having addresses in California must be made as of record date for determination of security holders entitled to vote on or consent to action if approval is required, or, if not, as of date of directors' approval of action [Corp. Code § 25103(d)]. For purposes of P c, above, this exemption is not available for a rollup transaction [Corp. Code § 25103(c); see Corp. Code § 25014.6 ("rollup transaction" defined)]. Furthermore, this exemption is unavailable if the transaction is excluded from the definition of a rollup transaction by Corp. Code § 25014.6(b)(5) or (6) if the transaction is one of a series of transactions that directly or indirectly through acquisition or otherwise involves the combination or reorganization of one or more rollup participants [Corp. Code § 25103(c)].

d. Changes in rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on outstanding equity securities [Corp. Code § 25103(e); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.103.1].

NOTE:

This exemption is subject to a significant number of exceptions for changes that materially and adversely affect any class of equity securities [Corp. Code § 25103(e)].

e. Stock splits or reverse stock splits, except those that would [Corp. Code § 25103(f); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.103.2-260.103.5]:

(1) Have material effect on proportionate interests of classes of stock as to voting, dividends, or distributions, if corporation has more than one class of shares outstanding;

(2) Create class of market-traded stock with adjusted market price of less than two dollars per share; or

(3) Substantially alter proportionate interests of existing shareholders as a result of corporation's option to pay cash for fractional shares created by reverse split.

f. Changes in rights of outstanding debt securities [Corp. Code § 25103(g)].

NOTE:

This exemption is subject to numerous exceptions for changes that substantially and adversely affect any class of securities [Corp. Code § 25103(g)].

g. Exchanges incident to merger, consolidation, or sale of assets (other than rollup transaction [see Corp. Code § 25014.6]) in consideration of issuance of equity securities of another entity, or any entity conversion transaction [see P a, NOTE, above] when [Corp. Code § 25103(h)(1)]:

NOTE:

The Commissioner, by rule, may require the acquiring or surviving entity to file a notice of transaction [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.103.6]. However, the failure to file the notice or to file it within the time specified by the rule of the Commissioner will not affect the availability of the exemption. An acquiring or surviving entity that fails to file the notice as provided by rule of the Commissioner, within 15 business days after demand by the Commissioner, must file the notice and pay to the Commissioner a fee equal to the fee payable had the transaction been qualified under Corp. Code §§ 25110 or 25120 [Corp. Code § 25103(h)(2)].

(1) Exchange or entity conversion transaction, had it involved issuance of security in transaction subject to Corp. Code § 25110 (rather than Corp. Code § 25120), would have been exempt from qualification by Corp. Code § 25102(f) (without giving effect to Corp. Code § 25102(f)(3), which requires representation that purchaser is purchasing for own account, not for resale); and

(2) Either of following is applicable:

(a) Not less than 75 percent of outstanding equity securities of each constituent or converting entity entitled to vote on proposed transaction voted in favor of transaction, not more than 10 percent of outstanding equity securities of each constituent or converting entity entitled to vote voted against transaction, and each constituent or converting entity whose security holders are entitled to vote is subject to state statute with provisions for dissenters' rights for holders of equity securities entitled to vote that do not vote in favor of or voted against transaction.

(b) Transaction is solely for purposes of changing issuer's state of incorporation or organization, or form of organization, all securities of same class or series (unless all security holders of class or series consent) are treated equally, and holders of nonredeemable voting equity securities receive nonredeemable voting equity securities.

h. Exchanges in connection with any merger or consolidation or sale of corporate assets in consideration (wholly or in part) of issuance of securities or any entity conversion transaction [see Corp. Code § 25005.1 (definition); see also P a, NOTE, above], under or pursuant to plan of reorganization that has been confirmed or is subject to confirmation by decree or order of court of competent jurisdiction pursuant to U.S. Bankruptcy Code [Corp. Code § 25103(i)].

4. Determine whether transaction is exempt under any exemption created by rule of Commissioner [see Corp. Code § 25105]:

NOTE:

The Commissioner's rules describe exemptions by reference to the specific section of the Corporations Code requiring qualification [see Corp. Code §§ 25110 (qualification of issuer transactions), 25120 (qualification of reorganization transactions), 25130 (qualification of nonissuer transactions)]. For purposes of clarity, however, the following discussion identifies the form of transaction by name, that is, "issuer," "nonissuer," and "reorganization," rather than by section number.

a. Offers by issuer, nonissuer, or in reorganization of interests of securities when securities are sold only to institutional or registered investors [Corp. Code §§ 25102(i), 25104(c)], or to public agencies [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.14], or when securities are exempt at time of issuance under Corp. Code § 25100 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105].

b. Offers or sales of interest in oil or gas title or lease by issuer, provided sole consideration for security is grant or lease of drill site or easement to produce oil or gas [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.1].

c. Offers or sales of securities by or through licensed broker-dealers by issuer or nonissuer to purchaser who is neither domiciled nor actually present in California, or offers or sales to licensed broker-dealers in principal transaction, or as underwriters or members of underwriting or selling group [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.2].

d. Transactions by issuer in which issuer allocates to its employees (or employees of its parent or subsidiary) units representing right to eventually receive cash, measured by [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.5]:

NOTE:

This type of plan is known as a "phantom stock plan" [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.5]. For an example of a phantom stock plan, see Rabkin & Johnson, Current Legal Forms with Tax Analysis, Ch. 14, Stock Options and Other Incentive Plans , Form 14.66 (Matthew Bender).

(1) Dividends paid on shares of issuer's capital stock; and/or

(2) Market value of shares of issuer's capital stock.

(b) Foreign professional corporation qualified to render professional services in California in accordance with requirements of Professional Corporation Act [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.6(a); Corp. Code § 13401(c); see Corp. Code §§ 13400-13410].

(2) Beneficial interests in trust established for purpose of voting shares of capital stock of professional corporation or foreign professional corporation, if trustees are (and interests are held solely by) persons entitled to hold voting shares [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.6(b)].

(3) Interests in partnership organized to render professional services pursuant to Corp. Code § 13401(a), if all partners are entitled to hold voting shares in professional corporation or qualified foreign professional corporation [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.6(c)].

f. Interdealer solicitations by nonissuer regularly published and circulated to broker-dealers, in connection with which charge is made for listing solicitation [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.7].

NOTE:

A publication is circulated to broker-dealers within the meaning of this exemption when subscriptions are limited substantially to broker-dealers, banks, trust companies, and savings and loan associations subject to a provision that the information contained in the publication is for the private use of the subscriber. This exemption applies to the quotation services of the National Quotation Bureau and NASDAQ [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.7].

g. Offers or sales by issuer of incentive stock option plans, as defined in I.R.C. § 422(b), if [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.8(a); see I.R.C. § 422(b)]:

NOTE:

A similar exemption to Corp. Code § 25120 exempts any offer or sale of incentive stock options made as a result of the amendment of outstanding options [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.8(b)].

(1) Company issuing options is issuer of security registered under Section 12 of Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [see 15 U.S.C. § 78l];

(2) Issuance of underlying securities as stock dividend that is not a sale as defined in Corp. Code § 25017(f)].

NOTE:

Beneficial interests issued pursuant to this exemption are subject to any conditions imposed by the Commissioner applicable to beneficial interests previously issued with respect to the underlying securities that are the subject of the stock split, reverse stock split, or stock dividend [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.9].

i. Offers or sale by nonissuers of securities, certificates of deposit, receipt, or other evidence of securities issued by corporation organized under laws of foreign country, provided one of following is met [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.11(a)]:

A broker-dealer may recommend to an investor a security that is exempted under this rule only if the broker-dealer can demonstrate that an adequate and reasonable basis exists for that recommendation [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.11(b)]. A broker-dealer initiating a quotation for a security that is exempt under this rule must comply with specific requirements [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.11(c); 17 C.F.R. § 240.15c2-11].

NOTE:
A broker-dealer may rely on written "no action" or interpretive letters issued by the SEC or its staff regarding the SEC's "ready market" criteria [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.11].

(3) The issuer is not subject to the reporting requirements of Section 13 or 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and all of the following conditions are met:

However, a security is not senior to a listed or designated security of the same issuer if it is currently, or at some future time may be converted into, an evidence of indebtedness that does not or will

NOTE:

The issuer must file a notice of transaction on the official form with the Commissioner. § 6.117 Federal Preemption

NOTE:

State registration or qualification of "covered securities," as defined by the National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996 [Pub. L. No. 104-290, 110 Stat. 3416 (H.R. 3005)], or securities that will be covered securities under that definition upon completion of the transaction, is preempted by federal law [15 U.S.C. § 77r]. For further discussion of preemption issues, see § 6.15.

In response to the National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996 [Pub. L. No. 104-290, 110 Stat. 3416 (H.R. 3005); see Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities*, § 6H.24*; see also § 6.15[1], California legislation enacted in 1997 specifies certain securities and transactions that are not subject to Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, and 25130 [Stats. 1997, ch. 391; see Corp. Code §§ 25100.1, 25101.1, 25102.1].

Securities subject to the federal preemption provisions generally are not required to comply with California qualification or securities exemption requirements. Notice and fee requirements, however, do apply in some cases [see § 6.141].

1. Determine whether security is subject to preemption provisions of National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996 and not subject to Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, and 25130 by virtue of fact that it is a "covered security," which includes [Corp. Code § 25100.1]:

a. Is security one of the following kinds of nationally traded securities [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(1)]?

(1) Securities listed, or authorized for listing, on New York Stock exchange, American Stock Exchange, National Market System of NASDAQ.

NOTE:

Since the California Corporations Commissioner has certified the New York and American Stock Exchanges [see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 27-C (Mar. 4, 1972; revised Mar. 9, 1992) (this release has not been updated to reflect the name change of the American Stock Exchange to "NYSE AMEX LLC"); see also Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, § 3A.04[1] (Matthew Bender)] and the NASDAQ Global Market and the NASDAQ Capital Market of the NASDAQ Stock Market LLC [see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 87-C (revised August 17, 2009)] pursuant to Corp. Code § 25100(o), the federal preemption does not affect California treatment of securities listed on those exchanges, which are already exempt by California law. The Commissioner has also certified Tier I of the Philadelphia Stock Exchange [see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 96-C (Sept. 12, 1995) (this release has not been updated to reflect the name change of the Philadelphia Stock Exchange to "NASDAQ OMX PHLX, Inc."); see also Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, § 3A.04[1] (Matthew Bender)] and Tier I (Select Market Companies) of the Pacific Stock Exchange, now operated as NYSE Arca [see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 95-C (December 27, 1994); see also Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, § 3A.04[1] (Matthew Bender)].

(2) Securities listed, or authorized for listing, on national securities exchange (or tier or segment of such an exchange) that has listing standards that SEC determines by rule are substantially similar to listing standards applicable to those applicable to securities described in P (1), above.

(3) Securities of same issuer that are equal in seniority or are senior securities [see 15 U.S.C. § 77r(d)(4) (definition)] to securities described in P (1) or (2), above.

NOTE:

Equity securities senior to securities exempt under California's listing exemption also have been exempted from qualification by rule of the Commissioner [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.33].

b. Is security issued by investment company that is registered, or has filed registration statement, under Investment Company Act of 1940 [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(2); Corp. Code § 25100.1(b); see 15 U.S.C. § 80a-1 et seq.]?

NOTE:

An issuer described in P b, above, must still comply with California notice requirements and pay the required fee [Corp. Code § 25100.1(b); see § 6.141].

2. Determine whether transaction is subject to preemption provisions of National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996 and not subject to Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, and 25130 because security will be offered or sold to "qualified purchasers" as defined by SEC rule under Section 18(b)(3) of Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(3); Corp. Code § 25102.1].

NOTE:

An issuer described in P 2, above, must still comply with California notice requirements and pay the required fee [Corp. Code § 25102.1(a); see § 6.141].

In prescribing such a rule, the SEC may define the term "qualified purchaser" differently with respect to different categories of securities, consistent with the public interest and the protection of investors [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(3)]. The SEC has not yet adopted such a rule.

3. Determine whether security is subject to preemption provisions of National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996 and not subject to Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, and 25130 because it will be offered or sold under any of following exemptions from registration under Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(4)]:

a. Section 4(1) [15 U.S.C. § 77d(1)] (transactions by any person other than issuer, underwriter or dealer) or Section 4(3) [15 U.S.C. § 77d(3)] (with certain exemptions, transactions by dealer), provided issuer of securities files reports with SEC pursuant to Section 13 or 15(d) of Exchange Act [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(4)(A); Corp. Code § 25101(a); see 15 U.S.C. §§ 78m, 78o(d)].

b. Section 4(4) [15 U.S.C. § 77d(4)] (certain brokers' transactions executed on customer's order) [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(4)(B); Corp. Code § 25102.1(b)].

c. Section 3(a) [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)] (which exempts large number of securities, including those of various governmental entities, commercial paper, charitable organizations, etc.), other than offer of sale of security that is exempt from registration pursuant to Section 3(a)(4), (10), or (11) [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(4), (10), (11)] (securities of charitable organizations, exchanges of securities, and intrastate exemption) [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(4)(C); Corp. Code § 25102.1(c)].

NOTE:
However, a municipal security that is exempt from registration pursuant to Section 3(a)(2) [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(2)] is not a covered security with respect to its offer or sale in the state in which the issuer of that security is located [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(4)(C)].

d. SEC rules or regulations issued under Section 4(2) [15 U.S.C. § 77d(2)] (transactions by issuer not involving any public offering) [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(4)(D); Corp. Code § 25102.1(b)].

NOTE:
Offerings under Rule 506 of Regulation D [17 C.F.R. § 230.506] satisfy this criteria. An issuer described in P d, above, must still comply with California notice requirements and pay the required fee [Corp. Code § 25102.1(a); see § 6.141].

e. Security of foreign (other country) issuer that avails itself of exemption from registration under Section 12(g)(3) of Securities and Exchange Act of 1934 [see 15 U.S.C. § 78l(g)(3)] if issuer is reporting company under that Act and files required reports under Section 13 or 15(d) of that Act [Corp. Code § 25101.1(b); see 15 U.S.C. §§ 78m, 78o(d)].

§ 6.118 California Qualification

1. If one or more exemptions are available, determine whether to rely on exemption or to qualify securities in California.

NOTE:

If the security or the transaction may be eligible for an exemption from qualification, a determination must be made whether to rely on the exemption or to qualify the securities. In the case of an issuer transaction by a nonpublic corporation, the transaction usually will be structured to come within one of the exemptions and avoid the time and expense of qualification. The offer or sale of securities not eligible for an exemption [see §§ 6.114-6.116], or not subject to the preemption provisions of federal law [see §§ 6.15, 6.117] must be qualified under the Corporate Securities Law.

a. Advantages of relying on exemptions rather than qualifying an offer or sale of securities include:

(1) Savings of time and money.

(2) Avoidance of public disclosure.

(3) Avoidance of merit standards applicable to qualification.

b. Advantages of qualification include;

(1) Fewer restrictions on manner of offering.

(2) Fewer restrictions on potential purchasers.

(3) Fewer restrictions on resale.

(4) Availability of other benefits such as fairness hearing.

(5) Exemption from usury laws.

2. If securities are to be qualified:

NOTE:
For detailed determinations relating to the availability and selection of particular methods of qualification, see Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities, § 6H.121.

a. Determine which forms of qualification are available for the particular transaction.

b. Select least time consuming and expensive method available.

§ 6.119 Intrastate or Interstate Offering

NOTE:

An exemption from federal registration under Section 5 of the Securities Act of 1933 is available for offers and sales made within a single state or territory [see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations*, § 6A.24*].

1. Determine whether transaction complies with requirements for intrastate offering:

a. Will offer or sale be made strictly within California?

b. Will offer or sale be made only to California residents?

c. Is offering by a California issuer?

2. If offering is interstate offering:

a. Determine states and/or territories where offer or sale will be made.

b. Determine requirements of laws of in each jurisdiction where offer or sale is made.

c. Determine whether there can be coordination of review among sister state securities regulators [see § 6.71[2]].

§ 6.140 Compliance With Applicable Securities Laws

1. If transaction will rely on exemption from California qualification requirements, comply with applicable requirements for specific exemption being relied on.

NOTE:

The coverage in this chapter assumes that most California nonpublic corporations that do not have to qualify their securities will rely on the California limited offering, small offering, or qualified purchaser exemptions listed below. Accordingly, separate chapters have been devoted to the requirements relating to these exemptions. In-depth coverage of all the specialized exemptions that apply to specific types of securities or securities transactions is beyond the scope of the publication. For a complete list of the exemptions from California qualification requirements, see the table in § 6.200[2].

a. For requirements under California limited offering exemptions [Corp. Code §§ 25102(f), 25102.1(d); 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.102.12, 260.102.13, 260.102.14], see Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions .

b. For requirements under California "small offering" exemption [Corp. Code § 25102(h)], see Ch. 6C, California Small Offering Exemption .

c. For requirements under California "qualified purchaser" exemptions [Corp. Code § 25102(i), (n); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.14], see Ch. 6D, California Qualified Purchaser Exemptions .

d. For requirements under other exemptions, see the table of exemptions in § 6.200[2].

2. If transaction will be qualified in California, comply with applicable qualification procedures [see Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities].

3. If transaction is interstate offering and there will be coordinated review:

a. Notify Department of Corporations of intent to participate in Coordinated Equity Review.

b. File application with Department and other applicable states.

4. If transaction is subject to exemption or registration or exemption from registration from applicable federal law, take appropriate steps to comply with applicable federal requirements [see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations].

NOTE:

Coverage of the registration requirements of the federal securities laws is beyond the scope of this publication inasmuch as it is assumed that the typical California nonpublic corporation will be able to rely on one or more exemptions from the federal exemption requirements. The most commonly used federal exemptions from registration under the Securities Act are discussed in detail in Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations . For more detailed coverage, see Sommer, Federal Securities Act of 1933 (Matthew Bender).

5. Do not proceed with offer or sale of securities until all applicable requirements of exemption or qualification have been met.

§ 6.141 Compliance With California Requirements Relating to Federally Preempted Securities and Transactions

NOTE:

In response to the National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996 [Pub. L. No. 104-290, 110 Stat. 3416 (H.R. 3005); see § 6H.125; see also Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues], California legislation enacted in 1997 specifies certain securities and transactions that are not subject to Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, and 25130 [Stats. 1997, ch. 391; see Corp. Code §§ 25100.1, 25101.1, 25102.1]. In some cases, however, the issuer is still required to comply with minimal specified requirements that are not inconsistent with Federal preemption. These remaining California requirements, which are not dealt with elsewhere in this publication, are listed below.

Notwithstanding the federal preemption, an issuer may still file an application for qualification by coordination, notification, or permit pursuant to Corp. Code § 25111, 25112, 25113, 25121, 25131, or 25142 if it wishes to do so [Corp. Code § 25102.1(e)].

1. If security is issued by investment company that is registered or has filed registration statement under Investment Company Act of 1940 [see 15 U.S.C. § 80a-1 et seq.], and is defined as "covered security" under Section 18(b)(2) of Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(2); see §§ 6.15[5], 6.117], satisfy following requirements [Corp. Code § 25100.1]:

a. File with or pay to Commissioner all of the following prior to any offer or sale in California:

(1) Notice consisting of all documents that are part of federal registration statement filed with SEC under Securities Act of 1993 (or form prescribed by Commissioner in lieu of notice).

NOTE:

The Department of Corporations will accept the Uniform Form NF [see Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities*, § 6H.209*] developed by the North American Securities Administrators Association for filing [see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 109-C (Dec. 18, 1997)].

(2) Consent to service of process, which must either be filed with Commissioner or attached to notice specified in (1), above.

(3) Report of value of securities covered that are offered or sold in California, as necessary to compute fees.

(4) Notice filing fee [see Corp. Code § 25608.1(a)].

NOTE:

The notice filing fee is $200 plus one fifth of one percent of the aggregate value of the securities sought to be sold in California, up to a maximum aggregate free of $2,500 [Corp. Code § 25608.1(a)]. The maximum fee that may be levied on a filing pursuant to Corp. Code § 25100.1(b) will apply, unless the Commissioner sets the fees below the maximum level at the beginning of the fiscal year [Corp. Code § 25608.2; see also Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set any fee at amount below maximum set forth in Corp. Code § 25608.1)].

b. If any offer or sale is to be made pursuant to Section 18(b)(2) of Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(2)] and Corp. Code § 25100.1 more than 12 months after date notice was filed, issuer must file another notice and pay fee set forth in Corp. Code § 25608.1(a).

2. If offer or sale of security will be to "qualified purchaser" as defined by SEC rule under Section 18(b)(3) of Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(3); see §§ 6.15[5], 6.117], satisfy all of following requirements [Corp. Code § 25102.1(a)]:

a. File notice with Commissioner prior to offer in California, along with any documents filed with SEC in annual or periodic reports that Commissioner by rule or order deems appropriate.

NOTE:

Because the SEC has not yet adopted a rule under Section 18(b)(3) of the Securities Act of 1933 relating to "qualified purchasers," no notice under the Corporate Securities Law has been proposed at this time) [see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 109-C (Dec. 18, 1997)].

b. File consent to service of process [see Corp. Code § 25165; see also Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities, § 6H.239] along with notice.

c. Pay notice filing fee [see Corp. Code § 25608.1(b)].

NOTE:

The fee is $600 [Corp. Code § 25608.1(b)]. The maximum fee that may be levied on a filing pursuant to Corp. Code § 25102.1(a) will apply, unless the Commissioner sets the fees below the maximum level at the beginning of the fiscal year [Corp. Code § 25608.2; see also Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set any fee at amount below maximum set forth in Corp. Code § 25608.1)].

3. If transaction is exempt from registration under Securities Act of 1933 pursuant to Section 18(b)(4)(D) of that act [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(4)(D); see Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities, § 6H.24], satisfy all of following requirements [Corp. Code § 25102.1(d)]:

a. File notice, consisting of copy of completed Form D [17 C.F.R. § 239.500] filed with SEC, with Commissioner:

NOTE:
No notice need be filed if none of the securities offered for sale under Rule 506 are sold in California [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 109-C (Dec. 18, 1997)].

(1) Within 15 days of first sale in California.

(2) Along with documents filed with SEC in annual or periodic reports that Commissioner by rule or order deems appropriate.

b. Accompany notice with letter of transmittal stating that filing is pursuant to Rule 506 and Section 18(b)(4)(D) of the Securities Act of 1933 [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 109-C (Dec. 18, 1997)].

c. File one of following with notice [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 109-C (Dec. 18, 1997)]:

(1) Consent to service of process [see Corp. Code § 25165; see also Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities, § 6H.239]; or

(2) Statement that issuer is:
(a) A California corporation; or

(b) Already has consent to service of process on file with Commissioner.

d. Pay notice filing fee set forth in Corp. Code § 25608.1(c).

NOTE:
Although the statutory filing fee is $300 [see Corp. Code § 25608.1(c)], the Commissioner may set any fee at an amount below the maximum set forth in Corp. Code § 25608.1 [Corp. Code §§ 25608.2(b), 25608.3].

§ 6.200 Table of All California Securities Exemptions

[1] Comment--Use of Table

This form is a table of all California securities exemptions, with the statutory terms and criteria that are applicable to these exemptions. It is included to assist attorneys in comparing the various exemptions available under California law, and to function as a handy guide to help determine at a glance what exemptions may be applicable to particular types of interests and transactions.

This table includes all statutory exemptions that were available in California as of the date of publication. As discussed in § 6.30[3], the majority of these exemptions are not likely to be useful in the context of issuance of corporate stock or equivalent by a corporation or other business entry. Additional exemptions established by rule of the Commissioner are outlined in § 6.116.

For discussion of the number and significance of California securities exemptions, see § 6.30. For a chart comparing a number of the most commonly used California and federal securities exemptions, see § 6.201[2]. For discussion of federal exemptions, see § 6.52; see also Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations .

The rights of all parties to this agreement are expressly conditioned upon the qualification being obtained, unless the sale is so exempt"; and

    - Only cash or cancellation of indebtedness for money borrowed, or both, upon the initial organization of the issuer, provided all of the stock is issued for the same price per share.

    - Only cash, provided the sale is approved in writing by each of the existing shareholders and the purchaser or purchasers are existing shareholders.

    - If after the proposed issuance there will be only one owner of the stock of the issuer, any legal consideration.

- No promotional consideration has been given, paid, or incurred in connection with the issuance. Promotional consideration means any consideration paid directly or indirectly to a person who, acting alone or in conjunction with one or more other persons, takes the initiative in founding and organizing the business or enterprise of an issuer, for services rendered in connection with the founding or organizing.

- A notice, signed by an active member of the State Bar of California, must be filed with or mailed for filing to the Commissioner not later than 10 business days after receipt of consideration for the securities by the issuer. The notice must contain an opinion of the member of the State Bar of California that the exemption provided by this subdivision is available for the offer and sale of the securities. The notice, except when filed on behalf of a California corporation, shall be accompanied by an irrevocable consent, in the form that the Commissioner by rule prescribes, appointing the Commissioner or his or her successor in office to be the issuer's attorney to receive service of any lawful process in any noncriminal suit, action, or proceeding against it or its successor that arises under this law or any rule or order hereunder after the consent has been filed, with the same force and validity as if served personally on the issuer.

§ 6.201 Chart Comparing Commonly Used California and Federal Exemptions

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Chart

This form is a chart comparing the key features of some of the more commonly used California and federal exemptions. It is designed to provide a handy comparison between the basic criteria for the exemptions indicated, and to assist in coordinating the appropriate California and federal exemption requirements.

It is important to bear in mind that the descriptions have been simplified for purpose of comparison. The attorney must review the applicable requirements in detail to ensure that a proposed transaction will qualify for the desired exemption.

[b] Exemptions Included in Table

This table compares the following exemptions:

- California Exemptions:
  - The California "limited offering exemption" [Corp. Code § 25102(f); see § 6.31; see also Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions].
  - The California "small offering exemption" [Corp. Code § 25102(h); see § 6.32; see also Ch. 6C, California Small Offering Exemption].
  - The California "qualified purchaser exemption" [Corp. Code § 25102(n); see § 6.33; see also Ch. 6D, California Qualified Purchaser Exemptions].

- Federal Exemptions:
    - The federal "intrastate offering exemption" under SEC Rule 147 [17 C.F.R. § 230.147; see § 6.58; see also Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations].
    - The federal Regulation D under SEC Rule 504 [17 C.F.R. § 230.504; see § 6.54; see also Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations].
    - The federal Regulation D under SEC Rule 505 [17 C.F.R. § 230.505; see § 6.55; see also Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations].
    - The federal Regulation D under SEC Rule 506 [17 C.F.R. § 230.506; see § 6.56; see also Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations].

For reasons of space and format, it is impossible to include all other available exemptions in a table of this type. The selected exemptions are the ones most likely to be applicable to transactions involving the equity securities of nonpublic, closely held corporations in California. The offering may also be made in reliance on Section 4(2) of the Securities Act of 1933 for federal purposes if the transaction does not satisfy all of the criteria of Regulation D, but would otherwise qualify as a non-public offering. For a complete list of the California securities exemptions, see the table in § 6.200[2].

The Corp. Code § 25102(e) exemption, which is similar to the Section 4(2) exemption, may also be available for offerings of debt securities. Offerings for employee purchase or employee option plans may also be made in reliance on SEC Rule 701 and Corp. Code § 25102(o) if the conditions of those exemptions are satisfied.

This form is a basic worksheet designed to assist the attorney in determining what exemptions might be available in connection with a proposed securities transaction. It is geared towards commonly used exemptions in connection with the offer and sale of securities by a nonpublic or closely held entity. For a table containing a complete list of the California statutory exemptions from the Corporate Securities Law, see § 6.200.

It is not intended as an investor questionnaire or representation letter, nor is it intended to contain all the information that would be needed for making a final determination as to whether or not all potential investors would qualify for a particular exemption. An interpretive opinion (including a determination and a specific ruling) sets forth a written answer to resolve an unsettled question of law within the scope of responsibility of the Department of Corporations [Dept. Of Corps. Release No. 61-C (Revised; July 16, 2007)].

A public member named in the interpretive opinion may be protected from liability for acts or omissions done in good faith reliance upon the interpretive opinion [Dept. Of Corps. Code Reg. § 250.9.1(e)*], and as such may be inspected by members of the public [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.9].

A person requesting an interpretive opinion may desire nondisclosure of the contents of the request or reply for any number of reasons [see Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities, § 6H.275]. 2. Will the transfer to the surviving shareholder upon the death of one of the joint tenants be exempt from the requirement of the prior written consent of the Commissioner?

3. Is the waiver by XYZ Corporation and the shareholders of rights to purchase shares prior to a transfer either a transfer requiring the prior written consent of the Commissioner or a change in the rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on the shares requiring qualification under Corporations Code Section 25120, because _____.]

Legal Analysis

[List, e.g., 1. It is my opinion that the proposed transfer is exempt from the requirement of the Commissioner's written consent by virtue of Rule 102.6, which provides an exemption for the transfer of securities to holders of securities of the same class of the same issuer, because both _____ (name) and _____ (name) hold common shares of XYZ Corporation at the present time.

2. For the reason stated in 1, it is my opinion that the transfer by operation of law upon the death of either shareholder would also be exempt from the requirement of the Commissioner's written consent.

3. Further, it is my opinion that the waiver of rights to purchase shares prior to the transfer by XYZ Corporation and the shareholders would not constitute a "transfer" within the meaning of Rule 102.6, nor would it constitute a change in the rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions on the shares which would substantially and adversely affect the shareholders and therefore require qualification under Corporations Code Section 25120, because _____.]

§ 6.231 Request for Designation as Exempt Life Income Contract Issuer [Corp. Code § 25100(k); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.100.1]

This form is an application for an exemption from qualification under the life income contract exemption in Corp. Code § 25100(k). A "life income contract" is defined as an agreement between the issuer and a donor that, in consideration of a donation of property (which must be irrevocable) to the issuer (and only the issuer), provides for the payment to the donor or persons designated by the donor, for the life of the donor or other persons, of a variable return measured or determined either by the original value of the donated property or the return on designated assets which may be other than the donated property [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.100.2].

The life income contract exemption is restricted and exclusive. An ordinary annuity contract by a licensed insurance company is not a security and need not be qualified [Corp. Code § 25019]. Another type of annuity, which is an estate planning device, is a transfer of property to a nonprofit organization in exchange for the payment of an annuity by the nonprofit organization to the transferor. This type of annuity is exempt from qualification if the nonprofit organization (considered the issuer in this transaction) is organized exclusively for educational, benevolent, fraternal, religious, charitable, social, or reformatory purposes and not for pecuniary profit, and is within the class of exempt organizations designated by the Commissioner by rule or order [Corp. Code § 25100(k)]. The Commissioner has by rule designated only one class of nonprofit organization that automatically qualifies as an issuer under the exemption. That class includes any nonprofit college or university having total endowment funds, including annuity and life income funds, amounting, according to its most recent audited financial statement, to not less that $2 million [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.100]. Any other nonprofit organization desiring to be designated as an issuer subject to the exemption must apply to the Commissioner for an order so designating it as an issuer subject to the exemption [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.100.1]. The application for the order must be made on the form reproduced in this form [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.100.1] and must be accompanied by a filing fee of $50 [Corp. Code § 25608(d); but see Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set fee at amount below maximum fee set forth in Corp. Code § 25608)].

§ 6.232 Request for Order of Exemption for Short-Term Commercial Paper [Corp. Code § 25100(l); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.100.3]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a request for exemption for short-term commercial paper. Corp. Code § 25100(l) exempts short-term commercial paper from the qualification requirements of Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, and 25130, as long as the note, draft, bill of exchange, or banker's acceptance is freely transferable and of prime quality, arises out of a current transaction (or the proceeds of the instrument are to be used or have been used for a current transaction), is payable within nine months, and is offered to the public in amounts not less than $25,000 [Corp. Code § 25100(l)].

An issuer may request an exemption for instruments that meet all of the conditions listed above, except that the securities are to be offered in amounts of less than $25,000 in the aggregate to any one purchaser [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.100.3(a)]. The order of exemption, if granted, is good for a period of one year (unless a different period is specified in the order), and may be renewed for additional periods upon submission and approval of subsequent requests for an order of exemption [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.100.3(a)]. The order of exemption applies only to the securities described in the request when offered and sold in the manner described in the request for the order [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.100.3(a)]. This form is used to request such an order as prescribed by 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.100.3(b).

This chapter covers methods commonly used by California nonpublic corporations to comply with the federal Securities Act of 1933. The chapter deals with simplified registration for small offerings under SEC Regulation A, and exemptions from federal registration, including those available under SEC Regulation D. Coordination of California and federal exemptions is also discussed.

Commonly used exemptions under California law are discussed in Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions [see Corp. Code §§ 25102(f), (d)], Ch. 6C, California Small Offering Exemption [see Corp. Code § 25102(h)], and Ch. 6D, California Qualified Purchaser Exemptions [see Corp. Code § 25102(i), (n)]. See Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues , for a comparison of the various exemptions and guidance on determining which exemption would best serve the issuer's plan for raising capital by selling its equity securities.

For detailed discussion of federal registration requirements under the Securities Act of 1933, see Sommer, Federal Securities Act of 1933 (Matthew Bender).

§ 6A.20 Introduction to Nonpublic Securities Transactions

[1] Private Corporation Securities Offerings

There are three ways of raising money for a business: owner investing, borrowing, and retaining profits. A corporation selling equity securities--that is, shares of stock and related items (such as warrants)--is pursuing owner investing. Private corporations may sell "securities" [for California definition of "security" under Corp. Code § 25019, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues] subject to regulation under federal and state laws, but the transactions often are exempt from registration because they are small in dollar amount, or they are restricted to a limited number or type of investors, or both. These exempt offerings of securities may be called limited private offerings and can involve debt as well as equity securities (such as convertible debt, which would be a debt instrument entitling the holder to convert to an equity interest) [for discussion of debt securities, see Ch. 6J, Issuance of Debt Securities]. By using limited private offerings, corporations can avoid much of the cost and delay of a public offering.

[2] Federal Laws and Regulations

In this chapter "Securities Act" and "Exchange Act" are used in lieu of the longer titles for the two principal federal laws governing securities: the Securities Act of 1933 [see 15 U.S.C. § 77a et seq.] and the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [see 15 U.S.C. § 78a et seq.], respectively.

The Securities Act imposes a registration requirement [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 77e(c), 77f] that must be met before securities may lawfully be offered or sold, but also specifies numerous exemptions from the registration requirement. These exemptions are contained in two sections. One section lists exempted securities (identified sometimes by type of issuer, sometimes by type of security) [see 15 U.S.C. § 77c]; the other section lists exempted transactions [see 15 U.S.C. § 77d]. These sections address the following issues [see § 6A.22[1]]:

- Intrastate offerings [see 15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(11)];
- Small or limited offerings [see 15 U.S.C. § 77c(b)];

- Offerings to accredited investors [see 15 U.S.C. § 77d(6)]; and

- Private offerings [see 15 U.S.C. § 77d(2)].

The federal Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), which enforces and interprets the securities laws, has fleshed out these statutory exemptions in the following rules and regulations:

- Intrastate offerings are covered by SEC Rule 147 [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.147; see also § 6A.24].

- SEC Regulation A [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.251 et seq.] covers the small-or-limited-offering exemption [see § 6A.22[2][a]].

- SEC Regulation D [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.501 et seq.] covers small offerings, offerings to accredited investors, and private offerings; and these have come to be identified with the three principal governing rules [see § 6A.22[2][b]-[d]]: Rules 504, 505, and 506 [see 17 C.F.R. §§ 230.504-230.506].

- SEC Rule 701 applies to sales through employee benefit plans [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.701; see also § 6A.22[2][e]].

§ 6A.21 Overview of Federal Registration Requirements

[1] Scope of Federal Securities Laws

[a] Securities Act

The Securities Act generally requires a corporation, when undertaking to sell its securities, to give potential investors full disclosure of all material facts--facts that investors would find important in making an investment decision [see 15 U.S.C. § 77j (information required in prospectus)]. The Act also requires the corporation to file a registration statement with the SEC that includes information for investors, unless the offering is exempt [see 15 U.S.C. § 77e]. The SEC does not evaluate the merits of offerings or determine whether the securities offered are good investments. The SEC's staff only reviews a registration statement and declares it "effective" if it satisfies the Act's disclosure requirements.

PRACTICE TIP:

SEC disclosure requirements may, however, impact the business of the issuer. For instance, all financial statements must be prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and Regulation S-X [17 C.F.R. § 210.1-01 et seq.]. These requirements may alter the manner in which the company has previously prepared its financial statements. As a result, the company may find that its revenues, earnings and assets are reduced or its liabilities increased. A company may also prefer to alter certain of its business practices regarding compensation of officers and directors, affiliate transactions or other matters rather than disclose these practices. A company may also be concerned about disclosure of sensitive business information which it believes may be of value to its competitors. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

Basically the owners of a nonpublic corporation can raise money through the sale of its securities in one of two ways: by either "going public," which requires registration with the SEC, or qualifying the sale under one of several specific statutory and regulatory exemptions from the registration requirement.

[b] Exchange Act

Under the Exchange Act, a corporation that has not filed a registration statement under the Securities Act will be required nonetheless to file an Exchange Act registration statement on Form 8-A if and when one of these conditions is satisfied:

- The corporation's securities become exchange-listed [see 15 U.S.C. § 78l(b)].

- The corporation has either a class of equity securities with 500 or more shareholders and has total assets exceeding $1 million at the end of its last two fiscal years or a class of equity securities with 750 or more shareholders and has total assets exceeding $1 million at the end of its last fiscal year, and the corporation is engaged in interstate commerce [see 15 U.S.C. § 78l(g); 17 C.F.R. § 240.12g-1].

A corporation that has filed an Exchange Act registration statement is subject to reporting requirements [see 15 U.S.C. § 78m] and is commonly known as a reporting company. Major shareholders, officers, and directors of the corporation also may be subject to reporting requirements [see 15 U.S.C. § 78m(d)]. In addition, the corporation will be subject to regulatory oversight of proxies and tender offers.

Each issuer that has filed a registration statement with the SEC will be subject to the reporting requirements. This duty will be suspended if, at the beginning of the fiscal year following the date of the registration statement, the issuer's securities are held of record by less than 300 holders [Exchange Act § 15(d), 15 U.S.C. § 78o(d)]. Some issuers who fall below the 300 holder limit may nevertheless continue to file registration statements pursuant to undertakings made to shareholders in a previous offering or otherwise to assist the corporation in its capital-raising activities.

[2] Consequences of Going Public

[a] Benefits

The potential benefits of going public may include the following:

- Access to capital will increase because there will be relatively more potential investors.

- The corporation may become more widely known.

- The corporation may obtain financing more easily in the future if investor interest in the corporation grows enough to sustain a secondary market in its securities.

- Controlling shareholders, officers, and directors may have a ready market for their shares, which means that they can more easily sell their interests at retirement, for diversification, or for some other reason.

- The corporation may be able to attract and retain more highly qualified personnel if it can offer stock options, bonuses, and other incentives with a known market value.

- The image of the corporation may be improved.

[b] Burdens

However, public corporations have obligations that the owners of a nonpublic corporation might be unable or unwilling to meet. The following are some of the reasons for qualifying under an exemption in order to avoid going public:

- A public corporation must continually keep shareholders informed about business operations, financial condition, and management, thus incurring additional costs and new legal obligations.

- A public corporation must regularly file reports with the SEC (although reporting can be suspended as long as the corporation has only a few hundred shareholders), and the filed reports become public documents.

- Officers, directors, and major shareholders may become liable if the corporation does not fulfill the new legal obligations.

- Major shareholders, officers and directors may be subject to restrictions on their ability to sell stock in the company

- Major shareholders, officers, and directors may be required to file reports with the SEC, disclosing information about their share holdings and transactions; and the filed reports become public documents.

- Current shareholders, officers, and directors may lose some flexibility in managing the corporation's affairs, particularly when shareholders must approve actions.

- A public offering will take time and money to accomplish.

PRACTICE TIP:

It is recommended that counsel for the issuer prepare a memorandum for an issuer which has just gone public outlining compliance procedures which will need to be established by the issuer in order to satisfy the issuer's new obligations under the Securities Act and the Exchange Act. This type of memorandum may also be useful in helping a company decide whether the benefits of going public out weigh the burdens. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

[3] Registration Exemptions

In general, issues of securities must be registered with the SEC unless an exemption is available. Registration documents include detailed disclosure, historical financial statements, and third-party audits, which take time to prepare. The process usually requires many hours of work by attorneys, accountants, and investment bankers, and the SEC's review can last 60 days or longer. Registration alone can cost tens of thousands of dollars even before the offering yields any capital (if it ever does).

A private placement, however, is exempt from federal registration. Exemptions have always been available under the Securities Act, but the original exemption provisions contained in Sections 3(b) and 4(2) [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 77c(b), 77d(2)] are vague and therefore may be risky for small corporations to invoke. In 1982, the SEC adopted Regulation D [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.501 et seq.], which sets forth objective and quantifiable rules for exemptions from federal registration. Offerings exempt under Rule 504, Rule 505, and Rule 506 of Regulation D have become the most common methods for small and growing companies to raise capital from private investors. Other exemptions which may be available for offerings in California are the intrastate offering exemption and the Regulation CE exemption. These statutory and regulatory exemptions are discussed in this chapter and briefly described in § 6A.22.

An offering that is exempt from registration requirements of the federal securities laws may nevertheless be subject to notice and filing requirements under California law, or the offering may be exempt from those requirements as well. The California requirements for nonexempt transactions are discussed in Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities . California exemptions are discussed in Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions , Ch. 6C, California Small Offering Exemption , and Ch. 6D, California Qualified Purchaser Exemptions . This chapter covers coordination of federal and California exemptions in § 6A.23.

All securities transactions, even exempt transactions, are subject to the antifraud provisions of the federal securities laws, such as Section 17(a) of the Securities Act [15 U.S.C. § 77q(a)], Section 10(b) of the Exchange Act [15 U.S.C. § 78j(b)], and Rule 10b-5 [17 C.F.R. § 240.10b-5]. The corporation and responsible individuals will be liable for false or misleading statements, whether oral or written. The SEC and other agencies can enforce the antifraud provisions through criminal, civil, and administrative proceedings. Enforcement also may be pursued through private law suits. Unless all conditions of an exemption are met, the buyers of the securities may be able to obtain rescission and restitution.

[4] Securities Act Registration Process

[a] In General

If a corporation intends to make a registered public offering, the Securities Act requires the corporation to file a registration statement with the SEC before the corporation can offer the securities for sale [see 15 U.S.C. § 77e]. The corporation may not sell the securities covered by the registration statement until the SEC's staff has declared the registration statement to be "effective," even though the registration statement becomes public immediately on filing.

Registration statements have two principal parts [see generally 17 C.F.R. § 230.400 et seq.]:

- Part I is the prospectus, which is the offering document. The corporation, which is referred to as the "issuer" of the securities, must describe in the prospectus the important facts about its business operations, financial condition, and management [see 15 U.S.C. § 77j]. The issuer must "present the information in a prospectus in a clear, concise and understandable manner" according to specified standards [17 C.F.R. § 230.421(b)]. There is a requirement to "use plain English principles in the organization, language, and design of the front and back cover pages, the summary, and the risk factors section" [17 C.F.R. § 230.421(d)(1); see 17 C.F.R. § 230.421(d)(2) (six principles)]. Everyone who buys any of the securities in the new issue, as well as anyone who is solicited to buy the securities, must have access to the prospectus.

- Part II contains additional information that the issuer need not deliver to investors. However, anyone can see this information by requesting it from the SEC or by looking it up on the SEC's web site at www.sec.gov.

[b] All Issuers: Form S-1

The issuer can use SEC Form S-1 to register a public offering; or a qualified small business issuer could use a different form instead [see [c], below]. Form S-1 is not a fill-in form like a tax return but is a guide for the preparation of a narrative statement--the prospectus--containing information about the issuer's business, properties, and competition; the identities of the officers and directors and their compensation; material transactions between the issuer and the officers and directors; material legal proceedings involving the issuer or the officers and directors; the plan for distributing the securities; and the intended use of the proceeds of the offering. Information about how to describe these items is set out in the form and SEC rules in Regulation S-K. Registration statements also must include year-end financial statements that must be audited by an independent certified public accountant and must satisfy SEC requirements under Regulation S-K.

In addition to the information expressly required by the form, the issuer must provide any other information that is necessary to make the disclosure complete and not misleading. The issuer also must clearly describe any risks prominently in the prospectus, usually at the beginning. Examples of risk factors are lack of business operating history, adverse economic conditions in the issuer's particular industry, lack of a market for the securities offered, and dependence on key personnel.

Information on filing and SEC processing requirements is contained in Regulation C and Regulation S-T.

[c] SEC Review

The SEC's staff examines a filed registration statement for compliance with disclosure requirements. If a filing appears to be incomplete or inaccurate, the issuer usually is informed by letter, and the issuer may then file correcting or clarifying amendments. Once the issuer has responded in a satisfactory manner to staff comments, the staff declares the registration statement to be "effective." The issuer may then begin to sell the securities. The SEC can suspend the effectiveness of any registration statement on determining that the document is misleading, inaccurate, or incomplete.

SEC review is no guarantee that disclosure requirements have been met and the issuer will continue to be liable for failure to fulfill these requirements notwithstanding SEC review.

§ 6A.22 Overview of Exemptions From Securities Act Registration

[a] Intrastate Offering--Section 3(a)(11) Exemption

Section 3(a)(11) of the Securities Act creates what is generally known as the "intrastate offering exemption." This exemption facilitates the financing of local business operations by local investors. To qualify for the intrastate offering exemption, the issuer must be organized under California law and must (1) carry out a significant amount of its business in California, and (2) make offers and sales of securities only to residents of California [see 15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(11)]. The issuer makes no filing with the SEC when using the intrastate exemption. For detailed discussion of this exemption, see § 6A.24. Implicitly, the offering is subject to California qualification requirements, or may be exempt from those requirements, according to California law.

PRACTICE TIP:

Care must be taken that the intrastate offering will not be integrated with any other offering previously made by the issuer. If the issuer contemplates making additional offerings in the near-term, consideration must be given to whether these offerings might also be integrated. The intrastate offering exemption will therefore be inappropriate for an issuer that wants to maintain flexibility regarding future offerings. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

There is no statutory or regulatory limit on the size of the offering or the number of buyers. However, the issuer must verify the California residence of each buyer. If any of the securities are offered or sold to even one nonresident, the exemption will be lost, and without the exemption, the issuer could be in violation of the Securities Act registration requirements. Moreover, during a short period after the offering is complete, if a buyer resells any of the securities to a person who resides outside California, the entire transaction, including the original sales, might violate the Securities Act.

The securities in an intrastate offering seldom can be traded publicly in a secondary market because secondary markets are rarely strictly intrastate. In short, buyers of the securities have severe limitations on how and to whom they might resell the securities. Since secondary markets for these securities rarely develop, issuers often must sell the securities at a discount.

It will be difficult for the issuer to rely on the intrastate exemption unless the major shareholders, officers, and directors (as a group) know the buyers (as a group), and the sale is directly negotiated with them. If the issuer holds some of its assets outside California, or derives a substantial portion of its revenues outside California, it could have a difficult time qualifying for the exemption.

The issuer may follow Rule 147 [17 C.F.R. § 230.147; see § 6A.24[2]], a safe-harbor rule, to ensure that it meets the requirements for this exemption. It is possible, however, that a transaction not meeting all requirements of Rule 147 may still qualify for the exemption.

[b] Small Offering--Section 3(b) Exemption

Section 3(b) of the Securities Act authorizes the SEC to exempt securities from registration "by reason of the small amount involved or the limited character of the public offering." The ceiling on "small amount" is $5 million [15 U.S.C. § 77c(b)]. Regulation A [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.251 et seq.] and Rules 504 and 701 create such exemptions [see [2][a], [b], [e], below].

[c] Private Offering--Section 4(2) Exemption

Section 4(2) of the Securities Act exempts from registration "transactions by an issuer not involving any public offering" [15 U.S.C. § 77d(2)]. Since the Securities Act does not define "public offering," issuers must rely on judicial decisions and SEC interpretations. Generally, a public offering would not be involved when there is no public solicitation or general advertising in connection with the offering and the issuer ensures that buyers

- Have enough knowledge and experience in finance and business matters to evaluate the risks and merits of the investment (be "sophisticated" investors) or be able to bear the investment's economic risk;
- Have access to the type of information normally provided in a prospectus; and
- Agree not to resell or distribute the securities to the public.

The precise limits of this private offering exemption are uncertain. As the number of buyers increases and their relationships to the issuer and management become more remote, it is more difficult to show that the transaction qualifies for the exemption. If the issuer offers securities to even one person who does not satisfy the necessary conditions, the entire offering may be in violation of the Securities Act. Rule 506 in Regulation D [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.506], a safe harbor rule, provides objective standards on which the issuer can rely to meet the requirements of this exemption [see [2][d], below].

[d] Accredited Investor--Section 4(6) Exemption

Section 4(6) of the Securities Act exempts from registration offers and sales of securities to accredited investors when the aggregate offering price is less than $5 million [15 U.S.C. § 77d(6)]. The definition of "accredited investor" is provided by Section 2(15) of the Securities Act [15 U.S.C. § 77b(a)(15)(i)] and Rule 215 [17 C.F.R. § 230.215; see 15 U.S.C. § 77b(a)(15)(ii)] and is the same as the definition provided by Rule 501 in Regulation D [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a); see also § 6A.112[1]]. This exemption does not permit any form of advertising or public solicitation. There are no document delivery requirements, but the SEC's Form D must be filed after a sale [see 17 C.F.R. § 239.500(a), (b) (electronic filing required); see also § 6A.202]. Even though the buyers are accredited investors, all transactions are subject to the antifraud provisions of the securities laws.

[2] Regulatory Exemptions

[a] Small Offering--Regulation A Exemption

Section 3(b) of the Securities Act gives the SEC authority to exempt from registration certain offerings when the securities to be offered involve relatively small dollar amounts [see 15 U.S.C. § 77c(b)]. Under this provision, the SEC has adopted Regulation A [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.251 et seq.], a conditional exemption for certain public offerings not exceeding $5 million in any 12-month period. This exemption is discussed in detail in § 6A.25. An offering statement (consisting of a notification, offering circular, and exhibits) is filed with the SEC regional office in the region where the company's principal business activities are conducted. The Pacific Regional Office (covering California) is in Los Angeles; the address is published in the regulations [see 17 C.F.R. § 200.11] and on the SEC's web site at www.sec.gov.

Although Regulation A is technically an exemption from the registration requirements of the Securities Act, it is often referred to as a short-form registration since the offering circular (similar in content to a prospectus) must be supplied to each buyer, and the securities issued are freely tradable in a secondary market. There are three permitted offering circular formats under Regulation A, one of which is a simplified question-and-answer document. This style of disclosure is useful to potential investors and may offer significant savings to the issuer in both the time expended and the costs of preparation.

The principal advantages of Regulations A offerings, as opposed to full registration on Form S-1, Form SB-1, or Form SB-2 [see § 6A.21[4][b], [c]], are as follows:

- The financial statements are simpler and do not need to be audited.

- There are no Exchange Act reporting obligations after the offering--unless the issuer otherwise becomes subject to Exchange Act reporting requirements [see § 6A.21[1][b]; 15 U.S.C. § 78l(g); 17 C.F.R. § 240.12g-1].

- The issuer may select one of three formats to prepare the offering circular, and one of those is a simplified question-and-answer format.

- The issuer can "test the waters" to determine whether there is adequate interest in the securities, before incurring the expense of filing with the SEC.

In a test-the-waters case, the issuer can use general solicitation and advertising before filing an offering statement with the SEC. Thus the issuer can determine whether there is enough market interest in the securities to justify an offering, before it incurs the full legal, accounting, and other costs associated with filing an offering statement. However, the issuer may not solicit or accept money until the SEC's staff has completed review of the filed offering statement (and the issuer has delivered prescribed offering materials to investors).

Any type of corporation organized under the laws of a United States, the District of Columbia, or a Canadian province, unless disqualified pursuant to Rule 262, that does not report under the Exchange Act may use Regulation A, except

- A corporation with an unspecified business.

- An investment company registered or required to be registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940.

- A development-stage company that plans to merge with an as-yet-unidentified company or has no specific business plan or purpose--also known as a blank-check company. In most cases, shareholders may use Regulation A to resell up to $1.5 million of securities.

- An issuer of undivided interests in oil and gas or similar mineral interests.

[b] Offering of $1 Million in 12 Months--Rule 504 Exemption

Rule 504 in Regulation D [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.504] provides an exemption for the offer and sale of up to $1 million of securities in a 12-month period. This exemption is discussed in detail in § 6A.26. Any corporation that is not a blank-check company or an investment company and is not subject to Exchange Act reporting requirements may use this exemption. Unlike Rule 505 and Rule 506 [see [c], [d], below], Rule 504 does not mandate that specified disclosure be provided to buyers. However, the issuer must take care that sufficient information is provided to meet the full-disclosure obligations under the antifraud provisions of the securities laws. There is no limit on the number of buyers, and there are no investor-sophistication standards. Prior to the adoption of the National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996 (NSMIA), Rule 504 was the most commonly used Regulation D exemption. Since the adoption of NSMIA, Rule 504 offerings have become less common in multijurisdictional transactions since compliance with various state blue sky laws is simplified if the offering is made in reliance on Rule 506 of Regulation D. Offerings that are exempt under Rule 504 are relatively simple to prepare, which reduces cost and delay, and can generally be underwritten by the offering company (that is, the securities can be sold by the company's own officers, directors, and employees).

In general, the issuer may not use public solicitation or advertising to market the securities, and buyers receive "restricted" securities, meaning that buyers may not sell the securities without filing a registration statement or qualifying under an applicable exemption. However, the issuer can use Rule 504 for a "public" offering of securities, and investors then will receive freely tradable securities, in any of the following circumstances [see 17 C.F.R. §§ 230.502(d), 230.504(b)(1)]:

- The issuer qualifies the offering in California--and in no other states except states that require a publicly filed registration statement and delivery of a substantive disclosure document to investors. California requirements are discussed in Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities .

- The issuer (1) registers the offering and sells in a state--such as California--that requires registration and disclosure delivery, (2) also sells in a state without those requirements, and (3) delivers to all buyers the disclosure documents mandated by the state in which the offering is registered.

- The issuer sells exclusively according to state-law exemptions that permit general solicitation and advertising, as long as the issuer sells only to accredited investors as in Rule 505 and Rule 506 offerings [see [c], [d], below].

California law provides for a similar exemption [see Corp. Code § 25102(n)], which is discussed in Ch. 6B, California Qualified Purchaser Exemptions . See § 6A.23 for discussion of the coordination of federal and California exemptions.

Even though the issuer can make a private sale under Rule 504 exempt from specific disclosure requirements, the issuer should take care to provide sufficient information to investors to avoid violating the antifraud provisions of the securities laws. This means that any information provided to investors must be free from false or misleading statements. Similarly, the issuer should not exclude any information if the omission renders false or misleading any information that is provided to investors.

Unlike the qualification requirements of Rule 505 and Rule 506 in Regulation D (which provide exemptions from federal registration for larger private offerings) [see [c], [d], below], Rule 504 allocates primary responsibility for the regulation of small offerings to the states. A California corporation intending to sell its securities in other states as well as in California can coordinate compliance with the several states' requirements by using the Small Corporate Offering Registration (SCOR) program developed through a joint effort by members of the American Bar Association and the North American Securities Administrators Association (NASAA), which is discussed in § 6A.23[2][a].

[c] Offering of $5 Million in 12 Months--Rule 505 Exemption

Rule 505 in Regulation D [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.505] provides an exemption for offers and sales of securities totaling up to $5 million in any 12-month period. This exemption is discussed in detail in § 6A.27. The issuer may sell to an unlimited number of accredited investors and up to 35 other persons, who do not need to meet sophistication or wealth standards associated with other exemptions. Buyers must buy for investment only, not for resale. The issued securities are "restricted"; consequently, the issuer must inform investors that they may not sell securities without registering the transaction unless an exemption, such as Rule 144 [17 C.F.R. § 230.144], is available. The issuer may not use general solicitation or advertising to sell the securities. The issuer must not be subject to disqualification under Rule 262 [17 C.F.R. § 230.262], which sets forth certain "bad boy" disqualifiers.

The issuer may decide what information to give to accredited investors, as long as it does not violate the antifraud prohibitions of the securities laws. The issuer must give nonaccredited investors disclosure documents that generally are the same as those used in registered offerings. If the issuer provides information to accredited investors, it must make the same information available to the nonaccredited investors as well. The issuer also must arrange for someone to be available to answer questions by prospective buyers.

Financial statements generally need to be audited by an independent public accountant. If the issuer cannot obtain audited financial statements without unreasonable effort or expense, however, only a balance sheet must be audited.

California law provides for similar exemptions [see Corp. Code § 25102(f), (n)], which are discussed in Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions , and Ch. 6D, California Qualified Purchaser Exemptions . (California has not adopted the Model Accredited Investor Exemption proposed by the North American Securities Administrators Association (NASAA) to exempt from state securities registration any offer or sale of securities to accredited investors as defined in Regulation D.) See § 6A.23 for discussion of coordination of the federal and California exemptions.

PRACTICE TIP:

California is not unusual in this regard. Few states have adopted the Model Accredited Investor Exemption without modification, thereby limiting its usefulness. This is one of the reasons for including Rule 506 of Regulation D offerings as a "covered security" entitled to the benefits of federal preemption under NSMIA. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

[d] Private Offering--Rule 506 Exemption

Rule 506 in Regulation D [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.506] is a safe harbor for the Section 4(2) private-offering exemption described in [1][c], above, for limited offers and sales without regard to the dollar amount of the offering. This exemption is discussed in detail in § 6A.28. There is no ceiling on the amount that may be raised. This exemption does not limit the number of accredited investors, but the number of nonaccredited investors may not exceed 35. All nonaccredited buyers, either alone or together with a designated representative, must be sophisticated enough--must have the knowledge and experience necessary--to evaluate the merits and risks of the investment. (The issuer typically determines the sophistication of the investors with a questionnaire, which may need to be created by a securities specialist.) Buyers receive "restricted" securities. Consequently, buyers may not freely trade the securities in the secondary market after the offering, unless the sale is registered or an exemption is available.

If an issuer stays within the Rule 506 guidelines, it can be certain that the offering qualifies under the Section 4(2) exemption. The issuer may decide what information to give to accredited investors, as long as it does not violate the antifraud prohibitions. The issuer must give nonaccredited investors disclosure documents that generally are the same as those used in registered offerings. If the issuer provides information to accredited investors, it must make this information available to the nonaccredited investors as well. Someone must be available to answer questions by prospective buyers. Financial statement requirements are the same as for Rule 505 [see [c], above].

California law provides a similar exemption in Corp. Code § 25102(f). Offerings made in reliance on Rule 506 may also take advantage of the federal preemption provisions of NSMIA [see Corp. Code § 25102.1(d) for filings that must be made in California if the issuer wishes to take advantage of NSMIA; see also Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues, § 6.141].

[e] Sale Through Employee Benefit Plan--Rule 701 Exemption

Rule 701 [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.701] exempts sales of securities that are made to compensate employees. This exemption, which is discussed in detail in § 6A.30, is available only to a corporation that is not subject to Exchange Act reporting requirements. Securities may be sold under Rule 701 in connection with offerings made in compliance with Rule 701 even if the issuer subsequently becomes a reporting company. The issuer can sell up to $1 million of securities under this exemption, regardless of the issuer's size. The issuer can sell even more if it qualifies under certain formulas based on the issuer's assets or the number of its outstanding securities. To sell more than $5 million in securities in a 12-month period, the issuer must provide limited disclosure documents to employees. Employees receive "restricted securities" in these transactions [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.144(a)(3)(ii)] and may not freely offer or sell them to the public, unless the sale is registered or an exemption is available.

Rule 701 was adopted to allow nonreporting companies ("private" corporations) to sell securities to their employees without the need to file a registration statement, as public corporations do. The rule provides an exemption from the registration requirements of the Securities Act for sales of securities under certain compensatory benefit plans or written agreements relating to compensation, permitting corporations to preserve cash by using stock for compensatory purposes. The ability to reward and retain employees with securities can enable corporations to keep valuable employees without having to use other methods to compensate them, such as borrowing money or selling securities to raise cash. The exemptive scope covers securities sold under a plan or agreement between a private corporation (or its parents or majority-owned subsidiaries) and employees, officers, directors, partners, trustees, consultants, and advisers.

The SEC determined that it would be an unreasonable burden to require private corporations, many of which are small businesses, to incur the expenses and disclosure obligations of public corporations when their only "public" securities sales are to employees. Further, these sales are for compensatory and incentive purposes, rather than for capital-raising. To accommodate these corporations, the SEC used the maximum extent of its authority under Section 3(b) of the Securities Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 77c(b)] to exempt sales for these compensatory purposes. The SEC's goal has been to allow flexibility for corporations to compensate employees with securities and, at the same time, ensure that essential information will be delivered to them in appropriate situations and in a timely manner. The following are the important aspects of using Rule 701:

- There is no limit on the amount of securities that may be offered through an employee benefit plan; rather, the rule limits the amount that may be sold (thus, it is relatively easy for issuers to determine the exempt amount of securities transactions). The maximum amount of securities that may be sold in a year under the rule is the greatest of
    - $1 million;
    - 15 percent of the issuer's total assets; or

- 15 percent of the outstanding securities of that class.

- The issuer must provide specific disclosure to each buyer of securities if more than $5 million worth of securities are to be sold.

- The exemption extends to sales to employees of majority-owned subsidiaries of the issuer's parent, that is, brother-sister subsidiaries.

- Sales to former employees (including former directors, officers, general partners, trustees, consultants, and advisers) may be completed under Rule 701 if those persons were employees when the securities initially were offered.

- The rule specifies the manner of considering employee/consultant services in computing the aggregate sales limit.

- The rule facilitates tax and estate planning by permitting the rule to be available for option exercises by family members of employees, who may acquire Rule 701 securities from the employee through a gift or a domestic relations order.

An exemption is available in California for offerings made in reliance on Rule 701 if certain standards imposed by the Commissioner are satisfied [see Corp. Code § 25102(o); 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.41, 260.140.42, 260.140.45, 260.140.46].

§ 6A.23 Coordination of Federal and California Registrations and Exemptions

PRACTICE TIP:

There are, of course, other possibilities for coordinating California and federal exemptions. The California commercial paper exemption in Corp. Code § 25100(l) may be coordinated with the federal commercial paper exemption in Section 3(a)(3). The private placement exemption under Section 4(2) may be coordinated with exemptions available under Corp. Code § 25102(e), (f), (i), or (n). If the offering will be made in other jurisdictions, the issuer will also need to consider how best to coordinate the offering with the requirements of other states. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

[1] In General

[a] Regulation A Offering

When an small offering is being registered with the SEC under Regulation A [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.251 et seq.; see also § 6A.25], the issuer may qualify the offering in California by filing either a California-prescribed form or Form U-1 developed by NASAA, augmented by the addition of prescribed information, along with a copy of the SEC-filed Form 1-A, with the Commissioner of Corporations--a procedure known as coordination [see Corp. Code § 25111(a); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.111(a)]. Form U-1 is illustrated in Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities, § 6H.206[2].

[b] Rule 506 Offering

Securities marketed under a Rule 506 exemption are "covered securities" for purposes of the Securities Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(4)(D)]. In general, states may not force compliance with state-law qualification and registration requirements [see generally, e.g., Corp. Code § 25110] for transactions in "covered securities" [see 15 U.S.C. § 77r(a)]. However, in the case of a transaction under Rule 506, a state is "not prohibit[ed] ... from imposing notice filing requirements that are substantially similar to those required by ... [Regulation D] that are in effect on September 1, 1996" [15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(4)(D)]. Accordingly, California law provides an exemption from California qualification requirements for Rule 506 transactions [see Corp. Code § 25100.1(a)] but imposes the following notice filing requirements [Corp. Code § 25102.1(d); see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 109-C (Dec. 18, 1997)]:

- A notice in the form of a copy of the completed Form D as filed with the SEC must be filed with the Commissioner of Corporations within 15 days of the first sale in California, along with documents filed with the SEC in annual or periodic reports that the Commissioner by rule or order deems appropriate. The Commissioner may allow for a notice by electronic transmission of the information in Form D.

- A consent to service of process under Corp. Code § 25165 generally must be filed with the required notice (but this is not always necessary; see below). The consent may be NASAA Form U-2, which can be downloaded at the organization's web site (www.nasaa.org); pursuant to Form D [17 C.F.R. 239.500] filed with the Commissioner in connection with the transaction; included in an electronic submission of a filing; or in the form set forth by regulation [10 Cal. Code Reg. 260.165; see Dept. of Corps. Rel. No. 120-C (Mar. 24, 2009) (consent to service of process or Form U-2 not required if electronic Form D was filed with SEC); see also § 6A.202[1][b] regarding electronic filing requirements].

- The issuer must pay the filing fee provided for in Corp. Code § 25608.1(c) [but see Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set any fee at amount below maximum set forth in Corp. Code § 25608.1)].

The filed notice must be accompanied by a letter of transmittal stating that the filing is pursuant to "both Rule 506 and Section 18(b)(4)(D) of the Securities Act of 1933." The consent to service of process may be omitted if the issuer submits a statement that the issuer is a California corporation or already has a consent to service of process on file with the Commissioner of Corporations. All of these notice requirements may be ignored, however, if none of the securities offered for sale under Rule 506 are sold in California [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 109-C (Dec. 18, 1997)]. Alternatively, the issuer may follow the procedures under Corp. Code § 25102(f).

[2] Coordinated Offering Registrations

[a] Small Company Offering Registration (SCOR)

To facilitate small business capital formation, NASAA, in conjunction with the American Bar Association, developed the Small Company Offering Registration program, also known as SCOR. The SCOR form, called Form U-7 [see § 6A.203], is a simplified question-and-answer registration form designed to be completed without the need for a securities law specialist's assistance, which an issuer can use also as the disclosure document for investors. Nearly all of the states recognize SCOR, and a California corporation may use it [see Corp. Code § 25113(b)(2)(E); 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.113, 260.113.1].

SCOR was primarily designed for state registration of small business securities offerings conducted under Rule 504 (sale of securities up to $1 million within 12 months; see § 6A.22[2][b] for an overview). However, in addition, an issuer can use Form U-7 [see § 6A.203] to satisfy many of the filing requirements of the Regulation A exemption (sales of securities of up to $5 million; see § 6A.22[2][a] for an overview), since the issuer may file it with the SEC as part of the Regulation A offering statement.

To assist small businesses offering securities in several states, many states coordinate SCOR or Regulation A filings through a NASAA program for regional review; however, California is not one of the participating states. Issuers wanting additional information on SCOR or regional reviews should contact NASAA.

[b] Coordinated Equity Review (CER)

The NASAA Coordinated Equity Review (CER) program provides a uniform state registration procedure designed to coordinate the blue-sky registration process in all of the states in which an issuer seeks to sell equity securities. In addition to creating uniformity in the review standards, the program is designed to expedite the registration process, saving the issuer time and money. Most of the states that register offerings eligible to use CER are participants in the program, including California [see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 111-C (Apr. 16, 1998)].

CER is designed to target offerings of securities that are not "covered securities" as defined in Section 18(b)(1) of the Securities Act (that is, are not nationally traded securities) [see 15 U.S.C. § 77r(b)(1)]. CER generally is intended only for initial public offerings of common stock, preferred stock, warrants, rights, and units of equity securities. Such offerings also must be registered (or registration must be pending) under Section 5 of the Securities Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 77e]; therefore, CER is not available for Regulation A offerings. CER also is not available for issuers of blind-pool or blank-check offerings, and CER may not be available on all offerings even if the offering fits within the initial screening criteria. (A blind-pool or blank-check offering is one to fund a development-stage company that has no specific business plan or purpose or that plans to merge with an as-yet-unidentified company.) More information is available on the NASAA web site at www.nasaa.org.

[3] Regulation CE Exemption for California Qualified-Purchaser Offering

Rule 1001 [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.1001] in Regulation CE [see Securities Act Release No. 7285 (May 9, 1996), 61 Fed. Reg. 21356 (designation connotes "coordinated exemptions" under state laws)] provides an exemption from the registration requirements of the Securities Act for offers and sales of securities, in amounts up to $5 million, that satisfy the conditions of Corp. Code § 25102(n) [17 C.F.R. § 230.1001(a), (b)]. That section exempts from California registration any offering made by certain California corporations to qualified purchasers. The California exemption is discussed in Ch. 6D, California Qualified Purchaser Exemptions .

The California exemption combines a form of general solicitation using a test-the-waters concept with a qualified buyer concept derived in part from the Uniform Limited Offering Exemption, an official policy guideline of NASAA, which was adopted in coordination with the SEC's promulgation of Regulation D. Rule 1001 does not require an issuer to notify the SEC when relying on the California exemption, in view of the notification provisions of the California law.

Rule 1001 exists mainly because the California exemption does not fit well within any general federal exemption, other than Rule 504, which is limited to $1 million [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.504], or potentially the intrastate offering exemption, which is available only for offerings by issuers incorporated and doing business in California [see 15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(11); 17 C.F.R. § 230.147]. Rule 505 and Rule 506 of Regulation D prohibit general solicitations; moreover, the California definition of "qualified purchaser" is broader than the Regulation D definition of "accredited investor." The SEC did not believe that those differences should be an impediment to the ability of small businesses to take full advantage of the California exemption. While the California "qualified purchaser" definition differs somewhat from the federal "accredited investor" definition for individuals, the California law includes additional suitability standards. Moreover, the general announcement of a proposed offering under the California law is subject to significant limitations, thereby protecting against abuse of the procedure. The provisions of the California law are consistent with investor protection and the public interest and therefore "warranted the [SEC's] full exercise of its exemptive authority under Section 3(b)" of the Securities Act (covering small or limited offerings).

PRACTICE TIP:

The CE Regulation does not exempt the offering from the blue sky laws of other states. The usefulness of the exemption is therefore of limited value in multijurisdictional transactions, unless the other jurisdictions have adopted a Model Accredited Investor Exemption or another relatively easy to use exemption, such as an institutional investor exemption which may be applicable to the transaction. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

Application of Rule 1001 is not limited to the California exemption as it existed when Rule 1001 was adopted. However, the SEC will monitor changes in the California exemption, to ensure that the investor protections are not diminished in a fashion that would warrant modification of the federal exemption.

Securities acquired in the offering are "restricted securities" under Rule 144 [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.144(a)(3)(iv), 230.1001(c)], unless the sale is registered or an exemption is available. They may not be freely offered or sold to the public. This is consistent with the California exemption, since it requires an investment intent on the part of qualified buyers [see Corp. Code § 25102(n)(3)], and a buyer could not resell the securities under California law without qualification or some other exemption.

[4] Rule 701 Offering

Rule 701 [17 C.F.R. § 230.701] provides an exemption for employee benefit plan securities offered to employees of the issuer, its parent or subsidiaries. Corp. Code § 25102(o) provides an exemption for the offer or sale of a security issued by a corporation or limited liability company pursuant to a purchase plan or agreement or issued pursuant to an option plan or agreement, when at the time of issuance or grant when at the time of issuance or grant the security is exempt from registration under Rule 701 and the following additional conditions are satisfied:

- The terms of the purchase plan or agreement comply with 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.42, 260.140.45 and 260.140.46.

- The terms of the option plan or agreement comply with 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.41, 260.140.45 and 260.140.46.

- The issuer files a notice with the Commissioner in statutory form [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.19], a consent to service of process, unless the issuer is a California corporation or already has a consent to service of process on file with the Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.165], and pays a filing fee of $200, plus one fifth of 1 percent of the aggregate value of the securities to be sold in California up to a maximum aggregate fee of $2,500 [Corp. Code § 25608(e), (x); but see Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set fee at amount below maximum fee set forth in Corp. Code § 25608)].

The failure to file the notice of transaction, however, or the failure to file it within the time specified, will not affect the availability of the exemption. Within 15 days after discovery of the failure to file the notice or after demand by the Commissioner, whichever occurs first, an issuer that has failed to file the notice must file it and pay a fee equal to the maximum aggregate fee payable had the transaction been qualified under Corp. Code § 25110 [Corp. Code § 25102(o)].

Offers and sales exempt under this subdivision are deemed to be part of a single, discrete offering and are not subject to integration with any other offering or sale, whether qualified as an issuer transaction [see Corp. Code § 25100 et seq.], otherwise exempt, or not subject to qualification [Corp. Code § 25102(o)].

§ 6A.24 Intrastate Offering Under Section 3(a)(11)

[1] In General

[a] Conditions for Exemption

The Securities Act does not apply to any "security which is a part of an issue offered and sold only to persons resident within a single State or Territory, where the issuer of such security is a person resident and doing business within or, if a corporation, incorporated by and doing business within, such State or Territory" [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(11)]. This exemption is known as the intrastate exemption, or Section 3(a)(11) exemption, from Securities Act registration. The legislative history suggests that the exemption was intended to apply only to issues genuinely local in character, which in reality represent local financing by local industries, carried out through local investment. Rule 147 [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.147] provides more objective standards (a safe harbor) on which responsible local business persons intending to raise capital from local sources may rely in claiming the Section 3(a)(11) exemption [17 C.F.R. § 230.147, Preliminary Note 3]. The rule does not raise any presumption, however, that the exemption is not available for a transaction that does not satisfy all of the provisions of the rule [17 C.F.R. § 230.147, Preliminary Note 1].

All of the terms and conditions of Rule 147 must be satisfied in order for the rule to be available. The following are the basic terms [17 C.F.R. § 230.147, Preliminary Note 3]:

- The issuer must be a resident of and doing business within the state or territory in which all offers and sales are made.

- No part of the issue may be offered or sold to nonresidents within the period of time specified in the rule.

For purposes of the rule, the definition of "issuer" in Section 2(4) of the Securities Act applies [17 C.F.R. § 230.147, Preliminary Note 3].

[b] Limited Scope of Rule 147

Rule 147 relates to transactions exempted from the registration requirements of Section 5 of the Securities Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 77e] by Section 3(a)(11) of that Act. Neither the rule nor Section 3(a)(11) provides an exemption from the registration requirements of Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 78l(g)], the antifraud provisions of the federal securities laws, the civil liability provisions of Section 12(2) of the Securities Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 77l(a)(2)], or other provisions of the federal securities laws [17 C.F.R. § 230.147, Preliminary Note 3].

In view of the objectives of Rule 147 and the purposes and policies underlying the Securities Act, the rule is not available to any person with respect to any offering that, although in technical compliance with the rule, is part of a plan or scheme by the person to make interstate offers or sales of securities. In that case, registration pursuant to the Securities Act is required [17 C.F.R. § 230.147, Preliminary Note 3].

Rule 147 provides an exemption for offers and sales by the issuer only. It is not available for offers or sales of securities by other persons. The Section 3(a)(11) exemption has been interpreted to permit offers and sales by persons controlling the issuer, if the exemption provided by that section would have been available to the issuer at the time of the offering [see Securities Act Release No. 4434 (Dec. 6, 1961), 26 Fed. Reg. 11896] . Controlling persons who want to offer or sell securities pursuant to the Section 3(a)(11) exemption may continue to do so in accordance with applicable judicial and administrative interpretations [17 C.F.R. § 230.147, Preliminary Note 4].

[2] Rule 147 Compliance

[a] Integration

Offers, offers to sell, offers for sale, and sales by an issuer of its securities made in accordance with all of the terms and conditions of Rule 147 will be deemed to be part of an issue offered and sold only to persons resident within a single state or territory when the issuer is a person resident and doing business within that state or territory, within the meaning of Section 3(a)(11) of the Act [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(a)]. For purposes of Rule 147, all securities of the issuer that are "part of an issue" must be offered, offered for sale, or sold in accordance with all of the terms and conditions of Rule 147 [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(b)(1)].

PRACTICE TIP:

A similar analysis must be made in California in connection with determining whether different offerings are part of the same "transaction." The safe harbor concepts adopted by the Commissioner under Corp. Code § 25102(f) are similar to the integration concepts adopted by the SEC [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12]. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

All offers, offers to sell, offers for sale, and sales that are part of the same issue must meet all of the conditions of Rule 147, in order for the rule to be available. The determination of whether offers, offers to sell, offers for sale, and sales of securities are part of the same issue (that is, are deemed to be integrated) is a question of fact and will depend on the particular circumstances [17 C.F.R. § 230.147, Preliminary Note 3]. In determining whether offers and sales should be regarded as part of the same issue and thus should be integrated, any one or more of the following factors may be determinative [Securities Act Release No. 4434 (Dec. 6, 1961), 26 Fed. Reg. 11896] :

- Are the offerings part of a single plan of financing?
- Do the offerings involve issuance of the same class of securities?
- Are the offerings made at or about the same time?

- Is the same type of consideration to be received?

- Are the offerings made for the same general purpose?

Rule 147, however, is designed to provide certainty to the extent feasible by identifying certain types of offers and sales of securities that will be deemed not part of an issue, for purposes of the rule only [17 C.F.R. § 230.147, Preliminary Note 3]. For purposes of Rule 147 only, an issue is deemed not to include offers, offers to sell, offers for sale, and sales of securities of the issuer pursuant to the Section 3 exemption or Section 4(2) exemption (for private offerings) or pursuant to a registration statement filed under the Securities Act, that took place before the six-month period immediately preceding or after the six-month period immediately following any offers, offers for sale, or sales pursuant to Rule 147, provided that during either of those six-month periods, there are no offers, offers for sale, or sales of securities by or for the issuer, of the same or similar class as those offered, offered for sale, or sold pursuant to the rule [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(b)(2)]. Offerings made under Rule 701 will not be integrated with offerings made under Rule 147 even if made within 6 months of the Rule 147 offering [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(f)].

In the event that securities of the same or similar class as those offered pursuant to the rule are offered, offered for sale, or sold less than six months before or after any offer, offer for sale, or sale pursuant to Rule 147, the criteria listed above will be applied to determine which offers, offers to sell, offers for sale, or sales are part of an issue [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(b)(2), Note].

[b] Qualified Issuer

The issuer of the securities must be, at the time of any offers and sales, a person resident and doing business within the state or territory in which all of the offers, offers to sell, offers for sale, and sales are made [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(c)].

The issuer is deemed to be a resident of California if the issuer is incorporated in California [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.147(c)(1)(i); see also 17 C.F.R. § 230.147(c)(1)(ii), (iii) (general partnership or unincorporated business organization not organized under any state or territorial law is resident of state where principal office is located; individual is resident of state where principal residence is located)]. The issuer is deemed to be doing business within California if the following conditions are satisfied:

- The principal office of the issuer is located in California [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.147(c)(2)(iv)].

- The issuer intends to use and does use at least 80 percent of the net proceeds to the issuer from sales made pursuant to Rule 147 in connection with the operation of a business or real property located in, the purchase of real property located in, or the rendering of services within, California [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.147(c)(2)(iii)].

- At the end of its most recent semi-annual fiscal period before the first offer of any part of the issue, the issuer had at least 80 percent of its assets and those of its subsidiaries on a consolidated basis located within California [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.147(c)(2)(ii)].

- The issuer (unless too small; see below) derived at least 80 percent of its gross revenues and those of its subsidiaries on a consolidated basis from the operation of a business or real property located in, or from the rendering of services within, California, for either of the following periods [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.147(c)(2)(i)]:

    - For its most recent fiscal year, if the first offer of any part of the issue is made during the first six months of the issuer's current fiscal year; or

- For the first six months of its current fiscal year or during the 12-month fiscal period ending with that six-month period, if the first offer of any part of the issue is made during the last six months of the issuer's current fiscal year.

However, the fourth listed condition does not apply to any issuer that has not had gross revenues in excess of $5,000 from the sale of products or services or other conduct of its business for its most recent 12-month fiscal period [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(c)(2)(i)(B)].

[c] Qualified Buyers

Offers, offers to sell, offers for sale, and sales of securities that are part of an issue may be made only to persons resident in California [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.147(d)]. For purposes of determining the residence of offerees and buyers,

- An individual is deemed to be a resident of California if the individual has his or her principal residence in California at the time of the offer and sale to him or her [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.147(d)(2)].

- A corporation, partnership, trust, or other form of business organization, that is organized for the specific purpose of acquiring part of an issue offered pursuant to Rule 147 is deemed not to be a resident of California unless all of the beneficial owners of the entity are residents of California [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.147(d)(3)].

- Any other corporation, partnership, trust, or other form of business organization, is deemed to be a resident of California if it has its principal office in California at the time of the offer and sale to it [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.147(d)(1)].

[d] Resale Limitation

During the period in which securities that are part of an intrastate issue are being offered and sold by the issuer, and for the period of nine months from the date of the last sale of those securities by the issuer, all resales of any part of the issue, by any person, may be made only to persons resident in California [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.147(e)].

In the case of convertible securities, resales of either the convertible security or, once it is converted, the underlying security may be made during the limited-resale period only to persons resident California. For purposes of Rule 147, a conversion in reliance on Section 3(a)(9) of the Securities Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(9)] does not begin a new period [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(e), Note 1].

Dealers must satisfy the requirements of Rule 15c2-11 under the Exchange Act [see 17 C.F.R. § 240.15c2-11] before publishing any quotation for a security issued under Rule 147 and before submitting any quotation for publication in any quotation medium [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(e), Note 2].

[e] Compliance Precautions

The issuer, in connection with any securities it sells pursuant to Rule 147, must comply with the following requirements [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(f)(1)]:

- Place a legend on the certificate (or other document evidencing the security) stating that the securities have not been registered under the Securities Act and setting forth the limitations on resale contained in Rule 147(e) [see [d], above].

- Issue stop-transfer instructions to the issuer's transfer agent, if any, with respect to the securities; or, if the issuer transfers its own securities, make a notation in the appropriate records of the issuer.

- Obtain a written representation from each buyer as to the buyer's residence [see § 6A.204].

The issuer, in connection with the issuance of new certificates for any of the securities that are part of the same issue and are presented for transfer during the limited-resale period, must take the first two required steps above [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(f)(2)].

The issuer, in connection with any offers, offers to sell, offers for sale, or sales by it pursuant to Rule 147, must disclose in writing the limitations on resale contained in Rule 147(e) [see [d], above], the first two requirements in the list above, and the requirement in the preceding paragraph [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(f)(3)].

[3] Proof of Section 3(a)(11) Exemption Compliance

Persons claiming the availability of Rule 147 have the burden of proving that they have satisfied all of its provisions (if and when called on to do so). However, Rule 147 does not establish exclusive standards for complying with the Section 3(a)(11) exemption. The exemption would be available if the issuer satisfied the standards set forth in relevant administrative and judicial interpretations at the time of the offering, but the issuer would have the burden of proving the availability of the exemption [17 C.F.R. § 230.147, Preliminary Note 3]. Those interpretations are not discussed here, since Rule 147 is the better guide to compliance with the exemption. For further discussion, see Sommer, Federal Securities Act of 1933, ch. 3, Exempted Securities Under Section 3 of the Securities Act (Matthew Bender).

No filing with the SEC is required for the exemption. Nothing in Rule 147 obviates the need for compliance with California law relating to the offer and sale of the securities, however [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.147, Preliminary Note 2].

PRACTICE TIP:

Close corporations may find the use of the intrastate offering exemption particularly attractive if the close corporation otherwise satisfies the requirements for the use of the exemption. This exemption may also be attractive in connection with the formation of a corporation by California residents if the company will do business principally in California. In these situations, it may be possible to coordinate the intrastate offering exemption at the federal level with the so-called close corporation exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(h) at the California level. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

AUTHOR: Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6A.25 Small Offering Under Section 3(b) and Regulation A

[1] Scope of Exemption

[a] In General

The SEC "may from time to time by its rules and regulations, and subject to such terms and conditions as may be prescribed therein, add any class of securities to the securities exempted as provided in this section [Section 3 of the Securities Act], if it finds that the enforcement of this subchapter [the Securities Act] with respect to such securities is not necessary in the public interest and for the protection of investors by reason of the small amount involved or the limited character of the public offering; but no issue of securities shall be exempted under this subsection [Section 3(b) of the Securities Act] where the aggregate amount at which such issue is offered to the public exceeds $5,000,000" [15 U.S.C. § 77c(b)].

A public offer or sale of securities that meets the terms and conditions of Regulation A [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.251 et seq.; see also [b]-[f], [2]-[9], below] is exempt under Section 3(b) of the Securities Act, above, from the registration requirements of the Act [17 C.F.R. § 230.251]. Continuous or delayed offerings may be made under Regulation A as permitted by Rule 415 [17 C.F.R. § 230.251(d)(3); see 17 C.F.R. § 230.415 (delayed or continuous offering and sale of securities)].

Terms used in Regulation A have the same meanings as in Rule 405 [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.405 (definitions of terms in Regulation C, applicable to all Securities Act registrations)], except that all references to "registrant" in those definitions refer to the issuer of the securities to be offered and sold under Regulation A [17 C.F.R. § 230.261]. In addition, these terms have the following meanings:

- "Final Offering Circular" is the current offering circular contained in a qualified offering statement [17 C.F.R. § 230.261(a)].

- "Preliminary Offering Circular" is the offering circular described in Rule 255(a) [17 C.F.R. §

230.261(b); see [4], below].

[b] Eligible Issuer

The issuer of the securities to be offered and sold under Regulation A must be an entity that is organized under the laws of the United States or Canada, or any state, province, territory, or possession of the United States or Canada, or the District of Columbia, with its principal place of business in the United States or Canada [17 C.F.R. § 230.251(a)(1)], and that meets all of the following requirements:

- It is not subject to Section 13 or Section 15(d) of the Exchange Act [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 78m, 78o(d) (periodic reporting requirements)] immediately before the offering [17 C.F.R. § 230.251(a)(2)];

- It is not a development-stage company that either has no specific business plan or purpose or has indicated that its business plan is to merge with an unidentified company or companies [17 C.F.R. § 230.251(a)(3)];

- It is not an investment company registered or required to be registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 [17 C.F.R. § 230.251(a)(4); see 15 U.S.C. § 80a-1 et seq.];

- It is not issuing fractional undivided interests in oil or gas rights as defined in Rule 300 [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.300] or a similar interest in other mineral rights [17 C.F.R. § 230.251(a)(5)]; and

- It is not disqualified because of Rule 262 [17 C.F.R. § 230.251(a)(6)], which is discussed in [9], below.

[c] Limit on Aggregate Offering Price

The sum of all cash and other consideration to be received for the securities--the aggregate offering price--must not exceed $5 million, including no more than $1.5 million offered by all selling securities holders, less the aggregate offering price for all securities sold within the 12 months before the start of and during the offering of securities in reliance on Regulation A. No affiliate resales are permitted if the issuer has not had net income from continuing operations in at least one of its last two fiscal years [17 C.F.R. § 230.251(b)].

When a mixture of cash and noncash consideration is to be received, the aggregate offering price is based on the price at which the securities are offered for cash. Any portion of the aggregate offering price attributable to cash received in a foreign currency must be translated into U.S. currency at a currency exchange rate in effect on or at a reasonable time before the date of the sale of the securities. If securities are not offered for cash, the aggregate offering price is based on the value of the consideration as established by bona fide sales of that consideration made within a reasonable time or, in the absence of sales, on the fair value as determined by an accepted standard. Valuations of noncash consideration must be reasonable at the time made [17 C.F.R. § 230.251(b), Note].

[d] Nonintegration With Other Offerings

Offers and sales made in reliance on Regulation A are not to be integrated with prior offers or sales of securities [17 C.F.R. § 230.251(c)(1)] or subsequent offers or sales of securities that satisfy any of the following conditions [17 C.F.R. § 230.251(c)(2)]:

- Registered under the Securities Act, except in a test-the-waters case as provided in Rule 254(d) [see [3][b], below];

- Made in reliance on Rule 701 [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.701 (exemption for offers and sales of securities pursuant to certain compensatory benefit plans and contracts relating to compensation); see also § 6A.22[2][e]];

- Made pursuant to an employee benefit plan;

- Made in reliance on Regulation S [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.901 et seq. (exemption for foreign offers and sales)]; or

- Made more than six months after the completion of the Regulation A offering.

If the issuer offers or sells securities for which the safe-harbor rules are unavailable, those offers and sales still may not be integrated with the Regulation A offering, depending on the particular facts and circumstances [17 C.F.R. § 230.251(c), Note; see Securities Act Release No. 4552 (Nov. 6, 1962), 27 Fed. Reg. 11316] .

Except as allowed by Rule 254 [see [3], below], no offer of securities may be made unless an offering statement on Form 1-A [see § 6A.200] has been filed with the SEC [17 C.F.R. § 230.251(d)(1)(i)].

After the offering statement has been filed, oral offers may be made [17 C.F.R. § 230.251(d)(1)(ii)(A)]; written offers under Rule 255, using a Preliminary Offering Circular [see [4], below], may be made [17 C.F.R. § 230.251(d)(1)(ii)(B)]; and printed advertisements may be published or radio or television broadcasts may be made, if they state from whom a Preliminary Offering Circular [see [4], below] or Final Offering Circular may be obtained, and they contain no more than the following information [17 C.F.R. § 230.251(d)(1)(ii)(C)]:

- The name of the issuer of the security.

- The title of the security, the amount being offered, and the unit offering price to the public.

- The general type of the issuer's business.

- A brief statement as to the general character and location of the issuer's property.

PRACTICE TIP:

A similar test the waters concept is permitted under Corp. Code § 25102(n) [see Ch. 6D, California Qualified Purchaser Exemptions]. It may therefore be possible to coordinate offerings made under Regulation A with the qualified purchaser exemption in California in lieu of qualifying the offering in California. The securities issued in California may not, however, be freely traded if the offering is exempt under Corp. Code § 25102(n). As a result, the issuer will not have all of the benefits afforded Regulation A offerings if this approach is taken. On the other hand, if the offering does not satisfy the standards for qualification contained in the Commissioner's rules, it may be preferable to obtain an exemption from qualification in California, rather than qualify the offering. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

After the offering statement has been qualified, other written offers may be made, but only if accompanied or preceded by a Final Offering Circular [17 C.F.R. § 230.251(d)(1)(iii)].

The Final Offering Circular is the current offering circular contained in a qualified offering statement [see [2], below], and the Preliminary Offering Circular is the offering circular described in Rule 255(a) [17 C.F.R. § 230.261; see [4],

No sale of securities may be made until the following conditions are satisfied [17 C.F.R. § 230.251(d)(2)(i)]:

- The offering statement on Form 1-A [see § 6A.200] has been qualified.

- A Preliminary Offering Circular or Final Offering Circular is furnished to the prospective buyer at least 48 hours before the mailing of the confirmation of sale to that person.

- A Final Offering Circular is delivered to the buyer with the confirmation of sale, unless it has been delivered to that person at an earlier time.

Sales by a dealer (including an underwriter no longer acting in that capacity for the security involved in the transaction) within 90 days after the qualification of the Regulation A offering statement may be made only if the dealer delivers a copy of the current offering circular to the buyer before or with the confirmation of sale. The issuer or underwriter of the offering must provide requesting dealers with reasonable quantities of the offering circular for this purpose [17 C.F.R. § 230.251(d)(2)(ii)].

[2] Offering Circular

[a] Contents

An offering circular must include the narrative and financial information required by Form 1-A [17 C.F.R. § 230.253(a); see § 6A.200]. Information in the offering circular must be presented in a clear, concise, and understandable manner and in a type size that is easily readable. Repetition of information should be avoided; cross-referencing of information within the document is permitted [17 C.F.R. § 230.253(b)(1)]. When an offering circular is distributed through an electronic medium, the issuer may satisfy legibility requirements applicable to printed documents by presenting all required information in a format readily communicated to investors [17 C.F.R. § 230.253(b)(2)].

An offering circular must be dated approximately as of the date of the qualification of the offering statement of which it is a part [17 C.F.R. § 230.253(c)].

The cover page of every offering circular must display the following statement in capital letters printed in boldface type at least as large as that used generally in the body of the offering circular [17 C.F.R. § 230.253(d)]:

> THE UNITED STATES SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION DOES NOT PASS UPON THE MERITS OF OR GIVE ITS APPROVAL TO ANY SECURITIES OFFERED OR THE TERMS OF THE OFFERING, NOR DOES IT PASS UPON THE ACCURACY OR COMPLETENESS OF ANY OFFERING CIRCULAR OR OTHER SELLING LITERATURE. THESE SECURITIES ARE OFFERED PURSUANT TO AN EXEMPTION FROM REGISTRATION WITH THE COMMISSION; HOWEVER, THE COMMISSION HAS NOT MADE AN INDEPENDENT DETERMINATION THAT THE SECURITIES OFFERED HEREUNDER ARE EXEMPT FROM REGISTRATION.

[b] Revisions and Updates

An offering circular must be revised during the course of an offering whenever the information it contains has become false or misleading in light of existing circumstances, whenever material developments have occurred, or whenever there has been a fundamental change in the information initially presented [17 C.F.R. § 230.253(e)(1)].

An offering circular for a continuous offering must be updated to include, among other things, updated financial statements, 12 months after the date the offering statement was qualified [17 C.F.R. § 230.253(e)(2)].

Every revised or updated offering circular must be filed as an amendment to the offering statement and requalified in accordance with Rule 252 [17 C.F.R. § 230.253(e)(3); see § 6A.200[1]].

[3] Solicitation of Interest

[a] Permitted Activity

The issuer may publish or deliver a written document to prospective buyers, or make scripted radio or television broadcasts, to determine whether there is any interest in a contemplated securities offering. Following submission of the written document or script of the broadcast to the SEC [see [b], below], oral communications with prospective investors and other broadcasts are permitted. The written documents, broadcasts, and oral communications are each subject to the antifraud provisions of the federal securities laws. No solicitation or acceptance of money or other consideration, or of any commitment, binding or otherwise, from any prospective investor is permitted. No sale may be made until qualification of the offering statement [17 C.F.R. § 230.254(a)].

[b] Submission of Materials to SEC

On or before the date of its first use, the issuer must submit a copy of any written document or the script of any broadcast to the SEC at the main office in Washington (marked "Attention: Office of Small Business Review"). The document or broadcast script must either bear or be accompanied by the name and telephone number of a person able to answer questions about the document or the broadcast [17 C.F.R. § 230.254(b)(1)]. The written document or script of the broadcast must provide the following [17 C.F.R. § 230.254(b)(2)]:

- State that no money or other consideration is being solicited, and if money or other consideration is sent in response, it will not be accepted.
- State that no sales of the securities will be made and no commitment to buy will be accepted until delivery of an offering circular that includes complete information about the issuer and the offering.
- State that an indication of interest made by a prospective investor involves no obligation or commitment of any kind.
- Identify the chief executive officer of the issuer and, briefly and in general, its business and products.

Only solicitation-of-interest material that contains substantive changes from or additions to previously submitted material must be submitted [17 C.F.R. § 230.254(b)(1), Note]. Although the submission is required, it is not a condition to qualifying for the Regulation A exemption [17 C.F.R. § 230.254(b)]. Any written document may include a coupon, returnable to the issuer as an indication of interest in a potential offering, designed to reveal the name, address, and telephone number of the prospective investor [17 C.F.R. § 230.254(c)].

Written solicitation-of-interest materials submitted to the SEC and otherwise in compliance with Rule 254 (discussed here) will not be deemed to be a prospectus as defined in Section 2(10) of the Securities Act [17 C.F.R. § 230.254(e); see 15 U.S.C. § 77b(a)(10)].

Solicitations of interest pursuant to Rule 254 may not be made after the filing of an offering statement [17 C.F.R. § 230.254(b)(3)]. Sales may not be made until 20 calendar days after the last publication or delivery of the document or radio or television broadcast [17 C.F.R. § 230.254(b)(4)].

