6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.120

§ 13.120 Forming Corporation

1. Reserve proposed corporate name.

a. Check name availability with Secretary of State's Name Availability Unit by written request:

NOTE:
If an unincorporated association is being incorporated, counsel should not automatically assume that the association's name is available for use [see § 13.22], and should check name availability in the same manner as in the ordinary incorporation process. However, dissident members of the association may be barred from using the same or similar name when attempting to form a rival organization [see Law v. Crist (1941) 41 Cal. App. 2d 862, 865, 107 P.2d 953] .

Persons who have established prepaid priority accounts may check name availability by telephone. The account will be debited for the per-name fees. For further information on these accounts, contact Secretary of State's Prepaid Account Client Services, 1500 Eleventh Street, Sacramento, CA 95814 [see Secretary of State website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_naav2.htm].

(1) Request up to three names, in order of preference.

(2) Address request to:

Secretary of State
1500 Eleventh Street

Sacramento, CA 95814
Attention: Name Availability Unit

NOTE:

Written requests for the preliminary checking of corporate names are accepted only in the Sacramento main office. These requests are ordinarily processed within two to four working days after receipt of the request [see Secretary of State website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_naav2.htm and instructions for Name Availability Inquiry Letter on Secretary of State website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/pdf/naavinquiryform.pdf].

b. Draft request for reservation of proposed corporate name [see Corp. Code § 201(c); see also Corp. Code §§ 5122(c), 7122(d), 9122(c)]:

NOTE:

A written request for reservation of a corporate name may include up to three names, listed in preferred order, with the request that the first available name, or any number of the listed names, be reserved. If a proposed name is reserved using a consent (by a corporation's whose name is similar), a currently dates consent must accompany each renewal request [see Secretary of State website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_naav2.htm and instructions for Name Reservation Request Form on Secretary of State website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/pdf/naavreservform.pdf].

(1) List up to three names (in order of preference if only one name is to be reserved).

(2) State whether or not name(s) for which reservation is sought was previously checked and cleared by Name Availability Unit.

(3) State client's name and address and specify contact person.

(4) State principal business in which client will engage.

(5) State county in which proposed corporation's principal office will be located.

c. Mail written request to reserve corporate name to Secretary of State, or obtain reservation over the counter at Sacramento main office or any satellite offices, and pay applicable fee.

NOTE:

Written requests for reservations of corporate names must be accompanied by the applicable fee for each name to be reserved [see Gov. Code § 12186(a)], plus the additional handling fee if the request is made over the counter [see Secretary of State website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_formsfees.htm and instructions for Name Reservation Request Form on Secretary of State website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/pdf/naavreservform.pdf]. Name reservation is effective for 60 days. The Secretary of State may not issue certificates reserving the same name for two or more consecutive 60-day periods [Corp. Code §§ 5122(c), 7122(d), 9122(c)].

2. Select agent for service of process [see § 13.130, P 1d].

NOTE:

The agent may be a natural person residing in California or any domestic or foreign or foreign business corporation that has complied with Corp. Code § 1505 and whose capacity to act as an agent has not been terminated. If a natural person is designated, the articles of incorporation [see §§ 13.200, 13.210, 13.220] and the initial and biennial statements [see § 13.248] must set forth the person's complete business or residence [Corp. Code §§ 6210(b), 8210(b), 9660(a)].

a. Natural person.

b. Corporate agent.

NOTE:

If a corporate agent is selected, counsel should ensure that a certificate of consent by the corporation designated as agent is on file with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 1505(a); see Ch. 2, Formation of Corporations]. If a certificate of consent is not on file with Secretary of State, counsel should arrange to have it filed before designation. A domestic or foreign corporation may not file a certificate of consent unless it is currently authorized to engage in business in California and is in good standing on the records of the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 1505(c)].

3. Draft articles of incorporation [see § 13.130].

NOTE:

If the purpose of the corporation is the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, or both, it must be incorporated by 20 or more persons who are citizens and residents of California [Corp. Code § 10400].

4. Secure approval of articles by any or all of following persons or entities:

a. By incorporators, for accuracy of names and addresses stated in articles and of other provisions.

b. By Secretary of State if an unusual sequence or phrasing of provisions is used or if unusual provisions are included.

NOTE:

Prior approval by the Secretary will avoid a possible rejection of the articles when presented for filing and the delay incidental to that rejection.

c. By Deputy Commissioner of Corporations if sale of memberships in the corporation is not exempt from the permit requirements of the Corporate Securities Law [Corp. Code § 25000 et seq.] or if the corporation is to issue nonexempt debt securities [see § 13.40].

d. By State Franchise Tax Board if there is any doubt as to effect of provisions set forth on franchise tax-exempt status of corporation.

e. By Internal Revenue Service if there is any doubt as to effect of provisions set forth on federal income tax-exempt status of corporation.

5. Execute articles of incorporation [Corp. Code §§ 5120(b), 7120(b), 9120(b)].

a. By one or more persons forming corporation who are thus incorporators of corporation, if initial directors are not named in articles; or

NOTE:

One or more persons may form a nonprofit corporation by executing and filing articles of incorporation [Corp. Code §§ 5120(a), 7120(a), 9120(a)]. Once the initial directors are elected, the role of the incorporators terminates. Up until that point, the incorporators may take any action necessary and proper to perfect the organization of the corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5134, 7134, 9134].

b. Each initial director named in articles.

6. Have articles acknowledged by [see Corp. Code §§ 5120(b), 7120(b), 9120(b)]:

a. Each initial director named in articles; or

b. Each incorporator if initial directors are not named in articles.

NOTE:

The acknowledgment of articles of incorporation may take either of two forms [Corp. Code § 5030]. It may be by notarial acknowledgment [see Civ. Code § 1180 et seq.; see also § 13.200] or by written declaration [see § 13.241].

7. If unincorporated association is changing to corporate status, attach verified statement of any two officers or governing board members of association stating that incorporation is approved by association in accordance with its rules and procedures [see Corp. Code §§ 5121(c), 7121(c), 9121(c); see also § 13.242].

8. Obtain check(s) payable to Secretary of State for payment of filing and certification fees.

NOTE:

The fee for filing the articles of a nonprofit corporation is set forth in Gov. Code § 12186(d). Additional fees apply if more than two certified copies are requested. A special handling fee applies for expedited processing of documents delivered in person at the public counter in the Sacramento and branch offices. This fee must be remitted by separate check for each submittal and will be retained whether the documents are filed or rejected [see Secretary of State website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_artsnpinf.htm].

The Secretary of State may cancel the filing of the articles if the check or other remittance accepted in payment of the filing fee or franchise tax is not paid on presentation. Within 70 days after the articles were filed, the Secretary of State must give written notice to the agent for service of process or the person submitting the instrument that the item presented for payment was not honored. The notice must specify a date, not less than 20 days after the mailing date of the notice, on which the cancellation is to be effective if the fee is not paid by cashier's check or the equivalent [Corp. Code § 5008.5]. The receipt for these fees includes the number assigned to the corporation for use in its tax returns and ordinarily is given or mailed to counsel.

9. File original and at least four copies of articles of incorporation, together with applicable filing fee, within 60 days after name is reserved [see Office of Secretary of State, State of California, Organization of California Nonprofit, Nonstock Corporations, Information Sheet; see also P 1, above, for name registration procedures].

NOTE:

The Secretary of State information sheet, "Organization of California Nonprofit, Nonstock Corporations" states that the original and at least four copies must be included with the submittal. However, the form instructions require the filing of an original and at least two copies, and duplicate originals when filing in a branch office [see Secretary of State Instructions]. In any event, an extra copy must be included by all public benefit corporations for transmittal to the Attorney General [Corp. Code § 5120(d)]. If the corporation was created by the elected legislative body in order to exercise authority that may lawfully be delegated by the elected governing body to a private corporation or other entity, the corporation must furnish an additional copy of its articles to the Secretary of State for transmittal to the Controller [Corp. Code § 5120(e)].

The Secretary of State will compare and certify up to two copies of the articles at no charge provided that the copies are submitted with the original at the time of filing [see Secretary of State information sheet; see also Gov. Code § 12185]. Additional copies submitted with the original will be certified on request and payment of a copy certification fee [see Secretary of State information sheet; see also Gov. Code §§ 12182, 12183].

The articles should be accompanied by a self-addressed envelope and a letter stating the corporate name as well as the name of the person filing the articles, a return address, and telephone number. Corporate existence begins on the filing of the articles and continues perpetually unless otherwise expressly provided by law or in the articles [Corp. Code §§ 5120(c), 7120(c), 9120(c)].

10. File additional copies of articles for certification, as may be needed for any of following purposes:

NOTE:
The Secretary of State will compare and certify up to two copies of the articles at no charge when submitted with the original at the time of filing [see Secretary of State information sheet; see also Gov. Code § 12185]. Additional copies submitted with the original will be certified on request and payment of a reduced copy certification fee [see Secretary of State information sheet; see also Gov. Code §§ 12182, 12183].

a. Applying for nonprofit mailing permit [see P 24, below].

b. Applying for any necessary license or permits [see P 21, below].

c. Applying for local tax exemptions [see Ch. 13B, Tax-Exempt Status for Nonprofit Entities].

NOTE:
The corporation must submit two copies of the articles of incorporation to obtain exemption from local personal property and real property taxes.

d. If unincorporated association is changing to corporate status, one copy for each county recorder where association owns property [see P 20, below].

e. Additional copies if corporation will seek loans, grants, or endowments.

11. Secure minute book, corporate seal, and membership certificates as necessary.

NOTE:
Although corporations are not required to have a seal, it is customary to obtain one, particularly when transactions with third parties, such as banks, are contemplated.

Mutual benefit corporations may but need not issue membership certificates. If membership certificates are desired, the certificate must contain the information prescribed by Corp. Code § 7313(b), including any transfer restrictions [Corp. Code § 7313]. If membership certificates will be issued (after the application is accepted and any required fee paid), the president and secretary should sign the certificate. The member's name and certificate number should be entered in the membership list and the corporate records book.

12. Draft bylaws [see § 13.131].

a. Have bylaws approved by board.

NOTE:

The incorporators may adopt and amend bylaws if the initial directors have not been appointed [Corp. Code §§ 5134, 7134. 9134]. Incorporators typically appoint the directors (if known) and often adopt bylaws at that time. The directors then approve the bylaws at the initial meeting [see § 13.121 (initial meeting)].

b. Have secretary certify bylaws.

NOTE:

The original or a copy in writing or in any other form capable of being converted into clearly legible tangible form of the bylaws, certified to be a true copy by a person purporting to be the secretary or an assistant secretary of the corporation, is prima facie evidence of the adoption of the bylaws and of the matters stated therein [Corp. Code §§ 5215, 7215, 9215].

c. Prepare copies:

NOTE:

The number of copies of the bylaws needed will vary with the needs of the corporation. For example, some corporations will distribute copies of the bylaws to all members of the corporation.

(1) One copy for corporate records book [Corp. Code §§ 5160, 7160, 9160].

(2) One copy to be attached to application for franchise tax exemption, if sought [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701; FTB Form 3500; see also Ch. 13B, Tax-Exempt Status for Nonprofit Entities].

(3) One copy for filing with Registrar of Charitable Trusts, Office of Attorney General, when corporation is charitable corporation or holds assets in charitable trust [see 11 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 300, 302].

NOTE:

Every charitable corporation, unincorporated association, trustee, or other person required by the Supervision of Trustees and Fundraisers for Charitable Purposes Act [see Gov. Code § 12580 et seq.] must file with the Attorney General a copy of the articles of incorporation and bylaws, trust agreement, decree of distribution, or other instrument governing its operation [11 Cal. Code Reg. § 300(a)]. For further discussion, see § 13.142, P 12.

(4) One copy for attorney's file.

13. Select tax year and method of accounting.

14. Secure employer identification number [see IRS Form SS-4].

15. Apply for federal tax exemption [see Ch. 13B, Tax-Exempt Status for Nonprofit Entities].

16. Apply for state tax exemption [see Ch. 13B, Tax-Exempt Status for Nonprofit Entities].

17. File biennial statement by domestic nonprofit corporation with Secretary of State, together with applicable filing fee [Corp. Code §§ 6210(a), 8210(a), 9660(a); see § 13.248].

NOTE:

Every nonprofit corporation must file, within 90 days after the filing of its original articles and biennially thereafter during the applicable filing period, a statement, on a form prescribed by the Secretary of State, containing the names and complete business or residence addresses of its chief executive officer, secretary, and chief financial officer, the street address of its principal office in California, if any; the mailing address of the corporation (if different from the street address of its principal executive office or if it has no principal executive office in California); and the agent for service of process [Corp. Code §§ 6210(a), (b), 8210(a), (b), 9660(a)]. If the statement is being filed as the initial statement or the biennial statement, a filing fee must be attached; if the filing is simply to change information on a filed initial or biennial statement, there is no applicable fee [see § 13.248* (instructions to form)].

18. If issuance of memberships is not exempt under state and federal securities laws [see § 13.40], apply for qualification and registration.

19. If corporation will issue membership certificates, distribute certificates to members after they have applied and qualified for membership and paid any applicable fee.

NOTE:

Membership certificates should be signed by the president and secretary of the corporation before distribution. The corporate records book should contain the member's name, address, and certificate number.

20. If unincorporated association converts to corporate status and owned real property before conversion, file copy of articles with county recorder's office in each county where association owned real property.

NOTE:

Filing the articles demonstrates that the newly formed nonprofit corporation owns the property. Two copies of the articles should be submitted, requesting that one be returned file-stamped. The copy should then be placed in the corporate records book.

21. Secure all necessary license and permits.

NOTE:

The Secretary of State does not license corporations. For licensing requirements, counsel should contact the city and/or county where the principal place of business is located and/or the state agency with jurisdiction over the activities of the organization. If the corporation will obtain an on-sale liquor license, consult Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23425-23455.

a. Prepare and file with appropriate state or federal department, agency, board, or person, application for state or federal license, permit, or certificate of registration.

b. Prepare and file with appropriate local department or agency application for license or permit when license or permit is required to enable corporation to carry on given activity.

22. Comply with charitable solicitation requirements and register with Secretary of State if corporation will lobby for political purposes [see Gov. Code § 82013].

NOTE:

State and local laws may impose registration, permit, and disclosure requirements on charitable solicitations [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 17510 et seq.]. However, some of these laws may be subject to constitutional challenge [see Riley v. National Fed'n of the Blind (1988) 487 U.S. 781, 108 S. Ct. 2667, 101 L. Ed. 2d 669] .

California tracks federal tax law on lobbying and electioneering [compare Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23701d, 23704.5, 23740 with I.R.C. §§ 501(c)(3), (h), 4911], but the federal tax imposed on excess lobbying expenditures does not apply [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23740; see I.R.C. § 4911(a)(1); see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 23740(b)].

23. If corporation is public benefit corporation and exempt from tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701(d); I.R.C. § 501(c)(3)], register with California Attorney General.

NOTE:

The Registry monitors, audits, and registers charitable (public benefit) organizations to determine whether the assets they hold for the public benefit are properly administered [see Gov. Code §§ 12586(b), 12588]. The files and annual financial reports of registered charitable organizations are available for public inspection.

Public benefit corporations will receive a notice to register, Registration Form RRF-1, and a copy of the Uniform Supervision of Trustees for Charitable Purposes Act from the Registry of Charitable Trust in the Office of the California Attorney General. However, schools and hospitals are generally exempt from these registration requirements. For further discussion, see § 13.36[3]. A copy should be filed in the corporation's records book.

24. Obtain nonprofit mailing permit, if desired.

NOTE:

Nonprofit corporations may apply for a mailing permit at the local or main post office to take advantage of significantly lower postage rates [see 39 U.S.C. § 3626]. The corporation must submit a file-stamped or certified copy of the articles, a copy of the bylaws, copies of tax exemption letters, and promotional literature and pay an annual fee.

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.121

§ 13.121 Holding Initial Meeting of Directors

NOTE:

If the articles of incorporation do not specify the names of the initial directors, the incorporators will have to meet to name the directors. The rules regarding the holding of meetings of directors apply to the holding of meetings of incorporators [Corp. Code §§ 5211(d), 7211(d), 9211(d)]. Alternatively, the incorporators may unanimously elect the directors in writing without a meeting [see Corp. Code §§ 5211(b), 7211(b), 9211(b); see also § 13.244]. Once the directors have been appointed by the incorporators, the process of corporate organization may continue.

1. Directors should determine whether various acts completing organization of corporation are to be taken at meeting of board with notice, or on written consent to holding meeting, or on waiver of notice or on approval of minutes of meeting.

2. Directors should fix time and place of meeting.

3. If meeting is to be held, directors should call meeting.

NOTE:

Any two directors may call a meeting of the board [Corp. Code §§ 5211(a)(1), 7211(a)(1), 9211(a)(1)]. Each director present and voting at a meeting has one vote on each matter presented to the board of directors for action at that meeting. No director may vote at any meeting by proxy [Corp. Code §§ 5211(c), 7211(c), 9211(c)].

4. Unless incorporators have adopted bylaws that prohibit holding of meeting on waiver of notice [see Corp. Code §§ 5211(a)(3), 7211(a)(3), 9211(a)(3)], hold first meeting on waiver of notice of meeting signed by all incumbent directors.

NOTE:

Notice is not required, absent a contrary article or bylaw provision, if each director provides waiver of notice, a written consent to holding the meeting, or an approval of the minutes of the meeting in writing, whether before or after the meeting. Attendance at the meeting without protest effectively waives notice. Waivers, consents, and approvals must be filed with the corporate records or made a part of the minutes of the meeting [Corp. Code §§ 5211(a)(3), 7211(a)(3), 9211(a)(3)].

5. At meeting, appoint temporary chairman and temporary secretary.

NOTE:

Board members may participate in a meeting through use of conference telephone, electronic video screen communication or other communications equipment. Participation in a meeting through use of conference telephone or electronic video screen communication constitutes presence in person at the meeting as long as all members participating in the meeting are able to hear one another. Participation in a meeting through use of electronic transmission by and to the corporation (other than conference telephone or electronic video screen communication) constitutes presence in person at the meeting if each participating member can communicate with all other members concurrently and each member has the means to participate in all matters before the board [Corp. Code §§ 5211(a)(6), 7211(a)(6), 9211(a)(6)].

6. State following recitations, as applicable, for purpose of corporate minutes:

a. That corporation is duly formed.

NOTE:
The statement of purpose, as applicable to the type of nonprofit corporation, must be stated exactly as prescribed by statute and cannot be modified [see Corp. Code §§ 5130(b), 7130(b), 9130(a); see also Organization of Domestic Nonprofit, Nonstock Corporations, Secretary of State's website http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_artsnpinf.htm].

(2) For mutual benefit corporation, use [Corp. Code § 7130(b)]:

"This corporation is a nonprofit, mutual-benefit corporation organized under the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law. The purpose of this corporation is to engage in any lawful act or activity, other than credit union business, for which a corporation may be organized under such law."

NOTE:

If the corporation is subject to the California Credit Union Law, the purpose statement must instead be as prescribed by that law [Corp. Code § 7130(b)(2); see Fin. Code § 14101(b); see also § 13.210[2]]. The articles may include a further description of the corporation's purposes [Corp. Code § 7130(b); see P c, below].

(3) For religious corporation, use [Corp. Code § 9130(b)]:

"This corporation is a religious corporation and is not organized for the private gain of any person. It is organized under the Nonprofit Religious Corporation Law primarily or exclusively (select one or both) for religious purposes."

NOTE:

The articles may include a further description of the corporation's purposes [Corp. Code § 9130(b); see P c, below].

c. Identify specific purpose of corporation.

NOTE:

The articles should include a statement describing the corporation's specific purpose, and must be included if the corporation is organized for public purposes or if the corporation intends to apply for state franchise tax exemption [see Office of Secretary of State, State of California, Organization of California Nonprofit, Nonstock Corporations, Instructions (available on Secretary of State's website)].

d. Designate initial agent for service of process.

NOTE:

The designated agent, individual or corporation, must agree to accept process on behalf of the corporation before designation. A proposed corporation cannot designate itself as agent for service of process. When designating another corporation as agent, the agent corporation must have on file, with the Secretary of State, a statement pursuant to Corp. Code § 1505. When a corporate agent is used, the address of the designated corporation is not included in the articles [see Office of Secretary of State, State of California, Organization of California Nonprofit, Nonstock Corporations, Instructions (available on Secretary of State's website)].

h. To obtain welfare exemption from property taxes, include following in articles of incorporation [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 214(a)(6), (e), 214.01(a)]:

(1) For religious, hospital, scientific, or charitable fund, foundation, or association:

(a) Statement of irrevocable dedication to religious, charitable, scientific, or hospital purposes.

NOTE:
Property is deemed irrevocably dedicated to religious, charitable, scientific, or hospital purposes only if a statement of irrevocable dedication to these purposes is included in the articles of incorporation [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214.01(a)].

If the Board of Equalization determines that the applicant is ineligible for exemption because the articles do not contain a statement of irrevocable dedication, the Board will notify the applicant in writing. The applicant has until the next succeeding lien date to amend its articles and file a certified copy of the conforming amendments to be eligible for the organizational clearance certificate [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214.01(b)].

(b) Provision that on liquidation, dissolution, or abandonment, property will not inure to benefit of private person except fund, foundation, or corporation organized and operated for religious, hospital, scientific, or charitable purposes.

(2) For educational institution of collegiate grade:

(a) Statement of irrevocable dedication to charitable and educational purposes, to religious and educational purposes, or to educational purposes [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(j) ("educational purposes" defined)].

2. If desired or if appropriate, include permissive statement further limiting purposes or powers of corporation [Corp. Code §§ 5131, 7131, 9131].

3. Include any mandatory provision required by law other than Nonprofit Corporation Law.

NOTE:
For example, the Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation Law applies to corporations formed under the Small Business Development Corporation Law, which requires a statement to that effect in the articles [see Corp. Code §§ 14045, 14051].

4. If desired or if appropriate, include following permissible optional provisions, which are not effective unless expressly provided in articles [Corp. Code §§ 5132(a), 7132(a), 9132(a)]:

NOTE:
Neither the following provisions nor the authorizing statutory sections will affect the enforceability, as between the parties, of any lawful agreement not otherwise contrary to public policy [Corp. Code §§ 5132(b), 7132(b), 9132(b)].

a. Provision limiting duration of existence of corporation to specified date.

b. In case of subordinate corporation instituted or created under authority of head organization, provision setting forth either or both of the following:

NOTE:
The Department of Corporations has informally indicated that when the articles contain either or both of the following provisions, they should also contain an introductory statement that the corporation is a subordinate organization created under the authority of the head organization.

(1) That subordinate corporation will dissolve whenever its charter is surrendered to, taken away by, or revoked by head organization granting it; and/or

(2) That in event of its dissolution pursuant to article provision allowed by Corp. Code §§ 5132(a)(2)(A), 7132(a)(4)(A), or 9132(a)(2)(A), or, in event of its dissolution for any reason, any assets of corporation remaining after compliance with applicable provisions governing distribution of assets will be distributed to head organization.

c. In case of mutual benefit corporations [Corp. Code § 7132(a)(2), (3)]:

(1) Provision conferring on holders of any evidences of indebtedness, issued or to be issued by corporation, right to vote in election of directors and on any other matters on which members may vote under Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law even if corporation does not have members.

(2) Provision conferring on members right to determine consideration for which memberships shall be issued.

5. If desirable or appropriate, include following optional provisions (among many other optional provisions) [Corp. Code §§ 5132(c), 7132(c), 9132(c)]:

NOTE:

Counsel should weigh various factors in determining whether provisions relating to the members of the corporation should be set forth in the articles or in the bylaws. One consideration is that articles of incorporation are public documents. Further, amending articles is more complex than amending bylaws. For example, although the bylaws may generally be amended or repealed by the approval of the members or the board of directors [Corp. Code §§ 5150, 7150, 9150], articles, with certain exceptions, can be amended only if approved by the board, members, and any other persons, as required by the articles [Corp. Code § 5812(a), 7812(a)]. Moreover, an amendment of the articles is not effective until a certificate of amendment [see §§ 13.260, 13.261*] or restated articles [see § 13.262*] is filed with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code §§ 5817, 7817].

a. Names and addresses of persons appointed to act as initial directors of corporation.

b. Classes of members, if any.

NOTE:

The Nonprofit Corporation Law defines "member" as any person who, pursuant to a specific provision of a corporation's articles or bylaws, has the right to vote for the election of a director or directors or on a disposition of all or substantially all of the assets of a corporation or on a merger or on a dissolution, with the exception of holders of indebtedness having similar rights in the case of mutual benefit corporations [Corp. Code § 5056(a); see Corp. Code § 7132(a)*]. "Member" also means any person who is designated in the articles or bylaws as a member and, pursuant to a specific provision of a corporation's articles or bylaws, has the right to vote on changes to the articles or bylaws [Corp. Code § 5056(a)]. The term "person" includes natural persons as well as business entities [see Corp. Code § 5065*].

c. If there are two or more classes of membership, identify rights, privileges, preferences, restrictions, and conditions attaching to each class.

d. Provision allowing any member to have more or less than one vote in any election or other matter presented to members for vote.

e. Provision requiring that amendments to articles [see Corp. Code §§ 5812(a), 7812(a)] or bylaws, and any amendment or repeal of that amendment, be approved in writing by specified persons other than board or board members.

NOTE:

This approval requirement will not apply in the following circumstances unless the articles specify otherwise: (1) the specified person has died or ceased to exist, (2) the specified office, trust, or status has ceased to exist, or (3) the corporation has provided written notice of a specific proposal for amendment or repeal to the specified person and the corporation has not received approval or nonapproval within a specified time [Corp. Code §§ 5132(c)(4), 7132(c)(4), 9132(c)(4)].

f. Any other provision, not in conflict with law, for management of activities and for conduct of affairs of corporation, including any provision required or permitted by Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation Law, Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law, or Nonprofit Religious Corporation Law to be stated in bylaws.

g. In case of mutual benefit corporation, provisions concerning transfer of memberships, in accordance with Corp. Code § 7320 [Corp. Code § 7132(c)(2)].

NOTE:

The rules governing the transferability of memberships vary depending on the type of nonprofit corporation. Members of public benefit corporations are prohibited from transferring memberships, or any rights arising out of membership, for value; however, members may transfer memberships, or any rights arising out of membership, if the transfer is authorized by the articles of incorporation or bylaws, but only if the transfer is not for value [Corp. Code § 5320(a), (b); but see Corp. Code § 5320(c) (restrictions inapplicable to purchase of memberships in limited-equity housing public benefit corporations)]. Members of mutual benefit corporations may transfer memberships, or any rights arising out of membership, but only if the articles of incorporation or bylaws provide for, or authorize the board to provide for, membership transfer [Corp. Code § 7320(a), (b)]. Members of religious corporations are prohibited from transferring memberships, or any rights arising out of membership, for value [Corp. Code § 9320(a)].

§ 13.142 Recordkeeping and Reporting Requirements

NOTE:
The failure to make or direct an entry into the corporate records as required by law is a crime punishable by fine and/or imprisonment [see Corp. Code §§ 6812, 6813, 8812, 8813, 9690].

1. Maintain original or copy of following for inspection at corporation's principal office in California [Corp. Code §§ 5160, 7160, 9160]:

NOTE:
Every corporation must keep at its principal office in California the original or a copy of its articles and bylaws as amended to date. These documents must be open to inspection by the members at all reasonable times during office hours. A corporation with no office in California must, on the written request of any member, furnish a copy of the articles or bylaws as amended to date to that member [Corp. Code §§ 5160, 7160, 9160]. Every director has an right to inspect and copy all books, records, and documents of the corporation. For public benefit and mutual benefit corporations, this right is absolute. a. Articles of incorporation.

b. Bylaws.

2. File all written consents, waivers, and approvals in corporate records books.

3. Keep adequate and correct books and records of account [Corp. Code §§ 6320(a)(1), 8320(a)(1), 9510(a)(1)].

NOTE:

These books and records must be kept in written form, in any other form capable of being converted into clearly legible tangible form, or any combination of the two. When records are kept in a form capable of being converted into clearly legible paper form, the form into which the record is converted is admissible in evidence, and accepted for all other purposes, to the same extent as an original paper record of the same information would have been, provided that the paper form accurately portrays the record [Corp. Code §§ 6320(b), 8320(b), 9510(b)].

4. Keep minutes of the proceedings of corporation's members, board, and board committees [Corp. Code §§ 6320(a)(2), 8320(a)(2), 9510(a)(2)].

NOTE:

The minutes must be kept in written form, in any other form capable of being converted into clearly legible tangible form, or any combination of the two. When records are kept in a form capable of being converted into clearly legible paper form, the form into which the record is converted is admissible in evidence, and accepted for all other purposes, to the same extent as an original paper record of the same information would have been, provided that the paper form accurately portrays the record [Corp. Code §§ 6320(b), 8320(b), 9510(b)].

5. Maintain record of members, stating their names, addresses and the class of membership held by each [Corp. Code §§ 6320(a)(3), 8320(a)(3), 9510(a)(3)].

NOTE:

These books and records must be kept in written form, in any other form capable of being converted into clearly legible tangible form, or any combination of the two. When records are kept in a form capable of being converted into clearly legible paper form, the form into which the record is converted is admissible in evidence, and accepted for all other purposes, to the same extent as an original paper record of the same information would have been, provided that the paper form accurately portrays the record [Corp. Code §§ 6320(b), 8320(b), 9510(b)].

6. Maintain accounting books, records, and minutes of board, committee, and member meetings for inspection.

NOTE:

The accounting books and records and minutes of proceedings of members and the board and committees of the board must be open to inspection on the written demand on the corporation by any member at any reasonable time for a purpose reasonably related to that person's interest as a member [Corp. Code §§ 6333, 8333, 9512]. Every director has a right to inspect and copy all books, records, and documents of the corporation. For public benefit and mutual benefit corporations, this right is absolute; however, directors of religious corporations must have a purpose reasonably related to that person's interests as a director [Corp. Code §§ 6334, 8334, 9513].

7. File periodic statement of information as required by applicable California statute.

NOTE:

The fee for filing the statement is set forth in Gov. Code § 12186(e). The Secretary of State may cancel the filing of the statement if the check or other remittance accepted in payment of the filing fee or franchise tax is not paid on presentation. Within 70 days after the articles were filed, the Secretary of State must give written notice to the agent for service of process or the person submitting the instrument that the item presented for payment was not honored. The notice must specify a date, not less than 20 days after the mailing date of the notice, on which the cancellation is to be effective if the fee is not paid by cashier's check or the equivalent [Corp. Code § 5008.5]. The receipt for these fees includes the number assigned to the corporation for use in its tax returns and ordinarily is given or mailed to counsel.

a. For domestic nonprofit corporations [Corp. Code §§ 6210(a), 8210(a), (b), 9660(a); see § 13.248 (form)]:

(1) Within 90 days after filing of original articles [see § 13.120 P 17]; and

(2) Biennially thereafter during applicable filing period.

b. For foreign nonprofit corporations, annually during applicable filing period [Corp. Code §§ 2117, 2117.1, 6910, 8910; see § 13.249 (form)].

8. If corporation is exempt, file annual information returns on Form 990 [see Treas. Reg. § 1.6033-2(a)(1); see also Ch. 13B, Tax-Exempt Status for Nonprofit Entities].

NOTE:

Private foundations file their annual information return on Form 990-PF [see Treas. Reg. § 1.6033-2(a)(2)]. A parent organization may file a single Form 990 on behalf of all group members [see Treas. Reg. § 1.6033-2(d)]. Annual returns must be maintained by the organization and made available for inspection for three years.

9. For a public benefit corporation:

a. Prepare annual report to members and directors, stating following in "appropriate detail" [see Corp. Code § 6321(a)]:

NOTE:

The annual report must be accompanied by any report of independent accountants, or, absent a report, the certificate of an authorized officer of the corporation to the effect that the statements in the report were prepared without audit from the books and records of the corporation [Corp. Code § 6321(b)]. Unless otherwise provided by the articles or bylaws, and if approved by the board of directors, the annual report and any accompanying material may be sent by electronic transmission by the corporation [Corp. Code § 6321(a); see Corp. Code § 20].

No annual report need be sent if the corporation receives less than $25,000 in gross revenues or receipts during the fiscal year [Corp. Code § 6321(c)]. If the corporation provides for regular meetings of members less often than annually, then the report need be made to members only with the frequency of the regular membership meetings unless the articles or bylaws require a report more often [Corp. Code § 6321(d)]. However, in any event, a report with the required information must be furnished annually to all directors and any member who requests it in writing [Corp. Code § 6321(e)]. A corporation that solicits contributions in writing from 500 or more persons is also exempt from the annual reporting requirement under specified circumstances [see Corp. Code § 6321(f)].

If the corporation reports to the Attorney General [see P 12, below], and the report contains the information required by the annual report, the corporation may furnish a copy of that report in lieu of the annual report [Corp. Code § 6324].

(2) Mail or other written communication sent to member at address listed in corporate record books or address given for purpose of notice.

NOTE:
The board of directors must approve the use of electronic transmission [Corp. Code § 6321(a)].

(4) Including report in corporation's newsletter, magazine, or other organ regularly sent to members, addressed, and mailed or delivered to member.

NOTE:
In the case of members who are residents of the same household and have the same address in the corporate record books, notice to one is deemed notice to the others [Corp. Code § 5016].

(5) If no address is recorded or given, give notice by mail or other written communication addressed to corporation's principal office or by publication in newspaper of general circulation in county where corporation has principal office.

NOTE:
As a general matter and to avoid this option, the membership list should be reviewed annually before the earlier of the board or member meeting.

10. For a mutual benefit corporation:

a. Prepare annual report to members and directors, stating in "appropriate detail" [see Corp. Code § 8321(a)]:

NOTE:
The annual report must be accompanied by any report of independent accountants, or, absent a report, the certificate of an authorized officer of the corporation to the effect that the statements in the report were prepared without audit from the books and records of the corporation [Corp. Code § 8321(b)]. No annual report need be sent if the corporation receives less than $10,000 in gross revenues or receipts during the fiscal year [Corp. Code § 8321(c)]. Unless otherwise provided by the articles or bylaws, and if approved by the board of directors, the annual report and any accompanying material may be sent by electronic transmission by the corporation [Corp. Code § 8321(a); see Corp. Code § 20].

(2) By mail or other written communication sent to member at address listed in corporate record books or address given for purpose of notice.

(3) Electronic transmission by the corporation [see Corp. Code § 20].

NOTE:
The board of directors must approve the use of electronic transmission [Corp. Code § 8321(a)].

(4) By including report in corporation's newsletter, magazine, or other organ regularly sent to members, addressed, and mailed or delivered to member.

NOTE:
In the case of members who are residents of the same household and have the same address in the corporate record books, notice to one is deemed notice to the others [Corp. Code § 5016].

(5) If no address is recorded or given, by mail or other written communication addressed to corporation's principal office or by publication in newspaper of general circulation in county where corporation has principal office.

NOTE:
As a general matter and to avoid this option, the membership list should be reviewed at least annually before any board or members meetings.

11. For a religious corporation, prepare and deliver annual report to members and directors if required by bylaws.

NOTE:
The Nonprofit Religious Corporation Law does not independently require annual reports. However, unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws, a member may inspect and copy the record of all the members' names, addresses, and voting rights, at reasonable times, on five business days prior written demand for a purpose reasonably related to the member's interest as a member [Corp. Code § 9511]. Similarly, unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws, the accounting books and records and the minutes of proceedings of the members, board, and board committees must be open to inspection on the written demand of any member at any reasonable time, for a purpose reasonably related to such person's interests as a member [Corp. Code § 9512]. Further, directors, at any reasonable time, may inspect and copy all books, records, and documents of every kind and to inspect the physical properties of the corporation for a purpose reasonably related to that person's interests as a director [*Corp. NOTE:
The corporation must file Form RRF-1 with the Registry of Charitable Trusts on or before January 15 of each year or risk loss of exempt status, the assessment of minimum tax, and the imposition of late fees [see Form RRF-1]. Form RRF-1 seeks information about the corporation's revenues, expenditures, assets, liabilities, financial situation, and fundraising activities.

Corporations with assets in excess of $25,000 must file a copy of their informational tax return (IRS Form 990, 990-EZ, or 990-PF) with the registry within four and one half months after the end of the corporation's fiscal year [see Gov. Code § 12586(d); see also 11 Cal. Code Reg. § 305 (extension for good cause)].

Form RRF-1 is available from the registry and may be downloaded from http://caag.state.ca.us/charities [see Form RRF-1].

(2) Foreign nonprofit corporation doing business or holding property in California for charitable or eleemosynary purposes.

CHAPTER 13 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Articles of Incorporation and Bylaws
1. Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporations

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.200

§ 13.200 Articles of Incorporation

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a sample set of articles of incorporation for use by nonprofit public benefit corporations. It is modeled after the sample provided by the Secretary of State, and contains all provisions required by law. Samples are also available on official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, which is located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. However, the latter samples are illustrative only, and cannot be filled in and submitted in the form reproduced on the website.

A nonprofit public benefit corporation is formed and corporate existence begins on the filing of the articles of incorporation and continues perpetually unless otherwise expressly provided by law or in the articles [Corp. Code § 5120(a), (c); see Corp. Code § 5132(a)(1) (limiting corporation's existence); see also §§ 13.20, 13.130].

[b] Mandatory Provisions

Article I must be completed with the name of the corporation exactly as the name is to appear on the records of the Secretary of State.

Article IIA has been taken directly from the California Corporations Code as is required by law and should only be modified to include the applicable purpose description (preceding the word "purposes" in the second sentence, the word "charitable" or the words "public and charitable" may be substituted for the word "public").

Article IIB should be completed with a statement as to the specific purpose of the corporation. This statement is required if the corporation is organized for public purposes or if the corporation intends to apply for a state franchise tax exemption [see Office of Secretary of State, State of California, Organization of California Nonprofit, Nonstock Corporations, Instructions].

Article III must be completed with the name and California address, or physical location, of the agent for service of process.

Article IV and Article V, when applicable, contain language required by the Franchise Tax Board and Internal Revenue Service to be included in the articles of incorporation before tax exempt status may be granted. The Internal Revenue Service has refused to grant an exemption under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) to a nonprofit corporation unless the articles of incorporation contain additional language that the Internal Revenue Service claims is required, although this requirement does not appear in the Code itself. This language essentially provides that notwithstanding any other provision of the articles of incorporation, the corporation may not perform any activities not permitted to be carried on by (1) a corporation that is exempt from federal income tax under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3), or (2) a corporation to which contributions are deductible under I.R.C. § 170(c)(2).

Article VI should be included if the nonprofit corporation is an existing unincorporated association that is changing its status to that of a corporation. Article VI, which is not included in the current version of the sample articles drafted by the Secretary of State, has been included by the publisher to satisfy the statutory requirement of Corp. Code § 5121(b), which specifies that the articles must contain such a statement when an existing unincorporated association is changing its status to that of a corporation [see Corp. Code § 5121(a); see also [d], below].

PRACTICE TIP:

Keeping the articles brief and tailored to the minimum statutory requirements ensures more privacy to the corporation. Further, counsel should consider the fact that it is more difficult to amend the articles than the bylaws. The bylaws generally may be amended or repealed by the approval of the members or the board of directors [Corp. Code § 5150], whereas the articles, with certain exceptions, can be amended only with the approval of the members, the board of directors, and such other persons, if any, required by the articles [Corp. Code § 5812(a)]. Moreover, amendment of the articles is not effective until a certificate of amendment is filed with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 5817].

[c] Optional Provisions

The articles of a nonprofit public benefit corporation may include additional provisions as warranted. Two provisions will not be effective unless expressly provided in the articles:

- First, if the corporation will be of limited duration, the articles must include a provision limiting the corporation's existence to a specified date [Corp. Code § 5132(a)(1)].

- Second, if a subordinate corporation is instituted or created under the authority of a head organization, the articles must include a provision setting forth either or both of the following: (1) that the subordinate corporation will dissolve whenever its charter is surrendered to, taken away by, or revoked by head organization granting it; and/or (2) that in event of its dissolution pursuant to article provision allowed by Corp. Code § 5132(a)(2)(A), or, in event of its dissolution for any reason, any assets of corporation remaining after compliance with applicable provisions governing distribution of assets will be distributed to head organization [Corp. Code § 5132(a)(2); see Corp. Code § 5132(b); see also § 13.130, P 3]. If one or both of the these statements is included, the Department of Corporations has informally indicated that the articles should also contain an introductory statement that the corporation is a subordinate corporation created under the authority of the head organization.

The corporation may also include other optional provisions, such as the names and addresses of the initial directors [Corp. Code § 5132(c); see [2], art. VII, below], and a further statement limiting the purposes or powers of the corporation [Corp. Code § 5131]. For further discussion, see § 13.130, P 4.

An existing unincorporated association may change its status to that of a public benefit corporation if the change is properly authorized by the association in accordance with its rules and procedures [Corp. Code § 5121(a)]. In this situation, in addition to the matters required to be set forth in the articles by Corp. Code § 5130, as discussed in this comment, the articles must also state that an existing unincorporated association, stating its name, is being incorporated by the filing of the articles [Corp. Code § 5121(b)]. Optional Article VI of this form, added by the publisher includes the required statements.

When an existing unincorporated association changes its status to that of a public benefit corporation, the articles must be accompanied by a verified statement of any two officers or governing board members of the association, stating that the incorporation of the association by means of the articles to which the verified statement is attached has been approved by the association in accordance with its rules and procedures [Corp. Code § 5121(c); see § 13.242].

For further discussion, see § 13.22.

[e] Location and Inspection of Articles

The corporation must keep the original or a copy of its articles as amended to date at its principal office in California. These articles must be open to inspection by the members at all reasonable times during office hours. If the corporation does not have an office in California, it must furnish a copy of the articles as amended to date on the written request of any member [Corp. Code § 5160]. These requirements that apply to articles also apply to bylaws of public benefit corporations [Corp. Code § 5160; see § 13.201].

The articles of incorporation must be originally signed by an incorporator unless directors are named in the articles. If directors are named in the articles, each person named must sign and acknowledge the document. The name(s) of the person(s) signing must be typed directly below the signature(s) [Corp. Code § 5120(b), (c); see Office of Secretary of State, State of California, Organization of California Nonprofit, Nonstock Corporations, Instructions]. The statute does not require that the signatures be dated and the Secretary of State's sample forms do not provide for a date, but this form does contain one since most attorneys prefer to have a date associated with signatures on a document.

The original and at least four copies of the completed documents are then mailed or hand delivered to the Secretary of State, together with the applicable fee [see Office of Secretary of State, State of California, Organization of California Nonprofit, Nonstock Corporations, Information Sheet]. When documents are being hand delivered for filing in the San Francisco, Fresno, Los Angeles or San Diego office, a duplicate original is also required. To expedite processing, articles of incorporation submitted by mail should be accompanied by a self-addressed envelope and a letter referencing the proposed corporate name as well as the name, telephone number, and return address of the person filing the articles [see Office of Secretary of State, State of California, Organization of California Nonprofit, Nonstock Corporations, Instructions].

The articles of incorporation must be accompanied by the applicable filing fee [see Gov. Code § 12186(d); Corp. Code § 5006]. The Secretary of State will compare and certify up to two copies of the amendment at no charge provided that the copies are submitted with the original to be filed [Gov. Code § 12185]. If additional certified copies are required, an additional minimal fee is charged, provided that the copies are furnished to the Secretary of State and the fee is prepaid [Gov. Code §§ 12182, 12183]. A separate and nonrefundable handling fee is charged for expedited processing of documents delivered in person, over the counter, to the Sacramento headquarters office [see Office of Secretary of State, State of California, Organization of California Nonprofit, Nonstock Corporations, Information Sheet].

The Secretary of State may cancel the filing of the articles if the check or other remittance accepted in payment of the filing fee is not paid on presentation [Corp. Code § 5008.5]. Within 70 days after the articles were filed, the Secretary of State must give written notice to the agent for service of process or the person submitting the instrument that the item presented for payment was not honored. The notice must specify a cancellation date that is not less than 20 days after the date the notice is mailed, on which the cancellation is to be effective if the fee is not paid by cashier's check or the equivalent [Corp. Code § 5008.5].

[g] Acknowledgment of Articles Required

If initial directors are named in the articles, each director named in the articles must sign and acknowledge the articles [Corp. Code § 5120(b)]. When the articles are signed by incorporators rather than by the initial directors [see [f], above], the statutory language states only that the articles "shall be signed" by the incorporators; it does not expressly require an acknowledgment, nor does it prohibit one being used, so an acknowledgment in the latter case should be regarded as optional [see Corp. Code § 5120(b)].

The Nonprofit Corporation Law defines "acknowledgment" as either the form of notarial acknowledgment prescribed in the Civil Code [see Civ. Code § 1180 et seq.] or the accompaniment of a declaration in writing signed by the persons executing the same that they are those persons and that the instrument is the act and deed of the person or persons executing it [Corp. Code § 5030].

This form contains a notarial acknowledgment prescribed by Civ. Code § 1189(a)(1). For an acknowledgment by declaration, which may be used as an alternative to notarial acknowledgment [see Corp. Code § 5030(b)], see § 13.241.

§ 13.201 Bylaws--With Members in One Class

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an illustrative set of bylaws designed for use by a nonprofit public benefit corporation that has or will have only one class of members. The form contains numerous optional and permissive provisions that are discussed below.

A nonprofit public benefit corporation may admit persons to one class of membership, or may provide for multiple classes of membership [Corp. Code §§ 5132(c)(2), 5151(c)(1), 5310(a)]. The membership provisions in this form may be used if the corporation will admit one class of members. If the corporation will admit multiple classes of members, the provisions concerning the admission of members set forth in § 13.212[2] (bylaws for nonprofit mutual benefit corporation with multiple classes of members) may be inserted in this form, with appropriate modification of provisions in this form that are inconsistent with the substituted provisions.

Alternatively, nonprofit public benefit corporations need not have members, and the Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation Law provides that if the articles or bylaws prohibit members or fail to provide for members, the corporation may not have members [Corp. Code § 5310(a)]. For an example of bylaws for a nonprofit corporation without members, see § 13.221 (bylaws for religious corporation without members).

[b] "Member" Defined

A "member" is any person who, pursuant to a specific provision of the corporation's articles or bylaws, has the right to vote for the election of a director or directors, on a disposition of all or substantially all of the assets of the corporation, or on a merger or on a dissolution. The term also includes any person who is designated in the articles or bylaws as a member and, pursuant to a specific provision of a corporation's articles or bylaws, has the right to vote on changes to the articles or bylaws [Corp. Code § 5056(a)].

[c] Mandatory Provisions

Unless stated in the articles, the bylaws must state either the number of directors of the corporation, the method of determining the number of directors of the corporation, or that the number of directors may not be less than a stated minimum (one or more) nor more than a stated maximum with the exact number of directors to be fixed, within the limits specified, by approval of the board or the members [Corp. Code § 5034], in the manner provided in the bylaws [Corp. Code § 5151(a), (e)]. If the articles provide for the number of directors, that provision may only by changed by a formal amendment of the articles [Corp. Code § 5151(a); see § 13.261]. Except as otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws, once members have been admitted, a bylaw specifying or changing a fixed number of directors or the maximum or minimum number or changing from a fixed to a variable board or vice versa may only be adopted by approval of the members [Corp. Code § 5151(b)].

[d] Optional Provisions in General

As a general rule, the bylaws may contain any provision, not in conflict with law or the articles, for the management of the activities and for the conduct of the affairs of the corporation. This authority includes any provision that is required or permitted by the Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation Law to be stated in the bylaws [Corp. Code §§ 5151(c), 5132(c)(5)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Provisions of the Nonprofit Corporation Law establish many of the rules governing the management of corporate affairs, at least in the absence of a contrary bylaw. Although these rules are not required to be restated in the bylaws, corporations often do to provide a complete manual of corporate procedure for the management and members.

[e] Directors and Executive Committees

The Nonprofit Corporation Law permits the following optional bylaws provisions relating to directors and executive committees of public benefit corporations:

- The names and addresses of the persons appointed to act as initial directors [Corp. Code §§ 5151(c)(1), 5132(c)(1)];
- The time, place, and manner of calling, conducting, and giving notice of directors' and committee meetings, or of conducting mail ballots [Corp. Code § 5151(c)(2)];
- The qualifications, duties, and compensation of directors [Corp. Code § 5151(c)(3)];
- The time of the election of directors [Corp. Code § 5151(c)(3)];
- The requirements of a quorum for directors' and committee meetings [Corp. Code § 5151(c)(3)];
- The appointment and authority of committees [Corp. Code § 5151(c)(4)]; and
- A provision restricting the indemnification of directors [Corp. Code § 5238(h)(1)].

The bylaws, with some limitations, may restrict or eliminate the power of the board to adopt, amend, or repeal any or all of the bylaws [Corp. Code § 5150(c)]. The bylaws may also provide that the repeal or amendment of the bylaws, or the repeal or amendment of specified portions of the bylaws, may occur only with the written approval of specified persons other than the board or members [Corp. Code § 5150(d)]. For further discussion, see [n], below.

Unless otherwise provided in the bylaws or articles, and except for a vacancy created by the removal of a director, board vacancies may be filled by approval of the board [see Corp. Code § 5032] or, if the number of directors then in office is less than a quorum, by either (1) the unanimous written consent of the directors then in office, (2) the affirmative vote of a majority of the directors then in office at a meeting held pursuant to notice or waivers of notice complying with Corp. Code § 5211, or (3) a sole remaining director [Corp. Code § 5224(a)].

The directors of a corporation with fewer than 50 members may be removed without cause by a majority vote of the members; the directors of a larger corporation may be removed without cause with the approval of the members [see Corp. Code §§ 5033, 5222(a)(1), (2); see also Corp. Code § 5034 ("approved by members" defined); Corp. Code § 5222(b), (f)]. These requirements may not be altered by the bylaws [see Corp. Code § 5151(e)]. If the corporation has no members, directors may be removed by a vote of the majority of the directors [Corp. Code § 5222(a)(3)]. If the articles or bylaws authorize cumulative voting, special rules apply to the removal of directors [see Corp. Code § 5222(b)(1)]. If the articles or bylaws authorize members of any class, voting as a class, to elect directors, a director elected by that class may be removed by the prescribed vote of the members of that class [Corp. Code § 5222(b)(2)]. If the articles or bylaws authorize the designation of directors, any designated director may be removed without cause by the designator unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws at the time the designation is made [Corp. Code § 5222(i) designator]. Any director so designated may only be removed with the written consent of the designator of that designator [Corp. Code § 5222(f)(2)]. Unless provided otherwise in the articles or bylaws, the right to remove will not apply if (1) the designator entitled to that right has died or ceased to exist, or (2) the right is in the capacity of an officer, trustee, or other status and that office, trust, or status has ceased to exist [Corp. Code § 5222(f)(3)].

The bylaws may contain provisions concerning the appointment, duties, compensation, and tenure of officers [Corp. Code § 5151(c)(5)]. Absent a provision in the articles or bylaws, the president, or if there is no president the chair [see Corp. Code § 5039.5 ("chair" includes "chairperson," "chairman," and "chairwoman")] of the board, is the general manager and chief executive officer of the corporation. Unless otherwise specified in the articles or bylaws, if there is no chief financial officer, the treasurer is the chief financial officer of the corporation [Corp. Code § 5213(a)]. Except as otherwise provided in the articles or the bylaws, officers must be chosen by the board and serve at the pleasure of the board, subject to the rights, if any, of an officer under any contract of employment [Corp. Code § 5213(b)]. If the articles or bylaws provide for the election of any officer by the members, the term of office of that officer must be one year unless the articles or bylaws provide for a different term, which may not exceed three years [Corp. Code § 5213(c)].

[g] Compensation

The bylaws may fix the compensation of directors [Corp. Code § 5151(c)(3)], or the bylaws may leave the determination of compensation to the board of directors. The following form contains two alternative provisions in Section 4.06 relating to the compensation of the directors. When drafting a provision specifying the compensation to be paid to directors, counsel should review I.R.C. § 4941(d)(2)(E) because it prohibits the payment of unreasonable compensation to directors of corporations qualifying as private foundations within the meaning of the Internal Revenue Code.

[h] Members

In general, the bylaws may confer some or all of the rights of a member, set forth in the Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation Law, on any person or persons who do not have any of the voting rights referred to in Corporations Code Section 5056(a) [Corp. Code § 5056(b)]. More specifically, the bylaws may contain provisions concerning the following matters:

- The classes of members, if any, and if there are two or more classes, the rights, privileges, preferences, restrictions, and conditions attaching to each class [Corp. Code §§ 5151(c)(1), 5132(c)(2)].

- A provision that would allow any member to have more or less than one vote in any election or other matter presented to the members for a vote [Corp. Code §§ 5151(c)(1), 5132(c)(3)].

- The mode of determination of members of record [Corp. Code § 5151(c)(6)].

- The making of reports and financial statements to members [Corp. Code § 5151(c)(7)].

- Setting, imposing, and collecting dues, assessments, and admission fees [Corp. Code § 5151(c)(8)].

- A provision for the admission, withdrawal, suspension, and expulsion of members [Corp. Code § 5151(d)].

- A provision limiting the number of members, in total or of any class, which the corporation is authorized to admit [Corp. Code § 5151(f)].

- A provision that specified rights in the membership will not terminate on the death or dissolution of a member [Corp. Code § 5320(a)(2)].

- The time, place, and manner of calling, conducting, and giving notice of members' meetings [Corp. Code § 5151(c)(2); see § 13.33[2]].

A corporation may provide in its bylaws that it does not have members. In the absence of a provision in its articles or bylaws, the corporation may not have members [Corp. Code § 5310(a)]. The bylaws may also provide that memberships may be issued without consideration, or for such consideration as is specified in the articles or bylaws. If no consideration is specified, memberships may be issued for consideration determined by the board of directors [Corp. Code § 5311(a)].

Meetings of members may be held at any place stated in or fixed in accordance with the bylaws. If the bylaws fail to provide for a place of meeting, the meetings of members must be held at the principal office of the corporation [Corp. Code § 5510(a)]. The drafting attorney should keep in mind the possibility that the directors may use a loosely drawn provision governing the place of members' meetings to discourage membership participation. For example, a provision permitting the directors to select a meeting place outside California provides the directors with an opportunity to abuse their discretion by selecting a purposeless and distant location. The better approach would be to provide the directors with reasonable geographical restrictions that will prevent the imposition of unnecessary hardships on the members. Thus, if the bylaws permit the directors to select the members' meeting place, the bylaws might, for example, specify that the selection of sites is limited to northern or southern California, or to one of several major cities in either region.

A corporation may provide in its bylaws for delegates having some or all of the authority of members. Delegates may be given a name other than "delegates." If delegates are provided for, the bylaws must set forth their terms of office, any reasonable method for delegate selection and removal, and any reasonable method for calling, noticing, and holding meetings of delegates [Corp. Code § 5152]. The bylaws may set forth the manner in which delegates may act by written ballot consistent with Corp. Code § 5513. However, delegates may only act personally at a meeting or by written ballot, and may not act by proxy [Corp. Code § 5152].

[j] Voting Requirements Affecting Corporate Actions

The bylaws may require, for any or all corporate actions with specified exceptions [see Corp. Code §§ 5222, 5616(c), 6610], the vote of a larger proportion of, or all of, the members or the members of any class, unit, or grouping of members, or the vote of a larger proportion of, or all of, the directors, than is otherwise required by the Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation Law. A provision in the bylaws requiring a greater vote may not be altered, amended, or repealed except by a that greater vote, unless otherwise provided in the bylaws [Corp. Code § 5151(e)].

The bylaws may, within statutory limitations, establish and authorize cumulative voting [Corp. Code § 5616(a)]. A provision authorizing cumulative voting may be repealed or amended only by the approval of the members [see Corp. Code § 5034], except that the governing provision may require the vote of a greater proportion of the members, or of any class, to repeal the cumulative voting provision [Corp. Code § 5616(a)].

Section 3.10(e) bars cumulative voting. An alternative provision permitting cumulative voting is set forth in § 13.212[2], Section 3.10(e). This latter provision may be adapted for use in the following form provided related amendments are made with respect to inconsistent matters set forth in the form. For example, Section 3.10(a) provides for only one vote per member. If cumulative voting is authorized, this section must be amended to except cumulative voting from the one vote requirement. Section 3.10(a) contains an optional provision designed for this latter purpose.

Section 3.10(f) withdraws the right of members to vote or act by proxies. An alternative provision providing for proxy voting by members is set forth in § 13.212[2], Section 3.10(f). Because any amendment of the bylaws repealing, restricting, creating, or expanding proxy rights must be adopted with approval by the members of the corporation [see Corp. Code § 5613(3); see also Corp. Code § 5034], only those proxy rights intended to be final should be stated in the bylaws.

[k] Record Date

The bylaws may provide a date as the record date for the purpose of determining the members entitled to notice of any meeting of members. Absent that bylaw, the board may fix the record date in advance. In either event, the record date must not be for more than 90 nor less than 10 days before the date of the meeting. If a record date is not fixed, members at the close of business on the business day preceding the day on which notice is given or, if notice is waived, at the close of business on the business day preceding the day on which the meeting is held are entitled to notice of a meeting of members. A determination of members entitled to notice of a meeting of members applies to any adjournment of the meeting unless the board fixes a new record date for the adjourned meeting [Corp. Code § 5611(a)].

The members of every public benefit corporation have statutory rights of inspection with respect to the articles and bylaws of the corporation [Corp. Code § 5160; see § 13.35[1][c]]. Further, the accounting books and records and minutes of proceedings of members and the board and committees of the board must be open to inspection on the written demand on the corporation of any member at any reasonable time, for any purpose reasonably related to that person's interest as a member [Corp. Code § 6333].

In general, members may also inspect, and obtain copies of, membership lists [see Corp. Code § 6330; see also Corp. Code §§ 6331, 6332 (court limitations and reasonable alternative); see § 13.35[1][c]]. However, although members' inspection rights cannot be limited by contract or the articles or bylaws [Corp. Code § 6313], the corporation may petition the superior court for an order setting aside a member's demand to inspect the membership list based on a good faith and substantial belief that the membership list will be used for an improper purpose [Corp. Code § 6331; see § 13.35[1][c]].

A nonprofit public benefit corporation does not have the right under Corp. Code § 6331(g) to review the proposed uses to which a membership list will be put by a member who has requested an opportunity to inspect the corporation's membership list [KQED, Inc. v. Hall (1982) 135 Cal. App. 3d 951, 956-957, 185 Cal. Rptr. 630] .

[m] Proof of Corporate Bylaws

The original or a copy of the bylaws, certified to be a true copy by a person purporting to be the secretary or an assistant secretary of the corporation, is prima facie evidence of the adoption of those bylaws and of the matters stated therein [Corp. Code § 5215].

[n] Adoption, Amendment, and Repeal of Bylaws

Bylaws of public benefit corporations may be adopted, amended, or repealed by the approval of the board, with various exceptions and limitations [Corp. Code § 5150(a); see Corp. Code §§ 5150(c), 5151, 5220, 5224, 5512, 5613]. The board may adopt, amend, or repeal the bylaws unless the action would materially and adversely affect the rights of members as to voting, or transfer [Corp. Code § 5150(a)]."Approval of the board" means approval or ratification by the board or by the vote of an authorized committee of the board [Corp. Code § 5032]. For resolutions of the board of directors adopting the bylaws of for-profit corporations, see Ch. 4, Bylaws . Those forms may be adapted for the purpose of adopting bylaws of a public benefit corporation.

Bylaws may be adopted, amended, or repealed by approval of the members [Corp. Code § 5150(b)]. "Approval of the members" means that the bylaws were approved or ratified by the affirmative vote of a majority of votes represented and voting at a duly held meeting at which a quorum was present (which affirmative votes also constituted a majority of the required quorum) or written ballot in conformity with Corp. Code § 5513. The term also includes the affirmative vote or written ballot of any greater proportion, including all of the votes of the memberships of any class, unit, or grouping of members that may be provided in the bylaws or by law, for all or any specified member action [Corp. Code § 5034]. Approval by written ballot is valid only when the number of votes cast by ballot within the time period specified equals or exceeds the quorum required to be present at a meeting authorizing the action, and the number of approvals equals or exceeds the number of votes that would be required to approve at a meeting at which the total number of votes cast was the same as the number of votes cast by ballot.

The form must also provide, subject to reasonable specified conditions, that if the person solicited specifies a choice with respect to any matter the vote must be cast in accordance with that choice. In any election of Directors, any form of written ballot in which the Directors to be voted on are named as candidates and that is marked by a member "withhold" or otherwise marked in a manner indicating that the authority to vote for the election of Directors is withheld may not be voted either for or against the election of a Director.

[If inspectors of election are not so appointed for any action by written ballot, or if any person so appointed refuses to act, the President of the Corporation must appoint inspectors of election for that written ballot on request of any member or member's proxy.] The number of inspectors will be either one or three. If appointed at a meeting on the request of one or more members or proxies, the majority of members represented in person or by proxy must determine whether one or three inspectors are to be appointed.

Duties

(b) The inspectors of election must perform the following duties:

[If articles or bylaws authorize cumulative voting, add: However, a Director may not be removed, unless the entire Board is removed, when the votes cast against removal, or not consenting in writing to removal, would be sufficient to elect that Director if voted cumulatively at an election at which the same total number of votes were cast (or if the action is taken by written ballot, all memberships entitled to vote were voted) and the entire number of directors authorized at the time of the Director's most recent election were then being elected.] [If articles or bylaws provide that members of any class, voting as a class, are entitled to elect one or more directors, add: Any Director elected by the members of any class, voting as a class, may be removed only by the applicable vote of the members of that class.]

§ 13.210 Articles of Incorporation

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a sample set of articles of incorporation for use by nonprofit mutual benefit corporations. It is modeled after the sample provided by the Secretary of State, and contains all provisions required by law. Samples are available on official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, which is located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm.

A nonprofit mutual benefit corporation is formed and corporate existence begins on the filing of the articles of incorporation and continues perpetually unless otherwise expressly provided by law or in the articles [Corp. Code § 7120(a), (c); see §§ 13.20, 13.130]. However, the articles may set forth a provision limiting the duration of the corporation's existence to a specified date [Corp. Code § 7132(a)(1)].

[b] Mandatory Provisions

Article I must be completed with the name of the corporation exactly as the name is to appear on the records of the Secretary of State.

Article IIA has been taken directly from the California Corporations Code as is required by law and should not be modified when drafting documents.

Article IIB should be completed with a statement as to the specific business of the corporation. A specific purpose statement must be included if the corporation (1) is organized for public purposes or (2) intends to apply for a state franchise tax exemption [see Organization of Domestic Noprofit, Nonstock Corporations, Secretary of State's website http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_artsnpinf.htm; see also Corp. Code § 7130(b)(3)].

Article III must be completed with the name and California address, or physical location, of the agent for service of process.

Article IV limits the activities of the corporation to those in furtherance of the specific purposes of the corporation

Article V states the name of the existing unincorporated association, if any, being incorporated by filing these articles. Article V should be included if the nonprofit corporation is an existing unincorporated association that is changing its status to that of a corporation. Article V, which is not included in the current version of the sample articles drafted by the Secretary of State, has been included by the publisher to satisfy the statutory requirement of Corp. Code § 7121(b), which specifies that the articles must contain such a statement when an existing unincorporated association is changing its status to that of a corporation [see Corp. Code § 7121(a); see also [d], below].

PRACTICE TIP

Keeping the articles brief and tailored to the minimum statutory requirements ensures more privacy to the corporation. Further, it is more difficult to amend the articles than the bylaws. The bylaws generally may be amended or repealed by the approval of the members or the board of directors [Corp. Code § 7150; see Lake Arrowhead Chalets Timeshare Owners Assoc. v. Lake Arrowhead Chalets Owners Assoc. (1996) 51 Cal. App. 4th 1403, 1407-1409, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 875 (construing Corp. Code § 7150(b), which imposes restrictions on powers of members to amend bylaws)]. In contrast, the articles, with certain exceptions, can be amended only with the approval of the members, the board of directors, and such other persons, if any, as the articles may require [Corp. Code § 7812(a)]. Moreover, amendment of the articles is not effective until a certificate of amendment is filed with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 7817].

A nonprofit mutual benefit corporation may include additional provisions as warranted. Several provisions will not be effective unless expressly provided in the articles:

- If the corporation will be of limited duration, the articles must include a provision limiting the corporation's existence to a specified date [Corp. Code § 7132(a)(1)].

- The articles may contain a provision conferring on the holders of any evidences of indebtedness, issued or to be issued by a corporation, the right to vote in the election of directors, and on any other matters on which members may vote, even if the corporation does not have members [Corp. Code § 7132(a)(2)].

- The articles may confer on members the right to determine the consideration for which memberships will be issued [Corp. Code § 7132(a)(3)].

- If a subordinate corporation is instituted or created under the authority of a head organization, the articles must include a provision setting forth either or both of the following: (1) that the subordinate corporation will dissolve whenever its charter is surrendered to, taken away by, or revoked by head organization granting it; and/or (2) that in event of its dissolution pursuant to article provision allowed by Corp. Code § 7132(a)(2)(A), or, in event of its dissolution for any reason, any assets of corporation remaining after compliance with applicable provisions governing distribution of assets will be distributed to head organization [Corp. Code § 7132(a)(4); see Corp. Code § 7132(b); see also § 13.130, P 4]. If one or both of the these statements is included, the Department of Corporations has informally indicated that the articles should also contain an introductory statement that the corporation is a subordinate corporation created under the authority of the head organization.

The corporation may also include other optional provisions, such as the names and addresses of the initial directors [see § 13.200[2], art. VII], membership transfer, and classes of members [Corp. Code § 7132(c)], and a further statement limiting the purposes or powers of the corporation [Corp. Code § 7131]. For further discussion, see § 13.130, P 4.

An existing unincorporated association may change its status to that of a mutual benefit corporation if the change is properly authorized by the association in accordance with its rules and procedures [Corp. Code § 7121(a)]. In this situation, in addition to the matters required to be set forth in the articles by Corp. Code § 7130, as discussed in this comment, the articles must also state that an existing unincorporated association, stating its name, is being incorporated by the filing of the articles [Corp. Code § 7121(b)]. Optional Article V of this form, included by the publisher, includes the required statements.

When an existing unincorporated association changes its status to that of a mutual benefit corporation, the articles must be accompanied by a verified statement of any two officers or governing board members of the association, stating that the incorporation of the association by means of the articles to which the verified statement is attached has been approved by the association in accordance with its rules and procedures [Corp. Code § 7121(c); see § 13.242].

For further discussion, see § 13.22.

[e] Location and Inspection of Articles

The corporation must keep the original or a copy of its articles as amended to date at its principal office in California. These articles must be open to inspection by the members at all reasonable times during office hours. If the corporation does not have an office in California, it must furnish a copy of the articles as amended to date on the written request of any member [Corp. Code § 7160]. These requirements that apply to articles also apply to bylaws of mutual benefit corporations [Corp. Code § 7160; see § 13.212].

The articles of incorporation must be originally signed by an incorporator unless directors are named in the articles. If directors are named in the articles, each director must sign and acknowledge the document. The name(s) of the person(s) signing must be typed directly below the signature(s) [Corp. Code § 7120(b), (c); see Organziation of California Nonprofit, Nonstock Corporations, Secretary of State's website http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/pdf/articles/corp_artsnp.pdf]. The statute does not require that the signatures be dated and the Secretary of State's sample forms do not provide for a date, but this form does contain one since most attorneys prefer to have a date associated with signatures on a document.

The original and at least four copies of the completed documents are then mailed or hand delivered to the Secretary of State, together with the applicable fee [see Organziation of California Nonprofit, Nonstock Corporations, Secretary of State's website http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/pdf/articles/corp_artsnp.pdf]. When documents are being hand delivered for filing in the San Francisco, Fresno, Los Angeles or San Diego branch office, a duplicate original is also required. To expedite processing, articles of incorporation submitted by mail should be accompanied by a self-addressed envelope and a letter referencing the proposed corporate name as well as the name, telephone number, and return address of the person filing the articles [see Office of Secretary of State, State of California, Organization of California Nonprofit, Nonstock Corporations, Instructions (available on Secretary of State's website)].

The articles of incorporation must be accompanied by the applicable filing fee [see Gov. Code § 12186(d); Corp. Code § 5006]. The Secretary of State will compare and certify up to two copies of articles without charge, provided that the copies are submitted with the original to be filed [Gov. Code § 12185]. If additional certified copies are required, an additional minimal fee is charged, provided that the copies are furnished to the Secretary of State and the fee is prepaid [Gov. Code §§ 12182, 12183]. A separate and nonrefundable handling fee is charged for expedited processing of documents delivered in person, over the counter, to the Sacramento headquarters office, or to any branch office. Preclearance or expedited filing of eligible corporate documents in the Sacramento office can be requested in a specified time frame for an additional fee in lieu of the special handling fee [see Organization of Nonprofit, Nonstock Corporations, Secretary of State's website http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_artsnpinf.htm].

The Secretary of State may cancel the filing of the articles if the check or other remittance accepted in payment of the filing fee is not paid on presentation [Corp. Code § 5008.5]. Within 70 days after the articles were filed, the Secretary of State must give written notice to the agent for service of process or the person submitting the instrument that the item presented for payment was not honored. The notice must specify a cancellation date that is not less than 20 days after the date the notice is mailed, on which the cancellation is to be effective if the fee is not paid by cashier's check or the equivalent [Corp. Code § 5008.5].

A mutual benefit corporation formed for the sole purpose of operating a ridesharing vanpool designed to transport at least seven persons, including the driver, under an arrangement in which ridesharing is incidental to another purpose of the driver is exempt from any filing fee required by the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 8217].

If initial directors are named in the articles, each director named in the articles must sign and acknowledge the articles [Corp. Code § 7120(b)]. When the articles are signed by incorporators rather than by the initial directors [see [f], above], the statutory language states only that the articles "shall be signed" by the incorporators; it does not expressly require an acknowledgment, nor does it prohibit one being used, so an acknowledgment in the latter case should be regarded as optional [see Corp. Code § 7120(b); see also Organization of California Nonprofit, Nonstock Corporations, Secretary of State's website http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/pdf/articles/corp_artsnp.pdf]. (Note that the sample articles prepared by the Secretary of State's office do not include a form of acknowledgment).

For further discussion of acknowledgment, see § 13.200[1][f]. For a notarial acknowledgment, see § 13.200[2]. For an acknowledgment by declaration, which may be used as an alternative to notarial acknowledgment [see Corp. Code § 5030(b)], see § 13.241.

§ 13.211 Articles of Incorporation--Common Interest Development Association

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a sample set of articles of incorporation for use by a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation that is a common interest development association. It is modeled after the sample provided by the Secretary of State, and contains all provisions required by law [see Organization of Common Interest Development Associations, Secretary of State's website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_artscidinf.htm]. Samples are also available on official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, which is located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm.

A nonprofit mutual benefit corporation is formed and corporate existence begins on the filing of the articles of incorporation and continues perpetually unless otherwise expressly provided by law or in the articles [Corp. Code § 7120(a), (c); see §§ 13.20, 13.130]. However, the articles may set forth a provision limiting the duration of the corporation's existence to a specified date [Corp. Code § 7132(a)(1)].

Inspection requirements are discussed in § 13.210[1][e]. The execution and filing requirements and applicable fees are discussed in § 13.210[1][f]. Acknowledgment requirements are covered in § 13.210[1][g].

Bylaws for homeowners' associations organized as nonprofit corporations are set forth in Ch. 34, Condominiums .

The original and at least three copies of the articles of incorporation, together with the applicable fee, must be mailed or hand-delivered to the Secretary of State's office in Sacramento, or hand-delivered to one of the regional offices in Fresno, Los Angeles, San Diego, or San Francisco. Regional offices do not process mailed documents. When documents are submitted to a regional office, a duplicate original is also required. To facilitate the processing of documents mailed to the Sacramento office, the submission should include a self-addressed envelope and a letter referencing the corporate name, the of name of the person filing the documents, a return address, and a telephone number [see Instructions to Secretary of State's sample articles].

[b] Regulation of Common Interest Developments

A common interest development [see § 13.11[4]] is managed by an association that may be incorporated or unincorporated [Civ. Code § 1363(a)]. The association, whether incorporated or unincorporated, must prepare a budget [see Civ. Code § 1365] and disclose information, on request [Civil Code § 1363(b); see Civ. Code § 1368]. Unless the governing documents provide otherwise, the association may exercise the powers granted to a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation [see Corp. Code § 7140; see also § 13.30], except that an unincorporated association may not adopt or use a corporate seal or issue membership certificates [Civ. Code § 1363(c); see Corp. Code § 7313].

The association, whether incorporated or unincorporated, may exercise the powers granted to the association by the Act [Civ. Code § 1363(c)]. Membership meetings must be conducted in accordance with a recognized system of parliamentary procedure, or any parliamentary procedures adopted by the association [Civ. Code § 1363(d); see Civ. Code § 1363(e) (notice requirements)].

Common interest development associations are subject to open meeting requirements [see Civ. Code § 1363.05]. Members may attend board meetings, except when the board adjourns to executive session to consider litigation, matters relating to the formation of contracts with third parties, member discipline, personnel matters, or to meet with a member, on the member's request, regarding the member's payments of assessments [Civ. Code § 1363.05(b); see Civ. Code §§ 1367, 1367.1]. The board must meet in executive session, if requested by a member who may be subject to a fine, penalty, or other form of discipline, and the member is entitled to attend the executive session [Civ. Code § 1363.05(b); see Corp. Code § 1363.05(c), (d) (minutes requirements)]. The term "meeting" includes any congregation of a majority of the members of the board at the same time and place to hear, discuss, or deliberate on any item of business scheduled to be heard by the board, except those matters that may be discussed in executive session [Civ. Code § 1363.05(j)].

Article I must be completed with the name of the corporation exactly as the name is to appear on the records of the Secretary of State.

Article IIA has been taken directly from the California Corporations Code as is required by law and may not be modified when drafting documents [see Corp. Code § 7130(b)(1)].

Article IIB should be completed with a statement as to the specific business of the corporation. A specific purpose statement must be included if the corporation (1) is organized for public purposes or (2) intends to apply for a state franchise tax exemption [see Organziation of California Nonprofit, Nonstock Corporations, Secretary of State's website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/pdf/articles/corp_artsnp.pdf]; see also Corp. Code § 7130(b)(3)].

Article III must be completed with the name and California address, or physical location, of the agent for service of process. However, no address should be stated if the a corporate agent is designated.

Article IV is a statement required by the Franchise Tax Board before an exemption will be granted.

Article V must be included when forming a common interest development corporation [see Civ. Code § 1363.5].

Article VI must be completed by selecting one of the three options. If the association has a business or corporate office and that office is located on the site of the common interest development, that address must be stated, and a statement that the office is on site should be included. If the office is off site, the office address must be stated, including the nine-digit zip code and the front street and nearest cross street to the development. If the association has no business or corporate office address, no statement is required.

Article VII must be completed by selecting the appropriate option. If the first option applies the name and address of the association's managing agent must be stated [Civ. Code §§ 1363.1, 1363.5(a); see Bus. & Prof. Code § 11502]. No statement is required if the association has no managing agent.

[d] Optional Provisions

A nonprofit mutual benefit corporation may include additional provisions as warranted. Several provisions will not be effective unless expressly provided in the articles:

- If the corporation will be of limited duration, the articles must include a provision limiting the corporation's existence to a specified date [Corp. Code § 7132(a)(1)].

- The articles may contain a provision conferring on the holders of any evidences of indebtedness, issued or to be issued by a corporation, the right to vote in the election of directors and on any other matters on which members may vote even if the corporation does not have members [Corp. Code § 7132(a)(2)].

- The articles may confer on members the right to determine the consideration for which memberships will be issued [Corp. Code § 7132(a)(3)].

- If a subordinate corporation is instituted or created under the authority of a head organization, the articles must include a provision setting forth either or both of the following: (1) that the subordinate corporation will dissolve whenever its charter is surrendered to, taken away by, or revoked by head organization granting it; and/or (2) that in event of its dissolution pursuant to article provision allowed by Corp. Code § 7132(a)(2)(A), or, in event of its dissolution for any reason, any assets of corporation remaining after compliance with applicable provisions governing distribution of assets will be distributed to head organization [Corp. Code § 7132(a)(4); see Corp. Code § 7132(b); see also § 13.130, P 4b]. If one or both of the these statements is included, the Department of Corporations has informally indicated that the articles should also contain an introductory statement that the corporation is a subordinate corporation created under the authority of the head organization.

The corporation may also include other optional provisions, such as the names and addresses of the initial directors [see § 13.200[2], art. VII], membership transfer, and classes of members [Corp. Code § 7132(c)], and a further statement limiting the purposes or powers of the corporation [Corp. Code § 7131]. For further discussion, see § 13.130, P 4.

[e] Special Requirements for Unincorporated Associations

An existing unincorporated association may change its status to that of a mutual benefit corporation if the change is properly authorized by the association in accordance with its rules and procedures [Corp. Code § 7121(a)]. In this situation, in addition to the matters required to be set forth in the articles by Corp. Code § 7130, the articles must also state that an existing unincorporated association, stating its name, is being incorporated by the filing of the articles [Corp. Code § 7121(b); see Organization of California Nonprofit, Nonstock Corporations, Secretary of State's website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/pdf/articles/corp_artsnp.pdf]. Optional Article VIII of this form satisfies this requirement.

§ 13.212 Bylaws--With Members in Multiple Classes

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an illustrative set of bylaws designed for use by a nonprofit mutual benefit corporation that has or will have more than one class of members. The form contains numerous optional and permissive provisions that are discussed below.

A nonprofit mutual benefit corporation may admit persons to one class of membership, or may provide for multiple classes of membership, and may provide for the transfer of memberships [Corp. Code §§ 7132(c)(2)(3), 7310(a), 7320]. The provisions of this form may be used to when the corporation will admit multiple classes of members. If the corporation will admit only one classes of membership, the provisions concerning the admission of membership set forth in § 13.201[2] (bylaws for nonprofit public benefit corporation with single class of members) may be inserted in this form, with appropriate modification to provisions of this form that are inconsistent with the substituted provisions.

Alternatively, mutual benefit corporations need not have members, and the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law provides that if the articles or bylaws prohibit members or fail to provide for members, the corporation may not have members [Corp. Code § 7310(a)]. For an example of bylaws for a nonprofit corporation without members, see § 13.221 (bylaws for religious corporation without members).

[b] "Member" Defined

A "member" is any person who, pursuant to a specific provision of the corporation's articles or bylaws, has the right to vote for the election of a director or directors, on a disposition of all or substantially all of the assets of the corporation, or on a merger or on a dissolution. The term also includes any person who is designated in the articles or bylaws as a member and, pursuant to a specific provision of a corporation's articles or bylaws, has the right to vote on changes to the articles or bylaws [Corp. Code § 5056(a)].

Unless stated in the articles, the bylaws must state (1) the number of directors of the corporation; (2) the method of determining the number of directors of the corporation; or (3) that the number of directors may not be less than a stated minimum (one or more) nor more than a stated maximum with the exact number of directors to be fixed, within the limits specified, by approval of the board or the members [Corp. Code § 5034], in the manner provided in the bylaws [Corp. Code § 7151(a), (e)]. Note that if the articles provide for the number of directors, that provision may only by changed by a formal amendment of the articles [Corp. Code § 7151(a); see § 13.261]. Except as otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws, once members have been admitted, a bylaw specifying or changing a fixed number of directors or the maximum or minimum number or changing from a fixed to a variable board or vice versa may only be adopted by approval of the members [Corp. Code § 7151(b)].

[d] Optional Provisions in General

As a general rule, the bylaws may contain any provision, not in conflict with law or the articles, for the management of the activities and for the conduct of the affairs of the corporation [Corp. Code § 7151(c)]. This authority includes any provision that is required or permitted by the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law to be stated in the bylaws [Corp. Code §§ 7132(c), 7151(c)].

PRACTICE TIP

Provisions of the Nonprofit Corporation Law establish many of the rules governing the management of corporate affairs, at least in the absence of a contrary bylaw. Although these rules are not required to be restated in the bylaws, corporations often do to provide a complete manual of corporate procedure for the management and members.

[e] Directors and Executive Committees

The Nonprofit Corporation Law permits the following optional bylaws provisions relating to directors and executive committees of mutual benefit corporations:

- The names and addresses of the persons appointed to act as initial directors [Corp. Code §§ 7151(c)(1), 7132(c)(1)].
- The time, place, and manner of calling, conducting, and giving notice of directors' and committee meetings, or of conducting mail ballots [Corp. Code § 7151(c)(2)].
- The qualifications, duties, and compensation of directors [Corp. Code § 7151(c)(3)].
- The time of the election of directors [Corp. Code § 7151(c)(3)];
- The requirements of a quorum for directors' and committee meetings [Corp. Code § 7151(c)(3)].
- The appointment and authority of committees [Corp. Code § 7151(c)(4)].
- A provision restricting the indemnification of directors [Corp. Code § 7237(h)(1)].

The bylaws, subject to limitations, may restrict or eliminate the power of the board to adopt, amend, or repeal any or all of the bylaws [Corp. Code § 7150(c)]. The bylaws also may provide that the repeal or amendment of the bylaws, or the repeal or amendment of specified portions of the bylaws, may occur only with the written approval of specified persons other than the board or members [Corp. Code § 7150(d)]. However, unless the bylaws specify otherwise, this approval requirement will not apply if any of the following circumstances exist [Corp. Code § 7150(d)]:

- The specified person has died or ceased to exist.

- If the right of the specified person to approve is in the capacity of an officer, trustee, or other status, the specified office, trust, or status has ceased to exist.

- If the corporation has a specific proposal for amendment or repeal and it has provided written notice of that proposal (including a copy) to the specified person at the most recent address in the corporation's records, and the corporation has not received written approval or nonapproval within the period specified in the notice (i.e., not less than 10 nor more than 30 days commencing at least 20 days after the notice has been provided).

Unless otherwise provided in the bylaws or articles, and except for a vacancy created by the removal of a director, board vacancies may be filled by approval of the board [see Corp. Code § 5032] or, if the number of directors then in office is less than a quorum, by either (1) the unanimous written consent of the directors then in office, (2) the affirmative vote of a majority of the directors then in office at a meeting held pursuant to notice or waivers of notice complying with Corp. Code § 7211, or (3) a sole remaining director [Corp. Code § 7224(a)].

The directors of a corporation with fewer than 50 members may be removed without cause by a majority vote of the members. The directors of a larger corporation may be removed without cause with the approval of the members [see Corp. Code §§ 5033, 7222(a)(1), (2); see also Corp. Code § 5034 ("approved by members" defined); Corp. Code § 7222(b), (f)]. These requirements may not be altered by the bylaws [see Corp. Code § 5151(e)]. If the corporation has no members, directors may be removed by a vote of the majority of the directors [Corp. Code § 7222(a)(3)]. If the articles or bylaws authorize cumulative voting, special rules apply to the removal of directors [see Corp. Code § 7222(b)(1)]. If the articles or bylaws authorize members of any class, voting as a class, to elect directors, a director elected by that class may be removed by the prescribed vote of the members of that class [Corp. Code § 7222(b)(2)]. If the articles or bylaws authorize the designation of directors, any designated director may be removed without cause by the designator unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws at the time the designation is made [Corp. Code § 7222(f)(1)]. Any director so designated may only be removed with the written consent of the designator of that designator [Corp. Code § 7222(f)(2)]. Unless provided otherwise in the articles or bylaws, the right to remove will not apply if (1) the designator entitled to that right has died or ceased to exist, or (2) the right is in the capacity of an officer, trustee, or other status and that office, trust, or status has ceased to exist [Corp. Code § 7222(f)(3)].

The bylaws may contain provisions concerning the appointment, duties, compensation, and tenure of officers [Corp. Code § 7151(c)(5)]. Absent a provision in the articles or bylaws, the president, or, if there is no president, the chair of the board, [see Corp. Code § 5039.5 ("chair" includes "chairperson," "chairman," and "chairwoman")] is the general manager and chief executive officer of the corporation; and if there is no chief financial officer, the treasurer is the chief financial officer of the corporation [Corp. Code § 7213(a)]. Except as otherwise provided in the articles or the bylaws, officers must be chosen by the board and serve at the pleasure of the board, subject to the rights, if any, of an officer under any contract of employment [Corp. Code § 7213(b)]. Any officer may resign at any time on written notice to the corporation without prejudice to any rights of the corporation under any contract to which the officer is a party [Corp. Code § 7213(b)].

The bylaws may fix the compensation of directors [Corp. Code § 7151(c)(3)], or may leave the determination of compensation to the board of directors. This form contains two alternative versions of Section 4.06 relating to the compensation of the directors. When drafting a provision specifying the compensation to be paid to directors, counsel should review I.R.C. § 4941(d)(2)(E), which prohibits the payment of unreasonable compensation to directors of corporations qualifying as private foundations within the meaning of the Internal Revenue Code.

[h] Members

In general, the bylaws may confer some or all of the rights of a member, set forth in the Nonprofit Mutual Benefit Corporation Law, on any person or persons who do not have any of the voting rights referred to in Corp. Code § 5056(a) [Corp. Code § 5056(b)]. Specifically, the bylaws may contain provisions concerning the following matters:

- The classes of members, if any, and if there are two or more classes, the rights, privileges, preferences, restrictions, and conditions attaching to each class [Corp. Code §§ 7151(c)(1), 7132(c)(3)].

- The transfer of memberships [Corp. Code §§ 7151(c)(1), 7132(c)(2); see Corp. Code § 7230].

- A provision that would allow any member to have more or less than one vote in any election or other matter presented to the members for a vote [Corp. Code §§ 7151(c)(1), 7132(c)(4)].

- The mode of determination of members of record [Corp. Code § 7151(c)(6)].

- The making of reports and financial statements to members [Corp. Code § 7151(c)(7)].

- Setting, imposing, and collecting dues, assessments, and admission fees [Corp. Code § 7151(c)(8)].

- A provision for the admission, withdrawal, suspension, and expulsion of members [Corp. Code § 7151(d)].

- A provision limiting the number of members, in total or of any class, which the corporation is authorized to admit [Corp. Code § 7151(f)].

- A provision that specified rights in the membership will not terminate on the death or dissolution of a member [Corp. Code § 7320(a)(2)].

- The time, place, and manner of calling, conducting, and giving notice of members' meetings [Corp. Code § 7151(c)(2); see § 13.33[2]].

A corporation may provide in its bylaws that it does not have members. In the absence of a provision in its articles or bylaws, the corporation may not have members [Corp. Code § 7310(a)]. The bylaws also may provide that memberships may be issued without consideration, or for such consideration as is specified in the articles or bylaws. If no consideration is specified, memberships may be issued for consideration determined by the board of directors [Corp. Code § 7311(a)].

Meetings of members may be held at any place stated in or fixed in accordance with the bylaws. If the bylaws fail to provide for a place of meeting, the meetings of members must be held at the principal office of the corporation [Corp. Code § 7510(a)]. The drafting attorney should keep in mind the possibility that the directors may use a loosely drawn provision governing the place of members' meetings to discourage membership participation. For example, a provision permitting the directors to select a meeting place outside California provides the directors with an opportunity to abuse their discretion by selecting a purposeless and distant location. The better approach would be to provide the directors with reasonable geographical restrictions that will prevent the imposition of unnecessary hardships on the members. Thus, if the bylaws permit the directors to select the members' meeting place, the bylaws might, for example, specify that the selection of sites is limited to northern or southern California, or to one of several major cities in either region.

[i] Delegates

A corporation may provide in its bylaws for delegates having some or all of the authority of members. Delegates may be given a name other than "delegates." If delegates are provided for, the bylaws must set forth their terms of office, any reasonable method for delegate selection and removal, and any reasonable method for calling, noticing, and holding meetings of delegates [Corp. Code § 7152]. The bylaws may set forth the manner in which delegates may act by written ballot consistent with Corp. Code § 5513. However, delegates may only act personally at a meeting or by written ballot, and may not act by proxy [Corp. Code § 7152].

[j] Voting Requirements Affecting Corporate Actions

The bylaws may require, for any or all corporate actions with specified exceptions [see Corp. Code §§ 7222(a)(1), (2), 7615(c), 8610], the vote of a larger proportion of, or all of, the members or the members of any class, unit, or grouping of members, or the vote of a larger proportion of, or all of, the directors, than is otherwise required by the Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation Law. A provision in the bylaws requiring a greater vote may not be altered, amended, or repealed except by a that greater vote, unless otherwise provided in the bylaws [Corp. Code § 7151(e)].

The bylaws, within statutory limitations, may establish and authorize cumulative voting [Corp. Code § 7615(a)]. A provision authorizing cumulative voting may be repealed or amended only by the approval of the members [see Corp. Code § 5034], except that the governing provision may require the vote of a greater proportion of the members, or of any class, to repeal the cumulative voting provision [Corp. Code § 7615(a)].

Section 3.10(e) of this form permits cumulative voting. An alternative provision barring cumulative voting is set forth in § 13.201[2], Section 3.10(e). This latter provision may be adapted for use in the following form provided related amendments are made with respect to inconsistent matters set forth in the form. Section 3.10(f) of this form permits members to vote or act by proxies. An alternative provision withdrawing the right of members to vote by proxy is set forth in § 13.201[2], Section 3.10(f).

The bylaws may provide a date as the record date for the purpose of determining the members entitled to notice of any meeting of members. Absent such a bylaw, the board may fix the record date in advance. In either event, the record date must not be more than 90 nor less than 10 days before the date of the meeting. If a record date is not fixed, members at the close of business on the business day preceding the day on which notice is given or, if notice is waived, at the close of business on the business day preceding the day on which the meeting is held are entitled to notice of a meeting of members. A determination of members entitled to notice of a meeting of members applies to any adjournment of the meeting unless the board fixes a new record date for the adjourned meeting [Corp. Code § 7611(a)].

The members of every mutual benefit corporation have statutory rights of inspection with respect to the articles and bylaws of the corporation [Corp. Code § 7160; see § 13.35[1][c]]. Further, the accounting books and records and minutes of proceedings of members and the board and committees of the board must be open to inspection on the written demand on the corporation of any member at any reasonable time, for any purpose reasonably related to that person's interest as a member [Corp. Code § 8333].

In general, members may also inspect, and obtain copies of, membership lists [see Corp. Code § 8330; see also Corp. Code §§ 8331, 8332 (court limitations and reasonable alternative); see § 13.35[1][c]]. However, although members' inspection rights cannot be limited by contract or the articles or bylaws [Corp. Code § 8313], the corporation may petition the superior court for an order setting aside a member's demand to inspect the membership list based on a good faith and substantial belief that the membership list will be used for an improper purpose [Corp. Code § 8331; see § 13.35[1][c]].

[m] Proof of Corporate Bylaws

The original or a copy of the bylaws in writing or in any other form capable of being converted into clearly legible tangible form, certified to be a true copy by a person purporting to be the secretary or an assistant secretary of the corporation, is prima facie evidence of the adoption of those bylaws and of the matters stated therein [Corp. Code § 7215].

Bylaws of mutual benefit corporations may be adopted, amended, or repealed by the approval of the members or the board, with specified exceptions and limitations [Corp. Code § 7150(a), (b); see Corp. Code §§ 7150(c), 7151, 7220, 7224, 7512, 7613, 7615]. "Approval of the members" means that the bylaws were approved or ratified by the affirmative vote of a majority of votes represented and voting at a duly held meeting at which a quorum was present (which affirmative votes also constituted a majority of the required quorum) or written ballot in conformity with Corp. Code § 7513. The term also includes the affirmative vote or written ballot of any greater proportion, including all of the votes of the memberships of any class, unit, or grouping of members that may be provided in the bylaws or by law, for all or any specified member action [Corp. Code § 5034]. "Approval of the board" means approval or ratification by the board or by the vote of an authorized committee of the board [Corp. Code § 5032].

In general, the board may adopt, amend, or repeal the bylaws, unless the action would do any of the following [Corp. Code § 7150(a)]:

- Materially and adversely affect the rights of members as to voting, dissolution, redemption, or transfer.
- Increase or decrease the number of members authorized in total or for any class.
- Effect an exchange, reclassification or cancellation of all or part of the memberships.
- Authorize a new class of membership.

For resolutions of the board of directors adopting the bylaws of for-profit corporations, see Ch. 4, Bylaws . Those resolutions may be adapted for the purpose of adopting bylaws of a mutual benefit corporation.

The members also may adopt, amend, or repeal the bylaws. However, such an action requires the approval by the members of a class if the action would do any of the following [Corp. Code § 7150(b)]:

- Materially and adversely affect the rights, privileges, preferences, restrictions or conditions of this class as to voting, dissolution, redemption, or transfer in a manner different than the action affects another class.
- Materially and adversely affect this class as to voting, dissolution, redemption, or transfer by changing the rights, privileges, preferences, restrictions or conditions of another class.
- Increase or decrease the number of memberships authorized for this class.

- Increase the number of memberships authorized for another class.
- Effect an exchange, reclassification or cancellation of all or part of the memberships of this class.
- Authorize a new class of memberships.

The bylaws, subject to limitations, may restrict or eliminate the power of the board to adopt, amend, or repeal any or all of the bylaws [Corp. Code § 7150(c)]. The bylaws may also provide that the repeal or amendment of the bylaws, or the repeal or amendment of specified portions of the bylaws, may occur only with the written approval of specified persons other than the board or members [Corp. Code § 7150(d)]. This approval requirement will not apply in circumstances in which the specified person has ceased to exist [see Corp. Code § 7150(d); see also [e], above].

§ 13.220 Articles of Incorporation

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a sample set of articles of incorporation for use by nonprofit religious corporations. It is modeled after the sample provided by the Secretary of State, and contains all provisions required by law. Samples are also available on official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, which is located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. However, the latter samples are illustrative only and cannot be filled in and submitted in the form reproduced on the website.

A nonprofit religious corporation is formed and corporate existence begins on the filing of the articles of incorporation and continues perpetually unless otherwise expressly provided by law or in the articles [Corp. Code § 9120(a), (c); see Corp. Code § 9132(a)(1) (limiting corporation's existence); see also §§ 13.20, 13.130].

[b] Mandatory Provisions

Article I must be completed with the name of the corporation exactly as the name is to appear on the records of the Secretary of State.

Article IIA has been taken directly from the California Corporations Code as is required by law and should not be modified when drafting documents.

Article IIB should be completed with a statement as to the specific business of the corporation.

Article III must be completed with the name and California address, or physical location, of the agent for service of process.

Article IV states that the corporation is organized and operated exclusively for religious purposes and limits activities that might influence legislation.

Article V is an irrevocable dedication of corporate property for religious purposes.

Article VI states the name of the existing unincorporated association, if any, being incorporated by filing these articles [see [c], below].

PRACTICE TIP

Keeping the articles brief and tailored to the minimum statutory requirements ensures more privacy to the corporation. Further, counsel should consider the fact that it is more difficult to amend the articles than the bylaws. The bylaws may generally be amended or repealed by the approval of the members or the board of directors [Corp. Code § 9150]; whereas the articles, with certain exceptions, can be amended only with the approval of the members, the board of directors, and any other persons whose approval is required by the articles [Corp. Code § 9620(a)]. Moreover, amendment of the articles is not effective until a certificate of amendment is filed with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 9620(a)].

A nonprofit religious corporation may include additional provisions as warranted. Two provisions will not be effective unless expressly provided in the articles. First, if the corporation will be of limited duration, the articles must include a provision limiting the corporation's existence to a specified date [Corp. Code § 9132(a)(1)]. Second, if a subordinate corporation is instituted or created under the authority of a head organization, the articles must include a provision setting forth either or both of the following: (1) that the subordinate corporation will dissolve whenever its charter is surrendered to, taken away by, or revoked by head organization granting it; and/or (2) that in event of its dissolution pursuant to article provision allowed by Corp. Code § 9132(a)(2)(A), or, in event of its dissolution for any reason, any assets of corporation remaining after compliance with applicable provisions governing distribution of assets will be distributed to head organization [Corp. Code § 9132(a)(2); see Corp. Code § 9132(b); see also § 13.130, P 4b]. If one or both of the these statements is included, the Department of Corporations has informally indicated that the articles should also contain an introductory statement that the corporation is a subordinate corporation created under the authority of the head organization.

The corporation may also include other optional provisions, such as the names and addresses of the initial directors [see § 13.200[2], art. VII], classes of members, and cumulative voting [Corp. Code § 9132(c)], and a further statement limiting the purposes or powers of the corporation [Corp. Code § 9131]. For further discussion, see § 13.130, P 4.

An existing unincorporated association may change its status to that of a religious corporation if the change is properly authorized by the association in accordance with its rules and procedures [Corp. Code § 9121(a)]. In this situation, in addition to the matters required to be set forth in the articles by Corp. Code § 9130, the articles must also state that an existing unincorporated association, stating its name, is being incorporated by the filing of the articles [Corp. Code § 9121(b)]. Optional Article VI of this form includes the required provisions.

When an existing unincorporated association changes its status to that of a religious corporation, the articles must be accompanied by a verified statement of any two officers or governing board members of the association, stating that the incorporation of the association by means of the articles to which the verified statement is attached has been approved by the association in accordance with its rules and procedures [Corp. Code § 9121(c); see § 13.242].

[e] Location and Inspection of Articles

The corporation must keep the original or a copy of its articles as amended to date at its principal office in California. These articles must be open to inspection by the members at all reasonable times during office hours. If the corporation does not have an office in California, it must furnish a copy of the articles as amended to date on the written request of any member [Corp. Code § 9160]. These requirements that apply to articles also apply to bylaws of religious corporations [Corp. Code § 9160; see § 13.221].

The articles of incorporation must be originally signed by an incorporator unless directors are named in the articles. If directors are named in the articles, each person named must sign and acknowledge the document. The name(s) of the person(s) signing must be typed directly below the signature(s). [Corp. Code § 9120(b), (c); see Office of Secretary of State, State of California, Organization of California Nonprofit, Nonstock Corporations, Instructions]. The statute does not require that the signatures be dated and the Secretary of State's sample forms do not provide for a date, but this form does contain one since most attorneys prefer to have a date associated with signatures on a document.

The original and at least four copies of the completed documents are then mailed or hand delivered to the Secretary of State, together with the applicable fee [see Office of Secretary of State, State of California, Organization of California Nonprofit, Nonstock Corporations, Information Sheet]. When documents are being hand delivered for filing in the San Francisco, Fresno, Los Angeles or San Diego office, a duplicate original is also required. To expedite processing, articles of incorporation submitted by mail should be accompanied by a self-addressed envelope and a letter referencing the proposed corporate name as well as the name, telephone number, and return address of the person filing the articles [see Office of Secretary of State, State of California, Organization of California Nonprofit, Nonstock Corporations, Instructions].

The articles of incorporation must be accompanied by the applicable filing fee [see Gov. Code § 12186(d); Corp. Code § 5006]. The Secretary of State will compare and certify up to two copies of the amendment at no charge provided that the copies are submitted with the original to be filed [Gov. Code § 12185]. If additional certified copies are required, an additional minimal fee is charged, provided that the copies are furnished to the Secretary of State and the fee is prepaid [Gov. Code §§ 12182, 12183]. A separate and nonrefundable handling fee is charged for expedited processing of documents delivered in person, over the counter, to the Sacramento headquarters office [see Office of Secretary of State, State of California, Organization of California Nonprofit, Nonstock Corporations, Information Sheet].

The Secretary of State may cancel the filing of the articles if the check or other remittance accepted in payment of the filing fee is not paid on presentation [Corp. Code § 5008.5]. Within 70 days after the articles were filed, the Secretary of State must give written notice to the agent for service of process or the person submitting the instrument that the item presented for payment was not honored. The notice must specify a cancellation date that is not less than 20 days after the date the notice is mailed, on which the cancellation is to be effective if the fee is not paid by cashier's check or the equivalent [Corp. Code § 5008.5].

If initial directors are named in the articles, each director named in the articles must sign and acknowledge the articles [Corp. Code § 9120(b)]. When the articles are signed by incorporators rather than by the initial directors [see [f], above], the statutory language states only that the articles "shall be signed" by the incorporators; it does not expressly require an acknowledgment, nor does it prohibit one being used, so an acknowledgment in the latter case should be regarded as optional [see Corp. Code § 9120(b)].

For further discussion of acknowledgment, see § 13.200[1][g]. For a notarial acknowledgment, see § 13.200[2]. For an acknowledgment by declaration, which may be used as an alternative to notarial acknowledgment [see Corp. Code § 5030(b)], see § 13.241.

§ 13.221 Bylaws--Without Members [Corp. Code §§ 9150-9152]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a set of bylaws for a nonprofit religious corporation without members. The form expressly prohibits membership. For bylaws designed for other types of nonprofit corporations, including corporations with members of one or several classes of membership, see §§ 13.201 and 13.212. If the corporation wishes to admit a single class of members, the provisions contained in § 13.201 (bylaws for public benefit corporation with a single class of members) may be substituted for the provisions in Article II of this form, which expressly prohibits membership. Similarly, if the corporation will admit persons to multiple classes of membership, the provisions concerning multiple classes of membership set forth in § 13.212 (bylaws for nonprofit mutual benefit corporation with multiple classes of members) may be substituted for the provisions in Article II of this form. In either case, appropriate modifications may be made in the bylaws set forth below to reflect the change in membership status.

For resolutions of the board of directors adopting the bylaws of for-profit corporations, see Ch. 4, Bylaws . These resolutions may be adapted for the purpose of adopting bylaws of a nonprofit corporation.

[b] "Bylaws" Defined

Under the Nonprofit Religious Corporation Law, the term "bylaws" means the code or codes of rules used, adopted, or recognized for the regulation or management of the affairs of the corporation irrespective of the name or names by which those rules are designated [Corp. Code § 9150(a); see Metropolitan Philip v. Basil Steiger (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 923, 932, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 605 (bylaws of religious corporation can include more than just document bearing that title); Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 19, Nonprofit Corporations and Organizations , § 418.04 (Matthew Bender); see also § 13.21[1]]. This definition reflects the fact that many religions are governed by canons or other documents not contained in the bylaws of the corporation.

The bylaws must specify the exact number of directors of the corporation, or the method of determining the number of directors of the corporation, unless the articles of incorporation contain that information. Alternatively, the articles or bylaws may state that the number of directors must not be less than a stated minimum nor more than a stated maximum with the exact number of directors to be fixed by the approval of the board or the members [Corp. Code § 9151(a), (e)]. In either event, the number of minimum number of directors may be one or more [Corp. Code § 9151(a)].

Note that, if the articles provide for the number of directors, this provision may only by changed by a formal amendment of the articles [Corp. Code § 9151(a); see § 13.261]. Except as otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws, once members have been admitted, a bylaw specifying or changing a fixed number of directors or the maximum or minimum number or changing from a fixed to a variable board or vice versa may only be adopted by approval of the members [Corp. Code § 9151(b)].

[d] Optional Provisions

In general, the bylaws may contain any provision, not in conflict with law or the articles, for the management of the activities and for the conduct of the affairs of the corporation [Corp. Code § 9151(c)]. The following is a nonexclusive list of optional bylaw provisions for a nonprofit religious corporation [Corp. Code § 9151(c)]:

- Any optional provision that may be included in the articles [see Corp. Code § 9132(c)].
- The time, place, and manner of calling, conducting, and giving notice of members', directors', and committee meetings, or of conducting mail ballots.
- The qualifications, duties, and compensation of directors; the time of their election; and the requirements of a quorum for directors' and committee meetings.
- The appointment of committees, composed of directors or nondirectors or both, by the board or any officer, and the authority of each designated committee.
- The appointment, duties, compensation, and tenure of officers.
- The mode of determination of members of record.
- The making of reports and financial statements to members.
- Setting, imposing, and collecting dues, assessments, and admissions and transfer fees.

The bylaws may provide for the manner of admission, withdrawal, suspension, and expulsion of members [Corp. Code § 9151(d)]. Moreover, the bylaws may set forth a provision limiting the number of members, in total or of any class, that the corporation is authorized to admit [Corp. Code § 9151(f)].

The bylaws may also require, for any or all corporate actions, except as provided in Corp. Code §§ 9222 and 9680(b), the vote of a larger proportion of, or of all of, the members or the members of any class, unit, or grouping of members, or the vote or quorum for taking action of a larger proportion of, or of all of, the directors than is otherwise required by the Nonprofit Religious Corporation Law. A bylaw requiring a supermajority vote may not be altered, amended, or repealed except by that supermajority vote unless the bylaws provide to the contrary may not [Corp. Code § 9151(e)].

PRACTICE TIP

Provisions of the Nonprofit Corporation Law establish many of the rules governing the management of corporate affairs, at least in the absence of a contrary bylaw. Although these rules are not required to be restated in the bylaws, corporations often do so, in order to provide a complete manual of corporate procedure for the management and members.

Special meetings may be held on four days notice by first class mail, postage prepaid, or on 48 hours' notice delivered personally or by telephone, including a voice messaging system or other system or technology designed to record and communicate messages, telegraph, facsimile, electronic mail, or other electronic means.

Notice of the special meeting need not be given to any Director who signs a waiver of notice or written consent to holding the meeting, or an approval of the minutes of the meeting, whether before or after the meeting, or who attends the meeting without protesting the lack of notice to that Director either before or at the commencement of the meeting. Vacancies in the Board--Causes

3.11. (a) Vacancies on the Board of Directors occur (1) on the death, resignation, or removal of any Director; (2) whenever the number of authorized Directors is increased; and (3) on the failure of the members in any election to elect the full number of authorized Directors.

(b) Except as otherwise provided in the Articles or these Bylaws and except for a vacancy created by the removal of a Director pursuant to Section 3.09 of these Bylaws, vacancies on the Board of Directors may be filled by approval of the Board of Directors, or, if the number of Directors then in office is less than a quorum, by (1) the unanimous written consent of the Directors then in office; (2) the affirmative vote of a majority of the Directors then in office at a meeting held pursuant to notice or waivers of notice as provided in Section 3.07(d) of these Bylaws; or (3) a sole remaining Director.

[The President or The Chair of the Board] is the general manager and chief executive officer of the Corporation. 4.02. The officers will be chosen by the Board and serve at the pleasure of the Board, subject to the rights, if any, of an office under any contract of employment. PRACTICE TIP

A corporation with members must keep a record of its members, giving their names and addresses and the class of membership held by each [Corp. Code § 9510(a)(3)]. If this form is adapted to provide for members, counsel should consider inserting a provision in the bylaws requiring the secretary of the corporation to keep the membership record.

Chief Financial Officer

(d) The Chief Financial Officer of the Corporation will keep and maintain in [written form or any other form capable of being converted into written form] adequate and correct books and records of account of the properties and business transactions of the Corporation, including accounts of its assets, liabilities, receipts, disbursements, gains, and losses. The Chief Financial Officer will perform any other and further duties as may be required by law or as may be prescribed or required from time to time by the Board of Directors or these Bylaws.

§ 13.230 Authority to Establish Common Trust Fund

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is provision for inclusion in the articles of incorporation of a public benefit or religious corporation authorizing the corporation to establish one or more common trust funds.

Any public benefit or religious corporation may, if so authorized by the articles of incorporation, establish one or more common trust funds for the purpose of furnishing investments to that corporation or to any church, parish, congregation, society, chapel, mission, religious, beneficial, charitable, or educational institution affiliated with it, or to any organization, society, or corporation holding funds or property for the benefit of any of those entities, or holding funds for the purpose of supporting a bishop, priest, religious pastor, or teacher or any buildings used by or owned by any of those entities. The fund may hold the funds or property as a fiduciary or otherwise [Corp. Code § 10250(a)].

In general, funds may be lawfully invested in shares or interests of these trust funds, notwithstanding any other legal limitations on the rights of any of the persons or entities listed above, or their officers or directors, to invest funds held by them. However, if the funds or property are held in a fiduciary capacity, the investment may not be prohibited by wording of the will, deed, or other instrument creating the fiduciary relationship [Corp. Code § 10250(a)].

The directors or trustees of these common trust funds may employ officers or agents, define the duties of those officers or agents, and fix their compensation. The directors or trustees may also appoint a trust company or bank as custodian of the trust estate, and may employ investment advisers, define their duties, and fix their compensation [Corp. Code § 10250(b)].

The directors or trustees must pay semiannual dividends, apportioned ratably among the holders of shares or beneficial certificates then outstanding. These semiannual dividends must approximately equal, in each fiscal year, the net income of the trust [Corp. Code § 10250(c)].

The Corporate Securities Law does not apply to the creation, administration, or termination of common trust funds, or to participation in a common trust fund [Corp. Code § 10250(d)].

Authority to Establish Common Trust Fund

_____. TRUST FUNDS

The Corporation may establish one or more common trust funds for the purpose of furnishing investments to it or to _____[name of church, parish, congregation, society, chapel, mission, or religious, beneficial, charitable, or educational institution affiliated with corporation], or to any organization, society, or corporation holding funds or property for the benefit of _____[name as set forth above], or holding funds for the purpose of supporting a bishop, priest, religious pastor, or teacher or any building or buildings used by or owned by any of the foregoing, whether holding such funds or property as fiduciary or otherwise. Notwithstanding the provisions of any general or special law in any way limiting the right of any of the foregoing or the officers of directors, as fiduciary or otherwise, to invest funds held by them, the Corporation may lawfully invest any or all of its funds or property in shares or interests of the common trust fund or trust funds. However, in the case of funds or property held as fiduciary, the investment may not be prohibited by the wording of the will, deed, or other instrument creating that fiduciary relationship.

§ 13.231 Statement of Irrevocable Dedication

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains optional provisions that may be inserted in the articles of incorporation (or the bylaws) to secure tax exemption [see Ch. 13B, Tax-Exempt Status for Nonprofit Entities]. For example, the form contains an article providing that all property held by the nonprofit corporation is irrevocably dedicated to charitable purposes and that no corporate income or assets will inure to the benefit of any private persons. Further, the form provides that no substantial part of the corporation's activities will involve attempts to influence legislation. In addition, the form contains provisions requiring corporate distributions to avoid tax on undistributed income [see I.R.C. § 4942], and limitations on corporate activities including a ban on self-dealing [see I.R.C. § 4941].

The statement of dedication in this form contains a provision satisfying the requirement that the dedicated property must inure only to the benefit of another exempt fund, foundation, or corporation as a result of any liquidation, dissolution, or abandonment of the owner [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(a)(6); see also [c], below]. This requirement is subject to an exception: if the dedicated property is used solely for charitable or hospital purposes for at least 30 years, the existence of any reversionary provisions in the conveyance, respecting liquidation, dissolution, or abandonment, will not defeat the welfare exemption, if the ownership, operation, use, and dedication of the property otherwise satisfy the requirements for the welfare exemption [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214.3]. The form can be adapted to accommodate this exception. For further discussion of property dedications, see Ch. 27A, Dedication .

After paying or providing for all known debts and liabilities of the corporation in the process of winding up [see Corp. Code § 6714, 8714], the board must distribute all the remaining corporate assets in accordance with the articles or bylaws, unless the transfer of the asset is subject to a condition [see Corp. Code §§ 6715, 8715, 9680(e); see also [c], below] or the corporation holds the assets in trust [Corp. Code §§ 6713(a), 8713(a), 8717(a), 9680(e); see Corp. Code §§ 6716(a), 8716, 9680(e); see also [d], below]. For public benefit and religious corporations, the disposition of corporate assets must be made by decree of the superior court of the proper county in proceedings to which the California Attorney General is a party, except that the disposition may be made without a decree if the Attorney General makes a written waiver of objections to the disposition [Corp. Code § 6716(b), (c), 9680(e)(2), (3)].

If the articles or bylaws of a mutual benefit corporation do not provide the manner of disposition, the assets must be distributed among the members in accordance with their respective rights [Corp. Code § 8717(b)].

[c] Assets Subject to Condition

After complying with the provisions of Corp. Code §§ 6713 or 8713 [see [b], above], assets held by the corporation subject to valid condition requiring return, transfer, or conveyance, which condition has occurred or will occur, must be returned, transferred, or conveyed in accordance with the condition [Corp. Code §§ 6715, 8715, 9680(e)].

[d] Assets Held in Charitable Trust

After complying with Corp. Code § 8713 and except for assets subject to a valid condition [see [b], [c], above], assets held by a nonprofit corporation in a charitable trust must be disposed of on dissolution in conformity with its articles or bylaws, subject to complying with the provisions of any trust under which the assets are held [Corp. Code §§ 6713(a), 8716(a), 9680(e)]. For mutual benefit corporations, the distribution must be made by decree of the superior court of the proper county in proceedings to which the Attorney General is a party [Corp. Code § 8716(b)]. However, the disposition may be made without court decree, subject to the rights of persons concerned in the dissolution, if the Attorney General makes a written waiver of objections to the disposition [Corp. Code § 8716(b)].

[e] Tax Matters

Adverse tax ramifications result from the distribution of corporate assets to nontax-exempt organizations. For example, organizations claiming exemption from federal and California taxes under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) and Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d must show that their income and assets are irrevocably dedicated to exempt purposes. Although the assets of public benefit corporations are dedicated to tax-exempt purposes by operation of California law [see Corp. Code §§ 5049, 5060, 5410] and that dedication by operation of law is sufficient to meet the dedication requirements of exempt organizations for federal and California tax purposes [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(b)(4); *18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23701*d], the better practice is to make an express provision in the articles for the distribution of corporate assets to tax-exempt distributees on dissolution of the corporation, as is set forth in this form.

If the corporation is to be exempt from local property taxes [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214], the articles should provide that on dissolution the property will not inure to the benefit of any private person but to a fund, foundation, or corporation organized and operated for religious, hospital, scientific, or charitable purposes [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 214(a)(6), (j), 214.01; see Stockton Civic Theatre v. Board of Supervisors (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 13, 22-23, 56 Cal. Rptr. 658, 423 P.2d 810 ; Pacific Home v. Los Angeles County (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 844, 852, 264 P.2d 539] . Property operated by an educational institution of collegiate grade [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 203] will also qualify for exemption from local property taxes [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 214] if the institution's articles provide that, on dissolution, liquidation, or abandonment, the property is distributed to a fund, foundation, or corporation that (1) is organized and operated for educational purposes, and (2) meets the requirements of Rev. & Tax. Code § 203 or 214 [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(e)(2)].

For further discussion of tax exemptions, see Ch. 13B, Tax-Exempt Status for Nonprofit Entities .

[2] FORM

Statement of Irrevocable Dedication

_____. DEDICATION AND DISSOLUTION

_____. (a) The property of this corporation is irrevocably dedicated to [e.g., charitable] purposes and no part of the net income or assets of this organization may ever inure to the benefit of any director, officer, or member, or to the benefit of any private persons.

(b) On the dissolution or winding up of the corporation, its assets remaining after payment of, or provision for payment of, all debts and liabilities of this corporation will be distributed to a nonprofit fund, foundation, or corporation organized and operated exclusively for [e.g., charitable] purposes that has established its tax-exempt status under Internal Revenue Code Section 501(c)(3).

(c) If this corporation holds any assets on trust, or the corporation is formed for charitable purposes, these assets must be disposed of in the manner as may be directed by decree of the superior court of the county in which the corporation has its principal office, on petition by the Attorney General or by any person concerned in the liquidation, in a proceeding to which the Attorney General is a party.

[Optional]

_____. LIMITATION ON CORPORATE ACTIVITIES

_____. DISTRIBUTION OF INCOME AND PROHIBITED ACTIVITIES

Notwithstanding any other provision in these Articles of Incorporation, the Corporation is subject to the following limitations and restrictions:

(a) The Corporation will distribute its income for each taxable year at a time and in a manner that will not subject the corporation to the tax on undistributed income imposed by Internal Revenue Code Section 4942.

(b) The Corporation will not engage in any act of self-dealing as defined in Internal Revenue Code Section 4941(d).

(c) The Corporation will not retain any excess business holdings as defined in Internal Revenue Code Section 4943(c).

(d) The Corporation will not make any investments that will subject it to tax under Internal Revenue Code Section 4944.

(e) The Corporation will not make any taxable expenditures as defined in Internal Revenue Code Section 4945(d).

§ 13.241 Declaration

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a written declaration that is designed to be executed separately from the articles by the persons signing the articles, annexed to the articles, and thus, used in lieu of the more formal notarial acknowledgment set forth in § 13.200. It has the advantage over notarial acknowledgment of not requiring the use of a notary public. The form may also be adapted to acknowledge other instruments.

The Nonprofit Corporation Law requires that if initial directors are named in the articles, each director named in the articles must sign and acknowledge the articles [Corp. Code § 5120(b)]. When the articles are signed by incorporators rather than by the initial directors, the statutory language states only that the articles "shall be signed" by the incorporators; it does not expressly require an acknowledgment, nor does it prohibit one being used, so an acknowledgment in the latter case should be regarded as optional [see Corp. Code § 5120(b)].

One method of acknowledgment permitted by the law is notarial acknowledgment [Corp. Code § 5030]. For an example of this method, see § 13.200[2].

A second method of acknowledgment is a written declaration signed by the persons who have executed the articles. Under the declaration, the subscribing parties declare that they are the persons who have executed the articles and that the articles are the act and deed of those persons [Corp. Code § 5030]. An example of this latter method of acknowledgment is set forth in this form.

[b] Penalty of Perjury

The section in the Nonprofit Corporation Law permitting the use of a declaration does not specifically require that the declaration be made under penalty of perjury [see Corp. Code § 5030; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5 (governing declarations made under penalty of perjury)]. Moreover, the term "declaration" is not otherwise defined in the Nonprofit Corporation Law. It therefore would appear that the declaration need not be made under penalty of perjury and that a simple statement setting forth the substance of the declaration [see Corp. Code § 5030] would be sufficient.

[c] Requirement of Separate Execution

If acknowledged articles of incorporation are to be filed with the Secretary of State and the acknowledgment is by declaration in writing rather than by formal notarial acknowledgment, the Secretary of State's office requires that the declaration of acknowledgment be separately executed from the articles. Therefore, the declaration should not be embodied in the articles of incorporation but should be executed as a separate instrument and annexed to the articles.

§ 13.242 Verified Statement of Authorization to Incorporate Unincorporated Association

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a verified statement of authorization to incorporate by the required officers or governing board members of an unincorporated association incorporating under the Nonprofit Corporation Law. It is designed to accompany the articles of incorporation of a nonprofit corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 5121(c), 7121(c), 9121(c)].

An existing unincorporated association may change its status to that of a nonprofit corporation on proper authorization by the association in accordance with its rules and procedures. When submitting the articles to the Secretary of State for filing, the articles must be accompanied by a verified statement of any two officers or two governing board members of the association stating that the incorporation of the association by means of the articles to which the affidavit is attached has been approved by the association in accordance with its rules and procedures [Corp. Code §§ 5121(a), (c), 7121(a), (c), 9121(a), (c)]. This form may be used to satisfy this requirement.

For further discussion of the incorporation of unincorporated associations, see § 13.22.

[b] Verification

Under the Nonprofit Corporation Law, "verified" means that the statements contained in a document are declared to be true of the knowledge of the persons executing the document in either (1) an affidavit signed by them under oath before an officer authorized by the laws of California or of the place where it is executed to administer oaths; or (2) a declaration in writing executed by them under penalty of perjury and stating the date and place of execution [Corp. Code § 5076]. For a notarial acknowledgment, see § 13.200[2]. This form contains a declaration under penalty of perjury. For a declaration not executed under penalty of perjury, see § 13.241.

§ 13.243 Certificate of Correction

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a certificate of correction designed to correct misstatements of fact contained in articles previously filed with the office of the Secretary of State. With appropriate modifications, the certificate may be used to correct any defect in execution of the articles or to correct any other error contained in the articles, or to correct any misstatement of fact, defect in execution, or other error contained in any agreement, certificate, or other instrument relating to a nonprofit corporation and filed with the Secretary of State pursuant to the Nonprofit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 5007].

[b] Contents of Certificate

The certificate must set forth the following items [Corp. Code § 5007]:

- The name of the corporation.
- The date the instrument being corrected was filed with the Secretary of State.
- The provision in the agreement, certificate, or other instrument as corrected and, if the execution was defective, a statement wherein it was defective.

[c] Restrictions on Use of Form

A certificate of correction may not alter the wording of any resolution that was in fact adopted by the board or the members or delegates. Further, the certificate may not effect a corrected amendment of articles if the amendment as so corrected would not in all respects have complied with the Nonprofit Corporation Law at the time of filing of the corrected instrument [Corp. Code § 5007]. Hence, the certificate of correction must effect a correction that would have rendered the corrected instrument in compliance with the law at the time the agreement, certificate, or other instrument being corrected was originally filed. If the correction would have rendered the instrument in noncompliance with that law, the Secretary of State may refuse to file the certificate.

The filing of the certificate does not alter the effective time of the agreement, certificate, or other instrument being corrected, which remains as its original effective time. Furthermore, the filing does not affect any right or liability accrued or incurred before the filing, except that any right or liability accrued or incurred by reason of the error or defect being corrected is extinguished by the filing if the person having that right has not detrimentally relied on the original instrument [Corp. Code § 5007].

[d] Execution, Filing, and Fees

A certificate of correction must be signed and verified [see Corp. Code § 5076] or acknowledged [see Corp. Code § 5030] as provided in the Nonprofit Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 5007]. "Verified" means that the statements contained in the certificate are declared to be true of the knowledge of the persons executing the certificate in either (1) an affidavit signed by them under oath before an officer authorized by the laws of California or of the place where it is executed to administer oaths; or (2) a declaration in writing executed by them under penalty of perjury and stating the date and place of execution [Corp. Code § 5076]. Examples of these two types of verification are set forth in this form. Alternatively, the certificate may be acknowledged [see Corp. Code § 5007] by formal acknowledgment [see Civ. Code § 1180 et seq.], or by written declaration stating that the signatories are the persons executing the agreement and that the instrument is the act and deed of the persons executing the agreement [see Corp. Code § 5030].

The filing fee for a certificate of correction is set by statute [Corp. Code § 5006; Gov. Code § 12186(p)]. The office of the Secretary of State will compare and certify up to two copies of the certificate without charge if the copies are submitted with the original to be filed [Corp. Code § 5006; Gov. Code § 12185].

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.244

§ 13.244 Appointment of Initial Directors and Adoption of Bylaws

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form effects the appointment of the initial board of directors by the incorporators and adopts the bylaws of the corporation. If the initial directors are not named in the articles, the incorporators may do "whatever is necessary and proper" to perfect the organization of the corporation, including the adoption and amendment of bylaws and the election of directors and officers [Corp. Code §§ 5134, 7134, 9134].

If the incorporators know the identity of the initial directors, they usually appoint them, avoiding the necessity of holding a meeting to elect the initial directors. The directors will then complete the corporate organization by holding their first meeting [see § 13.23, 13.121].

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.245

§ 13.245 Waiver of Notice and Consent to Holding of First Meeting of Directors

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a waiver of notice of the first meeting of the board of directors. The first step in completing the organization of a corporation is the holding of a directors' meeting. Unless the articles expressly prohibit the holding of a meeting without notice [see Corp. Code §§ 5211(a)(3), 7211(a)(3), 9211(a)(3)], the first meeting of the directors should be held on waiver of notice signed by all incumbent directors. A waiver of notice need not specify the purpose of any regular or special meeting of the board [Corp. Code §§ 5211(a)(2), 7211(a)(2), 9211(a)(2)].

No notice of meeting need be given to any director who provided a waiver of notice, a consent to holding the meeting, or an approval of the minutes of the meeting, whether before or after the meeting. Attendance at the meeting in writing without protesting the lack of notice either before or at the commencement of the meeting also effects waiver of notice [Corp. Code §§ 5211(a)(3), 7211(a)(3), 9211(a)(3)].

For a checklist of the items ordinarily covered at the first meeting of directors, see § 13.121. For a form for the minutes to be adopted at the first meeting of the board of directors, see § 13.247.

Waivers, consents, and approvals must be filed with the corporate records or made a part of the minutes of the meetings [Corp. Code §§ 5211(a)(3), 7211(a)(3), 9211(a)(3)].

The undersigned also consent to the transaction of any and all business that may be brought before the meeting. [Optional, if corporation wishes to identify matters to be determined at meeting, e.g., This first meeting will be used to adopt the bylaws of the Corporation, to adopt a corporate seal, to elect the officers of the Corporation, to provide for a depositary for the funds of the Corporation and to authorize certain officers to deal with corporate funds, to adopt a fiscal year for the Corporation, to determine the principal office of the Corporation, to provide for the payment of the expenses of incorporation and organization of the Corporation, and to transact any other business as may be brought before the meeting.]

The undersigned further requests that this waiver and consent [be filed with the corporate records or be made a part of the minutes of the meeting] for the purpose of showing that the business transacted at the meeting is valid and of the same force and effect as though the business had been transacted at a meeting duly held after regular call and notice.

PART IV. FORMS
B. Forms Related to Corporate Formation and Operation

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.247

§ 13.247 Minutes of Organizational Meeting

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a form for the minutes for the organizational meeting of a nonprofit corporation [see § 13.23]. This form assumes that the directors were named in the articles of incorporation or by the incorporators, and that the incorporators are not participating at the meeting in that capacity. If the incorporators are actively participating, the form should be adapted to reflect their presence and participation. The form covers most matters typically covered at the organizational meeting. However, additional resolutions may be required if the corporation will have members, such as authorization for membership certificates and qualification for registration of offer and sale of membership interests. Additional resolutions include appointing financial and legal advisers, securing insurance for the corporation and employees, and executing deeds, leases, loans, and grants.

Nonprofit corporations must keep minutes of the proceedings of its members, board of directors, and committees of the board. The minutes must be kept in written form, in any other form capable of being converted into clearly legible tangible form, or any combination of the two [Corp. Code §§ 6320(a)(2), (b), 8320(a)(2), (b), 9510(a)(2), (b)].

For the procedure for holding an organizational meeting, see § 13.121.

§ 13.248 Statement of Information by Domestic Nonprofit Corporation [Form SI-100]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is Secretary of State Form SI-100, Statement of Information by Domestic Nonprofit Corporation. The Secretary of State's official printed form is reproduced here, along with the text of the official instructions. Form SI-100 is for use by domestic nonprofit corporations [Corp. Code §§ 6210(a), 8210(a), 9660(a)]. The statement contains the names and complete business or residence addresses of its chief executive officer, secretary, and chief financial officer; the street address of its principal office in California, if any; the mailing address of the corporation (if different from the street address of its principal executive office or if it has no principal executive office in California); and the agent for service of process [Corp. Code §§ 6210(a), (b), 8210(a), (b), 9660(a)].

Every domestic nonprofit corporation must file this statement within 90 days after the filing of its original articles of incorporation, and biennially thereafter during the applicable filing period [Corp. Code §§ 6210(a), 8210(a), 9660(a)]. The applicable filing period is the end of the calendar month during which its original articles were filed and the immediately preceding five calendar months [Corp. Code §§ 6210(c), 8210(c), 9660(a)]. The Secretary of State will mail a form for compliance with this requirement approximately three months before the close of the applicable filing period. The form will be mailed to the last address of the corporation according to the records of the Secretary of State, and states the required due date [Corp. Code §§ 6210(c), 8210(c), 9660(a)].

A domestic nonprofit corporation must file this statement even though the corporation is not actively engaged in business at the time that the statement is due [see [2], below (instructions to form)].

Note that although for-profit corporations and foreign nonprofits are now required to file a similar statement annually [Corp. Code §§ 1502, 2117; see § 13.249 and Ch. 7, Corporate Records and Reports, § 7.207A], domestic nonprofits still file it only biennially.

An initial or biennial statement must be accompanied by the applicable filing fee, payable to the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 5006; Gov. Code § 12186(g)].

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE:

Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 13.248. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

Foreign nonprofit corporations do not use this form, but instead use Form SI-350, which is reproduced in § 13.249.

[b] Amending Statement

Whenever any of the information contained in the statement is changed, the corporation may file a current statement containing all the required information. To change its agent for service of process (or the address of the agent), the corporation must file a current statement containing all the required information. Whenever any corrective statement is filed, it supersedes any previously filed statement, as well as the statement in the articles as to the agent for service of process and the agent's address [Corp. Code §§ 6210(d), 8210(d), 9660(a)]. There is no filing fee for a corrective filing [see [2], below (instructions to form)].

[c] Effect of Failure to File

The failure to file an initial or biennial statement is subject to penalty [see Corp. Code §§ 6810, 8810, 9690; see also Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 19141, 25936], unless the corporation has dissolved, been merged into another corporation, or has been suspended [see Corp. Code §§ 6810(c), (d), 8810(c), (d), 9690]. However, the Secretary may waive the penalty on a finding that the failure to file the statement is excusable because of reasonable cause or unusual circumstances that justify the failure [Corp. Code §§ 6810(f), 8810(f), 9690]. Repeated failures may result in suspension [Corp. Code § 5008.6]. Neither the failure of the Secretary of State to mail the form nor the failure of the corporation to receive it excuses the failure to comply with this filing requirement [Corp. Code §§ 6210(c), 8210(c), 9660(a)].

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.248A

§ 13.248A Statement and Designation by Foreign Nonprofit Corporation

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a statement and designation that a foreign nonprofit corporation must file to obtain a certificate of qualification to transact intrastate business in California [see Corp. Code § 2105]. Foreign corporations organized for profit file a different form [see Ch. 12B, Foreign Corporations and Associations].

The statement and designation must be on a form prescribed by the Secretary of State's office [see Corp. Code § 2105(a)]; however, unofficial forms that comply with the requirements of the Secretary of State will suffice. The version reproduced here is the Secretary of State's official form. Forms prepared by the Secretary of State may be obtained from its Sacramento office or from any of its satellite offices in Los Angeles, San Diego, Fresno, or San Francisco, or on the Secretary of State's website as indicated below.

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE:

Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 12B.248A. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

The original statement and designation form must be accompanied by the applicable filing fee, in cash or by check made payable to the Secretary of State. The form may be mailed or hand-delivered to the Sacramento Secretary of State office. To facilitate the processing of documents mailed to the Sacramento office, a self-addressed envelope and letter referencing the corporate name as well as the name, return address, and telephone number of the person filing the documents should be submitted. The form may also be hand-delivered to any branch office; however, a duplicate original must be submitted if documents are filed in any branch office. The Los Angeles and San Diego branch offices do not accept cash [see Secretary of State's website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/pdf/articles/corp_artsnp.pdf].

An original certificate of good standing by an authorized public official of the state or place of incorporation must be attached to this form. The certificate should indicate that the corporation is a nonstock, nonprofit corporation. This is required as proof that the corporation is eligible for the reduced filing fees applicable to nonprofit corporations; however, although a certified copy of the articles of incorporation will not be accepted in lieu of the required certificate [see "Requirements for Qualification of Foreign Nonprofit Corporations" appended to form in [2], below], the Secretary of State's office will accept an endorsed copy of the corporation's articles along with the certificate, as proof of its nonprofit status if, as will happen in some cases, the certificate of good standing provided by the state or place of incorporation does not specify that the corporation is nonprofit.

This form is Secretary of State Form SI-350, Statement of Information by Foreign Corporation, also sometimes referred to as the Statement of Officers, or simply "annual statement" or "statement of information." The Secretary of State's official printed form is reproduced here, along with the text of the official instructions. Every foreign corporation (other than a foreign association) qualified to transact intrastate business must file this form during the applicable filing period each year [Corp. Code §§ 6910, 8910; see Corp. Code § 2117(a)]. For a form for the initial statement and designation, see § 13.248A. For Form SI-100, the comparable form used by domestic nonprofit corporations, see § 13.248. Note, however, that while domestic nonprofits file biannially [see Corp. Code §§ 6210, 8210, 9660], foreign nonprofits must file annually, like all other foreign corporations [see Corp. Code §§ 2117, 2117.1, 6910, 8910].

Form SI-350 may be used by both foreign stock corporations and foreign nonprofit corporations. Note that while the Nonprofit Religious Corporation Law does not contain a statute expressly requiring foreign religious corporations to file, Corp. Code § 9660 subjects all religious corporations to this filing requirement.

If the corporation must qualify under an assumed name [see Corp. Code § 2106(b)], the first line of the statement must state the correct corporate name, followed by "which will do business in California as ... ," setting forth the assumed name in the space indicated. The assumed name should not be set out in connection with the corporate name anywhere else in the statement [see Secretary of State's instructions].

This statement must be accompanied by the applicable filing fee, payable to the Secretary of State [Gov. Code § 12186(e)].

For further discussion, see § 13.248 and Ch. 12B, Foreign Corporations and Associations, § 12B.210.

§ 13.250 Statement of Resignation of Agent for Service of Process [Form RA-100]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a statement of resignation of a corporation's agent for service of process. The form reproduced here is official Form RA-100 promulgated by the Secretary of State that appears on the Secretary of State's website, together with the accompanying instructions. The form may be used by both for-profit and nonprofit corporations.

Under the Nonprofit Corporation Law, an agent designated by a nonprofit corporation for service of process may file a signed and acknowledged written statement of resignation as agent [Corp. Code §§ 6211, 8211, 9660(a)]. For the purpose of the statement, the term "file" means filing the statement with the California Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 5051]. On the filing of a statement of resignation, the authority of the agent to act in that capacity ceases and the Secretary of State will give written notice of the filing of the statement of resignation by mail to the corporation addressed to its principal office [Corp. Code §§ 6211(a), 8211(a), 9660(a)].

Nonprofit corporations must file a designation of a new agent whenever a natural person designated as agent for service of process resigns, dies, or longer resides in California. Similarly, a new designation is required if a corporate agent for service of process resigns, dissolves, withdraws from California, forfeits its right to transact intrastate business, ceases to exist, or has its corporate rights, powers, and privileges suspended [Corp. Code §§ 6212, 8212, 9660(a)].

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.251

§ 13.251 Letter Seeking Attorney General's Approval of Self-Dealing Transaction

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a letter seeking the approval of the Attorney General of a self-dealing transaction for use by public benefit or religious corporations [see Corp. Code §§ 5233(d)(1), 9243(d)(1); see also 11 Cal. Code Reg. § 999.1(c)]. Ordinarily, participation in a self-dealing transaction is subject to strict sanctions unless validated pursuant to statute [see Corp. Code §§ 5233(a), (d), 9243(a), (d); see § 13.38]. However, participation in a self-dealing transaction is not subject to sanction if the Attorney General (or the court in a suit in which the Attorney General is an indispensable party) approves the transaction before or after consummation [Corp. Code §§ 5233(d)(1), 9243(d)(1); see § 13.38[1][b]].

Requests for approval must be submitted in writing to the office of Charitable Trusts Section of the Attorney General's office nearest to the corporation's principal office [11 Cal. Code Reg. § 999.1(a)]. The letter must state all material facts about the transaction and the extent to which any director has a material financial interest [11 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 999.1(c), 999.2(b)(1)]. This form is drafted under the assumption that only one director has a material interest in the transaction, but the form may be amended if more than one director is interested. Material facts include a description of the goods and services to be provided by or to the corporation; the price and estimated fair market value of those goods and services; the benefit of the transaction to the corporation; and a statement whether the board approved the transaction. If the board approved the transaction, the letter must also state the factual basis for that approval, the interested director's disclosures, alternatives considered, and the reason the alternatives were rejected [11 Cal. Code Reg. § 999.1(c)].

Once a director discloses the potential for a material financial interest in a proposed corporate transaction, the board should determine whether the transaction falls within an exception to the self-dealing bar [see Corp. Code §§ 5233(b), 9243(b); see also § 13.38[1][a]]. If not, the board should prepare for full disclosure at the meeting and a disinterested person or committee should be assigned to investigate reasonable alternatives to the proposed transaction. At the meeting, all material facts about the transaction, including the nature and extent of the director's interest, must be disclosed. Proposed alternatives should be discussed. If the board will approve the transaction, the board should make resolutions stating that the proposed transaction is fair and reasonable, that the corporation entered into the transaction for its own benefit, that the board considered and in good faith determined after reasonable investigation that the corporation could not have obtained a more advantageous arrangement.

The corporation's letter seeking approval must be accompanied by the following documentation [11 Cal. Code Reg. § 999.2(b)]:

- Copies of the corporation's current financial statements, articles of incorporation, and bylaws unless these documents are already on file with the Registrar of Charitable Trusts.

- Copies of the minutes of board meetings at which the transaction was discussed. The minutes should reflect full disclosure of the material financial interest, the investigation of reasonable alternatives, board findings and resolutions approving the transaction, and the vote.

- A letter by the interested director disclosing his or her interest unless the letter would simply reiterate information in the corporation's letter.

- Any additional information required by the Attorney General [see 11 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 999.2(b)(7) (public benefit), 999.3(b)(7) (mutual benefit)].

C. Amendment of Articles of Incorporation

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.260

§ 13.260 Certificate of Amendment of Articles of Incorporation by Incorporators

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a certificate of amendment that must be filed with the Secretary of State by a majority of the incorporators to amend (change, add, or delete) the articles of incorporation of a nonprofit corporation without directors and members. It is similar to the sample provided by the Secretary of State. For a certificate of amendment designed for use when the corporation has directors or members, see § 13.261.

The incorporators may adopt any amendment of the articles of a nonprofit corporation, provided that the initial directors were not named in the articles, no directors have been elected, and the corporation does not have members. In this case, the corporation must file a written certificate of amendment signed and verified by a majority of the incorporators [Corp. Code §§ 5811, 5815, 7811, 7815, 9620(a); see Corp. Code §§ 5819, 7819].

On the filing of the certificate of amendment and the payment of applicable fees, the articles will be amended in accordance with the certificate and any change, reclassification, or cancellation of memberships will be effected. Furthermore, a copy of the certificate, certified by the Secretary of State, is prima facie evidence of the performance of the conditions necessary to the adoption of the amendment [Corp. Code §§ 5817, 7817, 9620(a)].

A certificate of amendment may establish the wording of an amendment or amended articles by one or more of three means [Corp. Code §§ 5816, 7816, 9620(a)]:

- First, the certificate may state that the articles will be amended to read as set forth in full in the certificate.

- Second, the certificate may state that any provision of the articles, which must be identified by the numerical or other designation given it in the articles or by restating the article, will be stricken from the articles or will be amended to read as set forth in the certificate.

- Third, the certificate may state that the provisions stated in the certificate will be added to the articles.

If the purpose of the amendment is to reclassify, cancel, exchange, or otherwise change the outstanding memberships, the amended articles must state the effect of the change on outstanding memberships [Corp. Code §§ 5816, 7816, 9620(a)].

When the incorporators adopt the amendment [see Corp. Code §§ 5811, 7811, 9620(a)], the certificate must state, in addition to the general statements described above, that the signers constitute at least a majority of the incorporators, that directors were not named in the original articles and have not been elected, that the corporation has no members, and that the incorporators adopt the amendment or amendments stated in the certificate [Corp. Code §§ 5815, 7815, 9620(a)].

[c] Permissible Amendments In General

A nonprofit corporation may amend its articles from time to time, in any and as many respects as may be desired, as long as its articles as amended contain only those provisions as it would be lawful to insert in original articles filed at the time of the filing of the amendment or as authorized by statutes governing change of corporate status [Corp. Code §§ 5810(a), 7810(a), 9620(a); see Corp. Code §§ 5813.5, 7813.5, 9621]. Furthermore, if a change in the rights of members or an exchange, reclassification, or cancellation of memberships is to be made, the articles as amended may contain only those provisions as may be necessary to effect that change, exchange, reclassification, or cancellation [Corp. Code §§ 5810(a), 7810(a), 9620(a)]. However, a corporation may not amend its articles to alter any statement that may appear in the original articles of the names and addresses of the first directors or the name and address of the initial agent, except to correct an error in the statement or to delete either after the corporation has filed a biennial statement pursuant to Corp. Code §§ 6210, 8210, or 9660(a) [Corp. Code §§ 5810(b), 7810(b), 9620(a)].

A nonprofit corporation formed for a limited period, at any time following the expiration of the term of its corporate existence, may extend the term of its existence by an amendment to its articles removing any provision limiting the term of its existence and providing for perpetual existence [Corp. Code §§ 5818, 7818, 9620(b)]. If the filing of the certificate of amendment providing for perpetual existence would be prohibited if it were original articles by the provisions of Corp. Code § 5122, 7122, or 9122, the Secretary of State will not accept the certificate of amendment for filing unless, by the same or a concurrently filed certificate of amendment, the articles of the corporation are amended to adopt a new available name. For the purpose of the adoption of any such amendment, persons who have been functioning as directors of the corporation are considered to have been validly elected even though their election may have occurred after the expiration of the original term of the corporate existence [Corp. Code §§ 5818, 7818, 9620(b)].

[e] Amendment of Articles to Change Status

A public benefit corporation may amend its articles to change its status to that of a mutual benefit, religious, business, or cooperative corporation [Corp. Code § 5813.5(a)]. A mutual benefit corporation may amend its articles to change its status to a public benefit, religious, business, or cooperative corporation [Corp. Code § 7813.5(a)]. A religious corporation may amend its articles to change its status to that of a public benefit corporation, mutual benefit corporation, business corporation, or cooperative corporation, by complying with the provisions concerning amendment of articles [Corp. Code § 9621(a); see Corp. Code §§ 5810-5820]. For further discussion of the requirements for changing the status of a nonprofit corporation, see § 13.261[1][e].

Under some circumstances, it may be proper to file with the Secretary of State a certificate of correction rather than a certificate of amendment. For example, a certificate of correction can be filed with the Secretary of State to correct any misstatement of facts contained in the articles, any defects in the execution of the articles, or any other errors contained in the articles [see Corp. Code § 5007]. For a form and discussion of a certificate of correction of the articles of a nonprofit corporation, see § 13.243.

Incorporators seeking to amend a corporation's articles of incorporation [see Corp. Code §§ 5811, 5815, 7811, 7815, 9620(a)] may alternatively restate in a single certificate the entire text of the articles (as amended) by filing a certificate, signed and verified by a majority of incorporators, entitled "Restated Articles of Incorporation of _____ [name of corporation]." For further discussion, see § 13.262.

[g] Execution, Filing, and Fees

A certificate of amendment by the incorporators must be signed by a majority of the incorporators, and verified before the Secretary of State accepts it for filing [Corp. Code §§ 5811, 5815, 7811, 7815, 9620(a)]. For purposes of this requirement, "verified" means that the statements contained in the certificate are declared to be true of the own knowledge of the incorporators executing the certificate in either: (1) an affidavit signed by the incorporators under oath before an officer authorized by the laws of the State of California or of the place where it is executed to administer oaths; or (2) a written declaration executed by the incorporators under penalty of perjury and stating the date and place of execution [Corp. Code § 5076].

The incorporators should file the original certificate and at least two copies of the certificate, and file a certified copy in the corporate records book. Amendment documents may only be filed in the Sacramento office, either by mail or hand delivery [see Secretary of State website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_amdtnpinfo.htm]. If the corporation is a public benefit corporation, an additional copy must be filed for transmittal to Attorney General [Corp. Code § 5817].

The certificate of amendment must be accompanied by the applicable filing fee [see Gov. Code § 12186(p)]. The Secretary of State will compare and certify up to two copies of the amendment at no charge provided that the copies are submitted with the original to be filed [Gov. Code § 12185]. If additional certified copies are required, an additional minimal fee is charged, provided that the copies are furnished to the Secretary of State and the fee is prepaid [Gov. Code §§ 12182, 12183]. A separate and nonrefundable handling fee is charged for expedited processing of documents delivered in person, over the counter, to the Sacramento headquarters office.

C. Amendment of Articles of Incorporation

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.261

§ 13.261 Certificate of Amendment of Articles of Incorporation--Officers' Certificate

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a certificate of amendment designed for use by a corporation with directors and/or members desiring to amend (change, add or delete) the articles of incorporation of a nonprofit corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 5814, 5816, 5817, 7814, 7816, 7817, 9620(a)]. It is similar to the sample provided by the Secretary of State [see Secretary of State website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_amdtnpinfo.htm].

On the filing of the certificate of amendment, the articles will be amended in accordance with the certificate and any change, reclassification, or cancellation of memberships will be effected. Furthermore, a copy of the certificate, certified by the Secretary of State, is prima facie evidence of the performance of the conditions necessary to the adoption of the amendment [Corp. Code §§ 5817, 7817, 9620(a)].

In lieu of this form, the corporation may use a certificate of correction or restate the articles of incorporation. For discussion of these alternatives, see § 13.243[1][d].

[b] Contents of Certificate

The certificate of amendment must state the following matters [Corp. Code §§ 5814, 7814, 9620(a)]:

- The wording of the amendment or amended articles [see Corp. Code §§ 5816, 7816, 9620(a)].
- That the amendment has been duly approved by the board.
- If the corporation has no members, the certificate must state that fact.
- If the amendment requires the approval of the members [see Corp. Code § 5034], that the amendment was approved by the required vote of the members.

- If the amendment may be adopted with approval by the board alone, a statement of the facts entitling the board alone to adopt the amendment.

- If the amendment requires the approval of someone other than the incorporators, directors, or members, that the approval of that person or persons has been obtained.

To establish the wording of the amendment or the amended articles, the certificate must identify the particular provision to be amended using the numerical or other designation given that provision in the existing articles, or by quoting the wording of the provision as it currently appears, followed by the wording of the provision in full as amended. If the amendment is an addition to the articles, the certificate must state that the specified provisions are added to the articles [see Corp. Code §§ 5816, 7816, 9620(a); see also see Secretary of State website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_amdtnpinfo.htm].

A nonprofit corporation may amend its articles from time to time, in any and as many respects as may be desired, as long as its articles as amended contain only those provisions that it would be lawful to insert in original articles filed at the time of the filing of the amendment or as authorized by statutes governing change of corporate status [Corp. Code §§ 5810(a), 7810(a), 9620(a); see Corp. Code §§ 5813.5, 7813.5, 9621]. Furthermore, if a change in the rights of members or an exchange, reclassification, or cancellation of memberships is to be made, the articles as amended may contain only those provisions as may be necessary to effect that change, exchange, reclassification, or cancellation [Corp. Code §§ 5810(a), 7810(a), 9620(a)]. However, a corporation may not amend its articles to alter any statement that may appear in the original articles of the names and addresses of the first directors, or the name and address of the initial agent, except to correct an error in the statement or to delete either after the corporation has filed a biennial statement pursuant to Corp. Code §§ 6210, 8210, or 9660(a) [Corp. Code §§ 5810(b), 7810(b), 9620(a)].

A nonprofit corporation formed for a limited period, at any time following the expiration of the term of its corporate existence, may extend the term of its existence by an amendment to its articles removing any provision limiting the term of its existence and providing for perpetual existence [Corp. Code §§ 5818, 7818, 9620(b)]. If the filing of the certificate of amendment providing for perpetual existence would be prohibited if it were original articles by the provisions of Corp. Code §§ 5122, 7122, or 9122, the Secretary of State will not accept the certificate of amendment for filing unless, by the same or a concurrently filed certificate of amendment, the articles of the corporation are amended to adopt a new available name. For the purpose of the adoption of any such amendment, persons who have been functioning as directors of the corporation are considered to have been validly elected even though their election may have occurred after the expiration of the original term of the corporate existence [Corp. Code §§ 5818, 7818, 9620(b)].

[e] Amendment of Articles to Change Status of Public Benefit Corporation

A public benefit corporation may amend its articles to change its status to that of a mutual benefit, religious, business, or cooperative corporation [Corp. Code § 5813.5(a)]. The Secretary of State must notify the Franchise Tax Board of any amendments to a public benefit corporation's articles [Corp. Code § 5813.5(a)]. If the public benefit corporation has any assets, an amendment to change its status to a non-religious corporation must be approved in advance in writing by the Attorney General. If the corporation has no assets, it must give a copy of the amendment to the Attorney General at least 20 days before filing the amendment [Corp. Code § 5813.5(b)]. The amended articles must include the provisions that would have been required (other than the name of the initial agent for service of process if a biennial statement has been filed [see Corp. Code § 6210]), and may include only those provisions that would have been permitted, in original articles filed by the type of corporation into which the public benefit corporation is changing its status [see Corp. Code § 5813.5(c)]. If the corporation changes to a business or cooperative corporation and the corporation was exempt from tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701], the corporation will become subject to tax on the filing of the certificate of amendment [Corp. Code § 5813.5(d); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23221].

[f] Amendment of Articles to Change Status of Mutual Benefit Corporation

A mutual benefit corporation may amend its articles to change its status to a public benefit, religious, business, or cooperative corporation [Corp. Code § 7813.5(a)]. When the corporation has members or directors, an amendment to change status to a public benefit or religious corporation must be approved in one of the following ways [Corp. Code § 7813.5(b)]:

- By the members, and the fairness of the amendment to the members must be approved by the Commissioner of Corporations [see Corp. Code §§ 5034, 25142];

- By the members, in an election conducted by written ballot in which no negative votes are cast [see Corp. Code § 7513]; or

- By 100 percent of the voting power.

The amended articles must include the provisions that would have been required (other than the name of the initial agent for service of process if a biennial statement has been filed [see Corp. Code § 8210]), and may include only those provisions that would have been permitted, in original articles filed by the type of corporation into which the public benefit corporation is changing its status [see Corp. Code § 7813.5(c)].

If the corporation changes to a public benefit corporation, the corporation must furnish an additional copy of the certificate for forwarding to the Attorney General [Corp. Code § 7813.5(d)]. If the corporation changes to a business or cooperative corporation and the corporation was exempt from tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701], the corporation will become subject to tax on the filing of the certificate of amendment [Corp. Code § 7813.5(e); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23221].

[g] Amendment of Articles to Change Status of Religious Corporation

A religious corporation may amend its articles to change its status to that of a public benefit corporation, mutual benefit corporation, business corporation, or cooperative corporation, by complying with the provisions concerning amendment of articles [Corp. Code § 9621(a); see Corp. Code §§ 5810-5820]. The amended articles must include the provisions that would have been required (other than the name of the initial agent for service of process, if a biennial statement has been filed pursuant to Corp. Code §§ 6210 and 9660) and, in addition, may only include those provisions that would have been permitted in the original articles filed by the type of corporation (public benefit, mutual benefit, business, or cooperative) to which the religious corporation is changing its status [Corp. Code § 9621(b)].

[h] Approval by Board Alone

If a corporation has no members, amendments may be adopted by the board of directors. However, if the articles require approval by any person for an amendment, that amendment may not be adopted without the required approval [Corp. Code §§ 5812(b)(3), 7812(b)(3), 9620(a)]. Further, the following amendments may be adopted by the approval of the board alone, even if the corporation has members [Corp. Code §§ 5812(b), 7812(b), 9620(a)]:

- An amendment extending the corporate existence or making the corporate existence perpetual, if the corporation was organized before August 14, 1929.

- An amendment deleting the names and addresses of the first directors or the name and address of the initial agent.

- An amendment adopted pursuant to Corp. Code § 9913 (electing to be governed by new law not otherwise applicable).

[i] Approval by Board and Members

Except as otherwise required in Corp. Code §§ 5813.5 and 7813, and matters that may be approved by the board alone [see [h], above], amendments may be adopted if approved by the board and approved by the members [Corp. Code §§ 5812(a), 7812(a), 9620(a)]. Approval by the members generally means the approval or ratification by the affirmative vote of a majority of the votes represented and voting at a meeting at which a quorum is present (which affirmative vote also constitutes a majority of the required quorum); or similar action by written ballot [see Corp. Code §§ 5513, 7513, 9413]; or by the affirmative vote or written ballot of a specified supermajority [Corp. Code § 5034]. The amendments must also be approved by any other person or persons whose approval is required by the articles. The approval by the members or other person or persons may be before or after the approval by the board [Corp. Code §§ 5812(a), 7812(a), 9620(a)].

[j] Class Vote or Vote of Greater Proportion

Whenever the articles or bylaws require for corporate action the approval of a particular class of members or of a larger proportion of, or of all of, the votes of any class, or of a larger proportion of, or of all of, the directors, than is otherwise required by the law, the provision in the articles requiring that greater vote must not be altered, amended, or repealed except by that class or that greater vote, unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws [Corp. Code §§ 5812(c), 7812(c), 9620(a)].

[k] Amendments Affecting Voting or Merger Rights of Class

A proposed amendment to the articles of a public benefit or religious corporation must be approved by the members [see Corp. Code § 5034] of a class, whether or not the articles or bylaws entitle that class to vote on the amendment, if the amendment would materially and adversely affect the rights of that class as to voting or transfer in a manner different than the action affects another class [Corp. Code §§ 5813, 9620(a)].

A proposed amendment to the articles of a mutual benefit corporation must be approved by the members of a class, whether or not the articles or bylaws entitle that class to vote on the amendment, if the amendment would do any of the following [Corp. Code § 7813]:

- Materially and adversely affect the rights, privileges, preferences, restrictions, or conditions of that class as to voting, dissolution, redemption, or transfer in a manner different than the amendment affects another class.

- Materially and adversely affect that class as to voting, dissolution, redemption, or transfer by changing the rights, privileges, preferences, restrictions, or conditions of another class.

- Increase or decrease the number of memberships authorized for that class.

- Increase the number of memberships authorized for another class.

- Effect an exchange, reclassification, or cancellation of all or part of the memberships of that class.

- Authorize a new class of memberships.

Under some circumstances, it may be proper to file with the Secretary of State a certificate of correction rather than a certificate of amendment. For example, a certificate of correction can be filed with the Secretary of State to correct any misstatement of facts contained in the articles, any defects in the execution of the articles, or any other errors contained in the articles [see Corp. Code § 5007]. For a form and a discussion of a certificate of correction of the articles of a nonprofit corporation, see § 13.243.

Alternatively, directors seeking to amend a corporation's articles of incorporation [see Corp. Code §§ 5811, 5815, 7811, 7815, 9620(a)] may restate in a single certificate the entire text of the articles (as amended) by filing a certificate entitled "Restated Articles of Incorporation of _____ [name of corporation]." For further discussion, see § 13.262.

[m] Execution, Filing, and Fees

The certificate of amendment, which consists of an officer's certificate, must be signed and verified by two specified officers of the corporation: the president, chair of the board [see Corp. Code § 5039.5 ("chair" includes "chairperson," "chairman," and "chairwoman") or vice-president and the secretary, assistant secretary, chief financial officer, treasurer, or assistant treasurer [see Corp. Code §§ 5062, 5814(a)]. For purposes of this requirement, "verified" means that the statements contained in the certificate are declared to be true of the own knowledge of the officers executing the certificate in either of the following [Corp. Code § 5076]:

- An affidavit signed by the officers under oath before an officer authorized by the laws of the State of California or of the place where it is executed to administer oaths; or

- A written declaration executed by the officers under penalty of perjury and stating the date and place of execution.

The officers should file the original certificate and at least two copies of the certificate, and file a certified copy in the corporate records book. Amendment documents may only be filed in the Sacramento office, either by mail or hand delivery [see Secretary of State website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_amdtnpinfo.htm]. If the corporation is a public benefit corporation, an additional copy must be filed for transmittal to Attorney General [Corp. Code § 5817].

The certificate of amendment must be accompanied by the applicable filing fee [see Gov. Code § 12186(p)]. The Secretary of State will compare and certify up to two copies of the amendment at no charge provided that the copies are submitted with the original to be filed [Gov. Code § 12185]. If additional certified copies are required, an additional minimal fee is charged, provided that the copies are furnished to the Secretary of State and the fee is prepaid [Gov. Code §§ 12182, 12183]. A separate and nonrefundable handling fee is charged for expedited processing of documents delivered in person, over the counter, to the Sacramento headquarters office.

DIVISION I: BUSINESS AND NONPROFIT ORGANIZATIONS
CHAPTER 13 NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS
PART IV. FORMS
C. Amendment of Articles of Incorporation

6-13 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13.262

§ 13.262 Restated Articles of Incorporation

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a certificate restating the articles of incorporation. A corporation may restate in a single certificate the entire text of its articles as amended by filing a certificate entitled "Restated Articles of Incorporation" [see Corp. Code §§ 5819(a), 7819(a), 9620(a)]. It is modeled after the sample form provided by the Secretary of State. Samples are also available on official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, which is located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. However, the latter samples are illustrative only and cannot be filled in and submitted in the form reproduced on the website.

When existing or proposed amendments are numerous, restating the articles in their entirety may be the simplest method of correcting errors and making changes to the articles. Further, a certificate of restated articles need not itself effect a change in the articles.

Restated articles of incorporation supersede for all purposes the original articles and all previously filed amendments [Corp. Code §§ 5819(c), 7819(c), 9620(a)]. For a more detailed discussion of restated articles of incorporation, see Ch. 10, Amendment of Articles .

The certificate must set forth the articles as amended to the date of filing the certificate, except that the signatures and acknowledgments of the articles by the incorporators, any statements regarding the effect of any prior amendment on memberships, any provisions of agreements of merger (other than amendments to the articles of the surviving corporation), and the names and addresses of the first directors and the initial agent for service of process may be omitted [Corp. Code §§ 5819(a), 7819(a), 9620(a)]. These omissions are not alterations or amendments of the articles. However, if the corporation has not filed a biennial statement [see § 13.248], the names and addresses of the initial agent for service of process and, if previously set forth in the articles, the initial directors may not be omitted. The certificate may also itself alter or amend the articles in any respect, provided that the certificate complies with the general requirements applicable to an officer's certificate [Corp. Code §§ 5819(a), 7819(a), 9620(a); see Corp. Code §§ 5814-5816, 7814-7816, 9620(a)].

[c] Use of Alternative Forms

Under some circumstances, it may be proper to file a certificate of correction with the Secretary of State. A certificate of correction can be filed with the Secretary of State to correct any misstatement of facts contained in the articles, any defects in the execution of the articles, or any other errors contained in the articles [see Corp. Code § 5007]. For a form and discussion of a certificate of correction of the articles of a nonprofit corporation, see § 13.243. Alternatively, the incorporators or the corporation may file a certificate of amendment to amend one or more provisions in the articles of incorporation [see §§ 13.260, 13.261]. When numerous amendments are being made, it may be simpler to file restated articles.

If the certificate does not itself alter or amend the articles of incorporation in any respect, and no memberships have been issued and no directors have been named or elected, the certificate must be approved by the board (or a majority of the incorporators if before the issuance of memberships and the naming of directors). The certificate is subject to the provisions of the Nonprofit Public Benefit, Mutual Benefit, or Religious Corporation Law relating to the amendment of articles not requiring approval of members [Corp. Code §§ 5819(b), 7819(b), 9620(a); see Corp. Code § 5034]. If the certificate does itself alter or amend the articles, it is subject to the specific provisions of these laws relating to the type of amendment or amendments made [Corp. Code §§ 5819(b), 7819(b), 9620(a)].

If the certificate is filed by the incorporators [see Corp. Code §§ 5811, 5815, 7811, 7815, 9620(a)], the certificate must be signed and verified by a majority of the incorporators [see § 13.260[1][g]]. If the certificate is filed by corporate officers, the certificate must be signed and verified by two specified officers of the corporation: the president, chair of the board [see Corp. Code § 5039.5 ("chair" includes "chairperson," "chairman," and "chairwoman"), or vice-president and the secretary, assistant secretary, chief financial officer, treasurer, or assistant treasurer [see Corp. Code § 5062; see also Secretary of State website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_amdtnpinfo.htm]. For purposes of this requirement, "verified" means that the statements contained in the certificate are declared to be true of the own knowledge of the officers executing the certificate in either of the following [Corp. Code § 5076]:

- An affidavit signed by the officers under oath before an officer authorized by the laws of the State of California or of the place where it is executed to administer oaths; or

- A written declaration executed by the officers under penalty of perjury and stating the date and place of execution.

The officers should file the original certificate and at least two copies of the certificate, and file a certified copy in the corporate records book. Amendment documents may only be filed in the Sacramento office, either by mail or hand delivery [see Secretary of State website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_amdtnpinfo.htm]. If the corporation is a public benefit corporation, an additional copy must be filed for transmittal to Attorney General [Corp. Code § 5817; see Secretary of State website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_amdtnpinfo.htm].

The certificate of amendment must be accompanied by the applicable filing fee [see Gov. Code § 12186(p)]. The Secretary of State will compare and certify up to two copies of the amendment at no charge provided that the copies are submitted with the original to be filed [Gov. Code § 12185]. If additional certified copies are required, an additional minimal fee is charged, provided that the copies are furnished to the Secretary of State and the fee is prepaid [Gov. Code §§ 12182, 12183]. A separate and nonrefundable handling fee is charged for expedited processing of documents delivered in person, over the counter, to the Sacramento headquarters office [see 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 21903; see also Secretary of State website at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/corp/corp_amdtnpinfo.htm].

CHAPTER 13A NONPROFIT UNINCORPORATED ASSOCIATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Formation of Association

6-13A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13A.10

§ 13A.10 Governing Law

Prior to 2006, unincorporated associations were subject to few statutory requirements as to formation and operations. However, in 2005 the legislature enacted detailed legislation relating to the governance of unincorporated associations. This legislation is designed to establish general rules regarding member voting, membership termination and suspension, amending governing documents, merger, and dissolution [see Corp. Code § 18300 et seq.]. Because unincorporated associations are defined to include nonprofit organizations [Corp. Code §§ 18020(a), 18035(a); see § 13A.11[1]], these statutes apply to nonprofit associations.

The Corporations Code also contains a few statutes expressly applicable to nonprofit associations [see Corp. Code § 18605 et seq.]. These statutes deal primarily with liability issues [see Corp. Code §§ 18605-18630] and the registration and use of names and insignia [see Corp. Code §§ 21300 et seq.].

Under Corp. Code § 18060, if a statute specific to a particular type of unincorporated association is inconsistent with a general provision of Title 3 on unincorporated associations, the specific statute prevails to the extent of the inconsistency. For example, the statutes providing specific rules for amendment of the governing documents of a homeowners' association [see Civ. Code §§ 1355, 1356] will prevail over the general rules in Corp. Code § 18340 applicable to the amendment of the governing documents of unincorporated associations [Unincorporated Association Governance, 34 Cal. L. Revision Com'n Reports 231, 236 (2004)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Formation of Association

6-13A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13A.11

§ 13A.11 Definitions

[1] Association

The word "association," as applied to organizations in everyday parlance, means an organization of persons having a common interest; a society [see Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary (8th ed.); see also Black's Law Dictionary]. The word has the same general meaning in law and has been applied to state institutions [see Food & Agric. Code § 3802 (district agricultural associations)] and instrumentalities [see Food & Agric. Code §§ 4602, 4701 (citrus fruit fair association)], to nonprofit corporations [see Food & Agric. Code §§ 4602 (citrus fruit fair association), 54002], to for-profit corporations [see Fin. Code § 5057 (savings and loan association)], and to unincorporated associations [see Corp. Code § 21300(a)]. For the purposes of the federal income tax, the word "association" means an organization that is taxed as a corporation, even if it is not incorporated as such [see Treas. Reg. §§ 301.7701-2(b)(2), 301.7701-3]. The Internal Revenue Code defines the word "corporation" to include an association [I.R.C. § 7701(a)(3)]. Use of the word "association" in an organization's name, without more, will not disclose the incorporated or unincorporated status of the organization.

As used in this chapter, the term "association" is used to refer to unincorporated associations, unless the context requires otherwise.

[2] Nonprofit Association

A "nonprofit association" is defined as an unincorporated association with a primary common purpose other than to operate a business for profit [Corp. Code § 18020(a)]. An "unincorporated association" is an unincorporated group of two or more persons joined by mutual consent for a common lawful purpose, whether organized for profit or not [Corp. Code § 18035(a); see Barr v. United Methodist Church (1979) 90 Cal. App. 3d 259, 264-267, 153 Cal. Rptr. 322] . Typical examples of unincorporated associations include labor unions, social clubs, religious organizations, environmental societies, athletic organizations, condominium owners, lodges, and veterans' groups.

The term "association" includes, for the purpose of registering insignia, any lodge, order, beneficial association, fraternal or beneficial society or association, any historical, military, or veterans' organization, labor union, foundation or federation, or any other society, organization, or association, or any degree, branch, subordinate lodge, or auxiliary [Corp. Code § 21300]. Illustrations of other nonprofit purposes can be found by examining the various statutes relating to tax exemptions [see, e.g., I.R.C. § 501; Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 202-227, 23701a-23701x; see Ch. 13B, Tax-Exempt Status for Nonprofit Entities] and from statutes relating to nonprofit corporations [see Corp. Code § 5000 et seq.; see also Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations].

[3] Labor Organization

A "labor organization" is defined to mean any organization of any kind, or any agency or employee representation committee or plan, in which employees participate and that exists for the purpose, in whole or in part, of dealing with employers concerning grievances, labor disputes, wages, compensation rates, hours of employment, or work conditions [Corp. Code § 18055(e)].

§ 13A.12 Legal Status of Nonprofit Associations

[1] No Separate Status Apart From Members

A nonprofit association has no legal existence apart from its members. In legal effect, each member becomes both a principal and an agent as to all other members for the actions of the group itself [Marshall v. International Longshoremen's & Warehousemen's Union (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 781, 783-784, 22 Cal. Rptr. 211, 371 P.2d 987 (each member is both principal and agent as to all other members for actions of association)].

[2] Associations Possess Attributes of Legal Entity

Although California associations and nonprofit associations are not accorded the same separate legal status as a corporation, associations nevertheless possess some attributes of a legal entity [see White v. Cox (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 824, 828, 95 Cal. Rptr. 259 (general recognition of separate legal status)]. For example, associations possess the following attributes:

- An association may sue and be sued in its own name [Code Civ. Proc. § 369.5(a); see Clean Air Transp. Sys. v. San Mateo County Transit Dist. (1988) 198 Cal. App. 3d 576, 578-579 . 243 Cal. Rptr. 799 , cert. denied, 488 U.S. 862] .

- Only the association's property may be levied on under a writ of execution issued to enforce a money judgment [Corp. Code § 18260; see Corp. Code § 18135(a) (execution against distributed assets)].

- An association may register its trademark, trade name, and insignia with the Secretary of State [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 14003, 14004, 14200 et seq.; Lab. Code § 1014 (trademarks and trade names); Corp. Code § 21300 et seq.; Bus. & Prof. Code § 14492, 14492.5 (names and insignia); see Gov. Code §§ 12191(b)(2) (insignia), 12193(a) (trademark), (f) (organizational name); see also §§ 13A.14, 13A.15].

- An association may be the object of unfair competition [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 et seq.; see also Most Worshipful Hiram of Tyre Grand Lodge v. The Most Worshipful Sons of Light Grand Lodge

- An association may be taxed as a corporation [see I.R.C. § 7701(a)(3); Treas. Reg. §§ 301.7701-1(b)(2), 301.7701-3; Rev. & Tax. Code § 23038; see § 13A.38; see also Ch. 13B, Tax-Exempt Status for Nonprofit Entities].

- The members of an association are not individually or personally liable for its contractual debts or liabilities relating to real property [Corp. Code §§ 18605, 18610, 18630; see § 13A.35].

- Associations are expressly authorized to purchase, hold, lease, encumber, and sell property in their own names [Corp. Code § 18105].

- Associations may receive transfers of property for their own use or in trust [Corp. Code §§ 18105 (medical associations); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 15442 (property received by charitable associations)].

- Associations may receive property by testamentary disposition for their own use or in trust [Corp. Code § 18105; Prob. Code § 27; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 13842 (bequests and devises to charitable associations)].

- Associations may enter into any of the commercial transactions governed by the Commercial Code [see Com. Code § 1201(b)(25)-(27) ("organization" is person other than individual, "person" includes association, and "party" includes "person")

- Unincorporated labor unions may enter into collective bargaining agreements [see Labor Code § 1126].

- Certain associations may be the object of, and may sue for, defamation [see Daniels v. Sanitarium Ass'n, Inc. (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 602, 604-609, 30 Cal. Rptr. 828, 381 P.2d 652 (labor union); Washburn v. Wright (1968) 261 Cal. App. 2d 789, 68 Cal. Rptr. 224 (nonprofit trust formed under law of sister state, but defamation not established); see also Marshall v. International Longshoremen's & Warehousemen's Union (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 781, 784-787, 22 Cal. Rptr. 515] .

- The interest of a member of an unincorporated association, like that of a shareholder in a corporation, is personal property [Corp. Code § 18100].

- Under specified circumstances, an association may be taxed as a corporation [see I.R.C. § 7701(a)(3); Treas. Reg. §§ 301.7701-1, 301.7701-2; Rev. & Tax. Code § 23038].

DIVISION I: BUSINESS AND NONPROFIT ORGANIZATIONS
CHAPTER 13A NONPROFIT UNINCORPORATED ASSOCIATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Formation of Association

6-13A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13A.13

§ 13A.13 Formation of Association

[1] Governing Documents

The formalities of quasi-corporate organization are not required for nonprofit unincorporated associations [Law v. Crist (1940) 41 Cal. App. 2d 862, 865, 107 P.2d 953] . Nonprofit associations typically exist by virtue of an agreement among the members that is generally embodied in a constitution or articles of association and bylaws. However, although clearly advisable, nonprofit associations are not required to execute these documents [see People v. Cohen (1925) 71 Cal. App. 367, 372, 235 P. 658 (no presumption that unincorporated association has written articles of association, partnership, or otherwise); see also Orser v. George (1967) 252 Cal. App. 2d 660, 670, 60 Cal. Rptr. 708 (loosely organized duck club treated as association despite lack of written agreement, constitution, bylaws, or officers, and only one meeting)]. Organizational documents may be simple or complex, depending on the size and nature of the association. Associations vary in size from loosely organized local bridge clubs or bird-watchers' associations to very large associations, such as labor unions, vying in size and power with corporations.

Nonprofit associations may adopt governing documents, defined to include a constitution, articles of association, bylaws, or other writing that governs the purpose or operation of an unincorporated association or the rights or obligations of its members [Corp. Code § 18008]. The governing principles of a nonprofit association are those principles stated in the unincorporated association's governing documents. If an association has no governing documents, or the governing documents do not contain a provision governing an issue, the association's governing principles regarding that issue may be inferred from its established practices. The term "established practices" means the practices used by an unincorporated association without material change or exception during the most recent five years of its existence, or if it has existed for less than five years, during its entire existence [Corp. Code § 18010].

The Corporations Code provides mandatory and default statutes covering the governance of nonprofit associations [Corp. Code § 18300 et seq.]. These statutes should be consulted when drafting the governing document. For example, Corp. Code § 18310, which addresses the termination and suspension of membership, only applies when the unincorporated association's governing documents are silent [see § 13A.33[3][a], [e]]. Other statutes, however, provide mandatory rules, either to guarantee minimal fairness [see Corp. Code § 18320 (expulsion of members); see also § 13A.33[3][c], [e]] or to standardize relations with other organizations [see Corp. Code § 18360 et seq. (merger); see also § 13A.39[2]].

The governing documents will vary in content depending on the purposes of the association, its powers, and its property. The governing documents should spell out these matters. The governing documents should identify those persons (usually the governing board, if any, directors, and officers) who are authorized to act on behalf of the association. In the case of large associations, these documents should address the qualifications, admission, election, or appointment, withdrawal, suspension, and expulsion of members, their liabilities to dues and assessments, any different classes of membership, and the property, voting, and other rights, interests, or privileges, of the members or classes of members, the manner of transfer, forfeiture, and termination of membership, as well as other matters concerning the internal affairs of the association, and the manner of amending the governing documents.

[2] Contractual Effect of Governing Documents

The articles of association or constitution, the bylaws, and any rules adopted pursuant to these documents constitute a contract between the nonprofit unincorporated association and its members [California Dental Assn. v. American Dental Assn. (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 346, 353, 152 Cal. Rptr. 546, 590 P.2d 401 ; see Weber v. Marine Cooks' & Stewards' Ass'n (1949) 93 Cal. App. 2d 327, 334-335, 208 P.2d 1009 ; Lawson v. Hewell (1897) 118 Cal. 613, 618-619, 50 P. 763 ; Berke v. Tri Realtors (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 463, 469, 257 Cal. Rptr. 738); but see Gonzales v. International Ass'n of Machinists (1956) 142 Cal. App. 2d 207, 211, 298 P.2d 92 , aff'd, 356 U.S. 617, 78 S. Ct. 923, 2 L. Ed. 2d 1018] . This contract determines the rights and duties of the members, as between the association and the members and between the members. However, these documents do not bind the association in its relations to others [see Most Worshipful Sons v. Sons (1958) 160 Cal. App. 2d 560, 325 P.2d 606 ; Most Worshipful Hiram of Tyre Grand Lodge v. The Most Worshipful Sons of Light Grand Lodge (1949) 94 Cal. App. 2d 25, 30, 210 P.2d 34 .]

[3] Judicial Reluctance to Exercise Jurisdiction

Courts traditionally are reluctant to intervene and exercise jurisdiction over disputes in which a member's rights and obligations under the charter documents in relation to the association are at issue [California Dental Assn. v. American Dental Assn. (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 346, 353, 152 Cal. Rptr. 546, 590 P.2d 401] . This hesitancy reflects the view that the resulting judicial burdens outweigh the interests of aggrieved parties and that courts should not unduly interfere with an association's autonomy by substituting judicial judgment for that of the association, particularly when the court's competence is not equal to that of the association [California Dental Assn. v. American Dental Assn. (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 346, 353-354, 152 Cal. Rptr. 546, 590 P.2d 401 ; Berke v. Tri Realtors (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 463, 466-468, 257 Cal. Rptr. 738)].

Courts will overcome their reluctance when the aggrieved party can demonstrate an abuse of discretion and a clear, unreasonable, and arbitrary invasion of that party's private rights [California Dental Assn. v. American Dental Assn. (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 346, 354, 152 Cal. Rptr. 546, 590 P.2d 401 ; Berke v. Tri Realtors (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 463, 466-468, 257 Cal. Rptr. 738); see Mandracio v. Bartenders Union, Local 41 (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 81, 85, 256 P.2d 927 (court not bound by unreasonable construction of unambiguous article)]. When the challenged action clearly contravenes the charter documents, courts will balance the interest in protecting the party's rights against infringing on the association's autonomy against the judicial burden of interference in settling the dispute [Berke v. Tri Realtors (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 463, 467-470, 257 Cal. Rptr. 738); California Trial Lawyers Assn. v. Superior Court (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 575, 580, 231 Cal. Rptr. 725 ; see California Dental Assn. v. American Dental Assn. (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 346, 350, 152 Cal. Rptr. 546, 590 P.2d 401] Thus, when the issue presented is whether the parent association's decision overruling the local chapter's decision to expel a member plainly violated the parent's own bylaws and the judicial burden and the national association's interest did not outweigh that of the local, the court could properly exercise jurisdiction [California Dental Assn. v. American Dental Assn. (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 346, 354-355, 152 Cal. Rptr. 546, 590 P.2d 401]

[1] Registration

In addition to the registration of trademarks and trade names [see § 13A.13], any association, the principles and activities of which are not repugnant to the Constitution or laws of the United States or California, may register with the Secretary of State a facsimile or description of its name or insignia, and may by reregistration alter or cancel it [*Corp. However, an association may not register any name or insignia similar to or so nearly resembling another name already registered as may be likely to deceive [Corp. Code § 21302; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 14492(b)].

The application for registration, alteration, or cancellation is made by the chief officer or officers of the association on a form provided by the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 21303; see § 13A.202]. The application for registration must be accompanied by the applicable fee [Corp. Code § 21304; see Gov. Code § 12191(b)(2) (fee)].

On registration, the Secretary of State will issue a certificate setting forth the fact of registration [Corp. Code § 21305]. The Secretary must keep a properly indexed record of the registration, which must show any altered or canceled registration [Corp. Code § 21306]. The registration is for the use and benefit and on behalf of the association, the individual members, and those who become members [Corp. Code § 21303].

[2] Penalties for Improper Use

The unauthorized and willful wearing, exhibiting, or using of a registered name or insignia is a misdemeanor punishable by fine or imprisonment [Corp. Code § 21307]. The unauthorized use may be enjoined by any court of competent jurisdiction [Corp. Code § 21308; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 14493]. In any action seeking an injunction, it is not necessary to allege or prove actual damages, actual injury, or the threat of actual damages or injury. However, a plaintiff may recover the amount of any actual damages sustained by the plaintiff in addition to injunctive relief [Corp. Code § 21309; see Corp. Code § 21310 (evidence); see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 14494].

§ 13A.30 Powers of Association Regarding Property

Associations are expressly authorized to purchase, hold, lease, encumber, and sell property in their own names [Corp. Code §§ 18115, 21200]. The association owns its property and its governing board may make use or dispose of the property as authorized in its constitution and bylaws. This authority follows from the rule that the interest of a member of an unincorporated association is personal property [Corp. Code § 18100] and that members have no interest in the property held by the association.

An unincorporated association that is an organized medical society limiting its membership to licensed physicians and surgeons and having as members at least 25 percent of the eligible physicians and surgeons residing in the area in which it functions (which must be at least one county) may also, without incorporation, purchase, receive, own, hold, lease, mortgage, pledge, encumber by deed of trust or otherwise, manage, and sell all the real estate and other property that may be convenient for the purposes and objectives of the association. However, if the association has less than 100 members, it must have as members at least a majority of the eligible physicians and surgeons in the geographic area served by the association [Corp. Code § 21200].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Operations

6-13A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13A.31

§ 13A.31 Recordkeeping and Reporting Requirements

[1] Maintaining Copies of Organizational Documents

Nonprofit associations need to maintain a copy of their organizational documents, such as the articles of organization or constitution and bylaws, available for inspection at reasonable times. Nonprofit associations need to maintain membership lists and minutes of meetings of the board and members.

When actions are taken based on the written consent of the board or the members, those consents must be filed with the minutes or the association's records book. Similarly, all waivers must be filed.

[2] Optional Filing of Statement Designating Principal Office and Agent for Service of Process

[a] Contents of Statement

An unincorporated nonprofit association may file with the Secretary of State a statement containing either of the following [Corp. Code § 18200(a), (b)]:

- A statement designating the location and complete address of the association's principal office in California.

- A statement (1) designating the location and complete address of the association's principal office in California or, if the association does not have an office in California, designating the complete address of the association to which the Secretary of State will send any notices required to be sent to the association [see Corp. Code §§ 18210 (resignation of agent), 18215 (expiration of statement)], and (2) designating as agent of the association for service of process any natural person residing in California or any corporation that has complied with Corp. Code § 1505 and whose capacity to act as an agent has not terminated. If a natural person is designated as agent for service of process, the statement must include the person's complete business or residence address; if a corporate agent is designated, no address may be stated [Corp. Code § 18200(b)].

[b] Effect of Filing Statement

The presentation for filing of this statement, and one copy, together with the applicable filing fee [see Gov. Code § 12191(b)(1)], and acceptance of the statement by the office of the Secretary of State constitutes filing. The Secretary of State will note on the copy of the statement the file number and the date of filing of the original and deliver or send the copy to the unincorporated association filing the statement [Corp. Code § 18200(c), 18205(b)].

Secretary of State Form 100 is used for filing this statement. For an illustration of this form, see § 13A.203.

Delivery by hand of a copy of any process against the association to the designated agent constitutes valid service on the association [Corp. Code § 24200(e)].

[c] Amending Statement

An unincorporated association that has filed this statement may file a new statement at any time that supersedes the last previously filed statement. If the new statement does not designate an agent for service of process, the filing of the new statement will be deemed to revoke the designation of any previously designated agent [Corp. Code § 18200(d)].

[d] Expiration of Statement

The statement expires five years from December 31 following the date that it was filed in the office of the Secretary of State, unless previously superseded by the filing of a new statement [Corp. Code § 18200(d)]. Between the first day of October and the first day of December immediately preceding the expiration date of the statement, the Secretary of State will send by first class mail a notice to the unincorporated association at the address stated in the filed statement. The notice will indicate the date on which the statement will expire and the file number assigned to the statement. Neither the failure of the Secretary of State to mail this notice, nor the failure of the notice to reach the unincorporated association, extends the effectiveness of the statement after the date of its expiration. Neither California nor any of its officers or employees will be held liable for damages for failure to mail this notice [Corp. Code § 18215].

[e] Resignation or Revocation of Designated Agent

An agent designated by an unincorporated nonprofit association for the service of process may file with the Secretary of State a written statement of resignation. The statement must be signed and its execution duly acknowledged by the agent. After filing the statement, the authority of the agent to act as agent for the association ceases. The Secretary of State will give written notice of the filing by mail to the association at the address set forth in the statement filed by the association [Corp. Code § 18210(a)].

An unincorporated nonprofit association may at any time file with the Secretary of State a revocation of a designation of an agent for service of process. The revocation is effective on filing [Corp. Code § 18210(b)].

Notwithstanding any preceding resignation or revocation, service made on an agent designated by an association for service of process in the prescribed manner [see [a], above] is effective if made within 30 days after the statement of resignation or the revocation is filed in the office of the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 18210(c)].

[f] Certificate of Registration

On the request of any person and payment of the applicable filing fee [see Corp. Code § 18205(c); Gov. Code § 12183], the Secretary of State will issue a certificate showing whether any presently effective statement designating the principal office or agent for service of process is on file for a nonprofit association using the specific name designated by the person making the request. If a presently effective statement is on file, the certificate will include the name of the association, the file number, the address of the association designated in the statement, and the name of any corporation designated as agent or the named and address of any individual designated as agent [Corp. Code § 18205(c)].

6-13A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13A.32

§ 13A.32 Execution Requirements

[1] Real Property Conveyances

The acquisition, transfer, or encumbrance of an interest in real property by an unincorporated association must be executed by the president and the secretary, or other comparable officers, or by a person specifically designated by a resolution adopted by the association, committee, or other person authorized to act by the association's governing principles [Corp. Code § 18115; see Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording (unincorporated association deed)].

[2] Recordation

An unincorporated association may record a verified and acknowledged statement of authority in any county in which it has an interest in real property, stating the association's name and the name, title, or capacity of each officer (or other person) authorized to act on the association's behalf to acquire, transfer, or encumber real property [Corp. Code § 18120(a); see Corp. Code § 18120(b) (revocation)]. This statement, duly recorded, creates a conclusive presumption in favor of a bona fide transferor, purchaser, or encumbrancer for value that the persons designated in the statement are authorized to execute conveyances on the association's behalf [Corp. Code § 18120(c)]. However, this presumption does not apply if, before the transfer, aqcuisition, or encumbrance, either of the following occurred [Corp. Code § 18120(d)]:

- The unincorporated association revoked the statement of authority [see Corp. Code § 18120(b)].

- A person claiming to be a member, director, or officer recorded a verified and acknowledged document, in the proper county, stating that the statement of authority is erroneous or unauthorized [Corp. Code § 18120(d)(2); see Ch. 27, Deeds and Recording (unincorporated association deed)].

6-13A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13A.33

§ 13A.33 Rights and Duties of Members

[1] Admission

Membership in a voluntary nonprofit unincorporated association is a privilege rather than an enforceable right. In general, admission may be granted or denied at the association's pleasure. Courts will not interfere to compel admission regardless of the arbitrariness or injustice of the rejection [Kronen v. Pacific Coast Soc'y of Orthodontists (1965) 237 Cal. App. 2d 289, 300-302, 46 Cal. Rptr. 808 , cert. denied, 384 U.S. 905 (1965)] . For example, an associate member does not acquire a contractual right to active membership based simply on associate membership status. Under a bylaw provision requiring five years of associate membership to qualify for active membership and activation within one year of being eligible for active status, the associate membership terminated automatically when the member failed to apply for active membership [Kronen v. Pacific Coast Soc'y of Orthodontists (1965) 237 Cal. App. 2d 289, 302, 46 Cal. Rptr. 808 , cert. denied, 384 U.S. 905 (distinguishing between exclusion and expulsion)].

However, this general rule does not apply to labor unions and professional societies, as distinguished from clubs and fraternal associations, if membership is essential to the right to earn a living [Kronen v. Pacific Coast Soc'y of Orthodontists (1965) 237 Cal. App. 2d 289, 300-302, 46 Cal. Rptr. 808 , cert. denied, 384 U.S. 905 (professional association of orthodontists); James v. Marinship Corp. (1944) 25 Cal. 2d 721, 731, 155 P.2d 329 (labor union)]. Further the rule does not apply if association membership, while not strictly economically essential, is a practical necessity for anyone desiring to make a good living or reach maximum potential in a given field [Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Soc'y of Orthodontists (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 160, 164-166, 81 Cal. Rptr. 623, 460 P.2d 495] . In these cases, an applicant for membership has the right to have the application considered in a manner that satisfies the fundamental requirements of due process [Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Soc'y of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 549-555, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253] . Thus, a court may review and inquire into the facts and circumstances pertinent to the alleged exclusion of the plaintiff from the defendant organization to determine whether the power of the association was exercised arbitrarily or unlawfully in order to prevent the plaintiff from successfully practicing his or her profession [Kronen v. Pacific Coast Soc'y of Orthodontists (1965) 237 Cal. App. 2d 289, 305, 46 Cal. Rptr. 808 , cert. denied, 384 U.S. 905] . To establish a right to judicial intervention with respect to the denial of a membership application, the applicant need show only that exclusion from membership deprives him or her of substantial economic advantages [ Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Soc'y of Orthodontists (1969) 1 Cal. 3d 160, 164-166, 81 Cal. Rptr. 623, 460 P.2d 495 ("economic necessity" not required]. However, courts will not intervene to compel admission merely because membership may enhance or affect the applicant's professional or economic interests [see Blatt v. University of S. California (1970) 5 Cal. App. 3d 935, 941-942, 85 Cal. Rptr. 601 (refusal to compel admission to order of coif)].

[2] Rights and Obligations

[a] Judicial Policy to Abstain From Oversight

The California Supreme Court has established a general policy of abstention from interfering in disputes between members of an association respecting their rights and obligations as members and in disputes between one member and officials or a governing unit of the association [California Dental Assn. v. American Dental Assn. (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 346, 353-354, 152 Cal. Rptr. 546, 590 P.2d 401] While there can be cases in which a court may appropriately afford relief on a member's complaint, such cases must present exceptional circumstances, such as acts clearly contrary to the association's bylaws [California Dental Assn. v. American Dental Assn. (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 346, 354-355, 152 Cal. Rptr. 546, 590 P.2d 401 ; see § 13A.13[3]], or divestiture of membership rights without due process [Pinsker v. Pac. Coast Soc'y of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 549-555, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253 ; see [1], above, [b], below], or expulsion that is arbitrary [Ezekial v. Winkley (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 267, 273, 142 Cal. Rptr. 418, 572 P.2d 32 ; see [3][c], below].

The policy of abstention is to be applied broadly [see California Dental Assn. v. American Dental Assn. (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 346, 353, 152 Cal. Rptr. 546, 590 P.2d 401 (acknowledging that court's determination of whether association member's complaint is judicially cognizable must be based on "general common law principles that govern disputes within private organizations"); Oakland Raiders v. National Football League (2005) 131 Cal. App. 4th 621, 645, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 266 (courts may abstain from resolving dispute even if it does not involve issue of compliance with association's bylaws)].

A membership interest in voluntary nonprofit unincorporated associations is personal property. Once established, membership constitutes a personal right based on a contract that can only be divested by the association in the manner provided by the contract [Corp. Code § 18100; Berkeley Teachers Asso. v. Board of Education (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 660, 669, 62 Cal. Rptr. 515 ; see Ezekial v. Winkley (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 267, 273, 142 Cal. Rptr. 418, 572 P.2d 32] . Although courts are reluctant to interfere with the internal operations of unincorporated associations, courts will determine whether the divestiture satisfies the fundamental requirements of due process [see Pinsker v. Pacific Coast Soc'y of Orthodontists (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 541, 549-555, 116 Cal. Rptr. 245, 526 P.2d 253] .

[c] Property of Association

The members of a nonprofit unincorporated association have no individual interest in property owned by the association [DeMille v. American Fed'n of Radio Artists (1947) 31 Cal. 2d 139, 146, 187 P.2d 769] Property ownership rights are vested in the association's members as a whole, subject to the right of the association to dispose of the property in an authorized manner [see Grand Grove of United Ancient Order of Druids v. Garibaldi Grove No. 71 (1900) 130 Cal. 116, 119-121, 62 P. 486] .

[d] Voting Rights

The Corporations Code provides rules to govern member voting in nonprofit unincorporated associations, except as otherwise provided by statute, or by the association's governing principles. A vote may be conducted either at a member meeting at which a quorum is present, or by a written ballot in which the number of votes cast equals or exceeds the number required for a quorum. Approval of a matter voted on requires an affirmative majority of the votes cast [Corp.

Code § 18330(a)]. A quorum is defined as one-third the voting power of the association [Corp. Code § 18330(d)]. The voting power of the association is the total number of votes that can be cast by members on a particular issue at the time the member vote is held [Corp. Code § 18330(e)].

Written notice of the vote must be delivered to all members entitled to vote on the date of delivery. The notice must be delivered or mailed or sent electronically to the member addresses shown in the association's records as of a reasonable time before the vote is to be conducted. The notice may not be delivered electronically unless the recipient has consented to electronic delivery of the notice. The notice must state the matters to be decided and describe how and when the vote is to be conducted [Corp. Code § 18330(b)].

If the vote is to be conducted by written ballot, the notice of the vote will serve as the ballot. The ballot must set forth the proposed action, provide an opportunity to specify approval or disapproval of any proposal, and provide a reasonable time within which to return the ballot to the unincorporated association [Corp. Code § 18330(c)].

[3] Termination of Membership

[a] Termination by Operation of Law or According to Contract Terms

In general, memberships in nonprofit unincorporated associations terminate in accordance with the provisions of the charter or governing documents [see, e.g., Kronen v. Pacific Coast Soc'y of Orthodontists (1965) 237 Cal. App. 2d 289, 302, 46 Cal. Rptr. 808 , cert. denied, 384 U.S. 905] . Unless otherwise provided by a nonprofit unincorporated association's governing documents, membership is terminated by any of the following events [Corp. Code § 18310(a)]:

- Resignation of the member [see [b], below].
- Expiration of the fixed term of the membership, unless the membership is renewed before its expiration.
- Expulsion of the member [see [c], below].
- Death of the member.
- Termination of the legal existence of a member that is not a natural person.

[b] Withdrawal or Resignation

Memberships in nonprofit unincorporated associations may be terminated by the withdrawal or resignation of the members.

[c] Expulsion and Suspension

A distinction exists between situations involving the refusal to admit a person to membership [see [1], above] and those involving the expulsion of members. With regard to expulsion, the courts are inclined to grant at least a limited review and, if the expulsion is wrongful or arbitrary, to compel the reinstatement of the member [Smith v. Kern County Medical Ass'n (1942) 19 Cal. 2d 263, 265, 268-269, 120 P.2d 874 (courts will determine if association acted in good faith in accordance with charter documents and law); Kronen v. Pacific Coast Soc'y of Orthodontists (1965) 237 Cal. App. 2d 289, 301-302, 46 Cal. Rptr. 808 , cert. denied, 384 U.S. 905 (distinguishing between exclusion and expulsion)]. This rule follows from the fact that a membership in voluntary unincorporated associations is a personal right based on contract that cannot be arbitrarily withdrawn [see Ezekial v. Winkley (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 267, 273, 142 Cal. Rptr. 418, 572 P.2d 32] and can only be divested only in the manner provided by the contract [Berkeley Teachers Asso. v. Board of Education (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 660, 669, 62 Cal. Rptr. 515]. Individuals who associate themselves in a voluntary fraternal organization may prescribe the conditions on which membership may be acquired or on which it may continue, and may also prescribe rules of conduct for themselves during their membership, with penalties for their violation, and the tribunal and mode in which the offenses will be determined and the penalty enforced. These rules constitute their agreement, and unless they contravene some law of the land, are regarded in the same light as the terms of any other contract [Lawson v. Hewell (1897) 118 Cal. 613, 618-619, 50 P. 763 ; Gear v. Webster (1968) 258 Cal. App. 2d 57, 60, 65 Cal. Rptr. 255] .

In general, members may be expelled from the association provided that the expulsion proceedings are in accordance with the laws of the association and the member is given notice of the proceedings against him and an opportunity to be heard. The only function performed by courts is to determine whether the association has acted within its powers in good faith, in accordance with its laws and the law of the land. The law of the land (due process) and procedural fairness require that the member be afforded notice and an opportunity to be heard, whether or not the member takes advantage of this opportunity [Smith v. Kern County Medical Ass'n (1942) 19 Cal. 2d 263, 265, 268-269, 120 P.2d 874 ; see DeMille v. American Fed'n of Radio Artists (1947) 31 Cal. 2d 139, 187 P.2d 769 ; see also Youngblood v. Wilcox (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 1368, 1374-1375, 255 Cal. Rptr. 527] . In this respect, there is no fundamental distinction between a medical association, a labor union, or a fraternal or beneficial association. The member is entitled to adequate notice, an adequate opportunity to defend his or her interests, a properly constituted tribunal, and a decision based on the evidence presented [see Cunningham v. Burbank Bd. of Realtors (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 211, 214, 68 Cal. Rptr. 653 (members of nonprofit corporation, real estate board, improperly censured and fined as result of defective proceedings)].

A member may not be suspended or expelled without charges, notice, and a fair hearing before the expulsion even when the association's governing documents make no provision for these requirements. These requirements are deemed so fundamental that they are imposed on the association regardless of its charter documents [Youngblood v. Wilcox (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 1368, 1374-1375, 255 Cal. Rptr. 527] . The common law doctrine of fair procedure protects against arbitrary decisions by private organizations affecting the public interest; under the doctrine the decision-making process must be "substantively rational and procedurally fair" [see Youngblood v. Wilcox (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 1368, 1374-1375, 255 Cal. Rptr. 527 ; see also Potvin v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. (2000) 22 Cal. 4th 1060, 1067, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 496, 997 P.2d 1153] . Thus, for example, a country club could not expel lifetime members without notice and an opportunity to respond based on a bylaw provision that permitted the association to terminate memberships at will [Youngblood v. Wilcox (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 1368, 1374-1375, 255 Cal. Rptr. 527] . The common law right to fair procedure, however, has been held not to apply to the decision of whether a member of the Boy Scouts should be promoted to the rank of Eagle Scout [Kim v. Southern Sierra Council Boy Scouts of America (2004) 117 Cal. App. 4th 743, 746-748, 11 Cal. Rptr. 3d 911] .

When the membership in a nonprofit unincorporated association includes a property right, or if expulsion or suspension of a member would affect an important, substantial economic interest, the expulsion or suspension must be done in good faith and in a fair and reasonable manner [Corp. Code § 18320(a), (b)]. This rule does not apply to an unincorporated association that has a religious purpose [Corp. Code § 18320(a)]. A procedure for expulsion or suspension that satisfies the following requirements is fair and reasonable [Corp. Code § 18320(c)]:

- The procedure is included in the unincorporated association's governing documents.

- The member to be expelled or suspended is given notice [see Corp. Code § 18320(d)], including a statement of the reasons for the expulsion or suspension, delivered at least 15 days before the effective date of the expulsion or suspension.

- The member to be expelled or suspended is given an opportunity to be heard by the person or body deciding the matter, orally or in writing, not less than five days before the effective date of the expulsion or suspension.

The fact that a procedure satisfying these requirements is deemed fair and reasonable does not preclude a court from determining that another procedure is fair and reasonable under the circumstances [Corp. Code § 18320(b)]. In addition, an expulsion or suspension based on substantive grounds that violate a member's contractual or other rights or are otherwise unlawful is not made valid by compliance with a fair and reasonable procedure [Corp. Code § 18320(f)].

A member may challenge the expulsion or suspension [Corp. Code § 18320(e); see [d], below].

[d] Judicial Relief; Exhaustion of Remedies

A member may institute a proceeding to challenge expulsion or suspension [see [c], above], including a claim alleging defective notice, within one year after the effective date of the expulsion or suspension [Corp. Code § 18320(e)]. A court may order any relief, including reinstatement, determined to be equitable under the circumstances. However, a vote of the members or of the board may not be set aside solely because a person was wrongfully excluded from voting by virtue of the challenged expulsion or suspension, unless the court determines that the wrongful expulsion or suspension was in bad faith and for the purpose, and with the effect, of wrongfully excluding the member from the vote, or from the meeting at which the vote took place, so as to affect the outcome of the vote [Corp. Code § 18320(e)].

Judicial relief may also be afforded when the association's rules or prescribed procedures are contrary to natural justice, the association failed to follow its own procedures, or when the expulsion is motivated by malice [Youngblood v. Wilcox (1989) 207 Cal. App. 3d 1368, 1374-1375, 255 Cal. Rptr. 527 ; Curran v. Mt. Diablo Council of the Boy Scouts (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 712, 720, 195 Cal. Rptr. 325] . However, a plaintiff seeking judicial relief against an unincorporated association ordinarily must first invoke and exhaust the internal remedies provided by the governing documents applicable to the grievance. This rule is analogous to the rule requiring exhaustion of administrative remedies as a condition precedent to resorting to the courts and to the rule requiring the parties to a contract for arbitration of disputes to exhaust those remedies before seeking judicial relief [Holderby v. International Union of Operating Eng'r (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 843, 846, 291 P.2d 463 ; see Mooney v. Bartenders Union Local No. 284 (1957) 48 Cal. 2d 841, 843, 313 P.2d 857 ; American Soc'y of Composers, Authors & Publishers v. Superior Court (1962) 207 Cal. App. 2d 676 (exhaustion of internal remedies is jurisdictional prerequisite to resort to courts)]. An exhaustion of internal remedies provision generally binds the members, provided that the procedure affords the "accused" member substantial justice [Mooney v. Bartenders Union Local No. 284 (1957) 48 Cal. 2d 841].

The exhaustion of remedies requirement is excused if the association violates its own rules providing for review or if it is shown that it would be futile to invoke them [Mooney v. Bartenders Union Local No. 284 (1957) 48 Cal. 2d 841, 843-844, 313 P.2d 857 ; Holderby v. International Union of Operating Eng'r (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 843, 847, 291 P.2d 463 ; Weber v. Marine Cooks' & Stewards' Ass'n (1949) 93 Cal. App. 2d 327, 338, 208 P.2d 1009] . However, the violation of the association's own rules that inflicts the initial wrong furnishes no right for direct resort to the courts [Holderby v. International Union of Operating Eng'r (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 843, 847, 291 P.2d 463] . Moreover, an association waives the requirement that members must exhaust internal remedies if the association invokes the jurisdiction of the court by an action against the member, including by way of cross-complaint for settlement of the very issues for which the association invoked the court's jurisdiction [Hodcarriers, Bldg. & Common Laborers Local Union v. Miller (1966) 243 Cal. App. 2d 391, 394-395, 52 Cal. Rptr. 251] .

When the expulsion determination is the result of internal quasi-judicial proceedings, a member alleging damages from the expulsion must first have the decision overturned by mandamus action before filing suit on the claim [see Holder v. California Paralyzed Veterans Assn. (1980) 114 Cal. App. 3d 155, 165, 170 Cal. Rptr. 455.]

PRACTICE TIP:

Given their shared common law origins, courts may look to statutory interpretations governing the suspension or expulsion of members of nonprofit corporations [see Mooney v. Bartenders Union Local

No. 284 (1957) 48 Cal. 2d 841, 843, 313 P.2d 857] . For further discussion, see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations .

[e] Effect of Termination

The termination of membership in a nonprofit unincorporated association does not relieve the ex-member from an obligation incurred as a member before termination [Corp. Code § 18310(b)]. Further, termination does not affect the right of an unincorporated association to enforce an obligation against a person incurred as a member before termination, or to obtain damages for its breach [Corp. Code § 18310(c)].

§ 13A.34 Amending Governing Documents

If a nonprofit unincorporated association's governing principles do not provide a procedure to amend the association's governing documents, the governing documents may be amended by a vote of the members [Corp. Code § 18340]. In general, an amendment may not impair an existing contract right without the consent of the person affected [see Hogan v. Pacific Endowment League (1893) 99 Cal. 248, 250, 33 P. 924] . However, if the governing documents reserve the power to make future changes to membership benefits, the association may amend its governing documents so as to impair those benefits, provided that the change is substantively reasonable. Nonetheless, an association may not use its amendment authority to repudiate its fair and just obligations [see Power v. Sheriff's Relief Ass'n of Los Angeles County (1943) 57 Cal. App. 2d 350, 134 P.2d 827] .

When the governing documents provide a procedure for amendment, that procedure should be carefully followed, particularly when members' rights are affected by the amendment [Weber v. Marine Cooks' & Stewards' Ass'n (1949) 93 Cal. App. 2d 327, 337-338, 208 P.2d 1009] . An association does not have the fundamental right to adopt new governing documents without regard to the existing documents based solely on the ground that the existing documents do not provide for their repeal when existing provisions direct the method of amendment [Weber v. Marine Cooks' & Stewards' Ass'n (1949) 93 Cal. App. 2d 327, 334-335, 208 P.2d 1009] .

Unless the governing documents, as they existed when an individual became a member of the association, limit the authority of the association to amend them, any amendment adopted in accordance with the prescribed procedure is binding on the member [Lawson v. Hewell (1897) 118 Cal. 613, 621, 50 P. 763 ; Gear v. Webster (1968) 258 Cal. App. 2d 57, 60-62, 65 Cal. Rptr. 255] .

§ 13A.35 Insurance Considerations and Liability Issues

[1] Need for Insurance

Nonprofit associations ordinarily need some level of insurance to protect against business risks in the marketplace; nonprofit associations are not immune from these risks by their nonprofit status. The types and amounts of coverage needed will vary depending on the nature of the association's activities, size and nature of workforce, risk experience, and revenues. Most nonprofits need at least a commercial general liability policy, and insurance coverages for employees if the corporation will have employees. Further, nonprofits should consider securing a directors' and officers' liability policy. Finally, if warranted, nonprofits should consider obtaining professional liability insurance. Typically, claims related to the provision of professional services are excluded from the coverage of standard commercial general liability policies. These different types of insurance are discussed in Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations . For additional discussion, see Ch. 1F, Insurance Considerations in Business Formation , and California Insurance Law and Practice(Matthew Bender).

[2] Liability of Association

Except as otherwise provided by statute, an unincorporated association is liable to a person who is not a member of the association for an act or omission of the association and for the act or omission of its officer, agent, or employee acting within the scope of the office, agency, or employment to the same extent as if the association were a natural person [Corp. Code § 18250]. Nonprofit unincorporated associations are expressly authorized to contract with respect to real and personal property [see Corp. Code § 18105; see also Labor Code § 1126] and may incur liability based on those contracts. However, only the property of an unincorporated association may be levied on under a money judgment against the association [Corp. Code § 18260; but see Corp. Code § 18135(a) (execution against distributed assets)]. A judgment against the association does not bind the members [Barr v. United Methodist Church (1979) 90 Cal. App. 3d 259, 264-267, 153 Cal. Rptr. 322] .

Traditionally, members of nonprofit unincorporated associations were each charged with the negligence of each member acting in the prosecution of the enterprise of the association. Thus, each member's negligence is imputable to each and every other member. The reason for the rule is that the association, like an ordinary partnership, had no legal existence apart from its members and that in legal effect each member becomes both a principal and an agent as to all other members for the actions of the group itself [Marshall v. International Longshoremen's & Warehousemen's Union (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 781, 782-784, 22 Cal. Rptr. 211, 371 P.2d 987 (no cause of action against co-principal for wrongs of common agent); see Inglis v. Operating Engineers Local Union No. 12 (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 269, 270, 23 Cal. Rptr. 403, 373 P.2d 467 (rule covers the intentional torts of the officers and members of a union to another member)]. The general rule of non-liability of the association typically involved fraternal organizations or beneficial associations [Marshall v. International Longshoremen's & Warehousemen's Union (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 781, 783, 22 Cal. Rptr. 211, 371 P.2d 987] . However, unincorporated labor unions became increasingly seen as separate entities because the members were not in any true sense the principals of officers and agents of the union [see Marshall v. International Longshoremen's & Warehousemen's Union (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 781, 784, 787 n. 1, 22 Cal. Rptr. 211, 371 P.2d 987 (association's negligence would not be imputed to plaintiff member but limiting holding to labor unions); Inglis v. Operating Engineers Local Union No. 12 (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 269, 270, 23 Cal. Rptr. 403, 373 P.2d 467 (union member may sue union for intentional torts of members and officers)].

The modern trend recognizes that the twin underpinnings of the traditional rule (no separate existence and members as agents), are no longer so true. Thus, courts have moved toward recognizing the association as a separate legal entity apart from its members; the members and association are distinct because the association represents the common or group interests of the members [DeMille v. American Fed'n of Radio Artists (1947) 31 Cal. 2d 139, 149, 187 P.2d 769] . Thus, for example, a member was permitted to sue an unincorporated condominium association for negligently maintaining the premises because the plaintiff had no "effective control" over the common areas, much like a shareholder in a corporation [White v. Cox (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 824, 827-828, 95 Cal. Rptr. 259] .

[3] Liability of Members

[a] Member's Liability for Debts

Members of a nonprofit association are not liable for a debt, obligation, or liability of the association solely by reason of being a member [Corp. Code § 18605]. A member is not liable for a contractual obligation of the association except under one of the following conditions [Corp. Code § 18610]:

- The member expressly assumed personal responsibility for the obligation in a signed writing that specifically identifies the obligation being assumed.
- The member expressly authorized or ratified the specific contract, as evidenced by a writing, and was not acting solely in the member's capacity as a director, officer, or agent of the association.
- With notice of the contract, the member received a benefit under the contract (but then the member's liability is limited to the value of the benefit received).
- The member executed the contract without disclosing that the member was acting on behalf of the association.
- The member executed the contract without authority to execute the contract.

Members of unincorporated organized medical societies that limit membership to licensed physicians and surgeons and having as members at least 25 percent of the eligible physicians and surgeons residing in the area in which it functions (which must be at least one county) are also not individually or personally liable for debts or liabilities contracted or incurred by the association in the acquisition of lands or leases. These members are not liable for debts or liabilities contracted or incurred in the purchase, leasing, construction, repairing, or furnishing of buildings or other structures to be used for the association's purposes [Corp. Code § 21200].

[b] General Rule for Tort and Non-Real-Estate Contractual Liability

In general, a member of a nonprofit unincorporated association is not liable to third parties for acts of the association or other members unless the member authorized or performed the act [Orser v. George (1967) 252 Cal. App. 2d 660, 669-671, 60 Cal. Rptr. 708] . However, a member is liable for injury, damage, or harm caused by an act or omission of the association or a director, officer, or agent of the association, if any of the following conditions is satisfied [Corp. Code § 18620(a)]:

- The member expressly assumes liability for injury, damage, or harm caused by particular conduct and that conduct causes the injury, damage, or harm.
- The member engages in tortious conduct that causes the injury, damage, or harm.
- The member is otherwise liable under any other statute.

This list of grounds for liability is nonexclusive, and does not foreclose any common law grounds for liability [Corp. Code § 18620(b)]. Thus, for example, an individual member is liable when the member (as opposed to management personnel) directly participates in authorizing acts that result in tort liability to third parties [Steuer v. Phelps (1974) 41 Cal. App. 3d 468, 472-473, 116 Cal. Rptr. 61 (respondeat superior applies and all members are liable for injuries from car accident because all agreed that one would drive car)].

Under the common law, a member must actively or constructively assent to or ratify the contract on which liability is predicated in order to be held liable [Security-First Nat. Bank v. Cooper (1944) 62 Cal. App. 2d 653, 667-669, 145 P.2d 722] . If a member directly incurs a debt or expressly or impliedly authorizes or ratifies the transaction in which liability is incurred, the member is liable as a principal. Therefore, a members may be held liable for any debt that is necessarily contracted to in order to further organizational objectives in an appropriate manner [Security-First Nat. Bank v. Cooper (1944) 62 Cal. App. 2d 653, 667-669, 145 P.2d 722 ; see Barr v. United Methodist Church (1979) 90 Cal. App. 3d 259, 267, 153 Cal. Rptr. 322] . The member's common law liability for contractual obligations has been modified by statute [see Corp. Code §§ 18605, 18610, 18620, 18630; see also [2], [3][a], above, [4]-[7], below].

[4] Liability of Directors, Officers, and Agents

Directors, officers, and agents of nonprofit associations are liable for injury, damage, or harm caused by an act or omission of the association or an act or omission of a director, officer, or agent of the association, if any of the following conditions is satisfied [Corp. Code § 18620(a)]:

- The director, officer, or agent expressly assumes liability for injury, damage, or harm caused by particular conduct and that conduct causes the injury, damage, or harm.
- The director, officer, or agent engages in tortious conduct that causes the injury, damage, or harm.
- The director, officer, or agent is otherwise liable under any other statute.

This list of grounds for liability is nonexclusive, and does not foreclose any common law grounds for liability [Corp. Code § 18620(b)].

[5] Volunteer Directors and Officers of Nonprofit Medical Associations

[a] Requirements for Nonliability for Money Damages

The Legislature has expressly found that the services of directors and officers of nonprofit medical associations [see Corp. Code § 21200] who serve without compensation are critical to the efficient conduct and management of public and charitable services in California. However, many potential volunteers are deterred from contributing these valuable services because of the perception that their personal assets are at risk for these activities and because of the unavailability and cost of liability insurance to protect these assets The unavailability or unaffordability of appropriate liability insurance makes it difficult for these associations to protect the personal assets of their volunteer decision-makers with adequate insurance. Therefore, it is California's policy to provide incentive and protection to the individuals performing these important functions [Corp. Code § 24001.5(a)].

In response to this problem, Corp. Code § 24001.5 provides that no cause of action for monetary damages will arise against any person serving without compensation [see Corp. Code § 24001.5(f) (reimbursement of expenses), (i) (determination of compensation)] as a director or officer of a nonprofit medical association [see Corp. Code § 21200] that is organized to provide charitable, educational, scientific, social, or other forms of public service that are exempt from federal income tax under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) or (6) [see Ch. 13B, Tax-Exempt Status for Nonprofit Entities] on account of any negligent act or omission that occurs [Corp. Code § 24001.5(b), (d)]

- Within the scope of that person's duties as a director acting as a board member, or as an officer acting in an official capacity;

- In good faith;

- In a manner that the person believes to be in the best interest of the association; and

- In the exercise of his or her policymaking judgment.

However, Corp. Code § 24001.5 does not limit the liability of the nonprofit association itself for any negligent act or omission of a director, officer, employee, agent, or servant occurring within the scope of his or her duties [Corp. Code § 24001.5(g)].

This protection against damages only applies if three conditions are met [see Corp. Code § 5047.5(e), (f), (h), (i)]:

- The nonprofit association may not unlawfully restrict membership, services, or benefits conferred on the basis of political affiliation, age, or any characteristic listed or defined in Civ. Code § 51(b) or (e) (Unruh Civil Rights Act) [Corp. Code § 24001.5(h)].

- The volunteer director or officer may not receive compensation from the association in any other capacity, including but not limited to, as an employee [Corp. Code § 24001.5(i)]; the payment of actual expenses incurred in attending meetings or otherwise in the execution of the duties of a director or officer does not constitute compensation [Corp. Code § 24001.5(f)].

- The association must maintain a liability insurance policy, with coverage in the following amounts [Corp. Code § 24001.5(e)]:

    - If the association's annual budget is less than $50,000, the minimum required amount of coverage is $500,000.

    - If the association's annual budget equals or exceeds $50,000, the minimum required amount of coverage is $1 million.

        Corp. Code § 24001.5 applies only if the policy is applicable to the claim [Corp.

Code § 24001.5(e)].

[b] Exceptions to Limitations on Liability

Corp. Code § 24001.5 does not limit the liability of a director or officer for any of the following [Corp. Code § 24001.5(c)]:

- Self-dealing transactions [see Corp. Code §§ 5233, 9243].
- Conflicts of interest [see Corp. Code § 7233].
- Improper distributions, loans, or guarantees [see Corp. Code §§ 5237, 7236, 9245].
- With respect to a charitable trust, any action or proceeding against a trustee brought by a beneficiary of that trust.
- Any action or proceeding brought by the Attorney General.
- Intentional, wanton, or reckless acts, gross negligence, or an action based on fraud, oppression, or malice.
- Any action brought for a prohibited combination in restraint of trade [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 16700 et seq.].

[6] Members of Medical Societies

Members of unincorporated organized medical societies that limit membership to licensed physicians and surgeons and having as members at least 25 percent of the eligible physicians and surgeons residing in the area in which it functions (which must be at least one county) are not individually or personally liable for debts or liabilities contracted or incurred by the association in carrying out or performing any of the association's purposes [Corp. Code § 21200]. The purpose must be religious, scientific, social, literary, educational, recreational, benevolent, or other nonprofit purpose [Corp. Code § 21200].

[7] Volunteer Protection Act of 1997

The Volunteer Protection Act of 1997 [42 U.S.C. § 14501 et seq.] limits lawsuits against volunteers performing services for nonprofit organizations that are exempt under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) or any nonprofit organization organized and conducted for public benefit and operated primarily for charitable, civic, educational, religious, welfare or health purposes. The Act covers all volunteers who receive no compensation in excess of $500 a year (not including reimbursed expenses) [42 U.S.C. § 14505(b)]. No volunteer may be held liable for harm caused by his or her act or omission on behalf of the corporation if any of the following are true [42 U.S.C. § 14503(a)]:

- The volunteer was acting within the scope of his or her responsibilities.
- The volunteer held any requisite license or certification.
- The damage did not result from willful or criminal misconduct, gross negligence, reckless misconduct, or a conscious flagrant indifference to the rights and safety of the individual harmed.
- The harm was not the result of the volunteer's operation of a motor vehicle, vessel, aircraft, or other vehicle that must be insured or operated pursuant to a license under state law.

However, the Act's limitation on liability does not apply to misconduct stemming from violent crimes, hate crimes, and damage resulting from being under the influence of alcohol and drugs [42 U.S.C. § 14503(f); 18 U.S.C. § 16; 28 U.S.C. § 534 note]; acts of terrorism or state law sex crimes for which the defendant is convicted [42 U.S.C. § 14503(f); 18 U.S.C. § 2331]; and acts involving misconduct for which the defendant is found to have violated state or federal civil rights laws [42 U.S.C. § 14503(f)].

Nonprofit unincorporated associations that hold property in trust for charitable purposes are subject to regulation under the Supervision of Trustees and Fundraisers for Charitable Purposes Act [*see Gov. § 13A.37 Securities Law

Under the Corporate Securities Law of 1968 [see Corp. Code § 25000 et seq.], the sale of, or offer to sell, securities requires qualification from the California Commissioner of Corporations. The word "security" is defined to include membership in an incorporated or unincorporated association as well as notes and other evidences of indebtedness [Corp. Code § 25019]. However, Corp. Code § 25100(j) exempts securities (except evidences of indebtedness) of an issuer organized

- Exclusively for educational, benevolent, fraternal, religious, charitable, social, or reformatory purposes and not for pecuniary profit if no part of the net earnings of the issuer inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual; or

- As a chamber of commerce or trade or professional association.

The fact that amounts received from memberships or dues or both will or may be used to construct or otherwise acquire facilities for use by members of the nonprofit organization does not disqualify the organization from this exemption. Unless a nonprofit membership organization meets specific requirements enumerated in the Commissioner's regulations [see 10 Cal. Code Reg. § 260.105.20], this exemption does not apply to the securities of any nonprofit organization if any promoter expects or intends to make a profit directly or indirectly from any business activity associated with the organization or operation of the nonprofit organization, or from remuneration received from that nonprofit organization [Corp. Code § 25100(j)]. An issuer is defined as a person who issues or proposes to issue any security [Corp. Code § 25010]. Thus, memberships in unincorporated associations meeting the requirements of the foregoing sections are exempt from the permit requirements.

Debt securities, such as notes and other evidences of indebtedness, are excepted from this exemption and require qualification [Corp. Code § 25100(j); see Ch. 6J, Issuance of Debt Securities]. Corp. Code § 25100(l), (p) exempts certain debt securities from the qualification requirement, and Corp. Code § 25102(e) exempts from issuer transactions [Corp. Code § 25110] the offer or sale of any evidence of indebtedness (including promissory notes), whether secured or unsecured, and any guarantee of the indebtedness in a transaction not involving a public offering.

For a discussion of qualification of corporate securities, see Ch. 6H, Qualification of Securities .

§ 13A.38 Tax Considerations

[1] Nonprofit Associations Subject to Income Tax Unless Exempt

Nonprofit unincorporated associations are subject to the federal income tax [I.R.C. § 11; see I.R.C. § 7701(a)(3)] unless they are entitled to an exemption [see I.R.C. §§ 501-528 (rules governing exempt organizations)]. Qualifying nonprofit organizations are also exempt from federal withholding tax [see I.R.C. §§ 3121(b)(8)(B), 3401(a)(9) (religious organizations)]. Nonprofit unincorporated associations are also subject to the California franchise and income taxes unless they are specifically exempted from that tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701 et seq. (exemptions)]. For a more detailed discussion of the income taxation of nonprofit corporations, see Ch. 13B, Tax-Exempt Status for Nonprofit Entities .

[2] Charitable Gifts

[a] Gifts Generally Deductible from Income

Contributions to qualified tax-exempt associations may entitle the donor to claim the federal income tax deduction for charitable contributions [see I.R.C. § 170]. For example, taxpayers may ordinarily deduct gifts made to I.R.C. § 501(c) associations organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, and specified public purposes from income [I.R.C. § 170(c)]. However, the deduction is lost if the corporation attempts to intervene in any political campaign on behalf of or in opposition to any candidate for public office [see I.R.C. § 170(c)(2)(D); see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations].

Charitable gifts by check ordinarily are deemed made (and deductible) when the check is delivered or mailed to the charitable organization, regardless of when the charity actually receives the check [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-1(b)]. Similarly, gifts made by credit card are deemed made (and deductible) when the donor charges the contribution, regardless of when the donor pays the credit card bill [Rev. Rul. 78-38, 1978-1 C.B. 67].

Purchases at auctions are only deductible if and to the extent that the taxpayer intends a gift and the fair market value of the purchased item is less than the amount bid and paid [I.R.C. § 170(c); see Hardesty v. Commissioner (1993) 65

T.C.M. 2743, T.C. Memo. 1993-225] . Under federal law, the cost of a raffle ticket is not generally deductible unless the value of participating in the raffle is worth less than the ticket price [see Rev. Rul. 83-130, 1983-2 C.B. 148 ; but see Penal Code § 320] (generally barring sale of raffle tickets).

For further discussion of state and federal income tax charitable deductions available for contributions to qualifying nonprofit organizations, see Ch. 69, Charitable Dispositions .

[b] Documentation Requirements

Federal law imposes disclosure and documentation requirements on charitable organizations that solicit deductible and/or nondeductible contributions [see I.R.C. §§ 170(f), 6113, 6115]. Special substantiation rules apply to specific types of contributions [see Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-13(f)(9), (11)-(17)]. For further discussion of these rules, see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations .

CHAPTER 13A NONPROFIT UNINCORPORATED ASSOCIATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Operations

6-13A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13A.39

§ 13A.39 Entity Changes

[1] Conversions

In general, a nonprofit unincorporated association may change its status to a nonprofit corporation, provided that the charter documents authorize the conversion. Most persons associating themselves for a nonprofit purpose choose the corporate form. In fact, the laws applicable to the principal types of nonprofit corporations each contain express provisions for converting a nonprofit unincorporated association into a public benefit, mutual benefit, or religious corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 5121(a), 7121(a), 9121(a)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations .

[2] Merger

[a] Merger Procedure

In general, a nonprofit unincorporated association may merge with a domestic or foreign corporation, domestic or foreign limited partnership, domestic or foreign general partnership, or domestic or foreign limited liability company. However, a merger may be effected only if each constituent entity is authorized to effect the merger by the laws under which it was organized [Corp. Code § 18360].

Each party to the merger must approve an agreement of merger. The agreement must include the following provisions [Corp. Code § 18370(a)]:

- The terms of the merger.
- Any amendments the merger would make to the articles, bylaws, or other governing documents of the surviving entity.
- The name, place of organization, and type of entity of each constituent entity.

- The name of the constituent entity that will be the surviving entity.

- If the name of the surviving entity will be changed in the merger, the new name of the surviving entity.

- The disposition of the memberships or ownership interests of each constituent entity.

- Any other desired details or provisions, including any details or provisions required by the law under which a constituent entity is organized.

The principal terms of the merger agreement must be approved by the board, the members, and any person whose approval is required by the association's governing documents [Corp. Code § 18370(b)]. Unless otherwise provided in the governing documents, the members must approve the agreement in the manner provided for amendment of the association's governing documents [Corp. Code § 18370(b); see § 13A.34]. The members may approve the agreement before or after the board approves the agreement [Corp. Code § 18370(b)].

Ordinarily, if a merger agreement would cause the members of the association to become individually liable for an obligation of a constituent or surviving entity, the agreement must be approved by all of the members of the unincorporated association. However, approval by all members is not required if the merger agreement provides for that the surviving entity will purchase the membership interest of a member who votes against approval [Corp. Code § 18370(c)].

The board may amend a merger agreement unless the amendment would change a principal term of the agreement, in which case the agreement is subject to the prescribed approval procedure [Corp. Code § 18370(d)]. Further, the board may abandon a merger without the approval of the members, subject to the contractual rights of third parties [Corp. Code § 18370(e)].

For discussion relating to mergers involving corporations, and forms for corporate mergers that may be used or adapted for mergers involving nonprofit entities, see Ch. 11C, Mergers .

[b] Effect of Merger

A merger under these provisions has the following effect [Corp. Code § 18380(a)]:

- The separate existence of the disappearing entity ceases.

- The surviving entity succeeds, without other transfer, to the rights and property of the disappearing entity.

- The surviving entity is subject to all the debts and liabilities of the disappearing entity. A trust or other obligation governing property of the disappearing entity applies as if it were incurred by the surviving entity.

All rights of creditors and all liens on or arising from the property of each of the constituent entities are preserved unimpaired, provided that a lien on property of a disappearing entity is limited to the property subject to the lien immediately before the merger is effective [Corp. Code § 18380(b)]. Further, an action or proceeding pending by or against a disappearing entity or other party to the merger may be prosecuted to judgment, which binds the surviving entity, or the surviving entity may be proceeded against or substituted in its place [Corp. Code § 18380(c)].

A merger does not affect an existing liability of a member, director, officer, or agent of a constituent unincorporated association for an obligation of the unincorporated association [Corp. Code § 18380(d)].

Any bequest, devise, gift, grant, or promise contained in a will or other instrument of donation, subscription, or conveyance that is made to a disappearing entity and that takes effect or remains payable after the merger inures to the benefit of the surviving entity. A trust obligation that would govern property if transferred to the disappearing entity applies to property that is instead transferred to the surviving entity [Corp. Code § 18400].

[c] Recordation of Real Property

If a surviving entity succeeds to ownership of real property located in California as a consequence of merger, the surviving entity's record ownership of that property may be evidenced by recording a copy of the merger agreement in the county in which the property is located. The agreement must be signed by the president and secretary or other comparable officers of the constituent entities and be verified and acknowledged [Corp. Code § 18390; see Corp. Code §§ 149, 193].

[3] Dissolution

[a] Voluntary Dissolution

If a nonprofit unincorporated association's governing documents provide a method for dissolution, dissolution may be accomplished by that method [Corp. Code § 18410(a)]. This rule stems from the principle that the charter documents have the force and effect of a contract between the association and its members, as to which members are bound and charged with full knowledge [Holt v. Santa Clara County Sheriff's Benefits Assn. (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 925, 929, 59 Cal. Rptr. 180 ; Weber v. Marine Cooks' & Stewards' Ass'n (1949) 93 Cal. App. 2d 327, 334-335, 208 P.2d 1009] .

If the association's governing documents do not provide a method for dissolution, the association may be dissolved by the affirmative vote of a majority of the voting power of the association [Corp. Code § 18410(b)]. Dissolution may also result from the decision of a superior organization [see [b], below] or court decree [see [c], below; see also Holt v. Santa Clara County Sheriff's Benefits Assn. (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 925, 929-930, 59 Cal. Rptr. 180] The association may also amend the governing documents to provide a method for dissolution [see Holt v. Santa Clara County Sheriff's Benefits Assn. (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 925, 929-930 , & n.2, 59 Cal. Rptr. 180 ; see also § 13A.34].

If the association's operations have been discontinued for at least three years, the association may be dissolved by the board or, if the association has no incumbent board, by the members of its last preceding incumbent board [Corp. Code § 18410(d)]. If the association's operations have been discontinued, the association may be dissolved by court order [Corp. Code § 18410(e)].

Promptly after commencing dissolution proceedings, the board or, if the members if there is no board, must promptly wind up the affairs of the association, pay or provide for its known debts or liabilities, collect any amounts due to it, take any other action as is necessary or appropriate for winding up, settling, and liquidating its affairs, and properly dispose of its assets [Corp. Code § 18420; see Corp. Code § 18130].

[b] Dissolution by Superior Organization

Many nonprofit unincorporated associations are organized as local chapters or lodges of statewide or national organizations under a charter from the superior organization. The relationship between the local association and the superior organization is thus a matter of contract [see Grand Grove of United Ancient Order of Druids v. Garibaldi Grove No. 71 (1900) 130 Cal. 116, 119-121, 62 P. 486] . The charter documents of the superior organization (and typically the charter documents of the local chapter) ordinarily impose penalties for violations of their provisions. If the charter documents so provide, the superior organization may revoke the local chapter's charter and dissolve the local chapter without judicial interference [see Grand Grove of United Ancient Order of Druids v. Duchein (1894) 105 Cal.

219, 224, 38 P. 947] . However, the superior court may need judicial assistance in requiring the local chapter to cede its assets to the superior organization [see Grand Grove of United Ancient Order of Druids v. Duchein (1894) 105 Cal. 219, 224-225, 38 P. 947 ; see also Supreme Lodge v. L.A. Lodge No. 386 (1917) 177 Cal. 132, 136-137, 169 P. 1040] .

[c] Dissolution by Court Decree

A court may decree the dissolution of a nonprofit unincorporated association and order the distribution of assets among the members when the association's operations have been discontinued and its objectives abandoned by common consent of the members. However, a nonprofit association will not be dissolved for slight causes, and a court will only act when the association has apparently ceased to answer the purpose of its existence and no other relief is available [Holt v. Santa Clara County Sheriff's Benefits Assn. (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 925, 930, 59 Cal. Rptr. 180 .] Thus, in view of the attitude of courts against dissolution, even when a majority of members support it, courts will generally not interfere if "the government of the association is fairly administered and its purposes can be carried out by a minority consisting of a sufficient number to constitute the association." [Holt v. Santa Clara County Sheriff's Benefits Assn. (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 925, 930, 59 Cal. Rptr. 180 .]

18. If association will issue membership certificates, distribute certificates to members after they have applied and qualified for membership and paid any applicable fee.

NOTE:

Membership certificates should be signed by the president and secretary of the association before distribution. The association's membership list should contain the member's name, address, and certificate number.