When the issuer has a bona fide change of intention and decides to register an offering after using this test-the-waters process as permitted by Rule 254, without having filed the offering statement prescribed by Rule 252 [see § 6A.200], the Regulation A exemption for offers made in reliance on Rule 254 will not be subject to integration with the registered offering, if at least 30 calendar days have elapsed between the last solicitation of interest and the filing of the registration statement with the SEC, and all solicitation-of-interest documents have been submitted to the SEC [17 C.F.R. § 230.254(d); see [1][d], above (nonintegration with other offerings)].

[4] Preliminary Offering Circular

Before qualification of the required offering statement, but after its filing, a written offer of securities may be made if it meets the following requirements [17 C.F.R. § 230.255(a)]. In Regulation A (and in the securities industry) this is known as a Preliminary Offering Circular [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.261(b)].

The outside front cover page of the material must bear the caption "Preliminary Offering Circular," the date of issuance, and the following statement, which must run along the left margin of the page and be printed perpendicular to the other text, in boldface type at least as large as that used generally in the body of the offering circular [17 C.F.R. § 230.255(a)(1)]:

> An offering statement pursuant to Regulation A relating to these securities has been filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission.
> Information contained in this Preliminary Offering Circular is subject to completion or amendment. These securities may not be sold nor may offers to buy be accepted before the time an offering circular which is not designated as a Preliminary Offering Circular is delivered and the offering statement filed with the Commission becomes qualified. This Preliminary Offering Circular shall not constitute an offer to sell or the solicitation of an offer to buy nor shall there be any sales of these securities in any state in which such offer, solicitation or sale would be unlawful before registration or qualification under the laws of any such state.

The Preliminary Offering Circular must contain substantially the information required in an offering circular by Form 1-A [see § 6A.200], except that information may be omitted with respect to offering price, underwriting discounts or commissions, discounts or commissions to dealers, amount of proceeds, conversion rates, call prices, or other matters dependent on the offering price. The outside front cover page of the Preliminary Offering Circular must include a bona fide estimate of the range of the maximum offering price and maximum number of shares or other units of securities to be offered or a bona fide estimate of the principal amount of debt securities to be offered [17 C.F.R. § 230.255(a)(2)]. The material must be filed as a part of the offering statement [17 C.F.R. § 230.255(a)(3)], that is, along with Form 1-A.

If a Preliminary Offering Circular is inaccurate or inadequate in any material respect, a revised Preliminary Offering Circular or a complete Final Offering Circular must be furnished to all persons to whom securities are to be sold at least 48 hours before the mailing of any confirmation of sale to those persons, or it must be sent to those persons in such a way that it would normally be received by them 48 hours before receipt of confirmation of the sale [17 C.F.R. § 230.255(b)].

[5] Filing of Sales Information

Seven copies of any advertisement or written communication or the script of any radio or television broadcast must be filed at the main office of the SEC in Washington [17 C.F.R. § 230.256]. Only sales material that contains substantive changes from or additions to previously filed material must be filed [17 C.F.R. § 230.256, Note]. However, compliance with this requirement is not a condition to a Regulation A exemption [17 C.F.R. § 230.256].

The issuer and each selling security holder also must file reports concerning sales and use of proceeds, on Form 2-A [see 17 C.F.R. § 239.91; see also § 6A.201].

[6] Suspension of Exemption

[a] Grounds for Suspension

The SEC may at any time enter an order temporarily suspending a Regulation A exemption if it has reason to believe that any of the following is true:

- The exemption is not available; or any of the terms, conditions, or requirements of Regulation A have not been complied with, including failures to provide the SEC a copy of the document or broadcast script under Rule 254 [see [3][b], above], to file any sales material as required by Rule 256 [see [5], above] or to report as required by Rule 257 [17 C.F.R. § 230.258(a)(1); see § 6A.201].

- The offering statement or any item of sales or solicitation-of-interest material contains any untrue statement of a material fact or omits to state a material fact necessary in order to make the statements made, in light of the circumstances in which they are made, not misleading [17 C.F.R. § 230.258(a)(2)].

- The offering is being made or would be made in violation of Section 17 of the Securities Act [17 C.F.R. § 230.258(a)(3); see 15 U.S.C. § 77q (fraudulent interstate transactions)].

- An event has occurred after the filing of the offering statement that would have rendered the Regulation A exemption unavailable if it had occurred before the filing [17 C.F.R. § 230.258(a)(4)].

- Any person specified in Rule 262(a) [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.262(a)], discussed in [9][a], below, has been indicted for any crime or offense of the character specified in Rule 262(a)(3), or any proceeding has been initiated for the purpose of enjoining any person from engaging in or continuing any conduct or practice of the character specified in Rule 262(a)(4) [17 C.F.R. § 230.258(a)(5)].

- Any person specified in Rule 262(b) [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.262(b)], discussed in [9][b], below, has been indicted for any crime or offense of the character specified in Rule 262(b)(1), or any proceeding has been initiated for the purpose of enjoining any person from engaging in or continuing any conduct or practice of the character specified in Rule 262(b)(2) [17 C.F.R. § 230.258(a)(6)].

- The issuer or any promoter, officer, director, or underwriter has failed to cooperate with, or has obstructed or refused to permit the making of, an investigation by the SEC in connection with any offering made or proposed to be made in reliance on Regulation A [17 C.F.R. § 230.258(a)(7)].

[b] Procedure

On the entry of a suspension order, the SEC will promptly give notice to the issuer, any underwriter, and any selling security holder, that the order has been entered, together with a brief statement of the reasons for the entry of the order and that the SEC, on receipt of a written request within 30 calendar days after the entry of the order, will, within 20 calendar days after receiving the request, order a hearing at a place to be designated by the SEC [17 C.F.R. § 230.258(b)].

If no hearing is requested and none is ordered by the SEC, the suspension order as entered becomes permanent on the 30th calendar day after entry and remains in effect unless or until it is modified or vacated by the SEC. When a hearing is requested or is ordered by the SEC, the SEC will, after giving notice and opportunity for the hearing, either vacate the order or enter an order permanently suspending the exemption [17 C.F.R. § 230.258(c)].

The SEC may, at any time after giving notice and opportunity for a hearing, enter an order permanently suspending the exemption for any reason on which it could have entered a temporary suspension order as described above; and the order will remain in effect until vacated by the SEC [17 C.F.R. § 230.258(d)].

All notices required by this procedure must be given by personal service or registered or certified mail to the addresses given by the issuer, any underwriter, and any selling securities holders in the offering statement [17 C.F.R. § 230.258(e)].

[7] Withdrawal or Abandonment of Offering Statement

Before securities that are the subject of an offering statement have been sold, and if the offering statement is not the subject of a suspension proceeding under Rule 258 [see [6], above], the offering statement may be withdrawn with the SEC's consent. The application for withdrawal must state the reason the offering statement is withdrawn, be signed by an authorized representative of the issuer, and be sent to the main office of the SEC in Washington [17 C.F.R. § 230.259(a)].

When an offering statement has been on file with the SEC for nine months without amendment and has not become qualified, the SEC may, in its discretion, proceed in the following manner to determine whether the offering statement has been abandoned by the issuer. If the offering statement has been amended, the nine-month period is computed from the date of the latest amendment [17 C.F.R. § 230.259(b)]. Notice will be sent to the issuer, and to any counsel for the issuer named in the offering statement, by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, addressed to the most recent addresses for the issuer and issuer's counsel as reflected in the offering statement. The notice will inform the issuer and issuer's counsel that the offering statement or latest amendment is out of date and must be amended to comply with applicable requirements of Regulation A or be withdrawn within 30 calendar days after the notice [17 C.F.R. § 230.259(b)(1)]. If the issuer or issuer's counsel fails to respond to the notice by filing a substantive amendment or withdrawing the offering statement, or does not furnish a satisfactory explanation as to why the issuer has not done so within 30 calendar days, the SEC may declare the offering statement abandoned [17 C.F.R. § 230.259(b)(2)].

[8] Insignificant Deviations From Requirements

Failure to comply with a term, condition, or requirement of Regulation A will not result in the loss of the exemption for any offer or sale to a particular individual or entity, if the person relying on the exemption establishes the following facts [17 C.F.R. § 230.260(a)]:

- The failure to comply did not pertain to a term, condition, or requirement directly intended to protect the individual or entity receiving the offer or buying the securities.

- The failure to comply was insignificant with respect to the offering as a whole--except that any failure to comply with Rule 251(a), (b), or (d)(1) [see [1][b], [c], [e], above] or Rule 251(d)(3) [see [1][a], above] will be deemed to be significant to the offering as a whole.

- A good faith and reasonable attempt was made to comply with all applicable terms, conditions and requirements of Regulation A.

A transaction made in reliance on Regulation A must comply with all applicable terms, conditions, and requirements of the regulation. When an exemption is established only through reliance on the de minimis rule above, the failure to comply may nonetheless be actionable by the SEC under Section 20 of the Securities Act [17 C.F.R. § 230.260(b); see 15 U.S.C. § 77t (injunctions and prosecution of offenses)]. The de minimis rule provides no relief or protection from a suspension proceeding under Rule 258 [17 C.F.R. § 230.260(c); see [6], above].

[a] Disqualifying Act by Issuer or Affiliate

Unless, on a showing of good cause and without prejudice to any other action by the SEC, the SEC determines that it is not necessary in the circumstances to deny the exemption provided by Regulation A, the exemption is not available for the offer or sale of securities if any of the following situations applies to the issuer, any of its predecessors, or any affiliated issuer [17 C.F.R. § 230.262(a)]:

- Has filed a registration statement that is the subject of any pending proceeding or examination under Section 8 of the Securities Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 77h (SEC handling of registration statements)] or has been the subject of any refusal order or stop order under that section within five years before the filing of the Regulation A offering statement [17 C.F.R. § 230.262(a)(1)];

- Is subject to any pending suspension proceeding under Rule 258 [see [6], above] or any similar rule adopted under Section 3(b) of the Securities Act, or to an order entered under such a rule, within five years before the filing of the Regulation A offering statement [17 C.F.R. § 230.262(a)(2)];

- Has been convicted, within five years before the filing of the Regulation A offering statement, of any felony or misdemeanor in connection with the buying or selling of any security or involving the making of any false filing with the SEC [17 C.F.R. § 230.262(a)(3)];

- Is subject to any order, judgment, or decree of any court of competent jurisdiction temporarily or preliminarily restraining or enjoining, or is subject to any order, judgment, or decree of any court of competent jurisdiction, entered within five years before the filing of the Regulation A offering statement, permanently restraining or enjoining, the person from engaging in or continuing any conduct or practice in connection with the buying or selling of any security or involving the making of any false filing with the SEC [17 C.F.R. § 230.262(a)(4)]; or

- Is subject to a U.S. Postal Service false representation order entered under 39 U.S.C. § 3005 (false representations and lotteries by mail) within five years before the filing of the Regulation A offering statement, or is subject to a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction entered under 39 U.S.C. § 3007 (detention of mail for temporary periods) with respect to conduct alleged to have violated 39 U.S.C. § 3005 [17 C.F.R. § 230.262(a)(5)].

The entry of an order, judgment, or decree against any affiliated entity before the affiliation with the issuer arose, if the affiliated entity is not in control of the issuer and if the affiliated entity and the issuer are not under the common control of a third person who was in control of the affiliated entity at the time of the entry, does not come within the purview of the foregoing "bad boy" provisions [17 C.F.R. § 230.262(a)(5)].

[b] Disqualifying Act by Insider or Underwriter

Unless, on a showing of good cause and without prejudice to any other action by the SEC, the SEC determines that it is not necessary in the circumstances to deny the exemption provided by Regulation A, the exemption is not available for the offer or sale of securities if any of the following situations applies to any director or officer of the issuer, beneficial owner of 10 percent or more of any class of its equity securities, any promoter of the issuer presently connected with it in any capacity, any underwriter of the securities to be offered, or any partner, director, or officer of any underwriter [17

C.F.R. § 230.262(b)]:

- Has been convicted, within 10 years before the filing of the Regulation A offering statement, of any felony or misdemeanor in connection with the buying or selling of any security, involving the making of a false filing with the SEC, or arising out of the conduct of the business of an underwriter, broker, dealer, municipal securities dealer, or investment adviser [17 C.F.R. § 230.262(b)(1)];

- Is subject to any order, judgment, or decree of any court of competent jurisdiction temporarily or preliminarily enjoining or restraining, or is subject to any order, judgment, or decree of any court of competent jurisdiction, entered within five years before the filing of the Regulation A offering statement, permanently enjoining or restraining the person from engaging in or continuing any conduct or practice in connection with the buying or selling of any security, involving the making of a false filing with the SEC, or arising out of the conduct of the business of an underwriter, broker, dealer, municipal securities dealer, or investment adviser [17 C.F.R. § 230.262(b)(2)];

- Is subject to an order of the SEC entered pursuant to Section 15(b) or Section 15B(a) or (c) of the Exchange Act [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 78o(b), 78o-4(a), (c) (registration and regulation of brokers and dealers; registration of municipal securities dealers; discipline of municipal securities dealers)], or Section 203(e) or (f) of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 [17 C.F.R. § 230.262(b)(3); see 15 U.S.C. § 80b-3(e), (f) (registration and discipline of investment advisers)];

- Is suspended or expelled from membership in, or suspended or barred from association with a member of, a national securities exchange registered under Section 6 of the Exchange Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 78f] or a national securities association registered under Section 15A of the Exchange Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 78o-3], for any act or omission to act constituting conduct inconsistent with just and equitable principles of trade [17 C.F.R. § 230.262(b)(4)]; or

- Is subject to a U.S. Postal Service false representation order entered under 39 U.S.C. § 3005 (false representations and lotteries by mail) within five years before the filing of the Regulation A offering statement, or is subject to a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction entered under 39 U.S.C. § 3007 (detention of mail for temporary periods) with respect to conduct alleged to have violated 39 U.S.C. § 3005 [17 C.F.R. § 230.262(b)(5)].

[c] Disqualifying Act by Underwriter

Unless, on a showing of good cause and without prejudice to any other action by the SEC, the SEC determines that it is not necessary in the circumstances to deny the exemption provided by Regulation A, the exemption is not available for the offer or sale of securities if any underwriter of the securities was an underwriter or was named as an underwriter of any securities that satisfies either of the following conditions [17 C.F.R. § 230.262(c)]:

- Are covered by any registration statement that is the subject of any pending proceeding or examination under Section 8 of the Securities Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 77h (SEC handling of registration statements)] or has been the subject of any refusal order or stop order entered under that section within five years before the filing of the Regulation A offering statement [17 C.F.R. § 230.262(c)(1)]; or

- Are covered by any filing that is subject to any pending suspension proceeding under Rule 258 [see [6], above] or any similar rule adopted under Section 3(b) of the Securities Act, or to an order entered under such a rule, within five years before the filing of the Regulation A offering statement [17 C.F.R. § 230.262(c)(2)].

§ 6A.26 $1 Million Offering Under Section 3(b) and Rule 504

[1] Scope of Exemption

The SEC "may from time to time by its rules and regulations, and subject to such terms and conditions as may be prescribed therein, add any class of securities to the securities exempted as provided in this section [Section 3 of the Securities Act], if it finds that the enforcement of this subchapter [the Securities Act] with respect to such securities is not necessary in the public interest and for the protection of investors by reason of the small amount involved or the limited character of the public offering; but no issue of securities shall be exempted under this subsection [Section 3(b) of the Securities Act] where the aggregate amount at which such issue is offered to the public exceeds $5,000,000" [15 U.S.C. § 77c(b)].

Offers and sales of securities by eligible issuers [see [2], below] satisfying the conditions in Rule 504 of Regulation D [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.504; see also [3], [4], below]--as well as Rules 501 through 503--are exempt under Section 3(b) of the Securities Act from the registration requirements of the Act [17 C.F.R. § 230.504(a)].

[2] Eligible Issuer

Any corporation is an eligible issuer under Rule 504 if the corporation satifiies the following conditions [17 C.F.R. § 230.504(a)]:

- Is not subject to the reporting requirements of Section 13 or Section 15(d) of the Exchange Act [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 78m, 78o(d) (periodic reporting requirements)];

- Is not an investment company; and

- Is not a development-stage company that either has no specific business plan or purpose or has indicated that its business plan is to engage in a merger or acquisition with an unidentified company or companies, or other entity or person.

[3] General Conditions for Exemption

All sales that are part of the same Regulation D offering must meet all of the terms and conditions of Regulation D. Offers and sales that are made more than six months before the start of a Regulation D offering or are made more than six months after completion of a Regulation D offering will not be considered part of that Regulation D offering, as long as during those six-month periods there are no offers or sales of securities by or for the issuer that are of the same or a similar class as those offered or sold under Regulation D, other than offers or sales of securities under an employee benefit plan as defined in Rule 405 [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.502(a), 230.504(b)(1); see 17 C.F.R. § 230.405 (definitions of terms in Regulation C, applicable to all Securities Act registrations)] or Rule 701 [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(f)]. This integration rule is relevant to computing the aggregate offering price, which is limited as described in [4], below.

The term "offering" is not defined in the Securities Act or in Regulation D. If the issuer offers or sells securities for which the foregoing safe harbor rule is unavailable, the determination as to whether separate sales of securities are part of the same offering (that is, are considered integrated) depends on the particular facts and circumstances. Generally, transactions otherwise meeting the requirements of an exemption will not be integrated with simultaneous offerings being made outside the United States in compliance with Regulation S [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(a), Note; see Securities Act Release No. 6863 (Apr. 24, 1990)]. The following factors should be considered in determining whether offers and sales should be integrated for purposes of the exemptions under Regulation D [see Securities Act Release No. 4552 (Nov. 6, 1962), 27 Fed. Reg. 11316 ; see also § 6A.24[2][a] (identical tests are applied under Rule 147)]:

- Are the sales part of a single plan of financing?
- Do the sales involve issuance of the same class of securities?
- Have the sales been made at or about the same time?
- Is the same type of consideration being received?
- Are the sales made for the same general purpose?

[b] Limitation on Manner of Offering

In general, neither the issuer nor any person acting on its behalf may offer or sell the securities by any form of general solicitation or general advertising, including, but not limited to, (1) any advertisement, article, notice or other communication published in any newspaper, magazine, or similar media or broadcast over television or radio and (2) any seminar or meeting attended by persons who have been invited by any general solicitation or general advertising. However, publication by an issuer of a notice in accordance with Rule 135c [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.135c (notice of certain proposed unregistered offerings)] or filing with the Commission by an issuer of a notice of sales on Form D [17 C.F.R. § 239.500] in which the issuer has made a good faith and reasonable attempt to comply with the requirements of that form, will not be deemed to constitute general solicitation or general advertising. If the requirements of Rule 135e [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.135e (offshore press conferences, meetings with issuer representatives conducted offshore, and press-related materials released offshore)] are met, then the issuer's providing any journalist with access to press conferences held outside the United States, or to meetings with the issuer's or selling security holders' representatives conducted outside the United States, or to written press-related materials released outside the United States, at or in which a present or proposed offering of securities is discussed, will not be deemed to constitute general solicitation or general advertising [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.502(c), 230.504(b)(1)].

PRACTICE TIP:

California law is not as flexible as federal law in this regard. A test the waters concept is available in Corp. Code § 25102(n), but not in other exemptions containing private placement concepts, such as Corp. Code § 25102(e), (f), and (i). The publication of a Section 135c notice would likely be viewed as the publication of a prohibited advertisement for purposes of these exemptions. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

This limitation does not apply, however, to offers and sales of securities under Rule 504 that are made in any of the following situations [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.502(c), 230.504(b)(1)]:

- Exclusively in one or more states providing for the registration of the securities, and requiring the public filing and delivery to investors of a substantive disclosure document before sale, and the offers and sales are made in accordance with those state provisions;

- In one or more states not providing for the registration of the securities or the public filing or delivery of a disclosure document before sale, if the securities have been registered in at least one state that provides for registration, public filing, and delivery before sale, if offers and sales are made in that registration state in accordance with those provisions, and if the disclosure document is delivered before sale to all buyers (including those in the states that have no such procedure); or

- Exclusively according to state law exemptions from registration that permit general solicitation and general advertising, as long as sales are made only to "accredited investors" [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a) (definition)].

[c] Limitations on Resale

In general, securities acquired in a transaction under Regulation D have the status of securities acquired in a transaction under Section 4(2) of the Securities Act and cannot be resold without registration under the Act or an exemption from registration. The issuer must exercise reasonable care to ensure that the buyers of the securities are not underwriters within the meaning of Section 2(11) of the Act. Reasonable care may be demonstrated by the following [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.502(d), 230.504(b)(1)]:

- Reasonable inquiry to determine whether the buyer is acquiring the securities for the buyer's own account or for other persons.

- Written disclosure to each buyer before sale that the securities have not been registered under the Securities Act and, therefore, cannot be resold unless they are registered under the Act or an exemption from registration is available [see § 6A.204].

- Placement of a legend on the certificate or other document that evidences the securities, stating that the securities have not been registered under the Securities Act and setting forth or referring to the restrictions on transferability and sale of the securities.

Although taking these steps will establish the requisite reasonable care, it is not the exclusive method to demonstrate that care. Other acts by the issuer may satisfy this condition. In addition, Rule 502 requires the delivery of written disclosure of the limitations on resale to investors in certain instances [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.502(b)(2)(vii), (d), 230.504(b)(1)].

This limitation on resale does not apply, however, to offers and sales of securities under Rule 504 that are made in the same exceptional circumstances described in [b], above [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.502(d), 230.504(b)(1)].

[4] Aggregate Offering Price

The aggregate offering price [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.501(c) (definition)] for an offering of securities under Rule 504 may not exceed $1 million, less the aggregate offering price for all securities sold within the 12 months before the start of and during the offering of securities under Rule 504, in reliance on any exemption under Section 3(b), or in violation of Section 5(a), of the Securities Act [17 C.F.R. § 230.504(b)(2)].

For example, if an issuer sold $900,000 on June 1, 2001, under Rule 504 and an additional $4.1 million on December 1, 2001, under Rule 505 [see § 6A.27], the issuer could not sell any of its securities under Rule 504 until December 1, 2002. Until then the issuer must count the December 1, 2001, sale towards the $1 million limit within the preceding 12 months [17 C.F.R. § 230.504(b)(2), Note 1].

If a transaction under Rule 504 fails to meet the limitation on the aggregate offering price, that does not affect the availability of Rule 504 for the other transactions considered in applying the limitation. For example, if an issuer sold $1 million worth of its securities on January 1, 2001, under Rule 504 and an additional $500,000 worth on July 1, 2001, then Rule 504 would not be available for the later sale but would still be applicable to the January 1, 2001, sale [17 C.F.R. § 230.504(b)(2), Note 2].

[5] Offering Statement and Notice of Sales

The SEC does not require the preparation, filing, or use of any kind of offering statement to disclose material information in connection with a Rule 504 offering [see 17 C.F.R. §§ 230.502(b)(1), 230.504]. Nevertheless, securities experts recommend that the issuer should prepare an offering statement and use it, as in similar cases in which it is required (such as under Regulation A), if only because this will minimize the issuer's risks under statutory civil and criminal antifraud provisions. For guidance in using an offering statement, the issuer could look to Regulation A [see § 6A.25] and Rule 505 and Rule 506 [see §§ 6A.27, 6A.28]. The issuer could adapt either the SEC's Form 1-A [see § 6A.200] or use the Small Corporate Offering Registration (SCOR) form, Form U-7, sponsored by the NASAA [see § 6A.203].

PRACTICE TIP:

No notice filings must be made under California law if the issuer is relying on exemptions under Corp. Code § 25102(e) or (i). Notice filings must be made under California law for offerings made in reliance on exemptions Corp. Code § 25102(f) and (n), respectively. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

An issuer offering or selling securities in reliance on § 230.504, 230.505, or 230.506 must file with the SEC a notice of sale containing the information required by Form D [17 C.F.R. § 239.500] for each new offering of securities no later than 15 calendar days after the first sale of securities in the offering [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.503(a)(1), 239.500(a)(1); see § 6A.202[2]]. As of March 16, 2009, a notice of sale on Form D must be filed in electronic format by means of the Commission's EDGAR system in accordance with the rules set forth in Regulation S-T [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.503(b), 239.500(b); see 17 C.F.R. Part 232; see also § 6A.202[1]].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

3-6A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 6A.27

AUTHOR: Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6A.27 $5 Million Offering Under Section 4(6) and Rule 505

[1] Scope of Exemption

The SEC "may from time to time by its rules and regulations, and subject to such terms and conditions as may be prescribed therein, add any class of securities to the securities exempted as provided in this section [Section 3 of the Securities Act], if it finds that the enforcement of this subchapter [the Securities Act] with respect to such securities is not necessary in the public interest and for the protection of investors by reason of the small amount involved or the limited character of the public offering; but no issue of securities shall be exempted under this subsection [Section 3(b) of the Securities Act] where the aggregate amount at which such issue is offered to the public exceeds $5,000,000" [15 U.S.C. § 77c(b)].

Offers and sales of securities by any issuer, except an investment company, satisfying the conditions in Rule 505 of Regulation D [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.505; see also [2]-[5], below]--as well as Rules 501 through 503--are exempt under Section 3(b) of the Securities Act from the registration requirements of the Act [17 C.F.R. § 230.505(a)].

All sales that are part of the same Rule 505 offering must meet all of the terms and conditions of Regulation D [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.502(a), 230.505(b)(1)]. For a Rule 505 offering, sales would be deemed integrated (or not) as described in § 6A.26[3][a] for a Rule 504 offering. This is relevant to computing not only the aggregate offering price, which is limited as described in [3], below, but also the number of buyers, for purposes of the limitation described in [4], below.

[2] Disclosure

If the issuer sells securities to any buyer other than an "accredited investor" [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a) (definition); see also § 6A.112[1]], the issuer must furnish specified information [see [b], [c], below] to the buyer a reasonable time before the sale. The issuer is not required to furnish the specified information to any accredited investor [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.502(b)(1), 230.505(b)(1)]. However, when the issuer provides information to nonaccredited investors, the issuer should consider providing the same information to accredited investors as well, in view of the antifraud provisions of the federal securities laws [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(1), Note].

[b] Nonreporting Company's Information

If the issuer is not subject to the reporting requirements of Section 13 or Section 15(d) of the Exchange Act [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 78m, 78o(d) (periodic reporting requirements)]--and most small private corporations are not reporting companies--then at a reasonable time before the sale of securities, the issuer must furnish to the buyer the following information, to the extent material to an understanding of the issuer, its business, and the securities being offered [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.502(b)(2)(i), 230.505(b)(1)]:

- The same kind of information as would be required in Part II (the offering circular) of Form 1-A [see § 6A.200], if the issuer is eligible to use Regulation A, otherwise the same kind of information as required in Part I (the prospectus) of a registration statement filed under the Securities Act on the form that the issuer would be entitled to use [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(2)(i)(A)]; and

- Appropriate financial information, according to the size of the offering, either

  - For an offering not over $2 million: the financial information required in Article 8 of Regulation S-X [see 17 C.F.R. § 210.8], except that only the issuer's balance sheet, which must be dated within 120 days of the start of the offering, is required to be audited [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(2)(i)(B)(1)]; or

  - For an offering over $2 million (up to the $7.5 million exemption ceiling): the financial statement information required in Form S-1 [see 17 C.F.R. § 239.10], but if the issuer cannot obtain audited financial statements without unreasonable effort or expense, then only the issuer's balance sheet, which must be dated within 120 days of the start of the offering, is required to be audited [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(2)(i)(B)(2)].

[c] Reporting Company's Information

A small private corporation would not be a reporting company except in a rare case. If the issuer is subject to the reporting requirements of Section 13 or Section 15(d) of the Exchange Act [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 78m, 78o(d) (periodic reporting requirements)], however, then at a reasonable time before the sale of securities, the issuer must furnish to the buyer the following information [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.502(b)(2)(ii), 230.505(b)(1)]:

- Whichever of the following is appropriate in the circumstances:

  - The issuer's annual report to shareholders for the most recent fiscal year, if the annual report meets relevant regulatory requirements under the Exchange Act [see 17 C.F.R. §§ 240.14a-3, 240.14c-3]; the definitive proxy statement filed in connection with that annual report; and, if requested by the buyer in writing, a copy of the issuer's most recent Form 10-K under the Exchange Act [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(2)(ii)(A)].

  - The information contained in an annual report on Form 10-K under the Exchange Act, or in a registration statement on Form S-1, or Form S-11 filed under the Securities Act, or on Form 10 filed under the Exchange Act, whichever filing is the most recent required to be filed [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(2)(ii)(B)].

- The information contained in any reports or documents required to be filed by the issuer under Sections 13(a), 14(a), 14(c), and 15(d) of the Exchange Act [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 78m(a), 78n(a), (c), 78o(d) (periodic reporting requirements)] since the distribution or filing of the report or registration statement selected above, together with a brief description of the securities being offered, the use of the proceeds from the offering, and any material changes in the issuer's affairs that are not disclosed in the documents furnished [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(2)(ii)(C)].

[d] Additional Information

At a reasonable time before the sale of securities to any buyer other than an accredited investor, the issuer must furnish to the buyer a brief description in writing of any material written information concerning the offering that has been provided by the issuer to any accredited investor but not previously delivered to the nonaccredited buyer. The issuer must furnish any portion or all of this information to the buyer, on the buyer's written request a reasonable time before the sale [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.502(b)(2)(iv), 230.505(b)(1); see 17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(2)(vi) (additional information in case of business combination or exchange offer)]. However, exhibits required to be filed with the SEC as part of a registration statement or report, other than an annual report to shareholders or parts of that report incorporated by reference in a Form 10-K report, need not be furnished to each buyer other than an accredited investor, if the contents of material exhibits are identified and the exhibits are made available to a buyer, on the buyer's written request, a reasonable time before the sale [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.502(b)(2)(iii), 230.505(b)(1)].

The issuer also must make available to each buyer, at a reasonable time before the sale, the opportunity to ask questions and receive answers concerning the terms and conditions of the offering and to obtain any additional information that the issuer possesses or can acquire without unreasonable effort or expense and that is necessary to verify the accuracy of information furnished as described in [b] and [c], above [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.502(b)(2)(v), 230.505(b)(1)].

At a reasonable time before the sale of securities to any buyer other than an accredited investor, the issuer must provide to the buyer a written disclosure that the securities have not been registered under the Securities Act and, therefore, cannot be resold unless they are registered under the Act or an exemption from registration is available. The disclosure may be contained in other materials required to be provided to the buyer [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.502(b)(2)(vii), (d)(2), 230.505(b)(1)].

[3] Aggregate Offering Price

The aggregate offering price [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.501(c) (definition)] for an offering of securities under Rule 505 may not exceed $5 million, less the aggregate offering price for all securities sold within the 12 months before the start of and during the offering of securities under Rule 505 in reliance on any exemption under Section 3(b) of the Securities Act or in violation of Section 5(a) of the Act [17 C.F.R. § 230.505(b)(2)(i)].

For example, if the issuer sold $2 million of its securities on June 1, 2001, under Rule 505 and an additional $1 million on September 1, 2001, the issuer would be permitted to sell only $2 million more under Rule 505 until June 1, 2002. Until that date the issuer must count both prior sales toward the $5 million ceiling. However, if the issuer made its third sale on June 1, 2002, the issuer could on that date sell $4 million of its securities because the June 1, 2001, sale would not be within the preceding 12 months [17 C.F.R. § 230.505(b)(2)(i), Example 1].

If the issuer sold $500,000 of its securities on June 1, 2001, under Rule 504 and an additional $4.5 million on December 1, 2001, under Rule 505, then the issuer could not sell any of its securities under Rule 505 until June 1, 2002; and on that date it could sell an additional $500,000 of its securities [17 C.F.R. § 230.505(b)(2)(i), Example 2].

[4] Limitation on Buyers

There must be no more than (or the issuer must reasonably believe that there are no more than) 35 buyers of the securities from the issuer in any offering under Rule 505 [17 C.F.R. § 230.505(b)(2)(ii)], not counting buyers that are "accredited investors" [17 C.F.R. § 230.501(e)(1)(iv); see 17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a) (definition); see also § 6A.112[1]]. Since there may be any number of buyers that are accredited investors (and there often are no other buyers), the Rule 505 exemption sometimes is called an "accredited investors exemption." Rule 501 specifies how to compute the number of buyers other than accredited investors, by excluding certain related individuals and entities [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.501(e)(1)] while aggregating the beneficial owners of other entities [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.501(e)(2), (3); see also § 6A.112[1]].

[5] Offering Statement and Notice of Sales

The SEC does not require the preparation, filing, or use of an offering statement for the Rule 505 exemption. However, the issuer is required to disclose considerable information to buyers other than accredited investors, including, in most cases, the same kind of information as would be required in Part II (the offering circular) of Form 1-A, if the issuer is eligible to use Regulation A, otherwise the same kind of information as required in Part I (the prospectus) of a registration statement filed under the Securities Act on the form that the issuer would be entitled to use, but for the exemption [see [2], above]. Therefore, the issuer may elect to prepare an offering statement as in the case of a nonexempt offering.

PRACTICE TIP:

No notice filings must be made under California law if the issuer is relying on exemptions under Corp. Code § 25102(e) or (i). Notice filings must be made under California law for offerings made in reliance on exemptions Corp. Code § 25102(f) and (n), respectively. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

An issuer offering or selling securities in reliance on § 230.504, 230.505, or 230.506 must file with the SEC a notice of sale containing the information required by Form D [17 C.F.R. § 239.500] for each new offering of securities no later than 15 calendar days after the first sale of securities in the offering [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.503(a)(1), 239.500(a)(1); see § 6A.202[2]]. As of March 16, 2009, a notice of sale on Form D must be filed in electronic format by means of the Commission's EDGAR system in accordance with the rules set forth in Regulation S-T [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.503(b)(1), 239.500(b)(1); see 17 C.F.R. Part 232; see also § 6A.202[1]].

No exemption under Rule 505 is available for the securities of any issuer described in Rule 262 of Regulation A [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.262], which is discussed in § 6A.25[9], but in the case of a Rule 505 offering, the following references there have these meanings: (1) "filing of the offering statement required by Rule 252" means the first sale of securities under Rule 505; (2) "underwriter" means a person that has been or will be paid, directly or indirectly, any remuneration for solicitation of buyers in connection with sales of securities under Rule 505 [17 C.F.R. § 230.505(b)(2)(iii)(A), (B)].

This disqualification does not apply, however, to any issuer if the SEC determines, on a showing of good cause, that it is not necessary in the circumstances to deny the exemption. Any such determination is without prejudice to any other action by the SEC in any other proceeding or matter with respect to the issuer or any other person [17 C.F.R. § 230.505(b)(2)(iii)(C)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

3-6A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 6A.28

AUTHOR: Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6A.28 Private Offering Under Section 4(2) and Rule 506

[1] Scope of Exemption

The registration requirements of the Securities Act do not apply to "transactions by an issuer not involving any public offering" [15 U.S.C. § 77d(2)]. This is known as the Section 4(2), or private offering, exemption.

Offers and sales of securities by any issuer satisfying the conditions in Rule 506 of Regulation D [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.506; see also [2]-[5], below]--as well as Rules 501 through 503--are deemed to be transactions not involving any public offering within the meaning of Section 4(2) of the Securities Act and therefore are exempt from the registration requirements of the Act [17 C.F.R. § 230.506(a)], as well as being entitled to the preemption provisions of NSMIA [see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues, § 6.15].

All sales that are part of the same Rule 506 offering must meet all of the terms and conditions of Regulation D [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.502(a), 230.506(b)(1)]. For a Rule 506 offering, sales would be deemed integrated (or not) as described in § 6A.26[3][a] for a Rule 504 offering. This is relevant to computing the number of buyers [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.506(b)(2)(i), Note], for purposes of the limitation described in [4], below.

[a] Requirement

If the issuer sells securities to any buyer other than an "accredited investor" [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a) (definition); see also § 6A.112[1]], the issuer must furnish specified information [see [b], [c], below] to the buyer a reasonable time before the sale. The issuer is not required to furnish the specified information to any accredited investor [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.502(b)(1), 230.506(b)(1)]. However, when the issuer provides information to nonaccredited buyers, the issuer should consider providing the same information to accredited investors as well, in view of the antifraud provisions of the federal securities laws [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(1), Note].

[b] Nonreporting Company's Information

If the issuer is not subject to the reporting requirements of Section 13 or Section 15(d) of the Exchange Act [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 78m, 78o(d) (periodic reporting requirements)]--and most small private corporations are not reporting companies--then at a reasonable time before the sale of securities, the issuer must furnish to the buyer the following information, to the extent material to an understanding of the issuer, its business, and the securities being offered [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.502(b)(2)(i), 230.506(b)(1)]:

- The same kind of information as would be required in Part II (the offering circular) of Form 1-A, if the issuer is eligible to use Regulation A, otherwise the same kind of information as required in Part I (the prospectus) of a registration statement filed under the Securities Act on the form that the issuer would be entitled to use [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(2)(i)(A)]; and

- Appropriate financial information, according to the size of the offering, either

  - For an offering not over $2 million: the financial information required in Article 8 of Regulation S-X [see 17 C.F.R. § 210.8], except that only the issuer's balance sheet, which must be dated within 120 days of the start of the offering, is required to be audited [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(2)(i)(B)(1)];

  - For an offering over $2 million and not over $7.5 million: the financial statement information required in S-1 [see 17 C.F.R. § 239.10], but if the issuer cannot obtain audited financial statements without unreasonable effort or expense, then only the issuer's balance sheet, which must be dated within 120 days of the start of the offering, is required to be audited [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(2)(i)(B)(2)]; or

  - For an offering over $7.5 million: the financial statement that would be required in a registration statement filed under the Securities Act on the form that the issuer would be entitled to use, provided that if the issuer cannot obtain audited financial statements without unreasonable effort or expense, then only the issuer's balance sheet, which must be dated within 120 days of the start of the offering, is required to be audited [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(2)(i)(B)(3)].

[c] Reporting Company's Information

A small private corporation would not be a reporting company except in a rare case. If the issuer is subject to the reporting requirements of Section 13 or Section 15(d) of the Exchange Act [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 78m, 78o(d) (periodic reporting requirements)], however, then at a reasonable time before the sale of securities, the issuer must furnish to the buyer the same information as described in § 6A.27[2][c] for a Rule 505 offering [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.502(b)(2)(ii), 230.506(b)(1)].

[d] Additional Information

The issuer must furnish to the buyer the same additional information as described in § 6A.27[2][d] for a Rule 505 offering [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.502(b)(2)(iii)-(vi), 230.506(b)(1)].

[3] Aggregate Offering Price

There is no ceiling on the aggregate offering price of a Rule 506 offering.

[4] Limitations on Buyers

There must be no more than (or the issuer must reasonably believe that there are no more than) 35 buyers of securities from the issuer in any offering under Rule 506 [17 C.F.R. § 230.506(b)(2)(i)], not counting buyers that are "accredited investors" [17 C.F.R. § 230.501(e)(1)(iv); see 17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a) (definition); see also § 6A.112[1]]. The number of buyers other than accredited investors would be computed as in the case of a Rule 505 offering [see § 6A.27[4]].

Each buyer other than an accredited investor, either alone or with buyer representatives [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.501(h) (who are representatives)], must have enough knowledge and experience in financial and business matters to be capable of evaluating the merits and risks of the prospective investment, or the issuer must reasonably believe immediately before making any sale that the buyer comes within this description [17 C.F.R. § 230.506(b)(2)(ii)]. Such a buyer usually is described as a "sophisticated" buyer. In practice, a buyer other than an accredited buyer usually is required to complete and return to the issuer a questionnaire designed to reveal the buyer's level of investment sophistication [see § 6A.206].

PRACTICE TIP:

A person acting as a purchaser representative must generally be licensed as an investment adviser in California. The term "investment adviser" applies to any person who, for compensation, engages in the business of advising others with respect to investing in or purchasing or selling securities. A broker-dealer is excluded from this definition if the broker provides investment advice solely as an incident to the broker's business and the broker receives no special compensation for such services. Attorneys and accountants are excluded from this definition only if investment advisory services are provided solely as an incidence to the practice of their profession. Otherwise they need to be licensed as investment advisers. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

In a Rule 506 offering, therefore, every buyer must be either an accredited investor or a sophisticated buyer, or must be represented by a professional representative who is sophisticated, and there may be no more than 35 buyers in the second category. This is, essentially, what makes it a "private" offering.

A buyer or purchaser representative may not be affiliated with the issuer. The purchaser must acknowledge in writing that the representative is assisting the buyer in evaluating the merits and risks of the offering. In addition, the purchaser representative must disclose to the buyer a reasonable time before the sale of the securities any material relationship between him or his affiliates and the issuer that exists or has existed during the previous two years and the amount of any compensation received or to be received as a result of such relationship [17 C.F.R. § 230.501(h)].

[5] Offering Statement and Notice of Sales

The SEC does not require the preparation, filing, or use of an offering statement for the Rule 506 exemption. However, the issuer is required to disclose considerable information to buyers other than accredited investors, including, in most cases, the same kind of information as would be required in Part II (the offering circular) of Form 1-A, if the issuer is eligible to use Regulation A, otherwise the same kind of information as required in Part I (the prospectus) of a registration statement filed under the Securities Act on the form that the issuer would be entitled to use, but for the exemption [see [2], above]. Therefore, the issuer may elect to prepare an offering statement as in the case of a nonexempt offering.

PRACTICE TIP:

No notice filings must be made under California law if the issuer is relying on exemptions under Corp. Code § 25102(e) or (i). Notice filings must be made under California law for offerings made in reliance on exemptions Corp. Code § 25102(f) and (n), respectively. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

An issuer offering or selling securities in reliance on § 230.504, 230.505, or 230.506 must file with the SEC a notice of sale containing the information required by Form D [17 C.F.R. § 239.500] for each new offering of securities no later than 15 calendar days after the first sale of securities in the offering [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.503(a)(1), 239.500(a)(1); see § 6A.202[2]]. As of March 16, 2009, a notice of sale on Form D must be filed in electronic format by means of the Commission's EDGAR system in accordance with the rules set forth in Regulation S-T [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.503(b), 239.500(b); see 17 C.F.R. Part 232; see also § 6A.202[1]].

§ 6A.29 Insignificant Deviations From Requirements

Failure to comply with any term, condition, or requirement of Rule 504, 505, or 506 will not result in the loss of the exemption under Section 5 of the Act if the following situations apply [17 C.F.R. § 230.508]:

- The person relying on the exemption shows that the failure to comply did not pertain to a term, condition or requirement directly intended to protect that particular individual or entity; or

- The failure to comply was insignificant to the offering as a whole, provided that any failure to comply with Rule 502(c), 504(b)(2), 505(b)(2)(i) or (ii), or 506(b)(2)(i) will not be deemed to be insignificant.

In addition, a good faith attempt must be made to comply with all applicable requirements. A failure to comply with all applicable requirements will nevertheless remain actionable under Section 20 of the Act [17 C.F.R. § 230.508].

PRACTICE TIP:

If there has been a de minimis failure to comply with Rule 506, the federal preemption benefits of NSMIA may be unavailable. In this situation, the issuer may need to consider other potentially available private placement exemptions in California, such as Corp. Code § 25102(e), (f), (i), and *(n). AUTHOR: Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6A.30 Sale Through Employee Benefit Plan Under Section 3(b) and Rule 701

[1] Scope of Exemption

[a] In General

The SEC "may from time to time by its rules and regulations, and subject to such terms and conditions as may be prescribed therein, add any class of securities to the securities exempted as provided in this section [Section 3 of the Securities Act], if it finds that the enforcement of this subchapter [the Securities Act] with respect to such securities is not necessary in the public interest and for the protection of investors by reason of the small amount involved or the limited character of the public offering; but no issue of securities shall be exempted under this subsection [Section 3(b) of the Securities Act] where the aggregate amount at which such issue is offered to the public exceeds $5,000,000" [15 U.S.C. § 77c(b)].

Offers and sales made in compliance with all of the conditions of Rule 701 are exempt under Section 3(b) of the Securities Act from the registration requirements of the Act [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(a)]. Rule 701 exempts offers and sales of securities, including plan interests and guaranties [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.701(d)(2)(ii)], under a written compensatory benefit plan [see [c], below] (or written compensation contract) established by the issuer [see [b], below], its parents, its majority-owned subsidiaries, or majority-owned subsidiaries of the issuer's parent, for the participation of their employees, directors, general partners, trustees (when the issuer is a business trust), officers, or consultants and advisers [see [d], below], and their family members [see [c], below] who acquire the securities from those persons through gifts or domestic relations orders. Rule 701 exempts offers and sales to former employees, directors, general partners, trustees, officers, consultants, and advisers only if those persons were employed by or providing services to the issuer at the time the securities were offered. In addition, the term "employee" may include insurance agents who are exclusive agents of the issuer or its subsidiaries or parents, or who derive more than 50 percent of their annual income from such entities. [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(c)].

Offers and sales exempt under Rule 701 are deemed to be a part of a single, discrete offering and are not subject to integration with any other offers or sales, whether registered under the Securities Act or otherwise exempt from the registration requirements of the Act [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(f)].

[b] Eligible Issuer

Rule 701 is available to any issuer that is not subject to the reporting requirements of Section 13 or Section 15(d) of the Exchange Act [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 78m, 78o(d)] and is not an investment company registered or required to be registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(b)(1); see 15 U.S.C. § 80a-1 et seq.]. An issuer subject to the reporting requirements may rely on Rule 701 if it merely guaranties the payment of a subsidiary's securities that are sold under Rule 701 [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(b)(3)].

If an issuer becomes subject to the Exchange Act reporting requirements after it has made offers complying with Rule 701, the issuer may nevertheless rely on Rule 701 to sell the securities previously offered to the persons to whom those offers were made [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(b)(2)].

[c] Definitions

For purposes of Rule 701,

- A "compensatory benefit plan" is any purchase, savings, option, bonus, stock appreciation, profit sharing, thrift, incentive, deferred compensation, pension or similar plan [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(c)(2)];

- "Family member" includes any child, stepchild, grandchild, parent, stepparent, grandparent, spouse, former spouse, sibling, niece, nephew, mother-in-law, father-in-law, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, brother-in-law, or sister-in-law, including adoptive relationships; any person sharing the employee's household (other than a tenant or employee)--a domestic partner, for instance; a trust in which these persons have more than 50 percent of the beneficial interest; a foundation in which control of the management of assets is held by these persons (or the employee); and any other entity in which more than 50 percent of the aggregate voting interest is owned by these persons (or the employee) [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(c)(3)].

[d] Requirements for Consultants and Advisers

Like regular employees, consultants and advisers are eligible to receive securities under the Rule 701 exemption. Similarly, when the issuer is a reporting company, consultants and advisers may receive securities in a transaction registered on Form S-8. In the past, a flexible definition of consultants and advisers, particularly in the context of registered offerings on Form S-8, led to abuse. In many cases, that form was misused by registering shares for issuance to consultants and advisers who did not have sufficient connection and familiarity with the issuer. In some cases, those persons received the securities for capital-raising purposes rather than as compensation, and they engaged in public distributions of the securities. To foreclose such abuse, Rule 701 defines consultants and advisers narrowly. Rule 701 is available to consultants and advisers who meet the following requirements [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(c)(1)]:

- They are natural persons.

- They provide bona fide services to the issuer, its parents, its majority-owned subsidiaries, or majority-owned subsidiaries of the issuer's parent.

- The services are not in connection with the offer or sale of securities in a capital-raising transaction and do not directly or indirectly promote or maintain a market for the issuer's securities.

Securities promoters are excluded from the scope of persons eligible to participate under the Rule 701 exemption.

Independent agents, franchisees, and salespersons who do not have an employment relationship with the issuer are not within the scope of "consultant or adviser." (No-action letters issued before April 1999 and defining eligible consultants or advisers under Rule 701 may no longer be reliable [see Securities Act Release No. 7645 (Feb. 25, 1999), 64 Fed. Reg. 11098 n.38 , for a list]).

PRACTICE TIP:

Given the concerns expressed by the SEC regarding abuses in this area, it is recommended that counsel review the most recent SEC no-action letters and, if necessary, consult with SEC staff, before including consultants and advisers in any plan which will issue securities in reliance on Rule 701. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

A person in a de facto employment relationship with the issuer, such as a nonemployee providing services that traditionally are performed by an employee, with compensation paid for those services being the primary source of the person's earned income, would qualify as an eligible person under the exemption. (However, the services must not be in connection with the offer or sale of securities in a capital-raising transaction and must not directly or indirectly promote or maintain a market for the issuer's securities.) Other persons displaying significant characteristics of "employment" (such as a professional adviser providing bookkeeping services, computer programming advice, or other valuable professional services) may qualify as eligible consultants or advisers, depending on the particular facts and circumstances.

[e] Brother-Sister Subsidiary Employees

Because it is commonplace to sell stock of a private company to employees of members of an affiliated group, including parent and affiliated subsidiaries, and because these transactions retain the envisioned compensatory character, Rule 701 extends exemption coverage to sales to employees of majority-owned subsidiaries of the issuer's parent; that is, brother-sister subsidiaries, as well as the sale of stock of the subsidiary to employees of the parent [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.701(c)].

[f] No Limitation on Offers

Any amount of securities may be offered in reliance on Rule 701. There are, however, limitations on the amount of securities which may be sold. These limitations are described in [2], below.

[2] Limitation on Sales

[a] Computation Formula

The aggregate sales price or amount of securities sold in reliance on Rule 701 during any consecutive 12-month period must not exceed the greatest of the following [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(d)(2)]:

- $1 million;

- 15 percent of the total assets of the issuer (or of the issuer's parent if the issuer is a wholly owned subsidiary and the securities represent obligations that the parent fully and unconditionally guaranties), measured at the issuer's most recent annual balance-sheet date (if no older than its last fiscal year end); or

- 15 percent of the outstanding amount of the class of securities being offered and sold in reliance on Rule 701, measured at the issuer's most recent annual balance-sheet date (if no older than its last fiscal year end).

In computing outstanding securities for purposes of the third test listed above, the issuer must treat the securities underlying all currently exercisable or convertible options, warrants, rights, or other securities, other than those issued under Rule 701, as outstanding. In computing the amount of securities sold for other purposes of all of the foregoing tests, the issuer must count the amount of securities that would be acquired on exercise or conversion in connection with sales of options, warrants, rights, or other exercisable or convertible securities, including those to be issued under this exemption [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(d)(3)(iii)]. With respect to options to purchase securities, the aggregate sales price is determined when an option grant is made (without regard to when the option becomes exercisable). With respect to other securities, the computation is made on the date of sale. With respect to deferred-compensation and similar plans, the computation is made when the irrevocable election to defer is made [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(d)(3)(ii)].

The term "aggregate sales price" means the sum of all cash, property, notes, cancellation of debt, or other consideration received or to be received by the issuer for the sale of the securities. Noncash consideration must be valued by reference to bona fide sales of that consideration made within a reasonable time or, in the absence of sales, on the fair value as determined by an accepted standard. The value of services exchanged for securities issued must be measured by reference to the value of the securities issued. Options must be valued based on the exercise price of the option [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(d)(3)(i)].

Amounts of securities sold in reliance on Rule 701 do not affect aggregate offering prices in other exemptions, and amounts of securities sold in reliance on other exemptions do not affect the amount that may be sold in reliance on Rule 701 [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(d)(3)(iv)].

[b] Compliance Guidance

With respect to equity incentives such as restricted stock and compensatory stock purchases, plans, or 401(k) plans that permit employees to elect to purchase employer securities, the computations of exemptive amounts are to be made as of the transaction date. Deferred compensation and similar plans would make measurements based on the date of an irrevocable election to defer compensation. Limitations must be placed on these plans to prevent employees from purchasing or electing to defer compensation in an amount greater than that which would be permitted under Rule 701.

With respect to options, computations are to be made as of the date of the grant of the option, without regard to whether the option is currently exercisable or vested. This obviates the difficulty in keeping track of outstanding options, namely, when they become exercisable, and when they might be exercised. In particular, basing computations on the option exercise date could result in an unanticipated loss of the exemption if too many optionees exercised their options at the same time. Although options are offers of the underlying securities that can be made without limitation and are exempt under Rule 701, using the exercise price at the date of grant simplifies the computations of the available exemption amount and allows issuers to avoid the administrative difficulties of keeping track of outstanding options. This method of determining the available exemption should make no difference from an investor-protection point of view, since a 12-month time limit applies. However, this approach greatly simplifies the issuer's oversight of outstanding offers and perhaps benefits more employees and others who may participate in the compensatory arrangements. Rule 701 makes it clear that computations with respect to options should be based on the exercise price, since the purpose is to measure the securities that will be sold under the exemption. (In the event that exercise prices are later changed, a recomputation must be made under Rule 701.)

Rule 701 provides that the computation of the exempt amount should account for the value of both consultant services and employee services [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(d)(3)(i)]. In other words, compensatory arrangements should not be valued at zero or treated as a gift. Even when the employee or consultant is not required to pay additional consideration for the securities being issued, these securities typically would have some intrinsic worth, such as book value or a multiple of book value. The value of services exchanged for securities issued must be measured by reference to the value of the securities issued rather than the employee's salary or consultant's invoice.

[a] Requirement

The issuer must deliver to investors a copy of the compensatory benefit plan or the contract, as applicable. In addition, if the aggregate sales price or amount of securities sold during any consecutive 12-month period exceeds $5 million, the issuer must deliver the following disclosure to investors a reasonable period of time before the date of sale [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(e)]:

- A copy of the summary plan description required by the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 [see 29 U.S.C. §§ 1104-1107], if the plan is subject to ERISA [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(e)(1)], otherwise, a summary of the material terms of the plan [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(e)(2)].

- Information about the risks associated with investment in the securities sold pursuant to the compensatory benefit plan or compensation contract [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(e)(3)].

- Financial statements required to be furnished by Part F/S of Form 1-A [see § 6A.200] under Regulation A [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.251 et seq.].

The financial statements must be as of a date no more than 180 days before the sale of securities in reliance on Rule 701 [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(e)(4)].

[b] Parent's Financial Statements

If the issuer is relying on the total-assets test using its parent's total assets to determine the amount of securities that may be sold [see [2][a], above], the parent's financial statements must be delivered. If the parent is subject to the reporting requirements of Section 13 or Section 15(d) of the Exchange Act [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 78m, 78o(d)], the financial statements of the parent required by Rule 10-01 of Regulation S-X [see 17 C.F.R. § 210.10-01] and Item 310 of Regulation S-B [see 17 C.F.R. § 228.310], as applicable, must be delivered [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(e)(5)].

[c] Time for Disclosure

If the sale involves a stock option or other derivative security, the issuer must deliver disclosure a reasonable period of time before the date of exercise or conversion. For deferred-compensation and similar plans, the issuer must deliver disclosure to investors a reasonable period of time before the date the irrevocable election to defer is made [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(e)(6)].

[d] Compliance Guidance

When the formula [see [2][a], above] permits sales in excess of $5 million in a 12-month period, and the issuer chooses to sell more than that amount, disclosure should be made to all investors before sale. In other words, an issuer is obliged to provide disclosure to all investors if the issuer believes that sales will exceed the $5 million threshold in the coming 12-month period. If disclosure has not been provided to all investors before sale, the issuer will lose the exemption for the entire offering when sales exceed the $5 million threshold.

The type and amount of disclosure needed in a compensatory securities transaction differs from that needed in a capital-raising transaction. In a bona fide compensatory arrangement, the issuer is concerned primarily with compensating the employee-investor rather than maximizing the proceeds of sale. Because the compensated individual has a business relationship with the issuer, perhaps extending over a long period of time, that individual, if a senior executive officer, will have acquired some and in many cases substantial knowledge about the enterprise. The amount and type of disclosure required for this individual is not the same as for a typical investor with no particular connection to the issuer. If the plan is available to employees generally, more disclosure may be required since a mere employer-employee relationship may not be sufficient to assure that adequate disclosure has been provided [see concerns expressed by the Commissioner in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(d), issued with respect to Corp. Code § 25102(f)]. In these instances, the issuer may need to provide disclosure similar to that contained in Form S-8.

The standards of financial statement disclosure in Regulation A [see generally § 6A.25] provide basic protections in a compensatory transaction but may not be available as a result of ordinary employment or business dealings. The standard is well-established and may be very familiar to private issuers, since these financial statements and risk-factor disclosure requirements are used not only in Regulation A but also in the private-placement exemptions in Regulation D [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(2)(i)(A)]. Delivery of disclosure documents, particularly financial statements, to employee-investors could result in serious harm to the company if the information were to come into the possession of competitors. Private issuers can use certain mechanisms, such as confidentiality agreements, to protect competitive information. Alternatively, an issuer could elect to stay below the $5 million threshold, to avoid the disclosure obligations.

Compliance with the minimum disclosure standards for Rule 701 may not necessarily meet the antifraud standards of the securities laws, such as Section 17(a) of the Securities Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 77q(a)], Section 10(b) of the Exchange Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 78j(b)], and Rule 10b-5 [see 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b-5]. The disclosure required will depend on the facts and circumstances.

Issuers eligible to take maximum advantage of the exemption also should be mindful of the requirements of the Exchange Act. Once an issuer exceeds 500 shareholders at the end of two fiscal years or 750 shareholders at the end of one fiscal year and $10 million in assets, it must register under Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 78l(g)] and provide full disclosure as a "public" corporation.

[4] Resale Limitations

Securities issued under Rule 701 are deemed to be "restricted securities" as defined in Rule 144 [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(g)(1); see 17 C.F.R. § 230.144]. Resales of securities issued pursuant to Rule 701 must be in compliance with the registration requirements of the Securities Act or an exemption from those requirements [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(g)(2)].

Ninety days after the issuer becomes subject to the reporting requirements of Section 13 or Section 15(d) of the Exchange Act [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 78m, 78o(d)], securities issued under Rule 701 may be resold by persons who are not affiliates (as defined in Rule 144) in reliance on Rule 144, without compliance with Rule 144(c) and (d) and by affiliates without compliance with paragraph Rule 144(d) [17 C.F.R. § 230.701(g)(3)].

§ 6A.110 Intrastate Offering in California Under Section 3(a)(11)

NOTE:

Rule 147 [17 C.F.R. § 230.147] provides objective standards for determining when an offering is exempt from registration as an intrastate offering under Section 3(a)(11) [see 15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(11)]. The conditions for the exemption enumerated in the rule are summarized here, and it is assumed that the offering will be made within California.

1. Verify that issuer is both:

a. Incorporated in California [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(c)(1)(i)], and

b. Doing business within California [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(c)(2)]; issuer is deemed to be doing business within California if issuer either:

(1) Derived at least 80 percent of gross revenues from California (unless gross revenues did not exceed $5,000 for most recent 12-month fiscal period) during [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(c)(2)(i)]:

(a) Most recent fiscal year, if first offer is made during first six months of issuer's current fiscal year; or

(b) First six months of current fiscal year, or during 12-month fiscal period ending with that six-month period, if first offer is made during last six months of issuer's current fiscal year.

(2) Had at least 80 percent of its assets located within California at end of most recent semi-annual fiscal period before first offer [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(c)(2)(ii)].

(a) Operation of business or of real property in California;

(b) Purchase of real property in California; or

(c) Rendering of services within California.

(4) Has its principal office located in California [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(c)(2)(iv)].

2. Verify that all offerees and buyers will be residents of California, with following criteria applied to specific categories of buyers or beneficial owners [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(d)]:

a. Business organization is deemed resident of state or territory where principal office is located at time of offer and sale [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(d)(1)];

b. Individual is deemed resident of state or territory where principal residence is located at time of offer and sale [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(d)(2)]; and

c. Business organization organized for purpose of acquiring part of issue offered pursuant to this exemption is deemed resident of California only if all beneficial owners of organization are residents of California [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(d)(3)].

3. Limit resales to persons residing within California, during period in which securities are being offered and for period of nine months from date of last sale by issuer [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(e)].

4. Instruct issuer to take precautions against out-of-state offers and sales [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(f)]:

a. Place legend on certificate stating that securities have not been registered under Securities Act and setting forth limitations on interstate resale [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(f)(1)(i), (2); see 17 C.F.R. § 230.147(e)];

b. Issue stop-transfer instructions to issuer's transfer agent, if any, or, if issuer transfers own securities, make notation in appropriate records [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(f)(1)(ii)];

c. Obtain written representation from buyers as to residence [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(f)(1)(iii); see § 6A.204]; and

d. In connection with offers or sales, disclose in writing limitations on resale under this exemption [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(f)(3); see 17 C.F.R. § 230.147(e), (f)(1)(i), (ii), (2)].

NOTE:
The Regulation A exemption [17 C.F.R. § 230.251 et seq.] under Section 3(b) of Securities Act [15 U.S.C. § 77c(b)] is actually an exemption only from full registration since a notification of the issuance is required.

1. Verify that aggregate offering price of all securities of issuer offered or sold under Regulation A exemption, and any other securities offered or sold within 12 months before commencement of proposed Regulation A offering pursuant to any other exemption under Section 3(b) of Securities Act or in violation of Section 5(a) of that Act, will not exceed $5 million, including no more than $1.5 million in nonissuer resales [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.251(b)].

2. File notification on Form 1-A [see § 6A.200] with SEC before making offer of securities [17 C.F.R. § 230.251(d)(1)(i)].

NOTE:
Solicitations of interest in an offering [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.254*] may be made before Form 1-A is filed [17 C.F.R. § 230.251(d)(1)(i)].

3. Furnish preliminary or final offering circular to offeree at least 48 hours before mailing confirmation of sale to that person [17 C.F.R. § 230.251(d)(2)(i)(B), (C)].

4. Instruct issuer not to sell securities until Form 1-A is qualified and final offering circular [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.261] is delivered to buyer [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.251(d)(2)(i)(A)].

5. File all sales material with SEC and instruct issuer to report all sales under exemption [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.256, 230.257].

[1] Requirements for All Offerings

NOTE:

Regulation D [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.501 et seq.] provides three exemptions from registration under the Securities Act for limited and private offerings of securities. In general, Rule 504 exempts offers and sales not exceeding $1 million, regardless of the number of buyers [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.504]. Rule 505 exempts offers and sales not exceeding $5 million, to no more than 35 buyers, not counting "accredited investors" [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.501(e)(1)(iv), 230.505(b)(2)(ii); see 17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a) (definition)]. Rule 506 exempts offers and sales, regardless of dollar amount, to no more than 35 buyers, not counting "accredited investors," provided the buyers other than accredited investors are sophisticated investors or are represented by professional representatives who are sophisticated [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.501(e)(1)(iv), 230.506(b)(2)(i); see 17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a) (definition)].

Offers and sales of securities that satisfy the terms and conditions set forth in Regulation D are deemed exempt from registration under Section 5 of the Securities Act by the statutory exemptions provided by Section 3(b) (Rule 504 and Rule 505) and Section 4(2) (Rule 506) of the Act [see 17 C.F.R. §§ 230.504(a), 230.505(a), 230.506(a)]. Attempted compliance with any of the Regulation D exemptions is not an exclusive election of that exemption. Hence, the issuer can also claim the availability of any other applicable exemption [17 C.F.R. § 230.501, Preliminary Note 3]. The following general conditions and requirements do not necessarily apply to each exemption [see, e.g., 17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(1)].

Offers and sales made more than six months before start or six months after completion of Regulation D offering are not considered part of that offering, as long as during those six-month periods no offers or sales of the same or similar class of securities are made by or for issuer occur [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(a)].

Failure to comply with term, condition, or requirement of Rule 504, Rule 505, or Rule 506 [see 17 C.F.R. §§ 230.504-230.506] will not preclude use of exemption for any offer or sale to particular individual or entity, if person relying on exemption shows that (1) failure to comply did not pertain to term, condition, or requirement directly intended to protect that particular individual or entity; (2) failure to comply was insignificant with respect to offering as a whole; and (3) good faith and reasonable attempt was made to comply with all applicable terms, conditions, and requirements of rule [17 C.F.R. § 230.508(a)]. The requirement regarding the manner of offering, including aggregate offering price and number of buyers [see 17 C.F.R. §§ 230.502(c), 230.504(b)(2), 230.505(b)(2)(i), (ii), 230.506(b)(2)(i)], is deemed to be significant to the offering as a whole [17 C.F.R. § 230.508(a)(2)].

1. If issuer sells securities under Rule 505 or Rule 506 to any buyer who is not "accredited investor," instruct issuer to furnish specified information [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(2)] to that buyer within reasonable time before sale [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(1); see 17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a) ("accredited investor" defined)].

NOTE:

The issuer is not required to furnish the specified information to buyers when it sells securities under Rule 504, or to any accredited investor [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(1)]. Nevertheless, the issuer should consider providing that information to accredited investors, in view of the antifraud provisions of the federal securities laws [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(1), Note].

2. Instruct issuer not to offer or sell securities by any form of general solicitation or advertising, except when offers and sales are made under Rule 504 [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.502(c), 230.504(b)(1); see 17 C.F.R. § 230.502(c) (exception for notices of certain proposed unregistered offerings under 17 C.F.R. § 230.135c)].

3. Inform issuer and purchaser that securities may not be resold without registration under Securities Act or exemption from that Act, except when offers and sales are made under Rule 504 [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.502(d), 230.504(b)(1)].

4. Instruct issuer to exercise reasonable care to ensure that buyers are not underwriters within meaning of Section 2(11) of Securities Act [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(d); see 15 U.S.C. § 77b(a)(11)], such as:

a. Reasonable inquiry to determine whether buyer is acquiring securities for self or for other persons [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(d)(1)];

b. Written disclosure to each buyer before sale that securities have not been registered and therefore cannot be resold unless registered or exempted [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(d)(2)]; and

c. Placement of legend on certificate or other document evidencing securities, stating that securities are not registered and setting forth restrictions on transfer and sale of securities [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(d)(3)].

5. Instruct issuer to determine whether or not each prospective purchaser meets definition of "accredited investor" for purposes of Regulation D; person must come within one of following categories (or issuer must reasonably believe person comes within one of following categories) at time of sale of securities to that person [17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a)]:

a. Bank, as defined in Section 3(a)(2) of Securities Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(2)], or savings and loan association or other institution as defined in Section 3(a)(5)(A) of Securities Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(5)(A)], whether acting in individual or fiduciary capacity.

b. Any broker or dealer registered under Section 15 of Exchange Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 78o].

c. Insurance company, as defined in Section 2(13) of Securities Act [see 15 U.S.C. § 77b(a)(13)].

e. Business development company, as defined in Section 2(a)(48) of Investment Company Act of 1940 [see 15 U.S.C. § 80a-2(a)(48)].

f. Small business investment company licensed by Small Business Administration under Section 301(c) or (d) of Small Business Investment Act of 1958 [see 15 U.S.C. § 681(c), (d)].

g. Plan established and maintained by state, its political subdivisions, or any agency or instrumentality of state or its political subdivisions, that:
(1) Is for benefit of employees; and

(2) Has total assets in excess of $5 million.

h. Employee benefit plan within meaning of Title I of Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 [see 29 U.S.C. § 1002(3)], if either:

(1) Investment decision is made by plan fiduciary, as defined in Section 3(21) of that Act [see 29 U.S.C. § 1002(21)(A)], which is either bank, savings and loan association, insurance company, or registered investment adviser;

(2) Employee benefit plan has total assets in excess of $5 million; or

(3) Investment decisions in self-directed plan are made solely by persons who are accredited investors.

i. Private business development company, as defined in Section 202(a)(22) of Investment Advisers Act of 1940 [see 15 U.S.C. § 80b-2(a)(22)].

j. Organization described in I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) (religious, charitable, educational, and scientific organizations), corporation, Massachusetts business trust or similar business trust, or partnership, not formed for specific purpose of acquiring securities offered, with total assets in excess of $5 million.

k. Director, executive officer, or general partner of issuer of securities being offered or sold, or director, executive officer, or general partner of general partner of issuer.

n. Trust with total assets in excess of $5 million, not formed for specific purpose of acquiring securities offered, whose acquisition of securities is directed by sophisticated person [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.506(b)(2)(ii) (definition)].

o. Entity in which all equity owners are accredited investors.

§ 6A.113 Complying With Filing Requirements

[1] Regulation A Offerings

NOTE:
Regulation A [17 C.F.R. § 230.251 et seq.] implements the small-offering exemption authorized by Section 3(b) of the Securities Act [15 U.S.C. § 77c(b)]. The Regulation A exemption is actually a simplified registration procedure. Although technically an exemption from the registration requirements, it requires the filing of disclosure documents, known as offering statements, with the SEC.

1. To implement Regulation A exemption, prepare and file offering statement, Form 1-A [see § 6A.200], consisting of [see 17 C.F.R. § 239.90]:

a. Cover sheet.

b. Part I--Notification, containing:
(1) Names and addresses of significant parties to transaction, including issuer's directors, officers, general partners, and beneficial owners, as well as promoters, affiliates, counsel, and underwriters.

(2) Statement concerning application of Rule 262 to significant parties to transaction [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.262 ("bad boy" disqualifications applying to issuers and designated persons that prevent exercise of exemption)].

(3) If proposed offering involves resale of securities by issuer's affiliates, statement indicating that issuer has had net income from continuing operations for at least one of last two fiscal years.

(4) Jurisdiction in which securities are to be offered.

(5) Identification of unregistered securities issued or sold within one year before filing of Form 1-A.

(6) Identification of other present or proposed offerings.

(7) Description of marketing arrangements.

(8) Description of any relationship between issuers and experts named in offering statement.

(9) Indication of whether solicitation-of-interest procedure was used before filing.

c. Part II--Offering Circular, containing [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.253, 239.90]:

(1) Required legend, to be set in boldface type in a font at least as large as that of general body of circular:

THE UNITED STATES SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION DOES NOT PASS UPON THE MERITS OF OR GIVE ITS APPROVAL TO ANY SECURITIES OFFERED OR THE TERMS OF THE OFFERING, NOR DOES IT PASS UPON THE ACCURACY OR COMPLETENESS OF ANY OFFERING CIRCULAR OR OTHER SELLING LITERATURE. THESE SECURITIES ARE OFFERED PURSUANT TO AN EXEMPTION FROM REGISTRATION WITH THE COMMISSION; HOWEVER, THE COMMISSION HAS NOT MADE AN INDEPENDENT DETERMINATION THAT THE SECURITIES OFFERED HEREUNDER ARE EXEMPT FROM REGISTRATION.

(2) Information describing offering, and disclosing risk factors and other pertinent information, including nature of company, planned uses of proceeds, tax aspects, and other relevant matters.

NOTE:

The SEC allows a certain flexibility in the format of offering circulars, including the use of a question-and-answer format, as long as specified information is clearly provided. Form 1-A sets out several detailed models. Further instructions regarding presentation are found in the regulations [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.253].

d. Part III--Exhibits.

e. Required signatures by:

(1) Issuer;

(2) Chief executive officer;

(3) Chief financial officer;

(4) Majority of board of directors; and

(5) Each person, other than issuer, for whose account any securities are to be offered.

f. Delaying notation.

NOTE:

An offering statement regularly contains a delaying notation indicating that it will only be qualified on order of the SEC, unless a subsequent amendment is filed indicating the intention to become qualified by operation of the terms of Regulation A. Without a delaying notation, an offering statement is qualified without SEC action on the twentieth day after filing or after the delaying notation is deleted by amendment.

2. If any offers will be made while qualification is pending, comply with regulations regarding issuance of Preliminary Offering Circular [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.255].

3. Consummate sales only after [17 C.F.R. § 230.251(d)(2)]:

a. Offering statement has qualified.

b. Final offering circular has been provided to offeree.

4. Revise offering circular if changes in circumstances render circular false or misleading [17 C.F.R. § 230.253(e)].

5. File required interim and final sales reports on Form 2-A [17 C.F.R. § 230.257; see § 6A.201]:

a. Every six months after qualification of offering statement or amendment until substantially all proceeds of sales have been applied.

b. Within 30 days after termination, completion, or final sale of securities in offering, or within 30 days after application of proceeds, whichever is later.

[2] Regulation D Offerings

1. Issuer offering or selling securities in reliance on Rule 504, Rule 505, or Rule 506 in Regulation D must file notice of sale on Form D [see 17 C.F.R. § 239.500; see also § 6A.202] as follows:

a. File Form D for each new offering of securities with the SEC no later than 15 calendar days after first sale of securities in offering [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.503(a)(1), 239.500(a)(1)].

NOTE:

Every such notice of sale must be signed by a person duly authorized by the issuer [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.503(b)(2), 239.500(b)(2)].

As of March 16, 2009, a notice of sale on Form D must be filed with the SEC in electronic format by means of the Commission's EDGAR system in accordance with the rules set forth in Regulation S-T [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.503(b)(1), 239.500(b)(1); see 17

C.F.R. Part 232]. The SEC's guide to online filing is set forth at www.sec.gov/info/smallbus/secg/formdguide.htm. Because of a time limitation in completing the online filing after logging in to the EDGAR system, a blank paper copy of Form D may be used to compile in advance all of the information needed for the online filing. The SEC does not charge any filing fee for a Form D notice or amendment. The SEC's Division of Corporation Finance is available at (202) 551-8900 to assist small companies and others with questions on filing and amending Form D notices. The SEC's Office of Small Business Policy is also available to answer interpretive legal questions on Form D information requirements, at (202) 551-3460, or by e-mail at smallbusiness@sec.gov [see Filing and Amending a Form D Notice: A Compliance Guide for Small Entities and Others at www.sec.gov/info/smallbus/secg/formdguide.htm]. The Regulation D exemption will not be available if the issuer, or any of its predecessors or affiliates, is subject to any order, judgment, or decree of any court of competent jurisdiction that enjoins (whether pursuant to a temporary, preliminary, or permanent injunction) a person for failure to comply with this notice requirement [17 C.F.R. § 230.507(a)]. However, on a showing of good cause, the SEC may determine that the circumstances do not require denial of the exemption for failure to comply [17 C.F.R. § 230.507(b)].

b. If offering is made in California pursuant to Rule 506 [17 C.F.R. § 230.506], file Form D with Department of Corporations no later than 15 days after first sale of securities in state, accompanied by filing fee [see Corp. Code § 25608.1(c); see also Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set fee at amount below maximum fee set forth in Corp. Code § 25608.1), consent to service of process if required [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.165 (consent must be pursuant to Form U-2; pursuant to Form D filed with Commissioner in connection with transaction; included in electronic submission of filing; or in form set out in regulation); see also Dept. of Corps. Rel. No. 120-C (Mar. 24, 2009) (consent to service of process or Form U-2 not required if electronic Form D was filed with SEC)], and letter of transmittal [Corp. Code § 25102.1(d); Dept. of Corps. Release No. 109-C (Dec. 18, 1997)].

[3] Documenting Exemption Compliance

1. Ensure that offering documents accurately cover all material issues.

2. Use careful language for all narrative statements in offering documents; in particular:

a. While striving to present facts in most favorable light, be realistic and conservative--do not overstate.

b. In all forward-looking statements, avoid words of promise ("The company will ...") or committal ("The company believes ...") and prefer words of mere expectation ("The company expects ...").

3. Frankly describe all material risk factors.

4. Build documentation files:

a. Maintain scrupulous records of when, how, and to whom offering documents were distributed.

b. Use investor subscription agreement so that issuer can obtain representations and warranties from investor as well as assent to conditions with respect to offering [see § 6A.204].

c. Create appropriate resolutions for offering and issuance of securities [see Ch. 6I, Issuance of Equity Securities, §§ 6I.210-6I.232; Ch. 6J, Issuance of Debt Securities, §§ 6J.200-6J.204].

§ 6A.200 Offering Statement Under Regulation A (SEC Form 1-A)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the SEC's Form 1-A, which is available for viewing and printing at the SEC's website, www.sec.gov. A printed version of Form 1-A can be obtained from the SEC in Washington or at any SEC regional office [see 17 C.F.R. § 239.0-1(b)]. Addresses of the SEC headquarters and regional offices are published in the regulations [see 17 C.F.R. § 200.11] and on the SEC's web site at www.sec.gov/contact/addresses.htm. Form 1-A has blanks for inserting some of the information required for the Regulation A registration, while other required information is only described, and the issuer must provide it in attachments.

The requirements for paper, printing, language, and pagination for offering statements are the same as those specified in Rule 403 of Regulation C [17 C.F.R. § 230.403] for registration statements under the Securities Act [17 C.F.R. § 230.252(b)].

A request for confidential treatment may be made under Rule 406 of Regulation C [17 C.F.R. § 230.406] for information required to be filed [17 C.F.R. § 230.252(c); see 17 C.F.R. § 200.83 (request for confidential treatment for information not required to be filed)].

[b] Contents

The offering statement consists of the facing sheet of Form 1-A [see 17 C.F.R. § 239.90], the contents required by the form, and any additional material information necessary to make the required statements, in the light of the circumstances in which they are made, not misleading [17 C.F.R. § 230.252(a)].

[c] Signatures, Copies, and Filing

The issuer, the chief executive officer and chief financial officer of the issuer, a majority of the members of the board of directors, and each selling securities holder must sign the offering statement. If a signature is by a person on behalf of any other person (except by an executive officer signing for the issuer), evidence of authority to sign must be filed [17 C.F.R. § 230.252(d)].

Seven copies of the offering statement, at least one of which is manually signed, must be filed at the SEC's office in Washington [17 C.F.R. § 230.252(e)]. Electronic filing is not permitted [17 C.F.R. § 232.101(c)(6)].

[d] Delaying Notation

Unless there is a delaying notation (see below) or a suspension proceeding under Rule 258, an offering statement is qualified without SEC action on the 20th calendar day after filing [17 C.F.R. § 230.252(g)(1)].

An offering statement containing the following notation can be qualified only by order of the SEC, unless the notation is removed before SEC action as described below [17 C.F.R. § 230.252(g)(2)]:

> This offering statement shall only be qualified upon order of the Commission, unless a subsequent amendment is filed indicating the intention to become qualified by operation of the terms of Regulation A.

The delaying notation can be removed only by an amendment to the offering statement [see [e], below] that contains the following language [17 C.F.R. § 230.252(g)(3)]:

> This offering statement shall become qualified on the 20th calendar day following the filing of this amendment.

[e] Amendments

If any information in the offering statement is amended, an amendment, signed in the same manner as the initial filing, must be filed. Seven copies of every amendment must be filed at the SEC office that accepted the initial filing. Seven copies of every amendment also must be filed at the SEC's office in Washington [17 C.F.R. § 230.252(h)(1)]. Electronic filing is not permitted [17 C.F.R. § 232.101(c)(6)].

An amendment to include a delaying notation or to remove one after the initial filing of an offering statement may be made by telegram, letter, or fax. Each telegraphic amendment must be confirmed in writing within a reasonable time by filing a signed copy. The confirmation will not be deemed an amendment [17 C.F.R. § 230.252(h)(2)].

§ 6A.201 Report of Sales Under Regulation A (SEC Form 2-A)

This form is the SEC's Form 2-A [see 57 Fed. Reg. 36493 (Aug. 13, 1992)] , which is available at any SEC office or can be downloaded from the SEC's web site at www.sec.gov/smbus/forms/.

The issuer of securities offered and sold under Regulation A [see § 6A.25] and each selling securities holder must file seven copies of a report concerning sales and use of proceeds, on Form 2-A [see 17 C.F.R. § 239.91], at the SEC office in Washington every six months after the qualification of the offering statement or any amendment, until substantially all of the proceeds have been applied. Within 30 calendar days after the termination, completion, or final sale of securities in the offering, or the application of the proceeds from the offering, whichever is the latest event, the issuer and each selling securities holder must file seven copies of Form 2-A marked as the final report [see [2], below]. Electronic filing is not permitted [17 C.F.R. § 232.101(c)(6)]. For purposes of these reporting requirements, the temporary investment of any proceeds pending the final application of the proceeds does not constitute an application of the proceeds [17 C.F.R. § 230.257].

Compliance with this requirement is not a condition to a Regulation A exemption [17 C.F.R. § 230.257].

§ 6A.202 Notice of Sale Under Regulation D (SEC Form D)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is SEC Form D, available from the SEC at www.sec.gov/info/smallbus.shtml. An issuer offering or selling securities in reliance on 17 C.F.R. § 230.504, 230.505, or 230.506, or § 4(6) of the Securities Act must file a notice of sales containing the information required by Form D [17 C.F.R. § 239.500] for each new offering of securities with the SEC no later than 15 calendar days after the first sale of securities in the offering. If the end of that period falls on a Saturday, Sunday, or holiday, the due date is the next business day [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.503(a)(1), 239.500(a)(1)].

[b] Electronic Filing Required

As of March 16, 2009, Form D must be filed with the SEC in electronic format by means of the Commission's Electronic Data Gathering, Analysis, and Retrieval System (EDGAR) in accordance with the rules set forth in Reg. S-T [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.503(b)(1), 239.500(b)(1); see 17 C.F.R. Part 232]. The SEC's guide to online filing is set forth at www.sec.gov/info/smallbus/secg/formdguide.htm. Because of a time limitation in completing the online filing after logging in to the EDGAR system, a blank paper copy of Form D may be used to compile in advance all of the information needed for the online filing. The SEC does not charge any filing fee for a Form D notice or amendment. The SEC's Division of Corporation Finance is available by phone at (202) 551-8900 to assist small companies and others with questions on filing and amending Form D notices. The SEC's Office of Small Business Policy is also available to answer interpretive legal questions on Form D information requirements, by phone at (202) 551-3460, or by e-mail at smallbusiness@sec.gov [see Filing and Amending a Form D Notice: A Compliance Guide for Small Entities and Others at www.sec.gov/info/smallbus/secg/formdguide.htm].

Every notice of sales on Form D must be signed by a person duly authorized by the issuer S-T [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.503(b)(2), 239.500(b)(2)].

[c] Amendments

An issuer may file an amendment to a previously filed notice of sales on Form D at any time [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.503(a)(2), 239.500(a)(2)].

An issuer must file an amendment to a previously filed notice of sales on Form D for an offering, as follows [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.503(a)(3), 239.500(a)(3)]:

- To correct a material mistake of fact or error in the previously filed notice of sales on Form D, as soon as practicable after discovery of the mistake or error [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.503(a)(3)(i), 239.500(a)(3)(i)].

- To reflect a change in the information provided in the previously filed notice of sales on Form D, as soon as practicable after the change. However, no amendment is required to reflect a change that occurs after the offering terminates, or a change that occurs solely in certain information [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.503(a)(3)(ii), 239.500(a)(3)(ii)].

- Annually, on or before the first anniversary of the filing of the notice of sales on Form D or the filing of the most recent amendment to the notice of sales on Form D, if the offering is continuing at that time [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.503(a)(3)(iii), 239.500(a)(3)(iii)].

An issuer that files an amendment to a previously filed notice of sales on Form D must provide current information in response to all requirements of the notice of sales on Form D, regardless of why the amendment is filed [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.503(a)(4), 239.500(a)(4)].

A Form D should also be filed with the Commissioner within 15 days after the first sale of securities in California if the offering will be made in reliance on Corp. Code § 25102.1(d) [see Dept. of Corps. Rel. No. 120-C (Mar. 24, 2009) (new filing requirements for Regulation D offerings)]. The Commissioner may allow for a notice by electronic transmission of the information in Form D. Form D may also be used in lieu of the California notice form for offerings made in reliance on Corp. Code § 25102(f).

§ 6A.203 Small Corporate Offering Registration (NASAA Form U-7)

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form illustrates the first and second pages of the Small Corporate Offering Registration (SCOR) form, called Form U-7, adopted by NASAA [see § 6A.23[2][a]]. SCOR was primarily designed for state registration of small business securities offerings conducted under Rule 504 (sale of securities up to $1 million within 12 months). However, in addition, an issuer can use Form U-7 to satisfy many of the filing requirements of the Regulation A exemption (sales of securities of up to $5 million), since the issuer may file it with the SEC as part of the Regulation A offering statement.

Form U-7 requires significant input by the issuer's accountant. To assist issuers in completing the form, NASAA has developed a detailed "Issuer's Manual" and makes it available, along with Form U-7, on the NASAA web site at www.nasaa. org.

§ 6A.204 Investment Letter for Intrastate Offerings

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is an investment letter designed to be used in connection with offering securities pursuant to the intrastate offering exemption under Section 3(a)(11) of the Act and Rule 147 [see § 6A.24]. A separate copy of this letter should be signed by each buyer before he or she receives shares.

The intrastate offering exemption under Rule 147 [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.147] has limitations on the resale of securities sold [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.147(e)]. This form addresses all of the requirements of each exemption regarding the resale restrictions, including an appropriate legend and stop-transfer instructions.

Under Rule 147, during the period in which securities that are part of an issue are being offered and sold by the issuer to California residents and for a period of nine months from the date of the last sale by the issuer, all resales of any part of the issue, by any person, must be made only to persons who reside within California [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.147(e)]. The issuer must take the following precautions against interstate offers and sales [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(f)(1)]:

- A legend must be placed on the certificate or other document that evidences the securities stating that the securities have not been registered and setting forth the interstate resale prohibition.

- Stop-transfer instructions must be issued to the issuer's transfer agent, if any, with respect to the securities; or if the issuer transfers its own securities, a notation must be made in the appropriate records of the issuer.

- A written representation of each buyer's residence must be obtained.

Investment Letter for Intrastate Offerings

Investment Letter for Shareholder

_____ [Name of issuer]
_____ [street address]
_____ [city, state, and zip]

To Whom It May Concern:

The undersigned will be acquiring [Certificate No. _____ for] _____[number] shares of the common stock _____ [add appropriate identification, e.g., no par value per share,] (the "Stock") of _____ [name of issuer] (the "Company"). The undersigned understands that the Securities Act of 1933 (the "Act"), as amended, exempts the issue and sale of securities from registration under the Act if the transaction is a part of an issue offered and sold only to persons residing within a single state, and the issuer is incorporated and doing business within that state (Section 3(a)(11)). In order to induce you to rely on that exemption and to issue and sell the Stock to the undersigned without registering it under the Act, this letter sets forth certain representations, warranties, and agreements.

1. The undersigned represents and warrants to the Company that he or she currently is, and at the time of the sale of the Stock to the undersigned, will be one of the following:

☐ An individual or beneficial owner in a corporation, partnership, or other business organization formed for the purpose of acquiring the Stock, whose principal place of residence is located in California.

☐ A corporation, partnership, or other form of business organization, that at the time of the offer and sale of the Stock to that organization, has its principal office within California and has not been formed for the purpose of acquiring the Stock.

2. The address of the undersigned's principal place of residence or office in California is _____[address].

3. Before any sale, transfer, assignment, pledge, hypothecation, or other disposition of the Stock or any part of the Stock, the undersigned agrees to deliver to the Company a written opinion of counsel, in form and substance satisfactory to the Company and the Company's counsel, that under the Act and the rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission under the Act (the "S.E.C. Rules and Regulations") the proposed disposition may occur without registration or that all registration requirements of the Act and S.E.C. Rules and Regulations have been or are being met.

4. The undersigned agrees that the Company, in the Company's sole discretion, may place a legend on the certificates evidencing the Stock, that reads as follows:

The securities evidenced by this certificate have not been registered under the Securities Act of 1933. During the period in which the securities are being offered and sold by the issuer, and for a period of nine months from the date of the last sale by the issuer of such securities, all resales of any part of the issue, by any person, shall be made only to persons resident within California.

The Company, in the Company's sole discretion, also may place a stop-transfer order against transfer of the shares in violation of the conditions stated in the legend.

5. The undersigned agrees to indemnify and hold the Company harmless from and against all liabilities, claims, damages, losses, penalties, costs, and expenses, including, without limitation, attorney's fees and costs of appeal, arising out of any sale or other disposition of the Stock by or for the undersigned in violation of the Act or this letter.

The undersigned understands that the effect of the foregoing representations, warranties, and agreements by the undersigned is that the undersigned does not presently intend to, nor may the undersigned, sell, pledge, or otherwise dispose of any of the Stock, unless one of the conditions referred to in Paragraph 2 has occurred. The undersigned does not now anticipate my resale, pledge, or other disposition of the Stock on the occurrence or nonoccurrence of any predetermined or particular event.

The undersigned understands that the Company is relying on the truth and accuracy of the representations, warranties, and agreements set forth in this letter, to issue and sell the Stock to the undersigned without registration under the Act.

§ 6A.205 Investment Letter for Private Placements

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is an investment letter designed to be used in connection with offering securities pursuant to the Regulation D exemptions under Rule 504, Rule 505, and Rule 506 [see §§ 6A.26-6A.28]. A separate copy of this letter should be signed by each buyer before he or she receives shares.

The Regulation D exemptions [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.501 et seq.] have limitations on the resale of securities sold [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.502(d)]. This form addresses all of the requirements of each exemption regarding the resale restrictions, including an appropriate legend and stop-transfer instructions.

Securities acquired under Regulation D cannot be resold without registration under the Securities Act or an exemption from registration [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(d)]. The issuer must exercise reasonable care to ensure that the buyers of the securities are not underwriters, that is, that they are buying the securities for themselves. Some of the factors that are considered in determining whether reasonable care was exercised include, but are not limited to, the following [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(d)]:

- Reasonable inquiry to determine whether the buyer is acquiring the securities for himself or herself or for other persons.

- Written disclosure to each buyer before the sale that the securities have not been registered and, therefore, cannot be resold unless they are registered or an exemption from registration is available.

- Placement of a legend on the certificate or other document that evidences the securities, stating that the securities have not been registered and setting forth or referring to the restrictions on transferability and sale of the securities.

This chapter covers the offer and sale of securities under the limited offering exemptions from qualification [see Corp. Code § 25102(f)] under the Corporate Securities Law of 1968. The Legal Background discusses the statute and applicable rules of the Commissioner of Corporations, and the Transaction Guide lists the steps necessary to use the exemptions. This chapter also contains the notice that must be filed in connection with certain of the exemptions, and forms related to ensuring that the conditions of the exemptions are satisfied.

For a comparison of these exemptions with other possible exemptions, and a discussion covering selection of the most appropriate exemption, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues . If an exemption is not available, see the discussion of qualification requirements in Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities .

CHAPTER 6B CALIFORNIA LIMITED OFFERING EXEMPTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

3-6B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 6B.20

AUTHOR: Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6B.20 Nature of Limited Offering Exemption

[1] In General

The basic limited offering exemption to the qualification requirements for issuer transactions under the Corporate Securities Law is set forth in Corp. Code § 25102(f). That subsection creates a general private offering exemption that applies to any offer or sale of any security by an issuer in a transaction (except offers and sales to the issuer's pension or profit-sharing trust) that meets the criteria discussed throughout the remainder of this Legal Background.

[2] Unavailability in Nonissuer Transactions, Recapitalizations, and Reorganizations

This exemption is not available for nonissuer transactions subject to the provisions of Corp. Code § 25130 or for recapitalization or reorganization transactions subject to the provisions of Corp. Code § 25120. Exemptions are available, however, from the provisions of Corp. Code § 25120 (recapitalizations and reorganizations) in certain circumstances if the transaction satisfies the requirements of Corp. Code § 25102(f). These exemptions are discussed in §§ 6B.28-6B.30.

Generally it is not difficult to determine the difference between an issuer and nonissuer transaction. However, a transaction which in form may be a nonissuer transaction will nevertheless be treated as an issuer transaction if a portion of the purchase price or any other benefit will be received by the issuer [see Corp. Code § 25011 and 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.011]. A transaction is not considered to be a nonissuer transaction if the benefit is remote, contingent or incidental, such as an inducement for a person to become or remain an employee of the company.

PRACTICE TIP:

In some circumstances it may be beneficial for a small business owner to structure a transaction as a nonissuer transaction in order to avoid the limitations of Corp. Code § 25102(f). For example, suppose the owner wishes to retain certain key employees by giving the key employees an ownership interest in the business. This gift will be treated as a sale of securities for value which must be qualified under the California Corporate Securities Law unless an exemption is available. If the gift is made by the corporation, the transaction may need to be qualified if the key employees do not meet the qualified purchaser standards of Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2). Even if they do meet these standards, the owner may not want to incur the cost and expense of complying with Corp. Code § 25102(f) in order to make a gift. If the owner, rather than the corporation makes the gift, the transaction would not need to be qualified if the gift qualifies as a non-public offering under Corp. Code § 25104(a), an exemption available for nonissuer transactions. The transaction should, in most instances, be treated as a nonissuer transaction if the owner makes the gift, rather than the corporation, since the transaction would not be for the indirect benefit of the issuer. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

[3] Use and Alternatives

The basic limited offering exemption is similar, but not identical to, Regulation D under the federal Securities Act of 1933 [see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions For California Nonpublic Corporations]. It has been one of the most common exemptions used by small businesses to sell securities in a non-public offering since the liberalization of Corp. Code § 25102(f) in 1981, largely superseding the more restrictive small offering exemptions in Corp. Code § 25102(e) and (h), which is discussed in Ch. 6C, California Small Offering Exemption .

Two newer exemptions, the qualified purchaser exemption in Corp. Code § 25102(n), which was adopted in 1994 and is discussed in Ch. 6D, California Qualified Purchaser Exemptions , and the "covered security" exemption for offerings pursuant to Rule 506 of Regulation D in Corp. Code § 25102.1(d), which was adopted in 1997 and is discussed in § 6B.31, may be more attractive to small businesses in certain circumstances than the provisions of Corp. Code § 25102(f).

[4] Importance of Compliance With Terms of Exemption

With certain limited exceptions, the issuer will not be protected from liability on the basis that the issuer reasonably believes that the criteria set forth in Corp. Code § 25102(f) have been satisfied. The application of these criteria to a particular transaction may involve a number of quite difficult legal judgments, particularly with respect to whether one transaction must be integrated with another, whether a purchaser may be counted as more than one purchaser, whether the purchaser qualification standards are satisfied, whether there has been a publication of advertising and what, if any, disclosure must be made. As a result, it is generally advisable for issuers to consult counsel before using this exemption in all but the simplest of transactions.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

3-6B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 6B.21

§ 6B.21 Integration

[1] Inclusion of Multiple Offers and Sales

The limited offering exemption applies to any offer or sale by an issuer (except an offer or sale to an issuer's pension or profit-sharing trust) of any security in a "transaction" that meets the criteria (discussed below) set forth in Corp. Code § 25102(f). The term "transaction" is not defined in the statute, and one of the major problems confronting an issuer concerns the identification of all offerings, past, present, and future, that will be considered a part of the transaction. The treatment of multiple offers and/or sales as a single transaction is commonly referred to as "integration."

The primary threat posed by integration is the possibility that the Commissioner may include in the transaction a past offer or sale which, either alone or in conjunction with the other offers and sales, violates the requirements of the exemption. For example, an issuer may decide that a transaction consists entirely of a single completed sale to the maximum number of purchasers permitted under the statute [see Corp. Code § 25102(f)(1)]. Once the notice of transaction is filed, the Commissioner may disagree with the issuer's definition of the limited offering transaction and include a past sale that causes the transaction to exceed the maximum number of purchasers and therefore destroys the exemption. It is also quite possible that a past issuee will not meet the purchaser suitability standards of the exemption [see Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Abandoned public offerings may present special problems. For instance, an issuer that has filed a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission and then withdrawn the filing without making any sales may be precluded from restructuring the transaction as a private offering for a period of six months, since the filing of the registration statement with the SEC may in and of itself constitute a general solicitation that would be integrated with the subsequent private offering. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

Although the Commissioner has acknowledged that the flexibility and variety present in securities transactions preclude a single definition of the term "transaction" or a single test for integration, the Commissioner has stated that "transaction" refers to one or more offers or sales of a security that have such a connection with each other as to be considered one transaction for statutory purposes [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 67-C (Oct. 20, 1981)].

[2] Exclusions From Definition

The Commissioner has provided the following list of categories that are not a "transaction" for the purposes of the exemption [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(b)]:

- Any offer or sale of a security made more than six months before the start of an offering under the exemption, or made more than six months after completion of an offering under the exemption, as long as during those six month periods there are no offers or sales of securities by or for the issuer that are of the same or a similar class as those offered or sold pursuant to the exemption, other than those offers or sales of securities under any purchase, savings, option, bonus, appreciation, profit-sharing, thrift, incentive, pension, or similar plan solely for employees, directors, trustees, or officers of the issuer or a subsidiary of the issuer.

- Any offer or sale of a security pursuant to a qualification under Corp. Code § 25110 (issuer transactions) or 25120 (recapitalizations and reorganizations) that became effective after the filing of the notice of transaction under the limited offering exemption, or in which the application for qualification discloses the transaction under the exemption, whether past, current or proposed.

There is no presumption that offers and sales that do not fall within one of the foregoing categories must be integrated for purposes of the exemption, and the integration determination as it relates to those other types of offers and sales must be made without reference to the Commissioner's nonexclusive list [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(b)]. However, the Commissioner has prepared another list containing the following factors that are relevant to this determination [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 67-C (Oct. 20, 1981), citing SEC Release 33-4552]:

- Whether the different offerings are part of a single plan of financing.

- Whether the offerings involve issuance of the same class of security.

- Whether the offerings are made at or about the same time.

- Whether the same type of consideration is to be received.

- Whether the offerings are made for the same general purpose.

According to the Commissioner, the two most important factors are whether the offerings are made for the same general purpose and whether they constitute a part of a single plan of financing. The presence of the other factors (differences in the securities, in the consideration, or in the times the offers are made), is generally an insufficient basis for concluding that distinct transactions exist. Finally, offers or sales are potential candidates for integration even if they were qualified or were conducted under another exemption [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 67-C (Oct. 20, 1981)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Sponsors of limited partnership programs may run afoul of the integration requirements if they have an ongoing program of offering and selling limited partnerships to a pool of investors even though the issuer of the limited partnership interests may technically be different. In these circumstances, the Commissioner may view the sponsor to be the issuer and integrate the various offerings for purposes of determining compliance with *Corp. Code § 25102(f). DIVISION I: BUSINESS AND NONPROFIT ORGANIZATIONS
CHAPTER 6B CALIFORNIA LIMITED OFFERING EXEMPTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

3-6B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 6B.22

AUTHOR: Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6B.22 Number of Purchasers

[1] Statutory Limit

Sales of securities may be made to a maximum of 35 purchasers, including out-of-state purchasers, under the limited offering exemption [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(1)]. Except for excluded purchasers, the 35 purchaser limitation is absolute. Unlike Rule 506 of SEC Regulation D, the issuer cannot rely on a reasonable belief that this standard has been satisfied.

For purposes of the exemption, the term "purchaser" means a person who acquires the beneficial ownership of the security, whether individually or in joint ownership in the transaction under the exemption. Therefore, each person who takes in joint ownership with another is counted as one [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(c)]. However, when a person is both an "affiliate of the issuer," or a purchaser excluded from the purchaser count by 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13 (discussed below), and a partnership, corporation, or other organization that was specifically formed for the purpose of purchasing the security offered in reliance on the exemption, each beneficial owner of the purchaser's securities will be counted unless the beneficial owner would be excluded from the count under any of the other statutory or regulatory provisions relating to the exemption [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(l)].

For the purposes of these rules, an "affiliate of the issuer" is a person controlling, controlled by, or under common control with, the issuer [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(i)]. The term "control" as used in this context means the power to direct or cause, directly or indirectly, the direction of the management, policies, or actions of another person [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.120.12(i)].

In addition, a husband and wife, together with any custodian or trustee acting for the account of their minor children, are counted as one, and a partnership, corporation, or other organization which was not specifically formed for the purpose of purchasing the security offered in reliance upon the exemption, is counted as one [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(4)]. Note that there is no limit in Corp. Code § 25102(f)(1) on the number of offerees [but see § 6B.25].

PRACTICE TIP:

The prohibition on the publication of any advertising may, however, indirectly impose a limit on the number of offerees. If the issuer complies with the safe-harbor provisions of 10 Cal. Code Reg. 260.102.12(j) described in § 6B.25, there is no limit placed on the number of offerees, other than the practical limitations arising out of compliance with the safe-harbor provisions. If the issuer does not comply with the safe-harbor provisions, it may be necessary to limit the number of offerees in order to insure that there has been no dissemination of the offering to the public. Many practitioners attempt to comply both with the safe-harbor provisions and non-public-offering concepts in order to protect their client from an inadvertent failure to satisfy the requirements of the safe harbor.

The Commissioner has not offered any guidance regarding what constitutes "dissemination to the public" if the offering does not satisfy the safe-harbor standards. The concept of non-public offering is, however, contained in a number of other exemptions. Interpretations of these exemptions may therefore offer some guidance. For purposes of non-public offerings under Corp. Code § 25102(a), offers may be made to no more than 35 persons. For purposes of non-public offerings under Corp. Code §§ 25102(e), (g), and 25104(a), offers may be made to no more than 25 persons. Additional guidance may be found in Dept. of Corps. Release No. 5-C and interpretations of former Corp. Code § 25102(f). Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

[2] Exclusions From Purchaser Count

Several types of persons and entities are excluded by rules of the Commissioner from this purchaser count, including the institutional investors designated in Corp. Code § 25102(i) [see Ch. 6D, California Qualified Purchaser Exemptions] or in Rule 260.102.10 [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(4); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(k)]. Officers, directors, or affiliates of the issuer, or managers (as appointed or elected by the members) if the issuer is a limited liability company, are also excluded from the count in most instances [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(4)].

The Commissioner of Corporations has also excluded the following from the purchaser count [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13]:

- The trustee of an issuer that is a trust, and the general partner of an issuer that is a partnership, who exercise managerial functions with respect to those entities, and any officer, director, or general partner of a general partner of an issuer that is a partnership.

- Any person who occupies a position with the issuer, or with a general partner of an issuer that is a partnership, with duties and authority substantially similar to those of an executive officer of a corporation.

- Any relative, spouse, or relative of the spouse of a purchaser who has the same principal residence as the purchaser. "Relative" is defined as a person related by blood, marriage, or adoption [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13(c)(3)].

- Any trust or estate in which a purchaser and any of the persons related to that purchaser [see the third category, above, and the fifth category, below] collectively have more than 50 percent of the beneficial interest, excluding contingent interests.

- Any corporation or other organization of which a purchaser and any of the persons related to that purchaser [see the third and fourth categories, above] collectively are beneficial owners of more than 50 percent of the equity securities (excluding director's qualifying shares) or equity interests.

- Any individual who is a "promoter" of the issuer. "Promoter" is defined as a person who, acting alone or in conjunction with one or more other persons, takes the initiative in founding and organizing the issuer's business or enterprise [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(f)].

- Any person who purchases $150,000 or more of the securities offered in the transaction, provided that each purchaser either meets or is reasonably believed by the issuer to meet either of the following:

    - That person, or that person's professional advisor, has the capacity to protect his or her own interests in connection with the transaction [see Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2)].

    - The investment (including mandatory assessments) does not exceed 10 percent of that person's net worth (or joint net worth with that person's spouse).

- A small business investment company licensed by the United States Small Business Administration under Section 301(c) or (d) of the Small Business Investment Company Act of 1958 [see 15 U.S.C. § 681(c)], a business development company as defined in Section 2(a)(48) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 [see 15 U.S.C. § 80a-2(a)(48)], and a private business development company as defined in Section 202(a)(22) of the Investment Advisors Act of 1940 [see 15 U.S.C. § 80b-2(a)(22)].

- A person who comes within one of the categories of an "accredited investor" in Rule 501(a) of Regulation D, adopted by the SEC under the Securities Act of 1933 [17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a); see § 6B.111, P1a(15)]. Since Rule 501 of SEC Regulation D defines "accredited investor" to include anyone who the issuer reasonably believes comes within one of the designated categories, it is possible that the Commissioner would permit the issuer to be able to rely on the reasonable belief standard in connection with determining whether a purchaser was an "accredited investor."

- Any entity in which all of the equity owners are officers, directors, or affiliates of the issuer [see Corp. Code § 25102(f)], or who are institutional investors [see Corp. Code § 25102(i); see also 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.10], or persons who are specified above (other than persons exempt under the $150,000 purchase provision).

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

3-6B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 6B.23

AUTHOR: Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6B.23 Qualification of Purchasers

[1] Suitability Requirements

Every purchaser under the limited offering exemption, except those purchasers specifically excluded from the purchaser count by Corp. Code § 25102(f)(4) or 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(d)(2); see § 6B.22[2]], must be a suitable purchaser by virtue of the fact that he or she either (1) has a preexisting personal or business relationship with the offeror or any of its partners, officers, directors or controlling persons, or managers (as appointed or elected by the members) if the offeror is a limited liability company; or (2) could reasonably be assumed to have the capacity to protect his or her own interests in connection with the transaction, by reason of business or financial experience or the business or financial experience of his or her professional advisors who are unaffiliated with and who are not compensated by the issuer or any affiliate or selling agent of the issuer, directly or indirectly [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(d)].

To aid the issuer in evaluating the qualifications of potential purchasers, the Commissioner has interpreted several of the terms used in the qualification standards [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12; Dept. of Corps. Release No. 67-C (Oct. 20, 1981)]. These interpretations are discussed in [2] and [3], below.

[2] Preexisting Relationship Test

The Commissioner of Corporations has interpreted the term "preexisting personal or business relationship" to include any relationship consisting of personal or business contacts of a nature and duration such as would enable a reasonably prudent purchaser to be aware of the character, business acumen, and general business and financial circumstances of the person with whom the relationship exists [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(d)(1)]. A relationship of employer-employee, or as a security holder of the issuer, or as a customer of a broker-dealer, investment advisor, or other person does not necessarily establish a preexisting personal or business relationship according to the Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(d)(1)].

Ultimately, the courts are responsible for determining whether the relationship between a purchaser and one or more partners, officers, directors, or controlling persons of the issuer is adequate to satisfy the preexisting relationship test [see Marsh & Volk, PRACTICE UNDER THE CALIFORNIA SECURITIES LAWS, § 4.02A[2][c][ii] (Matthew Bender); see also People v. Simon (1995) 9 Cal. 4th 493, 500-501, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 278, 886 P.2d 1271 ; People v. Graham (1985) 163 Cal. App. 3d 1159, 1169-1174, 210 Cal. Rptr. 318] . Relationships not falling within the terms of the Commissioner's interpretation do not presumptively fail to meet the statutory preexisting relationship requirement, and any determination made by the courts concerning the adequacy of a preexisting relationship must be made without referring to the Commissioner's interpretation [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(d)(1)]. Issuers relying on this test should carefully document the past relationship between the issuer and the purchaser [see § 6B.200 (form for purchaser representation)].

PRACTICE TIP:

It is not sufficient for the issuer to rely on the purchaser's representation that the purchaser has the requisite preexisting personal or business relationship or the requisite sophistication. The issuer must make this determination from the point of view of the issuer based on the facts. If the issuer is aware of additional facts relevant to a determination whether the requisite business relationship exists or the purchaser is sophisticated, it is recommended that these facts be documented as well. There are a number of Commissioner opinions that offer guidance on this issue, which are referenced in § 6B.01. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

[3] Sophisticated Investor Test

As stated above, purchasers of securities offered under the limited offering exemption who do not meet the preexisting relationship test must be reasonably assumed to be capable of protecting their own interests in connection with the exempted transaction because of their own business or financial experience or that of their unaffiliated professional advisors [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2)]. This "sophisticated investor" test focuses on the potential purchaser's ability to evaluate the risks present in an offering. It is up to the issuer to make a subjective determination as to the adequacy of the potential purchaser's investment sophistication [see Corp. Code § 25163 (burden of proving exemption); see also § 6B.200 (form for purchaser representation)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Even though the sophisticated investor test is separate from the preexisting relationship test, it may, as a practical matter, be necessary for the issuer or a finder engaged by the issuer to have a preexisting relationship with the potential investor in order for the offering not to be disseminated to the public. Under the safe-harbor provisions of 10 Cal. Code Reg. 260.102.12(j) described in § 6B.25, offering materials may only be distributed to potential investors that the issuer reasonably believes to have a preexisting relationship with the issuer or to be sophisticated. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

Professional advisors must not be directly or indirectly affiliated with or compensated by the issuer or any affiliate or selling agent of the issuer [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2)]. The Commissioner of Corporations has defined the term "professional advisor" to mean an attorney, a certified public accountant, or a person who, as a regular part of that person's business, is customarily relied on by others for investment recommendations or decisions, and who is customarily compensated for those services, either specifically or by way of compensation for related professional services [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(g)]. This definition includes, but is not limited to, persons licensed or registered as broker-dealers, agents, investment advisors, banks, savings and loan associations, and, with respect to those real estate securities described in Corp. Code § 25206, licensed real estate brokers [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(g)(1)].

A person is not the professional advisor of a purchaser unless designated as such by the purchaser [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(g)(2)]. An issuer selling to purchasers who rely on professional advisors should have some form of written evidence of this required designation [see § 6B.200 (form for purchaser representation)].

PRACTICE TIP:

A person acting as a professional adviser under Corp. Code § 25102(f) must generally be licensed as an investment adviser in California. The term "investment adviser" applies to any person who, for compensation, engages in the business of advising others with respect to investing in or purchasing or selling securities. A broker-dealer is excluded from this definition if the broker provides investment advice solely as an incident to the broker's business and the broker receives no special compensation for such services. It does not appear that a broker-dealer would fit within this exclusion, since under Corp. Code § 25102(f), the professional advisor must be a person who as a regular part of his or her business is customarily relied upon by others for investment advice and who is customarily compensated for such services. Attorneys and accountants are excluded from the definition only if investment advisory services are provided solely as an incidence to the practice of their profession. Otherwise they need to be licensed as investment advisers. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

The Commissioner has provided the following nonexclusive list of relationships involving issuers and professional advisors that will not meet the "unaffiliated" requirement of Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(h)]:

- A present or intended relationship of employment, either as an employee, employer, independent contractor, or principal.

- Any relationship within the definition of the term "affiliate" or as an officer or director of an affiliate [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(i) (definition of affiliate); see also § 6B.22[2]].

- The beneficial ownership by the professional advisor of securities of the issurer or its affiliates or selling agent, except that the ownership of one percent or less of these securities will not cause a professional advisor to fail the "unaffiliated" requirement.

§ 6B.24 Investment Representation

All purchasers of securities sold under the limited offering exemption must represent that they are purchasing for their own account (or a trust account if the purchaser is a trustee) and not with a view to or for sale in connection with any distribution of the security [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(3); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.15 (restriction inapplicable to private resales of securities to qualified institutional buyers under SEC Rule 144A)]. It is advisable to require that this representation be in writing [see § 6B.200[2] (form for purchaser representation)].

PRACTICE TIP:

It is customary for securities issued in transactions of this type to bear a restrictive legend stating that the securities are subject to restrictions on transferability and may not be transferred or sold except as permitted under the Securities Act of 1933 and applicable state securities laws in order to comply with federal securities laws or the blue sky laws of other states. As a general rule, this practice should be followed, even though it may not technically be required under California law, unless the securities by their very nature are not readily transferable (that is, interests in an employer stock purchase plan in which the interests are by their terms non-transferability other than on death). Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

Unlike Rule 502 of SEC Regulation D, Corp. Code § 25102(f) does not address resales and the impact resales may have on the exemption. Because Corp. Code § 25102(f) is silent on this issue, some practitioners have suggested that the statute does not impose any duty on the purchaser to prevent resales of securities. Although this position may be technically correct, the issuer still has the burden of proving that the investment representation criteria has been satisfied. It may be difficult to satisfy this burden of proof if one or more purchasers immediately resell securities purchased pursuant to this exemption.

PRACTICE TIP:

In certain circumstances, the issuer may be aware that the purchaser intends to immediately transfer the securities to an affiliate. This type of transfer may be permissible under Corp. Code § 25102(f) if the affiliate makes the investment representation and otherwise meets the requirements as to suitability and the other requirements of the exemption. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

3-6B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 6B.25

AUTHOR: Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6B.25 Prohibition on Advertising

The offer or sale of securities under the limited offering exemption must not be accomplished by the publication of any advertisement [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(4)].

PRACTICE TIP:

The rule does not specifically prohibit advertising to promote an issuer's products or services during the offering. Care must be taken, however, that the content and use of this type of advertising is not so closely related to the offering that it might be deemed to be part of the offering documents. Tombstone or other institutional advertising after completion of an offering may also violate the rule against dissemination of information to the public if it helps solicit investors in future offerings. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

The terms "publication" and "advertisement" are crucial to an understanding of this requirement and both are defined in the Corporate Securities Law.

PRACTICE TIP:

It may be possible to post information regarding the offering on the Internet without violating the rules against "dissemination to the public" if the site is password protected and available only to those who the issuer has determined to be qualified investors. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

Under Corp. Code § 25002, the term "advertisement" means any written or printed communication or any communication by means of recorded telephone messages or spoken on radio, television, or similar communications media, published in connection with the offer or sale of a security. Thus, oral communications that are not conveyed by recorded telephone messages or broadcast on one of the communications media are never considered advertisements. Of the communications listed in Corp. Code § 25002, only those that are published will be considered advertisements.

Because Corp. Code § 25014 defines the term "publish" to mean "publicly to issue or circulate by newspaper, mail, radio or television, or otherwise to disseminate to the public," the question becomes whether or not a Corp. Code §

25002 communication has been "disseminated to the public." Clearly, any communications that are not disseminated are not subject to the statutory prohibition on advertising. According to the Commissioner, private placement memoranda, offering circulars, and similar disclosure documents are not "disseminated to the public" for purposes of the limited offering exemption if the issuer limits circulation to persons: (1) reasonably believed to be interested in purchasing the securities; or (2) believed by the issuer to meet either the preexisting relationship test or the sophisticated investor test of Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(j); see § 6B.23]. Furthermore, with respect to this limited circulation, neither the issuer nor any person acting on its behalf may offer or sell the securities by any form of general solicitation or general advertising. General solicitation includes, but is not limited to, (1) any advertisement, article, notice, or other communication published in any newspaper, magazine, or similar media or broadcast over television or radio; and (2) any seminar or meeting whose attendees have been invited by any general solicitation or general advertising. There is no presumption that any dissemination of materials not meeting these criteria is a prohibited "publication of advertising," and the publication determination in that case must be made without reference to these criteria [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(j)].

PRACTICE TIP:

The issuer should exercise appropriate controls over materials that are used in the preparation of the offering material or the conduct of due diligence by any finders that may be used in the offering to be certain that materials that are not intended to be used in the offering are not disseminated to the public. The issuer will be responsible for the use of all materials disseminated to the public even if the dissemination was inadvertent. Some investors keep a log of information provided to potential investors in response to particular questions for review by outside counsel in order to make certain that the information provided was complete and accurate and does not need to be supplemented in order to make certain that there are no material omissions. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

§ 6B.26 Disclosure of Material Facts

There is no provision in the limited offering exemption that requires an issuer to disseminate information to purchasers or offerees. However, the Department of Corporations has stated, in Dept. of Corps. Release No. 67-C, that reliance on the exemption "will require a recognition of the necessity of furnishing investors with appropriate information." The courts, in interpreting Rule 260.102.2 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.2] as applied to former Corp. Code § 25102(f), held that "requisite data" must be made available to investors in sales made in reliance on the rule [People v. Park (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 550, 553-554, 151 Cal. Rptr. 146] .

PRACTICE TIP:

It may be possible not to use an offering document if all the purchasers have a preexisting relationship with the issuer and are actively involved in the project being financed. In this circumstance, the potential investors may already have access to all the information necessary to make a business decision. Offering materials generally must be prepared, however, if the issuer intends to rely on the sophisticated investor provisions of the rule in order for the investor to be able to make an informed decision whether to participate in the offering. Other possible means of providing investors information include data rooms containing copies of all material documents and investor conference calls. Particular care should be taken with investor conference calls to provide full and complete information. The fact that the information is provided orally will not limit the issuer's liability for supplying false or misleading information. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

In addition, it is unlawful for any person to offer or sell a security in California by means of any written or oral communication that includes an untrue statement of a material fact or fails to state a material fact necessary to make the statements not misleading in light of the circumstances under which they were made [Corp. Code § 25401; see Corp. Code § 25501 (liability for misrepresentation or nondisclosure)].

Corp. Code §§ 25401 and 25501 are modeled on Section 12(2) of the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77l(a)(2)], but also impose liability on a buyer as well as a seller who makes false or misleading statements. The question of what is a material fact has been defined by the federal courts as basically a fact that would influence the judgment or decision of the other party to the transaction. The standard of materiality under California law has been held to be the same as this federal standard [Insurance Underwriters Clearing House, Inc. v. Natomas Co. (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 1520, 1526, 228 Cal. Rptr. 449] . Although the issue of materiality generally is a mixed question of law and fact involving application of a legal standard to a particular set of facts, it may be resolved as a matter of law if reasonable minds cannot differ on the issue [Insurance Underwriters Clearing House, Inc. v. Natomas Co. (1986) 184 Cal. App. 3d 1520, 1526-1527, 228 Cal. Rptr. 449 ; see also Fecht v. Price Co. (9th Cir. 1995) 70 F.3d 1078, 1081-1082 , cert. denied, 517 U.S. 1136 (1996) ; Warshaw v. Xoma Corp. (9th Cir. 1996) 74 F.3d 955, 958-959 ; Rosenbaum v. Syntex Corp. (In re Syntex Corp. Secs. Litig.) (9th Cir. 1996) 95 F.3d 922, 934] . For further discussion, see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 14, Civil Liabilities (Matthew Bender).

PRACTICE TIP:

Disclosure materials used in offerings of this type frequently include confidential business information, including budgets and future projections. Before this type of information is made available to potential investors, it is customary for a confidentiality agreement to be executed by the potential investor. The issuer should also take particular care that assumptions used in preparing projections are carefully explained and that potential investors are informed of the various factors which could impact the projections in any material respect. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

3-6B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 6B.27

AUTHOR: Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6B.27 Notice of Transaction

[1] Requirements

[a] Electronic Filing; Hardship Exception

Any issuer using the limited offering exemption must file a notice of transaction if any of the offered securities are purchased [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a), (b)]. Unless the issuer files a notice of exemption with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), as discussed in [b], below, the notice of transaction must be filed electronically through the internet process made available by the Department of Corporations on [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a)(2)].

An issuer may file a paper notice in person or by mail in the form and containing the information specified in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(c),(d) [see § 6B.203 (form for notice)], if the issuer claims a hardship exception for electronic filing [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a)(2), (f)]. That exception is available if computer equipment including hardware and software is unavailable to the issuer without unreasonable burden or expense, and the issuer includes in the notice both of the following [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(f)(1)]:

- The reason(s) that the computer equipment including hardware and software is unavailable without unreasonable burden and expense; and

- The description(s) of the unreasonable burden or expense to the issuer to make the electronic filing.

Alternatively, the hardship exception is available if the issuer cannot obtain and provide information requested on the Department's electronic notice or through the Internet filing process, and the issuer includes in the notice both of the following [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(f)(2)]:

- The reason(s) that the issuer cannot obtain and provide the requested information on the electronic notice or through the Internet filing process without unreasonable burden or expense; and

- The description(s) of the unreasonable burden or expense to the issuer to make the electronic filing.

[b] Copy of SEC Form

If, in connection with the transaction, the issuer files a notice with the (SEC) under Section 4(6) of the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. 77d(6) (accredited investor exemption)] or Regulation D [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.503], the notice of transaction may be a copy of the federal form first filed pursuant to those provisions [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a)(1)]. The fee required by Corp. Code § 25608(c) must accompany the form. Each issuer other than a California corporation must also file a consent to service of process form [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.165 (consent must be pursuant to Form U-2; pursuant to Form D filed with Commissioner in connection with transaction; included in electronic submission of filing; or in form set out in regulation); see also Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities, §§ 6H.239, 6H.240], unless it already has a consent to service on file with the Commissioner. The filing should be accompanied by a cover letter indicating that the filing is pursuant to Corp. Code § 25102(f), and if a consent to service is not included, a statement that the issuer already has a consent to service on file with the Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a)(1); see Dept. of Corps. Rel. No. 120-C (March 24, 2009) (new filing requirements for Reg. D offerings)]. Note that the federal and state limited offering exemptions are not identical; certain offers and sales may be exempt from registration under the federal act pursuant to Rule 506 [17 C.F.R. § 230.506] and yet not meet the conditions for exemption pursuant to Corp. Code § 25102(f) [*see*Dept. of Corps. Release No. 103-C (Dec. 12, 1996)]. For discussion of federal exemptions, see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations .

[2] Time for Filing

A notice of transaction must be filed with the Commissioner no later than 15 calendar days after the first sale of a security in the transaction in California [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(b)]. The first sale in California occurs when the issuer has obtained a contractual commitment in California to purchase one or more of the securities the issuer intends to sell in connection with the transaction in California [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(d)]. No notice is required if none of the securities offered are purchased in California [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(b)].

If the notice is not filed within this 15-day period, the issuer must file it within 15 business days after discovery of the failure to file the notice or after demand by the Commissioner, whichever occurs first, and must pay a filing fee equal to the fee payable had the transaction been qualified under Corp. Code § 25110 [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(4); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(b)]. A late fee is not required for late filings.

[3] Failure to File

Failure to file the notice will not affect the availability of the limited offering exemption [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(4)]. On the other hand, because this failure would be a violation of a Rule of the Commissioner, it would also be considered a violation of the Corporate Securities Law and could result in the imposition of criminal sanctions [see Corp. Code § 25540]. Sanctions include the possibility of a civil penalty of up to $2,500 per violation [Corp. Code § 25535(a)].

PRACTICE TIP:

The Department of Corporations has taken the position that the filing of a notice of transaction will violate Corp. Code § 25166 regarding the making of false statements to the Commissioner if in fact the claimed exemption cannot be established. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

[4] Filing Fee

Each notice must be accompanied by the filing fee set forth in Corp. Code § 25608(c) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a)(1), (d)]. The maximum fee that may be levied on a filing pursuant to Corp. Code § 25102(f) will apply, unless the Commissioner sets the fees below the maximum level at the beginning of the fiscal year [Corp. Code § 25608.2; see Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set fee at amount below maximum)].

The exemption for limited offerings has been extended to certain changes in the rights, preferences, privileges or restriction of or on outstanding securities and any exchange of securities with existing security holders exclusively [10 Cal. Code. Reg. § 260.103(a)(1)]. To claim the exemption, the issuer must show that the transaction would have been exempt under Corp. Code § 25102(f) had it involved the issuance of a new security. The notice filing requirements described under § 6B.27 must also be followed. It is unclear whether the fee suspension provisions are applicable to a filing under this exemption.

§ 6B.29 Covered Security Exemption for Securities Issued Under Rule 506 of SEC Regulation D

An exemption is also available for any offer or sale of a security which is exempt from registration under Rule 506 of SEC Regulation D [Corp. Code § 25102.1; see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations] if all of the following requirements are satisfied [Corp. Code § 25102.1(d)]:

- A notice in the form of the completed Form D filed with the SEC must be filed with the Commissioner within 15 days after the first sale of securities in California (or the Commissioner may allow for a notice by electronic transmission of the information in Form D);

- A consent to service of process must be filed if the issuer is not a California corporation and has not previously filed a consent in California [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.165; see also Dept. of Corps. Rel. No. 120-C (March 24, 2009) (new filing requirements for Reg. D offerings)]; and

- A notice filing fee must be paid [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 103-C].

The transmittal letter should state that the filing is being made pursuant to Section 18(b)(4)(D) of the Securities Act of 1933 and Corp. Code § 25102.1(d) [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 103-C].

Unlike Corp. Code § 25102(f), this exemption is also available for nonissuer transactions and for reorganizations and recapitalizations.

3-6B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 6B.110

AUTHOR: Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6B.110 Preliminary Determinations

1. Determine which offers or sales, including past and contemplated offerings, will be considered part of the transaction for purposes of limited offering exemption.

NOTE:

The Commissioner has listed certain factors that are relevant in determining whether multiple offers or sales should be combined in a single transaction [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 67-C (Oct. 20, 1981), citing SEC Release 33-4552]. These factors are discussed in § 6B.21.

a. Exclude from consideration [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(b)]:

NOTE:

This list, which is set forth in the applicable regulations, is nonexclusive. The regulation provides that no presumption is created that other categories of offers and sales must be integrated for purposes of the limited offering exemption, and states that this determination must be made without reference to this list [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(b)]. Nevertheless, the list obviously is critical as a starting point for determining which offers or sales will be included for purposes of the exemption.

(1) Any offer or sale of a security made more than six months:
(a) Before the start of an offering under the exemption; or

(b) After completion of such an offering.

NOTE:
During these six-month periods there must be no offers or sales of securities by or for the issuer (or a related issuer if the offerings of that issuer might be integrated with those of the issuer) that are of the same or a similar class as those offered or sold pursuant to the exemption. This provision applies only to offers or sales of securities other than those under any purchase, savings, option, bonus, appreciation, profit-sharing, thrift, incentive, pension or similar plan solely for employees, directors, trustees or officers of the issuer or a subsidiary of the issuer. The limited offering exemption is not available for an offer or sale of a security to a pension or profit-sharing trust of the issuer [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(b)(1)].

(2) Any offer or sale of a security pursuant to a qualification under Corp. Code §§ 25110 (issuer transactions) or 25120 (recapitalizations and reorganizations):

(a) That became effective after filing of notice filed under exemption; or

(b) In which application for qualification discloses transaction under exemption, whether past, current, or proposed.

b. Determine whether past offerings included in transaction violated any conditions of the exemption, thereby making exemption unavailable.

2. Determine whether transaction involves any federal exemption that requires filing notice under Securities Exchange Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C § 77a et seq.] as of July 1, 1997.

NOTE:
A form filed pursuant to a federal exemption may satisfy the notice requirement of the limited offering exemption [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a)(1); see also § 6B.27]. For discussion of transactions effected pursuant to Rule 506 [17 C.F.R. § 230.506] and other federal exemptions, see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations .

3. Determine whether issuer will claim hardship exception from electronic filing of notice of transaction, based on either of following [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a)(2),(f)]:

NOTE:
The notice of transaction must be filed electronically unless the issuer claims a hardship exception [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a)(2),(f)]. If either of these criteria apply, the issuer must describe in its notice the basis of the hardship [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(c),(f); see § 6B.111[5][b]].

a. Computer equipment (including hardware and software) is unavailable to issuer without unreasonable burden or expense; or

b. Issuer cannot obtain and provide information requested on the Department's electronic notice or through the Internet filing process.

1. Restrict sales of security to maximum of 35 persons, including out-of-state persons but excluding "excluded purchasers" [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(1)].

NOTE:
There is no express limitation on the number of offerees. The number of offerees may be limited, however, by the prohibitions on advertising. [see §§ 6B.22[1], 6B.25].

a. In determining the purchaser count, exclude:
(1) Institutional investors [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(4)].

NOTE:
The types of "institutional investors" that are excluded in determining the number of purchasers are listed in Corp. Code § 25102(i) [see Ch. 6J, Issuance of Debt Securities*, § 6J.19*] and in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.10.

NOTE:
An "affiliate" is a person controlled by, controlling, or under common control with, the issuer. A person controls another person within the meaning of this definition through the possession, direct or indirect, of the power to direct or cause the direction of the management, policies, or actions of the other person [*10 Cal. (6) Any person who occupies a position with issuer with duties and authority substantially similar to those of an executive officer of a corporation [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13(b)].

(7) Any relative, spouse, or relative of spouse of purchaser who has same principal residence as purchaser [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13(c)(1)].

NOTE:

"Relative" means a person related by blood, marriage, or adoption [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13(c)(3)].

(8) Any trust or estate in which purchaser and any persons related to purchaser [see P (7), above; P (9), below] collectively have more than 50 percent of beneficial but not contingent interests [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13(c)(2)].

(9) Any corporation or other organization of which purchaser and related persons are beneficial owners of more than 50 percent of equity securities, other than director's qualifying shares, or equity interests [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13(c)(3)].

(10) Any promoter of the issuer [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13(d)].

NOTE:

A "promoter" is a person who, acting alone or in conjunction with one or more other persons, takes the initiative in founding and organizing the issuer's business or enterprise [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(f)].

(11) Any person who purchases $150,000 or more of the securities offered, provided each such purchaser meets (or is reasonably believed by the issuer to meet) any one of the following:

(a) Person, or his or her professional advisor, has capacity to protect the person's own interests in connection with transaction, as provided in Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13(e)(1)];

(b) Investment (including mandatory assessments) does not exceed 10 percent of the person's net worth or joint net worth with that person's spouse [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13(e)(2)].

(12) Small business investment company licensed by United States Small Business Administration under Section 301(c) or (d) of the Small Business Investment Act of 1958 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13(f)].

(h) Any entity in which all the equity owners are accredited investors [17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a)(8)].

(d) Persons who are officers, directors, or affiliates of issuer [see Corp. Code § 25102(f); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13(h)].

b. In determining purchaser count, count as one [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(4)]:

(1) A husband and wife, together with any custodian or trustee acting for the account of their minor children.

(2) Partnership, corporation, or other organization not specifically formed to purchase the security being offered.

NOTE:
If a person is both an affiliate of the issuer or a purchaser excluded by 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13 see PP [a-(16), above] and a partnership, corporation, or other organization that was specifically formed for the purpose of purchasing the security offered, each beneficial holder of its securities must be counted or excluded in accordance with Corp. Code § 25102(f) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(l)].

2. Restrict sales to purchasers who either [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2); see § 6B.200]:

NOTE:
The following qualification requirements do not apply to offerees.

a. Have a preexisting personal or business relationship with offeror or any of its partners, officers, directors, or controlling persons, or managers (as appointed or elected by the members) if the offeror is a limited liability company; or

NOTE:
A preexisting personal or business relationship includes any relationship consisting of personal or business contacts of a nature and duration that would enable a reasonably prudent purchaser to be aware of the character, business acumen, and general business and financial circumstances of the person with whom that relationship exists [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(d)(1); see § 6B.23 for a nonexclusive list of relationships that do not necessarily meet the "preexisting personal or business relationship" test].

b. Can be reasonably assumed to have capacity to protect their own interests because of:

(1) Their own financial and business experience; or

(2) Financial and business experience of their professional advisors who are unaffiliated with, and do not receive compensation from, issuer [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(g), (h); see also § 6B.201[2] (form for representation)].

3. Have each purchaser represent that purchase is for purchaser's own account and not for resale [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(3); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.15; see also § 6B.200[2] (form for representation)].

4. Do not publish any advertisement in connection with offer or sale [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(4)].

NOTE:

This does not preclude distribution of documents and other material that are not disseminated to the public [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(j)]. Note that any oral or written communication made in connection with the offer or sale must disclose all material facts that are necessary to prevent the communication from being misleading [see Corp. Code §§ 25401, 25501; see also § 6B.26].

5. If transaction results in sale, file notice of transaction with Commissioner of Corporations [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(4); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14].

NOTE:

Failure to file or a late filing will not affect the availability of the exemption [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(4)]. However, a failure to file is a violation of a Rule of the Commissioner and is therefore considered a violation of the Corporate Securities Law. Sanctions include the possibility of a civil penalty of up to $2,500 per violation [Corp. Code § 25535(a); see Corp. Code § 25540].

The fee required by Corp. Code § 25608(c) must accompany the form. The maximum fee that may be levied on a filing pursuant to Corp. Code § 25102(f) will apply, unless the Commissioner sets the fees below the maximum level at the beginning of the fiscal year. [Corp. Code § 25608.2; see Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set fee at amount below maximum)].

a. If transaction does not come within federal exemption discussed in the NOTE, below [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a)(1)], file notice electronically [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a)(2); see also § 6B.203 (example of notice)], no later than 15 calendar days after first sale of a security in transaction in California [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(b)].

NOTE:

If, in connection with the transaction, the issuer files a notice with the SEC under Section 4(6) of the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. 77d(6) (accredited investor exemption)] or Regulation D [17 C.F.R. § 230.503], the notice of transaction may be a copy of the federal form first filed pursuant to those provisions [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a)(1); see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations]. The fee required by Corp. Code § 25608(c) must accompany the form. Each issuer other than a California corporation must also file a consent to service of process form [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.165 (consent must be pursuant to Form U-2; pursuant to Form D filed with Commissioner in connection with transaction; included in electronic submission of filing; or in form set out in regulation); Dept. of Corps. Rel. No. 120-C (March 24, 2009) (new filing requirements for Reg. D offerings); see also Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities*, §§ 6H.239, 6H.240*], unless it already has a consent to service on file with the Commissioner. The filing should be accompanied by a cover letter indicating that the filing is pursuant to Corp. Code § 25102(f) [see § 6B.204[2] (form)], and, if a consent to service is not included, a statement that the issuer already has a consent to service on file with the Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a)(1); see § 6B.27].

The first sale in California occurs when the issuer has obtained a contractual commitment in California to purchase one or more of the securities the issuer intends to sell in connection with the transaction [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(d)].

b. If issuer claims hardship exception for electronic filing [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a)(2),(f); see § 6B.110[3], above]:

(1) File paper notice [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(c); see § 6B.203 (form for notice)] in person or by mail, no later than 15 calendar days after first sale of security in transaction in California [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(b)].

NOTE:
The issuer must describe in its notice the basis of the hardship [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(c),(f)].

(2) Accompany filing with transmittal letter [see § 6B.204[2] (form for transmittal letter)].

c. If notice is not filed within 15 days, file either:

(1) Before Commissioner issues demand; or

NOTE:
There is no late fee for this type of filing.

(2) Within 15 business days after discovery of the failure to file the notice or after Commissioner issues demand, whichever occurs first, and pay fee equal to fee that would have been payable had transaction been qualified under Corp. Code § 25110 [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(4)].

§ 6B.200 Limited Offering Investment Letter: Purchaser's Representations Concerning Suitability and Investment Intent

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form may be used to obtain the investment representation that each purchaser is required to make under the limited offering exemption [see Corp. Code § 25102(f)(3)], and to document a purchaser's representations concerning his or her suitability to purchase securities in a limited offering transaction [see Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2)]. Both of these functions are discussed below.

There is no requirement that these representations be in writing. However, as discussed below, some form of documentation is advisable to indicate that the issuer has complied with the eligibility requirements of the limited offering exemption.

[b] Qualification of Purchasers

Issuers under the limited offering exemption must determine that all purchasers meet one of two tests of suitability [see Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2)]. This requirement does not apply to those purchasers specifically excluded from the purchaser count by Corp. Code § 25102(f)(4) or 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(d)(2); see § 6B.22[2]].

Under one test, purchasers must have a preexisting personal or business relationship with the offeror or any of its partners, officers, directors or controlling persons, or managers (as appointed or elected by the members) if the offeror is a limited liability company [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2)]. The Commissioner has interpreted the term "preexisting personal or business relationship" to include any relationship consisting of personal or business contacts of a nature and duration that would enable a reasonably prudent purchaser to be aware of the character, business acumen, and general business and financial circumstances of the person with whom the relationship exists [10 Cal. Code Reg. §

260.102.12(d)(1); see discussion under § 6B.23[2], for a nonexclusive list of relationships that do not necessarily meet this standard]. Note that this is basically an objective standard that is concerned with what a "reasonably prudent purchaser" would have been aware of, rather than what the particular purchaser actually was aware of. Because the adequacy of the relationship may be challenged, issuers should use this form to document any purchaser representations that lead to the conclusion that the standard was satisfied.

This form may also be used to record similar representations made in connection with the alternative "sophisticated investor" test [see Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2)]. This test is discussed in § 6B.201 and in § 6B.23[3]. One of the methods of compliance with this test involves the designation of a professional advisor [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(g)(2)]. Purchasers may use this form to make that designation.

[c] Investment Representation

All purchasers of securities sold under the limited offering exemption must represent that they are purchasing the securities for their own account (or a trust account if the purchaser is a trustee) and not with a view to or for sale in connection with any distribution of the security [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(3); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.15 (restriction inapplicable to private resales of securities to qualifying institutional buyers)]. Although there is no requirement that this representation be in writing, completion of this form would indicate that the issuer did obtain this representation. This documentation will be particularly useful if a subsequent violation of the representation leads to questions regarding the existence or sufficiency of the representation.

PART IV. FORMS

3-6B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 6B.201

AUTHOR: Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6B.201 Representation of Professional Advisor in Connection With Limited Offering Exemption

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form may be used by an issuer under the limited offering exemption to demonstrate the basis for its conclusion that a particular professional advisor is legally capable of protecting the interests of a client-purchaser in connection with a limited offering transaction. If a purchaser's advisor meets the standards discussed below, the purchaser suitability condition of the exemption (also discussed below) will be met.

This form is not required by the statute or the applicable Rules of the Commissioner, nor will this representation necessarily satisfy the issuer's burden of proving that the purchaser and/or advisor meets the requirements of the exemption [see Corp. Code § 25163 (burden of proving exemption)]. However, if questions subsequently arise concerning an advisor's qualifications, this form will suggest that the issuer's determination was reasonable in that it was based on express representations of the advisor that were specifically tailored to the requirements of the statute.

[b] Qualification of Purchasers in General

Purchasers under the limited offering exemption must meet one of two alternative tests of suitability [see Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2)] that are designed to restrict the availability of an exempted offering to purchasers who are capable of weighing the risks involved. One of these tests requires that all purchasers must be reasonably assumed to have the capacity to protect their own interests in connection with the limited offering transaction, either because of their business or financial experience or the business or financial experience of their professional advisors who meet certain requirements [see Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2)]. This standard is commonly referred to as the "sophisticated investor" test [see § 6B.23[3]].

[c] Professional Advisor

Due to the complicated nature of many investment transactions, potential purchasers often will lack the required investment sophistication. This is particularly likely to occur when an issuer seeks to sell securities to family members or personal friends. As a result, professional advisors may be employed. These advisors must be expressly designated as such by the purchaser [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(g)(2); see § 6B.200], and must not be directly or indirectly affiliated with or compensated by the issuer or any affiliate or selling agent of the issuer [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(2); see § 6B.23[3] (nonexclusive list of relationships that fail "unaffiliated" requirement)].

The term "professional advisor" has been defined by the Commissioner of Corporations to mean an attorney, a certified public accountant, or a person who, as a regular part of that person's business, is customarily relied upon by others for investment recommendations or decisions [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(g)]. This advisor also must be customarily compensated for these services, either specifically or by way of compensation for related professional services [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(g)]. Persons and entities meeting these requirements include licensed or registered broker-dealers, agents, investment advisors, banks, savings and loan associations, and, with respect to those real estate securities described in Corp. Code § 25206, licensed real estate brokers [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(g)(1)]. Generally professional advisers will need to be licensed as investment advisers in California.

§ 6B.202 Representation of Finder Used in Connection With Limited Offering

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form may be used by an issuer using a finder in connection with a limited offering to ensure that the finder will not engage in activities that would result in offering materials being "disseminated to the public" in violation of the prohibitions on advertising in Corp. Code § 25102(f)(4) or the safe harbor provisions of 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12(j).

This form is not required by the statute or the applicable rules of the Commissioner. Nor will the use of this form necessarily satisfy the issuer's burden of proving that the prohibition on advertising criteria have been satisfied [see Corp. Code § 25163.] This form should, however, assist the issuer in complying with these criteria.

§ 6B.203 Notice of Limited Offering Transaction [Corp. Code § 25102(f); 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.102.14(c), 260.103(a)]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice of transaction conducted under the limited offering exemption [see Corp. Code § 25102(f)]. Unless a copy of a federal notice of transaction is filed, as discussed below, this form must be filed with the Commissioner of Corporations in accordance with the requirements and instructions of the Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a)(2); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(c)-(f)], which are reproduced below along with the form.

As of July 22, 2005, the limited offering exemption notice pursuant to Corp. Code § 25102(f) is required to be filed electronically unless a hardship exception is claimed [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a)(2); see [e], below]. To file electronically, see the Department of Corporations Web site at www.corp.ca.gov/loen/loen.htm.

If, in connection with the transaction, the issuer is filing a notice with the Securities and Exchange Commission pursuant to Section 4(6) of the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77d(6) (accredited investor exemption)] or Regulation D of the Code of Federal Regulations [17 C.F.R. § 230.503], the notice of transaction may be a copy of the form first filed pursuant to those provisions [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a)(1)]. For discussion of the applicability of and procedures for compliance with these federal regulations, see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations . The fee required by Corp. Code § 25608(c) [see [d], below] must accompany the filing. Each issuer other than a California corporation must also file a consent to service of process form [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.165 (consent must be pursuant to Form U-2; pursuant to Form D filed with Commissioner in connection with transaction; included in electronic submission of filing; or in form set out in regulation); Dept. of Corps. Rel. No. 120-C (March 24, 2009) (new filing requirements for Reg. D offerings); see also Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities, §§ 6H.239, 6H.240], unless it already has a consent to service on file with the Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a)(1)]. The filing should be accompanied by a cover letter indicating that the filing is pursuant to Corp. Code § 25102(f), and, if a consent to service is not included, a statement that the issuer already has a consent to service on file with the Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a)(1)].

Note that the federal and state limited offering exemptions are not identical. Some offers and sales may be exempt from registration under the federal act pursuant to Rule 506 [17 C.F.R. § 230.506] and yet not meet the conditions for exemption pursuant to Corp. Code § 25102(f) [*see*Dept. of Corps. Release No. 103-C (Dec. 12, 1996)]. For further discussion of transactions effected pursuant to Rule 506, see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations, § 6A.28.

[b] Time for Filing Notice

The notice of transaction must be filed with the Commissioner no later than 15 calendar days after the first sale of a security in the transaction in California [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(b)]. The first sale in California occurs when the issuer has obtained a contractual commitment in California to purchase one or more of the securities the issuer intends to sell in connection with the transaction [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(d)]. No notice is required if none of the securities offered are purchased in California [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(b)].

[c] Filing Fee

The fee required by Corp. Code § 25608(c) must accompany the form [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a)(1), (d)]. The maximum fee that may be levied on a filing pursuant to Corp. Code § 25102(f) will apply, unless the Commissioner sets the fees below the maximum level at the beginning of the fiscal year [Corp. Code § 25608.2; see Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set fee at amount below maximum)].

[d] Failure to File or Late Filing

An issuer who fails to file this notice must, within 15 business days after discovery of the failure to file the notice or after demand by the Commissioner of Corporations, whichever occurs first, file the notice and pay to the Commissioner a fee equal to the fee payable had the transaction been qualified under Corp. Code § 25110 [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(4)]. A late filing or a failure to file the required notice of transaction will not affect the availability of the limited offering exemption [Corp. Code § 25102(f)(4)]. However, a failure to file amounts to a violation of a Commissioner's Rule and therefore is a violation of the Corporate Securities Law. Sanctions include the possibility of a civil penalty of up to $2,500 per violation [Corp. Code §§ 25535(a), 25540; Dept. of Corps. Release No. 67-C (Oct. 20, 1981)].

[e] Electronic Filing

An issuer must file a notice of transaction electronically through the Internet process made available by the Department of Corporations, except as provided in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(f) for hardship exceptions [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(e); see [f], below]. In addition to the information required by 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(c) (form for notice), an issuer that files a notice electronically must provide a Federal Employer Identification Number for the issuer and, if applicable, a Federal Employer Identification Number for a representative filing on behalf of the issuer. The instructions and explanations in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(d) are applicable to the same information requested through the electronic filing. An issuer (other than a California corporation) filing a notice electronically must file electronically an irrevocable consent appointing the Commissioner to be the issuer's attorney to receive service of process under Corp. Code § 25165. An issuer filing the notice electronically must print a copy of the notice and manually sign and date the notice pursuant to the instructions in Item 8 of 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(d). The notice must be executed before or at the time the electronic filing is made and must be retained by the issuer for a period of five years from the date of filing. Upon request, the issuer must provide to the Commissioner the manually signed notice. An issuer filing the notice electronically must pay the filing fee electronically by credit card. A notice is not deemed filed until the filing fee is submitted [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(e)].

[f] Hardship Exception from Electronic Filing

An issuer may file a paper notice in person or by mail, in the form and containing the information specified in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(c),(d), only if the issuer claims a hardship exception for electronic filing [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a)(2), (f)]. That exception is available if computer equipment, including hardware and software, is unavailable to the issuer without unreasonable burden or expense, and the issuer includes in the notice both of the following [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(f)(1)]:

- The reason(s) that the computer equipment including hardware and software is unavailable without unreasonable burden and expense; and

- The description(s) of the unreasonable burden or expense to the issuer to make the electronic filing.

Alternatively, the exception if available if the issuer cannot obtain and provide information requested on the Department's electronic notice or through the Internet filing process, and the issuer includes in the notice both of the following [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(f)(2)]:

- The reason(s) that the issuer cannot obtain and provide the requested information on the electronic notice or through the Internet filing process without unreasonable burden or expense; and

- The description(s) of the unreasonable burden or expense to the issuer to make the electronic filing.

§ 6B.204 Transmittal Letter to Accompany Notice of Limited Offering Transaction

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a cover letter or transmittal letter to accompany a notice of transaction under the California limited offering exemption [Corp. Code § 25102(f)]. Since notices of transaction must be filed electronically unless the issuer qualifies for the hardship exception [see §§ 6B.27[1][a], 6B.203[1]], this notice should be used only when the issuer is filing a paper notice by mail under the hardship exception from electronic filing [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a)(2),(f)]. Unless a hardship exception is claimed, the notice must be filed electronically on [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a)(2)]. For the form for the Notice of Transaction itself, see § 6B.203. The notice may be filed in any office of the Department of Corporations [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 13-G (Revised June 10, 2004)]. The notice must be accompanied by the proper filing fee, if applicable; for discussion of the filing fee requirements, see § 6B.203[1][d].

If the issuer is not a California corporation, it must also file a consent to service of process [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.165; see also Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities, §§ 6H.239, 6H.240 (forms)], unless it already has a consent to service of process on file with the Commissioner. If a consent to service is not included with the Notice of Transaction, the cover letter should include a statement that the issuer already has a consent to service on file with the Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14(a)(1)]. This form contains optional language for both of these situations.

To document that this form was mailed and received, it is recommended that it be sent via certified mail, return receipt requested.

This chapter covers the offer and sale of shares pursuant to the small offering exemption from qualification under the Corporate Securities Law [Corp. Code § 25102(h)]. The Legal Background discusses the statute and applicable rules of the Commissioner of Corporations, and the Transaction Guide lists the steps used in complying with the exemption. This chapter also contains the notice that must be filed in connection with the exemption, and forms related to ensuring that the conditions of the exemption are satisfied.

Because the small offering exemption only applies to issuer transactions, Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities , should be consulted for its discussion of the need to qualify later transactions involving securities originally issued under an exemption. For coverage of the California limited offering exemptions [Corp. Code § 25102(f), (d)], see Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions . For a comparison of the small offering exemption with the California limited offering exemptions and other possible exemptions, and a discussion covering selection of the most appropriate exemption, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues .

§ 6C.20 Nature of Small Offering Exemption

[1] In General

In general, a proposed sale of voting common stock must be qualified with the Commissioner of Corporations unless the security or transaction is not subject to qualification [see Corp. Code § 25110; see also Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities]. However, certain transactions involving 35 or fewer proposed shareholders may be exempt from the qualification requirement under the small offering exemption [see Corp. Code § 25102(h)] or the limited offering exemptions [see Corp. Code § 25102(f), (d); see also Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions].

PRACTICE TIP:

Corp. Code § 25102(h) typically is used in connection with the formation of a close corporation, a wholly owned subsidiary of a corporation that has not issued shares pursuant to the small offering exemption, or other corporations that will have no more than 35 shareholders. Corp. Code § 25102(h) may also be useful in connection with the issuance of additional voting common stock to existing security holders of these types of corporations. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

[2] Contrasted With Limited Offering Exemption

In most cases the criteria for the small offering exemption are stricter than their limited offering counterparts. For example, a corporation utilizing the small offering exemption must issue only one class of voting common stock [Corp. Code § 25102(h); see § 6C.22], while the limited offering exemption potentially applies to almost any offer or sale of any security [Corp. Code § 25102(f)]. Furthermore, the small offering exemption requires that after the proposed sale and issuance the corporation have a total of no more than 35 shareholders [Corp. Code § 25102(h); see § 6C.23], whereas the limited offering exemption permits more than 35 shareholders of the corporation as a whole, provided that the transaction in question results in sales to no more than 35 persons, plus any purchasers that may be excluded from the 35 purchaser count. [Corp. Code § 25102(f)].

PRACTICE TIP:

The prohibition on the publication of any advertising may, however, indirectly impose a limit on the number of offerees in order to insure that there has been no dissemination of information regarding the offering to the public. The Commissioner has not offered any guidance regarding what constitutes "dissemination to the public." The concept of non-public offering, however, is contained in a number of other exemptions. Interpretations of these exemptions may therefore offer some guidance. For purposes of non-public offerings under Corp. Code § 25102(a), offers may be made to no more than 35 persons. For purposes of non-public offerings under Corp. Code §§ 25102(e), (g) and 25104(e), offers may be made to no more than 25 persons. Additional guidance may be found in Dept. of Corps. Release No. 5-C and interpretations of former Corp. Code § 25102(f) prior to its amendment in November 1981. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

The small offering exemption, however, is relatively easy to use, with very little documentation involved. There is no direct limit on the number of offerees, nor are there are investor suitability requirements such as those contained in Corp. Code § 25102(f) or Corp. Code § 25102(n). In contrast, sound practice dictates that an attorney document several aspects of a limited offering transaction in order to demonstrate good-faith compliance with that exemption's numerous requirements [see Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions]. For further comparison between this exemption and other exemptions that might be available, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues .

[3] Effect of Shareholder Agreement

If the corporation using the small offering exemption is a close corporation [see Corp. Code § 116; see also Ch. 2, Formation of Corporations], there is a chance that a shareholders' agreement will have the effect of creating more than one class of shares, a result that would make the small offering exemption unavailable by violating the single-class requirement referred to above [see Corp. Code § 25102(h); see also Ch. 8A, Shareholders' Meetings, Voting, and Agreements]. Such a result will occur if an existing or planned shareholders' agreement provides (or will provide) that any of the rights, preferences, privileges, and restrictions enumerated in Corp. Code § 25103(e) apply or will apply to some but not all of the shares [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.4(b); see Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities]. For example, a shareholders' agreement that establishes profit-sharing rights that are disproportionate to shareholdings will make the small offering exemption unavailable, whether or not the articles of incorporation provide for a single class of shares.

To alert the commissioner to possible violations of the single-class requirement, the notice of issuance of shares under the small offering exemption [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.8; see also § 6C.200] requires the signing officer to declare that to the best knowledge of the issuer, no shareholders' agreement, voting agreement, irrevocable proxy, or other arrangement that would cause the statements in the notice to be incorrect exists or is contemplated [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.8]. The notice would be "incorrect" if its statements concerning the satisfaction of the single-class requirement were contradicted by a shareholders' agreement that had the effect of creating more than one class.

§ 6C.21 Who May Be an Issuer

A corporation incorporated in any state may be an issuer under the small offering exemption [Corp. Code § 25102(h)]. Consequently, any issuer first must be incorporated. Any corporation to be incorporated in California must have had its articles of incorporation filed and endorsed by the California Secretary of State prior to the issuance of stock pursuant to the exemption [Corp. Code §§ 110, 209].

§ 6C.22 What Type of Stock May Be Issued

[1] One Class of Stock

Assuming other requirements are met, any offer or sale of voting common stock by a corporation will qualify for the small offering exemption if, immediately after the sale and issuance, there is only one class of stock outstanding [Corp. Code § 25102(h)]. Obviously, creation of a second class of common stock or a class of preferred shares would disqualify the offering.

[2] Debt Securities

Debt securities are not considered a class of stock in this context even though they may be determined to be "equity" securities for the purpose of income taxes or for the purpose of priorities in bankruptcy or otherwise among creditors of the corporation [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.4(a)]. However, the issuance of convertible debt securities or options, unless otherwise exempted, would require a permit since neither is "voting common stock," which is the only kind of security for which the small offering exemption is available. This does not mean that by issuing convertible debt securities or options, duly qualified or exempt from qualification, a corporation will forfeit its exemption. Since neither an option nor a debt security can be considered a "class of stock," their issuance would not violate the single class rule as long as the underlying security purchasable on exercise or conversion is common voting stock of the same class as that issued under the exemption. Nevertheless, it is likely that in determining whether the proposed number of shareholders of the corporation will be 35 or fewer, the holders of options and convertible securities will be counted because they hold rights with regard to common stock.

[3] Voting Trust Certificates

Voting trust certificates should not constitute a second class of shares because the trustee, not the corporation, usually is the issuer [see Corp. Code § 25010; see also Ch. 8A, Shareholders' Meetings, Voting, and Agreements]. However, a voting trust in which fewer than all of the shareholders are trustees is likely to violate the requirement that all shares have full and equal voting rights [see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 55-C (May 19, 1978); see also 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§

260.140.1, 260.140.2 (voting rights)]. Agreements among shareholders or with the corporation regarding restrictions on shares are not considered "securities" [see Corp. Code § 25019]. This statement must be qualified if the share transfer restrictions are not equally applicable to all shares. In that case, the effect would be the creation of more than one class of shares [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.4].

§ 6C.23 Who May Be Shareholders

The number of owners of stock issued under a small offering exemption may not exceed 35 [see Corp. Code § 25102(h)]. However, a husband and wife count as one shareholder, whether shares are in the name of either or both [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(5)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Corp. Code § 25102(h) has frequently been referred to as the "close corporation exemption." All of the outstanding shares of a close corporation must be held of record by no more than 35 persons and the articles of incorporation of a close corporation must state that it is a close corporation [Corp. Code § 158]. A corporation may have 35 or fewer shareholders, however, and yet still not be a statutory close corporation, if its articles of incorporation do not state that the corporation is intended to be a close corporation. Such a corporation may still be able to use this exemption, despite the fact that its articles of incorporation do not contain the close corporation statement.

It is also possible that a close corporation may not be able to use the exemption because it has too many shareholders. In a close corporation a partnership, corporation, or other business association owning shares is counted as one person, unless the partnership, corporation or business association was formed for the purpose of purchasing the shares. This differs from the approach taken in the small offering exemption. It is therefore possible to issue voting common stock in connection with the formation of a close corporation that does not qualify for the small offering exemption because of the difference in the methodology of counting the number of shareholders. This typically occurs when voting common stock is issued to a partnership or other business association or to a corporation that has issued stock pursuant to the small offering exemption. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

The limitation refers to shares owned "beneficially" [Corp. Code § 25102(h)]. Since the number of legal and beneficial owners cannot exceed the beneficial maximum, this description defines the upper limits of the class of owners and disallows individual legal owners from holding securities for large numbers of beneficial owners. In the context of the small offering exemption, shares held by a partnership or a joint venture are considered to be owned beneficially by each of the members of the group. Shares held by a trustee are considered to be owned beneficially by the trust beneficiaries, whether their interests are present, future, or contingent. However, a future or contingent beneficiary is not a beneficial owner in this context if he or she is an ancestor, descendent, or spouse of a present beneficiary or custodian or trustee for his or her account [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.5].

Securities held by a corporation that has issued stock under the small offering exemption are considered to be held by the shareholders of that corporation [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(5)]. Thus, if securities will be issued to this type of corporation under the small offering exemption, the shareholders of that corporation must be counted against the 35-purchaser limitation [see Corp. Code § 25102(h)].

§ 6C.24 What Must Be Paid for Issued Stock

The consideration to be received for the stock to be issued may be the following [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(2)]:

- Any legal consideration, if there will be only one owner of the stock.
- Cash or cancellation of indebtedness for money borrowed or both, upon the initial organization of the issuer, if all stock is issued for the same price per share.
- Only cash, if the sale (after initial organization) is approved in writing by each of the existing shareholders and the purchaser or purchasers are existing shareholders.
- Only assets (including cash assets) of an existing business transferred to the issuer upon its initial organization.

A more stringent restriction exists in the area of transfer of assets of an existing enterprise to the corporation in return for shares. The existing business must have been in operation for a period of at least one full year immediately preceding the new stock issue; and the persons who will receive stock must have been owners all during that year (though others also may have owned stock in the existing enterprise but dropped out) and receive their shares in proportion to their ownership just before the stock issue (though ownership interests fluctuated previously) [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(2)(A)]. The business could have been operated for any longer time, and it need never have shown a profit. However, it is clear that no shares may be issued at any time for promotional services rendered [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(2)(A), (3); see § 6C.25].

§ 6C.25 What Promotional Activities Are Permissible

With one exception, no promotional consideration may be given, paid, or incurred in connection with the issuance of securities [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(3)]. "Promotional consideration" is defined to mean any consideration paid directly or indirectly to a person, who, acting alone or in conjunction with one or more other persons, takes the initiative in founding and organizing the business or enterprise of an issuer, for services rendered in connection with that founding or organizing [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(3)]. The exception to the rule against payment for promotional services applies in the case of the sole-shareholder corporation in which any legal considerations may be paid for shares, whether before or after the initial organization [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(2)(D)].

In connection with other preissuance activities by promoters, the Commissioner has relaxed the prohibition against the receipt of certain forms of consideration more than 10 days before the corporation files its notice of issuance of securities. Although stock still may not be issued in consideration of promotional activities (except in the case of a one-person corporation), stock may be issued in cancellation of loans and advances to the corporation, upon the initial organization of the issuer, provided the stock is issued for the same price per share [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(2)(B)]. The rules in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.11 establish a safe harbor for loans or advances that meet all of the following conditions:

- The loans or advances are made solely for the purpose of paying the expense incurred in connection with the organization of the issuer and the initial sale of its shares. Advances or loans include advances on open book accounts and loans evidenced by promissory notes or other evidences of indebtedness.

- The loans or advances are made by and owed to the "organizers"; that is, the persons instrumental in forming the issuer and the officers and directors of the issuer. In no event may the number of persons making the advances or loans exceed the number of issuees permissible under Corp. Code § 25102(h).

- The loans or advances are made before the issuer has commenced business, other than activities in connection with the organization and preparation for regular business or issued shares at the time the advances or loans are made.

- Any issuance of shares in cancellation of advances or loans must be consummated within 90 days after the filing of the articles of incorporation of the issuer [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.11(d)].

There is no presumption that any advances or loans that do not comply with all of the requirements of 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.11 constitute the "receipt of consideration for the securities of the issuer" [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.11(e)].

§ 6C.26 What Marketing Activities Are Permissible

An offer and sale of stock under the small offering exemption may not be made through a published advertisement [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(1)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Private placement memoranda and other offering material will be advertising for purposes of this rule. The rule does not specifically prohibit advertising to promote an issuer's products or services. Care must be taken, however, so that the content and use of this type of advertising is not so closely related to the offering that it might be deemed to be advertising prohibited by Corp. Code § 25103(h). Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

An "advertisement" is defined to mean any written or printed communication or any communication by means of recorded telephone messages or spoken on radio, television, or similar communications media, published in connection with the offer or sale of a security [Corp. Code § 25002]. To "publish" advertising matter means to issue or circulate the advertisement publicly by newspaper, mail, radio or television, or otherwise disseminate it to the public [Corp. Code § 25014]. Thus, any advertising type of contact should be restricted to private communications or "closed circuit" types of arrangements to personally selected audiences.

In addition, no selling expenses may be given, paid, or incurred by the corporation [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(1)]. However, "selling expenses" for these purposes do not include all those defined in the Commissioner's Rules [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.20]. For the exemption, selling expenses involve only "commissions, discounts or other compensation paid to any person as remuneration for selling the securities" [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.7]. As a result, no broker-dealers or other finders may be used.

§ 6C.27 Opinion of Counsel That Exemption Is Available

The Department of Corporations itself has no provision for policing the small offering exemption in a manner equivalent to services it performs while reviewing applications for permits, or performed by the Securities and Exchange Commission in reviewing registrations qualifying locally by coordination and notification [Corp. Code §§ 25102(h), 25111-25113; Securities Act of 1933, § 6 (15 U.S.C. § 77f); Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 12 (15 U.S.C. § 78l)]. However, each notice of issuance of securities under the small offering exemption must contain a signed opinion of an attorney that the exemption is available [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(4)]. The attorney must be on the active roster of the Bar, not on inactive status [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(4)].

The attorney need not be the attorney retained by the corporation for its business or even organizational affairs. The attorney's only task is to examine the facts stated in the notice and state that the facts, if true, qualify the transaction for the exemption [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.8; see also § 6C.200 (form for notice)]. However, the attorney does have a responsibility to make inquiries of his or her clients, and the extent of the investigation will depend on the facts peculiar to each transaction. As a member of the Bar and an officer of the court, the attorney is obliged to make sure that the exemption is not abused.

Failure to file the notice and the attorney's opinion required by Corp. Code § 25102(h) will not affect the availability of the small offering exemption if the issuer, within 15 business days after discovery of the failure to file the notice or after demand by the Commissioner, whichever occurs first, files the notice and pays a fee equal to that payable had the transaction been qualified under Corp. Code § 25110 [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(4); see Corp. Code § 25608 (schedule of fees)]. On the other hand, because this failure would be a violation of the Commissioner's rules, it would also be considered a violation of the Corporate Securities Law [Corp. Code § 25540]. Sanctions include the possibility of a civil penalty of up to $2,500 per violation [Corp. Code § 25535(a)].

A former requirement that the stock certificate contain a legend stating that the stock could not be transferred without the Commissioner's consent to the transfer [see former *Corp. PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Procedural Guide to Forming a Corporation Entitled to Small Offering Exemption

3-6C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 6C.110

AUTHOR: Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6C.110 Preliminary Determinations

1. Determine whether corporation is subject to federal regulation or may utilize federal exemption.
   NOTE: Since the amount of the offering is not a consideration in this exemption as it is in the federal exemptions (which do not consider the number of shareholders), a close corporation utilizing the California small offering exemption may still be subject to federal regulation [see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues] unless it is able to take advantage of the major federal exemptions as well [see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations].

PRACTICE TIP

There is no counterpart to Corp. Code § 25102(h) in the federal securities laws. The offering does, however, contain elements of a private placement. There may be no dissemination of advertising. The purchaser is required to make an investment representation. It is therefore likely that the issuer will be able to rely on the Section 4(2) exemption. It is customary for the issuer of securities issued without registration under the federal securities laws in reliance on Section 4(2) to place a restrictive legend on the securities stating that the securities are subject to restrictions on transferability and may not be transferred or sold except as permitted under the Securities Act of 1933 and applicable state securities laws. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

2. Determine whether corporation may utilize another California exemption.
   NOTE: If the corporation's stock is exempt by virtue of any other provision of the law [see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues] then the small offering exemption need not be utilized. Before complying with the steps listed below, see the discussion in Ch. 6 concerning selection of the most appropriate California exemption.

§ 6C.111 Conducting the Transaction

1. Make no commitments to pay, incur, or deliver either promotional consideration or selling expenses in connection with the issuance of corporation's stock [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(1), (3); see § 6C.25].

a. Prohibited selling expenses include only commissions, discounts or other compensation paid to any person as remuneration for selling securities [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.7].

b. "Promotional consideration" is any consideration paid directly or indirectly to a person who, acting alone or in conjunction with one or more other persons, takes initiative in founding and organizing business or enterprise of an issuer, for services rendered in connection with founding or organizing the issuer [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(3)].

2. If shareholders plan to enter into any shareholders' agreement or voting agreement or grant irrevocable proxies to arrange for continuing corporate control, check terms for possible unequal treatment of shareholders resulting in creation of two classes of shares [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.4; see also § 6C.22].

3. Do not publish any advertisement in connection with either offer or the eventual sale of stock [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(1); see § 6C.26].

4. Follow normal procedure for forming a corporation.

a. If desired, reserve corporate name [Corp. Code § 201(c)].

b. If going business is to be incorporated, draft agreement to transfer assets of business to corporation and comply with bulk transfer laws if applicable [see Ch. 2A, Incorporating A Going Business].
NOTE: Shares of stock must be issued in the same proportions as the business was owned immediately prior to issuance [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(2)].

c. Draft articles of incorporation and have them properly executed and acknowledged [Corp. Code §§ 200(a), 202, 204; see Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation].
NOTE: Articles must provide for share structure limited to one class of stock, which must be voting common stock [Corp. Code § 25102(h)].

d. File articles with Secretary of State, accompanied by prepayment of franchise tax and filing fees [see Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation (fee schedules and supplementary filing requirements)].

5. Keeping following limitations in mind, prepare minutes of first directors' meeting and resolutions regarding issuance of shares, identity of offerees, consideration to be received for stock, and notification of exemption [see Ch. 5, Directors Meetings, Actions, and Resolutions , and Ch. 6I, Issuance of Equity Securities]:

a. Only one class of voting common stock may be authorized and issued [Corp. Code § 25102(h)].

b. There may be no more than 35 beneficial owners of shares [Corp. Code § 25102(h); see § 6C.23].

NOTE

NOTE: For purposes of determining the beneficial ownership of stock, husband and wife count as one owner whether or not they hold the stock jointly [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(5)].

c. Only one of following categories of consideration may be received in exchange for corporation's stock [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(2); see § 6C.24]:

(1) Assets (including cash) of existing business enterprise transferred to issuer on its initial organization, if:
(a) All persons to receive stock were owners during period of not less than one year just before proposed issuance.

(b) Operation of enterprise continued for period of at least one year just before proposed issuance.

(c) Ownership of enterprise just before proposed issuance of shares was in same proportions as shares of stock to be issued.

(2) Cash, cancellation of indebtedness for money borrowed, or both, on initial organization of issuer, provided all stock is issued for same price per share.

(3) Cash, provided sale is approved in writing by all existing shareholders and any purchaser is an existing shareholder.

(4) Any legal consideration if, after proposed issuance, there will be only one owner of stock.

6. Issue stock [see Chapter 6I, Issuance of Equity Securities].

PRACTICE TIP

PRACTICE TIP: Corp. Code § 25102(h) does not address resales and the impact resales may have on the exemption. Because Corp. Code § 25102(h) is silent on this issue, some practitioners have suggested that the statute does not impose any duty on the issuer to prevent resales of securities. While this may be technically correct, the issuer still has the burden of proving that the investment representation criteria have been satisfied. It may be difficult to satisfy this burden of proof if one or more purchasers immediately resell securities purchased pursuant to this exemption. This is another reason why use of a legend noting restrictions on transferability, such as that customarily used in offerings made in reliance on Section 4(2) of the federal securities law, is recommended. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

7. Ensure that each purchaser represents that purchase is made only for purchaser's own account (or trust account if purchaser is trustee) and not with view to or for sale in connection with any distribution of stock [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(5); see § 6C.28; see also § 6C.203 (form for representation)].

NOTE: A former requirement that the stock certificate contain a legend stating that the Commissioner's consent was required to any transfer of the stock [see former Corp. Code § 25102(h)(1)] was repealed in 1996 [see Stats. 1996, ch. 41]. Any stock previously issued with that legend will not be subject to the transfer restriction legend requirement, and an issuer may remove any legends placed on previously issued certificates under this exemption without any action by the Commissioner [Corp. Code § 25102(h)].

8. Prepare notification of issuance of stock [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.8(a); see also § 6C.200 (form of notice)] and ensure that [see Corp. Code § 25102(h)(4)]:

a. Officer of corporation signs notification.

b. Notification is filed or mailed for filing no later than 10 business days after corporation receives consideration for stock [see P 11, below].

NOTE: Certain loans or advances do not constitute receipt of consideration for the securities of the issuer and, accordingly, do not trigger the 10-day filing deadline for the notice of issuance. Loans or advances by organizers solely to meet organizational expenses before beginning business must be canceled by issuance of shares within 90 days after the articles are filed [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.11(d)].

Failure to file the notice within the 10-day period will not affect the availability of the small offering exemption if the issuer, within 15 business days after discovery of the failure to file the notice or after demand by the Commissioner, whichever occurs first, files the notice and pays a fee equal to that payable if the transaction had been qualified pursuant to Corp. Code § 25110 [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(4)]. However, this alternative should be avoided because of the amount of the qualification fees [see Corp. Code § 25608]. The fee for filing the notice of issuance of stock is based on the value of the securities proposed to be sold in the transaction, subject to a maximum of $300 [Corp. Code § 25608(c); see P 11, below]. In contrast, the fee for qualification by coordination [see Corp. Code § 25111], by notification [see Corp. Code § 25112], or by permit [see Corp. Code § 25113] is $200, plus one fifth of 1 percent of the aggregate value of the securities sought to be sold in California, up to a maximum aggregate fee of $2,500 [Corp. Code § 25608(e), (f); see Corp. Code § 25608(g)(1) (valuation of securities); see also Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set fee at amount below maximum fee set forth in Corp. Code § 25608); Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities].

9. Prepare proof of mailing [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.9; see also § 6C.202 (form)].

NOTE: The mailing of the notification of issuance may be proved under Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a, which sets forth different requirements for declarations by attorneys and non-attorneys [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.9; see § 6C.202].

10. If corporation is incorporated in state other than California, prepare irrevocable consent to service of process [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(4); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.8(b); see § 6C.201 (form)].

NOTE: The consent to service appoints the Commissioner of Corporations as the issuer's attorney to receive service in any civil action arising under the Corporate Securities Law of 1968. It must accompany the notification but need not be filed if the issuer has previously filed such a consent in connection with a previous qualification or exemption [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(4)].

11. File notification [see P 8, above] and consent to service, if required [see P 10, above], and pay filing fee [Corp. Code § 25608(c)].

NOTE: The notice may be filed in any office of the Department of Corporations [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 13-G (Revised; June 10, 2004)]. The filing fee that will be imposed on a notice of exemption from qualification will vary from $25 to $300, depending on the value of the securities proposed to be sold in the transaction for which the notice is filed [see Corp. Code § 25608(c); see also Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set fee at amount below maximum fee set forth in Corp. Code § 25608)].

§ 6C.200 Notice of Issuance of Securities Pursuant to Small Offering Exemption [Corp. Code § 25102(h)] or Exemption From Qualification of Recapitalizations and Reorganizations [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.103]--Official Form [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.8]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice of issuance that must be filed in connection with (1) the issuance of stock under the California small offering exemption [Corp. Code § 25102(h)], and (2) the regulatory exemption from qualification of recapitalizations and reorganizations [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.103; see also Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities]. This notice must be submitted on 81/2 -by-11-inch paper [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.8(a)]. It can be obtained from any office of the Department of Corporations, and is available online at the Department's website, where it can be located at http://www.corp.ca.gov/forms/srdlist.htm .

The text of this form is printed in full in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.8(a) and is reproduced verbatim here.

[b] Filing Requirements

This form must be filed or mailed for filing with the Department of Corporations not later than 10 business days after the corporation has received the consideration for the issuance of its shares [Corp. Code § 25102(h)]. A consent to service of process [see § 6C.201[2]] must be filed along with this form if the issuer is not a California corporation and does not have a previous consent on file [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(4); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.8(b)]. The notice must be filed in any office of the Department of Corporations [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 13-G (Revised; June 10, 2004)].

The only acknowledgment of filing is a receipt given for the filing fee [see Corp. Code § 25608(c); see also § 6C.202 (proof of mailing)]. Otherwise there is no follow-up by the Commissioner, and no certificate or permit is issued. The Department will only reply if it finds that the notice as filed has been found formally defective or incomplete, or if the filing fee is insufficient.

[c] Filing Fee

The filing fee for the notice of issuance of securities under a small offering exemption is determined on the basis of the value of the securities proposed to be sold in the transaction [Corp. Code § 25608(c)], as follows [Corp. Code § 25608(c); see Corp. Code § 25608(g)(1) (valuation of securities); but see Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set fee at amount below maximum)]:

- If the value of the securities is $25,000 or less, the fee is $25.
- If the value of the securities is $25,001 to $100,000, the fee is $35.
- If the value of the securities is $100,001 to $500,000, the fee is $50.
- If the value of the securities is $500,001 to $1 million, the fee is $150.
- If the value of the securities exceeds $1 million, the fee is $300.

The filing fee for filings made under 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.103 is $25.

[d] Failure to File

The failure to file this notice within the 10-day period discussed in [b], above, will not affect the availability of the small offering exemption if the issuer, within 15 days after discovery of the failure to file the notice or after demand by the Commissioner, whichever occurs first, files the notice and pays a fee equal to that payable had the transaction been qualified pursuant to Corp. Code § 25110 [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(4)]. However, because of the large difference in fees [compare Corp. Code § 25608(c) with Corp. Code § 25608(e), (f); see also § 6C.111, P 8], it is important to ensure the timely filing of this notice.

PRACTICE TIP:

The Department of Corporations has taken the position that the filing of a notice of transaction will violate Corp. Code § 25166 regarding the making of false statements to the Commissioner if in fact the claimed exemption cannot be established. Therefore, the issuer may not be protected from liability under the California Corporate Securities Law on the basis that the issuer reasonably believes that the criteria set forth in Corp. Code § 25102(h) have been satisfied. As a result, it is important for the issuer to document compliance with the statute, including, in particular, documentation of the number of the issuer's shareholders after consummation of the transaction if any of the shareholders are partnerships, corporations or other business associations, and documentation of the type of consideration received.

The attorney delivering the opinion should obtain factual representations from the issuer, purchasers, and existing shareholders, if necessary, to back up the attorney's legal opinion. The attorney should also review the representations made by purchasers, any offering materials used in the transaction, corporate minutes and stock records of the issuer and the stock certificates to be issued in the offering. The attorney should also discuss the offering with officers and employees of the issuer involved in the transaction. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

§ 6C.201 Consent to Service of Process--Exempt Offering by Non-California Corporation [Corp. Code § 25102(h); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.8(b)]--Official Form

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a corporate consent to service of process by a non-California corporation. In order to take advantage of the small offering exemption, a non-California corporation must submit along with its notice of issuance of shares [see § 6C.200] a consent to service of process appointing the Commissioner of Corporations as its agent to receive service of process [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(4); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.8(b)]. If the issuer has previously filed a consent in connection with a prior qualification or exemption under the Corporate Securities Law is not required to file another consent [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(4)].

The consent to service must be in the form reproduced here. The form is specified in the California Code of Regulations [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.8(b)]. The official Department of Corporations online version of the notice of issuance [see § 6C.200[2]] includes the consent to service of process as reproduced below. The consent is also available online as a separate form. The notice and consent may be found on the Department of Corporations website, located at http://www.corp.ca.gov/forms/srdlist.htm . Since the notice will not be required in all cases, it is reproduced as a separate form in this publication.

§ 6C.202 Proof of Mailing--Notice of Issuance of Securities Pursuant to Small Offering Exemption

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a proof of mailing to be used in conjunction with the notice of issuance of securities pursuant to the small offering exemption [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.8; see also § 6C.200]. For additional discussion, and examples of various types of proof of service, see CALIFORNIA FORMS OF PLEADING AND PRACTICE, Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers, §§ 518.70, 518.72 (Matthew Bender).

[b] Proof of Mailing

[i] General Requirements

The mailing of the notice of issuance may be proved in accordance with Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.9], which permits proof to be made by an attorney, a person other than an attorney, or a clerk of a court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a]. However, the proof of mailing for the notice of issuance need not be filed as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a. Instead, it should be retained in duplicate in the records of the attorney and the issuer [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.9; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a; Dept. of Corps. Release No. 7-C (Feb. 11, 1969)].

[ii] By Non-Attorney

The proof of mailing by a person other than an attorney must be in the form of an affidavit [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a(1)], which is a written declaration made under oath [Code Civ. Proc. § 2003]. Any matter required to be proved by affidavit may be made under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]. Most affidavits in California take the form of a declaration under penalty of perjury [see CALIFORNIA FORMS OF PLEADING AND PRACTICE, Ch. 15, Affidavits, Certificates, and Declarations (Matthew Bender)]. Consequently, this is the method used in this form.

The proof of mailing must set forth all of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a(1)]:

- A statement that a Notice of Issuance of Securities pursuant to Corp. Code § 25012(h) or 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.013 has been mailed.
- The name and residence or business address of the person making the mailing.
- A statement that he or she is a resident of or employed in the county where the mailing occurs.
- A statement that he or she is over the age of 18 years and is not a party to the transaction.
- The date and place of deposit in the mail.
- The name and address of the Department of Corporations.
- A statement that envelope was sealed and deposited in the mail with the postage fully prepaid.

[iii] By Non-Attorney When Placed for Collection Pursuant to Ordinary Business Practices

A person other than an attorney should use an alternative proof of mailing when he or she, pursuant to ordinary business practices, has merely placed the notice for collection to be deposited in the mail later that same day. The affidavit must set forth all of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a(3)]:

- A statement that a Notice of Issuance of Securities pursuant to Corp. Code § 25012(h) or 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.013 has been mailed.
- The name and residence or business address of the person making the mailing.
- A statement that he or she is a resident of or employed in the county where the mailing occurs.
- A statement that he or she is over the age of 18 years and is not a party to the transaction.
- A statement that he or she is readily familiar with the business's practice for collection and processing of correspondence for mailing with the United States Postal Service.
- A statement that the correspondence would be deposited with the United States Postal Service that same day in the ordinary course of business.
- The name and address of the Department of Corporations.
- The date and place of business where the correspondence was placed for deposit in the United States Postal Service.
- A statement that the envelope was sealed and placed for collection and mailing on that date following ordinary business practices.

Proof by mailing made in this manner will be presumed invalid if the postal cancellation date or postage meter date on the envelope is more than one day after the date of deposit for mailing contained in the affidavit [Code Civ. Proc. 1013a(3)].

[iv] By Attorney

The proof of mailing by an attorney is set forth as a certificate, It need not be made by affidavit or otherwise sworn under penalty of perjury [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a(2)]. It must contain all of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 1013a(2)]:

- A statement that a Notice of Issuance of Securities pursuant to Corp. Code § 25012(h) or 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.013 has been mailed.
- The name and business address of the person making the mailing.
- A statement that the person making service is an active member of the State Bar of California and is not a party to the transaction.
- The date and place of deposit in the mail.
- The name and address of the Department of Corporations.
- A statement that the envelope was sealed and deposited in the mail with the postage fully prepaid.

§ 6C.203 Small Offering Investment Letter: Purchaser's Representations Concerning Investment Intent

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form may be used to obtain the investment representation that each purchaser is required to make under the small offering exemption [see Corp. Code § 25102(h)(5); see also [b], below]. Although there is no requirement that this representation be in writing, some form of documentation is advisable to indicate that the issuer has complied with the requirements of the exemption.

[b] Investment Representation

All purchasers of securities sold under the exemption must represent that they are purchasing the securities for their own account (or a trust account if the purchaser is a trustee) and not with a view to or for sale in connection with any distribution of the security [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(5)]. Although there is no requirement that this representation be in writing, completion of this form would indicate that the issuer did obtain this representation. This documentation will be particularly useful if a subsequent violation of the representation leads to questions regarding the existence or sufficiency of the representation.

In connection with my purchase of _____ [describe securities, e.g., 100 common shares of your Company], I represent to you that I am purchasing these securities for investment for my own account [or specify trust account if purchaser is a trustee] and not with a view to or for sale in connection with any distribution of the security. I understand that these securities have not been qualified under the California Corporate Securities Law or registered under the federal Securities Act of 1933, and further understand that any resale or other transfer of these securities may require qualification and/or registration under the above-listed statutes.

This chapter covers the issuance of securities under the "qualified purchaser exemptions" from qualification under the Corporate Securities Law of 1968. These exemptions are contained in Corp. Code § 25102(i), (n), and 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.14.

The Legal Background discusses the use of these exemptions and the requirements of the statutes and the applicable rules of the Commissioner of Corporations. The Transaction Guide lists the steps necessary to use the exemptions. This chapter also contains forms for the notices that must be filed in connection with one of the exemptions, and forms related to ensuring that the conditions of that exemption are satisfied.

Qualification requirements, including the circumstances under which qualification will be required for later transactions involving securities originally issued pursuant to an exemption, are discussed in Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities . For a discussion of the limited offering exemptions from qualification [see Corp. Code §§ 25102(f), 25102.1(d)], see Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions . For a discussion of the small offering exemption from qualification [see Corp. Code § 25102(h)], see Ch. 6C, California Small Offering Exemption . CHAPTER 6D CALIFORNIA QUALIFIED PURCHASER EXEMPTIONS

3-6D California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 6D.20

AUTHOR: Susan E. Firtch Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6D.20 Nature of Qualified Purchaser Exemptions

[1] In General

The "qualified purchaser exemptions" to the qualification requirements for issuer transactions under the Corporate Securities Law are set forth in Corp. Code § 25102(i), (n), and 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.14. These sections create exemptions that apply to any offer or sale of securities to purchasers meeting enumerated qualifications [Corp. Code § 25102(i), (n); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.14]. There are two such exemptions:

- The "institutional investor exemption" under Corp. Code § 25102(i) [see [2], below].
- The "limited offering qualified purchaser exemption" under Corp. Code § 25102(n) [see [3], below].

[2] Institutional Investor Exemption

The institutional investor exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(i) affords an exemption from registration for any offer or sale to a bank, savings and loan association, trust company, insurance company, registered investment company, pension or profit sharing trust (other than those of the issuer, a self-employed individual retirement plan, or individual retirement account), to other institutional investors, governmental agencies or instrumentalities that the Commissioner may designate by rule, or to a corporation with outstanding securities registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 or wholly owned subsidiary of such a corporation if, after the offer and sale, that corporation will own directly or indirectly all of the outstanding capital stock of the company; provided the purchaser represents that it is purchasing for investment and not for distribution [Corp. Code § 25102(i)]. No filings or filing fees are required, and all the issuer need do is comply with the criteria stated in Corp. Code § 25102(i) [see §§ 6D.22, 6D.100].

An exemption is also available for any offer or sale of a security to the federal government, any agency or instrumentality of the Federal Government, any state, any city, city and county, or county, or any agency or instrumentality or a state, city, city and county, or county, or any state university or state college and any retirement system for the benefit of their employees [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.14].

[3] Limited Offering Qualified Purchaser Exemption

The qualified purchaser exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(n) applies to offers and sales involving specified types of issuers and purchasers meeting the qualifications of that section [see Corp. Code § 25102(n)(1)-(3)]. With certain limited exceptions, the issuer must provide a written offering disclosure statement pursuant to Corp. Code § 25102(n)(4) to each natural person. The issuer may publish a general notice of proposed offering pursuant to Corp. Code § 25102(n)(5), provided the general notice complies with the requirements of the statute. Each purchaser must also represent that it is purchasing for investment and not with a view to distribution. Under Corp. Code § 25102(n)(7), the issuer must file a first notice of transaction and pay a $600 filing fee, and also file a second notice of transaction for which no fee is required [see Corp. Code § 25608(x); see also Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set fee at amount below maximum fee set forth in Corp. Code § 25608); §§ 6D.23, 6D.201-203].

[4] Comparison of These Exemptions

The qualified purchaser exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(n) exempts a broader scope of purchasers than the institutional investor exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(i) or the public agency exemption under 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.14. The type of purchasers qualifying for exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(i)--basically, institutional investors--are just one type of purchaser qualifying for exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(n). Other purchasers qualifying under Corp. Code § 25102(n) include any person designated in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13, specified pension or profit sharing trusts and retirement plans or accounts in which the investment decisions are made solely by persons who are qualified purchasers, and natural person meeting enumerated financial requirements [Corp. Code § 25102(n)].

Although the definition of qualified purchaser under Corp. Code § 25102(n) is broader than under Corp. Code § 25102(i) or 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.14, Corp. Code § 25102(n) contains restrictions on issuers and the offering process that Corp. Code § 25102(i) does not [see Corp. Code § 25102(n)(1), (3)-(7)]. For example, Corp. Code § 25102(n)(4)(A) requires the issuer to provide each natural person with a disclosure statement (with certain limited exceptions) [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(4)]. In addition, Corp. Code § 25102(n)(7) requires the filing of notices of transaction and the payment of a filing fee, while Corp. Code § 25102(i) and 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.14 do not [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(7)].

[5] Selecting the Most Appropriate Exemption

Issuers who intend offer or sell securities only to institutional investors qualified under Corp. Code § 25102(i) or 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.14 may elect to offer and sell under that exemption, and avoid having to comply with the additional requirements of Corp. Code § 25102(n). On the other hand, those issuers who wish to offer and sell to a broader scope of qualified purchasers (which can include those qualified under Corp. Code § 25102(i) or 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13 or 260.105.14) must use Corp. Code § 25102(n) to obtain a qualified purchaser exemption.

For a comparison of the qualified purchaser exemptions and other types of available exemptions, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues ; see also Marsh & Volk, PRACTICE UNDER THE CALIFORNIA SECURITIES LAWS, Ch. 4, General Exemptions from Qualification, §§ 4.02B (qualified purchaser limited offering exemption) and 4.04 (institutional investor exemption) (Matthew Bender).

CHAPTER 6D CALIFORNIA QUALIFIED PURCHASER EXEMPTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

3-6D California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 6D.21

AUTHOR: Susan E. Firtch Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6D.21 Integration

The institutional investor exemption and the qualified purchaser exemption, as well as the exemption for public agencies, apply to the offer or sale of securities in a "transaction." The term "transaction" is not defined in the statute. The issuer therefore is confronted with the problem of identifying all past, present, and future offerings that will be considered a part of the same transaction. The treatment of multiple offers and/or sales as a single transaction is commonly referred to as "integration."

The primary threat posed by integration is the possibility that the Commissioner may include a past offer or sale which, either alone or in conjunction with other offers and sales, violates the requirements of the exemption. The Commissioner has not given any guidance on the integration issue in the context of the qualified purchaser exemptions. It is likely, however, that the approach adopted by the Commissioner in offerings under the Corp. Code § 25102(f) exemption would be adopted here [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.12; Dept. of Corps. Release No. 67-C (Oct. 20, 1981); for additional guidance, see also SEC Release No. 33-4552 (Nov. 6, 1962)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Sponsors of limited partnership programs may run afoul of the integration requirements if they have an ongoing program of offering and selling limited partnerships to a pool of investors, even though the issuer of the limited partnership interests may technically be different. In these circumstances, the Commissioner may view the sponsor to be the issuer and integrate the various offerings for purposes of determining compliance with the qualified purchaser exemptions. Particular care should be taken that offerings made in reliance on Corp. Code § 25102(f), (i), or (n) are not integrated because of the different technical requirements of each of these exemptions which may not in each case be satisfied. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

- Trust companies [Corp. Code § 25102(i)(1)].
- Insurance companies [Corp. Code § 25102(i)(1)].
- Investment companies registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 [Corp. Code § 25102(i)(1)].
- Pension or profit-sharing trusts (other than a pension or profit-sharing trust of the issuer, a self employed individual retirement plan, or individual retirement account) [Corp. Code § 25102(i)(1)].
- Other institutional investors, governmental agencies, or instrumentalities that the Commissioner may designate by rule, whether the purchaser is acting for itself or as a trustee [Corp. Code § 25102(i)(1); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.10].
- Any corporation with outstanding securities registered under section 12 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [15 U.S.C. § 78l], or any wholly owned subsidiary of any corporation with outstanding securities registered under Section 12 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, that after the offer and sale will own directly or indirectly 100 percent of the outstanding capital stock of the issuer [Corp. Code § 25102(i)(2)].

The purchaser must represent that it is purchasing for its own account (or for the trust account) for investment and not with a view to or for sale in connection with any distribution of the security [Corp. Code § 25102(i)]. This requirement applies to every purchaser for which exemption is sought under this section, and is not limited to corporate purchasers [Corp. Code § 25102(i); see also Marsh & Volk, PRACTICE UNDER THE CALIFORNIA SECURITIES LAWS, Ch. 4, General Exemptions from Qualification, § 4.04 (Matthew Bender)]. The Commissioner has stated that the representation that the purchaser is purchasing for its own account (or the trust account) must be true at the time when the securities are issued [Commissioner's Opinion No. 71/11C (Feb. 24, 1971)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Offerings to certain of the institutional investors listed in Corp. Code § 25102(i) will be exempt from the federal securities laws under either Section 3(a)(2) or (3) of the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(2), (3)]. For those offerings not included within these exemptions, it may be possible to rely on the Section 4(2) [15 U.S.C. § 77d(a)(2)] exemption, since the investors will be required to make an investment representation. It is customary for the issuer of securities issued without registration under the federal securities laws in reliance on Section 4(2) to place a restrictive legend on the securities stating that the securities are subject to restrictions on transferability and may not be transferred or sold except as permitted under the Securities Act of 1933 and applicable state securities laws. It is also recommended that the issuer obtain the investment representation in writing in order to document compliance with the exemption. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

The Commissioner of Corporations has found that a "tier" subsidiary (purchasing for its own account) that is wholly owned by a wholly owned subsidiary or by a higher tier subsidiary of a corporation with outstanding securities registered under Section 12 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 is an exempt investor under Corp. Code § 25102(i) [Commissioner's Opinion No. 69/62 (June 30, 1969)]. However, Corp. Code § 25102(i) exempts corporations with outstanding securities registered under Section 12 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 only if they will own 100 percent of the new stock. Accordingly the Commissioner determined that the exemption was not available to a corporation with outstanding securities registered under section 12 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 which would not own 100 percent of the newly issued stock [Commissioner's Policy Letter No. PL/65 (July 1, 1970)].

The Commissioner of Corporations has found that the exemption under Corp. Code 25102(i) was also unavailable to the following:

- The trustee of the issuer's retirement plan. The trustee may not utilize the exemption because it excludes retirement plans [Commissioner's Opinion No. 70/96 (Aug. 7, 1970)].

- Institutional investors who are trustees of self-employed individual retirement plans or individual retirement accounts [Commissioner's Opinion No. 80/4C (May 1, 1980)]. The exclusion from the institutional investor exemption for a self-employed retirement plan or individual retirement account would be meaningless unless it applied to all plans, regardless of whether their trustees happen to be institutional investors under Corp. Code § 25102(i) [Commissioner's Opinion No. 80/4C (May 1, 1980)].

- A Keogh retirement plan, even if set up as a trust [Commissioner's Policy Letter No. PL/113 (Oct. 30, 1970)].

[2] Purchasers Exempted by Regulation

The applicable regulation, 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.10, broadens the scope of eligible institutional investors by designating the following institutional investors, governmental agencies and instrumentalities by class as persons to whom an offer or sale may be made pursuant to the exemption of Corp. Code § 25102(i):

- Any organization described in I.R.C. § 501(c)(3), as amended December 29, 1981, which has total assets (including endowment, annuity and life income funds) of not less than $5 million according to its most recent audited financial statement [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.10(a)].

- Any corporation that has a net worth on a consolidated basis according to its most recent audited financial statements of not less than $14 million; provided, however, that if the securities being acquired are common stock of a corporation or are exchangeable for or convertible into common stock of a corporation, one of the following requirements must be met:

    - The holders of less than 25 percent of the outstanding shares of that common stock (including shares of common stock issuable on exchange or conversion of securities presently exchangeable for or convertible into common stock) have addresses in California as of the most recent record date, or as of three months prior to the offer or sale, whichever is most recent; or

    - The securities (plus any other similar securities held by the purchaser) will not represent more than five per cent of the total number of outstanding shares of common stock of the issuer assuming the exchange or conversion of all securities exchangeable for or convertible into common stock (unless all the shares of common stock are owned by corporations meeting the $14 million net worth test specified above; provided, however, that the foregoing limitations with respect to transactions in common shares will not apply to any transaction (1) in which the securities are offered pro rata to the holders of the outstanding common shares; or (2) that is approved by the holders of 75 percent or more of the outstanding common shares; or (3) in which there are no common shares or securities convertible into common shares outstanding prior to the transaction [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.10(b)].

- Any wholly owned subsidiary of an institutional investor designated in Corp. Code § 25102(i) or in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.10 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.10(c)].

The Commissioner has concluded that a "combined" financial statement for a parent corporation and all of its affiliate corporations, as if the group were a single company with one or more branches or divisions, met the requirement of a "consolidated" financial statement under Corp. Code § 25102(i). In that instance, the only significant difference between the company's "combined" statements and a "consolidated" statement was a difference in name only [Commissioner's Opinion No. 82/3C (Oct. 13 1982)].

The Commissioner has found the California State Compensation Insurance Fund, as an agency of the state, to be an exempt investor under 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.10 [Commissioner's Opinion No. 70/32 (Mar. 18, 1970)].