19. Obtain nonprofit mailing permit, if desired.

NOTE:

Nonprofit associations may apply for a mailing permit at the local or main post office to take advantage of significantly lower postage rates [see 39 U.S.C. § 3626]. § 13A.130 Articles of Association

NOTE:

No statutory provisions govern the articles of association or constitution of a nonprofit unincorporated association. Thus, the articles or constitution may contain any provision not in conflict with existing law or public policy. Because the charter documents constitute a contract between the association and its members and because of the lack of statutory provisions to fill in any gaps, the charter documents should define as fully as possible the rights and obligations of board members, officers, and members. In general, drafters may look to parallel documents of nonprofit corporation for guidance [see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations].

1. State name of association.

2. State purposes and powers of association [see § 13A.200[2], art. II].

3. Designate association's principal office in California [see § 13A.200[2], art. III].

4. Specify management of association [see § 13A.200[2], art. IV].

5. Identify agent for service of process [see § 13A.200[2], art. V].

6. Include membership provisions [see § 13A.200[2], art. VI].

NOTE:

Typically, membership provisions in the articles of association or constitution refer to the bylaws for more detailed provisions. Absent a provision in the association's governing documents, membership is terminated by the member's resignation, expulsion, or death, the expiration of the fixed term of the membership unless renewed before its expiration, or the termination of the legal existence of a member that is not a natural person [Corp. Code § 18310(a)].

7. Include provisions for dissolution [see § 13A.200[2], art. VII; see also § 13A.39[3]].

NOTE:

If the association's governing documents do not provide a method for dissolution, the association may be dissolved by the affirmative vote of a majority of the voting power of the association [Corp. Code § 18410(b)]. Dissolution also may result from the decision of a superior organization or court decree [Corp Code § 18420(c); see Holt v. Santa Clara County Sheriff's Benefits Assn. (1967) 250 Cal. App. 2d 925, 929-930, 59 Cal. Rptr. 180 .]

8. Include provisions for dedicating assets and distribution on dissolution [see § 13A.200[2], art. VIII].

9. Any limitations on association's authority [see § 13A.200[2], arts. IX, XIII].

10. Include provision authorizing merger [see § 13A.200[2], art. XI; see also § 13A.39[2]].

11. Include provision authorizing amendment of governing documents [see § 13A.200[2], art. XI; see also § 13A.34].

12. Any other provisions to be included in articles or constitution.

NOTE:

In general, drafters may look to parallel documents of nonprofit corporation for guidance [see Mooney v. Bartenders Union Local No. 284 (1957) 48 Cal. 2d 841, 843, 313 P.2d 857 ; see also Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations]. However, the notion that provisions should be included in the bylaws because the articles of incorporation are publicly filed documents [see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations] does not apply in the context of nonprofit unincorporated associations.

§ 13A.131 Bylaws

NOTE:

No statutory provisions govern the bylaws of a nonprofit unincorporated association. Thus, the bylaws may contain any provision not in conflict with existing law or public policy. Because the charter documents constitute a contract between the association and its members and because of the lack of statutory provisions to fill in any gaps, the charter documents should define as fully as possible the rights and obligations of board members, officers, and members. In general, drafters may look to parallel documents of nonprofit corporation for guidance [see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations]. If the association is a subordinate body organized under the charter documents and rules of a parent or superior organization, drafters must consult these documents when preparing the bylaws.

1. Evaluate purpose and importance of bylaws to association.

NOTE:

Bylaws contain the governing rule of the association. They can provide rules for matters not covered by statute, and can alter specific default provisions that apply in the absence of an applicable bylaw. Because few statutes apply to the bylaws of nonprofit unincorporated associations, the bylaws should be as complete as possible. However, the level of detail contained in the bylaws varies by the size of the association, its intended purposes, and the complexity of its operations.

2. Include membership provisions [see § 13A.201[2], art. II].

a. Qualifications for membership.

b. Admission to membership.

c. Classes of membership.

NOTE:
A voluntary nonprofit unincorporated association may have different classes of membership with differing voting privileges and other rights [see Gear v. Webster (1968) 258 Cal. App. 2d 57, 65 Cal. Rptr. 255] . The fact that a person may qualify for and become an associate member gives the member no contractual right to become an active member unless he or she qualifies; the provision for termination of associate membership on the lapse of qualification for active membership effectively terminates membership in the organization [see Kronen v. Pacific Coast Soc'y of Orthodontists (1965) 237 Cal. App. 2d 289, 302, 46 Cal. Rptr. 808 , cert. denied*, 384 U.S. 905 (1966)]* .

d. Membership fees, dues, and assessments.

e. Arbitration of disputes.

f. Termination of membership.

g. Transferability of memberships.

h. Inspection rights.

3. State requirements for members' meetings [see § 13A.201[2], art. III].

4. Provisions for board of directors or other management structure [see § 13A.201[2], art. IV].

a. Qualifications for office.

b. Election requirements.

c. Terms of office.

d. Duties.

e. Compensation.

f. Removal and vacancies.

g. Board Meetings.

5. Provisions for officers [see § 13A.201[2], art. V].

a. Numbers and titles.

b. Qualifications for office.

c. Appointment or election requirements.

d. Terms of office.

e. Duties.

f. Compensation.

g. Removal and vacancies.

6. Provisions for committees [see § 13A.201[2], art. VI].

7. Miscellaneous matters [see § 13A.201[2], art. VII].

a. Recordkeeping requirements.

b. Seal and insignia.

c. Fiscal year.

8. Execution of instruments [see § 13A.201[2], art. VIII].

9. Provisions for adoption, amendment, and repeal of bylaws [see § 13A.201[2], art. IX].

NOTE:
Any amendment or change to the charter documents adopted in accordance with the applicable amendment procedure is binding on existing members [Lawson v. Hewell (1897) 118 Cal. 613, 621, 50 P. 763] .

10. Any other provisions to be included in bylaws.

NOTE:
In general, drafters may look to parallel documents of nonprofit corporation for guidance [see Mooney v. Bartenders Union Local No. 284 (1957) 48 Cal. 2d 841, 843, 313 P.2d 857 ; see also Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations].

PART IV. FORMS

6-13A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13A.200

§ 13A.200 Articles of Organization

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a sample complete set of articles of association (or constitution) of an unincorporated nonprofit association. The provisions are general in nature so that they are applicable to and may be used by a wide variety of nonprofit associations.

In drafting the organizational instrument, it is important to keep in mind that the provisions may not violate public policy or law. It is therefore helpful, in determining which provisions are permissible, to consult the statutory provisions relating to nonprofit corporations that the courts have occasionally applied to associations [see Mooney v. Bartenders Union Local No. 284 (1957) 48 Cal. 2d 841, 843, 313 P.2d 857] . Counsel may wish to consult the articles of incorporation of the various nonprofit corporations covered in Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations , for adaptation and inclusion in these articles.

Legislation relating to the governance of unincorporated associations is designed to establish mandatory rules, as well as default rules that apply when the association's governing documents are silent [see Corp. Code § 18300 et seq.]. For further discussion, see [g], below.

If a subordinate body is being organized, the contents of its constitution and bylaws will be governed by the articles of incorporation, articles of association, constitution, or other charter documents, bylaws, and rules of the parent organization, which will have to be consulted.

[b] Purposes of Association

A "nonprofit association" is an unincorporated association with a primary common purpose other than to operate a business for profit [Corp. Code § 18020(a)]. An "unincorporated association" is an unincorporated group of two or more persons joined by mutual consent for a common lawful purpose, whether organized for profit or not [Corp. Code § 18035(a)].

A nonprofit association may carry on a business for profit and apply any profit resulting from the business activity to any activity in which it may lawfully engage [Corp. Code § 18020(b)].

[c] Internal Organization

The internal organization of nonprofit associations varies from extremely informal arrangements to highly complex organizations similar to that of corporations. Although an unincorporated association is not required to have either a constitution or bylaws [see People v. Cohen (1925) 71 Cal. App. 367, 372, 235 P. 658 (no presumption that unincorporated association has written articles of association, partnership, or otherwise); see also Orser v. George (1967) 252 Cal. App. 2d 660, 670, 60 Cal. Rptr. 708 (loosely organized duck club treated for purposes of opinion as existing association although it had no written agreement, constitution, bylaws, or officers, and had held only one meeting)], these documents are usually executed since they constitute the agreement among the members and determine the nature of the association.

In general, articles of association have the same relationship to an unincorporated association that articles of incorporation have to a corporation. The articles and bylaws, as well as the rules adopted pursuant to those documents, constitute a contract between the association and its members [Berke v. Tri Realtors (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 463, 469, 257 Cal. Rptr. 738); California Dental Assn. v. American Dental Assn. (1979) 23 Cal. 3d 346, 353, 152 Cal. Rptr. 546, 590 P.2d 401 ; see § 13A.13[2]]. The rights and duties of the members as between themselves and in relation to the association in all matters affecting the internal government of the association and the management of its affairs are measured by the terms of this contract [Weber v. Marine Cooks' & Stewards' Ass'n (1949) 93 Cal. App. 2d 327, 334-335, 208 P.2d 1009 ; see Corrigan v. Cox (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 919, 922-923, 62 Cal. Rptr. 733 ; see also Mooney v. Bartenders Union Local No. 284 (1957) 48 Cal. 2d 841, 843, 313 P.2d 857] . These charter documents, however, do not bind the association in its relations to others [see Most Worshipful Sons v. Sons (1958) 160 Cal. App. 2d 560, 325 P.2d 606 ; Most Worshipful Hiram of Tyre Grand Lodge v. The Most Worshipful Sons of Light Grand Lodge (1949) 94 Cal. App. 2d 25, 30, 210 P.2d 34] .

[d] Amendment

The governing documents may contain provisions for their amendment. If a nonprofit unincorporated association's governing principles do not provide a procedure to amend the association's governing documents, the governing documents may be amended by a vote of the members [Corp. Code § 18340; see § 13A.34].

[e] Construction

The practical and reasonable construction of the association's articles or constitution and bylaws by the governing board is binding on the membership and will be recognized by the courts [DeMille v. American Fed. of Radio Artists (1947) 31 Cal. 2d 139, 147, 187 P.2d 769 , cert. denied, 333 U.S. 876 (1948) ; Berke v. Tri Realtors (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 463, 469, 257 Cal. Rptr. 738)]. Further, statutes relating to unincorporated associations in existence at the time of formation are deemed incorporated into the association agreement by implication [see Security-First Nat. Bank v. Cooper (1944) 62 Cal. App. 2d 653, 669, 145 P.2d 722] .

[f] Dedication and Distribution Provisions

If the association intends to apply for the welfare exemption from local property tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 214], the articles of association must contain an irrevocable dedication to religious, charitable, scientific, or hospital purposes [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214.01]. The articles must also provide that on liquidation, dissolution, or abandonment, the property will inure to a tax-exempt fund, foundation, or corporation organized and operated for one of those purposes [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(a)(6); see [2], art. VIII, below]. The requirement that the property inure to the benefit of another exempt entity is subject to an exception. If the dedicated property is being used solely for charitable or hospital purposes for at least 30 years, the existence of any reversionary provisions in the property title respecting liquidation, dissolution, or abandonment will not defeat the welfare exemption if the ownership, operation, use, and dedication of the property otherwise satisfy the requirements of the welfare exemption. [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214.3]. This form can be adapted to suit this exception.

For a detailed discussion of the welfare exemption, see Ch. 13B, Tax-Exempt Status for Nonprofit Entities .

[g] Statutory Governance Provisions

The legislature has enacted legislation relating to the governance of unincorporated associations. These statutes are designed to establish both mandatory and default provisions regarding the following matters [see Corp. Code § 18300 et seq.]:

- Member voting [see Corp. Code § 18330; for discussion, see § 13A.33[2][d]].
- Membership termination and suspension [see Corp. Code §§ 18310, 18320; for discussion, see § 13A.33[3][a]].
- Amending governing documents [see Corp. Code §§ 18310, 18320; for discussion, see § 13A.34].
- Merger [see Corp. Code §§ 18350-18400; for discussion, see § 13A.39[2]].
- Dissolution [see Corp. Code §§ 18410, 18411; for discussion, see § 13A.39[3]].

These statutes should be consulted while drafting the articles of organization. Because the term "governing documents" is defined to include articles of organization and bylaws, as well as other organizational documents [Corp. Code § 18008], these matters may be addressed in either document or both. Counsel should ensure that no inconsistencies exist between the articles of organization and bylaws.

This form provides that the association may merge with any other nonprofit entity. The board and the members must approve the principal terms of the merger agreement [see § 13A.200[2], art. XI; see also § 13A.39[2]]. The form also provides that the governing documents may be amended by a majority vote of the members [see § 13A.200[2], art. XI; see also § 13A.34].

VII. DISSOLUTION

7.01. This Association will be dissolved and its affairs wound up when the objects for which it is organized have been fully accomplished. [Add, if appropriate: Further, this Association will be dissolved and its affairs wound up _____ (on _____ (date) or by the vote or written consent of at least _____ percent of the (voting) members and not otherwise)].

PRACTICE TIP

If the association's governing documents do not provide a method for dissolution, the association may be dissolved by the affirmative vote of a majority of the voting power of the association [Corp. Code § 18410(b)]. Dissolution may also result from the decision of a superior organization or court decree [*see Holt v. Santa Clara County Sheriff's Benefits Assn. (1967) 250 Cal. 8.02. The property, assets, profits, and net income of this Association are irrevocably dedicated to [specify, e.g., religious] purposes and no part of the profits or net income of this Association shall ever inure to the benefit of any Director, officer, or member of this Association.

8.03. On the dissolution or winding up of this Association, any assets remaining after payment of, or provision for payment of, all debts and liabilities of this Association must be distributed to a nonprofit fund, foundation, or corporation that is organized and operated exclusively for [specify, e.g., religious] purposes and that has established its tax-exempt status under Internal Revenue Code Section 501(c)(3) and Revenue and Taxation Code Section 23701d.

8.04. If the Association holds any assets in trust, those assets will, on dissolution, be disposed of in a manner as may be directed by decree of the superior court of the county in which this Association's principal office is located, on petition by the Attorney General, or by any person concerned in the liquidation.

PRACTICE TIP

The above article provision may also be used in the constitution of a social welfare association by substituting I.R.C. § 501(c)(4) for I.R.C. § 501(c)(3). Social welfare organizations that develop parks and common recreational areas or build buildings or facilities that will eventually become the property of a city or the state require an irrevocable dissolution clause with a public body as the distributee [see FTB Form 1065 (4-67)].

VIII. DISTRIBUTION OF ASSETS ON DISSOLUTION

8.01. On the dissolution or winding up of this Association, any assets remaining after payment of, or provision for payment of, all of its debts and liabilities will be forfeited and surrendered to _____[name of superior or parent organization].

[OR, if assets will be distributed to members, add Section 8.01, below:]

[Continue with the following:]

PRACTICE TIP

The following provision is required by I.R.C. § 508(e) for private foundations to be exempt from income tax under I.R.C. § 501(a). This provision is substantially similar to the approved provision in Rev. Rul. 70-270, 1970-1 C.B. 135 .

IX. DISTRIBUTION OF INCOME AND PROHIBITED ACTIVITIES

9.01 Notwithstanding any other provision in _____[these Articles or this Constitution], this Association is subject to the following limitations and restrictions:

(1) The Association must distribute its income for each taxable year at such time and in such manner as not to become subject to the tax on undistributed income imposed by Internal Revenue Code Section 4942 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, or corresponding provisions of any subsequent federal tax laws.

CHAPTER 13A NONPROFIT UNINCORPORATED ASSOCIATIONS
PART IV. FORMS

6-13A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13A.201

§ 13A.201 Bylaws of Unincorporated Nonprofit Association

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an illustrative complete set of bylaws for an unincorporated nonprofit association. The form is designed for use with the articles of organization set forth in § 13A.200. The provisions are of a general nature, for the most part are illustrative only, and are intended to be varied by counsel according to the specific requirements and nature of the association being formed. The form is a guide to the various categories of matters that should be addressed in the bylaws [see [b], below], and provides a framework for organizing and grouping those provisions.

In drafting the bylaws, it is important to keep in mind that the provisions may not violate public policy or law. It is therefore helpful, in determining which provisions are permissible, to consult the statutory provisions relating to nonprofit corporations that the courts have occasionally applied to associations [see Mooney v. Bartenders Union Local No. 284 (1957) 48 Cal. 2d 841, 843, 313 P.2d 857] . Counsel may wish to consult the bylaws of the various nonprofit corporations covered in Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations , for adaptation and inclusion in these bylaws.

If a subordinate body is being organized, the contents of its constitution and bylaws will be governed by the articles of incorporation, articles of association, constitution, or other charter documents, bylaws, and rules of the parent organization. These documents must be consulted before drafting the bylaws.

[b] Contents

There are no statutory provisions generally governing the bylaws of nonprofit unincorporated associations. Therefore, the bylaws may contain any provision appropriate to the nature and organization of the association, and not in conflict with law or public policy. Since the bylaws form part of the contract between the association and its members [see § 13A.13[2]], they should spell out as fully as possible the rights and duties of the members and officers. Essential matters include the following:

- Qualifications for membership, manner of admission, classifications of membership, ongoing membership requirements, and termination of membership.

- Rules for governing the association, including the composition of the board, manner of selection of board members and officers, rights and obligations, termination, and succession.

- Notice requirements.

- Provisions for the amendment of the bylaws.

- Provisions for the termination of the association, including dissolution and winding up.

With respect to the suspension and expulsion of members, it is essential that provision be made for the member to be given notice of the proceedings and a reasonable opportunity to be heard. Of course, the association then must comply with these provisions. For further discussion, see § 13A.33[3][c].

[c] Arbitration of Member Disputes

The bylaws may provide for binding arbitration of disputes between members. By accepting membership in a voluntary association whose bylaws required members to submit all disputes with other members to arbitration on request of either party, the member was bound to arbitrate the dispute [Gear v. Webster (1968) 258 Cal. App. 2d 57, 61-62, 65 Cal. Rptr. 255] . An appellate court has held that a member-plaintiff was bound by an amended bylaw requiring arbitration, even though the bylaws only recommended arbitration when that individual became a member [Gear v. Webster (1968) 258 Cal. App. 2d 57, 61-62, 65 Cal. Rptr. 255 (noting that bylaws at time of entry provided for amendment)].

If the arbitration agreement provides a method of appointing one or more arbitrators, that method must be followed [Code Civ. Proc. § 1281.6]. Thus, the fact that the method of selecting arbitrators differs from the classic procedure in which each side selects one arbitrator and the two selected arbitrators appoint a third arbitrator does not render the agreement inequitable or excuse a member from being bound by the arbitration clause [Gear v. Webster (1968) 258 Cal. App. 2d 57, 63, 65 Cal. Rptr. 255] .

[d] Rights of Members to Inspect Association Records

Courts will apply the rules governing corporations by analogy to nonprofit unincorporated associations when necessary to protect the property rights of a member in the association. By statute, all corporate records in California must be open to inspection on the written demand of any shareholder at any reasonable time for a purpose reasonably related to his or her interests as a shareholder [see Corp. Code § 3003; see also Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations]. Thus, it appears clear that a member of an unincorporated labor union is entitled to inspect its financial records [Mooney v. Bartenders Union Local No. 284 (1957) 48 Cal. 2d 841, 843, 313 P.2d 857] .

Under the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959, every labor organization required to submit a report under the Act must make available the information required to be contained in that report to all of its members. The organization must permit members to examine any books, records, and accounts necessary to verify that report for just cause [29 U.S.C. § 431(c)].

The member must make a proper showing to justify the inspection before the court will issue a writ of mandate to compel it [Deacon v. International Union of Operating Eng'r (1965) 236 Cal. App. 2d 302, 307, 46 Cal. Rptr. 11] . However, the question of a member's right to inspect association documents can be obviated by the inclusion of a bylaw delineating that right. Such a bylaw should not provide for lesser inspections rights than those stated in Mooney v. Bartenders Union Local No. 284, discussed above [see Mooney v. Bartenders Union Local No. 284 (1957) 48 Cal. 2d

The practical and reasonable construction of the association's articles or constitution and bylaws by the governing board is binding on the membership and will be recognized by the courts [DeMille v. American Fed. of Radio Artists (1947) 31 Cal. 2d 139, 147, 187 P.2d 769 , cert. denied, 333 U.S. 876 (1948) ; Berke v. Tri Realtors (1989) 208 Cal. App. 3d 463, 469, 257 Cal. Rptr. 738); Williams v. Inglewood Bd. of Realtors (1963) 219 Cal. App. 2d 479, 486, 33 Cal. Rptr. 289] . Further, statutes relating to unincorporated associations in existence at the time of formation are deemed incorporated into the association agreement by implication [see Security-First Nat. Bank v. Cooper (1944) 62 Cal. App. 2d 653, 669, 145 P.2d 722] .

(3) A "suspension" requires compliance with the public reproval requirements of Subsection (2). In addition, all voting and other rights of the member during the term of the suspension are terminated, provided, however, that the member may not be relieved of any liability for payment of dues or assessments falling due or levied during the period of suspension.

The Secretary, or other person appointed by the President for the purpose, will deliver at least 10 days before the date of the hearing a copy of the resolution or petition, together with a notice of the time and place of the hearing, to the subject member either in person or by United States mail addressed to the member at the address as it appears on the books of the Association. If the person whose duty it is to serve the notice fail or refuse to do so, the copy and notice may be delivered by any Board Member of the Association; in this event the matter will heard at the next regular or special meeting of the Board at which a quorum is present held not less than 10 days after the copy and notice are personally delivered or deposited in the United States mail. (5) After the hearing has closed, the Board Members will vote on whether to impose discipline or dismiss the matter. If they vote to impose discipline but cannot agree on the nature and extent of discipline, the discipline will be a private reproval provided. Any vote imposing discipline or dismissing the matter is final.

(6) _____ [Set forth any other procedure, including appellate procedure, if desired, for disciplining members].

Notice of Meetings

3.04. Written notice of every meeting of members must be either personally delivered or mailed by [first-class or registered or certified] United States mail, postage prepaid, [number not less than 10 or more than 90, e.g., 15 days] before the date of the meeting to each member who is entitled to vote at the meeting as of the record date for notice of the meeting. However, notice of regular member meetings at the Association's principal office is not required.

If notice is given by mail or other means of written communication, the notice must be addressed to the member at the address appearing on the membership book of the Association or at the address given by the member to the Association for the purpose of notice. If no address appears or was given by the member, notice will be given [at the principal office of the Association or by publication in any newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the principal office of the Association is located]. The [Secretary or Assistant Secretary], or any transfer agent specially designated by the [Secretary or Assistant Secretary] for this purpose, will execute an affidavit of the giving of the notice of the meeting of members. In the case of a specially called meeting of members, notice that a special meeting will be held at a time requested by the person or persons calling the meeting not less than 35 days nor more than 90 days after receipt of the written request from that person or persons by the [Chairman of the Board or President or Vice-President or Secretary] of the Association will be sent to the members forthwith and in any event within 20 days after the receipt of the request for a special meeting.

Notwithstanding the provision dispensing with notice of regular meetings, no action may be taken on any of the following proposals at any regular meeting unless written notice of the general nature of the business or proposal has been given as in the case of a special meeting: (1) a proposal to sell, lease, convey, exchange, transfer, or otherwise dispose of all or substantially all of the property or assets of the Association; (2) any proposal relating to the real property of the Association; (3) any proposal of the Association to incur any indebtedness in excess of the sum of $_____; (4) any proposal to incorporate; (5) any proposal to amend the [Articles of Organization or Constitution] of this Association; or (6) any proposal to wind up and dissolve the Association.

Contents of Notice

3.05. The notice must state the place, date, and time of the meeting. In the case of special meetings, the notice must specify the general nature of the business to be transacted. Notice of regular meetings, when required, must identify those matters that the Board, at the time the notice is given, intends to present for action by the members. The notice of any meeting at which Board Members are to be elected must include the names of all those who are nominees at the time the notice is given to the members.

Waivers, Consents, and Approvals

3.06. The transactions of any meeting of members, however called and noticed, and wherever held, are as valid as though had at a meeting duly held after regular call and notice, if a quorum is present either in person or by proxy, and if, either before or after the meeting, each of the persons entitled to vote but not present in person or by proxy, signs a written waiver of notice, a consent to the holding of the meeting, or an approval of the minutes of the meeting. All waivers, consents, and approvals will be [filed with the Association's records or included in the minutes of the meeting].

Quorum

3.07. A quorum at any meeting of members consists of [specify number, proportion, or percentage, e.g., number or a majority or 35 percent] of the voting power, represented in person or by proxy. For purposes of this Bylaw, "voting power" means the power to vote for the election of Board Members at the time any determination of voting power is made and does not include the right to vote on the happening of some condition or event that has not yet occurred.

Adjournment for Lack of Quorum

3.08. In the absence of a quorum, no business may be transacted at any meeting of members, except as provided in Section 3.09 of these Bylaws. The only motion that the chair may entertain is a motion to adjourn. The meeting may be adjourned from time to time by the vote of a majority of the votes represented either in person or by proxy. If adjourned for less than 30 days, no notice of the adjourned meeting need be given. However, if a meeting is adjourned to another time or place, and thereafter a new record date is fixed for notice or voting, notice of the adjourned meeting must be given to each member of record who, on the record date for notice of the meeting, is entitled to vote at the meeting. No meeting of members may be adjourned more than 45 days.

Loss of Quorum

3.09. The members present at a duly called or held meeting at which a quorum is present may continue to transact business until adjournment notwithstanding the withdrawal of enough members to leave less than a quorum, if any action taken, other than adjournment, is approved by at least a majority of members required to constitute a quorum.

(c) When a membership stands of record in the names of two or more persons, whether fiduciaries, members of a partnership, joint tenants, tenants in common, husband and wife as community property, tenants by the entirety, or otherwise, or if two or more persons (including proxyholders) have the same fiduciary relationship respecting the same membership, unless the Secretary of the Association is given written notice to the contrary and is furnished with a copy of the instrument or order appointing them or creating the relationship wherein it is so provided, their acts with respect to voting have the following effect: if only one member votes, that act binds all members; if more than one member vote, the act of the majority so voting binds all members.

(d) Cumulative voting is authorized for the election of Board members, but not for any other purpose.

PRACTICE TIP

For a provision authorizing cumulative voting, see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations, § 13.212[2].

(e) Members entitled to vote are not permitted to vote or act by proxy. [Optional: Any amendment of this provision

Action Without Meeting by Written Ballot

3.13. (a) Any action that may be taken at any regular or special meeting of members may be taken without a meeting. If an action is taken without a meeting, the Association must distribute a written ballot to every member entitled to vote on the matter. The ballot must state the proposed action, provide an opportunity to specify approval or disapproval of any proposal, and provide a reasonable time within which to return the ballot to the Association. Approval by written ballot is valid only when the number of votes cast by ballot within the time period specified equals or exceeds the quorum required to be present at a meeting authorizing the action, and the number of approvals equals or exceeds the number of votes that would be required to approve at a meeting at which the total number of votes cast was the same as the number of votes cast by ballot.

(b) Ballots will be solicited in a manner consistent with the requirements of giving notice of members' meetings set forth in Section 3.04 of these Bylaws. All solicitations must indicate the number of responses needed to meet the quorum requirement and, with respect to ballots other than for the election of Board members, state the percentage of approvals necessary to pass the measure submitted. The solicitation must specify the time by which the ballot must be received in order to be counted.

[EITHER]

(c) Unless otherwise provided in the Articles of Association or these Bylaws, a written ballot may not be revoked.

[OR]

(c) Any member casting a ballot may revoke the ballot, or substitute another, by a writing received by the Association before the time specified on the ballot for its receipt, but may not do so thereafter. The revocation is effective on its receipt by the Secretary of the Association.

Members of ad hoc committees will be appointed by their respective Chairs in the number deemed advisable, unless otherwise provided by the Board in its resolution designating an ad hoc committee. Except as otherwise provided by resolution, Committee Chairs and members must be members of the association. The Chair or any member may be removed from an ad hoc committee by the person or persons authorized to appoint the committee member whenever that person determines that the best interests of the association will be served by removal.

Terms of Office

6.04. The Chair and each member of the Executive Committee and each Chair of a Standing Committee serve until the earlier of (1) the next annual election of the Board and until a successor is appointed, (2) the Committee is dissolved, (3) the individual is removed as a Board Member or officer, (4) the termination of the individual's membership in the association, or (5) the individual otherwise ceases to qualify for the Committee. Vacancies

6.05. Vacancies on any Committee may be filled for the unexpired portion of the term in the same manner as provided in the case of original appointments.

Quorum

6.06. A majority of the Executive Committee or of a Standing Committee constitutes a quorum. The act of a majority of the members present at a meeting at which a quorum is present constitutes the act of the Committee. Unless otherwise provided in the resolution of the Board designating the Committee, Ad Hoc Committees act under the direction of their respective Chairs without any requirement as to a quorum.

§ 13A.202 Registration of Nonprofit Unincorporated Association [LP/UNA 128]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the California Secretary of State's official form for registration of nonprofit unincorporated associations [Form LP/UNA 128]. The form may be used to register the Association's name, insignia, or both.

PRACTICE TIP

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE: Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, which is located at http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm. You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 3405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 13A.202. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

Any collection of persons wishing to form a nonprofit unincorporated association and register its name with the Secretary may do so by filing this form. Any association, the principles and activities of which are not repugnant to the Constitution or laws of the United States or California, may register with the Secretary of State a facsimile or description of its name or insignia [Corp. Code § 21301; see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 14492, 14492.5; see Gov. Code § 12193(f) (registration fee)]. However, an association may not register any name or insignia similar to or so nearly resembling another name already registered as may be likely to deceive [Corp. Code § 21302; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 14492(b)]. "Insignia" includes a badge, motto, button, decoration, charm, emblem, or rosette [Corp. Code § 21300(b)].

The registration is for the use and benefit and on behalf of the association, the individual members, and those who become members [Corp. Code § 21303]. Penalties for improper use are discussed in § 13A.15[2].

[b] Filing Requirements

The application for registration is made by the chief officer or officers of the association on a form provided by the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 21303]. The form must be executed under penalty of perjury [see [2], below]. The application for registration must be accompanied by the applicable filing fee [Corp. Code § 21304; see Gov. Code § 12191(b)(2) (fee)]; an additional fee is required if the association requests certified copies [see [2], below].

The form must be filed at the following address:

Secretary of State
Limited Partnerships Section
P.O. Box 944225
Sacramento, CA 94244-2250

[c] No Discretion to Deny Registration if Filing Proper

If the form is properly completed and the applicable filing fee is paid, the Secretary of State has no discretion with respect to the filing of the registration and the issuance of the certificate. The Secretary of State has no authority or reason to investigate the relationships between or determine the motivations of the members of an association desiring to register its name. Further, the Secretary has no authority to alter the name sought to be registered, although a name that is deceptively similar to a registered name cannot be registered. For these reasons, the Secretary of State has accepted for filing associations registering with names such as "Family of Debra Deem and James Riley." Although the Secretary does not register families as such, the name of an association including the word "family" as part of the name will be registered [see Secretary of State, Unincorporated Nonprofit Association Filings General Information Sheet].

[d] Issuance of Certificate

On registration, the Secretary of State will issue a certificate setting forth the fact of registration [Corp. Code § 21305]. Provided that the form is properly completed and the applicable filing fee paid, the Secretary of State has no discretion with respect to the filing of the registration and the issuance of the certificate [see Secretary of State, Unincorporated Nonprofit Association Filings General Information Sheet]. The Secretary will keep a properly indexed record of the registration [Corp. Code § 21306].

[e] Amendment and Cancellation

A nonprofit unincorporated association may by reregistration alter or cancel the registration [Corp. Code § 21301; see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 14492, 14492.5; see Gov. Code § 12193(f) (registration fee for organizational name)]. The application for alteration or cancellation of an existing registration, is made by the chief officer or officers of the association on a form provided by the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 21303]. The Secretary will keep a properly indexed record of the registration, including any altered or canceled registration [Corp. Code § 21306].

§ 13A.204 Contract for Assumption of Liability by Member

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a contract by which a member of a nonprofit unincorporated association may assume a specific contractual debt or liability of the association. The form may be adapted for use when two or more members agree to assume the debt or liability.

CHAPTER 13B TAX-EXEMPT STATUS FOR NONPROFIT ENTITIES

6-13B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide Scope

Scope

Scope

This chapter discusses the tax issues that nonprofit corporations and unincorporated associations must face. The chapter covers the preparation of applications to obtain federal and state tax-exempt status and other state tax exemptions, and provides checklists for maintaining for tax-exempt status.

The major portion of this chapter concerns tax-exempt organizations described in I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) and Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d, that is, religious, charitable, educational, and scientific organizations. These types of organizations are the most significant of the categories of tax-exempt organizations, and the rules governing them are complex. Other exempt organizations described in I.R.C. § 501 and in comparable provisions of the California tax law [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23701-23701x, 23704] are also discussed but in less detail.

The formation and operation of nonprofit corporations is covered in Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations . The formation and operation of nonprofit unincorporated associations are discussed in Ch. 13A, Nonprofit Unincorporated Associations . The taxation of businesses is covered in Ch. 1E, Taxation of Businesses . Further discussion of state and federal income tax charitable deductions for contributions to qualifying nonprofit organizations may be found in Ch. 69, Charitable Dispositions .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview

6-13B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13B.10

§ 13B.10 Comparison of State and Federal Income Tax Exemptions

[1] Exemptions Similar but Not Identical

Organizations that are exempt from federal and California income taxes are enumerated in I.R.C. §§ 501, 521, 527, and 528 and in Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23701 et seq., and 23704. Although the classification of organizations exempted from California franchise and income taxes is, for the most part, the same as the classification of organizations exempted from federal income tax, some organizations are exempt from federal taxation but not from California taxation, while other organizations are exempt from state taxes but not from federal taxes. The table in [2], below, illustrates the nature of those organizations eligible for exemption from tax and demonstrates, when applicable, the correlation between the California exemption and its federal counterpart.

It should never be assumed that an organization exempt from taxation for federal purposes is also exempt from California taxation. Neither should it be assumed that the California and federal requirements of a particular exempt category are identical merely because there is a comparable state and federal exemption; both California and federal tax law must be consulted. Furthermore, recognition of exempt status for federal income tax purposes does not automatically entitle an organization to tax-exempt status for California purposes. Although procedures for filing applications for exempt status with the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) and the Franchise Tax Board (FTB) are similar, separate exemption determinations are made by these agencies [see §§ 13B.20, 13B.40]. However, the California tax law is generally patterned after the federal law and is therefore substantially similar. The major differences are discussed in this Legal Background, and parallel citations between the Internal Revenue Code and the Revenue and Taxation Code are provided whenever the differences are minor or nonexistent.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview

6-13B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13B.11

§ 13B.11 Nonprofit Status Does Not Automatically Ensure Exemption

The fact that an organization is formed as a nonprofit corporation [see Corp. Code § 5000 et seq.] or a nonprofit unincorporated association [see Corp. Code § 18605 et seq.] does not automatically entitle the organization to tax-exempt status under either California or federal law. Tax-exempt status is a statutory privilege rather than a right and is not automatically recognized or granted. Nonprofit corporations and unincorporated associations are therefore generally subjected to tax under I.R.C. § 11 and Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23151, 23501 unless they establish a specific exemption.

To be tax-exempt, a nonprofit entity must come within one of the statutes declaring the exemption, and the entity's purposes and activities can be no broader than those described in the statute. For example, an organization organized and operated exclusively for charitable purposes is exempt from federal income tax [I.R.C. § 501(c)(3)] and from state franchise and income tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d], and a pleasure club organized and operated exclusively for pleasure, recreation, and other nonprofit purposes is also exempt from federal income tax [I.R.C. § 501(c)(7)] and from state franchise and income tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701g]. However, an organization organized and operated both for charitable purposes and for pleasure, recreation, and other nonprofit purposes would not be exempt from either tax because its activities are not exclusively limited to those set forth in the governing statutes. A nonprofit organization that does not fit into one of the various categories of exempt organizations is not tax-exempt [see Rev. Rul. 63-190, 1963-2 C.B. 212 ; see also FTB Form 1069].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview

6-13B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13B.12

§ 13B.12 Advantages of Tax-Exempt Status

For-profit entities may conduct nonprofit activities without changing status. However, significant advantages may result from nonprofit status, including the following:

- Tax exemptions from federal income tax and state franchise and income tax [see, e.g., I.R.C. § 501(a); Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701].

- Income tax deductibility of gifts to the entity [see I.R.C. § 170; Rev. & Tax. Code § 17201 (deductions determined in accordance with federal law unless otherwise provided)].

- Securities exemptions [see Chs. 13, Nonprofit Corporations ; Ch. 13A, Nonprofit Unincorporated Associations ; see also Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues, for a list of the available California securities exemptions]

- Special copyright treatment [see 17 U.S.C. § 110 et seq.].

- Gifts to entity may be eligible for federal estate and gift tax deductions [I.R.C. §§ 2055, 2522] and California gift tax exemptions [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 15441, 15442].

Assuming that an entity has clear nonprofit or exempt purpose, tax-exempt status may be important for operational reasons. If the entity will be dependent on the tax deductibility of contributions, or on grant or endowment funding, tax exempt status may be critical. In general, I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) and Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d organizations rely on charitable contributions to generate sufficient support for their activities. Further, nonprofits are eligible for reduced rate mailing privileges, and may be able to secure property tax advantages [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 202-207, 213.7-217, 221-231] and sales tax advantages [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6361 et seq. (exemptions)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview

§ 13B.13 Disadvantages of Tax-Exempt Status

Despite the many attractions of nonprofit, tax-exempt status [see § 13B.12], that status may have significant disadvantages as well. For example, it may be more difficult to attract directors and officers, given the lack of profit motive, the lack of incentive stock options, and generally lower compensation. In addition, tax-exempt status is not particularly useful if the entity is operating at a loss, and tax exemptions do not cover unrelated business income [see I.R.C. §§ 511-514; Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23731-23735; see also § 13B.131[1]].

Exempt organizations are prohibited from engaging in certain activities and can engage in other activities only to a limited extent to retain tax-exempt status [see, e.g., I.R.C. § 503 (prohibited transactions)]. If an organization's ability to engage in these activities without restrictions is preferable to obtaining tax-exempt status, applying for tax-exempt status will not be worthwhile.

Finally, nonprofits are often subject to more governmental oversight. Because the penalty for failing to comply may be loss of exempt status [see §§ 13B.25, 13B.26, 13B.42], the consequence of noncompliance can be extremely severe.

§ 13B.20 Establishing Exemption Under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3)

[1] Filing Requirement

[a] Filing Form 1023 as Condition Precedent to Exempt Status

The fact that an organization may qualify as an exempt organization does not automatically exempt it. Most organizations described in I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) must apply for, and be granted, exempt status as a condition precedent to recognition as tax-exempt organizations [I.R.C. § 508(a); Treas. Reg. § 1.508-1(a)(2)]. The IRS interprets this notice requirement as requiring the filing of IRS Form 1023, the federal application form for recognition of exempt status under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3). Thus, organizations qualifying for exempt status under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) will not be treated as tax-exempt unless they file Form 1023 with the proper IRS District Director [Treas. Reg. § 1.508-1(a)(2)(i)].

[b] Exceptions From Filing Requirement

Exceptions to this filing requirement exist for the following [I.R.C. § 508(c); Treas. Reg. § 1.508-1(a)(3)(i)-(ii)]:

- Churches, their integrated auxiliaries, and conventions or associations of churches.

- Any organization (other than a private foundation) satisfying the exemption requirements whose annual gross receipts do not normally exceed $5,000.

- Subordinate organizations (other than private foundations) covered by a group exemption letter.

Although these excepted entities are automatically excepted from this filing requirement, they may file the form voluntarily. If the entity wants to establish its exemption with the IRS and receive a ruling or determination letter recognizing its exempt status, it should file Form 1023 [Treas. Reg. § 1.508-1(a)(4)]. The organization may file to obtain certain incidental benefits, such as public recognition of tax-exempt status, exemption from certain state taxes, exemption from certain federal excise taxes, advance assurance to donors of deductibility of contributions, and nonprofit mailing privileges [see IRS Form 1023, Instructions; see also § 13B.200]. It is usually advantageous for an excepted entity to make the filing to obtain a formal recognition of its status from the IRS, particularly if the entity plans to solicit contributions.

[c] Time of Filing

New entities must file Form 1023 within 15 months after the end of the month of formation [Treas. Reg. § 1.508-1(a)]. With the application of an automatic extension, organizations seeking exempt status have 27 months from the date of formation to make this filing [see Rev. Proc. 92-85, 1992-2 C.B. 490]. Entities may also request an additional extension, showing that they acted reasonably and in good faith and that the government's interests have not been prejudiced by the delayed filing [see Rev. Proc. 92-85, 1992-2 C.B. 490 , as modified, Rev. Proc. 93-28, 1993-2 C.B. 344].

Exemption applications must be accompanied by the applicable fee. The amount of the fee is based on the actual or expected annual gross receipts of the entity claiming exemption [see IRS Form 8718].

If the exemption is granted, the exemption will be made retroactive to the date of formation [Treas. Reg. § 1.508-1(a)(2)]. However, recognition will not be retroactive if the applicant must alter its activities or substantively amend the charter documents to qualify for exempt status [see Rev. Proc. 84-47, 1984-1 C.B. 545].

[2] Exempt Purpose

The stated purpose of an I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) organization must be one or more of the following: charitable, religious, educational, scientific, literary, testing for public safety, fostering national or international amateur sports competition (but only if no part of its activities involve the provision of athletic facilities or equipment), or the prevention of cruelty to children or animals [I.R.C. § 501(c)(3); Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(d)(1)(i)]. Provided that they satisfy the requirements of their respective sections, certain cooperative hospital service organizations, cooperative service organizations, operating educational organizations, and child care organizations qualify as organizations organized and operated exclusively for charitable or educational purposes [see I.R.C. § 501(e), (f), (k)].

The exempt purpose requirement, in the context of the organizational and operational tests, is discussed in [3] and [4], below, respectively. The general nature of specific exempt purposes is discussed in § 13B.200[1][d].

[3] Organizational Test

[a] Exclusively Exempt Purposes

The I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) exemption requires that the entity's articles of organization [see Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(b)(2)] limit the organizational purpose of the organization to one or more of the designated exempt purposes [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(a), (b)(1)(i)(a); see [2], above]. Under this "organizational test," an entity's purposes, as stated in its articles, may be as broad as, or more specific than, the exempt purposes stated in I.R.C. § 501(c)(3). An organization is not considered to be organized exclusively for one or more exempt purposes if, under the terms of its articles, its purposes are broader than those statutory purposes. The fact that the actual operation of the organization has been exclusively in furtherance of one or more exempt purposes is not sufficient to permit the organization to meet the organizational test. Similarly, the fact that members' statements or other evidence establishes that the members intend solely to operate in furtherance of one or more exempt purposes is not sufficient to permit the organization to meet the organizational test [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(b)(1)(iv)].

An organization is not organized exclusively for one or more exempt purposes if its articles expressly empower it (1) to devote more than an insubstantial part of its activities to attempting to influence legislation by propaganda or otherwise [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(b)(3)(i); but see [7], below]; (2) directly or indirectly to participate or intervene in any political campaign on behalf of or in opposition to any candidate for public office [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(b)(3)(ii)

]; or (3) to have objectives and to engage in activities that characterize it as an "action organization" [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(b)(3)(iii); see Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(c)(3) ("action organization" defined); see also [4], below]. However, notwithstanding the restriction on lobbying activity, it is possible for an organization to elect to be allowed to spend a considerable amount of its funds each year on lobbying, provided that the organization is classed as a public charity [see I.R.C. §§ 501(h), 4911; Treas. Reg. §§ 1.501(h)-1-1.501(h)-3; see also [7], below]. Further, an organization's articles do not violate the "insubstantial part" prong of this test even if the articles expressly empower it to (1) make the lobbying election [see I.R.C. § 501(h); see also [7], below] with respect to influencing legislation; and (2) make lobbying or grass roots expenditures, on election, that do not exceed the prescribed ceiling amounts [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(b)(3); see I.R.C. § 501(h)(2)(B), (D)]. The articles may not expressly empower the organization to engage, other than as an insubstantial part of its activities, in activities that in themselves are not in furtherance of one or more exempt purposes [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(b)(1)(i)(b)].

[b] Dedication of Assets

In addition to being organized exclusively for one or more exempt purposes [see [a], above], the assets of a nonprofit organization must be dedicated to an exempt purpose. An organization's assets are deemed dedicated to an exempt purpose, for example, if, on dissolution, those assets would, by reason of a provision in the organization's articles or by operation of law, be distributed for one or more exempt purposes, or to the federal government, or to a state or local government, for a public purpose, or would be distributed by a court to another organization to be used in such a manner as in the judgment of the court would best accomplish the general purposes for which the dissolved organization was organized. An organization does not satisfy the organizational test if its articles or the law of the state in which it was created provide that the assets would be distributed to an organization's members or shareholders on dissolution [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(b)(4)]. As a matter of course, an organization's articles should include a provision ensuring permanent dedication of assets for exempt purposes, rather than relying on state law to establish permanent dedication.

[c] No Private Benefit or Inurement

No part of a nonprofit entity's net earnings may inure to the benefit of private shareholders or members [I.R.C. § 501(c)(3); Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(c)(2)]. The organizational document should contain a provision to this effect.

A nonprofit must also establish that the entity will not be organized or operated for the benefit of private interests. An organization is not organized or operated exclusively for one or more exempt purposes unless it serves a public rather than a private interest. Accordingly, an organization must establish that it is not organized or operated for the benefit of private interests, such as designated individuals, its creator or his or her family, shareholders or members of the organization, or persons controlled directly or indirectly by these private interests [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(d)(1)(ii); see Housing Pioneers, Inc. v. Commissioner (9th Cir. 1995) 58 F.3d 401 (general partner in limited partnerships formed to secure property tax exemption for limited partners not exempt because of substantial nonexempt purpose)]. The organizational document should contain a provision to this effect.

These two requirements are not precisely identical [see American Campaign Academy v. Commissioner (1989) 92 T.C. 1053 (distinction between private inurement and private benefit)].

[4] Operational Test

[a] Exclusively Operated for Exempt Purposes

The "operational test" is an extension of the organizational test, that is, an organization must not only be organized in such a manner as to engage in or refrain from engaging in certain activities, it must also in its actual operation engage in or refrain from engaging in these activities as a continuing requirement for qualification under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3). An organization will be regarded as "operated exclusively" for one or more exempt purposes only if it engages primarily in activities that accomplish one or more of the exempt statutory purposes.

An organization does not meet this test if more than an insubstantial part of its activities is not in furtherance of an exempt purpose [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(c)(1)]. Nor is an organization operated exclusively for one or more exempt purposes if its net earnings inure in whole or in part to the benefit of private shareholders or individuals [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(c)(2); see Treas. Reg. § 1.501(a)-1(c)]. For example, a church that mailed out sermons to solicit contributions, was operated primarily for the purpose of providing a market for an affiliated advertising agency, and paid its ministers excessive salaries did not satisfy the operational test [see Church by Mail, Inc. v. C.I.R. (9th Cir. 1985) 765 F.2d 1387, 1392-1393] .

PRACTICE TIP:

An organization seeking a tax exemption need not have been in operation for any specified length of time to obtain tax-exempt status. A ruling or determination letter may be issued in advance of operations if the application and supporting documents provide sufficient detail to establish that the organization and its proposed activities meet the requirements of the particular exemption being asserted. However, the IRS may require a record of actual operations before a ruling or determination letter will be issued [Treas. Reg. § 601.201(n)(1)(ii); Rev. Proc. 80-25, 1980-1 C.B. 667], and actual operations are required to maintain exempt status [see § 13B.25[1]].

[b] Limitation on Influencing Legislation and Lobbying

An organization does not meet the operational test if it is an "action organization." An organization is an action organization if a substantial part of its activities is attempting to influence legislation by propaganda or otherwise [see Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(c)(3)(ii)]. An organization for which the lobbying expenditure test election [see I.R.C. § 501(h); see also [e], below] is in effect for a taxable year will not be considered an action organization under this rule for that year if the organization is not denied tax exempt status because of I.R.C. § 501(h) [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(c)(3)(ii)].

Further, an organization is an action organization if it participates or intervenes in any political campaign on behalf of or in opposition to any candidate for public office [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(c)(3)(iii)]. An action organization also has the following characteristics [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(c)(3)(iv)]:

- The entity's primary objective may be attained only by legislation, or a defeat of proposed legislation; and

- The entity advocates, or campaigns for, the attainment of that primary objective, as distinguished from engaging in nonpartisan analysis, study, or research, and making the results available to the public.

However, certain organizations may elect an alternative provision allowing them to engage in activities to influence legislation to a considerable extent [see [7], below].

Further, an I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) organization may not support or oppose any candidate for political office [I.R.C. § 501(c)(3)]. This bar is absolute and its violation results in denial or revocation of tax-exempt status [see Christian Echoes Nat'l Ministry v. United States (10th Cir. 1972) 470 F.2d 849, 853-854] . For further discussion, see § 13B.20[3][a], [4][b].

[c] Limitation on Unrelated Trade or Business

An organization organized and operated for the primary purpose of carrying on a trade or business that is unrelated to an exempt purpose does not qualify for exemption. However, an organization may meet the exemption requirements even though it operates a trade or business as a substantial part of its activities, if the operation of the trade or business is in furtherance of the organization's exempt purpose and if the organization is not organized or operated for the primary purpose of carrying on an unrelated trade or business [see I.R.C. § 513]. In determining the existence of such a primary purpose, all the circumstances must be considered, including the size and extent of the trade or business, and the size and extent of the activities, which are in furtherance of one or more exempt purposes [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(e)]. An unrelated trade or business is generally any trade or business the conduct of which is not substantially related to the exercise or performance of the purpose constituting the basis of the organization's exemption [see I.R.C. § 513(a)].

[d] Limitation on Providing Commercial-Type Insurance

An organization will not qualify for exemption (under either I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) or (4)) if a substantial part of its activities consists of providing commercial-type insurance [I.R.C. § 501(m)(1)]. The issuance of annuity contracts will be treated as providing commercial-type insurance [I.R.C. § 501(m)(4)]. However, all of the following are excluded from the definition of "commercial-type insurance" [I.R.C. § 501(m)(3)]:

- Insurance provided at substantially below cost to a class of charitable recipients.
- Incidental health insurance provided by a health maintenance organization of a kind customarily provided by those organizations.
- Property or casualty insurance provided by a church, convention, or association of churches for that church, convention, or association.
- Retirement or welfare benefits (or both) provided by a church, convention, or association for its employees or their beneficiaries.
- Annuities for which a portion of the amount paid is allowable as a charitable deduction ("charitable gift annuities") [see I.R.C. §§ 501(m)(5), 514(c)(5) (description of annuity features); see also I.R.C. §§ 170, 2055 (deduction requirements)].

If only an insubstantial part of the organization's activity consists of providing commercial-type insurance, that activity will be treated as an unrelated trade or business [I.R.C. § 501(m)(2)(A); see I.R.C. § 513]. In these circumstances, the organization will be taxed under the provisions applicable to insurance companies [I.R.C. § 501(m)(2); see I.R.C. §§ 801-845] rather than under I.R.C. § 511 [I.R.C. § 501(m)(2)(B)].

PRACTICE TIP:
California does not contain a similar exception and will impose a tax on gross premiums [see Cal. Const. art. XIII, § 28.

[5] Private Foundation Status; Notice Requirement

[a] Presumption of Private Foundation Status

Every I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) organization that qualifies for tax exemption is a private foundation unless it falls into one of the categories specifically excluded from the definition of that term. I.R.C. § 509(a) defines the term "private foundation" in the negative, by actually defining the organizations that are excluded from the meaning of the term. In effect, the definition divides I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) organizations into two classes: private foundations and organizations other than private foundations. The latter organizations are commonly referred to as "public charities" or "publicly supported charities" [see [b], below].

Even if an organization falls into a category excluded from the definition of a private foundation, the entity will be presumed to be a private foundation, with some exceptions, unless it gives timely notice to the IRS that it is not a private foundation [see I.R.C. § 508(b)]. Thus, it is not sufficient merely to be defined as a public charity [see [b], below]. The IRS must also be notified of this fact in the prescribed manner. Without notification, the organization will be treated as a private foundation [Treas. Reg. § 1.508-1(b)(1); see [d], below].

PRACTICE TIP:

An organization may notify the IRS of its nonprivate foundation status by filing Form 1023 and providing the required information in support of that claim [I.R.C. § 508(b); Treas. Reg. § 1.508-1(b)(2)(iv); see IRS Form 1023, pt. III; see also [b], below]. For California tax purposes, the federal presumption of private foundation status is inapplicable to organizations that are not actually private foundations [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23708(c)(2); see 18 Cal. Code Reg. 23708].

[b] Public Charity Distinguished

The following I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) organizations are considered to be public charities and are not private foundations [I.R.C. § 509(a)]:

- Organizations eligible for the 50 percent deduction limitation on charitable contributions [see I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(A) (other than clauses (vii), (viii))], including the following:
  - A church or a convention or association of churches.
  - An educational organization such as a school or college.
  - Organizations operated for the benefit of certain state and municipal colleges and universities.
  - A hospital and medical research organization (operated in conjunction with a hospital).
  - A governmental unit [see I.R.C. § 170(c)(1)].
  - An I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) organization [see I.R.C. § 170(c)(2)] that ordinarily receives a substantial part of its support (exclusive of income received in the exercise or performance by that organization of its exempt purpose or function) from a governmental unit [see I.R.C. § 170(c)(1)] or from direct or indirect contributions from the general public.
- Organizations that receive broad public support in the amounts required by I.R.C. § 509(a)(2).
- Organizations that actively function in a supporting relationship to, and are operated, supervised, or controlled by or in connection with one or more of the organizations described in the two preceding paragraphs.
- Organizations that are organized and operated exclusively for testing for public safety.

[c] Tax Ramifications

The federal income tax ramifications resulting the classification of an organization as a public charity or a private foundation are vastly different. Preferential tax treatment is accorded public charities, while private foundations are subject to complex and restrictive rules. For example, individual donors are entitled to deduct an amount not exceeding 50 percent of their adjusted gross income for contributions made to public charities in a taxable year [I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(A)]. With minor exceptions [see I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(A)(vii)], individual donors to private foundations are generally limited to a deduction of up to 30 percent of their adjusted gross income for contributions made during a taxable year [I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(B)]. In addition, private foundations are subject to more burdensome annual return and reporting requirements [see I.R.C. § 6033] and to various excise taxes [see I.R.C. § 4940 et seq.; see also [f], below].

[d] Notice Requirement

The notice requirement applicable to nonprivate foundation status is satisfied by the filing of IRS Form 1023, which provides the proper space for notification by I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) organizations that they are claiming nonprivate foundation status [I.R.C. § 508(b); Treas. Reg. § 1.508-1(b)(2)(iv); see IRS Form 1023, pt. III]. These organizations must also provide certain facts forming the basis for their claim [see Treas. Reg. § 1.508-1(b)(2)(iv)].

If a nonprofit must file notice that it is not a private foundation, the notice must be filed within 15 months from the end of the month in which it was organized [Treas. Reg. § 1.508-1(b)(2)(i)]. However, an extension of time for filing may be granted [see Treas. Reg. § 1.508-1(b)(2)(v)].

Some I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) organizations are exempt from this notice requirement [see I.R.C. § 508(c)]. The excepted organizations include the same organizations that are excepted from the requirement of filing a Form 1023 [see [1], above; see also IRS Pub. No. 557]. Certain nonexempt charitable trusts are also excepted [see I.R.C. § 4947(a)(1)]. However, any organization excepted from this requirement may voluntarily file [Treas. Reg. § 1.508-1(b)(8)].

[e] Governing Instruments of Private Foundations

A private foundation is not exempt from taxation unless its governing instrument [see Treas. Reg. §§ 1.501(c)(3)-1(b)(2), 1.508-3(c)] contains provisions that do the following [I.R.C. § 508(e)(1); Treas. Reg. § 1.508-3(b); but see I.R.C. § 508(e)(2)]:

- Require income to be distributed in a manner and at a time that will not subject the foundation to the excise tax on undistributed income [see I.R.C. § 4942].
- Prohibit self-dealing [see I.R.C. § 4941(d)].
- Prohibit the foundation from retaining excess business holdings [see I.R.C. § 4943(c)].
- Prohibit the foundation from making investments that jeopardize its exempt purposes in such a manner as to subject [see I.R.C. § 4944].
- Prohibit the foundation from making taxable expenditures [see I.R.C. § 4945(d)].

The governing instruments of private foundations will be deemed to satisfy these requirements if valid provisions of state law have been enacted that contain the required prohibitions or treat the required prohibitions as contained in the governing instruments [Treas. Reg. § 1.508-3(d)]. California statutes make these required provisions part of every governing instrument creating a corporation that is either a private foundation [see I.R.C. § 509] or a nonexempt charitable trust that is treated as a private foundation under I.R.C. § 4947(a) [Prob. Code §§ 16101-16104; see Corp. Code §§ 5260, 9260; see also Rev. Rul. 75-38, 1975-1 C.B. 161]. Therefore, it is not required that the governing instruments of private foundations expressly contain these provisions.

PRACTICE TIP:

California requires that similar provisions be in the governing instruments of private foundations [see

Rev. & Tax. Code § 23708(e); 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23708(b)].

[f] Imposition of Excise Taxes

Private foundations are subject to many complex restrictions and requirements not applicable to publicly supported charities. The most important of these rules include the following:

- Restrictions on self-dealing between private foundations and their substantial contributors [see I.R.C. §§ 507(d)(2), 4946(a)(1)(A)] and other disqualified persons [I.R.C. § 4941; see I.R.C. § 4946(a)].
- Requirements that the foundation annually distribute income for charitable purposes [I.R.C. § 4942].
- Limitations on private foundation holdings in private businesses [I.R.C. § 4943].
- Provisions that investments may not jeopardize the carrying out of exempt purposes [I.R.C. § 4944].
- Provisions to ensure that expenditures further exempt purposes [I.R.C. § 4945].

If any of these provisions are violated, one or more specific excise taxes are imposed on the private foundation and, in some cases, its managers, its substantial contributors, and certain related persons [see I.R.C. § 4946].

I.R.C. § 4940 imposes an excise tax of 2 percent on the annual net investment income of private foundations that are exempt from taxation under I.R.C. § 501(a) [I.R.C. § 4940(a)]. Income items included in the calculation are income from interest, dividends, rents, payments with respect to securities [see I.R.C. § 512(a)(5)], and royalties [see I.R.C. § 4940(c)]. Private foundations may be eligible for a lower, 1 percent rate under certain conditions [see I.R.C. § 4940(e)], but only if the foundation was not liable for taxes for failure to distribute income for any year in the base period [I.R.C. § 4940(e)(2)(B); see I.R.C. § 4942].

An "exempt operating foundation" is not required to pay any excise tax on investment income [see I.R.C. § 4940(d)(1)]. A private foundation qualifies as an exempt operating foundation if [I.R.C. § 4940(d)(2)]

- It is an operating foundation [see I.R.C. § 4942(j)(3); see also [g], below].
- It has been publicly supported for at least 10 taxable years.
- Its governing body at all times during the taxable year is broadly representative of the general public and consists of individuals, at least 75 percent of whom are not disqualified individuals.
- No officer of the foundation, at any time during the taxable year, is a disqualified individual.

An additional penalty tax equal to the amount of the initial excise tax will be imposed on any person who becomes liable for any of the above excise taxes by reason of any act (or failure to act) that is not due to reasonable cause if that person has been liable for a prior excise tax, or that act (or failure to act) is both willful and flagrant [I.R.C. § 6684]. A termination tax may also be due if the private foundation's status is terminated because of willful, repeated acts, or a willful and flagrant act, giving rise to liability for one of the above excise taxes [see I.R.C. § 507(a)(2)]. Conversely, the IRS has discretion to abate or refund any excise taxes if it is established that the violation was due to a reasonable cause and not to willful neglect, and that the violation was corrected within the appropriate correction period [I.R.C. § 4962(a)].

PRACTICE TIP:

California imposes no special excise taxes on private foundations. Rather, California will revoke the exempt status of private foundations for certain violations of the foregoing prohibitions, resulting in liability for franchise taxes [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23707, 23708(e); 18 Cal. Code Reg. 23708(b)].

[g] Private Operating Foundations

Private foundations may qualify as "private operating foundations" [I.R.C. § 4942(j)(3)]. The advantages of operating foundation status are twofold:

- First, charitable contributions to a private operating foundation qualify for the higher 50 percent charitable deduction limitation on a donor's tax return [I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(A)(vii), (F)(i)], while contributions to most other private foundations qualify for the lower 30 percent deduction limitation [see I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(B); but see I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(F)(ii), (iii)].

- Second, an operating foundation is not subject to the rules requiring private foundations to distribute their income annually for charitable purposes and imposing an excise tax for their failure to do so [I.R.C. § 4942(a)(1)].

An operating foundation is subject to all of the other private foundation rules.

To qualify as a private operating foundation, an organization must make qualifying distributions [see I.R.C. § 4942(g)(1), (2)] directly for the active conduct of its exempt purposes or functions equal to substantially all of the lesser of its adjusted net income [see I.R.C. § 4942(f)] or its minimum investment return [I.R.C. § 4942(j)(3)(A)]. The foundation must also meet the assets test, the endowment test, or the support test [see I.R.C. § 4942(j)(3)(B)]. If distributions exceed the minimum investment returns for the taxable year, they must equal the foundation's adjusted net income unless substantially all of the distributions are made directly for the active conduct of its charitable activities [I.R.C. § 4942(j)(3)(A)].

PRACTICE TIP:

The primary distinction between a private foundation and an operating foundation is that a typical private foundation almost exclusively makes grants to other charities, whereas an operating foundation is itself directly involved in the performance of charitable activities.

[h] Termination of Private Foundation Status

An organization's status as a private foundation may be terminated voluntarily or involuntarily [see I.R.C. § 507; see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 23707]. An organization's status as a private foundation is voluntarily terminated if the organization notifies the IRS of its intent to terminate in the manner prescribed and the organization pays any applicable termination tax [I.R.C. § 507(a)(1), (c), (g); see I.R.C. § 507(b); see also Treas. Reg. § 1.507-1(b)]. Private foundation status is terminated involuntarily if there have been willful, repeated acts (or failures to act) or a willful and flagrant act (or failure to act) resulting in the imposition of an excise taxes [see [e], above], the IRS notifies the foundation that it is imposing a termination tax, and the organization pays any applicable termination tax [I.R.C. § 507(a)(2), (c), (g); see Treas. Reg. § 1.507-1(c)]. The termination tax is equal to the lesser of the aggregate tax benefit of I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) status or the value of the foundation's net assets [I.R.C. § 507(c); see I.R.C. § 507(d), (e)]. The unpaid portion of any termination tax may be abated by the IRS under certain circumstances [see I.R.C. § 507(g)].

A private foundation voluntarily terminating its status may avoid the termination tax if the foundation (1) has not committed willful, repeated acts (or failures to act) or a willful and flagrant act (or failure to act) giving rise to liability for excise tax (and involuntary termination) and (2) the foundation distributes all its assets to a qualified public charity or transforms itself into a public charity [I.R.C. § 507(b)(1); see Treas. Reg. § 1.507-2(a)(1)]. The termination tax is not imposed if the assets are transferred to another private foundation pursuant to liquidation, merger, redemption, recapitalization, or other adjustment, organization, or reorganization [see I.R.C. § 507(b)(2); see also Treas. Reg. § 1.507-3].

[6] Use of Affiliate to Engage in Lobbying

In general, organizations exempt from taxation under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) will lose tax-exempt status (and the ability to receive deductible charitable contributions [see I.R.C. § 170(c)(2)(D)]) if a substantial part of the entity's activities is carried on to influence legislation [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(3); see also [4][b], above]. However, the organization may maintain its exempt status for its nonlobbying activities and establish an affiliate to engage in lobbying activities [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(4)]. For example, the organization might establish a political action committee (PAC) that is free to participate in political campaigns [see Treas. Reg. §§ 1.501(c)(4)-1(a)(2)(ii), 1.527-6(f), (g)]. The related I.R.C. § 501(c)(4) entity must be separately incorporated, and it must maintain records that show that tax-deductible contributions to the I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) entity have not been used to support the political activities [see I.R.C. §§ 170(c), 501(c)(3), (4), 527(f)(3); Treas. Reg. §§ 1.501(c)(4)-1, 1.527-6(e)-(g); see also Branch Ministries v. Rossotti (D.C. 2000) 211 F.3d 137, 141-144 (church lost exempt status for political activities); Regan v. Taxation With Representation (1983) 461 U.S. 540, 544, 103 S. Ct. 1997, 76 L. Ed. 2d 129 (separate incorporation and separate records not unduly burdensome)].

PRACTICE TIP:

In general, political organizations must notify the IRS electronically that they are to be treated as an exempt political organization in order to secure exempt status [I.R.C. § 527(i)(1); see I.R.C. § 527(i)(2), (3) (time; contents); but see I.R.C. § 527(i)(5), (6) (exceptions, including if entity reasonably anticipates no gross receipts in excess of $25,000)]. If the organization fails to notify the IRS within 24 hours after the organization is established [I.R.C. § 527(i)(2)], the organization's taxable income must be computed by taking into account any exempt function income and any deductions directly connected with that income for any period that the organization is not in compliance with this requirement [I.R.C. § 527(i)(4); see § 13B.27]. If the organization fails to notify the IRS within 30 days after any material change in the information required to be filed with the IRS, the organization's taxable income must be computed by taking into account the income and deductions only during the period beginning on the date when the material change occurred and ending on the date when the notice was given [I.R.C. § 527(i)(2), (4)].

[7] Lobbying Election for Public Charities

Organizations exempt from taxation under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) will lose tax-exempt status (and the ability to receive deductible charitable contributions [see I.R.C. § 170(c)(2)(D)]) if a substantial part of the entity's activities is carried on to influence legislation [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(3); see also [4][b], above]. However, certain public charities [see [5][b], above] may elect to replace the "substantial part of activities" test with a sliding-scale limitation defined in terms of expenditures for influencing legislation, which allows proportionately less expenditures for larger organizations. This elective provision enables these public charities to make limited expenditures to influence legislation without jeopardizing their tax-exempt status [I.R.C. § 501(h); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23704.5]. Most public charities (other than churches or conventions or associations of churches) are permitted to make this election. Private foundations are not eligible [I.R.C. § 501(h)(3), (4), (5)].

An organization making this election will be subject to an excise tax if its expenditures exceed the permissible amounts specified by statute [see I.R.C. § 4911(c)] to influence legislation [see I.R.C. § 4911(d)]. Furthermore, an organization will lose its tax-exempt status if its expenditures to influence legislation ordinarily (that is, on the average over a four-year period) exceed the permitted amounts by more than 50 percent [I.R.C. § 501(h)(1), (2)]. California does not impose an excise tax on an electing public charity that exceeds the lobbying expenditure limitation [see Rev. & Tax.

Code § 23740].

An election to be governed by the lobbying expenditures limitation is effective for all taxable years ending after the date the election is made and beginning before the date the election is revoked [I.R.C. § 501(h)(6)]. Thus, the election is revocable and can be made on a year-to-year basis. Eligible organizations that choose not to make this election are governed by the "substantial part of activities" test [see I.R.C. § 501(h)(7)].

The IRS has provided extensive regulations regarding (1) the application of the expenditure test to expenditures to influence legislation [see Treas. Reg. § 1.501(h)-1]; (2) the manner of electing the expenditure test [see Treas. Reg. § 1.501(h)-2]; and (3) the rules for determining whether an electing organization that is not a member of an affiliated group [see Treas. Reg. § 56.4911-7(e)] ordinarily makes lobbying or grass roots expenditures in excess of the applicable amounts such that the organization would lose its tax-exempt status [see Treas. Reg. § 1.501(h)-3].

In general, organizations attempting to establish tax-exempt status under a provision of I.R.C. § 501(c) other than I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) must file IRS Form 1024 [see § 13B.10[2]]. Similarly, organizations seeking exemption under I.R.C. § 501(a) also use this form. The filing requirements applicable to IRS Form 1023 generally apply to this form [see § 13B.20]. However, IRS Form 1024 contains no filing deadline. For further discussion, see § 13B.201[1].

§ 13B.22 Remedies for Denial of Exemption

[1] Appeal of Adverse Determination

If the IRS denies the application for exemption, it will send a proposed adverse determination notice to the organization. The organization has 30 days from the mailing date of the adverse determination letter in which to appeal. Appeal is by means of a protest letter, which must contain a statement of facts and applicable law and the arguments supporting the case for exemption [see Rev. Proc. 90-27, 1990-1 C.B. 514]. For additional discussion, see § 13B.130.

PRACTICE TIP:
If the organization is notified of a potential adverse determination during the application period, the organization may be able to request technical advice from the IRS's national office [see Rev. Proc. 2000-5, 2000-1 I.R.B. 158 (procedures)].

[2] Declaratory Judgment Relief

In general, organizations may obtain judicial review of an adverse determination of I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) tax-exempt status (or classification as a private foundation or private operating foundation) by filing suit for declaratory judgment in the Tax Court, Court of Federal Claims, or the Washington, D.C., District Court [see I.R.C. § 7428(a)]. The organization must first exhaust all administrative remedies [see I.R.C. § 7428(b)(2)], establish an active controversy [see Tax. Ct. R. 210(c)(2)], and file within the applicable filing period [see I.R.C. § 7428(b)(3)]. For additional discussion, see § 13B.130.

B. Obtaining and Maintaining Federal Income Tax Exemption

6-13B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13B.23

§ 13B.23 Exemption From Excise Taxes

The Internal Revenue Code specifically exempts certain organizations from specific federal excise taxes. For example, qualifying nonprofit educational organizations [see I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(A)(ii)] are exempt from (1) retail excise taxes imposed on specified fuels with respect to the organization's purchase or use of the fuel [see I.R.C. § 4041(g)]; (2) taxes on communications services [see I.R.C. §§ 4251, 4253(j)]; and (3) manufacturers' excise taxes on purchases of items for exclusive use by the association [see I.R.C. § 4221(a)(5); but see I.R.C. §§ 4081, 4121 (no exemption)].

Certain aircraft museums [see I.R.C. § 4041(h)(1)] and nonprofit educational organizations are exempt from retail excise taxes imposed on specified fuels with respect to their purchase or use of the fuel [see I.R.C. § 4041(h)(2); see Treas. Reg. §§ 48.4041-14, 48.4041-17]. Nonprofit hospitals [see I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(A)(iii)] are exempt from taxes imposed on communications services [see I.R.C. §§ 4251, 4253(h)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Nonprofits seeking one or more of these exemptions must file the appropriate exemption certificate. For example, nonprofit educational organizations and nonprofit hospitals seeking exemption from the communications tax must provide a statement certifying entitlement to the exemption to the service provider (in the form and manner prescribed by regulations) [see I.R.C. § 4253(l)(1)].

Otherwise exempt private foundations are subject to an excise tax on net investment income [see I.R.C. § 4940(a)]. However, a private foundation that qualifies as an "exempt operating foundation" is not required to pay this tax [I.R.C. § 4940(d)(1)]. A private foundation qualifies for this exemption if it meets all of the following criteria [I.R.C. § 4940(d)(2)]:

- It is an operating foundation [see I.R.C. § 4942(j)(3)].
- It has been publicly supported for at least 10 taxable years.
- Its governing body at all times during the taxable year is broadly representative of the general public and consists of individuals, at least 75 percent of whom are not disqualified individuals.

- No officer of the foundation, at any time during the taxable year, is a disqualified individual [see I.R.C. § 4940(d)(3) ("publicly supported" defined)].

A "disqualified individual" is an individual who is one of the following:

- A substantial contributor [see I.R.C. § 507(d)(2)] to the foundation.

- An owner of more than 20 percent of (1) the total combined voting power of a corporation; (2) the profit interest of a partnership; or (3) the beneficial interest of a trust or unincorporated enterprise; provided that the entity is a substantial contributor to the foundation.

- A member of the family [see I.R.C. § 4946(d)] of any individual described in the two preceding categories].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Obtaining and Maintaining Federal Income Tax Exemption

6-13B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13B.24

§ 13B.24 Application of Unrelated Business Income Tax

[1] Scope of Tax

Even if a nonprofit organization qualifies for tax-exempt status, the exemption from taxation is not absolute. Although the effect of operating as an exempt organization varies depending on the particular provision under which exemption is granted, contributions, assessments or dues received, income derived from any activities related to an organization's exempt purpose, and certain types of investment income, are generally exempt from taxation. However, the tax exemption does not extend to income derived from activities unrelated to an organization's exempt purposes [see I.R.C. § 511 et seq.], nor does it extend to all investment income [see I.R.C. § 4940; see also § 13B.20[5][e]]. The unrelated business income tax applies to net income realized from a regularly conducted trade or business that is unrelated to the purpose or functions that form the basis for tax exemption [see I.R.C. § 512(a); see [3], below]. This tax applies regardless of the fact that the income is actually used for the organization's exempt purposes.

PRACTICE TIP:
The IRS has evinced particular interest in the following areas: travel tours, corporate sponsorships, licensing and royalty arrangements, advertising, and sales.

[2] Organizations Subject to Tax

The following exempt organizations are subject to tax on unrelated business taxable income [I.R.C. §§ 501(b), 511(a)]:

- Organizations exempt from tax under I.R.C. § 501(a).
- Public colleges and universities.
- Corporations wholly owned by public colleges or universities.

Two exceptions apply: exempt organizations organized under an act of Congress [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(1), 511(a)(2)(A)] and specified federally licensed business of religious orders [see I.R.C. § 512(b)(15)]. Organizations whose unrelated business income is derived from providing commercial-type insurance [see I.R.C. § 501(m)(3)] are taxed under the provisions applicable to insurance companies [see I.R.C. § 801 et seq.], rather than pursuant to the unrelated business income tax provisions [I.R.C. §§ 501(m)(2), 511 et seq.; see § 13B.20[4][d]].

[3] "Unrelated Trade or Business" Defined

The term "unrelated trade or business" means any trade or business the conduct of which is not substantially related (aside from the need of the organization for income or funds or the use it makes of the profits derived) to the exercise or performance by the organization of its charitable, educational, or other purpose or function constituting the basis for its exemption under I.R.C. § 501 [I.R.C. § 513(a); see Treas. Reg. §§ 1.512(a)-1, 1.512(a)-4, 1.512(b)-1]. In the case of a college or university [see I.R.C. § 511(a)(2)(B)], "unrelated trade or business" means any trade or business the conduct of which is not substantially related to the exercise or performance of any purpose or function [I.R.C. § 501(c)(3)]. Unrelated trade or business does not include any trade or business [I.R.C. § 513(a)]

- In which substantially all the work in carrying on that trade or business is performed for the organization without compensation;

- That is carried on, in the case of a 501(c)(3) organization or college or university [I.R.C. § 511(a)(2)(B)], by the organization primarily for the convenience of its members, students, patients, officers, or employees; or

- That the is the selling of merchandise, substantially all of which has been received by the organization as gifts or contributions.

Special rules apply to foreign organizations [I.R.C. § 512(a)(2)]. Further, social clubs, voluntary employee's beneficiary associations, supplemental unemployment benefits trusts, and legal services plans [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(7), (9), (17), (20)] are taxed on all income less (1) membership income; (2) capital gains from the sale of real property used to further an exempt purpose and reinvested in real property; and (3) certain income paid or set aside for the exempt purpose [see I.R.C. § 512(a)(3)].

[4] Filing Requirements

Every exempt organization subject to the tax on unrelated business income [see [2], above] must file IRS Form 990-T if the organization has gross income from an unrelated trade or business of $1,000 or more for a taxable year [I.R.C. § 511(a); Treas. Reg. §§ 1.6012-2(e), 1.6012-3(a)(5); see Treas. Reg. § 1.6033-2(i)]. For further discussion, see § 13B.131.

[5] Effect of Unrelated Business Income on Tax-Exempt Status

If an organization's unrelated trade or business is substantial, the organization may be ineligible for or lose tax-exempt status [see Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(e)]. An organization will be denied exemption if it is "organized and operated for the primary purpose of carrying on an unrelated trade or business" [see Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(e); see also New Faith, Inc. v. Commissioner (1992) 64 T.C.M. 1050, T.C. Memo. 1992-601] or if that income is excessive [see Orange County Agric. Soc'y v. Commissioner (2d Cir. 1990) 893 F.2d 529] .

CHAPTER 13B TAX-EXEMPT STATUS FOR NONPROFIT ENTITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Obtaining and Maintaining Federal Income Tax Exemption

6-13B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13B.25

§ 13B.25 Maintaining Tax-Exempt Status

[1] Continuing to Meet Exemption Requirements

To maintain tax-exempt status, the organization must continue to meet the original exemption requirements: exempt purpose, no private inurement, and no or insubstantial involvement in influencing legislation or political campaigns. The entity's activities must continue to be reasonably related to the exempt purpose [see § 13B.20[2]-[4]]. The existence of a substantial nonexempt purpose will defeat the exemption [see Better Business Bureau v. United States (1945) 326 U.S. 279, 283, 66 S. Ct. 112, 90 L. Ed. 67 .]

In evaluating whether the organization continues to meet the operational test, the organization must have actual operations from which it can be determined that this test is met [see Pius XII Academy, Inc. v. Commissioner (1982) 43 T.C.M. 634, T.C. Memo. 1982-97 , aff'd, 711 F.2d 1058 (6th Cir. 1983) (plan for charitable operations insufficient)]. The manner in which the organization actually conducts its activities will be examined. The scope and commercial hue of its activities and the existence, amount, and use of profits generated by its activities are critical to this determination [see Rev. Rul. 75-384, 1975-2 C.B. 204 ; see also Church by Mail, Inc. v. Comm'r (9th Cir. 1985) 765 F.2d 1387 (exemption denied when operated for substantial nonexempt purpose)]. An organization may conduct a commercial business, even if it is a substantial part of its activities, if the business furthers the stated exempt purpose and the business is related to that purpose [see Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(e)(1); see also Rev. Rul. 97-21, 1997-1 C.B. 121]. In contrast, an exemption will be denied if the entity engages in a substantial activity that does not further its exempt purpose [see Nationalist Movement v. Commissioner (1994) 102 T.C. 558 (newsletters advocating social and political change unrelated to educational purpose); see also Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(d)(1)]. Each substantial activity will be evaluated separately; each substantial activity must further one or more of the organization's exempt purposes [see Dumaine Farms v. Commissioner (1980) 73 T.C. 650, 663] .

No more than an insubstantial part of the organization's activities may be other than to further an exempt purpose. The IRS looks to whether the activity in question is incidental in nature, examining expenditures, receipts, and time connected to that activity, as well as the activity's significance in overall operations [see Rev. Rul. 77-430, 1977-2 C.B. 194].

[2] No Material Changes

If an exempt organization makes a material change in its character, purpose, or method of operation that is inconsistent with the exemption, the organization may not rely on a previous ruling or determination letter recognizing the exempt status under state or federal law [Treas. Reg. § 601.201(n)(3)(ii); see Rev. Proc. 90-27 , § 13.02, 1990-1 C.B. 514]. For example, the Tax Court has upheld the IRS's retroactive revocation of exempt status because no risk contingent fee fundraising contracts that were entered into after the entity obtained a determination letter constituted a substantial change in the entity's operations [see United Cancer Council Inc. v. Commissioner (1997) 109 T.C. 326] . Further, an exempt organization that changes its structure so that it becomes a new legal entity (for example, a change from a trust or an unincorporated association to a corporation) must reestablish its exemption by filing an appropriate application [Rev. Rul. 67-390, 1967-2 C.B. 179].

[3] Revocation or Modification

The IRS may revoke or modify the terms of the exemption by sending notice to the taxpayer to whom the original ruling letter was sent. Grounds for revocation or modification, other than a material change in operations [see [2], above], include the enactment of legislation, the ratification of a tax treaty, a Supreme Court decision, the issuance of a temporary or final regulations, and the issuance of a revenue procedure, revenue ruling, or other statement published in the Internal Revenue Bulletin, that is inconsistent with the exempt nature of the entity [Rev. Proc. 90-27]. Revocation or modification will be retroactive if [Rev. Proc. 90-27, § 14.01, 1990-1 C.B. 514 ; see I.R.C. § 503]

- The organization omitted or misstated a material fact;
- The organization operated in a manner materially different from original representations; or
- A prohibited transaction occurred with the aim of diverting a substantial portion of corpus or income from the exempt purpose.

If the IRS action is based on a material change, the decision will be retroactive to the date of the change. If the ruling or determination letter was erroneous or no longer valid, the decision will be retroactive, but no earlier than the date of the original ruling [Rev. Proc. 90-27 , § 14.01, 1990-1 C.B. 514].

The appeal procedures are the same for modification or revocation as they are for a denial of exemption [Rev. Proc. 90-27 , § 14.02, 1990-1 C.B. 514]. For further discussion, see § 13B.130.

CHAPTER 13B TAX-EXEMPT STATUS FOR NONPROFIT ENTITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Obtaining and Maintaining Federal Income Tax Exemption

6-13B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13B.26

§ 13B.26 Compliance With Reporting Requirements

[1] Annual Information Return Filing Requirements

Exempt organizations ordinarily must file annual information returns, unless specifically exempted from the filing requirement [see I.R.C. § 6033(a)(1); see also I.R.C. § 6033(a)(3); Treas. Reg. § 1.6033-1 et seq.]. Most exempt organizations file IRS Form 990 to satisfy this requirement. Private foundations file their annual information return on IRS Form 990-PF [Treas. Reg. § 1.6033-2(a)(2)(i)]. The appropriate return must be filed on or before the 15th day of the fifth calendar month following the close of its annual accounting period [Treas. Reg. § 1.6033-2(e)]. Specific filing requirements, such as requirements applicable when the organization has unrelated taxable business income, are covered in § 13B.131[1]. Penalties for noncompliance, are addressed in [2], below.

[2] Penalties for Noncompliance

If an organization required to file IRS Form 990 fails to file an annual return in a timely manner, include any required information, or state correct information, the IRS may impose penalties [see I.R.C. § 6652(c)(1)(A), (3)]. A responsible person who fails to comply with an IRS demand that Form 990 be filed (or to furnish the information that should have been included in the Form) may also be penalized [see I.R.C. § 6652(c)(1)(B)]. Additional penalties may be imposed for failing to pay any tax due, willful failures to file, and fraudulent filings, including monetary penalties and imprisonment [see I.R.C. §§ 6651, 6652, 7203 et seq.]. However, no penalties will be imposed if the failure to file a timely, complete, and accurate return is due to reasonable cause [see I.R.C. § 6652(c)(4)].

Underpayments of tax due on IRS Form 990-T are subject to penalty if the underpayment results from negligence or disregard or the discrepancy is substantial [see I.R.C. § 6662(a); see I.R.C. §§ 6662(d)-(h), 6664]. A significantly more substantial penalty is imposed if the underpayment results from fraud [see I.R.C. § 6663(a)]. Once a portion of an understatement is attributable to fraud, the entire underpayment will be treated as attributable to fraud except with respect to any portion that the taxpayer establishes, by the preponderance of the evidence, that is not attributable to fraud [I.R.C. § 6663(b)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Obtaining and Maintaining Federal Income Tax Exemption

6-13B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13B.27

§ 13B.27 Loss of Exempt Status

In general, if a nonprofit fails to operate in a manner consistent with the rules and regulations governing the provision under which the entity claims its exemption, that failure will result in loss of exempt status. In addition, a private foundation may lose its exempt status for willful, repeated violations (or a willful and flagrant violation) of the prohibitions contained in I.R.C. §§ 4940-4945 [see § 13B.20[5][e]]. A public charity may lose its exempt status if it normally exceeds the elective lobbying expenditure limitation [see § 13B.20[7]].

A church entity can forfeit its exempt status by intervening in political campaigns [see Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(4)-1(a)(2)(ii)]. However, the entity may form a political action committee (PAC) that is free to participate in political campaigns [see Treas. Reg. §§ 1.501(c)(4)-1(a)(2)(ii), 1.527-6(f), (g)]. The related I.R.C. § 501(c)(4) entity must be separately incorporated and it must maintain records that show that tax-deductible contributions to the I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) entity have not been used to support the political activities [see I.R.C. §§ 170(c), 501(c)(3), (4), 527(f)(3); Treas. Reg. §§ 1.501(c)(4)-1, 1.527-6(e)-(g); see also Branch Ministries v. Rossotti (D.C. Cir. 2000) 211 F.3d 137, 141-144 .].

Termination or revocation of exempt status by the IRS is generally made on a prospective basis. However, the IRS may revoke exempt status retroactively under some circumstances [see Rev. Proc. 90-27 , § 14, 1990-1 C.B. 514 ; Rev. Proc. 80-25, 1980-1 C.B. 667]. For further discussion, see § 13B.25[3].

In addition, political organizations may lose the benefit of tax-exempt status by failing to comply with reporting requirements. For example, if a political organization that fails to properly notify the IRS electronically that they are to be treated as an exempt I.R.C. § 527 political organization within 24 hours after the organization is established [I.R.C. § 527(i)(1), (2); see I.R.C. § 527(i)(3) (contents); but see I.R.C. § 527(i)(5), (6) (exceptions, including if entity reasonably anticipates no gross receipts in excess of $25,000)], the organization's taxable income must be computed by taking into account any exempt function income and any deductions directly connected with that income for any period that the organization is not in compliance with this notification requirement [I.R.C. § 527(i)(4)]. Similar penalties apply if the organization fails to report any material change in information reported to the IRS within 30 days [see I.R.C. § 527(i)(2), (4); see also § 13B.20[6]]. Further, penalties may be imposed on political organizations that accept a contribution or make an expenditure for an exempt function and fail to make the required disclosures [see I.R.C. § 527(j); see also I.R.C. § 527(l) (authority to waive penalty assessment)].

As an alternative to revoking tax-exempt status based on violations of the restrictions against private inurement and private benefit, the IRS may impose intermediate sanctions on disqualified persons and managers [see I.R.C. § 4958]. A "disqualified person" is one who during the preceding five years was in a position to exercise substantial influence over the entity's operations [I.R.C. § 4958(f)(1); see § 13B.20[5][e]]. The IRS is able to penalize the individuals responsible for the private inurement without revoking the organization's exempt status; however, these intermediate sanctions can not be used against private foundations, which are subject to separate excise tax penalties [see, e.g., I.R.C. §§ 4941, 4945]. Proposed regulations provide safe harbors for compensation and related party transactions [see Prop. Treas. Reg. § 53.4958 et seq.].

CHAPTER 13B TAX-EXEMPT STATUS FOR NONPROFIT ENTITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. California Franchise and Income Tax Exemption

6-13B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13B.40

§ 13B.40 Procedure for Obtaining Tax-Exempt Status

[1] California Filing as Condition Precedent to Exempt Status

California requires that all organizations claiming exemption from franchise or income tax file an exemption application, FTB Form 3500, pay the applicable filing fee, and receive a favorable determination letter from the Franchise Tax Board in order to be exempt from tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701 et seq.; but see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d(c)(1); see also § 13B.210[1][c] for discussion]. Absent exemption, all corporations and unincorporated associations that perform services, own land, or borrow money are subject to taxation, even though organized on a nonprofit basis, and must file an application for exemption in order to be exempt from tax. Trusts organized and operated for charitable purposes [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d (the California counterpart of I.R.C. § 501(c)(3))] are classified as corporations for exemption purposes [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17009].

The fact that an organization is tax-exempt for federal purposes does not mean that the organization is necessarily exempt from California franchise or corporate income tax. The application procedures are completely separate: a federally exempt organization must file separately for California tax-exempt status; an entity that is exempt from California income or franchise taxes must separately apply for exemption from federal income tax unless covered by a group ruling [see Treas. Reg. § 601.201(n)(8)].

[2] Qualification for Exemption

An organization is not entitled to exemption from California franchise or income tax unless the organization is both organized (that is, chartered or incorporated) and operated (conducting activities) primarily (and in some cases exclusively) for one or more of the purposes specified in the particular section describing the exempt organization [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701; 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23701(b)]. These two requirements are referred to as the "organizational test," which requires that the charter document describe the exempt purpose and limit other purposes [see 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23701(c)], and the "operational test," which permits only an insubstantial part of organizational activities to be in furtherance of nonexempt purpose [see 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23701(b), (d)]. An organization will not satisfy these tests if its net earnings inure, directly or indirectly, in whole or in part, to the personal or private benefit of a member, officer, director, employee, or individual. With respect to an individual, "inurement" means receiving some special benefit that is unreasonable under the circumstances because of his or her membership or relationship to the organization [see 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23701(b)(1)(A)]. The term "exempt purpose or purposes" means any purpose or purposes specified in the section under which exemption is desired and as further elaborated in the regulations [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23701(b)].

These requirements apply to all organizations claiming tax exemption under California law. In addition, an organization must meet the specific requirements of the particular provision under which exemption is sought to be exempt from taxation under California law [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23701a-23701z].

These requirements are similar to those imposed by federal law [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(3); Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1; see also § 13B.20[3], [4]]. I.R.C. § 501, enumerating the organizations exempt from federal income tax, is similar to Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701 et seq., and the regulations, rulings, and interpretations relating to I.R.C. § 501 may be used in interpreting the requirements of Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701 et seq. However, some differences between federal and California law relating to exempt organizations exist [see, e.g., § 13B.10[2]]. Therefore both the federal and California requirements of the particular provision under which exemption is claimed must be consulted.

Nonprofit public benefit corporations must comply with the limitation on interested persons serving on the board of directors [see Corp. Code § 5227(a)]. No more than 49 percent of the persons serving on the board may be interested persons, which generally include compensated employees, independent contractors, and family members [Corp. Code § 5227(a), (b)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations .

New corporations are no longer subject to the minimum franchise tax for the first two years of corporate existence [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23153(f)(2) (effective January 1, 2000)]. Therefore, corporations need not prepay the tax while awaiting the results of the exemption request. New corporations that paid the tax will receive an automatic refund.

[3] Scope of Exemption

The exemption from franchise or income taxation is not absolute. It does not extend to the unrelated business taxable income of an exempt organization [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23731 et seq.; see also § 13B.41]. Further, the exemption is not applicable to organizations operated for the primary purpose of carrying on a trade or business for profit that pay all of their profits to one or more exempt organizations. These organizations are known as feeder organizations [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23702; see also I.R.C. § 502].

An exemption determination may have a retroactive effect [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701; 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23701(b)(4)].

California imposes a tax on the unrelated business income of corporations and charitable trusts that are exempt from California franchise and income tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701 et seq.; see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23731, 23038(b)]. Although California generally conforms to federal law on unrelated business income, both the Revenue and Taxation Code and the Internal Revenue Code should be consulted for more detailed information concerning taxation of unrelated business income [see § 13B.24]. Unrelated business taxable income is reported annually on FTB Form 109.

If an organization's unrelated trade or business is substantial, the organization may be ineligible for or lose tax-exempt status. Further, this income can jeopardize the welfare exemption from property tax [see § 13B.50].

Unrelated business taxable income is reported annually on FTB Form 109. This tax is also subject to the rules for making estimated tax payments [see FTB Form 109, Instructions]. For further coverage, see § 13B.132.

A Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d organization may lose its exempt status by improperly using accumulations of income [*see Rev. & Tax. § 13B.50 Property Taxable Unless Exempt Property in California is taxed according to its value unless the property is exempt [see Cal. Const., art. XIII, § 1; see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 201]. Whether property is exempt from taxation is determined by the specific use of the property or the character of the owner or operator. The California Constitution contains numerous property tax exemptions [see Cal. Const., art. XIII, §§ 3, 4]. The most important exemption relied on by nonprofits is the welfare exemption [see § 13B.51].

Real property may only be exempted by the California Constitution (or federal law), whereas personal property can be exempted by a two-thirds vote of both houses of the legislature [compare Cal. Const., art. XIII, § 1 with Cal. Const., art. XIII, § 2]. Property tax exemptions apply to general taxes only. The exemptions do not apply to special assessments for local improvements [Cedars of Lebanon Hosp. v. County of Los Angeles (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 729, 747, 221 P.2d 31] .

If an entity fails to claim a property tax exemption, that failure is deemed a waiver of the exemption for that year [Cal. Const., art. XIII, § 6].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. California Property Tax Exemptions

6-13B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13B.51

§ 13B.51 Welfare Exemption

[1] Overview

All or any portion of property used exclusively for religious, hospital, or charitable purposes and owned or held in trust by entities organized and operate for those purposes and not for profit and whose earnings or assets do not inure to the benefit of any private individual may be exempt from tax [Cal. Const., art. XIII, § 4(b), 5; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 214-215]. In general, the welfare exemption may not be granted unless the organization qualifies as exempt under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) or Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214.8(a)].

Additional statutory provisions permit the granting of the welfare exemption under specified circumstances for the following:

- Property owned by volunteer fire departments that qualify for exemption under Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23701d or 23701f or I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) or 501(c)(4) [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 213.7, 214.8(a)].

- Property owned by nonprofit corporations and leased to and used exclusively by the government, provided that the nonprofit corporation qualifies for exemption under Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23701f or 23701u or I.R.C. § 501(c)(4) [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 214.8(a), 231].

- Property owned and operated by veterans' organizations that qualify for exemption under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701f or I.R.C. § 501(c)(4) or 501(c)(19) [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 214(g), 214.8(a), 215.1(a)].

An organization will not be deemed "qualified" as an exempt organization unless it has filed a valid organizational clearance certificate with the assessor [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 213.7(c), 214(a)(3)(C), 214.8(b); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 254.6 (claim for certificate must be filed with Board of Equalization)].

The welfare exemption extends to buildings under construction and the land underneath [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 214.1, 214.2]. However, in general, no exemption will be allowed on unimproved real property, even when it is intended that buildings will be constructed on the property for charitable goals. However, if the unimproved property is used for charitable purposes, such as a park, the property may qualify for exemption [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 214.02].

PRACTICE TIP:

Qualification under another property tax exemption does not bar an organization from qualifying for the welfare exemption [see J. Paul Getty Museum v. County of Los Angeles (1983) 148 Cal. App. 3d 600, 195 Cal. Rptr. 916] . The welfare exemption is in addition to any other exemption provided by law; the existence of the exemption provision in Rev. & Tax. Code § 202(a)(2) does not preclude the exemption for museum or library property [see [3], below]. However, in general, the welfare exemption will not be construed to enlarge the college exemption [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(a), (e)].

[2] Property Used for Religious, Hospital, Scientific or Charitable Purposes

Under the welfare exemption, property used exclusively for religious, hospital, scientific, or charitable purposes and that is owned and operated by community chests, funds, foundations, or corporations organized and operated for religious, hospital, scientific, or charitable purposes is exempt from taxation in the following situations [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(a)(1)-(7)]:

- The owner is not organized or operated for profit. For hospitals, the organization will not be deemed to be organized or operated for profit if, during the immediately preceding fiscal year, operating revenues, exclusive of gifts, endowments and grants-in-aid, did not exceed operating expenses by an amount equivalent to 10 percent of those operating expenses.

- No part of the net earnings of the owner inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual [see Cal. Const., art. XIII, § 4(b); see also La Soci'et'e Francaise v. California Employment Comm'n (1943) 56 Cal. App. 2d 534, 133 P.2d 47 , cert. denied, 320 U.S. 736 (California rules similar to federal)] .

- The property is used for the actual operation of the exempt activity and does not exceed the amount of property reasonably necessary to accomplish the exempt purpose. When determining whether the property is used for the "actual operation" of the exempt activity, occasional use [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(a)(3)(B)(i) (definition)] of the property for either of the following purposes will not be considered [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(a)(3)(A)]:

  - The owner conducts fundraising activities [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(a)(3)(B)(ii) (definition)] on the property; the proceeds are not unrelated business taxable income [see I.R.C. § 512]; and the owner uses the proceeds to further the exempt activity;

  - The owner permits another exempt organization to conduct fundraising activities on the property; the proceeds are not unrelated business taxable income subject to taxation [see I.R.C. §§ 511, 512]; and the proceeds are used to further the exempt activity of the organization.

However, to preclude consideration of this occasional use of the property, the owner and any other organization using the property must file a valid organizational clearance certificate with the assessor [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(a)(3)(C); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 254.6 (claim for certificate must be filed with Board of Equalization)]. A similar provision states that, when determining whether the property is used for the actual operation of the exempt activity, the use of the property for meetings conducted by another exempt organization will not be considered if [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(a)(3)(D)]:

- The meetings are incidental to the other organization's primary activities;

- The meetings do not involve fund raising activities [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(a)(3)(B)];

- The meetings are not held more frequently than weekly;

- The other organization and its use of the property satisfy all the other requirements of Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(a)(1)-(5); and

- The owner of the other organization complies with specified filing requirements (by filing with the assessor a valid, unrevoked letter from the IRS or the FTB stating that the other organization, or the national organization of which it is a local chapter or affiliate, qualifies as an exempt organization).

- The property is not used or operated by the owner or by any other person so as to benefit any officer, trustee, director, shareholder, member employee, contributor, or bondholder of the owner or operator, or any other person, through the distribution of profits, payments of excessive charges, or compensations or the more advantageous pursuit of their business or profession.

- The property is not used by its owner or members for fraternal or lodge purposes, or for social club purposes except when that use is clearly incidental to a primary religious, hospital, scientific, or charitable purpose.

- The property is irrevocably dedicated to religious, charitable, scientific, or hospital purposes [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 214.01 (dedication must be stated in articles of incorporation)], and on the liquidation, dissolution, or abandonment of the owner will not inure to the benefit of any private person except a fund, foundation, or corporation organized and operated for religious, hospital, scientific, or charitable purposes [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 214.3 (exception for property used for charitable or hospital purposes for 30 years)].

- If used exclusively for scientific purposes, the property is used by a foundation or institution that has been chartered by the United States Congress (except when the scientific purposes are medical research), and whose objectives are the encouragement or conduct of scientific investigation, research, and discovery for the benefit of the community at large.

With respect to the welfare exemption, hospitals include nonprofit multispecialty clinics, but not any portion of an outpatient clinic rented to private physicians for general medical practice [see Cedars of Lebanon Hosp. v. County of Los Angeles (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 729, 745-746, 221 P.2d 31] .

"Charitable purposes" include educational purposes. "Educational purposes" include purposes and activities for the benefit of the community as a whole or an unascertainable and indefinite portion of the community, but do not include any educational purposes and activities primarily for the benefit of an organization's shareholders. Educational activities include the study of relevant information, the dissemination of that information to interested members of the general public, and the participation of interested members of the general public [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(j)].

To qualify for exemption, the owner of the property and the user need not be the same. However, both must be charitable organizations [see Christ the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church v. Mathiesen (1978) 81 Cal. App. 3d 355, 146 Cal. Rptr. 321] .

[3] Additional Types of Property Eligible for Exemption

In addition to property used exclusively for religious, hospital, scientific, or charitable purposes [see [2], above], the welfare exemption also applies to the following types of property:

- Property used exclusively for purposes of a school of less than collegiate grade that is owned and operated by religious, hospital, or charitable funds, foundations, limited liability companies, or corporations, if both the property and its owners meet the requirements listed above [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(b); see Sarah Dix Hamlin Sch. v. City & County of San Francisco (1963) 221 Cal. App. 2d 336, 34 Cal. Rptr. 376] .

- Property used exclusively for nursery school purposes that is owned and operated by religious, hospital, or charitable funds, foundations, limited liability companies, or corporations, if both the property and its owners meet the requirements listed above [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(c); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 221].

- Property used exclusively for a noncommercial educational FM broadcast station or an educational television station that is owned and operated by religious, hospital, scientific, or charitable funds, foundations, limited liability companies, or corporations that meets the requirements listed above [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(d); see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 215.5, 225.5].

- Property used exclusively for religious, hospital, scientific, or charitable purposes [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(j)] that is owned and operated by religious, hospital, scientific, or charitable funds, foundations, limited liability companies, corporations, and educational institutions of collegiate grade, if both the property and its owners meet the requirements listed above [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(e); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 203(b), (c)]. The "irrevocable dedication" requirement [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(a)(6); discussed in [2], above] will be met only if (1) the institution's articles of incorporation irrevocably dedicate the property either to charitable and educational purposes, to religious and educational purposes, or solely to educational purposes, and (2) the institution's articles provide for distribution of its property on liquidation, dissolution, or abandonment to a fund, foundation, or corporation organized and operated for religious, hospital, scientific, charitable [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(j) (definition)], or educational purposes meeting the requirements for exemption set forth in Rev. & Tax. Code § 203 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(e)]. A property tax is imposed, however, on the portion of bookstore property owned by an educational institution of collegiate grade that produces income that is taxable as unrelated business taxable income [Rev. & Tax. Code § 203(d); see I.R.C. § 512]. At the end of the fiscal year when unrelated business income has been generated, the nonprofit must file with the assessor copies of the organization's most recent tax return filed with the Internal Revenue Service [Rev. & Tax. Code § 203(d)].

- Property used exclusively for housing and related facilities for elderly or handicapped families that is financed by the federal government and owned and operated by religious, hospital, scientific, or charitable funds, foundations, limited liability companies, or corporations that meets the requirements listed above [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(f); see Fifield Manor v. County of Los Angeles (1961) 188 Cal. App. 2d 1, 10 Cal. Rptr. 242 (occupants need not be needy); see also Martin Luther Homes v. County of Los Angeles (1970) 12 Cal. App. 3d 205, 90 Cal. Rptr. 524 (no exemption when rents adjusted per need, only limited facilities provided, and units not designed for elderly)]. Property used exclusively for housing and related facilities for elderly or handicapped families at which supplemental care or services designed to meet the special needs of elderly or handicapped residents are not provided, or not financed by the federal government, is not entitled to the exemption unless the property is used for housing and related facilities for low-and moderate-income elderly or handicapped families [Rev. & Tax. Code §

214(f); see Health & Safety Code § 50093]. A partial exemption is available for property that would be exempt except for the fact that it includes some housing for other than low-income and moderate-income elderly or handicapped families [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(f); see [4], below].

- Property used exclusively for rental housing and related facilities that is owned and operated by religious, hospital, scientific, or charitable funds, foundations, limited liability companies, or corporations (including limited partnerships in which the managing general partner is an eligible nonprofit corporation or eligible limited liability company) meeting all the requirements of Rev. & Tax. Code § 214, or by veterans' organizations [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 215.1] meeting all the requirements of Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(a)(1)-(7) [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(g)(1)]. The property will be entitled to a partial exemption based on the occupancy of lower income households [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(g)(3); see also Health & Safety Code § 50079.5] in any year in which any of the following criteria applies: (1) the acquisition, rehabilitation, development, and/or operation of the property is financed with tax-exempt mortgage revenue bonds or general obligation bonds, or is financed by local, state, or federal loans or grants and the lower income occupants' rents do not exceed those prescribed by deed restrictions or regulatory agreements pursuant to the terms of the financing or financial assistance [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(g)(1)(A)]; (2) the property owner is eligible for and receives low-income housing tax credits [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(g)(1)(B); see I.R.C. § 42]; (3) in the case of a claim (other than a claim with respect to property owned by a limited partnership in which the managing general partner is an eligible nonprofit corporation) filed after January 1, 2000, at least 90 percent of the occupants of the property are lower income households whose rent does not exceed the prescribed amount [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(g)(1)(C); see Health & Safety Code § 50053; or (4) the property was previously purchased and owned by the Department of Transportation pursuant to a consent decree requiring housing mitigation measures relating to the construction of a freeway and is now solely owned by an organization qualifying as an exempt organization under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(g)(1)(D)]. To be eligible for the exemption, the owner must certify and ensure that an enforceable and verifiable agreement with a public agency, or a recorded deed restriction or other legal document exists that restricts the project's usage and provides that units designated for use by lower income households are continuously available to or occupied by lower income households [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(g)(2)(A) (restriction and provision must be contained in enforceable and verifiable agreement with public agency or in certified recorded deed restriction if limited partnership and managing general partner is eligible nonprofit corporation); see Health & Safety Code § 50053]; and certify that the funds that would otherwise be paid in property taxes are used to maintain the affordability of, or reduce rents otherwise necessary for, the units occupied by lower income households [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(g)(2)(B)].

- Property used exclusively for an emergency or temporary shelter [see Health & Safety Code § 50800 et seq. (eligibility for funding)] and related facilities for homeless persons and families that is owned and operated by religious, hospital, scientific, or charitable funds, foundations, limited liability companies, or corporations meeting the requirements listed above. A partial exemption is available for property that would otherwise be exempt except that it includes housing for other than an emergency or temporary shelter [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(h)].

- Property used exclusively for housing and related facilities for employees of religious, charitable, scientific, or hospital organizations that meets all the above requirements, that is owned and operated by funds, foundations, limited liability companies, or corporations that meet all of the above requirements, to the extent that the residential use of the property is institutionally necessary for the operation of the organization [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(i)].

Property used exclusively for the charitable purposes of museums owned and operated by organizations meeting the welfare exemption requirements [see [2], above], is exempt. Property used for activities related to the primary charitable purposes is exempt, as are food service facilities and gift shops selling primarily educational materials [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 214.14].

[4] Occasional and Incidental Uses

The welfare exemption is not defeated by the fact that the otherwise exempt property is subject to the occasional use of another organization whose purpose and use of the property also satisfy the welfare exemption. Specifically, in determining whether property is actually used in an exempt activity, the other organization's use of the property will be disregarded if [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(a)(3)]:

- The meetings are incidental to the other organization's primary activities;
- The meetings or activities do not involve fund-raising; and
- The meetings are not held more frequently than weekly.

The welfare exemption is not defeated by nonqualifying incidental uses that are "reasonably necessary" to achieve the organization's exempt purpose. For example, a hospital's training facilities, employee housing, and employee recreational facilities are exempt as reasonably necessary for the exempt purpose; a thrift shop maintained to benefit a children's clinic is not exempt [Cedars of Lebanon Hosp. v. County of Los Angeles (1950) 35 Cal. 2d 729, 745-746, 221 P.2d 31] . The activities of a YMCA have been determined to have a charitable purpose [Clubs of California for Fair Competition v. Kroger (1992) 7 Cal. App. 4th 709, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 247 (exemption not defeated by competition with private clubs)]. A community center building used daily by church groups was eligible for exemption despite the occasional use by non-church groups, but the exemption did not apply to recreational facilities operated like a private club for a nonexempt organization [Peninsula Covenant Church v. County of San Mateo (1979) 94 Cal. App. 3d 382, 156 Cal. Rptr. 431] .

[5] Record Ownership

For application of the welfare exemption, the interest of the organization claiming the exemption must be of record in the office of the county recorder where the property is situated as of January 1 (the lien date) of the year for which the exemption is claimed [Rev. & Tax. Code § 261(a); see also Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 261(b), 442 (options)]. If the claimant, as of January 1, holds a possessory interest in publicly owned lands, or owns water rights or improvements on another's land, the claimant may file a document establishing that possessory interest or a statement stating the separate ownership of the improvements with the assessor in lieu of recording [Rev. & Tax. Code § 261(c)].

If the claimant fails to make the required recording or filing, the exemption is deemed waived [Rev. & Tax. Code § 261(a)].

[6] Filing Requirements and Procedure

The welfare exemption must be claimed annually by February 15 by filing a form prescribed by the Board of Equalization with the county tax assessor [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 254.5; see BOE Form 267]. However, the assessor may not approve a property tax exemption claim until the claimant has been issued a valid organizational clearance certificate [Rev. & Tax. Code § 254.5(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 254.6]. Financial statements must be submitted only if requested in writing by the assessor [Rev. & Tax. Code § 254.5(a)].

The assessor will review all claims for the welfare exemption to determine whether the property for which the exemption is claimed meets the statutory requirements. Among other matters, the assessor will consider whether (1) any capital investment of the owner or operator for expansion of a physical plant is justified by the return on the investment and required to serve the interests of the community, and (2) the property is used for the actual operation of an exempt activity and does not exceed an amount of property reasonably necessary for the accomplishment of the exempt purpose [Rev. & Tax. Code § 254.5(b)(1)]. The assessor may institute an audit or other verification of the operations of the owner and operator to determine whether bot satisfy the welfare exemption requirements [Rev. & Tax. Code § 254.5(b)(2)]. The assessor may deny a claim for exemption even if the claimant has been granted an organizational clearance certificate by the Board of Equalization, but may not approve an exemption claim denied by the Board [Rev. & Tax. Code § 254.5(a), (c)(1)]. If the assessor finds that the claimant's property is ineligible for the welfare exemption, the assessor will notify the claimant in writing that (1) the property is ineligible; (2) the claimant may seek a refund of property taxes paid; and (3) the claimant may file a refund action in superior court if the refund claim is denied [Rev. & Tax. Code § 254.5(c)(2)]. If it is later determined that the property, or any portion of the property, is no longer eligible for exemption, the assessor will cancel the exemption on so much of the property as is no longer eligible [Rev. & Tax. Code § 254.5(e)]. If the exemption on the property was incorrectly allowed, an escape assessment in the amount of the exemption plus interest will be made. A penalty will be assessed for failing to notify the assessor as required in an amount equaling 10 percent of the escape assessment, not to exceed $250 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 254.5(f)].

To maintain the welfare exemption, the organization must file BOE Form 267-A with the county tax assessor annually by February 15 [see BOE Form 267-A; see also Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 270, 271 (partial exemption for late filing)]. However, an entity granted a welfare exemption and owning any property exempted under Rev. & Tax. Code § 214.15 or 231 need not reapply in any subsequent year in which there has been no transfer of, or other change in title to, the exempted property and the property is used exclusively by a governmental entity or by a nonprofit corporation for its interest and benefit [Rev. & Tax. Code § 254.5(d)]. The applicant must notify the assessor on or before February 15, if, on or before the preceding lien date, the applicant became ineligible for the welfare exemption, or if, on or before that lien date, the property was no longer owned by the applicant or otherwise failed to meet all requirements for the welfare exemption [Rev. & Tax. Code § 254.5(d)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Before the lien date, the assessor will annually mail a notice to every applicant relieved of the annual filing requirement. The notice must state the circumstances under which the property may no longer be eligible for exemption and advise the applicant of the obligation to inform the assessor if the property is no longer eligible for exemption. The notice will include a card to be returned to the assessor by all applicants desiring to maintain eligibility for exemption; the failure to return this card does not itself constitute waiver, but may result in the onsite inspection to verify the exempt activity [Rev. & Tax. Code § 254.5(d)]. The claim for exemption and the annual form are public records subject to public inspection [see BOE Forms 267, 267-A].

The welfare exemption covers personal property in addition to real property. Nonprofits may need to be reminded that filing requirements must be met to exempt both types of property.

If the property is subject to occasional use by another exempt entity [see [4], above], the property owner and any other organization must file a valid organizational clearance certificate with the assessor [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(a)(3)(D); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 254.5(d)].

[7] Waiver of Exemption

If an organization fails to claim a property tax exemption, that failure is deemed a waiver of the exemption for that year [Cal. Const., art. XIII, § 6]. Similarly, if an organization claiming the welfare exemption fails to make the required recording or filing establishing record ownership [see [5], above], the exemption is deemed waived [Rev. & Tax. Code § 261(a)].

PRACTICE TIP:

The failure to return the card sent by the assessor to all applicants relieved of the annual filing requirement, advising the applicant of the obligation to inform the assessor if the property is no longer eligible for exemption [see [6], above], by any applicant desiring to maintain eligibility for the exemption does not itself constitute waiver. However, the failure may result in an on-site inspection to verify the exempt activity [Rev. & Tax. Code § 254.5(d)].

§ 13B.52 Partial Welfare Exemption

If an organization's property is granted the welfare exemption [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214; see § 13B.51], that property is deemed used exclusively for the organization's exempt purposes. However, to the extent that income derived from the organization's use of the property is unrelated trade or business taxable income [see I.R.C. §§ 511, 512], the property will be exempt from taxation only to a limited extent [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214.05(a)]. The partial welfare exemption is based on the amount of exempt income produced by the organization's activities on the property or the amounts of time devoted to exempt activities that produce no income [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 214.05(b), (c)].

If an organization claims the welfare exemption but the organization's activities on the property have produced unrelated business taxable income, the organization must file information related to its income-producing activities as part of its claim for exemption [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214.05(d)]. For a list of those requirements, see § 13B.122.

§ 13B.53 Religious Exemption

[1] Covered Property

The "religious exemption" or "church property exemption" exempts from tax property used solely and exclusively for religious purposes [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 207]. If a church owns property that is used for purposes not covered by this exemption, church property is ordinarily divided and the exemption only covers the property used for religious purposes.

The religious exemption covers church buildings, the land underneath, and equipment used exclusively for religious worship [Cal. Const. art. XIII, § 3(f)]. The religious worship requirement is broadly defined [see Fellowship of Humanity v. County of Alameda (1957) 153 Cal. App. 2d 673, 693, 315 P.2d 394] . Churches under construction, related land, and equipment intended for religious use are also exempt [Cal. Const. art. XIII, § 5; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 206].

Church parking lots are also exempted if used by persons involved in religious activities [Rev. & Tax. Code § 206.1]. Parking fees may be charged without affecting the exemption if the charges do not exceed the "ordinary and necessary costs of maintaining the real property" [Rev. & Tax. Code § 206.1(b)(3)]. Further, the lot may be used by the public without endangering the exemption [Peninsula Covenant Church v. County of San Mateo (1979) 94 Cal. App. 3d 382, 401, 156 Cal. Rptr. 431] .

The religious exemption is in addition to the welfare exemption [see § 13B.51].