CHAPTER 6D CALIFORNIA QUALIFIED PURCHASER EXEMPTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

3-6D California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 6D.23

AUTHOR: Susan E. Firtch Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6D.23 Qualification of Purchasers Under Corp. Code § 25102(n)

[1] General Application to Offers and Sales

Corp. Code § 25102(n) exempts from qualification any offer or sale of any security in a transaction, other than an offer or sale of a security in a rollup transaction, that meets all of the criteria set forth in that section, including issuer requirements, sales requirements, purchasers qualification requirements, and notice requirements as discussed below [Corp. Code 25102(n)]. The term "rollup transaction" refers to any transaction or series of transactions that directly or indirectly, through acquisition or otherwise, involves the combination or reorganization of one or more rollup participants if certain other criteria are satisfied [Corp. Code § 25014.6]. A limited partnership qualifies as a rollup participant if it operates as a conduit vehicle for investors to participate in the ownership of assets for a limited period of time and has a policy or purpose of distributing to investors substantially all proceeds from the sale, financing or refinancing of assets rather than reinvesting the proceeds in the business, unless the limited partnership is an investment company registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 or a business development company under Section 2(a)(48) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 [Corp. Code § 25014.5; 15 U.S.C. § 80a-2(a)(48)].

[2] Issuer Requirements

To qualify for the exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(n)(1), the issuer must be one of the following [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(1)]:

- A California corporation or a foreign corporation that, at the time of the filing of the notice required under this subdivision, is subject to Corp. Code § 2115 (governing application of General Corporation Law to foreign corporations). A foreign corporation is generally subject to Corp. Code § 2115 if more than 50 percent of its outstanding voting securities are held of record by persons with California addresses appearing on the corporate books on the record date for the latest shareholder meeting held during the latest full income year (or last day of latest full income year if no meeting was held), and more than 50 percent of its property, payroll and sales for California franchise tax purposes are within California.

- Any other form of business entity, including, without limitation, a partnership or trust organized under California law.

The exemption provided by Corp. Code § 25102(n) is not available to a "blind pool" issuer, or to an investment company subject to the Investment Company Act of 1940 [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(1)(B); see also 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(b)]. The term "blind pool issuer" refers to a company that is a development stage company and either does not have a specific business plan or purpose or has indicated that its business plan is to engage in mergers and acquisitions with unidentified other entities. The term "company" is used in a generic and comprehensive sense to include individuals, partnerships, corporations, and other forms of organization of an enterprise [*10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.102.16(b), 260.113.1(b)*1].

[3] Sales Requirements

Sales of securities must be made only to qualified purchasers or other persons the issuer reasonably believes, after reasonable inquiry, to be qualified purchasers [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(2).] A corporation, partnership or other organization specifically formed for the purpose of acquiring the securities offered by the issuer in reliance on this exemption may be a qualified purchaser if each of the equity owners of the corporation, partnership, or other organization is a qualified purchaser [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(2)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Under Corp. Code § 25102(f), the issuer will not be protected from liability on the basis that the issuer reasonably believes that the criteria of the exemption have been satisfied. The issuer will, however, be protected from liability under Corp. Code § 25102(n) if it reasonably believes the qualified purchaser standards have been satisfied. The issuer's potential liability is therefore less under Corp. Code § 25102(n) than under Corp. Code § 25102(f). In addition, there are likely to be fewer difficult legal judgments which must be made in determining whether the exemption criteria have been satisfied under Corp. Code § 25102(n), than under Corp. Code § 25102(f). Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

[4] Definition of Qualified Purchaser

Qualified purchasers under Corp. Code 25102(n) include the following:

- A person designated in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13, which deals with purchasers excluded from the count of purchasers under the limited offering exemption in Corp. Code § 25102(f) [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(2)(A); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13; for discussion of the limited offering exemption, see also Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions]. Qualified purchasers under this provision include the following:

  - The trustee of an issuer which is a trust and the general partner of an issuer which is a partnership, who exercises managerial functions with respect to those entities, and any officer, director or general partner of a general partner of an issuer that is a partnership.

  - Any person who occupies a position with the issuer, or with a general partner of an issuer which is a partnership, with duties and authority substantially similar to those of an executive officer of a corporation.

  - (1) Any relative, spouse or relative of the spouse of a purchaser who has the same principal residence as the purchaser; (2) any trust or estate in which a purchaser and any person described in clause (1) or (3) has more than 50 percent of the beneficial interests; and (3) any corporation or other organization of which a purchaser and any of the persons related to the purchasers specified in (1) or (2) are beneficial owners of more than 50 percent of the equity securities.

- Any individual who is a promoter of the issuer.

- Any person who purchases $150,000 or more of the securities offered in the transaction, provided each such purchaser meets either one of the following criteria: (1) the person or the person's professional adviser has the capacity to protect such person's own interests in connection with the transaction, or (2) the investment does not exceed 10 percent of the person's net worth or joint net worth with that of that person's spouse.

- A small business investment company licensed by the Small Business Administration, a business development company under Section 2(a)(48) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 [15 U.S.C. § 80a-2(a)(48)] and a private business development company as defined in Section 202(a)(22) of the Investment Advisors Act of 1940 [15 U.S.C. § 80b-2(a)(22)].

- A person who is an "accredited investor" under SEC Rule 501(a) of Regulation D [17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a)].

PRACTICE TIP:
Under the Capital Access Company Law [Corp. Code § 28000 et seq.], which became effective on July 1, 1999, capital access companies may be formed for the purpose of providing financial or managerial assistance to small business firms in California. A company qualifies as a small business firm if it proposes to transact or transacts business in California on a regular and continuous basis, has fewer than 500 employees, is either a California corporation, partnership, limited liability company, or other entity formed under California law, or a pseudo-California corporation under Corp. Code § 2115, is not an investment company, and is a person that has a specific business plan or purpose or intends to acquire a company with such a plan or purpose [Corp. Code § 28047]. All investors in a capital access company licensed under the Capital Access Company Law must be accredited investors. Therefore, securities may be sold to capital access companies pursuant to Corp. Code § 25102(n). Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

- Any entity in which all of the equity owners are officers, directors or affiliates of the issuer or persons specified in Corp. Code § 25102(i), 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.10 or this rule, other than natural persons who fall into the category of purchasers of $150,000 or more of the securities offered in the transaction, as described above.

- A person designated in Corp. Code § 25102(i) or any rule of the Commissioner adopted thereunder [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(2)(B); see § 6D.22 for discussion of Corp. Code § 25102(i)].

- A pension or profit-sharing trust of the issuer, a self employed individual retirement plan, or an individual retirement account, if investment decisions made on behalf of the trust, plan, or account are made solely by persons who are qualified purchasers [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(2)(C)]. This contrasts with the exemption under Corp. Code 25102(i), which does not exempt these plans.

- An organization described in I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) (tax-exempt religious and charitable organizations), corporation, Massachusetts or similar business trust, or partnership, each with total assets in excess of $5 million according to its most recent audited financial statements [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(2)(D).].

- With respect to the offer and sale of one class of voting common stock of an issuer or of preferred stock of an issuer entitling the holder to at least the same voting rights as the issuer's one class of voting common stock, provided that the issuer has only one class of voting common stock outstanding on consummation of the offer and sale, a natural person who, either individually or jointly with the person's spouse, (1) has a minimum net worth of $250,000, a gross income in excess of $100,000 during the immediately preceding tax year, and reasonably expects gross income in excess of $100,000 during the current tax year, or (2) has a minimum net worth of $500,000 [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(2)(E); see Commissioner's Opinion No. 99/1C (concluding that exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(n) may not be relied on by limited liability company if it offers or sells membership interest to "qualified purchasers" as defined in Corp. Code § 25102(n)(2)(E), as membership interest in LLCs are not "stock")]. "Net worth" is determined exclusive of home, home furnishings, and automobiles. Other assets included in the computation of net worth may be valued at fair market value. A natural person must also have business and financial experience, or have an experienced professional advisor who is not compensated in any way by the issuer and who has such business and financial experience [see [5], below]. The investment may not exceed 10 percent of the natural person's net worth [see [6], below].

PRACTICE TIP:

A person acting as a professional adviser under Corp. Code § 25102(n) generally must be licensed as an investment adviser in California. The term "investment adviser" applies to any person who, for compensation, engages in the business of advising others with respect to investing in or purchasing or selling securities. A broker-dealer is excluded from this definition if the broker provides investment advice solely as an incident to the broker's business and the broker receives no special compensation for such services. Attorneys and accountants are excluded from this definition only if investment advisory services are provided solely as an incidence to the practice of their profession. Otherwise they need to be licensed as investment advisers. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

- Any other purchaser designated as qualified by rule of the Commissioner (Corp. Code § 25102(n)(2)(F)).

An issuer may have its broker-dealer make the determination as to whether or not the prospective investor is qualified [Commissioner's Opinion No. 96/2C (Oct. 17, 1996)]. The issuer, however, will remain responsible for that determination under Corp. Code § 25102(n) [Commissioner's Opinion No. 96/2C (Oct. 17, 1996)].

[5] Purchaser Representations

Each purchaser must represent that the purchaser is purchasing for the purchaser's own account (or trust account, if the purchaser is a trustee), and not with a view to or for sale in connection with a distribution of the security [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(3)].

PRACTICE TIP:

There is no requirement that this representation be in writing. It is recommended, however, that the representation be written in order to document compliance with the exemption. It is also recommended that securities issued in this type of transaction bear a restrictive legend stating that the securities are subject to restrictions on transferability and may not be transferred or sold except as permitted under the Securities Act of 1933 and applicable state securities laws for the reasons discussed above with respect to the Corp. Code § 25102(i) exemption. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

An offer to resell or a resale made under 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.13.1 is not inconsistent with the required purchaser representation of Corp. Code § 25102(n)(3) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.18].

[6] Written Offering Disclosure Statement

[a] Disclosure Statement Requirement in General

The exemption provided by Corp. Code § 25102(n) imposes a mandatory requirement to deliver a written offering disclosure statement containing specified information if offers and sales will be made to natural persons. The disclosure statement must be sent to each natural person purchaser, including a corporation, partnership, or other organization specifically formed by natural persons for the purpose of acquiring the securities offered by the issuer. The disclosure statement must be provided at least five business days before securities are sold to, or a commitment to purchase is accepted from, the purchaser [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(4)].

PRACTICE TIP:

A disclosure statement need not be delivered to natural persons under any of the other qualified purchaser exemptions discussed in this chapter, the small offering exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(h), or the limited offering exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(f). This may be perceived as a disadvantage of the Corp. Code § 25102(n) exemption. The preparation of disclosure statements, however, is common in transactions of this type and may be necessary in order for investors to be willing to invest in the issuer. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

The issuer is not obligated to provide this disclosure statement to a natural person qualified under 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13, which deals with purchasers excluded from the count of purchasers under the limited offering exemption [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(4); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13; for discussion of the limited offering exemption, see also Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions].

[b] Contents of Statement

The disclosure statement must satisfy the disclosure requirements of Regulation D and any other disclosure requirements prescribed by rule of the Commissioner. [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(4); 17 C.F.R. § 230.501 et seq.]. The Commissioner currently has not prescribed any additional rules. The implementing regulation merely specifies that the statement must consist of the information specified in 17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(2) of Regulation D [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.17]. For more detailed discussion of the information needed in connection with a Regulation D filing, see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations .

PRACTICE TIP:

Disclosure materials used in offerings of this type frequently include confidential business information, including budgets and future projections. Before this type of information is made available to investors, it is customary for a confidentiality agreement to be executed by the potential investor. The issuer should also take particular care that assumptions used in preparing projections are carefully explained and that potential investors are informed of the various factors that could impact the projections in any material respect. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

[c] Effect of Misleading or Insufficient Filing

The offer or sale of securities pursuant to a disclosure statement that violates Corp. Code § 25401, which generally makes false or misleading communications unlawful, or that fails to meet the disclosure requirements of Regulation D [17 C.F.R. § 230.501 et seq.], as discussed in [b], above, does not render the exemption unavailable to the issuer [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(4)].

[7] General Announcement of Proposed Offering

[a] Authorization

The exemption in Corp. Code § 25102(n) permits the issuer to publish, by written document, a general announcement of the proposed offering [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(5)]. This announcement is different from the written offering disclosure statement discussed in [6], above, and, unlike the written offering disclosure statement, the publication of a general announcement of proposed offering is not mandatory. When a general announcement of proposed offering is published, however, its contents are specified and strictly limited by statute, as discussed in [b], below.

PRACTICE TIP:

General announcements may be published on the Internet. Procedural safeguards described in Commissioner's Opinion No. 96/2C (Oct. 17, 1996) must be established to be certain that other information on the Internet concerning the issuer is not linked with the general announcement. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

[b] Mandatory Information

A general announcement of proposed offering is permissible if it contains only the following [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(5)(A), (C)]:

PRACTICE TIP:

The general announcement concept in Corp. Code § 25102(n)(5) is similar to the concept of communications not deemed a prospectus under SEC Rule 134 [17 C.F.R. § 230.134]. It should not be necessary, however, to limit the general announcement to information permissible under SEC Rule 134 if the aggregate offering price of the securities does not exceed $5 million. In this case, the offering would be exempt under SEC Rule 1001 [17 C.F.R. § 230.1001]. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

- The name of the issuer of the securities.
- The full title of the security to be issued.
- The anticipated suitability standards for prospective purchasers
- A statement that:
    - No money or other consideration is being solicited or will be accepted;
    - An indication of interest made by a prospective purchaser involves no obligation or commitment of any kind; and
    - If the issuer is required to deliver a written offering disclosure statement to prospective purchasers [see [6], above], that no sales will be made or commitment to purchase will be accepted until five business days after delivery of the disclosure statement and subscription information to the prospective purchaser in accordance with the requirements of this exemption.
- Any other information required by rule of the Commissioner [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(5)(A)(v)].
- The following legend: "For more complete information about _____ [name of issuer] and _____ [full title of security], send for additional information from _____ [name and address] by sending this coupon or calling _____ [telephone number]."

[c] Optional Information

The general announcement of proposed offering may also set forth the following information [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(5)(B), (C)]:

- A brief description of the business of the issuer.
- The geographic location of the issuer and its business.
- The price of the security to be issued, or, if the price is not known, the method of its determination or probable price range as specified by the issuer, and the aggregate offering price.

[d] Dissemination to Unqualified Purchasers

Dissemination of the general announcement of proposed offering to persons who are not qualified purchasers, without more, will not disqualify the issuer from claiming the exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(n) [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(5)(D)].

PRACTICE TIP:

This eliminates the risk that is present in offerings made under Corp. Code § 25102(f), that an employee, broker-dealer or other finder hired by the issuer may inadvertently distribute information to non-qualified purchasers. The issuer must still exercise care to be certain that any disclosure statement or other information not permitted to be distributed under the general announcement rules is not distributed to non-qualified persons, unless the issuer reasonably believes that such persons are qualified purchasers. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

[8] Restriction on Telephone Solicitation

No telephone solicitation is permitted until the issuer has determined that the prospective purchaser to be solicited is a qualified purchaser under Corp. Code § 25102(n) [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(6)].

[9] Notices of Transaction and Payment of Filing Fee

[a] Timing of Filing of Notices of Transaction

The issuer must file a notice of transaction both (1) concurrent with the publication of the general announcement of proposed offering [see [7], above], or at the time of the initial offer of the securities, whichever occurs first, accompanied by a filing fee [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(7)(A); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16], and (2) within 10 business days following the close or the abandonment of the offering, but in no case more than 210 days from the date of filing the first notice [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(7)(B)].

The first notice of transaction must contain an undertaking, in a form acceptable to the Commissioner, to deliver to the Commissioner, within 10 days of the Commissioner's request for the information, any disclosure statement required by Corp. Code § 25102(n)(4) to be delivered to prospective purchasers, and any supplement to that statement [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(7)]. The form and instructions for filing the First Notice of Transaction are contained in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(d) [see § 6D.202[2] (form)]. The fee required by Corp. Code § 25608(x) (currently $600) must accompany the filing [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(a)(1); see also Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set fee at amount below maximum fee set forth in Corp. Code § 25608)].

An issuer that is not a California corporation must also file a consent to service of process [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.165 (form); see Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities, §§ 6H.239, 6H.240 (form)], unless they already have a consent to service on file with the Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(a)(1)]. The filing should be accompanied with a cover letter indicating that the filing is pursuant to Corp. Code § 25102(n), and if a consent to service is not included, a statement that the issuer already has a consent to service on file with the Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(a)(1); see § 6D.201 (form)].

The claim of exemption is available on the filing of the First Notice of Transaction and the payment of the filing fee, and terminates on the close or abandonment of the offering, but in no case more than 210 days from the date of the filing of the First Notice of Transaction [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(a)(1)].

A Second Notice of Transaction must be filed within 10 business days after the close or abandonment of the proposed offering, but in not case more than 210 days from the date of the filing of the First Notice of Transaction [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(a)(2)]. The form for the Second Notice of Transaction is also prescribed by regulation [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(a)(1); see § 6D.203[2] (form)].

[b] Effect of Failure to File Notices or to Deliver Notice to Commissioner on Request

The exemption from qualification afforded by Corp. Code § 25102(n) is unavailable if the issuer fails to file the first notice or pay the filing fee. However, the failure to file the Second Notice of Transaction will not jeopardize the availability of the exemption [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(c)].

PRACTICE TIP:

If the issuer inadvertently fails to file the exemption notice as required by Corp. Code § 25102(n), the issuer will need to consider the availability of other exemptions that do not require the filing of a notice, or exemptions, such as Corp. Code § 25102(f), in which the failure to file the notice does not affect the availability of the exemption. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

The Commissioner has the authority to assess an administrative penalty of up to $1,000 against an issuer that fails to timely deliver the required notice on the Commissioner's request [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(7)].

PRACTICE TIP:

The Department of Corporations has taken the position that the filing of a notice of transaction will violate Corp. Code § 25166 regarding the making of false statements to the Commissioner if in fact the claimed exemption cannot be established. The factual determinations that must be made under Corp. Code § 25102(n), however, are much easier to make than factual determinations that must be made under other possible exemptions, such as Corp. Code § 25102(f). There is therefore less risk of liability for judgment calls that the Commissioner may assert were inappropriate. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

[c] Where to File Notices

The offices for filing with the Department of Corporations are listed in Dept. of Corps. Release No. 13-G (Revised; June 10, 2004). According to that release, the notices required under Corp. Code § 25102(n) may be filed in any office of the Department of Corporations [applications and notices required by any law administered by the Commissioner are validly filed when received in any offices of Department]. The offices of the Department of Corporations are located at the following addresses [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 13-G (Revised; June 10, 2004)]:

§ 6D.24 Qualification of Government Purchasers Under 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.14

An exemption is also available for offers or sales of securities to the federal government, any agency or instrumentality of the federal government, any corporation wholly owned by the federal government, any state, any city, any city and county, or county or any agency or instrumentality of a state, city, city and county or county, or any state university or state college or any retirement system for the benefit of any of the employees of the foregoing [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.14]. No investment representation need be made. There are no filing requirements for claiming this exemption. It is therefore possible to combine this exemption with other exemptions that may be available.

PRACTICE TIP:

Governmental agencies should not be overlooked as a possible source of capital. There are a number of governmental programs available to small businesses. State universities and colleges sometimes have incubator funds available for local businesses. In addition, CALPERS has expressed interest in investing in California companies. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

§ 6D.110 Conducting Transaction Under Institutional Investor Exemption [Corp. Code § 25102(i)]

1. Restrict sales of security to purchasers enumerated in Corp. Code § 25102(i), as listed in § 6D.100, P 7.

NOTE: For questions about qualification of purchasers under Corp. Code § 25102(i), see § 6D.22, which include reference to relevant Releases and Opinions of the Corporations Commissioner.

2. Obtain each purchaser's representation that it is purchasing for its own account (or for the trust account) for investment, and not with a view to or for sale in connection with any distribution of the security [Corp. Code § 25102(i); see § 6D.210[2] (form)].

NOTE: The requirement that the purchaser represent that the purchase is for its own account (or trust account) and not with a view to or for sale in connection with any distribution of the security applies to every purchaser for which exemption is sought under this section, and is not limited to corporate purchasers [Corp. Code § 25102(i); see also Marsh & Volk, PRACTICE UNDER THE CALIFORNIA SECURITIES LAWS, ch. 4, General Exemptions from Qualification, § 4.04 (Matthew Bender)]. The Commissioner has stated that the representation that the purchaser is purchasing for its own account (or the trust account) must be true at the time the securities are issued [Commissioner's Opinion No. 71/11C (Feb. 24, 1971)].

§ 6D.111 Conducting Transaction Under Qualified Purchaser Exemption [Corp. Code § 25102(n)]

1. Ascertain that the issuer is either:

a. Corporation, partnership, trust, or other business entity organized under California law [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(1)(A)]; or

b. Foreign corporation subject to Corp. Code § 2115.
NOTE: Corp. Code § 2115 is the basic California statute governing application of California law to foreign corporations. For discussion of Corp. Code § 2115, see Ch. 12B, Foreign Corporations and Associations .

2. Confirm that issuer is not "blind pool" issuer or investment company subject to Investment Company Act of 1940 [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(1)(B)].

NOTE: The term "blind pool issuer" refers to a company that is a development stage company and either does not have a specific business plan or purpose or has indicated that its business plan is to engage in mergers and acquisitions with unidentified other entities. The term "company" is used in a generic and comprehensive sense to include individuals, partnerships, corporations, and other forms of organization of an enterprise [*10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.102.16(b), 260.113.1(b)*1].

3. Make reasonable inquiry to ascertain that each prospective purchaser is "qualified purchaser" under Corp. Code § 25102(n)(2), as listed in § 6D.101, P 7 [see §§ 6D.204-6D.206 (forms)].

NOTE: A corporation, partnership, or other organization specifically formed for the purpose of acquiring the securities offered by the issuer in reliance on this exemption may be a qualified purchaser if each of the equity owners of the corporation, partnership, or other organization is a qualified purchaser [Corp.

Code § 25102(n)(2)].

The forms in §§ 6D.204-6D.206 may be used to obtain each prospective purchaser's representation that the prospective purchaser is a "qualified purchaser." The form in § 6D.204[2] is designed for use with institutional investors. The form in § 6D.205[2] is designed for use with investors who are natural persons, and also contains the representations required under P 4, below. The form in § 6D.206[2] is for use with a qualified purchaser that qualifies on the basis of its equity owners.

4. For each purchaser or prospective purchaser who is a natural person, ascertain that [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(2)(E); see § 6D.205[2]]:

NOTE: Investors who do not meet the following criteria may still be able to qualify under a number of other exemptions.

a. Person has requisite business and financial experience, or has an experienced professional advisor who is not compensated in any way by issuer [see § 6D.23[5]].

b. Investment will not exceed 10 percent of person's net worth [see § 6D.23[6]].

5. Obtain each purchaser's or prospective purchaser's representation that [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(3); see §§ 6D.204-6D.206 (forms)].

a. Purchaser is purchasing for purchaser's own account (or trust account, if purchaser is trustee); and

b. Purchaser is not purchasing with a view to or for sale in connection with a distribution of security.

NOTE: An offer to resell or a resale made under 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.13.1 is not inconsistent with the required purchaser representation of Corp. Code § 25102(n)(3) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.18].

6. Prepare written offering disclosure statement if any purchasers are natural persons, including any corporation, partnership or other organization specifically formed by natural persons for purpose of acquiring the securities offered by issuer, unless natural persons are "qualified purchasers" under 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13 [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(4)].

a. Include following information in written offering disclosure statement [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(2); see Corp. Code § 25102(n)(4); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.17]:

NOTE: The Commissioner has not published a preprinted form for the written offering disclosure statement. The contents of the statement are governed by Corp. Code § 25102(n)(4) and 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.17. The latter regulation specifies that the information required in an offering of securities that is exempt under Corp. Code § 25102(n)(4) and also exempt from federal registration under Rule 504 of SEC Regulation D [17 C.F.R. § 230.504; see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations] will be the information required under Rule 502(b)(2) of Regulation D [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(2)]. That information is itemized below.

Because the required information is very specific to each individual corporation, a sample form for the written offering disclosure statement is not included in this chapter. However, the information below will serve as a guide to the basic information that must be included in the written offering disclosure statement. For detailed content the reader will need to refer to the Code of Federal Regulations provisions cited below; for further discussion, see Ch. 6A, California Securities Exemptions for Nonpublic Corporations .

(1) If issuer is not subject to reporting requirements of Sections 13 or 15(d) of federal Securities Exchange Act [15 U.S.C. §§ 78m, 78o(d)], include the following, to extent material to an understanding of issuer, its business, and securities being offered:

(a) Non-financial statement information:

(i) If the issuer is eligible to use Regulation A [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.251-230.263; see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations], include same kind of information that would be required in Part II of SEC Form 1-A [17 C.F.R. § 239.90; see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations, § 6A.200[2]].

(ii) If issuer is not eligible to use Regulation A, include same kind of information as required in Part I of a registration statement filed under federal Securities Act, on form that issuer would be entitled to use.

(b) Financial statement information:

(i) For offerings up to $2 million, include information required in Item 310 of SEC Regulation S-B [17 C.F.R. § 228.310], except that only issuer's balance sheet, which must be dated within 120 days of start of offering, must be audited.

NOTE: If an issuer, other than a limited partnership, cannot obtain audited financial statements without unreasonable effort or expense, then only the issuer's balance sheet, which must be dated within 120 days of the start of the offering, must be audited. If the issuer is a limited partnership and cannot obtain the required financial statements without unreasonable effort or expense, it may furnish financial statements that have been prepared on the basis of Federal income tax requirements and examined and reported on in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards by an independent public or certified accountant [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(2)(i)(B)(2)].

These rules also apply to offerings over $7.5 million [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(2)(i)(B)(3); see P (ii), below].

(ii) For offerings over $7.5 million, include financial statement that would be required in a registration statement filed under the Federal Securities Act of 1933, on form that issuer would be entitled to use.

(c) If issuer is foreign private issuer eligible to use Form 20-F [17 C.F.R. § 249.220f], include same kind of information required to be included in a registration statement filed under federal Securities Act on form that issuer would be entitled to use.

NOTE: The financial statements need be certified only to the extent required in P (b), above [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(b)(2)(i)(C)].

(2) If issuer is subject to reporting requirements of Sections 13 or 15(d) of federal Securities Exchange Act [15 U.S.C. §§ 78m, 78o(d)], include:

(a) Either:

(i) Issuer's annual report to shareholders for most recent fiscal year, if report meets requirements of 17 C.F.R. § 240.14a-3 or 240.14c-3 under federal Securities Exchange Act, definitive proxy statement filed in connection with that annual report and, if requested by purchaser in writing, a copy of issuer's most recent Form 10-K and Form 10-KSB [17 C.F.R. § 249.310]; or

(ii) Information contained in an annual report on Form 10-K [17 C.F.R. § 249.310] or in a registration statement on Form S-1 [17 C.F.R. § 239.11], or S-11 [17 C.F.R. § 239.18], or on Form 10 [17 C.F.R. § 249.210], whichever filing is most recent required to be filed.

(b) Information contained in any reports or documents required to be filed by issuer under Sections 13(a), 14(a), 14(c), and 15(d) of federal Securities Exchange Act [15 U.S.C. §§ 78m(a), 78n(a), (c), 78o(d)] since distribution or filing of report or registration statement specified in P (a)(i) or (ii), above, and a brief description of securities being offered, use of proceeds from offering, and any material changes in issuer's affairs that are not disclosed in documents furnished.

(c) If issuer is foreign private issuer, issuer may provide, in lieu of information specified in P (a)(i) or (ii), above, the information contained in its most recent filing on Form 20-F or Form F-1 [17 C.F.R. § 239.31].

(3) Brief description of any material written information concerning offering that has been provided by issuer to any accredited investor but not previously delivered to unaccredited purchaser.

(4) Statement of procedures by which purchasers will be given opportunity to ask questions and receive answers concerning terms and conditions of offering and to obtain any additional information that issuer possesses or can acquire without unreasonable effort or expense that is necessary to verify accuracy of other information furnished.

(5) For business combinations or exchange offers, in addition to information required by Form S-4 [17 C.F.R. § 239.25], include at time plan is submitted to security holders, or, with an exchange, during course of transaction and prior to sale, written information about any terms or arrangements of proposed transactions that are materially different from those for all other security holders.

(6) Specify limitations on resale of securities.

b. Give statement to each such natural person purchaser.

NOTE: It is not necessary to give the disclosure statement to natural persons who are accredited investors or are otherwise qualified purchasers under 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13, which lists those purchasers excluded from purchaser count for purposes of limited offering exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(f) [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(4); for discussion of 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13, see Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions].

c. Make certain that each natural person purchaser will receive disclosure statement at least five business before the securities are sold to, or a commitment to purchase is accepted from, that purchaser.

7. Prepare general written announcement of proposed offering, if one will be used [see § 6D.200[2] (form)].

a. Include following mandatory information [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(5)(A)]:

(1) Name of issuer.

(2) Full title of security to be issued.

(3) Anticipated suitability standards for prospective purchasers.

(4) Statement that:
(a) No money or other consideration is being solicited or will be accepted, and

(b) An indication of interest made by a prospective purchaser involves no obligation or commitment of any kind.

(5) If issuer is required to deliver disclosure statement to prospective purchasers [see P 6, above], statement that no sales will be made or commitment to purchase accepted until five business days after delivery of disclosure statement and subscription information to prospective purchaser.

(6) The following legend: "For more complete information about _____ [name of issuer] and _____ [full title of security], send for additional information from _____ [name and address] by sending this coupon or calling _____ [telephone number]."

b. If desired, include following optional information only; do not include any other information:

(1) Brief description of issuer's business.

(2) Geographic location of issuer and its business.

(3) Price of security to be issued or, if price is not known, method for determining price or probable price range as specified by issue, and aggregate offering price.

c. Publish general announcement of proposed offering in form of written document only.
NOTE: Dissemination of the general announcement of proposed offering to persons who are not qualified purchasers, without more, will not disqualify the issuer from claiming the exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(n) [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(5)(D)].

8. Instruct issuer not to make or allow any telephone solicitation until it has determined that prospective purchaser to be solicited is a qualified purchaser under Corp. Code § 25102(n) [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(6)].
NOTE: An issuer may have its broker-dealer make the determination as to whether or not the prospective investor is qualified [Commissioner's Opinion No. 96/2C (Oct. 17, 1996)]. However, as the statute requires that the issuer reasonably believe the purchaser to be qualified purchasers, the ultimate responsibility always lies with the issuer [Commissioner's Opinion No. 96/2C (Oct. 17, 1996)]. Although an issuer may contract with the broker-dealer to perform the necessary due diligence to determine whether potential investor is a qualified purchase, the issuer will remain responsible for that determination under Corp. Code § 25102(n) [Commissioner's Opinion No. 96/2C (Oct. 17, 1996)].

9. Prepare and file First Notice of Transaction [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(7)(A); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16].
NOTE: The claim of exemption is available on the filing of the First Notice of Transaction and payment of the filing fee, and terminates on the close or abandonment of the offering, but in no case more than 210 days from the date of the filing of the First Notice of Transaction [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(a)(1)].

a. Complete notice of transaction form [see § 6D.202[2]; see also 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(d)].

b. File First Notice of Transaction concurrently with earlier of:

(1) Publication of general announcement of proposed offering [see P 7, above]; or

(2) At time of initial offer of the securities.

c. Include filing fee of $600 [Corp. Code §§ 25102(n)(7)(A), 25608(x); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(a)(1); see also Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set fee at amount below maximum fee set forth in Corp. Code § 25608)].

NOTE: The issuer will lose the exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(n) if the issuer fails to file the first notice or pay the filing fee [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(c)].

d. If issuer is not a California corporation and does not already have a consent to service of process [see Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities, §§ 6H.239, 6H.240] on file with Commissioner, file that consent at time of filing First Notice of Transaction [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(a)(1)].

e. Accompany filing with cover letter [see § 6D.201[2]] indicating that filing is pursuant to Corp. Code § 25102(n), and if a consent to service is not included [see P d, above], add statement that issuer already has a consent to service on file with the Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(a)(1)].

f. File notice in any office of Department of Corporations [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 13-G (Revised; June 10, 2004); see § 6D.23[9][c] (current addresses of Department offices)].

10. Prepare and file Second Notice of Transaction [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(7)(B), 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(a)(2)].

a. Complete notice of transaction form [see § 6D.203[2]; see also 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(e)].

NOTE: Although the issuer will lose the exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(n) if the issuer fails to file the first notice or pay the filing fee, the failure to file the Second Notice of Transaction will not jeopardize the availability of the exemption [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(c)].

b. File Second Notice of Transaction either [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(a)(2)]:

(1) Within 10 business days after close or abandonment of offering, but

(2) In any case, no more than 210 days from date of filing First Notice of Transaction

§ 6D.200 General Announcement of Proposed Offering Under Qualified Purchaser Exemption Under Corp. Code § 25102(n)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a sample General Announcement of Proposed Offering under the qualified purchaser exemption in Corp. Code § 25102(n). The issuer is not required to publish such an announcement, but if it chooses to do so, the announcement may be published by written document only [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(5)(A)]. The announcement must contain specified information [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(5)(A); see [b], below], and may also contain certain specified optional information [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(5)(B); see [c], below]. The announcement may contain only that mandatory and optional information [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(5)(C)].

Because the facts of each offering will vary, the format of this form is necessarily somewhat general.

PRACTICE TIP:

The general announcement concept in Corp. Code § 25102(n)(5) is similar to the concept of communications not deemed a prospectus under SEC Rule 134 [17 C.F.R. § 230.134]. It should not be necessary, however, to limit the general announcement to information permissible under SEC Rule 134 if the aggregate offering price of the securities does not exceed $5 million. In this case, the offering would be exempt under SEC Rule 1001 [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.1001]. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

[b] Mandatory Information

A general announcement of proposed offering is permissible if it contains only the following [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(5)(A)]:

- The name of the issuer of the securities.

- The full title of the security to be issued.

- The anticipated suitability standards for prospective purchasers. This form uses the statutory standards specified for "qualified purchasers" specified in Corp. Code § 25102(n)(2). These standards should not be expanded beyond those appearing in this form, but they may be more restrictive if the issuer so desires.

- A statement that:

    - No money or other consideration is being solicited or will be accepted;

    - An indication of interest made by a prospective purchaser involves no obligation or commitment of any kind; and

    - If the issuer is required to deliver a written offering disclosure statement to prospective purchasers [see § 6D.23[6]], that no sales will be made or commitment to purchase will be accepted until five business days after delivery of the disclosure statement and subscription information to the prospective purchaser in accordance with the requirements of this exemption.

- Any other information required by rule of the Commissioner [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(5)(A)(v)]. To date, the Commissioner has not imposed any additional requirements.

- The following legend: "For more complete information about _____ [name of issuer] and _____ [full title of security], send for additional information from _____ [name and address] by sending this coupon or calling _____ [telephone number]."

[c] Optional Information

The general announcement of proposed offering may also set forth the following information [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(5)(B)]:

- A brief description of the business of the issuer.

- The geographic location of the issuer and its business.

- The price of the security to be issued, or, if the price is not known, the method of its determination or probable price range as specified by the issuer, and the aggregate offering price.

h. Any entity in which all of the equity owners are persons specified in Corporations Code Section 25102(i), or Title 10, Section 260.102.10 of the California Code of Regulations; or Title 10, Section 260.102.13(a), (b), (c), (d), (f) and (g) of the California Code of Regulations; or who are "officers, directors or affiliates of the issuer" as that term is used in Corporations Code Section 25102(f).

a. Any bank, savings and loan association, trust company, insurance company, investment company registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940, pension or profit-sharing trust (other than a pension or profit-sharing trust of the issuer, a self-employed individual retirement plan, or individual retirement account), or other institutional investor or governmental agency or instrumentality that the commissioner has designated by rule, whether the purchaser is acting for itself or as trustee.

b. Any corporation with outstanding securities registered under Section 12 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, or any wholly owned subsidiary of such a corporation, that after the offer and sale will own directly or indirectly 100 percent of the outstanding capital stock of the issuer; provided the purchaser represents that it is purchasing for its own account (or for the trust account) for investment and not with a view to or for sale in connection with any distribution of the security.

b. Any corporation that has a net worth on a consolidated basis according to its most recent audited financial statement of not less than $14 million [if securities are common stock of a corporation or securities exchangeable for or convertible into common stock of a corporation, add the following unless either (1) the securities are offered pro rata to the holders of the outstanding common shares; (2) the transaction is approved by the holders of 75 percent or more of the outstanding common shares; or (3)

§ 6D.201 Cover Letter Accompanying First Notice of Transaction for Qualified Purchaser Exemption Under Corp. Code § 25102(n)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a cover letter to accompany the filing of a First Notice of Transaction under the qualified purchaser exemption provided by Corp. Code § 25102(n). It is designed to accompany the First Notice of Transaction set out in § 6D.202[2]. The Commissioner's regulations state that a first notice of transaction "should be accompanied" by a cover letter indicating that the filing is pursuant to Corp. Code § 25102(n) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(a)(1)]. For discussion of the time frame for filing the First Notice of Transaction, see §§ 6D.23[9][a], 6D.202].

The regulations do not indicate that a cover is needed for filing the Second Notice of Transaction [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(a)(2); see § 6D.203]. However, if such a cover letter is desired, this form may be modified to serve that purpose.

[b] Filing

This letter, the first notice of transaction, the consent to service, if required, and the $600 filing fee [see Corp. Code § 25608(x); see also Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set fee at amount below maximum fee set forth in Corp. Code § 25608)] must be filed with the Department of Corporations. Checks should be made payable to the "Department of Corporations" and need not be certified [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.15]. The notices required under Corp. Code § 25102(n) may be filed in any office of the Department of Corporations [see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 13-G (Revised; June 10, 2004)]. The current addresses of the Department's offices are listed in § 6D.23[9][c].

[c] Consent to Service of Process

An issuer that is not a California corporation must file a consent to service of process [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.165 (form); see Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities, §§ 6H.239, 6H.240 (form)], unless the issuer already has a consent to service on file with the Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(a)(1)]. If a consent to service is not included, the cover letter should include a statement that the issuer already has a consent to service on file with the Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(a)(1)].

§ 6D.202 First Notice of Transaction for Qualified Purchaser Exemption Under Corp. Code § 25102(n)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a First Notice of Transaction Pursuant to Corp Code § 25102(n). This form must be filed in connection with any transaction under the qualified purchaser exemption of Corp Code § 25102(n) [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(7)]. The notice is not designed to indicate whether or not the transaction complies with the requirements of the exemption, but only to provide notice to the Commissioner that the exemption is being relied on [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(a)(1); see Corp. Code § 25163]. The notice must be submitted on 81/2 by 11-inch paper [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.8(a)]. It can be obtained from any office of the Department of Corporations, or from the Department of Corporation's website at http://www.corp.ca.gov/forms/srdlist.htm.

The text of the form, with instructions, is printed in full in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(d) and is reproduced verbatim here.

PRACTICE TIP:

It should be noted that the form is defective in that it seems to indicate that disclosure statements must be provided to all purchasers, other than purchasers listed in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13. The statute only requires that disclosure statements be given to natural person purchasers or to corporations, partnerships or other organizations formed by natural persons for the purpose of acquiring the securities offered by the issuer. If relevant, the form should be corrected by the issuer in order to make certain that the notice information is correct. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

[b] Filing Requirements

A First Notice of Transaction must be filed with the Commissioner of Corporations concurrently with the earlier of (1) publication of the general announcement of the proposed offering [see § 6D.200[1]] or (2) at the time of the initial offer of securities, whichever occurs first [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(7); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(a)(1)]. The notice may be filed in person or by mail at any office of the Department of Corporations [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(a)(1)]. The filing fee of $600 must accompany the filing [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(a)(1); see Corp. Code § 25608(x) (amount of fee); see also Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set fee at amount below maximum fee set forth in Corp. Code § 25608)].

An issuer that is not a California corporation must also file a consent to service of process [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.165], unless it already has a consent to service on file with the Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(a)(1)].

The filing should be accompanied by a cover letter indicating that the filing is pursuant to Corp. Code § 25102(n), and if a consent to service is not included, a statement that the issuer already has a consent to service on file with the Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.16(a)(1); see § 6D.201[2] (form)].

AUTHOR: Susan E. Firtch Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6D.204 Purchaser's Representations Concerning Suitability and Investment Intent Under Qualified Purchaser Exemption--For Institutional Investors [Corp. Code § 25102(n)]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form may be used to document the qualification of an institutional investor in connection with an offering under the qualified purchaser exemption in Corp. Code § 25102(n) and to obtain the purchaser's representation that it is purchasing the securities for its own account and not for resale, as required by the terms of the exemption [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(3)]. The form in § 6D.205[2] should be used to obtain representations concerning suitability and investment intent from natural persons. The form in § 6D.206[2] should be used to obtain representations concerning suitability and investment intent from a qualified purchaser that qualifies on the basis of the suitability of its equity owners.

The issuer is not required to obtain written a representation of the purchaser's status as a qualified investor in order to qualify for this exemption. The issuer is only required to reasonably believe, after reasonable inquiry, that the purchaser is a qualified purchaser [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(2)] The use of a written representation, however, will clearly help show that the purchaser has made the required "reasonable inquiry."

Moreover, the purchaser is required to represent that it is purchasing the securities for its own account and not with a view toward resale [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(3)]. Although the latter representation is not required to be in writing, the use of a written representation will document the fact that the representation was in fact made. This documentation will be particularly useful if a subsequent violation of the representation leads to questions regarding the existence or sufficiency of the representation.

The categories of institutional investors who are "qualified purchasers" are listed in Corp. Code § 25102(n)(2)(A)-(D), (F)], which in turn incorporate the categories of investors who (1) are excluded from the purchaser count for purposes of the California limited offering exemption under Corp. Code § 25102(f) [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(2)(A); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13 (limited offering exemption criteria); see also Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions ] or (2) are qualified investors for purposes of the institutional investor exclusion under Corp. Code § 25102(i) [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(2)(B); see § 6D.22].

§ 6D.206 Purchaser's Representations Concerning Suitability and Investment Intent Under Qualified Purchaser Exemption--Based on Suitability of Equity Owners [Corp. Code § 25102(n)]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form may be used to document the qualification of a purchaser that is an entity as opposed to a natural person in connection with an offering under the qualified purchaser exemption in Corp. Code § 25102(n), when the basis for qualified purchaser status is the suitability of the purchaser's equity owners. The form also may be used to obtain the purchaser's representation that it is purchasing the securities for its own account and not for resale, as required by the terms of the exemption [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(3)]. The form in § 6D.204[2] should be used to obtain representations concerning suitability and investment intent from institutional investors. The form in § 6D.205[2] should be used to obtain representations concerning suitability and investment intent from natural persons.

For discussion of the use of an investor representation form in connection with the qualified purchaser representation in Corp. Code § 25102(n), see § 6D.204[1] [see Corp. Code § 25102(n)(2)(A)-(F); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13; see also § 6D.22].

[b] Qualified Purchaser Status Based on Classification of Individual Equity Owners

There are several ways in which an entity may be classified as a qualified purchaser on the basis of the qualifications of its individual equity owners:

- First, a corporation, partnership, or other organization specifically formed for the purpose of acquiring the securities offered by the issuer in reliance on the qualified purchaser exemption in Corp. Code § 25102(n) is a qualified purchaser if each equity owner of the corporation, partnership, or other organization is a qualified purchaser [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(2)].

- Second, any entity in which all of the equity owners fall within one of the following categories:

  - Persons who are excluded from the purchaser count for purposes of the California limited offering exemption in Corp. Code § 25102(f) under 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13(a), (b), (c), (d), or (f) [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(2)(A); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13(h)];

  - Persons qualifying for the institutional investor exemptions in Corp. Code § 25102(i) or 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.10 [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(2)(A); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13(h)]; or

  - "Accredited investors" under Section 501(a) [17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a)] of federal Regulation D [Corp. Code § 25102(n)(2)(A); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.13(g); 17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a)(8)].

[c] Attachments

When an entity seeks qualified purchaser status based on the qualifications of its individual equity owners, it is apparent that it is necessary to ascertain the qualifications of those owners as well as of the entity itself [see [b], above]. This form addresses this issue by incorporating attachments that are to be completed by all of the individual equity owners, addressing their personal qualifications. The questions are designed to elicit information establishing the individual equity owner's qualification under the criteria noted in [b], above:

- Attachment 1 should be essentially identical to the form in § 6D.204[2], and therefore is not reproduced in full here. The form in § 6D.204 may be appended as Attachment 1. However, the next to last paragraph in the form in § 6D.204[2], containing the investor representation that the purchaser is purchasing for its own account, should be deleted.

- Attachment 2 should be essentially identical to the form in § 6D.205[2], and therefore is not reproduced in full here. That form may be appended as Attachment 2. However, the next to last paragraph in the form in § 6D.205[2], containing the investor representation that the purchaser is purchasing for its own account, should be deleted.

- Attachment 3 incorporates the categories listed in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.130.13, with the exception of the "accredited investor" category specified in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.130.13(g).

- Attachment 4 incorporates the "accredited investor" category in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.130.13(g), which in turn incorporates by reference the federal definition of "accredited investor" appearing in Rule 501(a) of Regulation D [17 C.F.R. § 230.501(a)].

The circumstances under which the individual attachments should be used are explained in the form itself.

§ 6D.210 Purchaser's Representations Concerning Suitability and Investment Intent Under Institutional Investor Exemption [Corp. Code § 25102(i)]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form may be used to document the qualification of a purchaser in connection with an offering under the institutional investor exemption in Corp. Code § 25102(i), and to obtain the purchaser's representation that it is purchasing the securities for its own account and not for resale, as required by the terms of the exemption [Corp. Code § 25102(i)].

The issuer is not required to obtain written a representation of the purchaser's status as a qualified investor in order to qualify for this exemption. The use of a written representation, however, will document the fact that the securities in question were sold to a qualifying entity. Moreover, the purchaser is required to represent that it is purchasing the securities for its own account and not with a view toward resale [Corp. Code § 25102(i)]. Although the latter representation is not required to be in writing, the use of a written representation will document the fact that the representation was in fact made. This documentation will be particularly useful if a subsequent violation of the representation leads to questions regarding the existence or sufficiency of the representation.

This chapter covers the qualification of securities under the Corporate Securities Law of 1968 [Corp. Code § 25000 et seq.]. The Legal Background discusses the qualification requirements under that law, considerations in determining whether a proposed transaction must be qualified, the basic types of securities transactions (issuer, nonissuer, and recapitalization/reorganization), and the specific methods of qualification permissible for each type. It also contains an overview of qualification procedures. The Transaction Guide sets forth a summary of information and documents that must be obtained from the client, specific criteria for determining whether a proposed transaction is subject to the provisions of the Corporate Securities Law, a procedural guide to qualification of securities, and related and subsequent procedures, including advertising securities for offer or sale, distribution of qualified securities, selling under impound conditions, and complying with or removing escrow and legend conditions. Forms in this chapter include the applicable facing pages for all types of applications for qualification; applications for qualification by coordination, issuer notification, permit, recapitalization or reorganization permit, and nonissuer notification; items and exhibits to applications; and forms related to conditions on qualification.

The Corporate Securities Law is a merit statute requiring offers and sales of securities to be fair, just, and equitable. In contrast, the federal securities laws are disclosure statutes requiring complete disclosure of material facts, but leaving questions as to the fairness of the offering to the consideration of the prospective purchasers. For an overview of federal requirements, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues, § 6.50-.58. For discussion of federal securities exemptions, see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations . For coverage of the preemption of state requirements by federal law, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues . An overview of California exemptions is also contained in Ch. 6. The California limited and small offering exemptions are examined in detail in Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions, and Ch. 6C, California Small Offering Exemption. The qualified purchaser exemptions under Corp. Code § 25102(i) and (n) are discussed in Ch. 6D, California Qualified Purchaser Exemptions .

§ 6H.20 Qualification Under the Corporate Securities Law

[1] Qualification Requirement

The California Corporate Securities Law of 1968 [Corp. Code § 25000 et seq.] regulates all offers and sales [see Corp. Code § 25017 (definition)] of securities [see Corp. Code § 25019 (definition)] in California by requiring that every security be "qualified" with the Commissioner of Corporations unless either of the following applies:

- Either the security or the transaction is exempted by a specific section of the law or a rule of the Commissioner [see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues (overview of exemptions)]; or

- The security is not subject to the requirement of qualification as a result of federal preemption [see Corp. Code §§ 25100.1, 25101.1, 25102.1; see also § 6H.24].

This qualification requirement applies to issuer transactions [see Corp. Code § 25110; see also § 6H.21[2]], transfers of securities by their holders, i.e., nonissuer transactions [see Corp. Code § 25130; see also § 6H.21[4]], and recapitalization or reorganization transactions, or changes in the rights and preferences of outstanding securities [see Corp. Code § 25120; see also § 6H.21[3]].

The California Corporate Securities Law embodies California's policy of protecting the public from fraud and deception in securities transactions, and was enacted to effectuate this policy by regulating securities transactions in this state. The law is a merit act which regulates the offer and sale of securities by applying a "fair, just, and equitable" standard [see § 6H.23; see also Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 21, Corporate Securities , § 443 (Matthew Bender)]. In contrast, the Federal Securities Act of 1933 [see 15 U.S.C. § 77a et seq.] is a disclosure act, which requires issuers and underwriters to file detailed registration statements, forms of prospectus and offering circulars, advertising, and notices of intent to sell [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 21, Corporate Securities , § 442 (Matthew Bender); see also Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues].

[2] Initial Considerations

To ascertain whether or not a proposed transaction must be qualified under the Corporate Securities Law, counsel must consider the following issues:

- Whether or not the interest or instrument constitutes a security [Corp. Code § 25019; see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues, §§ 6.11, 6.110].

- Whether or not the transaction involves an offer or sale [Corp. Code § 25017; see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues, §§ 6.12, 6.111].

- Whether or not the offer or sale is made in California [Corp. Code § 25008; see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues, §§ 6.13, 6.112].

- Whether or not the security is exempt from qualification [Corp. Code §§ 25100, 25101; see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues, §§ 6.30, 6.115].

- Whether or not the transaction is exempt from qualification [Corp. Code §§ 25102-25105; see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues, §§ 6.30, 6.116].

- Whether the security constitutes a "covered security" for federal preemption purposes [15 U.S.C. § 77r; see §§ 6H.24[4], 6H.125] and, as a result, is "not subject to qualification" in California [Corp. Code §§ 25100.1, 25101.1, 25102.1; see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues, §§ 6.15, 6.117].

In addition, some types of qualification depend on registration under the federal securities laws [see § 6H.21[2][b]; see also § 6H.205 (qualification by coordination)]. Another important consideration, therefore, is whether the security or transaction is subject to or exempt from federal registration or will be subject to or exempt from registration under the securities or blue sky laws of other states, [see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues ; Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations].

PRACTICE TIP:

Frequently an issuer will have a choice as to whether to qualify a transaction or to seek an exemption by making a notice filing. Generally, qualification will generally be less advantageous since the qualification process will be more time-consuming and expensive. In addition, the offering must satisfy the fair, just and equitable standards applicable to qualified offerings. These standards may be particularly difficult for an unseasoned corporation to satisfy, may require the preparation of audited financial statements for the first time or may require the issuer to issue securities on terms that are unattractive to potential investors. On the other hand, an open qualification may be more attractive than an exemption if investors wish to receive freely tradeable securities since most exemptions that will be available, such as Corp. Code § 25102(e), (f), or (n), require investors to represent that they are not acquiring the securities for distribution. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

CHAPTER 6H QUALIFICATION OF SECURITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

3-6H California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 6H.21

AUTHOR: Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6H.21 Methods of Qualification Under the Corporate Securities Law

[1] Basic Types of Securities Transactions

After it has been established that the Corporate Securities Law applies to a proposed transaction, that the transaction is subject to qualification, and that an exemption from qualification is not available, counsel must determine the applicable method of qualification. That method depends on the type of transaction and the type of security involved. Securities transactions can be one of three types:

- Issuer transactions [see [2], below].
- Reorganizations, recapitalizations, or changes in the terms of outstanding securities [see [3], below].
- Nonissuer transactions [see [4], below].

It is important to distinguish these types of transactions since the qualification procedures and exemptions available differ depending upon the type of transaction, unless the securities or transaction is exempt as a result of federal preemption.

[2] Issuer Transactions

[a] Corp. Code § 25110 Qualification Requirement

Issuer transactions are those in which the person that issues or proposes to issue a security distributes the issue to investors for the first time. An issuer transaction is one directly or indirectly for the issuer's benefit [see Corp. Code § 25010]. It is unlawful for any person to offer or sell in California any security in an issuer transaction (other than in a transaction subject to Corp. Code § 25120 (recapitalizations, reorganizations, and changes in terms of outstanding securities) [see [3], below] whether or not by or through underwriters, unless that sale has been qualified under Corp. Code § 25111, 25112, or 25113 (and no stop order under Corp. Code § 25140 or 25143(a) is in effect with respect to that qualification), or unless that security or transaction is exempt [see Corp. Code §§ 25100-25105; see also Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues (exemptions)] or is not subject to qualification as a result of federal preemption [Corp. Code § 25110; see Corp. Code §§ 25100.1, 25101.1, 25102.1; see also § 6H.24].

There are situations in which the offering may involve both an issuer and a nonissuer transaction. For example, a corporation may offer a new issue of shares along with an offering of shares by a shareholder. This is common in an initial public offering of securities [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 21, Corporate Securities , § 452.02 (Matthew Bender)]. An offering that involves both an issuer and a nonissuer transaction will be treated for qualification purposes as an issuer transaction. In determining whether either or both portions of a combined offering are exempt from qualification, however, each portion must be considered separately [Corp. Code § 25011].

A special statutory rule applies to the qualification of issuer transactions. The offer or sale of a security in an issuer transaction in a manner that varies or differs from, exceeds the scope of, or fails to conform with either a material term or material condition of qualification of the offering as set forth in the permit or qualification order, or a material misrepresentation as to the manner of offering which is set forth in the application for qualification, will be an unqualified offer or sale [Corp. Code § 25110]. Such an offering or sale, therefore, would be unlawful [see Corp. Code § 25540 (penalties for willful violation)].

[b] Methods of Qualifying Issuer Transactions

Three different methods exist for the qualification of issuer transactions:

- Coordination.
- Notification.
- Permit.

Qualification by coordination is available when a registration statement for a security has been filed under the Federal Securities Act of 1933 [see 15 U.S.C. § 77a et seq.] in connection with the same offering [Corp. Code § 25111(a); see § 6H.205 (application for qualification by coordination)]. "Registration statement" as used in Corp. Code § 25111(a) includes an offering statement as defined by Rule 252(a) under Regulation A [17 C.F.R. § 230.252(a)] under the Securities Act [Corp. Code § 25111(a)].

The following are the two principal objectives of the coordination procedure [see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 6, Procedure for Qualification of Issuer Transactions, § 6.03[1]]:

- To permit the filing of the same papers with California officials as are filed with the federal Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC); and
- To make the qualification effective simultaneously with the registration statement under the 1933 Act being declared effective by the SEC.

PRACTICE TIP:

In some cases, it will be necessary to file additional material, such as financial statements, Annual Reports on Form 10-K or employee benefit plans, with the Commissioner. This commonly occurs when a short-form SEC registration statement form, such as Form S-3 or Form S-8, is used. In these circumstances, the SEC registration statement may not contain all of the information that the Commissioner will need to make a fair, just and equitable determination. In addition, the Commissioner's processing guidelines are generally slower than SEC practice if the SEC decides not to review the registration statement (a process which generally takes no more than a week) or a form, such as a Form S-8, is used which is automatically effective on the date it is filed with the SEC. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

The application will only be automatically effective if no stop order has been issued under Corp. Code § 25143, the application has been on file at least 10 days, and a statement of the maximum and minimum offering prices and maximum underwriting discounts and commissions has been on file for at least two days, or such shorter period of time as the Commissioner may approve [Corp. Code § 25111(c)]. Special procedures must be followed for offerings on Form S-3 or Form F-3 to made on a delayed or continuous basis pursuant to SEC Rule 415. [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 70-C (June 24, 1982, as revised Nov. 5, 1982, and Dec. 31, 1983)].

Any security issued by a person that is the issuer of any security registered under Section 12 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [15 U.S.C. § 78l], or issued by an investment company registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 [15 U.S.C. § 80a-1 et seq.], and which is not eligible for qualification by coordination may be qualified by notification [Corp. Code § 25112; see § 6H.215 (application by issuer notification)]. Qualification by notification affords the applicant two advantages:

- First, the information required for notification qualification is slightly less elaborate than that required for qualification by permit.

- Second, assuming that no stop order or order under Corp. Code § 25143(a) has been issued by the Commissioner, qualification automatically becomes effective on the tenth business day after filing the application or the last amendment thereto, or at any earlier time that the Commissioner may direct [Corp. Code § 25112(c)].

All other offers and sales required to be qualified as an issuer transaction must be qualified by permit [Corp. Code § 25113; see § 6H.220 (application by permit)]. The permit procedure contemplates that the Commissioner must take affirmative action in issuing a permit before the offer or sale of the securities becomes legally permissible [see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 6, Procedure for Qualification of Issuer Transactions, § 6.05 (Matthew Bender)].

The availability of these coordination and notification procedures provides a simpler process for those transactions that do not need extensive review by the Department of Corporations. Furthermore, qualification by coordination or notification is automatically effective [see Corp. Code §§ 25111(c), 25112(c)]. Under either of those two methods, the Commissioner has the burden to act and make an affirmative determination that the transaction is unfair, unjust, or inequitable in order to prevent the qualification from becoming effective. In contrast, qualification by permit becomes effective only upon issuance by the Commissioner of a permit authorizing the issuance of the securities [Corp. Code § 25113(c); see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 6, Procedure for Qualification of Issuer Transactions, § 6.01 (Matthew Bender)].

[c] Small Business Issuers

An applicant may file a small company application for qualification by permit if the applicant meets all of the following conditions [Corp. Code § 25113(b)(2); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.113.1]:

- The applicant is a California corporation or a foreign corporation which at the time of filing has 50 percent or more of its outstanding voting securities held of record by California residents and 50 percent or more of its property, payroll and sales for California franchise tax purposes in California (often referred to as a pseudo-California corporation).

- The applicant is not a "blind pool" company, an investment company under the Investment Company Act of 1940 or engaged in oil and gas exploration or production or mining and extractive industries. A "blind pool" company is one that is a development stage company that either does not have a specific business plan or purpose or has indicated that its business plan is to engage in mergers or acquisitions with unidentified other entities.

- The applicant is not subject to the reporting requirements of Section 13 or 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934.

- The offering is for voting common stock or preferred stock.

- The total amount of securities to be sold by the issuer is $1 million or less in any 12-month period, less any securities sold by the issuer during the preceding 12-month period pursuant to SEC Rule 504 or any other exemption under Section 3(b) of the Securities Act of 1933.

- The minimum offering price is at least $2.00 per share.

- The issuer undertakes that there will be no stock splits, stock dividends, spinoffs or mergers for two years following the offering.

- The net proceeds of the offering will be expended in the operations of the business.

- The offering is made on NASAA Form U-7.

- The applicant complies with any investor suitability or due diligence investigation requirements that may be imposed by the Commissioner.

- The application is reviewed and signed by a majority or the members of the Board of Directors of the applicant.

Small business issuers may be subject to less stringent investor suitability standards [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.01(e)], may incur higher selling expenses [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.20(b), (c)], and may issue more promotional shares [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.31(b)].

[3] Recapitalizations, Reorganizations, and Changes in Terms of Outstanding Securities

[a] Corp. Code § 25120 Qualification Requirement

The definition of a "sale" of a security includes any exchange of securities and any change in the rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on outstanding securities [Corp. Code § 25017; see § 6H.120]. Except as provided below, it is unlawful for any person to offer or sell in California any security in an issuer transaction in connection with any change in the rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on outstanding securities, in any exchange of securities by an issuer with its existing security holders exclusively, in any exchange in connection with mergers, consolidations, or purchase of corporate assets in consideration wholly or in part for the issuance of securities, or in an entity conversion transaction [Corp. Code § 25120(a); see Corp. Code § 25005.1 (definition)]. The above-stated prohibition, however, will not apply to a security if the security is qualified for sale pursuant to Corp. Code § 25121 (and no stop order under Corp. Code § 25140 or 25143(a) is in effect with respect to that qualification), or if the security or transaction is exempt [see Corp. Code §§ 25100-25105; see also Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues (exemptions)] or not subject to qualification as a result of federal preemption [Corp. Code § 25120(b); see Corp. Code §§ 25100.1, 25101.1, 25102.1; see also § 6H.24].

[b] Method of Qualifying Recapitalizations, Reorganizations, and Changes in Terms of Outstanding Securities

All reorganizations, recapitalizations, and changes in the terms of outstanding securities must be qualified by permit, unless the security or transaction is exempt [Corp. Code §§ 25100, 25103, 25105] or the security or transaction is not subject to qualification as a result of federal preemption [Corp. Code §§ 25100.1, 25101.1, 25102.1]. The procedures for qualification by coordination or notification [see [2][b], above] are not available for these types of transactions [see Corp. Code § 25121].

The application for a permit for a reorganization transaction is not the same as the application for a permit to qualify an issuer transaction. Generally, the items of information required to be included in the reorganization permit application [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.121; see also § 6H.250 (application for qualification of recapitalization or reorganization by permit)] follow the items set forth in Schedule 14A of Regulation 14A under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [see 17 C.F.R. §§ 240.14a-101], as required in a proxy statement with respect to such a transaction [see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 7, Recapitalizations and Reorganizations, § 7.10 (Matthew Bender)].

If qualification is required, no materials designed to solicit proxies or consents from security holders should be distributed without first being filed with the Commissioner. In addition, a permit must be issued [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.60].

A plan of reorganization for a merger or sale of substantially all the assets of one corporation to another must fairly reflect the relative value of the two organizations. In addition, a permit issued in connection with a transaction of this type may be conditioned upon a favorable vote of a specified percentage of the outstanding voting stock (without taking into account any stock held by those who may have a conflict of interest) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.61].

[4] Nonissuer Transactions

[a] Corp. Code § 25130 Qualification Requirement

Nonissuer transactions, commonly known as secondary trading, are those which neither directly nor indirectly benefit the issuer [Corp. Code § 25011; see also Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 10, Nonissuer Transactions, § 10.03[2] (distinction between issuer and nonissuer transactions) (Matthew Bender)]. A transaction is indirectly for the benefit of the issuer if any portion of the purchase price of any securities involved in the transaction will be received indirectly by the issuer [Corp. Code § 25011]. The term "purchase price" includes only the specific consideration bargained for in return for the securities, which may include the making of a loan to the issuer. It does not include any remote, contingent, or incidental benefit that may accrue to the issuer, such as the inducement to a person to become or remain an employee of the issuer or to perform other services for the issuer, even though a motive of the seller or purchaser is to obtain a remote, contingent, or incidental benefit for the issuer [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.011].

It is unlawful for any person to offer or sell any security in California in any nonissuer transaction unless it is qualified for sale under Corp. Code § 25131, 25111, or 25113 (and no stop order under Corp. Code § 25140 or 25143(a) is in effect with respect to that qualification) or unless the security or transaction is exempt [see Corp. Code §§ 25100-25105; see also Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues (exemptions)] or not subject to qualification as a result of federal preemption [Corp. Code § 25130; see Corp. Code §§ 25100.1, 25101.1, 25102.1; see also § 6H.24].

Ordinarily, securities that are subject to any of the following limitations will not be qualified for nonissuer transactions:

- Common shares that either are nonvoting or whose voting rights are disproportionate to other classes of common shares in relation to market price or equity interest.

- Securities that are not freely transferable, unless an application seeking removal of an escrow or legend condition is filed concurrently [see § 6H.265].

Securities are considered "not freely transferable" if they are subject to an escrow or legend condition, a right of first refusal, or are stock purchased for investment (letter stock). If, in the class sought to be qualified, some but not all securities are subject to these limitations, the application will not be denied solely on that ground provided adequate assurances are established against a distribution of the securities subject to the limitation [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.138].

[b] Methods of Qualifying Nonissuer Transactions

Nonissuer transactions involving securities registered under the Securities Act of 1933 may be qualified by coordination under Corp. Code § 25111 [see § 6H.205 (application for qualification by coordination)]. If the offering involves securities offered in a nonissuer transaction pursuant to an exemption under Regulation A [17 C.F.R. § 230.251 et seq.] of the Securities Act of 1933, qualification is by permit under Corp. Code § 25113 [see § 6H.220 (application for qualification by permit)]. All other nonissuer transactions are qualified by notification under Corp. Code § 25131 [Corp. Code § 25131(a); see § 6H.255 (application for qualification of nonissuer transaction by notification)].

[c] Standards for Qualification of Nonissuer Transactions

Because the availability of adequate information to the public regarding the issuer's condition is considered an essential element of the fairness inherent in any public nonissuer offer or sale, the Commissioner requires compliance with three general disclosure standards for nonissuer transactions [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.135; see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 10, Nonissuer Transactions, § 10.06 (Matthew Bender)]:

- First, the transaction will not be qualified unless it appears that full, complete, and accurate information is provided on all matters required to be stated in the application. Information may not be required if it is not known to the person filing the application or the persons on whose behalf the application is being filed and cannot be furnished by them without unreasonable effort [Corp. Code § 25131(d)]. An affidavit to this effect must be filed with the application [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.139].

- Second, all information contained in the application, whether required or not, must be accurate and not misleading.

- Third, it must not appear that the market in the security will be subject to manipulation or other artificial influences.

The failure of an issuer to make available to the public on a timely basis adequate and accurate information regarding developments materially affecting its affairs or securities normally will be deemed a factor indicating that the market in the security will be subject to artificial influence [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.135].

Furthermore, applications to qualify securities for nonissuer transactions are subject to the standards for review applied in the qualification of issuer transactions [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140-260.140.131.9; see also § 6H.23] only if the following conditions are satisfied [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.136]:

- An application is filed in connection with a proposed offering of the securities pursuant to a registration under the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77a et seq.] or pursuant to an exemption under Regulation A of that Act [17 C.F.R. § 230.251 et seq.].

PRACTICE TIP:

Issuers that are required to file periodic reports under Section 12 or 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 will satisfy this standard. Purchasers who may need to resell securities of an issuer that is not required to file periodic reports in a transaction that is not exempt from qualification should obtain an undertaking from the issuer that the issuer will either voluntarily file periodic reports under Section 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 or otherwise make available to the public on a timely basis adequate and accurate information regarding developments materially affecting its affairs or securities. In addition, the purchaser should obtain an undertaking from the issuer to provide the purchaser with any additional information regarding the issuer that the purchaser may reasonably request (such as audited financial statements) in order for the purchaser to meet its disclosure obligations. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

- The issuer, within 24 months immediately preceding the date of filing the application, had a public offering which was not qualified in California or that was qualified in California as a limited offering.

- A significant market for the securities proposed to be qualified does not presently exist in California. "A significant market in the securities" will be deemed to exist if the securities are held by not less than 100 persons in California and are subject to regular quotations of prices by at least one market maker.

Finally, an application to qualify securities for nonissuer transactions should show that the issuer's assets are productively employed in the operation of an ongoing business. Ordinarily an issuer showing annual gross receipts from operations of not less than $500,000 will be deemed to meet this requirement [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.137]. An issuer should not normally pay any of the expenses of a nonissuer transaction, unless there was an agreement between the issuer and the purchaser at the time the securities were sold to the purchaser that the issuer would pay those expenses [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.22(c)(1)].

§ 6H.22 Qualification Procedures

[1] Facing Page

All applications for qualification, whether by coordination, notification, or permit, must contain a specified "facing page" as the first page of an application. This form is specified in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.110 [see § 6H.200] for all applications other than qualification of a nonissuer transaction pursuant to Corp. Code § 25131, which contains its own facing page [see § 6H.255]. The facing page requirement arises from the Department of Corporations' records retention program. The Commissioner is authorized to destroy applications and permits after four years [see Corp. Code § 25619(a)], and to retain on microfilm or otherwise any portion of those records [see Corp. Code § 25619(c)]. Retention on microfilm of the facing page alone, which contains the applicant's basic information and Department of Corporations file number, will provide a permanent record of an applicant's basic information in the Commissioner's files [see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 6, Procedure for Qualification of Issuer Transactions, § 6.02[1] (Matthew Bender)].

The facing page for issuer transactions [see § 6H.200] requires the applicant to specify whether the application is for an open qualification or a limited offering qualification. An "open qualification" means a qualification that authorizes the offer and sale of the securities to the public generally, without restriction as to persons or class of persons [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.001(f)]. A "limited offering qualification" means a qualification that authorizes the offer and sale of securities only to persons designated therein by name or class [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.001(e)].

PRACTICE TIP:

The Commissioner frequently imposes transfer restrictions on securities issued in a limited offering qualification in order to be certain that the securities will not be immediately transferred to unsuitable purchasers. As a result, the primary benefit of qualification, the free transferability of securities, is generally not available for a limited offering. For this reason, most issuers prefer to take advantage of the limited offering exemptions, such as Corp. Code §§ 25102(e), (f), (n), or 25102.1(d), or the small offering exemption in Corp. Code § 25102(h), rather than using the limited offering qualification procedure in most circumstances. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

The distinction is usually applicable to the permit process, as most qualifications pursuant to coordination or notification will be open qualifications. The purpose of the distinction is to permit an appropriate review by the Commissioner of the proposed transaction in light of the sophistication and financial condition of the proposed purchasers of the securities [see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 6, Procedure for Qualification of Issuer Transactions, § 6.05[3] (Matthew Bender)]. For example, in order to qualify for an open offering, requirements such as the filing of semiannual reports [see Corp. Code § 25146; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.146] must be met [see § 6H.200[1][f] for further discussion]. Limited offering qualifications, intended to restrict the number of potential purchasers to those familiar with the risks involved in a particular security, may be subject to legend conditions restricting transfer [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.10; see also §§ 6H.23, 6H.200[1][g] for further discussion].

An application for an open qualification ordinarily will not be approved if the business in which the issuer is engaged is not reasonably anticipated to produce profits within a reasonable period of time. A period of time not exceeding 24 months after the date of approval is presumptively reasonable; however a longer period of time may be authorized in light of the proposed business, including the operational norms for the industry in which the business operates. [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.5] In addition, unseasoned corporations selling securities pursuant to an open qualification generally must have a capital structure consisting of only common stock or common stock and other securities that are convertible into common stock on a fair and equitable basis or are fully participating and non-redeemable [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.9]

Limited offering qualifications may also be approved to issue securities subject to transfer restrictions if the restrictions do not unfairly prejudice the rights of the holders to receive fair value. Securities may be sold in a limited offering qualification subject to repurchase rights and rights of first refusal which meet certain specified standards [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.8].

A limited offering qualification may also be approved pursuant to a condition imposed by the Commissioner or a representation by the applicant confining the offering to investors meeting certain standards of experience, financial responsibility, tax status, or other specifications. Special investor suitability rules have been established by the Commissioner for small business issuers (as defined in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.001(i)) if the offering will not exceed $5 million and the price of the security will be at least $2.00 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.1(e)]. The offering documents must summarize the investor suitability standards [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.1]. In addition, an investor suitability questionnaire may be used [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 8-C (Feb. 27, 1969); see § 6H.271]. The issuer will be responsibility for ensuring that all investors meet the applicable suitability standards [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.01].

[2] Application Forms

The application forms for coordination, notification, and permit are specified by regulation [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.111 (coordination), 260.112 (issuer notification), 260.113 (issuer permit), 260.121 (recapitalization/reorganization permit), 260.131 (nonissuer notification); see also §§ 6H.205, 6H.215, 6H.220, 6H.250, 6H.255, respectively]. A Form U-1 may be used in lieu of the state form for qualification by coordination, in which case the California facing page is not necessary [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.111; see also § 6H.206]. The items and exhibits required by the application for the type of qualification being used must be completed and attached. In lieu of answering any item in any of the forms, the applicant may incorporate the information by reference to any attached documents or documents previously filed with the Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.110.3].

PRACTICE TIP:

In some circumstances it may be advisable to file exhibits not expressly called for by the form in order to expedite processing of the application. For instance, an issuer seeking to qualify securities to be issued in connection with an employee benefit plan by coordination may want to file the proposed prospectus, the ERISA summary plan description and recent financial information since the Form S-8 no longer contains this type of information. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

Every application for qualification of an issuer transaction must be signed and verified by the issuer. Every application for qualification of a nonissuer transaction must be signed and verified by the person on whose behalf the offering is being made, or by the issuer on behalf of that person [Corp. Code § 25115]. Verification of an application must be done in the manner provided in the Code of Civil Procedure for the verification of pleadings [Corp. Code § 25160; see § 6H.245]. A consent to service of process in any noncriminal action arising against the applicant under the Corporate Securities Law must be filed with any application for qualification, unless a consent has been filed with a previous application or with a notice filing for a "covered security" under the National Securities Markets Improvement Act. [Corp. Code § 25165; see § 6H.239]. The consent to service of process must be (1) pursuant to the Uniform Consent to Service of Process (Form U-2) [see § 6H.240], pursuant to Form D [17 C.F.R. 239.500] filed with the Commissioner in connection with the transaction, (3) included in an electronic submission of a filing, or (4) in the California form set out in the regulation [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.165]. In addition, a Customer Authorization of Disclosure of Financial Records must be filed [see § 6H.241].

All financial statements required to be filed must be prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, including a balance sheet as of a date within 90 days prior to the date of the application and statements of income and statements of cash flow for each of the three years preceding the date of the balance sheet; the time period is reduced to two years for small business issuers. In addition, if the aggregate proceeds of the offering and all other offerings made by the issuer during the prior 12 months do not exceed $500,000, the financial statements may be "reviewed" rather than audited [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.613]. An entity is a small business issuer if it has annual revenues of less than $12.5 million and is a California corporation or a foreign corporation that meets the pseudo-California corporation standards and is not an investment company or a blind pool company. In addition, if the issuer is a majority-owned subsidiary of another company, that company must also be a small business issuer [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.001(i)]. The applicant's auditors may also need to review any prospective financial information submitted by the applicant to establish that the applicant is reasonably likely to be profitable within a two-year period [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.5(b)]. A consent of the applicant's auditors, along with that of any other expert used by the applicant, must be filed with the application. If an application is being filed by coordination, the issuer may incorporate the consent filed with the SEC registration statement by reference [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.504.2.2].

[3] Filing and Fees

An application for qualification must be filed with the Department of Corporations. The current addresses of its offices are as follows [see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 13-G (Revised; June 10, 2004)]:

320 West 4th Street, Suite 750
Los Angeles, CA 90013-2344
Telephone: (213) 576-7500

71 Stevenson Street, Suite 2100
San Francisco, CA 94105-2980
Telephone: (415) 972-8559

1515 K Street, Suite 200
Sacramento, CA 95814-4017
Telephone: (916) 445-7205

The filing fees for qualification are set forth in Corp. Code § 25608 [see also Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set any fee at amount below maximum set forth in § 25608); § 6H.200]. Although documents are filed when received by the Commissioner, no qualification can become effective until the appropriate fee is paid [Corp. Code § 25615].

[4] Post-Filing Amendments

An applicant must promptly supply by amendment, prior to the effectiveness of qualification, any information based on facts occurring after the original date of filing that is necessary to supplement or correct the information contained in the original application so as to make that information not materially misleading as of the effective date of the qualification [Corp. Code § 25160]. An amendment to an application should contain only the information being amended by item number, and must be verified in the form prescribed for the application. Each amendment should be accompanied by a completely filled-in facing page [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.110], on which the applicant must insert the fact that the filing is an amendment and the number of the amendment, if more than one [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.110.4]. The amendment must include a recalculation of the fee payable resulting from the change reflected in the amended application, plus $50 for an application filed after the effective date of the original qualification [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.162]. An amendment to an application filed after the effective date of the qualification of the sale of securities, if approved by the Commissioner, will become effective on the date determined by the Commissioner based on the public interest and protection of investors [Corp. Code § 25162; see also § 6H.200[1][j]].

§ 6H.23 Standards for Qualification

[1] Application of Fair, Just, and Equitable Standard

In connection with any application for qualification, the Commission must determine whether the proposed plan of business of the applicant and the proposed issuance of securities is fair, just, and equitable. With respect to qualification by issuer permit [Corp. Code § 25113; see § 6H.21[2]], the Commissioner may refuse to issue a permit unless he or she finds that the proposed plan of business of the applicant and the proposed issuance of securities are fair, just, and equitable; that the applicant intends to transact its business fairly and honestly; and that the securities which it proposes to issue and the methods to be used by it in issuing them are not such that, in his or her opinion, will work a fraud upon the purchasers [see Corp. Code § 25140(b)].

PRACTICE TIP:

It may be possible to expedite processing of the application if counsel outlines the manner in which the Commissioner's processing guidelines have been satisfied and the location in the plans or contracts filed of information evidencing the satisfaction of these guidelines. This approach is particularly useful for offerings subject to detailed standards, such as employee stock option plans. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

Similarly, the Commissioner may refuse to issue a permit for recapitalization or reorganization [Corp. Code § 25122; see § 6H.21[3]] unless he or she finds that the proposed plan of recapitalization or reorganization and the proposed issuance of securities are fair, just and equitable to all security holders affected [Corp. Code § 25140(c)]. Furthermore, the Commissioner may suspend or revoke any permit issued pursuant to Corp. Code § 25113 or 25122 if he or she finds (1) that the order is in the public interest, and (2) that the proposed plan of business of the issuer or the proposed issuance or sale of securities is not fair, just, or equitable; that the issuer does not intent to transact its business fairly or honestly; or that the securities proposed to be issue or the method to be used in issuing them will tend to work a fraud upon the purchaser [Corp. Code § 25140(a)(1)].

With respect to qualification by coordination [Corp. Code § 25111; see § 6H.21[2]] or notification [Corp. Code §§

25112, 25131; see § 6H.21[2], [4]], the Commissioner may issue a stop order denying effectiveness to, or suspending or revoking the effectiveness of, any qualification of an underwritten offering of securities under Corp. Code § 25111, 25112, or 25131 for those same reasons [Corp. Code § 25140(a)(1); see § 6H.205[1][f]]. In the case of an offering of securities that is not underwritten, the Commissioner may issue the stop order unless he or she finds (1) that the stop order is not in the public interest, and (2) that the proposed plan of business of the applicant or the proposed issuance securities is fair, just, and equitable; that the issuer intends to transact its business fairly or honestly; or that the securities that the issuer proposes to issue or the method to be used in issuing them are not such that will tend to work a fraud upon the purchaser [Corp. Code § 25140(a)(2)]. Thus, for offerings that are underwritten, the burden of making the specific finding is on the Commissioner. For offerings that are not underwritten, the burden is shifted to the applicant [see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 8, Standards for the Exercise of the Commissioner's Discretion, § 8.01[1]] (Matthew Bender).

Guidelines for the exercise of the Commissioner's discretion under the fair, just, and equitable standard are set forth in 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140-260.140.131.9 [see §§ 6H.205, 6H.215]. The standards, however, do not preclude the Commissioner from imposing more stringent standards in either an open or a limited qualification, if the Commissioner believes more stringent standards are appropriate, unless otherwise expressly stated in the rules [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140].

Securities generally must be non-assessable, unless the issuer is organized solely to provide services or property to its members on a continuing basis [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.7]. For a discussion of standards applicable to the issuance of debt securities generally, see Ch. 6J, Issuance of Debt Securities . For a discussion of standards applicable to the issuance of equity securities generally, see Ch. 6I, Issuance of Equity Securities . In addition, the Commissioner has established standards for the amount of selling expenses that the Commissioner deems to be reasonable [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.20], the amount of promotional shares, if any, that may be issued in the offering and the terms of those promotional shares [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.30-260.140.32], and the fairness of the offering price [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.50, 260.140.51].

For extensive discussion of those rules, see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 8, Standards for the Exercise of the Commissioner's Discretion (Matthew Bender).

Specific standards applicable to nonissuer qualifications are set forth in 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.135-260.140.139. Applications to qualify securities for nonissuer transactions are subject to the standards for review applied in the qualification of issuer transactions in certain circumstances [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.136; see § 6H.21[4][c]].

[2] Conditions of Qualification

Corp. Code § 25141 authorizes the Commissioner to impose conditions on the qualification of issuer transactions and reorganization transactions. These conditions may require any of the following:

- Depositing in escrow.
- Imposing a legend condition on the securities restricting transfer.
- Impounding the proceeds of sale until sufficient securities are sold.
- Limiting selling expenses.
- Waiving assets, dividends, or voting rights of promotional securities.
- Any other condition necessary to prevent the offering from being unfair, unjust, or inequitable.

The Commissioner may modify or remove any such conditions when, in his or her opinion, they are no longer necessary or appropriate [Corp. Code § 25141]. Violation of any of these conditions exposes the violator to both civil and criminal liability [see Corp. Code §§ 25503, 25540].

Forms relating to conditions of qualification are set forth in §§ 6H.260-6H.267. For extensive discussion of those conditions, see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 9, Conditions of Qualification (Matthew Bender).

§ 6H.24 Federal Preemption of State Securities Regulation

The National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996 (NSMIA) [Pub. L. No. 104-290, 110 Stat. 3416 (H.R. 3005)] made significant changes to the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77a et seq.], the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [15 U.S.C. § 78a et seq.], the Investment Company Act of 1940 [15 U.S.C. § 80a-1 et seq.], and the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 [15 U.S.C. § 80b-1 et seq.]. Most significant to California practice is NSMIA prohibition on state regulation of certain issuers and transactions, by means of federal preemption, in many areas of securities regulation that formerly were subject to dual regulation by the states under blue sky laws and by the SEC or other federal agencies. The effect of NSMIA was to eliminate or restrict application of the California securities laws, including California qualification requirements, to securities covered by NSMIA's preemption provisions.

Section 18 of the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77r], as amended by NSMIA, provides that no state may prohibit an offering or sale in the state, impose additional disclosure requirements, impose "merit" standards, require the registration or qualification of a security or transaction, or prohibit or limit the use of any offering document prepared on behalf of the issuer in an offering (including proxy statements and reports to shareholders required to be filed under Section 15A of the 1934 Act [15 U.S.C. § 78o-3] unless the issuer is incorporated in the state) if the security offered is a "covered" security [15 U.S.C. § 77r(a)]. However, the states may continue to impose notice filing requirements and filing fees in some circumstances, and to investigate and bring enforcement actions for fraud or unlawful conduct by a broker and dealer [15 U.S.C. § 77r(c)(2)]. California has adopted notice filing requirements for "covered securities" under NSMIA in Corp. Code §§ 25100.1, 25101.1, and 25102.1.

For more detailed discussion of NSMIA, and a guide to determining whether or not a particular security is subject to NSMIA preemption provisions, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues . For extensive coverage of the Act and its interaction with California securities laws, see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 3A, Federal Preemption of State Securities Regulation (Matthew Bender).

§ 6H.25 NASAA's Coordinated Equity Review Program

In response to the NSMIA [see § 6H.24] and other developments in the securities markets, the North American Securities Administrators Association, Inc. (NASAA) has established the Coordinated Review of Equity Offerings program (CER), a pilot program designed to build on coordination efforts by NASAA. The Commissioner of Corporations has announced the participation of the California Department of Corporations in the CER program [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 111-C (Apr. 16, 1998)].

The CER program provides for coordination of review among sister state securities regulators that allows each participating state to avoid the duplication of another state's regulatory efforts and resources in reviewing each application. Under CER, an issuer requests coordination of review by notifying the Department of its intent to participate under CER. The issuer then files a complete application with the Department and any other state in which the issuer seeks to offer securities. A "lead state" is then appointed to manage the coordination process among the participating states. The Department reviews a California offering application and forwards all comments and other issues raised by the application to the lead state. The lead state has the responsibility to combine all of the relevant comments into a single letter that is then forwarded to the issuer. Under CER, all negotiations related to a particular offering are conducted with a single state regulator. Individual state-specific comments may necessitate additional interaction with the issuer outside of the lead state relationship [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 111-C (Apr. 16, 1998)].

States participating in CER have agreed to adhere to the guidelines promulgated by NASAA, except to the extent that the guidelines contradict state law, including rules and orders. The purpose of the guidelines is to provide a basis for uniformity among the states without contravening state law, including rules and orders. To facilitate its participation in the pilot program, the Department has appointed an internal working group to oversee and review CER applications. This group is responsible for maintaining the consistency of the review process and insuring that each applicant is in compliance with the Corporate Securities Law of 1968. Variances from the requirements of the Commissioner's rules will be considered on an ad hoc basis, consistent with Rule 260.140 [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 111-C (Apr. 16, 1998); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140]. Information on the NASAA guidelines can be found online at NASAA's website, which is located at http://www.nasaa.org.

§ 6H.26 Advertising

No person may publish an advertisement in California concerning any security sold or offered for sale in California if the offering must be qualified in California, unless a copy of the advertisement has been on file with the Commissioner for at least three days or a shorter period of time that may be authorized by the Commissioner [Corp. Code § 25300]. Any permit issued by the Commissioner automatically constitutes an order waiving the three-day time period [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.300]. Preliminary prospectus distributed in connection with a nationwide offering in which a registration statement has been filed with the SEC may also be distributed as long as no stop order is in effect under either state or federal law and no proceeding is pending with respect to the issuance of any such stop order [Letter From Assistant Commissioner (Nov. 1, 1985)].

The term "advertisement" refers to any written or printed communication or any communication by means or recorded telephone messages or spoken on radio, television, or similar communications media, published in connection with the offering or sale of a security [Corp. Code § 25002]. An advertisement is published if it is publicly issued or circulated by newspaper, mail, radio or television or otherwise disseminated to the public [Corp. Code § 25014].

PRACTICE TIP:

All preliminary prospectuses or prospectuses used in connection with an offering will, of course, be advertisements. Care must be taken, however, to be certain that other materials will not inadvertently be considered advertisements. "Due diligence" material provided to underwriters in connection with an offering should not be provided to potential investors [see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 40-C (Jan. 3, 1975)]. Advertising to promote an issuer's product or services should not be so closely related to the offering that it might be deemed to be advertising. In addition, care should be exercised in conducting pre-offering exploratory activities to be certain that these activities do not involve the publication of an advertisement [see Commissioner's Opinion No. 98/1C]. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

The Commissioner has published guidelines for advertisements [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.302; see § 6H.180 for a discussion of these guidelines]. In addition, if the advertisement refers to an exemption from or reduction in taxation under any law, the name of counsel providing the tax opinion should be stated in the advertisement [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 23-C (Nov. 12, 1971)].

This outline is for use in collecting the information required for the most extensive (that is, permit) form of application [see § 6H.21[2][b]]. Not all of the information in the checklist is necessary for every form of qualification. If a less extensive form of qualification (for example, issuer notification) [see § 6H.21[2][b]] is available, the attorney may use that application form as a checklist for assembling the required information [see § 6H.150 (prefiling procedure and preparation of application)].

Because a significant amount of financial data is required for each form of qualification, the applicant's accountant should either attend the interview or supply the requisite financial statements and reports.

B. Preliminary Determinations to Qualification of Securities

3-6H California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 6H.120

AUTHOR: Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6H.120 Determining Whether Security Must Be Qualified in California

1. Determine whether instrument or interest in question constitutes a "security" for purposes of California Corporate Securities Law [for applicable determinations, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues, § 6.110].

NOTE:
If the instrument is not a security, the California securities laws, including the requirement of qualification, are inapplicable. However, "security" is very broadly defined under California law [see Corp. Code § 25019].

2. Determine whether transaction involves an "offer" or "sale" [for applicable determinations, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues, § 6.111; see also Corp. Code § 25017 (statutory definitions)].

3. Determine whether offer to buy or sell is made in California [for applicable determinations, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues, § 6.112; see also Corp. Code § 25008(a), (b)].

4. If interest is a security, determine whether security or transaction are subject to preemption provisions of National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996 [Pub. L. No. 104-290, 110 Stat. 3416 (H.R. 3005)] and therefore not subject to Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, and 25130 [for applicable determinations, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues, § 6.117].

5. If interest is a security and regulation is not preempted by federal law, determine whether security is exempt from qualification under California law [for applicable determinations, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues, § 6.115].

NOTE:

Every security that is offered or sold in California must be qualified, unless the security or the transaction is exempted from qualification [see Corp. Code § 25110(a)] or is subject to the federal preemption provisions. An exemption from qualification may exist either because the security itself is exempt or because it is involved in an exempt transaction. For a detailed discussion of California exemptions, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues .

6. If security is not exempt from qualification, determine whether specific transaction is exempt from qualification [for applicable determinations, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues, § 6.116].

§ 6H.121 Determining Applicable Form of Qualification

1. For issuer transactions [see § 6H.21[2]]:

NOTE:

Issuer transactions are those in which the person that issues or proposes to issue a security distributes the issue to investors for the first time. An issuer transaction is one directly or indirectly for the issuer's benefit [see Corp. Code § 25010]. An offering which involves both an issuer and a nonissuer transaction [see P 2, below] will be treated for qualification purposes as an issuer transaction [Corp. Code § 25011].

a. Determine whether registration statement will have to be filed under Federal Securities Act of 1933 [see 15 U.S.C. § 77a et seq.] in connection with same offering, thereby allowing issuer to use qualification by coordination procedure in California.

NOTE:

If the issuer is required to file a federal registration statement under the 1933 Act, qualification by coordination is available in California [see § 6H.205 for applicable form]. Qualification by coordination is a streamlined procedure that permits the issuer to file the same papers with California regulators as are filed with the SEC [see Corp. Code § 25111(b)]. The qualification becomes effective simultaneously with the registration statement under the 1933 Act being declared effective by the SEC [Corp. Code § 25111(c); see § 6H.21[2][b]].

b. If qualification by coordination under Corp. Code § 25111 [see P a, above] is not available, determine whether qualification by notification is available.

NOTE:
Qualification by notification is available if the criteria specified in either P (1) or (2), below, are met [Corp. Code § 25112(a) see § 6H.215 for applicable form]. The procedure for qualification by notification is less elaborate than that for qualification by permit [see P c, below], and becomes automatically effective on the 10th business day after the application (or the last amendment to the application) is filed, subject to satisfaction of specified conditions [see Corp. Code § 25112(c); see also § 6H.21[2][b]].

(1) Is security issued by person who issued any security registered under Section 12 of Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [15 U.S.C. § 78l]?

(2) Is security issued by investment company registered under Investment Company Act of 1940 [15 U.S.C. § 80a-1 et seq.]?

c. If neither qualification by coordination [see P a, above] nor qualification by notification [see P b, above] is available, qualification must be made by permit [see § 6H.220 for applicable form].

NOTE:
The permit procedure requires the Commissioner of Corporations to take affirmative action in issuing a permit before the offer or sale of the securities becomes legally permissible [see Corp. Code § 25113; see also § 6H.21[2][b]].

2. For nonissuer transactions [see § 6H.21[4]]:

NOTE:
Nonissuer transactions, commonly known as secondary trading, are those which neither directly nor indirectly benefit the issuer [Corp. Code § 25011].

a. Determine whether transaction involves securities registered under Securities Act of 1933 [see 15 U.S.C. § 77a et seq.], thereby allowing issuer to use qualification by coordination procedure in California [Corp. Code § 25111(a); see § 6H.205 for applicable form].

b. Determine whether offering involves securities offered in nonissuer transaction pursuant to exemption under Regulation A of Securities Act of 1933 [17 C.F.R. § 230.251 et seq.], thereby requiring issuer to use qualification by permit under Corp. Code § 25113 [Corp. Code § 25131(a); see § 6H.220 for applicable form].

c. If neither (a) nor (b), above, is applicable, qualification must be made by notification under Corp. Code § 25131 [Corp. Code § 25131(a); see § 6H.255 for applicable form].

3. Determine whether transaction constitutes recapitalization, reorganization, or change in terms of outstanding securities [Corp. Code § 25120; see § 6H.21[3]], thereby requiring issuer to use qualification by permit [Corp. Code § 25121; see § 6H.250[2] (form)].

NOTE:
Except as provided below, is unlawful for any person to offer or sell any security in an issuer transaction in connection with any change in the rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on outstanding securities, in any exchange of securities by an issuer with its existing security holders exclusively, in any exchange in connection with mergers, consolidations, or purchase of corporate assets in consideration wholly or in part for the issuance of securities, or in an entity conversion transaction [Corp. Code § 25120(a); see Corp. Code § 25005.1 (definition)]. The above-stated prohibition, however, will not apply to a security if the security is qualified for sale pursuant to Corp. Code § 25121 (and no stop order under Corp. Code § 25140 or 25143(a) is in effect with respect to that qualification), or if the security or transaction is exempt [see Corp. Code §§ 25100-25105] or not subject to qualification [Corp. Code § 25120(b)]. Qualification must be made by permit for this type of transaction [Corp. Code § 25121; see § 6H.250 for applicable form].

§ 6H.150 Prefiling Procedure and Preparation of Application

1. Arrange (by telephone or letter) prefiling conference with Department of Corporations counsel to discuss any specific problems of particular application, if necessary.

NOTE:
In any proceeding before the Commissioner, an applicant may be represented by an attorney admitted to practice before either the Court of Appeals or the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.11].

2. Assemble facts and documents for prefiling conference and for application for qualification [see §§ 6H.100-6H.104].

3. Prepare application (or notice) either on form provided by Department of Corporations or in form prescribed by Commissioner's rules.

NOTE:
Applications must be typewritten or printed in English on one side only of legal or letter-size paper [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.110.1].

a. Prepare facing page [see § 6H.200].

NOTE:
A facing page is required for all applications for qualification [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.110] except nonissuer transaction, which has its own form of facing page [10 Cal.

Code Reg. § 260.131; see § 6H.255]. However, if qualification is by coordination and the applicant substitutes Form U-1 [see § 6H.206] for the local form [see § 6H.200], the facing page is unnecessary.

b. Complete items and attach exhibits called for by form of application for qualification being used.

NOTE:

Any information required by any item or exhibit may be incorporated by reference to any information currently on file with the Commissioner [Corp. Code § 25161; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.110.3].

(1) For items and exhibits required for qualification by coordination, see form in § 6H.205[2].

(2) For items and exhibits required for qualification by issuer notification, see form in § 6H.215[2].

(3) For items and exhibits required for qualification by permit, see form in § 6H.220[2].

(4) For items and exhibits required for qualification by recapitalization/reorganization permit, see form in § 6H.250[2].

(5) For items and exhibits required for qualification by nonissuer notification, see form in § 6H.255[2].

c. Determine fees required for form of application for qualification [see Corp. Code § 25608; see also § 6H.200] and obtain check payable to "Department of Corporations" to include with filing.

NOTE:

Documents are filed when received by the Commissioner, but no qualification can become effective until the appropriate fee is paid [Corp. Code § 25615].

d. Have application signed by officer or general partner of applicant [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.110.2].

NOTE:

If applicant has given power of attorney for signing to special attorney-in-fact, include as exhibit a copy of the power or corporate resolution authorizing that signing [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.110.2]. Small company applications must be reviewed and signed by each member of the board of directors [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.110.2; see Corp. Code § 25113(b)(2)].

e. Verify application in manner provided for verification of pleadings [see § 6H.244].

4. Prepare consent to service of process using California form [see § 6H.239] or Form U-2 [see § 6H.240].

NOTE:

A consent to service of process [see § 6H.239] or Form U-2 [see § 6H.240] must be filed with any application for qualification, application or notice that a security or transaction is not subject to qualification [see Corp. Code §§ 25100.1, 25101.1, 25102.1], and any application or notice of exemption from qualification, unless such a consent has been previously filed [Corp. Code § 25165].

§ 6H.151 Filing Procedure

NOTE:

Normally, only the original must be filed. However, the Commissioner may request or require by rule additional copies. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, any application for qualification required to be signed that is filed in California as an electronic record pursuant to a nationwide central depository for qualification or registration of securities, or any electronic record filed through the Central Registration Depository or the Investment Adviser Registration Depository, will be deemed a valid original document on reproduction to paper form by the Department of Corporations [Corp. Code § 25612.5(c)]. "Electronic record" means a record created, generated, sent, communicated, received, or stored by electronic means [Corp. Code § 25612.5(d); Civ. Code § 1633.2(g)].

1. File application for qualification of securities in any office of Department of Corporations [see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 13-G (Revised; June 10, 2004)]:

a. 320 West 4th Street, Suite 750, Los Angeles, CA 90013-2344.

b. 71 Stevenson Street, Suite 2100, San Francisco, CA 94105-2980.

c. 1515 K Street, Suite 200, Sacramento, CA 95814-4017.

2. If qualification is by coordination [Corp. Code § 25111]:

a. File application not later than 20th business day following filing of registration statement with SEC, except in case of Form S-3 or Form F-3 registrant using SEC Rule 415 [17 C.F.R. § 230.415] for offering on delayed or continuous basis, in which case filing must be made within two business days of date of filing registration statement with SEC [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.111.1].

b. Offer securities at any time during period statement is filed with SEC so long as no stop order or refusal order is in effect federally or locally and no federal hearing on such an order is pending [Corp. Code § 25102(b)].

c. Do not sell securities until moment federal registration becomes effective [Corp. Code § 25111(c)], so long as:
(1) No stop order is in effect.

(2) Application has been on file with Commissioner for at least 10 days.

(3) Statement of maximum and minimum proposed offering prices and maximum underwriting discounts and commissions has been on file for two business days (unless time has been shortened by Commissioner), and offering is made within those limits [Corp. Code § 25111(c)].

3. If qualification is by issuer notification [Corp. Code § 25112] or nonissuer notification [Corp. Code § 25131], do not offer or sell securities until 12:00 P.M. (California time) of 10th business day after filing of application or last amendment to application (unless Commissioner allows an earlier time), so long as no stop order or suspension is in effect [Corp. Code §§ 25112(c), 25131(c)].

4. If the qualification is by issuer permit [Corp. Code § 25113] or by recapitalization/reorganization permit [Corp. Code § 25121], do not offer or sell securities until Commissioner has issued permit [Corp. Code §§ 25113(c), 25122].

5. If escrow is made condition in exceptional and speculative circumstances of promotional shares, select and nominate escrow holder for Commissioner's approval [see § 6H.264].

§ 6H.152 Post-Filing Procedure

1. Amend pending application, if required [see Corp. Code § 25160; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.110.4].

a. Check that all information submitted to date will be true and complete as of time qualification becomes effective.

b. Prior to qualification, promptly supply information as to facts occurring after original date of filing that is necessary to supplement or correct information contained in original so as to render it not materially misleading.

c. Prepare completely filled-in facing page, indicating by checking appropriate box whether amendment is preeffective or posteffective, and giving number of amendment if more than one; include only those other items by appropriate number that are being amended [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.110.4, 260.162].

d. Include recalculation of fee payable resulting from change reflected in amended application plus $50 for application filed after effective date of the original qualification [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.162].

e. Verify amendment in manner provided for original application.

f. If application is for qualification by coordination [Corp. Code § 25111]:
(1) Promptly notify Commissioner by telephone, telegram, or fax [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.11.1] of date and time federal registration became effective, and content of price amendment, if any [see § 6H.208].

(2) Promptly file post effective amendment to application containing information and documents in price amendment.

NOTE:
"Price amendment" means the final federal amendment that fills in the previously permitted fluctuating or blank price figures [see Corp. Code § 25111(c); see also § 6H.208].

PRACTICE TIP:
The Commissioner's processing guidelines deviate from common SEC practice in that pricing amendments are no longer required to be filed with the SEC in many circumstances. In these circumstances the final form of prospectus which contains the final pricing information should be filed with the Commissioner in lieu of the pricing amendment. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

(3) If conditions appear to justify request, apply to Commissioner for order shortening time required for filing application or statements or waiving requirement for filing price ranges.

(4) If fact is apparent, notify Commissioner when federal registration statement will become effective and request return collect communication as to whether all California conditions appear to have been satisfied.

(5) If conditions are not satisfied locally by time federal registration is effective, commence sale only when local conditions finally are satisfied.

2. If financial or other information is of private nature, request Commissioner to treat matter confidentially and withhold from public access [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10; see § 6H.275].

3. If project calling for qualification of securities has been terminated pending application, request consent to withdraw application [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.16; see § 6H.277].

4. If overpayment has been made in connection with filing and refund has not automatically been made, request refund [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.15; see § 6H.276].

§ 6H.180 Advertising Securities for Offer or Sale

1. Do not publish [as defined in Corp. Code § 25014] any advertisement in California involving offer or sale of securities if true copy of advertisement [as defined in Corp. Code § 25002] has not been on file with Commissioner for at least three business days prior to publication, unless [Corp. Code § 25300(a)]:

a. Commissioner allows shorter period pursuant to rule or order; or

NOTE:
For example, an investment company with a currently effective qualification [see Corp. Code § 25111(c)] has 10 calendar days after initial publication in California in which to file an advertisement with the Commissioner [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.300.2].

b. Advertisement is exempt [see Corp. Code § 25300(b); see also P 2, below].

2. Determine whether advertisement is exempt from filing by virtue of one of following factors [Corp. Code § 25300(b); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.300]:

a. Advertisement is permitted or required by § 5(b)(2) or § 2(10)(b) of Securities Act of 1933 [see 15 U.S.C. § 77b(a)(10), 77e(b)(2)] with respect to security registered under Securities Act of 1933 and qualified in California [Corp. Code § 25300(b)(4)].

b. Advertisement is by investment company or unit investment trust that has previously qualified sale of its securities or that is substantially same as previously qualified unit investment trust [Corp. Code § 25300(b)(6); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.300.2; see Corp. Code § 25111(d)].

3. Comply with Commissioner's standards relating to all advertising, other than "tombstone" advertisements [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.302]:

NOTE:

The "tombstone" ad concept is derived from the provisions of the Securities Act of 1933, Section 2(10)(b) [15 U.S.C. § 77b(a)(10)], and SEC Rules 134, 256(c) [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.134, 230.251(d)(1)(ii)(C)], which permit a stylized form of advertisement as an exception to more stringent prospectus or offering circular requirements. Although it has a certain liberalized scope, it normally is drafted to include only the following essentials: the size of the offering; the type of security being offered; the name of the issuer; the price of the security; and the selling agents from whom a more detailed advertisement may be obtained.

a. Make no statement or inference that investment in the security is safe; that continuation of earnings or dividends is assured; that failure, default, or loss is impossible or unlikely [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.302(a)].

b. If reference to state qualification of securities is made, publish in capital letters of not less than 10-point type following legend, printed in contrasting color or type [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.302(d)]:

THE COMMISSIONER OF CORPORATIONS OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA DOES NOT RECOMMEND OR ENDORSE THE PURCHASE OF THESE SECURITIES.

c. If advertisement refers to exemption from or reduction in taxation under any law, state name of counsel on whose opinion statement is based [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.302(e)].

NOTE:

Any reference to an exemption from or reduction in taxes should be based on an opinion of counsel [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.302(e)]. Because some attorneys do not want their names published in conjunction with such an advertisement, the Commissioner will consider the name requirement satisfied if the advertisement states that (1) the counsel's name is printed in the prospectus, or (2) the counsel's name is on file with the department, if the prospectus has been filed with the Department of Corporations [see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 23-C (Nov. 12, 1971)].

d. Indicate name and address of person using advertisement [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.302(f)].

e. If endorsement (either express or implied, e.g., by photograph) of public figure is featured, fully disclose any compensation or benefit arranged for that person [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.302(g)].

f. State right, if reserved, to avoid payment of interest on debt securities by redemption prior to final maturity [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.302(i)].

g. Examine all advertisements for issuer transactions to ensure conformity with terms and conditions of qualification, and with representations in application for qualification.

NOTE:

The offer or sale of a security in an issuer transaction (other than a merger, consolidation, or assets-for-securities transaction subject to Corp. Code § 25120) in a manner that varies or differs from, exceeds the scope of, or fails to conform with either a material term or material condition of qualification of the offering as set forth in the permit or qualification order, or with a material representation as to the manner of offering that is set forth in the application for qualification, is an unqualified offer or sale [Corp. Code § 25110].

4. Unless "tombstone" advertisement is involved [see P 3, above], disclose relevant facts concerning the following fairly and accurately, so as to make advertisement not misleading [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.302]:

a. Nature of securities.

b. Terms and conditions of securities.

c. Nature and financial condition of business enterprise.

5. Unless "tombstone" ad is used [see P 3, above], comply with following specific standards required by Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.302]:

a. Disclose all relevant details as to promotional shares, options, warrants, and rights issued or proposed to be issued [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.302(b)].

b. Make financial data relating to current or past condition clear, intelligible, and reasonably complete [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.302(c)(1)].

c. Prepare current financial exhibits as of date reasonably close in time to advertisement; show preparation date and date to which financial condition is reflected [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.302(c)(2)].

d. Accompany past financial exhibits with current financial exhibits [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.302(c)(3)].

e. Accompany statements of average earnings for period over one year with statements of earnings for each individual year involved if variations are significant [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.302(c)(4)].

f. Do not use "pro forma" financial statements (unless in connection with recapitalizations and reorganizations) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.302(c)(5)].

g. Base future finances exhibits only on past earnings records, project earnings for reasonable period only, and substantiate by data clearly supporting estimates [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.302(c)(6)].

§ 6H.181 General Requirements for Distribution of Qualified Securities

1. Do not offer or sell securities during any period in which stop or suspension order issued by Commissioner with regard to those securities is in effect [Corp. Code § 25114].

NOTE:
The stop order period does not serve to extend the time of effectiveness of the qualification but in actuality cuts down the available marketing period.

2. Do not continue to offer or sell securities beyond one year from effective date of qualification, unless Commissioner allows different period [Corp. Code § 25114].

3. File posteffective amendment to application as necessary to deviate from plan of application as originally submitted to and approved by Commissioner [see § 6H.200].

a. Pay fee of $50 for filing posteffective amendment to application for qualification, plus any additional fee resulting from that amendment as affecting original filing fee factors [Corp. Code § 25608(n); see also Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set any fee at amount below maximum set forth in Corp. Code § 25608)].

b. Do not offer or sell securities under plan as proposed to be amended until qualified by Commissioner.

NOTE:
If approved by the Commissioner, an amendment to an application filed after the effective date of qualification or sale becomes effective on whatever date the Commissioner determines, with due regard to the public interest and protection of investors [Corp. Code § 25162].

4. File semiannual reports to keep financial (or other specifically required) information in application to date for 18 months after qualification has become effective, if offering is subject to open qualification [Corp. Code § 25146; see § 6H.274].

5. Before sale of security, deliver prospectus or proxy statement to each offeree if [Corp. Code § 25148]:

a. Qualification is by notification or permit.

b. Prospectus or proxy statement is otherwise required by federal authority.

c. Delivery of prospectus is required by Commissioner of Corporations.

6. For limited offering qualification, distribute securities only to persons designated by name or class as stated in application and approved by Commissioner in qualification [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.01].

7. For open qualification subject to written commitment to limit distribution to suitable investors, obtain suitability representation letters from investors [see § 6H.271].

8. Examine offer or sale of issuer transaction to ensure conformity with terms and conditions of qualification, and with representations in application for qualification.

NOTE:

The offer or sale of a security in an issuer transaction (other than a merger, consolidation, or assets-for-securities transaction subject to Corp. Code § 25120) in a manner that varies or differs from, exceeds the scope of, or fails to conform with either a material term or material condition of qualification of the offering as set forth in the permit or qualification order, or with a material representation as to the manner of offering that is set forth in the application for qualification, is an unqualified offer or sale [Corp. Code § 25110].

9. Place legend on security if required by Commissioner or necessary to assure compliance with representations made to the Commissioner [see Ch. 6I, Issuance of Equity Securities ; Ch. 6J, Issuance of Debt Securities].

§ 6H.182 Selling Under Impound Condition

NOTE:
When the offering of securities is not firmly underwritten, the Commissioner considers that the following conditions normally require the imposition of an impound condition: (1) that a specific minimum amount of funds is necessary to finance the proposed undertaking as described in the application, and (2) that it is inadvisable for the issuer to expend any of the proceeds from the sale of securities prior to receipt of that minimum amount [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.20]. The procedures described below should be followed when such a condition is imposed.

1. Select one of following as depositary [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.23(a)]:

NOTE:
Funds subject to an impound condition must be placed in a separate escrow account with an approved depositary. The Commissioner may approve the use of any national bank or foreign, state-chartered bank subject to regulatory supervision similar to that of California banks if the issuer is located in another state and less than 50 percent of the securities are offered in California [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.23(a)].

a. National bank located in California.

b. California bank.

2. Obtain written consent of selected institution to act as depositary.

3. Apply to Commissioner of Corporations for approval of selected depositary by submitting:

a. Name and address of depositary, including identification of branch office [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.23(b)(1)].

b. Written consent of depositary [see P 2, above; see also 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.23(b)(2)].

c. Copy of agreement between issuer and depositary containing all terms and conditions under which depositary will act and providing that [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.23(b)(3)]:

(1) Disbursement of impounded funds will be at discretion of Commissioner only.

(2) Funds are not assets of issuer unless and until Commissioner orders release of those funds.

(3) Depositary will maintain list of specified records.

(4) Depositary cannot resign as escrow holder without approval of Commissioner.

(5) Records and reports of sales and proceeds [see Corp. Code § 25145] will be made and kept by depositary and that true copies of those records will be made available for inspection by Commissioner.

(6) Commissioner is authorized to inspect escrow account without obtaining further permission from issuer.

4. Do not distribute securities to purchasers until release of impound conditions [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.21].

NOTE:

When an impound condition is imposed, the issuer may not issue any certificates or other evidences of securities, except subscription agreements, unless and until the impound condition has been satisfied and the impounds have been released to the issuer pursuant to an order of the Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.21; see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.24; see also § 6H.267].

5. Accept only checks made payable to depositary or to licensed broker-dealer acting as selling agent [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.21].

6. Deposit all amounts received from sale of securities in escrow within 48 hours after receipt [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.21].

NOTE:

Amounts received from the sale of securities include any amounts that will be allowed as selling expenses [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.21].

7. Deliver to each subscriber an approved subscription agreement containing [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.22(a)]:

NOTE:

When an impound condition is imposed, the issuer must deliver to each subscriber a subscription agreement in a form approved by the Commissioner. The agreement must contain the following information at a minimum [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.22(a)].

a. Complete names and addresses of issuer and subscriber.

b. Complete name of agent of issuer or broker for receiving payment.

c. Number of securities purchased and total purchase price.

d. Amount of payment received.

e. Complete name and address of depositary with whom payment will be placed.

f. Date of payment.

g. Any additional information desired.

h. Following statement required by 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.22(a) regarding qualification:

NOTE:
This statement must appear on any subscription agreement upon which an impound condition is imposed [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.22(a)].

"This subscription is made pursuant to, and is subject to, the terms and conditions of the qualification approved by the Commissioner of Corporations of the State of California for _____ [name of issuer] under date of _____ [date of qualification]."

8. Prepare subscription agreements in quadruplicate, number all agreements consecutively, and distribute as follows [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.22(a)]:

NOTE:
The Commissioner of Corporations may approve some form of subscription agreement other than that provided for in the rules of the Department of Corporations. For example, the Commissioner may require that the subscription agreements be press-numbered [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.22(a)].

a. Original to each subscriber.

b. First copy to depositary together with payment received.

c. Second copy to issuer.

d. Third copy to broker, if any.

9. If installment payment is made subsequent to initial payment received on delivery of subscription agreement, give each subscriber receipt setting forth [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.22(b)]:

a. Date of payment.

b. Amount of payment.

c. Number of subscription agreement to which payment relates.

10. If impound goal has not been met and it appears that revision of plan of offer and sale may satisfy impound purpose, apply for extension of time for impound collection [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.25(b)].

NOTE:

Such an application must be filed as an amendment in accordance with 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.110.4 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.25(b); see § 6H.152].

11. Apply for release from depositary to issuer of impounded initial financing when quota has been reached [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.24; see § 6H.267].

NOTE:

The Commissioner will authorize the depositary to release the impounds to the issuer when the full amount of impounds specified in the impound condition has been deposited with the depositary and any other conditions to release have been satisfied, unless (1) there have been changes in the plan of operation or in other circumstances that would render that amount of impounds inadequate to finance the proposed plan of operations, or (2) circumstances have changed so that the Commissioner could no longer find that the sale of the securities was fair, just, and equitable [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.24(a)].

§ 6H.183 Compliance With, or Removal of, Commissioner's Restrictions on Securities--Escrow and Legend Conditions

NOTE:

It is unlawful to transfer securities subject to legend or escrow conditions unless and until the Commissioner has given written consent to transfer [Corp. Code § 25133]. Consent will be given only if the proposed transfer is found to be fair, just, and equitable to the proposed transferee [Corp. Code § 25151].

1. File application for consent to transfer securities subject to legend or escrow condition for proposed transfer or resale [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.151(a); see § 6H.262].

NOTE:

This is a separate consideration from the necessity of qualifying securities proposed to be resold in a nonissuer transaction. If the two requirements both apply to a single situation, both applications should be filed simultaneously.

a. Pay application fee of $20 for each transferor [Corp. Code § 25608(m); see also Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set any fee at amount below maximum set forth in Corp. Code § 25608)].

b. Obtain statement of each proposed transferee and submit along with application for consent to transfer [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.151(b); see also § 6H.263].

2. If securities in escrow have been transferred pursuant to court order, notify Commissioner within five days of transfer and include copy of escrow holder's receipt [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.14; see § 6H.266].

3. When conditions warrant removal of restrictive conditions of original qualification [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.50; see § 6H.267]:

a. Apply to remove legend or other condition (including escrow).

b. Pay fee for applying for removal of restrictive conditions of $50 [Corp. Code § 25608(j); see also Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set any fee at amount below maximum set forth in Corp. Code 25608)].

§ 6H.200 Facing Page for Applications for Qualification by Coordination, Issuer Notification, Issuer Permit, and Recapitalization or Reorganization Permit [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.110]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the facing page set forth in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.110. Every application for qualification and every amendment to an application, except for certain applications for qualification of nonissuer transactions [see § 6H.255], must contain a facing page in the form set forth in that regulation [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.110]. The purpose of the facing page is to provide pertinent information concerning the applicant and the offering. The facing page consists of the caption, containing administrative information (file number, fee, date, type of qualification, type of offering), and the body (Items 1-7) which identifies the applicant and the details of the offering.

The Commissioner ordinarily retains a copy of the facing page even though the remainder of the applicant's file may subsequently be destroyed four years after the date of filing [Corp. Code § 25619(a)]. The file is a public record [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.9.1] subject to public inspection [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.9], and the Commissioner is authorized to publish information contained in any file if he or she deems it to be in the public interest [Corp. Code § 25605(a)]. However, an applicant may make a formal request that the Commissioner withhold information, and the Commissioner will withhold that information for what he or she judges to be a "necessary" time if, in the Commissioner's opinion, public inspection is not necessary in the public interest or for the purposes of the law under which it is filed, and the information is reasonably shown to meet any of four specified requirements [see § 6H.275].

[b] Preparation of Form

The facing page may be either the printed form supplied by the Commissioner, or a typed copy of the form. In either event, the facing page must be completed in English and must be on one side only on legal or letter-size paper [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.110.1]. If the facing page is typed, it must retain the same numbering system and order as the printed form, and must contain all seven items, and no more, that are on the printed form. In lieu of completing the information required by any item in the form, the applicant may incorporate by reference the information contained in any document attached as an exhibit or otherwise currently on file with the Commissioner by referring to the page or specific portion of the document involved [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.110.3].

Applications for qualification of securities should be verified [Corp. Code § 25160]. All information required to be included in an application must be true and complete as of the time the qualification of the transaction becomes effective. An applicant must promptly supply by amendment any information based on facts occurring after the original date of filing which is necessary to supplement or correct the information contained in the original application, so as to make that information not materially misleading as of the date of qualification [Corp. Code § 25160; see [j], below].

[c] File Number

Each applicant will be given a file number after the filing of an original application for qualification with the Commissioner. The applicant will retain this number throughout existence and should insert this number in the appropriate place in the upper right-hand corner of the facing page in all subsequent filings with the Commissioner. Although the Commissioner may destroy the contents of any file or the entire file itself if he or she considers it useless after four years from date of filing or issuance [Corp. Code § 25619(a)], the file number may still be revived by the original applicant.

[d] Fees

The fee for the particular form of application being filed must be calculated by the applicant and set forth in the appropriate space in the upper right-hand corner of the facing page. The fee should be paid at the time of filing since qualification cannot become effective until payment is received by the Commissioner [Corp. Code § 25615].

The fee may be paid by check, which need not be certified, payable to the "Department of Corporations." A refund of the fee may be obtained when appropriate [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.15; see § 6H.276]. Note that notwithstanding the fees set forth in Corp. Code §§ 25608 and 25608.1, the Commissioner may set any fee at an amount below the maximum fee set forth in those sections [Corp. Code § 25608.3]. Fees are computed as follows:

- Fee for qualification of issuer transactions, recapitalizations and reorganizations, except guaranties:
  - $200, plus one fifth of 1 percent of the aggregate value [see below] of the securities sought to be sold in California, up to a maximum aggregate fee of $2,500 in issuer permits [Corp. Code § 25608(e)], issuer notifications [Corp. Code § 25608(e)], recapitalizations and reorganizations (if consideration is involved) [Corp. Code § 25608(h)(2); see second item, below], and amendments to filings (prior to the effective date of qualification), if it involves a higher proposed purchase or exchange price; or a maximum of $2,500 for coordination qualifications [Corp. Code § 25608(f)].
  - $2500, plus an additional amount based on processing costs in excess of $2500, up to a maximum additional amount of $1000, for a small company application for qualification by permit [Corp. Code § 25608(e); see § 6H.220].
  - $200 for recapitalization and reorganization permits without consideration [Corp. Code § 25608(h)(1); see second item, seventh sub-item, below].
  - $50 for negotiating permits [Corp. Code § 25608(b)], guaranties of securities [Corp. Code § 25608(k)], post-effective amendments (plus the fee under first sub-item, above, if any excess value has been introduced since the original filing) [Corp. Code § 25608(n)].

- Determination of value of securities:

  - If securities are sold directly for cash, the value is the proposed sales price or the actual sales price, whichever is higher [Corp. Code § 25608(g)(1)].

  - If securities are sold for nonmonetary consideration, the value is the higher of the value alleged in the application, the "actual value" as determined by the Commissioner, or the value of the consideration actually received [Corp. Code § 25608(g)(1)].

  - If interim or voting trust certificates are used in the sale, the value is equal to the aggregate value of securities to be represented by the certificates [Corp. Code § 25608(g)(2)].

  - If warrants or rights are used in the sale, the value of the amount to be paid for such option, plus the amount to be paid for underlying securities (if not presently determinable, then as determined by the Commissioner) [Corp. Code § 25608(g)(3)].

  - If the transaction involves a share dividend when the shareholders are given an option to accept cash or additional shares of stock, the value is the maximum amount of cash that would be payable in the event that all shareholders elected to accept cash [Corp. Code § 25608(g)(4)].

  - If the transaction involves an exchange with existing security holders of the issuer exclusively, or in connection with merger, consolidation, or purchase of assets in consideration of issuance of securities, or any entity conversion transaction, the value is that of the securities (plus any other consideration) received in exchange for the securities being sold [Corp. Code § 25608(h)(2)].

  - If the transaction merely involves a change in the rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on outstanding shares, there is no value [Corp. Code § 25608(h)(1)].

[e] Type of Qualification

The applicant must identify each form of application by noting the type of qualification being requested in the filing. The types of qualification requiring the facing page are as follows [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102]:

- Coordination under Corp. Code § 25111 [see § 6H.205].

- Notification under Corp. Code § 25112 [see § 6H.215].

- Permit under Corp. Code § 25113 [see § 6H.220].

- Reorganization permit under Corp. Code § 25121 [see § 6H.250].

- In special circumstances, a negotiating permit under Corp. Code § 25102(c).

Amendments to prior applications also require use of the facing page [see [j], below].

[f] Open Offering Qualification

An open qualification is one that authorizes the offer and sale of securities to the public without restriction as to persons or class of persons [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.001(f)]. In order to qualify for an open offering, specified requirements must be met. For example, if debt securities are being issued [see § 6H.234], the company normally will have to distribute them under a formal trust indenture [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.5], and restrictions on transfer of the shares may not be imposed by any instrument under which they are issued (e.g., articles of incorporation and bylaws) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.8].

If the issuer is not "seasoned," it should have a capital structure consisting of only common stock, and any senior securities should either be convertible on a fair and equitable basis or be fully participating and nonredeemable. A "seasoned" company is one that has operated (or its predecessor has operated) a going enterprise for at least two years and has had a profit during one of the last three fiscal years [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.001(g), 260.140.9]. Unseasoned issuers normally will not be granted an open qualification if the business is not anticipated to produce profits within a reasonable period of time. A period of time not exceeding 24 months after the date of the approval of the application is presumptively reasonable, and a longer period may be authorized in light of the nature and circumstances of the proposed business, including the operational norms for the industry in which the business will operate [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.05(a); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.05(b) (financial standards), (c) (delivery of consumer guide obtainable from Department)].

Unless an issuer's securities are exempt from qualification for purposes of nonissuer transactions because of registration under Section 12(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (and the issuer is filing reports under Section 15(d) of the Act) [see 15 U.S.C. § 78o(d)], an issuer selling securities under an open qualification must file semiannual reports [see § 6H.274]. These reports must continue to be filed until 18 months after the effective date of qualification or until the qualified securities have been qualified for nonissuer trading, whichever occurs first [Corp. Code § 25146; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.146]. However, the Commissioner may not require an issuer to file semiannual reports (1) after completion of the offering if a nonissuer transaction involving that security would be entitled to exemption from qualification pursuant to any exemption under Corp. Code § 25101 [see Corp. Code § 25146], or (2) if the issuer is filing reports pursuant to Section 13 [15 U.S.C. § 78m] or Section 15(d) [15 U.S.C. § 78o(d)] of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.146; see 15 U.S.C. § 78a et seq.].

If the issue will not be firmly underwritten, the issuer should expect the Commissioner to impose an impound condition and require the circulation of subscription agreements and a prospectus [Corp. Code §§ 25141, 25147, 25148; 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.141.20, 260.141.22, 260.141.24].

For an investor suitability letter for use when open qualification has been conditioned on the issuer's written commitment to limit distribution, see § 6H.271.

[g] Limited Offering Qualification

A limited offering qualification is one which authorizes the offer and sale of securities only to persons designated therein by name or class [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.001(e)]. If the securities are to be issued to a designated class of persons, those persons must have some degree of sophistication as to investment, either generally or with reference to the type of business in which the corporation plans to engage, in order for the Commissioner to approve the qualification as a limited offering. A limited offering of debt securities need not have a trust indenture conforming with the federal model [Trust Indenture Act of 1939 (15 U.S.C. § 77aaa et seq.)] if adequate safeguards are included for the issuee's interest [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.5]. Nonconvertible and nonparticipating senior securities may be sold to residual equity holders on a pro rata basis under certain circumstances [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.9].

Since the purpose of a limited qualification is often to restrict the number of potential purchasers to those familiar with the risks involved in a particular security, the Commissioner may impose legend conditions restricting the transfer of those securities [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.10; see § 6H.260]. The issuer of shares under such a limited offering qualification not only must place a legend on the shares, but also must deliver to each issuee or transferee of the shares a copy of 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.11 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.11(a)]. Legend conditions are likely to be imposed when securities are offered pursuant to a limited qualification, and a variation from the standards for an open qualification are approved by the Commissioner based on the character or relationship to the issuer of the investors, and the Commissioner determines that there is substantial danger that subsequent transfers of those securities might be unfair regardless of the provisions of the Corporate Securities Law requiring the qualification of nonissuer transactions [Corp. Code § 25141; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.10].

[h] Body of Facing Page

The body of the facing page contains the first seven items for each of the different types of qualifications requiring a facing page. The first four items of the facing page require the following information:

- The applicant's name.
- The form of entity of the applicant (whether a corporation, partnership, joint venture, trust, association, sole proprietorship, etc.) and the state under which it was organized.
- The address of its main office.
- The name and address of the person responsible for handling the application (normally the attorney).

Item 5 of the facing page requires the applicant to set out the information in tabular form:

- The title of each class of securities which is being qualified (e.g., "no par Class A common stock," or "6 percent $20 preferred stock").
- The total number of shares of each class to be qualified under the application, or total number of units if a debt security, investment contract, or other security arrangement.
- The proposed maximum offering price for each share or unit.

The proposed maximum aggregate offering price of the securities being qualified must also be stated (Part (d) of Item 5). If the offering is interstate (registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission unless exempt), only those kinds and amounts proposed to be offered and sold in California are subject to qualification [Corp. Code §§ 25008, 25110]. If a "public market" exists for the class of securities offered, this fact and the CUSIP number for those securities must be listed under Part (e) of Item 5. A "public market" exists for a class of securities if it is listed on a national securities exchange, is traded in the over-the-counter market and quoted in the Wall Street Journal or other newspaper of general circulation, or is held of record or beneficially by 500 or more persons [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.110].

Item 6 requires a listing in nontabular form of any nonmonetary consideration agreed to be received in lieu of cash, with a specification of the agreed value of that consideration (such as "promotional services, $10,000") [see § 6H.237]. Item 7 inquires as to whether there is any official regulatory agency or court ruling directly concerned with the proposed offering, which either should be answered "none" or should be given a specific identification of any such order.

[i] Filing of Applications

Ordinarily, only the original must be filed. The addresses of the offices of the Department of Corporations where the appropriate filings may be made are as follows [see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 13-G (Revised; June 10, 2004)]:

- 320 West 4th Street, Suite 750, Los Angeles, CA 90013-2344.
- 71 Stevenson Street, Suite 2100, San Francisco, CA 94105-2980.
- 1515 K Street, Suite 200, Sacramento, CA 95814-4017.

[j] Amendments

The two types of amendments to applications for qualification are preeffective amendments and posteffective amendments, each of which requires a facing page [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.110.4]. A preeffective amendment is an amendment that is filed prior to the effective date of qualification of the application being amended [Corp. Code § 25160]. Each amendment facing sheet should be accompanied only by the items replacing the superseded portions of the previous filing [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.110.4, 260.162]. The amendments should be verified [Corp. Code § 25160; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.110.4].

The application must be true and complete as of the time the qualification becomes effective [Corp. Code § 25160]. Therefore, if there is a change in circumstances prior to that time, resulting in facts stated in the application being incorrect or incomplete, a preeffective amendment should be promptly filed in order to correct that information so that it is not materially misleading [Corp. Code § 25160].

A posteffective amendment, on the other hand, becomes effective only if approved by the Commissioner, and only on the date that the Commissioner determines after considering the public interest and the protection of the investors [Corp. Code § 25162]. When either the substance or the size of the original qualification is substantially altered, the Commissioner probably will desire a new application rather than an amendment of the original application.

Instructions:

The following instructions must be adhered to with respect to all applications for qualification by permit under Sections 25102(c), 25113 and 25121; by coordination under Section 25111, and notification by Section 25112:

Completion of Application. The facing page on the reverse side hereof, must be completed in full and in addition to the facing page, applications must continue by completion of each item of the applicable following forms:

Application for qualification by coordination, Form No. 260.111

Application for qualification by notification, Form No. 260.112

Application for permit pursuant to Section 25113, Form No. 260.113

Application for permit pursuant to Section 25121, Form No. 260.121

Application for Negotiating Permit pursuant to Section 25102(c), Form No. 260.113

The numbering sequence in the forms must be adhered to. Any item which is inapplicable should be listed by the number on the form, followed simply by the word "inapplicable."

Form of Application. The application should be typewritten or printed in the English language, on one side only of either legal or letter size paper.

Signing of Applications. An application for permit pursuant to Section 25113(b)(2) must be reviewed and signed by each member of the board of directors of the small company applicant. Any other application should be signed by an officer or general partner of the applicant; however, it may be signed by another person holding a power of attorney for such purposes from the applicant, and if signed on behalf of the applicant pursuant to such power of attorney, should include as an additional exhibit a copy of said power of attorney or a copy of the corporate resolution authorizing the attorney to act.

Item 5--"Public Market." A "public market" exists for this class of securities if it (1) is listed on a national securities exchange, (2) is traded in the over-the-counter market and quoted in the Wall Street Journal or other newspaper of general circulation, or (3) is held of record or beneficially by 500 or more persons.

Incorporation by Reference. In lieu of answering any specific item in this form, an applicant may incorporate the information called for by reference to any attached document, or to any document currently on file with the Department. Such reference should indicate the pages or portion of the document where the information is located.

Amendments to Applications. An amendment to any application for qualification should contain only the information being amended by item number and should be verified in the form prescribed for the application. Each amendment should be accompanied by a facing page in the form prescribed by Section 260.110 of the rules on which the applicant shall insert the fact that the filing is an amendment and the number of the amendment if more than one amendment.

Filing Fee Calculation. The filing fee fixed by Section 25608 must accompany each application and the amount of filing fee paid is to be set forth on the facing page in the upper right hand corner. By way of illustration, the filing fee for qualification of securities by coordination, notification, or permit, under Sections 25113(b)(1) or 25121 is computed by taking one fifth of 1 percent of the maximum aggregate offering price of securities being qualified in California, see appropriate column on facing page, and adding $200. Thus, a qualification with an aggregate offering price of $275,250 would be computed by multiplying $275,250 by.002, equaling $550.50, and adding $200 for a total of $750.50. However, the maximum filing fee, including the $200, is $2,500 for applications filed under Sections 25111, 25112, 25113(b)(1), and 25121, except in the case of a transaction under Section 25121 involving a change in rights, preferences, privileges or restrictions. In this case, the filing fee is $200. The fee for filing a small company application for qualification of the sale of securities by permit under Section 25113(b)(2) is $2,500. In the case when the actual costs of processing a small company application under Section 25113(b)(2) exceed the $2,500 filing fee, an additional fee shall be charged, not to exceed $1,000, over and above the filing fee based on the actual amount of the salary or other compensation paid to persons processing the application plus the actual amount of expenses including overhead reasonably incurred in the performance of the work. In the case when the costs exceed the initial $2,500 filing fee, an applicant will be required to submit the additional $1,000 fee before the Department will continue processing the application. Any unexpended fee will be refunded to the applicant.

Description of Securities Being Qualified. State title of each class of securities (e.g., $10 par value common stock) and include rights, warrants, options and convertible securities and the securities to be issued upon exercise or conversion thereof.

A Customer Authorization of Disclosure of Financial Records Form (Form No. QR 500.259) must also be filed as an exhibit to the application.

§ 6H.205 Application for Qualification by Coordination [Corp. Code § 25111; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.111]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an application for qualification by coordination. Both issuer and nonissuer transactions may be qualified by coordination if a registration statement has been filed pursuant to the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77a et seq.] in connection with the same offering [Corp. Code § 25111; see § 6H.21[2], [4]].

"Registration statement" as used in Corp. Code § 25111(a) includes an offering statement as defined by Rule 252(a) under Regulation A [17 C.F.R. 230.252(a)] under the Securities Act. The term "effective" as used in that section in connection with an offering statement means an offering statement that has been qualified under Regulation A [Corp. Code § 25111(a)]. This form is not for use by a previously qualified open-end investment company or unit investment trust, or a unit investment trust that is substantially similar to one or more investment trusts previously qualified by the same sponsor [see Corp. Code § 25111(b)-(d); see also § 6H.209].

The form for qualification by coordination must be used in conjunction with the facing page [see § 6H.200]. Accordingly, the five parts of the form are numbered Items 8-12. The purpose of the form is to permit the filing of essentially the same papers with state officials as are filed with the federal Securities and Exchange Commission, and to make the qualification effective simultaneously with the effective date of the federal registration.

Automatic qualification under California law, however, is subject to certain conditions [Corp. Code § 25111(c); see [e], below]. Once the issue has been qualified, the qualification is effective for 12 months from its effective date, unless the Commissioner by order or rule specifies a different period, except during the time that a stop order [see Corp. Code § 25140] or an order suspending the effectiveness of qualification [Corp. Code § 25143(a)] is in effect [Corp. Code § 25114].

In lieu of the official form, applicants for coordination qualification may use the Uniform Application to Register Securities (Form U-1) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.111(a); see § 6H.206].

[b] Federal Registration

Under the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77a et seq.], before any security may be offered or sold, it is subject to registration with the federal Securities and Exchange Commission, unless it is exempt or is involved in an exempt transaction [Securities Act of 1933 §§ 3, 4 (15 U.S.C. §§ 77c, 77d)]. The basic philosophy and approach of the Securities Act is to require companies to file information with the SEC and to require prospectuses or circulars to be distributed to investors for the purpose of disclosing all pertinent details of the offering [see Sommer, Federal Securities Act of 1933, Ch. 1, Introduction to the Securities Act of 1933 and to the Securities and Exchange Commission, § 1.02 (Matthew Bender)]. The SEC does not pass on the merits of the issue as does the California Corporations Commissioner, and it cannot attach protective conditions on the manner of the issue. It simply can force the most complete presentation of factual materials by the company to prospective purchasers so that the investors may consider the investment for themselves. The Securities Act provides penalties for nonregistration or fraudulent disclosure.

Securities that are not exempt under the federal securities laws [see [c], below] must be registered by filing a registration statement with the SEC [Securities Act of 1933 § 6 (15 U.S.C. § 77f)]. By statute, a registration statement is effective on the 20th day after filing, or after filing of the last amendment, unless the Commission has delayed or suspended the effectiveness by stop order [Securities Act of 1933 § 8 (15 U.S.C. § 77h)]. The SEC's primary interest is to see that an honest and clearly informative filing is put together, particularly as to the prospectus, which is required to be distributed to potential purchasers and their investment bankers and marketing personnel [Securities Act of 1933 §§ 5(b), 10 (15 U.S.C. §§ 77e(b), 77j)].

PRACTICE TIP:

The SEC, as a matter of practice, generally requires the issuer to request a delay of the effective date of the registration statement on the cover page of the registration statement. As a result, the 20-day statutory period has little practical significance. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

[c] Federal Exemptions

A private transaction, regardless of where the issuer or purchasers are located, that does not involve a public offering in any manner, is exempt from federal registration requirements [Securities Act of 1933 § 4(2) (15 U.S.C. § 77d(2))]. This blanket exemption from federal registration for all private offerings should not be confused with the approach in California, where there is no blanket exemption and where nonpublic exemptions are available only in limited securities areas and for restricted purposes [see Corp. Code §§ 25102(e), (f), (n), 25104(a)].

SEC Regulation D [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.501-230.508] provides three exemptions for limited or private offerings of securities:

- The Rule 504 exemption for offers and sales not exceeding $1 million [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.504; see also 15 U.S.C. § 77c(b)].

- The Rule 505 exemption for offers and sales not exceeding $5 million to no more than 35 purchasers, excluding certain specified types of purchasers (or sales in which the issuer reasonably believes there are no more than 35 purchasers) [17 C.F.R. § 230.505; see also 15 U.S.C. § 77c(b)].

- The Rule 506 exemption for offers and sales to no more than 35 purchasers (or sales in which the issuer reasonably believes there are no more than 35 purchasers) regardless of the dollar amount of the offer [17 C.F.R. § 230.506; see also 15 U.S.C. § 77d(2)].

Attempted compliance with any of the Regulation D exemptions does not amount to an exclusive election of that exemption and does not raise any presumption that the statutory exemption provided by Section 4(2) of the Act [15 U.S.C. § 77d(2)] is not available [SEC Reg. D (17 C.F.R. §§ 230.501-230.508), prelim. note 3]. For more detailed discussion on the availability of these exemptions and the applicable restrictions and limitations, see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations .

Federal law also exempts any issue that is offered and sold only to California residents (intrastate exemption) if the issuer is either a corporation organized under California law or is a local resident doing business in the state [Securities Act of 1933 § 3(a)(11) (15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(11)); SEC Rule 147 (17 C.F.R. § 230.147); see Sommer, Federal Securities Act of 1933, Ch. 3, Exempted Securities Under Sections 3(a)(2) Through 3(a)(8) of the Securities Act, § 3.12 (Matthew Bender)]. Offerings made in reliance on Rule 506 of SEC Regulation D are exempt from regulation if certain permitted state filing requirements are satisfied. [15 U.S.C. § 77r; Corp. Code § 25102.1(d); see Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions)

A third major area in which offerings are technically exempt from federal registration procedures is the federal small offering exemption (Regulation A procedure) [Securities Act of 1933 § 3(b) (15 U.S.C. § 77c(b))]. The Regulation A procedure is available if the offering does not exceed $5 million [SEC Rule 251 (17 C.F.R. § 230.251(b)); see Sommer, Federal Securities Act of 1933, Ch. 5, Small Issue Exemptions Under Sections 3(b) and (c) of the Securities Act (Matthew Bender)].

Other securities exempt from the federal regulatory program are primarily government-issued securities and those issued under the supervising auspices of other federal agencies or courts, such as financial institution securities, interstate carrier securities, bankruptcy matters, current commercial notes, and all genuine charitable institution securities [Securities Act of 1933 § 3(a) (15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)); see Sommer, Federal Securities Act of 1933, Ch. 3, Exempted Securities Under Sections 3(a)(2) Through 3(a)(8) of the Securities Act (Matthew Bender)] Transactions by persons not construed to be issuers, underwriters, or dealers are exempt as are broker's executions of unsolicited orders; dealer's transactions are exempt except when connected with new distributions [Securities Act of 1933 § 4(1), (3), (4) (15 U.S.C. § 77d(1), (3), (4)); see Sommer, Federal Securities Act of 1933, Ch. 5, Exempted Transactions Under Sections 3(b) and 3(c) of the Securities Act (Matthew Bender)].

Obviously, any transaction or security that is exempt from federal registration requirements is ineligible for qualification by coordination.

[d] Preparation of Form

The form for qualification by coordination consists of five parts. Item 8 requires an undertaking by the applicant to forward to the Commissioner all future amendments to the registration statement filed pursuant to the Securities Act of 1933 not later than the first business day after the day that any amendment is forwarded to or filed with the SEC [Corp. Code § 25111(b)(2); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.111(b)]. This undertaking does not apply to amendments which merely delay the effective date of the registration statement, but it does apply to both preeffective and posteffective amendments [see [g], below].

Item 9 requires that a copy of the registration statement, two copies of the prospectus (or two additional copies of the registration statement), a copy of the underwriting agreement, and copies of any pension, retirement, or other deferred compensation plan, contract, or arrangement (when the securities to be issued pursuant to such a plan, contract, or arrangement are the subject of the application) be attached to the application as Exhibit A. The Commissioner has the authority to require the filing of any other document deemed necessary to evidence compliance with the Rules [Corp. Code § 25111(b)(3); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.111(b)].

PRACTICE TIP:

In some cases, it will be necessary to file additional material, such as financial statements, Annual Reports on Form 10-K or employee benefit plans, with the Commissioner. This commonly occurs when a short-form SEC registration statement form, such as Form S-3 or Form S-8, is used. In these circumstances, the SEC registration statement may not contain all of the information that the Commissioner will need to make a fair, just and equitable determination. In addition, the Commissioner's processing guidelines are generally slower than SEC practice if the SEC decides not to review the registration statement (a process which generally takes no more than a week) or a form, such as a Form S-8, is used which is automatically effective on the date it is filed with the SEC. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

Item 10 is the consent to service of process required by Corp. Code § 25165, attached as Exhibit B [see §§ 6H.239, 6H.241]. Item 10 also requires that a Customer Authorization of Disclosure of Financial Records Form (Form No. QR 500.259) [see § 6H.241] be attached to the application as Exhibit C. California applicants need not execute the consent to service of process and may enter "not applicable" for Item 10.

Any applicant that will employ agents other than licensed broker-dealers in connection with the offering must complete Item 11 in order to comply with Rules 260.141.30 and 260.141.31 [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.141.30, 260.141.31; see § 6H.272]. Item 11 requires the following information:

- The name and business address of each person who will represent the applicant as an agent in California.

- The name and business address of the corporate officer or other official who will supervise the agents on behalf of the applicant.

- A statement that all the agents employed in California are employees of the applicant.

- A statement of the compensation to be paid to the agents and a statement of the compensation to be paid to supervisory personnel in excess of their regular salaries if they are regular employees of the applicant.

- A description of any disqualification or legal disability of any agent or supervisory person to engage in the securities business, or association of that person as an officer or director with any corporation similarly disqualified, disabled, or restrained from engaging in any conduct or practice in connection with the purchase or sale of securities, or any conviction of that person involving a security or any aspect of the securities business, or any conviction for theft or any felony.

- A surety bond complying with 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.216.15 [see § 6H.273].

Item 12 requires an undertaking to file semiannual reports in accordance with Corp. Code § 25146 and 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.146 [see § 6H.244].

Finally, the application must be signed and verified by executing a declaration under penalty of perjury under California law [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5].

[e] Conditions for Qualification Becoming Effective

Qualification in California is automatically effective when the federal registration statement becomes effective if certain conditions have been fulfilled. If the federal registration statement becomes effective before those conditions are satisfied and the conditions have not been waived by the Commissioner, qualification will not occur until they have been fulfilled [Corp. Code § 25111(c)].

The time of filing the application should be within five business days of filing the registration statement with the SEC [Corp. Code § 25111(b)]. However, the Commissioner has provided that the time may be extended up to 20 business days following the federal filing, so long as the application has been on file at least 10 days before the effective date of registration [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.111.1] If securities are being registered on Form S-3 or Form F-3 in connection with an offering to be made on a delayed or continuous basis pursuant to SEC Rule 415, the application should be filed within two business days of the date on which the registration statement is filed with the SEC [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 70-C (June 24, 1982, as revised on Nov. 5, 1982, and Dec. 31, 1983)].

These time limits may be further modified by order [Corp. Code § 25111(b); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.111.1; see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 6, Procedure for Qualification of Issuer Transactions, § 6.03[3] (Matthew Bender)].

Before the coordinated offering can become effective in California, a statement of the minimum and maximum proposed offering prices and the maximum underwriting discounts and commissions must have been on file for at least two business days with the Commissioner [Corp. Code § 25111(c)(3)]. Like other time limits under this form of qualification, the Commissioner is authorized to permit modifications of time by rule or order. For a form for this statement of proposed offering price range and commissions, see § 6H.207.

The applicant may notify the Commissioner of the approximate prospective date of the effectiveness of the federal registration, in which case the Commissioner will promptly notify the applicant either that the conditions have been satisfied, or that the Commissioner contemplates suspending the effectiveness of the federal registration for California qualification purposes [Corp. Code § 25111(c)]. In any event, the applicant must notify the Commissioner of the actual effective date and time of the federal registration [Corp. Code § 25111(c); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.11.1; see § 6H.208]. This notification must include any price amendments to the federal registration [Corp. Code § 25111(c)]. On filing this final notification, the applicant must file a posteffective amendment to the local application containing the information and documents concerning the price amendment [Corp. Code § 25111(c); see [g], below].

In addition to the conditions listed above, the Commissioner is empowered to impose conditions which must be met before securities will be qualified for sale in California [Corp. Code § 25141; see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 9, Conditions of Qualification (Matthew Bender)]. These conditions are usually imposed in the case of permit qualified securities not subject to federal inspection, but may also be used in coordination or notification applications, since SEC disclosure requirements may not offer sufficient protection to California investors. These conditions include legend [see § 6H.260] and escrow conditions [see § 6H.264], impounding of subscription funds [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.141.20-260.141.26], selling expense limitations [see § 6H.227], and temporary waivers by promoters of liquidation, dividend, or voting rights [see § 6H.261]. Other conditions to prevent unfairness, injustice, or inequitability may be imposed by the Commissioner [Corp. Code § 25141].

[f] Stop Orders by the Commissioner

The Commissioner will inspect the application to consider whether the proposed plan of business of the issuer or the proposed issuance or sale of the securities is unfair, unjust, or inequitable, whether the issuer intends to transact its business fairly and honestly, or whether the securities proposed to be issued or the method to be used in issuing them will tend to work a fraud on the purchaser [see Corp. Code § 25140]. The Commissioner may issue a stop order denying effectiveness to, or suspending or revoking the effectiveness of, any coordination qualification of an underwritten offering of securities if the Commissioner finds that the order is in the public interest and finding any of the following [Corp. Code § 25140(a)(1); see Corp. Code § 25140(d) (limitation)]:

- That the proposed plan of business of the issuer, or the proposed issuance or sale of securities, is not fair, just, or equitable;

- That the issuer does not intend to transact its business fairly and honestly; or

- That the securities proposed to be issued or the method used in issuing the securities will tend to work a fraud on the purchasers.

The Commissioner may take any of these actions with regard to an application for or qualification of securities that is not an underwritten offering unless the Commissioner finds that the stop order is not in the public interest and (1) that the proposed plan of business of the issuer, or the proposed issuance or sale of securities, is fair, just, or equitable; (2) that the issuer intends to transact its business fairly and honestly; or (3) that the securities proposed to be issued or the method used in issuing the securities are not of a type that will tend to work a fraud on the purchasers [Corp. Code § 25140(a)(2)]. However, in general, the Commissioner may not issue such a stop order without (1) giving appropriate prior notice to the applicant, the issuer, and the person on whose behalf the securities will or have been offered, and (2) holding a hearing [Corp. Code § 25143(b)].

The Commissioner also may summarily order the postponement or suspension of the effectiveness of any notification qualification pending final determination of any proceeding under Corp. Code §§ 25140-25151 [Corp. Code § 25143(a)]. The Commissioner may take this action without prior notice [see Corp. Code § 25143(b)], but must promptly notify the applicant, the issuer, and the prospective purchaser of the entry of the order, the basis for the order, and the right to request a hearing [Corp. Code § 25143(a)]. On request, the Commissioner must hold a hearing under the rules established by the Administrative Procedure Act (APA) [see Gov. Code §§ 11500-11529] within 15 business days after receiving the written request, unless the applicant accepts a later date [Corp. Code § 25143(a)]. The applicant may request a departmental hearing in lieu of an APA hearing [Corp. Code § 25702]. If no hearing is requested or ordered, the order remains in effect until modified or vacated; if a hearing is held, the order may be modified, vacated, or extended until a final determination is reached [Corp. Code § 25143(a)]. The Commissioner may vacate or modify a stop order if the Commissioner finds that the conditions that caused the entry of the order have changed, or if vacation or modification is otherwise in the public interest [Corp. Code § 25144].

However, the Commissioner has no authority to issue a stop order on the basis that the price at which the security is to be offered is unfair, unjust, or inequitable if the security is being publicly offered for cash pursuant to the federal registration statement and the offering is the subject of a firm commitment underwriting by an underwriter or syndicate of underwriters, all of whom are registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [see Corp. Code § 25140(d)]. A firm commitment for these purposes means an underwriting pursuant to which the underwriter or syndicate is committed to take up and pay for the securities subject only to the usual or customary conditions, but not including any "market out" or similar condition to be operative after the time of commencement of the offering [Corp. Code § 25140(d)]. Nevertheless, the Commissioner may use the stop order prerogative in this area on the basis of discovering--particularly through comparison with past sales of the class by the issuer--unreasonable discounts, commissions, or other compensation to underwriters, sellers, or others; unreasonable promoters' profits or participations; or unreasonable amounts or kinds of options [Corp. Code § 25140(d); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.50].

If the Commissioner does not receive the necessary notification by the applicant of the date of the effectiveness of the federal registration or the timely filing of the posteffective amendment concerning the final price amendment [see [e], above], the Commissioner may enter a stop order without notice or hearing retroactively denying or suspending qualification until all requirements have been complied with [Corp. Code § 25111(c)]. In this case, the Commissioner must promptly notify the applicant of the issuance of the order by telegram or by telephone promptly confirmed by telegram or letter. If the applicant subsequently proves actual compliance with the notification and filing requirements, the stop order is void as of the time of its entry [Corp. Code § 25111(c)].

[g] Amendments

The applicant must notify the Commissioner of any amendment to the federal registration statement immediately after filing the amendment with the SEC [Corp. Code § 25111(b)(2); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.111(b); see [d], above]. The notice of amendment should consist of a copy of the amendment as filed with the SEC, together with a reference to the item number of the local application for coordination qualification [see, e.g., [2], Item 9, below], and a completed copy of the facing page [see § 6H.200].

At the time the federal registration becomes effective, the applicant must inform the Commissioner by telephone or telegram not only of the exact date and time but also of the content of any price amendment [Corp. Code § 25111(c); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.11.1 (telephone transceiving equipment accepted for notice); see [e] above; see also § 6H.208 (notice to Commissioner)]. This notification must be followed by the prompt filing of a posteffective amendment to the local application [Corp. Code § 25111(c); see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 6, Procedure for Qualification of Issuer Transactions, § 6.03[7] (Matthew Bender)], containing the information and documents of the price amendment. This price amendment refers to the final amendment to the federal registration statement, and includes a statement of the offering price, underwriting and selling discounts and commissions, amount of proceeds, interest, dividend or conversion rates, call prices, and other matters related to the offering price [see Corp. Code § 25111(c)]. Federal registrants frequently leave out all actual prices from their registration materials until all other matters have been submitted or amended to the satisfaction of the SEC, after which they proffer a final amendment filling in the figures which the promoters feel best reflect the current market [see Sommer, Federal Securities Act of 1933, Ch. 7A, The Registration Process, § 7A.05[6][g] (Matthew Bender)]. The amendment must be accompanied by a facing page [see § 6H.200], and the $50 fee for posteffective amendments [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.162].

[h] Nonissuer Transactions

The usual method of qualification of securities in a nonissuer transaction is by notification [see § 6H.255]. However, secondary distributions of securities which are registered under the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77a et seq.] may be qualified by coordination [Corp. Code § 25111(a); see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 10, Nonissuer Transactions, § 10.05[2][b] (Matthew Bender)]. Registration under federal law may be required when the offeror of securities is a "control person," one who is in control of the issuer, or one who is controlled by or under common control with the issuer [see Securities Act of 1933, §§ 2(11), 4(1) (15 U.S.C. §§ 77b(a)(11), 77d(1)); see also Sommer, Federal Securities Act of 1933, Ch. 4, Exempted Transactions Under Section 4 of the Securities Act, § 4.01 (Matthew Bender)]. The exemption from qualification requirements for offerings of the same class of shares that have been qualified within the previous year does not apply to securities that are subject to registration under the Securities Act of 1933 or exempt from registration under SEC Regulation A if the aggregate offering price exceeds $50,000 [Corp. Code § 25104(h); see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 10, Nonissuer Transactions, § 10.04[1][c] (Matthew Bender)]. Securities that are exempt from Securities Act of 1933 registration requirements because they may be qualified under Regulation A [17 C.F.R. § 230.251] must be qualified in California by permit [Corp. Code § 25131(a)]. Finally, when a designated nonissuer transaction is involved with an issuer transaction, the entire issue must be qualified in California as a single issuer transaction [Corp. Code § 25011].

DEPARTMENT OF CORPORATIONS
STATE OF CALIFORNIA

APPLICATION FOR QUALIFICATION BY COORDINATION

(SECTION 260.111)

An applicant must comply with the requirements of subdivisions (a) and (b) of the Code when filing an application for qualification by coordination. See also, Section 260.111.1 of these rules.

(a) In lieu of the form set forth in subsection (b), the Uniform Application to Register Securities (Form U-1) recommended by the Subcommittee on Uniform Forms of the Committee on State Regulation of Securities of the American Bar Association's Section of Corporation, Banking and Business Law will be accepted for an application for qualification by coordination. If Form U-1 is utilized, it must be signed and verified as provided in the form set forth in Subsection (b) and it must contain the information required by the form set forth in Subsection (b).

(b) An application for qualification of the offer and sale of securities by coordination shall, in addition to the facing page required by Section 260.110 of these rules, continue in the following form:

8. Applicant hereby undertakes to forward to the Commissioner of Corporations all future amendments to the Registration Statement under the Securities Act of 1933 attached hereto as Exhibit A, other than an amendment which merely delays the effective date of the Registration Statement, promptly and in any event not later than the first business day after the day they are forwarded to or filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission, whichever first occurs.

9. A copy of the Registration Statement under the Securities Act of 1933, either two copies of the prospectus or two additional copies of the Registration Statement, a copy of the Underwriting Agreement, copies of any pension, retirement or other deferred compensation plan, contract or arrangement when securities to be issued pursuant to such plan, contract or arrangement are the subject of the application, is attached hereto as Exhibit A and incorporated herein by reference. Any of the exhibits (other than exhibits incorporated by reference) to the Registration Statement that are deemed necessary to evidence compliance with any of the Rules of the Commissioner contained in Title 10 of the California Code of Regulations may be required to be submitted.

10. The Consent to Service of Process if required by Section 25165 of the California Corporations Code is attached hereto as Exhibit B. A Customer Authorization of Disclosure of Financial Records Form (Form No. QR 500.259) is attached hereto as Exhibit C.

11. If the applicant will employ agents (other than licensed broker-dealers) in connection with the sale of securities in California, the applicant must comply with Sections 260.141.30 and 260.141.31, Title 10, California Code of Regulations, and furnish the following information.

a. The name and business address of each person who will represent the applicant as an agent in this state.

b. The name and business address of the officer or other official who will supervise such agents on behalf of the applicant.

c. A statement that all such agents employed in this state are employees of the applicant.

d. A statement of the compensation to be paid to such agents. A statement of the compensation to be paid to such supervisory personnel, other than their regular salaries if they are regular employees of the applicant.

e. Describe any order, judgment or decree of any governmental agency or administrator, or of any court of competent jurisdiction revoking or suspending for cause any license, permit or other authority of such agent or supervisory person of any corporation of which he is an officer or director, to engage in the securities business or in the sale of a particular security or temporarily or permanently restraining or enjoining any such person or any corporation of which he is an officer or director from engaging in or continuing any conduct, practice, or employment in connection with the purchase or sale of securities, or convicting such person of any felony or misdemeanor involving a security or any aspect of the securities business, or of theft or of any felony.

f. A surety bond complying with Section 260.216.15, Title 10, California Code of Regulations.

12. Pursuant to Section 25146 of the California Corporations Code and Section 260.146 of Title 10 of the California Code of Regulations, applicant hereby undertakes, as long as required under the foregoing sections and subject to the exception therein contained, to file with the Commissioner: (a) within 120 days after the end of each fiscal year a report of financial condition and a related statement of income and expenses covering such fiscal year; and (b) within 90 days after the first six months of each fiscal year, a like report and statement covering such six months period.

§ 6H.206 Alternative Method of Qualification by Coordination: Form U-1 [Corp. Code § 25111; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.111]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the Uniform Application to Register Securities (Form U-1), prepared by the Subcommittee on Uniform Forms of the Committee on State Regulation of Securities of the American Bar Association's Section of Corporation, Banking, and Business Law. It may be used as an alternative to the official application form for qualification by coordination [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.111(a); see § 6H.205]. Since a federally registered offering ordinarily will be sold in several states, it may be more convenient to prepare a single application form instead of completing a number of different state forms [see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 6, Procedure for Qualification of Issuer Transactions (Matthew Bender)]. Form U-1 has been accepted for registration in every jurisdiction that requires the registration of securities prior to sale within the state. Form U-1 is also available online at the uniform forms page of the North American Securities Administrators Association (NASAA) website, located at http://www.nasaa.org/bluesky/uniform/default.htm.

A Uniform Consent to Service of Process may be used with Form U-1 as an alternative to the service of process form prescribed by the California Commissioner of Corporations [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.165; see also § 6H.239]. Form U-2 is reproduced in this publication in § 6H.240.

[b] Preparation of Form

When using Form U-1, the applicant need not prepare a facing page [see § 6H.200], since the information required by Form U-1 is substantially the same as that of the facing page. However, all information required by Rule 260.111 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.111(b)] and the verification required by that rule must accompany the application [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.111(a)]. The following is an adaptation of Form U-1, with the specific requirements for a California filing indicated in boldface type. For a discussion of the items unique to a California filing, see § 6H.205[1][d]. When a particular exhibit from among those listed at [2], P 8, below, is not included, the omission should be indicated by the words "none" or "inapplicable." Since use of Form U-1 may be unnecessarily elaborate for the purpose of filing amendments, applicants may file any amendments using the California facing page [see § 6H.200], even in cases when Form U-1 was originally used. In any event, new material or amendments should not be filed without an accompanying form of application for amendment.

[c] Amendment of Registration Statement

Although Form U-1 provides that the applicant will file any amendment to the federal registration statement with the state within two business days after filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) [see [2], P 9(b), below], California law requires amendments to the registration statement to be filed with the Commissioner of Corporations no later than the first business day after the amendments are forwarded to or filed with the SEC, whichever occurs first [Corp. Code § 25111(b)(2); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.111(b)].

§ 6H.207 Statement of Proposed Prices, Discounts, and Commissions [Corp. Code § 25111(c)(3)]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a statement of proposed prices, discounts, and commissions to be sent to the Commissioner of Corporations. Qualification by coordination automatically becomes effective in California at the moment the federal registration statement becomes effective if three requirements are satisfied:

- First, no stop order or order of the Commissioner [see Corp. Code § 25143(a)] may be in effect [Corp. Code § 25111(c)(1)].

- Second, the application must have been on file with the Commissioner for at least 10 days [Corp. Code § 25111(c)(2)].

- Finally, a statement of the maximum and minimum proposed offering prices and the maximum underwriting discounts and commissions must have been on file for two business days (or whatever shorter period the Commissioner permits by rule or order) [Corp. Code § 25111(c)(3)].

The applicant thereafter must notify the Commissioner of the final price amendment to the SEC registration statement, and immediately file the amendment with the Commissioner [Corp. Code § 25111(c); see §§ 6H.205 (details of coordination qualification process), 6H.208 (form for final notification to Commissioner)].

The applicant should retain a copy of the statement being sent to the Commissioner. If the Commissioner fails to receive or misfiles the document, the applicant may exhibit the copy as evidence of having complied with the law, and establish that qualification was automatically effective [Corp. Code § 25111(c)]. Even if the exact information is already contained in the exhibits previously filed, a formal statement should be sent containing confirming figures to avoid technical obstruction.

§ 6H.208 Notification of Effective Date, Time, and Final Price of Federal Registration [Corp. Code § 25111(c)]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a notification to the Commissioner of Corporations of the effective date, time and final price of federal registration. Qualification by coordination is designed to become effective as soon as the federal registration statement becomes effective [Corp. Code § 25111(c)]. In addition to satisfying all the other conditions for qualification becoming effective concurrently with the federal registration [see § 6H.205], the applicant must promptly inform the Commissioner by telephone or telegram of the date and time when the federal registration statement became effective, and the content of the final price amendment, if any [Corp. Code § 25111(c); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.11.1 (telephone transceiving equipment accepted for notice)].

PRACTICE TIP:

The Commissioner's rules deviate from common SEC practice in that pricing amendments are no longer filed with the SEC in many circumstances. In these circumstances, the final form of prospectus filed with the SEC should be filed in lieu of the pricing amendment. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

"Price amendment" means the final federal amendment which fills in the previously permitted fluctuating or blank price figures. It includes a statement of the offering price, underwriting and selling discounts or commission, amount of proceeds, interest, dividend or conversion rates, call prices, and other matters related to the offering price [see Corp. Code § 25111(c)]. Federal registrants frequently leave out all actual prices from their registration materials until all other matters have been submitted or amended to the satisfaction of the SEC, after which they provide a final amendment filling in the figures which the promoters feel best reflect the current market [see § 6H.205[1][g]].

If the Commissioner does not receive this final notification, and if the applicant fails to file a posteffective amendment detailing the final price amendment as filed with the SEC, the Commissioner may enter a stop order, without notice or hearing, retroactively denying effectiveness to or suspending the qualification until these requirements have been met [Corp. Code § 25111(c)].

This form is a letter to the Department of Corporations stating the required information previously conveyed by telephone. The applicant should keep a copy of the notice. In the event of misfiling by the Commissioner, this statement letter would provide evidence that the notification was made and would allow the Commissioner to void any improper stop order resulting from the apparent failure to receive the necessary materials [Corp. Code § 25111(c)]. A posteffective amendment following the price amendment must be sent separately [see § 6H.205[1][g]].

§ 6H.209 Open-End Investment Companies (Form NF) [Corp. Code § 25111(d)]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is Form NF, developed by the North American Securities Administrators Association (NASAA). The form is available on the NASAA website, and is located at http://www.nasaa.org/bluesky. It is also available from the California Department of Corporations at www.corp.ca.gov. The form may be used for open-end investment companies. An "open-end investment company" registered under the Investment Company Act [15 U.S.C. § 80a-5(a)] is a corporation that is (1) engaged primarily in the business of investing, reinvesting, or trading in securities; (2) operated by a board of directors; and (3) offering for sale, or has outstanding, redeemable securities issued by it. Open-end investment companies are commonly called "mutual funds" in financial and investment circles [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 7, Issuance of Shares and Indebtedness , § 127.03[5][b] (Matthew Bender)]. Open-end investment companies that have previously qualified an offering for sale in California may be eligible for the continuous registration process [see Corp. Code § 25111(d)]. The continuous registration process permits those companies to avoid the more burdensome filing required in connection with an ordinary application for qualification by coordination [see § 6H.205].

[b] Effect of Federal Preemption Provisions on Qualification Procedures

The National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996 (NSMIA) [Pub. L. No. 104-290, 110 Stat. 3416 (H.R. 3005)] preempts state registration or qualification of the offer and sale of securities issued by an investment company that has registered or filed an application for registration under the Federal Investment Company Act of 1940 [see 15 U.S.C. § 77r; see also § 6H.24]. States, however, may require that certain filings be made. California requires a notice to be filed, which may in the form of Uniform Form NF developed by NASAA, and a consent to service of process, unless a consent to service of process is already on file [Corp. Code § 25100.1(b); Dept. of Corps. Release No. 106-C (July 11, 1997)]. If offers or sales are to be made more than 12 months after the filing of this notice, another notice must be filed [Corp. Code § 25100.1(b)(2)].

§ 6H.215 Application for Qualification by Issuer Notification [Corp. Code § 25112; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.112]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an application for qualification by issuer notification. Issuer transactions may be qualified by notification under Corp. Code § 25112 for any security issued by a person who is the issuer of any security registered under Section 12 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [15 U.S.C. § 78a et seq.] or issued by an investment company registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 [15 U.S.C. § 80a-1 et seq.], provided that the security is ineligible for qualification by coordination under Corp. Code § 25111 [Corp. Code § 25112(a)]. Issuer notification qualification must be in the form prescribed by Rule 260.112 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.112] and must be accompanied by a completed facing page [see § 6H.100]. This procedure for qualification by notification of issuer transactions should not be confused with the notification procedures for nonissuer transactions [see § 6H.255].

Qualification by notification affords the applicant two advantages. First, the information required for notification qualification is slightly less elaborate than that required for qualification by permit [see § 6H.220]. Second, assuming that no stop order or order under Corp. Code § 25143(a) has been issued by the Commissioner, qualification automatically becomes effective at 12:00 noon (California time) the tenth business day after filing the application or the last amendment thereto, or at any earlier time that the Commissioner may direct [Corp. Code § 25112(c)].

Once the issue has been qualified, the qualification is effective for 12 months from its effective date, unless the Commissioner by order or rule specifies a different period, except during the time that a stop order [see Corp. Code § 25140] or an order suspending the effectiveness of qualification [Corp. Code § 25143(a)] is in effect [Corp. Code § 25114].

[b] Federal Registration

The Securities Exchange Act of 1934 regulates trading in securities by requiring disclosure of company activities through registration [see Sommer, Federal Securities Exchange Act of 1934, Ch. 1, The Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and the Securities and Exchange Commission, § 1.01 (Matthew Bender)]. Two types of securities must be registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934: those traded on a national securities exchange [Securities Exchange Act of 1934 § 12(b) (15 U.S.C. § 78l(b))], and those issued by companies engaged in a business affecting interstate commerce, having assets in excess of $1 million and having a class of equity security held of record by 500 or more persons [Securities Exchange Act of 1934 § 12(g) (15 U.S.C. § 78l(g))]. Any company that has any security registered under Section 12 of the 1934 Act may qualify an issuer transaction by notification under the California corporate securities laws [Corp. Code § 25112(a)].

Issuer notification will be the only procedure ordinarily utilized by a Section 12(g) company, or an investment company with respect to issuance of securities not registered under the Securities Act of 1933.

[c] Preparation of Form

The information that is required to be submitted in connection with a qualification by issuer notification consists of 13 items, numbered Item 8 through Item 20 (Items 1-7 are contained on the facing page [see § 6H.200], which must be included with the application). Since nearly every item in an issuer notification application is also used in an application for qualification by permit, and the information required is rather lengthy, only a brief description of the items will be presented here. A detailed discussion of each item and examples of the information to be included can be found in §§ 6H.225-6H.244.

The application for qualification by issuer notification requires a description of the business (Item 8) [see § 6H.225], a statement of the use to which the proceeds of sale of the securities will be put (Item 9) [see § 6H.226], and a description of the plan of distribution, including specific information regarding any agents (other than licensed broker-dealers) who will be employed by the issuer in connection with the transaction (Item 10) [see §§ 6H.227, 6H.272]. Item 11 requires the names of all corporate directors and executive officers [see § 6H.228]. A description of transactions with affiliated companies or persons within the preceding three years is required by Item 12 [see § 6H.229]. Items 13, 14, 15, and 16 require tables containing information relating to outstanding securities, options to purchase securities, the principal holders of the issuer's securities, and the compensation paid to officers, directors, and principal security holders [see §§ 6H.230-6H.233]. Information relevant to debt securities and stock option or bonus plans is required by Item 17 [see § 6H.234]. Item 18 is a catchall provision and any information which is required to evidence compliance with the Commissioner's rules should be included under this item; otherwise, the words "none" or "inapplicable" should be entered.

The exhibits required by Rule 260.112 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.112] are included under Item 19. These exhibits include charter documents of the issuer, a specimen security, copies of any contract affecting the rights, privileges, preferences, or transferability of the issuer's securities, financial statements, advertising used in connection with the offering, a description of any nonmonetary consideration to be received for the securities, and a list of the proposed purchasers if the application is for a limited offering [see §§ 6H.236-6H.238]. In addition, the applicant should attach a consent to service of process [see §§ 6H.239, 6H.241] as an exhibit under Item 19 if it is required by Corp. Code § 25165. Further, a Customer Authorization of Disclosure of Financial Records Form [see § 6H.241] must be attached as an exhibit to the application [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.112].

Finally, the applicant must execute an undertaking, included in the application as Item 20, agreeing to file the semiannual reports required by Corp. Code § 25146 and 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.146 [see § 6H.244]. The application must be verified in the manner prescribed by Rule 260.112 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.112; see § 6H.245].

[d] Suspensions, Stop Orders, and Conditions

The Commissioner may summarily order the postponement or suspension of the effectiveness of any notification qualification pending final determination of any proceeding under Corp. Code §§ 25140-25151 [Corp. Code § 25143(a)]. The Commissioner may take this action without prior notice [see Corp. Code § 25143(b)], but must promptly notify the applicant, the issuer, and the prospective purchaser of the entry of the order, the basis for the order, and the right to request a hearing [Corp. Code § 25143(a)].

The Commissioner may also issue a stop order denying effectiveness to, or suspending or revoking the effectiveness of, any notification qualification of an underwritten offering of securities if the Commissioner finds that the order is in the public interest and (1) that the proposed plan of business of the issuer, or the proposed issuance or sale of securities, is not fair, just, or equitable; (2) that the issuer does not intend to transact its business fairly and honestly; or (3) that the securities proposed to be issued or the method used in issuing the securities will tend to work a fraud on the purchasers [Corp. Code § 25140(a)(1); see Corp. Code § 25140(d) (limitation)]. The Commissioner may take any of these actions with regard to an application for or qualification of securities that is not an underwritten offering unless the Commissioner finds that the stop order is not in the public interest and (1) that the proposed plan of business of the issuer, or the proposed issuance or sale of securities, is fair, just, or equitable; (2) that the issuer intends to transact its business fairly and honestly, or (3) that the securities proposed to be issued or the method used in issuing the securities are not of a type that will tend to work a fraud on the purchasers [Corp. Code § 25140(a)(2)]. However, in general, the Commissioner may not issue such a stop order without (1) giving appropriate prior notice to the applicant, the issuer, and the person on whose behalf the securities will or have been offered; and (2) holding a hearing [Corp. Code § 25143(b)].

The Commissioner may modify or vacate a stop order, with or without a hearing, on a finding of changed conditions or for reasons that are in the public interest [Corp. Code § 25144].

The Commissioner is empowered to impose conditions that must be met before securities will be qualified for sale in California [Corp. Code § 25141; see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 9, Conditions of Qualification (Matthew Bender)]. These conditions are most often imposed in the case of permit qualified securities not subject to federal inspection, but may also be used in coordination or notification applications, since SEC disclosure requirements may not offer sufficient protection to California investors. These conditions include legend [see § 6H.260] and escrow conditions [see § 6H.264], impounding of subscription funds [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.141.20-260.141.27], selling expense limitations [see § 6H.227], and temporary waivers of liquidation, dividend, or voting rights on promotional shares [see § 6H.261]. Other conditions to prevent unfairness, injustice, or inequitability may be imposed by the Commissioner [Corp. Code § 25141].

§ 6H.220 Application for Qualification by Permit [Corp. Code § 25113; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.113]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an application for qualification by permit. Any nonexempt security subject to qualification that is offered or sold in California must be qualified before the transaction may be consummated [Corp. Code § 25110]. Qualification of any issuer transaction may be by permit [Corp. Code § 25113], although certain transactions may be eligible for the more streamlined procedures of qualification by coordination [see § 6H.205] or qualification by notification [see § 6H.215]. Qualification by permit requires the applicant to submit a facing page [see § 6H.200] and the additional items called for by 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112 and 260.113. Qualification becomes effective only when the Commissioner issues a permit authorizing the issuance of the securities [Corp. Code § 25113(c)]. Securities qualified by permit remain qualified for a period of one year from the effective date of qualification, except during the time that a stop order is in effect [Corp. Code § 25114].

[b] Conditions on Qualification

The Commissioner is empowered to impose conditions on the qualification if the Commissioner finds that without the conditions the offering will be unfair, unjust, or inequitable [Corp. Code § 25141]. The most common conditions imposed under this authority include a legend condition [see § 6H.260], escrow conditions [see § 6H.264], impound of subscription funds [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.141.20-260.141.27], selling expense limitations [see § 6H.227], and waivers of assets, dividends, or voting rights by the holders of promotional securities [see § 6H.261]. The subscription contract forms or prospectus for the sale of the securities must be approved by the Commissioner [Corp. Code §§ 25147, 25148]. The Commissioner may require that special technical reports be prepared by experts [Corp. Code § 25150], and all issuers are required to keep adequate books and records [Corp. Code § 25145]. The Commissioner frequently requires semiannual reports for a period of 18 months after the issue has been qualified [see Corp. Code § 25146; see also § 6H.274].

The Commissioner may refuse to issue a permit unless he or she finds that the proposed plan of business and the proposed issuance of securities are fair, just, and equitable, that the applicant intends to transact its business fairly and honestly, and that the securities that it proposes to issue and the methods to be used in issuing them will not work a fraud on the purchasers [Corp. Code § 25140(b)]. The fact that a permit has been issued does not constitute a finding that any document that has been filed pursuant to the application is true, complete, and not misleading [Corp. Code § 25164(a)]. Every permit issued by the Commissioner recites in bold type that the issuance of the permit is permissive only and does not constitute a recommendation or endorsement of the securities permitted to be issued [Corp. Code § 25164(c)].

The Commissioner, by order, may summarily postpone or suspend the effectiveness of any qualification pending final determination of any proceeding under Corp. Code §§ 25140-25151 [Corp. Code § 25143(a)]. Upon issuing such an order, the Commissioner must promptly notify the applicant, the issuer, and the person on whose behalf the securities are being offered, including the reasons for the order with the notice [Corp. Code § 25143(a)]. Any of those persons may request a hearing on the matter, which must be conducted in accordance with the provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act [Gov. Code §§ 11500-11529] (or if the person consents, a departmental hearing may be used [see Corp. Code § 25702]) and must be held within 20 days of the request [Corp. Code § 25143(b)]. The Commissioner may vacate or modify any stop order if he or she finds that the conditions which caused its entry have changed or that it is otherwise in the public interest to do so [Corp. Code § 25144].

Finally, the Commissioner may suspend or revoke a permit if the Commissioner finds that the order is in the public interest and finds any of the following [Corp. Code § 25140(a)(1); see Corp. Code § 25140(d) (limitation)]:

- The proposed plan of business of the issuer, or the proposed issuance or sale of securities, is not fair, just, or equitable;

- The issuer does not intend to transact its business fairly and honestly; or

- That the securities proposed to be issued or the method used in issuing the securities will tend to work a fraud on the purchasers.

However, the Commissioner must give appropriate prior notice to the applicant, the issuer, and the person on whose behalf the securities will or have been offered and hold a hearing before the suspension or revocation [Corp. Code § 25143(b)].

[c] Content and Preparation of Form

The application for qualification by permit consists of a facing page [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.110; see also § 6H.200], Items 8-10 and 12-18 as set forth in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.112, and Items 19-23 as set forth in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.113 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.113]. Items 8-10 and 12-18 of the application for qualification by permit are identical to those items in the application for qualification by issuer notification [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.113; see § 6H.215]. However, the information concerning directors and executive officers required in Item 11 of an application for qualification by issuer notification is incorporated into Item 21(j) of the application for qualification by permit. Consequently, in completing this form, the response concerning directors and officers should be set out in full in Item 21(j) and the response to Item 11 should merely be: "see response to Item 21(j)" [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.113; see § 6H.242]. For a discussion of Items 8-10 and 12-18, see § 6H.215.

Item 19 requires the disclosure of any issuance of securities pursuant to the small or limited offering exemptions, or qualified purchaser exemption, or exemption for certain employee or option plans [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.113; see Corp. Code § 25102(f), (h), (n), (o); see also § 6H.235]. Item 20 requires additional information in connection with any interest or participation in (1) oil, gas, or mining leases [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.120-260.140.131.9; see also Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 8, Standards for the Exercise of the Commissioner's Discretion (Matthew Bender)]; (2) real estate syndicates [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.110.1-260.140.119.1]; or (3) mutual water companies or churches [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.71-260.140.72.6; see also Dept. of Corps. Release No. 86-C (Feb. 21, 1989)]. For the exhibits and reports that are required by Items 21 and 22, see §§ 6H.236-6H.244.

[d] Small Company Applications for Qualification by Permit

[i] Qualified Corporations

A qualified applicant may file for qualification by permit by filing a small company application under Corp. Code § 25113(b)(2). The applicant must be a California corporation, or a foreign corporation that, at the time of filing the application, is subject to Corp. Code § 2115, which subjects a foreign corporation to the California General Corporation Law if more than 50 percent of its outstanding voting securities are held of record by persons in California and more than 50 percent of its property, payroll, and sales for California franchise tax purposes are in California. [Corp. Code §§ 2115, 25113(b)(2)(A)]. The corporation must also satisfy the following requirements [Corp. Code § 25113(b)(2)(A)(i)-(iv)]:

- The corporation must not be a blind pool company. The term "blind pool company" refers to a company that is a development stage company and that either does not have a specific business plan or purpose or has indicated that its business plan is to engage in mergers or acquisitions with unidentified entities [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.113.1(b)(1)].

- The corporation must not be engaged in oil and gas exploration or production, or mining or other extractive industries.

- The corporation must not be an investment company subject to the Investment Company Act of 1940 [see 15 U.S.C. § 80a-1 et seq.].

- The corporation must not be subject to the reporting requirements of Section 13 or 15(d) of the Securities and Exchange Act of 1934 [see 15 U.S.C. §§ 78m, 78o(d)].

[ii] Offering Requirements

In addition to the requirements noted above, two other requirements apply [Corp. Code § 25113(b)(2)(B)]:

- The total offering of voting common stock and preferred stock to be sold in a 12-month period, within or outside California, must be limited to $1,000,000, less the aggregate offering price for certain securities sold (within the 12 months before the start and during the offering of voting common stock or preferred stock) under SEC Rule 504 [17 C.F.R. § 230.504]; and

- There must be only one class of voting common stock immediately after the proposed sale and issuance.

The minimum offering price of the voting common stock and preferred stock (and the conversion price if the preferred stock is convertible into the voting common stock) to be sold must be at least $2 per share, and the applicant must file an undertaking with the Commissioner stating that there will be no stock splits, stock dividends, spinoffs, or mergers for at least two years from the close of the offering. The Commissioner may, however, approve a spinoff or merger pursuant to an application for qualification filed by an applicant [Corp. Code § 25113(b)(2)(C)]. The net proceeds from the offering must be expended in the operations of the business [Corp. Code § 25113(b)(2)(D)].

The offering must be made pursuant to a Small Corporate Offering Registration disclosure document [NASAA Form U-7]. The Commissioner has prescribed additional requirements, which include investor suitability and due diligence investigation requirements [Corp. Code § 25113(b)(2)(E); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.113.1].

[iii] Application Requirements

A small company application for permit must contain the information required by statute and regulation [Corp. Code § 25113(b)(2)(G); see Corp. Code § 25610; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.113]. Currently, these requirements are coterminous with those applicable to the general application for qualification by permit [compare Corp. Code § 25113(b)(1) with Corp. Code § 25113(b)(2)(G)], as set forth in this form. The Commissioner may require additional information and documentation by rule [Corp. Code § 25113(b)(2)(G)]. In addition, the application must contain or be accompanied by a consent to service of process if required [Corp. Code § 25113(b)(2)(G); see Corp. Code § 25165]. The application and the disclosure document [see [ii], below] must be reviewed and signed by a majority of the members of the board of directors of the applicant [Corp. Code § 25113(b)(2)(F)].

The fee for filing a small company application for qualification by permit is $2,500, which is the maximum aggregate fee applicable to other applications for qualification by permit. However, if the costs of processing the small company application exceed that filing fee, an additional fee of up to $1,000 will be charged. The processing fee is based on the costs of salary or other compensation paid to persons processing the application, plus overhead costs reasonably incurred in the performance of the work. In determining costs, the Commissioner may use the estimated average hourly cost for all persons processing applications for the fiscal year [Corp. Code § 25608(e)].

INSTRUCTIONS FOR APPLICATION FOR QUALIFICATION BY PERMIT (SECTION 260.113)

An application for the qualification of the offer and sale of securities by permit pursuant to Section 25113 of the Code shall, in addition to the facing page required by Section 260.110 of these rules and items 8 through 10 and 12 through 18 specified in Section 260.112 of these rules, continue in the following form:

[a] Use of Form

This form is a description of the applicant's business. All forms for qualification of securities require some description of the business operations of the issuer. In applications for qualification by nonissuer notification [see § 6H.255] this information is contained at Item 7 of the application. Qualification under issuer notification [see § 6H.215] and permit [see § 6H.220] procedures require the description of the business as Item 8 of the application. An application for a reorganization permit [see § 6H.250] should describe the business operations of the issuer at Item 10. This form suggests a format for the major areas that might be considered when providing this description.

[b] Preparation of Form

The description of the existing or proposed plan of business must be more specific than a recital of the business purpose clause contained in the articles of incorporation [see Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation, §§ 3.220, 3.221 (examples of business purpose clauses in the articles)]. The statement in the application must be sufficiently detailed to convince the Commissioner that the plan of business and the sale of shares to investors is fair, just, and equitable [see Corp. Code § 25140]. The Commissioner's own business judgment may not be substituted for that of sophisticated shareholders of an existing corporation [see Transportation Bldg. Co. v. Daugherty (1946) 74 Cal. App. 2d 604, 615-616, 169 P.2d 470] , but he or she has broad discretionary authority to insure that the applicant conducts its business fairly and honestly [Corp. Code § 25140; see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 8, Standards for the Exercise of the Commissioner's Discretion, § 8.01 (Matthew Bender)].

Description of Business [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.113, 260.121, 260.131]

DESCRIPTION OF BUSINESS

History:

Applicant corporation was incorporated in California on _____[date], as a result of promotion primarily by _____[name], a famous inventor and investor. In the period of initial operations, our activities were limited to research and development of chemical formulations of electronic products, design of chemical processes, and fabrication of production and test equipment, as well as design and construction of a manufacturing plant in _____[city]. Beginning on _____[date], we offered products for sale, and growth of sales and profits to date have been rapid. In _____ [year], we merged the _____ [name of company] into our operations in order to provide ourselves with a ready and economical but quality supply of our basic requisite _____ [type of supply material]. We have hitherto restricted our operations to development, manufacture, and sale of computer, instrumentation, and _____ [other specified] products, all of which are manufactured by few competitors, require extensive technology and substantial capital to produce, command high prices, and are compelled to meet severe technical specifications. Industry sales of these items are estimated presently at $_____ [figure] and are expected to rise to $_____ [figure] by _____[date]. Management believes our current rate of sales of all product lines is second highest in our industry.

Nature of Products [or Nature of Services]:

Applicant's products are all precision, high quality, magnetic tapes for use in electronic data processing, instrumentation, television picture recording, and _____ [specify other uses]. Our primary product, digital linear computer tape or "DLT," is designed for use in information retrieval devices installed in commercial institutions or central locations serving subscribers within a designated area of geography or use. A second tape is designed especially to serve the purposes of preserving test data and other scientific information in the missile and space industries. Our third most important tape product is used in television picture recording by broadcasters and program producers in the commercial and educational television industries, with separate devices used to facilitate closed circuit picture distribution.

Manufacturing Program [or Service Program]:

The development and manufacture of precision magnetic tape products requires a combination of technical disciplines which are not typically available in the chemical industries. Polymer chemists in product formulation work and chemical engineers in design of processing equipment must be integrated with physicists and electrical and mechanical engineers skilled in tape recording technology. Applicant's industry success in product development and manufacturing is in large part attributable to the effective combination of these talents on our senior technical staff. Research and development is continually emphasized within our company. We have not received any government research and development contracts nor assistance and have developed all of our products and equipment at our own expense. The manufacturing technology of our industry is not protected by patent, normally. As is common in the chemical processing industries, protection is more securely obtained by the multiplicity of trade secrets of product formulations and the design and modes of operation of manufacturing processes and equipment. Even when such designs are patentable, they usually are not patented in order to avoid technical disclosure and resulting infringement or circumvention of protection.

Property and Equipment:

Applicant's existing plant is located on a _____-acre _____[number] site in _____[city] in a science-oriented industrial community. Operations are housed in a building constructed in _____ [year] which provides _____[number] square feet of office and laboratory area and _____[number] square feet of factory and warehouse space. Administration is housed in a smaller, temporary building located directly in front of the main building. Manufacturing equipment consists of a complex of chemical processing, mechanical, and electronic equipment including ultrasonic film-cleaning baths, particle dispersion machines, coaters, drying and curing ovens, tape surface treating equipment, web slitters, and chemical analysis and electronic test equipment. The equipment is continuously maintained to assure the highest level of production quality. Technical obsolescence rather than wear and tear will account for any depreciation, but this is not expected to any degree for the next _____[number] years. Much of the equipment is unique since most of it was developed by applicant itself at an original cost of $_____. Applicant owns all its property and currently has a mortgage only on the parcel holding the administration building.

Work Force:

Applicant employs a total labor group of _____[number] including _____[number] on the research and development staff, _____[number] of whom hold Ph.D. degrees from reputable institutions, _____[number] whose sole responsibility is to function as a maintenance crew, _____[number] on active production operations, and _____[number] involved in strictly administrative and clerical duties. Approximately _____[number] of applicant's total personnel is union labor. Relations with the _____ [specify] union have been excellent in the last _____[number] years and there are no immediate indications of new union activity in the industry generally.

Customers:

Our computer tapes are used in the electronic data processing installations of banks, insurance companies, government agencies, and industrial corporations. Such customers total several hundred and include _____[number] of the 10 largest corporations in the country. Government agencies which are storage tape customers include space and defense related agencies, including _____ [specify agency], and also civilian agencies such as the _____ [specify agency]. Television company customers include _____ [names of particular companies]. The demand for our products is related to the growth potentials of the computer, missile and space, and television markets. Such demand is also stabilized, however, because our instruments are primarily supply items. Therefore, the demand is related not only to the number of new computers, instrumentation, and video recording devices sold each year but to the aggregate of machines in existence, similar to the way in which the demand for tires is related to, but not limited by, new automobile sales. The company only has one long-range customer contract, that with the _____[name] Company by which applicant agrees to supply its customer with _____ [quantity] of its _____ [product] for a _____-year _____[number] period, distributed roughly in an equal manner over the months, at a price ranging $_____ [price range] upwards over the course of the contract. This would account for _____ percent of all applicant's basic output in the product area.

Competition:

Production in our industry is dominated by _____ [name of competitor company] which pioneered in _____ [specify manufacturing processes] approximately _____[number] years ago. Applicant is the only effective competition to _____ [name of competitor company] in the sale of _____ [specify product] to some computer system manufacturers which specialize in _____ [name of particular operation]. The product line of _____ [competitor], unlike that of applicant, includes as well a wide range of lower-priced and quality products for _____ [specify] uses. Other competitors are _____ [list names]. There are no significant foreign manufacturers of products for our _____ [specify] uses. Other competitors are _____ [list names]. There are no significant foreign manufacturers of our _____ [specify] products in commercial quantities. All of the above-named competitors have been manufacturing for _____[number] years. In general, these companies do not possess the capability to manufacture products to the standard of quality and technical specifications set by applicant and _____ [major competitor] in regard to _____ [specify type of product and operation], and their success in competition in this respect is based on the lower prices of their products.

§ 6H.226 Use of Proceeds to Issuer [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.113]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a statement of the issuer's use of proceeds from the sale of securities. Qualification under both issuer notification [Corp. Code § 25112] and permit [Corp. Code § 25113] procedures requires that the applicant state as Item 9 the principal purposes to which the net proceeds from the sale of securities will be put, and the approximate amount intended to be used for each such purpose [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.113; see §§ 6H.215, 6H.220].

This form suggest several examples of various purposes for which those proceeds might be used. The financial projects themselves need not be identified in any great detail. If it appears obvious that the allocated amount would not be adequate for the purpose listed and other funds will also be used, this fact should be indicated. If several purposes are stated under a single allocation, the form should indicate the order in which the funds would be allocated in the event that the sale proceeds are inadequate to satisfy all project needs. Although the distribution of a portion of the proceeds might be left to the discretion of the board of directors, too great a portion in such a category, even if designated in the alternative for specified purposes, might raise questions of speculation.

§ 6H.227 Plan of Distribution [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.113]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a description of the plan of distribution of offered securities. Item 10 of the application to qualify securities under issuer notification [Corp. Code § 25112] or permit [Corp. Code § 25113] procedures requires a description of the plan of distribution of the offered securities, identification of any underwriters or agents to be employed by the applicant in connection with the sale, and a statement of the discounts or compensation to be allowed or paid to those persons, or other consideration to be received by those persons in connection with the sale of the securities [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.113; see §§ 6H.215, 6H.220].

[b] Selling Expenses

The applicant may not incur unreasonable selling expenses. Selling expenses that do not exceed 15 percent of the aggregate offering price, less discounts and commissions, are presumed to be reasonable [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.20(a)]. Selling expenses include the following items [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.20(a)]:

- All underwriting and brokerage discounts and commissions paid in connection with the offering, including attorneys' fees for the underwriters if paid by the applicant, as well as expenses incurred for printing, engraving, and mailing.

- Salaries for sales activities; charges of transfer agents, registrars, trustees, escrow holders, and depositaries.

- Fees paid to experts such as engineers or appraisers.

- All fees, charges, and expenses in connection with the qualification or registration of the securities under federal or state law.

- Any other expenses actually incurred by the issuer and directly related to the offering and sale of the securities, except for accountants' and attorneys' fees of the issuer and options given to underwriters.

Reimbursement of expenses incurred by promoters in connection with the founding or organizing of a business enterprise are also included [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.33]. The value of any stock acquired or to be acquired by underwriters, brokers, finders, their counsel, or related parties is also treated as a selling expense [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.20(a)].

[c] Employment of Agents

Any applicant that will employ agents other than licensed broker-dealers in connection with the offering must comply with Rules 260.141.30 and 260.141.31 [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.141.30, 260.141.31; see § 6H.272] and supply the following:

- The name and business address of each person who will represent the applicant as an agent in California.

- The name and business address of the corporate officer or other official who will supervise those agents on behalf of the applicant.

- A statement that all such agents employed in California are employees of the applicant.

- A statement of the compensation to be paid to those agents and the compensation to be paid to supervisory personnel in excess of their regular salaries if they are regular employees of the applicant.

- A description of any disqualification or legal disability of any such agent or supervisory person to engage in the securities business, or the association of that person as an officer or director with any corporation similarly disqualified, disabled, or restrained from engaging in any conduct or practice in connection with the purchase or sale of securities, or any conviction of that person involving a security or any aspect of the securities business, or any conviction for theft or any felony.

- A surety bond complying with the requirements of 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.216.15 [see § 6H.273].

[d] Underwriter Options

Payments made to underwriters in the form of options must also be disclosed under this item. Compensation to underwriters in the form of options will be presumed reasonable if the number of shares or units called for by those options does not exceed 10 percent of the total number of shares or units underwritten for the issuer in the offering. In addition, the options should not exceed five years in total duration and should be exercisable at a price not less than the public offering price (with a provision for an annual price increase of not less than 7 percent, or a flat price of 120 percent of the initial price of the offering). Further, the options should not be deliverable until the entire issue has been sold, and the options should be nontransferable (subject to exceptions for the death of the option holder or transfer to a partner of the underwriter). Finally, the exercise of any option, or the resale, transfer, or assignment of the shares underlying the option must be prohibited for at least one year [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.21; see §§ 6H.231, 6H.234 for further discussion of options].

This information must be set forth in Item 8 for nonissuer notification applications [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.131], Item 11 for applications under issuer notification or permit procedures [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.113], and in Item 13 for recapitalization and reorganization permits (which requires the names of all directors, executive officers, or persons occupying a similar status or performing similar functions) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.121].

In addition, the applicant must describe any order, judgment, or decree of a governmental agency or administrator, or of any court, revoking or suspending for cause any license, permit, or other authority of that person, or of any corporation of which the applicant is an officer or director, to engage in the securities business or in the sale of a particular security, or temporarily or permanently restraining that person or corporation from engaging in or continuing any conduct or employment in connection with the purchase or sale of securities. Felony or misdemeanor convictions involving any aspect of the securities business, and convictions of any offense involving theft or any felony must also be described [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.113, 260.121, 260.131].

[b] Qualification by Issuer Permit

Because the information required by Item 21(j) of an application for qualification by issuer permit [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.113; see also § 6H.220] incorporates the information required in this form, an applicant responding to Item 11 of the application for qualification by permit should, in lieu of completing this form, merely state, "see response to Item 21(j)." The full response should then be set forth as required by Item 21(j) in a document labeled Exhibit J [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.113; see §§ 6H.220 (application), 6H.242 (Exhibit J)].

§ 6H.229 Material Transactions With Affiliates During Last Three Years [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.113, 260.131]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a description of material transactions with affiliates that have occurred within the last three years. Applications for qualification by issuer notification [see § 6H.215], permit [see § 6H.220], and nonissuer notification [see § 6H.255] require the applicant to describe as Item 12 of the application any material transactions or agreements between the applicant or any of its affiliated companies and any of the promoters, directors, officers, principal employees, principal security holders, underwriters or agents, or any company directly or indirectly controlled by any such person or persons, that have occurred during the three-year period immediately preceding the filing of the application [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.131].