[2] Simplified Claim Process

The religious exemption provides a simplified claims process for churches and church schools to file for property tax exempt status [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 257], with minimal subsequent annual filing requirements [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 257.1], and remains in effect until the property is no longer eligible. This exemption allows a church that operates a church school to file one exemption for the whole property, instead of filing a church exemption [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 206] for the church property and a welfare exemption for the school portion of the property. However, the welfare exemption alone remains applicable to certain property used for religious purposes, such as hospitals and certain church-owned housing [see Stats. 1981, ch. 542, § 1].

§ 13B.60 Sales and Uses Taxes

Sales by or to nonprofits ordinarily are subject to state and local sales and use taxes. However, narrow and detail-specific exemptions may apply to exempt certain types of property from sales and use taxes in certain situations [see, e.g., Rev. & Tax. Code § 6361 et seq.]. In general, the gross receipts from the sale, storage, use, and other consumption in California of tangible personal property that is made, prepared, assembled, or manufactured by organizations that (1) are formed and operated for charitable purposes qualifying for the welfare exemption [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214], (2) are engaged in the relief of poverty and distress, and (3) make the sales and donations as a matter of assistance to the purchasers and donees are exempt from tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6375]. The following are some examples of these exemptions:

- Hand-crafted or artistic items made by disabled individuals who are members of the selling organization sold intermittently for $20 or less [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6361.1].

- Meals served to students; low-income seniors; homebound seniors or disabled persons; patients of hospitals, certain residential facilities, and recovery facilities; and meals served by religious organizations [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6363, 6363.5-6363.7, 6374,].

- Goods made, assembled, or manufactured by entity qualifying for welfare exemption [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6375; see § 13B.51].

- Property donated by a seller to a I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(A) organization located in California that is used, stored, or consumed in California [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6366.4, 6403].

- Medical health literature and health and safety materials purchased by charities [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6408, 6409].

- Sales of property at an auction conducted by an exempt organization if the revenue is used to fund a homeless shelter and the auction is not conducted more than once in any 12-month period [Rev. & Tax.

Code § 6363.2].

- Sales of food products, non-alcoholic drinks, and other personal property made or produced by members of youth organizations made intermittently when the profits are used exclusively to further the purposes of the organization [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6361].

Many cities impose a business license tax on the gross receipts of businesses conducted within city limits. An exempt organization that fails to file any required return on the date and in the manner prescribed (determined with regard to any extension of time for filing) [see § 13B.132] may be fined, unless it is shown that the failure is due to reasonable cause. On notice and demand by the Franchise Tax Board, the fine must be paid, in the same manner as tax, by the exempt organization or trust [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23772(c)(1)]. The Franchise Tax Board may make written demand on a private foundation failing to file. The demand must specify a reasonable future date by for compliance and state that if the filing is not made on or before that date, and unless it is shown that failure is due to reasonable cause, an additional penalty will be assessed. If more than one person is liable for the failure to file, all are jointly and severally liable with respect to that failure [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23772(c)(2)].

The corporate powers, rights, and privileges of an exempt domestic corporation may be suspended (and the exercise of the corporate powers, rights, and privileges of a foreign exempt corporation in California may be forfeited) if the organization fails to (1) file the required annual information return or annual statement [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23772, 23774], or (2) pay any amount due [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23703, 23772] on or before the last day of the 12th month following the close of the income year [*Rev. & Tax. An organization that has suffered suspension or forfeiture may be relieved on the filing of all of the following [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23776(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23305a]:

- An application for revivor [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23776(b)].

- Any returns, statements, notifications, or amounts due under Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23772, 23774, or 23775 that were not previously submitted or paid and that resulted in the suspension or forfeiture.
- An information return or statement and any amount of tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23772] for each year, or any part of the year, during the period of suspension or forfeiture in which the organization conducted any activities or received income, grants, gifts or any other asset.

The Franchise Tax Board can revoke the exemption of any organization that fails to make the required filings on or before the last day of the 12th month following the close of the income year [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23777(a); see § 13B.132]. An organization whose exemption was revoked under *Rev. & Tax. - A new application for exemption and payment of the applicable filing fee [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701].

- Any returns, statements, or payment of any amounts due that were not previously submitted or paid and that resulted in the revocation.

If the exemption was revoked because the organization failed to confine its activities to those permitted by the section under which the exemption was granted [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23777(c)], must also provide satisfactory proof of all of the following [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23778(b)]:

- The organization has corrected its nonexempt activities.

- The organization will operate in an exempt manner in the future.

The Attorney General may sue for injunctive relief, dissolution, or other appropriate remedy to enforce compliance with the reporting requirements applicable to public benefit, mutual benefit, and religious corporations [see Corp. Code §§ 6216, 8216, 9660(b); see also Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations]. Code §§ 6215, 8215, 9660(a)*; see also Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations]. Further, directors and officers may be subject to criminal sanctions if they knowingly concurred in making or publishing materially false, or willfully or fraudulently exaggerated, financial reports or statements of the corporation's financial condition if those statements would tend to induce contributions or donations [see Corp. Code §§ 6812, 8813, 9690; see also Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations]. Incorporators, directors, officers, and agents who knowingly exhibit false, forged, or altered documents to public officers with the intent to deceive may also be subject to criminal penalties [see Corp. Code §§ 6814, 8814, 9690].

G. Maintaining California Tax-Exempt Status

6-13B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13B.80

§ 13B.80 Continuing to Satisfy Exemption Requirements

To maintain its California tax-exempt status, an organization must continue to meet the original exemption requirements: exempt purpose, no private inurement, and no or insubstantial involvement in influencing legislation or political campaigns [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d]. If an exempt organization makes a material change in its character, purpose, or method of operation that is inconsistent with the exemption, the organization may not rely on a previous ruling or determination letter recognizing the exempt status under state or federal law [Treas. Reg. § 601.201(n)(3)(ii); see Rev. Proc. 90-27 , § 13.02, 1990-1 C.B. 514]. Further, an exempt organization that changes its structure so that it becomes a new legal entity (for example, a change from a trust or an unincorporated association to a corporation) must reestablish its exemption by filing an appropriate application [Rev. Rul. 67-390, 1967-2 C.B. 179 ; see FTB Form 3500]. For further discussion, see § 13B.25

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
G. Maintaining California Tax-Exempt Status

6-13B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13B.81

§ 13B.81 Compliance With Reporting Requirements

California generally requires the filing of an annual information return [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23772; see § 13B.132]. Unlike federal law, California requires that organizations excepted from this requirement [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23772(a)(2); 18 Cal. Code Reg. 23772(a)(1)] must file an annual information statement with the Franchise Tax Board [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23774]. Both the annual information return and the annual information statement are set forth in FTB Form 199.

The failure to comply with these requirements may be subject to the organization to penalties, including fines, suspension, or revocation of exemption [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23722-23778]. These sanctions are discussed in § 13B.70 et seq.

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

6-13B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13B.110

§ 13B.110 Tax-Exempt Classification of Organizations for Federal Income Tax Purposes

1. Determine type of organization and Internal Revenue Code provision under which it can claim exemption.

a. Corporations organized under act of Congress [I.R.C. § 501(c)(1)].

b. Corporations organized to hold title to property, collect income, and turn that income over to an exempt organization [I.R.C. § 501(c)(2); see I.R.C. § 501(c)(25)(G)].

c. Corporations and any community chest, fund, or foundation organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, testing for public safety, literary, or educational purposes, or to foster international or national amateur athletics, or for prevention of cruelty to children or animals [I.R.C. § 501(c)(3)].

d. Civic leagues, social welfare organizations, or local associations of employees [I.R.C. § 501(c)(4)].

NOTE:
Social welfare organizations often have the option to choose between exemption under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) or I.R.C. § 501(c)(4), as the requirements are similar. The IRS is generally more reluctant to grant I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) status as gifts to I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) organizations are deductible, in contrast to gifts to I.R.C. § 501(c)(4) organizations.

e. Labor, agricultural, or horticultural organizations [I.R.C. § 501(c)(5)].

f. Business leagues, chambers of commerce, real estate boards, boards of trade, or professional football leagues, not organized for profit [I.R.C. § 501(c)(6)].

g. Social and recreational clubs [I.R.C. § 501(c)(7); see § 13B.201[1][c][v]].

h. Fraternal beneficiary societies, orders, or associations [I.R.C. § 501(c)(8)].

i. Voluntary employees' beneficiary associations [I.R.C. § 501(c)(9)].

j. Domestic fraternal orders that do not provide any type of insurance or other benefits [I.R.C. § 501(c)(10)].

k. Local teacher retirement fund associations [I.R.C. § 501(c)(11)].

l. Local benevolent life insurance associations, mutual ditch or irrigation companies, mutual or cooperative telephone companies, or similar organizations [I.R.C. § 501(c)(12)].

m. Nonprofit cemetery companies or cemetery companies owned and operated exclusively for benefit of their members [I.R.C. § 501(c)(13)].

n. State-chartered credit unions and mutual reserve funds [I.R.C. § 501(c)(14)].

o. Mutual insurance companies or associations (other than life) with written premiums of $350,000 or less [I.R.C. § 501(c)(15)].

NOTE:

These companies or associations (including interinsurers and reciprocal underwriters) are exempt if the greater of net written premiums or direct written premiums for the taxable year do not exceed $350,000 [I.R.C. § 501(c)(15)(A)]. For computation purposes, the company or association will be treated as receiving during the taxable year written premiums received by all other companies or associations that are members of the same controlled group [see I.R.C. §§ 831(b)(2)(B)(ii), 1563(a)] as the insurance company or association for which the determination is being made [I.R.C. § 501(c)(15)(C)].

p. Corporations formed by farm cooperatives to finance ordinary crop operations of members [I.R.C. § 501(c)(16)].

q. Trusts that are part of plan providing supplemental unemployment compensation benefits [I.R.C. § 501(c)(17)].

r. Post or organization of past or present members of United States Armed Forces [I.R.C. § 501(c)(19)].

s. Organization or trust formed to provide qualified group legal services [I.R.C. § 501(c)(20); I.R.C. § 120(e)].

NOTE:

Although the I.R.C. § 501(c)(20) exemption is still listed in the Internal Revenue Code, it is applicable only to taxable years ending on or before June 30, 1992 [I.R.C. § 120(e)].

t. Black lung benefit trusts [I.R.C. § 501(c)(21)].

u. Trusts established by plan sponsors of multi-employer plans for purpose of making withdrawal liability payments [I.R.C. § 501(c)(22)].

v. Veterans' organizations over 100 years old, organized to provide insurance and other benefits [I.R.C. § 501(c)(23)].

w. Trusts established to receive and distribute liability payments from contributing sponsors of terminated pension plan [I.R.C. § 501(c)(24); see 29 U.S.C. § 1349].

x. Corporation or trust with 35 or fewer shareholders or beneficiaries formed solely to hold title to real property [I.R.C. § 501(c)(25)].

y. Membership organization established by a state exclusively to provide nonprofit medical coverage [I.R.C. § 501(c)(26)].

z. Membership organization established by a state before June 1, 1996, exclusively to reimburse its members for losses arising under worker's compensation acts [I.R.C. § 501(c)(27)].

ad. Cooperative service organizations composed of operating educational organizations [I.R.C. § 501(f)].

ae. Child care organizations [I.R.C. § 501(k)].

af. Farmers' cooperative associations [I.R.C. § 521(a)].

NOTE:

The specific qualifications for the above organizations are defined by statute and regulation. Despite the fact that a client's organization may seem to fit within one of the above categories, the relevant statute and regulations must be consulted [see I.R.C. § 501; Treas. Reg. §§ 1.501(a)-1-1.501(e)-1]. The specific qualification requirements for most of the foregoing classifications are in IRS Pub. No. 557, Tax-Exempt Status for Your Organization, which may be obtained from any local IRS office.

2. If I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) status is desired, determine whether organization meets following requirements:

NOTE:

For a detailed discussion of the requirements that a corporation must satisfy to qualify for exempt status, see § 13B.20 et seq.

a. Organization will be organized and operated exclusively for one or more of exempt purposes specified in I.R.C. § 501(c)(3).

b. No part of organization's net earnings inure to benefit of any private shareholder or individual.

c. No substantial part of organization's activities include propaganda or other attempts to influence legislation, except as otherwise provided by I.R.C. § 501(h) [see § 13B.20[4][b]].

NOTE:

Certain public charities may elect to replace the "substantial part of activities" test with a sliding-scale limitation defined in terms of monetary expenditures to influence legislation

[see § 13B.20[7]].

d. No substantial part of organization's activities consists of providing commercial-type insurance [see I.R.C. § 501(m); see § 13B.20[4][d]].

e. Organization does not participate in or intervene in (including the publication or distribution of statements) any political campaign on behalf of or in opposition to any candidate for public office.

NOTE:

This bar is absolute and strictly applied. Even indirect involvement in a candidate election may cause the denial or revocation of tax-exempt status [I.R.C. § 501(c)(3); see Christian Echoes Nat'l Ministry v. United States (10th Cir. 1972) 470 F.2d 849, 853-854] . For further discussion, see § 13B. 20[3][a], [4][b].

f. Assets of organization are irrevocably dedicated to exempt purpose [see Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(b)(4)].

3. If exempt status is desired under any provision of I.R.C. § 501, other than I.R.C. § 501(c)(3), determine that organization meets qualification requirements of specific section under which exemption is sought [see I.R.C. § 501; Treas. Reg. §§ 1.501(a)-1-1.501(e)-1; see also § 13B.201].

4. Determine necessity of application for exemption and appropriate application form.

a. Organizations claiming exemption under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) apply for exemption on IRS Form 1023, with following exceptions [I.R.C. § 508(c)(1); Treas. Reg. § 1.508-1(a)(3).]:

(1) Churches, their integrated auxiliaries, and conventions and associations of churches;

(2) Any organization that is not a private foundation and that normally does not have more than $5,000 of annual gross receipts; and

(3) Subordinate organizations, other than private foundations, belonging to exempt group of organizations.

NOTE:

The organizations excepted from the application requirement are automatically exempt from taxation. These organizations may nevertheless desire to establish their exemption formally and may do so by filing Form 1023 [see Treas. Reg. §§ 1.501(a)-1, 1.508-1(a)(4); see also § 13B.20[1][b], 13B.200].

I.R.C. § 508(a) provides that with the exception of the organizations described above, an organization will not be treated as exempt under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) unless it has given notice to the IRS that it is applying for recognition of exempt status. The filing of a properly completed IRS Form 1023 satisfies this notice requirement [Treas. Reg. § 1.508-1(a)(2)(i)]. If the organization fails to give this notice within 15 months from the end of the month in which it was organized [see Treas. Reg. § 1.508-1(a)(2)(iii)], it will not qualify for exempt status during the period before the date of actual notice. However, retroactive recognition of exempt status to the date of organization may be granted if the application is filed within the 15-month period.

b. Organizations claiming exemption under I.R.C. § 501(c)(2), (4)-(10), (12), (13), (15), (17), or (19) must apply by submitting IRS Form 1024.

c. Organizations claiming exemption under I.R.C. § 501(e) (cooperative hospital), (f) (educational service organizations) or (k) (child care organizations) may apply for exemption on IRS Form 1023.

d. Other organizations claiming exemption must make application to IRS, but no specific form has been prescribed [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(a)-1(a)(2); see IRS Pub. No. 557].

NOTE:

When no form has been prescribed, the organization must apply by letter addressed to the District Director of the IRS. The letter must contain information necessary to establish that the organization meets the requirements for qualification under the classification for which exemption is claimed and be signed by an officer. A copy of the organizational document must be attached.

e. Central organization seeking group exemption letter to cover subordinates apply by letter [see IRS Pub. No. 557].

5. If entity will apply for I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) status, determine whether organization qualifies for nonprivate foundation status.

a. Following organizations are not private foundations [I.R.C. § 509(a)]:

(1) Churches or associations of churches, educational institutions that maintain full-time faculty, hospitals, and other exempt organizations that qualify for 50 percent contribution deduction under I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(A) other than private foundations.

(2) Organizations that normally receive more than one-third of their support [see I.R.C. § 509(d)] in each taxable year from public contributions, membership fees, and gross receipts, but do not normally receive more than one-third of their support from gross investment income or from after-tax unrelated business income.

(3) Organizations set up to support one or more of organizations described in P (1) or (2), above, and operated, supervised, or controlled by such organizations and not by disqualified persons.

(4) Organizations organized and operated exclusively for testing for public safety.

NOTE:

Even though an organization falls within one of the above categories, the organization will be presumed to be a private foundation, with some exceptions, unless it gives timely notice to the IRS that it is not a private foundation [I.R.C. § 508(b)]. This notification requirement is satisfied by the filing of IRS Form 1023, which provides a proper space for notification of nonprivate foundation status by organizations claiming exemption under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) [see Treas. Reg. § 1.508-1(b)(2)(iv)*].

b. If private foundation status cannot be avoided, following restrictions will be imposed:

(1) Organization will be subject to strict control over its operation and finances [see I.R.C. §§ 4940-4948]; and

(2) To qualify for tax exemption, organization must ordinarily provide in its governing instrument that it will operate within constraints of I.R.C. §§ 4941-4945 [I.R.C. § 508(e)].

NOTE:

The governing instruments of California organizations are not required to contain such a provision, since California law automatically incorporates them into the governing instruments of all private foundations [see Corp. Code §§ 5260, 9260; see also Treas. Reg. § 1.508-3(d); Rev. Rul. 75-38, 1975-1 C.B. 161].

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

6-13B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13B.111

§ 13B.111 Tax-Exempt Classification of Organizations for State Franchise and Corporate Income Tax Purposes

1. Determine type of organization and Revenue and Taxation Code provision under which exemption will be sought:

a. Labor, agricultural, or horticultural organizations other than [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701a]:

NOTE:
The types of cooperative organizations set forth below are included in the exemption if the IRS determines that they are described in I.R.C. § 501(c)(5) [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701a(a)].

(1) Growers' cooperatives or mutual associations [Rev. & Tax. Code § 24404]; or

(2) Cooperative or mutual associations for sale of property other than water, agricultural products, or food at wholesale [Rev. & Tax Code § 24405].

b. Fraternal beneficiary societies, orders, or organizations [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701b; see I.R.C. § 501(c)(8)].

c. Nonprofit cemetery companies, cemetery companies owned and operated exclusively for the benefit of their members, and any corporations chartered solely for purpose of disposing bodies by burial or cremation that are not permitted by their charter to engage in any business not necessarily incident to that purpose and no part of net earnings inures to benefit of private shareholder or individual [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701c; see I.R.C. § 501(c)(13)].

d. Corporations, community chests or trusts, organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, testing for public safety, literary, or educational purposes, or to foster national or international amateur sports competition, or for prevention of cruelty to children or animals [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d].

e. Business leagues, chambers of commerce, real estate boards, or boards of trade, not organized for profit and no part of net earnings of which inures to benefit of any private shareholder or individual [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701e (phrase "or professional football leagues (whether or not administering a pension fund for football players)" does not apply); see I.R.C. § 501(c)(6)].

f. Civic leagues, nonprofit organizations operated exclusively for promotion of social welfare, or local associations of employees [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701f(a); see I.R.C. § 501(c)(4)].

NOTE:

An organization is not organized exclusively for exempt purposes unless its assets are irrevocable dedicated to one or more exempt purposes listed in I.R.C. § 501(c)(4) [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701f(b)].

g. Social clubs [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701g; see I.R.C. § 501(c)(7)].

NOTE:

Social clubs may not discriminate against any person on the basis of race, color, or religion [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(7); see also § 13B.201[1][c][v]]. California similarly bars discrimination on the basis of ancestry, or any characteristic listed or defined in Gov. Code § 11135. Social clubs violating this prohibition cannot deduct business expenses [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17269, 24343.2*]. A discriminatory club holding an alcoholic beverage license must incorporate a printed statement regarding nondeductibility on expense receipts [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23438*; but see Bus. & Prof. Code § 23425* (exception)].

h. Corporations organized for exclusive purpose of holding title to property, collecting income, and remitting that income to exempt organizations [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701h(a)].

NOTE:

For this purpose, the term "corporation" includes a limited liability company that is classified as a partnership or disregarded entity [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701h(b)(1)].

i. Voluntary employees' beneficiary associations [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701i; see I.R.C. § 501(c)(9)].

j. Local teachers' retirement fund associations [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701j; see I.R.C. § 501(c)(11)].

k. Religious or apostolic corporations [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701k].

NOTE:

These corporations are extremely rare, and most religious groups ordinarily prefer to obtain exemption under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d.

l. Domestic fraternal societies, orders, or associations, operating under the lodge system, which do not provide any type of insurance or other benefits [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701l(a); see I.R.C. § 501(c)(10)].

NOTE:

The term "domestic" means created or organized in the United States or under the law of the United States or any state or territory [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701l(b)].

m. Trusts forming part of plan providing for payment of supplemental unemployment compensation benefits [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701n(a); see I.R.C. § 501(c)(17); see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701n(b) (modifications)].

n. Trusts or plans for self-employed individuals (not otherwise exempt as qualified plan [see I.R.C. § 401(a)] under Rev. & Tax. Code § 17631) [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701p].

o. Certain political organizations [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701r].

p. Employee-funded pension trusts [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701s(a); see I.R.C. § 501(c)(18)].

NOTE:

The last sentence of I.R.C. § 501(c)(18), as amended by Title VI of Economic Growth and Tax Relief Reconciliation Act of 2001 (P.L. No. 107-16), relating to excess contributions under I.R.C. § 4979, does not apply for California purposes [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701s(b)].

q. Homeowners' associations [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701t].

NOTE:

The term "homeowners' association" includes a condominium management association, a residential real estate management association, a time-share association, and a cooperative housing corporation [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701t(d); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701t(e) ("cooperative housing corporation" defined), (f) ("time-share association" defined)].

r. Organization of owners of manufactured homes or mobilehomes, who are tenants in mobilehome park, formed to purchase mobilehome park to convert to condominium, stock cooperative, or other resident ownership interests [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701v].

s. Veteran's organization [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701w; see I.R.C. § 501(c)(19)].

t. Title-holding companies [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701x(a); see I.R.C. § 501(c)(25)].

NOTE:

For this purpose, the term "corporation" includes a limited liability company that is classified as a partnership or disregarded entity [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701x(b)(1)].

u. Cooperative hospital service organizations [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23704; see I.R.C. § 501(e)].

2. If Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d status [see P 1d, above] is desired, determine that [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d]:

a. Organization will be organized and operated exclusively for one or more of exempt purposes specified by statute.

b. No part of organization's net earnings inure to benefit of any private shareholder or individual.

c. No substantial part of organization's activities include propaganda or other attempts to influence legislation, except as otherwise provided by Rev. & Tax. Code § 23704.5 [see I.R.C. § 501(h)].

NOTE:

Certain public charities may elect to replace the "substantial part of activities" test with a sliding-scale limitation defined in terms of monetary expenditures to influence legislation [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23704.5, 23740].

d. Organization has not and does not plan to intervene or participate in any political campaign on behalf of, or in opposition to, any candidate for public office.

e. Assets of organization are irrevocably dedicated to exempt purpose.

NOTE:

This requirement mandates the inclusion of a clause in the organization's articles of incorporation or other organizing instrument ensuring the irrevocable dedication of assets to an exempt purpose [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d; see § 13B.20[3]; see also Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations].

3. If exempt status is desired under any provision of Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701 other than Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d, determine that organization meets qualification requirements of specific statute under which exemption is claimed [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23701a-23701x; 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23701; see also IRS Pub. No. 557].

4. Determine conditions precedent to operation as exempt organization in California:

a. Submission of application for exemption on FTB Form 3500 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701(a)].

b. Payment of filing fee [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701(b)].

c. Issuance of determination letter by Franchise Tax Board, granting exemption from California franchise and corporate income tax to applicant organization.

NOTE:

Exemption may be granted on a retroactive basis for years before the approval of the exemption application, but only to the extent that the organization can establish that it satisfied the requirements during each of the prior years. No claim for refund will be allowed unless timely filed under Rev. & Tax Code § 19306 [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23701(b)(4)].

5. If Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d status will be sought, determine whether organization qualifies for nonprivate foundation status.

a. If organization is treated as private foundation for federal income tax purposes, it will be treated as private foundation for California tax purposes [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23709; see §§ 13B.20[5], 13B.110, P 5].

NOTE:

Any organization that has been classified as a private foundation or informed that it will be treated as a private foundation under federal law must inform the Franchise Tax Board of this classification on its annual information return (FTB Form 199) [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23708; 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23708(a)].

b. If private foundation status cannot be avoided, following restrictions will be imposed:

(1) Organization will be subject to strict federal controls over its operation and finances [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23708; see I.R.C. §§ 4940-4948]; and

NOTE:

California tax law has the effect of imposing and enforcing the federal restrictions on private foundations. The enforcement of these restrictions is considered the responsibility of the state Attorney General working in conjunction with the IRS. Therefore, if violators of the above restrictions are discovered by the Franchise Tax Board, they will be called to the attention of the Attorney General rather than immediately subjected to revocation of their exemption as might otherwise be proper. Unlike federal law, California imposes no special excise taxes for violation of the private foundation restrictions referred to above. Rather, if the exempt status of a private foundation is terminated under federal law for violation of these restrictions [see I.R.C. § 507], California would also revoke the exempt status, resulting in liability for state franchise taxes [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23708; 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23708(b)].

California imposes several restrictions and rules on private foundations and other organizations exempt under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d. These organizations may lose their exempt status for improperly using accumulations of income [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23737], or by engaging in certain prohibited transactions [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23736-23736.4]. California also revokes the exemption of charitable corporations that fail to file certain required registrations and periodic reports with the Attorney General [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23703].

(2) To qualify for tax exemption, private foundation must ordinarily include provisions in its governing instrument that require it to operate within constraints of I.R.C. § 4941-4945 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23708(e)].

NOTE:

The governing instruments of California organizations are not required to contain these provisions, since California law automatically incorporates them into the governing instruments of all private foundations [Prob. Code §§ 16101-16104; Corp. Code §§ 5260, 9260; see 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23708(b)].

6-13B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13B.120

§ 13B.120 Obtaining Federal Income Tax Exemption

1. Prepare application for submission to IRS.

a. Organizations seeking exemption under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3), (e), (f), or (k) apply on IRS Form 1023 [see § 13B.200].

NOTE:
Even those organizations that are not required to apply, such as churches, should consider submitting a formal application [see I.R.C. § 508(c)]. A formal determination of tax-exempt status will avoid possible inquiry into whether the organization actually is of the type that does not have to apply, and may make fund raising easier, since many contributors wish evidence of exemption as assurance that their contributions will yield the maximum possible tax deduction [see Treas. Reg. §§ 1.501(a)-1, 1.508-1(a)(4)]. For further discussion, see §§ 13B.20[1][b], 13B.200.

I.R.C. § 508(a) provides that an organization will not be treated as exempt under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) unless it has given notice to the IRS that it is applying for recognition of exempt status. The filing of a properly completed IRS Form 1023 satisfies this notice requirement [Treas. Reg. § 1.508-1(a)(2)(i)]. If the organization fails to give notice within 15 months from the end of the month in which it was organized [see Treas. Reg. § 1.508-1(a)(2)(iii)], it will not qualify for exempt status during the period prior to the date of actual notice (filing). However, retroactive recognition of exempt status to the date of organization may be granted if the application is filed within the 15-month period.

b. Organizations seeking exemption under I.R.C. § 501(c)(2), (4)-(10), (12), (13), (15), (17), or (19) apply for exemption on IRS Form 1024 [see § 13B.201].

c. All other organizations should apply by letter.

2. Have application signed under penalty of perjury by one of the following [see IRS Form 1023, Instructions]:

a. Principal officer of entity.

b. Trustee authorized to sign to application.

NOTE:
If signing authority is based on a board resolution, a conformed copy of the resolution should be submitted with the application.

c. Attorney or agent specifically appointed to execute application by power of attorney.

NOTE:
If signing authority is based on a power of attorney, the original power of attorney, signed by the persons authorized to sign Form 1023, must be submitted with the application. IRS Form 2848 may be used [see IRS Form 1023, Instructions].

3. Assemble documents that must be submitted along with application, including:

a. Conformed copy of organization's articles of incorporation, constitution, articles of association, trust instrument, or other enabling instrument to be attached as Exhibit A.

NOTE:
Ordinarily, the exemption application will not be accepted until the articles of incorporation have been certified by the Secretary of State. The articles or other organizing instruments must contain certain mandatory provisions, depending on which exemption is sought [see IRS Pub. No. 557; see also Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations ; Ch. 13A, Nonprofit Unincorporated Associations].

b. Copy of organization's bylaws or similar code of regulations to be attached as Exhibit B.

NOTE:
The copy of the bylaws must be signed by a principal officer, or the bylaws may be accompanied by a written declaration, signed by an authorized officer of the entity, certifying that the document is a complete and accurate copy.

c. If capital stock is or will be issued, details as to classes, number, par value or consideration for which they were issued, and whether dividends are authorized or have been paid on any class.

d. Classified statement of receipts and expenditures and balance sheet for current year and three previous years or for period for which organization has operated if less.

e. If organization has not yet begun operation, detailed budget covering next two taxable years specifying proposed expenditures and receipts.

NOTE:
Lack of an operating history does not preclude a determination of exempt status, but the organization must describe its proposed operations in sufficient detail to permit a conclusion that it will in fact meet the requirements of the section of law under which exemption is claimed [Rev. Proc. 80-25, 1980-1 C.B. 667]. To meet the operational test, a newly formed entity must submit a detailed statement of its proposed activities as part of the application for exemption [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(b)(1)(v)].

f. Other documents required from organizations applying for exemption under particular sections of law.

NOTE:
IRS Forms 1023 and 1024 contain specific instructions as to documents required to establish qualification under particular classifications of I.R.C. § 501(c).

4. If organization claims exemption under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3), request ruling as to its status as private or nonprivate foundation.

a. Definitive rulings will be given only if organization's first taxable year is more than eight months.

b. Advance rulings will be given to newly created organizations.

(1) Organization will be treated as nonprivate foundation for duration of ruling period.

(2) Ruling period will last two years, or three if first taxable year is less than eight months.

c. Extended advance rulings may be applied for.

(1) Organization must waive statute of limitations for assessment of excise tax under I.R.C. § 4940 by submitting IRS Form 872-C.

(2) Organization will be treated as nonprivate foundation for duration of extended ruling period.

(3) Extended ruling period will be five years, or six if first taxable year is less than eight months.

NOTE:
Ruling requests are made in Part IV of IRS Form 1023 if the organization is required to submit that form, otherwise a separate letter request must be made. If an advance or extended advance ruling is granted, at the expiration of the ruling period the IRS will review the organization's operating history, determine if in fact the organization was a private foundation during that period, and if so, assess the excise taxes due on investment income earned during the period.

5. Prepare notice of claim of private or nonprivate foundation status.

NOTE:
I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) organizations are presumed to be private foundations unless notice is given to the contrary [I.R.C. § 508(b)]. Churches and related groups, nonprivate foundations with less than $5,000 of gross receipts yearly, and any subordinate organization covered by a group exemption need not file this notice [I.R.C. § 508(c); Treas. Reg. § 1.508-1(a)(3)]. The filing of IRS Form 1023 constitutes the required notice; therefore, those organizations that are required to apply for tax-exempt status on that form do not have to draft a separate notice.

6. Prepare application for federal employer's identification number on IRS Form SS-4 if organization does not already have such a number.

NOTE:

If a number has not already been obtained, IRS Form SS-4 must accompany the application for exemption.

7. Obtain cashier's check for applicable filing (user) fee.

NOTE:

IRS Form 8718 prescribes the applicable fee. A check or money order must be attached to IRS Form 8718, which must in turn be attached to the exemption application [see IRS Form 8718; see also § 13B.202].

Because the IRS typically waits for checks to clear before processing the application, use of a cashier's check may expedite the application process. The applicant also may request expedited processing.

8. File application for exemption, along with all other necessary applications, requests, fee, and supporting documents, with the Internal Revenue Service, P.O. Box 192, Covington, KY 41012-0192 [see IRS Form 8718; see also § 13B.202].

NOTE:

New entities must file within 15 months after the end of the month of formation. An automatic one-year extension applies to applications for exempt status. In addition, the entity may request an additional extension [see Rev. Proc. 92-85, 1992-2 C.B. 490 ; Rev. Proc. 93-28, 1993-2 C.B. 344 ; see also § 13B.20[1][c]]. In determining the date of formation, the IRS looks to the date that the entity came into existence under the law of the state of formation; subsequent, nonsubstantive amendments to the formation instrument do not affect the date of formation for purposes of the notice requirement [IRS Form 1023, Instructions].

If the application is submitted using express mail or a delivery service, the application must be sent to the Internal Revenue Service, 201 West Rivercenter Blvd., Attn: Extracting Stop 312, Covington, KY 41011.

6-13B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13B.121

§ 13B.121 Obtaining Exemption From California Franchise or Income Tax

NOTE:

Just as the fact that an entity's nonprofit status does not ensure a federal or state tax exemption, the fact that an organization is exempt from federal income tax does not make it exempt from California franchise or corporate income tax. The application procedures are completely separate, and the entity must separately apply for exemption from state tax. However, an organization organized and operated for nonprofit purposes in accordance Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d [see § 13B.11] is exempted from state taxation upon submitting to the FTB a copy of a determination letter recognizing the organization's exemption from federal income tax, or group exemption letter, issued by the I.R.S. [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d(c)(1); see paragraph 9, below]. The following summarizes the procedures for applying for an exemption from California taxes.

1. Prepare application for submission to Franchise Tax Board.

a. All organizations, other than those subject to Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d(c)(1) [see paragraph 9, below], seeking exemption from state franchise and corporate income taxation apply on FTB Form 3500 [see § 13B.210].

NOTE:

When possible, FTB Form 3500 has been revised to conform with the federal exemption application. Therefore, it is advisable to obtain federal application forms and instructions for the appropriate category of organization and develop the materials for both applications at the same time. It is also recommended that the applicant secure a copy of IRS Pub. No. 557, which is available at any local IRS office.

In some cases, organizations are required to obtain a federal determination of tax-exempt status before California will issue an exemption determination letter. For example, trusts must furnish a copy of the federal determination letter before the state exemption will be granted. If the trust has not yet received a federal exemption, a statement that the federal application was submitted should be attached to FTB Form 3500 [see FTB Form 3500, Instructions; see also § 13B.210].

b. Advise client that organization may not operate as exempt organization under California law until it has taken following steps [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701]:

(1) Application for exemption has been submitted;

(2) Filing fee is submitted with application [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701(b); see also FTB Form 3500]; and

(3) Franchise Tax Board has issued determination letter granting exemption from taxation to applicant organization.

NOTE:
An organization that has been determined to be exempt by the Franchise Tax Board can rely on the determination as long as there are no substantial changes in the law or the organization's charter, purposes, or method of operation [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23701(a)(2)].

2. Have application executed and signed under penalty of perjury by authorized individual who is elected officer, director, authorized representative, or trustee.

NOTE:
FTB Form 3500 must be executed with an original signature of the authorized person [see § 13B.210].

3. Assemble documents that must be attached to application.

NOTE:
The exemption application and the accompanying attachments must show the character of the organization, the purpose for which it was organized, its actual and proposed activities, the sources of its income and receipts and disposition of that income, whether or not any of its income or receipts are credited to surplus or may inure to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual, and in general all facts relating to its operations that may affect its right to exemption [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23701(b)(1)].

a. If organization is already incorporated, copy of articles of incorporation endorsed by Secretary of State and all subsequent amendments.

NOTE:
Ordinarily, a federal exemption application will not be accepted until the articles have been certified by the Secretary of State. The articles or other organizing instruments are required to contain certain mandatory provisions depending on the provision under which exemption is sought [see FTB Form 3500, Instructions; see also § 13B.210].

b. If organization is in process of being incorporated, copy of proposed articles submitted with application.

c. If organization is unincorporated, copy of constitution, articles of association, declaration of trust, or other documents setting forth aims and purposes of entity, signed by principal officers or trustees.

d. Copy of bylaws, proposed bylaws, or other similar code of regulations.

e. If organization is operating, current, classified, and complete statements of receipts and expenditures and assets and liabilities for each accounting period that organization was in existence and for which exemption is sought.

NOTE:

Bank statements or monthly reports are insufficient [see FTB Form 3500, Instructions; see also § 13B.210].

f. For organizations that have not commenced operations or have been operating less than one year, proposed budget, based on reasonable expectations, showing sources of income and areas of expenditures for first year of operation.

NOTE:

The FTB will not process the application until it receives the budget [see FTB Form 3500, Instructions; see also § 13B.210].

Exempt status may be recognized in advance of operations (or incorporation) if proposed operations are planned to begin within one year and can be described in sufficient detail to permit a conclusion that the organization will clearly meet the particular requirements of the section under which exemption is claimed. A mere restatement of purposes or a statement that proposed activities will be in furtherance of these purposes does not satisfy these requirements. The organization must fully describe the activities in which it expects to engage, including the standards, criteria, procedures, or other means adopted or planned for carrying out the activities; the anticipated source of receipts; and the nature of contemplated expenditures. If warranted, a record of actual operations may be required before a determination letter will be issued [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23701(d)(2)].

g. A statement describing the specific purposes for which organization was formed.

NOTE:

Recitation of the articles or bylaws is insufficient for this purpose [see FTB Form 3500, Instructions; see also § 13B.210].

h. Statement providing detailed description of organization's programs or activities that organization currently conducts or will conduct and how organization will accomplish its specific purposes.

i. If exemption has already been recognized for federal income tax purposes, copy of federal determination letter or ruling.

NOTE:

The Franchise Tax Board advises that an unincorporated association or trust should secure a federal determination letter granting exempt status first, and furnish a copy of that determination letter with the state application for exemption.

9. For an organization organized and operated for nonprofit purposes in accordance with Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d, submit copy of one of following to Franchise Tax Board [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d(c)(1)]:

NOTE:

Notwithstanding Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701 (exemption application requirement), an organization organized and operated in accordance with Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d [see § 13B.11] is exempted from California income taxation (except as provided in Rev. & Tax Code §§ 23701 et seq. or 23731 et seq.) upon submitting to the FTB a copy of one of following documents [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d(c)(1)]. Upon receipt, the F.T.B. will issue an acknowledgment that the organization is exempt from California income tax. The acknowledgment may refer to the organization's recognition by the I.R.S. of exemption from federal income tax as an organization under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3), and if applicable, the organization's subordinate organization status under a federal group exemption letter [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d(c)(2)].

The effective date of an organization's exemption from state income tax for state purposes is no later than the effective date of the organization's recognition of exemption from federal income tax under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3), or its status as a subordinate organization under a federal group exemption letter, as applicable [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d(c)(2)].

If for federal income tax purposes, an organization's exemption under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) is suspended or revoked, the organization must notify the FTB of that suspension or revocation in the form and manner prescribed by the FTB. Upon notification, the FTB will suspend or revoke for state income tax purposes the organization's exemption granted under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d(c)(1) [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d(c)(3)].

These provisions will not be construed to prevent the F.T.B. from revoking the exemption of an organization that is not organized or operated in accordance with the Revenue and Taxation Code or I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d(c)(4)]. If the F.T.B. suspends or revokes the exemption of an organization pursuant to Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d(c)(3) or (4), the exemption will be reinstated only upon compliance with Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701, regardless of whether the organization can establish exemption under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d(c)(1) [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d(c)(5)].

a. Copy of determination letter or ruling issued by I.R.S. recognizing organization's exemption from federal income tax under I.R.C. § 501(a) as organization described in I.R.C. § 501(c)(3).

b. Copy of group exemption letter issued by I.R.S. that states that both central organization and all subordinates are tax-exempt under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3), and substantiation that organization is included in federal group exemption letter as subordinate organization.

§ 13B.122 Obtaining Exemption From Property Tax

NOTE:

The "welfare exemption" [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 214*] is discussed in § 13B.51. The welfare exemption from property tax must be renewed annually [see, e.g., Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 254, 254.5(a)]. In addition, owners of tax-exempt property must report the creation, renewal, sublease, or assignment of any lease, sublease, license, use permit, or other document conveying the right to use the property to the local assessor within 60 days of the transaction [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 480.5(a)] if the board of supervisors of the county in which the property is located has adopted this requirement [Rev. & Tax. Code § 480.5(b)].

1. Ensure that entity's interest in property is of record on lien date in office of recorder for county in which property is located [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 261].

2. File claim for organizational clearance certificate with Board of Equalization [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 254.6].

3. File claim for welfare exemption with assessor on or before February 15 of each year [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 254, 254.5, 254.6].

NOTE:

The assessor may not approve a property tax exemption until the claimant has been issued a valid organizational clearance certificate. Financial statements are to be submitted only if the assessor so requests in writing [Rev. & Tax. Code § 254.5(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 254.6*].

A limited exemption from this annual filing requirement applies to applicants that have been granted a welfare exemption under Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 214.15, 231 (property owned by a nonprofit corporation and leased to and used exclusively by the government or by a nonprofit corporation described in Rev. & Tax. Code § 214.15) and continue to own exempt property. These applicants need not reapply in any subsequent year in which no transfer of, or other change in title to, the exempted property occurs and the property is used exclusively by a governmental agency for its interest and benefit. Instead, applicants seeking to maintain exemption eligibility must return a card, included in the notice sent by the assessor, to the assessor indicating continued eligibility [Rev. & Tax. Code § 254.5(d)].

Similar filing requirements apply to exempt property owned by volunteer fire departments [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 213.7(c)] and property owned by nonprofit corporations and leased to and exclusively used by the government for its interest and benefit [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 231(k)].

4. If organization permits another exempt organization to use its property for meetings, and those meetings do not destroy welfare exemption [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(a)(3)(D)], ensure that owner of other organization files valid, unrevoked letter from IRS or FTB stating that other organization, or national organization of which it is local chapter or affiliate, qualifies as exempt organization [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214(a)(3)(D)].

5. If organization's activities on property produce unrelated business taxable income [see I.R.C. § 512], file following with assessor [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214.05(d)]:

NOTE:

If some income derived from the organization's use of the property is unrelated business taxable income, the property is subject only to a partial exemption [Rev. & Tax. Code § 214.05(a)]. For further discussion, see § 13B.52.

a. Organization's information and tax returns filed with Internal Revenue Service for immediately preceding fiscal year.

b. Information indicating amount of time devoted to income-producing and non-income-producing activities and, if applicable, description of portion of property on which activities are conducted.

c. Statement listing specific activities that produce unrelated business taxable income.

d. If more than 75 percent of organization's income is attributable to qualified property but is not specifically related to use of property [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 214.05(c)]:

(1) Amount of organization's income that is both attributable to activities in California and exempt from income or franchise tax; and

(2) Amount of organization's total income that is attributable to activities in California.

e. Any other information required by Franchise Tax Board.

§ 13B.130 Appealing Denial of Application for Federal Income Tax Exemption

NOTE:
If an organization seeking exemption is notified of a potential adverse determination during the application period, the organization may be able to request technical advice from the IRS's national office [see Rev. Proc. 2000-5, 2000-1 I.R.B. 158 (procedures)] before the final determination.

1. If organization wishes to protest denial of exemption application [see Rev. Proc. 90-27 , §§ 9-12, 1990-1 C.B. 514 ; see also Rev. Proc. 80-25, 1980-1 C.B. 667 (group exemption)]:

NOTE:
When the IRS denies an exemption application without the use of formal technical advice, the IRS send a proposed adverse determination that may be protested. If the national office provided technical advice for the initial adverse decision, no further administrative appeal will be permitted as to those issues for which technical advice was provided [see Rev. Proc. 90-27 , § 10.02, 1990-1 C.B. 514].

a. Draft formal protest, including following:
(1) Statement of facts.

(2) Statement of law.

(3) Arguments in support of organization's position.

NOTE:
The organization should make as complete an argument as possible for exemption when filing its administrative appeal. The organization will then be able to make a showing of exhaustion of administrative remedies, a prerequisite to declaratory relief [see P 2, below].

(4) Whether appeals office conference is desired.

(5) If formal technical advice was provided on some issues, clarify that issues being appealed were not part of or covered by technical advice.

b. File protest within 30 days from date of adverse determination letter.

(1) With district appeals office; or

(2) With IRS's national office (Conference and Review Staff of the Exempt Organizations Technical Branch) in Washington D.C. if denial was made by national office.

2. If organization wishes to appeal final adverse determination of exempt status, or failure by IRS to act on its application, by seeking declaratory judgment [I.R.C. § 7428]:

NOTE:

The declaratory judgment procedure may be used to challenge (1) a final determination with regard to the initial qualification or continuing qualification of an I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) organization that is exempt from tax under I.R.C. § 501(a) or as an organization under I.R.C. § 170(c)(2); (2) a final determination with regard to the initial classification or continuing classification of an organization as a private foundation or private operating foundation [see I.R.C. §§ 509(a), 4942(j)(3)]; and (3) the failure of the IRS to make one of these determinations. A determination as to continuing qualification or classification includes any revocation of or other change in qualification or classification [I.R.C. § 7428(a)]. However, no action may be brought under I.R.C. § 7428 with respect to any revocation of status described in I.R.C. § 6033(j)(1) (loss of exempt status for failure to file any notice or return) [I.R.C. § 7428(4)].

a. Ensure either of following:

(1) That 270 days have elapsed since organization requested determination and it has taken all reasonable steps to secure determination.

NOTE:

The IRS has 270 days in which to make an exemption determination after a substantially complete Form 1023 is filed. If the organization cooperates with the IRS by supplying all available information relevant to the determination, the organization will be deemed to have exhausted all available remedies when the 270-day period elapses [I.R.C. § 7428(b)(2)].

(2) That all administrative remedies have been exhausted [I.R.C. § 7428(a); Rev. Proc. 90-27 , § 12, 1990-1 C.B. 514 ; see also Rev. Proc. 80-25 , § 11, 1980-1 C.B. 667]:

(a) Organization has filed substantially completed IRS Form 1023.

(b) All additional information required to perfect exemption application has been submitted.

(c) Administrative appeals [see P 1, above] have been exhausted.

(d) Final adverse ruling or letter of determination has been issued (or 270 days have elapsed from date of application [see P (1), above]).

b. Draft petition for declaratory judgment:

(1) Establish that all administrative remedies have been exhausted [see P a(2), above].

NOTE:
An actual controversy must exist over the IRS denial of the exemption application or failure to act in order for the organization to have standing to seek declaratory judgment. The organization must be in existence before bringing suit and the adverse determination must be final [see Tax. Ct. R. 210(c)(2)*].

(2) State facts and law relevant to determination.

(3) Include arguments in support of organization's position.

(4) Establish entitlement to declaratory relief.

NOTE:
Requirements to challenge an adverse determination and establish right to declaratory relief in the Tax Court are discussed in World Family Corp. v. Commissioner (1983) 81 T.C. 958 [see Nonprofits' Ins. Alliance v. United States (1994) 32 Fed. Cl. 277* (Court of Federal Claims follows Tax Court's procedures); see also 1984-1 C.B. 1*].

c. File petition for declaratory judgment with Tax Court, Court of Federal Claims, or Washington D.C. District Court [see I.R.C. § 7428(a)]:

NOTE:
Only the organization itself may file the petition [I.R.C. § 7428(b)(1)].

(1) If final letter of adverse determination was sent to organization by certified or registered mail, within 90 days after mailing date [I.R.C. § 7428(b)(3)].

(2) If 270-day period has expired, within 360 days after request for determination was mailed.

§ 13B.131 Filing Federal Returns

[1] Annual Information Returns

NOTE:

Tax-exempt organizations must file various returns and reports. The appropriate forms for the returns and reports, as well as many relevant IRS publications, can be obtained from any local IRS office, by telephone, or from the IRS website located at http://www.irs.gov.

1. Determine whether organization is exempt from annual information filing requirement, such as following:

NOTE:

Many exemptions are set forth by statute [I.R.C. § 6033(a)(3)(A), (C)]. In addition, the IRS Secretary has discretion to relieve any organization from filing an otherwise required return if that filing is determined not necessary to the efficient administration of the internal revenue laws [I.R.C. § 6033(a)(3)(B)]. Additional exemptions are provided by revenue procedures [see, e.g., Rev. Proc. 96-10, 1996-1 C.B. 577 ; Rev. Proc. 95-48, 1995-2 C.B. 418 ; Rev. Proc. 94-17, 1994-1 C.B. 579].

a. Churches, integrated auxiliaries, and conventions or associations of churches [I.R.C. § 6033(a)(3)(A)(i); see Treas. Reg. § 1.6033-2(h)].

b. Exclusively religious activities of any religious order [I.R.C. § 6033(a)(3)(A)(iii); Treas. Reg. § 1.6033-2(g)].

c. Certain organizations (other than private foundations) that normally have gross receipts in each tax year of not more than $5,000 [I.R.C. § 6033(a)(3)(A)(ii), (C)]:

(1) Religious organizations and organizations operated, supervised, or controlled by religious organizations [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(3); Treas. Reg. § 1.6033-2(g)(1)].

(2) Educational organizations [see I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(A)(ii)].

(3) Charitable organizations or organizations for the prevention of cruelty to animals and children if supported by governmental or public funds [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(3)].

(4) Fraternal beneficiary societies, orders, or associations [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(8)].

(5) Corporations created by congressional act if wholly owned by the federal government or instrumentality (or a wholly owned subsidiary) [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(1)].

d. Organizations (other than private foundations) with gross receipts that are normally less than $25,000.

e. Foreign organizations (other than private foundations) with gross receipts from United States sources that are normally less than $25,000 and with no significant activity within the United States.

2. If required, prepare appropriate annual information return [see I.R.C. § 6033; Treas. Reg. § 1.6033-2].

a. Most tax-exempt organizations file IRS Form 990 [but see PP b, c, below].

NOTE:

Most organizations exempt under I.R.C. § 501(a) file IRS Form 990. Most organizations exempt under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) (other than private foundations) and nonexempt wholly charitable trusts [see I.R.C. § 4947(a)(1)*] file IRS Form 990 and Schedule A. Tax-exempt organizations that have gross income between under $100,000 and total assets under $250,000 may file IRS Form 990-EZ (with or without Schedule A).

b. Tax-exempt private foundations and nonexempt private foundations file IRS Form 990-PF [see Treas. Reg. §§ 1.6033-2, 1.6033-3].

NOTE:

The excise tax on the net investment income of most domestic private foundations on Form 990-PF. The tax must be paid annually at the time of filing. However, if the total tax for the year is at least $500, the tax must be paid in quarterly tax payments [IRS Pub. No. 557].

c. Exempt religious or apostolic organizations [see I.R.C. § 501(d)] file IRS Form 1065 (partnership return).

d. Tax-exempt entity defined in I.R.C. § 4965(c), including any I.R.C. § 501(c) or (d) organization, must disclose entity's participation in any prohibited tax shelter transaction [I.R.C. § 6033(a)(2); see I.R.C. § 4965(e) (definition); see also I.R.C. § 6052(c)(3) (penalties for failure to file required disclosure); IRS 2006-31 I.R.B. 102, Notice 2006-65 (excise taxes with respect to prohibited tax shelter transactions to which tax exempt entities are parties and related disclosure requirements)], in form and manner and at time as determined by Treasury Department.

3. If organization has gross income of more than $1,000 included in computing unrelated trade or business taxable income for year, file unrelated business income tax return on IRS Form 990-T [see Treas. Reg. §§ 1.6012-2(e), 1.6012-3(a)(5)].

NOTE:

The obligation to file IRS Form 990-T is in addition to the obligation to file any other required returns [Treas. Reg. § 1.6033-2(i)]. IRS Form 990-W is used to compute whether and in what amounts private foundations and tax-exempt organizations must make quarterly estimated payments of tax on unrelated business taxable income, but is not filed [see I.R.C. § 6655(g)(3)*]. If a I.R.C. § 501(c)(4), (5), or (6) organization pays a proxy tax in lieu of reporting lobbying expenses to members, that tax is reported on and paid with IRS Form 990-T.

4. File return no later than 15th day of fifth month after close of organization's taxable year.

NOTE:

For calendar year organizations, the filing deadline for IRS Form 990 is May 15 [see I.R.C. § 6072(a), (e)* (exception for employees' trust); see also Treas. Reg. § 1.6033-2(e)*].

5. File annual return of excise taxes if [see IRS Form 4720]:

a. Private foundation has violated any restrictions imposed by I.R.C. §§ 4941-4945; see § 13B.20[5][e]].

b. Eligible public charity that has elected to be subject to monetary limitations on lobbying expenditures [see § 13B.20[7]] and has exceeded those limitations.

[2] Donee Information Returns

1. If donee of charitable deduction property disposes of property within three years after receipt [see I.R.C. § 6050L(a)]:

NOTE:

"Charitable deduction property" is any property (other than publicly traded securities [see I.R.C. § 6050L(a)(2)(B)*]) contributed in a contribution for which a deduction was claimed under I.R.C. § 170 if the claimed value of the property (and the claimed value of all similar items donated by the donor to one or more donees) exceeds $5,000 [I.R.C. § 6050L(a)(2)(A)]. In other words, "charitable deduction property" is property for which the donee organization was required to file an IRS Form 8283 appraisal.

a. Prepare IRS Form 8282, including:

(1) Donee's name, address, and taxpayer identification number.

(2) Property description.

(3) Date of contribution.

(4) Donor's name, address, and taxpayer identification number.

(5) Date of disposition and amount received.

(6) Description of donee's use of property.

(7) Statement indicating whether use of property was related to purpose or function constituting basis for donee's exemption under I.R.C. § 501.

NOTE:
In any case in which the donee indicates that the use of applicable property [see I.R.C. § 170(e)(7)(c)] was related to the purpose or function constituting the basis for the exemption of the donee under I.R.C. § 501 [I.R.C. § 6050L(g)], the donee must include with the return the certification described in I.R.C. § 170(e)(7)(D) [I.R.C. § 6050L(a)(1)].

b. Provide donor with copy of return [see I.R.C. § 6050L(c)].

2. File IRS Form 8282 within 125 days after disposition [see Treas. Reg. § 1.6050L-1].

NOTE:
IRS Form 8282 need not be filed if the donee organizations sells the item and the appraisal summary signed by the donee contains the donor's statement that the value of the item was $500 or less.

NOTE:

The organizations exempt from filing FTB Form 199 may be required to file an annual statement showing the following: (1) name and address of organization; (2) the applicable IRC exemption; and (3) the major activities and sources of income of the organization. If the entity is not required to file FTB Form 199 because annual gross receipts are less than $25,000, the statement must include information about assets and gross receipts [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23774(a)].

A religious organization exempt from filing Form 199 and declining to file this statement because of sincerely held religious convictions may instead file a notarized statement on organizational letterhead stating (1) organization's name and address, (2) the organization's major activities and sources of income; and (3) Internal Revenue Code section under which organization is exempt. This information is for the sole purpose of verifying the absence of unrelated business income of the organization [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23774(b)].

Either statement must be filed on or before the 15th day of the fifth calendar month following the close of the income year [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23774].

a. Churches, integrated auxiliaries, and conventions or associations of churches.

b. Exclusively religious activities of any religious order.

c. Certain organizations (other than private foundations) that ordinarily have gross receipts in each tax year of not more than $25,000.

d. Organizations formed to carry out state or public body functions that are controlled by the state or public body.

e. Political organizations exempt under Rev. & Tax. Code § Code 23701r.

NOTE:
The annual return and statement requirements [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23772, 23774] do not apply to a political organization or newsletter fund [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701r(i)].

Exempt political organization must report and pay tax on political organization taxable income [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701r].

f. Stock bonus, pension or profit sharing trusts exempt under Rev. & Tax. Code § 17631.

g. Education IRAs exempt under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23712.

2. If FTB Form 199 is required:

NOTE:
The FTB has discretion to permit the filing of a simplified return, based on gross receipts, total assets, or both, or may permit the filing of an information statement (without fee), or may permit the filing of a group return for incorporated or unincorporated branches of a state or national organization [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23772(a)(2)(B)].

a. Prepare FTB Form 199, which requires the following information [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23771, 23772(a)(1)].

NOTE:
The FTB will accept copies of IRS Form 990 or 990-F [see § 13B.131[1]], attached to a completed first page of FTB Form 199. The attached federal form should be marked "filed in lieu of Form 1999."

(1) Annual gross income.

(2) Expenses attributable to that income and incurred within year.

(3) Disbursements for purposes giving rise to exemption.

(4) Balance sheet showing assets, liabilities, and net worth as of start of year.

(5) Total of contributions and gifts received during year, and names and addresses of all substantial contributors.

(6) Names and addresses of foundation manager [see I.R.C. § 4946] and highly compensated employees,

(7) C compensation and other payments made during to each foundation manager and highly compensated employees.

NOTE:
California has incorporated the federal restriction against nonprofit status if the nonprofit entity dedicates a substantial part of its activities to carrying on propaganda or otherwise attempting to influence legislation [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23704.5; see I.R.C. § 501(h)]. Although I.R.C. § 4911, relating to the imposition of tax on excess expenditures to influence legislation, generally applies in California, the tax imposed on excess lobbying expenditures does not apply [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23740; see I.R.C. § 4911(a)(1); see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 23740(b)].

(a) Lobbying expenditures [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23772(b)(8)(A); see also I.R.C. § 4911(c)(1)].

(b) Lobbying nontaxable or ceiling amount [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23772(b)(8)(B); see also I.R.C. § 4911(c)(2)].

(c) Grassroots expenditures [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23772(b)(8)(C); see also I.R.C. § 4911(c)(3)].

(d) Grassroots nontaxable or ceiling amount [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23772(b)(8)(D); see also I.R.C. § 4911(c)(4)].

(9) Other information with respect to direct or indirect transfers to, and other direct or indirect transactions and relationships with, other exempt organizations (other than exempt entities under Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23701d, 23701k, and 23701t), as FTB requires to prevent diversion of funds from organization's exempt purpose or misallocation of revenue or expense.

(10) Any other relevant information prescribed by FTB.

b. File FTB Form 199 on or before the 15th day of the fifth full calendar month following the close of the income year (May 15, for calendar year filers), together with applicable filing fee [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23771, 23722(a)(1); see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 23772(a)(3) (fee)].

NOTE:
Filings fees are waived for exclusively religious organizations, designated educational organizations, organizations receiving broad governmental or public support, and organizations operated, supervised, or controlled by or in connection with exclusively religious organization Rev. & Tax. Code § 23772(a)(4)].

3. If exempt organization's gross taxable income derived from an unrelated business exceeds $1,000, file FTB Form 109 (paying applicable tax), California Exempt Organization Business Income Tax Return, in addition to FTB Form 199 [ see I.R.C. § 512(b)(12); Rev. & Tax. Code § 23771; 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23771(a)]:

b. For all other organization, on or before the 15th day of the fifth month following the close of the income year.

4. If exempt homeowners' association receives more than $100 in taxable income, file FTB Form 100 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701t(c); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23732].

5. If nonprofit corporation owns. processes, or controls property in California subject to local assessment, corporation may have to file copy of business records relevant to amount, cost, and value of that property with county assessor [see Corp. Code §§ 6214, 8214, 9660(a)].

§ 13B.200 Application for Recognition of Exemption Under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) [IRS Form 1023]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is IRS Form 1023, and the accompanying official instructions. Unless excepted [see [b], below], all I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) organizations applying for recognition of tax-exempt status use this form to obtain IRS recognition of exemption for federal income tax [see I.R.C. § 508(a); Treas. Reg. § 1.508-1(a)(2)(i); see also IRS Form 1023, Instructions]. Cooperative service organizations [see I.R.C. § 501(e), (f)], child care organizations [see I.R.C. § 501(k)], and charitable risk pools [see I.R.C. § 501(n)] also apply for exemption using this form [see IRS Form 1023, Instructions]. Organizations seeking exemption under I.R.C. § 501(a), (c)(2), (4)-(10), (12), (13), (15), (17), (19), (25) file IRS Form 1024 [see § 13B.201] in lieu of this form.

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE:

Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the Internal Revenue Service, located at http://www.irs.gov. You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 3405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 13B.200. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat version Reader 3.0 or higher.

I.R.C. § 508(a) provides that an organization is not treated as an organization described in I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) unless the organization has given notice to the IRS that it is applying for recognition of exempt status. I.R.C. § 508(a) also provides that an I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) organization is presumed to be a private foundation, whether or not it actually is a private foundation, if the organization fails to notify the IRS that it is not a private foundation. The filing of a properly completed IRS Form 1023 is deemed to constitute the requisite notice for the organization to be treated as described in I.R.C. § 501(c)(3), and the requisite notice that the organization is claiming that nonprivate foundation status [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.508-1(a)(2)(i), 1.508-1(b)(2)(iv)]. If the organization fails to give these notices within 15 months from the end of the month in which it was formed [Treas. Reg. § 1.508-1(a)(2)(iii)], the organization will not qualify for exempt status during the period before the date of actual notice. The IRS looks to the law of the state of formation to determined the date of formation [IRS Pub. No. 557]. Retroactive recognition of exempt status to the date of organization may be granted if the application is filed within the 15-month period.

In general, IRS Form 1023 is not used to apply for a group exemption letter [see IRS Form 1023, Instructions; see also IRS Pub. No. 557].

[b] Filing Exceptions; Optional Filing

The following organizations may be considered exempt under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) even if they do not file this form [I.R.C. § 508(c); Treas. Reg. § 1.508-1(a)(3)(i)-(ii), (b)]:

- Churches, integrated auxiliaries of churches, and conventions or associations of churches.

- Organizations that are not private foundations [see I.R.C. § 509(a)] and has gross receipts in each taxable year of normally not more than $5,000.

- Subordinate organizations (other than private foundations) covered by a group exemption letter.

Even if organizations who would otherwise use IRS Form 1023 form to seek an exemption determination are not required to file in order to be tax-exempt, the organization may nevertheless wish to file to obtain certain incidental benefits. These benefits include public recognition of tax-exempt status, exemption from certain state taxes, exemption from certain federal excise taxes, advance assurance to donors of deductibility of contributions, and nonprofit mailing privileges [see Treas. Reg. §§ 1.501(a)-1, 1.508-1(a)(4), (b)(8); see also IRS Form 1023, Instructions].

In addition, an application for a group exemption letter to establish the tax-exempt status of a central organization's subordinate organizations is by letter instead of filing IRS Form 1023 [see IRS Pub. No. 557].

[c] Qualification for Exemption

To qualify for the exemption, the organization must be both organized and operated exclusively for one or more of the exempt purposes specified in I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(a)(1)]. An organization may be exempt if it is organized and operated exclusively for one or more of the following purposes: religious; charitable; scientific; testing for public safety; literary; educational; to foster national or international amateur sports competition (but only if no part of its activities involve the provision of athletic facilities or equipment); or prevention of cruelty to children or animals [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(3); Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(d)(1)(i)]. No part of the net earnings of the organization may inure to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual and no substantial part of the activities of which is carrying on propaganda or otherwise attempting to influence legislation (except with respect to public charities who elect to be governed by the special lobbying expenditures limitation [see I.R.C. § 501(h); see § 13B.20[4][b], [7]]). The organization may not participate in, or intervene in (including the publishing or distributing of statements), any political campaign on behalf of any candidate for public office [I.R.C. § 501(c)(3)]. In addition, to qualify under that section, no substantial part of the corporation's activities may consist of providing commercial-type insurance [see I.R.C. § 501(m); see also § 13B.20[4][d]]. The word "corporation" generally includes certain unincorporated associations [see I.R.C. § 7701(a)(3); Treas. Reg. § 301.7701-2].If the organization is in fact organized for any of these purposes, the organization may obtain the exemption, notwithstanding the fact that the entity misclassifies itself in the application. For example, if an organization claims exemption on the ground that it is "educational," the exemption will not be denied if, in fact, the organization is "charitable" [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(d)(1)(iii)].

An organization that is a private foundation [see I.R.C. § 509(a) may only qualify for exemption under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) if its governing instrument [see Treas. Reg. § 1.508-3(c)] contains certain provisions prohibiting it from acting in a manner that would give rise to liability for any of the excise taxes imposed by I.R.C. §§ 4941-4945 [I.R.C. § 508(e); Treas. Reg. § 1.508-3]. However, the governing instruments of private foundations are deemed to satisfy this requirement if valid provisions of state law contain the required prohibitions, or treat the required prohibitions as contained in these governing instruments [Treas. Reg. § 1.508-3(d)]. California has enacted these provisions [see Prob. Code §§ 16101-16104; Corp. Code §§ 5260, 9260].

The requirements for exemption are discussed in further detail in § 13B.20.

[d] Charitable Purposes

The word "charitable" is used in I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) in its generally accepted legal sense and is not to be construed as limited by the separate enumeration of other tax-exempt purposes that may fall within the broad outlines of "charity." The term includes relief of the poor and distressed or of the underprivileged; advancement of religion; advancement of education or science; erection or maintenance of public buildings, monuments, or works; lessening of the burdens of government; and promotion of social welfare by organizations designed to accomplish any of the foregoing purposes, or to lessen neighborhood tensions, or to eliminate prejudice and discrimination, or to defend human and civil rights secured by law; or to combat community deterioration and juvenile delinquency [see IRS Pub. No. 557]. The fact that an organization organized and operated for the relief of indigent persons may receive voluntary contributions from the persons intended to be relieved will not necessarily prevent the organization from being exempt as an organization organized and operated exclusively for charitable purposes. The fact that an organization, in carrying out its primary purpose, advocates social or civic changes or presents opinions on controversial issues with the intention of molding public opinion or creating public sentiment to an acceptance of its views does not preclude the organization from qualifying for an exemption so long as it is not classified as an "action" organization [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(d)(2)]. For further discussion of action organization, see § 13B.20[4][b].

[e] Educational Purposes

The term "educational" relates to the instruction or training of individuals for the purpose of improving or developing their capabilities, or the instruction of the public on subjects useful to individuals and beneficial to the community. An organization may be educational even though it advocates a particular position or viewpoint, provided that it presents a sufficiently full and fair exposition of the pertinent facts as to permit an individual or the public to form an independent opinion or conclusion. On the other hand, an organization is not educational if its principal function is the mere presentation of unsupported opinion [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(d)(3)(i); see IRS Pub. No. 557]. The term "educational purposes," for determining tax exempt status under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) and eligibility for tax-deductible contributions under I.R.C. §§ 170, 2055, and 2522, includes the providing of care of children away from their homes if (1) substantially all of the care provided by the organization is for purposes of enabling individuals to be gainfully employed, and (2) the services provided by the organization are available to the general public [I.R.C. § 501(k)].

Examples of educational organizations include the following [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(d)(3)(ii)]:

- An organization, such as a primary or secondary school, a college, or a professional or trade school, that has a regularly scheduled curriculum, a regular faculty, and a regularly enrolled body of students in attendance at a place where the educational activities are regularly carried on.

- An organization whose activities consist of presenting public discussion groups, forums, panels, lectures, or other similar programs, which may be on radio or television.

- An organization that presents a course of instruction by means of correspondence or through the utilization of television or radio.

- Museums, zoos, planetariums, symphony orchestras, and other similar organizations.

Schools must file Schedule B, and organizations providing scholarships or student aid must file Schedule H, with their exemption application [IRS Form 1023, Instructions].

[f] Testing for Public Safety

The term "testing for public safety" includes the testing of consumer products, such as electrical products, to determine whether they are safe for use by the general public [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(d)(4)].

[g] Scientific Purposes

A scientific organization must be organized and operated in the public interest to qualify for exempt status. Thus, the term "scientific" includes the conduct of scientific research in the public interest. The determination of whether research is "scientific" does not depend on whether it is classified as "fundamental" or "basic" as contrasted with "applied" or "practical." However, for purposes of the exclusion from unrelated business taxable income [see I.R.C. § 512(b)(9)], a determination must be made whether the organization is operated primarily for the purposes of carrying on "fundamental," as contrasted with "applied," research [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(d)(5)(i)].

Scientific research will be regarded as carried on in the public interest in the following instances [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(d)(5)(iii); see IRS Pub. No. 557]:

- The results of the research (including any resulting patents, copyrights, processes, or formulae) are made available to the public on a nondiscriminatory basis.

- The research is performed for the United States, or any of its agencies or instrumentalities, or for a state, county, or municipal government.

- The research is conducted for one of the following purposes:

    - Aiding in the scientific education of college or university students;

    - Obtaining scientific information that is published in a treatise, thesis, trade publication, or in any other form that is available to the interested public;

    - Discovering a cure for a disease; or

    - Aiding a community or geographical area by attracting new industry to the community or area, or by encouraging the development of, or retention of, an industry in the community or area.

Scientific research does not include activities of a type ordinarily carried on as an incident to commercial or industrial operations. For example, the ordinary testing or inspection of materials or products or the designing or construction of equipment, buildings, and so forth does not qualify for exemption [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(d)(5)(ii); IRS Pub. No. 557]. Further, an organization is not regarded as organized and operated for the purpose of carrying on scientific research in the public interest and therefore is not exempt as a scientific organization under the following circumstances [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(d)(5)(iv)]:

- The organization performs research only for persons who are directly or indirectly its creators and that are not described in I.R.C. § 501(c)(3); or

- The organization retains, directly or indirectly, the ownership or control of more than an insubstantial portion of the patents, copyrights, processes, or formulae resulting from its research and does not make those patents, copyrights, processes, or formulae available to the public.

A patent, copyright process, or formula is considered as made available to the public if (1) made available on a nondiscriminatory basis, or (2) although one person is granted the exclusive right to its use, the granting of the exclusive right is the only practicable manner in which it can be utilized to benefit the public. In the latter case, research will be regarded as carried on in the public interest only if carried on for the United States, or its agencies or instrumentalities, or for a state, county, or municipality, or if the scientific research is directed toward benefiting the public.

The fact that any organization, including a college, university, or hospital, carries on research that is not in furtherance of an exempt purpose will not bar the exemption, provided that the organization meets the organizational test [see § 13B.20[3]] and is not operated for the primary purpose of carrying on the nonqualifying research [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(d)(5)(v)].

[h] Rulings Relating to Nonprivate Foundation Status

Part III of IRS Form 1023 may be used by publicly supported organizations [see I.R.C. § 509(a)(1), (2)] to seek a definitive or advance ruling as to foundation status. Part III of IRS Form 1023 requires a statement as to private foundation status, and an indication of the basis for claiming nonprivate foundation status. If that basis relates to the organization's sources of support [see I.R.C. §§ 170(b)(1)(A)(vi), 509(a)(1), (2)], and the organization is a new one whose first taxable year is less than eight months, a definitive ruling as to its private foundation status cannot be made. New organizations may only request an advance ruling [see IRS Form 1023 and Instructions].

If the organization has completed a tax year of at least eight months and requests an advance ruling, or if the organization has not completed a tax year of at least eight months, the organization must complete, sign, and attach two IRS Forms 872-C to IRS Form 1023.

An advance ruling allows an organization claiming nonprivate foundation status based on its public sources of support to be treated as a public charity for certain purposes during the five-year advance ruling period, including the deductibility of contributions by the general public year. If an organization has not received significant public support during its first and second tax years, but reasonably expects to receive that support by the end of its fifth tax year, the organization should consider the advance ruling option [IRS Form 1023, Instructions]. At the end of the advance ruling period, the IRS will review the organization's operating history. If it is determined that the organization failed to qualify for nonprivate foundation status based on its sources of support, any taxes due as a result of violation of the private foundation operating requirements of I.R.C. § 4940 will be assessed for the advance ruling period [Treas. Reg. § 1.170A-9(e)(5)].

In effect, IRS Form 872-C is an agreement to extend the applicable statute of limitations for assessing tax under I.R.C. § 4940 if the IRS determines that the organization failed to meet the support requirements by the end of the advance ruling period [see I.R.C. § 6501(c)(4)]. Copies of IRS Form 872-C are included in the IRS Form 1023 application package.

[i] Conformed Copy of Organizing Documents

IRS Form 1023 requires that additional documents be submitted with the form. A conformed copy of the relevant organizational documents must be attached to IRS Form 1023 before mailing [see IRS Form 1023, Instructions; see also Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(b)(2)]. For example, a corporation must attach a copy of the articles of incorporation (including amendments and restatements) showing approval by the appropriate state official and include a copy of its bylaws. A trust must attach a copy of the trust indenture or agreement, including all appropriate signatures and dates. An association must attach a copy of its articles of organization, constitution, or other creating document, with a declaration or other evidence that the organization was formed by adoption of the document by two or more persons, and include a copy of the bylaws [see IRS Form 1023, pt. I, line 10, and Instructions; see also IRS Pub. No. 557]. The bylaws alone are not an organizing instrument. If the organization does not have an organizing instrument, it will not qualify for exempt status [see IRS Form 1023, Instructions].

A "conformed copy" is one that agrees with the original document and all amendments in every detail. A conformed copy may be a photocopy of the original signed and dated organizing document or a copy of that document that is unsigned but accompanied by a written declaration, signed by an authorized person, stating that the copy is a complete and accurate copy of the original signed and dated document. Copies of articles of incorporation must be accompanied by a declaration stating that the original copy was filed with and approved by the state and the filing date.

[j] Public Inspection of IRS Form 1023

If an organization's application for I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) exempt status is approved, the following documents will be open to public inspection in any district office and the national office of the IRS [see I.R.C. § 6104; see also IRS Form 1023, Instructions]:

- The organization's application Form 1023 and any supporting documents.
- Any letter or other document issued by the IRS with regard to the application.

However, information relating to a trade secret, patent, style or work, or apparatus, that, if released, would adversely affect the organization or the national defense, will not be made available for public inspection. Applicants must identify this information by clearly marking it "NOT SUBJECT TO PUBLIC INSPECTION" and attach a statement explaining why the organization requests that the information be withheld [I.R.C. § 6104(a)(1)(D); Treas. Reg. § 301.6104-1(c)].

The exempt organization must make a copy of its approved application and supporting documents, as well as any letter or document issued by the IRS available for public inspection. The documents must be available during reasonable business hours at the organization's principal office and at each regional or district offices having at least three paid employees [see IRS Form 1023, Instructions; see also 1988-2 C.B. 454, Notice 88-120]. Monetary penalties may be assessed on a daily basis for failure to comply with these inspection requirements [IRS Form 1023, Instructions].

[k] Signature and Filing Requirements

An officer, a trustee authorized to sign, or another person authorized by a power of attorney must sign IRS Form 1023. If relied on, the power of attorney must be attached to the form [IRS Form 1023, Instructions; see IRS Form 2848 (power of attorney and declaration of representative)].

This form, together with the applicable fee and all other necessary applications, requests, schedules, and supporting documents, must be filed at the following address [see IRS Form 8718, Instructions; see also § 13B.202]:

Internal Revenue Service
P.O. Box 192
Covington, KY 41012-0192

If the application is submitted using express mail or a delivery service, the application must be sent to

Internal Revenue Service
201 West Rivercenter Blvd.
Attn: Extracting Stop 312
Covington, KY 41011

Each attachment or enclosure to IRS Form 1023 should show the name and address of the organization, the date, an identifiable heading showing the question number or subject matter to which it relates, and that it is an attachment to IRS Form 1023 [see IRS Form 1023, Instructions].

§ 13B.201 Application for Recognition of Exemption Under I.R.C. § 501(a) [IRS Form 1024]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is IRS Form 1024 and the accompanying official instructions. It is used by most types of organizations applying for recognition of tax-exempt status under I.R.C. § 501(a), (c)(2), (4)-(10), (12), (13), (15), (17), (19), (25). I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) organizations file IRS Form 1023 in lieu of this form [see § 13B.200].

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE:

Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the Internal Revenue Service, which is located at http://www.irs.gov. You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 3405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 13B.201. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

Most organizations are required to complete Parts I through III of the form. Voluntary employees' beneficiary associations and supplemental unemployment benefit trusts [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(9), (17)] should also complete Part IV. In addition, the following organizations must complete the applicable schedule, indicated below, that corresponds to the relevant paragraph of I.R.C. § 501(c) under which the exemption is sought; an organization should not submit any blank schedules that do not apply to the applicant [see IRS Form 1024 and Instructions]:

- Title-holding corporations and trusts [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(2), 501(c)(25)] file Schedule A.

- Civic leagues, social welfare organizations (including certain veterans' organizations, such as posts and councils of veterans' organizations not qualifying for exemption under I.R.C. § 501(c)(19)), or local associations of employees [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(4)] file Schedule B.

- Labor, agricultural (including fishermen's organizations or horticultural organizations) [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(5)] and business leagues, chambers of commerce, and the like [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(6)] file Schedule C.

- Social clubs [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(7)] file Schedule D.

- Fraternal societies, orders, and associations [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(8), (10)] file Schedule E.

- Voluntary employees' beneficiary associations [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(9)] file Schedule F.

- Benevolent life insurance associations, mutual ditch or irrigation companies, mutual or cooperative telephone companies, and like organizations [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(12)] file Schedule G.

- Cemeteries, crematoriums, and like corporations [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(13)] file Schedule H.

- Small insurance companies or associations (other than life) with written premiums of $350,000 or less [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(15)] file Schedule I.

- Trusts providing for the payment of supplemental unemployment compensation benefits [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(17)] file Schedule J.

- Posts or organizations composed of past or present armed services members and auxiliary units or societies [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(19)] file Schedule K.

In general, IRS Form 1024 is not used to apply for a group exemption letter [see IRS Form 1024, Instructions; see also IRS Pub. No. 557]. Homeowners associations seeking tax benefits and exemption under I.R.C. § 528 file IRS Form 1120-H to elect beneficial tax treatment rather than this form [see IRS Form 1024, Instructions].

[b] Filing Exceptions; Optional Filing

The following organizations may be considered exempt under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) even if they do not file this form [I.R.C. § 508(c); Treas. Reg. § 1.508-1(a)(3)(i)-(ii), (b)]:

- Churches, integrated auxiliaries of churches, and conventions or associations of churches.

- Organizations that are not private foundations [see I.R.C. § 509(a)] and has gross receipts in each taxable year of normally not more than $5,000.

- Subordinate organizations (other than private foundations) covered by a group exemption letter.

Even when organizations who would otherwise use this form to seek an exemption determination are not required to file in order to be tax-exempt, the organization may nevertheless wish to file to obtain certain incidental benefits. These benefits include public recognition of tax-exempt status, exemption from certain state taxes, advance assurance to donors of deductibility of contributions, and nonprofit mailing privileges [see Treas. Reg. §§ 1.501(a)-1, 1.508-1(a)(4), (b)(8); see also IRS Form 1024, Instructions].

Other I.R.C. § 501(c) organizations are tax exempt without filing this application for recognition of their exemption:

- Trusts established to make payments under the Black Lung Acts [I.R.C. § 501(c)(21)].

- Certain trusts established by the sponsors of multi-employer plans to make retirement benefit payments under ERISA [I.R.C. § 501(c)(22)].

- Certain veterans' organizations organized over 100 years ago and whose principal purpose is to provide insurance and other benefits to veterans or their dependents [I.R.C.501(c)(23)].

- Trusts established in connection with terminated single-employer plans to receive liability payments and make distributions to participants and beneficiaries [I.R.C. § 501(c)(24); see 29 U.S.C. § 1349 (applicable ERISA provision)].

- Any small corporation or trust organized for the exclusive purpose of acquiring and holding real property [I.R.C. § 501(c)(25)].

The above-listed entities should apply for exemption by submitting a letter stating the information necessary to qualify for the particular exemption.

In addition, an application for a group exemption letter to establish the tax-exempt status of a central organization's subordinate organizations is by letter instead of filing IRS Form 1024 [see IRS Pub. No. 557].

[c] Title-Holding Corporations

To qualify for exemption from federal income taxation as a title-holding corporation, a corporation must be organized for the exclusive purpose of holding title to property, collecting income from that property, and turning over the entire amount, less expenses, to an organization that itself is exempt under I.R.C. § 501(a) [I.R.C. § 501(c)(2)]. A corporation cannot qualify as a holding company unless the corporate charter confines its purposes and powers to these activities. If the corporate charter authorizes the corporation to engage in activities that go beyond these limitations, the exemption may not be recognized even though its actual operations are so limited [IRS Pub. No. 557; see Rev. Rul. 58-566, 1958-2 C.B. 261]. Actual payment is required; a mere obligation to use the income for the exempt organization's benefit, or the fact that the distributee has control over the income is insufficient [IRS Pub. No. 557]. Thus, an exempt title-holding corporation cannot accumulate income and retain the exemption [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(2)-1(b)]. In addition, an exempt title-holding corporation will not continue to qualify for exemption when any of the organizations to which it makes distributions of income ceases to qualify for exemption [see Rev. Rul. 68-371, 1968-2 C.B. 204]. An organization operated for the primary purpose of carrying on a trade or business for profit is not exempt from taxation on the ground that all of its profits are payable to one or more exempt organizations. These organizations are known as feeder organizations [I.R.C. § 502].

A title-holding corporation will only qualify for exemption if the recipient (distributee) exempt organization has effective ownership and control over the title-holding corporation. For example, the distributee may control the title-holding corporation by owning its voting stock or holding the power to select nominees to hold the voting stock [IRS Pub. No. 557; see Rev. Rul. 71-544, 1971-2 C.B. 227].

A title-holding corporation must furnish evidence that the organization for which title is held has obtained recognition of exempt status. If that organization has not been specifically notified in writing by the IRS that it is exempt, the title-holding corporation must submit the necessary application and supporting documents to enable the IRS to determine whether the organization for which title is held qualifies for exemption. A copy of a ruling or determination letter issued to the organization for which title is held constitutes proof of exemption. However, until the organization for which title is held obtains recognition of exempt status, or proof is submitted to show that it qualifies, the title-holding corporation cannot obtain recognition of exemption [IRS Pub. No. 557; see Treas. Reg. § 1.501(a)-1(b)(1)(ii)].

An otherwise exempt title-holding corporation is taxable on its unrelated business taxable income [I.R.C. §§ 511-514] if that income is payable either to an organization that is itself subject to that tax or to a church or to a convention or association of churches [I.R.C. § 511(a)(2)(A); see Rev. Rul. 68-490, 1968-2 C.B. 241]. Because a title-holding corporation cannot be exempt if it engages in any business other than holding title to property and collecting income, its unrelated business taxable income, if any, will be unrelated business rental income, that is, rents from business leases [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(2)-1(a); see I.R.C. § 514]. All other rents from real property are excluded from unrelated business taxable income [I.R.C. § 512(b)(3); see Rev. Rul. 69-381, 1969-2 C.B. 113 ; Rev. Rul. 69-278, 1969-1 C.B. 148].

Donations to a tax-exempt title-holding company are generally not deductible as charitable contributions on the donor's federal income tax return [IRS Pub. No. 557].

[d] Civic Leagues and Social Welfare Organizations

A civic league or social welfare organization may be exempt if it is not organized or operated for profit and it is operated exclusively for the promotion of social welfare [I.R.C. § 501(c)(4); Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(4)-1(a)(1)]. The organization's net earnings must be devoted only to charitable, educational, or recreational purposes and no part of net earnings may benefit any private shareholder or individual. If the organization provides an excess benefit to certain persons, an excise tax may be imposed. The organization will not be exempt if a substantial part of its activities consists of providing commercial-type insurance [I.R.C. § 501(m)(1); see I.R.C. § 501(m)(3), (4)]. If only a nonsubstantial part of its activities consists of providing insurance, those activities will be treated as an unrelated trade or business and taxed under the provisions relating to insurance companies [I.R.C. § 501(m)(2); see I.R.C. § 801 et seq.; see also § 13B.20[4][d]].

The organization seeking exemption must submit evidence that it is organized and will be operated on a nonprofit basis. However, this evidence, including the fact that it is operated under the state law relating to nonprofit corporations, does not in itself establish a social welfare purpose. An organization is operated exclusively to promote social welfare if the organization will operate primarily to further in some way the common good and general welfare of the people of the community and includes an organization operated primarily for the purpose of bringing about civic betterment and social improvements [IRS Pub. No. 557; Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(4)-1(a)(2)(i)]. "Community" generally refers to a geographic unit recognizable as a governmental subdivision, unit, or district [see IRS Pub. No. 557]. The principal test for a social welfare organization's operations is whether benefits are provided to a whole community or a private group of citizens [see Rev. Rul. 78-132, 1978-1 C.B. 157]. The organization must not conduct activities directed to the exterior maintenance of private residences, and the common areas or facilities it owns and maintains must be for the use and enjoyment of the general public [Rev. Rul. 74-99, 1974-1 C.B. 131]. However, a homeowners' association may be exempt if it serves a community bearing a reasonable and recognizable relationship to an area ordinarily identified as governmental; does not conduct activities directed to exterior maintenance of private residences; and maintains common areas or facilities for the use and enjoyment of the general public [Rev. Rul. 80-63, 1980-1 C.B. 116]. A homeowners' association that is not exempt under I.R.C. § 501(c)(4) may qualify under I.R.C. § 528, which generally permits the exclusion of its exempt function income from taxation [see Ch. 34, Condominiums].

Civic associations and volunteer fire companies are examples of types of organizations that are considered to be social welfare organizations [see IRS Pub. No. 557]. Volunteer fire companies actively engaged in fire fighting and similar disaster relief, organizations trying to encourage industrial development by making business loans to encourage relocation, and community associations working to improve public services or devoted to preserving a community's traditions and architecture are other examples of social welfare organizations [IRS Pub. No. 557].

A local employees' association may apply for exemption under I.R.C. § 501(c)(4)]. The organization must submit evidence that the organization is of a purely local character; its membership is limited to employees of a designated person or persons in a particular locality; and net earnings will be devoted exclusively to charitable, educational, or recreational purposes. If the organization has a system of paying retirement and/or death benefits to members, or is primarily operated as a cooperative buying service to obtain discount prices for members, the organization will not be exempt [IRS Pub. No. 557].

An organization that restricts the use of its facilities to employees of selected corporations and their guests benefits a private group rather than the community and is not exempt. An organization formed to represent member-tenants of an apartment complex does not qualify for exemption as it benefits only the member-tenants and not all tenants in the community [IRS Pub. No. 557]. Further, when the benefit being accorded to members is in the nature of relieving them from their obligations to pay the general expenses of the organization, exemption will be denied [see Rev. Rul. 73-349, 1973-2 C.B. 179 ; Commissioner of Int. Rev. v. Lake Forest, Inc. (4th Cir. 1962) 305 F.2d 814, 818] . Promoting social welfare does not include direct or indirect participation or intervention in political campaigns on behalf of, or in opposition to, any candidate for public office; however, if the entity is organized exclusively to promote social welfare, it may still obtain the exemption despite legal participation in some political activity on behalf of or in opposition to public office candidates [IRS Pub. No. 557; see Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(c)(3)]. However, an organization that loses its exempt status by reason of (1) carrying on propaganda or otherwise attempting to influence legislation or (2) participating or intervening in any political campaign on behalf of or in opposition to any candidate for public office, cannot at any time thereafter qualify as a social welfare organization [I.R.C. § 504(a)(2)].

An organization is not operated primarily for the promotion of social welfare if its primary activity is operating a social club for the benefit, pleasure, or recreation of its members, or is carrying on a business with the general public in a manner similar to organizations that are operated for profit. However, these organizations may qualify for exemption under other provisions of the I.R.C. § 501(c) [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(6), (7)].

Contributions to exempt civic leagues or social welfare organizations generally are not deductible as charitable contributions on the donor's federal income tax return. The contributions may be deductible as trade or business expenses, if ordinary and necessary to the conduct of the taxpayer's business. Donations to volunteer fire companies are deductible if made for exclusively public purposes [IRS Pub. No. 557; see Rev. Rul. 74-361, 1974-2 C.B. 159 ; see also I.R.C. § 170(c); Rev. Rul. 57-493, 1957-2 C.B. 314].

[e] Labor, Agricultural, and Horticultural Organizations

Although the statutory classification exempting labor, agricultural and horticultural organizations is absolute in its terms [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(5)], this classification presupposes that no net earnings of the organization inure to the benefit of any member [IRS Pub. No. 557], and that the organization is primarily devoted to the betterment of the conditions of those engaged in these pursuits, the improvement of the grade of the products, and the development of a higher degree of efficiency in the respective occupations [IRS Pub. No. 557; Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(5)-1(a)]. Such organizations are nevertheless subject to tax on their unrelated business income [I.R.C. § 511(a)(2); Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(5)-1(b)].

An exempt labor organization is generally an association of workers, usually in the form of a labor union, council, or committee, that is organized to protect and promote the interests of the members by bargaining collectively with employers to secure better working conditions. To show that an organization has the purpose of a labor union, the articles of organization or accompanying statements should include information establishing that the organization is organized to carry out the purposes described above [IRS Pub. No. 557]. Despite the requirement that no net earnings inure to the benefit of organization members, the payment of death, sickness, accident, and similar benefits to its members out of funds contributed by the members is a legitimate function and does not adversely affect its exempt status if made under a plan to better the conditions of the members [IRS Pub. No. 557; Rev. Rul. 62-17, 1962-1 C.B. 87 ; see Rev. Rul. 67-7, 1967-1 C.B. 137]. However, an organization does not qualify for this exemption if it has no authority to represent members in job-related matters, even if it provides weekly income to its members in the event of a lawful strike by the members' union in return for an annual payment by the member [IRS Pub. No. 557; Rev. Rul.

76-420, 1976-2 C.B. 153].

Agricultural and horticultural organizations are connected with raising livestock, forestry, raising or harvesting crops or aquatic resources, cultivating useful or ornamental plants, and similar pursuits [IRS Pub. No. 557; see I.R.C. § 501(g)]. The primary purpose of exempt agricultural and horticultural organizations must be shown in their applications for exemption to relate to techniques of production, betterment of conditions of those engaged in agriculture or horticulture, development of efficiency, or improvement of the grade of products [IRS Pub. No. 557]. If the activities are directed toward the improvement of marketing or other business conditions in one or more lines of business rather than improvements of production techniques or the like, the organization must qualify as a business league or board of trade under I.R.C. § 501(c)(6); see [f], below].

Contributions to labor, agricultural, and horticultural organizations are not deductible as charitable contributions on the donor's federal income tax return. However, the contributions may be deductible as trade or business expenses, if ordinary and necessary to the conduct of the taxpayer's business [IRS Pub. No. 557].

[f] Business Leagues

Business leagues, chambers of commerce, real estate boards, boards of trade, and professional football leagues, not organized for profit and no part of the net earnings of which inure to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual, are exempt from federal income taxation. The organization must be primarily engaged in the activities or functions that are the basis of the exemption, and must be primarily supported by memberships dues and other income from activities substantially related to the exempt purpose [I.R.C. § 501(c)(6); IRS Pub. No. 557]. The organization must be devoted to the improvement of business conditions of one or more lines of business as opposed to the performance of particular services for individuals. The application and accompanying materials must show that the conditions of a particular trade or the interests of the community will be advanced [IRS Pub. No. 557]. An I.R.C. § 501(c)(6) organization may engage in legislative activities that relate to the common business interest supported by the organization [Rev. Rul. 61-177, 1961-2 C.B. 117].

A business league is an association of persons having some common business interest, the purpose of which is to promote that common interest and not to engage in a regular business of a kind ordinarily carried on for profit [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(6)-1]. Trade associations and professional associations are considered business leagues. A common business interest of all members of the organization must be established by the application documents. Examples of activities that tend to illustrate a common business interest include the following [IRS Pub. No. 557]:

- Promotion of higher business standards and better business methods, and encouragement of uniformity and cooperation by a retail merchants' association.
- Education of the public in the use of credit.
- Establishment of uniform casualty rates and compilation of statistical information by an insurance rating bureau operated by casualty insurance companies.
- Establishing and maintaining the integrity of a local commercial market.
- Operation of trade publication primarily intended to benefit an entire industry.
- Encouragement of the use of goods and services of an entire industry.

Improvement of business conditions must be shown to be the general purpose of the organization. This requirement is not established by evidence of particular services that provide a convenience or economy to individual members in their businesses, such as advertising using members' names, interest-free loans, assigning exclusive franchise areas, operating a real estate multiple listing system, or operating a credit reporting agency. A stock or commodity exchange and investment advisory organizations are expressly not a business league, a chamber of commerce, or a board of trade and are not exempt from tax [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(6)-1; IRS Pub. No. 557]. If an organization engages in research to provide information relating to one particular industry, it must make the results available to all members of the industry (not just its own members) to qualify for exemption [Rev. Rul. 69-106, 1969-1 C.B. 153].

A nonprofit organization with a majority of its members located in a particular shopping center qualifies for exemption if it is operated to promote the common business interests of its members, has a voluntary membership open to all businesses in the neighboring community, and is not concerned with landlord-tenant matters relating to the shopping center [Rev. Rul. 78-225, 1978-1 C.B. 159 (distinguishing Rev. Rul. 73-411, 1973-2 C.B. 180)]. However, a shopping center merchants' association whose membership is restricted to and required of the tenants of a one-owner shopping center and their common lessor, and whose activities are directed to promoting the general business interests of its members, does not qualify as a business league or chamber of commerce because the common business interests being served are not the business interests of the kind of public business community contemplated by the statute [Rev. Rul. 73-411, 1973-2 C.B. 180].

Dues paid to I.R.C. § 501(c)(6) entities are generally deductible, except to the extent that the funds support influencing legislation, intervening in political campaigns, and grassroots lobbying, even though the entity may work for the enactment of laws to advance common business interests without jeopardizing the election. However, dues remain deductible if the organization tries to affect local legislation of direct interest to the organization or its members, and the this limitation is subject to a $2,000 a year de minimis exception [see IRS Pub. No. 557].

Contributions to I.R.C. § 501(c)(6) organizations are not deductible as charitable contributions on the donor's federal income tax return [IRS Pub. No. 557]. However, they may be deductible as trade or business expenses if ordinary and necessary in the context of the taxpayer's business [see I.R.C. §§ 170, 162].

[g] Social Clubs

Clubs organized for pleasure, recreation, and other nonprofitable purposes, substantially all of whose activities are for these purposes and no part of the net earnings inures to the benefit of any private shareholder, qualify for exemption under I.R.C. § 501(c)(7). Typical examples include certain college alumni associations; college fraternities or sororities operating chapter houses for students; country clubs; amateur hunting, fishing, tennis, swimming, and other sports clubs; dinner clubs that provide a meeting place, library, and dining room for members; hobby clubs; garden clubs; and variety clubs [IRS Pub. No. 557].

To show that an organization possesses the characteristics of a social club, it must be established that personal contact, commingling, and fellowship exist among members. Members must be bound together by a common objective of pleasure, recreation and other nonprofitable purposes [IRS Pub. No. 557; see Keystone Auto. Club v. Commissioner (3d Cir. 1950) 181 F.2d 402, 405 ; Rev. Rul. 69-527, 1969-2 C.B. 125]. These elements should be indicated by provisions in the club's articles of organization or bylaws. Fellowship need not be present between each member and every other member of a club if fellowship constitutes a material part in the life of the organization. A statewide or nationwide organization that comprises individual members, but is divided into local groups, satisfies this requirement if fellowship constitutes a material part of the life of each group [see Rev. Rul. 58-589, 1958-2 C.B. 266]. An automobile club whose principal activity is rendering automobile services to its members does not qualify for exemption as a social club since there is no significant commingling of its members [Rev. Rul. 69-635, 1969-2 C.B. 126]. A luncheon club whose members study and discuss business issues but engage in only incidental social activities is not exempt [Rev. Rul. 69-527, 1969-2 C.B. 125].

Membership in a social club must be limited. Therefore, evidence should be submitted with the application for exemption that there are limitations on admission to membership consistent with the character of the club. However, a social club will not be recognized as tax exempt if its charter, bylaws, or other governing instrument, or any written policy statement contains a provision that provides for discrimination against any person on the basis of race, color, or religion [I.R.C. § 501(i); IRS Pub. No. 557]. However, the prohibition against discrimination on religious grounds does not apply to an auxiliary of an exempt I.R.C. § 501(c)(8) fraternal benefit society or to a club that in good faith limits its membership to members of a particular religion in order to further the teachings and principles of that religion, and not to exclude people on the grounds of race or color [I.R.C. § 501(i)(1), (2); IRS Pub. No. 557].

In general, the exemption applies to social and recreation clubs that are supported solely by membership fees, dues, and assessments. However, a club otherwise entitled to the exemption will not be disqualified because it raises revenue from members through the use of club facilities or in connection with club activities [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(7)-1(a)]. If a club engages in business, such as providing services, or selling real estate, timber, or other products or services, or if the organization makes its facilities available to the general public, the club will not qualify for exemption [see Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(7)-1(b)]. However, providing meals, refreshments, or services related to the exempt purposes to members, their dependents, or their guests will not cause denial of exemption [IRS Pub. No. 557].

An exempt social club may receive up to 35 percent of its gross receipts, including investment income, from sources outside of its membership without losing its tax-exempt status. Gross receipts are receipts from the normal and usual (traditionally conducted) activities of the club; unusual amounts of income, such as proceeds from the sale of a clubhouse, are not included in gross receipts or in applying the percentage limits. Of the 35 percent, not more than 15 percent of the gross receipts may be derived from the use of the club's facilities, services by the general public, or from other activities not furthering social or recreational purposes for members. If an organization has outside income that exceeds these limits, all the facts and circumstances will be taken into account in determining whether the organization will continue to qualify for exempt status [IRS Pub. No. 557; see Rev. Proc. 71-17, 1971-1 C.B. 683].

Donations to exempt social and recreational clubs are not deductible as charitable contributions on the donor's federal income tax return [IRS Pub. No. 557].

[h] Fraternal Beneficiary Societies

There are two types of fraternal societies:

- Fraternal societies exempt under I.R.C. § 501(c)(8).
- Domestic fraternal societies exempt under I.R.C. § 501(c)(10).

The primary distinction between the two is that I.R.C. § 501(c)(8) organizations provide for the payment of life, sick, accident, or other benefits to their members or their dependents, whereas I.R.C. § 501(c)(10) organizations do not provide these benefits but rather devote their earnings to fraternal, religious, or charitable purposes.

A fraternal beneficiary society, order, or association is exempt from taxation if its application and accompanying documents establish that the organization [I.R.C. § 501(c)(8); IRS Pub. No. 557]

- Is a fraternal organization;
- Operates under the lodge system or for the exclusive benefit of the members of a fraternity itself operating under the lodge system; and
- Provides for the payment of life, sick, accident, or other benefits to the members of the society, order, or association or their dependents.

There is no requirement that either the fraternal features or the insurance features predominate so long as both features are present [see Rev. Rul. 73-165, 1973-1 C.B. 224]. The benefits must be limited to members and their dependents. If members are able to confer benefits to persons other than themselves and their dependents, the exemption will not be recognized. However, the organization can qualify for exemption if most but not all members are eligible for benefits if the benefits are paid from contributions or dues paid by those members [IRS Pub. No. 557].

A domestic fraternal beneficiary society, order, or association is exempt from taxation if its application and accompanying documents establish that the organization [IRS Pub. No. 557]

- Is a fraternal organization;
- Operates under the lodge system;
- Devotes its net earnings exclusively to religious, charitable, scientific, literary, educational, and fraternal purposes; and
- Does not provide for the payment of life, sick, accident, or other benefits to the members. The organization may arrange with insurance companies to provide optional insurance to its members without jeopardizing the exemption.

Operating under the lodge system means carrying on activities under a form of organization that comprises local branches, chartered by a parent organization and largely self-governing, called lodges, chapters, or the like [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(8)-1(a)]. Fraternal orders that practice racial discrimination by excluding nonwhites are not entitled to exempt status under I.R.C. § 501(c)(8) [see McGlotten v. Connally (D.D.C. 1972) 338 F. Supp. 448, 454-459] .

Donations by individuals to domestic fraternal societies are deductible as charitable contributions only if used exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, educational, or preventing cruelty to children or animals purposes [IRS Pub. No. 557].

[i] Voluntary Employees' Beneficiary Associations

Voluntary employees' beneficiary associations, providing for the payment of life, sick, accident, or other benefits to their members, dependents or designated beneficiaries, qualify for exemption from federal income taxation if no part of the net earnings inures (other than through those payments) to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual [I.R.C. § 501(c)(9)]. The benefits may be provided directly by the association, or indirectly through paying premiums to the service provider. Benefits may be in the form of medical, clinical, or hospital services, transportation furnished for that care, or money payments [IRS Pub. No. 557; see Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(9)-1(b)(3); Rev. Rul. 82-148, 1982-2 C.B. 401].

The voluntary nature of the association is demonstrated by evidence showing that an affirmative act is required on the part of the employee to become a member. Conversely, membership is involuntary if the designation as a member is due to employee status. An association is voluntary even if employees are required to be members as a condition of employment, but the member incurs no detriment as a result of that membership. However, an association is not a voluntary association if the employer unilaterally imposes membership in the association on the employees as a condition of their employment, and the employees incur a detriment (for example, in the form of payroll deductions) because of their membership [IRS Pub. No. 557]. An employer will not be deemed to have unilaterally imposed membership on the employee if the employer requires membership as the result of a collective bargaining agreement that validly requires membership in the association [see Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(9)-1(b)(2)].

The membership must consist of individuals who are employees and share an employment-related common bond. The common bond may be a common employer (or affiliated employers), coverage under one or more collective bargaining agreements, membership in a labor union, or membership in one or more locals of a national or international labor union. Exemption will not be barred merely because the membership of the association includes some individuals who are not employees, provided that they have an employment-related bond with the employee-members and 90 percent of total membership on one day of each quarter of the association's tax year consists of employees [IRS Pub. No. 557; Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(9)-1(b)(1)(i); see Rev. Proc. 82-46, 1982-2 C.B. 788]. "Employees" include individuals who became entitled to membership because they are or were employees. An individual continues to qualify as an employee even though on a leave of absence or terminated because of retirement, disability, or layoff [IRS Pub. No. 557; Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(9)-1(b)(1)(ii)].

In general, an organization that is part of a plan is not exempt unless the plan meets certain nondiscrimination requirements. However, if the organization is part of a plan that is a collective bargaining agreement resulting from good faith bargaining, the plan need not meet these nondiscrimination requirements [IRS Pub. No. 557]. A plan meets the nondiscrimination requirements if both of the following are true:

- Each class of benefits under the plan is provided under a classification of employees that is set forth in the plan and does not discriminate in favor of highly compensated individuals.

- The benefits provided under each class of benefits do not discriminate in favor of highly compensated individuals.

It has been the position of the IRS that supplemental unemployment benefits to be paid by a trust, in accordance with the terms of a Supplemental Unemployment Benefit (SUB) Plan, may be considered as "other benefits" within the meaning of I.R.C. § 501(c)(9) [see Rev. Rul. 82-148, 1982-2 C.B. 401]. However, a special statutory classification has been established for SUB trusts [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(17)]. For discussion, see [l], below.

Donations by individuals to voluntary employees' benefits associations are not deductible as charitable contributions on the donor's federal income tax return [IRS Pub. No. 557].

[j] Local Benevolent Life Insurance Associations, Mutual Irrigation and Telephone Companies, and Like Organizations

Benevolent life insurance associations of a purely local character, mutual ditch or irrigation companies, mutual or cooperative telephone companies, and like organizations must meet the requirements of I.R.C. § 501(c)(12) to be exempt from taxation. The organization (other than a benevolent life insurance association) must be organized and operated on a mutual or cooperative basis. The organization's income must be used solely to cover losses and expenses, with any excess being returned to members or retained for future losses and expenses. The organization must collect at least 85 percent of its income from members for the sole purpose of meeting losses and expenses, subject to certain exclusions and calculated on the basis of an annual accounting period [I.R.C. § 501(c)(12)(A); IRS Pub. No. 557]. A "like organization" is an organization that performs services comparable to those performed by any of these associations [IRS Pub. No. 557; Rev. Rul. 65-201, 1965-2 C.B. 170].

A benevolent life insurance association's "purely local character" is established if the association shows that its activities are confined to a particular community, place, or district, without regard to political subdivisions. If the activities of an organization are limited only by the borders of a state, however, it cannot be considered to be purely local in character [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(12)-1(b)]. A life insurance association that solicited business in four states and followed a policy of not refusing business from outside its authorized area was disqualified from exemption as lacking purely local character, even though less than 3 percent of its business resulted from nonlocal sources [Huff-Cook. Mut. Burial Ass'n v. United States (W.D. Va. 1971) 327 F. Supp. 1209, 1213 ; see Rev. Rul. 64-193, 1964-2 C.B. 151]. A copy of each type of policy issued by the organization should be included with the application for exemption. I.R.C. § 501(c)(12) organizations, other than benevolent life insurance associations, are associations of persons banded together to provide themselves a mutually desirable service approximately at cost and on a mutual basis. To maintain the mutual characteristic of democratic ownership and control, they must be so organized and operated that their members have the right to choose the management, to receive services substantially at cost, to receive a return of any excess of payments over losses and expenses, and to share in any assets on dissolution [see New Jersey Auto. Club v. United States (Ct. Cl. 1960) 181 F. Supp. 259, 261 , cert. denied, 366 U.S. 964 (1961) ; see also IRS Pub. No. 557]. The rights and interests of members in the savings of the organization must be determined in proportion to their business with the organization. On dissolution, gains from the sale of appreciated assets must be distributed to all persons who were members during the period the assets were owned by the organization, in proportion to the amount of business done during that period. The bylaws must not provide for forfeiture of a member's rights and interests on withdrawal or termination [see Rev. Rul. 72-36, 1972-1 C.B. 151].

Donations by individuals to these organizations are not deductible as charitable contributions on the donor's federal income tax return [IRS Pub. No. 557; see I.R.C. § 170(c)].

[k] Cemetery Companies

A cemetery company may be entitled to exemption if it is a nonprofit mutual cemetery company owned by and operated exclusively for the benefit of its lot owners who hold their lots for bona fide burial purposes and not for the purpose of resale [I.R.C. § 501(c)(13); Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(13)-1(a)]. The fact that a mutual cemetery company limits its membership to a particular class of individuals, such as family members, does not affect its tax-exempt status as long as the other requirements are met [IRS Pub. No. 557; see John D. Rockefeller Family Cemetery Corp. v. Commissioner (1974) 63 T.C. 355 , acq., 1977-2 C.B. 2].

Any nonprofit cemetery corporation chartered solely for the purpose of the disposal of bodies by burial or cremation and not permitted by its charter (articles of incorporation) to engage in any business not necessarily incident to that purpose is exempt from income tax, provided that no part of its net earnings inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual [I.R.C. § 501(c)(13); see Rev. Rul. 71-300, 1971-2 C.B. 238]. For example, operating a mortuary is not permitted [IRS Pub. No. 557]. However, the status of an exempt cemetery company is not adversely affected by the sale of monuments and markets, provided the sales proceeds are used for cemetery maintenance [Rev. Rul. 72-17, 1972-1 C.B. 151].

The organization's earning must be used only in one or more of the following ways [IRS Pub. No. 557]:

- To pay the ordinary and necessary expenses of operating, maintaining, and improving the cemetery or crematorium.

- To buy cemetery property.

- To create a fund that will provide a source of income for the perpetual care of the cemetery or a reasonable reserve for any ordinary or necessary purpose.

A cemetery company may issue common stock without jeopardizing its exemption if no dividends will be paid. Payment of dividends must be legally barred by the charter or by applicable state law. A cemetery company or crematorium will not be exempt if its issues preferred stock [IRS Pub. No. 557].

A perpetual care organization, including, for example, a trust organized to receive, maintain, and administer funds that it receives from a nonprofit tax-exempt cemetery pursuant to state law and contracts, may apply for recognition of exemption even though it does not own the land used for burial. However, the income from these funds must be devoted exclusively to the perpetual care and maintenance of the nonprofit cemetery as a whole, and no part of the net earnings may inure to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual [IRS Pub. No. 557]. A perpetual care fund operated in connection with a profit-making cemetery is not entitled to exemption [see Rev. Rul. 64-217, 1964-2 C.B. 153 ; Rev. Rul. 58-190, 1958-1 C.B. 15].

Donations to exempt cemetery companies, corporations chartered solely for burial purposes, and perpetual care funds (operated in connection with these exempt organizations) are deductible as charitable contributions on the donor's federal income tax return [I.R.C. § 170(c)(5)]. However, a donor may not deduct a contribution made for the perpetual care of a particular lot or crypt. Payments made to a cemetery company or a corporation as part of the purchase price of a burial lot or crypt, whether irrevocably dedicated to the perpetual care of the cemetery as a whole or earmarked for the care of a particular lot, are also not deductible. Neither an estate nor a gift tax deduction is available for a testamentary or inter vivos transfer for perpetual care to a nonprofit cemetery exempt unless the cemetery is owned by a religious organization [see Rev. Rul. 67-170, 1967-1 C.B. 272 ; see also I.R.C. §§ 2055(a), 2522(a)].

[l] Supplemental Unemployment Benefit Trusts

A trust or trusts forming part of a plan providing solely for the payment of supplemental unemployment compensation benefits will be exempt from federal income taxation under the following circumstances [I.R.C. § 501(c)(17); IRS Pub. No. 557]:

- The trust is a valid, existing trust under local law and is evidenced by an executed document. It must be part of a written plan established and maintained by an employer, the employees, or both the employer and the employees, providing solely for the payment of supplemental unemployment compensation benefits [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(17)-1(a)].

- The benefits will be paid because of the employee's involuntary separation from employment resulting directly from a reduction-in-force, discontinuance of a plant or operation, or other similar condition [I.R.C. § 501(c)(17)(D); Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(17)-1(b)(1)(i)].

- It is impossible under the plan (at any time before the satisfaction of all liabilities with respect to employees under the plan) for any part of the corpus or income to be used for, or diverted to, any purpose other than the providing of supplemental unemployment compensation benefits [see Rev. Rul. 73-307, 1973-2 C.B. 186].

- Neither the terms of the plan nor the actual payment of the discriminate in favor of the company's officers, stockholders, supervisors, or highly paid employees. A plan is not discriminatory merely because the benefits bear a uniform relationship to compensation or the rate of compensation.

Sickness and accident benefits (but not vacation, retirement, or death benefits) may be included if subordinate to the unemployment compensation benefits [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(17)-1(b)(1)(ii)]. Whether sickness and accident benefits are subordinate to separation benefits is determined from all of the facts and circumstances [Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(17)-1(b)(5)]. Relocation benefits paid by a SUB trust to employees about to be separated involuntarily because of a plant force reduction are qualified benefits, as are payments to compensate employees partially for wages lost from a work-week reduction [see Rev. Rul. 70-188, 1970-1 C.B. 133 ; Rev. Rul. 70-189, 1970-1 C.B. 134].

A conformed copy of the plan of which the trust is a part should be attached to the application.

Donations by individuals to supplemental unemployment compensation benefit trusts are not deductible as charitable contributions on the donor's federal income tax return [IRS Pub. No. 557].

[m] Veterans' Organizations

An organization or post of past or present members of the armed forces of the United States is exempt from income tax if it meets the following requirements [I.R.C. § 501(c)(19); Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(19)-1(a)(1), (b), (c)]:

- The organization or post was organized in the United States or any of its possessions.

- At least 75 percent of the members are past or present members of the armed forces of the United States and at least 97.5 percent of the other members are cadets (only students in college or university ROTC programs or military academies) or spouses, widows, widowers, ancestors, or lineal descendants of past or present armed forces members or cadets.

- No part of the net earnings inure to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual.

- The post or organization is operated exclusively for one or more of the specified exempt purposes [see Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(19)-1(c); see also IRS Pub. No. 557].

Examples of groups qualifying for this exemption are posts or auxiliaries of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and similar organizations.

An auxiliary unit or society of a veterans' organization and a trust or foundation for a veterans' organization may also be exempt, provided that the parent veterans' organization satisfies the requirements set forth above and either the auxiliary unit or society or the trust or foundation meets additional requirements imposed by regulation [see Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(19)-1(a)(2), (d), (e); see also IRS Pub. No. 557].

Donations to veterans' organizations are deductible as charitable contributions on the donor's federal income tax return [see I.R.C. § 170(c)(3)], provided that at least 90 percent of the organization's membership must consist of war veterans [IRS Pub. No. 557].

[n] Public Inspection of IRS Form 1024

If an organization's application for I.R.C. § 501(c) exempt status is approved, the following documents will be open to public inspection in any district office and the national office of the IRS [see I.R.C. § 6104; see also IRS Form 1024, Instructions]:

- The organization's application Form 1024 and any supporting documents.

- Any letter or other document issued by the IRS with regard to the application.

However, information relating to a trade secret, patent, style or work, or apparatus, that, if released, would adversely affect the organization or the national defense, will not be made available for public inspection. Applicants must identify this information by clearly marking it "NOT SUBJECT TO PUBLIC INSPECTION" and attach a statement explaining why the organization requests that the information be withheld [I.R.C. § 6104(a)(1)(D); Treas. Reg. § 301.6104-1(c)].

The exempt organization must make a copy of its approved application and supporting documents, as well as any letter or document issued by the IRS available for public inspection. The documents must be available during reasonable business hours at the organization's principal office and at each regional or district offices having at least three paid employees [see IRS Form 1024, Instructions; see also 1988-2 C.B. 454, Notice 88-120]. Monetary penalties may be assessed on a daily basis for failure to comply with these inspection requirements [IRS Form 1024, Instructions].

An officer, a trustee authorized to sign, or another person authorized by a power of attorney must sign IRS Form 1024. If relied on, the power of attorney must be attached to the form [IRS Form 1024, Instructions; see IRS Form 2848 (power of attorney and declaration of representative)].