The purpose of the disclosures required under this item is to alert the Commissioner to possible conflicts of interest. Accordingly, transactions that involve all shareholders proportionately may not be material, but transactions that involve less than all of the shareholders, or which feature discounts or bonuses to certain individuals, may be highly material. Any acquisitions or dispositions of corporate property involving any of the persons listed above should include the relevant information regarding original costs and selling prices. This form suggests categories that might be included in completing Item 12.

Material Transactions With Affiliates During Last Three Years [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.113, 260.131]

ITEM 12. MATERIAL TRANSACTIONS WITH AFFILIATES.

The following transactions between applicant [or its affiliated companies] and the following parties during the last three years are material:

A. Promoters:

_____ [names] on _____[date], were the owners of _____[number] sites in the _____[name] industrial park located in _____ [geographic location]. They had purchased the property at a probate sale in _____ [year] for $_____ [price]. After convincing the local Board of Supervisors to rezone the area for industry, they leased out half the area to other industries related in nature of products to applicant, then incorporated applicant and arranged to have applicant purchase out of its initial capital the remaining half of the acreage as the site for its principal plant. The price to applicant was $ _____, approved as the fair price by the board of directors [or promoters]. _____ [names of promoters] received _____[number] shares in applicant for that service to the corporation since the contract for the property gave applicant an enormous competitive advantage in placing it in a most desirable site in relationship to its customers as well as to its suppliers.

B. Directors:

In _____ [year], when applicant was considering before its full Board the possibility of merging with one or more of its three leading suppliers, _____ [name of director] proposed that applicant buy _____ [his or her] personal stock in _____ [name of supplying company], one of the choices being considered for selection, and thereby obtaining a controlling interest, though not 50 percent or over, in the corporation without having to formally consummate applicant's objectives in a more complicated manner. The decision was approved by the full Board, _____ [name of selling director] not voting, and _____ [name of selling director] was paid $_____ [price] for _____ [his or her] entire interest in the supplier. The stock was then selling for $_____ [price] over the counter. _____ [name of selling director] originally had purchased the various portions of the block between the years_____-_____ at prices ranging from _____ [range of prices]. The result was that applicant gained, and still retains an effective controlling interest in that supplier which has brought numerous and profitable benefits to both companies in terms of purchase and supply contracts.

C. Officers:

On its initial organization in _____ [year], applicant proposed to _____ [name of officer] that _____ [he or she] serve as titular head of the corporation with the office of President, but that _____ [he or she] was not to have any position on the Board nor any executive responsibility with respect to the company. _____ [His or Her] contract called for _____ [him or her] to be available for general consultation, to have an office at the corporation which _____ [he or she] was to visit for an hour on the average of every week, and to receive the salary of $_____ per year for five years, after which _____ [he or she] was to resign. The contract expired last year, and _____'s [name of officer] resignation was duly tendered and received. The entire arrangement was for public relations and publicity purposes primarily, since _____ [name of officer] was a semiretired preeminent figure in applicant's industry. _____ [Name of officer] also afforded valuable expertise on several occasions in which _____ [he or she] was consulted during office hours by key management personnel.

D. Principal Employees:

On _____[date], applicant acquired the services of _____[name], the then head of industrial personnel of its chief competitor, _____ [name of corporation]. _____'s [

Name of employee] salary at that time with _____ [name of competitor], and for the previous three years had been $_____. [name of employee] was rated by experts in applicant's industry as one of the top three industrial managers in the field. Applicant's contract with _____ [name of employee] provided for a starting salary of $_____ to be increased at the rate of $_____ per year until _____[date], at which time the contract is to expire. In addition, _____ [name of employee] was given _____[number] shares of common stock in applicant as incentive during the most recent issuance of company stock, qualified with the Department on _____[date], under an agreement whereby _____ [he or she] was to return the stock at $_____ [price] per share should _____ [his or her] services be terminated before _____[date]. The Board has rated _____'s [name of employee] performance for the company as excellent since retention.

E. Principal Security Holders:

_____[Name] is the holder of _____[number] of shares of applicant, which _____ [he or she] has held since _____[date], amounting to a _____ [figure of 10 percent or higher] percent interest in the company. _____ [He or She] also is the holder of _____[number] of shares in _____ [name of other corporation], giving _____ [him or her] an effective controlling interest in that corporation. Applicant steadily deals with _____ [name of other corporation] for all its _____ [specify services performed by other corporation], originally on the recommendation of _____ [name of principal holder set out above], but since then on the basis of the quality and dependability of performance, coupled with the most reasonable charges, which _____ [name of other company] continuously has rendered.

F. Underwriters or Agents:

_____ [Name of underwriting firm] originally was approached by applicant's management in _____ [year], to see about organizing a separate and independent distributor enterprise on a private subscription basis, a company which would exist at the outset on the basis of contracts to take applicant's _____ [describe] product and job it to awakening markets in the _____ [location] of the country. _____ [name of underwriters] worked with management to tailor the outlines of the new organization to the needs of certain institutional investors, and then arranged a private subscription, joining investors from several different lending industries, some of whose boards members of applicant's management also sat on. The project was a success, several new customer markets being stimulated into full activity, and on _____[date], the jobbing corporation was purchased outright by applicant to allow it to deal more directly with its purchasing markets _____ [name of underwriters], who had been paid selling expenses outright of $_____ for the subscription, also had been given _____[number] of options for shares in the company, which they exercised just prior to applicant's purchase. The option exercise price was $_____, after which they realize $_____ total after the purchase by applicant.

§ 6H.230 Outstanding Securities [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.113]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a list of outstanding securities. Item 13 of applications for qualification by issuer notification [see § 6H.215] or permit [see § 6H.220] requires a table indicating the title or class of securities outstanding, the number of shares in each such class, and whether any of the securities are publicly traded [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.112]. The term "publicly traded" relates to Item 5(e) of the facing page [see § 6H.200], the instructions for which state that a public market exist for a class of securities if (1) it is listed on a national securities exchange, (2) it is traded in the over-the-counter market and quoted in the Wall Street Journal or other newspaper of general circulation, or (3) it is held of record or beneficially by 500 or more persons [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.110]. Whether a security is publicly traded will have a bearing on whether an open or limited qualification is granted.

§ 6H.231 Outstanding Options to Purchase Securities [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.113, 260.131]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a list of a corporation's outstanding options to purchase securities. Applications for qualification by issuer notification [see § 6H.215] and permit [see § 6H.220] require as Item 14 of the application, and applications for qualification by nonissuer notification [see § 6H.255] require as Item 10 of the application, a table stating the title and amount of securities called for by options, warrants, or rights, including the purchase price of the securities so called for and the expiration dates of those options, together with the market value of the securities so called for as of the latest practicable date [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.131]. The statement must include that information for all options held by each officer and director of the applicant. The information presented as to all options held by persons other than officers or directors of the applicant may be stated in terms of ranges [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.131].

[b] Restrictions on Issuance of Options

[i] In General

The Commissioner may refuse to issue a permit for qualification [see Corp. Code § 25113] unless he or she finds the proposed issuance of the securities to be fair, just, and equitable [Corp. Code § 25140(b)]. The Commissioner has promulgated regulations, setting forth standards for fairness, that are intended to operate as guidelines only [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140; Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 8, Standards for the Exercise of the Commissioner's Discretion (Matthew Bender)].

[ii] Pro Rata Rights

Rights may be issued to all the shareholders of an issuer (or to all the holders of a particular class of stock) to purchase additional shares on a pro rata basis, with a term of no more than 90 days following the date of issuance, provided that (1) the exercise price is not so low in relation to the offering price [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.50] that it is unreasonably prejudicial to those shareholders unable to exercise or sell their rights, and (2) the relative equity positions of different classes of outstanding shares will not be unfairly prejudiced. An exercise price that is not more than 15 percent below the offering price [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.40; see also 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.50] is presumptively reasonable. These rights must be freely transferable [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.40]. For further discussion, see Ch. 6I, Issuance of Equity Securities .

[iii] Options

The standards relating to a presumption of fairness require an option plan (1) to meet criteria substantially similar to the requirements of I.R.C. § 422 (definition of "incentive stock option") [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.41]; (2) generally to provide for annual financial statements regarding the issuer to be given to the option holders [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.46]; and (3) to limit the securities called for by all outstanding options, under any purchase, bonus, or similar plan, to 30 percent of the then-outstanding securities of the issuer (excluding securities subject to promotional waivers) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.45; see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 118-C (Nov. 14, 2006) (request for variance from compensatory benefit plan regulations pending their possible amendment)]. For a discussion of those standards, see Ch. 6I, Issuance of Equity Securities .

[iv] Warrants

Warrants to purchase equity securities may be issued to the purchasers of debt securities if the following conditions are satisfied [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.43]:

- Issuance is necessary to obtain debt financing;
- The term of the warrant does not exceed the life of the debt securities or 15 years, whichever is less;
- The number of shares issuable upon exercise of the warrants does not exceed the number that could be purchased at the exercise price with the debt securities at face amount; and
- The exercise price is at least equal to the value of the equity securities [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.50] on the date the warrant is issued.

Warrants to purchase equity securities may be issued to purchasers of equity securities if the following conditions are satisfied [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.44]:

- Issuance is necessary to obtain equity financing;
- The term of the warrant does not exceed five years;
- The number of securities issuable upon exercise does not exceed the number of equity securities purchased with the warrants; and
- The exercise price is at least equal to the value of the equity securities [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.50] on the date the warrant is issued. For further discussion, see Ch. 6I, Issuance of Equity Securities .

§ 6H.232 Principal Security Holders [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.113, 260.121, 260.131]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a table listing the principal security holders. Item 15 of the application to qualify securities under issuer notification [Corp. Code § 25112; see § 6H.215] and permit [Corp. Code § 25113; see § 6H.220] procedures, Item 11 of the application for qualification by nonissuer notification [Corp. Code § 25131; see § 6H.255], and Item 14 if the application is for qualification under a recapitalization or reorganization permit [Corp. Code § 25121; see § 6H.250] require a table listing the names of all persons who are owners of record (or are known by the applicant to be beneficial owners) of more than 10 percent of any class of voting securities of the issuer [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.121, 260.131].

The information provided under this item should also reflect the respective number of shares and the percentages of the class of shares having voting rights owned of record or beneficially by each such person. Since "voting stock" includes only those shares which are presently entitled to vote in elections of directors [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.017.1], any class of preferred stock or debt security which may have contingent voting rights [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.2] need not be included unless the contingency has occurred and those shares have actually vested voting rights. The calculations of percentage ownership should be made on the basis of all outstanding securities of the class and should exclude securities held by the issuer.

In addition to identifying individual shareholders who possess an interest in voting securities in excess of 10 percent, the applicant should supply information as to the amounts held by, and the terms of, any voting trust or similar agreement with respect to more than 10 percent of the outstanding securities of any class of voting securities of the issuer [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.121]. Applications for qualification by nonissuer notification must also disclose insider trading activities of principal security holders, officers, and directors, if any of such persons effected more than five transacttions in the securities of the issuer within the preceding 12 months [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.131]. Because copies of all voting trust agreements must be filed with the secretary of the corporation [Corp. Code § 706(b)], the easiest way to answer this item with regard to voting trusts is to attach a copy of any voting trust agreement to the table called for by this item and to incorporate the information therein by reference in the table itself.

§ 6H.233 Remuneration of Directors, Officers, and Principal Security Holders [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.113, 260.131]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a table listing the remuneration of directors, officers, and principal security holders. Item 16 of the application to qualify securities under issuer notification [Corp. Code § 25112; see § 6H.215] and permit [Corp. Code § 25113; see § 6H.220] procedures and Item 9 of the application for qualification by nonissuer notification [Corp. Code § 25131; see § 6H.255] require a table listing the amount of compensation received by directors, officers, and principal security holders of the issuer during the fiscal year preceding the filing of the application.

Only direct remuneration in excess of $60,000 to the above-listed persons need be reported. In addition, the aggregate remuneration paid during the year to all directors, officers, and principal security holders (those persons holding more than 10 percent of the outstanding shares [see § 6H.232]), regardless of whether that remuneration exceeded $60,000, must be listed [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.131]. If a full year of operations has not been completed, the applicant should supply a projection of future payments for the remainder of the fiscal year. Applicants should note that the aggregate sum of compensation to all directors, officers, and principal security holders may be greater than the total compensation listed under Item 16, since the compensation paid to any one such person may be less than $60,000.

§ 6H.234 Additional Information in Connection With Debt Securities and Options or Stock Bonuses [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.113]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form sets forth additional information in connection with debt securities and options or stock bonuses. Applicants who propose to issue debt securities, shares subject to options, or shares as part of a stock bonus plan must complete Item 17 if the issue is being qualified by issuer notification [Corp. Code § 25112] or permit [Corp. Code § 25113].

[b] Debt Securities

A copy of the trust indenture or other instrument pursuant to which the debt securities are to be issued should be attached to the application as an exhibit [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.112]. The requirements for the trust indenture for the issuance of nonconvertible debt securities are set out in Rule 260.140.4 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.4]. Convertible debt securities proposed to be issued must be accompanied by a trust indenture or other instrument complying with Rule 260.140.6 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.6]. In general, an open qualification for issuance of debt securities will not be approved unless issued under a trust indenture complying with the requirements of the Trust Indenture Act of 1939 [15 U.S.C. § 77aaa et seq.], whether or not the indenture is required to be qualified under that Act [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.5]. A limited offering qualification will be approved for the issuance of debt securities so long as the trust indenture or other instrument provides adequate protection to the holders of the debt securities under the circumstances of the particular case [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.5].

In addition to the trust indenture, the applicant must include a calculation based on the earnings history of the preceding three years demonstrating that the applicant can meet the proposed dividends, interest, and sinking fund requirements on all senior securities outstanding and proposed to be outstanding. In cases in which the ability to meet the dividend, interest, and sinking fund requirements depends on future earning capacity, the applicant should submit calculations of that future earning capacity together with any supporting evidence that may be necessary to demonstrate reasonable certainty in connection with future earning capacity.

Finally, Item 17 requires that the applicant supply any information that may be required to comply with the rules of the Commissioner relating to debt securities. These rules primarily include the requirements specified by 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.4-260.140.6.

[c] Options or Stock Bonuses

If the proposed issue involves options or a stock bonus plan, Item 17 must include a copy of the plan pursuant to which options or stock bonuses will be granted, together with a copy of the form of option or stock bonus agreement to be issued pursuant to the plan. In addition, a copy of all proxy materials submitted or to be submitted to shareholders in connection with the approval of any such plan should be included. Finally, if the plan has already been approved by the shareholders, the applicant must furnish a statement detailing the number of shares in favor, opposed, and not voting with respect to the option or stock bonus plan [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.112].

[d] Options to Purchasers of Debt Securities

Warrants to purchase equity securities may be issued to the purchasers of debt securities provided that their issuance is reasonably necessary to obtain the debt financing, and (1) the term of the warrant does not exceed the life of the debt securities or 15 years, whichever is less, (2) the number of equity securities issuable upon exercise of the warrants does not exceed the number that could be purchased at the exercise price with the debt securities at face amount, and (3) the exercise price is at least equal to the value of the equity securities, calculated in accordance with 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.50 on the date the warrant is issued [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.43].

For discussion of debt securities, see Ch. 6J, Issuance of Debt Securities . For a trust indenture form, see Rabkin & Johnson, Current Legal Forms with Tax Analysis, Form 19.38 (Matthew Bender).

§ 6H.237 Nonmonetary Consideration [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.113]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a list, in tabular form, of all nonmonetary consideration received by an issuer for securities qualified by issuer notification or permit. If consideration other than cash is to be received by the issuer for securities qualified by issuer notification [Corp. Code § 25112; see § 6H.215] or by permit [Corp. Code § 25113; see § 6H.220], the applicant must provide a detailed description of the consideration actually received. The applicant must indicate the names of the purchasers acquiring securities for nonmonetary consideration, the value of that consideration, and the per share selling price based on the value of the consideration. An appraisal or detailed description of the value of the consideration should be attached. If the applicant proposes to issue securities in exchange for a patent or invention for which an application for patent is pending, the applicant must attach a copy of the patent or application, together with an opinion of a patent attorney covering the subjects of its ownership, validity, and infringement of patents of others, and a description of all contracts, licenses, and assignments of rights or interests in the patent [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112 (Item 19F), 260.113 (Item 21G)].

[b] Valuation of Nonmonetary Consideration

The valuation of nonmonetary consideration is important because normally the Commissioner will not approve sales of a series in which the price varies among purchasers of the same offering [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.51]. The types of consideration acceptable at the option of the corporation may vary, however, since labor done, services actually rendered, debts or securities canceled, or tangible or intangible property actually received are valid tender for the securities [Corp. Code § 409(a)(1)].

Except for debts or securities canceled, the nonmonetary consideration may constitute promotional consideration if it consists of services rendered in connection with the founding or organizing of a business enterprise, or if it consists of tangible or intangible property, the value of which has not been satisfactorily established, or when the consideration does not equal the value of the shares purchased [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.30]. Promoters' shares are subject to special waivers and restrictions [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.1; see § 6H.261]. In an unseasoned corporation, promotional shares not exceeding 25 percent of all common shares issued and proposed to be issued are deemed to be reasonable. Additional promotional shares may be authorized in light of services rendered and other consideration given to the issuer by the promoter, the nature and circumstances of the business enterprise being promoted and the identity of the investors. If the issuer is a small business issuer (as defined in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.001(i)) that meets the conditions for filing under Corp. Code § 25113(b), promotional shares not in excess of 50 percent of the common shares issued and proposed to be issued is presumptively reasonable. Normally, no promotional shares may be issued in connection with the financing of a seasoned corporation[10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.31].

In any event, it is desirable to submit valuation reports in the form of opinions of professional experts such as engineers, appraisers, or patent attorneys [see Corp. Code § 25150], whose reports must disclose whether such individuals have any material relationship with the applicant [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.150(b)]. If the applicant wishes, technical reports will be prepared by state employees on prepayment of the estimated cost of preparing such reports [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.150.1].

A. Labor Done

Applicant proposes to issue _____[number] shares of its common stock, currently being offered at the cash price of $_____ to _____ [name of issuee] as payment in full for labor performed on behalf of applicant in the nature of construction of a _____ [describe] warehouse on applicant's present business premises _____ [name of issuee] is the sole owner and operator of _____[name] construction company, which specializes in construction in applicant's industry. Attached to this exhibit is a complete itemization of construction charges, prepared exactly as they would have been on a complete cash job. Attached also is the opinion of _____ [name of expert], construction engineer, attesting to a valuation of that improvement at $_____, or an excess [or a decrease] of $_____ from the equivalent cash price for the offered securities, as well as attesting to the authenticity of preparations and figures as detailed in the attached itemization.

B. Services Actually Rendered

Applicant proposes to issue to _____ [names of issuees] _____[number] shares each [or differing numbers, respectively] of its common stock, currently being offered at $_____ per share, in consideration of services rendered in connection with interesting applicant's initial customer's in applicant's proposed basic product and negotiating with those customers _____[number] contracts containing orders for _____[number] units of that product over a _____-year _____[number] period. Those contracts, besides meaning the impetus and sustenance of applicant's initial period of business, also should account for a minimum gross return of $_____ a year for the duration. Attached is an opinion of _____[name], experienced business and management consultant and attorney, attesting that the value of those services performed by a competent organization and resulting in those contracts would be charged for at an approximate total of $_____. The securities will carry promotional waivers and restrictions.

C. Debts or Securities Canceled

Applicant proposes to issue to _____ [name of issuee] the amount of _____[number] shares of its _____ [percent] preferred stock, currently being offered at $_____ in consideration for the cancellation by _____ [name of issuee] of a current loan outstanding to applicant in the remaining unpaid principal amount of $_____ at _____ percent interest per year. The note calls for repayment by _____[date]. In addition, applicant proposes to issue to _____ [name of issuee] _____[number] shares of the same stock in return for the cancellation by _____ [name of issuee] of _____[number] of applicant's _____ year _____ percent convertible subordinated debentures issued _____[date], bearing a face value of $_____. In each of the above trades, the exchange of consideration represents a _____ percent loss [or gain] for the proposed issuee as against original consideration paid for the exchanged debt, which will be more than offset by the relative advantages flowing to issuee [or applicant] as a result of the transfer to equity investment by _____ [name of issuee].

D. Tangible or Intangible Property Actually Received

Applicant proposes to issue to _____ [name of issuee] the amount of _____[number] shares of its common stock, currently being offered at $_____, in consideration of the transfer to applicant of United States patents, Nos. _____ [list numbers], and exclusive rights under patents being applied for under file Nos. _____ [list numbers]. Each of these patents, perfected and pending, is the basis for one of the composite parts in applicant's basic product which, as previously described, gives it the competitive advantage of greater performance and economic accessibility. Under the master contract with _____ [name of issuee], a copy of which is attached to this exhibit, applicant would become the exclusive assignee of the present patents, and would have the exclusive right to utilize those which are pending. Applicant would propose also to license patents Nos. _____ [identify by number] to any competitors desirous of using them.

According to our attorneys, retention of those patents exclusively might violate certain antitrust provisions of federal law although possession of them alone by competitors still would not allow them to recreate applicant's product. Enclosed also is an opinion of a patent attorney concerning ownership, validity, and infringement possibilities of these patents which negates any problems developing in these regards; and an opinion of _____ [name of expert], nationally known _____ [type of industry] engineer, on the soundness for commercial purposes of the parts produced through these patents and the value of these patents in a technical sense to this industry, which valuation places the worth of the total patents within _____ percent under [or over] the comparative price of the stock being offered in trade.

§ 6H.238 Proposed Purchasers [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.113]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a list of proposed purchasers. If the application is for a limited offering qualification [see § 6H.200], it must contain a list of the complete names, post office addresses, and occupations of the proposed issuees [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.113]. If any of the proposed issuees is related to any of the promoters, officers, or directors of the applicant, this information must be disclosed. Further information as to the financial responsibility and investment experience of the proposed purchasers, while not absolutely required as part of the original application (except in connection with oil and gas or mining interests and real estate syndicates), may serve to facilitate processing by the Department of Corporations [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.113; see § 6H.271 (investor's suitability representation letter)].

On request, any information furnished will be treated as confidential [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.113; see § 6H.275]. In that case, it should be cross-referred to in the main exhibit and separately attached under a request for confidential treatment. In this form, the section on financial and investment background is designated as (2), whether or not treated as confidential and separated from the rest of the exhibit. If the applicant proposes to limit the offering to a class of purchasers, information concerning the financial and other qualifications which will be used to determine the class, together with the methods to be used by the applicant in qualifying purchasers within that class, should also be submitted [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.113].

(1) Class of Issuees by Financial and Other Qualifications

Since applicant manufactures and distributes a product that will tend to allow independently owned service stations to compete more competently with national service station chains which market their own parent oil company product, applicant intends to approach two specialized classes of investors to finance its enterprise: (1) proprietors of independent service stations or of small independent chains of such stations not exceeding _____[number] in number of branches or franchises, either of which can demonstrate it has done $_____ [dollar volume] business minimum in a _____ [duration] period; and (2) pension funds of oil companies and other manufacturers in the petroleum industry at large who supply products which are marketed through independent service stations, which funds can demonstrate control of at least $_____ in investment assets. These will be the two classes that will best understand the nature of applicant's business, will best be able to estimate its worth and evaluate its chances for success, and will be most interested in seeing that it flourishes.

(2) Methods for Qualifying Purchasers Within Class

To be admitted as an investor, intending issuees of either class will have to submit to _____ [selling agents] audited financial data showing that the service station on the one hand, and the pension fund as well as its underlying oil business on the other, have been in successful operation for the past three years (whether or not under current management), and have made a profit during at least one of those years; and that the trends clearly indicate future earnings sufficient to support the size of the intended investment.

§ 6H.239 Consent to Service of Process--California Form [Corp. Code § 25165; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.165]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a consent to service of process. Every applicant for qualification of securities under the California Corporate Securities Law of 1968, anyone who files an application or notice that a security or transaction is not subject to qualification [see Corp. Code §§ 25100.1, 25101.1, 25102.1, 25230.1; see also § 6H.153], and anyone who files an application for or notice of an exemption from qualification (except California corporations and broker-dealers licensed to transact business in California) must file an irrevocable consent appointing the Commissioner of Corporations to be that person's attorney to receive service of any lawful process in any noncriminal suit, action, or proceeding arising under the Corporate Securities Law of 1968 or any rule or order thereunder against the person signing the consent form or his or her successor, executor, or administrator [Corp. Code § 25165]. A person who has filed a consent in connection with a previous qualification, or in connection with a notice filing under Corp. Code §§ 25100.1, 25101.1, 25102.1, and 25230.1, need not file another [see Corp. Code § 25165].

The consent to service of process must be (1) pursuant to the Uniform Consent to Service of Process (Form U-2), (2) pursuant to Form D [17 C.F.R. 239.500] filed with the Commissioner in connection with the transaction, (3) included in an electronic submission of a filing, or (4) in the California form reproduced below [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.165]. Form U-2 is reproduced in § 6H.240.

Regardless of whether a consent has been filed, conduct which is prohibited or made actionable by the Corporate Securities Law is considered equivalent to appointment of the Commissioner as attorney for receipt of service of process for violations of that law when the person who has violated the law has attempted to avoid personal jurisdiction in California [Corp. Code § 25550].

This form is the Uniform Consent to Service of Process (Form U-2) developed by the North American Securities Administrators Association (NASAA). § 6H.241 Customer Authorization of Disclosure of Financial Records [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.110, 260.111(b), 260.112, 260.113, 262.121]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is Department of Corporations Form No. QR 500.259, authorizing disclosure of a customer's financial records to the Department. Every applicant seeking qualification for the sale of securities must, upon request of the Commissioner, furnish an authorization for examination of the applicant's financial records of the sale of the securities pursuant to Gov. Code § 7473 [Corp. Code § 25134; see [c], below]. All applications for qualification of securities under the Corporate Securities Law, except certain applications for qualification of nonissuer transactions [see § 6H.255], must include this form as an exhibit [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.110 (facing page), 260.111(b) (qualification by coordination), 260.112 (qualification by notification), 260.113 (qualification by permit), 260.121 (qualification of recapitalizations and reorganizations)].

[b] Requests for Disclosure

An officer, employee, or agent of the Department of Corporations, in connection with an investigation of a customer, may request or receive copies of, or the information contained in, the financial records of any customer of a financial institution only if those records are described with particularity, are consistent with the scope and requirements of the investigations giving rise to the request, and are disclosed pursuant to a customer authorization (or other statutory method) [Gov. Code § 7470(a); see Gov. Code §§ 7474-7476].

[c] Customer Authorization

[i] Requirements

A customer authorization of disclosure of financial records must be signed and dated, authorizing disclosure for a stated period. It must state the name of the department to which disclosure is authorized and, if possible, the statutory purpose for which the information is to be obtained. It must also state the financial records that are authorized to be disclosed [Gov. Code § 7473(a)].

Ordinarily, a customer authorization form must include a written notification that the customer has the right to revoke that authorization at any time. However, when the authorization is required by statute, as it is for the qualification of securities [see Corp. Code § 25134], no such notification is required [Gov. Code § 7473(b)].

[ii] Notification of Examination

The department examining the records must notify the customer in writing of the examination within 30 days of receipt of records [Gov. Code § 7473(d)(1)]. However, the notification requirements may be extended for additional 30 day periods by application to a court upon a showing of good cause to believe that disclosure would impede the investigation. The notice must specify the financial records that were examined and, if requested, the reason for the examination [Gov. Code § 7473(d)(1)].

[d] Records After Disclosure

The financial institution must maintain for five years a record of all examinations or disclosures of the financial records of a customer made pursuant to a customer authorization, including the identity of the person examining the records, the department that person represents, and a copy of the authorization. Any record so maintained must be available, within five days of request, during normal business hours for review by the customer at the office or branch where the customer's account was located when examined or disclosed. A copy of the record must be furnished to the customer upon request and payment of any reasonable costs [Gov. Code § 7470(c)].

[e] Preparation of Form

All information on the form, except the signature, must be typewritten. The applicant must provide a Department of Corporations file number only if known. The form must be properly executed and submitted with the application for qualification. The terms used in the form have the definitions contained in Gov. Code § 7465 and Corp. Code §§ 25000-25022.

§ 6H.242 Management [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.113]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a list of the management of a corporation. It must be attached as Exhibit J to an application for qualification and sale of securities by permit [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.113, Item 21J].

Applications for qualification by permit [Corp. Code § 25113; see § 6H.220] must identify the directors, officers, trustees, general partners, general managers, principal executives, and other persons who will be charged with the business activities and operations of the applicant [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.113]. Those persons must be identified by name, address, date of birth, current position, and principal occupation during the last five years. In addition, Exhibit J must contain a statement of any order, judgment, or decree of a governmental agency or administrator, or court, revoking or suspending any license, permit, or other authority of that person, or of any corporation of which that person is an officer or director, to engage in the securities business or in the sale of a particular security, or temporarily or permanently restraining or enjoining any such person or any corporation of which that person is an officer or director from engaging in or continuing any conduct, practice, or employment in connection with the purchase or sale of securities, or convicting that person of any misdemeanor involving a security or any aspect of the securities business, or of theft, or of any felony [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.113].

The information required in Item 21(j) of an application for qualification permit incorporates the information required in Item 11 of the application [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.112, 260.113]. Therefore, an applicant responding to Item 11 of the application for qualification by permit will merely refer to this exhibit for a full and complete list of management [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.113; see § 6H.220].

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is an itemization of budget. If the applicant for qualification by permit [Corp. Code § 25113; see § 6H.220] has not commenced business and has no assets or liabilities, a statement in the form of an itemized budget should be submitted in lieu of the financial statements required to be submitted as Exhibit E [see § 6H.236] to the application for qualification by permit [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.113]. This statement, labeled Exhibit K, should include the proposed use to which the proceeds from the instant issuance of securities will be put, including all expenditures to be made or incurred, the total projected financing requirements of the applicant for six months, or, if the proposed plan of operation requires initial financing for a period longer than six months, for that longer period, and a statement setting forth the sources of all the required funds other than from the sale of securities, including any proposed loans or contributions to capital [*10 Cal. [1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is an undertaking to prepare and file reports with the Commissioner. The undertaking to furnish the reports appears at Item 20 of the application for qualification by issuer notification, at Item 22 of the application for an issuer permit, at Item 16 if the application is for a recapitalization permit, and at Item 17 of applications for qualification by reorganization permit.

Applications for qualification by issuer notification [Corp. Code § 25112; see § 6H.215], issuer permit [Corp. Code § 25113; see § 6H.220], and recapitalization or reorganization permit [Corp. Code § 25121; see § 6H.250] must contain an undertaking to prepare and file reports with the Commissioner as required by Corp. Code § 25146 and 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.146. These reports are designed to keep the Department of Corporations current on the information contained in the application for qualification [Corp. Code § 25146]. Reports are not required (1) after completion of the offering if a nonissuer transaction involving that security would be entitled to exemption from qualification under Corp. Code § 25101 [Corp. Code § 25146; see Corp. Code § 25101], or (2) if the issuer is filing reports pursuant to Section 13 [15 U.S.C. § 78m] or Section 15(d) [15 U.S.C. § 78o(d)] of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.146; see 15 U.S.C. § 78a et seq.]. The reports must be in the form prescribed by Rule 260.146 [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.146; see also § 6H.274].

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is an issuer's signature and verification. Every application for qualification of an issuer must be signed and verified by the issuer [Corp. Code § 25115]. An application for the qualification of the offer and sale of securities by a small company [see Corp. Code § 25113(b)(2)] must be reviewed and signed by each member of the board of directors of the small company applicant [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.110.2]. Any other application for the qualification of the offer and sale of securities [see Corp. Code §§ 25102(c), 25111, 25112, 25113(b)(1), 25121, 25131] must be signed by (1) an officer or general partner of the applicant, or (2) a person holding a power of attorney for those purposes from the applicant, in which case a copy of the power of attorney or a copy of the corporate resolution authorizing the person to act on behalf of the applicant should be attached [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.110.2]. Verification of the application is done in the same manner as is provided in the Code of Civil Procedure for verification of pleadings [Corp. Code § 25160]. Verifications may be made by executing a declaration under penalty of perjury under California law [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5] for either California applicants or for applicants from other states.

Applications must not contain any untrue statement of material fact [Corp. Code § 25166]. Accordingly, oaths based on information or belief are inadequate.

§ 6H.250 Application for Qualification of a Recapitalization or Reorganization by Permit [Corp. Code § 25121; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.121]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an application for qualification of a recapitalization or reorganization by permit. Except as provided below, it is unlawful for any person to offer or sell in California Securities issued in connection with any change in the rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on outstanding securities; in any exchange of securities by the issuer with its existing security holders exclusively; in any exchange in connection with any merger or consolidation or purchase of corporate assets in consideration wholly or in part of the issuance of securities, or in an entity conversion transaction [Corp. Code § 25120(a); see Corp. Code § 25005.1 (definition)]. The above-stated prohibition, however, will not apply to a security if it is qualified by permit under Corp. Code § 25121 or if the security or the transaction is exempt or not subject to qualification [Corp. Code § 25120(b)]. Any application for a recapitalization or reorganization permit must include the facing page prescribed by Rule 260.110 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.110; see § 6H.200] and the applicable remaining items as reproduced in this form.

The instructions to the form are divided into alternative parts, one of which must be submitted with the facing page. The first part (Part (a)) is used only when the transaction involves a merger, consolidation, purchase of corporate assets, or is an entity conversion transaction. The second part (Part (b)) is used only when the transaction involves a change in the rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on outstanding securities, or an exchange by an issuer with its existing security holders exclusively. A third part (Part (c)) is for signatures and verification and must be included with all applications [see § 6H.245]. If the transaction involves both an internal share change (recapitalization) and a merger (reorganization), it is recommended that two separate applications be filed rather than a single application.

In general usage the term "recapitalization" is used to connote a change in the capital structure of the issuer, whereas the term "reorganization" refers to exchanges of stock such as through mergers and consolidations [see I.R.C. § 368 and regulations thereunder]. The terms "recapitalization" and "reorganization" have not been precisely defined in the Corporate Securities Law and are always used in the conjunctive to refer to exchanges of securities or changes in security rights.

There is some confusion between issuer transactions and transactions involving recapitalizations and reorganizations. In both instances securities may be distributed by the issuer. Part of the confusion is generated by the fact that the federal securities regulation treats recapitalizations and reorganizations as partially within the scope of the "issuer" registration statement. The distinction is that the issuer transactions are limited to distributions of a new issue or series of securities, not directly altering existing securities, while recapitalizations and reorganizations deal with distribution of securities or security rights that directly alter existing securities or security rights.

[b] Changes in Rights Requiring Qualification

Corp. Code § 25103(e) lists the changes in the rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on outstanding equity securities that must be qualified. These include any of the following changes:

- Adding, changing, or deleting assessment provisions.
- Changing the rights to dividends on shares.
- Changing any redemption provisions.
- Making shares redeemable.
- Changing any amount payable on liquidation.
- Changing, adding, or deleting conversion rights.
- Changing, adding, or deleting voting rights.
- Changing, adding, or deleting preemptive rights.
- Changing, adding, or deleting sinking fund provisions.
- Rearranging the relative priorities of outstanding equity securities.
- Imposing, adding, or deleting restrictions upon the transfer of equity securities in the organizational documents for the entity.
- Changing the right of holders of equity securities with respect to the calling of special meetings of holders of equity securities.
- Changing, adding, or deleting any rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on the outstanding shares or memberships of a mutual water company or other corporation or entity organized primarily to provide services or facilities to its shareholders or members.

Qualification is not required for any changes in the rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on outstanding equity securities because of conversion to or termination of close corporation status, whether the conversion or termination is voluntary or involuntary [Corp. Code § 25103(e)]. None of the changes enumerated in Corp. Code § 25103(e) contemplates the issuance of a new class of stock or the issuance or sale of additional shares of an outstanding class of stock. The creation of any new class of stock, or authorization of additional shares of an existing class, must be qualified as an issuer transaction or a corporate reorganization [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.103.1].

Any change in the rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on shares, or the issuance or exchange of securities by the issuer with its existing security holders is exempt if the transaction would have been exempt from the qualification provisions of Corp. Code § 25110 by Corp. Code § 25102 or by 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.14, or is pursuant to a reorganization plan under the Bankruptcy Code [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.103].

Changes in the rights and preferences of outstanding debt securities also require qualification when the change substantially and adversely affects any class of those securities. The changes that must be qualified include any change to the right to interest; any change in redemption provisions; any change which would make the securities redeemable; any change to extend the maturity of any debt security, or to change the amount payable at maturity; any change in voting rights; any change in conversion rights; any change in sinking fund provisions; and any change that would make a debt security subordinate to any other indebtedness [Corp. Code § 25103(g)].

In any transaction that is exempt from qualification because it would have been exempt as an original issuance of securities under the limited offering exemption [see Corp. Code § 25102(f)], the issuer must file a notice of transaction in accordance with 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.14 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.103(b); see Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions]. Similarly, in any transaction exempt from qualification because it would have been exempt as an original issuance under the small offering exemption [see Corp. Code § 25102(h)], the issuer must file a notice of transaction in accordance with 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.8 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.103(b); see Ch. 6C, California Small Offering Exemption].

[c] Stock Splits, Reverse Stock Splits, and Stock Dividends

Certain stock split arrangements constitute changes that are subject to qualification by permit. Although "stock split" and "reverse stock split" are defined by law [see Corp. Code §§ 182, 188], Rule 260.103.2 expressly identifies their meanings for purposes of regulated changes as the "subdivision" (i.e., stock split) or "combination" (i.e., reverse stock split) of previously outstanding shares of stock into a greater or lesser number of shares of the same class, effected by an amendment to the charter documents of the issuer [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.103.2]. Such a split may or may not include authorized and unissued shares or be accompanied by the transfer of surplus to stated capital pursuant to a simultaneous change in the par value of the shares through reconstruction or resolution [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.103.2].

Qualification by permit is required in the case of a stock split or reverse stock split when the corporation has more than one class of voting shares outstanding and the split would have a material effect on the proportionate interests of the respective classes as to voting, dividends, or distributions [Corp. Code § 25103(f); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.017.1]. Such a permit is normally issued unless the voting power is unfairly altered [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.70]. A permit is needed for a stock split if the stock being split has a market price, as of the date of directors' approval of the split adjusted to give effect to the split, of less than $2 per share, when the stock is traded in the market by either being listed or admitted to trading on a national securities exchange, or when the stock is the subject of two-way quotations (bid and asked prices) regularly published by one or more broker-dealers in the National Daily Quotation Service [Corp. Code § 25103(f); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.103.4]. Finally, a permit is necessary in the case of a reverse stock split if the stock is not traded in the market and the corporation has the option of paying cash for any fractional shares created by the reverse split and, as a result of that action, the proportionate interests of the shareholders would be substantially altered [Corp. Code § 25103(f)]. Neither of these latter two types of splits are usually approved [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.70].

A stock dividend in which the shareholder has an option to take stock or cash is treated as an issuer transaction [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.017; see Corp. Code § 25017(f)(2)], but if the issuer has more than one class of voting stock outstanding, or if the dividend is not payable with respect to, or in shares of, common stock, the stock dividend is an exchange and must be qualified by a recapitalization and reorganization permit [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.017; see Corp. Code § 25017(f)(2)]. Any stock dividend that is included in the definition of "sale" is a transaction requiring qualification under Corp. Code § 25110 or 25120, unless it is not subject to qualification or is otherwise exempted by Corp. Code § 25100, 25102, 25103, or 25105 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.017(d)].

Any certificate representing shares issued as a result of a stock dividend, stock split, or reverse stock split, which are exempt from qualification requirements by Corp. Code § 25017(f) or 25103(f) with respect to shares subject to a legend or escrow condition, must have the same legend stamped thereon as was required with respect to the previous shares, or must be deposited in escrow in addition to or in substitution for the previous shares held in escrow [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.103.5]. Any escrow holder may accept any such dividend shares or surrender the previous shares and accept the newly issued split shares after receiving the opinion of counsel that the dividend shares have been validly issued or that the split shares have been validly substituted for the previous shares in a transaction under one of the above-mentioned exemptions [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.103.5].

[d] Mergers

When the proposed plan calls for the combination of two businesses by way of a merger, including a sale of assets at least partly in exchange for securities of the purchaser, or by way of the infrequently utilized consolidation, the plan should provide for the issuance of securities which fairly reflect the relative values of the corporations that are parties to the merger [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.61]. The permit authorizing the issuance of the securities may be conditioned on an affirmative vote of a specified percentage of the outstanding stock held by persons other than those who have a conflict of interest in connection with adoption of the plan [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.61]. It is important to note that in the case of a "B" type reorganization plan [see I.R.C. § 368(a)(1)(B)], in which the corporation acquiring shares of a second corporation exchanges its shares for shares held by the shareholders of the second corporation, the Commission regards such an arrangement as an issuer transaction rather than as a recapitalization or reorganization [see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Law, Ch. 7, Recapitalizations and Reorganizations, § 7.06[5][c]] (Matthew Bender). These transactions must be qualified by issuer permit [see § 6H.220], issuer notification [see § 6H.215], or coordination [see § 6H.205].

[e] Shareholder Residence Test

The Commissioner will not assert jurisdiction over any proposed reorganization or recapitalization unless the holders of at least 25 percent of the outstanding shares of securities that will be affected by the proposed reorganization or recapitalization have addresses in California [Corp. Code § 25103(b), (c)]. Unless this shareholder residence test is met, the transaction is exempt from the California regulatory scheme, regardless of whether the issuer is a California or foreign entity [see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 7, Recapitalizations and Reorganizations, § 7.06[3]] (Matthew Bender).

For purposes of Corp. Code § 25103(c), however, this exemption is not available for a rollup transaction [Corp. Code § 25103(c); see Corp. Code § 25014.6 ("rollup transaction" defined)], or if the transaction is excluded from the definition of a rollup transaction by Corp. Code § 25014.6(b)(5) or (6) and the transaction is one of a series of transactions that directly or indirectly through acquisition or otherwise involves the combination or reorganization of one or more rollup participants [Corp. Code § 25103(c)].

In the case of changes in the rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on outstanding securities, the shareholders to be counted in the 25 percent test are those shareholders whose shares are of any class of shares which is substantially and adversely affected by the change, directly or indirectly [Corp. Code § 25103(b)]. In the case of exchanges incident to a merger, consolidation, or sale of corporate assets in consideration of the issuance of securities of another corporation, the shares to be counted are those shares in each class of shares which entitle their holders to receive securities of the surviving, consolidated, or purchasing corporation, and the shares must all be of an outstanding class of securities, although not necessarily the same one [Corp. Code § 25103(c)].

The date for determining the residency of record holders of shares is the corporation's record date of determination of security holders entitled to vote on or consent to the plan for exchange, or if such an approval was unnecessary, then the date of actual approval by the directors [Corp. Code § 25103(d)]. In making the determination, two types of securities may be eliminated from the computation of outstanding shares for such purposes: (1) any securities held in the names of broker-dealers or their nominees, and (2) any securities controlled by any one person who controls directly or indirectly 50 percent or more of the outstanding securities of the particular class of securities being affected [Corp. Code § 25103(d)].

[f] Limited Exemption From Qualification

In general, an exchange incident to a merger or a sale of corporate assets in consideration of the issuance of securities of another corporation must be qualified for sale unless the security or transaction is exempt or not subject to qualification [Corp. Code § 25120]. In addition to the California residency exemption [Corp. Code § 25103(c); see [e], above], an exchange incident to a merger, consolidation, or sale of assets, other than a rollup transaction [see Corp. Code § 25104.6], in consideration of the issuance of equity securities of another entity, or in an entity conversion transaction [see Corp. Code § 25005.1 (definition)], is exempt if the exchange transaction or entity conversion transaction, had it involved the issuance of a security in a transaction subject to Corp. Code § 25110 (rather than Corp. Code § 25120), would have been exempt from qualification by Corp. Code § 25102(f) without giving effect to Corp. Code § 25102(f)(3) (requiring purchaser representation that purchaser is purchasing for his or her own account and not for resale), and either of the following sets of criteria is applicable [Corp. Code § 25103(h)(1)]:

- (1) Not less than 75 percent of the outstanding equity securities of each constituent or converting entity entitled to vote on the proposed transaction voted in favor of the transaction; (2) not more than 10 percent of the outstanding equity securities of each constituent or converting entity entitled to vote on the proposed transaction voted against the transaction; and (3) each constituent or converting entity whose security holders are entitled to vote on the proposed transaction is subject to a state statute that has provisions for dissenters' rights for holders of equity securities entitled to vote on the proposed transaction that do not vote in favor of or voted against the transaction.

- (1) The transaction is solely for the purposes of changing the issuer's state of incorporation or organization, or form of organization; (2) all the securities of the same class or series, unless all the security holders of the class or series consent, are treated equally; and (3) the holders of nonredeemable voting equity securities receive nonredeemable voting equity securities.

In transactions relying on the exemption discussed above, the Commissioner may, by rule, require the acquiring or surviving entity to file a notice of transaction. However, the failure to file the notice, or to file it within the time specified by the rule of the Commissioner, will not affect the availability of the exemption. However, an acquiring or surviving entity that fails to file the notice as provided by rule of the Commissioner must, within 15 business days after demand by the Commissioner, file the notice and pay to the Commissioner a fee equal to the fee payable had the transaction been qualified under Corp. Code §§ 25110 or 25120 [Corp. Code § 25103(h)(2)]. The fee for filing a notice of transaction under Corp. Code § 25103(h) is $600 [Corp. Code § 25608(z); see Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set any fee at amount below maximum set forth in Corp. Code § 25608)].

[g] Procedure for Qualification

Qualification must be accomplished before a general solicitation of shareholder approval (such as the sending of proxy statements) of the intended changes or merger [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.60]. Prior to solicitation, a negotiating permit is not required, although in rare instances one may be issued pending the shareholders' vote on the proposal [

Corp. Code § 25103(a); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.63; see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 7, Recapitalizations and Reorganizations, § 7.02[3] (Matthew Bender)].

Qualification under the recapitalization and reorganization permit procedure is not effective until the Commissioner authorizes the changes by permit [Corp. Code § 25122]. The Commissioner does not have to issue a permit unless the proposed plan of recapitalization or reorganization and the proposed issuance of securities are fair, just, and equitable to all security holders affected [Corp. Code § 25140(c)]. The Commissioner is entitled to hold a hearing on the fairness of the terms and conditions involved in a pending application for an exchange, and all the proposed issuees have the right to appear [Corp. Code § 25142; see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 102-C (Dec. 1, 1998; revised) (on request Department will hold fairness hearings irrespective of whether security is "covered security" under Federal NSMIA); Dept. of Corps. Release No. 117-C (Jan. 18, 2006) (fairness hearings and shell companies); see also § 6H.23[1]]. As a matter of routine, however, the Commissioner usually waits for the applicant to request a hearing, which is held under the Department's own auspices on notice (prepared by the Commissioner) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.62].

The ability of the Commissioner to suspend or revoke a permit by qualification [see Corp. Code § 25140(a)(1); see also Corp. Code §§ 25113, 25122], or to issue a stop order postponing or suspending the effectiveness of any qualification [see Corp. Code § 25143], in the area of recapitalizations and reorganizations is, to the extent applicable, the same as in the procedures for qualification by issuer notification. In general, the Commissioner may suspend or revoke any permit if the Commissioner finds that the action is in the public interest and finds any of the following [Corp. Code § 25140(a)(1)]:

- The proposed plan of business of the issuer, or the proposed issuance or sale of securities, is not fair, just, or equitable;

- The issuer does not intend to transact its business fairly and honestly; or

- The securities proposed to be issued or the method used in issuing the securities will tend to work a fraud on the purchasers.

For further discussion, see § 6H.215[1][d].

[h] Conditions of Qualifications

Except when delivery of a proxy statement or prospectus is required by federal securities laws, Commissioner may require as a condition of qualification that a proxy statement containing any designated part of the information required in the application be sent at specified intervals to each security holder to whom an offer is made [Corp. Code § 25148]. Various other conditions may also be imposed, such as the imposition of a legend condition to restrict transferability of shares [Corp. Code § 25141] and the filing of semiannual reports up to a year and a half after qualification [Corp. Code § 25146].

[i] Federal Registration Requirements

Under certain circumstances, changes in the rights of existing securities, exchanges of securities, mergers, or sales of assets may be subject to registration with the Securities and Exchange Commission if the transaction constitutes a "sale" as defined in Section 2(3) of the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. § 77b(3)]. For a detailed discussion, see Sommer, Federal Securities Act of 1933, Ch. 2, Applicability of the Act: "Security" and "Sale," § 2.02 (Matthew Bender). Qualification by coordination is not available for this type of transaction [see Corp. Code § 25110]; all recapitalizations and reorganizations must be qualified under Corp. Code § 25120, unless exempt or not subject to qualification.

[j] Preparation of Form

The application for a recapitalization and reorganization permit must be accompanied by the facing page prescribed by Rule 260.110 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.110; see § 6H.200]. Many of the items required by the application [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.121] are similar or identical to items required by applications for issuer permits [see § 6H.220]. In particular, forms have been prepared and appear elsewhere in this chapter concerning employment of agents [see § 6H.272], description of business [see § 6H.225], directors and officers [see § 6H.228], principal security holders [see § 6H.232], customer authorization of disclosure of financial records [see § 6H.241], and reports of financial condition [see § 6H.244]. The application must be signed and verified in the manner prescribed by § 6H.245.

§ 6H.255 Application for Qualification of a Nonissuer Transaction by Notification [Corp. Code § 25131; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.131]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an application for qualification of a nonissuer transaction by notification. A nonissuer transaction is any transaction that is not directly or indirectly for the benefit of the issuer [Corp. Code § 25011; see § 6H.21[4]]. A transaction is "indirectly for the benefit of the issuer" if any portion of the purchase price of any securities involved in the transaction will be received indirectly by the issuer [Corp. Code § 25011]. "Purchase price" includes only the specific consideration bargained for in return for the securities (which may include the making of a loan to the issuer) but does not include any remote, contingent, or incidental benefit which may accrue to the issuer (such as the inducement to a person to become or remain an employee of the issuer or perform other services for the issuer) even though a motive of the seller or the purchaser is to obtain a remote, contingent, or incidental benefit for the issuer [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.011].

Unless the security itself is exempt [see Corp. Code § 25101], the transaction involving the security is exempt [see Corp. Code § 25104], a special exemption has been created by the Commissioner [see Corp. Code § 25105; 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.105-260.105.28], or a transaction is not subject to qualification, all nonissuer transactions must be qualified before securities may be offered or sold in California [Corp. Code § 25130].

The usual method of qualification of securities in a nonissuer transaction is by notification, although certain secondary distributions of registered securities and certain offers of securities by control persons are properly qualified by coordination or permit. For discussion of exempt securities and transactions, see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 10, Nonissuer Transactions (Matthew Bender).

[b] Procedure for Qualification

Under the procedure for qualification of a nonissuer transaction by notification, the applicant must file the form specified by 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.131 together with the $100 filing fee [see Corp. Code § 25608(i); see also Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set any fee at amount below maximum set forth in Corp. Code § 25608)]. Qualification automatically becomes effective at 12:00 noon (California time) on the 10th business day after the filing of the application or the last amendment to the application or at any earlier time that the Commissioner may direct [Corp. Code § 25131(c)]. As with other forms of qualification, the Commissioner may prevent or suspend effectiveness of the qualification by stop order [Corp. Code §§ 25140, 25143(a)].

The application must be signed and verified by the person on whose behalf the offering is being made, by the issuer, or by any broker-dealer [Corp. Code § 25131(b)].

The issuer may not pay or assume liability for any expenses incurred in connection with the offer, but may provide for services customarily rendered to all security holders in connection with the transfer of securities, including the services of transfer agents and registrars, the supplying of audited financial statements, and the fees or expenses pursuant to an agreement in connection with the original issue of the securities [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.22].

An offering that involves both an issuer and a nonissuer transaction must be treated as an issuer transaction for purposes of filing an application for qualification [Corp. Code § 25011], but the expenses in connection with the offering must be apportioned among the issuer and the selling security holders in accordance with the aggregate offering price of the securities being sold by each party [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.22].

[c] Standards for Qualification of Nonissuer Transactions

The Commissioner has promulgated a number of rules concerning the standards to be applied in the qualification of nonissuer transactions [see § 6H.21[4][c]]. In general, full, complete, and accurate information must be provided for all matters required to be stated in the application [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.135]. Information will not be required unless it is known by the person filing the application or the persons on whose behalf the distribution is to be made, or can be furnished by them without unreasonable effort or expense [Corp. Code § 25131(d)], in which case the applicant must supply an affidavit complying with the requirements of 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.139. In addition, the information contained in the application, whether required or not, must be accurate and not misleading, and there must be no factor indicating that the market in the security will be subject to manipulation or artificial influence [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.135]. The Commissioner has also formulated rules applying issuer transaction standards to certain nonissuer transactions [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.136; see also Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 10, Nonissuer Transactions (Matthew Bender)]. Finally, an application must show that the issuer's assets are productively employed in the operation of an ongoing business, presumptively established by a showing of annual gross receipts of $500,000 or more [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.137].

Securities that are nonvoting or have disproportionate voting rights or are subject to transfer restrictions or preemptive rights will not be qualified in a nonissuer transaction [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.138].

[d] Preparation of Form

The application for qualification of a nonissuer transaction by notification has its own facing page, consisting of six items relating to the identification of the issuer (and the applicant, if different than the issuer) and the securities sought to be qualified. The information required by the other 10 items is similar to the information required for other forms of qualification.

Item 7 is a basic description of the business [see § 6H.225]. The issuer's officers and directors must be identified in Item 8 [see § 6H.228], and the remuneration paid to them and to the issuer's principal security holders (insofar as it exceeded $60,000 per year) must be stated at Item 9 [see § 6H.233]. Item 10 is a tabulation of outstanding options to purchase the issuer's securities [see § 6H.231]. The principal shareholders are to be identified in Item 11 [see § 6H.232], with the additional requirement that the applicant disclose information relating to insider trading by officers and directors of the issuer (Part B of Item 11). Material transactions of the issuer with its subsidiaries or promoters within the previous three years should be disclosed at Item 12 [see § 6H.229], along with a statement of the number of promotional shares [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.30] issued, the consideration for and restrictions upon any such promotional shares, and a description of any securities issued by the issuer during that three-year period.

Item 13 requires a description of the rights, preferences, privileges, and restrictions of or on outstanding securities other than common stock; a description of any class of outstanding common stock which is nonvoting, assessable, redeemable, and subject to preemptive rights or restrictions on transfer; and a brief outline of the rights, terms, and provisions of any debt security. Exhibits to the application (Item 14) properly include financial statements [see § 6H.236], press or publicity releases relating to the business of the issuer within the previous 12 months, a copy of any bonus plan or management contract with any officer or director of the issuer, and the consent to service of process, if required [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.131; see §§ 6H.239, 6H.240].

Item 15 must contain a disclosure of any adverse order, judgment, or decree entered against the issuer relating to an offering of securities, the securities business, theft, or a felony. An undertaking by the issuer (or an authorized officer of the issuer), to the effect that material information concerning the operations of the issuer will be furnished to its shareholders during the period a security is qualified pursuant to the application, is required by Item 16. The application must be signed and verified [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.131; see 6H.245].

§ 6H.260 General Legend Condition [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.11]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the legend that must be placed on securities that are subject to a legend condition [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.11; see § 6H.261 for legend condition for promotional securities]. The legend condition must be prominently stamped or printed on the face of the security in capital letters of not less that 10-point type. The legend must also appear on all certificates that are issued as stock dividends, stock splits or reverse splits, and stock transfers of securities that are subject to the legend condition [Corp. Code §§ 25017(f), 25103(f); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.103.5].

In addition to the legend condition that must appear on the face of the stock certificate, the Commissioner requires that the issuer deliver a copy of 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.11 to each issuee and transferee of the legended stock [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.11(a)]. The regulation may be reproduced on the reverse side of the stock certificate in order to insure compliance with the Commissioner's requirement.

For sample share certificates and discussion of the issuance of share, see Ch. 6I, Issuance of Equity Securities .

[b] General Legend Condition

The Commissioner is authorized to impose a legend condition restricting the transferability of securities if he or she finds that without such a condition the offering will be unfair, unjust, or inequitable [Corp. Code § 25141]. The Commissioner most often applies the condition to limited offerings in which the securities are qualified for offer and sale only to persons designated by name or class [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.001(e), 260.141.10]. The condition may be imposed if a variation is approved from the more rigid standards normally imposed on open offering qualifications [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.001(f), 260.141.10]. Imposition of the condition is based on the degree of investor sophistication of the purchasers or their close relationship with the issuer, and the legend is thereafter required if the Commissioner determines that there is a substantial danger that subsequent transfers of the securities might be unfair, unjust, or inequitable to the new purchasers despite the law requiring qualification of nonissuer transactions [see Corp. Code § 25130; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.10]. Imposition of the condition has been a common feature of the limited offering type of qualification in the past. The legend condition is authorized by rules of the Commissioner to be applied to interests in real estate syndicates [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.118.5] and to oil and gas securities [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.131.4].

Whenever the Commissioner determines that issued securities were offered or sold in violation of the qualification requirements of the Corporation Securities Law [see Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, 25130], the Commissioner may by written order to the issuer and notice to the holders of the securities require the certificates for the securities to be stamped or imprinted with a legend restricting transfer [Corp. Code § 25534]. Upon request, a hearing may be held to determine the propriety of the order [Corp. Code § 25534]. Upon issuance of such an order, the issuer of securities must comply with the requirements of 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.11 [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.534]. For a discussion of when securities subject to a legend condition may be transferred, see § 6H.262.

§ 6H.261 Legend Condition for Promotional Securities [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.1]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is the legend that must be placed on promotional securities which are being issued subject to a legend condition. The legend must be prominently stamped or printed on the face of the security in capital letters of not less than 10-point type [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.1; see § 6H.260 (legend imposed on nonpromotional shares)].

Promotional shares are those issued in consideration for services rendered in connection with initiation of a business, for property of a vague value (such as patents or goodwill), or for a price lower than that charged others for such stock for reasons unrelated to market considerations [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.30] The shares themselves must be equity securities without any preferential rights (such as voting rights) over like shares issued for cash or its equivalent, and must carry conditions of waiver as to receipt of dividends or participation in distribution of assets on liquidation [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.32, 260.141].

A reasonable number of promotional shares will be permitted, although normally not in the case of a corporation with an established background of profitable operation. Promotional shares not exceeding 25 percent (or 50 percent if the issuer is a small business company) of the common shares issued or proposed to be issued are presumed to be reasonable [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.31]. No shares subject to this condition may be transferred without the prior written approval of the Commissioner, unless pursuant to the order or process of any court, provided that the transfer is on condition that any certificate evidencing the shares issued to the transferee bear a similar legend [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.1].

For sample share certificates and discussion of the issuance of share, see Ch. 6I, Issuance of Equity Securities .

§ 6H.262 Application for Consent to Transfer Securities Subject to Legend or Escrow Condition [Corp. Code § 25151; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.151(a)]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an application for consent to transfer securities subject to a legend or escrow condition. It is unlawful to transfer securities subject to legend or escrow conditions unless and until the Commissioner has given written consent to transfer [Corp. Code § 25133]. Consent will be given only if the proposed transfer is found to be fair, just, and equitable to the proposed transferee [Corp. Code § 25151(a)]. This form is the application for consent that must be filed with the Commissioner along with the statement of each of the proposed transferees [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.151(a); see § 6H.263]. The fee for filing the application is $20 [Corp. Code § 25608(m); see Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set any fee at amount below maximum set forth in Corp. Code § 25608)]. Certain transfers of legend-bearing securities are permitted without the Commissioner's consent as long as the legend appears on any certificate evidencing the security [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.11(c)]. In any event, the transfer must not be for the benefit of the issuer [see Corp. Code § 25011; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.011]; if it is, the securities must be qualified, unless exempt or not subject to qualification [Corp. Code § 25110].

[b] Consent Not Equivalent to Qualification or Exemption

The issuance of the Commissioner's consent to transfer securities subject to legend or escrow conditions will not be deemed a qualification of the transaction pursuant to, or an exemption from, the qualification requirements of Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, or 25130 [Corp. Code § 25151(b)].

§ 6H.263 Statement of Transferee [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.151(b)]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the statement of a transferee of securities used in connection with the application for consent to transfer securities subject to a legend or escrow condition. The Commissioner's consent to such a transfer may be obtained only by filing the Department of Corporations application form for consent [see § 6H.262], accompanied by the statement of each transferee [Corp. Code § 25151; see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.151]. For a discussion of the application for consent to transfer, see § 6H.262.

[b] Contents of Form

A transferee completing this form must state the number and description of the securities he or she intends to purchase, and whether they are promotional shares. The transferee must indicate whether he or she (1) is an officer or director of the issuer, (2) is actively involved in the issuer's business, (3) has received a financial statement from the issuer sufficient for evaluating the investment, and (4) is acquiring the securities as a record and/or beneficial owner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.151(b)]. Because the form also requires certain details relating to the transferee's finances [see [2], Items 5, 6, below], the applicant may request that the information contained in the statement be withheld from public inspection [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10(a); see § 6H.275].

§ 6H.264 Nomination of Escrow Holder or Foreign Depositary [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.3]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is the nomination of an escrow holder or foreign depositary. In some cases the Commissioner may determine that there is an unusual danger that promotional shares might be distributed to the public despite the requirement of a legend on the certificates [see § 6H.261 (promotional legend)]. The Commissioner, therefore, may require that the certificates representing promotional shares be deposited into an escrow [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.3]. The person acting as escrow holder must first be approved by a written order of the Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.3].

Traditionally, the escrow holder has been selected from banks or trust companies, particularly when they are acting as transfer agents, from escrow companies, or, as in the majority of instances, from attorneys for the company who had no investment interest otherwise. The Commissioner has indicated, however, that escrow agents should be "independent," specifically stating that attorneys, accountants, or other agents representing one of the parties to the transaction should not be used as escrow agents [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 60-C (Oct. 19, 1979)]. This view has been criticized on the ground that a sale or transfer is not consummated merely by opening an escrow, and that it should make no difference who the escrow holder is [see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 11, Transfer of Securities Subject to Legend or Escrow Condition, § 11.03[1] (Matthew Bender)].

Fees of escrow holders have varied for initial services and for handling of subsequent transfers within escrow. The Commissioner of Corporations also may act as escrow holder [Corp. Code § 25149] and may be the most convenient and reasonable candidate available, charging $50 to act plus $2.50 for each new certificate deposited on transfer [Corp. Code § 25608(l)]. When acting as escrow holder, the Commissioner may destroy security certificates of a corporation which has been dissolved or whose charter has been suspended for at least two years [Corp. Code § 25619(b)].

If the Commissioner has indicated the necessity of imposing an escrow condition and if an escrow holder cannot be arranged for in conference, this form nominates a candidate. If the Commissioner has determined that an impound condition must be imposed on the qualification [see § 6H.267], and the issuer is a foreign corporation and wishes to use a depositary in another jurisdiction, this same form may be used to nominate a foreign depositary for the Commissioner's approval.

§ 6H.265 Application for Removal or Modification of Conditions [Corp. Code § 25141; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.50]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is an application for removal or modification of conditions. The Commissioner has discretion to modify or remove any condition imposed on securities under to Corp. Code §§ 25141 or 25534 [Corp. Code § 25141]. The Commissioner will remove conditions imposed on promotional shares when the issuer has demonstrated a satisfactory earnings record, as long as no other circumstances exist that would require the continuation of one or more of those conditions [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.2]. An earnings record usually will be considered satisfactory if the average annual earnings during a three-year period is equal to a reasonable return for the particular type of business on an amount determined by multiplying the total number of outstanding shares of the issuer by the average price at which the nonpromotional shares were originally issued and sold [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.2]. Conditions restricting transfer of shares [see § 6H.260] will be removed if the application discloses that circumstances no longer require the imposition of the condition and that subsequent transfers of the securities are not likely to be unfair, unjust, or inequitable to any purchaser of the securities [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.12].

Whenever an applicant believes that the facts and circumstances presented in its application justify a variance from any of the rules pertaining to impound conditions imposed by the Commissioner, it may submit a verified request for a variance setting forth all of the reasons that it believes justify the request [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.27].

The form for the application for removal or modification of conditions is specified in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.50. The filing fee, which must be included with the application, is $50 [Corp. Code § 25608(j); see Corp. Code § 25608.3 (Commissioner may set any fee at amount below maximum set forth in Corp. Code § 25608)]. Either the issuer or the holder of any shares subject to a condition may file the application [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.50]. This form also may be used to apply for removal of an impound condition [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.26] and for release of funds impounded pursuant to an order of the Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.24].

§ 6H.270 Application for Approval of Repurchase Offer [Corp. Code § 25507; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.507]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is an application for approval of an offer to repurchase a security. Whenever securities are issued in violation of the qualification requirements of the Corporate Securities Law, the issuer, and all persons acting on behalf of the issuer, may become subject to various administrative, civil, or criminal penalties. For example, the Commissioner of Corporations has broad powers to impose legend conditions on securities that were improperly qualified [Corp. Code § 25534], issue desist and refrain orders [Corp. Code § 25532], or seek injunctive relief [Corp. Code § 25530; see Corp. Code § 25530.1]; see Corp. Code § 25530.1 to enforce compliance with the Corporate Securities Law. Criminal penalties are provided for willful violations of the Corporate Securities Law [see Corp. Code §§ 25540-25542]. In addition, various acts or omissions may subject the issuer to civil liability [see Corp. Code §§ 25500-25510]. In addition, the purchaser may have a rescission right for a period of up to two years (or one year from discovery of the facts) [Corp. Code §§ 25503, 25507]. As a remedial measure, the Corporate Securities Law provides an opportunity for the issuer of securities to offer to repurchase securities that were not properly qualified or that were sold in violation of a condition imposed pursuant to Corporations Code Section 25141 [see Corp. Code § 25507(b); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.507].

The Commissioner is empowered to impose conditions on the repurchase offer [see Corp. Code § 25507(c)]. The repurchase offer must be accompanied by an irrevocable consent appointing the Commissioner to be the applicant's attorney to receive service of any lawful process in any noncriminal suit, action, or proceeding that arises under the Corporate Securities Laws [see § 6H.239]. California residents are not excluded from this provision [see Corp. Code § 25507(d)]. Although it appears that liability for damages under Corp. Code § 25503 may be mitigated or extinguished by repurchase of the securities pursuant to this repurchase offer [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.507, Item 9(D)(4)(d)], the repurchase offer does not affect any liability that may arise under Corp. Code §§ 25500, 25501, or 25502 or under common law [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.507, Item 9(D)(9)].

§ 6H.271 Investor's Suitability Representation Letter [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.01; Dept. of Corps. Release No. 8-C]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is an investor's suitability representation letter. Whenever the applicant proposes to issue securities in connection with a limited offering [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.001(e)], the proposed purchasers must be identified [see § 6H.238]. If the proposed issue involves oil and gas or mining interests or a real estate syndicate [see § 6H.220, Item 20], special information about the financial responsibility and investment experience of the proposed purchasers must be supplied [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.112.1-260.140.112.4, 260.140.123.1-260.140.126]. It is the responsibility of the issuer (and of each person, including broker-dealers and agents, who participates in the distribution of the securities) to insure that the proposed purchasers meet the suitability standards applicable to the offering [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.01(b)]. Accordingly, the Commissioner has suggested this letter form, by which the proposed purchaser acknowledges the risks involved in the investment and gives a statement of his or her investment experience and financial responsibility [see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 8-C (Feb. 27, 1969)]. This form may be used to supply further information about the proposed purchasers in any limited offering qualification [see § 6H.200], and the information contained in it can be afforded confidential treatment [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10(a); see also § 6H.275].

§ 6H.273 Issuer's Bond [Corp. Code § 25216(e); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.216.15]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an issuer's bond. Any issuer who employs agents in connection with any security or transaction not exempted under the Corporate Securities Law [see Corp. Code §§ 25100-25105], in addition to supplying information about those agents [see § 6H.272], must furnish and maintain a surety bond in the amount of $10,000 [Corp. Code § 25216(e); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.216.15(a)]. The bond must be issued by a corporate surety admitted to transact business in California and is conditioned that the issuer will comply with the provisions of the Corporate Securities Law and the rules and orders issued under it. Unless previously canceled, the bond will cover for the entire period that the qualification is in effect [Corp. Code § 25216(e); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.216.15(a)].

[b] Undertaking/Deposit in Lieu of Bond

The requirement for a bond [see Corp. Code § 25216(e); 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.216.15] may be satisfied by an undertaking that satisfies the requirements for the bond [see Code Civ. Proc. § 995.210(a)]. An appropriate deposit of cash or securities in lieu of bond [see Code Civ. Proc. § 995.710] may be made [Corp. Code § 25216(e); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.216.15(b) (procedure for making deposit)].

[c] Enforcement of Liability on Bond

No suit may be maintained to enforce any liability on the bond unless it is brought within two years after the contract of sale or other act upon which the suit is based [Corp. Code § 25216(e)]. The Commissioner has no authority to adjudicate any claim or controversy against the bond or deposit. Disputed claims must be adjudicated by a court. On the filing of suit and notice to the Commissioner, the Commissioner may turn over all or part of the deposit to the court by means of an interpleader or similar proceeding [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.216.15(c)].

§ 6H.274 Semiannual Reports [Corp. Code § 25146; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.146]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the semiannual report used to submit the financial information required by the Commissioner [Corp. Code § 25146; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.146; see Ch. 7, Corporate Records and Reports (forms for financial statements)].

[b] Requirement of Semiannual Reports

The Commissioner may by rule or order require an issuer who has filed an application to file reports, not more often than semiannually and up to a period of 18 months after qualification is effective, for the purpose of keeping reasonably current the information contained in the application [Corp. Code § 25146]. However, the Commissioner may not require an issuer to file these reports (1) after completion of the offering if a nonissuer transaction involving that security would be entitled to exemption from qualification pursuant to Corp. Code § 25101 (issuer's securities listed on certified stock exchange) [see Corp. Code § 25146], or (2) if the issuer is filing reports pursuant to Section 13 [15 U.S.C. § 78m] or Section 15(d) [15 U.S.C. § 78o(d)] of the Securities and Exchange Act of 1934 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.146; see 15 U.S.C. § 78a et seq.].

An issuer not exempted from filing these reports and that is selling securities pursuant to an open qualification must file the reports (1) within 90 days after the first six months of its fiscal year, and (2) within 120 days after the end of its fiscal year [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.146].

These reports must be filed until the expiration of 18 months after effectiveness of qualification or until the securities have been qualified for trading in California by nonissuer notification [Corp. Code § 25131], whichever occurs first [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.146].

[c] Books, Records, and Accounts

All issuers qualifying securities for sale in California, whether or not exempted from the requirement of filing semiannual reports, must at all times keep and maintain a complete set of books, records, and accounts of sales under the qualification and of the disposition of the sales proceeds. Whenever required by the Commissioner, an issuer must file a report in the Commissioner's office, setting forth (1) the securities sold by it under the qualification, (2) the proceeds from those sales, and (3) the disposition of the sales proceeds [Corp. Code § 25145].

§ 6H.275 Request for Confidential Treatment of Information [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a request to the Commissioner to treat certain information submitted in the application as confidential. The contents of applications, other related documents, requests for interpretive opinions, determinations, specific rulings, and related correspondence [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.12] are ordinarily open to public inspection during the business hours of the Department of Corporations [Corp. Code § 25605(a); 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 250.9, 250.9.1(a)]. However, at the request of the applicant, the Commissioner will withhold from public inspection, for what the Commissioner judges to be a "necessary" time, information received in connection with an application (including a request for an interpretive opinion) or report if in the Commissioner's opinion public inspection is not necessary in the public interest or for the purposes of the law under which it is filed, and the information is reasonably shown to meet any of the following requirements [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10(a)]:

- The information is of a proprietary business nature and is in fact confidential, including but not limited to trade secrets.

- The information is of a confidential business nature and is in fact confidential, and its release would be damaging or prejudicial to the business concerned.

- The information consists of the name of any present or proposed investor which is filed in an application pursuant to Corp. Code § 25113, 25121, or 25133, and the disclosure of that information may be damaging or prejudicial to that person.

- Any other information, on a showing that a public interest is served in withholding that information.

[b] Contents of Request

The request should accompany the submission of the information provided in connection with the application or request or report. The potentially confidential information must be submitted separated from other parts of the filing and must be marked "Confidential Treatment Requested." The request must be signed by the person making the application or report and contain the following [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10(b)]:

- A statement identifying the relevant application or report and the information that is the subject of the request.

- A statement specifying the applicable provisions of 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10(a) [see [a], above].

- A statement of the grounds on which the request is made, including (if applicable) a statement as to, and measures taken to protect, its confidentiality, and a statement of the adverse consequences expected to result if that information is disclosed.

- If the request seeks to protect the name of any investor [pursuant to 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10(a)(3); see [a], above], a statement that the investor is not required to disclose investments pursuant to the Political Reform Act of 1975 or a similar statute.

- A statement of the specific time for which the confidential treatment is necessary, and the basis for those conclusions.

- If appropriate, a statement of the extent to which that information has been or will be disclosed to present or proposed investors, or other persons appropriate under the statute pursuant to which the information is filed.

The request itself should not contain any information for which confidential treatment is desired, as requests will be available for public inspection [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10(b)(7)].

[c] Denial of Request

Because materials submitted pursuant to such a request are not deemed filed unless the request is granted, the applicant may withdraw the material if the application is denied, unless: (1) the Commissioner has already taken an official action in reliance on that information prior to receiving the request for confidential treatment, or (2) the Commissioner determines that the withdrawal is otherwise contrary to the public interest. If withdrawn, the information will not be considered by the Commissioner in connection with the application or report [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10(c)].

[d] Granting of Request

If the request is granted, the applicant or person making the request will be notified in writing, the information will be marked "confidential" and kept separate from the public file, and the application will be noted with the following legend: "Additional portions of this filing have been granted confidential treatment pursuant to Rule 250.10 and are contained in a separate confidential file" [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10(d)].

[e] Disclosure of Confidential Information

Confidential information may be disclosed by the Commissioner, at any time and in the Commissioner's sole discretion, whether on the Commissioner's own motion or on the request of any person, as follows [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10.5(a)]:

- To other state or federal regulatory agencies, in accordance with law.

- When necessary or appropriate in any proceeding or investigation pursuant to the law on which the information if filed.

- On the Commissioner's determination that continued confidential treatment is no longer justified because either the reasons for such treatment no longer exist, or the public interest in the disclosure outweighs the public interest in not doing so. Normally, the person who originally requested the confidential treatment will be given notice that such an action is under consideration and the reasons why, and will be given the opportunity to make representations promptly, within not more than five business days, concerning the continued need and justification for continued confidentiality. However, if the Commissioner concludes that the disclosure is necessary and urgent in the public interest, or that notice is impractical under the circumstances, the information may be disclosed without notice [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10.5(a)].

Any requests to inspect confidential information based on the third ground, above, ordinarily must be in writing, signed by the requestor, and state the justifications for the request. A copy of the request will ordinarily be forwarded to the person who requested confidential treatment of the information. If the request itself should be held confidential, the reasons must be stated in the request, in accordance with 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10(b) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10.5(b); see [b], above].

These disclosure provisions do not provide any person a right to withdraw information once the Commissioner has received it, except as provided in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10(c) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10.5(c); see [c], above].

Request for Confidential Treatment of Information [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10]

File No. _____

Date _____

DEPARTMENT OF CORPORATIONS STATE OF CALIFORNIA

REQUEST FOR CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT OF INFORMATION PROVIDE IN CONNECTION WITH ACCOMPANYING APPLICATION FOR QUALIFICATION [or other type of filing or request for interpretive opinion] OF _____ [applicant]

Identification of Material

Applicant requests that the attached material, marked "Confidential Treatment Requested," being provided in connection with the separately attached application for qualification by _____ [permit, notification, coordination, or other type of filing] be treated confidentially and handled separately from the public portion of that application by the Department. That material consists of _____ [e.g., identification and profile of select customers to be contacted for service by Applicant].

Basis of Request

This request is made pursuant to Title 10, California Code of Regulations Section 250.10(a) in that the information which is the subject of the request _____[specify applicable provision(s) of 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.10(a), e.g., is of a proprietary business nature and is in fact confidential].

Justification for Confidential Withholding

[Specify, e.g., This list of select potential customers should remain confidential for the following reasons. The list was put together only after a year of difficult and expensive research, utilizing the services of several renowned marketing experts and statisticians familiar with Applicant's industry. The total cost of this research was approximately $_____. The contents of the list have been disclosed to a small number of authorized personnel. Any other disclosure of this valuable trade secret would be devastating in that the list could not be duplicated by any amount of original work on Applicant's part if it were to become worthless or diminished in importance because of disclosure to competitors or others. Thus a large investment in developing this list would be lost if competitors took advantage of it. In addition, it would be a humiliating circumstance for selling companies in the industry to be revealed either to have been included or excluded from the list of potential customers.

Furthermore, Applicant will attract investors because of the product it has developed. These investors will assume that this product can be easily marketed as soon as research and refinement provided by new financing from the stock issue bring the product to finished form. During that period it might be reasonably expected Applicant would attempt to solicit customers. But Applicant already has done much of its marketing homework by developing the attached customer list, a bonus to its investors and a further proof to the Commissioner that its operations are sound and promising.

Nor is disclosure necessary in the public interest in that it is not newsworthy or informative in respect to governmental matters or public affairs in any legitimate way. On the other hand, disclosure would be detrimental to the public interest in that there might be a scramble among competitors and fringe-related industrial sources to solicit the intended customers, tending to hamper development of a quality product in an area of importance to the consumer public, leading to a quick disappointment in the use of those products in the mind of the public and a discontinuance of development in the industry.]

[Add, if request seeks to protect the name of any investor:]

Disclosure by Investor(s) Not Required

The _____ [present or proposed] investor[s] _____ [is or are] not required to disclose investments pursuant to the Political Reform Act of 1975 [or other statute as appropriate].

Duration of Confidential Treatment

Applicant requests that this material remain confidential for _____ [specify length of time]. This time period is necessary because _____ [specify, e.g., detailed presentations will be required in connection with the solicitation of customers. In view of the large number of potential customers included in this list, this time-consuming process cannot be completed in fewer than three months].

[Add, if appropriate:]

§ 6H.276 Request for Refund of Filing Fee [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.15]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This is an application for a refund of a filing fee. Generally, applicants are not entitled to a refund of fees submitted with applications or requests, whether or not granted [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.15]. For example, there is no refund on abandonment or withdrawal of an application [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.16]. When an excess fee has been paid, the excess payment is generally refunded without the necessity of a request [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.15]. In certain circumstances, however, an oversight of the Department or a question of fact may be involved. Refunds also may be available when the applicant was eligible for an exemption, or when the offering was not of a security within the meaning of the Securities Law [Corp. Code § 25019].

The applicant is not entitled to a refund if he or she overestimates the price that the applicant will receive for the shares, or the number that the applicant could sell, since the fees for issuer transactions are calculated on the basis of the value of the securities proposed to be sold in the transaction [see Corp. Code § 25608(c)]. The value of the securities is the greater of any of the following [Corp. Code § 25608(g)(1)]:

- The price at which the company proposes to sell the securities;
- The value as alleged in the application;
- The actual value, as determined by the Commissioner, of the consideration (if other than money) to be received in exchange for the securities; or
- The actual value, as determined by the Commissioner, of the securities when sold.

Whenever a provision is made in the securities law for a collection of fees, but none is made for refund, the refund should be made on the following grounds [see Gov. Code § 13143; see also 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.15]:

- The proper amount of the fee (that is, overpayment);
- The necessity of making or securing a permit, filing, examination, or inspection;
- The sufficiency of the credentials of the applicant; and
- The eligibility of the applicant for any other reason.

A request should be in the form of a letter addressed to the office that processed the filing for which the fee was paid [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.15]. A request for refund should specify all of the following [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.15]:

- The name of the applicant.
- The law under which the application was filed and the filing date.
- The number of the receipt issued for the filing fees paid to the Department, and the total amount paid.
- The amount of the refund claimed as due and the grounds on which the claim is based.

§ 6H.277 Request for Consent to Withdraw Application [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.16]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a request to withdraw an application submitted to the Department of Corporations. The Department may make one or more requests of the applicant to submit further information for consideration, or to complete unanswered items on the original application. If the applicant does not respond or complete the showing within a reasonable time, the Commissioner may order the abandonment of the application by notice to the applicant [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.16].

In some cases, it may be in the applicant's interest to withdraw an application and the applicant may do so by formally requesting the Commissioner's consent to that withdrawal. In either event there can be no refund of filing fees [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 250.16]. Since the form is not specified in the Corporate Securities Law or the Commissioner's rules for request for consent of withdrawal, the following is a suggested form for this request. It may be possible to orally request the withdrawal.

The Legal Background discusses classes and series of shares, the nature and incidents of common and preferred shares, convertible shares, types of consideration for shares, issuance of certificated and uncertificated securities, the concept of par value, and the incidents of "Section 1244 stock." The Transaction Guide discusses financial considerations in planning an issuance of securities, the incidents of common and preferred shares, issues in connection with securities that have to be qualified for sale in California, preparation of documents, resolutions by the board of directors, and actual issuance of the shares.

The forms include representative common and preferred share certificates, resolutions of the board of directors authorizing the issuance of securities, adopting the form of share certificate to be used by the corporation, stating the consideration to be received for stock, limiting the expenses of sale, allowing the issuance of partly paid shares or promotional shares, and authorizing the officers of the corporation to take the necessary steps to comply with the applicable securities laws. The chapter also includes forms for an incentive stock option plan and related resolutions, stock purchase or subscription warrants and related resolutions, and subscription agreements and sales contracts for shares.

For a discussion of the basic securities law considerations applicable to an issuance of shares, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues . For discussion of the qualification of securities in California, see Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities . Commonly-used exemptions from the California qualification requirements are discussed in Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions , Ch. 6C, California Small Offering Exemption , and Ch. 6D, California Qualified Purchaser Exemptions . For discussion of federal securities law and federal exemptions under the federal Securities Act of 1933, see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations . The issuance of non-equity securities such as notes and debentures is discussed in Ch. 6J, Issuance of Debt Securities . § 6I.10 "Shares" Defined Shares are the units into which the proprietary interests in the corporation are divided in its articles [Corp. Code § 184]. Subject to any limitations contained in its articles and the applicable laws, a corporation has all the powers of a natural person in the issuance of its own shares [Corp. Code § 207(d)]. The articles of incorporation must set forth the total number of shares the corporation is authorized to issue [Corp. Code § 202(d), (e)(1); see Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation].

The collective body of shares is popularly referred to as the "stock" of a corporation.

§ 6I.11 Issuance of Shares

The term "issuance of shares" is not defined either in the General Corporation Law or in the Corporate Securities Law, but basically refers to the act or contract of a corporation by which a person becomes the owner of new shares. The intent of the parties determines when issuance actually occurs, and their contract frequently discloses this intent [see People v. Beber (1951) 104 Cal. App. 2d 359, 367-368, 231 P.2d 516] .

On issuance, the purchaser becomes a shareholder; that is, one who is a holder of record of shares [Corp. Code § 185], if this is consistent with the parties' contractual intent [see People v. Beber (1951) 104 Cal. App. 2d 359, 367-368, 231 P.2d 516] .

The corporation is required to keep a record of its shareholders at its principal executive office, or at the office of its transfer agent or registrar [Corp. Code § 1500]. This record gives the names and addresses of all shareholders of record, and the number and class of shares held by each. The record must be either in written form or in any other form capable of being converted into written form [Corp. Code § 1500].

PRACTICE TIP:

Shares of public corporations are frequently held in "street name." In this instance, the record holder will be a broker dealer who holds the shares on behalf of the beneficial owner. The shares may also be held in book entry form. In this case, the record holder will be the nominee of the entity maintaining the books, such as Cede & Co., as the nominee of The Depository Trust Company ("DTC"). The records of DTC will show the name of the broker dealer or other DTC Participant who is holding the shares on behalf of the beneficial owner. Unless the beneficial owners are required to disclose their ownership interest pursuant to Sections 13(d) or 13(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 or are non-objecting beneficial owners, a public corporation will have little information regarding the beneficial owners of its securities. Additional time will also be needed to solicit votes, since proxy materials must first be sent to the record holder who in turn must send the proxy materials to the beneficial owner. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

§ 6I.12 Classes and Series of Shares

A corporation may issue shares in one or more classes or series, or in both classes and series. The characteristics attaching to each class or series are those that are stated in or authorized by the corporation's articles of incorporation. An appropriate authorizing article enables the board of directors to fix the classes or series of shares, including the size of the class or series, the rights, preferences, privileges, and restrictions attaching to each class of shares, and to issue newly designated shares of any class or series after the filing of a certificate of determination setting forth a copy of the resolution [Corp. Code §§ 156, 401; see Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation].

All shares within a particular class must have the same rights, preferences, privileges, and restrictions, except to the extent that the class is further divided into series. A "series" is itself composed of shares that all have the same rights, preferences, privileges, and restrictions [Corp. Code § 400(b)]. Shares of different series within the same class often vary only by a single characteristic, such as time of redemption or amount of preference, and are more often found among preferred shares than common shares.

§ 6I.13 Rights, Preferences, Privileges, and Restrictions

[1] Authorization

The corporation may attach different rights, preferences, privileges, and restrictions to each class or series of shares issued by the corporation [see Corp. Code § 400(a)]. The specific rights, preferences, privileges and restrictions must be set forth (1) directly in the articles of incorporation; or (2) in a resolution adopted by the board of directors and authorized by the articles of incorporation [Corp. Code § 400(a)].

There are no definitions of the terms "rights," "preferences," "privileges," and "restrictions" concepts in the General Corporation Law, although the terms are employed throughout. Nor have the terms been precisely defined in other applicable laws. These concepts, however, impose limitations on a corporation's ability to authorize issuance of shares.

[2] Rights

A "right" typically refers to an advantage that flows to the shareholder, by virtue of holding a particular kind of share, on a routine and repeating basis. The ability to vote for management positions is a right. The entitlement to receive dividends when available and as declared is another right.

[3] Preferences

A "preference" appears to be an intensive version of a right, representing a priority of position with respect to fully taking or receiving action before similar rights may be recognized. A "liquidation preference," for example, has to do with amounts payable on certain shares on distribution of the entirety of the corporate assets in priority to amounts payable to other shares [see Corp. Code § 172]. Another common preference is a preference with respect to payment of dividends.

[4] Privileges

A "privilege" denotes a right that is not essential to the corporate complex, which is not granted to all security holders or exercisable by one group in the absence of another, and once granted need not be exercised to keep the underlying corporate machinery moving. An example of a privilege is the characteristic of conversion, the ability to change the nature of one's security holding on demand [see Corp. Code § 403(a)]. Another is the ability to cause the corporation to redeem shares [see Corp. Code § 402]. A shareholder might retain these privileges without ever exercising them, or by acting on them at a time independent of that chosen by other holders of the benefit. Their value and utility are more a matter of speculation, whereas the employment of voting and the distribution of dividends are of a more crucial nature to the continuous operation of the company.

[5] Restrictions

A "restriction" identifies a particular limitation that might otherwise have been included as a right--or at least some question as to that fact might have existed. A restriction creates an inability to exercise or a limitation on the exercise of a right or privilege. Limitations on voting [see Corp. Code § 400(a)] or on transferring shares [see Corp. Code § 418(a)(1)] are more common. Restrictions may be imposed by the terms of the securities, by other terms of the corporation's articles of incorporation, or by California law.

[6] Rights of a Class

The General Corporation Law specifies that all shares of an undivided class, or any series within that class, must have the same voting, conversion, and redemption characteristics (referred to within that law as a "right") as well as the same rights, preferences, privileges, and restrictions [Corp. Code § 400(b)]. The corporation may issue one or more classes or series with full, limited, or no voting rights. However, no denial or limitation of voting rights is effective unless at the time one or more classes or series of outstanding shares or debt securities, singly or in the aggregate, are entitled to full voting rights. Attempted denial or limitation of dividend or liquidation rights with respect to outstanding shares are treated in the same manner [Corp. Code § 400(a)]. Generally no redeemable common shares may be issued unless the corporation has an outstanding class of common shares that is not subject to redemption [Corp. Code § 402(c)]. Transfer restrictions will not be effective unless stated on the share certificate in required form [see Corp. Code § 418(a)(1)].

§ 6I.14 Common Shares

[1] Definition

In California, "common shares" are technically defined as shares that have no preferences over any other shares with respect to distributions of assets on liquidation or with respect to payment of dividends [Corp. Code § 159]. However, they may have any complex of rights, privileges, and restrictions, whether or not any of those characteristics are possessed as well by other classes of stock. Common shares may also contain any kind of preference other than one that gives the holder a priority position for payments of dividend, whenever or however disbursed, or of assets distributed on liquidation. Lacking a financial preference, common shareholders take the greatest risk position among the various corporate investor groups.

[2] Typical Attributes

Typically the common shares carry unlimited voting power, except in times of financial crisis in which some voting power may be temporarily transferred to classes with distribution preferences to common shareholders. In addition, common shares usually are not subject to redemption by the corporation and therefore continue indefinitely. They do not normally carry conversion rights, but they may be accompanied by options for further shares or for securities of another class or representing indebtedness, possibly carrying conversion rights.

Common shares do not have a fixed dividend or dissolution rate of payment. In the case of dividends, they share in whatever amount the directors have declared, so long as the declaration is proper in the light of prohibitions against improper distributions [see Corp. Code §§ 500-503], and after amounts have been paid to classes having preferences. On liquidation, the common shares divide the assets after payment of all debts and liabilities, and after assets are distributed to classes entitled to preference [see Corp. Code § 2004].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

AUTHOR: Marilyn Minger Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6I.15 Preferred Shares

[1] Definition

In California, the term "preferred shares" refers to any shares other than common shares [Corp. Code § 176]. Thus, preferred shares must have either a preference over any other shares with respect to distribution of assets on liquidation, or with respect to payment of dividends, or both [see Corp. Code § 159]. Preferred shares otherwise may have any other rights, privileges, or restrictions, or any other definable form of preference permitted by California law.

[2] Typical Characteristics

Preferred shares typically do have both kinds of preferences mentioned in [1], above. The dividend usually is for a fixed amount or fixed percentage annually. Usually the kind of dividend to which the preferred share is entitled is cumulative in nature. If a dividend is not declared, or if it is declared but is neither earned nor paid, the right to the dividend is carried over until it is paid before there can be any dividend on the common shares [see Fawkes v. Farm Lands Invest. Co. (1931) 112 Cal. App. 374, 377, 380, 297 P. 47] . If the preferred shares do not have a further claim to the dividends, they are referred to as nonparticipating in nature. If some formula is followed, however, such as allowing the preferred shares to take the remainder of dividends available equally with the common stock, or at least after the common shareholder has been paid the amount equivalent to that first allocated to the preferred by virtue of its preference, then the preferred shares are called "participating" [see Bank of America v. West End etc. Co. (1940) 37 Cal. App. 2d 685, 690, 691, 100 P.2d 318] .

[3] Liquidation Preference

A "liquidation preference" is the same as a "liquidation price," and means amounts payable on shares of a class on voluntary or involuntary dissolution, winding up, or distribution of the entire assets of the corporation, including any cumulative dividends accrued and unpaid, in priority to shares of some other class or classes [Corp. Code § 172]. This is usually for a fixed amount or a fixed percentage of payment. Although cumulative dividends remaining unpaid are brought forward for ultimate payment along with the preferred split of the assets on distribution [see also Corp. Code §

2004], there appears to be no entitlement to participate along with the common shares in the division of the assets remaining after payment of debts, liabilities, and then preferred distribution of assets, in the absence of an express provision to that effect, whether or not there has been contractual arrangement for participating in dividends.

[4] Comparison to Common Shares and Debt Securities

Preferred shareholders are in a more favorable position than common shareholders in terms of the priority of return on investment and the security of the investment itself. The corporation is contractually obligated to pay the rate of return on preferred shares, and preferred shareholders are entitled to dividends before common shareholders are so entitled. In contrast to the holders of debt securities, preferred shareholders have proprietary interests in the corporation that exist as long as the corporation exists unless the shareholder-corporation relationship is terminated by redemption. Commonly, preferred shares have liquidation preferences that entitle the holders to reach the corporate assets before the holders of common shares.

§ 6I.16 Convertible Shares

A corporation may issue shares that are convertible into shares of any class or series. Conversion may be limited to take place within a prescribed time period, or only on the happening of one or more specific events, and on such terms and conditions as are stated in the articles. Conversion may be exercised at the option of the holder of the privilege only (except in the case of certain corporations) or may occur automatically on the happening of certain events [Corp. Code § 403(a)]. There are also provisions for convertible debt securities to be convertible into shares [see Corp. Code § 403(b); see also Ch. 6J, Issuance of Debt Securities].

PRACTICE TIP:

Prior to issuing any convertible securities, options or warrants, the corporation should make certain that it has a sufficient number of shares authorized in its articles of incorporation in order for it to be able to fulfill its contractual commitments. In addition, the corporation should reserve sufficient shares for issuance in order to make certain that the corporation does not in the future issue additional shares or commit to issue additional shares in excess of the number of shares authorized to be issued in its articles of incorporation. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

§ 6I.17 Options

An "option" is a device or product whereby the purchaser is purchasing only the right to purchase or subscribe to shares at a later time under conditions specified in the option or other controlling document. An option may be granted in connection with the issue, subscription, or sale of shares (or other securities) or independently of any of those events. Option rights may be transferable or nontransferable, and they may be separable or inseparable from the shares (or other securities) of the corporation [Corp. Code § 404].

§ 6I.18 Consideration for Shares

The consideration received for shares constitutes the basic equity funding or capital of the company, and is determined from time to time by the board of directors, or by the shareholders if the articles so provide [Corp. Code § 409(a)(1)]. It may take the form of money paid or labor done. It may also consist of services which in fact have been rendered to the corporation, or for its benefit, or in its formation or reorganization. Further, it may be composed of debts or securities which are thereby canceled. Finally, it may be made up of tangible or intangible property actually received, either by the issuing corporation or by its wholly owned subsidiary. In no event, however, may payment or part payment for shares be represented by future services, nor by promissory notes of the purchaser unless adequately secured by collateral other than the shares being acquired (and except for certain employee stock plans) [Corp. Code § 409(a)].

The board must state by resolution its determination of the fair value to the corporation in monetary terms of any consideration other than money for which shares are issued [Corp. Code § 409(e)]. In the absence of fraud in the transaction, their judgment as to such value is conclusive [Corp. Code § 409(b)].

PRACTICE TIP:

If the non-monetary consideration will be received from a director or a corporation, firm or association in which a director has a material financial interest, all material factors should be disclosed by the interested director and the determination of fair value should be made by the non-interested directors in accordance with the standards set forth in Corp. Code §310. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

The full, agreed consideration has to be paid prior to or concurrently with the issuance of the shares [Corp. Code § 410(b)]. However, the corporation may have arranged to issue shares for part payment subject to call for the remainder, in which case the consideration is paid in accordance with the controlling subscription or purchase agreement [Corp. Code §§ 409(d), 410(b)]. For partly paid shares, the total amount of the consideration to be paid and the amount already paid must be stated on the share certificates of those shares, or on the initial transaction statement for uncertificated securities [Corp. Code § 409(d); see Corp. Code § 171.1]. For discussion of the initial transaction statement and uncertificated securities generally, see § 6I.20[2].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

3-6I California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 6I.19

AUTHOR: Marilyn Minger Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6I.19 Par Value

Under the General Corporation Law, the concept of par value of shares is no longer legally significant. For tax purposes exclusively, if any tax is based on capitalization, all authorized shares are deemed to have a nominal value of $1. For purposes of any other statutes or regulations that require a stated par value, all shares will have the par value determined by the board of directors [Corp. Code § 205]. For corporations that are subject to the corporations law in effect before 1977 [see Corp. Code § 2300], the absence of any reference to par value in the articles is equivalent to a statement that the corporate shares have no par value [Corp. Code § 2302.5].

The corporation no longer need be concerned about selling shares under their nominal value, nor should it encounter problems of giving shares at discount or as bonus at improperly reflected rates. The board fixes the consideration, and the actual consideration received as assets is accounted for as a liability to shareholders. Whether or not earnings are reflected in capital accounts, the corporation is free to work with and distribute its cash and property as long as it does not violate provisions of California law designed to protect creditors and shareholders in particular positions [see Corp Code §§ 500-503.2].

§ 6I.20 Share Certificates

[1] Issuance

Unless a corporation adopts a system of issuance, recordation and transfer of its shares by electronic or other means not involving any issuance of certificates [see [2], below], a holder of shares in a corporation is entitled to have a certificate that certifies the number of shares and the class or series of shares owned by the shareholder [Corp. Code § 416]. The certificate must be signed in the name of the corporation by the chair or vice-chair of the board, or the president or vice-president, and by the chief financial officer or an assistant treasurer or the secretary or any assistant secretary [Corp. Code § 416(a)].

If the shares are classified or if any class of shares has two or more series, the certificate must contain a statement or summary of the rights, privileges, and restrictions granted or imposed on each class or series, or notification of where the shareholder may obtain that statement or summary [Corp. Code § 417]. If the shares are (1) subject to transfer restrictions; (2) assessable; (3) not fully paid [see Corp. Code § 409(d)]; (4) redeemable; (5) convertible; or (6) subject to a voting agreement [see Corp. Code § 706(a)], irrevocable proxy [see Corp. Code § 705(e)], or restrictions on voting rights contractually imposed by the corporation, the certificate must also contain notification of that fact [Corp. Code § 418(a)]. If the shares are dissenting shares to a merger, the certificates must contain a statement to that effect [Corp. Code § 1302]. For a more detailed discussion of these requirements and share certificates generally, see § 6I.200[1].

If a certificated security [see [2], below, for the distinction between "certificated" and "uncertificated" securities] has been retained by or surrendered to the issuing corporation or its transfer agent for reasons other than registration of transfer, other temporary purpose, payment, exchange, or acquisition by the issuing corporation, that security will be treated as an uncertificated security [Com. Code § 8102(a)(15), (18)].

[2] Uncertificated Securities

The Commercial Code makes a distinction between "certificated" and "uncertificated" securities. For purposes of these requirements, "security" means an obligation of an issuer or a share, participation, or other interest in an issuer or in property or an enterprise of an issuer [Com. Code § 8102(a)(15)]. An "uncertificated security" simply means a security that is not represented by a certificate [Com. Code § 8102(a)(18)], in contrast to a "certificated security," which is represented by the more traditional type of share certificate discussed in [1], above. The manual transfer of share certificates can be a time-consuming encumbrance, especially in public tradings in which manual transfers may lag behind transactions for sizable periods of time.

A corporation may adopt a system of issuance, recordation, and transfer of its shares by electronic or other means not involving any issuance of certificates if the system satisfies any of the following conditions [Corp. Code § 416(b); see Com. Code § 8101 et seq.]:

- Has been approved by the United States Securities and Exchange Commission;
- Is authorized in any statute of the United States; or
- Is in accordance with Division 8 of the California Commercial Code.

If a corporation adopts a certificate-free system of share issuance, that system will not become effective as to issued and outstanding certificated securities until the certificates have been surrendered to the corporation [Corp. Code § 416(b)].

An electronic or other system of uncertificated securities must include provisions for notice to purchasers in substitution for the required statements on certificates [see Corp. Code §§ 417, 418, 1302; see § 6I.200]. The "initial transaction statement" and "written statements" serve this purpose. An initial transaction statement is the statement, signed by or on behalf of the issuer, sent to the new registered owner or registered pledgee. "Written statements" are the written statements that are sent periodically, or at the request of the registered owner or registered pledgee, by the issuer to the registered owner or registered pledgee describing the issue of which the uncertificated security is a part [Corp. Code § 171.1].

[3] Indirect Holding System

Though it has little impact on the issuer, an indirect holding system for certificated securities has come to dominate transactions in publicly traded securities. The indirect holding system revolves around the concept of a "security entitlement," defined as the rights and property interest of an "entitlement holder" respecting a "financial asset" [see Com. Code §§ 8501-8511]. An "entitlement holder" is a person identified in the records of a securities intermediary as having a securities entitlement against that intermediary [Com. Code § 8102(a)(7)]. A person acquires a security entitlement in a financial asset when that person's securities account is credited with that financial asset by a "securities intermediary," an entity that holds securities or security entitlements for its customers [see Com. Code § 8102(a)(14)].

PRACTICE TIP:

The rights of beneficial owners will also be subject to provisions of federal law regulating these types of transactions and to any contractual provisions between the beneficial holder and his or her broker or contractual agreements between the broker and the entity, such as DTC, maintaining the book entry system, with respect to a variety of procedural matters regarding voting, distribution of notices, proxy statements, reports and other information and the payment of dividends or other distributions on securities. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

Chapter 5 of Division 8 of the California Commercial Code regulates securities intermediaries in this context, outlining the rights of holders of security entitlements with respect to securities intermediaries [see Com. Code §§ 8501-8511].

§ 6I.21 Section 1244 Stock

[1] Tax Treatment

Ordinarily, corporate stock is a capital asset, and any loss with respect to that stock is therefore subject to capital loss limitations [see I.R.C. §§ 1211, 1212]. However, I.R.C. § 1244 permits an individual to convert what would be capital loss into ordinary loss if certain requirements are met. Ordinary loss treatment is preferable, since the capital loss limitations deny any significant tax benefit except as an offset against capital gain and are therefore a deterrent to investment in corporate stock.

[2] Requirements Applicable to Issuer and Shares

The corporation issuing I.R.C. § 1244 stock must be a domestic corporation. To qualify stock for ordinary loss treatment, the corporation also must be a "small business corporation" at the time the stock is issued [I.R.C. § 1244(c)(1)(A)]. A corporation is a "small business corporation" if the aggregate amount of money and other property received by it for stock, as a contribution to capital, and as paid-in surplus does not exceed $1 million. This determination is made at the time the stock in question is issued, and includes amounts received for that stock and for all prior issues of stock [I.R.C. § 1244(c)(3)(A)]. For purposes of the $1 million limitation, the amount taken into account with respect to any property other than money is equal to the adjusted basis to the corporation of that property for determining gain, reduced by any liability to which the property was subject or which was assumed by the corporation. This amount is determined as of the time the property was received by the corporation [I.R.C. § 1244(c)(3)(B)].

To qualify as I.R.C. § 1244 stock, the stock must be either voting or nonvoting preferred or common stock, and must have been issued by the corporation for money or other property (other than stock or securities) [I.R.C. § 1244(c)(1)]. In addition, the corporation must have derived more than 50 percent of its aggregate gross receipts from sources other than royalties, rents, dividends, interest, annuities, and sales or exchanges of stocks or securities during the period of its five most recent taxable years ending before the date the loss on the stock was sustained [I.R.C. § 1244(c)(1)(C)]. However, this requirement does not apply if the corporation's deductions (other than deductions for net operating losses and dividends) exceed its gross income [I.R.C. § 1244(c)(2)(C)]. If the corporation has not been in existence for five taxable years ending before the date the loss on the stock was sustained, a lesser period is substituted for the five-year period [see I.R.C. § 1244(c)(2)(A)].

[3] Only Individuals Eligible for Ordinary Loss Benefits

Only individuals are entitled to the ordinary loss benefits of I.R.C. § 1244 [I.R.C. § 1244(d)(4) (excluding trusts and estates); Treas. Reg. § 1.1244(a)-1(b) (excluding corporations)]. An individual who is a partner in a partnership at the time the partnership acquired the stock, and whose distributive share reflects loss on the stock, is eligible for the ordinary loss treatment of I.R.C. § 1244 [I.R.C. § 1244(a); Treas. Reg. § 1.1244(a)-1(b)(2)].

To be eligible for I.R.C. § 1244 treatment, the individual or partnership must have continuously held the stock from the time of its issuance. Acquisition of the stock from the original shareholder destroys the ordinary loss treatment potential under the section [I.R.C. § 1244(a); Treas. Reg. § 1.1244(a)-1(b)].

[4] When Loss Occurs

A sale or exchange of I.R.C. § 1244 stock is not necessary to obtain an ordinary loss. If the stock becomes worthless, a loss is deemed to occur [Treas. Reg. § 1.1244(a)-1(a)]. The maximum amount that can be treated as ordinary loss on I.R.C. § 1244 stock cannot exceed $50,000 for any tax year, or $100,000 in the case of a joint return [I.R.C. § 1244(b)].

§ 6I.111 Common Stock

1. Consider advantages and disadvantages of using common stock (basic or residual equity securities) rather than debt securities as principal financing tool from viewpoint of corporation [see also § 6I.200[1]].

a. Advantages:
(1) Cost to corporation is minimal in that no fixed payments of dividends or interest at stated intervals is required; this will improve corporation's credit.

(2) Sale is absolute and final; i.e., corporation is not required to return investment as with debt securities.

(3) Use of stock for initial financing facilitates debt financing at later stage when corporation can better afford to issue debt securities.

(4) Superior to preferred stock with fixed, cumulative divided rights since obligations to meet fixed dividends may be burdensome.

(5) Minimizes risk that corporation may run of being undercapitalized or having too high a ratio of debt to equity securities.

PRACTICE TIP:
For a corporation with high growth prospects, the issuance of common stock may be a more expensive means of raising capital, from the perspective of the corporation's current shareholders, than the issuance of preferred stock or debt since the current shareholders' percentage interest in the corporation will be reduced. On the other hand, this is likely to be the only means of raising capital for an unseasoned corporation or a corporation without an established or certain income stream. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

b. Disadvantages.

(1) Offers little attraction to prospective investors other than corporate organizers, unless corporation has high growth prospects.

(2) Dividend payments on common or preferred stocks are taxed twice while interest payments on debt securities are tax deductible to corporation.

2. If company is going to have to raise outside capital, look at advantages and disadvantages of common stock from potential investors' point of view.

a. Advantages.

(1) Unlimited right to share in residue of profits.

NOTE:
Although common shareholders have only a residual right to dividends, after payment to preferred shareholders, amount remaining for distribution may be substantially greater than that distributed to preferred shareholders.

(2) Growth in value through their right to share in accumulated assets belonging to corporation at time of dissolution.

(3) Shareholders are granted right to exercise substantial control over corporate affairs through election of corporate directors.

b. Disadvantages.

(1) Exposed to maximum risk of loss; if corporation fails, there is little likelihood of recouping investment after claims of creditors and preferred shareholders have been met.

(2) Right to share in profits; i.e., dividend rights, is less attractive than dividend rights of preferred shareholders or right to interest payment of debt securities holders.

(a) Generally, dividends may be distributed only if there are sufficient earnings, or where various accounting tests are adequately satisfied [see Corp. Code §§ 500-503], while debt securities must be paid when due.

(b) Claim of common shareholder to dividends may be junior to that of preferred shareholder.

NOTE:
Unless dividends are declared by the board of directors, the corporation is not obligated to pay or accumulate them for common shareholders. In the case of preferred shareholders, on the other hand, the most widespread and commonly used preferred issues are those of cumulative preferred stock which entitles its holder to the accrual and receipt of all unpaid dividends, before any dividend distribution is made to holders of common stock.

(c) Uncertain dividend distribution.

NOTE:

Retention of profits by the corporation to foster growth is common, especially in its incipient stages with the consequence that common shareholders must ordinarily resign themselves to deferred dividend distribution. Preferred shareholders, however, are usually afforded certain protections against restrictions or deferment.

3. Determine if corporation should issue class or classes of nonvoting common stock.

NOTE:

Issuance of nonvoting common stock can be desirable because of the usefulness of nonvoting common stock in business and estate planning for the close corporation. For example, it allows the promoters to obtain additional venture capital without relinquishing control of the corporation. It is also permissible for the corporation to confer special voting rights on shares of any class, as, to confer voting rights on a particular class with respect to matters not usually subject to a shareholder vote. This kind of flexibility is especially appropriate for the closely held corporation.

§ 6I.112 Preferred Stock

1. Consider advantages and disadvantages of preferred stock from corporation's point of view.

NOTE:
For discussion of advantages and disadvantages from investors' point of view, see Cavitch, Business Organizations with Tax Planning, Ch. 88, Equity Financing, § 88.05 (Matthew Bender); see also §§ 6I.200, 6I.201.

a. Advantages.
(1) Vehicle for distribution of risk, control, and participation among corporate insiders.

NOTE:
Preferred stock is best suited to situations in which there are two groups of principals, one furnishing the capital and the other the operational skills. The first group ordinarily is interested in receiving the greater share of the profits, but is content to leave the actual operation of the business to the managing group, as long as the members of the capital group retain sufficient control to safeguard their investment. The management group will want at least an equal voice in running the business and an opportunity to share in long-range profits. The interests of these groups can be reconciled by both taking an equal amount of common stock, with the group furnishing the capital receiving, in addition, preferred shares in consideration of the greater investment. When this is done, the capital group obtains a steady return on its investment, commensurate with the amount it has invested, and since the preferred issue will have only limited (or no) voting rights, the two groups will have equal control over corporate operations.

(2) Attracts outside investors who would not be interested in common stock because of high risk factor.

NOTE:
This will also enable the corporation, if a publicly held company, to raise money from a wider circle such as institutions and trustees who are not permitted to buy common stock but who desire a higher yield than ordinarily afforded by bonds.

(3) Organizers of the corporation will retain control since preferred shares usually have limited voting rights.

PRACTICE TIP:
In certain circumstances, the holders of the preferred stock may insist on full voting rights or may insist on voting on the same matters as holders of common stock, but with a different number of votes than those of the common shareholders (i.e., each share of preferred stock may be entitled to 1/10 of a vote per share, while each share of common stock is entitled to one vote per share; or the preferred stock could be given a voting preference, such as 10 votes per share compared to one vote per share for the common stock). Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

(4) Advantages over debt financing:

(a) No obligation to return money invested, unless the preferred stock is redeemable at option of holder or on occurrence of certain specified events.

(b) Paves way for later use of debt financing at a time when corporation can use it as less expensive method of capitalization.

b. Disadvantages.

(1) High dividend payments.

(2) May result in deferment of (or no) dividend distributions on common stock.

(3) Transfer of at least some control to preferred shareholders.

NOTE:
This could occur if corporation fails to pay preferred dividends. It could be detrimental, from the perspective of common shareholders, because preferred shareholders are not particularly concerned with running the business and are principally concerned with their fixed dividend payments and, therefore, are likely to sacrifice long-term growth potentialities for immediate dividend yield.

2. Consider whether corporation's contemplated earnings will be substantially higher than dividend requirements of preferred shares.

NOTE:
Preferred shares should be issued only if the corporation's contemplated earnings will be substantially higher than the dividend requirements of the preferred shares. Although dividends are to be paid only when earned, the burden on the corporation to pay the fixed dividends on preferred shares is, as a practical matter, similar to its obligation to pay interest on debt securities, in view of the cumulative dividend feature of most preferred issues.

PRACTICE TIP:

Failure to make dividend payments on preferred stock when due is frequently treated as an event of default in debt securities or bank credit agreements. This may make the issuance of preferred stock unattractive to corporations with an uncertain income stream. One way to deal with this issue is to limit the requirement to make dividend payments to circumstances in which certain financial requirements have been met (i.e., preferred stock is entitled to payment of dividends based on a percentage of net earnings above a specified amount, but not otherwise). In this instance, preferred shareholders share many of the same risks as common shareholders, but will have a preference in payment of dividends. The amount of the dividend payment, when required to be made, will typically be higher than that payable on preferred shares with more customary terms to compensate the preferred shareholders for the greater risk of non-payment. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

3. If preferred shares are to be issued, decide on rights, preferences, privileges, and restrictions of securities to be issued.

NOTE:

The term "preferred," standing alone, means only a stock that differs from other stock in having a preference as to dividends or on liquidation of assets [see Corp. Code §§ 159, 176] attached to it, without expressing the special nature of the stock otherwise. Thus, it is necessary that all the incidents of a given issue be expressly provided. Common shares may also be given any of these same or other incidents, except for the financial preferences [see Corp. Code § 159].

PRACTICE TIP:

In lieu of establishing the terms of the preferred shares, the articles of incorporation may grant the directors "blanket" authority to establish the terms of preferred shares in the future. This enables the corporation to determine the features of the preferred stock in light of market conditions at the time of issuance, without obtaining approval of the corporation's shareholders. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

a. Cumulative or noncumulative dividends?

(1) If dividends are cumulative and not paid when due, all past due dividends must be paid before any dividend distributions can be made to common shareholders; nonpayment of dividends in a certain year does not destroy preferred shareholders' right to receive that dividend.

(2) If dividends are noncumulative and directors fail to declare a dividend, preferred shareholder has neither present right to claim dividend nor future right to demand payment of that unpaid dividend.

(3) Various types of hybrid arrangements exist, such as "cumulative, if earned" (provides that dividends cumulate if not paid in years in which corporation has sufficient earnings to warrant payment).

(4) If corporation decides to reinvest profits and not declare dividend, holder of preferred shares with cumulative dividend rights can safeguard his interest, while holder of shares without cumulative dividend rights is unprotected.

NOTE:
For this reason noncumulative preferred stock is seldom used in initial capitalization. If noncumulative preferred stock is used at all, it is generally in a corporate reorganization as a substitute for existing cumulative issues.

(5) If dividend is cumulative, consider insuring payment.

(a) Possible methods by which corporation can eliminate dividend arrearages at expense of preferred shareholders:
(i) Issuance of new prior preferred security in exchange for existing preferred shares.

(ii) By merger or consolidation.

PRACTICE TIP:
Changes in the rights and preferences of outstanding securities, an exchange of securities, a merger must, or entity conversion transaction be qualified in California, unless an exemption is available [Corp. Code § 25120]. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

(b) Preferred shareholder can best anticipate and minimize effects of merger or issuance of prior security by insisting on limited voting rights, thus necessitating preferred shareholder consent through class voting to the extent not otherwise required by California law.

(c) Corporation can grant preferred shareholders voting rights or even voting control if dividends go in arrears in excess of certain amount or for certain period of time.

b. Participating or nonparticipating?

(1) Participating preferred stock (whether or not cumulative) is entitled to share in all dividend and capital distributions, not only in its stipulated dividend.

(2) Types:

(a) Full participation on same basis as common stock.

(b) Limited participation: after receipt of fixed dividend, limited participation in further dividend distributions either with regard to number or amount.

(c) No participation; restricted solely to receipt of fixed dividend.

(3) Nonparticipating preferred stock is generally used.

NOTE:
This last alternative is usually justified on the grounds that the primary attraction of preferred stock is its relative insulation from risk, and thus should not be entitled to participation rights equal to common stock, on which the burden of risk of diminution in value due to any corporate losses first falls. This is based on the principle that preferred shareholders should not be permitted to share in excess earnings of the corporation when their risk of loss is limited.

c. Voting rights?

(1) Unless articles provide otherwise, all stock, preferred as well as common, has full voting rights [Corp. Code § 700(a)].

(2) If less than full voting rights are to be given, articles must expressly state the qualifications and restrictions on voting powers [Corp. Code § 700(a)].

(3) Nonvoting stock may not be used when:

(a) Corporation elects to be taxed as Subchapter S corporation [see I.R.C. § 1362(a); see also Ch. 2B, Electing Subchapter S Status].

(b) Corporation is issuing shares under small offering exemption from qualification of local securities law [see Corp. Code § 25102(h); see also Ch. 6C, California Small Offering Exemption].

(c) Corporation is organized under Investment Company Act of 1940.

NOTE:
The Investment Company Act requires, in most instances, that all new issues have voting rights [15 U.S.C. § 80a-18(i), (j)].

(d) Corporations reorganizing under Bankruptcy Act [11 U.S.C. § 1101 et seq.].

(e) Corporation intends to sell its preferred shares on a securities exchange.

NOTE:
Most securities exchanges require that certain voting rights be granted to preferred shareholders before they will agree to list the stock.

(f) Corporation must qualify shares with Commissioner of Corporations, in which case preferred shareholders ordinarily must have at least right to reasonable representation on board when cumulative default has occurred (eight quarterly dividends, not necessarily consecutive) [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.2; see also Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities].

NOTE:
The right to elect a majority of the members of the Board is presumptively reasonable.

(4) Even nonvoting stock or stock with limited voting rights will be entitled to vote on following matters [Corp. Code § 903(a)]:

(a) With certain limited exceptions, any increase or decrease in authorized shares of any class of stock.

(b) Any exchange, reclassification or cancellation of all or part of the shares of any class of stock, including a reverse stock split.

(c) Any exchange or creation of a right of exchange of all or part of the shares of another class into shares of any other class of stock.

(d) Creation of a new class of shares having rights, preferences or privileges prior to shares of any other class of stock or any increase in rights, preferences or privileges or the number of authorized shares of any class having rights, preferences or privileges prior to any other class of stock.

(e) In case of preferred stock, division of that class of preferred stock into a series having different rights, preferences, privileges or restrictions or authorizing board of the corporation to do so.

(f) Cancellation of, or otherwise affecting, dividends on shares of any class that have accrued but not been paid.

(5) California also limits ability to create supermajority voting rights.

NOTE:

A supermajority voting right refers to any requirement that a specified corporate action be approved by more than a majority of the outstanding shares or by more than a majority of the outstanding shares of any class or series [Corp. Code § 710(b)]. The restrictions apply to any corporation with shares held of record by 100 or more shareholders which files an amendment to its articles of incorporation or any certificate of determination after January 1, 1989, unless the corporation files the amendment after December 31, 1993 and the corporation has (1) outstanding shares of more than one class or series; (2) no class of equity securities registered under Section 12(b) or 12(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934; and (3) outstanding shares held by fewer than 300 persons of record [Corp. Code § 710(a)]. If the supermajority vote provisions apply, no supermajority vote may be required which requires approval of more than 2/3 of the outstanding shares or more than 2/3 of the outstanding shares of any class or series [Corp. Code § 710(b)]. In addition, an amendment of the articles or a certificate of determination that includes a supermajority vote requirement must be approved by at least as large a proportion of the outstanding shares [Corp. Code § 152] as is required pursuant to that amendment or certificate of determination for the approval of the specified corporate action or actions [Corp. Code § 710(c)].

(6) Reasons for limiting vote:

(a) Avoidance of possible conflict between preferred shareholders and organizers of corporation.

NOTE:

The usual primary concern of preferred shareholders is the immediate dividend potential of the corporation, whereas the organizers of the business are interested in enhancing the corporation's long-term potential. An accommodation can be reached by giving preferred shareholders contingent voting rights that protect them in the event of defaults in dividend payment or attempts to wipe out their rights to accrued dividends.

(b) Establishment of capital structure affording equality of control to majority and minority investors and, at same time, insure receipt of proportionate share of profits by large investors.

NOTE:

This is useful when the parties who supply a substantial majority of the corporation's capital are "silent" owners, whereas the parties who have the special skills required to operate the business contribute only enough capital to purchase a minority interest. In such a case the majority investor can divide the investment between preferred and common stock so that only enough of the investment is placed in common stock to balance the minority investors' investment, and the remainder is placed in preferred stock to assure a fair return in the form of dividends.

d. Redemption and sinking funds?

(1) Determine whether to include redemption provisions.

NOTE:

Many preferred share issues contain express provisions by which the corporation is given an option to redeem the issue. The purpose of these provisions is to allow the corporation to rid itself of burden imposed in meeting a high preferential dividend. Redemption is usually sought at the time the corporation has become financially stable and can either do without the capital represented by the preferred shares or can substitute lower cost debt securities in their stead.

PRACTICE TIP:

There are, however, some disadvantages associated with mandatorily redeemable preferred stock or preferred stock that is redeemable at any time at the option of the corporation. First, investors may require a higher redemption premium than would be applicable to preferred stock with some call protection. Secondly, since this type of preferred stock is not permanent capital, creditors may not treat this type of preferred stock as equity for purposes of calculating compliance with financial covenants. This type of preferred stock may not therefore be appropriate for a thinly capitalized corporation. Third, with respect to mandatorily redeemable preferred stock, the corporation may not have the funds necessary (or legally available funds) to redeem the preferred stock at the time redemption is required [see Corp. Code §§ 500-503]. As a result, preferred stock that is redeemable at specified times may only be appropriate for corporations with stable income streams. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

(2) Determine whether redemption is to be:

(a) At option of board of directors (callable shares); or

(b) At specified time or occurrence of specified event, or

(c) Both.

(3) Determine redemption price, amount of which will vary depending on market requirements, and which may be reduced periodically over the years (e.g., for preferred shares costing $100, redemption price of $105 for first period may be reduced to $104 after five years, $102.50 after next five years, and $101 thereafter).

NOTE:

Alternatively the redemption premium may be expressed as a "make-whole" premium. In this case, the premium is based on the difference between the rate on the preferred stock and the market rate at the time of redemption determined on the basis of a prescribed index discounted to present value based on a specified discount rate and discount period. The purpose of the "make-whole" premium is to ensure the investor that it will receive the benefit of its bargain.

(4) Determine whether shares will be subject to any call protection (i.e., shares may not be redeemed during the first five years after issuance).

NOTE:

The articles may provide that the redemption price for shares called by the board of directors and the price for shares redeemed under a sinking fund system will vary. For preferred shares in a series, the redemption price for each series is set by the articles or the board of directors if so authorized by the articles [see Corp. Code §§ 202(e), 400(a), 402(a)].

(5) Determine any limitations on right of corporation to redeem shares, such as when dividends on other shares have not been paid.

(6) Determine method for choosing shares for partial redemption of a class or series, such as pro rata (i.e., based on ratio that the number of shares of each holder bears to total number of shares to be redeemed), or by lot in equitable manner as determined by board of directors.

(7) Determine terms of any sinking or retirement fund provision:

NOTE:

Sinking or retirement funds are established to make redemption of shares more certain and provide a means of systematic liquidation of the class or series. Inclusion of a sinking fund provision may be required by the investment bankers who are to sell the issue in order to improve the quality of the security over the years. The articles of incorporation may provide for the setting aside of a sinking fund [see Corp. Code § 402(d)] or funds out of earnings or otherwise for any year or years or by an amount sufficient to redeem a specified percentage or number of shares, to be applied to the purchase or redemption of shares in the manner specified for optional redemption.

(a) Year in which payments to sinking fund are to commence and payment date for each payment

NOTE:

Payment dates are usually at the beginning of the corporation's fiscal year.

(b) Amount to be contributed for each period based on percentage of net earnings of corporation or amount designed to redeem specified percentage or number of shares.

(c) Source of funds for contribution, such as any money legally available for that purpose, or more restricted source.

PRACTICE TIP:

Redemption is treated as a distribution under California law [Corp. Code § 166]. As a result, the tests applicable to the determination of whether dividends may be paid are also applicable to the determination of whether funds are legally available for the redemption of the company's securities [Corp. Code §§ 500-503]. The corporation may, however, remove the protections afforded by Corp. Code §§ 502 and 503 in establishing the terms of the preferred stock with respect to distributions on shares junior to the series of preferred stock being created [Corp. Code §402.5(c)]. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

(d) Cumulative or noncumulative requirement of setting aside funds for each period.

(e) Mechanics of making payment and earmarking funds.

(f) Credit against fund for shares acquired other than through fund.

(g) Price for acquisition of shares out of sinking fund.

(h) Purposes for use of fund, such as purchase of shares on market or redemption.

(i) Date for use of funds, such as definite or indefinite period after date of payment into fund.

(j) Limitation on minimum number or percentage of shares to be acquired during each period.

e. Liquidation preference?

NOTE:

Granting of preference on liquidation can be an important inducement to investors to purchase preferred shares. Because dissolution is often brought about by the insolvency of the corporation, with few or no assets remaining after the creditors have been paid off, the right to a preference at dissolution may often be meaningless. Nevertheless, it may have a "sales value." A liquidation preference may also provide some protection to outside investors in a participating preferred stock from a voluntary dissolution of the corporation by the insiders and a formation of a new corporation to conduct the business of the dissolved corporation at a time at which the prospects of the corporation have become attractive.

(1) Determine whether or not to grant preference.

(2) Determine conditions under which preference applies (usually "voluntary or involuntary liquidation, dissolution, or winding-up of affairs of corporation") with statement of events in which preference does not apply, such as consolidation or merger, or lease or conveyance of all or part of corporation's assets.

(3) Determine extent to which preference in payment on liquidation will include dividend arrearages.

NOTE:

There is usually no liquidation preference for noncumulative shares (or, at most, dividends earned but not paid), but there is full payment of all arrearages, whether earned or not, for cumulative preferred shares [see Corp. Code § 172].

(4) Determine liquidation price:

(a) Amount of liquidation price after dividends are paid.

(b) Whether price is to be in cash rather than property.

(c) whether there is to be distinction in amount of price depending on whether dissolution is involuntary or voluntary (latter may add premium over involuntary price).

(5) Determine extent to which, if at all, preferred shares will participate with common shares after payment of liquidation price.

NOTE:

This will usually be the same basis for participation as in the case of dividend payments, that is,

- Full and immediate participation on a share-for-share or dollar basis;
- Full participation after common stock has received certain amount;
- Limited participation up to a dollar amount, or a percentage of the total remaining assets to be distributed; or
- No participation, which is the most common provision.

(6) Determine whether to provide for pro rata payment to various series of preferred shares if assets are not sufficient to pay full liquidation payments, in ratio of total amount due to each series for both dividend arrearages and liquidation payments.

NOTE:

If the convertible preferred stock must be qualified in California, the conversion price must be fair and equitable under the circumstances and must contain an appropriate antidilution provision providing for adjustment of the number of shares into which the preferred stock is convertible on any stock split, stock dividend or recapitalization of the corporation. Provision may also be made for an antidilution adjustment on issuance of additional shares of the class issuable on conversion by the issuer at a price less than the conversion price or less than the current market price for the class so issuable [10 Cal. Code Reg. §260.140.6]. Certain types of stock issuances, such as issuances of stock under employee benefit plans, may be excluded from this type of adjustment.

f. Conversion privilege?

NOTE:

"Conversion rights" of shares are rights whereby the shares may be converted into the same or a different number of shares of any other class or series. Rights of the preferred shareholders to convert their shares into common shares must be fixed by the articles [Corp. Code § 403(a)]. A sufficient number of common shares should initially be authorized and reserved to accommodate the conversion. The corporation should be advised, however, that the conversion privilege creates several problems with respect to compliance with federal and state securities laws and careful planning is necessary to avoid violation of those laws. Similarly, other corporate considerations must be taken into account. For example, if retention of control is a major consideration, it is important that the conversion price be determined in order to have the control remain with the original common shareholders; that is, the number of voting shares into which convertible shares are convertible should not exceed the number of voting shares outstanding at the time the convertible securities are issued.

Options may be separately considered for similar purposes. They do not affect the present shares and require consideration to procure extra securities; otherwise, they are processed with like effect as conversion [see § 6I.240].

(1) Determine date and duration of conversion rights.

NOTE:

Most commonly, when shares are redeemable, the time limits are between the notice of redemption and the redemption date, but other or no limitations may be specified.

(2) Determine requirements for notice to elect to convert or conditions for automatic conversion.

(3) Determine conversion price or rate, which is usually expressed as a ratio; e.g., one share of preferred stock for two shares of common stock.

(4) Determine authorization for issuance of fractional shares, scrip, or cash in event exchange does not come out even [see § 6I.204].

(5) Determine adjustment of conversion price when changes, such as stock-splits or exchange of securities, made in capital structure of issuer.

NOTE:

For shares that must be qualified, the Commissioner of Corporations requires that the charter documents contain an antidilution provision to protect the preferred or creditor conversion and option participants, proportionately increasing the share they are to receive in event of any additional issuance of shares to outstanding shareholders, or on sale of shares below the price to be paid by the holders of the special incidents on exercise [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.6].

(6) Determine status of preferred shares after conversion and whether there will be prohibition against reissuance.

NOTE:

When a corporation acquires its own shares, they are restored to the status of authorized but unissued shares. If the articles prohibit the reissue of reacquired shares, then the authorized number of shares of the kind so acquired must be reduced and a formal amendment of the articles must be appropriately effected [Corp. Code § 510]. If the blanket prohibition is not contained within the articles, then the corporation may wish to include specific language within the conversion contract for the permanent retirement or cancellation of the shares being reacquired on exercise of the privilege.

(7) Determine date when preferred shareholder becomes common shareholder.

NOTE:

This date is usually the date of surrender of the preferred shares.

(8) Determine manner of providing for authorization and reservation of common shares sufficient to cover conversion.

NOTE:

When shares are issued in a series, the conversion rates will usually vary from series to series and will be stated in the articles.

If, at the time the corporation grants option or conversion rights, it is not authorized by its articles to issue all the shares required to satisfy those rights, the additional number of shares required must be authorized by an amendment to the articles if and when the rights are exercised [Corp. Code § 405(a)].

(9) Determine whether to provide for "upstream conversions"; that is, conversion into shares having prior or superior rights and preferences as to dividends or liquidation distribution.

NOTE:
Upstream conversions are valid, if provided for by the articles [see Corp. Code § 403(a)].

4. Determine whether to issue preferred shares in series.

a. Advantageous to corporation contemplating fulfilling its future financing needs by sale of preferred stock over long period of time under varying market conditions.

b. Assures that directors will have needed authority to sell additional preferred shares at future date without having to submit their decision to shareholders for approval.

§ 6I.114 Allocation of Control and Investment Risk

[1] Corporation Deriving Initial Capital Solely From Organizers

NOTE:
The formulation of a capital structure for a corporation that does not initially seek outside capital should be designed to protect the interests of its organizer-investors to the fullest extent possible with respect to risk, control, and participation in profits.

1. If minimization of investor risk of loss is goal, consider use of following:

a. Debt securities, or, less preferably, preferred shares.

NOTE:
However, Section 1244 stock [see I.R.C. § 1244] is often better protection than debt securities because if there is a loss, it is an ordinary loss rather than a capital loss [see § 6I.21].

b. Shareholders' agreements [see Ch. 8C, Close Corporation Shareholder Agreements].

PRACTICE TIP:
Shareholders' agreements should be carefully drafted to take into account likely future events since changes in shareholders' agreements are changes in the rights, preferences and privileges of the stock which must be qualified under Corp. Code § 25120, unless the transaction is exempt [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.017.2]. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

c. Employment agreements between corporation and organizers.

d. Maintenance with organizers of means of controlling corporate affairs.

2. If assurance of control is goal, determine how to structure transaction to assure control by appropriate parties.

a. For a large corporation:

(1) Organizers will be assured of retaining control, subject to any fiduciary duties they may owe to minority shareholders, if they, as a unit, own over one half of outstanding common shares.

(2) To retain control, they must prevent dilution of unit's voting powers by:
(a) Having straight voting, rather than cumulative voting, if permitted under California law [see Corp. Code §§ 301.5, 708, 708.5].

(b) If corporation is private corporation, using voting trusts whenever possible [see Ch. 8B, Voting Agreements and Voting Trusts].

NOTE:
Voting trusts are uncommon if the corporation's securities are publicly traded because of market considerations and restrictions imposed by the rules of the national securities exchanges.

(c) If securities are to be sold to outsiders, selling only nonvoting securities.

b. For a moderately sized corporation:

NOTE:
The following provisions should be employed if the organizers are to invest unequal amounts but the investor of the smaller amount insists on equal control with the larger investor. Both interests ordinarily can be accommodated with these provisions.

(1) Issue preferred shares in series with limited voting rights for one series and full voting rights for the other series.

(2) Issue preferred shares with class or contingent voting rights.

(3) Issue more than one class of shares in conjunction with a disproportionate voting plan.

(4) Prepare shareholders' agreement providing for equal voting rights.

(5) Provide for preemptive rights.

NOTE:
Cumulative voting rights provided by California law are also useful in this circumstance [see Corp. Code §§ 301.5, 708, 708.5].

3. Determine whether shares will be subject to any call protection (i.e., shares may not be redeemed for a period of five years after the date of issuance).

[2] Corporation That Will Seek Outside Capital for Initial Financing

1. Determine overall capital structure that will permit insiders to:

a. Retain fullest possible control.

b. Be assured of:
(1) Maximum participation in profits.

(2) Minimal exposure to:
(a) Risk of loss.

(b) Liability for taxes.

2. Determine what securities should be used to attract outside investors, taking into account following factors:

NOTE:
The corporation should offer for sale to outsiders only those securities that would be least likely to cause hardship either to the corporation, its organizers, or both.

a. Available market for securities.

b. Requisite compliance with federal and state securities laws.

c. Particular type of financing indicated by past, present, and anticipated earnings.

d. Whether it is feasible for owners to sacrifice any of their control (voting power) over corporate affairs.

NOTE:
If that is possible, common equity financing may be used.

e. Overall cost of each security to organizers and corporation.

f. Effect of particular type of financing on future borrowing.

AUTHOR: Marilyn Minger Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6I.115 Share Structure of Corporation

1. Determine aggregate number of shares that corporation will have authority to issue.

NOTE:
It is customary to authorize a much larger number of shares than the incorporators actually intend to issue.

2. Determine whether shares will constitute one class or more than one class.

NOTE:
When a single type of stock is offered, it will automatically contain the basic elements of common voting stock [see Corp. Code § 400]. However, there are many different ways in which the board can differentiate stock into particular classes or series having different characteristics.

A combination of Class (or Series) "A" nonvoting and "B" voting is not currently favored; it is normally not allowed on a qualified offering of common stock [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.1]. Preferential clauses or series are still most familiar to those who wish to invest in other than stock representing risk ownership.

3. If shares are to be divided into more than one class, determine:

a. Number of shares of each class.

PRACTICE TIP:

If insufficient numbers of shares of preferred stock have been authorized by the corporation's shareholders, the corporation may wish to issue depositary receipts in lieu of issuing preferred stock directly. A depositary receipt entitles the holder to acquire less than one preferred share (i.e., the depositary receipt may represent 1/100 of a share of preferred stock). Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

b. Designation of each class.

c. Distinguishing characteristics (i.e., rights, preferences privileges, and restrictions) [see § 6I.13].

4. If there will be shares of preferred or special classes, determine characteristics of each class, such as [see § 6I.112]:

a. Shares redeemable at option of corporation (but not at option of holder) at redemption price fixed by articles.

b. Shares entitling holders to cumulative, noncumulative, or partially cumulative dividends.

c. Shares having dividend preference.

d. Shares having liquidation preference.

e. Convertible shares.

5. If shares of preferred or other special class are to be divided into and issued in series, determine relative rights, preferences, privileges, and restrictions among series such as:

a. Dividend rates and payment dates.

b. Redemption rights (price, terms, and conditions).

c. Liquidation rights.

d. Sinking fund requirements.

e. Conversion privileges.

f. Voting power.

6. Decide whether to issue promotional or partially paid shares [Corp. Code § 409(d)].

NOTE:
"Promotional shares" are securities issued as follows [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.30]:

- In consideration for services rendered in connection with the founding or organizing of a business enterprise;

- To a promoter in consideration for tangible or intangible property to the extent that the value has not been satisfactorily established; or

- To a promoter in the recent past or proposed to be issued at a price substantially lower than the price at which other securities of the same class (or substantially similar class) have been or are to be sold without any change in market conditions or in the issuer's circumstances that would justify a different price.

In connection with the financing of an unseasoned corporation, a reasonable number of promotional shares may be issued; presumptively, a number that does not exceed 25 percent of all common shares issued and proposed to be issued is reasonable [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.31(a); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.31(c) (normally, promotional shares are prohibited in offerings by seasoned corporations)].

§ 6I.116 Issues in Connection With Qualification

1. If offering must be qualified in California, and preferred stock will be non-cumulative, non-participating, and will not have full voting rights, give preferred stock the following features [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.2]:

a. Dividends must be cumulative.

b. No dividends may be paid on common stock when payments on preferred stock are in arrears

c. Provision must be made for written consent of a specified percentage of preferred shares on any matter that would adversely affect rights of preferred shareholders and on issuance of any shares having a priority over preferred shares.

d. Restrictions must be made on payment of dividends on common stock.

e. Right to elect Board members if eight or more quarterly dividend payments are in arrears must be provided [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.2].

2. If corporation is seasoned corporation proposing to sell securities that are nonparticipating and nonconvertible on a fair and equitable basis, determine whether it can show ability to meet proposed dividend and sinking fund requirements, if any, on all of its securities outstanding and proposed to be issued, based on [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.10]:

NOTE:

A corporation is a seasoned corporation if the corporation has been conducting bona fide operations either directly or through a predecessor for a period of more than two years and has been operating at a profit for at least one of the last three years [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.001(g)]. All other corporations are unseasoned corporations.

a. Its previous earnings or cash-flow history; or

b. Demonstrated future earnings or cash flow capacity.

3. If corporation is unseasoned corporation selling securities pursuant to an open qualification, make certain that preferred stock either [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.9]:

NOTE:

An "open qualification" is a qualification that authorizes the offer and sale of securities to the public generally, without restriction as to persons or classes of persons [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.001(f)]. An unseasoned corporation, however, may sell preferred stock that does not meet the following standards to its existing security holders on a pro rata basis [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.9].

a. Is convertible into common stock on a fair and equitable basis, or

b. Is fully participating and non-redeemable.

§ 6I.130 Preparing Equity Security Documents for Board of Directors

1. Collate into appropriate format all market and other technical data reports on financing prospects.

NOTE:
All matters of expert information to be presented to the board regarding pricing of securities or valuation of property should be written out prior to the meeting, and copies distributed to all members of the board at least several days before the meeting.

2. Create program agenda of speakers placing financing proposals before board.

NOTE:
Private investors may need to make formal presentations before the board in relation to their potential investment. They may be insiders formally arguing for acceptance of their nonmonetary consideration, or arguing against or expanding on technical data to be brought before the board in regard to shares in which the investor may be interested. They may be outside sophisticated investors who have acquired information as to the possibility of participation in the new organization, who appear in order to argue for inclusion in the investment scheme. Speakers also may be professional licensed brokers or underwriters appearing in order to explain the type of contract for services they are offering, or to bid for acting as agent for the corporation in a particular capacity. The corporation's attorney may wish to outline tax or securities regulation considerations.

3. Outline proposed minutes, including alternative forms of resolutions providing for execution of complete plan of issuance [see Ch. 5, Directors' Meetings, Actions, and Resolutions].

§ 6I.131 Adopting Formal Resolutions Necessary to Issuance

1. Take full notes of meeting for purposes of minutes.

NOTE:
The discussion that takes place during the meeting on issuance of securities can be of vital importance for management, accountants, and government regulatory supervisory agencies such as securities and taxing authorities. Securities provisions implemented by an organizing corporation may be ambiguous when viewed in the later context of development of the enterprise. It is helpful to have a clear and complete exposition of the official corporate thinking behind any particular proposal as of the date on which it was adopted.

2. Have board decide on appropriate amount of authorized shares to issue [Corp. Code § 400(a); see § 6I.210 (resolution)].

NOTE:
The amount of authorized shares designated in the articles is the highest aggregate total of any particular class or series calculated to suit the corporation's convenience for the indefinite future [see Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation]. The board must calculate the most feasible amount it can presently issue and be able to sell in the market currently available, since qualification by the Commissioner is generally for a one-year period. It may also be necessary to coordinate adoption of appropriate resolutions with provisions of the articles allowing the board to determine particular preferences and other special incidents of specified classes or series [Corp. Code § 401; see Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation]. The board must consider all known as well as unknown investors, and decide whether to make the offering a private or public one. Federal securities regulations are an important consideration if the offering will not be registered; the offering must be adequately controlled to assure that it will be purely directed to ultimate intrastate residents or to members of a wholly private composition [see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations].

PRACTICE TIP:

If insufficient numbers of shares of preferred stock have been authorized by the corporation's shareholders, the corporation may wish to issue depositary receipts in lieu of issuing preferred stock directly. A depositary receipt entitles the holder to acquire less than one preferred share (i.e., the depositary receipt may represent 1/100 of a share of preferred stock). Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

3. Have board select classes or series to be offered [Corp. Code § 400; see §§ 6I.200, 6I.201].

NOTE:

The board must consider what special incidents should be attached to each type of series to correspond with the scheme of financing and control adopted to employ such different offerings, either by choosing certain shares authorized by the articles or through certifying its determination as to such preferences [see Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation].

4. Prepare resolution authorizing issuance of shares and specifying rights, preferences, privileges, and restrictions of different types of shares to be issued [Corp. Code § 400; see § 6I.210].

5. If offerees or proposed purchasers are known, have board adopt resolution identifying them [see § 6I.211].

6. Have board adopt resolution approving the form of the share certificate, if one will be used [see § 6I.212].

7. If appropriate, have board adopt resolution authorizing issuance of appropriate options or warrants [Corp. Code § 404; see §§ 6I.250, 6I.251].

NOTE:

For reasons related to inducing the sale, either because of a low market or a desire to minimize high-yield characteristics of securities to be offered, the board may attach various types of option rights to purchase specified securities in the future, or conversion rights to enable securities presently being sold to be exchanged for specified other securities at some future time [see § 6I.240].

8. Have board adopt resolution specifying type of consideration to be received [Corp. Code § 409(a)(1); see § 6I.220].

9. If nonmonetary consideration will be accepted, have board adopt resolution determining fair value of that consideration [Corp. Code § 409(e); see § 6I.221].

NOTE:

Different standards of evaluation may have to be applied in regard to different types of property. However, each should be translated into equivalent cash value, and where below the cash price of shares being offered, it should be required that a cash differential be included to make up the full amount of the originally slated offering price.

10. If appropriate, have board pass resolutions:

a. Limiting selling expenses [see § 6I.222].

b. Authorizing issuance of appropriate number of promotional shares to promoters [see § 6I.224].

11. If appropriate, have board adopt resolution authorizing issuance of partially paid stock [Corp. Code § 409(d); see § 6I.223].

12. Have board adopt resolutions with respect to compliance with applicable securities laws:

a. Resolution authorizing officers to file notice of qualification or exemption under California law [see § 6I.230].

b. Resolution authorizing application for sale of securities under law of other states [see § 6I.231].

c. Resolution authorizing filing of registration statement of notification under federal securities laws with SEC [see § 6I.232].

§ 6I.132 Issuing Shares

1. Comply with all applicable federal and state securities laws prior to offering or selling securities [see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues].

a. Federal requirements administered by Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) [see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations].

b. California requirements administered by Department of Corporations [see Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions ; Ch. 6C, California Small Offering Exemption ; Ch. 6D, California Qualified Purchaser Exemptions ; Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities].

c. Requirements of other states or jurisdictions in which securities are to be offered and/or sold [see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues, §§ 6.70, 6.71].

2. Prepare subscription agreements or sales contracts to accommodate desired stock purchasing procedures [see §§ 6I.260-6I.263].

3. Comply with all conditions and limitations imposed by regulatory authorities with respect to offering, selling, marketing, and advertising securities.

NOTE:
These limitations depend on the requirements of the securities laws or exemptions being relied on by the corporation, and are discussed in detail in the chapters referred to in P 1, above.

4. Issue equity share certificates [see §§ 6I.200, 6I.201] (or initial transaction statements if alternative system of uncertificated securities is used) to purchasers on receipt of full purchase price.

NOTE:

The certificate or transaction statement must contain all appropriate legends and statements required by applicable federal and state law; for discussion, see §§ 6I.200, 6I.201].

PART IV. FORMS
A. Share Certificates

3-6I California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 6I.200

AUTHOR: Marilyn Minger Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6I.200 Common Share Certificate

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form illustrates the face and reverse sides of a share certificate for common stock. There are no statutory requirements as to the physical character of the certificate, which may range from a simple typewritten sheet of ordinary paper to a baroquely engraved sheet of parchment. Most small companies employ printed certificates with blanks for corporate name and seal, holder's name, and the like. These are often sold as part of a "corporation kit" that includes a seal and perhaps bylaws and organizational minutes. The latter type of certificate needs to be supplemented with special provisions like transfer restrictions and other matters required to appear on the certificate in California. If the certificate is to be traded on a stock exchange, the exchange typically prescribes additional requirements as to text and physical character.

[b] Nature of Common Shares

Common shares are those that have no preference over any other shares with respect to distribution of assets on liquidation or with regard to payment of dividends [Corp. Code § 159]. For a discussion of common shares in general, see § 6I.14. For an example of contrasting preferred shares, see § 6I.201. For a common share certificate for use when only a single class of stock is being offered, the first and final paragraphs of this form may be used, including any relevant legend conditions that may be needed.

[c] Issuance

Each shareholder is entitled to have a certificate from the corporation certifying the number of shares and the class or series of shares owned [Corp. Code § 416]. The corporation is not required to distribute certificates unless they are expressly demanded by any particular shareholder [see § 6I.20]. The corporation may design a record keeping system that does not contemplate the mass distribution of share certificates. Meanwhile, it may have adequate dealings with the shareholders based on their status as shareholders of record on the books of the corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 185, 1500].

A corporation may also use a completely certificate-free system of electronic processing of share ownership, under which a certificate is not even available to individual shareholders, if the system has been approved by the Securities and Exchange Commission, is authorized in any statute of the United States, or is in accordance with Division 8 of the California Commercial Code [Corp. Code § 416(b); see Com. Code § 8101 et seq.; see also § 6I.20[2], [3]].

[d] Signatures

If a certificate is issued, it must be signed in the name of the corporation by a representative from each of two sets of executive personnel. A signatory from the first set will be either the chairman or vice-chairman of the board of directors, or the president or any vice-president. The other signatory comes from a group that consists of the chief financial officer, the treasurer, any assistant treasurer, the secretary, or any assistant secretary. Any or all of the above signatures may be facsimile [Corp. Code § 416(a)].

A particular officer, transfer agent, or registrar who has signed or whose facsimile signature has been placed on the certificate may have left his or her official capacity before issuance of the certificate. In that case, the certificate still may be issued by the corporation with the same effect as if the person were still in office at the date of issue [Corp. Code § 416(a)]. Even if the signatory officer has no authority to execute the certificate, it will not be invalidated as against the shareholder in the absence of actual knowledge on the shareholder's part [Corp. Code § 313; see Snukal v. Flightways Manufacturing, Inc. (2000) 23 Cal. 4th 754, 786-787, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1, 3 P.3d 286 (interpreting Corp. Code § 313 in context of lease agreement to hold that signature of one person alone is sufficient to bind corporation, as long as individual holds corporate offices in both "operational group" and "financial group" described in that statute)]. The latter defense may not be available in situations of third party suits against the corporation, or certain representative actions brought by shareholders [see Corp. Code § 208(a)].

[e] Contents of Certificate--In General

Various informational statements are required to appear on the certificate. If the shares of the corporation are classified, or if a class is serialized, one of the following items must appear [Corp. Code § 417]:

- A statement of the rights, preferences, privileges, and restrictions granted to or otherwise imposed on each class or series of shares authorized to be issued, and on the holders of each.

- A summary of those rights, preferences, privileges, and restrictions with reference to the provisions of the articles and any certificates of determination establishing them.

- A statement setting forth the office or agency of the corporation from which shareholders may obtain, on request and without charge, a copy of the statement referred to above.

The following matters must also appear on the certificate, unless stated or summarized pursuant to Corp. Code § 417(a) or (b) [Corp. Code § 418(a)]:

- The fact that the shares are subject to restrictions on transfer. This statement (or the reference to it) must be conspicuous. Although the General Corporation Law does not furnish a definition, in the Commercial Code "conspicuous" means that a contract provision is presented so that a reasonable person against whom it is to operate ought to notice it; and using larger type, or a contrasting type, font, or color, compared to surrounding text, should be sufficient [see Com. Code § 1201(b)(10)].

- The fact that the shares are assessable or, if the shares are not fully paid, the certificate must recite the total amount of the consideration to be paid for the shares and the amount already paid [see Corp. Code § 409(d); see also § 6I.202]. These statements must also be conspicuous.

- The fact that the shares are redeemable.

- The fact that the shares are convertible, and the period for conversion.

- The fact that the shares are subject to the following:

    - An agreement among shareholders of a corporation providing for a uniform voting policy binding holders of the participating shares [see Corp. Code § 706(a)].

    - An irrevocable proxy held by persons commanding certain positions vis-a-vis the shareholder which authorizes those persons to exercise the vote for the shares [see Corp. Code § 705(e), (f)].

    - Restrictions on voting rights contractually imposed by the corporation directly against the particular shares.

Unless stated on the certificate as required by Corp. Code § 418(a), no restriction on transfer, no right of redemption, no control by voting agreement or prerogative of proxy, and no imposed voting restriction will be enforceable against a transferee (including a purchaser from the corporation) of the shares without actual knowledge of those matters [Corp. Code § 418(b)]. A transferee of the corporate shares (including a purchaser from the corporation) will not be liable for any assessment or for any unpaid portion of the subscription price unless the certificate provides otherwise [Corp. Code § 418(b)].

[f] Placement "On the Certificate"

The requirement that the information specified in Corp. Code §§ 417 and 418 appear "on the certificate" means that the information must appear on the face of the certificate, or on the reverse side with a reference to it appearing on the face [Corp. Code § 174]. In the case of uncertificated securities, the statements required to appear "on the certificate" must appear on the initial transaction statement and written statements [Corp. Code § 174; see Corp. Code §§ 417, 418].

[g] Close Corporation Share Certificates

A certificate for a close corporation [see Corp. Code § 158] must contain a statement regarding the nature of the organization as a close corporation and setting forth all restrictions on the transfer of shares. The certificate must also contain a statement that the total number of shareholders may not exceed 35 [Corp. Code § 158(a)]. These statements must appear conspicuously on the face of the certificate and not on the reverse side. Any attempted inter vivos transfer of shares evidenced by certificates bearing these required statements is void [Corp. Code § 418(c), (d)]. Every shareholder to whom a certificate of this type is issued is bound by agreement not to violate the transfer restrictions [Corp. Code § 421].

[h] Limited Offering Qualification Share Certificates

When securities are issued under a limited offering qualification (as distinct from the limited offering exemption) [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.001(e); see also Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities, § 6H.260] and the Commissioner of Corporations determines that equity requires the imposition of restrictions on the transfer of the shares or the applicant requests such restrictions, a condition may be imposed restricting subsequent transfer and requiring that a specific legend relating to the transfer restrictions be placed on the certificate [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.8]. For additional discussion of this legend, see Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities, § 6H.262.

If the Commissioner imposes a legend condition pursuant to a limited offering qualification or otherwise, the issuer must provide the purchaser with a copy of 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.11 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.10].

[i] Professional Corporation Share Certificates

Professional corporations are subject to special restrictions on share ownership and transfer. These restrictions must be noted on the certificates of those corporations under Corp. Code § 418(a) and under applicable administrative regulations. For a discussion of these restrictions as they apply to professional corporations in general, see "--Requirements for Directors, Officers, and Shareholders" and "--Restrictions on Issuance and Transfer of Shares" in the Legal Background to Ch. 12A, Professional Corporations.

[j] Shares Subject to Assessments

If a corporation is entitled to levy assessments on shares, the assessment becomes a lien on those shares. A subsequent transfer on the corporate books constitutes a waiver of the lien unless a conspicuous legend containing prescribed information has been placed on the face of the certificate issued on transfer [Corp. Code § 423(e); see § 6I.203]. If uncertificated securities [Corp. Code § 191.1; Com. Code § 8102(a)(18)] are subject to an assessment lien, transfer of the securities will constitute waiver of the lien unless a conspicuous legend containing prescribed information appears on the initial transaction statement [Corp. Code § 423(e); see Corp. Code § 423(c)].

[k] Promotional Shares and Limited Offering Transfer Restrictions

The Commissioner of Corporations has authority to impose a legend condition for the implementation of various regulatory requirements [see Corp. Code § 25141], such as for promotional shares [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.32, 260.141, 260.141.3], and limited offering transfer restrictions. These legends must appear on the face of the certificate in at least 10-point type [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.141.1, 260.141.11; see also Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities, § 6H.260-6H.263].

Although share certificates of securities issued under the California limited offering exemption [Corp. Code § 25102(f)] are not required to contain disclosures of the conditions of their issuance, those disclosures will ensure that any transferees of the corporate shares will be aware of those conditions. Accordingly, this form contains a provision specifying that the original purchaser represented that the shares were purchased for purposes of investment rather than resale [see Corp. Code § 25102(f)(3)], and that they were not qualified in California. This provision may be combined with a statement of any transfer restrictions on the shares if any restrictions are imposed.

[l] Federal Securities Legend--In General

A securities offering may be exempt from the registration requirements of the federal Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. §§ 77a-77aa; see Sommer, Federal Securities Act of1933 (Matthew Bender)] under one of the rules discussed below. To qualify for the exemption the issuer may be required to place a legend on the share certificate regarding the status of the securities under the federal securities law and the imposition of any transfer restrictions. For detailed coverage of these exemptions from registration, see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations.

[m] Intrastate Offerings

Wholly intrastate offerings of securities are exempt from federal registration requirements if certain tests are satisfied [ see 15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(11); 17 C.F.R. § 230.147 (SEC Rule 147)]. For discussion of these tests, see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations, § 6A.24]. One condition is that resales must be limited to residents of the state in which the securities were issued during the offering and for nine months from the date of the last exempt sale made by the issuer [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(e)]. The share certificates must bear a legend stating that the securities have not been registered under the Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. §§ 77a-77aa], and setting forth the limitations on resales [17 C.F.R. § 230.147(f)(1)(i); see [2], below].

[n] Regulation D Offerings

A securities offering is also exempt from federal registration if it is issued under any of the three limited offering exemptions contained in SEC Regulation D [see 17 C.F.R. §§ 230.501-230.508]. Those exemptions are set forth as Rules 504, 505, and 506 [see 17 C.F.R. §§ 230.504-230.506; see also 15 U.S.C. §§ 77c(b), 77d(2)]. For detailed coverage of these exemptions from registration, see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations .

Under Rule 504, solicitation and advertising directed to investors is allowed, and a security received under Rule 504 is freely transferable--it no longer must be imprinted with information that transfers of the security are prohibited, if certain conditions are satisfied [17 C.F.R. § 230.504(b)(1); see 17 C.F.R. § 230.502(c), (d)(2)]. Otherwise, securities sold in Rule 504 offerings will also be "restricted securities."

Securities sold under Rule 505 or 506, however, cannot be resold without registration or exemption under the Securities Act [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(d)]. These securities are referred to as "restricted securities" [17 C.F.R. § 230.144(a)(3) (Rule 144)]. The issuer must exercise reasonable care to ensure that the purchasers of the securities are not underwriters within the meaning of Section 2(11) of the Act [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(d); see 15 U.S.C. § 77b(a)(11) (defined as person who purchases securities with a view to distribution)]. Reasonable care may be demonstrated by (1) reasonable inquiry to determine if the purchaser is acquiring the securities for himself or herself, or for other persons; (2) written disclosure to each purchaser prior to sale that the securities have not been registered, and therefore cannot be resold unless registered or exempted; and (3) placement of a legend on the certificate or other document evidencing the securities, stating that the securities are not registered, and setting forth the restrictions on transfer and sale of securities [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(d)(1)-(3); see [2], below]. These actions are not the exclusive means to demonstrate reasonable care; other actions by the issuer may satisfy this requirement [17 C.F.R. § 230.502(d)]. However, it makes sense to demonstrate compliance by using these methods and issuers relying on the Regulation D exemptions almost invariably do so.

[o] Endorsement of Share Certificate

The owner's signature on the reverse side of a share certificate constitutes an endorsement. The transferee's name is usually filled in when the transferor and transferee are dealing at arm's length, as is the usual case in a close corporation. This is a special endorsement. When the transferor is selling through a broker, as is usually the case for shares in a publicly held company, the name of the transferee is typically left blank. This constitutes an endorsement in blank and would normally make the security transferable to or by the bearer. However, an endorsement of either kind does not transfer the security until the certificate is actually delivered [Com. Code § 8304].

Although delivery and endorsement will normally effect a transfer, registration of the transfer by canceling the old certificate and issuing a new one in the transferee's name is necessary to record him or her as a shareholder in the corporation's books and entitle him or her to the benefits of that status, such as dividends, notices, and the like [see Corp. Code §§ 185, 1600; see also Com. Code § 8102(a)(4), (13), (15)].

The "attorney" referred to in the form does not have to be a lawyer. In transactions involving shares of a close corporation, it is typically the transferee or the transferee's agent. If it is a publicly traded stock transaction, the attorney most often is the transferor's stockbroker. Naming an attorney can provide a safeguard against theft or loss by restricting the bearer quality of a blank endorsement since only the attorney (or a substitute) can properly give instructions for registration of transfer of the stock. However, the designated space can be left blank without impairing the transaction.

§ 6I.201 Preferred Share Certificate

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a certificate for preferred shares in a corporation. It is a modification of the common share certificate set forth in § 6I.200. For a discussion of the required contents of stock certificates in general, see § 6I.200[1].

[b] Difference Between Preferred and Common Shares

The ownership attributes of preferred shares differ somewhat from those attached to common shares. For a more detailed explanation of the ownership rights associated with these two forms of equity securities, see §§ 6I.14, 6I.15. A corporation may provide in its articles of incorporation for classes or series of preferred shares which are redeemable at the option of the corporation, the shareholder, or on the vote of at least a majority of the outstanding shares of the class or series to be redeemed [Corp. Code § 402(a)]. This form contains a redemption provision that includes alternatives covering all options for redeeming stock. Redemption may also be mandatory at specified times or on the happening of a specified event.

Unless the corporation expressly provides otherwise in its articles of incorporation, each outstanding share is entitled to one vote on each matter submitted to a vote of the shareholders [Corp. Code § 700(a) l]. However, holders of shares with voting rights may transfer those rights to preferred shareholders under a voting trust arrangement if the respective parties so desire. For a detailed analysis of voting trusts, and representative forms, see Ch. 8B, Voting Agreements and Voting Trusts .

3-6I California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 6I.202

AUTHOR: Marilyn Minger Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6I.202 Statements on Certificate Concerning Partly Paid Shares

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a statement designed to be included at the designated location in § 6I.200[2] or 6I.201[2] whenever the shares have been issued for part payment with the remainder to be paid as agreed.

If the corporation is issuing uncertificated securities [see Corp. Code § 191.1; Com. Code § 8102(a)(18) (definition)] instead of share certificates, the statement set forth in this form should be included on the initial transaction statement for those securities [Corp. Code § 409(d); see also Corp. Code § 418].

[b] Issuance and Liability of Issuee

Ordinarily, shares are issued, declared, and taken to be fully paid stock, not liable to any further call; nor is the shareholder liable for any further payments under the Corporations Code. However, the corporation may issue all or any part of its shares as partly paid [Corp. Code § 409(b), (d)] if payment is adequately secured by collateral other than the stock being issued, or to the extent permitted in Corp. Code § 408 with respect to employee stock purchase or stock option plans [Corp. Code § 409(a)]. Every subscriber to shares and every person to whom shares are originally issued is liable for the full consideration agreed to be paid. It must be paid before or when the shares are issued unless they are issued as partly paid. Partly paid shares must be paid in accordance with the agreement of subscription or purchase [Corp. Code § 410]. If the shares are not paid for according to contract, the corporation has the right to recover the unpaid subscription price of the remainder of the consideration to be paid [Corp. Code § 423(a)].

The certificate issued to represent partly paid shares must contain a statement of the total amount of the consideration to be paid, and the amount already paid [Corp. Code § 409(d)].

Statements required to appear "on the certificate" must appear on the face of a share certificate or on the reverse with a reference on the face, or, in the case of uncertificated securities, on the initial transaction statement and subsequent written statements [Corp. Code § 174; see also Corp. Code §§ 417, 418]. Unless the certificate, or initial transaction statement, states the total amount of the price of the shares and the amount already paid, a transferee of the shares will not be liable for any unpaid amount [Corp. Code § 418(b)].

[c] Lien for Unpaid Balance

If the agreement for payment of the balance includes giving the corporation a lien on the shares, then the statement of lien must appear conspicuously on the certificate [see Corp. Code § 418(a)(2); see also Com. Code § 8105(d)]. The notice of lien may be combined with the statement of part payment, as in this form. The statement should be held to be "conspicuous" if it is presented so that a reasonable person against whom it is to operate ought to notice it; and that should be the result if the statement is in larger type than the surrounding text, or is in a contrasting type, font, or color, compared to surrounding text of the same size, or is set off from surrounding text of the same size by symbols or other marks that call attention to the statement [see Com. Code § 1201(b)(10)].

Whether or not provision is made in the articles for such a procedure, the agreement for subscription or purchase of partly paid shares may contain provision for giving the corporation a lien on the shares. A lien is properly created by contract of the parties [Civ. Code § 2881]. The lien represents a charge imposed (in a mode other than by transfer in trust) on the specific property of the shares, by which they are made security for the performance of the agreement to pay the remainder of the agreed consideration [see Civ. Code § 2872]. This instance constitutes a special lien, in which the corporation is entitled to enforce the lien as security for the performance only of the particular obligation of full payment, and any incidental obligations [see Civ. Code § 2875].

It is not clear whether the provisions of the General Corporation Law concerning partly paid shares serve to create a statutory lien on those shares in favor of the corporation if the certificate is appropriately legended. The corporation can cause such shares to be sold for the balance due when they are held by a representative or fiduciary [see Corp. Code § 413] and this right is certainly typical of one held by a lienholder. Furthermore, the obligation to pay the balance is enforceable against transferees with notice, another common feature of a lien [see Corp. Code § 412; see also Kress v. Tooker Jordan Corp. (1930) 103 Cal. App. 275, 284-287, 284 P. 685 (indicating that an equitable lien is created when shares are properly legended as to fact of part payment)]. However, if a lien is not created by the provisions of the General Corporation Law, then the drafting of the agreement for sale of partly paid shares and the perfection of any security interest in those shares will be governed by the Secured Transactions Division of the Commercial Code [see Com. Code § 9102(a)(47) ("instrument" defined); Com. Code § 9109(a); see also Com. Code § 8101 et seq.].

[d] Share Incidents of Partly Paid Shares

While the shares are being held on partly paid status, the shareholder otherwise has the full complement of rights, preferences, privileges, and restrictions. However, while the corporation must declare a dividend on partly paid shares at the same time it does on fully paid shares, the former is only on the basis of the percentage of the consideration actually paid [Corp. Code § 409(d)].

[e] Liability of Transferee

Unless the certificate (or the initial transaction statement and subsequent written statements in the case of uncertificated securities [see Corp. Code § 191.1; see also Com. Code § 8102(a)(15), (18)]) states the total amount of the price of the shares and the amount already paid, a transferee of the shares is not liable for any unpaid amount [Corp. Code § 418(b)]. If the full agreed consideration has not been paid, a transferee acquiring the shares in good faith, without knowledge that they were not paid for in full or to the extent stated on the certificate (or applicable initial transaction statement for uncertificated securities), is liable only for the amount shown on the certificate or statement to be unpaid [

Corp. Code § 411].

A transferee of partly paid shares who acquired them under a certificate showing the fact of part payment is personally liable to the corporation for installments coming due. So is a transferee of the shares who acquired them with actual knowledge that the full agreed consideration had not been paid to the extent stated on the certificate. However, the latter description does not include one who derives title through a holder in good faith without knowledge, and who is not a party to any fraud affecting the issuance. Liability ceases on transfer to another who becomes liable therefor, except that the transferor again remains personally liable if the certificate or a written agreement so provides [Corp. Code § 412]. These rules apply equally to information set forth on the initial transaction statement or subsequent written statements when the shares are uncertificated [Corp. Code § 412; see Corp. Code §§ 171.1, 191.1; see also Com. Code § 8102(a)(15), (18)].

One holding shares in any representative or fiduciary capacity is not personally liable for any unpaid balance of the subscription price of the shares simply because the shares are so held. This includes pledgees, executors, administrators, guardians, trustees, and receivers, as well as others of the description. However, the estate and funds in the hands of such a fiduciary or representative are liable, and the shares are subject to sale for that balance [Corp. Code § 413].

[f] Liability to Corporation's Creditors

A creditor may bring an action to reach and apply any liability of a shareholder to the corporation for the amount due on the shareholder's shares. However, first a final judgment must have been rendered in favor of the creditor against the corporation. Second, an execution must have been returned on the judgment, and it must remain unsatisfied in whole or in part. Either of these required steps may be avoided to the extent the creditor can show that such a procedure would have been useless [Corp. Code § 414(a)].

All creditors of the corporation may intervene in any creditor's action to reach and apply unpaid subscriptions. Their claims need not have been reduced to judgment, and any or all shareholders who hold partly paid shares may be joined in the action. Several judgments may be rendered for and against the parties or in favor of a receiver for the benefit of the respective parties [Corp. Code § 414(b)].

In any such action, all amounts paid by any shareholder in that action are credited on the unpaid balance due the corporation on the shares of that shareholder [Corp. Code § 414(c)]. However, since the shareholder's obligation is based on a direct contract with the corporation, the creditor as equitable assignee of the judgment debtor corporation may be met with any defenses good against the original debtor. For instance, if the time limits for suit against the shareholder have run since the time a particular installment came due, the creditor also may be stopped by the statute of limitations [see Spencer v. Anderson (1924) 193 Cal. 1, 8-14, 222 P. 355] .

The creditors need not cite the individual shareholder only for the latter's pro rata portion of total liability to the plaintiffs. However, any shareholder who has paid more than that portion must seek to recover from other shareholders any amounts needed to equitably distribute the recovery [Kaye v. Metz (1921) 186 Cal. 42, 46-48, 198 P. 1047] .

§ 6I.203 Legend on Certificate for Assessment Lien [Corp. Code § 423(e)]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a share certificate legend regarding an assessment lien on the shares represented by the certificate. Ordinarily, if assessment of shares is permitted, an assessment will be made during the time certificates for the shares involved are outstanding. The company is not required to call in the certificates for stamping with such a notice, particularly since the holder or owner of the shares is otherwise specially notified. The concern is with notice to third parties, and the law provides a procedure whereby the notice must be placed on the certificate when it is issued to a new purchaser on surrender of the former certificate for transfer purposes [see Corp. Code § 423(e)]. The legend takes the same form as the notification to the owner [see Corp. Code § 423(c)]. This form, when appropriate, is designed to be included at the indicated place on the face side of the forms in § 6I.200[2] or 6I.201[2].

If the corporation issues uncertificated securities [see Corp. Code § 191.1; Com. Code § 8102(a)(15), (18)], this legend must appear on the initial transaction statement [Corp. Code § 423(e); see § 6I.20[1] et seq.].

[b] Basis for Assessment

Shares may be assessed only in the manner provided by statute. The law prescribes a precise manner in which assessment may operate, which must be first authorized by the articles of the individual company and then subject to any limitations contained within the articles. Within such authority as is given to the board or the corporation itself, the board of directors may in its discretion levy and collect assessments on all shares of any or all classes as allowed. This is a special authority, additional to the right of the corporation to recover the unpaid subscription price of shares or the remainder of the consideration to be paid for shares [Corp. Code § 423(a)].

Stock should usually be nonassessable unless the issuer is organized to supply property or services on a continuing basis [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.7].

[c] Securities Requirements

When the company's securities must be qualified through the Commissioner of Corporations, that office normally finds the incident of assessability to be unfair, unjust, or inequitable under the circumstances. The typical exception would be an organization set up exclusively to supply services or property to its membership on a continuing basis, with an equitable assessment corresponding to the services or property supplied [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.7], such as a homeowners' association. However, this restriction does not apply in the case of many exemptions, such as the transaction of issuance of stock to a group of 35 or fewer purchasers [see Corp. Code § 25102(h)].

[d] Assessment Levy

An assessment must be levied at a formal meeting of the board, whether general or special [Cheney v. Canfield (1910) 158 Cal. 342, 345, 111 P. 92] . Even if properly authorized to assess, the corporation may have in fact contracted with, or represented to, purchasing shareholders that no such assessment would take place. On a subsequent assessment, the shareholder would then be entitled to a rescission of the share purchase [see Browne v. San Gabriel River Rock Co. (1913) 22 Cal. App. 682, 684, 685, 136 P. 542] . The motive of the directors in levying the assessment is immaterial unless the assessment was for an improper purpose. For instance, if the assessment was unnecessary but the directors were attempting to freeze out a minority shareholder, the assessment may be invalid [Koshaba v. Koshaba (1942) 56 Cal. App. 2d 302, 313, 132 P.2d 854] .

An assessment levy must

- Specify the amount, and to whom and where payable.

- Fix a date on which the assessment is payable--however, if proceedings or filings with any governmental or other agency for any qualification, registration, or exemption therefrom are required as a condition precedent to levy or payment of an assessment, there must be provision for establishment of such a date.

- Fix a date on which the assessment becomes delinquent if not paid--which date must be not less than 30 or more than 60 days from the date on which the assessment is payable.

- Fix a date for the sale of the delinquent shares--which date must be not less than 15 or more than 60 days from the date of first delinquency.

The information on the date of sale must also include the hour and the place. The place of sale must be in the county where the corporation is required to keep a copy of its bylaws, or if there is no such county, then in Sacramento [Corp. Code § 423(b)]. The county of the bylaws is the place of the corporation's principal executive office in California, or if that office is not located here, then the principal business office here [see Corp. Code § 213].

[e] Notification of Assessment

The notice as prescribed by law, the contents of which are illustrated in this form, should be given on or before the date the assessment is payable [Corp. Code § 423(c)]. It must be served personally on each holder of record of shares being assessed. However, in lieu of personal service, the notice may be mailed to each such shareholder at the last address of the shareholder appearing on the books or given by such shareholder for the purpose of notice. If there is no such address, then the notice may be addressed to the place where the principal executive office of the corporation is located. The notice being mailed also must be published in a newspaper of general circulation in the county of the principal executive office. If there is no such newspaper, the publication is to be made in some newspaper of general circulation in an adjoining county [Corp. Code § 423(d)].

[f] Assessment Lien

The assessment becomes a lien on the shares assessed from the time of personal service or the publication of the notice of assessment. However, the articles may properly provide for such a lien starting at the time of the levy [Corp. Code § 423(e)].

Nothing in the Investment Securities Division of the Commercial Code may be construed to affect the liability of the registered owner of the shares for assessments, calls, or the like [Com. Code § 8207(b)]. However, Division 8 of the Commercial Code relating to investment securities is primarily designed to protect market transfers of shares, and it provides that any lien on shares in favor of the issuing corporation is valid against a purchaser only if that lien right is noted conspicuously on the security certificate itself [see Com. Code § 8105(d); for translation of UCC term of "security" as "security certificate," see Com. Code § 8102(a)(15), (16)]. In conjunction with this requirement, the General Corporation Law prescribes a procedure in support of this policy, unless a particular provision of law provides otherwise. Thus, a transfer of the shares on the books of the corporation after the assessment lien has attached constitutes a waiver of the lien unless a conspicuous legend is placed on the face of any certificate issued on the transfer, setting forth the information contained in the notice of assessment [Corp. Code § 423(e)]. Similarly, if the corporation issues uncertificated securities [see Corp. Code § 191.1; Com. Code § 8102(a)(15), (18)], transfer of the shares on the books of the corporation after the assessment lien has attached constitutes a waiver of the lien unless the legend appears on the initial transaction statement [Corp. Code § 423(e); see § 6I.20].

The legend should be held to be "conspicuous" if it is presented so that a reasonable person against whom it is to operate ought to notice it; and that should be the result if the legend is in larger type than the surrounding text, or is in a contrasting type, font, or color, compared to surrounding text of the same size, or is set off from surrounding text of the same size by symbols or other marks that call attention to the legend [see Com. Code § 1201(b)(10)].

The conspicuous legend is to be removed if the assessment on the shares evidenced by the certificate is paid. It is also removed if the shares are sold to pay the assessment, or are forfeited for nonpayment [Corp. Code § 423(e)].

[g] Extension of Sale Date

The date of sale of delinquent shares fixed in the levy of assessment may be extended from time to time for up to 30 days at a time. The extension may be affected either by an order of the board entered on the corporate records, or by a court order in restraint of a sale. Notice of an extension must be given by announcement by either the secretary or some person authorized to conduct the sale. It should be made at the time and place of sale most recently fixed. If the date of sale is extended for over five days, the corporation has to cause notice to be mailed to any shareholder whose shares are being sold, setting forth the date and time to which the sale date has been postponed [Corp. Code § 423(f)].

[h] Payment Before Sale

Payment may be made at a time after delinquency but before the sale. In such an instance, the shareholder must pay a penalty of five percent of the amount of the assessment on the shares, in addition to the assessment itself [Corp. Code § 423(g)].

[i] Conduct of Sale or Extension Proceeding

The procedure for the sale of the shares is as follows: An officer or agent of the corporation appears at the time and place appointed in the notice of levy. Unless otherwise ordered by the board, this agent sells the shares, or causes them to be sold, to the highest bidder for cash. The sale is of as many shares of each delinquent holder of assessed shares as may be necessary to pay the assessment and charge on the shares according to the notice. Offers for a fraction of a share need not be accepted. At the sale, the person offering to pay the assessment and penalty for the smallest number of shares is the highest bidder. The purchased shares are then transferred to that bidder on the share register on payment of the assessment and penalty. A new certificate is issued to the highest bidder [Corp. Code § 423(h)].

A bid made by one who was a director at the time of the levy normally will not be disqualified. However, it may be that under the circumstances of the case there was such a relationship between the director and the holder of the delinquent shares that a bid of this type would constitute a breach of faith [see Whitcomb v. Giannini (1919) 43 Cal. App. 229, 235, 184 P. 887] .

If there is no bidder offering to pay the amount due together with the five percent penalty, the shares are then forfeited to the corporation in satisfaction of that amount [Corp. Code § 423(i)].

[j] Surrender of Old Certificate

After the sale or forfeiture, the holder or owner of the delinquent shares must surrender the certificate to the corporation for cancellation. This duty may be enforced by court order or decree, and a shareholder or owner is liable for damages to the corporation for failure to so surrender on demand without good cause or excuse. A certificate not surrendered becomes null and void. It is no longer evidence of the right or title of the holder or any transferee to the shares it purports to represent. Neither the corporation nor the purchaser of the shares incurs any liability on the shares to any such transferee. The purchaser at the sale, whenever it is made, is entitled to the issuance of a new certificate for such shares [Corp. Code § 423(j)].

[k] Certificate as Evidence of Sale

The certificate of the secretary or assistant secretary of the corporation serves as prima facie evidence of certain factors of the sale [Corp. Code § 423(k)]:

- Time and place of sale.
- Postponements.
- Quantity and particular description of shares.
- To whom sold.
- For what price sold.
- Fact of payment of the purchase money.

The certificate must be filed in the office of the corporation. Copies certified by either the secretary or assistant secretary of the corporation are also prima facie evidence of their facts [Corp. Code § 423(k)].

[l] Effect of Errors or Omissions in Enforcement Procedure

An assessment is not invalidated by failure to publish the notice of assessment, nor is it by the nonperformance of any act required in order to enforce the payment of the assessment. However, in event of any substantial error or omission in the course of proceedings for collection of an assessment, all previous proceedings but one are void as to the particular shares involved and must be taken anew. Only the levy of assessment may remain valid [Corp. Code § 423(l)].

[m] Action for Improper Sale

Certain preliminaries must be observed before any action is maintained to recover shares sold for delinquent assessment on the ground of irregularity in the assessment, irregularity or defect of the notice of sale, or defect or irregularity in the sale itself. The plaintiff must first pay or tender to the corporation, or to the party holding the shares sold, the sum for which the shares were sold. This must be accompanied by all subsequent assessments which may have been paid on the shares and by interest on all such sums from the time they were paid. The complaint must then be filed, and the summons must be issued, within six months after the sale was made [Corp. Code § 423(m)].

[n] Creditor's Pursuit of Former Shareholder's Interest

The sale wholly divests the former shareholder of all right or interest in the shares. It passes title from the former shareholder and terminates all liability of that person for unpaid balances on the shares. Thus, creditors may not recover on any former liability of the shareholder. This is true even where the assessment sale may have been technically defective in the absence of collusion or fraud as between the corporation and the shareholder [see American Well etc. Co. v. Blakemore (1920) 184 Cal. 343, 351, 356-357, 193 P. 779] .

[o] Alternative Remedy of Action

Sale or forfeiture of the shares is normally the only remedy for the collection of an assessment on fully paid shares. The only exception is remedy by action, and that must be expressly authorized in the articles and further stated as a remedy on the face of the share certificate (unless issued prior to August 21, 1933). If such a remedy is imported into the articles by amendment, it must be adopted by unanimous consent of the shareholders.

§ 6I.204 Scrip Certificate for Fraction of a Share

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a scrip certificate representing a fraction of a share of corporate stock. When fractions of a share occur in the stock structure as a result of a share readjustment transaction such as a stock dividend or conversion of preferred into common shares, one method of dealing with the problem of resulting fractional interests is the issuance of scrip to represent the fractional portions of former whole share interests. The following form is an example of a scrip certificate that may be used in connection with fractions of a share of common stock.

[b] Fractional Shares

A corporation is not required to issue fractions of a share, although it may decide to do so [Corp. Code § 407]. If a corporation does not issue fractions of a share, then in connection with any original issuance of shares it must provide one of three alternatives [Corp. Code § 407]:

- Arrange for the disposition of fractional interests by those entitled to receive them.
- Pay in cash the fair value of fractions of a share as of the time those entitled to receive them are determined.
- Issue scrip or warrants in registered or bearer form which entitle the holder to receive a certificate for a full share on the surrender of such scrip or warrants aggregating a full share.

[c] Special Alternative in Reorganizations

In the case of a merger, conversion, or reorganization, if the fraction of a share that any person would otherwise be entitled to receive is less than one half of one percent of the total shares that person is entitled to receive, the merger, conversion, or reorganization agreement may provide that fractions of shares will be disregarded. Otherwise, it may provide that shares issuable in the merger will be rounded off to the nearest whole share [Corp. Code § 407].

A determination by the board of the fair value of fractions of a share will be conclusive in the absence of fraud [Corp. Code § 407]. However, a corporation may not pay cash for fractional shares if the action would result in the cancellation of more than 10 percent of the outstanding shares of any class [Corp. Code § 407]. This limitation is designed to prevent a forced "freeze-out" or cashing out of a minority or special class of shareholders.

An exemption from federal registration is available for the market plan to pay off fractional interests if the issuer must already file certain reports at the federal level, the aggregate sale proceeds will not exceed $100,000, and a prior notification is filed with the SEC [see 15 U.S.C. § 77c(b); 17 C.F.R. § 230.236].

[d] Nature and Incidents of Scrip for Fractional Shares

Unlike a certificate for a fractional share, which entitles the holder to exercise voting rights, to receive dividends, and to participate in any of the assets of the corporation in the event of liquidation [Corp. Code § 407], scrip or warrants do not entitle the holder to exercise voting rights, to receive dividends, or to participate in any of the assets of the corporation in the event of liquidation unless they specifically so provide [Corp. Code § 407].

Any scrip or warrants must be issued in registered or bearer form, entitling the holder to receive a certificate for a full share when the surrender of such scrip or warrants aggregates a full share. The board of directors may cause scrip or warrants to be issued subject to whatever conditions it desires to impose [Corp. Code § 407]. One such condition, for example, is the condition that the scrip or warrants will become void if not exchanged for certificates representing full shares before a specified date. Another is that the shares for which scrip or warrants are exchangeable may be sold by the corporation and the proceeds distributed to the holder of the scrip or warrants.

§ 6I.211 Resolution Identifying Offerees or Proposed Purchasers

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form contains language for inclusion in a corporate resolution when an offering is limited to specified known purchasers. The form serves to identify the proposed purchasers or offerees. When used, it should be added to the resolution appearing in § 6I.210[2]. If the offering is to be public, the language in this form may simply be omitted. The form in § 6I.210[2], authorizing the offer of designated shares unlimited by a description of the offerees, will allow the offer, subject to qualification, to be public.

An offering of stock may be to known, named individuals, or to a limited class, in which case it is referred to as a limited offering, or to the general public, in which case it is referred to as a public offering. For a detailed discussion of the various types of offerings, and qualification procedures relating to them, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues , and Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities .

Nothing in the Corporations Code or the regulations necessitates providing in the resolution for how the shares are to be distributed among a named group, or which consideration will be provided by a designated proposed purchaser.

[b] Price of Issuance

Shares may be issued for such consideration as is determined from time to time by the board; or the articles may provide that the shareholder may determine the consideration [Corp. Code § 409(a)(1)]. Typically the board makes its decision through a majority vote of those present at a meeting containing a quorum [see Corp. Code § 307(a)(7)]. If the articles reserve the right to determine this issue to the shareholders, the determination must be made by approval of the outstanding shares [Corp. Code § 409(c); see Corp. Code § 152].

[c] Kinds of Consideration

Consideration may consist of any or all kinds of compensation as prescribed and limited by law for such purposes [Corp. Code § 409(a)(1)]:

- Money paid--but not including promissory notes of the purchaser unless these are adequately secured by collateral other than the shares acquired.

- Labor done.

- Services actually rendered to the corporation, or for its benefit, or in its formation or reorganization--but not including future services, unless the shares are issued pursuant to an employee benefit plan.

- Debts or securities canceled.

- Tangible or intangible property actually received, either by the issuing corporation or by a wholly owned subsidiary.

Inadequately secured notes and future services (other than issuance of securities to employees pursuant to an employee benefit plan) may not constitute payment or part payment for corporate shares [Corp. Code § 409(a)(1)].

[d] Liability for Payment

Every subscriber to shares, and every person, to whom shares are originally issued, is liable to the corporation for the full consideration agreed to be paid. The consideration must be paid prior to or concurrently with the issuance. The only exception is when the shares are issued as partly paid, in which case the subscription or purchase agreement provides for the manner of payment [Corp. Code § 410]. Partly paid shares present special concerns relating to the share certificate; and the general topic is discussed in § 6I.202.

[e] Related Factors

When the shares must be qualified with the Commissioner of Corporations, various requirements may affect the price offering or the handling of the initial proceeds [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.20-260.140.22; see Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities], and there may be sundry tax consequences from structuring the form of compensation for the offering [see Ch. 1B, Selecting Form of Business Entity ; Ch. 1E, Taxation of Businesses ; Ch. 2, Formation of Corporations ; Ch. 2B, Electing Subchapter S Status]. The related problems of proper valuation of the consideration to be received for shares is treated in § 6I.221.

§ 6I.221 Resolution Determining the Fair Value of Consideration Other Than Money

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a corporate resolution determining the fair market value of consideration other than money that is being accepted in return for corporate stock. The board of directors must state by resolution its determination of the fair value to the corporation in monetary terms of any consideration other than money for which shares are issued [Corp. Code § 409(e)].

PRACTICE TIP:

A director may rely on information, opinions, reports or statements prepared by counsel, accountants or other persons as to matters which the director believes to be within such person's professional or expert competence so long as the director acts in good faith, after reasonable inquiry when the need therefor is indicated by the circumstances and without knowledge that would cause such reliance to be unwarranted [Corp. Code § 309(b)]. A director that does not meet this standard will not be afforded protection from liability provided by California's business judgment rule. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

[b] Determination of Fair Value

Although the directors' determination of value is conclusive in the absence of fraud [Corp. Code § 409(b)], the asserted value of the consideration should be substantiated by appropriate proof, such as an appraisal or a detailed description. Substantiation of the valuation will be required by the Commissioner of Corporations when a qualification permit is necessary [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.112 (Item 19, Exhibit F); see Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities, § 6H.237].

A minimum value may be fixed, as in the final resolution below, thereby permitting additional payment for the property or services.

[c] Valuation Factors

The less that consideration takes the form of cash exchange, the more it becomes remotely intangible and abstract in its ability to be evaluated. It becomes correspondingly more difficult to ascertain whether the corporation has agreed to accept an appropriate amount for its shares or whether it has received anything of adequate value for its purposes.

To place the corporate financial structure on a more stable foundation and to encourage investor's and creditor's confidence in the management, the board should strive to arrive at as scientific a conclusion of valuation of nonmonetary consideration as possible. If property of an existing business is turned over to the corporation, particularly if a going operation is simply being incorporated for business purposes, more conservative types of accounting analysis are in order to assure a valid reflection of the corporation's worth on its books.

Valuation may seem to mean little to a small partnership becoming incorporated since it is merely changing its form of organization. Inaccuracies of basic mathematics may return later, however, to plague its investment possibilities when in its new corporate form it increases in ownership and obligation.

Property values should not be inflated. Old assets and stale notes should be frankly and honestly depreciated or discounted. Services received or contemplated should be honestly measured against what such performance would cost to obtain in the competitive market, and how necessary or beneficial such services are to the corporation.

[d] Fraudulently Overvalued Consideration

Although with the elimination of "par value" as a legally significant concept, the doctrine of "watered stock" has become an historical curiosity. The directors of a corporation are nevertheless under a general fiduciary duty with respect to the determination of the value of consideration for shares, just as they are in connection with any other exercise of their authority. Thus, they may inflate the value of property exchanged for shares only at the risk of incurring liability to shareholders who paid proportionally more for their shares. Similarly, fraudulently overvalued consideration, if reflected on a corporate balance sheet that is distributed to creditors, could result in liability to creditors who extended credit in reliance on the misrepresentation. However, this is the only basis on which a creditor might recover.

The doctrine of liability for watered stock, which permitted a creditor to squeeze out the "water," or the difference between the true value of the consideration and the stated par value of the shares, is no longer relevant to the problem of fraudulently overvalued consideration. Shares issued as fully paid stock are not liable to further call, nor is the holder liable for any further payment for his shares [Corp. Code § 409(b)]. On the other hand, shareholders who are the victims of fraudulent overvaluation of consideration for shares may sue on behalf of the corporation to recover damages from, or obtain cancellation of shares held by, persons who received shares in exchange for overvalued property [James v. Steifer Mining Co. (1918) 35 Cal. App. 778, 783-786, 171 P. 117] . The corporation may also recover from those who have deceived the board of directors as to the value of property transferred to the corporation in exchange for shares, and the corporation is not estopped to challenge the valuation originally made by it [Topanga Corp. v. Gentile (1967) 249 Cal. App. 2d 681, 689, 58 Cal. Rptr. 713] .

Resolution Determining the Fair Value of Consideration Other Than Money

RESOLVED, that the Board of Directors of this corporation hereby determines that the fair value in monetary terms to this corporation of _____ [describe consideration] is $_____. This determination of value is based on _____ [e.g., the report of _____, an independent appraiser or if no appraisal, the description of the consideration should be detailed].

[Or, simple resolution if all the consideration to be received is nonmonetary:]

RESOLVED, that the Board of Directors determines that the fair value of the consideration for which said shares are to be issued is $_____.

[Or, simple resolution if only part of consideration to be received is nonmonetary:]

RESOLVED, that the Board of Directors determines that the fair value of _____ [description of consideration] is $_____.

[Or, alternative form--minimum value:]

RESOLVED, that the Board of Directors hereby determines that the consideration for which _____[number] shares of stock are to be issued _____[name], is worth a sum, the full amount of which cannot be fairly or accurately calculated at this time, except that the fair value of such consideration to the corporation is at least $_____ when paid in the form of stock of this corporation.

§ 6I.222 Resolution Limiting Selling Expenses [Corp. Code § 25140; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.20]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a corporate resolution limiting the amount of selling expenses that the corporation may incur in connection with a specified securities issuance.

The Commissioner or Corporations requires that the selling expense of stock be no more than is reasonably necessary [Corp. Code § 25140; 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.20]. For a detailed discussion of the relevant statutes and regulations, see Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities, § 6H.23. In planning a stock issue involving selling expenses, it is advisable to anticipate a ceiling acceptable to the Commissioner and resolve at the outset that this ceiling on selling expenses be followed. If such a resolution is passed, the officers of the corporation engaged in arranging the sale of stock will have no power or authorization to exceed the stated ceiling.

§ 6I.223 Resolution Allowing Issuance of Partly Paid Shares

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form consists of a corporate minute entry and a resolution authorizing a corporation to issue partly paid shares.

A corporation may issue the whole or any part of its shares as partly paid and subject to call for full payment [Corp. Code § 409(d)]. The certificates must state the full consideration and the amount paid, at time of issue.

Although a corporation usually will prefer to have its money all at once, it may be necessary to settle for some amount of installment financing. If this occurs, the board should formally authorize partly paid type of issuance if deemed necessary, and if the charter documents so permit.

For further discussion, see § 6I.202.

[2] FORM

Resolution Allowing Issuance of Partly Paid Shares
Illustrative Minute Entry

The Chair next explained the potential difficulty in the present "tight money market" of selling the authorized number of shares during the remainder of the year for which a permit has been obtained. The Chair explained that it would be more desirable to place the entire issue during this year although it would not be necessary to receive more than 50 percent of the proceeds now, with the balance over a two-year period. If purchasers were offered the ability to acquire two shares for a combined down payment of the full cost of one share, with the ability to pay the remainder of the balance over the two-year period required under applicable federal securities laws private exemption regulations, the remainder of the presently authorized issue could be sold out before the end of the current permit period. Therefore, it was:

Resolution

RESOLVED, that any or all shares of this corporation may be offered and sold as partly paid shares and paid for under terms of a written agreement to be executed between the purchaser and the corporation, which agreement is to provide, among other things, that _____ [proportion, e.g., one half] of the purchase price is to be paid at the time of the purchase, and that the remainder of the consideration will be paid for in _____ [number, e.g., two] equal installments promptly on formal call by the corporation, but the first call to be made no earlier than _____[date], and the second call no earlier than _____[date], these shares to be evidenced by certificates disclosing the full consideration to be received therefore and the amount paid to date of issuance;

RESOLVED FURTHER, that on the declaration of any dividend on the shares of this corporation, this corporation shall declare a dividend on partly paid shares but expressly on the basis of the percentage of the consideration actually paid on the shares with respect to any particular shares outstanding.

RESOLVED FURTHER, that the purchaser's obligation to pay the purchase price shall be secured by _____ [describe collateral].

§ 6I.224 Resolutions Authorizing Promotional Shares and Expenses

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form consists of a corporate resolution authorizing the issuance of promotional shares and the incurring of promotional expenses. The services and activities of promoters may be indispensable to a new corporation. However, the procedures traditionally available for compensating these organizing agents are capable of being abused to the detriment of the emerging corporation and its initial shareholders.

There are several substantial reasons why promoters are frequently paid for their contributions in corporate securities. An important reason from the corporation's perspective is that it may not have the financial wherewithal immediately to start paying large executive-type salaries and bonuses for past or contemporary performances. It is therefore most helpful if the promoter will take his or her compensation and, in effect, gamble along with his or her employer on the return for his or her accomplishments. From the standpoint of the investors, too, the promoter may appear more credible if he or she receives shares, not cash. The promoter then appears to have enough faith in the corporation to speculate along with the other shareholders rather than to take a quick profit and move out of the organization.

[b] Definition of Promotional Shares

Promotional shares are any securities that satisfy the following conditions [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.30]:

- Issued in consideration for services rendered in connection with the founding or organization of a business enterprise; or

- Issued to a promoter in consideration for any tangible or intangible property, such as patents, copyrights, or goodwill, to the extent that the value has not been satisfactorily established; or

- Issued to a promoter in the recent past or proposed to be issued at a price substantially lower than the price at which other securities of the same class or substantially similar class have been or are to be sold without any change in the conditions of the market or in the circumstances of the issuer which would justify such different price.

[d] Regulation of Amount of Promotional Shares

If the shares to be issued are promotional within the definition of the Commissioner of Corporations [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.30], then the corporation must take into account, in the resolutions authorizing them, the limitations on the number of promotional shares that may be issued. The basic criterion is the reasonableness of the amount of the issue. An unseasoned corporation's issuance of one promotional share for every three shares of common issued and proposed to be issued is presumptively reasonable, while a seasoned corporation [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.001(g)] normally may not issue any promotional shares.