§ 13B.203 Election and Revocation of Election by Eligible Organization to Make Expenditures to Influence Legislation [IRS Form 5768]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is IRS Form 5768, which is used to elect or revoke the election to make expenditures to influence legislation without losing tax-exempt status [see I.R.C. § 501(h)]. In general, if a substantial part of an otherwise exempt organization's activities consists of carrying on propaganda or otherwise attempting to influence legislation, the organization's tax exemption will be denied [see I.R.C. § 501(c)(3); Treas. Reg. § 1.501(c)(3)-1(b)(3), (c)(3)]. However, certain public charities [see [b], below] may elect to replace the "substantial part of activities" test with a sliding-scale limitation defined in terms of monetary expenditures for influencing legislation [see I.R.C. §§ 501(h), 4911; see also IRS Pub. No. 557].

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE:

Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the Internal Revenue Service, which is located at http://www.irs.gov. You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 3405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 13B.203. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

Recognizing the limitations of the "substantial part of activities" test on charities' involvement in public policy and legislative matters, Congress enacted I.R.C. § 501(h) and I.R.C. § 4911 to permit charities to elect to have lobbying activities limited solely on the basis of lobbying expenditures [see [c], below]. Charities making this election can spend a considerable amount to influence legislation [see [d], below].

A new charity may file this form with its exemption application. However, the organization should attach a copy because this form is filed at a different IRS address. The charity should keep a copy of Form 5768 with its tax records.

[b] Eligible Organizations

Most public charities [see I.R.C. § 509(a); see also I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(A)(ii)-(vi); § 13B.20[7]] described in I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) are permitted to make this election [I.R.C. § 501(c)(3), (h)(4)]. However, the following organizations are not permitted to make the election [I.R.C. § 501(h)(4), (5)]:

- Churches, or conventions or associations of churches [see I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(A)(i)].
- An integrated auxiliary of a church or of a convention or association of churches.
- A member of an affiliated group of organizations [see I.R.C. § 4911(f)(2)] if one or more members of such group is described in either of the preceding paragraphs.
- Organizations formed to do public safety testing [see I.R.C. § 509(a)(4)].
- Governmental units described in I.R.C. § 170(b)(1)(a)(v).
- Private foundations [see I.R.C. § 509].

[c] Expenditures to Influence Legislation; Limits

A public charitable tax-exempt organization may replace the "substantial part of activities" test with a limit defined in terms of the entity's expenditures for influencing legislation [see I.R.C. § 4911(d) (definition of "influencing legislation")]. First, an electing entity determines its exempt purpose expenditures [see I.R.C. § 4911(e)] to determine what the entity may spend on lobbying. The lobbying limit for a year is 20 percent of the first $500,000 of the organization's exempt purpose expenditures for the year, plus 15 percent of the second $500,000, plus 10 percent of the third $500,000, plus 5 percent of any additional exempt purpose expenditures. However, in no event may the permitted level of expenditures exceed $1,000,000 [I.R.C. § 4911(c)(2)].

The term "exempt purpose expenditures" means the total of the amounts paid or incurred by an electing organization for a taxable year to accomplish its exempt purposes [see I.R.C. § 170(c)(2)(B)]. The term includes administrative expenses paid or incurred for the organization's exempt purposes, and amounts paid or incurred for the purpose of influencing legislation. The term excludes amounts paid or incurred to or for a separate fund-raising unit of the organization, or one or more other organizations, if those amounts are paid or incurred primarily for fund raising [I.R.C. § 4911(e)(1)].

Within the above-mentioned limits, a separate limitation is placed on grass roots lobbying expenditures [see I.R.C. § 4911(c)(3)]. The permitted level of grass roots expenditures (the "grass roots nontaxable amount") for a taxable year is 25 percent of the lobbying nontaxable amount [I.R.C. § 4911(c)(4)].

[d] Time and Manner of Election and Revocation

This form must be signed and postmarked within the first tax year for which it is to apply. The election is effective for all taxable years of the organization that end after the date of the election and begin before the date the election is revoked [see IRS Pub. No. 557]. Thus, an organization can, at any time before the end of the taxable year, elect the expenditures test for that taxable year. Once the election is made, it can be revoked only prospectively, that is, it cannot be revoked for a taxable year after that year has begun [I.R.C. § 501(h)(6)]. For any taxable year in which the election is not in effect, an organization is governed by the "substantial part of activities" test [see I.R.C. § 501(h)(7)].

If the form is used to revoke the election, it must be signed and postmarked before the first day of the tax year to which the revocation is to apply. A revocation is effective for the first tax year after the year in which the revocation was filed.

[e] Excise Tax on Excess Expenditures

If an electing public charity exceeds either the lobbying expenditures limitation or the grass roots expenditures limitation [see I.R.C. § 4911(c); see also [c], above] for a taxable year, an excise tax of 25 percent of the excess lobbying expenditures will be imposed [I.R.C. § 4911(a)(1); IRS Pub. No. 557]. Furthermore, if, for a taxable year, the organization's expenditures exceed both the lobbying and grass roots expenditures limitations, the 25 percent tax is imposed on whichever one of these excesses is the greater [I.R.C. § 4911(b)].

Eligible organizations that have made the election to be subject to the limitations on lobbying expenditures and that have an excise tax liability for excessive lobbying (or grass roots) expenditures (as computed in Part VII of Schedule A to IRS Form 990) for a taxable year are required to file an excise tax return on IRS Form 4720.

[f] Loss of Exempt Status

An electing public charity automatically loses its tax-exempt status if it normally (that is, on the average over a four-year period) makes "lobbying expenditures" in excess of 150 percent of the lobbying nontaxable amount (that is, the basic permitted level of lobbying expenditures) for the organization for each taxable year, or if it normally makes "grass roots expenditures" in excess of 150 percent of the grass roots nontaxable amount (that is, the basic permitted level of grass roots expenditures) [see [c], above] for the organization for each taxable year [I.R.C. § 501(h)(1), (2)]. "Lobbying expenditures" are any expenditures that are made for the purpose of influencing legislation [see I.R.C. § 4911(d); see also IRS Pub. No. 557] and include expenditures for grass roots lobbying [I.R.C. § 501(h)(2)(A)]. The term "grass roots expenditures" refers only to expenditures that are made in attempting to affect the opinions of the general public or any segment thereof [I.R.C. § 501(h)(2)(C)]. If the charity loses its tax-exempt status, the charity cannot at any time thereafter become a social welfare organization under I.R.C. § 501(c)(4) [see I.R.C. § 504(a)(2)].

6-13B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 13B.210

§ 13B.210 Application for Recognition of Exemption [FTB Form 3500]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the Franchise Tax Board's exemption application booklet. It consists of FTB Form 3500, accompanied by the Franchise Tax Board's official instructions. The booklet contains two copies of Form 3500, but for space considerations only one copy is reproduced here.

All organizations claiming exemption from California franchise and corporate income tax [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701 et seq.] must file their application for exemption using this form [but see [c], below]. The fact that an organization is exempt from federal income tax does not make it exempt from California franchise or income tax. An organization that is granted an exemption from California tax must apply separately for an exemption from federal tax unless the organization is covered under a federal group ruling [see Treas. Reg. § 601.201(n)(8)].

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE:

Electronic copies of this form that may be printed out and filled in for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Franchise Tax Board, "Tax Forms, Instructions and Publications" page, which is located at http://www.ftb.ca.gov/forms/index.htm. You may also obtain a copy of this form via email by contacting Matthew Bender & Co. at (800) 424-0651, ext. 3405, or emailing us at cal.custquest@bender.com and requesting an electronic copy of CLF Form 13B.210. Please be sure to include your email address along with your request and we will provide the form via return email. To view and print these forms, your computer system will need Adobe Acrobat Reader version 3.0 or higher.

Because California and federal laws are substantially similar, the Franchise Tax Board recommends that organizations obtain exemption forms and draft articles for both the state and federal applications at the same time. In some cases, California requires that the organization obtain a federal determination of tax-exempt status before California will issue a state exemption determination letter [FTB Form 3500, Instructions; see [b], below].

An organization that has been determined to be exempt by the Franchise Tax Board may rely on that determination as long as there are no substantial changes in the law or the organization's charter, purposes, or method of operation [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23701(a)(z)]. However, an organization's exempt status may be revoked for improperly using accumulations of income [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23737]; engaging in certain prohibited transactions [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23736-23736.4]; or failing to file required reports, returns, or statements [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 23703, 23775 (authorizing suspension or forfeiture of corporate powers and rights), 23777; see also §§ 13B.42, 13B.70 et seq.].

[b] Application and Attachments

Organizations that are organized and operated for nonprofit purposes within the provisions of a specific exempt category [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701a et seq.], or that are subject to Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701h or 23701x (relating to certain title-holding companies), are exempt from state franchise and corporate income taxes if all of the following criteria are satisfied [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701]:

- FTB Form 3500, properly completed and executed, is submitted to the Franchise Tax Board.
- The applicable filing fee is paid with each application for exemption.
- The Franchise Tax Board issues a determination exempting the organization from tax.

If the IRS has already recognized an organization's exempt status for federal income tax purposes, a copy of the favorable determination letter issued by the IRS should be attached to FTB Form 3500 [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23701(b)(3); see FTB Form 3500, Instructions]. A trust must furnish a copy of the federal determination letter with the California application before state exemption will be granted. If the trust has not applied for a federal exemption, it should do so; the trust should then attach a statement to FTB Form 3500 stating when the federal application was submitted [FTB Form 3500, Instructions].

The following documents, as applicable, must be submitted with FTB Form 3500 [see FTB Form 3500 and Instructions]:

- A copy of the charter document. Corporations file an endorsed copy of the articles of incorporation and all subsequent endorsed amendments. Unincorporated associations file a copy of the constitution, articles of association, bylaws, or other document containing the appropriate language for exemption, signed by the governing body. Trusts file a copy of the trust document and any subsequent modifications.
- A copy of the bylaws, proposed bylaws, or other code of regulations.
- Financial statements. If the organization is operating, furnish complete statements showing receipts, expenditures, assets, and liabilities for each accounting period for which the organization has been in existence and for which exemption is sought. If the organization has not begun operations, furnish a proposed budget showing the sources of income and areas of expenditures for the first year of operation. The budget should be based on reasonable expectations.
- A statement describing the specific purposes for which the organization was formed. A general nonprofit purpose is not acceptable.
- A statement describing in detail the programs and activities that the organization presently conducts or will conduct and how the organization will accomplish its specific purposes.

- A statement describing in detail each type or source of funding, each fund-raising activity, and each business enterprise in which the organization has engaged or plans to engage. Copies of any agreements for the conduct of each fund-raising activity and business enterprise must be submitted.

- A statement that fully explains any discontinued specific activities that the organization engaged in or sponsored, including dates of commencement and termination and the reason for discontinuance.

- A copy of any lease in which the organization is the lessee or lessor, or in which an interest is owned under the lease, together with copies of any agreements with other parties for development of the property.

- Samples of any literature that the organization sells or distributes and samples of organizational advertising.

In addition, specific requirements apply to the individual types of organizations claiming exemption [see FTB Form 3500, items 8-25]. The failure to provide all required documentation may delay the determination of exempt status or result in the denial of exemption [FTB Form 3500, Instructions]. If the application and supporting documents are complete and the organization qualifies for exemption, the FTB will mail a state determination exemption letter to the organization.

Overall, the exemption package must show the character of the organization, the purpose for which it was organized, its actual and proposed activities, the sources and disposition of its income and receipts, whether or not any of its income or receipts is credited to surplus or may inure to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual, and, in general, all facts relating to its operations that may affect its right to exemption.

[c] Exceptions From Filing FTB Form 3500

Notwithstanding Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701(a)-(c) (exemption application requirements), an organization organized and operated in accordance with Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d is exempted from California income taxation (except as provided in Rev. & Tax Code §§ 23701 et seq. or 23731 et seq.) upon submitting to the FTB one of the following [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d(c)(1)]:

- A copy of a determination letter or ruling issued by the I.R.S. recognizing the organization's exemption from federal income tax under I.R.C. § 501(a) as organization described in I.R.C. § 501(c)(3).

- A copy of a group exemption letter issued by the I.R.S. that states that both the central organization and all subordinates are tax-exempt under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3), and substantiation that the organization is included in the federal group exemption letter as a subordinate organization.

Upon receipt, the F.T.B. will issue an acknowledgment that the organization is exempt from California income tax. The acknowledgment may refer to the organization's recognition by the I.R.S. of exemption from federal income tax as an organization under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3), and if applicable, the organization's subordinate organization status under a federal group exemption letter [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d(c)(2)].

The effective date of an organization's exemption from state income tax for state purposes is no later than the effective date of the organization's recognition of exemption from federal income tax under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3), or its status as a subordinate organization under a federal group exemption letter, as applicable [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d(c)(2)].

This exception from the FTB application requirement is intended to streamline the process of obtaining tax-exempt status for California income tax purposes [see stats. 2008, ch. 238, § 3]. If for federal income tax purposes, an organization's exemption under I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) is suspended or revoked, the organization must notify the FTB of that suspension or revocation in the form and manner prescribed by the FTB. Upon notification, the FTB will suspend or revoke the organization's exemption granted under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d(c)(1) for state income tax purposes [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d(c)(3)].

These provisions will not be construed to prevent the F.T.B. from revoking the exemption of an organization that is not organized or operated in accordance with the Revenue and Taxation Code or I.R.C. § 501(c)(3) [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d(c)(4)]. If the F.T.B. suspends or revokes the exemption of an organization pursuant to Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d(c)(3) or (4), the exemption will be reinstated only upon compliance with Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701, regardless of whether the organization can establish exemption under Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d(c)(1) [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701d(c)(5)].

A political organization meeting the requirements of Rev. & Tax. Code § 23701r is not required to file FTB Form 3500. However, the organization must obtain a letter from the Board certifying tax-exempt status if the organization wants to incorporate. To obtain a letter certifying exemption, the organization must submit a written request to the FTB's Exempt Organizations Section describing the organization's activities [FTB Form 3500, Instructions].

Individual Retirement Accounts established in accordance with the requirements of Rev. & Tax. Code § 23712, educational IRAs that fund higher education costs, are exempt from taxation. People establishing education IRAs are not required to file FTB Form 3500. However, if unrelated business income in excess of $1,000 is received, FTB Form 109, California Exempt Organization Business Income Tax Return must be filed [see FTB Form 3500, Instructions; see also § 13B.132].

[d] Signature and Filing Requirements

Form FTB 3500 must have an original signature of an authorized individual, such as an elected officer, director, trustee, or other authorized representative [FTB Form 3500, Instructions]. The signature is made under penalty of perjury.

If the organization seeking exemption is already incorporated, the exemption package, including a check for the fee payable to the Franchise Tax Board, must be mailed to the following address [FTB Form 3500, Instructions]:

Exempt Organizations Section Franchise Tax Board
P.O. Box 942857
Sacramento CA 94257-4041

To allow adequate time for processing, the application for exemption should be submitted at least 90 calendar days before the exemption is needed [FTB Form 3500, Instructions].

If the organization plans to incorporate but is not incorporated, the organization must first incorporate and then follow the regular application procedures [FTB Form 3500, Instructions; see Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations].

If the organization is a foreign corporation that has already qualified to do business in California with the Secretary of State, the regular application procedures apply. If the foreign corporation has not yet qualified in California, the organization must first qualify to do business and then follow the regular application procedures [FTB Form 3500, Instructions; see Chs. 12B, Foreign Corporations ; Ch 13, Nonprofit Corporations].

[e] Group Exemption Application

A parent organization desiring group exemption for its California unincorporated subordinates must first establish its own exempt status. The parent may then file a separate FTB Form 3500 for a group exemption by completing side 1 of FTB Form 3500 and writing "Group Exemption" in red in the top margin of the form. The exemption package must include the following [FTB Form 3500, Instructions]:

- A cover letter stating that the subordinates are affiliated and are subject to the parent's general supervision and control.
- A sample copy of a uniform charter.
- An affirmation that the subordinates are operating in accordance with their stated purposes.
- A statement that the subordinates have furnished written authorization to be included with the group exemption application.
- A list of California subordinates, any organization numbers, and current addresses.

[f] Retroactivity of Exemption

Exempt status may be granted for years before approval of the exemption application. However, retroactive exempt status only applies to the extent that the organization establishes that it was organized and operated for exempt purposes during each of those prior years [FTB Form 3500, Instructions]. No claim for refund will be allowed unless made in a timely manner [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 23701(b)(4); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 19306 (claim for refund)].

[g] Public Inspection

If an organization is exempt from California taxation for any taxable year, the application filed with respect to that exemption, together with any papers submitted in support of the application and any letter or other document issued by the Franchise Tax Board with respect to the application, will be open to public inspection. After the application of any organization has been opened to public inspection, the Franchise Tax Board must, on the request of any person, furnish a statement indicating the section under which exemption has been granted [Rev. & Tax. Code § 26451.3(a)]. Application for inspection of materials relating to an organization's exemption application may be made on FTB Form 3510.

On the request of the applicant, the Franchise Tax Board will withhold from public inspection any information relating to any trade secret, patent, process, style of work, or apparatus of the organization if the Board determines that public disclosure of that information would adversely affect the organization. The Franchise Tax Board may also withhold any information contained in supporting papers submitted with an application from public inspection if it determines that public disclosure would adversely affect the national defense [Rev. & Tax. Code § 26451.3(b)].

CHAPTER 14 CONSUMER COOPERATIVE CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-14 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 14.30

§ 14.30 Nature of Consumer Co-ops

A consumer co-op may be formed for any lawful purpose, provided that it is organized and conducts its business primarily for the mutual benefit of its members as patrons of the corporation [Corp. Code § 12201]. If the co-op is organized to provide goods or services to its members, its "patrons" are those who purchase those types of goods from, or use those types of service of, the corporation. If it is organized to market, process, or otherwise handle its members' products or services, its "patrons" are those persons whose products or services are marketed, processed, or handled by the co-op [Corp. Code § 12243]. Although these organizations are termed "consumer cooperatives" [see Corp. Code § 12200], there is no requirement that their members must actually be "consumers."

Consumer co-ops are democratically controlled and are not organized to make a profit for themselves or for their members. Rather, they are operated primarily for the mutual benefit of their members as patrons [Corp. Code § 12201]. The earnings, savings, or benefits of the co-op must be used for the general welfare of the members, or must be proportionately and equitably distributed to some or all of its members or patrons, based upon patronage in the form of cash, property, evidences of indebtedness, capital credits, memberships, or services [Corp. Code § 12201; see § 14.47].

CHAPTER 14 CONSUMER COOPERATIVE CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-14 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 14.31

§ 14.31 Formation

[1] Filing Articles of Incorporation

One or more persons may form a consumer co-op by executing and filing articles of incorporation with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 12300(a)]. Corporate existence begins upon the filing of the articles and continues perpetually unless otherwise provided in the articles or by law [Corp. Code § 12300(c)]. A certified copy of the articles is conclusive evidence of the formation of the co-op and prima facie evidence of its corporate existence [Corp. Code § 12315].

The articles must state the name of the co-op, the fact that it is a cooperative corporation organized under the Consumer Cooperative Corporation law [Corp. Code §§ 12200-12704], the co-op's purposes, the name and address of the initial agent for service of process, and whether or not the voting power or proprietary interests of the members are equal or unequal [Corp. Code § 12310]. When initial directors are named in the articles, each named director must sign and acknowledge the articles. When no initial directors are named, the person or persons who will file the articles must sign them, thereby becoming the incorporators of the co-op [Corp. Code § 12300(b)].

The incorporators may do whatever is necessary and proper to perfect the organization of the co-op, including the adoption and amendment of bylaws and the election of directors and officers, until the directors are elected [Corp. Code § 12316].

[2] Changing Status of Unincorporated Association

An unincorporated association may change its status to a consumer co-op on a proper authorization by the association in accordance with its rules and procedures [Corp. Code § 12301(a)]. The articles of incorporation must indicate, in addition to other required provisions [see Corp. Code § 12310], that an existing unincorporated association is being incorporated by the filing of the articles [Corp. Code § 12301(b)]. The articles must be accompanied by a verified statement of any two officers or governing board members of the association stating that the incorporation of the association by means of the articles has been approved by the association in accordance with its rules and procedures [Corp. Code § 12301(c)].

When an unincorporated association changes its status by filing articles of incorporation, the property of the association becomes the property of the corporation. The members of the association who have the right to vote in elections of directors [see Corp. Code § 12238] become members of the corporation [Corp. Code § 12301(d)]. All rights of creditors and all liens upon the property of the association will be preserved unimpaired. Any action or proceeding pending by or against the unincorporated association may be prosecuted to judgment, which will bind the corporation, or the corporation may be proceeded against or substituted in its place [Corp. Code § 12301(f)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-14 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 14.32

§ 14.32 Corporate Name

[1] Requirements

A consumer co-op must include the word "cooperative" in its name [Corp. Code § 12311(a)]. In addition, it must affix or prefix some word or abbreviation to its name to indicate that it is a corporation, as distinguished from a natural person, a firm, or an unincorporated association [Corp. Code § 12311(a)].

[2] Prohibitions

The Secretary of State will not file articles if the words "bank," "trust," "trustee," or related words appear in the name of the co-op, unless a certificate of approval of the Commissioner of Financial Institutions is attached to the articles [Corp. Code § 12302(a)]. In addition, the Secretary of State will not file articles which set forth a name that is likely to mislead the public, or that is the same as or resembles so closely so as to tend to deceive the name of another corporation which has its name on file in California. However, the new consumer co-op may adopt a name substantially similar to that of an existing corporation upon proof of consent by the existing corporation and a finding by the Secretary of State that under the circumstances the public is not likely to be misled [Corp. Code § 12302(b)]. A corporation may be enjoined from using these prohibited names, even after the filing of the articles with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 12302(c)].

If a corporation is organized by a person who was or is an officer, director, or member of an unincorporated association that remains unincorporated, the new corporation may not use a name that is the same as or similar to the unincorporated association. The unincorporated association may continue to use its name [Corp. Code § 12301(g)].

DIVISION I: BUSINESS AND NONPROFIT ORGANIZATIONS
CHAPTER 14 CONSUMER COOPERATIVE CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-14 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 14.33

§ 14.33 Members of Corporation

[1] In General

Consumer co-ops are structured on a membership rather than a stock system. A "member" is any person who, pursuant to a specific provision of the articles or bylaws, has the right to vote for the election of directors or possesses proprietary interests in the co-op [Corp. Code § 12238(a)]. A "membership" refers to the rights a member has pursuant to the articles and bylaws and by law [Corp. Code § 12239]. Except as provided in the articles or bylaws, a corporation may admit any person other than its subsidiary to membership [Corp. Code § 12403(a); see Corp. Code § 12403(b) (prohibition against admission of subsidiary)]. A "person" includes any association, company, domestic or foreign corporation, corporation sole, estate, individual, joint stock company, joint venture, partnership, domestic or foreign limited liability company, government or political subdivision, agency or instrumentality of a government [Corp. Code § 12245].

The articles or bylaws may confer some or all of the rights of a member upon persons who do not have voting rights [Corp. Code § 12238(b)]. If a member is not a natural person, that member may give written authorization to one or more natural persons to vote on its behalf [Corp. Code § 12238(c)]. A person is not a member by virtue of any rights held as a delegate or director, or by virtue of any rights to designate or select directors [Corp. Code § 12238(d)].

[2] Issuance of Memberships

A co-op may issue memberships for consideration or without consideration, as provided in the articles or bylaws [Corp. Code § 12400]. If a membership is purchased for consideration, the co-op must provide the purchaser with a disclosure document [Corp. Code § 12401(b); see discussion in § 14.33[3]] and must issue a membership certificate, receipt, or written advice of purchase to anyone purchasing a membership upon the member's first purchase of a membership of any class [Corp. Code § 12401(e)]. Otherwise, the co-op may issue membership certificates, but is not required to do so. If issued, a membership certificate must contain the same mandatory information regarding membership rights and restrictions that must be contained in a disclosure document [see Corp. Code § 12401(a)].

The corporate articles or bylaws may provide for issuance of memberships having different rights, privileges, preferences, restrictions, or conditions [Corp. Code § 12420]. Otherwise, all memberships will have the same rights and restrictions [Corp. Code § 12421].

[3] Right to Disclosure Document

Prior to issuing a membership, the co-op must provide the purchaser of a membership with a disclosure document. Since the statutory requirement applies only to "purchasers," no disclosure document need be provided to persons who do not purchase a membership for consideration. The document may be a prospectus, offering circular, brochure or similar document, a specimen copy of the membership certificate, or a receipt that the co-op proposes to issue [Corp. Code § 12401(b)].

The disclosure document must contain a statement that the co-op is a cooperative corporation, and a statement that a copy of the articles and bylaws will be furnished free of charge to a member or prospective member upon written request. The statement must include the address of the office of the co-op and the address to which a written request should be directed [see Corp. Code § 12401(b)(1), (2)].

The statement must include information regarding any transfer restrictions, any rights of the co-op to levy dues, any services that members are required to contribute, whether the membership is redeemable, and whether the voting power or proprietary interests of the members is equal or unequal [Corp. Code § 12401(b)(3)-(7)]. The document may either set forth this information verbatim or state that it will be provided free of charge to a member or prospective member upon written request, and include the address of the office of the co-op and the address to which the request should be directed [Corp. Code § 12401(b)(8)]. For an example of a disclosure document, see § 14.260.

[4] Transfer of Memberships

The co-op's bylaws may provide for or authorize the board to provide for the transfer of memberships, or of memberships within a class or classes. Transfer provisions may be made with or without restrictions or limitations, including transfer upon the death, dissolution, merger, or reorganization of a member [Corp. Code § 12410(b)]. When transfer rights are provided, no restriction of those rights will be binding on memberships issued prior to the adoption of the restriction, unless the membership holders voted in favor of the restriction [Corp. Code § 12410(c)].

Unless the articles or bylaws provide otherwise, no member may transfer a membership or any right arising from it, and all membership rights will terminate upon the death of the member or dissolution of the co-op or a member that is a business entity [Corp. Code § 12410(a)].

[5] Dues, Assessments, and Fees

The co-op may levy dues, assessments, or fees on its members pursuant to bylaw or article provisions. A member, on learning of them, may avoid liability by promptly resigning from membership, unless the member is liable for them by contract, as a condition to ownership of an interest in real property, as an obligation arising out of an interest in real property, or otherwise. Unless they are called to the attention of the member and the member agrees to them in writing, article or bylaw provisions authorizing dues, assessments, or fees do not of themselves create such a liability [Corp. Code § 12441].

[6] Memberships Exempt From Securities Qualification

The memberships sold by a consumer co-op are exempt from the securities qualification requirements of Corporations Code Section 25110, provided the aggregate investment of any member in memberships sold does not exceed $300. The exemption does not apply to memberships of the co-op if any promoter expects or intends to make a profit directly or indirectly from any business or activity associated with the co-op or the operation of the co-op, or from remuneration other than reasonable salary from the co-op. The exemption does not apply to nonvoting memberships issued to any person who does not possess and will not acquire voting power in connection with the issuance of nonvoting memberships [Corp. Code § 25100(r)].

[7] Liability of Members

Members of a consumer co-op are not, as such, personally liable for the debts, liabilities, or obligations of the corporation [Corp. Code § 12440(a)]. No person is liable for any obligation arising from membership unless that person was admitted to membership upon the person's application or with that person's consent [Corp. Code § 12440(b)]. "Consent" includes the ownership of an interest in real property, when membership in the co-op is a condition of ownership [Corp. Code § 12440(c)].

[8] Termination of Membership

A membership issued for a period of time will expire when the period has elapsed, unless the membership is renewed [Corp. Code § 12430(c)]. A member may resign from membership at any time, although the articles or bylaws may require reasonable notice before the resignation becomes effective [Corp. Code § 12430(a)]. A member's resignation will not relieve that member from obliga tions for charges incurred, services or benefits actually rendered, dues, assessments or fees, or for any obligation arising from contract, a condition to ownership of land, an obligation arising out of the ownership of land, or otherwise [Corp. Code § 12430(b)].

A member may also be expelled or suspended, provided that the applicable procedures satisfy statutory requirements [see Corp. Code § 12431(a)]. Any expulsion, suspension, or termination must be done in good faith and in a fair and reasonable manner [see Corp. Code § 12431(b), (c)], or it will be void and without effect [see Corp. Code § 12431(a); see also Corp. Code § 12431(d) (notice requirements)]. A member may bring an action challenging an expulsion, suspension, or termination within one year after the event occurred, and may be entitled to reinstatement as a member [Corp. Code § 12431(e)].

A member who is expelled or suspended, or whose membership is terminated, is liable for any charges incurred, services or benefits actually rendered, dues, assessments, or fees incurred before the expulsion, suspension, or termination or arising from contract or otherwise [Corp. Code § 12431(g)].

These termination, expulsion, and suspension provisions govern procedures, not the substantive basis for the action. Therefore, even if the termination, expulsion, or suspension satisfies these procedural requirements, the action is not valid if it violates contractual or other rights of the member or is otherwise unlawful [Corp. Code § 12431(f)].

DIVISION I: BUSINESS AND NONPROFIT ORGANIZATIONS
CHAPTER 14 CONSUMER COOPERATIVE CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-14 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 14.34

§ 14.34 Meetings of Members

[1] Regular and Special

Regular meetings of members must be held annually. The election of directors must be held at the regular meeting unless the directors are chosen in some other manner [Corp. Code § 12460(b)]. Special meetings of the members may be called for any lawful purpose by the board, the chairman of the board, the president, any other person authorized in the bylaws, or by 5 percent of the members [Corp. Code § 12460(e)].

Meetings of members must be held at a place stated or fixed in accordance with the bylaws. If no other place is stated or fixed, meetings will be held at the principal executive office of the co-op [Corp. Code § 12460(a)]. Unless prohibited by the bylaws, and if authorized by the board of directors in its sole discretion, and subject to the requirement of consent [see Corp. Code § 20(b)] and any guidelines and procedures adopted by the board, members not physically present in person at a meeting of members may participate in and vote at a meeting of members, by electronic transmission by and to the corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 20, 21] or by electronic video screen communication, whether the meeting is to be held at a designated place or in whole or in part by means of electronic transmission by and to the corporation or by electronic video screen communication [Corp. Code § 12460(a); see Corp. Code § 12460(f)]. Member meetings may be conducted, in whole or in part, by electronic transmission by and to the corporation or by electronic video screen communication if [Corp. Code § 12460(f)]:

- The corporation implements reasonable measures to provide members a reasonable opportunity to participate in the meeting and to vote on matters submitted to the members, including an opportunity to read or hear the proceedings of the meeting concurrently with those proceedings; and

- The corporation maintains a record of the vote or action if any member votes or takes other action at the meeting by means of electronic transmission to the corporation or electronic video screen communication.

Any request by a corporation to a member for consent to conduct a member meeting by electronic transmission by and to the corporation must include a notice that the meeting will be held at a physical location absent the member's consent [Corp. Code § 12460(f); see Corp. Code § 20(b)]. Members who participate via electronic transmission by and to the corporation will be deemed present in person at the meeting [Corp. Code § 12460(a)].

[2] Notice of Meetings

Whenever members are required or permitted to take action at a meeting, a written notice of the meeting must be given to each member who is entitled to vote on the record date [see Corp. Code § 12461 (notice requirements)]. If no record date is fixed by the board or the bylaws, all those who are members at the close of business on the day preceding the day on which notice is given are entitled to notice [Corp. Code § 12481(a)]. A member may waive notice by providing a waiver of notice, consent to the holding of the meeting, or an approval of the minutes in writing, or by attending a meeting without objecting to lack of notice [see Corp. Code § 12461(e)].

Notice must be given personally, by electronic transmission by the corporation, or by mail or other means of written communication, addressed to a member at the address appearing on the books of the corporation or given by the member to the corporation for purpose of notice. If no address appears or has been provided, notice must be sent to the principal office of the corporation or by publication at least once in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the principal office is located [Corp. Code § 12461(b)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Notice may not be given by electronic transmission by the corporation if (1) the corporation is unable to deliver two consecutive notices to the shareholder by that means or (2) the inability to deliver notices via electronic transmission becomes known to the secretary, any assistant secretary, the transfer agent, or other person responsible for giving notice [Corp. Code § 12461(b)]. Further, an electronic transmission by the corporation to an individual shareholder or member is not authorized unless the transmission additionally satisfies the requirements applicable to consumer consent to electronic records under the Electronic Signatures in Global and National Commerce Act [Corp. Code § 20 ; see 15 U.S.C. § 7001(c)].

[3] Quorum

The lesser of 250 members or members representing 5 percent of the voting power constitutes a quorum at a meeting of members. Any bylaw amendment to increase the quorum may be adopted only by approval of the members [see Corp. Code § 12224 (approval defined)]. When a quorum is present, the affirmative vote of the majority of the voting power represented at the meeting and entitled to vote will be the act of the members, unless provided otherwise by the bylaws or the law [Corp. Code § 12462(a)].

If the corporation is authorized to conduct a meeting with a quorum of less than one third of the voting power, then the only matters that may be voted on at a regular meeting actually attended by less than one third of the voting power are those for which notice of their general nature was given [Corp. Code § 12462(b); see Corp. Code § 12461].

The members present at a duly called or held meeting at which a quorum is present may continue to transact business until adjournment, notwithstanding the withdrawal of enough members to leave less than a quorum, if any action taken (other than adjournment) is approved by at least a majority of the members required to constitute a quorum, or the vote of a greater number or voting by classes if required by the articles, bylaws, or applicable law [Corp. Code § 12462(c); see Corp. Code § 12462(b)].

In the absence of a quorum, any meeting of members may be adjourned by the vote of a majority of the votes represented in person, but no other business may be transacted unless certain conditions are met [Corp. Code § 12462(d)].

[4] Adjournment

The co-op may transact any business at an adjourned meeting that could have been transacted at the original meeting. When a meeting is adjourned to another time or place, no notice is required if the time and place (or any means of electronic transmission by or to the corporation or electronic video screen communication by which members may participate) are announced at the original meeting unless the bylaws otherwise require. If the adjournment is for more than 45 days or if a new record date is fixed, a notice of the adjourned meeting must be given to each member of record entitled to vote at the meeting [Corp. Code § 12461(d)].

[5] Use of Written Ballots at Meetings

Unless prohibited by the articles or bylaws, a combination of written ballot and personal voting may be used at any regular or special meeting of members. Prior to the meeting, the board may authorize distribution of a written ballot to every member entitled to vote. The ballot must set forth the proposed action to be taken, provide an opportunity to specify approval or disapproval of the proposed action, and state that unless revoked by the member voting in person, the ballot will be counted if received by the co-op on or before the time of the meeting [Corp. Code § 12461(h)].

When ballots are distributed, the number of members voting at the meeting by written ballot will be deemed present at the meeting for purposes of determining a quorum [see Corp. Code § 12462] but only with respect to the proposed actions referred to in the ballots [Corp. Code § 12461(h)]. The ballots must be distributed in a manner consistent with notice of meetings of members [see Corp. Code § 12461(b)] and consistent with the requirements for voting by written ballot without a meeting [Corp. Code § 12461(h); see Corp. Code § 12464; see also § 14.35[2]].

§ 14.35 Action by Written Ballot Without Meeting

[1] In General

Unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws, any action that may be taken at any regular or special meeting may be taken without a meeting if the co-op distributes a written ballot to every member entitled to vote on the matter [Corp. Code § 12463(a)]. Unless otherwise provided by the articles or bylaws, and if approved by the board of directors, the ballot and any related material may be sent by electronic transmission by the corporation and responses may be returned to the corporation by electronic transmission to the corporation [Corp. Code § 12463(a); see Corp. Code §§ 20, 21]. The secretary must cause a vote to be taken by written ballot on any action or recommendation proposed in writing by 20 percent of the members [Corp. Code § 12463(f)].

The number of votes cast by ballot within the time period specified in the ballot must equal or exceed the quorum required to be present at a meeting authorizing the action. The number of approvals must equal or exceed the number of votes that would be required to approve at a meeting at which the total number of votes cast was the same as the number of votes cast by ballot [Corp. Code § 12463(b)].

[2] Ballot Requirements

Ballots must be solicited in the same manner as that prescribed for giving notice of meetings [see Corp. Code § 12461(b); see also § 14.34[2]]. The solicitations must indicate the number of responses needed to meet the quorum requirement and specify the time by which the ballot must be received to be counted. Ballots (other than for the election of directors) must state the percentage of approvals necessary to pass the measure [Corp. Code § 12463(c)].

A written ballot must set forth the proposed action, provide an opportunity to specify approval or disapproval of any proposal, and provide a reasonable time within which to return the ballot to the co-op [Corp. Code § 12463(a)]. Unless provided otherwise in the articles or bylaws, a written ballot cannot be revoked [Corp. Code § 12463(d)].

If a co-op has 100 or more members, any form of written ballot distributed to 10 or more members must afford an opportunity to specify a choice between approval and disapproval of each matter or group of related matters intended to be acted upon by the ballot at the time of distribution. The form must also provide that whenever the person solicited specifies a choice with respect to any matter, the vote will be cast in accordance with that choice [Corp. Code § 12464(a)].

CHAPTER 14 CONSUMER COOPERATIVE CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-14 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 14.36

§ 14.36 Voting of Memberships

[1] One Vote Rule

Each member of a consumer co-op is entitled to one vote on each matter submitted to a vote of the members, except for central organizations which have provided otherwise. Single memberships in which two or more persons have an indivisible interest, including memberships standing of record in the names of two or more persons, are bound by the vote of one member, when there is only one vote, and by the act of the majority when there is more than one vote [Corp. Code § 12480; see Corp. Code § 12482].

[2] Record Date

The bylaws may provide, or the board may fix in advance, a date as the record date for determining the members entitled to vote at a meeting or cast written ballots. That date must not be more than 60 days before the date of the meeting or the day on which the first ballot is mailed or solicited. If no record date is fixed, those who are members on the day of the meeting or the day the first ballot is mailed or solicited who are eligible to vote will be entitled to vote [Corp. Code § 12481(b), (c)]. Similar provisions govern the fixing of a record date to determine the members entitled to exercise any rights with respect to any other lawful action [see Corp. Code § 12481(d)].

[3] Cumulative Voting and Voting by Proxy

Cumulative voting is not permitted in consumer co-ops, except when authorized by the articles or bylaws of a central organization [Corp. Code § 12484; see Corp. Code § 12256]. Voting by proxy is not permitted at any time [Corp. Code § 12405].

§ 14.37 Inspectors of Election

[1] Appointment

In advance of any meeting of members, the board may appoint inspectors of election to act at the meeting and any adjournment. If inspectors are not appointed or if any appointed persons fail to appear or refuse to act, the chairman of the meeting may (and, on the request of any member, must) appoint inspectors at the meeting [Corp. Code § 12483(a)].

The number of inspectors must be either one or three. If they are appointed at a meeting on the request of one or more members, the majority of members represented in person will determine the number to be appointed [Corp. Code § 12483(a)]. If there are three inspectors, the decision, act, or certificate of a majority is effective in all respects as that of all three [Corp. Code § 12483(c)].

[2] Duties

The inspectors determine the number of memberships outstanding and the voting power of each, the number represented at the meeting, and the existence of a quorum. They receive votes, ballots, and consents, hear and determine all challenges and questions regarding the right to vote, count and tabulate all votes and consents, determine when the polls will close, and determine the result. They may do those acts which are proper to conduct the election or vote with fairness to all members [Corp. Code § 12483(b)]. The inspectors must perform these duties impartially, in good faith, to the best of their ability, and as expeditiously as is practical [Corp. Code § 12483(c)].

§ 14.38 Directors

[1] Term of Office

Each corporation must have a board of directors [Corp. Code § 12350]. Directors are elected for terms, not longer than four years, that are fixed in the articles or bylaws. In the absence of any provision, terms will be for one year. No amendment of the articles or bylaws may extend the term of a director beyond that for which the director was elected, nor may any bylaw provision increasing the terms of directors be adopted without approval of the members [Corp. Code § 12360(a); see Corp. Code § 12224 (approval defined)]. A director holds office until the expiration of the term for which elected and until a successor has been elected and qualified, unless the director has been removed from office [Corp. Code § 12360(b)].

[2] Election of Directors

The members must have reasonable nomination and election procedures given the nature, size, and operations of the co-op [Corp. Code § 12470].

When the co-op distributes any material soliciting a vote for any nominee for director in any publication owned or controlled by the co-op, it must make available to each other nominee, in the same material, an equal amount of space with equal prominence to be used by the nominee for a purpose reasonably related to the election [Corp. Code § 12473].

The co-op must mail to all members any material related to the election which a nominee for director has furnished, upon written request and payment of mailing costs by the nominee. Alternatively, within five business days of the request the co-op may allow the nominee to obtain the names, addresses and voting rights of members [Corp. Code § 12474; see Corp. Code § 12600(a)].

[3] Election by Written Ballot

Directors may be elected by written ballot without a meeting when authorized by the articles or bylaws, except that a central organization [see Corp. Code § 12256] may not authorize election by written ballot if its directors are elected by cumulative voting [Corp. Code § 12463(e); see Corp. Code § 12484]. A combination of written ballot and personal voting also may be used, except in the case of cumulative voting for directors of a central organization [Corp. Code § 12461(i); see Corp. Code § 12484].

If a ballot naming directors is marked "withhold" (or in any other manner indicating that authority to vote for the election of directors is withheld) by a member, it cannot be voted for the election of a director [Corp. Code § 12464(b)].

[4] Designation or Selection

All or any portion of the directors authorized in the articles or bylaws may hold office by designation or selection by a specified designator, as provided in the articles or bylaws, rather than by election. Directors who hold office by designation or selection continue in office for the term prescribed by the governing article or bylaw. If no term is prescribed, these directors serve until the governing article or bylaw is amended or repealed [Corp. Code § 12360(d); see Corp. Code § 12362(f)].

This type of bylaw provision may be adopted, amended, or repealed only by approval of the members [Corp. Code § 12360(d); see Corp. Code § 12224], except as provided in Corp. Code § 12330(d) (approval of specified person). Unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws, the entitlement to designate or select a director or directors will cease if (1) the specified designator of that director or directors has died or ceased to exist, or (2) if the entitlement of the specified designator of that director or directors to designate is in the capacity of an officer, trustee, or other status and the office, trust, or status has ceased to exist [Corp. Code § 12360(d)]. When the articles or bylaws provide that a designator is entitled to designate one or more directors, (1) unless provided otherwise in the articles or bylaws at the time of designation, any director so designated may be removed without cause by the designator of that director; (2) any director so designated may only be removed with the written consent of the designator of that director; and (3) unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws, the right to remove will not apply if the designator entitled to that right has died or ceased to exist; and if that right is in the capacity of an officer, trustee, or other status, the office, trust, or status has ceased to exist [Corp. Code § 12362(g)]. For further discussion of removal, see § 14.39[3].

[5] Appointment by Court

If a corporation has not issued memberships and either (1) all the directors resign, die, or become incompetent, or (2) the corporation's initial directors have not been named in the articles and all the incorporators resign, a superior court of any county may appoint directors on the application of any party in interest [Corp. Code § 12360(e)]. For an application for appointment of directors under these circumstances, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 388, Nonprofit Corporations , § 388.168 (Matthew Bender).

[6] Resignation of Directors

Any director may resign effective upon written notice to the chairman of the board, the president, the secretary, or the board of directors, unless the notice specifies a later time for the effectiveness of the resignation. If a resignation is effective at a future time, a successor may be elected to take office when the resignation becomes effective [Corp. Code § 12364(c)].

§ 14.39 Removal of Directors

[1] In General

Any or all directors may be removed without cause. In a co-op with fewer than 50 members, the removal must be approved by a majority of all members [Corp. Code § 12362(a)(1); see Corp. Code § 12223 (approval defined)]. In a co-op with 50 or more members, the removal must be approved by the members [Corp. Code § 12362(a)(2); see Corp. Code § 12224 (approval defined)].

A reduction in the number of directors authorized in the articles or bylaws does not remove any director prior to the expiration of that director's term of office, unless the reduction or amendment also provides for removal of one or more specified directors [Corp. Code § 12362(d)]. A director may not be removed prior to the expiration of the term of office, unless removed by the superior court [see Corp. Code § 12363] or unless the board is entitled to declare that director's office vacant [Corp. Code § 12362(e); see Corp. Code § 12361].

[2] Removal of Director Elected by Class

When the provisions of the articles or bylaws permit the members of any class, voting as a class, to elect one or more directors, any director so elected can only be removed by the applicable vote of the members of that class [Corp. Code § 12362(c)]. Special limitations apply to the removal of directors in a central organization whose articles or bylaws authorize cumulative voting [see Corp. Code § 12362(b)].

[3] Removal of Designated Director

If the articles or bylaws permit designation of directors, any directors so elected may only be removed as provided [Corp. Code § 12362(g); see § 14.38[4], above]. When a different person may be designated pursuant to the governing article or bylaw provision, the new designation must be made. If the governing article or bylaw contains no provision under which a different person may be designated, the governing article or bylaw provision will be deemed repealed [Corp. Code § 12362(f)].

[4] Removal by the Superior Court

When a director or members possessing 5 percent of the voting power bring suit in superior court to remove any director, the court may remove that director from office for fraudulent or dishonest acts, or gross abuse of authority or discretion with reference to the co-op. The court may also bar the removed director from reelection for a prescribed period [Corp. Code § 12363].

§ 14.40 Vacancies on the Board

The board may declare vacant the office of any director: (1) whose eligibility for election has ceased, (2) who has been declared of unsound mind by a final order of court, (3) who is convicted of a felony, or (4) who has failed to attend a specified number of board meetings, if at the time of election the bylaws provide that a director may be removed for missing a specified number of meetings [Corp. Code § 12361].

Vacancies may be filled by a majority of the directors then in office, whether or not less than a quorum, or by a sole remaining director, unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws and except for a vacancy created by removal. Vacancies may be approved only by approval of the members [see Corp. Code § 12224] unless the articles or a bylaw approved by the members provide that the board may fill vacancies occurring by reason of removal [Corp. Code § 12364(a)]. The members may elect a director at any time to fill any vacancy not filled by the directors [Corp. Code § 12364(b)].

§ 14.41 Meetings of the Board

[1] Call, Place, and Presence

Meetings of the Board may be called by the chair of the board, the president, any vice president, the secretary, or any two directors [Corp. Code § 12351(a)(1)]. Meetings may be held at any place designated in the notice, or, if not stated in a notice, designated in the bylaws or by resolution of the board [Corp. Code § 12351(a)(5)]. Directors may participate through the use of conference telephone, electronic video screen communication, or electronic transmission by and to the corporation [Corp. Code § 12351(a)(6); see Corp. Code §§ 20, 21]. Participation in a meeting through use of conference telephone or electronic video screen communication constitutes presence in person at the meeting, as long as all directors participating in the meeting can hear one another. Participation in a meeting through use of electronic transmission by and to the corporation (other than conference telephone or electronic video screen communication) constitutes presence in person at the meeting if (1) each participating director can communicate with all the other directors concurrently and (2) each participating director is provided the means of participating in all matters before the board, including but not limited to the capacity to propose, or to interpose an objection to, a specific action to be taken by the corporation [Corp. Code § 12351(a)(6)].

[2] Notice

Regular meetings may be held without notice if the time and place are fixed by the bylaws or the board. Special meetings must be held on four days notice by first class mail or 48 hours notice delivered personally or by telephone, including a voice messaging system, or by electronic transmission by the corporation [Corp. Code § 12351(a)(2); see Corp. Code § 20]. The articles or bylaws may not dispense with notice of a special meeting. A notice or waiver of notice need not specify the purpose of any meeting [Corp. Code § 12351(a)(2)].

Notice need not be given to any director who provides a waiver of notice, a consent to holding the meeting, or an approval of the minutes in writing (either before or after the meeting), or who attends the meeting without protesting prior to or at commencement the lack of notice. All waiver, consents, and approvals must be filed with the corporate records or made a part of the minutes of the meeting [Corp. Code § 12351(a)(3)].

[3] Quorum

A majority of the number of directors authorized in or pursuant to the articles or bylaws constitutes a quorum for the transaction of business. The articles or bylaws may require the presence of one or more specified directors to constitute a quorum of the board to transact business, as long as the death of a director or the death or nonexistence of the person or persons otherwise authorized to appoint or designate a director does not prevent the corporation from transating business in the normal course of events [Corp. Code § 12351(a)(7)]. The articles or bylaws may not provide that a quorum is less than one-fifth the number of directors authorized in or pursuant to the articles or bylaws, or less than two, whichever is larger [Corp. Code § 12351(a)(7)].

Every act or decision done or made by a majority of the directors, with certain qualifications, present at a duly held meeting at which a quorum is present is the act of the board. The articles or bylaws may not provide that a lesser vote is the act of the board. A meeting at which a quorum is initially present may continue to transact business notwithstanding the withdrawal of directors, if any action taken is approved by at least a majority of the required quorum for the meeting or a greater number required by the articles, bylaws, or by law [Corp. Code § 12351(a)(8)].

Each director present and voting at a meeting has one vote on each matter presented to the board of directors for action at that meeting. No director may vote at any meeting by proxy [Corp. Code § 12351(c)].

[4] Adjournment

Whether or not a quorum is present, a majority of the directors present may adjourn to another time and place. If the meeting is adjourned for more than 24 hours, notice of the adjournment must be given prior to the time of the adjourned meeting to the directors who were not present at the time of adjournment [Corp. Code § 12351(a)(4)].

[5] Action Without Meeting

Any action required or permitted to be taken by the board may be taken without a meeting, if all directors individually or collectively consent in writing to the action. The consents must be filed with the minutes of the proceedings of the board. Action by written consent has the same force and effect as a unanimous vote of the directors [Corp. Code § 12351(b)].

§ 14.42 Executive Committees

[1] Creation and Appointment

The board, by resolution of a majority of the directors then in office adopted when a quorum is present, may create committees to serve at its pleasure. Each committee must consist of two or more directors, appointed by a majority vote of the directors then in office, unless the articles or bylaws require a majority vote of the number of directors authorized in the articles or bylaws. The bylaws may authorize one or more such committees, each consisting of two or more directors, and may provide that specified officers who are also directors will be members of the committees. The board may appoint one or more directors as alternate members of any committee, who may replace any absent member at any meeting of the committee [Corp. Code § 12352(a)].

[2] Authority of Committees

Any executive committee, to the extent provided in the resolution of the board or in the bylaws, will have all the authority of the board, except with respect to the following actions [Corp. Code § 12352(a)]:

- The approval of any action for which the approval of the members [Corp. Code § 12224] or a majority of all members [Corp. Code § 12223] is required by law regardless of whether the corporation has members.
- The filing of vacancies on the board or in any committee which has the authority of the board.
- The fixing of compensation of the directors for serving on the board or on any committee.
- The amendment or repeal of bylaws or the adoption of new bylaws.
- The amendment or repeal of any resolution of the board which by its express terms is not amendable or repealable.
- The appointment of committees of the board or their members.

- The expenditure of corporate funds to support a nominee for director after there are more people nominated for director than can be elected.

A committee exercising the authority of the board may not include as members persons who are not directors. The board may create other committees that do not exercise the authority of the board, and these other committees may include persons who are not directors [Corp. Code § 12352(b)].

Unless the bylaws otherwise provide, the board may delegate to any committee, appointed pursuant to Corp. Code § 12331(c)(4) or otherwise, powers as authorized by Corp. Code § 12350, but may not delegate the powers listed in Corp. Code § 12352(a)(1)-(7), listed above [Corp. Code § 12352(c)].

§ 14.43 Officers

A consumer co-op must have a chair of the board (who may be given the title "chair of the board," "chairperson of the board," "chairman of the board," or "chairwoman of the board" [see Corp. Code § 12228.5 for definition of "chair"]) or a president or both, a secretary, a treasurer, or a chief financial officer or both, and any other officer with the titles and duties as required in the bylaws or determined by the board, and as may be necessary to enable it to sign instruments. The president, or if none, the chair of the board, is the chief executive officer of the co-op, unless provided otherwise in the articles or bylaws. If there is no chief financial officer, the treasurer is the chief financial officer of the corporation, unless otherwise provided for in the articles or bylaws. The same person may hold any number of offices unless the articles or bylaws provide otherwise. Either the chair of the board or the president must be elected from among the board members elected by the membership of the co-op [Corp. Code § 12353(a)].

Unless otherwise provided by the articles or bylaws, officers must be chosen by the board and serve at the pleasure of the board, subject to the rights, if any, of an officer under any contract of employment. Any officer may resign at any time upon written notice to the co-op without prejudice to the rights, if any, of the co-op under any contract to which the officer is a party [Corp. Code § 12353(b)].

§ 14.44 Corporate Records and Reports

[1] Required Records

The co-op must keep adequate and correct books and records of account and minutes of the proceedings of its members, board, and committees of the board. It must also keep a record of the members, giving the names, addresses, class of membership, and number of membership units held by each [Corp. Code § 12590(a)]. Minutes and other books and records must be kept either in written form, any other form capable of being converted into clearly legible tangible form, or any combination of the two [Corp. Code § 12590(b)]. When minutes and other books and records are kept in a form capable of being converted into clearly legible paper form, that clearly legible paper form is admissible in evidence, and accepted for all other purposes, to the same extent as an original paper record of the same information would have been, provided that the paper form accurately portrays the record [Corp. Code § 12590(b)].

[2] Annual Report

The co-op must notify each member yearly of the member's right to receive an annual financial report. Unless the co-op has less than 25 members at any time during the fiscal year [see Corp. Code § 12591(a)], the board must promptly cause the most recent annual report to be sent to a member upon written request. The annual report must be prepared no later than 120 days after the close of the co-op's fiscal year, and contain in appropriate detail all of the following [Corp. Code § 12591(b); see Corp. Code § 12592]:

- A balance sheet as of the end of the fiscal year, an income statement, and statement of cash flows for the fiscal year.
- A statement of the place where the names and addresses of the current members are located.
- A statement of the transactions and indemnifications of interested persons [see Corp. Code § 12592].

The annual report must be accompanied by any pertinent report by independent accountants, or, if there is no such report, by the certificate of an authorized officer of the co-op that the statements were prepared without audit from the books and records of the co-op [Corp. Code § 12591(b)].

Unless otherwise specified in the articles or bylaws, this report and any acompanying material may be sent by electronic transmission by the corporation [see Corp. Code § 20] if approved by the board of directors [Corp. Code § 12591(a)].

[3] Annual Statement of Transactions and Indemnifications

The co-op must furnish annually to its members and directors a statement of the transactions and indemnifications of interested persons. The statement may be included in the annual report. If the co-op does not issue an annual report, the statement must be mailed or delivered to members within 120 days after the close of the fiscal year. Unless otherwise specified in the articles or bylaws, this statement may be sent by electronic transmission by the corporation [see Corp. Code § 20] if approved by the board of directors [Corp. Code § 12592(a)].

[1] Articles and Bylaws

The co-op must keep at its principal office in California the original or a copy of the articles and bylaws as amended to date, which must be open to inspection by the members at all reasonable times during office hours. If the co-op has no office in California, it must furnish to any member upon written request a copy of the articles or bylaws as amended to date [Corp. Code § 12340].

[2] Books and Records

The accounting books and records and minutes of proceedings of the members, the board, and committees of the board must be open to inspection on the written demand of any member at any reasonable time, for a purpose reasonably related to that person's interests as a member [Corp. Code § 12603].

Every director has the absolute right at any reasonable time to inspect and copy all books, records, and documents of every kind, and to inspect the physical properties of the co-op [Corp. Code § 12604].

§ 14.46 Demand for Membership List

[1] Procedure

Subject to the co-op's right to set aside a member's demand for inspection [see Corp. Code § 12601] and the power of the court to limit inspection rights [see Corp. Code § 12602], and unless the co-op provides a reasonable alternative [see Corp. Code § 12600(c)], a member may do either or both of the following [Corp. Code § 12600(a)]:

- Inspect and copy the record of all the members' names, addresses, and voting rights, at reasonable times, on written demand five business days in advance stating the purpose of the inspection;

- Obtain from the secretary of the co-op, on written demand and tender of a reasonable charge, a list of the names, addresses, and voting rights of those members entitled to vote for the election of directors, as of the most recent record date for which it has been compiled, or as of a date specified by the member subsequent to the date of demand.

The demand must state the purpose for which the list is requested. The membership list must be made available on or before the later of 10 business days after the demand is received or after the date specified as the date as of which the list is to be compiled [Corp. Code § 12600(a)].

[2] Entitlement

Any member or members possessing 5 percent or more of the voting power may demand the list for a purpose reasonably related to the members' interests as members. The co-op may deny access if it reason-ably believes that the information will be used for another purpose or it provides a reasonable alternative pursuant to Corp. Code § 12600(c) [Corp. Code § 12600(b)].

[3] Alternative Method

The co-op, within 10 days after receiving a demand, may deliver a written offer of an alternative method of achieving the purpose identified in the demand without providing access to or a copy of the membership list. An alternative method which reasonably and in a timely manner accomplishes the proper purpose set forth in a demand will be a reasonable alternative, unless the co-op fails to do the things it offered within a reasonable time after acceptance of the offer. Any rejection of the offer must be in writing and indicate the reasons the proposed alternative does not meet the proper purpose of the demand [Corp. Code § 12600(c)].

§ 14.47 Distributions

A consumer co-op may make several types of distributions to its members. A "patronage distribution" is any transfer made to a patron of the co-op the amount of which is computed with reference to the patron's patronage of the co-op [Corp. Code § 12224]. "Patronage" is measured by the volume and/or value of a patron's purchase of products from, and use of services furnished by, the co-op, and by the products and services provided by the patron to the co-op for marketing [Corp. Code § 12243]. Patronage distributions serve to provide members with goods or services at cost, or to return to members the net proceeds of their products.

A co-op may also make distributions to its members of gains, profits, or dividends that are not computed with reference to patronage [see Corp. Code § 12235]. However, in any fiscal year those distributions cannot exceed 15 percent, multiplied by contributions, whether the contributions are by membership fees, capital credits, or otherwise, to capital [Corp. Code § 12451]. A co-op may also purchase or redeem memberships [Corp. Code § 12452].

The Consumer Cooperative Corporation Law prohibits a co-op from purchasing or redeeming memberships, making a patronage distribution to members out of earnings of the co-op on nonmember patronage, or making a distribution, if it is or would be likely to be unable to meets its liabilities as they mature. The same restriction applies to any subsidiary of the co-op [Corp. Code § 12453]. Additional restrictions on the purchase or redemption of memberships, distributions, or patronage distributions may be provided for in the articles, bylaws, or by agreement [Corp. Code § 12454].

DIVISION I: BUSINESS AND NONPROFIT ORGANIZATIONS
CHAPTER 14 CONSUMER COOPERATIVE CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-14 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 14.48

§ 14.48 Federal Income Taxation

[1] In General

Consumer cooperative corporations are subject to the same general federal income tax treatment as other corporations. They must pay federal income tax according to the schedule imposed by I.R.C. § 11. However, they are also entitled to certain additional deductions [see discussion in § 14.48[2]]. For a discussion of corporate income tax rates, see Ch. 2, Formation of Corporations .

[2] Deduction of Patronage Dividends

Most corporations operating on a cooperative basis are entitled to deduct patronage dividends (as that term is defined in the Internal Revenue Code in computing taxable income [see I.R.C. §§ 1382(b)(1), 1381(a)]. The Internal Revenue Code does not allow the deduction to mutual ditch, irrigation, or rural electrification cooperatives; mutual savings banks, building and loan associations, or mutual insurance companies; or cooperatives furnishing electric energy or telephone service to persons in rural areas [see I.R.C. § 1381(a)(2)].

The Internal Revenue Code definition of "patronage dividend" is different than the California definition of "patronage distribution" [see I.R.C. § 1388(a); Corp. Code § 12244]. For federal income tax purposes, a "patronage dividend" is an amount paid to a patron under the following circumstances [I.R.C. § 1388(a)]:

- On the basis of quantity or value of business done with or for that patron;
- Under a preexisting obligation of the corporation to pay that amount; and
- Which is determined by reference to the net earnings of the co-op from business done with or for its patrons.

To be treated as earnings from business done with or for patrons that are deductible as patronage dividends, income must be produced in a transaction that actually facilitates the accomplishment of the cooperative's activities for its patrons, rather than merely enhancing the overall productivity of the cooperative. Under this test, interest income earned on certificates of deposit and short-term commercial paper was deductible as patronage dividends by a cooperative whose seasonal business required the maintenance of temporary surpluses, since placing those surpluses in interest-bearing activities was integrally intertwined with the cooperative's function [Cotter and Co. v. United States (Fed. Cir. 1985) 765 F.2d 1102, 1110] .

Bylaws, articles of incorporation, or other written contracts constitute a preexisting obligation [Treas. Reg. § 1.1388-1(a); see Rev. Rul. 83-135, 1983-2 C.B. 149]. A patronage dividend does not include amounts paid out of earnings from any business other than that done with or for patrons, or amounts paid out of earnings from business done with or for other patrons who are paid smaller or no amounts for substantially identical transactions [I.R.C. § 1388(a)]. A "patron" is defined as any person with whom or for whom the cooperative corporation does business on a cooperative basis, whether a member, nonmember, individual, trust, estate, partnership, company, corporation, or cooperative association [Treas. Reg. § 1.1388-1(e)].

Patronage dividends are deductible to the extent paid in money, qualified written notices of allocation, or other property with respect to patronage occurring during that taxable year [I.R.C. § 1382(b)(1)]. A notice of allocation is any form of written notice showing the amount allocated to that patron and any portion that constitutes a patronage dividend [I.R.C. § 1388(b)]. The notice is "qualified" if it is redeemable at face value within 90 days, or if the patron has consented to include the allocated amount in gross income for the year [I.R.C. § 1388(c); see I.R.C. § 1385(a)]. "Consent" occurs when the patron either consents in writing, cashes a qualified check, or obtains or retains membership in the co-op after it has adopted a bylaw providing that membership constitutes consent [I.R.C. § 1388(c)(2); see I.R.C. § 1385(a)]. Whichever way qualification occurs, it must be accompanied by payment of at least 20 percent of the amount of the patronage dividend [I.R.C. §§ 1382(b)(1), 1388(b)]. A nonqualified allocation becomes deductible only when redeemed in money or other property [I.R.C. § 1382(b)(2)].

In addition to patronage dividends, a cooperative corporation is entitled to deduct "per-unit retain allocations" paid in money, other property, or qualified certificates [I.R.C. § 1382(b)(3)]. A co-op may make allocations to a patron with respect to products marketed for that patron, and determine those allocations without reference to the net earnings of the co-op from business done with or for that patron [see I.R.C. § 1388(f)]. A "per-unit retain allocation certificate" is a written notice showing the amount allocated to that patron by the co-op [I.R.C. § 1388(g)]. The certificate is "qualified" if the recipient either consents in writing to include the allocated amount in gross income for the year, or if the recipient obtains or retains membership in the co-op after it has adopted a bylaw providing that membership constitutes consent [I.R.C. § 1388(h); see I.R.C. § 1385(a)]. A nonqualified certificate becomes deductible only when redeemed in money or other property [I.R.C. § 1382(b)(4)].

[3] Netting of Patronage Gains and Losses

A co-op may determine its net earnings by offsetting patronage losses (including any patronage loss carried to that year) that are attributable to one or more allocation units against patronage earnings of one or more other allocation units [see I.R.C. § 1388(j)(1)]. The terms "patronage earnings" and "patronage losses" refer to earnings and losses derived from business done with or for patrons of the organization [I.R.C. § 1388(j)(4)]. A co-op that opts to net gains and losses for a taxable year must provide its patrons, on or before the 15th day of the ninth month following the close of the taxable year, with a written notice that states all of the following [I.R.C. § 1388(j)(3)(A)]:

- That the organization has offset earnings and losses from one or more allocation units, and that the offset may affect the amount distributed to its patrons;

- A general identification of the allocation units; and

- Any rights that its patrons have to additional financial information of the co-op under the terms of its charter, articles, bylaws, or any provision of law.

The corporation may omit any detailed data regarding earnings and losses that could result in a competitive disadvantage to the co-op, or could provide a competitive advantage to a competitor of the co-op [I.R.C. § 1388(j)(3)(B)]. Failure to provide sufficient notice will not affect the tax treatment of the co-op [I.R.C. § 1388(j)(3)(C)].

CHAPTER 14 CONSUMER COOPERATIVE CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-14 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 14.49

§ 14.49 State Income Taxation

Consumer co-ops are subject to state income tax but are permitted certain special deductions. A co-op whose income is not principally derived from the sale in the regular course of business of tangible personal property (other than water, agricultural products, or food sold at wholesale) may deduct all income from or arising out of business activities carried on by the co-op or its agents for or with members, or when done on a nonprofit basis for or with nonmembers [Rev. & Tax. Code § 24405].

A co-op whose income is principally derived from the sale in the regular course of business of tangible personal property (other than water, agricultural products, or food sold at wholesale) may deduct all patronage refunds paid or accrued to patrons if the refunds are made and allocated as provided by statute [Rev. & Tax. Code § 24406]. The refunds must be made pursuant to a preexisting obligation which is created by the association's bylaws or other written instrument [Rev. & Tax. Code § 24406(a)]. They must be made from earnings that are attributable to business done by the association with the patrons to whom the patronage refunds are made, and allocated ratably according to patronage [Rev. & Tax. Code § 24406(b)]. The refunds must be allocated, and the patrons receiving the refunds must be notified of the allocation, on or before the due date for the filing of the association's franchise tax return, including any extension of time for the year in which the patronage occurred [Rev. & Tax. Code § 24406(c)].

DIVISION I: BUSINESS AND NONPROFIT ORGANIZATIONS
CHAPTER 14 CONSUMER COOPERATIVE CORPORATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-14 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 14.50

§ 14.50 Dissolution

[1] Voluntary

When a consumer co-op's term of existence expires without extension or renewal, the board must terminate its activities and wind up its affairs [Corp. Code § 12636]. A co-op may also voluntarily choose to wind up and dissolve, either by approval of a majority of all of the members [see Corp. Code § 12223 (definition)], or by approval of the board and approval of the members [Corp. Code § 12630(a); see Corp. Code § 12224 (definition)]. Approval of the board alone may initiate dissolution for a co-op that [Corp. Code § 12630(b)]:

- Has been the subject of an order for relief in bankruptcy;
- Has disposed of all its assets and has not conducted any activity for five years; or
- Has no members.

If a corporation comes within one of the descriptions in § 12630(b), above, and if the number of directors then in office is less than a quorum, it may elect to voluntarily wind up and dissolve by any of the following [Corp. Code § 12630(c)]:

- The unanimous consent of the directors then in office.
- The affirmative vote of a majority of the directors then in office at a meeting held pursuant to waiver of notice by those directors complying with Corp. Code § 12351(a).
- The vote of a sole remaining director.

If a corporation elects to voluntarily wind up and dissolve pursuant to § 12630(c), above, references to the board are deemed to be to a board consisting solely of those directors or that sole director, and action by the board will require at least the same consent or vote as would be required under § 12630(c) for an election to wind up and dissolve [Corp. Code § 12630(d)].

[2] Involuntary

A complaint for involuntary dissolution may be filed by one-half of the directors in office, any person holding or authorized by persons holding 33 1/3 percent of the voting power, any member when the co-op's term has expired, or any person authorized to do so in the articles [Corp. Code § 12620(a)]. One of the following grounds for involuntary dissolution must exist [see Corp. Code § 12620(b)]:

- Abandonment of corporate activity for more than one year.
- An even number of directors who are equally divided on the management of corporate affairs.
- A deadlock of member factions that inhibits corporate activities.
- Failure to elect successors to directors.
- Fraud or mismanagement of those in control of the corporation.
- Expiration (without extension) of the period for which the corporation was formed.

In addition, the Attorney General may bring an action to dissolve a co-op when the co-op has abused corporate powers or violated the law [see Corp. Code § 12621].

number of its members' members, patronage of members, or both [Corp. Code § 12314]. Otherwise, the voting power of members having voting rights must be equal [Corp. Code § 12404].

(5) If voting power and proprietary interests will be unequal, either:

(3) Provision creating classes of members.

(4) If two or more classes created, any rights, privileges, preferences, restrictions, and conditions attaching to each class.

d. If desired, include further statement limiting purposes or powers of co-op [Corp. Code § 12312].

e. If desired, include provision stating that ownership of proprietary interests that would otherwise escheat to the state will be transferred to co-op [see Corp. Code § 12446; see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1500-1582 (Unclaimed Property Law)].

NOTE:

The Secretary of State may cancel the filing of the articles if the check or other remittance accepted in payment of the filing fee or franchise tax is not paid on presentation [Corp. Code § 12214.5]. Within 70 days after the articles are filed, the Secretary of State must give written notice to the agent for service of process (or the person submitting the instrument for filing) that the item presented for payment was not honored. The notice must specify a date, not less than 20 days after the date that the notice is mailed, on which the cancellation becomes effective if the fee has not been paid by cashier's check or its equivalent [Corp. Code § 12214.5].

Corporations that incorporate or qualify to do business in California are generally exempt from the minimum franchise tax for the first taxable year [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23153(f)(1), (3) (limitation)].

5. Make copies for filing and tax purposes.

NOTE:

For a detailed discussion of the number of copies needed, see Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation **.

CHAPTER 14 CONSUMER COOPERATIVE CORPORATIONS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Articles of Incorporation

7-14 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 14.200

§ 14.200 Articles of Incorporation for Consumer Cooperative Corporation

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a set of articles of incorporation for a consumer cooperative corporation formed pursuant to the Consumer Cooperative Corporation Law [Corp. Code §§ 12200-12704]. It may also be used to incorporate an existing unincorporated association that intends to change its status to a consumer co-op.

For articles of incorporation for an agricultural cooperative association, see § 14A.32. For a detailed analysis of articles of incorporation generally, see Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation .

[b] Required Provisions--Corporate Name

The articles of incorporation for a consumer co-op must state the name of the corporation [Corp. Code § 12310(a)]. The co-op must include the word "cooperative" in its name [Corp. Code § 12311(a)]. In addition, it must affix or prefix some word or abbreviation to its name to indicate that it is a corporation, as distinguished from a natural person, a firm, or an unincorporated association [Corp. Code § 12311(a)].

The Secretary of State will not file the articles of incorporation if the words "bank," "trust," "trustee," or related words appear in the co-op's name, unless a certificate of approval of the Commissioner of Financial Institutions is attached to the articles [Corp. Code § 12302(a)]. In addition, the Secretary of State will not file articles that set forth a name that is likely to mislead the public, or that is the same as or resembles so closely so as to tend to deceive the name of another corporation that has its name on file in California. However, the new consumer co-op may adopt a name substantially similar to that of an existing corporation upon proof of consent by the existing corporation and a finding by the Secretary of State that under the circumstances the public is not likely to be misled [Corp. Code § 12302(b)]. A corporation may be enjoined from using these prohibited names, even after the filing of the articles with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 12302(c)].

If a co-op is organized by a person who was or is an officer, director, or member of an unincorporated association which remains unincorporated, the new co-op may not use a name that is the same as or similar to the unincorporated association. The unincorporated association may continue to use its name [Corp. Code § 12301(g)].

A co-op may obtain a certificate of reservation of corporate name from the Secretary of State by paying a reservation fee [see Gov. Code § 12186(a)]. For a discussion of the procedural steps involved in name reservation, see Ch. 2, Formation of Corporations, § 2.100 et seq.

[i] Corporate Purpose

The articles must set forth verbatim the following statement: "This corporation is a cooperative corporation organized under the Consumer Cooperative Corporation Law. The purpose of this corporation is to engage in any lawful act or activity for which a corporation may be organized under such law." The articles may contain a further description or limitation of the co-op's purposes [Corp. Code §§ 12310(b), 12312].

[ii] Initial Agent for Service of Process

The name of the co-op's initial agent for service of process must be stated [Corp. Code § 12310(c)]. The agent may be a natural person residing in California, or any domestic or foreign corporation that has filed a required certificate [see Corp. Code §§ 1505, 6213, 8213, 12573] and whose capacity to act as an agent has not terminated. If a natural person is designated, the person's complete business or residence address must be stated. If a corporate agent is designated, no address must be stated [Corp. Code § 12570(b); see Corp. Code § 12310(c)].

[iii] Voting Power and Proprietary Interests

The articles must also state whether the voting power or the proprietary interests of the members are equal or unequal. Equal voting power means voting power apportioned on the basis of one vote for each member. Equal proprietary rights means property rights apportioned on the basis of one proprietary unit for each member [Corp. Code § 12310(d)]. Each member entitled to vote is limited to one vote on each matter submitted to a vote of the members [see Corp. Code § 12480], and the voting power of members having voting rights must be equal, except in a "central organization" [Corp. Code § 12404; see Corp. Code § 12314], which is a co-op whose membership consists wholly or partially of other consumer co-ops [Corp. Code § 12256]. Voting power in a central organization may be based on the number of its members' members, the patronage of its members, or both. No member may have less than one vote [Corp. Code § 12314]. If rights and interests in a central organization are unequal, the articles must state either: (1) the general rule or rules by which the voting power and proprietary interests of the members are determined, or (2) that the general rule or rules will be prescribed in the bylaws [Corp. Code § 12310(d)]. This form provides for equal voting rights and proprietary interests.

[iv] Members' Interest in Corporation

Either the bylaws or the articles must prescribe the manner of determining each member's share of the capital of the co-op contributed by the members, and, if repayable, the time and manner for its repayment [Corp. Code § 12445(a)]. In addition, the bylaws or articles must prescribe the manner of determining the value, if any, of the member's interest in the co-op apart from contributed capital, and the time and manner of the co-op's purchase, if required, of that interest from a terminated member [Corp. Code § 12445(b)]. These articles do not include this provision. For such a provision, see § 14.240[2], Section 1.07(b), (c).

[c] Optional Provisions

[i] Duration of Existence and Distribution of Assets

To limit a co-op's duration effectively to a specified date or to require distribution of the remaining assets of the co-op (after payment or adequate provision for all of its debts and liabilities) to a charitable trust, the co-op must include specific provisions in its articles [Corp. Code § 12313(a)]. Such provisions, if included in the articles, will not affect the enforceability of any lawful agreement as between the parties [Corp. Code § 12313(b)].

[ii] Management

The articles may set forth the names and addresses of the persons appointed to act as initial directors [Corp. Code § 12313(c)(1)]. They may also include any other provision for the management of the activities, and for the conduct of the affairs of the co-op, that are required or permitted to be stated in the bylaws and are not in conflict with law [Corp. Code § 12313(c)(4)].

[iii] Transfer of Memberships

The articles may include provisions concerning transfer of memberships [Corp. Code § 12313(c)(2)]. Article provisions may provide for, or authorize the board to provide for, the transfer of all memberships, or of memberships within any class or classes. Transfer provisions may be made with or without restrictions or limitations, including transfer upon the death, dissolution, merger, or reorganization of a member [Corp. Code § 12410(b)]. If transfer rights are provided in the articles or bylaws, no restriction of those rights will be binding on memberships issued prior to the adoption of the restriction, unless the membership holders voted in favor of the restriction [Corp. Code § 12410(c)]. Unless the articles or bylaws provide otherwise, no member may transfer a membership or any right arising from it, and all membership rights will terminate upon the death of the member or dissolution of the co-op or a member that is a business entity [Corp. Code § 12410(a)].

The articles or bylaws may include a provision for the transfer of ownership of proprietary interests that would otherwise escheat to the state to the co-op [see Corp. Code § 12446; see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1500-1582 (Unclaimed Property Law)]. For an example and discussion of the transfer provision, see § 14.240.

[iv] Memberships Issued for Consideration

A co-op may issue memberships for consideration or without consideration, as provided in the articles or bylaws [Corp. Code § 12400]. The articles may also contain a provision conferring on members the right to determine the consideration for which memberships will be issued [Corp. Code § 12313(c)(5)].

[v] Classes of Members

The articles may include a provision creating classes of members. If there are two or more classes, the articles may state the rights, privileges, preferences, restrictions, and conditions attaching to each class [Corp. Code § 12313(c)(3)].

[vi] Statement of Purpose

The articles may set forth, in addition to the required statement of purpose [see Corp. Code § 12310(b)], a further statement limiting the purposes or powers of the co-op [Corp. Code § 12312].

[d] Execution and Filing of Articles

When initial directors are named in the articles [see Corp. Code § 12313(c)(1)], each named director must sign and acknowledge the articles. If no initial directors are named, the incorporators must sign the articles [Corp. Code § 12300(b)]. Acknowledgment means that the instrument is either formally acknowledged by a notary [see Civ. Code §§ 1180-1207] or accompanied by a declaration in writing signed by the persons executing it that they are those persons and that the instrument is the act and deed of the persons executing it [Corp. Code § 12221].

The articles must be filed with the Secretary of State, together with the applicable filing fee [Gov. Code § 12186(c)]. The Secretary of State may cancel the filing of the articles if the check or other remittance accepted in payment of the filing fee or franchise tax is not paid on presentation [Corp. Code § 12214.5; see § 14.141, P 4; see also Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation].

[e] Incorporating an Unincorporated Association

An unincorporated association may change its status to a consumer co-op by filing articles of incorporation pursuant to the Consumer Cooperative Corporation Law [Corp. Code § 12300(a); see Corp. Code §§ 12200-12704]. The articles of incorporation must state, in addition to other required provisions [see Corp. Code § 12310; see also § 14.200[1][b]], that an existing unincorporated association, stating its name, is being incorporated by the filing of the articles [Corp. Code § 12301(b)]. The articles must be accompanied by a verified statement of any two officers or governing board members of the association stating that the incorporation of the association by means of the articles has been approved by the association in accordance with its rules and procedures [Corp. Code § 12301(c); see § 14.220]. For a discussion of the consequences of incorporation on an unincorporated association, see § 14.31[2].

[f] Inspection Rights of Members

The co-op must keep the original or a copy of the articles of incorporation as amended to date at its principal office in California. The articles must be open to inspection by the members at all reasonable times during office hours. If the co-op has no office in California, it must furnish to any member upon written request a copy of the articles as amended to date [Corp. Code § 12340].

[g] Amendment of Articles

The Corporations Code sets forth various requirements for amending the articles of incorporation [see Corp. Code §§ 12500-12510]. For a complete discussion of these requirements, see § 14.221[1].

[a] Use of Form

This form is intended to accompany the articles of incorporation of an existing unincorporated association that is incorporating pursuant to the Consumer Cooperative Corporation Law. An association may change its status to that of a co-op upon a proper authorization for incorporation by the association in accordance with its rules and procedures [Corp. Code § 12301(a)]. The articles filed with the Secretary of State must be accompanied by a verified statement of any two officers or governing board members of the association stating that the incorporation of the association by means of the articles has been approved by the association in accordance with its rules and procedures [Corp. Code § 12301(c)]. For a discussion of the consequences of incorporation on an unincorporated association, see § 14.31[2].

[b] Verification Requirements

The statement of approval must be signed and verified [Corp. Code § 12301(c)]. "Verified" means that the statements contained in the statement are declared to be true of the own knowledge of the persons executing it either in an affidavit signed by them under oath before an officer authorized to administer oaths, or in a declaration in writing executed by them under penalty of perjury and stating the date and place of execution [Corp. Code § 12251]. This form contains both types of verification.

7-14 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 14.221

§ 14.221 Certificate of Amendment of Articles of Incorporation

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the certificate that a consumer co-op must file with the Secretary of State after it has adopted an amendment to its articles. Upon filing the certificate, the articles will be amended in accordance with the certificate and any change, reclassification, or cancellation of memberships will be effected. A copy of this certificate, certified by the Secretary of State, is prima facie evidence that the conditions necessary to adopt the amendment have been performed [Corp. Code § 12508].

For a discussion of the amendment of articles generally, see Ch. 10, Amendment of Articles .

[b] Permissible Amendments--In General

A consumer co-op may amend its articles at any time and in any respect, as long as the provisions of the amended articles would be lawful if contained in original articles filed at the time of the amendment. In addition, the amended articles may contain any provisions authorized to change its status [see discussion in § 14.221[1][b][iii]]. The articles may also contain any provisions necessary to effect a change in the rights of members or an exchange, reclassification, or cancellation of memberships [Corp. Code § 12500(a)].

A corporation may not amend its articles to alter any statement contained in the original articles of the names and addresses of the first directors or the initial agent, except to correct an error or to delete the names and addresses after filing an annual statement [Corp. Code § 12500(b); see Corp. Code § 12570].

[i] Extending Term of Existence

A consumer co-op formed for a limited period may extend the term of its corporate existence by amending its articles to remove any provision limiting the term of its existence and provide for perpetual existence. The amendment may be made at any time prior to expiration of the term of corporate existence [Corp. Code § 12509].

[ii] Changing Status of Co-Op

A consumer co-op may amend its articles to change its status to that of a public benefit corporation, a mutual benefit corporation, a religious corporation, or a business corporation. Unless the corporation has no members, the amendment must be either (1) approved by the members [see Corp. Code § 12224(b)] and the fairness of the amendment to members approved by the Commissioner of Corporations [see Corp. Code § 25142], or (2) approved by 100 percent of the voting power [Corp. Code § 12504(b)].

The amended articles must include the provisions that would have been required in original articles filed by the type of corporation to which the co-op is being converted, and may include any provisions that such a corporation could include in its original articles of incorporation [Corp. Code § 12504(c)]. If the corporation is changing its status to a public benefit corporation, it must provide an additional copy of the certificate of amendment to the Secretary of State to be forwarded to the Attorney General [Corp. Code § 12504(d)].

[c] Approval Requirements

[i] Incorporators

An amendment may be adopted by a writing signed by a majority of the incorporators when no directors were named in the original articles, no directors have been elected, and the corporation has no members [Corp. Code § 12501]. When the incorporators adopt amendments, the certificate must be signed and verified by a majority of the incorporators. It must state that the signers constitute a majority of the incorporators, that directors were not named in the original articles and have not been elected, that the corporation has no members, and that the signers adopt the amendments set forth [Corp. Code § 12506].

For a general form for a certificate of amendment by incorporators, see Ch. 10, Articles of Incorporation, § 10.200[1].

[ii] Board and Members

An amendment may be adopted by the board alone if it (1) extends the corporate existence or makes existence perpetual for a corporation organized before August 14, 1929; (2) deletes the names and addresses of the first directors or the name and address of the initial agent; or (3) is made at a time when the corporation has no members [Corp. Code § 12502]. All other amendments, except those requiring class approval [see § 14.221[1][c][iii]], may be adopted if approved by the board and the members [Corp. Code § 12502(a); see Corp. Code §§ 12222, 12224 ("approval" defined)].

[iii] Class Members

An amendment must also be approved by the members [see Corp. Code § 12224 (definition)] of a class, whether or not the articles entitle the class to vote, if the amendment would do any of the following [Corp. Code § 12503]:

(1) Materially and adversely affect the rights, privileges, preferences, restrictions, or conditions of that class as to voting, dissolution, redemption, or transfer, or the obligations of that class, in a different manner than the action affects another class;

(2) Materially and adversely affect the class as to voting, dissolution, redemption, or transfer by changing the rights, privileges, preferences, restrictions, or conditions of another class;

(3) Increase the number of memberships authorized for that class;

(4) Increase the number of memberships authorized for another class;

(5) Effect an exchange, reclassification, or cancellation of all or part of the memberships of that class; or

(6) Authorize a new class of memberships.

[iv] Approval Requirements in Articles

If, for corporate action, the articles require the approval of a particular class of members, all the votes of any class or a larger proportion than required by law, or approval of all of the directors or a larger proportion than is required by law, the article provision regarding votes may not be altered, amended, or repealed except as provided in the articles [Corp. Code § 12502].

[d] Certificate of Amendment

[i] Contents

After adopting an amendment, the corporation must file an "officers' certificate" with the Secretary of State [Corp. Code § 12505(a)]. An officers' certificate is a certificate that is signed and verified by the chair of the board, president, or any vice president; and by the secretary, chief financial officer, treasurer, any assistant secretary, or assistant treasurer [Corp. Code § 12241].

The certificate must state that the wording of the amendment or amended articles is in accordance with law [see Corp. Code § 12507], and that the amendment has been approved by the board [Corp. Code § 12505(a)(1), (2); see Corp. Code § 12222 (approval defined)]. If the amendment requires approval of the members or 100 percent of the voting power, the certificate must state that the amendment was approved by the required vote of members [Corp. Code § 12505(a)(3)]. If the amendment may be adopted by approval of the board alone, the certificate must give a statement of the facts entitling the board alone to adopt the amendment [Corp. Code § 12505(a)(4)]. If the articles are amended pursuant to a merger, an officers' certificate and merger agreement of the surviving corporation [see Corp. Code § 12535] must be filed in lieu of the certificate of amendment [Corp. Code § 12505(b)].

[ii] Wording of Amendment

The certificate of amendment must establish the wording of the amendment or amended articles by one or more of the following means: (1) by stating that the articles will be amended to read as set forth in full, (2) by stating that any provision of the articles (identified by the designation given in the articles or stating the wording) will be stricken from the articles or amended to read as set forth in the certificate, or (3) by stating that the provisions set forth will be added to the articles. If the purpose of the amendment is to reclassify, cancel, exchange, or otherwise change outstanding memberships, the amended articles must state their effect on outstanding memberships [Corp. Code § 12507].

[e] Restated Articles of Incorporation

A corporation may restate in a single certificate the entire text of its articles as amended by filing an officers' certificate [see Corp. Code § 12241] entitled "Restated Articles of Incorporation of _____ [name of corporation]." The certificate must set forth the articles as amended to the date of filing. The signatures and acknowledgments of the incorporators, any statements regarding the effect of prior amendments on membership, any provisions of agreements of merger, and the names, addresses, signatures, and acknowledgments of the first directors and of the initial agent for service of process must be omitted. These omissions are not alterations or amendments of the articles. The certificate itself may also alter or amend the articles in any respect, as long as the contents and form comply with the general requirements for an officers' certificate [Corp. Code § 12510(a); see Corp. Code §§

12505-12507].

If the certificate itself does not alter or amend the articles in any respect, it must be approved by the board [see Corp. Code § 12222] and is subject to the law regarding amendments not requiring approval of the members. If it does alter or amend the articles, it is subject to the law relating to type the amendments made [Corp. Code § 12510(b)]. Restated articles supersede the original articles and any amendments to them for all purposes [Corp. Code § 12510(c)]. For a discussion of restated articles generally, see Ch. 10, Articles of Incorporation , § 10.220 et seq.

[f] Verification

The certificate of amendment must be signed and verified [Corp. Code § 12241]. "Verified" means that the statements contained in the certificate are declared to be true of the own knowledge of the persons executing it, either in an affidavit signed by them under oath before an officer authorized to administer oaths or in a written declaration executed by them under penalty of perjury and stating the date and place of execution [Corp. Code § 12251]. An affidavit sworn to outside California before a notary public, judge, or clerk of a court of record with an official seal need not be further authenticated [Corp. Code § 12251].

[g] Filing Fees

The fee for filing a certificate of amendment is stated in Gov. Code § 12186(p). The Secretary of State will certify up to two copies without charge if the copies are submitted with the original for filing [Corp. Code § 12185].

PART IV. FORMS
C. Bylaws

7-14 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 14.240

§ 14.240 Bylaws for Consumer Cooperative Cooperation

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a set of bylaws for a consumer co-op. Many of the bylaw provisions of a consumer co-op are substantially similar to those of a corporation formed under the Mutual Benefit Corporations Law [see Corp. Code §§ 7110-8910]. For bylaws of a mutual benefit corporation, see § 13.212. For a detailed discussion of bylaws generally, see Ch. 4, Bylaws .

[b] Adoption of Bylaws--By the Board

Except as otherwise provided by law [see Corp. Code § 12330(a)], the board of directors may adopt, amend, or repeal bylaws unless that action would (1) materially and adversely affect the rights or obligations of members as to voting, dissolution, redemption, transfer, distributions, patronage distributions, patronage, property rights, or rights to repayment of contributed capital; (2) increase or decrease the number or members authorized in total or for any class; (3) effect an exchange, reclassification, or cancellation of all or part of the memberships; or (4) authorize a new class of membership [Corp. Code § 12330(a)].

The articles or bylaws may restrict or eliminate the power of the board to adopt, amend, or repeal any or all bylaws, subject to bylaw voting requirements [Corp. Code § 12230(c); see Corp. Code § 12231(e)]. The bylaws may also provide that repeal or amendment of the bylaws (or of specified portions of the bylaws) may occur only with the approval in writing of specified person or persons other than the board or members [see Corp. Code § 12330(d)].

[i] By Approval of the Members

Bylaws may be adopted, amended, or repealed by approval of the members [see Corp. Code § 12224 (definition of "approval of members")]. However, approval of the members of a class is also required if the action would do any of the following [Corp. Code § 12330(b)]:

(1) Materially and adversely affect the rights or obligations of that class as to voting, dissolution, redemption, transfer, distributions, patronage distributions, patronage, property rights, or rights to repayment of contributed capital, in a manner different than that action affects another class;

(2) Materially and adversely affect that class as to voting, dissolution, redemption, transfer, distributions, patronage distributions, patronage, property rights, or rights to repayment of contributed capital, by changing the rights, privileges, preferences, restrictions, or conditions of another class;

(3) Increase or decrease the number of memberships authorized for that class;

(4) Increase the number of memberships authorized for another class;

(5) Effect an exchange, reclassification, or cancellation of all or part of the memberships of that class; or

(6) Authorize a new class of memberships.

After members have been admitted, a bylaw provision that changes a fixed number of directors, changes the maximum or minimum number, or changes a fixed board to a variable one or vice versa can only be adopted by approval of the members [Corp. Code § 12331(b)].

[c] Required Bylaw Provisions

[i] In General

The bylaws must state the number of directors of the co-op, the method of determining the number of directors, or that the number of directors must not be less than a stated minimum or more than a stated maximum, with the exact number to be fixed by approval of the board or members [see Corp. Code §§ 12222, 12224 (approval defined); see also Section 3.01 of Form] subject to bylaw voting requirements [Corp. Code § 12331(a); see Corp. Code § 12331(e)]. The number of directors cannot be less than three. If alternate directors are provided for, the bylaws must specify the manner and times of their election and the conditions to their service in place of a director [Corp. Code § 12331(a)].

[ii] Member's Share of Capital

Either the bylaws or the articles must prescribe the manner of determining each member's share of the capital of the co-op contributed by the members, and if repayable, the time and manner for its repayment [Corp. Code § 12445(a); see Section 1.09of Form]. This form provides that the only capital contributions will be made by members through membership fees [see Sections 1.04, 1.09 of Form]. Some co-ops, depending on the nature of their business, may require additional start-up capital to be provided through bank financing or additional member contributions.

This form provides that a member's share of capital will be determined simply by dividing the total capital by the total number of memberships, less outstanding obligations owed to the co-op by that member [see Section 1.09 of Form]. However, co-ops formed with a more complex capital structure may wish to provide a method for determining each member's share of capital based on that member's actual capital contributions.

[iii] Valuation of Member's Interest

The bylaws or articles must also prescribe the manner of determining the value, if any, of the member's interest in the co-op apart from contributed capital, and the time and manner of the co-op's purchase, if required, of that interest from a terminated member [Corp. Code § 12445(b)]. This form contains alternative provisions, allowing a co-op to grant members some or no additional interest in the co-op. It provides that upon dissolution, the co-op will distribute any corporate assets remaining after payment of all known debts and liabilities among all members equally [see Corp. Code § 12656; see also Section 1.10 of Form]. Co-ops formed with unequal member contributions may provide for unequal distribution of assets upon dissolution.

[d] Optional Bylaw Provisions

[i] In General

The bylaws may contain any provision, not in conflict with law or the articles, for the management of the activities and for the conduct of the affairs of the co-op. They may include, but are not limited to, the following [Corp. Code § 12331(c)]:

(1) Any of the permissible provisions that could be included in the articles of incorporation [see Corp. Code § 12313(c)].

(2) The time, place, and manner of calling, conducting, and giving notice of members', directors', and committee meetings, or of conducting mail ballots [see Sections 2.01 -2.12, 3.07 -3.15 of Form]. This form requires notice to be given within the period prescribed by Corporations Code Sections 12461 (members' meetings) and 12351 (directors' meetings).

(3) The qualifications, duties, and compensation of directors [see Sections 3.02, 3.06 of Form].

(4) The time of the election of directors [see Section 3.04 of Form].

(5) The requirements of a quorum for directors' and committee meetings [see Section 3.12 of Form].

(6) The appointment of committees (composed of directors, nondirectors, or both) by the board or any officer, and the authority of those committees [see Section 3.16 of Form].

(7) The appointment, duties, compensation, and tenure of officers [see Sections 4.01, 4.02 of Form].

(8) The mode for determining members of record [see Sections 2.06, 2.13 of Form]. This form requires the record date to be fixed in accordance with Corporations Code Section 12481.

(9) The making of reports and financial statements to members [see Sections 5.02, 5.03 of Form].

(10) Setting, imposing, and collecting dues, assessments, and membership and transfer fees [see Sections 1.04, 1.05 of Form].

(11) The time and manner of patronage distributions [see Sections 7.01, 7.02 of Form].

[ii] Members and Memberships

The bylaws may provide for eligibility, manner of admission, withdrawal, suspension, and expulsion of members, and the suspension or termination of memberships [Corp. Code § 12331(d); see Sections 1.02 -1.04, 1.10 -1.12 of Form]. They may limit the number of members, in total or of any class, that the co-op is authorized to admit [Corp. Code § 12331(f)].

[iii] Education

The bylaws may provide for the establishment of a program for the education of its members, officers, employees, and the general public in the principles and techniques of cooperation [Corp. Code § 12331(g)].

[iv] Delegates

The bylaws may provide for delegates to have some or all of the authority of members. When delegates are authorized, the bylaws must set forth the delegates' terms of office, any reasonable method for selection and removal, and any reasonable method for calling, noticing, and holding meetings of delegates. Unless directly elected by the membership, they must be elected by a body or bodies directly elected by the membership. Delegates may act personally at a meeting or by written ballot, but not by proxy. They may be given a name other than "delegates" [Corp. Code § 12332].

[v] Voting

The bylaws may require that any or all corporate actions be approved by all or a larger proportion of the members (or any class, unit, or grouping of members) than that required by law. They may also require the vote of all or a larger proportion of the directors than is required by law. A bylaw provision of this type cannot be altered, amended, or repealed except by that larger vote, unless otherwise provided in the bylaws [Corp. Code § 12331(e)].

The bylaws may also provide for voting by the members or delegates on the basis of chapter or other organizational unit, or by region or other geographic grouping [Corp. Code § 12333].

[vi] Transfer Provision

The articles or bylaws may specifically provide that proprietary interests in the cooperative corporation that would otherwise escheat to the state pursuant to the Unclaimed Property Law [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1500-1582; see also Ch. 102C, Lost and Unclaimed Property] will become the property of the co-op instead [Corp. Code § 12446]. For this purpose, a "proprietary interest" includes any membership, membership certificate, membership share, or share certificate of any class that represents a proprietary interest in, and is issued by, the corporation, together with all accrued and unpaid dividends and patronage distributions relating to that interest [Corp. Code § 12446(c)]. However, no proprietary interest will become the property of the co-op unless the co-op gives at least 60 days prior notice of a proposed transfer to the affected member (1) by first-class or second-class mail sent to the last address of the member shown on the corporation's records, and (2) by publication in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the co-op has its principal office. Notice given in this manner will be deemed to be actual notice [Corp. Code § 12446(b)(2)]. Furthermore, no proprietary interest will become the property of the co-op if written notice objecting to transfer is received by the corporation from the affected member prior to the date of the proposed transfer [Corp. Code § 12446(b)(3)]. An optional provision containing these requirements is set forth in Section 1.13 of this Form.

[e] Patronage Distributions

In order for a consumer co-op to deduct amounts paid to patrons as patronage dividends or per-unit retain allocations [see discussion in § 14.48[2]], payment must be made in money, property, or a "qualified" written notice of allocation or per-unit retain certificate by the fifteenth day of the ninth month following the close of the taxable year [see I.R.C. § 1382(b)-(d)]. Qualification will occur if the patron obtains or retains membership in the co-op after it has adopted a bylaw providing that membership constitutes consent to be taxed on the distribution [I.R.C. § 1388(c)(2)(B), (h)(2)(B); see I.R.C. § 1385(a)].

The income tax consent form in Section 7.02 of this Form ensures that any payments in the form of allocations will be qualified and thus deductible to the co-op. When consent is obtained through a bylaw provision, the member must receive written notification and copy of that bylaw [see I.R.C. § 1388(c)(2)(B), (h)(2)(B)].

[f] Inspection of Bylaws

The co-op must keep at its principal office in California the original or a copy of the bylaws as amended to date, which must be open to inspection by the members at all reasonable times during office hours. If the co-op has no office in California, it must furnish to any member upon written request a copy of the bylaws as amended to date [Corp. Code § 12340].

(c) The Corporation may issue a new membership certificate in the place of a certificate which has been lost, stolen, or destroyed. [Optional]

Escheat of Membership to State

Section 1.13. Any membership of a member, together with any accrued and unpaid dividends and patronage distributions relating to that membership, that would otherwise escheat to the State of California as unclaimed personal property shall instead become the property of the Corporation if the Corporation gives at least 60 days prior notice of the proposed transfer to the affected member by (1) first-class or second-class mail to the last address of the member shown on the Corporation's records, and (2) by publication in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the Corporation has its principal office. Special Meetings

Section 2.03. Special meetings of members for any lawful purpose may be called by the Board of Directors [or the President or the Chair of the Board or specify other person] or by five percent or more of the members.

Method of Giving Notice

Section 2.05. Notice shall be given either personally, or by mail or other written communication to the address of a member appearing on the books of the corporation or provided by the member. The notice of any meeting at which Directors are to be elected shall include the names of all nominees at the time of giving notice.

Waivers, Consents, and Approvals

Section 2.08. The transactions of a meeting, whether or not validly called and noticed, are valid if a quorum is present and each of the absent members who is entitled to vote, either before or after the meeting, signs a written waiver of notice, a consent to the holding of the meeting, or an approval of the minutes of the meeting. All waivers, consents, and approvals shall be filed with the corporate records or made a part of the minutes of the meeting.

A member's attendance at a meeting shall constitute a waiver of notice of and presence at the meeting, unless the member objects at the beginning of the meeting. However, attendance at a meeting is not a waiver of any right to object to the consideration of matters required to be included in the notice but not included, if an objection is made at the meeting.

Quorum at Meeting

Section 2.09. The lesser of 250 members or members representing 5 percent of the voting power shall constitute a quorum at a meeting of members. Any bylaw amendment to increase the quorum may be adopted only by approval of the members. When a quorum is present, the affirmative vote of the majority of the voting power represented at the meeting and entitled to vote shall be the act of the members, unless provided otherwise by these bylaws or the law.

Loss of Quorum at Meeting

Section 2.10. The members present at a duly called or held meeting at which a quorum is present may continue to transact business until adjournment, notwithstanding the withdrawal of enough members to leave less than a quorum, if the action taken, other than adjournment, is approved by at least a majority of the members required to constitute a quorum.

Adjournment for Lack of Quorum

Section 2.11. In the absence of a quorum, any meeting of members may be adjourned by the vote of a majority of the votes represented in person, but no other business may be transacted except as provided in Section 2.10 of these bylaws.

Adjourned Meetings

Section 2.12. The Corporation may transact any business at an adjourned meeting that could have been transacted at the original meeting. When a meeting is adjourned to another time or place, no notice is required if the time and place are announced at the original meeting. (b) If a membership stands of record in the names of two or more persons, whether fiduciaries, members of a partnership, joint tenants, tenants in common, husband and wife as community property, tenants by the entirety, persons entitled to vote under a voting agreement, or otherwise, or if two or more persons have the same fiduciary relationship respecting the same membership, unless the Secretary is given written notice to the contrary and furnished with a copy of the instrument or order appointing them or creating the relationship, the vote of one joint holder will bind all, when only one votes, and the vote of the majority will bind all, when more than one joint holder votes.

(c) The record date for determining the members entitled to vote at a meeting or cast written ballots is _____ [number not greater than 60, e.g., 20] days before the date of the meeting or the day on which the first ballot is mailed or solicited.

Use of Written Ballots at Meetings

Section 2.14. A combination of written ballot and personal voting may be used at any regular or special meeting of members, and may be used for the election of Directors. The ballots shall be distributed in a manner consistent with the provisions of Sections 2.05 and 2.19 [add if corporation will have 100 or more members: and 2.17(b)] of these Bylaws. When ballots are distributed, the number of members voting at the meeting by written ballot shall be deemed present at the meeting for purposes of determining a quorum but only with respect to the proposed actions referred to in the ballots.

Contents of Written Ballot Used At Meeting

Section 2.15. Any written ballot used at a meeting shall set forth the proposed action to be taken, provide an opportunity to specify approval or disapproval of the proposed action, and state that unless revoked by the member voting in person, the ballot will be counted if received by the corporation on or before the time of the meeting.

Action by Ballot Without Meeting

Section 2.16. Any action that may be taken at any regular or special meeting, including election of Directors, may be taken without a meeting through distribution of a written ballot to every member entitled to vote on the matter. The Secretary shall cause a vote to be taken by written ballot on any action or recommendation proposed in writing by 20 percent of the members.

Contents of Written Ballot Used Without Meeting

Section 2.17(a). Any ballot used without a meeting shall set forth the proposed action, provide an opportunity to specify approval or disapproval of any proposal, and provide a reasonable time within which to return the ballot to the Corporation.

[Add if co-op will have 100 or members: (b) The form of written ballot distributed to 10 or more members shall afford an opportunity to specify a choice between approval and disapproval of each matter or group of related matters intended, at the time of distribution, to be acted on by the ballot. The form must also provide that whenever the person solicited specifies a choice with respect to any matter, the vote will be cast in accordance with that choice.]

(c) A written ballot cannot be revoked. Approval by written ballot shall be valid only when the number of votes cast by ballot within the time period specified equals or exceeds the quorum required to be present at a meeting authorizing the action, and the number of approvals equals or exceeds the number of votes that would be required to approve at a meeting at which the total number of votes cast was the same as the number of votes cast by ballot.

Solicitation of Written Ballots

Section 2.18. Ballots shall be solicited in a manner consistent with Sections 2.05 and 2.19 [add if corporation will have 100 or more members: and 2.17(b)] of these Bylaws. The solicitations shall indicate the number of responses needed to meet the quorum requirement and specify the time by which the ballot must be received to be counted. Ballots other than for the election of Directors shall state the percentage of approvals necessary to pass the measure.

Withholding Vote

Section 2.19. In an election of Directors, any form of written ballot which names the candidates for director and which the member has marked "withhold" (or otherwise indicated that the authority to vote in the election of directors is withheld) shall not be used for voting in that election

Appointment of Inspectors of Election

Section 2.20. In advance of any meeting of members the Board may appoint inspectors of election to act at the meeting and any adjournment. If inspectors are not appointed or if any appointed persons fail to appear or refuse to act, the chairman of the meeting may, and, on the request of any member, shall, appoint inspectors at the meeting.

The number of inspectors shall be either one or three. If they are appointed at a meeting on the request of one or more members, the majority of members represented in person shall determine the number to be appointed. If there are three inspectors, the decision, act, or certificate of a majority is effective in all respects as that of all three.

Duties of Inspectors of Election

Section 2.21. The inspectors shall determine the number of memberships outstanding and the voting power of each, the number represented at the meeting, and the existence of a quorum. They shall receive votes, ballots, and consents, hear and determine all challenges and questions regarding the right to vote, count and tabulate all votes and consents, determine when the polls will close, and determine the result. They may do those acts which are proper to conduct the election or vote with fairness to all members. The inspectors shall perform these duties impartially, in good faith, to the best of their ability, and as expeditiously as is practical.

(b) When the Corporation distributes any material soliciting a vote for any nominee for director in any publication owned or controlled by the Corporation, it shall make available to each other nominee, in the same material, an equal amount of space with equal prominence to be used by the nominee for a purpose reasonably related to the election. The Corporation shall mail to all members any material related to the election which a nominee for Director has furnished, upon written request and payment of mailing costs by the nominee or allow the nominee to obtain the names, addresses and voting rights of members within five business days after the request.

Notice of special meetings need not be given to any director who signs a waiver of notice, a written consent to holding the meeting, or an approval of the minutes (either before or after the meeting), or who attends the meeting without protesting, prior thereto or at its commencement, the lack of notice to that Director. Section 3.12. A majority of the authorized number of Directors constitutes a quorum for the transaction of business.

Acts of Board at Meetings

Section 3.13. Unless provided otherwise in the Articles, these Bylaws, or by law, every act or decision done or made by a majority of the Directors present at a duly held meeting at which a quorum is present is the act of the Board. A meeting at which a quorum is initially present may continue to transact business notwithstanding the withdrawal of Directors, if any action taken is approved by at least a majority of the required quorum for the meeting or a greater number required by the articles, bylaws, or by law.

Adjournment of Meetings

Section 3.15. Any action required or permitted to be taken by the Board may be taken without a meeting, if all Directors individually or collectively consent in writing to the action. The consents shall be filed with the minutes of the proceedings of the board. Action by written consent has the same force and effect as a unanimous vote of the Directors.

Executive Committees

Section 3.16(a). The Board may create one or more committees to serve at its pleasure by resolution adopted by a majority of the number of Directors then in office when a quorum is present. Each committee shall consist of two or more Directors, appointed by a majority vote of the Directors then in office.

(b) Any executive committee, to the extent provided in the resolution of the Board, shall have all the authority of the Board, except with respect to the following actions:

If the Corporation has fewer than 50 members, the removal shall be approved by an affirmative vote or written ballot of a majority of the votes entitled to be cast. Cause of Vacancies on Board

Section 3.19. Vacancies on the Board of Directors shall exist on the death, resignation, or removal of any Director; whenever the number of Directors is authorized; whenever the Board declares an office vacant pursuant to Section 3.20 of these Bylaws; and on the failure of the members to elect the full number of Directors authorized.

The officers of the Corporation shall be a _____[specify Chair of the Board or a President or both], a Secretary, a Treasurer or a Chief Financial Officer or both, and any other officer with the titles and duties as determined by the Board and as may be necessary to enable it to sign instruments. The President [or, if none, Chair of the Board] is the Chief Executive Officer of the Corporation. If there is no Chief Financial Officer, the treasurer is the chief financial officer of the corporation, unless otherwise provided for in the articles or bylaws. The same person may hold any number of offices. The Chair of the Board [or President] shall be elected from among the Appointment and Resignation

Section 4.02. The officers shall be chosen by the Board and serve at the pleasure of the Board, subject to the rights, if any, of an officer under any contract of employment. ARTICLE V. CORPORATE RECORDS AND REPORTS

Required Records

Section 5.01. The Corporation shall keep adequate and correct books and records of account and minutes of the proceedings of its members, Board, and committees of the Board. It shall also keep a record of the members, including the names, addresses, class of membership, and number of membership units held by each. The minutes shall be kept in written form. Other books and records shall be kept either in written form or in any other form capable of being converted into written form.

Annual Report

Section 5.02.(a) For fiscal years in which the Corporation has, at any time, more than 25 members, the Corporation shall notify each member yearly of the member's right to receive an annual financial report. The Board shall promptly cause the most recent annual report to be sent to a member on written request. The annual report shall be prepared no later than 120 days after the close of the Corporation's fiscal year.

(b) The annual report shall contain in appropriate detail all of the following: (1) a balance sheet as of the end of the fiscal year, an income statement, and statement of changes in financial position for the fiscal year; (2) a statement of the place where the names and addresses of the current members are located; and (3) the statement required by Section 5.03 of these Bylaws.

(c) The annual report shall be accompanied by any pertinent report by independent accountants, or, if there is no such report, by the certificate of an authorized officer of the Corporation that the statements were prepared without audit from the books and records of the corporation.

Annual Statement of Transactions and Indemnifications

Section 5.03. In addition to the annual report described in Section 5.02, the Corporation shall furnish annually to its members and Directors a statement of the transactions and indemnifications to interested persons as required by law. If the Corporation does not issue an annual report pursuant to Section 5.02 of these Bylaws, the statement shall be mailed or delivered to members within 120 days after the close of the fiscal year.

ARTICLE VI. INSPECTION RIGHTS

Articles and Bylaws

Section 6.01. The Corporation shall keep at its principal office in California the original or a copy of its articles and bylaws as amended to date, which shall be open to inspection by the members at all reasonable times during office hours. If the Corporation has no office in California, it shall furnish on the written request of any member a copy of the articles or bylaws as amended to date.

Books and Records

Section 6.02. The accounting books and records and minutes of proceedings of the members, the Board, and committees of the Board shall be open to inspection on the written demand of any member at any reasonable time, for a purpose reasonably related to that person's interests as a member.

Every Director has the absolute right at any reasonable time to inspect and copy all books, records, and documents of every kind, and to inspect the physical properties of the Corporation.

Inspection of Membership List

Section 6.02(a). Subject to the Corporation's right to set aside a member's demand for inspection pursuant to Section 12601 of the Corporations Code and the power of the court to limit inspection rights pursuant to Section 12602 of the Corporations Code, and unless the Corporation provides a reasonable alternative pursuant to Section 6.02(c) of these Bylaws, a member may do either or both of the following:

(1) Inspect and copy the record of all the members' names, addresses, and voting rights, at reasonable times, on making a written demand five business days in advance which states the purpose for which the inspection rights are requested;

(2) Obtain from the Secretary, upon written demand and tender of a reasonable charge, a list of the names, addresses, and voting rights of those members entitled to vote for the election of Directors, as of the most recent record date for which it has been compiled, or as of a date specified by the member subsequent to the date of demand. The demand shall state the purpose for which the list is requested. The membership list shall be made available on or before the later of ten business days after the demand is received or after the date specified as the date as of which the list is to be compiled.

(b) Any member or members possessing 5 percent or more of the voting power may demand the list for a purpose reasonably related to the members' interests as members. The Corporation may deny access if it reasonably believes that the information shall be used for another purpose or if it provides a reasonable alternative pursuant to Section 6.02(c) of these Bylaws.

(c) The Corporation may, within ten days after receiving a demand, deliver a written offer of an alternative method of achieving the purpose identified in the demand without providing access to or a copy of the membership list. An alternative method which reasonably and in a timely manner accomplishes the proper purpose set forth in a demand made pursuant to Section 6.02(a) of these Bylaws shall be a reasonable alternative, unless the Corporation fails to do the things which it offered to do within a reasonable time after acceptance of the offer. Any rejection of the offer shall be in writing and indicate the reasons the proposed alternative does not meet the proper purpose of the demand.

ARTICLE VII. PATRONAGE DISTRIBUTIONS

Time and Manner of Distribution

Section 7.01. The Corporation may make "patronage distributions" to each person who _____ [purchases goods or services from the Corporation or whose products or services are marketed, processed, or handled by the Corporation]. The amount of any patronage distribution shall be computed with reference to the volume or value (or both) of each person's _____ [purchase of products from or use of the services of the Corporation or products or services provided to the Corporation for marketing], and with reference to the net earnings of the Corporation from business done with or for those persons. The time and manner of patronage distributions shall be determined on an annual basis by the Board of Directors.

Income Tax Consent

Section 7.02. Each person who obtains membership in the Corporation on the effective date of this Bylaw or who continues as a member after that date, consents, by that act alone, to take into account in the manner provided in Section 1385(a) of the Internal Revenue Code in the taxable year in which received from the Corporation:

7-14 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 14.260

§ 14.260 Disclosure Statement

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form contains the disclosure provisions that must be included in any membership certificates issued by a consumer co-op or disclosure documents issued to persons purchasing memberships for consideration. It contains alternative provisions allowing the co-op to either state verbatim all required disclosures or to provide the member with the source for obtaining the information. For a checklist of information required in the disclosure document and membership certificate, see § 14.160, P 2.

[b] Issuance of Disclosure Document--In General

Prior to issuing a membership, the co-op must provide the purchaser with a disclosure document in the form of a prospectus, offering circular, brochure or similar document, a specimen copy of the membership certificate, or a receipt that the co-op proposes to issue [Corp. Code § 12401(b)]. Since the statutory requirement applies only to "purchasers," no disclosure document need be provided to persons who do not purchase a membership for consideration. The co-op need not provide a document to an existing member prior who purchases additional memberships if that member was previously provided with a disclosure document that is accurate and correct as of the date the additional memberships are purchased [Corp. Code § 12401(e)].

[i] Required Provisions

The disclosure document must contain a statement that the co-op is a cooperative corporation [Corp. Code § 12401(b)(1)]. It must state that that a copy of the articles and bylaws will be furnished free of charge to a member or prospective member upon written request, and include the address of the office of the co-op and the address to which a written request should be directed [Corp. Code § 12401(b)(2)]. The document must also state whether the membership is redeemable and the conditions under which the membership may be redeemed at the option of the co-op or the member [Corp. Code § 12401(b)(6)].

Other statements are required only as applicable. If the co-op imposes restrictions on transfer of the membership [see § 14A.201, Section 2.05], the document must contain a statement to that effect and state the restrictions imposed [Corp. Code § 12401(b)(3)]. If the co-op may levy dues, assessments, or membership or transfer fees, the document must include a statement to that effect and the conditions under which the co-op may make the levy [Corp. Code § 12401(b)(4)]. If the member is required to contribute services to the co-op, the document must contain a statement to that effect and include the amount and nature of the services to be contributed [Corp. Code § 12401(b)(5)]. Finally, if the voting power or the proprietary interests of the members is unequal [see Corp. Code § 12314], the document must include a statement to that effect and the rules by which the voting power and proprietary rights are to be determined [Corp. Code § 12401(b)(7)].