In addition to the foregoing presumptions, Rule 140.31 also indicates that there are a variety of factors that the Commissioner may consider in allowing a promotional issue to vary from preconceived standards of fairness [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.31]. Thus, the Commissioner may consider the selling expenses paid to promoters. Two inferences are possible from this criterion:

- That if the selling expenses are high, the normal allotment of promotional shares may be reduced; or
- That if the proportion of selling expenses is low compared to the allowed limit, additional promotional shares may be allowed.

Other factors that may allow the issue of additional promotional shares are the following:

- Services and other considerations warranting special treatment;
- The nature of circumstances of the business enterprise; and
- The identity of the investors; e.g., whether they are all relatives or long-time business associates.

Stock acquired or to be acquired by an underwriter in connection with an offering is considered part of the underwriter's compensation for purposes of determining whether that compensation is reasonable, and is valued for that purpose on a formula basis taking into account the difference between the cost of the stock and the public offering price and other factors [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.20(a)].

[e] Reimbursement of Promoters' Expenses

In addition to the maximum amount of promotional shares that a promoter may receive, the corporation may reimburse the promoter for actual and necessary expenses in connection with the founding or organizing of a business enterprise, the offering of its securities, and the acquisition of assets with which the issuer is to carry on its business. This reimbursement may be paid out of proceeds of the sale of securities, subject, however, in the case of selling expenses, to the limitation on total selling expenses contained in 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.20 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.33].

[f] Limitations on the Rights of Promotional Shares

Promotional shares must be equity securities without preference as to dividends, assets, or voting rights, and must also have no greater rights per share than the securities issued for cash or equivalent [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.32]. For discussion of the aspects of securities regulations relating to promotional shares, see Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities .

[g] Resolutions Regarding Promotional Shares

When issuing promotional shares, the corporation can either work with the Commissioner before drafting the resolution in order to see what the Commissioner will allow, or draft a resolution based on what appears reasonable from the applicable regulations, attempting to satisfy the Commissioner in the application to qualify the issue, and, if not, to issue somewhat fewer shares to the promoter. However, it is the application, or similar facts presented to the Commissioner before formal application, that proves the entitlement to the desired number of promotional shares. The resolution itself is not significant. Therefore, the resolution may be simple, unless the parties feel that the corporate records should indicate the background of the resolution.

RESOLVED FURTHER, that subject to qualification with the Commissioner of Corporations of the State of California, this corporation issue to _____ [promoters] a total of one share of common stock for every three such shares issued and sold [or other formula or set amount], not to exceed _____ [number of shares]. [1] Comment--Use of Form

This form contains three alternative resolutions of the board of directors. The first should be used when the corporation issues shares under the small offering exemption and must file the required notice with the Commissioner [Corp. Code § 25102(h)(4); *10 Cal. § 6I.231 Resolution Authorizing Application for Sale of Securities Under the Laws of Other States

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a corporate resolution for use when the corporation authorizes an application for the sale of its securities in other states.

A corporation intending to apply for authorization to sell its securities in another state may be required to appoint a public officer of that state as agent for service of process prior to the filing of the application. The requirements of each state in which securities are to be sold should be checked to determine if particular forms must be used and if certain resolutions are prescribed.

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a corporate resolution authorizing the filing of an SEC registration statement in connection with a public offering of securities, together with related resolutions.

An interstate public offering of equity or debt securities may necessitate a series of resolutions, from the initial authorization to register the securities with the SEC--illustrated by the following form--to the approval of the underwriting agreement and the compensation of the underwriter. These resolutions normally will be adopted at different times and their content will be governed by the type of securities being offered. The resolutions will be furnished to the underwriter. E. Incentive Stock Options

3-6I California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 6I.240

AUTHOR: Marilyn Minger Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6I.240 Incentive Stock Option Plan

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an incentive stock option plan under which the corporation may grant stock options to its employees. Incentive stock options are statutory options [see I.R.C. § 422; see also [d], below] that allow employees to buy stock at a discount if the option price is lower than the stock's value at exercise of the option, and to delay tax consequences of the grant and exercise of the option until disposition of the stock received pursuant to the option [see I.R.C. §§ 422(a), 421(a); see also [c], below].

PRACTICE TIP:
Most stock option plans adopted by California corporations permit the corporation to issue either incentive stock options or other options not meeting all of the requirements of I.R.C. § 422. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

For bylaws authorizing the adoption of an incentive stock option plan and agreement, see Ch. 4, Bylaws, § 4.243. A resolution of the board of directors authorizing the offer and sale of stock options is set forth in § 6I.241. For a form setting forth shareholder approval of this incentive stock option plan, see § 6I.242. An example and discussion of an incentive stock option agreement made pursuant to this plan are set forth in Ch. 85, Employment Agreements, § 85.383. For an overview of various types of stock options and related tax issues, see Ch. 1D, Overview of Employee Benefits, § 1D.80 et seq. Employment contract provisions for both statutory and nonstatutory stock options are set forth in Ch. 85, Employment Agreements, §§ 85.383-85.386.

[b] Authorization for Stock Option Plans

A corporation may grant options to purchase shares of any class or series on any terms and conditions [see Corp. Code § 404]. Subject to any limitations contained in its articles of incorporation and compliance with applicable law, it has the power to establish and carry out share option plans for directors, officers, and employees of the corporation or of any subsidiary or affiliated corporation [Corp. Code § 207(f)]. An option plan may provide for the issue and sale of unissued or previously issued shares to one or more of the employees or directors of the corporation, or of its parent or subsidiary, or to a trustee on their behalf. It may provide for the consideration to be paid in installments, and may permit the corporation to aid any purchaser by compensation for services rendered, promissory notes, or otherwise [Corp. Code §§ 315(f)(1), 408(a)].

The plan or agreement under the plan may include, among other features, any of the following [Corp. Code § 408(b)]:

- Eligibility requirements for participation.
- The class and price of shares to be sold under the plan or agreement.
- The number of shares that may be subscribed for.
- The method of payment for those shares.
- The reservation of title until full payment.
- The effect of termination of employment.
- An option or obligation on the part of the corporation to repurchase the shares on termination of employment, subject to Corp. Code §§ 500-511 (governing reacquisitions).
- Restrictions on the transfer of shares.
- The time limits and termination of the plan [Corp. Code § 408(b)].

The Labor Code provisions that treat any property put up by an employee as part of an employment contract as a bond, and that make illegal any investments or sale of stock in a business in connection with obtaining employment in that business [see Lab. Code §§ 406, 407], are inapplicable to shares issued by a corporation to an employee of the corporation or its parent or subsidiary pursuant to a stock option plan or agreement [Corp. Code § 408(c)].

[c] Basic Tax Treatment of Incentive Stock Options

The grant of an option does not result in taxable income to the recipient [I.R.C. § 421(a)(1)]. The holder of a non-qualified stock option recognizes ordinary income equal to the difference between the exercise price and the fair market value of the shares when the option is exercised. Any subsequent gain or loss is taxed to the recipient as taxable gain or loss upon disposition [I.R.C. § 421(b)]. For an incentive stock option, the holder recognizes no income, gain or loss, on exercise [I.R.C. § 421(a)(1)]. If the shares are held at least two years after grant and one year after exercise, the holder will not recognize income until the shares are disposed of [I.R.C. § 422(a)(1)], at which time the entire gain or loss, calculated with respect to the original exercise price will be taxed as capital gain or loss [see I.R.C. §§ 1221-1223 (capital gain rules); Treas. Reg. § 14A.422A-1, Answer A-1 (IRS questions and answers regarding incentive stock option rules)]. When a holder exercises an incentive stock option, the holder will be subject to alternative minimum tax if taxable income exceeds certain amounts [see I.R.C. §§ 55, 56(b)(3)].

The company receives a tax deduction at the time of exercise of non-qualified stock options [I.R.C. § 421(b)], but not on exercise of incentive stock options [I.R.C. § 421(a)(3)].

For further discussion of the taxation of incentive stock options, see Ch. 85, Employment Agreements, § 85.383[1][b].

[d] Internal Revenue Code Requirements

To qualify as an "incentive stock option," an option must be for the purchase of stock of a corporation (or of its parent or subsidiary), must be granted to an individual for any reason connected with his or her employment by the corporation (or by its parent or subsidiary), and must meet all of the following requirements [I.R.C. § 422(b)]:

- The option is granted pursuant to a plan that [I.R.C. § 422(b)(1); see [2], P 13, below]
  - Includes the aggregate number of shares that may be issued under options [see [2], P 4, below];
  - Includes the employees (or class of employees) eligible to receive options [see [2], P 3, below]; and
  - Is approved by the shareholders of the granting corporation within 12 months before or after the date the plan is adopted;
- The option is granted within 10 years from the date the plan is adopted, or the date the plan is approved by the shareholders, whichever is earlier [I.R.C. § 422(b)(2); see [2], P 3, below];
- By its terms the option is not exercisable after the expiration of 10 years from the date it is granted, or five years from the date it is granted if the employee owns more than 10 percent of all voting power [I.R.C. §§ 422(b)(3), (c)(5); see [2], P 6, below];
- The option price is not less than the fair market value of the stock [see I.R.C. § 422(c)(7) (determination of "fair market value")] at the time the option is granted, or not less than 110 percent of fair market value if the employee owns more than 10 percent of all voting power [I.R.C. § 422(b)(4), (c)(5); see I.R.C. § 422(c)(1) (good faith attempt at valuation sufficient); see also [2], P 7, below];
- By its terms the option is not transferable by the employee other than by will or the laws of descent and distribution, and is exercisable during the employee's lifetime only by him or her [I.R.C. § 422(b)(5); see [2], P 8, below];
- At the time the option is granted, the employee does not own stock possessing more than 10 percent of the total combined voting power of all classes of stock of the employer corporation (or of its parent or subsidiary) [I.R.C. § 422(b)(6); see [2], P 3, below]; and
- At the time the option is granted, the terms of that option do not prohibit it from being treated as an incentive stock option [I.R.C. § 422(b); see [2], PP 1, 3, below].

To the extent that the aggregate fair market value of stock with respect to which incentive stock options are exercisable for the first time by any individual during any calendar year (under all plans of the employer corporation and its parent and subsidiary corporations) exceeds $100,000, the options will not be treated as incentive stock options [I.R.C. § 422(d)(1); see [2], P 5, below]. For this purpose, the fair market value of any stock will be determined at the time the option with respect to that stock is granted [I.R.C. § 422(d)(3)].

The requirement that the plan indicate the employees or class of employees eligible to receive options [see [b], above; see also I.R.C. § 422(b)(1)] will be considered satisfied by a general designation of the class of employees. Therefore, a designation such as "all salaried employees of the grantor corporation and its subsidiaries," "key employees of the grantor corporation," or "all employees of the corporation" will meet this requirement [Treas. Reg. § 1.422-2(b)(4)].

For a more detailed discussion of the Internal Revenue Code requirements for incentive stock options, see Ch. 85, Employment Agreements, § 85.383[1][c].

[e] Provisions of Plan

The only provisions that must be included in an incentive stock option plan are clauses specifying the number of shares that may be issued under options and the employees eligible to receive options [I.R.C. § 422(b)(1); see [d], above]. However, most plans enumerate all of the option requirements set forth in I.R.C. § 422(b) [see [d], above]. In any case, to qualify incentive stock options by permit under the California securities laws [see Corp. Code § 25113], the plan must contain provisions similar to those set forth in I.R.C. § 422(b) [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.41; see also [j], below].

In addition to the required provisions, other provisions are essential for effective management of the plan. For example, the purpose of the plan [see [2], P 1, below], the procedure for exercising the option [see [2], P 6, below], and employee rights at termination of the option [see [2], P 9, below] should be included [see Colvin, Qualified "Incentive Stock Options" Under the New Law: Requirements and Advantages, 55 J. Tax'n 202 (1981)]. In addition, the plan should describe how it will be administered. The board of directors may create a committee to administer the plan [see [2], P 2, below] pursuant to Corp. Code § 311. For discussion and an example of a board of directors' resolution designating a committee, see Ch. 5, Directors' Meetings, Actions, and Resolutions, § 5.245.

[f] Adoption and Approval of Plan

The shareholders must approve an incentive stock option plan within 12 months before or after the date the plan is adopted [I.R.C. § 422(b)(1); see § 6I.242[1][b] (approval requirements)]. Ordinarily, shareholder approval comes after adoption of the plan by the board of directors. The date of adoption, or the date of shareholder approval, whichever is earlier, is used to compute the 10-year limitation on options that may be granted pursuant to the plan [see I.R.C. § 422(b)(2)].

For a board of directors' resolution adopting the plan, see § 6I.241. For a form setting forth shareholder approval of the plan, see § 6I.242.

[g] Securities Law Requirements in General

Because an incentive stock option plan involves the sale of securities by an issuer, the stock transactions contemplated in the plan must comply with federal and state securities laws. Under federal law, the offer or sale of a security must be registered with the SEC [see 15 U.S.C. § 77f], unless the security or transaction is exempt [15 U.S.C. §§ 77c, 77d]. For basic discussion of the federal securities laws and a list of the applicable exemptions from registration under the Securities Act of 1933, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues , and Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations .

Under California law, the offer or sale of a security must be qualified with the Commissioner of Corporations, unless the security or the transaction is exempt from or not subject to qualification [Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, 25130]. By definition, the offer or sale of an option to purchase a security includes the offer and sale of the security itself, so that neither the exercise of the option nor the issuance of the stock pursuant to that option is an offer or sale requiring separate qualification or exemption [Corp. Code § 25017(e); see Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 8, Standards for the Exercise of the Commissioner's Discretion (Matthew Bender)]. For a detailed discussion of the methods of qualification and types of exemptions, see Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities . The two most common California exemptions, the small offering exemption and the limited offering exemption, are covered in Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions , and Ch. 6C, California Small Offering Exemption . For discussion of the federal Rule 701 exemption, see Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations, § 6A.30.

[h] Special Exemption When Issuer Has Registered Under Federal Securities Exchange Act

The offer or sale of incentive stock options is exempt from qualification under Corp. Code § 25110 (issuer transactions) if each of the following requirements has been met [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.8(a)]:

- The corporation issuing the options is the issuer of any security registered under Section 12 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.8(a)(1); see 15 U.S.C. § 78l];

- The total number of shares of stock of the corporation subject to incentive stock options (and all other outstanding employee stock options) does not exceed 10 percent of the outstanding shares of the same class of the corporation (exclusive of shares subject to promotional waivers) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.8(a)(2)]; and

- Options granted prior to shareholder approval are by their terms not exercisable until shareholder approval has been obtained, and are void if shareholder approval is not obtained within 12 months before or after the incentive stock option plan is adopted [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.8(a)(3); see I.R.C. § 422(b)(1)].

Further, the offer or sale of incentive stock options as a result of the amendment of outstanding options to conform to the requirements for incentive stock options [see I.R.C. § 422(b); see also [d], above] is exempt from qualification under Corp. Code § 25120 (recapitalizations and reorganizations) if any of the following apply [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.8(b)]:

- The outstanding options were qualified under Corp. Code § 25110 (issuer transactions);

- The transaction conforms to all of the requirements of 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.8(a); or

- The transaction conforms to the requirements of 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.8(a)(1) (registered corporation), (3) (shareholder approval), and at the time the options were issued, the transaction conformed to the requirement of 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.8(a)(2) (limitation on stock subject to options).

[i] Plan Requirements for Qualification by Permit

If the offer or sale of the incentive stock options will be qualified by permit [see Corp. Code § 25113; see also Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities], the Corporations Commissioner may refuse to issue a permit unless he or she finds the proposed issuance of the securities to be fair, just, and equitable [Corp. Code § 25140(b)]. The Commissioner's standards regarding fairness, intended to operate as guidelines only [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140; see also Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 8, Standards for the Exercise of the Commissioner's Discretion (Matthew Bender)], contain three provisions regarding stock option plans, discussed below. For a discussion and example of the information regarding stock options that must appear in an application for qualification by permit, see Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities, § 6H.234.

[j] Contents of Plan

Under the Commissioner's guidelines referred to in [i], above, an option plan or agreement should provide for all of the following [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.41; see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 118-C (Nov. 14, 2006) (request for variance from compensatory benefit plan regulations)]:

- The total number of securities (which may be expressed as a specific number of securities or as a percentage of the total number of securities outstanding from time to time) that may be issued and the persons eligible to receive options.

- An exercise period of not more than 10 years from the date the option is granted.

- The nontransferability of the options, provided that the plan or agreement may permit transfer by will, by the laws of descent and distribution, to a revocable trust, or as permitted by Rule 701 of the Securities Act of 1933 [see 17 C.F.R § 230.701].

- The proportionate adjustment of the number of securities purchasable and the exercise price under the option in the event of a stock split, reverse stock split, stock dividend, recapitalization, combination, reclassification, or other distribution of the issuer's equity securities without the receipt of consideration by the issuer, of or on the issuer's class or series of securities underlying the option.

- The right to exercise the option in the event of termination (other than for cause), to the extent the optionee is entitled to exercise on the date employment terminates, continues until the earlier of the option expiration date or (1) at least six months from the date of termination if termination was caused by death or disability, or (2) at least 30 days from the date of termination if termination was caused other than by death or disability.

- Options must be granted within 10 years from the date the plan or agreement is adopted or the date the plan or agreement is approved by the issuer's security holders, whichever is earlier.

- The plan or agreement must be approved by a majority of the outstanding securities entitled to vote by the later of (1) within 12 months before or after the date the plan is adopted or the agreement is entered into, or (2) prior to or within 12 months of the granting of any option or issuance of any security under the plan or agreement in California. Any option granted to any person in California that is exercised before security holder approval is obtained must be rescinded if security holder approval is not obtained as described above. These securities will not be counted in determining whether approval is obtained.(A foreign private issuer [see 17 C.F.R. § 240.3b-4] is not required to comply with this requirement if the aggregate number of persons in California granted options under all option plans and agreements and issued securities under all purchase and bonus plans and agreements does not exceed 35).

- Compliance with regulations regarding information required to be received by security holders [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.46].

Historically, these requirements have basically mirrored the definition of an incentive stock option contained in I.R.C. § 422(b) [see [d], above].

[k] Plan Documentation

The documentation of a purchase plan must provide that employees, officers, directors, managers, advisors, or consultants receive financial statements at least annually [see [2], P 15, below]. However, the financial statements do not have to meet the requirements of 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.613. Documentation need not be provided when issuance is limited to key persons whose duties in connection with the issuer assure them access to equivalent information.This section does not apply to any plan or agreement that complies with all conditions of Rule 701 [17 C.F.R. § 230.701], provided that for purposes of determining compliance, any registered domestic partner is considered a "family member" as that term is defined in Rule 701 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.46; see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 118-C (Nov. 14, 2006) (request for variance from compensatory benefit plan regulations pending their possible amendment)].

[l] Limitation on Number of Shares

A presumption of fairness is created if all the securities called for by all outstanding options, under any purchase, bonus, or similar plan or agreement, do not exceed 30 percent of the then-outstanding securities of the issuer (excluding securities subject to promotional waivers) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.45]. The limitation is determined without regard to shares represented by pro rata rights issued to shareholders [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.40], shares called for by warrants issued to debt or equity purchasers [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.43, 260.140.44], or securities sold to employees, directors, consultants, etc. [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.42], provided the purchase plan or agreement provides that all securities will have a purchase price of 100 percent of the security's fair value [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.50] either at the time the person is granted the right to purchase securities or at the time the purchase is consummated [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.45; see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 118-C (Nov. 14, 2006) (request for variance from compensatory benefit plan regulations pending their possible amendment)]. However, the issuer should still seek qualification by permit if all of the circumstances justify exceeding the 30-percent limit, especially when the securities are not publicly traded [Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 8, Standards for the Exercise of the Commissioner's Discretion, § 8.06[6] (Matthew Bender)].This section does not apply to any plan or agreement that complies with all conditions of Rule 701 [17 C.F.R. § 230.701], provided that for purposes of determining compliance, any registered domestic partner is considered a "family member" as that term is defined in Rule 701 [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.45(c)].

[m] Acquisition and Divestment of Subsidiary Corporation

When a corporation is acquired as a subsidiary, and subsequently sold by the parent corporation, questions regarding the rights of the subsidiary's employees in the parent's incentive stock option plan may arise. In the acquisition phase of such a transaction, the acquired corporation's incentive stock option plan commonly is absorbed into the parent company's plan. When the parent corporation divests itself of the subsidiary, questions can arise as to (1) what happens to the subsidiary's employees' vested options in the parent company's stock; and (2) what happens to the subsidiary's employees' rights to have nonvested options in the parent company's stock. The answers will depend on how the parent company's plan provides for the possibility of acquisition and divestment.

In one case, a plan's only pertinent provision spoke of the "termination of the Optionee's Continuous Status as an Employee" and provided that vested options must be exercised within 30 days after the termination, while nonvested option rights were forfeited. This provision was ambiguous in the circumstances, since the subsidiary employees argued that they were not terminated through the sale of the subsidiary but simply passed into the control of a different parent corporation. Therefore, they argued, they should not be forced to exercise their vested options, nor should they lose their rights to have nonvested options become vested. The court concluded that the plan's reference to "status as an employee" meant status as an employee of the parent company or one of its subsidiaries. The subsidiary employees had that status while the parent owned the subsidiary, but they lost that status when the parent sold the subsidiary [Falkowski v. Imation Corp. (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 499, 510, 512, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 724] .

Stock Subject to Option

10. The Corporation shall at all times during the term of this Plan reserve the number of shares of _____ [describe stock subject to options] required to meet the requirements of this Plan, and shall pay all fees and expenses necessarily incurred by the Corporation in connection with the exercise of options under this Plan.

In the event of a stock split, reverse stock split, stock dividend, combination, or reclassification of the Corporation's stock, an appropriate and proportionate adjustment shall be made in the number of shares to which stock options may be granted. A corresponding change shall be made to the number and kind of shares, and the exercise price per share, of unexercised options.

Merger, Consolidation, or Dissolution of Corporation

11. Following the merger of one or more corporations into the Corporation, or any consolidation of the Corporation and one or more corporations in which the Corporation is the surviving corporation, the exercise of options under this Plan shall apply to the shares of the surviving corporation.

PRACTICE TIP:

Many plans provide for accelerated vesting in the event of a merger in which the company will not be the surviving corporation, so that the option holders will be entitled to receive the merger consideration on the same basis as other shareholders. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

Notwithstanding any other provision of this Plan, all options under this Plan shall terminate on the dissolution or liquidation of the Corporation, or on any merger or consolidation in which the Corporation is not the surviving corporation.

Other Option Terms

12. Any option granted pursuant to this Plan shall contain any other terms that the Board of Directors, the Corporation's legal counsel, or the Committee deems necessary.

Effective Date of Plan

13. This Plan shall be effective on approval by the outstanding shares or unanimous written consent of the shareholders of the Corporation.

Amendment and Termination of Plan

14. The Board of Directors may at any time amend or terminate this plan. No option may be granted after termination. The amendment or termination of the Plan shall not, however, alter any optionee's rights or obligations under an option previously granted, unless the optionee consents to that alteration.

[Add if options will be qualified by permit (10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.46; see Corp. Code § 25113):]

Financial Statements

15. Optionees under this Plan shall receive financial statements annually regarding the Corporation during the period the options are outstanding. The financial statements provided need not comply with Title 10, Section 260.613 of the California Code of Regulations.

§ 6I.241 Directors' Resolution Adopting Incentive Stock Option Plan

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a resolution of the board of directors approving and adopting a plan to grant incentive stock options [see I.R.C. § 422] to corporate employees. The corporation's power to adopt a share option plan [see Corp. Code § 408(a)] may be exercised by the board of directors pursuant to a resolution [see Corp. Code § 300(a)]. Alternatively, the board may adopt the plan pursuant to unanimous written consent [Corp. Code § 307(b); see Ch. 5, Directors' Meetings, Actions, and Resolutions, § 5.10]. For a detailed discussion of board resolutions and consents, see Ch. 5, Directors' Meetings, Actions, and Resolutions .

For a form and discussion of an incentive stock option plan, see § 6I.240. A shareholders' resolution approving the plan is set forth in § 6I.242. For an incentive stock option agreement, see Ch. 85, Employment Agreements, § 85.383. Bylaws authorizing the adoption of an incentive stock option plan and agreement are set forth Ch. 4, Bylaws, § 4.243. For an overview of basic types of stock-based plans and related tax issues, see Ch. 1D, Overview of Employee Benefits, § 1D.80 et seq. Employment contract provisions for both statutory and nonstatutory stock options are set forth in Ch. 85, Employment Agreements, §§ 85.383-85.386.

[b] Adoption Requirement

By definition, an "incentive stock option" must be granted pursuant to a plan that is approved by the shareholders of the granting corporation within 12 months before or after the date the plan is adopted [I.R.C. § 422(b)(1)]. Ordinarily, a plan is adopted when it is approved by the board of directors. The date of adoption is generally used to calculate the 10-year period in which options may be granted under the plan [see I.R.C. § 422(b)(2); see also § 6I.240].

To constitute a qualified incentive stock option, the option must be approved by shareholders within 12 months before or after the plan is adopted [I.R.C. § 422(b); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17501]. Shareholder approval must comply with the corporate charter and bylaws, and with state law prescribing the method and degree of shareholder approval required for the issuance of corporate stock or options. If state law does not have a governing provision, the plan must be approved by a majority of votes at a duly held shareholder's meeting or by a method that state law would treat as adequate for other action requiring shareholder approval [Treas. Reg. § 1.422-3].

[c] Proof of Proceedings

The original or a copy of any resolution adopted by the board of directors, certified to be a true copy by a person purporting to be the secretary or an assistant secretary of the corporation, is prima facie evidence of the adoption of that resolution [Corp. Code § 314].

§ 6I.242 Resolution of Shareholders Approving Incentive Stock Option Plan

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a resolution to be adopted by the shareholders of a corporation approving an incentive stock option plan. By definition, an "incentive stock option" is granted pursuant to a plan that has been approved by the shareholders of the granting corporation within 12 months before or after the date the plan is adopted [I.R.C. § 422(b)(1)]. The date of shareholder approval is used to calculate the 10-year period in which options may be granted under the plan [see I.R.C. § 422(b)(2)].

For a form and discussion of an incentive stock option plan, see § 6I.240. A resolution of the board of directors approving the plan is set forth in § 6I.241. For an incentive stock option agreement, see Ch. 85, Employment Agreements, § 85.383. Bylaws authorizing the adoption of an incentive stock option plan and agreement are set forth in Ch. 4, Bylaws, § 4.243. For an overview of basic types of stock-based plans and related tax issues, see Ch. 1D, Overview of Employee Benefits, § 1D.80 et seq. Employment contract provisions for both statutory and nonstatutory stock options are set forth in Ch. 85, Employment Agreements, §§ 85.383-85.386.

[b] Approval of Shareholders

For an incentive stock option plan to be approved by the shareholders, at least a majority of the outstanding voting stock must be voted in person or by proxy at a duly held shareholders' meeting [Rev. Rul. 75-256, 1975-2 C.B. 194 ; see Rabkin & Johnson, Federal Income, Gift and Estate Taxation, Ch. 14, Employer and Employee, § 14.16[3] (Matthew Bender)]. Under California law, "approved by the outstanding shares" means approved by the affirmative vote of a majority of the outstanding shares entitled to vote. That approval includes the affirmative vote of a majority of the outstanding shares of each class or series entitled, by any provision of the articles or the General Corporation Law [Corp. Code §§ 100-2319] to vote as a class or series on the subject matter being voted on, and also includes the affirmative vote of any greater proportion of the outstanding shares of any class or series required by the articles or the General Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 152].

Alternatively, the plan may be approved by unanimous written consent of the shareholders without a meeting, in accordance with state law. If only majority approval is obtained by written consent, however, a meeting is required [Rev. Rul. 80-29, 1980-1 C.B. 93 ; see Rabkin & Johnson, Federal Income, Gift and Estate Taxation, Ch. 14, Employer and Employee, § 14.16[3] (Matthew Bender)]. Under California law, any action that may be taken at any annual or special meeting may be taken without a meeting and without prior notice, if a consent in writing [see Corp. Code § 195 (definition)] includes the following [Corp. Code § 603(a)]:

- Sets forth the action taken, and

- Is provided by the holders of outstanding shares with no less than the minimum number of votes that would be necessary to authorize or take that action at a meeting at which all shares entitled to vote were present and voted.

This form reflects the vote of a majority of the shareholders pursuant to a meeting. For an example of a unanimous written consent given without a meeting, see Ch. 8A, Shareholders' Meetings, Voting, and Agreements, §§ 8A.225, 8A.226.

§ 6I.250 Stock Purchase Warrant or Subscription Warrant

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a warrant entitling the holder to purchase corporate shares by a given date. It is a basic warrant form that may be used in an offering to the public or in a distribution to existing shareholders. For examples of more complex warrants with additional features, see Rabkin & Johnson, Current Legal Forms with Tax Analysis, Ch. 19, Corporate Securities (Matthew Bender).

For a board resolution authorizing the offer and sale of warrants, see § 6I.251. For a board resolution authorizing the issuance of warrants for a share dividend of fractional shares, see Ch. 9, Dividends, Reacquisitions of Shares, and Assessments, § 9.230.

[b] Characteristics of Warrants

A warrant is a contract in which a corporation makes an irrevocable offer for the warrant holder to purchase corporate shares at a specified price, usually at a discount from market price, under specified circumstances [see Cavitch, Business Organizations with Tax Planning, Ch. 92, Convertible Securities, Warrants and Options (Matthew Bender)]. Although warrants are classified as "equity securities" [see Corp. Code § 168], they are not stock, but are merely an option or right to buy stock. They have no voting, dividend, or distribution rights. Although most warrants are valid only for a specified time, some warrants are perpetual. Warrants are a type of option, but unlike options, they are usually transferable [Cavitch, Business Organizations with Tax Planning, Ch. 92, Convertible Securities, Warrants and Options (Matthew Bender)].

There are two main types of warrants. Stock purchase warrants are generally attached to corporate obligations or shares on original public issue, and are designed to make the securities to which they are attached more saleable [Ballantine &

Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 7, Issuance of Shares and Indebtedness , § 121.03[10] (Matthew Bender); see [e], below]. Subscription warrants or "rights" are granted to existing shareholders in connection with the sale of additional shares, and are used almost exclusively as a tool of financing after initial capitalization [Cavitch, Business Organizations with Tax Planning, Ch. 92, Convertible Securities, Warrants and Options, § 92.02 (Matthew Bender); see [g], below].

[c] Distinguished From Evidence of Fractional Shares

Scrip certificates that are issued to evidence fractional share interests are often called "warrants" [see Corp. Code § 407]. When a sufficient number of "warrants" representing fractional shares are accumulated to evidence at least one full share, the shareholder presents them to an issuer for the full shares represented [Corp. Code § 407]. Those certificates, however, are unrelated to the warrants discussed in this chapter [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 7, Issuance of Shares and Indebtedness , § 136.02 (Matthew Bender)]. For further discussion of this type of "warrant," see Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation, § 3.251[1][g].

[d] Authorization for Issuing Warrants and Stock

A corporation may grant options (which include warrants) to purchase or subscribe for shares of any class or series on any terms and conditions deemed expedient, either in connection with the issue, subscription, or sale of any of its shares, bonds, debentures, notes, or other securities, or independently. Option rights may be transferable or nontransferable, and separable or inseparable from other securities of the corporation [Corp. Code § 404]. No article or bylaw provisions are necessary to authorize the issuance of warrants. Warrants are authorized and issued by resolution of the board of directors [see § 6I.251], unless the articles or bylaws restrict issuance. No statutory constraints limit the kind of consideration that may be received for stock purchase warrants; the board of directors generally determines the adequacy of the consideration [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 7, Issuance of Shares and Indebtedness (Matthew Bender)].

When warrants are issued, a sufficient number of shares of the underlying stock should be authorized and reserved for issuance on exercise of the warrants [see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 7, Issuance of Shares and Indebtedness (Matthew Bender)]. If at the time of granting option rights the corporation's articles do not authorize the issuance of all the shares required for satisfaction of the rights, if and when exercised, the additional number of shares required should be authorized by an amendment to the articles [Corp. Code § 405(a)]. If the corporation has obtained approval of the outstanding shares [see Corp. Code § 152] for the issuance of option rights, the board may amend the articles to increase the authorized shares to satisfy those rights, without further approval of the outstanding shares [Corp. Code § 405(b)].

[e] Stock Purchase Warrants in General

Stock purchase warrants may be detachable from the bond, debenture, or stock certificate they accompany, or issued as separate documents, so that they can be transferred without regard to the other security [Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 7, Issuance of Shares and Indebtedness , § 136.02 (Matthew Bender)]. They are issued to make existing securities more attractive to potential investors, who might not purchase them without an added inducement, to compensate promoters or underwriters and insure their continuing interest in the corporation's future, or as a direct means of raising additional funds [Cavitch, Business Organizations with Tax Planning, Ch. 92, Convertible Securities, Warrants and Options, § 92.02[3] (Matthew Bender)]. The warrant's exercise price is usually lower than the market price of the stock subject to the warrant. However, since the corporation's primary consideration is to attract capital, too low a price will defeat the offer's purpose. Therefore, the issuer should fix the exercise price at the highest level that will attract new investors [Cavitch, Business Organizations with Tax Planning, Ch. 92, Convertible Securities, Warrants and Options, § 92.02[4] (Matthew Bender)].

Regulations of the Corporations Commissioner govern warrants to purchase debt and equity securities when the offering must be qualified [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.43 (debt securities), 260.140.44 (equity securities); see [i], below].

For an extensive discussion of stock purchase warrants, see Cavitch, Business Organizations with Tax Planning, Ch. 92, Convertible Securities, Warrants and Options, § 92.02 (Matthew Bender).

[f] Stock Purchase Warrants Distinguished From Convertible Securities

Like convertible securities [see Ch. 6J, Issuance of Debt Securities, § 6J.12], stock purchase warrants offer the investor an opportunity to acquire corporate shares if he or she purchases other corporate securities. However, two features distinguish stock purchase warrants from convertible securities. First, because warrants are independent of the accompanying security, they must be supported by independent consideration. The conversion right in convertible securities is supported by the same consideration as the original security. Second, the holder of a warrant pays for the shares issued at the warrant's exercise price, and keeps the original security. The holder of a convertible security, however, must surrender the original security as consideration for the new shares [Cavitch, Business ORGANIZATIONS WITH TAX PLANNING, Ch. 92, Convertible Securities, Warrants and Options, § 92.02[1] (Matthew Bender)].

[g] Subscription Warrants

A subscription warrant or "right" may be issued to the existing shareholders of the corporation in connection with a "rights" offering. These warrants typically have a very short duration, such as two or three weeks, and represent the privilege to subscribe for additional stock to be issued. Each shareholder receives one right for each share held. The right issued should be distinguished from the form of the warrant itself; one warrant may represent all of a shareholder's rights, which together may represent the ability to purchase more or less than one new share. The rights are usually granted for free, without cash consideration, and are therefore not actually part of the corporate capitalization [Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 7, Issuance of Shares and Indebtedness , § 121.03 (Matthew Bender)].

Subscription rights may be transferable, so that to the extent that there is a difference between the subscription price of the securities and their market value, the shareholder who does not subscribe may still sell the warrant and realize something of value. For example, in a 10 to one issuance in which 10 rights are required to purchase one share, a shareholder holding only five rights may sell his or her rights in the public market, or purchase additional rights. When the rights have expired, the underwriters purchase any shares remaining unsold and resell them in a public offering.

Issuers often provide shareholders with the opportunity to buy any shares of the new additional stock that are left over after the rights expire, at the warrant exercise price, through "oversubscription." Leftover shares become available when some rights holders fail to exercise their rights to purchase.

Regulations of the Corporations Commissioner govern "rights" in offerings that must be qualified [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.40; see [k], below].

For further discussion of subscription warrants, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Appendix A, Forms 9.11, 9.12 (Matthew Bender).

[h] Securities Laws Considerations

Warrants are "securities" under federal securities law [15 U.S.C. § 77b(a)(1)], and therefore must be registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission [see 15 U.S.C. § 77f] unless the security or transaction is exempt [15 U.S.C. §§

77c, 77d]. For basic discussion of the federal securities laws, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues , and Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations . For a detailed discussion of federal securities laws, see Sommer, Federal Securities Act of1933 (Matthew Bender), and Sommer, Federal Securities Exchange Act of1934 (Matthew Bender).

Warrants are also "securities" under California law [Corp. Code § 25019], and must be qualified unless exempt or not subject to qualification [see Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, 25130]. Compliance is required at the time of the offer or sale of the warrant; neither the exercise of the right to purchase stock nor the issuance of the securities pursuant to the warrant falls within the definition of "offer" or "sale" requiring separate qualification or exemption [Corp. Code § 25017(e)].

[i] Qualification Requirements

If an issuer attempts to qualify the offer or sale of warrants by permit [see Corp. Code §§ 25113, 25122; see §§ 6I.230-6I.232 (qualification)], the Commissioner may refuse to issue a permit unless he or she finds the proposed issuance of the securities to be fair, just, and equitable [Corp. Code § 25140(b)]. Similarly, the Commissioner may deny the effectiveness of qualification by coordination [see Corp. Code § 25111] or notification [see Corp. Code § 25112] for the same reason [Corp. Code § 25140(a)]. The Commissioner's standards regarding fairness, intended to operate as guidelines only [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140; Marsh & Volk, Practice Under the California Securities Laws, Ch. 8, Standards for the Exercise of the Commissioner's Discretion (Matthew Bender)], contain three provisions regarding stock warrants.

Warrants to purchase equity securities may be issued to the purchasers of debt securities in an offering that must be qualified provided that the following conditions are satisfied [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.43]:

- Issuance is necessary to obtain debt financing;
- The term of the warrant does not exceed the life of the debt securities or 15 years, whichever is less;
- The number of shares issuable on exercise of the warrants does not exceed the number that could be purchased at the exercise price with the debt securities at face amount; and
- The exercise price is at least equal to the value of the equity securities [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.50] on the date the warrant is issued.

For further discussion of debt securities, see Ch. 6J, Issuance of Debt Securities .

[j] Warrants to Purchasers of Equity Securities

Warrants to purchase equity securities may be issued to purchasers of equity securities in an offering that must be qualified provided that the following conditions are satisfied [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.44]:

- Issuance is necessary to obtain equity financing;
- The term of the warrant does not exceed five years;
- The number of securities issuable on exercise does not exceed the number of equity securities purchased with the warrants; and
- The exercise price is at least equal to the value of the equity securities [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §

260.140.50] on the date the warrant is issued.

[k] Pro Rata Subscription Rights

Rights may be issued to all the shareholders of an issuer (or to all the holders of a particular class of stock) to purchase additional shares on a pro rata basis in an offering that must be qualified, provided that the following conditions are satisfied [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.40]:

- The term is no more than 90 days following the date of issuance.
- The exercise price is not so low in relation to the offering price [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.50] that it is unreasonably prejudicial to those shareholders unable to exercise or sell their rights.
- The relative equity positions of different classes of outstanding shares will not be unfairly prejudiced
- The rights are freely transferable.

An exercise price that is not more than 15 percent below the offering price [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.50] is presumptively reasonable [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.40].

[l] Tax Considerations Related to Receipt of Warrants

When existing shareholders receive rights to purchase stock in a subscription offering, the receipt of those rights is treated as a distribution on existing shares. Distributions of a corporation's stock to its shareholders are not includible in gross income [I.R.C. § 305(a)], unless they are payable either in stock or property, are disproportionate, are made on preferred stock, or are composed of convertible preferred stock [I.R.C. § 305(b)]. The term "stock" includes the right to acquire stock [I.R.C. § 305(d)(1); see Rabkin & Johnson, Current Legal Forms with Tax Analysis, Ch. 19, Corporate Securities , Form 19.13 (Matthew Bender)]. The corporation recognizes no gain or loss on its distribution of rights to acquire stock when the distribution is not made in complete liquidation [I.R.C. § 311]. For further discussion of the taxation of distributions, see Ch. 9, Dividends, Reacquisitions of Shares, and Assessments . The basis of the shareholders' existing shares is allocated between the existing shares and the rights [I.R.C. § 307(a)]. However, if the fair market value of the rights is less than 15 percent of the fair market value of the existing shares, the rights will have a basis of zero [I.R.C. § 307(b)].

In a stock purchase offering, the new shareholders pay a separate, nominal consideration for the warrant, in addition to the price of the attached security [Cavitch, Business Organizations with Tax Planning, Ch. 92, Convertible Securities, Warrants and Options, § 92.02[2] (Matthew Bender)]. Although the issuing corporation receives no taxable income on the receipt of consideration for a warrant, that consideration constitutes ordinary income on the warrant's expiration date if the warrant is not exercised [Rev. Rul. 72-198, 1972-1 C.B. 223].

[m] Tax Considerations Related to Disposition of Warrant Before Exercise

Because warrants are generally transferable [see [b], above], they may be bought and sold before exercise. Any gain or loss attributable to the sale or exchange of, or loss attributable to failure to exercise, the right to purchase stock will be considered to be capital gain or loss [I.R.C. § 1234; see I.R.C. § 1221 (capital asset defined)]. Stock warrants may also be entitled to capital loss as "worthless securities" [see I.R.C. § 165(g)(2)]. The rate differential between capital gains and ordinary income is substantial enough to give capital gains treatment a significant advantage [see I.R.C. § 1(a)-(e), (h)(1), (i)(2); Rev. & Tax. Code § 18151].

For California state income taxation purposes, capital gains and losses are determined in accordance with the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18151].

§ 6I.251 Resolutions Authorizing the Offer and Sale of Warrants

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a resolution of the board of directors authorizing the offer and sale of warrants. For a warrant form and discussion of warrants, see § 6I.250.

The corporation's power to grant warrants and other types of options [see Corp. Code § 404] may be exercised by the board of directors pursuant to a resolution [see Corp. Code § 300(a)]. Alternatively, the board may adopt the plan pursuant to unanimous written consent [Corp. Code § 307(b); see Ch. 5, Directors' Meetings, Actions, and Resolutions, § 5.221]. For a detailed discussion of board resolutions and consents, see Ch. 5, Directors' Meetings, Actions, and Resolutions .

[b] Types of Warrants

Warrants to purchase shares in the corporation may take several forms. This form may be used to authorize the issuance of either stock purchase warrants or subscription warrants ("rights"). For further discussion of warrants generally, see § 6I.250[1][b].

[c] Securities Law Requirements

Warrants are "securities" under California law [Corp. Code § 25019], and an offer or sale of warrants must be qualified unless exempt or not subject to qualification [see Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, 25130]. In order for an offer to be qualified, warrants to purchasers of equity or debt securities must meet requirements regarding necessity of issuance, term of warrant, number of securities issuable, and exercise price [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.43, 260.140.44; see [2], below]. For an offer of rights to be qualified, the rights must meet the Commissioner's requirements of expiration term, exercise price, and transferability [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.40]. For further discussion of securities issues relating to warrants, see § 6I.250[1][h]. For a resolution authorizing the officers to take all actions necessary to comply with the securities laws, see § 6I.230. For a resolution identifying the offerees in a limited offering, see § 6I.211.

[d] Proof of Proceedings

The original or a copy of any resolution adopted by the board of directors, certified to be a true copy by a person purporting to be the secretary or an assistant secretary of the corporation, is prima facie evidence of the adoption of that resolution [Corp. Code § 314].

§ 6I.261 Subscription Agreement for Shares in California Corporation--Purchase Price Payable in Cash on Execution of Agreement--Public Offering to California Residents

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a subscription agreement for the purchase of shares in a California corporation. It assumes the following:

- The securities will be sold in a public offering for which no California securities exemption is available and that they therefore must be qualified with the California Commissioner of Corporations.
- The Commissioner has imposed an impound condition on the offering [see [b], below].
- The securities will be exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933 by virtue of the intrastate exemption [see 15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(11); 17 C.F.R. § 230.147 (SEC Rule 147)].

The form further assumes that the purchase price for the shares will be paid in a lump sum rather than in installments. For an agreement requiring the purchase price to be paid in installments, see § 6I.262. Finally, it assumes that the corporation has not granted its existing shareholders any preemptive rights that would restrict its ability to make a public offering of its securities.

The subscription agreement is ordinarily disseminated to prospective purchasers as part of a package of materials that also contains a copy of the prospectus and a questionnaire to be completed by prospective purchasers. Prospective purchasers who wish to subscribe for shares are instructed to return the completed questionnaire and subscription agreement along with a check payable to the corporation, or if an impound condition is involved, to the depositary or a licensed broker-dealer acting as the selling agent [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.21].

This form is for use for offerings by preexisting corporations. For preincorporation agreements for use prior to formation of a corporation, see Ch. 2, Formation of Corporations .

[b] When Subscription Agreement Is Required

The Commissioner of Corporations will require that a subscription agreement be delivered to each subscriber whenever the Commissioner imposes an impound requirement in connection with the sale of securities [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.22(a)]. An impound condition normally will be imposed if the securities are not firmly underwritten and if the Commissioner determines that a specific minimum amount of funds is necessary to finance the proposed undertaking as described in the application and that it is inadvisable for the issuer to expend any of the proceeds from the sale of the securities prior to receiving that minimum amount [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.20].

There is no requirement that a subscription agreement be used in connection with offerings that are not subject to an impound requirement. However, such an agreement nevertheless may be useful to memorialize the agreement between the corporation and the subscriber. This form presupposes that an impound condition has been imposed, and may be modified for other situations.

[c] Contents of Agreement

When an impound condition is imposed, the form of the subscription agreement must be approved by the Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.22(a)]; thus, this form is illustrative only. At a minimum, the subscription agreement must state the following [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.22(a)]:

- The complete names and addresses of the issuer and the subscriber.
- The complete name of the agent of the issuer or broker receiving the payments.
- The number of securities purchased and the total purchase price.
- The amount of the payment received.
- The complete name and address of the depositary with whom the payment will be placed.
- The date of the payment.

A subscription agreement must also contain the statement set forth in Paragraph 2 of this form, specifying that the offering is subject to the terms and conditions of the qualification.

[d] Delivery of Copies

Subscription agreements must be consecutively numbered and prepared in quadruplicate. The original must be given to the subscriber, the first copy to the depositary together with the payment received, the second copy to the issuer, and the third to the broker, if any. The Commissioner may approve other modifications to the form, such as requiring the subscription agreements to be press-numbered [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.22(a)].

[e] Qualification Requirement

Because the issuer will receive consideration from the subscribers at the time the subscription agreement is executed, the securities must be qualified for sale in California prior to the time this agreement is used [see Corp. Code §§ 25102(a) (exception for offers when no part of purchase price is paid or received), 25110], unless the security or transaction is not subject to qualification or unless an exemption from the qualification requirements is available. The requirements for qualification of securities are discussed in Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities . The two most commonly used exemptions from qualification, the small offering exemption [Corp. Code § 25102(h)] and the limited offering exemptions [Corp. Code §§ 25102(f), 25102.1(d)], are discussed in Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions , and Ch. 6C, California Small Offering Exemption .

[f] Operation of Impound Conditions

If an impound condition has been imposed, the issuer may not issue any certificates or other evidence of securities, except subscription agreements, until the impound condition has been satisfied and the impound funds have been released to the issuer. All checks must be made payable to the depositary or to a licensed broker-dealer as the selling agent. All funds received from the sale, including any amounts allowed as selling expenses, must be placed in a separate escrow account with an approved depositary within 48 hours of receipt [10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.141.21, 260.141.23(a)]. Usually, the depositary will be a national bank located in California or a California bank [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.23(a); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.23(b) (contents of application for approval of depositary and minimum contents of agreement between issuer and depositary)].

The Commissioner will authorize the depositary to release the impound funds to the issuer when the full amount of impound funds specified in the impound condition has been deposited and any other conditions to the release have been satisfied, unless there have been changes in the plan of operation or in other circumstances that would render the impound funds inadequate, or circumstances have changed so that the Commissioner could no longer find that the sale would be fair, just, and equitable [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.24(a); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.24(b) (contents of application by issuer to release impound funds)]. The Commissioner may approve a partial release of impound funds in unusual cases [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.24(d)].

If the specified amount of impound funds has not been obtained as of the date specified in the impound condition, or on the earlier issuance of a stop order or an order suspending or revoking the qualification permit, the Commissioner will issue an order directing the depositary to return to each subscriber the amount of each subscriber's payment [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.25(a)]. Extensions of time may be granted in unusual cases [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.25(b)].

The Commissioner has the discretion to grant variances from the above requirements. An issuer that desires a variance must submit a verified petition for variance [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.27].

[g] Exemption From Federal Securities Regulation

In addition to complying with the California securities requirements, a corporation that wishes to make a public offering of its securities may have to register under the Federal Securities Act of 1933 [15 U.S.C. §§ 77a-77aa], unless the offering comes within one or more exemptions from registration. The most commonly used exemptions are the "intrastate exemption" [see 17 C.F.R. § 230.147 (SEC Rule 147)] and the three limited offering exemptions (SEC Rules 504, 505, and 506) set forth in SEC Regulation D [17 C.F.R. §§ 230.501-230.508]. These exemptions are discussed in detail in Ch. 6A, Federal Securities Exemptions for California Nonpublic Corporations .

In accordance with the intrastate exemption, Paragraph 4 of this form contains a representation that the subscriber is a bona fide resident of California and that the subscription agreement was made and delivered to the subscriber in California. The fifth paragraph requires the subscriber to declare that the shares are being purchased as an investment for the purchaser's own account and without intent to resell or distribute them to any other person.

Scope

Frances E. Lossingn*
Practice Consultant Scope

This chapter discusses the issuance of debt securities--specifically notes, bonds, and debentures--under the California Corporate Securities Law. The Transaction Guide lists things to consider in determining what type of debt security to issue, the provisions to include in the debt instruments, the people and institutions with whom the debt could be placed under the most common California exemptions from qualification for issuer offerings [Corp. Code § 25102(i), (n)], excluded purchasers under Corp. Code § 25102(f), and accredited investors under Corp. Code § 25102.1(d).

The chapter contains forms for resolutions authorizing the issuance of the debt securities, solicitation agreements, purchase agreements, and forms for debt securities, as well as optional provisions for inclusion in the debt instruments. The qualification of the issuance of debt securities is discussed in Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities .

§ 6J.10 Corporate Powers to Incur Indebtedness

The General Corporation Law provides that a corporation has all necessary powers, subject to limitation of its articles and the law otherwise, to assume obligations, incur liabilities, borrow money, and otherwise use its credit. It also may secure any of its obligations or liabilities by mortgage or other encumbrance of all or any part of its property, franchises, and income [Corp. Code § 207(g)]. Any mortgage, deed of trust, pledge, or other hypothecation of property belonging to the corporation, whether real or personal, for the purpose of securing the payment or performance of any contract or obligation may be approved by the board of directors. Unless the articles provide otherwise, no approval of shareholders or the outstanding shares is necessary [Corp. Code § 1000]. The same requirements apply to the issuance of bonds or debentures [Corp. Code § 207(d)].

§ 6J.11 Bonds and Debentures

The term "bond" generally refers to a debt instrument that is secured, while "debenture" refers to an unsecured debt. Bond and debenture offerings usually denote uniform offerings to groups rather than to single holders. The term "note" generally refers to debt securities issued to a single holder, a bank or an insurance company. However, for the purposes of the following discussion the term "note" will be used generally to refer to all types of debt securities.

§ 6J.12 Convertible Securities

[1] Nature and Authority to Issue

Subject to its articles, a corporation may issue debt securities that are convertible into other debt securities or shares of the corporation, within a specified time or on the happening of one or more specified events, and on such terms and conditions otherwise as are fixed by the board [Corp. Code § 403(b)]. Options to purchase or subscribe for shares or any class or series, on terms and conditions that are deemed expedient, may be granted in connection with the issue, subscription, or sale of any of the corporation's bonds, debentures, notes, or other securities [Corp. Code § 404]. Unless the articles provide otherwise, the board may issue securities having conversion or option rights without first offering them to shareholders of any class [Corp. Code § 406]. Convertible securities should contain appropriate antidilution adjustments [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.6].

PRACTICE TIP:

A corporation may not issue equity securities in an amount greater than that authorized in its articles of incorporation. It is therefore important for an issuer to check its articles of incorporation to make certain that it has sufficient authorized capital to permit it to issue debt securities convertible into equity securities or debt securities with warrants or other to acquire equity securities. The issuer should also reserve an amount equal to the amount of equity securities that may be issued in connection with the offering, to make certain that the issuer does not inadvertently commit to issue more equity securities than it has authorized. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

If the holder of a convertible debenture is deprived, from an economic standpoint, of the right to convert the debenture to common stock because the issuing corporation is acquired by another corporation, the creditors, unlike the common shareholders, generally do not have a cause of action under the California Corporate Securities Law [see Pittelman v. Pearce (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 1436, 1446-1447, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 359 ; Kessler v. General Cable Corp. (1979) 92 Cal. App. 3d 531, 538-540, 155 Cal. Rptr. 94 (court refused to impose fiduciary duty on corporation)]. The law in this area, however, is developing, and in certain circumstances courts in other jurisdictions have been willing to impose fiduciary type duties in this situation. Voting debt securities may also be expected to have similar rights to those of voting shares.

[2] Coupled With Warrants for Purchase of Equity Securities

Perhaps more common than the issuance of convertible debt securities is issuance of debt securities along with warrants for the purchase of equity securities. Warrants to purchase equity securities may be issued in connection with the issuance of debt securities. If the warrants will be issued in a transaction which must be qualified in California, their issuance must be necessary to obtain the debt financing and the following conditions must be met [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.43]:

- The term of the warrant does not exceed the life of the debt security or 15 years, whichever is less.

- The number of shares of equity securities issuable on exercise of the warrants does not exceed the number that could be purchased at the exercise price with the debt securities at face amount.

- The exercise price is at least equal to the value of the equity securities as that value is calculated in accordance with 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.50 on the date the warrant is issued.

Warrants and their issuance are discussed in Ch. 6I, Issuance of Equity Securities .

§ 6J.13 Voting Rights

A corporation's articles of incorporation may confer on the holders of any of its evidences of indebtedness, whether issued or to be issued, the right to vote in the election of directors, or on any other matter on which shareholders may vote [Corp. Code § 204(a)(7)]. When holders of indebtedness have been granted voting rights, all references in the General Corporation Law to the voting shares include the voting rights of those debt securities [Corp. Code § 111]. A corporation must have at least one class or series of securities with full voting, dividend, and rights on liquidation of the corporation [Corp. Code § 400(a)]. Typically a corporation's common stock satisfies this requirement so that the corporation's ability to restrict voting and liquidation rights of holders of debt securities should not be affected by this requirement.

§ 6J.14 Validity

Any note, mortgage, or evidence of indebtedness signed by the appropriate officers, is not invalidated as to the corporation by any lack of authority of the signing officers, in the absence of actual knowledge on the part of the other party that the signing officers had no authority to execute the evidence of indebtedness [Corp. Code § 313]. The appropriate officers are the chairman of the board, the president, or any vice president (as signatory) and the secretary, any assistant secretary, the chief financial officer or any assistant treasurer (as co-signatory) [Corp. Code § 313; see Snukal v. Flightways Manufacturing, Inc. (2000) 23 Cal. 4th 754, 786-787, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1, 3 P.3d 286 (interpreting Corp. Code § 313 in context of lease agreement to hold that signature of one person alone is sufficient to bind corporation, as long as individual holds corporate offices in both "operational group" and "financial group" described in that statute)]. This principle may be modified in the case of certain intracorporate disputes not affecting the rights of third persons [see Corp. Code § 208(a)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Lenders will also typically ask for an officers' certificate in which appropriate officers of the corporation certify that (1) the corporation has been duly incorporated and is validly existing under the laws of its jurisdiction of incorporation, (2) the corporation has the corporate power and authority to enter into the transaction, (3) the transaction has been duly authorized by all necessary corporate action on the part of the corporation, and (4) the lending documents have been duly and validly executed and delivered by the corporation. Lenders may also request a copy of (1) the articles or incorporation or other charter documents of the corporation certified by the California Secretary of State or other appropriate governmental authority, (2) the bylaws of the corporation certified by an officer of the corporation to be a true and correct copy and to be in full force and effect, and (3) resolutions of the corporation authorizing the transaction certified by the secretary of the corporation. In addition, lenders frequently request an incumbency certificate certifying the names and signatures of those officers of the corporation authorized to execute the lending documents. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

§ 6J.15 Self-Dealing

A corporation is free to redeem, purchase, or otherwise acquire, hold, exchange, transfer, pledge, or otherwise dispose of its own bonds, debentures, and other securities [Corp. Code § 207(d)]. Shareholder approval is not necessary for a loan, or guaranty of a loan, to an officer or director of a corporation's subsidiary [see Corp. Code § 315]. However, a corporation should not make or guarantee loans to its own directors or officers, or those of its parent, unless the transaction (or the employee benefit plan authorizing the loan or guaranty) is approved by a "majority of the shareholders entitled to act thereon" [Corp. Code § 315(a)]. "Approval of a majority of the shareholders entitled to act thereon" means any of the following [Corp. Code § 315(g)]:

- Written consent of a majority of the outstanding shares, without counting shares owned by interested officers or directors.

- The affirmative vote of a majority of the shares present and voting at a meeting at which a quorum is present, without counting the shares owned by interested officers or directors.

- The unanimous vote or written consent of the shareholders.

The restrictions contained in Corp. Code § 315, discussed above, do not apply to employee stock purchase plans [Corp. Code § 408], depository institutions [12 U.S.C. § 3201(1)], or any corporation that makes loans or guarantees in the ordinary course of its business and whose loans to officers and directors are expressly regulated. These restrictions also do not apply to a corporation that has 100 or more shareholders of record if the corporation has a bylaw provision authorizing the board alone to approve such a transaction which has been authorized by the outstanding shares of the corporation and a majority of the board of directors determines that the transaction will reasonably benefit the corporation, without counting the vote of any interested director [Corp. Code § 315(b), (f)].

For further discussion of corporate loans to officers and directors, and a bylaw provision authorizing the board of directors to act alone in approving such a transaction, see Ch. 4, Bylaws, § 4.249.

A corporation may also not make a loan or guaranty secured by the shares of the corporation or its parent if the corporation's recourse in the event of default is limited to the security of the shares, unless the loan or guaranty is adequately secured without considering these shares or the loan or guaranty has been approved by a majority of the outstanding shares [Corp. Code § 315(c)].

§ 6J.16 Secured Financing

Secured debt issues are sometimes the only type of financing that a new company can place successfully. The security very frequently consists of the main real estate, plant, and equipment of the corporation, which are especially attractive if they are located on a generally desirable site, or the inventory and accounts receivable of the company. The company may not have created a sufficient earnings record to render any other type of investment scheme attractive to potential investors. Security on the real and personal property of the company provides the investors a good deal of extra protection in that they need not look to any special degree of success of the business in order to be paid back. Secured creditors also need not share their preferred type of security with any other groups of investors.

PRACTICE TIP:

Another common source of security for lenders is a guaranty from certain of the principal shareholders of the corporation. This guaranty may be secured by the stock of the corporation, the personal residence of the shareholders, or other assets of the shareholders. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

Secured debt has certain advantages. Under the standards for the exercise of the Commissioner's discretion, in order for an unsecured non-convertible debt security to be qualified for issuance in California, the amount of additional funded debt must be restricted unless the debt securities have a rating or are of sufficient quality to make this protection unnecessary [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.4(c)]. Many small businesses cannot satisfy this standard. These restrictions do not apply to secured non-convertible debt securities [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.4(b)]. The corporation also usually can market a secured debt for a lower percentage of return than might otherwise be arranged if financing was not secured.

Unless the subject is otherwise provided for in the charter documents, the board of directors is given absolute discretion in the way of providing security for any debt financing. In the normal instance, a corporation may not sell, lease, convey, exchange, transfer, or otherwise dispose of all or substantially all of its property, without putting the transaction up to the vote or written consent of a majority of the corporate voting power [Corp. Code § 1001]. An exception is made, however, in the case of any mortgage, deed of trust, pledge, or other hypothecation of all or any part of a corporation's property, real or personal, when the purpose is to secure the payment or performance of any contract, note, bond, or obligation, unless the corporation's articles of incorporation otherwise provide [Corp. Code § 1000].

PRACTICE TIP:

The ability of the corporation to issue secured debt also may be restricted by other contractual obligations of the corporation. These other obligations may restrict the corporation's ability to create liens on its assets generally (such as a negative pledge) or restrict the corporation's ability to create liens on particular assets (such as may be contained in purchase money financing arrangements for buildings or equipment used in the corporation's business). Small businesses operating in regulated industries may also need to obtain regulatory approval in order to pledge the assets or credit of the corporation. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

§ 6J.17 Unsecured Financing

Investors in an unsecured debt issue must rely on the specially included protective devices frequently found in the instrument of obligation, and attempt to bargain for as many protective features as possible. Unsecured creditors also must attempt to acquire and maintain a more informed position in regard to the corporation's earning capacity and business progress for the duration of the loan in order to continually evaluate the soundness of the investment.

From the corporation's standpoint, an unsecured debt issue is probably a more attractive type of offering than other forms of debt securities. Good security considerations restrict the amount of a secured debt offering to only a percentage of the underlying security.

The corporation may, of course, pay a higher interest rate on an unsecured issue, but this may be a welcome deductible expense for the more successful growing enterprise. Unsecured creditors generally will be more flexible and ready to accept rearranged or replacement debt packages as circumstances change, and may be more easily interested in additional or newer debt issues, whether as private or public offerings, when financing is needed for particular and newly emerging purposes.

§ 6J.18 Protective Devices

[1] Devices for Protection of the Creditor or Investor

Unless the debt security is convertible, creditor investors do not have a formal proprietary interest in the corporation, and have little concrete relationship to it except as may be based on the instrument evidencing the obligation. They typically want to see all terms of that relationship, with the creator's protective terms spelled out in explicit detail in the notes themselves. The following are some of the usual considerations found in more complex debt securities, whether or not the obligation has been secured:

- Obligation: The exact terms of the indebtedness are recited, including the interest rate and times of repayment, the dates of incurring and finally paying off the obligation, whether amounts repaid may be reborrowed, the amount of any fees which must be paid to the lender, the types of expenses of the lender which must be paid by the borrower, and the like.

- Medium of payment: The tangible type of return is described, including exactly what form the payoff may take, usually in lawful money of the United States.

- Restriction on other obligations: A pledge is made not to create additional liens on the corporate property or to refrain from issuing other obligations, or obligations senior to or ranking pari passu with the obligation being created.

- Sinking fund: An arrangement is recited for creation and maintenance of a special fund on the part of the corporation. This fund will be earmarked for payment of the obligation, usually to be kept at a level sufficient to retire the indebtedness according to the agreed schedule. Possibly a more flexible arrangement would be one in the nature of a serial debt issue, in which the entire issue would not become due at the same remote time, but rather different series would fall due at increasingly more remote dates, the sinking fund device being available but unnecessary if the company can retire each series out of then current earnings.

- Antidilution provisions: A corporation covenants and otherwise protects against any other forms of payment, such as dividends or stock splits, repurchasing securities, instituting stock plans, or increasing compensation to insiders or other key personnel, making payments to shareholders or other affiliates of the corporation in connection with related party transactions, such as the lease of a building to the corporation by its principal shareholder, and transfers of assets to subsidiaries of the corporation which would have the effect of structurally subordinating the creditor to the creditors of the subsidiary, at least until each type of payment due under the debt issue is satisfied, and only after it is ascertained that no future debt payment is otherwise threatened.

PRACTICE TIP:

Exceptions to these types of antidilution provisions are frequently negotiated. For instance, distributions to shareholders of a subchapter S corporation may be permitted to the extent necessary to enable the shareholders to pay taxes associated with the earnings of the corporation. Payments to insiders pursuant to existing contractual obligations, such as the lease of a building or equipment, may be permitted so long as the payments are not increased by more than a specified amount. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

- Preemptive rights: When any new debt securities are issued, or other types of securities introduced, the creditors of the particular indebtedness involved may be given right of first refusal to purchase the entire new issue and thus prevent any diversion of payments or consequential dilution of their debt securities.

- Conversion rights: Along with the fact that a debt issue may be made more attractive by being packaged with warrants, the investor is afforded greater security by making the note convertible into equity securities. The creditor thus may be able to avoid having its investment redeemed just when the market begins to make the business more attractive. The creditor in its capacity as shareholder will have the right to vote on certain major business decisions regarding the corporation and to participate in the election of directors; this right must, however, be carefully exercised by the creditor if the creditor is to avoid equitable subordination of its loans to the company in the event of insolvency or bankruptcy. Antidilution matters, in which adjustments are made in conversion rights if the corporation should issue dividends, create stock splits, or enter into reorganizations, typically are spelled out to protect the value of the securities into which the debt ordinarily would be converted in order to assure that the lender that there will be no material adverse changes in the corporation's business which would adversely impact the credit risk. Financial covenants are also frequently included since they may operate as a warning that there have been material changes in financial performance which adversely affect the lender's credit risk.

- Maintenance of current operations: A corporation may need to specifically covenant to remain in a particular type of business, to retain particular personnel or property, as well as to keep up its taxes, insurance payments, short term debt, and other obligations.

- Restrictions on activities: The loan documentation may restrict the corporation's business activities, such as its ability to incur additional debt or to enter into sale-leaseback transactions, to make capital expenditures, to make investments or to merge or be acquired by another entity. The purpose of these restrictions is to protect the creditor from incurring any additional credit risk. The loan documentation may also include specific undertakings regarding matters of particular concern, such as the management of environmental risks.

- Redemption: Debt securities may be redeemable at the option of the creditor or investor if certain events occur which would adversely impact the credit risk, such as the acquisition of the corporation by another company, the loss of a principal customer or the loss of particular tax benefits. Redemption in these circumstances offer the lender much the same protection as provisions regarding default; redemption in these circumstances ordinarily would not, however, trigger cross-default provisions in other debt instruments, unless those cross-default provisions have been carefully worded to cover repayments prior to maturity.

- Representations and Warranties: The loan documents will generally require the borrower to make certain representations and warranties about its business; the lender will be relying on these representations and warranties in making its credit assessment

- Reporting Requirements: The loan documentation may require the borrower to furnish financial statements to the lender and to report certain events, including events of default or events which could become events of default. The lender may also request access to the borrower's properties to review ongoing operations or the right to review books and records and to discuss the borrower's business with the borrower's employees

- Events of default: It is usually necessary to specify exactly what situations are equivalent to a default in the obligation, and exactly what remedies the creditors might pursue in those instances. These matters are minutely described in relationship to default in matters such as payment of interest or principal on the obligation or obligations to other creditors, breaches of covenants, bankruptcy and insolvency situations, with attention to the device of acceleration of maturity on default. Details are included regarding what forms of notice are necessary and what other conditions must be fulfilled before creditors may resort to specific remedies. Certain protective conditions may be afforded to the corporation, by which defaults may be cured before particular creditors' remedies may be pursued.

- Transferability: Creditors frequently want specific assurance that they may be relieved of their investment relationship through personal resale or assignment, or otherwise, and the securities may be issued in negotiable or bearer form. If the security is registered, the corporation will only recognize the latest holder listed in the debt register and make all payments and respect all protective measures in relationship to that holder. An assignment and transfer on the books of the corporation will be required before the corporation has to recognize the new owner of the security.

PRACTICE TIP:

It may be necessary for the corporation to qualify the issuance of the debt securities in circumstances in which qualification would not otherwise be necessary if the lender insists that the debt securities be freely transferable. It may, however, be possible to issue the debt securities in reliance on an exemption which restricts transferability if the debt securities will only be transferred to other qualified purchasers, such as a transfer of a note by a bank to another bank or the transfer of a note by a qualified institutional buyer to another qualified institutional buyer. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

[2] Devices for Protection of the Borrower or Issuer

In addition to the protective devices discussed in [1], above, there are a few special protective devices that corporations frequently arrange for their own benefit:

- Prepayment: The corporation may wish to reserve the right to prepay any interest or principal at any time or according to a special permissive schedule, in effect allowing it to accelerate to any degree the life and substance of the debt securities; frequently the lender may require the corporation to pay a prepayment penalty in addition to the amount of principal and interest otherwise due in order to compensate the lender for the loss of the benefit of the lender's bargain.

- Redemption: Many debt securities are made redeemable at the option of the corporate issuer, with a special schedule set up in the security to show exactly what price or percentage of principal repayment must be paid in order to accomplish retirement. The percentage may be geared to a figure greater than 100 percent of the ultimate repayment in order to compensate for the elimination of the creditor's long-range expectation of earning interest, a figure that decreases accordingly as the actual redemption date grows more proximate to the originally scheduled payment time. In some circumstances the lender may insist on a limited period of call protection, such as three to five years, before the debt securities may be redeemed. In other circumstances, the lender may only permit the borrower to redeem the securities if particular events occur, which are specified in the loan documents.

- Defeasance: Some debt securities contain defeasance provisions which permit the borrower to defease the debt, but placing in escrow funds or specified securities in an amount necessary to repay the debt securities in accordance with their terms. Defeasance is typically used in transactions in which the borrower is not permitted to prepay or redeem the debt securities, but may want to be relieved of certain covenants which restrict its business operations.

- Subordination: Debt security issues may be made specifically subordinate to particular types of issues, often prior in time of issuance, of like securities still outstanding, although this normally does not make the issue appear attractive from a new investment standpoint. However, subordination usually spells out only a specific kind of senior debt; that is, short-term, quick money obligations arranged with major lending institutions that will only lend short term funds on assurance that no security is prior to theirs, whether actually prior in time of obligation or not. Most junior creditors will respect this type of subordination, understanding that the special loans may be necessary to maintain the corporation and support their own long-term obligations in the long run. Precise details as to preferred payment to senior indebtedness in the particular situations of bankruptcy and insolvency may need to be spelled out, as well as the situation of a special default on any of the respective debt security obligations involved.

- Securities regulations: The corporation may attempt to get special promises and representations from the creditors as to their intent in purchasing the debt issues and with respect to ultimate disposition of the securities. Some assurance in these matters sometimes is desirable in order to keep the issue within exemptions from federal and state securities laws, but their efficacy is open to question.

§ 6J.19 Securities Regulation

[1] California Exemptions Applicable to Debt Securities

[a] Commercial Notes

A note, draft, bill of exchange, or banker's acceptance of prime quality which evidences an obligation to pay cash within nine months, exclusive of days of grace, or any renewal thereof the maturity of which is likewise limited, is exempt from the qualification requirements of the California Commissioner of Corporations if it is freely transferable, not offered to the public in amounts of less than $25,000 in the aggregate to any one purchaser, arises out of a current transaction, and the proceeds are used for current transactions [Corp. Code § 25100(l); cf. 15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(3) (federal exemption for collateral trust notes and short term commercial paper)]. The Commissioner has stated that in determining whether paper is of prime quality, the ultimate consideration is the absence of factors that may tend to raise any reasonable question as to the ability of the issuer, at the time of the determination or in the future, at least during the life of the securities, to make good its obligations [Commissioner's Opinion Nos. 73/13C, 74/33C, 76/7C; see also Commissioner's Policy Letter No. 107 (Oct. 7, 1970) and Corporate Securities Newsletter dated 12/75 (in which Commissioner noted that the exemption was founded in part on Section 3(a)(3) of the Securities Act and that therefore Federal Court decisions would be of assistance in defining "prime quality")]. If short term commercial notes would come within this exemption but for the fact that it is offered and sold in aggregate amounts of less than $25,000 to any one purchaser, the issuer may request an order of exemption in accordance with 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.100.3. For a request for order of exemption pursuant to 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.100.3, see Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues, § 6.232.

PRACTICE TIP:

The commercial paper exemptions are seldom available for small businesses since the debt securities of small businesses are not generally rated and cannot otherwise satisfy the prime quality standards. In addition, investors are only interested in purchasing the commercial paper of large established corporations. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

Federal law exempts any note, bill of exchange, or banker's acceptance that arises out of a current transaction or the proceeds of which have been or are to be used for current transactions, and which has a maturity at the time of issuance of not exceeding nine months, exclusive of days of grace, or any renewal the maturity of which is likewise limited [15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(3)]. California exempts securities that are exempt from registration under the federal securities laws pursuant to this provision [Corp. Code § 25102.1(c)].

[b] Notes Secured by Real Property

A promissory noted secured by a lien on real property is exempt from California qualification requirements if it is neither one of a series of notes of equal priority secured by the same real property nor a note in which beneficial interests are sold to more than one person or entity [Corp. Code § 25100(p)]. The sale of a series of notes secured directly by an interest in the same real property, or the sale of undivided interests in a note secured directly by real property equivalent to a series transaction, is also exempt from qualification as an issuer transaction if the transaction complies with all of the provisions of Bus. & Prof. Code § 10237 et seq. (concerning exemption from securities qualification for real-property-backed notes) [Corp. Code § 25102.5].

[c] Evidence of Indebtedness Not Sold in Public Offering

Any offer or sale of any evidence of indebtedness, whether secured or unsecured, and any guaranty of that indebtedness, is exempt from California qualification as an issuer transaction or as a change in the rights of those debt securities if it does not involve any public offering [Corp. Code § 25102(e); see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.103 (exemption for changes in rights, preferences, privileges, or restrictions of or on outstanding securities)].

PRACTICE TIP:

This exemption has certain advantages over other limited offering exemptions which may be available for issuance of debt securities to a small number of investors. No filing need be made with the Department of Corporations in order to perfect the exemption. No specific investor suitability standards must be satisfied, although there will, of course, be limitations on the types of investors that may participate in the offering imposed by the non-public offering rules outlined in Release No. 5-C [see Dept. of Corps. Release No. 5-C (Jan. 31, 1969)]. In addition, the debt securities need not meet the suitability standards applicable to qualified offerings. It may be particularly difficult for unseasoned corporations to structure an offering that satisfies these standards and meets the needs of potential investors. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

For purposes of this exemption, an offering is not a public offering if the following apply [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.2]:

- It is not made to more than 25 person and sales are not consummated to more than 10 of those persons; and

- All offerees either have a preexisting relationship with the offeror or its partners, officers, directors, or controlling persons or, by reason of their business or financial experience can reasonably be assumed to have the capacity to protect their own interests in connection with the transaction.

In calculating the number of offerees, institutional investors referred to in Corp. Code § 25102(i) are excluded. A husband and wife (together with any custodian or trustee acting for the account of their minor children) are counted as one person [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.2]. See Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities , for discussion of qualification of securities, and more detailed treatment of nonpublic and public debt and general offerings.

This exemption does not apply to debt securities that are convertible into equity securities of the same issuer unless a sale of that equity security would be exempt from qualification as an issuer transaction by any provision other than the small offering exemption of Corp. Code § 25102(h) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.3; see Corp. Code § 25102(h) (applicable if, after sale, corporation will have only one class of stock that is owned beneficially by no more than 35 persons); see also [3], below].

10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.2 does not create any presumption that a public offering is involved in offers not conforming to this section, and a determination of whether or not a transaction not covered by this section will be made without reference to the section. The Commissioner considers the following factors in determining whether securities are being offered to the public [Dept. of Corps. Release No. 5-C (Jan. 31, 1969)]:

- The number and character of offerees and investors.
- The relationship of the offerees to each other;
- The relationship between the issuer and the offerees;
- The size of the offering;
- The manner of the offering; and
- The character of the security offered.

Consideration should also be given to whether the proposed offering might be integrated with prior offerings or offerings contemplated in the future. For discussion of integration, see Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions, § 6B.21.

[2] Other California Exemptions

California securities exemptions available for both debt and equity securities based on either the sophistication or number of purchasers include the following:

- The limited offering exemption in Corp. Code § 25102(f) [see Ch. 6B, California Limited Offering Exemptions].
- The small offering exemption of Corp. Code § 25102(h) [see Ch. 6C, California Small Offering Exemption].
- Sales to institutional investors listed in Corp. Code § 25102(i) [see Ch. 6D, California Qualified Purchaser Exemptions].
- Sales to qualified purchaser pursuant to the exemption of Corp. Code § 25102(n) [see Ch. 6D, California Qualified Purchaser Exemptions].
- Exemption for offerings under Rule 506 of SEC Regulation D [Corp. Code § 25102.1(d)].

[3] Option, Warrant, or Conversion Right Is Security Under California Law

An important difference between the federal and California exemption schemes is that under California law, any debt offering involving incidents in the form of warrants or conversion rights for equity securities must be qualified with the Commissioner of Corporations at the time of the sale of the debt unless some exemption applies to the offer and sale of that equity security. A warrant, option, or right to subscribe to or purchase any type of security is in itself a security [Corp. Code § 25019], and every offer or sale of an option right simultaneously constitutes the offer and sale of the underlying or optioned security [Corp. Code § 25017(e)]. Thus, the offer or sale of a debt security that is convertible into an equity security amounts to an offer or sale of those equity securities; and must be qualified as such, unless a sale of that equity security would be exempt from qualification before the Commissioner of Corporations as an issuer transaction by any provision other than Corp. Code § 25102(h) [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.102.3]. See Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities , for detailed treatment of procedures and forms for qualifying securities, including debt offerings, in California.

[4] Federal Exemptions Compared

The California exemption scheme [see [3], above] is in contrast to the federal regulatory scheme, which exempts registration of all exclusively intrastate and all private transactions, whether equity or debt securities [Securities Act of 1933, §§ 3(a)(11), 4(2) (15 U.S.C. §§ 77c(a)(11), 77d(2))].

On the federal level, options for equity securities packaged with a debt offering--in the form of warrants or conversion rights--are not considered to be either offered or sold until they become exercisable, if they are not immediately effective at time of the original issue [Securities Act of 1933, § 2(a)(3) (15 U.S.C. § 77b(a)(3))]. The underlying optioned securities are treated as if being offered for the first time when the option becomes fully effective. Purchasers of convertible securities acquired in a private placement ("restricted securities") may avoid classification as underwriters (and thus the need for registration) when reselling the securities or those issued on their conversion by complying with the conditions of Rule 144 [17 C.F.R. § 230.144]. Of course, if the straight debt or convertible debt offering can effectively be arranged to stay within California and is made by a California corporation, it is exempt from federal regulation as an intrastate security in any event [Securities Act of 1933, § 3(a)(11) (15 U.S.C. § 77c(a)(11))]. In practice, however, this is often difficult to do.

[5] Indenture or Other Instrument Ordinarily Required

If the debt securities are nonconvertible, and must be qualified, the Commissioner of Corporations ordinarily expects the following provisions to be included, unless the debt securities have a rating or quality making such provisions unnecessary [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.4]:

- A sinking fund provision whereby all or a reasonable portion of the issue is to be retired in installments prior to maturity. The deferral of sinking fund payments and the amount of the balloon payment at maturity which will be permitted will depend on the financial condition and other circumstances of the issuer.

- An appropriate negative pledge or equal protection clause restricting the creation of liens on the property of the issuer.

- If the debt is unsecured, an appropriate restriction on the creation of other funded debt.

- An appropriate restriction on the payment of dividends on the stock of the issuer.

Unseasoned corporations may not generally sell non-convertible debt securities pursuant to an open qualification [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.9]. A seasoned corporation proposing to issue nonconvertible debt securities in an open qualification must demonstrate its ability to meet the proposed interest and sinking fund requirements on all of its securities outstanding and proposed to be issued based on its previous earnings or cashflow history or demonstrated future earnings or cash-flow [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.10].

Debt securities that are convertible or proposed to be issued in units with warrants or options must be fair and equitable under the circumstances and should ordinarily contain appropriate antidilution adjustments [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.6].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

AUTHOR: Frances E. Lossing Practice Consultant

§ 6J.20 Trust Indenture

When a debt security is offered to the public, it has been customary for the investors to receive the special protection of an independent trustee appointed to administer the offering for their protection during the term of the debt under a trust indenture. An important feature of the trust indenture is its independent administration on behalf of the debt holders. A trust indenture is required under federal law [Trust Indenture Act of 1939 §§ 305, 306 (15 U.S.C. §§ 77eee, 77fff)], unless an exemption is available [Trust Indenture Act of 1939 § 304(a), (b) (15 U.S.C. § 77ddd(a)(4), (b))], or unless the offering is restricted to relatively modest amounts for specified terms, again depending on whether or not it was to be accompanied by an indenture [Trust Indenture Act of 1939 § 304(a)(8), (9) (15 U.S.C. § 77ddd(a)(8), (9))].

A full-fledged trust indenture can be voluminous in size and broad in scope, literally the size of a modest book. Frequently the length of the debt security itself can be decreased by simply incorporating by reference the protective measures more fully spelled out in the indenture.

PRACTICE TIP:

In 1981 [SEC Release 39-605 (Jan. 15, 1981)], the SEC approved the use of a short form indenture of only 35 pages which incorporates by reference the mandatory provisions of the Trust Indenture Act. Although the short form indenture has not been widely used, counsel may want to consider its use in circumstances in which a small business will be using the form for the first time and is not generally accustomed to forms of this length. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

The Commissioner of Corporations normally will not approve a debt offering pursuant to an open qualification unless it is issued under a trust indenture complying with the federal Trust Indenture Act of 1939, whether or not it is required under that act. However, a limited offering will be allowed under a lesser type of indenture or other accompanying instrument if it adequately provides protection to the holders under the particular circumstances [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.5]. A legend condition may be imposed in those circumstances [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.141.10]. A bank or trust company should be made trustee or co-trustee. Otherwise, the trustee should be appointed only with the approval of the Commissioner [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.5].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

§ 6J.21 Thin Incorporation--Debt to Equity Ratio

[1] Explanation and Advantages of Thinning

Although in its broader aspects the process known as "thinning" the corporation refers to cutting the potential size of the equity structure and conversely enlarging the creditor portion of participation, the phrase generally connotes splitting up the proprietor's investment for maximum tax benefits. For example, a major shareholder, who intends to invest $100,000 in a new corporate enterprise, may divide its investment into $35,000 equity securities and $65,000 debt securities, instead of taking the entire investment in stock. The tax advantages that may be obtained through proper thinning include the following:

- The deductibility of interest payments [see I.R.C. § 163]. In contrast, dividends are not deductible by the corporation.
- The postponement of threat of accumulation tax.
- Participating with other creditors on insolvency.
- Tax-free withdrawal of capital, which is the most significant single advantage.

The prohibitions on the issuance of non-convertible debt by unseasoned corporations are not applicable to debt issued to the holders of the equity securities of the corporation on a pro rata basis pursuant to a limited qualification [10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.140.9]. Thinning therefore should be available to these types of corporations.

[2] Criteria for Determining Whether Obligation Is True Debt

For many years, tax agencies and the courts have been attempting to isolate the authoritative indicia of form and substance in "thinning" transactions in order to determine when a genuine debt issue exists. I.R.C. § 385(b) sets forth five factors that should be considered in determining whether the investment is a genuine debt or is really an equity contribution:

- The transaction and its attendant formalities (i.e., whether or not there is an unconditional promise to pay on demand or at a certain time a fixed amount in money in return for an adequate consideration in money or money's worth and to pay a fixed rate of interest).
- The status of various debt obligations (whether there are subordinations and preferences).
- The ratio of debt to equity.
- The nature of the security (whether it is convertible into stock of the corporation).
- The relationship between stock holdings and holding of the interest in question.

The best reasoned approach of the courts, labeled the "factor analysis approach" [see Joseph Lupowitz Sons, Inc. v. C.I.R. (3rd Cir. 1974) 497 F.2d 862, 865] , examines a particular debt-equity classification problem in terms of a set of 16 criteria in an attempt to judge the true nature of an investment which is in the form of debt [see Fin Hay Realty Co. v. United States (3rd Cir. 1968) 398 F.2d 694, 696 ; Tyler v. Tomlinson (5th Cir. 1969) 414 F.2d 844, 848 ; see also Rabkin & Johnson, FEDERAL INCOME, GIFT AND ESTATE TAXATION, Ch. 37, Interest, Premium, and Discount, § 37.17 (Matthew Bender)].

[3] Methods of Forestalling Attack on Debt as Actually Equity

Apparently, the best way to forestall an official attack on a corporation's capital structure is to provide the transaction with sufficient incidents of both substance and form to make its character as indebtedness clear. The following factors were considered by the Ninth Circuit in reversing a Tax Court decision that the contributions at issue were capital, not loans [Bauer v. Commissioner (9th Cir. [T.C.] 1984) 748 F.2d 1365, 1368 ; see also Peoplefeeders, Inc. v. Commissioner (1999) 77 T.C.M. 1349, T.C. Memo. 1999-36 (Feb. 4, 1999) (using same criteria but disallowing bad debt loss because concluding contributions were capital); Gilbert v. Commissioner (1958) 17 T.C.M. 29, 30, T.C. Memo. 1958-8 (seven criteria, concluding contributions were capital and disallowing bad debt loss)]:

- The names given to the certificates evidencing the indebtedness.
- The presence or absence of a maturity date.
- The source of the payments.
- The right to enforce the payment of principal and interest.
- Participation in management.
- A status equal to or interior to that of regular corporate creditors.
- The intent of the parties.
- "Thin" or inadequate capitalization.
- Identity of interest between creditor and stockholder.
- Payment of interest only out of dividend money.

- The corporation's ability to obtain loans from outside lending institutions.

Additional precautions to be observed in "thinning" include the following [see Cavitch, TAX PLANNING FOR CORPORATIONS AND SHAREHOLDERS, Ch. 4, Capitalizing the New Corporation, § 4.04[5] (Matthew Bender)]:

- Shareholder debt should not exceed a respectable amount.
- Interest and principal payments should be unconditional.
- Shareholder debt should not be subordinated to general creditors.
- Shareholder debt should consistently be accounted for as debt.
- Shareholder debt should normally have long-term maturity.

[4] Consequences of Debt Being Found Actually to Be Equity

If the Internal Revenue Service is successful in pressing an attack against a thinly capitalized corporation, the result is that "interest" is held not deductible by the corporation (interest payments being deemed dividends, provided the corporation has earned surplus) and bad debts on repayment are held to be worthless stock losses.

When a purported debt security is found to be an equity security, the courts may find ways to require the holders of that debt to "stand at the back of the line," behind more genuine and less informed creditors, especially in bankruptcy and reorganization proceedings. This approach was developed through the so-called "deep rock doctrine" [Taylor v. Standard Gas & E. Co. (1939) 306 U.S. 307, 323-324, 59 S. Ct. 543, 83 L. Ed. 669, 677] . Ordinarily, it may not be expected to apply in situations other than those involving the dissolution of insolvent corporations [for further discussion, see Cavitch, BUSINESS ORGANIZATIONS WITH TAX PLANNING, Ch. 91, Debt Financing, §§ 91.04, 9l.05 (Matthew Bender)].

Additional caution should be observed in the use of an excessive debt to equity ratio. The active corporate entrepreneur normally is not allowed to play both sides of the line, as important owner of the debtor corporation and as creditor of the enterprise, in too great a measure. The corporation may become unmistakably undercapitalized as a result of the insiders allowing too much fundamental financing through the form of debt securities rather than equity issues.

§ 6J.110 Type of Debt Security to Be Issued by Corporation

NOTE:

The main sources of credit available to a corporation are stockholders, existing creditors, institutional investors, i.e., banks, insurance companies, other asset-based lenders, pension funds, mutual funds, and the general public. A large corporation with a proven earnings record usually can obtain long-term financing by means of the public issue of debt securities. On the other hand, there is little likelihood that a small corporation will be able to market debt securities publicly at the time of initial financing. Unseasoned or speculative businesses may also have a difficult time satisfying the Commissioner's standards for qualification of securities [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 260.140.5, 260.140.9]. As a practical matter, the available sources of credit for a new corporation, besides shareholders and existing creditors, are largely institutional lenders. In the case of a newly formed smaller corporation, the institutional lender is usually a bank, a small business investment company, or other asset-based lender.

1. Determine type of financing that is needed and available.

a. Short-term financing, i.e., usually having debt maturity of less than one year [see Corp. Code § 25100(l) (discussed in § 6J.19[1][a])]. If notes will have a maturity of nine months or less, the notes will be of prime quality and the proceeds will be used for a current transaction.

b. Intermediate term financing, i.e., having debt maturity of from one to five years.

c. Long-term financing, i.e., having debt maturity of more than five years.

2. Determine type of debt security to be issued by corporation.

NOTE:
In a new corporation the type of debt security issued by the corporation is generally dictated by the purchaser--in other words, the bank.

a. Promissory note, secured [see Corp. Code §§ 25100(p), 25102.5 (discussed in § 6J.19[1][b])] or unsecured, senior or subordinated.

b. Mortgage bond.

c. Income bond.

d. Debenture.

e. Subordinated debentures, sometimes with conversion features (more commonly associated with large corporations).

3. Determine whether advantages outweigh disadvantages of long-term debt securities as compared to equity securities.

a. Advantages:
(1) Cost of debt is limited; holders of debt securities do not participate in profits, if earned.

(2) Control of firm generally is not shared when debt financing is used.

(3) Interest on debt is deductible as expense for tax purposes, whereas dividends on stock are not [see I.R.C. §§ 163, 461(e)].

(4) Flexibility in financial structure of corporation may be achieved by inserting call, prepayment, or defeasance provisions in instrument.

(5) Debt securities may be marketable at time when equity securities are not.

(6) Certain types of debt securities are not subject to registration [see Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities].

(7) Holder of debt securities has prior right to share in corporate assets on liquidation, thus minimizing creditor's risk of loss.

(8) Corporation is less likely to be confronted with accumulated earnings tax because retention of earnings is not objectionable if earnings will be used to pay off reasonable and legitimate debts.

(9) With long-term inflationary trend, repayment in future will be with "cheaper" dollars.

b. Disadvantages:

(1) Debt is fixed charge regardless of profitability of corporation; if corporation's profits decline at some point, corporation may be unable to meet this fixed charge.

(2) Debt generally has fixed maturity date; provision must be made for repayment of debt or for refunding.

(3) Because typically it is long-term commitment, debt involves risk that expectations and plans on which debt was issued may change.

(4) Indenture provisions are likely to include restrictions on corporate management's freedom of action (e.g., restrictions on future borrowing, dividends, salaries, etc.).

(5) Extent to which funds can be raised through debt is limited by standards of financial prudence; thus issuance of debt securities may adversely affect corporation's ability to borrow additional funds in the future

(6) If debt to equity ratio is too high, corporation may be subject to "thin capitalization" problems [see § 6J.21].

4. Determine whether offering of debt securities is to be public or private, and what must be done to comply with applicable federal and state securities laws.

5. Determine whether debt securities will be issued with any equity features, such as conversion, options, warrants or other rights

6. Determine whether debt will have any other special features, such as security, personal guarantees, redemption, prepayment rights, subordination, or defeasance.

§ 6J.111 Which Protective Devices to Include in Debt Offering

[1] Devices Protecting Investors

NOTE:

Some of the items discussed below are mandatory and are indicated as such in the text. These items must be included in any debt issue. Others, as indicated, are discretionary. Counsel will have to consider those protective devices that will assist in the sale or placement of the issue under the particular circumstances and will best met the overall needs and goals of his or her client. Actual terms generally will be dictated by the lender, placement agent, or underwriter involved in the transaction.

1. Determine exact terms of indebtedness, including:

a. Interest rate.

b. Times of repayment.

c. Dates of incurring and paying off obligation.

d. Whether amounts may be or must be prepaid and, if so, the amount of any prepayment penalty, if any.

e. Whether amounts repaid may be reborrowed.

f. Restrictions on amounts that may be borrowed.

g. Whether amounts must be borrowed in full at time loans documents are executed or may be borrowed over a period of time.

PRACTICE TIP:
Restrictions on amounts that may be borrowed pursuant to the terms of the debt securities may be imposed either directly or indirectly through financial covenants, such as minimum net worth requirements or interest coverage or leverage ratios, or through borrowing base or security requirements. It is important for the issuer to understand these restrictions before entering into the transaction in order to be certain that the proposed terms of the transaction will enable the issuer to meet its business objectives. It is also important for the issuer to understand how these types of restrictions may impact the ability of the issuer to raise capital in the future. The issuer may want to prepare a pro forma budget to determine the impact of the proposed issuance of debt securities on the issuer's budget projections, using a variety of different assumptions, as well as the ability of the issuer to satisfy the covenants in the debt instrument. Commentary by Frances E. Lossing.

2. Determine medium of payment (e.g., lawful money of United States).

3. Consider including provisions restricting other corporate obligations, such as provisions designed to prohibit:

a. Creation of liens on corporate property.

b. Issuance of other obligations.

c. Financial covenants.

4. Consider creating sinking fund with required payments by corporation prior to maturity, so that debt holder will be assured of payment at maturity.

5. Consider mandatory redemption or prepayment provisions requiring debt to be prepaid if certain events occur.

6. Consider including liquidity provisions to protect debt holder against any payments or disbursements that would adversely affect working capital, including:

a. Dividends or other distributions to shareholders.

b. Increased compensation to corporate executives.

c. Payments to shareholders or other affiliates of company in related party transaction, such as building or equipment lease.

d. Transfer of earning assets to subsidiaries, which could reduce amount of working capital available to parent issuer.

7. Consider giving holders of debt securities a preemptive right of first refusal to purchase entire new debt issue and thus prevent any diversion of payments or dilution of debt securities.

8. Consider including provision creating conversion rights other than equity kickers under which debt security is convertible into shares of corporation or issue warrants or other rights to acquire shares.

NOTE:

A conversion provision generally is found in more complex debt securities associated with large corporations. Conversion rights may be advantageous to the corporation because if the right is exercised, the corporation does not have to pay off the debt in cash. Existing shareholders may, however, find the issuance of convertible debt unattractive because it may dilute their interest in the company. Corporations that have issued convertible debt may, for the same reason, find it more difficult to sell their equity securities. Other forms of equity kickers have some of the same disadvantageous. In addition, unlike convertible securities, the corporation remains obligated to pay the debt. Equity kickers may, however, be necessary to attract investors in debt securities of an unseasoned corporation.

9. Consider provision to require corporation to maintain current operations, including:

a. Remaining in same type of business.

b. Retaining particular personnel or property.

c. Meeting tax and insurance payments, as well as other similar obligations.

d. Limiting sales or other dispositions of assets.

e. Limiting acquisitions.

f. Limiting change in control of the corporation.

g. Limiting investments and capital expenditures.

h. Complying with the law, including in particular environmental laws, ERISA, and labor laws.

10. Events of default:

a. Consider provision specifying what events will constitute a default in obligation created by the debt security, such as:

(1) Breaches of covenants of debt instrument.

(2) Bankruptcy or insolvency.

(3) Breaches of representations and warranties.

b. Determine what remedies creditors will have in event default occurs.

11. Consider requiring issuer to provide periodic financial reports and to report significant events, such as litigation and environmental claims, and events of default or potential events of default.

12. Security:

a. Consider securing transaction with all or a portion of the assets of the issuer.

b. Consider obtaining guaranty, which may be secured or unsecured, from principal shareholder of issuer.

13. Determine whether or not debt security will be transferable.

NOTE:
Debt issues may be more attractive to potential investors if the debt security is readily transferable.

[2] Devices Protecting Corporation

1. Determine whether corporation will reserve right to prepay any interest or principal on obligation created by debt security, without penalty or premium, either:

a. At any time; or

b. According to special schedule.

2. Determine whether debt security will be redeemable at option of corporation.

3. Consider including provision subordinating debt security issue to other types of issues.

NOTE:
When combined with a conversion provision, resulting in a convertible subordinated debt security, this provision would be appropriate for a large corporation.

4. Consider inserting provision permitting corporation to defease debt and thereby be relieved of covenants that may restrict its business.

NOTE:
Defeasance may be appropriate in circumstances in which the lender is unwilling to permit the corporation to redeem the debt securities or insists upon a period of call protection.

5. Include special promises and representations from debt holders as to their intent in purchasing debt issue and with regard to their disposition of securities, in order to keep issue within exemptions of federal and state securities laws [see Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities ; see also §§ 6J.259, 6J.260].