[ii] Alternative Statement

As an alternative to a verbatim description of any transfer restrictions, conditions of levy, amount and nature of services to be contributed, conditions under which memberships are redeemable, or the rules by which the voting power and proprietary rights of members are to be determined, the disclosure document may contain a statement that the specified information will be provided free of charge to a member or prospective member who requests it in writing. When the disclosure document contains this alternative statement, it must also set forth the address of the office of the co-op and the address to which the request is to be directed [Corp. Code § 12401(b)(8)].

[c] Disclosure in Membership Certificates

[i] Requirements

A consumer co-op may issue membership certificates, but is not required to do so. If certificates are issued, they must contain the same mandatory information regarding membership rights and restrictions that is required in disclosure documents [see Corp. Code § 12401(a)].

[ii] Issuance of New Certificates

If the articles or bylaws are amended so that the disclosure statement on outstanding membership certificates is no longer accurate, the board of directors may cancel the outstanding certificates and issue in their place new certificates conforming to the amended articles or bylaws [Corp. Code § 12401(c)]. When the new certificates are issued, the board may order holders of outstanding certificates to surrender and exchange them for new certificates within a reasonable time fixed by the board. The board may provide that, upon notice of the order, the membership rights of a certificate holder will be suspended until the certificate is surrendered. Those rights may only be suspended after notice of the order is given to the certificate holder and only until the certificate is surrendered. The board may enforce its surrender order by civil action [Corp. Code § 12401(d)].

A transferee of a membership certificate is entitled to a disclosure statement that is accurate and correct as of the date the transfer is registered. If the corporation has not issued new certificates correcting an inaccurate statement, and if the transferee has not already been provided with an accurate statement, the co-op must provide the transferee with an accurate statement upon registration of the transfer [Corp. Code § 12401(f)].

Scope

Scope

This chapter covers the formation of agricultural nonprofit cooperative associations ("agricultural co-ops") pursuant to Chapter 1, Division 20 of the Food and Agricultural Code [Food & Agric. Code §§ 54001-54294]. It includes coverage of cooperative bargaining associations [Food & Agric. Code §§ 54401-54463] but does not discuss fish marketing associations, a specific form of cooperative association [see Corp. Code §§ 13200-13356]. The Legal Background contains a discussion of the nature and formation of agricultural co-ops, including state and federal tax treatment. The Transaction Guide contains a checklist of procedures required for incorporation, and the Forms include the forms necessary for that process.

For a detailed discussion of nonprofit organizations, see Ch. 13A, Nonprofit Unincorporated Associations . The tax aspects of nonprofit organizations, and procedures for obtaining tax-exempt status, are covered in Ch. 13B, Tax-Exempt Status for Nonprofit Entities . Nonprofit corporations are discussed in Ch. 13, Nonprofit Corporations . Consumer cooperative corporations are covered in Ch. 14, Consumer Cooperative Corporations .

CHAPTER 14A AGRICULTURAL NONPROFIT COOPERATIVE ASSOCIATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-14A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 14A.30

§ 14A.30 Governing Law

Federal law authorizes persons engaged in the production of agricultural products as farmers, planters, ranchmen, dairymen, or nut or fruit growers to act together in associations to collectively process, handle, and market their products in interstate and foreign commerce, subject to certain restrictions [see 7 U.S.C. § 291; see also § 14A.33]. Food & Agric. Code §§ 54001-54294 provide the corporate vehicle through which agricultural producers may form these associations.

The General Corporation Law [Corp. Code §§ 100-2319] applies to agricultural co-ops except when its provisions are inconsistent with the provisions of the Food and Agricultural Code [Food & Agric. Code § 54040]. Agricultural co-ops are specifically exempted from the qualification requirements of the Corporate Securities Law [see Food & Agric. Code § 54201; Corp. Code § 25100(m); see also Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, 25130].

CHAPTER 14A AGRICULTURAL NONPROFIT COOPERATIVE ASSOCIATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-14A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 14A.31

§ 14A.31 Nature of Agricultural Co-Ops

[1] In General

An agricultural co-op is organized to make a profit only for its members as producers of agricultural products, not for itself as such or its members as such [Food & Agric. Code § 54033]. An agricultural "product" includes any horticultural, viticultural, aquacultural, forestry, dairy, livestock, poultry, bee, or farm product [Food & Agric. Code § 54004]. The co-op may engage in any activity connected with the production and marketing of its products, or with the purchase, use, or financing of supplies or equipment [Food & Agric. Code § 54171]. The co-op may make marketing contracts with its members that require members to sell all or part of their products exclusively to or through the association [Food & Agric. Code § 54261]. The association may establish reserves, commonly structured as "Revolving Funds" [see § 14A.201[1][e]], and invest the funds from the reserves [see Food & Agric. Code § 54175].

[2] Stock or Nonstock Co-Ops

An agricultural association may be organized with or without shares of stock [Food & Agric. Code § 54081(e), (f)]. Most agricultural co-ops are organized without stock so that the property interests of members will be tied solely to the members' contribution to production [see Kerner, Securities and Capital Structures of Farmer Cooperatives in California, 19 Hastings L.J. 309 (1968); see also Note, Farmworker Production Cooperatives: the Property Interests of Members, 11 U.C.D. L. Rev. 661 (1978)]. The majority of agricultural co-ops with stock were organized under the General Corporation Law and later amended their articles to come within the purview of the Food and Agricultural Code [see Food & Agric. Code § 54291; see also § 14A.200[1][f]].

In an association organized without stock, the voting and property rights of members can be equal or unequal [Food & Agr. Code § 54081(e)]. Thus, unlike the rights of stockholders, which are definite and fixed, the voting rights of members can be made flexible and dependent on the amount of products grown and marketed through the association by each member during specified intervals of time. Although the association does not issue stock shares, its members are deemed to be "shareholders" for purposes of applying the General Corporation Law [Food & Agric. Code § 54040].

If an association is organized with stock, it may limit in its bylaws the amount of common stock that any member may own [Food & Agric. Code § 54236]. The association can not issue a stock certificate to a member until full payment has been made [Food & Agric. Code § 54235].

[3] Directors and Management

The corporation's affairs are managed by a board of not less than three directors who are elected by the members [Food & Agric. Code § 54141]. The number of directors may be fixed or variable [Food & Agric. Code § 54116(b)]. Unlike a corporation organized under the General Corporations Law, in which the directors are ordinarily elected for one-year terms [see Corp. Code § 301], the directors of an agricultural co-op may serve for terms of varying length. The bylaws may provide for an executive committee with all the powers and functions of the board [Food & Agric. Code § 54146]. The board of directors must elect a president, one or more vice presidents, a secretary, a treasureer, and any other officers prescribed by the bylaws [Food & Agric. Code § 54149].

[4] Cooperative Bargaining Associations

A cooperative bargaining association is a particular type of co-op formed for the purpose of group bargaining between its producer members and the first handler or processor with respect to the sale of any agricultural commodity except milk, cotton, or cottonseed. It is organized and functions in the same manner as any other agricultural co-op [Food & Agric. Code § 54001; see § 14A.204].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-14A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 14A.32

§ 14A.32 Formation of Agricultural Co-Op

[1] Requirements

A minimum of three natural persons who are engaged in the production of any product [see Food & Agric. Code § 54004], the majority of whom are California residents, is necessary to form an agricultural co-op. The co-op may be formed for the purpose of engaging in any activity connected with any one or more of the following [Food & Agric. Code § 54061]:

- The marketing, or selling of its members' products.
- The harvesting, preserving, drying, processing, canning, packing, grading, storing, handling, shipping, or utilization of any product of its members, or the manufacturing or making of the byproducts of any product of its members.
- The manufacturing, selling, or supplying to its members of machinery, equipment, or supplies.
- The financing of any of the above activities.

The co-op is formed by signing, acknowledging, and filing articles of incorporation with the Secretary of State in the manner prescribed by the General Corporation Law [Food & Agric. Code § 54082; see Corp. Code § 200(a)]. For a discussion of those requirements, see Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation, § 3.10 et seq.

[2] Articles of Incorporation

The articles of incorporation of an agricultural co-op must show that its signatories are engaged in the production of agricultural products [see Food & Agric. Code § 54004 (definition)] and that they propose to incorporate an association pursuant to Food & Agric. Code §§ 54001-54294 [Food & Agric. Code § 54081]. The articles must also state the name of the co-op, the purpose for which it is formed, the county where its principal business office is located, the number of directors (which must be not less than three), and the names and addresses of the persons serving as the first directors, as well as their terms of office if those terms are of differing length [Food & Agric. Code § 54081(a)-(d)]. Additional requirements concern the issuance of stock, or members' voting and property rights if the co-op is organized without stock [see Food & Agric. Code § 54081(e), (f); see also § 14A.141, P 1(a)(9), (10)].

[3] Bylaws

An agricultural co-op must adopt a code of bylaws for its government and management within 30 days after incorporation. The vote or written assent of shareholders or members holding a majority of the voting power is required to adopt the bylaws [Food & Agric. Code § 54111]. For further discussion of the adoption of bylaws, see § 14A.201[1].

CHAPTER 14A AGRICULTURAL NONPROFIT COOPERATIVE ASSOCIATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-14A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 14A.33

§ 14A.33 Exemptions From Antitrust Laws

The Capper-Volstead Act [7 U.S.C. §§ 291, 292] and the Clayton Act [15 U.S.C. § 17] exempt agricultural co-ops from the federal antitrust laws. Persons collectively engaged in producing agricultural products may act together in associations to prepare and market those products, to have marketing agencies in common, and to make the necesary contracts, provided the associations are operated for the mutual benefit of the members as producers. However, no member of an exempt association may have more than one vote because of membership capital owned, the association cannot pay dividends on membership capital exceeding 8 percent, and the association may not deal in nonmembers' products in an amount greater in value than products handled by it for members [see 7 U.S.C. § 291].

California law specifically states that any association organized pursuant to the agricultural association chapter of the Food and Agricultural Code [see Food & Agric. Code §§ 54001-54294] is not a conspiracy, a combination in restraint of trade, an illegal monopoly, or an attempt to lessen competition, arbitrarily fix prices, or create an unlawful combination or pool [Food & Agric. Code § 54038]. In addition, state law provides that marketing contracts and agreements between that association and its members are not illegal, in restraint of trade, or contrary to any law against combinations or pooling [Food & Agric. Code § 54039]. Specific rules govern unfair trade practices by and against cooperative bargaining associations [see Food & Agric. Code §§ 54431-54435; see also § 14A.204[1]].

Despite these exemptions, agricultural co-ops are not completely immune from the antitrust laws. The Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to take action against an association that unlawfully monopolizes or acts in restraint of trade in violation of the Sherman Act [7 U.S.C. § 292; see 15 U.S.C. §§ 1-7] and the Federal Trade Commission also has jurisdiction to challenge allegedly monopolistic practices [Sunkist Growers, Inc. v. Federal Trade Comm'n (C.D. Cal. 1979) 464 F. Supp. 302, 311] .

CHAPTER 14A AGRICULTURAL NONPROFIT COOPERATIVE ASSOCIATIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-14A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 14A.34

§ 14A.34 Federal Income Taxation

[1] Classification as Exempt or Nonexempt

For federal income tax purposes, agricultural co-ops (termed "farmers' cooperatives" in the Internal Revenue Code) are divided into "exempt" and "nonexempt" categories, although under present law neither are exempt from income taxation [see I.R.C. § 1381(b)]. The taxation of exempt and nonexempt associations is identical except for two additional deductions allowed to exempt associations [see § 14A.34[4]].

The Internal Revenue Service defines exempt farmers' cooperatives as farmers', fruit growers', or like associations organized and operated on a cooperative basis for the purpose of either (1) marketing the products of members or other producers, and returning to them the proceeds of sales, less necessary marketing expenses, on the basis of the quantity or value of products furnished by them, or (2) purchasing supplies and equipment for the use of members or other persons, and returning those supplies and equipment to them at actual cost, plus necessary expenses [I.R.C. § 521(b)(1)]. A nonexempt association is any other corporation that operates on a cooperative basis and allocates amounts to patrons on the basis of the business done with or for those patrons [see I.R.C. § 1381(a); Treas. Reg. § 1.1381-1(a); see also § 14A.34[2]].

To establish its exempt status, an association must file an application for recognition of exemption [Treas. Reg. § 1.521-1(e); see § 14A.205]. Exempt status will not be denied because the association has capital stock, as long as the dividend rate on that stock is fixed at an amount not exceeding the legal interest rate in the state of incorporation or 8 percent, whichever is higher [I.R.C. § 521(b)(2); see Food & Agric. Code § 54120], and substantially all the stock is owned by producers who market their products or purchase their supplies and equipment through the association [I.R.C. § 521(b)(2); see Food & Agric. Code § 54231]. To satisfy this "substantially all" ownership requirement, producers must own at least 85 percent of that stock [Rev. Rul. 73-248, 1973-2 C.B. 295 ; see West. Cent. Co-op v. United States (8th Cir. 1985) 758 F.2d 1269, 1271] . For purposes of applying the 85 percent test, the relevant consideration is whether the right to vote has actually accrued or been terminated by the time of the annual shareholders' meeting following the close of the taxable year [Farmers Coop. Co. v. Commissioner (8th Cir. 1987) 822 F.2d 774, 779] .

The Internal Revenue Service will not deny exempt status because the association computes its net earnings for purposes of determining amounts available for distribution to patrons by netting its patronage gains and losses pursuant to I.R.C. § 1388(j) [I.R.C. § 521(b)(6); see § 14A.34[3]].

The Internal Revenue Service will not deny exempt status because the association has accumulated and maintained a reserve for any necessary purpose [I.R.C. § 521(b)(3)]. Exempt status will not be denied because the association conducts business with nonmembers, as long as the value of nonmember business does not exceed the value of business done with members, and the value of purchases made for nonmembers or nonproducers does not exceed 15 percent of all purchases [I.R.C. § 521(b)(4); see Food & Agric. Code § 54179]. Business done for the United States or one of its agencies is disregarded in determining the amount of business done with nonmembers [I.R.C. § 521(b)(5)].

[2] Deduction of Patronage Dividends

Both exempt and nonexempt associations are entitled to deduct "patronage dividends" in computing taxable income [see I.R.C. §§ 1382(b)(1), 1381(a); see also Treas. Reg. § 1.1382-1(a)]. For a detailed discussion of that deduction, see Ch. 14, Consumer Cooperative Corporations, § 14.48[2].

[3] Netting of Patronage Gains and Losses

An agricultural co-op may opt to net its patronage gains and losses for purposes of determining its net earnings for any taxable year [I.R.C. § 1388(j)]. For further discussion of this option, see Ch. 14, Consumer Cooperative Corporations, § 14.48[3].

[4] Special Deductions for "Exempt" Associations

Exempt associations are entitled to two deductions that are unavailable to nonexempt associations. First, an exempt association is allowed to deduct amounts paid during the taxable year as dividends on its capital stock [I.R.C. § 1382(c)(1)]. Capital stock includes any stock or any other form of capital represented by capital retain certificates, revolving fund certificates, letters of advice, or other evidence of a proprietary interest in a cooperative association.

In addition, an exempt association may deduct amounts paid during the payment period for the taxable year in money, qualified notices of allocation, or other property on a patronage basis to patrons with respect to its earnings during the taxable year which are derived from business done for the United States or from sources other than patronage [I.R.C. § 1382(c)(2)]. Nonpatronage sources are those not directly related to the marketing, purchasing, or service activities of the agricultural association [Treas. Reg. § 1.1382-3(c)(2)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-14A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 14A.35

§ 14A.35 State Income Taxation

All agricultural associations in California are subject to state income tax. However, farmers, fruit growers, and other similar associations organized and operated in whole or in part on a cooperative or mutual basis as marketing or purchasing cooperatives may deduct all income resulting from or arising out of business activities for or with their members carried on by them or their agents, or when done on a nonprofit basis for or with nonmembers [Rev. & Tax. Code § 24404]. "All income resulting from or arising out of" includes all amounts, whether or not derived from patronage, allocated to members during the taxable year. Amounts allocated include cash, merchandise, capital stock, revolving fund certificates, certificates of indebtedness, retain certificates, letters of advice, or written instruments that in some other manner disclose to each member the dollar amount allocated to that member. Allocations made after the close of the taxable year and on or before the fifteenth day of the ninth month following the close of that year will be considered as made on the last day of the taxable year to the extent they are attributable to income derived before the close of the year [Rev. & Tax. Code § 24404].

Nonprofit cooperative associations organized under the Food and Agricultural Code [see Food & Agric. Code § 54001 et seq.] that have been issued the certificate of the board of supervisors [see Food & Agric. Code § 54042] are exempt from the minimum franchise tax for five consecutive taxable years commencing with the first taxable year for which the certificate is issued [Rev. & Tax. Code § 23153(a), (c)(2)].

B. Preliminary Determinations

7-14A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 14A.120

§ 14A.120 Financial Considerations

1. Determine period co-op will use as taxable year.

a. Calendar year.

b. Fiscal year.

2. Determine whether co-op should be organized with or without stock.

NOTE:
Most agricultural co-ops formed today are organized without stock. For a discussion of the choice of a stock or nonstock structure, see § 14A.31[2].

a. If co-op will have a stock structure, determine:
(1) Number of shares.

(2) Whether there should be limitation on number of shares per member.

NOTE:
The bylaws may limit the amount of common stock that any member may own [see Food & Agric. Code § 54236].

(3) Whether shares will be classified.

(4) If shares are classified, what classes and what preferences, restrictions, and number in each class.

b. If co-op is structured without stock, determine:

(1) Whether voting power, property rights, and interests of members will be equal or unequal.

(2) If rights will be unequal, what rules will determine rights.

(3) Whether members will be charged any of following fees:

(a) Entrance, organization, or membership fees [see Food & Agric. Code § 54118].

(b) Annual fees and service charges [see Food & Agric. Code § 54119].

3. Determine whether co-op should use a revolving fund to supply capital.

NOTE:
A revolving fund is a reserve of money temporarily retained from the sale of members' products, used as the co-op's capital base. The proceeds from member's products are withheld and credited to them in lieu of immediate payment. For an explanation of this system, see § 14A.201[1][e].

a. Consider how much capital must be retained during first year to cover operating expenses.

b. Decide whether amount retained should be supplemented with membership fees or business or service changes.

NOTE:

PART IV. FORMS

7-14A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 14A.200

§ 14A.200 Articles of Incorporation of Agricultural Nonprofit Cooperative Association Organized Without Stock

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a set of articles of incorporation for an agricultural nonprofit cooperative association organized without stock. Although agricultural co-ops may be formed with or without stock [see Food & Agric. Code § 5081(e), (f)], today most are formed without stock [see § 14A.31[2]].

An agricultural co-op is formed by signing, acknowledging, and filing these articles with the Secretary of State in the manner prescribed by the General Corporation Law [see Food & Agric. Code § 54082; Corp. Code § 200(a)]. However, the provisions required in the articles of an agricultural co-op differ in several respects from those required for a corporation formed under the General Corporation Law [see Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation] or the Consumer Cooperative Corporation Law [see § 14.200].

[b] Required Provisions

[i] Signatories

A minimum of three persons, a majority of whom are California residents, are necessary to form an agricultural co-op [Food & Agric. Code § 54061]. The articles must show that the signatories of the articles are engaged in the production of horticultural, viticultural, aquacultural, forestry, dairy, livestock, poultry, bee, or farm products [see Food & Agric. Code § 54004 (definition of "product")], and that they propose to incorporate a nonprofit agricultural cooperative association [Food & Agric. Code § 54081].

[ii] Name of Co-Op

The articles must set forth the name of the agricultural co-op [Food & Agric. Code § 54081(a)]. The word "cooperative" may be included in the name [Food & Agric. Code § 54036]. The steps involved in selecting and reserving a name are the same as those for reserving the name of any new corporation organized under the General Corporation Law [see Corp. Code § 201; Food & Agric. Code § 54040; see also § 14A.140].

[iii] Purposes Clause

The articles must state the purposes for which the co-op was formed [Food & Agric. Code § 54081(b)]. However, the Food and Agricultural Code, unlike the General Corporation Law, does not require a specific statement of the corporate purpose [see Corp. Code § 202(a)(1)]. Consequently, this form reiterates all the permissible purposes for which an agricultural co-op may be formed [see Food & Agric. Code § 54061].

[iv] Principal Business Office

The articles must state the county where the principal office for the transaction of business of the co-op is to be located [Food & Agric. Code § 54081(c)].

[v] Initial Agent for Service of Process

Although the Food and Agricultural Code does not require the articles of incorporation to state the co-op's initial agent for service of process, the General Corporation Law applies except when its provisions are in conflict with or inconsistent with the express provisions of that chapter [see Food & Agric. Code § 54040]. Presumably, the absence of this standard provision does not constitute such a conflict or inconsistency and a provision should be set forth pursuant to the General Corporation Law [see Corp. Code § 202(c)].

The General Corporation Law requires that articles of incorporation set forth the name and address in California of a corporation's initial agent for service of process [Corp. Code § 202(c)]. The agent may be a natural person residing in California or a corporation which has filed a required certificate [see Corp. Code § 1505] and whose capacity to act as agent has not terminated. If a natural person is designated, the person's complete business or residence street address must be set forth. If a corporate agent is designated, no address for it must be set forth [Corp. Code § 1502; see Corp. Code § 202(c)].

[vi] Board of Directors

The corporation's affairs are managed by a board of not less than three directors who are elected by the members [Food & Agric. Code § 54141]. The articles must state the number of directors and the name and addresses of the people who will serve as the first directors [Food & Agric. Code § 54081]. The number of directors may be fixed or variable [Food & Agric. Code § 54116(b)]. If the number is fixed, the stated minimum must be not less than three. If the number is variable, the stated minimum must not be less than three and the stated maximum must not be greater than two times the stated minimum minus one [Food & Agric. Code § 54116(b); see Food & Agric. Code § 54081(d)]. When a variable number is set forth in the articles, the exact number of directors must be fixed by approval of the board of directors or the shareholders [see Corp. Code § 153] in the manner set forth in the bylaws [Food & Agric. Code § 54116(e)].

Unlike a corporation organized under the General Corporations Law, in which the directors are ordinarily elected for one-year terms [see Corp. Code § 301], the directors of an agricultural co-op may serve for terms of varying length. If the first directors will serve for terms of different lengths, the articles must state the term for which each named person will serve [Food & Agric. Code § 54081(d)]. However, if the terms of the first directors named in the articles are not specified, those terms will be one-year terms [Food & Agric. Code § 54040; see Corp. Code § 301(a)].

[vii] Nonstock Membership Associations

If the co-op is organized without stock, the articles must state whether the voting power and the property rights and interests of each member are equal or unequal. When those rights are unequal, the articles must include the general rules that are applicable to all members by which the voting power and property rights and interests of each member are determined and fixed [Food & Agric. Code § 54081(e)]. Although the co-op does not issue stock shares, its members are deemed to be "shareholders" for purposes of applying the General Corporation Law [Food & Agric. Code § 54040].

[viii] Stock Associations

If the co-op is organized with stock, the articles must specify the number of shares which may be issued, and if the shares have a par value, the par value of each share and the aggregate par value of all shares. If the shares have no par value, the articles must make a statement to that effect [Food & Agric. Code § 54081(f)].

If the shares are classified, the articles must include a description of the classes of shares, a statement of the number of shares of each kind or class, and a statement of the nature and extent of the preferences, rights, privileges, and restrictions that are granted to or imposed upon the holders of the respective classes of stock. No other distinction may exist between classes of stock or their stockholders [Food & Agric. Code § 54081(f)].

One class of stock must always be known as common stock, and voting power may be restricted to that class [Food & Agric. Code § 54081(f)]. Common stock may only be issued to members who produce any product that is to be handled by or through the co-op, or who use or employ any service or facility offered by the co-op on or in connection with land used for the production of any product [Food & Agric. Code § 54231].

[c] Revolving Funds

Agricultural co-ops may establish reserves and invest the funds of those reserves in bonds or other property authorized in the bylaws [Food & Agric. Code § 54175]. Many co-ops establish "revolving funds" with money retained from sale proceeds of members products, and issue their members credits for the withheld amounts in lieu of immediate payment [see § 14A.201[1][e]]. A provision for a revolving fund is provided in these articles, as well as in the co-op's bylaws [see § 14A.201, Article VI].

[d] Statement of Corporate Powers

The powers that an agricultural co-op may exercise are enumerated in Food and Agric. Code §§ 54171-54182 [see § 14A.141, P 1(b)]. A statement of those corporate powers in the articles of incorporation is not required by statute. However, a statement of corporate powers or any restrictions on them is optional [see Corp. Code § 204(a)(6); Food & Agric. Code § 54040]. The short summary statement of corporate powers included in this form may be deleted or augmented as desired.

[e] Execution, Filing, and Amendment of Articles

The articles of incorporation of an agricultural co-op must be signed, acknowledged, and filed with the Secretary of State in the manner prescribed by the General Corporation Law [see Food & Agric. Code § 54082; Corp. Code § 200(a); see also Ch. 3, Articles of Incorporation]. They may be amended in the manner and for the purposes authorized by the General Corporation Law [Food & Agric. Code § 54083; see Corp. Code §§ 900-911].

[f] Amending Articles to Reorganize Corporation

Any corporation may reorganize as a cooperative corporation by amending its articles to conform with the applicable provisions of the Food and Agricultural Code [Food & Agric. Code § 54291]. Articles will be deemed to conform with the chapter if either (1) they provide or declare in substance that the corporation is organized and exists as a nonprofit cooperative corporation for one or more of the purposes provided in that chapter, or (2) it clearly appears from the articles of incorporation that the corporation desires to be subject to, and to be organized, exist, and function pursuant to that chapter [Food & Agric. Code § 54292]. A corporation that reorganizes in this manner is treated as if it had originally been organized as an agricultural co-op [Food & Agric. Code § 54291].

CHAPTER 14A AGRICULTURAL NONPROFIT COOPERATIVE ASSOCIATIONS
PART IV. FORMS

7-14A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 14A.201

§ 14A.201 Bylaws of Agricultural Nonprofit Cooperative Association Organized Without Stock

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an illustrative set of bylaws for an agricultural co-op organized without stock. Although agricultural co-ops may be formed with or without stock, today most are organized without stock [see § 14A.31[2]].

Within 30 days after incorporation, the co-op must adopt bylaws for its government and management that are not inconsistent with the Food and Agricultural Code provisions governing cooperative associations [see Food & Agric. Code §§ 54001-54294]. The vote or written assent of shareholders or members holding a majority of the voting power is required to adopt the bylaws [Food & Agric. Code § 54111].

For a detailed discussion of corporate bylaws under the General Corporation Law, see Ch. 4, Bylaws .

[b] Optional Provisions

Corporate bylaws may contain any provision, not in conflict with law or the articles, for the management of the activities and for the conduct of the affairs of the corporation [Corp. Code § 5151(c); see Food & Agric. Code § 54040]. Food & Agric. Code §§ 54112-54122 contain various optional provisions which may be included in the co-op's bylaws. These provisions are discussed below.

[c] Membership

[i] In General

The bylaws may prescribe the rules concerning membership, including [Food & Agric. Code § 54121]:

- The number and qualification of members or stockholders of the co-op and the conditions precedent to membership.

- The method, time, and manner of permitting members to withdraw or common stockholders to transfer stock [see Section 2.06 of Form].

- The manner of assignment and transfer of the interest of members and common stock of shareholders [see Section 2.05 of Form].

- The conditions upon which, and time when, membership will cease [see Section 2.06 of Form].

- The automatic suspension of the rights of a member when his or her eligibility ceases.

- The mode, manner, and effect of the expulsion of a member [see Section 2.07 of Form].

The bylaws must prohibit the transfer of membership certificates or common stock to any person who is not qualified to be a member or shareholder [Food & Agric. Code § 54237; see Section 2.05 of Form]. The bylaws of a co-op issuing stock may place limitations on stock ownership [see Food & Agric. Code §§ 54121, 54236].

[ii] Qualification and Number of Members

A co-op may admit as members or issue common stock to only those persons who are engaged in the production of any product [see Food & Agric. Code § 54004 (definition); see also § 14A.31[1]] handled by or through the co-op, or who use any service or facility offered by the co-op on or in connection with land used for the production of any product. Lessees and tenants of land used for the production of products, and lessors and landlords that receive as rent all or part of the crop raised on the leased premises, are qualified to become members [Food & Agric. Code § 54231]. If a member of a nonstock co-op is not a natural person, it may be represented by any individual, associate, officer, or manager or member who is duly authorized in writing [Food & Agric. Code § 54232]. An agricultural co-op may be a member of any other agricultural association [Food & Agric. Code § 54233]. This form does not limit the number of potential members, but permits the board of directors to admit or deny membership to applicants in its discretion [see Section 2.01 of Form]. It requires that prospective members submit an application form [see § 14A.202] to the Board for acceptance [see Section 2.01 of Form], and that the Board issue a membership certificate to accepted members [see Food & Agric. Code § 54234; see Section 2.03 of Form].

[iii] Fees and Dividends

The bylaws may set the amount of entrance, organization, and membership fees, if any; the manner and method of collecting those fees; and the purposes for which they may be used [Food & Agric. Code § 54118; see Section 2.02 of Form]. When a membership fee is charged, a member is not liable for the debts of the co-op to an amount exceeding the unpaid amount of the fee [Food & Agric. Code § 54239]. The bylaws may also state the amount each member or shareholder is required to pay to carry on the business of the co-op; any charge for services rendered to the member by the co-op, and the time and manner of collection; and the marketing contract between the co-op and each of its members and stockholders [Food & Agric. Code § 54119]. This form does not require members to pay any fees, but does provide that members may be required to contribute a specified amount to the Revolving Fund [see Section 2.02 of Form].

The amount of any dividends (not exceeding 8 percent per year) that may be declared on stock or membership capital may also be stated in the bylaws [Food & Agric. Code § 54120].

[iv] Valuation of Member's Interest

The bylaws may provide for the co-op to purchase a member's interest upon his or her withdrawal, expulsion, death, or forfeiture of membership, or at the option of the co-op, together with the manner of determining the value of the interest. They may also prescribe the conditions and terms for the co-op's repurchase of stock from disqualified stockholders. This form provides that the Association will pay a terminated member his or her interest upon dissolution of the Association [see Section 2.08 of Form]. In the case of the expulsion of a member when the bylaws do not provide any procedure or penalty, the board of directors may equitably appraise that member's property, fix the amount of the interest in money, and pay it to the member within one year after expulsion [Food & Agric. Code § 54122; see Section 2.08 of Form].

[v] Meetings of Members

The bylaws may provide the time, place, and manner for calling and conducting meetings [see Sections 4.01 -4.05 of Form]. If no provision is made for the location of meetings, they will be held in the city where the principal place of business is located, at a place designated by the board of directors [Food & Agric. Code § 54112]. Notice of meetings at which members are permitted to take action must be given not more than 60 nor less than 10 days before the date of the meeting [Corp. Code § 601(a); see Food & Agric. Code § 54040; see also Section 4.03 of Form]. The record date for determining the shareholders entitled to notice of a meeting may be fixed as a date not more than 60 nor less than 10 days prior to the date of the meeting [Corp. Code § 701(a); see Food & Agric. Code § 54040; see also Section 4.05 of Form]. The notice must state the place, date, and hour of the meeting, any means of electronic transmission by and to the corporation [see Corp. Code §§ 20, 21] or electronic video screen communication by which shareholders may participate in the meeting, and the general nature of business to be transacted in a special meeting [Corp. Code § 601(a); see Food & Agric. Code § 54040; see also Section 4.04 of Form].

The bylaws may prescribe the number of stockholders or members that constitute a quorum [Food & Agric. Code § 54113]. This form provides that members representing a majority of the voting power constitute a quorum [see Section 4.06 of Form]. The bylaws may also prescribe the rights of members or stockholders to vote, by proxy or mail or both, and the conditions, manner, form, and effects of those votes [Food & Agric. Code § 54114; see Section 3.03 of Form]. In addition, they may include the right of members or stockholders to cumulate votes or a prohibition against cumulative voting [Food & Agric. Code § 54114; see Section 3.02 of Form].

[d] Directors and Officers

[i] In General

The bylaws may prescribe the qualifications, compensation, duties, and term of office of directors and officers and the time of their election [Food & Agric. Code § 54116]. This form requires directors to be qualified members of the co-op [see Section 5.03 of Form], and officers to be members of the board of directors [see Section 6.01 of Form]. While the co-op may provide a fair remuneration for the time actually spent by the officers and directors in service of the co-op [Food & Agric. Code § 54147], only reimbursement for directors' and officers' actual expenses is provided in this form [see Sections 5.14, 6.03 of Form]. This form lists various standard duties of directors [see Section 5.15 of Form]. The specific duties of each officer are not listed. For a comprehensive statement of officers' duties, see Ch. 4, Bylaws .

[ii] Number

Although the number of directors must be stated in the articles of incorporation [Food & Agric. Code § 54081(d)], it may also be set forth in the bylaws [see Section 5.01 of Form] as a fixed or variable number [Food & Agric. Code § 54116(c); see § 14A.200[1][b][vi]]. In the event of an inconsistency between an article provision and a bylaw provision concerning the number of directors, the provision more recently adopted or amended will prevail [Food & Agric. Code § 54116(d)]. If a variable number of directors is set forth in the articles or bylaws, the exact number must be fixed within the specified limits by approval of the board or of the members in the manner specified in the bylaws [Food & Agric. Code § 54116(e)].

[iii] Executive Committee

If the co-op plans to create an executive committee, the bylaws may provide for that committee and may allot to it all the functions and powers of the board of directors, subject to the general direction and control of the board [Food & Agric. Code § 54146; see Section 5.16 of Form]. The bylaws may also state an amount of fair remuneration for the time actually spent by the members of the executive committee in the co-op's service [Food & Agric. Code § 54147].

[iv] Election

The bylaws may provide for primary elections to nominate directors [Food & Agric. Code § 54143]. They may also require directors to be elected by districts [Food & Agric. Code § 54142], by representatives from members' districts [see Food & Agric. Code § 54144], or chosen by other directors or by public official or commission to represent the public interest [see Food & Agric. Code § 54145]. This form does not contain those provisions.

The directors must elect a president, one or more vice presidents, a secretary, a treasurer, and any other officers prescribed by the bylaws. Any two or more offices, except those of president and secretary, may be held by the same person. The treasurer may be a bank or depository [Food & Agric. Code § 54149].

[v] Meetings

The bylaws may determine the time, place, and manner of conducting meetings of the board of directors [see Sections 5.06 -5.13 of Form]. Those meetings may be held at any place in or out of state that is fixed by a quorum of the board of directors unless otherwise provided in the articles or bylaws [Food & Agric. Code § 54112]. Regular meetings may be held without notice if the time and place of the meetings are fixed by the bylaws or by the board. Special meetings must be held on four days' notice by mail or 48 hours' notice delivered personally or by telephone, including a voice messaging system or by electronic transmission by the corporation [Corp. Code § 307(a)(2); see Corp. Code § 20 ("electronic transmission by the corporation" defined)]. No notice of a meeting is required for any director who provides a waiver of notice or a written consent to holding the meeting, or a written approval of the minutes of the meeting, whether before or after the meeting, or who attends the meeting without protesting the lack of notice to that director either before or at the commencement of the meeting [Corp. Code § 307(a)(3)]. Notices of meetings or waivers of notice need not specify the purpose of any regular or special meeting [Corp. Code § 307(a)(2)]. All waivers, consents, and approvals must be filed with the corporate records or made a part of the minutes of the meeting [Corp. Code § 307(a)(3); see Food & Agric. Code § 54040].

The bylaws may state the number of directors that constitutes a quorum [Food & Agric. Code § 54115]. These bylaws require a majority of the directors for a quorum [see Section 5.11 of Form].

[vi] Annual Report to Members

The board of directors must send an annual report of the operations of the co-op to the members no later than 120 days after the close of the fiscal or calendar year, unless the bylaws expressly dispense with this requirement. The report must include a balance sheet as of the closing date, prepared from, and in accordance with, the corporate books, pursuant to sound accounting practices. The bylaws may require interim reports for the three month, six month, or nine month periods of the current fiscal year [Food & Agric. Code § 54204]. This form does not require any interim reports.

[vii] Vacancies

If a vacancy on the board of directors occurs other than by expiration of term, the remaining members may fill the vacancy by majority vote. Special rules apply when the bylaws require election by district [Food & Agric. Code § 54148].

[viii] Removal

Any member may bring charges against an officer or director by filing them in writing with the secretary of the co-op, together with a petition signed by 5 percent of the members requesting the removal of the officer or director in question. The removal must be voted on at the next meeting of the co-op. If a majority of the members vote for removal, the co-op may replace the officer or director [Food & Agric. Code § 54150].

The director or officer against whom the charges are brought must be informed in writing of those charges prior to the meeting, and must have an opportunity at the meeting to be heard in person or by counsel and to present witnesses. The person bringing the charges will also have the opportunity to be heard and present witnesses. Special rules apply to directors elected by district [Food & Agric. Code § 54150].

[e] Revolving Fund

A co-op may establish reserves and invest the funds of the reserves in bonds or any other property provided in the bylaws [Food & Agric. Code § 54175]. Many co-ops supply capital reserves in the form of "revolving funds" by temporarily withholding as "capital retains" a certain portion of sale proceeds due to members and issuing revolving fund credits in lieu of money. The income tax structure allows the co-op to retain these funds without having to pay income tax on them [see § 14A.34[2]]. Interest payable on the withheld funds cannot exceed 8 percent per year [Food & Agric. Code § 54120]. This financial structure keeps capital investment closely related to the use of the co-op facilities. Revolving funds are used by both stock and nonstock co-ops [see Kerner, Securities and Capital Structures of Farmer Cooperatives in California, 19 Hastings L. Rev. 309 (1968)].

This form provides for the establishment of a revolving fund, from which the retained moneys will be paid out to members from time to time [see Article VII]. It also provides that nonpatronage income will be allocated to members and held together with the patronage amounts in the revolving fund [see Section 7.12 of Form].

[f] Income Tax Consent

In order for an exempt agricultural co-op to deduct amounts paid to patrons as patronage dividends, per-unit retain allocations, or nonpatronage income distributions [see § 14A.34[2]], payment must be made in money, property, or a "qualified" written notice of allocation or per-unit retain certificate by the fifteenth day of the ninth month following the close of the taxable year [see I.R.C. § 1382(b)-(d)].

A notice of allocation is any form of written notice that shows the amount allocated to that patron and any portion that constitutes a patronage dividend [I.R.C. § 1388(b)]. The notice is "qualified" if it is redeemable at face value within 90 days, or if the patron has consented to include the allocated amount in gross income for the year [I.R.C. § 1388(c); see I.R.C. § 1385(a)]. "Consent" occurs when the patron either consents in writing, cashes a qualified check, or obtains or retains membership in a co-op after it has adopted a bylaw providing that membership constitutes such an agreement [I.R.C. § 1388(c)(2); see I.R.C. § 1385(a)].

Similarly, a per-unit retain certificate is any written notice that discloses to the recipient the stated dollar amount of a per-unit retain allocation by the co-op [I.R.C. § 1388(g); see § 14A.34[2]]. The certificate is "qualified" if the recipient either agrees in writing to include the allocated amount in gross income for the year, or if the recipient obtains or retains membership in an organization after it has adopted a bylaw providing that membership constitutes such an agreement [I.R.C. § 1388(h); see I.R.C. § 1385(a)].

The income tax consent provision in Section 8.07 of this Form is included to ensure that any payments in the form of allocations will be qualified and thus deductible to the co-op. When consent is thus obtained through a bylaw provision, the member must receive written notification and copy of that bylaw [see I.R.C. § 1388(c)(2)(B), (h)(2)(B)]. For use of the income tax consent in marketing agreements, see § 14A.203[2], P 11 and § 14A.204[2], P 9. For use of the consent statement in a membership application, see the discussion in § 14A.202[1][c].

[g] Amending and Repealing Bylaws

The vote or written assent of shareholders or members that hold at least a majority of the voting power is necessary to amend or repeal the bylaws, or to adopt additional bylaws. The power to amend, repeal, or adopt bylaws can be delegated to the board of directors, and likewise revoked [Food & Agric. Code § 54111].

[h] Certificate of Secretary

The original or a copy of the bylaws certified to be a true copy by a person purporting to be the secretary or an assistant secretary of the co-op is prima facie evidence of the adoption of those bylaws and the matters stated therein [Corp. Code § 314; see Food and Agr. Code § 54040]. This form includes a secretary's certificate. For other secretary's certificates, see Ch. 4, Bylaws, §§ 4.01 and 4.02.

PART IV. FORMS

7-14A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 14A.202

§ 14A.202 Application for Membership in Agricultural Nonprofit Cooperative Association Organized Without Stock

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an application for membership in an agricultural co-op organized without stock. Although not required by statute, it is designed for use by a co-op which requires, in its bylaws, that any person desiring membership file a written application for membership and an agreement to abide by the bylaws, rules, and regulations of the co-op [see § 14A.201[2], Section 1.02 of Form]. For a discussion of subscription agreements for corporations organized with stock, see Ch. 2, Formation of Corporations, § 2.32.

[b] Marketing Contract

Although entrance and membership fees are authorized by statute [see Food & Agric. Code §§ 54118, 54119], this form does not require payment of any fees upon application or acceptance of a member. However, it does require that the prospective member execute a marketing contract that becomes effective upon acceptance of the application. § 14A.203 is a marketing contract which provides that capital will be raised by retaining specified amounts from the proceeds of a producer's products sold by the co-op [see § 14A.203, P 7].

[c] Income Tax Consent

This form contains a consent by the prospective member to include certain distributions in gross income, so that any payments in the form of allocations will be qualified and thus deductible to the co-op [see I.R.C. § 1382(b)-(d)]. For a detailed discussion of the need for the consent, see discussion in § 14A.201[1][f].

A statement of consent should be included in the membership application as well as in the bylaws. Consent required for a qualified allocation or per-unit retain certificate may be made in writing or by becoming a member of a co-op after it has adopted a bylaw making membership a statement of consent [see I.R.C. § 1388(c)(2), (h)(2)]. The statement of consent in this form will ensure the qualification of distributions made to any members who join the co-op before the adoption of a bylaw provision constituting consent.

CHAPTER 14A AGRICULTURAL NONPROFIT COOPERATIVE ASSOCIATIONS
PART IV. FORMS

7-14A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 14A.203

§ 14A.203 Marketing Contract of Cooperative Association

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a marketing contract between an agricultural co-op and a member-producer of that co-op. It is subject to the general rules regarding the formation and validity of contracts. Marketing contracts may take the form of "purchase and sale" or "agency" agreements [see Food & Agric. Code § 54261; see also 5 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 247, 249 (1945)] . Inasmuch as most provisions in both types of contracts are identical, this form includes several alternative provisions allowing it to be used as either a sales agreement or an agency agreement.

[b] Statutory Authorization for Contract

Agricultural co-ops and their members may make marketing contracts that require the members to sell, for any period of time no longer than 15 years, all or any specified part of any product or specified commodity exclusively to or through the co-op, or any facilities which are created by the co-op. If the contract provides for a sale to the co-op, title to the product passes absolutely and unreservedly to the co-op (except for recorded liens) upon delivery or at any other specified time that is expressly and definitely agreed in the contract [Food & Agric. Code § 54261].

Marketing contracts and agreements between an agricultural co-op and its members are not illegal, in restraint of trade, or contrary to any statute enacted against pooling or combinations [Food & Agric. Code § 54039].

[c] Resale of Products

The contract may provide for the co-op to sell or resell any product delived by its members, with or without taking title to the product, and pay over to its members the resale price, after deducting all of the following: (1) necessary selling, overhead, and other costs and expenses, including interest on preferred stock, not exceeding 8 percent per annum, and reserves for retiring the stock, if any; (2) other proper reserves; and (3) interest not exceeding 8 percent per year on common stock [Food & Agric. Code § 54262].

[d] Pooling System

This form gives the co-op the right to "pool" products. Many California agricultural co-ops use pooling systems under which products delivered to the co-op from various producers are recorded separately and then mixed together into a pool. Sales are made out of the pool without regard to the original source of the products. When all products in the pool are sold, the pool is closed and the net proceeds received from the pool are distributed among the contributing producers on the basis of the amount contributed to the pool. This system has been successfully used because it permits all members to share in price fluctuations and permits risk minimization through a ratable sharing by members in returns from the pool [see Wiles, Taxation of Farmers' Cooperatives and Their Patrons, 18 S. Cal. Tax. Inst. 449, 457 (1966)].

For purposes of deducting patronage dividends [see § 14A.34[2]], patronage of products marketed under pooling arrangements is treated as occurring during the taxable year in which the pool closes, and marketing of products is treated as occurring during any of the taxable years in which the pool is open [I.R.C. § 1382(e)].

[e] Income Tax Consent

This form contains a consent by the member-producer to include certain allocations in gross income, so that any payments in the form of allocations will be qualified and thus deductible to the co-op [see I.R.C. § 1382(b)-(d)]. For a detailed discussion of the need for the consent see discussion in § 14A.201[1][f].

[f] Action on Contract

[i] Specific Performance and Injunction

A marketing contract that provides for the delivery of a product produced or acquired by a member to the co-op may be specifically enforced by the co-op to secure delivery of the product [Food & Agric. Code § 54261]. If there is a breach or threatened breach of the contract by a member, the co-op will be entitled to an injunction to prevent the further breach of the contract and to a decree of specific performance of the contract. The association will also be entitled to a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction against the member pending adjudication of the injunction. To obtain temporary relief, the association must file both a verified complaint showing the breach or threatened breach and a bond [Food & Agric. Code § 54265].

[ii] Presumption of Producer's Ability to Deliver

In an action on a marketing contract, it will be conclusively presumed that a landowner, landlord, or lessor is able to control the delivery of any product that is produced on that member's land by tenants or others whose tenancy, possession, or work on the land, or the terms of whose tenancy, possession, or work were created or changed after the member's execution of the marketing contract [Food & Agric. Code § 54266].

[iii] Liquidated Damages

A marketing contract or the bylaws may fix as liquidated damages specific sums to be paid by the member to the co-op upon the breach of any provision of the contract regarding the sale, delivery, or withholding of any product. It may provide that the member will pay all costs, premiums for bonds, expenses, and fees if any action is brought on the contract by the co-op. These provisions are valid and enforceable and will not be regarded as penalties [Food & Agric. Code § 54264].

[iv] Association's Rights as Producer

Any agricultural association organized pursuant to Chapter 1, Division 20 of the Food and Agricultural Code [Food & Agric. Code § 54001 et seq.] that acts for its members as a producer marketing or bargaining association in its dealings with a person licensed as a processor [see Food & Agric. Code § 55401 et seq.] or produce dealer [see Food & Agric. Code § 56101 et seq.] in connection with any product produced by its members may, either in its own name or in the name of its members, assert all the rights of a producer with respect to any of those products [Food & Agric. Code § 54182].

The Board of Directors may also exclude from any pool any Products because of difference in quality, damage by the elements, or for other reasons satisfactory to the Board of Directors. Liquidated Damages

9. In the event that Producer sells, markets, or disposes of any Product covered by this contract contrary to the provisions of this contract, or otherwise fails to deliver the Products to the Association in accordance with the obligations set forth herein, that act or omission will injure the Association in an amount that will be extremely difficult to determine and fix, and that is, therefore, fixed in an amount of $_____ [set forth measure of liquidated damages, e.g., $_____ per ton or _____ percent of the market value] of all Products that are delivered, marketed, or disposed of contrary to the provisions of this contract, which amount Producer agrees to pay to the Association on demand, as liquidated damages.

Court Expenses

10. Should the Association bring any action to enforce any provision of this contract, or to secure specific performance, or to collect damages of any kind for any breach hereof, Producer shall pay to the Association all costs, premiums for bonds, expenses, and fees, including reasonable attorney's fees as determined by the court, expended or incurred by the Association in any such proceedings.

Income Tax Consent

11. Producer hereby consents and agrees that Producer shall take into account, at their stated dollar amounts, in the manner provided in Section 1385(a) of the Internal Revenue Code in the taxable year in which received by him:

(a) The amount of any distribution of patronage dividends as defined in Section 1388(a) of the Internal Revenue Code when made in qualified written notices of allocation as defined in Section 1388(b) of the Internal Revenue Code and received by Producer from the Association;

(b) The amount of any distributions referred to in Section 1382(c)(2)(A) of the Internal Revenue Code of income derived by the Association from business done with the United States, its agencies, or from sources other than patronage, when made in qualified written notices of allocation as defined in Section 1388(b) of the Internal Revenue Code and received by Producer from the Association;

(c) The amount of any per-unit retain allocations as defined in Section 1388(f) of the Internal Revenue Code when made in per-unit certificates as defined in Section 1388(g) of the Internal Revenue Code and received by Producer from the Association.

Acts Beyond the Control of the Parties

12. In the event the performance of this contract by either party is prevented or delayed by act of God, war, civil insurrection, fire, flood, storm, strikes, lockouts, or by any law, regulation, or order of any federal, state, county, or municipal authority, or by any other cause beyond the control of a party, that party's performance to the extent it is so prevented or delayed shall be excused.

Assignment of Agreement

13. This agreement, and the rights and obligations hereunder, cannot be transferred or assigned without the Association's prior written consent. In the event that all or any part of the land now or hereafter owned by Producer and used for the production of Products covered by this contract is sold, leased, or otherwise transferred, this agreement shall nevertheless remain in full force and effect and the Producer shall remain obligated hereunder unless and until the written consent of the Association to a transfer or termination of this agreement has been obtained.

Agreement Binding on Heirs

14. This agreement shall be binding on the heirs, administrators, executors, successors, and assigns of the parties.

Notices

15. Except as otherwise expressly provided herein or by law, any notice, consent, or request required or permitted by this contract, by the bylaws of the Association, or by law, shall be in writing. Any notice, consent, request, or other instrument, required or permitted to be delivered to either party by this contract, by the bylaws of the Association, or by law, shall be deemed properly served or delivered when it is enclosed in an envelope, first class postage prepaid, and deposited in the United States mail addressed to the Association at _____[address of principal office of Association], California, or to Producer at the address set forth under Producer's signature at the bottom of this contract. Either party may change that party's address for the purpose of this paragraph by giving written notice of the change in the manner herein provided.

Term

16. The term of this agreement shall be _____ [number] years [period not exceeding fifteen (15) years] commencing _____, 20 _____. This agreement may, however, be terminated prior to the end of the term as follows: _____ [set forth manner of termination, e.g.:

(a) By Producer's giving written notice to the Association of his or her decision desire to terminate this contract between the _____ day of _____ [month] and the _____ day of _____ [month] of any year, in which case the contract will be terminated as of _____[date] of that year.

(b) By the Association giving written notice to Producer of its decision to terminate this contract between the _____ day of _____ [month] and the _____ day of _____ [month] of any year, in which case this contract will be terminated as of _____[date] of that year].

Entire Agreement

17. This contract constitutes the entire agreement between the parties hereto, supersedes all negotiations or stipulations covering its subject matter which preceded or accompanied its execution, and terminates and supersedes all prior existing marketing contracts between Producer and the Association. Any promises, representations, statements, inducements, terms, or conditions made to either party by the other party are of no force or effect unless expressly set forth herein.

Waiver

18. The waiver of any breach of this contract shall not constitute a continuing waiver or a waiver of any subsequent breach, whether of the same or a different provision, of this contract.

Persons to Whom Proceeds Payable

19. All deliveries of Products under this Agreement are to be made in the name of Producer unless notice to the contrary is given in writing to the Association. All payments or advances under this Agreement are to be made to the person in whose name such deliveries are made or on order signed by that person and written notice thereof given to the Association; provided, however, that if at the time of any delivery there stands on record, or the Association has actual knowledge of, a crop mortgage covering the Products so delivered, the payments or advances shall, except as in this agreement otherwise provided, be made only as directed by written request delivered to the Association and signed by both mortgagor and mortgagee.

[For an agency contract:]

Power to Pledge Products

20. Producer agrees that the Association shall have full power to borrow money and pledge as security any and all Products delivered to it pursuant to this contract, or any warehouse receipts or other documents relating to the Products.

CHAPTER 14A AGRICULTURAL NONPROFIT COOPERATIVE ASSOCIATIONS
PART IV. FORMS

7-14A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 14A.204

§ 14A.204 Marketing Contract of Agricultural Cooperative Bargaining Association

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a marketing contract between a member-producer and a cooperative bargaining co-op. Many of the provisions of this contract, including Paragraphs 6-16, parallel those of an agricultural co-op's sales or agency marketing contract. For a complete discussion of those provisions, see § 14A.203[1].

[b] Nature of Bargaining Association

A cooperative bargaining association is a farmer association that is organized and functioning as a cooperative association [see Food & Agric. Code §§ 54001-54294] for the purpose of group bargaining between its producer members and the first handler or processor with respect to the sale of any agricultural commodity except milk, cotton, or cottonseed [Food & Agric. Code § 54401]. It is the public policy of the state to establish and support the right of any farmer to join voluntarily, belong to, and freely participate in cooperative bargaining associations. Interference with this right is an unfair trade practice [Food & Agric. Code § 54402; see § 14A.204[1][c]].

[c] Unfair Trade Practices

[i] Acts of Processors

It is an unfair trade practice for any processor, handler, distributor, or their agents to (1) interfere with, restrain, coerce, or boycott producers in the exercise of their rights to join, belong to, or participate in cooperative bargaining associations [Food & Agric. Code § 54431(a); see Food & Agric. Code § 54402]; (2) discriminate against any producer with respect to price or other terms of purchase of any raw agricultual commodity, because of the producer's membership in or contract with any cooperative bargaining association [Food & Agric. Code § 54431(b)]; or (3) pay or loan money or give another item of value to a producer as an inducement for refusing, ceasing to belong to, or breaching a membership agreement in, a cooperative bargaining association [Food & Agric. Code § 54431(c)].

[ii] Acts of Processors or Associations

It is unlawful for associations, as well as processors, to maliciously or knowingly give false reports about the finances, management, or activities of a cooperative bargaining association [Food & Agric. Code § 54431(d)]. It is unlawful for certain producers and associations to refuse to reasonably negotiate to reach agreement for price, terms of sale, compensation for commodities produced under contract, and other contract provisions [Food & Agric. Code § 54431(e), (f); see Food & Agric. Code §§ 54432-54435]. Refusal by producers or cooperative bargaining associations to reasonably negotiate or bargain includes the refusal to comply with court-ordered conciliation procedures [Food & Agric. Code § 54431(e); see Food & Agric. Code § 54401 et seq. (conciliation)].

[iii] Enforcement and Penalties

Producers or processors may file complaints against unfair trade practices relating to cooperative bargaining associations with the Secretary of Agriculture. The Secretary will then pursue investigations, and may take action through administrative hearings [see Food & Agric. Code §§ 54404-54404.5]. Willful violation of the provisions concerning unfair trade practices may result in substantial monetary penalties [see Food & Agric. Code §§ 54461, 54462], or injunction [see Food & Agric. Code § 54463]. Violation of the conciliation provisions [see Food & Agric. Code § 54401 et seq.] may also result in a substantial monetary penalty [see Food & Agric. Code § 54458].

[iv] Rights of Bargaining Association

For discussion of an association's rights as a bargaining association [see Food & Agric. Code § 54182], see § 14A.203[1][f][iv].

[2] FORM

Marketing Contract of Agricultural Cooperative Bargaining Association

MARKETING CONTRACT

Preamble

This contract is made between _____[name of Producer], hereinafter designated as "Producer," and the _____[name of Association], a nonprofit cooperative association organized pursuant to the provisions of the Food and Agricultural Code of the State of California, hereafter designated as the "Association."

Appointment of Association Exclusive Agent

1. Producer hereby appoints and designates the Association as exclusive sales agent for, and agrees to sell and deliver all _____ [type of products, e.g., pears], herein called "Products," produced by or for Producer or acquired by or for Producer as landlord, tenant, lessor, or lessee in the State of California during the continuance of this contract only to those persons, firms, or corporations, and only on the terms and conditions, that are designated, fixed, established, and approved by the Association.

Obligations of Association

2. Each year during the term of this contract, the Association shall, for and on behalf of Producer and all other growers who have executed similar contracts with the Association, solicit and negotiate with the largest number of processors practicable such terms, conditions, and prices for the sale of the Products produced during the year as the Association in its absolute discretion deems to the best advantage of the growers who have executed contracts with the Association. Upon completion of negotiations, and in no event later than the _____ day of _____ [month] of each year, the Association shall deliver by mail to Producer a form of "approved contract" for the sale of Producer's Products to any processor with whom the Association has conducted negotiations, which approved contract shall be in the form and contain the terms, conditions, and prices negotiated with those processors by the Association.

Producer to Sell Products Only on Contracts Approved by Association

3. During the term of this contract, Producer shall not sell any Products to any buyer except pursuant to purchase and sale agreements approved by the Association. After issuance of its form of approved contract each year, the Association shall approve, on written request of Producer, any and all purchase and sale agreements entered by Producer for the sale of Products for the year which are in the form of, and contain the same terms, conditions, and prices as are contained in, the approved contract form. Notice of approval by the Association of any purchase and sale agreement shall be given to Producer by United States mail, first-class postage prepaid, addressed to Producer at the post office address set forth under his or her signature at the bottom of this contract.

Payment for Products Sold

4. During the term of this contract, any buyer of Producer's Products shall, unless otherwise directed by the Association, pay directly to Producer the full purchase price of all Products sold by Producer to such buyer, less the amount, not to exceed _____ [e.g., one (1)] percent of the gross purchase price of the Products as shall be determined, on or before _____ [date, e.g., February 1] of the year in which sale occurs, by the Board of Directors of the Association; which amount the Producer hereby authorizes and directs the buyer to deduct from the gross purchase price of the Products and pay directly to the Association. The amounts deducted and paid to the Association shall be used by the Association to pay the operating costs and expenses of the Association, including, among other things, depreciation on property, losses, salaries, wages, insurance, taxes, [interest not exceeding eight percent per annum on its issued and outstanding preferred stock, reserves for retiring preferred stock, interest not exceeding eight percent per annum on its issued and outstanding common stock,] and interest on moneys owing from the Association. If, at the end of any fiscal year of the Association, the Board of Directors finds that the aggregate amount deducted during the fiscal year from the gross sales proceeds of Products sold during such year by all growers who have executed similar contracts with the Association exceeds the amount required in that year to pay operating costs and expenses, the excess amount of the deductions shall, in the absolute discretion of the Board of Directors, either be ratably credited to the account of each Producer in the Revolving Fund of the Association according to the amount of Products sold by that producer during the year, or distributed among the growers according to the amount of Products sold by each of them during such year. The determination by the Board of Directors of the amount required to pay operating costs and expenses in any year, the amount of deductions in excess of the required amount, and the ratable portion of the excess to be credited or paid to Producer shall be conclusive and binding on Producer.

Information to Be Furnished by Producer

5. On receiving written request from the Association, Producer agrees to promptly notify the Association in writing of the location of all crops of the Products covered by this agreement owned or controlled by the producer, the number of acres planted with those Products, the varieties of Products planted, and the amount of Products Producer expects to produce in any specified year.

Articles of Incorporation and Bylaws Part of Contract

6. The articles of incorporation and bylaws of the Association constitute a part of this contract, and any amendment to the articles, made in the manner provided by law, or to the bylaws, made as therein provided, shall automatically modify this contract.

Liquidated Damages

7. In the event that Producer sells, markets, or disposes of any Product covered by this contract contrary to the provisions of this contract, that act will injure the Association in an amount that will be extremely difficult to determine and fix, and that is therefore fixed in an amount of _____ [set forth measure of liquidated damages, e.g., $_____ per ton or _____ percent of the gross sale proceeds] of all Products that are sold, marketed, or disposed of contrary to the provisions of this contract, which amount Producer agrees to pay to the Association on demand, as liquidated damages.

Court Expenses

8. Should the Association bring any action to enforce any provision of this contract, or to secure specific performance hereof, or to collect damages of any kind for any breach hereof, Producer shall pay to the Association all costs, premiums for bonds, expenses, and fees, including reasonable attorneys' fees, as determined by the court, expended or incurred by the Association in any such proceedings.

Income Tax Consent

9. Producer hereby consents and agrees that he or she shall take into account, at their stated dollar amounts, in the manner provided in Section 1385(a) of the Internal Revenue Code in the taxable year in which received by Producer:

(a) The amount of any distribution of patronage dividends as defined in Section 1388(a) of the Internal Revenue Code when made in qualified written notices of allocation as defined in Section 1388(b) of the Internal Revenue Code and received by Producer from the Association;

(b) The amount of any distributions referred to in Section 1382(c)(2)(A) of the Internal Revenue Code of income derived by the Association from business done with the United States, its agencies, or from sources other than patronage, when made in qualified written notices of allocation as defined in Section 1388(b) of the Internal Revenue Code and received by Producer from the Association;

(c) The amount of any per-unit retain allocations as defined in Section 1388(f) of the Internal Revenue Code when made in per-unit certificates as defined in Section 1388(g) of the Internal Revenue Code and received by Producer from the Association.

Act of God Clause

10. In the event the performance of this contract by either party is prevented or delayed by act of God, war, civil insurrection, fire, flood, storm, strikes, lockouts, or by any law, regulation, or order of any federal, state, county, or municipal authority, or by any other cause beyond the control of a party, that party's performance to the extent it is so prevented or delayed shall be excused.

Assignment of Agreement

11. This agreement, and the rights and obligations hereunder, shall not be transferred or assigned without the Association's prior written consent. In the event that all or any part of the land now or hereafter owned by Producer and used for the production of Products covered by this contract is sold, leased, or otherwise transferred, this contract shall nevertheless remain in full force and effect and Producer shall remain obligated unless and until the written consent of the Association to a transfer or termination of this contract has been obtained.

Agreement Binding on Heirs

12. This agreement shall be binding on the heirs, administrators, executors, successors, and assigns of the parties.

Notices

13. Except as otherwise expressly provided herein or by law, any notice, consent, or request required or permitted by this contract, by the bylaws of the Association, or by law, shall be in writing. Any such notice, consent, request, or other instrument, required or permitted to be delivered to either party by this contract, by the bylaws of the Association, or by law, shall be deemed properly served or delivered when it is enclosed in an envelope, first-class postage prepaid, and deposited in the United States mail addressed to the Association at _____[address of principal office of Association], California, or to Producer at the address set forth under Producer's signature at the bottom of this contract. Either party may change its address for the purposes of this paragraph by giving written notice of the change in the manner herein provided to the other party.

Term

14. The initial term of this contract shall be until _____ [date, e.g., December 31, 2008] and that term shall be automatically renewed for successive terms of one calendar year each thereafter without any other actions being taken by either party for a period ending _____[date], but in no event for a period exceeding 15 years from the date of execution of this agreement. However, commencing with the year _____, either party may terminate this contract by serving written notice of termination on the other party.

Entire Agreement

15. This contract constitutes the entire agreement between the parties, supersedes all negotiations or stipulations covering its subject matter which preceded or accompanied its execution, terminates and supersedes all prior existing marketing contracts between Producer and the Association. Any promises, representations, statements, inducements, terms, or conditions, made to either party by the other party, are of no force or effect unless expressly set forth herein.

Waiver

16. The waiver of any breach of this contract shall not constitute a continuing waiver or a waiver of any subsequent breach, whether of the same or a different provision of this contract.

CHAPTER 14A AGRICULTURAL NONPROFIT COOPERATIVE ASSOCIATIONS
PART IV. FORMS

7-14A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 14A.205

§ 14A.205 Application for Recognition of Income Tax Exemption of Agricultural Nonprofit Cooperative Association--I.R.S. Form 1028

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the official application [I.R.S. Form 1028], for recognition of exempt status by the IRS, together with the accompanying IRS instructions. For federal income tax purposes, agricultural co-ops (termed "farmers' cooperatives" in the Internal Revenue Code) are divided into "exempt" and "nonexempt" categories. Although under present law neither type is exempt from income taxation [see I.R.C. § 1381(b)], exempt associations are entitled to two special deductions [see I.R.C. § 1382(c)] in addition to the deduction allowed for patronage dividends [I.R.C. § 1382(b); see discussion in § 14A.34[2]].

[b] Definition of "Exempt" Associations

The IRS defines "exempt" farmers' cooperatives as farmers', fruit growers', or like associations organized and operated on a cooperative basis for the purpose of either (1) marketing the products of members or other producers, and returning to them the proceeds of sales, less necessary marketing expenses, on the basis of the quantity or value of products furnished by them, or (2) purchasing supplies and equipment for the use of members or other persons, and returning those supplies and equipment to them at actual cost, plus necessary expenses [I.R.C. § 521(b)(1)].

The IRS will not deny exempt status because the association has capital stock, as long as the dividend rate on that stock is fixed at an amount not exceeding the legal interest rate in the state of incorporation or 8 percent, whichever is higher [I.R.C. § 521(b)(2); see Food & Agric. Code § 54120], and substantially all the stock is owned by producers who market their products or purchase their supplies and equipment through the association [I.R.C. § 521(b)(2); see Food & Agric. Code § 54231]. To satisfy this "substantially all" ownership requirement, producers must own at least 85 percent of that stock [Rev. Rul. 73-248, 1973-2 C.B. 295 ; see West. Cent. Co-op v. United States (8th Cir. 1985) 758 F.2d 1269, 1271] . For purposes of applying the 85 percent test, the relevant consideration is whether the right to vote has actually accrued or been terminated by the time of the annual shareholders' meeting following the close of the taxable year [Farmers Coop. Co. v. Commissioner (8th Cir. 1987) 822 F.2d 774, 779] .

The IRS will not deny exempt status because the association computes its net earnings for purposes of determining amounts available for distribution to patrons by netting its patronage gains and losses pursuant to I.R.C. § 1388(j) [I.R.C. § 521(b)(6); see Ch. 14, Consumer Cooperative Corporations, § 14.48[3]].

Exempt status will not be denied because the association has accumulated and maintained a reserve for any necessary purpose [I.R.C. § 521(b)(3)] or because the association conducts business with nonmembers, as long as the value of nonmember business does not exceed the value of business done with members and the value of purchases made for nonmembers or nonproducers does not exceed 15 percent of all purchases [I.R.C. § 521(b)(4); see Food & Agric. Code § 54179]. Business done for the United States or one of its agencies is disregarded in determining the amount of business done with nonmembers [I.R.C. § 521(b)(5)].

[c] Tax Benefits of "Exempt" Associations

Exempt associations are entitled to two deductions that are unavailable to nonexempt associations [see discussion in § 14A.34[4]]. First, an exempt association is allowed to deduct amounts paid during the taxable year as dividends on its capital stock [I.R.C. § 1382(c)(1)]. Capital stock includes any stock or any other form of capital represented by capital retain certificates, revolving fund certificates, letters of advice, or other evidence of a proprietary interest in a cooperative association. The deduction is allowable only for the year in which the dividend is actually or constructively paid [Treas. Reg. § 1.1382-3(b)].

In addition, an exempt association may deduct amounts paid during the payment period for the taxable year in money, qualified notices of allocation, or other property on a patronage basis to patrons with respect to its earnings during the taxable year which are derived from business done for the United States or from sources other than patronage [I.R.C. § 1382(c)(2)]. Nonpatronage sources are those not directly related to the marketing, purchasing, or service activities of the agricultural association [Treas. Reg. § 1.1382-3(c)(2)].

[d] Procedure for Establishing Exempt Status

To establish its status as an exempt association, a corporation must file an application for recognition of exemption, I.R.S. Form 1028, with the district director of the internal revenue district in which the principal place of business or principal office of the organization is located [Treas. Reg. § 1.521-1(e)]. The district director may issue a determination letter granting exempt status in advance of operations if the proposed operations are described in sufficient detail to permit the conclusion that the organization will clearly meet the requirements of the statutory exemption [Rev. Proc. 80-25, 1980-1 C.B. 667].

§ 15.09 Scope of Part; Governing Law

This part covers the formation of general partnerships under California's Uniform Partnership Act of 1994 (UPA '94), which became effective on January 1, 1997, for partnerships formed on or after that date [Corp. Code § 16111(a) (pre-1997 partnerships could elect earlier coverage of UPA '94)]. Effective January 1, 1999, all general partnerships are governed by UPA '94 [Corp. Code § 16111(b)].

Although the discussion and forms in this part apply to general partnerships irrespective of their size or purpose, some of the unique issues involved in forming professional partnerships are given special attention. Mining partnerships, formed when two or more persons acquire a mining claim and actually work it to extract minerals, are not covered in this part. Such partnerships, however, are general partnerships subject to UPA '94 to the extent consistent with the Public Resource Code's provisions for mining partnerships [Pub. Res. Code § 3940].

Dissociation from, and dissolution of partnerships are covered in Part B of this chapter. Conversion and merger of partnerships are the subject of Part C.

Fictitious business names are covered in Ch. 1A, Role of Counsel in Starting a New Business . The formation and taxation of real estate investment partnerships are discussed in Ch. 29A, Joint Ventures , and Ch. 29B, Nonprofit Real Estate Syndicates . Limited liability partnerships are covered in Ch. 16C, Limited Liability Partnerships . The formation and operation of limited partnerships are discussed in Ch. 15A, Formation of Limited Partnerships . The formation and operation of limited liability companies is covered in Ch. 12C, Limited Liability Companies .

§ 15.10 Partnership Defined

[1] In General

A "partnership" is an association of two or more persons to carry on as co-owners a business for profit that is formed under Corp. Code § 16202 (the Uniform Partnership Act of 1994), a predecessor law, or comparable law of another jurisdiction [Corp. Code §§ 16101(9), 16202(a), (b); see Holmes v. Lerner (1999) 74 Cal. App. 4th 442, 457, 88 Cal. Rptr. 2d 130 (determining that partnership had been formed under former Corp. Code § 15006 (now see Corp. Code § 16202), notwithstanding absence of express agreement to share profits); see also Persson v. Smart Inventions, Inc. (2005) 125 Cal. App. 4th 1141, 1157-1159, 23 Cal. Rptr. 3d 335 (partnership normally does not continue to exist after formation of corporation; thus shareholders do not owe fiduciary duties to each other despite referring to each other as partners)]. A partnership may be formed whether or not the persons intend to form one [Corp. Code § 16202(a)]. Thus, formation of a partnership is not dependent on a formal written agreement [Cochran v. Board of Supervisors (1978) 85 Cal. App.3d 75, 81, 149 Cal. Rptr. 304] . Partnerships may be created by parol agreement or inferred from the acts and declarations of the parties [Cochran v. Board of Supervisors (1978) 85 Cal. App. 3d 75, 81, 149 Cal. Rptr. 304] .

Ordinarily, partnerships are characterized by two features: (1) a community of interest in a particular business, and (2) a sharing of profits from the business [see People v. Park (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 550, 564, 151 Cal. Rptr. 146 ; see also Holmes v. Lerner (1999) 74 Cal. App. 4th 442, 457, 88 Cal. Rptr. 2d 130 (determining that partnership had been formed under former Corp. Code § 15006, notwithstanding absence of express agreement to share profits; under former Corp. Code § 15007(4) (now see Corp. Code § 16202(c)), profit sharing was prima facie evidence of being partner rather than required element)]. Community of interest contemplates joint participation in the management, control, profits, and losses of the business [Constans v. Ross (1951) 106 Cal. App. 2d 381, 386, 235 P.2d 113] .

[2] Distinguished From Other Profit Sharing Arrangements

To distinguish between partnerships and other associations or obligations that are not subject to its provisions, the following rules apply in determining whether a partnership is formed [Corp. Code § 16202(c)]:

- Joint tenancy, tenancy in common, tenancy by the entireties, joint property, common property, or part ownership does not by itself establish a partnership, even if the co-owners share profits made by the use of the property.

- The sharing of gross returns does not by itself establish a partnership, even if the persons sharing them have a joint or common right or interest in property from which the returns are derived.

- A person who receives a share of the profits of a business is presumed to be a partner in the business, unless the profits were received for any of the following reasons:

    - In payment of a debt by installments or otherwise.

    - In payment for services as an independent contractor or of wages or other compensation to an employee.

    - In payment of rent.

    - In payment of an annuity or other retirement benefit to a beneficiary, representative, or designee of a deceased or retired partner.

    - In payment of interest or other charge on a loan, even if the amount of payment varies with the profits of the business, including a direct or indirect present or future ownership of the collateral, or rights to income, proceeds, or increase in value derived from the collateral.

    - In payment for the sale of the goodwill of a business or other property by installments or otherwise.

[3] Joint Ventures

A joint venture exists when co-owners of a business agree to share the profits, losses, and control of the business [Connor v. Great Western (1968) 69 Cal. 2d 850, 863, 73 Cal. Rptr. 369, 447 P.2d 609 ; see De Anza Enterprises v. Johnson (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 1307, 1314-1315, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 749 (litigation between joint venturers over buyout procedure set forth in written joint venture agreement)]. Joint ventures are characterized by three features [Orosco v. Sun-Diamond Corp. (1997) 51 Cal. App. 4th 1659, 1666, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 179 ; 580 Folsom Associates v. Prometheus Development Co. (1990) 223 Cal. App. 3d 1, 15-16, 272 Cal. Rptr. 227] :

- The members have joint control over the venture (even though they may delegate that control);

- The members share the profits of the undertaking; and

- Each member has an ownership interest in the enterprise.

It follows that the incidents of partnerships and joint ventures are the same [see Stodd v. Goldberger (1977) 73 Cal. App. 3d 827, 141 Cal. Rptr. 67] . For most purposes, joint ventures are considered a form of partnership and are governed by partnership principles, including the Uniform Partnership Act [see Zeibak v. Nasser (1938) 12 Cal. 2d 1, 12, 82 P.2d 375] .

Distinctions between joint ventures and partnerships, when made, have been based on concepts of the former involving a single transaction of limited duration and the latter involving an ongoing business enterprise [see Nelson v. Abraham (1947) 29 Cal. 2d 745, 749, 177 P.2d 931] . A partnership, however, may be formed for a single venture and for a limited time [see Kaufman-Brown Potato Co. v. Long (9th Cir. 1950) 182 F.2d 594, 599 ; see also Page v. Page (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 192, 196, 10 Cal. Rptr. 643, 359 P.2d 41] , which UPA '94 indirectly recognizes by defining a "partnership at will" to include a partnership in which the partners have not agreed to remain partners until the expiration of a definite term or the completion of a particular project [Corp. Code § 16101(11)]. The distinction between partnerships and joint ventures, therefore, is in most cases rather indefinite and of little practical significance.

Mutual agency, which is characteristic of partnerships, has not been imposed on joint venturers when their undertaking is limited in scope and it would be inequitable to do so [see Hayward's v. Nelson (1956) 299 P.2d 1013 ; but see Smalley v. Baker (1968) 262 Cal. App. 2d 824, 69 Cal. Rptr. 521] .

CHAPTER 15 GENERAL PARTNERSHIPS
PART A. Formation of General Partnerships
II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-15 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 15.11

§ 15.11 Uniform Partnership Act of 1994

[1] Effective Dates and Purpose

Effective January 1, 1999, all general partnerships are governed by the Uniform Partnership Act of 1994 (UPA '94) [Corp. Code § 16111(b)]. Under former law, partnerships formed before January 1, 1997, and partnerships continuing the business of a dissolved partnership, were governed by the Uniform Partnership Act (former UPA) until January 1, 1999, unless they elected earlier coverage of UPA '94 [Corp. Code § 16111(a)]. The enactment of UPA '94 has no effect on proceedings commenced or rights accrued prior to January 1, 1997 [Corp. Code § 16112].

The purpose of enacting UPA '94 was to achieve uniformity among the states enacting it [Corp. Code § 16108], and partnerships governed by UPA '94 will be similarly governed by any repeals of or amendments to the Act [Corp. Code § 16107]. UPA '94's provisions regarding the rights and duties of surviving partners, the legal representatives of deceased partners, the creditors of either, and the creditors of the partnership all supersede any conflicting provisions in the Probate Code [Corp. Code § 16109].

For further discussion of California's 1996 enactment of UPA '94, see Ballantine & Sterling, California Corporation Laws, Ch. 24, Partnerships (Matthew Bender).

[2] Summary of Changes From Former UPA

[a] Generally

For those familiar with the law governing general partnerships prior to the effective date of UPA '94, a brief review of the changes made by UPA '94 will help guide planning for post-1997 partnership formation and the preparation of amendments to existing partnership agreements.

[b] Entity Theory Adopted

First, UPA '94 expressly recognizes a partnership as an entity distinct from its partners, thereby mooting the old debate over whether a partnership is legally an entity or merely an aggregate of individuals [Corp. Code § 16201]. Adoption of the entity approach means that each partner has separate legal interests and that the ownership of the partnership assets is in the entity, not as undivided interests of the partners. As a practical matter, for example, there is no longer the need to convey title from the old partnership to the new partnership every time there is change in partners. Another example is that property acquired by a partnership becomes property of the partnership as an entity and not of the partners individually [Corp. Code § 16203]. This prevents a partner from forcing an in kind distribution of the property upon leaving the partnership. Instead, the partner can only be paid the value of his or her partnership interest. Finally, dissolution of the partnership is another area in which selection of entity versus aggregate theory makes a major difference.

[c] Fiduciary Duty

The former UPA was very thin on the law of fiduciary duty, common law being the main source of judicial decisions. Although it is not yet clear whether UPA '94 will have a significant practical impact in this area of partnership law, UPA '94 does make the fiduciary duty of partners more explicit [see Corp. Code § 16404] by establishing a comprehensive, but not exhaustive, definition of partnership fiduciary duties. These duties include the duty of loyalty and the duty of care as they relate to appropriation of partnership opportunities, self-dealing, competing with the partnership, conduct that is negligent, reckless, or constitutes intentional misconduct or knowing violation of law, the obligation of good faith and fair dealing, and nonwaiver of the duties of loyalty, due care, and good faith and fair dealing in the partnership agreement, except when it would not be unreasonable to do so [see Corp. Code § 16103].

PRACTICE TIP:

UPA '94 allows the partners broad latitude to self-define the duty of loyalty [Corp. Code § 16103(b)(3)], the duty of care [Corp. Code § 16103(b)(4)], and the obligation of good faith and fair dealing [Corp. Code § 16103(b)(5)]. Depending on the nature of the parties' existing or anticipated relationships, the prospective partners may self-define these duties to avoid later conflict. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

[d] Dissociation and Dissolution

UPA '94 ends the distinctions under the former UPA between partners who withdraw, those that retire, and those that die. "Dissociation," a term UPA '94 uses generically to describe any departure of a partner from the partnership, may be voluntary (e.g., retirement) or involuntary (e.g., death or expulsion), rightful or wrongful, but in no case does a partner's dissociation require the partnership to dissolve if the remaining partners want to continue.

UPA '94 changes the rule that any change in the membership of a partnership causes its dissolution. As originally enacted, the former UPA followed the theory that any change in the membership of the partnership causes dissolution. Later amendments liberalized the rule, but only to the extent of providing that a partnership could avoid dissolution if all the partners agreed in advance of the withdrawal or addition of a partner that the partnership would not dissolve [see former Corp. Code § 15031(4), (7)]. If the partnership continued after the withdrawal or addition of a partner, but not pursuant to a preexisting agreement not to dissolve, then a new partnership had to be formed or the business is treated as if it were operating as a dissolved but unliquidated enterprise [see former Corp. Code § 15041].

Under UPA '94, changes in the composition of the partnership do not necessarily dissolve the partnership, notwithstanding that there is no prior agreement not to dissolve. While it is true, for example, that in a partnership for a definite term or for a particular purpose, dissolution and winding up are required when a partner dissociates before the expiration of the term of the partnership, a majority in interest of the remaining partners may simply agree to continue the partnership if they act within 90 days of the partner's dissociation [Corp. Code § 16801]. Similarly, in an at will partnership, the dissociation of a partner who has been expelled will not dissolve the partnership unless at least half of the partners decide to do so [Corp. Code § 16801]. Thus, the withdrawal of a partner, by itself, no longer constitutes an event of dissolution, and instead will trigger the buyout provisions of Article 7 of UPA '94. These buyout provisions are mandatory absent some other provision for buyout in the partnership agreement. The former UPA also required a buyout, but limited it to the interests of retiring or deceased partners. Moreover, UPA '94's buyout provisions are fairly detailed concerning the valuation of a dissociated partner's interest and the timing of payment, whereas the former UPA merely spoke of "the value of his interest at the date of dissolution."

[e] Joint and Several Liability

UPA '94 provides that a partnership may sue and be sued in the partnership name. This follows the entity approach and is declarative of California law under Code Civ. Proc. § 369.5(a). A judgment against the partnership is not by itself a judgment against a partner [Corp. Code § 16307(c)], so a partner must be individually named in the suit and a judgment entered against the partner in order for his, her or its personal assets to be the subject of a levy against the partnership. However, in order for an extended statute of limitations for collection to apply to them, general partners need not be separately assessed for a partnership tax debt for which they are secondarily liable [26 U.S.C. § 6502]. In a case in which the IRS timely assessed unpaid employment taxes against a partnership which never satisfied the debt, the IRS filed a proof of claim for those taxes in the general partners' Chapter 13 petitions under the Bankruptcy Code. The partners argued that the assessment extended the statute of limitations only against the partnership; the IRS had not separately assessed the general partners within the limitations period. The U.S. Supreme Court held that because the only relevant taxpayer for purposes of the assessment and collection statutes was the partnership, proper assessment of the tax against the partnership sufficed to extend the statute of limitations for collection of the tax from the general partners, who were liable for the payment of the partnership's debts. The government's timely assessment against the partnership was sufficient to extend the statute of limitations to collect the tax in a judicial proceeding, whether from the partnership itself or from those liable for its debts [United States v. Galletti (2004) 541 U.S. 114, 124 S. Ct. 1548, 158 L. Ed. 2d 279, 285] .

Under UPA '94 [Corp. Code § 16306(a)], partners are jointly and severally liable for all partnership obligations, not just for tort-type liabilities as under the former UPA [Corp. Code § 16306(a)]. Generally, joint and several liability permits a creditor to proceed immediately against any of the joint and several judgment debtors. Under UPA '94, however, subject to certain exceptions, creditors are required to first exhaust the partnership assets before levying against a partner to satisfy a judgment based on a claim against the partnership [Corp. Code § 16307(d)]. For example, a judgment creditor may proceed directly against the assets of a partner who is liable independently as the primary tortfeasor, but must exhaust the partnership's assets before proceeding against the separate assets of the other partners who are liable only as partners.

[f] Partnership Agreements

UPA '94 creates an extensive set of rules to govern the relations among partners and between the partners and the partnership. Most of these rules, however, can be varied by express agreement of the parties [see Corp. Code § 16103]. Thus, UPA '94 has its greatest impact on partnerships that must rely on statutory rules because they do not have detailed written partnership agreements.

[g] Partnership Conversions

The former UPA authorized conversions of general partnerships into limited liability partnerships, but its provisions did not treat the conversion of general partnerships into other entities, such as domestic or foreign limited partnerships and limited liability companies. UPA '94 contains detailed provisions [see Corp. Code §§ 16901-16909] covering such conversions, including the drafting of conversion plans, the approvals required for conversion, the effect of conversion on titles to real property and on the rights and liabilities of partners and the partnership, and the filing of statements of conversion. The UPA '94 conversion provisions are not exclusive, and general partnerships can be converted into other entities in any other manner provided by law [Corp. Code § 16917]. Conversion of partnerships is covered in Part C of this chapter.

[h] Mergers

While the former UPA authorized merger between partnerships, its provisions, added in 1992 and amended in 1995, were limited in scope and merely required that the partnership agreement sanction the merger and prescribed the vote required. The UPA '94 provisions [see Corp. Code §§ 16910-16917] are far more detailed, covering merger agreements, the law governing the surviving partnership, the effect of merger on title to real property, creditors rights and the liabilities of the members of the surviving entity, and, finally, the requirement of filing a statement of merger. Like the conversion provisions, the merger provisions of UPA '94 are not exclusive, and general partnerships can be merged into other entities in any other manner provided by law [Corp. Code § 16917]. Partnership merger is covered in Part C of this chapter.

[i] Partnership Statements

As discussed in more detail below, UPA '94 refines and expands the role of partnership statements. The former UPA also provided for partnership statements, but their only function was to create record title to real property [see former Corp Code §§ 15010.5-15010.7]. The former UPA also provided for public notice of a partnership dissolution in the form of newspaper publication [see former Corp. Code § 15035.5], but this was not a public record capable of giving constructive notice to third persons. The partnership statements provided for under UPA '94 combine the functions of creating record title and giving constructive notice of changes in the partnership. This is accomplished with a statement that is filed with the Secretary of State and, as necessary, recorded in the counties where the partnership owns real property [see Corp. Code § 16105].

[3] Correlation Table--Former UPA/UPA '94

This table compares and correlates the former Uniform Partnership Act [former Corp. Code §§ 15001-15058] with the Uniform Partnership Act of 1994 [Corp. Code §§ 16100-16962]. Using this table, readers can determine the sections of the former UPA that correspond to those in UPA '94, and vice versa. The table also indicates whether or not each section was revised and, if so, whether the revision was minor or major. Classification of revisions as "minor" or "major" obviously involves a degree of discretionary judgment by the authors of this table.

The left hand column gives the section number of the former UPA sections. The middle column indicates the corresponding section of the UPA '94, if any. The right hand column indicates whether or not any revision was made, as well as the extent of the revision.

PART A. Formation of General Partnerships
II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

7-15 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 15.12

§ 15.12 Partnership Statements Under UPA '94

[1] Generally

UPA '94 provides for various partnership statements that, once filed with the Secretary of State, and, if the partnership owns real property, recorded, are intended to place third parties on notice of the status of the partnership and the authority of the partners to act for the partnership. The principal effect of such filings will be to protect both the partners and third parties in transactions conducted in reliance on the filed and/or recorded statements. The UPA '94 partnership statements are much more particularized in content and effect than the omnibus "statement of partnership" filed under the former UPA. "Statement" is defined in UPA '94 as a statement of partnership authority, a statement of denial, a statement of dissolution, a statement or certificate of conversion, a statement of merger, or an amendment or cancellation of any of the foregoing [Corp. Code § 16101(17)].

PRACTICE TIP:

UPA '94 partnership statements are important documents in the formation, operation, and dissolution of partnerships, and all partners should become familiar with the statement forms and filing requirements. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

[2] Statement of Authority

A statement of authority may, but is not required, to be filed by the partnership in order to supplement a partner's authority to enter into transactions on behalf of the partnership. It contains information about the partnership, including the names of partners (or an agent), the names of partners authorized to transfer partnership real property, and the names of partners with specific or limited authority to enter into other transactions on behalf of the partnership [Corp. Code § 16303(a)].

[3] Statement of Denial

A statement of denial may be filed by a partner or other person named as a partner in a statement of partnership authority, or in a list maintained by the partnership's agent, in order to deny status as a partner. It has the effect, when filed, of putting third parties on notice of limitations on the authority of persons with whom they are conducting partnership transactions [Corp. Code § 16304].

[4] Statement of Dissociation

This statement is filed by a dissociated partner or the partnership and has the same limiting effect on a dissociated partner's authority to transact partnership as a statement of denial [Corp. Code § 16704].

[5] Statement of Dissolution

A statement of dissolution has the purpose of putting third persons on notice that the partnership is in the process of winding up its affairs. It has the effect of cancelling previously a filed statement of partnership authority [Corp. Code § 16805].

[6] Statement of Conversion

If a partnership has filed a statement of partnership authority that is effective at the time of conversion, and the partnership is converting to a domestic limited partnership, limited liability company, or corporation, the certificate of limited partnership or articles of the converted entity must contain a statement of conversion on the prescribed form [Corp. Code § 16906(a); see Corp. Code § 16303; see also [2], above]. The filing of this form is optional if the converting partnership does not have an effective statement of partnership authority on file. The statement of conversion must state the name and file number of the converting partnership, as well as a statement that the principal terms of the conversion were approved by the requisite voting interests [Corp. Code § 16906(a)]. The filing of this statement effectively cancels any previously filed statement of partnership authority by the converting partnership [Corp. Code § 16906(c)]. For additional discussion, see §§ 15.602[5][c], [8][d], and 15.801[1].

[7] Certificate of Conversion

A partnership that is converting to a foreign other business entity and that has filed a statement of partnership authority that is effective at the time of conversion may file a certificate of conversion [Corp. Code § 16906(b); see Corp. Code § 16303; see also [2], above]. The certificate of conversion must state the names of the converting and converted partnerships, the street address of the converted entity's chief executive office and of any California office, and the form of organization of the converted entity [Corp. Code § 16906(b)]. The filing of this statement effectively cancels any previously filed statement of partnership authority by the converting partnership [Corp. Code § 16906(c)]. For additional discussion, see §§ 15.602[6][c] and 15.802[1]. The Secretary of State's official form for a certificate of conversion is reproduced in § 15.802[2].

[8] Statement of Merger

Filed by surviving partnerships, other business entities into which a partnership has merged, or constituent domestic partnerships, the statement of merger is intended to put third parties on notice of the reorganization and afford the opportunity to revise any statements of partnership authority that a surviving domestic partnership may have on file [Corp. Code § 16915].

[9] Statement of Amendment of Cancellation

Any person authorized by the UPA '94 to file a statement may amend or cancel the statement by filing an amendment or cancellation that names the partnership, identifies the statement, and states the substance of the amendment or cancellation [Corp. Code § 16105(d)]. A statement of amendment of cancellation is made on the Secretary of State's Standard Form GP-7. For an illustration of Form GP-7, and comment, see § 15.287.

§ 15.13 Property Rights of Partnership

[1] In General

Property acquired by a partnership is property of the partnership and not of the partners individually [Corp. Code § 16203]. "Property" means all property, real, personal, or mixed, tangible or intangible, or any interest therein [Corp. Code § 16101(15)].

[2] How Acquired

Property is partnership property if acquired in the name of the partnership, or in the name of one or more partners with an indication in the instrument transferring title of the person's capacity as a partner or the existence of a partnership but without an indication of the name of the partnership [Corp. Code § 16204(a)]. Property is acquired in the name of the partnership by transfer to either (1) the partnership in its name, or (2) one or more partners in their capacity as partners if the name of the partnership is indicated in the instrument transferring title [Corp. Code § 16204(b)].

[3] Presumptions

Property is presumed to be partnership property if purchased with partnership assets, even if it is not acquired in the partnership name or in the name of one or more partners by an instrument indicating the person's capacity as a partner or the existence of a partnership [Corp. Code § 16204(c)]. Property acquired in the name of one or more of the partners, without an indication in the instrument of transfer of the partner's capacity as a partner or of the existence of a partnership, and without use of partnership assets, is presumed to be separate property even if used for partnership purposes [Corp. Code § 16204(d)]. For a discussion of transfers of partnership property, see § 15.15[2].

§ 15.14 Partners' Interest in Partnership

[1] No Interest in Partnership Property

A partner is not a co-owner of partnership property and has no interest in it that can be transferred [Corp. Code § 16501]. Only the partner's personal property interest ("transferable interest") in his or her share of the partnership profits and losses and the right to receive distributions can be transferred [Corp. Code § 16502].

[2] Effect of Transfer of Partner's Interest

A partner can transfer his or her interest in the partnership, and such a transfer will cause neither the partner's dissociation from the partnership nor its dissolution. Other than his or her interest in partnership distributions, a transferring partner retains the rights and duties of a partner [Corp. Code § 16503(d)]. A transfer that violates a restriction on transfer in the partnership agreement is ineffective as to a person with notice of the restriction [Corp. Code § 16503(f); see Corp. Code § 16102 (defining "notice")].

A transferee is not entitled to participate in managing the partnership business and has no right to access to the partnership books and records [Corp. Code § 16503(a)]. A transferee of a partner's transferable interest gets only the right to receive the transferee's distributions, the net amount due the transferor on dissolution and winding up, and the right to seek a judicial determination that it would be equitable to wind up the business [Corp. Code § 16503(b)]. In a dissolution and winding up, a transferee is entitled to an account of transactions only from the date of the latest account agreed to by all the partners [Corp. Code § 16503(c)]. The partnership does not have to recognize the transferee's rights until it has notice of the transfer [Corp. Code § 16503(e)].

[3] Charging Orders

UPA '94 provides the exclusive remedy by which a judgment creditor of a partner or a partner's transferee may satisfy a judgment out of the judgment debtor's transferable interest in the partnership [Corp. Code § 16504(a)]. Briefly, that remedy permits the judgment creditor to apply for a court order charging the transferable interest of the judgment debtor to satisfy the judgment, and gives the court the power to appoint a receiver of partnership distributions and to make all other orders, directions, accounts, and inquiries the judgment debtor might have made or that the circumstances of the case may require [Corp. Code § 16504(a)].

A charging order is a lien on the judgment debtor's transferable interest, and the court may order a foreclosure of an interest subject to a charging order at any time. The purchaser at the foreclosure sale has the rights of a transferee [Corp. Code § 16504(b)]. At any time before foreclosure, an interest charged may be redeemed by the judgment debtor, by other partners out of their separate property, or out of partnership property with the consent of all the partners whose interests are not charged [Corp. Code § 16504(c)].

§ 15.15 Relations of Partners to Persons Dealing With Partnership

[1] Partner as Agent of Partnership

[a] Ordinary Course of Business

Each partner is an agent of the partnership for purpose of the partnership business. The acts of a partner in the ordinary course of business bind the partnership unless the partner had no authority to act in a particular matter and the person with whom the partner was dealing knew or received notification that the partner lacked authority [Corp. Code § 16301(1)]. A partner's authority may be limited by a statement of partnership authority [see [3], below].

[b] Not in the Ordinary Course of Business

A partner is not the agent of the partnership, and his or her acts do not bind the partnership, if the acts are not for carrying on the ordinary course of the partnership business or business of the kind carried on by the partnership. However, a partnership may be bound by acts of a partner outside the ordinary course of partnership business if the other partners authorize it [Corp. Code § 16301(2)]

[2] Transfers of Partnership Property

[a] Authorized Transfers

A partner may authorize a transfer of property if the partner is acting as an agent for the partnership or the partnership is otherwise bound by the acts of the partner [see [1], above]. The method of authorized transfer depends on the manner in which the property is held. Partnership property may be held in the name of the partnership, in the name of a partner with an indication of the partner's status as a partner or of the existence of the partnership, or solely in the name of the partner with no reference to the partner's status or the existence of the partnership. In the first instance, a partner may transfer property by signing a transfer instrument in the partnership's name [Corp. Code § 16302(a)(1)]. In the second and third instances, a partner may transfer property by signing a transfer instrument in his or her own name [Corp. Code § 16302(a)(2), (3)].

If one person holds all of the partners' interest in the partnership, all of the partnership property vests in that person. That person may execute a document in the name of the partnership to evidence vesting of the property in that person and may file or record the document [Corp. Code § 16302(d)].

[b] Recovering Property From Unauthorized Transfers

A partnership may recover partnership property from a transferee only if it proves that the partner was not an agent of the partnership and that the partnership was not bound by the acts of the partner [see [1], above; see also [3][c], below (effect of partnership statement on authorized real property transfers)]. In addition, the partnership must prove either that a subsequent transferee for value knew or received notification that the person who signed the transfer instrument lacked authority to bind the partnership, or, as to a transferee for value, when the property was held solely in the name of the partner with no indication of the partner's status or the existence of the partnership, that the transferee knew or received notification that the property was partnership property and that the person who signed the transfer instrument lacked authority to bind the partnership [Corp. Code § 16302(b)].

A partnership may not recover partnership property from a subsequent transferee if the partnership could not meet the above rule to recover property from an earlier transferee [Corp. Code § 16302(c)].

[3] Statement of Partnership Authority

[a] Effect

A statement of partnership authority [see § 15.12[2]] may be used to specify the authority, or limitations on the authority of some or all of the partners to enter into other transactions on behalf of the partnership and any other matter [Corp. Code § 16303(a)(2)]. Its effect on dealings between third parties and the partnership and individual partners depends on the extent to which the third parties have notice and knowledge of the statement [see Corp. Code § 16102 (knowledge and notice construed)]. Filing alone is not sufficient to deem that a third party, who is not a partner, knows of limitations on the authority of a partner to act [Corp. Code § 16304(f)].

[b] Transfers of Property Other Than Real Property

A third person dealing with a partner on behalf of a partnership may rely conclusively on a grant of authority in a filed statement of partnership authority for all transfers for value other than transfers of real estate. However, there are two situations in which a partnership may disavow the partner's authority to make the transfer [Corp. Code § 16303(d)(1)]:

- If there was a subsequent statement on file that limited the authority granted to the partner [filed cancellation of a limitation revives a previous grant of authority], or

- If the third party had knowledge that the partner was not authorized to take the actions prescribed in the statement.

[c] Transfers of Real Property

A statement of partnership authority filed in the office of recording transfers for partnership real property binds the partnership and third party for a real property transfer. The third party may rely conclusively on the authority of the partner to make the transfer [Corp. Code § 16303(d)(2)]. The third party also is deemed to know of any limitation on the authority of a partner to transfer real property [Corp. Code § 16303(e)].

[d] Statement of Denial

A partner or person named as a partner in a filed statement of partnership authority may file a statement of denial. The statement of denial should describe the fact being denied, including a person's authority or status as partner. The statement of denial acts as a limitation of authority. [Corp. Code § 16304].

[4] Capacity to Sue

[a] Partnership and Third Parties

A partnership may sue and be sued in the name of the partnership [Corp. Code § 16307(a)]. In addition to an action against the partnership, a third party may bring the same or a separate action against any or all of the partners, except for partners in a limited liability partnership [Corp. Code § 16307(b); see Ch. 16C, Limited Liability Partnerships].

A partnership may bring an action against a partner for damage to the partnership from a breach of the partnership agreement or a violation of a duty to the partnership [Corp. Code § 16405(a)].

[b] Actions by Partners

A partner may bring an action against the partnership or another partner to do any of the following [Corp. Code § 16405(b)]:

- Enforce the partner's rights under the partnership agreement.
- Enforce the partner's rights under UPA '94.
- Enforce the rights and protect the interests of the partner, including those that arise independently of the partnership.

[5] Judgments

Because, under the UPA '94, a partnership is treated as a separate entity, a judgment against a partnership is not a judgment against a partner and the judgment may not be satisfied from a partner's assets without a judgment against the partner [Corp. Code § 16307(b)]. Similarly, a judgment creditor of a partner may not execute against the assets of the partner to satisfy a judgment based on a claim against the partnership unless [Corp. Code § 16307(d)]:

- A judgment based on the same claim has been obtained against the partnership and execution is returned unsatisfied in whole or in part;
- The partnership is in bankruptcy;
- The partner agrees that the creditor does not need to exhaust partnership assets;
- The court grants permission to levy against the partner after finding that partnership assets are clearly insufficient, the exhaustion of partnership assets is excessively burdensome, or that the court's permission is an appropriate exercise of its equity powers; or
- Liability is imposed on the partner by law or contract independent of the existence of the partnership.

These same rules apply to purported partners [Corp. Code § 16307(e); see § 15.16[3]].

§ 15.16 Liability of Partnership and Partners

[1] Partnership Liability for Partner Actions

A partnership is liable for the wrongful act or omission, or other actionable conduct of a partner acting in the ordinary course of the partnership business or with the authority of the partnership [Corp. Code § 16305(a)]. Similarly, the partnership is liable for the misapplication of any money or property by a partner acting in the course of the partnership business or with authority of the partnership [Corp. Code § 16305(b)].

[2] Partner Liability for Partnership Obligations

Partners are jointly and severally liable for all partnership obligations unless otherwise agreed by the claimant or provided by law [Corp. Code § 16306(a); see, e.g., Great Western Bank v. Kong (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 28, 31-33, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 266 (although under Corp. Code § 16306(a) all partners were jointly and severally liable for bank loan on real property, after foreclosure and entry of deficiency judgment, assignment of judgment to partnership and 11 of 12 partners extinguished the debt; the 11 partners could not acquire bank's right to collect balance of judgment from 12th partner, their co-obligor)]. However, a partner is not personally liable for partnership obligations incurred before the partner's admission to the partnership [Corp. Code § 16306(b)].

However, in order for an extended statute of limitations for collection to apply to them, general partners need not be separately assessed for a partnership tax debt for which they are secondarily liable [26 U.S.C. § 6502]. In a case in which the IRS timely assessed unpaid employment taxes against a partnership which never satisfied the debt, the IRS filed a proof of claim for those taxes in the general partners' Chapter 13 petitions under the Bankruptcy Code. The partners argued that the assessment extended the statute of limitations only against the partnership; the IRS had not separately assessed the general partners within the limitations period. The U.S. Supreme Court held that because the only relevant taxpayer for purposes of the assessment and collection statutes was the partnership, proper assessment of the tax against the partnership sufficed to extend the statute of limitations for collection of the tax from the general partners, who were liable for the payment of the partnership's debts. The government's timely assessment against the partnership was sufficient to extend the statute of limitations to collect the tax in a judicial proceeding, whether from the partnership itself or from those liable for its debts [United States v. Galletti (2004) 541 U.S. 114, 124 S. Ct. 1548, 158 L. Ed. 2d 279, 285] .

[3] Liability for Misrepresentation of Person as Partner

If a person who is not a partner claims partnership status, he or she will be liable to anyone who enters into a transaction with the partnership or purported partnership based on that representation. Misrepresentations that are made in a public manner may increase liability to include persons who rely on the misrepresentation, even if the purported partner did not know that the person relied on the misrepresentation [Corp. Code § 16308(a)].

The partnership may be liable to a third person who enters into a transaction with the partnership based on the misrepresentation if all the partners consent to the representation. If fewer than all of the partners consent to the representation, those partners become jointly and severally liable [Corp. Code § 16308(b)].

[4] Limits on Partnership Status Liability

A person is not liable as a partner merely because he or she is named as a partner in a statement of partnership authority [Corp. Code § 16308(c)]. Nor is a former partner liable after dissociation simply because the partnership statement of authority was not amended or a statement of dissociation was not filed [Corp. Code § 16308(d)]. Persons who are not partners are not liable as partners to other persons, except for misrepresentations of partnership status [Corp. Code § 16308(e); see Armato v. Baden (1999) 71 Cal. App. 4th 885, 897-899, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 294 (under former Corp. Code § 15016, independent contractor doctors for medical group were not jointly liable under ostensible partnership theory for treatment plaintiff received from group's physician assistant)].

§ 15.17 Relations of Partners to Each Other and the Partnership

[1] The Partnership Agreement

The partnership agreement governs relations among partners, and between partners and the partnership, except to the extent limited by law. Relations between the partnership and partners or among partners not covered by the partnership agreement are governed by UPA '94 [Corp. Code § 16103(a)].

[2] What the Partnership Agreement Cannot Do

A partnership agreement may not do any of the following [Corp. Code § 16103(b)]:

- Change the statutory rights and duties with respect to partnership statements available [Corp. Code § 16105], except to eliminate the duty to provide copies of partnership statements to all the partners.

- Make unreasonable restrictions on a partners' right to access books and records.

- Eliminate a partner's duty of loyalty, although it may establish types or categories of activities that do not violate the duty or allow, with full disclosure, for ratification of acts that would violate the duty.

- Reduce a partner's duty of care unreasonably.

- Eliminate a partner's obligation of good faith and fair dealing, although it may prescribe standards by which performance of that obligation may be measured.

- Change a partner's power to dissociate except to require notice in writing.

- Change the right of a court to expel a partner under the dissociation provisions.

- Change the requirements to wind up partnership business under court determinations [see Corp. Code § 16801(4)-(6)].

- Restrict the rights of third parties.

- Change the law applicable to registered limited liability partnerships.

PRACTICE TIP:

Note that UPA '94 expressly authorizes partners to reasonably self-define their fiduciary duties of loyalty, care, and good faith and fair dealing. Reduction or modification of these duties may be appropriate to avoid disputes over, for example, a potential conflict of interest resulting from a partner's involvement with another entity. On the other hand, counsel should be wary of reducing fiduciary duties when the prospective partners are less sophisticated and, in some cases, may need to have fiduciary duties spelled out in greater detail. During the client interview, counsel should carefully identify possible issues that would warrant modifying or particularizing the statutory fiduciary duties or that could create an actual conflict of interest in the representation of multiple parties during partnership formation. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

[3] Partner and Partnership Rights and Liabilities Under UPA '94

[a] When the Act Standards Apply

The UPA '94 provisions setting forth the rights and liabilities of partners and partnerships as among themselves apply to the extent that a partnership agreement is silent and there is no contrary provision, with the exceptions noted in [2], above [Corp. Code § 16103(a)].

[b] Management

Each partner has equal rights in the management and conduct of the partnership business [Corp. Code § 16401(f)]. Decisions in the ordinary course of business may be made by a majority of partners. However, acts outside the ordinary course of business and amendment of the partnership agreement may be undertaken only with the consent of all partners [Corp. Code § 16401(j)].

[c] Profits and Losses

Each partner is entitled to an equal share of partnership profits, and is chargeable with a share of partnership losses in proportion to the partner's share of profits [Corp. Code § 16401(b)].

[d] Partnership Accounts

Each partner is deemed to have a partnership account that is credited with an amount equal to the money and the net value of property contributed to the partnership plus the partner's share of partnership profits. A partner's account is charged with an amount equal to the money plus the net value of any other property distributed to the partner and the partner's share of any partnership losses [Corp. Code § 16402(a)(1), (2)].

[e] Payments and Advances

A partner is entitled to be reimbursed for payments made and indemnified for liabilities incurred in the ordinary course of business or for the preservation of the partnership business or property [Corp. Code § 16401(c)]. Similarly, a partner is entitled to be reimbursed for advances to the partnership in excess of the capital the partner agreed to contribute [Corp. Code § 16401(d)]. Payments or advances that become partnership obligations are loans that accrue interest from the date of the payment or advance [Corp. Code § 16401(e)].

[f] Distributions in Kind

A partner has no right to receive, and may not be required to accept, a distribution in kind [Corp. Code § 16402].

[4] Partner Fiduciary Duties Under UPA '94

[a] Duties and Obligations Owed

Under UPA '94, a partner owes a duty of loyalty and a duty of care to the partnership [Corp. Code § 16404(a)]. Further, a partner must discharge his or her duties under UPA '94 and the partnership agreement, and exercise any partner rights, consistent with the obligation of good faith and fair dealing [Corp. Code § 16404(d)].

The obligation of good faith and fair dealing may not be eliminated by the partnership agreement. However, the partnership agreement may prescribe standards to measure a partner's performance of the obligation [Corp. Code § 16103(b)(5)].

A partner does not violate a duty or obligation under UPA '94 or the partnership agreement simply because the partner's conduct furthers his or her own interest [Corp. Code § 16404(e); see, e.g., Jones v. Wagner (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 466, 473-474, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 669 (no breach of fiduciary duty for partner to bid on and purchase partnership real property at foreclosure sale that took place after other partners had failed to fulfill their obligation to make mortgage payments on property); but see Everest Investors 8 v. McNeil Partners (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 411, 424, 429, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 31 (limited partner alleged that general partners breached fiduciary duties by engaging in wrongful actions related to merger transaction that benefitted themselves at expense of limited partners; claims held to be individual rather than derivative in nature)]. The apparent purpose of Corp. Code § 16404(e) is to excuse partners from accounting for incidental benefits obtained in the course of partnership activities, when there is no detriment to the partnership. The statute cannot be invoked to justify a partner's substantial use of partnership property at the expense of the partnership [Enea v. Superior Court (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 1559, 1566, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 513] .

[b] Duty of Loyalty

A partner's duty of loyalty includes all of the following [Corp. Code § 16404(b)]:

- To account for any property, profit, or benefit obtained in the conduct and winding up of partnership business, including the appropriation of a partnership opportunity;

- To refrain from dealing with the partnership on behalf of a party having an adverse interest to the partnership; and

- To refrain from competing with the partnership.

The list of loyalty-related obligations in Corp. Code § 16404(b) is not exclusive. The statute provides that "loyalty to the partnership and the other partners includes all of" the listed obligations (emphasis added). Thus, the statute leaves further articulation of the duty of loyalty to traditional common law processes [Enea v. Superior Court (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 1559, 1565, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 513 (one partner could not occupy partnership's real property and pay below-market rent over objection of other partner)].

The duty of loyalty is imposed by law. It does not depend on any provision in the partnership agreement [Enea v.

Superior Court (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 1559, 1566-1567, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 513] , nor may it be eliminated by the partnership agreement. However, the partnership agreement may provide, if not manifestly unreasonable, for [Corp. Code § 16103(b)(3)(A), (B)]:

- Specific type or categories of activities that do not violate the duty of loyalty, or

- Ratification, after full disclosure of all material facts, of acts or transactions that would violate the duty of loyalty by all or some lesser number of partners.

[c] Duty of Care

A partner's duty of care means that the partner will avoid engaging in grossly negligent or reckless conduct, intentional misconduct, or a knowing violation of law, in conducting partnership business or winding up the partnership [Corp. Code § 16404(c)]. A partner's duty of care may not be unreasonably reduced by the partnership agreement [Corp. Code § 16103(b)(4)].

[5] Continuation of Term Partnership

A partnership that is created for a definite term or particular undertaking may be continued after the expiration of the term or completion of the undertaking. If the partnership is continued and there is no express agreement to do so, the rights and duties of the partners remain the same as they were at the expiration of the term or completion of the undertaking, consistent with a partnership at will [Corp. Code § 16406(a)]. Partners who acted in the partnership business and who continue the business without settlement or dissolution are presumed to have agreed that the partnership will continue [Corp. Code § 16406(b)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Term partnerships are akin to joint ventures. When working with less sophisticated clients, counsel may prefer to structure the relationship as a joint venture, rather than a term partnership, in order to reinforce the relationship's finite nature and seek to avoid the unintended creation of an at will partnership. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

§ 15.18 Tax Consequences of Formation

[1] Partnership as Separate Entity

For tax purposes, a partnership is an unincorporated organization by or through which a business, financial operation, or venture is carried on [I.R.C. § 761(a)]. Partnerships receive entity treatment for purposes of calculating taxable income and filing information returns [see United States v. Basye (1973), 410 U.S. 441, 448 n.8, 93 S. Ct. 1080, 35 L. Ed. 2d 412] . Partnerships serve as conduits through which the tax obligation passes to the individual partners [United States v. Basye (1973) 410 U.S. 441, 448 n.8, 93 S. Ct. 1080, 35 L. Ed. 2d 412] .

[2] Nonrecognition of Gain or Loss on Contribution of Property

In general, for both federal and California tax purposes, the contribution of property to a partnership in exchange for a partnership interest does not create recognizable gain or loss to either the partnership or the contributing partner [I.R.C. § 721(a); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851]. Under California law, the taxation of partnerships is generally determined in accordance with Subchapter K of the Internal Revenue Code [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851; see I.R.C. §§ 701-761 (Subchapter K); but see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17851.5 (imposes tax on limited partnerships), 17853-17857 (modifications of federal provisions), 17935 (applicable to limited partnerships only); see also § 15.20].

[3] Basis

[a] Partner's Basis in Partnership

The basis of a partner's interest in a partnership equals the amount of money plus the adjusted basis at the time of contribution of any property contributed [I.R.C. § 722; Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851]. A partner's basis in the partnership is adjusted to account for partnership profits and losses, distributions to the partner, and other tax items such as tax-exempt income, depletion deductions, and the like [I.R.C. § 705].

[b] Partnership Basis in Contributed Property

A partnership's basis in the contributed property is the contributing partner's adjusted basis at the time of contribution [I.R.C. § 723; Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851]. However, the nonrecognition rule of I.R.C. § 721(a) does not apply to gain realized on a transfer of property to a partnership that would be treated as an investment company [see I.R.C. § 351] if the partnership were incorporated [I.R.C. § 721(b); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851]. Therefore, if a property transfer falls within the scope of I.R.C. § 721(b), the contributing partner's basis in the partnership will be increased by the amount of gain recognized to the partner at the time of contribution [I.R.C. § 722; Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851], and the partnership's basis in the contributed property would be the partner's basis increased by the amount of the partner's gain [I.R.C. § 723; Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851].

[4] Assumption of Liabilities

If property is contributed to a partnership subject to liabilities, the partnership and partner generally are treated as if the partnership assumed the liabilities to the extent of the fair market value of the property [see I.R.C. § 752(c); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851]. To the extent there is an assumption of liability, the partner is treated as having received a distribution of money from the partnership [I.R.C. § 752(b); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851]. This constructive distribution reduces the basis of the contributor's partnership interest in an amount equal to the liability assumed by the partnership [see I.R.C. § 733; Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851]. If the constructive distribution exceeds the partner's tax basis in the partnership, the constructive distribution may produce taxable gain [see I.R.C. § 731(a); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851].

[5] Contributing Depreciable Property

Depreciation previously taken on contributed property is not recaptured when the property is contributed to a partnership [see I.R.C. §§ 1245(b)(3), 1250(d)(3); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851]. The partnership's holding period includes that of the contributing partner [see I.R.C. § 1223(1); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851].

§ 15.19 Taxation of Partnership Income

[1] Partnership Does Not Pay Tax

The basic premise of Subchapter K is that the partnership is only an accounting entity for determining items of income and loss that are to be allocated to the individual taxpayers (the partners) [see I.R.C. § 701; see also I.R.C. §§ 701-761]. Thus, partnerships file information returns but they do not, as entities, pay tax [I.R.C. §§ 701, 6031]. For California tax purposes, the taxation of partnerships generally conforms to federal law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851; but see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17851.5 (application of tax for privilege of doing business to limited partnerships, limited liability companies, and limited liability partnerships), 17853-17857 (modifications of federal law), 17935 (tax on limited partnership)].

[2] Partnership Taxable Income

Partnership taxable income is computed in the same manner as individual taxable income, except that items of gains and loss must be stated separately [I.R.C. § 703(a)(1); see I.R.C. § 702(a)], and the following deductions are not available to the partnership [I.R.C. § 703(a)(2); Treas. Reg. § 1.703-1(a)(2)]:

- Personal exemptions [see I.R.C. § 151].
- Foreign taxes [see I.R.C. §§ 164(a), 901].
- Charitable contributions [see I.R.C. § 170].
- Net operating losses [see I.R.C. § 172].
- Specified individual itemized deductions [see I.R.C. §§ 211-219].

- Oil and gas depletion [see I.R.C. § 611].
- Standard deduction [see I.R.C. § 63(c)].
- Capital loss carryovers [see I.R.C. § 1212].

For California tax purposes, partnership taxable income is generally determined in accordance with Subchapter K of the Internal Revenue Code [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851; see I.R.C. §§ 701-761; but see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17853-17857 (modifications of federal provisions), 17851.5, 17935 (tax for privilege of doing business imposed on limited partnerships, limited liability companies, and limited liability partnerships)]. However, the deduction allowed by I.R.C. § 164(a) with respect to taxes paid to another state is not allowed to partnerships under California law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17853].

[3] Partners Are Responsible for Income Tax

For both federal and California tax purposes, partners are responsible in their individual capacities for payment of income taxes on partnership income [I.R.C. § 701; Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851]. Liability for tax due on the distributive share attaches regardless of whether or not the share is actually distributed [see I.R.C. §§ 701, 702; see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851].

PRACTICE TIP:

When the partners intend to finance growth of their business with retained earnings, the partnership agreement can provide for an annual tax distribution in an amount that will satisfy the individual partners' tax liability on the retained earnings. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

[4] Allocating a Partner's Distributive Share

Each item of taxable income or loss realized by the partnership is allocated between the partners, and the amount allocated to each partner is that partner's "distributive share," which is generally determined by the partnership agreement. Each partner must take into account separately the partner's distributive share of the following partnership items [I.R.C. § 702(a)]:

- Gains and losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets held for not more than one year.
- Gains and losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets held for more than one year.
- Gains and losses from sales or exchanges of property described in I.R.C. § 1231 (relating to certain property used in a trade or business and involuntary conversions).
- Charitable contributions [see I.R.C. § 170(c)].
- Dividends that are subject to capital gains treatment [see I.R.C. § 1(h)(11)] or for which a corporate dividends-received deduction applies [see I.R.C. §§ 241-249].
- Taxes paid or accrued to foreign countries and United States possessions [see I.R.C. § 901].
- Other items of income, gain, loss, deduction, or credit to the extent provided by the regulations [see Treas. Reg. § 1.702-1(a)(8)].

- Taxable income or loss, exclusive of items requiring separate computation under the preceding paragraphs.

The purpose of these separate computations is to preserve the character of the items, such as charitable contributions, whose ultimate treatment depends on facts particular to each partner. Further, the tax character of any item of income, gain, loss, deduction, or credit included in a partner's distributive share is determined at the partnership level as if the item was realized directly from the same source as that realized by the partnership, or incurred in the same manner as incurred by the partnership [I.R.C. § 702(b)].

§ 15.20 Substantial Economic Effect

Generally, a partner's distributive share of income, gain, loss, deduction, or credit is determined by the partnership agreement [see I.R.C. § 704(a)]. If the partnership agreement provides for any special allocations of income, gain, loss, deduction, or credit, the IRS will not recognize the allocation if it does not have substantial economic effect [see I.R.C. § 704(b)].

To have substantial economic effect, a special allocation must affect the dollar amount of the partners' shares in total partnership income independent of tax consequences [Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)(i),(iii)]. For instance, a partnership agreement may allocate to a partner who lives in a foreign country a greater percentage of the profit derived from operations conducted by that partner within the country than the partner's distributive share of partnership income generally. An allocation of this type would have substantial economic effect and would be recognized absent other circumstances showing that its principal purpose was tax avoidance [Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)].

On the other hand, if a partnership agreement is amended to provide for a year in which the partnership incurs losses on the sale of depreciable property, by specially allocating those losses to one partner who has individual gains against which the losses could be used and an equal amount of partnership loss or deduction of a different character to other partners who could not use the losses, the special allocation would not withstand IRS scrutiny. Since the purpose and effect of this allocation would be solely to reduce the taxes of one partner without actually affecting any partner's share of partnership income, it would not have substantial economic effect and would not be recognized [Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)]. If a special allocation is not recognized, the distributive share to which it relates is determined in accord with the distributee partner's interest in the partnership (taking into account all facts and circumstances) [I.R.C. § 704(b)].

§ 15.21 Contributions of Property to Partnership

[1] Tax Problems

The partnership basis of property contributed by a partner is the adjusted basis of the property to the contributing partner at the time of the contribution [I.R.C. § 723; Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851]. Because the fair market value of contributed property may differ from the contributing partner's adjusted basis, potential tax problems surround contributions of property to partnerships.

Income, gain, loss, and deductions with respect to property contributed to the partnership by a partner must be shared among partners pursuant to Treasury Regulations so as to take account of the variation between the basis of the property and its fair market value at the time of contribution. Similar rules apply to contributions by a partner of accounts payable and other accrued but unpaid items [I.R.C. § 704(c)(1)(A); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851]. Special rules apply to (1) distributions of contributed property that occur within seven years of contribution [see I.R.C. § 704(c)(1)(B); see also I.R.C. § 704(c)(3)]; (2) distributions of contributed property that would not result in gain or loss outside the partnership context [see I.R.C. § 704(c)(2); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851]; and (3) distributions of any contributed property that has a built-in loss at the time of contribution [see I.R.C. § 704(c)(1)(C)].

Contributing property that is subject to a liability may also have sales tax consequences. The transfer of property to a commencing partnership in which the partnership assumes the liability in whole or in part as consideration for the transfer may be a taxable sale under the California Sales and Use Tax Law [Cal-Metal Corp. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1984) 161 Cal. App. 3d 759, 765, 207 Cal. Rptr. 783 ; see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 6001-7176; see also Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice, § 17.12]. If it is a sale, the contributing partner may owe sales tax on some portion of the liability assumed by the partnership [see Cal-Metal Corp. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1984) 161 Cal. App. 3d 759, 768 769, 207 Cal. Rptr. 783] .

[2] Property With Built-In Gain or Loss

[a] Built-In Gain or Loss Treatment

Built-in gain or loss on property contributed to a partnership is any unrecognized gain or loss on property contributed to the partnership. The built-in gain or loss is the difference between the property's fair market value at the time of contribution and the partner's adjusted basis in the property [see Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3(a)(3)(ii)]. This gain or loss is subject to special allocation rules designed to prevent the shifting of the tax consequences of the built-in gain or loss from the contributing partner to other partners. A partnership agreement does not have the required substantial economic effect if it does not account for built-in gain or loss as required under the Treasury Regulations [see Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(b)(2)(iv)(d)(3); for further discussion of substantial economic effect, see § 15.20].

[b] Effect of Distributing the Property

If built-in gain or loss property is distributed within seven years of being contributed to the partnership, the contributing partner must recognize any remaining built-in gain or loss. The character of the gain or loss is determined as if the property were sold to the distributee, and the partnership must make appropriate adjustments to reflect the partner's recognition of the gain or loss [I.R.C. § 704(c)(1)(B)].

[c] Allocating Built-In Gain or Loss

If the built-in gain or loss property is not distributed, the partnership must allocate the built-in gain or loss using a reasonable method to assure that the contributing partner receives the tax burdens and benefits of the built-in gain or loss. [I.R.C. § 704(c); Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3(a)(1)]. The Treasury Regulations give three allocation methods that are deemed to meet the reasonable allocation standard [Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3(a)(1)]. They are the traditional method [Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3(b)], the traditional method with curative allocations [Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3(c)] and, under temporary regulations, the remedial allocation method [Temp. Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3T(d), (e)(3)]. Although there are three separate methods, in practice the traditional allocation method is used first, and if the ceiling rule under that method limits allocations, then curative or remedial allocations may be used [Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3(c)(1); Temp. Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3T(d)].

[d] Traditional Method and Ceiling Rule

The traditional allocation method requires the allocation of built-in gain or loss to the contributing partner on the sale of the property, or a portion of the gain or loss if only a portion of the property is sold. The more complex requirement of the traditional method is the allocation of cost recovery deductions, depreciation, depletion, or amortization, among the partners to account for built-in gain or loss [Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3(b)(1)]. For example, assume that A and B form a partnership, AB, in which the partnership agreement provides that they are to share the profits equally. A contributes $10,000 in cash and B contributes machinery worth $10,000, but with an adjusted tax basis of $4,000. If, during the year, the partnership sells the machinery for $10,000, then under the traditional allocation method the $6,000 gain ($10,000 proceeds less $4,000 adjusted basis) is allocated to B, the contributing partner. However, if the machinery is kept for the year and depreciated on a straight-line basis over a 10 year period, then the partnership is entitled to $400 of tax depreciation (10 percent of adjusted basis of $4,000), although for book purposes the depreciation is $1,000 (10 percent of $10,000), divided equally between A and B for capital account purposes. Under the traditional allocation method, the tax depreciation is allocated entirely to A for the year. Thus, assuming the proceeds and operating expenses of AB are equal in that year, A will have a book value in the partnership of $9,500 ($10,000 less book deprecation of $500) and a tax basis of $9,600 ($10,000 less tax depreciation of $400). B will have also have a book value of $9,500, but B's tax basis will be $4,000. The built-in gain associated with the property will be reduced from $6,000 to $5,400 ($9,000 book value after book depreciation of $1,000, less $3,600 tax basis in property after depreciation of $400) [Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3(b)(2)].

In the above example, the ceiling rule operates to limit the allocation of depreciation to the noncontributing partner to the actual tax depreciation allowed. Although allocations of deductions must take into account the built-in gain or loss, the total allocated to one partner in a taxable year may not exceed the allowable partnership deduction in the year [Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3(b)(1)].

[e] Traditional Method With Curative Allocations

If the ceiling rule limits allocations, a partnership may use the traditional method with curative allocations [Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3(c)]. Under this method the partnership may make curative allocations of partnership income, gain or loss, or tax deductions to cure disparities in the book and tax basis values of the cash partner caused by the operation of the ceiling rule noted above. Thus, in the above example, A, the cash contributing partner, had a tax basis of $9,600 and a book value basis of $9,500 at the end of the first year. If the partnership had earned income during the year and chose to use the traditional method with curative allocations, an extra $100 of income could have been allocated for tax purposes to B instead of A, thereby curing the disparity in tax and book capital accounts. The curative allocation would also have the effect of more quickly reducing B's built-in gain with respect to the contributed property [Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3(c)(1)].

Curative allocations may not exceed the amount necessary to offset the disparity caused by the ceiling rule [Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3(c)(3)] and must have the same effect on each partner's tax liability as the item limited by the ceiling rule. For example, an allocation of ordinary income can not be a curative allocation for capital gain [Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3(c)(3)(iii)].

[f] Remedial Allocations

Partnerships may use a remedial allocation method to eliminate ceiling rule disparities for noncontributing partners [Temp. Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3T(d)]. As with curative allocations, remedial allocations may only be made if the ceiling rule limits the allocation of income or deductions and causes a disparity in the noncontributing partner's tax and book basis. Remedial allocations are tax allocations of income or gain that are offset by tax allocations of loss or deduction. These tax allocations are created by the partnership and have no effect on the partnership's book capital accounts [Temp. Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3T(d)(1)].

The remedial allocation method requires that the partnership calculate the book value of the adjusted tax basis and the built-in gain of the contributed property separately. The adjusted tax basis of the property is recovered for book purposes in the same manner as other property, generally, over the property's remaining recovery period. However, the built-in gain--the amount by which the book basis exceeds the adjusted tax basis--is recovered using a recovery period and any applicable method that may be used for new property of a type that the partner contributed. Thus, if A contributes $10,000 in cash and B contributes property with a FMV of $10,000 and an adjusted basis of $4,000 with four years remaining in the cost recovery period partnership AB, the book value of the built-in gain and the adjusted tax basis of the property are recovered for book value purposes under different schedules. The adjusted tax basis is recovered over the remaining period; $4,000 over four years. The built-in gain of $6,000 is recovered, over a new recovery period of 10 years on a straight-line basis.

In this example, book depreciation is $1,600 per year divided equally between A and B, assuming the partnership agreement provides for equal division. The tax depreciation is allocated $800 to A and $200 to B. No remedial allocations are allowed during this period because there are no disparities between the noncontributing partner A's book depreciation and tax depreciation.

After four years when the property's tax depreciation basis is exhausted, A will still have book depreciation of $300 (of $600--$6,000 recovered over 10-year period) but no tax depreciation. Remedial allocations then may be made to correct the disparity between the noncontributing partner's book and tax depreciation.

Remedial allocations are tax allocations created by the partnership that have no effect on the partnership's book capital accounts. The allocations essentially are phantom transactions for tax purposes that assign remedial allocations of gain, loss or deduction to the noncontributing partner and simultaneous offsetting allocations to the contributing partner [Temp. Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3T(d)(1)]. Like curative allocations, remedial allocations must have the same effect on each partner's tax liability as the tax item limited by the ceiling rule [Temp. Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3T(d)(3)]. Thus, in the example above, the remedial allocations would be an allocation of tax depreciation of $300 per year to A and a corresponding and offsetting allocation of $300 of income to B. The income allocated to B must be of the same type of income as income from the property [Temp. Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3T(d)(5), Example 1(iii)(B)].

[g] Allocations on Property by Property Basis

Regardless of the allocation method used, built-in gain or loss must be accounted for on a property by property basis. Generally, gain or loss on different properties may not be aggregated [Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3(a)(2)]. However, aggregation of properties, other than real property, is allowed for (1) depreciable property that is in the same general asset account of both the partner and partnership, (2) zero-basis property, and (3) inventory, other than securities or similar investment interests, if the partnership does not use a specific identification method of accounting [Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3(e)(2)].

[h] Small Disparities

Small amounts of built-in gain or loss (small disparities) may be disregarded for special allocation purposes [Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3(e)(1)(i)]. Small disparities are differences of less than 15 percent between the partner's adjusted basis in the property and the book value for partnership purposes if the total disparity does not exceed $20,000. The fifteen percent and $20,000 figures are measured in the aggregate on all properties contributed by the partner [Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3(e)(1)(ii)].

[i] Anti-Abuse Rule

All methods of allocation are subject to an anti-abuse rule stated in the regulations. Under this rule, any allocation method or combination of methods that is used with a view to shifting the tax consequences of built-in gain or loss among the partners in a way that substantially reduces the present value of the partners' aggregate tax liability is not reasonable for purposes of qualifying under the regulation standards [Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3(a)(10)].

§ 15.22 Loss Allowance

[1] Loss Limited to Partner's Adjusted Basis

A partner's distributive share of partnership losses is allowed only to the extent of the partner's adjusted basis in the partnership at the end of the partnership taxable year in which the loss occurs [I.R.C. § 704(d)]. Any excess may be deducted at the end of the partnership year in which it is repaid to the partnership [I.R.C. § 704(d)]. A former partner cannot invoke the loss carryover provisions of I.R.C. § 704(d) in the tax year after he or she withdraws from the partnership [Treas. Reg. § 1.704-1(d); see Sennett v. C.I.R. (9th Cir. [T.C.] 1985) 752 F.2d 428 431] .

[2] At Risk Limitations

Loss allowances are further limited for a partner who is any of the following: (1) an individual, (2) an S corporation, or (3) a closely held corporation in which five or fewer individuals own more than 50 percent of the stock [see I.R.C. §§ 465(a)(1), 542(a)(2)]. Such a partner may deduct losses from certain activities to the extent of the amounts the partner has at risk in the activity giving rise to the loss [I.R.C. § 465(a)]. Amounts at risk include: (1) the money and adjusted basis of other property contributed by the partner to the activity, and (2) amounts borrowed for use in the activity if the partner is personally liable for their repayment or has pledged property not used in the activity as security for the loan [I.R.C. § 465(b)(1)]. Amounts are not at risk if they are protected against loss through nonrecourse financing, guarantees, stop loss agreements, or other similar arrangements [I.R.C. § 465(b)(4); see Whitmire v. C.I.R. (9th Cir. 1999) 178 F.3d 1050, 1058 (limited partner held not at risk under I.R.C. § 465 because he was protected from loss by I.R.C. § 465(b)(4))]. However, amounts at risk also include the partner's share of any qualified nonrecourse financing that is secured by real property used in the activity of holding real property [I.R.C. § 465(b)(6)(A); I.R.C. § 465(b)(6)(E) ("holding real property" defined)]. The "partner's share" will be determined on the basis of the partner's share of liabilities of that partnership incurred in connection with the financing [I.R.C. § 465(b)(6)(C); see I.R.C. § 752]. "Qualified nonrecourse financing" means any financing (1) that is borrowed by a taxpayer with respect to the activity of holding real property [see I.R.C. § 465(b)(6)(E) (defined)]; (2) that is borrowed from a qualified person [see I.R.C. §

465(b)(6)(D)(i) (defined)] or from (or guaranteed by) any federal, state, or local government or instrumentality; (3) for which no person is personally liable for repayment; and (4) that is not convertible debt [I.R.C. § 465(b)(6)(B)].

[3] Passive Activity Limitations

The at-risk rule acts as a ceiling on the amount of loss that may be deducted for any activity. The passive activity rule then acts as a potential further limitation on the deductibility of losses that are otherwise allowable under the at-risk rule. An activity involving the conduct of a trade or business in which the taxpayer does not materially participate is denominated a "passive" activity for federal income tax purposes [I.R.C. § 469(c)]. Deductions and credit arising from passive activities may only be taken against income and tax liability attributable to all passive activities [I.R.C. § 469(a)(1), (d)]. Deductions and credits that are disallowed under the rule in any taxable year may be carried forward to the next taxable year but not back to any previous taxable year [I.R.C. § 469(b)].

For a detailed discussion of the passive activity rule, see Ch. 29A, Joint Ventures .

§ 15.23 Taxable Year of Partnership

[1] Consequences of Selecting the Partnership Taxable Year

Partners are taxed on their shares of partnership income for the taxable partnership year ending within the taxable year of the partner [I.R.C. § 706(a); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851]. Accordingly, if the principal partners are not all on the same taxable year, income from the partnership may be deferred for some or all of them through selection of the partnership taxable year.

Federal law allows three alternative methods of determining the taxable year of a partnership: the majority interest [see [2], below], business purpose [see [3], below], and the alternative tax year election [see [4], below].

A partnership generally must select the same taxable year for California purposes as it selects for federal purposes except with approval of the Franchise Tax Board [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17565(a)].

[2] Majority Interest Taxable Year

The "majority interest" method determines the taxable year by reference to the partners. Specifically, it provides that the taxable year will be the "majority interest taxable year," if applicable [I.R.C. § 706(b)(1)(B)(i); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851]. That year is the taxable year of the partner or partners who, on specified "testing days," own an aggregate interest in the partnership's profits and capital of more than 50 percent [I.R.C. § 706(b)(1)(B)(i), (4)(A)(i); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851]. The "testing days" will be the first day of the partnership's existing taxable year (determined without regard to the above definition of majority interest taxable year), unless the Secretary prescribes different days [I.R.C. § 706(b)(4)(A)(ii); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851].

If a majority interest taxable year can not be determined, then the partnership taxable year will be the same as the taxable year of all of the principal partners [I.R.C. § 706(b)(1)(B)(ii); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851]. A "principal partner" is a partner with a 5 percent or greater interest in partnership profits or capital [I.R.C. § 706(b)(3); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851]. If a taxable year cannot be determined on either basis, then the partnership's taxable year will be the calendar year unless another period is prescribed by IRS regulations [I.R.C. § 706(b)(1)(B)(iii); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851].

[3] Business Purpose

As an alternative to the majority interest taxable year, a partnership may select a taxable year that corresponds to its business. However, the partnership must establish to the satisfaction of the IRS that there is a business purpose for using that taxable year. Deferral of income to partners is not a business purpose in this regard [I.R.C. § 706(b)(1)(C); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851; see Treas. Reg. § 1.706-1].

[4] Electing Alternative Taxable Year

Under the alternative taxable year method, a partnership may elect to have a taxable year other than the required taxable year, majority interest, or business purpose [I.R.C. § 444(a), (e); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17551(a), (b)]. This election may be made only if there is no more than a three-month period (known as the "deferral period" [see I.R.C. § 444(b)(4)]) between the beginning of the first taxable year under the election and the close of the first required taxable year (under I.R.C. § 706(b)) ending within that year [I.R.C. § 444(b); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17551(a), (b)]. Thus, the partnership cannot elect a taxable year that has more than a three-month overlap with the taxable year that it would be required to use in the absence of such an election.

The election to use an alternative taxable year is made by filing IRS Form 8716 [see Ch. 2B, Electing Subchapter S Status]. If the partnership makes such an election, it must make the advance tax payments required by I.R.C. § 7519 [I.R.C. § 444(c)(1)]. That section requires the partnership to pay the amount by which its "required payment" (the highest rate of tax under I.R.C. § 1, plus one percentage point applied to its net base year income, over the required payment for the preceding applicable election year) exceeds $500 [I.R.C. § 7519(b)].

An election of an alternative taxable year will remain in effect until the partnership changes its taxable year. A change to a required taxable year may be made without the consent of the Secretary [I.R.C. § 444(d)(2)(A); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17551(a), (b)]. However, once the partnership terminates its election in this manner, it cannot elect another alternative year [I.R.C. § 444(d)(2)(B); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17551(a), (b)].

I.R.C. § 444 is applicable to select a partnership taxable year for California taxation purposes [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17551(a)]. However, the advance payments under I.R.C. § 7519 are not required for California [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17551(b)].

§ 15.24 Partnership Distributions

When a partnership transfers money or property to a partner in a transaction other than a loan, sale, or guaranteed payment, a distribution occurs [Treas. Reg. § 1.731-1(c)(2), (3); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17024.5(d)]. Any decrease in a partner's share of partnership liabilities and any assumption by the partnership of a partner's personal liabilities are treated as money distributions to the partner [I.R.C. § 752(b); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851]. Distributions are considered current for tax purposes if they do not result in a termination of the recipient partner's partnership interest [Treas. Reg. §§ 1.731-1(a), 1.761-1(d); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851].

Gain on a current distribution is not recognized except to the extent that any money distributed exceeds the adjusted basis of the recipient partner's partnership interest immediately before the distribution [I.R.C. § 731(a)(1); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851]. No loss is recognized by a partner on a current distribution [see I.R.C. § 731(a)(2); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851].

Exceptions to the general rule of nonrecognition of gain or loss on current distributions are made in certain situations involving unrealized receivables and substantially appreciated property [see I.R.C. § 751(b)(1); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851]. The exception for distributions of unrealized receivables has particular application to professional partnerships in which a substantial portion of total assets are usually represented by open accounts.

The partnership has no gain or loss on distributions of property or money to a partner [I.R.C. § 731(b); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851].

§ 15.100 Facts

1. Names and addresses of all partners, including county in which each resides.

NOTE:
Each partner's county of residence is important since it will determine where suit for breach of the partnership agreement or violation of a duty to the partnership should be filed. Generally, proper venue for such actions is the county in which the defendant partner resides [see Code Civ. Proc. § 395].

2. Names, addresses, and registered agents for service of process of every partner that is an entity rather than an individual.

NOTE:
When one of more of the prospective partners is an entity, it is good practice to obtain the names of the individual principals of the entity, determine if there are any potential conflicts of interest between them and the proposed partnership, and obtain waivers as necessary from the other partners.

3. Type and general characteristics of business to be conducted.

NOTE:
This information will be necessary to determine: (1) whether compliance with certain licensing requirements will be necessary; (2) what accounting method should be employed; and (3) what, if any, special provisions should be included in a buy-sell agreement.

4. Proposed partnership name.

a. Which partners' names, if any, will be used.

b. If partners' names will not be used, what fictitious business name will be adopted [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17900-17930].

c. Which partners' names will be retained after death, retirement, or other dissociation of a partner.

NOTE:
Continued use of a partnership name, or a dissociated partner's name as part of the partnership name, by partners continuing the business after a partner has dissociated, does not of itself make the dissociated partner liable for partnership obligations [Corp. Code § 16705].

5. Partnership address and principal place of business.

6. Term of partnership, including:

a. Date partnership will commence.

b. Length of time partnership is to continue, either:

(1) Specified period, or

(2) Until dissolved by agreement, or

(3) Until specified undertaking is completed, or

(4) Until dissolved by some specific act or event.

7. Initial capital.

a. Amount necessary to commence operations.

b. Initial capital contribution by each partner.

c. Property other than cash to be contributed by each partner, including;

(1) Detailed description of property.

(2) Value to be attributed to property on partnership books.

(3) Contributing partner's adjusted income tax basis for property.

NOTE:

This information will help to determine the following: (1) the contributing partner's initial tax basis for the partnership interest [see I.R.C. § 722]; (2) the partnership's initial income tax basis for the contributed property [see I.R.C. § 723]; and (3) whether the partnership agreement should provide for special allocations of gain, loss, depreciation, or income [see I.R.C. § 704; see also discussion in § 15.21].

8. Any arrangement for a partner to loan property or cash to the partnership.

9. Each partner's taxable year.

NOTE:
This information will help determine the partnership taxable year [see I.R.C. § 706; see also discussion in § 15.23].

10. Frequency with which partners require accountings of partnership affairs.

11. Each partner's distributive share of net partnership profits and losses; either:

NOTE:
Subject to contrary provision in the partnership agreement, partners share losses in the same proportion they share profits. If the partners' distributive shares of partnership profits are not specified in the partnership agreement, profits are shared equally [Corp. Code § 16401(b)].

a. Stated percentages to remain unchanged;

b. Stated percentages to vary with partnership taxable year;

c. Division based on units of participation in partnership business;

d. Division based on proportion of business brought in and amount of work performed by each partner; or

e. Partners' retention of percentage of income earned by them before net profits are computed and distributed.

12. Manner in which each partner's distributive share is to be paid.

a. Portion, if any, to be paid as regular salary or periodic draw.

NOTE:
Unless there are salary provisions in the partnership agreement, partners are not entitled to remuneration for services performed for the partnership [see Corp. Code § 16401(h)].

(1) Basis for making salary determination (e.g., amount of time devoted to business).

(2) Whether salaries should be deducted before computing net profits or charged against partners' shares of net profits [see I.R.C. § 707(c)].

b. Information relevant to determination of what portion, if any, of distributive share is to be available as a draw:

(1) Amounts required by each partner for living expenses.

(2) Each partner's anticipated income taxes on partnership and non-partnership income.

(3) Anticipated income of partnership business.

(4) Anticipated income from sources other than partnership

(5) Growth potential of partnership business.

NOTE:
A business with good growth potential may require a large portion of partnership cash flow to be plowed back into the partnership operations in order to reach its full potential. Retained earnings financing requires consideration of how the partners will pay taxes on their undistributed income.

13. Amount of time each partner must devote to partnership business.

14. Partners' business experience and outside business activities, if any, and any restrictions to be placed on those activities.

NOTE:
The partner's duty of loyalty to the partnership includes, for example, the duty not to compete or engage in self-dealing [Corp. Code § 16404(b)]. The partnership agreement may, however, relax fiduciary duties by specifying types or categories of activities that do not violate the duty of loyalty, or may provide for partnership ratification, after full disclosure, of a specific act or transaction that would otherwise violate the duty of loyalty [Corp. Code § 16103(b)]. Partners who have manifold business interests may be unwittingly in violation of their duty of loyalty, so a provision in the partnership agreement for ratification is probably advisable in such cases. A gross disparity in the partners' business experience or the absence of a prior business relationship between the partners may justify heightened fiduciary duties.

15. Special duties, if any, each partner will perform.

a. Division of labor according to each partner's level of skill, training, or other factors.

b. Designate one partner as managing partner, or

c. Designate partners to serve on management committee.

NOTE:
Subject to contrary provision in the partnership agreement, all partners have equal rights in the management and conduct of the partnership business [Corp. Code § 16401(f)].

16. Limitation on ability of any partner to incur partnership liabilities.

NOTE:
Limitations on a partner's ability to bind the partnership generally will only be effective if also included in the partnership statement of authority [see Corp. Code § 16303].

17. Vote required for certain administrative and/or business matters, including:

a. Ordinary matters.

NOTE:

Subject to contrary provision in the partnership agreement, ordinary partnership matters may be decided by a majority of the partners. An act outside the ordinary course of partnership business, or an amendment to the partnership agreement, require the unanimous consent of the partners, unless the partnership agreement provides otherwise [Corp. Code § 16401(j)].

b. Expulsion of partners.

NOTE:

Absent an agreement to the contrary, expulsion of a partner will require the unanimous vote of the other partners when the grounds for expulsion are specified circumstances having to do with the partner's financial condition or capacity to engage business [see Corp. Code § 16601(4)].

c. Admission of new partners.

NOTE:

Subject to contrary provision in the partnership agreement, no person can become a member of the partnership without unanimous consent of the partners [Corp. Code § 16401(i)].

18. Weight accorded each partner's vote.

NOTE:

Ordinarily, each partner's vote will count equally toward resolution of a partnership question [see Corp. Code § 16401(f)]. The partners may wish to weight some votes more heavily than others and may do so in the partnership agreement (e.g., apportion voting power based on amounts of capital contributions). If one or more of several partners are actually to manage the partnership, counsel may want to consider at the outset whether an alternative entity, such as a limited liability company or limited liablity partnership, would be more appropriate.

19. Grounds for expulsion.

NOTE:

The bases on which partners may be expelled (involuntarily dissociated) may be spelled out in the partnership agreement. Subject to a contrary provision in the agreement, a partner can be expelled by the unanimous vote of the other partners for a variety of reasons (e.g., it is illegal to carry on the business with that partner, or the partner is a corporation that has dissolved) [Corp. Code § 16601(2)-(4)]. Other events, such as the bankruptcy, death, or incapacity of a partner are also statutory grounds for dissociating that partner [Corp. Code § 16601(7)-(10)].

20. Notice period required before dissociation will be effective.

NOTE:

The only condition the partnership agreement can place on a partner's power to dissociate from the partnership is a requirement that the notice of dissociation be in writing [Corp. Code § 16103(b)(6)]. There seems to be no statutory bar, however, to placing conditions on the right to dissociate, e.g., by requiring advance notice.

21. Disposition of outgoing partner's interest.

a. Sale to remaining partners.

b. Liquidation of interest.

c. Valuation method by which purchase price will be set.

NOTE:
Absent provisions in the agreement to the contrary, UPA '94 provisions for the buyout of a dissociated partner's interest will apply [see Corp. Code § 16701; see discussion in § 15.303[2] in Part B of this chapter].

22. If cross purchase is to be funded by insurance, ascertain whether:

a. Arrangements for insurance have already been made; or

b. Each partner will carry insurance on all other partners; or

c. Partnership will carry insurance on all partners.

1. Determine potential partners' objectives.

2. Determine name under which partnership will conduct business.

NOTE:
Ascertain necessity for filing a fictitious name certificate [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17900-17930].

PRACTICE TIP:
Name selection can be problematic because in addition to the ego and marketing issues, counsel must consider all prior uses of the name to avoid tradename or trademark infringement actions by established users. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

3. Determine necessity for special licenses and/or permits.

4. Determine whether goodwill will be a major partnership asset.

NOTE:
Payments based on goodwill in the liquidation of an interest of a retiring or deceased partner will not be treated as payments in exchange for the partnership interest unless the partnership agreement provides so and the partnership is a service partnership (i.e., that capital is not a material income-producing factor) and the retiring or deceased partner is a general partner in the partnership [see I.R.C. § 736(b)(2)(B), (3); see also § 15.24].

a. Cash; or

NOTE:

A partnership that has a C corporation as a partner may not use the cash method of accounting, unless one of the following exceptions applies: (1) the partnership is a farming business; (2) the partnership's average gross receipts for the preceding three taxable years were $5,000,000 or less; (3) substantially all of the activities of the C corporation partner involve performing health, law, engineering, architecture, accounting, actuarial science, performing arts, or consulting services, and substantially all of the stock of the corporation is held by employees performing those services [I.R.C. § 448]; or (4) the taxpayer qualifies for and elects to use the special small business exception, under which the IRS allows certain taxpayers with annual gross receipts of $10 million or less to use the cash method of accounting [Rev. Proc. 2002-28, 2002-1 C.B. 815].

Furthermore, a "tax shelter" is prohibited from using the cash method of accounting under all circumstances [I.R.C. § 448(a)(3)]. A "tax shelter" is (1) an enterprise for which interests required to be registered with state or federal securities agencies have been sold; (2) a "syndicate," i.e., a partnership in which more than 35 percent of losses for the taxable year are allocable to limited partners or entrepreneurs [see I.R.C. § 1256(i)(3)(B)]; or (3) a tax shelter [see I.R.C. § 6661(b)(2)(C)(ii)] formed for the principal purpose of avoiding federal income tax [I.R.C. § 448(d)(3); see I.R.C. § 461(i)(3)].

An S corporation will not be considered to be a tax shelter [see I.R.C. § 448(d)(3) (definition)] merely because it is required to file a notice of exemption from registration with a state agency authorized to require such registration [see I.R.C. § 461(i)(3)(A)] if there is a requirement applicable to all corporations offering securities for sale in the state that to be exempt from registration the corporation must file such a notice [I.R.C. § 448(d)(3)]. The California Department of Corporations requires all corporations issuing securities to either register the securities or file a notice of exemption [see Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25120, 25130 (registration requirements); Corp. Code §§ 25100-25105 (exemption requirements); see also Ch. 6, Securities Regulation Issues].

b. Accrual.

NOTE:

Partnerships likely to accumulate substantial accounts receivable (e.g., service or professional partnerships) should not employ the accrual method since it will result in tax liability for amounts not necessarily realized [see I.R.C. § 446].

PRACTICE TIP:

Parties utilizing the partnership entity usually anticipate flow through tax losses during the first few years of operation. The cash basis will generally provide a greater flow through tax loss than will the accrual basis. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

7. Determine whether partners should maintain separate capital and income accounts [see § 15.200[2]], including:

a. Whether partner's income account balance will be transferred to capital account at close of partnership taxable year [see § 15.200[2]]; or

b. Whether partner's income account balance will be a loan to the partnership, including:

(1) What, if any, rate of interest loan will bear.

(2) The date from which interest will be due [see Corp. Code § 16401(e)].

NOTE:

Unless otherwise agreed, an advance made by a partner that exceeds the amount the partner agreed to contribute to partnership capital constitutes a loan to the partnership that accrues interest from the date of the payment or advance [Corp. Code § 16401(e)]. Unless another interest rate is specified, the rate will be that specified in Civil Code § 3289.

8. Determine partnership's taxable year [see I.R.C. §§ 444, 706; see also discussion in § 15.23].

NOTE:

Unless the partnership elects a taxable year pursuant to I.R.C. § 444 [see (c), below], its taxable year will be determined according the rules set forth in I.R.C. § 706 [see (a), (b), below].

a. By reference to partners [I.R.C. § 706(b)(1)(B)]:

(1) Taxable year of one or more of partners who, on specified "testing days" [see I.R.C. § 706(b)(4)(A)(ii); see also § 15.23] have greater than 50 percent aggregate interest in partnership profits and capital [I.R.C. § 706(b)(1)(B)(i)].

(2) If (1), above, does not apply, taxable year of all of principal partners [I.R.C. § 706(b)(1)(B)(ii)].

NOTE:

A "principal partner" is a partner with a 5 percent or greater interest in partnership profits or capital [I.R.C. § 706(b)(3)].

(3) If (1) and (2), above, do not apply, calendar year, unless other period is prescribed by regulations [I.R.C. § 706(b)(1)(B)(iii)].

b. Taxable year based on business purpose [I.R.C. § 706(b)(1)(C)].

NOTE:

In order to use such a taxable year, the partnership must establish, to the satisfaction of the Internal Revenue Service, that there is a business purpose for using that taxable year [I.R.C. § 706(b)(1)(C); see Treas. Reg. § 1.706-1]. Deferral of income to partners is not a satisfactory business purpose in this regard [I.R.C. § 706(b)(1)(C)].

c. Any taxable year that partnership elects pursuant to I.R.C. § 444.

NOTE:

A partnership may elect to have a taxable year other than a taxable year determined by reference to the partners or established by its business purposes [I.R.C. § 444(a), (e); see I.R.C. § 706(b)(1)]. Such an election may be made only if there is no more than a three-month period (known as the "deferral period" [see I.R.C. § 444(b)(4)]) between the beginning of the first taxable year under the election and the close of the first required taxable year (under I.R.C. § 706(b)) ending within that year [I.R.C. § 444(b)]. This means a partnership may not elect a taxable year that has more than a three-month overlap with the taxable year that it would be required to use in the absence of such an election [I.R.C. § 444(b)]. If the partnership makes such an election, it becomes subject to the advance tax payments required by I.R.C. § 7519 [I.R.C. § 444(c)(1)]. An election of an alternative taxable year will remain in effect until the partnership changes its taxable year. Once the partnership terminates its election in this manner, it cannot elect another alternative year [I.R.C. § 444(d)(2)(B)].

9. Determine what, if any, special allocations should be made.

NOTE:

Absent contrary agreement, the partners will share equally in profits and losses [see Corp. Code § 16401(b)]. Equal distribution may be acceptable if the partners' capital contributions are roughly equal. In determining whether or not to make special allocations, consider (1) type of partnership involved; (2) the amount of each partner's capital contribution; (3) extent of any difference between the contributing partner's income tax basis and the fair market value of the contributed property; and (4) each partner's individual tax planning strategy.

10. Determine whether to elect out of partnership status for income tax purposes if [I.R.C. § 761(a); see Treas. Reg. § 1.761-2]:

NOTE:

By avoiding partnership treatment under Internal Revenue Code Section 761(a), the members of an investment partnership will be able to make inconsistent tax elections regarding income derived from the partnership. Normally, all elections regarding partnership income must be made at the partnership level and are reflected on the information return [see discussion in § 15.19[4]]. If, however, the partnership does not report income under the provisions of Internal Revenue Code Subchapter K, the partners may make elections on their individual returns regarding, for example, the methods under which they will take depreciation on partnership property and the manner in which they will report income from installment sales under I.R.C. § 453.

a. Partnership is formed for investment purposes only and not to conduct business; or

b. Partnership is formed for joint production, extraction, or use of property but not for sale of that property.

11. If a buy-sell agreement for purchase of a dissociating partner's interest is to be executed:

NOTE:

For more detailed coverage of buy-sell agreements, see Ch. 8D, Buy-Sell Agreements . The discussion in Ch. 8D is geared primarily to small, closely-held corporations, but a good deal of that discussion is applicable to partnerships as well.

a. Determine whether buy-sell provision should be included in partnership agreement or set out in a separate agreement incorporated by reference into partnership agreement.

b. Determine method of purchase:

(1) Sale of interest to remaining partners [see I.R.C. § 741].

(a) Remaining partners to have option to purchase or right of first refusal with liquidation by sale to partnership if right not exercised [see § 15.200[2]]; or

(b) Remaining partners required to purchase [see § 15.250[2]].

NOTE:

It may be impractical to require the remaining partners to purchase an outgoing partner's interest unless the means by which the purchase will be made (e.g., insurance proceeds) are provided for in the agreement [see § 15.256[1], below].

(2) Liquidation of interest by sale to partnership [see I.R.C. § 736].

c. Determine valuation method for purchase price [see § 15.240].

NOTE:

The value of a departing partner's interest in the partnership may be determined by any one or more of the following factors: (1) appraisal; (2) book value; (3) capitalized past average income; (4) capitalized goodwill; and (5) agreement of the partners. [For discussions of the various methods, their tax consequences, and the situations in which they should be employed, see §§ 15.240-15.245, 15.303[2], below ; see also Neubauer v. Goldfarb (2003) 108 Cal. App. 4th 47, 54-57, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 218 , in which the court held that a waiver of corporate directors' and majority shareholders' fiduciary duties to minority shareholders in private close corporations is against public policy, and a contract provision in a buy-sell agreement purporting to waive any fiduciary duty with respect to fairness of overall consideration is void)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Depending on the nature of the partnership's business, limiting buy-sell provisions to only one valuation method may be contrary to the best interests of a dissociating partner and could be a breach of the attorney-client relationship. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

d. Determine manner in which purchase price will be paid.

(1) Cash.

(2) Funded by proceeds of specific life insurance policy in the event of a partner's death.

(3) Property other than cash.

(4) Installment payments to withdrawing partner or deceased partner's estate, which may be evidenced by promissory notes and supported by security agreements.

(5) By paying portion of partnership income for specified period to partner or partner's estate.

NOTE:

Payments made in liquidation of a retiring or deceased partner's interest are considered distributive shares of partnership income if they are determined with regard to partnership income [I.R.C. § 736(a)(1)]. If payments are determined without regard to partnership income, they are guaranteed payments [see I.R.C. § 736(a)(2)]. Since guaranteed payments are treated as ordinary income to the recipient, a retiring partner or deceased partner's estate will generally prefer to receive distributive shares. Even though the partnership may deduct guaranteed payments [see I.R.C. § 707(c); see also I.R.C. § 162(a)*], the characterization of payments to a deceased or retiring partner will usually make little difference to the remaining partners because their distributive shares of partnership income will be proportionately reduced by any liquidation payments considered distributive shares.

e. If a deceased partner's interest is to be purchased with proceeds from a life insurance policy, determine which of the following plans to employ:

(1) Cross-purchase plan with each partner carrying policies on lives of all other partners; or

NOTE:

Cross-purchase plans are generally best suited for use by two-member partnerships in which the mechanics of maintaining the policies and collecting the proceeds are unlikely to be complex or time consuming [see § 15.256[1]*].

(2) Entity purchase plan with partnership carrying policies on all partners' lives, including:

NOTE:

Since entity purchase plans require the partnership to buy and maintain insurance policies on the partners' lives, they are particularly suitable for partnerships with many members (i.e., when it would be burdensome to require each partner to maintain policies on the lives of all others).

(a) How to share premium obligations.

(b) Whether policies will be held by escrow agent, in safe deposit box, or by trustee under an insurance trust.

f. Trustee plan with trustee named as beneficiary of policies issued under either cross purchase or entity purchase plans.

NOTE:

If partners are concerned about protecting their heirs or desire expert advice regarding the disposition of deceased partners' interests, a trustee, as an impartial fiduciary, should be employed [see § 15.259].

g. Determine whether surviving or withdrawing partner should purchase policies issued on own life.

h. Determine which parties should execute buy-sell agreement.

(1) Partners.

(2) Partners' spouses.

(3) Trustee, if entity purchase plan is to be funded by insurance.

§ 15.111 Additional Determinations for Professional Partnerships

1. Determine which, if not all, partners' names will appear in partnership name, including:

a. Whether to retain retired or deceased partners' names.

b. At what point, if any, dissociated partners' names will be deleted.

PRACTICE TIP:
The goodwill associated with a dissociated partner's name can have substantial value to the partnership, particularly when dissociation is caused by death or disability. An agreement to delete the dissociated partner's name may create a conflict of interest between the entity and the dissociated partner's estate. Name change provisions therefore should be carefully considered. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

2. Determine which partners are likely to die or retire first, including:

a. Whether special early retirement provisions are necessary.

b. Whether retiree should continue association with partnership in any capacity other than partner (e.g., consultant).

NOTE:
Absent an express agreement to the contrary, retirement is not an event causing a partner to be dissociated [see Corp. Code § 16601].

3. If prior practices are merging, determine the following:

a. How existing accounts receivable should be treated [see § 15.271[1]].

(1) Transferred to new partnership; or

(2) Retained and collected by incoming partners in their individual capacities.

b. How work in progress should be treated.

(1) Completed by the partnership; or

(2) Completed by partner handling work prior to partnership formation.

c. How work in progress should be valued.

4. Determine whether or not to provide for gradual retirement.

5. Determine what should be done with partnership records pertaining to a dissociated partner.

§ 15.120 General Procedures

1. Prepare fee agreement and conflicts of interest disclosures.

2. Prepare partnership agreement and have it executed by:

a. Partners.

b. Partners' spouses.

NOTE:
It is particularly important that the partners' spouses execute the agreement or a separate consent form if the agreement provides for purchase of a deceased partner's partnership interest [see § 15.259].

3. Prepare certificate of fictitious name, if necessary [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17900-17930; see also Ch. 1A, Role of Counsel in Starting a New Business].

4. Be sure appropriate licenses and permits are obtained prior to commencing partnership operations:

a. Accountants register partnership and obtain permit to practice in partnership name from State Board of Accountancy, 1021 O Street, Sacramento, CA 95814 [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 5070, 5072].

NOTE:

A partner in an accounting firm must submit an affidavit containing information required by the Board [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 5075]. Until the accounting partnership has been registered, it should not use the designation C.P.A. or P.A. [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 5055, 5056, 5072(a)].

b. [Reserved]

c. Civil engineers and licensed land surveyors within 30 days of partnership formation, register with State Board of Registration for Civil and Professional Engineers, 1021 O Street, Sacramento, CA 95814 [see 16 Cal. Code Reg. § 463(b)].

d. Collection agencies obtain license in partnership name from State Collection Agency Licensing Bureau, 1021 N Street, Sacramento, CA 95814 [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 6875, 6877].

e. Contractors obtain separate partnership license before submitting any joint bid for work [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 7029].

f. Private investigators and adjusters obtain license from State Bureau of Collection and Investigative Services, 1430 Howe Avenue, Sacramento, CA 95825 [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 7525; see also 16 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 600-651].

NOTE:

Each partner must file a separate application in the partnership name but only one need satisfy the examination and experience requirements for a partnership license [see 16 Cal. Code Reg. § 651].

g. Landscape architects notify State Board of Landscape Architects, 1021 O Street, Sacramento, CA 95814 if forming partnership with lay person.

NOTE:

The licensed landscape architect's signature and license number, and the date must appear on all service instruments [Bus. & Prof. Code § 5642]. Lay partners may not be identified as landscape architects [Bus. & Prof. Code § 5642].

h. Physicians, surgeons, and podiatrists apply for permit from Division of Licensing of the Board of Medical Quality Assurance, 1021 O Street, Sacramento, CA 95814, if engaging in practice under a fictitious name [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2393, 2429].

NOTE:

It is a misdemeanor to practice medicine under a fictitious name unless the necessary permit is obtained [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2429].

i. If partnership business will involve sale of personal property on which sales tax must be charged, do the following [see Ch. 17, Buying and Selling a Business or Professional Practice]:

(1) Submit application for sales and use tax permit to State Board of Equalization [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6066(a)].

NOTE:

Applications for tax permits must be authenticated in a form or pursuant to methods prescribed by the SBE [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6066(a)]. The application may be filed using electronic media, as prescribed; electronic media includes but is not limited to computer modem, magnetic media, optical disk, facsimile machine, or telephone [Rev. & Tax. Code § 6066(b), (c)].

(2) Prepare to deposit security with the Board in an amount no greater than twice the partnership's average estimated quarterly sales tax liability [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 6701].

5. Establish partnership books and records, reflecting accounting method (cash or accrual) and taxable year (calendar or fiscal).

6. Obtain tax identification number for partnership by submitting I.R.S. Form SS-4.

7. If a principal partner will have a taxable year other than that of the partnership, secure Internal Revenue Service and Franchise Tax Board approval [see Treas. Reg. § 1.442-1(b)(1); see also Rev. & Tax. Code § 17552].

8. If partner elects taxable year pursuant to I.R.C. § 444, submit IRS Form 8716 (election form) by earlier of [Temp. Treas. Reg. § 1.444-3T]:

NOTE:

Such an election may be made only if there is no more than a three-month period (known as the "deferral period" [see I.R.C. § 444(b)(4)*]) between the beginning of the first taxable year under the election and the close of the first required taxable year (under I.R.C. § 706(b)) ending within that year [I.R.C. § 444(b)]. This means, essentially, that the partnership cannot elect a taxable year that has more than a three-month overlap with the taxable year that it would be required to use in the absence of such an election. For further discussion, see § 15.23[4].

a. Fifteenth day of fifth month following month that includes first day for which election will be effective; or

b. Due date (without regard to extensions) of income tax return.

9. If partnership elects taxable year based on business purpose [I.R.C. § 706(b)(1)(C); see § 15.23[3]], submit IRS Form 1128 on or before last day of month following close of taxable year to be adopted [see Treas. Reg. § 1.442-1(b)].

NOTE:

An existing partnership may only change its tax year by securing the Commissioner's approval [see I.R.C. § 442*] or by making an I.R.C. § 444 election. However, approval is automatic for certain changes, such as a change to the required tax year pursuant to administrative procedures [Treas. Reg. 1.706-1(b)(8)(i)(A)].

To obtain approval, see Treas. Reg. § 1.442-1(b) [Treas. Reg. 1.706-1(b)(10)]. If not automatic, approval will be granted if the taxpayer establishes a "substantial business purpose." However, approval will not be granted unless the Commissioner and the taxpayer agree to terms, conditions, and adjustments under which the change will be effected [Treas. Reg. § 1.442-1(b)]. Deferral of income to partners is not a satisfactory business purpose [I.R.C. § 706(b)(1)(C)].

10. Establish bank accounts where partnership funds will be deposited.

a. Designate specific partner(s) as signatory for accounts.

b. Rent safe deposit box and designate partner(s) who will have access to it.

11. Obtain all necessary insurance coverage, including:

a. Casualty policies on partnership property.

b. Life coverage, if required to fund buy-sell agreement.

12. Negotiate and execute leases, if necessary, for partnership business premises and equipment.

PRACTICE TIP:

Counsel may also have to prepare personal guarantees of partners and their spouses if third parties demand them as a condition of doing business with an unseasoned partnership. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

13. Make certain that partners' wills provide that all documents necessary to dispose of their partnership interests at death be executed and delivered in accord with:

a. Provisions of their buy-sell agreement, if any; or

b. Their wills.

PRACTICE TIP:

Extreme care should be taken when providing estate planning services to individual partners who are not counsel's named clients. Confidential disclosures can create ethical problems that may not be avoided by a conflicts disclosure and waiver. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

§ 15.121 Statement of Partnership Authority

NOTE:

Filing a statement of partnership authority is not mandatory but is advisable if the partnership will hold title to real property or wishes to limit the authority of some or all the partners with respect to transactions with third parties [see Corp. Code § 16303]. A common limitation on authority is the prohibition on any partner binding the partnership in a transaction exceeding a specified dollar amount without the co-signature of at least one other partner.

1. Prepare statement of partnership authority [see Corp. Code § 16303(a); see also § 15.285], including:

a. Partnership name.

b. The street address of its chief executive office and of one office in California.

c. The names and mailing addresses of all partners or of an agent appointed and maintained by the partnership for the purpose of maintaining a list of the names and mailing addresses of all partners [Corp. Code § 16303(b)].

d. The names of the partners authorized to execute an instrument transferring real property held in the partnership's name.

e. The authority, or limitations on the authority, of some or all partners to enter into other transactions on behalf of the partnership and any other matter.

2. Have statement of authority executed by at least two partners [Corp. Code § 16105(c)].

3. File statement of partnership authority with the Secretary of State and file copy certified by Secretary of State with recorder in each county where partnership holds real property [Corp. Code § 16105(a), (b)].

NOTE:

The Secretary of State's filing fee is $70 [Corp. Code § 16112]. The fee for recording documents is $10 for the first page and $3 for each additional page [see Gov. Code §§ 27361, 27364 (certification under seal fee determined by board of supervisors)]. A recorded statement that is not a copy certified by the Secretary of State will not have the effect given to such statements by UPA '94.

Generally speaking, the effect of filing and recording a statement of authority will be to protect bona fide transferees for value and to permit the partnership to recover partnership property the transfer of which was contrary to a limitation on authority [see Corp. Code §§ 16302, 16303; see also Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. v. Superior Court (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 337, 345-348, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 713 (interpreting former Corp. Code § 15010.5, predecessor statute under former UPA)].

a. Indefinite term (e.g., continuation until terminated or dissolved by mutual agreement) [see § 15.201[2]].

b. Fixed term [see § 15.201[2]].

(1) If desired, partnership continuation on notice or, in absence of notice, automatically.

NOTE:
When a fixed term partnership is continued without an express agreement, the partners' rights and duties remain the same as they were at the time the term expired, so far as is consistent with a partnership at will. Partners who continue a fixed term partnership without any settlement or liquidation of the partnership are presumed to have agreed that the partnership will continue [Corp. Code § 16406].

(2) If desired, imposition of liquidated damages on premature withdrawal of partner.

(3) If desired, partnership termination on death or incapacity of a partner.

5. Place(s) where partnership will conduct business, including [see § 15.201[2]]:

a. Addresses.

b. Name of each county.

6. Each partner's initial capital investment.

a. State amount of cash and/or agreed market value of property or services contributed [see § 15.200[2]].

b. Describe fully any property or services contributed.

c. If cash contributions are to be made, specify following:

(1) Amount each partner will contribute.

(2) Bank and account where deposit will be made.

(3) Date by which each partner must make required deposit.

7. Special allocations of following items as they relate to contributed property [see § 15.219]:

a. Depreciation.

b. Depletion.

c. Gains on sales.

d. Losses on sales.

NOTE:
Special allocations regarding contributed property are required to take into account any variation between the contributing partner's basis in the property and its fair market value at the time of contribution [see I.R.C. § 704(b), (c)(2); Treas. Reg. § 1.704-3(a)(1); see also § 15.21*].

8. If desired, a provision assuring that partners' capital investments remain in same proportion as their initial capital contributions [see § 15.200[2]] by:

a. Prohibiting contributions without unanimous consent of partners.

b. Prohibiting withdrawals without unanimous consent of partners [see § 15.200[2]].

c. Requiring pro rata contributions from partners [see § 15.200[2]].

9. Conditions under which additional contributions may be required, including [see 15.212]:

a. Guidelines for determining needed capital.

b. Method for determining amounts required from each partner.

c. Provision whereby partner who contributes portion greater than original share will receive:

(1) Correspondingly greater share of partnership earnings, and

(2) Increase in partnership interest to reflect contribution.

d. Provision for reduction in percentage of partnership interest for partner who:

(1) Makes no contribution, or

(2) Does not make additional contribution in proportion to original partnership interest.

10. Amounts, if any, of contributions to be treated as loans to partnership, including [see § 15.200[2]]:

a. Terms for repayment, including interest.

b. Any security interest created in connection with sums advanced, and any agreement to subordinate to subsequent third party secured creditors.

NOTE:
Subject to the partnership agreement, a partner who makes an advance to the partnership in excess of the amount agreed to be contributed entitled to interest from the date of contribution [Corp. Code § 16401(e)].

11. If separate capital and income accounts are maintained [see §§ 15.200[2], 15.201[2]]:

a. Provision establishing accounts.

b. Provision for disposition of unwithdrawn shares, if any, in partnership income.

(1) Automatic transfer to capital account at end of fiscal year [see § 15.200[2]], or

(2) Transfer into capital account only with partner's consent.

NOTE:
Subject to contrary agreement, each partner is entitled to have a partnership account that is credited with an amount equal to the partner's contribution (net of liabilities) and the partner's share of profits. The account is charged with an amount equal to the money or value of property distributed to the partner, plus the partnership losses [Corp. Code § 16401(a)].

12. Distribution of partnership profits and losses, including:

a. Salaries, if any, to be received by partners [see § 15.202].

(1) Basis for payment (e.g., partner's special skills for which a portion of salary is to be paid, amount of time each partner will devote to partnership business, etc.).

(2) Whether salaries will be:
(a) Deducted before computing net profits and distributive shares, or

(b) Charged against partners' shares of net profits.

NOTE:
To the extent that they are determined without regard to partnership income, payments made to a partner for services or use of capital are "guaranteed payments" [I.R.C. § 707(c)]. Guaranteed payments are gross income to the recipients and may generally be deducted by the partnership [see I.R.C. §§ 61(a), 162(a), 707(c); see also I.R.C. § 263].

(3) If partner(s) engaged in the management will receive additional salary, basis on which it will be determined.

NOTE:
Subject to contrary agreement, no partner is entitled to remuneration for conducting partnership business [Corp. Code § 16401(h)].

(4) Provision for salary adjustments, if desired.

b. Formula for computing partners' distributive shares in net profits and losses [see § 15.201[2]].

NOTE:
Subject to contrary agreement, partnership profits and losses are shared equally [Corp. Code § 16401(b); see discussion in § 15.17[3]].

(1) Percentages related to capital contributions that remain unchanged, or

(2) Percentages stated yearly for each partner, or

(3) Division of fees or charges between partners who secured income generating business and performed services, or

(4) Division based on units of participation in overall partnership business.

c. Time frame for distributions (e.g., monthly, quarterly).

d. If desired, distributions to be made pursuant to specified vote of partners.

13. Guidelines for partnership management.

NOTE:
Subject to contrary agreement, all partners have equal rights in the management and conduct of partnership business [Corp. Code § 16401(f)].

a. Managing partner [see § 15.270[2]], or

b. Management committee [see § 15.276[2]], or

c. Management by majority vote of all partners [see § 15.201[2]], or

d. Management by vote of all partners weighted in accord with their interests in net partnership profits [see § 15.270[2]].

14. Restrictions, if any, on authority of partners and managers [see § 15.201[2]].

15. Specify provisions governing partnership meetings, including [see § 15.201[2]]:

a. Regular meetings at particular time and place.

b. Special meetings at call of designated number or percentage in interest of the partners.

c. Notice and waiver of notice.

d. Attendance in person, by electronic media (e.g., telephone), or waiver of attendance through signed written consent.

e. Regular minutes to be placed in partnership book.

16. Specify partners' voting rights on partnership matters.

NOTE:
Subject to contrary agreement, differences arising in the ordinary course of business may be decided by majority vote of the partners, but an act outside the ordinary course of business and an amendment to the partnership agreement require unanimous consent [Corp. Code § 16401(j)].

a. Weighted voting [see § 15.270[2]].

b. Issues requiring voting margins other than a majority (e.g., unanimous or three-fourths approval).

PRACTICE TIP:
Weighted voting (e.g., a majority of the outstanding partnership interests) is often preferred over straight supermajority voting (e.g., three-fourths of the partners) when the partners have made unequal contributions to the partnership. Commentary by John J.

Camozzi.

17. Amount of time each partner is required to devote to partnership business.

a. Undivided time [see § 15.200[2]], or

b. Less than full time [see § 15.225[2]].

c. If desired, limit partner's right to engage in other business activities.

18. Limitations on partners' power to incur partnership liabilities [see § 15.200[2]].

a. Maximum amount of liability any partner may incur on behalf of the partnership.

b. Coordinate liability limits with provisions regarding partnership management (e.g., give managing partner exclusive authority to incur partnership liabilities).

c. Indemnification of partners by partnership for payments made and personal liabilities reasonably incurred [see Corp. Code § 16401(c)]:

(1) In the ordinary and proper conduct of partnership business.

(2) For the preservation of partnership business or property.

19. Manner in which accounts will be maintained, including [see § 15.201[2]]:

a. Requirement that proper partnership books be kept.

b. Provision for inspection of partnership books.

NOTE:
The partnership agreement cannot unreasonably restrict the partners' right of access to books and records or the right to be furnished with information concerning the partnership business [Corp. Code § 16103(b)].

c. Accounting method to be used.

d. Partnership taxable year.

e. Requirement for periodic accountings to partners (e.g., at close of taxable year, quarterly).

f. If desired, institutions at which partnership accounts and safe deposit boxes are established.

20. Partnership policies respecting the following:

a. Vacations.

b. Sick leave.

c. Extended absences.

d. Expense accounts.

21. Restrictions on transfer or assignment of a partner's transferable partnership interest [see § 15.14[2]].

NOTE:

The only interest a partner has to sell is that partner's "transferable interest," i.e., that partner's share of partnership profits and losses and the right to receive distributions [Corp. Code § 16502]. A partner who transfers that interest (other than as security) may, however, be expelled from the partnership, either because (1) the transfer violates the terms of the partnership agreement, (2) it is a self-executing event that causes dissociation, or (3) because the remaining partners unanimously vote to expel [see Corp. Code § 16601*].

22. Restrictions on transfer or assignment of partnership property.

NOTE:

Although partners generally have authority to act on behalf of the partnership [see Corp. Code § 16301*], the partnership agreement can limit a partner's authority to deal with partnership property or conduct business on behalf of the partnership [see Corp. Code §§ 16302, 16303*]. Any limitation of a partner's authority to act on behalf of the partnership should also be made explicit in the statement of partnership authority filed with the Secretary of State and with the recorder in a county in which the partnership owns real property, indicating the scope of a partner's authority to generally act on behalf of the partnership and specifically to convey real property [Corp. Code § 16303(d)].

23. Scope of fiduciary duties of partners.

NOTE:

Although the general rule is that the duties of care, loyalty, and good faith and fair dealing that a partner owes the partnership and other partners cannot be waived [see Corp. Code § 16103(b)*], if it would not be manifestly unreasonable to do so, the partnership agreement may tailor the scope of these duties to fit the needs of the partners and the partnership [Corp. Code § 16103(b); see discussion in § 15.17[4]].

a. Identify specific types or categories of activities that do not violate a partner's duty of loyalty.

b. Provide for a ratification by all or by specified number or percentage of other partners of acts that would otherwise violate duty of loyalty.

c. Provide standards by which the performance of an obligation is to be measured so that the obligation of good faith and fair dealing will not be violated.

24. Admission of new partners [see § 15.201[2]].

NOTE:

Subject to contrary agreement, no person can become a member of the partnership without the consent of all partners [Corp. Code § 16401(i)].

a. Manner of admission, including:

(1) Vote required.

(2) Selection process, if desired (e.g., committee of partners to screen potential members).

b. Method for allocating net profits and capital reserves to new partners.

NOTE:

Absent a contrary agreement, persons admitted into an existing partnership are not personally liable for any partnership obligation incurred before the person's admission [Corp. Code § 16306(b)].

25. Manner in which partnership agreement may be amended [see § 15.270[2]].

NOTE:

For federal tax purposes, a partnership agreement includes all modifications made prior to or at the time the partnership return is filed, so long as all partners agree to the modification or it is otherwise adopted in a manner specified by the partnership agreement [see I.R.C. § 761(c)]. If the agreement or any modification is silent as to a specific matter, local law will govern for federal tax purposes [see Treas. Reg. § 1.761-1(c)].

In California, although a written partnership agreement might require amendments to the agreement to be in writing, this type of provision may be waived. The partners may orally agree on a change of some kind--for instance, to modify the written agreement's formula for allocating profits to the partners--and the irregular amendment will be effective because the partners agreed to it, even though the prescribed method for amending the agreement was not followed [Richard B. LeVine, Inc. v. Higashi (2005) 131 Cal. App. 4th 566, 587, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 244] .

26. Partners' retirement.

a. Compulsory retirement at specified age, or

b. Voluntary retirement, or

c. Gradual retirement [see § 15.280[2]].

27. Expulsion of partners, including [see § 15.200[2], Section 4.01; see also Corp. Code § 16601]:

a. Bases for expulsion, e.g.:

(1) Violation of any term contained in partnership agreement.

(2) Failure to make required contributions.

(3) Loss of professional license or threat of disciplinary action [see § 15.270[2]].

(4) Bankruptcy [see § 15.270[2]].

(5) Assignment for benefit of creditors [see § 15.270[2]].

(6) Partner's involvement in litigation detrimental to partnership [see § 15.270[2]].

(7) Willful breach of partnership agreement [see § 15.201[2]].

(8) Disability extending beyond specified period.

(9) Transfer of partner's transferable interest in profits and losses.

b. Method in which expulsion will be accomplished.

(1) Require vote of specified portion of partners [see § 15.270].

(2) Set forth formal expulsion procedures (e.g., service of written notice signed by each partner on partner to be expelled) [see § 15.201[2]].

(3) Self-executing on violation of partnership agreement.

28. Notice required of dissociating partners.

NOTE:

A partner may voluntarily dissociate from the partnership upon giving notice or at later date specified by the partner [Corp. Code § 16601(1)]. The partnership agreement cannot limit a partner's power to dissociate, but it can require written notice be given by withdrawing partners [Corp. Code § 16103(b)(6)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Requiring that a dissociating partner give written notice of dissociation may be in the best interests of the partnership and the continuing partners, but may run counter to the best interests of the dissociating partner. When the attorney is representing the individual partners, requiring written notice may, at the very least, create a conflict of interest, and at worst, violate the attorney-client fiduciary duty. This issue becomes most problematic when a partner dissociates from the partnership in an emotionally charged state. In such situations, the dissociating partner may simply give oral notice of dissociation and walk away from the partnership in anger or disgust, though not in breach of the partnership agreement. The dissociating partner may reasonably believe that he/she is no longer a partner and that nothing further is required to terminate his/her partnership relationship. The dissociating partner's failure to submit written dissociation notice may make the dissociation ineffective, or if effective, may make the dissociation wrongful (because it would be in breach of the partnership agreement), and may expose the dissociated partner to continuing partnership liabilities or partner liabilities caused by the wrongful dissociation [see Corp. Code § 16602(c)]. This can be particularly troublesome when the partners are not sophisticated or the dissociating partner is reluctant or unable to retain dissociation counsel. Formation counsel should use care in requiring written notification of dissociation. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

29. Valuation of dissociated partners' interests based on:

NOTE:

Unless the agreement provides otherwise, the partnership must buy out a dissociated partner's interest at a price determined by what the value of the interest would be on dissolution of the partnership, based on the greater of the liquidation value of the assets or the going concern value (without the dissociated partner) of the partnership, with interest paid from the date of dissociation until the date of payment [Corp. Code § 16701(a), (b)]. If no agreement for the buyout is reached within 120 days after the partner demands payment, the partnership is required to pay an estimated buyout price, less offsets [Corp. Code § 16701(d)]. Tender of a deferred payment is authorized in the event the partner wrongfully dissociated before the end of the term of the partnership [Corp. Code § 16701(h)]. A dissociated partner may sue the partnership to have the buyout price determined by the court if the partner declines a tendered payment or payment is not made [Corp. Code § 16701(i)]. See the discussion in § 15.303[2].

a. Book value, whether partially or totally [see § 15.242[2]], or

b. Appraisal of partnership assets [see §§ 15.201[2], 15.245[2]], or

c. Stipulation regarding value of partnership property in excess of book value [see § 15.243[2]], or

NOTE:
Periodic updates and stipulations as to the fair market value of partnership assets will be an attractive method if those assets can be expected to substantially appreciate or decline in value. The book value will reflect decreases in asset value attributable to depreciation, but it will not necessarily represent fair market value of a partnership interest.

d. Require partners to annually set value on all partnership interests [see §§ 15.240[2], 15.241[2]], or

e. Require all parties to agree on value at the time of loss of partner subject to arbitration if they are unable to agree.

30. Terms on which a dissociating partner or partner's estate will be paid for interest.

a. Lump sum payment [see § 15.202[2]], or

b. Periodic payments [see § 15.200[2]].

NOTE:
Absent an agreement to the contrary, the partnership is required to pay interest on the buyout price from the date of dissociation until the date of payment [Corp. Code § 16701(b)].

31. If desired, continuing payments to retired partners or deceased partners' successors in interest, specifying allocation among the following bases:

NOTE:
The way in which the partnership agreement allocates liquidation payments will determine (1) whether or not the partnership will be able to deduct the payments, and (2) to what extent and in what manner the payments will be taxed to the recipient [see I.R.C. §§ 61(a), 707(c), 736(a), (b), 751(c)*].

a. Partnership income [see I.R.C. § 736(a)(1)].

b. Guaranteed payments [see I.R.C. § 736(a)(2)].

c. Unrealized receivables [see I.R.C. § 736(b)(2)(A)].

d. Goodwill [see I.R.C. § 736(b)(2)(B)].

32. Procedures to be followed on dissolution.

NOTE:

With some exceptions, the partners are free to agree on which events will cause the partnership to dissolve, the vote required to effect a dissolution, the circumstances under which the partners' right to have the business wound up may be waived and the partnership continued, and the persons who may participate in the winding up of the partnership [see Corp. Code §§ 16801-16803].

a. Events causing dissolution, e.g., [see Corp. Code § 16801]:

(1) All or a specified percentage of the partners vote to dissolve for any reason.

(2) Dissociation of a key partner.

(3) Premature dissociation of a partner in a partnership for a definite term or particular purpose.

(4) An event makes it unlawful for the partnership business to be continued.

b. Termination and winding up of partnership affairs [see Corp. Code §§ 16803-16807; see also § 15.302].

(1) Persons authorized to wind up partnership business.

(2) Required filing of statement of dissolution.

(3) Order of distribution of partnership assets and settlement of partners' accounts.

33. If desired, a requirement that disputes among partners be subject to arbitration. [see § 15.226[2]].

34. If desired, partners' approvals required for a conversion or merger of partnership into another entity [see Corp. Code §§ 16901-16917; see also Part C of this chapter].

35. If desired, an applicable law provision [see § 15.201[2]].

36. Spousal consents [see § 15.200[2]].

NOTE:

Every partnership agreement should contain a clear expression of spousal consent.

a. Contents of notice and provision for withdrawing partner's approval;

§ 15.132 Buy-Sell Agreement Provisions

NOTE:
A buy-sell provision may be included in the partnership agreement or executed separately and incorporated into the partnership agreement by reference. For detailed coverage of buy-sell agreements, see Ch. 8D, Buy-Sell Agreements , which is geared primarily to small, closely-held corporations but is generally applicable to partnership buy-sell agreements as well.

1. Identity of purchaser of withdrawing partner's interest.

a. If remaining partners are to purchase:
(1) Whether or not purchase will be mandatory.

(2) Whether or not partnership business is to be continued after purchase.

b. If partnership is to purchase, whether the interest will be:

(1) Liquidated [see § 15.251[2]];

(2) Distributed among remaining partners [see § 15.250[2]]; or

(3) Resold to new partner.

2. Procedure for placing value on partner's interest.

NOTE:

This procedure should conform to that specified in the partnership agreement for evaluation of partnership assets and interests [see § 15.270[2]]. See also Neubauer v. Goldfarb (2003) 108 Cal. App. 4th 47, 54-57, 133 Cal. Rptr. 2d 218 , in which the court held that a waiver of corporate directors' and majority shareholders' fiduciary duties to minority shareholders in private close corporations is against public policy, and a contract provision in a buy-sell agreement purporting to waive any fiduciary duty with respect to fairness of overall consideration is void.

3. If payment is to be in cash:

a. Lump sum payment [see § 15.202[2]];

b. Payment from future profits as a continued distributive share [see § 15.253[2]]; or

c. Payment from proceeds of life insurance policy on deceased partner [see §§ 15.260-15.262].

4. If provisions of agreement are triggered by partner's death, a requirement that [see § 15.260[2]]:

a. Each partner's will reflect the existence of the buy-sell agreement;

b. All conveyances and other documents necessary to performance under the buy-sell agreement be executed by the deceased's personal representative; and

c. Profits earned after partner's death will be allocated to remaining partners.

5. If agreement is to be funded by insurance proceeds, include the following:

a. Partner's agreement to purchase life insurance policies under:

(1) Cross-purchase arrangement [see § 15.260[2]]; or

(2) Buy-out arrangement [see § 15.261[2]].

b. Provision for ownership of the policies [see § 15.262[2]].

c. Provision regarding premium payments, including:

(1) Who will be responsible for payment.

(2) From what source funds for premium payments will be taken.

d. Include provision allowing partner to purchase policy on own life under the following circumstances [see §§ 15.260-15.262]:

(1) When cross-purchase arrangement was entered into and a sole surviving partner remains; or

(2) When a partner withdraws from the partnership; or

(3) On termination of the partnership.

§ 15.140 Change in Partnership Taxable Year

NOTE:
The following procedures must be taken on or before the last day of the month in which the new taxable year begins.

1. Submit IRS Form 1128 to Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, D.C. 20224 [see Treas. Reg. § 1.442-1(b)].

NOTE:
An existing partnership may only change its tax year by securing the Commissioner's approval [see I.R.C. § 442*] or by making an I.R.C. § 444 election. However, approval is automatic for certain changes, such as a change to the required tax year pursuant to administrative procedures [Treas. Reg. 1.706-1(b)(8)(i)(A)].

To obtain approval, see Treas. Reg. § 1.442-1(b) [Treas. Reg. 1.706-1(b)(10)]. If not automatic, approval will be granted if the taxpayer establishes a "substantial business purpose." However, approval will not be granted unless the Commissioner and the taxpayer agree to terms, conditions, and adjustments under which the change will be effected [Treas. Reg. § 1.442-1(b)].

If all individual partners are changing to the same taxable year, their individual changes must be approved by the IRS and the FTB [see Treas. Reg. § 1.442-1(b)*].

2. Submit copy of IRS Form 1128 to California Franchise Tax Board.

NOTE:
Obtain formal approval before adjusting partnership books and records to reflect new taxable year.

§ 15.141 Federal and State Information Returns

PRACTICE TIP:

Counsel, who will not be preparing the partnership tax returns, should consider referring the client to a tax professional and monitoring the latter's compliance with the matters listed below. Generally, the earlier the tax professional works with the partnership, the stronger the partnership's team of professional advisors and service providers will be. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

1. Designate a partner to be "tax matters partner."

NOTE:

A partnership must have a "tax matters partner" (TMP) to act as a liaison between the partnership and the IRS on tax issues [see I.R.C. § 6231(a)(7); see also Treas. Reg. § 301.6231(a)(7)-1]. Among other responsibilities, the TMP gives notice to the other partners of tax proceedings, makes tax decisions that bind the other partners, and petitions the IRS for readjustments [see I.R.C. §§ 6223(g), 6224(c)(3), 6226(a)]. The TMP of a partnership is either (1) the general partner designated as the TMP, or (2) if no such partner is designated, the general partner having the largest profits interest in the partnership at the close of the taxable year. If there is more than one such partner, the first such partner alphabetically is the TMP [I.R.C. § 6231(a)(7)]. If the partnership has not designated a tax matters partner and it is impracticable [see Treas. Reg. § 301.6231(a)(7)-1(o) (determination of impracticability)] to apply the largest-profits-interest rule, the Commissioner will select a tax matters partner [I.R.C. §

6231(a)(7); Treas. Reg. § 301.6231(a)(7)-1(n), (p); see Temp. Treas. Reg. § 301.6231(a)(7)-1T(p)(2)]. Within 30 days of that selection, the Secretary must notify all partners entitled to notice [see I.R.C. § 6223(a)] of the name and address of the selected TMP [I.R.C. § 6231(a)(7); see Treas. Reg. § 301.6231(a)(7)-1(r); see also Temp. Treas. Reg. § 301.6231(a)(7)-1T(r)(1)]. The person designated as TMP must be, or have been, a general partner during the taxable period in question [Treas. Reg. § 301.6231(a)(7)-1(b)(1)].

2. File IRS Form 1065 [Treas. Reg. § 1.6031-1(a)]:

a. With District Director of Internal Revenue for district where partnership's principal place of business is located [see Treas. Reg. § 1.6031-1(e)(1)].

b. On or before [I.R.C. § 6072(a)]:
(1) April 15 if partnership is on calendar year.

(2) Fifteenth day of fourth month following close of taxable year if partnership is on fiscal year.

3. File Franchise Tax Board Form 565:

a. With Franchise Tax Board, 1025 P Street, Sacramento, CA 95814.

b. On or before 15th day of fourth month following close of partnership taxable year.

4. If partnership is reporting its income for first time, include the following with both federal and state returns [see Treas. Reg. § 1.441-1(c), 1.706.1(b)(7)].

a. Copies of letters from Commissioner of Internal Revenue and Franchise Tax Board approving adoption of partnership taxable year other than that of all principal partners; or

b. Statement that partnership taxable year is same as that of all principal partners; or

c. Statement that all principal partners are concurrently changing to taxable year adopted by partnership; or

d. Statement that all principal partners are on different taxable years and partnership has adopted a calendar year.

5. If partnership changes taxable year, file separate return for period beginning on day after former taxable year closed and ending day before new taxable year [see I.R.C. § 443(a); Treas. Reg. § 1.443-1(a), 1.706-1(b)(8)(i)(B)].

a. Include copy of letter from IRS Commissioner approving adoption of new year.

NOTE:
An existing partnership may only change its tax year by securing the Commissioner's approval or by making an I.R.C. § 444 election. However, approval is automatic for certain changes, such as a change to the required tax year pursuant to administrative procedures [Treas. Reg. 1.706-1(b)(8)].

b. By 15th day of fourth month after close of short period.

§ 15.200 Long Form for Commercial Partnership

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a detailed partnership agreement for partnerships that will engage in commercial operations and in which the partners will be personally active. It may be adapted for use in any partnership in which the partners will all actively participate in the partnership business. See § 15.201[2] for a form to be used for an investment partnership, and § 15.202[2] for a short form partnership agreement.

The form provides for separate capital and income accounts, with the balance of the income accounts at the end of each fiscal year to be transferred to the capital accounts. It provides each partner with a drawing account, but does not pay the partners salaries for their efforts in the partnership business. See § 15.203[2] for a monthly salary provision.

[b] Partnership Agreement and UPA '94

The partnership agreement governs relations among partners and between partners and the partnership except to the extent limited by law. Relations between the partnership and partners or among partners that are not covered by the partnership agreement default to the UPA '94 provisions [Corp. Code § 16103(a)]. See § 15.17[2] for a discussion of the partnership and partner relations that may not be changed by the partnership agreement.

[c] Partnership Term

Section 1.03 of this form establishes an at-will partnership. The at-will partnership continues until dissolved by the agreement of the partners. This form provides specific authority for dissolving the partnership. A percentage of the partners or partnership interests can be authorized to dissolve the partnership. Under UPA '94, at least half of the partners must agree to dissolve the partnership [Corp. Code § 16801(1)]. See the form in § 15.201[2] for an example of a form used to create a term partnership. See the discussion at § 15.302[2] for events that may cause the dissolution of an at-will partnership.

[d] Capital Contributions

Article 2 of the agreement requires equal contributions by the partners and forbids additional contributions, withdrawal of capital, or loans to the partnership, without consent of all partners. The agreement anticipates a working partnership with all partners devoting equal time and money to the partnership business. Article 2 may need modification if one or more partners are more active in, or contribute more capital to the partnership than other partners. If a partner will contribute property to the partnership that has a fair market value greater or less than the partner's adjusted basis, special allocation provisions should be included. See the discussion in § 15.21 and the form to use in § 15.219[2].

PRACTICE TIP:

If the partners are not devoting equal time and resources to the partnership, or it will be managed by less than all the partners, the passive or less active partners may prefer a different entity structure, such as a limited liability company or limited partnership. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

[e] Management

This form gives equal rights in the management and conduct of partnership business. In this respect it follows the UPA '94 [Corp. Code § 16401(f)]. Note, however, that the language of the form gives each partner one vote. This is consistent with other provisions of the agreement that require equal contributions to the partnership capital and equal shares of the profit. This arrangement may, however, be altered to allow weighting the vote according to partnership interests held by partners when each partner does not contribute equally to the partnership.

[f] Capital and Income Accounts

Article 2 of the agreement requires separate capital and income accounts for each partner. This provisions allows for the possibility of future unequal contributions, and allows for easy computation of each partner's contributions to the partnership. See the more detailed discussion in § 15.216[1] on separate capital and income accounts.

[g] Dissociation

This form contains provisions setting forth specific reasons for dissociation [Corp. Code § 16601; see § 15.301[2] for discussion of dissociation under UPA '94]. The form allows remaining partners to purchase a dissociating or deceased partner's interest for a price that is to be determined by appraisal. This buy-out arrangement is different from the UPA '94 buy-out provision under Corp. Code § 16701, but variation of the buy-out formula is permitted by partnership agreement. Other buy-out formulas for computing a deceased or dissociated partner's interest are found in the forms in §§ 15.240 through 15.249.

A individual partner's power to dissociate may not be modified by the partnership agreement. The partnership agreement may require, however, that a partner give written notice of his or her intent to dissociate [Corp. Code § 16103(b)]. This form does contain such a requirement. In addition, this form requires that the written notice be given in advance of dissociation. Although the agreement may not stop a partner from dissociating without advance notice, it appears that the failure to give advance notice as required by agreement would make a partner's dissociation wrongful, and subject the partner to any attendant liabilities for damages caused by dissociation without notice [Corp. Code § 16602(c)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Requiring dissociating partners to give written notice may be advantageous from the partnership's perspective, but not so from the point of view of the dissociating partner. Dissociations can be emotionally charged events, and when the partnership relation is failing and a partner dissociates by walking away in disgust, that partner, though not otherwise in breach of the partnership agreement, may believe he/she is no longer a partner but may not think to submit a formal written notice of dissociation. This can be particularly troublesome when the dissociating partner is not sophisticated and is reluctant or unable to retain dissociation counsel. Formation counsel should use care in requiring written notice of dissociation and avoiding conflicts of interest. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

[h] Partners' Personal Debts

This form requires that all partners hold their co-partners harmless for personal debts. Upon application, a partner's judgment creditor may charge the amount of any unsatisfied judgment against the debtor's transferable partnership interest [Corp. Code § 16504]. Although specificpartnership property may not be reached by a partner's creditor, the other partners may have no alternative but to satisfy their co-partner's personal debt to avoid foreclosure sale of the partnership interest [Corp. Code § 16504(b), (c)].

Stravinski (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 941, 948, 41 Cal. Rptr. 3d 877* (because partnership agreement limited partnership business to one specific warehouse development project, provided that partners could participate independently in Camozzi*.

Capital Accounts

2.13. A separate capital account shall be maintained for each Partner. Each Partner's capital account shall consist of the following:

Each Partner shall have authority to bind the Partnership in making contracts and incurring obligations in the Partnership name and on its credit in the ordinary course of the Partnership business. No Partner, however, shall incur any obligation in the Partnership name or on its credit exceeding the sum of $ _____ without the consent of the other Partners. Any Partner who incurs any obligation in the name and on the credit of the Partnership in violation of this provision shall be individually liable to the other Partners for the entire amount of the obligation incurred. The $ _____ limitation on the amount of an obligation that may be incurred by a Partner may be increased or decreased at any time by agreement of all Partners.

Vacations

3.07. Each Partner shall be entitled to a vacation of one business day for each _____ days of full time service rendered by that Partner to the Partnership business during the preceding twelve month period. No more than _____ vacation days shall be taken by any Partner at one time without the consent of _____ percent in numbers [or all] of the remaining Partners. Each Partner shall be entitled to withdraw from the Partnership funds the amounts specified in Section _____ [e.g., 3.03] of this Agreement during vacation periods.

Penalty for Extended Absence

3.08. The failure of any Partner not disabled, as provided in Section 4.02 of this Agreement, to devote undivided time and attention to the Partnership business for a period exceeding _____ weeks shall constitute an extended absence by that Partner. (d) Become bail, surety, or indorser for any other person. Any loss sustained by the Partnership because of the breach of this paragraph by any Partner shall be deducted from that Partner's share of the Partnership net profits, or if the net profits for the fiscal year in which the breach occurred be insufficient, from that Partner's capital interest in the Partnership.

Personal Debts

3.11. All Partners shall discharge their separate obligations as they become due and protect the other Partners and the Partnership from all costs, claims, and demands in relation to those obligations.

Assignment of Interest

3.12. No Partner shall sell, assign, mortgage, hypothecate, or encumber an interest in the Partnership.

Inventions

3.13. Any inventions, whether patentable or not, developed or invented by any Partner during the term of this Partnership shall be Partnership property.

ARTICLE 4. PARTNER DISSOCIATION

Expulsion of a Partner

4.01. A Partner may be expelled from the Partnership for any of the following:

(1) Willful breach of any provision contained in this Agreement;

(2) Conduct adversely affecting the Partnership business;

(3) Conduct relating to Partnership matters that makes continuation of the Partnership unreasonable if that Partner remains a member.

A Partner shall be expelled upon unanimous vote of all other Partners. The other Partners shall serve the expelled Partner with a written notice stating the grounds for and effective date of the expulsion and bearing all such Partners' signatures. Within _____ days after the expulsion becomes effective, the expelled Partner shall be entitled to receive the value of that Partner's Partnership interest. The value of the expelled Partner's Partnership interest shall be determined by a complete inventory and accounting of Partnership affairs as of the close of business on the day the expulsion became effective, less the value of Partnership goodwill, and less any damages sustained by the other Partners because of the breach, if any, of this Agreement by the expelled Partner.

Disability of a Partner

4.02. If any Partner, in the opinion of any medical doctor duly licensed to practice in California, becomes unable because of any physical or mental disability to devote full time and attention to the Partnership business, that Partner shall, subject to the following terms and conditions, be excused from devoting any time or attention to the Partnership business during the continuance of the disability:

(a) During the first [period, e.g., six months] of disability, the disabled Partner shall continue to be entitled to receive the full share of the Partnership net profits as specified in this Agreement and to withdraw from the Partnership funds each month the full amount specified in Section _____ [e.g., 3.03] of this Agreement.

(b) At any time after the disabled Partner has been unable to devote full time and attention because of such disability to the Partnership business for a period of [e.g., six months] or longer, the remaining Partners by majority vote may involuntarily dissociate the disabled Partner by serving on the disabled Partner written notice of dissociation, stating its effective date.

Bankruptcy, Insanity, or Charging Order

4.03. The remaining Partners may, by service of a written notice stating the effective date thereof on both the Partner and on the trustee in bankruptcy of that Partner, the guardian of that Partner, or the judgment creditor of that Partner who has obtained a charging order against that Partner's interest, involuntarily dissociate any Partner:

(a) Who has been adjudged a bankrupt pursuant to a petition in bankruptcy filed by or against that Partner under the Bankruptcy Act of the United States;

(b) For whom a conservator has been appointed pursuant to Probate Code Sections 1800 through 1849.5.

(c) Against whose interest in the Partnership a charging order has been issued under Corporations Code Section 16504 and not removed within 30 days after it is issued.

Voluntary Dissociation of a Partner

4.04. Any Partner may voluntarily dissociate from the Partnership by giving all other Partners _____[number, e.g. 30] days advance written notice of intention to do so.

Option to Purchase Dissociated Interest

4.05. On the voluntary or involuntary dissociation of a Partner by reason of death, or by reason of any matters stated in Sections 4.02, 4.03, or 4.04 and 5.12 of this Agreement, the remaining Partners shall have an option to purchase the interest of the dissociated Partner's interest in the Partnership by paying to that Partner or the person legally entitled thereto the value of that Partner's interest, determined as provided in Section 4.06 of these Articles. The remaining Partners shall give notice of their exercise of that option in the following manner:

(a) If dissociation is caused by the death of a Partner, by serving written notice of their exercise of this option on the personal representative of the deceased Partner within [number] days after the appointment and qualification of the personal representative.

(b) If dissociation is caused by the voluntary withdrawal of a Partner or under Section 5.12, by serving written notice of the exercise of this option of the withdrawing Partner within [number e.g., 30] days after service on the remaining Partners of the notice of withdrawal provided in Section 4.04 of this Agreement.

(c) If dissociation is caused by the disability of a Partner pursuant to Section 4.02 of this Agreement, by serving written notice of the exercise of the option on the disabled Partner at the same time the notice of involuntary dissociation is served on the disabled Partner.

(d) If dissociation is caused by any of the reasons specified in Section 4.03 of this Agreement, by serving written notice of the exercise of this option on both the dissociated Partner and that Partner's trustee in bankruptcy, guardian, or the judgment creditor who secured a charging order against the dissociated Partner's interest, at the same time the notice of dissociation of the Partner is served on those persons.

Purchase Price of Partnership Interest

4.06. On exercise of the option described in Section 4.05 of this Agreement to purchase a dissociated Partner's Partnership interest, the remaining Partners shall pay to the person legally entitled thereto, in the manner specified in Section 4.07 of this Agreement, the value of the dissociated Partner's interest, determined as follows:

(1) The remaining Partners, at the time they give notice in the manner specified in Section 4.05 of their exercise of the option to purchase, shall appoint an appraiser. Within [number] days after receiving that notice, the person legally entitled to receive the value of the Partnership interest being purchased shall appoint an appraiser. If the two appraisers so appointed are unable to agree on the value of the interest within _____[number] days, they shall appoint a third appraiser. The decision in writing of any two of the three appraisers so appointed shall be binding and conclusive on the parties to this Agreement and on any person legally entitled to receive the value of the dissociated Partner's interest. If a Partner is dissociated because of a charging order issued against the interest of the dissociated Partner, unless the remaining Partners guarantee in writing the payment to the judgment creditor who secured that charging order the full amount of the claim, including interests and costs, the appraiser to be appointed by the person legally entitled to receive the value of the dissociated Partner's interest shall be appointed by the court that issued the charging order. All fees and expenses of each appraiser shall be paid by _____ [the remaining Partners or the purchasing and selling parties in equal proportions or the party on whose behalf that appraiser was appointed, and the fees and expenses of the third appraiser to be paid equally by the purchasing and selling parties].

PRACTICE TIP

The multi-appraiser approach illustrated by this form can be costly and time consuming, and when the parties are bearing their own appraisal costs, could lead to a deep pocket battle of experts. A better practice may be to agree on a neutral appraiser with the partnership to bear the cost. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

(2) In determining the value of the Partnership interest to be purchased, the appraisers shall value:

(a) All items of inventory at their actual cost to the Partnership.

(b) All tangible assets of the Partnership, including lands, buildings, fixtures, machinery, automobiles, and equipment, at their fair cash market value;

(c) All accounts receivable due the Partnership that are not more than 90 calendar days old and not barred by the statute of limitations at one-half their face value;

(d) All accounts receivable due the Partnership that are less than 90 calendar days old at their full face value; and

(e) Goodwill and other intangible assets of the Partnership at their fair cash market value. [For alternative provisions for determining the purchase price payable for the partnership interest of a dissociated partner, see §§ 15.202 and 15.240through 15.249.]

Payment of Purchase Price

4.07. On exercise of the option to purchase the Partnership interest of a dissociated Partner, the remaining Partners shall pay to the person legally entitled thereto the value of the interest, determined as provided in Section 4.06 of this Agreement, in the following manner: _____ [describe payment terms, e.g., One half in cash on receipt of the appraisers' report provided for in Section 4.06, and the balance in 12 equal monthly installments commencing not later than 30 days after receipt of that report. Each monthly installment shall be applied first to interest at the rate of _____ percent per annum on the then remaining unpaid principal balance of the purchase price from the date the appraisers' report was received by the remaining Partners and then to the reduction of principal.

Purchase by Less Than All Remaining Partners

4.08. If any remaining Partner is unable or unwilling to exercise the option contained in Section 4.05 of this Agreement to participate in the purchase of an outgoing Partner's interest, the option may be exercised and the interest purchased by the other remaining Partners. No remaining Partner shall be denied a right to participate in any such purchase if that Partner delivers to all other Partners a written declaration of intent to participate. This written declaration shall be delivered before the appraisers' report is delivered.

Assumption of Partnership Obligations

4.09. On any purchase and sale of a Partnership interest under this Agreement, the remaining Partners shall assume all Partnership obligations and shall protect, defend, and indemnify the dissociated Partner, the personal representative and estate of a deceased, insane, or incompetent Partner, and the property of any dissociated Partner from liability for any such obligations.

Publication of Notice

4.10. On any purchase and sale of a Partnership interest under this Agreement, or on the expulsion of a Partner pursuant to Section 4.01 of this Agreement, the remaining Partners shall, at their own costs and expenses, as soon as reasonably practicable after giving notice of expulsion or of exercise of their option to purchase the dissociating Partner's interest, prepare, publish, file, and serve all notices as may be required by law to protect the dissociated Partner and the personal representative and estate of a deceased, insane, or incompetent Partner from liability for future obligations of the Partnership business.

The amount of this sum shall be determined either by the court or in a separate action brought for that purpose.

Sole Agreement

6.04. This Agreement contains the sole agreement of the parties relating to their partnership and correctly sets forth the rights, duties, and obligations of each to the others as of its date. 7-15 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 15.201

AUTHOR: by Robert D. Schindewolf, J.D., and Dennis F. Zickerman, J.D. John J. Camozzi, J.D., M.B.A., Practice Consultant

§ 15.201 Long Form for Investment Partnership

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a detailed partnership agreement that comprehensively defines the partners' rights and obligations. It is designed to be used when three or more persons form a general partnership for the purpose of pooling capital and making investments. While many of the provisions in this form may also be used in agreements among partners who will actively engage in a business enterprise (e.g., the manufacture and distribution of products), the form in § 15.200[2] is designed for use in such situations. See § 15.270[2] for a partnership agreement to be used by professionals who wish to practice as partners.

[b] Taxation of Investment Partnerships

Investment partnerships may elect not to report income under the Internal Revenue Code provisions otherwise applicable to partnerships [I.R.C. § 761(a)]. All members of the partnership must join in making such an election [see I.R.C. § 761(a)]. The election is made by attaching a statement containing the following information to IRS Form 1065: all partners' names, addresses, and identification numbers; an assertion that the partnership qualifies to make the election; a statement that all partners assent to the election; and identification of where a copy of the partnership agreement is available [see Treas. Reg. § 1.761-2(b)(2)]. The IRS may allow the election if the partnership is for investment purposes only and the income of its members can be adequately determined without computing the partnership taxable income [see I.R.C. § 761(a)].

[c] Net Profits

Net profits are defined generally in this form by reference to accepted accounting principles. For a discussion of the reasons underlying use of this definition, see § 15.202[1].

[d] Partnership Term

General partnerships may be formed for (1) a specified period; (2) an indefinite period; or (3) whatever amount of time is necessary to accomplish an undertaking or series of undertakings. If the partnership agreement does not specify a particular term or undertaking, the partnership exists "at will" and may be dissolved, without breach of the agreement, by the express will of at least half of the partners [Corp. Code § 16801(1)]. See § 15.302[2] for discussion of the differences in treatment of dissolution of at will and fixed term partnerships.

Article 3 of this form provides for continuation of the partnership from year to year following expiration of a fixed term upon the affirmative vote of a specified percentage in interest of the partners to continue. Unless the agreement provides otherwise, the partners' rights and obligations remain in effect if the partnership business is continued beyond the expiration of a fixed term or the completion of a specific undertaking [see Corp. Code § 16406(a)]. If partners who normally ran the partnership business during the partnership term continue the business after expiration of the term, they are presumed to have agreed that the partnership will continue [Corp. Code § 16406(b)].

[e] Capital Contributions

Article 4 of this form addresses initial and subsequent capital contributions. It requires that each partner make an initial capital contribution, and describes the method by which additional contributions may be compelled. Because this agreement allows the contribution of property to the partnership, a special allocation provision is included in case there is built-in gain or loss on the contributed property [see Section 4.05 of form]. See the discussion at § 15.21 for discussion of why this special allocation provision is required.

This form does not allow for the contribution of services instead of cash or property. Some partnerships need to attract highly skilled partners by granting partnership interests for services. See the form in § 15.213[2] for a provision allowing contribution of services rather than capital.

All property brought into the partnership or acquired on its account is partnership property, and not property of the partners individually [Corp. Code §§ 16203, 16204]. If a partner contributes community property to a partnership, that property is divested of its community nature [Rosenthal v. Rosenthal (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d 927, 931, 50 Cal. Rptr. 385] . Although the contributing partner's spouse may lose a community interest in property transferred to the partnership, the spouse has a community property interest in the partner's transferable interest in the partnership to the extent it was acquired with community property or earnings since marriage [see Kenworthy v. Hadden (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 696, 701, 151 Cal. Rptr. 169 ; Corp. Code § 16502].

[f] Interest on Capital Accounts

Section 4.02 of this form requires the partners to make interest bearing advances to the partnership as needed. Subject to contrary agreement, a partner who makes a payment or advance beyond the amount of capital that the partner originally agreed to contribute is entitled to interest from the date of the payment or advance [see Corp. Code § 16401(e)]. If capital contributions to the partnership are unequal and if capital plays an important role in production of partnership income (e.g., in an investment partnership), the agreement should ordinarily provide for interest to be paid on capital accounts.

[g] Profits and Losses

Section 5.02 of this form requires distribution of profits and losses among partners according to their respective percentages of interest in the partnership. In the absence of an agreement to the contrary, the partners will share equally in the profits and surplus remaining after satisfaction of partnership liabilities [see Corp. Code § 16401(b)]. Losses will shared in the same proportion as for profits unless the partnership agreement provides otherwise [see Corp. Code § 16401(b)].

For tax purposes, the partners' distributive shares of partnership profits and losses are determined by the partnership agreement as long as the distributions have substantial economic effect [I.R.C. § 704(a); see § 15.20]. This form provides for distributions according to the partners' ownership in the partnership and will meet the IRS test. Section 4.05 is a special allocation provision to account for any built-in gain or loss on property that may be contributed to the partnership [see § 15.21 for discussion].

[h] Accounting and Inspection of Books

This form provides for the maintenance and regular review of partnership books of account. Unless the partners agree otherwise, the partnership books must be kept at the partnership's principal place of business and made accessible to every partner for inspection and copying [Corp. Code § 16403(a), (b)]. This form follows UPA '94 and satisfies the requirement that the partnership agreement may not unreasonably restrict the right of access to books and records or the right to be furnished information [see Corp. Code § 16103(b)(2)].

[i] Salaries and Expenses

A partner is not entitled to remuneration for acting in the partnership business [Corp. Code § 16401(h)]. Section 5.01 of this form follows UPA '94 by providing that no partner is to be compensated beyond the appropriate individual share in partnership net profits. The partners may agree to provide salaries and expense accounts for one or more of their number [see Corp. Code § 16103(a)]. See the forms in §§ 15.202[2], 15.220[2], and 15.221[2] for alternative provisions. The forms in §§ 15.223[2] and 15.224[2] provide clauses regarding partners' expenses.

[j] Management of Partnership Business

Section 8.01 of this form gives the partners equal rights in the management and conduct of partnership activities. In this respect, it follows the UPA '94. [see Corp. Code § 16401(f)]. However, this form also gives authority for the day-to-day operations of the Partnership to a Managing Partner, whose authority is specifically defined.

PRACTICE TIP

If the partners are not devoting equal time and resources to the partnership, or it will be managed by less than all the partners, the passive or less active partners may prefer a different entity structure, such as a limited partnership. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

[k] Voting Requirements

This form includes voting requirements based on a specified percentage in interest of the partners [see, e.g., Sections 5.01, 5.02, and 8.01]. Making voting rights dependent on percentages of partnership interests is a particularly appropriate device for investment partnerships in which the partners' capital contributions often are unequal.

[l] Termination or Continuation of Partnership

Article 8 of this form includes a provision for termination of the partnership before expiration of the specified term upon a vote of a specified percentage in interest of the partners. It provides detailed instructions regarding the liquidation procedure, including a schedule for asset distribution.

Section 10.01 of this form specifies the events that constitute default under the partnership agreement. It provides a procedure whereby a defaulting partner's interest may be purchased and the partnership business continued. Although at-will partnerships are not dissolved by the dissociation of a partner for death or other reason, those events can cause the dissolution of a term partnership such as this one [Corp. Code § 16801(1), (2)]. This form varies the provisions of the law and continues the partnership upon the death or other dissociation of a partner, except on an affirmative vote of a specified percentage in interest of the partners to dissolve. For a more detailed discussion of partnership dissolution and its consequences, see § 15.300.

[2] FORM

Long Form for Investment Partnership

PARTNERSHIP AGREEMENT

This Partnership Agreement ("Agreement") is made on _____[date], by _____[name], _____[name], and _____[name], (whose names, addresses, tax identification numbers, and partnership interests are listed on exhibit A, attached to and made part of this agreement) hereinafter referred to as "Partners."

RECITALS

In consideration of the mutual covenants contained in this Agreement, the Partners agree to form a general partnership (hereinafter referred to as "Partnership") for the purposes and under the terms, provisions, and conditions set forth below.

It is therefore agreed:

ARTICLE 1. NAME AND PLACE OF BUSINESS

Name

1.01. The Partnership business and activities shall be conducted under the name _____[name of partnership] in California and under any variations of this name that may be necessary to comply with the laws of other states in which the Partnership transacts business or makes investments.

Place of Business

1.02. The Partnership's principal place of business shall be _____[city], [county], California. Additional places of business may be established at other locations agreed upon by the Partners.

Address

1.03. The Partnership's mailing address shall be _____[street address], _____[city], _____County, California [zip code].

ARTICLE 2. PARTNERSHIP PURPOSES

Primary Purpose

2.01. The Partnership's primary purpose shall be to invest in stocks, bonds, and securities. This purpose shall include, but shall not be limited to, purchasing, selling, and dealing in any of the following:

(1) Stocks, bonds, notes, options, and evidences of indebtedness of any domestic or foreign entity or association;

(2) Bonds and other obligations of any foreign or domestic government or political subdivision;

(3) Bills of exchange and other commercial paper;

(4) Securities of any nature or description;

(5) Commodities; and

(6) Precious metals.

The Partnership may engage in all usual and customary activities associated with investment in stocks, bonds, and securities.

Other Purposes

2.02. The Partnership's other purposes shall be to:

(1) Enter into other Partnership agreements in the capacity of a general Partner or limited Partner;

(2) Become a member of a joint venture or some other form of syndication for investment; and

(3) Buy, sell, lease, and deal in services, personal property, and real property.

PRACTICE TIP

Unless specific investments are identified at the time of formation, counsel may prefer not to include the broad authority to invest until the opportunity to make such investments is presented. In many cases the partners may not want to assume such broad investment risks with out a limited liability shield, which might, at that time, dictate conversion of the partnership to a limited liability partnership or limited partnership. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

ARTICLE 3. PARTNERSHIP TERM

The Partnership shall begin on _____[date], and shall continue until _____[date]. Upon expiration of this term, the Partnership may continue from year to year on the affirmative vote of [e.g., 75] percent in interest, not in numbers, of the Partners. [See form in § 15.200[2] for provision to create an at-will partnership.]

ARTICLE 4. CONTRIBUTIONS TO PARTNERSHIP

Initial Contributions

4.01. All Partners shall, upon demand, contribute to the Partnership the amount of cash or property of agreed fair market value set out opposite the name of each on exhibit a as their initial capital contributions.

Future Contributions

4.02. Each Partner shall be obligated to make the advances set forth in this section until such obligation is terminated by a vote of _____percent in interest, not in numbers, of the Partners. Upon written request of the Partnership Manager, each Partner shall advance to the Partnership a pro rata share (the ownership percentage set opposite each Partner's name on Exhibit A) of all costs, expenses, or charges respecting the Partnership operation and the ownership, operation, and maintenance of any Partnership property, including but not limited to ad valorem taxes, debt amortization (including interest payments), insurance premiums, repairs, costs of capital improvements made on approval of the Partners as provided in this agreement, management fees, salaries, advertising expenses, professional fees, and utility costs, to the extent these amounts exceed the income, if any, derived from the Partnership and the proceeds of any loans made to the Partnership.

The Partnership Manager may estimate the cash requirements of the Partnership for periods of up to one year in advance and request payment of each Partner's pro rata share of estimated cash requirements. Each Partner shall pay the requested amount within _____ days after receiving the Manager's written statement. At the end of each period covered by the estimate, the Partnership Manager shall provide each Partner with an accounting of the amounts actually advanced for costs, expenses, and charges. If the estimate paid by the Partners exceeded the actual cash expenditures, the Partnership Manager shall either refund the excess to the Partners or apply the excess against the estimated cash requirements for the succeeding period.

Contributions Secured

4.03. All Partners grant to the Partnership Manager liens on their interests in the Partnership to secure the payment of contributions and the performance of obligations required under this Agreement.

Withdrawal of Capital

4.04. No Partner shall withdraw any portion of the Partnership capital without the express written consent of all other Partners.

Allocation of Depreciation, Gain, or Loss

4.05. If a Partner contributes property to the Partnership that has an adjusted income tax basis that differs from the fair market value at which the Partnership accepts and credits the property to the Partner's capital account for the purpose of determining each Partner's distributive share of Partnership net profits and losses, then for income tax purposes, any depreciation, depletion, gain or loss with respect to the property must, pursuant to Section 704(c) of the Internal Revenue Code and Treasury Regulation Section 1.704-3 be allocated according to the [select one traditional method or traditional method with curative allocations or traditional method with remedial allocations].

ARTICLE 5. PARTNERSHIP OPERATION

Partnership Interests

5.01. As among themselves, all Partners shall be entitled to share Partnership net profits and shall be obliged to bear Partnership liabilities in the percentages of ownership set opposite their names on Exhibit A. If a Partner defaults under the terms of this agreement, that Partner shall indemnify the other Partners for any loss or liability caused by the default and exceeding the percentages set forth in Exhibit A. Unless otherwise provided in this agreement, no Partner shall have any right to compensation solely by reason of contribution to the Partnership, except to share in the Partnership net profits in the percentage set opposite each Partner's name on Exhibit A. Any Partner may, however, loan the Partnership any additional funds agreed upon by [e.g., 75] percent in interest, not in numbers, of the Partners. The Partnership shall pay _____ percent per annum interest on such loans, and shall charge the interest payments as Partnership business expenses in the Partnership books.

Distributions

5.02. Distributions from the Partnership to the Partners shall be made at such times and in such amounts as determined by a vote of [e.g., 75] percent in interest, not in numbers, of the Partners. Any distributions from the Partnership shall be made proportionately to all Partners in the percentages set opposite their names in Exhibit A.

PRACTICE TIP

It is often preferable to use distributions to first pay off partner loans before making pro rata equity returns. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

Net Profits Defined

5.03. The term "net profits" as used in this agreement means the net profits of the Partnership as determined by generally accepted accounting principles for each accounting period provided for in this agreement.

ARTICLE 6. OWNERSHIP OF PARTNERSHIP PROPERTY

6.01. The Partnership shall own all real and personal property acquired by the Partnership, including improvements. Partners have no ownership rights in specific Partnership property, and may not transfer any interest in Partnership property either voluntarily or involuntarily.

ARTICLE 7. FISCAL MATTERS

Fiscal Year

7.01. The Partnership fiscal year shall be the calendar year.

Books and Records

7.02. Proper books and records shall be kept regarding all Partnership transactions, and each Partner, the Partner's attorney, accountant and legal representatives, shall, on reasonable notice, have access to those books and records during business hours. The books shall be kept in a manner of accounting agreed upon by the Partners and reflecting Partnership income. The books and records shall designate and identify any property in which the Partnership owns a beneficial interest. The records shall include, but not be limited to, the ownership of property (real, personal, and mixed) as well as any property in which the Partnership owns an interest and the title to which has been recorded or is maintained in the name of one or more designated Partners without Partnership designation. The books and records shall be reviewed annually at the Partners' expense by a certified public accountant selected by the Partners, who shall prepare and deliver to the Partnership, for filing, the appropriate federal Partnership income tax return.

Partnership Accounts

7.03. All funds of the Partnership shall be deposited in its name (or in the name of a nominee as provided in Section 8.02) in accounts maintained at a bank designated by the Partnership Manager or with an agent designated by the Partnership Manager. Checks shall be drawn upon the Partnership accounts only for Partnership purposes and shall be signed by the Partnership Manager or by an officer or authorized agent of the Partnership Manager.

Accountings

7.04. A complete accounting of Partnership affairs as of the close of business on [e.g., the last days of March, June, September, and December of each year] shall be rendered to each Partner within _____ days after the close of each such month.

ARTICLE 8. MANAGEMENT OF PARTNERSHIP AFFAIRS

8.01. The Partners shall control the Partnership and all its affairs and shall have equal rights in the management and conduct of Partnership investments and activities. The Partners designate _____[name] as Partnership Manager to serve in that capacity until the Partners designate a new Manager by a vote of _____ percent in interest, not in numbers, of the Partners. The Partnership Manager shall not receive a salary or any other compensation for serving as Partnership Manager. The Partnership Manager shall be responsible for the day-to-day management and ministerial acts of the Partnership.

The Partnership Manager shall have the right and power to bind the Partnership subject to the conditions and limitations set forth in this Agreement. The general management and final determination of all questions relating to the usual daily business affairs and ministerial acts of the Partnership shall rest in the Partnership Manager. In this connection, and not by way of limitation, the Partnership Manager is authorized to do all things and to execute all documents, contracts, evidences of indebtedness, security agreements, financing statements, and other instruments necessary to carry out the purposes of the Partners as expressed in this Agreement. All business arrangements entered into shall be on terms and conditions generally acceptable to a person in similar circumstances exercising prudent business judgment. The Partnership Manager shall devote all reasonably necessary attention and business capacity to the Partnership affairs. The Partners acknowledge that the Partnership Manager manages and may continue to manage other Partnerships and may continue to engage in other distinct or related businesses.

Restrictions on Authority of Manager and Partners

8.02. The individual Partners and the Partnership Manager shall have no authority with respect to the Partnership and this agreement to:

(1) Do any act in contravention of this agreement;

(2) Do any act that would make it impossible to carry on the Partnership business;

(3) Possess Partnership property or assign the right of the Partnership or its Partners in specific Partnership property for other than a Partnership purpose;

(4) Make, execute, or deliver any general assignments for the benefit of creditors, or any bond, guaranty, indemnity bond, or surety bond;

(5) Assign, transfer, pledge, compromise, or release any Partnership claim except for full payment, or arbitrate or consent to the arbitration of any disputes or controversies;

(6) Make, execute, or deliver any deed, long term ground lease, contract to sell all or any part of Partnership property, or execute any new note or mortgage to renew and extend without increasing any existing note or mortgage, without first having obtained the consent, either by vote or writing, of _____ percent in interest, not in numbers, of the Partners; or

(7) Do any of the following without unanimous consent of the Partners:

(a) Confess a judgment;

(b) Make, execute, or deliver for the Partnership any bond, mortgage, deed of trust, guaranty, indemnity bond, surety bond, or accommodation paper or accommodation endorsement;

(c) Amend or otherwise change this agreement so as to modify the rights or obligations of the Partners as set forth; or

(d) Create any personal liability for any Partner other than liability to which that Partner may agree in writing.

Statement of Partnership

8.03. Concurrent with the execution of this Agreement, the Partners shall cause to be filed with the California Secretary of State a Statement of Partnership Authority pursuant to California Corporations Code Section 16303 setting forth the Partners' rights to manage and control the Partnership's business, including any limitations on the authority of Partners to bind the Partnership as set forth in this Agreement. The Partnership shall cause the Statement of Partnership Authority be recorded in every county in which the Partnership owns, or contemplates owning, real property.

Meetings of Partners

8.04. The Partners shall hold regular [e.g., quarterly] meetings at times and places to be selected by the Partners. In addition, [e.g., 30] percent in interest, not in numbers, of the Partners may call special meetings to be held in _____ County at any time after giving [e.g., three] days notice to all Partners. Any Partner may waive notice of or attendance at any meeting, or may attend by telephone or any other electronic communication device, or may execute a signed written consent. The Partners shall transact all business properly brought before them at their meetings.

The Partners shall keep regular minutes of all their proceedings. The minutes shall be placed in the Partnership minute book.

Action Without Meeting

8.05. Any action that may or is required to be taken at a meeting of the Partners may be taken without a meeting if written consent setting forth the action to be taken is signed by all Partners entitled to vote. This consent shall have the same force as a unanimous vote of the Partners. The consent, or a signed copy thereof, shall be placed in the Partnership minute book.

ARTICLE 9. RESTRICTION ON TRANSFER

Prohibition Against Transfer

9.01. Except as otherwise provided in this Agreement, no Partner may sell, assign, transfer, encumber, or otherwise dispose of any Partnership interest, Partnership property, or Partnership assets without prior written consent of _____ [e.g., 75] percent in interest, not in numbers, of all other Partners, and shall not pass title to any Partnership interest or property in the absence of such consent. Any transfer prohibited under this section shall be void, and any attempt by a Partner to dispose of a Partnership interest in violation of this section shall constitute a material default under this Agreement.

Effect of Assignment

9.02. If a transfer of a Partner's interest is permitted under Section 9.01, the transferee or assignee to whom an interest has been transferred shall not have a right to participate in the management or conduct of the partnership business, to require access to information concerning partnership transactions, or to inspect or copy the partnership books or records. A transferee may receive distributions to which the transferring Partner may have otherwise been entitled and to receive, on the dissolution of the Partnership, the net amount otherwise distributable to the transferring Partner.

Death of Partner

9.03. On the death of a Partner, the decedent's estate shall sell and the _____[surviving Partners or Partnership] shall purchase the deceased Partner's interest in the Partnership. Valuation of the deceased Partner's interest shall be made by appraisal as provided in Article 12. The Partnership shall not be dissolved upon the death of a Partner under Corporation Code 16801 except by affirmative vote of _____ [e.g., 75] percent in interest, not in numbers, of the Partners. [For alternative methods of valuation, and other provisions governing the purchase and sale of partnership interests, see forms in §§ 15.240-15.255.]

ARTICLE 10. DEFAULT BY A PARTNER

10.01. The following events shall constitute default by a Partner:

(1) The failure to make, when due, any contribution or advance required under the terms of this agreement and the continuance of that failure for _____ [e.g., 10] days after the Partnership Manager notifies the Partner of the failure in writing.

(2) Violation of any other provisions in this agreement and failure to remedy the violation within _____ [e.g., 10] days after notice of the violation from the Partnership Manager or the other Partners.

(3) The assignment of Partnership property for the benefit of creditors, or the filing of a petition under any section or chapter of the federal bankruptcy code or under any similar law of the United States or any state.

(4) Adjudication of the Partner as a bankrupt or insolvent under any section or chapter of the federal bankruptcy code or under any similar law of the United States or any state.

(5) The appointment of a receiver for all or substantially all of a Partner's assets and the failure to have the receiver discharged within _____ [e.g., 30] days after appointment.

(6) The commencement of any legal action by a creditor against a Partner resulting in litigation that, in the opinion of the Partnership Manager or _____ [e.g., 75] percent in interest, not in numbers, of the other Partners creates a real and substantial risk of involvement of Partnership property that will probably:

(a) Act to their financial detriment; or

(b) Result in the creditor or the creditor's assigns succeeding in or to all or part of the Partner's interest in the Partnership.

PRACTICE TIP

Commencement of creditor litigation against a partner that may involve partnership assets may, at the very least, create a conflict of interest, and at worst, violate the attorney-client fiduciary duty. High net worth partners may be reluctant to disclose their investment portfolio and unrelated business dealings to the partnership. This is particularly true when the individual partner has a greater net worth than the partnership. However, if the partnership has a greater net worth than the individual partner, the partnership may have an interest in knowing if any individual partner is exposing the partnership to risk. Generally, a partner has no fiduciary duty to disclose unrelated financial dealings to the partnership. Requiring a partner to disclose personal financial dealings may compromise the privacy rights of the disclosing partner and may raise issues of contract interpretation and good faith and fair dealing by allowing the other partners to examine the disclosing partner's financial disclosures and summarily declare the partnership agreement in default. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

Effect of Default

10.02. Upon a Partner's default, _____ [e.g., 75] percent in interest, not in numbers, of the other Partners shall have the right to elect to dissociate the defaulting Partner without dissolving the Partnership. The nondefaulting Partners may make this election at any time within _____ [e.g., one year] from the date of default, upon _____ [e.g., ten] days written notice of that election to the defaulting Partner provided that default is continuing on the date notice is given.

All nondefaulting Partners (hereinafter referred to as "Purchasing Partners") who voted to make the election to dissociate the defaulting Partner shall be required to purchase such interest, pro rata, in the proportion that their individual Partnership interests bear to the aggregate of all Partnership interests. The purchase price for the defaulting Partner's interest shall be paid in cash or, at the purchasing Partners' option, by execution and delivery of each purchasing Partner's note payable to the order of the defaulting Partner, in the amount of the purchase price. These notes shall bear interest at the rate of _____percent per annum and shall be payable in _____ [number] equal annual installments of principal and interest, the first payment to be made one year from the date of execution and delivery and with that note containing full prepayment privileges without penalty. The purchase price to be paid to a defaulting Partner shall be the _____ lower of:

(1) The fair market value; or

(2) The defaulting Partner's total cash investment in the Partnership, or the agreed value of contributed property, as of the date of default.

The purchase price shall be reduced by the aggregate amount of any outstanding debts to the Partnership and by any damages caused by the default of the defaulting Partner. Fair market value shall be determined as specified in Article 12 of this Agreement.

Upon receipt of the purchase price (cash or note), the defaulting Partner shall have no further interest in the Partnership, its business, or its assets, and shall execute and deliver any assignments and other instruments necessary to evidence and effectively transfer the interest of the defaulting Partner to the Purchasing Partners. If the necessary assignments and instruments are not delivered after notice by the Partnership Manager that the consideration is available to the defaulting Partner, the Partnership Manager may deliver such consideration to the defaulting Partner and execute such assignments and instruments as the defaulting Partner's irrevocable agent. All Partners agree, that the Partnership Manager shall not be individually liable for any actions so taken.

The assignment or transfer of a defaulting Partner's interest shall not relieve that Partner from any personal liability for outstanding obligations relating to the Partnership which may exist on the date of the assignment or transfer. A Partner's default shall not relieve any other Partner from liabilities and obligations under this agreement. A defaulting Partner's Partnership interest shall not be considered in any Partnership voting requirement.

Option to Assist Defaulting Partner

10.03. Any Partner may agree to assist a defaulting Partner. Such an agreement and any advance or payment made thereunder shall be secured by a lien upon the defaulting Partner's Partnership interest. The lien may be foreclosed, at the assisting Partner's option, by the Partnership Manager.

Option to Cure Defaults

10.04. Any Partner may cure another Partner's default after providing all Partners with written notice of intent to cure. If the option to cure is exercised, the defaulting Partner shall be obligated to the curing Partner for all reasonable expenses, amounts, and contractual liabilities incurred in the process. This obligation shall be secured by a lien on the defaulting Partner's Partnership interest which may be foreclosed, at the curing Partner's option, by the Partnership Manager. Exercise of the option to cure shall not constitute a waiver of any claim for breach of this Partnership agreement.

Foreclosure for Default

10.05. If a Partner is in default, the lien provided for in Section 4.03 of this agreement may, at the option of _____ [e.g., 75 percent in interest, not in numbers, of the nondefaulting Partners, be foreclosed by the Partnership Manager].

Transfer by Attorney in Fact

10.06. Each Partner appoints the Partnership Manager as the Partner's attorney in fact in the event that the Partner becomes a defaulting Partner who is dissociated under the terms of this Agreement. Upon dissociation, the Partnership Manager may assign or transfer the defaulting Partner's Partnership interest. The Partnership Manager shall not be personally liable for any matter related to such an assignment or transfer.

Additional Effects of Default

10.07. Pursuit of remedies provided under this Agreement shall not preclude pursuit of other remedies available at law or equity. The Partners shall not be deemed to waive or forfeit, by pursuit of remedies provided under this agreement, any amounts due to them as a result of another Partner's breach of this Agreement. If nondefaulting Partners waive another Partner's specific breach, the waiver shall not be deemed to extend to any other breach of this Agreement. If the nondefaulting Partners refrain from enforcing any remedy available under this agreement against a defaulting Partner, they shall not be deemed to have waived the default.

ARTICLE 11. AMENDMENT

Subject to the provisions of Article 8, this Agreement may be modified only by a written instrument executed by Partners collectively owning at least [e.g., 75] percent in interest of the Partnership.

ARTICLE 12. PROCEDURE FOR APPRAISAL

Selection of Appraisers

12.01. Within _____ days after an appraisal is required under any provision of this agreement, two appraisers shall be selected, one by each opposing party. If either party fails to name an appraiser within the specified time, the other Partners may select the second appraiser.

PRACTICE TIP

The multi-appraiser approach illustrated by this form can be costly and time consuming, and when the parties are bearing their own appraisal costs, could lead to a deep pocket battle of experts. A better practice may be to agree on a neutral appraiser with the partnership to bear the cost. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

Determination of Fair Market Value

12.02. The two appraisers selected under Section 12.01 shall determine the Partnership fair market value. They shall take into account any defaulting Partner's interest and equity in the Partnership as well as any outstanding obligations or encumbrances relating to Partnership property. The appraisers' determination of fair market value shall be final and binding on all parties. If the two appraisers selected are unable to agree on fair market value, they shall select a third appraiser whose determination of fair market value shall be averaged with those of the other appraisers. The average shall be conclusive as to the Partnership fair market value and shall be final and binding on all parties.

Fees and Expenses

12.03. Each opposing party shall pay the fees and expenses of its own appraiser and, if a third appraiser is selected, the fee of the third appraiser shall be paid equally by the two parties.

ARTICLE 13. PARTNERSHIP TERMINATION

Terminating Events

13.01. The following events shall terminate the Partnership:

(1) The affirmative vote of [e.g., 75] percent in interest, not in numbers, of the Partners, or

(2) The expiration of the term provided for in Article 3 of this Agreement.

Distribution of Assets

13.02. Upon termination, the Partnership assets shall be applied toward any outstanding Partnership obligations to creditors, including, to the extent permitted by law, partners who are creditors. After all outstanding Partnership liabilities have been satisfied, the balance of the Partnership assets shall be distributed to the Partners in proportion to their Partnership interests as set forth in Exhibit A.

ARTICLE 14. MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

Except as otherwise specifically provided, all notices required or permitted under this agreement shall be in writing and shall be deemed delivered when deposited in the United States mail, first-class postage prepaid, registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, addressed to the Partners at their respective addresses as set forth on Exhibit A or at other addresses specified by written notice delivered in accordance with this section.

§ 15.202 General Partnership Agreement Short Form

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a short-form partnership agreement that provides for equal rights and duties among the partners. It may be used in forming two-member or other small partnerships when the partners will work actively in the partnership business and will depend on it for at least a portion of their yearly income. Accordingly, this form contains provisions authorizing payment of specific salaries to the partners and requiring them to devote their full time and efforts to the partnership business. This form allows a remaining partner the option of purchasing the interest of the other partner on a co-partner's death or withdrawal. Because the form is designed to be used by smaller, less formal commercial partnerships it does not provide detailed definitions of fiscal matters or partners' rights and obligations. In this respect it relies on the provisions of UPA '94, which will fill in the gaps to govern relations between partners that are not covered by the partnership agreement [Corp. Code § 16103(a)].

[b] Net Profits

This form provides that "net profits" be defined in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles.Regarding how a court may be expected to deal with the reference to generally accepted accounting principles, see Ch. 7,Corporate Records and Reports, § 7.31[5][a]. "Net profits" could be more specifically defined either as the net profits shown on the partnership information tax return, or by listing the specific items that are deductible from partnership gross income. However, these more specific definitions may present problems for the partners once operation of the partnership business has commenced. The "net profit" or "taxable income" shown on the information tax return may not be the same as the net profit distributable to the partners. For example, the partnership may not deduct premiums paid for policies on the partners' lives that will be used to fund an "entity" buy-sell agreement. See § 15.261[1] for further discussion.

Listing deductible items in the partnership agreement presents practical difficulties. During the course of its existence, the partnership may incur deductible expenses that were not contemplated at the time the agreement was drafted. Accordingly, frequent amendment of the partnership agreement, resulting in administrative confusion, could result from defining net profits in this manner.

PRACTICE TIP

Small partnerships, particularly when the partnership goal is to create jobs for the partners, tend to rely more on their professional tax advisor/accountant for advice than their attorney. Counsel forming a small partnership should not anticipate regular contact with the partnership after formation, should keep the agreement terms simple, and should broadly draft all tax and accounting provisions to ensure flexibility for future operations. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

Partners' Salaries

14. As compensation for services in the Partnership business, each Partner shall be entitled to a salary of $ _____ per month. The Partnership shall deduct the Partners' salaries as ordinary business expenses prior to computing net profits. A Partner's salary may be increased or reduced at any time by mutual agreement of the Partners. [See forms in §§ 15.200[2] and 15.201[2] for alternative provisions to allowing salaries.]

Net Profits Defined

15. The term "net profits," as used in this Agreement, shall mean the Partnership net profits as determined by generally accepted accounting principles for each accounting period specified in this Agreement.

Withdrawal of Partner

16. Upon [number, i.e 30] days written notice of intent to the other Partner, either Partner may dissociate from the partnership by withdrawing as a Partner.

PRACTICE TIP

Requiring dissociating partners to give written notice may be advantageous from the partnership's perspective, but not from the point of view of the dissociating partner. If the attorney is representing the individual partners, requiring written notice may, at the very least, create a conflict of interest, and at worst, violate the attorney-client fiduciary duty. This issue becomes most problematic when a partner dissociates from the partnership in an emotionally charged state. In such situations, the dissociating partner may simply give oral notice of dissociation and walk away from the partnership in anger or disgust, though not in breach of the partnership agreement. The dissociating partner may reasonably believe that he/she is no longer a partner and that nothing further is required to terminate his/her partnership relationship. The dissociating partner's failure to submit written dissociation notice may make the dissociation ineffective, or if effective, may make the dissociation wrongful (because it would be in breach of the partnership agreement), and may expose the dissociated partner to continuing partnership liabilities or partner liabilities caused by the wrongful dissociation [see Corp. Code § 16602(c)]. This can be particularly troublesome when the partners are not sophisticated or the dissociating partner is reluctant or unable to retain dissociation counsel. Formation counsel should use care in requiring written notification of dissociation. Commentary by John J. Camozzi

Option to Purchase Dissociated Interest

17. On dissociation of either Partner by the death, withdrawal, or other act, the remaining Partner may continue the Partnership business by purchasing the outgoing Partner's interest in the Partnership assets and goodwill. The remaining Partner shall have the option to purchase the dissociated Partner's interest by paying to the outgoing Partner or the appropriate personal representative the value of the dissociated Partner's interest as determined under Paragraph 17 of this Agreement. If the remaining Partner does not exercise this option, the Partnership shall be dissolved as provided under Paragraph 20 of this Agreement.

Purchase Price of Partnership Interest

18. On exercise of the option described in Paragraph 16 of this Agreement, the remaining Partner shall pay to the dissociated Partner or appropriate personal representative the value of the dissociated Partner's Partnership interest as determined by the last regular accounting preceding dissolution plus the full unwithdrawn portion of the dissociated Partner's share in net profits earned between the date of that accounting and the date of dissociation. [For alternative provisions to determine thepurchase price for the interest of a dissociated Partner, see forms in §§ 15.200[2] and 15.240-15.249.]

Liability of Deceased Partner's Estate

19. If on the death of one Partner, the surviving Partner exercises his or her option to purchase the deceased Partner's interest under Paragraphs 16 and 17, the liability of the deceased Partner's estate for Partnership obligations incurred during the period of continuation shall be limited to the amount that the deceased Partner had invested or involved with the Partnership at the time of death and that is includable in the deceased Partner's estate.

Duties of Purchasing Partner

20. On any purchase and sale made pursuant to Paragraphs 16, 17, or 18 of this Agreement, the remaining Partner shall assume all Partnership obligations. The remaining Partner shall hold and defend the withdrawing Partner or the deceased Partner's estate and personal representative, as well as any property belonging to either a withdrawing or deceased Partner, free and harmless from all liability for Partnership obligations. Immediately upon purchase of a withdrawing or deceased Partner's interest, the remaining Partner shall prepare, file, serve, and publish all notices required by law to protect the withdrawing Partner or the deceased Partner's estate and personal representative from liability for future Partnership obligations. All costs incident to the requirements of this Paragraph shall be borne by the remaining Partner.

Dissolution

21. When: (1) the Partnership is dissolved by agreement of the Partners; or (2) a remaining Partner declines to exercise the option to purchase a dissociated Partner's interest under Paragraph 16; or (3) it is otherwise required by law, the Partnership affairs shall be wound up, the Partnership assets liquidated, its obligations to creditors, including, to the extent permitted by law, Partners who are creditors, shall be paid, and the surplus divided among the Partners according to their rights of distribution of their Partnership accounts.

Notices

22. All notices between the Partners shall be in writing and shall be deemed served when personally delivered to a Partner, or when deposited in the United States mail, certified, first-class postage prepaid, addressed to a Partner at the Partner's address set forth in the Preamble to this Agreement or to such other place as may be specified in a notice given pursuant to this Paragraph as the address for service of notice on that Partner.

Consents and Agreements

23. All consents and agreements provided for or permitted by this Agreement shall be in writing. Signed copies of all consents and agreements pertaining to the Partnership shall be kept with the Partnership books.

Governing Law

24. This Agreement shall be governed by the California Uniform Partnership Act of 1994, as amended, and shall in all respects be a contract under California law.

Attorney Fees

25. As between the parties to this Agreement, the prevailing party in any dispute arising from or relating to this Agreement shall be awarded costs and attorney fees whether or not the matter is resolved by trial or appeal.

PRACTICE TIP

In a small partnership, the attorney fees provision is probably the most important dispute resolution cost control measure that can be included in the agreement. Small partnership disputes can be worse than divorces. Without a strong cost control mechanism, small partnership dissolutions can become financial wars of attrition between emotionally charged individuals who are without the ability to pay.
Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

Sole Agreement

24. This instrument contains the Partners' sole agreement relating to their Partnership. It correctly sets out the Partners' rights and obligations. Any prior agreements, promises, negotiations, or representations not expressly set forth in this instrument have no force or effect.

§ 15.210 Term of Partnership Specified Period and Year to Year Continuation Upon Expiration

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form establishes a partnership that will last for a definite period and, upon expiration of that period, continue on a year to year basis. It is similar to Article 3 of the form in § 15.201[2] but provides for an automatic continuation on a year to year basis. Because of the automatic renewal feature of the form, it meets the UPA '94 definition of "partnership at will," a partnership in which the partners have not agreed to remain partners until the expiration of a definite term or the completion of a particular undertaking [Corp. Code § 16101(11)]. It may be substituted in either form in §§ 15.200[2] or 15.201[2]. See the discussion at § 15.302[2] for the consequences for dissolution purposes of forming an at will or term partnership.

§ 15.211 Provision for Contribution of Personal Property and Cash to Initial Partnership Capital

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form provides for an initial partnership capital contribution consisting of both personal property and cash. It may be used when one or more partners contribute personal property, such as fixtures or equipment.

[b] Contributed Property Tax Considerations

Neither the contributing partner nor the partnership recognize gain or loss on property contributed toward the initial partnership capital [I.R.C. § 721(a)]. The basis of a partner's partnership interest is the amount of cash plus the adjusted tax basis of property contributed by the partner [I.R.C. § 722]. If a partner is relieved of any liability attached to contributed property, then the partner is treated as having received a distribution of money from the partnership [I.R.C. § 752(b)]. Such a constructive distribution will reduce the contributing partner's basis for the partnership interest by the amount of the liability assumed [I.R.C. § 733(1)].

The partnership assumes the contributing partner's adjusted basis at the time of contribution for any contributed property [I.R.C. § 723]. Because the fair market value of the contributed property may differ from its adjusted basis, contributions of property to partnerships may create tax problems. For the consequences of these tax problems, see § 15.21[2]. This form should only be used in conjunction with the form in § 15.219 to meet the Internal Revenue Code requirements that any built-in gain or loss on property contributed to a partnership be properly allocated under I.R.C. § 704.

§ 15.212 Provision for Contributions of Real Property to Initial Partnership Capital

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form may be substituted in any of the complete partnership agreements at §§ 15.200[2], 15.201[2], and 15.202[2] if one or more partners will contribute real property to the initial partnership capital. For a discussion of the tax considerations involved when property is contributed to a partnership, see §§ 15.21 and 15.211[1][b]. This form should not be used without a special allocation provision such the one at § 15.219[2].

§ 15.213 Provision Granting Partnership Interest in Exchange for Partner's Services

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form should be used in when a partnership will grant a partnership interest to a partner who contributes only services and makes no initial capital contribution. It may be used in place of or in combination with the capital contribution provisions in the complete partnership agreements in §§ 15.200[2], 15.201[2] or 15.202[2].

If the noncontributing partner is limited in making withdrawals only until the contribution to the partnership equals a specified amount, Paragraph (c) of this form need not be used. If, however, the noncontributing partner is limited in making withdrawals until that partner's contributions equal those of each of the other partners, the partnership agreement should contain some provision similar to Paragraph (c) of this form limiting the amount of the share of the net profits of each of the other partners that may be left in the partnership each year. Otherwise, the implied promise to the noncontributing partner that the limitation on withdrawals will someday terminate may be illusory. As the noncontributing partner's capital contribution increases each year, so may the capital contributions of all other partners, with the result that the noncontributing partner's contribution will never equal those of the other partners.

[b] Noncontributing Partners

There is no legal requirement that each partner make a capital contribution to the partnership [Bowen v. Velliquette, (1957) 153 Cal. App. 2d 847, 851, 315 P.2d 95] . If one partner has a special skill, talent, knowledge, or other attribute, it may benefit the partnership to exchange a partnership interest for that partner's special quality in lieu of a capital contribution. In such instances, both the contributing and noncontributing partners may want the latter to acquire a capital interest in the partnership.

PRACTICE TIP

Intangible capital contributions are very common in high-tech startups. Founders will often contribute technology or know-how when the partnership is in its infancy. After the ideas have incubated and a new technology or project is developed, the partners will then often look to add partners with different or additional skills, or convert the partnership into a limited liability company and try to attract venture capital. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

Generally, a noncontributing partner is required to leave some share of partnership net profits each year until that partner's determinable capital contributions equal either a specific sum or the other partners' contributions. The noncontributing partner's withdrawals from partnership funds may be limited, with the remainder of that partner's share of net profits after withdrawals to be transferred to a capital account. The noncontributing partner's other income sources and requirements for living expenses will determine the extent of any withdrawal limitation.

If the contributing partners do not devote full time to the partnership business, they may wish to provide a salary for a noncontributing partner who does. See the form in § 15.202[2] for a monthly salary provision.

§ 15.214 Provision for Distributing Profits and Losses Among Partners According to Their Respective Net Worths in the Partnership

[1] Comment--Use of Form

If the amount of capital and retained earnings is a major factor in determining what the partnership may earn in subsequent years (as in the case of a self-financed growth company), it may be important to offer an incentive to the partners to leave their distributive shares of net profits in the partnership. This form is designed to provide such an incentive by providing that net profits and net losses of the partnership must be divided among the partners according to their then respective "net worths" in the partnership. Increasing net worth by leaving partnership profits with the partnership may increase a partner's share of future partnership profits.

When both the amount of capital and retained earnings and the ability of one partner who devotes full time to the partnership business to manage that capital are the major elements which produce revenue for the partnership, this form may be combined with a guaranteed salary provision for a managing partner [see salary provision in the form in § 15.202[2]] to give the other partners an incentive for not withdrawing their shares of the partnership's profits and at the same time provide the managing partner with adequate compensation for services.

§ 15.215 Provision for Percentage of Net Profits to Be Added to Partnership Capital Each Accounting Period

[1] Comment--Use of Form

If the partners anticipate that they will have to withdraw major portions of their distributive shares of net partnership profits for living expenses, or they want to keep their "net worths" or capital accounts equal, they may provide for the future growth of the partnership business by agreeing that a specified percentage of their distributive shares of the partnership net profits each accounting period will be retained in the business. In using this form, however, care should be taken not to make the percentage of net profits to be retained so high that an individual partner will be unable to pay income taxes on the partner's full share of the partnership net profits. The last sentence of the form prohibiting any other contributions to capital by any partner need be used only if the partners wish to keep their contributions equal.

§ 15.216 Provision for Maintenance of Separate Capital and Income Accounts for Each Partner

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form provides for the maintenance of separate capital and income accounts for each partner. Under this form, each partner's share of the net partnership profits is credited to the partner's income account, and any credit balance in a partner's income account--in other words, any unwithdrawn profits not already transferred to capital account--is declared to be a partnership liability to that partner and not part of the partner's interest in the partnership capital. Furthermore, this form requires definite, affirmative action by the partners to transfer any portion of unwithdrawn profits from the partners' income accounts to their capital accounts. It also provides that no such transfer may be made if the proportional interests of the partners in the capital of the partnership would be changed thereby. This insures that the proportional capital interests of the partners in the partnership will remain the same as established by their contributions to the initial capital of the partnership. This form may be inserted as Sections 2.14 and 2.15 of the form in § 15.200[2].

[b] Distinction Between Capital and Income

Each partner's capital interest in a partnership is the amount that partner has set apart and invested in the partnership business. The increases, proceeds, or earnings of partnership capital, beyond expenditures incurred in its use, constitute the profits of the business [Bailey v. Clark (1875) 88 U.S. 284, 22 L. Ed. 651, 652] .

A partner may decide not to withdraw the full distributive share of the partnership profits each year. The question then arises as to whether the portion of profits the partner has allowed to "remain in the business" is a loan to the partnership or an additional contribution to the partnership capital. One California case has held that such unwithdrawn profits are, in effect, a loan to the partnership [Dugan v. Forster (1930) 104 Cal. App. 117, 121 P, 384]. However, the provisions of UPA '94, which apply absent a contrary partnership agreement, require that an account be maintained for each partner that includes the value of money and property contributed to the partnership together with a partner's share of partnership profits. In effect, this provision makes partnership profits left in the partnership additional capital contributions [Corp. Code § 16401(a)(1)]. Most accountants do not set up those unwithdrawn profits in their financial reports as loans to the partnership, but rather as part of the partner's "net worth" in the partnership business. "Net worth" is the partner's original investment plus any profit reinvested in the business [see Martin, Attorney's Handbook of Accounting, Auditing and Financial Reports (4th ed.), § 4.01(2) (Matthew Bender)].

PRACTICE TIP

Counsel should make sure that the partnership's accountant treats the partners' accounts as intended at formation and as provided by the partnership agreement. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

This form eliminates any confusion by requiring that partnership profits left in the partnership be kept separate in an income account until a majority of the partners vote to charge the income account balances to their capital accounts. This is a permissible variation from UPA '94 by partnership agreement [Corp. Code § 16103].

[c] Importance of Distinction for Nontax Purposes

The determination of "net worth" in or capital contributions is important if the share of partnership profits and losses or voting rights are based on a partner's interest in a partnership. See the form in § 15.201[2]. This form keeps the respective interests of the partners the same as their initial contributions. Thus, in a partnership that divides partnership profits and losses according to the partners' capital contributions to the partnership, a partner who withdraws greater amounts of partnership profits during a year than other partners will not receive a reduced share of future partnership profits. The form limits credit transfers from the income account to capital account to those that do not change the proportionate interests of the partners.

[d] Importance of Distinction for Income Tax Purposes

The capital interests owned by a partner can make a difference in several different tax areas. Selection of a tax year for a partnership is generally limited based on the capital interests of partners [see I.R.C. § 706; see also § 15.23]. The capital interests of a partner in a partnership affect whether deductions will be allowed for losses from sales or exchanges of property directly or indirectly: (1) between a partnership and a person owning, directly or indirectly, more than 50 percent of the capital interest, or the profits interest, in the partnership [I.R.C. § 707(b)(1)(A)]; or (2) between two partnerships in which the same persons own, directly or indirectly, more than 50 percent of the capital interests or profit interests [I.R.C. § 707(b)(1)(B)]. The characterization of gain on the sale of an asset used in trade or business and subject to depreciation as capital or ordinary is affected if the sale is between a partnership and a person owning more than 50 percent of the capital interest or profits interest in the partnership [I.R.C. § 707(b)(2)]. Finally, the determination of whether a partnership is terminated or continues after the sale or exchange of a partnership interest, the merger or consolidation of two or more partnerships, or the division of a partnership into two or more partnerships, depends on a comparison of the capital and profit interests of the partners in the partnership business before and after the sale, transfer, merger, consolidation, or division [I.R.C. § 708].

[2] FORM

Provision for Maintenance of Separate Capital and Income Accounts for Each Partner

Capital Accounts

Individual capital accounts shall be maintained for all Partners consisting of their contributions to the initial Partnership capital as:

(1) Increased by:

(a) Any additional contributions to Partnership capital made by them pursuant to this Agreement.

(b) Any amounts transferred from their income accounts to their capital account pursuant to this Agreement.

(2) Decreased by:

(a) Any distributions made to them in reduction of Partnership capital.

(b) Their shares of any Partnership losses charged to the capital accounts of the Partners pursuant to this Agreement.

Income Accounts

Individual income accounts shall be maintained for all Partners. Partners' shares of net Partnership profits shall be credited to their income accounts and all Partners' shares of any net loss suffered by the Partnership shall be charged to their income accounts unless the Partners agree [by majority vote] to charge that loss to their capital accounts. All withdrawals by Partners shall be charged to their income accounts. The Partners may at any time by majority vote [or agreement] transfer all or any portion of the credit balances in their respective income accounts to their capital accounts, provided the ratio each Partner's capital account bore to the total capital of the partnership, as reflected by the combined capital accounts of all the Partners, immediately prior to the transfer, is not changed by the transfer.

Balance in Partner's Income Account Not Capital

A credit balance in a Partner's income account shall constitute a Partnership liability to that Partner, payable without interest [on demand or at such time as may be determined by majority vote (or agreement) of the Partners], and shall not constitute a part of that Partner's interest in the Partnership capital. A debit balance in a Partner's income account, whether occasioned by withdrawals in excess of that Partner's share of Partnership net profits or the charging to an income account of any share in Partnership net losses, shall constitute an obligation of that Partner to the Partnership, payable without interest [on demand or from that Partner's share of the future net profits of the Partnership], and shall not reduce that Partner's interest in the Partnership capital.

§ 15.217 Provision for Loan of Property to Partnership by Partner

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a provision for the loan of property to the partnership by a partner. It may be used when a partner intends to loan rather than contribute assets to the partnership. It may be used in place of Paragraph 6 in the form in § 15.202[2] and added as Section 2.16 to the form in § 15.200[2] when appropriate.

[b] Reasons for Loaning Asset to Partnership

There are several reasons why a partner may wish to loan rather than contribute real or personal property to a partnership. First, on dissolution or insolvency, partnership assets are primarily liable for the partnership debts, while the individual partners and their separate properties are have only secondary liability [Corp. Code § 16807]. Second, the partnership agreement need not contain a provision for the allocation of depreciation deductions, capital gains, or losses relating to loaned property [see § 15.21]. If the property remains the partner's separate asset and is merely loaned to the partnership, the deductions, gains, or losses will automatically be allocated for income tax purposes to the partner. Finally, the partner lending property to the partnership will be entitled to its return in kind on termination of the partnership.

However, if property owned by one partner prior to organization of the partnership thereafter is used for partnership purposes without being mentioned in the partnership agreement, a court in subsequent litigation is required to determine whether the property became a partnership asset based on the intention of the partners as evidenced by their conduct and course of dealing during the partnership [Perelli-Minetti v. Lawson (1928) 205 Cal. 642, 648, 272 P. 573]

§ 15.218 Provision for Payment of Interest on Capital Accounts of Partners

[1] Comment--Use of Form

When the partners' capital contributions are not equal and capital plays an important part in the production of partnership income, the partners may wish to receive interest on their contributions to the partnership. A partner is not entitled to interest on the capital contribution under UPA '94 except to the extent the contribution is greater than the amount a partner originally agreed to contribution [Corp. Code § 16401(d), (e)]. This form makes a permissible variation from UPA '94 by providing for the payment of interest at a specified rate on capital contributions to the partnership. This form may be inserted as Paragraph 7 of the form in § 15.202[2] or Section 2.16 to the form in § 15.200[2].

PRACTICE TIP

This form allows interest to all partners regardless of the disparate amounts of the capital contributions. As an alternative, counsel may recommend that interest be paid only on the capital accounts that exceed a minimum average. This alternative rewards the greater contributors by treating all minimum (and lower) contributions as non-interest bearing. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

§ 15.219 Provision for Special Allocation for Property Contributed With Built-In Gain or Loss

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This provision should always be included if the partnership agreement allows a partner to contribute property to the partnership capitalization. This form is designed as a general form applying to all property that has already been contributed, or may be contributed in the future, at a value either greater or less than its adjusted income tax basis in the hands of the contributing partner [see § 15.21 for a discussion of the tax problems associated with the contribution of property to a partnership]. It satisfies the IRS requirements for special allocations to account for built-in gain or loss on property that is contributed to a partnership [I.R.C. § 704; Treas. Reg. §§ 1.704-1, 1.704-3] This form may be inserted as Paragraph 7 of the form in § 15.202[2], or added as Section 2.12 to the form in § 15.200[2].

§ 15.220 Provision Guaranteeing Partner Specified Amount Per Year From the Net Profits of the Partnership

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This provision guarantees that one partner will receive a minimum specified amount from the net partnership profits each year. It redistributes the shares of net profit payable to each partner in years when the partnership has net profits insufficient to pay the guaranteed amount plus the full shares of all other partners. If, for example, each partner in a three-person partnership is to receive one third of the annual net profits, but one partner is guaranteed $10,000 of each year's net profits in a year when the partnership earned only $20,000 net profits, each of the other partners would receive only $5,000, or one fourth of the net profits.

This form differs from a provision guaranteeing one or more partners a salary "deductible as an ordinary and necessary expense of the partnership business before determination of net profits" [see Paragraph 13 of form in § 15.202[2]], a provision for the payment of interest on the amount of capital contributed by one or more partners [see form in § 15.218], or a provision simply guaranteeing payment of a specified amount to one or more partners each year regardless of net profits, in the following ways. First, in a year when the partnership earned no net profits, the amounts specified in such a salary, interest, or guaranteed payment provision would still be payable by the partnership and might result in a net loss to the partnership. In a year when the partnership had no net income, the amounts specified in this form would not be payable and could not result in a net loss to the partnership. Second, the amounts specified in such a salary, interest, or guaranteed payment provision must be paid before the net profits of the partnership can be determined. The amounts specified in this form cannot be paid or determined until after the net profits of the partnership have been computed.

[b] Distributions to Partners--Tax Consequences

Only the portion of any payment made under this form that exceeds the recipient partner's otherwise distributable share of partnership net profits is deductible from partnership income [see Treas. Reg. § 1.707-1(c), Example (2)]. In this respect, the tax consequences of such distributions differ from those attending salary, interest, or guaranteed payments which are deductible as business expenses [see I.R.C. §§ 162(a), 707(c)].

Under California law, the taxation of partnerships is generally determined in accordance with the partnership provisions of the Internal Revenue Code [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851; see I.R.C. §§ 701-761; but see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17851-17932 (modifications to federal law)].

§ 15.221 Provision Guaranteeing Payment of Specified Minimum Amount Each Year Regardless of Profits

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form, like the form in § 15.220, redistributes the shares of the partnership's net profits that are payable to the partners in the years when the partnership had net profits insufficient to pay both the amount guaranteed and the full distributive shares of the other partners. This form, however, guarantees that such payments will be made without regard to partnership income. This form may be added to the form in § 15.200[2], following Section 2.15, and numbered accordingly.

PRACTICE TIP

Guaranteed payment provisions create two classes of partners: those receiving payments and those funding them. Care should be taken to ensure that all partners understand the effect of such provisions before the agreement is presented for their signatures. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

[b] Deduction of Guaranteed Payments

To the extent determined without regard to the partnership income, payments to a partner for services or the use of capital are considered made to one who is not a member of the partnership and are deductible as trade or business expenses on the partnership informational income tax return [I.R.C. §§ 162(a), 707(c)]. There are three types of provisions that can be inserted in a partnership agreement guaranteeing payments, deductible by the partnership, to one or more partners:

- A provision entitling one or more partners to a salary "deductible as an ordinary and necessary expense of the partnership business before determination of net profits" [see Paragraph 13 of form in § 15.202[2]];

- A provision entitling one or more partners to interest on their contributions to the partnership capital [see form in § 15.218[2]]; and

- A provision similar to this form, guaranteeing a partner a specified amount each year from the partnership.

Payments for a partner's services or use of capital may be deducted as guaranteed payments if they are determined without regard to partnership income and are ordinary and necessary business expenses within the meaning of I.R.C. § 162(a) [see I.R.C. § 707(c)]. The test of deductibility in the case of compensation payments is whether they are reasonable and are in fact payments purely for services [Treas. Reg. § 1.162-7(a)]. If a payment made to a partner and deducted by the partnership as a guaranteed payment is challenged by the IRS, the Tax Court will examine the nature of the services for which the compensation was paid to determine whether they were ordinary and necessary to the partnership business [see J.E. Cagle, Jr. (1974) 63 T.C. 86] .

Partnership syndication expenses (that is, costs paid or incurred in selling partnership interests) may not be deducted from partnership income [I.R.C. § 709(a)]. Syndication and organizational expenses must be capitalized and amortized over a period of not less than 60 months. Capital expenditures may not be deducted from partnership income as guaranteed payments [I.R.C. § 707(c); see I.R.C. §§ 162(a), 263].

Under California law, the taxation of partnerships is generally determined in accordance with the partnership provisions of the Internal Revenue Code [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851; see I.R.C. §§ 701-761; but see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17851-17932 (modifications to federal law)].

These contributions shall be made by the remaining partners in the same proportion as [they are entitled to share in the Partnership profits or their respective net worths in the Partnership bear to each other].

§ 15.222 Provision Specifying Amount of Permanent Capital to Be Maintained by Partnership and Restricting Withdrawals Until Partnership Capital Equals Specified Amount

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is designed to provide a minimum level of capital in the partnership, and to restrict partner withdrawals of partnership profits so that the capitalization of the partnership does not fall below a predetermined level. It may be used with the complete partnership agreements in §§ 15.200[2] and 15.202[2] for working partnerships to assure capitalization levels for the partnerships.

§ 15.223 Provision Establishing Monthly Expense Accounts for Partners

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form should be used when the partners will incur monthly expenses relative to the partnership business and want to be reimbursed for those expenses. It is particularly appropriate to partnerships in which the partners will be traveling or entertaining on the partnership's behalf. This form may be used in any of the complete partnerships agreements in §§ 15.200[2], 15.201[2], or 15.202[2].

[b] Duty to Indemnify Partner for Partnership Expenses

Corp. Code § 16401(c) provides that the partnership must indemnify every partner for payments made and liabilities incurred in the ordinary course of its business or for the preservation of its business or property. If the partnership business requires the partners to travel, entertain customers, and incur other similar expenses away from the partnership's principal place of business, the partners may desire to spell out in their partnership agreement the manner in which they will be indemnified for these business expenses. They may also wish to limit in advance the amount of these expenses for which a partner can expect to be indemnified without the consent of all other partners. The forms in §§ 15.200[2] and 15.224[2] provide alternative methods for handling partners' expenses.

[c] Expense Account Method of Indemnification

This form provides that the monthly travel, entertainment, and incidental business expenses of a partner will be paid in advance by the partnership through separate revolving monthly expense accounts for each partner. If not all of the partners are likely to incur such expenses, this form may be modified to provide that expense accounts will be established only for the one or more partners.

Under this form an expense account in a stated amount is established at the beginning of the first month for each partner. During the month, the partners pay their incidental business expenses from the account, and on the last day of the month they file itemized accounts of expenses in the partnership books. The amount of these expenditures are then paid back into the partner's expense account, restoring the account to its original balance for the partner's use during the next month. If a partner exhausts the expense account in any month and incurs additional expenses connected with the partnership business, that partner will be reimbursed for the additional expenses only if all other partners consent to the reimbursement. This limitation on the amount of expenses a partner will be indemnified for in any month should be considered in conjunction with the other limitations on the amount of any obligation a partner may incur in the partnership name found in the forms in §§ 15.200[2] and 15.202[2].

[2] FORM

Each Partner shall have an expense account not to exceed $ _____per month for the payment of actual, reasonable, and necessary expenses incurred in the ordinary course of Partnership business. Each Partner shall keep an itemized account of all expenses paid from that Partner's expense account and shall enter that account in the Partnership books on the last day of each calendar month. No Partner shall, without the consent of all other Partners, be reimbursed for any expenses in excess of that Partner's expense account.

§ 15.224 Provision for Monthly Reimbursement of Partnership Expenditures Made by Each Partner

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form, like the form in § 15.223[2], provides a method for partners to be reimbursed. Under this form each partner, on submission of an itemized account of such expenses, will be reimbursed monthly. It also limits the amount of a partner's expenses which will be reimbursed by the partnership. It may be used with any of the complete partnership agreements in §§ 15.200[2], 15.201[2], and 15.202[2]. It should not be added before considering the other limitations on obligations that a partner may incur on behalf of the partnership.

§ 15.225 Provision Allowing Partner to Devote Less Than Full Time to the Partnership Business

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is designed to be used when not all partners will devote full time to the partnership business. In such situations it should be substituted for Paragraph 11 of the form in § 15.202[2] or Section 3.01 of the form in § 15.200[2].

This form does not prohibit the partners who have agreed to devote undivided time and attention to the partnership business from engaging or investing in any business. Unless such a prohibition is expressly included in the partnership agreement, any partner may engage in any other business that does not create an interest adverse to that of the partnership and that does not prevent that partner from devoting all necessary attention to the partnership business [see Neilsen v. Holmes (1947) 82 Cal. App. 2d 315, 324, 186 P.2d 197] .

PRACTICE TIP

It is important to narrowly define the partnership business in order to limit the partners' fiduciary duties under this provision and under the agreement in general. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

§ 15.226 Provision Requiring Arbitration of Disputes Arising Under Partnership Agreement

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form contains two alternative arbitration clauses that require the partners to attempt resolution of disputes either in lieu of or before resorting to formal litigation. The first alternative requires binding arbitration. The second alternative establishes informal arbitration guidelines and provides that any result of the proceeding will be nonbinding.

Partnerships are consensual arrangements in which amicable relations among the partners are generally essential to the efficient operation of the business. Including an arbitration clause in the partnership agreement may facilitate early settlement of differences and, ultimately, save the partnership from premature dissolution. Including such a clause may be more important now that partners may bring legal actions against each other and the partnership to enforce rights under the partnership agreement or rights under UPA '94 [Corp. Code § 16405(b)]. In Larkin v. Williams, Woolley, Cogswell, Nakazawa & Russell [Larkin v. Williams, Woolley, Cogswell, Nakazawa & Russell (1999) 76 Cal. App. 4th 227, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 195] , the arbitration clause in a partnership agreement stated: "Any controversy or claim arising out of or relating to any provision of this agreement or the breach thereof shall be settled by arbitration. ..." One of the partners filed a complaint for dissolution based on another partner's breach of the agreement, and the firm petitioned to compel arbitration. The court of appeal held that the language of the arbitration clause extended to plaintiff's action which arose out of or related to the partnership agreement [Larkin v. Williams, Woolley, Cogswell, Nakazawa & Russell (1999) 76 Cal. App. 4th 227, 230-231, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 195 (reversing order denying petition to compel arbitration)].

PRACTICE TIP

Arbitrators have great latitude in making an award. The scope of the abritrator's authority should be limited to ensure predictability and encourage early informal resolution. It should also be remembered that arbitration may be an ineffective forum for resolving equitable issues. It is not uncommon to carve out equity jursdiction from the arbitration clause and to preserve such equity jurisdiction in the appropriate state or federal court. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

[2] FORM

Provision Requiring Arbitration of Disputes Arising Under Partnership Agreement

Arbitration of Disputes

[EITHER]

The Partners shall make a good-faith effort to settle any dispute or claim arising under the Partnership Agreement. If the Partners fail to resolve any such disputes or claims, they shall submit them to arbitration under the rules of the American Arbitration Association then in effect. The arbitration award shall be in writing, and shall comply with all provisions of this Agreement and governing law. Judgment on arbitration awards may be entered by any court with appropriate jurisdiction.

[OR]

Any controversy or claim arising under this Partnership Agreement shall be submitted for arbitration under the following rules:

(1) Each Partner shall select one arbitrator. The arbitrators selected by the Partners shall choose one additional arbitrator and these shall make up the arbitration panel.

PRACTICE TIP

Panel arbitrations are very expensive, but can be effective in complex matters in which arbitrator expertise is critical. For example, a partnership dispute requiring resolution of accounting, legal, and technical issues may call for an arbitration panel composed of an accountant, an attorney, and an engineer. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

(2) The Partners shall agree on and stipulate to a statement of facts and issues presented, which shall be submitted to the arbitration panel.

(3) If desired, each Partner may submit a written statement of position to the arbitration panel. If a Partner chooses to submit a statement of position, copies of that statement must be served on all other Partners, who shall have the right to submit written rebuttals within _____ days from receipt. Copies of rebuttals shall be served on all Partners.

(4) The arbitration panel may request oral argument at which all Partners shall have the right to be present.

(5) If the arbitration panel desires, it may submit written questions to the Partners. The Partners shall respond to any such questions in writing. If a question is addressed to an individual or fewer than all Partners, copies of the question and the answer shall be served on the other Partners.

(6) Fees and expenses of the arbitration panel shall be paid by the Partnership as a business expense.

(7) The decision of and any award from the arbitration panel shall not be binding on the Partners and shall in no way prejudice any rights they may have to pursue all available legal and equitable remedies.

PRACTICE TIP

Nonbinding arbitrations can be costly and often ineffective. The parties may want to consider mediation as a precursor to binding arbitration. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

§ 15.240 Determining Value of Partnership Interest Using Annual Determination by Partners

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an alternative provision for determining the value of the partnership interest of a deceased or dissociated partner. It can be used as a substitute valuation provision in the buy and sell agreements in the forms in §§ 15.200[2], 15.201[2], and 15.202[2]. This form establishes an arm's length valuation of any partnership interest by having the partners annually determine and set forth on an attached schedule the total value of the partnership and the resulting value of each partner's interest. It also provides that if the partners should, for any reason, fail to determine those values for two consecutive years, the value of a deceased or dissociated partner's interest will be set by appraisal.

PRACTICE TIP

Business valuation is a complex financial specialty that looks at many objective and subjective factors. Partner-agreed valuations are a simple approach to the problem, but can easily understate or overstate market value. This can be particularly problematic if the market value is closely related to goodwill tied to a dissociating partner, or if the dissociated partner's past breaches of fiduciary duty have contributed to unreasonably overstated agreed valuations. In many cases, a business valuation by an objective professional is the preferred method [see § 15.245]. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

[b] Determining Value of Deceased Partner's Partnership Interest--Federal Estate Tax Considerations

For federal estate tax purposes, the fair market value of a partnership interest is the net amount a willing purchaser would pay to a willing seller for that interest, when neither party is under a compulsion to buy or sell, and both have reasonable knowledge of the relevant facts [Treas. Reg. § 20.2031-3]. The net amount is determined on the basis of all relevant factors, including (1) a fair appraisal of all partnership assets including goodwill, whether tangible and intangible, as of the valuation date and (2) the demonstrated earning capacity of the partnership business [Treas. Reg. § 20.2031-3(a)]. Accordingly, any valuation procedures specified in a buy-sell agreement will bear on, but not necessarily determine, the value of a deceased partner's partnership interest for federal estate tax purposes [see § 15.253 for discussion of valuing a partner's interest for estate tax purposes].

Special rules apply to (1) the valuation of gifts of partnership interests to family members [see Treas. Reg. 25.2701-1-25.2701-8]; (2) the effect of options, contracts to purchase, and other agreements on the value of partnership interests [see Treas. Reg. §§ 25.2703-1, 25.2703-2]; and (3) the characterization of lapses of voting and liquidation rights in family-controlled partnerships as transfers, the estate tax effect of such transfers, and the estate tax effect of restrictions on liquidation of interests in family partnerships [see Treas. Reg. §§ 25.2704-1-25.2704-3].

[2] FORM

Determining Value of Partnership Interest Using Annual Determination by Partners

Purchase Price of Partnership Interest

On exercise of the option described in [section or paragraph number of Agreement that allows option to purchase dissociated or deceased partner's interest] to purchase the Partnership interest of a deceased or dissociated Partner, the remaining Partners shall pay to the person legally entitled thereto [in the manner specified in _____ (section or paragraph number that provides for special manner of payment, if applicable)] as the full purchase price of the interest an amount equal to the Agreed Value, as herein defined, of the interest, together with the unwithdrawn portion of the deceased or dissociated Partner's distributive share of the Partnership net profits earned between the day the Agreed Value was determined and the day the option to purchase the Partnership interest is exercised. The Agreed Value of the Partner's interest in the Partnership shall be determined as follows:

(1) The Partners agree that the present fair market value of the Partnership's capital assets, including goodwill, is $ _____, that the fair market value of its unrealized receivables is $ _____, that the fair market value of its inventory is $ _____, and that the fair market value and Agreed Value of each Partner's interest in the Partnership is as follows:

Name of Partner	Value of Interest
_____	$ _____
_____	$ _____
_____	$ _____

(2) Within [number] days after the close of each Partnership fiscal [or calendar] year, the Partners shall determine the then fair market value of the Partnership's capital assets, including goodwill, the then fair market value of its unrealized receivables, the then fair market value of its inventory, and the resulting fair market and Agreed Value of their respective interests in the Partnership. The values so determined shall be entered on the schedule attached to this Agreement [or to this Agreement and marked "Schedule of Agreed Values"]. Each entry on the schedule shall be dated and shall be signed by each of the partners. Except as otherwise provided in this Agreement [or in this Agreement], the last determination of Agreed Values entered on that schedule shall be binding and conclusive on the parties hereto, their successors, assigns, and personal representatives.

(3) If no Agreed Value for the Partnership interest of a deceased or dissociated Partner has been entered on the schedule within two years immediately preceding a Partner's death or dissociation, the person legally entitled to the value of that Partner's interest may demand that the last Agreed Value for that interest entered on the schedule be disregarded and that the Agreed Value of the interest be determined by independent appraisers in the following manner: The remaining Partners and the person legally entitled to the value of the interest being purchased shall each appoint one appraiser. If the two appraisers so appointed are unable to agree within [number] days after their appointment, they shall appoint a third appraiser. The decision in writing of any two of the three appraisers so appointed shall be binding and conclusive on both the remaining Partners and the person legally entitled to receive the value of the Partnership interest being purchased. The remaining Partners shall pay all costs and expenses incurred by the appraisers incident to the appraisal.

PRACTICE TIP

Multiple appraisers, like panel arbitration, can be costly, particularly when a disputed valuation will also involve attorneys. Valuation by a single valuator, agreed to by the partners and paid for by the partnership, is often a better alternative. When the parties are unable to agree on a single valuator, they may petition the court to appoint one. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

§ 15.242 Determining Value of Partnership Interest Using Net Book Value Plus or Minus Agreed Amount by Which Market Value Exceeds or Is Less Than Book Value

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form provides another alternative valuation provision that may be used with the buy-out agreement provisions in the complete partnership agreements in §§ 15.200[2], 15.201[2], and 15.202[2]. It requires the partners to meet every year to determine the amount by which the market value exceeds or is less than the book value of their partnership interests. The amount agreed on will be added to or subtracted from the book value of a deceased or dissociated partner's interest to determine the purchase price for that interest.

[b] Book Value Distinguished From Fair Market or Agreed Value

Generally, a partnership's books will carry its fixed assets at a value equal to their cost less any depreciation deductions taken on them. In most instances, the book value of partnership interests will not reflect either the value of intangible assets (e.g., goodwill or easements) or the appreciated value of tangible assets. It follows that the net book value of a partner's partnership interest will not reflect either the partner's distributive share of any fluctuation in the market value of partnership assets or the value of partnership intangibles [see Piedmont Publishing Co. v. Rogers (1961) 193 Cal. App. 2d 171, 14 Cal. Rptr. 133] .

"Agreed value" (i.e., a value determined and agreed upon by the partners and attached, by schedule, to the partnership agreement) may not accurately reflect changes in all partners' capital investments. For example, a partner might withdraw a portion of that partner's capital account the day after an agreed value had been determined and entered on the partnership books. The actual value of such a partner's partnership interest would not be reflected in the partnership books until agreed values are next determined.

This form resolves the difficulties of using book value or agreed value by combining them to determine the purchase price of a partnership interest. It provides that the price paid for an outgoing partner's interest will be its net book value plus or minus an amount that the partners agree will reflect the difference between the interest's market and book values. Net book value of a partner's interest should reflect withdrawals from and additions to partnership capital while the agreed value of the interest should reflect market fluctuations of partnership property values.

[2] FORM

Determining Value of Partnership Interest Using Net Book Value Plus or Minus Agreed Amount by Which Market Value Exceeds or Is Less Than Book Value

Purchase Price of Partnership Interest

On exercise of the option described in [section or paragraph number of agreement that allows option to purchase dissociated or deceased partner's interest] to purchase the Partnership interest of a deceased or dissociated, the remaining Partners shall pay to the person legally entitled thereto [in the manner specified in _____ (section or paragraph number that provides for special manner of payment, if applicable)] as the full purchase price of the interest an amount equal to:

(1) The net book value, excluding any value for Partnership goodwill, of the interest as shown on the books of the Partnership on the date of the Partner's death or dissociation.

(2) As an addition to or subtraction from that book value, the deceased or dissociated Partner's distributive share of the amount, herein called "excess value," by which the total fair market value of all Partnership assets, including goodwill, either exceeds or is less than the total book value of those assets. The partners agree that the excess value presently [exceeds or is less than] book value by the amount of $ _____. They further agree that within [number] days after the close of each Partnership [fiscal or calendar] year they shall meet, redetermine the excess value, determine whether it exceeds or is less than book value, and enter that information on the attached schedule marked "Schedule of Excess Values." Each entry on the schedule shall be dated and signed by each Partner. The last determination entered on the schedule shall be binding and conclusive on the Partners, their successors, assigns, and personal representatives. If no entries have been made on the schedule for either of the two [fiscal or calendar] years of the Partnership preceding the death or dissociation of a Partner, the person legally entitled to the value of that Partner's interest may demand that the last entry of excess value on the schedule be disregarded and that the excess value be determined by a single arbitrator agreed on by the person legally entitled to the value of the interest and the remaining Partners, or, if they are unable to agree on an arbitrator, that the excess value be determined by arbitration conducted under the rules of the American Arbitration Association.

§ 15.244 Determining Value of Partnership Interest Using Amount Equivalent to Partner's Capital and Income Accounts on Date of Death, or Dissociation

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form provides another alternative method of valuing a partnership interest that is to be purchased by the remaining partners on the death or dissociation of a partner. It may be used with the buy-out provisions in the complete partnership agreements in §§ 15.200[2], 15.201[2], and 15.202[2]. It provides that the purchase price for the partnership interest of a deceased or dissociated partner will be an amount equal to the partner's capital and income accounts on the partnership books as of the date of death or dissociation. Before using this form, the attorney should check the partnership agreement provisions that specify what will be entered in and how the individual capital and income accounts of each partner will be kept.

Purchase Price of Partnership Interest

On exercise of the option described in [section or paragraph number of agreement that allows option to purchase dissociated or deceased partner's interest] to purchase the Partnership interest of a deceased or dissociated Partner, the remaining Partners shall pay to the person legally entitled thereto [, in the manner specified in _____ (section or paragraph number that provides for special manner of payment, if applicable)], as the full purchase price of the interest, an amount equal to that Partner's capital and income accounts as they appear on the Partnership books on the date of death, or dissociation, and as adjusted to include the Partner's distributive share of any Partnership net profits or losses not previously credited to or charged against those income and capital accounts. In determining the amount payable under this paragraph, no value shall be attributed to the goodwill of the Partnership, and adequate provision shall be made for any existing contingent liabilities of the Partnership.

§ 15.245 Determining Value of Partnership Interest Using Single Appraiser's Value or Balance in Partner's Capital and Income Accounts, Whichever Is Greater

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form provides another method for valuing a deceased or dissociated partner's interest in a partnership. It may be used with the buy-out agreement provisions in the complete partnership agreements in §§ 15.200[2], 15.201[2], and 15.202[2]. It provides that the purchase price for the partnership interest of a deceased or dissociated partner will be either an amount determined by a qualified appraiser appointed by the remaining partners, or the balance in the capital and income accounts of the deceased or dissociated partner as shown on the books of the partnership, whichever is greater. Any qualifications required of the appraiser (such as membership in the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers) may be substituted for the words "competent member of the American Society of Appraisers" in Paragraph (a) of this form. If the payment for the deceased or dissociated partner's interest is a liquidation instead of a sale, the appraiser's report ordinarily will show the portion of the purchase price attributable to partnership property, goodwill, unrealized receivables, and inventory. The outgoing partner's capital and income accounts will not reflect such values [see § 15.242[1][b] for discussion of book value and agreed value].

(1) The amount the deceased or dissociated Partner would have received had the Partnership been completely dissolved and liquidated on the day the option was exercised, as determined by a competent member of the American Society of Appraisers actively engaged in business in _____ County, California, selected by the remaining Partners; or

(2) The balance in the capital and income accounts of the deceased or dissociated Partner on the day the option was exercised as shown on the books of the Partnership.

§ 15.246 Determining Value of Partnership Interest Using Inventory and Account to Be Taken as of Date of Death or Date Dissociation Notice Served on Remaining Partners

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form provides another alternative provision for determining the value of a partner's interest in a partnership. It may be used with the buy-out agreement provisions in the complete partnership agreements in §§ 15.200[2], 15.201[2], and 15.202[2]. This form provides that the purchase price and value of a deceased or dissociated partner's interest will be determined by a complete inventory and account of the partnership as of (1) the date of deceased partner's death; (2) the date notice of dissociation is served on an involuntarily dissociated partner; or (3) the date a withdrawing partner serves notice of intention to dissociate from the partnership on the remaining partners.

This form decreases the remaining partners' opportunities to influence the value of partnership assets after a partner's death or dissociation. It affords the remaining partners time in which to arrange financing for the purchase of the deceased or outgoing partner's interest. However, before expelling a partner, the remaining partners should estimate the value of the partner's interest and attempt to arrange financing.

This form specifies the values to be placed on different partnership assets in the inventory and accounting. This form attributes no value to the partnership goodwill. For definitions of "goodwill" and "book value" as used in this form, see § 15.247. The effect of buy-sell agreements on valuation of partnership interests for federal estate tax purposes is discussed in § 15.240.

Date Dissociation Notice Served on Remaining Partners

Purchase Price of Partnership Interest

On exercise of the option described in [section or paragraph number of agreement that allows option to purchase dissociated or deceased partner's interest] to purchase the Partnership interest of a deceased or dissociated Partner, the remaining Partners shall pay to the person legally entitled thereto [, in the manner specified in _____ (section or paragraph number that provides for special manner of payment, if applicable),] an amount equal to the value of the interest as determined by a complete inventory and accounting of the Partnership affairs as of the close of the Partnership business on the day of the deceased Partner's death, or for a dissociated Partner, the day the notice of dissociation is served. For purposes of this inventory and accounting:

(1) All items of Partnership inventory shall be valued at their actual cost to the Partnership or at their then market value, whichever is [lower or higher].

(2) All tangible assets of the Partnership, including lands, buildings, fixtures, machinery, automobiles, and equipment shall be valued at their book value then appearing on the Partnership books.

(3) All accounts receivable due the Partnership that are more than 90 calendar days old and not barred by the statute of limitations shall be valued at one-half their face value.

(4) All accounts receivable due the Partnership that are less than 90 calendar days old shall be valued at their full face value.

(5) No value shall be attributed to the goodwill, trade name, leasehold interests, or other intangible assets of the Partnership.

§ 15.247 Determining Value of Partnership Interest Using Net Book Value of Interest Plus Capitalized Share of Past Average Net Profits

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form provides another alternative method of valuing partnership interests. It may be used with the buy-out agreement provisions in the complete partnership agreements in §§ 15.200[2], 15.201[2], and 15.202[2]. This form requires the capitalization of the deceased or dissociated partner's interest in past partnership earnings. The form provides for the capitalized earnings to be added to the net book value of the partner's partnership interest to arrive at a purchase price for the interest. For an alternative provision requiring capitalization of all partnership income, see § 15.249[2].

[b] Partnership Interests

A partner's share in the partnership profits and surplus constitutes a partner's transferable partnership interest [Corp. Code § 16502]. For purposes of determining the partnership interest, "surplus" is the excess of partnership assets over partnership liabilities [see Comstock v. Fiorella (1968) 260 Cal. App. 2d 262, 267, 67 Cal. Rptr. 104] . Accordingly, the net book value of a partner's interest is the amount by which the partner's share of partnership assets (as valued on the books) exceeds the share of partnership liabilities (as shown on the books), plus any undistributed share in net profits. Since this form bases the purchase price of an outgoing or deceased partner's interest on its net book value, it is important to recognize how partnership assets are treated in the partnership books.

[c] Book Value Defined

The "book value" of any asset may be market value, cost less depreciation, or any other concept of value recognized by sound accounting practice and used by a particular business in recording its financial transactions [Lassallette v. Parisian Baking Co. (1952) 110 Cal. App. 2d 375, 377, 242 P.2d 671] . Ordinarily, current assets, such as inventory items, are entered on the books of a business at their cost to the business or their market value, whichever is lower, and fixed assets are carried on the books at their actual cost to the business less any depreciation deductions. In most instances, partnership books will not reflect the value of intangible assets or the appreciation in value of tangible assets [Piedmont Publishing Co. v. Rogers (1961) 193 Cal. App. 2d 171, 190, 14 Cal. Rptr. 133] . Because it has no clearly definable "cost," goodwill created by the business generally is not carried on the books of the business. Goodwill purchased by the business from another going concern does, of course, have a clearly defined "cost" to the business and, according to accepted accounting practices, is entered on the books of the business. Consequently, the net book value of a partner's interest in the partnership will ordinarily only reflect his or her share of the depreciated cost of the fixed assets in the partnership's inventory, valued at either cost or market value, whichever is lower. It will not include any value for the goodwill created by the partners' operation of the business. Goodwill, however, is a valuable asset. In one case involving a dispute over the term "total book value" in a buy-sell agreement, the court held that this term was intended to include the value of the goodwill created by a television broadcasting company and not purchased from another going concern [Piedmont Publishing Co. v. Rogers (1971) 193 Cal. App. 2d 171, 191, 14 Cal. Rptr. 133] . To avoid such confusion, Paragraph (a) of this form expressly provides that any value attributable to the goodwill of the partnership will be excluded in determining the "net book value" of a partner's interest in the partnership.

[d] Valuation of Goodwill

The patronage enjoyed by a partnership because of its reputation for excellence, and the expectation that this patronage will continue, constitute the partnership's "goodwill" [Piedmont Publishing Co. v. Rogers (1961) 193 Cal. App. 2d 171, 186, 14 Cal. Rptr. 133 ; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 14100]. Goodwill is an intangible asset which, like other property interests, is transferable [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 14102]. It follows that the value of any partnership goodwill is closely related to the partnership's earning capacity.

The value of a partnership's goodwill is difficult to appraise. However, when it is necessary to value goodwill and there is no better basis for valuation, the Internal Revenue Service provides the following formula [see Rev. Rul. 68-609, 1968-2 C.B. 327]:

(1) Compute average earnings for a representative number of years preceding the valuation date;

(2) Compute average annual value of tangible assets used in partnership business for a representative number of years preceding the valuation date;

(3) Compute a fair percentage return on the value arrived at in step (2), above;

(4) Subtract the amount arrived at in step (3) from the amount arrived at in step (1) to arrive at this figure, which will represent the average partnership earnings attributable to goodwill;

(5) Capitalize the figure arrived at in step (4) by an appropriate figure. The Internal Revenue Service specifies that the goodwill of low-risk businesses should be capitalized at a lower rate (e.g., 15 percent to 17 percent) than high-risk businesses (e.g., 17 percent to 20 percent).

Paragraph (b) of this form allows the partners to determine the rate at which goodwill should be capitalized for purposes of the buy-sell agreement.

§ 15.248 Determining Value of Partnership Interest Using Net Book Value of Interest Plus Capitalized Value of Income Attributable to Goodwill

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form provides a method for valuation of partnership interests that takes into account the worth of partnership goodwill. It should be used by partnerships whose earnings will, to some extent, depend on their reputations in the community. It may be used with the buy-out agreement provisions in the complete partnership agreements in §§ 15.200[2], 15.201[2], and 15.202[2]. § 15.249 Determining Value of Partnership Interest Using Partner's Capitalized Share of Past Average Ordinary Partnership Income

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form should be used when the partners intend to base any valuation of an outgoing partner's interest exclusively on past partnership earnings. It may be used with the buy-out agreement provisions in the complete partnership agreements in §§ 15.200[2], 15.201[2], and 15.202[2]. This form may be modified to allow the deduction or addition of specific income items, such as reasonable wages for each partner devoting full time to the partnership business. For a provision requiring that partnership goodwill be capitalized, see § 15.248.

In using this form, it is important to select carefully the number of partnership taxable years over which earnings will be averaged. The period selected should accurately reflect the income that the remaining partners can expect to receive from the partnership business in the future. Generally, partnerships should not employ a period of less than five years for capitalization purposes [see Rev. Rul. 68-609, 1968-2 C.B. 327].

All extraordinary income during the selected period, such as nonrecurring capital gains and losses, should be excluded when valuing the outgoing partner's interest. If the partnership agreement does not provide that each partner will receive a salary for service in the partnership business, a reasonable "wage" for each partner should be deducted from the net partnership profits before they are averaged and capitalized. This form provides for the deduction of amounts required to amortize and pay long-term partnership debts.

[b] Capitalization Method of Valuing Interests

Capitalization of income is a generally accepted method of valuing business interests [see DeLuz Homes, Inc. v. County of San Diego (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 546, 564, 290 P.2d 544] . This method is based on the assumption that a certain rate of return is received on each $100 of invested capital. For example, if the rate of return on each $100 of invested capital is 20 percent, and a partnership has net profits of $20,000 per year for five years, the total value of the partnership under the capitalization formula would be 20 times $20,000, or $400,000.

Under this form, the percentage rate at which the adjusted net partnership profits will be capitalized must be determined. The normal return on capital for the particular type of business in which the partnership is engaged will generally determine the rate of capitalization. The IRS indicates that an 8 to10 percent rate of return based on tangible assets is appropriate [see Rev. Rul. 68-609, 1968-2 C.B. 327]. Among the factors that will influence the rate selected are (1) the nature of the business; (2) the risk involved in the business; and (3) the stability or irregularity of earnings (e.g., a low-risk business with regular earnings will be capitalized at a lower rate than a high-risk business with erratic earnings) [see Rev. Rul. 68-609, 1968-2 C.B. 327]. For a discussion of the IRS formula applied to value goodwill, see § 15.247.

PRACTICE TIP

Earnings valuation multipliers tend to be industry specific and are often discounted for identifiable risks. Care should be taken in selecting a multiplier value at the partnership's inception, which, if not later adjusted for risk, may over or under value the partnership interest. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

Purchase Price of Partnership Interest

On exercise of the option described in [section or paragraph number of agreement that allows option to purchase dissociated or deceased partner's interest] to purchase the Partnership interest of a deceased or dissociated Partner, the remaining Partners shall pay to the person legally entitled thereto [, in the manner specified in _____ (section or paragraph number that provides for special manner of payment, if applicable)], as the full purchase price of the interest, an amount equal to the deceased or dissociated Partner's distributive share of the average "adjusted net profits" of the Partnership for the preceding [e.g., five] full taxable years of the Partnership, [capitalized at the rate of or divided by] _____percent. The term "adjusted net profits" of the Partnership as used in the paragraph shall mean the total net Partnership profits for each of those [e.g., five] preceding taxable years, as adjusted by:

(1) The deduction of:

(a) The amounts required to amortize and pay according to its contractual obligations any long-term Partnership debts.

(b) Any nonrecurring capital gains realized by the Partnership because of the sale of major Partnership assets.

(2) The addition of:

(a) Any nonrecurring capital losses suffered by the Partnership because of the sale of major Partnership assets.

(b) Any losses suffered by the Partnership from disaster to the extent not compensated for by insurance.

§ 15.250 Provision Requiring Remaining Partners to Purchase Partnership Interest of Deceased or Dissociated Partner

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a basic buy-sell provision that requires the remaining partners to purchase a deceased or dissociated partner's interest in the partnership. It is designed to be included in partnership agreements. For example, it may be substituted for Section 4.05 and 4.06 of the form in § 15.200[2]. If it is used in that form, then Section 4.08 should be omitted.

[b] Modifications to Form

This form may be modified by substituting any of the valuation provisions in §§ 15.240-15.249 for subparagraphs (1) and (2) in the second paragraph of this form. The form may also be modified to limit the buy-sell to a partner's death, rather than having it occur on death and any dissociation. The partners may prefer an option to purchase or a right of first refusal [see form in § 15.260[2]] on the dissociation of another partner, rather than making the buy-sell required in that situation.

[c] Continuation of Term Partnership

This form contain an optional clause that may be used to continue the partnership. It only applies if the partnership is for a definite term or particular undertaking. These types of partnerships dissolve within 90 days after the death or wrongful dissociation (express dissociation before completion of the term or task Corp. Code § 16602(b)(2)), unless a majority in interest of the partners agree to continue the partnership [Corp. Code § 16801(2)(A)]. This clause is not needed for at will partnerships because they do not otherwise dissolve on the death or dissociation of a partner [Corp. Code § 16801(1)].

[d] Practical Consequences

Because this form imposes a contractual duty to purchase on the remaining partners, it presents practical difficulties. For example, if a partner withdraws from the partnership because it is undergoing financial problems, the remaining partners are then obligated to purchase an interest in an unsuccessful business. Problems also may arise if one or more of the remaining partners does not have the money necessary to make the required purchase. For this reason, caution must be exercised in the use of this form, and the practical difficulties should be considered and resolved by the partners.

[e] Tax Consequences

This form establishes that the remaining partners are purchasing the deceased or dissociated partner's interest in the partnership. Thus, it creates a sale of the partnership interest rather than a liquidation. Because there is a sale of the interest, the deceased or departing partner will recognize capital gain or loss on the sale, except to the extent the price is paid for unrealized receivables or inventory [I.R.C. § 741]. Furthermore, the remaining partners receive no deduction. This treatment should be compared with that of a liquidation of a partnership interest, in which case the deceased or dissociated partner has part ordinary income and part capital gain but the partnership and remaining partners may deduct all or at least a portion of the payments [I.R.C. § 736(a), (b); see I.R.C. § 731]. See § 15.307 for more detailed discussion of the different tax consequences of a sale or liquidation of a partnership interest. See § 15.251[2] for a form to require liquidation of a deceased or dissociated partner's interest.

[2] FORM

Provision Requiring Remaining Partners to Purchase Partnership Interest of Deceased or Dissociated Partner

[Optional provision for partnerships for a term or particular undertaking; unnecessary for other partnerships:]

Continuation of Partnership

The Partnership shall not dissolve on the death or wrongful dissociation of any Partner. On any Partner's death or wrongful dissociation, the remaining Partners agree to continue to conduct the Partnership business under the Partnership name.

[For all partnerships:]

Purchase of Partnership Interest

On any Partner's death or other dissociation, that Partner or that Partner's personal representative shall sell, and each remaining Partner shall buy, a portion of the deceased or dissociated Partner's Partnership interest. The portion of the interest that an individual remaining Partner shall be obligated to buy under this Agreement shall be that proportion which the remaining Partner's net worth in the Partnership bears to the total net worth in the Partnership of all remaining Partners. All remaining Partners shall pay to the person legally entitled thereto [, in the manner specified in _____ (section or paragraph number that provides for special manner of payment, if applicable)], as the full price for the interest purchased under this Agreement, their proportional shares of an amount equal to:

(1) The net book value, excluding goodwill, of the deceased or dissociated Partner's interest as it appears on the Partnership books on the date of the selling Partner's death or notice of dissociation; plus

(2) [number] times the deceased or dissociated Partner's distributive share of the average net Partnership profits for the preceding [e.g., five] Partnership fiscal years.

This form is a provision that requires the partnership as an entity, and not the remaining partners, to purchase and liquidate the interest of a deceased or dissociated partner. It provides for the liquidation and not the sale of the interest. See § 15.250[2] for a form requiring purchase by the remaining partners. § 15.252 Provision Allowing Deceased Partner's Spouse or Other Legatee to Continue Decedent's Partnership Interest and Become General Partner

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a provision governing the disposition of a specific partner's partnership interest upon that partner's death. It allows a named legatee the option to continue as a partner in the partnership rather than selling or liquidating the partnership interest. This form may be made to generally apply to any deceased partner's partnership interest by substituting the words "any partner" for the name of the specific partner and omitting the specific legatee's name. It may be added as the last paragraph of Article 4 in the form in § 15.200[2] or inserted as Paragraph 19 in the form in § 15.202[2].

PRACTICE TIP

Care should be taken in using this form. In most cases the partners will prefer liquidating the deceased partner's interest (see § 15.253) rather than admit an unknown legatee to the partnership's business and affairs. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

Provision Allowing Deceased Partner's Spouse or Other Legatee to Continue Decedent's Partnership Interest and Become General Partner

Legatee's Right to Become Partner

The remaining Partners' option to purchase a deceased Partner's interest shall, upon _____[name of partner]'s death, be subject to _____[name of spouse or other legatee]'s right to assume the partnership interest and become a General Partner. _____[name of spouse or other legatee] may exercise that right provided:

(1) That, at the time of death, _____[name of partner]'s Partnership interest is designated to pass to _____[name of spouse or other legatee] by will, the laws of intestate succession, or otherwise;

(2) That _____[name of partner]'s estate is in such a condition that a sale of his or her Partnership interest is not required during probate administration;

(3) That within _____ days after the date of _____[name of partner]'s death, _____[name of spouse or other legatee] serves a declaration of intent to enter the Partnership and become a General Partner on the remaining Partners and the executors of _____[name of partner]'s estate.

Upon distribution of _____[name of partner]'s interest, _____[name of spouse or other legatee] shall be admitted to the Partnership as a General Partner with all the rights and obligations _____[name of partner] would have had. Neither the deceased Partner's estate nor its executors and administrators shall be liable for obligations incurred or losses suffered by the Partnership business during probate administration of the decedent's estate beyond the amount includable in that estate already invested or involved in the Partnership on the date of the deceased Partner's death.

§ 15.253 Provision for Payment of Distributive Share of Net Profits to Estate of Deceased Partner in Liquidation of Partnership Interest

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a provision requiring the partnership to continue in business following a partner's death and to liquidate the deceased partner's interest by making periodic distributions to the decedent's estate. It may be substituted for the buy-sell provisions of Article 4 in the form in § 15.200[2], or for Paragraphs 15 through 18 in the form in § 15.202[2]. This form requires liquidation payments based on the partnership income. Therefore, the payments to the partner's estate will be treated the same as distributions from the partnership [I.R.C. § 736(a); see IRC § 731]. For a more detailed discussion of the tax consequences of periodic payments in liquidation of a partner's interest, see § 15.307[3].

PRACTICE TIP

An alternative structure would be for the partnership to purchase the deceased partner's interest through a promissory note rather than through periodic distribution. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

[2] FORM

Provision for Payment of Distributive Share of Net Profits to Estate of Deceased Partner in Liquidation of Partnership Interest

Income Payments to Deceased Partner's Estate

Upon any Partner's death the Partnership shall pay to the decedent's estate, [e.g., monthly or quarterly], the deceased Partner's share of Partnership net profits to the end of the calendar month in which that Partner died and for a period of _____ months thereafter in complete liquidation of the deceased Partner's Partnership interest. If the Partnership is terminated during that _____ month period, before all payments are made to the deceased Partner's estate, a single payment shall be made from the Partnership assets in an amount equal to the average monthly net Partnership profits for the _____ month period preceding the deceased Partner's death, multiplied by the number of months remaining in the _____ month period following the close of the calendar month in which the death occurred. The Partnership shall not make any payments to a deceased Partner's estate for the deceased Partner's Partnership interest except those provided for under this Paragraph.

§ 15.254 Provision for Continuation of Partnership to End of Fiscal Year in Which Deceased Partner Died

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form may be used in a two-member partnership to avoid closure of the partnership for tax purposes. It provides that on a partner's death, the partnership will continue in business until the end of the calendar month or fiscal year and that the deceased partner's estate will share in the net partnership profits for that period. It may be substituted for Paragraph 18 of the form in § 15.202[2] or added to Article 4 of the form in § 15.200[2]. If used in that form, then Section 4.05(1) of that form should be changed to provide that the surviving partners will have a specified number of days after the close of the fiscal year (or the calendar month) in which the deceased partner's death occurs to exercise their option to purchase the deceased partner's interest in the partnership.

[b] Partnership Termination and Close of Taxable Year--Tax Consequences

Although the death of a partner in a two-member partnership does not require the dissolution of the partnership under California law [Corp. Code § 16801(1)], it could cause the close of the partnership's tax year for federal and California tax purposes [I.R.C. § 708(b)(1)(B); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851]. In such a case, the deceased partner's final income return could reflect a "bunching" of income because of the premature close of the partnership taxable year. This form avoids that result by providing that the estate or other successor to the deceased partner continues to share in the profits until the close of a month or the end of a fiscal year. The provision under the Treasury Regulation prevents the closure of the partnership's tax year [Treas. Reg. § 1.708-1(b)(1)(i)]. For further analysis of the tax consequences attending partnership termination, see § 15.307.

[2] FORM

Provision for Continuation of Partnership to End of Fiscal Year in Which Deceased Partner Died

Death of Partner

On the death of a Partner, the Partnership business shall continue to the end of the [Partnership fiscal year or calendar month] in which the death occurs. The deceased Partner's _____[estate or successor in interest] shall share in the net profits and losses of the Partnership during the balance of that [fiscal year or month] in the same manner as the deceased Partner would have had the Partner survived to the end of that [fiscal year or month]. However, the _____[estate or successor in interest] of any deceased Partner shall not be liable for any obligations or losses incurred by the Partnership after the date of the deceased Partner's death, beyond the value of the deceased Partner's interest in the Partnership at the date of his or her death. At the end of the [fiscal year or calendar month] in which the Partner's death occurs, the surviving Partners shall either dissolve the Partnership or purchase the deceased Partner's partnership interest by paying to the decedent's estate a purchase price for the interest determined as of the date of the Partner's death pursuant to [paragraph or section number of agreement that provides for purchase of deceased partner's interest] of this Agreement.

§ 15.255 Provision Allowing Deceased Partner's Personal Representative to Continue Decedent's Partnership Interest During Administration of Estate

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an alternative provision allowing a deceased partner's personal representative (executor or administrator [see Prob. Code § 58(a)]) to become a new general partner and continue the decedent's interest in the partnership during administration of the estate. It allows the personal representative to participate as a partner, with all of the rights, powers, duties, and obligations of the deceased partner. Before using this provision, the attorney should make certain that it will not be inconsistent with any other provision in the partnership agreement (such as a buy-sell provision) relating to continuation or operation of the partnership following the death of a partner.

For a similar provision allowing a deceased partner's spouse or other legatee to continue the decedent's partnership interest and become a general partner, see the form in § 15.252[2]. For a provision that avoids admission of an unknown person as a general partner, see the form in § 15.253[2].

[b] Representative's Participation as Partner

The personal representative of a deceased partner is required to take possession or control of the decedent's estate and collect all debts due the decedent or the estate [see Prob. Code § 9650(a)(1)]. However, in the absence of a provision in the partnership agreement or a court order [see Prob. Code § 9762], the personal representative has no right to participate as a partner; that is, to take possession of the specific partnership property [see Corp. Code § 16501] or to participate in the partnership business [see Corp. Code § 16503]. With respect to the partnership, the personal representative merely has the right to commence and maintain any action against any surviving partner that the decedent could have commenced and maintained [Prob. Code § 9763(a)], and to examine books and records and receive an accounting [Corp. Code § 16403(c)]. A provision such as this form may be used to give the personal representative additional rights, up to the full extent of the rights of the deceased partner's rights, to participate in the winding up of the partnership business [see Prob. Code § 9762(b)].

PRACTICE TIP

Counsel should exercise care in recommending or including personal representative rights of partnership control. The personal representative may not understand the business, may be a stranger with no personal relationship to the other partners, and may not wish to assume the fiduciary duties of a partner. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

[2] FORM

Provision Allowing Deceased Partner's Personal Representative to Continue Decedent's Partnership Interest During Administration of Estate

Personal Representative's Right to Become Partner

On the death of _____[any of the partners or specify name(s) of a specific partner or partners], _____[his or her or the deceased partner's] personal representative, at the option of the surviving partners and the personal representative, shall have the right to assume the decedent's partnership interest and continue as a Partner with all the rights, powers, duties, and obligations formerly held by the decedent [or specify more limited powers] for the purposes of winding up Partnership affairs during administration of the estate.

For purposes of this [section or paragraph], "personal representative" means executor, administrator, administrator with the will annexed, successor personal representative, or a person who performs substantially the same function under the law of another jurisdiction governing the person's status.

PRACTICE TIP

Often a dissolving partnership will appoint a single partner, or a partnership committee, as the liquidating partner with the sole authority to wind-up and terminate the partnership. The liquidating partner should be someone familiar with the partnership and partnership business. Including a deceased partner's personal representative in the selection of the liquidating partner, or making the personal representative the liquidating partner, may not be in the partnership's best interest. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a document in which the partners' spouses acknowledge the terms of the buy-sell arrangement as binding on any community property claims to their spouse's partnership interests. This form may be used with the forms in §§ 15.200[2]-15.202[2] and §§ 15.260[2]-15.262 if any of the partners executing those agreements are married. The waiver and consent provisions should be executed by all partners' spouses and attached to the partnership agreement if it contains a buy-sell provision, or to a separate buy-sell agreement.

Rptr. 169]* . They are also personal property subject to assignment or other transfer [see Corp. Code § 16502; see also §§ 15.13, 15.14].

§ 15.260 Agreement for Purchase and Sale of Partnership Interest Funded by Insurance--Cross-Purchase Plan Between Two Partners Without a Trustee

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a cross-purchase type of insurance-funded buy-sell agreement. It is designed to be used by a two-member partnership, but may be modified to accommodate the needs of a larger partnership. The cross-purchase plan contained in this form is best suited, however, to partnerships that do not have so many members that purchase and maintenance of policies on all their lives becomes a burden for the individual partners. Any valuation formulas in the forms in §§ 15.240[2]-15.249[2] may be modified and inserted in Section 3.02 of this form. If a provision those forms is modified for this form, all language before the words "an amount equal to" in the first paragraph of the form being modified should be deleted, and the unbracketed language in the first paragraph of Section 3.02 of this form should be substituted for the deleted language. See Section 3.02 of the form in § 15.261[2] for an additional valuation method.

PRACTICE TIP

Partnership buy-sell agreements triggered by a partner's death are estate planning tools. Counsel may wish to review an intended buy-sell agreement with the partners' estate planning attorneys. If they do not have such attorneys, counsel may wish to make an appropriate referral and give the partners an opportunity to confer with estate planning counsel before making any buy-sell agreements. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

[b] Purpose of Insurance Agreements

The partners are free to structure purchase terms of a buy-sell agreement in any manner they desire. However, if the agreement does not provide for a source of funds with which the purchase is to be made, the remaining partner or partners may encounter problems in making the purchase. For example, future partnership profits might be the only funds available to the remaining partner for purchasing a deceased partner's interest. If the partnership business is expanding or in its incipient stages, the remaining partner would be forced to use profits that should be reinvested in the business. Accordingly, the partnership's growth potential could be seriously curtailed.

Unless some method of financing a buy-sell agreement is arranged, the agreement may either fail or stifle the partnership business. One method of financing a buy-sell agreement is to provide for the purchase of business life insurance on each partner. By selecting the proper amount of insurance and making periodic adjustments to reflect changes in the partnership business, the purchase price specified in the buy-sell agreement can be totally or substantially funded at all times. The agreement should address the possibility that the insurance proceeds may be greater or less than the purchase price of the partnership interest. For example, to provide for insurance proceeds exceeding the purchase price, this form (as well as the forms in §§ 15.261 and 15.262) states that the purchase price may not be less than the life insurance proceeds [see Section 3.02 of Form]. It also requires the execution of a promissory note for the balance of the purchase price if the insurance proceeds are insufficient to pay the entire purchase price [see Section 3.03 of Form].

There are three common types of buy-sell agreements funded by insurance:

- The "cross-purchase" plan, under which each partner owns a policy insuring the life of the other partner(s) [this form];

- The "entity purchase" plan, under which the partnership as an entity owns and is the beneficiary of policies insuring the lives of all partners [see § 15.261[2]]; and

- The "trustee" plan, under which an independent trustee is the owner and beneficiary of policies insuring the lives of all partners [see § 15.262[2]].

For further discussion of buy-sell agreements and insurance funding, see Ch. 8D, Buy-Sell Agreements .

PRACTICE TIP

Buy-sell agreements backed by insurance are most common in small partnerships. They are also common in any partnership in which the partnership business may suffer by the loss of a key manager. In such cases the value of insurance proceeds should be sufficient to pay the deceased partner's estate and to fund the partnership with sufficient capital to hire a substitute manager and support partnership cash flow needs until the new hire can be placed. The more specialized or unique the deceased partner's contribution, the greater the insurance proceeds to the partnership should be. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

[c] Federal Estate Tax Treatment of Life Insurance

Life insurance policy proceeds must be included in a decedent's gross estate for federal estate tax purposes only to the extent that they are payable to the estate or to other beneficiaries under policies to which the decedent possessed, at death, any incidents of ownership, exercisable either alone or in conjunction with another person [I.R.C. § 2042]. However, if within three years preceding his or her death, a partner transfers an interest in insurance proceeds that is includable in the partner's gross estate [see I.R.C. § 2042], or would have been includable had the partner retained an interest in the proceeds, then the value of the proceeds, to the extent of the deceased partner's interest in them at the time of the transfer, must be included in the gross estate, unless the transfer was a bona fide sale for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth [see I.R.C. §§ 2035(a), (d)].

In order to avoid the inclusion of life insurance proceeds in a deceased partner's gross estate, it is important to draft an insurance funded buy-sell agreement so that no proceeds are payable to the partner's estate and so that the partner will have no incidents of ownership over the insurance policy on his or her life. "Incidents of ownership" include the power to change the beneficiary, to surrender or cancel the policy, to assign the policy, to revoke the assignment, to pledge the policy for a loan, and to obtain a loan against the value of the policy from the insurer [Treas. Reg. § 20.2042-1(c)(2)]. A reversionary interest constitutes an incident of ownership only if the value of the interest exceeds 5 percent of the value of the policy immediately before death [I.R.C. § 2042(2)].

[d] Federal Estate Tax Treatment of Insurance on Surviving Partner

Under the cross-purchase arrangement in this form, the proceeds of the insurance policy on a deceased partner's life will not be included in that partner's estate [see I.R.C. § 2042]. However, since the deceased partner's policy on the surviving partner's life is intangible personal property owned by the deceased partner at the time of death, it is includable in the deceased partner's estate for federal estate tax purposes [see I.R.C. § 2033]. The value of that policy is determined by taking the amount of the interpolated terminal reserve of the policy at the date of death and adding the proportionate part of the gross premium paid just before the date of death that covers a period extending beyond that date [Treas. Reg. § 20.2031-8].

Although the deceased partner's estate will be taxed on the value of the policy insuring the surviving partner's life, it will have no use for the policy. It is unlikely that the surviving partner will be able to purchase life insurance at as favorable a premium rate as that paid by the deceased partner. Accordingly, it is best to allow the surviving partner to purchase the policy on his or her life from the deceased partner's estate [see Section 2.05 of Form]. As a matter of practice, the purchase price for the policy on the surviving partner's life is usually equal to the amount of tax imposed on the decedent's estate attributable to the policy.

Section 2.02. Each Partner shall own and hold full legal title to the policy insuring the life of the other Partner. Each Partner shall be exclusively entitled to exercise any rights, options, or privileges provided for in that policy or permitted by the insurance company issuing that policy in respect to such policy. Each Partner agrees, however, not to exercise any right, option, or privilege without giving the other Partner 30 days written notice of intent to do so.

Payment of Premiums

Section 2.03. Each Partner agrees to pay, as they become due, all premiums on the policy owned by the Partner and to give proof of the payment of each premium to the other insured Partner within 20 days after the premium is due. If any premium is not paid within 20 days after its due date, the insured Partner shall have the right to pay the premium and be reimbursed for that payment by the owner of the policy. The insurance company issuing any such policy is authorized and directed to give the insured Partner, upon written request, any information regarding the status of the policy insuring the Partner's life.

Ownership of Policy on Death

Section 2.04. On the death of either Partner, the ownership of any policy owned by the deceased Partner on the life of the other Partner shall pass, subject to the provisions of this Article, to the executors or administrators of the decedent's estate.

On either Partner's death, the surviving Partner shall have the right to purchase from the decedent's estate, and the executors or administrators of the estate shall sell to the surviving Partner, any or all policies owned by the deceased Partner insuring the life of the surviving Partner. The purchase price for the policy shall be an amount equal to its interpolated terminal reserve as of the date of the deceased Partner's death, less any existing indebtedness charged against the policy, plus the proportionate part of the gross premium last paid on the policy before the date of the deceased Partner's death that covers the period extending beyond the date of death.

Termination of Survivor's Option

Section 2.06. If the surviving Partner fails to pay to the executors or administrators of the deceased Partner's estate, within [number] days after their appointment, the purchase price, determined as provided in Section 2.05 of this Agreement, for any policy insuring the Partner's life, his or her right to purchase that policy shall terminate and the executors or administrators of the deceased Partner's estate may take any action with respect to that policy as they desire and deem to be in the estate's best interests.

ARTICLE 3. SALE OF PARTNERSHIP INTEREST ON DEATH

Mandatory Purchase and Sale

Section 3.01. On either Partner's death, the surviving Partner shall purchase from the estate of the deceased Partner, and the executors or administrators of that estate shall sell to the surviving Partner, the entire Partnership interest of the deceased Partner at the price and on the terms and conditions specified in this Article.

Purchase Price of Partnership Interest

Section 3.02. On either Partner's death, the surviving Partner shall pay to the estate of the deceased Partner, in the manner specified in Section 3.03 of this Agreement, as the full purchase price for the deceased's Partnership interest, _____ [set forth formula for determining purchase price, e.g., an amount determined as follows:

(1) The surviving Partner within _____ (number) days after the appointment and qualification of executors or administrators for the deceased Partner's estate shall appoint an appraiser and notify the executors or administrators in writing of the name and address of that appraiser. Within _____ (number) days after receiving notice, the executors or administrators shall appoint an appraiser and notify the surviving Partner in writing of the name and address of the appraiser. If the two appraisers so appointed are unable to agree on the purchase price to be paid for the deceased's Partnership interest within _____ (number) days after their appointment, they shall appoint a third appraiser. The decision in writing of any two of the three appraisers shall be binding and conclusive on the parties to this Agreement, their heirs, executors, administrators, and any person having a claim to the deceased's Partner's interest. All fees and expenses of each appraiser shall be paid by the _____(surviving Partner or surviving Partner and the estate of the deceased Partner in equal portions or party on whose behalf the appraiser was appointed, the fees and expenses of the third appraiser to be paid equally by the surviving Partner and the estate of the deceased Partner).

PRACTICE TIP

A single appraiser, mutually agreeable to the parties, with the cost borne by the partnership, can be a more economical and practical alternative. Unlike valuation on dissociation, valuation on death is usually not adversarial and is a more amicable procedure to establish a defensible valuation of a partnership interest. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

(2) In determining the purchase price to be paid for the deceased's Partnership interest, the appraisers shall value:

(a) All inventory items at their actual cost to the Partnership.

(b) All tangible Partnership assets, including lands, buildings, fixtures, machinery, automobiles, and equipment, at their fair cash market value.

(c) All accounts receivable due the Partnership that are more than 90 calendar days old and not barred by the statute of limitations at one-half their face value.

(d) All accounts receivable due the Partnership that are less than 90 calendar days old at their full face value.

(e) Goodwill and other intangible assets of the Partnership at their fair market value.

In no event, however, shall the purchase price for the deceased Partner's Partnership interest be less than the amount of insurance owned by the surviving Partner on the deceased Partner's life, pursuant to Article II of this Agreement.].

Payment of Purchase Price

Section 3.03. On either Partner's death, the surviving Partner shall pay the proceeds of the insurance policies owned, pursuant to this Agreement, by the surviving Partner on the life of the deceased Partner, to the executors or administrators of the deceased Partner's estate. The payment of the insurance proceeds shall be applied toward payment of the purchase price for the deceased's Partnership determined under Section 3.02 of this Agreement. If the purchase price for the deceased Partner's interest as determined pursuant to Section 3.02 of this Agreement exceeds the proceeds of that life insurance, the surviving Partner shall execute a promissory note for the balance of the purchase price. The promissory note shall be made payable to the order of the executors or administrators of the deceased Partner's estate and shall contain:

(1) Provisions for the payment of the principal amount in not more than [number] equal consecutive [monthly or annual] installments, commencing _____[_____ (number) months or _____ (number) days or one year] after the date of the deceased Partner's death.

(2) Provisions for the payment with each principal installment of interest on the unpaid principal balance of that note at the rate of _____percent per annum from the date of the deceased Partner's death.

(3) Provisions allowing the surviving Partner to pay, without penalty, any or all installments provided for in that note before they become due.

(4) Such other provisions concerning acceleration of maturity, attorneys' fees, and other matters as are contained in the form of promissory note now being supplied by _____ Title Insurance Company for use in _____ County, California, attached hereto as Exhibit A.

Security for Note

[EITHER]

Section 3.04. Any promissory note executed pursuant to Section 3.03 of this Agreement shall be secured by a chattel mortgage on _____[all tangible Partnership assets or tangible Partnership assets having a value, as determined by the probate court administering the deceased Partner's estate, equal to three times the principal amount of that note].

[OR]

Section 3.04. Any promissory note executed pursuant to Section 3.03 of this Agreement shall be secured by a separate security agreement and recorded financing statements under the California Uniform Commercial Code.

§ 15.261 Agreement for Purchase and Sale of Partnership Interest Funded by Insurance--Entity Purchase Plan--Insurance Policies Owned by the Partnership as an Entity

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a buy-sell agreement based on the entity or partnership owner plan. It is particularly useful to partnerships with many members or when the partnership is generating sufficient cash flow to regularly make premium payments. When a partnership has numerous members, individual cross purchases are likely to be unduly complicated.

In using this form, any of the formulas for determining the value of the partnership interest of a deceased, withdrawing, or terminated partner set forth in the forms in §§ 15.240-15.249 may be modified and inserted in place of Section 3.02 of this form as the formula for determining the purchase price payable by the partnership for the partnership interest of the deceased partner. Care should be taken, however, to expressly provide in any valuation formula that the value of the deceased's interest in the partnership goodwill is being included in determining the purchase price. In modifying the provisions of any form for insertion as Section 3.02 of this form, all language appearing before the words "an amount equal to" in the first paragraph of the form being modified should be deleted and the unbracketed language appearing in the first paragraph of Section 3.02 of this form substituted in its place.

PRACTICE TIP

Business valuation is a complex financial specialty that looks at many objective and subjective factors. Partner-agreed valuations are a simple approach to the problem, but can easily understate or overstate market value. This can be particularly problematic if the market value is closely related to goodwill tied to a dissociating partner, or if the dissociated partner's past breaches of fiduciary duty have contributed to unreasonably overstated agreed valuations. In many cases, a business valuation by an objective professional is the preferred method (see § 15.245). Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

[b] "Entity Purchase" or "Partnership Owner" Plan Defined

This form provides an "entity" or "partnership owner" type of insurance funded buy-sell agreement. Under this agreement, the partnership owns insurance policies on the partners' lives. The partnership pays the premiums on these policies. When a partner dies, the partnership purchases and liquidates the deceased partner's interest with the proceeds from the policy on his or her life. Since the partnership, rather than another partner [see § 15.260[2]] or a trustee [see § 15.262], is the purchaser, the liquidation provisions of the Internal Revenue Code apply to performance under the buy-sell agreement set forth in this form [see I.R.C. § 736]. For a discussion of the tax consequences attending liquidation, see § 15.308. For additional discussion of buy-sell agreements in general, see Ch. 8D, Buy-Sell Agreements .

[c] Inclusion of Insurance Policies in Deceased Partner's Estate

Proceeds of an insurance policy on the life of a decedent payable to someone other than the decedent's estate are subject to federal estate taxes only if the decedent, at the time of death, possessed any "incidents of ownership" exercisable either alone or in conjunction with another person over the policy [see I.R.C. § 2042]. The incidents of ownership of the life insurance policies purchased under this form rest in the partnership as an entity rather than in the partners. Accordingly, the proceeds of these policies are not subject to federal taxes imposed on a deceased partner's estate [see Knipp v. Commissioner (1955) 25 T.C. 153] .

Insurance policies on partners' lives, if purchased by the partnership as provided in this form, are partnership assets [see Miller v. Hall (1944) 65 Cal. App. 2d 200, 207, 150 P.2d 287] . Therefore, their value will be taken into account in computing the value of the deceased's partnership interest. Section 2.06 of this form establishes a value for the policies based on their cash surrender value. However, by including these policies as partnership assets, the purchase price payable for the deceased partner's interest in the partnership will be increased, as will be the value of the partnership interest for federal estate tax purposes.

[d] Income Tax Basis of Surviving Partner's Partnership Interest

The adjusted income tax basis for a partner's interest in the partnership is increased by any tax-exempt income received by the partnership [I.R.C. § 705(a)(1)(B)]. Proceeds of an insurance policy on a deceased partner's life received by the partnership would be tax exempt to the partnership [I.R.C. § 101(a); see Treas. Reg. § 1.101-1(a)]. Accordingly, if a three-member partnership whose profits are divided equally among the partners receives $30,000 in insurance proceeds on the partner's death under a policy carried on its books at its cash surrender value of $6,000, the two surviving partners' adjusted income tax bases for their partnership interests will be increased by $8,000 each. If a cross purchase plan [see § 15.260[2]] had been used instead, each surviving partner would have carried $15,000 in insurance on the deceased partner's life, would have received and paid $15,000 worth of premiums for one half of the deceased partner's interest, and would have thus increased each of their adjusted income tax bases in the partnership by $15,000 rather than $8,000. However, under the partnership owner plan, each partner pays only one third of the premiums on a $30,000 insurance policy instead of the full premium on a $15,000 policy.

California follows federal law in the taxation of partnerships [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851; see I.R.C. §§ 701-761; but see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17851-17932 (modifications to federal law)].

[e] Income Taxation of Purchase Price to Decedent's Estate

Payments made in liquidation of a deceased partner's interest in a partnership, to the extent they exceed the value of the deceased partner's interest in partnership property, are taxable to his or her estate as partnership distributions or guaranteed payments [see I.R.C. § 736(a), (b); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851; see § 15.308 for more detailed discussion of the different tax consequences for sale and liquidation of partnership interests].

[f] Effect of Premium Payments on Taxable Partnership Income

Premiums paid on insurance policies insuring the lives of partners are not deductible for income tax purposes. Section 2.05 of this form will reduce the share of partnership profits distributable to each partner but not the share of profits on which each partner must pay income tax. For example, in a two member partnership in which profits are to be distributed equally, if the partnership profit before payment of premiums is $1,000 and the premiums total $100, the share of profits distributable to each partner is $450, but the share of profits on which each partner must pay income tax is $500.

PRACTICE TIP

Although entity payment of premiums may have an adverse tax consequence for the partners, it can often be the surest way to ensure premium payments. Thus, the adverse tax consequence is often an acceptable trade-off to reduce the risk of premium default. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

§ 15.262 Agreement for Purchase and Sale of Partnership Interest Funded by Insurance--Trustee Plan--Cross-Insurance Between More Than Two Partners

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an insurance funded cross-purchase plan to be carried out by a trustee. Before this form is used, the fiduciary that will be named as trustee should be consulted as to any provisions it may wish added to or altered in this form. For example, a particular trustee may wish a paragraph added to Article 5 limiting its liability for acts performed by it based on information furnished to it by the partners, or may be unwilling to accept the formula for determining its fees contained in Section 5.04 of this form.

In specifying the purchase price to be paid for the interest of a deceased partner, any of the formulas for determining the value of the partnership interest of a deceased, withdrawing, or terminated partner set forth in the forms in §§ 15.240[2]-15.249[2] may be modified and inserted in place of Section 3.02 of this form as the formula for determining the purchase price. In modifying the provisions of any such form for insertion into this agreement, all language appearing before the words "an amount equal to" in the first paragraph of any such form should be deleted and the unbracketed language appearing in the first paragraph of Section 3.02 of this form substituted in its place.

[b] Reason for Trustee

Although it is not required by law or otherwise, some attorneys feel it is desirable to name a disinterested third party, usually a corporate fiduciary, as a trustee or escrow holder in an insurance-funded buy-sell agreement between partners. The principal purpose of the trustee is to serve as an escrow agent on the partner's death. The trustee will file proofs of death, collect the insurance proceeds on the life of the deceased partner, determine the purchase price payable by each surviving partner, and see that all instruments required to be executed by the various parties are in order before the transaction is closed. The fact that the trustee is an impartial party will tend to assure the surviving spouse and heirs that the transaction is being carried out in a fair and competent manner and that the purchase price was accurately computed in compliance with the buy-sell agreement.

The trustee will also serve as a central custodian of all the insurance policies and the master copy of the partnership buy-sell agreement. This is especially useful when there are several partners and a considerable number of insurance policies to be issued under the buy-sell agreement. An experienced trustee, such as a trust officer of a corporate fiduciary, may be able to make valuable suggestions regarding provisions that should be included in the partnership buy-sell agreement and the types of insurance that should be subject to it. Therefore, it is wise to consult with the proposed trustee before drafting the buy-sell agreement.

PRACTICE TIP

Institutional trustee services can be very expensive. Moreover, institutional trustees tend to be very conservative and may require substantial modification of this or any other agreement, or may only agree to use their own form of agreement. The use of an institutional trustee, therefore, should be more the exception than the rule. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

The insurance company issuing any policy required by this Agreement is authorized and directed to furnish the insured Partner and the Trustee any information they, or either of them, may request in writing pertaining to the status of any insurance policy.

Ownership of Policies on Death

Section 2.06. On the death of any Partner, the ownership of any policies owned by the Partner on the other Partners' lives shall pass, subject to the provisions of this Article, to the executors or administrators of his or her estate.

Survivor's Option to Purchase Policies

Section 2.07. On any Partner's death, each surviving Partner shall have the right to purchase from the deceased Partner's estate and the executors or administrators of the estate shall sell to each surviving Partner, any or all policies owned by the deceased Partner insuring the life of that surviving Partner. The purchase price for the policy or policies shall be equal to the interpolated terminal reserve of the policy or polices as of the date of the deceased Partner's death, less any existing indebtedness charged against the policies, plus the proportionate part of the gross premiums last paid thereon before the date of the deceased Partner's death that cover a period extending beyond that date.

Termination of Survivor's Option

Section 2.08. If any surviving Partner fails to pay to the executors or administrators of the deceased Partner's estate within [number] days after their appointment and qualification the purchase price, determined as provided in Section 2.07 of this Agreement, for any insurance policy insuring that Partner's life, the right to purchase that policy shall terminate and the executors or administrators of the deceased Partner's estate may take any action with respect to the policy as they desire.

ARTICLE 3. SALE OF PARTNERSHIP INTEREST ON DEATH

Mandatory Purchase and Sale

Section 3.01. On any Partner's death, each surviving Partner shall purchase from the deceased Partner's estate, and the executors or administrators of the decedent's estate shall sell to each surviving Partner, at the price and on the terms and conditions specified in this Article, the portion of the entire Partnership interest of the deceased Partner as the interest of each surviving Partner in the Partnership bears to the total interests of all surviving Partners in the Partnership. For the purposes of this Section, the interest of each surviving Partner and the total interests of all surviving Partners in the Partnership shall _____[mean their individual and aggregate net worths respectively in the Partnership as of the close of business on the date of the deceased Partner's death, as shown by the Partnership books or be determined according to the proportions they, immediately prior to the Partner's death, were entitled to share in the Partnership profits].

Purchase Price of Partnership Interest

Section 3.02. On any Partner's death, each surviving Partner shall pay to the deceased Partner's estate, in the manner specified in Section 3.03 of this Agreement, as the full purchase price for the portion of the deceased's Partnership interest being sold to the surviving Partner, that Partner's proportionate share, determined according to the percentage of the deceased's interest being sold, of _____[set forth formula for determining entire purchase price, e.g., an amount equal to the value of the deceased Partner's interest in the Partnership as shown on the last regular Partnership accounting preceding the deceased Partner's death, plus the unwithdrawn portion of the deceased Partner's distributive share of any net profits earned by the Partnership between the date of the accounting and the date of the deceased Partner's death]. In no event, however, shall the purchase price for a surviving Partner's portion of the deceased Partner's Partnership interest be less than the amount of insurance owned by that surviving Partner on the deceased Partner's life pursuant to Article II of this Agreement.

Payment of Purchase Price

Section 3.03. Each Partner agrees that on the death of a Partner, the proceeds of any policies subject to this Agreement owned by any Partner on the deceased Partner's life shall be applied by the Trustee toward payment of the purchase price payable by him or her pursuant to Section 3.02 of this Agreement. If the purchase price payable by any surviving Partner exceeds the proceeds of the insurance policies subject to this Agreement owned by him or her on the life of the deceased Partner, the balance of the purchase price shall be paid by the surviving Partner in [number] consecutive equal monthly installments commencing [number] months after the date of the deceased Partner's death, and shall be evidenced by a negotiable promissory note to be executed by that surviving Partner to the order of the executors or administrators of the estate of the deceased Partner as payees. The promissory note shall contain the following provisions:

(1) Provisions for each installment to be applied first to interest on the then remaining unpaid principal balance of the note at the rate of _____ percent per annum from the date of the deceased Partner's death and then to reduction of the principal balance of the note.

(2) Provisions allowing the surviving Partner to pay, without penalty, any or all installments provided for in the note before they become due.

(3) All other provisions concerning acceleration of maturity, attorneys' fees, and other matters as are contained in the form of promissory note attached to this Agreement and marked Exhibit B.

Security for Note

Section 3.04. Any promissory note executed pursuant to Section 3.03 of this Agreement in partial payment of the purchase price for any portion of a deceased's Partnership interest shall be secured by a chattel mortgage on the maker's tangible assets having a value, as determined by the Trustee, equal to three times the principal amount of such note.

Execution of Instruments

Section 3.05. On receipt by the Trustee of an amount equal to the proceeds of any insurance policies owned by a surviving Partner on the life of the deceased Partner and any note required to be executed by any surviving Partner pursuant to Section 3.03 of this Agreement, or on receipt by the Trustee of the insurance proceeds and cash in lieu of the note, the executors or administrators of the deceased Partner's estate shall execute and deliver to the Trustee any instruments necessary to transfer to the surviving Partner full title to the portion of the deceased Partner's interest in the Partnership purchased by him or her.

Partnership Profits After Death

Section 3.06. All profits earned by the Partnership business after the date of a deceased Partner's death shall belong to the Partnership. The deceased Partner's estate shall have no right or claim to profits or interest on profits earned after the deceased Partner's death.

PRACTICE TIP

This form assumes a partnership that is financially fairly complex and that may have been very dependent on the deceased partner. Proceeds in excess of estate benefits should go to the partnership, to allow for continued operations during the transition from dependence on the deceased partner to the surviving partners (or a new employee), while those continuing the business develop the skills and know-how lost on the death of their partner. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

Assumption of Partnership Obligations

Section 3.07. On any purchase and sale of a deceased Partner's interest, the surviving Partners shall assume all Partnership obligations and shall, jointly and severally, protect and indemnify the decedent's estate, the executors or administrators of that estate, and the property of that estate from liability on any Partnership obligation.

Publication of Notice

Section 3.08. As soon as practicable after any purchase and sale of a deceased Partner's interest under this Article, the Trustee shall, at the cost and expense of the surviving Partners, prepare, publish, file, and serve all notices required by law to protect the deceased Partner's estate and the executors or administrators of that estate from liability for any future obligations of the Partnership business, including, without limitation, a Statement of Dissociation pursuant to California Corporations Code Section 16704..

ARTICLE 4. SALE OF PARTNERSHIP INTEREST DURING LIFE

Section 4.01. If, during any Partner's lifetime, that Partner desires to dissociate from the Partnership, that Partner shall first offer in writing to sell his or her full interest in the Partnership to the other Partners at a price determined pursuant to Section 3.02 of this Agreement but payable in full on the date of sale. Each remaining Partner shall have the right to purchase a portion of that interest equal to the proportion that his or her net worth in the Partnership bears to the aggregate net worth of all remaining Partners as shown by the Partnership books on the date the withdrawal is served. However, the dissociating Partner may not be compelled to sell less than his or her full interest in the Partnership. If any remaining Partner fails to purchase the specified portion of the withdrawing Partner's interest, it may be purchased by the other remaining Partners jointly or separately. If the remaining Partners fail to accept the offer to purchase the full interest of the dissociating Partner in the Partnership within [number] days after they receive that offer, and the Partnership is not dissolved and terminated, the Partner desiring to dissociate from the Partnership shall have the right to sell his or her interest to any other person providing that at least [number] days prior to the sale, the dissociating Partner offers in a writing delivered to each remaining Partner to sell his or her interest to the remaining Partners at the same price and on the same terms offered by the other person. On transfer of the dissociating Partner's interest to a transferee who is not then a partner, the transferee thereupon shall have the full right, during the continuance of the Partnership, to participate in the management and control of the Partnership business and affairs.

PRACTICE TIP

The rights of a transferee of a partnership interest are spelled out in Corp. Code § 16503. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

(g) Record in the proper counties all chattel mortgages received by it, executed by the surviving Partners under Section 3.04 of this Agreement, with instructions to the recording officials to return those mortgages directly to the executors or administrators of the deceased Partner's estate at such address as may be furnished to the Trustee by the executors or administrators, or in care of the clerk of the probate court administering the estate of the deceased Partner.

§ 15.270 Professional Partnerships--General Form of Agreement

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is designed to be used by professional partnerships of three or more partners. It may be modified for smaller partnerships by eliminating such provisions as Paragraph 24, defining the Partners' voting rights. In using this form to draft a particular professional partnership agreement, the attorney should consider not only the various alternative provisions for professional partnerships contained in forms §§ 15.271[2] through 15.280[2], but also the alternative provisions contained in the general partnership agreements set forth in the forms in §§ 15.200[2], 15.201[2], and 15.202[2].

[b] Nature of Professional Partnership

A professional partnership is not a special form of partnership. Aside from specific statutory provisions governing the practice of the particular profession it is engaged in, there are no special statutes regulating its affairs. It is an association of two or more persons as general partners for the purpose of practicing a profession or operating a personal service business. The chief characteristics that distinguish a professional partnership from any other general partnership is that it tends to have little capital, no inventory, and relatively large amounts of unrealized receivables. Its reputation depends on the skill, experience, and training of its individual members [Lyon v. Lyon (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 519, 525, 54 Cal. Rptr. 829] . It follows that professional partnership agreements require provisions not found in ordinary commercial partnership agreements.

Partnerships to provide legal and accounting services may be formed either as ordinary limited partnerships or as limited liability partnerships (LLPs). LLPs are special entities that are governed by a specific set of provisions of the partnership statutes [see Corp. Code §§ 16951-16962] (LLP provisions of UPA '94). The formation of LLPs is a separate subject that is covered in Ch. 16C, Limited Liability Partnerships . Ch. 16C discusses the characteristics of LLPs and should be consulted in connection with the determination of whether to form a legal or accounting partnership as a general partnership or an LLP. Formation of a legal or accounting partnership as an LLP may be an attractive option and should be seriously considered. The remainder of this comment focusses solely on general partnerships, and this form is not suitable for a legal or accounting partnership that is being formed as an LLP. For LLP forms and comment, see Ch. 16C, Limited Liability Partnerships .

[c] Special Provisions Applicable to Professional Partnerships

Because a professional partnership's income is derived from the personal services of its members and its reputation is dependent on the reputation of its members, provisions governing their rights, duties, and conduct are more detailed in professional than in commercial partnership agreements. For example, the various partners' experience, reputation, skill, and ability to attract clients are not usually equal. Therefore, the provisions in the partnership agreement for division of the partnership profits require special consideration.

Further, because a professional partnership has little capital or inventory and is almost entirely dependent on the partners' earnings, different tax considerations may be involved in drafting provisions relating to the death or retirement of a partner than are involved in drafting similar provisions for an ordinary commercial partnership. For example, Section 4.05 of this form provides that the partnership interest of a deceased or retired partner will be "liquidated" by the partnership by payment of a specified amount each month, determined by the past income of the partnership. Although such payments will be taxable to the retired partner or the deceased partner's estate as ordinary income, either as a distributive share of partnership income or guaranteed payments [see I.R.C. § 736(a); see also § 15.307], the "liquidation" provision was purposely included in this form. Ordinarily, after a partner's retirement, the continuing partners will be in a higher income tax bracket than the retired partner and will gain more by being able to deduct such payments on their income tax returns than the retired partner will lose by having to report the payments as ordinary income.

PRACTICE TIP

Not all professional partnerships will have little capital. Some professional partnerships will have dramatic fluctuations in their business cycles and will require substantial retained earnings to self-finance operations through down cycles. An accounting partnership, for example, may have substantial first and second quarter cash flow and minimal third quarter cash flow. Commentary by John J. Camozzi.

[d] Taxable Year of Professional Partnership

Section 2.14 of this form provides that the partnership will keep its books on a cash and calendar year basis. Consequently, this form anticipates that the partnership will file its informational income tax return on a cash and calendar year basis. The cash basis has been selected because of the large amount of accounts receivable usually carried by a professional partnership. Under the cash basis method of accounting, accounts receivable are not reported as income and the partners do not pay taxes on them until they have been paid to the partnership. The alternative is the accrual method of accounting, which requires that accounts receivable be reported as income and taxes paid on them when they become unconditional obligations owed to the partnership. For most professional partnerships, it will be preferable not to report an account receivable that may ultimately be uncollectible than to report it under the accrual method and later try to prove it is deductible as a bad debt.

The calendar year basis of accounting and reporting was specified in this form because the partners will usually have been on a calendar year basis, and in most instances the partnership taxable year must be based on the taxable year of the partners [see I.R.C. § 706(b)(1)(B); see also § 15.23].

California generally follows federal law with respect to the selection of a tax year for partnerships [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17851; see I.R.C. §§ 701-761; but see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17851-17932 (modifications to federal law)].

[e] Licensing of Professional Partnerships

In addition to the professional licenses held by the partners, some but not all professional partnerships are required to register and obtain a license in the partnership name. A law partnership is not required to obtain any kind of permit or license in the partnership name from the State Bar of California, though a professional law corporation is required to register [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6160], and a legal services limited liability partnership must register with the State Bar [see Corp. Code § 16306(f); see also State Bar LLP Rules and Regulations, Rule 1.0; Ch. 16C, Limited Liability Partnerships]. However, a partnership of accountants is required to obtain a permit from the Board of Accountancy [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 5070, 5072, 5073]. A medical partnership is required to obtain a permit from the Division of Licensing of the Board of Medical Quality Assurance only if it is using a fictitious name [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2415]. A list of the most common types of professional partnerships that must obtain a professional license in the partnership name is contained in § 15.120.

[f] Partner Dissociation

Section 4.01 requires advance written notice of a partner's withdrawal from the partnership. The partnership agreement may not vary a partner's power to withdraw from the partnership other than to require written notice [Corp. Code § 16103(b)(6)], but it does make a withdrawal without notice a wrongful dissociation that may subject the partner to liability for any damages caused by the partner's failure to give notice [see Corp. Code § 16602(b)(1), (c)].
